The Clerk appointed Messrs. Heppenheimer and Goble as a committee to conduct the Speaker-elect to the Chair.

The committee presented Mr. Hudspeth, who took and subscribed to the oath of office.

Upon taking the Chair, Mr. Hudspeth addressed the House as follows:

FELLOW-MEMBERS—Upon assuming the grave and responsible duties incident to the office of Speaker of the House, I desire to say that I accept the office with fear and trepidation when I contemplate the responsibilities of the position; when I recognize my lack of many of the essential qualifications which should be possessed by your presiding officer; when I consider the many serious questions that must necessarily arise during the present session, touching the laws governing the conduct of the business of the House pertaining to the rights, privileges and duties of the members, and which I shall be required to pass upon by reason of this office; when by the rules of this House I, as the Speaker, am compelled to preserve order and decorum; am called upon to prevent personal reflections occurring in debate by members; am required to confine members to the question under discussion. These being only a few of the many duties devolving upon me as your presiding officer, need I reiterate that its burdens and responsibilities cause me apprehension and alarm? That I may not be capable of discharging them, to the end that the business of this House be efficiently, decorously and in order disposed of; that the administration and conduct of its business may not invite criticism or condemnation, and that you, my fellow-members, may not have cause to regret the choice of the majority of this House for its presiding officer. I crave your indulgence and kind co-operation in my efforts, during my term, to carry out what I consider to be the manifest desire of the members of this House, irrespective of party; that the business of this House be transacted in a decorous, deliberative manner, and strictly in accordance with our standing rules, and I promise you, that with your indulgence and kind co-operation, which I already anticipate, that so far as the Speaker is concerned, the rules of this House shall be considered as the law governing this House and the individual members thereof, and the transaction of its business; that they shall be enforced strictly, but with impartiality, without fear or favor, but with consideration and justice to the House and each individual member.

Politically, I shall not forget that I am a member of that party which not only controls the majority of this Legislature, but represents the preponderance of public sentiment in the State; and politically, and so far as partisan matters are concerned, and which may come before the present Legislature, my fealty to my party shall never be questioned. But that fealty shall not, so far as the duties of my office are concerned, operate to the prejudice of the minority, or cause me to forget the rights or privileges of the minority upon the floor of this House.

In conclusion, fellow-members, let me say that many and weighty questions will undoubtedly come before you for action. Questions affecting the comfort, happiness and morality of the people of this State; questions pertaining to the law and order of our large cities; questions relating to the internal government of municipalities; questions concerning the government of many of our public institutions; questions touching the riparian rights of the State, and necessarily affecting the rights of private citizens owning lands abutting the lands under water belonging to the State; questions relating to that system of taxation contemplated by the amendment of 1875 to our State Constitution, and, above all, questions relating to public instruction, our common schools, the school funds, with a view that the children of all our people may be afforded every opportunity, every facility, to obtain full and free education, thereby assuring them the greatest boon to man, that of a good education. These are a few of the many matters you will undoubtedly be called upon to consider. The gravity of these matters is apparent to you all. Let us approach, consider and dispose of them, gentlemen, with an eye single to the interests of all concerned, with the purpose that the result of the legislation of the One Hundred and Thirteenth House of Assembly shall be, that the greatest good to the greatest number has been compassed by our labors.

Allow me to thank you for the honor you have this day conferred upon me.

We will now proceed to the consideration of such business as may come before this House.

Mr. Heppenheimer nominated Mr. John J. Matthews, of the county of Union, for Clerk of the House.

Mr. Voorhees nominated James P. Logan, of the county of Burlington, for the same position.

Whereupon the roll was called with the following result:

For Mr. Matthews—

Messrs. Bale, Bigelow, Cutler, Davis, De Ronde, Donnelly, Fagan, Farrell, Feeney, Heppenheimer, Higgins A. A., Hoover, Hudspeth (Speaker), Kalisch, Kane, Keys, Klotz, Marsh, Martin, McDermit, Mutchler, Naughright, Norton, O'Neill, Patterson, Potts, Schmelz, Schroth, Trier, Trimmer, Wiedenmayer—31.

