The remaining question is whether the Board has proven Count Two of the tenure charges. As reflected in the above findings of fact, I am persuaded by Mr. and Mrs. Efferen's testimony regarding communications to Board personnel concerning Efferen's status. I am therefore persuaded that the Board has not proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Efferen misrepresented to Cirelli the status of the criminal action pending against him.

CONCLUSIONS

I CONCLUDE that the offense to which respondent pled guilty does not involve and touch Efferen's employment and that he therefore did not forfeit his position pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2. I also CONCLUDE that the circumstances underlying respondent's guilty plea constitute unbecoming conduct and that termination is an appropriate discipline. Finally, I CONCLUDE that the Board has not proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence Count Two of the charges certified by the Board on July 13, 1993.

ORDERS

It is hereby ORDERED that respondent not be deemed to have forfeited his position because of the offense to which he pled guilty on January 25, 1993; that Count One of the tenure charges certified by the Board against respondent be and is hereby AFFIRMED; that Count Two of the tenure charges be and is hereby DISMISSED; and that termination of employment be imposed on respondent as discipline pertinent to Count One.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :
HEARING OF HOWARD EFFEREN, : SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH : OF BERGENFIELD, BERGEN COUNTY. :
AND :
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE :
BOROUGH OF BERGENFIELD, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BERGEN COUNTY, :
PETITIONER, : DECISION ON REMAND
V. :
HOWARD EFFEREN, :
RESPONDENT. :
_____ :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Respondent excepts to the ALJ's reliance on Dinkins, supra, as justification for imposing the sanction of forfeiture of his employment, where, in contrast to the circumstances in the instant matter, Dinkins was convicted of a third degree offense, thus compelling automatic forfeiture of public employment subsequent to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2. (Respondent's Exceptions at p.1) Respondent further argues:

The ALJ relied upon instances of domestic violence as evidence that respondent could commit acts of violence upon children.

However, all his prior acts of domestic violence were committed at home when he was highly intoxicated. There has never been any proof of any problems with the respondent's work effort at school in spite of his long-standing problem with consumption of alcoholic beverages and his prior participation in treatment programs. (Id. at p. 2)

Further, respondent argues that the record shows that while discipline was necessary, termination of public employment is not. Here, respondent contends that although the ALJ stated that Efferen has exhibited a pattern of physical aggression toward women, (Initial Decision at p. 20), the only evidence of such aggression is the "domestic disputes with his wife and stepdaughters on brief occasions when he was intoxicated." (Respondent's Exceptions at p. 2) Respondent further objects to the weight the ALJ assigned to the testimony of Mrs. Efferen and the evidence proffered by respondent's counselor, Julie Shaw.

In reply, the Board argues that the record shows the mere "domestic disputes" to which respondent refers were incidents which, on two or three occasions, actually resulted in the arrest of respondent, and the issuance of a restraining order preventing him from entering home. The Board continues, "Mrs. Efferen also advised the police that her husband had committed acts of domestic violence not only against her, but also against her daughter on multiple occasions prior to the July 29, 1992 incident." (Board's reply at p. 2) The Board asserts that to minimize respondent's actions as "mere 'domestic disputes with his wife and stepdaughters on brief occasions' is to ignore a history of violence uncontroverted in the record." (Id.) Thus, the Board concludes that termination of Efferen's employment is an appropriate remedy given the seriousness of his prior acts.

Upon careful and independent review of this matter, the Commissioner determines to reject the exceptions of respondent and affirm the decision of the ALJ for the reasons articulated in the initial decision. Initially, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the offense to which respondent pled guilty does not touch and involve his employment as a school custodian, and, consequently, he is not deemed to have forfeited that employment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2. Respondent's application of forfeiture language in his exceptions, therefore, is misplaced.

However, the Commissioner further agrees with the ALJ that the circumstances underlying respondent's guilty plea constitute unbecoming conduct, and termination is the appropriate penalty. Even assuming arguendo, that respondent's act of criminal sexual contact with his mentally handicapped daughter was a single act of aggression, the Commissioner concurs that "[t]he facts in this case strongly argue for imposition of substantial discipline." (Initial Decision at p. 20) In so finding, the Commissioner is given no cause to reject the credibility determinations of the ALJ.

Accordingly, the respondent is hereby terminated from his employment as a tenured custodian as of the date of this decision.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Record Closed: May 2, 1995

Decided: June 5, 1995

BEFORE DANIEL B. MCKEOWN, ALJ, t/a:

INTRODUCTION

Gloria Jimenez (respondent) is a school matron with tenure in the employ of the Long Branch Board of Education (Board). On April 28, 1994, the Board determined to certify charges of excessive absenteeism, neglect, and misbehavior against respondent to the Commissioner of Education for determination under the Tenure Employees Hearing Law N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. Respondent was not suspended from her duties during the pendency of the charges. The charges were received May 3, 1994 at the Department of Education, after which the matter was transferred May 26, 1994, to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through 13. A telephone conference call was initiated and held by this judge July 6 and continued, by agreement to August 8, 1994. This date was adjourned at the request of the parties, rescheduled, and adjourned again. The telephone conference call was finally continued on September 21 at which time the parties waived a formal prehearing conference and agreed that this case should be scheduled for hearing on the same day as a case regarding tenure charges filed against another matron and separate charges against a clerk, Desmond, in the Board's employ simultaneous to this case.¹ The request of the parties was honored and this case, with the Johnson case, was to commence December 12 while the remaining case, Desmond, was to begin the following week beginning December 19, 1994.

Prior to December 12 the parties advised that all three cases were settled and a Settlement Agreement would be submitted by the end of that month for submission to the Commissioner for approval. The scheduled hearings were canceled upon that representation. Not having received a proposed Settlement Agreement by the end of December the undersigned learned during a telephone call to Board counsel on January 17, 1995 that counsel for respondent was in possession of the Agreement and was adding language to avoid later rejection by the Commissioner. After a letter was sent the parties March 7, 1995 to determine the status of the proposed Settlement, both counsel advised that while the parties fully intended to settle all three cases the propriety of one or more settlement terms became subject to disagreement for various reasons. During an informal telephone conference call on or about April 19, 1995, a hearing was scheduled and conducted in the Jimenez and Johnson cases on May 1, 1995 at the Freehold Township Municipal Building Courtroom at which time counsel announced a Settlement

Agreement, in this case - Jimenez -, had in fact been reached. They jointly entered the settlement terms on the record.

This initial decision recommends that the Commissioner of Education accept the Settlement Agreement as a full and final disposition of In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Gloria Jimenez, OAL DKT. NO. 5246-94, AGENCY DKT. No. 141-5/94², so that both sides may devote their full attention, energy, and Board resources to the significant public interest of providing their pupils the opportunity for a thorough and efficient program of education.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT STANDARDS

The State Board of Education standards for approving settlement agreements in tenure cases are stated in In re Tenure Hearing of Frank Cardonick Brooklawn Borough Board of Education, 1982 S.L.D. --- (Aug. 4, 1982). It is necessary to insure that the standards announced for the approval of tenure charge settlements by the State Board of Education are met. Therefore, it is appropriate to briefly discuss the tenure charges which allege respondent engaged in excessive absences. The charge of excessive absenteeism is a serious matter. It should not be made lightly by the charging party, nor taken lightly by the accused for it is not taken lightly by either the Commissioner or State Board of Education.

While the Board found probable cause to credit the evidence against respondent, it is well within its authority to assess, in good faith, the strength and/or weaknesses of its competent, credible evidence to prove the truth of the charges and to have entered negotiations with respondent for purposes of settlement. In Cardonick supra, the State Board of Education recognized that ² A separate initial decision is issued this day in the Johnson case which recommends the Commissioner approve the settlement agreement.

The New Jersey courts have looked with great favor upon the voluntary resolution of litigation through settlement. [Citations omitted.] As a general principle, and without considering the toll of human resources, the settlement of lawsuits in good faith can be said to save time, money and proof problems. School boards, in their efforts to conserve public funds, no less than private parties, have been encouraged by the state and federal courts to carefully consider equitable settlement possibilities.

Nevertheless, the State Board also cautions that boards of education which settle litigation “must act in the public interest, lawfully, constitutionally, reasonably and in accordance with duly enacted rules and regulations of the Commissioner of Education and State Board of Education” (id.)

In Passaic Board of Education v. James Viani, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 76 the Passaic Board certified charges of excessive absences to the Commissioner for determination against janitor Viani. The evidence submitted convinced the Commissioner that Viani’s absences were shown to be ‘grossly excessive.’ The Commissioner noted that no evidence was presented regarding prior notice the Board gave Viani of “its concern for his excessive absences”, nor did it present evidence that Viani’s absences had an adverse impact on the educational process or [their] ramifications.” By way of direction to all boards of education, the Commissioner noted “... the Board’s burden in a case seeking dismissal of a tenured janitor due to alleged excessive absenteeism, is to demonstrate the extent of harm such performance of a custodial employee has on the provision of a thorough and efficient education in an “adequately equipped, sanitary and secure physical facilities . . . [citation omitted].” It is inferred that ‘such performance’ means that the affected employee must be shown to have aggregated sufficient absences from work, on a case-by-case basis, to constitute ‘excessive absenteeism’. Viani was not terminated from his employment. He received a warning that by having to go through the tenure charge process he was “apprised as to the impropriety of excessive absenteeism and the need to significantly improve his absenteeism or else be subject to future disciplinary action.”

In a subsequent case, In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of David Riddick, State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson Passaic County, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 345, school custodian Riddick was found to have engaged in excessive absenteeism, among other kinds of misbehavior. The administrative law judge recommended termination of Riddick's employment for several reasons, including excessive absenteeism, after having determined:

Based on the facts found, Riddick has been excessively absent . . . I find that there have been efforts made by various district personnel . . . to get Riddick to correct the pattern of absenteeism. Specific periods of improvement were shown when Riddick was warned that negative action would be taken against him if improvement was not demonstrated during those periods. Nevertheless, despite the improvement, the absence pattern returned as well as the leaving work early and not attending to certain work directives.

In the recent decision of the Commissioner of Education [Viani, supra,] noted that excessive absenteeism by a custodian is not sufficient grounds for dismissal on its own, unless there is demonstration of the extent of harm the employee's performance has on the provision of a thorough and efficient education in having adequately equipped, sanitary and secure physical facilities. In the record in this matter, excessive absenteeism has been demonstrated to have had a negative impact on the condition of the building . . .

CHARGES

The certified charges in this case allege respondent accumulated the following number of absences from her employment

- a) during the 1990-91 school year, a total of 17 absences;
- b) during the 1991-92 school year, a total of 20 absences;
- c) during the 1992-93 school year, a total of 20 absences;
- d) during the 1993-94 school year, a total of 19 absences, as of the date of the filing (April 28, 1994); and, respondent, has also been absent from her assignment without notification to her supervisors.

The certified charges regarding neglect and misbehavior allege respondent 'has not responded to corrective directions, requires excessive supervision to complete the assigned tasks, and in spite of continued warnings, has been absent without notification or approval.'

The Board in justifying a settlement of this case as a prudent business judgment on its part as was required by this judge, explained that its documentation to satisfy the requirements of the Commissioner's decisions in Viani, supra, and Riddick, supra, is "weak" because warnings it provided respondent were either absent or inadequate that her absences were having a negative impact on its mission of 'a thorough and efficient education [by] having adequately equipped, sanitary and secure physical facilities,' or that her absences were having 'a negative impact on the condition of the building' to which she was assigned. Furthermore, the Board notes that its supervisory evaluations of respondent's performance show her to be an "average" employee, that several anticipatory absences had been excused by her supervisors including absences for court appearances on family matters and/or asserted medical reasons.

In her Answer, respondent does not contest the number of absences alleged. Rather in the five separate defenses she asserts that termination of her employment is excessive and severe based on the nature and quantity of the absences; that the Board failed to use proper progressive discipline or correction with her; that she has evidence to justify many of the absences complained of; that none of her absences caused the Board harm in any manner; and, that the Board failed to give her appropriate warning and correction and it failed to provide her the opportunity to improve her record as is required under Viani, supra, and Riddick, supra.

PROPOSED SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

The Board and respondent agree that in return for a dismissal of the present charges, respondent would have withheld from her any 1994-95 and 1995-96 salary and/or adjustment increment to which she would otherwise be entitled. Respondent would not be liable to the Board for salary received during 1994-95 even though it included salary increments and was thus higher than it will be considered to have been under this agreement. Her 1995-96 salary would be established as if her 1994-95 salary and adjustment increment, if any, had been withheld and her 1995-96 salary will be established absent any salary or adjustment increment to which she may otherwise be entitled.

The Board, after having considered the two cases cited above and its evidence in support of the charges against respondent, determined that while it may establish by a preponderance of the credible evidence respondent was absent from her duties on numerous occasions, supervisory evaluations of her performance make no mention of any negative impact her absences had on having adequately equipped, sanitary and secure physical facilities. Nor is the Board confident it will be able to show progressive discipline or prior warning to respondent that her attendance is poor and must improve. Finally, the Board is sensitive to the fact the prosecution of these charges will divert substantial financial and human resources from its pupils whom it is to serve. Consequently, it seeks to settle the case in a manner which will serve its purpose of impressing upon respondent the need for her attendance to significantly improve and for the benefit of its pupils and school district as a whole in using its scarce resources in support of its educational program.

Respondent says that many of her absences were approved before taken, many were health-related, that she never received a formal directive to improve her attendance, that she was not subjected to any prior discipline which could constitute progressive discipline, and that there is no evidence to show her absences resulted in any harm or negative impact upon the sanitary conditions of the school to which she was assigned. Indeed, respondent notes that included within the total numbers of absences are days she was subpoenaed to appear in court on a family matter, days missed because of deaths in her family, and a Board approved leave of absence among other days for which she had received prior approval.

CONCLUSION

Based on the record in this case including society's interest in the nature of the charges as well as the interests of the Board, the interests of respondent and of the school district as a whole, the likelihood of whether the charges may be supported by proofs reasonably anticipated by the Board to be offered at hearing, the terms of the proposed Agreement including the absence of an exchange of public funds for services not rendered, and the consistency of the Agreement with existing law, I CONCLUDE that the proposed Settlement Agreement, which is represented by counsel as having been freely entered into by the parties, with full knowledge of their rights and each of whom are represented by competent counsel, is a full, fair, lawful and final disposition of the issues presented in this case.

ORDER

The parties are ORDERED to fully comply with the terms of the Settlement Agreement as set forth herein.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner S.L., guardian of R.L. since 1988, sought admission for R.L. in the Clifton school system pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. Board denied admission based upon its determination that S.L. had not established a family or economic hardship justifying admission into the school system.

ALJ concluded that petitioner satisfied statutory requirements. S.L. has looked after and supported R.L., gratis, continuously since 1988 and R.L.'s father in the Philippines provided an affidavit that he could not afford to support R.L. ALJ concluded that R.L. was eligible to attend the Clifton school system. Board's denial of entry was reversed.

Commissioner concurred with ALJ's findings and ordered the Board to admit R.L. into its public school system.

Record Closed: May 4, 1995

Decided: June 7, 1995

BEFORE MARYLOUISE LUCCHI-McCLOUD, ALJ:

On September 26, 1994 S.L. filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education on behalf of R.L. On October 17, 1994 an answer to the verified petition was transmitted from respondent to the Commissioner of Education in this matter. On October 31, 1994 the matter was then transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A prehearing was held in the matter on January 25, 1995 at which time S.L. appeared pro se for R.L. The hearing dates were set down for April 17 and April 27, 1995 and the prehearing order specified that no adjournments would be granted except in accordance with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-9.6.

As of April 17, 1995 an appearance had been entered for an attorney for petitioner and Lorane Posner, Esq., appeared on petitioner's behalf along with the attorney for respondent. On that date petitioner's representative failed to appear. Petitioner's representative was given the opportunity to have S.L. appear on the second hearing date of April 27, 1995 if it was still her intent to pursue the appeal.

On April 27, 1995 it was determined that the parties were able to agree as to the underlying facts and wished to submit them in writing with supplementary documentation as deemed appropriate by either side. These submissions were to occur on or before May 4, 1995 at which time the hearing record closed.

FACTS

Both parties signed a stipulation of facts (C-1) which reads as follows:

On or about September 9, 1994, S.L. residing at 712 G. Street in Clifton, New Jersey, filed an application for admission for one R.L. to Clifton High School. Said application was submitted in accordance with Title 18A of the New Jersey statutes and is attached hereto as Exhibit A. Said application consists of three separate parts including an application and two affidavits: one of S.L. and one of R.L.'s parent, E.L. Said documents specifically detail that R.L. was residing with S.L. because his parents were in the Philippines. S.L. specifically stated that she believed that R.L. could get a better education in Clifton and that his parents lived in a rural farm areas where no education was available. In addition, S.L. indicated that R.L. had been living with her since 1988.

In his affidavit in support of the application, E.L. indicated that he was not capable of supporting or providing care for R.L. because he had seven children and his family was financial incapable of giving proper care in this occasion.

The Board of Education reviewed said application and supporting affidavits and, on September 24, 1994, issued a letter to S.L. denying R.L. admission to the Clifton school system. In that letter the board specifically advised that the applicants had not established a family or economic hardship justifying admission to the Clifton school system, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

S.L., acting on behalf of R.L., filed a petition for appeal on September 26, 1994 and the board filed its answer to said petition on October 12, 1994. A prehearing was held in the matter and the matter was scheduled for trial on April 17 and April 27, 1995.

As these facts are stipulated to by the parties and the stipulation itself has been marked C-1 in evidence I FIND these to be the operational facts in this case. I also FIND the appended exhibits to form a part of the stipulation of facts.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The petitioner seeks admission for R.L. in the Clifton school system pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 which provides for attendance at school free of charge in certain circumstances. The Board of Education denied the request based upon their determination that the applicant had not established a family or economic hardship justifying admission into the school system as required by the statute.

Pursuant to the statute the burden is on the petitioner to show each and every element of the statute has been met. In this case we have a child who was certainly kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and it is not questioned that R.L. has been supported by S.L. continuously since 1988. In fact, in the appended documents to the stipulation of facts which form that which was before the Board of Education is a copy of R.L.'s grade reports from third through eighth grades at the Saint Anthony of Padua School in Passaic, New Jersey. There is additionally a letter from Sister Mesalina Cloma stating that for the period of time since May 1988 until the date of the letter, September 13, 1994, S.L. had been taking care of R.L. and he had continuously attended school there until his graduation. That letter refers to S.L. as R.L.'s "guardian".

While there is no indication that S.L. is in fact a guardian for R.L. it is clear that she takes on a parens patriae relationship with R.L. whose father lives in the Philippines and has provided an affidavit that he cannot afford to support R.L. The facts are that the family has seven children and lives on a rural farm in the Philippines. Continuously since 1988 S.L. has looked after and supported R.L. gratis.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 states that any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and copies of certain documents supporting domicile as well as the filing of an affidavit by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education that the individual is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. In this case all of the appropriate documentation has been provided. The affidavit from R.L.'s father is rather basic. The facts surrounding this case make the picture all the clearer. S.L. has not recently received R.L. into her household. Instead she has had R.L. as a member of her household since 1988 and he has attended school nearby. During this entire period of time he was treated as a member of the household and it is clear that his presence in the district is not for the purposes of obtaining a free public education.

In interpreting a statute one must look at the fundamental purpose for which the legislation was enacted, and where a literal reading will not accord with that purpose, the spirit of the law will control over its letter. N.J. Builders, Owners and Managers Association v. Blair, 60 N.J. 330, 332 (1972).

Amendments which were made to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 and effectuated by P.L. 1993, c. 380 had the intent of easing the burden on local schools and the boards of education of attempting to remove illegally enrolled students, whether those not domiciled within the district or those living with a person other than the parent or guardian, in order to obtain the benefit of a free public education in a district other than that of their entitlement by parental domicile. Gunderson v. City of Brigantine Board of Ed., 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 39, 42 (1994).

The intent of the affidavit student law is not now, and never has been, to deny an education to a child whose living arrangements may not be as contemplated by the statutory scheme when it is clear that the child has no home, or no possibility of school attendance, other than with the non-parent district resident and that such resident is, for all intents and purposes, the sole caretaker and supporter of the child. Neither is its parental affidavit provision meant to act as a bar to a child who, due to particular circumstances, cannot produce such an affidavit but provides evidence that the underlying requirements of the law are being met. To hold otherwise harms a party the Legislature never meant to penalize, unreasonably places form over substance, and overlooks the substantial state interest in ensuring the education of all its children. (Cite omitted.) Gunderson, supra at 42.

Under the facts and circumstances of this case it is clear that S.L. has continuously acted as the responsible party for R.L. since 1988. He has continuously attended school in this country and his family has demonstrated economic hardship.

Absent the surrounding facts and circumstances, the affidavit alone, might not have been sufficient to show the relationship and the situation. The surrounding facts and circumstances and the continuous nature of the quasi-familial relationship support that the petitioner has, in fact, shown evidence sufficient to support each and every portion required by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b).

In the subsequent submitted documents there is an additional affidavit of greater detail from R.L.'s father which elucidates the poverty to which this child would be subjected if he remained with the family in the Philippines. While the board of education did not have that information at the time of its original decision, the result remains the same. It is clear that R.L. is not and has not been supported by his father since the 1988 time when R.L. began to live with S.L.

CONCLUSION

Based upon the foregoing I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has satisfied each and every requirement of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. I further CONCLUDE that the Board's determination that a financial hardship did not exist did not take into account of the facts and circumstances presented to it at the time. As a result I further CONCLUDE that R.L. is eligible to attend the Clifton school system based upon the facts and circumstances in this case.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the Board of Education's denial of entry into the public school system of R.L. be and hereby is REVERSED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the MERIT SYSTEM BOARD for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision on this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14b-10.

Decided: June 7, 1995

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

Petitioner, Jet Electric, Inc., opened the herein matter before the Commissioner of Education on July 1, 1994, with an imperfect Petition of Appeal, seeking a declaratory judgment as to why petitioner's bid for certain work to be done by the Board of Education of the Manalapan-Englishtown Regional School District (Board) was rejected. The Board answered the Petition asserting, among other things, that petitioner failed to state a cause of action; that its Petition of Appeal is not prepared in accordance with the New Jersey Administrative Code, Title 6; the relief requested cannot be granted because it does not properly conform with the requirements under N.J.A.C. Title 6; and, it fails to set forth a controversy or dispute arising under school laws.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on August 9, 1994, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. On August 18, 1994, the OAL advised petitioner that his corporation must be represented by an attorney unless it qualifies under the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.4(a)5, a close corporation.

A prehearing conference was held on November 10, 1994, at which Joseph Caruso appeared without an attorney. As a consequence, it was agreed to hold a second prehearing conference after December 1, 1994, with petitioner's attorney.

On December 5, 1994, the Board's attorney directed a letter to the undersigned, which states as follows:

This is to acknowledged the receipt of the Prehearing Order. I wish to bring to the Court's attention that I have not received from Mr. Caruso my answers to interrogatories that he stated were being mailed to me, nor have I received any phone call or name of any attorney representing Mr. Caruso.

I simply bring these two (2) facts to the Court's attention and look with great anticipation of the second Prehearing which I would assume would be scheduled by the Court on the telephone.

On February 13, 1995, the Board's attorney addressed a second letter to the undersigned after attempts to arrange the second prehearing conference had been unsuccessful. The February 13, 1995, letter reads as follows:

I want to report to the Court that I really question the prehearing conference. As you stated to Mr. Caruso, the owner of Jett (sic) Electric, he was to furnish to me the name of his attorney since it is a corporation, and he also stated he would be returning to me the interrogatories that I forwarded to him. I do not have either of said documents. I feel that the matter should be dismissed (sic) on the Court's own motion since he has failed to comply with your Honor's request.

On February 17, 1995, the undersigned responded to Mr. Dawes letter of February 13, 1995, asserting that a dismissal sua sponte was inappropriate at that time.

The second prehearing conference was then scheduled for March 24, 1995. However, it was adjourned due to the Board's counsel being out of the State on that date. The second prehearing conference was then scheduled for March 29, 1995.

At the March 29, 1995, prehearing conference, petitioner appeared without legal counsel and asserted that he would instruct his attorney to send a letter to the undersigned advising this tribunal of the attorney's appearance. Petitioner's attorney was to submit the letter on or before April 3, 1995. In addition, it was ordered that petitioner answer the Board's Interrogatories. It was further agreed, that a third prehearing conference would be established after petitioner's attorney made his appearance on or about April 3, 1995.

Neither petitioner nor his attorney advised the undersigned of the attorney's appearance for the record. On May 9, 1995, the undersigned addressed the following letter to petitioner:

Pursuant to the agreements reached at the second prehearing conference held on March 29, 1995, in the above entitled matter, your attorney was to advise the court of his/her appearance on your behalf on or before April 3, 1995. It is now May 9, 1995, and I have received no word from you or your attorney concerning his/her representation. It was also agreed that you were to answer the Board's Interrogatories.

In the event I do not hear from your or your attorney by May 19, 1995, I shall consider the Board's motion to dismiss the matter for lack of prosecution. I await your immediate response.

Neither petitioner nor his attorney responded to this tribunal's letter dated May 9, 1995, either by May 19, 1995 or thereafter.

I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to comply with the orders of this tribunal to supply the name of his corporate attorney.

I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to respond to discovery requests and refused to answer the Board's Interrogatories.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that this matter should be dismissed for lack of prosecution on petitioner's behalf.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the instant Petition of Appeal be and is hereby DISMISSED with PREJUDICE for lack of prosecution.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." EMERGENT RELIEF

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6351-95
AGENCY DKT. NO. 216-6/95

E.D. on behalf of her minor child,

Petitioner,

v.

WAYNE TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

Raymond A. Reddin, Esq., for petitioner

Stephen R. Fogarty, Esq., for respondent
(Fogarty & Hara, attorneys)

BEFORE: SEBASTIAN GAETA, ALJ:

This application for emergency relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6 was forwarded to the Office of Administrative Law on June 20, 1995. Pursuant to that request, a hearing was conducted on June 21, 1995.

Petitioner applied to the Superior Court of New Jersey, Passaic County, Chancery Division for injunctive relief. By order dated June 20, 1995, the Honorable Amos C. Saunders transferred this matter to the New Jersey Department of Education for hearing and disposition upon the conditions that the case be heard and decided by the Office of Administrative Law no later than 4:00 p.m., Thursday June 22, 1995 and that the case be finally decided by the Commissioner of Education no later than 10:30 a.m. on Friday, June 23, 1995. Judge Saunders further ordered that should those conditions not be met, M.F. shall be allowed to participate in Wayne Valley High School's June 23, 1995 graduation ceremony without being awarded a diploma and shall be awarded a diploma upon her completion of all New Jersey state and local school district requirements for graduation from high school.

Matters Presented

In opposition to petitioner's application, respondent, inter alia, asserts that petitioner's opportunity to graduate with her own class does not meet the requirement of irreparable harm announced in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Considering the importance that families, students, friends and educators have in these ceremonies which mark an important step in young lives, that argument is rejected.

The issue to be decided is whether petitioner has met the attendance requirements of the Wayne Valley High School for the required course, Physical Education

Although warned several times for absences in subjects, including Physical Education, the attendance requirements which respondent board of education asserts were violated and resulted in petitioner receiving no credit for Physical Education relate to excessive cuts, not excessive absences.

This is clear from the affidavit of the Wayne Township Superintendent of Schools (Exhibit P-2) which indicates that M.F. was not permitted to graduate because she "exceeded the number of 'cuts' allowed a student in Wayne Valley High School". The motion for emergent relief recites that the policy regarding excessive cuts was the reason petitioner was dropped from Physical Education without credit. Respondent, in its response, alludes to purported excessive absences, however, the reason for the adverse action is that petitioner "was dropped from her physical education course without credit for cutting class three or more times."

This decision, therefore, addresses the question of cuts and not that of absences

Under the policy of the respondent school district a cut occurs when a student, without authority or excuse misses thirty or more minutes of a standard class period (Exhibit R-2). Under that policy and by practice a cut contemplates that a student has been or is present at school but not present for all or most of a class period. An absence occurs when the student is not present at school for all or most of a school day.

The district has prescribed penalties for cuts. For a first offense the student receives a grade of zero and a warning is issued to the parent or guardian. A second offense calls for the grade of zero and a conference with the parent or guardian. A third cut results in the student being dropped from the course and a referral to the child study team (CST).

Although these penalties are prescribed, the testimony established they are not mandatory. Therefore, extenuating and mitigating facts are considered in assessing the ultimate penalty.

The Physical Education teacher, Jayne Flattery testified and provided an affidavit (Exhibit R-1). She testified that petitioner frequently left the locker room after changing, but before the end of the period.

A cut slip was prepared for April 10, 1995 which she marked as the first cut. On that day the Physical Education class was to pick an activity for the next marking period. Ms. Bishop took attendance and reported her absence which prompted the cut slip. On April 17, 1995, petitioner was present until ten minutes before the end of the period. Although this did not constitute an actual cut, she prepared the cut slip, marked second cut, and submitted it to emphasize to petitioner the seriousness of not spending the entire period in class. This "second cut" slip resulted in Vice Principal Mary Jane Tierney sending an April 20, 1995 letter to petitioner's mother that on April 17, 1995 petitioner had a second cut and "after the third cut . . . no credit will be given" (Exhibit R-1, attachment L). There were cuts on April 18 and 19, 1995 for which cut slips were submitted. Because the notification to the parent was subsequent to those cuts, Ms. Flattery did not consider them to be second and third cuts but only a second, with the first having been April 10, 1995.

When petitioner approached her about her situation, they agreed she could make up her leaving the locker room early on the several occasions. Petitioner used her third period study hall to make up that time over a three-week period.

On May 9, 1995, a substitute teacher taught the Physical Education class. It was reported to her that petitioner missed the class and she was charged with a cut, marked three, on the cut slip. Mr. Lyons a teacher who was supervising a television production project told her petitioner was present in his space for five or ten minutes. Regardless of being in school, she cut her assigned class and the cut slip was submitted.

Had she given petitioner a grade it would be an "A" or "B. "

Petitioner testified. She explained the circumstances regarding the cuts. The cut on April 10, 1995 was not a cut because the class period was devoted entirely to choosing a new activity for the next grading period. She chose paddle ball. When she finished, she and friends spent a few minutes at the school store.

On April 18, 1995, she did cut the class. The following day, April 19, 1995, the gymnasium was being used for a school-wide event, no one changed and she went home with cramps. She did not consider she cut that class.

When Ms. Tierney told her she had three cuts and should speak with Ms. Flattery, she went to her to see if they could be made up. They agreed that they would be made up in her third period study hall. She knew her graduation was in jeopardy and she made up nine classes which she understood erased the three outstanding cuts.

On May 9, 1995 a substitute teacher was there when she arrived. Another student asked for her help in a television project. Mr. Lyons knew she was there and never told her she should be elsewhere. After watching a video for ten minutes, she and the other student went to film interviews in the school. She did not believe she cut that class.

Discussion

The purported cut on April 10, 1995 was based on the report to Ms. Flattery by Ms. Bishop, who did not testify. Petitioner testified that the period was only for signing up for the next grading period activity, which she did, and she spent a few minutes with friends at the school store. The testimony of petitioner is plausible and in view of the activity which was not a regular class I FIND she did not cut that day.

There is a cut recorded for June 15, 1995 related to discussions with her counsel as to this matter before the Superior Court. Under all the circumstances and in view of the policy regarding excused absences, I FIND that absence not to be a cut.

There is a significant disparity between the respective understandings of petitioner and Ms. Flattery as to the purpose and scope of the make up classes. To Ms. Flattery, an experienced teacher, that petitioner should make up the several days she left ten minutes or so early, makes sense. To petitioner, who has just realized she has committed three cuts putting her chance to graduate with her class at risk, it does not.

There was confusion as to the number of cuts when Ms. Tierney sent her warning letter to the mother (Exhibit R-1, attachment L). When petitioner met with her she was told she had three cuts. If the cuts of April 17, 18 and 19, 1995 are all counted, she did. However, as explained by Ms. Flattery, her leaving class early in April 17, 1995 was not the second cut and, because the parents had not been notified, that the cuts for April 18 and 19, 1995 were considered as the second cut. However, when petitioner spoke with Ms. Tierney she was informed she had three cuts and that she should confer with Ms. Flattery. At the time Ms. Tierney did not inform her she was dropped from the course. Certainly as the official in charge of discipline, Ms. Tierney was empowered to impose a penalty less than that prescribed for a third offense.

Because she knew she was subject to being dropped from the class, unless petitioner was motivated by an uncommon sense of principle, it is not likely she would have agreed to make up the several days of leaving early. It is more realistic to conclude that she understood that she could absolve herself of those cuts by the nine make up classes.

That this was her understanding is borne out by her missing class on May 9, 1995. Although petitioner testified she did not consider that a cut, in view of her situation and threat that she would not graduate her decision to leave the class showed exceedingly poor and immature judgment. To leave that class knowing what the actual stakes were would have been almost reckless on her part.

It is more consistent that she understood that her make up classes erased her cuts and that she simply and imprudently indulged herself in cutting that period in favor of something more interesting.

The reasonable rules of a school system are indispensable to the maintenance of good order and discipline. Additionally, the uniform enforcement of those rules inculcates within students a sense of personal responsibility and self discipline.

To impose serious sanctions for unwitting violation of rules does not serve that purpose. In view of the matters presented I FIND that at the time of the cut class on May 9, 1995 petitioner had a reasonable and honest belief that she had no record of cuts for that class.

I FIND that petitioner did not violate the excessive cut policy of the Wayne Hills High School as to Physical Education.

Order

It is ORDERED that petitioner's record be amended to reflect she remains in good standing in her Physical Education class and that the teacher, Jayne Flattery assign a grade based upon the standards for grades pertaining to all students.

it is further ORDERED that should petitioner be otherwise qualified she shall graduate with the 1995 Senior Class, Wayne Hills High School at its graduation exercise.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6351-95

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

ORDER DENYING MOTION

FOR EMERGENT RELIEF

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5893-95

AGENCY DKT. NO. 196-6/95

H.M.O.,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF GREATER
EGG HARBOR REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, ATLANTIC COUNTY,

Respondent.

Lauren P. Alterman, Esq., for petitioner

Louis Grecco, Esq., for respondent

BEFORE KATHRYN A. CLARK, ALJ:

This is the matter of H.M.O. v. The Board of Education. This matter was brought before the OAL by way of application for emergent relief, under N.J.A.C. 1:61A-12.1.

Petitioner has been suspended for 7 days, including graduation day, and is not being allowed to participate in senior week activities, senior awards night, or participate in any graduation activity, including project graduation and walking with her class in procession on June 12.

(Petitioner's individual teachers have the discretion of deciding whether or not she must or can take final examinations, which, if necessary, she may do on June 14, after her period of suspension. Petitioner will receive a diploma, if she completes all requirements.)

The issue here is simple, was there an altercation and was a teacher struck? I FIND and CONCLUDE that there was, and that a teacher was struck.

Specifically, I FIND that on June 1, 1995, a teacher, Alicia Jones, said that she heard noises and looked up to see H. in the room (Ms. Jones' classroom), yelling at A., who was in the room and was heading toward her seat. H. came forward into the classroom towards A.. Ms. Jones told A, to sit down and be quiet. Ms. Jones then turned toward H. who was heading towards A. Ms. Jones told H. to get out of "her room" (Ms. Jones' classroom). H. kept coming. H. did not comply with Ms. Jones' direction. Ms. Jones stepped towards H. to get H. to turn around and leave. H. swung her arms to get at A. Ms. Jones' arms were extended, and H. "chopped away" at Ms. Jones' arms 4 or 5 times, trying to get at A.. H. was still yelling at H.. It was then that 2 other teachers arrived, and H. left. Ms. Jones was shaken by the incident, her heart was pounding, and she realized that her arms were hurting.

The granting of emergent relief is an extraordinary remedy which can only be awarded based upon a showing that irreparable harm will result if it is not granted, and a further showing that there is a likelihood of success on the merits. See, N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6.

The expanded criteria for determination of an application for emergent relief have been set forth in Crowe v. Degioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-34 (1982). Four standards are articulated:

1. The relief should not be granted unless it is necessary to prevent irreparable harm. Harm is generally considered irreparable if it cannot be adequately redressed by monetary damages.
2. Such relief should not be granted when the legal rights underlying the claim are unsettled.

3. In order to prevail on an application for temporary relief, a party must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits.
4. The relative hardship of the parties in granting or denying the relief sought should be considered.

Irreparable injury has been defined as “substantial injury to a material degree coupled with the inadequacy of money damages.” Judice’s Sunshine Pontiac, Inc. V. General Motors, Inc., 418 F. Supp. 1212 (D. N.J. 1976); John Tully v. Mott Supermarkets, Inc., 337 418 F. Supp. 834 (D. N.J. 1972). I CONCLUDE that money damages would not benefit petitioner, but there has been no showing of “substantial injury to a material degree.” The petitioner will simply not be allowed to participate in a ceremonial function. She may, if she completes the requirements, still graduate (a second graduation ceremony is held by the school district in August, for those who did not qualify for graduation, for whatever reason, on June 12). Petitioner may still be granted a high school diploma. The harm is not irreparable. Not going to a ceremony, especially when one is not entitled to go, is not a substantial injury to a material degree.

Participation in the ceremonial function of graduation is a privilege granted to those who are certified, eligible and entitled to graduate at the time of the graduation ceremony. I FIND that petitioner did disobey a direct instruction from a teacher to leave a classroom in which she was not scheduled to have a class, did strike that teacher, and is subject therefore to appropriate discipline. Petitioner was previously cited for striking a teacher (accidentally) in October, 1994. Her record also lists eight other incidents of disruptive behavior, including hitting. She knew she could not strike a teacher. She was also warned, by letter of November 18, 1994, that such conduct could lead to progressively more severe discipline. West New York v Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962).

The punishment imposed by the school board is, I FIND, appropriate, justifiable and reasonable, and consequently, I CONCLUDE that petitioner is not entitled to participate in the commencement ceremonies.

This Order on an application for emergent relief may be adopted, modified, or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge denying emergent relief as petitioner failed to establish the standards for emergent relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Moreover, because the petition is limited to challenging only petitioner's participation in graduation ceremonies, which date has since passed, the matter is now moot. Accordingly, the recommended decision of the Office of Administrative Law is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the within Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

BACKGROUND

1. The Medford Lakes Board of Education ("Board") filed tenure charges against Dr. Donald Gross on April 6, 1995. Said charges are currently pending before the Commissioner of Education.
2. On April 6, 1995, the Board also took action to suspend Dr. Gross, without pay, from his employment as Superintendent of Schools in Medford Lakes.
3. On April 26, 1995, Dr. Gross filed an Answer and Affirmative Defenses in response to the tenure charges.

4. Subsequent to the filing of the tenure charges, the Board and Dr. Gross have met and have held discussions concerning the matters alleged in the tenure charges, and upon the Board's further investigation and review of the facts and the administrative needs of the District as of the date of this agreement, and in an effort to remediate any negative publicity that would affect Dr. Gross's future employment in education, the parties believe it is in their best interest to terminate their employment relationship prior to the expiration of the contractually agreed upon term.

5. Based upon the circumstances described in the preceding paragraph, and the Board's belief that the prosecution of these tenure charges will divert substantial amounts of money, time and key staff resources from the true mission of the district, the parties have agreed to resolve this matter under and subject to the terms of the following Settlement Agreement.

AGREEMENT

THE PARTIES TO THIS AGREEMENT, intending to be legally bound, agree as follows:

1. The Board and Dr. Gross shall make application to the Commissioner of Education to withdraw and dismiss the tenure charges filed by the Board on April 6, 1995, and the Answer and Affirmative Defenses filed by Dr. Gross on April 26, 1995, with prejudice.

2. Upon the Commissioner's approval of the Settlement Agreement, Dr. Gross shall be placed in the position of Assistant Superintendent in Medford Lakes, but shall be removed from any duties in that position.

3. Dr. Gross agrees to assist the Board to facilitate the transition of leadership in the district.

4. Dr. Gross shall resign from all positions in the district effective the end of the day on February 1, 1996.

5. Upon the Commissioner's approval of this Settlement Agreement, Dr. Gross shall receive all back pay and emoluments withheld as a result of his suspension on April 6, 1995. In addition, until February 1, 1996, he shall receive, pro rata, all salary, benefits, and emoluments, (excluding payment for vacation and sick time except as noted herein at paragraph 9), that he would have received had he continued to be employed by the Board as Superintendent of Schools in the district, as per the terms of the employment contract executed by the parties on July 15, 1992, and all subsequent addenda thereto.

6. In addition, the Board shall continue to provide health benefits to Dr. Gross until June 30, 1996, or, at Dr. Gross's discretion, it shall provide a cash payment of $2,200 in lieu of benefits on February 1, 1996.

7. In the event that Dr. Gross secures a comparable position before February 1, 1996, the Board shall no longer be required to pay Dr. Gross his full salary and benefits, as described in the preceding paragraphs, as of the date he begins other employment; however, it shall continue to pay Dr. Gross the difference, if any, between the salary and benefits that he is to earn in the new position and the salary and benefits that Dr. Gross would have been paid by the Board until February 1, 1996, under this Settlement Agreement, if he had not procured such employment.

8. The terms and conditions of the Employment Contract between Dr. Gross and the Board, executed July 15, 1992, and all subsequent addenda thereto, shall remain in full force and effect through February 1, 1996, except as specifically modified or contradicted by the terms of this Agreement.

9. On February 1, 1996, Dr. Gross shall be paid for five days vacation at his per diem rate calculated at 1/240th of his salary.

10. Pursuant to the federal COBRA statute, Dr. Gross shall be entitled to exercise his rights to continue to receive all of the medical insurance benefits under the Board's plans at his own expense.

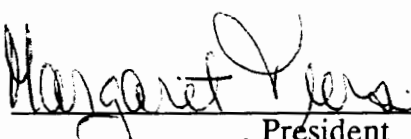

11. This resolves any and all claims between the parties with respect to Dr. Gross's employment contract and employment in the District.

WHEREAS, the parties acknowledge that each has received satisfactory independent legal advice of his or its own selection, that each fully understands the terms and conditions of this Agreement, that each has been fully informed as to his or its legal rights and obligations, and that each is signing this Agreement freely and voluntarily; and

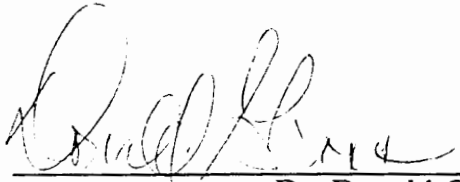

WHEREAS, the Dr. Gross has approved of the terms and conditions of this Agreement; and

WHEREAS, this Agreement has been approved by a vote of the Medford Lakes Board of Education at its meeting of May 17 1995, and has been made a part of the minutes of that meeting;

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the day and year first above written.

On March 10 1994, petitioner, the Hackensack Board of Education, certified charges of inefficiency against respondent, Carol Trapp. On March 23, 1994, respondent filed an answer denying the charges and requesting that they be dismissed and she be reinstated to her position of employment with petitioner. 1. The Respondent, Carol Trapp, is a tenured teacher of English employed by the Petitioner, School District of the City of Hackensack at Hackensack High School since 1971.

2. Commencing with the 1989-90 school year, a series of disagreements arose between the Respondent and her supervisors and administrators concerning issues of classroom control, the structure and coherence of lessons, the development of learning objectives, the monitoring of instruction and her willingness to work with supervisors and administrators concerning these actions. These allegations over a period of the school years 1989-90, 1990-91, 1991-92 and 1992-93 led, in September of 1993 to the filing of tenure charges of inefficiency against the Respondent pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 et. seq. and subsequently, in March 1994 to a vote by the Petitioner to certify said tenure charges against the Respondent to the Commissioner of Education.

3. During the entire time that the disputes set forth in paragraph 2 have taken place between the Respondent's supervisors and administrators and the Respondent, the Respondent has steadfastly maintained the position that she does not agree philosophically with the Petitioner's supervisors and administrators as to pedagogical theory, that the goals of the supervisors and administrators would stifle flexibility in the learning process and the creativity of her students, and that her conduct during the period of time at issue does not show inefficiency, but rather a more flexible and less rigid approach to teaching than that required by the supervisors and administrators. During the same period of time, Petitioner's representatives have continuously maintained the position that in fact the Responder has inefficiencies in her performance.

4. A settlement in this matter would avoid the burden, expense, delay and uncertainty of litigation. The parties agree that the six days originally scheduled for hearing in this matter appear, after a review of all of the information produced by both sides in discovery, to not be nearly sufficient for all of the information which both parties desire to present to the Administrative Law Judge. This would require the scheduling of additional days of hearing of an unknown date in the future. Thus carrying this matter through to conclusion would require a large expenditure of time not only on the part of Respondent, but on the part of the Petitioner, supervisors and administrators involved in this matter, the cost to both parties of counsel to appear at th hearing, review transcripts and prepare both factual and legal arguments to the Administrative Law Judge, and the purchase of expensive transcripts.

5. While this settlement leaves certain factual allegations on the part of both parties unresolved, it does not cause any potential problems for the public in that the tenure charges do not involve allegations of criminal or immoral conduct or conduct which would cause danger to students.

6. Both the Petitioner and Respondent agree that the settlement of the pending tenure charges as set forth herein is consistent with the criteria set forth in In Re Cardonick, and is otherwise in the public interest.

Based upon the above the above factual agreement, the parties hereby agree to resolve this matter on the following basis:

1. Carol Trapp will resign her position of employment as teacher with the Hackensack Board of Education effective November 1, 1996;

2. The Board of Education will withdraw the tenure charges in this matter;

3. The Respondent will receive her current rate of pay through the day of her resignation less mitigation by alternate earning. This payment of salary shall constitute the total financial obligation of the Petitioner to the Respondent and the Respondent hereby waives any claims she may have for unused sick leave days or for any other payments upon her resignation of employment;

4. The Respondent understands and agrees that her resignation and the entering into of this Stipulation of Settlement extinguishes, terminates, waives and/or revokes any and all tenure, employment and re-employment rights she may have as a teaching staff member with the Petitioner other than those set forth in this Stipulation of Settlement.

5. The Petitioner and the Respondent hereby release, remise and forever discharge each other from any and all claims, demands, rights, actions, damages or liabilities of any description arising out of or related to the Respondent's employment with the Petitioner including but not limited to the aforementioned tenure charges, claims for additional compensation or wrongful termination of employment.

6. This Stipulation of Settlement is not and shall not be construed to be an admission of liability or wrong doing by either party. Rather, the parties have entered into the Stipulation of Settlement for the sole purpose of resolving the aforementioned tenure charges and all other issues arising from the Respondent's employment without the burden, expense, delay and uncertainties of litigation.

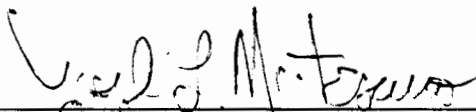

7. It is expressly agreed that this Stipulation of Settlement is contingent upon the Commissioner's approval of the parties agreement to withdraw the tenure charges. Should the Commissioner fail to approve the parties' application for withdrawal of the tenure charges and approval of the Stipulation of Settlement, the Stipulation of Settlement shall be null and void, and the parties shall attempt to restructure the settlement t obtain the Commissioner's approval pursuant to any direction of the Commissioner. If the parties are unable to obtain the approval of the Commissioner of Education to the settlement, the Stipulation of Settlement shall not be used as evidence in any subsequent tenure hearings.

8. The Stipulation of Settlement is freely and voluntarily executed by each party hereto. Both parties have had the terms of this Stipulation of Settlement thoroughly explained by their respective legal counsel and understand such terms and the legal implications arising therefrom.

9. The Respondent understands upon approval of this Stipulation of Settlement by the Commissioner of Education, the matter may be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for consideration of Revocation of the Respondent's teaching certification.

Petitioning tenured special education teacher contended Board's withholding of his salary increment for the 1994-95 school year for allegedly using an inappropriate video in his classroom was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

ALJ found that permitting middle school students to watch an R-rated movie during school time provided a reasonable basis for the Board's withholding. Thus, the Commissioner may not substitute his judgment for the Board's. Petition was dismissed.

After review of the record, including transcripts of the hearings and the video tape of the movie, the Commissioner determined that petitioner did not meet his burden of establishing that the Board's action in withholding his increment was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable and, therefore, the Commissioner would not substitute his judgment for that of the Board.

Decided: June 19, 1995

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter concerns the appeal of Michael Capizola (hereinafter petitioner) from the determination of the Board of Education of the Borough of South Plainfield (hereinafter respondent) withholding his salary increment for the 1994-95 school year. The petition of appeal was filed on August 25, 1994. An answer on behalf of respondent was filed on September 8, 1994 and on September 13, 1994, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A prehearing conference was conducted on January 18, 1995, at which time the following was identified as the issue for determination at hearing: "Did respondent have a reasonable basis for its action withholding petitioner's increment for the 1994-95 school year?" The hearing was ~~scheduled~~ for May 2, 3 and 5, 1995, at the Trenton office of the Office of Administrative Law and ~~commenced~~ as scheduled. On May 3, 1995, ~~after~~ petitioner had completed presentation of his case and after the movie Commando, ~~Exhibit C-1 in evidence~~, had been viewed in its entirety, respondent moved to dismiss the petition of appeal. Both parties presented oral argument on the motion and following a brief recess wherein the exhibits which had been marked into evidence on behalf of petitioner were reviewed, the ~~motion~~ was granted, whereupon the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Prior to the commencement of testimony, the parties entered into the following stipulation of facts:

1. The South Plainfield Board of Education ("Board") is a body politic and corporate, organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey, N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, and entrusted with maintaining and conducting the schools of the South Plainfield School District.
2. On or about September 1, 1980, Michael Capizola was employed by the Board as a special education teacher for the high school.
3. On June 24, 1985, the Board transferred Mr. Capizola from his position as a special education teacher at the High School to a special education teacher position at the Middle School, effective for the 1985-86 school year.
4. Mr. Capizola holds the following certifications, issued by the State Board of Examiners: Teacher of Mathematics and Teacher of the Handicapped.

5. Mr. Capizola is a tenured employee of the South Plainfield Board of Education.
6. During 1993-94 school year, Mr. Capizola was assigned to the Middle School as a special education teacher.
7. On June 9, 1994, Mr. Capizola was assigned to teach a first period special education class of three perceptually impaired students and one neurologically impaired student. Also on June 9, 1994, Mr. Capizola was assigned to teach a second period special education class of four perceptually impaired students and one neurologically impaired student. Only four students, however, were present during Mr. Capizola's second period class on June 9, 1994.
8. On June 9, 1994, Mr. Capizola showed some portion (the amount remains in dispute) of the film, Commando, to his first period special education class.
9. On June 9, 1994, Mr. Capizola showed some portion (the amount remains in dispute) of the film, Commando, to his second period special education class.
10. The film Commando is rated "R" by the Motion Picture Association of America.
11. The South Plainfield School District does not possess any records which document the use of audio-visual equipment by teaching staff members in the Middle School during the 1993-94 school year.
12. On June 23, 1994, Mr. Capizola was notified that the Board would discuss possible disciplinary action regarding him in Executive Session on June 30, 1994. (Exhibit J-1)
13. On June 30, 1994, Mr. Guy C. Ferri, Superintendent, recommended that Mr. Capizola's salary adjustment increment be withheld for the 1994-95 school year. (Exhibit J-2)
14. At its regularly scheduled Board meeting, the Board approved the denial of Mr. Capizola's salary adjustment increment for the 1994-95 school year. (Exhibit J-3)

15. By correspondence dated July 12, 1994, Mr. Capizola was notified of the Board's decision to withhold his salary adjustment increment for the 1994-95 school year. (Exhibit J-4)
16. On July 20, 1994, Mr. Capizola filed a grievance, claiming that the Board's decision to deny his increment was without just cause. (Exhibit J-5)
17. By letter dated August 10, 1994, Mr. Capizola's grievance was denied by Guy C. Ferri, Superintendent of Schools. (Exhibit J-6)
18. On or about August 23, 1994, Mr. Capizola filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education. The issue was joined on September 8, 1994 when the Board filed its Answer.
19. ~~The~~ matter was ~~thereby~~ transferred to the Office of ~~Administrative~~ Law, where it was assigned to ~~Administrative~~ Law Judge M. Kathleen Duncan. The matter was set for hearing on May 2, 3 and 5, 1995.

Exhibit J-4 in evidence, a letter dated July 12, 1994 from Guy C. Ferri, Superintendent of Schools, to petitioner, advised petitioner of the Board's action and the Board's reasons therefor:

This is to advise you that the Board of Education at its Special Board Meeting held on June 30, 1994, approved the Superintendent's recommendation to withhold your 1994/95 salary adjustment increment, thereby freezing your 1994/95 salary at the 1993/94 rate. This action was taken as a result of an assessment of your performance arising out of the incident whereby you used an inappropriate video in your classroom on June 9, 1994. The specific criteria are as follows:

- . Use of a material clearly inappropriate for instructional purposes.
- . Failure to plan for specific learning objective.
- . Failure to preview the material in question to ensure educational and moral appropriateness.

- . Inappropriate and undocumented use of allocated instruction time resources.
- . Failure to teach acceptable standards of student conduct by example.
- . Poor judgment.

Should you have any questions or need further clarification, feel free to contact me during the hours of 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, at (908) ~~754-4620~~, extension 226.

During his testimony, petitioner offered the following additional facts, which for purposes of determining the within motion, are accepted as true and are viewed in the light, most favorable to petitioner. During the 1993-94 school year, petitioner prepared individual lesson plans for each of his forty classified students; the ~~goals and objectives in~~ each lesson plan were individual to the particular student. On a weekly basis he would select one lesson plan to submit to the administration as an example. For those students who were in his first period special education class on June 9, 1994, the individual lesson plans did indicate that a movie (but not which movie) would be shown as a reward for the students having done very well in their math course that year. Petitioner could not say, however, that the one lesson plan which was submitted to the administration for that week involved one of those students and therefore he could not say that the movie as a reward had been in the lesson plan submitted.

Petitioner allowed the four students to choose which movie they wished to view as their reward, and one student had lobbied hard for the movie Commando starring Arnold Schwarzenegger. That child brought in his own copy of the movie approximately one week before the date that they expected to view it, and petitioner took the movie and put it in his desk. Petitioner further indicated that he had not intended to show the R-rated* version of the movie which the student had brought into class but rather had intended to show the version of the movie which he had taped at home when the movie had been on commercial television. Because petitioner had seen the movie himself in the movie theaters, he realized that it contained explicit violence and strong language, but when a movie is shown on commercial television those portions which cause the R rating are edited out, and accordingly, he intended to show the students the version he had taped from T.V. However, petitioner had moved to a new residence in April 1994 and many of his belongings were still in boxes and he was unable to locate his copy of the movie. Accordingly, on June 9, 1994, he allowed his first period class to view the commercial, R-rated version of the movie notwithstanding the fact that he knew it had strong language and explicit violence. He did not request parental permission before doing so.

Prior to showing the movie, petitioner had indicated to the class members, who were either 12 or 13 years old, that anyone who preferred not to see the movie or might be offended by the language or violence could go to the classroom of Ms. Holtz, another special education teacher, and play with her computer games. None of the students left his classroom. Thereafter the class watched approximately the first forty-five minutes of the movie to the end of the class period. At the conclusion of the class, petitioner announced that there was too much cursing in the movie and that they would not be able to see the end of it the next day as they had planned to do. One student who had been in the first period class, however, was also in the second period class and that student started a campaign among the second period students, who were also 12 or 13 years old, to be permitted to watch the end of the movie. Every Friday the students in the second period class participated in an activity which petitioner called 20/20 wherein the first 20 minutes of the class period were spent in class work and the last 20 minutes were spent in activities, games, puzzles, computer games, etc. When the second period students continued in their request to watch the rest of the Commando movie, petitioner told them if they wanted they could do 20/20 that day, which was a Thursday, instead of the next day and the movie would be permitted to run with the T.V. screen turned off for the first 20 minutes of the period and they would be permitted to watch the last 20 minutes of the movie. Accordingly, the second period class on June 9, 1994, watched the last 20 minutes of Commando.

After the school principal, Mr. Doggett, received parental complaints about children having watched Commando in class, he spoke to petitioner who acknowledged that he had shown the movie on June 9, 1994 but falsely stated to Mr. Doggett he had shown the edited version. That Friday evening petitioner called the parents who had complained and tried to smooth things over; after his efforts were unsuccessful, however, on Monday he went back to Mr. Doggett's office and admitted that he had shown the unedited version. He did not mention to Mr. Doggett that he had also shown the film to his second period class. This information first came to the board's attention in April 1995 when petitioner answered the respondent's second set of interrogatories.

Petitioner acknowledges that he exercised poor judgment in permitting his twelve and thirteen-year-old students to view an R-rated film. He also acknowledges that the movie was without educational value, but he indicates that he is personally aware that other teachers have shown films unrelated to curriculum goals for purposes of rewarding children for good behavior. There are no disputes between petitioner and respondent concerning the facts; petitioner simply feels that the sanction, a salary increment withholding, is too severe in light of his many years of outstanding evaluations (P-1 to P-13 in evidence).

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

The classic statement of the test for determining a motion for dismissal at the end of an opponents case is articulated in Dolson v. Anastasia, 55 N.J. 2, 5-6 (1969).

In the case of motions for involuntary dismissal, the test is, as set forth in R. 4:37-2(b) and equally applicable to motions for judgment, whether "the evidence, together with the legitimate inferences therefrom, could sustain a judgment in favor" of the party opposing the motion, i.e., if, accepting as true all the evidence which supports the position of the party defending against the motion and according him the benefit of all inferences which can reasonably and legitimately be deduced therefrom, reasonable minds could differ, the motion must be denied. . . . The point is that the judicial function here is quite a mechanical one. The trial court is not concerned with the worth, nature or extent (beyond a scintilla) of the evidence, but only with its existence, viewed most favorably to the party opposing the motion. (Citations omitted)

N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14, the relevant statute in this matter, provides:

Any board of education may withhold, for inefficiency or other good cause, the employment increment, or the adjustment increment, or both, of any member in any year by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board of education. It shall be the duty of the board of education, within 10 days, to give written notice of such action, together with the reasons therefor, to the member concerned. The member may appeal from such action to the commissioner under rules prescribed by him. The commissioner shall consider such appeal and shall either affirm the action of the board of education or direct that the increment or increments be paid. . . . It shall not be mandatory upon the board of education to pay any such denied increment in any future year as an adjustment increment.

The standard for review of a local board's action pursuant to the statute is set forth in Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 296 (App. Div. 1960) wherein the court said that "the scope of the Commissioner's review is . . . not to substitute his judgment for that of those who made the evaluation but to determine whether they had a reasonable basis for their conclusions."

Pursuant to Kopera, supra, there are only two determinations to be made herein: 1) whether the underlying facts were as those who made the evaluations claimed, and 2) whether it was unreasonable for them to conclude as they did based upon those facts. The burden of proving unreasonableness is upon petitioner. Id. at 296-297.

Petitioner has acknowledged all of the relevant facts. He has also acknowledged that almost all of the itemized conclusions set forth in J-4 in evidence, respondent's articulated reasons for the increment withholding, are legitimate conclusions (he questions the meaning of “moral appropriateness”). He argues, however, that for the Board to withhold his increment because of one incident of poor judgment is too harsh. A review of the applicable legal standards quoted hereinabove in conjunction with the undisputed facts and the Board’s articulated reasons can lead only to one conclusion, however. Reasonable minds could not differ on whether permitting twelve and thirteen year old students to watch an R-rated movie during school time provides a reasonable basis for respondent’s actions. The Commissioner may not substitute his judgment for respondent’s, and therefore the motion to dismiss at the end of petitioner’s case must be granted.

For all of the foregoing reasons, it is ORDERED that the ~~petition~~ of appeal is hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this ~~initial~~ decision ~~with~~ the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for ~~consideration~~.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

 BOROUGH OF SOUTH PLAINFIELD, :

The record of this matter and ~~the initial~~ decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions essentially recast and reiterate his arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), once more contending that it is unreasonable for a board to withhold the increment of an otherwise fine teacher based on one error in judgment. Petitioner again argues that while he has no quarrel with the factual findings of the ALJ on pp. 2-7 of the initial decision, additional considerations must be noted. Specifically, he asserts that his overall performance for the five years preceding the increment withholding was exemplary. He, therefore, questions "[w]hy should such a teacher, who is obviously contributing well to the school in every area, and helping his students to learn, be penalized for one small error, showing a movie with some inappropriate language." (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 7)

In reply, the Board argues that petitioner has not and cannot cite any case law in support of his position that the withholding of an increment of a teaching staff member based on one incident of misconduct is an unreasonably harsh penalty. Rather, citing Forman v. Scotch Plains-Fanwood Regional School District, February 25, 1982 and Gallagher v. Nutley Bd. of Ed., 1984 S.L.D. 229, it urges that the Commissioner has sustained such board action.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record, including transcripts of the two ~~days~~ of hearings in this matter and the ~~video tape of the~~ movie herein ~~at issue~~, the Commissioner finds petitioner's exceptions ~~without~~ merit. As aptly noted by the ALJ, "[p]ursuant to Kopera, supra, there are ~~only two~~ determinations to be made herein: 1) whether the underlying facts ~~were~~ as those who made the evaluations claimed, and 2) whether it was unreasonable for them to ~~conclude~~ as they did based upon those facts. The burden of proving unreasonableness is upon petitioner." (Initial Decision at p. 8) The Commissioner determines that, based upon the record before him, petitioner has not met his burden of establishing that the Board's action in withholding his increment was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable and, therefore, the Commissioner will not substitute his judgment for that of the Board.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons clearly articulated therein, and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Petitioner, M.D. on behalf of her minor niece, E.L.A., appeals the April 1994 decision of the West Orange Board of Education that denied E.L.A. admission to its school district. By Order dated August 31, 1994 the Commissioner of Education granted E.L.A. immediate admittance to the respondent's school district.

Pursuant to that Order, respondent timely filed an appeal and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing on December 15, 1994.

A hearing was scheduled for April 3, 1995. At that hearing, the respondent appeared but the petitioner did not. Pursuant to my directive, respondent by certified mail sent the petitioner a letter advising her that this matter would be dismissed for failure to prosecute (Exh. A). Thereafter, on April 5, 1995 by regular and certified mail respondent again sent petitioner a proposed Order dismissing the petition with prejudice. (Exh. B)

By letter dated May 19, 1995 the undersigned advised petitioner that this matter would be dismissed with prejudice unless she contacted this office. (Exh. C) This letter was not returned to by the U.S. Post Office and therefore it is presumed that it was received.

After a review of the this matter, I FIND that petitioner failed to appear for hearing or otherwise prosecute this matter. I further FIND that petitioner has been duly notified. It is therefore Ordered that E.L.A. is no longer eligible to attend school in the respondent's school district and she shall be removed pursuant to terms of the Order attached hereto. (Exh. D) It is therefore ORDERED that this matter be and is hereby DISMISSED with prejudice.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 8th Floor West, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention Exceptions." SYNOPSIS

In 1991, petitioner contended that the Board had violated his tenure rights in failing to appoint him as Department Chairperson of Math and Natural Science. Commissioner dismissed petition as moot on February 18, 1992 since petitioner was dismissed on tenure charges on February 6, 1992. State Board reversed Commissioner's decision and remanded matter to Commissioner for further proceedings in order to provide petitioner the opportunity to demonstrate that the Board violated his tenure rights as a result of the reorganization in 1991.

On remand, citing Bednar and Capodilupo, the ALJ concluded that petitioner had greater entitlement to the position of Department Chairperson than individual assigned. Petitioner was entitled to mitigated compensation for period from July 24, 1991 through February 6, 1992.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own and ordered payment of mitigated compensation.

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH., ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On November 20, 1991, Philip O. Sheridan (Sheridan or petitioner) filed a petition with the Department of Education (DOE) seeking relief from the Board of Education of the Township of Orange (Board or respondent). The DOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on October 6, 1994 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

* On the transmittal sheet, the DOE indicated that the current matter was a remand of a prior docket involving petitioner. OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6146-93. However, a review of case records at the Office of the Administrative Law indicates that Mr. Sheridan withdrew his petition in the prior docket on February 14, 1994.

Telephone conferences were conducted throughout the proceedings. The parties agreed that the matter would be considered on the basis of stipulations of facts and documentary evidence, without the necessity of a hearing. Subsequent to further communications regarding stipulations and documentary evidence, the record was closed on May 3, 1995.

NATURE OF THE CASE

Petitioner asserts that respondent violated his tenure rights by not appointing him to a newly created position of Chairperson of the Department of Math and Natural Science. Sheridan was involved in other contested proceedings with the Board, and a summary of these will be helpful in providing the context of the current matter.

On November 13, 1990, the Board certified tenure charges against Sheridan and suspended him. At the time, petitioner was the Chairperson of the Science Department, a position he had held since 1972. While the tenure charges were pending, the Board implemented a reorganization, pursuant to which petitioner's position was eliminated. Sheridan was reassigned to a teaching position, although, as a practical matter, he remained suspended as a result of the tenure charges. The Board subsequently employed a nontenured individual as Chairperson of a newly created Department of Math and Natural Science.

On November 20, 1991, Sheridan filed a petition with the Commissioner of the DOE (Commissioner) claiming that respondent had violated his tenure rights by failing to appoint him as Chairperson of the Math and Natural Science Department. Petitioner sought reinstatement to that position, in addition to back pay and emoluments.

On February 6, 1992, the Commissioner issued a decision upholding the tenure charges and dismissing Sheridan from his tenured employment as of that date. On June 3, 1992, the State Board of Education (State Board) affirmed the Commissioner's decision.

By letter decision dated February 18, 1992, the Commissioner dismissed Sheridan's November 20, 1991 petition, concluding that the matter had been rendered moot by the Commissioner's decision of February 6, 1992. Petitioner thereafter moved for reconsideration, which motion was denied by the Commissioner on March 27, 1992. Petitioner appealed to the State Board. By decision issued September 9, 1994, the State Board held that the Commissioner had erred in dismissing Sheridan's petition.

The State Board reasoned that petitioner was under tenure at the time his position was abolished and was therefore entitled to all the rights and protections attending such status. The State Board remanded the matter to the Commissioner for further proceedings to provide Sheridan with an opportunity to demonstrate that the Board violated his tenure rights as a result of the 1991 reorganization. The State Board agreed with petitioner's argument that if his tenure rights had been violated, he would be entitled to back pay and emoluments for the period from July 24, 1991, when his position was abolished, through February 6, 1992, when he was dismissed from his employment because of the tenure charges. Philip O. Sheridan v. Board of Education of the Township of Orange, State Board of Education (Sept. 9, 1992).

The issues to be addressed in the current matter, broadly formulated, are whether respondent violated petitioner's tenure rights in failing to appoint Sheridan as Chairperson of the Math and Natural Science Department and, if so, whether petitioner is entitled to back pay and emoluments from the period from July 24, 1991 until February 6, 1992.

STIPULATIONS

The Board did not respond to repeated communications from petitioner regarding proposed stipulations drafted by Sheridan's counsel, nor to a deadline established by this judge for respondent to file any objections to proposed stipulations filed by petitioner on April 7, 1995. Consistent with prior communications to the parties, this judge therefore advised the Board's counsel, by letter dated May 3, 1995, that respondent was deemed to have agreed to the stipulations filed by petitioner, that the documents referenced and incorporated therein were deemed admitted into evidence, and that the record was closed as of May 3, 1995. Although filing positions in the various proceedings before the Commissioner and the State Board, respondent did not file a reply in the current matter to a legal argument filed on behalf of petitioner in its filing of April 7, 1995.

The parties are deemed to have stipulated to the following facts:

1. Petitioner began his employment with respondent in or about July 1972, when he was appointed to the title of Science Department Chairperson.
2. The position of Science Department Chairperson required a supervisor endorsement.
3. On or about July 24, 1991, the Board adopted a new organizational structure affecting the title of Department Chairperson.
4. As a result of the reorganization of July 24, 1991, petitioner's position of Science Department Chairperson was abolished.
5. In its place, respondent created the title of Department Chairperson for Science and Math, representing a combination of the former Department Chairperson for Science and Department Chairperson for Math positions.
6. As a result of tenure charges brought against petitioner, he was on suspension with pay from his employment with the Board commencing September 1991.
7. Effective September 11, 1991, respondent appointed Mary Mitchell (Mitchell) to the title of Department Chairperson for Mathematics and Science.
8. Mitchell had begun her employment with the Board during the 1990-91 school term as a classroom teacher of mathematics. Prior to the 1990-91 school term, Mitchell had been employed in the East Orange School District.

9. Between the period of September 11, 1991 and February 6, 1992, Mitchell served as the nontenured Department Chairperson for Mathematics and Science.
10. The endorsement required for the title of Department Chairperson for Mathematics and Science had a supervisor endorsement.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon a review of the documentary evidence, I FIND the following to be FACTS.

On July 23, 1991, the Board adopted a resolution declaring vacant all department chairperson positions at Orange High School (High School) and posting, under the new organizational structure, vacancies. The resolution noted that the High School had to undergo major restructuring to improve instruction and learning; that the new organizational structure for the High School consolidated several departments and improved the "articulation" and collaboration necessary between departments; that to effectuate restructuring, it was necessary to declare vacant all department chairperson positions, post the vacancies, and interview and hire appropriate personnel to fill the new positions; and that the restructuring at the High School could result in cost efficiencies. (Ex. P -1, p. 1). The resolution declared vacant all department chairperson positions at the High School effective July 24, 1991.

On August 27, 1991, the Board approved a resolution abolishing the then existing organizational departments for the High School, approving the restructuring of the organizational departments at the High School from eleven to seven, and approving renaming the organizational departments at the High School to the Humanities, Linguistics, Athletics, Student Services, Applied Math and Natural Science, Careers and Development, and Arts Departments and approving the reappointment of new department chairpersons no later than September 30, 1991.

Respondent posted, from July 25, 1991 through August 5, 1991, the positions of chairpersons for four departments, including Applied and Natural Science (Mathematics/Science). The effective dates of the positions were September 1, 1991, the locations were at the High School, and the salaries were contractual. Each chairperson position required a school administrator's certificate with a principal or supervisor endorsement.

On July 30, 1990, Mitchell executed an application for the position of department chairperson. She stated therein that her then current position was that of mathematics teacher and that she was certified as "PERMANENT SUPERVISOR, PRINCIPAL/SUPERVISOR," as of August 1981, and "MATHEMATICS," as of April 1973, in New Jersey. (Ex. P-4, p. 1)

On approximately August 27, 1991, the Board appointed Mitchell to the position of Chairperson for the Department of Mathematics and Natural Science, for the period from September 11, 1991 until June 30, 1992, at a pro-rated contractual salary.

DISCUSSION

The Commissioner generally has jurisdiction to hear and determine all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

The services of teaching staff members, including principals, assistant principals, vice-principals, superintendents, and assistant superintendents, as well as any other employees in positions requiring appropriate certificates issued by the Board of Examiners, shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency, and such individuals shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such staff member or other good cause. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 (Supp. 1995). Tenure attaches after employment in a district by a local board for three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose, three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year, or the equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive years. Ibid.

However, a local board of education can reduce the number of teaching staff members employed in the district whenever, in the board's judgment, it is advisable to abolish such positions for reasons of economy, because of a reduction in the number of pupils, because of a change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district, or for other good cause. Id. at § 9. Any such reduction in force (RIF) shall be made on the basis of seniority, Id. at §10, which shall be determined by the local board of education. Id. at §11.

A person dismissed as a result of a RIF shall remain on a preferred eligibility list in the order of seniority for reemployment whenever a vacancy occurs in a position for which such person is qualified. He/she shall be reemployed if and when such vacancy occurs. In determining seniority, and computing length of service for reemployment, full recognition shall be given to previous years of service. Id. at §12 (Supp. 1995). The obligation of a board of education to recall an employee from a preferred eligibility list occurs whenever a vacancy comes into existence. Seniority cannot limit a tenured employee's rights over nontenured individuals. Mueller v. Hunterdon Central Regional High School District Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (Vol. 4A) 419 (Dept. of Ed.) (Mueller).

A tenured individual has the ultimate burden when contesting an action by a board of education of demonstrating that his/her seniority rights were violated and that he/she suffered harm so as to entitle him/her to redress. James Parker and Joseph Pellegrino v. Board of Education of the Matawan-Aberdeen Regional School District, 1990 S.L.D. 1778. Tenured school board employees improperly denied reemployment are entitled to such reemployment in addition to back pay and emoluments. A person holding employment in a public system of the State who is illegally dismissed or suspended is entitled to compensation for the period covered by the illegal dismissal or suspension if such is finally determined to have been without good cause. N.J.S.A.

18A:6-30. A prevailing individual contesting local board action is entitled to appointment to an available position, back pay, and other economic emoluments of employment, including appropriate pension fund adjustments. Mueller, supra. Any actual pay that an individual subject to dismissal or suspension earns must be set off from an award of back pay. West Orange Supplemental Instructors' Assoc. v. Board of Education of the Township of West Orange, 1991 S.L.D. 1, aff'd 1991 S.L.D. 32, appeal den., State Board of Education (July 13, 1992), appeal dismissed No. A-6033-90T1 (App. Div., Oct. 1991).

It is reasonable to conclude, based on the stipulations, that Mitchell did not have tenure with respondent pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. As Sheridan argues, he had the required supervisor endorsement for the newly created position of Chairperson of the Department of Mathematics and Science, and he therefore had a greater entitlement to that position than did Mitchell. Tenure provisions should be liberally construed to further the purpose of affording security to staff who meet the required standard of length of service. Bednar v. Westwood Bd. of Educ., 221 N.J. Super. 239 (App. Div. 1987), certif. den., 110 N.J. 512 (1988). Seniority does not create employment rights for non-tenured employees and cannot justify retaining a nontenured teacher in a position within the certificate of a dismissed tenured teacher. Ibid. See also, Capodilupo v. W. Orange Tp. Ed. Bd., 218 N.J. Super. 510 (App. Div. 1987), certif. den. 109 N.J. 514 (1987).

CONCLUSIONS

I CONCLUDE that petitioner had a greater entitlement to the position of Department Chairperson of Mathematics and Natural Science than did Mitchell from the period from July 24, 1991 through February 6, 1992 and he is therefore entitled to compensation, mitigated by the salary he was paid as a teacher during the same time period, as well as related emoluments.

ORDERS

It is hereby ORDERED that Sheridan be deemed to have entitlement to the position of Chairperson of the Department of Mathematics and Natural Science from July 24, 1991 through February 6, 1992, that he be awarded compensation for that time period, mitigated by the salary he was paid as a teacher during that time period, and that he be awarded associated emoluments for the period in question.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Exceptions submitted by respondent were untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 inasmuch as the initial decision was mailed to the parties on June 22, 1995, and respondent's exceptions were filed with the Commissioner on July 14, 1995. Therefore, the exceptions were not considered.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge that petitioner had superior entitlement rights to the position of Department Chairperson of Math and Natural Science in question.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is affirmed for the reasons clearly expressed therein.

IT IS hereby ORDERED that respondent be awarded compensation, mitigated by the salary he was paid as a teacher during the same time period, as well as associated emoluments, for the time period between July 24, 1991 and February 6, 1992, his period of entitlement to the above position.

 OF THE TOWNSHIP OF LAKEWOOD, : DECISION
 OCEAN COUNTY. :

The announced results of the balloting for three (3) members of the Board of Education for full terms of three (3) years each at the annual school election held on April 18, 1995 in the School District of the Township of Lakewood were as follows:

CANDIDATE	AT POLLS	ABSENTEE	TOTAL
Thomas F. Hampton	1,209	1,929	3,138
Warren Deutsch	1,037	1,909	2,946
David Yeger	929	1,875	2,804
Evelyn Feigin	2,606	177	2,783
Robert L. Ellis	2,212	118	2,330
Warren A. Sherard	1,475	52	1,527
Lawrence J. Lazzaro	499	60	559
David Marc Drukaroff	329	23	352

Pursuant to a letter request from Evelyn Feigin dated April 22, 1995 and perfected on April 25, 1995, the Commissioner directed his representative from the Office of the Ocean County Superintendent of Schools to conduct a recount of machine ballots cast for members of the Board pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.2. The machine recount was conducted on May 9, 1995 at the Ocean County Voting Machine Warehouse in Dover Township. A request was made to Superior Court for a recount of absentee ballots pursuant to N.J.S.A. 19:57-24, the results of which were three times challenged by petitioner, with a fourth recount scheduled to be held in mid-August.

At the conclusion of the machine recount and after the third recount of absentee ballots, the tally stood as follows:

CANDIDATE	AT POLLS	ABSENTEE	TOTAL
Thomas F. Hampton	1,216	1,934	3,150
Warren Deutsch	1,037	1,913	2,950

Warren A. Sherard	1,533	52	1,585
Lawrence J. Lazzaro	499	61	560
David Marc Drukaroff	329	23	352

As indicated, although there were changes in both the machine and absentee tallies on recount, the outcome of the election remained unaltered as of the date of this report.

This concludes the report of the Commissioner's representative.

The Commissioner has reviewed the report of his authorized representative and adopts as his own the findings and conclusions therein.

Accordingly, the Commissioner finds and determines that, as originally announced and subject to the outcome of the pending absentee ballot recount pursuant to N.J.S.A. 19:57-24, Thomas F. Hampton, Warren Deutsch, and David Yeger were elected to full terms of three years each on the Board of Education of the Township of Lakewood.

The Commissioner further directs that a copy of this decision be forwarded to the Office of Administrative Law for inclusion in the record of the inquiry presently pending into the conduct of the above-captioned election.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

In consolidated matter, Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct, incompetence, insubordination and other just cause against respondent Assistant Secretary/Business Services; respondent also challenged abolishment of his position, alleging that the abolishment was tainted by the Board's perception that it was required to comply with the Fiscal Monitor's plan. Respondent further challenged the withholding of his increment for the 1992-93 school year.

ALJ found respondent was guilty of unbecoming conduct as he arranged to have no federal withholding income taxes taken from his salary payments and he gave himself a refund of prior withheld federal income tax moneys (negative withholding incidents). These actions were violations of Internal Revenue Code and State statutes and warranted removal from his position. Moreover, he failed to comply with directives of his superiors to improve his work performance, thus, constituting incompetence, neglect of duty and insubordination. For basically the same reasons as given for the tenure charges, the ALJ concluded that the withholding of respondent's 1992-93 school year salary increment was justified. ALJ found that respondent presented no proof to support his allegation that the Board's resolution abolishing his position was tainted.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision and ordered respondent removed from his position, his increment for 1992-93 withheld and the abolishment of his position affirmed.

Decided: June 15, 1995

BEFORE BEATRICE S. TYLUTKI, ALJ:

This consolidated matter concerns the tenure charges filed against Alan Morton (hereinafter referred to as the respondent) (EDU 1957-93), the withholding of Mr. Morton's 1992-93 salary increment (EDU 9331-92), and the abolishment of Mr. Morton's position with the Trenton Board of Education (EDU 10944-93).

I - PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Tenure charges were filed by the Trenton Board of Education (hereinafter referred to as the Board) with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner), on December 23, 1992, against Mr. Morton, who was employed as the assistant secretary/business services (assistant secretary). The tenure charges allege incompetency, neglect of duties, insubordination, misbehavior, official misconduct and unbecoming conduct. Robert M. Schwartz, Esq., on behalf of the respondent, filed an answer to the tenure charges on January 7, 1993. The matter was referred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on March 5, 1993, for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13 (EDU 1957-93). In transmitting the matter to the OAL, the Commissioner suggested that the tenure matter be consolidated with the case involving the withholding of Mr. Morton's 1992-93 salary increment (EDU 9331-92).

The petition objecting to the withholding of Mr. Morton's 1992-93 salary increment was filed with the Commissioner on September 23, 1992. The petition alleges that this action was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable, and the Board filed an answer denying the allegations on November 16, 1992. The matter was transmitted to the OAL on November 30, 1992, for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

I had telephone conferences with the parties regarding EDU 1957-93 and EDU 9331-92 on February 16, 1993, and May 3, 1993, and it was decided that the matters should be consolidated. I issued a consolidation order on May 7, 1993, and a prehearing order on May 10, 1993.

An evaluation of Morton dated March 20, 1989, done by Miller's predecessor, David Shafter, is annexed to the tenure charges as Exhibit "D" and is submitted herewith as Exhibit J-5. Miller's first evaluation of Morton, dated March 6, 1990 (Exhibit "E" to the tenure charges), is submitted herewith as Exhibit J-6.

11. The Negative Federal Withholding of Alan Morton on June 8, 1990, June 22, 1990, and July 20, 1990, came to the attention of the Board and the superintendent, Dr. Venable, only in October 1991 through information supplied at that time by the District's auditors to the assistant superintendent for business, Thomas Morgan, in connection with the 1990-91 audit, first verbally and then in an October 28, 1991 letter (Exhibit J-21).

12. On or about June 25, 1992, the Board voted to withhold Morton's employment and adjustment salary increments which would otherwise have become effective July 1, 1992. The reasons for the action were set forth in a letter to Morton from Thomas Morgan dated June 22, 1992, annexed to the tenure charges as Exhibit "Y" and submitted herewith as Exhibit J-34.
13. Tenure charges against Alan Morton were filed with the Board on or about November 25, 1992. Morton filed a written response on or about December 10, 1992, and on December 21, 1992, the Board voted to certify the charges to the Commissioner of Education and to suspend Morton without pay. Morton was paid through December 25, 1992, and his pay resumed, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, on or about April 26, 1993.
14. As a result of its past failures to meet State standards for provision of a thorough and efficient education, the Trenton School District is at Level II in the monitoring system established under N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-14.
15. On or about February 1, 1993, the Commissioner of Education of New Jersey appointed Edward Kent as a State external auditor to review the respondent's fiscal operations.
16. On or about April 7, 1993, the Trenton Board of Education was served with an Order to Show Cause and Verified Petition issued by the office of the Attorney General of New Jersey on behalf of Robert W. Davis, Assistant Commissioner, Division of Finance, New Jersey Department of Education, and Elena Scambio, Assistant Commissioner for Urban and Field Services, New Jersey Department of Education. A copy of the Order to Show Cause and Verified Petition is submitted herewith as Exhibit J-35.
17. The aforesaid Petition cited multiple deficiencies in the fiscal management of the Trenton School District and sought the appointment by the Commissioner of Education of a fiscal monitor “to oversee and control the fiscal operations” of the Trenton Board of Education.

18. On or about April 7, 1993, the Trenton Board of Education entered into a Stipulation of Consent to Entry of Administrative Order, in which the Board consented to the entry of an Administrative Order granting the relief sought in the Petition. A copy of the Stipulation of Consent is submitted herewith as Exhibit J-36. A copy of a Resolution adopted by the Trenton Board of Education on April 7, 1993, with respect to the appointment of a fiscal monitor is submitted herewith as Exhibit J-37.
19. On or about May 7, 1993, the Commissioner of Education issued an Administrative Order establishing the Office of Fiscal Monitor to oversee and control the respondent’s fiscal operations. A copy of the Administrative Order is submitted herewith as Exhibit J-38.
20. On or about May 7, 1993, the Commissioner of Education appointed Elizabeth DeMatteo as the fiscal monitor to oversee respondent’s fiscal operations. Ms. DeMatteo officially commenced service as fiscal monitor on or about May 10, 1993.
21. In May 1993, the Board, upon the recommendation of the fiscal monitor, retained the accounting firm of Deloitte & Touche to review the District’s business operations, to identify areas of deficiencies and to make recommendations to assist the Board and the fiscal monitor in correcting such deficiencies.
22. Morton received a Rice notice from the Trenton School District on or about May 26, 1993, advising him that the Board would be considering the abolition of his position at its May 27, 1993 meeting.
23. At a public meeting of the Board held on May 27, 1993, Fiscal Monitor DeMatteo read into the record her recommendation to abolish four business office positions:

assistant secretary/business services (Morton's position), assistant purchasing agent/operations, assistant purchasing agent/stock and inventory control, and business services assistant/payroll. The Board president requested a vote on the recommendation, whereupon the Board approved the fiscal monitor's recommendations.

24. At a meeting held on June 7, 1993, the Board adopted a resolution approving the newly created job positions of payroll supervisor, purchasing agent, senior accountant and junior accountant. A copy of the minutes of that meeting, including job descriptions for the new positions, is submitted herewith as Exhibit J-40.
25. Morton's position was abolished effective June 30, 1993, together with the other positions mentioned in paragraph 23, and that is the last date through which Morton has received compensation from the Board.

III - TENURE CHARGES

Six tenure charges were filed against Mr. Morton. I will consider these charges grouped together in two subsections, namely (A) unbecoming conduct and (B) the other charges. Each of the subsections will contain the pertinent findings of fact and conclusions of law.

A - Unbecoming Conduct

The prime basis for the tenure charges alleging misbehavior, official misconduct and unbecoming conduct is the fact that Mr. Morton arranged to have no federal withholding income taxes taken from his salary payments for June 8, June 22, July 20 and August 3, 1990, and on one occasion gave himself a refund of prior withheld federal income tax monies (negative withholding incidents) (J-18). Mr. Morton did this without seeking approval from his superior and without filing a new federal W-4 form. After the August 3, 1990 check was generated for the respondent (J-39), Isabel Miller, the then comptroller, was informed by the payroll section, and she voided the check and informed Andrew George, the then superintendent for business. Ms. Miller and Mr.

George met with the respondent, told him that he was wrong, and told him that he should not provide for negative withholdings in the future. Mr. Morton complied with this directive. Right after this meeting, the matter was reported to the Board's attorney, Thomas Summer, Esq., who checked with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). Apparently, the IRS decided that the amount of money involved, $3,002.00, did not warrant any action.

At the time of the negative withholding incidents, neither Ms. Miller nor Mr. George recommended any formal action be taken against Mr. Morton. No mention of the negative withholding incident was made in Ms. Miller's evaluation of Mr. Morton. David Shafter, the respondent's former supervisor, testified that he considered it wrong for the respondent to change the amount withheld from his checks for federal income tax purposes. He stated that negative withholdings had been done previously within the Trenton School District; however, such refunds were only given to correct prior errors as to the amount to be withheld.

Ms. Miller advised the Board's auditors about the negative withholding incidents, and the Board itself became aware of the respondent's action in October 1991, following receipt of the audit report. Mr. Morton was suspended with pay on October 30, 1991 (J-24). However, it was not until November 5, 1992, that formal tenure charges were initiated against Mr. Morton. Thereafter, the Board suspended Mr. Morton without pay on December 25, 1992, and his salary payments resumed on April 26, 1993, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14.

During the hearing, Mr. Morton claimed he did nothing wrong; however, he admitted that there was no procedure for negative withholdings and that if another employee had requested that this be done, he would have denied the request.

On behalf of the respondent, Mr. Schwartz argued that the negative withholding incidents were not misappropriations or manipulations, but rather reimbursements of excess withholdings which the respondent would have received after he filed his federal income tax return. Mr. Schwartz questioned whether the respondent's action violated the Internal Revenue Code. He argued that even if the incidents were a lapse of good judgment, they did not constitute unbecoming conduct.

On behalf of the Board, Mr. Green argued that the negative withholding incidents were improper misappropriations of trust funds and that the respondent's action is equivalent to a second degree crime of official misconduct, N.J.S.A. 2C:30-2, and/or theft by failure to make the required disposition of property, N.J.S.A. 2C:20-9. Mr. Green stated that if Mr. Morton had been convicted of violations of N.J.S.A. 2C:30-2 and/or N.J.S.A. 2C:20-9, he would have automatically forfeited his position pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2. See, Trenton Bd. of Educ. v. Hall, 1986 S.L.D. 2213; In re the Tenure Hearing of Emil J. Guasconi, 1977 S.L.D. 513.

Mr. Green stated that the Internal Revenue Code requires employers to deduct and withhold an income tax payment determined in accordance with tables and procedures prescribed in 26 U.S.C.A. §3402(a). The amount of the withholding is in part based on the number of exemptions claimed by the employee on the Form W-4, which the employer must furnish to the employee, 26 U.S.C.A. §3402(f). The appropriate method for adjusting the amount of federal tax withheld from a paycheck is to file a revised W-4 form, assuming the employee is eligible to claim a revised number of withholding allowances. Also, by law, such a withholding adjustment is prospective only and there is no provision allowing a retroactive adjustment. Mr. Green argued that because of his position, Mr. Morton should have been familiar with the federal income tax withholding requirements.

Mr. Green argued that the respondent could have filed a revised W-4 form, and that he did not do so since he found it preferable to give himself lump sum reimbursements. As a result of the negative withholding incidents, payments were made to the respondent from funds that had been earmarked for the IRS, and there was a shortfall in the amount the Board paid to the IRS. The funds earmarked for payment to the IRS have been clearly identified as funds in trust, 26 U.S.C.A. §7501(a); Slodov v. United States, 436 U.S. 238, 243, 56 L. Ed. 2d 251, 259, 98 S. Ct. 1778, ____ (1978). Mr. Green stated that the Internal Revenue Code provides for both criminal and civil penalties for the type of impropriety committed by Mr. Morton, 26 U.S.C.A. §§ 6672(a) and 7202, and the fact that the IRS elected not to pursue the matter does not mean that there was no violation of the law.

Mr. Green argued that the appropriate penalty for negative withholding incidents is removal. He noted that the Commissioner has repeatedly affirmed the importance of holding school district personnel to a high standard of honesty, In re the Tenure Hearing of Louis Cirangle, 1980 S.L.D. 82, aff'd, No. A-3967-79A (App. Div. Jan. 30, 1981), certif. denied, 87 N.J. 347 (1981), and that the Commissioner has consistently required the dismissal of staff members who have misappropriated funds for their own use, In re the Tenure Hearing of Martin Groppi, 1970 S.L.D. 159, In re the Tenure Hearing of Abraham Altschuler, 1978 S.L.D. 419, aff'd, State Bd. of Educ., 1978 S.L.D. 427. Mr. Green noted that Mr. Morton occupied a supervisory position relating to payroll and other financial matters and that his deliberate and willful violations warrant the termination of his employment. Mr. Green argued that the important element here is the improper conversion of monies for his own use and not the amount of money involved or the number of times he did it. See, In re the Tenure Hearing of Gerald DePasquale, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (Vol. 4A) 537 (Education), aff'd, No. A-4236-92 (App. Div. March 31, 1994). The courts have recognized that a single incident of unbecoming conduct, if sufficiently flagrant, can be sufficient grounds for removal. Redcay v. State Bd. of Educ., 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd, 131 N.J.L. 326 (E. & A. 1944); In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 421 (App. Div. 1967). Mr. Green argued that the respondent on four occasions willfully misappropriated trust funds, and that this action along with his failure to see that he did anything wrong clearly demonstrates his unfitness for his position.

Having considered the arguments of the parties, I agree with Mr. Green's arguments and I CONCLUDE that the respondent's negative withholding actions constituted unbecoming conduct as well as violations of the Internal Revenue Code and the State statutes, and that his action warrants removal from his position.

As part of the unbecoming conduct charges, the Board included allegations regarding late federal withholding deposits, late check deposits, and failure to make prompt adjustment entries. These allegations will be considered in the next subsection.

B - Other Charges

In this subsection I will consider the charges of incompetency, neglect of duty, and insubordination. As to these charges, the Board relies on the stipulated facts and exhibits, and the testimony of Ms. Miller and James A. Bartolomei.

As part of the stipulation of facts, as supplemented by the testimony during the hearing, it was established that Mr. Morton started to work for the Board on January 6, 1986, in the position of business services assistant/payroll (payroll supervisor) (J-1), and his immediate supervisor was Mr. Shafter, who at that time held the position of assistant secretary (J-2, J-3). When Mr. Shafter was promoted to the comptroller position (J-4), Mr. Morton served temporarily in the position of assistant secretary, while still holding the full-time position of payroll supervisor. On January 4, 1988, Mr. Morton was promoted to assistant secretary; however, he continued to have both jobs until July 25, 1988, when Ms. Miller was hired as the payroll supervisor. Mr. Morton trained Ms. Miller, and from July 25, 1988, through November 1989, Ms. Miller worked under Mr. Morton.

From January 1986 through December 1, 1989, Mr. Morton was supervised by Mr. Shafter and he performed the specific duties assigned to him by Mr. Shafter. Mr. Shafter testified that the respondent was not specifically trained for all the job responsibilities of the assistant secretary position. The respondent was evaluated by Mr. Shafter, who testified that Mr. Morton did his job very well and that in his written evaluations he rated Mr. Morton as an excellent employee (J-5).

On December 1, 1989, Ms. Miller was promoted to the position of comptroller after Mr. Shafter left to take a position with another school district. Ms. Miller became Mr. Morton's supervisor, and she admitted that the transition was awkward since she went from being his subordinate to being his supervisor. In her first written evaluation of the respondent she gave him a generally satisfactory rating. In this evaluation (J-6), Ms. Miller stated, "Alan is a very intelligent and capable employee. His work reflects a high degree of accuracy, but he needs to develop a higher regard of deadlines and organizational skills." Also in this evaluation she stated, "Alan has valuable input as to goals and improvements in the business services area. Now he needs to concentrate his efforts on his interpersonal skills to be able to communicate his expectations to staff members.” Ibid. Ms. Miller testified that in preparing Mr. Morton’s evaluation she looked at his prior evaluations (J-5), and was surprised that they were so favorable; she felt that they did not reflect his actual work performance. Rather than being completely negative in her evaluation, Ms. Miller decided to stress the two most important areas needing improvement and she gave Mr. Morton unsatisfactory ratings in those areas. Ms. Miller gave the respondent satisfactory ratings in all other areas, even though she felt that there were other areas that needed improvement and that his performance was poorer than reflected on her evaluation.

Ms. Miller stated that the respondent’s work performance did not improve even after she had numerous discussions with him. In a memorandum to the respondent dated June 26, 1990 (J-7), Ms. Miller listed the following major areas of concern regarding the respondent’s performance:

1. Refusal to supervise or work with payroll staff for whom you are responsible.
2. Attitude towards: (1) employees’ payroll and pension concerns; (2) staff members and (3) supervisor.
3. Disregard for deadlines and for planning work efficiently.
4. Manner in which personal absence days are taken.

Also by this memorandum, Ms. Miller warned Mr. Morton that if there was no improvement she would put a letter of reprimand into his personnel file. According to Ms. Miller, the respondent did not dispute that work was not being done, but insisted that he did not have enough time to do everything. In addition, Ms. Miller sent the respondent memoranda criticizing him for failing to give advance notice prior to taking a day off (J-8); criticizing his failure to perform some year-end payroll duties (J-9); and criticizing his failure to review telephone charges (J-11, J-12, J-13, P-1).

On February 11, 1991, Ms. Miller sent Mr. Morton a memorandum criticizing the fact that the last three FICA reimbursements had not yet been submitted (J-15), and memoranda noting that the respondent was late submitting status reports (J-16, J-17). Ms. Miller stated that the 1990-91 school year audit (J-21) revealed a number of payroll errors which were directly attributable to the respondent.

Both Mr. Bartolomei, the then treasurer of school monies, and Ms. Miller testified that the respondent failed to make timely adjustments to the warrant accounts (J-25, J-26, J-27). As the assistant secretary, the respondent was responsible for the warrant accounts. Mr. Bartolomei stated that he spoke to Ms. Miller about the respondent's failure to make timely adjustments, and that both of them would talk to the respondent every time there was a long delay. The importance of checking the accounts promptly was stressed by Mr. Bartolomei. According to Mr. Bartolomei, the respondent did not catch up until just before the auditors came in for the 1990-91 school year audit.

Also, Ms. Miller stated that the respondent was continuously late in depositing checks sent to the Board, which raised concerns regarding the safeguarding of the checks and loss of interest. In the summer of 1991, Mr. Bartolomei became concerned when he found a stack of undeposited checks. Mr. Bartolomei wanted the checks deposited daily, but agreed to having the deposits made bi-weekly (J-30). According to Mr. Morton, the delay was due to the fact that he was too busy and there was a need to code the checks for budget allocation before depositing them. It was suggested to the respondent that the checks could be coded after the deposits were made. Ms. Miller stated that the respondent still failed to make timely deposits, and as an example cited the fact that a check dated June 28, 1991, from the City of Trenton for $405,245 was not deposited until an inquiry was made about it around July 25, 1991 (J-19). Mr. Morton stated that the check had been misplaced and when he found out about it, the check was found and deposited.

During the hearing, Ms. Miller testified that Mr. Morton spent too much time personally doing payroll tasks which should have been performed by his subordinates, and because of this he was late fulfilling his own responsibilities and he failed to devote enough time to his supervisory duties. According to Ms. Miller, the respondent could not or would not act as a supervisor; he had a negative approach to his subordinates and seemed unable to give them orders.

In answer to these charges, Mr. Morton testified that for most of the time that Ms. Miller was his supervisor he was performing two jobs and he was having difficulty doing both jobs. A replacement for Ms. Miller for the payroll supervisor title was not hired until March 1990, and it took him several months to train the replacement, Mr. Amari. According to the respondent, Mr. Amari did not do a good job and the respondent had to personally perform many of the responsibilities of the payroll supervisor's position. Mr. Amari was terminated in October 1990. Several months later, Belinda Pinkney was hired for the payroll supervisor position and the respondent had to train her. The respondent said he felt that he was being asked to do too many things.

Ms. Miller testified that she recognized that the respondent was having problems, and she told the respondent what tasks he was to accomplish and the priority to be given to the tasks. According to Ms. Miller, the respondent continued to spend too much time on tasks that he should have delegated and not enough time on tasks that were critical to the proper administration of the office, i.e., making sure that federal withholding deposits were made on a timely basis, making sure that checks received by the Board were deposited timely, and making prompt adjustments to the Board's accounts.

In Ms. Miller's second formal evaluation of the respondent she rated his performance as basically satisfactory and indicated that there were improvements (J-31). However, according to Ms. Miller, she was still not satisfied with the respondent's performance and the evaluation did not accurately reflect her opinion of the respondent's job performance. She said that when she prepared the evaluation she knew she was leaving, and she decided it was not worthwhile to give the respondent a bad performance rating. Ms. Miller left her position as comptroller in late July 1991, to take a position with another school board.

After Ms. Miller left, Mr. Bartolomei was the acting comptroller in August and September 1991. Mr. Bartolomei stated that as comptroller he had to do a lot of the work which normally would have been performed by the person in the respondent's title. Mr. Bartolomei spoke to the respondent about his work performance and the fact that he spent too much time doing payroll work rather than delegating the work to a subordinate.

On behalf of the respondent, Mr. Schwartz argued that Ms. Miller gave the respondent two satisfactory evaluations, and in the second evaluation she stated that the respondent's performance had improved (J-31). Mr. Schwartz questioned Ms. Miller's credibility and argued that during her testimony Ms. Miller discounted the written evaluations by Mr. Shafter and herself and indicated that the respondent's performance was poor and that there had been no improvement.

Mr. Schwartz argued that the Board had not proven incompetency. The courts have recognized that in order to prove incompetency, a Board must show that the employee was not physically and/or mentally capable of performing his duties or that he was so incompetent that he was incapable of improving his performance. See, In re the Tenure Hearing of Nancy Bacon, 1978 S.L.D. 776; In re the Tenure Hearing of Blanche Sheets, 1979 S.L.D. 790, rev'd, Comm'r of Educ., 1979 S.L.D. 800, rev'd, State Bd. of Educ., 1980 S.L.D. 1536.

Mr. Schwartz argued that the Board really wanted to charge Mr. Morton with inefficiency; however, such a charge by law requires giving the employee a ninety-day period for improvement prior to filing the tenure charges, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, and Mr. Morton was not given the ninety-day period for improvement before he was suspended.

Mr. Schwartz asserted that the charges of neglect of duty and insubordination are really part of the Board's allegation of inefficiency and were included as separate charges since the Board had not given the respondent the ninety-day period for improvement. As to these charges, Mr. Schwartz argued that both Mr. George and Mr. Shafter testified that they considered the respondent's performance to be acceptable and that the respondent was never put on notice by Ms. Miller that she found his performance to be substantially unacceptable. Mr. Schwartz argued that an employee has the right to know that the employer is substantially unhappy with his or her performance prior to the initiation of tenure charges, and Ms. Miller admitted that she never expressed the extent of her dissatisfaction in either of her written evaluations of the respondent.

Mr. Green disagreed and argued that the respondent's deficiencies as shown by the testimony and exhibits clearly constitute incompetency. Mr. Green argued that case law has established that a school district can establish incompetency by showing that an employee has failed to carry out his or her job responsibilities over a period of time notwithstanding corrective action recommended by supervisors, In re the Tenure Hearing of Laura Frazier, 1980 S.L.D. 234; In re the Tenure Hearing of David Herbst, 1980 S.L.D. 930, aff'd, State Bd. of Educ., 1981

S.L.D. 1438; In re the Tenure Hearing of Inez McRae, 1977 S.L.D. 572, aff'd, State Bd. of Educ., 1977 S.L.D. 584. Mr. Green argued that the respondent was unable to perform many important job functions even after Ms. Miller had discussions with him regarding these responsibilities, and that Mr. Morton's incompetency warrants his removal.

Mr. Green further argued that the respondent's conduct also constituted neglect of duty since he did not perform the work responsibilities assigned to him, and that the respondent's overall conduct constituted insubordination since he not only did not perform his work responsibilities, he failed to comply with suggestions and directives issued to him both by Ms. Miller and Mr. Bartolomei. In support of his position, Mr. Green cited Board of Educ. of Boro of Edgewater v. Scarpignato, 1983 S.L.D. 311, aff'd as modified, State Bd. of Educ., 1983 S.L.D. 338, aff'd, App. Div., 1984 S.L.D. 2013; In re the Tenure Hearing of Joseph A. Maratea, 1966 S.L.D. 77, aff'd, State Bd. of Educ., 1966 S.L.D. 106, aff'd, App. Div., 1967 S.L.D. 351.

Having reviewed the testimony of the witnesses, I FIND the testimony of Ms. Miller and Mr. Bartolomei to be credible. It is clear from their testimony that the respondent was comfortable with his responsibilities as payroll supervisor, and was reluctant to delegate these responsibilities to subordinates so that he could fulfill the responsibilities of the assistant secretary position. Although Mr. Morton received two generally favorable evaluations from Ms. Miller, the facts show that Ms. Miller clearly conveyed to the respondent her dissatisfaction with his work performance by memoranda and oral communications.

I FIND that the respondent failed to comply with the directives given to him by Ms. Miller and Mr. Bartolomei, and that he could have completed the tasks assigned to him in a timely manner if he had correctly allocated his time. I CONCLUDE that the respondent's failure to comply with the numerous suggestions of his superiors and his failure to respond to criticisms of his work performance constitute incompetency, neglect of duty and insubordination and that removal of the respondent from his position as assistant secretary is warranted.

IV- LATCHES

Mr. Schwartz argued that the tenure charges should be dismissed on the basis of latches. All of the tenure charges are based on the respondent's conduct in 1990-91, and the Board did not file tenure charges with the Commissioner until December 1992. Mr. Schwartz acknowledged that the Board may not have been informed of the negative withholding incidents immediately following their occurrence; however, the Board knew about the incidents when it suspended the respondent on October 30, 1991, and Mr. Schwartz argued that there is no justification for the Board to have waited until the end of 1992 to file the tenure charges.

Mr. Schwartz argued that the doctrine of latches is intended to discourage the filing of stale charges, in part because of the recognition that with the passage of time there may be changes of circumstances and a stale charge could result in an injustice to the individual against whom the charge is filed. See, Clark v. Judge, 84 N.J. Super. 35 (Ch. Div. 1964), aff'd, 44 N.J. 550 (1965). According to Mr. Schwartz, Mr. Morton was prejudiced by the delay since he was out of work for a substantial period of time, thereby preventing him from showing the Board that he could perform his job in a satisfactory manner.

In response, the Board argued that the respondent has not proven that latches is applicable in this matter. Mr. Green stated that the respondent did not introduce any evidence during the hearing to show that the Board unreasonably delayed the filing of the tenure charges. Also, latches requires more than a showing of mere passage of time; it is also necessary for the respondent to show that he has been prejudiced as a result of any such delay, Fischer v. Woodbridge Bd. of Educ., 1965 S.L.D. 40; Allstate Ins. Co. v. Howard Sav. Inst., 127 N.J. Super. 479 (Ch. Div. 1974). Mr. Green noted that the only argument presented by the respondent regarding prejudice was his allegation that if he had not been suspended he would have continued to work and perhaps would have been able to show that he could adequately perform the duties of his title. Mr. Green argued that this is pure speculation, and based on the respondent's performance before his suspension, it was reasonable to infer that there would have been little or no improvement in the respondent's work performance.

Although I agree that substantial time elapsed between Mr. Morton's suspension and the filing of tenure charges, I agree with Mr. Green's argument that the respondent has failed to show any prejudice. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the defense of laches is not applicable.

V - WITHHOLDING OF SALARY INCREMENT

By letter dated June 22, 1992, Mr. Morton was informed by Thomas J. Morgan, assistant superintendent/business administration/board secretary, that a recommendation would be made to the Board to withhold his salary increment due to unsatisfactory performance. Specifically, Mr. Morgan stated that the respondent had failed to perform many important duties of his position, had failed to make timely federal payroll tax deposits resulting in assessments of penalties totaling $271,652.42, had failed to make timely deposits of checks received by the Board, had submitted an inaccurate and misleading report which was given to the Board, had failed to supervise staff, and had exhibited an uncaring and lackadaisical attitude toward his job responsibilities (J-34). On or about June 25, 1992, the Board voted to withhold the respondent's salary increment for the 1992-93 school year.

The respondent's salary increment was withheld for basically the same reasons as given for the tenure charges, and since I have concluded that the tenure charges have been sustained, I CONCLUDE that the withholding of the respondent's 1992-93 school year salary increment is also justified.

VI - ABOLISHMENT OF RESPONDENT'S POSITION

On or about May 7, 1993, the Commissioner issued an administrative order establishing the Office of Fiscal Monitor to oversee and control the Board's fiscal operations (J-35, J-36, J-37). Prior to taking this action, the Commissioner had appointed Edward Kent to audit the Board's fiscal operations and he issued a report finding a number of deficiencies.

Elizabeth DeMatteo was appointed fiscal monitor on May 7, 1993 (J-38). Mr. Kent told Ms. DeMatteo that there were numerous financial problems in the business office. Based on her own inquiries, Ms. DeMatteo concurred with Mr. Kent's evaluation of the business office, especially the need for a separate accounting section. Ms. DeMatteo determined that there was a need to reorganize the Board's business office (J-41, J-42, J-45), and, as part of this reorganization, Ms. DeMatteo recommended the abolishment of several positions, including the respondent's position. On May 27, 1993, the Board abolished the positions recommended by Ms. DeMatteo (J-43, J-44), and on June 7, 1993, the Board created the positions recommended by Ms. DeMatteo (J-40, J-44).

At the time the Board abolished the respondent's position, he was suspended with pay pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, pending the outcome of his appeal regarding the tenure charges. The respondent's position was abolished as of June 30, 1993, and his salary payments ceased as of July 1, 1993.

In support of his position that the abolishment of the respondent's position was tainted, Mr. Schwartz noted that Ms. DeMatteo took the position that she had the authority to reorganize, including the right to abolish positions (see, J-43, J-35). He argued that the administrative order creating her position (J-38) did not give her this authority and that the law clearly places that responsibility in the hands of the Board, N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-15. According to Mr. Schwartz, it is reasonable to assume that the Board also thought that Ms. DeMatteo had the authority since it adopted Ms. DeMatteo's reorganization plan on the same day that it was submitted to the Board. In support of his position, the respondent cited Dearden v. Trenton Bd. of Educ., 1990 S.L.D. 1391, aff'd, State Bd. of Educ., 1991 S.L.D. 2536. In that case, the Commissioner ordered the Board to recreate Mr. Dearden's position after the Commissioner concluded that the superintendent had recommended that the position be abolished under the mistaken impression that the mayor wanted him to abolish the position. Mr. Schwartz argued that Mr. Morton is likewise entitled to have his position recreated.

Mr. Green argued that the respondent has failed to show that the abolition of his position was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The courts have recognized that when a board has abolished a position and terminated the person holding it, such a decision is presumed correct and will not be set aside unless it is shown to be arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960); Thomas v. Morris Tp. Bd. of Educ., 89 N.J. Super. 327 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd, 46 N.J. 581 (1966); Quinlan v. North Bergen Tp. Bd. of Educ., 73 N.J. Super. 40 (App. Div. 1962). Mr. Green argued that Ms. DeMatteo's recommendations were based on her observations and business judgment and were solely a good faith effort to correct and improve the efficiency of the business office. According to Mr. Green, there was no evidence of any intent to single out the respondent's position for abolishment and no evidence that the respondent's responsibilities, en masse, were transferred to another position. Also, Mr. Green argued that there was no proof that the Board thought that Ms. DeMatteo had the right to abolish positions without Board action.

I FIND that the respondent has not presented any persuasive proof to support his position that the Board's adoption of Ms. DeMatteo's reorganization plan, including the abolishment of the respondent's position, was tainted by a perception that the Board had to comply with Ms. DeMatteo's plan. None of the members of the Board testified and the respondent's argument is based solely on the fact that the Board acted quickly to adopt Ms. DeMatteo's plan. The facts in this matter are clearly distinguishable from those in Dearden. In that case, the superintendent and members of the Board testified and based on their testimony a decision was made as to what motivated the Board's action. No such testimony was presented in this case and an equally persuasive argument can be made that the Board would not have voted on the plan if the members thought that Ms. DeMatteo had the authority to reorganize without their approval.

Also, I agree with Mr. Green's argument that there was no proof presented that there was any attempt to single out the respondent's position in the reorganization plan or that the plan was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the Board legally adopted a resolution which included the abolishment of the respondent's position.

VII - ORDER

Based on my conclusions herein stated, I ORDER that:

- (1) The respondent be removed from his position as assistant secretary based on the tenure charges filed against him;
- (2) The respondent's salary increment for the 1992-93 school year be withheld; and
- (3) The abolishment of the respondent's position be affirmed.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

until noon on Friday, July 7, 1995, for the filing of exceptions in this matter. These and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed.

Respondent Morton's exceptions essentially recast and reiterate arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). The Commissioner determines that each of these issues was fully and fairly considered and addressed by the ALJ in her initial decision and need not be herein reiterated.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record, including transcripts of the five days of hearings in this matter at OAL, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ for the reasons clearly articulated by her in the initial decision.

Accordingly, the recommended decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter. It is hereby ordered that respondent be removed from his position as Assistant Secretary based on the tenure charges proven against him; respondent's salary increment for the 1992-93 school year shall be withheld; and the Board's abolishment of respondent's position is affirmed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

RESPONDENT-APPELLANT. :

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, July 28, 1995

For the Petitioner/Respondent-Respondent, Green & Dzwilewski (Paul H.
Green, Esq. and Jacob Green, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent/Petitioner-Appellant, Lake & Schwartz (Robert M.

The decision of the Commissioner of Education is affirmed substantially for the reasons expressed therein, with the following modification regarding the tenure charges certified by the district Board. While we agree with the Commissioner's ultimate determination dismissing respondent from his tenured employment, we reject the Commissioner's conclusion that the tenure charge alleging respondent's incompetency was also demonstrated by the Board in this instance.

Respondent was appointed to the position of business services assistant/payroll in January 1986. He was promoted to the position of assistant secretary/business services in January 1988. In tenure charges certified to the Commissioner on December 21, 1992, the Board charged respondent with unbecoming conduct, neglect of duties, insubordination, official misconduct and incompetency, alleging that "[d]uring the period from at least December, 1989," respondent had demonstrated that he was incapable of performing the duties of his position.

Incompetency requires proof that the employee, regardless of assistance offered by supervisors, lacks "the ability or capacity" to perform his or her duties in an effective manner. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Renee Sokolow, decided by the Commissioner, 1982 S.L.D. 1358, 1362, aff'd by the State Board, 1983 S.L.D. 1645.

In In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Edna Booth, decided by the Commissioner, May 31, 1985, aff'd by the State Board, April 1, 1987, aff'd, Docket #A-3985-86T8 (App. Div. 1987), incompetency charges were dismissed against a tenured teacher where the deficiencies relating to the charges of incompetency in respondent's job performance were restricted to the 1982-83 and 1983-84 school years. Prior thereto, the respondent had received favorable evaluations related to her job performance. Consequently, it was concluded that the record did not demonstrate that she was so lacking in competency that the 90-day improvement period would have been a useless exercise. See also In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Frank J. Napoli, decided by the Commissioner, February 16, 1988, aff'd by the State Board, December 1, 1988, aff'd, Docket #A-2301-88T3 (App. Div. 1990); In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Millicent Smith, decided by the State Board, April 15, 1994, appeal dismissed, Docket #A-5301-93T3 (App. Div. 1995); In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of April Renee Bradley, decided by the State Board, February 6, 1991.

In view of respondent's previous service, we cannot conclude that the Board has demonstrated that he lacked the ability or capacity to be an effective employee. Respondent's performance evaluation from March 1989 rated his performance as outstanding in virtually all categories, and an evaluation from March 1990, while noting respondent's unsatisfactory performance in meeting reporting deadlines and record maintenance, praised him as a "very intelligent and capable employee" whose "work reflects a high degree of accuracy." Exhibit J-6, in evidence. Nor is there any evidence indicating the existence of some underlying condition which changed the situation by undermining respondent's abilities and rendering him incapable of effectively performing his duties.

Consequently, we find that the Board has failed to satisfy its burden of proof in demonstrating incompetency, and we dismiss that particular charge. In this regard, we stress that while the record herein may well support a charge of inefficiency, such a charge could not be sustained since respondent was not afforded the written notice and a 90-day correction period required by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. See, e.g., Booth, supra. The rationale underlying that rule is that an employee whose effectiveness is called into question after meritorious service in a school district should, in recognition of that contribution, be afforded an opportunity to demonstrate that he or she is still capable of effective performance. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Donald Rowley, decided by the State Board, 1984 S.L.D. 2006, 2007, rev'd on other grounds, Docket #A-4666-83T7 (App. Div. 1985).

However, we fully concur with the Commissioner's adoption of the Administrative Law Judge's ("ALJ") conclusion that the Board demonstrated respondent's unbecoming conduct by a preponderance of the credible evidence. Further, we find that dismissal of respondent from his tenured position is the appropriate penalty under the circumstances. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of David Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967). Like the ALJ, whose findings and conclusions were adopted by the Commissioner, we conclude that respondent's conduct in arranging, through his position as assistant secretary/business services, to have no federal withholding income taxes withheld from his salary payments on several occasions and in providing himself with a refund of prior withheld federal income tax moneys warrants his dismissal. See Initial Decision, slip op. at 12. Respondent neither sought approval for such action nor filed a new federal W-4 form.

Consequently, as modified herein, we affirm the decision of the Commissioner dismissing respondent from his tenured employment, withholding his salary increments for the 1992-93 school year and sustaining the abolishment of his position by the Board effective June 30, 1993.

Decided: June 22, 1995

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

The Middletown Township of Education filed tenure charges of inefficiency with the Commissioner of Education and against Lucy Dickson.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on August 9, 1994 for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

After notice, a conference of counsel was held by telephone. After one delay occasioned by surgery undergone by one attorney, the matter was reported resolved.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached stipulation indicating the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.
2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.
3. There is no question of moral turpitude herein.
4. The public policy of the State of New Jersey favors settlement of controversies and disputes.
5. Moneys rendered to this respondent do not exceed salary and other entitlements.
6. Nothing herein restricts the Middletown Township Board of Education from offering candid evaluations upon the request of proper persons or parties.
7. This settlement also accomplishes the withdrawal of two matters in arbitration which could keep the parties in costly litigation for some time to come. Avoidance of this is in the public interest.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY : DECISION OF ORANGE TOWNSHIP, ESSEX :
COUNTY, :

RESPONDENT-APPELLANT. :

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, February 18, 1992 (SKE # 20-92)

Decision on motion by the Commissioner of Education, March 27, 1992

Remanded by the State Board of Education, September 7, 1994

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, July 27, 1995

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Lake & Schwartz (Robert M. Schwartz, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Appellant, Ashley & Charles (Connie Bentley McGhee, Esq., of Counsel)

On August 31, 1995, the Board of Education of the City of Orange Township (hereinafter "Board") filed a notice of appeal by fax to the State Board of Education from a decision of the Commissioner of Education dated July 27, 1995 concluding that the Board had violated the petitioner's tenure rights. By letter dated September 18, 1995, the Board was notified that its appeal was deficient in that, while a faxed notice of appeal may be used for the purpose of establishing a filing date, an original notice, signed by the attorney of record, was required to open the appeal. The Board was also advised that its appeal had been due within 30 days of the decision from which it was appealing, and that this matter was being referred to our Legal Committee for consideration of the effect of its failure to file timely notice. The Board was given until September 29 to file an affidavit setting forth the circumstances of its late filing.

On October 2, the Board filed an original notice of appeal, along with an affidavit explaining its late filing. Counsel for the Board avers therein that the Board's former attorney of record in this matter, Raymond L. Hamlin, was no longer associated with the firm, and that the July 27 decision of the Commissioner had been forwarded by the postal service to his new address. She indicates that Mr. Hamlin had immediately faxed a copy of the Commissioner's decision to the firm on August 1. Counsel for the Board explains that "[g]iven that Mr. Hamlin was no longer employed by this firm and the fact that the facsimile copy was received on August 1, 1995, it was believed that we had 30 days or until August 31, 1995 to respond to the Commissioner's decision."

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28, appeals to the State Board must be taken "within 30 days after the decision appealed from is filed." (Emphasis added.) The State Board may not grant extensions to enlarge the time specified for appeal. N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.5(a). In contrast to the period for filing petitions to the Commissioner of Education, see N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2; N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15, the time limit within which an appeal must be taken to the State Board is statutory, and, given the jurisdictional nature of the statutory time limit, the State Board lacks the authority to extend it. Mount Pleasant-Blythedale Union Free School District v. New Jersey Department of Education, Docket #A-2180-89T1, slip op. at 5 (App. Div. 1990).

We conclude that the statutory filing requirement with which the Board failed to comply is of such significance that we dismiss the appeal. In Yorke v. Board of Education of the Township of Piscataway, decided by the State Board of Education, July 6, 1988, aff'd, Docket #A-5912-87T1 (App. Div. 1989), the Court upheld the dismissal of an appeal by the State Board where it found that the notice of appeal had been filed one day late by appellant's counsel, who alleged that he had misread or misunderstood the applicable regulations and believed that he had 30 days from receipt of the Commissioner's decision to file a notice of appeal. The Court added that even if the statute could be construed to permit enlargement of the time for filing an appeal, the appellant therein had failed to establish good cause.

In this case, the Commissioner's decision was rendered on July 27, 1995 and mailed to the parties on that date. Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.4, the decision appealed from was deemed filed on July 30, three days after it was mailed to the parties. Therefore, as mandated by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28, see N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.3(a); N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.4(a), as computed under N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.4(b), the Board was required to file its notice of appeal to the State Board on or before August 29, 1995. The Board's notice of appeal was dated August 31, 1995 and filed by fax on that date.

Even if N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28 can be construed to provide us with the authority to enlarge the time limit for filing an appeal, we find no substantive basis to warrant doing so in this particular instance. Notwithstanding the stated belief of the Board's current counsel that she had 30 days to file an appeal from the date of her receipt of the Commissioner's decision from Mr. Hamlin, the statute is clear and unambiguous in requiring that an appeal to the State Board must be taken within 30 days after the decision appealed from is filed. N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.4(a) provides that a decision of the Commissioner is deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties. In this instance, the Commissioner's decision was mailed on July 27 to the Board's attorney of record, who faxed a copy to his former firm on August 1.¹ The Board's current counsel also acknowledges that the firm received the original copy from Mr. Hamlin on August 2. Yet the Board failed to file its notice of appeal until August 31. Such circumstances do not excuse compliance with the statutory requirement.

Accordingly, we dismiss the appeal in this matter for failure to file notice thereof within the statutory time limit as computed under the applicable regulations.

S. David Brandt opposed.

¹ We note that a substitution of attorney was filed on October 2, 1995, after the Board filed its appeal to the State Board.

Decided: June 27, 1995

BEFORE MUMTAZ BARI-BROWN, ALJ

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson, Passaic County (District) certified tenure charges against respondent Calpernia Nixon under N.J.S.A. 18a:6-10. The specific charges are incapacity/excessive absenteeism, unbecoming conduct, and abandonment of position/insubordination.

Nixon is a tenured teacher employed by the District. By resolution adopted on October 3, 1994, the District found probable cause to certify tenure charges of conduct unbecoming a teacher, abandonment of position, excessive absenteeism/incapacity and insubordination which, if true, were sufficient to warrant Nixon's dismissal. Thereafter, the District filed written tenure charges with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner), and Nixon filed an answer denying the charges. The Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on November 3, 1994 for a determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14b-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14f -1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement of the matter, subject to the approval by the Commissioner. In accordance with the decision of the State Board of Education in Cardonick v. Brookline Board of Education, 1990 S.L.D. 842, the record of any proposed settlement must include:

[T]he nature of the charges, circumstances justifying the settlement, consent or authorization by the board of education and the teacher to the proposed agreement, the Administrative Law Judge's findings that the teacher entered into the agreement with a full understanding of his rights and that the agreement is consistent with the public interest.
Cardonick at 850-51

On June 12, 1995, the OAL held a public hearing on whether the proposed settlement was in the public interest and therefore should be accepted. Counsel for the parties set forth on the record the reasons why settlement would be in the public interest. Also, the parties submitted a written stipulation dated April 13, 1995 setting forth the terms of the agreement.

Based on my review of the record, I FIND that the proposed settlement is consistent with the public interest because it will save significant legal expenses and costs as well as time expended by administrators and witnesses. I further FIND that Nixon had full opportunity to consult with legal counsel to explain the meaning of the settlement to her prior to entering into the agreement. Nixon is aware that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6 the Commissioner may refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for any action which it may deem appropriate. Further, Nixon was informed by counsel that, notwithstanding, the parties agreement to settle this matter, the Commissioner must approve the agreement. Thus, any execution of the settlement prior to the approval by the Commissioner is done at the peril of the parties.

I CONCLUDE that the proposed settlement fully disposes of all issues and controversies. I further CONCLUDE that the terms of this settlement are in the public interest.

ORDER

It is therefore ORDERED that upon approval by the Commissioner that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that the proceedings are hereby CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

	:	SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

The State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson (hereinafter the "District"), and Calpernia Nixon, hereby enter into this Agreement to resolve the differences between them.

1. The District instituted tenure dismissal charges against the respondent in the above matter which has been transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for a plenary hearing. The respondent has filed an Answer denying the charges. This agreement shall not constitute an admission or denial of the tenure charges. The parties hereby mutually agree to settle this matter according to the terms contained herein.

2. In return for compliance with this Agreement, Ms. Nixon agrees to permanently resign from her position as a teaching staff member in the District effective June 30, 1995. The letter of resignation signed by Ms. Nixon is hereby appended to this agreement as Exhibit "A". By doing so, Ms. Nixon waives any and all rights to tenure, seniority, recall or reinstatement, as well as any of the benefits or emoluments of her employment as of that date, except her pension rights.

3. Ms. Nixon intends to file for disability retirement on July 1, 1995. The District shall process any application for retirement benefits filed by Ms. Nixon in the normal manner for such processing.

4. As of January 31, 1995, the respondent's 120 day unpaid suspension expired and she was restored to the payroll. The District will continue to pay Ms. Nixon until June 30, 1995. During this period, Ms. Nixon will be paid in the normal course as is any other teacher, and the District shall continue to provide the medical, dental and prescription coverages it now provides to Ms. Nixon pursuant to the collective bargaining agreement in effect between the District and the Paterson Education Association. However, no other benefits shall accrue to Ms. Nixon during this period, such as sick days, personal days, and bereavement days that would otherwise accrue during the life of this Agreement.

Pension contributions shall be deducted from Ms. Nixon's salary during this period in an amount equivalent to what her normal contribution would be during a period when she was receiving full salary, at the rate of her 1994-95 salary. The District makes no representation as to the amount of pension benefits, if any, Ms. Nixon shall receive. This Agreement shall in no way be contingent upon Ms. Nixon's receiving a disability pension or other retirement benefits.

5. It is understood and agreed by the parties that the Commissioner of Education may refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for review and action, if it is deemed appropriate.

6. Ms. Nixon acknowledges that she has hereby been advised in writing that she has the right to consult with an attorney or a representative of her own choosing prior to signing this Agreement and that she signs this Agreement as her own voluntary act and deed, and that she fully understands the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

7. The undersigned representatives of the District hereby acknowledge that they have been duly authorized by the District to sign this Agreement and bind the District to its terms.

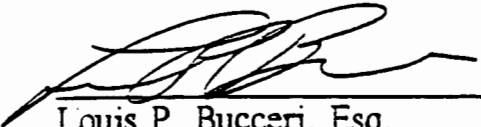

8. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties.

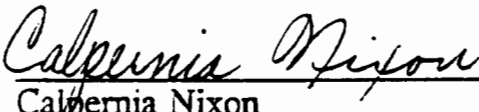

9. In the event that the District is prevented from, unable, or unwilling to fulfill the terms of this Agreement, for any reasons, Ms. Nixon resignation shall be rendered null and void and of no force or effect, regardless of whether or not it has been accepted by District resolution.

In that event, the rights of the parties shall return to the status quo prevailing prior to the signing of this Agreement. The District will not pursue tenure charges against Ms. Nixon as long as this settlement remains in effect and is not voided by any court of competent jurisdiction or agency with jurisdiction over this matter. However, if the settlement is voided, the District retains the right to file and consider for certification tenure charges against Ms. Nixon, including such charges which have previously been filed by the District against Ms. Nixon.

10. Nothing in this Agreement shall be deemed to constitute precedent, past practice or policy as to the rights of any employee, now or in the future, other than Ms. Nixon.

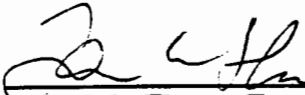

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the date and year aforesaid.

Petitioner alleged that the abolishment of his tenured position of assistant purchasing agent/stock and inventory control was arbitrary, capricious and in bad faith. Moreover, petitioner argued that the Fiscal Monitor was without authority to terminate him.

ALJ concluded that petitioner failed to demonstrate by a preponderance of relevant, credible evidence that the abolition of his position was undertaken in bad faith or was arbitrary, capricious or contrary to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. ALJ also concluded that the Commissioner's authority is sufficiently broad to encompass the appointment of a Fiscal Monitor with the power to abolish a position and terminate an employee and the Board herein expressly approved the Fiscal Monitor's plan through formal resolution. Board's determination to abolish petitioner's position was sustained.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision with modification. Commissioner found given that petitioner's position was abolished pursuant to Board resolution, it was not necessary to pass judgment on the ALJ's discussion regarding the Fiscal Monitor's authority. Petition was dismissed.

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This is an appeal by the petitioner, Harry Dearden, which was initiated by the filing of a petition of appeal before the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) on August 16, 1993. Mr. Dearden alleges that the abolition of his tenured position, assistant purchasing agent/stock and inventory control, which was effected pursuant to resolution of the Trenton Board of Education ("Trenton" or "Board") passed on May 27, 1993, and terminating him effective June 30, 1993 was unlawful and in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 and N.J.S.A. 38:16-3 of the Veteran's Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 38:16-1 -16.6. More specifically it is the petitioner's position that the abolition of this position was effected by respondent arbitrarily, capriciously and in bad faith.

On September 7, 1993, Trenton filed its answer to the petition essentially denying that the action undertaken by Trenton directly or indirectly, was improper or contravened any of the applicable statutory or decisional law upon which the petitioner relies.

Thereafter, on September 14, 1993, the Commissioner transmitted the appeal to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13. On November 15, 1993, Mr. Dearden filed an amended petition with the Office of Administrative Law which essentially addresses purported procedural irregularities undertaken by the Board pursuant to the provisions of the Veteran's Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 38:16-1-16-6. On January 13, 1994, the Board submitted its amended answer addressing the assertions contained in the supplementary petition. Following numerous prehearing conferences directed to issues of discovery, potential settlement, and an articulation of the issues, the matter proceeded to hearing on June 2, October 18 and October 19, 1994 at the Office of Administrative Law, Mercerville, New Jersey. Following the June 2, 1994 proceedings the matter was scheduled to continue in mid-July; however, because of witness unavailability the matter was required to be rescheduled on the October dates.

At the conclusion of the testimonial phase of these proceedings counsel requested the opportunity to submit post-hearing argument and also requested that these be made after transcripts were ordered and received by the parties. That request was granted. Thereafter, on April 3 and April 4 respectively, Trenton and Mr. Dearden submitted their post-hearing arguments. After several requests for delays the parties submitted, at their request, reply briefs, which were concurrently received by my office on May 2, 1995.

After preliminary reviewing the moving papers thus far received, I noted that Mr. Sumners had not addressed the issue raised by Mr. Schwartz in respect to a potential violation of petitioner's rights under the Veteran's Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 38:16-1-16-6. As a consequence, on May 10, 1995, I telephoned Mr. Sumners's office and brought this omission to his attention. He thereafter telephoned my office, indicating that he would like to supplement his brief. I advised that he would be able to do so with the consent of Mr. Schwartz. On the following day I received a fax from Mr. Sumners, pursuant to my request, indicating that Mr. Schwartz had consented to the additional submission, reserving the opportunity to submit a reply if appropriate. Thereafter, on May 15, 1995 I received Mr. Sumners's supplemental brief on the issue of the alleged violation under the Veteran's Tenure Act. On May 26th, Mr. Schwartz submitted his rebuttal argument. The record accordingly closed on the latter date, May 26, 1995.

ISSUES AND BURDEN OF PROOF

The fundamental issue to be addressed in these proceedings is whether the abolition of Mr. Dearden's tenured position with respondent, assistant purchasing agent/stock and inventory control, which was effected by Board resolution enacted by Trenton on May 27, 1993, comported with the requirements set forth at N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, and N.J.S.A. 38:16-3 of the Veteran's Tenure Act. In respect to this issue the burden rests exclusively with the petitioner: Mr. Dearden must demonstrate by a preponderance of the relevant credible evidence that the abolition of his position was in contravention of law. More specifically he must demonstrate that the action undertaken by Trenton, which was in conjunction with the appointment of and actions taken by the State Fiscal Monitor, was authorized under statute. As a corollary proposition petitioner must also establish that the abolition of his position was arbitrary and capricious and not undertaken for reasons of economy, efficiency, or for other good cause and that it contravened the relevant provisions of the Veteran's Tenure Act.

As a further corollary, subsidiary issue, Mr. Schwartz argues that the Fiscal Monitor was without authority to recommend to the Trenton Board of Education that Mr. Dearden's position be abolished.

THE FACTS

Unless otherwise noted, the following is a substantially uncontradicted narrative of the operative facts in this matter. Where a factual dispute does present itself, I shall set forth its adversarial basis, and arrive at an explicit finding of fact, given reasons to support it. I FIND:

The petitioner, Harry Dearden, was employed with respondent Board since January 1979. He began his employment in the position, assistant to the assistant secretary/purchasing agent. In that capacity, Mr. Dearden's primary responsibilities concerned the submission of bids by outside contractors for services and/or property to be purchased by the Board. Once the bids were submitted Dearden would see to it that the contracts were awarded to the lowest bidder with the best quality product and oversee the administration and execution of these contracts in the purchasing office. In addition, while serving in this position Dearden indicated that he would purchase various items over the telephone on an as-needed basis and assist the purchasing agent in carrying out the latter's responsibilities.

In the period 1985-86 there was a reorganization of Dearden's department and as a consequence his title was changed to his current title, assistant purchasing agent/stock and inventory control. With the change in title, it was Dearden's testimony that his duties and responsibilities changed as well. He was responsible for stock and inventory supplies and equipment that took on greater value, such as computers, copiers, movie projectors. He was also responsible for receiving the equipment ordered, "tagging" it and making a data entry into a computer to maintain an ongoing inventory of the equipment owned by the Board. Throughout the period of his tenure in both titles, it was Dearden's recollection that professional staff in his department remained at three - the purchasing agent, and two assistants.

On two previous occasions, the Board attempted to abolish Mr. Dearden's position. The first occasion resulted in action taken in July of 1981, which resulted in an out-of-court settlement and his reinstatement. He apparently had been out of work for approximately six months, and he was reinstated to the position of assistant to the assistant secretary, purchases and supplies.

In July 1989, his position of assistant purchasing agent/stock and inventory control was abolished by the Board. Following adjudication before the Commissioner of Education a decision was rendered in or about October 1, 1990 which reinstated Mr. Dearden to his position.

Upon his return to employment and through to his termination, Dearden's job responsibilities remained the same. They are set forth in exhibit P-1, which is a job description for the position assistant purchasing agent/stock and inventory control. As noted in P-1, the major function of the position is to adequately maintain inventory and records of all district assets and to assist the secretary/purchasing agent in purchasing operations as is necessary and required. The other assistant purchasing agent during the relevant time period prior to the abolition of Dearden's position, was assistant purchasing agent/operations and it was occupied by Alfred Misiakowski. Dearden testified that his responsibilities were carried out in the warehouse where he supervised and ran the receiving, distribution, and ordering of stock and tagging equipment from that facility. The position occupied by Mr. Misiakowski, assistant purchasing agent/operations was run from the main building complex in the office and as Mr. Dearden summarized it the former was responsible for processing the purchase orders that were made by the Board.

For several months preceding and up to the abolition of his position, Dearden was out on sick leave. While there was some question in respect to providing proper medical documentation for that leave, there was no evidence to suggest that the leave, in any way effected the decision by the Board to abolish his position. Following the Board decision and resolution to abolish the position occupied by Mr. Dearden on May 27, 1993, which made the abolition effective on June 30, 1993, Mr. Misiakowski filled the new position of purchasing agent.

Dr. Bernice Venable has been the Superintendent of Schools for the Trenton Board of Education since 1991. She previously served in the same capacity for the Irvington, New Jersey school district and has had an extensive career as an administrator, educator and teacher. Dr. Venable testified in respect to the abolition of Mr. Dearden's position and related matters.

She indicated that for some time she was concerned with the operations of the business office and believed that reorganization was required. It was her intention to privatize the purchasing and warehousing aspects of the office; however, because of the subsequent intervention of the Commissioner of Education into the Board's operations, Dr. Venable's plan was never effectuated. On May 7, 1993, the Commissioner of Education issued an administrative order designating Elizabeth De Matteo as Fiscal Monitor for the school district. The order (P-2)(b) confers upon the Office of Fiscal Monitor the responsibility to "oversee and control the fiscal operations of respondent, Board of Education of the City of Trenton." Among the powers conferred upon the Fiscal Monitor in effectuating her mandate was the authority to compel the Board and its various agents and representatives to make budgetary changes as deemed necessary; to order the modification, development, and implementation of any changes in the procedures and operations of the fiscal affairs of the district which she deemed necessary to create an efficient fiscal administration and record keeping system; to order the appointment and reassignment of permanent and temporary personnel in order to assist in the modification, development, and implementation of an efficient administration; to contract with or engage outside auditors or accountants to assist her in her mandates; to order the appointment or reassignment of Board employees under the supervision of either the Board secretary or the business administrator. The Fiscal Monitor was also conferred with the authority to terminate any Board employee under the supervision of the Board secretary or business administrator even absent approval of the Board but pursuant to all appropriate contractual or statutory procedures. There are numerous other broad plenary powers conferred upon the Fiscal Monitor which are set forth in the administrative order and which are incorporated by reference into this opinion. They may be found at exhibit (P-2)(b).

Once the Fiscal Monitor was appointed and commenced to execute upon her responsibilities, Dr. Venable and Ms. DeMatteo conducted discussions in respect to the district offices operations. One of the first actions undertaken by Ms. De Matteo was to terminate the assistant superintendent in charge of business. Thereafter, in or about January 1993, a state external auditor was brought into the district to run the business department.

Superintendent Venable testified that prior to the Fiscal Monitor coming on board it was the former's understanding that there would be a full-scale reorganization of the business department. Dr. Venable discussed this with the monitor and discussed her own proposal for the business office reorganization and her view that privatization would be the appropriate direction to go, especially in respect to the purchasing and warehousing operations of the office. Thus, essentially the ultimate decision to reorganize the business office, the manner in which such reorganization would take place and the decision to abolish Mr. Dearden's position was the Fiscal Monitor's, Ms. De Matteo.

Ms. De Matteo began serving as Fiscal Monitor in Trenton on March 10, 1993. She has had extensive experience in school business administration and in the reorganization of business offices in other New Jersey school districts. Her tenure in Trenton was full-time for the first six months on the job and then part-time for the remaining six months of a one year term.

When she first commenced fulfilling her responsibilities, the Fiscal Monitor met with a variety of high level officials of the business administration staff, including the assistant purchasing agent/operations, the director of buildings and grounds, the director of computer services, the controller, and various other key members within the district. She also reviewed the audit done of the Trenton Board of Education, an external review team report, the Board's corrective action plan and educational improvement plan and various other policies governing the operation of the business affairs of respondent.

The Fiscal Monitor focused her efforts on restructuring of the business office, following various staff meetings and further assessment of the fiscal circumstances within the district and within the business office itself. It was after this extensive review that Ms. De Matteo formulated the reorganization scheme which was summarized in a memorandum issued to the Board and to the Superintendent dated May 27, 1993.

Ms. De Matteo recommended the entire reorganization of the business office. She concluded that Trenton needed additional accountants. It was her assessment that after reviewing the way in which the business office and the district in general operated, one accountant could not reasonably determine whether the district had a deficit and/or what its cash flow was. She concluded that there were no accurate records maintained. Consequently she determined to hire two full-time accountants but to do so without the District having to incur any additional costs.

In respect to the particulars of the case at bar, Ms. De Matteo's plan was memorialized in a memorandum dated May 27, 1993, which was introduced into evidence in this matter as petitioner's exhibit 5. The Fiscal Monitor addressed the Trenton Board and Dr. Venable and indicated that a plan for the reorganization of the business office called for eliminating four positions and replacing them with two new positions in the areas of purchasing and payroll. She also indicated that "there are two levels of management plus an additional position of non-management status which can be eliminated." (P-5). In addition Ms. De Matteo determined that there would be a realignment of job responsibilities which would be initiated with the creation of the two new positions and that the two new accountant positions referred to earlier would be created to complement fiscal operations. The two new accountant positions would be responsible to the comptroller relative to the accounting of all funds under "GAAP." Dr. Venable indicated that when she learned of the particulars of Ms. De Matteo's plan she fully supported them in that she shared the latter's concern about the lack of soundness of the purchasing department's organizational structure.

In respect to the reduction of four positions, Ms. De Matteo determined to consolidate positions in the purchasing and payroll departments of the business office. She did this notwithstanding that the various reports which she had read concerning the operations of the district's business office did not directly touch upon the purchasing department. Her past experience as a business administrator taught her that consolidation within the purchasing department was reasonable and appropriate given the circumstances of the fiscal problems she perceived in Trenton. She indicated that based upon her experience she concluded that in the interest of efficiency and expeditiousness the purchasing department within a school district should be run by one, not by two individuals.

When the Fiscal Monitor came on board, as will be recalled, the purchasing department in Trenton was run by the assistant purchasing agent/stock and inventory control - Mr. Dearden's position, and the assistant purchasing agent/operations. Ms. De Matteo also concluded that the two accounting positions which she created would be designated as senior and junior accountant, respectively. She also recommended the abolition of the position, assistant secretary - business services and business services assistant/payroll. As an incident to the abolition of these positions, Ms. De Matteo recommended the creation of the positions, purchasing agent and payroll supervisor. Ms. De Matteo's determination to abolish Mr. Dearden's title, she noted in her testimony, was arrived at when she was fully familiar with his title, job responsibilities and the physical location out of which he executed those responsibilities. Ms. De Matteo also, prior to her issuing her May 27, 1993 memo, and prior to finalizing her determination in respect to reorganization, issued a memorandum on May 17, 1993 (R-1), also to the Board and to Superintendent Venable, expressing her concern in respect to the accountability of funds running through the district and what she perceived to be deficiencies in the accounting function within the district. The memorandum includes Ms. De Matteo's recommendation to create two accounting positions in an effort to resolve the fiscal concerns that she saw and expressed. The Fiscal Monitor's recommendation and decision to abolish Mr. Dearden's position and her entire reorganizational plan were approved by the Board of Education, by the Assistant Commissioner of Education and the County Superintendent of Schools for Mercer County.

As a result of the implementation of her plan, the Fiscal Monitor created the position of Purchasing Agent to assume the responsibilities of both Mr. Dearden's former position of Assistant Purchasing Agent/Stock and Inventory Control and the position Assistant Purchasing Agent/Operations. It should be noted as well that eventually the position of Purchasing Agent was filled by the individual who had previously served as Assistant Purchasing Agent/Operations, Mr. Alfred Misiakowski. Mr. Dearden did not apply for the position of Purchasing Agent so, as Ms. De Matteo testified, he was never a part of the interviewing or screening process. Further, as part of the consolidation of the two assistant purchasing agent positions, some ministerial duties were delegated outside of that new title to warehouse staff personnel.

As indicated earlier in this decision, Mr. Dearden had been on medical leave at the time the Fiscal Monitor made her decision in respect to reorganization. Thus he was not working at the time. Ms. De Matteo testified that her decision to abolish the petitioner's position was not in anyway based upon the fact that he was out on medical leave at the time that the decision was made. I accept this representation as fact and since it was in no way undercut by petitioner's case. In addition, Ms. De Matteo testified that her determination to reorganize the business office and, as part of it, to abolish Dearden's position was not related in any fashion to the petitioner's competence on the job; indeed, she indicated that she was ignorant of his competency and the quality of performance when she made the decision to consolidate the positions.

By letter of May 25, 1993, addressed to him by the Assistant Superintendent of the district, Mr. Dearden was advised that at its meeting of May 27, 1993, the Trenton Board of Education would take under advisement the recommendation that his position be abolished effective June 30, 1993. Once Dearden received this letter he apparently barged into the Fiscal Monitor's office where an angry confrontation ensued in the presence of Superintendent Venable. Ms. De Matteo testified that this confrontation had no bearing whatever in respect to her recommendation to abolish the position he occupied. I also accept this representation as true. Lastly, in respect to the previous and unsuccessful efforts undertaken by Trenton to abolish Mr. Dearden's position, which eventually resulted in his reinstatement, Ms. De Matteo testified that she was not even aware of these undertakings prior to her decision to reorganize the business office and to abolish Dearden's title. I accept this representation by Ms. De Matteo as well.

Mr. Dearden's position was officially abolished at a meeting conducted by the Board of Education on May 27, 1993. Effective June 30, 1993, the position Assistant Purchasing Agent, Stock and Inventory Control was no more. Dearden was formally advised of this action by a letter addressed to him by Superintendent Venable, dated June 1, 1993 (P-8). In addition to her determination to abolish Dearden's position, the Fiscal Monitor also recommended the abolition of an assistant secretary position at the time that the person occupying that position had already been suspended. Another position was also abolished which at the time was occupied by an employee who was terminated for cause.

In respect to the consequence on the District of Mr. Dearden's position, the Fiscal Monitor indicated that her primary concern in respect to restructuring the business office was not to save money. She indicated that essentially the determination to create one position, purchasing agent, paying the stock clerks some additional money for the additional obligations that they had as a result of restructuring, and hiring two accountants may have resulted in a small savings to the district but essentially, to use the Fiscal Monitor's phrase, the financial consequence on the district was "a wash." She did indicate, however, that the cost of employing two accountants was less than the cost of employing two assistant purchasing agents. The purpose behind the decision to abolish the positions was, as the Fiscal Monitor emphasized, to reorganize the district and bring it greater fiscal integrity in respect to the management and accountability of its operations.

Reinforcing, in my judgment, the philosophy adopted by the Fiscal Monitor in respect to her reorganization of the Board's fiscal operations was the testimony of Mr. Edward Kent. Mr. Kent, who is currently a liaison between the Commissioner of Education and the 27 local school districts within Middlesex County in respect to seeing the finances of these districts, served for some 15 months, beginning on February 1, 1993, as the State's external auditor of the Trenton Board of Education. His mandate was to facilitate and remediate the fiscal problems experienced within the district. Mr. Kent is a certified business administrator and has been employed by the State in that and related capacities for approximately 23 years. In late April 1993, he assumed the position of Acting Board Secretary for Trenton but concomitantly continued on as the State auditor. Since Kent was in the district before Ms. De Matteo assumed the position of Fiscal Monitor he provided input to her in respect to her formulation of a reorganization plan; once that plan was formulated by the Fiscal Monitor she also sought out Mr. Kent's assessment. Kent reviewed it and determined that the plan was a good one.

Mr. Kent addressed himself to Ms. De Matteo's determination to create an accounting department within the District comprised of a senior and junior accountant. He indicated that he fully agreed with the Fiscal Monitor's proposal in this regard. He believed that Trenton needed an accounting department, that the district "needed to get someone in there to do the work that was not being done." He also agreed with the manner of funding of the two accounting positions: the abolishment of the four positions previously described in this opinion and the creation of the new additional positions, purchasing agent, payroll supervisor, and junior and senior accountants.

Mr. Kent embellished in his testimony his understanding of the reorganization, particularly as it related to Mr. Dearden's position. Kent was familiar with the job responsibilities of both assistant purchasing agents, Mr. Dearden and Mr. Misiakowski respectively. Kent recalled that when he returned to the district as the State's external auditor and at the time the Fiscal Monitor arrived, Dearden was on sick leave and that while Dearden was out the responsibilities which he had in respect to tagging and inventorying various items in the warehouse were being carried out by warehouse staff. This responsibility, Kent recollected, did not require utilization of warehouse staff more than once or twice monthly, for which they received $50 in overtime pay per day. Two warehouse personnel were involved in the inventorying process. Kent also recalls visiting the warehouse where Dearden was employed while the petitioner was on sick leave and entering his office. Kent's recollection was that there was no unattended work on his desk and that indeed Kent saw nothing any where that seemed to require action. He saw nothing "other than dust on the desk." Kent testified that following Dearden's position being abolished, he returned to the warehouse and again found nothing on his desk that was unattended. He indicated that he went to the warehouse at least once a month following the abolition of Mr. Dearden's position.

Assistant Superintendent for Business Administration/Human Resources, Ann Murphy testified in respect to the district's obvious needs for an accounting department. Ms. Murphy has been employed by the Board since November 1993, several months after Mr. Dearden's position had been abolished and the Fiscal Monitor's reorganization of the Business Office became effective. She commenced her employment as controller in which position she served until March 1994 when she commenced employment in her current title. Prior to that she had served in the capacity of school treasurer for approximately six years in various other school districts. She holds a B.A. degree in accounting and a M.B.A. degree.

Ms. Murphy focused in on the needs of the district in light of the implementation of an early retirement program which involved a significant number of district employees. She indicated that with more sophisticated computer financial technology coming into the district and the generation of more sophisticated reports, personnel responsible for the various fiscal operations of the district would have to be more technologically oriented and trained. An accountant position was created specifically to analyze account codes and to review the procedure for monitoring various accountants. Murphy testified that before accountants were in place, problems persisted in respect to the review of financial reports. The position, senior accountant purchasing, was based upon the job description of the other senior accountant positions in the district.

As was noted previously, once the purchasing agent position was created as an incident to the abolition of the two assistant purchasing agents positions, Mr. Alfred Misiakowski applied for and was accepted in that title. Misiakowski had been an assistant purchasing agent in Trenton for more than 27 years. Once he assumed the position, purchasing agent, Mr. Misiakowski testified, he assumed most of Mr. Dearden's duties; as was noted previously, however, tagging of various inventory equipment in the warehouse was done by two warehouse personnel. In respect to Board equipment which had value in excess of $500, an independent appraiser was brought in to inventory and tag this property. It was also Mr. Misiakowski's opinion that when both assistant purchasing agent positions were abolished, the only back-up of work was in the area of data entry and that there was no negative effect at all on the purchasing department. Mr. Misiakowski de facto performed the responsibilities of purchasing agent through the fall of 1994 when the position itself was formerly vacant and he was nominally still performing the responsibilities of assistant purchasing agent for stock and inventory control. Mr. Misiakowski also performed all of the responsibilities of purchasing agent during the course of time that the petitioner was out on sick leave. Mr. Misiakowski retired from employment with the Board on July 1, 1994, having himself taken advantage of the early retirement program about which Ms. Murphy testified.

Petitioner seeks factual support for the position that the decision to abolish his position was arbitrary and capricious by contended that the result of the reorganization was actually to increase the Board's costs of running its fiscal operations. He seeks to demonstrate this by citing to the testimony of Superintendent Venable in respect to $90,000 expended by the Board in seeking the services of an outside consultant, EdData. EdData performed the functions of the purchasing department which was related to the Superintendent's proposal, which was never presented to the Board for its approval, to privatize that department. Factually therefore, the expenditure of $90,000 for the privatization of the purchasing department through EdData was unrelated to the Fiscal Monitor's plan, which was eventually adopted and implemented by the Board, to reorganize the business office, and as part of that reorganization to abolish Mr. Dearden's position.

Mr. Dearden also seeks factual support for his position by citing to the responsibilities of Mr. Bendel, in his capacity as storekeeper. The suggestion is that when Bendel performed some of Dearden's job responsibilities additional costs were again incurred by the Board. The factual record in this matter indicated that Bendel, had been employed by the Board for more than a quarter of a century and while he did perform some of Dearden's responsibilities during the 1993-94 school year, there was no indication that he received extra compensation for that. As was previously noted several clerks in the warehouse did perform certain tagging of inventory - part of Dearden's responsibilities - perhaps once or twice monthly for which they were paid an additional

$50 per day for that work. It was also the testimony of Mr. Kent that Bendel did not receive additional compensation as a consequence of the abolition of Mr. Dearden's position.

Tangentially, petitioner also asserts that because Bendel apparently was the brother-in-law of the external auditor, Mr. Kent, he somehow benefited from the Fiscal Monitor's reorganization. The evidence does not support that assertion.

Mr. Dearden also contends that following Mr. Misiakowski's announced retirement as of July 1, 1994, respondent Board created the position of Senior Accountant in charge of the Purchasing Department. The position required, among other qualifications, that the person occupying it hold a degree in accounting. It was the Business Administrator, Ms. Ann Murphy, who recommended the creation of the senior accounting position which title was purchasing agent and senior accountant, and it was also Ms. Murphy who rejected Mr. Dearden's application for that position because he did not hold an accounting degree. The argument offered by Mr. Dearden is that because Mr. Robert Lawrence, the Director of Information Systems, did not possess an accounting degree and because he performed some of the duties for the purchasing agent position from early July to mid-September 1994, the decision to deny Dearden even an interview for the senior accounting purchasing position factually is demonstrative of capricious and arbitrary action against him.

While it may be true that Lawrence did not possess an accounting degree (the evidence was unclear as to what degrees, if any, Mr. Lawrence possessed) the comparison between Lawrence's status and Dearden's is inapposite. Lawrence testified unequivocally that for the short period that he occupied the position at issue, he did no financial record-keeping of any kind; rather, analysis of financial records was a major component of the senior accountant position which was created by Ms. Murphy. In addition, it was Lawrence's testimony that the performance of the responsibilities about which Dearden alludes took place over three days a week for only two months and in most instances, if not all, no accounting background was necessary. Thus, there is no factual basis for comparison of Lawrence's position and his credentials and the Board's decision not to accept Dearden for the position of senior accountant/purchasing agent given that he lacked any accounting degree. It should also be noted that once the purchasing agent position was abolished after Mr. Misiakowski's retirement, all of the responsibilities were then incorporated into the Board' secretary job duties. When the Board's secretary position was filled, Mr. Lawrence discontinued performing any purchasing duties.

ANALYSIS

The Board does not dispute Mr. Dearden's position that he acquired tenure, both under the education law, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-1 et seq., as well as under the Veteran's Tenure Statute, N.J.S.A. 38:16-1-1 , N.J.S.A. 38:16-6. Petitioner argues that the abolition of his position was in violation of law in that it was arbitrary, capricious and did not result in any cost savings to the Trenton Board of Education.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 a board of education may reduce the number of its employees if it can be demonstrated that in its judgment it is "advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the District or for good cause" See Klinger v. Board of Education of Cranbury Township, 190 N.J. Super. 354 (App. Div. 1982), cert. denied 93 N.J. 277 (1982); In re Maywood Board of Education, 168 N.J. Super. 45, 51-52 (App. Div. 1979). The courts, as Mr. Sumners notes in his post-hearing brief, have also acknowledged a presumption of correctness and propriety of the action of a local board in respect to decisions reducing staff. Thus, in order for an aggrieved party to prevail where there has been a reduction in force, it is necessary that he or she demonstrate that the decision is clearly improper, arbitrary and capricious and he will be generally not prevail in situations where there exists any reasonable justification for the reduction of force absent such proof of bad faith. See Klig v. Board of Education of the Borough of Palisades Park, Bergen County, 1975 S.L.D. 168, 173-174. In re Maywood Board of Education, Supra.

In the current matter, in my view, no demonstrable proof has been elicited from Mr. Dearden, upon whom the burden rests, to demonstrate that the actions of either the Fiscal Monitor, the Superintendent of Schools, or the Trenton Board of Education, the latter of which relied upon the recommendations of the Fiscal Monitor, in respect to the abolition of Mr.

Dearden's position, was anything but reasonable, couched in expertise and ostensibly directed towards making the purchasing department and the fiscal operations of the district efficient and sound. Notwithstanding that Mr. Dearden in fact called as his witnesses in this matter, key members of the Trenton School district, including its Superintendent and including the Fiscal Monitor herself, it was clear that these witnesses provided proof that the decision by the Board to abolish Mr. Dearden's position was based on good cause and, contrary to his assertion, prompted by a legitimate bona fide efforts to reorganize the district and place it on sound financial footing.

Most prominent in terms of proofs offered by the district in respect to the legitimacy of abolishing Mr. Dearden's position and the lack of any bad faith or arbitrariness underlying it was the presence, expertise, and authority of the Fiscal Monitor. Elizabeth De Matteo was selected to serve as Fiscal Monitor in Trenton by the Commissioner of Education because palpable deficiencies in the fiscal operations of the school system were perceived and remedies were required which presumably were not available through the "business as usual" approach that had been taken over the most recent past. The Commissioner selected Ms. De Matteo because of her extensive experience in reorganizing business offices and fiscal operations in a variety of other school districts in New Jersey. Her mandate was sweeping, but at the same time she was accountable to the Assistant Commissioner of Education as well as the Mercer County Superintendent of Schools in respect to the actions that she sought to undertake. I set forth in the factual narrative of this decision the broad plenary powers which the Fiscal Monitor had as well as the various dialogues with which she engaged before she formulated her plan to reorganize the business office. She also relied upon the input of Mr. Edward Kent, the State appointed external auditor who preceded her in the district by several months and reflected upon all the information that she received before formulating her reorganization plan.

Given what she saw as a fiscally unstable environment within the district which lacked professional accountability, it was Ms. De Matteo's primary objective to remedy this problem by creating two accounting positions, senior and junior accountant. In order to maintain fiscal stability within the district and not to overly burden it by increasing its overall costs, she determined to eliminate what she perceived as redundancy in the purchasing department. By consolidating the two assistant purchasing agents positions and merging their responsibilities into one position with various ministerial duties being distributed among lower ranking personnel, Ms. De Matteo concluded that the Board would be relieved of any significant increase in costs by hiring two accountants and at the same time, based upon her experience in other districts, believed that the purchasing department would run more efficiently rather than less by placing all of the major responsibilities under the umbrella of one purchasing agent.

In addition to abolishing the positions of the two assistant purchasing agents, she also recommended the abolition of the position of assistant secretary/business services and business services assistant/payroll. The plan as proposed was formally approved by the Trenton Board of Education and also had the full support of the Assistant Commissioner of Education, the Mercer County Superintendent of Schools, the Superintendent of the Trenton Board of Education, and the State External Auditor. The result, in theory at least, is that the presence of two accountants in the district with appropriate expertise, should make the system more responsible.

In addition, the reorganization of the purchasing department should also in theory, based upon Ms. De Matteo's expertise and prior experience, make it more efficient. This latter conclusion was reinforced by the testimony of Mr. Misiakowski, who indicated that there was no negative or adverse effect on the operations of the department once the two assistant purchasing agent positions were abolished and managerial control was centralized in one purchasing agent. What is significant is not what the ultimate results of the reorganization will have in the district - a result which will and can only be measured by the passage of time - but rather whether the formulation and implementation of the reorganization plan was grounded in reasonableness and good faith. Clearly, and ostensibly it was.

Contrary to the suggestion of the petitioner even if the consequence of the reorganization plan was not to save the Board significant sums of money, that is not relevant to the propriety of plan. If the reorganization and the concomitant abolition of his position or other positions is done for reasons of efficiency, then even if the consequence is not to directly save the school district money, that does not mean that the decision is arbitrary. While there was some questions as to whether any loss was incurred by the district as a result the reorganization, it is my view of the facts that, to paraphrase Ms. De Matteo, the result of the reorganization was a "financial wash." In the long run however the Fiscal Monitor's plan is designed to make the Trenton School District more fiscally sound and responsible. Clearly, if that is an objective which will be achieved, then in the long term indeed the district will have saved not lost money.

The petitioner's argument that bad faith undercut the abolition of this position based upon his history in the district, is also unacceptable. The petitioner, at least by inference, seeks to suggest that the Trenton Board of Education has been out to "get him" over the past decade or so as demonstrated by the two previous instances of terminating him and his eventual reinstatement. The abolition of his position which is currently under consideration, he suggests, as yet another attempt by the Board to remove him because as he noted in his testimony as an incident to one of his earlier removals he was referred to as a "political hack."

While certainly the past history of a relationship between a local school board and an employee is relevant on the issue of the propriety and reasonableness of its decision to abolish his position and terminate the employee, the relevance in the matter sub judice is entirely undercut by the presence of the Fiscal Monitor. It was she who made the decision to reorganize the business office in the fashion articulated and it was she who, as part of that reorganization, with the ratification of the Assistant Commissioner of Education and the Mercer County Superintendent of Schools, determined to eliminate Mr. Dearden's position. Ms. De Matteo had no history or involvement with the district before she became Fiscal Monitor and certainly no involvement of any kind in respect to Mr. Dearden and the earlier albeit unsuccessful efforts by the Board of Education to abolish his positions. Moreover, and perhaps most significantly, the testimony indicated that Ms. De Matteo was not even aware of who Mr. Dearden was, much less was she aware of his employment history with the district. Therefore, in my view, the prior history that Mr. Dearden had with the Trenton School District has no material connection to the issue of the abolition of his position currently under consideration nor, does it in any fashion impinge upon the good faith efforts by the Board at reorganization.

Further, it was through the Fiscal Monitor's efforts that Mr. Dearden's sick leave time was extended by the Board. As Mr. Sumners notes in his post-hearing submission, the Fiscal Monitor had neither motivation to treat Dearden unfairly, nor any reason to treat him differently from any other district employee.

Accordingly, and based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to demonstrate by a preponderance of the relevant, credible evidence that the abolition of his position, assistant purchasing agent/stock and inventory control and/or his termination from employment with Trenton was undertaken in bad faith or was arbitrary and capricious or was in any other fashion contrary to the dictates of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9.

I shall now address the other legal issues raised by petitioner by way of post-hearing argument. Mr. Dearden asserts that the Fiscal Monitor was without legal authority to recommend the abolition of the petitioner's position to the Trenton Board of Education. The same argument was essentially raised in another matter before me, also involving a Trenton employee, Donald Wollman v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County, OAL Docket number EDU 11871-93, Agency Docket number 366-11/93 which I decided on March 24, 1995. As of the date of the issuance of this decision, I am unaware of the action by the Commissioner of Education in respect to Wollman. In any event, the legal rationale articulated by the petitioner in this matter, concerning the purported lack of the authority of Ms. De Matteo to recommend the abolition of Mr. Dearden, is the same argument raised in Wollman and my analysis of it is identical.

The Commissioner's authority to appoint a Fiscal Monitor.

Petitioner's argument in respect to this issues is somewhat ambiguous. In his post-hearing reply brief, petitioner notes that "[n]othing in N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-1 et seq. . . . authorizes the creation of the title of the Fiscal Monitor" but also acknowledges that the statute creates an implied authority in the Commissioner to create a Fiscal Monitor. Petitioner's central point appears to be that a Fiscal Monitor may not act in the place of a board of education.

Nevertheless, the reply brief gives some indication that petitioner is challenging the very appointment of a Fiscal Monitor. To the extent that petitioner argues that the appointment of a Fiscal Monitor is in and of itself impermissible, he is incorrect. The appellate division and Supreme Court have decided that the appointment of a monitor with general supervisory powers is valid under Title 18A. In the Matter of the Board of Education of Trenton, 176 N.J. Super. 553 (App. Div. 1980), aff'd per curiam 86 N.J. 327 (1981). The ALJ relied in part on that case when he ordered that the Commissioner recommend to the State Board the appointment of a Fiscal Monitor. McCarroll v. Bd. of Education of E. Orange, OAL Dkt. No. 7777-84 (Oct. 31, 1984), adopted Commissioner of Education (Nov. 7, 1984).

If petitioner is arguing that the appointment of a Fiscal Monitor must conform to the procedural requirements necessary to establish a state-operated school system, those procedural requirements were followed insofar as the Commissioner issued an order to show cause and gave the Trenton Board of Education an opportunity for a hearing at OAL (the hearing never took place because the Commissioner and the Board entered into the consent agreement). The procedural requirement for establishment of a state-operated school system that was not followed was approval by the State Board. Here, the State Board apparently did not approve the administrative order establishing the Fiscal Monitor. The question thus is whether the requirement that the State Board approve a state takeover of a school system applies to the appointment of a Fiscal Monitor.

Petitioner asserts that, given the authority of a Fiscal Monitor to control the school system's financial affairs, the appointment of a Fiscal Monitor is tantamount to a state takeover. This argument is also rejected. Respondent correctly notes that the appointment of a monitor differs from a state takeover in a variety of ways. For example, when the Fiscal Monitor is appointed, the board and administration remain in their positions and the board retains control over non-fiscal matters. See N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-15.1; N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-34.

Furthermore, the terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-15 preclude petitioner from arguing that orders of the Commissioner that do not establish a state-operated school system must be approved by the State Board. N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-15 provides that:

If, after a plenary hearing, the commissioner determines that it is necessary to take corrective action, the commissioner shall have the power to order necessary budgetary changes within the district or other measures the commissioner deems appropriate to establish a thorough and efficient system of education with the exception of the creation of a state-operated school district. . . . If the commissioner determines that the district has failed to take or is unable to take the corrective actions necessary to establish a thorough and efficient system of education, the commissioner shall recommend to the State board that it issue an administrative order creating a State-operated school district.

The statute sets up two scenarios. In an order to effectuate a state takeover of a school system, the State Board must issue the order. In all other cases, the Commissioner has the power to act on his or her own initiative.¹

(B)

The Fiscal Monitor's authority to abolish Mr. Dearden's position and to terminate him.

- a. Authority under the administrative order.

Petitioner grounds his argument that the Fiscal Monitor is acting beyond the scope of the order on the following language in the order:

The Fiscal Monitor's powers shall include the authority to

- i. terminate or promote any of those Board of Education employees under the supervision of the Board Secretary or School Business Administrator without approval of the Board of Education but in accordance with applicable contractual or statutory procedures. [Administrative Order at 4.]

¹ In In the Matter of the Board of Education of Trenton, supra, the corrective action plan, which included appointment of a monitor, was approved by the State Board. Likewise, in McConnell, supra, the Commissioner's decision merely recommended to the State Board the appointment of a Fiscal Monitor. This may be because, prior to 1988, the language of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-15 provided the Commissioner with less latitude. ("If, after a plenary hearing, the commissioner determines that it is necessary to take corrective action, he shall have the power to order necessary budgetary changes within the school district, to order in-service training programs for teachers and other school personnel, or both. If he determines that such corrective actions are insufficient, he shall have the power to recommend to the State board that it take appropriate action [including issuance of] an administrative order specifying a remedial plan to the local board of education, which plan may include budgetary changes or other measures the State board determines to be appropriate.")

Petitioner argues that the Fiscal Monitor did not act in accordance with applicable statutory procedures because N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 allows only the local board to terminate employees for reasons of economy or efficiency.²

The difficulty with this interpretation is manifest. It disregards the language of the order stating that termination may occur “without the approval of the Board of Education.”³ Further, the intent of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 is not to exclude a Fiscal Monitor from making decisions a board would ordinarily make. The statute likely does not even contemplate a Fiscal Monitor acting in lieu of a board because Fiscal Monitors are rare and because the statute was adopted in 1967, long before the appointment of any monitor. A more reasonable interpretation of the language of the order is to infer that a Fiscal Monitor, like a board, cannot disregard the tenure laws if he or she wishes to terminate an employee (e.g., she cannot fire a tenured employee without a reason).

Pursuant to this analysis, the administrative order clearly authorized the Fiscal Monitor to terminate Dearden. The order, however, does not specifically confer the power to abolish positions. Given the scope of powers conferred by the order and the existence of the power to terminate, it must reasonably be inferred that such power exists. See, e.g., Administrative Order at 2 (“The Fiscal Monitor . . . is to assume control and supervision over all fiscal operations” Fiscal operations include supervision of buildings and grounds. Id. at 5). The list of powers includes the authority to order the Board to make budgetary changes, to veto any expenditure of funds or any personnel action, to order changes in the operations of the fiscal affairs of the district, and to appoint auditors (pursuant to whose recommendation Dearden’s position was abolished). All of these provisions provide support for the Monitor’s authority to abolish a position for efficiency reasons.

² None of petitioner’s written submissions advances the argument that Mr. Dearden’s dismissal would have been illegitimate had the Board acted rather than the monitor, with the exception of the Veterans’ Tenure Act claim. “[R]education in force is entirely within the authority of the board if done for reasons of economy.” Klinger v. Bd. of Education of Cranbury, 190 N.J. Super. 354 (App. Div. 1982).

³ Contrast this provision with subsection 1, which governs employees not under the supervision of the Board Secretary or the School Business Administrator. The Fiscal Monitor may only recommend the termination or promotion of such employees.

b. Authority under the statute

Petitioner also appears to be arguing that the order itself is defective insofar as the Commissioner lacks the authority to appoint a Fiscal Monitor who can terminate employees. This is distinct from the argument discussed, supra, which considered whether the Commissioner could appoint a Fiscal Monitor at all.

No legal authority was discovered that squarely addresses the issue of whether a Fiscal Monitor can or cannot terminate an employee. There is however, considerable authority affirming the Commissioner's authority to insure a thorough and efficient education by whatever means he or she deems appropriate.

The Commissioner has broad remedial powers. See, e.g., Bd. of Education of Elizabeth v. City Council of Elizabeth, 55 N.J. 501 (1970); In the Matter of the Application of the Bd. of Education of Upper Freehold Regional School Dist., 86 N.J. 265, 274-275 (1981) (Commissioner and State Board have the authority to direct a local board to issue bonds for a capital project, even though the local voters had rejected referenda to finance the project.) The Commissioner also has a responsibility to effectuate a thorough and efficient system of education. Robinson v. Cahill, 69 N.J. 449, 459-60 (1976).

The need for the Commissioner to exercise broad authority increases when a monitor is appointed. The appointment of a monitor occurs only under extraordinary circumstances. In the Matter of the Bd. of Education of Trenton, supra, 86 N.J. at 329; McCarroll v. Bd. of Education of E. Orange, OAL Dkt. No. 7777-84 at 5 (ALJ approves appointment of a Fiscal Monitor based on the existence of "fundamental problems and irregularities regarding . . . fiscal operation and management.") Presumably, the greater the plight of the school system, the greater the discretion needed by the Commissioner to implement solutions to the problems. This explains the broad discretion conferred by N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-15:

If, after a plenary hearing, the commissioner determines that it is necessary to take corrective action, the commissioner shall have the power to order necessary budgetary changes within the district or other measures the commissioner deems appropriate to establish a thorough and efficient system of education with the exception of the creation of a State-operated school district. [Emphasis added.]

It is compelling therefore to conclude that the Commissioner's authority is sufficiently broad to encompass the appointment of a Fiscal Monitor with the power to abolish a position and terminate an employee. Moreover here, unlike in Wollman, the Trenton Board expressly approved of the Fiscal Monitor plan through formal resolution.

Lastly, petitioner argues that, Mr. Dearden, a veteran, was denied a hearing prior to his termination in violation of N.J.S.A. 38:16-1 - N.J.S.A. 38:16-1 - and (2) that the abolition of Mr. Dearden's position was made for the express purpose of terminating him in violation of N.J.S.A. 38:16-3 of the Veteran's Tenure Act.

The issue posed by petitioner is whether N.J.S.A. 38:16-1 requires a hearing prior to termination, even if termination occurs pursuant to the abolition of petitioner's position. N.J.S.A. 38:16-1 provides that a veteran employed by the government (including a board of education) shall not "be removed from such employment . . . except for good cause shown after a fair and impartial hearing, but such person shall hold his employment . . . during good behavior, and shall not be removed for political reasons." The statute does not protect the employment of veterans when their positions are abolished, Dobbs v. Pierce, 76 N.J. Super. 64 (Law Div. 1962), but abolition may not be used as a pretext for terminating a veteran. N.J.S.A. 38:16-3.

There are two arguments militating against petitioner's conclusion that although abolition does not trigger the protections of the Act, the statute still requires a hearing prior to termination. First, N.J.S.A. 38:16-2 provides that prior to dismissal of a veteran covered by N.J.S.A. 38:16-1, "charges shall be preferred against him, a copy of which shall be served upon him and a time set for the hearing of same." If a veteran's position is abolished, there is obviously no need for charges to be preferred. The statute, in my view, contemplates a hearing only when the employee's conduct is at issue.

Second, long-standing precedent holds that a hearing is not required prior to the abolition of a veteran's position. See Burney v. Paterson, 3 N.J. Misc. 1197 (S. Ct. 1925) (answering yes to the question of whether a position held by a veteran can be abolished by a municipality, acting in good faith and for the purpose of economy, without notice and hearing to the occupant thereof); Ziegler v. City Council of Hackensack, 113 N.J.L. 215 (S. Ct. 1934), aff'd 114 N.J.L. 186 (Ct. Err. 1935). (Fire chief's position abolished without a hearing and pursuant to reorganization. Dismissal upheld). For cases in which abolition of a veteran's position occurred and the procedural history makes no mention of a hearing having taken place prior to abolition, see Dobbs v. Pierce, 76 N.J. Super. 64 (Law Div. 1962) (Camden board of assessors abolished); Moresh v. Bd. of Education of Bayonne, 52 N.J. Super. 105 (App. Div. 1958) (elimination of vice-principalships by reason of the Board); Barringer v. Miele, 6 N.J. 139 (1951) (veterans who were employees of the Superintendent of Elections and the Commissioner of Registration terminated after the offices were combined); Greco v. Smith, 40 N.J. Super. 182 (App. Div. 1956) (Belleville building inspector proved that bad faith rather than economy motivated his termination. The court did not criticize or even mention the absence of a hearing prior to Greco's termination.). Of course, an unauthorized termination can take place in the guise of abolition of a position, and a pre-termination hearing could presumably prevent that. Nevertheless, the precedent indicates that a municipality's right to control the structure and size of its government enables it to abolish positions without a preliminary hearing. I have, of course, concluded that Dearden's termination and the abolition of his position were not undertaken in bad faith. The legal arguments raised by petitioner post-hearing are without merit.

Accordingly, and based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the Fiscal Monitor was possessed with the legal authority and jurisdiction to recommend to the Trenton Board of Education the abolition of the petitioner's position.⁴

Accordingly, and based upon the foregoing, it is ORDERED that the determination of the respondent, Trenton Board of Education, which abolished the petitioner's position as assistant purchasing agent/stock and inventory control undertaken at its meeting of May 27, 1993, and his termination effective June 30, 1993, be and are hereby SUSTAINED.

⁴ Petitioner's argument in respect to Mr. Dearden's prior history with the Trenton School system has already been addressed in this decision as part of my analysis of whether the abolition of his position was arbitrary and capricious.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

 RESPONDENT. :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner requested and was granted an extension, until noon on Friday, July 7, 1995, for the filing of exceptions in this matter. These and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed.

Petitioner's exceptions essentially recast and reiterate arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), which the Commissioner finds were fully and fairly considered and addressed in the initial decision and, therefore, need not be revisited herein.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record, including transcripts of the three days of hearing in this matter at the OAL, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusion of the ALJ that petitioner has failed to satisfy his burden of establishing, by a preponderance of the relevant, credible evidence, that the abolishment of his position by the Board was arbitrary, capricious, motivated by bad faith, or in contravention of law. The Commissioner passes no judgment, however, with respect to the ALJ's discussion on pages 21-24 of the initial decision regarding the authority of the Fiscal Monitor. Given that petitioner's position was abolished pursuant to Board resolution of May 27, 1993, such is not necessary to his determination herein.

Accordingly, except as noted above, the recommended decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons clearly articulated therein. It is ordered that the determination of the Trenton Board of Education abolishing petitioner's position, and his termination effective June 30, 1993, undertaken by Board resolution on May 27, 1993, be sustained. The within Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, August 2, 1995

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Lake & Schwartz, (Robert M. Schwartz, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Sumners, Council, George & Dortch
(Thomas M. Sumners, Jr., Esq., of Counsel)

The State Board of Education affirms the decision of the Commissioner substantially for the reasons set forth in the Administrative Law Judge's Initial Decision. In so doing, we concur with the Commissioner that it is unnecessary to pass upon the questions raised relating to the Fiscal Monitor's authority in this case given that the Trenton Board acted by resolution to abolish petitioner's position. Hence it was the action of the Board rather than that of the Fiscal Monitor which petitioner challenged by his petition to the Commissioner. As detailed in the Administrative Law Judge's Initial

Decision, we find that petitioner has not demonstrated that the Board's action was in bad faith or otherwise in contravention of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9.

DECISION

Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent, high school Industrial Arts teacher, for his arrest for possession of marijuana. Respondent sought reinstatement to his position grounded upon the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination (LAD) as he contended his cultivation and possession of more than 400 marijuana plants resulted from his cross-addiction to marijuana, which he developed as a substitute for his previous alcohol addiction.

Having considered the testimony of witnesses and the record, the ALJ concluded that the Board's action seeking respondent's dismissal was proper and respondent's defense of a handicap under the LAD was without merit given his engagement in criminal activity. ALJ ordered dismissal from his tenured position.

Commissioner concurred with the determination of the ALJ that respondent's cultivation and possession of marijuana constituted unbecoming conduct by a teacher pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. Commissioner further concurred with the ALJ that respondent was not entitled to statutory protection of the LAD as the Board had made reasonable accommodation to treat his alcohol addiction, of which respondent did not avail himself. Rather, he engaged in the criminal activity of growing and cultivating marijuana. Commissioner ordered respondent dismissed from his tenured position as of the date of the Commissioner's decision and the matter referred to the State Board of Examiners for further appropriate action.

INITIAL DECISION

AGENCY REF. NO. 17-1/92

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF EDWARD KOZIC, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST DEPTFORD, GLOUCESTER
COUNTY

Raymond T. Page, Esq., for the complainant Board of Education

Michael C. Damm, Esq., for the respondent (Selikoff & Cohen, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 9, 1995

Decided: June 21, 1995

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Board of Education of the School District of West Deptford Township (Board) certified tenure charges against respondent, Edward Kozic, a teaching staff member in its employ, and seeks his dismissal on the grounds that he engaged in conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member, N.J.A.C. 18A:6-10 to -25. Respondent seeks reinstatement to his position grounded upon the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination (LAD), N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 to -42.

The matter was transmitted from the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The hearing was held on October 3, 4 and 7, 1994, at the Woodbury, New Jersey, Municipal Court. The parties requested, and were granted, leave to submit post hearing briefs and memoranda. The hearing record closed on May 9, 1995.

STATEMENT OF CHARGES

A Special Meeting of the Board was held on December 19, 1991, where the Board adjourned into closed session pursuant to the Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA) N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 to -21, and certified the following statement against respondent by a recorded roll call vote:

Charges of tenure: A position within the employment of the Board of Education of the Township of West Deptford, has exhibited conduct unbecoming a professional school teacher outside of a classroom. The following is a list of specific allegations which the Board of Education for the Township of West Deptford will rely upon to demonstrate unbecoming conduct which would prevent Edward Kozic from continuing in his position as a tenure teacher.

1. On or about November 6, 1991, Edward Kozic was found in possession of Marijuana, substance classified as a Controlled Dangerous Substance pursuant to the laws of the State of New Jersey. The possession of the substance was in violation of New Jersey State Laws and demonstrates conduct which is inconsistent with the conduct to be exhibited by a professional teacher of the State of New Jersey.
2. On or about November 6, 1991, there was found to be in excess of one hundred plants of Cannabis Sativa (also known as marijuana) growing at the residence of Mr. Edward Kozic, said residence being located at V-429 Park Crest Village, Glassboro, New Jersey. The cultivation and/or possession of this Controlled Dangerous Substance constitutes unbecoming a professional tenure teacher in the State of New Jersey.

BACKGROUND FACTS

Respondent commenced his employment with the Board in or about 1977 as a Graphic Arts teacher at the West Deptford Middle School. In 1984, respondent was transferred from the Middle School to the Board's high school and was assigned to teach Industrial Arts, where he taught drafting, woodshop, metal shop, among other things.

At the end of the 1984-85 school year, William Stubbs, West Deptford High School Principal, discussed his concerns about respondent's absences during the school year. The absences were frequent on Mondays and days after holidays. Principal Stubbs noted that this observation had been brought to respondent's attention on two occasions when respondent was assigned to the Board's middle school. These observations appeared on respondent's evaluations.

Respondent stated to Principal Stubbs that respondent had an ulcer and was under a physician's care. It was clear to Principal Stubbs that respondent had a problem with alcohol. Principal Stubbs did not claim that respondent used alcohol while on school grounds or that respondent exhibited any symptoms of alcohol use while on duty. Principal Stubbs advised respondent that his behavior would be monitored and that respondent would be required to improve his attendance. Respondent's attendance improved during the 1985-86 school year.

Respondent began to abuse alcohol while in his teens. He testified that his father and other members in his father's family were alcoholics. As a consequence of respondent's abuse of alcohol he commenced to exhibit health problems in or about 1982. In 1982, respondent was hospitalized for a period of nine days with alcohol induced pancreatitis. Respondent was advised by his physician that his continued consumption of alcohol would result in additional attacks of pancreatitis with the possibility of it contributing to his death. Despite his physician's warnings, respondent continued to consume alcohol excessively which caused him to suffer more attacks of pancreatitis.

In or about April 1988, subsequent to respondent's hospitalization as the result of a severe pancreatitis attack, respondent refrained from the consumption of alcohol. He was without alcohol for approximately one month when he substituted alcohol with marijuana.

Due to the high cost of purchasing marijuana on the street, respondent commenced to grow the intoxicant in his apartment. He arranged elaborate and sophisticated nurturing and growing areas in his apartment with high sodium lights (grow lights), timers, fluorescent lighting, soil, water, fertilizer, scales, fans, drying pans, rolling paper for cigarettes, hemostat, among other things.

In September 1991, the New Jersey State Police (NJSP) received information from the United States Department of Justice, Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) that respondent had accepted delivery of 13 orders of lighting equipment used in the growing of marijuana between January and June 1989. Subsequently, the NJSP commenced a surveillance of respondent's apartment and determined, among other things, that his electric bill was five and one-half to eight times higher than his neighbors, although respondent lived alone.

On November 6, 1991, the NJSP arrested respondent as he was exiting his automobile in front of his apartment. The NJSP executed a search warrant and entered respondent's apartment where it located 113 marijuana plants one foot to three and one-half feet tall behind a false wall in respondent's apartment which concealed the plants from view. The NJSP also discovered 296 smaller marijuana plants in the living room closet for a total of 409 marijuana plants. It completed an inventory (Exhibit P-4 in evidence) of the apartment's contents and also made a video tape of the apartment and its contents. (Exhibit P-3 in evidence).

Subsequent to respondent's arrest, he was charged with manufacturing for sale a Controlled Dangerous Substance (CDS), in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:35-5a.(1) and N.J.S.A. 2C:35-5b.(11); possession with intent to distribute a CDS, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:35-5a.(1) and N.J.S.A. 2C:35-5b.(11); and possession of a CDS, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:35-10a.(3). After a full jury trial, respondent was found guilty of possession of marijuana (N.J.S.A. 2C:35-10a.(3)) and not guilty of the other charges brought against him.

Respondent had spent two days in jail subsequent to his arrest. As a consequence of the Judgment of Conviction, dated October 20, 1993, respondent was sentenced to one year probation with the condition that he continue psychiatric counseling. He was ordered to pay $859 in fines and other costs. His driving privileges were suspended for six months. Respondent has refrained from the use of marijuana since November 6, 1991, and alcohol since in or about April 1988.

Subsequent to respondent's arrest, the Board held a special meeting on December 19, 1991, at which it adopted a resolution to certify charges of conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member with the Commissioner.

Beginning September 1994, respondent was employed by the Gloucester County Special Services School District as a temporary Industrial Arts teacher to replace the regular classroom teacher who was on a leave of absence. Prior thereto, respondent was employed as a vocational instructor for the Bancroft Organization in Haddonfield, New Jersey, for individuals with brain injuries.

I hereby adopt the above Background Facts as FINDINGS OF FACT in this matter.

FACTS IN DISPUTE

Respondent does not deny he cultivated marijuana in his apartment. Moreover, he asserts that he grew the substance solely for his own use. He testified that at first, he smoked about one ounce of marijuana per month. At the end of the summer of 1988, he had increased his consumption to between two and four ounces per month. Subsequently, he smoked as much of the substance as he could grow; i.e., he was chain smoking marijuana. At the time of his arrest on November 6, 1991, respondent testified he smoked between eight to ten cigarettes or "joints" per week night. On weekends, he would consume up to 18 joints per day.

Detective John Silver of the NJSP was qualified as an expert in the growth and manufacture of marijuana and testified, among other things, that respondent's growing operation was highly sophisticated. Detective Silver has had experience with other indoor growing operations; some larger than respondent's. However, he had never observed an operation as large as respondent's for just one individual's use.

Detective Silver examined respondent's records and by observing the layout and contents of the apartment, concluded that respondent could raise five crops per year with a yield of 85 ounces or in excess of five pounds of marijuana per year. Detective Silver brought the criminal charge against respondent of possession of CDS with intent to distribute because he was of the opinion that the amount of marijuana raised by respondent was more than the amount that could reasonably be consumed by one individual.

Jeffrey Clayton, industrial consultant for alcohol abuse with Services to Overcome Drug Abuse Among Teenagers (SODAT) has been qualified by the New Jersey Superior Court as an expert in family dynamics and the treatment for addiction and testified on the Board's behalf. Mr. Clayton testified, among other things, that it was not common for an addict to move from alcohol to marijuana if the addict had not been using marijuana. He asserted that the record disclosed that respondent used three to six joints per day when he started with marijuana after giving up alcohol. Clayton stated that the use of an ounce per week, the amount used by respondent, was an unusual amount of use. He asserted that it takes between one-half gram to one-full gram of marijuana to make one joint.

Mr. Clayton asserted that the use of marijuana caused the individual to be in a relaxed, tranquil, state. The substance is stored in the fat tissue which affects the brain function with a significant impact. It effects memory and motor coordination, among other things. Marijuana provides a sedated type effect, where alcohol has a more anesthetized effect and which causes the user to go to sleep.

Mr. Clayton stated that a heavy user of marijuana would need between two and three joints to achieve a "high." He asserted that one dose of the substance would last between two and four hours. He testified that he had never encountered any addict who smoked 18 joints in one day. The most he ever encountered was an addict who smoked between eight and ten joints per day. He contended that it would take a full day, 12 hours, to smoke three to four joints in one day.

Mr. Clayton testified that it was his experience that individuals who smoked between three and four joints per day did not work because they could not function. He asserted that the effects of the marijuana use made the individual lethargic, with a lack of motivation, poor motor coordination, poor work performance with high accident rates. Heavy users of marijuana generally dropped out of the mainstream of life.

Mr. Clayton asserted that he could not believe that respondent smoked as much marijuana a day as respondent claimed he had smoked. Nor could Clayton believe that respondent could operate machinery or power tools safely after using as much marijuana as respondent said he had used. Clayton opined that respondent's testimony was inconsistent with known facts. Clayton asserted that it would take between five and ten years of drug use before an individual could smoke five to ten joints per day. Clayton observed that respondent testified it took only three to four months to reach that level of consumption.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon the testimony and documents offered into evidence, and having given fair weight thereto; I FIND the following FACTS in this matter:

Respondent is an alcoholic and suffered approximately twelve attacks of alcohol induced pancreatitis while a teaching staff member with the Board.

At the conclusion of the 1984-85 school year, West Deptford High School Principal, William Stubbs, conducted a year end evaluation of respondent and discussed respondent's absence from duty during the school year. Principal Stubbs noted that respondent's absences were more frequent on Mondays and days following a holiday. Principal Stubbs further noted that this frequency of respondent's absences had occurred in prior years when respondent was assigned to the Board's Middle School. Subsequent to Principal Stubb's discussion, respondent improved his attendance record.

It was clear to Principal Stubbs that respondent had a problem with alcohol. Respondent, however, did not request any accommodation for his problem with alcohol.

There was no indication that respondent used alcohol while on school grounds. Nor was there any indicia of alcohol use while respondent performed in the classroom. In fact, respondent's performance evaluations were generally favorable.

Respondent's treating physician's Dr. Peter A. Plumeri, advised respondent that his continued use of alcohol would exacerbate his pancreatitis condition. Dr. Plumeri recommended that respondent enroll in an alcohol in-patient rehabilitation program. Respondent failed to follow his physician's recommendation and did not seek rehabilitative help.

In or about April 1988, respondent gave up alcohol on his own accord. Subsequently, in or about May 1988, respondent commenced to purchase marijuana in local bars for his consumption. Respondent engaged in self-help or self-medication by substituting marijuana for alcohol.

In the early fall of 1988, respondent commenced to purchase equipment for the cultivation of marijuana. As a consequence of these equipment purchases, respondent was able to grow and use his own marijuana, in violation of state and federal statutes.

On November 6, 1991, respondent was arrested by the NJSP and his apartment was subjected to a valid search warrant. Respondent was charged with a variety of criminal offenses as a consequence of his arrest and the search of his apartment.

On December 19, 1991, the Board certified tenure charges against respondent with the Commissioner, alleging that respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a professional school teacher outside of a classroom, and sought his termination.

On October 20, 1993, respondent was convicted of the possession of more than 50 grams of marijuana, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:35-10a.(3).

The Board's tenure charge is true, in fact, that respondent committed conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member pursuant to the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -18.1.

SUMMARY OF THE PARTIES
LEGAL ARGUMENTS

THE BOARD'S POSITION

POINT I

The Board argues that the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), 42 U.S.C.A. §12101 to §12213, does not require the Board to return respondent to employment because of respondent's use of a CDS. There is no dispute that respondent was in violation of the law and was using marijuana, a CDS. Respondent not only admits he used marijuana but, moreover, he admits to cultivating large quantities of the substance at the time of his arrest and the execution of a search warrant of his apartment.

Respondent requests that he is entitled to a reasonable accommodation alleging he is an individual with a disability stemming from his alcohol and subsequent drug use. Respondent, however, is not recognized as a disabled person or an individual with a disability pursuant to the ADA. 42 U.S.C.A. §12114(a) states that an individual is not entitled to a reasonable accommodation if that person is currently engaged in the illegal use of drugs. The statute reads, in part, as follows:

For the purposes of this subchapter, the term "qualified individual with a disability" shall not include any employee or applicant who is currently engaging in the illegal use of drugs, when the covered entity acts on the basis of such use.

42 U.S.C.A. §12114(a)

The Board observes that respondent was clearly in possession of and using marijuana at the time of his arrest on November 6, 1991. At the time of his arrest, respondent was "currently engaged in the illegal use of drugs,” and, therefore, he was not a “qualified individual” under ADA. The Board argues that respondent, therefore, is not entitled to a reasonable accommodation and should not be returned to its employ.

POINT II

The Board argues that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, respondent would be precluded from employment with the Board in the event respondent would now apply for a teaching staff position. The statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, provides in part, that a local board of education shall not employ any teacher, among other persons serving in a position which involves regular contact with pupils, unless the board of education has first determined that the individual has no criminal record on file with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Identification Division, or the State Bureau of Identification. The respondent would be disqualified from employment with the Board because he has a criminal history which demonstrates that he committed:

- b. A crime or offense involving the manufacture possession, or habitual use of a “controlled dangerous substance” N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1b.

Consequently, respondent would not be eligible for employment with the Board under the statute. The Board recognizes that respondent, under subsection (e) of the statute, may seek employment but only after respondent affirmatively demonstrates to the Commissioner, by clear and convincing evidence, he has been completely rehabilitated. However, because of his criminal record, respondent should not be permitted to return to his former position. Such an act would send the wrong message to the children of West Deptford High School. It would create confusion and demonstrate a lack of respect for the law.

POINT III

The Board argues that its filing of charges against respondent with the Commissioner for respondent's use of marijuana does not constitute discrimination under LAD. The Board concedes it was familiar with the fact that respondent had a problem with alcohol and/or abuse during the 1980's. Immediately after respondent stopped using alcohol, he began to substitute marijuana for alcohol. Respondent now takes the position, based upon his testimony, that he was a disabled person as a result of both his alcohol and marijuana use and, therefore, is entitled to a reasonable accommodation pursuant to LAD.

The Board admits that an individual suffering from alcoholism is handicapped under LAD. Clowes v. Terminex International, Inc. 109 N.J. 575 (1988). The Board, however, was not able to locate any case that an individual who was addicted to a CDS is "disabled" pursuant to LAD. The Attorney General of New Jersey, however, has provided an opinion with regard to whether a disability exists when an individual is allegedly addicted to a CDS and opined that one cannot claim a disability caused by a substance the Legislature has deemed to be inappropriate for. (Attorney General Formal Opinion No. _____, October 6, 1989).

The Board argues that respondent was not physically addicted to marijuana. It notes that every one of the experts who testified in this matter, on behalf of the Board and on behalf of respondent, indicated that there is no physical addiction to marijuana. While two of the four expert witnesses testified that respondent was addicted to marijuana, they both testified that there was no physical symptoms of "withdrawal" when a person stops using marijuana.

Two of the expert witnesses testified that if anyone is addicted to marijuana, the only type of addiction which could occur is a psychological one. It is the Board's position that if a person is not physically dependent on a substance, then one is not addicted to that substance.

The Board argues that if an individual is not addicted to a substance, then the individual cannot be cross-addicted to a substance pursuant to the determination made by the Appellate Division of Superior Court in In the Matter of Daniel Cahill, 245 N.J. Super. 397 (App. Div. 1991). The Board posits that a cross-addiction did not exist in accordance with Cahill and, therefore, respondent is not entitled to a reasonable accommodation for the use of an illegal substance, i.e., marijuana.

The Board is in agreement with the State Board of Education's decision in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Dorothy Howard, State-Operated School District of the City of Jersey City, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 788, which found that Ms. Howard was an alcoholic and held that pursuant to LAD and the court's holding in Clowes, supra, she was entitled to reasonable accommodation by the school district. The Board argues, however, that the Howard matter is distinguishable from the instant matter. In the instant matter, respondent was not using a legal substance; i.e., alcohol but, rather, he was using an illegal CDS. Although respondent did make agents of the Board aware of his problems with alcohol, he was allowed to address those problems without intervention by the Board or without any disciplinary action against him. This matter is not at all analogous to the Howard decision and the Board requests that no presidential value be placed on it.

The Board argues at length as to respondents credibility, particularly with regard to the amount of marijuana respondent testified he smoked. The Board observes, among other things, that the expert witnesses all testified that they had never encountered anyone who had smoked as much marijuana as respondent indicated he smoked. It contends that for respondent to have consumed the amount of marijuana he purportedly consumed would be wasteful and inconsistent with one who is an "addict." All of the experts testified that a certain amount of marijuana use would cause the desired effect of a "high." Any continued consumption thereafter would not enhance the effect and, therefore, waste the substance unnecessarily. Such use was also inconsistent with respondent's testimony that on a number of occasions he had to harvest the marijuana sooner than he wished because he had exhausted his supply of the substance.

The Board raises other questions about respondent's credibility; i.e., why did respondent have scales in his apartment if he was growing the marijuana only for his personal use? How was respondent able to obtain good teaching performance evaluations after smoking six to twelve marijuana cigarettes the night before? How was respondent able to operate model airplanes on weekends while smoking between ten and eighteen marijuana cigarettes per weekend? Why would respondent calculate the cost to grow the marijuana?

The Board contends that one who is addicted to the levels of marijuana use respondent indicated he was addicted would find it difficult to stop smoking marijuana, especially since this is a “psychological addiction.” How then, was respondent able to withdraw “cold turkey” after November 6, 1994?

POINT IV

Notwithstanding respondent’s reliance on the Cahill decision that he is entitled to a reasonable accommodation, the Board argues that he should not be entitled to such accommodation because the effect it will have on the pupils in the Board’s schools. Such an accommodation should not be afforded respondent in the position he has as role model but, also, because such an accommodation may be hazardous to the pupils. N.J.A.C. 13:13-2.5(b) states that a handicapped person is not required to be entitled to a reasonable accommodation where employment in a particular position would be hazardous to that individual or others. Respondent’s testimony before the Superior Court at this criminal trial and his testimony before the OAL indicates that respondent had been teaching children while using heavy quantities of marijuana. His use of marijuana had gone on for a period in excess of three to three and one-half years. The harm that he may have caused children who have already been taught by him is unknown at this time and will be unknown in the future if he is permitted to continue to teach pupils in the Board’s schools. It would be inappropriate for respondent to be allowed to again teach in a classroom setting because of the potential harm it may cause to children who are under his direct control and supervision. The Board argues that respondent has failed as a role model to pupils of West Deptford and should not be permitted to resume his teaching duties.

The Board argues that respondent’s use of marijuana, even though it was not on school grounds, constitute unbecoming conduct. Prior Commissioner decisions clearly demonstrate the public policy regarding drugs and education. It is imperative that a teacher exercise self-restraint and not use any substance which are controlled dangerous substances. This is not only to act as a role model for pupils but, to allow pupils to be properly educated by a person who is able to think clearly and properly instruct the pupils that come into contact with the teacher. Respondent’s conviction before the Superior Court and his testimony before this tribunal clearly demonstrates that his conduct was unbecoming. The Board observes that respondent was well aware of the consequences of his actions.

RESPONDENT'S POSITION

POINT I

RESPONDENT IS A HANDICAPPED INDIVIDUAL AS DEFINED IN N.J.S.A. 10:5-5(q) AND IS ENTITLED TO REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION

In recent years, the state of the law has advanced to reflect the modern attitude of society that discrimination in whatever form, be it based upon race, sex, age, religion, handicap, etc. be outlawed. Laws such as the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination (LAD), N.J.S.A. 10:5-1, et seq. have been passed which effectuate this policy and now protect an individual from this.

In the past, school boards have been permitted to discriminate against an individual based upon sexual orientation. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Paula M. Grossman, 1972 S.L.D. 144, affirmed by the State Board of Education 1973 S.L.D. 769, affirmed 127 N.J. Super. 13 (App. Div. 1974) and In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of John Gish, 1974 S.L.D. 1150, affirmed by the State Board of Education 1975 S.L.D. 1085, affirmed N.J. Super. 96 (App. Div. 1976), cert. denied 74 N.J. 251 cert. denied 434 U.S. 879 (1977).

The elimination of discrimination against the handicapped has been the focus of particular attention. N.J.S.A. 10:5-4.1 now prohibits discrimination against a handicapped person. N.J.S.A. 10:5-5(q) defines a handicapped person as:

Suffering from any mental, psychological or developmental disability resulting from anatomical psychological, physiological or neurological conditions which prevents normal exercise of any bodily or mental functions or is demonstrable, medically or psychological, by acceptable clinical or laboratory diagnostic techniques (Emphasis added).

The antidiscriminatory provisions of the LAD as they pertain to the "handicapped" have been applied to include alcoholism and individuals cross addicted to alcohol and drugs, in the definition of that term. Antiquated attitudes which once prevailed in these areas, just as in traditional areas of sex, age, race, etc. have likewise been rejected. In Clowes v. Terminex Intern. Inc., 109 N.J. 575, 590-595, (1988) the New Jersey Supreme Court for the first time recognized alcoholism as a handicap. As such, it was found to be protected under the LAD. This of course has been held to apply in an education employment context. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Dorothy Howard, State Board of Education Decision, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 788, where the State Board of Education recognized the applicability of the LAD to an alcoholic teacher. Previously, one's tenure could be terminated were an alcohol problem even uncovered.

An individual cross addicted to alcohol and drugs has also been recognized as handicapped. Matter of Daniel Cahill, 245 N.J. Super. 397, 400 (1991). There, Daniel Cahill was employed as fire fighter by the Newark Fire Department. Cahill was suspended for violating a fire department regulation prohibiting the use of or addiction to narcotics or a controlled dangerous substance. An administrative law judge, based on medical testimony, found him to be not just an alcoholic, but also a drug addict. The New Jersey Superior Court Appellate Division found both of these conditions to come within the definition of "handicapped" under the LAD. Id. at 400. The Court, recognizing that alcoholism was a handicap under Clowes, supra., stated with respect to Cahill's drug problem:

Addiction, habituation or dependency which results from use of one drug or another, or as in this case a combination of drugs, renders a person handicapped. (emphasis added) Id. at 400.

The Court went on to state with regard to Cahill's contention that he was entitled to reasonable accommodation under the LAD as a handicapped person, that:

[Cahill] contends that the mandate of reasonable accommodation requires the employer to give another chance to an alcoholic or other drug user. There is merit to his position, that where feasible, an employer should afford an opportunity for rehabilitation to an employee handicapped by substance abuse. Id. at 401.

Significantly, the Cahill case was cited with approval by the State Board of Education in the Dorothy Howard matter, supra.

Respondent is an alcoholic who is cross addicted to marijuana. By the year 1988, respondent's alcoholism affected his physical health to such a serious degree, because of pancreatitis, that it became life threatening. Unable to control his addiction, and recognizing that if he continued drinking he would die, he began to use marijuana to satisfy his compulsion to drink and the need to become intoxicated. Respondent, in fulfilling this need, became addicted to marijuana. Respondent's treating psychiatrist, Dr. Francene Black, who devotes a large portion of her practice to treating individuals with drug and alcohol problems, testified that it was respondent's compulsion for a mood altering substance which would help him to stop drinking, that led him to begin using marijuana. (See Exhibit A) Dr. Lance Gooberman, a medical doctor and also an addiction specialist, testified similarly that it was respondent's addictive personality and his compulsion for a mood altering substance which led him to begin using marijuana when alcohol was no longer available to him. Dr. Black initially diagnosed respondent in the following manner: "alcohol dependence and adjustment disorder with anxiety and depression." (See Exhibit A) Both Dr. Black and Dr. Gooberman recognized that respondent was an alcoholic who was also psychologically addicted to marijuana. Dr. John P. Morgan, a renowned pharmacologist from City University of New York Medical School confirmed that marijuana can be psychologically addicting. All of this expert testimony went unrefuted.

As an alcoholic, respondent is handicapped under Clowes, supra. The fact that he also became addicted to marijuana, does not disqualify him, but reaffirms his handicap under the Cahill decision. Respondent is entitled to reasonable accommodation.

The Board, incredibly, refers to respondent's marijuana use and claims that the LAD does not apply because respondent has a psychological addiction and not a physical addiction, and that only physical addictions qualify under the LAD. No authority whatsoever is cited for this narrow interpretation of the law, nor is there any basis for such a hypothesis. Moreover, the premise of this argument is invalid in that the evidence established respondent to be, without a doubt, an alcoholic. Alcohol is physically addictive. It was this addiction which compelled him to use marijuana. The Board continues with this argument going on to assert that there are "no physical symptoms of withdrawal when a person stops using marijuana." The evidence in this case did not support even this assertion. Dr. Black found that respondent did exhibit physical symptoms of withdrawal when a person stops using marijuana.” Dr. Black testified he suffered from anxiety, a sleep disorder and depression. (See Exhibit A) She treated these symptoms with antidepressants and psychotherapy.

Ignoring these facts, the Board’s argument that psychological addiction does not qualify as a handicap is without merit for a more important and fundamental reason, the statutory definition of the word “handicapped” expressly includes a psychological condition under the statute. See N.J.S.A. 10:5-5(q). Whether respondent’s addiction was physical or psychological therefore is irrelevant. The fact that the Board admits his psychological addiction and does not dispute the fact that respondent was an alcoholic, is actually an admission that he is qualified under the statute. Importantly, in harmony with the statute, the Appellate Division in Cahill, supra made no distinction between a physical condition and a psychological one. In fact it used the words “addiction,” “habitation,” or “dependency in describing a “handicapped” condition which qualifies under the statute. Respondent’s condition without a doubt, fits within this description.

Moreover, the distinction which the Board suggests is senseless since clearly it is the psychological aspects of an addiction which must be overcome for such a person to continue to refrain from using alcohol or drugs once the physically addictive symptoms subside. Expert testimony confirmed respondent’s physical and psychological addictions. The Board did not refute this expert testimony. Accordingly, respondent’s addiction to alcohol and cross addiction to marijuana does qualify as a handicap under the LAD.

The Board argues that marijuana is a controlled dangerous substance, illegal and thus its use cannot form the basis for a handicap claim under the LAD. Had the Legislature sought to adopt this viewpoint it clearly would have placed some provision for this in the statute as for example exists to some degree in the Americans with Disabilities Act. 42 U.S.C. 12101 et seq. No such provisions are contained in the LAD and it is not for the Board to attempt to limit the applicability of the law, when in fact it is the mandate of the statute that it “shall be liberally construed.” See N.J.S.A. 10:5-3. See also Passaic Daily News v. Blair, 63 N.J. 474 (1973); 474 (1973); Zahorian v. Russell Fitt Real Estate Agency 62 N.J. 399 (1973); Jackson v. Concord, 54 N.J. 113 (1969); Clover Hill Swimming Club v. Goldsboro, 47 N.J. 25 (1966); Fraser v. Robin

Dee Camp, 44 N.J. 480 (1965); Jones v. Haridor Realty Corp., 37 N.J. 384 (1962); Levitt and Sons, Inc. v. Div. Against Discrimination, 31 N.J. 514 (1960); National Org. for Women v. Little League Baseball, 127 N.J. Super. 522 (1974), aff'd 67 N.J. 320 (1974). Furthermore, it is of particular significance, that the Appellate Division in Cahill, supra, which also involved the use of a controlled dangerous substance, made no distinction between a legal and illegal drug as the Board now asserts should be the case. The Board cites the non-binding Attorney General opinion in an attempt to bolster its position in this regard, however, this opinion was issued in 1989, two years prior to the appellate decision in Cahill. The Cahill decision is indicative of a clear rejection of this viewpoint. Moreover, what the Board also fails to address in its arguments is that it was respondent's addiction to alcohol and the resultant compulsive need for another mood altering substance to satisfy that addiction, which caused him to become addicted to marijuana. It was the underlying alcoholism and the self medication of that condition with marijuana, which constitutes the handicap. Evidence of respondent's addiction was shown not just by his excessive use of mood altering substances but also by his behavior. Except for his teaching, prior to 1988, his life (from high school on) centered around his use of alcohol. Similarly, when he changed to using marijuana, his life focused on the marijuana use, the growing and cultivating of it, to the exclusion of social activities. He completely isolated himself from the rest of society.

The Board claims that respondent made a voluntary choice to use marijuana. This is directly refuted not just by respondent, but also by his treating psychiatrist, Dr. Black , who devotes much of her practice to treating addicted patients and who testified that he acted under a compulsion. Dr. Goberman, a medical doctor and also an addiction specialist, testified similarly. The fact is, that respondent when he began to use marijuana, believed he was faced with either satisfying his addiction by continuing the use of alcohol and risking extreme pain and possible death or satisfying that addiction with some other mood altering substance. Unfortunately, he found marijuana. Obviously, and as the testimony confirms, the decision to marijuana was not the voluntary determination of a recreational user to violate the law as the Board suggests, but an act of a desperate addict with no choice.

The Board cites a number of cases which involved the use of marijuana on a casual basis for recreational purposes and describes the various penalties imposed upon individuals who have been found guilty of, or admitted to possession. See for example, The Tenure Hearing of Robert Valenti, School District of the Township of Monroe, Gloucester County, 1990 (OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4296-89). Valenti was temporarily suspended from his employment as a teacher upon being found in possession of marijuana. These cases are inapplicable to the case at bar. None involved an individual who was an addict suffering from a long history of severe alcoholism and who became cross-addicted as did respondent due to a compulsion to satisfy that addiction. See also Cahill, supra. These casual recreation user cases are clearly distinguishable. What is also important about the Valenti case is the penalty imposed. In the instant case, the Board does not seek to punish respondent with the severe penalty of suspension, as was the case in Valenti, supra, but to terminate his teaching career, which is the ultimate penalty.

The Board attempts to refute the application of Cahill, supra, speculating that respondent's testimony about his marijuana use was not credible. The implication of this somehow being that respondent was not using the marijuana for himself by engaged in the sale of it for profit. No proof was presented to support such an assertion. Moreover, respondent had a full jury trial and was found not guilty of any charge of having to do with the distribution or sale of marijuana. Respondent's testimony as to the amounts of marijuana he smoked was admittedly based upon estimates. He smoked whatever marijuana he had available for him to smoke. While it is true that his consumption was great, this was consistent with his excessive use of alcohol and affirmatively demonstrates that he was unquestionably an addict.

The Board argues that none of the experts testified that they have ever encountered anyone smoking as much marijuana as respondent. This is simply not true. Dr. Morgan, a renowned pharmacologist from City University of New York, testified that he had encountered many others who smoked just as much marijuana or more than respondent did and were able to function in important jobs, not just adequately, but successfully. The Court can take judicial notice that frequently substantial drug/alcohol abusers are found not only in the business world but in professional sports, acting, politics and other fields. Many of these individuals are in fact high achievers. Dr. Morgan further testified that respondent could easily have functioned adequately on the job, and engaged in jogging and other types of activities despite smoking marijuana. The Board's claims to the contrary are mere speculation and should not be considered. Even the expert presented to the Court by the Board did not deny that it was possible for respondent to smoke the amount which he estimated.

Importantly, what the Board fails to mention in its argument concerning respondent's credibility is that the State Police conducted an in depth investigation of respondent, both prior to his arrest and after. Prior to his arrest, respondent was placed under surveillance and followed and observed on numerous occasions. Sophisticated technology such as a heat sensing thermal imaging device was used to detect marijuana. After his arrest, his vehicle and apartment were thoroughly searched. The State police went to the trouble of taking an extensive inventory, seizing evidence, taking multiple photographs and even preparing a video tape. Despite all this, no direct evidence could be found linking respondent to the distribution of any marijuana. There were no large amounts of money found, no telephone numbers of customers or phone books. Even though respondent kept extensive records, not one single document was found indicating that marijuana was ever sold or even given away. Moreover, there was no evidence that respondent ever had visitors so as to be able to distribute the marijuana. All of the evidence was consistent with his personal use.

The Board claims that respondent had an elaborate system for growing marijuana and that this is evidence of intent to distribute. Again, however, this is based upon mere speculation and simply not true. Furthermore, when one considers the fact that respondent was growing marijuana in his bedroom and in a living room closet, and as the photographs presented in court show, much of his marijuana growing materials were located around and under his bed, this certainly was not an elaborate operation which you might expect from someone who was distributing marijuana. What respondent's growing methods do show as that he was a pathetic addict consumed with providing himself with an adequate supply of the substance he needed to maintain his addiction.

The Board also argues that respondent never appeared in school intoxicated and this is evidence that he could not have smoked what he says he smoked. Again, however, when one considers respondent's excessive use of alcohol, and the fact that he never appeared in school drunk or intoxicated, the fact that he never appeared intoxicated in school while using marijuana is entirely consistent with his behavior in the past. Moreover, obviously the intoxicating effect of marijuana depends on the individual and varying factors, including potency and individual tolerance. No evidence was presented by the Board in this regard to indicate respondent was anything but truthful.

Respondent is entitled to the protection of the LAD. His addiction to alcohol and marijuana is a handicap, which prevented him from the normal exercise of bodily and mental functions and was demonstrable both medically and psychologically.

POINT II
EDWARD KOZIC HAS BEEN REHABILITATED AND
THEREFORE IS ENTITLED TO REASONABLE
ACCOMMODATION AS A HANDICAPPED PERSON
UNDER THE NEW JERSEY LAW AGAINST DISCRIMINATION.

N.J.A.C. 13:13-2.5(b) requires that an individual who has a handicap is entitled to be reasonably accommodated by his/her employer for that particular handicap. This provision requires an employer to give another chance to an employee should he/she be an alcoholic and/or drug addict. In the Matter of Daniel Cahill, supra. The evidence has established without question that respondent has been rehabilitated. Since he was arrested, some three and a half years ago, he has not used alcohol or marijuana. He has presented proof of this in the form of negative random drug screening tests which have been conducted by both Dr. Black and Dr. Goberman. Dr. Black, who is respondent's treating psychiatrist, and who treats many addicts, testified that respondent now recognizes the nature of his illness and has learned to cope with the anxiety associated with that illness in ways other than drinking alcohol and smoking marijuana. She found that respondent is now capable of acting responsibly as a role model and teacher without the use of illegal drugs and alcohol. She testified respondent has been rehabilitated. Dr. Goberman a medical doctor and also an addiction specialist, echoed Dr. Black's findings. He testified that based upon his experience and the in depth interviews conducted with respondent, that he has been rehabilitated and that the treatment undergone by respondent under the direction of Dr. Black has been successful.

As the record shows, respondent has had extensive psychotherapy. He has attended over 150 AA meetings. As shown by the report of his probation officer, his conduct has been "exemplary". Witnesses who were neighbors of respondent, Donna Van Sant and Albert Giberson testified that since respondent was arrested they have noticed a change in his personality, that he is more open, and that he recognizes his problem and is dealing with it. Each valued highly respondent's integrity and trustworthiness, and instances were cited occurring after his conviction, where this had actually been put to the test.

Lee Sutton a fellow teacher, and who also was respondent's department chairman/boss while respondent was actively employed with the Board, testified that based upon his recent contacts with respondent, he believes respondent now recognizes his problem, and is able to control his addictions. George Kull, another teacher for whom respondent had performed his student teaching many years ago testified likewise. Both Mr. Sutton and Mr. Kull also testified they had observed a change in his personality, that he was more open and that he has indicated to them that his use of alcohol and marijuana was totally wrong. Each felt that respondent should be allowed to return to teaching. They felt respondent would make a good role model to students, in that he had himself suffered from addictions and would be able to tell students who are faced with those choices on a daily basis, about the evils of what alcohol and drugs such as marijuana, can do to an individual.

The Board cites N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 claiming that under this statute respondent is prohibited from being employed by the Board as a result of his conviction for possession of marijuana. However, as admitted by the Board, Section (e) of the statute specifically allows for continued employment under circumstances where there is a drug related criminal conviction and where the individual involved affirmatively demonstrates by clear and convincing evidence that he/she has been rehabilitated. Based on this statute alone, ignoring the applicability of LAD, respondent has made that affirmative demonstration. There has been absolutely no evidence presented by the Board whatsoever to indicate to the contrary. Clearly respondent has been punished enough and should be given a second chance.

The Board also questions respondent's ability to be a role model, citing his alleged conduct in the past in telling students of the dangers of drug use. This evidence actually supports respondent's position in that it establishes that despite his addictions, respondent never let that interfere with his duties and responsibilities as a teacher. The fact that he cautioned against drug use is indicative of his unhappiness with his own addictions. Obviously, he did not want his students to follow in his footsteps. By giving respondent a second chance this would demonstrate to students that there is a place in society for those who are rehabilitated. If students are using drugs and see respondent terminated, what incentive would they have to be up front about their problems.

The Board also makes the unfounded claim that for respondent to become employed it would be a hazard to individuals or others under N.J.A.C. 13:13-2.5(b). In fact, respondent has never been a hazard and his school record is direct evidence of this. There has never even been an allegation that respondent's use of marijuana or alcohol involved students or even took place on school property. His record shows that he never failed to fulfill his duties and responsibilities as a teacher. The evidence presented by the Board's own witnesses, as well as Lee Sutton and George Kull was that respondent was always a professional, did a good job, and was well respected by students and faculty. His integrity was never questioned.

The Board speaks of the "unknown" harm which may have been caused to students whom respondent taught or who he might teach in the future. This allegation is pure speculation. In fact it directly contradicts the testimony developed at trial that respondent always performed admirably and was well respected by everyone. No evidence was introduced to the contrary as a basis for the Board to even hint at such an assertion. This argument simply has no merit.

Even were there to be future concerns about rehabilitation, this can be easily alleviated by requiring as a condition of employment that respondent submit to periodic random drug screening tests at the request of the Board. Respondent would gladly submit to this and welcomes such an opportunity. This would be a reasonable accommodation. In fact, this manner of proceeding was recognized by the Appellate Division in Cahill supra at 401.

In the Howard case, supra, the petitioner Board there, raised an argument similar to that which the Board raises herein concerning respondent's ability to be rehabilitated because of his addictions. In Howard, it was argued that because Dorothy Howard was an alcoholic, this in and of itself would not make her a good role model to students. The Board claimed that students would be negatively affected by her alcoholism and that a relapse was predictable and that this would translate into the tolerance of substandard classroom performance. The State Board flatly rejected this argument finding that the record had demonstrated that Howard had successfully addressed the underlying cause of her problems, and that she was able to return to work. It further went on to find that inasmuch as nothing had been presented to warrant a conclusion to the contrary, Howard was entitled to continue her career as a teacher. The State Board found that to retroactively punish Howard based upon mere archaic stereo-typical assumptions expressed with respect to alcoholism and how it would affect an individual must be rejected. Id. at pg. 6. In the instant case, there is no reason why respondent's addictions and subsequent rehabilitation should be treated any differently.

The Board argues that inasmuch as marijuana is illegal, this interferes with respondent's ability to be able to teach. Again, no evidence is presented to substantiate this, and therefore the argument must be rejected. Moreover, by analogy such a distinction is faulty. Alcoholism has been recognized as a handicap. Alcohol is illegal for students to use. In fact, alcohol itself was an illegal substance during prohibition and it was only after public outcry that it be legalized, and a constitutional amendment passed, that it was in fact legalized. Clearly, the State Board has found that an alcoholic should be given an opportunity to be rehabilitated and return to public employment as a teacher. There is no reason why respondent, an alcoholic who is cross addicted to marijuana should not be treated similarly since he has now likewise shown he has been rehabilitated.

The evidence presented is such that respondent has been rehabilitated. Important further evidence of rehabilitation is the fact that respondent was employed as a vocational instructor for individuals with brain injuries for approximately 18 months and has been employed part time as a teacher since September 1994, with the Gloucester County Special Services with no adverse consequences. Respondent would represent a positive influence and good role model for students. As indicated through respondent's testimony and also the testimony of Dr. Black, teaching represented one of the most important aspects of respondent's life. There is no question, based on his employment record and the testimony of not just the witnesses proffered by respondent, but also the Board's own witnesses, that he was totally dedicated to his profession. Dr. Black testified that teaching was probably the only source of joy that respondent had in his life. In fact it was the suspension from his teaching job which drove him into therapy. He should be allowed a second chance to return to teaching, his only career, now that he has been rehabilitated.

The parties submitted additional arguments which are not considered here. Nor are their arguments submitted subsequent to the close of the record considered.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

There is no doubt nor question that respondent is an alcoholic who is presently recovering from the disorder. Alcoholism has been classified as a handicapping condition, Clowes, supra, and, therefore, susceptible to the antidiscriminatory LAD provisions, which defines a handicapped person. N.J.S.A. 10:5-5(g). During the period respondent was employed by the Board, respondent suffered under the handicap. It did not, however, impede his ability to perform in the classroom. There is no allegation or evidence that petitioner was ever under the influence of alcohol while performing his teaching and related duties. The evidence does show that respondent was frequently absent from duty on Mondays, following a weekend of drinking, and days following a holiday for the same reason. Certain members of the Board's administration suspected that respondent was having a problem with alcohol when his pattern of absence was brought to respondent's attention. Once the pattern of absenteeism was brought to respondent's attention, he immediately remedied the faulty behavior and ceased to be absent from his school duties on days following weekends and holidays.

The record clearly demonstrates that as a consequence of respondent's heavy consumption of alcohol, he suffered frequent and painful attacks of pancreatitis. These attacks caused respondent to be hospitalized on several occasions. As a result of respondent's continued attacks of pancreatitis, his physician recommended that respondent enter an alcohol detoxification and rehabilitation program. Respondent failed and/or refused to follow his physician's advice. Nor did he make a request of the Board to accommodate him by allowing him to engage in an alcohol detoxification and rehabilitation program. Rather, respondent ceased drinking alcoholic beverages on his own.

Subsequently, respondent commenced to use marijuana as a substitute for the alcohol which he had given up. Because of the expense and high cost of purchasing marijuana from street dealers of the illegal substance, respondent made a considered decision to grow his own marijuana. Respondent purchased sophisticated lighting equipment and timers, among other things, and converted his apartment into a nursery for the growing and nurturing of marijuana in its various growing cycles. Respondent also carried out a plan to conceal his illicit conduct by placing tar paper over windows of his apartment so that his activity could not be detected from outside of his apartment. He also devised a sliding door, or false wall, in his apartment to separate the growing plants from his sleeping area. He incorporated fans and timers to control the growth of the plants. In addition, he used scales to weigh the harvests and used other devices to prepare for its consumption.

Respondent engaged in the illegal and clandestine operation of growing marijuana from about August 1988 until November 6, 1991, a period of more than three years. During that period of three and a quarter years, respondent did not seek the aid of any of the Board's employees or agents for the purpose of detoxification, rehabilitation or counseling for his alleged cross addiction to marijuana. Rather, he continued his consumption of the CDS while performing his teaching duties during the three academic years, without admitting to any addictive behavior or conduct. In fact, respondent ignored his physician's advice and neglected to seek aid and assistance from anyone for his problem.

The record demonstrates that at the time of his arrest on November 6, 1991, respondent had 409 marijuana plants in his possession. It was on the basis of respondent's arrest and criminal charges against him, for the possession of marijuana, that the Board brought the tenure charges of conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member. Respondent was not charged by the Board for any alcoholic related offenses. Nor did the Board charge respondent with the use of marijuana. Rather the Board's charges against respondent are for his violation of the laws of the State of New Jersey.

On October 20, 1993, respondent was found guilty by the Superior Court of New Jersey of violating the New Jersey Code of Criminal Justice, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:35-10.a(3), for the "Possession of more than 50 grams of marijuana. . ." On December 10, 1993, the Court ordered respondent to one (1) year probation with the condition that he continue psychiatric counseling. The Court further ordered respondent to pay fines and fees in the amount of $850 and his driver license was suspended for a term of six months. Respondent received credit for the two days he spent in jail subsequent to his arrest on November 6, 1991.

The Law of LAD was enacted to protect all classes of citizens against the evils of discriminatory acts. Evans v. Ross, 57 N.J Super 223 (App.Div. 1959), cert. den. 31 N.J.292 (1960). Specifically, at N.J.S.A. 10:5-4.1 and N.J.S.A.10:5-5(a), it defines and protects handicapped persons against discriminatory acts. The LAD was not, however, designed to promote, foster or encourage criminal activity. In fact, the statute explicitly prohibits such activity where, at N.J.S.A. 10:5-21, it states:

Nothing contained in this act or P.L. 1945, c. 169 (C. 10:5-1 et seq.) shall be construed to require or authorize any act prohibited by law, . . .

The Board herein brought tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent for his criminal activity, not for any handicap he is alleged to have suffered. Respondent clearly engaged in an act prohibited by law.

He was subsequently convicted of the criminal offense of possession of more than 50 grams of marijuana, N.J.S.A. 2C:35-10.a.(3), a serious crime for anyone, but especially a teaching staff member. The Commissioner addressed such conduct in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of David Earl Humphreys, School District of the Township of Pennsville, Salem County, 1978 S.L.D. 689, where he incorporated the language of the Honorable Norman Telsey, JSC upon Humphrey's conviction of the possession of CDS. Judge Telsey said:

We are in the midst of a sociological crisis. We have an unusual amount of crimes committed today. It has been increased dramatically just over the past few years and among the many crimes being committed are crimes involving drugs, particularly among the younger generation. Many crimes have been committed either as a result of drug usage or have been motivated by the need for funds to make drug purchases. I believe that one of the reasons that the younger people are flaunting laws today is because they do look to their elders for an example and when their elders or people in authority don't set the proper example, in my judgment, this does create a serious and sometimes deleterious effect upon the minds of the younger people. I believe that one who is vested with a public trust to teach has an opportunity and does mold the minds of his pupils, not only through the teaching of the academic curriculum but for the example he sets in his lifestyle. It appears to me that it is the duty of everyone, particularly those who set examples, to uphold the laws while they presently exist. I find that you did not--not only failed to uphold it but you openly flaunted it. I believe that this can be a very serious effect upon the pupils whose minds you help mold and who look to you to set an example. It could encourage your pupils to do likewise.

The Commissioner continued to say in Humphreys that:

Teachers are public employees who hold positions demanding public trust and in such positions they teach, inform and mold habits and attitudes, and influence the opinions of their pupils. Pupils learn, therefore, not only what they are taught by the teacher, but what they see, hear, experience, and learn about the teacher. When a teacher deliberately and willfully violate the law, as in this matter, and consequently violates the public trust placed in him, he must expect dismissal or other sever penalty as set by the Commissioner.

The Commissioner determined that Humphreys had not continued to serve and exhibit "good behavior" as described in N.J.S.A. 18A:25.5 which reads in part as follows:

The services of all teaching staff members including all teachers. . . shall be under tenure during good behavior. . . and shall not be dismissed. . . except for. . . conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause. . .

The Commissioner, in Humphreys, also relied upon the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, which states, in part, that:

No person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation,

(a) if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position of employment during good behavior. . . in the public school system of the state. . . except for. . . unbecoming conduct, or other just cause

The Commissioner determined that Humphreys had forfeited his teaching position and upheld his dismissal 1977 S.L.D. 696. See also In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Wesley L. Meyers, School District of Gloucester City, 1976 S.L.D. 1024; In the Matter of the Tenure hearing of Emil J. Guasconi, School District of the Town of West New York, Hudson County, 1977 S.L.D. 517.

Thus, it was on the basis of respondent's criminal activity which the Board properly certified tenure charges before the Commissioner against respondent. The tenure charges were not as a consequence of respondent's alleged "handicap."

The record clearly demonstrates that respondent "cured" his addiction to the legal substance of alcohol. Respondent admits that he ceased to consume alcohol in or about April 1988. While he was addicted to alcohol, respondent's handicap was protected under the LAD and the Board, when so advised, was required to accommodate him by offering him counseling, providing approved time off from duty to attend detoxification and rehabilitation programs, among other things. Respondent, however, did not avail himself to such accommodation. Rather, he engaged in a serious criminal activity and, thus, lost his protection for a handicap under the LAD. N.J.S.A. 10:5-2.1.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that the action by the Board to seek respondent's dismissal from his tenured position was proper and in accordance with the law.

I CONCLUDE that respondent's defense of a handicap under the LAD is without merit given his engagement in criminal activity.

I CONCLUDE that the Board's action should be sustained and that respondent be dismissed from his tenured teaching position.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that respondent be and is hereby DISMISSED from his tenured teaching position as of the date of the Board's action to suspend him from duty in its employ.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ that respondent is not entitled to the statutory protection of the LAD, since the Board, when made aware that respondent had a previous addiction to alcohol, made reasonable accommodations to treat his dependency, of which respondent did not avail himself. Rather, respondent engaged in the serious criminal activity of cultivating and possessing a controlled dangerous substance in violation of the law.

Accordingly, for the reasons well-expressed therein, the Commissioner affirms the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law and hereby orders that respondent be dismissed from his tenured position with the Board as of the date of this decision. This matter will be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for action as it deems appropriate pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :
HEARING OF EDWARD KOZIC, SCHOOL: STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST : DECISION
DEPTFORD, GLOUCESTER COUNTY. :

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, August 7, 1995

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Raymond T. Page, Esq.

For the Respondent-Appellant, Selikoff & Cohen (Michael C. Damm, Esq., of Counsel)

This is an appeal from a Commissioner's decision which sustained tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against a tenured teacher of industrial arts (hereinafter "respondent") and directed his dismissal from his position with the West Deptford Township Board of Education. On appeal to the State Board, respondent claims that New Jersey's Law Against Discrimination prohibits this result. After reviewing the record in this case and the arguments of counsel, we reject respondent's argument and, as follows, we affirm the Commissioner's decision with modification.

The tenure charges against respondent were based on his conduct in possessing marijuana and in cultivating marijuana in his apartment for which he was arrested on November 6, 1991 and subsequently convicted in October 1993.

For the Board, Cherie L. Maxwell, Esq.

This matter having been opened before the Commissioner of Education on February 8, 1995, by way of Petition of Appeal alleging respondent failed to meet the terms of an agreement to pay the district outstanding tuition for his minor child's illegal attendance at petitioning school district; and

The Commissioner having directed respondent to file an answer by notice on February 16, 1995, and March 21, 1995, and by regular and certified mail on April 12, 1995, and, again, on June 7, 1995, and no answer having been filed, notwithstanding that regular mailings were not returned as undeliverable and the June 7, 1995 certified mailing was received by respondent, as indicated by signed receipt; and

Respondent having failed as of this date to comply with the directive of the Commissioner, so that each count of the charges against him is deemed to be admitted pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.4(e); now therefore

IT IS ORDERED this 8 day of August, 1995, that summary judgment shall be granted to the Board and that Clement "Anthony" Battifarano is hereby assessed tuition in the amount of $32,300, covering the four years of his son's illegal attendance in the Northern Valley Regional High School District.

Petitioner, a security officer who was charged with a disorderly person's offense of simple assault on the person of a student and was found not guilty by a municipal court judge, contested Board's refusal to pay his legal fees.

ALJ found that petitioner was entitled to indemnification by the Board, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1, for legal expenses incurred in the successful defense of the municipal court action. ALJ, however, found that petitioner was not entitled to reimbursement for subsequent legal expenses derived from the prosecution of the appeal to the Commissioner. (Cilento) ALJ also denied petitioner's claim for pre-judgment interest, stating the awarding of such interest was beyond the Commissioner's statutory jurisdictional power to entertain or ordain.

Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusion of the ALJ that petitioner was entitled to indemnification from the Board in the amount of $6,312.43 for legal expenses incurred in the successful defense of the disorderly person's charge against him. Commissioner further agreed that petitioner could not recover legal expense reimbursement for prosecution of the instant petition as there is no express statutory authorization for the award of counsel fees in actions brought before the Commissioner under education laws. (Balsley) Commissioner, however, corrected the ALJ's statement with respect to the issue of pre-judgment interest, noting that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.16, the Commissioner clearly has the discretion to award such interest where he has concluded that the denial of monetary claim was an action taken in bad faith and/or had been determined to have been taken in deliberate violation of statute or rule. After review of the record, the Commissioner found no evidence that Board's refusal to compensate petitioner could be attributed to any malevolent motive or was otherwise tainted with any element of bad faith. As such, Commissioner found petitioner was not entitled to pre-judgment interest. Board was directed to pay petitioner $6,312.43.

Decided: June 27, 1995

BEFORE JAMES A. OSPENSON, ALJ:

Dennis Smith, a security officer employed by the Board of Education of the Borough of Roselle, Union County, was charged with the disorderly person's offense of simple assault on the person of a student on May 6, 1992, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1a(1). He successfully defended that action through his attorney and was found not guilty by a municipal court judge on December 2, 1993 after trial. In a petition of appeal filed with the Commissioner of the Department of Education on May 16, 1994, he alleged the Board improperly denied his claim for indemnification and reimbursement of legal expenses in successful defense of the charge against him, thus contravening his rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1, which provides:

Should any criminal action be instituted against any [person holding any office, position or employment under the jurisdiction of any board of education] and should such proceeding be dismissed or result in a final disposition in favor of such person, the Board of Education shall reimburse him for the cost of defending such proceeding, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses of the original hearing or trial and all appeals.

The Board filed an answer on May 26, 1994 admitting sequence of events generally but denying liability or accountability for petitioner's cost of legal defense, alleging that petitioner's conduct did not constitute an act or omission arising out of or occurring in the course of performance of duties of his position as security officer, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1, and that the not-guilty verdict and judgment was not per se a finding petitioner had not committed corporal punishment on the student prohibited by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1. Accordingly, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on June 10, 1994 for hearing and determination as a contested case in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq.

On notice to the parties, it came on for hearing on June 26, 1995 and was concluded. The parties stipulated to all relevant and material propositions of fact, together with documentation, all of which were admitted into evidence. J-1; and see Exhibits A through O.

CONCLUSION

Based upon the stipulated record, I CONCLUDE petitioner is entitled to judgment in his favor in the amount of $63,012.43, representing legal expenses incurred in successful defense of the municipal court disorderly person's charge against him, a sum stipulated by the parties as reasonable and consequentially derived and incurred therefrom. Cf., Powers v. Board of Ed., Union City, 124 N.J. Super. 590, 592-98 (Law Div. 1973); and Cilento v. Board of Ed., Township of Hillside, 1985 S.L.D. 1523. Though entitled to indemnification by the Board for legal expenses before, during and through successful defense of the municipal court action, petitioner is not entitled to reimbursement for subsequent legal expenses derived from prosecution of the instant appeal to the Commissioner. Cilento, supra, at 1522. Petitioner's claim for "prejudgment interest" on the indemnificatory sum is DENIED for the period from Board's denial of claim to date of final judgment herein as beyond statutory jurisdictional power of the Commissioner to entertain or ordain. As to the Board, there is no competent or material evidence of record that the conduct generating the disorderly person's charge did not arise from or occur during the course of petitioner's educational employment; in fact, the converse has been stipulated. The Board's proffer of evidence and argument petitioner's alleged acts were so grave as to constitute conduct beyond scope of his employment is REJECTED as immaterial and speculative in view of acquittal on the charge and in view of the circumstance the Board instituted or prosecuted no employment action against petitioner as prohibited corporal punishment.

Findings and conclusions made part of the record at hearing are adopted and included herein by reference.

Judgment is ENTERED accordingly.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions."  BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE : DECISION BOROUGH OF ROSELLE, UNION :
 COUNTY, :

 RESPONDENT. :

The Board's exceptions assert that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) failed to adequately consider whether petitioner's acts actually arose out of and in the course of his employment as is required by N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1 to entitle him to indemnification for legal fees. Rather, it contends, the ALJ erroneously found that "because the actions for which the Petitioner was charged took place on school property and during working hours, the course of employment requirement was satisfied." (Board's Exceptions at p. 3) The Board avers that this interpretation of the statute is unsupported. It further avers that the ALJ denied it the opportunity to call witnesses who would have demonstrated that petitioner was acting outside the scope of his employment when he injured a student, i.e., the head of security who would have testified with respect to petitioner's job duties and the school nurse who would have testified regarding the nature of the student's injury.

Lastly, the Board maintains that certain acts are not subject to indemnification at all, regardless of when or where the conduct took place. It points to Scirrotto v. Warren Hills Bd. of Ed., 272 N.J.Super. 391 (App. Div. 1994), where in denying a teacher reimbursement of legal fees incurred in the successful defense against charges of bribery and threats, the court held

The facts underlying the criminal charge should be "analyzed strictly rather than liberally, so that reimbursement of legal fees and expenses should only ensue when the circumstances are such as to fit clearly within legislative limitations." (citations omitted) As a matter of policy, a public employee should not be "encouraged to engage in acts which may constitute crimes by the assurance that an acquittal on the charge will permit him to saddle defense costs upon the taxpayers of the community." (citations omitted) (Board's Exceptions at pp. 3-4)

The Board asserts that in light of this Appellate Division decision, it is clear that inquiry into the course of performance requirement must be more extensive than that performed by the ALJ herein. It, therefore, urges the Commissioner to remand this matter for further proceedings with respect to this threshold issue pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1.

In reply, petitioner asserts a contention that the ALJ's determination with respect to petitioner's actions herein arising out of and in the course of his employment was flawed requiring further proceedings is outrageous. Petitioner avers that the ALJ's decision in this regard was clearly founded on the Stipulation of Facts entered into by the parties and the Board's offer of proof as to the witnesses it would have testify to support its assertion. Petitioner proffers that the ALJ correctly determined that any testimony along the lines offered would either be irrelevant or unpersuasive as to the issue of whether petitioner acted in the due course of his employment. Petitioner posits that, based on the Board's offer of proof on the record, "no factual issue existed as to the reason for [petitioner's] action or motives at the time he came to the assistance of Joanna Rauch, a teacher at Abraham Clark High School, because she thought there were students in her homeroom in possession of explosives." (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 1)

Petitioner excepts to the ALJ's denial, pursuant to Cilento, supra, of his claim for indemnification for the additional expenses incurred in the prosecution of this appeal to the Commissioner. He urges the Commissioner to reconsider Cilento, and permit an opportunity for a petitioner to be made fully whole for legal fees necessary to enforce his statutory entitlement when, as is the case here, a board's denial of the claim is without merit and the equivalent of a frivolous pleading. Petitioner asserts that it has cost him $4,748.08 over and above the $6,312.43 expended below, for a total at the time of the hearing of $11,060.51, to compel payment from respondent in this matter. He asserts that his rising collection costs "defeat the spirit and benefit of eventual award of indemnification for attorneys fees given the amount of time and work necessary to effect actual payment by Respondent." (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 3) Petitioner also excepts to the ALJ's determination that the awarding of pre-judgment interest was beyond the jurisdictional power of the Commissioner to entertain or ordain. Petitioner asks the Commissioner to clarify his authority in this regard and to award him pre-judgment interest, as such would serve as a deterrent to boards, who clearly recognize their responsibility, delaying payment without any legitimate basis.

In response, the Board asserts that the ALJ was entirely correct in determining that petitioner was not entitled to reimbursement for legal expenses derived from prosecution of this appeal to the Commissioner, as no legal basis exists for a contention to the contrary. The Board observes that not only is such claim precluded by Cilento, supra which is directly on point with respect to this issue, it is also clear that “the Commissioner’s ‘statutory authority has not been construed or exercised to include the power to award counsel fees.’ Balsley v. N. Hunterdon Bd. of Ed., 117 N.J. 434, 442 (1990).” (Board’s Reply Exceptions at p. 2) The Board argues that petitioner, likewise, has presented no legal support for his claim for pre-judgment interest. It posits that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.16 such interest may be awarded by the Commissioner only if the actions taken by the Board were taken in bad faith and/or taken in deliberate violation of statute or code. In that petitioner has presented no evidence that the position of the Board, i.e., that petitioner’s actions in this matter did not arise out of or in the course of his employment, was not taken in good faith, he cannot qualify for the award of pre-judgment interest.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record in this matter, and after full consideration of the exception and reply exception arguments of the parties, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusion of the ALJ that, based upon the stipulated record, petitioner is entitled to judgment in his favor in the amount of $6,312.43, for legal expenses incurred in the successful defense of the disorderly person’s charge against him. Notwithstanding the Board’s arguments to the contrary, the Commissioner does not find this result altered by Scirrotto, supra, or the Board’s offer of proof with respect to testimony of the head of security or the school nurse.

The Commissioner further agrees that petitioner cannot recover legal expense reimbursement for prosecution of the instant Petition of Appeal, as there is no express statutory authorization for the award of counsel fees in actions brought before the Commissioner under education laws. (See Balsley supra; Cilento, supra.)

With regard to the ALJ's determination on petitioner's claim for pre-judgment interest, the Commissioner is compelled to correct the ALJ's statement, on page 3 of his decision, asserting that the awarding of pre-judgment interest is "beyond statutory jurisdictional power of the Commissioner to entertain or ordain." Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.16, the Commissioner clearly has the discretion to award pre-judgment interest in any circumstance in which a petitioner has sought such relief and has successfully established a claim to a monetary award. But, as the Board accurately notes in its reply exceptions, pre-judgment interest will only be awarded by the Commissioner in cases where he has concluded that the denial of the monetary claim was an action taken in bad faith and/or has been determined to have been taken in deliberate violation of statute or rule. After reviewing the within record, the Commissioner does not find any evidence that the Board's refusal to compensate petitioner can be attributed to any malevolent motive or is otherwise tainted with any element of bad faith. It appears that the Board advanced what it believed to be a meritorious defense to the reimbursement claim and is entitled to the benefit of any doubt concerning the sincerity of its conviction about that claim. As such, the Commissioner finds and determines that petitioner has no entitlement to pre-judgment interest in this matter.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of OAL, as modified above, is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons clearly articulated therein. The Board is hereby directed to pay petitioner $6,312.43, representing the legal expenses incurred in the successful defense of the municipal court disorderly person's charge against him.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning aunt and uncle contested Board's determination that their nephew M.P., whom they adopted, was ineligible for a free public education at Oakcrest High School. Board sought tuition for three semesters commencing in August 1993 .

ALJ found that M.P. had been a resident of the school district since August 1993 as he came to reside with petitioners not motivated solely by the desire to obtain a free education, but due to his mother's inability to provide him financial support and guidance. ALJ found that petitioners met their burden of proof that M.P. was entitled to a free education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE
AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

By letter dated August 9, 1994, respondent notified the petitioners that their minor adopted son, M.P. was not eligible to receive a free education at the Oakcrest High School. Petitioners' disagreed with the school board's decision and on December 15, 1994, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to be heard as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A hearing was conducted at the Atlantic City, OAL, 1201 Bacharach Boulevard, Atlantic City, New Jersey on June 1, 1995. The record was closed on June 1, 1995, with an Initial Decision being rendered on June 28, 1995.

ISSUE

WHETHER M.P. IS ENTITLED TO A FREE AND APPROPRIATE EDUCATION PURSUANT TO THE CRITERIA SET FORTH IN N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq.

FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Respondent contends that M.P. is not eligible to receive a free education at the Oakcrest High School pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. The respondent contends that M.P.'s adoption and relocation to the school district constitutes a unilateral self-serving placement of a child by his family for the purpose of acquiring an education within the respondent's district rather than as a result of a hardship beyond the control of the petitioners.

Petitioners, who bear the burden of proof in this matter, contend that M.P. was financially unable to remain with his natural mother and that he came to live with them in order to obtain a more stable family environment as well as to receive an education.

The applicable statute is N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. This statute affords individuals over 5 and under 20 years old a free education provided that several criteria are met. The respondent stipulated that the petitioners, as well as M.P., are residents of the school district. Accordingly, the petitioners meet the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). The respondent contends, however, that the provisions of subsection (b)1 of the statute have not been met because M.P. did not come to reside with the petitioners, his aunt and uncle, because of any hardship. This section reads:

Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. . .

Since August 1993, M.P. has lived with his aunt and uncle, petitioners in this matter. He formerly resided in St. Cruix, Virgin Islands. At the age of four his father died and at the time he came to live with the petitioners, his mother had 12 children. M.P.'s natural mother never worked outside of the home, and in August 1993, there were approximately five brothers and sisters residing in the home.

M.P.'s aunt, Mrs. D.E., testified that M.P.'s mother, H.P., asked them if M.P. could reside in their home. Mrs. D.E. testified that H.P. stated that M.P. was becoming a man and beginning to associate with the wrong crowd. She was seeking a more stable family environment that H.P. felt the petitioners could provide.

This information was also contained in the affidavit that H.P. filed with the respondent. In this affidavit she also indicated that she was financially unable to assist M.P. with any support other than the social security survivor's check that he receives each month. She further averred that it was not her sole purpose just to send M.P. to the petitioners in order to receive a free public school education since this was also available to him in St. Cruix, Virgin Islands.

Mrs. D.E. testified that M.P. has resided with them ever since arriving in August 1993, and that he has only returned home to visit his mother once for a one month period. In August 1993, H.P. gave the petitioners a Power of Attorney wherein she relinquished all rights as M.P.'s mother. M.P.'s social security checks were also turned over to the petitioners as guardians for M.P.

On August 6, 1994, the Superior Court, Chancery Division, Atlantic County, granted permanent custody of M.P. to the petitioners. Petitioners testified that since arriving at their home they have provided all financial support and guidance to M.P. They further indicated that he is a part of their family which consists of two other children. The petitioners testified that when coming to live with them in August 1993, M.P. understood that the arrangement was permanent and has remained so to this date.

M.P. turned 18 years old on January 30, 1995. As a result, the respondent stipulated that the period of ineligibility is for the 1993-94 school year and only the 1994 fall semester, in sum, three semesters.

Respondent submitted an affidavit of amount due of Ralph Martin in support of the costs per student for the relevant time period. The costs are as follows:

School Year 1993-94.	$ 8,000.00
School Year 1994-95 through 6/95.	$ 8,500.00
Total Due as of June 1, 1995.	$16,500.00

I FIND that M.P. has been a resident of the school district since August 1993. During this time period up until the present, he has been supported financially by receiving social security survivor's benefits as well as receiving the financial support of the petitioners. Based upon the testimony of the petitioners as well as the affidavit of H.P., I FIND that M.P. came to reside with the petitioners due to his mother's inability to provide for him financially and because she wanted him to receive the guidance of the petitioners and to be part of a more stable family environment than what H.P. was able to provide. I FIND that the petitioners at all times intended to have M.P. reside permanently in their home and that M.P. has done so since August 1993.

Accordingly, I herein CONCLUDE that the petitioners have met their burden to demonstrate that M.P. is entitled to a free education pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq. I make this conclusion despite the lack of any involvement by a social service agency or the New Jersey Division of Youth and Family Services to be involved with the placement of M.P. from the Virgin Islands to the petitioners. Instead, I CONCLUDE that M.P.'s move to the school district was not motivated solely by a desire to obtain a free education, but instead was motivated by his mother's desire to provide him with a more stable life. Accordingly, I herein FIND that M.P. has met the criteria set forth at N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq. and is thus entitled to a free and appropriate education.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Pursuant to a letter request from Raoul C. Cordeaux dated April 19, 1995, the Commissioner directed his representative from the Office of the Monmouth County Superintendent of Schools to conduct a recount of machine ballots cast for members of the Board for three-year terms pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.2. The machine recount was conducted on May 15, 1995 at the Monmouth County Voting Machine Warehouse in Freehold. A request for a recount of absentee ballots was made to Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 19:57-24, and the recount was eventually conducted on August 3, 1995.

On recount, the results of the election were as follows:

Three-Year Term

Theresa Styslinger Casagrande	398	62	460

*No separate request was made for a recount of ballots cast for the two-year seat. However, these ballots were recounted as part of the proceedings initiated by Mr. Cordeaux and are accordingly reported herein.

This concludes the report of the Commissioner's representative.

* * * * *

The Commissioner has reviewed the report of his authorized representative and adopts as his own the findings and conclusions therein.

Accordingly, the Commissioner finds and determines that, as originally announced, Theresa Styslinger Casagrande and Susan Ciallella were elected to full terms of three years each, and Colette Hayes-Labruto to an unexpired term of two years, on the Board of Education of the Borough of Spring Lake Heights.

The Commissioner further directs that a copy of this decision be forwarded to the Office of Administrative Law for inclusion in the record of the inquiry presently pending into the conduct of the above-captioned election.

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, tenured Teacher of Interior Design who was rified, contended he was terminated due to age discrimination and his exercise of free speech. Petitioner sought reemployment with compensation.

ALJ found that petitioner failed to prove that the Board acted in bad faith and in violation of the law in its RIF determination and the abolition of his position. ALJ found that Board exercised its discretionary authority to eliminate a program with low and declining enrollment, low rate of student retention and lack of job placement. Thus, it had good cause for its determination to abolish the program and petitioner's position. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

v.

OCEAN COUNTY VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL SCHOOL DISTRICT,

Record Closed: June 8, 1995

Decided: July 11, 1995

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner Michael Guarini was a tenured teacher of courses in the Ocean County Vocational-Technical School's interior design program. The school's board of education, citing (1) declining enrollment for the program for the past five years, (2) the rate of retention of students for the program, and (3) the lack of job placement for the students attending the program, eliminated the interior design program and, as a reduction in force (RIF), abolished the petitioner's position. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9; N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20, -22.

The petitioner alleges the following: He is "almost sixty (60) years of age and was one of the older [tenured members of the school's] teaching staff." The school "resisted every effort [he] made . . . to properly market the Interior Design Program in order to increase the number of students enrolled within said program." He "clashed" with school administrators regarding "the direction of the Interior Design Program" and his criticisms of the "[a]dministration's failure to consider the interests of the students in contemplating the possible elimination of the . . . [p]rogram." The school "continues to maintain other programs . . . with similar low enrollments in specialized programs." The school implemented the RIF "without good cause," "to punish . . . [him for] his exercise of his constitutionally protected freedom of speech rights that he had exercised in attempting to support his students and the . . . Interior Design Program," and "because of [his] age," and, therefore, in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, -10. Based upon these allegations and claims the petitioner demands that the school "re-employ" him with back pay and benefits. Petition; R-C.

The school denies the petitioner's allegations, submits that the petitioner has failed to present evidence sufficient to prove his allegations or even create a genuine issue of material fact, and moves for summary decision, dismissing his case.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On July 22, 1994, the petitioner's petition was filed with the Department of Education and, on August 30, 1994, the school's answer was so filed. The Department transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on September 13, 1994, it was received and filed as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9; N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). By my letter dated November 3, 1994, I set forth a schedule for discovery, etc. Thereafter, the case was the subject of a conference. On May 8, 1995, the school's papers in support of this motion were filed; on May 31, 1995, the petitioner's papers in opposition to the motion were filed; and, on June 8, 1995, the school's letter memorandum in response to the petitioner's brief was filed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Beginning in 1987, the petitioner was employed as a teacher in the Ocean County Vocational-Technical School's interior design program.

The school's records show that enrollment in the interior design program was as follows:

As of:	A.M. Session	P.M. Session	Total Students
September 1988	13	9	22
June 1989	10	6	16
September 1989	6	11	17
June 1990	6	8	14
September 1990	8	13	21
June 1991	8	11	19
September 1991	11	6	17
June 1992	8	6	14
September 1992	4	10	14
June 1993	5	6	11
September 1993	4	8	12

[R-A1]

On May 12, 1993, the school contacted high school principals, asking them to encourage students to enroll in vocational programs with low and declining enrollment,, including the interior design program. R-F1. Also, in advertisements appearing in several newspapers circulated in Ocean County and elsewhere on May 31 and June 1, 1993, the school invited prospective students to "Come to the Interior Design & Decorative Services OPEN HOUSE," "contact the school or [the petitioner] at 908-920-0050," and "[r]egister now." R-C1; R-D1. Also, on a billboard placed in front of the school, the school invited prospective students to "ENROLL

NOW” in the interior design and decorative services program and advertised “SCHOLARSHIPS [and] FINANCIAL AID” in that regard. R-E1. Also, an “Interior Design and Decorative Services” handbill was printed and distributed describing the program; representing that “after completing the Interior Design program” “[t]here are many employment opportunities to choose from”; representing that the school would “also provide . . . planning for an effective job search”; and requesting that prospective students “fill out . . . and mail back” the post office card made part of the handbill. R-I. Also, in the Asbury Park Press column written by the petitioner and in other newspaper articles, he publicized his program. R-C.

Despite the above-described efforts, enrollment in the interior design course declined. The school surveyed its interior design graduates and summarized the survey results as follows:

[R-B1]

In a memorandum dated March 8, 1994, Ann Grace, the assistant superintendent of the Ocean County Vocational-Technical Schools, notified the petitioner of the following:

You recently submitted a proposal to Dr. Felice indicating that you would like to divide your program into an AM & PM session. You recommend that the AM session would be devoted to Decorating & Design Services which will include drapery making, picture framing, wall and window treatments, upholstery and accessories.

A review of your Com Link guide indicates that each of these areas are now included in your program. By separating the curriculum elements as you recommend, you would only limit your enrollment further. Students wanting Interior Design could sign up for the PM session only. I suggest, as part of your present program, you identify students who have an interest in a design service and work with that student to perhaps locate an entry level job shadowing experience or part-time job which would provide the student with related experience.

Attached you will find a course description for Interior Design at a local high school. Note that two areas covered in Interior Design II are college portfolio preparation and computer assisted design. These are two elements essential to the success of a modern interior design program. Minutes from your advisory board meetings all refer to computer drafting as occupationally relevant. Are you making any effort to introduce this new technology into your program? I suggest the following:

1. Take an evening computer course at OCVTS.
2. Ask Mr. Sharkey if you and your students could take field trips to the Toms River Center where the class could obtain some initial instruction in the use of CADD.
3. Initiate a relationship with Brookdale Community College where the Interior Design Program is linked to architecture.

While I can sympathize with your enrollment situation, you must realize all teachers must adopt [sic] their teaching techniques to keep pace with today's technology. I also suggest you take a serious look at the type of project you do each year and your job placement record.

I appreciate your sending me the minutes of your advisory committee meetings; however, I do not consider a telephone conversation held from home to constitute a meeting.

An active advisory board is imperative to strong job placement and keeping pace with your industry.

If you have immediate plans to address these suggestions, please let me know.

[R-G]

By letter dated April 21, 1994, Frederick W. Felice, Ed. D., the superintendent of the Ocean County Vocational-Technical Schools, notified the petitioner of the following:

It is with great reluctance that I must advise you that effective June 30, 1994, your employment in this District will be terminated. The reasons for this termination are as follows:

1. Declining enrollment for the Interior Design Program for the past five years.
2. The rate of retention of students for this Program.
3. The lack of job placement for the students attending said Program.

As a result of the above conditions, I have decided to recommend the elimination of the Interior Design Program. Please be assured that this consideration and conclusion was reached only after much anguish and deliberations on behalf of the Board of Education and myself.

Please understand that the Board of Education will be discussing this matter in private Executive Session since it involves personnel issues. However, under the provisions of the Open Public Meetings Act, you have the right to request the Board to discuss the matter in a public session of the Board meeting that has been scheduled for Tuesday, April 26, 1994 at 8:00 a.m. You also have the right to have representation of your choice present with you. If you wish the matter to be discussed in Open Session, please notify Board Secretary, Mrs. Carolann Bonnell, at 349-8385 by noon on Monday, April 25, 1994.

If you wish to attend the Board meeting on the above-mentioned date either in private session or public session, please be assured that we will provide a substitute teacher for you if need be to allow you to attend said meeting. In the event that this is needed, please contact Mrs. Carolann Bonnell again at the above-mentioned number to request the same.

[R-A, italics added.]

By letter dated May 3, 1994, Dr. Felice notified the petitioner of the following:

As I am sure you are aware, and pursuant to the Rice letter that was sent to you on April 21, 1994, on Tuesday, April 26, 1994, the Board of Education of the Ocean County Vocational-Technical Schools conducted an Executive Session to discuss the terms and conditions of your future employment with the Ocean County Vocational-Technical Schools.

It should be noted that you had the opportunity to be represented by Mr. Charles Walker who accompanied you to the Executive Session. You had also requested that this hearing be conducted in Closed Session.

It is with great reluctance that I must advise you that at the aforementioned Executive Session, the Board determined that the position you currently hold as an Interior Design Instructor will not be available for the 1994-1995 school year. As a result, the Board cannot offer you employment in this capacity for the forthcoming year. The reasons for said determination of the Board are as follows:

1. Declining enrollment for the Interior Design Program for the past five years.
2. The rate of retention of students for this Program.
3. The lack of job placement for the students attending said Program.

4. As a result of the above, the Board has determined that it would be in the best interests of the District to abolish your full-time day program for Interior Design, effective June 30, 1994.

As I am sure you are aware, the above decision was determined as a result of the current enrollment factor as set forth above.

If, in the event, however, enrollment increases, the Board has indicated that it would have no objection to reinstating the Interior Design Program, in a Post-Secondary Evening Program. Naturally, the enrollment will have to sufficiently increase to warrant the reinstatement of this particular Program. In the event enrollment does increase and the Program is added, as set forth above, the Board will notify you and offer you the opportunity to once again teach said Program.

I want to take this opportunity to thank you for the service you have provided to the Ocean County Vocational-Technical Schools over the past years.

Naturally, if you have any questions, please feel free to contact me.

[R-B, italics added.]

The petitioner alleges the following: He is "almost sixty (60) years of age and was one of the older [tenured members of the school's] teaching staff." The school "resisted every effort [he] made . . . to properly market the Interior Design Program [he taught] in order to increase the number of students enrolled within said program." For example, "during the 1989 school year [he] compiled a package of . . . information for . . . a brochure for [the] Interior Design Program"; however, the brochure was not prepared and disseminated by the school until the program's last year. For example also, during the "1992-93 school year" he was "required . . . to utilize all of his students . . . in a project referred to as the Good Cents House Project," which forced him to "put [his] Room Display project largely on hold" and the "room display newspaper article did not come out until the first week in June, 1992 which was too late to use for recruiting the following year." For example also, Dr. Felice "repeatedly cancelled meetings [the petitioner had] scheduled with him to discuss [his] proposal for improving enrollment." The petitioner "clashed" with school administrators regarding "the direction of the Interior Design Program [program]" and his criticisms of the “[a]dministration’s failure to consider the interests of the students in contemplating the possible elimination of the . . . [p]rogram.” Following the petitioner’s receipt of Dr. Felice’s April 21, 1994 letter, during the open house on June 1, 1994, the petitioner obtained “one solid enrollment application” and “there were at least 8 other students who took applications with the intent to enroll in the Interior Design class for 1994-95.” The school “continues to maintain other programs . . . with similar low enrollments in specialized programs.” The school abolished the interior design program and subjected the petitioner to the RIF “without good cause,” “to punish [him] . . . because of his exercise of his constitutionally protected freedom of speech rights that he had exercised in attempting to support his students and the . . . Interior Design Program,” and “because of [his] age.” Petition; R-C.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

N.J.S.A. 18A:54-1 to -4 and N.J.S.A. 18A:54-11 to -41 govern county vocational schools. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20(d) states that the board of education of a county vocational school, such as the respondent, may, inter alia, “[e]mploy and dismiss . . . teachers”; N.J.S.A. 18A:54-22 states that a vocational school teacher “shall have all rights and privileges of teachers . . . in school districts.”

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, which governs the rights and privileges of teachers in school districts, states:

Nothing in this title or any other law relating to tenure of service shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article.

A board of education has broad discretionary authority and its actions are entitled to a presumption of lawfulness and good faith. Schinck v. Westwood Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 448 (App. Div. 1960); Quinlan v. North Bergen Tp. Bd. of Educ., 73 N.J. Super. 40, 46 (App.

Div. 1962). This presumption extends to a board's determination that, for reasons of economy, a tenured employee may be subject to an RIF. Jamison v. Morris Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 198 N.J. Super. 411, 415 (App. Div. 1985); Old Bridge Bd. of Educ. v. Old Bridge Educ. Ass'n, 193 N.J. Super. 182, 186-87 (App. Div. 1984), aff'd as modified, 98 N.J. 523 (1985); In re Maywood Bd. of Educ., 168 N.J. Super. 45, 55 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 81 N.J. 292 (1979); Charles Arangio v. Clifton Bd. of Educ., 1978 S.L.D. 207.

Consistent with the above, the petitioner bears the burden of proof that the school acted in bad faith and in violation of the law in its RIF determination and the abolition of his position.

The motion for summary decision is an efficient means of resolving administrative litigation; however, the movant bears the burden of proof that there is no genuine issue of material fact and, in this regard, the papers of the objector to the motion are indulgently treated. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5; R. 4:46-1; Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954).

There is no dispute that, by way of newspaper advertisements, handbills, a billboard, etc., the school invited prospective students to enroll in the petitioner's program. There is also no dispute that (1) the petitioner's program had low and declining student enrollment, (2) the petitioner's program had a low rate of student retention, and (3) there was low job placement for the students attending the program. A school board's finite resources must be prudently used; reasonably, a vocational and technical school board should determine that a program with low and declining enrollment, etc., should be eliminated so that the school board's resources can be concentrated on more practical programs; and, consequently, any of the above-noted three factors appears to constitute good cause for the determination to abolish the program and the petitioner's position.

The petitioner alleges that the school resisted his efforts to "properly market" his program (implying that, had the program been "properly marketed," enrollment may have risen) and alludes generally to other programs that also had low enrollment which were not abolished. However, the board had discretion to make these choices. Finally, the petitioner has not offered evidence sufficient to create a factual issue relative to his contentions that the board abolished his program and position because of his age and exercise of free speech. Given these circumstances, the motion for summary decision must be granted.

ORDER

I ORDER the petition DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

 OCEAN COUNTY VOCATIONAL- : DECISION

 OCEAN COUNTY, :

 RESPONDENT. :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

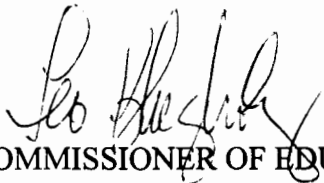

Petitioner's exceptions essentially recast and reiterate arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), again contending, inter alia, that petitioner was wrongfully terminated from his position as a Teacher of Interior Design, and that the elimination of his position was based on age discrimination in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-10.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ that the Board acted within its authority in abolishing petitioner's position. The Board's determination to eliminate the Interior Design Program, and petitioner's position, was well-grounded on 1) declining enrollment, 2) a low rate of student retention, and 3) low job placement for students attending the program. The Commissioner concur that these factors may reasonably constitute good cause for the Board's determination. Moreover, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the record does not substantiate petitioner's allegation that his position was eliminated due to his age, or any other wrongful motive on the part of the Board.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Commissioner adopts the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law and finds that the within Petition of Appeal must be dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent sought waiver of tuition charged for period during which she and her two children resided outside of the district but her children continued to attend school in the district. Board contended petition was untimely filed.

Petitioner did file untimely as she had read N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), which does not set forth any exception to the 90-day filing period, and the Board's letter of November 1994 did not notify the petitioner of the 21-day limitation for filing an appeal of a domicile determination. ALJ, however, found that under the unique circumstances of this case and in the interest of justice, the petition should not be dismissed as untimely. ALJ found that petitioner was liable for tuition for all school days from October 1 up to and including November 18, 1994, when her children were attending the Board's schools while living in Tinton Falls. Petitioner was ordered to pay the Board the tuition owed.

Commissioner concurred with ALJ's conclusion that petitioner had to be held accountable for tuition to the Board for the period in question as petitioner did not bring sufficient objective indicia to the record to establish domicile in the district pursuant to Unanue. Commissioner directed Board to review petitioner's claim with regard to half-day sessions in light of its policies and procedures for the collection of tuition from non-resident students and to make appropriate adjustments to the tuition assessment.

Decided: July 5, 1995

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Respondent Ocean Township Board of Education (BOE) determined that, during part of the 1994-95 school year, although the children of petitioner Linda Ciabattari attended the BOE's schools, they were not domiciled in the Ocean Township school district and the BOE claims that the petitioner should pay tuition for the children's attendance during that period. The petitioner appeals from the BOE's determination, alleging that for part of the relevant period she and the children were domiciled in the district and that she is therefore liable for only part of the tuition demanded by the BOE. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(2).

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On December 29, 1994, the petitioner's petition and its accompanying exhibits were filed with the Department of Education and, on January 19, 1995, the BOE's answer and defenses were so filed. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The Department transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on January 26, 1995, it was received and filed as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). By my letter dated February 24, 1995, I set forth a schedule for discovery, etc.

By letter dated March 7, 1995, the petitioner notified me that she had worked part-time for the BOE's attorney's firm from November 1993 through February 1994; she submitted that the firm's representation of the BOE constituted a "conflict of interest"; and she requested (moved for) an order that the firm withdraw from the case. By my letter order dated March 10, 1995, I concluded that, because, inter alia, the petitioner had not worked on any BOE matter for the firm, the petitioner had not worked for the firm during the period in issue in this case, and the petitioner had not worked for the attorney appearing for the BOE in this case, there was no conflict or other reason for the firm to withdraw and I denied the petitioner's motion.

On March 24, 1995, the BOE filed papers in support of its motion for an order of summary decision, dismissing the petition as out-of-time under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(2), and a decision on the motion was delayed to allow settlement negotiations, which were ultimately unsuccessful. On June 9, 1995, the case was heard. The BOE's motion is addressed below.

Prior to August 1994, the petitioner, her husband, her daughter and her son were domiciled in a single-family residence at 11 Okros Road, in the borough of Tinton Falls, and the petitioner's children attended the Tinton Falls public schools. During this period, the petitioner's daughter experienced emotional problems and the petitioner believed that she would benefit from a change of schools. The petitioner also believed that her son, who suffers from cerebral palsy, would benefit from a change of schools, because she was dissatisfied with the education services the Tinton Falls schools were providing him and because he was teased by other Tinton Falls students. The petitioner decided that the Ocean Township (Monmouth County) school system would provide better education services to her son.

During or about August 1994, the petitioner and her husband separated. The petitioner and her children left the family home and moved into a nearby residence at 1060 Hope Road, Ocean Township, which they shared with petitioner's friend Susie Raczkiwicz. The petitioner intended her children to be domiciled in this home. R-2. The children were registered in the BOE's schools and there they began the 1994-95 school year.

By late September/early October 1994, conflicts were occurring between the petitioner's children and Ms. Raczkiwicz's children and the petitioner and her children returned to the Tinton Falls home (where her husband still resided). However, the petitioner's children continued to attend the BOE's schools. Meanwhile, the petitioner began to look for another residence in Ocean Township.

Ocean Township property-tax payers, like those of most municipalities, are concerned about rising education costs and taxes related thereto and the BOE regularly received anonymous telephone tips that students attending the BOE's schools were not domiciled in the township. Robert J. Mahon, the BOE's superintendent of schools, received such a tip about the petitioner's children and, in early October 1994, he directed Rose Hlatkey, the BOE's attendance officer, to investigate. Based upon Ms. Hlatkey's findings, Mr. Mahon forwarded a letter, dated October 6, 1994, to the petitioner at the Tinton Falls address, wherein he notified her of the following: On the basis of the BOE's investigation, he had determined that the petitioner's children resided at the Tinton Falls address and were not domiciled in Ocean Township; pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, because the children were not domiciled in the BOE's district, they were ineligible to attend the BOE's schools; and after Friday, October 21, 1994, the children would no longer be allowed to attend the BOE's schools. J-1.

In a letter to Mr. Mahon dated October 14, 1994, which showed a return address of "11 Okros Road," the petitioner stated the following: She was "searching for a suitable apartment or home for [her]self and [her] children in Ocean Township." Due to her daughter's "emotional problems" and the evaluation of her son by the BOE's child study team, she wanted to avoid uprooting the children. Given these circumstances, she was requesting "an extension of time from the October 21, 1994 date." J-2.

On October 25, 1994, the petitioner appeared before the BOE and represented the following: At the start of the school year, she and the children were domiciled in the district. Although she was not then (at the time of the BOE meeting) domiciled in the district, she and Sharon Anderson, a friend, had put down a $100 deposit for the lease of a residence located at 242 R Overbrook Avenue in the Oakhurst section of the district. By November 15, 1994, she and the children would be domiciled there. However, the petitioner presented to the BOE no deposit receipt, lease or other tangible evidence of the agreement to lease.

In the BOE's letter dated October 26, 1994, and received by the petitioner about a week later, the BOE notified the petitioner of the following: The BOE had determined that the children were not domiciled in the district and it rejected the petitioner's assertion that she would be domiciled in the district by November 15, 1994. Within twenty-one days of her receipt of the letter/notification, she could contest the BOE's determination by way of "an expedited hearing" before the Commissioner of Education. "Unless otherwise ordered by the Commissioner," she would be liable for tuition for the period that her children were not domiciled in the district but attended the BOE's schools. The relevant tuition rate for grades 6-8 was $43.42 per day (for her daughter) and the rate for grades 1-5 was $42.28 per day (for her son); for the period up to and including October 26, 1994, a total of $2,828.10 was owed. J-3; N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. (The petitioner does not challenge the BOE's per diem tuition rate.)

By letter dated November 9, 1994, the petitioner notified the BOE that, on November 19, 1994, she and her children would begin to reside at the 242 R Overbrook Avenue address and, as of that date, they did begin to reside there, i.e., they were domiciled in the district, and they continue to be domiciled there. P-3. (However, during the month of October 1994 and until November 19, 1994, the children were not domiciled in the district.)

On November 16, 1994, which the petitioner believed to be the twenty-first day after she received the BOE's October 26, 1994 letter, she telephoned the office of the Monmouth County superintendent of schools; she asked about the time limitation for an appeal from a BOE determination to the Commissioner of Education; and the superintendent's secretary faxed to the petitioner a copy of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.1 to -1.16 (but not a copy of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(2)). P-2. Thereafter, despite Mr. Mahon's letters' references to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 and the statutory twenty-one-day period (specifically provided for filing an appeal from notice of a board of education's domicile determination), the petitioner believed that her time for appeal from such notice was governed by the aforementioned regulations. More particularly, based upon N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), which governs time periods for appeals from board of education actions generally, the petitioner believed that she had ninety days from notice of the BOE's domicile determination to file an appeal.

In Mr. Mahon's letter dated November 22, 1994, he notified the petitioner of the following: He had no indication from the petitioner relative to whether she would appeal to the commissioner from the BOE's letter/notification dated October 26, 1994. Relative to her letter dated November 9, 1994, and her stated intention to reside in the district, he needed a "certification of residency at [her] new address." Assuming that she did begin to reside at the 242 R Overbrook Avenue address (in the district) on November 19, 1994, she was responsible for $4,113.60 in tuition for the period up to and including November 18, 1994. R-1.

In the petitioner's letter dated November 29, 1994, she notified the BOE of her position that she had until the "90th day from the date of receipt" of notification of the BOE's October 26, 1994 domicile determination to file an appeal and she chastised the BOE for its "attempts to mislead" her into believing that the twenty-one-day period (of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(2)) was applicable. J-4.

As noted in the "Procedural History" above, on December 29, 1994, i.e., more than twenty-one days after the petitioner's receipt of the BOE's October 26, 1994 domicile determination, she filed her petition with the Department of Education.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(2) states, in pertinent part:

If the superintendent . . . of a school district finds that the parent or guardian of a child who is attending the schools of the district is not domiciled within the district and the child is not kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and supported by him gratis as if the child was the person's own child as provided for in paragraph (1) of this subsection, the superintendent or administrative principal may apply to the board of education for the removal of the child. The parent or guardian shall be entitled to a hearing before the board and if in the judgment of the board the parent or guardian is not domiciled within the district or the child is not kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and supported by him gratis as if the child was the person's own child as provided for in paragraph (1) of this subsection, the board may order the transfer or removal of the child from school. The parent or guardian may contest the board's decision before the commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the commissioner and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this subsection. The board of education shall, at the time of its decision, notify the parent or guardian in writing of his right to contest the decision within 21 days. No child shall be removed from school during the 21-day period in which the parent may contest the board's decision or during the pendency of the proceedings before the commissioner. If in the judgment of the commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the parent or guardian, the commissioner shall assess the parent or guardian tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the schools of the district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced. Nothing shall preclude a board from collecting tuition from the parent or guardian for a student's period of ineligible attendance in the schools of the district where the issue is not appealed to the commissioner.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(2), in the BOE's letter dated October 26, 1994, it duly notified the petitioner of its domicile determination; of the claim of $2,828.10 for tuition (up to and including October 26, 1994); and of the (statutory) twenty-one-day limitation for the filing of an appeal from that determination. J-3.

N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) states:

The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.

When the petitioner telephoned the county superintendent's office, she did not advise the superintendent's secretary that the BOE had notified her by letter of the (statutory) twenty-one-day period for filing an appeal from a domicile determination; consequently, the secretary faxed to the petitioner only the regulations relating to appeals generally; and, based upon her reading of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) (which does not set forth any exception to its ninety-day period), the petitioner filed her appeal well beyond the twenty-one-day period. The petitioner's filing out-of-time occurred through no fault of the BOE.

A statute's legal effect is superior to that of a regulation or rule and "any regulation or rule which contravenes a statute is of no force, and the statute will control." Terry v. Harris, 175 N.J. Super. 482, 496 (Law Div. 1980). Further, if there is a conflict between N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(2) and N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), because the statute is more specific to the case and more recently enacted, there is a "preference" for the statute as "an intrinsic aid in the search for legislative intent." State v. One 1976 Pontiac Firebird, 168 N.J. Super. 168, 176 (App. Div. 1979). A statutory time limitation for requesting an administrative adjudicatory hearing is mandatory and jurisdictional. Schaible Oil v. Department of Env'tl. Prot., 246 N.J. Super. 29 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 126 N.J. 387 (1991).

Generally, the BOE's written notification of the petitioner of the twenty-one-day limitation for the filing of an appeal would make the twenty-one-day period of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(2), and not the ninety-day period of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), applicable to the domicile determination; the petition would be deemed out-of-time under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(2); and the petition would be dismissed, leaving the petitioner liable for the tuition claimed (as of October 26, 1994).

However, statutes of limitations are essentially equitable in nature. They are intended to stimulate a litigant to pursue a claim within a reasonable period of time; to punish for the negligent (late) bringing of a claim; and to promote repose, security and stability in the parties' relationships with one another and with others. O'Keeffe v. Snyder, 83 N.J. 478, 490-91 (1980); Fidelity & Deposit Co. of Md. v. Abagnale, 97 N.J. Super. 132, 139 (Law Div. 1967).

The petitioner contacted the county superintendent's office on what she perceived to be the twenty-first day after she received the BOE's letter dated October 26, 1994; she asked about the time limitation for filing an appeal and she received and read N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), which does not set forth any exception to its ninety-day period. The petitioner's mistake is excusable; that day, had she been informed of the twenty-one-day filing requirement of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(2), she would have timely filed her petition. Further, the BOE's November 22, 1994 letter (R-1) notified the petitioner of its claim for $4,113.60 in tuition (through November 18, 1994, by which time the petitioner's children were again domiciled in the district), but did not notify the petitioner of the twenty-one-day limitation and, therefore, did not trigger the statutory twenty-one-day filing requirement. Under the unique circumstances of this case, and in the interest of justice, the petition should not be dismissed as out-of-time and should be heard on its merits.

The petitioner credibly testified that from the start of the 1994-95 school year until late September 1994, the children were domiciled in the district and, from October 1, 1994, through November 18, 1994, thirty-two school days, the children were domiciled in Tinton Falls, but were attending the BOE's schools. Consequently, for all school days from October 1 up to and including November 18, 1994, the petitioner is liable for tuition for the children. For the petitioner's daughter, the daily tuition rate (not challenged by the petitioner) is $43.42 and the tuition due is $1,389.44 ($$43.42 \times 32 = $1,389.44$). For the petitioner's son, the daily tuition rate (not challenged by the petitioner) is $42.28 and the tuition due is $1,352.96 ($$42.28 \times 32 = $1,352.96$). Therefore, the petitioner owes the BOE a total of $2,742.40.

ORDER

I ORDER the petitioner to pay $2,742.40 to the BOE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions of petitioner and the Board’s reply thereto were timely filed pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

It is noted that petitioner’s exceptions do not dispute the Administrative Law Judge’s (ALJ) findings of fact or conclusions of law in the instant matter. Rather, petitioner requests a reduction in the amount the ALJ determined she owed the Board for tuition, asserting “I agree that my children were out of the district for 32 days, however, it was due to extenuating circumstances.” (Petitioner’s Exceptions at p. 1) Additionally, petitioner asserts that on four of the days for which she was charged, the school her son attends had clerical half-days for grades K through 5 and she, therefore, requests that the assessed rate be reduced accordingly.

In reply, the Board objects to petitioner’s raising “half-days” as an issue contending that this topic was not raised at the hearing and, as such, should be ignored at this time.

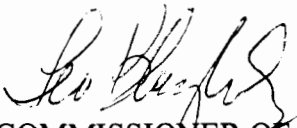

Upon review of the record of this matter, which it is noted did not include transcripts of the June 9, 1995 hearing, the Commissioner adopts the conclusions of the ALJ in his initial decision. Initially, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that, under the unique circumstances existing in this matter, and in the interest of justice, the within petition should not be dismissed as out-of-time. The Commissioner, likewise agrees, for the reasons stated in the decision, that there was no conflict of interest with respect to the Board's legal representation in this matter as a consequence of petitioner's part-time employment with the Board attorney's law firm from November 1993 through February 1994.

The Commissioner is also obliged to concur with the ALJ's conclusion that petitioner must be held accountable for tuition to the Board for her children's' attendance in the Ocean school district for the period at issue in this matter, i.e., October 1, 1994 through November 18, 1994. Such determination is compelled in that petitioner did not bring sufficient objective indicia to the record to establish domicile in the district pursuant to In the Matter of Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 376 (Law Div. 1991).

Finally, notwithstanding that the issue of half-days with respect to petitioner's son was not raised at the hearing, the Commissioner finds that such issue was included in this pro se petitioner's Petition of Appeal filed with the Commissioner. As such, the Commissioner directs the Board to review petitioner's claim with regard to the four half-day sessions in light of its policies and procedures for the collection of tuition from non-resident students and make any adjustments to the assessment recommended by the ALJ as may be required by such policies and procedures.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is affirmed and petitioner is hereby ordered to compensate the Board for tuition due and owing for her children's education in the Ocean school district for the period October 1, 1994 through November 18, 1994.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Board certified charges of incapacity and abandonment of position against respondent "B" clerk.

ALJ found that Board complied with all procedural requirements prescribed by the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. ALJ found that the Board failed to sustain its tenure charge of abandonment against respondent as she maintained contact, informing the Board that she was unable medically to return to work. That charge was dismissed. ALJ, however, did find that the Board met its burden and established by a preponderance of credible evidence that respondent was incapacitated from performing her position as a "B" clerk. Thus, the charge of incapacity was sustained. ALJ found the appropriate penalty was dismissal of respondent from her position, and noted that the Board could have invoked N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2, 3 and 4, rather than file the instant tenure charges, inasmuch as these statutes provide a district with the opportunity to require a psychiatric examination and mandate dismissal for absence due to a "mental abnormality" that exceeds a "period of two years."

Commissioner concurred with the findings and determination in initial decision and ordered respondent dismissed from her tenured position as of the date of this decision. In affirming, however, the Commissioner issued no judgment as to the Board's motivation for bringing the tenure charges against respondent, nor did he find that the Board's actions were tainted by the ALJ's suggestion that an alternative course of action under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2 et seq. was possible or preferable.

BEFORE CAROL LASKIN, ALJ t/a:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This a tenure hearing proceeding pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, et seq. involving Phyllis Stanley (hereinafter Ms. Stanley or respondent) a tenured "B" clerk, employed, since January 1989, by the Freehold Regional High School District Board of Education (hereinafter Board or petitioner). On August 22, 1994, the Board met, considered and determined to certify to the Commissioner of Education (hereinafter Commissioner) that sufficient evidence existed to support the charges of abandonment and inability to perform (incapacity). The tenure charges and supporting evidence were filed with the Commissioner on August 26, 1994. Ms. Stanley filed her answer on September 23, 1994. Subsequently, on October 12, 1994, the Commissioner transferred the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The prehearing order was issued on January 31, 1995. Therein a motion schedule and dates for hearing on the merits of the tenure charges were delineated. On May 15, 1995, pursuant to schedule, a decision and order was issued denying Ms. Stanley's motion for resumption of salary payments pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. The hearing on the merits of the tenure charges scheduled for April 17, 1995 was canceled as the parties determined to present a stipulated record pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.11. The stipulation of facts was submitted on April 27, 1995. Initial briefs and reply briefs of the parties were filed by May 25, 1995. Therein the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACTS

The parties by stipulation, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.11, submitted as evidence facts (J-1) with attachments (exhibit 1 through 26) and acknowledged that they are hereinafter proscribed from challenging these facts agreed upon. Accordingly, J-1 and supporting exhibits are incorporated by reference and constitute this tribunal's findings of facts. The undisputed facts are as follows:

STIPULATION OF FACTS

1. Phyllis Stanley is a tenured "B" clerk employed by the Freehold Regional High School District Board of Education (hereinafter "Board"). Ms. Stanley's employment began with the district on January 12, 1987.

2. On May 14, 1993, Ms. Stanley filed an injury report, stating that on May 4, 1993, she suffered a job-related stress to such an extent that she could not function properly and describing the injury as “severe depression.” (Exhibit 1.)
3. On May 28, 1993, the New Jersey School Boards Association Insurance Group notified the Board that Ms. Stanley had filed a claim based on the alleged injury. (Exhibit 2.)
4. However, this claim was resolved on April 18, 1994, at which time Ms. Stanley was notified that her workers’ compensation claim had been denied due to insufficient evidence that her stress was a sole and direct cause of her employment duties. (Exhibit 3.)
5. An Employee’s Claim Petition on behalf of Phyllis Stanley was filed with the Division of Worker’s Compensation on June 2, 1994 and said Petition is still pending. (Exhibit 4.)
6. Between May 4, 1993, and June 2, 1993, Ms. Stanley exhausted her remaining sick time, vacation days and holiday time. (Exhibit 5.) Between June 3, 1993, and June 30, 1993, she was on an unpaid medical leave of absence under the provisions of the Family Leave Act. (Exhibit 6.)
7. On May 27, 1993, Ms. Stanley submitted a note from her psychiatrist, Moustafa H. Shafey, M.D., stating that “she can’t go back to work because it will aggravate her illness.” (Exhibit 7.)
8. Subsequently, Ms. Stanley requested an extended leave of absence without pay under the Family Leave Act. This request was authorized by the Board, effective July 1, 1993, through September 30, 1993. The Board also authorized a leave of absence without pay, in accordance with the Family Leave Act provisions, for Ms.

Stanley's husband Cornelius Stanley, July 1, 1993 through September 30, 1993. (Exhibit 8.)

9. On July 7, 1993, Dr. Shafey submitted two (2) notes to the Board; one on behalf of Phyllis Stanley, stating that she had been under his care since May 20, 1993 and that she could not "go back to the same work environment" (Exhibit 9) and one on behalf of Cornelius Stanley, stating that he (Stanley) had likewise been under his care since May 20, 1993 and that he could not "go back to the same work environment." (Exhibit 10.)
10. In a letter dated July 22, 1993, Dr. Shafey informed the New Jersey School Boards Association Insurance Group that Ms. Stanley had developed panic disorder with numerous phobic behaviors which were triggered "when she gets in contact with her work, i.e. either at the building or even phone calls from her work and that "she can't go back to her work environment due to the severe stress at work which will make her vulnerable for severe disabling depression disorder and Panic disorder." (Exhibit 11.) Similarly, on July 23, 1993, Dr. Shafey informed that Cornelius Stanley exhibited suicidal tendencies and that "I don't believe that he can go back to that work environment due to the severe stress which will always make him vulnerable for severe depression and suicide tendency." (Exhibit 12.)
11. In a letter dated August 26, 1993, from Michael J. Gross, Esq., attorney for the Board, to Dr. Shafey, information was requested regarding the prognosis for Ms. Stanley's return to work. No response was received. (Exhibit 13.)
12. By letter dated September 23, 1993, Dr. Joan Nesenkar-Saylor, Board Secretary/Assistant Superintendent for Business Administration, informed Ms. Stanley that her leave of absence would expire on September 30, 1993, and required her to notify the district if she intended to return to work as a full-time employee on October 1, 1993. (Exhibit 14.)

13. On September 28, 1993, Ms. Stanley requested an additional extension of leave from October 2, 1993, through December 31, 1993. (Exhibit 15.) This request was denied and Ms. Stanley was notified by Dr. Nesenkar-Saylor in a letter dated September 29, 1993, that a failure to return to work on October 1, 1993 would constitute an abandonment of her position and/or insubordination. (Exhibit 16.)
14. Ms. Stanley failed to return to work on October 1, 1993, stating, through a letter from Dr. Shafey, dated September 30, 1993, that she was unable to work due to a depressive illness and panic disorder. (Exhibit 17.)
15. On May 4, 1994, Ms. Stanley was informed that a meeting would be held to discuss her ability and desire to perform in her position. (Exhibit 18.) Ms. Stanley did not attend this meeting; however, she submitted a doctor's note attesting to her inability to work or to attend a meeting with her employers. (Exhibit 19.) Ms. Stanley provided the Board with no indication that she intended to return to her position during the remainder of the 1993-1994 school year.
16. Subsequently, on July 18, 1994, William J. Boehm, Director of Buildings and Grounds, forwarded a letter to Dr. Saylor, enclosing the Tenure Charges, along with a supporting Statement of Evidence, which he sought to bring against Ms. Stanley. (Exhibit 20.)
17. On July 19, 1994, Dr. Saylor forwarded a letter to Ms. Stanley, enclosing a copy of the Tenure Charges and the supporting Statement of Evidence filed by Mr. Boehm and advising Ms. Stanley of her statutory rights and obligations. (Exhibit 21.)
18. On August 4, 1994, the Board received Ms. Stanley's Affidavit in response to the Tenure Charges. (Exhibit 22.)

19. On August 22, 1994, the Board met to consider the Tenure Charges and Supporting Statement of Evidence involving Ms. Stanley's inability to perform in and abandonment of her position as a Tenured "B" Clerk. Pursuant to a majority vote of the Board members, the Board determined to certify the charges to the Commissioner of Education. (Exhibit 23.)
20. On August 23, 1994, Dr. Saylor forwarded to Dr. Leo Klagholz, Commissioner of Education, State of New Jersey, an original and two copies of Tenure Charges, written Statement of Evidence, Certificate of Determination and Proof of Service, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:24-5. (Exhibit 24.)
21. In accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, on August 23, 1994, Dr. Saylor mailed, via certified mail, an envelope addressed to Ms. Stanley at her last known address, containing notification to the Commissioner of Education of the Tenure Charges, which included the Statement of Evidence, Certificate of Determination and Proof of Service. Dr. Saylor followed the same procedure with regard to Ms. Stanley's counsel, Stephen Hunter, Esq. (Exhibit 25).
22. On September 23, 1994, Ms. Stanley filed her Answer to Tenure Charges, stating two Affirmative Defenses. (Exhibit 26.)
23. To date, Ms. Stanley has not returned to work. Neither Ms. Stanley nor her doctor has indicated that the situation will improve or change at any time in the near future.
24. To date, Ms. Stanley is absent without Board approval; she is not being paid a salary and she is not receiving any benefits.

DISCUSSION AND DETERMINATION

A. Procedural Issue

Respondent, in her answer to the tenure charges, as an affirmative defense, alleged that the Board “failed to comply with procedural and substantive prescriptions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq.” (J-1, exhibit 26). Respondent, however, has not presented the undersigned with any facts or legal arguments to support her affirmative defense. The facts (J-1) reveal that the Board has indeed complied with the procedural requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. Significantly, the Board provided Ms. Stanley with notice of the tenure charges, advised her of her statutory rights, provided her an opportunity to respond to the Board, and expeditiously notified her of its determination (J-1, pars. 14-21; exhibits 18, 21, 23, 25).

Based upon review of all the stipulated facts and supporting exhibits, I FIND that the Board complied with all the procedural requirements prescribed by the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. Accordingly, respondent has failed to prove her affirmative defense.

B. Tenure Charge No. 1 - Abandonment of Position

The Board asserts that Ms. Stanley “abandoned” her position when she failed to return to work as a “B” clerk on October 1, 1993, after the expiration of her approved leaves of absences (J-1, pars. 6, 8, 12-14; exhibits 6, 8, 14-17). Relying upon the Commissioner’s decisions In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Lucille Pedecine, School District of the Township of Millburn, Essex County, 1978 S.L.D. 551 and In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Virginia Caputo, School District of the City of Clifton, Passaic County, 1975 S.L.D. 616, the Board claims that Ms. Stanley’s “abandonment” is “voluntary and intentional” requiring her dismissal (petitioner’s initial brief at 18). The facts herein, however, are clearly distinguishable from those in the authority cited.

The school board in Clifton, unlike the instant Board, invoked the mandates of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2, and 18A:16-3, requiring Virginia Caputo to submit to a medical examination as a prerequisite to a grant of a medical leave of absence. Ms. Caputo refused to do so. Moreover, Ms. Caputo also failed to respond to numerous communications of the Board. Ms. Pedecine, a secretarial employee, was found by her physician, unlike Ms. Stanley herein, to be medically able to work with minor accommodations to her “allergic sensitivities” (Pedecine, 1978 S.L.D. at 552). Ms. Pedecine refused reassignment and likewise failed to respond to numerous communications of the Board.

The instant record establishes that Ms. Stanley (herself or through her counsel or physician) responded to each and every communication from the Board (see J-1, pars. 7, 9-10, 13-15, 18; and exhibits cited therein). Thus, while she did not attend the May 14, 1994 meeting “to discuss her ability and desire to perform in her position,” Ms. Stanley clearly “submitted a doctor’s note attesting to her inability to work or to attend a meeting with her employers” (J-1, par. 15; exhibits 18-19). Consequently, unlike the staff members in the authority cited by petitioners, Ms. Stanley never refused any order from the Board. Rather, Ms. Stanley maintained contact informing the Board that she is unable, medically, to return to work. And, as stipulated, “neither Ms. Stanley nor her doctor has indicated the situation will improve or change at any time in the near future” (J-1, par. 23). Thus, while Ms. Stanley is indeed, “absent without Board approval” due to her asserted medical illness, I FIND, based on review of the record in its entirety, that Ms. Stanley never “abandoned” her position within the meaning of the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. Accordingly, I FIND that the Board has failed to sustain its tenure charge of abandonment against Ms. Stanley; said charge is hereby DISMISSED.

C. Tenure Charge No. 2, Inability to Perform (Incapacity)

The evidence reveals that Ms. Stanley, initially employed by the Board as a clerk in early 1987, has not performed in her position since May 4, 1993 (J-1, par. 2). Since that date, Ms. Stanley consistently has claimed that she is unable to work due to a psychiatric condition identified as “severe depression” and “panic disorder with numerous phobic behaviors” (see J-1, pars. 2, 10; exhibits 1, 9, 11). This panic disorder, Ms. Stanley's physician informed, is triggered whenever she has any contact, even by telephone, with the Board (J-1, par. 10). Consistent with her position, Ms. Stanley has filed an Employees Claim Petition with the Department of Labor, Division of Worker's Compensation, describing her injury as "neuropsychiatric other depression; panic disorder; chest pains and heart palpitations; difficulty breathing; phobic behavior; suicidal tendencies" (J-1; exhibit 4). As the stipulated record discloses, "to date, Ms. Stanley has not returned to work. Neither Ms. Stanley nor her doctor has indicated that the situation will improve or change at any time in the near future" (J-1, par. 13). Thus, the Board opines, as Ms. Stanley is incapacitated from performing her job duties, the tenure charge must be sustained. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Margaret McCoy, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 297.

Ms. Stanley does not dispute that she is "unable to work." Indeed, in her answer to tenure charge no. 2 she so admitted:

2. Respondent Phyllis Stanley admits that she has been unable to perform her job duties since April, 1993 but denies that this fact provides any basis for the certification of tenure charges against her.

(J-1; exhibit 26)

Moreover, other than pressing this tribunal to hold the matter in abeyance pending the outcome of the Worker's Compensation Petition, respondent has provided no evidence nor relevant authority for its claim that her inability to perform does not provide a basis for the tenure charge (J-1, par. 18; exhibit 22). Whether or not Ms. Stanley is ultimately determined to have sustained an injury arising out of her employment with the petitioner, as alleged on her Employee Claim Petition (J-4), is irrelevant to the determination of the certified tenure charge of incapacity. "Incapacity" as identified in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 relates to the inability to perform a position; irrespective of the cause of the inability to work. Accordingly, based upon a review of the record in its entirety, I FIND the Board has met its burden and has established by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Ms. Stanley is incapacitated from performing her position as a "B" clerk; Charge No. 2, Incapacity is hereby SUSTAINED. In re McCoy, supra.

In determining the proper penalty to impose, the undersigned is required to consider the nature and gravity of the offense, mitigating and extenuating circumstances, and any injurious effect the conduct may have on the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school district. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 422 (App. Div. 1967), (cited with approval In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Margaret McCoy, supra).

Imputing improper motives on both Mr. and Ms. Stanley for their claim of psychiatric illness, the Board argues that Ms. Stanley is responsible for her incapacity. Congratulating itself for its patience in not filing tenure charges until nine (9) months after petitioner's approved leave of absences expired, the Board insists that it was forced to file the instant charges. Anything less than dismissal, the Board expressed, would confer "lifetime employment of any cost" upon Ms. Stanley (petitioner's reply brief at 2).

Ms. Stanley insists that the most equitable solution would be to place this matter on an inactive status pending the outcome of her worker's compensation action; claiming that only if her petition is denied should the instant tenure matter proceed on its merits. Respondent claims that this position is inconsistent with the Commissioner's decision in The Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Mary Tonnarello, School District of the Town of West New York, Hudson County, 1985 S.L.D. __ (May 13, 1985). Finally, petitioner expresses (contrary to the Board) that a clerk's absence, unlike that of a teaching-staff member, has no negative effect on the administration of a school district.

This tribunal's view of the appropriate penalty in this matter differs from that of both the Board and Ms. Stanley. With regard to the petitioner's argument, In re Mary Tonnarello, supra, is inapposite to the instant matter. There, Ms. Tonnarello, a secretary, was reinstated and required to forfeit all back pay received because she, unlike Ms. Stanley, had recovered from her illness (cataract surgery) and was able to work. And, while I FIND that the Board's analysis that the petitioner is at fault for her illness and should be punished fails, so do I FIND that the cause of Ms. Stanley's illness and ultimate outcome of her Worker's Compensation Petition has no relevancy in determining the appropriate penalty due to a finding of incapacity pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. Nevertheless, the undersigned does concur with the Board's vision of the importance of secretarial support staff to the effective operation of a school district and the significant negative effect of an absence of such a support staff member for a period exceeding two years.

In consideration of all the circumstances surrounding Ms. Stanley's incapacity, the undersigned reading the educational statutes, Title 18A, in para materia finds support for a determination to dismiss Ms. Stanley. N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2; 3 and 4 provides a school district with the opportunity to require a psychiatric examination and mandates dismissal of an employee if an absence, due to a "mental abnormality" exceeds "a period of two years." N.J.S.A. 18A:16-4. Arguably, if the Board had invoked these statutes, the instant charges need not have been filed. Imputing the intent of the Legislature in enacting these statutes, I FIND that dismissal of Ms. Stanley is the appropriate penalty herein.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the tenure charge of abandonment is DISMISSED.

It is ORDERED that the tenure charge of incapacity is SUSTAINED. And, it is further ORDERED that Phyllis Stanley is DISMISSED from the position of clerk for the Freehold Regional High School Board of Education.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEAR- :
ING OF PHYLLIS STANLEY, SCHOOL :
DISTRICT OF FREEHOLD REGIONAL : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
HIGH SCHOOL, MONMOUTH COUNTY. : DECISION
_____ :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Both respondent's and the Board's exceptions were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Respondent initially excepts to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) interlocutory decision that the Board was not obligated to resume salary payments to respondent pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. In support of its position, respondent refers to her position papers as previously submitted to the ALJ.

Respondent further asserts that the ALJ's decision to dismiss her from her tenured position because of her present physical incapacity is both premature and unnecessarily punitive and, again, directs the Commissioner to her prior submissions to the ALJ in support of her position. Respondent maintains, assuming arguendo that one could conclude that the Board of Education had sustained the physical incapacity charges at issue, the appropriate remedy would have been to continueinactive employment status during the pendency of the pending workers' compensation proceedings. (Respondent's Exceptions at p. 4)

Respondent argues that maintaining such inactive status would not be to the detriment of the Board. Were she to prevail in her worker's compensation suit, respondent reasons, the instant charges would be rendered moot, or, in the alternative, respondent "may be certified by her physicians as being capable of resuming her work as a clerk." (Id.)

While the Board concurs with the ALJ's determination to sustain its charge of incapacity and to thereby dismiss respondent from her tenured position, it takes exception to the analysis employed by the ALJ in reaching her conclusion. Specifically, the Board contends that the ALJ's reference to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2, 3 and 4 undermines the correctness of her overall decision, in that those statutes are clearly inapplicable to the instant matter. (Board's Exceptions at p. 2) The Board argues such statutory reference implies that a different mechanism could have been utilized to have respondent dismissed, but claims that, under the circumstances, another course of action would have been inappropriate. To advance its argument, the Board cites Kochman v. Keansburg Bd. of Education., 124 N.J. Super. 203, 212 (Ch. Div. 1973) and further avers:

before a board of education proceeds with directing an employee to submit to a psychiatric evaluation, it must first ascertain whether that particular employee has shown evidence of harmful, significant deviation from normal mental health affecting the employee's ability to safely perform his or her duties, especially if those duties are performed in the presence of others. (Id. at p. 4)

The Board concludes that it never had the necessary evidence which would have permitted it to use its discretionary authority under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2 et seq.

The Board next faults the ALJ's analysis insofar as it suggests that the district maintained that respondent should be "punished" for her actions and that she was responsible for her mental illness. (Id. at p. 5) Rather, the Board asserts that its position all along was not whether respondent intentionally wronged, but whether she was able to perform her job, and it “had no choice” when respondent failed to return to work but to certify tenure charges against her. The Board maintains it holds “no opinion regarding Ms. Stanley’s mental state.” (Id. at pp. 5, 6)

Moreover, the Board takes exception to the ALJ’s implication that its filing of tenure charges was either unnecessary or premature. That the ALJ apparently rejects the Board’s contention that it was left with no alternative but to certify tenure charges against respondent is, the Board argues, contrary to her own findings. Here, the Board maintains that the ALJ’s factual findings demonstrate that “the Board was indeed patient with the Respondent, and afforded her ample time to communicate to the Board whether she could or intended to return to work.” (Id. at p. 8) Under the circumstances, the Board argues that to hold respondent’s position open indefinitely “represents both unsound public policy and ill-conceived economic philosophy.” (Id.)

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner initially finds no cause to disturb the ALJ’s interlocutory decision and order on respondent’s motion for resumption of salary payments pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. Further, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ’s findings that the Board, while complying with all procedural requirements prescribed by the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, failed to sustain its tenure charge of abandonment against respondent. (Initial Decision at pp. 7, 8) In addition, the Commissioner agrees that the Board has shown by a preponderance of credible evidence that respondent is incapacitated from performing her job duties, and that dismissal is the proper course of action in this case. In so affirming, the Commissioner issues no judgment as to the Board's motivation for bringing tenure charges against respondent. Neither does he find that the Board's actions are tainted by the ALJ's suggestion, to the extent that one may be intended, that an alternative course of action under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2 et seq. was possible or preferable.

Accordingly, the findings and conclusions of the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law are adopted as set forth above, and respondent is hereby dismissed from her tenured position as a "B" clerk with the Board as of the date of this decision.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

This matter was initiated in 1983 and remanded by the State Board in May 1994 to determine the amount of damages (back pay minus mitigation) due petitioners, reinstated supplemental instructors whose positions had been eliminated during reductions in force in 1983 and who had had greater seniority than teachers retained.

State Board determined that the Commissioner utilized the improper measure in reducing petitioners' damages, using salaries they would have earned based on their initial placement on the first step of the salary schedules in Newark and East Orange. State Board's decision directed that initial placement on a district salary guide is predicated upon the terms of the districts' collective negotiations agreements. Upon review of such documents by the State Board, it was determined that the petitioners would have been entitled to credit in both of those districts for their prior teaching experience. ALJ recalculated back salary awards taking into account all of petitioners' prior teaching experience.

Commissioner found that there was insufficient factual information in the file to allow him to make a determination with respect to the correctness of petitioners' contention, raised both on exception and before the ALJ, but not addressed in the initial decision, that the awards granted must not assume the existence of a valid contract at the time of their supplemental teaching experience in West Orange as, in fact, no such contract existed. Petitioners contend this error grossly understates the awards to which they were entitled as their service under the purportedly "void" contract would not have been credited by Newark or East Orange under the collective bargaining agreements in place in those districts during the time periods at issue. Commissioner remanded matter to OAL for fact finding and argument on this issue and recalculation of award figures as necessary.

BEFORE MARYLOUISE LUCCHI-McCLOUD, ALJ:

This matter was brought as the result of a decision of the State Board of Education dated May 6, 1994. It was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law

¹ An initial decision was to be filed by February 24, 1995 however an extension was granted for good cause. A second extension was granted at the request of the administrative law judge until May 25, 1995 to complete the initial decision in the instant matter as well as to the complexity of the case and her voluminous caseload. Unfortunately, a third extension of the time limit to complete the initial decision in the instant matter was requested and granted for good cause, due to the voluminous caseload as well as the complexity of the case and the double-booking schedule of the undersigned. (OAL) on July 28, 1994 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The State Board of Education decision begins its own procedural history by saying "Once again, we are confronted with a dispute in this case involving the amount of the damages to which the petitioning supplemental instructors are entitled." See West Orange Supplemental Instructors et al. v. Board of Education of the Township of West Orange decided by the Commissioner of Education, January 9, 1991, rev'd and remanded by the State Board of Education April 1, 1992, appeals dismissed, Dkt. No. A-4383-91T2 and No. A-4497-91T2 (App. Div. 1992).

Before getting into the detailed history of the case one must point out that the State Board's observation that we are once again confronted with this dispute is very much like an old song from the Beatles which had a most apropos line "The long and winding road which leads me back to you."

The matter was initiated in 1983 following the New Jersey Supreme Court's decision in Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. 62 (1982) that supplemental and remedial teachers were teaching staff members within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 and were, therefore, supplemental instructors whose positions had been eliminated by the Board of Education of the Township of West Orange (hereinafter "Board") during reductions in force ("RIF"). These individuals sought reinstatement along with all compensation and emoluments afforded other teaching staff members. The State Board subsequently directed the Board to reinstate the petitioners "with back pay minus mitigation" in the event that they had greater seniority than any of the staff members who had been retained by the Board. West Orange Supplemental Instructors Association v. Board of Education of the Township of West Orange, Essex County,

Thereafter, on December 14, 1989, thirteen of those supplemental teachers filed the instant petition, alleging that, while the Board had reinstated them for the 1989-90 school year as directed, it had not made any back salary payments since the parties had been unable to agree on the specific amounts by which their damages should have been reduced under mitigation principles.

On January 9, 1991, the Commissioner determined that five of the petitioners had fully mitigated their damages and were entitled to back pay minus mitigation from the date of the RIF's through 1989 when they were reinstated. He found that the remaining eight petitioners had made adequate efforts to secure other employment only during a limited period immediately following their RIF's. He awarded the latter group damages only for those periods of time in which he found that they had exercised proper diligence.

On April 1, 1992, the State Board affirmed in part and reversed in part the decision of the Commissioner. The State Board found that the Commissioner had misapplied the legal principle of mitigation in limiting the petitioners' damages only to those periods in which they had made reasonable efforts to mitigate. The State Board stressed that the failure of any of the petitioners to exercise reasonable diligence to mitigate their damages during a portion of the period following their RIF's did not vitiate their entitlement to be made whole during such periods for their wrongful discharge. Rather, the State Board explained, mitigation principles would apply to those period in which the petitioners had not exercised the required diligence so as to reduce, rather than eliminate, the back pay awards for such period by any amount which petitioners should have been earning in other employment had they made reasonable efforts to secure other employment.

The State Board also modified the Commissioner's determination as to the period of time following the RIF during which petitioner Shirley Blank had properly mitigated her damages. State Board concluded that, under the circumstances, Blank had reasonably lowered her sights in November 1985 when she accepted a part time position in Montclair. They therefore concluded that she had adequately mitigated her damages through June 1987 when such employment terminated rather than November 1985 as found by the Commissioner. The State Board further modified the Commissioner's decision so as to reduce the petitioner Constance Afromsky's damages for the period from August 1987 through September 1, 1989 by that amount which she would have earned had she not voluntarily accepted a reduction by leaving her teaching position in Newark and accepting a position in Florida, rather than by her actual lower earnings in Florida. In all other respects, the Board affirmed the Commissioner's determination of the award entitlements of the petitioners. In accordance with their decision the Board directed that the West Orange Board of Education pay petitioners their salaries which would have been earned in West Orange less the actual earnings during the specific periods following their RIF's in which they had found that the individuals had exercised reasonable diligence in seeking other suitable positions. In addition the State Board remanded to the Commissioner for (1), a determination of the salary petitioner Afromsky would have earned from August 1987 through September 1, 1989 had she not voluntarily accepted a reduction in salary by relocating to Florida, and (2) for a determination of the salaries petitioners Berk, Blank, Davis, Ratner, Passner, Peretz, Kolin and Shifman reasonably should have earned in other employment during those specific periods in which the Board had determined that they had not made reasonable efforts to mitigate, and for a resultant computation of their back pay awards for such periods. The Board's remand was thus strictly limited to the amount of the damage entitlements of nine of the petitioners during those specified periods in which they had found that those individuals had not taken reasonable steps to mitigate their damages. In essence, their awards were to be computed by deducting the amounts it was determined they should have been earning in other positions, had they made reasonable efforts to secure such employment, from the salaries they would have earned in West Orange had they not been improperly dismissed.

On July 1, 1992, the State Board denied the West Orange Board of Education's motion for a stay of their decision of April 1, 1992 pending determination of the parties' motions for leave to appeal to the Appellate Division, finding that the board of education had failed to meet standards that would entitle it to relief under Crowe v. Degioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

On August 13, 1992 the Appellate Division denied the Board's motion for a stay of the State Board's decision. The court also denied the parties' cross motions for leave to appeal.

On May 19, 1993 the undersigned computed petitioner Afromsky's damage entitlement for 1987-88 and 1988-89 by reducing her damages by the amount of her actual earnings in Florida. The undersigned computed the awards of the remaining eight petitioners for the periods affected by the remand by reducing their damages by $13,000 per year. In doing so, the undersigned noted that the State Board "seems to have accepted $13,000 as adequate to show due diligence in mitigating damages." Initial Decision on remand, slip op. at 26.

On July 21, 1993 the Commissioner rejected the ALJ's salary computation for all nine of the petitioners affected by the State Board's remand. Citing the express language of that remand, Commissioner found that the undersigned had "erred in applying petitioner Afromsky's Florida earnings as her measure of mitigation for 1987-88 and 1988-89 rather than utilizing the salary she would have earned in Newark had she continued to remain employed there during this period." Commissioner's decision on remand, slip op. at 35. Applying the salary she would have earned in Newark, the Commissioner determined that Afromsky was entitled to back pay in the amount of $10,765 rather than $22,421 determined by the undersigned.

The Commissioner also rejected the undersigned's across the board application of a $13,000 mitigation figure for the remaining eight petitioners. The Commissioner thereupon determined that it was reasonable for one additional petitioner, Florence Berk, to have lowered her sights and had accepted less than comparable employment in March 1985 as a substitute teacher in West Orange. Consequently, the Commissioner determined that Berk had adequately mitigated her damages through September 1, 1989, rather than April 1, 1985 as previously determined by the State Board.

Acknowledging that there was "no 'single perfect' way, in retrospect to establish salaries that individuals should have been earning." Id. at 39, the Commissioner determined that the most equitable method of computing back salaries in this instance would be to utilize an average of the salaries of the petitioners which they would have earned in East Orange and Newark, which were large districts close to West Orange and which had a large number of available teaching positions during the relevant periods. The Commissioner also concluded that each of the petitioners would initially have place on the first step of those districts salary scales, reasoning that "it would be absurd to make the assumption that Newark and East Orange would have granted the petitioners' for prior service in establishing their salary levels." Id. at 41.

The Commissioner thereupon made the necessary computations and determined that the petitioners herein were entitled to back salary awards for the time periods at issue on remand in the amounts found on page eight of the State Board of Education decision.

On September 21, 1993, the Commissioner granted the Board's motion for a stay of the decision. The Commissioner found that she could not, in good conscience place the Board in jeopardy by ordering payment of back salaries at that time given that such payments would have reduced the district's surplus account to a precarious level.

She directed the Board to take immediate steps to assure that sufficient funds were available to pay any forthcoming judgment ordered by the State Board on appeal.

The State Board filed the instant appeal from the decision of the Commissioner. The Board argues that the Commissioner went beyond the scope of the remand in concluding that petitioner Berk had adequately mitigated her damages and that the Commissioner erred in computing damages based on the assumption that petitioners initially would have been placed on the applicable first step of the salary guides in Newark and East Orange, resulting in a lesser reduction from their damages. The West Orange Board further contends that, rather than averaging the salaries petitioners could have earned in Newark and East Orange, the petitioners' damage awards should have been reduced by the greater of the salary they would have earned in Newark or East Orange. The West Orange Board also maintained that errors were made by the Commissioner in specific computations of several of the petitioners, including placing petitioner Blank on the bachelors degree level of the Newark and East Orange salary guides when she actually held a bachelors degree plus 32 credits.

Petitioners filed a cross-appeal, arguing, inter alia, that the Commissioner erred in rejecting the undersigned's use of the $13,000 as a yearly mitigation figure. In response to the Board's contention that the Commissioner incorrectly placed petitioner Blank on the bachelors degree of the Newark and East Orange salary guides, petitioners point out that the parties had also erroneously stipulated as to the specific salary Blank would have earned in West Orange. Petitioners have also filed a motion for leave to appeal from that portion of the Commissioner's decision of December 21, 1993 denying post judgment interest and a motion to dissolve the stay ordered by the Commissioner in that decision. In addition, they have moved to supplement their motion to dissolve this stay, and have also filed a motion for leave to supplement their appendix on appeal.

Petitioners specifically request supplementation in response to the Board's argument regarding petitioner Blank, contending that the proposed exhibits indicate the correct salary Blank would have earned in West Orange in 1987-88 and 1988-89, as well as the Board's acceptance of such figures. The Commissioner's decision noted that the petitioners improperly appended documents to their supporting brief which were not part of the record in this matter and subsequently requested supplementation. See page 10, State Board decision dated May 6, 1994. The petitioners also sought to supplement the record that the document they claim rebuts the Board's example that one of the petitioners was given credit for her prior teaching experience when she accepted a teaching position in Newark.

As in the State Board's prior decision of April 1, 1992 in this matter, the sole issue before them remained the amount of damages which the petitioners are entitled to receive. The State Board determined after a review of the record that the record was sufficient to permit resolution of the issues involved in this appeal on which petitioners seek supplementation. Therefore, the State Board denied the petitioners' motion to supplement the record on appeal.

Ultimately, the State Board affirmed in part and reversed in part the decision of the Commissioner.

The State Board affirmed the Commissioner's determination as to petitioner Afromsky's damage award. The State Board's remand specifically provided that her damages were to be reduced for the period from August 1987 through September 1, 1989 "by that amount which she would have earned had she not voluntarily accepted a reduction in salary [by leaving her teaching position in Newark and accepting a lower paying position in Florida], rather than by her actual lower earnings in Florida." State Board's decision, slip op. at 11. Thus, the Commissioner was correct in rejecting the undersigned's use of Afromsky's salary in Florida during that period and the State Board also found the Commissioner's computation of Afromsky's damage entitlement in the amount of $10,755 to be accurate.

The State Board's also concurred that the Commissioner's rejection of the undersigned's across the board application of a $13,000 figure for the remaining petitioners in the case. Noting that the computation for petitioner Blank had properly taken into account her lowered sights by accepting a position that paid her approximately $13,000 in 1986 and expressly predicated on the specific facts and circumstances in the record applicable to petitioner Blank only, and, consequently, cannot be used as a general representation of adequate mitigation. The applicability of the lowered sights principle is dependent upon "the circumstances peculiar to the individual involved." The State Board's determination regarding Blank was not intended in any way as a general endorsement of $13,000 as adequate to show the other petitioners' due diligence in mitigating damages.

In that regard, however, the State Board rejected the Commissioner's belated analysis of the applicability of the lowered sights principle to the petitioners in the case and the Commissioner's resultant determination that petitioner Berk had properly mitigated her damages through September 1, 1989, rather than through April 1, 1985 as determined by the State Board's decision of April 1, 1992. The State Board's decision fully determined the periods following their RIF's during which each of the petitioners had made reasonable efforts to mitigate. According to the State Board what the Commissioner failed to recognize is that mitigation includes the lowered sights principle and that the State Board's final determination on mitigation necessarily included analysis of the lowered sights principle. The State Board found that only petitioner Blank had reasonably lowered her sights and that petitioner Berk had made reasonable efforts to mitigate her damages only for the period from her RIF through April 1, 1985. As a result the State Board directed her damages to be reduced for the period from her RIF through April 1, 1985 by her actual earnings and for the period from April 1, 1985 through September 1, 1989 by the amount she should have been earning during that time had she made reasonable efforts to mitigate. The State Board's remand was expressly limited to a determination of the salary Berk should have earned during that period and for a resultant computation of her damage award. By addressing the applicability of the lowered sight doctrine to the petitioners herein, the Commissioner exceeded the scope of the State Board's remand and, in doing so, determined issues which were finally decided in the State Board's decision of April 1, 1992 and, in the case of petitioner Berk, reached a determination in direct contradiction to the State Board's decision.

As to the amounts that the individuals should have been earning elsewhere, petitioners challenge the Commissioner's utilization of the average of the salaries they would have earned in Newark and East Orange in transitory fashion only, captioning a point heading of their supporting brief: "Although the petitioners disagree with the Commissioner of Education in using the salary steps and guides in East Orange and Newark in determining the awards of the petitioners ..., the petitioners herein agree with the Commissioner's placement of the petitioners on the steps set forth by the petitioners in East Orange and Newark, if East Orange and Newark are to be used ...". Brief in support of cross-appeal, at 9. Thereunder, petitioners respond to the Board's argument that the Commissioner incorrectly placed them on the first step of the Newark and East Orange guidelines. Petitioners do not otherwise dispute the Commissioner's use of the average of the salaries they would have earned in Newark and East Orange, offer any justification or further explanation for their "disagreement" for such method, or propose a measure of their earnings that would be more appropriate.

The specific positions the petitioners would have obtained had they taken reasonable steps to secure comparable employment elsewhere cannot be determined with certainty. The Board has, however shown that ample employment opportunities for the petitioners had been available nearby in Newark and East Orange, and petitioners have neither indicated nor demonstrated how the method used by the Commissioner for determining their salaries, i.e., averaging the salaries they would have earned in Newark and East Orange, was improper or inequitable. Consequently, under the circumstances, while the State Board recognized that the averaging methods employed by the Commissioner did not result in an existing salary figure, the State Board rejected the petitioners' cursory challenge to such a measure of their earnings.

The State Board also rejected the Board's proposal to reduce the petitioners' damages by the greater of the salaries each of the petitioners would have earned in Newark or East Orange. The Board has not demonstrated in which of these two districts the individual petitioners were more likely to obtain jobs had reasonable efforts been made to do so. Thus, perfunctory application of a higher salary would be unjustified based on the record.

The State Board did however agree with the Board that the Commissioner utilized the improper measure in reducing petitioners' damages using salaries they would have earned based on their initial placement on the first step of the salary schedules in Newark and East Orange. Initial placement on a district salary guide is, as pointed out by the State Board's decision, predicated upon the terms of the district's collective negotiations agreement. The Commissioner's reliance upon her conclusion that the West Orange Board did not credit petitioner Segler for prior teaching experience when it subsequently employed her as a resource room teacher is therefore, according to the State Board, misplaced. For purposes of determining salaries would have earned in Newark and East Orange, the express terms of the collective negotiations agreement in those districts are controlling. Upon review of such documents by the State Board they have determined that the petitioners would have been entitled to credit in both of those districts for their prior teaching experience. As a result, the State Board rejected the commissioner's conclusion that petitioners initially would have been placed step of the salary schedules in Newark and East Orange. The State Board therefore reversed her ultimate determination of their damages based upon such placement and the State Board remanded for determination of the steps on which they would have been placed in Newark and East Orange in light of their prior teaching experience and for a resultant computation of their damages in accordance with the State Board decision.

The parties also have disagreed on the proper placement of petitioner Blank on the salary guides of West Orange, East Orange and Newark during the period at issue. The Board argues that, in light of the parties' stipulation on remand that Blank held a "bachelors degree plus 32 credits," see, stipulation of facts, at 2, the Commissioner incorrectly placed Blank on the bachelors degree level of the Newark and East Orange salary guides for the 1987-88 and 1988-89 school years rather than on the appropriate bachelors degree plus graduate 32 credits level. Petitioner Blank, in turn, asserts that if that particular modification is to be made then it must also be recognized that the stipulation of facts incorrectly established the salary she would have earned in West Orange during those years, basing her specific salary on the bachelors degree level of that district schedule rather than on the district's "B.A. +32" level. The Board does not dispute the existence of such an error in the stipulation but argues that petitioner should be bound by the figures agreed upon therein.

Upon the State Board's review of the record they have found that petitioner Blank is correct in her contention that the stipulation credits her with a bachelors degree plus 32 graduate credits but establishes the specific salary she would have earned in West Orange in 1987-88 and 1988-89 at the amount shown on the bachelors degree level of that district's guide rather than at the higher "B.A. +32" level. Under the circumstances and given such inconsistency in the stipulation of facts that the Board does not dispute that Blank holds a bachelors degree plus 32 credits the State Board has modified, in the interest of justice, the amount Blank would have earned in West Orange to reflect the correct figures; $39,200 in 1987-88 and $41,515 in 1988-89. Exhibit P-3 in evidence. Accordingly in computing petitioner Blank's damage entitlement for 1987-88 and 1988-89, and has directed the use of these figures, in addition to the appropriate salary figures on the Newark and East Orange guides which properly recognize that Blank held a bachelors degree plus 32 credits.

In light of the State Board's determination that the Commissioner incorrectly placed petitioners on the first step if the Newark and East Orange guides, it is unnecessary for the State Board to address the Board's remaining allegations regarding the Commissioner's computations of the specific salaries several other petitioner would have earned in those districts.

The State Board concludes, in summary, that they affirm the Commissioner's determination on the remand as to petitioner Afromsky only and direct payment to her in the amount of $10,765. As to the remaining eight petitioners, the State Board reverses the Commissioner's determination of their damage entitlements and remands to the Commissioner for determination of their awards in accordance with the Board's decision of May 6, 1994.

Lastly the State Board has affirmed the Commissioner's determination to deny the petitioners' request for post-judgment interest for the reasons expressed therein. Beyond that, given the State Board's determination of this matter, they have denied as moot the petitioners' motion to dissolve the stay granted by the Commissioner pending a decision by the State Board.

Subsequently this case was remanded on July 28, 1994 to the OAL. It should be noted that in light of the State Board's decision and attempts to appeal by the parties' this matter was sent to the OAL prior to the July 28, 1994 date. That case was returned to the agency at the request of the Department of Education by way of computer-generated notice of July 11, 1994. The case was returned to the OAL on July 28, 1994 for disposition based upon the remand by the Department of Education and was therefore granted a new docket number and proceeded in the normal course.

After several conferences with the attorneys for both sides no solution was able to be reached as to the amount due each of the petitioners and the parties were directed on November 14, 1994 to file simultaneous submissions of their calculations by January 10, 1995.

Additionally on December 29, 1994 a letter was received for counsel for one of the petitioners, Constance Afromsky, indicating that she had accepted the West Orange Board of Education's figure of $9,148 and was no longer participating in the case. Accompanying that letter was a computation by counsel for the remaining petitioners.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

In the State Board decision it was necessary to look at the contract language (State Board decision pages 14 and 15) for both Newark and East Orange.

The 1983-85 Newark contract (Exhibit R-2) for teachers relating to credit for previous teaching experience read as follows:

"Credit on the salary schedule for prior service will be given to all teachers for years of accredited teaching, military, or accredited substitute experience in the Newark public schools according to the following formula:

1. For credit on a year for year basis for four years of prior service;
2. Five years credit for six years of prior service;
3. Six years credit for eight years or more of prior service

In crediting previous teaching experience for salary purposes, completion if the full academic year is required for recognition."

For the 1985-88 as well as the 1988-91 Newark contracts (Exhibit R-1), the language on credit for prior teaching experience was amended as follows:

1. For credit on a year for year basis for up to ten (10) years of prior service;

Credit pursuant to this agreement shall not be retroactive but rather entitle each teacher to the right to receive credit commencing with the effective date of this agreement.

In dealing with the East Orange teachers contract (Exhibit R-4), on credit for prior teaching, which remained unchanged from 1983 through and including 1989 it states as follows:

1. For credit on the current teachers salary guide it shall be given to all new teachers for all verified contracted previous satisfactory teaching experience in a duly accredit public and/or private elementary or secondary school.
2. Each teacher shall be placed on his proper step on the current teacher salary guides upon verification of all contracted previous satisfactory teaching experience in a duly accredited public and/or private elementary or secondary school by the chief school administrator, or his/her designated representative, of the school(s) or school district(s) in which he/she was previously employed.
3. To receive edit for one year of teaching experience, the teacher shall have been under contract for at least four months of the school year."

While the petitioners were employed as supplemental teachers by respondent, the petitioners worked under a contract. (See No. 37 of stipulation of facts) which stated that during their employment as supplemental teachers with respondent, petitioners worked under a group contract, not individually. This fact was stipulated to by both parties.

As for the individual supplemental instructors and based upon the remand decision I come to the following conclusions.

1. Teacher Constance Afromsky.

Both parties agree that Afromsky is due $9,148 in back salary. The remaining estimated back salary awards are as follows:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions of petitioners and those of the Board were timely filed pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. Such exceptions are presented, in relevant part below and are incorporated herein.

The Board's submission supports the determination of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) with two minor exceptions. It urges that the balance due Florence Berk, outlined on page 16 of the initial decision, should read $17,558 rather than the $17,588 noted therein. Likewise, the Board asserts that the Newark/East Orange average shown for Florence Shifman on page 18 should read $137,969 rather than the $137,893 indicated.

Petitioners' exceptions assert, inter alia, that the back salary awards made by the ALJ in her decision, and the basis on which these were developed, were fatally flawed and the decision must, therefore, be overturned. Petitioners urge that in reaching her conclusions with respect to the credit they would have received for prior teaching service in either East Orange or Newark, the ALJ failed to take into consideration prior legal decisions of the Commissioner, State Board, and the Appellate Division, which declared the group contract, under which petitioners were employed while serving as supplementary teachers in West Orange, null and void. They urge that the awards granted by the ALJ were based on the existence of a valid contract when, in fact, no such contract existed and assert that this error grossly understated the awards to which they are entitled.

Petitioners observe that the bargaining contracts in place for teachers in both Newark and East Orange with respect to the granting of credit for previous teaching experience, awarded such credit only for prior “accredited” or “contracted” teaching experience. Petitioners argue that since the agreement under which they were working as supplemental teachers in West Orange was declared void, neither Newark nor East Orange would have given them any credit for teaching which was supplemental in nature. “[A]ccredited teaching experience means contractual teaching experience being teaching experience which the bargaining unit would accept as accredited teaching experience.” (Petitioners’ Exceptions at p. 7) Petitioners urge that the ALJ’s decision ignored this argument and the correct computations which they submitted taking this situation into consideration.

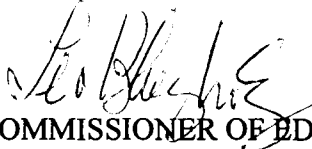

Petitioners state that this position is not inconsistent with the State Board’s decision on remand wherein it was determined that the within petitioners would have been entitled to credit for prior teaching experience in both of these districts. They point out “[t]he State Board did not say that the petitioners would have received any kind of credit whatsoever for supplemental teaching, butmerely ruled they were entitled to 'credit.'" (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 8)

Upon review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines that given the nature of the arguments advanced in petitioners' exceptions, which he finds were raised in materials previously submitted to the ALJ but left unaddressed in the initial decision, there is insufficient factual information in the file to allow him to make a determination with respect to the correctness of petitioners' contention that their service under the purportedly "void" contract would not have been credited by Newark or East Orange under the collective bargaining agreements in place in those districts during the time periods at issue herein. Therefore, this matter is being remanded for further fact finding and argument on this question and revision of the back pay calculations as appropriate.

Accordingly, this matter is hereby remanded to OAL for further proceedings in accordance with the above decision.

Petitioning parents sought transportation for their daughters who attend nonpublic schools in the district as they reside outside the 2.5 mile distance requirement set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1. Board contended it provided transportation for its special needs students not for its public school students.

ALJ found that the plain language of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 does not require the Board to provide transportation for students attending a non-profit private school, where the only transportation presently provided is for students transported pursuant to Chapter 46 of Title 18A. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

BEFORE JOSEPH E. KANE, ALJ.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE
AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petitioners requested that the respondent, Wildwood Crest Board of Education, (the Board) provide transportation from home to a parochial school for the petitioners' two children. The Board denied this request and petitioners requested that the matter be transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to be heard as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A hearing was scheduled at the Atlantic City OAL, 1201 Bacharach Boulevard, Atlantic City, New Jersey on July 12, 1995. On June 20, 1995, the Board filed a motion for summary decision requesting that the within matter be dismissed. Briefs were received by both parties and a decision was rendered on July 7, 1995.

ISSUES

WHETHER THE BOARD IS OBLIGATED TO PROVIDE TRANSPORTATION TO THE PETITIONERS PURSUANT TO THE PROVISIONS OF N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, WHEN THE BOARD
DOES NOT PROVIDE TRANSPORTATION TO ITS OWN STUDENTS.

FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Complaint filed by the petitioners in sum allege two causes of action. The first is that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, the Board is obligated to provided transportation to petitioners' two daughters. The second is whether the mileage requirement of 2.5 miles has been met as set forth in the above captioned statute. This initial decision addresses only the first issue.

For the purposes of the within motion, the FACTS of this matter are not in dispute. Both petitioners and respondent agree that the Board does not provide transportation for its students. Petitioners' two daughters attend a parochial school and reside within the school district of the Board.

The Board has filed a motion for summary decision requesting that the within matter be dismissed. The Board argues that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, because it does not provide transportation to its own students, it is not under a legal obligation to provide transportation to petitioners. Petitioners disagree with the Board's interpretation of the aforementioned statute and also argues that because petitioners are outside the 2.5 mile distance requirement set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, the Board's obligation to provide transportation is therein triggered.

I FIND that based upon the language of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, the within matter is herein DISMISSED. The operative portion of the cited statute is contained within the second paragraph and states:

When any school district provides any transportation for public school pupils to and from school pursuant to this section, transportation shall be supplied to pupils residing in the school district attending non-profit private schools.

Petitioners argue that this section should be construed as though it read: "when any school district is required to provide any transportation for public school pupils. . ." Petitioners' argument in this respect is one properly addressed to the New Jersey Legislature, and not to a Court.

Additionally, the interpretation of the statute proposed by the petitioners would also require that the Court rewrite the subsequent, exceedingly clear language of the statute which provides that:

This section shall not require school districts to provide any transportation for pupils attending a school other than a public school, where the only transportation presently provided by said district is for school children transported pursuant to Chapter 46 of Title 18A of the New Jersey statutes or for pupils transported to a vocational, technical or other public school offering a specialized program.

This section of the statute would have to be thoroughly reworked or more likely, eliminated entirely, in order to achieve the result which the petitioners seek in this case. Again, action by the Legislature could accomplish this; the principles of statutory construction utilized by the judiciary cannot.

Moreover, the fact that the last section of the statute quoted above uses the term "transportation presently provided" is of particular significance. This reference to "transportation presently provided" plainly refers to what transportation is actually and presently being provided in the school district, not what transportation may theoretically be available. The language actually employed by the Legislature expressly precludes the strained interpretation which is advocated by petitioners in the case at bar.

Accordingly, I FIND that under the plain meaning of the above cited statute, petitioners are not entitled to transportation services from the Board and accordingly, the within matter is herein DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions and respondent's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. A further submission by petitioners in response to the Board's filing is not considered herein, as regulation makes no provision for such submissions.

Petitioners' exceptions essentially recast and reiterate arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), again contending, inter alia, that N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 requires that the Wildwood Crest school district provide transportation to their children, who are attending a non-profit private school, since the district provides transportation to its special needs students, although it does not provide transportation to other students.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ that the plain language of the statute does not require the Board to provide transportation for students attending a non-profit private school, where the only transportation presently provided by said district is for school children transported pursuant to Chapter 46 of Title 18A of the New Jersey statutes. Therefore, petitioners are not entitled to receive transportation services from the Board.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Commissioner adopts the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law and finds that the within Petition of Appeal must be dismissed.

DECISION ON MOTION

RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, August 23, 1995

For the Petitioners-Appellants, T.J.F. and J.W.F., pro se

For the Respondent-Respondent, Cooper, Perskie, April, Niedelman,
Wagenheim & Levenson (Russell L. Lichtenstein, Esq., of Counsel)

Petitioners, who reside in Wildwood Crest, filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education alleging that the district Board was required by N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1¹ to

Whenever in any district there are elementary school pupils who live more than two miles from their public school of attendance or secondary school pupils who live more than 2 1/2 miles from their public school of attendance, the district shall provide transportation to and from school for these pupils.

When any school district provides any transportation for public school pupils to and from school pursuant to this section, transportation shall be supplied to school pupils residing in such school district in going to and from any remote school other than a public school, not operated for profit in whole or in part, located within the State not more than 20 miles from the residence of the pupil...

This section shall not require school districts to provide any transportation for pupils attending a school other than a public school, where the only transportation presently provided by said district is for school children transported pursuant to chapter 46 of Title 18A provide transportation for their children attending a not-for-profit private school. The Board countered that since it did not provide transportation for any public school students in the district, other than as required by Chapter 46 of Title 18A, it was not obligated to provide transportation for nonpublic students. Petitioners, however, maintained that the Board had failed to fulfill its obligation under the statute to provide transportation for B.M., a public school student in the district attending Wildwood High School, who allegedly lived more than 2.5 miles from that school. Petitioners argued that the existence of a public school student who qualified for transportation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 obligated the Board to provide transportation for their children to a not-for-profit private school.

The Commissioner rejected petitioners' interpretation of the statute and dismissed the petition, concurring with the Administrative Law Judge that "the plain language of the statute does not require the Board to provide transportation for students attending a non-profit private school, where the only transportation presently provided by said district is for school children transported pursuant to Chapter 46 of Title 18A of the New Jersey statutes." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 6-7.

Petitioners, acting pro se, filed an appeal to the State Board of Education. They also filed a motion for an order directing the Board to produce a written report prepared by a licensed surveyor indicating the route and measurement between B.M.'s home of the New Jersey Statutes or for pupils transported to a vocational, technical or other public school offering a specialized program.

and Wildwood High School. In addition, they subsequently filed a motion to supplement the record on appeal with a copy of that report.

While New Jersey has a broad and liberal discovery process, materials sought to be discovered must be relevant. See Shanley & Fisher, P.C. v. Sisselman, 215 N.J. Super. 200, 216 (App. Div. 1987). In this particular case, the relevancy of the surveyor's report requested by petitioners is contingent upon our ultimate rejection of the Commissioner's interpretation of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 as requiring a district board to provide transportation for nonpublic students only if it actually provided transportation for public school students, other than as required by Chapter 46 of Title 18A. In that the merits of this matter are not yet before us, we find that it would be premature to compel the Board to produce the requested document at this time. Consequently, we deny without prejudice petitioners' motion to compel production of that report. Similarly, we also deny without prejudice petitioners' motion to supplement the record with a copy of such document. N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.9.

We stress in so doing that in the event we subsequently find the surveyor's report sought by petitioners to be relevant to a determination of the issues on appeal, we reserve the right to direct the Board to produce that document and also to direct supplementation of the record therewith.

RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, August 23, 1995

Decision on motions by the State Board of Education, November 1, 1995

For the Petitioners-Appellants, T.J.F. and J.W.F., pro se

For the Respondent-Respondent, Cooper, Perskie, April, Niedelman,
Wagenheim & Levenson (Russell L. Lichtenstein, Esq., of Counsel)

T.J.F. and J.W.F. (hereinafter "petitioners"), residents of Wildwood Crest, filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education alleging that the Board of Education of Wildwood Crest (hereinafter "Board") was required by N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 to provide transportation for their children, J.F. and M.F., who were attending a non-profit private school.¹ The Board responded that since it did not transport any of its public school

Whenever in any district there are elementary school pupils who live more than two miles from their public school of attendance or secondary school pupils who live more than 2½ miles from their public school of attendance, the district shall provide transportation to and from school for these pupils.

When any school district provides any transportation for public school pupils to and from school pursuant to this section, transportation shall be supplied to school pupils residing in such school district in going to and from any remote school other than a public students, it had no obligation to students residing in the District who attended nonpublic schools.

Petitioners countered that at least one public school student attending Wildwood High School, B.M., lived more than 2½ miles from school, and that the Board was therefore under a legal obligation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 to provide transportation to that student. As a result, petitioners argued, the Board was also obligated under the statute to provide transportation for their children regardless of the fact that it was not fulfilling its obligation to B.M.

On July 7, 1995, an Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") recommended dismissing the petition. The ALJ rejected petitioners' interpretation of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, finding that the plain language of that statute required a district board to transport nonpublic school students only if it was actually transporting any public school students. The ALJ observed that petitioners' contention was more properly directed at the Legislature.

On August 23, 1995, the Commissioner dismissed the petition, concurring with the ALJ that "the plain language of the statute does not require the Board to provide transportation for students attending a non-profit private school, where the only transportation presently provided by said district is for school children transported school, not operated for profit in whole or in part, located within the State not more than 20 miles from the residence of the pupil....This section shall not require school districts to provide any transportation for pupils attending a school other than a public school, where the only transportation presently provided by said district is for school children transported pursuant to chapter 46 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes or for pupils transported to a vocational, technical or other public school offering a specialized program.

N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 further provides that a district board may make payment in an amount determined by statute in lieu of transportation to nonpublic school students who qualify for transportation.

pursuant to Chapter 46 of Title 18A of the New Jersey statutes.” Commissioner’s Decision, slip op. at 6-7.

Petitioners, acting pro se, filed an appeal to the State Board of Education. Petitioners also filed a motion for an order compelling the Board to produce a written report that had been prepared for it by a licensed surveyor showing the route and measurement between B.M.’s home and Wildwood High School. In addition, petitioners moved to supplement the record on appeal with a copy of that report, contending that the report was material because it established the fact that B.M. lived beyond the statutory distance from school.

On November 1, 1995, the State Board denied petitioners’ motions without prejudice, finding that the surveyor’s report was relevant only if we ultimately rejected the Commissioner’s interpretation of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 and, as a result, reached the issue of whether B.M. lived beyond the statutory distance from Wildwood High School. In so doing, however, we reserved the right to direct production of that document and supplementation of the record therewith in the event we subsequently found that the surveyor’s report was relevant to a determination of this matter.

Thereafter, our Legal Committee found that it was necessary for the Board to clarify its position as to whether it had any legal obligation to B.M. in order for the State Board to properly resolve this appeal. By letter dated January 3, 1996, the Board was directed to submit such a clarification.

The Board thereupon filed a letter brief in which it reiterated its previously stated position that B.M. did not live more than 2½ miles from school. More significantly, the Board contended that the precise measurement between B.M.’s home and Wildwood

High School was irrelevant because of the fact that it was not transporting B.M. or any other public school students to school.

In their response to the Board's submission, petitioners argued that the Board had provided no evidence to refute their contention that B.M. lived "remote" from school and was therefore entitled to the benefit of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1.

Our Legal Committee then issued a written report, recommending that this matter be remanded to the Commissioner. Along with its exceptions to that report, the Board filed a certification executed by B.M.'s parents, in which they averred that:

Regardless of whether our home is within or without a 2.5 mile radius from the Wildwood High School, we do not wish to participate in this matter and are not interested in having B.M. participate in any district provided transportation.

Certification of Carolyn and William Morey, dated April 23, 1996.

Petitioners represented in their exceptions in response thereto that B.M.'s mother is a member of the Wildwood Crest Board of Education and represents that Board on the Board of Education of the City of Wildwood, in which Wildwood High School is located.

Under these circumstances, our Legal Committee found it necessary to issue a revised report in this matter.

After a thorough review of the record, including the supplemental briefs filed by the parties and their exceptions to the Legal Committee's reports, we reverse the Commissioner's determination and remand for further proceedings in accordance with our decision herein.

Initially, we disagree with the Commissioner's view that N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 requires a district board to provide transportation for nonpublic students only if it actually transports its public school students to school. Given the statutory framework, it is evident that a district's obligation to its public school students arises by virtue of the fact that such students reside "remote" from school and is not dependent on whether the district decides to transport them. In this regard, we stress that a district board cannot insulate itself from its statutory obligations by refusing to acknowledge its responsibilities or by simply denying that any of its public school students live "remote" from school. Hence, a district board cannot avoid its obligation to nonpublic students simply by failing to fulfill its statutory obligation to its public school students.

We therefore conclude that whenever a district board is under an obligation to provide transportation or payment in lieu of transportation to any public school students in the district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1,² that board is also required to provide transportation or payment in lieu thereof to students meeting the statute's distance criteria who attend non-profit private schools. Our conclusion in this regard is based upon our consideration of the terms of the statute. In 1990, the Legislature amended the first paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 to expressly mandate that district boards "shall provide transportation" for elementary school students who live more than two miles from their public school of attendance and secondary students who live more than 2½ miles from their public school.³ Such action codified the obligation of district boards to provide “remote” transportation under the New Jersey Supreme Court’s decision in West Morris Reg. Bd. of Ed., et al. v. Sills, et al., 58 N.J. 464 (1971), cert. denied, 404 U.S. 986 (1971) (school districts have a duty under N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1 to provide “convenience of access” to public schools). See also Board of Education of West Amwell, etc. v. State Board of Education, 5 N.J. Misc. 152 (Sup. Ct. 1927).

³ Prior to amendment in 1990, the first paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 had provided that district boards "may make rules and contracts" for the transportation of public students "residing remote" from school.

In so acting, the Legislature did not alter in pertinent part the second paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1. This paragraph requires a district board to provide transportation to students attending non-profit private schools who meet the statute’s distance criteria “when [the] school district provides any transportation for public school pupils to and from school pursuant to this section.” As previously stated, the obligation on district boards to provide transportation to any public school pupils who meet the distance criteria is now embodied in the express language of the first paragraph of the statute. In this context, the second paragraph must be read to require a district board to provide either transportation or payment in lieu of transportation to nonpublic school students who meet the statute’s distance requirements whenever the district is obligated by the statute to provide transportation to its public school students.

In this case, petitioners allege that B.M., a secondary school student in the district, lives more than 2½ miles from his public school of attendance. If petitioners’ contention is correct, the Board would have a legal obligation to provide transportation or payment in lieu of transportation to B.M. pursuant to the terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1.⁴ However, since the ALJ and Commissioner never reached the issue of B.M.’s distance from school, the record before us is not sufficiently developed to determine petitioners' claim that B.M. lives more than 2½ miles from Wildwood High School.

Moreover, as set forth above, the Board submitted a certification executed by B.M.'s parents when it filed its exceptions to the Legal Committee's initial report in this matter. Although the Board continues to maintain that it has no obligation to B.M., it appears that the Board would like us to accept this certification as a waiver of such obligation in the event we determine that B.M. lives more than 2½ miles from school. Quite simply, it would be impossible for us to do so on the basis of the record as it has been developed thus far. As previously indicated herein, the Board would have an obligation to B.M. if he resides more than 2½ miles from school. Although the Board has continued to deny that it has any obligation under the statute to B.M. or to any other public school student residing in the District, there is nothing in the record to demonstrate that the Board has notified the District's residents of their rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1. Thus, even if we were to assume that the entitlements conferred by N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 could properly be waived, we could not on the basis of the record before us consider the certification submitted to us by the Board to constitute such a waiver. Nor could we properly determine the effect, if any, of such a waiver on petitioners' claim.

Given these circumstances, we remand this matter to the Commissioner for further proceedings consistent with our decision herein to determine petitioners' claim for transportation. Such proceedings should settle the issue of whether B.M. or any other public school students in the District satisfy the distance requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 and the implementing regulations. See N.J.A.C. 6:21-1.3(b). If so, the proceedings should also resolve whether the Board has fulfilled its obligation to those students, including whether such students were adequately notified of their rights under the statute and the validity and effect of any voluntary waiver of those rights relevant to this case.

We stress in arriving at this decision that we have neither considered nor determined whether or under what circumstances public school students who live "remote" from school may validly waive their rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 to transportation or payment in lieu of transportation. Nor, consequently, do we express any opinion regarding the effect of such a waiver by all of a district's public school students residing remote from school on the district's nonpublic students.

Given our determination herein, we also now grant petitioners' motion to compel the Board to produce the surveyor's report indicating the route and measurement between B.M.'s home and Wildwood High School. We find such report to be material to a determination of whether B.M. lives the required distance from his public school of attendance within the meaning of the regulatory structure. We therefore direct the Board to produce such report immediately in accordance with petitioners' request.

We do not retain jurisdiction.

Attorney exceptions are noted.

Petitioning parents sought transportation for their daughters who attend nonpublic schools in the District, alleging they reside outside the 2.5 mile distance requirement set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1. Board contended it provided transportation for its special needs students not for its public school students. Commissioner adopted the initial decision of the ALJ finding that the plain language of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 does not require the Board to provide transportation for students attending a non-profit private school, where the only transportation presently provided is for students transported pursuant to Chapter 46 of Title 18A. Petition was dismissed.

On appeal, State Board reversed the Commissioner's decision and remanded the matter for development of a record to determine petitioners' claim that another pupil, B.M., lives more than 2.5 miles from the public high school he is required to attend. State Board ordered the Board to produce the surveyor's report indicating the route and measurement between B.M.'s home and the high school he attends.

On remand, ALJ concluded that petitioners failed to carry their burden of proof by a preponderance of credible evidence that the residence of B.M. is beyond 2.5 miles for high school pupils. ALJ noted that the electronic device measurement (EDM) used by the Board was an appropriate measurement method. Matter was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own with modification. Commissioner concurred that petitioners failed to establish that the residence of B.M. was beyond 2.5 miles, so as to require the Board to provide transportation to him and to petitioners' minor children, in accordance with applicable statutes. Commissioner agreed that EDM is an appropriate method for measuring distances over 400 feet and found that the Board's EDM is the appropriate measurement under these circumstances. Commissioner found it was not necessary to reach a final measure by subtracting the "discrepancies" between the Board's EDM and petitioners' EDM. Petition was dismissed.

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) adopted the findings and determination by the Honorable Joseph Kane, Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), on a Motion for Summary Decision in the above captioned matter where petitioners sought transportation for their minor children who attend nonpublic schools. In his Initial Decision, Judge Kane found that the plain language of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 does not require the Wildwood Crest Board of Education (Board) to provide transportation for pupils attending a non-profit private school, where the only transportation presently provided is for pupils pursuant to Chapter 46 of Title 18A. The Commissioner dismissed the Petition of Appeal.

On appeal before the State Board of Education (State Board), petitioners contended, among other things, that another pupil within the Board's jurisdiction lived "remote" from the schoolhouse and, therefore, the Board is required to provide pupil transportation to that pupil and, thus, to petitioners. The State Board reversed the Commissioner's determination and remanded the matter for further proceedings. It held, among other things, that:

... whenever a district board is under an obligation to provide transportation or payment in lieu of transportation to any public school students in the district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, that the board is also required to provide transportation or payment in lieu thereof to students meeting the statute's distance criteria who attend non-profit private schools.

The State Board remanded the matter for the development of a record to determine petitioners' claim that the other pupil, B.M., lives more than 2½ miles from the public high school he is required to attend. It also ordered the Board to produce the surveyor's report indicating the route and measurement between B. M.'s home and the high school he attends.

The Commissioner, therefore, remanded the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) and it was assigned to the undersigned. Subsequent to the remand to the OAL, petitioner requested to amend his pleadings to include matters in issue which were not before the State Board or included in its Order of Remand. This tribunal, therefore, denied petitioner's application to amend. Thereafter, petitioner brought an interlocutory appeal before the Commissioner. The Deputy Commissioner granted petitioner's request to amend his petition :

Specifically, the issue of whether the sidewalk constructed subsequent to petitioner's appeal should be included in the distance measurements to be made a threshold determination in this matter will be material to the conclusion finally reached as to petitioner's entitlement to transportation.

This issue was added to those two issues agreed upon at the telephone Prehearing Conference held on October 24, 1996, which are: (1) Whether there are any pupils within the Board's school district who are eligible for pupil transportation pursuant to Statute and Administrative Code?, and, (2) If so, whether the Board has adequately notified such pupils of their rights to pupil transportation under the Statute and Administrative Code?

The hearing was held on April 21, 22 and 23, 1997, at the Atlantic City OAL, Atlantic County Civil Courthouse, Atlantic City, New Jersey. The hearing record closed on April 23, 1997.

UNDISPUTED FACTS

The parties agree and do not dispute the fact that the Wildwood Crest Board operates and maintains an elementary school district. It is in a sending-receiving relationship with the Board of Education of the City of Wildwood, which operates and maintains a high school. The Board's pupils attend the Wildwood City High School in the sending-receiving relationship.

It is further undisputed that 13,200 feet equals 2½ miles.

BURDEN OF PROOF

Petitioner carries the burden of proof by the preponderance of the credible and reliable evidence standard.

SUMMARY OF THE EVIDENCE

A measurement taken on behalf of the Board on January 12, 1996, by William M. Kemp, professional land surveyor and professional planner, demonstrates that the distance from a Wildwood High School door to B.M.'s residence is 13,194.47 feet or 2.49895 miles. This will be dealt with in more detail post.

Petitioners contests the Board's measurement and alleges that the distance between the two points, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:21-1.3 and certain Motor Vehicle statutes, to be greater than 2½ miles.

Petitioner offered William Bertino, a licensed professional engineer, who was qualified as such and testified that he conducted the measurements between the Wildwood High School and B.M.'s place of residence, which is located on the southeast corner of Jefferson Avenue and Bayview Drive. He asserted that the distance between the two points totaled more than 2½ miles. He asserted he used two methods of measurement; i.e., a steel tape and an electronic devise measurement (EDM).

Mr. Bertino explained that the EDM measurement is achieved by an electronic beam of light which shoots a straight line-of-site. He asserted that the EDM is inappropriate for use in the measurement of curves in the path to be measured. It was his opinion that the use of the steel tape was the more accurate method of measurement.

Mr. Kemp, who has qualified as an expert in the areas of land surveyor and planner by the New Jersey Superior Court in Atlantic and Cape May counties and was appointed by a Superior Court Judge to settle land disputes, testified that measurements under 400 feet are usually taken by steel tape (the tape measure is 200 feet in length) and that measurements exceeding 400 feet are done with the EDM. The EDM decreases the incident of error where the use of the steel tape increases the incident of error every 200 feet. The laying down and picking up the tape multiplies the error.

Mr. Bertino testified that he used two different routes from the High School to B.M.'s residence. These are indicated by red and blue lines drawn on the map by petitioner and identified as Exhibit P-1. The Board's measurement is identified as the "red route" and petitioners' as the "blue route."

The Board commenced its measurement at the High School gymnasium (gym) door while petitioner began at the "Boy's" door of the facility. Mr. Bertino's measurements along the Board's route shows two different measurements (P-4, P-5). Using the steel tape method, he shows a total distance of 13,410 feet from the High School "Boy's" door to the B.M. residence and 13,267.70 feet from the gym door to the B.M. residence, a difference of 142.3 feet. He testified that the distance between the "Boy's" door and the gym entrance was six (6) feet shorter in total when measured by the EDM method as compared with the steel tape method.

Following the route suggested by petitioner (Blue), Mr. Bertino measured the distance from the "Boy's" door to the B.M. residence as 13,714.53 feet, while he measured the distance from the gym door to the residence as 13,572.23 feet, a difference of 142.3 feet (P-7).

Mr. Bertino testified that petitioner drew the red line as it appears on Exhibit P-8 which shows, among other things, the intersection of Bayview Drive and Monterey Avenue. He testified further, that petitioner placed the circled letters "A," "B" and "C" on P-8, and instructed Bertino how the intersection was to be measured. Bertino asserted that he measured along the north-west side of Bayview Drive to the end of the sidewalk or, point "A." From there, he measured across Bayview Drive to the north-east corner of Monterey Avenue to point "B," then across Monterey Avenue to point "C." Mr. Bertino did not measure diagonally from point "A" to point "C." On cross examination, Bertino did not know the distance from point "A" to point "C," but admitted that the distance between point "A" to point "B" was greater than the distance between point "A" and point "C." Mr. Kemp testified that his measurement was from point "A" to point "C." Mr.

Kemp asserts that petitioners' measurement from point "A" to point "B" is really backtracking (walking away from point "A") and did not follow the shortest route. Mr. Kemp asserted that there is a difference of 8.29 feet between his measurement and petitioner's at the intersection of Bayview Drive and Monterey Avenue. Mr. Bertino admitted that his measurements would require the pupil walking the route to cross two streets (Bayview Drive and Monterey Avenue) while the Board's route would require the crossing of only one street (Bayview Drive).

Mr. Bertino testified that he performed his measurements on two different days and admitted that petitioner was present at all times he performed the measurements. He also admitted the petitioner indicated to Bertino the route to be measured and the intersections to be involved. Bertino conducted his measurements on weekdays while pupils were in school. Therefore, he did not observe pupils using any routes from school to their respective places of residence. Mr. Bertino used 90 degree turns in the middle of the walkway to arrive at his measurements.

Mr. Bertino testified on cross examination that it was petitioner's decision to backtrack 40 feet on Aster Road from New Jersey Avenue in a southeasterly direction, continue to cross Cardinal Road to Sweet Briar Road and then proceed 40 feet back to New Jersey Avenue, in a northwesterly direction, as shown on the blue route (P-1). New Jersey Avenue is a four lane roadway. The Board's route crosses New Jersey Avenue at the intersection of Aster Road and proceeds in a southwesterly direction to Bayview Drive, away from New Jersey Avenue.

Mr. Kemp testified and the record shows a discrepancy of 55.55 feet between his measurements and Bertino's measurements from Monterey Avenue to Toledo Avenue. When this discrepancy of 55.55 feet is added to the 8.29 foot difference at the Monterey Avenue and Bayview Drive intersection, Kemp asserts there is a difference of 63.84 feet. Subtract the 63.84 feet from Bertino's total measurement of 13,263.34 feet, results in a total measurement now of 13,199.50 feet, or a distance of less than 2½ miles.

On cross examination, Kemp testified that the Board selected the route he was to measure and advised him of the direction in which to cross streets, where there was a question. He was given no instruction with respect to the laws of New Jersey. He asserted that the EDM line-of-

On cross examination, Kemp testified that the Board selected the route he was to measure and advised him of the direction in which to cross streets, where there was a question. He was given no instruction with respect to the laws of New Jersey. He asserted that the EDM line-of-sight measurement does not consider vertical measurements; i.e., walking up and down curbs. The EDM is measured approximately 4½ feet above the ground level. He admitted that a distance of over 2½ miles could result in a difference of more than 2½ feet.

Mr. Kemp testified that the Board's route was the most logical route between the High School and B.M.'s residence. It is the most logical route for children who might be crossing streets.

Petitioner claims that the new sidewalk along Bayview Drive, the site of the former walkway, passes through undeveloped land where no houses exists. In addition, there is the contention that the entrance to the B.M. residence was measured wrong by the Board. The sidewalk entrance to the B.M. entrance is bell-shaped or flared. Petitioner measured the center line of the sidewalk on Jefferson Avenue and then a right angle (90 degrees) of the center line of the sidewalk entrance to the B.M. residence. Logic would dictate that a pupil would follow the shortest line from the Jefferson Avenue sidewalk on to the entrance to the residence.

Dennis Anderson, Superintendent of Schools, testified that at least since 1991, since he has been on the scene, there has been a walkway between Newark Avenue and Jefferson Avenue, the last street within the southwest border of the Borough of Wildwood Crest. The distance of the walkway was two short blocks in length. He asserted that it was paved in June 1996. This is the sidewalk installed which is the subject of petitioners' amended pleadings approved by the Deputy Commissioner. The walkway was used by the Board in its measurement prior to the installation of the paved sidewalk.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Having carefully considered the testimony and other evidence adduced at the hearing and having given fair weight thereto, and having assessed the credibility of the witnesses, I FIND the following FACTS.

1. A measurement of 2½ miles equals 13,200 feet.
2. The Board's point to point measurement from the gym door of Wildwood High School to B.M.'s place of residence along the route known as the blue route is a total of 13, 194.47 feet.
3. The Board's method of measurement was by the EDM method.
4. Petitioner used both the EDM and the steel tape measurement methods.
5. The EDM method is the more accurate method of measurement for distances which exceed 400 feet.
6. For distances of less than 400 feet, the steel tape method is acceptable. However, beyond 400 feet the incident of error increases as the tape is laid down , picked up and carried to the next point of measurement.
7. Petitioner's shortest measurement from the High School gym door to the B.M. residence on Jefferson Avenue was 13,263.34 feet.
8. The Board's shortest measurement from the High School gym door to the B.M. residence is 13,194.47 feet, or 2.49895 miles.
9. There are two discrepancies in petitioner's and the Board's measurements as follows:

The intersection of Bayside Drive and Monterey Avenue of 8.29 feet and, the distance between Monterey Avenue and Toledo Avenue of 55.55 feet for a total of -63.84 feet from petitioners' measurement.

10. Thus, when the 63.84 feet is subtracted from petitioners' measurement of 13,263.34 feet petitioners' distance now measures 13,199.50 feet, less than 2½ miles.
11. B.M. is ineligible for pupil transportation from his place of residence on Jefferson Avenue to the Wildwood High School in the City of Wildwood.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

The statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 provides, among other things, transportation to pupils who live remote from the schoolhouse. Remote is defined at N.J.A.C. 6:21-1.3 as follows:

(a) The words "remote from the schoolhouse" shall mean beyond 2½ miles for high school pupils (grades 9 through 12) and beyond two miles for elementary pupils (grades kindergarten through eight), except for educationally handicapped pupils.

(b) For the purpose of determining remoteness in connection with pupil transportation, measurement shall be made by the shortest route along public roadways or public walkways from the entrance of the pupil's residence nearest such public roadway or public walkway to the nearest public entrance of the assigned school.

Petitioner's claim, among other things, that the former walkway , now a sidewalk, was inappropriate for the Board to use as a part of its measurement because it was not safe and located in an isolated area. Our Supreme Court, however, said in the matter of Board of Educ. of Tp. of Wayne V. Kraft, 139 N.J. 579 (1995), at 602, that [a walkway] . . ." does not compel the conclusion that merely because some part of a pathway is isolated, the pathway is unsafe as a matter of law" I CONCLUDE, therefore, that the walkway between Newark Avenue and Jefferson Avenue is an appropriate pathway for pupils to travel to and from the schoolhouse and, consequently, comports with N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 and N.J.A.C. 6:21-1.3. (b).

I CONCLUDE that petitioners have failed to carry their burden of proof, by a preponderance of the reliable and credible evidence, that the residence of B.M. is "beyond 2½ miles for high school pupils . . ." N.J.A.C. 6:21-1.3 (b).

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that the instant matter should be dismissed.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the herein Petition of Appeal, on Remand from the State Board of Education be and is hereby DISMISSED for the reasons expressed in the Findings of Fact and the Conclusions of Law.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF WILDWOOD CREST, CAPE MAY COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions and the replies thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioners renew their objection to the use of an electronic device measurement (EDM) as the method for establishing the distances at issue herein. Petitioners maintain that the steel tape provides a more accurate measurement of the distance which a student must traverse from one point to another, as "*children do not walk at some distance above the ground." (Petitioners' Exceptions at p. 7) Petitioners further note that Mr. Kemp, the Board's surveyor, acknowledged in his testimony that use of the EDM, inasmuch as it does not consider vertical measurements, when measuring a distance of over two and a half miles, could result in a difference of more than two and half feet. (Id.)

Petitioners further maintain that their route is the only valid route. (Id. at p. 2)

Petitioners again challenge that portion of the Board's measurements which provide that a student will cross Bayview Drive at point A on Exhibit P-8 and proceed to point C, rather than to point B, the northeast corner of Monterey Avenue. Petitioners cite Nichols v. Wayne Township Board of Education, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 157 at 158, for the proposition that measurements must be made by the shortest route along public roadways or public walkways and, although the regulations themselves do not expressly specify, the route must be drawn in compliance with applicable motor vehicle laws. (Id. at p. 3) That the Board would have a child cross Bayview Drive from point A to point C, rather than to point B, argues petitioners, is a violation of New Jersey traffic law, found at N.J.S.A. 39:4-34. This statute requires that

Where traffic is not controlled and directed either by a police officer or a traffic control signal, pedestrians shall cross the roadway within the crosswalk or, in the absence of a crosswalk, and where not otherwise prohibited, at right angles to the roadway.

Thus, petitioners reason that although the Board's route may be the shorter route, it is "*at variance with the parameters set forth in the regulations and state statutes." (Id.) Petitioners claim that their route, although it requires the student to cross an additional street, is in accord with requisite mandates.

Petitioners next challenge the ALJ's calculations which account for 63.84 feet of discrepancy between their calculations and the Board's calculations. Petitioners refer to P-2 in evidence and show that, contrary to the ALJ's finding, there is actually a discrepancy of 68.87 feet between petitioners' measurement of the Board's route using EDM, totaling 13,263.34 feet, and the Board's EDM measurement, totaling 13,194.47. (Id. at pp. 5-6) Petitioners note, "[o]f the total difference of 68.87 feet between the two experts' EDM measurements of the 'Red' route, 63.84 feet is attributable [to] what the Court refers it as 'discrepancies.'" (Id. at p. 6) Petitioners question why the ALJ has failed to account for the remaining 5.03 feet which differ in the parties' calculations.

Additionally, petitioners renew their contention that the Board's route wrongly includes a recently-constructed sidewalk on Bayview Drive between Newark and Jefferson Avenues. (Id. at p. 8) Petitioners challenge the Board's alleged involvement in the construction of said sidewalk, concluding that the Board's actions were illegal. (Id.)

Finally, petitioners assert that the Board has provided no evidence to indicate that it has adequately notified pupils of their rights to transportation, in accordance with the State Board of Education's direction on remand in this matter. Petitioners affirm that

[t]he written record of the hearing fails to make a finding regarding the Board's obligation to notify qualified students of their rights to student transportation or the Board's failure to address this issue at any time during the hearing. (Id. at p. 9)

Thus, petitioners reason that they have "met their burden of proof in establishing the existence of a qualified route which exceeds the 2 1/2 mile distance as required to qualify 'B.M' as a public high school student entitled to the benefits of student transportation ." (Id. at p. 10)

In its reply, the Board initially notes that although its route will be considered determinative, petitioners, in fact, chose public school student B.M. as the end point (or beginning point) of the measurement of distance between the Wildwood High School and the B.M. residence. The uncontroverted testimony on the record is that the B.M. residence is located on the last lot of the last block of the last street in Wildwood Crest. (Board's Reply at p. 2)

As to the method of measurement, the Board underscores that the ALJ's finding that the EDM is the more accurate method of measurement for distances which exceed 400 feet was properly based on two days of testimony, including the testimony of experts concerning the use of EDM. Thus, the Board contends there is substantial evidence in the record to support the ALJ's finding, and argues that petitioners have not presented "*any compelling, credible or reliable evidence to dispute the fact that the use of an EDM produces a more accurate measurement of distances which exceed 400 feet." (Id.)

With respect to the Bayview Drive crossing dispute, supra, the Board argues that it is an unassailable geometric fact that Petitioner's measurement of the crossing of this street, resulting in a distance greater than that of Respondent means that Petitioner measured the crossing of Bayview Drive at an angle which was further from a right angle than the crossing measured by Respondent -- a fact admitted by Bertino on  cross-examination . (Id. at p. 3)

The Board further notes that since Mr. Bertino, petitioners' expert, did not measure from point A to point C, which is "the most direct manner of crossing Bayview Avenue" (id. at p. 3), then the only evidence which the ALJ had to calculate the divergence came from Mr. Kemp. Moreover, the Board asserts that the ALJ fairly and accurately accounted for the discrepancy. That is, the ALJ considered that, as noted supra, when measuring across Bayview Drive, the measurement of petitioners' expert was 8.29 feet greater than the measurement of the Board's expert.

The Board further finds that petitioners' reliance on Nichols, supra, is misplaced, in that the narrow issue in Nichols was "*based upon a factual predicate which is not at issue here." In Nichols, the route selected by the Board contained both existing sidewalks and marked crosswalks. The Appellate Division determined, in a narrow holding, that when such a route contains existing sidewalks and marked crosswalks, the measurement should be based upon the assumption that children use the marked crosswalks and existing sidewalks. In the instant matter, the Board warrants that there is no dispute that its entire route as mapped out for a student would be on a sidewalk, and that route eliminates the need to cross nine additional intersecting streets which a student using petitioners' route would be required to cross. (Id. at p. 4)

With respect to petitioners' assertion that the Board's actions regarding the construction of the sidewalk, noted supra, are illegal or in some manner unethical, the Board replies that petitioners' comments are "defamatory and outrageous" and "*are not based on any evidence presented at the Plenary Hearing before Judge Law and, for that reason, and pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(c) are prohibited from being incorporated in or referred to in the Exceptions." (Id. at p. 5)

The Board concludes that petitioner's exceptions are "entirely devoid of any merit" (id. at p. 5), and the Commissioner should, therefore, affirm the ALJ's conclusion that petitioners have failed to meet their burden of establishing a distance in excess of 2.5 miles, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines that petitioners have failed to establish that the residence of B.M. is beyond two and a half miles, so as to require the Board to provide transportation to B.M., and to petitioners' minor children, in accordance with applicable statutes. Having so determined, the Commissioner does not herein reach to the question of whether the Board adequately notified qualified pupils of their rights to pupil transportation under relevant statute and code.

Initially, the Commissioner notes that remoteness in connection with pupil transportation  shall be made by the shortest route along public roadways or public walkways from the entrance of the pupils' residence nearest such public roadway or public walkway to the nearest public entrance of the assigned school. N.J.A.C. 6:21-1.3(b).

The Commissioner finds that the Board's "red" route (Exhibit P-1) is an appropriate path for students to walk, and shall be used for the purpose of determining "remoteness" from school. Contrary to petitioners' assertion, this path is not proven to be violative of New Jersey traffic laws, as alleged with respect to the crossing at Bayview Drive and Monterey Avenue; indeed, neither crossing is precisely perpendicular, and petitioners' proposed route would have children in the street for a greater distance than the Board's route. Neither do petitioners establish that the new sidewalk offers students a path which, prior to construction, could not be traversed as a public walkway, and that said sidewalk constitutes, therefore, an improper attempt by the Board to create a route that will intentionally subvert petitioners' case.

The Commissioner further finds that petitioners have failed to prove the EDM is an inappropriate method of measuring the qualified route, given the Board's expert testimony as to the accuracy of the EDM for distances over 400 feet, and given that petitioners' own exhibit (P-2) demonstrates that the Board's expert has reasonably accounted for the arcs and bends in the course. Moreover, while petitioners claim that the EDM generally fails to account for "the natural rises and declines of the ground*" (Petitioners' Exceptions at p. 7), they do not point to any portion of the designated route which, by its uneven topography, is prejudiced by the EDM.

The Commissioner, therefore, modifies the initial decision of the ALJ to the extent that, having determined that the Board's EDM of 13,194.47 feet is, in all respects, an appropriate measurement of an acceptable pupil walking route, he finds it is unnecessary to reach a final measure by subtracting the "discrepancies" between the Board's EDM and petitioners' EDM.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is adopted, with modification, as noted. The Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning New Jersey Basketball Officials Association (NJBOA) challenged the decision of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association's (NJSIAA) Executive Committee denying the NJBOA recognition as an approved officials' association.