Resolved, That a copy of this preamble and resolutions be properly engrossed and transmitted to the afflicted family of our dear departed fellow-legislator.

The following-named gentlemen, John J. Matthews, James E. Connolly and Elias C. Drake, severally presented themselves, and took and subscribed the oath of office.

A message was received from the Governor, at the hands of his Private Secretary, as follows:

ANNUAL MESSAGE OF THE GOVERNOR.

To the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

GENTLEMEN—I have the honor, in compliance with the requirement of the Constitution, to communicate to you, at the opening of the session, the condition of the State, with my recommendation of several measures which I deem expedient.

THE FINANCES.

The financial condition of the State for the year ending October 31st, 1888, is shown in detail by the reports of the Comptroller and Treasurer.

From these reports the following results are obtained:

School Tax and School Fund.

The total amount of receipts from State school tax during the year, including balance on hand October 31st, 1887, was	$1,515,490 86
Disbursements for the same period were	1,456,660 00
Balance on hand October 31st, 1888	$58,830 86

The total receipts of the School Fund during the year:
From income	$208,486 76
From securities paid off	155,448 57
	$363,935 33
Balance on hand October 31st, 1887	167,975 89
	$531,911 22
Disbursements, including $41,485.50 invested, were	228,475 24
Balance October 31st, 1888	$303,435 98
The securities of this fund amount to	2,267,455 00

State Fund.

The State Fund received during the year from sources properly called revenue, the following amounts:

From State tax on railroad corporations—

Taxes payable in 1888	$847,598 96
Taxes payable in former years	132,664 90
		$980,263 86
Tax on miscellaneous corporations—
Tax payable in 1888	$166,017 75
Tax payable in former years	43,356 33
		$209,374 08
Fees for filing articles of incorporation from insurance companies, &c		45,046 19
State prison receipts		57,284 48
Dividends		19,703 33
Judicial fees		13,450 55
Official fees		17,237 66
From other sources of revenue		11,158 62
Total revenue		$1,353,518 77

The actual receipts were $115,630.79 less than the estimates. It became necessary, in order to meet urgent demands, to make a temporary loan of $150,000. Balance on hand, October 31st, 1887, was $208,429.43.

The amount of local tax on railroad and canal property, collected and paid over to the several municipalities for the year, was $302,032.33.

The disbursements for the fiscal year for the State were as follows:

On account of public debt	$90,000 00
Charitable and reformatory institutions	421,493 91
Courts, State Prison, &c.	334,216 27
State government, including Legislature	285,951 72
Military	114,968 41
Printing laws, &c., in newspapers	79,779 55
Printing and binding reports, &c	30,994 57
Blind, Deaf-Mute School, Feeble-Minded	53,036 36
Scientific, sanitary, &c	76,028 80
Miscellaneous	55,538 13
Total disbursements	$1,542,007 72

This amount includes payments on account of—

Re-building State House	$89,940 06
Trenton Insane Asylum	60,000 00
Soldiers' Home	82,768 56
Gettysburg Monuments	14,000 00
	$246,708 62
Balance on hand October 31st, 1888	$169,940 48

State Fund.

The securities of the State Fund are—

One thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven shares of the stock of the joint companies, par value	$188,700 00
Centennial stock	74,116 67
Bonds of the several counties of the State for surplus revenue of the United States, deposited	764,670 44
	$1,027,487 11

The securities described in the last item as bonds are really only instruments acknowledging the receipt of so much money, with a promise to repay it when it shall be called for by the United States, and these, together with the Centennial stock, are, of course, valueless as assets.

The Treasurer has two bonds of the State for $1,000 each, which were left with him by the treasurer of the Children's Home when that institution was discontinued. I recommend the passage of a law turning these bonds over to the State Fund.