Commissioner found that the NJSIAA's determination was reasonably based on the belief that the NJSIAA should not permit officials, disciplined by an affiliate organization, to fail to exhaust procedural remedies articulated in the pertinent Affiliation Agreement before seeking to be recognized as a separate entity. Also, insufficient evidence was presented to establish the need for an additional officials' association. Citing Koh, Commissioner found no basis to overturn the NJSIAA's determination. Petition was dismissed.

For Petitioner, Fuhrman & Edelman (Ronald B. Edelman, Esq.)
For Respondent, Picco Mack Herbert (Steven P. Goodell, Esq.)

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education by way of a Petition of Appeal filed on May 5, 1994 by the New Jersey Basketball Officials Association (NJBOA), challenging the decision of the Executive Committee of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) to deny the NJBOA recognition as an approved officials' association. NJBOA consists of twenty-one officials, seven of whom had been suspended or expelled from another recognized officials' association, District Board Local 34. The Executive Committee denied recognition to the petitioner because of the failure of the disciplined former members of District Board Local 34 to follow its internal appeal procedures set forth in Section Five of the Standard Affiliation Agreement between the NJSIAA and the officials' chapter.

Section Five (B) and (C) provide:

(B) All complaints against officials who are members of the Officials' Association, including disciplinary matters, shall be handled through the internal processes of the Officials' Association.

(C) Any party to a complaint involving an official who is a member of the Officials' Association, may appeal to the NJSIAA by filing an appeal with the Executive Director of the NJSIAA, pursuant to Article XIII of the NJSIAA Bylaws. However, no such appeal will be entertained by the NJSIAA until all internal processes of the Officials' Association have been fully exhausted by the appellant.

(NJSIAA Standard Affiliation Agreement, Section Five, Paragraphs B and C)

Petitioner asserts that its application meets all of the requirements for recognition as an officials' chapter in accordance with the NJSIAA Constitution, By-laws, Rules and Regulations, which provide:

1. The chapter must provide evidence of officiating experience of its membership noting league, conference, or levels of competition and years of service.
2. The chapter must provide a list of their duly elected offices and membership.
3. The chapter must provide a copy of their Constitution and Bylaws for approval by the NJSIAA.
4. The chapter must agree to grant the NJSIAA the final authority for testing, training, and evaluating procedures adopted by the chapter.
5. The chapter must provide an outline of their testing, training, and evaluating procedures for certification of prospective and present members.
6. The chapter must agree to comply with all provisions of the Constitution, Bylaws, and Rules and Regulations of the NJSIAA; decisions of the Executive Committee of the NJSIAA; and the tenets of agreements effected by the Officials' Councils and the NJSIAA.
7. The Executive Committee may approve the certification of officials and/or officials' chapters in all sports; and the minimum requirements for testing, training and evaluating all officials.

Petitioner asserts that its members have irreconcilable differences with District Board Local 34 and that it has unsuccessfully attempted to address all of its concerns with the Board. It, therefore, seeks recognition as an independent officials' council.

Upon review of the record, including the transcript of NJSIAA Executive Committee proceedings, the Commissioner finds that petitioner has not established its entitlement to overturn the decision of the NJSIAA Executive Committee. The standard of review for NJSIAA determinations as articulated in Dam Jin Koh and Hong Jun Kim v. NJSIAA, decided February 3, 1987, prohibits the Commissioner of Education from overturning a decision of the NJSIAA unless it is arbitrary, capricious or an abuse of discretion. If due process has been afforded and there is a reasonable basis for the NJSIAA's decision, the determination must stand.

In this instance, NJSIAA's determination is reasonably based on the belief that the NJSIAA should not permit officials, disciplined by an affiliate organization, to fail to exhaust procedural remedies articulated in the pertinent Affiliation Agreement before seeking to be recognized as a separate entity. In addition, NJSIAA reasonably determined that insufficient evidence was presented at the Executive Committee hearing to establish a need for an additional officials' association in order to service the affected region.

Accordingly, there being no basis on which the Commissioner may act to overturn the lawful determination of the NJSIAA in this matter, the Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, tenured teaching staff member, alleged Board failed to pay her five months of accumulated sick-leave benefits to which she was entitled under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-1 to -6.

In light of evidence and applicable law, the ALJ concluded that petitioner was eligible for sick-leave benefits for February to June 1995. ALJ found that there was overwhelming proof that petitioner was absent from her duty "due to illness or injury" so that she was fully justified in utilizing her accumulated sick leave during her time of recuperation. Moreover, ALJ found she was entitled to payment of pre-judgment interest since the Board wrongfully withheld petitioner's sick leave after the Division of Pensions denied her pension request.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision and ordered Board to pay petitioner sick-leave benefits for February through June of 1995, together with a pre-judgment interest of 3.5% per annum until payment was made.

BEFORE: KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is a suit by a teacher who alleges that the Totowa Board of Education ("Totowa" or "Board") failed to pay her five months of sick leave benefits to which she is entitled under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-1 to -6. Originally, the petition raised several additional issues, including whether the Board excessively delayed payment of earlier sick leave benefits and whether the Board acted improperly when it made application for an involuntary disability pension. Since the filing of the petition, the Board has paid petitioner's sick leave benefits through January 1995 and the Division of Pensions has denied the Board's application for involuntary disability retirement. Consequently, the parties agree that the other issues are moot and that the only remaining question is whether petitioner is eligible for sick leave payments for February to June 1995. Petitioner contends that, in reliance on her doctor's advice, she will not be ready to return to work until September 1995. But the Board insists that petitioner's medical condition had improved to the point where she should have returned to work last April. For the reasons which follow, petitioner's illness is genuine and she is entitled to utilize her accumulated sick leave for the last five months of the 1994-95 academic year.

Procedural History

On January 9, 1995, petitioner Ellen M. Brockmann ("Brockmann") filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education. Respondent Board filed its answer on January 31, 1995. Subsequently, on February 24, 1995, the Commissioner forwarded the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case. The OAL held a hearing on July 12, 1995. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the exhibits.

I FIND the following facts:

Ellen Brockmann has been employed as an elementary school teacher in the Totowa school district since November 1955. Over a career spanning nearly forty years, she has held a variety of teaching assignments. Most recently, in 1993-94, she was assigned to teach fourth grade. Paralyzed from the waist down as the result of polio in early childhood, she is confined to a wheelchair. Her dedication to the teaching profession is truly inspiring. Despite her serious handicap, she has an outstanding attendance record and, as of July 1, 1994, had managed to accumulate 281 days in unused sick time.¹

On or about March 4, 1994, Brockmann suffered a serious medical episode at school, which triggered a series of severe complications to her pre-existing disability. Allen Schultz, M.D., a specialist in orthopedics who practices medicine in Wayne, New Jersey, has been Brockmann's treating physician since 1986. Dr. Schultz is board-certified in orthopedics and is a clinical instructor at the University of Medicine & Dentistry of New Jersey in Newark. Shortly after the event, he had an opportunity to examine his patient and evaluate her condition.

At the hearing, Dr. Schultz testified regarding her various symptoms, including a dramatic difficulty with respiration and major loss of neurological function. Of particular concern to Dr. Schultz was Brockman's breathing difficulty, which he regarded as "life threatening." In the course of his examination, he noted various objective manifestations of illness, such as "peripheral edema," or swelling, and "cyanosis," or the presence of a bluish tint. In light of her past history and her compromised respiration, Brockmann was worried that she might be put in an iron lung. Ultimately, however, Dr. Schultz determined that the polio virus was not the likely source of her acute changes and that the most appropriate diagnosis was "Reynaud's Phenomenon," an acute slowdown of the circulatory system, complicated by a secondary viral infection.

At the onset of the condition, Dr. Schultz could not be sure how long, if ever, it might take for Brockmann to regain her prior level of functioning. Initially, he referred his patient for consultation to various other specialists, including a neurologist and experts in respiratory diseases. Essentially, Dr. Schultz served as the primary physician, coordinating the activities and recommendations of a team of specialists. Dr. Schultz prescribed steroids to stabilize her condition and carefully monitored his patient's progress. He saw her twice in March, once again in April, June and September, and thereafter on a regular monthly basis continuing to the present.

As early as November 1994, Dr. Schultz furnished written certification to the Board that Brockmann would remain "disabled through June 1995." During cross-examination, Dr. Schultz explained that he based this estimate on his knowledge of how long it takes to recuperate and recondition. Although uncertain whether Brockmann would ever fully recover, he was able to project that it would take no less than six months.

Additionally, Brockmann submitted to a medical examination performed by a physician of the Board's own choice, Dr. Anthony M. Ventimiglia. By letter dated September 19, 1994, Dr. Ventimiglia reported to the Board that he was "comfortable that [Brockman] is not malingering, and is anxious to return to her teaching vocation." He cautioned, however, that "it is very difficult to predict if she will ever recover to the extent that she may return." Meanwhile, the Board voted on December 26, 1994 to take all necessary steps to apply for an involuntary disability retirement on Brockmann's behalf.

Fortunately, Brockmann has made slow but steady progress in recovering her health. Starting in December 1994, she began physical therapy to rebuild the muscle tissue which had been weakened by her illness. Her physical therapist comes to her home twice each week and Brockmann spends at least two hours every day doing prescribed exercises.

Brockmann has been virtually housebound since the deterioration of her physical condition in March 1994. Recently, her one "big trip" was to the supermarket, where she got "to hold a basket." Afterwards, she was "exhausted" and "took two days to recover.” She still has trouble swallowing, can’t cough and is unable to breathe correctly. Her left arm is atrophied and the muscle tissue remains paper thin.

On the critical issue of whether Brockmann was capable of performing her duties in February to June 1995, Dr. Schultz’s testimony was clear and unequivocal. In his professional judgment, his patient will not be ready to resume her teaching duties until September 1995. If she tries to come back earlier, Dr. Schultz warned that it could lead “to severe respiratory failure.”

Dr. Schultz gave several cogent reasons in support of his opinion. Damage to muscle tissue requires an extended period of time to recuperate. Premature return to work might risk further injury of the muscles, which would mean that rehabilitation must “start all over again.” Even if Brockmann were capable of working on an isolated basis, she “lacks the endurance to perform a full day’s work” without frequent breaks for relaxation. Prior to her injury, Brockmann had worked a full eight-hour day, with little time off other than lunch period. Children in elementary school are prone to various types of colds and contagious diseases. Exposure to such viruses before she had completely recovered could provoke a respiratory reaction which might be fatal. Moreover, a successful return to work is contingent upon the availability of various rehabilitative equipment. One such device, a machine to monitor respiratory infection, had to be pre-approved by her health insurer and is currently on back order. Another important piece of equipment, an electric wheelchair to increase Brockmann’s mobility, must be specially designed to fit her particular needs. Brockmann will have to be trained in the use of these devices before she can come back to work.

Significantly, the Board failed to offer any medical testimony to contradict Dr. Schultz’s well-supported analysis. Instead, the Board sought to rely on a report prepared for the Division of Pensions by one Dr. Paul Glicksman. This report cannot be given much weight for several reasons. In the first place, the report itself is mere hearsay. Nothing on the record discloses Dr. Glicksman’s qualifications, the nature and duration of his examination, or what medical records he reviewed. Dr. Glickman’s ultimate findings are phrased largely in conclusory language, with inadequate explanation of how the conclusion was reached. Second, the report was made in the context of a pension application, which involved the issue of whether Brockman is "totally and permanently incapacitated" for the performance of her duties. This is a different standard from whether Brockmann was ready to return to work before September. Indeed, an accompanying letter from the Division of Pensions cautions that the report was only obtained as medical evidence in the pension case and is "not intended to be used as the basis for any other claim in any other program." Third, the report was not made available to the Board until May 1995 and, therefore, could not possibly have formed the basis for the Board's denial of sick leave benefits for February, March and April 1995. Fourth, the report's recommendation that Brockmann "is able to continue her occupation as a teacher" was qualified by the proviso, "if the proper equipment for her mobility is made available." Unrefuted evidence establishes that the necessary medical equipment has not yet been furnished to her and, therefore, that the condition precedent was not fulfilled.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that Brockmann is eligible for sick-leave benefits for February to June 1995.

State statutes require that local boards of education grant teachers a minimum of ten days of sick leave in any school year. N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-1, sick leave is defined to mean "the absence from his or her post of duty, of any person because of personal disability due to illness or injury[.]" Sick leave cannot be used for any purpose other than that for which it was intended; thus, it may not be used for child-rearing purposes by a non-disabled teacher. Hackensack Bd. of Educ. v. Hackensack Educ. Ass'n, 184 N.J. Super. 311, 317 (App. Div. 1982), certif. den. 91 N.J. 217 (1982). Allowance of sick leave is not merely for the personal benefit of teachers, but is intended to promote the greater public good:

There is a public interest in allowing a teacher sick leave with pay and, indeed, in allowing her to accumulate unused sick leave. A sick teacher might, in the absence of available paid-leave time, continue to teach in order to obtain her salary. We think that such a person should not be encouraged to continue to work in those conditions and come into close dealing with school children." Hackensack, 184 N.J. Super. at 318.

Proofs overwhelmingly show that Brockmann was absent from her duty "due to illness or injury," and that she was fully justified in utilizing her accumulated sick leave during her time of recuperation. Indeed, Brockmann's extended illness is exactly the type of situation that the Legislature contemplated when it mandated statutory sick-leave benefits.

When fashioning the remedy, consideration should be given to an award of interest. Where the debtor is a governmental agency, pre-judgment interest may be awarded only upon "a showing of overriding and compelling equitable considerations." Newark Bd. of Educ. v. Levitt, 197 N.J. Super. 239, 244 (App. Div. 1984). Here a review of the surrounding circumstances compels the conclusion that pre-judgment interest is appropriate. The record reflects that the Board previously delayed payment of sick leave payable to Brockmann for October, November and December 1994. Information available to the Board, including the report of its own doctor, substantiated the validity of Brockmann's complaint that she was too ill to return to work. While the application for an involuntary disability retirement was pending, the Board could at least say that it was awaiting the outcome of that case. After the Division of Pensions denied the pension request, however, the Board continued to withhold Brockmann's sick leave for February, March and April. In the present litigation, the Board presented no medical testimony and its defense is totally frivolous. Under these extraordinary circumstances, Brockmann is entitled to payment of pre-judgment interest on the amounts which have been wrongfully denied to her.²

² Interest rates fixed by court rule are not automatically applicable to judgments and orders entered by non-judicial agencies. Levitt, 197 N.J. Super. at 249, n. 4. Absent a more appropriate standard, however, the Commissioner should look to the court rule for guidance on what rate is appropriate. R. 4:42-11(a) fixes the current interest rate at 3.5%.

It is ORDERED that the Totowa Board of Education forthwith pay to Ellen M. Brockmann sick-leave benefits for February, March, April, May and June, 1995, together with pre-judgment interest of 3.5% per annum until payment is made.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

 BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE : DECISION
 BOROUGH OF TOTOWA, PASSAIC :

 RESPONDENT. :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and respondent's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Respondent's exceptions essentially recast and reiterate arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), again contending, inter alia, that petitioner could have performed her duties with the aid of a powered wheelchair, at least from April 12, 1995, and, thus, was not entitled to use her accumulated sick time. Further, the Board contends that the ALJ did not afford sufficient weight to the testimony of Dr. Paul Glicksman, whose report the ALJ incorrectly classified as hearsay. Lastly, the Board excepts that the ALJ's determination to award pre-judgment interest to petitioner was inappropriate as petitioner did not make claim for such relief. The Board also asserts that such award, which it characterized as punitive, is not warranted since the Board was not required to pay petitioner her back pay while her application for involuntary disability pension was pending.

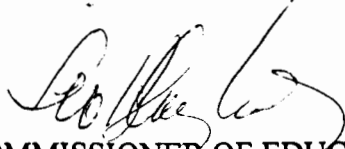

Petitioner's reply exceptions support the conclusions of the ALJ's decision, rejecting the Board's assertion that petitioner was able to return to work in April 1995, while her application for disability pension was pending. Petitioner further asserts that denial of her back pay at the time of her pending disability application was "final evidence of the Board's bad faith and [willful] mistreatment of the petitioner." (Petitioner's Reply Exceptions at p.7)

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ that petitioner is entitled to utilize her accumulated sick leave for the last five months of the 1994-95 academic year under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-1 to -6. The Commissioner accepts the ALJ's findings that petitioner was absent from her duty due to illness or injury, and was, thus, fully justified in using her accumulated sick leave during her time of recuperation. In so finding, the Commissioner further accepts that the ALJ gave appropriate weight to the report by Dr. Paul Glicksman for the reasons well expressed in the initial decision.

The Commissioner further concurs that the award of pre-judgment interest is appropriate in this case, in accordance with Newark Bd. of Educ. v. Levitt, 197 N.J. Super. 239, 244 (App. Div. 1984), since the Board wrongfully withheld petitioner's sick leave after the Division of Pensions denied petitioner's pension request.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Commissioner adopts the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law and orders that the Totowa Board of Education pay to Ellen M. Brockmann sick-leave benefits for February, March, April, May and June, 1995, together with a pre-judgment interest of 3.5% per annum, until payment is made.

Petitioning Summit Board of Education sought determination that C.F., a special needs child whose parents were divorced and lived in different cities, was not domiciled in the City of Summit but rather in the Township of Millburn.

ALJ found there was no ambiguity as to C.F.'s true domicile -- overwhelming weight of the evidence established that Summit had been and continued to be C.F.'s home and domicile for thirteen years. Judgment of Divorce in 1982 did not order that custody be with the father, it had merely acknowledged that he had temporary physical custody at that time. Thus, ALJ concluded that C.F. was a domiciliary of the City of Summit and ordered that Board to provide for C.F.'s educational and related services.

Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions in the initial decision.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petitioner, Board of Education of the City of Summit (Summit) seeks a determination that C.F., a special needs child, is not domiciled in the City of Summit but rather in the Township of Millburn.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by the New Jersey Department of Education as a contested matter pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to - 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to - 13. The matter was heard on April 13, 1995 and May 4, 1995. At the conclusion of the evidentiary hearing, the parties were granted leave to file post-hearing submissions. Counsel for petitioner and counsel for respondent, Board of Education of the Township of Millburn, filed post-hearing briefs whereupon the record was closed.

MATTERS PRESENTED

C.F., a fifteen year old child, was classified as emotionally disturbed by the child study team (CST) of petitioner, Board of Education of the City of Summit.

Her mother, M.F. and father, J.F. were married in 1969. C.F., their only child was born on January 18, 1979, when the parents resided in Summit. Later that year the parents separated. On February 5, 1982, the marriage was dissolved by a Judgment of Divorce entered in Superior Court, Chancery Division, Union County. At the time the decree was entered, C.F. lived with her father. The decree provided for joint custody with the issue of actual physical custody to be later determined:

The parties shall jointly exercise custody over the infant daughter born of this marriage: physical custody, however, shall be determined by the opinion of Martin Buxton, M.D., a child psychologist appointed by this court as an expert to advise in this cause. The opinion of this expert, or of any successor expert appointed by this court with the consent of the parties, shall be dispositive of the issues of physical custody and visitation; and the said expert shall continue to monitor the interests of the said infant by such means as shall, in the opinion of this said expert, be deemed necessary, and including but not limited to personal interviews with the parties and the infant; and the expert shall file reports with this court, providing copies of said reports with the parties at intervals no less frequent than quarter-annually, with the first such report to be filed on April 15, 1982.

The judgment notes that, "the husband, at the present, has physical custody of the child." (Exhibit P-1, p. 5)

Dr. Buxton did not determine the question of custody and neither he nor any other expert rendered any opinion regarding the actual physical custody. Notwithstanding, within several months the mother received the actual physical custody of C.F. This was without seeking approval of the court or a modification of any part of the custody provision. C.F. lived with her mother in Summit at one address until the mother moved to her present residence in Summit. C.F. has never attended public schools. Until June 1994, she attended Kent Place, a private school in Summit. The mother has suffered with a mental condition whose onset was 1982 or earlier. This has resulted in various inpatient hospitalizations for periods of several days to over two months.

The father, who remarried, lives in Short Hills which is part of the respondent's school district. He and his current wife have four children who attend school in that district. During the periods of time that the mother required hospitalization, C.F. stayed with her father or he made arrangements for her care with a housekeeper or with a relative.

In May 1994, the mother entered a hospital for her condition and, except for a week when she left contrary to her physician's advice, she remained an inpatient until discharged in August 1994. During the time that school was in session, C.F. lived in the mother's house in Summit with a relative who came to take care of her. At the end of the school year, C.F. went to her father's house in Short Hills. In July 1994 C.F.

went to a summer camp in Massachusetts. She left that camp and returned to her father's residence where she stayed until he placed her in another camp in New York. After leaving that camp in August, with her mother still hospitalized C.F. lived with her father. In August, C.F. was admitted to Morristown Memorial Hospital psychiatric unit.

Upon discharge she returned to her father's house and she also saw her mother. On September 3, 1994, C.F. was again admitted to the psychiatric unit at Morristown Memorial Hospital and the next day she was admitted to Charter Behavioral Health System (Charter) where she was treated until September 28, 1994. Following her stay at Charter, C.F. was then taken by her father, to Kids Peace National Centers for Kids in Crisis, located at Bethlehem, Pennsylvania.

On September 12, 1994, the parents enrolled C.F. in the Summit Public School system and requested that she be evaluated by the CST. The evaluation was conducted and C.F. was interviewed while she was a patient at Charter. A Social Case History was prepared which observed:

At this time, [C.F.'s] mental health issues are of primary concern to her parents. She is not yet stable enough to be out of a psychiatric setting. [The mother] stated that she hopes that [C.F.] will be well enough to return home and enter Summit High School. [The father] doesn't think that "Summit High School is a viable alternative." He is pursuing different boarding schools with the help of an educational consultant, Helene Reynolds. (P-1, dated October 27, 1994)

Based on the recommendation of the educational counselor C.F. was enrolled in Grove School in Connecticut during November 1994. For the December 1994 year end school holidays, C.F. traveled home by train to Metro Park. She stayed the two weeks at her mother's house and went on day trips with her father. C.F. also returned home by train for spring break, spent the first week with her mother and the second week with her father in Puerto Rico. At her mother's house, she has her own separate bedroom for her exclusive use. When at her father's house, C.F. stays in a guest room which is used by others when she is not there. The mother testified that she has physical custody of her daughter.

The parties agree that for an unemancipated child, the question of domicile is resolved by determining the domicile of the custodial parent. Mansfield Township Board of Education v. State Board of Education, 101 N.J.L. 474 (Sup. Ct. 1925). In asserting that C.F. is now domiciled in Millburn the petitioner, Summit, looks to the judgment of divorce which acknowledged that at that time the father had physical custody of C.F. and that future physical custody would be determined by Dr. Buxton or another court appointed expert. That determination never occurred nor was this custody provision modified or amended in any way. Instead, by mutual consent C.F. began living with her mother in Summit.

Summit believes that the mother's inability to care for C.F. has required the father to assume responsibility for C.F.'s care including those decisions as to medical care, living arrangements and educational needs. These assumptions of parental responsibility by the father are viewed by Summit as having restored the actual physical custody of C.F. to the father as was the legally acknowledged status when the Judgment of Divorce was entered.

DISCUSSION

Except when she was in the actual custody of her father, as an infant, C.F. has lived in Summit, at two addresses, with her mother. Although she has stayed at her father's home in Short Hills, these were visits and she was a guest in the house and not part of the household. Her best friends are in Summit, she attended her private school in Summit, and she and her mother consider that she lives in Summit. Although the mother could not care for her during a prolonged hospitalization during 1994, C.F.'s living arrangements were divided between the mother's house with a relative, two summer camps and her father's house.

There is no showing that the father decided that C.F. would live in his house on a more regular and permanent basis. The evidence established that the mother expected and wants C.F. to live with her. During her short vacations from Grove School, C.F. went to Summit indicating this was home for her. In December she lived with her mother and shared day time activities with her father. In March she spent the first week of her vacation in Summit with her mother, the second week in Puerto Rico with her father.

The Judgment of Divorce did not order that custody be with the father. It merely acknowledged that he currently had physical custody, until such time that Dr. Buxton or other court appointed expert would determine where actual custody would be placed. Apparently, when the mother and father agreed between themselves that C.F. would actually live with the mother, they effectuated that agreement without seeking modification of the decree. That mutual agreement between the parents has been in effect for over thirteen (13) years.

In order to conclude that C.F. is domiciled in Millburn and not Summit it would necessitate finding that the mother's intermittent incapacity to care for C.F. shifted the major parental responsibility to the father and that his exercise of parental authority in decisions regarding his daughter's welfare has returned her custody to him as was the acknowledged status at the time of the 1982 Judgment of Divorce.

The facts do not support such a finding. Except for isolated indicia that C.F. had assumed her father's residence and domicile, such as giving that address to the Morristown Memorial Hospital (Exhibit P-2), the overwhelming weight of the evidence established that Summit has been and continues to be C.F.'s home and domicile.

The acknowledgment in the Judgment of Divorce of her then custody with her father and the provision that would only change pursuant to the procedures set forth has weight but the inchoative nature of the provision does not overcome the thirteen years of reality. If there was any ambiguity as to C.F.'s true domicile, the Judgment of Divorce might be determinative. There is no ambiguity and the Judgment of Divorce is not controlling.

CONCLUSION

Considering all of the evidence, I CONCLUDE that C. F. is a domiciliary of the City of Summit.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the petitioner, Board of Education of the City of Summit, shall provide to C.F., the child of respondents M.F. and J.F., those educational and related services to which she is entitled.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and respondent Board's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions essentially recast and reiterate arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), again contending, inter alia, that the material facts establish that physical custody of C.F. was re-assumed by her father in May 1994 and C.F. is, therefore, not domiciled in the City of Summit.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ that C.F. is a domiciliary of the City of Summit and is entitled to receive an education in Summit. The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that the fact that C.F. temporarily resided with her father does not equate to being domiciled in the Township of Millburn.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Commissioner adopts the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law and orders that the Board of Education of the City of Summit provide to C.F., the child of respondents M.F. and J.F., those educational and related services to which she is entitled.

Board appealed General Fund cap waiver in the amount of $892,137 rejected by the voters at the annual school election. $643,887 of this amount had been found necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient system of education (T & E) by the County Superintendent prior to the election, while $248,250 had not.

Upon review of the record, which included documentation not provided to the County Superintendent at the time of initial review, Commissioner determined that full amount of request was necessary for T & E and ordered an increase of $892,137 in cap waiver monies for a total General Fund tax levy of $10,312,185 for the 1995-96 school year. However, based on evidence of haphazard, inefficient fiscal practices and procedures, Commissioner also directed Board to make, in consultation with the County Superintendent and Office of Finance, such reformatations as were necessary to properly carry out its constitutional and statutory mandates and avert the need for more formal intervention by the Commissioner.

For the Borough of Palisades Park, Marie D. Russo, Borough Clerk

For the State, Deborah T. Poritz, Attorney General (Geraldine Callahan, DAG)

This consolidated matter was initially opened before the Commissioner of Education on April 3, 1995, through the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Palisades Park Board of Education (Board), seeking to appeal the County Superintendent's determination that certain line items submitted to him as part of a proposed voter cap waiver were not necessary for the District to provide a thorough and efficient system of education (T & E). Subsequently, on May 18, 1995, in the wake of the Board's cap waiver proposal having been defeated by the voters at the annual school election, the Board filed an appeal of that portion of the cap waiver proposal which had been approved by the County Superintendent as necessary for T & E.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In March 1995, the Board advised the County Superintendent that, in addition to a need to exceed the maximum permissible expenditure level in its general fund budget through the granting of a "Commissioner cap waiver" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-28(e), the Board would also need a "voter cap waiver" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-28(f) in order to be able to provide for T & E in the District. Following a series of meetings and discussions to correct technical and other problems with the Board's submissions, the County Superintendent ultimately determined, by way of letter dated March 21, 1995, and more specifically by letter dated March 27, 1995, that $643,887 of the Board's proposed $892,137 voter cap waiver was necessary for T & E, and therefore appealable in the event of voter defeat, but that the remaining $248,250 was not. Accordingly, on April 3, 1995, the Board filed the within appeal of the non-T & E determination, which appeal was held in abeyance pending the outcome of the annual school election, as such outcome might have rendered the appeal moot if the voters had approved the Board's cap waiver question in its entirety as presented on the ballot.

At the annual school election on April 18, 1995, the Board submitted a proposed General Fund tax levy question of $9,420,048, as well as its proposed cap waiver question of $892,137 (representing the total of both T & E and non-T & E amounts), to the voters of Palisades Park; both questions were defeated by the voters. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37, the Mayor and Council reviewed the defeated budget, but determined to certify the full amount of tax levy proposed by the Board. Accordingly, there being no governing body reductions at issue, on May 18, 1995, the Board filed the within appeal of the voters' action on the T & E portion of its cap waiver question.

On May 23, 1995, the Mayor and Council of the Borough of Palisades Park filed a response to the Board's T & E petition, contending that the cap waiver requested by the Board should be reduced by a total of $205,694 in three specified line items. On July 7, 1995, the Deputy Attorney General (DAG) filed an answer on behalf of the County Superintendent, contending that his determination with respect to non-T & E line items was correct and proper in all respects.

On June 5, 1995, the County Superintendent submitted his affidavit and supporting documents attesting to the process that led to his conclusion, and that of the Department of Education's Cap Waiver Review Panel, that the cap waiver funds finally approved were both necessary for T & E and unable to be reallocated from within the base budget. These funds included both a Commissioner cap waiver in the amount of $227,568 pursuant to N.J.S.A.18A:7D-28(e), which represented a reduction of the Board's original request of $285,568, and $643,887 of the Board's requested voter cap waiver as described above. Also included was an explanation of the Department's determination that $248,250 of the Board's cap waiver request was not necessary for T & E. No replies to this filing were made by the parties.

In addition, as the parties had previously been advised by letter from the Assistant Commissioner, dated April 7, 1995, and distributed through the County Superintendent to boards and municipalities experiencing budget defeats, as part of the record of the within appeal, the Commissioner took official notice of the Board's revised budget and its June 30 financial report, the latter for the purpose of identifying whether the Board underestimated in its 1995-96 budget the amount of anticipated undesignated surplus.

On July 24, 1995, the Acting Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes wrote to the parties, indicating that the two within appeals would be consolidated for decision and establishing a schedule for submission of position statements and replies, so that the record of the consolidated appeal would close upon receipt of such submissions or expiration of the time for their filing. The Board's position statement was duly submitted on August 10, 1995, and the period for responses expired on August 18, 1995.

On that same date, the County Superintendent submitted an amendment to his prior affidavit, setting forth changed circumstances with respect to his rejection of one line item (special education transportation) as not necessary for T & E. No replies to this affidavit were filed by the parties, and upon expiration of the period for such filing, the record of this matter was deemed closed.

The amounts in dispute in this appeal are thus as follows:

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line-item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education. Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989). In addition, with respect to appeals involving cap waivers, before the Commissioner can direct restoration of any amount of a waiver defeated by the voters, the Commissioner must determine that such amount is both fully necessary for purposes of T & E and unable to be derived from further reallocation within the base budget. Board of Education of the Borough of Rutherford v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Rutherford, Bergen County, State Board decision July 7, 1993; Board of Education of the Borough of Edgewater v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Edgewater, Bergen County, and In the Matter of the Cap Waiver Appeal of the Board of Education of the Borough of Edgewater, Bergen County, State Board Decision July 6, 1994.

Mindful, then, of the standards to be applied, the Commissioner makes the specific determinations set forth below.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

By way of introduction, the Commissioner notes the Board's contention that, even with all requested cap monies, its budget is a bare-bones, no-frills plan which will admit of no reduction whatsoever without risk of deficit or loss of T & E. The Board further comments on the District's fiscal and programmatic status for the past few years, noting a three-year history of underfunding, a deficit in the operating budget during 1994-95 (remedied only by sale of real property which allowed it to realize a one-time infusion of revenue), the complete absence of any surplus, the fact that programs and staffing are essentially at maintenance level, notwithstanding significant increases in student population and levels of special need, and the fact that per pupil expenditures are well below state averages. These comments appear to be borne out by the Board's supporting documentation and the papers filed by the County Superintendent regarding the cap waiver review process. Moreover, nothing in the Mayor and Council's submission would suggest that the Borough disagrees with the Board's overall characterization of the District's fiscal and programmatic situation, notwithstanding that it has contested the need for three of the Board's proposed cap waiver line items herein.

2690	11-190-100-640	Textbooks	$143,490

The Board notes that this amount represents the District's entire appropriation for textbooks, covering the cost of replacing damaged and obsolete books, increased publishers' charges and needs resulting from increased enrollments. Without approval of the requested waiver, the Board contends, students will be forced to share or use inappropriate books. The Board further argues that the amount requested represents an increase of only $500 [sic] over 1994-95 levels. The Mayor and Council raise no objection to this appropriation, which was approved by the County Superintendent.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T & E, but notes for purposes of accuracy that it represents an increase of $5,000 (not $500) over 1994-95 levels.

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount
6030	11-401-100-100	Cocurricular Instructional Salaries	$180,962
6050	11-401-100-600	Cocurricular Instructional Supplies	$ 22,340

The Board argues that these funds are needed to avoid cancellation of all existing cocurricular programs such as sports, clubs and special organizations. These activities are particularly important to Palisades Park, which is a multicultural community with a very high proportion of disaffected, ESL and at-risk students, and are a vital part of the District's inclusion program. Participation in cocurricular activities, which are carefully supervised by advisors and coaches for maximum educational benefit, has dramatically reduced violence and vandalism and has presented opportunities for scholarships based on athletics, forensics and the like.

While the County Superintendent approved these amounts in full, the Mayor and Council argue that at least some of the items in the supplies account can be deferred, so that the Board's waiver request in this area should not be granted.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has demonstrated the need for maintenance of its cocurricular programming in order to adequately meet the needs of its student population. The Commissioner notes that the cap waiver salary amount represents the District's entire appropriation for this area and is level with 1994-95 expenditures, while the supplies account, funded by $70,622 in the base budget, is held at 1994-95 levels even with the addition of the requested cap monies. Therefore, the Commissioner approves these appropriations as necessary for maintenance of T & E.

2680	11-190-100-610	General Supplies	$157,000

While acknowledging that this amount represents an increase of $23,707 over 1994-95 expenditures, the Board argues that it is both a small increase in the context of the overall budget and merely reflects a return to 1993-94 levels after a year of severe underfunding. The Board further contends that these amounts are fully necessary to maintain existing service levels, due to increased costs for at-risk, ESL and special education students, and to increased costs from suppliers. The account also includes monies to cover projected enrollment increases, an increased need for HSPT and EWT remediation materials, and items such as student workbooks. The Board notes that its costs in the area of remediation have nearly doubled over the past 4-5 years, and that its student population has risen by almost 400 pupils in the same period.

The Mayor and Council object to granting of this appropriation, which was approved in full by the County Superintendent, as they contend that the account includes numerous items which are not necessary for T & E, and that elimination of some purchases and deferral of others will not compromise the District's ability to meet its constitutional mandate.

Upon review, the Commissioner notes that the requested cap waiver amount represents the district's entire general supplies budget, that the amount at issue is not unreasonable for a district of Palisades Park's size and configuration, and that the Mayor and Council have recommended elimination of the entire account without specifying what items therein are not necessary for T & E or how the remaining items are to be funded should the Commissioner not grant the Board's request for waiver. Under the circumstances, and in view of the County Superintendent's endorsement of the amount needed, the Commissioner finds that these monies are necessary for T & E and approves their inclusion within the Board's budget. However, the Commissioner also notes that the Board appears to be budgeting all instructional supplies in this single account, rather than budgeting supply appropriations by program (i.e., regular, at-risk, bilingual, etc.), and directs that it conform future budgets to proper coding requirements.

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount
6880	11-000-222-600	Undistr. Expend. - Ed. Media/Library Supplies	$ 26,354

The Board notes that all monies for operation of its elementary and high school libraries are contained in these cap waiver accounts, with salaries representing the cost of only one certified specialist in each school and supplies being the bare minimum for maintenance of services. If monies are not provided as requested, the Board argues, it will be forced to close its libraries/media centers, as well as reassign tenured staff, notwithstanding that prior budget limitations have already resulted in rified library/media staff displacing four highly valued, but nontenured, classroom teachers.

The Mayor and Council contend that items in the supplies account can be eliminated or deferred without impairing the District's ability to provide T & E, so that the Commissioner should not include them in any waiver granted, notwithstanding the County Superintendent's approval.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the services funded by these accounts are necessary for T & E, and that the Board has kept expenditures at maintenance of already modest levels. As with general supplies, the Mayor and Council have recommended elimination of the entire supplies account without specifying what items therein are not necessary for T & E. Similarly, under the circumstances and in view of the County Superintendent's endorsement of the amount needed, the Commissioner finds that the monies in both accounts are necessary for T & E and accordingly approves their inclusion within the Board's budget.

7260	11-000-270-511	Contracted Serv.-Between Home/School	$217,250

The Board argues that this area was substantially underfunded in the 1994-95 budget, based on an anticipated decrease in the number of special education students requiring transportation which did not materialize as expected. To the contrary, due to the arrival of new students with severe handicaps, the actual amount expended in 1994-95 was in excess of $300,000, notwithstanding that only $146,128 had been budgeted. In 1995-96, the Board will be required to transport 53 special education students for 183 days at a daily cost of $37, for a total cost of $363,303, including $4,440 in summer costs due to 6 IEP mandates. The Board contends that these costs will have to be paid regardless of the outcome of the instant appeal, and that doing so in the absence of the requested additional funds will result in cuts to other programs which are already at bare-bones levels.

The County Superintendent had initially found that this amount was not necessary for T & E, based on the documentation submitted by the Board at the time of review. There is also evidence in the record that the review panel, in rejecting the Board's request, may have erroneously believed that these monies duplicated funds found elsewhere in the budget. However, in his amended affidavit, the County Superintendent reviewed documentation newly presented to him by the Board, essentially the documentation brought to the record in this appeal, and found that the monies in this line item were indeed necessary for T & E and could not be reallocated from elsewhere in the budget.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, notwithstanding the Board's initial failure to properly document the need for this item, the Board has now fully demonstrated its necessity in order to provide for T & E. Accordingly, the Board's request for waiver is granted.

7010	11-000-240-103	Salaries of Principals/Asst. Principals	$ 31,000

The Board states that administrative salaries were frozen in 1994-95, with a contractual promise of two years' increase in 1995-96. The monies in this account are thus needed to pay these contractual obligations, and failure to obtain them on waiver will result in other accounts being reduced to accommodate payment.

The County Superintendent and Cap Waiver Review Panel recommended that this amount be reallocated from within the base budget based on what appeared to be a rather large proposed increase over 1994-95 expenditures in line 7030 (salaries of secretarial and clerical assistants).

Upon review, the Commissioner notes a 1% increase in comparing 1994-95 expenditures in the two administrative salary accounts to 1993-94 expenditures, while proposed 1995-96 appropriations (base plus cap) reflect an increase of 5.4%, an amount which appears to be reasonable given that it covers a two-year period. Thus, the Commissioner cannot agree that the Board will be able to reallocate monies from other administrative accounts, notably line 7030, and still meet the contractual raise obligations required to be funded from line 7010.

Accordingly, the Commissioner grants the requested waiver. In making this determination, however, the Commissioner also notes that, once again, the arguments and documentation submitted to the County Superintendent and Cap Waiver Review panel during the initial T & E assessment were not sufficient to have warranted a different result at that time.

APPLICATION OF SURPLUS

In its advertised annual school district budget statement, the Board projected no unreserved surplus and, consequently, allocated no surplus as revenue. The Board's annual financial report filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-10 (June 30 Board Secretary's report) reveals that there is, in fact, no meaningful fund balance available as of that date; indeed, the District appears close to deficit status.

Based on the above, subject to verification through the Board's 1994-95 annual year-end audit report, the Commissioner determines that no allocation from surplus is possible to fund any of the line-item appropriations approved herein as necessary for T & E.

SUMMARY

In summary, the Commissioner finds that the full $892,137 appealed by the Board herein has now been shown to be necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient system of education in the District, and further, that the monies in question cannot be derived from reallocation within the General Fund budget. The Commissioner additionally notes that all line-item waivers to expenditure limitations granted herein, as summarized below, represent restricted appropriations in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.11(b)3.

In so ruling, however, the Commissioner must observe that the Board has brought to the record of this appeal much information that was not supplied to the County Superintendent at the time of his initial review, even though such information was available and should have been presented at that time. In addition, the record overall is replete with indications, much of it from the Board's own submissions, that the District's budgeting and fiscal practices are haphazard and inefficient at best, a circumstance which contributed materially to the difficulty experienced by the County Superintendent and Review Panel in their attempts to carry out the State's budgetary review obligations, and one which cannot be tolerated if the District is to meet the constitutional and statutory mandates with which it has been entrusted. The Board must, therefore, promptly take whatever steps are necessary to ensure that its practices and procedures are reformed to this end.

Accordingly, the Bergen County Board of Taxation is directed to make the necessary adjustment as set forth above, subject to verification of surplus amounts through the year-end audit, to reflect a total of $10,312,185 to be raised in tax levy for General Fund purposes of the Palisades Park Board of Education for the 1995-96 school year. The Board of Education is, in turn, directed to confer with the County Superintendent and the Department of Education's Office of Finance, and, in accordance with their instructions, to reform its fiscal practices and procedures, so that it will henceforth be able to properly meet its governmental and educational obligations and avert the need for more formal intervention by the Commissioner.

 SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
 SCHOOL DISTRICT OF MONROE : DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, defeated candidate for Board membership, alleged there were improprieties and violations of law in the conduct of the school election.

ALJ found that some of the ballots used in the election in question were printed in a manner where a candidate's name did not line up exactly with the line on the punch machine used in voting on these ballots. ALJ found, however, that voters who punched position four on the ballot for petitioner had their vote counted for petitioner when the ballot was run through the computer, even if the punch mark did not line up exactly with line four. ALJ concluded petitioner did not receive sufficient number of votes to be elected to the Board. ALJ noted that better quality control was necessary in the printing of the ballots. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in the initial decision, but admonished the Board to accomplish better quality control in the printing of its ballots in future school board elections.

Record closed: July 10, 1995

Decided: August 2, 1995

BEFORE ROBERT W. SCOTT, ALJ:

An annual school board election was held in Monroe Township, Gloucester County, on April 18, 1995. W. Larry Cooper, Sr., the petitioner, was a candidate for the School Board during this election. There were eight candidates running for three positions on the school Board. The petitioner and another candidate were tied for the fourth highest number of votes. Therefore, the petitioner was not elected to office as a member of the school board. On April 24, 1995, the petitioner filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education challenging the election. On May 10, 1995, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case. A hearing was held on July 10, 1995, in the Office of the Gloucester County Board of Elections in Woodbury, New Jersey.

In addition to the petitioner and counsel, also present at the hearing were Robert W. LaPorta, Superintendent of Schools, Monroe Township; Daniel V. Bevilacqua, Business Administrator, Gloucester County Superintendent's Office; Elizabeth Rennebauh, Secretary, Monroe Township Board of Education; Bernard V. Hines and Loretta Remert, election challengers for the petitioner.

During the course of the hearing, the petitioner recited his concerns about the April 18, 1995, school election in Monroe Township. His complaint concerned the voting at the Oak Knoll gymnasium polling place. According to the petitioner, his challengers informed him that ballots were being punched and it was difficult to determine who the voters had voted for. There were also complaints that many voters were having difficulty aliening their ballots on one of the voting punch machine and that one of the punch machines fell on the floor. The petitioner also represented that outside the gymnasium many voters told him that when they voted for him, the punch mark on the ballot showed up on the line between the petitioner's name and another candidate's name. Further, other voters told him that they used more than one ballot in trying to line up the punch mark with the petitioner's name. Some voters, after attempting to use two ballots, gave up without voting. Further, challengers for the petitioner stated that possibly as many as fifty voided ballots were lying on the table or in boxes in the polling area, and these ballots had been voided because voters could not align them properly on the punch machine.

During the course of the hearing, the petitioner and the school board solicitor had an opportunity to examine all ballots from District Two, the district voting at the Oak Knoll gymnasium and they identified ballots where the punch mark fell below the area on the ballot where one voted for the petitioner. The undersigned also heard the testimony of Mark A. Harris, a computer specialist in electronic data processing for the Gloucester County Board of Elections. It is was Mr. Harris's testimony that voters in Gloucester County vote on what I describe as an IBM punch card. These cards are placed in punch machines where the voter pushes a lever punching a square hole in the ballot. Mr. Harris acknowledged that in the 1995 school election in Gloucester County, some ballots, when placed in punch machines, the names of candidates did not line up with the positions on the punch machines. However, when the cards, or votes, were counted by the computer at the Board of Elections, votes would register according to the candidate's position on the ballot. It was agreed by the petitioner that his position on the ballot was number four. Mr. Harris testified that even if the punch mark was not entirely in the petitioner's area on the ballot, it would still be counted by the computer as a vote for position four, the petitioner's position on the ballot.

Based upon the evidence before me, I FIND that some of the ballots used in the election in question were printed in a manner where a candidate's name did not line up exactly with the line on the punch machine used in voting on these ballots. However, any voter wishing to vote for the petitioner would have had to punch position four on the ballot to vote for the petitioner and no matter where that punch mark showed up on the ballot, it was counted as a vote for the petitioner when the ballot was run through the computer. I further FIND that the petitioner received 625 votes. Three other candidates for the school board received more than 625 votes.

I CONCLUDE that the petitioner did not receive a sufficient number of votes to be elected to the Monroe Township Board of Education. However, all parties involved in this hearing agreed that better quality control was necessary in the printing of the ballots for the school board election. Hopefully, this will be accomplished in future elections. Further, it is unfortunate that some of the voters, especially those who voted for or wished to vote for the petitioner, may have believed that their vote was not counted because the punch mark did not line up with the petitioner's name on the ballot. It is also unfortunate that some of these voters may have had to use more than one ballot and may have given up on voting after their second attempt.

The undersigned would also be amiss in not commenting on the graciousness of the petitioner in accepting a somewhat informal manner in which the above proceeding was conducted. He assured the undersigned, as well as those present, that his purpose in this proceeding was not to overturn the results of the election, but was to insure that the complaints which he had received about the voting received attention and could be corrected in the future.

It is, therefore, ORDERED that the petitioner's petition challenging the above election be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

_____ :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner agrees with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the within record does not substantiate that the irregularities found to have occurred in this matter affected the outcome of the election within the meaning of that standard as long interpreted by the courts.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Commissioner affirms the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law dismissing the instant Petition of Appeal, but admonishes the Board to accomplish better quality control in the printing of its ballots in future school board elections.

Board appealed General Fund cap waiver in the amount of $892,137 rejected by the voters at the annual school election. $643,887 of this amount had been found necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient system of education (T & E) by the County Superintendent prior to the election, while $248,250 had not.

Upon review of the record, which included documentation not provided to the County Superintendent at the time of initial review, Commissioner determined that full amount of request was necessary for T & E and ordered an increase of $892,137 in cap waiver monies for a total General Fund tax levy of $10,312,185 for the 1995-96 school year. However, based on evidence of haphazard, inefficient fiscal practices and procedures, Commissioner also directed Board to make, in consultation with the County Superintendent and Office of Finance, such reformations as were necessary to properly carry out its constitutional and statutory mandates and avert the need for more formal intervention by the Commissioner.

For the Board of Education, Smith, Don, Alampi & D'Argenio (Peter J. Scandariato, Esq.)

For the Borough of Palisades Park, Marie D. Russo, Borough Clerk

For the State, Deborah T. Poritz, Attorney General (Geraldine Callahan, DAG)

This consolidated matter was initially opened before the Commissioner of Education on April 3, 1995, through the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Palisades Park Board of Education (Board), seeking to appeal the County Superintendent's determination that certain line items submitted to him as part of a proposed voter cap waiver were not necessary for the District to provide a thorough and efficient system of education (T & E). Subsequently, on May 18, 1995, in the wake of the Board's cap waiver proposal having been defeated by the voters at the annual school election, the Board filed an appeal of that portion of the cap waiver proposal which had been approved by the County Superintendent as necessary for T & E.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In March 1995, the Board advised the County Superintendent that, in addition to a need to exceed the maximum permissible expenditure level in its general fund budget through the granting of a "Commissioner cap waiver" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-28(e), the Board would also need a "voter cap waiver" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-28(f) in order to be able to provide for T & E in the District. Following a series of meetings and discussions to correct technical and other problems with the Board's submissions, the County Superintendent ultimately determined, by way of letter dated March 21, 1995, and more specifically by letter dated March 27, 1995, that $643,887 of the Board's proposed $892,137 voter cap waiver was necessary for T & E, and therefore appealable in the event of voter defeat, but that the remaining $248,250 was not. Accordingly, on April 3, 1995, the Board filed the within appeal of the non-T & E determination, which appeal was held in abeyance pending the outcome of the annual school election, as such outcome might have rendered the appeal moot if the voters had approved the Board's cap waiver question in its entirety as presented on the ballot.

At the annual school election on April 18, 1995, the Board submitted a proposed General Fund tax levy question of $9,420,048, as well as its proposed cap waiver question of $892,137 (representing the total of both T & E and non-T & E amounts), to the voters of Palisades Park: both questions were defeated by the voters. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37, the Mayor and Council reviewed the defeated budget, but determined to certify the full amount of tax levy proposed by the Board. Accordingly, there being no governing body reductions at issue, on May 18, 1995, the Board filed the within appeal of the voters' action on the T & E portion of its cap waiver question.

On May 23, 1995, the Mayor and Council of the Borough of Palisades Park filed a response to the Board's T & E petition, contending that the cap waiver requested by the Board should be reduced by a total of $205,694 in three specified line items. On July 7, 1995, the Deputy Attorney General (DAG) filed an answer on behalf of the County Superintendent, contending that his determination with respect to non-T & E line items was correct and proper in all respects.

On June 5, 1995, the County Superintendent submitted his affidavit and supporting documents attesting to the process that led to his conclusion, and that of the Department of Education's Cap Waiver Review Panel, that the cap waiver funds finally approved were both necessary for T & E and unable to be reallocated from within the base budget. These funds included both a Commissioner cap waiver in the amount of $227,568 pursuant to N.J.S.A.18A:7D-28(e), which represented a reduction of the Board's original request of $285,568, and $643,887 of the Board's requested voter cap waiver as described above. Also included was an explanation of the Department's determination that $248,250 of the Board's cap waiver request was not necessary for T & E. No replies to this filing were made by the parties.

In addition, as the parties had previously been advised by letter from the Assistant Commissioner, dated April 7, 1995, and distributed through the County Superintendent to boards and municipalities experiencing budget defeats, as part of the record of the within appeal, the Commissioner took official notice of the Board's revised budget and its June 30 financial report, the latter for the purpose of identifying whether the Board underestimated in its 1995-96 budget the amount of anticipated undesignated surplus.

On July 24, 1995, the Acting Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes wrote to the parties, indicating that the two within appeals would be consolidated for decision and establishing a schedule for submission of position statements and replies, so that the record of the consolidated appeal would close upon receipt of such submissions or expiration of the time for their filing. The Board's position statement was duly submitted on August 10, 1995, and the period for responses expired on August 18, 1995.

On that same date, the County Superintendent submitted an amendment to his prior affidavit, setting forth changed circumstances with respect to his rejection of one line item (special education transportation) as not necessary for T & E. No replies to this affidavit were filed by the parties, and upon expiration of the period for such filing, the record of this matter was deemed closed.

The amounts in dispute in this appeal are thus as follows:

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line-item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education. Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989). In addition, with respect to appeals involving cap waivers, before the Commissioner can direct restoration of any amount of a waiver defeated by the voters, the Commissioner must determine that such amount is both fully necessary for purposes of T & E and unable to be derived from further reallocation within the base budget. Board of Education of the Borough of Rutherford v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Rutherford, Bergen County, State Board decision July 7, 1993; Board of Education of the Borough of Edgewater v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Edgewater, Bergen County, and In the Matter of the Cap Waiver Appeal of the Board of Education of the Borough of Edgewater, Bergen County, State Board Decision July 6, 1994.

Mindful, then, of the standards to be applied, the Commissioner makes the specific determinations set forth below.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

By way of introduction, the Commissioner notes the Board's contention that, even with all requested cap monies, its budget is a bare-bones, no-frills plan which will admit of no reduction whatsoever without risk of deficit or loss of T & E. The Board further comments on the District's fiscal and programmatic status for the past few years, noting a three-year history of underfunding, a deficit in the operating budget during 1994-95 (remedied only by sale of real property which allowed it to realize a one-time infusion of revenue), the complete absence of any surplus, the fact that programs and staffing are essentially at maintenance level, notwithstanding significant increases in student population and levels of special need, and the fact that per pupil expenditures are well below state averages. These comments appear to be borne out by the Board's supporting documentation and the papers filed by the County Superintendent regarding the cap waiver review process. Moreover, nothing in the Mayor and Council's submission would suggest that the Borough disagrees with the Board's overall characterization of the District's fiscal and programmatic situation, notwithstanding that it has contested the need for three of the Board's proposed cap waiver line items herein.

2690	11-190-100-640	Textbooks	$143,490

The Board notes that this amount represents the District's entire appropriation for textbooks, covering the cost of replacing damaged and obsolete books, increased publishers' charges and needs resulting from increased enrollments. Without approval of the requested waiver, the Board contends, students will be forced to share or use inappropriate books. The Board further argues that the amount requested represents an increase of only $500 [sic] over 1994-95 levels. The Mayor and Council raise no objection to this appropriation, which was approved by the County Superintendent.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T & E, but notes for purposes of accuracy that it represents an increase of $5,000 (not $500) over 1994-95 levels.

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount
6030	11-401-100-100	Cocurricular Instructional Salaries	$180,962
6050	11-401-100-600	Cocurricular Instructional Supplies	$ 22,340

The Board argues that these funds are needed to avoid cancellation of all existing cocurricular programs such as sports, clubs and special organizations. These activities are particularly important to Palisades Park, which is a multicultural community with a very high proportion of disaffected, ESL and at-risk students, and are a vital part of the District's inclusion program. Participation in cocurricular activities, which are carefully supervised by advisors and coaches for maximum educational benefit, has dramatically reduced violence and vandalism and has presented opportunities for scholarships based on athletics, forensics and the like.

While the County Superintendent approved these amounts in full, the Mayor and Council argue that at least some of the items in the supplies account can be deferred, so that the Board's waiver request in this area should not be granted.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has demonstrated the need for maintenance of its cocurricular programming in order to adequately meet the needs of its student population. The Commissioner notes that the cap waiver salary amount represents the District's entire appropriation for this area and is level with 1994-95 expenditures, while the supplies account, funded by $70,622 in the base budget, is held at 1994-95 levels even with the addition of the requested cap monies. Therefore, the Commissioner approves these appropriations as necessary for maintenance of T & E.

2680	11-190-100-610	General Supplies	$157,000

While acknowledging that this amount represents an increase of $23,707 over 1994-95 expenditures, the Board argues that it is both a small increase in the context of the overall budget and merely reflects a return to 1993-94 levels after a year of severe underfunding. The Board further contends that these amounts are fully necessary to maintain existing service levels, due to increased costs for at-risk, ESL and special education students, and to increased costs from suppliers. The account also includes monies to cover projected enrollment increases, an increased need for HSPT and EWT remediation materials, and items such as student workbooks. The Board notes that its costs in the area of remediation have nearly doubled over the past 4-5 years, and that its student population has risen by almost 400 pupils in the same period.

The Mayor and Council object to granting of this appropriation, which was approved in full by the County Superintendent, as they contend that the account includes numerous items which are not necessary for T & E, and that elimination of some purchases and deferral of others will not compromise the District's ability to meet its constitutional mandate.

Upon review, the Commissioner notes that the requested cap waiver amount represents the district's entire general supplies budget, that the amount at issue is not unreasonable for a district of Palisades Park's size and configuration, and that the Mayor and Council have recommended elimination of the entire account without specifying what items therein are not necessary for T & E or how the remaining items are to be funded should the Commissioner not grant the Board's request for waiver. Under the circumstances, and in view of the County Superintendent's endorsement of the amount needed, the Commissioner finds that these monies are necessary for T & E and approves their inclusion within the Board's budget. However, the Commissioner also notes that the Board appears to be budgeting all instructional supplies in this single account, rather than budgeting supply appropriations by program (i.e., regular, at-risk, bilingual, etc.), and directs that it conform future budgets to proper coding requirements.

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount
6880	11-000-222-600	Undistr. Expend. - Ed. Media/Library Supplies	$ 26,354

The Board notes that all monies for operation of its elementary and high school libraries are contained in these cap waiver accounts, with salaries representing the cost of only one certified specialist in each school and supplies being the bare minimum for maintenance of services. If monies are not provided as requested, the Board argues, it will be forced to close its libraries/media centers, as well as reassign tenured staff, notwithstanding that prior budget limitations have already resulted in rified library/media staff displacing four highly valued, but nontenured, classroom teachers.

The Mayor and Council contend that items in the supplies account can be eliminated or deferred without impairing the District's ability to provide T & E, so that the Commissioner should not include them in any waiver granted, notwithstanding the County Superintendent's approval.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the services funded by these accounts are necessary for T & E, and that the Board has kept expenditures at maintenance of already modest levels. As with general supplies, the Mayor and Council have recommended elimination of the entire supplies account without specifying what items therein are not necessary for T & E. Similarly, under the circumstances and in view of the County Superintendent's endorsement of the amount needed, the Commissioner finds that the monies in both accounts are necessary for T & E and accordingly approves their inclusion within the Board's budget.

7260	11-000-270-511	Contracted Serv.-Between Home/School	$217,250

The Board argues that this area was substantially underfunded in the 1994-95 budget, based on an anticipated decrease in the number of special education students requiring transportation which did not materialize as expected. To the contrary, due to the arrival of new students with severe handicaps, the actual amount expended in 1994-95 was in excess of $300,000, notwithstanding that only $146,128 had been budgeted. In 1995-96, the Board will be required to transport 53 special education students for 183 days at a daily cost of $37, for a total cost of $363,303, including $4,440 in summer costs due to 6 IEP mandates. The Board contends that these costs will have to be paid regardless of the outcome of the instant appeal, and that doing so in the absence of the requested additional funds will result in cuts to other programs which are already at bare-bones levels.

The County Superintendent had initially found that this amount was not necessary for T & E, based on the documentation submitted by the Board at the time of review. There is also evidence in the record that the review panel, in rejecting the Board's request, may have erroneously believed that these monies duplicated funds found elsewhere in the budget. However, in his amended affidavit, the County Superintendent reviewed documentation newly presented to him by the Board, essentially the documentation brought to the record in this appeal, and found that the monies in this line item were indeed necessary for T & E and could not be reallocated from elsewhere in the budget.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, notwithstanding the Board's initial failure to properly document the need for this item, the Board has now fully demonstrated its necessity in order to provide for T & E. Accordingly, the Board's request for waiver is granted.

7010	11-000-240-103	Salaries of Principals/Asst. Principals	$ 31,000

The Board states that administrative salaries were frozen in 1994-95, with a contractual promise of two years' increase in 1995-96. The monies in this account are thus needed to pay these contractual obligations, and failure to obtain them on waiver will result in other accounts being reduced to accommodate payment.

The County Superintendent and Cap Waiver Review Panel recommended that this amount be reallocated from within the base budget based on what appeared to be a rather large proposed increase over 1994-95 expenditures in line 7030 (salaries of secretarial and clerical assistants).

Upon review, the Commissioner notes a 1% increase in comparing 1994-95 expenditures in the two administrative salary accounts to 1993-94 expenditures, while proposed 1995-96 appropriations (base plus cap) reflect an increase of 5.4%, an amount which appears to be reasonable given that it covers a two-year period. Thus, the Commissioner cannot agree that the Board will be able to reallocate monies from other administrative accounts, notably line 7030, and still meet the contractual raise obligations required to be funded from line 7010.

Accordingly, the Commissioner grants the requested waiver. In making this determination, however, the Commissioner also notes that, once again, the arguments and documentation submitted to the County Superintendent and Cap Waiver Review panel during the initial T & E assessment were not sufficient to have warranted a different result at that time.

APPLICATION OF SURPLUS

In its advertised annual school district budget statement, the Board projected no unreserved surplus and, consequently, allocated no surplus as revenue. The Board's annual financial report filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-10 (June 30 Board Secretary's report) reveals that there is, in fact, no meaningful fund balance available as of that date; indeed, the District appears close to deficit status.

Based on the above, subject to verification through the Board's 1994-95 annual year-end audit report, the Commissioner determines that no allocation from surplus is possible to fund any of the line-item appropriations approved herein as necessary for T & E.

SUMMARY

In summary, the Commissioner finds that the full $892,137 appealed by the Board herein has now been shown to be necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient system of education in the District, and further, that the monies in question cannot be derived from reallocation within the General Fund budget. The Commissioner additionally notes that all line-item waivers to expenditure limitations granted herein, as summarized below, represent restricted appropriations in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.11(b)3.

In so ruling, however, the Commissioner must observe that the Board has brought to the record of this appeal much information that was not supplied to the County Superintendent at the time of his initial review, even though such information was available and should have been presented at that time. In addition, the record overall is replete with indications, much of it from the Board's own submissions, that the District's budgeting and fiscal practices are haphazard and inefficient at best, a circumstance which contributed materially to the difficulty experienced by the County Superintendent and Review Panel in their attempts to carry out the State's budgetary review obligations, and one which cannot be tolerated if the District is to meet the constitutional and statutory mandates with which it has been entrusted. The Board must, therefore, promptly take whatever steps are necessary to ensure that its practices and procedures are reformed to this end.

Accordingly, the Bergen County Board of Taxation is directed to make the necessary adjustment as set forth above, subject to verification of surplus amounts through the year-end audit, to reflect a total of $10,312,185 to be raised in tax levy for General Fund purposes of the Palisades Park Board of Education for the 1995-96 school year. The Board of Education is, in turn, directed to confer with the County Superintendent and the Department of Education's Office of Finance, and, in accordance with their instructions, to reform its fiscal practices and procedures, so that it will henceforth be able to properly meet its governmental and educational obligations and avert the need for more formal intervention by the Commissioner.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

DATE OF MAILING SEPTEMBER 1, 1995

RONALD R. GRAHAM, :

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN : DECISION ON REMAND

OF KEARNY, HUDSON COUNTY, :

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board member contended that Board's action in 1993 of renegotiating a five-year term for superintendent after he served only one year of his initial three-year contract violated N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15. Petitioner contended that Board lacked the authority to alter the superintendent's term of appointment until the end of his initial term.

On initial review, ALJ found initial unwritten agreement did not comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 and no enforceable contract existed that could be rescinded. Thus, ALJ concluded the Board could by majority vote appoint the superintendent by written contract for a term of five years under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15. ALJ concluded N.J.S.A. 25:1-5(e) was applicable to contracts between boards of education and superintendents of schools entered into pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15. Commissioner rejected this analysis and remanded matter to OAL for additional factual and legal findings.

On remand, ALJ concluded that 1) a board of education, under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 to 20.5, may not appoint a superintendent for a three-year term and then, one year later, act to appoint the superintendent to a five-year term; 2) the Board should be admonished for its failure to execute a written contract in 1992 showing the terms and conditions of the superintendent's employment and; 3) the Board's decision to approve a five-year contract was not arbitrary and capricious or made in bad faith. ALJ concluded that rather than rescinding the initial contract, the Board's 1993 contract was a modification of the 1992 agreement and effectively provided the superintendent a six-year term of employment in violation of school laws. ALJ ordered the Board to reform its 1993 contract modification so as to comply with the parameters established by N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15.

Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's resolution of the second and third issues as defined on remand. Commissioner found, however, that N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.1 does not preclude a board from rescinding an initial contract prior to its conclusion and contracting to reappoint a superintendent for a different term, provided that term is not less than three years or more than five years.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Ronald R. Graham, a board member of respondent, Board of Education of the Township of Kearny (Board) alleges that the Board acted illegally when it negotiated a five-year term contract in August 1993 with the Superintendent of Schools who had completed only one year of his initial three-year appointment. Petitioner asserts that under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15, the Board lacked the authority to alter the superintendent's term of appointment until the end of his initial term.

The Board argues that the superintendent's three-year appointment, effective July 1, 1992 to June 30, 1995, was mutually rescinded in August 1993. Then, in September 1993, the Board approved a new five-year contract for the superintendent, effective July 1, 1993 to June 30, 1998. The Board submits that its action did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on November 3, 1993, as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13 and assigned Docket No. EDU 10557-93. Hearings were held on February 24, March 16, 17, and April 18, 1994. The parties and the participant, New Jersey Association of School Administrators (NJASA) submitted post-hearing briefs and the record closed on June 6, 1994.

The administrative law judge (ALJ) concluded that the initial agreement did not comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 because the superintendent's appointment was not reduced to writing. N.J.S.A. 25:1-5(e). Therefore, no enforceable contract existed that could be rescinded. Consequently, the Board could appoint the superintendent by written contract for a term of five years under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15. (OAL DKT. NO EDU 10557-934).

On October 27, 1994, the Commissioner found that the issues could not be resolved under N.J.S.A. 25:1-5(e) and remanded the matter to the OAL on November 3, 1994, for further findings regarding the action of a board of education on a superintendent's contract.

The issues on remand are as follows:

1. "May a board of education, under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 et seq., appoint a superintendent for a three-year term and then, one year into the appointment, act to appoint the superintendent to a five-year term?"
2. "What effect does the absence of a written initial contract have under the circumstances of this matter in light of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 et seq. and other applicable school law such as N.J.S.A. 18A:27-5.4."
3. "If mutual recessions followed by new contracts are permissible in general, was the Board's action in this instance taken in bad faith and is it voidable on those grounds?"

The parties did not present testimony on remand, but relied on the testimony presented in the initial proceeding. However, the parties and participant filed supplemental briefs on remand and the record closed on April 17, 1995. A request for an extension of time to issue the initial decision was granted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c).

On June 6, 1995, I reopened the record to consider whether the resignation of the superintendent, John McGeehan, effective June 30, 1995, rendered this matter moot. Having reviewed the statements submitted by the parties and the participant, I conclude that the issues address a board's action on a superintendent's contract under the new school laws and thus the matter is not moot. The record closed on June 12, 1995.

STIPULATED FACTS

On remand, the parties presented the same stipulated facts and joint exhibits which they presented in the first proceeding. I FIND the following as FACT:

1. On May 19, 1992, the past Board appointed John J. McGeehan as the new Superintendent of Schools, effective July 1, 1992.
2. The Board appointed McGeehan to a three year term from July 1, 1992 to June 30, 1995, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15. McGeehan's annually salary was $96,000.
3. As of August 1993, McGeehan had completed 14 months of the three year appointment.
4. During the period July 1, 1992 to August 17, 1993, no written contract was executed between the Board and McGeehan; Frederick R. Dunne Jr. was the Board attorney.
5. On April 20, 1993, Ronald R. Graham, David Stevenson and William Campbell were elected to the Board for three year terms.
6. The Board reorganized in April 1993, and presently consists of the following persons: Howard Zimmerman, President; Mary S. Torres, Vice President; Judith A. Hyde; Richard Weber; Sebastian J. Viscuso; and Stephen A. Stewart.
7. In June/July 1993, Board attorney Mr. Dunne requested the Board members to provide suggestions, if any, for inclusion in the superintendent's employment contract.
8. By memo dated July 6, 1993, Board member Graham, submitted job performance goals for the superintendent's contract.
9. The published agenda for the August 17, 1993 Board meeting did not specifically state formal action was contemplated on a proposal to grant Superintendent McGeehan a five year contract.

10. Dunne and McGeehan had numerous meetings from July 1993 to August 1993 to discuss the terms and conditions for inclusion in the superintendent's contract.
11. At the August 17, 1993 Board meeting, Dunne stated that the superintendent's contract was nearly complete except for the starting date and term.
12. At the August 17, 1993 Board meeting, McGeehan stated that he and Dunne had been negotiating the terms of the contract for approximately two months.
13. During the August 17, 1993 Board meeting, Board member Campbell requested that Dunne first provide a written contract including all pertinent terms before the Board voted to rescind McGeehan's existing three-year appointment. In response to a motion to rescind the balance of McGeehan's three year term, Campbell stated, "It just doesn't make sense to me to be voting on a term of service when we haven't really seen the make-up of what the contract says. You know, I don't know." (J-1).
14. No written legal opinion was rendered by Board attorney Dunne concerning the legal basis under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 for the Board to rescind the superintendent's uncompleted three-year term and granting a five-year appointment.
15. On August 17, 1993, the majority of the Board voted to rescind McGeehan's three-year appointment. There was a vote concerning a five-year term.
16. On September 20, 1993, the Board by majority vote approved the superintendent's contract, containing a five-year term from July 1, 1993 to June 30, 1998, and set a salary of $103,733 for the 1993-94 school year.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

I

I have considered the positions of the parties and participant on the issue of whether a board of education may, under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 to -20.5 appoint a superintendent for a three-year term and then, one year later, act to appoint the superintendent to a five-year term.

Petitioner asserts that the Board's action granting the superintendent a five-year contract is ultra vires because there was already an enforceable three-year contract between the Board and the superintendent. Therefore, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 prohibits the Board from renegotiating "a new contract, after one year into the original contract, unless the superintendent is terminated and paid the balance of his contract." Petitioner's Brief at 6, May 11, 1994.

The Board argues that under basic contract principles and N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 it had authority to modify or rescind the first contract after the superintendent completed one year of a three-year term and then enter into a new five-year contract with the superintendent. Here, the Board's five-year contract with Superintendent McGeehan followed the rescission of his prior contract and created a new and separate contract with its own terms and duration. Unlike a modification to an existing three or five-year contract which effectively extends the terms beyond five years, the new five-year contract "clearly falls within the legal parameters of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15." Thus, the Board submits that the second contract is valid. Respondent's Brief at 13.

Participant, NJASA asserts that the new school laws governing the appointments and reappointments of superintendents, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 and N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.1 permit the board and the superintendent to negotiate a new contract before the expiration of the existing contract. Further, participant posits that the Board could have given McGeehan a new five-year contract under several options. For example, instead of rescinding the oral agreement after one year and entering into a new one, the Board could have given him a new five-year contract at the expiration of his three year contract or the Board could have noticed McGeehan in September 1993, that it intended to renew his superintendent's contract at the expiration of the three-year agreement in June 30, 1995, and then issue "a new five-year contract, starting July 1, 1995, and ending on June 30, 2000." NJASA's Brief at 3, May 11, 1994. Thus, participant submits that the school laws did not prohibit the Board from taking the action that was done. The Board acted properly when it rescinded the three-year contract and awarded the superintendent a five-year contract.

Participant also claims that "[n]umerous boards of education around this state have either engaged in such conduct, or they have extended an initial contract from . . . three years to five years." NJASA's Brief at 1, May 11, 1994. Thus, participant also submits that a narrow application of the new school laws will severely limit the flexibility and the protection the amendments are intended to give to boards of education and superintendents of schools. Furthermore, a narrow reading of the statutes "will jeopardize numerous contractual relationships around the State of New Jersey." Id at 4. Therefore, the five-year contract should stand.

I CONCLUDE that N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 to -20.5 does not permit a board of education to appoint a superintendent for a three-year term, then one year later, act to modify or rescind the first appointment and appoint the superintendent to a five-year term.

The Legislature has made extensive revisions to the school laws. For example, the 1991 amendments to the school laws explicitly prescribe a minimum period of three years and a maximum period of five years for the superintendent's term of appointment. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 states in part:

The board of education of a Type I district and any Type II district, now having or hereafter authorized to have a superintendent of schools, may, by contract appoint, for a term of not less than three more ore than five years and expiring July 1, a superintendent of schools by the recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board.

Thus, local boards of education are empowered to appoint superintendents and have been granted specific contractual power to effectuate that appointment.

Further, the amendments to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15, together with N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, and the addition of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20(b) through N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.5 removed lifetime tenure for superintendents appointed after August 24, 1991, the effective date of the amendments. Instead of lifetime tenure, superintendents have a contractual relationship with the board "for a term of not less than three nor more than five years." N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15. After they have served their full term of appointment, superintendents are automatically reappointed for the same duration as the existing term unless they are notified, in writing, at least one year prior to the expiration of the existing term that they will not be reappointed. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.1 provides in part:

At the conclusion of the term of the initial contract or of any subsequent contract as hereinafter provided, the superintendent shall be deemed reappointed for another contracted term of the same duration as the previous contract unless either: . . . b. at least one year prior to the expiration of the first or any subsequent contract the board shall notify the superintendent in writing that he will not be reappointed at the end of the current term, in which event his employment shall cease at the expiration of that term.

Consequently, the school laws require that the superintendent's contract must state a term of appointment for three, four, or five years. Additionally, the contract shall include the nonreappointment notification which must be given at least one year prior to the expiration of the current contract. Clearly, the crucial provisions of the new school laws that affect the superintendent's employment tenure are the length of time in the appointed position and at least one year advance notice to the superintendent that he will not be reappointed.

Also, the 1991 amendments to the school laws balanced the interests of boards of education and superintendents of schools by creating a "hybrid position" combined with elements of contract and tenure employment. On one hand, the revised school laws offer boards of education more flexibility "which had been effectively forced by the previous lifetime tenure system to either live with, or 'buy out,' often at enormous expense, superintendents with whom they were dissatisfied for any reason not rising to the level of warranting tenure charges." Robert M. Harrington, v. Bd. of Ed of the Township of Clinton, Hunterdon County, OAL DKT. NO. EDU 10750-93 (Nov. 17, 1994), Comm'r Decision (Feb. 16, 1995) at 19-20. On the other hand, the amendments also ensure superintendents "a reasonable degree of security . . . so that their employment status and professional integrity would not be subject to the whims of ever-changing boards which could summarily dismiss them for any reason." Id. at 20. Consequently, under the new school laws, the superintendent's term of employment continues for the duration of the contract period, absent dismissal for cause, resignation, or separation by mutual agreement.

Moreover, the Commissioner has unequivocally rejected a statutory interpretation that N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 permits the board to unilaterally terminate the superintendent's employment upon notice and payment of the remaining contractual salary. In Harrington, supra., the Commissioner stated his view of the school laws:

[T]he scheme established by the N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 et seq. does not permit this result. Rather the statute provides for a superintendent to be employed through one or more three-to-five year contracts, with employment following the initial contract to either continue via a succession of subsequent contract(s), or cease upon expiration of the current contract following due notice of nonrenewal, or alternatively, upon dismissal through tenure proceedings. . . . [t]he law as it was ultimately enacted expressly provides for employment for the duration of a superintendent's contract, thus conferring a status beyond mere entitlement to money.

A board's authority to rescind a contract executed under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 before the expiration of that contract and then execute a second employment contract for a term of three to five years has not been addressed by the Commissioner. However, in West Village Civic Club, Inc. and Arthur Silverstein v. Bd of Ed. of the Township of Manchester and Joel P. Oppenheim, Superintendent of Schools, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d. (Vol. 4B) 115 (Dept. Of Education) the petitioners challenged that board's authority to negotiate a new contract with the superintendent for a term of five years during the life of an existing five-year contract. The Commissioner concluded that the board did not rescind the first contract nor did the board insert language in the second contract that would render the first agreement void.

Instead, the Commissioner concluded that the board modified the first contract when it entered into the second agreement. Further, the Commissioner concluded that the modified agreement which effectively provided for a six-year term for the superintendent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15. Therefore, the Commissioner directed the board to reform its second "contract modification" to comply with the parameters established by N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15. Id. at 122.

Here, the Board of Education of the Town of Kearny and Superintendent McGeehan agreed to rescind the existing three year appointment and then agreed to a five-year term of appointment "beginning after the rescission of his [McGeehan's] prior contract." Respondent's Initial Brief at 13, Feb. 15, 1995. Respondent argues that the Board acted properly when it mutually rescinded, not modified, the existing contract. Respondent asserts that "[t]he basic difference is simply that when a contract is modified, either by changing its length or other terms, you are still dealing with the same contract, and based upon that theory the Commissioner ruled that the Manchester matter resulted in a contract that ran for more than the five-year maximum as allowed by the statute.” The major difference in the Kearny matter is that a “mutual rescission of the existing contract by the Board of Education and Superintendent McGeehan ended or terminated said contract.” Id. at 12-13.

Thus, respondent submits that the Board’s five-year contract with Superintendent McGeehan following the rescission of his prior contract created a new and separate contract with its own terms and duration. Unlike a modification to an existing three or five-year contract which effectively extends the terms beyond five years, the new five-year contract “clearly falls within the legal parameters of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15”. Id. at 13. The Board surmised that “[a]lthough the Commissioner never takes the final step, so as to absolutely state that if there were, in fact, a rescission of the initial contract, a new contract would have been legal, it appears clear that this is stated by innuendo.” Id. at 12.

I reject the Board’s notion that a mutual rescission after one year into a three-year contract followed by a new five-year contract is permitted under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15. Respondent’s broad application of contract principles and N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 would allow the Kearny Board to slip through the back door to effectuate what the Manchester Board was not allowed to do under the identical school law. Nowhere does the Commissioner insinuate that on one hand N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 prohibits a board of education from appointing a superintendent to a three-year term and then, one year later, act to appoint the superintendent to a five-year term by modifying the first contract; but on the other hand N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 permits a board of education to appoint a superintendent for a three-year term and then, one year later, act to appoint the superintendent to a five-year term by rescinding the first contract. The pivotal question is, however, did the change in contract terms effectively give the superintendent a six-year term of appointment in violation of school laws. If so, the 1991 amendments dictate that the new terms of the contract yield to the new school laws. Indeed, to accomplish the purpose of the 1991 amendments to the school laws, the same educational policies which underlie the limitations set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 and which the Commissioner applied to the modified agreement in Manchester must also be applied to a rescinded agreement.

The purpose of the 1991 school law amendments is to eliminate lifetime tenure and to limit the initial and any subsequent terms of appointments to a period of tenure “not less than three years nor more than five years.” Further, the new school laws explicitly outline when and how the Board can change the length of the superintendent’s term of appointment. Indeed, in Harrington, the Commissioner confirmed that superintendents are “employed through one or more three-to-five year contracts” pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15, and that continued employment following the initial or subsequent contracts is also controlled by the school laws. Harrington at 21. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.1 provides that:

At the conclusion of the term of the initial contract or any subsequent contract as hereinafter provided, the superintendent shall be deemed reappointed for another contracted term of the same duration as the previous contract unless either: a. the board by contract reappoints him for a different term which term shall not be less than three nor more than five years, in which event reappointments thereafter shall be deemed for the new term unless a different term is again specified;

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the a board’s authority to “rescind,” “modify” or “terminate” a superintendent’s term of appointment prior to the conclusion of the contract must conform to the new education laws that prescribe the duration of the superintendent’s employment.

The 1991 amendments to the school laws granted legal authority to a board of education to enter into a contract for the services of a superintendent and to deal with the contract in the same manner as any person or entity empowered to contract. However, the contractual rights of the board to change the terms of the contract are subject to statutory limitations. See Manchester and Harrington. Essentially, any contractual changes made before the completion of a current appointment which effectively extends the superintendent's "existing term" of appointment beyond five years violates the school laws. Therefore, if a change occurs before the expiration of a superintendent's contract and it is inconsistent with the statutory term allowed, the contractual terms must be brought into compliance with the parameters established by N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that after McGeehan completed one year of employment under the initial three-year appointment, the new five-year contract effectively extended his appointment from July 1, 1992 to June 30, 1998, a term of six years. Thus, I also CONCLUDE that the Board's act to rescind the first agreement and then act to reappoint McGeehan to a five-year term violated N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15. Ibid. West Village Civic Club, Inc v Manchester, supra, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d. (Vol. 4B) at 115. Consequently, I CONCLUDE that a board of education, under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 to-20.5 may not appoint a superintendent for a three-year term and then, one year later, act to appoint the superintendent to a five-year term.

II

I also reject respondent's argument that the facts in this matter are "clearly distinguishable" from those in Manchester because the Board and McGeehan intended to rescind, not modify, the first appointment and then agreed to a new five-year term of appointment. Respondent's Brief at 2, April 3, 1995. Generally, "a modification of a contract is a change which introduces new elements into the details of the contract, but leaves the general purpose and effect undisturbed." 17A C.J.S. Contracts § 373 (1963). In contrast, to rescind a contract is to cancel, annul or undo the contract from the beginning, and not merely a termination abrogating much of it as remains unperformed. Mutual rescission or rescission by agreement is “the discharge of both parties from the obligations of the contract assumed to be in existence and to be legally binding, . . . [I]n order to constitute a mutual rescission, there must be a mutual release of further obligations under the contract, and a restoration of the status quo.” 17A C.J.S. Contracts § 386. Thus, a mutual rescission restores the parties to the relative positions which they would have occupied if no such contact had been made.

A mutual rescission did not occur between the Board and McGeehan because their agreement did not restore them to their relative positions which they would have occupied if no such contact had been made. Instead, McGeehan continued to provide the Board the same services under a new five-year agreement as he had previously provided under a three-year agreement. Thus, the contractual interests between the parties did not create a new and separate relationship or purpose. Essentially, McGeehan continued to function as the Superintendent of Schools without interruption between the “rescission” of the first appointment and the agreement of a new five-year appointment.

Therefore, I have also considered whether a modification, rather than a rescission, of the first appointment may be inferred from the conduct of the parties and the attendant circumstances. “The determination of whether parties to a contract intend a rescission need not be made solely from express words; it may be inferred from all the circumstances.” Mossberg v. Standard Oil. Co. of N.J., 98 N.J. Super., 393, 406 (Law Div. 1967). Conversely, if the evidence indicates that the parties’ conduct and the circumstances effect a modification, then the remedy applied in Manchester, reformation of the second contract, may be applicable to the facts here.

In Manchester, the board of education and the superintendent had an initial five-year contract from July 1, 1992 through June 30, 1997. Then, in July 1993, they negotiated a new five-year contract for a term from July 1, 1993 until June 30, 1998. Respondent superintendent, Joel Oppenheim contended that the terms of the second written contract were almost identical to the terms in the first contract. The substantial changes involved the superintendent's compensation package. Specifically, under the new contract, contributions to the annuity increased and but the salary increments decreased. The terms of both contracts remained the same, five years. But, if the additional year was illegal, then respondent urged the ALJ to modify the agreement to reflect the initial term, while retaining the other terms and conditions of the new contract. See Manchester, supra. 1995 N.J.A.R. 2d. (Vol. 4B) at 120. The Commissioner agreed. He concluded that the 1993 contract modified the 1992 contract. However, the second contract effectively provided the superintendent with a six year term, in violation of school laws. Therefore, the Commissioner directed the board to reform its 1993 contract modification "so as to comply with the parameters established by N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15." Id. at 122.

In contrast, the Kearny Board claimed that it voted to "rescind" McGeehan's three-year appointment and then acted to grant him a five-year term. Petitioner, respondent, and participant acknowledge that the parties did not agree to a five-year term in 1992. The record discloses why the Board initially agreed to offer McGeehan a three year appointment. During the negotiations of the first contract in 1992, the Board was misinformed about the statutory employment period for a superintendent of schools. On March 14, 1994, the Board's former attorney, Mr. Dunne testified in this matter that at the time he advised the Board on McGeehan's first appointment in 1992, he was not aware of the 1991 amendment to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 which limited the superintendent's appointment to a term of three to five years. Thus, Dunne advised the Board that a three-year term of appointment for the superintendent was the only contract available. Consequently, in 1992 the Board relied upon the advice of counsel and believed that the only employment option it could offer to McGeehan for the position of superintendent was a three-year term of appointment.

At the Board meeting on August 17, 1993, Dunne again advised the Board on matters concerning the superintendent's term of appointment:

DUNNE: And lastly, the Superintendent's contract. Mr. McGeehan and I have had numerous meetings now, and I think we have hammered out 99% of everything that is going into the contract. It's now at the point that, if the Board wishes to take any action, they can. I need some information. I need you to decide the starting date and the term. Those are about the last things that we haven't resolved..

But now you can either, you have a number of choices. Number one, when we hired Mr. McGeehan, he was originally hired on a three year term, which was the only contract available. You can go back to that and make that a three year term from that date....

You have the option of picking either of those dates as a starting date. You have the option, if it is...if you went back to last year as a starting date, you would have to go with a three year contract. If you pick this year as a starting date, you can go with three years from now or five years from now as your option.

STUART: Do we have to rescind the old contract?

DUNNE: By mutual agreement...

McGEEHAN: The contract doesn't exist

DUNNE: No, but there was an appointment for three years so...What Mr. McGeehan would have to do, if the Board wants to do that, he would have to say "I voluntarily give up two years of my first three year appointment".

HYDE: Fred, I have a question.

McGEEHAN: You know how I feel about a contract. Shake my hand and I'm happy.

HYDE: What would happen if we gave him a contract as of July 1, 1993, and for some unknown reason something down the road happens in '95 or '96, referring to something that would have happened between July 1, 1992 to July 1, 1993, legally...

DUNNE: Oh, he's been appointed...

HYDE: I know he's been appointed. But could something be, you know with that year, could something come up legally that he really didn't have a contract. He was appointed, but he didn't have a contract.

McGEEHAN: Under that, until a new contract is executed, you work under your previous contract.

DUNNE: So he's always had a contract of sorts.

McGEEHAN: The one thing with me is you can't get rid of me because I have tenure. Despite the new laws, you see.

DUNNE: Right.

McGEEHAN: So really, that's why I take a handshake. I'm not concerned.

DUNNE: I mean, the worst thing you could ever do to him is move him back to principal and pay him the superintendent's salary.

[J-1 at F]

The debate among Board members, McGeehan and Dunne revealed that they all believed that McGeehan's initial appointment in 1992 was limited to three years; that during his three-year appointment, the Board could reassign McGeehan to his tenured position of principal and continue to pay him the superintendent's salary; that the Board could offer McGeehan a new three year or five-year contract effective July 1, 1992, or a new three year or five-year contract effective July 1, 1993. Also, the Board and McGeehan acknowledged that they would continue to negotiate the terms of a new contract, and that "some of the terms may be dependent upon the length of the contract." Ibid. Further, the Board and McGeehan conceded that the question before the Board involved a new contract because no contract existed for McGeehan's three-year appointment. Indeed, Board member Campbell stated:

And this is the contract that you should have had to begin with. This is what we're talking about.

DUNNE: That's one possibility, you're right, Bill. That's one of the options I gave the Board tonight. If the Board as a whole wanted to vote and to do exactly what you said, that's a proper...

CAMPBELL: I don't mind doing it. I just want to make sure it's done the right way.

DUNNE: As I told you, you can vote to simply have a written version of the Board's contract with John for the three years going back a year to July 1, 1992. That's one option. Option number two is to have him end his appointment now, voluntarily, which is on the table at this point, and then vote to establish a new contractual relation beginning July 1, 1993 for either three years or, third option, for five years. Any one of those three options is proper...

[Ibid.]

During the discussion on the issues, the Board was informed that the written contract would be presented, hopefully, "by the next meeting." The Board then voted to accept McGeehan's resignation of his three-year appointment and "for a five year contract starting July 1, 1993." Ibid. At the following meeting on September 20, 1993, the Board voted to approve the "Superintendent of Schools contract for the period beginning July 1, 1993 and ending June 30, 1998." J-1 at G.

The 1993 contract between the Board and McGeehan contained several important changes from the three-year appointment --an expanded term of employment from three to five years and an annual increase in salary from $96,000 to $103,733. Additionally, McGeehan agreed to carry over a limited number of vacation days, rather than an unlimited amount; and to refrain from outside part-time employment. It also appears that on September 20, 1993, prior to the Board's vote to accept the five-year contract, McGeehan believed that under his initial three-year appointment he would have acquired tenure in several months. While discussing the five year contract McGeehan remarked:

In another several months, I would have been up for tenure, which would have then been a lifetime job. Being a district employee, I would have come under the old tenure laws where only two years would have been required to gain tenure.

GRAHAM: If you had been Superintendent prior to that.

McGEEHAN: Yeah. In other words, if I had started work a day sooner, I would have come under the old laws, which would have meant two years, which means in another six or seven months, I'd be up for tenure and very well would, if granted, have a lifetime position...

[J-2]

Thus, I CONCLUDE that in 1993 the Board and superintendent acted to change the initial three-year agreement prior to its expiration and then enter into a new agreement based, in large part, on wrong information it received in 1992 about the school laws. Indeed, in this proceeding several Board members testified that they would have offered McGeehan a five-year term of appointment in 1992 if they had then known about the new school laws. Thus, the most substantial change between the 1992 agreement and the 1993 contract is the term of appointment from three to five years. However, the general purpose and effect of the contractual relationship remained unchanged-- McGeehan continued to function as the Superintendent of Schools. Therefore, I also CONCLUDE that by their actions, the Board modified its 1992 agreement with Superintendent McGeehan when it entered into the 1993 agreement.

I am also persuaded by the evidence that the Board offered McGeehan the changed contract to ensure that he would stay for a period of five years from either the date of initial appointment or the date of the second contract. And simultaneously, the assurance McGeehan sought from the changed agreement was that he would not have to negotiate an employment contract with the current Board or any future Board for a period of at least five years. The outcome of their negotiations allowed the Board and McGeehan to attain the flexibility and security over the employer-employee relationship that the new school laws intended to convey to boards of education and superintendents of schools. "In seeking to ascertain the purpose and reason for the legislation, a court must consider 'not only the particular statute in question, but also the entire legislative scheme of which it is a part.'" Reisman v. Great Amer. Recreation, 266 N.J.

Super. 87, 96 (App. Div. 1993). Therefore, I direct the Board to reform its 1993 contract modification to comply with the time period allowed under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15. This result is consistent with the intent of legislation and does not frustrate the policy of the 1991 amendments to the school laws.

IV

Petitioner contends that the Board's action on September 20, 1993, to approve a five-year contract was arbitrary. Petitioner claims that the Board appointed McGeehan for the minimum three-year term in 1992 because he had no prior experience. Thus, in 1993 when the Board voted to give him a five-year term, McGeehan "was serving a probationary period, he had just completed one year of a three-year contract." Petitioner's Brief at 7. Consequently, there was no necessity to grant McGeehan a five-year contract on top of a three-year appointment. Moreover, the Board violated N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.3 and N.J.A.C. 6:3-2.1 because it failed to properly evaluate McGeehan before it moved to grant him a five-year contract.

Further, petitioner asserts that the Board failed to give notice to petitioner and two other board members that formal action would be taken at the August 17, 1993 meeting to rescind the superintendent's three-year term. Consequently, no meaningful discussion took place at the meeting because the majority members refused to disclose critical information. Moreover, petitioner contends that the Board's failure to notify the public and the Board members that action would be taken to vote on a five-year appointment is "an abuse of power and a limitless opportunity for mischief." Petitioner's Brief at 2, March 6, 1995.

Petitioner believes that the facts here are similar to the facts in Thomas v. Bd. of Morris Tp., 89 N.J. Super. 327 (App Div. 1965) where the State Board found the action by the former majority board canceling the superintendent's two-year contract and issuing a three-year contract was arbitrary and capricious. Thus, petitioner submits that the Kearny Board acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner when it voted to rescind the superintendent's agreement after he served one year and then approved a five-year contract.

Respondent argues that sometime in June 1993, the Board began to discuss a five-year contract for McGeehan in closed sessions. The Board concedes, however, that prior to the August 17, 1993 meeting, it did not give notice that action would be taken on McGeehan's contract because no action was contemplated. However, the Board did vote to rescind the three-year agreement and to enter into negotiations for a new five-year contract. Then at the September meeting, in closed session, the Board discussed McGeehan's appointments. Thereafter, the Board by majority vote approved the superintendent's contract, containing a five-year term from July 1, 1993 to June 30, 1998, and set a salary of $103,733 for the 1993-94 school year Participant argues that the Board's action was not arbitrary and capricious. Participant accurately describes the distinction between the factual circumstances in Thomas, supra, and the circumstances surrounding the negotiations between the Kearny Board and McGeehan on his new contract. See Participant's Brief at 3-4, May 11, 1994. Also, participant correctly notes that the time the Board approved McGeehan's initial three-year appointment, it mistakenly believed that it could only offer him a three-year contract. Then, several months before the Board voted to give McGeehan a five-year contract, it solicited individual Board members for input. Further, the parties engaged in good faith negotiations on the terms and condition of the contract. There was not a close split among the Board members when they voted to approve the five-year contract. And, the board election was over six months away.

A local school board's action is entitled to a presumption of correctness, and its decision will not be set aside unless there is a clear showing of abuse of discretion or error. Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, (App. Div. 1960). Accordingly, the scope of review is whether a preponderance of the evidence establishes that the Board exercised its discretion in a manner that is “patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives.” Id. at 294. Also, a school board’s decision cannot be capricious or made in bad faith. “Courts cannot compel governing officials to act wisely, but it can and does compel them to act in good faith. And to say that governing officials must act in good faith is merely equivalent to saying that they must act honestly.” Peter’s Garage, Inc. v. Burlington, 121 N.J.L. 523, 527 (Sup. Ct. 1939).

I have considered petitioner’s allegation that the Board failed to provide petitioner with notice that action would be taken at the August 17, 1993 meeting on McGeehan’s contract. I reject petitioner’s assertion as a matter of law. The Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA), N.J.S.A. 10:4-1 to -21 provides that where annual notice or revisions thereof in compliance with N.J.A.S. 10:4-18 set forth the location of any meeting, no further notice shall be required of such meeting. See Crifasi v. Governing Board of Oakland, 156 N.J. Super. 182, 186 (App. Div. 1978); LaFronz v. Weehawken Board of Ed., 164 N.J. Super. 5, 7 (App. Div. 1978), certif. den. 79 N.J. 491 (1979). Thus, it is not a prerequisite that any agenda be published for a regularly scheduled meeting. LaFronz, supra, 164 N.J. Super. at 7. However, the Board did publish an agenda for the August 17, 1993 board meeting. The absence of the superintendent’s contract on the agenda is not indicative of the Board’s bad faith or a deliberate failure to disclose critical information. The minutes of the August 17 meeting reveal that Dunne apprised the Board members of the negotiations on McGeehan’s new contract. After they received the status report, each Board member present had the opportunity to question, discuss and consider several options on the terms of the appointment. Although there was a vote concerning a five year term, the Board did not to act on the five-year contract until the September meeting. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioner’s claim that the Board members had no opportunity to meaningfully discuss the superintendent’s contract is not supported by the evidence.

I have carefully reviewed and previously discussed the circumstances under which the Board agreed to change McGeehan's three-year appointment to a five-year contract. Moreover, the minutes of the September 20, 1993 meeting disclose that the Board members had full discussion on the contracts negotiated between McGeehan and the Board's counsel, Mr. Dunne. Also, petitioner raised for discussion the superintendent's annual evaluation as required by the school law. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.3. J-2. Thereafter, the Board voted to approve a five-year contract for McGeehan as the Superintendent of Schools. J-1, J-2.

I also agree with participant that if the Board members disagreed with the terms and conditions negotiated between Dunne and McGeehan, they could have voted in the negative on the motion to give McGeehan a five-year contract. Instead, the vote to approve the five-year contract carried, five aye, three no, and one absent.

Based on the whole of the evidence, I CONCLUDE that there was a reasonable basis for the Board's action. And, I CONCLUDE that the Board's decision was not arbitrary and capricious or made in bad faith.

What effect does the absence of a written "initial" contract have on this matter considering the amendments to the school laws, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 to -20.5 and N.J.S.A. 18A:27-5?

Teachers and superintendents employed by any school district in this State have statutory tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 to -20.5 and N.J.S.A. 18A:27-5. The superintendent's tenure status has been revised by the amendments to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15. The inclusion of the term "contract" in the new school law established that career or lifetime tenure for a superintendent of schools has been replaced by a contract term of three to five years. However, the revised laws do not disturb the superintendent's tenure rights for the contract period. Indeed, the Legislature intended that "a superintendent shall hold tenure during the term of the contract with the board and during the contract period shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause." Assembly Education Committee Statement, Assembly No. 1131-L.1991, c. 267, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15. Like the protection afforded to teaching staff members under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, and previously to superintendents, the new school laws, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 to -20.5, protect superintendents from unwarranted dismissal or reduction in salary during their three to five-year terms of employment.

The school laws expressly require a written contract between the board and the superintendent. The employment contract between the board and the superintendent carries with it all the benefits and burdens concomitant with a lawful and enforceable contractual relationship. Thus, a board's failure to execute a written contract in compliance with the school laws exposes it to potential and unnecessary legal action. We need not speculate on legal claims that may be filed against a board to enforce conditions and terms of an oral agreement not reduced to writing. It suffices that the Legislature intended that agreements made pursuant N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 be lawful and enforceable.

Nevertheless, a board cannot avoid the dictates of the statute by failing to enter into a written contract. And, a board cannot circumvent the requirements of the law by failing to set forth the terms and conditions in a written contract. Nor can it attempt to terminate a superintendent because he has never been given a written contract. The school laws should not be interpreted in a manner leading to an absurd or unreasonable result. "[W]hen construing a statute, 'every effort should be exerted to avoid ...an anomalous result.'" Reisman v. Great Amer. Recreation, supra, 266 N.J. Super. at 96.

The Kearny Board of Education should be admonished for its failure to execute a written contract showing the terms and conditions of the superintendent's employment. Indeed, boards of education are entrusted with the duty of overseeing the education of youth within its district. Concomitant with this obligation is the orderly and efficient administration of school affairs. Compliance with the school laws furthers effective fiscal management practices by school districts. The Kearny School Board is directly responsible for the operation of the school district and ensuring that its students receive a thorough and efficient system of education. It is appropriate that the Commissioner require that the Board comply with the requirements of the school laws.

ORDER

Consistent with my conclusions that the Board's 1993 contract modified the 1992 agreement and effectively provided the superintendent a six year term of employment in violation of school laws, the Board is ORDERED to reform its 1993 contract modification so as to comply with the parameters established by N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RONALD R. GRAHAM, :
 PETITIONER, :
 V. : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
 BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN : DECISION ON REMAND OF KEARNY, HUDSON COUNTY, :
 :
 RESPONDENT. :
 _____ :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Although no exceptions were filed by either party, participant New Jersey Association of School Administrators (NJASA) filed timely exceptions pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-16.6 and 1:1-18.4.

Initially, NJASA sets forth the issues on remand, as identified by the Commissioner by decision issued on October 27, 1994, Ronald R. Graham v. Board of Education of the Town of Kearny, Hudson County, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 10557-93:

1. May a board of education, under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 et seq., appoint a superintendent for a three-year term and then, one year into the appointment, act to appoint the superintendent to a five-year term?
2. What effect does the absence of a written initial contract have under the circumstances of this matter in light of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 et seq. and other applicable school law such as N.J.S.A. 18A:27-5.4? and
3. If mutual rescissions followed by new contracts are permissible in general, was the Board's action in this instance taken in bad faith and is it voidable on those grounds?

NJASA concurs with the ALJ's analysis as to the second and third issues, but excepts to her conclusions concerning the first issue.

NJASA argues that boards and superintendents should be permitted to mutually rescind contracts and enter into new contracts, both under the statute in question and in accordance with general contract principles. In the instant matter, the NJASA maintains that the Board and the superintendent had the lawful right to rescind their first contract, and the ALJ erred in finding that the parties had intended to modify, rather than rescind, that contract. Here, participant warrants that the findings of fact on pages 4 and 5 of the initial decision, together with the additional consideration offered by the superintendent in this matter, belie the conclusion that the initial contract was not rescinded to make way for a new contract. Moreover, NJASA argues that the parties, by their rescission and establishment of a new contract, not only effected a new purpose and relationship (i.e., to work for the Board for a longer period of time), but changed the terms and conditions of the superintendent's service under the new agreement. (NJASA's Exceptions at p. 4)

The test of whether a contract is rescinded, NJASA continues, is “whether there is any contractual right to further performance under the (initial) contract, or if any right to damages for a breach of contract continues to exist.” (Id. at p. 5) NJASA contends that, when the motion to rescind the initial contract took place, the parties were placed at the status quo; “the Board was no longer obligated to employ McGeehan, and he was under no obligation to work.” (Id.) Moreover, NJASA avers it was inappropriate for the ALJ to impute to the Board an intent to modify the initial contract based on its receipt of “wrong” legal advice; NJASA maintains that the legal advice to which the ALJ refers was rendered in 1992, and it was a new Board which voted to rescind the contract in 1993. (Id. at p. 6)

NJASA further excepts to the ALJ's reasoning that the Commissioner's decision in West Village, supra, prohibits a finding that rescissions may take place. Here, NJASA argues that the Commissioner expressly states in that decision that he did not reach the question of whether a board may establish a contract under N.J.S.A. 18:17-15 et seq., rescind that contract well before its expiration and enter into a second employment contract for a term of three to five years.

The statutory scheme, NJASA continues, "clearly contemplates" that contracts will be entered into prior to the expiration of the initial contract:

When this statute is read, in pari materia with N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15, it becomes clear that a new contract could be entered into before the expiration of an initial contract. The language of the statute contemplates the authority of a board to make a decision on a superintendent's contract at any time prior to the expiration of the contract; indeed it must act "at least one year in advance" to either terminate the contract, appoint the superintendent to [a] new term, or allow the contract to automatically roll over. The use of the words "at least" indicates that the Legislature was not concerned with the impact on future boards, since one board would be deciding the future of the superintendent's contract for others. (emphasis in text) (Id. at p. 8)

In support of its position, NJASA presents a number of possible scenarios which might evolve from the statutory scheme arguing that, in some instances, adherence to the ALJ's interpretation would promote form over substance. (Id. at p. 10)

NJASA next asserts that N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 et seq. should be interpreted to permit contractual flexibility in order to protect both the board and the superintendent. For example, NJASA argues, a board may seek administrative stability by entering into a new contract, prior to the expiration of the initial contract, to ensure the completion of projects and programs. Moreover, NJASA maintains “[t]he statute should be read to permit the parties to plan a mutually beneficial relationship, not only in terms of the length of the contract, but also regarding other terms and conditions including economic terms.” (Id. at p. 11)

Finally, NJASA agrees with the ALJ’s conclusion that no bad faith occurred in this situation, and urges that this standard be used as a threshold issue in determining whether a contract was appropriately entered. Thus, NJASA argues that the Commissioner should find that “mutual modifications and/or rescissions are permissible, unless the parties acted arbitrarily or in bad faith.” (Id. at p. 13) Such a standard, NJASA reasons, would allow the flexibility which the statutes intended, while offering the public protection from arbitrary and improper acts.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ’s resolution of the second and third issues as defined on remand; specifically that in the instant matter, the Kearny Board of Education was remiss in failing to execute a written contract in 1992 in accordance with school laws, and while said failure exposed it to potential legal action, further speculation as to the enforceability of the contract, under the particular circumstances herein, is not necessary (Id. at pp. 25, 26) and the Board’s action in this matter was not arbitrary and capricious or made in bad faith. (Id. at p. 24)

On the first issue, however, the Commissioner does not concur with the ALJ’s conclusion that N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15 et seq. precludes a board of education from appointing a superintendent for a three-year term, then one year into the appointment period, rescinding the initial contract and reappointing the superintendent to a five-year term. Rather, the Commissioner finds nothing in the statutory scheme found at N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.1 which would prevent the board from rescinding an initial or prevailing agreement and voting to reappoint a superintendent, prior to the conclusion of the agreement, for a different contractual term, provided that term is not less than three years or more than five years. To hold otherwise would needlessly limit both the board's and the superintendent's flexibility to enter into agreements which may be both mutually beneficial and educationally sound. For example, as NJASA proposes, a board, seeking administrative stability, may wish to enter into a new contract with its superintendent to ensure that special programs or projects are completed; alternatively, reappointment of a superintendent may be driven by a mutual desire for renegotiation of terms and conditions. Neither is this finding counter to the Legislative purpose of the statute. To the contrary, it enhances the balance intended by the Legislature by providing needed flexibility, while limiting the employment obligation to any given superintendent to a maximum term of five years. Robert M. Harrington v. Board of Education of the Township of Clinton, Hunterdon County, decided by the Commissioner of Education February 16, 1995; Thomas G. Dunn, Jr. v. Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County, decided by the Commissioner of Education July 10, 1995.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is adopted in part and modified as set forth above, and the petition is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

V. : DECISION

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP : OF WALL, MONMOUTH COUNTY, :

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners sought retraction of allegedly misleading and inaccurate information promulgated by the Board prior to upcoming referendum vote. Additionally, petitioners sought injunctive relief in the prevention of the transmittal of such information by either the Board or the Administration to the Citizens' Referendum Committee, and that school personnel working for this group during school hours be stopped from this activity. Lastly, petitioners sought order that the "Back-to-School" nights be rescheduled back to their regular times rather than on the date of the election.

ALJ did grant petitioners' request in part as to the first issue, ordering correction of one sentence in a particular newsletter. As to the other issues, ALJ found no improprieties after examination of circumstances presented. Also, no rationale was found for directing the rescheduling of the "Back-to-School" night. Other than the one correction granted, the remainder of the petition was denied.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own. Citing Lindenwold Election, however, Commissioner cautioned Board of potential for appearance of impropriety in its scheduling of parents' events on the date of a bond referendum.

WILLIAM MAGARA AND JUNE HERBERT,

Petitioners,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WALL, MONMOUTH COUNTY,

Respondent.

William Magara and June Herbert, petitioners, pro se.

Elizabeth Farley, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: August 28, 1995

Decided: August 29, 1995

BEFORE KATHRYN A. CLARK, ALJ:

BEGINNING OF TRANSCRIPT

This is the matter of Magara v. Wall Township Board of Education. This matter was brought before the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) by way of application for emergent relief under N.J.A.C 1-1:61A-12.1.

Petitioners claim that the Board of Education (BOE) and the Citizens' Referendum Committee (CRC) had disseminated misleading and inaccurate information by means of a newsletter entitled "Referendum Focus." Petitioners seeks a retraction prior to the referendum vote on September 19, 1995.

Additionally, petitioners seeks injunctive relief in the prevention of the transmittal by either the BOE or the Administration to the CRC of misleading or inaccurate information and further that the school personnel working for this group during school hours be stopped from this activity.

Lastly, petitioners seek an order that the "Back to School" open house nights be re-scheduled back to their regular times.

The granting of emergent relief is an extraordinary remedy which can only be awarded based upon a showing that irreparable harm will result if it is not granted, and a further showing that there is a likelihood of success on the merits. See, N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6

The expanded criteria for determination of an application for emergent relief have been set forth in Crowe v. Degioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132 - 34 (1982). Four standards are articulated:

1. The relief should not be granted unless it is necessary to prevent irreparable harm. Harm is generally considered irreparable if it cannot be adequately redressed by monetary damages.
2. Such relief should not be granted when the legal rights underlying the claim are unsettled.
3. In order to prevail on an application for temporary relief, a party must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits.
4. The relative hardship of the parties in granting or denying the relief sought should be considered.

We have gone through all the elements of the case and I have come to the following determination:

1. The petitioners' request for a retraction of misleading or inaccurate information in the "Referendum Focus" be GRANTED IN PART in that the Board of Education has consented to and ORDERED to make a correction to the last sentence of the first paragraph of page two of the July 19, 1995 newsletter. That sentence lends itself to misinterpretation and although I do not FIND any intent on the part of the Board to mislead or to provide inaccurate information, I feel that it would be beneficial if a correction was made, because that last sentence in that paragraph can be misleading. There are two more issues of "Referendum Focus" to be published.

I DIRECT the Board to publish a correction of that one sentence. Publication of the correction may take place in either issue of the "Referendum Focus."

2. Petitioner's second request is that the Board and the Administration be prevented from supplying the CRC with misleading or inaccurate information and the school personnel working for this group during school hours be stopped from this activity. I have heard credible evidence and nothing to the contrary to lead me to believe that Mrs. D'Elia is functioning in the capacity of an information and referral person, and that as such it is her duty, her job, to refer members of the public who call in to organizations that they might be interested in. Therefore, there is nothing improper with putting her name and her telephone number in any publication of the Board that may be published. As to the CRC utilizing her name and number, if that is the name and number that is generally in use for the provision of information regarding membership in such groups (and I have heard nothing to the contrary), that is the one to use. There is nothing inaccurate or improper in doing that.

Further as to Mr. Goldblatt's involvement, the gentleman who was said to be seated in front of the computer, we don't know what he was doing on the computer except that he was working on a final draft of the "Referendum Focus." It seems more likely to me that Mr. Goldblatt was working in a volunteer capacity. The newsletter is still the product of the Board of Education, and whatever Mr. Goldblatt was doing was something that would still be under the editorial direction of the Board of Education. I FIND no impropriety in Mr. Goldblatt's volunteer activities.

3. The third request is that the "Back-to-School" open house nights be rescheduled back to their regular times, I FIND nothing improper about scheduling "Back-to-School" night on the night when the referendum is also to be held because that seems likely to increase the participation in the referendum, which is a public goal. Voter participation is something that should be enhanced, and doubling it up with "Back-to-School" night sounds like it may achieve that end. The claim that scheduling the two events for the same night makes it difficult or impossible for older people to vote is again something that has not really been proven. The voting hours last from four to nine and the open house (the "Back-to-School" night) doesn't start until seven, so three out of the five hours that the polls are open are hours that will not involve "Back-to-School" night. The polls will be available and accessible to people who might otherwise find it difficult to get to them. I don't find any rationale for directing the rescheduling of the "Back-to-School" night.

As to the one correction that I have directed the Board of Education to make regarding that one sentence in the newsletter which is misleading and which I really do believe is a drafting error your petition is GRANTED. The remainder of your petition is DENIED.

END OF TRANSCRIPT

WILLIAM MAGARA AND JUNE HERBERT, :
PETITIONERS, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V. : DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP : OF WALL, MONMOUTH COUNTY, :
RESPONDENT. :
_____ :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that no improprieties were demonstrated so as to warrant the relief requested, other than the one correction ordered by the ALJ. The Commissioner would, however, caution the Board that, while there is no statutory prohibition against holding activities, such as "Back-to-School" nights, at the same time as a school election, and while such scheduling may, as stated by the ALJ, encourage voter participation, care must be taken to ensure that no suspicion or appearance of impropriety is created, so as to undermine public confidence in the integrity of the electoral process. In the Matter of the Annual School Election Held in the School District of the Borough of Lindenwold, Camden County, 1972 S.L.D. 241.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein as amplified above, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning janitor alleged the Board unilaterally and improperly reduced his salary for the 1994-95 school year.

ALJ found that petitioner's nontenured position was abolished as Assistant Buildings and Grounds Supervisor in good faith and the salary paid him thereafter was a mistake. The Board's vote on September 22, 1994 to correct the error was proper because the Board did not attempt to recover any of the difference between the monies paid and the monies actually due petitioner and because it gave notice and took formal action to correct the error. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner concurred with ALJ that petitioner's salary following good-faith abolition of his position was a mistake and that the Board's action was an attempt to correct said error. Commissioner found, however, that petitioner should not have been subject to such corrective action during the course of the school year since he had been appointed on June 16, 1994 for the 1994-95 school year at the incorrect salary. (Stockton) Thus, the Board's corrective action could not take effect until after June 30, 1995. Commissioner adopted initial decision with modification that Board compensate petitioner for the time period October 1, 1994 through June 30, 1995 in an amount which represents the difference between the salary at which he was appointed for the 1994-95 school year and the salary which he was actually paid.

DAVID GERITY,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WOODBRIDGE,

Respondent.

Deborah J. Venezia, Esq., for petitioner (Venezia & Nolan, attorneys)

Carl J. Palmisano, Esq., for respondent (Palmisano & Goodman, attorneys)

Decided: July 28, 1995

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

David Gerity, petitioner, alleges the Woodbridge Board of Education, respondent, improperly reduced his salary and demands retroactive adjustment. The Board denies the allegation and argues estoppel, waiver, statute of limitations and mutual mistake.

The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. After notice, a prehearing conference was held by telephone on April 6, 1995. Among other things, it was agreed that the parties would submit a joint stipulation of facts, the petitioner would move for summary judgment and the Board would cross-move for summary judgment. A schedule was established. All papers were received by the judge and the matter now proceeds to summary judgment.

The parties have stipulated the following facts:

1. Petitioner has been in the employ of respondent, Woodbridge Township Board of Education since August 19, 1974 as a janitor.

2. At all times during his employment as a tenured janitor, Petitioner was a member of a collective bargaining unit and was paid according to the negotiated agreement.

3. Petitioner acquired tenure in his position as janitor.

4. On July 1, 1989 and through June 30, 1992 Petitioner was employed as Assistant Buildings and Grounds Supervisor with an annual salary of $49,809.00.

5. The position of Assistant Buildings and Grounds Supervisor was a non-tenurable administrative position outside of any collective bargaining unit.

6. The Petitioner was paid a salary of $49,809.00 during his last year of employment by agreement with the Respondent and not as a result of any collective bargaining agreement.

7. On or before April 30, 1992, the Respondent was served with a Reduction in Force Notice effective June 30, 1992.

8. The Reduction in Force was necessary for reasons of economy, with the position having been abolished effective July 1, 1992.

9. The funds necessary for this position were part of a defeated Cap Waiver placed before the voters at the annual School Board Election on or about April 7, 1992.

10. On or about June 26, 1992 Petitioner received Notice of Transfer to the position of Head Janitor at JFK High School by virtue of his tenure entitlement to this position.

11. Petitioner was advised by the Respondent's Office of Personnel that his salary for the 1992 - 1993 school year would remain frozen at the 1991 - 1992 salary level.

12. Petitioner continued in the employ of the district for the 1993 - 1994 school year and the 1994- 1995 school year in the position of Head Janitor at JFK High School .

13. Petitioner in the notice of his appointment by the respondent on September 15, 1993 was notified that his salary would continue to be frozen at the 1991 - 1992 rate of $49,809.00 although he served in the position of Head Janitor.

14. The collectively bargained salary rate (see attached) for Head Janitor was as follows:

1994 - 1995	-	$41,456.00

15. As a result Petitioner was paid $29,895.00 in excess of the negotiated salary for the tenured position as follows:

1992 - 1993	-	$11,499.00
1994 - 1995	-	$ 8,353.00

16. On or about September 22, 1994, the Respondent having been apprised of the excess payments made to Petitioner voted to reduce Petitioner's salary to the collectively bargained amount of $41,456.00 effective October 1, 1994.

17. In compliance with the Open Public Meetings Act, the action took place in a regularly held Public Meeting of the Board on September 22, 1994, by a vote of 9 to 0 with no abstention.

18. In compliance with the Open Public Meetings Act, the action was discussed in the closed portion of the aforesaid meeting with the Petitioner having been given proper legal notice of his right to attend session and to participate either with or without representation.

19. The Petitioner appeared in closed session without representation and participated in discussions with the Board and Administration.

Petitioner's Arguments

The petitioner asserts his salary of $49,800, should be reinstated, including back pay, effective October 1, 1994 through and to the end of the contract year June 30, 1995. He has been employed by the Board as a janitor with tenure. The only time during his employment that he was not a janitor was the period July 1, 1989 - June 30, 1992. In that period he was employed as Assistant Buildings and Grounds Supervisor, receiving an annual salary of $49,809.

On or about April 30, 1992, the petitioner learned his position was to be eliminated as part of a Reduction in Force (RIF) effective June 30, 1992. In late June 1992 he received notice of transfer to his position as head janitor at John F. Kennedy High School. He was advised by the Board that his salary for the 1992-93 contract year would remain at the 1991-92 level; that is, $49,809 annually.

Petitioner was reappointed by the Board to continue in his position for the 1993-94 contract year at the same salary. This was repeated when petitioner was reappointed for the 1994-95 school year. Throughout the entire period of his second service in the janitorial position, the petitioner continued to receive $49,809 per year. On October 1, 1994, his salary was reduced pursuant to a resolution unanimously adopted by the Board on September 22. At that meeting, the Board voted to reduce his salary to the amount set forth in the collective bargaining agreement of $41,456 effective October 1. Thereafter, the petitioner filed this petition.

Summary judgment should be granted in favor of the petitioner because the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material facts and that the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. R. 4:46-2. In making the determination that summary judgment is appropriate, the tribunal must scrutinize all papers before it in the light most favorable to the opposing party. Courts have held consistently that vague and conclusory proofs are insufficient to defeat an application for summary judgment. Applying these principles to the present case, the petitioner is entitled to summary judgment for the relief requested.

The joint stipulation of facts creates no issues for the trier of fact. Through the application of law, the petitioner is entitled to the salary of $49,809 for the full contract year 1994-95. He maintains that he accepted employment for the 1993-94 and 1994-95 contract years for the salary of $49,809. The Board reappointed him on September 15, 1993 and June 16, 1994 at that salary. The petitioner is a tenured janitor and the amounts he was paid were not the amounts contained within the salary step guide of the collective bargaining agreement between the Board and the Woodbridge Township Education Association (the contract).

On September 22, 1994, without the petitioner's consent, the Board voted to reduce his compensation for the remainder of the contract year to $41,456 effective October 1. The reduced salary reflects the amount contained within the salary scheduled for a category VII Janitor in charge pursuant to the contract. There is no dispute that the reduction in compensation was not the result of a reduction in the number of janitors in the district nor was the reduction in compensation brought about after written charges and a hearing by the Commissioner of Education or the Office of Administrative Law.

Applying the appropriate law, summary judgment in favor of the petitioner must follow. The petitioner maintains that the Board failed to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 and the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 through -29.

N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 provides an exception to the requirements within the tenure employees hearing law that removes any requirements for adherence to a submission of written charges and a hearing when the reduction in compensation is the result of a reduction in the number of janitors in the district. In this case, it is uncontroverted that the reduction in the petitioner's compensation did not take place as a result of the reduction in the number of janitors in the district nor were written charges and a notice had before the Commissioner or the Office of Administrative Law.

There are no issues of material fact relative to this matter and, as a matter of law, summary judgment should be entered for the petitioner, even assuming arguendo that the Board's claim is that the petitioner's salary was inadvertently or mistakenly paid. Case law is clear that even in such a case, a reduction in compensation requires compliance by the Board with the statutory provisions mentioned above.

The Board's action in reducing the petitioner's compensation violated the tenured employees hearing law. The facts above are clear. The petitioner maintains that the Board was obligated to maintain the petitioner at $49,809 for the entire 1994-95 contract year. The Board's action reducing his compensation violated N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 through -29.

The Board's actions in passing the resolutions concerning the petitioner at the higher rate of compensation for the contract years 1993-94 and 1994-95 ratified any excess payments. The ratifications could have taken place only with knowledge of the material facts. The petitioner maintains that the Board passed upon the reappointment and salary at the rate of $49,809 on two separate occasions. Any claim of mistake or inadvertence was ratified by those votes. Any action taken by the Board with knowledge of the material facts ratified what the Board now considers excess payments.

Board's Arguments

The Board agrees with the petitioner that there are no essential facts in dispute. Not unexpectedly, it interprets those facts differently.

The petitioner incorrectly relies on N.J.S.A. 18A:17-4 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 through -29. The petitioner was, indeed, paid a salary of $49,809 as the Assistant Supervisor of Buildings and Grounds. His position was supervisory and not tenurable under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-4. Upon defeat of the district's application for a cap waiver, the petitioner's position was abolished. He was entitled to claim his current position as janitor through tenure rights acquired from his prior service as a janitor. Had the petitioner only held the position of Assistant Supervisor of Buildings and Grounds, he simply would have been terminated upon the defeat of the cap waiver application. These facts do not constitute a reduction in compensation as contemplated by N.J.S.A. 18A:17-4. That statute would apply if the Board had attempted to reduce the petitioner's salary below the appropriate salary level set forth in the contract. It has been stipulated that this is not the case. When the Board voted to reduce the petitioner's salary, it placed him at the appropriate level on the janitor salary guide based on his position and years of service.

The petitioner also mistakenly relies on N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 because it exclusively addresses the entitlements of tenured teachers. In the present, while the error that maintained the petitioner at the higher salary was an administrative error, when it was brought to the attention of the Board, the Board by formal resolution corrected the error. It placed the petitioner on the proper step in accordance with the contract then in effect. The Board did not reduce the petitioner's salary to that of janitor pursuant to the contract. The reduction in salary that the petitioner complains of was for the position which had been abolished. The Assistant Supervisor of Buildings and Grounds was not within the employee's tenured position. Therefore, the Board did not reduce his salary within the contemplation of the statutes.

DETERMINATION

Preliminary, it is noted that the good faith of abolishing the Assistant Supervisor of Buildings and Grounds position is not in contention. Werlock v. Woodbridge Twp. Bd. of Educ., 5 N.J. Super. 140 (App. Div. 1949). Second, although the petitioner clearly was not a tenured teaching staff member, there are some parallels in how the two classes of employees are treated when an RIF occurs. The petitioner was placed in a head janitor position. If thought of in terms of rank, he simply reverted to the next lower title. Third, there is no violation of tenure laws if a reduction in salary is based on a demotion or transfer resulting from good faith abolition of a position or based on a transfer from a twelve-month to a ten-month position. An adjustment of salary to accurately reflect an employee's place on guide cannot be made by unilateral action during the school year, but only by corrective formal action of the board upon notice to the employee. Stockton v. Trenton Bd. of Ed., 1987 S.L.D. 512. In the final decision in Stockton the Commissioner stated:

This is not to say, however, that a Board may never correct an error or mistake in salary or that a tenured teaching staff member erroneously/mistakenly placed on a salary guide forever more enjoys the benefits of said error or mistake. What it does mean is that, during a given school year, once an individual has been placed and paid at a given step of the salary guide, he or she may not be subject to any corrective action during that year, which reduces his or her salary or which places him or her at a lower guide step as occurred in this matter. Further, only a board of education may act to correct an error/mistake and it must provide reasonable notice to the individual that a correction is to be made. As stated by the State Board in Conti and Cutler v. Bd. of Ed. of Montgomery, decided by the Commissioner June 10, 1985, rev'd State Board July 2, 1986:

[T]he Commissioner has long held that a board does not violate the school laws when it acts to correct its mistake by maintaining a staff member's salary at the same level for the ensuing year so long as no reduction of salary results. Honaker, supra; Massa, supra; Galop v. Hanover Tp. Bd. of Ed., 1975 S.L.D. 358, aff'd, 1975 S.L.D. 366; DeRenzo v. Passaic Board of Education, 1973 S.L.D. 236.

We believe that the results in these cases properly recognize that although an affected teacher is entitled to rely on a board's official action establishing his salary for a one year period, he is not entitled under the school laws to benefit further from the board's mistake by maintaining such favored position beyond that one year period. See Galop, supra, at 364-65.

[W]e emphasize that when such correction is necessary, it must be effectuated, as here, by official act of the board, with reasonable notice given to the affected teacher.

(Slip Opinion, at pp. 8-10)

Thus, if petitioner's placement on the negotiated salary guide was not in accord with the terms of the corrective bargaining agreement, the Board could have take action to correct such but only in conformity with the principles expressed above in Conti and Cutler.

Id. at 521-22. [Emphasis in original.]

It is clear from the stipulated facts that the petitioner had reasonable notice and even was granted an informal appearance before the Board before his salary was collected. It is also clear that the petitioner's salary was incorrect for some time because of administrative error.

In Trenton Education Association v. Trenton Bd. of Educ., 1986 S.L.D. 2415, it was held that a mistake in salary due to error can be corrected by reducing salary to the proper level, but monies already paid out may not be recovered. Recovery has never been an issue in this case. The sole issue is correction of an error.

The petitioner's argument that his compensation was not reduced as a result of a reduction in the number of janitors in the district is fallacious. There was an RIF for economy reasons and his position was eliminated. It is time the Board realized no immediate economy in respect of this move because it forgot to correct the petitioner's salary downward. The Board eventually recognized its error and took steps appropriate to rectify it.

I adopt the stipulated facts supplied by the parties as facts herein. I CONCLUDE from a review of the applicable case law that the mistake in salary was simply that, a mistake. Because the Board has not attempted to recover any of the difference between the monies paid and the monies actually due to the petitioner, and because it gave notice and took formal action to correct the error, the Woodbridge Board of Education has acted properly in this case.

Accordingly, the motion of David Gerity for summary judgment is DENIED and the cross-motion of the Woodbridge Township Board of Education for summary judgment is GRANTED. The petition of appeal is hereby DISMISSED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

 : DECISION
 BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE :
 TOWNSHIP OF WOODBRIDGE, :
 MIDDLESEX COUNTY, :
 RESPONDENT. :

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that, following the good-faith abolition of petitioner's nontenured position as an Assistant Buildings and Grounds Supervisor, the salary granted to petitioner thereafter was a mistake, and the Board's action on September 22, 1994 was an attempt to correct said error. However, in accordance with Stockton, supra, petitioner should not have been subject to such corrective action during the course of the school year. As the record demonstrates, the Board reappointed petitioner at its June 16, 1994 meeting for the 1994-95 school year at a salary of $49,809. Thus, the Board's corrective action could not take effect until after June 30, 1995. In the instant case, the reduction in salary was effective on October 1, 1994.

Accordingly, while the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is adopted in part as modified above, the recommendation that the appeal be dismissed is reversed. The Board is, therefore, directed to compensate petitioner for the time period October 1, 1994 through June 30, 1995, in an amount which represents the difference between the salary at which he was appointed for the 1994-95 school year and the salary which he was actually paid.

Petitioner,

v.

BARTHOLOMEW LOMBARDI,

Respondent.

Peter Kalac, Esq., for petitioner (Kalac, Newman, Lavender & Campbell, attorneys)

Kenneth I. Nowak, Esq., for respondent (Zazzali, Zazzali, Fagella & Nowak, attorneys)

Decided: July 26, 1995

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

The Middletown Township Board of Education ("petitioner") filed tenure charges against Bartholomew Lombardi ("respondent") with the Commissioner of Education on November 30, 1994. The charges alleged that the respondent had engaged in conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member. More specifically, the charges arose from a decision issued by Honorable Henry J. Byrne, Judge of Workers' Compensation, who determined in a workers' compensation proceeding pending before him that Mr. Lombardi, while allegedly totally temporarily disabled and collecting temporary total disability benefits from the Board of Education was at the same time gainfully employed by the Monmouth-Ocean Educational Services Commission.

The tenure charges were transferred to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case on January 11, 1995, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -13 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -21. A prehearing conference was scheduled before this Administrative Law Judge, but the parties requested that the matter be continued pending attempts to resolve the issues in dispute. On July 17, 1995, the parties submitted a Stipulation of Settlement pursuant to which the Board of Education agreed that upon approval of the settlement terms Mr. Lombardi would execute and deliver to the Board a Promissory Note in the principal amount of $16,803.00 payable over a four year period and that "in light of Lombardi's successful history as a teacher and coach in the district, there is no reason to pursue tenure charges" and the matter would therefore be dismissed with prejudice. Additional terms are contained in the Stipulation which is attached hereto and made a part hereof.

During a conference with the parties, counsel explained the circumstances surrounding the matter and indicated their desire to resolve this case without the necessity of a full hearing. Counsel have advised that their respective clients are satisfied that the resolution of this case, under the terms recited, is a sufficient response to the conduct involved and that settlement is entered into voluntarily. Based upon the representations of counsel and the nature of the issues involved, it appears that this settlement should be accepted.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.
2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :
HEARING OF BARTHOLOMEW :
LOMBARDI, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
THE TOWNSHIP OF MIDDLETOWN, : DECISION
MONMOUTH COUNTY. :

The record in this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law in the form of a joint stipulation of settlement have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner cannot be satisfied by the present record that the proposed settlement in this matter meets the Cardonick standards for settlement of tenure matters (In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, affirmed State Board of Education April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846.)

It is well established that, having once taken up the burden of tenure charges, the Board may not lay it down without spreading forth on the record a reasonably specific explanation of why such charges can no longer be pursued or why it is now in the public interest not to pursue them. (In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Kenneth Smith, School District of the City of Orange, Essex County, decided by the Commissioner March 22, 1982, decision on remand June 16, 1983, affirmed with modification by the State Board of Education November 2, 1983, affirmed Superior Court January 30, 1986.)

The present record contains no such explanation. Further, there is no indication that the within teaching staff member was advised of the Commissioner's duty, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, to refer tenure determinations for possible revocation of certificate. While the Commissioner does not preclude the possibility of settlement in this matter, he must be assured that any settlement is consistent with appropriate standards for setting aside of tenure matters as expressed in Cardonick, supra.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is remanded for revision of the settlement document and expansion of the record consistent with the intent of this decision.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Record Closed: April 12, 1996

Decided: April 25, 1996

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

This proceeding involves tenure charges brought by the Middletown Township Board of Education ("Board") against Bartholomew Lombardi, a teacher and coach in the district. The parties have previously sought to resolve the matter by settlement, which was approved by this judge, but rejected by the Commissioner of Education because the Commissioner was not satisfied that the record regarding the proposed settlement met the standards established in In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, affirmed by the State Board of Education April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846.

The parties have now submitted a revised Stipulation of Settlement, which is attached. This document explains in some detail the Board's analysis of the information available to it in regard to the concerns which led it to file a tenure charge, namely the information obtained from a transcript from a Workers' Compensation hearing, which led the Board to charge Mr. Lombardi with engaging in conduct unbecoming a teacher by obtaining temporary disability payments from the Board while he participated in an after-school Latchkey program. The Board indicates that it does not believe that based on the information available to it, it can be assured that it will be able to prove that Mr. Lombardi had an intent to defraud or deceive the Board. Mr. Lombardi has denied any such intention and has agreed to repay the Board all temporary disability moneys which the Board paid to him during the time that he was out of work. In the Stipulation of Settlement the Board has explained the considerations which it has taken into account concerning the resolution of the charges, including Mr. Lombardi's "superior service as teacher and coach in the district without incident for many years."

Based upon a review of the standards established in Cardonick, it appears that the Stipulation of Settlement adequately explains the reasons for the settlement, including the nature of the charges, the considerations regarding matters of proof which the Board has taken into account in determining to resolve the case without pursuing removal, the agreement of both the Board and the teacher and the authorization of the Board to resolve the matter, and the agreement of Mr. Lombardi to voluntarily enter into the settlement with advice of counsel. Based upon the submission and consultation with counsel prior to its preparation, I FIND that the Board has adequately explained the reasons why it seeks to resolve this matter without a determination of the charges following hearing, and that the determination entered into is, under the circumstances, consistent with law and in the public interest. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the Stipulation of Settlement is consistent with the concerns expressed by the Commissioner and the State Board in Cardonick, meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, and that the settlement should be approved. I therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

The settlement will be returned to the Commissioner for his approval.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

1. The Middletown Township Board of Education (hereinafte "the Board") filed a tenure charge of unbecoming conduct again Bartholmew Lombardi, based upon a transcript from a Worker Compensation hearing. The charge alleges that Lombardi engage in unbecoming conduct by obtaining temporary disability payment from the Board while he participated in an after-school LatchK program.

2. Upon filing of the charge, the board did not suspe Lombardi and has allowed him to continue to teach.

3. The Board recognizes that in order to sustain its tenu charge against Lombardi, it must prove intent to defraud deceive the Board.

4. The Board recognizes further that Lombardi was no charged with defrauding the Board in the Workers Compensation case and thus did not fully present all facts with regard to the issue of his participation in the LatchKey program.

5. Lombardi denies that he knowingly or intentionally engaged in any wrongdoing, and he has agreed to repay to the Board all temporary disability monies which the Board had paid to him during the time that Lombardi was out of work.

6. The Board has since had an opportunity to further review and consider the facts surrounding the issue of Lombardi having received temporary disability from the Board, and the Board is sufficiently convinced that Lombardi did not engage in any fraudulent or intentional misconduct, and that the Board might not be able to sustain its burden at a tenure hearing. While Lombardi acknowledges that he did not use his best judgment all of his actions, there is adequate support for believing that there was no intent to defraud and no unjust enrichment intended.

7. Lombardi has agreed that during the 1995-96 school year, he will not apply for, and shall not coach, any school sport in the 1995-96 school year.

8. The Board has determined that, in light of the absence of intent to defraud or deceive, and in light of Lombardi's superior service as teacher and coach in the District without incident for many years, and in light of his agreement to repay the Board in full for all payments made to Lombardi by the Board, and to refrain from coaching in the 1995-96 school year, the Board and Lombardi have agreed to amicably resolve the charges without further litigation by dismissal of the charge. The parties agree that neither party shall file or pursue any other charges or file any actions which arise out of or relate to the facts and issues giving rise to this dispute and the charge involved in this matter.

9. The parties each agree that, under the particular facts of this case, there is no reason to terminate Lombardi's teaching career and that this settlement is in the best interest of the Board, of Lombardi, of the students, and of the public.

10. Lombardi enters into this settlement voluntarily and with the advice of counsel.

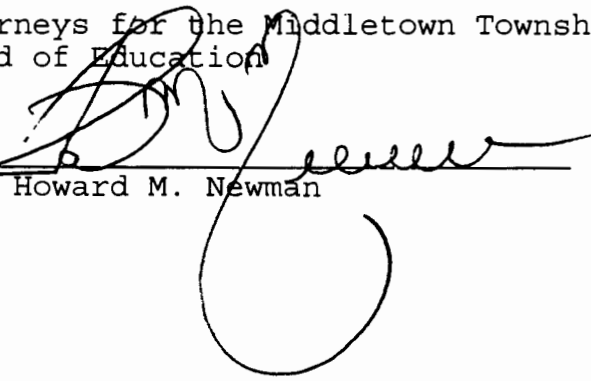

11. For the foregoing reasons, and for no other or unstated reasons, the Board and Lombardi agree to this settlement.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN- : DECISION

SHIP OF GREEN, ~~MORRIS~~ COUNTY, :

SUSSEX :

RESPONDENT. :

Petitioner, parent and housing developer, alleged school bus stop for development was unsafe. This matter was transferred from Superior Court for consideration of two issues relating to pupil transportation arising under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, i.e. 1) at the time that the Board acted was the action arbitrary, unreasonable and capricious? 2) at the present time is there a change in circumstance which would make the welfare of the children an issue as to safety?

In light of the record, including testimony of experts, the ALJ concluded that the Board's actions in declining to change the bus stop were reasonable. ALJ found that Board's determination was made based upon information leading it to believe that the bus stop met the requirements for safety for the children. Moreover, ALJ found that petitioner failed to show by a preponderance of evidence that there has been a change of circumstance making the bus stop itself unsafe and a danger to the welfare of the students waiting for the bus at that particular location.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

BEFORE MARYLOUISE LUCCHI-McCLOUD, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises out of an order transferring an action from the Superior Court to the Commissioner of Education which was dated December 9, 1993. The transfer occurred due to the fact that Judge Reginald Stanton, J.S.C., concluded that the case is one arising under the school laws within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18:6-9, and that jurisdiction with respect to it lies with the New Jersey Commissioner of Education and not with the Superior Court. The original complaint that was filed with the Superior Court was a complaint in lieu of prerogative writ naming the Board of Education of the Township of Green as well as a number of individuals. That complaint was dated September 17, 1993. An answer was filed on behalf of the Board on October 12, 1993 and then the case was transferred as indicated above to the Commissioner of Education.

On January 20, 1994 the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A prehearing conference was held on March 25, 1994 at which time the petitioner was representing himself pro se. Original hearing dates were set for June 29 and 30, 1994. An adjournment of those dates were requested due to a pending motion to dismiss as well as a conflict in appearance before another judge by the board attorney. That request was granted and the matter was rescheduled. On June 14, 1994 a telephone conference was requested by the attorney for the respondent board due to discovery difficulties and alleged incomplete interrogatories. The pending motion to dismiss petitioner's cause of action was set for oral argument on June 6, 1994. On that date the petitioner's motion for summary decision was denied based upon reasons given on the record. Additionally those individual members listed in the caption were removed from the proceeding as this was an administrative action against the Board of Education and not against individual action. The June 29, 1994 and June 30, 1994 dates were adjourned based upon the Board attorney's unavailability. On December 8, 1994 this matter was set down for a telephone status conference. At this time the petitioner was still representing his interests pro se. Subsequently on December 8, 1994 a notice of appearance from Vincent S. Verdiramo, Esq., was entered on behalf of the petitioner. On Friday, December 9, 1994 a conference call was held between counsel and the undersigned regarding a joint request for adjournment of new hearing dates of December 13 and 14, 1994 in order to give newly retained counsel the opportunity to prepare for the case.

A February 24, 1995 conference was held with counsel regarding this case. Subsequent to this hearing dates were set and the hearing finally took place on May 30 and 31, 1995.

At the conclusion of testimony the hearing record was left open until receipt of posthearing submissions on June 15, 1995.

ISSUES

Prior to the beginning of the hearing attorneys for both sides agreed on the record that the issues would consist of

1. At the time that the Board acted was the action arbitrary, unreasonable and capricious?
2. At the present time is there a change in circumstance which would make the welfare of the children an issue as to safety?

Both sides agreed that although the original issue only dealt with the Board's original action the safety of the children was paramount and that the issue should be included in this matter.

TESTIMONY

The petitioner in this case testified that he has two children and lives on Mountainview Drive in Green Township. One child is thirteen years of age and the other four. The older has never taken the bus and that he will not allow his children to go to Route 517 where the bus stop is. He states that if he were to do so he would have to go and drive the older child to the bus and upon the bus's arrival would have to cross her. The bus's hearing in the morning would be northerly. Courtney Lane which intersects Route 517 is a secondary street and the bus stops approximately 100 feet south of Courtney Lane on Route 517 according to Mr. Handel. Courtney Lane and Mountainview Drive are both streets located on Handel Estates. According to Mr. Handel it is approximately one-quarter mile on Route 517 between the two roads that are perpendicular to Route 517.

Mr. Handel stated that it is his opinion that it is an unsafe bus stop for his child because of knolls in the road of what he believe to be five to ten percent rise in grade combined with the speed of the vehicles. Mr. Handel, although the developer of Handel Estates, has no engineering expertise and was not qualified as an expert during the hearing. He stated that there was no sign indicating a knoll and that a knoll exists making it impossible to see the other end of the road. Traveling northbound on 517 approaching Courtney Lane he approximated the knoll to be 100 to 200 feet prior to the bus stop.

Mr. Handel also discussed an area that is outside the area in question which had a 40 percent rise in grade in his estimation however was not relevant to this particular bus stop.

In 1986 Mr. Handel had decided to make a housing development. During that time he submitted traffic and engineering studies to the town. Knolls were demarcated as to both their existence on Route 517 and their relation to Courtney Lane. He presented concerns to the board of education in 1993 in July or August by touching base with the school board secretary Ms. Van Aucken. According to him she state that she would like to see all bus stops removed from 517. She later got back in touch with him and informed him that the bus stop would not be moved.

The petitioner testified that he was originally told by Ms. Van Aucken that it would cost $2,000 to move the bus stop. He stated that he understood that he would be responsible for the payment. Since the filing of the law suit he has not gone back before the board of education.

Later in his testimony Mr. Handel acknowledged that if you travel out Courtney Lane onto Route 517 crossing to turn northbound it is approximately 300 feet to the knoll. The school in question is northwest from the subdivision and in the morning the school bus would be traveling northerly on Route 517. In the afternoon it would be a reverse run with the bus traveling in a southerly direction.

The petitioner also acknowledged that he has never seen any accident within 500 feet of the bus stop. He did state that he saw an accident involving an overturned concrete truck which was approximately 40 to 50 feet long on a non-school day at approximately 7:40 a.m. in the summertime. Photographs taken by the petitioner were entered into evidence. (P-1a through e, ev.).

The petitioner acknowledged that two children do use the bus stop now and that there are eight children in the subdivision who are of school age.

The petitioner has lived at his current address on Mountainview Drive for approximately four years. That has a different entrance to the subdivision from Route 517 than the Courtney Lane entrance. Immediately prior to this he lived at Highland Avenue which was not located in the development. Before that address he lived in the Handel Estates at 28 Sunny Lane approximately five or six years ago. At the time that he was living at the Sunny Lane location his daughter, who was school age, did not take the bus either. She also never took the bus when he lived on Highland Avenue which was not located in the development.

Prior to his Sunny Lane address Mr. Handel and his family lived on Mountainview Drive in Handel Estates for one year when his oldest daughter was also of the age to attend school. She did not take the school bus.

The petitioner acknowledged in cross-examination that at no time that he has lived in Green Township has his daughter taken the school bus. He acknowledged that while living on Highland Avenue which was not in the Handel Estates the bus stop for his daughter would not have been that located at Courtney and Route 517. He chose to drive the child to school anyway.

Mr. Handle estimates the site distance on Route 517 in the location of Courtney Lane as being 400 and 500 feet. He conceded that a site plan analysis in 1987 made that an expert report said that the area was field measured at this access road and that it was favorable for geometry and posted speed.

When Mr. Handel was shown a Travers Association report dated August 12, 1987 regarding a traffic evaluation he conceded that the report was his report submitted to the planning board. He also conceded that the report states that the site distance far exceeds 600 feet. It also indicated two access routes with the northerly one becoming Courtney Lane and the southerly one becoming South Mountainview although those were not the names originally given to the two particular roads. (R-1).

Mr. Handel acknowledged that on page four of this report under the portion entitled Site Plan Consideration it stated ... the proposed dual access roads are well separated at 1300 feet apart and encourage easy access to all 32 dwellings. He also acknowledged that on page five it stated "in summary, we find that the proposed residential development is well conceived from a traffic and safety point of view." He also indicated that he was aware of these statements in the report when it was presented to Green Township.

The witness was unable to identify what the site maps in R-2 indicated but acknowledges that they might have been submitted when he submitted the other documents to Green Township in order to build the subdivision.

The witness spent some time describing the photographs which he had taken of the accident. He did acknowledge that the road is straight until a bend where Mountainview Road is located. That is where the accident involving the concrete truck occurred. The petitioner contends that the driver of the concrete truck came out of the S-turns beyond Mountainview Avenue and lost control at which point he came into contact with the guardrail. While he stated that the truck was traveling northbound on Route 517 when shown photograph P-1d in evidence he acknowledged that he did not see any guardrails along the straight-away before the curve. Based on the witness's estimate the site distance looking south on Route 517 from Courtney Lane is 500 feet. He indicated that he has never been shown a county engineering report indicating that the site line exceeds 800 feet. He did acknowledge that he had seen a letter from the county school business administrator stating that the minimum necessary visibility that was required was 300 feet and that the bus stop in question exceeded that.

Petitioner also that he was unaware of any accidents either south or north on Route 517 at the area of the straight-away.

The next witness to testify was the petitioner's experts Calisto Bertin. Mr. Bertin has a bachelors in civil engineering as well as an M.S. in engineering and has worked in the industry from 1978 to 1984. He then worked with a small consultant firm. His areas of expertise have been in site plan and traffic. He testified that he is qualified three or four times in Superior Court as an expert and testifies approximately two times per week before the zoning and planning boards. He is licensed as a professional engineer in New Jersey, New York and Connecticut.

The witness was familiar with the subject matter and had been contacted to analyze a particular bus stop. In order to do so he made a site visit, took photographs and did a traffic inventory analysis.

Mr. Bertin stated that Route 517 is a north/south road which is straight and goes between two roads to the subdivision. He stated that the roads were put in with good site distance and that the road bends to the left while going in a northerly direction. Courtney Lane is the high point and the road drops in each direction. To the north there was one dip and to the south he stated that there were several dips. To him this indicated significance for visibility and the factors that he considered were whether or not a bus can be seen, whether or not a child can be seen and whether or not the location is a safe place to wait for a bus.

With respect to the intersection he stated that it is the high point and that children cross at the high point in the road. Motorists are able to see the bus and is activated lights as well as the crossing. He stated however that a child approximately 50 to 75 feet to the south of the bus stop would not be seen until a car came to the crest in the road. If children were waiting at that distance from the bus stop and were small in size there might be some difficulty in seeing them.

The petitioner's expert testified quite clearly that the location of the bus stop is safe in at least two aspects. He stated that the bus can be seen and that the child can be seen at the bus stop. His concern was that a child waiting in an area 50 to 75 feet away might not be able to be seen.

Mr. Bertin acknowledged that in his report (P-2, ev.) it states that the site distances at both Courtney Lane and Mountainview Drive intersections are greater than 50 feet in both the northbound and southbound directions.

When shown photographs taken in the northbound lane of Route 517 slightly south of the intersection he stated that it shows the northern view of 517 from the bus stop. He acknowledged being able to see the knoll and stated that it was more than 500 feet away.

While looking at a southbound view he stated that he was able to observe a knoll which was "not much" and would not have caused the view of a child to be obscured at the intersection.

The witness agreed that the bus in that general vicinity can be seen by motorists and that the children crossing Route 517 to Courtney Lane can also be seen. He once again reiterated he felt the problem was that children might not stand at the bus stop but might be "chasing a butterfly or a ball" as much as 50 feet to the south or 100 feet to the north. In order to determine what was visible he walked down Route 517 and crouched to what he considered to be the height of small children. He acknowledged that he had no evidence that children would wander from the appointed bus stop. He also acknowledged quite candidly that if the children remained where they are supposed to be he did not see any problem with this particular bus stop.

The witness also stated that in his report he recommended putting a sign advising of the bus stop at or near the location. He stated that according to the manual on uniform traffic control devices (MUTCD) as saying "since no bus stop sign exists then the bus stop should be relocated." He also acknowledged that the report of respondent's expert (R-5) stating a site distance in excess of 800 feet is consistent with his report. He stated that he indicated that the site distance was in excess of 500 feet.

The witness acknowledged that while his report (P-2) discusses site distances it does not discuss the wandering off of children from the location of the bus stop. He stated that he was aware that the manual of traffic control devices is the guiding factor in situations such as this and was also aware that the Sussex County engineers had found there to be more than adequate site distance. He stated that this is consistent with his report however he just considered more. By more he explained that to be the wandering off of students from the bus stop which he did not place in his report.

On redirect the witness stated that his scope in this matter was to look at the bus stop and find a safer place for a bus stop without detriment to school children.

The Board presented the testimony of John H. Rea who is a principal in the firm of McDonough and Rea Associates in Manasquan. A copy of Mr. Rea's professional profile was entered into evidence (R-4, ev.) and he was accepted as an expert in the area of traffic and site planning as was petitioner's previously presented expert.

Mr. Rea stated that he had been asked by the Green Township Board of Education to evaluate a school bus stop located at Courtney Lane and Route 517 for safety. In making his evaluation he conducted a site visit and measured the site distance on Route 517 both north and south of Courtney Lane and in addition he reviewed a number of documents consisting of:

1. Minutes of the Green Township planning board meeting held on August 13, 1987 regarding the Handel Estates subdivision application.
2. Transcript of testimony provided by Randall Voinier, P.E., traffic engineer for Handel Estates, with respect to site distance along Route 517 for the subject intersection.
3. Traffic impact study prepared by Randall Voinier, P.E., dated August 12, 1987 for the Handel Estates subdivision.
4. Copies of a portion of the Handel Estates subdivision map depicting site distances for the subject intersection.
5. Letter of January 13, 1995 from the Sussex County Department of Public Works, Division of engineering, to Lorraine Van Aucken, business administrator/board secretary, Green Township Board of Education, regarding a request for "School Bus Stop Ahead" sign on Route 517 at the Courtney Lane intersection.

6. Traffic engineering report prepared by Bertin Engineering Associates, Inc., dated November 30, 1994 suggesting that the school bus stop should be relocated off Route 517 for safety reasons.

The witness pointed out that Mr. Bertin's report indicated that the site distance was in excess of 500 feet in either direction. The Sussex County engineer's report indicated that the site distance was in excess of 800 feet and a copy of the plan submitted for Handel Estates showed a site distance of in excess of 1,000 feet in each direction.

The witness described his own observation which included the alignment of the roadway. He stated that Courtney Lane is a horizontal straight road with a gentle rolling alignment. The vertical alignment on Route 517 does not, in his opinion prevent adequate site distance. He stated that motorists are able to clearly see children at the bus stop for in excess of 750 feet. According to the expert any vehicle less than 750 feet from the location of the bus stop traveling either north or south in the direction of Courtney Lane is able to clearly see any bus, children crossing, or activity.

As a result of his analysis the witness, based upon all of those things listed above found that there was more than adequate site distance available to the school bus stop at Route 517 and Courtney Lane. In his report (R--5) he pointed out that even the petitioner's experts report admits that site distance along Route 517 at the Courtney Lane bus stop is greater than 500 feet in both northbound and southbound directions although his measurement indicate that there are in excess of 750 feet in both directions. He pointed out that Mr. Bertin in his report (P-2) indicates that the minimum stopping site distance required on wet pavement for vehicle traveling at 50 miles per hour is 475 feet as stated in the transportation and traffic engineering handbook published by the Institute of Transportation Engineers. The posted speed limit is 45 miles per hour north of the intersection and 35 miles per hour south of the intersection although the witness agreed with Mr. Bertin that average travel speeds along the pertinent section of Route 517 are approximately 50 miles per hour. It was therefore the opinion of respondent's expert that a minimum of 475 feet of site distance should be available for the school bus stop in order to provide for safe operating conditions.

Mr. Rea stated that it was his opinion that, based upon site distance measurements to the Courtney Lane intersection the knoll would not obscure a motorist's ability to view a pedestrian crossing at the Courtney Lane intersection. He further pointed out that it was more relevant in his estimation that the school children crossing Route 517 at the Courtney Lane intersection do not cross Route 517 until the northbound school bus stops at the Courtney Lane intersection, puts its flashing lights on, the school bus driver checks traffic on Route 517, and then motions to the school children to cross.

On cross-examination the witness stated that the number of cars passing through this area is irrelevant to the study and to the determination of the safety of the students even if the cars are speeding. It is only the first car which is relevant. That is where the site distance is measured. Other cars have a visibility of the car in front of them.

The witness stated that he feels that this bus stop is safe based upon the conditions and the children waiting at the intersection and all other factors which he took into account. He stated that he is assuming that the children would wait on the westerly side of Route 517 which is the Courtney Lane side and then cross. According to the witness the location that the children wait for the bus is relevant and the site distance is also relevant forming the two primary factors. When using the term site distance it is measured site distance as well as site distance to the school bus. The knolls did not in his opinion impede visibility under the measurements indicated in the various studies, all of which exceeded the 475 foot stopping capability of a vehicle traveling at 50 miles per hour which was well above the speed limit. The witness acknowledged that he was unable to state whether or not a vehicle traveling at 65 miles per hour, far in excess of the speed limit, would be able to stop at a specific distance however he stated that according to the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials Manual which would tell the precise stopping distance, the stopping distance would still be less than the 750 feet which the witness determined by measurement that the site distance was in excess of.

Lorraine Van Aucken also testified regarding her dealings with the Green Township Board of Education and her position as the board secretary and business administrator. She also indicated that prior to that she had other jobs in the same field.

With respect to bus transportation and bus stops she is in charge of transportation however in Green Township the superintendent bears the ultimate responsibility. The witness stated that when a child registers with the secretary of the school that child is assigned to an approved bus stop. If no established bus stop exists the school secretary would call her and then she would then go out personally and see about the safety of a potential new stop and present her findings to the transportation committee consisting of three or four members of the board of education. After review the issue is ultimately presented the board of education.

Ms. Van Aucken made a distinction that the board deals somewhat differently between the change in a bus stop and a change in a bus route. In this case the route has always had stops even before Handel Estates. This case did not deal with the creation of a new route but would deal with a creation of a new bus stop.

Ms Van Aucken stated that the standards which are used to review consists of

1. Site distance of at least 300 feet;
2. The recommendation of the administrative code to stay away from

- situations involving left hand turns;
3. The distance between bus stops on individual routes.

According to Ms. Van Aucken two children in Handel Estates presently use the bus stop. Mr. Handel has never used the bus during the total time that his child has been of school age whether residing in Handel Estates or residing elsewhere in Green Township.

After visiting the site Ms. Van Aucken discussed the standards with the superintendent, the transportation committee and the matter was in turn presented to the board of education. She testified that the issue of the Handel Estates first arose in 1987 regarding a child who would have been boarding on an existing bus stop. The Handel child was assigned to that bus stop which was located more than 500 feet south on Route 517 at the time. The stop was across from Mountainview Road. Subsequently the bus stop was moved to Courtney where it intersects Route 517.

The witness stated that in her opinion there is approximately 1300 feet between Courtney Lane and Mountainview Road.

She stated that she did speak with Mr. Handel and that he did send photographs to her (P-1a through d). They also met in August 1993 but the photographs were received after this meeting. At that time he contended that the accident was "in the vicinity" of Route 517 and Courtney Lane. The board was shown the photographs at a public session and were aware of the accident because five members live near there. They looked at the photographs but no action was taken to change that particular bus stop. No statements were made regarding any interrelationship between the accident and the bus stop.

In August 1993 Mr. Handel had an appointment with Ms. Van Aucken and wanted information regarding transportation routes, contracts, bid specifications and bid procedures. She stated that she shared their whole transportation file with him.

According to her Mr. Handel said he would see to it that they had another transportation contractor other than the present one in Green Township by the next year. The following year the contract went out to bid however the township received only one bid although specifications were sent to five different entities. That one bid was the same contractor.

During the conversation Mr. Handel did not say that these requests had anything to do with the route other than that he felt a $2,000 charge to enter Handel Estates was exorbitant. She stated that she told him the cost was $2,000 based upon the contract however no discussion occurred as the payment and the board pays all transportation costs. At no time was there any discussion that Mr. Handel would be charged. It was the contractor who had given Ms. Van Aucken the figure of $2,000 for an addendum based upon 180 school days. There was no mileage clause.

The board also presented the testimony of Robert B. Corbin who has an extensive history in education beginning in 1962 in administrative positions. Those were all detailed on the record. The pertinent portion of this is the period from August 1962 to February 1993 when he served as interim superintendent for Green Township as well as the fact that as of September 1994 he has been the interim superintendent at Green Township.

He stated that during thirteen years with Mansfield Township between 1974 and 1987 as the school superintendent as well as the period of time listed above as interim superintendent for Green Township he did not establish bus stops or routes but checked out the stops and passed on the information to the board and would meet with the engineer.

The standards he applied were site distance as well as proximity to other stops and the number of students as well as any inclines that might occur in the roadway.

Mr. Corbin checked out the bus stop in question on his own in the fall of 1994 as well as two times between January 1, 1995 and the date of his testimony on May 31, 1995. The observations he made at the site were the location of the bus stop which he observed both in his vehicle and standing outside his vehicle. He checked for visibility which he estimated exceeded 300 feet from the bus stop. He went to the edges of the intersection and found visibility to be good. He did find two knolls which he termed as "gentle."

The visit he made on the morning of his testimony was because he had never seen a child get on or off the bus before that date. On May 31, 1995 he did see one child board the bus. He observed the child wait in a vehicle until the bus came and activated its caution flashers. The bus stopped and signaled appropriately at which time the child crossed Route 517.

The witness acknowledged that he is not an engineer and does not take part in the actual designation of a bus stop however had extensive experience in dealing with these matters.

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. A bus stop has been _____ at the juncture of Courtney Lane and Route 517 in Green Township.
2. Children attending school in Green Township who are eligible for busing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 who live in the immediate area would be required to use that bus stop, if taking the bus.
3. Site distance as far as this bus stop is concerned well exceeds 300 feet and has been estimated to be at the very least in excess of 500 feet and possible in excess of 800 feet.

4. The information presented during the Handel subdivision planning board meeting in 1987 indicates that the site distance far exceeds 600 feet in each direction.
5. Both the petitioner's expert and the respondent's expert agree that the stopping distance for a car exceeding the speed limit in either direction by traveling at 50 miles per hour would be approximately 475 feet.
6. Although an accident occurred some distance from the bus stop it was located in a curve in the road exceeding the relevant distance.
7. Appropriate personnel of the board of education evaluated the bus stop for safety prior to its establishment as well as at other times while established.
8. At no time was Mr. Handel told that he would personally be charged $2,000 if the school bus entered Handel Estates.
9. Both experts for either side agree that the school bus meets the safety criterion for site distance at the location of the bus stop.
10. The only disagreement is that petitioner's expert believes that a student leave the area by 50 or 75 feet they might be in a situation that would be dangerous. This fact was not mentioned in Mr. Bertin's report.
11. Petitioner's expert, in his report (P-2, ev.) misreads the Manual of Uniform of Traffic Control Devices when, in testifying he points out that the very least a sign would be appropriate if not the actual moving of the bus stop.

12. Petitioner's expert quotes the manual as saying "It is not intended that these signs be used everywhere a school bus stops to pick up or discharge passengers but for use only where terrain and roadway features limit the approach site distances and where there is no opportunity to relocate the stop to another location with adequate visibility." Mr. Bertin testified and I FIND AS FACT that students waiting at the actual bus stop and not straying to either, as he put it chase a butterfly or a ball 50 or 75 feet or more from the bus stop, are at the rise in the roadway and are therefore visible to traffic in either direction.
13. Visibility and site distance therefore exceed, at a minimum, 500 feet. This is the site distance for both the school bus as well as the students located at the bus stop.
14. Petitioner's expert errs in claiming that a "school bus stop ahead" sign is required due to the fact that such a requirement is only when a school bus, stops to pick up discharge passengers, is not visible for a distance of 500 feet in advance. The manual states that it is not intended that these signs be used everywhere a school bus stops to pick up or discharge passengers but for use only where terrain and roadway features limit the approach site distance and where there is no opportunity to relocate the stop to another location with adequate visibility.
15. I FIND that adequate visibility exists at this bus stop.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Counsel agreed prior to the hearing that only two issues were to be decided. Those issues were outlined and agreed to on the record as being the following:

1. At the time the board of education acted was that action arbitrary, unreasonable and capricious?
2. At the present time has there been a change in circumstance making the welfare of the children an issue as to safety.

Counsel for petitioner misconstrues the issues in this case in his posthearing submissions. He characterizes them correctly as to the first issue but incorrectly as to the second. He interprets the second issue as to whether or not the bus stop proposed by the petitioners would be safer. That is not the test in this case.

Regarding the question of whether or not the action of the board of education is arbitrary, capricious and/or an abuse of discretion will be addressed first. It is well established that actions of local boards that lie within their discretionary powers may not be upset unless they are arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). The standard for review at a hearing regarding this issue requires a determination of whether the underlying facts were as those who made the evaluation claimed and also whether it was unreasonable for them to conclude as they did upon those facts bearing in mind that they were the experts. The burden of proving unreasonableness is on the appellant. This is not a situation in which the Commissioner of Education will substitute judgment for that of the board of education. Massaro v. Board of Education of the Borough of Bergenfield, 165 S.L.D. 84. It is the management prerogative of boards of education that will not be usurped or assumed by the Commissioner of Education absent a definitive showing of bad faith or arbitrary actions taking bad faith without a rational basis. Paddock v. Board of Education of the Borough of Demarest. 1974 S.L.D., 435.

In this case the facts known to the board of education at the time they declined to move the bus stop were based upon information leading them to believe, and accurately so, that the bus stop met the requirements for safety for the children.

Second issue is whether or not there has been a change of circumstance that makes the welfare and safety of the children an issue. The issue is not whether or not a safer bus stop can be found but whether or not there has been any change of circumstance that would make this bus stop unsafe. Both experts agree that the bus stop location itself meets all of the applicable criterion. Both experts also took into account that individuals routinely exceed the speed limit and therefore calculated stopping distance based upon individuals who are speeding rather than merely upon the posted speed limits. Additionally both experts agree that students located at the bus stop are in a safe location. It is only petitioner's expert who states that danger exists for students who wander beyond the bus stop, although never mentioned in his expert's report.

It is the board of education that establishes the bus stop itself. While one always wishes for the safety of students the board is not under the obligation to choose necessarily the safest bus stop but it is under an obligation which is safe for students. It is impossible for the board of education to take into account contingencies such as wandering students or students running away or pursuing other activities. Their responsibility lies with the location of the bus stop itself.

Because of the agreement of both experts as to the location of the bus stop itself the petitioner has failed to show by a preponderance of the evidence that the action of the board of education at the time of the decision to decline to change the bus stop was arbitrary, capricious or an abuse of discretion.

Additionally for the same reasons expressed above the petitioner has failed to show by a preponderance of the evidence that there has been a change of circumstance making the bus stop itself unsafe and a danger to the welfare of students waiting for the bus at that particular location.

CONCLUSION

Based upon the foregoing I CONCLUDE that the actions of the Green Township Board of Education in declining to change the bus stop were reasonable.

I further CONCLUDE that there has been no change of circumstance that would endanger the welfare of the children nor endanger their safety while waiting for the bus stop at that location and that therefore petitioner has failed to prove by a preponderance of the evidence that such a change exists.

It is hereby ORDERED that the petition be and hereby is DISMISSED.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge that petitioner has failed to satisfy his burden of establishing, by a preponderance of the relevant credible evidence, that the Board's action in declining to change the location of the bus stop at issue herein was arbitrary, capricious or an abuse of its discretion. The Commissioner further agrees that petitioner has failed to establish that there has been a change of circumstance making this established bus stop unsafe or dangerous to the welfare of students waiting for the bus at that location.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons articulated therein, and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

BEFORE KATHRYN A. CLARK, ALJ:

In the above-entitled matter, I ruled on an application for emergent relief, under N.J.A.C. 1:61A-12.1, on June 8, 1995. This ruling disposed of the immediate question - whether petitioner would be allowed to participate in graduation activities. Since that time, this tribunal has received no communications to the effect that a plenary hearing on the merits is desired.

As the ruling on emergent relief apparently has rendered any remainder of the issue moot, I am hereby entering an order to dismiss the plenary case.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Apparently, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) was not in possession of the Commissioner's decision of July 19, 1995 affirming the ALJ's denial of emergent relief and dismissing this matter as moot because the petition was limited to challenging petitioner's participation in graduation ceremonies, the date of which had since passed.

Accordingly, the Commissioner determines that his decision of July 19, 1995 is the final decision in this matter, so that the within appeal is dismissed as of that date.

Petitioning parent sought stay of disciplinary determination by the Board on M.B., junior high school student, for alleged assault on a fellow student, contending his hearing did not provide required due process. M.B. was suspended pending formal due process hearing. Initial 21-day administrative suspension expired on June 19, 1995.

ALJ dismissed matter without prejudice, noting matter was prematurely filed since initial suspension had expired, student was returned to school, and the Board had not yet acted on the hearing officer's recommendation for discipline. Thus, there was no Board action for the Commissioner to review.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WILLINGBORO, BURLINGTON COUNTY,

Respondent.

Jamie Epstein, Esq., for petitioner

Robert P. Martinez, Esq., for respondent (Martinez & Jennings, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 7, 1995

Decided: August 8, 1995

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter was opened before the undersigned on an application for temporary emergent relief. M.B. by his parent and legal guardian J.H. (hereinafter petitioner) had filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education on July 27, 1995, together with an application for temporary emergent relief seeking a stay of implementation of disciplinary action imposed by the Board of Education of the Township of Willingboro (hereinafter respondent). A return date for oral argument on the motion for temporary emergent relief was scheduled for August 7, 1995 at the Trenton office of the Office of Administrative Law and took place as scheduled, whereupon the record closed.

The facts relevant to a determination of the motion for temporary emergent relief as well as those relevant to a disposition of the entire matter are not in dispute and I therefore FIND the following as uncontested facts.

M. B. was suspended from school, effective May 30, 1995, on charges of having assaulted a fellow student, J. V., on May 26, 1995. By letter dated June 13, 1995, petitioner's parents were advised that petitioner was suspended "pending a remand hearing before the Willingboro Board of Education on Monday, June 19, 1995 at 3 p.m." The letter enclosed a package of materials, the first document of which was entitled "Willingboro Public Schools Student Discipline Procedure Remanding of Students" which advised, inter alia, that petitioner had been suspended for a total of 21 days commencing May 30, 1995 and concluding June 19, 1995. The hearing which had been scheduled for June 19, 1995 was adjourned at the request of petitioner, first to June 27, 1995 and then again to July 5, 1995, in order for petitioner's attorney to be provided with certain documents he had requested concerning the matter. On July 5, 1995, petitioner appeared and testified before a hearing officer for respondent. On that date the hearing officer also heard the testimony of J. V., the student victim of the assault. Also considered by the hearing officer on that date were numerous written statements which had been given by students who had been present at the time of the assault. The students who had written the statements were not present at the hearing. On July 20, 1995, respondent's hearing officer issued a written report recommending that respondent find M. B. and another student who had been involved each answerable for the charge of assault upon J. V. The hearing officer further recommended that another hearing should be scheduled for each student separately at which the issue of appropriate consequences would be addressed. The cover letter, dated July 20, 1995, forwarding to petitioner's parents the Hearing Officer's Report and Recommendations, advised that a hearing on the consequences will be held on Wednesday, July 26, 1995 at 3:30 p.m. for M. We are counting on your attendance at this meeting. If you do not choose to be at this hearing, this matter will nevertheless proceed and will be presented to the Board.

Petitioner chose not to attend the July 26, 1995 hearing and, without receiving anything further from respondent, filed the within petition of appeal alleging, among other things, "on 7/26/95, respondent entered punishment against M. B."

During oral argument on petitioner's motion for temporary emergent relief imposing a stay of the implementation of punishment, it became clear that respondent has taken no action with respect to petitioner's disciplinary proceedings. The recommendations of the hearing officer concerning determination of guilt on the charges have not been presented to respondent; neither have the hearing officer's recommendations concerning the imposition of sanctions/remedial action been presented to the Board. Counsel for respondent represented that the next Board meeting will take place on August 28, 1995. It is not clear whether the hearing officer's recommendations concerning petitioner will be presented to the Board at that meeting since the agenda for that meeting has not yet been developed. Furthermore, counsel for respondent explained that respondent's standard procedure concerning disciplinary matters of students requires that the student be provided with a full due process hearing before the entire Board of Education if the student is not satisfied with the recommendations of the hearing officer. Counsel for respondent explained that this two-step procedure results in 90% of matters being settled between the student and the administration following the hearing before the hearing officer, thereby dramatically reducing the number of due process hearings which must be conducted before the full Board. Respondent has felt that this two-step procedure is necessary because of the large number of disciplinary matters which must be handled in its school district. Petitioner's attorney could offer no evidence that respondent had in fact acted with respect to imposing disciplinary action upon petitioner. It is clear that, at the moment, no action has been taken by respondent with respect to discipline of petitioner, other than the initial 21-day administrative suspension which expired on June 19, 1995. Accordingly, petitioner can and should attend school when it reopens in September unless he receives written notice of action by respondent to the contrary.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2 (d) identifies "physical assault upon another pupil" as conduct which shall constitute good cause for suspension or expulsion of a pupil from the public schools in New Jersey. The power to reinstate pupils suspended administratively, to continue a suspension, or to expel a pupil is vested in the Board of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-5. For a non-classified student, the length of time which an administratively imposed suspension may continue, as construed in case law and by the Commissioner, is not to exceed 21 days. R. R. v. Board of Education of Shore Regional High School, 109 N.J. Super. 337 (Ch. Div. 1970); Graham v. Board of Ed. of the Township of Ocean, 1978 S. L. D. 810. A suspension beyond the 21-day period may be imposed only after a full blown due process hearing before the Board of Education. Tibbs v. Board of Ed. of Franklin Tp., 59 N.J. 506 (1971). Actions of local boards of education which lie within the area of their discretionary powers may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives. Quinlan v. Board of Ed. of North Bergen, 73 N.J. Super. 40 (App. Div. 1962); Thomas v. Morris Township Board of Education, 89 N.J. Super. 327 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd 46 N.J. 581 (1966); K.L. v. Matawan/Aberdeen High School Dist., 91 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 74; M. G. v. Monmouth Regional High School, 91 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 38.

In the within matter, the problem with reviewing respondent's actions in regard to petitioner to determine whether respondent violated petitioner's rights or otherwise acted in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner is that respondent has taken no action. The administrative suspension expired on June 19, 1995. Petitioner is not currently suspended from school. If respondent acts at some point in the future to suspend or expel petitioner from school, petitioner may request the Commissioner of Education to review respondent's actions. The within matter is prematurely filed since there is no action for the Commissioner to review. Accordingly, for all of the foregoing reasons, the within petition of appeal is DISMISSED WITHOUT PREJUDICE to petitioner's rights to re-file in the event of adverse action by respondent.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

M.B., by his parent and legal guardian, J.H., :
PETITIONER, :
V. : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN- : DECISION ON MOTION SHIP OF WILLINGBORO, BURLINGTON :
COUNTY, :
RESPONDENT. :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner’s exceptions and an addendum to such exceptions were timely filed. Counsel for respondent Board was served with a copy of petitioner’s exceptions on September 5, 1995 and duly filed a reply to such exceptions within the timeframe required by N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner’s exceptions contend that if the Commissioner adopts the ALJ’s decision in this matter, school districts will be allowed to place an extreme burden on students facing disciplinary action by requiring them to go through multiple hearings before the board before being allowed to appeal the board’s decision to the Commissioner. Petitioner asserts

In this case, the student, M.B, was given notice of the charges against him on May 30, 1995 regarding an alleged assault on May 26, 1995. M.B. facing expulsion, was given notice of a formal due process hearing before the school board for which he obtained an attorney at the board’s suggestion. The board, at the conclusion of the two day hearing, rendered a written decision against the student. On July 26, 1995, the consequences for the

Petitioner asserts that under the instant decision, rather than being allowed to appeal this determination to the Commissioner, he is now required to have another formal due process hearing before the Board. He contends that these unduly burdensome hearings cause students extreme hardship, in terms of time and finances, before they are allowed to appeal to the Commissioner of Education.

Petitioner's exceptions further maintain that, contrary to the understanding of the ALJ that the within Board has taken no action with regard to disciplinary proceedings against M.B., on August 25, 1995, petitioner received a letter detailing the Board's July 26, 1995 decision on punishment. He contends that "the Board has in fact suspended M.B. pending the outcome of his Child Study Team evaluation." (Petitioner's Exception Addendum) Petitioner additionally advises that the Board has scheduled a further hearing in this matter for September 18, 1995.

In reply, the Board argues that the disciplinary process employed by the Board, as detailed by the ALJ in her decision, provides students with a two-step procedure whereby such student is provided with a full due process hearing before the entire Board if the student is not satisfied with the recommendations of the hearing officer. The Board contends that "this two-step procedure results in 90% of the matters being settled between the student and the administration, thereby dramatically reducing the number of due process hearings before the full Board of Education." (Board's Reply Exceptions at p. 2)

The Board, additionally, contends that petitioner incorrectly states that the Board has taken disciplinary action against petitioner. It advances that petitioner incorrectly assumed that the Board had adopted the recommendations of the hearing officer. Rather, it states that petitioner was advised in letters dated August 16, 1995 and August 23, 1995 "that petitioner would be afforded a due process hearing before the full Board and pending that hearing would be entitled to attend school in the normal course." (Board's Reply Exceptions at p. 2)

Upon a review of the record in this matter and the exceptions and replies advanced by the parties, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusion of the ALJ that the within matter is prematurely filed. Given that petitioner is not currently suspended from school and a full due process hearing before the full Board is upcoming, there is currently no Board action for the Commissioner to review.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the within Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Board appealed General Fund tax levy reductions in the amount of $200,582 made by governing body following voter rejection of proposed budget on April 18, 1995.

Upon review of the appeal herein to determine whether Board demonstrated that restoration of specific line item reductions was necessary in order to provide a thorough and efficient system of education in the district, Commissioner determined to restore $141,384 ($79,812 of this amount to be funded by surplus) for a total General Fund tax levy of $1,783,339 for 1995-96 school purposes. Board was directed to submit a revised budget due to certain coding errors.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on June 14, 1995, through the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Salem City Board of Education (Board), seeking restoration of reductions to the school budget made by the Common Council of the City of Salem (City) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37, following defeat of the budget at the annual school election on April 18, 1995.

At that election, the voters rejected a public question proposing a General Fund tax levy of $1,922,349 for the 1995-96 school year. On May 15, 1995, following consultation with the Board as required by law, the City adopted a resolution determining to certify a General Fund tax levy of $1,721,767 as sufficient to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education (T&E) in the district. This amount represented a reduction of $200,582 from the tax levy proposed by the Board, and was effectuated through cuts in seven line items, for the reasons given in the effectuating resolution. By resolution dated May 23, 1995, the Board determined to appeal these reductions and duly filed the within petition.

The amounts in dispute in this appeal are as follows:

Tax Levy Proposed by Board		Tax Levy Certified by City
General Fund	$1,922,349	General Fund	$1,721,767
Amount of Reduction by City		Amount of Reduction in Dispute
General Fund	$200,582	General Fund	$200,582

An Answer to the Board's petition was filed by the City on July 3, 1995. On July 20, 1995, and July 31, 1995, respectively, the parties filed Position Statements pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8, followed by the City's Responsive Statement on August 8, 1995, and the Board's Final Summation on August 15, 1995 and the City's Final Summation on August 21, 1995.

In addition, as the parties had previously been advised by letter from the Assistant Commissioner dated April 7, 1995 and distributed through the County Superintendent to boards and municipalities experiencing budget defeats, as part of the record of the within appeal, the Commissioner took official notice of the Board's revised budget and its June 30 financial report, the latter for the purpose of identifying whether the Board underestimated in its 1995-96 budget the amount of anticipated undesignated surplus.

Upon filing of the Board's Final Summation as noted above, the record of the appeal was closed.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line-item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education. Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989).

Mindful, then, of the standard to be applied, the Commissioner makes the specific determinations set forth below.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

Disputed Line-Item Number 1

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
6910	11-000-230-100	General Administration	$181,774	$36,347

PROPOSED REDUCTION: Elimination of the position of the secretary to the superintendent of schools.

The Board superintendent's secretary recently retired after many years of service. At the date of her retirement, this secretary earned $36,347 per year. Her retirement has been anticipated for the past year and as such her responsibilities have been distributed to other clerical personnel during that time. The City believes that an economy can be realized by having one secretary and the existing administrative personnel service the secretarial needs of both the superintendent and the Board secretary, without creating a hardship or affecting a thorough and efficient education.

The Board's position is that this money, which equals the amount of money earned by the superintendent's secretary, must be restored so that a replacement can be hired for this secretary. The Board asserts that this money should not be removed from the budget as these duties cannot be "realistically and efficiently distributed to the existing administrative personnel without creating undue hardship, inefficiency and ineffectiveness in the operation of the central office and school district." (Board's Position Statement at p. 4) Additionally, the Board has already agreed to eliminate one of its four secretarial positions and finds it "inconceivable and insupportable" to lose another. Lastly, the Board argues that the support staff configuration must not be changed.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has made a compelling argument in favor of the necessity for the position. However, the restoration should be made in an amount to fund a starting salary rather than the full $36,347. The salary regulations provided by the District show a contracted starting salary for school office personnel in the amount of $13,500. Therefore, the Commissioner restores $13,500 to the school budget for an added secretarial position, but sustains the remaining $22,847.

Disputed Line-Item Number 2

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
7010	11-000-240-103	School Administration	$390,906	$108,117

PROPOSED REDUCTION: Elimination of the high school vice-principal and the middle school vice-principal.

The City argues that the levels of enrollments in the high school and middle school do not warrant an assistant principal in each of these schools. The savings that would be recognized by the elimination of the district's two nontenured vice-principals is their combined salary of $108,117. A thorough and efficient system can continue to operate if redistribution of these duties is carefully effectuated.

The Board responds that it is critical to the fulfillment of the District's constitutional and statutory educational obligations that the middle school vice-principal position serve a student body composed mostly of "at risk" students. As a qualifier, approximately 80% of the students qualify for free or reduced lunch. Without any certified subject area supervisors, as well as the elimination of the position of Director of Curriculum in the District, almost all of the duties of staff development, fall on the shoulders of the principal and vice-principal. This is in addition to the normal administrative duties. Also, the middle school vice-principal handles most of the disciplinary activities occurring in that school, which the Board characterizes as numerous. The vice-principal is also involved in conflict resolution, runs the school bank, is an unpaid advisor to the chess club, and works with the principal to prepare the school for the following year. Further, this person reviews all educational components that need adjustment, coordinates receipt and distribution of supplies for the building and participates in the summer curriculum work of the District's five-year curriculum plan.

The elimination of the high school vice-principal is also strongly opposed by the Salem City Board of Education for the same reasons listed above. Additionally, the high school vice-principal is the primary catalyst for both the conflict resolution and mentoring programs at the high school. There are no other available personnel to whom these functions can be distributed. The Board also reduced the number of guidance counselors by attrition and the vice-principal will be assuming the duties of the retired guidance counselor as well, further increasing his already heavy workload. Curriculum instruction improvement is a crucial responsibility of the vice-principals. Thus, the Board argues that the District's need for the above positions is crucial.

Upon review the Commissioner finds that the money should be restored to the Board as it has made a compelling argument for the need of its vice-principals at the high school and at the middle school. However, the Board's position on the $108,117 reduction for School Administration (11-000-240-103) discusses the additional responsibilities assumed by the two vice-principal positions with the reduction of other District staff positions. Based on the description of the duties, it appears that the appropriation for these position should be allocated between Other Support Services - Students - Regular (11-000-218-104) and Improvement of Instruction Services/Other Support Services - Instructional Staff (11-000-221-104). The District's 1995-96 budget shows a reduction in budgeted appropriations for those accounts and supports the Board's statement regarding reduction in staff in these areas. The 1994-95 actual expenditures for both accounts are comparable to the amounts budgeted. As such, it appears that the District has not properly allocated the salaries of the vice-principals between their new additional areas of responsibility. Accordingly, the Commissioner restores the $108,117, but directs the District to make the proper account allocation based on the time spent in performing duties for each of the functions in accordance with the chart of accounts prescribed under N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.2(m), and to submit a final revised budget to both the County Office of Education and the Office of Finance reflecting the correct allocation.

Disputed Line-Item Number 3

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
7100	11-000-260-100	Operation Plant Services	$434,326	$29,763

PROPOSED REDUCTION: Eliminate the position of buildings and grounds supervisor.

The City argues that maintenance and operations of the school facilities have effectively been accomplished in past years without a buildings and grounds supervisor. This position, which was created several years ago, can be eliminated without appreciably affecting a thorough and efficient operation. The City further argues that the School Board Administrator is responsible for supervision of repairs and maintenance by statute, therefore, there is no need for the middle management position of buildings and grounds supervisor.

The Board argues that District maintenance staff consists of the position at issue and three other maintenance staff. The Salem City School District has had major problems in maintenance and physical plant operation with respect to the upkeep and maintenance of the facilities. The Board contends that because the schools are old (ranging from 25 to 83 years in age), they are all in serious need of repair and maintenance. The School District had previously proposed and had rejected by the voters, a twelve million dollar bond referendum to address many of the major needs with its facilities. The rejection of this bond referendum heightens the need for maintaining the existing maintenance staffing levels. The buildings and grounds supervisor is key in keeping the building's infrastructure. Additionally, this person significantly reduces the need for outside contracted maintenance and maintenance repair services.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the City Council that the position of buildings and grounds supervisor is not necessary to the operation of a thorough and efficient education. The Board has operated without such position in the past and the record indicates that sufficient maintenance staff is retained by the Board to maintain school grounds. Thus, the $29,763 cut is sustained.

Disputed Line-Item Number 4

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
7360	11-000-290-220	Business & Supp. Servs.	$129,000	$5,058
7390	11-000-290-241	Business & Supp. Servs.	8,246	1,237
7410	11-000-290-250	Business & Supp. Servs.	20,354	412
7420	11-000-290-290	Business & Supp. Servs.	1,185,336	19,648

PROPOSED REDUCTION: Employee benefits associated with the reduction of $174, 227 in salaries.

The City argues that the foregoing four line-item reductions are accomplished through the elimination of four full-time employees from the School District. The $26,355 reduction to this line item constitutes the savings from the employee benefits associated with the reduction of the salaries paid to the four employees to be eliminated from the payroll.