The balances of the several funds October 31st, 1888, were—

State Fund	$169,940 48
School Fund	303,435 98
Local railroad tax	70 95
School tax	58,830 86
	$532,278 27

Not only has the whole of the balance to the credit of the State Fund on October 31st, 1888, been required to meet disbursements, appropriations and payments to the Sinking Fund for debt maturing January 1st, 1889, but it has been necessary to make a temporary loan of $100,000 to meet these demands, and to continue that of $150,000 already made.

The estimated receipts for the year are—

From railroad taxes, payable during the year	$984,350 52
From miscellaneous corporations, from tax payable for the year 1889	175,000 00
Amount estimated collectible from former years	30,000 00
From State Prison receipts	60,000 00
From dividends	18,870 00
From other sources	40,000 00
	$1,308,220 52
Balance on hand October 31st, 1888	169,940 48
	$1,478,161 00

The above estimate of receipts from railroad taxes is $136,751.56 in excess of the amount actually received for the last year, and is made with the statement that the whole may not be realized.

The estimated disbursements for the year are—

For public debt	$90,000 00
Charitable and reformatory	292,206 46
Courts, State Prison, &c.	324,500 00
State government	186,502 45
Military	115,000 00
Publishing laws	80,000 00
Printing and binding	30,000 00
Blind and feeble-minded	45,000 00
Scientific and sanitary, &c	68,771 99
Miscellaneous	18,019 10
	$1,250,000 00
To pay temporary loans	250,000 00
	$1,500,000 00

These estimates do not include any extraordinary demands.

There remained unpaid October 31st, 1888, of appropriations already made, which are a charge on the receipts, the following amounts or balances:

Trenton Lunatic Asylum	$40,000 00
Morristown Asylum	30,000 00
Home for Disabled Soldiers	50,000 00

State Capitol (balance)	$44,645 49

The restoration of the State Capitol and the addition to the Trenton Asylum have made imperative demands upon the treasury during the last two years, and the amounts paid for these purposes, as well as the appropriations and payments for the Soldiers' Home, Gettysburg Monuments, Reform and Industrial School, Home for Feeble-Minded Women and State Prison improvements, all extraordinary expenditures, have not only exhausted the annual revenues for those years, but some of the anticipated receipts of the next.

Legislative control over the public funds, except as restricted by the Constitution, is absolute, and with it rests the responsibility of the expenditure. The difficulty has been to confine legislative appropriations within the limits of the year's receipts, and prevent them from discounting expectation in making provision for what are considered laudable objects of State care. We are in receipt of an annual revenue of $1,300,000, and this should be sufficient to meet all the ordinary and extraordinary expenses of the State. As the treasury now stands, payment of some of the appropriations already made will have to be delayed, and I respectfully urge upon the Legislature, in making further charges upon the treasury, to confine them to those objects which are imperative to maintain the well-being and dignity of the State and its institutions.

SINKING FUND.

The commissioners received for interest and rent during the year $28,350.03. They received for real estate sold $16,850. The total receipts for the year have been $206,960.31; the balance being derived from the sale of securities and the payment of mortgages. There has been a loss on the sale of the real estate during the year over the cost of the same, of $7,835.62. The commissioners have paid $98,000 of the principal of the debt during the year, $2,000 falling due not being presented for redemption. There was paid on account of interest, $79,923. The total payments were $179,635.57. Balance cash on hand October 31st, 1888, was $27,234.74. The total amount of the fund is $645,385.98. This includes $3,870 for interest uncollected; $221,961.48 for real estate at its cost, and $6,563.08 for amount due on decrees of foreclosure. How much of the first and last items may be collectible is uncertain, and the actual value of the real estate cannot be ascertained except by sale. The commissioners have been obliged to take this real estate in satisfaction of mortgages held thereon. The amount of the principal of the debt outstanding October 31st, 1888, was $1,298,300, of which $100,000 was due on the 1st of January of this year. The large proportion which the expenses of this fund bear to its receipts, warrants the inquiry on your part whether or not the best interests of the State would be subserved by placing the control of the School and Sinking Funds under one capable management.

RAILROAD TAXATION.

It is a source of congratulation that the system of railroad taxation adopted by the Legislature in 1884 is now working successfully. The Attorney-General reports that the formidable combination embracing over thirty-five corporations, which has contested every point, from the constitutionality of the law to the minutest element which constitutes valuation, has entirely disappeared during the past year, and that the representatives of the various railroad companies now manifest a desire to assist in the arduous labor of settling up the arrears of taxation, as well as aiding the Board of Assessors in arriving at proper results in its valuation. The labors of the office of the Attorney-General have, during the past years, with reference to the establishment of the right of the State to tax these corporations in the way indicated by this law, and in carrying out the details of the system, been extremely arduous. The gratifying result which has been reached is due to the ability, care and faithfulness of the Attorney-General and the gentlemen he has called to his assistance. So successfully has this branch of the public business been carried on, that of the State tax payable in 1888, nearly 97 per cent. has been collected, and of the State tax payable in 1887, nearly 95 per cent. has been collected. Of the local tax on railroad and canal property payable in 1887, about 94 per cent. has been collected, and of that payable in 1888, about 95 per cent. has been collected.

The importance of this service can be best appreciated by a glance at the following figures, showing the collections under the new laws during the four years of their existence.

State tax on railroad and canal property received:

Of tax payable in 1885		$885,228 02
" " 1886		899,646 60
" " 1887		915,439 96
" " 1888		847,586 36
		$3,547,900 94

The figures for 1888 do not include the fourth quarterly payment by the Pennsylvania railroad, due January 1st, 1889, amounting to $74,532.24.

Local tax on railroad and canal property received:

Of taxes payable in 1885		$216,677 14
" " 1886		287,279 61
" " 1887		283,092 60
" " 1888		284,356 80
		$1,071,406 15
State taxes		3,547,900 94
		$4,619,307 09

Of this amount $3,828,561.61 has been collected through the Attorney-General's office.

The arbitration connected with the arrears of taxes of the Morris and Essex Railroad Company has been prosecuted as vigorously as possible. A large amount of testimony has been taken, the bulk of which has been submitted to and is now being considered by the arbitrators, Messrs. Dillon and Stevens. The Attorney-General reports that every effort will be made, both on the part of the State and the railroad company, to close the examination, so that it will be placed in the hands of the arbitrators before the termination of the close of the present legislative session.

He also reports the condition of the few remaining cases that are still pending in the court for determination. The negotiations between the State and the Central Railroad Company, relative to the settlement of the unpaid balance of taxes extending over a period from 1876 to 1883, have been brought to a conclusion, and resulted in the payment, by the company, to the State, of the amount which was claimed to be due, and an agreement on the part of the company to pay to the State, for disputed taxes of 1883, an amount which was not covered by the other settlement.

TAXATION OF MISCELLANEOUS CORPORATIONS.

The collection of taxes on miscellaneous corporations has imposed a large amount of work on the Attorney-General's office, in consequence of the large number of delinquent corporations, and the difficulty of reaching them, the officers of many not being found in the State. The amount collected for the tax of 1887 is $157,090.49; for the tax of 1888, $166,017.75.

THE APPOINTING POWER.

The political maxim, that the Legislative, Executive and Judiciary Departments ought to be separate and distinct, was formally recognized by resolution in the convention which framed the Constitution of the United States, and although not in terms incorporated, its spirit, to a great extent, shaped the framework of our system as declared by that instrument.

The first Constitution of New Jersey, adopted by the Provincial Congress on July 2d, 1776, prepared in the excitement of revolutionary struggles, declaratory of independence of the mother country, intended rather as a temporary plan of government to meet the emergency created by such separation, than as the permanent organic law of the State, was framed with no regard to the truth or wisdom of the maxim, but was rather based on the theory of vesting in the Legislature, as the direct representatives of the people, the sovereignty which had theretofore been vested in the crown.