The Board's response is that in light of the fact that the Board of Education rejects all three of the recommendations for the above-mentioned staff cuts, reductions dealing with benefits accrued to these positions/personnel would likewise be rejected since the money is needed to pay for the benefits of the above-stated positions.

Upon review, the Commissioner determined to restore 75% of the money budgeted for benefits since three of the four positions in question were determined to be necessary for a thorough and efficient education and it was not possible to determine precisely how much of each line item reflects each position. The Commissioner sustained a 25% cut to each account, however, since one of the four positions was not determined to be necessary. Accordingly, the Commissioner directs that $3,794 be restored to line-item number 7360 and sustains a cut of $1,264. It is further directed that $928 be restored to line-item number 7390, and a cut of $309 is sustained. Also, it is directed that $309 be restored to line-item number 7410 and a cut of $103 is sustained. Lastly, a cut of $14,736 is restored to line-item number 7420 while a cut of $4,912 is sustained.

In its advertised annual School District budget statement, the Board projected an unreserved surplus of $475,000 and allocated $175,000 as revenue, leaving $300,000 as undesignated unreserved surplus.

The Board's annual financial report filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-10 (June 30 Board secretary's report) reveals that the unreserved General Fund balance was underestimated by $118,071, as the actual use of surplus in the 1994-95 budget was $160,289. Based on the advertised 1995-96 budget statement, excess surplus available to fund restorations is $79,812 as follows:

1995-96 General Fund Appropriations ($11,275,296) x 3%	$338,259
June 30, 1994 Audited Unreserved Surplus	$753,360
1994-95 Use of Surplus	160,289
Projected June 30, 1995 Unreserved Surplus	$593,071
Less 1995-96 Budgeted Fund Balance	(175,000)
Remaining Unreserved, Undesignated Fund Balance	$418,071
Less 3% Calculation	(338,259)
Amount Available to Fund Restorations	$79,812

Based on the above, the Commissioner determines that $79,812 is available to fund restoration herein, subject to verification through the Board's 1994-95 annual year-end audit report.

SUMMARY

In summary, the Commissioner directs restoration or sustaining of line-item reductions to appropriations as set forth below. The Commissioner further notes that all restorations to line-item appropriations are restricted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.11(b)3.

SYNOPSIS

Board appealed General Fund tax levy reductions in the amount of $111,172 made by governing body following voter rejection of proposed budget on April 18, 1995.

Upon review of the appeal herein to determine whether Board demonstrated that restoration of specific line-item reductions was necessary in order to provide a thorough and efficient system of education in the District, Commissioner determined to restore $111,172. However, in view of the fact that additional surplus sufficient to cover this amount is available to the District, the Commissioner let stand the General Fund tax levy of $3,576,674 as certified by the Township for 1995-96 school purposes. In addition, the Board was directed to correct certain account code errors and to undertake a review of secretarial/clerical and maintenance staffing to identify efficiencies to be implemented in 1996-97 budget.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on June 16, 1995, through the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Riverside Township Board of Education (Board), seeking restoration of reductions to the school budget made by the Riverside Township Committee (Township) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37, following defeat of the budget at the annual school election on April 18, 1995.

At that election, the voters rejected a public question proposing a General Fund tax levy of $3,687,846 for the 1995-96 school year. On May 18, 1995, following consultation with the Board as required by law, the Township adopted a resolution determining to certify a General Fund tax levy of $3,576,674 as sufficient to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education (T&E) in the district. This amount represented a reduction of $111,172 from the tax levy proposed by the Board, and was effectuated through cuts in three line items, for the reasons given in the Identification of Specific Line Item Reductions, attached to the implementing Township resolution. By resolution dated May 24, 1995, the Board determined to appeal these reductions and duly filed the within petition.

The amounts in dispute in this appeal are as follows:

Tax Levy Proposed by Board		Tax Levy Certified by Township
General Fund	$3,687,846	General Fund	$3,576,674
Amount of Reduction by Township		Amount of Reduction in Dispute
General Fund	$111,172	General Fund	$111,172

An Answer to the Board's petition was filed by the Township on July 21, 1995. On July 24, 1995 and August 11, 1995, respectively, the Township and the Board filed Position Statements pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8, followed by a Responsive Statement from the Township on August 24, 1995.

In addition, as the parties had previously been advised by letter from the Assistant Commissioner dated April 7, 1995 and distributed through the County Superintendent to boards and municipalities experiencing budget defeats, as part of the record of the within appeal, the Commissioner took official notice of the Board's revised budget and its June 30 financial report, the latter for the purpose of identifying whether the Board underestimated in its 1995-96 budget the amount of anticipated undesignated surplus.

Subsequent to the Township's filing of a Responsive Statement, no further submissions were received and the record of the appeal was closed upon expiration of the time for such submissions.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line-item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education. Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989).

Mindful, then, of the standard to be applied, the Commissioner makes the specific determinations set forth below.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION^{1 2}

Disputed Line-Item Number 1

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
7030	11-000-240-105	Salaries of Secretarial and Clerical Assistants	$130,940	$38,600

The Township argues that it has been made aware that retirements are taking place in the clerical staff and recommends that the position of a specific retiring secretary be eliminated and its duties reassigned among the remaining clerical staff. Also, the Township asserts that in the recent past the Board changed purchasing procedures by hiring a purchasing agent. The Township suggests this position be eliminated and the previous method for purchasing be reinstated, thereby eliminating the need for this position.

³The Board argues that the retirement of an individual secretary does not invalidate the need for that person's position, nor can these duties be realistically and efficiently distributed to remaining secretarial personnel without creating hardship, inefficiency and ineffectiveness in the District's operation. It avers that the job duties of this position include the data entry input for mandatory student record keeping for attendance, grades, standardized test scores and student scheduling for all students in grades 5 through 12. The Board contends that these essential duties cannot be redistributed to other staff members as their current responsibilities fully utilize their available time. The Board further argues that although the Township's sole rationale for the reduction in this item was not replacing a specific retiring secretary, this particular secretary's 1994-95 salary was $28,300 not the $38,600 which was cut.

² The Board's Position Statement also advances allegations of Open Public Meetings Act violations with respect to the Township's meetings conducted to review the within budget. Given the decision herein on the merits of this matter, the Commissioner finds it unnecessary to address such allegations.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs that the Township's mere speculation regarding savings which might be achieved through the attrition of a specific secretarial position, absent a realistic examination of the incorporation of the required duties of such position, is arbitrary. Noting that the specific contentions on which the Board relies have gone unchallenged by the Township, and appear to be supported by the record, the Commissioner has accepted the Board's assertion as to the necessity of this position to the effective delivery of T&E services. Additionally, the Commissioner notes that the claim of elimination of a purchasing agent position arose for the first time in the Township's Position Statement, which provided no indication whatsoever of the proportionate savings intended to be realized from such elimination. Finally, the Commissioner's determination herein further considered that the Board's 1995-96 budget already projects a $20,908 decrease in this particular line item over the actual 1994-95 budget. Accordingly, the Commissioner restores the reduction of $38,600.

Notwithstanding the above, however, the Commissioner notes that the Board's arguments on the $38,600 reduction for Salaries of Secretarial and Clerical Assistants, A/C 11-000-240-105, describe a position responsible for student record keeping. Based on the description of the duties, it appears that the appropriation for this position should be allocated between Attendance and Social Work Services (11-000-211-100) and Other Support Services - Students-Regular (11-000-218-105). The District's 1995-96 budget and June 30, 1995 report of the Board secretary show no appropriations or expenditures for 11-000-211-000. The amounts budgeted for 1994-95 and 1995-96 for both 11-000-240-105 and 11-000-218-105 are comparable. Also, the 1994-95 actual expenditures for both accounts are comparable to the amounts budgeted. As such, it appears that this is an instance of a historical miscoding of appropriations. Although the funds are being restored to the budget line cut by the municipality, the Board is hereby advised that the proper allocation must be made based on the time spent in performing duties for each of the functions in accordance with the chart of accounts prescribed under N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.2(m). The Board is, therefore, directed to submit a final revised budget to both the County Superintendent and the Office of Finance reflecting the proper allocation of this restoration.

In addition, notwithstanding his restoration of the Township's reduction herein, the Commissioner finds that the Board might well be able to eliminate, consolidate or streamline certain functions and/or allocate duties in a more efficient manner, so as to permit reduction of clerical and secretarial costs in future budgets. Therefore, the Commissioner directs the Board to undertake a critical assessment of its administrative support functions in order to identify efficiencies which can be implemented in its 1996-97 budget, and to report the results of such assessment to the County Superintendent by February 1, 1996.

Disputed Line-Item Number 2

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
7100	11-000-260-100	Operation and Maint. of Plant Services/Salaries	$451,921	$40,000

The Township asserts a reduction in the number of supervisors will reduce salary costs and also strongly recommends the privatization of janitorial services as an additional cost-cutting action.

The Board argues that the District operates in buildings which substantially predate the Second World War and in light of the many state and local building codes and safety mandates, it is necessary that someone be in charge of the school facilities. It asserts that the District has had major problems in maintenance and physical plant operation with respect to upkeep and maintenance. The efforts of the Supervisor of Buildings and Grounds significantly reduce the need for outside contract maintenance and repair services and elimination of this position would cause a great increase in these costs. The Board avers that the District already operates with a skeleton maintenance staff and this particular position is a hands-on employee who acts more in the capacity of a working foreman than as an administrator.

Upon review, the Commissioner, again, notes the Township's elimination of a position without a concomitant examination of the resultant effect on the District's ability to assure provision of T&E and the absence of specific information to counter the Board's factual assertions. In addition, the Commissioner notes that the record supports the Board's contention with respect to its staff already being minimal, and that the numbers of total staff for delivery of all required services in the District remain constant, as between the 1994-95 and 1995-96 school years, at 150. Finally, the record also appears to support the Board's contentions as to its buildings. Accordingly, the Commissioner restores the reduction of $40,000.

Notwithstanding the above, the Commissioner finds, as in the case of administrative support staff, that a critical assessment of maintenance needs and related staffing should be undertaken in order to ascertain whether maintenance services can be more efficiently provided. Accordingly, the Board is likewise directed to conduct such a review and report its findings to the County Superintendent on or before February 1, 1996.

Disputed Line-Item Number 3

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
7420	11-000-290-290	Other Employee Benefits	$1,249,366	$32,572

The Township argues that if the recommended personnel cuts are made, these would allow for a concomitant reduction in benefit costs reflected in this line item.

The Board argues that even if the Township's proposal to cut the two previously described positions, Supervisor of Buildings and Grounds and one secretarial position, were reasonable, the benefits for these two positions, added together, would in no way approximate the $32,572 the Township proposes cutting from this line item. The Board asserts that the employee benefits for these positions would be less than half that number. As such, if this reduction were to be sustained, the Board would be forced to reduce moneys allocated for other employment positions to come up with the dollar amount removed from this line item.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that in light of his determinations on the prior two line items, this reduction cannot be sustained. Additionally, the Commissioner concurs with the Board's assertion that the cuts in this particular line item far exceed the benefit costs of the positions recommended for elimination and, therefore, sustaining of such cuts would result in an undue hardship for the Board in its provision of contractually mandated benefits to other employees. Accordingly, the Commissioner restores the reduction of $32,572.

In its advertised annual school district budget statement, the Board projected an unreserved surplus of $208,202 and allocated $200,000 as revenue, leaving $8,202 as undesignated unreserved surplus.

The Board's annual financial report filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-10 (June 30 Board secretary's report) reveals that the District underestimated its unreserved General Fund balance by $419,511. Based on the 1994-95 Revised Appropriations column of the 1995-96 budget statement, excess surplus available to fund restorations is $171,517 as follows:

1994-95 General Fund Appropriations ($8,115,828) x 3%	$243,475
June 30, 1994 Audited Unreserved Surplus	$608,202
1994-95 Additional Surplus Generated	19,511
Projected June 30, 1995 Unreserved Surplus	$627,713
Less 1995-96 Budgeted Fund Balance	(200,000)
Remaining Unreserved, Undesignated Fund Balance	$427,713
Less 3% Calculation ($8,539,853)	(256,196)
Amount Available to Fund Restorations	$171,517

Accordingly, the Commissioner determines that $171,517 is available to fund the restorations herein, subject to verification through the Board's 1994-95 annual year-end audit report.

SUMMARY

In summary, the Commissioner directs restoration of the Township's line-item reductions to appropriations as set forth below. The Commissioner further notes that all restorations to line-item appropriations are restricted in accordance with N.J.A.C.

6:20-2A.11(b)3.

Accordingly, subject to verification of surplus amounts through the year-end audit, the tax levy certified by the Riverside Township Committee for General Fund purposes of the Riverside Board of Education for the 1995-96 school year shall stand. The Board of Education is directed to submit to the County Superintendent and the Office of Finance a revised budget reflecting corrected allocations as set forth above at line item 11-000-240-105, and is further directed to submit to the County Superintendent the required reports on efficiencies in secretarial/clerical and maintenance staffing.

Record Closed: August 31, 1995

Decided: September 1, 1995

BEFORE SOLOMON A. METZGER, ALJ:

This matter arises out of a motion for emergent relief filed with the Commissioner of Education, seeking to have K.W.S. placed in first grade for the coming school year. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on August 22, 1995 and oral argument was heard on August 31, 1995.

The facts for purposes of the motion are undisputed. K.W.S. was born on October 5, 1989. He was denied entry into respondent's kindergarten program last year because of age and he attended and successfully completed a private kindergarten program. Petitioner now wants her son admitted to respondent's first grade. Respondent's policy on this issue has been in effect since 1978 and requires that children entering first grade be six years old by September 30. The affidavit of Robert A. Suessmuth, Superintendent of Schools, indicates that to his knowledge respondent has made no exceptions to this policy despite numerous requests to do so. Although counsel for petitioner suggested in argument that some parents have received special treatment, he acknowledged that firm proofs would have to await discovery. This is the substance of the record.

To prevail on a motion for emergent relief petitioner must first show that she is likely to succeed on the merits. Crow v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1992). This has not been done. Respondent might have approached this problem with greater flexibility, but it has chosen to draw a bright line and it is imbued with broad policymaking discretion. N.A.C. v. Cedar Grove Board of Education, 94 N.J.R. 2d (EDU) 28; H.A.B. v. Manalapan-Englishtown Regional School District, Monmouth County, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 640. Though K.W.S. would be almost seven if he waited to start first grade in respondent's system, I am at liberty to do no more than state that this seems late to start first grade. Petitioner argues that K.W.S. is actually transferring in from another district and thus that the policy concerning entrance age for first graders does not apply. However, it seems that in the absence of a separate procedure for transferees, the existing policy applies.

Based on the foregoing, it is my conclusion that petitioner has failed to establish a likelihood of success on the merits and it is ORDERED that the motion be DENIED. The matter is to be scheduled expeditiously for plenary hearing.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and respondents' reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions essentially recast and reiterate arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), again contending, inter alia, that petitioner's child should be admitted to first grade, although the child's birthday falls after the Board's established cutoff date for first grade entrants. Further, petitioner argues that the ALJ should have considered petitioner's child a transfer student and admitted the child based on the District's transfer policy.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ denying emergent relief as petitioner failed to establish the standards for emergent relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGjoia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Accordingly, the Motion for Emergent Relief is denied and this matter shall duly proceed on its merits in accordance with the ALJ's recommendation.

Daniel C. Soriano, Jr., Esq., for respondent (Soriano & Soriano, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 27, 1995

Decided: August 10, 1995

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

This matter is a contract dispute concerning electrical work at the Bradley Gardens Elementary School, Bridgewater.

The petitioner, Jet Electric, Inc.(Jet), alleges the Bridgewater Board of Education, respondent, violated and broke a contract between them. The petition further alleges that the Board has hired a contractor to complete the contract and has deducted $9,000 from its payments to Jet. Jet further alleges that the Board has terminated the contract without cause, has made it impossible to complete a list of unfinished tasks and has frustrated Jet's efforts to complete its work.

The matter was transmitted by the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. After notice, a prehearing conference was held by telephone on May 1, 1995. Among other things, it was agreed that the Board would move for summary decision. A hearing date of September 25, 1995 was established for use if necessary. On June 7, 1995, the Board filed its motion for summary decision. By the close of business on June 27, no responsive papers had been filed. Accordingly, the record closed on that day. For the reasons that follow, summary decision is entered in favor of the Bridgewater Township Board of Education and the petition is DISMISSED.

The Board and Jet entered into a standard AIA Form of Agreement on September 1, 1992, for certain electrical work in the District. The agreement contained provisions for arbitration of disputes arising out of the contract. Jet posted a payment and performance bond in the amount of $237,000 for which American Bankers Insurance Company of Florida was surety. By letter dated August 2, 1994 the Board terminated the contract for cause. The Board submits a US Postal service domestic return receipt showing the letter was received by Jet on August 3, 1994.

The Board then entered into a Construction Contract Takeover Agreement dated November 30, 1994 with American Bankers Insurance Company of Florida.

The Board makes four points: (1) the petitioner's contract with the Board was taken over by the surety on petitioner's performance bond, (2) the contract between the parties required arbitration of any disputes arising under the contract, (3) the petition was not filed within the 90-day limitation imposed by N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), and (4), the Commissioner of Education does not have jurisdiction over this contract dispute.

DETERMINATION

The fact that American Bankers Insurance Company of Florida entered into a Construction Contract Takeover Agreement with the Board shows that the contract between Jet and the Board was taken over by the surety. Insurers not being widely known for their charitable impulses, it may safely be presumed that this was a proper case for takeover.

The contract between Jet and the Board required arbitration of any disputes. Contract sections 4.5.1 through 5.7. Nothing in the record indicates any attempt to take this matter to arbitration.

The petition of appeal was filed on January 26, 1995. Jet had notice of the cancellation on August 3, 1994. The ninetieth day following August 3, 1994 was November 1, 1994. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) is quite clear. It provides that petitions shall be filed no later than the ninetieth day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the District Board of Education which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing. The rule is strictly applied. See, e.g., Riely v. Hunterdon Central High School Board of Educ., 173 N.J. Super. 109 (App. Div. 1980). The present petition is nearly three months out of time.

In Poole v. Passaic County Regional School District No. 1 Board of Educ., 1978 S.L.D. 1039, the State Board of Education definitively discussed the question of Commissioner jurisdiction in contract matters. Among other things, the State Board stated:

It is well settled that the Commissioner's jurisdiction does not extend to controversies arising under other laws, as for example pension or taxation acts, even though a school district may be a party to the controversy. (Citations omitted) Furthermore where questions purely of law are involved, the initial jurisdiction of the education authorities is not exclusive, but concurrent with that of the courts. . . . Silverman v. Board of Education of Milburne, 134 N.J. Super. 253 (Law Div. 1975).

In Rainier's Dairies v. Board of Education of Collingswood, 1967 S.L.D. 260, petitioner protested the cancellation by the respondent

Board of its contract . . . during the 1964-65 school year, and it sought to have the resolution of cancellation set aside and the contract renewed. When respondent challenged the Commissioner's jurisdiction to decide the controversy as one not arising under the school law, the Commissioner determined that the dispute arose out of its operation of cafeterias pursuant to the school law . . . , so that the Commissioner did have jurisdiction over the matter. On appeal of this ruling, the State Board reversed and dismissed the petition. Asserting that if the Commissioner's view were correct he would be obliged to take jurisdiction over negligence claims arising out of food consumed in school cafeterias, that State Board opinion said:

It is the opinion of the State Board of Education that the Commissioner has no jurisdiction in commercial matters of the kind involved in this case. It would certainly not be conducive to the expeditious determination of disputes to have part of the case determined by the Commissioner and the rest by the courts. We believe that the traditional jurisdiction of the courts in matters involving contracts, breach, damages and specific performance should not be disturbed except in cases arising directly under the school laws. This is not such a case. The decision of the Commissioner is reversed and the petitions are dismissed.

The Bridgewater Township Board of Education is correct on all four points. I so FIND.

I CONCLUDE that this matter is not properly before the Commissioner of Education and, therefore, ORDER the petition DISMISSED for lack of jurisdiction.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, member of the public, alleged she had the right to access the complete and unredacted Memorandum of Agreement between the Board and a resigning employee, among other allegations.

ALJ dismissed petition, concluding that the dispute in this matter did not arise under the school laws. ALJ found that the Commissioner is without jurisdiction to adjudicate alleged violations of the Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA), or the Right to Know Law absent a significant nexus to an underlying substantive school law issue.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own, emphasizing that he is without jurisdiction to adjudicate alleged violations of the OPMA or the Right to Know Law unless it is ancillary to an equally or more significant school law issue.

ORDER OF DISMISSAL

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF

Respondent.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 9540-94

AGENCY DKT. NO. 375-9/94

Mary Eleanor Urso, pro se

Stephen R. Fogarty, Esq., for respondent
(Fogarty & Hara, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 1, 1995

Decided: August 17, 1995

BEFORE RICHARD MCGILL, ALJ:

The dispute in this matter stems from a request by Mary Eleanor Urso (petitioner) for a copy of a memorandum of agreement between the Board of Education of the Borough of Florham Park (respondent) and an employee who had resigned from his employment. In response to that request, respondent provided a copy of the memorandum of agreement from which several paragraphs were redacted. In this proceeding, petitioner seeks to compel respondent to provide her with an unredacted copy of the memorandum of agreement and to include a copy of the unredacted memorandum of agreement in the public record. Respondent now moves to dismiss the petition for lack of jurisdiction.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed her petition with the Commissioner of Education on September 9, 1994, and respondent filed an answer on September 19, 1994. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on September 29, 1994 for determination as a contested case.

A hearing in this matter was scheduled for July 14, 1995. Prior thereto, respondent filed a motion to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction on July 5, 1995, and the hearing scheduled for July 14, 1995 was adjourned pending disposition of the motion. Petitioner did not respond to the motion to dismiss.

MOTION TO DISMISS

a. Respondent's Position

Respondent moves to dismiss the petition in this matter for lack of jurisdiction. In support of the motion, respondent argues that the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education extends to disputes arising under the school laws. Respondent recognizes that the Commissioner of Education has incidental jurisdiction to resolve issues which, while not themselves under the school law, relate to a dispute under the school laws. Respondent argues that the petition does not raise any issues under the school laws and that therefore the petition should be dismissed.

b. Petitioner's Position

As legal authority supporting the petition, petitioner cites the Right to Know Law, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1 to -4, Executive Order No. 11, Florham Park Board of Education Policy, File Code #3570, and Florham Park Board of Education Bylaw, File Code #9326. Executive Order No. 11 is totally unrelated to this proceeding, but Executive Order Nos. 7, 8 and 9 relate to the implementation of the Right to Know Law. Florham Park Board of Education Policy, File Code #3570, and Florham Park Board of Education Bylaw, File Code #9326, are essentially guidance to respondent's personnel in regard to compliance with the Right to Know Law and also with the Open Public Meetings Act, N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 to -21.

c. Law and Analysis

The extent of the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education is set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, which provides as follows:

The commissioner shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine, without cost to the parties, all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws, excepting those governing higher education, or under the rules of the state board or of the commissioner.

In order for the Commissioner to exercise jurisdiction over a particular controversy, it must involve the Commissioner's overall responsibility for supervising educational determinations and require the Commissioner's expertise in regard to education. Bd. of Ed. Englewood v. Englewood Teachers, 64 N.J. 1, 8 (1973); Dunellen Bd. of Ed. v. Dunellen Ed. Assn., 64 N.J. 17, 28 (1973).

The Commissioner of Education has additional incidental jurisdiction to determine issues under statutes such as the Open Public Meetings Act, where such issues are part of a controversy under the school laws. Sukin v. Northfield Bd. of Ed., 171 N.J.Super. 184, 187 (App. Div. 1979). The Commissioner of Education may exercise this incidental jurisdiction despite the fact that enforcement under the Open Public Meetings Act is generally assigned to the Superior Court in accordance with N.J.S.A. 10:4-16 and N.J.S.A. 10:4-17. Thomas v. Bergen Cty. Welfare Bd., 122 N.J.Super. 371, 376 (App. Div. 1973). However, where a dispute does not involve the school laws but rather is limited to some other statute such as the Open Public Meetings Act, the Commissioner of Education does not have jurisdiction. Cheung v. Freehold Tp. Board of Education, 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 576; Rovello v. Hopewell Valley Regional School District Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 313. In Rovello, the Commissioner stated as follows:

While the Commissioner does have jurisdiction to address OPMA violations, . . . it is clear that such jurisdiction is ancillary, pendent to an equally or more significant "school law" issue. Since the only issue presented in the within petition concerns a purported Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA) violation, absent a significant nexus to an underlying substantive school law issue, the Commissioner is without jurisdiction to adjudicate the sole question presented under the OPMA. [Id. at 317.]

Here, none of petitioner's citations is part of the school laws. The Right to Know Law certainly is not a part of the school laws. Similarly, Executive Orders 7, 8 and 9 concern implementation of the Right to Know Law and do not in any particular way involve education or school laws. Finally, Florham Park Board of Education Policy, File Code #3570, and Florham Park Board of Education Bylaw, File Code #9326, provide guidance to respondent's personnel concerning compliance with the Right to Know Law and with the Open Public Meetings Act. Under the circumstances, I CONCLUDE that the dispute in this matter does not arise under the school laws. It follows that the petition in this matter must be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the petition in this matter be dismissed.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BEFORE ROBERT W. SCOTT, ALJ:

On March 8, 1995, the petitioner filed an application for an Order Granting Emergent Relief seeking to restrain the respondent from appropriating approximately $406,000 restored to the respondent's 1994-95 school budget. On April 17, 1995, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case. The order denying the application provided that the Commissioner of the Department of Education had forty-five days to adopt, modify, or reject the undersigned's action. More than forty-five days has now transpired and said order has either been adopted, modified, or rejected by the Commissioner of the Department of Education or has been accepted by his silence. The above action, in the opinion of the undersigned, has fully disposed of all issues in controversy between the parties in the present action. Therefore, it is ORDERED that the petitioner's application be DISMISSED.

Petitioning host family sought emergent relief for foreign exchange student to be permitted to register in District's high school. Board contended new rule required that it be given sufficient notice to prepare for exchange students. Thus, the application submitted by petitioners' student from Denmark, placed by an organization that facilitates student exchanges, was filed untimely.

Inasmuch as the Board subsequently determined to admit the exchange student on September 14, 1995, the dispute before the Commissioner was dismissed as moot. Return of file was requested from OAL.

Record Closed: September 12, 1995

Decided: September 13, 1995

BEFORE KATHRYN A. CLARK, ALJ:

This is the matter of Pokrovsky v. Pittsboro Board of Education. This matter was brought before the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) by way of application for emergent relief, under N.J.A.C. 1:61A-12.1, and was transmitted to the OAL on September 7, 1995. A hearing was held on September 12, 1995.

Petitioners are the host family for an exchange student from Denmark, Gitte Hommelsgaard. Ms. Hommelsgaard was placed with the Pokrovskys through the Cultural Academic Student Exchange, Inc. (C.A.S.E.), an organization that facilitates student exchanges.

A worker for C.A.S.E. contacted the Pittsgrove School District in early August to advise them that an exchange student would be coming to Schalick High School. The District advised the worker that the Pittsgrove Board of Education (Board) had adopted a new policy in March, 1995, regarding exchange students, and that under the new rule, the application was not in time. The Pokrovskys appealed to the Board, asking for an exception from their policy, but the Board voted unanimously to reject their appeal.

Ms. Hommelsgaard would be the only exchange student in Schalick High School this school year. Schalick High School had four exchange students last school year, one of whom presented unusual challenges in language (a student of Japanese extraction from Mexico), and most of whom were brought to the School's attention late in the summer before they were to begin classes. I FIND that the Board acted reasonably and with justification in making a rule that asks and requires that it be given sufficient notice to prepare for exchange students, some of whom may present significant educational needs.¹

But I also FIND that the Board did not go about establishing this rule in a way that gave a realistic opportunity for notice of it to reach those people and agencies who would be most significantly affected by it. The notice the Board gave (publication in two newspapers, the Salem Sunbeam and the Elmer Times(a weekly)), technically was legally sufficient, but was not calculated to reach, nor did it reach those most likely to be affected by it. Additionally, the Board admitted, in response to a question from the bench, that it had made no attempt to notify any organization or person it knew to be involved with sending exchange students to its schools.

Credible testimony was received from Mrs. Pokrovsky that not only did the petitioners not know of the new policy, but the two organizations involved in sending the four exchange students to Schalick High School last year (ASSI and the 4H) did not know of it. Also, two former host families Mrs. Pokrovsky contacted did not know of the new rule, and a teacher in the Pittsgrove school system who has hosted exchange students in the past did not know of the new rule. Also, the agency that petitioners contacted, C.A.S.E., did not know of the new rule.

The rule itself, and the process the Board undertook in adopting it, are not legally deficient, but I FIND that in this first year of the new rule's operation, when the organizations that send exchange students to Pittsgrove, and the host parents, and the exchange students themselves, knew nothing of the existence of this rule, strict adherence to the rule would lead to an injustice.

New Jersey has a strong tradition of "home rule", a worthy tradition that acknowledges that people generally know what is best for themselves and for their communities. Along with that tradition is the principle that decisions of locally-elected Boards of Education should not be set aside unless there is a showing that the Board acted in an arbitrary or capricious manner, which the Board clearly did not do in this case. The Board acted properly, but should have exercised its discretion in this one case (because of the inadequacy of the notice), to allow this one exchange student to enroll.

I also understand the Board's point that this exchange student may have been brought to Pittsgrove to force the Board's hand, to make them admit her despite their rule. But there was no indication to petitioners until very recently that the Board would enforce its rule, and not grant the requested exemption. In light of the FACT that this is the first time this rule has been enforced, and also especially in light of the FACT that this rule was not publicized or made known to interested parties in enough time for them to take action in a way that would meet the requirements of the rule, it seems to this tribunal to be harsh to enforce it strictly in this case.

I further understand the position of the Board that there are other remedies available to petitioners, specifically, a small (45 student) private Christian academy 45 minutes away, or a return to C.A.S.E. to arrange a placement at another school, which would involve placing Ms. Hommelsgaard with another family. Neither option is acceptable to petitioners, or to Ms. Hommelsgaard. The distance to the Christian academy, plus its small size, make it undesirable, and neither the petitioners nor Ms. Hommelsgaard wish to part company now.

The granting of emergent relief is an extraordinary remedy which can only be awarded based upon a showing that irreparable harm will result if it is not granted, and a further showing that there is a likelihood of success on the merits. See, N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6.

The expanded criteria for determination of an application for emergent relief have been set forth in Crowe v. Degioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-34 (1982). Four standards are articulated:

1. The relief should not be granted unless it is necessary to prevent irreparable harm. Harm is generally considered irreparable if it cannot be adequately redressed by monetary damages.
2. Such relief should not be granted when the legal rights underlying the claim are unsettled.
3. In order to prevail on an application for temporary relief, a party must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits.
4. The relative hardship of the parties in granting or denying the relief sought should be considered.

Irreparable injury has been defined as “substantial injury to a material degree coupled with the inadequacy of money damages.” Judice’s Sunshine Pontiac, Inc. V. General Motors, Inc., 418 F. Supp. 1212 (D. N.J. 1976); John Tully v. Mott Supermarkets, Inc., 337 418 F. Supp. 834 (D. N.J. 1972). I CONCLUDE that money damages would not benefit petitioners, and I further CONCLUDE that there has been a showing of “substantial injury to a material degree.”

Ms. Hommelsgaard herself, in excellent English, said that she wanted to remain with the Pokrovskys, and that she wanted a full American high school experience. Although Ms. Hommelsgaard is an intelligent and articulate young lady, she is still very young and a long way from home. To miss the first few days of school would be upsetting enough for any teenager. To possibly have to pick up and move again, just after she arrived and began to feel welcomed, or to have to attend a small, sectarian private school 45 minutes away, is so unfair that I FIND that it constitutes "substantial injury to a material degree."

Balancing the harms to be suffered by the parties, I FIND that the harm to the Board would be in not having its rule enforced, while the harm to petitioners would be the sense of unfairness and the deep upset it would cause, and the harm to Ms. Hommelsgaard would be an unfavorable first impression of the American way of doing things. The Board's rule will stand, after this initial exception, because the local community is now well aware of the Board's rule regarding exchange students, given the press coverage of this instant case. Also, the organizations that engage in placing exchange students in the area now have good reason to know of the Board's rule and requirements. Any further excuses of ignorance of the rule will have much, much less weight.

Although I FIND the rule of the Board to be appropriate, justifiable and reasonable, I FIND that strict adherence to a rule that just went into effect in March, 1995, and further, was not known by persons and organizations most likely to be affected by it, should give way to an exception in this instance. Consequently, I CONCLUDE that petitioners' request for relief should be GRANTED, and that Ms. Hommelsgaard should be admitted to Schalick High School..

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by THE COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If THE COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

For respondent, Gary D. Wodlinger, Esq. (Lipman, Antonelli, Batt, Dunlap, Wodlinger & Gibson)

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education by way of Petition of Appeal and Motion for Emergent Relief filed on September 5, 1995, requesting that the Board permit a foreign exchange student living with petitioners as host family to attend high school in the District. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 5, 1995, for hearing as a contested matter. A hearing on the emergent application was conducted on September 12, 1995, and an order by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) granting the relief requested was issued on September 13, 1995.

In lieu of exceptions, the Board submitted a letter on September 15, 1995, acknowledging that, inasmuch as the Board had subsequently determined to admit the exchange student on September 14, 1995, the dispute before the Commissioner is now moot.

Accordingly, the Commissioner dismisses the within Petition of Appeal and, by copy of this decision, requests return of the file from OAL in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.3.

THIS MATTER having been brought before the Office of Administrative Law, upon the appeal of the Lenape Regional High School District Board of Education from the findings of a Complaint Investigation Report, and the Petitioner and Respondent, Office of Special Education Programs, through their counsel, Archer & Greiner, A Professional Corporation, attorneys for Petitioner and Deborah T. Poritz, Attorney General for the State of New Jersey, having reached a settlement of the issues raised in the appeal, and

WHEREAS N.J.A.C. 6:3-6.5(c)13 requires the written consent of the parent or adult pupil before organizations, agencies and persons from outside the school may have access to a pupil's records;

WHEREAS the Lenape Regional High School District Board of Education believed that under N.J.A.C. 6:28-2.3, it did not require the written consent of the parent or adult child when it sent pupil records to out-of-district schools in order to see if they would accept a pupil from the district;

WHEREAS a parent filed a complaint pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:28-9.2 with the Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs, stating that the Lenape Regional High School District Board of Education sent her son's pupil records to six out-of-district schools without her consent;

WHEREAS the complaint investigation determined that the records were not sent in accordance with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:3-6.5;

WHEREAS the Lenape Regional High School District Board of Education was directed to submit to the Burlington County Office of Education a corrective action plan that developed and implemented policies and procedures to ensure access to pupil records in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:3-6.5;

WHEREAS the parties desire to settle the dispute between them amicably;

THEREFORE, the parties hereby stipulate to the following:

1. The appeal filed by the Lenape Regional High School District Board of Education is hereby withdrawn.

2. The withdrawal of the appeal is not intended to be, and shall not constitute an admission of any violation of the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:3-6.5, or any other provision of the pupil records regulations.

3. While the Lenape Regional High School District Board of Education does not agree with the conclusion reached by the Office of Special Education Programs, it did develop and has implemented a corrective action plan, approved by the Burlington County Office of Education, which plan includes policies and procedures to insure that access to pupil records is provided in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:3-6.5, either securing written consent prior to distribution, or redacting all personal identifying information prior to distribution of pupil records.

4. This Stipulation shall not be evidential except in an action by the State of New Jersey to enforce this agreement.

Decided: August 17, 1995

BEFORE EDGAR R. HOLMES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Linda S. Dellavalle, representing the Concerned Citizens of Middle Township School District, filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education dated April 20, 1995, requesting an investigation of the April 18, 1995, District Election.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on May 10, 1995, for determination as a contested case pursuant to the Administrative Procedures Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and the act creating the OAL, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

FACTS

The petition alleged that the voting period between 5:00 p.m. and 9:00 p.m. was insufficient, signs indicating polling places were insufficient and that no notice of the election was published. No one appeared to describe the impact, if any, of these alleged violations.

The Middle Township School Board attorney appeared with witnesses. He filed a copy of the Notice of Election which appeared in The Press, Atlantic City, New Jersey, Friday, April 7, 1995, and which was duly posted. It clearly states the times and locations of voting.

LAW

Opening and closing of the polls is required between 5:00 p.m. and 9:00 p.m. on the day of election. Additional times are not required but are permissible as early as 7:00 a.m. on election day. N.J.S.A. 18A:14-45.

Notice is required by publication and posting. N.J.S.A. 18A:14-19. The Board's attorney described and produced a copy of adequate posting and notice. This was not disputed at the hearing.

I therefore CONCLUDE that the Middle Township School District complied in all respects with the provisions of the statute which require that the polls be open at specified times and that proper notice of an election be given.

I DISMISS the petition filed herein.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, defeated candidate for Board membership, alleged improprieties and violations of law in the conduct of the school election. Petitioner contended election literature was improperly disseminated.

In light of exhibits and testimony of witnesses, the ALJ concluded that petitioner did not show any violation of the statutes governing school elections and had not established any basis for ordering a new school election for the two Board positions. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own. Commissioner, however, directed the Board to adopt an appropriate policy governing the release of student directory information and sale of labels.

INITIAL DECISION

AGENCY DKT. NO. 112-4/95

IN THE MATTER OF THE ANNUAL SCHOOL ELECTION
HELD IN THE SCHOOL DISTRICT OF POINT PLEASANT BOROUGH,
OCEAN COUNTY

S. Ted Scarito, petitioner, pro se

Daniel S. Popovitch, Esq., on behalf of the Point Pleasant Borough School Board, Ocean County

Decided: August 25, 1995

BEFORE BEATRICE S. TYLUTKI, ALJ:

This matter was initiated by the petitioner, S. Ted Scarito, an unsuccessful candidate for the Point Pleasant Borough School Board (School Board) in the annual school election held in Point Pleasant Borough (Borough). The petitioner requested an inquiry as to alleged statutory violations relating to a flyer sent to parents or guardians of students (P-2), a flyer given to students to be taken home (P-1), and a notice of election posted at various public locations (P-3).

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on May 10, 1995 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The hearing took place on July 17, 1995, and the record closed on that date.

FACTUAL FINDINGS

The annual school election took place in the Borough on April 18, 1995. In addition to the school budget questions, there were four candidates on the ballot for the two vacancies on the School Board. Initially, it was announced that Victor J. Marini and Loren C. MacIver won the election. Thereafter, there was a request for a recount and on May 12, 1995 the Commissioner of Education issued a decision in which he determined that the two persons elected were Loren C. MacIver and Brian C. Bartlett.

At the hearing, the petitioner and his two witnesses, Mr. Marini, one of the unsuccessful School Board candidates, and Steve J. Ciliberto, a current member of the School Board, stated that a flyer endorsing the candidacy of two of the four people running for the School Board vacancies (P-2) was sent to the parents or guardians of students using directory information labels produced by the Point Pleasant Borough School District (School District). The flyer endorses the candidacy of Brian C. Bartlett and Loren C. MacIver, and the flyer states that it was paid for by the Friends of Bartlett and MacIver (P-2). Mr. Marini testified that he has children attending the Borough schools, that he received a copy of the flyer by mail, and that he recognized the label as being similar to those used by the School District to send material to parents of students.

After the school election and before the decision as to the recount was issued, Mr. Marini attended a workshop run by the School District. At that time, Mr. Marini asked George Kane, the superintendent of schools, whether he could have bought the directory information labels prior to the school election. Mr. Kane stated that he would not have sold the labels to Mr. Marini prior to the school election.

Mr. Kane testified that after checking with Daniel S. Popovitch, Esq., the School Board's attorney (R-1), he agreed to sell the directory information labels to the Parent-Teachers Organization so that the group could send out literature endorsing a bond issue to be voted on at a special election held in February 1995. Mr. Kane stated that Brian C. Bartlett purchased the labels for $25.00 on behalf of the Parent-Teachers Organization, and at that time Mr. Bartlett was not a candidate for the School Board. After the labels were purchased, Mr. Kane had no information as to whether any or all of them were used to mail bond related information and he found out after the fact that some or all of the labels had been used to send the flyer endorsing Mr. Bartlett and Mr. MacIver.

According to Mr. Kane, the School Board does not have a policy regarding the sale of directory information labels and therefore he has the discretion to decide whether to sell said labels. Mr. Kane stated that he thought it was appropriate to sell the labels to the Parent-Teachers Organization to be used for information regarding the bond referendum; however, he did not feel it was appropriate to sell labels to any School Board candidate. Mr. Kane stated that he had no inquiry regarding the labels prior to the school election.

Mr. Marini stated that he recalled receiving by mail a flyer regarding the bond issue; However, to the best of his recollection, the label was not similar to that used by the School District but rather was addressed to him and his wife as voters.

Mr. Scarito noted that he had requested information from Mr. Kane regarding the directory information labels on June 13, 1995 (P-6), and that he did not get a response to his inquiry until the day of the hearing. Apparently, Mr. Popovitch advised Mr. Kane not to answer the letter and advised Mr. Scarito to submit all questions to him since the litigation was pending (P-6). Sometime later Mr. Kane sent Mr. Popovitch responses to the questions raised by Mr. Scarito in his July 13, 1995 letter (P-5).

I FIND Mr. Kane to be a credible witness and I believe his testimony that he sold the directory information labels to the Parent-Teachers Organization to be used for the distribution of bond referendum information, and that he had no knowledge that it would be used for another purpose. In the absence of a School Board's policy, I do not find it unreasonable for Mr. Kane to decide not to sell the labels to any School Board candidates. It is obvious that the labels or a reproduction of the labels were used for the flyer endorsing the candidacy of Bartlett and MacIver; however, this was beyond the control of Mr. Kane. It was also established during the hearing that none of the candidates for the School Board asked Mr. Kane to purchase similar labels prior to the 1995 school election.

As to the second flyer in issue (P-1), the petitioner and his two witnesses testified that it was their understanding that the flyer was produced using school equipment and paper by the president of the Parent-Teachers Organization, and was distributed to the students at the schools to be taken home.

Mr. Kane testified that the flyer (P-1) was written by him and he sent copies of the flyer to the schools to be reproduced and sent home with the students. It is Mr. Kane's position that he has the legal right to issue information about the school budget prior to the school election and he stated that the flyer did not endorse any specific candidate for the School Board. According to Mr. Kane, no member of the Parent-Teachers Organization was involved in the preparation of the flyer.

Mr. Ciliberto confirmed that the School Board is allowed by law to issue factual information regarding the school budget prior to the school election.

As to the flyer given to the student to take home (P-1), I FIND Mr. Kane's testimony to be credible and the petitioner has presented no proof that this flyer was prepared by the Parent-Teachers Organization.

As to the notice in issue (P-3), it was established at the hearing that the notice regarding the election and the availability of absentee ballots was prepared by the School District and posted in the schools and in other public places. This notice does not contain any information as to who paid for the printing and distribution of the notice (P-3). Mr. Kane stated that this notice was also prepared to him to notify voters regarding the school election.

It was also noted during the hearing that a number of children delivered a flyer (P-4) to homes on a Saturday before the school election, and that this flyer was issued by and paid for by the Point Pleasant Education Association. This flyer endorses two budget questions which appeared on the school election ballot (P-4).

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The petitioner stated that the flyer (P-1) prepared by Mr. Kane recommends a favorable vote as to two budget items and argued that this indirectly endorses the candidacy of Mr. Bartlett and Mr. MacIver, both of whom supported the two budget items. Also the petitioner argued that if all candidates had access to the labels, the election results might have been different since all candidates could have sent information directly to the parents or guardian of the students. Mr. Scarito argued that there were violations and that a new election for the two board positions should be ordered.

On behalf of the School Board, Mr. Popovitch argued that the petitioner had not shown any school election violations. Mr. Popovitch argued that Mr. Kane sold the labels to the Parent-Teachers Organization for a reasonable fee and that there was no showing that his action was improper or that he knew the labels would be used for another purpose. Also, Mr. Popovitch argued that no candidate asked about purchasing labels prior to the school election, and it is immaterial that Mr. Kane later told Mr. Marini that he would not have sold the labels to any candidate.

As to the fact that the two candidates used the directory information labels for a flyer, Mr. Popovitch argued that the petitioner had not shown that the use of these labels affected the outcome of the election. Mr. Popovitch noted it has been established that a new election is not required unless violations occurred and there is proof that such violations affected the outcome of the election. In the Matter of the Annual School Election held in the School District of Willingboro Township, Burlington County, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 564. See also, In re Application of Moffat, 142 N.J. Super. 217, 224 (App. Div. 1976), certif. denied Sub Mon., Princeton Township v. Bleiman, 71 N.J. 527 (1976).

As to the flyer and notice prepared by Mr. Kane, Mr. Popovitch argued that the school has the right to supply factual information to the electorate and he noted that neither the flyer nor the notice endorsed any specific candidate. Also as to the flyer prepared by Mr. Kane, Mr. Popovitch argued that the petitioner has failed to show that it was prepared by the Parent-Teacher Organization using school equipment and paper.

After reviewing the testimony and exhibits, I concur with Mr. Popovitch's arguments, and I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has not shown any violation of the statutes governing school elections and has not established any basis for ordering a new school election for the two School Board positions.

Therefore, I ORDER that the relief sought by the petitioner be denied and that this matter be DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ANNUAL :
SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF POINT : DECISION
PLEASANT BOROUGH, OCEAN
COUNTY. :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Exceptions were timely filed by petitioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions concern the alleged illegality of the Board's dissemination of student directory information in the form of mailing labels, as well as the alleged improper distribution of flyers. Inasmuch as these exceptions merely provide a restatement of petitioner's claims, the Commissioner finds that petitioner's arguments were fully and fairly considered by the ALJ at the hearing, and said arguments are not recounted herein.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the credibility determinations, findings and conclusions of the ALJ. However, notwithstanding that the ALJ found that petitioner has not shown any violation of the statutes governing school elections, nor any basis for ordering a new school election, the Commissioner directs that the Board develop and adopt an appropriate policy, in accordance with pertinent state and federal guidelines, governing the release of student directory information and sale of labels.

Accordingly, the Board is so directed, and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law dismissing the Petition of Appeal is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

Board appealed General Fund tax levy reductions in the amount of $278,998 made by governing body following voter rejection of proposed budget on April 18, 1995.

Upon review of the appeal herein to determine whether Board demonstrated that restoration of specific line-item reductions was necessary in order to provide a thorough and efficient system of education in the District, Commissioner determined to restore $34,072. However, in view of the fact that additional surplus sufficient to cover this amount is available to the District, the Commissioner let stand the General Fund tax levy of $3,458,255 as certified by the Council for 1995-96 school purposes.

DECISION

For Petitioner, Russell J. Schumacher, Esq. (Rand, Algeier, Tosti & Woodruff)

For Respondent, Richard H. Beilin, Esq. (Wacks, Mullen & Kartzman)

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on June 19, 1995 through the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Rockaway Borough Board of Education (Board), seeking restoration of reductions to the school budget made by the Rockaway Borough Mayor and Council (Council) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37, following defeat of the budget at the annual school election on April 18, 1995.

At that election, the voters rejected a public question proposing a General Fund tax levy of $3,737,253 for the 1995-96 school year. On May 17, 1995, following consultation with the Board as required by law, the Council adopted a resolution determining to certify a General Fund tax levy of $3,458,255 as sufficient to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education (T&E) in the District. This amount represented a reduction of $278,998 from the tax levy proposed by the Board, and was effectuated through cuts in 22 line items¹, for the reasons given in Attachment A attached to the implementing Council resolution. By resolution dated May 25, 1995, the Board determined to appeal these reductions and duly filed the within petition.

The amounts in dispute in this appeal are as follows:

Tax Levy Proposed by the Council		Tax Levy Certified by the Council
General Fund	$3,737,253	General Fund	$3,458,255
Amount of Reduction by the Council		Amount of Reduction in Dispute
General Fund	$278,998	General Fund	$278,998

An Answer to the Board's petition was filed by the Council on July 5, 1995. On August 7, 1995, both parties filed Position Statements pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8, followed by Responsive Statements filed by both parties on August 17, 1995 and Final Summations on August 24, 1995 and August 28, 1995.

In its Position Statement, the Board indicated it had withdrawn its appeal of reductions in six of the 22 accounts (Salaries of Teachers-Perceptually Impaired; Salaries of Teachers-Speech Instruction; Salaries of Teachers-Basic Skills; Salaries/Support Services/General Administration; Salaries-Secretarial; and Tuition/Special Education). Additionally, in their summations, the Board conceded to overbudgeting in account numbers 11-110-100-101 and 11-120-100-101, and the Council reduced its cut of account number 11-000-213-100, Health

Salaries, by $3,500. Thus, the total amount actually in dispute remained somewhat fluid through the course of the appeal as reflected in the line-item discussions below.

In addition, as the parties had previously been advised by letter from the Assistant Commissioner dated April 7, 1995 and distributed through the County Superintendent to boards and municipalities experiencing budget defeats, as part of the record of the within appeal, the Commissioner took official notice of the Board's revised budget and its June 30 financial report, the latter for the purpose of identifying whether the Board underestimated in its 1995-96 budget the amount of anticipated undesignated surplus.

Upon filing of the parties' Final Summations as noted above, the record of the appeal was closed.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for T&E system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line-item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of T&E system of education. Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989).

Mindful, then, of the standard to be applied, the Commissioner makes the specific determinations set forth below.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

At the outset, the Commissioner notes that the Board's budget contains numerous coding errors. The Board is instructed to note the appropriate accounts for erroneously coded expenditures, as identified herein, and to reappropriate miscoded items accordingly. Further, the Board is hereby directed to follow the chart of accounts required for district use pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.2(m) and to accurately code its expenditures.

Disputed Line-Item Numbers 1 through 3

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
02510	11-110-100-101	Preschool/Kindergarten Salaries of Teachers	$78,917	$3,034
02520	11-120-100-101	Grades 1-5 Salaries	861,805	6,868

The Board argues that, salary negotiations now completed, it has determined its salary needs for the above accounts to be $77,974, $851,119 and $711,941, respectively. Thus, the Board concedes that it overbudgeted by $943 in account number 11-110-100-101, and by $10,686 in account number 11-120-100-101, and underbudgeted by $12,411 in account number 11-130-100-101.

The Council argues that the reductions of $3,034, $6,868 and $3,369, respectively, from these accounts, are based on actual salaries reported by the Board.

Upon careful review, the Commissioner finds the Board's calculations to be supported by the record and notes that the Council has provided no basis for its salary determinations. The Commissioner therefore finds: that $2,091 of the Council's reduction in account number 11-110-100-101 be restored and $943 of the Council's reduction to that account be sustained; that the Council's reduction of $6,868 to account number 11-120-100-101 be sustained; that the Council's reduction of $3,369 in account number 11-130-100-101 be restored.

Further, it is noted that the District included $10,000 in its revised support of the budgeted appropriations in account number 11-120-100-101 for a retirement stipend. Such payments are properly budgeted in Other Employee Benefits, account number 11-000-290-290, and the District should revise its budget to so reflect.

02670	11-190-100-500	Other Purchased Services	$500	$600

The Board contends that the $600 reduction made in an account which budgeted only $500 was clearly erroneous. The Board argues that this account includes appropriations for staff travel expenses in connection with attendance at workshops and conferences, pursuant to the Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP). Any reduction, the Board avers, is unreasonable.

The Council does not address the discrepancy between the $600 figure which appears in its Resolution 54-95, and the $500 proposed reduction which appears in its Position Statement. The Council maintains the entire line item should be eliminated since it has been substantially underused in the past two years. In 1994-95, the Council illustrates, although $600 was budgeted in this line item, no funds were expended; in 1994, only $11 was charged to this account.

Noting the Council's obvious error in its reduction of $600 to a $500 appropriation, the Commissioner restores the $100 at the outset. Further, the Commissioner notes that appropriations for staff travel expenses are properly budgeted in Other Purchased Services, account number 11-000-221-500, yet finds that no funds were spent during 1994-95 in either the proper or the miscoded account. Accordingly, the $500 cut is sustained.

The Board attests that this account provides for activities which support its educational program, such as staff development, summer curriculum development and scoring for the Iowa Test of Basic Skills. The Board further argues that its budgeted figure is already a reduction of $5,496 from the prior year, and that further reduction would significantly impair its educational program inasmuch as the budgeted activities are either mandated, as with standardized testing, or support the development and improvement of the District's curriculum and instructional staff.

The Council counters by indicating that, of the $18,255 budgeted for this line item in the prior year, barely one-third had been expended through the first ten months of the school year, causing a large lapsed balance. The Council further contends that the nearly $5,500 reduction proposed by the Board for this year is insufficient inasmuch as it represents a 48% increase over 1994's actual spending. In difficult economic times, the Council reasons, overhead accounts draw scrutiny and budgeting for items such as conventions and travel must be curtailed.

Upon careful review, the Commissioner determines to restore the reduction of $3,000, noting, however, that appropriations for Miscellaneous Expenditures for Regular Instruction, account number 11-190-100-800, included a number of items properly budgeted elsewhere. Specifically, the scoring of standardized tests should be budgeted as Other Purchased Services, account number 11-000-221-500; summer curriculum work should be budgeted in Salaries of Other Professional Staff, account number 11-000-221-104; teacher course work should be budgeted as Employee Benefits, account number 11-000-290-290; and costs for the NJEA Convention should be budgeted as Other Purchased Services, account number 11-000-221-500. The District is, therefore, directed to revise its budget accordingly.

The Board asserts that its budget figure consists of costs of salaries for three positions: salaries for two nurses totaling $57,111.36 and a salary for a school physician at $3,500, with a $309.64 balance to cover costs for substitute nurses. The Board contends that the Council omitted the salary for the school physician when it directed its reduction, and asserts that this reduction is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

The Council concedes in its reply statement that, after further analysis, it has determined that it did not take into account the salary of the school physician when it directed the reduction of $3,809. Consequently, the Council affirms that $3,500 should be reinstated, and the balance of the reduction, $309.64, should stand.

The Commissioner determines to restore the reduction of $3,809, as a reasonable allocation for substitutes is necessary for T&E.

The Board submits no position statement in opposition to the reduction by Council.

The Council argues the reduction is consistent with past spending by the Board. In 1993-94, the Board expended $3,470 and only $1,495 was expended in 1994-95, as of the date of the Council's review. Consequently, it argues, the $6,200 proposed amount well exceeds the anticipated expenditure for these services and a $2,000 reduction will not negatively affect the district.

Receiving no opposition to the reduction by the Board, the Commissioner determines to sustain the reduction of $2,000.

The Board asserts its proposed costs for legal services is reasonable in that it must adequately budget for fees required for its representation in this budget appeal, for general counsel services and for labor grievances. It further argues that, were the Board to become involved in even one contested matter, this amount is likely to be insufficient, thus necessitating transfers from other accounts.

The Council argues that, based on recent history, the reduction will have no negative impact. It notes that in 1994, $3,182 was spent in this account and, through May 1995, only $921 was spent in this account. It further maintains that the Board should not be budgeting for the "worst case scenario." (Council's Reply Statement)

The Board counters in its reply that it has expended $11,205 in this account for the 1994-95 school year, in excess of the budgeted amount of $8,500.

Upon careful review, the Commissioner determines to sustain the reduction of $4,000, noting that the Board has not demonstrated that such reduction will impair its ability to provide a T&E system of education.

06990	11-000-230-890	Miscellaneous Expenditures	$25,935	$2,000

The Board contends that this account provides for New Jersey School Board Association dues, a mandated expenditure, as well as the costs of legal advertisements and reasonable amounts for printing, attendance at conventions and public relations. It asserts that the Council's reductions are arbitrary and capricious.

The Council again looks to past expenditures to validate its reductions. It argues that expenditures in this line-item account were $20,834 in 1993-94, yet the following year the Board had a revised appropriation of $26,444, and this year's proposed figure is only $509 less than the 1994-95 amount. Here, the Council again argues that an overhead account must be clearly scrutinized and a reduction of $2,000 will not have a direct impact on students where the Board diligently works to reduce items such as printing, postage, advertising, travel and other administrative expenses.

Upon careful review, which included the Board's breakdown of proposed expenditures in this account, the Commissioner notes that the Board is supporting its budgeted appropriations for Miscellaneous Expenditures-General Administration with a number of items that should properly be budgeted elsewhere. Specifically, convention expenses and workshops should be budgeted as Other Purchased Services, account number 11-000-230-590; postage and meter rental should be budgeted as Communications, account number 11-000-230-530; advertising costs should be properly budgeted as Other Purchased Services, account number 11-000-230-590; physicals, eye exams and fingerprinting costs should be budgeted as Employee Benefits, account number 11-000-290-290; costs for copy paper should be included in Supplies and Materials, account number 11-000-230-600; and printing costs should be budgeted as Other Purchased Services, account number 11-000-230-590. Since the Board appears to have sufficient funds budgeted in the correct accounts, the Commissioner sustains the Council's reduction of $2,000. In sustaining the reduction, the Commissioner further notes that the Board's support for this account includes $150 for a teacher breakfast/lunch and $500 for flowers and gifts, costs which cannot be considered as necessary for a T&E system of education.

07080	11-000-240-800	Other Objects	10,230	2,000

The Board contends that reductions ordered by the Council in these accounts are arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable in that it failed to examine current year needs when comparing this figure to the prior year's figure. The increase in the Supplies and Materials account from $12,975 in 1994-95 to $13,801 in 1995-96 reflects, the Board warrants, an increase in costs of copy paper as assigned to the buildings, rather than being included in the general administrative account (central office). The Board argues the "Other Objects" account covers various expenditures supporting the educational program, including costs associated with graduation, the student handbook and yearbooks. The Board further asserts that there is no justification provided for the Council's reduction.

The Council's arguments consider not only the above two accounts, but account number 11-000-240-300, Purchased Professional and Technical Services ($3,500 budgeted) and account number 11-000-240-500, Other Purchased Services ($8,085 budgeted) and notes that spending in these accounts was $15,746 in 1993-94, that the suggested figure for 1995-96 is more than double that amount, and argues that such a dramatic increase is not justifiable. Moreover, the Council questions why the general administrative account does not appear to be reduced in accordance with the Board's assertion that it has now assigned costs for copying paper to account number 11-000-240-600. Thus, the Council recommends a reduction of $2,000 from "Other Objects," and a reduction of $6,000 from Supplies and Materials.

Upon careful review, the Commissioner notes that, contrary to the argument advanced by the Council, the Board evidences a reduction in its general administrative accounts, where the total Support Services-General Administration appropriation was $252,022 in 1994-95, and the proposed 1995-96 appropriation is $236,141. Accordingly, the Commissioner determines to restore the reduction of $6,000 to the Supplies and Materials account. Further, the Commissioner notes that the District is supporting its budgeted appropriations in account number 11-000-240-800, Other Objects, with a number of items that should be budgeted elsewhere. Specifically, costs for attendance at conventions should be budgeted as Other Purchased Services in account number 11-000-240-500; yearbook costs should be budgeted as Transfer to Cover Deficit in account number 11-401-100-930; costs for report cards, letterhead and envelopes should be budgeted as Supplies and Materials, account number 11-000-240-600; costs attributed to computer expansion cards should be budgeted as Supplies and Materials, account number 11-000-240-600; and bus service and hall rental for graduation should be budgeted as Other Purchased Services, account number 11-000-240-500. Since the Board appears to have sufficient funds budgeted in the correct accounts, the Commissioner sustains the reduction of $2,000.

The Board argues that the Council's reduction in this account leaves it without funds for summer help or for overtime custodial services, costs which are necessary for the District to maintain a safe and healthy environment for staff and students. Summer help, the Board affirms, is used to complete projects which cannot otherwise be completed while school is in session, as well as to cover for full-time employees taking summer vacations. Overtime services are essential, the Board continues, to ensure timely snow and ice removal; failure to promptly do so leaves the District liable. The Board argues that the reduction, therefore, is unreasonable and could adversely affect the educational program if these costs are unavoidable and must be drawn from other accounts.

In its Reply Statement, the Council concedes that upon further review, the summer help and overtime costs were not originally provided for in its budget analysis. Consequently, it agrees to the restoration of the $13,703.

The Commissioner accordingly determines to restore the reduction of $13,703.

The Board avers that all proposed expenditures in this account are necessary to properly maintain its physical plant and property. Were the reduction to be sustained, the Board argues, it will be forced to defer the repair of its parking lot at the Lincoln School, which represents a risk to staff, students and visitors. The Board asserts that the Council's reduction is made without examination of expenditures and is, therefore, arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

The Council cautions that the 1994-95 revised appropriation of $63,073 included many "one time" items, rendering comparison with 1995-96 more difficult. Against this sum, however, the Council asserts that only $33,872 had been spent through March 31, 1995, with only $11,291 encumbered at that time. Actual spending in 1993-94 was, the Council notes, $27,414. The Council further questions why, if items such as the parking lot truly represented a hazard to the Board, the funds were not encumbered and spent in the 1995-96 school year when nearly $18,000 was available to make such repairs. Moreover, the Council argues that it is “ludicrous” to suggest that a $5,000 reduction will jeopardize the parking lot repairs and result in unsafe conditions. (Council’s Reply) The Council maintains the 1993-94 figure represents a sum sufficient to cover routine maintenance, contracts and monthly service fees and should, therefore, remain somewhat constant, if the Board properly plans its projects. The Board’s proposed sum of $38,690, however, exceeds the 1993-94 expenditures by over 40%, the Council argues. The $5,000 reduction directed by the Council still leaves the Board with an amount which represents a 23% increase above the 1993-94 expenditures and should accommodate inflation and increased usage.

Upon careful review, the Commissioner notes that the Board has insufficiently demonstrated the need for these funds to provide T&E system of education, and finds that the Council’s reductions are reasonable. The Commissioner determines to sustain the reduction of $5,000.

The Board avers that this account includes costs of water, lease/purchase of the administration building copier and lease/purchase of heat controls at Lincoln School, which are fixed costs. Thus, any reductions in the account, the Board asserts, will require reductions in other accounts, creating an adverse effect on the educational program.

The Council notes that the Board expended only $1,713 in this account in 1993-94, and the 1994-95 revised appropriation was $6,124. Actual spending over the two-year period, was, according to the Council $7,522. The account, the Council maintains, has been “grossly increased” when compared to the 1993-94 expenditures. (Council’s Position Statement) Additionally, this account includes items such as the copier which, the Council observes, is also included in the Support Services-School Administration Accounts (240-103 through 240-800). Thus, the $2,000 reduction is reasonable.

Upon careful review, the Commissioner finds that, the Council properly notes that the rental/lease purchase of a copier for the administration building should be budgeted under School Administration, Other Purchased Services, account number 11-000-240-500 or 11-000-230-590. Inasmuch as sufficient amounts are budgeted in the two possible accounts where the cost would properly be coded, the Commissioner determines to sustain the Council’s reduction of $2,000.

The Board asserts that its recommendation for appropriation in this account is appropriate and in accordance with increases in salaries of staff. The Board further indicates that $42,102.44 was expended in this account in the 1994-95 school year. The Board notes that most of its staff members earn less than $60,600, the maximum amount of salary on which social security is paid. Any shortfall in this account, the Board argues, will require the Board to make reductions in other accounts, which would negatively impact its educational program.

The Council argues that, as the Board has already noted, its actual salaries to staff members will be lower than the figures which it originally submitted. However, the Council continues, the Board has calculated the proposed budget for the social security account based on the higher salaries included in the original budget, and has not reduced the social security account in an amount commensurate with the actual salary figures. In light of these salary reductions to which the Board has agreed, the Council now submits that the account should be reduced by $1,000, and that $1,000 should be restored.

The Commissioner determines to restore the $2,000 reduction, in view of the salary determinations made at line-item numbers 1-3 above.

Disputed Line-Item Number 16

The Board asserts that the increase in this account (from $3,100 in 1994-95) represents the amount needed to fulfill the District’s requirement under the Right to Know Law. The Board explains that the services were formerly provided to the District gratis by a citizen who is no longer available.

The Council again recalls the District’s spending history, noting that in 1993-94, the Board spent $2,408 in this account. In 1994-95, as of the time of its review, the Board spent $1,480 of the $3,100 budgeted. Thus, the Council concludes, the reduction should not negatively impact the Board. Moreover, the Council contends in its Reply Statement that the Board fails to indicate the costs of a “Right to Know” person who will fulfill the requirements of that law, and further does not indicate whether the Board has attempted to obtain these services gratis from another private citizen. Additionally, the Council reiterates the need to clearly scrutinize miscellaneous and overhead accounts. It argues that “such accounts should at best be frozen, and certainly should not increase during difficult economic times.” (Council’s Position Statement)

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that the Board's support for reinstatement of the $2,100 reduction is based upon its need for funds to be in compliance with the Right to Know Law. Inasmuch as sufficient funds are budgeted in the proper account, Operations and Maintenance, account number 11-000-260-XXX, to support Right to Know activities, the Commissioner determines to sustain the reduction of $2,100.

Increase to Revenues

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Increased
00250	10-1XXX	Revenues	$55,000	$10,000

The Board argues that, as surplus is depleted, infra, the amount of interest income earned will be significantly less than the prior year. Thus, the Board challenges the Council's addition of $10,000 in miscellaneous income as unreasonable, based upon projections of the fund balance for the 1995-96 year, and current interest rates. The Board notes that its only sources of miscellaneous income are rental income, projected at $32,000, and interest income.

The Council, however, asserts that, the available evidence suggests that at least $65,000 in miscellaneous income will be realized. The Council reasons that, assuming rental income of $32,000, only $33,000 must be generated from other sources. It argues that the surplus balance is in place during the months of July and August, but with the school year not yet commencing, expenses have not been paid out in cash. The Council further attests that the Board will receive its tax levies from the governing body during that time, even though the funds for the most part are not in use. Thus, the Council calculates, the interest income earned during those months, coupled with the interest income to be earned during the remainder of the year, will generate well over $33,000, assuming even a modest interest rate.

As per the June 30, 1995 financial report of the Board secretary, the Board earned $114,644 in investment income and $32,000 in rental income, compared to the total budgeted miscellaneous income of $101,434. Although the Board is budgeting a significant amount of surplus ($375,000), it should be able to earn $33,000 ($65,000 less $32,000) in interest income. Accordingly, the Commissioner determines to sustain the Council's increase of $10,000.

In its advertised annual school district budget statement, the Board projected an unreserved surplus of $425,844 (line no. 01650) and allocated $175,000 (line no. 00120, account no. 10-303) as revenue, leaving $250,844 (line no. 01670) as undesignated unreserved surplus.

The Council argues that, by the Board's estimate, the 1994-95 school year will end with a surplus of approximately $425,844. Recognizing that the Board proposes to use $175,000 of this surplus to balance the 1996 budget, the Council contends this leaves a sum of $250,844, representing 5.8% of the current expense budget for 1996. However, the Council also maintains that an additional $168,131 will be available to the Board.² Based on these figures, the Council maintains that the $200,000 can be added to surplus utilization, leaving in place a surplus which is sufficiently above the 3% standard.

Addressing the Board's arguments as presented in its Position Statement, the Council states that the Board has expended over $250,000 of these funds which it received from the sale of property for needed facility repairs and has an additional approximately $60,000 for boiler and oil tank removal. The Council thus argues, "Given the extensive repairs which have already been performed, it is clear that any further facility repairs required would not be of the type which would require expenditure of funds above and beyond those which would remain in the fund free balance if the Respondent's reductions are upheld." (Council's Reply Statement)

² The Council's attachment to the Petition of Appeal filed by the Board states that "*$154,042 lapsed to surplus in 1994 due to overbudgeted appropriations and $13,765 due to underbudgeted revenue. In 1993, these figures were $133,435 and $67,777, respectively. The Councils predict that these balances could be as high as $128,000 for unspent appropriations and $40,000 for excess revenues for 1995 for a total credited of over $160,000. This would bring the Board's surplus to over $400,000, which is nearly 10% of the 1996 budget."

The Council contends that a 5% surplus is sufficient to address urgent matters which may arise.

The Board's annual financial report filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-10 (June 30 Board secretary's report) reveals that the unreserved General Fund balance was underestimated by $344,332, as the actual use of surplus in the 1994-95 budget was $86,609. Based on the advertised 1995-96 budget statement, excess surplus available to fund restorations is $265,575 as follows:

1995-96 General Fund Appropriations ($4,320,355) x 3%	$129,611
June 30, 1994 Audited Unreserved Surplus	$856,785
1994-95 Use of Surplus	86,609
Projected June 30, 1995 Unreserved Surplus	$770,176
Less 1995-96 Budgeted Fund Balance	(375,000)
Remaining Unreserved, Undesignated Fund Balance	$395,176 ³
Less 3% Calculation	(129,611)
Amount Available to Fund Restorations	$265,565

Based on the above, the Commissioner determines that, subject to verification through the Board's 1994-95 annual year-end audit report, $200,00 can be added to surplus utilization and, even with the additional use of surplus, any restorations of appropriations can be funded through surplus.

³ It should be noted that the Board has filed budgets for the 1994-95 and 1995-96 school years which reflected that General Fund free balances were maintained within the 7.5% limitation required by N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-27.1, when, in fact, the Board in both of these years maintained an unreserved, undesignated fund balance of 9.1%.

SUMMARY

In summary, the Commissioner directs restoration or sustaining of the Council's line-item reductions to appropriations and increases to revenue as set forth below. The Commissioner further notes that all restorations to line-item appropriations are restricted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.11(b)3.

BEFORE LILLARD L. LAW, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE
AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Frank LaRosa, complainant, together with fifteen (15) signatories, petitioned the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) to conduct an inquiry of the Special School Election held in the School District of the City of Pleasantville on March 21, 1995. The complainant alleges certain irregularities in the conduct of the election held under the direction of Board of Education of the City of Pleasantville (Board).

The Commissioner, on May 19, 1995, transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A telephone prehearing conference was held on July 11, 1995, at which, among other things, the date of August 28, 1995, was set down for the inquiry.

Subsequently, on July 13, 1995, the Board requested the Commissioner to accelerate the proceedings. On July 19, 1995, the Commissioner granted the Board's request, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 1:1-9.4, and agreed to enter his final decision within 15 days of receipt of the herein initial decision.

The inquiry was held on August 28, 1995, at the Atlantic City OAL, Atlantic County Civil Courthouse, Atlantic City, New Jersey. The parties requested, and were granted, leave to submit posthearing memoranda. The submissions were received by the undersigned on September 1, 1995, which constitutes the close of the hearing record.

ISSUE

The issue to be determined by this tribunal is whether the alleged election irregularities were sufficient to overturn the election results of the Special School Election held on March 21, 1995.

THE RESULTS OF THE ELECTION

The results of the election held on March 21, 1995 are not in dispute and are as follows:

	YES	NO
District 1 - Leeds Avenue	116	269
District 2 - North Main Street	110	71
District 3 - Washington Avenue	120	59
District 4 - South Main Street	251	131

THE PETITION

Complainants Petition included the following alleged election violations:

1. Distributing election material at and around the voting booths;
2. Display of election information at and around the voting booths; and,
3. School officials interfering with elections at and around voting booths.

Subsequent to complainants having filed its Petition with the Commissioner, Complainant Frank LaRosa addressed a letter, dated April 7, 1995, to Hope R. Blackburn, Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, Department of Education, wherein he supplemented the original petition with six (6) additional alleged violations as follows:

1. By a carefully calculated act of deception, notifications to voters within certain higher tax paying areas were never notified of the meetings open to the public on March 14th, 15th and 16th until after the meetings were over, voters thereby being denied public input.

As one petition signer will attest, a postal worker has reported Public Meeting notifications were not on the mailing platform until the night of the 16th, under permit number 107.

2. Poll worker will testify in Court if necessary the fact that hand-outs were being distributed by school children within the hallways of the polling place and within 100 ft (sic) of the polling place door and in some instances voters were followed into the polling place itself and handed the enclosed political hand-out baring (sic) no disclaimer to vote "YES".

3. School personnel came into the polling place wearing large lapel buttons to vote "YES" for the new schools. Surely an act of voter intimidation and contrary to N.J. SA18A and Title 19 Election Laws which must be upheld even at a school election.

4. At the Leeds Ave. School, voting area designated by the School Board, school personnel was discovered directing voting procedures at the poll workers table by informing voters who had no pages in the voting regulations book they could vote simply by visiting the Board of Education Office and signing an affidavit. The informer was not a designated poll worker and had no business interfering with the election.

5. Printed affidavits and voting authorities were issued by the Board of Education leaving poll workers no way of making a signature comparison, the voter having no page in the book.

The Atlantic County Board of Elections does a splendid year-round job of removing pages from the Election Reg. Book of voters who have failed to vote within a specified period, moved from the voting District or when the voter has died or placed in jail, keeping elections fair and honest. For the Secretary of the local Board of Education to inform the poll workers we can't depend upon pages missing from the County Board of Election Books, is indeed an insult to the intelligence of our Election Board workers, or for him to imply the pages are not accurate or updated is a gross usurping of the Election Laws.

While the "YES" vote passed by only a 56 majority, one cannot help but wonder just how many fraudulent affidavits were presented and how many unlawful votes were cast and we are in sincere hopes you may make this issue a part of your investigation.

6. It is further reported the Principal at the North Main Street School was observed greeting voters at the door thanking them for coming out to vote "YES" for the two (2) new schools. In addition, another source has offered to testify to the effect she was passing out tickets of chance to those who came to vote "YES."

In view of the many infractions, an immediate investigation is requested and those responsible for violations of the Election Laws fined or suspended and the Special Election declared null and void during the period of your investigation.

SUMMARY OF THE TESTIMONY

Richard McAvaddy, a City of Pleasantville Council member, testified on behalf of complainants asserting, among other things, that he voted at the Board's North Main Street School. Upon his arrival, he was met by a young girl who offered him a soft drink and a pretzel. Subsequently, he was met by Dr. Edna Hunter, principal of the North Main Street School who offered him a ticket (p-1, p-2) for what he believed to be a chance to win a turkey. He asserted there was no charge for the ticket and that Dr. Hunter thanked him for supporting the school bond issue because the school district really needed it.

Mr. McAvaddy visited other polling places after he voted at North Main Street School. He visited Leeds Avenue School and did not observe anything unusual there. Subsequently, he visited Washington Avenue School at approximately 6:00 p.m. where he observed a couple of children outside of the schoolhouse. The children asked Mr. McAvaddy if he was going to vote for the school bond referendum and proceeded to hand him a brochure (p-3). Mr. McAvaddy entered the school and approached Mr. Earl B. Fairchild, a poll worker, and asked him if he was aware that children were handing out a brochure on the school grounds. Mr. Fairchild advised Mr. McAvaddy that he was aware and that he had been collecting the brochures all day.

Mr. McAvaddy testified he last visited South Main Street School where he was told that people tried to vote, however, their names were not in the signature copy register.

On cross-examination Mr. McAvaddy testified, among other things, that he did not attend a raffle nor did he know whether a raffle took place at the North Main Street School. He also asserted there were no adults with the children who were handing out the brochures.

Mr. Fairfield testified he voted at the Board's special election and was also a poll worker at the Washington Avenue School from 2:00 p.m. until the polls closed after 9:00 p.m. on March 21, 1995. He witnessed the distribution of election brochures (p-3) by school aged children, and observed the children follow voters into the schoolhouse with the printed material. Mr. Fairfield testified he repeatedly reminded the children that they could not distribute the brochures within 100 feet of the polling place. He observed the children open the schoolhouse doors for voters and then hand the voters a brochure. He asserted that the brochures were distributed from 3:00 p.m. until after 6:00 p.m. Mr. Fairfield reported the incident to the Washington School principal who then confiscated the brochures.

Robert Cornett testified that he voted at Washington Avenue School on March 21, 1995, and also acted as a challenger at the polling place for Mr. Frank LaRosa. He arrived after the polling place had opened and was approached by five or six juveniles who attempted to hand him printed material within 100 feet of the polling place. Upon his entry into the polling place, he advised Mr. Fairfield of the incident. Mr. Fairfield advised Mr. Cornett of the irregularities he had observed including the brochures and election buttons (p-4) worn by faculty members of the Washington Avenue School which supported the bond referendum. The button states, "Parents for Pleasantville Progress-Vote Yes" (p-4). Mr. Cornett testified he was told that those who wore the buttons were faculty members. However, he did not know whether or not those wearing the buttons were, in fact, faculty members.

Marie Dix testified she voted on March 21, 1995 and also was a poll worker at the Leeds Avenue School between 2:00 p.m. and 9:00 p.m. She asserted that there was only one problem which involved a voter who was not permitted to vote because her name did not appear in the signature copy register. The voter left the polling place and subsequently returned with the principal of Leeds Avenue School. The principal and the voter talked with Mrs. Mahoney, Judge of Elections concerning the matter. A telephone call was then placed with Mr. Frank Dingler, the Board's Business Administrator/Board Secretary, who advised Mrs. Mahoney that the voter could execute an affidavit (p-8) and vote. The voter did so. Ms. Dix asserted there were no other problems at the Leeds Avenue School polling place.

Edna Cole testified on behalf of complainants asserting, among other things, that she voted at the special election. She contended she was in receipt of election literature (p-5) at her home by way of mail through the United States Post Office (USPO). The election literature advised, among other things, that the Board's Superintendent of Schools was to be present and provide information about the Board's bond referendum on March 14th, 15th and 16th, 1995, at divers locations in the school district. Ms. Cole received the printed matter on the afternoon of March 17, 1995. She telephoned the USPO to determine when the material was mailed and was advised that it was received by the USPO on March 16, 1995.

Ms. Cole asserted that there was nothing on the printed matter (p-5) to indicate who printed or paid for the literature. She conceded that the return address indicated that the literature was from the Pleasantville Public Schools. She believed that it came from the Board.

Complainant Frank LaRosa testified that he voted at the Washington Avenue School and observed several irregularities. He observed individuals who wished to vote, however, their names did not appear in the signature copy registers. Notwithstanding the absence of the names in the signature copy register, he asserted that these individuals were permitted to vote by affidavit.

Mr. LaRosa became aware that children were passing out election material (p-3) at the Washington Avenue School. He asserted the children were running in and out of the schoolhouse with the election literature, pleading with the voters to vote in favor of the bond referendum. Mr. LaRosa then telephoned the Board's Business Administrator/Board Secretary to report the activities of the children. Mr. LaRosa inquired of the Business Administrator/Board Secretary about any policy of the Board with respect to the use of school children and the distribution of election literature. Mr. Dingler subsequently provided Mr. LaRosa with a copy of the Board's policy entitled, "Use of Students", which states as follows:

The participation of students in disseminating public information materials should be encouraged with the understanding that students shall not:

- A. Be utilized for the benefit of any individual or group or be used as agents for distributing commercial material to the community or their homes;
- B. Participate in such activities unless approved by the Superintendent;
- C. Be used to distribute materials or information pertaining to a school election, budget or bond issue.

All publicity or materials to be disseminated by students shall be presented to the Superintendent for approval prior to distribution.

All surveys, questionnaires or other similar items requiring student or parent/guardian response shall be reviewed and approved by the Board prior to dissemination.

Date: April 1, 1986

Legal Reference: N.J.S.A. 18A:42-4 Distribution of literature (p-6)

Mr. LaRosa asserted that the distribution of the election material at the Washington Avenue School by the children was not approved by the Board's Superintendent.

Mr. LaRosa testified that he investigated alleged problems at the Leeds Avenue School polling place. He asserted that people were allowed to vote by affidavit when there was no way to compare the voters signature which should have appeared in the signature copy register. He further alleged that there was interference with the election process at the Leeds Avenue School polling place.

Mr. LaRosa testified that he visited South Main Street School where a voter, who allegedly had moved out of the voting district, was allowed to vote. Mr. LaRosa also asserted that he had heard of the turkey raffle and investigated the matter. He asserted that Mr. Joseph Brenner, who did not attend the herein hearing and, therefore, did not testify, had witnessed the distribution of raffle tickets at the North Main Street School.

Bernita Vaughn Harman, Judge of Elections at Washington Avenue School, testified, among other things, that Mr. Earl Fairchild was appointed one of the Clerks of Elections at Washington Avenue School. Ms. Harman asserted she was not provided with any information that there were challengers appointed for the Washington Avenue School polling place. She contended that Robert Cornett had no certificate of appointment from the Board Secretary and, therefore, had no official capacity at the polling place.

Ms. Harman testified she did not see any children handing out election material to voters. She observed that Mr. Fairfield had a copy of election literature (p-3) in his rear pocket. Mr. Fairchild told Ms. Harman that children were handing out the literature to voters. Ms. Harman looked down the school corridor from the library, the polling place, but did not observe any children present.

Ms. Harman testified that a gentleman came into the polling place wearing a badge which had print that stated, "Parents for Pleasantville Progress-Vote Yes" (p-4). She asserted that Mr. Fairchild told the gentleman to remove the badge whereupon the man was alleged to have responded, "If you want to remove it, you're going to have to remove it." Ms. Harman advised the gentleman that he must remove the badge, whereupon the gentleman left the polling place. Subsequently, a woman arrived at the Washington Avenue School polling place with a handicapped voter who was also wearing a similar badge. When advised she must remove the badge within the polling place, the woman covered the badge with her clothing and proceeded to vote. Ms. Harman asserted she did not observe any other people within the polling place wearing the badge.

Ms. Harman testified she remained in the polling place at all times during the election except to leave for approximately five (5) minutes to go to the restroom. She asserted that lunch was sent to the polling place for the election workers. The luncheon was paid for by the Board.

Janet Crouse, Public Relations Officer for the Board, testified, among other things, that she published and had printed the document marked P-5 in evidence at the direction of the Superintendent of Schools. She asserted that the election information material was mailed through the USPO by way of bulk-mail. There were a total of 6,855 pieces of mail, bagged according to mail routes, and delivered to the USPO on March 13, 1995, for distribution. Document R-1 in evidence is a United States Postal Service Statement of Mailing with Permit Imprints which is dated 3-13-95.

The election information brochure stated certain facts concerning the bond referendum, the date and time of the vote on the referendum, a map of the voting districts and a schedule of Town Meetings at which the Superintendent was to provide citizens information about the referendum. The brochure (p-5) was paid by the Board and was the second document to be printed. The first brochure was recalled and not mailed because there was a mistake in the information included thereon. Ms. Crouse asserted she was aware that the brochure (p-5) announced meetings with the Superintendent on March 14th, 15th and 16th, 1995. The delay in mailing the brochure was due to the recall of the first publication with the misinformation and the publication and printing of the second brochure (p-5).

Mr. Frank Parker, Principal of Washington Avenue School, testified he was not in the school building when the polling place was open at 2:00 p.m. on March 21, 1995. He was attending to his responsibilities in another school and did not return to Washington Avenue School until approximately 3:00 to 3:15 p.m. School dismissal was at 2:45 p.m. He remained at the school until approximately 3:50 or 4:00 p.m.

When Mr. Parker arrived at the Washington Avenue School, he was approached by Mr. Fairfield who advised him that election brochures were being illegally distributed at the school. Mr. Fairfield advised Mr. Parker that the brochures were in Mr. Parker's office. Mr. Parker investigated and determined that an unidentified parent had delivered the election brochures to the main office at Washington Avenue School with instructions to distribute the brochures to the children. Mr. Parker determined that the Community Relations Aide, a Board employee, distributed the brochures to the classrooms. Mr. Parker asserted that the brochures were collected before school was dismissed on March 21, 1995. He did not, however, know who collected the illegal material. Mr. Parker was aware that the distribution of the brochures P-5, was illegal and in violation of Board policy (p-6).

Edna Hunter, Principal of North Main Street School testified that on March 21, 1995, she conducted a contest with the children in the school where she arranged the children into three teams who were encouraged to have their parents, neighbors and grandparents vote in the school bond referendum. She asserted that the team with the most voters would win a pizza party.

A two-part ticket was used, where the name and address of the voters, together with the name of the pupil, was placed. She asserted that the voters were not advised as to how to vote but, rather, just to vote. Two classes in the school won a pizza party based upon the number of tickets handed in.

On cross-examination, Ms. Hunter admitted she handed out the tickets to voters at the polling place. She also admitted that she did not have permission from the Board or the Superintendent to conduct the contest.

Ms. Hunter was aware there was generally a low level of voter turn-out at such school elections and determined that the contest among the pupils would generate interest in the bond proposal. Ms. Hunter was in favor of the bond referendum, however, she asserted she did not convey her feelings to the pupils.

Frank Dingler, Board Secretary/Business Administrator, testified, among other things, that he was responsible for the conduct of the school elections held within the school district. He employed the poll workers and certified the appointment of challengers. There were no petitions for challengers for the election held on March 21, 1995. He, therefore, served no credentials for any challengers for the bond referendum election.

Mr. Dingler testified that between 3:00 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. on March 21, 1995, he was advised by Mr. Parker that election brochures were in the Washington Avenue School with directions that the brochures were to be sent home by the pupils. Mr. Dingler advised Mr. Parker that the brochures should be recalled immediately. There were no reports of election brochures at any of the other polling places.

Mr. Dingler testified that an individual went to Washington Avenue School to vote and was not permitted to do so because the individual's name was not in the signature copy register. The individual who came to Mr. Dingler's office asserted that the individual was under 18 years of age prior to the election day. Mr. Dingler telephoned the Atlantic County Board of Elections which advised that persons name under the age of 18 years may not be in voter signature copy register until that person reaches the age of 18. Mr. Dingler was further advised that a person may vote on the day of the election if that person had reached the age of 18 on that date.

Mr. Dingler testified there were problems at the Leeds Avenue School where the voters names were not in proper alphabetical order in the signature copy register. He asserted that eight or nine people were permitted to vote by affidavit.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Having carefully reviewed and considered all of the evidence adduced at the hearing, including the testimony of the witnesses, and having assessed their credibility and given fair weight thereto, I FIND the following FACTS:

On March 21, 1995, the Board held a special election for a bond referendum for the construction of a new high school and middle school. The Board assigned five of its schools as designated polling places for various voting districts within its jurisdiction. The polls were open from 2:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. The results of the election, which are not in dispute, demonstrates that there were a total of 601 votes in favor of the referendum and 532 votes against the proposal. The proposal was approved by the electorate.

On March 21, 1995, an unnamed or unidentified individual delivered printed material to Washington Avenue School with instructions that the literature be given to the pupils for distribution. The printed election material (p-3) did not bear a statement of the name and address of the person or persons causing the material to be printed, copied or published, or who paid for the printed material. The Board's Community Relations Aide delivered the printed material to the classrooms without any official authority to do so.

Washington Avenue School was one of the four schools the Board designated was a polling place for the special election held on March 21, 1995. Washington Avenue School regularly dismisses its pupils at 2:45 p.m. At approximately 3:00 p.m., Frank Parker, Washington Avenue School principal, arrived at the school and was advised by poll worker Earl Fairchild of the existence of election printed material being distributed by school children. Mr. Fairchild advised Mr. Parker that the material was in Parker's office and had been distributed to voters by Washington Avenue School pupils. Mr. Parker went to his office and telephoned Frank Dingler, Board Secretary/Business Administrator who advised Parker to collect the election material and not permit it to be distributed by pupils. Mr. Parker located the election literature and handed it over to Mr. Fairchild.

Mr. Parker investigated the matter, however, he did not observe any pupils distribute the election material inside or outside of the schoolhouse. He also inquired of certain faculty members concerning the distribution of the printed material and they asserted that it did not occur.

Mr. Frank LaRosa, complainant, determined that the unauthorized printed election material distributed by the pupils at the Washington Avenue School was in direct violation of the Board's policy regarding the dissemination of information by pupils. (p-6).

Mr. Fairchild testified he observed pupils delivering the election printed matter to voters both inside and outside of the schoolhouse. Mrs. Benita Vaughn Harman, Judge of Elections at Washington Avenue School, testified she did not observe any pupils distributing election material either inside or outside of the schoolhouse. Mrs. Harman was at the Washington Avenue School polling place from 2:00 p.m. until after the polls closed at 9:00 p.m.

On March 21, 1995, Richard McAvaddy arrived at the Board's North Main Street School to cast his vote. He was approached by Dr. Edna Hunter, principal of North Main Street School, and offered a ticket stub. Mr. McAvaddy testified that the ticket was for a turkey raffle. Dr. Hunter testified that the ticket stub was for a contest to determine which class in the school could encourage the most voters to participate in the Board's special election. The ticket stub was to indicate the name and address of the voter together with the name of the pupil who encouraged the voter to cast his/her vote.

Mr. Robert Cornett testified that he acted as a challenger for Mr. Frank LaRosa at the Washington Avenue School. Board Secretary/Business Administrator Dingler testified that Mr. Cornett was not appointed as a challenger, pursuant to the statute. Therefore, Dingler was neither requested to issue, nor did he issue, Cornett a certificate of appointment as a challenger.

Election buttons which stated, "Parents for Pleasantville Progress - Vote Yes" (p-4), were worn at the Washington Avenue School polling place by two individuals during the election. One voter refused to remove the election button when requested to do so. The other voter covered over the button and proceeded to register, vote and leave the polling place. There was no evidence produced to demonstrate that Washington Avenue School faculty members wore such badges in the polling place during the election.

An individual who appeared at the Leeds Avenue School was denied the opportunity to vote because the individual's name did not appear in the signature copy register. The voter left the polling place and subsequently returned with the principal of the Leeds Avenue School who discussed the matter with the poll workers. The individual was allowed to vote by executing an affidavit.

The names of several individuals did not appear in the voter signature copy register. Mr. Frank LaRosa observed that these individuals were permitted to vote by executing voter affidavits at the Washington Avenue and Leeds Avenue Schools. (p-8).

Printed election material produced by the Board was sent to the homes of the electorate through the United States Postal Service (p-5). The election material arrived too late for Ms. Edna Cole to attend public meetings held by the Board's Superintendent to provide information regarding the proposed construction project which was the subject of the bond referendum. Complainants allege that this late notice constitutes an election irregularity.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

The printed election material which complainants allege was distributed by the pupils of Washington Avenue School is strictly prohibited by statute and the Board's own policy (p-6). The statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:42-4, states that:

No literature which in any manner and in any part thereof promotes, favors or opposes the candidacy of any candidate for election at any annual school election, or the adoption of any bond issue, proposal, or any public question submitted at any general, municipal or school election shall be given to any public school election shall be given to any public school pupil in any public school building or on the grounds thereof for the purpose of having such pupil take the same to his home or distribute it to any person outside of said building or grounds, nor shall any pupil be requested or directed by an official or employee of the public schools to engage in any activity which tends to promote, favor or oppose any such candidacy, bond issue, proposal, or public question. The board of education of each school district shall prescribe necessary rules to carry out the purposes of this section.

Complainants produced evidence that an unauthorized election brochure had been prepared and distributed by pupils at the Washington Avenue School polling place. (p-3) The Commissioner has admonished local boards of education which have permitted such activity in the past. In the Matter of the Annual School Election Held in the School District of the Town of Nutley, Essex County, 1976 S.L.D. 612, 614, the Commissioner "... cautions this Board that anything less than strict compliance with the statutory requirements cannot be tolerated."

The herein Board is also cautioned that it allowed an unidentified or unnamed individual to solicit the use of pupils enrolled at Washington Avenue School to distribute illegal election printed matter which violates N.J.S.A. 18A:14-97. This statute provides that:

No person shall print, copy, publish, exhibit, distribute or pay for printing, copying, publishing, exhibiting or distribution or cause to be distributed in any manner or by any means, any circular, handbill, card, pamphlet, statement, advertisement or other printed matter having reference to any election or to any candidate or to the adoption or rejection of any public question at any annual or special school election unless such circular, handbill, card, pamphlet, statement, advertisement or other printed matter shall bear upon its face a statement of the name and address of the person or persons causing the same to be printed, copied or published or of the name and address of the person or persons by whom the cost of the printing, copying or publishing thereof has been or is to be defrayed and of the name and address of the person or persons by whom the same is printed, copied or published.

The printed election material did not include the statutorily required statement of the name and address of the person or persons which caused the brochures to be printed, copied or published. Nor did it contain the name and address of the person or persons who bore the cost of the brochures. The penalty for such an offense is set forth at N.J.S.A. 18A: 14-104, and provides that the offender "... shall be a disorderly person and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $500 or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both."

I CONCLUDE that complainants presented sufficient credible evidence to demonstrate that the Board was in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:42-4, by allowing an unnamed or unidentified individual to place election printed material into the hands of pupils at its Washington Avenue School for distribution. It is not known to what extent the distribution of the literature occurred on March 21, 1995. The evidence is sufficient to show that some distribution by pupils occurred. To repeat the Commissioner's words here that "... anything less than strict compliance with the statutory requirements cannot be tolerated." IMO Annual School Election Held in the School District of the Town of Nutley, supra. at 614.

I FURTHER CONCLUDE that the distribution of the election material by the unknown or unnamed person was in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:14-97.

The Board's approved printed material (p-5), while technically in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:14-97, does pass statutory muster. It provides a return address which identifies the publisher as the Pleasantville Public Schools. Our Supreme Court held in Citizens to Protect Public funds, et al. v. Board of Education of the Township of Parsippany-Troy Hills, 172 N.J. 173, 179 (1953) that boards of education have implied powers to make reasonable expenditures for the purpose of giving voters relevant facts to aid them in reaching an informed judgment when voting on school bond election proposals. That was the intent of the herein Board when it mailed p-5 to its constituents. It is regrettable that the information did not reach all of those who wished to appear at one of the five town meetings at which the Superintendent provided information about the proposed construction. The Board would be well advised to comport with N.J.S.A. 18A:14-97 in the future and include all of the indicia required. I CONCLUDE, therefore, that there was no violation of the election laws with respect to the Board's production of p-5.

Regarding the raffle or election contest conducted by the principal Edna Hunter at the North Main Street School, the Commissioner has held that the conduct of an unlicensed raffle is in violation of the school elections statutes, N.J.S.A. 18A:14-92 through -97. See, In the Matter of the Annual School Election Held in the School District of the Township of Madison, Middlesex County, 1974 S.L.D. 744. Dr. Hunter asserted she was concerned about the low turnout of voters in school elections and decided to engage the pupils in her school to encourage voters to come to the polls and cast their vote. She asserted that she developed a contest whereby the voters coming into the North Main Street School polling place were to place their name, address and the name of a pupil on a ticket offered to the voter by Dr. Hunter. The class of pupils which tallied the most voters would win the contest. Dr. Hunter admitted that she had not secured the permission of the Superintendent to carry on the contest in the polling place.

I CONCLUDE that a polling place located in a schoolhouse is reserved for the conduct of the elections and no other business during the hours advertised; i.e., 2:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. Dr.

Hunter's confrontation with prospective voters for the purpose of conducting a contest was inappropriate and ill advised, which may constitute interference with the election process.

The statute, at N.J.S.A. 18A:14-52, clearly provides for a voter to cast his/her vote by way of affidavit. The statute, in its entirety, is set forth below as follows:

In any school election, if the duplicate permanent registration form of any person cannot be found in the signature copy register at the time he applies for a ballot and such person claims that he was permanently registered in such municipality at least 40 days prior to such election or that he was permanently registered in another municipality within the same county and filed or forwarded a change of residence notice to the commissioner of registration of the county or the clerk of the municipality, if the municipality is not the one in which the county seat is located, certifying that he has moved to the municipality in which he seeks to vote at least 40 days prior to such election, one of the school election officers shall require such person to make and sign an affidavit, which may be taken by any school election officer, in the form which shall have been prescribed by the commissioner of education, which form shall include a statement that such person was permanently registered at least 40 days prior to such election in such municipality or in another municipality within the same county and filed or forwarded a change of residence notice to the commissioner of registration of the county or the clerk of the municipality, other than the municipal clerk of the municipality in which the county seat is located, certifying that the has moved to the municipality in which he seeks to vote at least 40 days prior to such election, and that such person has the qualifications required to vote at such election. If such form has been properly filled out by a school election officer and signed by such person, such person shall be eligible to receive a ballot. The number of the ballot shall be recorded on such form and the form shall be transmitted to the superintendent of schools of the county, in the sealed packet required by this title.

Complainants produced no evidence that the four voter affidavits (p-8) were in any manner irregular, false, fraudulent or inconsistent with the law. Thus, the voters exercised their franchise and voted by affidavit because their names did not appear on the signature register copy. I CONCLUDE, therefore, without a showing of any irregularity, the votes are held to be valid.

As the Court said in In re Wene, 26 N.J. Super. 363 (Law Div. 1958), aff'd 13 N.J. 185 (1953):

The rule in our State is firmly established that if any irregularity or any other deviation from the election law by the election officials is to be adjudged to have the effect of invalidating a vote or an election, where the statute does not so expressly provide there must be a connection between such irregularity and the result of the election; that is, the irregularity must be the producing cause of illegal votes which would not have been cast or of defeating legal votes which would have been counted, had the irregularity not taken place, and to an extent to challenge or change the result of the election; or it must be shown that the irregularity in some other way influenced the election so as to have repressed a full and free expression of the popular will. Nothing of this kind is even changed or suggested in the instant case. at 383

See also, Sharrock v. Keansburg, 15 N.J. Super. 11 (App. Div. 1951).

I CONCLUDE that there is nothing in the record to demonstrate, by clear and convincing evidence, that the irregularities set forth by complainants constitute sufficient reason to set aside the will of the electorate by vitiating the results of the election. The Commissioner has consistently declined to set aside contested school elections absent clear and convincing proof that the irregularities improperly affected the results of the election. I CONCLUDE that no such showing has been demonstrated here. Nutley, supra., In re Wene, supra.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the results of the Special Election held in the School District of the City of Pleasantville shall stand as reported and the herein Complaint is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE SPECIAL :
SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY : DECISION OF PLEASANTVILLE, ATLANTIC :
COUNTY. :
_____ :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Timely exceptions were filed by petitioner. No replies were permitted consistent with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-9.4 (accelerated proceedings).

In his exceptions, petitioner contends that the ALJ failed to include certain relevant portions of testimony in his summations; that he erred in concluding that the Board's literature was in substantial compliance with N.J.S.A. 18A:14-97 and 14-97.2, which require inclusion of names and addresses of persons/associations paying for election literature; that it is incorrect to say that no evidence was presented in support of petitioner's allegations regarding the irregularity and illegality of the four contested voter affidavits; and that the ALJ applied the wrong standard for the burden of proof in this matter, using "clear and convincing evidence" rather than "preponderance of the credible evidence." (Petitioner's Exceptions at pp. 1-3)

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that petitioner's exceptions do not alter the outcome of this matter. Initially, allegations regarding representation of testimony cannot be assessed in the absence of hearing transcripts, which have not been provided to the Commissioner herein. Further, N.J.S.A. 18A:14-97 et seq. can no longer be used as a basis for invalidating an election in light of the United States Supreme Court's ruling in McIntyre v. State of Ohio, 1995 W.L. 227810 (U.S.). Also, while it may not be precisely accurate to say that no evidence was brought forward regarding contested voter affidavits, the evidence presented in the record before the Commissioner was insufficient to warrant a finding of impropriety such that would rise to the level of invalidating the election. Finally, even applying the proper standard to the proofs herein, petitioner has not shown that improprieties found were sufficient to have altered the outcome of the election, consistent with the well established standard articulated by the court in In re Wene, supra.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein as amplified above, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is adopted as the final decision in this matter, which is hereby dismissed with prejudice.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
DECISION ON MOTION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions of the Board and response thereto by petitioner were timely filed pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

The Board's exceptions contend that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) in this matter issued an order granting petitioner emergent relief without considering those elements essential to the determination of such an application under Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), i.e., the existence of irreparable harm, probability of prevailing on the merits, and a balancing of the equities of the parties. Initially, the Board proffers that, although petitioner claims that absent bus transportation her child will suffer irreparable harm, she has not presented any evidence that the child would have no reasonable, alternative means of transportation or demonstrated any other rational basis which justifies emergency action herein. To the contrary, it argues that petitioner was advised that if she was unable to secure transportation arrangements for her child for the 95-96 school year, she should contact the P.T.O. which had offered to assist children experiencing similar difficulties. To date petitioner has chosen not to contact this organization.

The Board further contends there is no basis upon which it could be concluded that petitioner has a reasonable probability of prevailing on the merits in this matter. Petitioner essentially argues that she believes the denominated walkway is not only in excess of two miles, but also dangerous due to high-volume traffic. The Board advances that numerous cases support “the proposition that the Board is not responsible for the safe condition of the roadways and, furthermore, is under no affirmative duty to seek out the safest route.” (Board’s Exceptions at p. 2) Notwithstanding this existing legal proposition, the Board contends that the route it designated is, in fact, the safest route for petitioner’s child.

The Board urges, in view of the fact that in granting her emergent order in this matter the ALJ made none of the required determinations necessary for the granting of emergent relief and did not even hear arguments on these issues, and because it is also clear that petitioner has not met the criteria necessary for the granting of such relief, the Commissioner should reverse the ALJ’s order and deny petitioner’s application.

In reply, petitioner argues that the absence of specific determinations by the ALJ with respect to satisfaction of the Crowe standard should not be fatal to her emergent application as the existence of the necessary required elements was clearly evident from testimony adduced at the hearing.

Initially, petitioner argues that there is a substantial probability that she will prevail on the merits of this matter. As testified to at the hearing, the Board measured the distance of a walking route to school for her child on August 14, 1995 and September 8, 1995, and computed the distance on both occasions to be exactly 2 miles. She asserts that the Board is taking the position that the language of the relevant statute requires the distance from a child's home to school must be in excess of two miles before he has entitlement to school busing. As such, one additional inch added to the Board's measurement gives petitioner's child entitlement to busing under the statute. Petitioner asserts that, under the circumstances existing in this matter, it is clear she will establish the existence of the required inch. She argues

Petitioner having accompanied Respondent on the first measurement is aware, based upon her observations, that on the first measurement Respondent did not include the distance from the bottom step of the side door of her residence to the door itself. Since the measurement must be door to door, even if we utilize Respondent's computation, inclusion of the twenty-six inches from the bottom step to the residence door would result in Respondent's measurement being in excess of the requisite two miles.

Petitioner additionally contends that there is also an inherent problem with utilizing the measuring "wheel" in that this device is unable to include "the distances lost from the measurement each time the wheel goes up or down the curb." (Id.)

Petitioner posits that after testimony at the hearing adduced that the Board's second measurement found the distance from petitioner's home to the school to be two miles or in excess of two miles depending upon which route was utilized, and that petitioner's measurements of the route determined the actual distance to be in excess of 2 miles, there was no need for additional argument regarding petitioner's likelihood of success on the merits in this matter.

With respect to irreparable harm, petitioner asserts that private bus transportation for her child is no longer an available option for this school year and transportation by his parents would require the child to arrive at school an hour before it officially opened and would also necessitate him not being returned home until after 4 p.m. She contends that if the child were to be required to walk to school, he would be compelled to traverse a route which is dangerous and unsafe. She further maintains “that passing off Respondent’s obligation for busing to the P.T.O. for a car pool arrangement is not an acceptable alternative.” (Petitioner’s Reply Exceptions at p. 3)

Petitioner proffers that irreparable harm was also established at the hearing as “[d]uring the course of his arguments counsel for Respondent conceded that the road was dangerous and highly trafficked and was one of the two roads in town which the Board considered unsafe for children to traverse.” (Id.)

Upon review of the record of this matter, which it is noted included an audio tape of the hearing conducted at OAL, and consideration of the appropriate standard for grant of emergent relief as set forth in Crowe, supra, the Commissioner is compelled to reverse the ALJ’s grant of emergent relief in this matter.

The granting of emergent relief is an extraordinary remedy which may not be granted absent the establishment of immediate and irreparable harm and a demonstration that the applicant has a reasonable probability of ultimately succeeding on the merits of the case. In the instant matter, in addition to petitioner’s central factual premises being strenuously disputed by the Board and the law in this matter being far from settled, resulting in an inability at this juncture to make a reasoned determination as to which party is more likely to prevail on the merits of this matter, the Commissioner finds and determines that petitioner herein has not demonstrated irreparable harm. Although it is clear that petitioner finds alternative options for the transportation of her child to be inconvenient and burdensome, such inconvenience does not rise to the level of constituting irreparable harm. As such, the Commissioner cannot reasonably conclude that the equities in this matter favor petitioner and, therefore, finds no basis for compelling the Board to provide bus service to petitioner's child, thereby placing the Board in the position of having to exact payment for such service should it ultimately prevail in this matter.

The Commissioner does concur with the ALJ, however, that because this controversy could be concluded expeditiously with a measurement being conducted by the County Superintendent, as agreed to by the parties, such measurement should be rapidly completed.

Accordingly, the Commissioner reverses the recommended order of the ALJ granting emergent relief in this matter. The Commissioner further orders that, within two weeks of the date of this decision, the County Superintendent conduct a measurement of the distance from petitioner's residence to Fieldstone Middle School utilizing the agreed-upon route calculated by the Board on September 8, 1995. If the result of such measurement satisfies the statutory requirement entitling petitioner's child to busing by the Board, the parties are directed to take the necessary steps to withdraw this matter at the OAL. If, on the other hand, the measurement comes in at less than the required statutory distance for busing entitlement, this matter shall proceed to a hearing with respect to the safety issue as recommended by the ALJ in the tape recording of the September 13, 1995 hearing on emergent relief.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This consolidated matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on June 16, 1995, through the filing of separate Petitions of Appeal by the Board of Education of the Borough of Fairview (Board), one seeking restoration of reductions to the school budget made by the Mayor and Council of the Borough of Fairview (Council) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 following defeat of the budget at the annual school election on April 18, 1995, and the other seeking to appeal the defeat of the Board's cap waiver proposal at that same election.

In February 1995, the Board had advised the County Superintendent that the Board would need a "voter cap waiver" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-28(f) in order to be able to provide for a thorough and efficient education (T&E) in the District. The County Superintendent ultimately determined, by way of letter dated March 27, 1995, that $1,042,859 of the Board's voter cap waiver was necessary for T&E, and therefore appealable in the event of voter defeat, but the remaining $172,000 was not.

At the annual school election, the voters rejected a public question proposing a General Fund tax levy of $7,611,055 for the 1995-96 school year, as well as a proposed cap waiver question of $1,214,859 representing the total of both T&E and non-T&E amounts. Following consultation with the Board as required by law, the Council adopted a resolution determining to certify a General Fund tax levy of $7,144,285 as sufficient to provide for a T&E in the District. This amount represented a reduction of $466,770 from the tax levy proposed by the Board, and was effectuated through cuts in nine line items, for the reasons given in Exhibit A attached to the implementing Council resolution. The Board duly resolved to appeal these reductions and the voter rejection of the T&E portion of the General Fund cap waiver in the amount of $1,042,859, and duly filed the within petition.

The Board filed a petition on June 16, 1995, requesting the Commissioner to overturn the Council's action in failing to provide the necessary tax levy; the Council filed its answer on July 12, 1995. A petition contesting the cap waiver defeat was also filed on June 16, 1995. No answer to this petition was filed by the Council, and the appeal was deemed uncontested consistent with the Council's July 11, 1995 letter to the Commissioner.

On July 21, 1995, the Board filed a Position Statement pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8. Neither a position statement nor a response to the Board's statement was filed by the Council.

On August 3, 1995, the Bergen County Superintendent of Schools filed his affidavit and supporting documents attesting to the process of review and analysis that led to his conclusion, and that of the Department of Education's Cap Waiver Review panel, that a $1,042,859 "T&E voter cap waiver" should be granted to the Board so as to permit it to increase its General Fund budget beyond the established permissible level. The County Superintendent's filings also reflected a panel directed reallocation of resources in the amount of $50,000 from anticipated miscellaneous revenues and $25,000 from general administration.

In addition, as the parties had previously been advised by letter from the Assistant Commissioner dated April 7, 1995 and distributed through the County Superintendent to boards and municipalities experiencing budget defeats, as part of the record of the within appeal, the Commissioner took official notice of the Board's revised budget and its June 30 financial report, the latter for the purpose of identifying whether the Board underestimated in its 1995-96 budget the amount of anticipated undesignated surplus.

During the course of review of the record, it was determined that additional documentation was required in order for the Commissioner to complete his review. Accordingly, by letter dated, September 8, 1995, the parties were notified that the following items were required to be submitted by the Board: 1) analyses of the activities in tuition account numbers 11-000-100-561, 11-000-100-562 and 11-000-100-565; 2) Letters of confirmation from the receiving districts regarding actual payments made during 1994-95 by Fairview, and tuition adjustments issued related to 1992-93 certified tuition rates, which under code are required to be made in 1995-96, whether paid (including date and amount of payments) or unpaid; and 3) Copies of existing special education tuition contracts for the 1995-96 school year and justification from Fairview for any budgeted appropriations in excess of the contracted amounts. Documents were timely filed on September 18, 1995, as was the Council's reply. At this time, the matter was consolidated and the record of the appeal was closed.

The amounts in dispute in this appeal are as follows:

Tax Levy Proposed by Board		Tax Levy Certified by the Council
General Fund	$7,611,055	General Fund	$7,144,285
Amount of Reduction by Council		Amount of Reduction in Dispute
General Fund	$466,770	General Fund	$466,196 ¹
Amount of Cap Waiver Approved as T&E and Appealed Herein		Amount of Cap Waiver Not Approved as T&E and Not Appealed Herein
	$1,042,859		$172,000

TOTAL AMOUNT ON APPEAL: $1,509,055

The cap waiver requested by the Board included the following line items, which were determined by the County Superintendent to be necessary, or not necessary, for T&E as set forth below:

Necessary for T&E

Account Title	Account Number	Dollar Amount
Tuition to Other LEA's within the State-Regular	11-000-100-561	$1,042,859

Not Necessary for T&E

Operation and Maintenance/Salaries	11-000-260-100	$24,000
Cleaning, Repair and Maintenance	11-000-260-420	25,000
Student Transportation/Contract Services-Vendors	11-000-270-511	123,000
	TOTAL	$172,000

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line-item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education. Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989). Additionally, with respect to appeals involving cap waivers, before the Commissioner can direct restoration of any amount of a waiver defeated by the voters, the Commissioner must determine that such amount is fully necessary for purposes of T&E and unable to be derived from further reallocation within the base budget. Board of Education of the Borough of Rutherford v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Rutherford, Bergen County, State Board decision July 7, 1993, and Board of Education of the Borough of Edgewater v.

Mayor and Council of the Borough of Edgewater, Bergen County and In the Matter of the Cap Waiver Appeal of the Board of Education of the Borough of Edgewater, Bergen County, State Board decision July 6, 1994.

Mindful, then, of the standard to be applied, the Commissioner makes the specific determinations set forth below.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION - BUDGET

Disputed Line-Item Number 1

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
2530	11-130-100-101	Grades 6-8/Teacher Salaries	$702,660	$50,325

The Board argues that the Council's reduction of this line item is short-sighted and that the Board's projections for this and account numbers 11-110-100-101 (Preschool/Kindergarten Teacher Salaries) and 11-120-100-101 (Grades 1-5 Teacher Salaries) take into account years of service, the 1995 salary guide (exclusive of contract raise) and a 2% contract raise. The Board further contends that the Council's reduction does not take into account salaries of those teachers whose teaching assignments cut across all grade levels, including salaries for home economics, music, art, and computer teachers.

The Council asserts that its reduction is based upon the full salary requirements, increased by 4% for salary settlements. It maintains that this method is consistent with salary increases that have been received by surrounding school districts.

Upon review, the Commissioner notes that, according to the Board's calculations in its supporting documents, its salary needs for teachers in account numbers 11-130-100-101 (Grades 6-8), 11-110-100-101 (Preschool/Kindergarten) and 11-120-100-101 (Grades 1-5) total $1,781,868, and it has appropriated $1,760,778. Additionally, the Commissioner notes that the Council does not propose elimination of positions and that expenditures in these categories totaled $1,610,587, as indicated in its June 30, 1995 report. Inasmuch as the Council provides no compelling reason to accept its calculations over the Board's and does not provide sufficient detail to determine the basis for its reduction, the Commissioner determines to restore the reduction of $50,325.

Disputed Line-Item Number 2

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
3080	11-205-100-101	Salaries of Teachers/ Perceptually Impaired	$134,755	$2,545

The Board argues that, although it originally projected a need of $134,755 for this account, based on the 1995-96 salary guide increase and a 2% contract raise, as set forth in the Board's Exhibit "E", the projected total salaries for the three teachers in this category will be $137,674, or $3,000 more than originally budgeted. The Board further argues that the Council has not refuted any of the facts or salary requirements as set forth in supporting documents, that its proposed reduction is impractical and does not reflect reality.

The Council contends that the reduction is based on the actual salary requirements, increased by 4% of salary settlements. It further argues that this method of calculation is consistent with salary increases that have been received by surrounding school districts.

Upon review, the Commissioner notes that the Board's projected salary needs in this category, as evidenced by supporting documents, are $137,674, which is more than the Board has budgeted. Inasmuch as the Council does not provide sufficient detail enabling the Commissioner to accept alternative calculations, he determines to restore the reduction of $2,545.

3860	11-213-100-101	Salaries of Teachers/ Resource Room	$192,900	$4,682

The Board asserts that it has budgeted for six resource room teachers required by the District, together with salaries, including adjustments for the 1995-96 salary guide and a 2% contract increase. The Board claims that the Council's reductions to this account are arbitrary, and not based on the hard facts.

The Council again contends that its reduction is based upon the salary requirements, increased by 4% for salary settlements, and that such calculation is consistent with salary increases that have been received by the surrounding school districts.

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that, according to the Board's calculations in its supporting documents, the projected need for teacher salaries in this category is $189,720 for 1995-96, and it has budgeted for $192,900. Additionally, the Council does not provide sufficient detail which would permit the Commissioner to accept alternative calculations. Therefore, the Commissioner determines to sustain $3,180 of the Council's reduction, and restore $1,502, thus, permitting the District to meet its salary need, as projected.

4310	11-218-100-101	Salaries of Teacher/Speech Instruction	$33,300	$644

The Board originally budgeted $33,300 for this account, to cover costs for one position, but asserts that its projected need will now be $43,289, for one full-time and one part-time salary. The Board argues that the Council's reduction to this account would render it unable to fund the needed part-time speech therapist position.

The Council again contends that its reduction is based upon actual salary requirements, increased by 4% for salary settlements, and that such calculation is consistent with salary increases that have been received by the surrounding districts.

Upon review, the Commissioner determines to restore the reduction of $644, as the Council has not disputed the need for this position and offers no support for its calculations.

Disputed Line-Item Number 5

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
6270	11-000-100-561	Tuition/Other LEAs Within State-Regular	$1,846,880	$170,000

The Board states that its estimate of $1,846,880 is based upon tuition for 340 students at $8,500 each for the 1995-96 year at the Cliffside Park High School. Inasmuch as the Council's reduction was based upon an anticipated tuition credit, the Board concedes that its budgeted figure does not account for an expected refund of $269,804 for the 1992-93 school year in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:20-3.1(e)3.

The Council argues that the actual tuition credit for the 1994-95 [sic] school year was $798 per student, for a total of $269,804, rendering the $170,000 cut a reasonable reduction.

Upon careful review, the Commissioner notes the following history of appropriations and expenditures in this category: 1993-94 expenditures totaled $2,419,944; 1994-95 appropriations totaled $2,873,000 and expenditures, as indicated on the June 30, 1995 report, totaled $2,463,796. Additionally, the Commissioner recognizes that the proposed funds in this account are being combined with those requested through T&E voter waiver. While the district argues these funds will be necessary for tuition for 340 students at Cliffside High School (340 x $8,500 = $2,890,000), its concession as to the anticipated refund of $269,804 is significant. The Commissioner, therefore, determines to sustain the reduction of $170,000 in this line item and to reduce the cap waiver request, infra, by the balance remaining of the anticipated tuition refund.

6280	11-000-100-562	Tuition/Other LEAs Within State-Special	$592,140	$160,000

The Board argues that although the Council asserts its reduction is based on an accounting error, it has failed to indicate what the error is, or where it specifically appears in the budget. Consequently, it argues that it cannot adequately refute the Council’s reduction without additional information.

The Council states that its “reduction is based upon an accounting error for the Cliffside Park Resource Room Tuition which appears to have been included twice on the District’s detailed budget workpapers.” (Council’s Answer at p. 7)

Upon review, the Commissioner again highlights the Board’s history of appropriations and expenditures in this category: In 1993-94, expenditures totaled $384,923; in 1994-95, the Board appropriated $366,000, but actually expended, according to the June 30, 1995 financial report, $563,368. For the 1995-96 school year, the Board, by its supporting documents, evidences a need for an even larger amount. The Commissioner recognizes that the Council provides insufficient detail on which to evaluate its decision to reduce this account, and that the Board has demonstrated its need for the disputed funds. Consequently, the Commissioner determines to restore the reduction of $160,000.

6310	11-000-100-565	Tuition to CSSD and Regional Day Schools	$239,800	$72,000

The Board argues² that $236,860 needed for this account is necessary to cover costs for 16 emotionally and perceptually impaired, trainable mentally retarded, and multiply handicapped students. The Board alleges that a reduction in this account would severely impact them, inasmuch as the numbers are “immutable,” having been previously determined by the Bergen County Board of Social Services. (Board’s Petition at p. 5)

The Council again asserts that the reduction is based on an accounting error for County Special Services Commission (CSSC) tuition, as it appears to have been included twice in the Board’s detailed budget workpapers.

Upon careful review, the Commissioner reflects on recent appropriations and expenditures and notes: In 1993-94, the Board expended $162,375 in this category; in 1994-95, the District appropriated $165,000 and expended, according to its June 30, 1995 financial report, $165,893. The Commissioner further finds that the Board provides no documentation to support its claim regarding these expenditures as being fixed by the Bergen County Board of Social ² The Board’s Position Statement does not include an argument against the reductions for this account. Inasmuch as the Petition of Appeal included such an argument and there is no indication that the Board has withdrawn its appeal of this line-item reduction, the Commissioner assumes the omission is an oversight and reviews the Board’s argument as presented in its Petition.

Services. Accordingly, the Commissioner sustains the reduction of $72,000, as it will bring the appropriation to a level more consistent with actual expenditures.

6960	11-000-230-590	Undistributed Expenditures Other Purchased Services	$79,050	$6,000

The Board asserts that the increase in this line item from last year's budget includes expenditures for liability insurance for two new pieces of property acquired by the Board this year. The Board maintains that these expenses are reasonable.

The Council argues that the reduction is based upon the Board's increase for superintendent's expenses from $10,000 for the 1994-95 school year to $18,000 for the 1995-96 school year.

Upon careful review, the Commissioner notes that expenditures in this account totaled $68,475 in 1993-94, and $65,124 in 1994-95, according to the June 30, 1995 financial report. Thus, the Commissioner finds that the Council's reduction is in accordance with recent expenditures for this budget category, and further observes that the Board provides no documentation to support its claim regarding increased liability costs. Accordingly, the Commissioner determines to sustain the reduction of $6,000.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION - CAP WAIVER

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Dollar Amount
6270	11-000-100-561	Tuition to Other LEA's Within the State- Regular	$1,042,859

The Board argues that the cap waiver is necessary to provide for tuition, pursuant to a sending-receiving contract, for Fairview students to attend Cliffside Park in the 1995-96 school year. Specifically, as shown in supporting documents, tuition for those students is $8,500 each for 340 students, totaling $2,890,000. The balance of the funds needed for tuition are appropriated in the general fund budget.

In accordance with the Commissioner's determination as to account number 11-000-100-561, Tuition-Other LEAs - Within State-Regular, supra, $943,055 of the cap waiver is approved and $99,804 is denied, based on the Board's concession to its anticipated tuition refund.

APPLICATION OF SURPLUS

In its advertised annual school district budget statement, the Board projected an unreserved surplus of $169,950 and allocated $0 as revenue, leaving $169,950 as undesignated unreserved surplus.

The Board's annual financial report filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-10 (June 30 Board secretary's report) reveals that the unreserved general fund balance was overestimated by $23,972, as the 1994-95 budget will generate an actual use of surplus in that amount for the 1994-95 school year.

Based on the above, the Commissioner determines that no excess surplus is available for appropriation, subject to verification through the Board's 1994-95 annual year-end audit report.

SUMMARY

In summary, the Commissioner directs restoration or sustaining of the Council's line-item reductions to appropriations and approval of cap waiver amounts as set forth below. The Commissioner further notes that all restorations to line-item appropriations are restricted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.11(b)3.

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, October 5, 1995

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Oury & Mizdol (Dennis J. Oury, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Giblin & Giblin (John L. Schettino, Esq., of Counsel)

This appeal results from a decision of the Commissioner of Education following voter rejection of the education budget proposed by the Board of Education of the Borough of Fairview (hereinafter "Board") for the 1995-96 school year and defeat of a proposal made pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-28(f) to exceed the District's maximum permissible budget. After the Council of the Borough of Fairview (hereinafter "Council") made its reductions to the proposed budget pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37, the Board appealed to the Commissioner seeking restoration of those amounts, as well as those items which it had intended to fund through the proposal it had made pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-28(f).

In his decision of October 5, 1995, the Commissioner determined that it was necessary to direct the Bergen County Board of Taxation to increase the tax levy for General Fund purposes for 1995-96 from $7,144,285, which the Council had certified to be sufficient, to $8,302,356 in order to enable the District to provide a thorough and efficient education to its students. In arriving at this decision, the Commissioner directed restoration of specific line items which had been subject to reduction by the Council as well as items that had been included in the Board's proposal under N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-28(f). Based on his review, he however concluded that the District did not have any excess free balance available for appropriation so as to fund such restorations through further reallocation of surplus. Accordingly, he determined to make no further reallocations at that point, but made this determination subject to verification of the District's surplus through the Board's 1994-95 annual year-end audit report.

By letter of December 7, 1995, the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes notified the parties that the Commissioner was providing them with the opportunity to be heard on the question of whether the allocation of surplus set forth in his October 5 decision should be altered because of a discrepancy between the June 30 report and the audit filed with the Department of Education in November 1995.

On February 2, 1996, the Commissioner made his final determination with respect to whether alteration of the allocation of surplus established by his October 5 decision was warranted. As embodied in the Commissioner's letter decision, after providing an opportunity for the parties to be heard on the issue, the Commissioner determined that the discrepancy was not significant and sustained the allocation he had made in his earlier decision.

After the Legal Committee reviewed the notice of appeal which the Board filed on January 2, 1996, the Board was advised by letter of February 28, 1996, that although premature, its notice had been sufficient to preserve its rights and had been deemed to constitute adequate and timely notice of appeal from the Commissioner's determination of the allocation of surplus as set forth in his decisions of October 5, 1995 and February 2, 1996. The Board was also advised that its appeal was limited to those issues relating to that determination.¹

On March 4, 1996, the Board filed its appeal brief and, on April 10, the Council filed a response.

We again stress that the appeal now before us is limited to the question of whether the allocation of surplus established by the Commissioner was proper. Hence, although the Board has gone beyond the scope of this question in its brief, we have limited our consideration to that question alone. After reviewing the arguments of counsel and the record in this matter, we find that the Board has not shown that the allocation of surplus should be changed. Although the Board contends that it was left without sufficient funds, it has failed to demonstrate that it was unable to provide a thorough and efficient education unless the allocation of surplus for 1995-96 was changed. Therefore, the State Board of Education dismisses the appeal in this matter.

¹ We note that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28, notice of appeal to the State Board must be filed within thirty days of the filing date of the decision being appealed. Hence, any appeal from the Commissioner's decision of October 5 had to be filed by November 7, 1995. As indicated, the Board did not file any appeal by that date. However, because the Commissioner expressly made his determination of the allocation of surplus subject to verification, his final determination of this issue was not made until February 2, 1996, and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28 did not foreclose the Board from appealing that limited issue.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners, parents or custodians of students involved in altercation at Lakewood High School, sought reversal of determination of NJSIAA's Eligibility Appeals Committee (EAC) rendering students ineligible for participation in interscholastic athletic events following transfers to other schools. NJSIAA decision was based on the finding that the students transferred for "athletic advantage" specifically as a "means to nullify punitive action by the previous school," violating Article V, Section 4K(6)(D) of the NJSIAA Bylaws.

Upon review of the record, including transcripts submitted, the Commissioner found that the NJSIAA's determination was not arbitrary, capricious or otherwise improper. Commissioner found each petitioner was afforded due process and the EAC made its decision to deny students eligibility to play interscholastic sports with full knowledge of their particular educational circumstances, concluding instead that the students had transferred to avoid discipline by Lakewood. Commissioner adopted findings and conclusions of the EAC as his own and dismissed Petition of Appeal.

NEW JERSEY STATE INTERSCHOLASTIC : ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION, :

RESPONDENT. :

For Petitioners, Christopher J. LaMonica, Esq. (Wilbert & Montenegro)

For Respondent, Steven P. Goodell, Esq., (Pico, Herbert & Kennedy)

This matter has come before the Commissioner of Education by way of Petition of Appeal and Motion for Emergent Relief filed by F.T. and L.T., P.W. and A.F., on behalf of minor students, (Petitioners), on September 22, 1995, seeking reversal of a determination of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) rendering the students ineligible for participation in interscholastic athletic events. The NJSIAA decision was based on a finding that petitioners violated Article V, Section 4K(6)(d) of the NJSIAA Bylaws in transferring from Lakewood High School for "athletic advantage," as "a means to nullify punitive action by the previous school." (NJSIAA 1994-95 Handbook at p. 46) The order of ineligibility was issued on September 14, 1995 by the NJSIAA Eligibility Appeals Committee (EAC) following a hearing on September 11, 1995.

Upon receipt of an Answer and response to the Motion for Emergent Relief, duly filed by NJSIAA on September 27, 1995, the Acting Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes notified counsel that, upon review of these submissions, the Motion for Emergent Relief and the merits of the Petition of Appeal would be decided simultaneously on the papers on an accelerated basis.¹

Upon careful consideration of the briefs of counsel, the record and transcript of NJSIAA proceedings, and the Commissioner's established standard of review in NJSIAA matters, the Commissioner determines that the NJSIAA's decision to deny the eligibility appeal reflects a reasonable interpretation of NJSIAA's Bylaws and, accordingly, may not be upset by the Commissioner in the absence of petitioners having met their burden of establishing otherwise.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

On March 22, 1995, a fight erupted in the Lakewood High School cafeteria. A student and a teacher were injured. Petitioners were admittedly involved in the fight. The Lakewood administration reacted by immediately suspending those students who were identified as being part of the fight. The Board of Education, on March 27, 1995, extended the suspensions pending a hearing to determine whether the students should be expelled. Before the District scheduled expulsion hearings, however, each of the athletes transferred out of the Lakewood School District. E.C. withdrew from Lakewood on April 25, 1995, and entered Toms River South the following day. V.T. left Lakewood on May 4, 1995, and enrolled in Toms River North shortly thereafter. I.W. withdrew from Lakewood High School on April 11, 1995, and also transferred to Toms River North. These students were all starters on Lakewood's football team-- one the starting quarterback, one the starting tailback, and the third a potential all-state tackle.

Lakewood, Toms River North, and Toms Rivers South are all members of the NJSIAA. Pursuant to NJSIAA guidelines, following these transfers, the Lakewood principal was required to sign "transfer waiver forms," which certified that the transferring students did not transfer to their respective new schools for athletic advantage. The principal refused to sign the waiver forms. Shortly thereafter, Lakewood brought this matter before the NJSIAA, alleging that petitioners should be ineligible to participate in interscholastic athletics as the transfers were in violation of NJSIAA Bylaws.

APPLICABLE LAW

The NJSIAA is a voluntary association. The Commissioner's scope of review in NJSIAA determinations is an appellate one. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3; Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 182, 188. The Commissioner may not overturn an action by NJSIAA in applying eligibility rules absent a finding that NJSIAA applied the rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. B.C. v. Cumberland Reg. Sch. Dist., 220 N.J. Super. 214, 231-232 (App. Div. 1987). Further, the burden of proof that an action was so deficient rests with the person challenging the decision. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 297 (App. Div. 1960). In such cases, the Commissioner may not substitute his judgment for that of the NJSIAA, even when he might judge otherwise in a de novo review. Dam Jin Koh and Hong Jun Kim v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 259.

ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES

Initially, petitioners assert that the action by NJSIAA was arbitrary, capricious and not based on sufficient credible evidence, and that petitioners did not leave Lakewood to avoid punitive action but only to seek the education guaranteed to all New Jersey children under the New Jersey Constitution. They further allege that the students were not receiving proper home tutoring from the Lakewood school district while under suspension and that, therefore, they should not be penalized for their decision to pursue educational alternatives by transferring to other high schools. (Petition at p. 3)

Further, petitioners allege that the NJSIAA hearing was tainted by conflict of interest, admission of improper written and testimonial evidence, and other jurisdictional, procedural and substantive due process defects that render the EAC determination void and of no force and effect. (Petition at p. 7)

In their filings, petitioners specifically assert that Lakewood was not an NJSIAA member when the fight giving rise to their suspension took place, and, therefore, was not subject to NJSIAA rules. Petitioners further aver that Richard Kane, chairperson of the EAC, should not have participated in the eligibility hearing as he had a conflict of interest because he is also the Athletic Director of Manalapan High School, a rival of Toms River North. (Petition at p. 7) Petitioners allege that NJSIAA ignored evidence that allegations were initially made by Lakewood of improper recruitment by Toms River North and South, but then later withdrawn. This, petitioners aver, reveals that, “Lakewood’s sole purpose for this objection was an attempt to retain the students at Lakewood for purposes of their participation in various Lakewood athletic programs, more specifically, football and basketball.” (Id. at p. 6). Petitioners further contend that NJSIAA delayed the commencement of the EAC eligibility hearing in a manner that unfairly prejudiced students, in that the scheduled date was two weeks prior to NJSIAA football season in New Jersey. Further, they aver no reasons were given to explain the failure to conduct an eligibility hearing in August of 1995, which would have afforded the students a reasonable opportunity to appeal any adverse ruling, characterizing it as “insensitive and unfair scheduling.” (Petition at p. 11) Lastly, petitioners argue that there were procedural and substantive due process errors, including NJSIAA’s failure to notify directly the parents and/or guardians concerning the nature and scope of the eligibility hearing. In their application for emergent relief, petitioners also allege that irreparable harm will result from this decision because they will be unable to display their athletic ability to college recruiters, unless they are permitted to play football this season, thus, denying them their only opportunity to earn a scholarship to attend college.

In its responsive papers, NJSIAA asserts that its EAC did not act in an arbitrary or capricious manner, that petitioners were provided full and complete due process and that there is an adequate basis for the NJSIAA decision. NJSIAA points out that petitioners notably did not object to any of the evidence presented during proceedings before it. (NJSIAA Answer at Letter Brief p. 10) NJSIAA further argues that its decision is based on sound policy, in that the student athletes, each of whom was suspended and faced expulsion because of his role in a serious fight, seek to have the Commissioner order the NJSIAA to allow them to play football for new schools. “If successful, these students would return to Lakewood, not as students who have satisfied their discipline, but as football players for the opposing team. Neither the law nor sound educational policy permit this.” (NJSIAA’s Answer at Letter Brief, p. 2).

In response to the arguments raised by petitioners’ counsel above, NJSIAA rejects each count as without merit. With respect to the argument that Lakewood was not a member school at the time of the fight which gave use to the suspension, NJSIAA argues that Lakewood paid its dues in August 1, 1994 to NJSIAA for the upcoming school year and that it participated in interscholastic competition throughout the school year. It contends that the mere fact that the Board's resolution to follow its guidelines was formally adopted after the fight underlying the within matter was a technicality not rising to the level of rendering Lakewood a non-member. Further, NJSIAA contends that it does not matter whether students transfer between NJSIAA member schools or from a non-member school to a member school; as long as the transfer was for athletic advantage, the student is ineligible to participate in sports at the new school. (NJSIAA's Answer at Letter Brief, p. 11)

With respect to petitioners' contention that a conflict of interest existed in the eligibility hearing by the participation of Richard Kane, NJSIAA argues that Mr. Kane, as Chairperson of the EAC did not vote at the hearing. Further, he clearly identified himself and his position at the start of each petitioner's hearing, and neither the attorney representing Toms River, nor the attorney representing petitioners objected. (Id. at p. 12) As such, NJSIAA argues, no conflict can be found to exist by the Commissioner and, further, a claim that a conflict automatically results because two teams play football against each other is without legal support.

NJSIAA also states that petitioners never requested an earlier hearing and that eligibility hearings are often scheduled in September so that schools can know who has enrolled or tried out for the team. (Id. at p. 14) Further, NJSIAA contends that notification was sent out on July 20 and July 25, 1995 to the member schools, but that NJSIAA is not required to notify individual students or parents under NJSIAA Bylaws. Additionally, NJSIAA avers the transcript reveals that each party was given ample time and opportunity to present his case at the hearing and, further, that none of the attorneys or witnesses objected that the time period was insufficient or otherwise inappropriate. Lastly, NJSIAA argues that it was not required to release minutes from its Executive Session, as it is not a governmental entity subject to the Open Public Meetings Act and, thus, is permitted to deliberate in private. (Id. at p. 15)

NJSIAA finally argues that petitioners' claim that they withdrew from Lakewood for reasons unrelated to that school's punitive action was simply a pretext, in that petitioners' transfers relate directly to the suspensions imposed by Lakewood High School since they left while on suspension and facing possible expulsion from school. NJSIAA states that its transfer rule is intended to prevent an athlete from defying discipline imposed by one school for inappropriate conduct by simply moving to another school and continuing to participate in interscholastic sports. In justification of its rule, NJSIAA argues that public policy supporting discipline in our high schools would be severely undermined if offending students could simply move to another school with impunity and continue to participate in sports. (NJSIAA's Answer at p. 20)

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

Upon careful consideration of these arguments and review of the record and transcripts submitted, the Commissioner finds that the record herein is sufficient to establish that the NJSIAA's determination was not arbitrary, capricious or otherwise improper and that its findings were reasonably based on the testimony and evidence.

In so finding, the Commissioner notes that each of the petitioners received an individual, full hearing, was represented by counsel and presented witnesses. The Commissioner finds that petitioners were accorded full due process in that they were given ample opportunity to present their positions, object to procedural guidelines at the hearing and cross-examine witnesses. Consequently, the Commissioner rejects the contention that the hearing was tainted by conflict of interest, admission of improper written and testimonial evidence, and other jurisdictional, procedural and substantive due process defects, reiterating that counsel did not object to the procedures of the hearing at the time, as noted by NJSIAA and as evidenced in the transcripts.

The Commissioner further finds that the EAC made its decision to deny petitioners eligibility to play interscholastic sports with full knowledge of their particular educational circumstances and notes that each student had been referred to a child study team for evaluation, planning for housebound instruction had begun, and letters had been sent to parents concerning suspensions, possible expulsion and Child Study Team referral at the time the petitioners chose to leave Lakewood. The EAC reasonably determined that the credible testimony before it showed that each student transferred to avoid the results of the action taken by Lakewood after the fight. The Commissioner notes no deficiency in the NJSIAA's findings which would compel a reversal of its ultimate determination.

The fact that Lakewood had not adopted its resolution to adhere to NJSIAA rules until after the fight is not significant since it is clear that Toms River North and South were member schools and, as such, those schools are required to follow NJSIAA guidelines. Additionally, the Commissioner is not persuaded that a conflict of interest existed in that the Chairperson of the EAC, Richard Kane, did not cast a vote on the outcome and in that he disclosed his employment with Manalapan High School to the parties at the outset of each hearing and this was not objected to by counsel.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth herein, the Commissioner finds that petitioners have failed to demonstrate by substantial credible evidence that the determination by NJSIAA was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Thus, the Commissioner adopts as his own the findings and conclusions of the NJSIAA in this matter and dismisses the Petition of Appeal, with prejudice. Having so determined this matter on the merits, the Commissioner does not reach to the Motion for Emergent Relief.

IS SO ORDERED.

BEFORE SEBASTIAN GAETA, JR., ALJ

This application for emergency relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6 was forwarded to the Office of Administrative Law on September 20, 1995. Pursuant to that request, a hearing was conducted on September 25, 1995.

Petitioner seeks to have his daughter enrolled at Lenape Valley Regional High School to complete her senior year. Respondent refuses to enroll petitioner's daughter because she is not domiciled within its school district.

It was determined that petitioner's residential premises are within the Township of Netcong, which is part of the respondent's school district, and the Township of Mount Olive, which is served by another school district. Although the mailing address is Netcong, the house in which the family resides is located in Mount Olive.

It is well settled that domicile of a child determines what school district is responsible for that child's public education. It is also clear that where premises extend over municipal boundaries it is the actual location of the residential structure which determines domicile for that purpose.

An application for emergent relief may only be granted to prevent irreparable harm and where it appears that the moving party, the petitioner, has a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits.

While it is understandable that petitioner's daughter wishes to return for her senior year at the same high school that she has attended for three years, she is only entitled to a public education by the school district serving the place of her domicile. There is no showing or contention that the Mount Olive school district has refused to provide her that education.

It further appears there is no reasonable probability that petitioner will achieve ultimate success on the merits.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the application for emergent relief be DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: July 10, 1995

Decided: August 17, 1995

BEFORE EDGAR R. HOLMES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The respondent New Jersey State Department of Education (DOE) charged the petitioner, Board of Education of Wildwood (W.W.) with the cost of the education of M.M., a minor child, for the 1993-94 school year. M.M. was placed at Bonnie Brae Residential Treatment Center by the Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS). The basis of the charge was that at the time of placement on November 23, 1992, M.M.'s mother resided in Wildwood, New Jersey. N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12 provides that the school district responsible for a child's education is the present district of residence of the parent or guardian. If this cannot be determined, then the responsible district is the district in which the child resided prior to placement. If the district of residence of the parent cannot be determined according to the following criteria or if the district of residence is outside the state, the State shall assume fiscal responsibility for the child's education. The criteria identifies the "present district of residence" as the residence of the parent as of the last school day prior to October 16. N.J.A.C. 6:20-5.3.

FACTS

On November 23, 1992, M.M. and her mother V.M., resided in Wildwood. It was on this date that M.M. was admitted to Bonnie Brae. W.W. did not dispute that it was fiscally responsible for M.M. during the 1992-93 school year. It only disputes the 1993-94 charge.

Glenn Daisey was the DYFS worker assigned to M.M.'s family which consisted of M.M., his brother, his mother and his mother's paramour, P.F.

Daisey last saw M.M.'s mother in November 1992, when she signed a consent to enroll M.M. in Bonnie Brae.

Thereafter, Daisey attempted to track M.M.'s mother by sending form letters to various institutions and agencies according to a protocol devised by DYFS. He was unsuccessful in locating her although he learned that M.M.'s brother was enrolled in school in Philadelphia and that M.M.'s mother lived at 2407 Carpenter Avenue in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, in December of 1992. He did not visit her there.

Daisey also learned in March, 1994, that M.M.'s brother was enrolled in a school in Millville, New Jersey for one week. He does not know when. He went to the address in Millville from which M.M.'s brother was registered, and the landlord told him that M.M.'s mother lived there in January of 1994.

Robert Douglas, a private detective, New Jersey License #4331, was employed by W.W. to track M.M.'s mother. He was able to track her through her paramour, P.F., whom he found to be on dialysis in Orlando, Florida.

Paul Lewis was P.F.'s landlord in Orlando, Florida. He testified telephonically that he remembered P.F., V.M. (M.M.'s mother) and the child who resided with them (M.M.'s sibling). He placed them at 1261 23rd Street, Orlando, Florida from June 1993 to September 1993 and at 1245 23rd Street, Orlando, Florida from September 1993 until August of 1994. Lewis actually dealt with M.M.'s mother rather than with P.F. His description of them; she was white; P.F. was black and on dialysis; and they were accompanied by a teen-aged boy; exactly matched the description given to Detective Douglas by Glenn Daisey and V.M.'s mother whom Douglas interviewed on several occasions. It is clear that M.M.'s mother was in Orlando, Florida at the relevant time. BOE of Atlantic City vs. NJ D.O.E., 92 N.J.A.R. 2d. (E.D.U.) 545 (1992).

I FIND and CONCLUDE that M.M.'s mother resided in Orlando, Florida on October 15, 1993.

I FURTHER CONCLUDE, that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(d) the State is the proper party to assume financial responsibility for M.M. during the 1993-94 school year and not the Board of Education of the City of Wildwood.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

 : DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT : OF EDUCATION, :
RESPONDENT. :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Exceptions were filed by respondent pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and 1:1-18.8.

Respondent asserts in its exceptions that the evidence in this case does not support the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. Specifically, respondent avers that Douglass/Lewis memorandum (P-1) does not establish where V.M. was living as of October 15, 1993, the critical date for assigning responsibility for payment of M.M.'s tuition for the 1993-94 school year, nor does his verbal testimony offer a credible basis for finding such fact. Thus, respondent argues, if V.M.'s residency as of October 15, 1993 cannot be definitively determined, then the Board, as the District of V.M.'s residency at the time M.M. was originally placed in Bonnie Brae, is the District responsible for M.M.'s educational costs for the 1993-94 school year. (Respondent's Exceptions at p. 3)

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner finds that, inasmuch as the determination of V.M.'s residency on October 15, 1993 is fundamental to the outcome of this matter, N.J.A.C. 6:20-5.3(a)1, the testimony of Paul Lewis is critical. However, the Commissioner further finds an apparent contradiction, not accounted for in the record, between Mr. Lewis' written comments, as entered into evidence, and his verbal testimony, as summarized by the ALJ. Absent reconciliation of these two forms of evidence, a determination regarding V.M.'s residence on October 15, 1993 cannot be made by the Commissioner, and responsibility for M.M.'s tuition cannot, therefore, be properly assigned.

Accordingly, this matter is hereby remanded to the Office of Administrative Law for additional fact-finding as is necessary to clarify the apparent discrepancy between Mr. Lewis' written and verbal testimony regarding the residency of V.M. on October 15, 1993.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
DECISION

Remanded by the Commissioner of Education, October 6, 1995
Decided by the Commissioner of Education, December 30, 1996
For the Petitioner-Appellant, Bruce M. Gorman, Esq., of Counsel
For the Respondent-Respondent, JoAnn Fitzpatrick, Deputy Attorney General
(John J. Farmer, Attorney General of New Jersey)

This case involves the question of who is financially responsible for the costs of one child's placement in a State residential facility for the 1993-94 school year. M.M., the child in question, had resided with his mother in Wildwood until November 23, 1992, at which time DYFS placed M.M. with his mother's consent at the Bonnie Brae School, a State institution for troubled children. Consequently, under the applicable statute, the Wildwood school district was responsible for the costs of the placement for 1992-93.

However, in 1993, M.M.'s mother moved out of Wildwood. Under the pertinent statute, Wildwood was not necessarily responsible for the costs of the placement for 1993-94. N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12, the statute that controls the financial responsibility for such placements, provides in pertinent part that the Commissioner of Education shall determine the district of residence for school funding purposes as follows:

- b. The district of residence for children who are in residential State facilities, or who have been placed by State agencies in group homes, private schools or out-of-state facilities, shall be the present district of residence of the parent or guardian with whom the child lived prior to his most recent admission to a State facility or most recent placement by a State agency.
- c. If this cannot be determined, the district of residence shall be the district in which the child resided prior to such admission or placement.
- * * * * *
- d. If the district of residence cannot be determined according to the criteria contained herein, or if the criteria contained herein identify a district of residence outside of the State, the State shall assume fiscal responsibility for the tuition of the child....

N.J.A.C. 6:20-5.3 of the New Jersey Administrative Code defines "present district of residence" as follows:

- (a) The district of residence for school funding purposes shall be determined according to the following criteria:
 - 1. The "present district of residence" of a child in a residential State facility defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-3 and referred to in paragraph one of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(b) shall mean the New Jersey district of residence of the child's parent(s) or guardian(s) as of the last day prior to October 16.
 - 2. The "present district of residence" of a child placed by a State agency in a group home, private school or out-of-state facility also referred to in paragraph one of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(b) shall mean the New Jersey district of residence of the child's parent(s) or guardian(s) as of the date of the child's initial placement by the State agency. In subsequent school years spent in the educational placement made by a State agency, the child's "present district of residence" shall be determined in the same manner as for a child in a residential State facility or placement by a State agency....

3. The "district of residence" referred to in paragraph two of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(b) shall mean the New Jersey District of residence in which the child resided with his or her legal guardian immediately prior to his or her initial admission to a State facility or placement by a State agency....

Under this framework, the initial obligation for paying tuition falls on the district in which the parents reside when the placement is made. In this case, the school district of Wildwood had financial responsibility for M.M.'s placement for the 1992-93 school year.

However, the financial responsibility for the subsequent year, 1993-94, is initially on the district of residence in which the child's parent resided as of October 15 of that year. If the district of residence is outside of the state, the State is responsible for the child's tuition.

The Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") determined that the State was responsible for M.M.'s tuition for the 1993-94 school year on the basis of his finding that M.M.'s mother was living in Orlando, Florida as of October 15, 1993. This finding was based on two days of hearing at which M.M.'s mother's landlord in Florida had testified by telephonic communication.

The Commissioner found that there was an "apparent contradiction" between the landlord's written comments and his testimony and remanded the matter to the ALJ for additional fact-finding to “clarify the apparent discrepancy.” Commissioner’s Decision of October 6, 1995, slip op. at 7.

Following the remand, the parties agreed that a transcript of the landlord’s testimony would be helpful in resolving the “apparent contradiction,” and transcripts were ordered. The ALJ found that the landlord’s testimony clearly explained what appeared to be a gap in his written response concerning M.M.’s mother’s residence in Florida. Based on the transcript, the ALJ found that there was a mistake on the written form that the landlord had filled out in response to inquiry by a detective hired by the Wildwood Board. The ALJ then concluded, based on all of the testimony, that M.M.’s mother had resided in Orlando, Florida from June 1993 until August 1994, except for a short stay in Millville, New Jersey in January 1994. The ALJ therefore concluded that the State had financial responsibility for M.M.’s tuition for 1993-94.

The Commissioner rejected the ALJ’s determination, concluding that he could not rely on the record as it stood to determine with any degree of certainty that M.M.’s mother had resided in Florida on October 15, 1993.

The Wildwood Board appealed to the State Board of Education, arguing that the State is responsible for M.M.’s tuition for 1993-94 because his mother was living in Orlando, Florida on October 15, 1993. It further argues that the State is responsible for tuition for that year because, even if the exact whereabouts of M.M.’s mother had not been established, her present district of residence could not be determined. The Board also asserts that the State did not make an adequate effort to locate M.M.’s mother in Florida and, consequently, had come to the proceedings with unclean hands.

For the reasons that follow, we reverse the Commissioner’s decision.

As the head of this agency, the State Board of Education is the ultimate administrative decisionmaker and fact-finder in matters arising under the school laws. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Tyler, 236 N.J. Super. 478, 485 (App. Div. 1989), certif. denied, 121 N.J. 615 (1990); Dore v. Bedminister Tp. Bd. of Ed., 185 N.J. Super. 447, 452 (App. Div. 1982). Our review of the record, including the transcripts from the hearings held in the Office of Administrative Law, shows that the ALJ correctly concluded that M.M.'s mother was residing in Florida on October 15, 1993. Furthermore, the ALJ's decision on remand accurately explains the minor discrepancy between the landlord's remarks on the written form and his testimony.

As embodied in the ALJ's decisions, the landlord identified M.M.'s mother, as well as her paramour and her second son. He recalled that the paramour was receiving dialysis treatment. Tr. 2, 29:8-12. He tracked M.M.'s mother's residence in Orlando, Florida from a one-bedroom apartment at 1261 23rd Street to a two-bedroom apartment during the period between June 1993 and September 1993. Tr. 2, 28:15-23. He traced her move to 1245 23rd Street in September 1993. Tr. 2, 31:2-4. He testified that he saw her there periodically and, specifically, that he saw her there when he visited the property prior to purchasing it. Tr. 2, 31:5-9. Moreover, his testimony was based on his business records, as well as his memory. Tr. 2, 32:23-33:6.

Based on the landlord's uncontroverted testimony, we find, as did the ALJ, that M.M.'s mother was residing in Florida on October 15, 1993. In this regard, we stress that although we are the ultimate fact-finder in this context, we have given due regard to the credibility determinations of the ALJ, who had the opportunity to hear the witnesses and judge their credibility. Close v. Kordulak Bros., 44 N.J. 589 (1965). Accordingly, his determinations with respect to the credibility of the witnesses should be given great weight. Moreover, as a stranger to this matter, the landlord had nothing to gain from the outcome of the case. In the absence of anything more than the one minor discrepancy explained by the ALJ, there is no reason to doubt his veracity.

Hence, for the reasons set forth herein, as well as those expressed by the ALJ in his decisions, we find that M.M.'s mother was residing in Florida on the relevant date and, consequently, that the State is responsible for M.M.'s tuition for the 1993-94 school year. In view of our findings, we need not resolve where financial responsibility would lie if we had been unable to determine where M.M.'s mother was living on October 15, 1993.

Attorney exceptions are noted.

 Respondent.

THIS MATTER being opened to the Court on the petition of George A. Passes, Frederick W. Hardt, Esquire appearing, and the matter having been answered by the Burlington County Institute of Technology, John A. Almeida, Esquire of the firm of Almeida & Hunt appearing, and the parties having met and resolved the dispute between them, it being deemed appropriate to enter this Order memorializing this Agreement, and good cause appearing:

RECITAL

The parties agree and recite the facts agreed upon in this matter as follows:

1. George A. Passes is a tenured employee of the Burlington County Vocational and Technical School, now the Burlington County Institute Of Technology. (BIT)

2. During the school year 1981-1982 Mr. Passes held the tenured position of Director of Student Personnel Services with the District.

3. In the Fall of 1981 the Board of Education (Board) for the District authorized a reorganization of its administrative personnel.

4. Effective January 1, 1982 the reorganization led to a reduction in force with the District. As a result of this reduction, Mr. Passes' position as Director of Student Personnel Services was eliminated and he was transferred to the position of Guidance Counselor.

5. Thereafter the District created the position of Supervisor of Curriculum and Instruction, a position to which Mr. Passes was not appointed.

6. Mr. Passes petitioned the Commissioner of Education leading ultimately to a determination on or about January 12, 1984, the provisions of which are incorporated within this recital by reference.

7. The parties agree that between 1984 and 1990 Mr. Passes was in the position of Guidance Counselor and from 1990 to the present date has held the position of Coordinator of Grants. In January of 1993 the Board approved a revised job description for the position of Coordinator of Recruitment.

8. On or about September 7, 1993 the District adopted a new salary guide for the District and assigned the Coordinator of Recruitment to Rank 4. Based on this ranking the pay for the position exceeds the pay earned by George Passes as a Coordinator of Grants with the District.

9. On or about September 28, 1993 at a Board meeting, the Board approved employment of Neil Sternberg as Recruitment Coordinator.

10. Mr. Passes asserts that based on the Commissioner's decision in 1984 he has seniority rights to the position of Recruitment Coordinator which cannot be by-passed; This view is disputed by the BIT.

11. In the petition to the Commissioner, Mr. Passes seeks appointment to the position cited and back pay.

12. Mr. Passes has been ill undergoing serious medical treatment involving conditions unrelated to the present litigation. Mr. Passes has expressed the desire to retire from the District.

13. Mr. Passes is not subject to any current disciplinary action and the settlement reached in this matter is not an attempt to resolve such a tenure complaint.

14. The current settlement is designed to retroactively adjust Mr. Passes' salary without acknowledging an entitlement to the position in question with neither party admitting liability but recognizing that the cost of litigation will far exceed the numbers in issue.

NOW, THEREFORE, it is agreed that:

1. The Board agrees to pay Mr. Passes in full and complete settlement of all its obligations the sum of EIGHTEEN THOUSAND ($18,000.00) DOLLARS.

2. The settlement shall be prorated over past years as an adjustment to salary in the following fashion:

Year of Contract	Base Amount of Salary	Salary Adjustment	Total Salary
1992 - 1993	$59,685.00	$7,038.00	$66,723.00
1993 - 1994	$63,266.00	$5,580.00	$68,846.00
1994 - 1995	$67,062.00	$5,382.00	$72,444.00

3. The Board shall deduct from the total package paid all taxes, pension benefits and other obligations normally deducted from the pay of an employee.

4. George Passes shall resign his position with the Burlington County Institute of Technology at the time the Settlement Agreement and Order are executed by the Honorable ^{Bruce R.}~~Donald F.~~ Campbell, A. L. J.

5. The settlement reached by this Agreement shall not be deemed an admission by the Respondent of any wrong doing but rather an acknowledgment that the high cost of litigation would not further the interests of education nor the interest of any of the parties.

6. Nothing in this Agreement shall preclude Mr. Passes from receiving at time of retirement all accrued entitlement for sick time and vacation time which his seniority and longevity with the District provides.

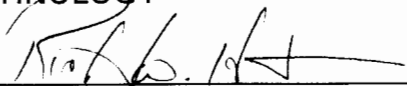

7. Compliance with the payment provisions of this order shall take place within thirty (30) days of the date this order is approved by the Commissioner of Education.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :
 HEARING OF ALVIN DAVIS, STATE- :
 OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
 CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY. :
 _____ : DECISION

SYNOPSIS

District certified tenure charges of neglect of duty, unbecoming conduct: substance abuse, theft, misbehavior and insubordination against respondent chief custodian.

ALJ found that the District made reasonable accommodation of respondent's drug abuse handicap by referring him to a treatment facility and providing two leaves of absence. ALJ further found that the District sustained its burden of showing that respondent continued to engage in the acts of misbehavior. Since these acts were uncontradicted by respondent or his counsel, the ALJ concluded that petitioner was entitled to summary judgment on the tenure charges. Respondent was ordered dismissed from his tenured position as chief custodian.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own. District's Motion for Summary Judgment was granted and respondent was ordered dismissed from his tenured position.

AGENCY DKT NO 454-11/94

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE
HEARING OF ALVIN DAVIS, STATE OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON

GREGORY G. JOHNSON, ESQ., for petitioner, Paterson Public Schools

MARY S. HAMMER, ESQ., for respondent, Alvin Davis
(Bucceri & Pincus, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 28, 1995

Decided: August 31, 1995

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

On November 9, 1994, petitioner, The Paterson Public Schools filed with the Commissioner of Education a statement of charges against the respondent, Alvin Davis seeking to remove him from his position as a tenured custodian. Petitioner charged the respondent with neglect of duty, insubordination, excessive tardiness, leaving early, substance abuse, theft of school monies, unauthorized work/accepting cash payments and misbehavior.

On December 13, 1994, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a disposition as contested matter. A hearing was held on August 25, 1995 wherein the petitioner appeared at the hearing. Although his counsel appeared, Mr. Davis failed to appear to defend against the charges. Petitioner presented the testimony of two witnesses in support of the charges, Richard Garibell, Principal of Public School No. 4 and Wilfredo Gonzalez, Supervisor of Maintenance.

The testimony was presented with out objection or contradiction and thus, I find the following unrefuted facts which are adopted as the FACTS herein:

1. The petitioner employs the respondent as a tenured chief custodian assigned to Public School No. 4;

2. The respondent admitted to the school principal Richard Garibell that he had a substance abuse problem. Petitioner granted respondent a leave of absence from his job, from October 7, 1993 to October 27, 1993, to undergo residential treatment for drug addiction at Valley View in Kenoza Lake, New York. Respondent returned to work on October 28, 1993.

3. In February, 1994, respondent admitted to school personnel that he took student picture monies, approximately $72.00, which he later returned.

4. On February 17, 1994, petitioner ordered the respondent to submit to a monitored urine drug test which produced positive results for cannabinoids (marijuana) and cocaine.

5. From March 2, 1994 to March 28, 1994, respondent was again granted leave of absence from his job to undergo residential treatment at Valley View. Respondent returned to work on March 29, 1994.

6. In August, 1994, Principal Garibell suspected that respondent had suffered a relapse based upon reports from fellow custodians that respondent neglected his duties and appeared at work under the influence of drugs.

7. On September 14, 1994, respondent was ordered by the petitioner to submit to a monitored urine drug test which produced a positive result for cocaine.

FINDINGS, DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

Based on the foregoing, I FIND respondent is a drug abuser entitled to protection pursuant to N.J.A.C. 13:13-2.5b, which requires the petitioner to demonstrate that it made a reasonable accommodation to his drug handicap.

I FIND that the petitioner has made reasonable accommodation of the respondent's drug abuse handicap by referring the respondent to a treatment facility and providing leaves of absences on two occasions, October 7, 1993 and March 2, 1994. See, Matter of Cahill, 245 N.J. Super. 397, 401 (App. Div. 1991).

I further FIND that the petitioner, has sustained its burden of showing that the respondent engaged in acts of neglect of duty, insubordination, excessive tardiness, leaving early, substance abuse, theft of school monies, and unauthorized work/accepting cash payments and other acts of misbehavior. These acts are uncontradicted and thus, I FIND and CONCLUDE that petitioner is entitled to summary judgment on the tenure charges.

It is therefore ORDERED that petitioner's motion for summary judgment on the tenure charges is hereby GRANTED and the respondent is hereby DISMISSED from his tenured position as chief custodian.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 8th Floor West, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE :

PETITIONER, :

CITY COUNCIL OF THE BOROUGH OF :
 RINGWOOD AND CITY COUNCIL OF :
 THE BOROUGH OF WANAQUE, PASSAIC :
 COUNTY, :

RESPONDENTS. :

DECISION

For the Board, Cherie L. Maxwell, Esq. (Sills, Cummis, Zuckerman, Radin, Tischman, Epstein & Gross)

For the Borough of Ringwood, Richard J. Clemack, Esq. (D'Angelo & Clemack)

For the Borough of Wanaque, Robert Graves Rosenberg, Esq.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on June 16, 1995 through the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Lakeland Regional High School Board of Education, seeking restoration of reductions to the school budget made by the Councils of the Borough of Ringwood and the Borough of Wanaque (Councils) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 following defeat of the budget at the annual school election on April 18, 1995.

At that election, the voters rejected a public question proposing a General Fund tax levy of $7,486,749 for the 1995-96 school year. On May 16, 1995, following consultation with the Board as required by law, the Borough of Wanaque adopted a resolution determining to certify a General Fund tax levy of $7,191,249 as sufficient to provide for a thorough and efficient education (T&E) in the District. On May 17, 1995, following consultation with the Board as required by law, the Borough of Ringwood adopted a resolution determining to certify a General Fund tax levy of $7,191,249 as sufficient to provide T&E in the District. In each case, this amount represented a reduction of $295,500 from the tax levy proposed by the Board, effectuated through cuts in 10 line items, for the reasons given in the implementing resolutions. By resolution dated May 23, 1995, the Board determined to appeal these reductions and duly filed the within petition.

The Board further alleges that the Councils conducted closed session meetings to discuss proposed budget reductions in violation of the Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA), N.J.S.A. 10:4-5 et seq., and all actions taken as a result of such meetings are, therefore, void. The Board contends that the Councils did not give the public adequate written notice of the meetings, nor did they make reasonable efforts to have the notice published in time to provide the requisite 48-hour notice.

The amounts in dispute in this appeal are as follows:

Tax Levy Proposed by Board		Tax Levy Certified by Councils
General Fund	$7,486,749	General Fund	$7,191,249
Amount of Reduction by Councils		Amount of Reduction in Dispute
General Fund	$295,500	General Fund	$295,500

An Answer to the Board's petition was filed by the Respondent Borough of Ringwood on July 18, 1995. An Answer was filed by the Respondent Borough of Wanaque on July 25, 1995. On August 14, 1995, the Board filed its Position Statement pursuant to N.J.A.C.

6:24-7.8. The Borough of Ringwood filed a Responsive Statement on August 31, 1995 and subsequently notified the Commissioner that this filing would constitute the Final Summation. The Borough of Wanaque filed its Position Statement and Final Summation on September 8, 1995.

In addition, as the parties had previously been advised by letter from the Assistant Commissioner dated April 7, 1995 and distributed through the County Superintendent to boards and municipalities experiencing budget defeats, as part of the record of the within appeal, the Commissioner took official notice of the Board's revised budget and its June 30 financial report, the latter for the purpose of identifying whether the Board underestimated in its 1995-96 budget the amount of anticipated undesignated surplus.

Upon filing of the parties' Final Summations as noted above, the record of the appeal was closed.¹

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for T&E. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such T&E to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line-item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of T&E. Board of Education of East

¹ Concurrent with their final papers, the Councils submitted a general request for oral argument and hearing. The Commissioner, finding such not to be necessary pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8(a)7, denies this request.

Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989).

Mindful, then, of the standard to be applied, the Commissioner makes the specific determinations set forth below.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

Initially, as to the Board's allegations of OPMA violation, the Commissioner finds that, even if such violation is assumed as true, arguendo, the effect of such a finding would be to render voidable the tax levy certifications made on May 16 and May 17, 1995, thus resulting in a failure to certify and the Commissioner's consequent setting of the District's budget pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-38. Thus, the Commissioner finds that no good purpose would be served in reaching to the Board's allegations in the present context, and turns instead to determination of specific line-item reductions as set forth below.

At the outset, the Commissioner notes that the Board's budget contains numerous coding errors. Therefore, the Board is directed to note the appropriate accounts for erroneously coded expenditures, as identified herein, and to reappropriate miscoded items accordingly. Further, the Board is directed to henceforth follow the chart of accounts required for district use pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.2(m) and to accurately code its expenditures.

Additionally, a review of the June 30, 1995 Board Secretary's report reveals minor discrepancies between sections that indicate problems with either the software or accounting procedures being used. The District should review its practices in this regard, and consult with the County Superintendent or Office of Finance as necessary.

Disputed Line-Item Number 1

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
8290	12-000-400-710	Land and Improvements	$9,000	$9,000

In 1994, the Board had approved a resolution to implement the planning and construction of Project Adventure Challenge Ropes Course, which would be integrated into the school's physical education curriculum and assist in combating drug use among students. The Board explains that a separate line item is required for installation of telephone poles for Project Adventure curriculum activities, which installation will require blasting six-to-seven-foot holes. The Board argues that Project Adventure cannot be implemented without restoration of the disputed $9,000 to this account.

The Councils contend that this appropriation is basically for athletic equipment. While the Board argues that it is related to the fight against drug use, no evidence was submitted showing the relationship. This is a nonmandated and nonrequired item. If the Board already made a commitment to purchase the same, it can be paid for out of other budget line items. Further, the Board should not have made a commitment pending approval of a budget by the electorate.

Upon review of the Board's arguments and its supporting documentation as to the estimated cost of installation of telephone poles for Project Adventure, the Commissioner determines that this expenditure is not necessary for T&E, nor for the District to teach physical education or address substance abuse issues. In addition, the Commissioner notes that the proper account for site improvements subsequent to acquisition is 12-000-400-450, Construction Services. The budget cut of $9,000 is accordingly sustained.

Disputed Line-Item Number 2

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
2680	11-190-100-610	General Supplies	$11,000	$11,000

The Board argues that this line item, which the Councils eliminated as duplicative in purporting to fund the position for a Project Adventure supervisor, was a cut based on an error. The Board argues that the monies are for General Supplies Regular Programs under the Supervisor of Health and Physical Education and Driver Education. Without adequate equipment, the teaching staff will not be able to safely teach challenging and up-to-date subject matter and to implement effective teaching techniques. This program is a priority of both the physical education curriculum and the Community Alliance for Prevention of Illegal Drugs. A financial penalty will be assessed to the AWARE/ASAP municipal grant due to the elimination of matching funds from Lakeland's proposed budget.

The Commissioner finds that notwithstanding the Councils' error, the Board has not shown how the specific equipment proposed is necessary in order to effectively teach physical education and implement the Community Alliance for Prevention of Illegal Drugs. Therefore, the budget cut of $11,000 is sustained.

Disputed Line-Item Number 3

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
8200	12-000-290-730	Capital Outlay	$18,000	$9,000

This line item is for a computer purchase. The Councils argue that the present system is operational and does not have to be replaced in one year, but can be phased in over two years. Further, the Councils argue that this is not an expense necessary for T&E.

The Board argues that the purchase of a new, affordable mid-range computer system is overdue at Lakeland. The obsolete System 36 computer in the Business Office was purchased in 1983. IBM has not supported this system for four years. Hardware replacement utilizing the existing software is necessary to maintain the fiscal integrity of the Business Office. Out of 15 districts using the System 36 surveyed, all but 10 have upgraded their hardware.

Lakeland's System 36 Business Computer memory capacity was exceeded two years ago with the implementation of GAAP. At that time, additional memory was not justified due to the fact that the system is obsolete and repairs are not guaranteed.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the Councils' argument and finds that it is reasonable for this project to be completed over a two-year period. Thus, the budget cut of $9,000 is sustained.

Disputed Line-Item Number 4

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
8160	12-000-260-730	Maintenance & Plant Svcs.	$20,000	$10,000

This line item is designated for the purchase of a four-wheel-drive vehicle. The Board argues that with the acquisition of a new vehicle, the need for repairs is reduced substantially.

The Councils' position is that the District's reasons for desiring this purchase are unclear. Additionally, it argues that a four-wheel-drive vehicle is not necessary nor warranted as it will cause even greater expenditures as its operating costs become apparent. A truck-type four-wheel-drive vehicle costs more to insure and operate, and gas and oil are used at a much greater rate than by a normal automobile.

The Commissioner determines that this purchase is not necessary for T&E. Thus, the Commissioner sustains the cut of $10,000.

Disputed Line-Item Number 5

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
8150	12-000-240-730	Locker Refurbishment	$13,000	$6,500

The Board's position indicates that the appropriation is for locker refurbishment. The proper account code for this type of appropriation is A/C 12-000-400-450, Construction Services.

The Board argues that its plan to refurbish lockers is part of Lakeland's five-year comprehensive maintenance plan, which was developed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:8-49(a). This corrective project in the East Building is overdue. No refurbishments/renovations have been made since 1958. Lockers have been abandoned leaving a poor appearance in all corridors. The Councils' tactic to postpone or lease purchase 50% of the project is unacceptable to the Board since interest charges will be incurred. This project has been deferred for the last five years.

The Councils' recommendation is for the refurbishment to be done over a two-year period. It also argues that the program has not started and cannot be done during the upcoming term. Since it will extend into next year, it can be budgeted accordingly.

Upon review of the Board's arguments and supporting documentation as to cost of work and interest, and in light of the fact that this project has been deferred for five years, the Commissioner finds that the Board has presented a strong argument as to why this project cannot be completed over a two-year period. The Commissioner directs restoration of $6,500 to A/C 12-000-400-450 and appropriate adjustment, if any, to the 12-000-240-730 account.

Disputed Line-Item Number 6

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
8150	12-000-240-730	Administrative Comp.	$40,000	$28,000

This line item is to complete installation of a new computer system which maintains student records. The Councils recommend that replacement of computers be done over a two-year period. The Board argues that this item is not a replacement project but a continuation project which will improve the accessibility and accountability of student records including health, attendance, scheduling, and discipline. All student records are maintained on this system. Fifty percent of this project was completed in the 1993-94 school year. The completion of this system was deferred to the 1995-96 school year.

Upon review of the information on record, it does appear that the Board originally budgeted $40,000 for this project, rather than $53,000. The Commissioner sustains the cut of $28,000, however, because the Board has not demonstrated that without full completion of this project in one year, the students will be deprived of T&E.

Disputed Line-Item Number 7

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
2650	11-190-100-320	Inservice Staff Developmt.	$58,000	$18,000

The Board contends that funding for this item is essential to providing T&E. The Board has developed T&E goals and has provided by contract for professional improvement plans including inservice workshops and graduate studies. In the Board's opinion, failure to fund this item will adversely impact the Board's inservice goals required by monitoring and the teachers' negotiated contract, which requires a Board contribution for graduate studies. In addition, the Board provides inservice training utilizing the Kentucky Network via satellite and

New Jersey Network's Satellite Educational Resources Consortium. The 1994-95 costs were $2,100 for both programs. These activities are the minimum necessary to permit the school staff to remain as a Star School as recognized by the New Jersey Department of Education.

The Councils eliminated this money and recommended that the funding remain at last year's level.

Upon review, the Commissioner notes that the Board argues that disputed line-item 7, A/C 11-190-100-320, is for inservice staff development, including tuition reimbursement for teacher graduate studies. The proper account for budgeting inservice teacher training is A/C 11-000-221-XXX, Improvement of Instruction Services/Other Support Services - Instructional Staff. The proper account for budgeting tuition reimbursement is A/C 11-000-290-290, Business and Other Support Services - Other Employee Benefits. It does not appear that the District has budgeted any funds for inservice and teacher training in A/C 11-000-221-XXX in 1995-96. It is further not possible to determine if any amounts have been budgeted in 1995-96 for tuition reimbursement in A/C 11-000-290-290. However, comparison of the 1994-95 actual expenditures, 1994-95 final budget, and 1995-96 budget indicates that the 1994-95 actual expenditures are $58,407 more than the 1995-96 budget amount and $15,734 less than the revised 1994-95 budget as of February 1, 1995. The amount cut by the Councils represents only a portion of the District's total inservice training and tuition reimbursement budget. The certified budget includes $40,000 for training and tuition reimbursement in A/C 11-190-100-320 that has not been cut by the Councils. This amount, which is sufficient for the stated purpose, should be recorded in the proper appropriation accounts as indicated above. Thus, the Commissioner sustains this cut of $18,000.

Disputed Line-Item Number 8

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
2640	11-190-100-106	Salaries for Instruction	$42,900	$10,000

The Board argues that two full-time aides are essential to provide T&E for the following reasons. Both aides are long-term employees and are utilized in the school discipline process, thus, freeing teachers and supervisors from supervising in-school suspension, lunch room, Saturday detention and bus duties. Both employees survived reductions in force in the 1994-95 budget year when three full-time aides positions were eliminated and three part-time aides were reassigned to the Cafeteria Enterprise Fund.

The minimum amount necessary for the 1995-96 Budget appropriation is $42,845. The two budgeted salaries equal $41,000 without a raise from 1994-95 school year. Additionally, the Board asserts that this staffing level is the minimum necessary to be in compliance with N.J.A.C. 6:8-7. The Councils eliminated this money, recommending that the growth from last year represents a proposed salary increase of 8.2%. The Councils recommend a 5% increase or below based on present rate of inflation. The Councils also argue that these aides are not sought for teaching positions, but for the relatively low-skill tasks of watching children during lunch and after school. The Board should be able to employ two people in these tasks for much less than the budgeted amount.

Upon review, the Commissioner notes that employees hired specifically for the activities proposed herein are budgeted in A/C 11-000-260-100. Review of the salary documentation provided for this account reveals an appropriation for two vacant positions in the amount of $28,500. As of February 1, 1995, the 1994-95 revised budget for A/C 11-000-260-100 reflects $415,750, while the 1995-96 budget includes $449,010 on this line. Inasmuch as the miscoded amount under appeal in A/C 11-190-100-106 is $10,000, and considering what appears to be funding budgeted under the proper A/C 11-000-260-100, the Commissioner has determined to sustain this cut of $10,000.

Disputed Line-Item Number 9

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
2540	11-140-100-101	Salaries of Teachers	$4,539,600	$159,000

The Board contends that this line item is essential to providing T&E. Teachers are the essence of T&E.

Both Councils had determined to cut this salary as the percentage salary increase for teachers was 8.2% and the Councils recommend only a 5% increase. They argue that no staff reduction is necessary to implement the cut. The total cut represents only 3.5% of the funds allocated to teachers' salaries. Ringwood notes that Project Adventure, the new athletic program, included additional personnel which will not be necessary since the project is not being funded.

Wanaque argues that a staff reduction is warranted and that a $40,000 salary can be saved in the Physical Education/Health Department by allowing a vacant position to remain unfilled, with the other physical education personnel covering that position. Wanaque further argues that all physical education teachers have the same qualifications and can teach health. Additionally, Wanaque argues that a math vacancy may remain unfilled as it has existed for some time and should be eliminated from the budget. Lastly, Wanaque argues that a position in the Art Department should remain unfilled.

Wanaque also argues that the population of the students has decreased to warrant the elimination of one social studies teacher and one science teacher. Wanaque argues that these staff reductions will not adversely affect the T&E education offered by the District. In fact, these staff reductions would be helpful to the District because teachers would know how absolutely important they are to the educational system, which is not promoted by overstaffing.

The Board has determined that T&E cannot possibly be conducted with the remaining funds. Lakeland has continuously spent less than 13 other regional high schools of comparable size in five northeast counties of New Jersey as per the 1994-95 New Jersey School Boards Association cost of education study. Lakeland's efficiency can be measured by its having spent $1,098 per pupil less than the enrollment group by region or $1,181,448 less than the average total expenditure for Regular Teachers Instructional Salaries.

The eighty-four and two-fifths (84.4) full-time equivalent Regular Teachers Salaries totaling $4,430,600 and averaging $52,495 per teacher is the minimum number necessary to provide a thorough and comprehensive curriculum of regular instruction. A reduction of $159,000 in this account will equate to a reduction of four full-time equivalent teaching staff when fringe benefits are factored into the total. This 4.7% staff reduction will directly impact the Lakeland 2000 goals of increasing graduation requirements by reducing by 20 the number of class sections taught. The Board has increased the required credits from 120 to 135 or 12.5% over a three-year period beginning in the 1993-94 school year. During the school years 1993-94 and 1994-95, the Board addressed its declining enrollment by reducing staff and reorganizing across all categories of employees. In addition, the Board has increased the instruction day from eight periods to nine periods, a 12.5% increase.

Upon review, the Commissioner is persuaded by the Board's arguments that such increase is for the funding of vacant teaching positions is necessary for T&E. Additionally, salary increases are contractual, and therefore, will not be altered. However, the Board's papers indicate that the account includes $7,000 for summer curriculum work. Summer curriculum curriculum work is not budgeted in this account but rather in A/C 11-000-221-104, Improvement of Instruction Services/Other Support Services - Instruction Staff - Salaries of Other Professional Staff, which is adequately funded. The supporting documentation submitted by the Board also indicates that the account includes $4,000 for inservice training. The cost of inservice teacher training should be included in A/C 11-000-221-XXX, Improvement of Instruction Services/Other Support Services - Instructional Staff (see disputed line-item number 7). Therefore, the Commissioner directs restoration of $148,000 to this account and sustains $11,000 of the Councils' reduction.

The Councils cut $35,000, arguing that a new person could be hired at a lesser scale and with a reduction in benefits. The Board argues that this longstanding position should remain as is. The Commissioner's own review persuades him that this expenditure is excessive and not necessary for the provision of T&E. Therefore, the cut of $35,000 is sustained.

APPLICATION OF SURPLUS

In its advertised annual school district budget statement, the Board projected an unreserved surplus of $37,258 and allocated $0 as revenue, leaving $37,258 as undesignated unreserved surplus, predicated on the use of $316,850 of the June 30, 1994 fund balance. Based on the Board Secretary's June 30, 1995 financial report, unreserved General Fund balance was underestimated by $356,989. Based on the advertised 1995-96 budget statement, excess surplus available to fund restorations, subject to verification through the Board's 1994-95 amount year-end audit report, is $11,385 as follows:

1995-96 General Fund Appropriations ($12,762,058) x 3%	$382,862

SUMMARY

In summary, the Commissioner directs restoration or sustaining of the $295,500 line-item reductions to appropriations as set forth below. The Commissioner further notes that all restorations to line-item appropriations are restricted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.11(b)3.

SYNOPSIS

Board appealed Mayor and Council's line-item reductions, totaling $415,200, to General Fund Budget following defeat by the voters at annual school election. Reduction by Mayor and Council brought General Fund Tax Levy to $21,104,184, which represented $279 more than the minimum amount required by law for special needs districts. Mayor and Council also identified additional areas where they would have taken action to reduce had it not been for the minimum tax levy law.

Commissioner directed restoration of line items totaling $229,146, but offset this amount by incorporating further reductions within limitations of minimum tax levy required by law. Thus, tax levy certified by Mayor and Council was directed to stand. Due to numerous coding errors noted in review, Board was directed to revise budget to reflect proper coding. Board was further directed to examine its spending and financing practices in capital outlay and report to the County Superintendent.

DECISION

For the City, Schottland, Aaron and Manning (James G. Aaron, Esq.)

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on May 26, 1995, through the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Long Branch Board of Education (Board), seeking restoration of reductions to the school budget made by the Mayor and City Council (City) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 following defeat of the budget at the annual school election on April 18, 1995.

At that election, the voters rejected a public question proposing a General Fund tax levy of $21,519,384 for the 1995-96 school year. On May 18, 1995, following consultation with the Board as required by law, the City adopted a resolution determining to certify a General Fund tax levy of $21,104,184¹ as sufficient to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education (T & E) in the district. This amount represented a reduction of $415,200 from the tax levy proposed by the Board, and was effectuated through cuts in ten line items and an increase to Miscellaneous Income revenues, for the reasons given in the City's implementing resolution. By resolution dated May 24, 1995, the Board determined to appeal these reductions and duly filed the within petition.

The amounts in dispute in this appeal are as follows:

Tax Levy Proposed by Board		Tax Levy Certified by City
General Fund	$21,519,384	General Fund	$21,104,184
Amount of Reduction by City		Amount of Reduction in Dispute
General Fund	$ 415,200	General Fund	$ 415,200

An answer to the Board's petition was filed by the City on June 12, 1995. On June 29, 1995, both parties filed position statements pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8, followed by responsive statements on July 10, 1995 (Board) and July 11, 1995 (City), and final summations on July 17, 1995 (Board; amended July 18, 1995) and July 18, 1995 (City).

In addition, as the parties had previously been advised by letter from the Assistant Commissioner dated April 7, 1995 and distributed through the County Superintendent to boards and municipalities experiencing budget defeats, as part of the record of the within appeal, the Commissioner took official notice of the Board's revised budget and its June 30 financial report (due August 1), the latter for the purpose of identifying whether the Board underestimated in its 1995-96 budget the amount of anticipated undesignated surplus.

Upon receipt of the June 30 financial report in early August as noted above, the record of the appeal was deemed closed.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line-item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education. Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989).

Mindful, then, of the standard to be applied, the Commissioner makes the specific determinations set forth below.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

As a precedent to the discussion below, the Commissioner initially notes that, pursuant to the criteria set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-3, Long Branch has been classified as a special needs district, and that, in accordance with P.L. 1995, c. 164, special needs districts are required to certify a local General Fund tax levy for 1995-96 at least equal to that of 1994-95.

In its appeal, the Board raises threshold allegations of bad faith and procedural deficiency in the actions of the City, and argues that the City's reductions should be restored in full on that basis alone. In the second count of its petition, the Board alleges that, notwithstanding the City having met with the Board as required by law, the City in fact determined, for political reasons, to cut the maximum amount permitted by law and then to justify this amount after the fact by having its accountants identify the necessary number of specific line-item reductions. The Board also alleges violations of the Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA), in that the City purportedly took action to reduce the budget at a meeting held on May 15, 1995, then adopted its effectuating resolution at a subsequent meeting, on May 18, 1995, which was not advertised sufficiently in advance in accordance with N.J.S.A. 10:4-8 et seq. The City responds that it took no action on May 15, but merely deliberated as to its pending course of action on the school budget, and that, at a meeting occurring within the statutory time frame for municipal action, i.e., on or before May 19, 1995, it duly considered and adopted a resolution fully in accordance with law, identifying specific line items to be reduced and giving reasons for such reductions expressly based on necessity for T & E. As to public notice of the latter meeting, the City contends that the decision to hold this meeting was made on the night of May 15, 1995 as a result of the need to continue discussion of the school budget issue while having the matter fully resolved by May 19, 1995, and that the requisite notices were placed the very next morning, although one paper was unable to publish the notice until May 17, 1995, and the other until May 18, 1995, the actual day of the meeting.