Legislative functions were devolved upon the Governor, who was made the President of the Legislative Council, and given a casting vote in its proceedings. As Chancellor and Surrogate-General he was clothed with judicial powers. The Court of Appeals in the last resort was composed of the Governor and Legislative Council, thus combining in the highest judicial tribunal the other two departments of government.

The executive function of appointment was almost exclusively conferred upon the Legislature. Under its provisions the appointment of the Governor, the judges of the Supreme Court, the judges of the Court of Common Pleas in the various counties, the justices of the peace, the clerk of the Supreme Court, the clerks of the Courts of Common Pleas, the Attorney-General, the Secretary of State, the Treasurer, the field and general officers of the militia was committed to the two houses in joint meeting.

This was the condition which, under that Constitution, existed in this State when the convention which framed the Constitution of 1844 assembled. That convention was composed of some of the ablest men of the State, those who had made the theory and history of government a study, and had been identified with the administration of the affairs of State in each and every one of its departments. They knew of and met to correct the defects of the old Constitution, and, profiting by the wisdom and patriotism of the great statesmen who framed the Federal Constitution of 1789, in their finished work, in terms declared that "the powers of government shall be divided into three distinct departments, the Legislative, Executive and Judicial;" and enforced such injunction by further providing that "no person or persons belonging to or constituting one of these departments shall exercise any of the powers properly belonging to either of the others, except as herein expressly provided."

Under this emphatic declaration of the separation of powers, special provision was necessary to authorize the interference by either in the affairs of any department other than its own, and, therefore, the members of the convention in those cases in which it appeared advisable or wise to require the co-operation of the co-ordinate branches of the government, or the exercise by one of the functions of the other, have specifically conferred such power. In doing this, however, they have trenched as little as possible upon the powers appropriate to the different departments, interfering but slightly with the radical change in the whole system required by an observance of the maxim.

The Governor, instead of being Chancellor, and a member of the court of last resort, can exercise no judicial function. He would be disconnected entirely from the law-making power, did not the Constitution require his approval of bills passed by the Legislature, or his return thereof, with his objections, for reconsideration and re-enactment.

The Legislature would, by this general declaration of the separation of the departments, be deprived of all judicial powers, if it were not provided that each house should be the judge of the election and qualification of its own members, and the Senate were not made the high court of impeachment for the trial of civil officers.

No question received more attention or elicited more earnest discussion in the convention than that of the proper vesting of the power of appointment. As before stated, the Legislature in joint meeting was the existing fountain-head of official appointment. That the power of appointment had no relation to legislative duties was self-evident. Statesmen classed it among the executive powers. Mr. Madison says: "The appointment to offices, particularly executive offices, is in its nature an executive function." Jefferson, Hamilton and Adams also so declare. The proposition in the State convention was to take the power from the Legislature and confer it on the Executive. The change, as shown by the debates, was urged on the grounds that the departments of government should be kept as distinct as possible; that the power of appointment properly belonged to the Executive as a branch of that department; that independent of the question of appropriateness, the exercise of the power by the Legislature had developed a system of combinations and log-rolling which had injuriously affected the action of the body in the selection of officers and the enactment of laws; that the selection by the joint meeting had practically resolved itself into the choice by a majority of a party caucus, of the individual to be elected, and for whose appointment, so made, no responsibility attached to anyone. These and other arguments prevailed in the convention.

So radical was the change effected by the Constitution, that of all the offices previously filled by the joint meeting it was given the power to appoint only the Common Pleas judges, the Treasurer, the keeper and inspectors of the State Prison. In almost every instance in which the office was not made elective, the appointing power was given to the Governor by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to whom was also given the appointment to all other offices not otherwise provided by law. When the Constitution was amended in 1875 the appointment of Common Pleas judges and keeper of the State Prison was also taken away from the joint meeting. The evils attendant upon their appointment by this body had become so notorious that the change was demanded and made. The office of Comptroller had been created, and this, with that of Treasurer, composing the financial department, are now, so far as the Constitution specifically provides, the only two elective by the joint meeting.