In considering this issue, the Commissioner's review of the record clearly indicates discussion by the City, at its meeting of May 15, 1995, centering on whether to accept a compromise settlement with the Board or to make reductions to the extent permitted by law in the belief that such reductions were fully possible without affecting T & E. Notwithstanding these discussions, however, the outcome of that meeting was a formal determination to scrutinize the budget to identify such reductions consistent with appropriate standards, not a resolution certifying a tax levy as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37. While the initial rationale expressed by the City for pursuing this course of action may have been rooted in political concerns, the fact remains that it was familiar with the Board's proposed budget from its two meetings with the Board, and that based on that familiarity, acted on the belief that significant reductions could be made with appropriate scrutiny. That a "target" amount was established at this meeting reflects less an arbitrary determination on the part of the City than a recognition that, while the City clearly believed further reduction was possible, the law permitted no more than the amount specified. Ultimately, and within the statutory time frame, the City duly adopted a resolution certifying a statutorily sufficient tax levy, identifying line-item reductions and giving reasons for such reductions as required by law, which reasons were more fully explicated in the City's filings on appeal.

In an instance such as this, the Commissioner is mindful that he cannot properly effectuate his statutory and constitutional responsibilities by resolving an appeal of municipal budget reductions on procedural grounds alone, nor can he completely ignore the municipality's political concerns and override the will of the electorate without some necessity strictly related to the constitutional mandate for T & E. Deptford, supra; Board of Education of the Borough of Edgewater v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Edgewater and in the Matter of the Cap Waiver Appeal of the Board of Education of the Borough of Edgewater, State Board Decision, July 6, 1994. Accordingly, the Commissioner declines to find any infirmity in the City's actions herein sufficient to warrant denial of a determination on the proofs.

As to the Board's allegations of OPMA violation, the Commissioner finds that, even if these violations are assumed as true, arguendo, the effect of such a finding would be to render voidable the tax levy certification made on May 18, 1995, thus resulting, in view of the fact that no tax levy was certified on May 15, 1995, in a failure to certify and the Commissioner's consequent setting of the district's budget pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-38. Thus, the Commissioner finds that no good purpose would be served in reaching to the Board's allegations in the present context, and turns instead to determination of specific line-item reductions as set forth below.

By way of general introduction, the Commissioner notes that, as indicated above, the City in making its reductions was mindful of limitations imposed by c. 164 and did in fact certify the requisite amount, the 1994-95 tax levy being $21,103,905 and the 1995-96 levy being certified at $21,104,184. However, the City contended at the time of its reductions (see reasons given for line-item reductions in the effectuating resolution), and contends again on appeal, that the Board can sustain even greater reductions than the City actually made in each line item due to the limitations imposed by c. 164. For each line item, therefore, the City both defends its original cuts and identifies an even greater amount of reduction, which it urges the Commissioner to consider if restorations elsewhere would bring the tax levy certification to the statutorily required minimum level. In the determinations below, the Commissioner does in fact undertake such consideration, in view of the fact that this appeal presents a unique circumstance where the City was limited by constraints of law in the amount of tax levy it ultimately had to certify, notwithstanding any belief it may have had that particular line-items were susceptible to even greater cuts, and in view of the fact that the City expressly identified such line-items and amounts in the statement of reasons adopted at the time of reduction, so that the Board has been on notice of the City's position from the outset.

For its part, the Board notes that it has effectuated numerous cost-cutting measures over the past several years, while still attempting to provide a quality educational system to a diverse and needy population. The Board opines that its proposed 1995-96 budget represents an increase of only 1.5% over 1994-95 levels and a modest per-household tax increase, and that it reflects the bare minimum dollar amounts necessary to provide T & E.

Initially, the Commissioner notes that review of the record herein indicates that the District has made a number of coding errors. Therefore, during the course of the discussion below, various directives are given with respect to coding, and the District is generally cautioned that it must henceforth comply with the chart of accounts required for use under N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A2(m). Also, the City appears to have made its reductions based on an advertised budget that did not always reflect separate lines by specific number, so that specific account numbers are assigned below where such is possible and the District is directed to make proper allocation where it is not.

Increase to Revenues

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount of Increase
250	10-1XXX	Misc. Revenues	$ 69,191	$100,000

The City argues that the Board has consistently underbudgeted this account, and that it could in fact be increased by $300,000 without impairing the district's ability to provide T & E. However, in light of the requirement for special needs districts to certify a minimum tax levy equal to that of 1994-95, the City has increased the account by only $100,000. In response to the Board's arguments on appeal, the City contends that, while it may not be possible to estimate the precise amounts or sources that will make up this account, that does not give the Board latitude to assume no money will be available and underbudget this account beyond all reason.

The Board argues that a conservative estimate is appropriate for this account, given the amount of surplus actually available on July 1, 1994 ($1,649,554), plus additional estimated excess balance ($195,539) multiplied by the prevailing savings interest rate (3.75%), together with the fact that Fund Balances have been steadily decreasing by amounts ranging from $400,000 to $700,000 from 1993 to present. Moreover, certain other types of income such as returns on insurance premiums cannot be accurately forecast, and others sources such as pay phone usage commission and summer school tuition are not stable from year to year. In addition, the $700,000+ infusion referred to by the City in its papers on appeal represents a one-time rebate from the State Health Benefits Plan (SHBP) and cannot be used to argue for large amounts of miscellaneous revenue typically being available.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, while prudent estimates may be appropriate in an account of this nature and the Board could not reasonably be expected to anticipate infusions of the size of its SHBP rebate, the Board's past experience overall does not appear to warrant a revenue estimate of the modesty proposed by the Board. To the contrary, the Commissioner finds that an increase to this account in the amount of $100,000 is rationally based on the Board's prior experience and will in no way impede the District's ability to provide T & E. Accordingly, the $100,000 increase to revenues is sustained, but the Commissioner declines to make further increases to this account.

Disputed Line-Item Number 1

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
Various	11-1XX-100-XXX	Reg. Prog. Instr. Sal.	Various	$95,000

The City argues that these funds are intended to support hiring of three new teachers due to increased enrollment. However, the enrollment increase was not as large as projected by the Board, and the growth in class size resulting from maintaining staff at 1994-95 levels is sufficiently slight so as not to compromise provision of T & E. Moreover, a retiring teacher to be replaced by the Board had her position budgeted at $64,304 (her salary at retirement), when a new hire could be placed at the minimum level of $33,000, for a savings of $31,304. In this account, while the City only cut $95,000 because of the minimum tax levy requirement, the City believes a $155,054 cut is actually appropriate (3 new teachers at $41,250 each plus salary savings on the retired position). Alternatively, even if the teaching positions are found necessary, they should be budgeted at the lowest starting salary for new hires (approximately $33,000), not at the higher amount proposed by the Board.

The Board argues that each of the three positions cut by the City is essential for T & E. Without an additional elementary teacher, class sizes will increase to 28 pupils in grades 3 - 5, including mainstreamed special education students; the Board contends that the additional needs of these students, together with the special needs of the district's regular pupil population, simply cannot be met with class sizes this large, and that the Commissioner himself has recognized this in his Comprehensive Plan for Educational Improvement and Financing, An Interim Report, where class sizes of less than 23 are indicated for special needs districts. Without an additional bilingual teacher, the district will not be able to accommodate the needs of a large Portuguese population requiring full-time bilingual programs in grades 3 - 5 and part-time in Kindergarten and grades 3 - 12. Finally, without one additional math teacher, the District cannot adequately meet the basic skills needs of the high percentage of students who have scored below established proficiency levels on standardized tests; remedial services represents an area where the Board has been trying to focus resources in response to the recommendations of a Department of Education External Review Team in 1991. The Board also contends that the retirement/entry salary issue arose well after the budget was struck and should not be an issue in this appeal.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has demonstrated the need for the teaching positions at issue in this reduction, and that the amount of salary budgeted for each is appropriate, in that the Board should not be locked into necessarily hiring minimum salary candidates for all new positions when better qualified but more costly candidates may be available and interested. However, notwithstanding that the issue of the retiring teacher arose after the City acted, the fact remains that this position will not now require the full amount budgeted. Accordingly, $23,054 of the City's reduction is sustained ($64,304 - $41,250) and $71,946 is restored. Because the affected positions should be budgeted under various separate line items (e.g., a grade 3-5 teacher under 11-120-100-101 and a bilingual teacher under 11-240-100-101), the Board is directed to revise its budget to make the correct allocations and to submit such revised budget to the County Superintendent and Office of Finance forthwith.

Disputed Line-Item Number 2

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
Various	11-2XX-100-XXX	Spec. Ed. Purch. Prof.	Various	$15,000

The City argues that the Board anticipated only a 5% increase in special education students, yet increased this line item by 22%. Although contending that the account is actually overbudgeted by $50,000 without impairment of T & E, the City cut only $15,000 in recognition of the district's need to certify the legally specified minimum tax levy. In addition, the City contends that the Board overbudgeted for 1994-95, as shown by the amount of money left in these accounts as of May 1995.

The Board argues that, while the District's special education population may have increased by only 5% overall, the bulk of this increase (from 80 to 95 students) is in preschool handicapped students, the group requiring the highest level of occupational/physical therapy and neurological evaluation. In addition, over the past few years, the District's disabled children have required an ever-increasing degree of service, and the Board tries to bring a degree of prudent planning to this account, which could end up severely underbudgeted if even one high-cost special needs student moves into the district after the budget is struck. With respect to the amount of money left in May 1995, the Board explains that many special education services are provided by contract, and that bills are often not received until very late in the school year; indeed, certain billings were still being invoiced at the time of appeal.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has demonstrated the necessity for these amounts and has proffered an explanation that fully accounts for the disparity noted by the City. The Commissioner further notes that the Board has offered no compelling rationale for its contentions that the Board can provide T & E without the funds at issue. Accordingly, the $15,000 reeducation to this account is restored. However, it is noted that the Board appears to have generally coded amounts for the purposes stated herein under line item 11-215-100-320, rather than under line item 11-000-219-320. Therefore, the Board is directed to revise its budget to reflect the proper allocations and to submit such budget to the County Superintendent and Office of Finance forthwith.

Disputed Line-Item Number 3

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
Various	11-000-230-340	Undistr. Ex.- Supp. Serv.	93,800	$10,000

The City argues that the Board has increased this account by 19% over last year's expenditures, so that it is overbudgeted by at least $16,000. However, in light of the district's need to certify the legally specified minimum tax levy, the City cut only $10,000. On appeal, the City also adds that public relations materials could be more efficiently and economically provided, and that computer expansion costs should fall under capital outlay.

The Board argues that this account includes computer service operations (not hardware) for the entire district and professional printing services for various community newsletters and the student handbook. Both of these were identified by the External Review Team as areas where the District needed to expend funds, and community publications are specifically mandated by N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.6.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, while the district's public relations efforts are laudable, costs in this area increased from $8,597 in 1994-95 to $21,300 in 1995-96. The Commissioner further concurs with the City that this function could be more economically and less elaborately provided. Accordingly, while restoring the City's $10,000 reduction for this year, in view of the City's having based it solely on the percentage increase from last year and Board's need for time to revise plans and providers as necessary, the Commissioner directs that the Board examine this area, in consultation with the County Superintendent, in advance of 1996-97 budget preparation in order to effectuate appropriate economies and efficiencies. In addition, to the extent that costs related to computer lines are included in this account rather than in line item 11-000-230-530, the Board is directed to make the necessary reallocations and submit a revised budget as necessary.

Disputed Line-Item Number 4

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
7160	11-000-260-590	Undistr. Ex. - Misc. Serv.	$104,200	$33,200

The City notes that this is a new account for 1995-96 and finds the entire $104,200 unnecessary for T & E. However, in light of the district's need to certify the legally specified minimum tax levy, the City cut only $33,200. On appeal, the City argues that the Board should be held accountable for its coding errors and not be given the funds at issue.

The Board argues that this is not a new account. Rather, it represents a coding error and shows monies that should properly appear in Line Item 11-000-260-420 (Cleaning, Repair and Maintenance Services), so that the total of that account if properly coded would be $388,970 ($284,770 already in correct line item plus $104,200 incorrectly coded under 111-000-260-590). These monies reflect costs for cleaning, repair and maintenance of various machines and equipment (including FAX, copying machines, typewriter, mail machine, fire equipment, air conditioning, phones, electrical equipment, etc.), and the account has been decreased by $144,500 from 1994-95 levels as part of the District's attempt to effect economies.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds the record to comport with the Board's explanation and no rational basis for the City's claim that these funds are not necessary for T & E. Accordingly, the $33,200 reduction is restored; however, the restoration is to be made to the correct account and the District is directed to submit an appropriately revised budget to the Office of Finance and the County Superintendent.

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
7150	11-000-260-520	Undistr. Ex. - Insurance	$228,045	$12,500

The City argues that the Board has budgeted a 20% increase over 1994-95 allocations of $190,501, which increased from actual expenditures of $188,493 in 1993-94, thus representing an overbudgeting of at least $37,554. However, in light of the District's need to certify the legally specified minimum tax levy, the City cut only $12,500. In addition, on appeal, the City argues that rate increases cannot be anticipated as claimed by the Board, as such increases would be known by this point and would be supported by contracts in the record.

The Board argues that its increase in this account (from $214,201 to $228,045) is due to a combination of factors: The cost of mandatory flood insurance for one building has increased by $3,300, the cost of insuring a formerly occupied building which is now vacant has increased to $14,000 (the rates for unoccupied buildings being significantly higher), the Board has added an Alternative School in a special facility which has added $12,500 to insurance costs, and the Board's insurance broker has recommended that normal property value increase dictates concomitant increase in insurance coverage, although the Board opted for a 7.5% increase rather than the recommended 10% in the interest of economy. This account also includes student accident insurance, any decrease in which would increase the costs of the District's liability policy.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has included in its arguments insurance amounts already appearing in other accounts, and that, furthermore, the Board is basing its contention that it needs additional funds on a letter that advises a "cushion" for possible rate increase, notwithstanding that no increases have been set for the upcoming year. Accordingly, the Commissioner finds this amount not necessary for T & E, and the $12,500 reduction is sustained.

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
7180	11-000-260-620	Undistr. Ex. - Energy	$963,600	$32,500

The City argues that 1994-95 expenditures were well below the $914,600 budgeted, and that this account is overbudgeted by at least $160,000. However, in light of the district's need to certify the legally specified minimum tax levy, the City cut only $32,500. On appeal, the City also notes that, as of May 1995, actual 1994-95 expenditures totaled only $763,724, and that the “new” buildings referenced below were actually new in 1994-95, not 1995-96, so that attendant energy costs are actually reflected in 1994-95 expenditures.

The Board argues that it very carefully planned this account based on actual expenditures for 1993-94 ($809,247), multiplied by the “normal winter weather factor” (8%) and estimated rate increases (4.3% for 1994-95 and 4% for 1995-96) recommended by the utility company, plus $15,600 in additional energy costs necessitated by the opening of three previously unused, newly renovated locations (alternative school, audio-visual center and maintenance building). In addition, the Board stresses that it based its 1994-95 budget and its projected costs for 1995-96 on the actual 1993-94 base because it did not want to repeat its 1993-94 experience of $50,000+ shortfall in budgeted as opposed to actual costs. Also, the Board contends that although it acquired its “new” buildings in 1994-95, it did not budget for energy use at those sites until 1995-96.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has used as the base for its calculations a winter (1993-94) among the most extraordinarily harsh in recent memory. Thus, while the Board’s method of projecting expenses may be essentially sound, the high base used has resulted in an amount inconsistent with typical usage, as noted by the City in its comments on 1994-95 actual expenditures. Accordingly, the Commissioner finds this amount not necessary for provision of T & E, and sustains the $32,500 reduction. He declines, however, to cut the full $160,000 recommended by the City, as that number is based on the District’s experience for a winter that was unusually mild, and instead directs an additional reduction of $67,500, for a total reduction of $100,000.

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
2680	11-190-100-610	Reg. Prog. Instr. - Supplies	$717,055	$25,000

The City argues that the Board has increased this amount by over 62% from its 1994-95 appropriation, and that the whole increase cannot be attributed to the District’s conversion to GAAP. Nor would this explain the numerous transfers made from this account in 1994-95. Although the account is overbudgeted by at least $200,000, in light of the District’s need to certify the legally specified minimum tax levy, the City cut only $25,000.

The Board explains that, pursuant to the District's DOE-mandated Educational Improvement Plan (EIP), monies for use by the School Based Planning Team must be placed in supply accounts until the Team makes its allocations according to strategies not yet developed at the time of budgeting. If past practice holds, the Board anticipates that it will actually expend an amount close to 1994-95 levels on general supplies, with the rest (approximately $393,450) to be distributed over various accounts in accordance with EIP dictates.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has demonstrated the need for the monies at issue in order to provide T & E and successfully refuted the City's basis for reduction. Accordingly, the Commissioner restores the $25,000. However, the Commissioner notes that, contrary to the Board's assertion, budget monies for use by School Planning Teams pending development of strategies are to be placed not in supply accounts, but rather in line item 11-190-100-800 (Regular Programs - Instruction - Other Objects). Therefore, the Board is directed to make the necessary reallocations and submit a revised budget accordingly.

Disputed Line-Item Number 8

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
6950	11-000-230-530	Undistr. Ex. - Comm./Tel.	$256,360	$20,000

The City argues that the Board has budgeted a 19% increase over 1994-95, thus representing an overbudgeting of at least $45,000. That such an increase is unwarranted is shown by the fact that, as of May 30, 1995, the District had expended only 68% of the amount it proposes to budget for 1995-96. However, in light of the District's need to certify the legally specified minimum tax levy, the City cut only $20,000.

The Board argues that increases in this account reflect an ongoing commitment to technological improvement, including a modem link to the State Department of Education, networking elementary school buildings and libraries to the District's central data system, and usage charges for distance learning applications. In addition, 1995-96 budgeting reflects the added cost for newly leased Xerox equipment not included in the 1994-95 budget. Also, contrary to the City's assertions, the phone lines at issue herein are not owned by the Board, so that the costs associated with their use are reflected in monthly phone bills and cannot be considered and financed as capital outlay.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has explained the disparity between 1994-95 and 1995-96 amounts that formed the basis of the City's reduction, and has further demonstrated the necessity of the items to be funded for T & E. Accordingly, the $20,000 reduction is restored. However, the Commissioner notes that documents submitted by the Board appear to refer to replacement and maintenance contracts rather than rental agreements, and, further, that lease of copiers should not be coded under a communications account, but rather as a purchased service under the appropriate function where the copiers are being used. The Board is, therefore, directed to revise its budget as necessary to reflect proper coding of such items.

Various	11-000-290-290	Undistr. Ex. - Empl. Ben.	Various	$18,000

The City argues that the three positions eliminated by its reduction to the teacher salary accounts enable an additional cut of $6,000 for each position in cost of benefits. In addition, the City argues on appeal that a further $480,095 can be cut from these accounts due to the savings effectuated by the Board's change from the State Health Benefits Plan (SHBP) to alternative private coverage (Cigna), even allowing for increased dental and prescription plan costs.

The Board argues that, as indicated above under the pertinent salary accounts, the three positions at issue are essential for T & E, and that contractual benefit costs cannot be eliminated where such positions are kept. Moreover, any savings realized must be viewed in light of increased costs for dental and prescription plans.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board's explanation as to why this reduction cannot be absorbed by savings from its change to the SHBP does not account for the vast majority of the savings realized. Accordingly, the Commissioner finds the reduced monies in this account not necessary for T & E and sustains the $18,000 reduction. In addition, in that the insurance quote submitted by the district ($3.8 million) is significantly less than actual expenditures for 1994-95, the Commissioner determines to sustain an additional reduction of $161,646.

Various	12-000-400-450	Capital Outlay	$200,000	$54,000

The City argues that certain of the projects intended to be funded by this account are long-term improvements which could be handled by certificates of participation (COPs), so that their cost would be spread out over a five-year period, allowing a savings of $54,000 in 1995-96 (total $67,000 cost of projects less one year debt of $13,000). In addition, the City argues on appeal that the Board has historically "padded" this account following adoption of the school budget by means of extraordinarily large transfers from other areas, so as to mask its true intentions and avoid more appropriate mechanisms for financing capital projects.

The Board argues that it carefully considered all options for funding its modest but needed improvement projects, and learned, from sources including a capital management consultant and the DOE Office of Finance, that financing such a small amount of construction cost ($67,000) over a five-year period would significantly increase interest costs (by about $17,785 or 5%, based on 8.5% interest on the declining balance). In addition, the Board points out that its entire capital outlay budget for 1995-96 represents a tax levy cost over and above the District's capital outlay state aid allotment ($181,946) of only $18,054. In response to the City's accusations of padding, the Board argues that it has budgeted prudently so as to use savings in other accounts to be able to make such repairs and improvements as are necessary to maintain the health, safety and good condition of its school buildings and grounds, rather than letting matters fall into such a serious state that large-scale building referenda are needed.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board's proposed method of financing the particular projects at issue is not inappropriate in view of their size, so that the full amount of the proposed appropriation is necessary and is accordingly restored. However, in view of the City's contentions regarding the Board's general spending and financing patterns in this area, the Board is directed to undertake an analysis of its past practices and anticipated needs and to submit its findings to the County Superintendent, so that he may ascertain whether the Board's methods of funding are consistent with proper use of this account and provide such guidance and directives as may be appropriate.

APPLICATION OF SURPLUS

In its advertised annual school district budget statement, the Board projected an unreserved surplus of $1,249,554 and allocated $400,000 as revenue, leaving $849,554, or about 2% of the General Fund budget, as undesignated unreserved surplus.

The Board's annual financial report filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-10 (June 30 Board Secretary's report) reveals no discrepancy between projected and actual surplus amounts that would result in excess surplus, so that the Commissioner determines, subject to verification through the Board's 1994-95 annual year-end audit report, that no further allocation from surplus is available to fund restorations herein.

SUMMARY

In summary, the Commissioner directs restoration or sustaining of the City's line-item reductions to appropriations and increases to revenue as set forth below. The Commissioner further notes that all restorations to line-item appropriations are restricted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.11(b)3, and that in the case of improperly coded accounts, appropriations are restricted to the correct accounts as reflected in the budget to be revised by the Board in accordance with the directives above.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, tenured teaching staff member, contended the District improperly withheld his employment and adjustment increments due to allegedly unsatisfactory ratings.

ALJ concluded that petitioner failed to meet his burden of proof by a preponderance of credible evidence that the District's action was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. (Kopera) ALJ affirmed the District's determination to withhold petitioner's increments for unsatisfactory performance for the 1993-94 school year and denied petitioner's requested relief.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own, noting petitioner received several less than satisfactory evaluations. Petition was dismissed.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, William Rago, appeals from the action by the State Operated School District of the City of Jersey City, Hudson County (District) to withhold his salary increment for school year 1993-1994. Rago alleges that the Board's action was arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 1, 1994 as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14b-1-15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14f-1 to -13. Hearings were held on March 20 and 21, 1995. The parties filed post-hearing briefs and the record closed on June 8, 1995. The forty-five (45) day statutory period to file the initial decision with the Department of Education expired on July 23, 1995. A request for an extension of time to issue the initial decision was granted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14b-10(c).

FINDING OF FACTS

Based upon the testimonial and documentary evidence, I FIND the following relevant FACTS:

1. Rago is certified to teach science and biology. He was employed by the District in 1966 and assigned to Lincoln High School where he taught Biology. In September 1967, Rago was transferred to Snyder High School (Snyder) where he has taught science.
2. For school years, 1991-92 and 1992-93, Rago taught earth science.
3. In school year 1993-94, Snyder replaced most of the science courses with approximately twenty biology courses. Biology is an elective course taught by eight teachers and open to all grade levels.

4. During the school year 1993-94, Rago was assigned to teach three basic biology and laboratory classes. To prepare for this assignment, Rago reviewed the materials in his personal library.
5. Rago received his class list in October. Twenty to thirty students were enrolled in each of his classes. He received sixteen text books at the end of September and the balance of the books were delivered in mid-December. Additionally, he was given minimal laboratory equipment for his classes.
6. Rago's teaching performance was evaluated during the 1993-94 school year on December 14, 1993, February 17, 1994 and April 19, 1994. The District's Instructional Observation Report lists five performance factors: (1) Demonstrates proficiency in subject matter; (2) Assesses needs and evaluates progress of pupils; (3) Employs effective organization and planning; (4) Utilizes effective instructional techniques; (5) Addresses affective domain. Performance is rated "S"-Satisfactory, "NI"-Needs Improvement, "U"-Unsatisfactory, or "N/A"-Not Applicable.
7. Gwendolyn Long, the Building Supervisor at Snyder, observed Rago's performance on December 14, for 35 minutes from 11:25 am until 12:00 noon. Long has taught science and biology in the District for thirty years.
8. Long rated Rago's performance "NI" in all five performance areas. The lesson was on taxonomy. She observed several deficiencies in Rago's performance. Her major concern were that during the lesson Rago appeared to lecture to the students instead of engaging them in a dialogue.

9. Long also viewed Rago deficient in his ability to evaluate the needs and progress of his pupils. His plan book indicated that he intended to cover the text book at the rate of one chapter each week. Thus, Long concluded that Rago was focusing on getting through the text book rather than pacing the lessons with the students' progress.
10. Rago allowed the pupils to take open book tests because he believed that they had difficulty reading. Long believed that open book tests were counterproductive because the students were not learning the material if they had to use their books for the correct answers.
11. Long also found Rago deficient in the areas of organization and planning. Rago recorded what would be covered in the textbook, but his instructional objectives were not clear. Long conceded that initially there was a shortage of lab equipment. Notwithstanding the lack of equipment, Rago prepared very little lab work for the students even though he had some lab materials available.
12. Long observed that only six of the twenty students who were present focused on the lesson and interacted with the teacher. Other students sat quietly doing nothing. Half of the class socialized among themselves and paid no attention to the lesson. Consequently, Rago attempted to teach above the voices of those who were socializing.
13. Long believed that Rago held low expectations for the students and focused on the things which they were unable to do well. For example, he asserted that many of the students in the class could not read or write, and they did not understand the substance contained in the textbook.

14. Long had a post observation meeting with Rago on December 20, 1993. She offered suggestions for improvement such as using more activities with the students, more lab work, and more hands on activities.
15. Long evaluated Rago the prior school year on May 7, 1993. She rated his performance "S" in three areas and "NI" in two areas. She observed that the students were engaging in various activities not related to the lesson. For example, one student stood and looked out the window, another went to the door to talk to someone in the hall, and one student launched a paper airplane. Rago responded that most of the students were "special needs", classified or unclassified, could not "read, spell or comprehend on or even close to grade level", and that his class was a "holding area" for certain students. (J-3). In the 1992-93 annual performance report Long noted that there was little or no interaction between students and teacher. To improve his performance, Long suggested that Rago should use a variety of instructional methods to engage the students in as many activities as time and equipment permit.
16. Maria Cannizzaro, District Supervisor of Science, observed Rago's performance on February 17, 1994, from 10:35 to about 11:15 am. Cannizzaro served in the District for four years and had taught science for twenty years in public high schools, colleges and universities.
17. Cannizzaro rated Rago's performance as "unsatisfactory" in all five performance areas.
18. Cannizzaro observed a lesson on seeds and seed germination. She described the students' response to the instruction; they were very passive and unmotivated. Some put their heads on the desks and others stared out the window. Most of the students did not take notes; they did not do much of anything constructive.

19. Cannizzaro described the lesson as very simplistic, repetitious, and boring. She believed that the level and the manner of instruction was inappropriate for the students. For example, Rago spent most of class period listing underground roots on the chalkboard, e.g., carrots and potatoes. The level at which the subject was taught was more suitable for a general science class in elementary school, not high school biology. She believed that the students understood the point after five minutes and then they became impatient and uncooperative. Cannizzaro also believed that Rago's presentation did not challenge or stimulate these high school students. Cannizzaro concluded that Rago was not sensitive to the students' needs because he failed to keep the class moving at a pace that would peak their interest.
20. Cannizzaro conceded that the students may have had a short attention span. Thus, there was a greater need to vary the teaching style. For example, lecturing for 30 minutes to 45 minutes will not capture the students' attention. Instead, the teacher should use various teaching methods. Rago could have devoted five minutes to discussion, five minutes to cooperative learning and several minutes to list information on the chalkboard.
21. Cannizzaro was "particularly disturbed" over the clutter in the classroom. There were bags and piles of old magazines and other materials around the room. Bulletin boards were not updated in years and papers were old and yellowed. (J-9).

22. Cannizzaro acknowledged that the students enrolled in biology were in different grades and some may have had special needs. The students in Rago's class represented the "typical" Snyder student. The lesson she observed was predominantly a teacher-dominated lesson lacking in intellectual stimuli. There was little or no interaction between teacher and student. Further, she observed no cooperative learning or interaction among the students on the lesson plan. She suggested that Rago clean his classroom, create a learning environment for his students, vary his teaching style and treat all students with respect. (J-9).

23. On February 25, Cannizzaro returned to Rago's classroom with her evaluation report and for a post observation conference. Although Rago disagreed with her comments, he refused to discuss the report with Cannizzaro and wanted to confer with his union representative. On direct examination, Rago stated that he mentioned to Cannizzaro that he wanted to meet with her at another time but she never contacted him. Under cross examination, Rago conceded that he did not ask Cannizzaro to return at a later date to discuss the report.

24. Rago's third performance evaluation was conducted on April 18, 1994 by Vernelle Harris, a Vice-Principal at Snyder. Prior to the observation, Harris informed Rago that she would be observing his class.

25. Harris rated Rago's performance "S" in two areas and "NI" in three areas. (J-10). The lesson was on coral reefs and included audio/visual aids. Harris testified that the overall concept of the lesson was unclear to her and the class. "There was no hint of the relevancy of the lesson on coral reefs." (J-10). She also observed the students. Some came to class late and only four of the fourteen students present were attentive. The other students did not take notes, ask any relevant questions, or show an interest in the lesson. She concluded that Rago's instructional techniques were not motivating his students to participate in class discussions or show any interest in the lesson.

26. Rago kept detailed records of the students' progress. Test scores on Chapters 26 through 30 ranked as follows: notebook grades, 0-90; lab grades, 60-75; all homework grades, 0; most tests grades 0. (J-10). Harris also concluded that the students had not learned the subject matter and that the teacher failed to address their educational needs. Harris believed that Rago could have been successful in reaching the students if he used different teaching strategies, rather than the lecture method. When presenting slides and a video, she was not able to determine whether the students were learning from the presentation because there was no feedback.
27. Harris held a post observation conference with Rago on May 11, 1994. Contrary to Rago's belief that his classes had a greater number of students with learning disabilities, Harris stated that that the students in his class were no different than the students enrolled in the other regular biology classes. Rago responded that his students vary in age, grade levels, reading and comprehension levels. "Most have limited listening skills and are not capable of carrying on a meaningful conversation within the subject area. If one cannot readily read/comp. and/or has limited attention span; what I have written is rather axiomatic...." (J-10).
28. Harris evaluated Rago in prior years. In April 1991, she observed his earth science class. In seven performance areas she rated him excellent in three areas, good in two areas and fair in two areas. (J-1). Harris' report noted Rago's strengths in several areas including knowledge of the subject matter, creating a classroom environment that was conducive to learning, and a demonstrated wholesome, rapport with students. On the other hand, Harris believed that Rago needed improvement in using a range of techniques and methods to address the students' needs. He also needed to use tasks which motivated and challenged the students. Harris suggested that Rago confer with other teachers, including special education teachers, for ways to maximize student classroom involvement and time-on-task activities. In June 1992, she spoke to Rago and recommended that he attend the Teacher Training Academy during the summer.

29. The Teacher Training Academy is a program for teachers who experience difficulties in classroom instruction and performance. Although Cannizzaro approved the recommendation that Rago attend the academy, he chose not to attend because it was not mandatory.
30. After Harris observed Rago's performance on April 18, 1994, she concluded that he had not done anything to change or vary his instructional techniques as was suggested in the prior observation reports. Therefore, she recommended to the school principal that Rago's increment should be withheld for unsatisfactory performance during the 1993-94 school year.
31. By April 19, 1994, Rago received notice from Jeanne Oppel, Principal at Snyder High School, that she recommended that his increment be withheld for unsatisfactory performance during the 1993-94 school year. (J-11).
32. On May 28, 1994 Rago received a letter dated May 12, 1994, informing him that the District Superintendent had determined to withhold his employment and adjustment increments due to "unsatisfactory" ratings. (J-12).

33. Rago filed a petition appealing the determination on August 4, 1994.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 provides that a board of education may withhold "a teacher's salary increment for inefficiency or other good cause." Salary increments are "a reward for meritorious service" Probst v. Haddonfield Bd. of Educ., 127 N.J. 518, 527 (1992). Thus, the Legislature has vested local boards with the power to withhold increments from teachers who have not performed well during the previous year. Id. at 526. Indeed, a decision to withhold an increment is a matter of management prerogative which the Legislature has delegated to the local school board. North Plainfield Educ. Ass'n v. No. Plainfield Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J. 587 (1984); Bernard Twp. Bd. of Educ., v. Bernard Twp. Educ. Ass'n, 79 N.J. 311 (1979). Accordingly, the Commissioner is prohibited from substituting his judgment for that of the board.

The scope of review on appeal is limited to whether there exists a reasonable basis for the board's decision. The local board's exercise of discretionary powers may not be upset unless it is patently arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1975). Thus, the Commissioner must determine: "(1) whether the underlying facts were as those who made the evaluation claimed, and (2) whether it was reasonable for them to conclude as they did upon those facts, bearing in mind that they were experts,..." Id. at 296-97. The burden proof proving that the increment withholding was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable rests with the person challenging the decision. Kopera at 297.

At the outset, petitioner alleges several procedural defects in the District's decision to withhold his increment. Petitioner contends that there is no direct evidence that the state appointed Superintendent issued a directive to withhold Rago's increment, and that the evaluations did not comply with the District's procedures.

The takeover legislation has vested the superintendent in state-operated school districts with the essential authority previously granted to the local school board. Indeed, a district superintendent is empowered to engage in all necessary activities to allow the district to be fully functional. N.J.A.C. 18A:7A-35(e). This necessarily includes the power to act on a recommendation to withhold an increment. See Brown v. State-Operated School Dist. of Jersey City, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 875. Here, the Superintendent's decision to withhold Rago's increment is supported by joint Exhibit J-12. Petitioner did not contest the source or veracity of the statement at the hearing. Instead, much of the evidence showed that petitioner did not receive the letter until the end of May 1994. Thus, I CONCLUDE that petitioner's challenge that the Superintendent did not approve the recommendation to withhold Rago's increment is unsupported by the record.

Petitioner also contends that the withholding of his increment is procedurally defective because the District did not follow policies, procedures and deadlines. For example, petitioner claims that two observations were for less than the full class period, he had no post-observation conference with Cannizarro after she observed his performance, and the principal's recommendation to Human Resources about his increment was made several weeks after the March 15 deadline. Additionally, petitioner asserts that pursuant to the collective bargaining agreement he should have been notified about his increment status by April 30, but the letter which notified him of his status was dated May 12, mailed on May 26, and received on May 28, 1994.

Petitioner's assertions lack merit and must be rejected. The length of time required to observe the teacher's performance "shall be of such duration as to adequately view a complete lesson, activity or class period.” J-18 at 3. Each of the three evaluators had sufficient opportunity to adequately describe the lesson, the teacher-student interaction, and Rago’s performance. There was no post observation conference between Rago and Cannizzaro because he refused to discuss the matter with her when she returned to his class on February 25, 1994. The record does indicate that the school principal sent Human Resources her recommendation about Rago’s increment in April 1994, several weeks after the March 15 deadline. However, I agree with respondent that petitioner failed to demonstrate undue prejudice by the three week delay. The record reflects that petitioner received notice about his increment from the principal in mid-April. Although the Superintendent’s decision to withhold Rago’s increment was not issued until May 1994, the failure to timely meet a statutory deadline should not be set aside if the statutory defect is not fatal. The intent of the notification requirement is to give the affected employee opportunity to appeal or grieve the decision. Moreover, technical defects will not void a board’s decision to withhold an increment if the record supports a conclusion that “petitioner knew or should have known the reasons for withholding the increment”. Sheehan v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 1986 S.L.D. 1724, 1739..(ALJ May 20), rev’ on other. grounds, 1987 S.L.D. 2701 (St. Bd. Dec. 2).

Here, I CONCLUDE that petitioner was not prejudice by the delay because he received notice of the Superintendent’s decision in time to perfect an appeal to the Commissioner or to file a grievance on the alleged breach of the union contract. Allegations that the District violated the collective bargaining agreement are not subject to the Commissioner’s jurisdiction. Fair Lawn Bd. of Educ. v. Fair Lawn Bd. of Educ. Ass’n, 171 N.J. Super 544, 560 (App. Div. 1980) Salley v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 1984 S.L.D. 1714, 1717 (Comm’r of Educ., Sept. 20). Thus, petitioner’s contractual claims will not be considered.

I have considered the remaining arguments of the parties. The facts demonstrate that petitioner had difficulty with classroom management and getting the students' attention. Each evaluator candidly reported that the students were not paying attention to the lesson, appeared to be disinterested, and socialized among themselves. Nearly the entire period was devoted to lecture style teaching with no time for discussion, no feedback from students, and no intellectual stimulation. Rago's explanation that his students had a short attention span, could not "read, spell or comprehend on or even close to grade level" is not acceptable. Respondent correctly points out that if a student has poor skills, it is the "teacher's function as part of the teacher's corps... to identify such problems and to take appropriate steps to remedy whatever perceived deficiencies in the pupils he discerns." Cotyk v. Essex Cty. Voc. Bd. of Ed., 1987 S.L.D. 628, 635-636. Although the class contained students in various grade and academic levels, and Rago was quick to point out the deficiencies he perceived in the pupils, petitioner presented no evidence that he tried to address their problems by taking corrective action or changing his teaching methods. He made no contacts with the child study team about students whom he believed had learning problems and he did not confer with other teachers who may have assisted him with students who had academic difficulties. Evaluations conducted in the previous school year alerted Rago to the same problems and recommended that that he attend the Teacher Training Academy. Rago refused to attend the program. Rather than varying his teaching techniques to appeal to all the students, Rago concentrated his efforts on a small group of five or six students.

The purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 is "to reward only those who have contributed to the educational process thereby encouraging high standards of performance." Bernards Twp, 79 N.J. at 321. An annual increment is not a statutory right; it is a reward for good performance. North Plainfield, supra. 96 N.J. at 594. Petitioner's overall performance for school year 1993-94 did not meet the high standards of performance required by the District.

Based on the careful review of the record , I CONCLUDE that the District had reasonable basis for its action to withhold petitioner's employment and adjustment increments.

I further CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to meet his burden of proof, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the District's action was unreasonable, arbitrary, or capricious.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the District's determination to withhold petitioner's increment for school year 1993-94 for unsatisfactory performance is AFFIRMED and the requested relief by petitioner is DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

WILLIAM RAGO, :
PETITIONER, :
V. : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT : DECISION OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY, HUDSON :
COUNTY, :
RESPONDENT. :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and respondent's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions challenge the factual findings of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), contending, inter alia, that in the initial decision the findings reveal numerous errors and an overall failure to examine facts in the context in which they arose, but rather accept the "self-serving" testimony of petitioner's supervisors. The remainder of petitioner's exceptions essentially recast and reiterate arguments advanced before the ALJ, contending, inter alia, that respondent provided no evidence that the state-appointed superintendent issued a directive to withhold petitioner's increments; that there were procedural deficiencies in withholding petitioner's increments in that the District did not follow policies, procedures and deadlines; and that the District's determination to withhold petitioner's increments was not supported by the facts, in that petitioner did not receive "unsatisfactory" ratings but, instead, received ratings that indicated that petitioner needed improvement.

Respondent's reply exceptions argue that there was ample evidence in the record to support the findings of fact and conclusions of law in the ALJ's initial decision and that, therefore, this decision should be affirmed by the Commissioner.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record, including transcripts of the hearings, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusion of the ALJ upholding respondent's withholding of petitioner's increments for the 1993-94 school year pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A: 29-14. It is well-settled that actions concerning increment withholding may not be upset unless they can be demonstrated to be patently arbitrary, capricious, unlawful or induced by improper motive. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960). Further, the burden of proof that an action was so deficient rests with the person challenging the decision. Kopera at 297. The Commissioner determines that, based on the record before him, the District's decision to withhold petitioner's increments, where he received several less than satisfactory evaluations, did not exceed the reasonable use of the District's broad discretionary policy. Moreover, the Commissioner concurs that petitioner has not met his burden of establishing otherwise. Therefore, the Commissioner may not substitute his judgment for that of the District in exercising its lawful discretionary authority.

Accordingly, for the reasons clearly articulated therein, the Commissioner adopts the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law and dismisses the instant Petition of Appeal.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent alleged that her daughters, T.W. and A.T., were wrongfully removed from respondents' schools as a result of a residency dispute.

ALJ concluded that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, petitioner's children were not residing in or domiciled in the respective school districts and, thus, were not entitled to a tuition-free education therefrom. ALJ ordered T.W. and A.T. removed from respondents' school districts for the 1995-96 school year. ALJ did deny tuition reimbursement as respondents did not present any proof as to how much tuition was owed or how tuition costs were derived. Otherwise, summary judgment was granted to respondents.

Commissioner adopted in part and reversed in part the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. Commissioner concurred that respondents' children were not entitled to tuition-free education from respondents' school districts. Commissioner, however, found that petitioner was responsible for tuition to both school districts based on the clear and uncontroverted language of the statute. Commissioner ordered petitioner to pay for the periods of ineligible attendance as calculated by the Boards in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) beginning with the first date of ineligible attendance up to and inclusive of the date of this decision.

Gary P. Hall, Esq., for Manchester Regional High School, Respondent
(Fogarty & Hara, attorneys)

Anthony C. Sartori, Esq., for Prospect Park Board of Education, Respondent

Record Closed: August 15, 1995

Decided: August 30, 1995

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

Petitioner, Constance J. Thomas, mother of A.T. and T.W., filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education appealing the decision of the superintendents of the Boards of Education of the District of Prospect Park and Manchester Regional High School removing her children from their respective school districts. Respondents timely filed answers to the petition. Further, respondents filed motions for summary judgments. On May 19, 1995, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case.

On June 6, 1995 Manchester Regional High School (Manchester) renewed its motion for summary judgment. On July 13, 1995 Manchester filed a brief in support of its motion. Thereafter, on August 15, 1995 Manchester filed a proof of service attesting to service on both the petitioner and respondent, Prospect Park Board of Education. Petitioner did not file a response to the motions for summary judgments.

I FIND the following as the undisputed facts and thus they are adopted as the FACTS herein.

1. Petitioner and her two minor children resides at 881 East 23rd Street in Paterson, New Jersey (P-1).
2. Petitioner's oldest daughter T.W. is enrolled at Manchester Regional High School.
3. Petitioner's daughter A.T. is enrolled at Prospect Park School District.
4. During the academic school year of 1995 petitioner moved from the Prospect Park school district to 881 East 23rd Street, Paterson, New Jersey.
5. On March 16, 1995, the Manchester BOE moved to disenroll petitioner's daughter, T.W. from the school district because she was no longer domicile or residing in the school district.

6. The Board Secretary, by letter dated March 17, 1995 informed petitioner of the Board of Education's March 16th decision.
7. By letter dated March 17, 1995, the superintendent of the Prospect Park School District notified petitioner she did not meet the residency requirements in N.J.S.A. 18A:38 and thus she was required to remove A.T. from its school district.

FINDINGS DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

Based on the findings of fact, I FIND that petitioner is residing in Paterson, New Jersey and thus she is no longer domiciled or residing in Prospect Park, New Jersey. Petitioner has failed to refute that she is no longer a resident of Prospect Park. I further FIND that petitioner has failed to defend this matter or otherwise show cause that her children are by law entitled to attend the respondent's school districts. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 summary judgment shall be issued where there is no material facts in dispute and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. I FIND that this matter is appropriate for summary disposition because the petition filed by the petitioner admits that she and the children are no longer residents or domiciled in the respondents school districts. Thus, there are no material facts in dispute.

I FIND and CONCLUDE that T.W. was enrolled in Manchester Regional High School on a tuition-free basis at the beginning of the 1994-1995 school year because her mother lived in Prospect Park, one of the Board's three constituent municipalities.

I further FIND and CONCLUDE that A.T. was enrolled in the Prospect Park School District on a tuition-free basis at the beginning of the 1994-95 school year because her mother lived in Prospect Park, one of the Board's three (3) constituent municipalities. Subsequently, the Board's Superintendent of Schools became aware that petitioner and A.T. had moved out of Prospect Park to a non-constituent municipality.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, provides, that public schools shall be free to any person, between five and 20 years of age, who is either: domiciled within the school district; kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and supported by that other person; or temporarily residing in the district. A domicile is the place of one's abode where a person intends to remain and to which she intends to return when absent. Conversely, a residence is a place where a person presently stays, but not necessarily with the intended permanence associated with domicile. See, R.A. on behalf of her minor children, S.H. and D.A. v. Ewing Tp. Bd. Of Educ., 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 49, 50 (October 4, 1995 Comm. Ed.). When a child lives with her parent, the domicile and/or residence of the child will follow that of her parent unless contrary evidence exists. See, Middle Tp. Bd. Of Educ. v. K.K. and P.K., 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 461, 463 (September 8, 1992 Comm. Ed.).

I CONCLUDE that pursuant to the statute that petitioner's children are not residing in or domiciled in the respective school districts and thus not entitled to a tuition free education therefrom.

I hereby ORDER the removal of A.T. and T.W. from the respondents school districts for the 1995-1996 school year.

Respondents both request reimbursement for tuition. However, respondents did not present any proof as to how much tuition is owed or how tuition costs were derived. In absence of said proofs, I hereby DENY tuition reimbursement. In all other respects respondent's motion for summary judgment is hereby GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Respondent Manchester Regional High School District Board of Education's (Manchester) exceptions and petitioner's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Manchester's exceptions initially urge acceptance of the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) conclusion that petitioner was not a resident, nor domiciled in its school district. Manchester further points out that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) requires that if the Commissioner concludes that the evidence does not support a claim for tuition-free enrollment, then the Commissioner shall assess the parent tuition pro-rated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2), a school district's annual per pupil cost is to be multiplied by the number of days of actual ineligible attendance, in order to arrive at a tuition amount to assess against a parent. Additionally, the Board argues that the calculation of the number of days of ineligible attendance should be up to and inclusive of the date of the Commissioner's decision herein.

In her reply exceptions, petitioner does not challenge the ALJ's findings but asks the Commissioner to reconsider the removal of her eldest daughter, T.W., from Manchester's high school rather than "subjecting her to unsafe and sometimes volatile environments of alternative high schools in the Paterson area."

She further contends that placing T.W. in a private school will cause petitioner family hardship. Petitioner suggests that T.W. reside with her sister in Haledon, so that T.W. can complete school in Prospect Park.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner adopts in part and reverses in part the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. The Commissioner concurs that petitioner is not entitled to the relief which she seeks based on her failure to demonstrate that her minor child, T.W., was domiciled in the Manchester school district and, therefore, eligible for a free public education. Nor does N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1) allow petitioner to relocate her daughter with her sister "*solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district."

In making this determination, the Commissioner further finds that petitioner is responsible for tuition to both school districts based on the clear and uncontroverted language of the statute and thus, reverses the ALJ's findings with respect to denial of tuition owed both Boards, ordering petitioner to pay for T.W.'s period of ineligible attendance in Manchester and for A.T.'s period of ineligible attendance at Prospect Park. The period of ineligible attendance should be calculated by the Board in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) beginning with the first date of ineligible attendance up to and inclusive of the date of this decision.

Accordingly, the Commissioner affirms the decision of the ALJ except as herein modified to hold that each Board is entitled to receive tuition pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2). Petitioner is, therefore, directed to remit to each Board the amount owed pursuant to statute, and the within appeal is hereby dismissed.

MICHAEL W. BELLESFIELD,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF RANDOLPH,

Respondent.

Michael W. Bellesfield, Pro se

Aaron Schwartz, Esq., for respondent
(Vogel, Chait, Schwartz and Collins, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 8, 1995

Decided: September 5, 1995

BEFORE MARYLOUISE LUCCHI-MCCLOUD, ALJ:

This case comes by way of petition filed by Michael W. Bellesfield (petitioner) with the Department of Education on April 6, 1995. An answer was filed and received by the Department on April 24, 1995. The matter was then transmitted on May 17, 1995 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

The matter was originally set down for a in-person prehearing for July 25, 1995. However, that date was adjourned due to the lack of availability of respondent's attorney. The matter was rescheduled for August 8, 1995 for oral argument on a motion for summary decision which had been filed on June 14, 1995. Responding papers had been received on July 3, 1995.

Oral argument took place on August 8, 1995 and at the conclusion the hearing, the record closed for the purposes of this motion.

FACTS

In this case, the facts necessary to make a determination on this motion are not in dispute.

The petitioner's request in this case consists of several different subparts. The first of these is that petitioner seeks an Order enforcing a settlement that was incorporated in a decision by the Honorable James A. Ospenson, ALJ on June 29, 1993. The second request is that the undersigned bar any evidence and any and all records that have previously been listed for destruction by the agreement from use in a Superior Court matter. The third request is one that is in the nature of discovery, requesting depositions and oral examination from current and former district employees whose names would be supplied by the petitioner. Petitioner also asks for access to the District's State and Federal funding application records. Lastly, the petitioner requests that he and a minor child who is now in the custody of the Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) receive monetary compensation from the Board of Education for damages "due to trauma".

Subsequent to the decision of Judge Ospenson, ALJ an Order was entered in the Superior Court in a separate matter entitled New Jersey Division of Youth and Family Services v. Terry Kenny and Michael Bellesfield / IMO E.B., Docket NO. FN-14-33-34. On May 19, 1994 the Honorable Robert L. Penza, J.S.C. entered an Order directing the Board of Education in the Township of Randolph to maintain any records it had regarding E.B.

The petitioner seeks expungement of those records which would have been expunged pursuant to a schedule in the original agreement before Judge Ospenson in the intervening time prior to the Superior Court Order.

DISCUSSION

For the purposes of ease, it may be best to deal with the motion to enforce the settlement which was incorporated in Judge Ospenson's decision first. Upon receipt of full settlement terms in writing by consent order or stipulation signed by all parties or their attorneys or, orally, by the parties or their representatives, the Administrative Law Judge must then determine whether the stipulation of settlement or the parties oral declaration of a settlement under oath is voluntary, consistent with the law and fully dispositive of all issues in controversy. N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1(b). In this case, a decision was rendered finding the agreement to be voluntary and dispositive of all of the issues in the case. Due to the fact that that case was a special education case (OAL DKT. EDS 3837-93) Judge Ospenson's decision was a Final Decision. The decision in that case indicated that the Order was final pursuant to 20 U.S.C. §1415(e) and 34 C.F.R. §300.509 (1986).

Enforcement of a settlement is in the nature of a summary proceeding as described by N.J. Ct. Rule 4:67-6. Judge Ospenson's Order was a Final Order and Final Decision and a summary proceeding to enforce these must be brought in the appropriate forum. Pursuant to the rules, as well as case law, that is not within the purview of the OAL and in turn the Department of Education to enforce a settlement. A summary proceeding must be brought pursuant to the rules. As a result, no jurisdiction to enforce that settlement agreement, if in fact it has been breached, exists with the OAL.

The petition also requests compensatory and punitive damages based upon an allegation of trauma. The jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education is set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 which provides that the Commissioner shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine, without cost to the parties, all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws, except in those governing higher education, or under the rules of the State Board or of the Commissioner. The courts have "repeatedly reaffirmed great breadth of his power..." Henfey v. Matawan Regional Bd. of Ed., 77 N.J. 514, 524 (1978), however, this is not limitless. It has been consistently held that the Commissioner cannot award punitive damages, North Bergen Fed. of Teachers' Bd. of Ed. of Bergen, 1975 S.L.D. 461, 467 or counsel fees, Balsley v. North Hunterdon Bd. of Ed., 117 N.J. 434, 442-443 (1990). It has also been held that the Commissioner cannot award legal cost. Lilenfield v. Bd. of Ed. of Watchung, 1977 S.L.D. at 315, 323; Watsula v. Bd. of Ed. Plumstead, 1977 S.L.D. 692, 695. Moreover, the payment of any damages other than lost earnings or restoring an increment which has been improperly withheld, is not within the Commissioner's authority. McLean v. Bd. of Ed. of Glenridge, 177 S.L.D. 311, 314; Smith v. Bd. Of Ed. Of Hamilton, OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5468-87, adopted in part on other grounds, Comm. Of Ed. Decision (April 21, 1988).

Administrative agencies only have those powers specifically granted either expressly or by implication. "An Administrative Officer is a creation of Legislation who must act only within the bounds of the authority delegated to him." In Re Jamesburg High School Closing, 83 N.J. 540, 549 (1980).

As a result, the Commissioner of Education does not have the power, and this is not the appropriate forum, either for enforcement of the settlement agreement or to grant damages for any alleged trauma incurred during the ongoing relationship between the petitioner and the school district.

The petitioner also requests things in the nature of discovery of documents, however, as pointed out above, no jurisdiction for the relief requested exists in this case. When there is no underlying case at the OAL and before the Commissioner of Education discovery is unnecessary and inappropriate.

Additionally, it is unclear whether the discovery sought is really a part of the Superior Court matter before the Honorable Judge Penza, J.S.C. If that is the case, then the petitioner must seek discovery there. No inherent right to discovery without an underlying action exists before the Commissioner of Education and in turn before the OAL.

CONCLUSION

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the OAL and the Commissioner of Education are the inappropriate forum for enforcement of a prior decision in a special education case. I further CONCLUDE that the Commissioner of Education is without jurisdiction to grant monetary compensation for alleged traumatic injury. I further CONCLUDE that all questions of discovery become moot due to the fact that no underlying matter in controversy is appropriately before this forum.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the respondent's motion for summary decision be and hereby is granted and the petition in this case be and hereby is dismissed.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge that the relief requested by petitioner in the instant Petition of Appeal falls outside the jurisdictional purview of the Commissioner of Education.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons clearly articulated in the initial decision. Respondent's motion for summary decision is granted and the within Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

: STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

The parties in the above-captioned matter, Petitioner, Charles Hoilman, and the Respondent, Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County, hereby agree to resolve all disputes arising out of the above-captioned petition as follows:

- 1) Petitioner shall be appointed to the position of Microcomputer Specialist effective September 6, 1995 at the salary of $44,841.00 a year based upon Step 19, Guide C, of the 1994-95 Salary Guide for the Business & Technical collective bargaining unit. The Petitioner's salary is subject to adjustment for 1995-96 and thereafter, pending the results of collective bargaining negotiations between the Respondent and the Trenton Business & Technical Association, and Petitioner shall not be required to return to work until two (2) weeks after receipt of notice that Respondent has approved this Stipulation;
- 2) Although Petitioner will return to work on September 6, 1995, or as specified above, his appointment for service credit is retroactive to the termination date of his employment, July 1, 1994, but without any retroactive salary because Petitioner has mitigated all salary loss;

- 3) Petitioner will receive one-half (1/2) of his previously accumulated sick leave prior to his termination effective July 1, 1994, equaling sixty-three (63) sick days. Additionally, he is entitled to any sick days, vacation days, and other benefits pursuant to the collective bargaining agreement between the Respondent and the Trenton Business & Technical Association starting with his return to employment on September 6, 1995 or thereafter;
- 4) Petitioner will attempt to obtain pension credit for the period between his termination and his return to active service. Further, this settlement shall be effective irrespective of whether Petitioner obtains such credit;
- 5) There is no concession by the Respondent that Petitioner obtained tenure during his employment prior to July 1, 1994 when he was serving in the capacity as Program Analyst. Petitioner does not abandon or waive any claims that he obtained tenure as a Program Analyst. All claims with respect to tenure by the Petitioner are preserved. All defenses and denials by the Board with respect to tenure are preserved. It is mutually understood and agreed by the parties that in the event Petitioner's position is abolished and/or his employment terminated in the future, he may assert any tenure rights that he feels he is entitled, and the Respondent does not concede that he is tenured and it may assert any defenses it may have in the future in the event his position is abolished and/or his employment terminated.
- 6) In consideration for this agreement, Petitioner dismisses all claims set forth in the within Petition, as well as any claims that were not set forth but could have been.
- 7) It is the intent of the parties to have the Petitioner return to employment with the Respondent on September 6, 1995 or as specified in paragraph 1 above. In the event that approval of this settlement is not received by Administrative Law Judge Steven C. Reback or the Commissioner of Education, Petitioner shall still commence employment on September 6, 1995, or as specified in paragraph 1 above.

- 8) In the event the Commissioner does not approve this settlement agreement, this matter shall return to the Office of Administrative Law for further proceedings, and Respondent may continue Petitioner's employment as Microcomputer Specialist unless prohibited by the Commissioner.
- 9) This agreement is entered into voluntarily without any duress or undue influence.

SYNOPSIS

Board appealed actions taken by Township as result of defeat of the proposed school budget and a proposed cap waiver question at the annual school election. Township had acted to examine both General Fund budget and cap waiver question, making reductions and reallocations throughout all portions of same, including that portion of the cap waiver question found not to be necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient education (T & E) upon review by the County Superintendent prior to the election.

Commissioner noted that action of Township in reviewing and making reallocations from cap waiver line items was ultra vires and instead treated cap waiver items "reduced" by the Township as contested for purposes of the within appeal. Upon review of all General Fund line items at issue and each line item of the T & E cap waiver question, Commissioner determined to sustain $63,974 of Township's reductions to the proposed $5,788,555 General Fund budget and to grant $339,503 of the Board's $381,904 cap waiver request, with a directive that $153,994 of amounts restored or approved be funded by surplus. Commissioner directed certification of a General Fund tax levy of $5,910,090, which amount did not include $132,149 improperly "reallocated" by the Township for provision of courtesy busing. Commissioner further directed correction of numerous coding errors, submission of a revised budget to the County Superintendent and Office of Finance, and development of a plan for revising the District's administrative structure.

SUMMARY OF COMMISSIONER'S DECISION

Board of Education of the Township of Ocean v. Mayor and Township Committee of the Township of Ocean, and In the Matter of the Cap Waiver Appeal of the Board of Education of the Township of Ocean, Monmouth County.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This consolidated matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on June 21, 1995 through the filing of two separate Petitions of Appeal by the Board of Education of the Township of Ocean (Board), one seeking restoration of reductions to the school budget made by the Mayor and Township Committee of the Township of Ocean (Township) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 following defeat of the budget at the annual school election on April 18, 1995, and the other seeking to appeal the defeat of the Board's cap waiver proposal at that same election.

In February 1995, the Board had advised the County Superintendent that the Board would need a "voter cap waiver" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-28(f) in order to be able to provide for a thorough and efficient education (T&E) in the District. The County Superintendent ultimately determined, by way of letter dated March 21, 1995, that $381,904 of the Board's voter cap waiver was necessary for T&E, and therefore appealable in the event of voter defeat, but that the remaining $196,891 was not.

At the annual school election, the voters rejected a public question proposing a General Fund tax levy of $5,788,555 for the 1995-96 school year, as well as a proposed cap waiver question of $578,795 representing the total of both T&E and non-T&E amounts. Following consultation with the Board as required by law, the Township adopted a resolution determining to certify a General Fund tax levy of $5,509,330 as sufficient to provide for T & E in the District. Although this amount represented an effective reduction of $279,225 from the General Fund tax levy proposed by the Board, it was not implemented solely through cuts in General Fund budget line items pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37. Rather, the Township examined the proposals placed before the voters as a totality and made "reductions" and "reallocations" throughout all three portions of the proposed budget, i.e., the General Fund budget, the T & E cap waiver and the non-T & E cap waiver, so that the certification amount finally arrived at reflects not only reductions to the General Fund budget, but also "offset" monies moved into that budget from both portions of the cap waiver request. The Board resolved to appeal these actions, as well as the voters' rejection of the T&E portion of the General Fund cap waiver, and duly filed the within petition. With its papers, the Board also included a letter requesting that the Commissioner consider a "courtesy busing" line item deemed non-T & E by the County Superintendent, either finding that, in view of litigation having been initiated by the provider of such transportation based on a multi-year contract obligation, such funding was necessary for T & E, or that the contract in question could not be enforced.

The Township filed its Answer to the budget appeal on July 6, 1995. No answer was filed to the cap waiver petition, the Township having expressed its position on which line items it considered unnecessary through its comprehensive action as described above. On August 1, 1995, the Township filed a letter in lieu of Position Statement pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8, the Board having included an initial Position Statement with its original petition. On August 9, 1995, the Board filed a revised and expanded statement, to which the Township responded on August 28, 1995.

On July 14, 1995, the Ocean County Superintendent of Schools filed her affidavit and supporting documents attesting to the process of review and analysis that led to her conclusion, and that of the Department of Education's Cap Waiver Review panel, that, in addition to a "Commissioner cap waiver" in the amount of $157,251 granted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-28(e) for reason of enrollment increase, a $381,904 "T&E voter cap waiver" should be granted to the Board so as to permit it to increase its General Fund budget beyond the established permissible level upon approval of the question by the voters. The County Superintendent's filings also reflected a panel-directed reallocation of resources in the amount of $23,575.

In addition, as the parties had previously been advised by letter from the Assistant Commissioner dated April 7, 1995 and distributed through the County Superintendent to boards and municipalities experiencing budget defeats, as part of the record of the within appeal, the Commissioner took official notice of the Board's revised budget, its June 30 financial report and its year-end audit report, the latter two for the purpose of identifying whether the Board underestimated in its 1995-96 budget the amount of anticipated undesignated surplus.

Upon expiration of the time for filing of final summations pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8, the matters under appeal were consolidated for determination and the record of the appeal was closed.

The effective amounts in dispute in this appeal are as follows:

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line-item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education. Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989). Additionally, with respect to appeals involving cap waivers, before the Commissioner can direct restoration of any amount of a waiver defeated by the voters, the Commissioner must determine that such amount is fully necessary for purposes of T&E and unable to be derived from further reallocation within the base budget. Board of Education of the Borough of Rutherford v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Rutherford, Bergen County, State Board decision July 7, 1993, and Board of Education of the Borough of Edgewater v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Edgewater, and In the Matter of the Cap Waiver Appeal of the Board of Education of the Borough of Edgewater, Bergen County, State Board decision July 6, 1994.

Mindful, then, of the standard to be applied, the Commissioner makes the specific determinations set forth below.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

Initially, the Commissioner notes that the Township exceeded the authority conferred upon it pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 in reviewing and making determinations regarding the Board's proposed cap waiver request, and that, contrary to the Township's assertions, infra, the State Board's decision in Edgewater in no way expands this authority or lends support to the Township's actions. For purposes of the within appeal, however, the effect given these actions will be to consider those cap waiver line items which the Township “reduced” as contested, while treating those left intact as uncontested; where “reductions” were made that were less than the total cap waiver amount requested, the “contested” heading so notes. Also, in several instances, General Fund budget and cap waiver line items are grouped together for determination, as they involve the same or similar accounts and are often treated as a whole by the parties for purposes of argumentation. Finally, it is noted that line-item discussions are frequently cast in terms of sub-accounts, as this was the manner in which the Township made its determinations.

2530	11-130-100-101	Salaries 6-8	$ 15,663.00

The Board argues that the base budget funds cut by the Township represent a prorated appropriation ($13,191.45) for the physical education teacher providing instruction to kindergarten classes, and a prorated appropriation ($4,882.50) for the District’s Gifted and Talented Teacher placed in this account to comply with GAAP, notwithstanding that this teacher does not actually provide services to kindergarten classes; the account also includes prorated substitute costs for these positions ($400). The cap waiver amount represents the prorated salaries of art and music instructors who provide the District’s entire programs in these areas, grades 1 - 6 (2 music teachers, 1-3/5 art teachers per about 675 students), as well as the prorated cost of substitutes ($230). The Board opines that art and musical experiences are critical to the District’s educational program, as they are interwoven into instruction aimed at development of cognitive skills, exposure to other culture and civilizations, and enrichment activities for gifted, remedial and special education students. Loss of the monies at issue herein will result in the complete elimination of these programs.

The Township argues that the District provides only a half-day kindergarten, and that kindergarten students do not require the specialized services of the teachers at issue in these accounts. Accordingly, budget and cap amounts for Kindergarten purposes should be reduced. (The Township does not contest the cap waiver amounts for grades 1-6.)

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has demonstrated the necessity for the amounts at issue, and that, even allowing for a modest level of service to kindergarten students, there appears to be no justification for further reducing the number of special teachers in the District. Accordingly, the Commissioner restores $18,474 ($18,074 + $400) to the base budget and grants the Board's waiver requests for $23,345, $230 ($23,575 total), $118,792 and $15,663 respectively. However, to the extent that the apportionment of these salaries among grade-level accounts may not accurately reflect actual allocation of staff assignment, the Board is directed to revise its coding accordingly and submit a revised budget to the County Superintendent and Office of Finance.

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Cut
2510	11-110-100-101	Summer Curriculum Writing K/Pre-K	$ 500
2520	11-120-100-101	Summer Curriculum Writing 1 -3	$ 1,800
2520	11-120-100-101	Summer Curriculum Writing 4 -5	$ 1,500
2530	11-130-100-101	Summer Curriculum Writing 6	$ 1,000

The Board argues that these monies are required to permit the District to adequately address its 5-year curriculum plan, stipends for which are set by the collectively negotiated teachers' contract. For 1995-96, the District needs to develop new curriculum guides for Language Arts, Social Studies and Science. Performance of this work during the school year is not viable because it would require an inordinate number of student half-days, is not conducive to working in small blocks of sporadic time, and would preempt any other opportunity for meaningful inservice in more appropriate areas, including presentation of new programs, skill development and general professional interface. Summer writing is the most efficient and effective way to accomplish this important and necessary goal.

The Township contends that these appropriations amount to extra pay for work teachers can and should do during the school year on inservice days, which can be credited as full days for purposes of student attendance. The Township also contends that the Board did not use its full 1994-95 appropriation in this area, thus showing that it is not necessary for T & E.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has demonstrated that its curriculum development program is both appropriately structured and necessary for T & E. Neither does the fact that 1994-95 expenditures proved to be less than anticipated serve to counter such finding, as the budgetary needs at issue herein are based on projected costs for different areas of curriculum, which may or may not be susceptible to the cost-savings effectuated in 1994-95 . Accordingly, the Commissioner restores the $500, $1,800, $1,500 and $1,000 reduced by the Township in these accounts. However, in that summer curriculum work is properly budgeted under Account 11-000-221-104, the restorations are made to that account.

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Cut
2650	11-190-100-320	Per Diem Summer Inservice	$ 350
2650	11-190-100-320	Professional Inservice Registration	$ 350
2700	11-190-100-800	Mileage Reimbursement	$ 100

The Board argues that the first amount represents a $37.50 per diem stipend for teacher attendance at inservice programs which are not available or cannot be scheduled except during the summer, and view it as a small price to pay for non-contractual days which can be scheduled at whatever times, and with whatever groupings of staff, are appropriate. The second amount is for registration fees at workshops offered during the summer, while the third represents a cost that has already been reduced by 1/3 when compared to the 1994-95 budget.

The Township argues that inservice should be done during the school year, when all staff are available and at no additional cost. If teachers wish to obtain additional training during the summer, they should do so at their own expense. In addition, although the Board claims to need the full amount of mileage monies, it does not explain why, nor does it explain why 50% of 1994-95 appropriations remained unused.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has not identified the particular programs it would be required to forego in the absence of these funds, and that there appear to be sufficient funds in the remainder of this account to cover any modest cost associated with programs the Board may ultimately deem necessary for T & E, as well as costs associated with mileage for such programs. Accordingly, the $800 ($350 + $350 + $100) reduction is sustained. In addition, the Commissioner notes that monies for per diem teacher inservice should be budgeted to the appropriate teacher salary accounts, and amounts for registration and mileage reimbursement should be budgeted under Account 11-000-221-500, so that the Board should correct its coding accordingly and submit a revised budget.

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Cut
2670	11-190-100-500	Field Trips	$ 500
2670	11-190-100-500	Ancillary Materials	500

The Board argues that the first amount represents the cost of a special 6th grade trip to honor 30+ members of the safety patrol and thank them for their service; all other trips are funded by the PTA. The second amount represents a modest appropriation for curriculum related trips, as the Board cannot assume that the PTA will necessarily cover these costs each year.

The Township contends that the first cost can and should be covered by the PTA or fundraising, and that, in the second case, there is no reason to assume that PTA funding will not be available as it has been for the past several years. Finally, in 1994-95, only 20% of the budgeted amount in this area was actually expended.

Upon review, the Commissioner determines to sustain these reductions of $500 and $500, as amounts remaining in the proper account for budgeting of field trips (11-190-100-500) are sufficient based on prior year expenditures so that T & E will not be impaired.

2690	11-190-100-640	Textbooks	$ 500
2680	11-190-100-610	General Supplies	$7,362

The Board argues that these amounts are needed to purchase textbooks, materials, kits, workbooks and computer software associated with the newly revised Social Studies curriculum in accordance with the District's 5-year plan. Cap waiver monies are for art and music curriculum as set forth under salary accounts above.

The Township believes accounts such as these should be based on actual expenditures, and that, even with the Township's cut, the amount remaining in supplies represents a 5% increase over last year's actual expenditures, while the amount remaining in textbooks represents a 10% increase. With respect to the cap waiver amount, the Township contends that the portion allocated for kindergarten be deleted on the same basis as salary accounts above.

Upon review, the Commissioner does not concur that actual expenditures are necessarily the best indicator of necessity for T & E, as budgetary needs will vary depending on the projects to be undertaken and the purchases to be made. Herein, the Board has demonstrated the necessity of its proposed expenditures for T & E, so that the Township's reductions of $2,788 and $2,500 are restored, and the cap waiver requests for $7,362 and $500 are granted.

Disputed Line-Item Group 6

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Cut
3040	11-204-100-610	Special Ed. (NI) Supplies	$454
3050	11-204-100-640	NI Textbooks	$210
3920	11-213-100-640	Resource Room Textbooks	$1,000

The Board argues that the need for supplies and textbooks in special education categories is directly related to the needs and objectives of the children's IEPs (Individual Education Programs) as defined by the child study team consistent with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:28. The N.I. supplies account is not an increase over last year. The Perceptually Impaired supplies account was eliminated in FY 1995-96--a net decrease of $2,750. This was due to the increased enrollment of N.I. students in the self-contained class. The 1995-96 budget for N.I. supplies is $4,254--an increase over FY 1994-95 of only $521. The overall reduction, not increase, in supplies is $2,229, or a decrease of 34%, while the number of special education students increased from 82 to 111. Similarly, overall amounts for textbooks have decreased by $3,190, not increased, from 1994-95 to 1995-96. In addition, a new reading program designed to reduce out-of-district placements is being instituted in FY 1995-96. Account 11-0213-100-

640, Resource Room Textbooks, is remaining the same as FY 1994-95, while last year Account 11-0213-100-640 was reduced by $1,100, or 25%, over FY 1993-94.

The Township argues that, based upon last year's expenditures for the first two line items, after deducting cuts, said amounts would still represent a 5% increase for NI supplies and textbooks over last year's actual expenditures. Actual expenditures represent the best evidence as to whether an item is necessary for T & E. As to resource room textbooks, with the current budget and potential tax increase to local residents, a T & E education can be met by simply replacing worn books at this time. Continuing the present curriculum for one additional year will not adversely impact upon a thorough and efficient education.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds the items funded by the first two accounts to be necessary for T & E, and the amounts budgeted driven by the number of affected students, which is not necessarily comparable from year to year. With respect to resource room textbooks, the Board has established that such are an integral part of the ongoing development of its special education program, and as such are necessary for T & E. Accordingly, the Commissioner restores these reductions of $454, $210 and $1,000.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Cut
4090	11-215-100-610	Presch. Handicapped Supplies	$337

The Board argues that the requirements of the law, the expansion of preschool to two sessions, and the increase in special education students are the reasons this cut cannot be sustained. The preschool program population has increased from 7 students in June, 1994 to 17 students in June, 1995. The FY 1994-95 supplies account was $3,300. This amount was a $1,000 reduction or a 23% decrease of the previous year. The 1995-96 budget for preschool supplies is $2,337--$936 less than FY 1994-95, or an additional 29% decrease in this amount. This account has already been severely reduced.

The Township argues that funds were transferred out of this line item in the 1994-95 budget and consequently are not needed for such supplies. Actual expenditures represent the best evidence as to whether such an item is necessary for T & E.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the items constituting this account are necessary for T & E, and that the Board appears to have already reduced its budget appropriately in comparison to the 1994-95 levels cited by the Township. Accordingly, the Commissioner restores the $337.

Disputed Line-Item Group 8

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Cut
4310	11-218-100-101	Teacher Salaries-Speech	$12,220

The Board argues that the number of students requiring speech correction services has increased from 55 in 1994 to 88 in 1995. In addition, recent law has required more speech services in the evaluation and assessment of preschool handicapped children, and one such student has been identified as in need of intensive speech correction. If the position funded by this account is eliminated, the District will not be able to provide legally mandated services to the 88 students, and the preschool handicapped student will be sent out of district.

The Township argues that a thorough and efficient education for speech can be met with one full-time teacher. Assuming one full-time speech teacher teaching for 5-1/2 hours per day, such teacher could devote two 45-minute periods per week to each child, with more difficult students being given additional time for evaluations and testing. In addition, peak demands can be satisfied with substitute teachers, which line item has not incurred any expenditures in the current year. In addition, although the system consists of two school buildings, it is a single campus setting separated by a playground.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that neither the Board nor the Township has provided sufficient information for the Commissioner to conclude that its argument is entirely valid, as number of students is not necessarily indicative of time and staffing needed for the resultant caseload. However, in view of the fact that the District's eligible population has increased substantially, the Commissioner determines to restore funding for a 1/5 position (rather than 2/5 as requested) and accordingly restores $6,110 of the Township's reduction and sustains the remaining $6,110.

Disputed Line-Item Group 9

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Cut
4810	11-230-100-101	Teacher Salaries-Basic Skills (Summer)	$1,190

The Board argues that these funds are necessary for the salaries of teachers who provide instruction for students who, instead of being retained in grade level, can receive concentrated summer instruction and be promoted. This is especially for sixth grade at-risk students, those students who have already been retained, or students new to the District and not yet able to meet its standards.

The Township argues that a thorough and efficient education does not necessarily include summer school programs. Parents have the ability to take students to other districts which have summer school programs and to pay the appropriate tuition and/or fees. The taxpaying public should not be required to pay for something in the summer which was previously provided during the year.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds the summer basic skills program to be an integral part of the District's plan for student remediation. Such remediation is an important aspect of any T & E educational program, and cannot be dismissed because it may appear to repeat, in whole or part, material covered during the regular educational program. Accordingly, the Commissioner restores this reduction of $1,190.

Disputed Line-Item Group 10

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Cut
4860	11-230-100-610	Basic Skills Supplies	$1,057
4870	11-230-100-640	Basic Skills Supplemental-Textbooks	$ 280

The Board argues that its Basic Skills program is the last line of defense before more expensive interventions, e.g., Special Education, begin. Reducing the supplies account will severely weaken the Basic Skills program. While the need for basic skills intervention in both buildings has increased, the budget amount for supplies in FY 1995-96 remains the same as for FY 1994-95; the FY 1994-95 budget for Basic Skills supplies was $500 less than the previous year, or a 17% decrease. Recent federal emphasis in Chapter I Grant monies has moved most funding to "urban poor" districts, severely diminishing funds for Basic Skills supplies and texts. In addition, textbook allocations reflect a 10% reduction from last year.

The Township argues that the amounts budgeted for the 1994-95 school year were not used for this line item, as funds were transferred out of same. As reduced, these line items would represent an actual increase of over 5% over last year's actual expenditures for these items. Actual expenditures represent the best evidence as to whether such items are necessary for a T & E.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, notwithstanding its reduction of expenditures over prior years, the Board has not demonstrated that it cannot meet its needs in this area within the allocation made by the Township. Accordingly, the reductions of $1,057 and $280 are sustained.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Cut
4950	11-240-100-610	Bilingual Ed-Instruction	$1,000

The Board argues that a first grade student was identified in September 1992, but moved out of the District after five months. Because the Board continues to receive revenue for bilingual instruction, expenditures were created.

The Township argues that 100% remains from the amount budgeted for the current school year, which funds were then transferred out of this line item to another expenditure. Consequently it cannot be said that same is necessary for T & E. Actual expenditures represent the best evidence as to whether such an item is necessary for T & E.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount is not necessary for provision of T & E and accordingly sustains the reduction of $1,000.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Cut
6270	11-000-100-561	Regular Tuition to LEA's Within State	$9,584

The Board argues that its tuition contract with Southern Regional High School for regular students is completed in the Spring of 1995 for the 1995-96 school year. No adjustments can be made until two years later when the state audit is complete and the actual tuition rate and number of students attending is established.

The Township argues that the typical dropout rate of Ocean Township High School students attending Southern Regional High School is approximately 2 students per year. The amount of reduction represents one full year's tuition for the cost of one student, which the Board of Education will realize in savings in the event of two high school students leaving school in the middle of the year. On average however, most dropouts occur early in the school year.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that prospective adjustments of the sort proposed by the Township are neither possible within the current regulatory framework nor appropriate in terms of educational expectation. Accordingly, this amount is deemed necessary for T & E and the $9,584 is restored.

6280	11-000-100-562	Special Education Tuition to LEA's within the State	$23,172

The Board argues that the Township's reason for this cut is unclear. However, the justification for these funds is provided in the previous line item since it is part of the tuition contract with Southern Regional High School. In addition, these special education placements are determined by the child study team and, thus, required.

The Township argues that the amount budgeted for this line item in the 1994-95 budget year does not approach the proposed increase in said funds for the next budget year. Based upon last year's expenditures, the amount cut reflects the actual amount which can be expected to be expended from this line item. Actual expenditures represent the best evidence as to whether such an item is necessary for a T & E.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds the Township's rationale to be invalid, since these amounts represent actual costs and are not necessarily constant from year to year. The services supported by this account being necessary for T & E, the Commissioner restores the $23,172.

6320	11-000-100-566	Tuition to Priv. Sch. for the Handicapped Within the State	$15,000

The Board argues that placement of special education students into summer programs is determined by the Child Study Team in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:28. Funds are therefore required to implement students' IEPs.

The Township argues that while tuition for public schools for the handicapped is absolutely essential for a thorough and efficient education, tuition for summer school is not. No other summer-school line items are remaining, nor should this one. Parents are free to pay tuition to an outside school district in the event they wish their children to attend summer school. The taxpayers are required to provide a thorough and efficient education, they should not be required to pay twice for something previously taught during the school year.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Township misconstrues the nature of special education summer placements. Where such placements are found necessary as part of a student's IEP, they must be provided by the District regardless of the presence or absence of any other summer program. Accordingly, as these monies are necessary for T & E, these reductions of $2,800, $1,400 and $15,000 are restored.

6430	11-000-213-100	Salary for Medical Inspector	$2,000

The Board argues that it is required by law and policy to examine each student annually to determine the presence of physical defects. The Board has agreed to pay the Medical Inspector $4,751 for 1995-96 school year, an amount which represents less than $10 per student, per examination. The Medical Inspector is paid twice a year, in December and June, so that the 1994-95 account will zero out on June 30, 1995. The disputed funds are necessary to provide the full salary for the Medical Inspector for the 1995-96 school year.

The Township argues that, based upon the current school year's expenditures with respect to this line item, $2,000 can be cut without affecting a thorough and efficient education. Moreover, the Board's own policy permits students to provide proof of physicals from their own doctors which are paid for by themselves and their families and/or through their private health insurance.

Upon review, the Commissioner determines that physical exams are required pursuant to statute and regulation, and that a provision permitting substitution of a private physician at the choice of the parents cannot be construed to permit boards to rely on such choices in failing to provide for a mandated service. The Commissioner further finds that there are no excess funds in the 1994-95 account, as claimed, so that the full 1995-96 appropriation of $2,000 is restored as necessary for a T & E education.

6430	11-000-213-100	Nurse's Salary (WES)	$32,150
6430	11-000-213-100	Subst. Nurse's Salary (WES)	$600
6460	11-000-213-600	Supplies and Equipment	$600

The Board argues that these funds are necessary to provide salaries for the two nurses assigned to the District's two schools and a substitute, as well as for replenishing nursing supplies. Currently, the Waretown Elementary school has a student population of 420 students with yearly increases which will bring that amount to 435-440 students in the 1995-96 school year, and approximately 300 students in the Frederic A. Priff School. In sampling the nurse's reports to the Board, it is noted that between the two schools the nurses see nearly 1700 students (conservative estimate) monthly for illness, accident or other reasons. The nurses teach health/family life classes, Here's Looking At You 2000, Operation Aware, B.A.B.E.S., and the HIV/AIDS curriculum. They also dispense between 40 to 50 medications daily, attend to emergency situations (including an ever-increasing number of respiratory situations) for both students and staff. Nurses are responsible for reports, data and work related to dental health programs, school lunch/nutrition programs, physicals, emergency carding and follow-up, screenings, PAC (Pupil Assistance Committee) and the NERC grant. Provisions must be made for a substitute to dispense medication when the regular nurse(s) are on field trips.

The Township argues that the District, while it consists of two school buildings, is actually a single campus setting with two schools separated by a playground. A thorough and efficient education can clearly be provided by a single nurse working a half a day in each building. To travel from one building to the other requires a simple walk across a playground. Modern communications such as phone and beeper systems make the remaining nurse available instantly in the event of an emergency. In addition, the Department of Education has determined that elementary students do not require transportation to school within a two-mile radius if hazardous conditions do not exist, and no hazardous condition would prevent students from walking across a playground to another school building to see a nurse. The Township Committee believes that a thorough and efficient education is provided in other school districts which do not provide for a campus type setting, with larger student populations and a single nurse. Although it is a salutary goal to have two nurses in the school district, a reduction of force must be taken to promote economy. This reduction of the nursing staff to a single nurse would not adversely affect T & E, and there is no basis to require nurses to attend field trips. As to supplies, as a result of the reduction in force in nursing staff necessitated by current budget constraints, a savings in supplies will be realized. In addition, based on last year's expenditures, the amount of this item as reduced is a more accurate reflection of actual expenditures for the current school year. Actual expenditures represent the best evidence as to whether such an item is necessary for T & E.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, notwithstanding the broad scope of their duties within the District's T & E educational program, as well as their provision of necessary medical services, two nurses are not essential to a district of the type and configuration of Ocean Township. The Commissioner finds that many duties assigned to two school nurses may be performed by the remaining nurse and other appropriately certificated staff, including the Student Assistance Counselor funded in part below. While two full-time nurses may be an optimal arrangement, this configuration cannot be found strictly necessary for T & E and, thus, cannot be sustained herein. Similarly, with respect to supplies, sufficient funds appear to be available to properly equip the nurse's office based on prior actual expenditures. The Board has, however, demonstrated its need for substitute coverage, in that pupils with medical conditions may not be prevented from attending field trips on that basis. Accordingly, the reduction of 600 for substitutes is restored, while the salary and supply reductions of $32,150 and $600 are sustained.

6490	11-000-218-104	Other Support Serv.-Students Reg. Detention-Sal. Other Prof. Staff	$500

The Board argues that these funds are necessary to pay for staff members who monitor after-school detention, which is an important part of the District's discipline program. The appropriation is calculated exactly for the number of sessions and the cost for salaries as listed in the contract with the teachers' union. All funds will be expended by June 1995 from the current 1994-95 school budget, notwithstanding that when the Township looked at the current budget, these funds had not yet been expended. Detention provides a tangible consequence for infraction of school rules and reminds students of their responsibility in the education process and in the importance of appropriate behavior. It also reduces the incidence of suspension by providing intermediate disciplinary action.

The Township argues that this line item as reduced, more accurately reflects the expenditures in this item in the current school year budget. As amended, the amount provided would still represent a 5% increase over the actual expenditure in this line item in the current school-year budget. Actual expenditures represent the best evidence as to whether such an item is necessary for a thorough and efficient education. In addition, taxpayers should not have to support discipline imposed after school so as to necessitate paying staff.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has explained the disparity between 1994-95 expenditures and 1995-96 budget amounts, thus vitiating the primary basis for the Township's reduction. The Commissioner further finds that detentions are an appropriate component of a comprehensive discipline plan, maintenance of which is necessary for T & E so that this reduction of $500 is restored. However, if the amounts budgeted are paid to teachers, they should be coded in the appropriate teacher salary accounts, while if not, they should be coded under Operations and Maintenance as a health and safety cost. The Board is, therefore, directed to revise and resubmit its budget accordingly.

6510	11-000-218-110	Other Salaries-Student Assistance Counselor	$34,350	$33,000

The Board argues that this amount, which was part of its T & E cap waiver request, funds the salary of the student assistance counselor who provides services to the entire student/parent community, including counseling at-risk students and families, parent/teacher training in child development and handling of difficulties, coordination of substance abuse prevention programs, liaison and referral person for social service and other outside agencies, directing of peer mediation and conflict resolution programs, and grantwriting. The counselor has proven to be a vital part of keeping the District's students ready and able to learn, and of preventing loss of students to disaffection, substance abuse and other ills.

The Township argues that T & E does not mandate a full-time counselor to be provided in the Ocean Township School District. Social workers are available, as well as appropriate administrative and teaching staff members. In addition, as a result of the voters' defeat of the 1993-94 School District budget, the Township Committee recommended that this position not be filled during the current calendar year. The Ocean Township School District agreed to the amount of said reduction without an appeal being filed with the Commissioner, but then funded this position from other line items.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has demonstrated the necessity for services of the type provided by this position, but that it has not demonstrated that such services cannot be provided to a student population of 650 with less than a full-time position given the overall staffing patterns of the district. Accordingly, the Commissioner determines to grant a cap waiver in the amount of $17,175 in order to fund this position on a half-time basis.

6590	11-000-219-105	Salaries-Secretarial Clerical Assistant	$ 3,008	$ 3,008

The Board argues that these funds are necessary to provide a part-time social worker over and above the full-time position now in the District, and to support increasing the child-study team secretary from 1/2-time to 3/4 time. These positions are necessitated by the enormous increase in special education needs that has occurred over the past few years, with preschool handicapped programs doubling in size and special education programs having increased by 35%. Professional duties would include case management, crisis counseling, and parent training in coordination with IEP services, while clerical include preparation of child study team reports, IEP and parent notices.

The Township argues that one full-time social worker in a single campus elementary school setting is sufficient to meet the Constitutional mandate for T & E. Modern communications would make this social worker available, in either school, at a moment's notice. In addition, the Board has not provided any evidence that clerical work is currently not being done within current staffing patterns, and, rather than increasing a 1/2 position to a 3/4 position so as to necessitate provision of full benefits, in an effort to economize, the Board could hire an hourly worker with no additional benefits in order to deal with any overflow.

Upon review, the Commissioner notes that the funds within the base budget designated for child study team salaries appear sufficient to fully fund two full-time positions. Accordingly, there is no basis on which to permit waiver of expenditure limitations in order to fund an additional part-time position. The Board has, however, demonstrated the need for extended clerical services. Accordingly, the Commissioner denies the cap waiver request for $12,220 and approves the request for $3,008.

The Board argues that it has a contractual obligation to pay professional organization dues for the Supervisor of Special Education. Professional journals and mileage expenses are also reasonable appropriations.

The Township argues that this line item as reduced more accurately reflects the actual expenditures in the same account in the current school year. Where no basis is provided for an increase, actual expenditures represent the best evidence as to whether such an item is necessary for a thorough and efficient education.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has not demonstrated that it cannot meet its obligations in this area without the funds in dispute. Accordingly, the reduction of $300 is sustained. However, it is noted that funds related to the supervisor should be budgeted in Improvement of Instruction Services, under function 221, and that mileage should be coded to a purchased services account in the 400-500 objects. Accordingly, the Board is directed to revise and resubmit its budget accordingly.

The Board argues that it does not always call in a substitute for the library assistant; however, on days when there is heavy student use of in the library, the help of the assistant is vital for the efficient running of the library.

The Township argues that it is not necessary for T & E to have a substitute assistant be available each and every day. Assuming the regular assistant is absent for ten full days in accordance with the contract with the Board of Education, for illness, this loss of a library assistant for these ten days will not affect the thorough and efficient education of the students.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that while an assistant might be helpful and even desirable during periods of peak usage, the Board has not demonstrated that it cannot provide T & E in the absence of such an assistant. Accordingly, the reduction of $200 is sustained.

6850	11-000-222-100	Salaries-Educational Media Library	$900

The Board argues that, during the summer, its library assistant does a great deal to prepare new books, file cards and access data into the library computer. Because the library is not fully automated, the assistant does a great deal to prepare student files and set up new class schedules for the library in the computer. In a three-week period she prepares books for shelving and does all the retrofitting so there is no delay in library and book selection. If the District did not have this person working in the Summer, students would not be able to properly utilize the library until later in the fall. This disruption of program would impact negatively on T & E.

The Township argues that a thorough and efficient education does not require a summer library assistant. Any work performed by this assistant can be scheduled during the school year at no additional cost to the Board of Education by staff members. Based upon current budget constraints and the potential loss of programs and staff members, this cannot be considered a thorough and efficient item.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that a T & E system of education requires a properly functioning library, and that where services cannot be provided during the school year without significant disruption of student library use, the Board is justified in procuring summer assistance to assure that the library is functional at the start of the year. Accordingly, the Commissioner restores this amount of $900.

6880	11-000-222-600	Media/School Library Supplies, Materials, Books	$12,800

The Board argues that, according to American Library Association Recommendations and Standards, a library, well-established, needs to purge outdated and overused books at regular intervals, adding new titles and replacing worn-out old books. The District's library circulation is high and books wear out from use. Also, reference materials need constant updating to remain current. Lack of adequate computerized sources necessitates buying encyclopedias, almanacs, geography materials and general research resources yearly. The librarian has analyzed the District's collection and at least 1,000 volumes must be discarded because they contain outdated information, such as an anticipated first trip to the moon. Non-fiction books must contain accurate information, and this replacement alone will conservatively cost $15,000 (at a low figure of $15 per book - most are higher). New books are needed in fiction to stimulate reading among students whose interest will drop rapidly if all they see are old books. The school is very involved with the county library system, but it is not readily accessible to all students or to large groups at one time. Students would need to be bused to use the town library, and the building itself is not appropriate for all students' needs. The State's mandatory requirement for teaching of library and research skills is best met in an adequately stocked school library. Finally, the Board notes that full expenditure of this line has not occurred because it was frozen before completion of ordering for the year. Two years ago the full book amount was zeroed out, and the District is simply trying to catch up to circulation and students' needs. The Board contends that technology in the library is seriously inadequate with no computers for student use.

The Township argues that the library in the Frederic A. Priff Elementary School has been in existence for well over 15 years. The library is well established. The amount this item is reduced would still permit adequate expenditures for periodical updates, etc., and maintenance of the library to insure a thorough and efficient education for the students. In times of budgetary constraints, when programs, and/or staff members may be reduced, additional expenditures for new books, technology and equipment, when balanced, cannot be considered necessary for a thorough and efficient education. In addition, a full services branch of the Ocean County Library which is about to expand, is available to supplement the school District's library. Finally, the current school year budget has not approached full expenditure of this item. Actual expenditures represent the best evidence as to whether such an item is necessary for a thorough and efficient education.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that a site-based library is an important component of T & E in an elementary school district such as Ocean Township, and that the updating and enhancements proposed by the Board are necessary to ensure continued provision of T & E. Accordingly, this reduction of $12,800 is restored.

6880	11-000-222-600	Library Equipment/New Replacement	$2,700

The Board argues that, although the Waretown Elementary School Library is relatively new, it is emerging as the hub of the newly constructed elementary school. In order to provide T & E, periodicals, new books, supplies to keep automation of the library current, bulbs and proper equipment for the efficient running of the audio visual equipment in the media center are necessary.

The Township argues that the Ocean Township School District, although consisting of two buildings, is actually one campus, separated by a single playground. All students have access to the Frederic A. Priff Library, which has been in existence for over 15 years. In addition, a full-service branch of the Ocean County Library System, which is about to expand, is available for students to meet their library needs. The Waretown School Library should certainly expand in the future; however, such expansion, in the face of potential loss of programs and staff members, should be undertaken at a slow and deliberate pace.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the updating and expansion proposed by the Board do not reflect any ambitious growth and development, but rather reflect a desire to keep the library current rather than let it fall into deficiencies and obsolescence so serious as to require major expenditures at some future date. As maintaining a functional library is necessary for T & E, the Commissioner restores this reduction of $2,700.

The Board argues that it needs the entire amount appropriated, and responds to arguments regarding 1994-95 levels by noting that it anticipates spending $2,000 when May and June invoices are received from AT&T and Bell Atlantic.

The Township argues that nearly 34% of this line item was not expended during the current budget year, that, even after the reduction of $2,000, this line item nevertheless represents a 30% increase over actual expenditures incurred during 1994-95, and that actual expenditures represent the best evidence as to whether such an item is necessary for a thorough and efficient education.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has demonstrated that the Township's arguments are based on incomplete information and cannot be sustained. Accordingly, the reduction of $2,000 is restored.

6950	11-000-230-530	Stamped Envelopes, Postage for Special Services	$725

The Board argues that the number of special education students has increased from 82 to 111. This will require additional postage to send classified records by registered mail for students that transfer out of the district, letters and "Parental Right Handbook" materials to parents, and IEPs to parents at the end of the summer. In addition to an increase in the number of students to be served, postage costs have increased as well.

The Township argues that a substantial portion of this line item has never been expended during the current budget year. Even as reduced, this line item will represent a 25% increase over the actual expenditures made during the current calendar year. Actual expenditures represent the best evidence as to whether such an item is necessary for a thorough and efficient education.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has not shown that it cannot meet its needs within the limits of the remaining appropriation. Accordingly, this reduction of $725 is sustained.

The Board argues that the first appropriation is the same as for the 1994-95 budget, and that the entire amount is needed since student enrollment is up and postage costs have increased. The second appropriation is needed since the Board is planning to send an additional newsletter to the public in 1995-96, and postage costs have increased. The third item is needed because the District currently utilizes a good deal of postage at the end of the summer and the beginning of the school year and this amount includes petty cash funding that helps to efficiently run the District office. The fourth appropriation is needed since student enrollment is up and postage rates have increased; also, additional mailings will be required to parents in order to communicate information as a result of the loss of courtesy busing. Finally, the last amount is due to postage increases and increases in UPS costs.

The Township argues that most of these line items have significant amounts remaining in the current calendar year, and that, as reduced, they more accurately reflect the actual expenditures incurred by the Board of Education while allowing for reasonable increases. As to transportation-related accounts, the Township argues that it is not necessary for a thorough and efficient education for each and every home to receive personal correspondence which would reflect a bus schedule. Other means are available to notify parents including free publication in local newspapers or classified advertising. Public facilities such as municipal buildings, schools, post offices, etc., could be utilized for the positing of same. In addition, the current cable television system, through Southern Regional High School, will televise such schedules on its high school news network. The Township Committee cannot understand how a mailing to parents reflecting bus stops can represent an amount necessary for a thorough and efficient education when the actual transportation of said students does not.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs that there appears to be no reason why the Board cannot, by effectuating reasonable economies, conduct its essential business within the confines of the reductions made by the Township, which do in fact allow for some increase from last year's demonstrated spending levels so as to account for cost increases. Accordingly, these reductions of $300, $1,000, $300, $480 and $500 are sustained.

The Board argues that elimination of a building principal, as proposed by the Township, would require the superintendent to function as both building principal and superintendent. The Board contends that the position of principal is necessary for a thorough and efficient education for the students in the Priff School because the alternative (superintendent/principal combination) would not adequately meet the educational needs and goals of the District. Eight years ago, the superintendent did function as both superintendent and building principal, contrary to the State Department of Education's recommendation during monitoring that these positions be separated. At the time the District was growing and the functions of the two positions were too much for one person, so the Board of Education placed one person in each position. The District has continued to grow and the responsibilities associated with these positions have continued to increase as well. The superintendent's duties are different from the principal's and both require full-time attention. The superintendent is responsible for coordination of the entire District, including all issues related to our sending relationship to Southern Regional Middle School and High School. The superintendent has required meetings with the County Superintendent, the community, the Board of Education, and local school staff which are separate from the principal's meetings with county staff and other elementary district principals, curriculum meetings, school planning and education council meetings. The superintendent coordinates District departmental operations for both elementary schools to include: professional administrators, school business department, cafeteria management, maintenance/custodial departments and the transportation department. Also, the Ocean Township School District does not employ a curriculum supervisor - the principal fulfills this duty, as well as other duties, some of which in larger districts are assigned to other supervisors. The only supervisor in Ocean Township is one for Special Education/Basic Skills.

In terms of work hours, the superintendent and principals work well beyond regular hours. The principal is involved in all school programs and with students on a daily basis. The superintendent must be available for the District and community at large to deal with issues such as building additions, long-range facilities planning, District-wide plans, overall management, coordination of supervisory teams, public relations, air quality, asbestos, Right to Know, etc., especially in light of the recent death of the maintenance supervisor and the possibility of his non-replacement (on appeal as part of cap waiver). Disciplinary problems are now more serious and complex in grades K-6 than in the past, and the principal works each day to prevent problems, to assist high-risk students, and to provide consultative time to staff, counselors and parents. The Frederic A. Priff elementary principal is also a New Jersey certified Director of Pupil Personnel Services and supervises the counseling program and shares the counselor's case load. The assistant counselor is only available three days per week at the Frederic A. Priff School. Counseling in crisis matters requires five days per week and sometimes weekend work.

The Board contends that its schools operate well due to the judicious use of administrative personnel and division of labor. The District is responsive to parental and community requirements and expectations for the thorough and efficient education because staff work with families and make them part of the educational process. The administrative structure allows for prompt, efficient and realistic communication and coordination with parents and the community regarding programs, planning, issues and individual student needs. A reduction in the administrative team would drastically curtail the District's ability to fulfill even the "letter of the law" in terms of educational responsibilities to children, not to mention the negative impact on its spirit. When people are overworked to the degree this reduction would require, the price paid in long-term quality would be far greater to the students and the schools than the financial cost of the principal's position. Finally, the Board notes that Ocean Township was not one of the 70 districts penalized for excessive administrative costs when the State Department of Education reviewed such costs last year.

The Township argues that the District currently has over 600 students at the elementary school level, who are divided between schools which are separated by a playground. As part of a reduction in force and in an effort to economize, one principal position should be eliminated and the Ocean Township Superintendent should act as a Superintendent/Building Principal. Recognizing that a principal with tenure, affected by a reduction in force, may through seniority, make a claim for a position as opposed to any nontenured teacher within the principal's area of teaching certification, the Township reduced this line item by $27,900 to reflect the current salary of a starting nontenured teacher who would actually be affected by this reduction in force. In addition, K-6 districts do not incur the disciplinary problems which would exist in K-8 or K-12 districts. Finally, due to elimination of the principal's position, line items covering incidental expenses can be eliminated as well.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Township's reduction is based solely on the number of students and buildings within the District, and takes no meaningful account of the District's current administrative structure, which cannot be so significantly altered on such short notice. Accordingly, the Township's reductions of $27,900, $200, $250 and $700 are restored. However, the Commissioner agrees that District's current administrative configuration could be made more efficient, and, therefore, directs the Board to undertake an analysis of its administrative needs and develop a plan for revision to be presented to the County Superintendent prior to development of the Board's budget for 1996-97.

The Township argues that over 45% remains in the current school budget in this line item. As reduced, the line item will still retain over a 5% increase in actual expenditures from the current school year. Actual expenditures represent the best evidence as to whether such an item is necessary for a thorough and efficient education.

The Board contends, with respect to the General Fund budget, that earlier in the budget process it cut 15% of the original, already bare minimum amount, and that it cannot sustain a cut of $1,000 more without the efficient running of the office being affected. Supplies and materials reflect the cost of toner for existing and budgeted Xerox machines and printers.

The Township argues that the current school year budget maintains approximately 37% in the 11-100-240-600 account which has not been expended. This reduction will not affect a thorough and efficient education and more accurately reflects actual expenditures.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has not demonstrated that it cannot provide T & E within the totality of the limitations of the base budget line item as fixed by the Township with the addition of requested cap waiver amounts. The Township argues that the District does not employ in-house maintenance personnel, so substitutes are not warranted. In addition, $3,000 was budgeted in the current school year and said amount has not been fully expended. There is no reason provided for an increase in this line item over current expenditures.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has not shown its inability to accomplish the necessary tasks within the limits of available appropriations. Accordingly, the reductions of $2,500 and $2,500 are sustained.

7110	11-100-260-300	Purchased Professional & Technical Services	$1,000

The Board argues that no one on staff is licensed to deal with chemicals for weed control. In addition, it is just as economical to have a vendor provide services as it is for the District to provide for in-house staff time and materials.

The Township argues that nearly 86% of the amount budgeted for this line item in 1994-95 has not been expended. No contracts have been provided to the Township Committee to substantiate the items set forth in this line item. In particular, the Township Committee does not believe that weed control is necessary for a thorough and efficient education. In addition, account 11-000-260-610 contains an amount of $1,500 for "grounds care," which could be a duplication of the weed control expense set forth under this line item.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has not demonstrated its inability to provide for adequate grounds care in the absence of this line item. Accordingly, the reduction of $1,000 is sustained.

7120	11-100-260-420	Operation/Maintenance Services, Cleaning, Repair, Maintenance Services	$ 740

The Board argues that this amount is appropriated for typewriter cleaning/repair, copy machine maintenance contract (toner and repairs) and maintenance clean-up services by Department of Correction workers. The superintendent's office needs to keep office machinery in good working order and the District needs the assistance of Department of Correction workers for large clean-up projects that cannot be done by custodial staff.

The Township argues that the current school-year budget reflects that only $900 has been spent from this line item as of this date. As reduced, this line item would reflect an increase over last year's actual expenditures by over 30%. Actual expenditures represent the best evidence as to whether such an item is necessary for a thorough and efficient education.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has not demonstrated that the allocation remaining after reduction, particularly in light of its concurrent cap waiver requests in related areas of this account, is insufficient to enable necessary tasks to be performed. Accordingly, the reduction of $740 is sustained.

7120 11-000-260-420 Operations/Maintenance $4,000

The Board argues that computer, copier and laminator usage is at a high level in a school and a main office serving 50 staff and 420 children. It is essential to properly maintain both existing, budgeted machines and donated, used machines through adequate supply provisions and service contracts.

The Township argues that, according to records provided by the Board of Education, over $2,000 from this line item was transferred out and spent elsewhere during 1994-95. Expenditures from this line item amounted to only approximately $4,000 in 1994-95, so that, as reduced, the account would still reflect an increase over last year's expenditures by approximately 10%. As to the Board's cap waiver request, the Township also notes that reduction of a principal's position, supra, should result in a need for less office equipment, hence elimination or reduction of the Board's request.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has not demonstrated its need for both the General Fund budget amount and the cap waiver request in order to provide T & E. Accordingly, the Township's reductions of $3,000 and $1,000 are sustained, but the cap waiver request of $4,000 is granted.

7170	11-100-260-610	Materials for Mailboxes, Shelves, Bookcases	$500

In the first instance, the Board argues that the entire account is $500 and that the shelves in question are not for the administrator's office, but rather for the entire school. Also, it should be obvious by the small amount of money in the account that the project is spaced out over years. In the second instance, the Board contends that it needs to expand mailboxes in the main office due to increased staff and space needs, and that since a new wing has opened, it has been without needed shelves and bookcases as they were removed from last year's budget.

The Township argues that a thorough and efficient education does not require additional expenditures for shelves and bookcases in the administration office. Likewise, such an expenditure can be spaced over different budget years rather than purchasing all at one time. With respect to mailboxes, the Township contends that, during 1994-95, amounts for this line item were not expended for those purposes, but rather transferred out. If mailboxes are actually required, even as amended, this line item leaves sufficient funds during this next budget year.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has not demonstrated its inability to meet these costs within the limits of available appropriations remaining in appropriate supply accounts. Accordingly, the reductions of $200 and $500 are sustained.

The Township argues that an excessive amount has been budgeted for hand tools. As reduced, $1,000 would remain to purchase such drills, ratchets, wrenches and power tools.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the monies in this account are intended not only for purchase of tools, but also for other maintenance purposes necessary to T & E. Accordingly, the reduction of $500 is restored.

7180	11-000-260-620	Energy Costs	$10,000

The Board argues that there is no room in the buildings for the offices and programs that occupy the four modular classrooms, and that the amount appropriated is a very conservative estimate based on 1994-95 experience. A cold winter and a hot summer could cause serious budgetary difficulty.

The Township argues that the District has recently completed additions to its two schools, for which it is currently paying through a lease purchase arrangement. While outside trailers may have been necessary prior to the completion of these additions and, in fact, was the reason cited for said additions, that need no longer exists. A thorough and efficient education can certainly be provided with administrative offices being in the currently existing school buildings at less cost to the Board of Education. While some school districts may provide for separate administration buildings from school facilities, and a need may arise in the future in the event future additions are required, that need does not currently exist. Finally, as a result of the reduction of a principal position, the superintendent/principal should be located in the building for which he will be responsible.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the supporting documentation provided by the Board consistent with the instructions contained in the April 7, 1995 letter from the Assistant Commissioner referenced above demonstrate that the Board's current space usage is appropriate. Moreover, the Township's proposed elimination of a principal's position will not necessarily result in a need for sufficiently less administrative space to warrant complete closure of modular classrooms. Accordingly, the reduction of $10,000 in this account is restored.

7340	11-000-270-890	Mileage, Tolls, Dues	$240

The Board argues that the transportation liaison provides a critical function in the school district, in that this person develops routes, coordinates services, prepares bid specifications, resolves parental problems, etc. Office supplies are for the transportation liaison's office, and mileage, tolls and dues are for workshop registrations, travel expenses, etc.

The Township argues that T & E does not require a full-time transportation liaison when the Board contracts for its busing services. This position represents a duplication of services and is the responsibility of the contractor. While certainly at the beginning of a school year, transportation issues may arise, these issues can and should be addressed by existing or hourly employees to act as liaison with parents. As amended, a sufficient sum remains to pay such a liaison for the beginning of a school year. It is the contractor's responsibility to insure that its drivers are licensed and meet all state requirements, and it is not necessary for a thorough and efficient education for a coordinator to oversee a private company who is being paid to provide such services. Finally, as a result of the defeat of the cap waiver, in the event courtesy busing is completely eliminated, clearly there is no need for a transportation liaison.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the services provided by the transportation liaison do not duplicate contracted services and are necessary for T & E. Accordingly, the reductions of $15,000, $500 and $240 are restored. However, the Board is directed to make the mileage, tolls and dues restorations to the proper account (11-000-270-593) and submit its revised budget accordingly.

The Board notes that these funds are appropriated in the non-T&E cap waiver budget. Voter rejected cap waivers are not subject to the review and action of the governing body, and there is no provision in law or code which authorizes a governing body to set a budget appropriation over cap. As noted above, however, the Board asks the Commissioner to consider this amount as necessary for T & E in light of the Board busing contractor's pending suit for enforcement of contract, or alternatively, to declare that the contract cannot be enforced.

The Township argues that it strongly believes that a thorough and efficient education cannot be satisfied unless students are safely transported and arrive at their school building. The majority of Township residents are located on the opposite side of a state highway from the two school buildings and must traverse same in order to arrive safely. Contrary to repeated requests of the Township Committee, the NJ Department of Transportation has not authorized any additional traffic lights along State Highway Route 9 where only one currently exists in the municipality. The Township Committee by and through its Chief of Police has determined pursuant to P.L. 1995, c. 95 that a hazardous walking condition exists for the great majority of the Township's school children. At the time the budget was presented to the voters, the law was not yet in effect. However, the Township is cognizant that both it and/or the County Superintendent of Schools and/or the Commissioner of Education, in accordance with Board of Education of Borough of Edgewater vs. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Edgewater, supra. may and, in fact, should attempt to reallocate those items necessary for a thorough and efficient education with respect to the Board's general base budget and its cap waiver request. The Township has determined that the sum of $132,149 is necessary to provide safe transportation for the students of this elementary school district to cross a state highway and along a county road. As the voters of the Township of Ocean did not have an opportunity to vote on same as part of the Board's general budget, the Township has determined that this sum must be reallocated and placed back into this account number to insure a thorough and efficient education and the safety of these elementary school children.

Upon review, the Commissioner determines that, it being well-established that non-mandatory ("courtesy") busing for reason of safety is not a necessary component of T & E, this amount cannot be appropriated by the District in the wake of voter rejection of the Board's cap waiver question, nor can any directive of the County Superintendent or Commissioner result in such appropriation. Further, as noted above, the Township has no authority to make cap waiver "reallocations" of any kind within the framework of its review of the defeated General Fund budget proposition, contrary to its reading of Edgewater, supra. Neither is the present appeal an appropriate forum for determining, assuming, arguendo, that the Commissioner would even have jurisdiction to do so, the enforceability of the Board's existing multi-year contract with its busing provider. Accordingly, the Township's action appropriating funds for provision of courtesy busing is reversed and no amount for courtesy busing is included within either the General Fund budget or T & E cap waiver amounts approved herein.

The Board argues that this money covers insurance costs for a bus used for the summer Latchkey Program. The bus does not transport students to and from the program, but to a local lake and other areas for recreation.

The Township argues that summer school is not necessary for a thorough and efficient education, so that a vehicle with respect to same is not necessary.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, given the existence of the Latchkey Program and the absence of any dispute (and hence any information on record) regarding its continuation overall, that insurance costs to maintain its present mode of operation should be considered as necessary for T & E. Accordingly, the reduction of $200 is restored.

7360	11-000-290-100	Salaries - Board Office	$7,000

The Board argues that the position of secretary/payroll clerk was filled September 1, 1993 because the school business administrator/board secretary and bookkeeper could no longer handle the workload. Reducing this position to part-time would impact severely on the school business administrator/board secretary and bookkeeper, who is also responsible for preparing purchase orders (approximately 1,200 for 1994-95 as of May) and handling Accounts Payable (at least 100 checks issued each month). The responsibilities of the secretary/payroll clerk entail more than processing a monthly payroll and following through with monthly, quarterly and year-end reports, as indicated in the job description for that position.

The Township argues that the position of secretary/payroll clerk, in view of the reduction in force and potential loss of programs in the current budget, should be scaled back to a half-time position and the bookkeeper should do payroll. In addition, an hourly part-time secretary could be hired, with no additional cost of benefits to the Board to assist with payroll.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the functions performed by this position are necessary for the T & E operation of the District, and that there appears to be no significant advantage--indeed, there would be a disadvantage in loss of continuity and commitment--in reducing the position to part-time and then hiring hourly help with overflow. Accordingly, the reduction of $7,000 is restored.

As a result of the actions of the Township, four full-time positions would be eliminated and two full-time positions would be scaled back to part time with a loss of benefits. Consequently, six benefit packages, calculated at $6,503 per employee, would be saved, as would social security costs. Thus, the Township argues that these costs can be reduced without affecting a thorough and efficient education, while the Board contends that these monies are necessary because the positions to which they are attached are necessary.

Upon review, as a result of his determinations with respect to the disputed positions herein, the Commissioner restores the $2,668 of the Township's $5,000 reduction ($5,000 - $2,332 or 2x $1,166 average social security cost per employee), partially grants the cap waiver request for $26,122 ($39,128 - $13,006 or 2x $6,503 average benefit cost per employee) and fully grants the waiver request for $1,998.

The Township argues that the current school budget contains over 80% of this line item which was not expended, and that its reduction can be made while still providing for a 25% increase over actual expenditures during the current budget year.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, in an account of this type, actual expenditures are not necessarily the best indication of budgetary obligations, which can be fluid from year to year. Under General Administration (Function 230), the superintendent maintains the four hardbound volumes of Title 18A, with funds also appropriated to receive the updated inserts.

The Township argues that Updates to Title 18A are provided for elsewhere in the budget, so that this duplication is not required for T & E.

papers and reports required by the business office or environmental laws. The Township notes only that this position should have been included in the base budget rather than the cap waiver request.

The Board argues that these prorated funds are necessary to purchase a computer for use in the Waretown Elementary School Library for K-3 students to access the card catalog. The Board contends that it is essential to provide a library computer to enhance students' initial knowledge of the computer and its functions. Presently, the District does not have a computer lab in the Waretown Elementary School, so the library will become the hub of the technology instruction as part of the initial phase of the District's updated technology plan.

The Township argues that computers have previously been purchased and currently exist in each and every classroom in both buildings of the school district. A thorough and efficient education is clearly being met with such computer services. In addition, a separate computer room with a computer teacher is provided for.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that a computer for library purposes within the context of the District's overall curriculum and technology plans is necessary for T & E. Accordingly, this cap waiver amount of $550 is approved. The Board argues that these funds are needed to enable the District to implement its comprehensive plan to integrate technology into the school program. Plans include a technology lab at the Priff school, automation of the library, computers for certain classrooms now lacking adequate equipment, music equipment, CD Rom players, laser disc players, laminators and printers.

The Township argues that in times of economy, the Board should “make do” with existing equipment, which can be shared and does not all need to be upgraded to the level the Board contends. In addition, there is no reason why this project cannot be phased in over several years.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the stated purposes, within the context of the District’s overall curriculum and technology plan, are necessary for provision of T & E. Accordingly, these cap waiver amounts of $23,059 and $8,470 are approved. The Board argues that funds are needed to replace and expand computers and software in resource room and basic skills programs. The resource room software programs are tailored to IEP needs in reading and math, while the basic skills programs are designed to achieve maximum effect with slower learners, and new hardware is needed to enable all eligible students to have access to computer-assisted learning.

The Township argues that new computers and programs were purchased under account 12-130-100 for use in the same building and certainly co-use should be applied when faced with budgetary constraints, reductions in force and potential loss of programs.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount represents a reasonable expenditure that will enable the Board to maintain ongoing T & E programs for its special needs populations. Accordingly, the waiver requests for $1,870 and $4,772 are granted.

The Board argues that these funds are necessary to replace the old, obsolete and currently nonfunctioning copier in the Special Services office. This copier services the special education, bilingual, homeless, Title I, basic skills and preschool handicapped programs, and is extremely heavily used, due both to increases in the affected populations and extensive paperwork requirements associated with these programs and students.

The Township argues that in times of budgetary constraints, the Board should repair or upgrade the existing copier, rather than seek to purchase or lease a new one.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has demonstrated its need for a new machine and that the Township's suggestion of repair and/or upgrade is neither viable in the short run nor efficient in the long run. Accordingly, the Commissioner grants the Board's waiver request for $6,150. However, monies for this machine, being for the supervisor's office, should be coded under Account 11-000-221-730, and the Board is directed to so budget the monies granted.

The Board argues that these funds are necessary to replace a copy machine that is fragile to the point of collapse and two computers in principals' offices which are so obsolete that they cannot be upgraded. The Board contends that, due to budgetary restrictions, it has ignored routine replacement and upgrade to such an extent that its heavily used office equipment is now at the point where its condition actually impedes T & E operation of the District. Finally, a small portion of these funds is needed to purchase a storage closet.

The Township argues that an upgrade to the currently existing copy machine in the main office can be provided in times of budgetary constraints. In addition, this machine is no longer necessary due to the Township's having reduced a principal's position, and a single computer for each administrative office would certainly satisfy the need for a thorough and efficient education. Finally, a new closet in principal's office cannot be considered necessary for a thorough and efficient education.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has demonstrated, nor has the Township refuted, that its equipment needs have reached the point of requiring large-scale replacement in order for District administration to function in a reasonably efficient manner. In addition, by making these purchases part of the District's overall technology upgrade, the Board may be able to realize economies and efficiencies not possible if purchases are made in small lots. The Township argues that, as set forth in the General Fund line item above, Modular trailer offices are not necessary for a thorough and efficient education when additions have been provided to the currently existing school buildings.

The Board argues that funds are needed to repair a leaking roof in the Waretown Elementary School, which has caused the room below it to be unusable so that speech classes are now doubled up in one instructional area.

The Township contends that no itemization has been provided by the Board as to whether the amount set forth represents a new roof for the building's recently added wing, or maintenance/upgrading of the currently existing roof. If part of the recent addition, clearly the proposed repair is covered by the contractor who performed the construction. If for the maintenance of the old roof and or replacement of same, the repairs should be undertaken step by step.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that a condition of disrepair or damage which prevents utilization of a necessary instructional space cannot be phased in over time, but must be remedied so as to provide for adequate facilities. There being no indication that any contractor is responsible for this repair so as to effectuate it at once, as opposed to the Board seeking to recover costs later, the Commissioner grants the waiver amount of $18,000 as necessary for T & E.

APPLICATION OF SURPLUS

In its advertised annual school district budget statement, the Board projected an unreserved surplus of $206,759 and allocated none of this amount as revenue, leaving the full $206,759 as undesignated unreserved surplus.

Upon review of the District's annual year-end audit report,¹ the Commissioner finds that the Board underestimated its unreserved General Fund balance by $228,122, so that $153,994 in excess surplus is available to fund restorations as follows:

SUMMARY

In summary, the Commissioner directs restoration or sustaining of the Township's line-item reductions to appropriations, and approval or non-approval of cap waiver amounts, as set forth below. The Commissioner further notes that all restorations and approvals of line-item appropriations are restricted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.11(b)3, and that the chart below does not necessarily reflect correct codings in those cases noted above where allocations must be made by the Board based on actual usage or program distribution.

¹ The Commissioner notes that the 6/30/95 Report of the Board Secretary was incorrect in its balance sheet presentation. The recapitulation of budgeted fund balance, one of the most important sections of the report, was left blank. A district administration's failure to provide its board with an interim report in the mandated format will result in the board's being denied a full understanding of the district's fiscal position throughout the year, a situation which cannot be countenanced if the board is to meet its statutory and Constitutional obligations.

Record Closed: October 5, 1995

BEFORE J. ROGER PERSICHILLI, ALJ:

Beginning of Transcript

Petitioner, Glen F. Kennedy, a resident of Warren, New Jersey, seeks emergent relief to enjoin the local board of education from disseminating false and misleading information and postponing a vote on a bond referendum scheduled for October 17, 1995 until the board provides the affected taxpayers with specific information on the manner in which these bonds will be redeemed. Petitioner asserts that irrevocable harm will occur if a vote is forced before the information is provided. He requests that the Warren Board of Education be required to distribute a brochure to all Warren residents on or before October 10, 1995, addressing the manner in which the bonds will be redeemed and their true tax effect on the taxpaying public or, alternatively, cancel the election until ten days after a brochure is distributed. He also requests that the Board be prevented from using taxpayer funds to support this referendum. This latter point is somewhat inconsistent with petitioner's demand that the Board distribute a brochure to all Warren residents. Petitioner has supplied an affidavit with exhibits attached, in support of his position. He has also presented further argument this morning.

The Warren Board of Education denies that it has provided false or misleading information concerning resulting real estate tax increases, assuming that the voters approve the October 17, 1995 bond referendum. It also denies any allegation that it has inaccurately reflected projected student enrollment or that it expended funds for any purpose other than educating the public concerning bond referendum issues. The Board has submitted the affidavit of Murray S. Peyton, the School Business Administrator and Board Secretary which addresses issues relating to the bond referendum. It also presented the further arguments of counsel this morning.

I have considered the submissions and I have considered the arguments and in my judgment petitioner's emergent relief application must be DENIED.

Initially, I FIND that the petitioner has offered insubstantial evidence, at best, to challenge the certification of Dr. Murray S. Peyton which details facts surrounding the two proposals to be submitted to the voters of Warren Township. One concerns the issuance of bonds in the principal amount of $7,250.00 for certain identified major construction and the second proposal concerns the additional expenditure of $960,000 to construct two additional kindergarten classrooms.

I also FIND that there is insubstantial evidence, that is, viewed in this light most favorable to petitioner, to suggest that the Board has either intentionally or unintentionally issued false or misleading statements which would, effectively either be confusing or misleading to the voters of Warren Township. Essentially Mr. Kennedy sees contradictions and/or discrepancies which he feels are "misleading" in nature. He also recognizes that what is misleading to one individual may not be misleading to another; Mr. Kennedy feels that this information must be viewed essentially from the average citizens point of view and not necessarily from the perspective of a CPA. But I have really nothing credible before me to suggest who that average citizen may or may not be and it is equally likely that the average citizen may also subscribe to petitioner's point of view in assessing this information. In any event, the information appears adequate, perhaps more than adequate, and voters can certainly vote yes or no on the information before them.

In my judgment, petitioner has not demonstrated a reasonable probability of success on the merits. In fact, the once case that I could locate in this abbreviated time schedule, Twp. of Berkeley, Ocean Cty. v. Central Ocean Regional Board of Education, Ocean Cty., which is found in 1964 SLD (School Law Decisions) 159, fully supports the Board's actions:

The last allegation is that the Board of Education failed to place the financial implications of the proposal before the voters. Petitioner's argument on this point seems to rest on the contention that the Board failed to offer alternative methods of financing the proposed improvement on even advise the voters that alternative methods were available and did not advise the voters that any surplus could be used for tax reduction in future budgets. The Commissioner is able to find no basis in this allegation for setting the election aside. Alternative proposals in a referendum are inadvisable because they do not yield dispositive results. It is perfectly proper as a matter of procedure to submit one proposition to the voters which they can approve or reject. Additionally, a board of education which submits a legitimate proposal in a lawful manner, is not legally obliged to advise its constituency that alternative methods exist whereby such a proposal may be effectuated.

It is not my function to get into the merits at this juncture, but it is only to the extent that I FIND that Mr. Kennedy has not demonstrated reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits. This is one criteria of consideration in Crowe v. DeGioja, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) and under N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1(e). In my further judgment petitioner has not demonstrated affirmatively that any other relevant criterion is present for him to prevail in this emergent relief application. Postponement of the referendum will not accomplish what petitioner perceives to be the problem nor does it translate, in any fashion, to irreparable harm. The perceived harm is speculative and without credible support. Postponement of the referendum will, most likely, result in unreasonable expense and significant, if not substantial, inconvenience to the Board and ultimately to the residents of Warren Township.

It's within the Board's proper discretion, to call for a special election for important issues relating to capital outlay. There are open-door discussions, and information is available to the taxpayer, certainly sufficient to enable the taxpayer to make an informed vote. In fact, the information presented today reveals that there is a public meeting scheduled to be heard on October 9, 1995, concerning this referendum and certainly public members can further inquire into the need and/or specifics pertaining to any issue relating to their taxpaying concerns.

In final analysis, I am compelled to CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to demonstrate that emergent relief should be granted pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1(e) or under the basic principals of Crowe v. DeGojja, previously cited. Thus, I ORDER the application for emergent relief be DENIED.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Respondent.

Chris Shuster, petitioner, pro se

David W. Carroll, Esq., for respondent (Carroll & Weiss, attorneys)

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The petitioner alleges that the Montgomery Township Board of Education (BOE) recommended a particular, two-story plan for construction of a new middle school in conjunction with a referendum on a proposal authorizing the BOE to issue bonds and to undertake such construction. The BOE denies that the proposal referred to, incorporated or was limited by a particular plan. Township voters approved the proposal. Thereafter, for reasons including a Freshwater Wetlands Protection Act ruling that made more land available on the construction site than was originally expected, the BOE abandoned the two-story plan and endorsed a new, one-story plan. N.J.S.A. 13:9B-8. Construction of the school according to the one-story plan is expected to cost approximately the same amount of money as construction according to the two-story plan. However, the petitioner alleges that, compared to the two-story plan, the one-story plan is educationally inferior, that it will cost more to maintain and that it will provide less flexibility for expansion. The petitioner claims that the BOE should be enjoined from moving forward with the construction according to the one-story plan and he claims that the BOE should be ordered to construct the new school according to the two-story plan.

This order resolves the petitioner's motion for an order immediately enjoining the Board from moving forward with the construction according to the one-story plan, pending a plenary hearing and a decision on the case. The BOE submits, inter alia, that the petitioner fails to satisfy the standards for such an injunction.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On August 22, 1995, the petitioner's verified petition was filed with the Department of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. In a letter dated August 23, 1995, the Department notified the petitioner that he would need to file a notice of motion, etc., to obtain an emergent injunction of the BOE. In a letter filed with the Department on September 18, 1995, the petitioner did not refer to a notice of motion, but set forth enumerated allegations and argument by which he attempted to demonstrate that he met the standards for the granting of a motion for an injunction. On September 27, 1995, the BOE's answer to the petition was filed with the Department. The Department transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on September 28, 1995, it was filed as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15. The OAL's clerk construed the petitioner's letter as a motion for emergent injunction of the BOE and mailed to the parties notice that, on October 5, 1995, the "motion" would be argued. On October 5, 1995, the parties appeared, the BOE objected to the argument of the motion because of the lack of notice of same and the motion was argued.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The area served by the Montgomery Township school district is being developed. Consequently, the area's population is growing and is expected to continue to grow further, increasing demands for governmental services, including school services. The petitioner is a resident of the area served by the school district.

A "Building Project Ad-Hoc Committee," including members of the community, the BOE and the school administration, studied the matter, collected information and, in 1994, based upon criteria including "completion time, flexibility to meet changing population and program needs, site availability and cost," prepared a report including a recommended a plan of action to "resolve current facilities problems and meet the long-term needs of the students and the community." P-1, N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1. The committee recommended a substantial construction project, including construction of a middle school with features including "a configuration that permits clustering of academic classrooms by grade level" and serving 800 students. The BOE retained Faridy Thorne Fraytak, P.C., which, based upon expectations, such as the amount of land available at a given site, prepared plans, including a two-story plan for a new middle school with grade "cluster[s]." P-1, P-2. The total cost of the project was estimated to be over $32,000,000, of which the cost of construction of the new middle school was estimated to be about $17,000,000.

Consistent with N.J.A.C. 6:22-1.1, the BOE obtained the Department's approval of the plans and, at the BOE's October 10, 1994 meeting, it passed a resolution providing for a special school district referendum election to be held on November 29, 1995 during which election, the following proposal would be submitted:

The [BOE] is authorized (a) to provide for [1] the construction of an addition to connect the Burnt Hill Road School and the Orchard Road School to provide core facilities and the renovation of and the construction of additions to each school to provide additional space, other interior improvements and additional parking, [2] the construction of renovations and additions to the High School to provide for science laboratories, locker room and auditorium improvements and [3] the construction of a new middle school on land owned by the [BOE], including play fields and, [4] for all of the above, including play fields and, for installation of equipment and furnishings and related work, and (b) to issue bonds of the School District for such purpose in the principal amount of $31,368,000.

[R-1, emphasis added.]

Faridy Thorne Fraytak presented the plans for the project, including the two-story "proposed middle school layout," to the public and the project was the subject of public debate. P-4. The BOE Vice President and chairman of the BOE Building Committee, in a letter published in the October 21, 1994 edition of The Princeton Packet, a local newspaper, characterized the proposed buildings' plans as "preliminary schematics." P-3. A BOE member, in a letter published in the November 18, 1994 edition of The Princeton Packet, wrote that the "plan recommended by the ad hoc facilities committee and approved by the [BOE] is the most effective option available to meet our district's needs" and she urged voter approval of the proposal. P-5. The superintendent of schools, in a letter published in the November 18, 1994 edition of The Princeton Packet, wrote that "The plan is not vague, rather it is quite detailed. The educational specifications upon which the architect's drawings are based are several hundred pages of detailed descriptions of every space to be built renovated or modified." P-6.

Prior to the referendum, the BOE mailed to voters a "referendum brochure" which referred, e.g., to the current enrollment and "need" for additional facilities for current and/or expected enrollment; (if the referendum was not approved and the project did not go forward) the possibility of a "disruptive" "split session plan;" the "cost" of available options; etc. The brochure also included copies of the plans for the project, including the two-story plan for the new middle school. P-7.

On November 29, 1994, copies of the plans for the project, including the two-story plan for the new middle school, were placed at the polling place and the voters approved the referendum. P-8.

Following approval of the referendum, the BOE learned that a Freshwater Wetlands Protection Act ruling that made more land available for the new middle school site than was expected when the two-story plan was prepared. N.J.S.A. 13:9B-8. That is to say, the school's “footprint” no longer had to be limited to that of the two-story plan and could be enlarged as in a one-story plan. The BOE and its consultants reconsidered the matter and, in 1995, abandoned the two-story plan and endorsed a new, one-story plan. P-9. Construction of the school according to the one-story plan is expected to cost approximately the same amount of money as construction according to the two-story plan and the one-story plan provides for expansion, including expansion by way of second stories that can be added.

The petitioner demonstrated no expertise but offered his opinions that, compared to the two-story plan, construction according to the one-story plan is educationally inferior; that, ultimately, construction according to the one-story plan will cost more to maintain; and that construction according to the one-story plan will provide less flexibility for expansion. The petitioner’s unqualified opinions were not well-defined, not detailed and not credible.

The BOE is preparing to offer bonds to finance the project in mid-November 1995 and, the BOE alleges, an injunction and delay in the project will complicate the bond process and will result in an increased interest rate for the borrowed money. Such an increase would have to be borne by the district taxpayers.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

In deciding on a motion for entry of the extraordinary remedy of a preliminary restraint, the following must be considered: (1) As a matter of law, the moving party must be clearly entitled to the relief claimed. (2) As a matter of fact, it must be reasonably probable that the moving party will prevail on its claim when it is fully heard; i.e., all the material facts should not be in issue. (3) The moving party must suffer immediate and irreparable harm if the restraint is not immediately entered and the moving party must have no adequate remedy at law. (4) The relative hardships resulting to the parties if the restraint is granted or denied must be balanced against one another and the hardship of the moving party if the restraint is denied must outweigh the hardship of the objectors if the restraint is granted. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6, R. 4:52-1. See also, Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-134 (1982); Suenram v. The Society of the Valley Hosp., 155 N.J. Super. 593, 596-97 (Law Div. 1977); Noble v. D. Van Nostrand, Co., 63 N.J. Super. 534 (Ch. Div. 1960); Dolan v. DeCapua, 16 N.J. 599, 614 (1954); New Chancellor Cinema, Inc.

v. Town of Irvington, 169 N.J. Super. 564, 572-73 (Law Div. 1979); Green v. Piper, 80 N.J. Eq. 288 (Ch. 1912).

Weighing in favor of the petitioner is the fact that the BOE presented the two-story plan to the voters as part of the basis for the vote on the proposal. Weighing against the petitioner is the following: The proposal, as stated, did not incorporate or refer to a particular plan. The BOE Vice President and chairman of the BOE Building Committee publicly characterized as (merely) "preliminary" the project's plans, including the two-story plan. The cost of construction according to the two-story plan is the same as the cost according to the one-story plan. Finally, most importantly, the petitioner has not proven that construction according to the one-story plan, would substantially change the costs and uses of the school from those of the two-story plan such that construction according to the new plan would contravene the voters' approval of the proposal. Contrast with Borough of Farmingdale v. Board of Education of the Borough of Farmingdale, 81 SLD 130, at 133, wherein the proposal, as stated, specifically authorized construction of "a library, kindergarten and a multipurpose room" and, after approval of the proposal, the board eliminated the proposed new library, the kindergarten was reduced from 1,050 square feet to 900 square feet, the multipurpose room was reduced by 20 square feet and, instead, the board proposed administrative offices, nurse's room, teachers' room, mechanical room, maintenance room and a machine room.

Given the above, there is a genuine issue of material fact as to whether construction according to the new plan would contravene the voters' approval of the proposal. Consequently, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to show that it is reasonably probable that he will prevail on his claim when it is fully heard; the petitioner has not demonstrated that, in the event the injunction is not granted, he will suffer immediate and irreparable harm; and in the event the injunction is granted, the BOE and taxpayers may suffer irreparable harm to the bonding process.

ORDERS

I DENY the motion for preliminary restraint.

An expeditious hearing being necessary, by October 12, 1995, the parties may serve any discovery requests and, by October 19, 1995, the parties must serve answers to timely served discovery requests. The parties will be notified of the hearing date.

Finally, I encourage the parties to confer and work to settle their differences in order to avoid the costs that will result from full litigation of this case.

This Order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SYNOPSIS

Board appealed General Fund tax levy reductions in the amount of $1,352,332 made by governing body following voter rejection of proposed budget on April 18, 1995.

Upon review of the appeal herein to determine whether Board demonstrated that restoration of specific line-item reductions was necessary in order to provide a thorough and efficient system of education in the district, Commissioner determined to restore $804,332, for a total General Fund tax levy of $21,435,784 for 1995-96 school purposes. Due to coding errors, Board was directed to submit a revised budget. Board was further directed to undertake a study of its administrative structure and custodial costs.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

For the Petitioner, Sidney A. Sayovitz, Esq. (Young, Dimiero & Sayovitz)

For the Respondents, John H. Dorsey, Esq. (Dorsey and Fisher)

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on June 16, 1995 through the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Morris Hills Regional Board of Education (Board), seeking restoration of reductions to the school budget made by the Mayor and Council of the Township of Denville, Mayor and Council of the Borough of Rockaway, Mayor and Council of the Township of Rockaway, and Mayor and Council of the Borough of Wharton (Councils) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 following defeat of the budget at the annual school election on April 18, 1995.

At that election, the voters rejected a public question proposing a General Fund tax levy of $21,988,784 for the 1995-96 school year. On May 15, 1995, following consultation with the Board as required by law, the Councils adopted a resolution determining to certify a General Fund tax levy of $20,631,452 as sufficient to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education (T&E) in the District. This amount represented a reduction of $1,357,332 from the tax levy proposed by the Board, and was effectuated through cuts in 28 line items, for the reasons given in Attachment A, appended to the implementing Councils' resolutions. By resolution dated May 23, 1995, the Board determined to appeal these reductions and duly filed the within petition.

The amounts originally in dispute in this appeal were as follows:

Tax Levy Proposed by Board		Tax Levy Certified by Councils
General Fund	$21,988,784	General Fund	$20,631,452
Amount of Reduction by Councils		Amount of Reduction in Dispute
General Fund	$1,357,332	General Fund	$1,357,332

An Answer to the Board's petition was filed by the Councils on June 30, 1995. On July 25, 1995 and July 31, 1995, respectively, the Board and Councils filed Position Statements pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8, followed by Responsive Statements on August 14, 1995 by the Board, with Final Summations filed by the Board on August 23, 1995, and a Response and Summation filed by the Councils on August 15, 1995. During the course of the proceedings before the Commissioner, the Board raised objections to the timing of the Councils' filings. However, in view of the fact that the Councils' Answer was timely filed, and it presented an adequate statement of reasons at the time of the reductions, the lateness of subsequent filings neither prejudiced the Board, nor compromised the time frame for development of the appeal.

Accordingly, all Councils' filings are accepted and reviewed herein. To the extent that the Councils, as alleged by the Board, brought new arguments to the appeal in their Final Summation, the Commissioner, in making his determinations, has been mindful of the lateness of those arguments and has assessed their weight accordingly.

In its position statement, the Board indicated that it concedes to the Councils' reduction of $5,000 in Account No. 11-000-270-420 (Cleaning, Repair and Maintenance). The amounts remaining in dispute are, thus, as follows:

Tax Levy Proposed by Board		Tax Levy Certified by Councils
General Fund	$21,988,784	General Fund	$20,631,452
Amount of Reduction by Councils		Amount of Reduction in Dispute
General Fund	$1,357,332	General Fund	$1,352,332

In addition, as the parties had previously been advised by letter from the Assistant Commissioner dated April 7, 1995 and distributed through the County Superintendent to boards and municipalities experiencing budget defeats, as part of the record of the within appeal, the Commissioner took official notice of the Board's revised budget and its June 30 financial report, the latter for the purpose of identifying whether the Board underestimated in its 1995-96 budget the amount of anticipated undesignated surplus.

Upon filing of the parties' Final Summations as noted above, the record of the appeal was closed.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for T&E. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such T&E to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line-item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of T&E. Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989).

Mindful, then, of the standard to be applied, the Commissioner makes the specific determinations set forth below.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

At the outset, the Commissioner notes that the Board's budget contains numerous coding errors. The Board is instructed to note the appropriate accounts for erroneously coded expenditures, as identified herein, and to reappropriate miscoded items accordingly. Further, the Board is hereby directed to henceforth follow the chart of accounts required for district use pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.2(m) and to accurately code its expenditures, including allocating salaries of employees based on functions performed, rather than titles held.

Disputed Line-Item Number 1

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
02670	11-190-100-500	Other Purchased Services	$105,360	$8,000

The Board contends that the Councils are incorrect in taking the position that this account does not directly involve classroom expenditures. Rather, the Board submits that this category includes classroom-related costs such as computer repair, student field trips and paper products. Further, the Board notes that it has added 100 to 150 computers in each of the last three years and the increase in the service account reflects the additional hardware. Additionally, the Board has determined that the District will be involved in the "World Games," a multi-cultural program designed to incorporate economics, geography and culture into a "hands-on" experience. The cost of the World Games exceeds $4,000. Thus, the Board asserts the $8,000 reduction is unjustified.

The Councils argue that the Board should be willing to do with less for all overhead accounts which do not directly involve classroom expenditures, as well as accounts for travel and extraordinary expenses. The Councils note that in 1993-94, the Board spent $88,757 in this category, and the $105,360 proposed budget represents an 18.7% increase. Further, the Councils assert they wish to allow the Board normal recurring expenditures, but argue that new overhead items should not be added during tight budget periods. Moreover, Councils argue that they have failed to locate accounts which could verify the Board's addition of 100 to 150 computers each year. Nor, the Councils add, did the Board indicate if these computers were replacements, which would enable substitution of one service contract for another, or new additions. The Councils also maintain that they do not wish to eliminate funding for the World Games, and thus left a "generous increase" in this account over normal spending patterns. However, Councils contend that if these games are so important to the Board, "then Board member travel should be curtailed to pay for them." (Councils' Reply/Summation at p. 3)

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that neither the Board's supporting documentation nor its past expenditures and appropriations justify the full amount of increase proposed in this budget category. Accordingly, the Commissioner determines to sustain the reduction of $8,000. In addition, the Commissioner notes that all repairs and maintenance, other than for transportation vehicles, should be budgeted under Operations and Maintenance, Account No. 11-000-260-420. Additionally, admission fees for field trips should be coded in Account No. 11-190-100-800, and the transportation costs for said trips are to be coded in the Transportation (270) function. Finally, paper products are properly coded as Supplies and Materials in Account No. 11-190-100-610.

Disputed Line-Item Number 2

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
02680	11-190-100-610	Instruction-General Supplies	$302,950	$20,000

The Board asserts that, contrary to Councils' position that this account should not vary from year to year other than for changes in enrollment, this account reflects changes in curriculum. The Board again contends that computers are a necessity, and, accordingly, the District has added 100 to 150 computers in each of the last three years. Further, the Board avers it has increased its graduation credits from 120 to 140, phased in over a four-year period, as well as doubled the fine and practical arts credits required for graduation. The Board notes that, as a result of the increased art requirements, enrollments in the arts have increased dramatically (from 414 in the 1991-92 school year to 858 in the 1995-96 school year). To accommodate this increased interest, the Board offered a new "Computers in Art" course, which has created a corresponding need for increased teaching supplies and related consumables. The Board maintains that the art supplies associated with increased enrollments and the additional supplies needed by the increased use of computers do not permit further reduction in this account.

The Councils assert that an account such as this should not vary much from year to year, other than for changes in enrollment, which have not been significant in the District, and changes in prices, which recently have not been material. The Councils also argue that an account such as this offers the potential for one-time savings if the Board holds off on advance purchasing of next year's supplies with current year budget funds. The Councils note that the Board spent $248,310 for teaching supplies in 1993-94 and has spent $272,832 in the 1994-95 school year, as of the date of their review, and the Councils expect that April-to-June requirements should be minimal. Therefore, the Councils reason, if the Board allows the balance in this account to lapse, that balance will be approximately $50,000 or 12.5% of the Councils' recommended surplus addition of $400,000. Any supplies for next year can then be purchased beginning in July. The Councils further argue that the Board's projection of $302,950 for the 1995-96 school year would then appear excessive by approximately $20,000, allowing for the small enrollment and price increases. It is unlikely, the Councils maintain, that the Board will need to spend $629,081 (combined 1994-95 and 1995-96 budgets) over a 24-month period for teaching supplies when it only spent $248,310 for the prior 12 months. The Councils direct that savings within this account can be achieved with proper management, either through a lapse to surplus and utilization as revenue or through advance purchasing of 1995-96 supplies and corresponding reduction in the 1995-96 budget. In recommending the $20,000 reduction, the Councils also point to a significant lapse to surplus in this account for 1994-95 and argue that if this lapse is not realized by the Board due to advance purchasing, the 1995-96 budget can be reduced even further.

In its Reply/Summation, Councils dispute the Board's contention that increases in this category are a reflection of changes in curriculum. Instead, Councils assert, "Curriculum changes simply change the types of supplies purchased and do nothing to change the overall level of purchases." (Councils Reply/Summation at p. 3) The Councils further argue that use of computers should result in a decreased need for teaching supplies, rather than an increased need. As for the Board's argument about new courses, the Councils counter that new courses replaced old courses and do not always result in the need to purchase more supplies. Moreover, the Board's art enrollment for 1995-96 is a total of 24 students, which, Councils contend, does not justify a more than 10% increase in this account.

In its Final Submission, the Board asserts that the Councils' contention with regard to the replacement of old courses with new courses reflects its "simplistic non-educational bias." (Board's Summation at p. 3) Additionally, the Board maintains that "erasers, pencils, paper and workbooks are still needed in classrooms and are used everyday," irrespective of the Board's increased use of computers for instruction. (Id.)

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that neither the Board's supporting documentation, nor its past expenditures and appropriations justify the full amount of the increase proposed in this budget category. Accordingly, the Commissioner sustains the reduction of $20,000.

Disputed Line-Item Number 3

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
02640	11-140-100-101	Grades 9-12 Salaries of Teachers	$9,432,220	$86,000

The Board initially contends the Councils' analysis is flawed in that it presumed the Board's budget would be in excess of the settlement needs. Instead, the Board asserts, it budgeted for a 4% increase and the final settlement was for a 4.9% increase. Thus, the Board contends it was forced to cut programs in the technology/occupational curriculum; specifically, Cosmetology 1-2 and Child Care Services 1-2 were eliminated. While 21 students have attempted to enroll in Cosmetology for the 1995-96 school year, the Board notes that only 16 will be able to be serviced through the Morris County Vocational Technical School. Similarly, 22 District students enrolled in Child Care Services, and only three have been accepted by the Morris County Vocational Technical School. The Board affirms that the salaries for the two teachers affected by these program cuts are in excess of $90,000. It further argues that the reduction impedes the implementation of its philosophy to meet the needs of all students in a comprehensive high school setting and anticipates a risk of high school dropouts where students' needs are left unmet by the curriculum.

The Councils argue that the Board consistently achieves favorable budget results in this account due to "breakage," or the replacement of retiring teachers, who are at the top of the pay scale, with new hires closer to the bottom of the pay scale. The Councils add that the Board's history of breakage is significant, and more than accounts for the $86,000 reduction in this account. Comparing the 1995-96 budget for teaching salaries with the 1994-95 projected year-end results, the Councils contend there is "an increase which is substantial and likely far in excess of any settlement which may be reached by the Board. This is indicative of breakage that has already occurred which has not been reflected in the 1996 budget." (Councils' Position Statement, Section 7) The Councils, therefore, argue that the reduction fairly accounts for the final settlement and teacher advancement on the pay scale. The Councils further argue that, since they cannot yet accurately allocate this reduction between regular teachers and teachers in various areas of special education, they leave the Board with the task of making such allocations through budgetary transfers, and take the $86,000 from the "regular" salary line item.

Upon review, the Commissioner determines to sustain the reduction of $86,000, based on the Board's past expenditures and transfer patterns.

Disputed Line-Item Number 4

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
06090	11-402-100-100	Athletics Instruction Salaries	$757,530	$40,000

The Board avers the increased budget proposed for this account reflects the following: longevity increases; three new coaching positions to accommodate expanding girls' soccer and field hockey programs, for a total of $10,050; the $4,000 increase in the athletic director's salary; a $900 increase for the athletic department's secretary; and a $2.50 increase per official as mandated by the Iron Hills Conference. (Two officials per event at $2.50 each = $5.00 x 1,600 events = $8,000). These increases, the Board argues, add a total of $54,470 to the current spending. Given the 1994-95 expenditures of approximately $660,000, and applying the negotiated 4.9% increase, approximately $692,000 will be required simply to cover salary guide increases. Add to this the $54,470 and the Board, thus, concludes that $757,530 is a reasonable appropriation. The $40,000 reduction will, the Board asserts, result in the inability to supply the athletic program in its current format and will deprive the district of its ability to properly coach the girls' soccer teams and field hockey teams.

The Councils argue that the Board appears to have substantial excess in the athletic salaries account. The Councils note that in 1993-94, $654,766 was spent for salaries, leaving a budgeted balance of $67,779. During that year, Councils assert, all sports were offered and no programs were cut, yet the budget was excessive. The Councils aver the same situation exists for 1995-96, inasmuch as the two year's proposed figures represent a 15.7% increase from 1993-94. The Councils further argue that while there may be more positions filled now than in prior years, as well as more expansive programs, it does not appear that the Board needs such large increases in these accounts. While the Councils recognize the need for new positions and normal increases in salaries, they assert that even where there were new positions and salary increases in the past, there was never more than a 1% increase in total expenditures, due to turnover in coaching (and the corresponding breakage) and the fact that many planned positions go unfilled. Accordingly, the Councils recommend reductions of $40,000 from salaries, noting that the resulting budget amounts are still far in excess of current spending patterns. The Councils add that the reduction of $40,000 still leaves nearly a 9% provision for an increase to cover salary raises and new positions. "If a 15% annual increase were normal, this account would be over $1,000,000 in a few years." (Councils' Reply/Summation at p. 5)

Upon review, the Commissioner notes that while the Councils' reduction may inhibit the expansion of athletic opportunities, the Board has not demonstrated such expansion is integral to its provision of T&E. Accordingly, the Commissioner sustains the reduction of $40,000. Further, the Commissioner notes that this line item should not accommodate funds for secretarial positions. Funds for school secretaries are properly budgeted to school administration in Account No. 11-000-240-105.

Disputed Line-Item Number 5

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
06100	11-402-100-500	Athletics-Purchased Services	$158,830	$20,000

The Board argues that the increased proposed appropriation in this line item reflects increased costs and participation of students in the athletic programs. Among the additional costs which did not exist in 1994-95, the Board identifies boys' and girls' freshman soccer transportation (practices and games), soccer transportation (practices and games), field hockey transportation (games), and uniforms and protective equipment for three additional sport levels. The Board also identifies increased costs, such as the rise in cost of ice time from $150 to $175 per hour at an estimated 100 additional hours. Thus, the Board concludes that the $20,000 cut will deprive it of its ability to provide the programs that currently exist, as well as the additional programs for field hockey and soccer for the girls.

The Councils consider not only the above line item, but account number 11-402-100-600 (Athletics/Supplies and Materials) and account number 11-402-100-800 (Athletics/Other Objects). The Councils note that in the 1993-94 school year, spending totaled $247,187 for these three accounts, leaving budgeted balances of $27,975 (other expenses) unexpended. The Councils further note that while 1994-95 expenditures remained rather steady, the 1995-96 projections climb significantly to $280,880, an increase of 13.6% from the 1993-94 school year. Thus, the Councils recommend a $20,000 reduction from the Purchased Services account, noting that the resulting budget is still far in excess of current spending patterns. The Councils indicate that, as proof of the overbudgeting in these areas (referring also to disputed item number 4, supra), the 1994 audit shows $49,948 unspent in co-curricular program salaries and $9,693 unspent in other expenses. Like athletics, the Councils reason, these areas have direct student impact, yet the Board chose not to spend the full amount available for these programs in 1993-94.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Councils have sufficiently demonstrated that the additional costs in this budget category are not necessary for the District's provision of T&E. Accordingly, the Commissioner sustains the reduction of $20,000. Further, the Commissioner notes that this line item should not accommodate funds for transportation of pupils in athletic programs. As noted above, all transportation costs are properly budgeted in the Transportation (270) function.

Disputed Line-Item Number 6

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
06360	11-000-100-56X	Instruction/Tuition	$1,145,108	$150,000

The Board indicates that the above-referenced budget reflects costs in special education tuition for 35 students totaling $992,071, tuition (increased from $400 to $800 per student) to Morris County Vocational Technical School for 77 students totaling $61,600, and tuition for three students attending state facilities totaling $44,164. These costs total $1,097,835. The Board further argues that the Councils' calculations do not account for changing student populations (i.e., students transferring into the District, students subject to reevaluation which determines a need for specialized day placements and students leaving the District) which created a net gain of five students in the 1994-95 school year. The Board anticipates, based on past experience, an average of three "net" students requiring specialized placements over and above those projected for 1995-96. Further, the Board cites a "due process" case and court-approved settlement which required the District to pay educational costs of $37,429 in 1995-96. Of the $1,145,108, the Board has budgeted $1,097,835 for tuition, supra, with the remaining $47,273 available for the anticipated three new students or new placements as may be needed for the 1995-96 school year.¹ The Councils' $150,000 cut, the Board contends, would not permit sufficient monies to pay for existing students even without the anticipated increase of three students.

The Councils take the position that the Board has ample room in its reduced 1995-96 budget, to pay all remaining bills, plus two large potential settlements. The Councils contend that new placements can be covered for the partial year tuition by surplus appropriations. Alternatively, the Councils argue that new placements are no more likely than placements being moved out of the District, which is always a source of unanticipated funds. The Councils further challenge that 15 more projected students in 1995-96 can result in more than double the actual costs of 1993-94 (81 students at $1,145,108 versus 66 students at $538,970). They contend that, despite the Board's listing of student names, actual enrollment for 1995-96 is not likely to be as projected, and the Board's history of overbudgeting accounts casts doubt on its analysis. Thus, the Councils conclude that the nearly 32% increase over 1994-95 spending does not appear warranted, and the $150,000 reduction is reasonable.

The Board counters that the Councils' argument regarding overbudgeting in 1995-96 ignores the actual names of students (by initials) which the Board documents as requiring tuition costs for the coming year.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has insufficiently taken into account the possibility of students leaving the District and the availability of ample funds in its surplus account to cover any unforeseen placements. Accordingly, the Commissioner sustains the reduction of $150,000.

06430	11-000-213-100	Health Services/Salaries	$229,440	$10,000

The Board argues that it will be more cost effective to use its in-house physicians and nurses to perform routine physicals required of its athletes than to continue to use the private medical organization, "Urgent Care," to provide these services, a cost which did not appear in this line item. Thus, the Board continues, the additional costs associated with having school nurses present for additional hours will be $1,650; the physician costs will also increase to an estimated $9,920. The Board reasons that these total additional costs of $11,570 are significantly less than costs the Board has incurred by using Urgent Care.

The Councils argue that this account is up over 17.5% from the projected 1994-95 spending, but indicate that, inasmuch as this account includes doctor stipends, the source of the overbudgeting is difficult to determine. The Councils note in their Reply/Summation that, while the Board proposes to use in-house medical staff for routine physicals, it fails to indicate where the corresponding cost savings will be realized. Since the remaining (non-salary) health accounts total only $4,270, and the Councils contend that the Urgent Care costs must have been charged within the health accounts, they conclude that the Board could only have charged these expenses to salary accounts, thus proving that the 1995-96 provision is excessive in that it does not reflect the anticipated savings.

The Board counters that the total athletic department budget increased by 1% for the 1995-96 school year, even with additional personnel, so that the savings caused by the increase in the Health salaries account is reflected in the Athletic Department's budget.

Upon review, the Commissioner notes that, although the Board argues that the use of in-house physicians and nurses is a cost-saving measure, as indicated by the Councils, such savings do not appear to be reflected elsewhere in the budget as claimed by the Board. Accordingly, the Commissioner determines to sustain the reduction of $10,000.

06490	11-000-218-104	Other Support Services/ Sal.	$938,720	$40,000

The Board argues that, while $789,035 was spent on this account in 1993-94, the District had erroneously failed to charge one of its counselor's salaries to this account, but later remedied the error when the counselor was correctly charged to the account for 1994-95. In 1994-95, $921,455 was budgeted, and the Board anticipates $905,000 will actually be expended. Applying the 4.9% increase to salary expenditures of $905,785, approximately $950,000 will be required to pay for salaries of guidance counselors in 1995-96. Thus, the Board avers the 1995-96 increases are not excessive. Moreover, the Board notes that the Councils do not challenge the number of guidance counselors and argues that its current staffing level is required to provide a T&E system of education.

The Councils argue that the Board should be making attempts to reduce rather than increase, administrative out-of-classroom costs. The Councils note that in 1993-94, the Board spent $789,035 in this line item and, at the time of its review, Councils projected the Board would have spent $856,196 in 1994-95. The Councils dismiss the Board's argument as to misclassification, asserting that such misclassification in 1993-94 would only have caused the Councils to reduce more from the teaching salary account, where the salary was erroneously applied. The Councils further note that the Board's analysis is incomplete where it fails to include salary of the (misclassified) guidance counselor. Thus, the Councils conclude that, given that no new hires are planned, the 1995-96 proposed budget is excessive, and they, therefore, recommend a $40,000 reduction.

The Board counters in its Summation that the Councils were provided the salary of the employee who was misbudgeted as a teacher.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board's proposed salaries in this category, as appropriately coded, are justified in accordance with maintenance of T&E levels of student support services and with past appropriations and expenditures, as well as negotiated salary increases. Accordingly, the Commissioner restores the reduction of $40,000.

06760	11-000-221-104	Improvement/Instructional Services/Salaries/Other Professional Staff	$186,670	$93,332

The Board argues that the administrative position eliminated by the Councils would severely impact upon the District's ability to provide a T&E system of education. The eliminated position is one of two Directors of Instruction. One director is responsible to evaluate 22 English teachers, three consulting teachers and two basic skills teachers. The other is responsible for evaluating 28 math/computer science teachers, three consulting teachers and two basic skills teachers. In the 1994-95 school year, the Board notes that these two directors each conducted 114-118 written evaluations of staff. The Board argues that the elimination of one of the District Directors of Instructional Services positions will have a devastating impact upon the District's ability to evaluate teachers in such areas as English or Mathematics. The responsibility for evaluating these teachers cannot be simply reassigned, the Board contends, to other administrators who are already evaluating teachers in various disciplines. Additionally, the Board avers that it does not employ subject supervisors, but must use existing staff to fill in as needed. The Board further sets forth the ratios of teachers to administrators and the rate of students to administrators in comparably sized districts.

The Councils maintain that they are looking for provisions that are excessive and would likely result in transfers from the accounts during 1995-96. The Councils indicate that this line item contains costs for one secretarial position ($40,570) and three professionals, whose salaries are $93,332, $93,332 and $110,084, and who are primarily responsible for staff evaluations. The Councils further argue that in most cases, these functions are handled by school principals, vice-principals, superintendents and their assistants. The Councils maintain that Morris Hills has an adequate complement of both of these levels of administrative staff, and these three positions seem to be more of a luxury rather than a necessity. The Councils suggest that the District has an aggressive plan of evaluation which can be scaled back, and argue that the positions do not appear to be absolutely necessary for T&E within the District. Accordingly, the Councils recommend the elimination of just one position within this account and corresponding salary reduction of $93,332.

In its Reply/Summation, the Councils add that with the number of administrators in Morris Hills, they find implausible the Board's argument that it would be "impossible" to function without one position. The Councils assert that if the State of New Jersey's position is that local governments and school boards must become more efficient, then areas like this account must be reduced.

In its Summation, the Board clarifies that it uses the administrators to perform multiple functions, such as evaluations, discipline and other duties, as evidenced in its supporting documentation. The performance of evaluations, the Board maintains, is the most optimal use of its staff.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has demonstrated the need for this position within its current administrative structure, and, accordingly, restores the reduction of $93,332. The Commissioner directs, however, that the Board undertake, and submit to the County Superintendent, an analysis of this structure in order to identify, prior to development of the 1996-97 budget, ways in which to accomplish appropriate economies and efficiencies.

06810	11-000-221-500	Other Purchase Services	5,500	2,000

The Board argues that account number 11-000-221-320 is used to fund discretionary staff development activities and mandated T&E testing. Citing its recent recognition by the New Jersey State Department of Education for its staff development activities, the Board asserts it is committed to an extensive program of staff development activities, and has tangible evidence of the positive effect of these activities on the District. The Board indicates that although the program is voluntary, a high percentage of staff participate. Additionally, the District has produced a Framework for Instructional Decision Making, a written document which incorporates the best ideas from the staff development program and which teachers use as a guide in lesson planning. The Board further alleges that one of the goals of the program is to permit students to become more active learners; while there can be no conclusive link between the program and student achievement measures, there have been increases in SAT scores, and AP scores and the District has scored near the top of its socioeconomic grouping on the HSPT-11 scores. The Board maintains that its staff development program attempts to develop in-house expertise for teachers, thereby reducing the need for outside consultants. The 1995-96 staff development budget, thus, contains a cut of $30,000 from the 1994-95 expenditures because of the reduction in use of outside consultants. The Board, therefore, submits that the staff development activities for 1995-96, already reflecting a $30,000 reduction, should not be cut further and the activities recognized by the Commissioner should be allowed to continue.

The Councils argue that the Board should be reducing rather than increasing overhead accounts. The Councils note that in 1993-94, a total of $49,499 was spent on purchased services and supplies within the accounts covered by the four employees, as discussed, supra, and, through nine months of 1994-95, $73,377 was expended. The Councils further note that in 1995-96, the budget jumps to $123,170. The Councils point to this account as one which does not have direct classroom impact, and also point to a 1995-96 budget which is 2 1/2 times the actual spending of two years ago. The Councils assert that the District must attempt to control administrative overhead and eliminate items that are desirable but not necessary for T&E. Moreover, the Councils argue that the Board does not dispute that a $93,420 provision in this overhead account is excessive compared to a $41,186 spending level in 1993-94, and $62,254 through nine months of 1994-95. Accordingly, the Councils recommend a reduction of $30,000 from these accounts, as follows: $20,000 from Purchased Professional Services, $8,000 from Other Technical Services and $2,000 from Other Purchased Services.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board's supporting documentation does not justify the proposed appropriation in this budget category. Accordingly, the Commissioner determines to sustain the reductions of $20,000, $8,000 and $2,000, respectively to these line items.

06850	11-000-222-100	Library/Salaries	$347,330	$50,000

The Board denies that this line item is overbudgeted. The Board indicates that it spent $283,679 for library/media personnel salaries during the 1993-94 school year; in 1994-95, $364,590 was budgeted and $335,129 was actually expended, leaving a balance of $29,461. For the 1995-96 school year, the actual salaries for the employees in the library/media program will be $346,970, based on the recently negotiated agreement. These actual salaries represent $360 less than the budgeted amount for the 1995-96 school year, the Board maintains. Moreover, the 22.4% increase cited by the Councils, argues the Board, can be explained by the fact that one librarian's salary was inadvertently charged to the teacher's salary account in 1993-94 rather than to this library/media account. When this salary is added to the 1993-94 salaries, and two years of increases are taken into account, the Board asserts it is clear that the library/media account is appropriately budgeted, and readily apparent that the Councils' analysis here is flawed based on a misunderstanding of this account. The Board further argues that, although new instructional services, such as on-line research, have been placed upon the libraries, no new staff have been added to the budget.

The Councils assert that the Board's overbudgeting in this line item is "glaring" (Councils' Position Statement, Section 14.) The Councils note that salaries are up 22.4% in two years and even more compared to actual projected spending this year. The Councils further argue that a savings should be reflected in the 1995-96 budget since one position remains vacant. Accordingly, the Councils recommend the reduction of $50,000 from this account, arguing that if the position was deemed unnecessary to be filled by the Board's own actions, then the Councils feel that it should remain unfilled throughout 1995-96.

Upon review, the Commissioner notes that the Board has clarified the reasons for the discrepancy between 1993-94 expenditures and subsequent appropriations, and, moreover, has sufficiently demonstrated that the proposed 1995-96 budget is necessary to maintain its current staffing levels, as the vacant position referenced by the Councils is, in fact, not funded by the Board's proposed budgeted amount. Accordingly, the Commissioner determines to restore the reduction of $50,000.

06870	11-000-222-500	Library/Purchased Services	$27,750	$12,000

The Board argues that the 1995-96 budget reflects additional expenditures; specifically, the Board is replacing a circulation desk purchased in 1964 which will cost $13,370. Further, the 1995-96 budget reflects costs for technology needed to maintain the library: a $7,000 purchase of library management software to allow for full integration of library systems and services; labor costs of converting existing system to the computerized system ($13,000); and $5,000 for the purchase of two computers.

The Councils assert that library expenses are up substantially over prior spending. The Councils observe that $69,173 was spent two years ago, $53,187 was spent through nine months of 1994-95, and the budget climbs to $93,910 for 1995-96. While the Councils "do not wish to take a single library book out of the hands of students," (Councils' Position Statement, Section 15) they argue that the Board cannot justify a 35% increase in this account in just two years. The Councils also question the timing of the Board's expenditures. Specifically, they question why the Board did not purchase the circulation desk in 1994-95 with the $44,353 which was not actually spent through the first nine months. Similarly, the Councils question why the computer system was not purchased with the $31,337 that lapsed in the 1993-94 budget. The Councils further indicate that in account 300, there was $10,000 budgeted and $0 spent for 1993-94 and $10,000 budgeted and $665 spent in 1994-95, and $10,000 again budgeted for 1995-96. The Councils argue that the $12,000 budget reduction can be almost covered by this one account, which has never been budgeted accurately in the past. The Councils recommend the reduction of $12,000 from this account.

Upon review, the Commissioner notes that the Board is supporting its budgeted appropriation in this line item with, inter alia, the need for library equipment purchases which should be budgeted elsewhere. Specifically, the proper account for library equipment purchases is Account No. 12-000-220-730. Since the Board appears to have adequate funds for these purchases elsewhere in the budget, the Commissioner sustains the reduction of $12,000.

06930	11-000-230-339	Support Services/General Admin/Other Purchased Professional Services	$49,080	$6,000

The Board asserts that the amount budgeted is required for negotiations and services anticipated during the 1995-96 school year. The Board maintains that it will be involved in negotiations with three of its bargaining units during the 1995-96 school year and the expenditures for negotiations alone will require a significant increase in this line item. Further, the Board rejects the Councils' "simplistic analysis" that it must reduce all overhead accounts. (Board's Position Statement, Section N) The Board contends that the negotiations process significantly affects its ability to provide a T&E system of education, inasmuch as salaries make up the overwhelming majority of expenditures within the District. The Board argues that to arbitrarily reduce an account in which three bargaining units will be participating in negotiations is to ignore the obvious necessities of running a public school system.

The Councils argue that the 1995-96 budget is a duplicate of the 1994-95 budget ($49,080), despite the fact that the Board's spending in the first 10 months of 1994-95 was $37,414. The Councils also question why, if negotiations will require a significant increase in funds, the Board budgeted the same amount for 1995-96 as in 1994-95. Urging the Board to reduce all overhead accounts, the Councils recommend a reduction of $6,000.

Upon review, the Commissioner notes that while the Board indicates that the funds in this category are designated for bargaining unit negotiations, insufficient justification is offered to permit the Commissioner to maintain this line item at the proposed amount. Accordingly, the reduction of $6,000 is sustained.

Disputed Line-Item Number 16

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
06950	11-000-230-530	Support Services General Admin/Telephone	$132,000	$8,000

The Board indicates that its 1995-96 budget for this line item remains largely the same as the 1994-95 budget. The Board's preliminary estimates for 1994-95 expenditures are approximately $120,765. The difference between this amount and the 1995-96 budgeted amount is $11,250; however, with Councils' cut, the difference is $3,250. The Board argues that the 1995-96 school year budget reflects an additional cost of $8,400 for a digital data line connecting the District's schools to an Internet access provider. The Board asserts that the access of the student body to the Internet brings the future into the high schools. Currently, only two of the District's 2,000 students can avail themselves of access to Internet simultaneously; whereas, the Board argues, the installation of the new digital data line would significantly increase the number of students who have access to the information superhighway. Moreover, the Board recognizes that the existing telephone system provides unrestricted student access to the Internet allowing students to retrieve information which may be unsuitable for high-school age students; whereas, the new digital data line will provide the capability for appropriate filtration of the information provided to the students. The Board further warrants that its 1995-96 instructional program has been planned with the digital data line as a necessary prerequisite. For instance, the foreign language programs will utilize interaction with students in foreign countries; mathematics and science students will enter on-line competitions sponsored by the Stevens Institute of Technology; students in social studies will access the Library of Congress, and science students will access information from NASA. The Board maintains that it does not regard accessibility to Internet as a luxury which should be eliminated, but rather a critical component of education for the 1995-96 school year and beyond. The Board calculates that the line-item reduction, together with expected increases in telephone costs, will affect the District's ability to provide T&E.

The Councils review past expenditures, noting that in 1993-94, $111,557 was spent, and in the first 10 months of 1994-95, $99,803 was spent. Thus, the Councils argue that the Board seeks to budget for 1995-96 an amount which represents an 18.3% increase from 1993-94. The Councils contend that allowing for increased usage of fax machines (which should actually reduce postage) and some provision for cost increases, a $124,000 budget should be adequate for the Board. The Councils, therefore, recommend a reduction of $8,000 from this account.

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that, assuming 1995-96 school year costs are comparable to those in 1994-95, the Board will require, based on its figures, approximately $120,800, together with funds for telephone line purchase and installation at $8,400, for a total need, absent a provision for cost increase, of $129,200. Accordingly, the Commissioner determines to restore $6,000 and sustain $2,000 of the Councils' reduction to this account.

06960	11-000-230-590	Support Services/General Admin/Other Purch. Servs	$183,450	$50,000

The Board avers that while it budgeted $198,450 in this account in 1994-95, it expended $201,578, due to a postal rate increase and increased costs of paper. The Board affirms that it is committed to reducing costs, inasmuch as it has budgeted an amount in 1995-96 which is $15,000 less than the 1994-95 budgeted amount. Yet, the Board contends that Councils' reduction in excess of 27% from the amount budgeted is drastic. The Board is willing to concede to a $15,000 cut, but argues that a $50,000 cut will deprive it of needed services during the school year.

The Councils again look to past expenditures and note that in 1993-94, the Board spent $126,072 in this account. Thus, they argue the 1995-96 budgeted amount represents a 45.5% increase from two years prior. The Councils aver that since this account covers items such as insurance, advertising and travel, there should not be material fluctuations from year to year, as there is in this instance. The Councils argue that the largest component herein, liability insurance, shows a savings from the budgeted amount every year, yet the budget never is reduced. Moreover, Councils indicate that travel, another major component of this account, should be minimized by the Board in times of budget constraints; yet, this also seems to remain stable or increase. Further, Councils assert that areas such as printing and public relations, while nice to have, are not necessary for the Board to provide T&E. Past spending patterns, Councils maintain, do not justify a provision of $183,450 within this account. Accordingly, the Councils recommend a $50,000 reduction.

In its Reply/Summation, the Councils contend that if the District in fact spent $201,578 in 1994-95 in this account, then, they reason, $78,750 was spent in the last three months of the school year. Since the insurance bills were already paid at the time of the Councils' analysis, the Councils question what could have caused the spending of this large amount in three months when only $40,943 was actually encumbered as of March 30, 1995. The Councils assert that this is likely an attempt by the Board to negate the Councils' analysis of lapseable surplus funds, while providing historical spending patterns to negate the 1995-96 budget cuts. Councils argue this action by the Board raises serious doubts as to their financial credibility. They conclude that the Board deliberately spent down budget appropriations to counteract the Councils' budget reductions and surplus projections.

The Board counters that its spending patterns are not necessarily equally dispersed over the course of twelve months, and argues that the issue is not the timing of expenditures, but the necessity of expenditures. The Board asserts that, had the Councils ascertained the Board's projected spending over the last three months of the 1994-95 school year, they might not have been surprised by the uneven fluctuations in spending patterns. (Board's Summation, p. at 7)

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board's past expenditure pattern fully supports the Councils' contention. Accordingly, the Commissioner sustains the reduction of $50,000, and notes in addition that postal costs are properly coded in Account No. 11-000-230-530.

07060	11-000-240-500	Support Services - Admin/ Purchased Services	$137,220	$27,000

The Board argues that the increase in this account item reflects increased costs of the items in the account. Specifically, the Board indicates that it experienced a postal rate increase of 10%, and that the cost of paper has risen in excess of 80% during the last six months of the 1994-95 school year. The Board states that more than half of the budgeted amount in this account is for postage and printing costs for students (e.g. progress reports and report cards mailed home eight times a year; the costs of the printing of student handbooks for 2,000 students.) The Board contends that a reduction in this amount is arbitrary and does not reflect its increased costs.

The Council asserts that postage, travel, printing and other overhead items cannot be allowed to rise from $101,203 in 1993-94 to $137,220 in 1995-96. At a minimum, Councils argue these items should be kept stable and, hopefully, they should be reduced by the Board. Councils acknowledge the increase in postage, but argue that, since this increase occurred in early 1995, the effect in the 1995-96 budget is only 5% rather than 10%. The Councils suggest that the Board reduce its newsletters and public relations when postage and paper costs rise, rather than ask for more funding for these areas. None of these items will have a direct impact on students according to Councils' analysis, and the reduced amount should be sufficient for normal spending with provisions for inflation. Accordingly, the Councils recommend the reduction of $27,000 from this account. The Councils hold that the $27,000 reduction can be managed by the Board by minimizing expenditures. The Board counters in its Summation that, even when costs of particular items, like paper, rise, these items are still needed by students. The Board states that it regards Councils' argument as analogous to a claim that hospitals should reduce the usage of medicine when prices rise.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Councils' reduction in this line-item account is in accordance with past expenditures, and notes that the Board has not established that such reduction will impair its ability to provide a T&E system of education. Accordingly, the reduction of $27,000 is sustained.

Further, the Commissioner notes that all postal costs are properly coded in Account No. 11-000-230-530.

The Board asserts that Councils are recommending the elimination of three positions without benefit of review of the Board's space and analysis of its programs. The Board argues that proper maintenance of facilities and compliance with all relevant codes and statute are integral to T&E. In this regard, the Board contends that its regional high school services 2,000 regular day students, 350 adult high school students, and 4,500 adults enrolled in the 200 courses offered each semester after school. Further, the Board justifies that there are 399,375 square feet of building space in the two main high school buildings, and 153 functioning classrooms. In addition to the two high schools, the Board notes that the custodial and maintenance staff also must service a maintenance building, garage and the stadium field house, along with the 89 acres of usable land for athletic fields, lawn areas and parking lots. These facilities, the Board avers, are utilized many times even within the same day. The Board also provides supporting documentation demonstrating the use of District facilities by both in-school and outside organizations. Thus, the Board reasons, given the demands placed upon the use of the 400,000 square feet of building space and the 89 acres of outdoor fields, the need for proper maintenance and cleaning cannot be underestimated. The Board affirms that there are 23 custodians who are responsible for cleaning 400,000 square feet and they must often clean their areas more frequently than traditional cleaning services required in office buildings who work 9-5 shifts. The Board reasons that while each custodian is responsible for approximately 17,391 square feet, the custodian is actually responsible for far more since facilities are often used twice a day. The Board, therefore, argues that it is reasonable to add a factor of 30% to the cleaning obligations of the custodians. Accordingly, the Board determines each custodian is responsible for more than 22,500 square feet of cleaning; in the 1995 survey by "American Schools and University" of maintenance and operations, it was reported that the average custodian cleaned 16,824 square feet. Thus, the Board concludes that Councils' budgetary reduction is an arbitrary number which, if implemented, will have a serious and deleterious impact upon the maintenance of the Morris Hills facilities. If these facilities are allowed to deteriorate, the Board affirms, T&E will be jeopardized.

While the Councils recognize the need for clean schools and properly functioning equipment, and acknowledge that the District occupies larger than usual buildings with more acreage than most schools surveyed, they nevertheless find the provision for the number of employees and large amounts of overtime to be excessive. Thus, Councils argue that three positions can be eliminated from this budget and that overtime, given the remaining complement of employees, should be cut in half. Accordingly, the Councils recommend the reduction of $100,000 from this account. Moreover, Councils assert this reduction of $100,000 is an attempt to permit attrition since retirements or resignations are likely to occur in this account. The first three positions vacated for any reason will not be filled, according to the Councils' recommendation.

In their Reply/Summation, Councils also challenge the Board's need for $125,000 in overtime when it has a staff of nearly 40 employees working around the clock. Councils maintain that reductions can be taken from overtime without any impact on the number of positions. However, Councils indicate that no other district surveyed has the number of operations and maintenance personnel as Morris Hills on a per-square-foot basis and none paid as much overtime per employee as Morris Hills.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has demonstrated a need for these services, based on the size of the District and the documented current usage of District facilities. Accordingly, the Commissioner restores the reduction of $100,000. However, in view of the extent of the Board's expenses in this line item, the Board is hereby directed to undertake a analysis of its custodial situation and to develop, and submit to the County Superintendent of Schools, a plan for effectuating cost reductions. In addition, as it appears from amounts budgeted in Miscellaneous Revenues that the Board does not charge a usage fee to the many outside groups and organizations which regularly utilize District facilities, that such plan should consider, among other things, a provision for charging such fees in order to partially offset the Board's maintenance costs.

The Board asserts that it expended $545,288 during the 1993-94 school year; in the 1994-95 school year, $552,074 was spent. The Board reasons that proper budgeting for the energy account requires some acknowledgment of the extreme fluctuations which have been experienced in recent history. For instance, while the Board is now paying approximately 60 cents per gallon for heating oil, there were years when the price of heating oil exceeded $1.09 per gallon. Thus, the Board strongly believes that it is imprudent to budget based upon the lowest prices and not provide any reasonable excess for potential, sudden increases in energy costs. Accordingly, the Board has budgeted the 1995-96 school year at an average cost of 85 cents per gallon for heating oil, which it anticipates as reasonably precautionous. Thus, the Board asserts that the Councils' arbitrary reduction to the current low price for heating oil is imprudent. The reduction of $80,000 to $579,000 provides insufficient flexibility should the price of heating oil increase by even small amounts. The Board asserts that any reduction in excess of $25,000 in this account could seriously jeopardize the Board's ability to keep schools open either in a very cold winter or if heating oil prices suddenly increase.

The Councils note that $545,228 was spent in the 1993-94 school year where one of the harshest winters was experienced. Through the first 10 months of the 1994-95 school year, approximately $450,000 was spent, with the light energy-usage months of May and June remaining. Councils observe that the Board now seeks to raise its budget in this account to $659,000, an amount 20% higher than the average spending of the last two years. The Councils further advise that the Board cannot continue to budget for the worst case scenario. They argue that if there are drastic price increases, surplus appropriations can be made to cover these costs, or transfers can be made from discretionary spending accounts without the need for budgeting excessively. Consequently, the Councils recommend an $80,000 reduction.

The Board counters in its Summation that, rather than budgeting for the worst possible case, it has budgeted at an average cost of 85 cents per gallon for heating oil and projected consumption is based on an average winter.

Upon review and in consideration of past expenditures, the Commissioner finds that such energy expenses are necessary and the Board's method of budgeting is neither unreasonable nor adhering to a "worst case scenario." Recognizing the Board's concession as to the feasibility of a $25,000 reduction, the Commissioner, sustains $25,000 and restores $55,000 of the reduction.

07210- 07230	11-000-270-10X	Student Transportation Salaries	$611,000	$26,000

The Board indicates that the salaries in this account have been the subject of an unsettled contract with the Bus Drivers' Association for over two years. The Board explains that during the 1993-94 and 1994-95 school years, salaries were paid at 1992-93 rates. The Board expended $533,511 for transportation salaries in 1994-95. Further the Board indicates that a tentative settlement has been reached and is expected to be implemented. The Board asserts that this settlement requires a 6% salary increase for the 1993-94 school year, a 4% increase for the 1994-95 school year and a 4% increase for the 1995-96 school year. Applying these increases to the 1992-93 expenditures of $533,511, the Board calculates the following salary totals: for the 1993-94 school year, the salary expenditures should be $565,521; for the 1994-95 school year, the salary expenditure should be $588,142; for the 1995-96 school year, the salary expenditures should be $611,668. Accordingly, the Board notes that for the 1995-96 school year, the implementation of the mediator's salary settlement will require $668 more in this account than the $611,000 that is budgeted. Additionally, the Board will be required to fund the retroactive salary increases for the 1993-94 and 1994-95 school years. Thus, there will be a retroactive payment to the bus drivers in the amount of $32,010 ($565,521 - $533,511) and $54,631 ($588,142 - $533,511) for the 1994-95 school year, for a total of $84,641 in additional salary adjustments required to be funded out of the 1995-96 school year budget.

The Councils argue that there appear to be excess funds within this salary account. A total of $611,000 is budgeted in 1995-96 against a 1993-94 spending amount of $530,235 representing an over 15% increase in two years. A projection of 1994-95 spending made by the Councils is approximately $555,000. Thus, Councils argue, the excess in this account is expected to be $26,000; they recommend reduction by this amount and maintain there is adequate provision for not only next year's raises, but also the prior year's retroactive raises which may not have been fully reserved as of the settlement.

In their Reply/Summation, the Councils counter that the Board's appreciation of anticipated raises to the 1992-93 spending level is only appropriate if the exact same complement of personnel exists in 1995-96 as existed in 1992-93. Additionally, Councils indicate there is a large unspent balance in the 1994-95 salary account, according to their analysis as of March 30, 1995, which will more than cover the cost of the retroactive salary increases for 1993-94 and 1994-95, unless the funds were transferred by the Board since May 15, 1995.

The Board questions the Council's claim that a large unspent balance in the 1994-95 salary account should cover the retroactive cost adjustment, since Councils have repeatedly observed that the unspent monies will fall into surplus.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has duly demonstrated its need for the increased appropriation in these line items due to its contract settlement, and, accordingly, restores the reduction of $26,000.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
07230	11-000-270-600	Student Transportation/ Supplies and Materials	$142,000	$42,000

The Board argues that, contrary to the Councils' assertions, the Board spent $139,706 in this account in 1994-95, a significant increase over the monies spent in 1993-94 ($79,880). The Board attributes the sudden increase in this account to the difficulty in predetermining expenditures for the repair of large school buses. The Board asserts that the in-house expenditures of $79,880 for 1993-94 rose to $139,706 in 1994-95. In addition, the costs of outside services (accounts 511-515) rose from $213,592 in 1993-94 to $255,257 in 1994-95, for a total of $394,963. The amount budgeted in 1994-95, the Board indicates, was only $380,000. The Board also argues that the Councils' attempt to isolate Account No. 11-000-270-600 from the sister accounts of 11-000-270-511 to 515 ignores that all these accounts concern the costs of operating the school buses; focusing on only one account creates a misleading impression of overbudgeting. The Board submits that based upon the 1994-95 actual expenditure of $139,706, its 1995-96 budget of $142,000 is reasonable and the reduction in this account is unjustified.

The Councils assert that perhaps nowhere is the Board's history of overbudgeting more obvious. The Councils contend that the Board has never spent even $100,000 for supplies in this account, yet the $142,000 budget is repeated, unrealistically, for 1995-96. The Councils note that although through March of 1995 only $57,221 has been spent, indicating that a large balance can be expected to lapse to surplus, the Board again has an unreasonable budget request for 1995-96. The Councils further challenge the Board's method of analyzing "sister accounts" and argue that each account is specific and it is entirely proper to evaluate this particular account without reviewing any of the other 500 series accounts. The Councils, therefore, recommend the reduction of $42,000 from this account which, they assert, based on actual spending, will have absolutely no impact on the education of students within the District.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds the Councils' argument persuasive and that the Board has made no showing that the monies in dispute are necessary for T & E. Accordingly, the Commissioner determines to sustain the reduction of $42,000.