This is the constitutional history of the appointing power in this State. The people, under the lead of the best minds of the State, have, at every opportunity, as emphatically as possible condemned the exercise of such power by the law-making branch of the government.

Mr. Madison has said that "after discriminating in theory the several classes of power, as they may, in their nature, be legislative, executive or judicial, the next and most difficult task is to provide some practical security for each against the invasion of the others."

Our Constitution sought to guard against this invasion by the provision that no person or persons belonging to or constituting one of these departments should exercise any of the powers properly belonging to either of the others, except as therein expressly provided.

The provision that "all other officers, whose appointments are not otherwise provided for by law, shall be nominated by the Governor and appointed by him with the advice and consent of the Senate," while seeming to broaden the power of the Executive over appointments, has been distorted by the Legislature into a warrant for the claim that offices thereafter "provided for by law" (that is, created by statute) are exempt from the provisions of the Constitution referred to, and under legislative control.

In disregard of the spirit and design of the Constitution, Legislatures have created new offices to be filled by joint meeting, and during the administration of Governor Abbett and the present Executive have, in almost every instance, where not prevented by the express terms of the Constitution, taken the appointing power from the Governor and conferred it on the same body. Under the specious pretext of making offices non-partisan, appointment to office has been made dependent upon the decision of that most intensely partisan body, a party caucus, almost invariably controlled so as to reward party services of zealous friends, or the past party treason or expected party perfidy of a pretended opponent.

Temporary political advantage may be secured by an absorption of power by the Legislature, depriving other departments of the powers properly belonging thereto, and there may be no immediate redress; the remedy through the courts, if it exists at all, would be slow and defective; there is no tribunal before which the Legislature can be called to account, no power to reverse its enactments, save the people in their sovereignty through the ballot-box. But the party which, for the sake of securing a few offices, sacrifices every sentiment of State pride and every element of statesmanship, by belittling the position of the Chief Magistrate of the State, stripping it of powers which properly belong thereto, will meet with sure, speedy and emphatic condemnation at their hands. The people of New Jersey have, at the last election, passed upon the question of legislative encroachment upon the Executive, and I recommend, in obedience to that determination, a repeal of these laws and a return to the design and spirit of the Constitution as expressed in its declarations and provisions.

ELECTION LAWS.

The theory of our government is that it is founded on the will of the people; being a representative government, that will is to be expressed by the people through the ballot-box in the selection of its law-makers and elective officers. This ballot is supposed to be the expression of the free, untrammeled judgment of the voter, uninfluenced by any unworthy, improper or corrupt motives. Our statute-books are full of laws for the protection of the elector and the punishment of those who seek to improperly influence the exercise of the elective franchise. They seem, so far, to have utterly failed of their purpose. The corruptor and the corrupt seem willing to take the risk of detection, indictment and conviction. Corruption stalks unpunished around the election polls, and men dignified by law with the privilege and power of electors, barter away their manhood and citizenship, as merchandise in the market, to the highest bidder. If open corruption of the voter is not carried on, the flimsiest pretexts of employment at exorbitant and extravagant amounts are resorted to, until it is notorious that immense sums of money are spent to effect political results. One of the most astounding incidents of this undermining of our institutions is that public political morals seem to be well-nigh debauched, and men who are high in public estimation, who in their lives are otherwise exemplary and correct, not only look with complacency upon this debasement of the franchise, but willingly contribute sums which they must know will be improperly and illegally expended, and triumphantly exult in the success of the corrupt employment of their contributions.

Equally at variance with the spirit of our institutions is the intimidation of the employed by those on whom they are, in a measure, dependent for their livelihood and support. This may develop itself in various degrees, from the open and undisguised threat of discharge or non-employment, to the unfounded and insincere suggestion that the business interests of the employer and employe are dependent on the success of the former's political views. The boldness of the open buyer of votes may challenge something of the feelings entertained for the highwayman, but no sentiment other than contempt can be felt for the employer who controls the vote of his employe against his convictions, through his anxiety for his wife and children and home.