07430	11-000-290-330	Business and Other Support Serv./Purch. Prof'l Services	$62,000	$9,000

The Board argues that the Councils' analysis does not constitute a detailed review of this account. The Councils' position, the Board asserts, incorrectly implies that there have been generous increases in this account over 1993-94 expenditures. However, the Board states, in the 1993-94 school year, the District expended $50,105 in this account; in 1994-95, the District expended $59,825, due to rate increases by professional service vendors. The increase in the budget in this account represents a 3.3% increase over actual expenditures for the 1994-95 school year. The Board argues that such an increase is not generous, but merely reflects anticipated cost of living increases. Further, the Board argues that this account provides services for activities under the "Right to Know" Law, as well as asbestos abatement/testing, hazardous waste disposal and architectural work. Much of the work provided for in this line item is statutorily mandated and cannot be reduced. Thus, the Board concludes that the Council's reduction of $9,000 is clearly unjustified and will deny the Board its ability not only to provide the required services, but to ensure the safety and health of students and employees.

The Council's position is that an increase over prior spending does not appear to be justified and again questions the timing of the Board's expenditures. Therefore, the Councils recommend a reduction of $9,000 from this account, still allowing for what they assert are generous increases over 1993-94 amounts.

Upon review, the Commissioner determines to restore the reduction of $9,000, inasmuch as the Councils provide insufficient detail for directing reduction of expenditures for mandatory activities which appear to be consistent with prior costs. However, the Commissioner notes the following miscodings and directs that the restoration be attributed to the correct accounts: Costs related to the Right to Know Law, asbestos abatement/testing and hazardous waste disposal should be budgeted under Operations and Maintenance of Plant Services (function 260) in the appropriate object (420, 490 or 590); and funds for architectural work are properly budgeted in capital outlay under Facilities Acquisition and Construction Services, Account No. 12-000-400-390.

07450	11-000-290-500	Business & Other Supplies Serv./Other Purch. Services	$89,500	$40,000

The Board argues that this account has been one where expenditures vary greatly from year to year. In the 1993-94 school year, the Board expended $192,847 in this account; in the 1994-95 school year, only $45,981 was expended. The Board notes that while the $89,500 proposed 1995-96 budget represents a figure nearly double the 1994-95 expenditures, it is still less than half of that spent in 1993-94. The Board explains that the major expenditures in these accounts are attributable to the data processing department which provides student scheduling, warning notices, report cards, attendance and other student-related services, as well as business functions. The Board contends that the major fluctuation in these accounts is due to the upgraded hardware and software, and the purchase of service agreements which are needed for a rapidly changing technology environment in the 1990s. The Board further argues that because of the lapse of existing service agreements which accompanied the purchase of new computers and equipment, it was forced to enter into a one-year computer maintenance agreement for 189 computer systems in excess of $46,600 for the 1995-96 school year. Also included in this account is the software service agreement for the personnel package at a rate of $2,500 per year. The Board explains that any software revisions needed in the student software package which produces schedules, report cards, progress reports, attendance and other student-related operations costs between $3,000 and $6,000 per year. Accordingly, the Board contends that the three computer-related costs will produce from $52,000 to $55,000 in expenses for the 1995-96 school year. Additionally, this account includes expenses of the business office, such as mandated advertising and postage ($12,000). Therefore, the Board argues, the Councils' assumption that a $49,500 budget will be sufficient to cover all expenses in an account in which the Board expended $192,847 in 1993-94 is clearly unjustified. Further, the Board maintains the loss of services in this account will have a direct effect on the operations of the District and will result in serious impact upon report cards, scheduling and other information services related to students.

The Councils argue that items such as postage, travel and advertising must be reduced by the Board in tough economic times. The $40,200 amount budgeted in 1994-95 increased to $89,500 for 1995-96, even though only $24,158 was spent through the first nine months of that year. The Councils further argue that the lapse of one service agreement and replacement with another does not justify the need for more funding. The Councils argue that the Board provides no evidence that this account must be higher than the 1994-95 budgeted amount of $40,200, and note that the report cards, scheduling and other information services relative to students were accomplished in 1994-95 for $45,981 and can be done in 1995 for $49,500. Accordingly, the Councils recommend the reduction of $40,000 from this account.

Upon review, the Commissioner notes that the Board has failed to demonstrate the need for virtually doubling this account, but does, however, demonstrate a need for increased appropriations. Accordingly, the Commissioner determines to restore $20,000 of the Councils' reduction and to sustain $20,000. Additionally, the Commissioner notes the following miscodings and directs that the restoration be attributed to the proper account: repair and maintenance contracts on computers are properly budgeted under Operations and Maintenance, Account No. 11-000-260-420, and all postal costs are properly coded in Account No. 11-000-230-530.

Disputed Line-Item Number 27

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
07460	11-00-290-600	Business & Other Support Serv./Supplies & Materials	$46,100	$5,000

The Board notes that it spent $39,540 in the 1993-94 school year and $40,630 in the 1994-95 school year in this account. The Board argues that the increase in this account for 1995-96 is the result of a significant increase in the cost of paper for photocopying equipment. The bid price during the 1994-95 school year for one case of copier paper was $16.42 and the bid price for the 1995-96 school year is $29.70 per case. The Board indicates that the business office accounts for approximately 43% of this budget item and the need for paper constitutes a significant portion of those expenses. The increase of approximately $5,500 in this account is required by the dramatic increase in the cost of paper.

The Councils assert that the Board should be decreasing this budget, inasmuch as past and current spending ($39,540 in 1993-94 and $29,470 through ten months of 1994-95) do not support a budget request of $46,100. The Councils question why, if paper costs went up 80% six months into the last school year, the total costs for 1994-95 only rose to $40,630 from $39,540 in 1993-94. The Councils assert that the Board's attempt to blame every supply account increase on the cost of paper is unsubstantiated, and therefore, recommend a $5,000 reduction from this account.

Upon review, the Commissioner determines that the Board's usage for the first ten months of 1994-95, together with the increased cost of paper, which is undisputed by the Councils, justifies increases to this line item. Accordingly, the reduction of $5,000 is restored.

APPLICATION OF SURPLUS

In its advertised annual school district budget statement, the Board projected an unreserved surplus of $1,197,945 and allocated $340,572 as revenue, leaving $857,373 as undesignated unreserved surplus.

The Councils argue that based on a line-by-line analysis of the 1994-95 budget and an independent projection of spending in each line item through the end of the year, over $1,000,000 will lapse to surplus for 1994-95. Inasmuch as the Board indicated to the Councils that no major expenditures were planned during May and June that were unexpected at the time of budget preparation, and assuming that the Board does not transfer funds for new projects or new initiatives, but simply allows funds to lapse, Councils argue there will be at least an additional $400,000 in surplus funds to be added to the Board's revenues for 1995-96.

The Board's annual financial report filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-10 (June 30 Board secretary's report) reveals that the Board estimated an unreserved general fund balance on June 30, 1995 of $1,197,945. It further demonstrates that the unreserved General Fund balance was overestimated by $222,883, as the actual use of surplus in the 1994-95 budget was $1,546,761. Based on the advertised 1995-96 budget statement, there is no excess surplus available to fund restorations, as shown in the following calculation:

1995-96 General Fund Appropriations ($28,341,383) x 3%	$850,241
June 30, 1994 Audited Unreserved Surplus	$2,521,823
1994-95 Use of Surplus	1,546,761
Projected June 30, 1995 Unreserved Surplus	$975,062
Less 1995-96 Budgeted Fund Balance	(340,572)
Remaining Unreserved, Undesignated Fund Balance	$634,490

The budgeted fund balance used in the calculation above is the amount of surplus originally appropriated by the District and does not include the additional surplus recommended by the Councils of $400,000. Based on the report of the Board secretary, it would appear that the $400,000 additional appropriation of surplus as a revenue would place the District in a precarious position, leaving only $234,490 in unreserved fund balance, or only 0.8% of its 1995-96 General Fund appropriation. Accordingly, the Commissioner restores the $400,000 to undesignated unreserved surplus. He does so, however, expressly contingent upon verification of actual surplus amounts through the District's 1994-95 annual year-end audit report.

SUMMARY

In summary, the Commissioner directs restoration or sustaining of the Councils' line-item reductions to appropriations and surplus accounts as set forth below. The Commissioner further notes that all restorations to line-item appropriations are restricted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.11(b)3, provided, however, that where amounts at issue have been incorrectly coded, as noted above, appropriations are restricted to the correct account.

SYNOPSIS

Board appealed General Fund tax levy reductions in the amount of $214,824 made by governing body following voter rejection of proposed budget on April 18, 1995. Board also appealed General Fund cap waiver in the amount of $790,716 rejected by voters.

Upon review of the appeal herein to determine whether restoration of specific line item reductions and approval of cap waiver amounts was necessary in order to provide a thorough and efficient system of education in the district, Commissioner determined to restore $213,294 and order the increase of $790,716 in cap waiver monies for a total General Fund tax levy of $6,565,878 for 1995-96 school year.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This consolidated matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on June 15, 1995 through the filing of two separate Petitions of Appeal by the Board of Education of the Township of Florence (Board), one seeking restoration of reductions to the school budget made by the Council of the Township of Florence (Council) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 following defeat of the budget at the annual school election on April 18, 1995, and the other seeking to appeal the defeat of the Board's cap waiver proposal at that same school election.

In February 1995, the Board had advised the County Superintendent that the Board would need a "voter cap waiver" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-28(f) in order to be able to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education (T&E) in the District. The County Superintendent ultimately determined, by way of letter dated March 27, 1995, that $790,716 of the Board's voter cap waiver was necessary for T&E and, therefore, appealable in the event of voter defeat, but that the remaining $114,982 was not.

At the annual school election, the voters rejected a public question proposing a General Fund tax levy of $5,776,692 for the 1995-96 school year, as well as a proposed cap waiver question of $905,698 representing the total of both T&E and non-T&E amounts. Following consultation with the Board as required by law, the Council adopted a resolution determining to certify a General Fund tax levy of $5,561,868 as sufficient to provide for T&E in the District. This amount represented a reduction of $214,824 from the tax levy proposed by the Board, and was effectuated through cuts in 32 line items, for the reasons given in the implementing Council resolution. The Board resolved to appeal these reductions and the voter rejection of the T&E portion of the General Fund cap waiver in the amount of $790,716, and duly filed the within petition.

The Board filed a petition on June 15, 1995 requesting the Commissioner to overturn the Council's action in failing to provide the necessary tax levy; the Council filed its Answer on July 21, 1995.¹ A petition contesting the cap waiver defeat was also filed on June 15, 1995. An Answer to this petition was filed by the Council on July 21, 1995.

¹ On July 31, 1995 the Board submitted a letter objecting to the lateness of the Council's Answer in this matter, which it asserts was due June 30, 1995 and not received by the Board until July 24, 1995. It urged rejection of this Answer and all subsequent Council submissions. However, in view of the circumstances detailed in a letter to the parties from the Acting Director, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, the Council's Answer and subsequent submissions are accepted for consideration herein by the Commissioner.

On July 19, 1995 and July 28, 1995, respectively, the Board and the Council filed Position Statements pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8. On August 7, 1995 the Board filed a response to the Council's Position Statement and on August 16, 1995 the Board filed a Final Summation.

On August 18, 1995, the Burlington County Superintendent of Schools filed his affidavit and supporting documents attesting to the process of review and analysis that led to his conclusion, and that of the Department of Education's Cap Waiver Review panel, that a $790,716 "T&E voter cap waiver" should be granted to the Board so as to permit it to increase its General Fund budget beyond the established permissible level. The County Superintendent's filings also reflected that the panel directed a move of $51,331, representing $22,979 for CST Testing Materials and $28,352 for in-school suspension, from the T&E cap waiver to the non-T&E cap waiver request, and a reallocation of resources from the base budget in the amount of $50,701. The County Superintendent's submission also reflects that the Board requested a Commissioner's cap waiver of $415,579, which amount, based upon increased special education costs, was approved by the Acting Commissioner by letter dated March 20, 1995.

In addition, the parties had previously been advised by letter from the Assistant Commissioner dated April 7, 1995 and distributed through the County Superintendent to boards and municipalities experiencing budget defeats, that as part of the record of the within appeal, the Commissioner would take official notice of the Board's revised budget and its June 30 financial report, the latter for the purpose of identifying whether the Board underestimated in its 1995-96 budget the amount of anticipated undesignated surplus.

Upon filing of the County Superintendent's affidavit as noted above, the matter was consolidated and the record of the appeal was closed.

The amounts in dispute in this appeal are as follows:

Tax Levy Proposed by Board		Tax Levy Certified by the Council
General Fund	$5,776,692	General Fund	$5,561,868
Amount of Reduction by the Council		Amount of Reduction in Dispute

	$790,716		$114,982

TOTAL AMOUNT ON APPEAL: $1,005,540

The cap waiver requested by the Board included the following line items, which were determined by the County Superintendent to be necessary, or not necessary, for T&E as set forth below:

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line-item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of T&E. Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989). Additionally, with respect to appeals involving cap waivers, before the Commissioner can direct restoration of any amount of a waiver defeated by the voters, the Commissioner must determine that such amount is fully necessary for purposes of T&E and unable to be derived from further reallocation within the base budget. Board of Education of the Borough of Rutherford v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Rutherford, Bergen County, State Board decision July 7, 1993, and Board of Education of the Borough of Edgewater v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Edgewater, Bergen County and In the Matter of the Cap Waiver Appeal of the Board of Education of the Borough of Edgewater, Bergen County, State Board decision July 6, 1994.

Mindful, then, of the standard to be applied, the Commissioner makes the specific determinations set forth below:

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION - BUDGET

By way of introduction, the Commissioner notes the Council's stated general position with respect to all of the cuts made in the instant budget. The Council maintains that to avoid program cuts, its budget committee directed primary attention to salary expenditures which were increased in excess of 6%, which the Council contends exceeded the Board's salary obligations. Following its review of documentation provided by the Board, the Council's budget committee concluded that the Board had overbudgeted salaries for administrators, teachers, nonteachers, and support staff by 3.01%. The Council applied this percentage reduction to all budgeted salaries, and concluded that $214,823 in the budget could be removed without affecting programs or T&E. The Council relies on this general position in support of each of the cuts made to the following line items and urges the Commissioner to sustain all its reductions.

The Board generally contends that the mathematical formula utilized by the Council in making all of its cuts was fatally flawed. It maintains that the Council erroneously added all the salary accounts, then added all of the actual contracts, both negotiated and nonnegotiated, and subtracted to find the difference. The Council then determined a percentage that it believed accounted for overbudgeting by the Board (3.01%) and arbitrarily applied this percentage to every line item that pertained to salaries, previously negotiated or nonnegotiated. The Board argues that this approach overlooked settled contracts with other employee groups, substitute accounts, travel reimbursements, overtime costs, and other contracted items which the Board is obligated to fulfill, where actual costs were budgeted.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut

2520	11-120-100-101	Grades 1-5 Salaries	1,679,387	50,550
2530	11-130-100-101	Grades 6-8 Salaries	899,074	27,062
2540	11-140-100-101	Grades 9-12 Salaries	1,169,206	35,193
				$116,856

The Board argues that at the time the budget was prepared, the teachers' contract had not settled. Therefore, the Board budgeted an anticipated 4% salary increase in these accounts. Subsequently, this contract settled at a 3.5% salary increase. The Board further asserts that it should be noted that this 3.5% increase does not include longevity benefits. Although the longevity rates were frozen at the current levels, those rates are not included in the 3.5% and, thus, the Board requests that the budget be restored.

Upon review, the Commissioner determines to sustain a cut of .5% to each of the above accounts as the budgeted amount exceeds actual costs by this amount on these salary accounts. The Commissioner, therefore, orders restoration of 3.5% to each of the salary accounts as the Board has demonstrated that this money is necessary to meet its contractual obligations.

In sum, the Commissioner orders $4,031 restored to Account No. 11-110-100-101; $50,297 restored to Account No. 11-120-100-101; $26,927 restored to Account No. 11-130-100-101; and $35,017 restored to Account No. 11-140-100-101.

2640	11-190-100-106	Instruct./Other Salaries	$111,157	$3,346

The Board points out that included in this account are teacher aides' salaries, department coordinator stipends, funds for classroom coverages, morning duty coverages, after school detention coverages, teacher substitutes, credit advancements on the salary guide, retirement and accumulated leave. It argues that the teacher aides account reflects the actual salary increase costs under contracts currently in place which the Board has a legal obligation to meet. The Council does not contend that the District employs too many aides; rather the Council suggests that the Board budgeted more than is needed in this account, which is not the case according to the Board. With respect to the other components of this account, the Board argues that when it prepares a budget, there are certain assumptions which must be made, i.e., projected costs of substitutes and classroom coverages. The Board contends that these estimates were based upon what has occurred in the District over the two years preceding the preparation of the proposed budget, and the figures utilized here reflect accurate estimates.

Upon review, as this account is composed of actual contractual obligation costs and what the Commissioner finds, based on the Board's submissions, to be reasonable projected estimates, the Commissioner orders that $3,346 be restored to Account No. 11-190-100-106.

The Commissioner notes, however, that there are appropriations in Account No. 11-190-100-106 which should have correctly been budgeted elsewhere pursuant to the chart of accounts required for use pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.2(m).² Thus, the Commissioner directs the Board to reclassify all miscoded appropriations to the proper accounts. In making its adjustments, the Board must reclassify the entire amounts which are miscoded, not just the restored portions.

² Examples of miscodings include department coordinator stipends which are properly coded to Account No. 11-000-240-104, unless proration for those who also teach is not possible, in which case the entire amount should be included in instruction as teachers' salaries; retirement and accumulated leave funds which are properly budgeted in Account. No. 11-000-290-290; and funds for teacher substitutes and credit advancements on salary guides which are properly included in the applicable program category as teachers' salaries.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
3080	11-205-100-101	Salaries/Teachers	$320,775	$9,655
3090	11-205-100-106	Other Salaries/Instruction	71,469	2,151
				$11,806

The Board points out that this account includes two categories: (1) salaries for the instructors of the perceptually impaired classes; and (2) salaries for the aides in each of the classes.

The Board argues that the account for the teachers includes the addition of a middle school classroom teacher for the perceptually impaired. The Board asserts it found this additional position necessary because of the increase in the number of special students. It contends that the District has reached the maximum allowable number of students in the other two classes. It addresses that this year, the Board was required to ask the County Office for a waiver for new students, so it would not be required to pay tuition to send the students out of the District. The additional class will enable the District to keep students in the District, thus avoiding unnecessary tuition costs.

The teacher aides account reflects the actual salary cost under contracts currently in place. There were no additional monies placed in this account. Again, the Board argues that the Council does not question the need for the employees represented in this account and believes these programs should not be touched. However, the Board maintains that the Council's assumption that the Board overbudgeted is incorrect. The Board suggests that the personnel in these accounts are needed to maintain the District's current efforts to provide T&E.

Upon review, with respect to Account No. 11-205-100-101, in that the teachers' contract ultimately settled for a 3.5% increase while the Board projected a 4% increase, the Commissioner determines that .5% of the reduction must be sustained and 3.5%, or $9,607 restored. In that Account No. 11-205-100-106 represents actual rather than projected salary expense, the Commissioner determines to restore the full amount of the reduction, $2,151.

3860	11-213-100-101	Resource Room-Salaries	$71,689	$2,158

The Board proffers that this line item pertains to the salaries of the resource room teachers. At the time the budget was prepared, the teachers' contract had not been settled and the Board, therefore, estimated a reasonable percentage salary increase of 4%. The contract subsequently settled at 3.5%. Therefore, there is not an extra 3.01% budgeted in this account as alleged by the Council. The Board states that its intention is to maintain the current program and this account does not include any new positions.

Upon review, the Commissioner determines to sustain a cut of .5% and restore the remaining 3.5% to reflect actual contractual costs in this line item. As such, $2,147 is restored to Account No. 11-213-100-101.

4310	11-218-100-101	Salaries/Teachers	$80,938	$2,436

The Board states that this line item represents the salaries for the District's two speech therapists. It argues that, again, the Council's position is that the Board overbudgeted by 3.01%, when, in fact, as the contract was not yet settled, the Board estimated a reasonable 4% increase. As previously noted, the teachers' contract ultimately settled at a salary increase of 3.5% and the Council does not suggest that the District is overstaffed. The Board finds it necessary to maintain the current staff. The Board avers that the Council does not suggest that this area is overstaffed and it avers that two speech therapists for over 1,500 students is entirely reasonable.

Upon review, in that the teachers' contract subsequently settled at a 3.5% salary increase rather than the 4% budgeted by the Board, the Commissioner determines to sustain a cut of .5%, and restore the remaining 3.5% of the amount in dispute to the Board, in that this represents actual contractual expense. Restoration of $2,424 to Account No. 11-218-100-101 is ordered.

4400	11-219-100-101	Salaries/Special Education	$7,000	$211

The Board argues that it has estimated the probable costs of providing home instruction for the 1995-96 school year based upon an examination of home instruction costs over the previous years, and that the estimate utilized in this account is entirely reasonable.

The Council argues that the Board did not provide the Council with the actual cost or details supporting the "probable costs" and thus, the Council relies on the rationale set forth above to support its 3.01% cut in this account.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds the Board's submitted documentation sufficient to support its assertions with respect to this account and finds these costs necessary for T&E. Therefore, the Commissioner restores the reduction of $211.

4820	11-230-100-106	Salaries Instruction	62,161	1,871
				$7,413

The Board contends that the first account in this category represents the salaries of basic skills teachers. Again, at the time the budget was prepared, the teachers' contract had not been settled and, therefore, the Board anticipated reasonable budget increases of 4%. The contract was subsequently settled at 3.5%. The Board argues that it budgeted only for personnel to maintain the current program, and this account does not include any new positions.

The Board advances that the second account, Account No. 11-230-100-106, includes the percentage of salaries of the supervisors and secretaries correlating to the percentage of time they spend on basic skills related tasks. The salaries for supervisors represent actual contracted costs. In that the secretarial unit had not settled its contract at the time the budget was prepared, the Board anticipated a reasonable increase of 4% and budgeted this amount in this account. The contract subsequently settled for a 5.44% salary increase, resulting in an underbudgeting of 1.44% for this expense.

As to Account No. 11-230-100-101, the Commissioner determines to restore 3.5% of the amount in dispute, or $5,514, as this represents actual contractual cost of the Board.

As to other amounts, the Commissioner notes that the Board has attempted to allocate the support services costs related to Basic Skills to the Basic Skills Programs. Under the appropriate chart of accounts, support services costs related to general current expense are to be rendered under the applicable support services program code. Salaries for supervision of instruction are coded to Account No. 11-000-221-102, Improvement of Instruction Services/Other Support Services Instructional Staff - Salaries of Supervisors of Instruction. Inasmuch as Account No. 11-230-100-106 includes secretarial salaries, as well as supervisors, the Commissioner directs restoration of $1,871 to Account No. 11-230-100-106, as this total amount is required to meet the Board's actual contractual obligations in this item. The Commissioner further directs the District to reclassify to Account No. 11-000-221-102 all amounts that have been included in Account No. 11-230-100-106 for supervisors.

4900	11-240-100-101	Salaries/Bilingual Education	$15,621	$470

The Board states that this line item represents the salary of the teacher of English as a Second Language, replacing the current teacher who is retiring. The Board budgeted the salary of a teacher with no more than three years' experience, and therefore, argues that this account reflects the actual cost of employing a new teacher.

Upon review, in light of the documentation submitted by the Board, the Commissioner finds this line item necessary for T&E and the manner of estimating salary reasonable. Accordingly, he determines to restore the reduction of $470.

6090	11-402-100-100	Salaries/Athletics	93,574	2,817
				$3,197

The Board argues that the money in these accounts is necessary for the current extracurricular program. No new programs are proposed. The Board avers that the Council applied the same mathematical rationale to these accounts that the Council did for all salary accounts. However, the Board asserts that the rationale is faulty. The Board was able to negotiate a freeze on extracurricular salaries at the current rate for one year. The Board contends that extracurricular activities salaries are part of a school district's T&E. Throughout the years, the Board argues it has budgeted for extracurricular activities because of the Board's belief that these activities positively contribute to the characteristics and value associated with educating youth.

The Board, however, concedes that Account No. 11-401-100-100 has $142 more than required expenditures in 1995-96. In Account No. 11-402-100-100, the Board contends the budget contains $633 more than anticipated actual expenses.

Upon review, the Commissioner determines to restore $238 to Account No. 11-401-100-100 and $2,184 to Account No. 11-402-100-100, for a total restoration of $2,422 in that he finds these are actual costs necessary for T&E.

6430	11-000-213-100	Salaries/Health	118,607	3,570
				$3,692

The Board argues that the first line item represents the attendance officer's salary. It contends that this amount is the actual contracted salary for this position which the Board is legally obligated to provide. There is no extra money in this line item, the Board warrants.

The Board asserts that the second line item represents salaries of the three nurses. The Board contends that at the time this budget was prepared, the salary contracts for these individuals had not yet been negotiated; therefore, the Board budgeted for a reasonable 4% increase. This line item merely provides for the maintenance of the current program.

Upon review, the Commissioner determines, in that the first line item represents actual contractual rather than projected salary expense, to restore the entire $122 reduction to Account No. 11-000-211-100. The Commissioner further determines that the second line item here comprises a .5% excess appropriation over the actual negotiated salary costs. Therefore, the Commissioner sustains a .5% reduction in this line item and restores 3.5% of the amount in dispute, or $3,552, to Account No. 11-000-213-100.

6500	11-000-218-105	Salaries/Secretarial, Clerical	26,833	808
				$9,021

The Board argues that the first line item represents salaries for guidance counselors. It contends that this account reflects an increase due to the move of a position from the nurses' account and the proper placement of this position under guidance. It avers that there are no additional positions in this account.

The Board further argues that Account No. 11-000-218-105 contains one salary, the position of a guidance office secretary. The Board asserts that at the time the budget was prepared, the contract negotiations for secretaries had not been concluded and, therefore, the Board budgeted a reasonable 4% increase for this line item. The Board notes that the secretarial contract subsequently settled on a 5.44% salary increase, leaving this line item underbudgeted by 1.44%.

Upon review, the Commissioner determines that Account No. 11-000-218-104 reflects a .5% excess over the actual contracted salary increase for the guidance counselors. Therefore, the Commissioner determines to sustain a cut of .5%, or $41, and restores the remaining 3.5% of the amount in dispute, $8,172, to this account as the Board is contractually obligated for this salary amount.

Additionally, to Account No. 11-000-218-105, the Commissioner restores the entire $808 cut made to fund the full amount required under the actual negotiated salary increases currently in place.

6590	11-000-219-105	Salaries Secretarial/Clerical	21,107	635
				$3,945

The Board argues that the first line item contains child study team salaries and provisions for the team to work two weeks in the summer to complete required evaluations. It posits that no new positions are suggested. The Board asserts that, although the Council suggests that the Board budgeted excess funds of 3.01% in this account, in actuality, it decreased the amounts in the account because of the retirement of the psychologist and learning disability teacher consultant, who, the Board projects will be replaced by two new employees hired at a lesser salary.

The second line item pertains to the salary of the secretary. As previously discussed, the contract with the secretarial unit was ultimately settled at a 5.44% salary increase, while the Board budgeted for a 4% salary increase when preparing this budget. As such, this account is already underbudgeted.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds the Board's documentation warrants full restoration of all monies in these two line items as necessary for T&E and, therefore, orders $3,310 restored to Account No. 11-000-219-104 and $635 restored to 11-000-219-105.

6750	11-000-221-102	Salaries/Supp. Instruction	$87,225	$2,625

The Board argues that this line item represents the salaries of two curriculum supervisors and accurately reflects negotiated salary increases in place for the two positions. It asserts that no new employees, nor positions are included here and no extra money was budgeted in these accounts.

Upon review, as this line item represents actual contracted salary expense, the Commissioner determines to restore the $2,625 reduction.

6850	11-000-222-100	School Librarian Salaries	$84,316	$2,538

The Board argues that this line item represents the salaries of three librarians. The District has four schools. However, the middle school and the high school share one librarian. There are no new positions in this account. Again, the Board argues that, at the time this budget was prepared, salary negotiations had not yet been concluded and the Board, therefore, budgeted a reasonable projected salary increase of 4%. Subsequently, the contract negotiations settled at a 3.5% salary increase.

Upon review, the Commissioner determines that the budgeted amount in this line item exceeds actual contracted expense by .5%. Therefore, the Commissioner sustains a .5% cut to Account No. 11-000-222-100 and orders that the remaining $2,525 be restored as necessary for T&E.

The Board argues that this line item represents the salaries of the superintendent, secretary to the superintendent, election workers and the treasurer's salaries. The money in these accounts reflect the actual salaries of these individuals, with no additional money being budgeted in these accounts.

Upon review, as this line item represents actual salary expense, the Commissioner determines to restore the full $3,839 reduction to this account.

7040	11-000-240-110	Other Salaries	15,091	454
				$15,814

The Board asserts that the first line item, 11-000-240-103, represents the salaries of the principals and assistant principals. It asserts that the contract with this bargaining unit had been settled when this budget was prepared and, consequently, the monies budgeted in this account are actual salaries to be paid to these five employees.

The Board argues that the second line item, 11-000-240-105, represents the salaries for the school secretaries whose contract, ultimately settled after the preparation of the budget, called for a 5.44% salary increase, while the Board in this budget had projected an increase of only 4%. As such, it asserts that this account is already underfunded.

Finally, the Board argues that the third line item, 11-000-240-110, includes actual contractual salaries of the cafeteria aides and projected costs of aide substitutes needed. The Board maintains that all projections were based on previous years experience and are reasonable approximations.

Upon review, the Commissioner determines to restore the budgeted amount of $10,825 to line item 11-000-240-103 as this line item represents actual rather than projected salary expense. The Commissioner further determines to restore the full reduction of $4,535 to Account 11-000-240-105 in that this amount is also necessary to meet existing contractual salary obligations. With respect to line item 11-000-240-110, the Commissioner restores the full reduction of $454 to this line item as he determines, based upon the justifying submissions of the Board, that it represents actual costs and reasonable projected estimates. It is noted, however, that salaries for employees hired specifically as cafeteria aides are properly budgeted in Account No. 11-000-260-100. Therefore, the Board is hereby directed to reclassify the budgeted amount for cafeteria aides and substitutes to the proper account.

The Board argues that the contracts for salaries and other provisions represented in this line item were settled at the time this budget was prepared and, consequently, this line item reflects the actual expenses the Board will incur for the 1995-96 school year.

Upon review, as this line item represents actual contracted expense, the Commissioner determines to restore the full $14,267 reduction to this account.

The Board asserts that these accounts include the salaries of the bus drivers, whose contract was settled at the time the budget was composed. As such, the amount of money budgeted in these accounts are the actual salaries required for these individuals in 1995-96. Further, the Board argues that these accounts reflect the pupil transportation costs without the inclusion of courtesy busing, since it was eliminated from the budget.

Upon review, as this line item represents actual contracted expense, the Commissioner determines to restore the full $6,617 reduction to these accounts.

Although, again, the Council contends that the Board overbudgeted in this account by 3.01%, in fact, the amounts budgeted here are actual expenditures necessary to meet the Board's contracted obligations. No excess money was included.

Upon review, as this line item represents actual contracted salary expense, the Commissioner determines to restore the full $4,573 reduction to this account.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION- CAP WAIVER

Although the Council filed an Answer generally denying the necessity for the T&E cap waiver appealed herein, no arguments were submitted with respect to specific line items included in the cap waiver. Accordingly, while the Council's position of general denial is duly noted, the recitation below reflects specific arguments only from the Board.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Dollar Amount
6430	11-000-213-105	Nurses Clerical Aide	$9,879

The Board argues that in January 1994 it opened a middle school adjacent to the high school. A decision was made to share much of the staff. The Board contends that one nurse now serves the needs of approximately 770 students. On an average monthly basis, the nurse of the MS/HS sees 870 students for medical reasons. Moreover, due to the athletic programs, the nurse administers first aid to 240 students per month. Due to the heavy case load of the nurse, it is virtually impossible to effectively maintain student health records. Although it was the superintendent's recommendation that another part-time nurse was needed, the Board, in an attempt to maintain costs, budgeted for a part-time clerical aide. This position is necessary to ensure that student records are accurately maintained and all legal provisions are met.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves this appropriation of $9,879.

The Board argues that in this account are the salary of the substance abuse counselor, the supplies necessary for the program, and provisions for the SAC's professional development. Florence is experiencing a major increase in the abuse of drug and alcohol, occurring in conjunction with the increase in substance abuse is an increase in fights, vandalism, and school suspensions. The staff, under the leadership of the substance abuse counselor has begun a proactive, aggressive campaign to tackle these problems. Moreover, the SAC provides expertise in assisting the District teachers in meeting the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:29-6.1 et seq. to provide drug and alcohol education.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves these appropriations of $19,899, $280 and $452.

			$45,911

The Board argues that during the course of the 1994-95 school year, two members of the child study team retired. In an effort to maintain costs, the two positions were not filled. Rather, the Board contracted the services of a psychologist and a learning disability teacher consultant. As a result, the District has had difficulty meeting all of the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.1 et seq. These accounts include the salary to replace the learning disability teacher consultant and obtain the testing materials necessary to accurately assess and place special education students. The dollar amount reflects what is necessary to maintain the current program which enables the District to provide T&E to a population with specialized needs.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves these appropriations of $42,711 and $3,200.

			$59,846

The Board argues that the Florence School District employs three librarians for four schools. The salary of a librarian currently employed is an item in this account. The librarians are necessary to implement the study skills curriculum approved by the Board under N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.5(a)2.

In addition to the salary of one librarian, this account provides for all materials necessary for the libraries in the four schools. For example, library supplies include all new library books, reference materials, newspapers and magazine subscriptions, AV material and cataloging needs. A total amount of $29,466 is what is budgeted for library materials for all four schools.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves these appropriations of $30,380 and $29,466.

6940	11-000-230-240	Data Processing/Payroll and Budget	$13,651

The Board argues that this account reflects the fee to contract all data processing services for the maintenance of pupil and financial records. This amount is one-half of the actual service fee the District is charged. The other portion is budgeted in the base budget. This service is necessary to meet the mandates of N.J.A.C. 6:8-1.1 et seq., including N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.9(a)1, N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.9(a)2, N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.9(a)3, N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.9(a)4, as well as, N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A et seq.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves this appropriation of $13,651. It is noted, however, that the Board has allocated these monies to Account No. 11-000-230-240, which is not a valid account number under the chart of accounts required for use pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.2(m).³ The Board is hereby directed to reclassify these funds, along with funds in the base budget, which are allocated to this invalid account number, to the proper accounts.

6920	11-000-230-331	Solicitor	$5,000

The Board argues that the efficient managing of a school district has become increasingly complex due to mandates and the ever present issue of liability. Moreover, labor relations and contract negotiations require advanced knowledge in the law. A Board of Education must employ the services of a skilled solicitor. The $5,000 in this account constitutes one-half of the predicted expenses of the Board's attorney. The remaining portion of the fee is located in the base budget.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves this appropriation of $5,000.

³ This appropriation represents funds for pupil and financial data processing services. Data processing services for pupil records is appropriately coded to Account No. 11-000-211-300 if the records are attendance related. If such records are physical, medical, standardized test results, have background personal and sound development and school performance, the appropriate account is Account No. 11-000-290-340. employ election workers. The money in this account provides for the payment of the election workers.

Upon review, the Commissioner notes that the proper account for budgeting election workers is Account No. 11-000-230-339, General Administration-Other Purchased Professional Services. The Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves appropriation of $2,750 to Account No. 11-000-230-339.

7170	11-000-260-610	Custodial Supplies	2,000
			$45,110

The Board argues that included in this account is the salary of one presently employed custodian. In that the negotiated contract for custodians was in place at the time the budget was prepared, the money budgeted for this individual's salary represents actual cost. Also, included in this account are the estimated costs of substitutes for the 14 custodians and two maintenance employees. The estimate for the substitutes was based on an analysis of past years and the current school year. No new positions are budgeted. This account reflects the personnel needed to maintain the current operations and maintenance program to provide for the health and safety of the District's students, N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.9(a)6.

In addition to the salary of one custodian, this account also has designated $2,000 for custodial supplies. The proposed amount was predicted by analyzing the expenses in the account over the last three years. The money is needed to provide for the health and safety of the District's students.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves these appropriations of $43,110 and $2,000.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Dollar Amount
7120	11-000-260-420	Repairs/Maintenance Building/Grounds	$52,956

The Board argues that in this account is $12,695 for the contracted services of a concrete company. The walkways by the high school gym door exit and the high school main gym entrance pose a safety problem to students and spectators. The repair to these walkways cannot be postponed for another year. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.9(a)7, the Board is required to develop and implement a multi year comprehensive maintenance plan. The money for this project cannot be allocated within the base budget.

Included also in this account is $40,174 for building improvements. Historically in Florence, it is this account which has been cut in an effort to go below cap and to respond to the needs of the taxpayer. As a result, many needed projects have been neglected. Proposed projects in this category include: replacement of designated exit doors that do not meet code; replacement of lavatory partitions; installation of a security system in one school where visibility is blocked and easy access is an issue; and removing stage curtains and installing curtains that meet code. Money in this account will enable the District to meet the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.9(a)6 and N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.9(a)7.

Review of the Board's cap waiver position statement indicates that the appropriation includes the services of a concrete company for the repair of concrete walkways. Majors repairs are coded to Account No. 12-000-400-450, Facilities Acquisition and Construction Services, while routine maintenance is coded to Account No. 11-000-260-420. Repairs to the concrete walkways are a major repair and, accordingly, should be coded to Account No. 12-000-400-450, as should amounts budgeted for building improvements.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves this appropriation of $52,956, and directs the restoration to Account No 12-000-400-450.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Dollar Amount
7180	11-000-260-620	Electric/Gas Costs	$91,020

The Board argues that this year the District encountered difficulty in meeting the financial obligations of its electric and gas costs. School personnel realized the dilemma in December. As a result, the 1995-96 budget was composed to more accurately reflect the estimate of heat, gas and electric. The opening of the middle school wing contributed to the increased costs of these items. The money in this account is needed so a healthy and comfortable environment is available to students.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves this appropriation of $91,020.

7210	11-000-270-107	Bus Aides Salaries	$11,962

The Board argues that included in this amount are the salaries for two currently employed bus aides. The transportation supervisor has indicated that the same number of special education routes will be necessary in the 1995-96 school year. As a result, bus drivers will be transporting students with physical and/or emotional difficulties. To safely transport the students, four aides are needed to cover these runs. Two aides were budgeted in the base budget. Two more are budgeted in this T&E cap waiver proposal. This account does not reflect any new positions. The Board is attempting to maintain the current transportation program mandated for special education.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves this appropriation of $11,962.

7230	11-000-270-109	Field Trip Transportation	$8,986

The Board argues that it has philosophically throughout the year supported the concept of student field trips. Financially, the Board has budgeted for field trips in every budget. Florence Council Policy #6153 recognizes field trips as an educationally sound and important component of the instructional program. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:21-1.1 et seq., the school district is responsible for transporting the student to related activities. Because of the economic status of many students in the District, the trips provided by the Board are the only ones that they experience, so that the Board believes that field trips are necessary to provide T&E to its particular student population. The account includes the same number of trips provided in the past, and provides for no enhancements or expansions.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves this appropriation of $8,986.

The Board argues, that under its negotiated labor contracts, all employees are entitled to certain insurance benefits. The Board has a legal obligation to meet the terms and conditions of these contracts. To keep under the cap imposed on the District, some money for these benefits was moved to the cap waiver. The total amount for insurance benefits is a projection based on estimates that the relevant insurance providers gave to the business office.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves this appropriation of $21,249.

7450	11-000-290-500	Advertisement/Public Notices	$6,500

The Board argues that it is required by law to advertise all Board of Education meetings (N.J.S.A. 10:4-8d, 4-18). Moreover, the regulations of the affirmative action statutes require the Board to advertise when openings in various positions are available. Based on the previous years' experience, this amount reflects a reasonable estimate of the Board's expenses for advertising and public notice for 1995-96 budget.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves this appropriation of $6,500. The Commissioner does, however, note that this account includes funds for both personnel and legal advertisements. Legal advertisements are properly budgeted in Account No. 11-000-230-590, General Administration - Other Purchased Services. The Board is, therefore, directed to make the appropriate adjustment to reclassify the funds in this account budgeted for legal advertisements to the proper accounts.

8200	12-000-290-730	Replacement Music Instruct. Equipment	$16,250

The Board argues that it has supported through the years teaching of various mandated and elective subjects to their students. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.5(a)1 and N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.5(a)2, the Board annually approves the music curriculum and provides the financial resources to support the program. This account reflects the costs of replacing miscellaneous instructional equipment for the four schools. This equipment includes: laser printer for the middle school and high school computer labs; video projector/player for the high school; replacement of one appliance in home economics; two computers; replacement of a drying oven for the high school science lab; piano for middle school music class; and instruments for the instrumental music program. This account is budgeted to maintain the current program.

2520	11-120-100-101	ESL Teacher Salary	$25,655

The Board argues that the ESL Program is a state-mandated program (N.J.S.A. 18A:35-15). In order to maintain the current program for Florence's ESL students, the Board has budgeted for the teacher's salary. Part of the salary is contained in the base budget. The remainder of the salary is budgeted in the T&E cap waiver.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and approves this appropriation of $25,655. However, the Commissioner notes that the proper account for the appropriation is Account No. 11-240-100-101, Bilingual Instruction - Salaries of Teachers. Accordingly, the Commissioner orders restoration of $25,655 to Account No. 11-240-100-101 and further directs the Board to make any necessary adjustments to ensure that the remainder of the salary found in the base budget is recoded in the proper account.

			$29,786

The Board argues that District personnel have made a commitment to improve the language skills of their students. When the middle school was opened in January 1994, no new staff members were hired. Consequently, the number and types of available courses were greatly decreased. To provide additional sections for middle school students, the burden fell upon the Language Department. The cap waiver provides for an additional English teacher to maintain attempts to improve the curriculum and student skills.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount is necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves these appropriations of $14,893 and $14,893.

2640	11-190-100-106	Teacher Substitutes	$38,072

The Board argues that this year the District encountered difficulties in the amount of money budgeted for teacher substitutes. The reasons for this financial deficit was the need for a number of long-term substitutes and the underestimation of the cost of substitutes for the number of teachers employed. When the budget was composed for 1995-96, the Board budgeted a more realistic figure. The money budgeted for substitutes is based on past experience and a formula that estimates the number of days teachers may be absent, multiplied by the cost of substitutes. Part of this figure is located in the base budget, and the remainder is contained in the cap waiver.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves this appropriation of $38,072. The Commissioner notes, however, that this amount should have correctly been budgeted pursuant to the chart of accounts required in the applicable program category as teachers' salaries for use pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.2(m). The Board is hereby directed to reclassify this miscoded appropriation to the proper accounts.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Dollar Amount
2680	11-190-100-610	Supplies	$63,192
2690	11-190-100-640	Textbooks	7,275
			$70,467

The Board argues that these accounts include necessary supplies and teaching materials for all programs at all three schools. The budgeted amounts maintain the current programs, and do not provide for any new initiatives. To provide for T&E and to meet the mandates of N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.5(a)1 and N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.5(a)2, this money must be maintained.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount is necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves these appropriations of $63,192 and $7,275.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Dollar Amount
4810	11-230-100-101	SCE Teacher Salary	$23,731
4860	11-230-100-610	SCE Teaching Supplies	2,700
			$26,431

The Board argues that included in these accounts are the salary of the basic skills teachers and supplies for the program. The $2,700 allotted for supplies is the total cost for the basic skills program in four schools. The Board is not increasing staff or services. The figures represent maintenance of the current program. To fulfill the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.10(a)1 in providing programs and services for pupils at risk, the current staff and needed supplies must be retained.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves these appropriations of $23,731 and 2,700.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Dollar Amount
6030	11-401-100-100	Extra Curricular Salaries	$47,277
6090	11-402-100-100	Athletic Salaries	48,531
6110	11-402-100-610	Sports Equipment/Supplies	370
6120	11-402-100-800	Sports Officiating	2,321
			$98,499

The Board argues that these accounts pertain to salaries dedicated to cocurricular activities. They represent salaries for coaches and advisors of activities that are currently in place, sports equipment and actual fees for sports officiating based on actual fees quoted to the athletic director. There were no additional clubs or sports planned for next year. In fact, the Board contends that Florence cocurricular activities have been decreased over the past five years. For example, the sports program includes basically varsity level teams. Students interested in a sport compete immediately at the junior varsity level. Except for football, there are no freshman teams. Florence has a proud tradition of cocurricular activities that have merited accolades throughout the years. The student population would be devastated if this tremendous source of pride was eliminated.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount is necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves these appropriations of $47,277, $48,531, $370 and $2,321. It is noted, however, that the $2,321 appropriation for sports officiating has been miscoded to Account No. 11-402-100-800. The proper account for budgeting these monies is Account No. 11-402-100-500.

Therefore, the Commissioner directs this approved appropriation be reclassified by the Board to Account No. 11-402-100-500.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Dollar Amount
8090	12-000-100-730	New Instructional Equipment	$23,799

The Board argues that this account applies to all instructional equipment with an individual cost of over $500. Included are the purchase of computers, science lab equipment, music equipment and other items listed for particular programs. The District is lagging behind other districts in the whole area of technology. The Board proposed a budget that would allow the gradual implementation of technology to the schools. To adequately prepare the students to be competitive in the work place, the Board must respond to demands for a technology-sophisticated student population.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves this appropriation of $23,799. It is noted, however, that instructional equipment should be coded to the applicable program code based on who is using the equipment, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.2(m). Equipment which crosses program categories is coded to Account No. 12-000-100-730, Equipment-Undistributed Expenditures-Instruction. The Board is directed to reclassify these funds to the proper accounts.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Dollar Amount
8120	12-000-219-730	CST New Equipment-Computer	$2,000

The Board argues that there is only one item in this account and that is a computer for the child study team office. The team does not have a computer that can be used for the standard IEP software programs. The team has requested a computer in the last three budgets. The child study team needs the equipment to adequately meet mandates pertaining to special education, and the needs of the district's special education students.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves this appropriation of $2,000.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Dollar Amount
8130	12-000-221-730	New Curriculum Equipment-Computer	$9,000

The Board argues that none of the building level administrators has a computer. The Board has determined that over a three-year span, the administrative staff would receive the equipment necessary to fulfill the administrative responsibility of providing T&E. It was decided that the purchases would begin in the curriculum area, as the two supervisors are responsible for many reports for the Board, County and State. Since most of the required reports are now on disk, the purchase of computers for the curriculum supervisors would enable them to complete their reports in a timely, efficient manner.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves this appropriation of $9,000.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Dollar Amount
8150	12-000-240-730	High School Replacement Furniture	$1,900

The Board argues that monies included in this account are for replacement of various pieces of furniture in the classrooms. It asserts that both the high school and its contents date back to the 1950s. Each year, the Board has been attempting to update the school when replacement furniture is required.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount is necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves this appropriation of $1,900. However, equipment purchases are coded to the appropriate program/function based on who will use the equipment. High school classroom furniture should be budgeted in Account No. 12-140-100-730, Equipment - Grades 9-12. Accordingly, the Commissioner directs this appropriation to Account No. 12-140-100-730.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Dollar Amount
8160	12-000-260-730	New Non-Instructional Equipment	$6,170

The Board argues that this account pertains to the budgeted purchases for operations and maintenance. The equipment items in the cap waiver are: a six-foot steel maintenance platform; three rear-load dumpsters; one walk-behind snow blower; one vacuum carpet extractor and attachment; and one electric scrubber. These materials are necessary for the maintenance of the buildings and grounds; and represent very basic equipment present in most school districts. These are necessary purchases to keep the schools in the condition required to provide T&E.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount is necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves this appropriation of $6,170.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Dollar Amount
8210	12-000-300-730	Guidance Office Equipment	$3,600

The Board argues that when the middle school was opened in Florence, the building included a guidance office specifically for middle school students. The guidance counselor and pupil records are housed in this office. By law, the office is required to maintain student records in fireproof file cabinets with locks. The money in this account would enable the Board to fulfill this legal obligation. Moreover, the Board asserts that the office needs a computer to assist the counselor in maintaining proper records. This equipment would increase the probability that students were receiving the correct information in selecting the courses needed for T&E.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount is necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves this appropriation of $3,600. It is noted, however, that these monies should have correctly been budgeted pursuant to the chart of accounts for use under N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.2(m), to Account No. 12-000-210-730, Equipment - Support Services Students-Regular. As such, the Commissioner directs the Board to reallocate these appropriated monies to the proper account.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Dollar Amount
6930	11-000-230-339	Architect Services	$1,500

The Board argues that throughout the course of the year, problems arise that require the services of an architect. A total of $3,000 was placed in the 1995-96 budget, half in the base which was not reduced by the Council, and the remaining half in the cap waiver. Facility problems cannot be solved if the Board is not able to use the professional services of the architect as judged necessary by the County Superintendent.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount is necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves this appropriation of $1,500. It is noted, however, that architect fees are properly budgeted in Account No. 12-000-400-390. The Board is hereby directed to reallocate these appropriated monies to the proper account.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Dollar Amount
6930	11-000-230-339	Appraisal/Paying Agency	$6,250

The Board argues that included in this account are the costs to update the fixed asset inventory, a requirement of GAAP. There is also money budgeted for an Early Retirement Incentive Report should the State again offer that incentive. If so, the Board would need the services of an accounting firm to determine the advantages or disadvantages of engaging in the plan. Finally, this account includes the actual, mandatory fee to the paying agency for the Board's bonds.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves this appropriation of $6,250. It is noted, however, that the portion of this account which has been budgeted for fixed asset appraisal and early retirement incentive reports is properly budgeted in Account No. 11-000-290-330. The Board is hereby directed to make the necessary adjustments to transfer the funds budgeted for these items to the proper account.

Line No.	Account Number	Description	Dollar Amount
2640	11-190-100-106	Department Coordinators	$8,456
2640	11-190-100-106	Morning Duty Coverage	2,430
7420	11-000-290-290	Retirement Accumulated Leave	25,000
			$35,886

The Board argues that these accounts include the money necessary to meet contractual obligations to the Teachers Association. Funds pertain to the stipends for four coordinators and morning duty coverage. The largest cost is for the funds needed to pay retirees for accumulated sick days. The administration has some indication that approximately six people will be retiring. The Board has a legal obligation to reimburse those employees for this benefit.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this amount has been proven necessary for T&E and, accordingly, approves these appropriations of $8,456, $2,430 and $25,000.

APPLICATION OF SURPLUS

In its advertised annual school district budget statement, the Board projected an unreserved surplus of $135 and allocated $0 as revenue, leaving $135 as undesignated unreserved surplus.

Based on his review of the Board's 1994-95 annual year-end audit report filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:23-3 (June 30 Comprehensive Annual Financial Report), the Commissioner determines, that while some additional surplus funds are available, they are insufficient to warrant any reallocation.

SUMMARY

In summary, with respect to the budget appeal, the Commissioner directs restoration of the Council's line-item reductions to appropriations and increases in permissible expenditure levels as set forth below. The Commissioner further notes that all restorations to line-item appropriations are restricted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.11(b)3. Where the Commissioner has directed herein reexamination and reclassification of funds due to coding errors on the part of the Board, these adjustments must be immediately completed. The Board is consequently directed to submit a final revised budget, reflecting the proper allocations, including the Commissioner's restorations, to both the County Office of Education and the Office of Finance as soon as possible.

With respect to the cap waiver appeal, the Commissioner finds that all of the $790,716 appealed by the Board herein is necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient system of education in the district, and further, that the monies in question cannot be derived from reallocation within the General Fund budget. The Commissioner additionally notes that all line-item waivers to expenditure limitation granted herein, as summarized below, represent restricted appropriations in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.11(b)3. Where the Commissioner has directed herein reexamination and reclassification of funds due to coding errors on the part of the Board, these adjustments must be immediately completed, and, as above, the Board is directed to submit a final revised budget reflecting the proper allocations, to both the County Office of Education and the Office of Finance.

Finally, upon review of the Board's Position Statements for both the base budget and cap waiver appeals, it is generally noted that the coding practices of the Board appear to be haphazard at best. Therefore, the Board is directed to revise its procedures and henceforth conform its budgeting practices to the chart of accounts required for use pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:20-2.A(m).

Accordingly, the Burlington County Board of Taxation is directed to make the necessary adjustments, as set forth above, to reflect a total of $6,565,878 to be raised in tax levy for General Fund purposes of the Florence Board of Education for the 1995-96 school year, and the Board is directed to reform its coding practices and submit its revised budget as set forth above.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

(Balk, Oxfeld, Mandell & Cohen, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 1, 1995

Decided: September 11, 1995

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

The State Board of Education remanded this matter to the Commissioner of Education for further proceedings on the merits. The history of the instant matter has been previously and specifically set forth in the prior initial decision rendered by the undersigned and in the State Board of Education decision, dated March 2, 1994.

Of import, this case was initiated in April 1989 when the Board of Education of the School District of Garfield (hereinafter "Board") certified tenure charges against Robert Olek (hereinafter "respondent"), a tenured teaching staff member, alleging that he had engaged in unbecoming conduct. Those charges followed respondent's arrest on December 6, 1988, for possession of anabolic steroids and drug paraphernalia in his home. In July 1989, respondent pled guilty to possession of a hypodermic syringe or needle, unlawful possession of a prescription legend drug and obtaining a prescription legend drug unlawfully. He was sentenced on November 14, 1989.

In August 1989, the Board filed a motion for summary decision. During the time the motion was pending, the parties entered into settlement discussions which resulted in a settlement agreement. Subsequent thereto, the Commissioner of Education voided the agreement and remanded the case to the Office of Administrative Law on October 11, 1990, for a hearing on the merits of the tenure charges. On remand, the Board renewed its motion for summary decision, seeking respondent's removal by means of the forfeiture statute, N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2. Respondent maintained that the forfeiture provisions did not apply because the offenses which did not involve controlled dangerous substances did not satisfy the required elements of the statute. On May 15, 1991, the undersigned administrative law judge recommended granting the Board's motion. On June 27, 1991, the Commissioner adopted the administrative law judge's recommended decision, concluding that respondent had forfeited his position and granting the Board's motion for summary decision. On March 4, 1992, the State Board reversed the Commissioner's decision granting summary decision and remanded the matter for further proceedings.

On March 16, 1992, the matter was remanded to the undersigned judge for proceedings consistent with the State Board's decision of March 4, 1992. As a result of ongoing settlement negotiations, the hearing was not held until January 22, 1993. At the conclusion of the hearing, the parties submitted briefs, and the record closed on March 26, 1993. A decision was rendered by the undersigned judge on May 10, 1993, concluding that a careful examination of the facts in the case revealed that respondent's offenses touched and involved his employment to the extent meriting forfeiture pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2. The undersigned determined that respondent had forfeited his employment as a teacher and a wrestling coach with the Garfield Board of Education and granted petitioner's motion for summary decision. On June 28, 1993, the Commissioner adopted the findings and conclusions of the undersigned judge. Concluding that the Board had established a nexus between the offenses and respondent's employment, the Commissioner directed forfeiture of respondent's employment.

On March 2, 1994, the State Board of Education reversed the Commissioner's decision that respondent had forfeited his employment by operation of N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2. More particularly, the State Board found that the record failed to establish that there was a sufficient nexus between the offenses to which respondent pled guilty i.e., the use and possession of steroids found in his home, and his employment in the district so as to warrant the penalty of forfeiture of all state employment. The State Board could not conclude that the offenses to which respondent pled guilty touched and involved his employment in the district to an extent warranting imposition of the severe penalty of forfeiture of all public employment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2. The State Board recognized that reversal of the Commissioner's decision required that the tenure charges that were certified by the Board against respondent now be resolved and remanded the matter to the Commissioner for further proceedings on the merits of those charges.

On April 15, 1994, the instant matter was remanded to the Office of Administrative Law for tenure proceedings consistent with the State Board decision of March 2, 1994. This matter was assigned to the undersigned judge on April 20, 1994, and an in person prehearing conference held on October 21, 1994. At that time the issues were isolated, and a hearing scheduled for April 17, 18, 19, and 20, 1995, at the Office of Administrative Law, 185 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey 07102. (The hearing dates of April 17 and 18, 1995 were subsequently adjourned.) Settlement discussions were held, and a settlement agreement was entered into on April 19, 1995. Thus, the hearing was adjourned. A signed settlement agreement was received on August 1, 1995.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached Resolution and Agreement between petitioner and respondent indicating the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.
2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement and resolution meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS Robert Olek (hereinafter referred to as "Olek") was employed by the Garfield School District (hereinafter referred to as "District") as a teacher and Assistant Wrestling Coach; and

WHEREAS Olek was suspended from his employ within the District, without pay, in December 1988, following his arrest for possession of steroids, marijuana, and hypodermic needles; and

WHEREAS Olek last received pay from the District in May 1989, resulting in an accrual of his back pay in the approximate amount of $405,000.00 up to and including his pay for the 1994-95 school year; and

WHEREAS N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 provides that a teacher who is suspended without pay must receive his/her regular salary after the 120th day of suspension, pending adjudication of the charges against said teacher in a formal tenure hearing; and

WHEREAS a tenure hearing was not scheduled in this matter until April 19, 1995, due to the fact that Olek and the Board had entered into a settlement agreement, from which Olek later withdrew his consent, and said agreement was vacated by the Commissioner of Education; and

WHEREAS a tenure hearing was not scheduled in this matter until April 19, 1995 due to various proceedings in the Administrative Courts in regard to whether Olek had forfeited his employment in the District, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2, on the grounds that Olek's offenses touched upon his employment in the District; and

WHEREAS the New Jersey State Board of Education ultimately ruled that Olek did not forfeit his position in the district,

RESOLUTION NO. 527-A COMMENT: _____

WHEREAS the New Jersey State Board of Education ultimately ruled that Olek did not forfeit his position in the district, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2, as the State Board did not find that Olek's offenses had touched upon his employment; and

WHEREAS Olek was entitled to all of his back pay and benefits from May 1989, through the 1994-95 school year, in the approximate amount of $405,000.00, and the Board had been ordered, by the Honorable Elinor R. Reiner, A.L.J., to immediately return Olek to salary status as of December 1, 1994; and

WHEREAS the purpose of the tenure hearing, scheduled on April 19, 1995 was to determine the sole issue of whether or not Olek was entitled to reinstatement to his teaching position in the District; and

WHEREAS if Olek had prevailed at the tenure hearing, he would have been entitled to immediate reinstatement as a teacher in the District; and

WHEREAS at the start of the tenure hearing, Olek's attorney made a motion to the Court to compel the Board to immediately pay Olek all of his back salary, in a lump sum, to which it had previously been adjudicated that he was entitled to these monies; and

WHEREAS at the start of the tenure hearing, the Board's attorney, Toni Belford Damiano, Esq., made a motion to reopen the forfeiture issue on the grounds of newly discovered evidence; and

WHEREAS Olek and the Board recognized that they both potentially faced serious repercussions if this matter were to proceed to a final tenure hearing and, as such, they desired to achieve an amicable resolution to this matter; and Petitioner, guidance counselor who was bumped from her position, alleged she had superior tenure and seniority rights to the guidance counselor position than the individual who replaced her (intervenor - former director of guidance).

ALJ concluded that intervenor accrued credit in the seniority category applicable to guidance counselors and in the seniority category applicable to directors simultaneously pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(f). Intervenor was required by the District to hold dual endorsements under the educational services certificate as part of the job qualifications and he was expected to perform direct services in addition to supervisory responsibilities. Thus, intervenor had greater seniority rights than petitioner to the position of guidance counselor. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

BEFORE: KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal by a tenured guidance counselor who claims that the board of education violated her seniority rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 to -14 when it terminated her employment for the 1994-95 school year. As the result of an administrative reorganization in June 1994, the school district abolished the position of guidance director and a former guidance director replaced petitioner in a regular guidance-counselor position. It is undisputed that the guidance director had served in the district longer than petitioner. Basically, petitioner contends that her replacement had accrued seniority credit only in the specific category of guidance director and not in the separate category applicable to guidance counselors. Since the guidance director was required to hold dual endorsements on his certificate and his job duties entailed both supervisory and direct counseling responsibilities, the district maintains that the former director accrued seniority in both categories. For the reasons which follow, it is concluded that the district's action fully complied with the seniority standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1 and, therefore, did not violate petitioner's statutory seniority rights.

Procedural History

On July 15, 1994, petitioner Alice Lightdale ("Lightdale") filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner"). Respondent Board of Education of Union County Regional High School District No. 1 ("Board") filed its answer on August 3, 1994. Subsequently, on August 16, 1994, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case. Meanwhile, William Coyle ("Coyle"), the former guidance director who had replaced Lightdale as guidance counselor, applied to intervene in the proceeding. By order entered on October 13, 1994, the OAL granted Coyle's application for intervention status. The OAL held a hearing on June 5, 1995. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the appendix.¹ The parties filed post-hearing briefs by July 24, 1995, on which date the record closed.

Findings of Fact

All of the relevant facts are either stipulated or undisputed. I FIND:

William Coyle started working for the district in December 1988 as a full-time guidance director. Among other certificates, he held an educational-services certificate endorsed both as "director of student personnel services" and in "student personnel services."² The only qualification for guidance director mentioned in the district's written job description is possession of appropriate "New Jersey State Certification." However, the parties agree that the district required its guidance directors to hold both the director and the guidance-counselor endorsements. Dr. Donald Merachnik, district superintendent for twenty-four years, emphasized that, "When we interview applicants for guidance director, we ask for both [endorsements] to make sure that he [or she] has the necessary experience." Although Coyle also happens to hold an administrative certificate endorsed as "principal/supervisor", his entire service for the district was performed under his educational-services certificate. Coyle testified that he had never been asked for his administrator's certificate.

¹In two footnotes to its post-hearing brief, the Board seeks to supplement the existing record by offering Lightdale's answers to respondent's interrogatories as additional exhibits in the case. This unconventional approach is rejected, for failure of the Board either to introduce the proposed exhibits at the hearing (affording Lightdale the opportunity to explain or amplify any answer) or to serve formal notice of motion on the other parties (affording opposing counsel the opportunity to object).

²An educational-services certificate is the general rubric for a grouping of endorsements which relate to various types of support services within a school. N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.1 to -11.20. Dennery v. Passaic Cty. Reg. High Sch. Dist. #1, 131 N.J. 626, 636-637 (1993). Endorsement as "director of student personnel services" is necessary "for any person who is assigned as a director, administrator or supervisor of guidance and student personnel services of a school system[.]" N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.10. Endorsement in the field of "student personnel services" is necessary "for any person assigned to perform student personnel services such as . . . counseling with teachers, students, and parents regarding personal, social, educational and vocational plans and programs[.]" N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.11.

In his capacity as guidance director, Coyle's primary duties included: supervising and evaluating other guidance counselors; administering a program to assist students in making educational and career choices; administering a student record-keeping system; implementing in-service training for guidance counselors; and supervising secretarial and clerical support staff. Additionally, the written job description expressly specifies that the guidance director "provides direct counseling services for a segment of the student body." Superintendent Merachnik explained that the district had required its guidance directors to assume responsibility for their own counseling caseload since the early 1980's, long before Coyle came to the district.

Generally, a guidance director in the district must maintain a counseling load of twenty to twenty-five students, plus any overload which the regular guidance counselors are unable to handle.³ In comparison, a full caseload for a guidance counselor is normally about 145 students, although that number has recently increased to 170 students. When he joined the district in 1988, Coyle was assigned to Governor Livingston High School where he had a counseling load of some twenty-seven students. That number remained largely unchanged until February 1992, when Coyle took on added supervisory responsibility for the guidance department at Arthur L. Johnson High School and his student counseling load dropped to about ten students. He "gave away" the lower grades and "kept the seniors and juniors" whom he had been counseling at Governor Livingston. The nature of Coyle's counseling services, however, were no different from those performed by other guidance counselors in the district. His counseling duties included: assisting students with course selection and class scheduling; helping students complete their college applications or explore vocational opportunities; supportive counseling relating to personal or family issues; and participating in meetings with parents, teachers and administrators. In other words, Coyle's direct-counseling function differed in quantity but not quality from the job duties of a regular guidance counselor.

³ Roughly thirty percent of a guidance director's time is devoted to direct counseling services, although the number may vary from day to day, depending on the individual needs of students.

Alice Lightdale was hired by the district as a guidance counselor in October 1986. She worked only half-time until the 1993-94 school year, when her hours were increased to full-time. Lightdale's service was performed under an educational-services certificate endorsed in "student personnel services." Her duties were substantially similar to those which Coyle performed in his role as guidance counselor, except that Lightdale had larger caseload. It is stipulated that Coyle has 5.7 years of service in the district, as compared to Lightdale who has 4.5 years.⁴

On June 21, 1994, Board adopted a reorganization plan, whereby the existing twelve-month guidance director positions, including Coyle's, were abolished and a more senior individual became "supervisor of guidance" for the entire district. Consequently, the Board recognized that Coyle had "bumping rights into a ten-month guidance counselor position" and reassigned him to that position for 1994-95. In turn, the Board notified Lightdale that her employment would "be terminated effective June 30, 1994" and that she would be placed "on a preferred eligibility list" in the event of any future vacancy in the position of guidance counselor. Due to the retirement of another guidance counselor, an opening occurred in a guidance counselor position and Lightdale returned to full-time employment on February 2, 1995. Thus, her damage claim is limited to lost salary and other benefits for the first five months of the 1994-95 school year.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that Coyle accrued credit in the seniority category applicable to guidance counselors and, therefore, that he has a greater seniority right than Lightdale to the position of guidance counselor.

⁴ Lightdale does not challenge the Board's good faith in taking these measures for genuine reasons of economy and administrative organization

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 empowers a school board to reduce the size of its teaching staff, including its guidance department, whenever "it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of changes in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause." Impey v. Shrewsbury Bd. of Educ., No. A-89, slip op. at 14 (N.J. Sup. Ct. Aug. 14, 1995). Because Coyle and Lightdale have both attained tenure under their educational-services certificate, see Dennery v. Passaic Cty. Reg. High Sch. Dist. #1, 131 N.J. 626, 638-639 (1993), their employment rights are governed by seniority rules. Seniority is a mechanism for ranking all tenured teaching staff members so that reductions in force can be effected in an equitable fashion and in accord with sound educational policies. Lichtman v. Ridgewood Bd. of Educ., 93 N.J. 362, 368, n. 4 (1983); Ellicott v. Frankford Bd. of Educ., 251 N.J. Super. 342, 349 (App. Div. 1991). Dismissal of tenured staff resulting from a reduction in force "shall be made on the basis of seniority according to standards to be established by the commissioner with the approval of the state board." N.J.S.A. 18A:28-10.

State regulations prescribe that "[s]eniority shall be determined according to the number of academic or calendar years of employment . . . in the school district in specific categories[.]" N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1. Essentially, the categories used for determining seniority are whatever the Commissioner has said they should be. Howley v. Ewing Bd. of Educ., 6 N.J.A.R. 509, 524 (Comm'r 1982). In order to earn seniority, a staff member must have actual experience in the particular subject area or field. Ressler v. Saddle Brook Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. Nos. EDU 0705-92 & EDU 5018-92 (May 13, 1994), adopted (Comm'r June 27, 1994). Anyone employed in a position requiring an educational services certificate acquires seniority only for the period of actual service under such certificate and at the particular grade level involved. N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1 (l)(17)(iii), -(18)(ii).

Current regulations do not restrict acquisition of seniority to a single category. Instead, N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(f) provides, "Whenever a person shall hold employment simultaneously under two or more subject area endorsements or in two or more categories, seniority shall be counted in all subject area endorsements and categories in which he or she is or has been employed.” Prior to 1983, the predecessor rule, N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10(e), provided that, “Whenever a person shall hold employment simultaneously in two or more categories, seniority shall be counted in the category in which he spends the greatest percentage of his time. If the percentage of time spent in two or more categories shall be equal, the person shall be permitted to elect in which category his seniority shall be counted.” 15 N.J.R. 464 (April 4, 1983); 15 N.J.R. 1017 (June 20, 1983). An appellate court had interpreted the old language as precluding a subject supervisor who taught social studies classes from being put in the same seniority category as a social studies teacher. Huff v. Ramapo-Indian Hills Reg. Sch. Dist., No. A-5729-81T3 (App. Div. Oct. 28, 1982) [unofficially reported at 83 S.L.D. 1555]. In so doing, the court declined to express any comment on the application of the 1983 revisions to the seniority regulations. Huff, 83 S.L.D. at 1561. After the change, however, the Commissioner declared that the purpose of the revision was to acknowledge “the seniority entitlement of persons serving simultaneously in two categories[.]” In re Seniority Rights of Certain Teaching Staff Members, 1984 S.L.D. 1414, 1417-18 (Comm’r Aug. 6), aff’d 1985 S.L.D. 1989 (St. Bd. Jan. 2), aff’d No. A-2241-84T6 (App. Div. June 17, 1986). Further, the Commissioner noted that this approach is consistent with the underlying educational philosophy “that seniority would be based solely upon actual experience in a subject area or category and would no longer be awarded upon the mere possession of a certificate endorsement.” Id.

Applied to the instant case, the revised rule entitles Coyle to seniority credit in the category for guidance counselors as well as the category for directors.⁵ Several factors support that analysis. First, the school district required its guidance director to hold dual endorsements under the educational services certificate as part of the job qualifications. Thus, the fact pattern is reminiscent of Dennery, supra, where a class supervisor was required to hold dual certificates to qualify for a particular position. It also distinguishes the situation from Ebel v. South Amboy Bd. of Educ., 1980 S.L.D. 158 (Comm’r March 6), aff’d 1980 S.L.D. 171 (St. Bd. Dec. 3), where a teacher was denied seniority credit under a second endorsement on the theory that her services were incidental to her primary endorsement. Second, it is common for school districts to expect supervisory staff to perform direct services in addition to their supervisory responsibilities. See Gargano v. Union Twp. Bd. of Educ., 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (Vol. 4B) 670 (Comm'r Aug. 31, 1993). (mathematics supervisor assigned to teach three math classes). Coyle is entitled to seniority credit as a guidance counselor not merely because he possessed a guidance-counselor endorsement, but because he actually performed services under that endorsement.. Third, there are valid educational reasons for encouraging guidance directors to engage in actual delivery of services. Award of seniority credit is an effective incentive to achieve this desired result. As noted in the Huff opinion, subject supervisors "must demonstrate effective teaching techniques to their teachers" and "provide an example to the members of their department." (83 S.L.D. at 5161.) Subject supervisors bear major responsibility for in-service training of teachers and for assisting department members in solving day-to-day problems. Id. Similarly, guidance directors should not completely lose touch with the daily demands of counseling if they are to remain effective in carrying out their supervisory responsibilities.

Order

It is ORDERED that the relief requested by petitioner Alice Lightdale is denied.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter.  COUNTY REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

 : DECISION
 RESPONDENT, :
 :
 AND :
 WILLIAM COYLE, :
 INTERVENOR. :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and respondent's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions essentially recast and reiterate arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), contending, inter alia, that she is entitled to superior seniority rights entitling her to the position of guidance counselor over William Coyle (Intervenor). She argues that she had a heavier student caseload when she was a part-time guidance counselor than Coyle had in his capacity as director of guidance. (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 2) She further argues that Coyle was not required by the District, but by the State, to possess dual endorsements as student personnel services (guidance counselor endorsement) and as director of student personnel services (director of guidance endorsement), thereby rendering the ALJ's conclusion incorrect and insignificant that this was a District requirement for purposes of determining seniority status. (Id.)

Petitioner further avers that the position of director of guidance is classified separately under N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(1)(3)(ii) for seniority determinations and, thus, seniority in the position of guidance counselor should not accrue to him. (Petitioner's Exceptions at pp. 3-4) Petitioner contends that equitable application of the seniority statutes and regulations demands that an employee only accrue credit for the one position in which the individual is employed, otherwise superior seniority rights would be conferred on supervisors and directors, whose job descriptions and positions include direct services. (Id. at p. 6)

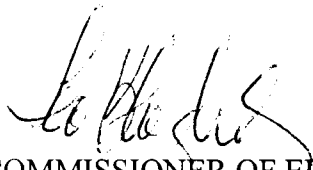

In its reply, the Board argues that the ALJ's initial decision was correct and should be adopted in its entirety. The Board points out that N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(f) permits simultaneous accrual of seniority as a guidance counselor and as director of guidance and that accrual of seniority rights is not dependent on the number of students in a counselor's or director's caseload, but based upon actual employment. (Board's Exceptions at pp. 3-4) Additionally, the Board asserts that the Board, not the State, required its director of guidance to perform counseling duties and that petitioner's argument concerning dual endorsements referred to licensing requirements, not job duties.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ that petitioner's seniority rights were not violated by the Board's actions herein. The law is well-settled to permit simultaneous accrual of seniority rights in more than one seniority category. (N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(f)) In the instant case, the Commissioner finds that consistent with the ALJ's determination, Coyle is entitled to seniority credit in the category for guidance counselors, as well as the category for directors. The Commissioner so determines not merely because Coyle possessed a guidance counselor endorsement, but because he actually performed services under that endorsement. The Commissioner further concurs that the quantity of cases held by Coyle is not determinative in such analysis, but rather his actual service as a guidance counselor, notwithstanding that such service was rendered in the position of director of guidance. Finally, the Commissioner concurs that licensing requirements are distinguishable from assignment of job duties, so that the dual certification required herein is a function of Board action, not State.

Accordingly, for the reasons well-expressed therein, the Commissioner adopts the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law as his own and dismisses the within Petition of Appeal with prejudice.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY : DECISION

OF LINDEN, UNION COUNTY, :

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning principal alleged Board violated his tenure rights when it failed to offer him a contract for the 1994-95 school year.

ALJ determined that petitioner had met the precise requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 including employment in his new position of principal for a period of two consecutive calendar years. Therefore, ALJ concluded that petitioner had achieved tenure in the position of principal. Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision was granted.

Commissioner concurred with ALJ's determination that petitioner achieved tenure in the position of principal. Commissioner ordered petitioner reinstated with all salary, benefits and emoluments retroactive to July 1, 1994.

SUMMARY DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8079-94

AGENCY DKT. NO. 289-7/94

GREGORY R. MARTUCCI,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF

THE CITY OF LINDEN,

Respondent.

Wayne J. Oppito, Esq., for petitioner

Francis J. Campbell, Esq., for respondent
(Kalac, Newman, Lavender & Campbell, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 4, 1995

Decided: September 8, 1995

BEFORE RICHARD MCGILL, ALJ:

Gregory R. Martucci (petitioner) seeks by way of motion for summary decision a determination that he had tenure in the position of principal with the Linden School District and that the determination by the Board of Education of the City of Linden (respondent) not to offer him a contract for the 1994-95 school year violated his tenure rights. Respondent denies that petitioner received tenure in the position of principal and, like petitioner, moves for summary decision.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed his petition with the Commissioner of Education on July 14, 1994 pursuant to the Commissioner's authority to hear and determine controversies arising under the school laws pursuant N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Respondent filed an answer on August 10, 1994, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on August 19, 1994 for determination as a contested case.

Petitioner and respondent filed motions for summary decision on April 13, 1995 and April 18, 1995, respectively. After additional papers were submitted, an oral argument was conducted on August 4, 1995.

MOTIONS FOR SUMMARY DECISION

A motion for summary decision should be granted where there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). The same standard is applied in the courts of this State pursuant to R. 4:46-2. Summary judgment "is designed to provide a prompt, businesslike and inexpensive method" to dispose of actions which do not present any genuine issue of material fact. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954).

a. Facts

The parties are in agreement that there is no genuine issue of material fact in this case and stipulate as follows:

1. The petitioner was employed as a teaching staff member by the Board of Education (hereinafter "Board") on September 1, 1970.
2. The petitioner was continuously employed as a teacher by the Board until July 1, 1992, when his appointment as a principal in the Linden City School District was effective.
3. Petitioner's service as a principal extended from July 1, 1992 through June 30, 1994.
4. On April 27, 1994, the Board took action determining that the petitioner would not be offered a contract as a principal for the 1994-95 school year. Petitioner received written notice from the Board that his contract was not being renewed, on May 2, 1994.
5. The petitioner was continued in his employment as a principal of the Soehl Middle School pursuant to the terms of the contract that existed between the Board and the petitioner, through the 1993-94 school year.
6. The instant litigation then ensued and a Petition was filed with the Commissioner of Education on or about July 14, 1994.

Attachments to the Joint Stipulation of Facts included petitioner's complete employment history with respondent and the employment contract in question.

b. Law and Analysis

Tenure is a status granted to teachers in New Jersey by statute. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. 63, 72 (1982). The objective of tenure statutes is to protect competent and qualified teachers in the security of their positions during good behavior against removal for unfounded, flimsy, or political reasons. Zimmerman v. Board of Education of Newark, 38 N.J. 65, 71 (1962). Because of its remedial purpose, the Tenure Act should be liberally construed to achieve its beneficent ends. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. at 74.

The conditions under which teachers secure tenure are set forth in the Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 to -18. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. at 72. This statute makes tenure a mandatory term of a teacher's employment. Ibid. A teacher achieves tenure through compliance with the specific terms of the statute. Zimmerman v. Board of Education of Newark, 38 N.J. at 72.

Teaching staff members as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 initially receive tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Upon transfer or promotion, tenure is granted in accordance with the conditions set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6. Generally, a teaching staff member achieves tenure "if (1) she works in a position for which a teaching certificate is required; (2) she holds the appropriate certificate; and (3) she has served the requisite period of time." Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. at 74.

Here, it is undisputed that petitioner worked in a position for which a teaching certificate is required and that he held the appropriate certificate. The issue in this proceeding is whether petitioner has served the requisite period of time.

Tenure in a promotional position is governed by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6, which provides in pertinent part as follows:

Any such teaching staff member under tenure or eligible to obtain tenure under this chapter, who is transferred or promoted with his consent to another position covered by this chapter on or after July 1, 1962, shall not obtain tenure in the new position until after:

(a) the expiration of a period of employment of two consecutive calendar years in the new position unless a shorter period is fixed by the employing board for such purposes; or

(b) employment for two academic years in the new position together with employment in the new position at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or

(c) employment in the new position within a period of any three consecutive academic years, for the equivalent of more than two academic years;

A principal is a teaching staff member as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1. The term "calendar year" refers a period of one full year commencing on any date and is not limited to a period from January 1 to December 31. Bd. of Ed. of Manchester Tp. v. Raubinger, 78 N.J.Super. 90, 100-101 (App. Div. 1963).

Petitioner argues that by working as a principal from July 1, 1992 through June 30, 1994, he fulfilled the requirement of a period of employment of two consecutive calendar years in the new position as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6(a). Relying upon the principles set forth in Spiewak, supra, petitioner concludes that he has achieved tenure in the position of principal.

Respondent contends that the notice given to petitioner prior to the completion of the period of two consecutive calendar years in the new position to the effect that he would not be offered a new contract for the following year defeats his claim for tenure. Respondent specifically relies on a concurring opinion in Nissman v. Board of Educ., 272 N.J.Super. 373 (App. Div. 1994), certif. denied 137 N.J. 315 (1994), for the proposition that notice will defeat tenure.

Nissman involved two issues. One issue was substantially the same as the question of law in the case sub judice, while the other issue related to the ninety-day time limitation for filing a petition with the Commissioner of Education under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). The case was ultimately decided on the basis of the ninety-day rule but not before the substantive issue was addressed by the Administrative Law Judge, the Commissioner of Education and one judge of the Appellate Division.

Blossom S. Nissman and the Board of Education of the Township of Long Beach Island entered into a contract under which Nissman was to serve as an elementary school principal. The term of the contract was from September 1, 1987 to August 31, 1990. On April 23, 1990, the Board of Education adopted a resolution in compliance with N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10, which is quoted below, providing as follows: “RESOLVE that the employment contract of Dr. Blossom Nissman expiring August 31, 1990 not be renewed and she not be offered a new contract or granted tenure.”

Nissman continued to work in her position up to and including August 31, 1990, the last day of her contract. At the end of that work day, Nissman advised the Board of Education by telefax that she had acquired tenure in the position of principal pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a). Evidently, Nissman was not in a promotional position and therefore required employment for a period of three calendar years in order to acquire tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a). The Board’s counsel faxed a response stating that Nissman did not have tenure and should not report to work for the school year that was about to begin.

Nissman appealed to the Commissioner of Education, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) determined that Nissman’s appeal was not barred by the ninety-day rule pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) and further that Nissan had achieved tenure in the position of principal since she met the precise requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a) in that she was employed for three consecutive calendar years from September 1, 1987 to August 31, 1990. Nissman v. Board of Education of the Township of Long Beach Island, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 71. The Commissioner of Education affirmed the ALJ’s decision. Id. at 74-76.

The State Board of Education reversed the Commissioner’s decision based upon the view that the appeal was time barred by the ninety-day rule. Nissman v. Long Beach Island

Township Board of Education, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 621. The State Board emphasized that it was deciding the case solely on the basis of Nissman's failure to file the petition in a timely manner and not on the merits of her underlying claim. Id. at 622. Nonetheless, the State Board included a footnote to the effect that it was unaware of any precedent that would have required the Board to breach its contract with Nissman in order to preclude her from acquiring tenure. Ibid.

Nissman appealed from the decision of the State Board of Education, and the majority in the Appellate Division affirmed the State Board's dismissal based upon the ninety-day time limit set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). However, a concurring opinion expresses the view that the case should be decided on the substantive issue of tenure rather than the procedural question. According to the concurring opinion, the adoption and service of the Board's resolution before April 30, 1990 had the effect of preventing the acquisition of tenure in light of the legislative policy set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:27-9 and N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10.

These two statutes relate to contracts of teaching staff members. One statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:27-9, provides as follows:

If the employment of a teaching staff member is terminated on notice, pursuant to a contract entered into with the board of education, it shall be optional with the board whether or not the member shall continue to perform his duties during the period between the giving of the notice and the date of termination of employment thereunder.

The other statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10, states as follows:

On or before May 15 in each year, every board of education in this State shall give to each nontenure teaching staff member continuously employed by it since the preceding September 30 either

a. A written offer of a contract for employment for the next succeeding year providing for at least the same terms and conditions of employment but with such increases in salary as may be required by law or policies of the board of education, or

- b. A written notice that such employment will not be offered.

A determination in this case requires an appreciation of the relationship between the tenure statutes and a teaching staff member's contract status. The leading case in regard to this relationship is Canfield v. Board of Ed. of Pine Hill Borough, 51 N.J. 400 (1968), rev'g on dissent 97 N.J. Super. 483 (App. Div. 1967), wherein teacher Gladys Canfield was originally employed by the Board of Education on November 19, 1962. Her contract was renewed annually for three ensuing school years from September 1, 1963 to June 30, 1964, from September 1, 1964 to June 30, 1965, and from September 1, 1965 to June 30, 1966. Her contract of employment provided that it could be terminated by either party upon giving sixty days' notice in writing of intention to terminate. By November 19, 1965, Canfield would have actually served three full academic years, which would have satisfied the requirements of the statute, N.J.S.A. 18:13-16, in effect at the time, allowing for tenure "after employment, within a period of any four consecutive academic years, for the equivalent of more than three academic years." The Board of Education notified Canfield on November 15, 1965, that it was terminating her teaching contract to take effect immediately and giving her two months pay. Canfield contended that because the sixty days' pay was to run beyond the date when she would otherwise have achieved tenure, she is entitled to tenure.

The majority in the Appellate Division determined that the Board of Education had the power to prevent Canfield from continuing to render services even if doing so breached the contract, but that without sixty days' notice, the action did not terminate Canfield's employment. The majority concluded that Canfield's employment continued for the sixty-day notice period and that therefore Canfield achieved tenure.

The New Jersey Supreme Court reversed for reasons expressed in the dissenting opinion of Judge Gaulkin, who stated in part as follows:

It seems to me that tenure and contract are two different concepts; tenure is statutory and arises only by passage of the time fixed by the statute, and the discharge of an employee before the passage of the required time bars tenure, even if the discharge is in breach of an employment contract which, if not breached, would have extended to a date which would have given tenure.

Finally, I find nothing in the contract which justifies the conclusion reached by my Brothers that the dismissal was not effective on the date the notice of dismissal was given. If this was a dispute arising out of the breach of the contract itself in which the question of the date of termination of the contract became important, it might be held that the termination was not effective until 60 days after the notice of dismissal was given. . . . But here we are concerned not with the contract or its breach, but with the status of the plaintiff -- i.e., tenure. It seems to me that the dismissal immediately stopped the running of the time to tenure. The burden of proving the right of tenure is upon plaintiff and ordinarily that right must be clearly proved. I do not think a municipality should be trapped into tenure by the construction of words which neither party expected to have that meaning. Canfield v. Bd. Edu. of Pine Hill, 97 N.J.Super. at 490-493.

Thus, even where a contract requires the employee to be retained beyond the tenure date, a timely prior dismissal precludes tenure. In short, tenure is not controlled by the contractual status of the teaching staff member. Rather, tenure is achieved by compliance with the specific requirements of the tenure statute. Also noteworthy is that it seems to be a foregone conclusion that Canfield would have acquired tenure if the Board of Education had given her sixty days' notice of termination and then allowed her to work for that period of time.

A case with a remarkably similar fact pattern but a different issue from the matter sub judice is Bd. of Ed. of Manchester Tp. v. Raubinger, 78 N.J.Super. 90 (App. Div. 1963). Milo E. Schumacher and the Board of Education of Manchester Township entered into a two-year contract for his employment as a principal from July 1, 1959 to June 30, 1961. By resolution dated May 11, 1961, the Board of Education reappointed Schumacher as a principal, and a one-year contract was executed providing for his employment from July 1, 1961 to June 30, 1962. Each contract contained a clause which permitted either party to terminate the employment by giving the other sixty days' written notice. Notice was not given pursuant to this provision of the contract, but at a meeting on May 10, 1962, the Board of Education voted that "an employment contract be denied Mr. Schumacher." Schumacher continued his employment through June 30, 1962. Thus, the facts were substantially identical to the case sub judice.

Schumacher contended that he achieved tenure by virtue of his employment for three consecutive calendar years as required by the tenure statute in effect at the time, N.J.S.A. 18:13-16. The Board of Education did not argue that the denial of a contract renewal prevented Schumacher from achieving tenure but instead contended that a calendar year referred to the period from January 1 to December 31 and that Schumacher had not completed three such periods. As noted above, the court rejected the Board's argument and held that the term "calendar year" refers to a full year starting on any date. Bd. of Ed. of Manchester Tp. v. Raubinger, 78 N.J.Super. at 100. Schumacher was granted tenure. Thus, under substantially identical facts, a principal was granted tenure.

The Court's opinion in Raubinger is also noteworthy for a discussion of the history of tenure statutes in New Jersey. A key point in this discussion is that the tenure laws have been amended from time to time to prevent abuse by boards of education that devised methods to deny teachers tenure, in some cases indefinitely. Id. at 94-97.

The case of Mullen v. Jefferson Board of Education, 1960-61 S.L.D. 194 (1961) produced a similar result. There, John J. Mullen was employed as a Superintendent of Schools pursuant to contracts from July 1, 1957 to June 30, 1960. On the latter date, the Board of Education voted to void his contract. The Commissioner of Education concluded that Mullen had achieved tenure since he was actually employed in the performance of his duties through the evening of June 30, 1960. The standard employed by the Commissioner was whether the superintendent was actually employed in the performance of his duties through the last day of the period of three consecutive calendar years. Thus, Canfield, Raubinger and Mullen indicate that the long-standing practice and interpretation was that individuals in petitioner's position were found to have tenure.

Respondent relies upon N.J.S.A. 18A:27-9 and N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10, which it characterizes as later enacted statutes. Respondent's characterization is based on a reference to the original enactment of the Tenure Act in 1909. This reference is of little significance since Spiewak, the leading case in regard to tenure, was decided in 1982, a number of years after the enactment of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-9 (L. 1967, c. 271, which may be traced to L. 1954, c. 80) and N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10 (L. 1971, c. 436).

Respondent's reliance on N.J.S.A. 18A:27-9 and N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10 is otherwise misplaced. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-9 concerns a situation where a teacher is terminated on notice pursuant to a contract and provides that the board has the option whether the member will continue to perform his duties during the period between the giving of notice and the date of termination of employment. Clearly, respondent in this case did not give petitioner notice of termination pursuant to the contract, and therefore, N.J.S.A. 18A:27-9 is inapplicable. Moreover, this statute clearly contemplates that a teacher's employment may continue subsequent to a notice of termination if the board chooses to allow the teacher to perform his duties during the period from the notice to the effective date of the termination.

Respondent's notice to petitioner that he would not be offered a contract for the next year was based upon N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10. However, this statute was most certainly intended to benefit non-tenured teaching staff members by providing notice in the event that a new contract would not be offered. Nissman v. Bd. of Educ., 272 N.J. Super. at 380. Thus, it is highly unlikely that the legislative intent behind N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10 was to undermine the acquisition of tenure.

Respondent seems to believe that the footnote in the State Board's decision in Nissman, supra, as set forth above intimates that notice of non-renewal is sufficient to prevent the acquisition of tenure. This notion is unpersuasive since the State Board specifically stated that it was not addressing the merits of the substantive issue. Additionally, it is noteworthy that as of April 27, 1994, respondent could have given petitioner sixty days' notice of termination, thereby preventing him from obtaining tenure, without breaching his contract. In regard to the concurring opinion upon which respondent places great reliance, it is noteworthy that the majority in the Appellate Division did not join in the concurrence, which was not the opinion of the court.

Respondent in effect argues that it complied with the general purposes of the tenure statutes by allowing petitioner to work as a principal on a probationary basis for a period approaching two years and then, after deciding that it did not want petitioner to receive tenure in the new position, gave him adequate notice that he would not be offered a new contract as a principal. Respondent sees its approach as fair to petitioner and generally consistent with the tenure laws.

The fundamental flaw in respondent's analysis is that the Legislature and the courts have taken a different approach to tenure. In order to prevent abuses by school boards and to protect teachers, the Legislature has set forth specific requirements with which a teaching staff member must comply to achieve tenure. Zimmerman v. Board of Education of Newark, 38 N.J. at 72; Bd. of Ed. of Manchester Tp. v. Raubinger, 78 N.J. Super. at 96. The notion that notice defeats tenure raises the concern of possible abuses by boards of education. If it were established that notice bars tenure, the opportunity would exist for creativity in regard to the contents of the notice. It is certainly a reasonable concern that boards of education will devise means to provide notice to a teaching staff member prior to the expiration of the period of time set forth in the tenure statute but allow that individual to continue to perform his duties for an indefinite additional time without achieving tenure. This result is fundamentally inconsistent with the purposes of the tenure statutes.

One of the specific requirements under the tenure statutes is that the teacher has served for the requisite period of time. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. at 74. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6(a) provides that a teaching staff member in a promotional position receives tenure upon “the expiration of a period of employment of two consecutive calendar years in the new position. . . .” In effect, respondent argues that where a teaching staff member is given notice of non-renewal but continues to perform his duties for the balance of his contract, such effort does not constitute “employment” within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6. Respondent’s position is inconsistent with the long-standing interpretation of the term “employment” as reflected in Canfield, Raubinger and Mullen, supra, and also represents a departure from the specific requirement in Spiewak that the teacher has served for the requisite period of time. Moreover, respondent’s position is certainly not a liberal interpretation of the Tenure Act as required by Spiewak.

Petitioner has met the precise requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 including employment in the new position for a period of two consecutive calendar years. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has achieved tenure in the position of principal.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that:

1. Petitioner’s motion for summary decision is granted.
2. Respondent’s motion for summary decision is denied.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

 BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY : DECISION OF LINDEN, UNION COUNTY, :

 _____ :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions of the Board were untimely, having been filed on September 27, 1995, in response to an initial decision mailed to the parties on September 13, 1995, and are, therefore, not herein considered.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge that because petitioner satisfied the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6, including employment in his new position for a period of two consecutive calendar years, he achieved tenure in the position of principal. The Commissioner further concurs that this is so, notwithstanding the Board's determination on April 27, 1994, and subsequent written notice to petitioner on May 2, 1994, that he would not be offered a contract for the 1994-95 school year.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons clearly articulated in the initial decision. Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision is granted and the Board of Education of the City of Linden is hereby ordered to reinstate petitioner to the position of principal with all salary, benefits and emoluments, retroactive to July 1, 1994.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

RESPONDENT-APPELLANT.	:
_____	:

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, October 25, 1995

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Wayne Oppito, Esq.

For the Respondent-Appellant, Kalac, Newman, Lavender and Campbell
(Francis J. Campbell, Esq., of Counsel)

The facts in this case are not in dispute. Petitioner was first employed by the Board of Education of the City of Linden on September 1, 1970, as a teacher. He was continuously employed as a teacher until July 1, 1992. On that date, his employment as a principal became effective, and he began serving in that capacity. Petitioner served as a principal during the 1992-93 and 1993-94 school years. However, on May 2, 1994, the Board notified him that it was not going to offer him a contract for 1994-95. Accordingly, petitioner's employment as a principal ended on June 30, 1994, when his contract for 1993-94 expired.

12/4/96

On July 14, 1994, petitioner initiated this litigation by filing a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner claiming that he had achieved tenure as a principal pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6(a). That statute provides in pertinent part that:

Any such teaching staff member under tenure or eligible to obtain tenure under this chapter, who is transferred or promoted with his consent to another position covered by this chapter on or after July 1, 1962, shall not obtain tenure in the new position until after:

(a) the expiration of a period of employment of two consecutive calendar years in the new position unless a shorter period is fixed by the employing board for such purposes.

Petitioner contended that by working as a principal from July 1, 1992 through June 30, 1994, he fulfilled the precise terms of this statutory provision so that he achieved tenure under the principles of Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63 (1982).

The Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") agreed. Rejecting the Board's argument that its notice of non-renewal barred petitioner's acquisition of promotional tenure, the ALJ concluded that petitioner had acquired tenure by serving as a principal for two years. He therefore recommended that the Commissioner grant summary decision to petitioner.

The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's determination as his decision in this matter and directed that petitioner be reinstated as a principal.

The Board appealed to the State Board, maintaining that petitioner's claim to promotional tenure was barred by its notice to him in May 1994 that it was not going to offer him a new contract as a principal.

While the Legal Committee was reviewing this appeal, the New Jersey Supreme Court issued its decision in Picogna v. Board of Education of the Township of Cherry Hill, 143 N.J. 391 (1996). In that case, the Cherry Hill Board had terminated an Assistant Superintendent for Business on April 29, 1988, before he had served in the position for a sufficient time period to acquire tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a). Picogna's employment contract had been for three consecutive calendar years, and he claimed that he had achieved tenure because he would have served the requisite period if the district board had not breached his contract by terminating him approximately two months before his contract was due to expire.

The specific issue which the Court decided was whether the deliberate breach of a three-year employment contract confers tenure on a teaching staff member if, as a result, he is discharged before he actually serves the period required by the statute for the achievement of tenure. Citing Zimmerman v. Board of Education of Newark, 38 N.J. 65 (1962), cert. denied, 371 U.S. 956 (1963), the Court found that Picogna had not acquired tenure because he had not served the requisite three years mandated by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a), which was the statute applicable to the case. As the Court expressed its conclusion:

We reaffirm this Court's holding in [Canfield v. Board of Educ., 51 N.J. 400 (1968)] that breach of a contract covering a full probationary period of employment that may have resulted in tenure had no breach occurred does not confer tenure in the absence of continued employment after service for the requisite number of consecutive probationary years in the same district. To obtain tenure based on N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a), plaintiff was required to serve three consecutive calendar years with defendant and then be reemployed by the Board for at least one day in a fourth year. Zimmerman, supra, 38 N.J. at 75-76. That is required to satisfy the statutory requirement of employment after expiration of three consecutive years.... In addition, the Board's absolute right not to renew the employment relationship on sixty-days notice is compelling evidence that the parties did not intend to confer tenure upon entry into the contract or after substantial performance under the contract.

Picogna, supra, at 401-2.

In view of the Court's holding in Picogna, we requested both parties to submit briefs addressing the effect of that decision on the instant case. After considering the arguments presented therein, as well as the record previously developed, we find that the decision in Picogna compels the conclusion that petitioner in the case now before us did not acquire tenure as a principal.

Picogna involved the application of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a). As set forth in the Court's opinion, Picogna, supra, at 400, the exact language of that statutory provision mandates in pertinent part that:

The services of all teaching staff members...shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency...after employment in such district or by such board for:

(a) three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose.

Zimmerman, which the Picogna Court cited to support its conclusion that N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a) required reemployment in order to support a claim of tenure, involved a teaching staff member employed on an academic year basis rather than on a calendar year basis. Under the current statutory framework, a claim such as Zimmerman's is controlled by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a) rather than 28-5(b). Petitioner argues that the distinction between these statutory provisions is such that the Picogna Court's citation to Zimmerman renders meaningless its conclusion that N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a) precludes the acquisition of tenure for calendar year employees unless they are reemployed upon the expiration of their contracts. We do not agree.

In Zimmerman, the Court considered a claim by a teacher employed on an academic year basis who had been dismissed in May of his third year although his employment contract did not expire until June 30. Zimmerman was successful before the New Jersey Supreme Court in challenging the Newark Board's action in dismissing him, which had been taken on the basis of his refusal to testify before a subcommittee of the House Un-American Activities Committee. However, when this agency determined that Zimmerman's relief was limited to receiving his salary for the period between his dismissal and the expiration of his contract, he appealed, seeking reinstatement and claiming tenure under N.J.S.A. 18:13-16, the predecessor statute to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.

The New Jersey Supreme Court reviewed the matter on direct certification. Focusing on the date upon which Zimmerman had begun his service as a teacher, the Court concluded that he was not entitled to tenure because he had not been employed for three calendar years prior to his dismissal. Zimmerman, supra, at 74. The Court's conclusion was grounded in an interpretation of the word "employment" under N.J.S.A. 18:13-16 by New Jersey's prior Supreme Court. Under that interpretation, "employment" for an academic year employee, for purposes of establishing the date upon which a teacher begins to acquire tenure, starts on the date he begins teaching and not on the date he enters into the contract. Zimmerman, supra, at 74, citing Chalmers v. State Board of Education, 11 N.J. Misc. 781 (Sup. Ct. 1933).

The Court also rejected Zimmerman's contention that tenure normally follows "automatically" when a teacher receives satisfactory evaluations for three academic years. In this respect, the Court found that:

Except for statutory conditions, a teacher is retained solely on a contract basis during his probationary employment. At the expiration of an annual contract period, the employment relationship ceases to exist unless a new contract has been entered into....

Zimmerman, supra, at 75.

Equally applicable here is the Zimmerman Court's construction of the terms of N.J.S.A. 18:13-16. That statute provided in pertinent part that:

The services of all teachers...shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency, (a) after the expiration of a period of employment of three consecutive calendar years in that district...or (b) after employment for three consecutive academic years together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year, or (c) after employment, within a period of any four consecutive academic years, for the equivalent of more than three academic years.

The Zimmerman Court interpreted this language to mean that "tenure status may be secured only after employment for the probationary periods specified [therein]."

Zimmerman, supra, at 72. In this respect, the Court stressed that:

Inherent in the tenure legislation is the policy that a board's duty to hire teachers requires more than merely appointing licensed instructors; it demands that permanent appointments be made only if teachers are found suitable for the positions after a qualifying trial period. In essence, this constitutes a "proving out" period....

Id. at 72-73.

It is this principle, derived from consideration of N.J.S.A. 18:13-16, which underlies the Picogna Court's interpretation of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. When the Legislature recodified N.J.S.A. 18:13-16 in 1967, effective January 1968, it altered the structure of the statute so that the phrase "after employment," which had been repeated at the beginning of each of the specific provisions in N.J.S.A. 18:13-16, was placed instead in the opening section applicable to all three of the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. However, we can find nothing to indicate any intent to change the meaning of the phrase.

In contrast to Picogna, the claim in this case is for promotional tenure, which is governed by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6(a). That statute provides in pertinent part that:

Any...teaching staff member under tenure or eligible to obtain tenure under this chapter, who is transferred or promoted with his consent to another position covered by this chapter...shall not obtain tenure in the new position until after:

(a) the expiration of a period of employment of two consecutive calendar years in the new position unless a shorter period is fixed by the employing board for such purpose.

However, both N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6(a) and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a) apply to teaching staff members employed on a calendar year basis, and the language of the statutes is substantially the same in all respects relevant herein. Moreover, central to the Picogna Court's construction of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a) is the fact that the exact language of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 provides that a teaching staff member acquires tenure only after employment in a tenure-eligible position for the requisite period. The language of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 is virtually identical in this respect to that of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Hence, there is no basis to construe this requirement of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6(a) differently than the Court has interpreted it under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a).

In sum, we hold in this case that petitioner did not acquire tenure as a principal because, although he served the entire term of his contract, he was not reemployed by the Board as a principal after being employed in that capacity for two years. Picogna, supra. We find that sound educational policy supports this result. Were we to hold otherwise, district boards would be forced to terminate the contracts of calendar year employees in order to prevent tenure acquisition. We find no justification for the disruption to the school system that such a result would cause. Nor can we justify the additional expense that would be inevitable in those cases where payment must be made to the employee under the employment contract following his termination while, at the same time, the district would be required to pay for his replacement.

We stress that in contrast to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, any teaching staff member to whom N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 applies retains his tenure rights in his previous position. Accordingly, although we conclude that petitioner did not acquire promotional tenure as a principal, he is entitled under that statute to be returned to his former position at the salary he would have received had he not been promoted together with any increase to which he would have been entitled during the period of his promotion.

Attorney exceptions are noted.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct, insubordination, incompetence, incapacity and other just cause against tenured janitor.

ALJ concluded that the preponderance of credible evidence established that on numerous occasions between 1990 and 1994, respondent failed to perform his duties in a satisfactory manner, despite repeated warnings. Moreover, the ALJ concluded that he acted unprofessionally and inappropriately toward two of his female coworkers. ALJ determined respondent's behavior warranted his removal from his position as janitor.

Commissioner concurred with findings and determination in initial decision and ordered respondent dismissed from his tenured position.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, the Board of Education of the City of Irvington, Essex County (Board) certified tenure charges against respondent, Nathan Purnell, a custodian employed by the Board. The Board filed charges of conduct unbecoming, insubordination, incompetence, incapacity and other just cause against Purnell. The Board submits that Purnell's conduct warrants his dismissal from employment as a tenured custodian. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

The Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 6, 1994 for a determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1-15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13. Hearings were held on March 2, 3, 1995 and on May 11, 1995. The parties filed post hearing briefs and the record closed on July 25, 1995.

SUMMARY OF THE CHARGES

The Board filed seven charges of unbecoming conduct, insubordination, incompetence, incapacity and other just cause against Purnell. The charges were as follows:

1. Charges One, Two, Three and Five allege that during numerous occasions throughout school years 1990-1991, 1991-1992, 1992-1993, and 1993-1994, Purnell persistently failed to complete his assigned custodial duties and tasks in a satisfactory manner in contravention of the directives from his supervisors.
2. Charge four alleges that on April 21, 1993, Purnell intentionally threw a set of keys at supervisor, Larry Graham, in response to being advised that his cleaning duties were incomplete and unsatisfactory.
3. Charge Six alleges that on November 30, 1993 and on other occasions throughout the 1993-94 school year, Purnell sexually and physically harassed Theresa Avella, a teacher at Chancellor Avenue School, by making unprofessional, inappropriate, threatening and suggestive remarks to Avella.
4. Charge Seven alleges that on or about June 3, 1994 and on other occasions throughout the 1993-94 school year, Purnell sexually and physically harassed Christine Miller, a dental clerk, by making inappropriate, threatening and suggestive remarks, and inappropriate physical contact with Miller.

SUMMARY OF EVIDENCE

Petitioner presented seven witnesses and respondent presented four witnesses.

Charges One, Two, Three and Five:

The Board alleges that on numerous occasions between 1990 to 1994, Purnell persistently failed to complete his assigned custodial duties and tasks in a satisfactory manner in contravention of the directives from his supervisors.

Henry Lewis, the Night Supervisor at Irvington High School, supervised Purnell between November 1989 to 1991. Lewis testified about Purnell's performance. Generally, Purnell's work was not up to par. He failed to adequately clean his assigned area. For example, when he was assigned to sweep the stairwells and floors he would leave the debris on the floor. On one occasion Purnell was assigned to the gym area to set up equipment for a school function. He refused to help the other employee and told Lewis that he was did not feel like working. Lewis informed his supervisor about the incident and sent Purnell home.

On another occasion, Purnell refused to carry out Lewis' directive to clean the gym. Lewis often found Purnell sitting in the classroom either talking with a teacher, listening to the radio in the dark, or sleeping instead of doing his assigned work. When Lewis confronted Purnell about not doing his work, Purnell did not argue with him; he would "go ahead and do things." Purnell would complete his task only when Lewis instructed him to do them.

Lewis documented several incidents regarding Purnell's performance. On August 27, 1990, Purnell was written up for insubordination because he failed to follow Lewis' directives to clear the gym for cleaning. (P-1). On January 25, 1991, Lewis informed Purnell that his job performance left "a lot to be desired." and that other supervisors whom Purnell had worked under had previously pointed out deficiencies in his work. Purnell failed to mop the stair landings, remove graffiti from the walls and had been sent home for refusing to work. After working for over one year, Purnell failed "to make any attempt to improve” (P-3). Based on respondent’s performance, Lewis recommended that disciplinary action be taken against Purnell. Id.

Thereafter, Purnell received several verbal warnings and memorandums regarding his poor job performance. On October 8, 1991, Don Lozito, Head Custodian, and Lewis complained to Frank Roth, Assistant Supervisor about Purnell’s poor performance and attitude towards work. Lozito and Lewis requested assistance from Roth. (P-6).

Frank Roth, Assistant Supervisor of Building and Grounds, was formerly the assistant head custodian at Irvington High School. In August 1990, Roth recommended that Purnell’s contract for employment not be renewed “unless Mr. Purnell begins immediately to cooperate with his supervisor and the rest of the staff”. (P-2). Roth met with Purnell on October 25, 1991. They discussed Purnell’s attitude and job performance. Purnell responded that he would improve his job performance. Thereafter, in October 1991, he was transferred to Chancellor Avenue School.

James Washington, Principal of Chancellor Avenue School (Chancellor), testified about Purnell’s work performance. On Purnell’s first day of work, Washington and the head custodian, Joseph Ambrosico, met with respondent to describe his duties. Ambrosico was Purnell’s immediate supervisor on the night shift. Approximately six months after Purnell began working at Chancellor, Ambrosico reported several deficiencies in Purnell’s work performance. Purnell complained to Washington that he was harassed by Ambrosico and believed Ambrosico’s criticism was unfair. Washington met with Purnell and Ambrosico to discuss the matter but did not reach any conclusions on Purnell’s harassment charge. Instead, Roger Monel, the Assistant Board Secretary and the Affirmative Action Officer for the Irvington Public Schools, investigated Purnell’s charges of harassment. Purnell failed to attend any of the meetings scheduled by Monel. Washington decided however, to directly supervise Purnell. He believed that his direct supervision would allow Purnell to improve his job performance and it would give Washington an opportunity to evaluate Purnell's performance.

Washington observed deficiencies in Purnell's work performance. For example, trash bags were left near the doors and materials which had been swept into a pile were not picked up. On another occasion, Purnell failed to carry out his assignment to clean the stage of the auditorium. Consequently, other custodians on the morning shift had to do Purnell's work. Washington met with Purnell and informed him that his "working station" did not meet the "desired cleanliness" and also sent him a memorandum about his failure to perform his assigned duties. (P-8).

On March 1, 1993, Purnell was transferred to Augustus Street School and assigned to work under the supervision of head custodian Larry Graham. Purnell's duties were to clean the classrooms, bathrooms, corridors and the walls in the school's main building and annex. On April 20, 1993, Graham inspected Purnell's work at the annex. Graham then showed him that the girls' toilet, the teachers' toilet, and the corridor had not been cleaned. Purnell became very "angry" and threw the keys at Graham (P-10). Graham reported Purnell's poor work performance and the incident with the keys to the school principal, Kevin West and Roger Monel. (P-9; P-10). Purnell was charged with insubordination for throwing the keys at Graham. Additionally, Monel informed Purnell that his work would be monitored daily. Monel also warned Purnell that if he did not perform his duties properly, disciplinary action would be taken against him. (P-11). On May 26, 1993, West requested that Purnell be transferred from Augustus School because of continued unsatisfactory performance. (P-13).

Also, on May 26, 1993, Frank Roth, Assistant Supervisor of Buildings and Grounds, and Graham inspected Purnell's work area. The inspection revealed that neither the girls' nor the boys' bathrooms had not been cleaned, seven classrooms had not been swept or dusted, and the corridors had not been swept or mopped. Moreover, debris from the prior day had been left on the floor. Roth also reminded Purnell about the previous notice advising him that his job performance was unacceptable and that his work would be monitored on a daily basis. See P-11. Roth concluded that Purnell's job performance was unacceptable and gave him thirty days to improve his work. Roth also notified Purnell that his "[f]ailure to comply will result in disciplinary action". (P-14).

On May 27, 1993, Roth again spoke with Purnell about his work performance. Roth's report states that Purnell claimed that his work was "perfect" and that "someone else is putting dirt in place after he cleans". (P-15). Also on May 27, Roth and Graham inspected Purnell's work area. The halls were swept but not mopped, the classrooms were swept but not mopped, and the girls' and boys' bathrooms were not cleaned. (Id.).

On October 25, 1993, Purnell was reassigned to Chancellor Avenue School. His job performance did not improve. Purnell was written up because he failed to properly remove snow, (P-20), he failed to adequately clean his assigned areas, (P-21; P-22), and he failed to attend meetings with the building principal to review his "scheduled worksites and the required duties for each area". (P-23).

Purnell was born in 1960 and received a vocational education. Purnell maintained that during his first year with the Board, he got along well with his supervisor, Henry Lewis. He did not recall if he was reprimanded for sleeping on the job or listening to the radio instead of working. Purnell claimed that initially he was not given adequate supplies to do his job, e.g., new brooms and a face mask. Purnell denied throwing the keys at Graham but he conceded that they had a dispute about whether he cleaned his work areas. Purnell admittedly became "very annoyed" about the way Graham spoke to him. He maintained however, that he threw the keys on the ground, not at Graham.

Purnell declared firmly that he performed his job duties well and that he did the best that he could do. Indeed, each year of his employment, except school year 1994-95, the Board evaluated his performance and approved his merit salary increment.

Rebecca Watford Dunmoire is a security guard assigned to Chancellor. Dunmoire and Purnell previously worked together as bus attendants at the Department of Transportation and they were friends. At Chancellor, she monitors and mingles with the pupils during their lunch and recess periods. She has also observed Purnell sweep the floors, clean the halls, and shovel the snow. Evelyn L Simmonds is a third grade teacher at Chancellor. Purnell was assigned to clean her classroom. She described him as very friendly and enjoyed his conversation.

Paul Gaynor is the head custodian at Florence Avenue School. In 1988, Gaynor and Purnell were custodians assigned to Chancellor. Their duties were to clean their assigned areas and secure the building. There were no specific times during the night shift when custodians are required to take their lunch breaks. Gaynor and Purnell worked on separate floors and did not see each other often during their work shift. Thus, he could not testify about Purnell's performance. They argued however, because Purnell did not always want to do his job. For example, Purnell refused to close the windows in the classrooms. Purnell believed that it was the teacher's job to close the windows. Purnell became angry when he was asked to shut them and walked out the building. Gaynor reported the incident to their supervisor.

Charge Six:

The Board alleges that Purnell sexually and physically harassed Theresa Avella, a teacher at Chancellor Avenue School, by making unprofessional, inappropriate, threatening and suggestive remarks to Avella.

Avella is a teacher at Chancellor Avenue School. Purnell was assign to clean her classroom. On several occasions, Avella was completing administrative tasks in her classroom after school when Purnell entered the room. He would spend three to eight minutes doing his work. They would exchange pleasantries about music and religion and then he left. Avella recalled that on the last day of school in June 1993, while her coworkers were in the hallway saying good-by before summer vacation, Purnell approached her and said "Oh, by the way, I have a crush on you". Avella's did not respond to his remark or encourage further discussion on the subject.

The second incident occurred while Purnell was cleaning her room. Purnell spoke to Avella about her music band and remarked that she may meet someone else. She interpreted his comment to suggest that they had something between them. Nevertheless, they continued to have brief conversations whenever she was present while Purnell cleaned her classroom.

In January 1994, Purnell entered Avella's room while she was "killing time" and stated "I'm not going to give up on you until I make you my wife." Avella responded that her feelings towards him was friendship. Avella reported the incidents Washington, the school principal. (P-18). Thereafter, Washington met with Purnell several times about Avella's complaint. Washington informed Purnell about the seriousness of this matter and advised him to refrain from "such actions" and from speaking to Avella. Washington then reported the matter to Rogel Monel, the Assistant Secretary to the Board and the Affirmative Action Officer, and recommended that Purnell met with Monel. (P-19). Although Washington directed Purnell to clean Avella's classroom after she left the building, he continued to approach her in her classroom and initiate conversations. (P-25; P-26; P-27).

Purnell conceded that he often spoke to the teachers when he cleaned their classrooms. His initial conversation with Avella was spontaneous. Later conversations were about religious books. He loaned her one of his books, the New World Order written by Pat Robertson. Purnell also conceded that he told Avella that he had a crush on her. He explained that Avella was a nice person and that he believed that she did not take his statement seriously but was flattered by his remark. After making the statement Purnell recalled that he "went on about my business and she went on about her business." Purnell maintained that he never pursued Avella for a date. He denied telling Avella that he wanted her to be his wife. After his meetings with Washington about Avella's complaint, Purnell denied having any further conversations with her.

Charge Seven:

The Board alleges that Purnell sexually and physically harassed Christine Miller, a dental clerk, by making inappropriate, threatening and suggestive remarks, and inappropriate physical contact with Miller.

Christine Miller, a dental clerk, performs clerical duties for four dentists employed by the Board. Her home school is Chancellor Avenue. Miller and Purnell exchanged small pleasantries, e.g., "Hell-o", as he cleaned her office. On June 3, 1994 at approximately 3:45pm, Purnell entered the room to empty the waste basket and spoke to her. Miller was talking on the telephone. Purnell tried to get her attention by patting her arm. Miller abruptly pulled away and told him not to touch her. He then walked across the room to empty a basket, returned to her desk "within inches of me and began to stare and smile at me." P-28. Miller ended the telephone conversation and reported the incident to the principal, the superintendent, and the affirmative action officer. Purnell confronted Miller and Washington in the hallway. He accused Miller of prejudice and became irate.

Miller stated that she was upset by Purnell's conduct and felt threatened. Miller also stated that Purnell annoyed her. On three or four prior occasions Purnell had come into her office and tried to get her attention when she was on the telephone and did not want to be disturbed. On another occasion he also patted her shoulder to get her attention. Miller "was cool" and brushed him off.

Purnell recounted the incident differently. He went into the office to empty the waste basket. Miller was on the telephone and blocking his way. He then "lightly tapped politely" Miller on her shoulder and asked her to move out of his way.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

A tenured employee is protected "in their employment when they are subject to unfair and improper attacks, when they are unable to perform efficiently because of conditions not of their own making or beyond their control." In re Tenure Hearing of Joseph A Maraeta, Township of Riverside, 1966 S.L.D. 77, aff'd State Board of Education 1966 S.L.D. 106. Moreover, charges against a tenured employee may not be examined in a vacuum, but must be considered in any events leading up to the allegations made against the employee which may help to explain the situation. In re Tenure Hearing of Romaroli, School District of Willingborough, 1975 S.L.D. 352.

On the other hand, the Commission has not hesitated to terminate custodians based on their failure to perform specific cleaning functions. In re Tenure Hearing of David Riddick, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 345, 350. A tenured custodian may be terminated for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

Petitioner has the burden of proof by a preponderance of the credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian 37 N.J. 143 (1962). The term "burden of proof" refers to the "burden of persuasion". The burden of persuasion entails more than merely producing evidence to establish a state of equilibrium with respect to whether a certain fact exists. This tribunal must "decide in favor of the party on whose side the weight of the evidence preponderates, and according to the reasonable probability of the truth."

Jackson v D.L. & W.R.R., 111 N.J.L. 487, 490 (E. & A. 1933). Preponderance is the greater weight of credible evidence in the case, not necessarily dependent on the number of witnesses, but having the greater convincing power. State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975). The evidence must be such as to lead a reasonable cautious mind to a given conclusion. Bornstein v. Metropolitan Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958). Where the standard is reasonable probability, that is, preponderance of the evidence, the evidence must be such as to "generate belief that the tendered hypothesis is in all human likelihood the fact." Loew v Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div. 1959).

Proof of the charges filed against Purnell depend on large part the credibility of the witnesses. In an administrative proceeding, testimony may be disbelieved, but it may not be disregarded. Middletown Tp. v Murdoch, 73 N.J. Super. 511 (App. Div. 1962). Moreover, the trier of fact is not bound to believe the testimony of any witness and may accept or reject, in whole or in part, the testimony. Application of Howard Sav. Bank, 143 N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1976).

One factor to consider to determine which party's version of the incident has the "reasonable probability of truth" is that the "interest, motive, biases or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify [the trier of fact], whose providence it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony." State v Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div. 1952). Further, "[a] trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is overborne by other testimony." Congleton v Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

Charges One, Two, Three and Five:

Based on a review of the incidents documented by Purnell's supervisors and the opportunity to observe the demeanor of each witness who testified about Purnell's performance, I CONCLUDE that the Board has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that during numerous occasions between 1990 to 1994, Purnell persistently failed to complete his assigned custodial duties and tasks in a satisfactory manner in contravention of the directives from his supervisors. The Board's witnesses, Lewis, Graham, Roth, Ambrosico, and Washington gave credible accounts of Purnell's conduct. Contrary to Purnell's belief that people were out to get him, I am persuaded by the candid statements of those who supervised his daily tasks that Purnell was given notice when his work was deficient or incomplete. Moreover, he was given several warnings and chances to improve his work habits.

I have also considered Purnell's annual performance ratings. The Board did not dispute that he received several merit pay raises and ratings of "above average" and "average" during the period of time that he was written up for insubordination and poor job performance. An annual increment is not a statutory right; it is a reward for good performance. These ratings give a false impression that respondent's performance was acceptable. Moreover, the performance ratings and salary increments undermine the legitimacy of the supervisors' reports which criticize Purnell for his poor work performance and the Board's authority to take disciplinary action against him. Indeed, the Board's allegations that between 1990 to 1994, Purnell persistently failed to complete his assigned custodial duties and tasks in a satisfactory manner in contravention of the directives from his supervisors are inconsistent with its decision to wait until June 15, 1994 to deny Purnell his employment and adjustment salary increments. Notwithstanding the blatant discrepancies between the evaluation report and the incident reports, I am persuaded that the numerous incident reports, not the annual evaluation and merit increments, represent an accurate account of Purnell's work performance. Indeed, the witnesses who reviewed Purnell's daily work assignments and wrote detailed incident reports contiguously with the specific events provided a more trustworthy version of his performance than customary performance evaluations conducted in the regular course of business.

Testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself. It must be such as a common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable under the circumstances.

Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546, 554-55 (1954); In re Perone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950).

Charges Six and Seven:

The Board alleges that Purnell sexually and physically harassed Theresa Avella, a teacher at Chancellor Avenue School, and Christine Miller, a dental clerk, by making unprofessional, inappropriate, threatening and suggestive remarks to them. Specifically, the Board argues that "Purnell engaged in a course of sexual harassment directed at fellow employees, Theresa Avella and Christine Miller. He created a hostile work environment, which made these employees extremely uncomfortable and fearful for their own being." Petitioner's Brief at 9.

Hostile work environment sexual harassment occurs when a fellow employee harasses an employee because of her sex to the point that the working environment becomes hostile. Lehman v Toys R Us, 132 N.J. 587, 601. (1963). In Lehman the Court noted that in most hostile work environment claims, harassing conduct is unwelcome sexual touching and comments. "However, the harassing conduct need not be sexual in nature; rather, its defining characteristic is that the harassment occurs because of the victim's sex." Id. at 602. The Court also recognized the confusion concerning what sorts of conduct constitutes hostile work environment sexual harassment. Indeed, sexual harassment is inherently a transaction between two people. The perceptions of the person being harassed are often quite different from those of the person accused of doing the harassing, and it may not be immediately obvious which perspective is the appropriate one for determining whether sexual harassment has occurred. The differences in perceptions may derive in part from generation and sex differences. For instance, an employee may comment on another employee's physical appearance, and the recipient may feel angry and humiliated, even though the employee who made the comment genuinely intended the remark as a compliment. Thus, the court established a four prong test to determine and examine a claim of hostile work environment sexual harassment. The petitioner must prove that:

“the complained-of conduct (1) would not have occurred but for the employee's gender; and it was (2) severe or pervasive enough to make a (3) reasonable woman believe that (4) the conditions of employment are altered and the working environment is hostile or abuse.” Id. at 604-604.

Notably, the third prong, reasonable woman, is an objective standard which was chosen for three reasons: first, because it “better focuses the court’s attention on the nature and legality of the conduct rather than on the reaction of the individual plaintiff”; second, because it provides for flexibility as community standards evolve in interpreting harassment; and third, because the purpose of the Law Against Discrimination (LAD) is to eliminate real harassment. Lehman, supra., 132 N.J. at 612. Moreover, the Court specifically noted that although the subjective reaction of the plaintiff is relevant to compensatory damages, “a plaintiff’s subjective response is not an element of hostile work environment sexual harassment cause of action.” Id. at 613. Here, the Board has not raised a claim under New Jersey’s LAD and therefore, respondent’s conduct will not be considered under that law.

I have been guided however, by the reasons underlying the four prong test in Lehman to examine whether respondent’s conduct towards Avella and Miller constituted conduct unbecoming. I have also carefully observed Purnell’s demeanor under oath and his overall deportment during the hearing. When he was seated at counsel’s table with his attorney, Purnell had to be cautioned several times about his inappropriate conduct. He would frequently engage in “child-like” and immature behavior. He also exhibited spontaneous gestures to show that he disagreed with the testimonies being presented by the Board witnesses. For example, he muttered and made conspicuous facial expressions when the witnesses presented their versions of the incidents underlying the tenure charges. The Board correctly noted that when Purnell testified about the events, he imitated Miller's crying "in a loud and obnoxious voice." Petitioner's Brief at 4.

I am persuaded by Avella's candid testimony that the incidents occurred as she described. The record reflects that Purnell was written up for talking to other teachers, e.g., Mr. Braunstein, instead of working. Avella was a polite and friendly coworker. She was candid about her relationship with Purnell. Avella would spend several minutes in casual conversation with Purnell while he cleaned her classroom. They discussed common interests such as music and religion. Indeed, when Avella expressed some interest in learning about Purnell's religious belief, he loaned her a book. When he first told her that he had a "crush" on her, she did not "return his feelings" but quickly brushed him off. During the following school year, Purnell made other remarks which she perceived as either a romantic or flirtatious overture and inappropriate. When Avella reported the incidents to the building principal, Mr. Washington directed Purnell to refrain from having further encounters with Avella and to not work on the second floor when she was in her classroom #209. Although Washington also informed respondent of the seriousness of the matter, Purnell refused to comply with these straight forward instructions. (P-29).

Miller reported that on numerous occasions when she was using the telephone in her office, Purnell tried to get her attention "by either loudly talking to me, standing over me for a period of time or by physically 'patting' my arm or shoulder." (P-28). She also reported that she made several attempts to inform him that, "I do not wish to be disturbed while I am on the phone nor do I wish to be touched by him no matter what the gesture is." Id. Washington reported the incident which occurred on June 3, 1994, as follows:

[A]t approximately 3:45 PM, Ms. Miller (Dental Clerk) was confronted by Mr. Purnell as she worked in the nurses office. During this moment Mr. Purnell touched Ms. Miller. Ms. Miller informed Mr. Purnell she did not care to be touched. Ms. Miller later reported this incident verbally to me. Mr. Purnell re-entered the Medical Office as I was holding a discussion with Ms. Miller. He interrupted and made charges of teachers showing prejudice. Ms. Miller again stated to Mr. Purnell her desire not to be touched. At that moment, Mr. Purnell lunged toward Ms. Miller. I physically restrained Mr. Purnell as he continually attempted to move past me toward Ms. Miller. Mr. Purnell was visibly agitated and out of control. In order to calm this situation, Mr. Purnell was ordered to leave the building. [P-29].

Based on Purnell's job performance and his actions towards the personnel, Washington recommended that he be dismissed from employment. Id.

In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Joseph McDougall, 1974 S.L.D. 170 the Commission spoke about the important position held by a school custodian:

A school janitor occupies a position of trust and responsibility necessitating high standards of dependability and morality. His functions far exceed opening and closing the school house and keeping it clean and tidy. The safety and welfare of the children may depend on the proper discharge of his duties. Id. at 178

Based on the whole of the evidence, I CONCLUDE that notwithstanding repeated warnings and opportunities to correct his deficiencies, respondent did not improve his job performance. I further CONCLUDE that respondent continued to approach coworkers after one had complained about his inappropriate remarks and another told him not to "pat" or touch her on her shoulder or arm to get her attention. I CONCLUDE that respondent's conduct toward Avella and Miller were unprofessional and inappropriate. I also CONCLUDE that while respondent was employed by the Board between 1990 and 1994, he engaged in a pattern of unbecoming conduct, insubordination, and incompetence. Therefore, I CONCLUDE respondent's conduct warrants his dismissal as a custodian with the Irvington Public Schools.

It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :
HEARING OF NATHAN PURNELL, :
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY. :
_____ :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties. It is, however, herein noted that on October 3, 1995, respondent attempted to submit, pro se, a letter generally objecting to the conduct of the OAL proceedings in this matter. Such submission was apparently without the knowledge or consent of his attorney. Nor was there any indication that it had been served on opposing counsel. By letter dated October 5, 1995, respondent's submission was returned to him and he was advised by the Acting Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.1, a party to administrative proceedings may choose one of several options with respect to representation and that, because respondent elected throughout the course of the instant proceedings to be represented by counsel, absent notification to the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes that he is no longer represented by an attorney, respondent is unable to make submissions of any kind on his own behalf to the record of this matter.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which it is noted included transcripts of the three days of hearings at the OAL, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the preponderance of the credible evidence establishes that on numerous occasions between 1990 and 1994, respondent failed to complete his assigned custodial duties in a satisfactory manner and, despite repeated warnings to correct his deficiencies, he was unwilling or unable to improve his job performance. The Commissioner, likewise, concurs that respondent's behavior toward two of his female coworkers was unprofessional and inappropriate. As such, the Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ's determination that respondent's established conduct warrants his dismissal from his tenured custodial position.

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the recommended decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter for the reasons clearly articulated therein. Respondent is hereby removed from his position with the Board of Education of the Town of Irvington.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2870-95

ON REMAND FROM EDU 9846-93

AGENCY REF. NO. 321-8/3

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF LAURENCE APGAR, CUMBERLAND COUNTY
VOCATIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, CUMBERLAND
COUNTY.

Richard C. McCarthy, Esq., for petitioner, Cumberland County Vocational School District

Keith Waldman, Esq., for respondent, Laurence Apgar, (Selikoff & Cohen, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 28, 1995

Decided: September 8, 1995

BEFORE EDGAR R. HOLMES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Laurence Apgar appealed from a tenure charge and an increment withholding action by the petitioner, Cumberland County Vocational School District at EDU 9846-93 and EDU 9845-93, consolidated. An initial decision of dismissal as to the tenure charge was rejected by the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) on March 14, 1995 and the tenure matter was remanded to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) because the initial decision did not clearly reflect the basis for dismissal of the tenure charge. The dismissal of the petition challenging the withholding of an increment was accepted by the Commissioner because respondent, Laurence Apgar, did not prosecute his appeal.

The basis for dismissal of the tenure charge is the fact that Apgar is retired from the teaching profession and is receiving the maximum allowance for ordinary disability retirement. He has filed a certification indicating he is retired from teaching and has no intention of resuming a teaching career at the elementary or secondary school level.

Apgar has clearly indicated by way of a brief filed with his certification that dismissal of the tenure charge against him does not preclude, and is not intended to preclude, the Commissioner from referring the matter to the State Board of Examiners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.5 et seq.

Based on Apgar's retirement status, his tenured position and seniority rights at the Cumberland County Vocational School District are effectively terminated.

The petitioning Board of Education has agreed to the dismissal.

I hereby DISMISS the tenure appeal filed herein.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning taxpayer sought reimbursement of public funds, public admonition of the Board and directive that the Board be enjoined from distributing a newsletter which allegedly was paid for with school tax dollars and improperly advocated bond referendum approval.

ALJ found the newsletter to be very much an advocacy piece. Citing Citizens and Schettino, the ALJ ordered any Board publications explaining any bond referendum to be presented to the voters within one year of final agency action be reviewed in advance by the full Board in open session with the assistance of counsel. Findings are to be made that such materials are educational in nature, not for the purpose of swaying opinion.

Commissioner adopted initial decision with clarification. Commissioner determined that the newsletter was improperly advocative and, therefore, constituted an impermissible use of public funds, noting it is not a board's promotion of its proposed program, per se, which offends Citizens, but rather a board's one-sided presentation which does injustice to the program's dissenters. Commissioner ordered review of future Board publications as directed by ALJ.

RANDALL H. ENTERLINE,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HILLSBOROUGH,

Respondent.

Randall H. Enterline, petitioner, pro se

Stephen R. Fogarty, Esq., on behalf of respondent (Fogarty & Hara, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 8, 1995

Decided: September 11, 1995

BEFORE SOLOMON A. METZGER, ALJ:

This matter arises out of a complaint filed by petitioner with the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -10. The parties filed cross-motions for summary decision and the last papers were received on August 8, 1995, after which the record closed.

The operative facts are either stipulated or undisputed. Respondent placed a bond issue before the voters on March 28, 1995, seeking approval to construct a new high school and make certain other renovations; the proposal failed. During the process respondent prepared and distributed a newsletter which petitioner, a homeowner and taxpayer in Hillsborough Township, found offensive. The issue presented is whether this expenditure advocated passage of the public question and thus exceeded respondent's authority, or whether it was merely permissible voter education. Citizens to Protect Pub. Funds v. Board of Educ. of Parsippany-Troy Hills, 13 N.J. 172 (1953); Schettino v. Ridgefield Bd. of Educ., 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (Vol. 4A) 224 (Education).

The newsletter is eight pages long and must be reviewed in its entirety for a proper appraisal. I note here a few features that bear on the inquiry. Page one begins with the heading "Planning For Our Children's Future" and an article discussing respondent's decision to bring the matter of a new high school to the electorate. The article explains that there has been a "dramatic" increase in the number of students attending the public schools and that this trend is expected to continue. Additionally, space needs generally have increased over the years for computers, library materials and the like. An excerpt boldly printed in the center of the page states, "An approved referendum enables us to continue providing the quality education our children deserve and parents expect, while stabilizing property values for all homeowners." The last paragraph on the page submits that respondent has a "heartfelt responsibility" to deliver quality education and plan "for the future of our children," which is "what the March 28 bond referendum is all about." This article concludes on page eight.

On page two respondent briefly reviews the options it rejected and notes that a complete report of these deliberations is available at its office. On the third page respondent presents graphs showing capacity versus projected enrollment for the next five years. Petitioner points out that the first graph, which depicts this balance for the high school, creates a visual impression which is inconsistent with the data presented. Without studying the numbers a reader might conclude that enrollment will be twice capacity by the 1998-99 school year. The data shows, however, that the high school has capacity for approximately 1,350 students and will need to serve some 1,650 students in the out year. This is not a doubling of the high school population, but an increase of about 18 percent. The middle and elementary school graphs are illustrated accurately.

On pages four and five respondent shows the layout of the proposed high school. Page six reviews the tax implications of approval and an inset lists "Ten Facts About the Hillsborough Schools," where certain achievements are highlighted. For example, it shows that 87 percent of 1994 graduates continued their formal education, that per-pupil cost is the lowest in Somerset County, that the district recently received a reward for administrative efficiency from the Department of Education, that SAT scores are above the norm, and so on.

On the seventh page respondent lists persons who may be contacted for more information and in an inset notes "Ramifications of a Defeated Referendum." These include continued increases in class size, reductions in electives and extracurricular activities, higher costs if the question should have to be revisited, a possible split in the community, a tarnished image and reductions in property values. On page eight the newsletter lists polling places and, in the article continued on that page, urges people to be well informed "when casting [their] ballot[s] for the children of Hillsborough Township." This is the substance of the record.

The newsletter is very much an advocacy piece. If some of the effort is subtle, the nature of the enterprise is unveiled in the graphs on page three. Here the visual presentation of capacity versus projected enrollment at the high school does not merely cross the line between education and advocacy, but actually distorts the facts in the apparent hope that a picture will be worth a thousand words. As the graphs depicting the middle and elementary school data are accurate, the illustration inflating high school enrollment to twice capacity for 1998-99 must have been intentional. Nothing further is necessary to establish petitioner's cause, although the motive is plain in phrases like "An approved referendum enables us to continue providing the quality education our children deserve" and "responsibly planning . . . is what the March 28 bond referendum is all about." Functionally, these are exhortations to vote "yes." The inset on page six, appears intended to assure voters that respondent is doing a good job and can be trusted to wisely spend the tax money discussed on that same page. The inset on page seven, touches hot-button local concerns about property values and community image.

Petitioner argues with some justification that merely admonishing respondent is not an adequate remedy. I am not aware, however, that there is precedent for much more. In Schettino, the Commissioner directed that future publications of the kind found offensive be for one year reviewed by the full Board in consultation with counsel prior to distribution. A remedy along these lines is minimally appropriate here. Thus, it is ORDERED that any publications by respondent explaining any bond referendum to be presented to the voters within one year of final agency action be reviewed in advance by the full Board in open session with the assistance of counsel. Findings are to be made that such materials are educational in nature and not for the purpose of swaying opinion. So ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

 BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN- : DECISION
 SHIP OF HILLSBOROUGH, SOMERSET : COUNTY, :
 :
 RESPONDENT. :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Both the Board's exceptions and the reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

The Board first argues that the ALJ's conclusion that the newsletter was improperly advocative was based on an unreasonable interpretation of the facts. Here, the Board contends that its arguments before the ALJ addressed the accuracy of its data and the proper use of graphs, its failure to exhort the voters in a manner which offends Citizens, supra, its offer of positive facts in the newsletter merely as "concrete evidence" of the District's history of excellence (Board's Exceptions at p. 4) and its avoidance of language constituting "dire consequences." Yet, the Board asserts,

The A.L.J.engaged in no discussion of the Board's arguments on these issues in his initial decision. Indeed, except for a brief explanation of his conclusion regarding the graphs, the A.L.J. failed to delineate his reasons for concluding that any of the criticized newsletter items were inappropriate. In light of the Board's argumentsregarding the appropriateness of the newsletter components criticized by the A.L.J., and the A.L.J.'s failure to discuss the Board's positions or articulate any other bases for his conclusions that these components were improper, it appears that the A.L.J. in fact had no reasoned basis for his ultimate conclusion that the newsletter as a whole was improperly advocative.

(Board's Exceptions at p. 5)

Additionally, the Board argues that the ALJ applied an incorrect legal standard to conclude that the newsletter was an improperly partisan expenditure of public funds. Here, the Board asserts that the Citizens court acknowledged that there could be proper, as well as improper, advocacy of a referendum. (Board's Exceptions at p. 7) In addition, Citizens recognized the Board's responsibility to determine future needs and select an appropriate course of action. "An essential part of this responsibility involves making value judgments as to what future needs are more or less importantand which methods are better or worse for meeting these needs." (Board's Exceptions at p. 8) Thus, the Board reasons, a presentation of "facts" to the electorate will necessarily include these judgments and choices, together with information about how the choices were made. The Board argues, "This too will appear as advocacy of the referendum proposal's substance, but not as improper advocacy of the proposal's adoption." (Id.) In light of this distinction, the Board reviews the Commissioner's holdings in Fenton v. Sullivan, 1991 S.L.D. 677; Schettino, supra; and In the Matter of the Annual School Election Held in Old Bridge Township, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 230, and concludes

[I]t is clearthat improper advocacy involves direct or indirect communication regarding the casting of votes rather than the conveyance of substantive information, about a proposal or its development, which might reflect the partisanship of value judgments which were an unavoidable part of the earlier decision-making process.

The Board's newsletterpresents extensive information on the foreseeable consequences, both good and bad, of an approved referendum as well as information about that process which developed the referendum proposal. Although this information reflected the value judgments made by the Board regarding District needs and the methods to be used to meet them, the newsletter acknowledged the autonomy of each voter by encouraging people to inform themselves about the proposaland by encouraging greater voter turnout without suggesting how votes should be cast.

(Board's Exceptions at pp. 10, 11)

Thus, the Board affirms that the newsletter conformed with the standards of appropriate informative content set forth in relevant judicial and administrative law.

In his reply, petitioner recasts his argument as to the distortion by the Board of the data presented in the chart on page three of the newsletter depicting the contrast between high school enrollment and high school capacity. Petitioner further suggests that the record clearly supports his contention that "[t]he Board purposefully, willfully and with intent set out to promote and advocate the passage of the March 28th bond referendum." (Petitioner's Reply at p. 3)

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner determines that the newsletter is improperly advocative and, therefore, constitutes an impermissible use of public funds. The Commissioner acknowledges that Citizens accepts that public bodies formulating a program are not wholly restrained from advocating the program's adoption by the voters; "*when the program represents the body's judgment of what is required in the effective discharge of its responsibilities, it is not only the right but perhaps the duty of the body to endeavor to secure the assent of the voters thereto." (Citizens at 181) However, Citizens further instructs that, where there is a question as to the propriety of the use of public funds, inquiry is focused on "the extent to and manner in which the funds may with justice to the rights of dissenters be expended for espousal of the voter's approval of the body's judgment." (emphasis added) (Id.) Where the use of public funds supports “one side only in a manner which gives the dissenters no opportunity to present their side,” such expenditure is prohibited. (Id. at 182) Thus, it is not a board’s promotion of its proposed program, per se, which offends Citizens, but rather a board’s one-sided presentation which does injustice to the program’s dissenters. To the extent the initial decision disregards such distinction, the Commissioner herein provides clarification.

As the ALJ noted, the parties filed cross-motions for summary decision (Initial Decision at p. 1); the operative facts in the instant matter are either stipulated or undisputed.¹ (Initial Decision at p. 2) The Commissioner observes that the “general tenor” of the newsletter, Schettino, supra, at 226, does not demonstrate the mere “presentation of facts,” but also offers “arguments to persuade the voters that only one side has merit.” (Citizens at 181) In this regard, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the language employed in the newsletter constitutes functional exhortations to vote “yes.” (Initial Decision at p. 3) Moreover, while the inset which highlights “Ramifications of a Defeated Referendum” contains some nonjudgmental and dispassionate language, Schettino at 226, its warnings as to the emotional ramifications of said defeat go beyond the mere recitation of “bad consequences,” as alleged by the Board.²

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the initial decision of the ALJ, as clarified herein, and orders that any publications by respondent explaining any bond referendum to be presented to the voters within one year of the date of this decision be reviewed in advance by the ¹ The parties stipulated as follows: “A newsletter pertaining to the referendum proposal was drafted by the Board and was distributed to the public in early March, 1995. A copy of the newsletter is attached hereto as Exhibit A.” Stipulation of Facts as filed July 25, 1995.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board member and her attorney sought indemnification of legal fees after Board instituted suit against her, requesting her exclusion from attendance at certain Board functions.

ALJ found that Petitioner Quick failed to establish that she acted in the discharge and performance of her public duties when she acted in the manner which forced the Board to take action which caused her to expend monies in her defense. ALJ found that she expended those monies in defense of her private interest. Thus, the ALJ concluded that she did not establish that she was entitled to reimbursement pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 01339-95S

AGENCY DKT. NO. 466-11/94

KATHLEEN QUICK AND ELIAS L.
SCHNEIDER,

Petitioners,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE
TOWNSHIP OF OLD BRIDGE,
MIDDLESEX COUNTY,

Respondent.

Elias L. Schneider, Esq., appearing pro se and on behalf of petitioner Kathleen Quick (Brigiani, Cohen and Schneider, attorneys)

Michael P. O'Connell, Esq., for respondent (Karcher, Salmond, Rainone and Barrett, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 16, 1995

Decided: September 12, 1995

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

This matter arises from a claim made by Kathleen Quick, a member of the respondent school board, seeking to have the Board of Education pay certain legal expenses which she incurred as a result of a lawsuit filed by the Board against Ms. Quick in which the Board sought to have her excluded from attendance at certain Board functions. She has assigned her claim to her attorney, Elias L. Schneider, Esq., who asserts his claim as part of this action.

This matter was originally filed with the Commissioner of Education by way of a Petition of Appeal (complaint) on November 3, 1994. The Commissioner transmitted the case as a contested matter to the Office of Administrative Law on February 2, 1995, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -21 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Subsequently, a prehearing conference was held on May 16 and a Prehearing Order was issued on May 17, 1995. Counsel then submitted briefs and a stipulation of facts which was received on August 16, 1995. Counsel agreed that the matter could be resolved upon the submitted record, without the necessity of testimony. The record closed on August 16, 1995.

Essentially, the agreed upon facts reflect that Ms. Quick was one of approximately 112 plaintiffs who filed a lawsuit in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Chancery Division, on December 31, 1992, seeking to prevent a merger of the two high schools located in Old Bridge. That matter was eventually dismissed in January 1993 by Honorable John E. Bachman, J.S.C. Judge Bachman determined that although the Superior Court had concurrent jurisdiction in certain matters, this particular case should properly be brought before the Commissioner of Education. His determination was not appealed. The Board of Education made no attempt at that time to seek recovery of its legal fees under the Frivolous Lawsuit Statute, N.J.S.A. 2A:15-59.1.

In April 1993 Ms. Quick was elected to the Board of Education. In 1994 an issue arose when the Board of Education began to consider the possibility of filing a suit against Ms. Quick and the other approximately 112 plaintiffs in the original action before Judge Bachman, seeking to recover the Board's legal expenses under the Frivolous Lawsuit Statute. Ms. Quick agreed that she would recuse herself from participating in the Board's discussions and deliberations with respect to the question of whether or not to bring suit, but she insisted that rather than remove herself entirely from the Board's presence during its discussions, that she would remain in the meetings and simply not speak. The parties have stipulated that Ms. Quick based her position on advice of counsel and upon a document known as Policy Guideline #2, which was issued by the School Ethics Commission in January 1969, and which is Exhibit F, attached to the Stipulation of Facts. Both sides filed memorandum of law before Judge J. Norris Harding, who was assigned to hear the Board's suit against Ms. Quick. In support of its legal arguments the Board relied upon Scotch Plains-Fanwood v. Syvertsen, 251 N.J. Super. 566 (App. Div. 1991). Judge Harding determined that the Syvertsen decision was authoritative and therefore entered an order requiring that Ms. Quick not attend closed session meetings of the Board where possible litigation against her was being considered.

According to the stipulation, the bill for legal services incurred by Ms. Quick for the services of her attorney, Elias L. Schneider, Esq., was $6,218.25. The amount of that bill is not in dispute. As of the present time the Board has not filed any action under the Frivolous Lawsuit statute.

CONCLUSION

For the reasons stated below, I CONCLUDE that the petitioners have failed to establish that they are entitled to reimbursement for the legal expenses incurred by Ms. Quick. Since her claim fails, Mr. Schneider's fails as well, and both must be DISMISSED.

DISCUSSION

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20 provides

Whenever a civil or a criminal action has been or shall be brought against any person for any act or omission arising out of and in the course of the performance of his duties as a member of a board of education, and in the case of a criminal action such action results in final disposition in favor of such person, the board of education shall defray all costs of defending such action, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses, together with costs of appeal, if any, and shall save harmless and protect such person from any financial loss resulting therefrom. A board of education may arrange for and maintain appropriate insurance to cover all such damages, losses and expenses.

The purpose of the above statute is to assure that persons desiring to, or serving upon, boards of education, who generally are volunteers serving without pay, are not discouraged from such service by the possibility that they will be subjected to the costs of defending against legal actions brought against them as a result of actions which they take which arise out of and in the course of the performance of their duties as members of the board of education. Powers v. Union City Board of Education, 124 N.J. Super. 590 at 594 (1973).

In several decisions, the courts have analyzed the language of the statute, particularly the "arising out of and in the course of the performance of duties" phrase and have determined that "the officer must have been acting in a manner in which the [municipality] has an interest, he/she must have been acting on the discharge of a duty imposed or authority authorized by law and he/she must have acted in good faith." Scirrotto v. Warren Hills Board of Education, 272 N.J. Super. 391, 397 (App. Div. 1994).

In the present case, the first question to be considered is whether Ms. Quick's insistence upon remaining in the Board's presence during its discussions of the possibility of bringing suit against her and her fellow plaintiffs in the prior litigation, the action which the Board of Education saw as necessitating the filing of a lawsuit against her, was an action which arose out of and in the course of the performance of her duties as a member of the Board. At the time that Ms. Quick made it clear to the Board that she would not remove herself entirely from its closed sessions, Ms. Quick was asserting that she had a legal right to remain. She had already agreed that she would do nothing more than sit in at the meeting, based upon the instruction contained in the Guideline #2. Specifically that Guideline provided that

A recusal policy has developed from the Commission's case history which the Commission has authorized for release as a policy guideline. The Commission has authorized this release in order to clarify for school officials what is meant by the term "recusal" when it appears in decisions of the School Ethics Commission.

The Commission is determined that recusal is the abstention from discussion or voting on a matter. When one recuses himself, he is not required to leave the room because he is still an elected official to a public body, however, he may not participate in any manner whatsoever regarding the matter. The individual is not generally required to make his reasons for recusal public, however, on occasion the Commission has required individuals to make their reasons for recusal publicly known under certain circumstances.

Additionally, a school board member deemed to have a conflict requiring recusal would not be permitted to participate as a member of the public to voice an opinion on any aspect of the negotiations, at least not prior to the finality of the negotiations. By virtue of his/her board membership, that individual is no longer considered a member of the public. Thus, the Commission is likely to view any such attempt by a board member with a conflict to participate in negotiations as a violation of the School Ethics Act.

Petitioners contend that Ms. Quick meets the tests for reimbursement. First, she was a member of the Board. Secondly, she was asserting her right to be present during the Board's discussions based upon her understanding of the applicable law, including the Policy Guideline quoted above and case law, which permitted her to remain in the room with the other Board members, even though she was unable to participate in the discussions due to her conflict of interest. Third, because she was acting under advice of counsel and in conformity with the Policy Guideline and case law, she was acting in "good faith," this despite the fact that when the matter was brought before Judge Harding, he concluded that the Syvertsen case mandated Ms. Quick's complete removal from the closed sessions despite the previous Policy Guideline and case law. Thus, petitioner Quick argues that she has met the tests for reimbursement.

Respondent denies this. In its view, Ms. Quick was not acting for the benefit of the municipality, in fact, quite the contrary. Her refusal to recuse herself from meetings where she clearly had a conflict of interest delayed the Board from conducting the discussions and required the Board to expend substantial sums of money to litigate the issue before it could successfully force Ms. Quick's removal from the meetings. Thus, her conduct, rather than benefiting the municipality, instead acted to its detriment. Additionally, because Ms. Quick was a potential defendant in a frivolous litigation law suit on which the decision of whether or not to pursue was being discussed at these meetings, she clearly had reasons of her own for being present and was involved with her own personal interests rather than those of the Board, in forcing herself upon the Board. Under the circumstances, it can hardly be said that by refusing to remove herself and therefore forcing a law suit, that she was acting in the discharge and performance of public responsibilities. Finally, in view of the clear conflict, Ms. Quick can hardly argue that she was acting in good faith. In the face of so obvious a conflict of interest, her persistence in seeking to attend the meeting connotes bad, as opposed to good, faith.

In determining that Ms. Quick should be excluded from the Board's discussions concerning the possibility of filing a suit to recover its legal fees incurred in defending against the lawsuit filed by Ms. Quick and others concerning the merger of high schools, Judge Harding relied upon the 1991 decision in Scotch Plains-Farwood Board of Education v. Syvertsen, 251 N.J. Super. 567 (App. Div. 1991). There, the court, in an opinion by Judge Skillman, ruled that a Board member who had sought to remain during discussions at executive session regarding his own petition of appeal to the Commissioner of Education alleging improprieties concerning the Board's contract with the district's superintendent, was properly excluded from the sessions. The court concluded that the issue was governed by "general common law principles regarding the participation of public officials in matters in which they have a personal interest." Scotch Plains-Farwood, at 569. This common law standard disqualified a public official from participation in a judicial or quasi-judicial matter in which the public official had a conflicting interest that might interfere with the impartial performance of his/her public duties. Thus, this principle requires a member of a public body to refrain from any form of participation in the deliberations or decisions of the public body relating to litigation brought by the member seeking any form of private relief against the public body."

The court exemplified the point by the example of a member who had filed suit against the Board seeking money damages for an alleged tort. Such a member would be disqualified from attending executive sessions at which the case was discussed. Interestingly, the situation presented in the matter upon which Judge Harding ruled presented a case where the Board was considering the possibility of suing one of its members for a money award, that is, for the legal fees which the Board had incurred in the defense of a suit which she and others had filed against the Board. These discussions as to this potential case of a Board seeking money damages against Ms. Quick was really no different than the example presented by Judge Skillman.

It is difficult to conceive that Ms. Quick's action which necessitated the Board's suit to force her removal from its executive session was conduct which was undertaken "on the discharge of a duty imposed or authority authorized by law." Further, it is difficult to find that she was acting for or on behalf of the Board when she insisted upon remaining in the executive session, despite what was unquestionably a serious conflict of interest between her public and her private roles. In cases which have considered the circumstances under which a governmental body is obligated to reimburse or otherwise pay for the costs of defense of a lawsuit brought against a public official or employee, the courts have traditionally looked to see whether the official was acting “in furtherance” of the governmental body’s work. In Errington v. Mansfield Township Board of Education, 81 N.J. Super. 414 (App. Div. 1963), where a school board member sought payment of the costs of defense of a libel action, the court stated

The general rule seems to be that to warrant defense at the public expense, when a public official is sued individually for libel, it must be shown that he was performing in good faith a duty of his office or position in furtherance of the work of the board for which he was purportedly acting. Id., at 420. (Emphasis added).

An earlier decision characterized the inquiry as whether the public official was acting in a manner which required the expenditure of the monies “for a town purpose.” State, Bradley v. Council of Hammonton, 38 N.J.L. 430, 431 (Sup. Ct. 1876). Distinguishing between those instances where the purpose upon which the official acted was “public or municipal,” as opposed to “one which is private,” requires a case-by-case analysis. In Cobb v. City of Cape May et als., the court cited the discussion at 64 C.J.S. Municipal Corporations, §183.56, pp. 334-335, which identifies as criteria for testing the purpose as “the existing conditions with respect to the objects sought to be accomplished, the degree and manner in which that object affects the public welfare, and the nature and character of the things to be done” The comment recognizes that at times the result of this testing will be that there were, or at least appear to have been, mixed purposes, some part public and some part private. However, “. . . if the result is chiefly that of a private benefit, an incidental or even ostensible public purpose will not” support the expenditure of the public funds. Id.

The Superior Court ruling which barred Ms. Quick from attending the executive sessions at which the Board was to consider the issue of whether to sue her and others simply recognized the all too obvious fact that whatever the language of the Policy Guideline, the realities of the situation presented were such that the possible defendant in the contemplated action for reimbursement had no business at a meeting which was intended to explore and possibly decide upon a lawsuit against her, and that the serious conflict of interest reasonably necessitated that Ms. Quick not be permitted to attend. Given this ruling, it is clear that Ms. Quick's attendance at the meeting would have been predominantly for a private, as opposed to a public purpose. The Board was required to expend funds to assure that Ms. Quick's private interests were not placed above the public's. She was required to expend funds to defend her private interest in being able to attend and observe the Board's discussions. While in theory she might also have some limited public purpose in monitoring the way in which the Board of which she was a member determined to act, and possibly to spend its money in pursuit of reimbursement, nevertheless her public purpose in attending would have been incidental to her private and conflicting interest, as clearly recognized by Judge Harding. Therefore, in accord with the principles recited above, I FIND that Ms. Quick has failed to establish that she acted in the discharge and performance of her public duties when she acted in the manner which forced the Board to take action which caused her to expend monies in her defense. I FIND that she expended those monies in defense of her private, as opposed to any public, interest. Thus, I CONCLUDE that she has not established that she is entitled to reimbursement pursuant to the standards established in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20. The application for reimbursement is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions and the reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioners assert, inter alia,¹ that on appeal, the trial judge's decision, as well as the findings of fact, are not entitled to any special deference when a matter is decided on a Stipulation of Facts without oral argument. Petitioners argue that since no witnesses were heard and the same record is before the Commissioner as was before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), the Commissioner is not bound by any findings of fact or inferences made by the ALJ.

Petitioners next warrant that the ALJ improperly concluded that Petitioner Quick's actions were done in bad faith. (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 5) Here, petitioners reiterate that Ms. Quick acted responsibly when she determined to follow both Policy Guideline #2 and her attorney's advice. Petitioners reason that Ms. Quick's decision to forgo appeal of Judge Harding's decision excluding her from the Board sessions in question was also a responsible act on her part. Petitioners argue that the ALJ's inference that Ms. Quick was improperly motivated is belied by the record.

Petitioners further contend that the ALJ's decision impedes public policy, inasmuch as it puts local board members on notice that, should they attempt strict adherence to the Guidelines and a Guideline "*is either wrong or not clear in specifying exceptions, then the Board member will be deprived of the benefit of the Statute that guarantees reimbursement of his legal fees in defending the suit." (Petitioners' Exceptions at p. 7)

Finally, petitioners affirm that the statute (N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20) does not prohibit reimbursement when litigation is initiated against a board member as the result of the board member's actions; the statute does not qualify the nature of the litigation or offer exclusions. Thus, petitioners conclude that Ms. Quick meets the terms for reimbursement as set forth in the statute.

Relying on its submissions to the ALJ, the Board urges that the initial decision be upheld.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the conclusion of the ALJ that Petitioner Quick has not established entitlement to reimbursement in accordance with the standards set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20; consequently, the claim of Petitioner Schneider fails as well. In this regard, the Commissioner finds petitioners' exceptions to be without merit, noting in particular the lack of foundation for their claim that "the ALJ made a huge leap of logic and came to the conclusion  that Mrs. Quick's actions were done in 'Bad Faith.'" (Petitioners' Exceptions at p. 5) Moreover, the Commissioner is mindful that Policy Guideline #2 concerns conflicts arising pursuant to the School Ethics Act, which require recusal, inasmuch as the School Ethics Commission was established to enforce said Act. (See N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq.) Thus, petitioners' reliance on said Guideline, under these circumstances, is misplaced. Finally, the Commissioner agrees that Ms. Quick has failed to establish that the Board's action in filing suit against her was one "arising out of and in the course of the performance of [her] duties," N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20. As the ALJ appropriately found, Ms. Quick's attendance at the Board meeting "would have been predominately for a private, as opposed to a public purpose" and she "failed to establish that she acted in the discharge and performance of her public duties" when she insisted on remaining in the meetings, thereby forcing the Board to take action against her which caused her to expend monies in her defense. (Initial Decision at p. 8)

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, and the within petition is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

 PETITIONERS-APPELLANTS, :
 V. : STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
 BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE : DECISION
 TOWNSHIP OF OLD BRIDGE, :
 MIDDLESEX COUNTY, :
 RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT. :

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, October 30, 1995

For the Petitioners-Appellants, Brigiani, Cohen & Schneider (Elias L. Schneider, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Karcher, Salmond, Ronan & Rainon (Michael P. O'Connell, Esq., of Counsel)

Kathleen Quick (hereinafter "petitioner"), a member of the Board of Education of the Township of Old Bridge (hereinafter "Board" or "Old Bridge Board") filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education alleging that the Board was required to reimburse her for legal expenses she had incurred as the result of having to defend against a civil complaint filed against her by the Old Bridge Board in March 1994.¹

¹ Petitioner indicates that Elias L. Schneider, her legal counsel, "was assigned the claim for collection purposes only," petition of appeal, at 3, and joined in the petition "solely to insure that all parties in interest are before this agency, and so that complete relief may be granted." Id. We note, however, that the interest protected by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20 is that of the board member, and not the board member's counsel. Consequently, any relief granted under the statute is limited to the board member.

As stipulated by the parties, the facts giving rise to petitioner's claim are as follows. On December 31, 1992, prior to her election to the Board, petitioner was one of approximately 112 citizens who filed a lawsuit in Superior Court, Chancery Division, seeking to prevent the reconfiguration of the two high schools in the district. Judge John E. Bachman dismissed that suit in January 1993, finding that the case should properly have been brought before the Commissioner of Education. No appeal was filed from that determination.

Petitioner was subsequently elected to the Old Bridge Board in April 1993. Later that year, the Board contemplated taking legal action under the Frivolous Lawsuit Statute, N.J.S.A. 2A:15-59.1, against the 112 plaintiffs in the earlier suit to attempt to recover its legal expenses. Although petitioner agreed to recuse herself from all of the Board's discussions and deliberations with respect to such possible action, she refused the Board's request to leave the room during its closed session meetings in which such possible litigation was discussed. Petitioner's decision to stay during these meetings was based upon advice of counsel and Policy Guideline #2 issued by the School Ethics Commission.²

On March 23, 1994, the Board filed a civil complaint against petitioner in Superior Court, Chancery Division, seeking an order directing petitioner to remove herself from any closed session discussions held by the Board in which these possible litigation claims were discussed. Judge J. Norris Harding thereafter entered an order, in reliance upon Scotch Plains-Fanwood v. Syvertsen, 251 N.J. Super. 566 (App. Div.

² Policy Guideline #2 clarified the term "recusal" when used in decisions of the School Ethics Commission, indicating that a board member recusing himself was not required to leave the room since he was still an elected official to a public body, but could not participate in any manner whatsoever regarding the matter.

1991), enjoining petitioner from attending closed session meetings of the Board in which such possible litigation claims were discussed.³

On November 3, 1994, petitioner filed the instant petition, requesting indemnification under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20 for her legal expenses incurred in defense of that action.

On September 12, 1995, an Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") recommended dismissing the petition, concluding that petitioner had not established her entitlement to indemnification. The ALJ found that any public purpose for petitioner's attendance at Board meetings during which the possible legal action was discussed would have been incidental to her private interest since she had been one of the 112 plaintiffs in the reconfiguration challenge. Consequently, he concluded that petitioner had failed to establish that she had been acting in the discharge and performance of her public duties when she insisted on remaining in those meetings.

On October 30, 1995, the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and dismissed the petition. The Commissioner agreed that petitioner had "failed to establish that the Board's action in filing suit against her was one 'arising out of and in the course of the performance of [her] duties,' N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 13.

Petitioner filed the instant appeal to the State Board.

After a thorough review of the record, we reverse the decision of the Commissioner. In view of the liberal construction which applies in civil litigation under common law and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20, Powers v. Union City Bd. of Ed., 124 N.J. Super. 590, 595-97 (Law Div. 1973), aff'd o.b., 127 N.J. Super. 294 (App. Div. 1974), certif. denied, 65 N.J. 575 (1974), we conclude that petitioner has established her entitlement to indemnification under the facts of this particular case. Notwithstanding that Judge Harding ultimately issued an order enjoining petitioner from attending those closed session meetings in which other members of the Board planned to discuss the possibility of initiating litigation against the group of 112 district residents which included petitioner, we find that petitioner's actions arose out of and in the course of the performance of her duties as a member of that Board.

³ Although the parties have not provided a copy of Judge Harding's order, we note that the Appellate Division in Syvertsen affirmed the agency's determination that a school board member who had filed legal action against his board alleging that it had engaged in certain wrongful acts in relation to its contract with the district's superintendent could properly be excluded from the board's executive sessions at which litigation strategy for defending against the suit he had brought was discussed.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20 provides, in pertinent part:

Whenever a civil or a criminal action has been or shall be brought against any person for any act or omission arising out of and in the course of the performance of his duties as a member of a board of education, and in the case of a criminal action such action results in final disposition in favor of such person, the board of education shall defray all costs of defending such action, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses, together with costs of appeal, if any, and shall save harmless and protect such person from any financial loss resulting therefrom....

This case is complicated by the fact that it arose from the interplay of several actual and potential legal actions. The first such action had been initiated by the group of 112 citizens, which included petitioner prior to her election to the Board, challenging the Board's determination to reconfigure the district's high schools. The Board thereafter contemplated taking legal action against those 112 citizens in order to recover its legal expenses incurred in defending that challenge. It was the possibility of taking this action that the Board had planned to discuss in the closed session meetings that gave rise to the matter now before us. The Board filed a civil complaint against petitioner in March 1994 challenging her presence at those meetings. It is the costs of defending herself against this particular action for which petitioner now seeks indemnification.

We emphasize in that regard that, in contrast to the standards governing indemnification in criminal actions, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20 does not require that a board member seeking reimbursement for the costs incurred in defending against a civil action must prevail in that action in order to be entitled to indemnification. Thus, notwithstanding Judge Harding's determination that petitioner was legally mistaken in her belief that she could remain in those meetings, petitioner would be entitled to reimbursement if her actions in asserting her right to remain during the closed session meetings at issue arose "out of and in the course of the performance of [her] duties" as a member of the Board. In this respect, we stress that "[t]he purpose of [N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20] is to make manifest the implied power of boards of education to provide for the legal defense of a member of the board who is sued individually for some action taken by him in furtherance of his prescribed duties." Errington v. Mansfield Tp. Bd. of Ed., 100 N.J. Super. 130, 137-38 (App. Div. 1968).

There can be no dispute that petitioner's duties as a member of the Old Bridge Board included her attendance at board meetings, including closed session meetings. In asserting her right to remain in closed session meetings in which other members of that Board planned to discuss the possibility of initiating litigation against the group of 112 citizens that had challenged the reconfiguration of the district's high schools, petitioner, as the parties have stipulated, acted upon the advice of counsel and on the basis of Policy Guideline #2, supra, issued by the School Ethics Commission.

The validity of that advice is not at issue here. Nonetheless, we note that in granting the Board's request to enjoin petitioner from attending those closed session meetings, Judge Harding acted on the basis of his understanding of our agency's determination in Syvertsen, supra, which was affirmed by the Appellate Division. However, the underlying facts in Syvertsen were significantly different than the situation which confronted petitioner herein when the Board sought to exclude her from its meetings. First, Syvertsen involved an individual who had been a member of the district board at the time the litigation under discussion had been filed. In addition, it was the board member in that case who had initiated the litigation at issue. Under those circumstances, both the Commissioner and the State Board concluded that the board member could be excluded from those portions of the board's executive sessions in which it discussed the strategy it would follow in defending itself from the suit he had initiated. The Appellate Division affirmed, expressing its belief that "the public body may discuss litigation strategy in executive session, outside the presence of the dissident member who has brought the action...." Syvertsen, supra, at 569.

In the instant case, it was the Board which was contemplating bringing legal action against 112 of its citizens, including petitioner, who, prior to her election to the Board, had participated in the legal challenge to the Board's plan to reconfigure the district's high schools. The discussion from which the Board sought petitioner's removal concerned the possibility of taking legal action against that group under the Frivolous Lawsuit Statute in order to attempt to recover the Board's legal expenses. In stark contrast to Syvertsen, petitioner in this case had no control over whether such litigation would be initiated. Furthermore, we reiterate that petitioner had agreed not to participate in any of the Board's deliberations concerning the possibility of such a suit, and we note that the Board did not, in fact, bring an action against any of the citizens who had participated in the reconfiguration challenge.

Given the liberal construction that must be given to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20 in the context of civil litigation, we conclude that the Board's March 1994 legal action against petitioner arose out of and in the course of her duties as a member of the Board, and that she is therefore entitled to be indemnified for the costs of that defense. Moreover, as a matter of policy, we believe it is critical that differing views and opinions be freely expressed and fully represented within the public bodies that are responsible for educational governance. Were we to deny petitioner's claim in this instance, we would be acting in contradiction of this policy. Further, such a determination would have a chilling effect on members of district boards who may hold views that are contrary to the views of the majority, and might also discourage citizens who hold such views from even seeking membership on a district board.

We therefore reverse the decision of the Commissioner and direct the Board to reimburse petitioner for her legal expenses, which were stipulated by the parties to be $6,218.25, incurred in defense of the civil proceedings brought against her by the Board in March 1994.

The parties to this proceeding, desiring an amicable resolution of this litigation, stipulate and agree as follows:

1. Effective June 30, 1995, the petitioner, Orange Board of Education (hereinafter the "Board"), abolished all custodial positions in its district as a result of subcontracting.

2. Since Kevin Huguenin was employed by the Board as a custodian up until his suspension on tenure charges on January 17, 1995, the pending tenure charges are now moot. There is no position to return Mr. Huguenin to or from which he could be removed by the Commissioner of Education.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN- : DECISION

RESPONDENTS. :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that dismissal of this matter was appropriate based on petitioner's failure to comply with court rules. The Commissioner finds that after receiving proper notice, petitioner's failure to appear for a hearing in the within matter sufficiently warranted dismissal of the instant case.

Accordingly, the Commissioner affirms the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law dismissing the within Petition of Appeal with prejudice.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, tenured teaching staff member, contended the Board failed to recognize his seniority rights, improperly reducing him to a half-time position.

In light of testimony and documents presented, the ALJ found that petitioner's seniority was properly calculated. ALJ concluded that for the six-week period in contention, petitioner was properly reduced from a full-time to a half-time position. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner remanded matter for further proceedings to clarify the nature and purpose of the course in automotive technology to which petitioner lays claim, so as to determine the requisite certificate in light of Sefcik and, to the extent such determination may alter the seniority calculations necessary to determine petitioner's tenure right as asserted, to revise such computations.

Record Closed: September 15, 1995

Decided: September 20, 1995

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

Parker Clapp, petitioner, claimed certain seniority rights and alleged they were violated by the respondent South Brunswick Township Board of Education.

The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. A prehearing conference was held on December 13, 1994 and, among other things, it was settled that the issues to be resolved are whether the petitioner has the seniority rights he asserts, whether those rights were violated by the Board and to what relief, if any, he is entitled.

Clapp contends that the South Brunswick Board of Education refused to recognize his seniority rights and has arbitrarily, capriciously and unreasonably reduced him to a half-time position. He also asserts that persons with lesser seniority or lacking the proper endorsement are teaching courses he is entitled to teach.

On March 9, 1995, the Board moved for summary decision. The petitioner filed opposing papers and the Board responded. In an order dated April 17, 1995, I determined that the related matters of tenure, seniority, employment history and certificates and endorsements were not sufficiently clear to allow a determination of the bases of affidavits. I ordered testimony and relevant documents to be produced.

On the second branch of the motion, that the Teacher of Industrial Arts endorsement is sufficient to enable the holder to teach the range of auto-related courses, I found for the Board.

Hearing was held on September 15, 1995, at the North Brunswick Municipal Complex on the limited issue of service and seniority. The petitioner produced no witnesses; the Board produced one witness.

The Board's Director of Personnel testified that it is among his duties to maintain employment records. The witness knows the petitioner. Clapp teaches automobile mechanics at the high school. Two other persons, Franklin and Wisnefski also taught industrial arts at the high school at the relevant time.

Because of lowering enrollments, the Board eliminated courses in woodworking, metals, and mechanical drawing. Franklin held the appropriate certificates and endorsements and was the most senior of the three persons.

The witness calculated the service and seniority of the three teachers. He determined Franklin was most senior, Wisnefski was next and Clapp was least senior. He presented this information to the Board. The Board then voted to abolish the full-time Skilled Trades Automobile Mechanics course. It created a one half-time automobile mechanics course and assigned it to Clapp. The remaining courses in the department were taught by Franklin and Wisnefski.

On October 16, 1994, Franklin began a leave of absence and, ultimately, retired. Clapp was returned to a full-time position effective that date. Thus, the period in contention is approximately six weeks.

The witness also testified about compiling the three teachers' work histories. Wisnefski served continuously, but not always in a full-time position, from September 1976. It was necessary to convert his service to full-time equivalent (FTE) service. Wisnefski also had military service for which he received credit (J-3). [See, N.J.S.A. 18A:29-11.]

Clapp's employment history was similarly calculated (J-2). The witness then created a comparison of Wisnefski's and Clapp's employment histories (R-1).

From the testimony and the documents presented, I FIND that the seniority of Franklin, Wisnefski, and Clapp was properly calculated in this matter. There was no dispute that Franklin was the most senior of the three. Franklin has left the employ of the South Brunswick Board and Clapp has been returned to a full-time position. However, Wisnefski is senior to Clapp, albeit by .1 years. I CONCLUDE, therefore, that for the six-week period in contention here, Parker Clapp was properly reduced from a full-time to a half-time position. The action complained of in no way harmed any of Clapp's tenure and seniority rights.

The certification question having been determined in my order of April 17, 1995, there is no longer any justiciable issue before me. Accordingly, the petition of appeal is DISMISSED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

 BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE : DECISION
 TOWNSHIP OF SOUTH BRUNSWICK, :
 MIDDLESEX COUNTY, :
 :
 RESPONDENT. :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions reiterate arguments presented in his brief before the ALJ. Inasmuch as these arguments were fully and fairly considered by the ALJ, they are not recounted herein.

Respondent, noting that petitioner's exceptions are "simply a resubmission" of his brief presented before the ALJ (Respondent's Reply at p. 1), highlights petitioner's failure to dispute the ALJ's findings regarding the calculation of seniority in this matter. Thus, respondent reasons, "*the only issue on which petitioner files exceptions is the issue of the required certification or endorsement for the position of automotive technology." (Id.) Here, respondent argues that the ALJ properly determined in his earlier decision granting summary judgment that the Teacher of Industrial Arts endorsement is sufficient to enable the holder to teach a range of auto-related courses. Moreover, respondent asserts that “petitioner relied solely on his own opinion” in taking a position to the contrary. (Id. at p. 2)

Finally, respondent cites Thomas v. Board of Education of Morris Township, 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965); Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 69 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960); and Quinlan v. Board of Education of North Bergen Township, 73 N.J. Super. 40, 46-47 (App. Div. 1962) for the principle that a board’s action is entitled to a presumption of correctness, and will not be disturbed absent a showing that such decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. (Respondent’s Reply at p. 2) Respondent concludes that petitioner failed to meet his burden, and, therefore, urges that the Commissioner affirm the decision of the ALJ.

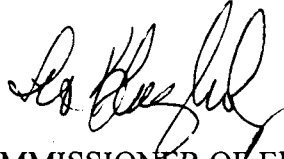

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner finds that resolution of the issue of the required certification for the position of teacher of automotive technology, together with the attendant seniority calculations necessary to decide petitioner’s tenure claim, rests on a determination of the nature and purpose of the disputed course, in light of the Commissioner’s holding in George Sefcik v. Board of Education of the Red Bank Regional High School District, Monmouth County, decided July 17, 1995. As such cannot be ascertained from the record herein, the Commissioner determines that additional fact-finding and analysis is necessary.

In this regard, the within matter is remanded for further proceedings which should, through either testimony or stipulated facts, clarify the nature and purpose of the course in automotive technology to which petitioner lays claim, so as to determine the requisite certificate in light of Sefcik, supra, and, to the extent such determination may alter the seniority calculations necessary to determine petitioner's tenure right as asserted, to revise such computations.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed herein, the instant matter is hereby remanded to the Office of Administrative Law for further testimony, argument and recommendation, consistent with the parameters set forth above.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, tenured teaching staff member, contended the Board failed to recognize his seniority rights, improperly reducing him to a half-time position.

ALJ initially dismissed petition, finding that petitioner's seniority was properly calculated and that for the six-week period in contention, petitioner was properly reduced from a full-time to a half-time position.

Commissioner remanded matter for further proceedings to clarify the nature and purpose of the course in automotive technology to which petitioner lays claim, so as to determine the requisite certificate in light of Sefcik and any resulting revised seniority calculations.

On remand, ALJ found that Automotive Service I, the course to which petitioner lays claim, is a general course and may properly be taught by the holder of a number of endorsements. Thus, ALJ concluded petitioner was properly reduced for period in question. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

Record Closed: February 20, 1996

Decided: March 18, 1996

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

Parker Clapp, petitioner, a tenured teaching staff member employed by the South Brunswick Township Board of Education, alleged that the Board failed to recognize his seniority rights and improperly reduced him to a half-time position.

This matter was opened before Commissioner of Education and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. An initial decision issued on September 20, 1995. The decision determined that the seniority of three persons involved, Franklin, Wisnefski and Clapp, was properly calculated. Franklin was found to be the most senior of the three. He has left the employ of the Board and Clapp has been returned to a full-time position. Wisnefski was found senior to Clapp, albeit by .1 years. The decision concluded that for the six-week period in contention, Clapp was properly reduced from a full-time to a half-time position.

The matter is remanded to clarify the nature and purpose of the course in automotive technology to which the petitioner lays claim. This will enable a determination of the requisite certificate in light of Sefcik v. Red Bank Regional High School Dis. Bd. of Ed., 95 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 467.

By letter dated February 1, 1996, I directed submission of a stipulation of facts. Counsel were informed that I would adopt it for purposes of deciding the remaining issue in the case. The submission was timely received and provides as follows:

1. There are currently four courses in the South Brunswick School District in the area of Automotive Technology.
2. These four courses are Automotive Technology I, Automotive Technology II, Advanced Automotive Technology, and Automotive Technology Semester I. Automotive Technology Semester I is a new one-half year course started in the 1995-96 school year.
3. During the 1994-95 school year there were three courses in the Automotive area. Automotive Service I which was renamed as Automotive Technology I, Automotive Service II which was renamed as Automotive Technology II, and Advanced Automotive Service which was renamed as Advanced Automotive Technology.
4. Automotive Service I is a single period course. Automotive Service II is a single period course. Advanced Automotive Service is a double period course.

5. Automotive Service I is an introductory course designed to give a student some basic knowledge and skills in the safety, operation and maintenance of automotive related equipment. The course is also a prerequisite for more advanced courses in Automotive Service II and/or Advanced Service.

6. Automotive Service I is not listed by the South Brunswick School District with the New Jersey Department of Education as a vocational course.

7. Automotive Service I is an instructional course. It is not designed to train or prepare a student for paid or unpaid employment in a particular occupation or field.

8. At the time petitioner's position was reduced to half time in June, 1994, as part of a reduction in force, the only course previously taught by him which was assigned to another instructor was Automotive Service I. This course was assigned to Joseph Franklin.

9. Joseph Franklin is certified as Teacher of Industrial Arts, who at the time of the reduction in force had been teaching the Industrial Arts area for approximately thirty-one (31) years.

10. Attached hereto as Exhibit J-1 is a course description for a number of courses including the Automotive Service I course for the 1994-95 school year. The course description was in effect at the time of the reduction in force which is the subject of this proceeding.

Exhibit J-1, referred to above, states that Automotive Service I is available to grades 10, 11 and 12. The course is described as follows:

This is an introductory course that allows the students to secure basic knowledge and skill in safety, operation and maintenance of automotive-related equipment. Through classroom instruction and hands-on experiences in the laboratory students will learn the operation and maintenance of the automobile engine, transmission, brakes and electrical system.

There are no prerequisite listed for the course.

The remand is to determine the nature and purpose of the course in automotive technology to which the petitioner lays claim and to determine the requisite certificate in light of Sefcik, above. Should that determination alter the seniority calculation already made, that calculation shall be revised.

Automotive Service I is an introductory course apparently open to all high school students. It is not designated vocational and there are no listed prerequisites. From the brief description, it is an imminently practical course in basic automobile safety, operation and maintenance. It appears designed for all students who do or will drive automobiles. There is nothing in the course description to suggest that a high degree of automotive expertise is required of the teacher. Therefore, the advise of the county office of the New Jersey Department of Education to the Board that an auto mechanics teacher must hold a Teacher of Industrial Arts, Secondary School Teacher of Power Mechanics, Secondary School Teacher of Auto Mechanics, Auto Mechanics or Automotive Technology endorsement in order to teach the Auto Mechanics classes not only comports with common experience and common sense, it also illustrates abundantly that any of those endorsements would be appropriate for the person teaching the relatively elementary Automotive Service I.

The order of remand seeks clarification of the nature and purpose of the course to which the petitioner lays claim. The nature and purpose of the course have been established. The requisite certificate, in consideration of the relatively elementary nature of the course, would be any of the endorsements, the county office of the State Department of Education advised the district its automotive course teachers should hold. Where the Board has relied on advice from the New Jersey Department of Education, it should not bear the burden of proving that the information is correct. In any event, each of the above mentioned endorsements would subsume certification to teach Automotive Service I.

In summary, I FIND:

1. Automobile Service I is an introductory, general course open to all high school students;
2. The course is less technical than all other automotive courses identified;
3. As the district was advised by the county office of the Department of Education, a holder of any of the following endorsements may teach the course:
 - Teacher of Industrial Arts
 - Secondary School Teacher of Power Mechanics
 - Secondary School Teacher of Auto Mechanics
 - Auto Mechanics
 - Automotive Technology;
4. At the time of the RIF, the three members of the department held appropriate certificates and endorsements;
5. Any of the certificates and endorsements held by the department members would subsume the requirements to teach Automotive Service I;
6. The matter was decided purely on seniority;
7. Seniority was correctly determined.

Unlike, Sefcik, above, this case does not involve certification requirements in specific trades. Trades certificates are narrowly tailored to subject matter and do not entitle the holder to teach outside that area. By contrast, Automotive Service I is a general course and may properly be taught by the holder of any of the above recited endorsements.

I CONCLUDE that for the six-week period in contention here, Parker Clapp was properly reduced from a full-time to a half-time position. The action complained of impaired none of Clapp's tenure and seniority rights. Accordingly, the petition of appeal is DISMISSED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

 BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE : DECISION ON REMAND

 RESPONDENT. :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the reply thereto were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner asserts that the conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) "are assumptions made  without the benefit of a plenary hearing," and as such, the ALJ "had no information except excerpts of course descriptions, upon which to base his decision." (Petitioner's Exceptions at pp. 1, 2) Petitioner further contends that the ALJ "ignored [his] Certification with Exhibits" which were previously submitted and which petitioner incorporates herein by reference. Therefore, petitioner maintains that the Automotive Service I course (now named Automotive Technology I) is more sophisticated than determined by the ALJ, and that the Commissioner should again remand this matter with instructions that a plenary hearing be conducted. (Id. at p. 2)

In response, the Board avers,

After remand, and at the direction of Judge Campbell, respondent prepared and submitted a stipulation of facts setting out a description of the specific course taught by petitioner which had been assigned to a more senior teacher at the time of the reduction in force. Petitioner did not object to the stipulation of facts submitted to Judge Campbell and this stipulation, along with the course description, J-4, was relied upon by Judge Campbell in making his decision.

Therefore, it is undisputed what course was assigned to another teacher at the time of the reduction in force; it is undisputed that the teacher who was assigned to teach the Automotive Service I course was certified as Teacher of Industrial Arts and had thirty-one years of seniority; it is undisputed that prior to effectuating the reduction in force the Director of Personnel checked with the office of the County Superintendent for Middlesex County to determine the certification required for the course; and it is undisputed that the County Office advised that certification as Teacher of Industrial Arts would qualify an individual to teach Automotive Service I. (Board's Reply Exceptions at pp. 1, 2)

The Board contends that petitioner fails to present a factual or legal basis for disturbing the ALJ's initial decision. (Id. at p. 2) That petitioner asserts "the course is 'more sophisticated' than the Administrative Law Judge found  is not the determinative factor," the Board affirms. (Id.) Rather, the Board contends, the issue herein is whether the Automotive Service I course is a "vocational" course or an "instructional" course. (Id.) The Board maintains that the course is an introductory instructional course and, as such, the ALJ's finding as to requisite certification, giving due deference to the advice of the County Superintendent, "*is fully supported by the facts and the evidence presented." (Id.)

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner finds petitioner's exception arguments to be without merit. Where petitioner stipulated that the Automotive Service I course "is an introductory course designed to give a student some basic knowledge and skills in the safety, operation and maintenance of automotive related equipment,” and where petitioner further agreed that the course is instructional, rather than designed to prepare students for employment in a particular occupation (Initial Decision at p. 3), his assertion that the ALJ failed to procure evidence necessary to ascertain “the skill [level] or degree of difficulty of the course” must fail. (Petitioner’s Exceptions at p. 2)

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons expressed therein and the within petition is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct, misbehavior and official misconduct against respondent, Information Systems Control Specialist. Following certification of charges, Board contended respondent did not acquire tenure as a clerk and matter could be dismissed.

Citing Barnes, the ALJ concluded respondent's responsibilities were not primarily clerical in nature. Thus, ALJ concluded respondent was not a tenured employee at the time the tenure charges were filed against her. ALJ ordered matter dismissed.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE
HEARING OF JOAN DEMPSTER,
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE
CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER
COUNTY

Thomas W. Sumners, Jr., Esq., for the petitioner, Board of Education of the City of Trenton (Sumners, Council, George and Dortch, attorneys)

Richard A. Friedman, Esq., for the respondent, Joan Dempster (Zazzali, Zazzali, Fagella and Nowak, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 12, 1995

Decided: August 25, 1995

BEFORE BEATRICE S. TYLUTKI, ALJ:

This matter concerns the tenure charges filed against the respondent, Joan Dempster, with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) on August 1, 1994. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on August 19, 1994, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

There was a prehearing conference on November 2, 1994, and at that time, Thomas Summers, Jr., Esq., on behalf of the petitioner, the Board of Education of the City of Trenton (Board), stated that the Board now takes the position that the respondent could not obtain tenure while holding the position of an information systems control specialist. The respondent disagreed and it was decided that I would render a decision on this issue based on a stipulation of facts and briefs prior to any consideration of the tenure charges filed against Ms. Dempster.

A motion for summary decision was filed by the petitioner. The petitioner alleges that Ms. Dempster is not a tenured employee since a person in her position cannot acquire tenure, and therefore the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction and the matter should be dismissed.

The respondent opposes the motion and argues that the respondent holds a clerical position and has tenure.

After briefs and a stipulation of facts were submitted by the parties, I had a telephone conference with the parties on June 15, 1995, and I informed them that I needed more information regarding Ms. Dempster's job responsibilities before I could decide the motion. Rather than present any witnesses, the parties asked for time to submit additional information about Ms. Dempster's job responsibilities. The petitioner submitted the affidavit of Robert Lawrence on June 22, 1995, and the respondent submitted letters on July 11, and July 12, 1995. The record in the matter closed on July 12, 1995.

For purposes of the motion, the parties have stipulated that:

1. Petitioner, Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County (the "Board"), is subject to the tenure laws of the State of New Jersey as set forth in Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes Annotated.
2. Respondent, Joan Dempster, has been employed by the Board as an Information Systems Control Specialist since June 15, 1987.

3. Respondent asserts that she has obtained tenure as an Information Systems Control Specialist pursuant to the N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2.
4. On or about May 3, 1994, the Board certified tenure charges against the Respondent in which the Board did not admit Respondent had tenure, and alleged, among other things, that she was guilty of conduct unbecoming of an Information Systems Control Specialist, misbehavior and official misconduct.
5. On or about August 12, 1994, the Respondent filed a timely answer denying the tenure charges and asserting that she has tenure.

The job description for Ms. Dempster's position (attached to the stipulation of facts as Exhibit A) contains the following general job summary:

Responsible for operating and controlling digital computing equipment by means of a peripheral console device or auxiliary control panel, and preparing the computer for program processing for the satisfactory completion of each scheduled computer operation.

Also, the job description states that the position requires a high school education, three years' experience operating a mainframe computer, no special certification or license, and the ability to work independently. The following job responsibilities are listed in the job description:

A. Operates and maintains all computer equipment

1. Operates console keyboard or control panel, initializing the computer systems for each program in accordance with operating instructions and preparing peripheral computer program equipment with forms and disk files.
2. Monitors console messages and reacts according to directions from system software and/or application programs; takes corrective action as defined in operating instructions and verifies that reports and other outputs are completed before release from the computer room.

3. Notifies the Director of Information Services of equipment or program malfunctions.

4. Assumes responsibility for all computer printer and system upkeep, and all inventory and ordering of computer supplies.

B. Produces and/or develops reports for the various departments within the District

1. Interprets report requests from the various departments within the District.

2. Develops a working knowledge of the District's computer systems and applications in order to develop and generate new reports as needed.

3. Diagnoses causes for interruptions in computer processing.

4. Ensures time recording procedures for the running of all reports.

C. Serves as a data processing and computer systems resource within the District

1. Verifies that all necessary files and data have been submitted to the computer room, recognizes deficiencies in source documents and returns them for correction and/or completion.

2. Troubleshoots and coordinates data entry functions for system departments, and assists with problems in the usage of systems applications.

3. Runs computer/software equipment checks as requested and performs back-up and other preventative data entry services (e.g. proper forms and disk pack utilization) for the various departments within the District as needed.

D. Behavioral Expectations

1. Upholds the philosophies/values of the Trenton Board of Education.

2. Exercises safe and appropriate work habits.

b. demonstrates general knowledge of work processes within skill area.

3. Promotes positive inside and outside relations.
 - a. works in consultation with the Director of Information Services and other Departments as needed to ensure that computer reports and data control issues are handled in a smooth and timely manner.

E. Other

1. Performs other related duties and responsibilities as assigned by the Director of Information Services.

In his affidavit, Robert Lawrence, the director of information systems for the Board, indicates that he is responsible for the supervision of the school district's computer department and he is Ms. Dempster's supervisor. According to Mr. Lawrence, the respondent's job responsibilities are accurately reflected in the job description. He stated that it is the respondent's responsibility "to operate and monitor the School District's computer system which covers payroll, accounting, personnel and student records," and that it is the responsibility of the respondent to make sure data is properly input, to handle problems, and to make appropriate changes. Also, Mr. Lawrence stated that the respondent rarely inputs any data, does not handle or type any correspondence, and does not answer the telephone or schedule appointments for supervisors.

Richard A. Friedman, Esq., on behalf of the respondent, concurs that the respondent's job responsibilities are correctly outlined in the job description. According to Mr. Friedman, the respondent's prime responsibility is to operate and monitor the computer payroll system.

In support of the motion for summary decision, Mr. Sumners argued that the courts have held that the tenure statute should be narrowly construed and that tenure should be provided only for the positions set forth in the statute, citing Capella v. Board of Educ., Camden County Voc. Tech. Sch., 145 N.J. Super. 209, 214 (App. Div. 1976), Moresh v. Bayonne Bd. of Educ., 52 N.J. Super. 105, 111 (App. Div. 1958), and Lascari v. Board of Educ. of Lodi, 36 N.J. Super. 426, 430 (App. Div. 1955). Mr. Friedman disagreed and argued that that courts have held that the tenure statute should be liberally construed, citing Barnes v. Board of Educ. of Jersey City, 85 N.J. Super. 42 (App. Div. 1964).

Having reviewed the case law, I agree with Mr. Sumners's argument that the law clearly limits tenure to the specified statutory positions. However, since the position of "clerk" is not defined by the statute, I agree with the parties that it is necessary to consider the job responsibilities performed in order to determine whether the respondent's position falls within the clerk classification. I disagree with Mr. Friedman's argument that the court in Barnes intended to give the term "clerk" a broad interpretation, to extend the meaning beyond what is generally accepted to be a clerical position.

Mr. Sumners argued that the respondent's position is not a clerical position pursuant to the tenure statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2. He noted that a "clerk" is commonly a person who keeps records, attends to correspondence or filing, and manages routine and detail work within the traditional office setting, citing definitions of "clerk" from the American Heritage Dictionary (Second College Edition 1985) and Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary (1977). Mr. Sumners stated that the respondent's job responsibilities require her to perform technical duties, not routine office work; it is her responsibility to diagnose and correct computer problems, prepare computer programs, analyze systems operations, and make independent determinations regarding steps to be taken to promote efficiency. The clerical duty of inputting the information into the computer is performed by other employees. Mr. Sumners argued that the court in Barnes clearly indicated that tenure protection should not be provided to all office workers without regard to the nature of their job responsibilities, but only to those employees who carried out clerical functions.

In support of its argument, the Board noted that the respondent is not covered by the collective bargaining agreement pertaining to secretarial and clerical positions, namely, the Trenton Educational Secretaries Association bargaining agreement; rather, she is covered by the collective bargaining agreement pertaining to persons holding technical titles, namely, the Trenton Business and Technical Employees' Association bargaining agreement. Mr. Friedman argued, and I agree, that the respondent's collective bargaining unit is not relevant to the issue of whether the respondent has tenure as a clerk. The issue is solely statutory, and since tenure rights cannot be waived by collective bargaining, the contract agreements between the unions and the Board are not relevant to the issue. Further, according to Mr. Friedman, recognized clerical positions are covered by the Trenton Business and Technical Employees' Association bargaining agreement.

Mr. Friedman argued that the courts have recognized that a wide range of titles can fall within the clerical classification and that the classifications of secretary and clerk are not synonymous, citing Barnes, supra, 85 N.J. Super. 42; Beute v. Board of Educ. of North Arlington, Comm'r Decision (September 14, 1981), aff'd, State Bd. of Educ. (February 3, 1982); and Ramage v. Board of Educ. of Franklin, Comm'r Decision (April 13, 1983), aff'd, State Bd. of Educ. (January 4, 1984), aff'd, No. A-2762-83T2 (App. Div. Jan. 31, 1985). He asserted that computers are now common in the workplace and are replacing older ways of keeping records, and that the use of computers does not alter the clerical nature of the work performed. Mr. Friedman argued that the respondent's duties are primarily clerical in nature; she does not have a managerial position, does not supervise any employees, and does not have the power to make decisions regarding substantial matters.

Having reviewed the arguments of the parties, I agree with the petitioner's position and I CONCLUDE that the respondent's responsibilities are not primarily clerical in nature. The respondent's responsibilities include analyzing systems operations and making independent determinations, independently producing reports, diagnosing computer system problems, and maintaining computer equipment. These duties do not fall into the category of responsibilities which normally would be considered to be clerical in nature. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that Ms. Dempster was not a tenured employee at the time the tenure charges were filed against her, and I ORDER that this matter be dismissed.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :
HEARING OF JOAN DEMPSTER, BOARD : OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY. :
_____ :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Respondent objects to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) determination that she did not acquire tenure as a clerk. In support of her objection, respondent refers to, and incorporates by reference, her Brief filed before the ALJ in opposition to petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision. Respondent also asserts that the ALJ's determination in this matter narrowly construed the tenure statutes, contrary to the holding in Barnes, supra. Additionally, respondent reiterates that her job duties were no more sophisticated than the duties performed by the petitioners in Beute, supra, and Ramage, supra. Thus, respondent urges that the Commissioner reverse the decision of the ALJ.

The Board also relies upon, and incorporates by reference, its Brief as filed before the ALJ in support of its Motion to Dismiss Respondent's Petition of Appeal. In so doing, the Board asserts that the ALJ applied the appropriate legal standard and recognized that the nature of respondent's job functions were determinative of the issues herein.¹ The Board again argues that respondent's functions were technical functions, and respondent's attempt to equate those functions with an employee's utilization of a computer to carry out clerical functions is without legal or factual basis. Thus, the Board counsels against adopting the overly expansive view offered by respondent.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that respondent's job functions were not basically clerical in nature. See Barnes at 45. In so finding, the Commissioner notes that neither his decision nor the ALJ's, contrary to respondent's assertion, is based on the mere fact that respondent's position requires the use of a computer. (Respondent's Brief at p. 10) Rather, the Commissioner determines that the particular facts on record herein do not permit a finding that respondent's position comes within the scope of the Barnes decision, which may not be so broadly interpreted as to permit characterization of virtually any nonsecretarial, office-related function as "clerical."

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, and the within petition is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

¹ The Board notes that the parties are in full agreement as to the specific job functions performed by respondent. (Board's Reply at p. 2)

L.T., on behalf of her minor child, D.T., :
 PETITIONER, :
 V. : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
 BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY : DECISION
 OF LONG BRANCH, MONMOUTH :
 COUNTY, :
 RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent contended her child, D.T., a tenth grader who was expelled for his involvement in a fistfight with another student (a teacher was also assaulted in the fight), was expelled in violation of his due process rights. (N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1 and 37-5) Petitioner sought immediate reinstatement of D.T. to regular enrollment in the Board's schools.

ALJ determined that D.T. had to be readmitted to school as his expulsion hearing was neither timely scheduled nor conducted in a procedurally correct manner. Citing Goss, the ALJ found that D.T. may not be expelled from school except in accord with statute and local Board policy. ALJ ordered D.T. readmitted to school contingent upon his compliance with the rules of the school and acceptable patterns of conduct.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own and ordered D.T. readmitted in compliance with ALJ's directives.

Ann B. Bradley, Esq., for petitioner (Stokes & Throckmorton, attorneys)

Arsen Zartarian, Esq., for respondent, Board of Education of the School District of Long Branch (McOmber and McOmber, attorneys)

Record Closed: September 5, 1995

Decided: September 13, 1995

BEFORE DANIEL B. MCKEOWN, ALJ t/a:

L.T., on behalf of her 15 year old minor child D.T. (petitioners) who until his expulsion was a student in the tenth grade of the Long Branch Public Schools, alleges the Long Branch Board of Education (Board) violated his statutory due process under N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:37-5 with respect to its expulsion action. Petitioners demand the immediate reinstatement of D.T. to regular enrollment as a student in the Long Branch schools. The Board denies it violated D.T.'s procedural due process rights under the cited statutes. It asserts petitioners failed to state a claim upon which relief could or should be granted. It also asserts D.T. voluntarily withdrew from its public schools thereby tendering the matter moot. After the matter was transferred July 3, 1995, to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13, a hearing was scheduled and conducted August 10, 1995 at the Shrewsbury Township Municipal Building. After written summations were filed, the record closed September 5, 1995.

The conclusion is reached in this initial decision that D.T.'s procedural due process rights were violated by the board as is alleged.

BACKGROUND FACTS

The following background facts of the matter are not in dispute between the parties except as otherwise noted. On January 18, 1995 a fistfight erupted in the high school cafeteria around midday between D.T. and another student. While the combatants were throwing punches at each other a teacher who was present in the cafeteria at the time, Walter Jeffrey Propert, attempted to separate the two and stop the fight. Mr. Propert, unfortunately, was hit in his face, "right beneath the nose" and again "in the right eye orbit", as well as "banging his lower rib cage on a table, having his right shin cut open on a chair and having one of the combatants teeth puncture his forearm. (J-2) Other adults who were present intervened and pulled the students away from each other. He subsequently went home. In an incident report (J-2) filed on January 22, 1995, Mr. Propert does not identify either combatant by name nor whom of the two punched him or whose teeth punctured his forearm. Mr. Propert was taken to the school nurse's office and then to "a doctor" to be examined.

Lawrence DiRienzo, the then assistant principal, was at a principal's meeting with detectives, who were present on other matters at about the time the fight started. When word of the fight reached the meeting, DiRienzo and others went to the cafeteria but by the time he got there, DiRienzo says he did not see any part of the fight or of Mr. Propert being punched or bitten. He began asking the 20 or so students and three other teachers who were present what had happened. He took his own personal notes of their responses from which he made a summary report the following day to the principal, John T. Crotty. DiRienzo did not have with him at the time he gave testimony in this matter the notes he made of the responses received, although the notes (R-1) were submitted August 30, 1995. Written statements of the student witnesses were not taken, nor were the students called to testify.

The detectives in the principal's meeting at the time the fight occurred and presumably who assisted in regaining control of the cafeteria determined to take D.T. into police custody soon after order was restored. In the meantime, either DiRienzo or someone else at his or the principal's direction telephoned D.T.'s mother, L.T., and advised her of what had occurred and that D.T. was taken into police custody. D.T.'s mother went to police headquarters to inquire of her son. D.T. was released into her custody.

The day after the fight, January 19, 1995, DiRienzo advised the principal in writing:

My interviews with a number of students who observed the fight in the cafeteria during period 4 on January 18, 1995 confirms the report that Mr. Propert was struck repeatedly by [D.T.], Grade 10, while Mr. Propert was intervening and attempting to separate the two students who were in the midst of a violent fight. ([D.T.] and [J.J.]

Students observed [D.T.] hit Mr. Propert in the face and observed Mr. Propert being knocked to the floor in the melee. One student suggested that [D.T.] was attempting to strike the other student, but Mr. Propert was 'in the way' so he received the bulk of the blows meant for the other student.

(C-1)

It is noted that the referenced "students" were not identified to D.T. or to his mother.

The same day, January 19, 1995, principal Crotty advised L.T. in writing as follows:

This letter will serve to confirm your telephone call and your conference with Mr. DiRienzo on January 18th and 19th. I regret to inform you that it has become necessary to suspend [D.] from school for a period of ten (10) days, January 18th through and including February 1st . . . because [D.] was involved in an extremely violent fight in the cafeteria and injured the teacher who attempted to intervene and separate [D.] and the other student. In addition, as you are aware, the teacher was bitten by one of the students during the fight; therefore, medical testing is required of both students and the nurse has given you all of the necessary information to complete this testing. . .

Please be advised that a Principal's Panel Hearing is now required and has been scheduled for 10:00 a.m., Thursday, February 2nd, in my office. [D.] is to attend the hearing with you . . .

(J-1)

It is noted that the 'medical testing' showed it was the other student, not D. whose teeth punctured Mr. Propert's forearm.

Principal Crotty testified that he made the decision to suspend D.T. for ten days because of the gravity of the matter occurring in an educational setting, and the fact that a student was involved which, to him, represented a 'hostility for authority'. The other student who was involved in the fistfight January 18 was also suspended for ten days, but was readmitted to regular school attendance immediately thereafter. Principal Crotty explained that his investigation revealed to him that the other student involved J.J.,

. . . historically avoided the cafeteria because of the ridicule and chatting he was receiving by some of the students involved here, and, in fact, had gone down to the cafeteria that day and ridicule and chatting continued. There was nothing that showed us that he [J.J.] provoked it or was involved in the verbal confrontation, but we didn't say whether there was serious provocation, and we did see that he did abide by the supervisor's directions, even if it required hands-on, which it was the supervisor did grab the student first, but . . .

[And} I advised the parents [of D.T.] and the people that were in attendance [at the Principal's Panel Hearing on February 2].

(Tr. 55, 56)

Principal Crotty explained that the purpose of the Principal's Panel Hearing, which he says is authorized by Board policy (R-2) as submitted by counsel on August 30, is to:

... review the seriousness of this incident [by reviewing] his [D.T.'s] attendance, grades and historical record, and then we would consider the action that the panel would take. The panel is empowered to return the student to school with no sanctions. The panel is empowered to return a student to class or school with some type of sanctions or the panel is empowered to recommend to the Board of [E]ducation for expulsion from the school district [thereby continuing the suspension already imposed until the Board gets to the matter (Tr. 60)].

(Tr. 56)

In anticipation of the "Principal's Panel Hearing" principal Crotty kept in close contact with assistant principal DiRienzo and with the teacher who was punched to insure he had the facts right. The teacher who was punched was not present at the "hearing" on February 2, 1995 although a guidance counselor, a learning disability teacher-consultant, Crotty, DiRienzo, D.T. and his mother were present. The thrust of this proceeding was for principal Crotty to ask D.T. what had happened, for D.T. to respond, and for the principal to ask him more questions. Neither a stenographer nor audio tape recorder were used during this hearing and no one took and kept notes. At the end of this meeting, L.T. was advised by principal Crotty that the recommendation of the Panel to the Superintendent and hence to the Board was for D.T.'s expulsion. It is noted that assistant principal DiRienzo says the expulsion recommendation was reached by the Panel as a whole. However, the record is absent any evidence which would show the "Panel" took a recess to discuss the recommendation before L. T. was so informed; rather, the evidence suggests that the principal determined that that would be the panel's recommendation. Crotty acknowledged the recommended expulsion was his "unilateral" decision. (Tr. 91) And, whatever the guidance counselor, and learning disability teacher learned at the Principal's Panel Hearing was what principal Crotty or assistant principal DiRienzo said occurred, and from the questioning of D.T. by Crotty.) (Tr. 113)

The principal memorialized the recommendation in a letter (J-3) sent L.T. on February 3, 1995 in which he further advised:

The recommendation is made after a review of [D.'s] discipline record indicated that he had a history of violent behavior which culminated in a fighting incident in the cafeteria on January 18, 1995 where [D.] punched the teacher supervisor a number of times, knocking him to the ground.

While awaiting the hearing by the Board of Education, [D.] will be provided with a Home Instruction program. While on Home instruction, [D.] is to remain off school grounds and may not attend any athletic contests or school activities . . .

(J-3)

It is noted that the discipline record (J-10,p. 5) of D.T., excluding the present expulsion and apparently as relied upon by principal Crotty and eventually by the Board as one basis for the present controverted discipline, shows that during November 1993 a teacher/administrative conference occurred because D.T. was to have had a "confrontation" with another student in a hallway and he was to have refused to follow a teacher's direction, and during December 1993 he was to have engaged in "violent behavior", "horseplay" and "fighting in the boys' locker room for which he was suspended 3 days, one of which was in-school suspension and the other 2 days were out-of-school suspension.

D.T.'s discipline record also shows that during February 1994 he received "central detention" for being tardy to school three times; he received Saturday detention during March 1994 for engaging in "disruptive behavior" in math class, which he does not recall, and he failed to serve a teacher-imposed detention; he received central detention during June 1994 for engaging in "excessive tardiness" to school; he received a Saturday detention during October 1994 for being unprepared for physical education on seven occasions; and, he received a three day in-school suspension during November 1994 for being "insubordinate" and "disrespectful" to an assistant principal. (Tr. 145)

While L.T. was notified at the "Panel" hearing on February 2 that the recommendation for expulsion of D.T. was to be made and the very next day had a letter sent her memorializing that recommendation, and she was also told by that letter that D.T. would continue on suspension until the matter was resolved and he had been out-of-school on suspension since he was taken into custody the afternoon of January 18, the actual recommendation for expulsion was not forwarded to the Superintendent's office by principal Crotty until February 8, 1995. (J-4)

One week later, February 15, the assistant superintendent of schools notified L.T. of the recommendation for expulsion and that a panel of the Board would conduct a hearing on February 21. L.T. was also advised.

. . . [Y]ou may present to the Board such matters as you deem relevant to this proposed expulsion.

You are further advised that you may be represented by an attorney at this hearing. Failure to attend shall permit the Board to act upon the recommendation for expulsion without further notice. You will be given the opportunity to present your defense or written affidavits of witnesses in your behalf.

Additionally, you may request in advance of the hearing the names of witnesses whose testimony will be presented to the Board in support of the recommendation for expulsion. If you so request, you will be given an opportunity to cross-examine these witnesses at the time of the hearing.

(J-5)

In response to the question "what started the fight between these two pupils? [Tr. 91]," principal Crotty responded as follows:

I think that D.T. intimidated the other boy to the point where there was words exchanged and they squared off. I personally, I think that there was another incident where I thought D.T. went too far with another student he hit in the school . . . [b]ut I think that there was not a visible incident that provoked it, other than the fact that the one student would not even attend the cafeteria, took a pass every day from a teacher so he could avoid the cafeteria, and finally on this day, that teacher was absent, he was down at the cafeteria, and he was hit.

(Tr. 92)

Principal Crotty acknowledges he has no evidence to show who actually started the fight by words or actions - only his personal opinion based on what others personally told him none of whom actually witnessed what had occurred but all of whom told him what was said to them.

According to a "Hearing Report Form" (J-7) for which no witness was called who could identify the purpose of the document or the use to which it was put, if any, on February 21, or indeed if the form was used at all, it does suggest that the Board panel which conducted the hearing on February 21, 1995 consisted of four of the nine members.

The form consists of a section for student identification which in this instance identified D.T., followed by a section for the student's classification, if any, which in this case reports that D.T. is not classified, followed by a section for additional information regarding the matter requiring Board attention. In this case, additional information contained within this form states as follows:

[D.T.] is a sophomore at the Long Branch High School. During his two years at the High School, [D.] has been suspended from school on two occasions. He has received in-school suspension, Saturday detention and central detention a total of 6 occasions.

Of the out-of-school suspensions, both incidents involved physical altercations with either fellow students or a teacher.

On January 18, 1995, [D.T.] and another student were involved in a fight in the High School cafeteria. Mr. Walter Propert, teacher on lunchroom duty, attempted to break up the fight. Mr. Propert was punched in the mouth and over his right eye.

[D.T.] admitted to the members of the Board Hearing panel that he did in fact punch Mr. Propert. This action by [D.] resulted in a recommendation for expulsion by the Hearing Panel.

(J-7)

The remaining sections identify the date of what is referred to as the Board Committee Hearing, which is reported as February 21, 1995, 6:00 p.m.; a section identifying those who were present and on this form it is reported that only the following persons were present: The superintendent, regular Board counsel, four Board members, principal Crotty, assistant principal DiRienzo, a learning disability teacher-consultant, and L.T. and D.T. Subsections two and three which reports others in attendance are blank. However, principal Crotty specifically testified that teacher Propert was present at this Board Panel hearing. (Tr. 90) There then follows a section for the Board panel recommendation to the full Board which, in this case, is reported as "Board members recommended expulsion-this will be the Committee's recommendation to the whole Board at the next Board of Education meeting." (Id.)

The remaining sections included space for a date the panel or committee, whichever it is called, would make a presentation of ostensibly its findings based on evidence received at the "panel hearing" is blank; and space for identifying the action taken by the full Board which is blank; and, space for the date of full Board action which is blank. It is also important to note that those sections of the form which are completed as described in full above are typewritten, without date or the typist's initials, and without any explanation of how, when, where, by whom, or why the form is used.

Minutes of a meeting of the Board conducted March 14, 1995 - approximately 40 school days after D.T. was initially suspended from school on January 19 - show the Board considered the following motion:

Motion was made by Mr. Knox, seconded by Mr. Tricules and carried by roll call vote for the expulsion of "D.T." from the Long Branch High School. Ayes (7), Nays (0), Absent (2) Mr. Owens and Mr. Kaplan.

(J-8, p.3)

The minutes do not reveal any discussion was had among Board members before or after the motion was made regarding what its panel or committee learned at the hearing it conducted

February 21, or what the panel told the full Board. Indeed, there is nothing in this record to disclose that the panel ever filed a report of the hearing it conducted, orally or in writing, with the full Board. There is no evidence to show the manner, means, or mode of how, if at all, the panel communicated with the full Board regarding the February 21 hearing or its recommendation.

Nevertheless, the assistant superintendent notified L.T. in writing on March 15, 1995 that

...
After a painstaking discussion and careful examination of the facts regarding the [Board's] Hearing Panel's recommendation for expulsion of your son [D.T.] from the Long Branch High School, the Board of Education voted to expel your son effective immediately.

During our discussion this morning, I began to outline to you several options for your son's continued education and his ultimate attainment of a high school diploma.

... I encourage you to contact Dr. Kupersmith at the High School Guidance office who will be happy to help you make arrangements to have [D.] enroll and participate in any of the following programs.

[Here follows a recommended list of two specific adult education programs, a general equivalency degree program at a vocational school, another such program at a rehabilitation site, and the Job Corps general equivalency program at Edison.]

(Emphasis added)

Prior to a recitation of the facts as established by the testimony of D.T. and his mother, L.T., it is noted that the Board disavows further obligation to D.T. in regard to his education, either in providing him an educational opportunity in its public schools or in financing any of the "alternatives" mentioned above by the assistant superintendent. It also disavows any obligation to provide him home instruction in any manner.

With respect to the home instruction provided D.T. during his 40 school day suspension before expulsion, and according to the Board's learning disability teacher-consultant, a member of its child study team who was present at the "Principal's Panel Hearing" on February 2, the home instruction provided D.T. during his exclusion from regular school attendance between January 19 and March 14 when the Board determined to expel him from regular enrollment consisted of a total of two hours of mathematics, science, social studies and English on January 26, 1995. On January 27, 1995, the home instructor became ill and was hospitalized. Home instruction for D.T. ceased. Home instruction was provided between February 13 and 21; it ceased on February 21. Principal Crotty testified that while he does not know when home instruction started for D.T., or if it ever did, he is certain that D.T. was not eligible for that service until at least after February 2 - according to "Board policy."

It is also noted that D.T. was evaluated by the Board's Child Study Team between February 2, the date of the Principal's Panel Hearing, and February 10 when an outside psychiatric evaluation was performed. (See, J-12, pp. 1-2) Part of that referenced Exhibit includes a case manager's report which, perhaps coincidentally, is dated February 10 - the very date the psychiatric evaluation (J-12, pp. 20-21) was performed, but which as a written report is not dated. It must also be noted that the case manager is the same learning disability teacher-consultant who attended the Principal's Panel Hearing report states, in part, as follows:

The Child Study Team does not find the student [D.T.] eligible for classification. Furthermore, the CST does not find causality in regard to [D.T.'s] behavior during the incident which led to his recommendation for expulsion . . .

Behaviorally, student [D.T.] displays immature, impulsive behavior and uses poor judgment (sic). However, this does not warrant classification as Emotionally Disturbed. The Child Study Team recommends the student consider counseling to work out any behavioral issues interfering with his functioning as a productive citizen on a daily basis.

(J-12, at p. 6)

Finally, It is noted that the other student who was involved in the fistfight January 18 was suspended for ten days and readmitted to regular school attendance.

D.T. testified he is 15 years of age. His birthday is September 17. He lives with his mother, his father lives in Red Bank which is a Monmouth County community in the area of Long Branch. He denies, even though he was not so charged being a "gang member", and he denies engaging in "beating up people". He says that on January 18 he was on his way to the cafeteria when he overheard J.J., the other student involved in the fistcuffs, talking to someone else that he was having sexual relations with D.T.'s girlfriend. J.J. is supposed to be a "friend" of D.T.'s. According to D.T., his girlfriend told those assembled she was not having sexual relations with J.J. and also said to J.J.: "You're nothing but a virgin!" D.T. testified he did not tease, torment, nor taunt J.J. D.T. says that J.J. swung at him first and that he began to defend himself. D.T. testified that he did not at any time see a teacher attempting to break up the fight which ensued; that when one becomes engaged in a fistfight one does not look at who is nearby. D.T. denies intentionally punching the teacher. D.T. says he, in fact, was no match for J.J. because he lost the fight.; he received a "black-eye".

When D.T. and J.J. were finally separated, D.T. says an aide took him to the office where he was told he had struck a teacher. He was then taken to the assistant principal to whom he gave a written statement of what had occurred, though he did not receive a copy of the statement he gave. Next, D.T. was taken to the principal and was told again he struck a teacher. D.T. says he stated in the presence of the principal, assistant principal and the detectives who were present that he did not know a teacher was present or that he had struck a teacher. As he was being taken to police headquarters by the detectives, D.T. says that that is when the assistant principal telephoned his mother, L.T.

D.T. and the mother attended the Principal's Panel Hearing on February 2. The principal, assistant principals, guidance counselor and the learning disability teacher-consultant who were present, relied upon the prior statements of the asserted witnesses and "others", none of whom were present at the time, and their respective questioning of him during the proceeding. D.T. and his mother were told at the conclusion of this proceeding of the necessary of a child study team evaluation which, with the approval of L.T. began that very day, ostensibly because D.T.'s expulsion was to be sought.

In the meantime, D.T. testified he began receiving home instruction a "few days" before February 2 after which it stopped. He then called the high school and personally arranged for class work be sent him so that he would not fall too far behind in his studies.

Nonetheless, D.T. says he knew he was facing a difficult situation. He explains school officials believed he intentionally struck a teacher, despite the fact he knows he did not do so intentionally. He reasoned that even if he did what people say he did but could show it was not deliberate and if he were to be accepted back into Long Branch High School, he would have a difficult time of trying to live down the stigma of people, particularly teachers, saying he had struck a teacher. Consequently, he and his mother decided that he should withdraw from the Long Branch schools before the Board acted to expel him, live with his father in Red Bank during the regular school year, and enroll in Red Bank Regional High School where he could get a fresh start. (See J-11, pp. 1-2) D.T. withdrew from Long Branch on February 21, 1995 and sometime thereafter attempted to enroll at Red Bank Regional.

D.T. and his mother explained that when Red Bank school officials contacted Long Branch school officials as D.T. and his mother sat in the Red Bank official's office awaiting to complete the transfer, Long Branch advised Red Bank that D.T. was in the midst of an expulsion proceeding. Upon receiving such word, Red Bank advised D.T. and his mother that the school would not enroll him until the expulsion proceeding in Long Branch was completed without regard, it is noted, to whether he was a legal resident of its district. D.T. says he learned at the same time from Red Bank officials of the pending meeting of March 14 when the full Board was to consider his expulsion. He says he was never notified of that meeting by Long Branch school officials.

With respect to whatever charges were filed against him by the Long Branch police all such charges were dismissed following an appearance before the Juvenile Conference Committee on May 1, 1995. D.T. says that at the meeting a Ms. Phillipiano whom he identifies as "someone from the school" testified that she was present when D.T. was told for the first time on January 18 a teacher was present and that he, D.T., struck the teacher. D.T. also testified that Ms. Phillipiano said it was evident by the look on his face upon being told of the presence of the teacher that he was surprised that a teacher was present.

There is no evidence to dispute D.T.'s testimony.

L.T., D.T.'s mother, learned of the fight and accusations against her son by telephone call from assistant principal DiRienzo. He told her of the incident and that D.T. was then being taken to police headquarters in custody. She and two relatives proceeded to headquarters. There, a Detective Castle took a statement from D.T. and advised that he would be charged with assault and that there would probably be an expulsion hearing at school. The following day L.T. went to school and met with DiRienzo who read to her from "two reports" he had regarding the incident the day before. L.T. was also advised D.T. was suspended from school for ten days, after which a Principal's Panel Hearing was to be convened.

On February 21 the day of the Board hearing, she and D.T. decided that he would be better off if he would just go live with his father in Red Bank so he could transfer to Red Bank Regional High School to get a fresh start. However, when L.T. was told on some subsequent but uncertain date by Red Bank officials that the Long Branch Board was to meet in March regarding the expulsion of D.T. and would not be accepted in Red Bank under that condition, D.T. was "re-enrolled" in Long Branch.

There is no evidence to dispute L.T.'s testimony.

It was noted earlier that Board counsel submitted Board policy which addresses pupil suspension and expulsion and due process for pupils. (R-2) He also submitted accompanying administrative regulations intended to implement the policy. The policy states that pupils who indulge in disruptive behavior may be suspended or expelled and provides a nonexhaustive list of disruptive behavior. The policy then warns that any pupil "who commits an assault (as defined by N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1) upon a teacher . . . shall be immediately suspended from school according to the procedural due process, and expulsion proceedings shall be begun no later than 21 calendar days from the date of the pupil's suspension." (Emphasis in original) Any such suspension for assault on a teacher may not, under the Board's own policy, be continued beyond 21 days without Board action. (R-2, p. 2)

The Board's policy governing due process for pupils provides in significant part as follows:

It is the policy of the board of education that in the case of a suspension of ten (10) days or less, the student is entitled to an informal hearing by a school official(s). If the suspension is longer than ten (10) days, the student is entitled to a full hearing within twenty-one days from the start of the suspension . . .

The following procedural guidelines will govern the hearing:

1. Written notice of charges against students shall be supplied to the student and his/her parent . . .
...
4. A record shall be kept of the hearing.
5. The findings and recommendation of the hearing officer (or panel) shall be reduced to writing and sent to the student and his/her parent . . .

(Emphasis added) (R-2, p. 7)

Local administrative regulations governing expulsion recommendations to be made to the Board provide, among other requirements, that when a student is suspended pending a recommendation for expulsion the student is to be placed on home instruction immediately and such instruction shall continue until the Board acts on the recommendation. (R-2, p. 16)

There is a section in the policy which addresses the Board panel hearing which requires, in part, that at the conclusion of this hearing an assistant superintendent will prepare a summary of the hearing and the panel's recommendations for consideration by the full Board. (R-2, p. 18)

DISCUSSION

The evidence shows D.J. was summarily suspended from school on January 18, 1995 by principal Crotty because he “. . . was involved in an extremely violent fight in the cafeteria on January 18th [and] . . . repeatedly struck and injured the teacher who attempted to intervene and separate [D.J.] and the other student” and the teacher “was bitten” by one of the students. (J-1) Crotty’s belief was based on what assistant principal DiRienzo told him he learned from speaking with students and teachers who were to have witnessed the incident. Crotty did not personally speak with the students nor were written statements taken from them. Neither the students nor teachers were identified to D.J. before his suspension nor are they identified in this record, except for the teacher who was the victim. The teacher subsequently reported that one of the two combatants had struck him but without identifying which of the two. When D.J. was taken to the principal’s office following the incident, he was told by the assistant principal, the principal, and the detectives that he had struck a teacher. D.J.’s testimony that he did not know a teacher was present during the fight or that he struck a teacher is unrefuted in this record. The evidence shows that D.J. did not bite the teacher; the other student did.

This initial suspension was for ten days, although the number of days between January 18 and February 1, inclusive, is 15 days. The so-called ten day suspension was extended unilaterally by principal Crotty as the result of a purported Principal’s panel hearing on February 2 which consisted of questioning D.J. This proceeding had no witnesses other than D.J. and his mother who attempted to persuade principal Crotty that he did not know he struck a teacher and to allow him back to school. There is no evidence to show that any of the asserted eyewitnesses appeared before the panel, other than principal Crotty who shared with those in attendance that J.J. was blameless in the confrontation with D.J.. However, J.J. did not appear before the panel to explain to it his role in the fight.

Principal Crotty announced his decision at the very conclusion of the February 2 proceeding, without having discussed what the panel members had learned, that D.J.’s suspension would continue and the recommendation for his expulsion was to be forwarded to the Board. It is noted that the recommendation to the board through an assistant superintendent for expulsion was not made by Crotty until February 8, six days later.

Then seven days later, on February 15, the assistant superintendent forwarded the recommendation to the Board 19 days after D.J. was told his suspension was continued and 32 days after his initial suspension. four members of the nine member Board were appointed to conduct the February 21 hearing, which was 38 days after the initial "10" day suspension. Teacher Propert was to have testified before this four member Board panel. The panel did not file a written report of the hearing with the full Board, nor was the hearing recorded in any manner. consequently, findings reached by the panel cannot be reviewed. Twenty-one days later, on March 14, or 59 days after his initial suspension, the Board by a 7-0 vote adopted a motion to expel D.T. from its public schools. D.T. has received no instruction from the Long Branch Board of Education since February 21, 1995.

ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES

D.J. relies upon G.F. v. Board of Education of Washington Township, 1 N.J.A.R. 55 (1979) that his due process rights were violated because the Board failed to provide him a written notice of charges, a written list of witnesses, a written statement of his right to cross-examine, and a written statement of his right to enter his own defense and his right to legal counsel. He contends that the notices he did receive were all couched in permissive terms and therefore were improper. D.J. notes that the Board panel which heard the matter failed to record the proceeding in any manner and that there is no record of any report being given to the full Board at any time.

D.J. also argues that his due process rights were violated by the Board's violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1 and as had been ruled upon in R.R. v. the Board of Education of the Shore Regional High School, 109 N.J. Super. 337 (Chan. Div. 1970) which requires expulsion proceedings to occur before the local board of education no later than 21 calendar days following the day on which the pupil is suspended. In this case, D.J. says the Board did not act for more than 50 days after his suspension. Finally, but without any evidence in this record to support him, D.J. says the Board had to have violated N.J.S.A. 18A:37-5 by his suspension continuing longer than the second regular meeting of the board. He also fails to fully recite the statute of reference in its pertinent part which modifies the section he quotes by providing "... unless [the suspension] is continued by action of the board ..."

The Board argues that its determination to expel petitioner must be affirmed upon the principle that it must deal swiftly and effectively with pupils who wittingly or unwittingly jeopardize the safety and well-being of a pupil population and school staff and cites H.A. v. Board of Education of Warren Hills Regional School District, 1976 S.L.D. 336, 340. It notes that N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1 authorizes it to act swiftly and absent a showing that due process was denied or that it acted arbitrary or capricious, its actions carry the presumption of correctness and must be affirmed.

The Board contends it did not violate D.J.'s due process rights because he was given a timely hearing under the statute. It says that the Board panel hearing of February 21 was within 21 days of the end of petitioner's initial suspension on February 1 and, moreover, he was then given a principal's panel hearing on February 2. The Board panel hearing, it says, was before the local board as is required and that petitioner has not presented any authority which requires such a hearing to be before the full Board. It is noted the Board has presented no authority to establish that less than a majority of its full membership, or a quorum of the board, may officially act for it in matters which the legislature designates such authority to the local board of education.

The remaining arguments of the Board have been reviewed including D.J. being given notice of his opportunity to secure the names of witnesses "whose testimony will be presented to the Board in support of the recommendation for expulsion", that his withdrawal from Long Branch materially altered the timelines of the expulsion procedure, and that even if a hypertechnical violation of D.J.'s due process rights occurred its determination to expel him should still be affirmed.

ANALYSIS

The statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1, provides that

Any pupil who commits an assault, as defined pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1, upon a teacher . . . acting in the performance of his duties and in a situation where his authority to so act is apparent . . . shall be immediately suspended from school consistent with procedural due process pending expulsion proceeding before the local board of education . . . no later than 21 calendar days following the day on which the pupil is suspended.

The statute requires the expulsion proceeding before the local board of education to be held 21 calendar days following the day the pupil is suspended for the asserted misbehavior. Even if the board panel constitutes an “expulsion proceeding before the local board of education”, which in the circumstances of this case is doubtful, the hearing date of February 21 is 34 days following the day on which D.J. was suspended. No justification for the delay has been offered by the Board. Moreover, the Board as a whole did not act on the matter until March 14, 21 days after its panel hearing. When the full Board did act it did so without benefit of a transcript of its panel’s hearing or of a written report from the panel.

The Commissioner of Education has held in regard to a pupil suspension matter that a local board may “. . . of necessity delegate some procedural matters to a committee or to school administrators for the purpose of determining facts and developing recommendations . . .” as has occurred in this case. E.H. v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, 1972 S.L.D. 475, 478. However, he also pointed out that following a hearing on an expulsion matter by less than a majority “the Board as a whole must receive and consider either the transcript or a detailed written report of the hearing, prior to taking any final action against the affected pupil id. (Emphasis added) That did not occur in this case. (See, also Tibbs v. Bd. of Ed. of Township of Franklin, 114 N.J. Super 287 (App. Div. 1971) and cases cited therein.)

The procedural due process requirement of the statute necessary for the Board to withdraw D.J.’s right to a free, public, thorough and efficient program of education requires fundamentally fair procedures to determine whether the misconduct occurred. Goss v. Lopez, 419 US 565, 42 L Ed 2d 725., 95 S Ct 729 (1975). In E.H. v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, supra, the commissioner said:

The record is barren of any evidence that the Board, apart from the two [here it is four] members who conducted the hearing, had any detailed knowledge of petitioner’s testimony or that of the witnesses who testified in petitioner’s behalf or against him. In that vacuum of knowledge, the decision made by vote of the whole Board can only be judged to be arbitrary.

Accordingly, and in consideration of the fact that petitioner has already been suspended from school attendance for a period comprising almost one year, the Commissioner directs that petitioner be readmitted to the same academic program in which he was enrolled at the time of his suspension. This direction is given conditionally and is grounded on the supposition that petitioner will conform to the rules of his school and exhibit acceptable patterns of conduct. If he does not, the Board is free to proceed in the manner discussed, supra, to exercise those powers of suspension or expulsion granted to it by statutory prescription. (at p. 478)

The Board's own policy and guidelines to implement the policy requires (1) that if a suspension is to last for more than ten days the pupil is entitled to a full hearing within 21 days from the start of the suspension, and (2) that a record shall be kept of the hearing. As noted above, neither was done in this case. Consequently, it cannot be said on the evidence in this record that D.J. was granted fundamentally fair procedures by the Board's vote of 7-0 to expel because not all 7 members were present at the hearing and no record was provided the absent members as an alternative.

Accordingly, and in consideration of the fact, D.J. has already missed close to six months of school time, the Long Branch Board of Education is directed to conditionally readmit him to the same academic program in which he was enrolled at the time of his suspension. D.J.'s continued admission in the Long Branch schools is contingent upon his compliance with the rules of the school and acceptable patterns of conduct.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

 BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY : DECISION
 OF LONG BRANCH, MONMOUTH :

 RESPONDENT. :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1 and applicable Board policy, D.T. must be readmitted to school as his expulsion hearing was neither timely scheduled nor conducted in a procedurally correct manner. As set forth in Goss v. Lopez, supra, in order for the Board to withdraw D.T.'s right to a free, public, thorough and efficient program of education, due process requires fundamentally fair procedures to determine whether the alleged misconduct occurred. The Commissioner finds that D.T. was entitled to procedural due process and may not be expelled from school except in accord with statute and local Board policy.

Accordingly, for the reasons well-expressed therein, the Commissioner affirms the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law ordering that D.T. be immediately readmitted to school, contingent on the supposition that D.T. will conform to the rules of his school and exhibit acceptable patterns of conduct.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning school employee alleged she acquired tenure in a clerical position under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(b). She alleged the Board violated her tenure rights when it reduced her audio visual delivery position to half time and terminated her clerical aide position while retaining nontenured individuals in clerical positions. The Board contended petitioner served as an aide and, thus, did not achieve tenure under the cited statute.

ALJ concluded that petitioner acquired tenure in a clerical position and was entitled to preference in filling one of the new clerical positions created by the Board. ALJ determined petitioner met the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(b) as she was employed by the Board continuously for over ten years. Citing Rossi, inter alia, the ALJ found petitioner's job duties were predominantly clerical in nature; her title of media aide (clerical) was inherently ambiguous and equally suggestive of a clerk's duties as of an aide's duties; and the Board never obtained approval of the county superintendent for establishment of a paraprofessional position known as a media aide. Moreover, the ALJ found since the matter involved interpretation of tenure statutes, the dispute fell squarely within the Commissioner's proper jurisdiction. ALJ ordered petitioner restored to a full-time, ten-month clerical position with compensation.

Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that this matter was within his jurisdiction and adopted the initial decision as his own. Commissioner ordered petitioner restored to an appropriate position by virtue of her tenure rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(b).

Record Closed: December 21, 1994

BEFORE: KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal by a school employee who contends that she acquired tenure rights to a "clerical position" under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(b). She alleges that her employer violated her tenure rights by reducing her employment from full to part time for 1993-94. Over a ten-year period, petitioner held a variety of jobs with confusing titles, such as "audiovisual library technician," "media aide (clerical)" and "media aide (delivery/support)." South Orange-Maplewood School District claims that petitioner served as an "aide" and thus did not achieve tenure under the cited statute. Alternatively, the district maintains that petitioner does not possess appropriate qualifications for the full-time positions she seeks and that the Commissioner of Education lacks jurisdiction to decide issues governed by collective negotiations.

Procedural History

On July 27, 1993, petitioner Betsey Roach ("Roach") filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking restoration to a full-time clerical position, together with back pay and lost benefits. Respondent Board of Education of the South Orange-Maplewood School District ("Board") filed an answer of August 30, 1993. Subsequently, on September 1, 1993, the Commissioner forwarded the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case. The OAL held hearings on six days ending on October 26, 1994. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the appendix. Both parties filed post-hearing briefs on December 21, 1994.

Findings of Fact

Many of the background facts are undisputed. I FIND:

Betsey Roach was hired by the South Orange-Maplewood school district in August 1983. Her initial job title was "audiovisual library technician."¹ Roach did not apply for the job, but was "solicited" for the twelve-month position by the school administration. A contemporaneous job description prepared by the district's then personnel director summarizes the responsibilities of "audiovisual library technician" as "manag[ing] district's central audio visual library." No prior experience was necessary. Requirements for this title did not include attainment of a college degree or teaching certificate, but only a high school diploma, "ability and interest in working with people" and "organizational & clerical aptitude." Roach, however, happens to hold a bachelor degree in art history and a county certificate as a substitute teacher. Although Roach lacks formal training in computer science, she displayed a natural talent in handling computers. Mary Sciaino, a librarian in one of the district's elementary schools, described Roach as a computer "whiz" who showed her "a lot of little tricks" on the computer. In an early evaluation, the evaluator noted that Roach also has "a knack for organizing" and commended her for having reorganized the district's extensive media collection. Commenting on the routine nature of her job function, the evaluator stated that "Betsey is capable of a more challenging position."

Roach's duties as audiovisual library technician primarily involved gathering videotapes, films and other instructional materials requested by teachers, delivering these requested items to various school buildings, picking them up after use and performing simple maintenance tasks such as untangling twisted tapes, cleaning cassettes or splicing broken film. Another of her duties was to maintain a listing of materials in circulation and in the archives. Stationed in the Instructional Resource Center at Columbia High School, she was expected to travel to all elementary schools to deliver supplies and equipment. Her former supervisor, Charles Bihler, characterized the job as "a diverse one," which entailed "overseeing of the media library, delivering media to the six elementary schools and assisting with the inventory and maintenance of our large stock of audio visual equipment." Because her arrival in the district coincided with the delivery of new Apple IIE computers, she became actively involved in unpacking them, recording serial numbers and helping to connect the parts. In the evenings she worked at home, keypunching information from the library's card catalogs into the computer's data base. Incidentally, Roach is asserting tenure rights to a clerical rather than a secretarial position. She does not claim to have performed typically secretarial tasks, such as typing letters, opening mail, or answering telephones.²

It is important to distinguish Roach's job as audiovisual library technician from that of a related but different position with a similar title. South Orange Maplewood also employed an "audiovisual repair technician," whose basic responsibility was to maintain and repair electronic devices like VCRs, film projectors and cable television equipment. (Emphasis added.) That particular job requires a more technical background, which Roach admittedly does not possess. Nonetheless, the two types of audiovisual technicians were paid on the same salary scale. One of the underlying themes emerging from the hearing is the belief by some district officials that Roach was grossly overpaid in light of the unskilled nature of her work.³ Of course, the appropriateness of Roach's compensation is essentially a matter for collective negotiations, distinct from the separate legal issue of whether she possesses tenure entitlement to current clerical positions.

²District witnesses made a big point of the fact that Roach refused to answer telephones at the resource center, apparently because she felt it was not properly part of her job duties. Even if true, that factor has little, if any, bearing on whether she served as a clerk or an aide.

³Alfred Ramey, field representative for Roach's bargaining unit, indicated that some audiovisual technicians were actually earning more than teachers.

Roach's title and duties remained virtually unchanged for the first six years, although her involvement with computers intensified as the district's record-keeping operations became increasingly automated. In 1987 Marge Mingin replaced Charles Bihler as director of media services. Soon thereafter, in 1989, the department underwent its first major reorganization. Initially, at least, the number of openings in media services expanded. Effective December 1, 1989, the Board abolished Roach's old title of "audiovisual library technician" and created a new twelve-month position entitled "media aide (clerical)." Qualifications for this new title included "knowledge of and ability to operate automated library circulations systems and computer programs (word processing, spread-sheet, data base)" and a demonstrated "service attitude in contacts with students, faculty and the general public." Duties in the official job description included developing and maintaining "all holdings within the automated library/IRC computer system" and providing "secretarial/clerical support services for all district libraries and [the] Instructional Resource Center."

On January 8, 1990, the Board adopted a resolution appointing Betsey Roach as the "media aide (clerical)." At the same time, the Board created a new part-time position entitled "media aide (delivery/support personnel)" and hired a college student for this lesser job. Basically, the media aide (delivery/support) position would be responsible for many of the menial tasks previously performed by Roach, such as delivering audiovisual materials to the different school, keeping records of all deliveries, and doing minor cleaning and repair work.⁴ As Roach saw it, her old position was "split" and it now took "one-and-a half people to do the work I formerly did as one position." Mingin had told her it would be beneficial to "relieve" her of delivery responsibilities so she could concentrate on more challenging tasks. Insofar as the record reflects, neither of the "media aide" job titles were approved by the county superintendent of schools. Myron Blasi, district personnel director at the time the titles were adopted, has no recollection that the district ever sought approval for these titles, although he acknowledged that such application "would have gone out of my office."

Marge Mingin explained that the purpose for creation of the media aide (clerical) position was to convert the school library's 140,000 holdings from card catalog to computer disk. South Orange-Maplewood school district had switched to MS-DOS computers and had installed commercially-prepared software for tracking library inventory and circulation. Information on new acquisitions could be fed directly into the system, but school librarians wanted to customize the records on the district's existing holdings. There were several methods of accomplishing this "retrospective conversion," including manual entry and the use of a Machine Readable Catalog ("MARC") record system. In the beginning, Roach went to one elementary school library, consulted the card catalogs and shelf cards, and manually keyboarded the information into the data base. Later, she began using more sophisticated electronic techniques as they became available. Utilizing a prepackaged program called "Bibliofile," Roach selected pertinent information from compact disks and edited the information in accordance with Mingin's directions. Once the editing was complete, she visited various elementary and middle schools to "upload" the information into the data base. According to Mingin, Roach knew that media aide (clerical) position was only a temporary or "sunset" position, since all school libraries were scheduled to be fully automated by 1994-95. As the conversion progressed, Roach occasionally joked that she "was working herself out of a job."

⁴Meanwhile, the "audiovisual repair technician" title was also abolished and the duties transferred essentially intact to the new title of "district media technician (senior)".

During the succeeding academic years, the parties submitted several disputes concerning salary and employment terms to negotiated grievance procedures. In or about March 1990, the Board unilaterally reduced Roach's annual salary from $33,300 to $19,000. By an opinion dated September 14, 1990, an arbitrator sustained Roach's grievance and restored her full salary for the remaining three months of the 1989-90 school year. Meanwhile, however, the Board notified Roach that it was reducing her media aide (clerical) position to half time for 1990-91 for "budgetary reasons." Prior to the commencement of the arbitration proceeding, the parties entered into a written settlement on February 27, 1991. Pursuant to this agreement, the two split positions were recombined under separate titles for the remainder of 1990-91.⁵ Roach was reinstated to full-time employment as of March 6, 1991 and the college student serving as media aide (delivery/support) was terminated on sixty-days notice. As a practical matter, Roach never actually made any deliveries during 1990-91 because the college student continued working for two more months. Furthermore, as part of the settlement, the Board promised that if the media aide positions were reduced, "Roach shall have preference to such position that remains, before anyone else is hired for same."

⁵ It should be noted that the media aide (clerical) title was for twelve months, whereas the media aide (delivery/support) title was only for ten months.

Just one month later, in April 1991, the Board voted again to reduce Roach's position from full to half-time as a "media aide clerical" for 1991-92. Her bargaining unit representative promptly objected that the Board's action violated the understanding reached in the recent settlement. For the month of July 1991, Roach worked in this half-time position. Ultimately, in September 1991, the parties entered into another settlement agreement, whereby Roach would remain half-time as "media aide (clerical)" and half-time as "media aide (delivery/support)" for the 1991-92 school year. She continued in this dual role for entire 1992-93 year as well.

South Orange-Maplewood District's media department underwent its second major reorganization in Spring 1993. Ostensibly, the changes were the result of intensive study by community leaders and were designed to adapt the district's curricula to recent technological advances such as fiber optics, closed circuit television, satellite systems and on-line communications. Again the Board acted to reduce Roach's position from full to half time for 1993-94, this time, however, by abolishing the "media aide (clerical)" position and continuing her more menial "media aide (delivery/support)" position. Indeed, Roach was the only employee in the media department who suffered loss of employment due to these modernization plans. While Mingin originally testified that three other positions were "cut" because of budget constraints, it turned out that the Board had merely refused her request to add three new positions. Moreover, the district hired four nontenured persons for new jobs which Roach contends should have first been offered to her. Specifically, Roach is not claiming that she should continue in her media aide (clerical) function, even though the retrospective conversion is nearly finished and the position is no longer necessary. Rather, she asserts that two newly-created positions in the district are "clerical" in nature and, therefore, that she has a tenure right to a full-time position. Dr. Joseph Duchesneau, a human resources consultant who helped the Board negotiate the salary guide, admitted that the two new positions were put on the same pay scale as the former "media clerical" position.

Roach made formal application for one of the two new positions, entitled "library media aide (middle school)." Like Roach's previously-held positions, the new title does not require a college degree or teaching certificate. Instead, the job description calls for "essential knowlege" of MS-DOS and Macintosh operating systems and application programs; the ability to "interact in a positive manner with administrators, staff, students and parents;" and understanding of basic library procedures. Emphasis on the ability to work with others is reminiscent of similar qualifications for Roach's earlier jobs, most notably that an audiovisual library technician had to have "ability and interest in working with people" and a media aide (clerical) must exhibit a "service attitude" in her dealings with people. Although the Board acknowledges that Roach "possesses a high degree of computer knowledge," (respondent's brief, at 32), it nonetheless suggests that Roach lacks knowledge of more modern technologies. But the primary reason given for rejecting Roach's application was that she supposedly has poor interpersonal skills. Mingin described the library media aide as a "front line position" involving direct dealing with teachers and students. While Mingin received several complaints from staff members about Roach's brusqueness, she never took any formal disciplinary action against her. In her only written evaluation of Roach's performance, Mingin wrote encouragingly that "Betsey has made major strides in this [area of interpersonal relations] with patrons; she now needs to focus her efforts with the IRC staff."

A great many of the duties performed by a "library media aide (middle school)" are similar to those for which Roach was responsible in her old job titles, including "enter[ing], maintain[ing] and updat[ing] bibliographic records;" "creat[ing], maintain[ing] and transfer[ing] database files;" "schedul[ing] usage of equipment;" "chang[ing] bulbs and [doing] minor repairs," "distribut[ing] audio-visual software;" "maintain[ing] inventory;" assist[ing] staff with usage of audio-visual equipment;" and "prepar[ing] library collection for automation." Other simple tasks, such as preparing purchase orders, assisting in shelving books and answering the telephone are easily learned without special training. In light of the rapidly changing technology, virtually anyone working in the computer field has to learn new programs and adapt to new ways of doing things..

Without offering the position to Roach, the Board hired Lorraine Croston as library media aide for the Maplewood Middle School and Suzane Metz as library media aide for the South Orange Middle School. Lorraine Croston had been a part-time secretary in the district and also had unspecified experience in private industry. Ironically, Roach had once instructed Croston in the use of the district's computer system when Croston was working as a parent volunteer in one of the elementary schools. Susan Metz had been a substitute secretary in the middle school library. She had no known background in computers, but has "the facility to learn." Neither one was particularly proficient in HyperCard or the other applications which the district plans on using in its libraries

The other new job title to which Roach makes claim is designated "technology instructional aide-elementary school" It too does not require a college degree or any certificate. However, the job requires "comprehensive knowledge of, and experience with, all educational technologies (TV, computer, CD-ROM, electronic mail)" and "expertise in operation, maintenance and repair" of computer and network systems. In addition, an important qualification is "strong interpersonal skills, including patience with novice users." Duties include "[a]ctively working with students and teachers to facilitate technology-integrated classroom assignments" and "[a]ssisting staff and students in set-up, use, safety requirements and care of equipment and materials." Mingin added that the technology instructional aide works "directly with the teacher" in the classroom and acts as "a teacher's aide." Persons hired by the district to fill the position of "technology instructional aide" do not appear to possess greater technical credentials than Roach. Marion Power, assigned as technology instructional aide to Seth Boydon School, was previously a lunch room aide in the district. Gail Martone, assigned to South Mountain School, was a substitute teacher.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that Roach has acquired tenure in a clerical position and is entitled to preference in filling one of the new clerical positions created by the Board.

N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(b) grants tenure to "[a]ny person holding any secretarial or clerical position" in a school district after "expiration of a period of employment of three consecutive calendar years in the district" or "[e]mployment for three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year[.]" Since Roach has been continuously employed by the Board in one capacity or another for over ten years, there can be no doubt that she satisfies the three-year time requirement for tenure. But the Board insists that Roach does not have tenure because she never served "in a clerical position" within the meaning of the statute.

Appellate authority has broadly interpreted the scope of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(b). Rejecting the argument that the words "secretarial" and "clerical" are synonymous, the court held that "the phrase 'clerical position' was intended to extend the statutory protection coverage beyond secretarial employment." Barnes v. Jersey City Bd. of Educ., 85 N.J. Super. 42, 45 (App. Div. 1964). More importantly, the court declared that since tenure statutes are intended to secure efficient public service by protecting public employees in their employment, "the widest range should be given to the applicability of the law." Barnes, at 45.

Generally, the dictionary definition of "clerk" is "one employed (as in a business office) to keep records or accounts or to perform more or less routine office tasks." Websters New International Dictionary 421 (3d ed. 1976). See also, Random House College Dictionary 251 (Rev. ed. 1984), defining "clerk" as "a person employed, as in an office, to keep records, accounts, files, handle correspondence, or the like." Courts too have defined "clerk" in terms of "one employed to keep records or accounts; a scribe; an accountant." State ex rel. City of Cincinnati v. Urner, 147 Ohio St. 305, 70 N.E. 2d 881, 883 (Sup. Ct. 1947). Clerical assistants are usually minor functionaries "acting under the supervision of an official of higher rank or grade." Cf. Sullivan v. McOsker, 84 N.J.L. 380, 382 (E. & A. 1912) (warden selected and appointed by county sheriff).

Some school law decisions in New Jersey draw a distinction between "clerks" who are eligible for tenure and "aides" who are not. Recently, in Berardi v. Orange-Maplewood Sch. Dist., OAL Dkt. EDU 7531-94 (April 11, 1995), adopted, (Comm'r May 30, 1995), the Commissioner of Education ruled that a so-called "clerical aide" in the same South Orange-Maplewood school district is a "clerk" rather than an "aide." Proofs established that a clerical aide's duties included checking student attendance, reporting absences to parents, recording incoming telephone messages, sorting mail, writing detention slips, and doing filing and photocopying for teachers. Considering "the nature of her job duties" and the broad definitional range of clerical duties, the Commissioner determined that Berardi has statutory tenure protection. Berardi, slip op. at 12.

Similarly, in Jacobsen v. Union City Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. EDU 10340-82 (Aug. 1, 1983), adopted, (Comm'r Sept. 16, 1983), aff'd (St. Bd. Feb. 1, 1984), the Commissioner decided that a "library assistant clerk" attained tenure in a clerical position. A library assistant clerk's duties consisted of "typing of cards and records, filing, ordering films, maintaining records of the library collection, typing of records used in the annual report, opening mail, keeping records on the use of the library and book and magazine circulation, and performing, on occasion, clerical duties in the school office." Jacobsen, slip op. at 8. Additional indications that the position is clerical include use of the word "clerk" in the job title, budgeting of her salary on the line item for secretarial and clerical assistants, and the absence of county superintendent approval for an aide position. While the administrative law judge had given dispositive weight to the title designation, the Commissioner examined all of the factors, particularly "whether her duties were basically clerical in nature." Jacobsen, at 14. In so doing, the Commissioner acted consistently with the well-established principle that actual duties rather than title are controlling and that substance should prevail over form. See Quinlan v. North Bergen Twp. Bd. of Educ., 73 N.J. Super. 40, 49-50 (App. Div. 1962). Accord, Veimeister v. Prospect Park Bd. of Educ., 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949); Beaute v. North Arlington Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. EDU 0295-80 (July 28, 1981), adopted, (Comm'r Sept. 14, 1981), aff'd (St. Bd. Feb. 3, 1982).

In one unreported decision, the Commissioner found that a "learning resource center aide" was properly categorized as an "aide" position and, thus, ineligible for tenure. Rossi v. Willingboro Twp. Bd. of Educ., Agency Dkt. 294-8/78 (Sept. 24, 1980), adopted (Comm'r Nov. 7, 1990), aff'd (Aug. 5, 1981). Every one of Rossi's duties involved assisting others in tasks that were largely clerical, such as processing books, supplies and materials, preparing student displays and supplementary instructional information, checking out and retrieving library materials, performing housekeeping chores, and cataloging and taking care of audiovisual materials in the resource center. Significantly, the county superintendent had approved the title as an aide position. N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.6 mandates that:

School aides and/or classroom aides, assisting in the supervision of pupil activities under the direction of a principal, teacher or other designated certified professional personnel, shall be approved by the county superintendent of schools.

Accordingly, the Commissioner determined that a "learning resource center aide" is a paraprofessional who assists the librarian and teaching staff, much like a classroom aide helps certified teachers or a nurse's aide helps a licensed school nurse. As the name implies, an aide's primary function is to aid professionals by relieving them of easy or repetitive tasks which do not require extensive training and expertise.

Applied to the present situation, the case law strongly supports the conclusion that Roach served "in a clerical position." First and foremost, her duties, especially delivering audiovisual materials to and from school buildings, doing maintenance work and simple repairs, keeping inventory, cataloging the district's holdings and inputting data into the new computer system, were predominantly clerical in nature. That alone justifies treatment of her position as clerical. Certainly, her job responsibilities fell within the "wide range" of tenure protection envisioned by the Appellate Division in Barnes. Second, her title "media aide (clerical)" was inherently ambiguous and equally suggestive of a clerk's duties as of an aide's duties. Unlike Rossi, this is not a case in which the school board had "unfailingly categorize[d] her as an aide." (slip op. at 5). Her title is more reminiscent of the "clerical aide" title in Berardi, which the Commissioner regarded as a clerical position. Third, as far as the record reflects, the Board never obtained approval of the county superintendent for establishment of a paraprofessional position known as "media aide." Notwithstanding that Roach worked under the supervision of someone else (like everyone else in the district, other than the chief school administrator who reports directly to the Board), she had her own unique duties to perform and did not merely assist others in performing their professional responsibilities. Consequently, she was not an "aide" in the sense that term is used in N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.6.

It is readily apparent from the record that the Board manipulated Roach's job title and assignments in an attempt to divest her of tenure protection. Many of the duties of the new "library media aide" are Roach's old duties carried over under a different name and most of the rest are a natural extension of work she previously performed in her clerical position. To a lesser degree, the same may be said of the new "technology instructional aide" position as well, although it also has elements characteristic of a classroom aide's position.⁶ Roach has at least as much technical knowledge and experience with computers as any of her successors. If the Board had legitimate concerns about Roach's interpersonal skills (which were as much a requirement of her prior positions as the newly-created ones), then it should have brought formal disciplinary charges against her, rather than trying to circumvent her tenure rights by redefining her job title.

Finally, the Board challenges the Commissioner's subject matter jurisdiction, arguing that secretarial and clerical employees, even those with tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(b), do not enjoy the seniority protection available to certified teaching staff members, except insofar as conferred under a collective negotiating agreement. Here, however, Roach's rights arise not by virtue of seniority, but because the Board has hired nontenured employees to do clerical work for which she possesses the necessary skills and qualifications. Succintly stated, an employee with statutory tenure is entitled to retention as against a nontenured employee. Capodilupo v. West Orange Twp. Bd. of Educ., 218 N.J. Super 510 (App. Div. 1987). Seniority provides a mechanism for ranking job rights among tenured teaching staff members, but does not create comparable rights for nontenured employees. Bednar v. Westwood Bd. of Educ., 221 N.J. Super. 239 (App. Div. 1987). See also Sheridan v. Ridgefield Park Bd. of Educ., 1976 S.L.D. 995 (Comm'r Dec. 17, 1976), holding that, despite the absence of applicable seniority standards, a tenured secretary has a greater right to a secretarial position than a non-tenured secretary. Since the matter involves interpretation of the tenure statutes, the present dispute falls squarely within the Commissioner's proper jurisdiction. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

BETSEY ROACH, :
 PETITIONER, :
 V. : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
 BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN- : DECISION
 SHIP OF SOUTH ORANGE-MAPLEWOOD, ESSEX COUNTY, :
 RESPONDENT. :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The Board’s exceptions were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8. However, petitioner’s reply exceptions were untimely, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(d) and, consequently, were not considered.

The Board’s exceptions initially assert that the finding that petitioner held a clerical position, subject to tenure, rather than an aide’s position, ignores critical facts and applicable case law. Specifically, the Board contends that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) disregarded critical aspects of the Commissioner’s determination in Rossi, supra. There, “[t]he Commissioner acknowledged that some of the duties of Petitioner Rossi were clearly clerical and some clearly were not clerical, and concluded that even if clerical duties predominate, the position was not necessarily a clerical one.” (Board’s Exceptions at p. 3) The Board maintains that the evidence presented at the within hearing established that the nature of the duties in question in Rossi “were even more typically clerical in nature than Petitioner Roach's herein." (Id.) Yet, in Rossi, petitioner was found to hold an aide's position. Moreover, the Board attests that the ALJ dilutes the significance of the job title by disregarding "the import of the Commissioner's acknowledgment in Rossi that the petitioner therein had been clearly identified as an 'LRC Aide' in board of education minutes thus making it clear what her position was at all times." (Id.) The Board affirms that, in the instant matter, petitioner's "clerical and delivery jobs have been consistently identified as 'aide' positions." (Id.)

The Board further cites Cummins v. Board of Education of the Township of North Bergen, 1975 S.L.D. 271, 272-273 (1975) and Beute v. Board of Education of the Borough of North Arlington, Commissioner's Decision No. 395-81 (September 14, 1981), aff'd State Board (February 3, 1982) (unreported), to argue that the ALJ "has improperly extended the recognition of 'clerical' beyond even what is concluded in the more expansive definitions recognized in Commissioner's Decisions throughout the years." (Board's Exceptions at p. 4) In the instant matter, the Board attests that the evidence adduced at the hearing confirmed that petitioner actually refused to perform many of the "clerical" duties recognized by the Commissioner in prior decisions.

The Board additionally argues that the ALJ has crossed the jurisdictional line between the Commissioner of Education and the Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC) in that the within matter is not properly subject to review by the Commissioner of Education. The Board asserts that, to the extent the ALJ permitted testimony concerning previous arbitrations between the parties, such testimony "*constituted an attempt to obfuscate the issues in the pending matter concerning only Petitioner's entitlement, if any, to the protections of tenure." (Id. at p. 6) Further, the Board alleges that petitioner's claim of entitlement to the new positions of Library Media Aide (Middle Schools) and Technology Instructional Aide (Elementary Schools) represents a misplaced reliance upon a provision in her February 27, 1991 settlement agreement which granted petitioner, in the event that the Media Aide positions were to be reduced, a “preference to such position that remains.” (Id.) However, the Board maintains that this provision concerned only the then existing positions of Media Aide (Clerical) and Media Aide (Delivery/Support), and not any subsequent positions involving media-related duties. Nor, the Board continues, does this settlement agreement create an entitlement which can be litigated before the Commissioner of Education; rather, “[p]etitioner was obligated to pursue this issue before PERC.” (Id.)

Finally, the Board argues that, were the Commissioner to conclude that petitioner is entitled to the protection of tenure based on her past employment with the District, such protection cannot properly extend to the Library Media Aide (Middle Schools) and Technology Instructional Aide (Elementary Schools), since these positions “differ vastly from those previously held by Petitioner.” (Board’s Exceptions at p. 7) The Board argues that case law establishes that a person possessing clerical tenure is entitled only to positions for which she is qualified, and petitioner is not qualified for these positions. The Board, therefore, urges that the ALJ erred in concluding that the two new positions include many of the duties petitioner previously performed. Instead, the Board asserts that the testimony adduced at the within hearing establishes that the two new “positions were wholly distinguishable” from those previously held by petitioner, and petitioner does not possess the essential qualifications for the new positions. Specifically, the Board maintains that petitioner does not possess the requisite interpersonal skills with staff and students, a qualification which the initial decision minimized, notwithstanding the unrefuted testimony “that Petitioner was counseled on numerous occasions concerning her inability to interact with persons.” (Id. at pp. 7, 8)

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ’s conclusion that, under the particular circumstances herein, “[petitioner’s] job responsibilities fell within the ‘wide range’ of tenure protection envisioned by the Appellate Division in Barnes” (Initial Decision at p. 11), and that, therefore, she is entitled to preference in filling one of the new clerical positions created by the Board. (Id. at p. 8) In so concluding, the Commissioner finds that, notwithstanding the Board’s assertions, Rossi, supra, is not determinative in this matter. Rather, Petitioner Rossi’s job responsibilities, as noted by the ALJ, involved assisting others in performing tasks¹, functions which are attributed to school or classroom aides, as per N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.6. (Initial Decision at p. 10) Further, as the ALJ indicates and the Board does not dispute, the record reflects that neither the Media Aide (Clerical) position nor the Media Aide (Delivery) position was approved by the County Superintendent pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.6(c), which requires a district to submit for approval the job description, duties and qualifications for each school aide or classroom aide to be employed.

Moreover, while the ALJ in Rossi, supra, found that supporting documentation clearly identified petitioner therein as an LRC Aide, and, “[i]t is clear what petitioner’s position at all times was,” Rossi at p. 7, the ALJ herein properly finds that petitioner’s title as Media Aide

¹ Rossi’s job responsibilities as LRC aide were as follows: “1. To assist with processing books, supplies, materials, magazines, journals, newspapers in the Resource Center. 2. To assist with preparation of displays to motivate student interest and to provide supplementary instructional information. 3. To assist in checking out and retrieving of materials. 4. To assist instructional staff with preparation of special bibliographies and reading lists. 5. To care for the housekeeping duties of the Resource Center. 6. To assist with roll taking. 7. To assist with general typing. 8. To assist with collecting and filing of free materials. 9. To assist with cataloguing and care of audio visual materials in the Resource Center. 10. To assist pupils with locating books and materials applicable to their individual needs.” Rossi v. Board of Education of the Township of Willingboro, Agency Dkt. No. 294-8/78 (September 24, 1980), adopted (Commissioner November 7, 1980), aff’d (August 5, 1981) (slip op. at p. 6)

(clerical) was “inherently ambiguous and equally suggestive of a clerk’s duties as of an aide’s duties. Unlike Rossi, this is not a case in which the school board had ‘unfailingly categorize[d]’ her as an aide.” (Initial Decision at p. 11)² The Commissioner recognizes that “[t]he duties performed, rather than the title of the position” are controlling and “we should look to substance rather than form.” (Beute, supra, at p. 14)

Finally, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that, inasmuch as this matter involves the interpretation of tenure statutes, it is within his jurisdiction.

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law and orders that petitioner be restored to an appropriate position by virtue of her tenure rights under N.J.S.A. 18A: 17-2(b).

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

² Here, the Commissioner notes that the Board’s own submissions characterize petitioner’s jobs as “clerical and delivery jobs” which carried the title “aide.” (Board’s Exceptions at p. 3)

Record Closed: September 19, 1995

Decided: September 19, 1995

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

Ulysses Green filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education, alleging violations of various provisions of the education laws by the Board of Education of the Township of Union (respondent) and requesting relief which included reinstatement to the position of JROTC instructor, back pay, emoluments, attorney's fees and damages. A portion of the petition is based upon a request for reimbursement of attorney's fees and other costs and expenses related to the defense of criminal charges pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on February 22, 1994 for determination as a contested case.

Ulysses Green and Eleanor Green filed a related complaint and an amended complaint in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Law Division, Union County, bearing Civil Action No. UNN-L-007448-93 (the "lawsuit"). The lawsuit makes claims against various defendants including the respondent in this proceeding.

Prior to hearing, the parties agreed to a settlement which resolves both this administrative proceeding and the lawsuit in Superior Court. The parties have submitted settlement papers which include a stipulation of dismissal with prejudice, correspondence dated September 3, 1995 from petitioner's attorney, a release and a confidential settlement agreement. Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.
2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the parties comply with the settlement terms, and it is FURTHER ORDERED that the proceedings in this matter be concluded.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Dear Mr. Dorry:

Thank you for your letter dated August 31, 1995. I have discussed the matter with my clients. As a result, please be advised that plaintiffs agree to redact paragraphs 22 and 23 from the Confidential Settlement Agreement. Notwithstanding the redaction, however, both you and Mr. Levy indicated that payment of the settlement proceeds would be expedited. Accordingly, be advised that I will seek Court intervention immediately if I do not receive the proceeds within ten (10) days from the date of this letter.

Further, although paragraph 23 is also redacted, we agreed that the net settlement payment will be $25,000.00, and that neither party would treat the settlement as wages.

That concludes the matter. Since a substantial period of time has passed since the parties settled, please make payment of the settlement proceeds immediately.

Very truly yours,

Record Closed: July 24, 1995

Decided: August 11, 1995

BEFORE SOLOMON A. METZGER, ALJ:

This matter arises out of respondent's decision to expel K.Q. Petitioners requested a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The case was submitted on the record created before respondent and the OAL record closed on July 24, 1995, with receipt of legal memoranda.

The facts are undisputed. On Friday, November 18, 1994, at approximately 7:35 a.m., Jennifer A. Spieker, a vice-principal at respondent's high school, received a complaint from a student who said that he had seen K.Q. with a gun. She contacted Richard Schneebeli, another vice-principal, and a Mrs. Charles and within a few minutes they went to K.Q.'s classroom and brought him out. They searched his locker and found no gun. They did find three facsimile Chinese stars in his bookbag. These were sharp sheet-metal copies of the types of weapons popularized in kung fu movies. K.Q. explained that he had been pushed in the hallway a few times by T., a sophomore, and the Chinese stars were for protection. He had not sought the assistance of any school personnel about this problem, and had only revealed his dilemma to his parents a day or two earlier; his father had planned to call the school that day. When the administrators asked K.Q. if he had any knowledge concerning a gun at school that morning, he offered that W.M., another student, had a gun.

A BB gun was found in W.M.'s bookbag inside a folded brown grocery bag. When W.M. was asked where he had gotten the gun, he stated that he had received it from J.H., another student, on the school bus and was planning to use it in his backyard for target practice. He said that he had asked K.Q. to go to the front of the bus, get the bag from J.H. and give it to him. J.H. owned the gun and he, W.M., was to use it. The police were called and they determined that the gun was loaded and cocked with the safety on.

K.Q.'s teachers testified that they had no previous difficulty with him and that he appeared to be an average student.

J.H. testified that W.M. had pestered him for a week about the BB gun and although he was reluctant to lend it to him, he finally relented; he wrapped it in a brown shopping bag so no one would see it. J.H. sits toward the front of the bus and K.Q. and W.M. sit toward the back. J.H. handed the bag to K.Q. for delivery to W.M. He did not tell K.Q. what was in the bag and does not think that K.Q. asked. He did not load the gun, although it may have been loaded, and he did not cock it. He does not know what happened after he handed the bag to K.Q.

W.M. testified that he gets on the bus before K.Q. and on November 18, 1994, he sat near the window. When K.Q. got on the bus he sat in the aisle seat next to him. After J.H. boarded the bus and sat down about three seats in front of them, W.M. asked K.Q. to get a bag for him from J.H. K.Q. did so, returned and gave the bag to W.M. without looking inside. W.M. testified that he had not disclosed the contents of the bag to K.Q. in advance. Once W.M. accepted the bag he opened it, and at that point K.Q. did see the gun. He had on a previous occasion told K.Q. that he had urged J.H. to lend him the BB gun. The gun was loaded when he got it and he cocked it on the bus to get it ready for use later in the day when he went home. He and K.Q. are friends.

W.Q. testified that his son K.Q. had been a good student in middle school, was the most valuable player on his eighth-grade baseball team and has never been in any trouble. During the summer of 1994 K.Q. used scissors to cut Chinese stars out of sheet metal that was in their attic, and he flung the stars at cardboard boxes in the backyard until he became bored with them and stopped. W.Q. testified that he learned the day before this incident that K.Q. was being bothered by T., who had also harassed him in middle school. He was planning to call the school the day of the incident. K.Q. thought that if he simply brandished the Chinese stars in front of T., he would back off. K.Q. was a kung fu movie enthusiast. W.Q. testified that real Chinese stars are sharper and heavier than the facsimiles that his son produced; they did not fly very well.

C.Q. is K.Q.'s mother. She testified that if K.Q. is expelled from respondent's school, he will attend Sandhill School. There are ten students in the school and there is no normal school environment academically or socially. K.Q. has never been out of the mainstream and is not a classified student. Her son has already served a five-day suspension and was sentenced in juvenile court to counseling and community service.

K.Q. testified that W.M. asked him to get a bag from J.H., who was sitting a few seats in front of them on the school bus, and he did not know that there was a gun in the bag. W.M. had previously mentioned that he was going to borrow a BB gun from J.H., but he did not pay much attention to this and he has never used a BB gun himself. When W.M. showed him the gun, he was "appalled" and told W.M. to put it away. He said nothing to the authorities, but just went directly to his first class from the bus. K.Q. testified that he did not construct the Chinese stars as weapons, they were just for playing around. He brought them to school to unnerve T., in case he bothered him again. T. has since been spoken to by a school counselor and the problem has been resolved. K.Q. testified that he plans to go to college and study computer programming. He and W.M. had no intention of using the gun and Chinese stars together to scare or confront T. This is the substance of the record.

Respondent's decision to expel K.Q. carries with it a presumption of validity and petitioners must show that this response was arbitrary and capricious. Thomas v. Board of Educ. of Morris Tp., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965); Kopera v. West Orange Board of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960). This has been done. The proofs reveal that K.Q. transferred a brown paper bag from J.H. to W.M. on the school bus. K.Q. denies any knowledge of the bag's content at the time of the transfer and both J.H. and W.M. corroborate this story. They have little interest in supporting K.Q.; to the contrary, his culpability might have served to diminish their entanglement. Moreover, W.M. told the same story when first confronted by school authorities, before there was any opportunity for contrivance. Thus, it appears that K.Q.'s only failure here was his decision to go on to class without reporting what he had seen.

The Chinese stars are another matter. They may not have been of high quality as weapons, but they were sharp metal objects and could have done harm in the circumstance under which K.Q. planned to use them. Their presence in school was a clear violation of policy (see Policy 5114, attached to both briefs).

The record contains no fact-finding by respondent and it is not entirely clear how it reached its expulsion decision. Counsel argues that it is no coincidence that the BB gun and the Chinese stars were in school on the same day and that respondent could have inferred that K.Q. and W.M. were planning to confront T. with these weapons. It is for this reason that W.M. cocked the gun on the school bus even though he was not going home for target practice until the end of the school day. The only support for this theory in the record is that the BB gun and the Chinese stars were brought to school on the same day. Otherwise, no witness testified to this and the only reference to it came in a question from respondent's attorney to K.Q., who denied it. Thus, even if respondent were thinking along these lines, the record does not reasonably permit the coupling of these events. J.H. testified that W.M. had been asking him all week for the BB gun; it happens that he brought it in on this day.

Expulsion is the most serious punishment available to respondent and should be reserved for grave violations of school policy. The briefs reveal that W.M. was expelled and that J.H., apparently a classified student, received a five-day suspension. W.M.'s punishment seems appropriate; I cannot comment on J.H.'s discipline as I do not know how his handicap may have been factored into respondent's evaluation. K.Q. has no prior history of difficulty with school authorities, either in high school or in middle school. He appears to be an average student with aspirations toward higher education. To place him in a school that his mother describes, without contradiction, as educational purgatory could deleteriously effect his future plans. From this record, it appears that K.Q. acted immaturely, first by failing to inform his parents and school authorities timely that he was being harassed and then by attempting to redress the problem with his Chinese stars. His response is not, however, all that irregular for a fourteen-year-old boy. From this record the matter is no more sinister than this, and expulsion would be a disproportionate remedy. Moreover, K.Q. has already been suspended for five days in connection with this incident and has been through juvenile court, which imposed a sanction of counseling and community service.

Based on the foregoing, it is ORDERED that K.Q. be suspended for an additional ten school days.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. IN THE MATTER OF THE

HELD IN THE SCHOOL DISTRICT

Thomas E. Monahan, Esq., for respondent Board of Education of Toms River Regional High School District (Gilmore & Monahan, attorneys)

Dina R. Khajezadeh, Esq., for respondent-intervenor Ocean County Clerk (John C. Sahradnik, Assistant County Counsel, attorney)

Record Closed: September 20, 1995

Decided: October 3, 1995

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

Pursuant to the written request of defeated candidate Michael J. Hrehovcik in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12, the Commissioner of Education determined to conduct an inquiry into the annual school election held on April 18, 1995 in the Toms River Regional High School District.

On May 10, 1995, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A hearing was scheduled for July 12, 1995 at the Trenton office of the Office of Administrative Law. That date was adjourned, however, and the matter was rescheduled for August 8, 1995 because of petitioner's failure to provide answers to interrogatories and because the Ocean County Clerk had expressed an interest in intervening as a party respondent to address the question of the Commissioner's jurisdiction over absentee ballots. By letter order entered July 5, 1995, the unopposed application of the Ocean County Clerk for leave to intervene as a party respondent was granted. Thereafter, all parties submitted letter memoranda concerning the issue of the Commissioner's jurisdiction over absentee ballots. By order entered August 7, 1995, copy attached, the undersigned dismissed any allegations in the matter which relate to those who voted only by absentee ballot for the reasons expressed in the letter memoranda of the Toms River Regional High School District and the Ocean County Clerk, copies of which are attached hereto and made a part hereof as if set forth herein at length. The August 8, 1995 hearing date was adjourned and petitioner was directed to put in writing and forward to opposing counsel and to the undersigned administrative law judge a summary setting forth each and every fact he intended to rely upon to establish that violations occurred which affected the outcome of the election. The order also directed petitioner, if he still desired answers to interrogatories from the Toms River Regional High School district, to write out specific questions and send them to counsel with a copy to the undersigned.

Having heard nothing further from petitioner, on September 8, 1995 the undersigned wrote to him as follows:

To date I have received nothing from you in response to my August 7, 1995 letter order. Please have whatever you wish for me to consider on my desk by 5 p.m. on September 20, 1995. If I receive nothing from you, I will conclude that you are no longer interested in pursuing this matter, and I will dismiss the case for lack of prosecution.

Nothing was received from petitioner by the deadline specified in the letter, 5 p.m. on September 20, 1995. On September 26, 1995, at 4:37 p.m., petitioner transmitted to the undersigned by facsimile a copy of a letter addressed to opposing counsel, Thomas E. Monahan, Esquire, dated September 21, 1995, reciting in pertinent:

In accordance with the August 7, 1995 letter order of Judge Duncan, following is a summary of the facts upon which I will rely to establish violations which effected (sic) the election outcome. . . .

Petitioner's letter then sets forth ten enumerated paragraphs containing factual assertions upon which he intended to rely and the letter closes, "By separate letter, I will forward you my interrogatories".

Based upon all of the foregoing, I am hereby dismissing this matter for lack of prosecution by petitioner, Michael J. Hrehovcik. Mr. Hrehovcik ignored the deadline set forth in my September 8, 1995 letter. Furthermore, even if I had not sent that letter establishing the outside deadline, his failure to provide the information until September 26, 1995 or to promulgate interrogatories clearly indicates a lack of due diligence on his part. This is an election matter; the transmittal from the Commissioner of Education to the Office of Administrative Law, dated May 10, 1995, included a specific request for priority scheduling. That request was honored when I scheduled the matter for hearing on July 12, 1995. Because of petitioner's failure to supply responsive answers to interrogatories to counsel for the Board of Education, the hearing date had to be adjourned on two separate occasions. Petitioner's April 20, 1995 letter to the Commissioner requesting this hearing sets forth complaints related almost exclusively to absentee ballots. That letter provided:

As a defeated candidate for a seat on the Toms River Regional School Board, I have reason to believe due to the unprecedented number of absentee ballots (905) and the fact that the tally of these ballots (Baxter 798; Hrehovcik 107) did not follow the trend of the general election (Hrehovcik 2,810; Baxter 2, 478) but were in direct contradiction to that of the voting machines, a pattern of election abuse may have existed in the recent school board election. Therefore, I am contesting the election, asking for a recount and requesting verification of the absentee ballots. I also request that you initiate an investigation concerning the dissemination, preparation, potential duplication, and other misuse of these absentee ballots. I am requesting a recount because there was no way poll workers were able to check whether those who voted by absentee ballots also voted at the polls.

I have proof of several questionable election practices and incidents that will justify these claims and would further request a meeting with you to discuss these improprieties.

This letter is being sent to you today to comply with the law which states that all requests must be sent to your office within five days of the election and a check for $34 is enclosed to fulfill the requirement of 18A:14-63.6. If there is anything further required to perfect my request, please let me know immediately.

Your expedient reply is appreciated.

After I advised all parties during a telephone conference call on August 4, 1995 of my determination that issues concerning absentee ballots were within the jurisdiction of the Superior Court and the Ocean County Clerk, I directed petitioner (and confirmed this directive in writing on August 7, 1995) to set forth any facts which were not related to absentee ballots and upon which he would rely if a hearing were to be held in the within matter. The purpose of this directive was to determine whether there were any other remaining issues over which the Commissioner did have jurisdiction. Petitioner did not comply with my directive nor communicate with me in any way until September 26, 1995. Election matters require prompt closure so that school boards may proceed with the business statutorily delegated to them with reasonable assurance that the board members voting on such actions are those duly elected by the voters. In these type matters case law has made abundantly clear that any irregularities or violations established must be the producing cause of a result which otherwise would not have occurred.

The rule in our State is firmly established that if any irregularity or any other deviation from the election law by the election officials is to be adjudged to have the effect of invalidating a vote or an election, where the statute does not so expressly provide, there must be a connection between such irregularity and the result of the election; that is, the irregularity must be the producing cause of illegal votes which would not have been cast or of defeating legal votes which would have been counted, had the irregularity not taken place, and to an extent to challenge or change the result of the election; or it must be shown that the irregularity in some other way influenced the election so as to have repressed a full and free expression of the popular will . . . In re Wene, 26 N.J. Super. 363, 383 (Law Div. 1953), aff'd sub nom. Wene v. Meyner, 13 N.J. 185 (1953)

The burden of establishing, with a reasonable degree of certainty, that violations have altered the election outcome which otherwise would have resulted is upon petitioner. In re Application of Moffat, 142 N. J. Super. 217, 224 (App. Div. 1976), certif. den. sub nom. Princeton Twp. v. Bleiman, 71 N.J. 527 (1976).

Even if I were to consider petitioner's untimely September 26, 1995 submission to me, which I specifically herein decline to do, it is impossible to see how any of the irregularities cited by petitioner, even if they in fact occurred, could have affected the election outcome. Furthermore, it does not appear that petitioner took any action to correct or arrest or redress the violations or violators at the time of the alleged occurrences; without specific evidence that 360 people would have voted differently but for the cited irregularities, petitioner's litany of complaints to the Commissioner after the fact may not be utilized to overturn the election simply because he does not like the results. Petitioner is not without a remedy to address any alleged wrongful conduct of the winning candidate or others; forums exist in both the civil and criminal courts to hear such grievances. The purpose of ordering a new election is not to punish successful wrongdoers; only where it is reasonably certain that election results do not express the will of the people will a new election be ordered. Even if all the facts set forth in petitioner's ten enumerated paragraphs could be established by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence, he would not be able to establish the necessary prerequisites for ordering a new election.

For the reasons set forth above, the within matter is hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

LETTER ORDER

Dear Mr. Hrehovcik and Counsel:

As I indicated during our telephone conference call on August 4, 1995, I have reviewed your respective letter memoranda concerning the Commissioner's jurisdiction over issues related to absentee ballots and I have concluded that the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction over such issues. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that any allegations in the matter which relate to those who voted only by absentee ballot are hereby DISMISSED.

This will further confirm that I have adjourned the August 8, 1995 hearing date in this matter, and I have directed Mr. Hrehovcik to put in writing and forward to Mr. Monahan and to me a summary setting forth each and every fact he will rely upon to establish that violations occurred which affected the outcome of the election; this summary must include names, dates, and specifically described acts of wrongdoing. I will then review the summary to determine whether any issues remain in this case which require a plenary hearing, and will schedule another date, only if necessary. Finally, if Mr. Hrehovcik still desires answers to interrogatories from Mr. Monahan's client, he should write out specific questions and send them to Mr. Monahan, with a copy to me. I will then schedule a conference call to advise you which, if any, of the questions must be answered. If your understanding from our conference call differs in any respect from the foregoing, please advise immediately.

August 7, 1995

This order may be reviewed by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION either upon interlocutory review, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10, or at the end of the contested case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6.

RE: In the Matter of the Annual School Election
Held in the School District of Toms River
Regional High School, Ocean County
OAL Docket No. EDU 4708-95
Agency Docket No. 105-4/95

Dear Judge Duncan:

The issue has arisen as to the Commissioner of Education's jurisdiction over absentee ballots. Please accept this letter memorandum in support of the Toms River Regional School Board's position that in fact, both the statutory law and case law clearly reveal that the Commissioner is without jurisdiction over this issue.

School elections are specifically addressed within Chapter 14 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes. The issue of absentee ballots is not addressed anywhere within the purview of that chapter. The recount provisions of the School Election Law provides that "Any defeated candidate...may...apply to the Commissioner of Education for a recount of votes cast at the election, whether by paper ballots or by voting machines." (N.J.S.A. 14:63.2) Again, it should be stressed that there is no mention of absentee ballots within the recount provisions of the statute. In fact, the statute specifically provides:

The recount procedure in a school election shall be conducted according to the procedure prescribed in Title 19 of the revised statutes, except as otherwise provided in Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes. (N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.14)

Hon. M. Kathleen Duncan
July 31, 1995
Page 2

Thus, inasmuch as the issue of absentee ballots is not addressed within Title 18A, the law dictates that the provisions of Title 19, dealing with elections, shall govern.

N.J.S.A. 19:57-24 specifically provides for the determination of disputed absentee ballots as follows:

Disputes as to the qualifications of military service or civilian absentee voters to vote or as to whether or not or how any such military or civilian absentee ballots shall be counted in such elections shall be referred to the Superior Court for determination.

A review of the statutory law makes it abundantly clear that the Commissioner of Education is without jurisdiction over the issue of absentee ballots. Since the issue of absentee ballots is not specifically addressed within Title 18A, the provisions of Title 19 must govern and Title 19 provides that the Superior Court has jurisdiction over the issue of absentee ballots.

Several school board cases have also dealt directly with this issue, and each has unequivocally decided that the Commissioner of Education is without jurisdiction.

In the Matter of the Annual School Election Held in the Borough of Rutherford, Bergen County, 74 S.L.D. 381, the Commission received a request from a defeated candidate to recheck the totals of the election. The Commissioner authorized his representative to conduct a recheck of the totals on the voting machines used in the election, but the candidate's request for a recount of the absentee ballots was denied. The decision held:

The basis for this determination was grounded on the fact that the Commissioner has consistently held in past decisions that he is without authority to make any determination with respect to the results for the counting of absentee ballots...The procedures for counting such absentee votes are set forth in Title 19 of the New Jersey Statutes governing elections...must accept the certification of the County Board of Elections, which was previously made to the Secretary of the Board of Education and included in the vote totals of a school election as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:14-28. (See also: In the Recount of Cast at the Annual School Election in the Township of Monroe, Gloucester County, 1957-58 S.L.D. 79; In the Matter of the Recount of Ballots Cast at the Annual School Election in the Borough of Little Ferry, County of Bergen, 1960-61 S.L.D. 203; In the Matter of the Annual School Election held in the School District of the Township of Monroe, Gloucester County, 1973 S.L.D. 212, aff'd 74 S.L.D. 1413.

In the Matter of the Recount of Ballots Cast at the Annual School Election in the Borough of Little Ferry, County of Bergen, 1960-61 S.L.D. 203, it was held that:

The canvass of absentee ballots is not within the authority of the Commissioner of Education, whose jurisdiction is limited to controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. Procedures relating to absentee ballots are set forth in Title 19, governing elections.

The Commissioner's jurisdiction is clearly established by statute, which provides that the "the Commissioner shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine... all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws..." (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9)

Finally, the fact that the Commissioner is without jurisdiction in such issues is firmly established in light of the age of the cases cited and in view of the fact that they have not been overturned.

In conclusion, the statutory, as well as case law, leave no room for interpretation. The Commissioner of Education is without authority as to the recount of absentee ballots. The recount of absentee ballots are strictly governed by Title 19 and fall within the jurisdiction of the Superior Court.

Respectfully yours,

ANNEMARIE WILLIAMS

Re: In the Matter of the Annual School Election
Held in the School District of Toms River
Regional High School, Ocean County
OAL Docket No. EDU 4708-95
Agency Docket No. 105-4/95

Dear Judge Duncan:

As Your Honor is aware, this office represents the Ocean County Clerk in the above matter. Pursuant to your request, this letter memorandum is submitted in support of the Ocean County Clerk's position that the Commissioner of Education has no jurisdiction in a dispute concerning the validity of absentee ballots cast in a school election.

N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.14 provides:

"The recount procedure in a school election shall be conducted according to the procedure prescribed in Title 19 of the Revised Statutes, except as otherwise provided in Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes."

N.J.S.A. 19:57-24 provides, in pertinent part:

"Disputes as to the qualifications of military

HONORABLE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ

August 1, 1995

service or civilian absentee voters to vote or as to whether or not or how any such military or civilian absentee ballot shall be counted in such election shall be referred to the Superior Court for determination."

N.J.S.A. 19:28-1 further provides:

"When any candidate at any election shall have reason to believe that an error has been made by any district board or any board of canvassers in counting the vote or declaring the vote of any election, he may, on or before the second Saturday following such election, or declaration of any board of canvassers, apply to a judge of the Superior Court assigned to the county wherein such district or districts are located, for a recount of the votes cast at the election in any district or districts ..."

Significantly, Title 18A does not provide a procedure for the recount of absentee ballots cast at a school election. As such, any challenge to the validity of absentee ballots cast in a school board election properly falls within the jurisdiction of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 19:57-24. Accordingly, the Commissioner of Education has no jurisdiction over this issue.

The Commissioner of Education has also consistently held that he has no jurisdiction over the counting of absentee ballots. Thus, in the case of I/M/O the Annual School Election Held in the School District of the Township of Monroe, Gloucester County, 1973 S.L.D. 212, aff'd, State Board of Education, 1974 S.L.D. 1413, the Commissioner of Education held that he is without authority to make any determination with respect to the results of the counting of the absentee ballots. As stated by the Commissioner, "The canvass of absentee ballots is not within the authority of the Commissioner of Education whose jurisdiction is limited to controversies and disputes arising under the school law. (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9). Procedures for the counting of absentee votes are set forth in Title 19, governing elections." (emphasis in original) Township of Monroe, supra at 216.

As such, the Commissioner found that the Petitioner's complaint concerning the votes cast by absentee ballot was not a controversy under the school law and was not cognizable by the Commissioner of Education. He further concluded that he must accept the certification of the Gloucester County Board of Elections, as previously received by the Secretary of the Board of Education of the Township of Monroe and included in the vote totals of the election as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:14-28. The cases of I/M/O the Annual School Election Held in the School District of the Borough of Rutherford, Bergen County, 1974 S.L.D. 381 and I/M/O the Annual School Election Held in the School District of Willingboro, Burlington County, OAL Docket No. 2018-80 (decided 4/21/80), aff'd State Board of Education, 1980 S.L.D. ___ (decided 7/2/80), are in accord. See also I/M/O the Annual School Election Held in the School District of the Borough of Fairview, Bergen County, 1981 S.L.D. ___ (decided 5/13/81) (Commissioner of Education has no power or jurisdictional authority to adjudicate disputes arising out of the counting, canvassing or allocation of civilian absentee ballots.)

Based upon all of the foregoing authorities, I would respectfully submit that the Commissioner of Education has no jurisdiction over the issue of the validity of the absentee ballots and, therefore, the Complaint should be dismissed as to this issue.

Respectfully submitted,

IN THE MATTER OF THE ANNUAL :
SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE :
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF TOMS RIVER : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL, OCEAN : DECISION
COUNTY. :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the initial decision of the ALJ that the petition herein is properly dismissed for failure to prosecute. Petitioner was notified, upon filing his request for an inquiry into alleged violations of election procedures, that this matter would be transmitted to the OAL for appropriate proceedings¹ and he would bear the burden of proving that the allegations he advanced against the Board affected the outcome of the election. However, as set forth by the ALJ, petitioner has demonstrated a lack of due diligence in pursuing his claims.

¹ While petitioner's initial letter to the Commissioner largely concerned alleged improprieties surrounding the casting of absentee ballots, the letter further stated, "I also request that you initiate an investigation concerning the dissemination, preparation, potential duplication, and other misuse of these absentee ballots." Petitioner was apprised that this matter would proceed before the Commissioner only to the extent these allegations implicated the role of the Board pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:14-1 et seq.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed in the initial decision, the within petition is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The petitioner claims that the vote of the Brick Township Board of Education (BOE) approving a contract between the BOE and the Brick Township Education Association (BTEA) should be invalidated and voided.

The petitioner unreasonably refused to commit himself to a date for participation in a telephone conference for discussion of a schedule for discovery and a hearing of this case. Thereafter, the petitioner was notified in writing that he should send written consent to participation in such a conference on a proposed date or that, in the alternative, he should send a written explanation as to why he would be unavailable on the proposed date and that he should provide dates when he would be available for such a conference. The petitioner was further notified that, if his written consent, explanation, etc., was not received, it would be assumed that he was unwilling to participate in such a conference and his petition would be dismissed. The petitioner unreasonably failed to send any written consent, explanation, etc., and unreasonably failed to send other notice that he would be available for such a conference. Consequently, the petition is dismissed. N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.6, -14.14.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND FINDINGS OF FACT

Since at least 1993, the petitioner has forwarded letters and other documents to the New Jersey Department of Education wherein he has criticized the BOE and its members individually and wherein he has demanded various kinds of relief. This case concerns the petitioner's "Amended Petition," filed on January 17, 1995, and his "2nd Amended Petition," filed in September 1995. However, a review of the petitioner's actions before those dates is useful for an understanding of the nature of the case.

In the petitioner's February 12, 1993 letter to the New Jersey Department of Education, he stated that he "intend[ed] to appeal . . . the Department's restoration" of money to the BOE's 1992-93 budget. ALJ-1. In the Department's February 17, 1993 letter to the petitioner, it notified him that only the BOE and the Brick Township governing body had standing to so appeal. ALJ-2.

In the petitioner's August 29, 1994 letter to the Ocean County superintendent of schools, he referred to "two matters of protest with regard to actions of the [BOE]": First, the petitioner wrote that the BOE had notified him that he could use the copy of the Department of Education rules maintained in the BOE's office; however, the petitioner (apparently, then a BOE member) asked the Department to "require" the BOE to supply each member of the BOE with a copy of the rules. Second, the petitioner referred to "Pannucci v. Mueller," "a complaint now pending" wherein BOE member Pannucci sought "to disqualify [the petitioner's] seat on the [BOE]"; the petitioner alleged that he had made a motion that the BOE "provide [to him] defense counsel of [his] choice" to defend the complaint; the petitioner alleged that Mr. Pannucci had voted against the motion, so that the BOE's vote was "3-3" and the motion failed; and the petitioner "ask[ed] that the Department disqualify Mr. Pannucci's vote and require the [BOE] to provide defense counsel as requested." ALJ-3. By the Department's September 9, 1994 letter to the petitioner, it notified him, first, that it had no authority to require the BOE to supply a copy of the rules to each BOE member and, second, that to seek an adjudication of the vote on such a motion, he should file a petition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.1 et seq. ALJ-4.

In the petitioner's (untitled) petition, forwarded to the Department by way of his December 15, 1994 letter, he alleged that, during the BOE's November 3, 1994 meeting, BOE members Pannucci and John Paredes "used undue influence . . . in voting on a contract agreement between the [BTEA] . . . and the [BOE]" and that Mr. Pannucci and Mr. Paredes "participated in a design to disenfranchise . . . politically franchised residents of the School District" and he demanded various actions and orders by the Commissioner of the Department of Education. ALJ-5. In the Department's December 30, 1994 letter to the petitioner, it notified him that because of the nature of his allegations and claims, he would need to name the BOE as an additional respondent. ALJ-6, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

In the petitioner's "Amended Petition," filed with the Department on January 17, 1995, he added the BOE as a respondent. The "Amended Petition" involves the following: During the BOE's November 3, 1994 meeting, the BOE voted to approve a BOE/BTEA contract. Relative to this vote, the petitioner alleges the following: (1) Mr. Pannucci and Mr. Paredes engaged in "undue influence." (2) Mr. Pannucci and Mr. Paredes "participated in a design" to "[consent] to [the] vote on [the] contract on the same day the contract was approved by the . . . BTEA," and, thereby, the "details of the contract [were] withheld from residents and the media" and “meaningful input from residents and certain members of the [BOE]” was prevented. (3) The BOE violated its “policy” (a “Bylaw”), such that certain BOE members were “denied facts or materials required for the proper performance of his/her duties to which s/he is legally entitled.” The petitioner’s claims for relief include the following: (1) The vote/approval of the BOE/BTEA contract should be invalidated and voided. (2) The votes (relative to the BOE/BTEA contract) of Pannucci and Paredes should be invalidated and voided. (3) The Commissioner of Education should “promulgate in summary fashion the status of all employees of New Jersey School Districts who are also members of a New Jersey local Board of Education with regard to their right, . . . in voting upon employment contracts in their districts.” ALJ-7.

On February 3, 1995, the BOE’s answer and defenses were filed with the Department of Education. ALJ-9. The Department transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on February 28, 1995, it was filed as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). By my letter dated April 28, 1995, I notified the parties that the case had been assigned to me; and I set a discovery schedule, a date for a telephone conference and a date for a hearing.

In the BOE’s attorney’s January 31, 1995 letter, he notified the petitioner that, because he had failed to name the BTEA, a necessary party, the BOE would move for relief in that regard. ALJ-8, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3(a), R. 4:6-2(f). In my letter dated April 28, 1995, I notified the petitioner that I would treat the BOE’s attorney’s January 31, 1995 letter as notice of a motion to dismiss the petition and that, by May 12, 1995, the petitioner should file any papers in opposition to the BOE’s motion. ALJ-10. In my May 25, 1995 letter, relative to the petitioner’s claims “(1)” and “(2),” I notified him that the BTEA appeared to have a direct interest in the case, etc.; that, consistent with N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3(a), R. 4:6-2(f) and R. 4:28-1, the BOE had moved to dismiss the petition for failure to join the BTEA, an indispensable party; that (despite my April 28, 1995 letter) I had received no response from the petitioner to the BOE’s motion; and that I would extend to June 9, 1995 the petitioner’s time to respond to the BOE’s motion. ALJ-11. In my May 25, 1995 letter, I also notified the petitioner, that, because, pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, rule making procedure (and not this case) appeared appropriate relative to his claim “(3),” the letter constituted notice of my motion to dismiss claim “(3),” and, by June 9, 1995, the petitioner should file any papers in response to that motion. ALJ-11, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3(a), R. 4:6-2(a). On June 16 and 20, 1995, the petitioner's papers were filed in opposition to the BOE's motion and, on June 30, 1995, the BOE's letter brief was filed in support of its motion to dismiss the petition for failure to name the BTEA as a party. ALJ-1, ALJ-13. In my August 9, 1995 letter order, I wrote the following:

Claims "(1)" and "(2)"

A person who or entity which is subject to service of process shall be joined as a party to a case if, (1) in the person's or entity's absence complete relief cannot be accorded, or (2) the person or entity is situated such that the disposition of the case in the person's or entity's absence may as a practical matter impair or impede the person's or entity's ability to protect that interest. N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3(a), R. 4:28-1.

Claims "(1)" and "(2)" seek invalidation and voidance of the contract between the BOE and [BTEA]; such relief will affect the BTEA's interests; and, as a matter of notice, due process and fairness, the BTEA should have an opportunity to appear and protect its interests in this case.

Failure to join a necessary or indispensable party may be asserted as a defense; however, a claim which involves a substantial public issue should not be dismissed on such a procedural basis and the better practice is to amend the claim, adding the necessary party. R. 4:6-2(f); Hyland v. Kirkman, 157 N.J. Super. 565, 577 (Ch. Div. 1978); Ewing Twp. v. Mathesius, 189 N.J. Super. 530, 535 (Law Div. 1983), aff'd, 193 N.J. Super. 65 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 96 N.J. 320 (1984).

Consistent with the above, the BOE's motion to dismiss the claims is DENIED; however, I ORDER that, by September 11, 1995, the [petitioner] will prepare an amended petition (statement of claims), adding the BTEA as a party; the [petitioner] will file the amended petition in the OAL; and he will serve copies of the amended petition upon all the parties, personally or by mail return receipt requested.

Claim "(3)"

An administrative rule is an "agency statement of general applicability and continuing effect that implements or interprets law of policy, or describes the organization, procedure or practice requirements of any agency." N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(e). See also Metromedia, Inc. v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 97 N.J. 313, 331-32 (1984).

Because of a rule's broad regulatory sweep, pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act (APA), its promulgation is by way of procedures that give notice and opportunity to be heard to the regulated community. Promulgation is not by way of a particular contested case involving limited parties. See N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq.

Claim "(3)" demands that the Commissioner of Education "promulgate in summary fashion the status of all employees of New Jersey School Districts who are also members of a New Jersey local Board of Education with regard to their rights, or lacking thereof, in voting upon employment contracts in their districts."

Claim "(3)" demands promulgation of a rule; it is inappropriate in this contested case and it is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

[ALJ-14.]

By September 14, 1995, the petitioner had not filed a second amended petition in the OAL and, on that date, the petitioner, the BOE's attorney and I engaged in a telephone conference and the petitioner represented that he would file the amended petition, after which a schedule for discovery and a hearing would be needed. The "2nd Amended Petition" was filed in the OAL and, in the petitioner's September 17, 1995 letter, he represented that all of the respondents of the "2nd Amended Petition" had been served with it. ALJ-15, ALJ-16.

In my September 15, 1995 letter to the petitioner, I recited the following:

Today, my secretary spoke with you in an attempt to arrange a date for a conference by telephone which is necessary to discuss reasonable dates for discovery and a hearing for this case. She tells me that she advised you that a date in November or December is necessary for this purpose and that you refused to give her a date on which you will be available for a conference.

This is notice to you of the following: On November 21, 1995 at 4 p.m. the above-noted conference by telephone will be held. . . . If, by September 29, 1995, I do not receive from you a written consent to participation in the conference call or a reasonable excuse for your unavailability on November 21, 1995 and dates in November when you will be available, I will assume that you are unwilling to participate in such a conference and I will dismiss your petition. N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.6, -14.14.

[ALJ-17.]

To date, no written consent, explanation, etc., has been received from the petitioner; however, a few days before September 29, 1995, the petitioner telephoned and stated to my secretary that he was unable to say whether he could be available for a conference on November 21, 1995, or any other day in November. The petitioner gave no reasonable excuse for his unavailability. ALJ-18.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

In litigation, administrative adjudication and dispute resolution generally, to assure notice, due process and fairness, a party must cooperate and participate in the development of a reasonable schedule that may include a conference, appearance, etc. A party's failure and/or refusal to so cooperate and participate may deprive an adverse party of the opportunity to discover facts, protect its interest, etc. Consistent with these notions, a judge may schedule conferences, appearances and hearings and the judge may take such other actions as necessary for the expeditious and fair conduct of the case. N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.6. Consistent with these notions also, where a party unreasonably fails to cooperate and comply with the judge's directions relative to, e.g., conference scheduling, his or her claim for relief (petition) may be dismissed. N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.14.

Despite notice to the petitioner that his petition would be dismissed for failure and/or refusal to confirm that he will make himself available for a scheduling conference, he has unreasonably failed to provide such confirmation. The petitioner has resisted compliance with reasonable scheduling and adjudication requirements and, consistent with the above-noted notions, his petition must be dismissed.

ORDER

I ORDER the petition DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Record Closed: October 2, 1995

Decided: October 13, 1995

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

On July 12, 1994, petitioner filed a petition with the Department of Education (DOE). Respondent filed an answer on July 26, 1994. The DOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on August 5, 1994 for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Conferences were conducted throughout the proceedings, and at the request of the parties, the matter was placed on the inactive list in March 1995. The parties ultimately reached a resolution of the matter, and filed an executed settlement agreement on October 2, 1995, on which date the record was closed. Attached herewith is a copy of the settlement agreement.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.
2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Record Closed: October 2, 1995

Decided: October 16, 1995

BEFORE: ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

On February 17, 1995, P. Darrell Maietta, petitioner, filed a verified petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education. The petitioner alleged that the Morris School District's (respondent), declaration that petitioner had abandoned his position on January 5, 1995, and its refusal to allow petitioner to utilize his sick days after January 1, 1995, constituted a reduction in compensation in violation of petitioner's tenure rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6 -10, as well as a deprivation of his sick leave rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-1 to -8. On March 3, 1995, respondent filed an answer requesting that the verified petition be dismissed and alleging separate defenses. On March 15, 1995, the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

After notice to all parties, a telephone prehearing conference was held on June 1, 1995, at which time the issues were isolated and a hearing scheduled for December 5, 6, 7 and 8, 1995, at the Office of Administrative Law, 185 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey 07102.

Subsequent thereto, settlement conferences were held and a settlement was reached. As a result, the hearing was adjourned.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached settlement agreement, indicating the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement, as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.
2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

MORRIS SCHOOL DISTRICT : BOARD OF EDUCATION, :
Respondent. : SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

The Board of Education of the Morris School District (hereinafter the "District") and P. Darrell Maietta, hereby enter into this Agreement to resolve the differences between them.

1. In return for compliance with this Agreement, Mr. Maietta agrees to permanently and irrevocably resign from his position as a teaching staff member and guidance counselor in the District effective June 30, 1996. The letter of resignation signed by Mr. Maietta is hereby appended to this Agreement as Exhibit "A." By doing so, Mr. Maietta waives any and all rights to tenure, seniority, recall or reinstatement, as well as any of the benefits or emoluments of his employment as of that date, except his pension rights.

2. Mr. Maietta further agrees to dismiss the litigation known as P. Darrell Maietta v. Board of Education of the Morris School District, Agency Dkt. No. 28-2/95, O.A.L. Dkt. No. EDU 2824-95 currently pending before the New Jersey Office of Administrative Law.

3. The District will pay Mr. Maietta full back salary, at his 1994-95 salary rate, for the period January 1, 1995 through June 30, 1995. Said payment shall be subject to all normal deductions, including pension contributions for the period January 1, 1995 through June 30, 1995. The District will comply with N.J.A.C. 17:3-6.6(c) in transferring said contributions to the pension fund.

The net back salary amount due to Mr. Maietta will be paid to him within 30 days of receipt of the decision of the Commissioner of Education approving this settlement.

4. The District will place Mr. Maietta on a leave of absence effective September 1, 1995, through June 30, 1996. During that leave, Mr. Maietta will be paid in the normal course as is any other teacher. The salary rate to be paid will be one-half (1/2) of his 1995-96 salary.

5. During the leave period, the District shall continue to provide the medical, and other health insurance coverages it now provides to Mr. Maietta pursuant to the collective negotiations agreement in effect between the District and the Education Association of Morris. However, no other benefits shall accrue to Mr. Maietta during this period, such as sick days, personal days, and bereavement days that would otherwise accrue during the life of this Agreement. It is specifically understood that any other accumulated benefits, whether to sick leave or otherwise, shall be consumed during the period of such leave, and Mr. Maietta shall not claim entitlement to these benefits or their cash equivalent.

Pension contributions shall be deducted from Mr. Maietta's salary during his leave in an amount equivalent to what his normal contribution would be during a period when he was receiving full salary, at the rate of his 1995-96 salary (N.J.A.C. 17:3-4.2 and N.J.A.C. 17:3-6.6(b)). The District makes no representation as to the amount of pension benefits, if any, Mr. Maietta shall accrue or ultimately receive. This Agreement shall in no way be contingent upon Mr. Maietta's receiving pension benefits. In the event that the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund shall refuse to accept said payments for pension credit, the District shall not be held responsible and this Agreement shall remain in full force and effect.

6. Mr. Maietta shall not be eligible for sick leave payment for any unused sick leave remaining after his leave of absence. All rights to reimbursement as to accrued leave time are hereby waived. Similarly, any rights to incentive or bonus payments under the collective agreement are waived.

7. The parties shall exchange mutual general releases in the forms attached hereto. Each party will retain the right to enforce this Agreement.

8. Mr. Maietta acknowledges that he has hereby been advised in writing that he has the right to consult with an attorney or a representative of his own choosing prior to signing this Agreement and that he signs this Agreement as his own voluntary act and deed, and that he fully understands the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

9. The undersigned representatives of the District hereby acknowledge that they have been duly authorized by the District to sign this Agreement and bind the District to its terms.

10. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties.

11. Nothing in this Agreement shall be deemed to constitute precedent, past practice or policy as to the rights of any employee, now or in the future, other than Mr. Maietta.

12. The District shall process any application for retirement benefits filed by Mr. Maietta in the normal manner for such processing.

13. A proceeding to enforce the terms of this Agreement shall be the exclusive remedy in the event it is breached.

14. This Agreement is subject to the approval of the Office of Administrative law and the Commissioner of Education. If not so approved, it will be null and void.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the date and year aforesaid.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner contended that the Board's action in abolishing her supervisory position violated her tenure and seniority rights and, further, that the Board failed to comply with the terms of a prior settlement agreement pertinent to the transfer of pension contributions to the Teacher's Pension and Annuity Fund.

Following review of the 1993 settlement agreement and job descriptions, and citing Spiewak, inter alia, ALJ concluded that petitioner had a greater entitlement to the position of Facilitator/Subject Supervisor than the individual appointed thereto by the Board for the period September 1, 1994 through September 30, 1995 and that she was entitled to compensation, as well as related emoluments and seniority credits for that period. ALJ concluded that petitioner should be reinstated to that position from September 1, 1994, with reimbursement of a $3,000 annual stipend for the 1994-95 school year and a $3,000 annual stipend, pro-rated, for the period from September 1, 1995 to September 30, 1995, with related emoluments, including pension contributions and seniority credits. Moreover, ALJ concluded that petitioner had not met her burden by a preponderance of credible evidence of proving her claims related to pension credits. Therefore, these claims were dismissed.

Commissioner concurred with findings and determination of ALJ and directed compensation.

Record Closed: September 5, 1995

Decided: October 19, 1995

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On July 28, 1994, Elissa A. Kish (Kish or petitioner) filed a petition with the Department of Education (DOE) seeking relief from the Elmwood Park Board of Education (Board or respondent). The Board filed an answer on August 19, 1994. The DOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on August 23, 1994 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A telephone conference was conducted on December 2, 1994, and a hearing was scheduled for May 3, 1995. The hearing was adjourned at the request of the parties based upon an agreement that the matter would be decided on stipulated facts and cross-motions for summary judgment.

A stipulation of facts and exhibits was filed on July 18, 1995. Kish and respondent filed initial briefs on July 18, and August 17, 1995, respectively. Petitioner filed a reply brief on September 5, 1995, on which date the record was closed.

NATURE OF THE CASE

Petitioner alleges that respondent violated her tenure and/or seniority rights regarding a supervisory position with the Board and that respondent failed to comply with the terms of a prior settlement agreement pertinent to the transfer of pension contributions to the Teacher's Pension and Annuity Fund (TPAF). Kish also alleges that respondent threatened to withhold salary checks as a means of coercing information from her. Kish requests that the Board be required to immediately reemploy her in a supervisory capacity, retroactively compensate her for any and all salary, benefits, and seniority credit lost as a result of respondent's actions, and communicate with the TPAF to correct the crediting of pension contributions, to reflect credit for the period of September 1, 1991 to April 30, 1993, and that respondent be ordered to cease and desist from withholding or threatening to withhold salary checks as a means of "coercing information from employees." Respondent denies all the allegations.

The issues, broadly articulated, are whether petitioner is entitled to reemployment in a supervisory capacity and to retroactive compensation; whether respondent has failed to comply with the terms of a prior settlement agreement and, if so, what remedy should be granted to petitioner; and whether petitioner has demonstrated improper actions by the Board vis-à-vis Kish or any other employees of respondent.

The parties agreed to the following stipulations:

5. A Facilitator position requires supervisory certification.

17. The nontenured individual hired as Facilitator in the science subject area taught three biology classes and two laboratory periods during 1994-95, as well as performing his Facilitator duties.

18. Upon the abolishment of the position of Reading Resource Teacher/Facilitator Generalist, administrative functions previously performed by petitioner in that job were completed by on-staff administrative personnel and the Director of Curriculum.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon a review of the exhibits, I FIND the following to be facts.

The 1993 settlement agreement provided, in pertinent part, that Kish would be assigned, as of May 1, 1993, to the position of Reading Resource Teacher/Facilitator Generalist, which position had been approved by the County of Bergen Superintendent and which would require a supervisor's certificate and was considered a supervisory position for tenure purposes. Kish's work year and work load as a Facilitator would be the same as for other Facilitator positions. Respondent would take "all necessary measures" to notify the TPAF that Kish had been reemployed retroactive to the date on which the Facilitator position was created, i.e., September 1, 1991, and would "make all appropriate contributions from that date forward so as to provide to Petitioner employment credit from September 1, 1991 to May 1, 1993." (Exhibit J-1, p.2). In the event that the position of Reading Resource Teacher/Facilitator Generalist was abolished while Kish was employed in such capacity, respondent would recognize petitioner's seniority in the district and assign her to such category of position in which she had seniority and, if it were determined that Kish did not have seniority to any existing category of position, respondent would continue to employ her as a classroom teacher at a salary based on the top of the teachers' salary guide until Kish acquired twenty-five years of service in contribution to the TPAF. In consideration therefore, Kish agreed to tender her resignation from her employment with the Board, effective upon the completion of twenty-five years of service in contribution to the TPAF.

The May 1, 1994 postings for the position of Facilitator/Subject Supervisor (High School Science) stated that a "supervisory certificate" was required. (Exhibits R-2 and R-3).

The May 9, 1994 resolution stated that the position of Reading Resource Teacher/Facilitator Generalist was abolished "due to the reorganization of the Middle School and for economy, effective the 1994-95 school year." (Exhibit R-7A).

The job description for the position Reading Resource Teacher/Facilitator Generalist was approved December 22, 1992 and was revised March 10, 1993.

DISCUSSION

Respondent argues that petitioner's action is barred by the principle of res judicata and the terms of the applicable stipulation of settlement as well as by waiver. Kish argues that each of these is an affirmative defense which must be specifically pled and the Board cannot raise them at this point in the case, not having done so previously. Kish also argues that res judicata is not applicable.

Although petitioner's arguments in this respect have merit, I am persuaded that the substantive issues raised by the parties in their briefs should be addressed. Petitioner is clearly not barred from raising issues which essentially focus on employment subsequent to abolishment of the position of Reading Resource Teacher/Facilitator Generalist, as contemplated by the stipulation of settlement. The verified petition and respondent's answer thereto clearly raised issues regarding interpretation and application of the settlement agreement. I am therefore persuaded that although the Board did not specifically raise issues termed as waiver and release, the substantive issues pertinent to the settlement agreement should be determined.

The Commissioner generally has jurisdiction to hear and determine all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

No teaching staff member shall be employed in the public schools unless he/she is the holder of a valid certificate. N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2. The services of teaching staff members, as well as any other employees in positions requiring appropriate certificates issued by the Board of Examiners, shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency, and such individuals shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such staff member or other good cause. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 (Supp. 1995). Tenure attaches after employment in a district by a local board for three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose, three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year, or the equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive years. Ibid. However, a local board of education can reduce the number of teaching staff members employed in a district whenever, in its judgment, it is advisable to abolish such position for reasons of economy, because of a reduction in the number of pupils, because of a change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district, or for other good cause. Id. at § 9.

As petitioner argues, Kish clearly acquired tenure in the supervisory category, having been employed for at least three consecutive years in supervisory positions. In addition, Kish has had a supervisory certification since 1976. Although not explicitly addressed in the stipulations or the parties' briefs, it is also reasonable to infer that petitioner has tenure as an elementary teacher. The parties stipulated that throughout her period of employment until June 30, 1994, Kish has held positions requiring, at times, teaching duties. In addition, she was employed as a teacher for the 1994-95 school year. The job description for the position which petitioner held during 1988 required a teacher certification, as did the position which petitioner held from May 1, 1993 through June 30, 1993. The fact that supervisory positions held by petitioner may not have been on a full-time basis but were performed in addition to teaching functions is not determinative. All teaching staff members who work in positions for which a certificate is required, who hold valid certificates, and who have worked the required number of years are eligible for tenure unless they fall within an explicit statutory exception. Remedial and supplemental teachers, even those reimbursed on an hourly basis, are afforded tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. 63 (1982) (Spiewak).

The Board argues that because the stipulation of settlement specifically references seniority, and not tenure, in addressing a situation involving abolishment of the position of Reading Resource Teacher/Facilitator Generalist, petitioner may advance claims only on the basis of seniority, not tenure rights. I am not persuaded by this argument.

Seniority only applies to certain rights of tenured personnel and has meaning only when a reduction in the employment force is necessary. Philip Howley and Dewey Bookholdt v. Ewing Twp. Bd. of Ed., 1982 S.L.D. 1328, aff'd 1983 S.L.D. 1554. Dismissals pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 must be made on the basis of seniority. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-10. However, seniority cannot limit a tenured employee's rights over nontenured individuals. Mueller v. Hunterdon Central Regional High School District Bd. of Ed., 93 N.J.A.R. 2nd. (Vol. 4A) 419 (Dept. of Ed.) (Mueller).

An agreement to settle a law suit is a contract which, like all contracts, may be freely entered into and which a court will generally honor and enforce. Pascarella v. Bruck, 190 N.J. Super. 118 (App. Div. 1983) cert. den., 94 N.J. 600 (1983). However, the parties cannot by stipulation abrogate petitioner's tenure rights. Tenure is a mandatory term and condition of employment which supersedes contractual terms. As such, the tenure provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 may not be waived or bargained away. Spiewak, supra, 90 N.J. 63 "Tenure is a 'statutory right' imposed upon a teacher's contractual employment [which]. . . may not be forfeited or waived." Spiewak at 77 (citations omitted). An individual may voluntarily relinquish a position, but may not waive his/her tenure rights while keeping his/her position. Lange v. Bd. of Ed. of Bor. of Audobon, 26 N.J. Super. 83 (App. Div. 1953). As Kish argues, even a change in duties does not constitute a relinquishment of tenure if some tenurable duties are assigned to an individual. Quinlan v. Bd. of Ed. of North Bergen Tp., 73 N.J. Super. 40 (App. Div. 1962).

As petitioner argues, however, the pertinent stipulation does not address the waiver or relinquishment of tenure rights in general. It is therefore reasonable to interpret the stipulation as not affecting petitioner's tenure rights in the event of abolishment of the position of Reading Resource Teacher/Facilitator Generalist. Such construction is consistent with the applicable legal principles, which cannot be superseded by the stipulation.

It is reasonable to conclude that petitioner has the qualifications stated in the job description for the position of Staff Development Departmental Facilitator. The qualifications are substantially similar to those stated in the job description for Instructional Supervisor - Multi-Discipline. It is therefore reasonable to infer that petitioner has a master's degree as well as the required experience. As Kish argues, her tenure rights as a supervisor required her employment in the position in question vis-à-vis a nontenured individual. A detailed comparison of the applicable job descriptions is therefore not necessary. Respondent does not argue that the position in question requires special expertise not reflected in the stated qualifications. In any event, such an argument would not be persuasive within the context of this case. In Herbert v. Bd. of Ed. of the Tp. of Middletown, 1990 S.L.D. 1759 (State Board), aff'd No. A-318-90T1 (App. Div. May 22, 1991), a supervisor subject to a reduction in force claimed the position of Supervisor of Special Services, which position dealt with the supervision of special education. The board of education argued that Herbert had no special education certification or experience. However, the job description included no requirement as to instructional certification or special education training. Herbert at 1761, n. 2. The State Board of Education affirmed the Commissioner's decision awarding Herbert the position in question based on his tenure as a supervisor, noting that:

Although the education laws permit a district board to establish qualifications beyond the threshold qualifications established by statute and regulation for employment in or promotion to a particular assignment, the desire to employ or retain individuals with such additional qualifications cannot defeat the tenure and seniority rights conferred by statute on teaching staff members. . . . [citation omitted] To hold otherwise would vitiate legislatively-created rights by permitting the creation of positions distinct for tenure and seniority purposes based on distinctions and subject area beyond those made by the certification regulations.

[Herbert, supra at 1761]

As petitioner argues, the description of the Facilitator position is substantially overlapped by the instructional supervisor description. However, it is not necessary to perform such an analysis. Herbert, supra. The job description for the position of Staff Development Departmental Facilitator does not include instruction of students as a responsibility. In addition, the position postings state only a requirement for a supervisory certification.

Petitioner asserts in her initial brief that although she could not have functioned as a high school biology teacher, as the nontenured Facilitator did, it is clear that that individual did so in addition to his Facilitator duties. These matters are not addressed in the stipulated facts nor documents. However, they are not material to a determination of the issues presented. The Facilitator job description and postings do not include instruction of students as a responsibility. It is also not necessary to reach the merits of petitioner's assertion that nothing would have prevented the nontenured Facilitator from teaching classes while petitioner performed a Facilitator function in his place and that she could have performed teaching duties in the high school building under her K-8 certificate. It is noteworthy, though, as petitioner argues, that from 1980 until 1985, she held the position of Supervisor of Instruction (K-12), Math, Science, and Business Education.

Respondent advances arguments pertaining to the alleged reasons the Board entered into the settlement in question, specifically arguing that it sought to gain control over the positions in which petitioner would continue in its employ and that the job description was revised in March 1993 "with Petitioner and the settlement in mind, and Petitioner knew that to be the case." (Respondent's brief, p. 8). I am not persuaded by these arguments. Any alleged motivation on the part of the Board in agreeing to the settlement, as well as the reasons for and nature of the revision of the job description in question, are not addressed in the stipulated facts nor documents. In addition, Kish's argument that respondent benefited from the stipulation because of her agreement to resign upon completing twenty-five years of pension-eligible service has merit on its face. In any event, as discussed hereinabove, petitioner's tenure rights could not be abrogated by the stipulation.

A tenured individual has the ultimate burden when contesting an action by a board of education of demonstrating that his/her rights were violated and that he/she suffered harm so as to entitle him/her to redress. James Parker and Joseph Pellegrino, v. Bd. of Ed., Matawan-Aberdeen Regional School District, 1990 S.L.D. 1778. A prevailing individual contesting local board action is entitled to appointment to an available position, back pay, and other economic emoluments of employment, including appropriate pension fund adjustments. Mueller, supra.

I am persuaded that petitioner has demonstrated her entitlement to the position of Facilitator/Subject Supervisor, until the time she completed twenty-five years of pension-eligible service. Kish states in her reply brief that consistent with the pertinent stipulation, she would resign on September 30, 1995. However, the date on which she completed twenty-five years of service is not addressed in the stipulated facts nor documents. In the absence of an objection filed on behalf of respondent, I will utilize the September 30, 1995 date as the operative one.

Petitioner's requested relief of reemployment in a supervisory capacity and retroactive compensation for all salary, benefits, and seniority credit lost as a result of the Board's action in appointing a nontenured individual to the position in question should be granted. Petitioner is entitled to retroactive salary in the amount of $3,000 for the 1994-95 school year as well as related benefits and seniority credits. In addition, as argued in Kish's reply brief, she is entitled to a $3,000 annual stipend for the 1994-95 school year and a $3,000 annual stipend, prorated, for the period from September 1, 1995 to September 30, 1995.

The stipulated facts and documents and the briefs filed by the parties do not address petitioner's claims that the lack of an argued pension credit for the period September 1, 1991 to May 1, 1993 is the direct result of the action or inaction of respondent with respect to its duty to transfer pension contributions to the TPAF in a manner designed to inform the fund of the period of time to which the contributions relate. The stipulations and briefs also do not address petitioner's claims that agents of respondent threatened her regarding the withholding of petitioner's salary checks. Petitioner has not met her burden of proof regarding these claims, and I am persuaded that they should be dismissed.

CONCLUSIONS

I CONCLUDE that petitioner had a greater entitlement to the position of Facilitator/Subject Supervisor than the individual appointed thereto by respondent for the period September 1, 1994 through September 30, 1995 and that she is therefore entitled to compensation, as well as related emoluments and seniority credits, for that period. I therefore CONCLUDE that petitioner should be reinstated to that position for the period from September 1, 1994, with reimbursement of a $3,000 annual stipend for the 1994-95 school year and a $3,000 annual stipend, pro rated, for the period from September 1, 1995 to September 30, 1995, with related emoluments, including pension contributions and seniority credits. In addition, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not met her burden by a preponderance of the credible evidence of proving her claims that the lack of a pension credit to Kish's pension account for the period September 1, 1991 to May 1, 1993 is the direct result of action or inaction of respondent regarding its duty to transfer pension contributions to the TPAF in a manner designed to inform the fund as to the period of time to which the contributions relate nor petitioner's claims that agents of respondent threatened her regarding the withholding of petitioner's salary checks and that such claims should therefore be dismissed.

ORDERS

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner is deemed to have entitlement to the position of Facilitator/Subject Supervisor for the period from September 1, 1994 to September 30, 1995, that she be awarded compensation for that time period, in the amount of a $3,000 annual stipend for the 1994-95 school year and a $3,000 annual stipend, prorated, for the period September 1, 1995 to September 30, 1995, and that petitioner be awarded associated emoluments, including seniority credits and pension contributions, for the periods in question. It is also ORDERED that petitioner's claims that her pension account has not been credited for the period September 1, 1991 to May 1, 1993 because of action or inaction by respondent regarding its duty to transfer pension contributions to the TPAF pertinent to the period of time to which the contributions relate and her claims that respondent's agents threatened her regarding the withholding of her salary checks be and are hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions."  RESPONDENT. :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ that petitioner is entitled to compensation, as well as related emoluments and seniority credits, for the period September 1, 1994 through September 30, 1995¹. Petitioner is due reinstatement to the position of Facilitator/Subject Supervisor for the period September 1, 1994 through September 30, 1995, with reimbursement of a $3,000 annual stipend for the 1994-95 school year and a $3,000 annual stipend to be pro-rated for the period September 1, 1995 through September 30, 1995. (Initial Decision at p. 13) Further, the Commissioner concurs that petitioner's remaining claims are properly dismissed.

¹ The Commissioner notes that the ALJ finds September 30, 1995 to be the operative date of petitioner's resignation. (Initial Decision at p. 12)

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Respondent.

The parties, the petitioner Norma C. Pollard ("Petitioner" or "Pollard") and respondent State Operated School District of the City of Paterson ("Respondent" or "District")

1. On or about July 20, 1994, the petitioner, tenured teacher, filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education claiming the respondent's action withholding her salary increment for the 1994-95 school year was arbitrary and capricious.

2. The respondent filed an Answer to the Petition denying the petitioner's claims on or about July 28, 1994.

3. On or about June 23, 1994, the State District Superintendent Dr. Laval S. Wilson, certified tenure charges against the respondent. After a plenary hearing, Administrative Law Judge Elinor Reiner issued an Initial Decision sustaining the Charges and recommending the petitioner's dismissal from her teaching position. On June 29, 1994, the Commissioner affirmed the decision and ordered the petitioner dismissed.

4. On or about July 19, 1995, the respondent filed a Motion to Dismiss with Administrative Law Judge Kenneth Springer, asserting that the case is moot based upon the principles res judicata and collateral estoppel.

5. On or about June 29, 1995, the petitioner Pollard filed an Appeal of her dismissal with the State Board of Education in the case entitled IMO of the Tenure Hearing of Norma Pollard, State Operated School District of the City of Paterson, Docket No. 81-95.

The record of this matter, including the audio recording of proceedings on motion, and the initial order of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions and petitioner's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Respondent's exceptions essentially recast and reiterate arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), again contending, inter alia, that petitioner's child should not be admitted to attend school in the South Orange and Maplewood School District, since the petition was filed beyond the 21-day statute of limitations set forth at N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 and the statute of limitations is intended to require prompt action and bar review to those who violate it. (Board's Exceptions at p. 1) Further, the Board contends that waiver of the statute of limitations requires a specific analysis which respondent contends to be absent in the within matter. (Id. at p. 2)

In reply, petitioner argues that the ALJ's initial decision was correct and should be adopted in its entirety and that to find otherwise would subject the student, A.K., to harm and turmoil. (Petitioner's Reply Exceptions at p. 1)

Upon a careful and independent review of these arguments and the tape of the hearing conducted at OAL, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ granting emergent relief in this matter. The Commissioner finds that based on the particular factual circumstances operative herein, the record is sufficient to demonstrate that petitioner has met the standards for emergent relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Accordingly, the Motion for Emergent Relief is granted and A.K. is hereby ordered to be readmitted to school in the South Orange and Maplewood School District during the pendency of an expedited hearing on the merits of this matter at OAL.

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners, three tenured school secretaries, sought a determination that the Board impermissibly reduced their salaries in violation of the tenure law, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2.

ALJ concluded that since the overpayments made to petitioners occurred only in connection with their part-time duties at the Board's adult evening school, the Board did not reduce any compensation protected by the tenure laws. (Spiewak and N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2) ALJ found that the Board had not only the right, but also the responsibility, to correct its error and recoup the monies. Petitioners' motion for summary decision was denied. The Board's motion for summary decision affirming its actions and dismissing the matter was granted.

Commissioner found that the part-time evening school positions were separate and distinct from the full-time secretarial positions held by petitioners with the Board and that petitioners did not acquire tenure in their positions as part-time adult evening school secretaries in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2. Accordingly, the Commissioner denied petitioners' motion for summary decision and dismissed the petition.

Record Closed: September 11, 1995

Decided: October 18, 1995

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter commenced on August 16, 1994, when Barbara Sklute, Faye Mountford and Jan Oliver (hereinafter petitioners) filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education seeking a determination that the Board of Education of the City of Trenton (hereinafter respondent) had impermissibly reduced their salaries in violation of the tenure law N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2. An answer was filed on behalf of respondent on September 21, 1994, and on October 7, 1994 the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A prehearing conference was conducted on February 28, 1995 at which time it was determined that the parties would submit cross-motions for summary decision. Petitioners' motion and supporting papers were received on April 17, 1995. Respondent's cross-motion and supporting papers were received on April 20, 1995. A reply on behalf of petitioners was received on May 1, 1995 and a reply on behalf of respondent was received on May 2, 1995. Oral argument on the cross-motions was conducted on July 7, 1995. As a result thereof, respondent filed supplemental papers including the affidavit of Anita McLaurin on July 24, 1995. Petitioners filed a supplemental letter memorandum on July 25, 1995. Oral argument continued by telephone conference call on July 27, 1995. Thereafter respondent filed an additional letter memorandum on August 10, 1995. No response having been filed on behalf of petitioners, the record closed on September 11, 1995.

FINDINGS OF FACT

In conjunction with their initial written submissions, the parties submitted the following joint stipulation of facts:

1. Petitioners Barbara Sklute, Faye Mountford and Jan Oliver are school secretaries employed by respondent Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County. Each petitioner acquired tenure as a secretary in the employ of respondent under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2.
2. At a meeting of the Board held on September 23, 1993, respondent approved the appointment of petitioners to the positions of part-time Senior Secretary assigned to the Adult Evening High School, effective September 1, 1993 through June 30, 1994. These appointments were in addition to petitioners' regular secretarial positions.

3. On or about June 3, 1994 petitioner Barbara Sklute received her regular payroll check which also included the sum of $732.42 as payment for services rendered in the position of part-time Senior Secretary assigned to the Adult Evening High School.
4. On or about June 3, 1994 petitioner Faye Mountford received her regular payroll check which also included the sum of $657.72 as payment for services rendered in the position of part-time Senior Secretary assigned to the Adult Evening High School.
5. On or about June 3, 1994 petitioner Jan Oliver received her regular payroll check which also included the sum of $573.84 as payment for services rendered in the position of part-time Senior Secretary assigned to the Adult Evening High School.
6. On or about June 8, 1994 each petitioner was advised by Respondent that she had received an overpayment in her June 3, 1994 payroll check.
7. Pursuant to an interoffice memo dated June 8, 1994, petitioner Barbara Sklute was advised that she received an overpayment in her June 3, 1994 payroll check in the amount of $244.14.
8. Pursuant to an interoffice memo dated June 8, 1994, petitioner Faye Mountford was advised that she received an overpayment in her June 3, 1994 payroll check in the amount of $219.12.
9. Pursuant to an interoffice memo dated June 8, 1994, petitioner Jan Oliver was advised that she received an overpayment in her June 3, 1994 payroll check in the amount of $191.28.
10. Deductions were thereafter made from petitioners' payroll checks dated June 17, 1994 to recover these overpayments.
11. On August 16, 1994 petitioners filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education. Respondent filed an answer on September 21, 1994 and the matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested matter.

In addition to the foregoing, the following relevant undisputed facts appear from subsequent written submissions and oral argument on the record.

The petitioners were each assigned to the Adult Evening School, three evenings per week and were required to work four hours per evening. The petitioners' compensation for these duties varied based upon their seniority in the district. Petitioner Mountford was paid at a rate of $18.27 per hour; petitioner Sklute was paid $18.78 per hour and petitioner Oliver was paid at $15.94 per hour. Earnings received by petitioners as a result of performance of their duties in the Adult Evening School were identified separately on their payroll stubs from their contract salaries as tenured secretaries. When each petitioner's earnings for the pay period May 14, 1994 to May 27, 1994 were calculated, an error was made when the payroll office used a rate of time-and-a-half instead of the per hour rate. Accordingly, petitioner Sklute received an overpayment of $244.14 in the pay check issued June 3, 1994; petitioner Mountford received an overpayment in the amount of $219.12 in that check and petitioner Oliver received an overpayment of $191.28. When respondent deducted the amounts of the overpayments from the compensation paid to petitioners in checks issued on June 17, 1994, the deductions were made from the amounts received in connection with petitioners' part-time job responsibilities in the Evening High School; the amounts attributable to their regular contract earnings were not affected.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, the rule governing motions for summary decision, provides:

(b) The motion for summary decision shall be served with briefs and with or without supporting affidavits. The decision sought may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. When a motion for summary the ALJ properly recognized that this principle, as defined in case law, rests upon the tenure rights of the affected employees, petitioners assert that the ALJ incorrectly found said principle inapplicable to the instant matter. Instead, petitioners argue that Capella, supra, on which the ALJ bases her conclusion that tenure does not extend to positions held in such optional programs as an adult evening school, has been effectively overruled by the court in Spiewak, supra. (Id. at p. 3) Moreover, petitioners assert

In Raboli v. Board of Education of the Bergen County Vocational Technical Schools, Bergen County, 1983 S.L.D. 196, the Commissioner upheld the ALJ's determination that administrators in an adult vocational education program who were properly certified and served in their positions for the requisite period of time had acquired tenure in those positions. In making his decision, the ALJ noted that, although such a program is permissive rather than mandatory, "once a Board exercises its discretionary authority, it is then required to be consistent with New Jersey statutes and regulations of the State Board of Education" including the interpretation of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 set forth in Spiewak, Raboli, 1983 S.L.D. at 207. (Id. at p. 4)

Petitioners, therefore, conclude that the Board's actions to recoup their overpayments in the instant matter were violative of their rights as tenured employees and urge the Commissioner to reverse the decision of the ALJ.

In its reply, the Board maintains that the Legislature has not afforded tenure protection to persons holding part-time positions in adult evening school programs. The Board argues that the cases cited in petitioners' exceptions, specifically, Raboli, supra and Milwit v. Board of Education of the City of Jersey City, 1988 S.L.D. 11, involved circumstances distinguishable from the instant matter in that these cases involve duly certified teachers, some having held tenure-eligible positions in the regular education program, who were serving in a full-time capacity in an adult educational program. Additionally, the Board challenges, these “decisions did not expressly find that Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. 63 (1982) overturned Capella v. Board of Ed. of Camden Vocational and Technical School, 145 N.J. Super. 209 (App. Div. 1976).” (Board’s Reply at p. 2) Moreover, the Board indicates that the Commissioner in Rabolli declined to reject Capella, and, instead, distinguished between persons employed in full-time and part-time capacities, while acknowledging the continued applicability of Capella. (Id.) Thus, the Board concludes, the decision in Capella has not been overturned as it pertains to part-time employees in adult evening school programs (Id. at p. 3), and the Commissioner should, therefore, uphold the initial decision of the ALJ.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner determines to adopt the initial decision of the ALJ denying petitioners’ motion for summary decision and dismissing the Petition of Appeal, for the reasons set forth below. Initially, the Commissioner notes that the part-time positions at the adult evening school were advertised each year (Petitioners’ Exceptions at p. 2) and petitioners were duly appointed to those positions by the Board. (Initial Decision at p. 2) Additionally, the amounts due petitioners for performance of their part-time duties at the adult evening school were identified separately on their payroll stubs from their contracted salaries as (full-time) tenured secretaries. (Id. at p. 4) Further, when the Board deducted the amounts of the overpayments from the compensation paid petitioners, such deductions were made from the amounts received in connection with their part-time duties in the adult evening school. (Id.) Thus, there appears to be no dispute, and the Commissioner so finds, that the part-time evening school positions were separate and distinct from the full-time secretarial positions held by petitioners with the Board, notwithstanding the single paycheck received by petitioners for administrative efficiency.

The Commissioner further recognizes the line of cases standing for the proposition that a board's recoupment of erroneous overpayments implicates the tenure statutes, inasmuch as such recoupment may be determined to be a reduction in compensation. The Commissioner also recognizes that N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2, the operative statute herein, prohibits such reduction in compensation for secretaries who have acquired tenure, absent a finding of neglect, misbehavior or other offense. However, the Commissioner finds that petitioners herein have not acquired tenure in their positions as part-time adult evening school secretaries in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2. That statute offers the protections of tenure to "[a]ny secretary who has or shall have devoted his full-time to the duties of his office and has or shall have served therein for three consecutive calendar years." (emphasis added) Inasmuch as petitioners' serve part-time in their roles as secretaries in the adult evening school, they have not acquired tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 in those positions.¹ Doris A. Walsh v. Borough of Laurel Springs Board of Education, decided May 14, 1992. Here, the statutory language is clear and unambiguous; as Spiewak instructs, it is the intent of the Legislature which controls. Having so determined, it is unnecessary for the Commissioner to reach the issue of tenure protection for school secretaries as it pertains to employment in an optional evening school program.

Inasmuch as the petitioners do not have tenure rights in their part-time secretarial positions in the adult evening school, the ALJ properly found that the Board's recoupment of its overpayments "did not reduce any compensation protected by the tenure laws" and, thus, was entirely appropriate. (Initial Decision at pp. 7, 8)

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the ALJ's denial of petitioners' motion for summary decision and dismisses the within matter for the reasons expressed herein.

PETITIONERS-APPELLANTS,

V.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY,

DECISION

RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, December 1, 1995

For the Petitioners-Appellants, Zazzali, Zazzali, Fagella & Nowak (Kathleen A. Naprstek, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Sumners, Council, George & Dortch (Thomas W. Sumners, Jr., Esq. and Guiffre M. Hollingsworth, Esq., of Counsel)

Barbara Sklute, Faye Mountford and Jan Oliver (hereinafter "petitioners"), school secretaries employed by the Board of Education of the City of Trenton (hereinafter "Board"), filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education alleging that the Board had improperly reduced their salaries in violation of their tenure rights. As stipulated by the parties, each of the petitioners had acquired tenure in the district as a secretary under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2.

FEB. 2, 2000

In September 1993, the Board assigned the petitioners to the Adult Evening High School as part-time senior secretaries for the period from September 1, 1993 through June 30, 1994. These assignments were in addition to petitioners' regular full-time secretarial positions in the district. The petitioners' salaries for their duties at the evening school were established by the Board as follows: Sklute was to be paid at a rate of $18.78 per hour, Mountford was to be paid $18.27 per hour, and Oliver was to be paid $15.95 per hour. Although the petitioners each received a single paycheck covering all of their secretarial responsibilities in the district, earnings they received as a result of the performance of their duties at the evening school were identified separately on their pay stubs. Thus, the petitioners received their regular paychecks which also included an additional sum as payment for services rendered at the evening school.

On June 8, 1994, the petitioners were advised by the Board that they had received an overpayment in their June 3, 1994 paychecks. Petitioner Sklute was advised that she had received an overpayment in the amount of $244.14, petitioner Mountford was advised that she had received an overpayment of $219.12, and petitioner Oliver was advised that she had received an overpayment of $191.28. The overpayments occurred when the district's payroll office erroneously used a rate of time-and-a-half instead of the per-hour rate in calculating the petitioners' earnings at the evening school for the pay period running from May 14 to May 27, 1994. In order to recoup these overpayments, the Board deducted the amount of the overpayments from petitioners' paychecks dated June 17, 1994. The deductions were made from the amounts received by the petitioners in connection with their assignments at the evening school. Petitioners contend that the Board's action constituted a reduction in compensation in violation of their tenure rights acquired under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2.¹

During the proceedings in the Office of Administrative Law, the parties submitted cross-motions for summary decision. On October 18, 1995, an administrative law judge ("ALJ") recommended granting the Board's motion for summary decision and dismissing the petition. The ALJ concluded that the petitioners had no tenure rights in their part-time evening school assignments. Consequently, since the overpayments occurred only in connection with the petitioners' duties at the evening school and the recoupment of those overpayments affected only subsequent earnings attributable to the evening school assignments, the ALJ determined that the Board had not reduced any compensation protected by the tenure laws.

On December 1, 1995, the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's findings and conclusions and dismissed the petition. The Commissioner agreed that the petitioners' evening school assignments were separate and distinct from their full-time secretarial positions and that the petitioners had not achieved tenure in their evening school assignments. As a result, the Board could reduce the portion of their paychecks attributable to the evening school assignments in order to recoup an overpayment made in connection with those assignments without violating the tenure rights acquired by the petitioners in their full-time secretarial positions.

c. Any person, who has acquired, or shall hereafter acquire, tenure in any secretarial or clerical office, position or employment under the board of education of a school district and has been appointed district clerk or secretary, or shall hereafter be appointed secretary of said district, as such secretary, shall hold his office, position or employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and shall not be dismissed or suspended or reduced in compensation, except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense and only in the manner prescribed by subarticle B of article 2 of chapter 6 of this title.

The petitioners filed the instant appeal to the State Board.

After a thorough review of the record, we affirm the Commissioner's determination to dismiss the petition, but modify his analysis. Under the circumstances, we find it unnecessary to determine whether the petitioners had tenure rights in their part-time assignments at the adult evening school.

The facts herein are analogous to the situation in Trenton Education Association, et al. v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, decided by the State Board of Education, December 1, 1999, in which we determined that the Trenton board had not violated the tenure rights of its custodial employees when it reduced six of their bi-weekly paychecks during the 1992-93 school year in order to recoup an overpayment. The overpayment in that case had not resulted from action by the Trenton board in erroneously placing the custodians on the negotiated salary guide or incorrectly establishing their salaries under the terms of that guide. Rather, the board had erred in calculating the specific amounts to be included in the custodians' bi-weekly paychecks based on their established annual salaries. Nor was there any indication in that case that the custodial employees had received compensation for the 1992-93 school year which was less than the amount established by the board under the terms of the district's negotiated guide or as set forth in that guide. Under those circumstances, we concluded that the Trenton board's action in recouping the overpayments by reducing the custodians bi-weekly paychecks during the course of the year did not constitute an impermissible reduction in compensation as contemplated by N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 and 17-4.

Similarly, it is undisputed in the instant case that the overpayments did not result from the incorrect establishment of the petitioners' salaries in their part-time evening school assignments. Rather, the district's payroll office erroneously used a time-and-a-half rate in calculating the petitioners' earnings in those assignments for one two-week period. Pursuant to our determination in Trenton Education Association, supra, the tenure laws do not prohibit the Board from recovering such an overpayment by reducing the petitioners' paychecks. Thus, under the particular circumstances presented herein, we conclude that the Board's action in deducting the amount of the overpayment from subsequent paychecks issued to the petitioners, regardless of whether they had tenure rights in the evening school assignments, did not constitute an impermissible reduction in compensation.

We therefore affirm the Commissioner's determination to dismiss the petition, but do so for the reasons expressed herein.

Attorney exceptions are noted.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that dismissal of this matter was proper based on petitioner's failure to comply with court rules. The Commissioner finds that after receiving proper notice, petitioner's failure to notify the ALJ within the prescribed timeline of his intent to pursue this appeal sufficiently warranted dismissal of the instant case.

SYNOPSIS

Board certified tenure charges of incapacity, incompetence and unbecoming conduct against respondent, middle school science teacher.

Having considered testimony of witnesses and exhibits presented, the ALJ concluded that the Board demonstrated by a preponderance of credible evidence the charges of incapacity and incompetence by his chronic absenteeism and his inability to perform his teaching functions. Moreover, the ALJ concluded that the telephone calls he made to a stranger constituted unbecoming conduct, noting that each of the charges separately constituted cause for dismissal of respondent from his tenured position.

Commissioner concurred with findings and determination in initial decision and ordered respondent dismissed from his tenured teaching position as of the date of his decision.

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On November 15, 1994, the Board of Education of the Township of Parsippány-Troy Hills (Board or petitioner) filed an amended certification of tenure charges against Greg Molinaro (Molinaro or respondent) with the State Department of Education (DOE). Molinaro filed an answer on December 9, 1994. The DOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on December 15, 1994 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Telephone conferences were conducted throughout the proceedings. Hearings were scheduled for July 24 through July 27, 1995.

Respondent's counsel represented on the record on July 24, 1995 that Molinaro had decided to proffer a resignation from his position, provided that there was a determination by this judge that if such proffer were accepted, the tenure charges would be deemed moot. Oral argument was conducted on July 24, 1995, and I ruled that a resignation, even if not conditional, would not moot the tenure charges. That ruling is incorporated herein.

The hearing was thereupon adjourned to give respondent time to consider and file an interlocutory appeal. Respondent did not do so, and hearings were held on July 25 through 27, 1995. Post-hearing briefs were filed on August 25, 1995. Subsequent to further communications with the parties, the record was closed on September 7, 1995.

NATURE OF THE PROCEEDINGS

On October 24, 1994, the Board determined that probable cause existed to credit tenure charges against respondent and that the charges were of sufficient severity that, if found to be true, to warrant Molinaro's dismissal as a tenured teaching staff member. The Board charged respondent with incapacity, incompetence, and unbecoming conduct. More specifically, the tenure charges state that Molinaro engaged in chronic absenteeism, displayed and continued to display totally inadequate teaching and classroom management skills, even after repeated assistance, support, warnings, and increment withholdings, and that he made a series of sexually harassing telephone calls to Elizabeth Indano (Indano) during the period August 19 through August 23, 1994. In the latter respect, the tenure charges reference an investigation by the Stanhope Police Department in August 1994. The Board also suspended respondent without pay, pending resolution of the matter.

The issues to be determined, broadly articulated, are whether petitioner has demonstrated, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, the charges and, if so, what discipline, if any, should be imposed on Molinaro.

STIPULATION

Molinaro was arrested on August 23, 1995 in Stanhope for making obscene telephone calls. The parties stipulated that he pled guilty in the Stanhope Municipal Court to the following charge:

within the jurisdiction of this court and with purpose to harass Elizabeth Indano engaged in the course of alarming conduct or of a repeatedly committed acts with the purpose to alarm or seriously annoy Elizabeth Indano, specifically by making telephone calls containing explicit sexually oriented comments, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:33-4.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon a review of the entire record, including credibility assessments of the witnesses, I FIND the following to be facts.

Molinaro, who is 48 years old, has been employed by respondent since September 1970 as a middle school science teacher. Throughout his term of employment, respondent has taught at Central Middle School (Central). During the school years ending 1992, 1993 and 1994, Molinaro also taught at the Brooklawn Middle School (Brooklawn). During those three school years, he taught three classes daily at Central and two classes per day at Brooklawn. For the school year ending 1994, Molinaro taught a total of thirty-nine students at Central and fifty-eight students at Brooklawn. Molinaro is currently a tenured teacher with respondent. There are approximately 600 teachers in the district.

Angelo Guiliana (Guiliana) is the principal of Central, having served in that capacity since 1986. Guiliana's duties include observing and evaluating classroom teachers assigned to Central. Eugene Vasile (Vasile) is petitioner's director of personnel.

During the three school years that Molinaro taught at both Central and Brooklawn, he was observed at both schools. Observations were conducted by Guiliana at Central, James Simes (Simes), the science supervisor, at both Central and Brooklawn, and Ken Graham (Graham), Brooklawn's principal, at Brooklawn. Pursuant to Board policy, Guiliana was deemed primarily responsible for the evaluation of Molinaro because respondent spent the majority of his teaching time at Central. Guiliana was therefore responsible for the year-end performance evaluations in all of the school years at issue in the current matter.

Indana is thirty-four years old. She resides with her husband and two minor children in Stanhope. Neither Indano, nor any member of her family, has been employed or affiliated with respondent. She is not employed outside of the home.

On August 19, 1994, a Friday, at approximately 12:00 p.m., Molinaro called Indano, speaking with her on the telephone. He asked if she knew who he was, and she responded in the negative. Because he was whispering and there was noise in the background, she had difficulty hearing him. Indano asked Molinaro what his name was. He did not provide it but said: "You know why and why I whisper--someone might hear. You know who. I have to go." (Indano's direct testimony).¹ Indano initially thought that someone, possibly her husband, was playing a trick on her.

Molinaro thereafter called Indano three additional times on August 19, 1994, whispering each time. The content of his communications became more graphic and sexual in nature, and Indano subsequently began to become concerned and fearful.

¹ The transcript of the hearing held on July 26, 1995 was not available to this judge.

Molinaro called a second time at approximately 1:00 p.m., inquiring of Indano who was home with her and where she was located in the house. She responded that her children were home and that she was near a bathroom. At this point, she still thought someone was playing a joke on her. Molinaro then asked what Indano was wearing, and she responded that she was dressed in shorts and a shirt. He asked if she could take her clothes off and hung up.

The content of Molinaro's telephone conversations became more disturbing during the third and fourth calls. During one of those, he described what he had allegedly done to someone who looked like Indano, someone who had the same color hair as that of Indano, which is a reddish/coppertone color. More specifically, Molinaro told Indano that he had previously met a woman who looked like her while he was at a mall with a friend, brought the woman to his house, and while he was in a closet, observed his friend and the woman engaging in anal sex. During the latter calls, Molinaro also again asked who was home with Indano and requested that she remove her clothes and touch herself. By this time, Indano was trying to keep Molinaro on the telephone as long as possible to try to recognize his voice or notice a possible clue to his identity. She still could not believe that it was a stranger.

Indano told her husband of the calls when he returned home from work that evening, inquiring if he had been involved with playing a joke on her. He replied that he knew nothing of the calls. It then "hit her" that a stranger had called, and she began feeling frightened and "despondent." (Ibid.) The next morning, Indano called the Stanhope police department and was advised to push certain buttons on her telephone to trace any subsequent calls.

Molinaro again called Indano on August 22, 1994, at approximately 7:30 a.m. He asked if she were home alone, if she had felt "horny" over the weekend; Molinaro called Indano a total of three or four times on August 22.

During the first call, he also asked her if she did anything about "being horny," and if she would meet him. (Ibid.) She replied that she would not because she was afraid, and he responded that she did not have to be afraid, he was "a nice guy." (Ibid.) During one of the telephone calls, Molinaro also asked Indano if she "did other guys." (Ibid.) He spoke in a "whispering" tone of voice.

Indano did not immediately hang up because she was still trying to identify him and felt "desperate" about the situation. (Ibid.) Indano tried to initiate a tracer on the first phone call, but pushed the wrong buttons on her telephone. She subsequently called the Stanhope police department and, in response, Police Chief Douglas Waldron (Waldron) came to her home and had a caller identification mechanism installed on the phone. Waldron also requested assistance from the Sussex County Sheriff's Department in the investigation. A sheriff's officer was assigned to Indano's residence. Subsequent calls from Molinaro to Indano during the evening of August 22, 1994 were traced to local public phones.

A sheriff's officer was present at Indano's home during the day on August 23, 1994. Indano did not receive any telephone calls from Molinaro at that time.

Respondent called Indano at approximately 10:00 p.m. on August 23, 1994. Indano made efforts to keep him on the line as long as possible in order to trace the call. Molinaro asked who was at Indano's residence that day, and she replied that her husband was home. Molinaro then asked "Did you do it with him" and what she had done during the day. (Ibid.) She replied that she had gone to the mall, and Molinaro again asked what she had done. Indano stated that she had tried on clothes. Molinaro asked her to undress and touch herself while they were talking. She responded that she would not, and he stated: "You know what I want you to do." Indano's perception, based on the sound of Molinaro's voice, was that he was masturbating while he was speaking to her. His voice was "shuddering." (Ibid.) However, he did not tell her that he was doing so. At that point, he hung up.

The call was traced to a public phone in the parking lot of a Days Inn on Route 46 in Roxbury, New Jersey (Roxbury). While Indano was talking to Molinaro, her husband and Raymond Elliot (Elliot), a neighbor and family friend, determined that the call was coming from the Days Inn, left the house, and called the Stanhope police department with this information. When the calls first commenced, Elliot had compiled an extensive list of telephone numbers assigned to local public telephones; he and Mr. Indano utilized this list to determine the location from which the call was coming on the evening of August 23, 1994.

Waldron was largely responsible for the Stanhope police department's investigation of Indano's complaints. The Detective Bureau, as well as a uniformed officer, assisted Waldron on the evening of August 23, 1994. While Indano continued to speak to Molinaro, Waldron, after receiving the call from Mr. Indano identifying the location of the public telephone, dispatched Patrolman Charles Zweigle (Zweigle) to the Days Inn. Waldron then left for the same location, arriving after Zweigle. Three or four Roxbury police officers were present.

Upon arrival, Zweigle pulled onto the shoulder of the road, in view of two pay phones located in the parking lot of the Days Inn. He observed Molinaro driving a Jeep Cherokee away from one of the phones, toward Zweigle's vehicle. The jeep turned and attempted to leave through the entrance to the lot. Zweigle initiated a motor vehicle stop, and other officers arrived at this time. Zweigle noted in a report regarding the incident that he (Zweigle) observed that the zipper of Molinaro's pants were open and that respondent was holding a white rag, which Molinaro subsequently placed on the front passenger seat before exiting the vehicle, at which time he also zipped his pants. Zweigle advised Molinaro of the latter's rights. The white rag was taken by police personnel as evidence, and the jeep was impounded.

When Waldron arrived, Zweigle told Waldron what had happened. Waldron then also advised Molinaro of respondent's rights and asked Molinaro what he had been doing. Respondent did not directly reply, but indicated that he was returning from attendance at Little League games in Pennsylvania and was calling friends. Waldron arrested Molinaro, and respondent was transported to the Stanhope police station, where he was again informed of his rights and was also informed of the nature of the police investigation. He was charged with violations of N.J.S.A. 2C:33-4, 12-1(A)(3), and 34-2(A)(1)(A). Waldron asked respondent if he had made the calls in question. Molinaro did not directly reply, indicating that he was not trying to hurt anyone. He also stated that he wanted to go home and "think things over" and return several days later. (Waldron's direct testimony) Molinaro repeatedly referenced his prior activities as an umpire of various sports events and the many individuals whom he knew.

Elliot and other friends encouraged Indano to be present in court on the day when Molinaro pled guilty. She could not make herself go.

Subsequent to the calls in question, Indano formed a belief that the caller was someone who knew who she was and/or had previously seen her. These conclusions were based upon references during the calls to the color of her hair and her resemblance to other individuals. During one of the calls on one of the dates in question, Molinaro had asked Indano if her hair was the same color as her pubic hair and stated that he knew of other women who looked like her. The Indanos had a business sign in front of their home with their telephone number. Indano thought that Molinaro had perhaps seen her walking in the vicinity of her house and noted the telephone number. Police reports filed regarding communications from Indano stated that she had indicated to police officials that the caller had told her that he knew who she was, where she lived, how many children she had, and where she was at certain times. The Stanhope police department treated Indano's complaints as involving a possible stalker.

Approximately ten days after the calls, Indano was hospitalized because of a desire to commit suicide. She was diagnosed as suffering from depression and post-traumatic stress syndrome, at least in part, related to the calls in question. She subsequently commenced therapy, which is still continuing, in part for other reasons.

She feels that she was "violated" and cannot trust anyone. She is still fearful for her children to be alone outside. (Indano's redirect testimony).

Elliot and his family have known the Indanos for several years. Prior to the calls in question, his perception was that Indano was an "easygoing," "trusting," "innocent," individual. He has noted "marked changes" in her personality since the incident in question. To his perception, Indano is now "very leery" of others. Although she walked a lot in the past, she is now fearful of doing so. She appears "intimidated" whenever the phone rings. Indano still maintains a caller identification mechanism on her phone and lets it ring four to five times before answering. (Ibid.)

Guiliana has known Molinaro for eight years as a result of respondent's employment as a teacher at Central. At the middle school level in the district, science is heavily laboratory-oriented, involving much student/teacher interaction. The curriculum for middle school students requires that they have a minimum of four to five labs, which can last anywhere from two to three days, during a marking period, at least one a week.

Guiliana was assigned to Central initially for the 1986-87 school year. He observed Molinaro at Least five times. He concluded that Molinaro generally had difficulty in performing as a teacher in a lab-oriented environment. From then on, he and other personnel worked with Molinaro to help respondent incorporate labs into the curriculum. At that point, the middle school science program was essentially not a laboratory approach; it was either demonstration or paperwork given to the students. Molinaro generally consumed ten to fifteen minutes, out of a forty-minute lesson for introduction, a matter usually covered by teachers in several minutes.

Guiliana first evaluated respondent on approximately September 23, 1986, providing comments apparently of a negative nature, which was difficult for Molinaro ". . . to swallow after seventeen years. I think he could have been a little more tactful starting out with me." (Transcript, 7/27/95, p.5). Guiliana met with respondent on May 1, 1987 regarding general concerns.

Simes and possibly a Mr. O'Harra ('O'Harra), the vice principal at Central, also observed Molinaro during that school year. After the first observation, Guiliana adhered to a clinical approach, pursuant to which Guiliana met with Molinaro prior to a lesson. Respondent would describe the goals and objectives of the lesson, the two mutually planned it, and Guiliana would subsequently observe the class during which it was presented and then subsequently confer with respondent. (Transcript, 7/25/95, p. 75).

O'Harra, who was also part of the evaluation process, functioned as the disciplinarian at Central. O'Harra sent Guiliana a memorandum dated May 19, 1987, which constituted a report of a summary conference conducted by O'Harra with Molinaro prior to a formal observation and the subsequent evaluation of such observation. The issues noted and discussed with Molinaro included lateness of respondent and students, classes not commencing promptly, the absence of a statement of a lesson objective or other introductory remarks, the provision of only a very brief exchange between respondent and the class, followed by work from a book or a mimeographed sheet, and no real summary of the current day's work. The materials were collected with little or no comment. The report noted that respondent had communicated to O'Harra that Molinaro felt that with O'Harra's support and direction, respondent could make progress in correcting the deficiencies noted. The report was prepared at Guiliana's direction and constituted an observation which was included in Molinaro's formal year-end evaluation.

In June of 1987, Guiliana prepared a Performance Evaluation Report (PER) pertinent to Molinaro's performance and evaluations during the 1986-87 school year. As of that time, Guiliana and others had been working with Molinaro to assist him in utilizing instructional techniques to focus students on class tasks. As noted in the applicable PER, respondent had made efforts to improve his approach to eighth-grade students, had developed single concept lessons, and had expended efforts to incorporate more laboratory activities into the classroom. However, Guiliana noted in the PER that if significant improvement in the planning and implementing of teaching strategies were not made during the next school year, a loss of increment would be considered. The PER noted that respondent was to work with a supervisor and the principal on a regular basis to develop effective lessons and check-points for monitoring success. The comments also noted that Molinaro had attempted to improve his approach to discipline. Guiliana rated respondent as exhibiting conditionally acceptable performance in planning and organizing and implementation and interaction; as exceeding acceptable performance, in evaluation and record keeping; and acceptable performance, in professional relations/growth. Regarding professional relationship and growth, the only suggestion was for Molinaro to take an in-service professional course, which he did not do. The overall recommendation was for reemployment with an increment.

Planning and organization address a lesson plan developed by a teacher prior to implementation of a class. Implementation, as indicated by the term itself, involves effectuation of the lesson. Record keeping pertains to maintenance of an actual record of test results or evaluations and recordation of grade equivalents for each marking period. Professional relations and growth address what an individual employee does to maintain himself/herself professionally. Evaluation of a teacher's implementation and interaction involves rating his/her classroom management and organization of the material during a lesson or interaction with students. Evaluation of respondent in these areas as conditionally acceptable indicated that Molinaro had to make significant improvement. In Guiliana's view, the conditional acceptable performance was therefore carried over to the 1987-88 school year so that respondent would have an opportunity to demonstrate improvement. PERs are year-end evaluations based on formal evaluations done throughout the school year, conferences, input from students and parents, etc.

Molinaro did not complete the 1986-87 school year, having to take a medical leave of absence, commencing May 7, 1987, because of an ear surgery. He did not return to school that year. He utilized all sick time accumulated as of that point. Respondent was unmarried during his first eleven years of employment with respondent and did not take family illness days from 1970 to 1980. Consistent with respondent's practices, administrators held conferences with Molinaro regarding each PER performed over the years. A copy of the June 1987 evaluation was mailed to Molinaro, probably over the summer.

During the first half of the 1987-88 school year, Molinaro performed satisfactorily. However, he never performed well regarding planning and implementation. Observations were conducted on October 7, 1987, October 23, 1987, December 8, 1987, February 11, 1987, and March 9, 1988.

Informal conferences were held with respondent prior to March 14, 1988 to discuss patterns of problems and the possibility of a withholding of an increment. A formal conference was conducted on March 14, 1988. The formal observations resulted in notations and discussions of patterns of problems. Informal observations, which were announced or unannounced, were a "clinical-type of supervision" for the purpose of gathering data. Conferences were conducted with respondent prior to the observations with a view towards identifying any problems. (Id. at p. 88). This approach provided respondent with an opportunity to correct any problems before the class observation. Respondent did not improve his performance regarding planning, organization, implementation, and inaction during the 1987-88 school year.

The 1987-88 school year commenced with a conference held among Molinaro, Guiliana, and Simes. It was agreed that the latter two individuals would provide direct in-service for the development of laboratories and the implementation of such. On a weekly basis, either Guiliana or Simes met with Molinaro to review respondent's plans for his classes. Simes or Guiliana then observed the class in question. This process continued for more than six weeks. Ultimately, Simes and Guiliana "backed away" because they "... had to have him do it on his own." (Transcript 7/25/95, p. 18). At that point, Molinaro reverted to a non-laboratory approach in his classes, and the problems experienced during the prior school year reemerged. Large amounts of non-instructional time were spent in class, during which discipline problems developed. Molinaro again evidenced an inability to plan and implement a laboratory approach, to commence a class in a timely fashion, and to end a class properly. At the most, there were ten minutes of actual instructional time during an individual class, the other 30 minutes being unrelated to the objectives of the lesson. Molinaro, similar to the prior year, did not have enough academic indicators during a marking term. A review of his records evidenced one test for a five-week period. Molinaro's record keeping showed no academic indicators for the third marking period, i.e., there was no evidence of tests being assessed or given, no quizzes, no laboratory reports, etc. The administration gave Molinaro time to redo his grade book, but respondent never submitted an upgraded record book.

Several communications and conferences occurred during March of 1988 pertaining to respondent. On March 14, 1988, Molinaro attended a conference with Simes, Deloris McGreevy (McGreevy), a union representative, and Guiliana. The observation of March 9, 1988, as well as a recommendation for withholding an increment for the 1988-89 school year, were discussed. Deficiencies in classroom management and instruction were delineated, as were excessive administrative time to initiate classroom activity or active management of the class, an indication in Molinaro's record book of only one academic grade at a point in time past the mid-marking period, and a lack of apparent planning for lessons. The discussion focused on perceived difficulties of the administration which had been noted in the previous school year as well as in September 1987 and which still continued. Management communicated concern regarding a lack of management control by respondent of students, resulting in a situation in which students left class before dismissal time, students came to class five to ten minutes late, and an inability by Molinaro to implement the laboratory approach. Another focal point of the conference was the absence of grades for half of a marking period for Molinaro's five classes. Respondent's policy in this respect is to have a minimum of ten academic indicators per marking period. A report of the March 14, 1988 conference was written in conjunction with McGreevy. Molinaro was given ten days in which to verify his record keeping and have at least two or three formal observations. At the end of that time, an additional assessment was planned to determine Molinaro's future status.

Guiliana communicated with a Dr. Perlett (Perlett), respondent's assistant superintendent in charge of instruction, by memorandum dated March 23, 1988, regarding the possibility of withholding an increment for respondent. Guiliana summarized observations, evaluations, and conferences in this respect. Prior observations, as reflected in the March 23, 1988 memorandum, also revealed general situations in which students paid no heed to Molinaro's directions. To Guiliana's observations, ". . . it would be as if the room were empty and he was giving directions and there was no one there to respond to it." (Id. at p. 28). Guiliana's conclusions in this respect were based on his own observations of Molinaro and those of O'Harra, as communicated by O'Harra. By memorandum dated March 29, 1988 to a Mrs. Krawitz, the district's superintendent, Guiliana recommended that Molinaro have his increment withheld in the 1988-89 school year.

Problems persisted through the Spring of 1988. The instructional program was especially lacking for Molinaro's eighth-grade classes. Lesson plans were not included in Molinaro's records, and there was no focus on an objective. Even minimal instruction was not occurring. During class time, students engaged in inappropriate behaviors, such as walking around the room. Molinaro disregarded the behavior and did not make efforts to correct it.

Respondent did not complete the 1987-88 school year. In mid-April 1988, Guiliana advised Molinaro, at a meeting between the two, that after having checked with the superintendent, Guiliana believed that if Molinaro took a medical leave, respondent could have the rest of the year off with salary. Guiliana indicated that he believed respondent needed a rest. Molinaro contemplated ear surgery at that time, providing a physician's documentation for medical leave to the district, at Guiliana's request. He was paid in full from mid-April 1988 through June 1988. However, ear surgery actually did not come to fruition.

On June 23, 1988, Guiliana completed a PER regarding Molinaro for the 1987-88 school year, in which the observed problems were noted. Guiliana rated respondent's planning and organization, implementation and interaction, and evaluation and record keeping as exhibiting a consistently unacceptable performance; and respondent's professional relations and growth, as unacceptable performance. The recommendation was for reemployment with the withholding of an increment.

Molinaro was suspended with pay for the 1988-89 and 1989-90 school years because of then pending tenure charges. When Molinaro returned to his teaching assignments in September 1990, the administration at Central advised him that ". . . we would start anew and from scratch." (Id. at p. 33). Guiliana determined that respondent's performance during the 1990-91 school year warranted a recommendation for loss of an increment; such action was not taken, however, because of the prior absences. The recommendation at the end of the 1990-91 school year was to reemploy Molinaro with an increment. However, respondent's implementation and interaction with students was deemed to be conditionally acceptable and not of sufficient improvement over the last PER.

Guiliana completed a PER for the 1990-91 school year in May of 1991, in which the noted deficiencies were stated. A lack of sufficient laboratory presentations were noted, as well as Molinaro's teaching technique of presenting instructional material in a lecture-style manner, in contradistinction to the stated curriculum. The performance areas needing improvement/development were stated as the need for planning to focus on student outcomes, maintenance of content proficiencies, instructionally based student management, the use of cooperative learning activities, the need for maximization of instructional time, especially at the beginning and end of classes, and a need for significant improvement in planning and implementation. Guiliana rated Molinaro as having acceptable performance in the areas of planning and organization, evaluation and record keeping, and professional relations and growth and as having conditionally acceptable performance in the area of implementation and interaction. The PER also noted that an initial evaluation during the next school year would be completed by December 1991 and that any recommendation for an increment for the 1992-93 school term would be based on the noted recommendations. The overall recommendation was for reemployment with an increment.

Respondent exhibited the same pattern for the 1991-92 school year that had been employed during the 1987-88 school year. The administration provided an extensive amount of in-service to Molinaro, commencing in September 1991. Many observations were conducted during the first half of the school year, and respondent's performance generally improved. Respondent's plan books were evaluated on a weekly basis, and Molinaro exhibited a willingness to follow suggestions. During this school year, as well as during the 1987-88 school year, Molinaro was provided with individual supervision well beyond that given to other teachers in the district. This was done by Guiliana and Simes, who were involved in individual lesson planning. Conferences were conducted prior to a lesson being implemented, observation of the lesson was performed, and a conference was thereafter conducted with respondent. Guiliana is required to conduct one formal observation of teachers annually. At the most, two formal observations during a school year are generally conducted.

On the whole, although 1991-92 was a "troublesome year," Molinaro "succeeded." (Id. at p. 77). It was one of his more successful school years. Respondent's father died on May 30, 1992, causing respondent to be absent for a period of time.

The improvement in Molinaro's performance was reflected in the PER for the 1991-92 school year, which was completed by Guiliana in May of 1992. The PER noted Molarino's willingness to accept suggestions but also the need for more parental communication and student participation, although progress had been demonstrated in the latter respect. Guiliana also noted that respondent's overall management of his classes was good but that with "more demanding students, more attention was needed to planning for activities to maintain focus and time on tasks." Guiliana also noted in the PER that the academic indicators were varied and that there was a need for professional development. Guiliana rated respondent's performance pertinent to evaluation and record keeping as consistently superior and his performance relevant to planning and organization, implementation and interaction, and professional relations and growth as acceptable. The overall recommendation was for reemployment with an increment. (Exhibit P-6).

Respondent commenced the 1992-93 school year in a fashion similar to that during the prior school year, and he progressed satisfactorily through mid-year. Molinaro was observed on a regular basis because, at least in part, of a belief in the administration that he had had a good year the prior school year because of close intervention. In fact, Molinaro was the only teacher for whom Guiliana was responsible whose plan book was reviewed weekly by Guiliana.

Subsequent to the mid-break, after Christmas 1992, Molinaro began exhibiting a pattern of dealing with students which he had previously demonstrated. Instead of disciplining students as needed, he dismissed them from class unsupervised, sending them to the library or allowing them to wander in the hallways. Molinaro also brought an entire class to the library, leaving them there for full classroom periods. Ultimately, the librarian advised the administration of the situation, complaining that she was in essence becoming a teacher for the classes. This situation continued for approximately one week. In addition, students did not report to his classes. Molinaro did not seek the intervention of Guiliana or the vice principal. Molinaro's manner of dealing with student's needing discipline was not acceptable from the administration's viewpoint. Guiliana was concerned about the possible outcome of a lack of supervision of students. This situation existed for a period of time, resulting in close observation by Guiliana and other supervisors.

Guiliana also noted that respondent again began exhibiting a pattern of a lack of focus and a non-laboratory approach in his classes. To Guiliana's perception, respondent lacked the ". . . energy level to sustain the day-by-day activities . . ." (Transcript 7/25/95, p. 36). These patterns continued through the spring 1993 vacation.

Students were disruptive in Molinaro's classes. Instead of identifying problems with the administration, the guidance office or disciplining students through detention or other means, Molinaro would send children from the classroom. Administrative personnel would find students playing volley ball in the gymnasium and also find them in the lunch room. Students were in a variety of locations without permission. When this situation emerged as a pattern, the administration commenced having conferences with Molinaro. Towards the end of the school year, students of Molinaro, as well as parents, started expressing concerns to the administration regarding what was occurring in Molinaro's classrooms. Parents complained that their children were not learning. Students were advising the administration that student behavior in the classrooms was so unruly that it was impossible for learning or teaching to occur. An array of services were available to deal with problems. The approach utilized by teachers was to communicate with the parents of students who were not performing well in class or to communicate regarding the students with the guidance office. Other methods of discipline included sending students to the administrative" office. Molinaro rarely, if ever, did so.