We have provided means for the ascertainment of those who are entitled to vote; means for the honest reception of the ballot; for its honest count, and the declaration of its true result; but our system lacks some provision which shall make the use of money in elections, and the intimidation of the voters, ineffective. Making it a crime, and providing for its punishment, fails as a preventive remedy, and the time has come when some other remedial provision should be adopted.

No other plan seems to offer so many advantages as the complete isolation of the voter in preparing and casting his ballot. If the corruptor or his agent cannot ascertain how his miserable purchase has voted, if he can exercise no supervision over him in the act of voting, he has only the questionable sense of honor, if it can be so called, of a creature so totally devoid of manhood as to sell his vote, on which to rely as his security that his money is not thrown away.

If the employer cannot know how his employe votes, he cannot coerce him against his judgment in the exercise of his franchise.

The isolation of the voter would give protection to the voter from the espionage of either the corrupt buyer of votes, or the unprincipled employer.

How can it best be accomplished? There are some plans which are loaded down with details, some of which would be unsuited to our people and institutions, but a system embracing the features of safety can readily be devised which will be unobjectionable.

By the laws of Ohio, in certain cities, no electioneering or loitering is permitted within one hundred feet of the polls, which are kept clear of all persons save the person voting, the officers of election and a challenging committee of each party.

In order to make this isolation complete, the tickets should be printed at public expense and given to the voter, by a public officer, just before voting. The names of all the candidates being printed on this ticket, the voter can strike off the names of those for whom he does not wish to vote. Space can also be left on the ticket to be filled with the names of those for whom the voter wishes to vote, but whose names have not been printed thereon; no ticket being valid unless it be one of those furnished at the polls by the public officer, the voter would be absolutely free to vote for whom he chooses.

The details of the system may require much care in their preparation, but the plan of furnishing the voter with his ticket, and his perfect isolation while preparing it, give more promise of preventing the growing evil of corruption and intimidation at the polls than any other which has been brought to my attention.

I again recommend that violation of the election laws be made a cause of challenge, and on such challenge being made, that the voter be required, before his vote is received, to swear that he has not been influenced, in any unlawful way, in the casting of his vote, and also that any person who shall give evidence of any corrupt election practices shall be given absolute immunity from prosecution for such offense.

I also recommend that the law with reference to what shall be considered as intimidation or corrupt practices, shall be made more clear by defining more fully what acts shall constitute such offenses.

No effort should be spared to put a stop to this growing evil, which, if permitted to exist, will surely undermine our system of government. The elections in England, once notorious for corruption, have, through the operation of law, been made free from that vice. They are subject to the review of the judges, whose determination settles the question, a system which cannot be adopted here as to our legislative bodies, as each is, by the Constitution, made the sole judge of the election of its own members, but the other system which has been adopted and tried successfully in Australia and certain parts of this country, can, with proper care as to its details, be constitutionally put into operation.

While every proper and reasonable safeguard should be thrown round the voter and the ballot-box, to secure the casting of none but legal votes, their honest and safe reception and care, their correct count and the true declaration of the result, no unnecessary obstacles should be put in the way of the free exercise of the right of suffrage. The elective franchise is not the monopoly of the rich and unemployed; its exercise should not be regulated in their interests alone, or limited to hours to the inconvenience and loss of large numbers of the people.

The registration laws of last winter, applicable to Newark and Jersey City, as well as the law closing the polls at sunset, are obstacles in the way of men voting whose occupations require their attendance during the working hours of the day. A personal registration in Newark was required twice within a month, and the workingman throughout the State, unless he was able to vote before his day's labor commenced, was forced to leave his employment if he desired to cast his ballot. I recommend that these laws be repealed as unreasonable and unnecessary obstructions to a free ballot.

SPECIAL ELECTION.