Guiliana conferred with respondent regarding the situation in April of 1993. Molinaro was informed by the administration that there were problems with liability of having students under his direct supervision unsupervised. Respondent told Guiliana: "I can't do this any more, I just can't do this. I'm getting very anxious and I just -- I just can't do it." (Id. at p. 37). At that point, the administration secured a month-two-month-substitute who was on call.

During the last week of April and all of May 1993, Molinaro was absent from his classes more than twenty days. On many occasions, respondent came to school indicating that he just could not teach; a substitute was assigned to his classes. On some days respondent would call in, and on others he would not. Respondent was not charged with sick days but he did not perform any duties on those days. Molinaro was absent for twenty days in May. Commencing on approximately June 1, 1993, he was on a leave of absence. In effect, from the spring break until the end of the school year, Molinaro did not perform any teaching duties.

During this general time period, Molinaro told Guiliana that respondent wanted to resign. Guiliana and Vasile also spoke with respondent's spouse on several occasions, recommending that respondent talk with Vasile about whether or not Molinaro should resign or take other action. From the administration's viewpoint, however, they needed to have a teacher to provide education in a consistent manner for students.

Molinaro did not teach his classes at Central, other than for two days, the fourth marking period in the 1992-93 school year, i.e., April through the end of June 1993. Subsequent to the spring 1993 vacation, the administration had a month-to-month-substitute on call who was assigned to Molinaro's classes whenever he was not present. As a general manner, a month-to-month-substitute is assigned to Central on a daily basis. The substitute is given a specific assignment based upon teacher absences. Because the administration never knew whether respondent would call in or be present, Guiliana instructed the substitute to report to Central daily and to be responsible for Molinaro's classes if respondent were not present. The substitute was not a certified science teacher. Molinaro's students had virtually no instruction during the third marking period and did not have the services of a regular certified science teacher for the entire fourth marking period.

Vasile never advised respondent in writing that there were problems with Molinaro's attendance. However, as Vasile began having discussions with Molinaro, he discussed Molinaro's attendance problems.

Vasile discussed respondent's attendance record with Molinaro during the Spring of 1993. Respondent appeared to be disturbed, having had a conversation with Guiliana regarding Molinaro's performance and attendance. Respondent spoke with Vasile several times, telling Vasile that he (respondent) was experiencing difficulties with reporting to work. Vasile told respondent that Vasile would try to find a way to help Molinaro deal with whatever was troubling him. They periodically discussed the possibility of Molinaro obtaining counseling. By the end of May 1993, Vasile was uncertain regarding Molinaro's intent. Respondent had indicated at various times that he would or would not be requesting a leave of absence. He eventually did. Respondent did not complete the 1992-93 school year because of stresses related to his employment as well as his personal life, including marital problems, which he had been experiencing for some eight years. During this time, respondent ". . . struggled going to work each day." (Id. at p. 16). Molinaro met with Guiliana and Vasile, noting that his accumulated sick leave had been utilized and that he needed income in order to support his children. Vasile subsequently advised Molinaro that there was nothing Vasile could do but grant an unpaid leave and that Molinaro would have to pay for his medical benefits during the summer. Molinaro agreed, realizing that "that he was . . . the one who doesn't want to return, go to work for a period." (Id. at p.18).

Respondent required that Molinaro undergo a psychiatric evaluation to assess the situation, which evaluation was performed, as a condition to a leave of absence. Respondent was ultimately evaluated by a Dr. Saw (Saw), who was associated with Morristown Memorial Hospital. Respondent was granted a leave of absence in June 1993. The Board had receipt of Saw's report by August 30 of that year. Saw reported to the district that because respondent was receiving counseling and apparently had his anxiety symptoms under control, there was no particular contra-indication to respondent returning to school for the 1993-94 school year. During the summer, Vasile had communicated to Molinaro that if there were psychiatric approval for a return to work, the Board would reimburse Molinaro for the cost of summer medical benefits, which was done, at a cost of approximately $693 per month.

Respondent's attendance record for 1992-93 reflects 14 unauthorized absences, i.e., absences without any kind of approval. However, the absences from June 1 through June 25, 1993 should have been leaves of absence as they were approved, unpaid leaves at the time.

In June 1993, Guiliana prepared a PER for Molinaro for the 1992-93 school year. Respondent was on a leave of absence at that time. However, Guiliana had spoken with respondent prior to June 1993, in approximately March 1993, at which time Molinaro was informed that there would be a recommendation for withholding of an increment.

The PER, which was mailed to respondent, summarized Molinaro's performance and noted strengths and weaknesses during the school year. Guiliana rated Molinaro's performance as consistently unacceptable in all areas. The formal recommendation was for reemployment with a withholding of an increment.

Molinaro commenced the 1993-94 school year in a positive manner. He exhibited a "very assertive approach towards dealing with problems, dealing with administration, a very proactive position." (Id. at p. 47). Molinaro met with Guiliana weekly. Molinaro also made efforts to speak with Guiliana, to at least some extent, on a daily basis. This situation existed for approximately six weeks. Guiliana did not meet with other teachers on a regularly scheduled basis. He did so with respondent because of a perception that it constituted a therapeutic interaction which assisted respondent. Molinaro seemed to react positively to the weekly meetings. During these meetings, respondent referenced interactions with his (Molinaro's) psychologist or counselor.

A Mr. Carnathan (Carnathan), who was then a vice principal at Central, was directed by Guiliana to observe Molinaro's classrooms periodically, from December 1993 onward. Carnathan was stationed in Molinaro's classrooms or in the hallway outside at least at the beginning and part of every class that Molinaro taught.

Simes observed respondent at Central on October 19, 1993. The pertinent PER rates all applicable evaluation categories as being evident. Although the written comments contained some suggestions, they overall evidenced a well structured lesson presented in a professional manner and appropriate responses by the students.

Simes performed an observation of respondent at Brooklawn on December 6, 1993. He rated respondent in the pertinent PER as exhibiting the presence of all indicators in the pertinent areas which were applicable. The comments stated that Molinaro presented a well organized lesson and interacted well with the students and that the students responded appropriately.

Graham observed respondent on December 7, 1993 at Brooklawn and prepared a PER regarding his observation on December 9, 1993. He rated Molinaro as exhibiting all necessary indicators in the pertinent categories that were applicable. The written comments indicated that Molinaro performed well and that the students reacted appropriately. Comments pertaining to a post-observation conference noted, in part, that the class "although large, contains a nice group of students" and concluded that respondent should ". . . keep up the good work!" (Exhibit R-2, p.2).

Simes observed respondent on March 23, 1994 at Brooklawn. All applicable subcategories were evidenced. Comments overall were complimentary, indicating that Molinaro presented a well structured lesson, that the students reacted appropriately and behaved well, and that the students engaged in cooperative behavior.

By April of 1994, respondent's performance at Central had substantially deteriorated. Although he was present at school, he had lost all ability to maintain any order in his classrooms. Students came and went to and from his classes at will. Administrative personnel had to look for them throughout the building. The situation was in marked contrast to the results of a preliminary evaluation which had been conducted in December of 1993, which indicated that Molinaro was performing well. The expectation of the administration was that he would continue to do so throughout the school year. However, by April 1994, the prior pattern of problems manifested itself. Molinaro was exhibiting, to Guiliana's perception, a high anxiety level and inability to come to school. Respondent periodically informed Guiliana that Molinaro would get into his automobile, attempt to report to work, and would not be able to. On those occasions, he would simply not appear.

Formal and informal observations were conducted through April. Guiliana observed students in Molinaro's classrooms behaving as if no adult were present. Inappropriate behaviors of students included throwing books from one corner of the classroom to another, splashing water at the class while Molinaro was next to a water fountain showing a film strip, students making announcements on the public address (PA) system, i.e., calling down to the office via the PA system and cursing, walking on desks and throwing things at window. Visits to Molinaro's classrooms in response to such occurrences were met by respondent stating that it must have been an accident, no students called from his classes. At this point, Guiliana became concerned about a complete lack of any authority in respondent's classrooms, acting as a restraint on students from unsafe behaviors. Guiliana went into all of respondent's classes, informing the students that if for any reason the students were let out of the class by respondent, or if any students' name were given to the administration by Molinaro, Guiliana would exclude such students from the classroom for the remainder of the year. However, Molinaro never sent any students to the office, nor mentioned any to Guiliana as exhibiting inappropriate behavior.

A student in one of respondent's classes was hit by a book on June 7, 1994. Molinaro was absent on June 8, 1994 for approximately one week. Upon his return to the classroom, Mark Grey (Grey), a substitute teacher who had been placed in his advising them of what had happened. Guillian and Vasile also read reports of the arrest in newspapers. Molinaro met with Vasile and Krawitz on September 1, 1994. The Superintendent told Molinaro that respondent was suspended with pay until the Board could consider charges, which would likely be brought. Respondent subsequently suspended Molinaro based on tenure charges. On October 6, 1994, Vasile certified tenure charges against respondent. Respondent has been suspended with pay since approximately February 1, 1995.

Molinaro was absent 33 days during the 1992-93 school year. He had accumulated 19 1/2 sick leave days. He had 14 unauthorized days of absence. During June of 1993, he was granted a leave of absence, rendering the prior 14 days of unauthorized absence as being deemed to be an authorized absence. Molinaro was present on ten days in May 1993 when he did not teach. The available substitute took over his classes. However, Molinaro was not charged with sick days and it is reasonable to infer, received salary for those days. They were recorded as administrative days on his attendance record.

In general, teachers in the district are awarded salary increments based on their progress along respondent's salary guide, moving from one step to the next, as well as for any adjustments made to the salary guide as the result of collective bargaining. Respondent withheld Molinaro's salary and adjustment increments in 1988, 1992-93, and 1994-95.

Molinaro's students at Brooklawn were generally better behaved than those at Central. He imposed some discipline on Brooklawn students, including detention and communicating with parents and administrative personnel. The administration at Central never received reports of inappropriate student behavior in respondent's classes at Brooklawn, and a substitute was not assigned to his classes at that school. During his last year at Brooklawn, in approximately March of 1994, Graham would periodically tell Molinaro: "Yeah, he would say things. I need help, but it was just like a report thing.” (Id. at p.49). During his years of employment with respondent, Molinaro felt more comfortable interacting with Vasile than with Guiliana.

Molinaro was required to attend counseling sessions as a condition of probation. He is currently continuing counseling at the Carrier Foundation in New Jersey (Carrier), which he commenced prior to the arrest. The program initially consisted of a three-hour psychiatric evaluation. Respondent attends weekly out-patient counseling sessions. Molinaro, who has two minor children, is currently separated from his family. At the current time, Molinaro plans to continue with the sessions at Carrier indefinitely. Molinaro has had extensive experience coaching various softball teams in the community during the past twenty years.

DISCUSSION

The Commissioner of the DOE generally has jurisdiction to hear and determine controversies and disputes arising under the local school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

A tenured local school employee shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, “or other just cause.” Id. at §§ 6-10.

A charge of incompetence requires proof that the individual in question, regardless of the assistance offered by certified supervisors, does not have the ability or capacity to be an effective teacher. In the Matter of the Tenure hearing of April Renee Bradley, 1990 S.L.D. 818 (Bradley). The State Board of Education (State Board), although reversing the Commissioner’s ultimate conclusion, agreed with the standard utilized by the Commissioner. 1991 S.L.D. at 2522-2523. The State Board noted that the nature of a teacher’s entire years of service is relevant to whether or not he/she lacks the ability to be an effective teacher. Id. at 2524.

The Commissioner in Newark Bd. of Ed. v. Burnside, 13 N.J.R. 867 (Oct. 25, 1988) (Burnside) upheld a determination that a local school board had proven charges of incompetence and unprofessional conduct pertinent to charges that the respondent was unable to control and educate students despite supervisor conferences, had made insulting and degrading remarks about students, had gotten into arguments with students, and that students engaged in fighting and left the classroom. An evaluation of such charges is a matter of total impression "based upon observations made over a period of time." Burnside at 886. However, the need to remove a teacher may be demonstrated by one incident, "if sufficiently flagrant." In Re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 421 (App. Div. 1967) (Fulcomer).

In determining the appropriateness of a teacher's fitness, it has been noted that teachers must exercise ' . . . a degree of self-restraint and control behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment.' In Re Tyler, 13 N.J.A.R. 297, 309 (citation omitted). 'While teachers are sensitive to the same emotional stresses as all other persons, their particular relationship to children imposes upon them a special responsibility for exemplary restraint and mature self-control.' In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Thomas Appleby, School District of Vineland, Cumberland County, 1969 S.L.D. 159, 173, aff'd, State Board 1970 S.L.D. 448 (citation omitted) (Appleby).

The burden of proof in a case such as this is upon petitioner by a preponderance of the credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962). If charges are proven, factors relevant to a determination of penalty include the nature and length of a teacher's prior service. Tyler, supra. In determining the discipline which should be imposed in cases involving unbecoming conduct, specifically, the Commissioner considers the nature and circumstances of the incident in question, the individual's prior record and current attitude, and the likelihood that the behavior in question will recur. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Frederick L. Ostergren, School District of Franklin Township, Somerset County, 1966 S.L.D. 185. ". . . each such matter must be judged in the light of its particular circumstances. The kind and degree of penalty will necessarily vary according to the specific problem." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of William H. Kittell, School District of the Borough of Little Silver, Monmouth County, 1972 S.L.D. 531, 541.

Discipline may be imposed upon a tenured employee for unbecoming conduct even if such conduct did not occur in the course of a teacher's employment. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Robert H. Beam, School District of the Borough of Sayreville, 1973 S.L.D. 157 (Beam). However, a "single, isolated incident" may not be sufficient to warrant dismissal. Id. at 164. The Town of West Orange, Board of Education v. Martin Lieb, 1985 S.L.D. 933 (Lieb) involved a criminal charge which was downgraded to a violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:14-4, lewdness. The underlying offense was that Lieb had contact with an undercover police officer's genital area. The Commissioner upheld a determination by the presiding administrative law judge (ALJ) that Lieb's conduct constituted unbecoming conduct but that termination was too harsh in light of "one fleeting instance of bad judgment," noting that Lieb was undergoing stress at the time in question, the findings and conclusions of the board's psychiatrist, and Lieb's long and successful career as a public school teacher, as well as his standing in the community and family. Lieb at 943. However, in certain circumstances, a single incident can be sufficient to support dismissal of a tenured employee. South Orange-Maple Wood Board of Education v. Simonic, 1986 S.L.D. 3117 (1986). As the presiding ALJ noted in Paul v. New Jersey State Department of Education, 91 N.J.R. 2nd (EDU) 46 (Paul):

Under its general police powers, the State has the right to impose reasonable restrictions on various occupations in order to protect the public health and safety . . . Protection of the public is particularly vital in the school environment . . . Paul at 47 (citation omitted).

Teachers ". . . teach, inform, and mold habits and attitudes, and influence the opinions of their pupils. Pupils learn, therefore, not only what they are taught by the teacher, but what they see, hear, experience, and learn about the teacher." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Ernest Tordo, School District of the Township of Jackson, Ocean County, 1974 S.L.D. 97, 98-99 (Tordo). A teacher's obligation to comport himself/herself responsibly is not confined to the hours when school is in session. "Being a teacher requires inter alia, a consistently intense dedication to civility and respect for people as human beings." (Beam at 163).

Chronic or excessive absenteeism may constitute both "incapacity 'and unbecoming conduct,' as well as 'just cause,' such as to warrant dismissal." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Jerome Kacprowicz, 93 N.J.A.R. 2nd (EDU) 147, 151 (Kacprowicz). Excessive absenteeism constitutes valid grounds for dismissal of a tenured teacher even if the absences were excused or caused by legitimate reasons of personal illness or were approved leave or sick days to which the teacher was entitled and even if the teacher's classroom performance was sufficient. Ibid. There are no absolute standards regarding when an absence becomes chronic or excessive. However, ". . . this boundary is crossed when the performance of students begins to suffer." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Monica Meade-Stephens, 92 N.J.A.R. 2nd (EDU) 550, 553. It is not necessary, however, for a school district to prove a direct correlation between student achievement and teacher attendance in order to validate concerns about the effects of a teacher's absence on the educational program. Kacprowicz, supra.

Despite the fact that the offense to which Molinaro pled guilty is classified as a petty disorderly persons offense, it is clear that the underlying facts constituted egregious conduct by respondent.² The telephone communications contained graphic sexual references and implications of possible threats. The incidents were initially investigated as a possible stalking offense by the Stanhope Police Department and caused Indano great distress, resulting in continuing effects. I am persuaded that the conduct in question constituted unbecoming conduct.

² N.J.S.A. 2C:33-4 provides that a person commits a petty disorderly persons offense if, with purpose to harass another, he makes or causes to be made communications anonymously or at extremely inconvenient hours, or in offensively coarse language or in any other manner likely to cause annoyance or alarm; subjects another to striking, kicking, shoving or other offenses touching or threatening to do so; or engages in any other course of alarming conduct of repeatedly committed acts with a purpose to alarm or seriously annoy another.

Respondent's arguments that his actions do not touch his employment in any way whatsoever and as such do not merit unbecoming conduct are without merit. Beam, supra. In addition, respondent's conduct is not consistent with the demeanor with which a public school teacher is expected to comport himself/herself. In fact, the Commissioner determined in the prior tenure proceeding involving respondent that similar behavior constituted unbecoming conduct. The Commissioner's determination that dismissal was too harsh a penalty was based, at least in part, upon the fact that the charges involved a single instance of such misconduct. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Greg Molinaro, School District of the Township of Parsippany-Troy Hills, OAL Dkt. No. 9108-88, Commissioner's Decision June 26, 1989. As the Board argues, the fact that respondent subsequently engaged in similar, if not more serious, conduct argues persuasively for dismissal.

A teacher who violates the public trust must expect dismissal or other severe penalty. Tordo, supra at 99. Notwithstanding respondent's long tenure with petitioner, I am persuaded that the acts underlying the conduct of respondent in relation to Indano constitute unbecoming conduct justifying dismissal. Respondent's prognosis in counseling at this time is not clear from the record. Although respondent appeared to be remorseful and cognizant of the impact his actions had on Indano, his testimony at the hearing to a large extent focused upon himself and did not evidence an in-depth realization of the seriousness of his actions. Respondent referenced a belief that his actions were related to prior feelings that he was "lonely" and could not, for whatever reason, turn to other individuals, family, friends, and colleagues, for help. Respondent testified in this respect:

. . . It's the saddest thing I've faced in my life, to say this is what I did because I was lonely.

The way she said it was exactly the way I said it. She talked to me. I wanted to talk to her, I guess, and she didn't hang up. I don't know what to say.

It's hard for me to face that. It saddens me that I did that. I know it's wrong. I know I should have been accountable, responsible, mature enough to handle myself, not to make calls like that.

I tried to deal with it alone and I couldn't. I didn't hurt anybody further. Yes, maybe I hurt this lady, but I would never hurt anybody. I love children." (Transcript, 7/27/95, pp.44-45)

Respondent also stated: "I'll remember for the rest of my life the only thing that got me emotional - is to admit to anyone I called a stranger because I was lonely." (Id. at p.69).

The question is whether an individual who has made harassing and sexually intimidating phone calls to another individual over a period of time on at least two separate occasions should be employed in a public school district. I am persuaded that he should not. It is also reasonable to infer from the record that respondent has had unresolved problems which may be of a psychological or psychiatric nature for some time as evidenced by his prior inability to deal with the daily demands of his employment.

Petitioner has also demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence the charge of incapacity relating to respondent's teaching performance. Molinaro evidenced an inability to plan and implement a science curriculum as mandated by the district as early as the 1986-87 school year. In addition, from that time onward, respondent was unable to efficiently utilize a classroom period for academic purposes at Central. Respondent was on notice at the end of the 1986-87 school year that if his performance did not significantly improve, he might suffer loss of an increment.

Molinaro showed some improvement during the 1987-88 school year. However, as the Board argues, he was able to do so only with the concentrated assistance of Guiliana and Simes and was unable to sustain such improvement on his own. His performance deteriorated towards the end of the school year, a pattern which was to repeat itself. In addition, Molinaro's records indicated few academic indicators for his students at Central. It is reasonable to infer that the disruptive conduct of his students was related to Molinaro's unsatisfactory teaching abilities and poor classroom management. Conferences and the threat of an increment withholding noticed respondent that he needed to again significantly improve his performance. By the end of the school year, respondent's classroom performance had deteriorated.

Although Molinaro's performance improved somewhat during 1990-91, albeit after an extended absence from the school environment, the year-end PER still outlined areas needing improvement. Notwithstanding, Guiliana did not recommend an increment withholding in order to allow Molinaro to have a fresh start at Central.

Molinaro improved significantly during the 1991-92 school year, again, however, with intensive support, then reverted to a pattern of commencing the school year well only to deteriorate as the year went by during the 1992-93 school year. He had no control over his classroom and appeared not to be able to function in a school environment, as evidenced by his communications with administrative personnel and his absences. The same pattern was evident during the 1993-94 school year, when Molinaro again had intensive support. The situation deteriorated, however, to such an extent that the safety of students was at risk.

I am persuaded that respondent has demonstrated incapacity. Respondent's performance over an extended period of time at Central did not evidence the necessary ability to teach the science curriculum nor to maintain discipline among students. Respondent received intensive support from administrative personnel, including Guiliana. The level of attention given to him cannot reasonably be expected to continue indefinitely. In addition, he was given specific critiques, and lesser discipline was previously imposed. For whatever reason, respondent was incapable of performing his functions.

In the Matter of Tenure Hearing of Cowan, 224 N.J. Super. 737 (App. Div. 1988) (Cowan) involved certification charges against a tenured employee, including eleven charges of alleged misconduct occurring between 1974 and 1984. The Commissioner, confirming an initial decision of an ALJ, found that over ten years, the appellant had committed various acts of verbal and physical abuse of students. The court affirmed dismissal, noting that the administration had dealt with each incident as it occurred, finally forwarding to the Commissioner charges that resulted in dismissal. The court rejected a contention that earlier charges were too stale to be the basis for a finding of unbecoming conduct. It noted in this respect that appellant was informed contemporaneously of each instance of alleged misconduct and that the local board's responses were "measured, supportive, continuing and patient, until it finally realized that appellant's temper is uncontrollable. He could not have been surprised by the charges, nor could he have mistaken the local board's forbearance as acquiescence." Cowan at 742 (citation omitted).

Although Cowan involved unbecoming conduct, the court's reasoning is persuasive in the current matter. Petitioner dealt each school year for a substantial period of time with Molinaro as problems arose. He was spoken to by superiors, warned, and when deemed appropriate, recommended for increments. In addition, Guiliana and Simes spent an inordinate amount of time assisting respondent. The Board even made efforts to accommodate respondent by removing him from classroom duties so that he could retire with twenty-five years of service. To my mind, the Board could have imposed more stringent disciplinary actions sooner than it did. However, as the court noted in Cowan, respondent's patience should not be viewed as acquiescence,

Molinaro's perception that the students at Brooklawn were better behaved than those at Central and the fact that he appeared to perform more satisfactorily at Brooklawn are not determinative. As a public school teacher, respondent was required to satisfactorily present a science curriculum to all students for whom he was responsible. In addition, there is nothing in the record to suggest any extraordinary characteristics of the students at Central, and a substitute was able to effectively deal with the students after only several days. Guiliana supported Molinaro's position vis-à-vis the students. For whatever reason, Molinaro was incapable of effectively dealing with them.

I am also persuaded that petitioner's practice of having the focal point of evaluation of a teacher who is assigned to more than one school within the facility where the teacher spends most of his time is reasonable. Finally, I am not persuaded by the implication in respondent's testimony that his problems were somehow related to the manner in which Guiliana dealt with respondent. In fact, the record supports a conclusion that Guiliana was extremely supportive, as evidenced by the recommendations to grant increments, the assistance provided, and the supportive actions taken when respondent returned after being absent from the school for two years because of pending tenure charges. I am persuaded that the Board has demonstrated incapacity and incompetence warranting dismissal.

I am also persuaded that the Board has demonstrated excessive absenteeism by respondent justifying dismissal. As the Board argues, respondent's pattern of absences is interrelated with issues of incapacity. Petitioner's negative impact on his students, who did not have the services of a certified science teacher for the entire fourth marking period during the 1992-93 school year, also is evidenced by Molinaro's attendance during the 1993-94 school year, resulting in the assignment of a substitute on a regular basis. Respondent was on notice at that time that his attendance had to improve.

Respondent's argument that the granting of a leave of absence in 1993 by the Board is inconsistent with a tenure charge of chronic absenteeism is not persuasive nor are Molinaro's argument regarding an alleged lack of notice regarding absenteeism for any school year other than 1992-93. As noted in Kacprowicz, supra, ". . . it is clear that the District did consider the particular circumstances of his absences . . . as well as the actual impact of his past absences and the potential impact of his anticipated absences before deciding to seek his removal.” Kacprowicz at 153. As the Commissioner noted in Kacprowicz:

Neither can respondent rely on the fact that prior warnings and expressions of concern were not couched specifically in terms of ‘continuity of instructions’ or related to possible filing of tenure charges to claim that he had no warning of problems with his attendance or potential consequences for his employment based on those problems.

Similarly ingenious is the notion that the actions of a highly detailed, widely disseminated written attendance policy somehow exonerates respondent from recognizing that the repeated absence of a teacher from his classroom, however legitimate, will have negative impact on instruction and compromise the basic purpose of the district and the most fundamental obligation of an educator to his student. Kacprowicz at 153.

I am persuaded that the Board has demonstrated chronic and excessive absenteeism by Molinaro and that such absenteeism constitutes unbecoming conduct, incompetence and just cause for dismissal.

CONCLUSIONS

I CONCLUDE that the Board has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence the charges of incapacity and incompetence pertinent to Molinaro’s employment as a teacher at Central, chronic absenteeism constituting incapacity, and unbecoming conduct pertinent to the telephone calls made by respondent to Indano. I also CONCLUDE that each of the charges separately constitutes cause for dismissal and that such discipline should be imposed.

ORDERS

It is hereby ORDERED that all tenure charges of the Board against Molinaro be and are hereby AFFIRMED and that respondent’s employment as a teacher in the district be and is hereby terminated.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :
HEARING OF GREG MOLINARO, :
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF PARSIPPANY-TROY HILLS, MORRIS : DECISION
COUNTY. :
_____ :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions of respondent (hereinafter "Molinaro") and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Molinaro's exceptions present a verbatim recitation of arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) in his post-hearing brief. The Commissioner determines that these arguments were fully and fairly considered and addressed by the ALJ in her initial decision and, therefore, need not be herein reiterated.

Upon a careful and independent review of the instant record, including exceptions and replies of the parties and transcripts of the July 25 and July 27, 1995 hearings at the OAL,* the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ that the Board has sustained its burden of proof with respect to its tenure charges of incapacity, incompetence and unbecoming conduct against Molinaro. The Commissioner further agrees that the appropriate penalty in this matter is Molinaro's termination from his tenured position.

Accordingly, for the reasons well stated by the ALJ in her initial decision, the Commissioner affirms that Greg Molinaro shall be dismissed from his tenured teaching position in the school district of Parsippany-Troy Hills as of the date of this decision. He further directs that this matter be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6(a)(1) for action against Molinaro's certificate as the Board deems appropriate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Based upon the recommendations of an ad hoc committee, architects for the Montgomery Township Board of Education (BOE) prepared schematics for construction of a new, two-story middle school. The BOE presented the two-story schematics to the public; relative to a referendum proposing authorization of bonds to pay for such construction, the BOE mailed to Township voters brochures with copies of the two-story schematics; and the BOE placed copies attempted to demonstrate that he met the standards for the granting of a motion for an injunction. On September 27, 1995, the BOE's answer to the petition was filed with the Department. The Department transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on September 28, 1995, it was filed as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). The OAL's clerk construed the petitioner's letter as a motion for emergent injunction of the BOE and mailed to the parties notice that, on October 5, 1995, the "motion" would be argued. On October 5, 1995, the parties appeared and the motion was argued; on October 6, 1995, I issued an order denying the petitioner's motion; and, on October 23, 1995, the Commissioner issued a Decision on Motion, concurring with my order. On October 18, 1995, the BOE filed and served papers in support of its motion for summary decision and on November 1, 1995, the petitioner's responding papers were filed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The area served by the Montgomery Township school district is being developed. Consequently, the area's population is growing and is expected to continue to grow more and this has caused increasing demands for governmental services, including school services. The petitioner is a resident of the area served by the school district.

In 1993, the BOE created a "Building Project Ad-Hoc Committee," including members of the community, the BOE and the school administration. The committee's mission was to study the need for increased school services; collect information; and, based upon criteria including "completion time, flexibility to meet changing population and program needs, site availability and cost," to prepare a report including a recommended a plan of action to "resolve current facilities problems and meet the long-term needs of the students and the community." P-1, N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1. At the BOE's September 7, 1994 meeting, it accepted the committee's report which recommended a substantial construction project, including construction of a new middle school with features including "a configuration that permits clustering of academic classrooms by grade level" and serving 800 students. P-1, P-2, R-1

The BOE retained architects Faridy Thorne Fraytak, P.C., who, based upon the committee's recommendations and expectations (such as the amount of land available at a given site), prepared plans, including schematics for a new, two-story middle school. P-1, P-2. During the BOE's September 19, 1994 meeting, Superintendent of Schools Jamie Savedoff presented drawings showing how the new middle school could be situated on a site owned by the BOE. P -15.

The BOE obtained the Department's approval of the plans, including the schematics for the new, two-story middle school. N.J.A.C. 6:22-1.1 The BOE has estimated the total cost of the project to be over $32,000,000, of which the cost of construction of the new middle school is estimated to be about $17,000,000 and, at the BOE's October 10, 1994 meeting, it passed a resolution providing for a special school district referendum election to be held on November 29, 1995, during which election, the following proposal would be submitted:

The [BOE] is authorized (a) to provide for [1] the construction of an addition to connect the Burnt Hill Road School and the Orchard Road School to provide core facilities and the renovation of and the construction of additions to each school to provide additional space, other interior improvements and additional parking, [2] the construction of renovations and additions to the High School to provide for science laboratories, locker room and auditorium improvements and [3] the construction of a new middle school on land owned by the [BOE], including play fields and, [4] for all of the above, including play fields and, for installation of equipment and furnishings and related work, and (b) to issue bonds of the School District for such purpose in the principal amount of $31,368,000.

[R-1, emphasis added.]

Faridy Thorne Fraytak presented to the BOE an outline entitled "Techniques for Referendum Promotion" and, between October 10, 1994 and November 29, 1995, the project was the subject of public debate. P-16. The BOE Vice President and chairman of the BOE Building Committee, in a letter published in the October 21, 1994 edition of The Princeton Packet, a local newspaper, characterized the proposed buildings' plans as "preliminary schematics." P-3. During the BOE's October 24, 1994 meeting, superintendent Savedoff stated that the schematics [were] based upon the educational specifications previously approved by the [BOE] and approved by the Department;" however, he also stated that they “may be and probably [would] be altered at a later date when the staff becomes involved in the process. The intent of these plans is to show that there is sufficient space to accommodate the plans and spatial relationships.

[R-3.]

During the BOE’s October 24, 1994 meeting also, Jamil Faridy, a partner of Faridy Thorne Fraytak, presented to the public plans for the project, including the “schematics” showing the two-story “proposed middle school layout” and he described the two-story schematics as having design “flexibility” to accommodate future demographic projections and shifts in grade populations. P-4, P-14, R-3. A BOE member, in a letter published in the November 18, 1994 edition of The Princeton Packet, wrote that the “plan recommended by the ad hoc facilities committee and approved by the [BOE] is the most effective option available to meet our district’s needs” and she urged voter approval of the proposal. P-5. Superintendent Savidoff, in a letter published in the November 18, 1994 edition of The Princeton Packet, wrote, “The plan is not vague, rather it is quite detailed. The educational specifications upon which the architect’s drawings are based are several hundred pages of detailed descriptions of every space to be built renovated or modified.” P-6.

Prior to the referendum, the BOE mailed to voters a “referendum brochure” which referred, e.g., to the current enrollment and “need” for additional facilities for current and/or expected enrollment; (if the referendum was not approved and the project did not go forward) the possibility of a “disruptive” “split session plan;” the “cost” of available options; etc. The brochure also included copies of the plans for the project, including the schematics for the new, two-story middle school. P-7, P-14.

On November 29, 1994, copies of the plans for the project, including schematics for the new, two-story middle school, were placed at the polling place, so that voters would see them before they voted, and the voters approved the referendum. P-8.

The BOE has represented that, following approval of the referendum, it learned that a Freshwater Wetlands Protection Act ruling made more land available for the new middle school site than was expected when the two-story schematics were prepared. N.J.S.A. 13:9B-8. That is to say, the school's footprint no longer needs to be limited to that of the two-story schematics and could be enlarged as in a one-story plan.

The BOE and its consultants reconsidered the matter and the BOE directed its architect to prepare a one-story plan for the new middle school. During the BOE's March 27, 1995 meeting, it presented and endorsed the new, one-story plan; the BOE and public considered the one-story plan relative to "future growth capacity, total square footage, student capacity of building, seating capacity of the cafeteria and gymnasium, location, flexible classroom space, location and use of the science rooms, [and] location of student lockers;" and there was "extensive discussion" of whether the new, one-story plans were "significantly different" than the two-story schematics. Mr. Faridy stated that, the one-story plans, "although different in shape and appearance, address the educational specifications and provide the same number of classrooms and other areas as before." P-9, P-14, R-4.

During the BOE's April 24, 1995 and May 22, 1995 meetings, the questions of significant differences between the two-story and one-story plans were again discussed; the referendum process and the question of commitment to specific plans were discussed; and, by a vote of seven to one, the BOE approved the new one-story plans for the middle school (and effectively abandoned the two-story schematics.) R-5.

The BOE has represented that construction of the school according to the one-story plan is expected to cost approximately the same amount of money as construction according to the two-story schematics and the one-story plan provides for expansion, including expansion by way of second stories that can be added later. However, the petitioner has submitted the certification of Anthony Baionno, an architect, licensed in the State of New Jersey, wherein Mr. Baionno has stated that he will provide a "report that will reflect significant differences between the (two-story and one-story) designs" relative to (a) "the original cost to build," (b) "the cost to operate," (c) "the cost to maintain" and (d) "the cost to renovate (add classrooms)." P-17.

Material pending litigation relative to a construction project to be financed by BOE thirty-year bonds must be described in a preliminary disclosure document which is typically released two weeks prior to the sale and a sale of such bonds is scheduled for November 15, 1995. Presently, bond interest rates are low; however, the BOE's bond counsel has speculated that, "If the bond sale is postponed and rates go higher, there could be a significant cost impact on the proposed financing" by way of the bonds. R-7, emphasis added. The bond counsel has not set forth the circumstances that would necessitate the postponement nor has she stated, with probability, whether and when interest rates may rise.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

To succeed in his claim, the petitioner must prove, by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence, that (1) the two-story schematics were incorporated into the referendum proposal, such that the voters' approval was substantially based upon those schematics and (2) that construction of the new middle school pursuant to the one-story plans is significantly different from construction pursuant to the two-story schematics, such that it will contravene the will of the referendum voters. Durgin v. Brown, 37 N.J. 189, 197-98 (1962); Borough of Farmingdale v. Board of Education of the Borough of Farmingdale, 81 SLD 130; N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c).

To succeed in its motion for summary decision, the BOE must prove that there is no genuine issue of material fact which necessitates a hearing and, in considering such a motion, all reasonable inferences must be drawn in favor of the objector, whose papers are to be indulgently treated. That is to say, the determination of whether there is a genuine issue of material fact requires consideration of whether the materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party in consideration of the applicable evidentiary standard, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5; R. 4:46-1; Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 73-75 (1954); In re Robros Recycling Corp., 226 N.J. Super. 343, 350 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 113 N.J. 638 (1988); Brill v. The Guardian Life Insurance Company of America et al., A-123, October 24, 1995.

(1) The project's plans, including the two-story plan, were publicly characterized as (merely) "preliminary" and the proposal, as stated, did not incorporate or refer to a particular plan. However, the BOE obtained the Department's approval of the two-story schematics; presented and mailed the two-story schematics to the voters; and presented the two-story schematics at the referendum polling place. Consequently, the BOE virtually incorporated the two-story schematics into the proposal and presented the two-story schematic as a substantial basis of the vote on the proposal.

(2) Given the architect's certification submitted by the petitioner, there are genuine material issues of fact as to whether, between two-story and one-story construction, there are significant differences relative to (a) "the original cost to build," (b) "the cost to operate," (c) "the cost to maintain" and (d) "the cost to renovate (add classrooms)." P-17. Consequently, there is a genuine issue of material fact as to whether construction according to the one-story plan would contravene the voters' approval of the proposal and the BOE's motion must be denied.

ORDERS

I DENY WITHOUT PREJUDICE the BOE's motion for summary decision.

By November 8, 1995, the petitioner will serve his architect's report upon the BOE's attorney.

On or before November 15, 1995, the parties and their experts will confer and attempt to develop a plan for construction of the new, middle school that will address the petitioner's concerns, in order to avoid the costs that will result from full litigation of this case.

This order may be reviewed by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, either upon interlocutory review, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10, or at the end of the contested case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6.

This matter comes before the Commissioner by way of respondent Board of Education's request for interlocutory review, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.14, of the ALJ's order denying the Board's motion for summary judgment in the above-captioned matter. The parties having made the requisite filings, and the Commissioner having determined to grant the requested review, the ALJ's decision is affirmed as set forth below, with modification to the initial order's directive regarding conference of the parties for the purpose of developing a revised school building plan.

In its request for interlocutory review, the Board argues that the fact that its final building plan differs from its initial proposal is not determinative of the Board's having thwarted the will of the voters and violated the referendum approved by them, as the Board cannot reasonably be bound by what of necessity are preliminary plans; rather, it must honor, as it has herein, the general outline of a building project and a limitation on the amount of money to be spent for it. Kearby v. Board of Education of the Borough of Watchung, 1963 S.L.D. 73 The Board further takes issue with the ALJ's conclusion that its original plan was "virtually incorporated" into the referendum question, although it also contends that, even if this were so, the Board would still not be bound to its specific original plan as a matter of law. Finally, the Board objects to the ALJ's conference order on numerous grounds, including lack of notice, lack of legal basis for requiring settlement negotiations, and usurpation of the Board's managerial prerogative and its role as the peoples' elected representative body.

In reply, petitioner contends that, contrary to the Board's selective representation, both Kearby, supra, and the subsequent cases cited by the ALJ stand for the proposition that while a board of education may not be bound to particular plans, it cannot depart from its original concept to such a degree as to effectuate a breach of faith with the taxpayers who have committed themselves to indebtedness based on substantially different plans. Moreover, these precedents establish that any determination of whether or not the plans at issue are substantially different, and, thus, whether or not a breach with the voters has occurred, must be made on a case-by-case basis in view of the particular operative facts. Petitioner further claims that the present matter is distinguishable from Kearby, on which the Board relies, and is in reality closer in its fact pattern to Farmingdale, supra, as cited by the ALJ. Finally, petitioner concurs with several of the Board's reservations about the ALJ's conference order, and himself believes it to be both unclear and impracticable in its present form, notwithstanding that he is amenable to an alternative order from the Commissioner.

Upon review and consideration, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that, given petitioner's specific allegations and supporting certifications, this matter clearly raises genuine issues of material fact that preclude its being decided on a summary basis. Moreover, this determination is not dependent on a finding that the Board "virtually incorporated" the two-story building plan into its referendum question; rather, it is sufficient to find that this plan was clearly the basis upon which voters made their decision to approve or disapprove the question, so that factual examination of alleged substantial difference between the two-story and final plans is plainly material to resolution of the within dispute and may not be accomplished on papers at this point in proceedings.

The Commissioner does not, however, concur in the ALJ's directive that the parties and their experts must confer and attempt to develop a plan for construction of the new middle school that will address petitioner's concerns. While settlement efforts are always to be encouraged and facilitated, and are not to be precluded by the Commissioner's ruling herein should the parties wish to engage in them, the Commissioner finds no basis in law or equity on which to order the Board, the representative body to which governance of the school district is expressly entrusted by statute, to effectively surrender its prerogative to proceed with its schematics as planned, unless and until such time as they may be shown through the within proceeding to be beyond the scope of the authorizing referendum as claimed by petitioner.

Accordingly, the initial order of the ALJ denying the Board's motion for summary judgment, without prejudice, is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein, so that further proceedings shall next ensue, as expeditiously as possible in view of the nature of the appeal, as directed by the ALJ. The order for conference and development of a revised plan, however, is rejected without prejudice to any attempt by the parties to resolve the within controversy on a voluntary basis.

Record Closed: October 11, 1995

Decided: November 6, 1995

BEFORE ARNOLD SAMUELS, ALJ:

In October 1993 the four petitioners, tenured principals in the City of Newark School District, filed petitions alleging that they had been transferred and reassigned to duties other than those they had been performing as principals, in violation of their tenure and seniority rights. After transmittal of the disputes to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) by the Commissioner of Education for hearing and determination as contested cases, an Initial Decision and Order on Motion for Summary Decision was rendered in favor of the petitioners. It was ordered that the petitioners' applications for summary decision were granted, and it was further ordered that each of the petitioners should be restored to the position of principal. See, OAL DKT. NOS. EDU 10947-93, 10943-93, 10946-93 and 10917-93. See also, Initial Decision dated July 25, 1994.

The Commissioner of Education adopted the findings and determination of the Initial Decision in a Decision dated September 2, 1994.

On November 2, 1994, the four petitioners filed an Order to Show Cause with the Commissioner of Education, accompanied by petitions and applications for interim relief, alleging that the respondent Board had failed to comply with the previous decisions and orders.

On December 19, 1994, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the above matters to the OAL for proceedings that would determine whether the petitioners had been restored to their tenured positions, as ordered; and if not, to further affirm and order compliance with the Commissioner's previous decision.

Following a series of status conferences and appearances by counsel, an order was entered affirming the September 2, 1994 decision of the Commissioner of Education. The Newark Board of Education was directed to immediately and fully implement that decision in substance as well as in form. A hearing was scheduled for May 15, 1995, if the order had not been fully complied with by that date.

Full compliance did not proceed with dispatch, and counsel appeared for the scheduled hearing on May 15, 1995. It was then agreed by counsel that a second order needed to be entered that would establish a schedule for compliance. Therefore, in an order dated June 14, 1995 it was stated that respondent had not fully implemented nor complied with the order dated April 27, 1995, and that the allegations of the original complaints remained valid and outstanding. The respondent was directed to immediately and fully implement the prior orders and to furnish written proof of such compliance. An additional status conference and hearing day was scheduled if further enforcement was needed.

In the interim, the Newark Board of Education was divested by the State of control of the City's public schools, and the State Operated School District for the City of Newark was established. Some managerial delays resulted, necessitating additional status conferences on August 26, and September 7, 1995. An additional hearing day also was held on October 12, 1995. It was finally determined, at that time, that each of the four petitioners had been assigned to positions as principals. The assignments were confirmed in written advice to this judge and to counsel for the petitioners by letter dated October 13, 1995 from the attorney for the State Operated School District for the City of Newark. A copy of that letter is attached to and made a part hereof.

Having reviewed and considered the issues involved in the transmittal of this matter to the OAL by the Commissioner of Education, it is CONCLUDED that the respondent has now complied with the decision of the Commissioner of Education dated September 2, 1994 and with the preceding order of the Office of Administrative Law dated April 27, 1995. Each of the petitioners has been restored to the position of principal. The petitioners have therefore agreed to withdraw their petitions for enforcement and compliance with the aforesaid decisions and orders.

It is therefore ORDERED that the withdrawals by petitioners' be approved and this matter dismissed.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, petitioning Board sought tuition and removal of J.N., a student with multiple disabilities who allegedly resided in a different district.

ALJ found that J.N.'s grandparents did provide a substantial portion of the financial support of J.N., that J.N.'s mother was not capable of providing care for him due to family hardship, and that J.N. lives with his grandparents because of his needs and not for the convenience of his grandparents. Therefore, in that J.N. and his grandparents satisfied the criteria set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1), the ALJ ordered petitioner to continue to provide a free public education to J.N. Having concluded that petitioner was responsible for J.N.'s education, the ALJ found that it was not necessary to consider other issues raised in petitioner's appeal, i.e., the tuition issue or whether the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act was applicable in this matter.

Commissioner concurred with the findings and determination in the initial decision. Petition was dismissed.

Record Closed: October 6, 1995

Decided: November 3, 1995

BEFORE BEATRICE S. TYLUTKI, ALJ:

The petitioner, the Board of Education of the Township of East Brunswick (Brunswick Board), filed an amended petition with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) on May 5, 1995, seeking a determination that J.R. and her minor son J.N. are domiciled in Edison and therefore J.N. is not entitled to a free public education paid for by the Brunswick Board. The petitioner asks that the Commissioner assess one or both of the respondents the tuition costs for the period that J.N. has been allegedly domiciled in Edison. Both respondents denied the allegations contained in the amended petition, and on May 26, 1995, the Commissioner transferred the matter to the Office of Administrative Law to be heard as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

I had telephone conferences with the parties on June 28, 1995, and August 30, 1995, at which time it was decided that Mark L. Stanton, Esq., on behalf of J.R., would submit a motion for summary decision, and if I determined that the matter could not be resolved by the motion, the hearing would take place on October 26, 1995. I received briefs from the parties, and I informed the parties that I would render an initial decision based on the briefs. The record closed on October 6, 1995.

FACTUAL FINDINGS

I FIND that the pertinent facts in this matter are not in dispute.

J.N. was born on May 14, 1984, and since his birth J.N. has lived with his maternal grandparents in East Brunswick. J.R. lived with her parents in East Brunswick when her son was born and she continued to live there until she remarried and moved to Edison in September 1993. J.N. continues to live with his maternal grandparents in East Brunswick while his mother and stepfather live in Edison.

J.N. has multiple disabilities. He is neurologically impaired, blind and incontinent, which requires him to wear diapers. He has a kidney disease called renal tubular acidosis which requires medical care including daily medicine. J.N. needs twenty-four-hour care.

J.N. is a classified student in the petitioner's school district, and has attended the Lakeview School in Edison since 1987. The petitioner provides transportation to the school.

J.R. is in the U.S. Army Reserves on active duty. She has had personal medical problems since March 1992 and she may need further hospitalization and an operation (R14, R-19). J.R.'s husband is employed as a full-time superintendent for a garden apartment complex (approximately 900 apartments) in Edison and his job requires him to live on site and be on twenty-four-hour call (R-18). Although financially J.R. and her husband can support J.N., they cannot give him the extensive care he needs. According to J.R., there are no day-care centers that will accept J.N. because of his problems. J.R. visits her son at her parents' home and sometimes takes him to Edison for the weekend or on trips.

As stated, J.N. lives with his maternal grandparents, and they provide him with twenty-four-hour care. J.N.'s school states that all of its contacts are with his grandparents; the grandparents have nurtured the child and provided all additional home instruction and therapy (R-10). The grandparents also support J.N., except that J.N.'s medical, prescription drug and dental bills are covered by his parents' insurance policies. J.R. pays for some of J.N.'s clothes and his diapers.

J.R. is divorced from J.N.'s father and she has custody of their son. J.N.'s father contributes support payments which J.R. puts into a bank account for J.N. J.R. has given her mother a power of attorney to take care of her son (R-17).

J.R. claimed her son as a dependent on her 1993 federal and state income tax forms (R-8). J.N. was claimed as a dependent by his maternal grandparents on their 1994 federal and state income tax forms.

When the Brunswick Board found out in October 1994 that J.N. was living with his grandparents and his mother was living in Edison, it requested that J.R. and her mother, P.H., complete its standard affidavit forms for pupils living apart from parents. The Brunswick Board initially received forms that were not signed, not notarized and not submitted in a timely manner (R-2, R-5). Representatives of the Brunswick Board met with J.R. and P.H. regarding the domicile of J.N. on February 16, 1995.

ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES

In his motion for summary decision on behalf of J.R., Mark Stanton argued that J.N. is domiciled in East Brunswick since it is the intention of his mother and maternal grandparents that his permanent home be there now and for the unlimited future. Stanton recognized that traditionally the courts have held that the domicile of an unemancipated child is that of his or her father, V.R. on behalf of A.R. v. Board of Education of the Boro of Hamburg, 2 N.J.A.R. 283 (Education 1980), except where the child is living with the mother after the parents are divorced or legally separated, Edwards v. Edwards, 8 N.J. Super. 547 (Ch. Div. 1950). However, Stanton argued that the New Jersey courts have recognized that the determination of domicile must be flexible and adaptable to the facts in any given case, Board of Education of Little Egg Harbor v. Boards of Education, 145 N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1975) (Morgan, J.A.D., dissenting), rev'd (adopting dissenting opinion), 71 N.J. 537 (1976).

Based on the facts in this matter, Stanton argued that J.N. clearly is domiciled in East Brunswick. Further, he indicated that J.R. considers East Brunswick her domicile and it is her intent that eventually she and her husband will live with her parents in East Brunswick.

In addition, Stanton argued that pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1), East Brunswick is required to educate J.N. This statutory provision provides:

Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statements, information from or about which shall be supplied only to the board and only to the extent that it directly pertains to the support or nonsupport of the child. If in the judgment of the board of education the evidence does not support the validity of the claim by the resident, the board may deny admission to the child.

Stanton stated that P.H., the maternal grandmother, has filed affidavits stating that J.N. lives with her and her husband and they support him gratis as if he were their own child. P.H. and her husband have assumed all personal obligations for J.N. relative to his school requirements and they intend to keep and support J.N. gratis for a period longer than one school term. In response to the petitioner's position that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1) is not applicable since J.N.'s medical, prescription drug, and dental insurance are provided for by his parents and since J.N.'s father makes support payments, Stanton argued that the statute does not require the grandparents to pay all of J.N.'s expenses, and that the support payments are placed in a bank account and are not used by the grandparents to support J.N.

Also, Stanton addressed the petitioner's assertion that the requirements in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1) have not been satisfied since J.R. claimed her son as a dependent on her 1993 federal and state income tax returns. He argued that the definition of dependent for tax purposes does not apply to all other areas of the law. Since for approximately nine months in 1993 J.R. lived in East Brunswick and presumably supported her child, Mr. Stanton argued that she was entitled to take her child as a dependent for that tax year since she provided more than 50 percent of the support for J.N. The situation changed in calendar year 1994 and the grandparents claimed J.N. as a dependent on their federal and state income tax returns for 1994, and will do so for 1995.

Lastly, Stanton argued that even if it were determined that J.N. was domiciled in Edison since September 1993, J.R. should not be assessed tuition for the period of time that her son was ineligible for free public education in East Brunswick. Stanton argued that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) is not applicable since J.N. has multiple disabilities and is covered by federal law, the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), 20 U.S.C.A. § 1400 et seq. Since the IDEA provides that all children with disabilities have the right to a free appropriate public education, Stanton argued that J.R. cannot be held financially responsible for the education of her child and any tuition payments due must be paid by the Board of Education of the Township of Edison (Edison Board). See 20 U.S.C.A. § 1412; Roxbury Township Bd. of Educ. v. West Milford, N.J. Super. (App. Div. 1995) (slip op.); Rabinowitz v. New Jersey State Bd. of Educ., 550 F. Supp. 481 (D.N.J. 1982).

Robert J. Reilly III, Esq., on behalf of the Edison Board, filed a cross-motion for summary decision and argued that J.N. is domiciled in East Brunswick. In his brief, Mr. Reilly reiterated most of the arguments set forth in Mr. Stanton's brief as to the domicile of J.N. Mr. Reilly argued that if it is determined that J.N. is domiciled in Edison, then the tuition assessment should be against the parent pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2), and that there is no authority to assess tuition costs against the Edison Board.

Robin T. McMahon, Esq., on behalf of the Brunswick Board, also filed a cross-motion for summary decision and argued that J.N. is not domiciled in East Brunswick, citing D.W. v. Greater Egg Harbor Regional Board of Education, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 225. In that case, D.W. lived with his grandmother and attended school where she lived, and neither of his divorced parents were domiciled in the school district. D.W.'s father continued to financially support D.W. and D.W. lived with the grandmother because of her disability. McMahon recognized that in several administrative determinations the pupil's domicile was determined to be the same as the grandparent's; however, in those cases the grandparents had legal custody, G.C. v. Board of Education of Union City, 1986 S.L.D. 2219, and K.C.K. and K.W.K. v. Board of Education of Scotch Plains-Fanwood, 1985 S.L.D. 1622.

In this case, McMahon noted that J.N.'s maternal grandparents are not his legal guardians and that J.R. continues to support J.N. by paying his medical, prescription drug and dental bills and providing him with clothing and diapers. According to McMahon, the fact that J.R. did not claim her son as a dependent in 1994 is not dispositive since J.R. was aware that she would be meeting with the petitioner regarding this matter when she was preparing her 1994 state and federal income tax returns.

In addition, McMahon argued that even though J.R. and her husband have busy work schedules, J.R. has presented no evidence to show that she could not get a modification of her work schedule so that she could take care of J.N. or that she could not afford child care services for the time she was working and J.N. was not in school.

McMahon noted that the representation in J.R.'s brief that she plans to move back to East Brunswick does not appear in any of her certifications and she has submitted no proof that her move to Edison is temporary. Even if J.R. has some vague idea of moving back to East Brunswick at some future unspecified date, she is domiciled in Edison. See Matter of Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362 (Law Div. 1991).

Lastly, McMahon argued that the Commissioner has broad statutory powers and can order the Edison Board as the responsible school district to pay the tuition for the period that J.N. was not entitled to free public education in East Brunswick. See Kaprow v. Board of Educ. of Berkeley Twp., 255 N.J. Super. 76 (App. Div. 1992), aff'd, 131 N.J. 572 (1993).

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

I agree with the arguments of J.R. and the Edison Board and I CONCLUDE that the Brunswick Board is responsible for the free public education of J.N. pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1). J.N. and his grandparents meet the criteria set forth in this statute. It was clearly established by the facts that J.N.'s grandparents are domiciled within the petitioner's school district and have assumed all the obligations for J.N. relative to his school requirement, and that J.N. is not residing with them solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education in East Brunswick. Pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1), it is not necessary that J.N.'s grandparents provide all of the financial support for J.N. gratis, and the facts in this case show that the grandparents do provide a substantial portion of the financial support for J.N. Also pursuant to the statute, I CONCLUDE that J.N.'s mother is not capable of providing care for him due to family hardship. The petitioner's suggestion that J.R. can secure day care for J.N. is unrealistic in light of his needs, and the facts clearly show that J.N. is living with his grandparents because of his disabilities and not simply for the convenience of his mother.

In addition, I CONCLUDE that the facts in the cases cited by the petitioner to support its position that J.N. is domiciled in Edison are distinguishable from the facts in this matter. Contrary to the facts in D.W. v. Greater Egg Harbor Regional Board of Education, J.N. lives with his grandparents because of his needs and not for the convenience of his grandparents. Although I agree with the petitioner that the fact that the grandparents had custody was an important consideration in both G.C. v. Board of Education of Union City and K.C.K. and K.W.K. v. Board of Education of Scotch Plains-Fanwood, custody is not a requirement pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1). As to the petitioner's argument regarding the domicile of J.R., I agree that J.R.'s plans to move back to East Brunswick are vague and that she is currently domiciled in Edison.

Since I have concluded that the Brunswick Board is responsible for the education of J.N. pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1), it is not necessary for me to consider the tuition issue or whether the IDEA is applicable in this matter.

Therefore I ORDER that the Brunswick Board continue to provide a free public education to J.N.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that J.N. and his grandparents satisfy the criteria set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1) and, as such, the East Brunswick Board of Education is responsible for the free public education of J.N. The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ that, in light of this determination, it is not necessary to consider the tuition issue or whether the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) is applicable in this matter.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons clearly expressed therein. The within Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board sought to vacate Department of Education's finding that the Board was responsible for the educational expenses of student O.D., whose adoptive parents (living in Buena) surrendered parental rights prior to O.D.'s placement by DYFS at Ranch Hope School for Boys. Board contended that the State of New Jersey was liable for O.D.'s educational expenses.

ALJ found and concluded that since O.D.'s adoptive parents complied with the statute governing Surrender of Parental Rights and lost all contact with O.D. as a matter of law, it was irrelevant that they reside in Buena since they have no obligation to furnish O.D. with support, maintenance or education and neither does Buena. Because the district of residence could not be determined according to the criteria contained in N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12, the responsibility for O.D.'s tuition during the 1993-94 school year rests with the State. The ALJ reversed the Department's determination that Buena was responsible for O.D.'s tuition for the 1993-94 school year.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

Record Closed: September 15, 1995

Decided: October 27, 1995

BEFORE EDGAR R. HOLMES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE
AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The New Jersey Department of Education (DOE), respondent, determined that educational expenses for O.D. were to be paid by the Borough of Buena Board of Education (BOE), petitioner for, the 1993-94 school year, in the amount of $17,733.84. The BOE seeks relief from the imposition of financial liability and contends that the State of New Jersey is liable for the educational expenses and not the BOE.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to be heard as a contested case pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, the act creating the OAL, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13 and the law granting the Commissioner jurisdiction over controversies and disputes under school law. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

The facts are not in dispute and the parties have submitted a joint stipulation of facts which is attached as Exhibit A and made a part of this initial decision.

The operative facts are as follows:

The adoptive parents of O.D. executed a Surrender of Custody and consent to Adoption Agreement expressly terminating their parental rights on April 18, 1991.

The Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) placed O.D. under a Long Term Foster Care Agreement with the M. family with whom he had resided prior to his adoption. The M. family then moved to South Carolina on February 28, 1992. In South Carolina O.D.'s behavior deteriorated and he was placed in another foster home in that State.

On February 5, 1993, O.D., returned to New Jersey and in March 1993, DYFS placed him in a private shelter until October 20, 1993, when he was placed by DYFS at Ranch Hope School for Boys. It is the tuition at Ranch Hope School which is in dispute.

The DOE determined that Buena BOE was responsible for O.D.'s tuition at Ranch Hope because on January 28, 1992, the D. family, which had executed the surrender of O.D. some nine months earlier in Gloucester County, moved to Buena Township. There is also language in the Surrender document executed by the D. family which the DOE also relied upon in making this determination. In addition to the Surrender of Custody and Consent to Adoption of O.D. by other persons, the document, prepared by DYFS, also asserts that "I understand that I cannot be relieved completely of obligations for support, education, and maintenance of said child except upon adoption of said child by other person or persons"

While the language supports the DOE's position, the language is not itself supported by the statutes governing adoption or by case law and is contrary to that law. In 1993 the statute governing Surrender described the surrender as a "relinquishment of such person's parental rights in or guardianship or custody of the child named" Such surrender shall be valid and binding N.J.S.A. 9:3-41.

The language was amended effective April 27, 1994, to state the matter even more forcefully so that it accorded with decisional law. The amended language required that the person relinquishing custody be informed that the surrender document ... "means the permanent end of the relationship and all contact between the parent and child" and that it "shall be irrevocable except at the discretion of the approved agency taking such surrender or upon order or judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction setting aside such surrender upon proof of fraud, duress or misrepresentation by the approved agency" N.J.S.A. 9:31-41 effective April 27, 1994.

The paragraph relied upon by the DOE in the Surrender document is mere surplusage. The DOE treats it as a promise. However, termination of a parents rights cannot be effected by contract, only by a Surrender in compliance with the statute. In the Matter of Baby M., 109 N.J. 396, 444 (1988).

Petitioner's brief carefully scrutinizes the statute which requires the state, rather than a local school district, to pay the educational costs of children under certain circumstances.

The hierarchy of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12 is thus as follows:

1. Foster parents residence; if none, then
2. Child's residence, but if child is institutionalized, then
3. Present residence of parent or guardian, but if none
4. The child's last residence prior to admission, or if homeless
5. Last parental residence prior to homelessness, and if none of the above, then
6. the State.

This logical hierarchy determines a nexus of the child or the child's parents with a residence of parent or child except that it does not burden districts with institutions by using the institution as a residence. There is no nexus with Buena. The child never lived there, the child's parents never lived there, the foster parents never lived there, the child never attended school there - there is no nexus and the fact that former parents now live in Buena Vista Township is irrelevant. It is not only logically irrelevant, it is legally irrelevant because N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12 does not say the "present district of residence of the former parent," but "of the parent." The D.s' are not the parent and the section does not apply. Buena Regional School District is not responsible for funding; the State or some other district is responsible.

The petitioner also argues that the respondent is barred by laches. This point is moot because the matter has been decided on other grounds. Nevertheless, had the petitioner been found liable, no argument for laches would obtain because the DOE actually made the determination during the very school year for which it sought to impose liability upon the petitioner. This is not laches but the very opposite of laches; a prompt determination.

Nevertheless, I FIND and CONCLUDE that the adoptive parents of O.D. complied with the statute governing Surrender of Parental Rights and lost all contact with O.D. as a matter of law. It is therefore irrelevant that they now reside in the Buena School District since they have no obligation to furnish O.D. with support, maintenance, or education. Neither therefore, does the Buena School District. According to the statute, the responsibility for O.D.'s tuition during the 1993-94 school year rests with the State since the district of residence cannot be determined according to the criteria contained in N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12.

I REVERSE the determination of the respondent that the Buena School District is responsible for the educational expense of O.D. for the 1993-94 school year.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions and petitioner's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Respondent asserts that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred in finding that the responsibility for O.D's tuition for the 1993-94 school year rests with the State. Essentially recasting its argument as shaped before the ALJ, respondent affirms that the Surrender of Custody and Consent to Adoption Agreement executed by the D. family in 1991, as an adoptive family, did not completely relieve them of their obligations for support, education and maintenance of O.D. (Respondent's Exceptions at p. 2) Rather, citing N.J.S.A. 9:3-50, respondent warrants that the D. family would not be so relieved, except upon the subsequent readoption of O.D. Respondent continues, "Despite any mention in the statute [N.J.S.A. 9:3-41] of severance of all legal or financial responsibility, the ALJ found that such obligations were discharged upon surrender.” (Id. at p. 3) Respondent maintains that petitioner’s reliance on N.J.S.A. 9:3-41 is erroneous in that “[i]t does not address the legal responsibility for financial support or contemplate the responsibilities of adoptive parents after the surrender of custody.” (emphasis added) (Id. at p. 5) Thus, respondent concludes that, pursuant to the continuing legal responsibility for support, education and maintenance until such time as readoption may take place, the Department of Education correctly looked to the “present district of residence” of the D. family, Buena Vista Township, to assign responsibility for O.D.’s tuition for 1993-94. (N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(b))

Petitioner contends that the operative statute is N.J.S.A. 9:2-16 which states that a properly executed surrender to an approved agency shall be valid whether or not the person giving the same is a minor and shall be irrevocable except at the discretion of the approved agency making such surrender or upon order or judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction, setting aside such surrender upon proof of fraud, duress or misrepresentation.

Such surrender, petitioner argues, severs the parental relationship, and “there is no authority anywhere in the law to require continuing support.” (Id.) Thus, petitioner concludes, the ALJ properly determined that the language added to the surrender agreement is ineffective and fails to provide the nexus necessary to impose upon petitioner the burden for O.D.’s 1993-94 educational program costs. (Id. at pp. 2, 3)

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner finds that the ALJ properly concluded that “[a]ccording to the statute, the responsibility for O.D.’s tuition during the 1993-94 school year rests with the State since the district of residence cannot be determined according to the criteria contained in N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12.” (Initial Decision at p. 4) In so finding, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that respondent's arguments with respect to the effect of the Surrender of Custody and Consent to Adoption Agreement are unpersuasive.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ reversing respondent's determination that petitioner is responsible for O.D.'s educational expenses for the 1993-94 school year is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, tenured teaching staff member who was rified in 1994-95 school year, alleged Board employed nontenured or less senior staff in subject areas where she was certified, thereby violating her tenure and seniority rights. Petitioner held teaching endorsements in Elementary Education and Teacher of Vocational-Technical related subjects.

ALJ concluded that because all courses taught in respondent's District by nontenured personnel or those less senior than petitioner were taught for high school credit, there were no courses to which petitioner could claim entitlement under her elementary education endorsement. Citing Proebstle and New Jersey regulations, ALJ concluded that petitioner was not entitled to exercise her tenure rights under her vocational-technical related subjects endorsement to claim math and science positions as holders of that endorsement are authorized to teach vocational-technical related subjects only in the area of his or her state-approved occupational experience. Moreover, ALJ concluded that petitioner's endorsements did not authorize her to teach drafting or design and, accordingly, she was not entitled to claim the Computer Assisted Drafting and Design courses taught by nontenured industrial arts teachers. ALJ concluded petitioner was not entitled to the relief she sought. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner concurred with ALJ that petitioner did not establish entitlement to teach any of the courses in the District herein at issue. Commissioner adopted findings and determination in the initial decision as his own.

Record Closed: September 19, 1995

Decided: November 3, 1995*

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

* Extensions of time for filing the Initial Decision were requested and granted, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c).

This matter commenced on June 21, 1994 when Deborah Ulrich (hereinafter petitioner) filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking a determination that the Monmouth County Vocational School District (hereinafter respondent) had violated her tenure and seniority rights and an order reinstating her to a full-time instructional position with back pay and benefits. An answer on behalf of respondent was filed on July 13, 1994, and on July 27, 1994 the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A prehearing conference was conducted on October 24, 1994 at which time the following was identified as the issue for determination at hearing:

Does petitioner possess an endorsement appropriate for any position filled by a non-tenured or less senior tenured teacher for school year 1994-95 in respondent's district?

Hearing dates were scheduled for January 19 and 20, 1995 at the Trenton office of the Office of Administrative Law. Under cover letter dated January 13, 1995, petitioner filed a motion for summary decision and supporting brief. During a conference call on January 17, 1995 the undersigned indicated that the motion brief would be considered after the hearing along with any other post-hearing submissions. The January dates were adjourned, and the matter was rescheduled and was conducted on March 15 and 16, 1995. Following the close of testimony, the record remained open for the receipt of written submissions. A brief on behalf of respondent was received on May 1, 1995. Petitioner's post-hearing brief was received on May 2, 1995. A reply brief on behalf of respondent was received on May 11, 1995, as was petitioner's reply letter memorandum, whereupon the record closed. The record was reopened at respondent's request for the purpose of marking into evidence several exhibits which had been marked at the hearing for identification only. Exhibits R-3 through R-14 were received and marked into evidence without objection on September 19, 1995, whereupon the record closed again.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Most of the facts relevant to a determination of this matter are not in dispute and I therefore FIND the following as uncontested facts.

On or about December 23, 1987, respondent posted and advertised a new position opening for February 1, 1988. The posting listed the job title as "Teacher of Computer Related Instruction/Graphic/Commercial Arts" and requested the following qualifications:

Qualifications: Regular New Jersey Teacher Certificate
(Secondary Endorsement) with varied computer background and three years work experience

OR

High School Diploma or Equivalent Minimum three years of appropriate occupational work experience
Must be eligible for New Jersey Teaching Certificate

OR

College Degree B.A./B.S.
Minimum two years of appropriate work experience

A July 25, 1985 memorandum to Chief School Administrators from Leo Klagholz, then Director of Teacher Preparation and Certification, concerning teachers of computer education provided in pertinent part:

In order to meet instructional needs in computer education in September 1985 and in response to your questions concerning who is authorized to teach, guidelines are being recommended to you as an interim measure that should allow you to attract and retain competent teachers in computer education and at the same time provide a level of statewide standardization for qualifications. The guidelines are based on the recommendations made by the task force. The guideline that teachers of computer education must hold a New Jersey instructional certificate (of any kind) is binding. However, those guidelines regarding specific preparation are not binding in any way; we only suggest that you consult these guidelines in assigning persons to teach computer education.

1. At the elementary school level teachers who hold the endorsement Teacher of elementary Education may be assigned to teach computer education or to use computers as an instructional tool.
2. Teachers who hold any instructional endorsement may use the computer as an instructional tool to enhance instruction at any grade level.
3. Teachers who hold any instructional endorsement and who have some preparation in computer education may teach courses in this area at the secondary level. The following preparation was considered important by the task force:
 - a. Programming languages (including Basic) types of
 - b. Computer organization, and/or computer architecture
 - c. Data Structures

When petitioner applied for the above-referenced position, she possessed a standard instructional certificate with an elementary education endorsement, only. She also had several years experience as a computer/software trainer in the business world, and on the basis of this experience and in accordance with the procedures established by the County Superintendent of Schools, in February 1988 she applied for an endorsement which would permit her to teach at the secondary level: Teacher of vocational-technical related subjects. The requirements for obtaining this endorsement, as published by the Bureau of Teacher Certification in 1976, were marked as P-25 in evidence and are attached hereto and made a part hereof as if set forth herein at length. A memorandum issued by the Monmouth County Superintendent of Schools on January 15, 1987 had advised all Chief School Administrators of high school districts of the criteria which would be used for the review of occupational experience for instructional endorsements; the information sheet concerning the endorsement Teacher of Vocational Technical-Related Subjects stated "Occupation must be specified" and further provided:

TWO YEARS OF OCCUPATIONAL EXPERIENCE ARE REQUIRED FOR CERTIFICATION.

The "STATEMENT OF PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE" submitted by the applicant and employer(s) must include recent occupational experience and an EXACT description of tasks performed on the job. If any component is part-time, specific information including hours per week, weeks per year, and an EXACT description of duties are required.

TYPES OF APPROPRIATE OCCUPATIONAL EXPERIENCES ARE DETERMINED BY THE COMMITTEE ON CERTIFICATION, DIVISION OF VOCATIONAL EDUCATION:

Refer to the specific occupation listed under Agricultural Occupation; Marketing Education, Production, Personal or Service Occupations; Skilled Trades; or Technical Occupations.

OCCUPATIONAL EXPERIENCES NOT APPROPRIATE FOR CERTIFICATION:

Teaching within the occupational area CANNOT be applied toward the occupational experience requirements of this endorsement.

Accordingly, the application materials which were submitted to the Monmouth County Superintendent's office recited that petitioner would be teaching "Vocational-Related Subjects-Computer" commencing in September 1988 and included two statements of practical experience, one describing the duties performed by petitioner from 1984 to 1986 when she was employed by Duplifax, Inc., as a trainer for office automation products and another describing the duties she performed from October 1986 to February 1988 when she was employed by Computerland of Eatontown as a software instructor. The State Board of Examiners issued a standard Teacher of Vocational-Technical Related Subjects endorsement to petitioner in December 1988.

The employment contract offered to petitioner for March 1, 1988 to June 30, 1988 and signed by her on February 11, 1988, indicated that she had been employed to "teach Vocational Related Subjects/Computer" as did similar contracts for 1988-89, signed on June 9, 1988 and for 1989-90 signed on August 10, 1989. The contract for 1990-91 recited that petitioner was being employed to "teach Visual Communications" and the contract for 1991-92 said she was employed to "teach computer-related subjects". The 1992-93 and 1993-94 contracts described her employment as "Visual Communications Teacher".

During the years petitioner taught in respondent's district, she worked with the commercial art teacher and the graphic arts-printing teacher; she taught courses entitled "Visual Communications/Computer", "Desktop Publishing", "Computer Arts" and "Computer Literacy".

By letter dated April 7, 1994 respondent's superintendent advised petitioner as follows:

Please be advised that on Thursday, April 14, 1994, at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education, the Board, in closed session, will be reviewing personnel that may be affected by elimination of programs and/or reduction of force.

I will be recommending to the Board that the certified position of Teacher of Vocational-Technical Related subjects be eliminated for the 1994-95 school year. Since your teaching seniority is exclusively in Teacher of Vocational-Technical Related Subjects, it will be necessary to recommend to the Board that your contract be terminated as of June 30, 1994.

Please be further advised that should you desire the said discussion take place in public, you must inform me in writing no later than 11:00 a.m. on Wednesday, April 13, 1994.

If you wish to meet with me prior to the Board meeting, please contact my office for an appointment.

At its regular meeting on August 14, 1994, respondent voted to abolish the position of Teacher of Vocational-Technical Related Subjects and by letter dated April 15, 1994, it notified petitioner that her position had been abolished and her contract would not be renewed for 1994-95. The within matter followed. This concludes the recitation of contested facts.

Petitioner testified that upon reviewing the curriculum materials for various math courses currently being taught by non-tenured or less senior staff under math endorsements and various science courses currently being taught by non-tenured or less senior staff under one or another of the science endorsements, she felt very comfortable regarding her ability to teach certain math and science vocational-related courses. She also testified that after a review of the curriculum courses for Math I, II, and III (now taught by a non-tenured teacher with a math endorsement) she felt competent to teach these basic math concepts. She further testified that her review of the High Technology Computer Assisted Drafting and Design curriculum as well as information received from the two non-tenured teachers of those courses, indicated that the courses were computer instructional-related courses which she could teach.

Respondent's Superintendent of Schools, Brian D. McAndrew, Ed. D., testified that at the time petitioner was hired in 1988 neither the then commercial arts teacher nor the graphics arts/printing teacher had any expertise in the use of computers. Accordingly, the district was looking for a teacher proficient in the use of computers to complement the newly joined Commercial Art/Graphics Arts/Printing Department in a program entitled Visual Communications. Respondent had hoped that this newly synthesized unit would generate student interest in the area of visual communications. Unfortunately, over the years enrollment in the classes declined to the point where in 1994 respondent felt it necessary to reduce the number of teachers in the unit. At that time both the commercial art teacher, Judith Sgombick, who had been newly employed in September 1993, following the retirement of the previous commercial art teacher, and the graphic arts-printing teacher, James Sabino, were proficient in the use of computers in the classroom. Since both the commercial art and graphic arts-printing courses are substantive courses which utilize computers as a tool, but require occupational endorsements and expertise in the technical fields which petitioner did not have, respondent had no choice but to eliminate petitioner's position rather than one of the other two, he explained.

William P. Hoey, Jr., Assistant Superintendent for respondent, testified that after petitioner's position was eliminated, some of what she had previously taught was incorporated into the classes taught by the commercial art teacher and the graphic arts/printing teacher. Each teacher now spends ten to twenty percent of his or her teaching time teaching Desktop Publishing (computer software) applications. Mr. Hoey also testified that there are no remedial math courses being taught in the district; basic skills instruction, not for high school credit, is provided on a pull-out basis by Christine Burger, a tenured teaching staff member with more seniority than petitioner. All remaining math and science courses carry high school credit, he indicated, and there are no other teachers in the district teaching under the Teacher of Vocational-Technical Related Subjects endorsement. He further testified that the five credits of applied math and five credits of applied science components of the Shared Time occupational preparedness courses were integrated within the occupational curriculum and were inseparable from the other components of the courses taught by the various occupational teachers.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

Any teaching staff member, tenured or otherwise, employed in the public schools must be "the holder of a valid certificate to teach, administer, direct or supervise the teaching, instruction, or educational guidance of . . . pupils in such public schools . . .” N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2. Certificates are issued by the State Board of Examiners pursuant to rules and regulations prescribed by the State Board of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-38. A comprehensive set of regulations, N.J.A.C. 6:11-1.1 to 6:11-11.20, describes the various certificates which may be issued and the various endorsements which may be obtained under each certificate, sets forth the requirements for obtaining a particular certificate and endorsement, designates which certificates and endorsements are required for which positions, prescribes requirements for teacher education programs, etc. The State Board of Examiners issues only three standard educational certificates: The Instructional Certificate, the Administrative Certificate and the Educational Services Certificate. N.J.A.C. 6:11-2.3. All other “certificates” sometimes referred to in case law are actually “endorsements” on one of the foregoing three certificates. The fields in which teaching endorsements may be issued on a New Jersey Instructional Certificate are listed at N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2. N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.1 concerning authorizations in general provides in pertinent part:

- (a) Each teaching endorsement is required for the corresponding teaching assignment. Each endorsement is valid for all levels, except that the elementary endorsement is valid for grades nursery through eight.
- (b) Teachers with elementary endorsements are not permitted to devote more than one-half time to teaching art, music, health, home economics, industrial arts, or physical education in elementary grades. Teachers with elementary endorsements are authorized to teach the common branch subjects, such as reading, writing, arithmetic, and spelling in the secondary school, grades seven through 12.

Endorsements which may be issued on New Jersey Administrative Certificates and those which may be issued on Educational Services Certificates are listed elsewhere in the regulations and are not relevant to the within matter. Once a teaching staff member has obtained tenure in any position under a particular certificate, that educator may extend his or her tenure rights to all other positions under that certificate for which s/he holds the appropriate endorsement, with the exception of those positions specifically enumerated in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5; the only way to obtain tenure in a position specifically enumerated in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 is by fulfilling the criteria specified in that statute or in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6. See Dennery v. Board of Educ., 131 N.J. 626, 634 (1993); Ellicott v. Board of Educ., 251 N.J. Super. 342, 349 (App. Div. 1991) and cases cited therein. Pursuant to the statutory and regulatory scheme, and the foregoing case law, when petitioner's position as teacher of Vocational Technical-Related Subjects/Computer was abolished, petitioner was entitled to transfer her tenure rights earned in that position to all other positions under her instructional certificate for which she held an appropriate endorsement.

The relevant inquiry regarding certification is not what a person can teach, but what a person may teach. The answer must be found in the regulations and the case law, not in a review of the endorsement holder's college transcript. Accordingly, in the context of tenure and seniority rights following a RIF, any discussion concerning who is more suited to teach a particular course or who is more qualified is unnecessary and inappropriate. If the rified teacher has an endorsement which authorizes, i.e., permits, her to teach a course, she may exercise her tenure and seniority rights to claim it.

The two endorsements on petitioner's Instructional Certificate and their corresponding authorizations are listed in N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2 as follows:

- (a) Teaching endorsements and authorizations are listed below:

6. Elementary education: This endorsement authorizes the holder to serve as elementary school teacher in grades nursery through eight in all public schools. Teachers with elementary endorsements are not permitted to devote more than one half time to teaching art, music, health, home economics, industrial arts, or physical education in the elementary grades. Teachers with elementary endorsements are authorized to teach the common branch subjects such as reading, writing, arithmetic, and spelling in the secondary school;

29. Teacher of vocational-technical related subjects: This endorsement authorizes the holder to teach those subjects utilized in skill and technical trades such as math, science, related theory.

Petitioner asserts that her elementary education endorsement entitles her to teach courses entitled Math I, Math II and Math III, currently taught by a non-tenured teacher with a math endorsement. Petitioner has reviewed the curriculum guides for those courses and she argues that the course content is equivalent to common branch * arithmetic. In Old Bridge Education Association v. Board of Education of the Township of Old Bridge, 1985 S.L.D. 1150, aff'd. State Board 1987 S.L.D. 2663, the administrative law judge discussed extensively the tenure and seniority rights of holders of elementary education endorsements who had taught common branch subjects in the secondary school. She concluded that only teachers with English endorsements could be assigned to teach a Compensatory Education communications skills course in grades 9 through 12 because the course was clearly high school English and high school credit was awarded to students in the course. With respect to the Compensatory Education math course taught in grades 9 through 12, the administrative law judge expressed a strong suspicion that the course required a teacher of mathematics endorsement since it included more than arithmetic, i.e., pre-algebra and pre-geometry. However, because there was insufficient information in the record concerning the computational skills course and because it was not clear from the record whether in fact high school credit was awarded to students in the Compensatory Education math class, she recommended that the Commissioner of Education direct Department of Education personnel with the appropriate expertise to review the course content for the purposes of determining the appropriate endorsement. On August 8, 1985, when the Commissioner of Education rendered his

* Although a search of statutory and code provisions has revealed no definition for the term "common branch subjects", the term is thought to have originated with early educators who wrote about "the tree of knowledge" whose common branches were reading, writing and arithmetic.

final decision in the case, he declined to render a determination with respect to the appropriate endorsement for the Compensatory Education communications courses and stated that he did not “perceive a need to review the Compensatory Education mathematics courses as stated by the judge in that pre-algebra and pre-geometry skills fall within the scope and sequence of mathematics traditionally associated with the upper grades of K through 8.” Id. at 1209. A few months later, however, by memorandum dated December 31, 1985, the same Commissioner advised all Chief School Administrators in part, as follows:

At the December 4, 1985 meeting of the State Board of Education, I recommended to the board the passing scores for the grade nine High School Proficiency Test . . .

According to New Jersey law and the Administrative Code, the state board must approve the HSPT passing scores. I will recommend that they do so at the January 8, 1986 meeting . . .

The attached information addresses questions about the impact of the HSPT on instructional programs. The information is organized in a question and answer format.

I am providing you with this material at this time so that you can estimate the number of pupils likely to be eligible for compensatory services in 1986-87 . . . In addition, critical questions dealing with . . . certification . . . are addressed in the attached paper. I trust that these clarifications will prove useful as you develop you 1986-87 instructional program . . .

The question and answer format attachment to the December 31, 1985 letter memorandum set forth in question number 12, “What certification is required to teach in various types of elementary or secondary remedial programs?” The answer proffered, among other things, the following:

Communications and Computation courses, which are utilized to fulfill the state’s graduation requirements (e.g. one year of communication for each year of enrollment up to four credit years and two credit years of computation) may not be taught by a teacher with an elementary certificate [elementary endorsement on an instructional certificate]. These courses must be taught either by a subject matter certified teacher (English or mathematics) or by a teacher with dual certification (e.g. English/Elementary, English/Reading, Mathematics/Elementary). . . .

See Sontupe and Upper Freehold Regional Education Association, v. Saul Cooperman, Commissioner of Education and Board of Education of the Upper Freehold Regional School District, 1987 S.L.D. 706, aff'd. State Board of Education 1987 S.L.D. 717, aff'd. Superior Court of New Jersey Appellate Division, A-239-87T8, unreported opinion, May 31, 1988, wherein the court noted:

There is no relief which can be granted petitioner at this point because regulations adopted in December 1986 effectively formalize the policy that elementary teachers may not teach courses which count toward the minimum high school graduation requirements. N.J.A.C. 6:8-7.1(c). English and mathematics can only be taught by teachers with those specific endorsements. N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)7 and 14. Elementary teachers are not authorized to teach English or mathematics. N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)6. Thus, the result of the new regulations appears to be that courses taught by elementary teachers may not be counted toward fulfillment of the minimum high school graduation requirements.

In South River Education Assn. v. Bd. of Educ. of Borough of South River, 1984 S.L.D. 1531, relied upon by petitioner, the grade level at issue was grade eight. This level is specifically authorized under the elementary education endorsement, and, accordingly, South River lends nothing to a determination of the issues herein.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that because all courses taught in respondent's district by non-tenured personnel or those less senior than petitioner are taught for high school credit there are no courses which petitioner may exercise her tenure rights under her elementary education endorsement to claim.

Petitioner also asserts that the clear language describing authorizations for holders of the teacher of vocational technical related subjects endorsement entitles her to teach any vocationally related math or science course currently taught by non-tenured or less senior personnel in respondent's district. Preliminary, I note that the language of N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)29 differs from the language in the three previous endorsements listed. Each of those endorsements states, "This endorsement authorizes the holder to teach vocational courses (26) (or skilled trade courses (27) or technical occupation courses (28)) in the area of his or her state approved occupational experience in all public schools." The reason for this difference in language is nowhere apparent. Since N.J.A.C. 6:11-8.1 describing vocational educational certification requirements, effective until August 31, 1992, requires a minimum of 2 years of approved occupational experience for the issuance of the vocational-technical related subjects endorsement and since that occupational experience, in whatever field, is clearly the basis for the issuance of the endorsement, I CONCLUDE that holders of the endorsement are in fact authorized to teach vocational-technical related subjects only in the area of his or her state-approved occupational experience, notwithstanding the language difference in the regulations. This conclusion is supported by the description of requirements for issuance of the endorsement published by the State Department of Education, Bureau of Teacher Certification, in 1976 which was marked as P-25 in evidence and is attached hereto. A review of those requirements reveals that the endorsement may be awarded to candidates whose program of college studies included "45 semester-hour credits including study in at least four of the following areas: English, Fine and practical Arts, Foreign language, Mathematics, Music, Philosophy, Psychology, Science, Social Studies." (emphasis added) Accordingly, a student could avoid mathematics courses and science courses altogether and still obtain this endorsement. Clearly, therefore, the words "such as" in N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)29 cannot mean "including." They must simply mean "by way of example". Furthermore, as the 1987 memorandum sent to all school administrators by the Monmouth County Superintendent of schools indicated, the area of occupational experience must be designated; the only logical reason for the designation requirement is to ascertain appropriateness of experience for the particular teaching position. See also, N.J.A.C. 6:11-8.1(d)7, where this is specifically articulated with respect to vocational-technical part-time teachers.

Proebstle v. Board of Education of the Burlington County Vocational Technical High School District, EDU 0771-82, decided by the Commissioner October 29, 1982, and cited by petitioner, does not compel a different conclusion. In that case, Robert Proebstle had been teaching general mathematics and vocational mathematics in respondent's district under his teacher of vocational technical related subjects endorsement for six years when, as a result of a reduction in force, his employment was terminated. Petitioner contended that he had greater seniority in teaching vocational mathematics than any of the six remaining teachers. It was respondent Board's position that petitioner had no seniority because he did not possess a proper endorsement to have been teaching general mathematics or vocational mathematics at any time while in its employ. The administrative law judge relied upon a certification from the Director of the Division of Field Services within the Bureau of Teacher Education and Academic Credentials in which Doctor Fred Price attested that ... a teacher certified to teach Vocational Technical related subjects would be qualified and could legally and properly teach the course Vocational Math as taught in the Burlington County Vocational Technical School District, as provided by the Course Description annexed hereto.

The administrative law judge noted that the rule under which the endorsement teacher of vocational technical related subjects is issued did not specify the related subjects and proceeded to conclude that even without Doctor Price's affidavit, since the Board had consistently assigned petitioner general mathematics courses and vocational mathematics courses or both and since the Board was aware of the endorsement possessed by petitioner, he must have been presumed qualified under that endorsement for the assignments. The burden of rebutting any such presumption was upon the Board, the judge concluded, and the Board had failed to rebut the presumption. Unfortunately, there is no discussion of the occupational experience relied upon in issuing the endorsement to Mr. Proebstle. The fact of the present litigation, as well as Proebstle, and undoubtedly others, illustrates the need for clarification of the code provisions to require designation of the specific area of state approved occupational experience as part of the endorsement on the face of the certificate. Common sense and logic and consistency with requirements of the other vocational endorsements dictate that the related areas the holder of this endorsement may teach are those described in the required two years of occupational experience.

Accordingly, based upon the foregoing discussion, I CONCLUDE that petitioner is not entitled to exercise her tenure rights under her vocational technical related subjects endorsement to claim math and science positions in respondent's vocational curriculum.

Finally, petitioner claims entitlement to teach Computer Assisted Drafting and Design courses taught by non-tenured teachers holding Industrial Arts endorsements. The Industrial Arts endorsement and authorization is described at N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)13 as follows: "This endorsement authorizes the holder to teach Industrial Arts in all public schools. Industrial Arts normally includes: graphic arts, drafting, woodworking, metal working, arts and power mechanics." A review of the curriculum materials entered into evidence concerning Computer Assisted Drafting and Design, P-35 in evidence, reveals that the course is a drafting course in which computers are used as a tool rather than taught as a substantive area. Petitioner's endorsements do not authorize her to teach drafting or design and, accordingly, I CONCLUDE she is not entitled to claim the CAD courses taught by the two non-tenured industrial arts teachers. With respect to any tenure rights petitioner might have to teach the Desktop Publishing components which have been integrated into the assignments of the commercial art teacher and the graphic arts-printing teacher, the recent holding of the Court in Impey v. Board of Educ. of Borough of Shrewsbury, 142 N.J. 338, 399 (1995) made clear that the determination to reduce the teaching force by abolishing positions need not eliminate the services that may be related to those positions. There is no question in this matter that petitioner's position was eliminated for good faith reasons of economy and efficiency. The fact that some of the computer skills which she used to teach under her endorsement teacher of vocational technical related subjects are now being taught by the teachers of skilled trades does not violate her tenure rights. Those teachers are entitled to teach computer skills as a tool in teaching their skilled trades pursuant to their skilled trade endorsements. See July 25, 1985 memorandum discussed at pages 3-4 above.

For all of the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that petitioner is not entitled to the relief which she seeks and, accordingly, the petition of appeal is hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions essentially recast and reiterate her arguments made in post-hearing submissions to the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) which the Commissioner finds were fully and fairly considered and addressed in the initial decision. She additionally asserts that the ALJ, in reaching her conclusions in this matter, improperly interpreted and ignored the clear holdings of the key cases cited by petitioner, i.e., South River Education Association, supra, and Robert Proebstle, supra, and misconstrued the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.1(b) and N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a), all of which she contends support her entitlement to a full-time position within the District for the 1994-95 and 1995-96 school years.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusion of the ALJ that petitioner has not established entitlement to teach any of the courses in the District herein at issue. Notwithstanding petitioner's exception arguments to the contrary, the Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ's cogent analysis and discussion of the administrative regulations and case law applicable in this matter.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons clearly articulated therein and the within Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

That memorandum was directed to chief school administrators and simply conveyed interim non-binding guidelines, based upon the recommendations of a task force, regarding the certification required for teachers of computer education. The record of this matter and advisement of failure to appear transmitted to the Commissioner by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4, along with copies of notifications sent to the parties by OAL on November 18, 1995, providing petitioner ten days to submit an explanation for such nonappearance, have been reviewed. The record reveals that prior to the hearing, on November 13, 1995, petitioner filed notification that he would not be present at the November 14, 1995 hearing because of job responsibilities. Further, petitioner provided reasons to the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) as to why he should be deemed successful on the merits of his case in spite of his absence at the hearing. The Commissioner notes that although the OAL's hearing notice does not provide for briefs in lieu of a hearing absent a judge's permission, the Commissioner is mindful that petitioner was pro se and he forwarded a letter to the ALJ which indicates an attempt to obtain permission to submit briefs in lieu of a court appearance. In addition, petitioner filed a letter with the Commissioner of Education on November 30, 1995, requesting a new hearing date and indicating that he had notified the ALJ that he was unable to attend his previously scheduled hearing. Accordingly, under the circumstances herein, the Commissioner determines to remand this matter to the OAL for further proceedings.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ANNUAL :
 SCHOOL ELECTION OF THE BOROUGH : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF CARTERET, MIDDLESEX COUNTY. : DECISION

_____ :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, defeated candidate for Board membership, alleged there were improprieties and violations of law in the conduct of the school election. Petitioner contended confidential pupil records were misused.

ALJ concluded that petitioner did not show by a preponderance of credible evidence that there had been errors or irregularities sufficient to influence the outcome of the election. ALJ, however, directed the Board to consider a policy regulating the use of personal information collected by teachers from students. Otherwise, petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision and directed Board to develop and adopt an appropriate policy, in accordance with state and federal guidelines, regulating the use of students' personal information collected by teachers.

Record Closed: October 3, 1995

Decided: November 13, 1995

BEFORE SOLOMON A. METZGER, ALJ:

This matter arises out of a complaint filed by petitioner, Louis G. Mangieri, with the Commissioner of Education seeking to have the results of the school election in the Borough of Carteret overturned pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12 and N.J.A.C. 6:24-6.1 to -6.5. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. An "inquiry" was conducted on October 3, 1995, after which the record closed.

The question presented is whether there have been errors or irregularities in connection with the annual school election that warrant overturning the result. Additionally, petitioner contends that confidential pupil records were misused.

The basic facts are undisputed. On April 18, 1995, an election was held in Carteret for three seats on the board of education. Petitioner finished in fourth place, seven votes behind Sally Bonventure, who was seated.

Petitioner testified that he has lived in Carteret for thirty-four years and has served on the school board for nine years. On the evening of April 17, 1995, he received a call from George Mascaly, a Borough resident and supporter, who asked that he come listen to a telephone message and subsequent telephone conversation that he had had that evening with Ms. Jacqueline Lygate, a teacher in the district. The tape reveals that Ms. Lygate called Mr. Mascaly and initially left a message urging a vote for the three candidates who ultimately were elected to the board. In their subsequent conversation she made some comment to Mr. Mascaly about "board members messing around." Petitioner testified that he took this comment as a reference to his marital fidelity and was greatly offended. He then telephoned Ms. Lygate, who told him that she had made three calls altogether. Petitioner testified that the teachers union opposed him in this election, though it has supported him in the past. Ms. Lygate never said she was calling on behalf of the union.

George Mascaly testified that he was affronted not merely because of the politicking, but because Ms. Lygate had obtained his unlisted telephone number improperly.

Richard Greenberg is the fire superintendent in Carteret. He testified that Nicholas DiSatro, a teacher in the district, called him twice in connection with the election. He knows Mr. DiSatro and in both conversations he made clear that he did not want to discuss the election, even before Mr. DiSatro could make his preferences known. They went on to discuss other subjects of mutual interest.

Jacqueline Lygate testified that she hands out index cards to her students at the beginning of the school year and asks that they fill in their names, telephone numbers and interests. Mr. Mascaly's daughter was in her class and this is where she obtained his telephone number. Ms. Lygate testified that she made three telephone calls in all and there was no answer and no message machine at one of the numbers she called. She was not instructed by anyone to make these calls and did not discuss her plan to call with anyone.

Nicholas DiSatro has been a teacher in Carteret for sixteen years and he also maintains index cards with his students' telephone numbers, hobbies and the like. He made less than a dozen calls in connection with the election and did not remember whom he might have contacted beside Mr. Greenberg. No one instructed him to make these calls and he did not discuss his efforts with anyone. He was not aware that Ms. Lygate had made calls. This is the substance of the record.

To overturn the results of an election, petitioner must show by a preponderance of the credible evidence that there have been errors or irregularities sufficient to influence the outcome. N.J.A.C. 6:24-6.5. This has not been done. The margin of votes between petitioner and his nearest rival, Ms. Bonventure, is seven. There is no evidence that any votes were influenced, properly or otherwise. Ms. Lygate completed only two calls and the one to Mr. Mascaly had no impact because he was petitioner's supporter. We know little of the other call. Mr. DiSatro called Mr. Greenberg, but the election was not discussed. He made other calls but we do not know to whom and to what effect. Moreover, teachers are free to participate in the electoral process. The line is generally drawn at partisan politics. Botkin v. Westwood, 52 N.J. Super. 416, 430 (App. Div. 1958). There is no such connection here, nor is there any link to official action of any kind.

Petitioner also contends that pupil records were misused. I do not believe that the biographical data collected by Ms. Lygate and Mr. DiSatro falls within the definition of pupil records. N.J.A.C. 6:3-6.1, -6.2; D.B. v. Vineland Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 546. Nevertheless, there was an ethical breach here. Students who supply personal facts at a teacher's request should not have to be concerned that the information will be put to a private purpose. The use of a student's unlisted number for electioneering is a good example. Although the actions of two teachers do not make a pattern, it might be useful for the school board to develop a policy on the point.

Based on the foregoing, it is my conclusion that petitioner has failed to establish irregularities sufficient to overturn the results of the election. The school board shall, however, consider a policy regulating the use of personal information collected by teachers from students. It is ORDERED that this matter be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ANNUAL :
SCHOOL ELECTION OF THE BOROUGH : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
_____:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner has failed to establish irregularities sufficient to overturn the results of the election and the petition is, therefore, properly dismissed.

As to petitioner's contention that pupil records were misused, the ALJ properly determined that the student information gathered by teachers on index cards (i.e., name, telephone number and interests) was not a pupil record, assuming such information was not maintained by the teachers for the purpose of second party review.¹ The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ that use of such information for election purposes constitutes a breach of the trust between teacher and pupil that must be operative in the school environment. Moreover, the Commissioner observes that state and federal guidelines provide for the disclosure of student "directory" information such as names, addresses and telephone numbers, only where said information has been published pursuant to parental notification and an opportunity to request that the district refrain from disclosing such information via publication. (N.J.A.C. 6:3-6.1 and 20 U.S.C.S. at 1232g(5)(b)) Consequently, notwithstanding that petitioner has not shown any violation of the statutes governing school elections, nor any basis for ordering a new school election, the Commissioner directs that the Board develop and adopt an appropriate policy, in accordance with state and federal guidelines, regulating the use of students' personal information collected by teachers.

¹ N.J.A.C. 6:3-6.1 defines a pupil record as “information related to an individual pupil gathered within or outside the school system and maintained within the school system, regardless of the physical form in which it is maintained. Essential in this definition is the idea that any information which is maintained for the purpose of second party review is considered a pupil record. Therefore, information recorded by any certified school personnel solely as a memory aid, not for the use of a second party, is excluded from the definition.” (emphasis added)

Accordingly, the Board is so directed, and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law dismissing the Petition of Appeal is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

DECISION

RESPONDENT.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parents contested suspension of their son, B.McB., a high school senior, from the marching band and the requirement that he undergo a psychological evaluation prior to his return to the band.

ALJ found that B.McB. was afforded due process rights required in the matter of his suspension from band activities. Moreover, the ALJ found that the actions of the Board and its agents were reasonable in that the application of discipline in this matter was directly related to the good order and best interest of the school and school activities and that the penalty was appropriate. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE

TOWNSHIP OF WASHINGTON,

Respondent.

Jamie Epstein, Esq., for petitioners

Joseph F. Betley, Esq., for respondent (Capehart & Scatchard, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 13, 1995

Decided: November 14, 1995

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

B.McB., by his parents, contested his suspension from participation in the Washington Township High School marching band and the requirement by the respondent Board that he undergo a psychological evaluation prior to his return to the band.

The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education and was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. The petitioners, then represented by other counsel, moved for emergent relief under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.5. Oral argument on the motion was heard on September 22, 1994, at the Office of Administrative Law, Trenton. On September 23, an order issued denying the motion and ordering the matter to plenary hearing unless withdrawn.

The Commissioner of Education adopted the order as his own decision on November 10, 1994. On December 15, 1994, the judge wrote to counsel asking about the posture of the case. The petitioners decided to go forward. The matter was set down for hearing in May 1995. That date was adjourned because the respondent's attorney had a conflict. The matter was reset for September 27, 1995.

On September 6, 1995, the Commissioner of Education received two "amended petitions" by B.McB. himself. The cover letter states new counsel is being sought and asks a one-month delay of hearing and also requests the judge to recuse himself because he is "acquainted with the respondent's counsel."

The judge issued a letter order on September 12, 1995, denying both requests.

The letter order also refused to accept the amended petitions because there was no proof of service upon the Board, among other things.

The first amended petition sought 10.7 million dollars in damages and written letters of apology on grounds of discrimination based on the economic status. The second sought 1.1 million dollars for alleged deformation of character and the suspension of an unnamed respondent's teaching credentials.

The matter was heard on September 27, 1995, in the Moorestown Municipal Court. The Board moved to dismiss the two amended petitions on the grounds that there was no jurisdiction over the claims, the claims were filed beyond the 90-day limit expressed in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), there had been no service on the Board, and no leave of the administrative law judge had been sought. The amended petitions were dismissed, without opposition, for all of the above reasons.

The petitioners presented testimony of B.McB., F.McB. and M.McB. The Board presented testimony of the Band Director and the High School Principal.

PAROL AND DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE

B.McB. testified that he is a senior at Washington Township High School. In September 1994, he participated in the band music program. On August 25, 1994, he learned he was "written out of the show for 1994." He discussed the matter with James Beyer, the music director. B.McB.'s mother the director called on the following Sunday evening. The director mentioned four options. B.McB. could march as an alternate, could march in the trombone section, could wait until a spot in the saxophone section opened or he could leave the band.

B.McB. believes he was denied a starting position in the marching band because he did not attend summer band camp. Summer band camp is not required according to the band manual.

B.McB. chose to wait for an opening in the saxophone section. He continued to practice with the band, but did not play in performances.

On September 7, 1994, before practice began, B.McB. was in the school building using a pay telephone. According to the witness, Beyer approached "angrily" and told him to get off the telephone. According to B.McB., he replied, "Excuse me. I'm on the phone. I'll be off in a minute." After he finished his call, B.McB. went toward the principal's office to get the principal's assistance. He discussed the telephone incident.

Beyer told the witness to go to practice immediately following the telephone call. B.McB. stated, "I'm going to your principal to resolve this." Beyer then reportedly agreed. B.McB. discussed the matter with the principal who attempted to resolve it.

After his meeting with the principal, B.McB. left the principal's office and found Beyer in the hallway with B.McB.'s instrument. The witness says that Beyer then said, "You're in the band, but the clock is ticking.” B.McB. stated he then began to cry. He said, “Band is going to kill me. Band is going to be the death of me.” Beyer, Principal Vandenberg and a janitor were present.

The witness and the principal returned to the principal’s office. The principal sent for a guidance counsellor. She arrived and calmed B.McB. B. left the office and went to locate his parents who were usually present at band practices. He could not locate his parents. He went to the local police station and inquired about filing a complaint.

The witness states that during the conversation with Beyer in the hallway no physical contact was made or attempted.

Following September 7, several meetings and conversations took place. On Friday, September 9, 1994, the superintendent, principal and band director met with B.McB., his parents and their attorney. School personnel said that this meeting constituted informal due process. It was stated that B.McB. had threatened to kill Beyer. No one pointed to a school manual and said “this is an infraction.” B.McB. was suspended from band until September 26. He could practice after September 26 and he could perform on or after October 8.

After being reinstated, on or about September 30, the director told B.McB. to dress. B.McB. assumed he would march on the field at half-time. He asked the band director’s assistant if this were the case. The assistant did not know. A bit later, in the Director’s office, B.McB. says the director told him, “You listen to me only.”

On that occasion, he was the only player in uniform who remained in the stands during half-time.

Before September 1994, B.McB. stated his relationship with Beyer was not smooth and that there were some incidents, but that it was not a bad relationship. The witness stayed in band until mid-December and then quit. He felt singled-out, ostracized and harassed. Staff were cold and curt to him.

B.McB. did not attend band camp in the summer of 1994. In the summer of 1993 he attended part of band camp and in the summer of 1992 he did not attend band camp at all. However, he participated fully in the band in 1992 and 1993.

B.McB. told the music director via voice mail and in a note that he would be working and could not attend camp in the summer of 1994. He had no conversation before camp with the director. He does not know what other students did not attend band camp and he does not know how many saxophone slots were available. Beyer never said to B.McB. that he did not have a starting position because he had failed to attend band camp.

Concerning the four options the music director offered to him, the witness says he was "stunned." These options would not allow full performance. He was given these options after the director said, "You're out of the band, but here are four options." The witness states he was removed from band performance, not band class.

This was an important issue to him. It was implied in the fourth option that he was out of the band. The options and conversation meant, to him, that he was no longer in the band. The options seemed inappropriate.

In response to a direct question as to whether he agreed to march in the trombone section at any time, the witness stated he never did. B.McB. stated he was being ostracized. He also stated he knows of instruments and persons being moved to accommodate the needs of performance.

He elected to be an alternate to a freshman member of the band, option one. In his mind, this was the same as option three. There were no performances in August 1994. The first performance was September 10 and F.McB. was under suspension at the time.

Although he stated he felt out of the band, he went to rehearsal the next day and sat and watched. To his way of thinking, if he marched in the trombone section it was implied that he had to play trombone.

During the rehearsal, he sat against a fence. At the next rehearsal, he did not participate. He did not sit and watch and has no recall of speaking to the director. He later attempted to tell the director why he was not participating. In the second rehearsal he attended, the witness saw that a saxophonist was on vacation. He offered to march in that position after the rehearsal, but the director declined.

The witness's recounting of the telephone incident on cross-examination differed from his testimony on direct. He stated he was on the telephone in the school at about 6 p.m. Band practice was scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. The band director saw him at the telephone and expressed concern that he was not at practice. B.McB. states he did not call reporters during band practice time. He stayed outside of the band room during practice and told the director why. The director went into the band room and closed the door. B.McB. became upset and went to the principal's office. He did not like leaving a spot vacant while band members were absent. B.McB. believed he should be able to fill in for absent band members.

The witness insists he was calm and not disrespectful to Beyer or to Principal Vandenberg. He expressed his concerns to the principal. He saw the director again at approximately 6:15 and was asked why he was not at practice. When the director appeared with his instrument and made the comment about the witness being in band but the clock was ticking, B.McB. became threatened and tearful. He had not done so a week earlier when, by his own account he was "kicked out" of band. The witness stated it was a cumulative thing and that he had been under constant pressure. He was angry with the band director. He put his hands to his head. He denies making any threat or derogatory remark.

At the meeting of Friday, September 9, there was no agreement that there should be some form of punishment. No school personnel showed him the section of the student manual allegedly violated. The manual spells out penalties for rule infractions. The family's attorney referred to the student handbook and the section that reserves the right to administration to do as they see fit in a given circumstance was discussed.

B.McB. did not attend band class after suspension was imposed. He denies he said he would rather go to the library. As to a psychological evaluation, the family agreed, but would use their own psychologist. The only objection raised by the family's attorney was to the length of the suspension.

F.McB. testified that he has been active in the Band Parents Association for sometime and has enjoyed a good relationship with the director over the years.

In August 1994, the witness learned through his son that his son was "written out of the band." His wife called the band director that night. A series of meetings followed. They met with the assistant principal upon referral from the principal. They went over what had happened. The witness expressed his opinion. The witness testified at hearing that the vice principal advised him to "appease" the band director. The parents were not pleased with that reply.

They learned of the telephone incident on the night of September 7 from their son. The witness was at the high school that evening, waiting in the parking lot. At approximately 6 p.m., the director came out and asked where B. was. The witness replied that he did not know. No one could locate B.

At approximately 8 p.m., the witness's beeper indicated his son was calling him from the police station. When the witness reached his son by telephone, B. was upset and half crying. He stated, "Beyer said I threatened to kill him." B.McB. was at the police station to see if he could file charges against Beyer.

Later the same evening, the witness returned to the school. He spoke briefly to the band director who stated, "[B.] threatened to kill me." At this point B.Mc.B. slapped a locker and stated loudly that he did not make that statement.

The next day, the witness was at the principal's office when school opened. The principal explained that he had tried to calm down B. The principal stated B. did not threaten the director. No discipline was discussed. The witness also saw the janitor who was nearby on September 7.

At an informal meeting on September 9, the witness denied that the threat had been made, expressed dissatisfaction with the discipline and expressed dissatisfaction with timing of the discipline. There was no discussion of formal charges or the code of conduct. Although he had an attorney present, there was no formal questioning. There was much discussion and the attorney also denied that the threat had been made. The band director stated that he felt threatened.

The witness also stated that from August 25 through September 7, B. was upset. After September 26, when B. was reinstated to the band class, he believed that his status had been lowered. Some pupils were not speaking to B. The witness told B. not to speak to the band director while the controversy was going on. The witness had B.'s band class changed. B. dropped band at the end of the semester. There were no other problems the witness knows of while B. was in high school. He was involved in the many out-of-school activities and enjoyed good relationships with others.

The witness sought counsel because he knew before September 9 of what B. was accused. At the September 8 meeting with the principal, B. was upset. The principal told B. not to say anything he might regret. The principal observed that B. was very emotional and expressed concern about it. He did not mention the vice principal's comments about accommodating the band director to anyone in the administration.

The witness identified exhibit R-1, a letter dated September 9, 1994 from the McB.'s attorney to the superintendent. It refers to and memorializes the September 9 meeting. It is accurate to the witness's knowledge, except that he and his wife did not agree to accept the suspension from the band. However, he did not tell anyone in the district that he disagreed with the letter. He and his wife agreed to the psychological evaluation, but wanted to use their own psychologist. Both parties agreed. The psychologist's report was filed with the district and determined that B. was not a threat to himself or others. After the suspension was served and the report submitted, B. was reinstated to band activities.

The witness does not know if the school had any written documents in its possession at the time of the meeting among parents and administrators. There was a difference of opinion as to whether there had been a threat. F.McB. was allowed to present his version of the incident, to express his opinions and to meet in private several times with his attorney.

M.McB., mother of B.McB., testified. She has been involved as a band parent for several years. In her opinion, all options offered to her son after what he describes as the outburst were punishments. When she contacted the band director, he stated that any person who did not attend band camp "is kicked out of the band." However, the director stated the four options he would provide B. The two discussed the options. At one point the director said, "Don't try to run my job as band director," or words to that effect. The witness stated, "Don't try to run my job as a mother," or words to that effect.

The witness went the next day to see the principal and was referred to the vice principal. She and her husband spent about 30 minutes with the vice principal and the meeting was not satisfactory to them.

The witness then telephoned the principal and this call led to a meeting with the superintendent, probably on September 9. B. was not told what he was charged with, no school officials said what B. had done, no conduct code was produced and there was no discussion of discipline.

The school proposed that B. be suspended from practices and performances. When readmitted, he would be behind other band members in performance skills.

At the meeting, the witness said she believed that B. did nothing wrong. However, she agreed to the psychological evaluation. She agreed, although she was first infuriated by the suggestion, because she knows B. is all right. At hearing, she stated, "The world needed proof of my son."

Following that meeting, many telephone calls took place. At one point she requested that B. be allowed to perform on October 8. After September 26, he had been allowed to practice and was picking up the routine quickly. Ultimately, in December, B. quite band.

While the options were being discussed, B. was gloomy and crying. The witness stated she knows nothing about B.'s contacts with the media and with town political figures. She knew that B. was accused of something on September 7 because he told her. In a telephone call or a meeting with the principal later that week, she was informed that a saxophone spot "opened up." The witness also conceded that, at the meeting among parents and administrators, she was not prevented from speaking, there was a free flow of opinions and both sides took recesses to caucus. The witness also concedes that the band director never said B. was out of the band. To her, however, the options were equivalent to being kicked out. Yet, B. stayed in band until December.

The witness testified with particularity about all events to this point. She recalled that at a meeting with the band director in August, no saxophone spot was open. At a meeting between B. and the band director, the director offered a spot in the saxophone section after suspension. However, as to the meeting with the principal and the director held on Tuesday, September 6, the witness's recall suddenly became hazy. The witness believes B. never accepted any option. She cannot recall whether B. went to rehearsal on September 6 or not. The witness denied that she and her husband did not tell the principal on September 7 that B. had made a final decision.

The band director testified that the policy concerning band camp is to encourage attendance, but that attendance is not mandatory. Financial aid is made available to pupils who need it. If a band member does not attend, the director looks at the needs of the entire band, the skill level of each pupil and places each pupil as appropriate.

In August 1994, band camp was held in the third week. Upon the Director's return, he found an undated note from B.McB. stating that B. had to work during the week of camp.

On the following Saturday evening at about 11 p.m., the director received a call from M.McB. She was extremely upset and stated that B. had been ejected from band. The director replied that B.'s status was not yet determined, that it was improper to call him at that hour and that he would meet with her at school.

On Tuesday, B. appeared at approximately 5:30 p.m. Practice was scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. B. asked the director what his status was. The director replied that there were 12 saxophone slots filled by persons who had attended camp and knew the routine.

The director gave B.McB. options of being a position alternate, which means filling in for any person who drops out and requires rehearsal each day. Two persons learn one position in the show. A second option was to play saxophone but march in the trombone section where the director had two open spaces. B.McB. could fill one of these spaces immediately. B.McB. could also, if he wished, learn trombone. In no way does the director conceive of playing in the trombone section as being equivalent to ostracism.

The third option was that B.McB. could leave band. B. stated he was a saxophone player and wanted to stay in that section. B. took the option of playing in the saxophone spot of a pupil on vacation.

On that afternoon at about 6 p.m., the director met and spoke with M.McB. She demanded an explanation and he told her essentially what is recited in the previous paragraph. No option was acceptable to her. M.McB. accused the director of "kicking out" B. A meeting later that evening was held with the principal, parents and pupil. The parents wanted to know more about the options offered. The director explained his points in what he believes to be a positive manner. B. asked to leave the meeting. The director suggested that he march in the trombone spot so that B. could participate immediately. B. was brought back into the meeting and lost control of himself. He called this totally acceptable and engaged in loud talking and finger pointing. He said, "I've given you professionals two weeks to work this out" or words to that effect.

On September 6, during rehearsal B.McB. was not participating, but was talking to others. The director spoke to him. F.McB. encouraged B.McB. to just fill a position. B.McB. waived a paper at the band director stating, "This is going to the Commissioner tomorrow." B.McB. then left the band area.

Later, the director went into the building and met F.McB. They talked. The director mentioned a lack of resolution of the problem and stated again that he believed one of the three options should be elected to keep B.McB. involved in the band.

At some point shortly thereafter, an assistant told the director that B.McB. was on the public telephone surrounded by a group of students. The director went to the area, and directed the other students away. He spoke with B.McB. and asked him to leave the building. B. asked if the director were kicking him out of the band. The director replied, "I'm telling you to leave the building."

On the following day, the principal received a message from B.McB. via voice mail. He accepted the option of marching in a trombone position. On Wednesday night as students were assembling for practice, a student had a personal problem. The director met with the pupil and mother for approximately 15 minutes. After that meeting, the director noticed F.McB. parked behind the high school. He asked F.McB. where B.McB. was. The parent replied that B. was inside and asked why the director wanted to know. The director stated that B.McB. had not appeared for rehearsal.

The director went into the building and found B. on the telephone. B. covered the receiver and said, "I'm on the phone." The director then went back to the parking lot to get B. McB.'s parents. He intended to tell them to take B. home. The van was not there and the director returned to the building. When he reentered, B.McB. pointed a finger at him and said, "I am talking to your principal."

The director was convinced at this point that B.McB. did not want to participate. He went into the band room and got B.'s instrument. He returned to the telephone area and found B. talking to the principal. At this point, B.McB. stated, "I'm going to kill you." The principal immediately advised him not to say anything he would regret.

B.McB. left the building with the principal following. The principal spoke to B.McB. outside the building.

B.McB. returned with his father at approximately 9:15. The father looked astonished, but said nothing. B.McB. denied making the threat.

Concerning meetings with the family and attorney, the witness stated that he told his principal about his meeting with F.McB. and concern for his own safety. At that point, the director believed B. would not participate in the band, had no interest in the band and wanted his way only. In addition to being disruptive of the band process, the director felt a real safety threat.

At the meeting among administrators, family, and family attorney, the family was concerned about what happened on Wednesday night and concerned with discipline, if any. The director's concern was with his own safety and with B.McB.'s status.

When discipline was discussed, the family and its attorney left the room. The superintendent recommended that a psychologist's report be required and the director agreed. He left disciplinary decisions to the administrators.

The superintendent asked the director how long it would take to get B.McB. prepared to participate. The director estimated it would take two weeks of practice plus a period of observation. The administrative group agreed with a two-week suspension from band based on B.'s belligerence and defiance.

Near the end of the meeting, the suspension for two weeks was announced. After September 26, the director would have two weeks to help B.McB. prepared to perform. It was estimated he would be back performing on October 8. The parents and attorney did not at this point dispute the punishment, but insisted on using their own psychologist. The superintendent had indicated the evaluation would be done by the school psychologist and this was not acceptable to the parents. The witness recalled that those were the facts and circumstances when the meeting ended.

On September 26, the director assigned an assistant to work with B.McB. He let band staff know that B.McB. was coming back and that the director was trying to get B.McB. participating as quickly as possible. A saxophone player had dropped band for medical reasons and an effort was being made to get B. into that position. On October 8, B. participated fully in band performance.

At some point, the director received a memorandum from the family's attorney alleging that B. had been pulled in and out of performance during rehearsals and had been yelled at in the presence of band members. The witness vehemently denied ever yelling at B.McB. and iterated that he had emphasized to his assistant to get B.McB. "up to speed." The assistant replied that B.McB. did not know all of the routine and the assistant pulled B.McB. from the end of the routine only.

The high school principal testified essentially as did the band director. He stated that Mr. and Mrs. McB. approached him on the evening of Tuesday, August 30, at about 6:00 p.m. He was late for an appointment and would be out of the building the next day. Accordingly, he assigned an assistant principal to meet with Mrs. McB. on the following day. On Thursday, when the principal returned to the building, he saw the assistant principal who expressed the opinion that the matter was resolved. B.McB. had accepted one of the band director's options. On Thursday and Friday, the principal and Mr. McB. tried unsuccessfully to arrange a telephone conversation. On Friday, the principal reached Mrs. McB. to set up a meeting. During the conversation, Mrs. McB. threatened "an editorial." On Tuesday, September 6, he met with the parents and band director at approximately 5:30 p.m. Mrs. McB. outlined her concerns stating that B.McB. had not been treated fairly because he was not given a place in the saxophone section and all other options were unacceptable. The topic of B.McB. being ejected from band was never a topic of conversation at this meeting.

The principal tried to talk B.McB. into taking a spot in the trombone section. B.McB. wanted to practice with the saxophone section and at this point made the "I have given you professionals two weeks." statement.

Mr. McB. seemed to encourage the trombone option. B.McB., however, could not decide and the principal urged him to take his time.

The principal testified that on Wednesday, September 7, he got a message via voice mail from B.McB. that he would accept the option of marching the trombone section. He also received a note from Mr. McB. that B. would accept this option. Later in the day, however, B.McB. told the principal that reporters would be coming to the school. At about 6:20 p.m., B.McB. and a camera man appeared at the office. The principal asked the camera man not to take any pictures and he believes the camera man left. A little after 7:00 p.m., the principal found B.McB. in the hallway and asked him if something was the matter. B.McB. replied to the effect that the director had yelled at him and said he should not be on the telephone while he should be in practice. B. then stated that he was under a great deal of stress and was not sure if he was in band any longer.

At that point, the band director came around the corner and joined the two. The principal asked if B.McB. were still in the band. The director replied, "Yes, but the clock is ticking." At this point, B.McB. said, "I can't take it any more." He moved toward the foyer of the building and said to the principal, "Get him [the band director] away from me. I'll kill him. This is killing me."

At this point, the principal was shocked and concerned with B.McB.'s well being. B.McB. kept backing out of the building. His arms flailed and he pulled his hair. The principal cautioned him to be careful of what he said and not to make matters worse. The principal told the music director to get a guidance counselor. He asked B.McB. to come into his office and talk. As they were speaking, a guidance counselor arrived, talked to B. and tried to calm him. They talked about marching in the trombone position and the possibility of a saxophone position opening up. B.McB. said he would think about it.

The principal asked B.McB. to leave so that he could talk to the counselor. He asked her to escort B.McB. outside, to talk to his parents, tell them what had happened and advise them that the principal would call them.

However, when the counselor went for B.McB., he was not there. The principal and counselor looked for him and for his parents but they were not to be found. He tried to telephone the McB. residence, but their telephone was experiencing problems.

On Thursday at 7:00 a.m., Mr. McB. and B.McB. were in the principal's office. The band director had told Mr. McB. on the prior evening what had happened. The principal told the father what B.McB. had said. The father replied that this was unlike B.McB. and that he did not want this to be a problem. The principal replied that he did not know B.McB. personally and would have to consult with the band director.

The principal met with the band director and a curriculum person and discussed the fact that the band director took what B.McB. said as a threat. The principal was more concerned about B.McB.'s well being. The band director reported previous concerns with B.McB. involving incidents on a band bus, incidents of defiance and hostility and, ultimately, the refusal of all options. Weighing it all, the band director was concerned.

The principal called the superintendent to advise him of this situation and called the family to say that there would be an informal due process hearing. Mr. McB. replied that he had retained an attorney and would handle the matter with the superintendent. That meeting took place the next day at approximately 1:00 p.m. The attorney spoke, in the main, for the McB.'s and the superintendent spoke for the school. School personnel referred to a verbal threat. The family's attorney called it a verbal outburst. No discussion was stifled and each side caucused more than once.

The conclusion was a two-week suspension from band class and practice. The rationale was that school personnel were concerned about B.McB.'s state which seemed to spring from his dissatisfaction. The administration did not want to suspend B.McB. from academic classes, although it could have done. B.McB. evidenced a defiant and hostile attitude. The psychological evaluation was introduced because of the nature of B.'s comment. School personnel wanted some assurance that B.McB. was not a threat to himself or others. The band director needed to be assured that there was threat to him personally. At the same time, there was general agreement that B.McB. would need an additional two weeks training before he could perform again. The parents rejected the idea of a psychological evaluation, at no expense to them, by a Child Study Team member. They expressed that they would have the evaluation done by a psychologist of their choice. The school personnel merely asked that the person chosen to do the evaluation contact school personnel. Pending receipt of the psychological report, B.McB. would be returned to band class. B.McB. appeared at class on the twelfth. At that point, the school had no assurance that B.McB. would be evaluated. On the evening the same day, the Board was served with the parents' request for emergent relief. The principal spoke to the superintendent, the superintendent spoke to Board counsel and Board counsel spoke to the parents' than attorney.

B.McB. appeared at band class on the thirteenth, but the band director was absent. The principal decided to remove B.McB. from the band director's class as of September 14. As of September 14, B.McB. was placed in a separate room where he would practice, independently, and receive credit for class attendance. B.McB. chose not to do this and elected to go to the library during band period. This had no effect on B.McB.'s band class grade.

LEGAL ARGUMENTS

The petitioner's say that the school's action on October 25, 1994 to reduce B.McB.'s role in the band was arbitrary and capricious. Furthermore, the school's discipline on September 9, 1994 for his conduct on September 7 was improper. They insist that B.McB. was taken out of his starting position in the band because that is what the band director wanted. The band director stated no criteria for selection or non-selection of a band member.

On or about August 25, 1994, B.McB. was taken out of his starting position in the band. This was equivalent to a form of punishment called a "time out" wherein the subject is excluded from and must observe an activity he desires to participate in. This creates further humiliation because it is observed by those who continue to participate. The effective being left out of one's peer group is a very powerful punishment. The band director, in effect, used this punishment for no reason. The band director stated he did not have the authority to discipline B.McB. The principal testified that the band director did not have the authority to discipline B.McB. However, the band director's improper conduct inflicted emotional distress on B.McB.

When the principal was asked by the Board's counsel what B.McB. said when confronted in the school hallway on September 7, 1994, the principal responded, "B.McB. said 'band is going to kill me'." Counsel was not happy with that answer and asked the principal the same question, but it was too late. B.McB. never threatened to kill anyone. The principal's testimony confirmed that. B.McB. was permitted to remain in the band director's class until B.McB.'s father suggested a change on September 21. The director and principal testified under oath that B.McB. was dangerous unless a psychologist said he was not. Nevertheless, they had no problem with B.McB. being in the band director's class.

The tribunal must find that the band director and principal acted in a silly manner. They had no problem with a boy who was supposedly a real danger to himself and others remaining in classes, in the school halls and on school property. The school's procedures are clear. A student who is a danger to himself or others is given out-of-school suspension because the school has a duty to protect the safety and welfare of its students and its personnel. In this case, the school clearly performed that duty, because they allowed B.McB. to remain in school because they knew he was not a danger to himself or others because he did not say he was going to kill himself or anyone else.

The school had no right to suspend B.McB. from band practice and require a psychological examination. The school had no right to order such a remedy which is an extreme intrusion into an individual's privacy.

In regard to the suspension, B.McB. and his parents do not ask this tribunal to substitute its judgment for that of the school, but asked the court to see whether the school followed its own rules. The school has proven it followed only its special rule in which the school gives itself the authority not to follow its own established rules.

The school must follow its established rules and the tribunal must hold them to their own rules. In this case, the school is applying a general rule to legitimize the improper discipline issued. The Code of Conduct introduction states:

Each student is guaranteed the right:

1. To be heard.
2. To have fair and consistent rules.
3. To due process procedures.

The procedures followed in this matter cannot be found in the code. B.McB. was not given oral or written notice of the charges against him. He was not given notice of the charges against him on or before the September 9, 1994 hearing.

In conclusion, the tribunal can understand why under these circumstances B.McB. was compelled to take this petition to the Commissioner. Children have the right to be treated fairly by adults and this in particular applies to their teachers and authority figures such as school administrators. B.McB. has been treated unfairly. The school has not followed its own rules and has not complied with the law. B.McB.'s demotion from the band on August 25, 1994 was arbitrary and capricious and it was at the complete whim of the band director.

B.McB. was disciplined for his reaction to emotional distress from his improper treatment and being eliminated from his starting position in the band. The school's own conduct showed B.McB. was not a danger to himself or others. Finally, the discipline was improper procedurally, because of the school's failure to give notice of the charges and the school's failure to follow its Code of Conduct as to what was the proper discipline. Therefore, B.McB. and his parents make nominal requests for this judge to order the school to expunge the September 7, 1994 discipline from B.McB.'s records and find that B.McB.'s demotion from the band on August 25, 1994 was improper.

The Board objects to the petitioner's due process arguments because they appear nowhere in the petition or amended petition. There are no procedural or substantive due process rights at issue in the temporary suspension from an extracurricular activity. Participation in extracurricular activities is a privilege, not a right. No property interest is at stake when a board of education denies participation in extracurricular activities.

Even if, arguendo, there were a right to participate in after-school band activities, the undisputed facts are that the petitioners received due process far beyond what any court or the Commissioner of Education would require. B.McB. and his father were informed of the allegations of a verbal threat against the band director on the night of the incident as well as the next morning by way of a meeting with the high school principal. Both parents and the pupil testified that they knew before the informal hearing with the superintendent on September 9 what the allegations were and what the suspension was for. The amended petition admits that B.McB. had a "verbal outburst" on September 7, in the presence of the principal and band director and that the suspension and psychological examination were because of the verbal outburst.

There was a complete dialogue between petitioner's counsel and the superintendent over all issues that the petitioners felt were important, in particular, the student handbook issue. Rather than being a "set up" as perceived by M.McB., the informal hearing with the superintendent had all of the necessary elements of due process. Given that the subject matter of the informal hearing was a relatively short-term suspension from participation in after-school band activities, the due process given was more than sufficient.

Before the incident of September 7, 1994, the petitioners' dispute with the school concerned denial to B.McB. of a specific, designated starting spot in the marching band. But as the band director testified, there are no guaranteed starting positions in the band. Much like try-outs for athletic teams, band members must earn their starting positions every year. Upper classmen or "veterans" are given no preference. Unfortunately, the petitioners assumed that simply because B.McB. had a starting position in the first line saxophone section one year, he had a right to the same spot the next year. It may have been the petitioner's misconception that B.McB.'s starting position was an entitlement that contributed to B.McB.'s excessive behavior.

Petitioners have failed to carry the burden of showing that the demand for a psychological evaluation was arbitrary or capricious under the circumstances. Rather, their case focused on second-guessing the "staging" and "harmonizing" decisions of the band director in the formation of marching schemes and B.McB.'s inclusion in such schemes. Case law is clear that the school laws vest the management of the public schools in each district board of education and its administration. The Commissioner will not intervene or substitute his judgment for that of the local board of education or administrators or teachers in the many selection processes in which they are involved.

The administration attempted to include B.McB. in the marching band to the fullest extent possible given that other students had already been assigned the available starting positions in the saxophone section. Rather than being kicked out of the band as B.McB. and his mother incredibly testified, the band director had attempted to find a place for B.McB. that could have been mutually satisfactory. The fact that the options offered to the petitioners were misperceived as punishment does not undermine the testimony that the district was trying every way possible to accommodate B.McB. and his family so that B.McB. could remain an active participant in band activities. However, M.McB. suspected every administration decision. The meeting with the superintendent on September 9 was a "set up." The options offered to B.McB. for continuation in the band were "punishments." To her, B.McB. was removed from the band and the band director did not respect her son. M.McB. testified that B.McB. was not allowed to perform until December when the suspension expired in late September and make up work would have enabled him to perform in early October. She further described the school district as "liars" and stated that only she was telling the truth.

The petitioners' chronology of events also changed between September 1994 and the present hearing. More conspicuously, B.McB.'s testimony is at odds with the consistent testimony of the band director and the principal.

The petitioners argued, but presented no evidence at all, in regard to the claim that the student handbook was applicable or, if applicable, was not followed. The petitioners bear the burden of showing arbitrary and capricious conduct. An allegation is not enough. There must be proofs.

On the issue of the psychological assessment, the parents agreed with the recommendation that one be done and offered to have the evaluation done at their own expense in order to hasten B.McB.'s chances of returning to the marching band.

Last, the Board has supplied several documents to the petitioners' counsel dealing with B.McB.'s attendance at band class after the incident on September 7. B.McB. testified that he attended the band director's sixth period class each day for the remainder of that week and the next week. However, the principal and music director testified that B.McB. attended class with the band director on Thursday, September 8, but that B.McB. was absent from class on Friday, September 9. The attendance records submitted to the petitioners' counsel shows B.McB. absent from the band director's class on Friday, September 9. This is consistent with the testimony of the principal and the band director that B.McB. was with his guidance counselor at that time. After the September 9 meeting with the superintendent, the principal testified that B.McB. was in the band director's class on Monday, September 12 and that the principal received a call later that day from F.McB. asking why B.McB. was still in that class. The principal assumed that the suspension given to B.McB. dealt only with after-school band activities. The principal then sought legal advice. On Tuesday, September 13, the band director left the building on sick leave. Nevertheless, B.McB. claims that he attended band class with the band director. B.McB. may have been there, but the band director definitely was not. For the remainder of that week, B.McB. was marked absent from the band director's class. This is consistent with the principal's testimony that arrangements had been made with counsel for B.McB. to be assigned to a room next to the music room so that he could have limited contact with the band director. This arrangement, which was requested by the petitioners, was unsatisfactory to B.McB. and resulted in B.McB. requesting assignment to the library and then a permanent assignment to another teacher's band class as of September 26.

The Board requests that the materials sent to the petitioner's counsel be considered as part of the record herein.

DETERMINATION

Having heard and observed the witnesses as they testified and having reviewed all documents in the case, I FIND:

1. B.McB., a student at Washington Township High School, was a member of the school band in his freshman (1992-93) and sophomore (1993-94) years and part of his junior year (1994-95);
2. His parents were active in the band's parent auxiliary;
3. A board camp is held in August of each year, shortly before commencement of the band's performances at athletic and other events;
4. B.McB. did not attend band camp in August 1992 and participated fully in band activities in the 1992-93 school year;
5. B.McB. attended part of the band camp conducted in August 1993 and participated fully in band activities in the 1993-94 school year;
6. B.McB. did not attend band camp in August 1994;
7. B.McB. informed the band director, after band camp began, via voice mail and a note in the director's mail box that he was working and could not attend band camp in August 1994. B.McB. has no conversations with the director before camp began;

8. On or about August 25, 1994, B.McB. learned that he was not assigned one of the twelve starting positions in the saxophone section in the marching scheme for the 1994-95 school year;
9. This news upset B.McB. and he made clear his belief that he was denied a starting position as a punishment for not attending band camp;
10. The band director offered B.McB. the options of serving as an alternate to the saxophone section, meaning he would march in performances at football games if a regular player was absent and participate in other events that did not involve marching schemes (e.g., concerts, parades); of marching in the trombone section (playing saxophone) because that section had two vacant positions;
11. Another option, apparently first mentioned by B.McB., was to quit band;
12. On August 30 and 31, B.McB. attended band rehearsals, having advised the director that he would march in the trombone section;
13. Beginning on or about September 1, 1994, B.McB. attended rehearsals, but refused to participate;
14. On these occasions, B.McB. walked about school grounds, met with reporters to discuss possible legal action against the board and its agents or sit in his parents' vehicle watching the practice;
15. On September 7, before practice, the director was informed that B.McB. had appeared, stated "If anybody is looking for me, I'm on the field," and left;

16. The director went to look for B.McB.;
17. He saw the McB.'s vehicle in the school parking lot, approached it and inquired of the parents whether they knew B.McB.'s whereabouts; they did not;
18. The director reentered the building and found B.McB. using a public telephone;
19. The director told B.McB. to return to practice and B.McB. sharply replied, "I am on the phone";
20. The director returned to the parking lot to enlist the aid of Mr. and Mrs. McB., but they had left;
21. The director again entered the school and approached B.McB., directing him to return to rehearsal;
22. B.McB.'s reply was that he was going to take the matter to "your principal";
23. The director went to the music room, got B.McB.'s instrument and returned to the front hall of the building;
24. When he arrived, he found the building principal advising B.McB. to return to practice;
25. B.McB. then said, "Get [the band director] away from me or I'll kill him," or words to that effect;
26. B.McB. was pulling his own hair and flailing his arms;
27. The principal told the band director to summon a guidance counselor, which the director did;

28. The principal and counselor attempted to calm B.McB.;
29. After a few moments, the principal and counselor conferred out of B.McB.'s hearing and B.McB. left the building;
30. The principal attempted to reach Mr. and Mrs. McB., but their telephone was not working;
31. At or about 7 a.m. the next morning, Mr. McB. and B.McB. appeared in the principal's office;
32. The principal told Mr. McB. of the previous evening's incident and expressed concern for B.McB.'s well being;
33. On the day following, the parents, their attorney, the superintendent, the principal and the band director met;
34. There was open and complete discussion of the recent events and each group caucused as necessary;
35. At the conclusion, the superintendent announced B.McB. would be suspended from band activities, but not classes, for two weeks and would be examined by the school psychologist because of concern for B.McB.'s well-being based on his unusual behavior;
36. The parents apparently agreed in concept, but wanted to engage their own psychologist for the examination and the school authorities agreed;

37. It was understood by the parties that following suspension, B.McB. would be afforded approximately two weeks of remedial band work and likely would be able to perform as of October 8, 1994;
38. The petitioners sought emergent relief, alleging the suspension of two week was too long and that the psychological examination requirement was arbitrary and capricious;
39. This tribunal denied the request on September 23, 1994 and the Commissioner of Education adopted the decision as his own on November 10, 1994;
40. Plenary hearing was set down for May 25, 1995, but adjourned until September 27, 1995; by consent of the parties.

The documents provided by the Board to the petitioners' counsel after hearing, while not essential, are relevant and I hereby admit them in evidence.

Some cases inevitably turn on the credibility of witnesses. A trier of fact may accept all of a witnesses' testimony, may reject it all, or may accept part and reject part, in accordance with the credibility of the witness. One factor that must be considered in a determination as to which party's version of an incident has the reasonable probability of the truth is that "the interest, motive, bias or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the [trier of fact]; whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony." State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div. 1952) (citations omitted), certif. den. 10 N.J. 316 (1952).

The testimony of B.McB. and M.McB. did not fall into the circumstance of a credible witness coupled with credible testimony. State v. Taylor, 38 N.J. Super. 6 (App. Div. 1955). B.McB. possess great verbal facility for a young man of his age. This facility approaches glibness. Bias or motive always is relevant to a determination of credibility. In re Ungar, 160 N.J. Super. 322 (App. Div. 1978).

Pupils must submit to the authority of teaching staff members and must comply with the rules that have been established by law for the governance of their schools. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-1. Each district board of education is empowered by N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 to make, amend, and repeal rules for the management of the schools in the district. The same statute authorizes boards of education to perform all acts and to do all things, consistent with law, necessary to proper conduct of the schools of the district. It is not possible to reduce to writing every possible situation that might subject a pupil to punishment. However, any act may subject a pupil to punishment where the act is detrimental to good order and to the best interest of the school or where it adversely affects school discipline. 79 C.J.S., Schools and School Districts, §496 at 455.

In addition to the findings set forth above, I further FIND that B.McB. was afforded all due process rights required in the matter of his limited suspension. He faced his accuser, he knew the nature of the accusation and had an opportunity to present his side of the story. In Twining v. New Jersey, 211 U.S. 78; 29 Sup. Ct. 14; 53 L. Ed. 97 (1908), it was held that the essential elements of due process of law are notice, an opportunity to be heard and to defend in an orderly proceeding adapted to the nature of the case. [Emphasis added.] By any measure, that standard has been met here.

In consideration of the foregoing, I CONCLUDE B.McB. was afforded due process rights required in the matter of his suspension from band activities. The actions of the board and its agents were reasonable in that the application of discipline in this matter was directly related to the good order and best interest of the school and school activities. The penalty in this matter was not unduly severe as related to the infraction.

Therefore, having considered all arguments of law put forward by the parties, I CONCLUDE that the petition of appeal is without merit. Accordingly, the petition is hereby DISMISSED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." PETITIONERS,
V. COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WASHINGTON, GLOUCESTER COUNTY,
RESPONDENT.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that B.McB.'s suspension from band activities pending a psychological evaluation was proper under the circumstances, in that the Board's application of discipline was rationally related to the good order and best interest of the school and to the particular conduct exhibited by B.McB.

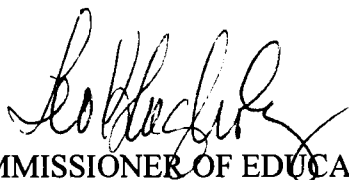

The Commissioner affirms the ALJ's factual findings in that the existing record provides no cause to challenge any of the determinations or credibility assessments made by the ALJ. Nor may the Commissioner properly reject such findings of fact without reviewing those portions of the transcript(s) where such findings were reached. Rowley v. Board of Education of

Manalapan-Englishtown, 205 N.J. Super. 65, 75 (App. Div. 1985) In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143, 159 (App. Div. 1987).¹

Finally, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioners were provided due process by the Board and its agents in accordance with Twining, supra, since they were afforded several opportunities to be heard.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Commissioner affirms the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law dismissing the within Petition of Appeal.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

¹ Additionally, it is the responsibility of those challenging such determinations to provide the Commissioner with such portions of the transcript, Morrison at 158-159, and no obligation arises for the Commissioner to review them before rendering a final decision regarding the findings and recommendations of the ALJ.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning teacher alleged she was wrongfully and arbitrarily terminated from her position.

Petition was dismissed as untimely filed as petitioner filed approximately 530 days after the District's final action to which she was objecting and presented no unusual or compelling circumstances warranting relaxation of the 90-day filing requirement mandated under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own. Petition was dismissed.

DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON,

Respondent.

Karen Nelson, pro se

No appearance by or for respondent

Record Closed: October 25, 1995

Decided: November 22, 1995

BEFORE RICHARD MCGILL, ALJ:

This matter involves a petition by Karen Nelson (petitioner) in which she claims that she was terminated unfairly from the position of teacher. In essence, petitioner alleges that she was attacked by a student in her classroom on September 14, 1993, and that she was accused of gross misconduct and terminated from her position on September 24, 1993.

In its answer, the State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson (respondent) denies that the termination was unfair, arbitrary or without due process. In addition, respondent maintains that the petition is barred for failure to comply with the ninety-day time limit set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed her petition with the Commissioner of Education on March 7, 1995 pursuant to the Commissioner's authority to hear and determine controversies under the school laws pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Respondent filed an answer on May 24, 1995, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on June 1, 1995 for determination as a contested case.

A telephone prehearing conference was scheduled for 4:00 p.m. on October 2, 1995. At the time set for the prehearing conference, the petitioner was available for the telephone call. However, the undersigned's office could reach only an answering machine for respondent's attorney.

From a review of the file, it appeared to the undersigned that respondent's contention that the petition is barred for failure to comply with the ninety-day time set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) was meritorious. As a result and in the interest of prompt resolution of the matter in the event that respondent's argument was meritorious, the undersigned sent a letter dated October 5, 1995 to the parties directing that they treat the letter as a motion to dismiss the petition for failure to comply with the ninety-day time limit set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). The letter further directed that the parties submit written arguments in regard to the motion no later than October 25, 1995.

Petitioner responded by letter dated October 13, 1995. No response was received from respondent. The record closed on October 25, 1995, upon expiration of the time for response to the letter dated October 5, 1995.

MOTION TO DISMISS

To initiate a contested case before the Commissioner of Education, the petitioner must file the petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) Here, it is undisputed that petitioner was terminated by respondent by letter dated September 23, 1993, effective September 24, 1993, and that the petitioner filed the petition in this matter on March 7, 1995. Thus, the petition was filed approximately 530 days after the action in regard to which petitioner seeks an adjudication.

In her letter dated October 13, 1995, petitioner expressed the view that she was treated unfairly with respect to her termination. However, her letter does not indicate in any way that her petition was filed in a timely manner.

Based upon the above, I CONCLUDE that petitioner failed to file her petition within the ninety-day time limit set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c).

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the petition in this matter be dismissed.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

 RESPONDENT. :

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. By way of exceptions, petitioner submitted a letter objecting to the dismissal of her case on the grounds of fairness and equity. She asserts that it is fundamentally unjust to invoke a procedural rule to deny a petitioner a hearing where a case has merit.

Upon a full review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the within Petition of Appeal, having been filed approximately 530 days after the final Board action to which petitioner is objecting, is untimely pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). The Commissioner further determines that petitioner has shown no unusual or compelling circumstances surrounding this matter which warrant relaxation of the 90-day filing requirement under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15. (See Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Twp., 131 N.J. 572 (1993).)

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is affirmed and the within Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

Record Closed: December 4, 1995

Decided: December 6, 1995

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

OAL DKT. NO. EDC 10855-95

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) on November 29, 1995, as a result of the filing of a petition by DEC Electric, Inc., (DEC) seeking, among other remedies, emergent relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6.

Prior to the submission of the foregoing, DEC submitted directly to the Office of Administrative Law on November 17, 1995, a motion for substantially the same interim relief. Immediately thereafter respondent, Board of Education of the Southern Gloucester City Regional High School District (hereinafter "Southern Gloucester") on or about November 27, 1995 challenged the jurisdiction of the Office of Administrative Law to entertain DEC's motion, which challenge, in my opinion, was proper in that pursuant to the foregoing regulation, N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6, an application for emergency relief must be made directly to the agency head - the Commissioner of Education - rather than to the Office of Administrative Law. Presumably recognizing the technical flaw in its motion, DEC submitted a supervening petition with the Commissioner of Education on November 27, 1992 which cured the jurisdictional defect and the matter was transmitted as noted. In addition, the subsequent petition also properly named as a respondent to the motion for interim relief not just Southern Gloucester (the only named respondent in the original petition) but also USA Electrical Contractors, Inc. (USA). USA did not submit a response to the motion for interim relief until moments before oral argument was conducted on December 4, 1995. Counsel for USA served both petitioner and co-respondent with the motion in advance of oral argument and presumably their arguments addressed the issues raised by Mr. Zabel. Oral argument was conducted at the Office of Administrative Law, Mercerville, New Jersey at 1:30 p.m. on December 4, 1995 at which time the record closed.

STANDARD FOR THE MOTION FOR EMERGENCY RELIEF

The standards utilized within the administrative forum in respect to motions for emergent relief are substantially the same if not identical to those applicable to temporary restraining orders or similar interim remedies within the courts. Both under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6 and under well established rules within the judiciary in order for a moving party to prevail on a motion for interim relief, the moving party must demonstrate:

- (1.) The reasonably likelihood that it will prevail on the merits at a full plenary disposition of the proceedings;
- (2) immediate and irreparable harm will in all likelihood result to the moving party should the motion be denied; and
- (3) the remedies sought would be as limited in scope and temporary as is possible so as to allow the party or parties opposing the motion not to suffer undue harm.

See the seminal case of Crowe v. De Gioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-33 (1982); Wolfington Board Company Inc. v. Hunterdon Central Board of Education, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 622, 624; M.S. v. Barnegate Township Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDS) 16, 17]

The Court must also evaluate the relative hardship to the parties and the public interest in granting or denying relief. Id.

“Harm is generally considered irreparable. . . if it cannot be redressed adequately by monetary damages. In certain circumstances, severe, personal inconvenience can constitute injury justifying issuance of injunctive relief.” Crowe at 132-33.

The requirement that petitioner show a reasonable likelihood of success on the merits “is usually tempered by the principle that mere doubt on the claim’s validity is not an adequate basis for refusing to maintain the status quo. So frequently, emergency relief is granted to prevent a decree on the merits from becoming futile or useless by preventing the res from destruction or impairment.” See, 37 N.J. Practice (Lefelt, Administrative Law and Practice) sec. 196 at 204. “Indeed the point of temporary relief is to maintain the parties in substantially the same condition when the final decree is entered as they were when the litigation began.” Crowe at 134.

FACTS AND ANALYSIS

I shall now address with particularity the substance of the emergent relief motion brought by DEC and the remedy sought. The facts are derived from the certifications and affidavits submitted as an incident to the motion as well as from the representations of a factual nature made by counsel at oral argument following their discussion with their respective clients.

Southern Gloucester is in the process of renovating and providing additions to one of its schools, the Delsea Regional High School in Franklinville, New Jersey. The project has been divided up into phases. Phase III is or is about to be completed and phase IV which involves additional renovations and construction is scheduled to commence on or about January 3, 1996 and should be completed in or about August of that year. The initial stages of phase IV involve demolition of parts of the existing structure.

On or about October 13, 1995, Southern Gloucester gave notice that sealed bids and proposals were to be accepted for various jobs related to the phase IV construction activities. Approximately five contractors specializing in various building trades submitted bids on the November 2, 1995 submission date. DEC is an electrical contracting company as is respondent USA. Both companies submitted bids on the November 2nd, submission date. The movant's bid to complete the work was in the amount of $878,400. USA submitted its bid on November 2, 1995 in the amount of $675,000 and was deemed to be the lowest bidder and therefore Southern Gloucester awarded USA the electrical contract to perform the electrical work on phase IV. The contract was awarded on November 9, 1995.

Pursuant to the bidding requirement applicable to respective parties contracting with local school boards on contracts requiring public advertisements, it must be demonstrated that at the time of the submission of its bid the prospective bidder be qualified. Such qualification goes to character as well as to the capacity of the bidder to bid on the amount of the public work contract which is the subject of the bid. See N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-26, 27 and 29.

Based upon the undisputed factual record which was reaffirmed during oral argument, on November 2, 1995, DEC was qualified by the appropriate regulatory body within the Department of Education, the Division of Buildings/Construction (DBC). On November 2, 1995, the respondent, USA, was not qualified. USA's qualification expired on October 30, 1995. Southern Gloucester, when it received USA's bid on November 2, knew that USA was not qualified. The record strongly suggests that USA made a good faith effort after its qualification had expired to requalify by the November 2, 1995 submission date; however, that effort was unsuccessful. Based upon the facts before me at the time of oral argument, USA was qualified under statute to submit its bid for the contract at the earliest November 6, 1995.

Counsel for USA in response to my inquiry represented that the principal of USA had been qualified under different corporate names as an electrical contractor for purposes of submitting bids for school contracts for the past 16 consecutive years. No reasonable explanation was provided for USA's failure to qualify on November 2, 1995 other than the suggestion that the bureaucratic requirements for qualification had changed since prior years. I find that to be no excuse however. An electrical contractor who has been qualified for 16 consecutive years in the past has a clear duty and responsibility to apprise itself in advance of the termination of its qualification as to what it must do and when it must do it in order to meet the statutory requirements for qualification.

It is based upon USA's failure to be qualified as a bidder on November 2, 1995, the date on which bids were opened, that DEC seeks emergent relief.

DEC argues that USA's lack of qualifications on November 2, 1995 renders the contract which resulted in the award to it by Southern Gloucester a nullity. I agree.

N.J.S.A. 18A:18-26 explicitly provides in part as follows:

Every Board of Education shall require that all persons proposing to bid on any Contract requiring public advertisement for bids with the Board for public work. . . shall first be classified in accordance with Article 6 of this chapter as to the character and the amount of public work in which they shall be classified to submit bids. So long as such requirement is in effect, the Board of Education shall accept such bids only from persons qualified in accordance with such classification. [emphasis added]

It is also noted that in addition to USA not being qualified to submit on November 2, 1995, the argument offered by Mr. Hunt in support of DEC is that even when USA was qualified, on November 9, 1995, when the contract was awarded to USA, the latter's bid was materially non-responsive and its financial responsibility was questionable. He bases this argument on the factual representation that as of the date of the award of the contract, USA was only qualified for $800,000 with $50,000 worth of uncompleted work on its books.

It should be noted that the purpose of this proceeding is not to determine the issue of whether USA was fiscally qualified to submit bids on the contract at issue, but rather whether given that it was not qualified at all on November 2, 1995 the date on which bids were opened, the contract which it entered into with Southern Gloucester should be set aside as a nullity. Therefore, I shall not rule upon the issue of the fiscal qualification and classification of USA.

The case governing the consequence of a bidder's failure to qualify on the date on which the bid is opened is Begraff v. Borough of Franklin, 133 N.J. Super 415 (App. Div. 1975). The appellate division, construing the predecessor statute to N.J.S.A. 18:18A-26, N.J.S.A. 18A:18-9, and as Mr. Hunt notes at page four of his brief, held that the failure of a contractor to be qualified at the time of the opening of bids is a material defect that can neither be waived nor cured by the action of the board of education or by anyone else. The appellate division noted:

Having failed to so qualify by the date fixed for the reception of bids, plaintiff was disqualified from submitting a bid. Moreover, defendant Board of Education was without authority to accept such a bid since such qualification could not be waived by the Board. And qualification by the plaintiff after the date fixed for the submission of bids, does not satisfy the requirement of either the statute or the invitation to bid. [Citations omitted; emphasis supplied]

I agree with Mr. Hunt's conclusion that the courts of New Jersey have concluded that as a matter of law and public policy the lack of qualification of a bidder for a public school contract is a material non-curable and non-waivable defect. In my view this is not a mere technical de minimus oversight on the part of any bidder, including USA. The statutory framework for public contracts is clearly designed to protect the public by assuring that bidders are qualified in all relevant ways to enter into contractual obligations with local school boards and to satisfactorily perform work of various kinds, many of which directly impact upon the health, safety and welfare of school children. In addition, the laws are also designed to assure that the contractor has the fiscal integrity as well as character necessary to satisfactorily complete the job and that if for whatever reason it fails to do so, the local school district can be saved harmless.

The court in Begraft stated that the qualification serves "...to protect a vital and valid public interest, and to protect as well the interests of the contractors..." Begraft at 417. The Begraft court recognized that even though plaintiff had qualified by the date the contract was awarded, its failure to qualify prior to submitting the bid was a material violation which the school board could not waive.

Southern Gloucester contends that the violation was not material. In fact, it fails to see how such a breach violates the sanctity of the bidding process. According to respondent, USA had filed the necessary papers for qualification. Respondent was assured, as was USA, that its qualification was forthcoming. However, what respondent and USA overlook is that to make an exception for USA would be manifestly unfair, and would raise questions concerning the entire bidding process. "When the waiver occurs, the bidders no longer stand on a basis of equality and the advantages of competition are lost." Hillside at 325. That is, other bidders may have declined to submit bids because of the qualification requirement. Had they known that respondent was willing to waive this prerequisite, other bidders may have submitted bids even lower than USA. Such an outcome benefits not only the bidding process, but the public as well. George Harms Constr. Co. v. Bor. of Lincoln Pk., 161 N.J. Super. 367, 377 (Law Div. 1978).

Moreover, waiving the qualification deprived the school district of any assurance that the contract would be completed. Since, USA did not meet the statutory requirements, it could decide not to fulfill its part of the bargain, basing its argument on the statutory violation. Id. Other courts have allowed parties to reject contracts on similar grounds. Hillside v. Sternin, 25 N.J. 317, 325 (1957).

Additionally, questions may linger in the minds of the public concerning the validity of the bidding process. "...the municipality cannot be permitted to breathe validity into an invalid bid by waiver. In this field it is better to leave the door tightly closed than to permit it to be ajar, thus necessitating forevermore in such cases speculation as to whether or not it was purposely left that way." Id. at 326.

While in the current matter, USA certainly does not appear to be an unscrupulous contractor; indeed based upon Southern Gloucester representations one must assume that the work that USA has competed for it in the past has been at the least satisfactory. Nevertheless, USA failed to meet the statutory requirements for qualification and in my view, no exceptions to the holding in Begrift allowing for substantial compliance or good faith effort exists. It must be left for the legislature to amend the law or for the courts to construe the statutory requirements for qualifications more liberally to allow for an exception which might apply to a scenario similar to the matter sub judice.

In this matter I would also note as an aside that part of the problem was created by Southern Gloucester in that it has acknowledged on the record that it knew on November 2, 1995 that USA was not qualified. In my judgment therefore, it knew, or reasonably should have known, that by accepting USA's bid it was assuming a significant risk that if USA's bid resulted in a contract there would be a strong likelihood that it would be challenged because of USA's lack of qualification. Thus, if there is any delay in respect to the commencement of the fourth phase of the project to improve the Delsea Regional High School, part of that delay is directly ascribable to the school district.

The effort by Southern Gloucester to distinguish the holding in Begrift and to argue that the bidder's lack of qualification on a date that bids are opened is a mere technical, minimal oversight is unsuccessful. Southern Gloucester's reliance upon the decision in Palamar Construction, Inc. v. Township of Pennsauken, 196 N.J. Super 241 (App. Div. 1983) is inapposite to the matter before me. In that case, the court held that a township can waive a minor or inconsequential condition of the bidding specifications under certain circumstances. Specifically and in Palamar the bidder had been qualified but it simply had forgotten to include the qualification statement in its bid. In the current matter, the issue is not the condition of the bidding specifications, the issue is the qualification of the bidder. As a matter of statutory law that qualification is neither minor nor inconsequential.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that on November 2, 1995, the date on which the relevant bids were opened by Southern Gloucester, USA was not a qualified bidder as required by case law and pursuant to relevant statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:18-26, 27 & 29. As a consequence it is ORDERED that the contract awarded to USA on November 9, 1995 is null and void.

Given the foregoing conclusion however, does not result in a determination that DEC is entitled to the emergent relief requested. DEC has not and is unable to demonstrate that as a result of the nullity of the contract entered into between USA and Southern Gloucester, it has or will suffer immediate and irreparable harm. DEC does not have an entitlement to step into the shoes of USA and become the contracting party with Southern Gloucester on the contract.

Mr. Iannuzzi properly notes the significant disparity between bids - DEC's bid exceeded USA's by more than $200,000. Clearly, the local school board not only has a right but a responsibility to see to it that in the interest of its taxpayers, bids shall be awarded to the lowest, responsible, qualified party. To conclude that because USA is disqualified and that therefore Southern Gloucester has an obligation to award the contract to DEC at a cost in excess of $200,000, would in my judgment, take away from the school board the discretion that it must exercise in the best interests of its citizens.

Moreover, I have no way of determining in these proceedings whether DEC qualifies to meet the contract based upon the classification procedures employed under statute. I am not suggesting that DEC would not meet those classifications; I am merely stating that this is not an issue that can be decided in this emergent proceeding, nor indeed is it an issue before me.

Courts have recognized that the second lowest bidder in a contract does not have an entitlement as a matter of law to become the contracting party, particularly where there is a significant disparity between the amount of the bids. In George Harms v. Borough of Lincoln Park, 161 N.J. Super 367 (Law Div. 1978), cited by Mr. Iannuzzi in the last page of his November 27, 1995 brief (unpaginated), the court held that where the lowest bid was invalid and the next lowest bid was $200,000 higher, the borough was directed to exercise its statutory option of rejecting all bids. I agree. Case law strongly suggests that the school board now has the option of either awarding the contract to DEC or reopening the bidding process. See also, Richardson Engineering Company v. Rutgers, et al., 51 N.J. 207, 214 (1968), where it was held that the contract award once vacated did not require the second lowest bidder was automatically entitled to the contract. If Southern Gloucester has decided to reopen the bidding process if it lost its argument in respect to the validity of the contract entered into between it and USA, as it implied it would at oral argument, petitioner has suffered no irreparable harm. Petitioner may be in an even better position than it was prior to the commencement of this litigation: DEC now has the opportunity to study the other submitted bids. Such knowledge could aid the petitioner if it decides to redraft its own bid. Therefore, in my view DEC has been unable to demonstrate under these circumstances irreparable or immediate injury.

In my judgment Mr. Hunt, in response to a hypothetical question which I placed to him, posited upon this very scenario was unpersuasive in seeking to demonstrate that harm to DEC was either irreparable or immediate. Whether DEC has a separate action against Southern Gloucester for damages is an issue to be resolved in another forum at another time. By this decision I express no opinion in that regard. I do, however, conclude that even if DEC did have an action for damages that would not be sufficient to entitle it to emergent relief in that monetary damages in a situation such as this would not be for harm which is either irreparable or immediate. Moreover, one might speculate that if the Commissioner of Education affirms the determination that I have arrived at, which is that the contract entered into between USA and Southern Gloucester is a nullity, DEC might very well be the lowest bidder. Under those circumstances, it would be hard to argue that DEC was damaged in any fashion.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that DEC has failed to establish that as a result of the contract entered into between USA and Southern Gloucester being a nullity, it has suffered immediate and irreparable harm.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner’s exceptions and Respondent Board’s reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner’s exceptions essentially recast and reiterate arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), again contending, inter alia, that petitioner, the second lowest bidder for an electrical project, is entitled to contractual award for this project upon disqualification of the low bidder, and that should the project go out to rebid, petitioner will suffer immediate and irreparable harm in preparing and submitting a responsive bid.

In its reply, the Board argues that the ALJ’s initial decision was correct in finding that petitioner would suffer no immediate nor irreparable harm if the Board chose to rebid the project as petitioner would be entitled to participate in the rebidding process. Further, the Board contends that rebidding would not require petitioner to expend a significant amount of time and expense to prepare its new bid in that petitioner is essentially rebidding the same project. Neither, the Board avers, has petitioner demonstrated a likelihood of success on the merits.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ denying emergent relief as petitioner failed to meet the standards for such relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Accordingly, the Motion for Emergent Relief is denied for the reasons expressed by the ALJ and this matter shall duly proceed for a hearing on the merits.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

For the Board, Wilentz, Goldman & Spitzer (Joseph J. Jankowski, Esq.)

For the Council, Karcher, Salmond, Rainone & Barrett (Louis N. Rainone, Esq.)

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on June 15, 1995 through the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Edison Township Board of Education (Board), seeking restoration of reductions to the school budget made by the Edison Township Council (Council) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 following defeat of the budget at the annual school election on April 18, 1995.

At that election, the voters rejected a public question proposing a General Fund tax levy of $88,483,245 for the 1995-96 school year. On May 16, 1995, following consultation with the Board as required by law, the Council adopted a resolution determining to certify a General Fund tax levy of $86,646,045 as sufficient to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education (T & E) in the District. This amount represented a reduction of $1,837,200 from the tax levy proposed by the Board, and was effectuated through cuts in 13 line items, together with an increase in revenue from surplus, for the reasons given in the implementing resolution. By resolution dated May 18, 1995, the Board determined to appeal these reductions and duly filed the within petition.

The amounts in dispute in this appeal are as follows:

Tax Levy Proposed by Board		Tax Levy Certified by Council
General Fund	$88,483,245	General Fund	$86,646,045
Amount of Reduction by Council		Amount of Reduction in Dispute
General Fund	$1,837,200	General Fund	$1,837,200

An answer to the Board's petition was filed by the Council on June 30, 1995. On July 20, 1995, the parties filed their respective position statements pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8, followed by responsive statements on July 31, 1995 and August 1, 1995, and final summations on August 22, 1995 and August 16, 1995.

On July 17, 1995, the Middlesex County Superintendent of Schools submitted an affidavit attesting to the process that led to her recommendation, and that of the Department of Education Cap Waiver Review Panel, that the Board be granted a "Commissioner's cap waiver" in the amount of $1,030,612 for reason of increased enrollment and special education needs pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-28(e). This did not represent the full amount of the Board's request, which had been for $2,932,361, and appeal was subsequently taken to the State Board of Education, which affirmed the prior determination of the Acting Commissioner directing a reallocation of $1,901,749 to cover the remaining portion of the cap request, and to the Appellate Division, where the appeal was subsequently withdrawn by the Board.

The County Superintendent's filing of July 17, 1995, together with supplemental affidavits filed on August 17, 1995 and October 26, 1995, respectively, also set forth material events transpiring subsequent to the Council's reduction of the budget, including various requests made by the Board for fund transfers and other actions requiring county superintendent approval. These accounts and their supporting documentation are fully incorporated by reference herein; however, the following actions are noted as being especially pertinent to the present appeal: On May 25, 1995, the Board requested permission to transfer $1,837,200 from its health benefits account to cover the reductions made by the Council pending appeal; this request was denied on May 30, 1995 and upon subsequent requests for reconsideration, and on June 21, 1995, the Board adopted a revised budget reflecting the Council's reductions. Subsequently, the Board requested and received permission to transfer $150,000 from undesignated, unreserved surplus in order to replace the 4.4 teaching staff positions cut by Council (Account No. 11-130-100-101) and an additional $182,127 in the same account in order to fund a shortage caused by less than anticipated retirement breakage, for a total approved appropriation of $332,127. A request to fund $38,000 in middle school department head stipends (Account No. 11-000-221-102) and $21,000 for increased negotiations costs (Account No. 11-000-230-339) through surplus was initially denied, but then granted when the surplus funds to be used were identified as the unanticipated monies generated by an expenditure freeze imposed at the end of the 1994-95 school year. Later, permission was granted to charge $137,000 to Capital Bond Ordinance number 518.90 as follows: $92,000 to Account No. 11-190-100-610 for equipment, $68,400 of which was transferred to Account No. 11-000-260-441 to be used to purchase trailers as set forth below; $25,000 to Account No. 11-000-260-340 for Environmental Remediation; and $20,000 to Account No. 12-000-260-730 for capital outlay maintenance equipment. Finally, $6,623 was made available to Account No. 11-000-219-104 in view of the County Superintendent's granting of permission to fund a Special Services Department Head position through IDEA grant funds; however, this amount was offset by a transfer of $4,091 to Account No. 11-213-100-101 to cover the excess cost of two teaching positions which are now being funded through the current expense budget rather than the IDEA grant as originally proposed. Although the Board had, at the time of the closing of the record, several additional requests pending, no further action has been taken.

In addition, as the parties had previously been advised by letter from the Assistant Commissioner dated April 7, 1995 and distributed through the County Superintendent to boards and municipalities experiencing budget defeats, as part of the record of the within appeal, the Commissioner took official notice of the Board's revised budget, its June 30 financial report and its annual year-end audit, the latter two for the purpose of identifying whether the Board had underestimated in its 1995-96 budget the amount of anticipated undesignated surplus.

Upon expiration of the time for filing of the parties' responses to the County Superintendent's third (October 27) affidavit, the record of the appeal was closed.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line-item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education. Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989). With respect to appeals involving cap waivers, before the Commissioner can direct restoration of any amount of a waiver defeated by the voters, the Commissioner must determine that such amount is both fully necessary for purposes of T & E and unable to be derived from further reallocation within the base budget. Board of Education of the Borough of Rutherford v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Rutherford, Bergen County, State Board decision July 7, 1993; Board of Education of the Borough of Edgewater v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Edgewater and In the Matter of the Cap Waiver Appeal of the Board of Education of the Borough of Edgewater, Bergen County, State Board Decision July 6, 1994.

Mindful, then, of the standards to be applied, the Commissioner makes the specific determinations set forth below.

The Board argues that, notwithstanding the fact that the County Superintendent permitted the Board to subsidize the 4.4 teaching positions cut by the Council with funds from unanticipated surplus as noted above, the Council's reduction should be restored so that the $150,000 in question may be returned to surplus and used for other budgetary needs. The Board contends that the Council ignored its programmatic needs, and that, had surplus funds not been available to temporarily compensate, the Board would have had to eliminate the driver's education simulation program, phase out the German program, cut adaptive physical education programs, and eliminate or cut down on electives. Moreover, contrary to the Council's contention, except for 1993-94 (when an anticipated housing development did not materialize due to extraordinary circumstances), the Board has been very accurate in its enrollment projections. In addition, due to the Acting Commissioner's stance in reducing the Board's requested cap waiver, the Board is even less able to deal with enrollment influxes.

The Council argues that the Board has consistently inflated its enrollment projections over the years (an allegation which the Board strenuously denies), and that, even assuming this year's projection to be correct, the Board has in the past handled similarly large increases with fewer additional staff than the number of additions permitted by the Township's proposed budgeting level.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board's supporting documentation, as submitted both directly and through the affidavits of the County Superintendent, attest to the Board's need for the additional positions reduced by Council in order to provide T & E. However, in view of the fact that these positions have already been funded through transfer from surplus, the Commissioner sustains the reduction of $150,000, reserving discussion of the impact of the transfer on the District's budget overall for the analysis of surplus below.

Disputed Line-Item Number 2

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
6910	11-000-230-109	Administrative Salary	$681,864	$40,000

The Board argues that the Acting Commissioner did not cut the position of grants writer when directing reallocation in his review of the Board's cap waiver application, supra, thereby indicating that it is necessary for T & E. The Board contends that the position is essential for permitting Edison to identify and apply for funding that will serve as a supplement to local tax revenue and State funding which is increasingly inadequate. The Board further notes that this position was created in the 1994-95 budget cycle for implementation in 1995-96, after the arrival of a new superintendent and upon District elimination of all supervisors who had formerly been responsible for grantwriting, and that grant monies obtained will far outweigh the cost of the position and will directly benefit students through provision of enhanced programs.

The Council argues that in times of economy, a position such as this is unnecessary, as grantwriting functions can be distributed among existing administrative staff. The Council further notes that the position went unfilled, hence unneeded, in 1994-95, and provides no direct services to students. The Council further notes that a determination not to require reallocation of particular funds in the cap waiver review panel process cannot be held to constitute a specific Department of Education endorsement of that item, or to supersede the Commissioner's authority and obligation under the education laws to decide appeals of defeated budget and cap waiver questions under appropriate standards of review.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has not demonstrated this specific position to be necessary for T & E, and concurs with the Council that the Department's overall review of district staffing patterns within the context of the cap waiver review panel process cannot be held to bind the Commissioner to acceptance of the necessity of any one particular position in the context of a budget appeal. Accordingly, the reduction of $40,000 is sustained.

7360	11-000-290-109	Other Salary	$847,707	$45,000

The Board again argues that the Acting Commissioner did not cut the position of human resources manager when directing reallocation in his review of the Board's cap waiver application, supra, thereby indicating that it is necessary for T & E. The Board further argues that this position was created when, as a result of 1993-94/1994-95 downsizing, the position of director of personnel (salary $75,000) was eliminated, but certain functions requiring personnel expertise remained and could not be delegated to other staff.

The Council argues that this position, like that of grants writer, is unnecessary, as its functions can be distributed among existing administrative staff. The Council again notes that the position went unfilled in 1994-95, and provides no direct services to students.

Upon review, while again noting that the Commissioner is not bound in the present context by cap waiver review panel acceptance of a district's overall staffing patterns, particularly when the supporting documentation provided to the review panel did not indicate that the position in question was a new one, the Commissioner finds that the Board has demonstrated the necessity of this position within the present context and the Council has not shown how personnel functions in a large district such as Edison can feasibly be distributed among existing administrators in the absence of a personnel director. Accordingly, the reduction of $45,000 is restored.

6750	11-000-221-102	Director Salary	$1,324,067	$75,000

The Board argues that the Council is incorrect in its belief that the position of director of instructional services can be eliminated because its duties can be assumed by the newly created position of assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction. The director position was specifically added in order to compensate for the loss of elementary school supervisors during a recent downsizing (see above), and is needed for adequate development and implementation of curriculum at the District's eleven elementary schools.

The Council maintains that it is willing to defer to the Board in its judgment that, as part of the District's administrative reorganization, the position of assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction is necessary. However, if this is the case, there is no need to add an additional administrative layer by simultaneous creation of a director for instructional services, as the assistant superintendent can assist building principals with curriculum matters to the extent that they cannot handle such matters themselves.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has not demonstrated the necessity for this position to ensure provision of T & E, particularly in view of the Department Head structure underlying the Board's request to fund stipends from surplus as set forth above. Accordingly, the reduction of $75,000 is sustained.

7180	11-000-260-620	Energy Expense	$1,655,000	$150,000

The Board argues that the Council errs in accusing the Board of consistently overstating energy costs, offering a chart comparing actual expenses versus appropriations for the past three school years. The Board further contends that the Council relies heavily on costs for this past winter, which was unusually mild and cannot fairly be used as a benchmark for routine budgeting, and that, even if the Board were to use such costs, the amount remaining after the Council's reduction would not cover expenditures.

The Council argues that, in addition to general overstating, the Board has based its 1995-96 projections not on an "average" winter, but on the winter of 1993-94, the worst in recent memory.

Upon review, the Commissioner is satisfied that the Board has demonstrated its need for these funds based on past expenditure levels, not confined to the extreme winter of 1993-94, and refuted the Council's allegation of general overbudgeting in this area. Accordingly, the reduction of $150,000 is restored.

Disputed Line-Item Number 6

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
7420	11-000-290-290	Employee Benefits	$8,837,654	$150,000

The Board argues that the Council's proposed reduction is an "impossible mandate," based on the fact that the Acting Commissioner (through reallocation in the cap waiver review process) has already reduced this line item to a level that results in a shortfall. The Board is now left in a position where claims could exceed remaining balance, in that the "offset" requested by the Board, supra, was merely a temporary measure to permit the District to function during pendency of the within budget appeal.

The Council argues that there is currently a surplus in excess of $1 million in the reserve account of Connecticut General Insurance (Cigna), the District's carrier for health insurance. The Board itself sought permission from the County Superintendent to use this entire amount to offset the Council's reductions herein, so that the Board cannot now be heard to argue that it cannot use even $150,000 to offset this one reduction. In addition, the Council concludes that the $405,942 in premium stabilization reserves held by the Board is not actuarially required; indeed, the Council also uses Cigna as its insurance carrier, and it has completely eliminated such funds from its own budget.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that while the Board may wish to employ premium stabilization reserves as its standard fiscal practice, it cannot argue that such reserves, which serve as "insulation" from potential premium increases, in the full amount requested are necessary for T & E, so as to warrant restoration of the Council's reduction rather than allocation from surplus if the Board deems such to be an appropriate use. Accordingly, the reduction of $150,000 is sustained.

Disputed Line-Item Number 7

6580	11-000-219-104	Support Services	$1,708,516	$50,000

The Board argues that the Council's action was taken without rational basis and will prevent the District from addressing, through creation of two new positions, its ongoing problem with unduly large caseloads for child study team members, which has prevented timely evaluations and preparation of IEPs. If past patterns of losing child study team members through budget reductions and cap waiver reallocations continue, the District will not be able to meet State and federal mandates and will be faced with litigation and the need for contracting additional services on a piecemeal basis. The Board further notes that, although the Council makes reference to reducing two positions, the funds cut are sufficient for only one, thus showing a lack of rational basis for the Council's action.

The Council argues that the positions to be eliminated (additional psychologist and learning disability consultant) are not necessary for T & E and represent program expansions that should not be undertaken at a time of economic hardship. The Council further notes that, even with its proposed reduction, the Board can still hire one additional person to meet its purported needs.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, as the Board was able to fund two special education teaching staff positions through the current expense budget and elected to use IDEA monies to fund a Special Services Department Head position rather than additional teaching staff, the Board cannot be heard on appeal herein to claim that further current expense funds are needed to fill more teaching positions. Accordingly, the $50,000 reduction is sustained.

Disputed Line-Item Number 8

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
7130	11-000-260-441	Rental of Buildings	$102,900	$92,400

The Board argues that this line item does not involve Distance Learning Labs, as contended by Council in its resolution, but rather addresses the lease-purchase of relocatable classrooms needed for short-term accommodation of rapid increases in enrollment, the absence of which would result in cancellation of 28 middle school classes (four sections for seven periods) and concomitant enlargement of existing, already large classes. At the high school, special subject classes would have to be converted to regular classes, with concomitant loss of special courses. In addition, the Board recently requested and received permission from the County Superintendent to transfer funds for lease of four relocatable classrooms, thereby signifying the need for immediate action, as bond proceedings and subsequent construction could not be in place until 1996-97 at best and it is now too late in the year for major reassignment of 1995-96 students.

The Council argues that $24,000 of the proposed reduction is for Distance Learning Labs, which are not necessary for T & E and should not be considered a priority in tight fiscal times, particularly when the Council has just arranged for cable TV to be provided to the District free of charge. The remaining $68,400 is for relocatable classrooms, which the Board does not truly need in view of its historical tendency to overestimate enrollment and its planning to address facility expansion issues in the near future through an $11 million bond referendum. Moreover, the Board has used relocatables in the past and experienced environmental difficulties, so that students should be reassigned rather than repeat this experience.

Upon review, the Commissioner notes that $68,400 of the amount at issue has now been made available through reprogrammed bond proceeds, so that the Council’s reduction of this amount is sustained. The remaining $24,000, however, which represents that portion of this account earmarked for Distance Learning Labs, is found necessary for development of the District’s T & E educational program, and is accordingly restored.

6950	11-000-230-530	Telephone - Postage	$290,070	$34,800

The Board argues that, with its proposed Distance Learning Labs, it wishes to provide students not merely with cable broadcasts in Edison’s two high schools (which is what the Council’s “cable alternative,” at line item no. 8 above, would offer), but rather with participation in an interactive television program shared by a consortium of Middlesex County schools approved by the County Superintendent.

The Council argues, in addition to its reliance on the cable TV option mentioned at line item No. 8 above, that a new program such as this cannot be justified where the proposed school budget has been rejected by the voters and economies must be effectuated while still ensuring T & E.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds the Distance Learning Lab program to be necessary to development of the District's T & E educational program, and that the substitute proposed by the Council will not effectively meet the Board's instructional needs. Accordingly, the $34,800 reduction is restored.

Disputed Line-Item Number 10

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
7120	11-000-260-420	Repair/Maintenance	$798,510	$50,000

The Board argues that the amount budgeted for maintenance and repair is less than that budgeted for 1994-95, and that the amount left after the Council's reduction will be insufficient to maintain present buildings. Buildings and other structures are in extraordinary need of repair due to the fact that the Board has never had funds for preventive maintenance. Moreover, at the time the Council made this reduction, it believed that it could reprogram old bonds in the amount of $500,000 to address the Board's maintenance needs, which have been estimated by architects to be $32 million. This belief has since been corrected by the Board attorney, who has advised that such bonds are no longer within the Council's jurisdiction and that a referendum would be required for change of purpose now that Edison is a Type II district.

The Council maintains that Type I bonds can be reprogrammed to cover the expenditures in this line item, and that the Board's claim to the contrary is belied by the fact that such reprogramming has occurred at least twice in recent years. In addition, some maintenance can be handled by the additional computer technician and electrician provided elsewhere in the Board's budget (account 11-000-260-109).

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Council does not dispute the basic need for the budgeted purposes and amounts, except for its unsupported contention that certain unspecified services can be absorbed by another line item, but merely contends that they be funded through an alternative mechanism. That mechanism, however, is not viable for the current budget year in that, while bond proceeds may be reallocated for purposes consistent with their originally authorized usage (as occurred with trailers above), they may not be used for unrelated renovations/remodeling and other extraordinary facility costs unless expressly authorized by the voters through referendum. Accordingly, as the amount in dispute has been shown necessary for T & E, the reduction of $50,000 is restored.

Disputed Line-Item Number 11

7170	11-000-260-610	General Supplies	$573,090	$50,000

The Board argues that the amount budgeted is less than in 1994-95, and that even that amount was insufficient to run a proper maintenance program. The reallocation from this account made by the Commissioner as part of the cap review process has made the situation even worse, so that the Board’s maintenance program now consistently operates in a crisis mode.

The Council argues, as above, that Type I bonds are available for reprogramming to cover these costs.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, as with Line-Item Number 11 above, the Council does not dispute the need for the budgeted purposes and amounts, but merely contends that they be funded through an alternative mechanism. Again, however, that mechanism is not viable, in that, while bond proceeds may be reallocated for purposes consistent with their originally authorized usage, they may not be used for normal repair/maintenance costs, which are considered ordinary operating expenses and, hence, are part of the current expense budget. Accordingly, as the amount in dispute has been shown necessary for provision of T & E, the reduction of $50,000 is restored.

8290	12-000-400-710	Site Improvements	$35,000	$35,000

The Board argues that, due to ever-increasing bus usage in areas designed many years ago for walking students, traffic congestion near the District’s elementary schools has risen to such a degree that site modifications are necessary to alter traffic patterns.

The Council contends that what the Board actually proposes to finance are traffic studies, which can be undertaken using reprogrammed bond proceeds as above.

Upon review, while the Commissioner notes the failure of the Council's bonding argument as set forth above, he further finds that the Board has failed to demonstrate that this item is necessary for T & E. Accordingly, the reduction of $35,000 is sustained.

Disputed Line-Item Number 13

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
6440	11-000-213-300	Health Services	$144,225	$30,000

The Board argues that it has been providing free testing for strep ever since the Township Health Department stopped providing this service several years ago. Only $12,000 was expended for this program last year because the Board had built up an inventory of supplies, which has now been depleted; hence, the increase of approximately $30,000 over last year's budget.

The Council argues that the strep testing program provides services properly obtained through health agencies, is not cost-effective, and is not essential for provision of T & E.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the Council that this item, while reflecting a worthy goal, is not necessary for provision of a T & E system of education in the district. Accordingly, the reduction of $30,000 is sustained.

APPLICATION OF SURPLUS

The Board estimated a June 30, 1995 unreserved General Fund balance of $1,000,000, predicated on use of a total of $1,836,264 of the June 30, 1994 fund balance ($500,000 budgeted fund balance plus $1,336,264 in additional appropriations anticipated). Based on the Board's 1994-95 annual audit report, unreserved General Fund balance was underestimated by $3,129,326, due to surplus of $1,761,717 being generated in the 1994-95 school year. Based on the advertised 1995-96 budget statement, as set forth by the calculation below, the district has $287,766 in excess surplus available to fund restorations, over and above the $885,000 recommended for appropriation by the Council:

1995-96 General Fund Appropriations ($98,551,997) x 3%	$2,956,560
June 30, 1994 Audited Unreserved Surplus	$2,367,609
1994-95 Surplus Generated	1,761,717
June 30, 1995 Audited Unreserved Surplus	$4,129,326
Less 1995-96 Budgeted Fund Balance per Council Action	(885,000)
Remaining Unreserved, Undesignated Fund Balance	$3,244,326
Less 3% Calculation	(2,956,560)
Additional Amount Available to Fund Appropriations:	$ 287,766

The Commissioner notes that this amount, plus $103,361, for a total of $391,127, has already been used for additional appropriations with the permission of the County Superintendent, as noted under Procedural History above. However, in reviewing the record of this matter, the Commissioner also finds that the Board was granted permission by the County Superintendent, as noted above, to refinance $137,000 in General Fund expenditures through proceeds from a reprogrammed bond issue, only $68,400 of which was at issue at Line Item No. 8 above; accordingly, an additional $68,600 in General Fund monies has been freed that can also be used to fund restorations herein. In addition, through the appropriations language of this year's State budget, the District was given a $500,000 grant to fund bilingual education appropriations; notwithstanding that such funds have not yet been paid, they can be anticipated and considered as additional unbudgeted revenues in view of the fact that the record reflects no plan to expand bilingual education programs beyond the level budgeted. Thus, the line-item restorations made by the Commissioner herein can easily be funded through various sources of revenue available to the District, while still maintaining a sufficient surplus, without resort to additional tax levy.¹

¹ The Commissioner notes that $932,692 in Desegregation Aid was paid to the District during the 1994-95 school year, granted by the Legislature for the express purpose of tax relief. If 1994-95 levies had been struck, districts were directed to reflect grant monies as deferred revenue in 1994-95 and include the grant as a 1995-96 General Fund revenue. The Board herein failed to follow this directive and did not reflect the monies anywhere in its 1995-96 budget; however, it did adjust the actual tax levy collected by the appropriate amount, so that no additional monies from this source are available for restoration of reductions.

SUMMARY

In summary, the Commissioner directs restoration or sustaining of the Council's line-item reductions to appropriations and increases to revenue in surplus accounts as set forth below. The Commissioner further notes that all restorations to line-item appropriations are restricted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:20-2A.11(b)3.

Accordingly, the tax levy certified to the Middlesex County Board of Taxation by the Edison Township Council for 1995-96 General Fund purposes of the Edison Township Board of Education shall stand in its original amount. In addition, in view of the Board's contentions regarding its extensive facilities needs and the apparent availability of bond proceeds for possible reallocation, subject to voter approval of revised usage and the limitations of law with respect to ordinary maintenance costs, the Board is directed to consider, in consultation with the County Superintendent, the feasibility of conducting the necessary referenda so as to relieve the current expense budget of costs which might appropriately be funded through an alternative mechanism, so as to ensure fulfillment of the Constitutional mandate without undue burden to the taxpayer.