On the 8th day of December last, Hon. Edwin F. Short, a member of the General Assembly, died suddenly. He represented the Tenth district of the county of Hudson in the one hundred and twelfth Legislature, and was re-elected a member of the present Legislature at the annual election in November last.

In calling a special election to fill the vacancy, as required by law, I was confronted by the fact that the statutory requirement that such election must be held on Tuesday, compelled me to name either Christmas, New Year's Day (both legal holidays), or the Tuesday on which the Legislature was required to organize.

It is not apparent what consideration made the selection of Tuesday as an election day imperative, but the present case demonstrates that it is a provision which may be attended with unfortunate complications, and I recommend the repeal of that requirement.

NATIONAL GUARD.

From the report of the Inspector-General of the last annual muster and inspection, the strength of the National Guard is shown to be 316 commissioned officers and 3,719 enlisted men, a total of 4,035.

Two new companies have been added, the force now consisting of 55 companies of infantry, two Gatling gun companies, and one of sea-coast artillery (since disbanded), organized into seven regiments and three batteries, and comprised in two brigades and one division.

The Second Brigade, under the command of General Sewell, was in camp at Sea Girt from August 18th to 25th, inclusive. The brigade practiced at the rifle range during the week of the encampment, and the First Brigade at different times during the two months prior to the encampment.

The Adjutant-General reports the force to be in excellent condition, and that everything is being done which citizen-soldiers can do to keep the guard up to the high standard which it has for several years maintained.

The prosecution of the pension claims of New Jersey soldiers, under the direction of the Adjutant-General's office, has been conscientiously and actively carried on, with beneficial results to those who require the assistance which this well-organized and efficient bureau is able to render.

Under the acts passed at the last session, the commissioners appointed to acquire the lands at Sea Girt for the purposes of the National Guard, commenced proceedings to discharge the duties imposed upon them by law. After having given the proper notices, and organized, they were served with a certiorari, removing their proceedings to the Supreme Court, with a stay of further action until the court should otherwise order. A temporary relaxation of the order permitted the taking of testimony, but all definite action looking to the acquirement of the property has been thus delayed until the sufficiency of the law has been passed upon by the court. The case was argued at the last term, but has not as yet been decided. Until such decision is rendered it is impossible to say whether additional legislation will or will not be required.

It has been suggested to have the Inter-State rifle match take place upon the range at Sea Girt this year. The expense to the State attendant upon this would be inconsiderable, as an amount sufficient for the expense of the State team, and the purchase of a trophy to be presented to the successful team of the match, would be all that would be required.

SOLDIERS' HOME.

By the report of the managers, it appears that there were 367 inmates on the 31st of October, 1888. There were admitted during the year, 266; discharged, 190; expelled, 11; died, 26. The average number of inmates was 349 per day. Since the home was opened there have been 15,318 inmates cared for by the institution. The total receipts for the year, including the balance on hand October 31st, 1887, were $37,769.58. The expenses for the same time were $36,837.73. The balance on hand October 31st, 1888, $931.85.

The cost of maintenance, including cash allowed to out-door patients, and rent of land, amounted to $36,837.73. The average attendance during the year was 349 per day.

The commissioners appointed to erect a suitable home for the disabled soldiers, report that their work has been substantially completed, and that during the month of October last, the inmates of the old home were removed to their new quarters. It is gratifying that the commissioners entrusted with this work have so performed their duties that the State may well be proud of this institution, which is to give the comforts of a home to those whose services to their country have left them physically unable to properly care for themselves.

The home was established by an act of the Legislature passed in the year 1866, and by this act an annual appropriation of $10,000 was made for the maintenance of the establishment.

In the year 1868 this annual appropriation for maintenance was increased to the amount of $25,000. The Legislature, at its session last winter, made a further increase of $10,000, making the annual appropriation for the maintenance of the establishment, to be paid out of the State treasury, $35,000. Congress, at its last session, passed an act providing that all States which have established homes for soldiers and sailors of the United States, should be paid for every such disabled soldier or sailor admitted or cared for in such itstitution, at the rate of $100 per annum, the payment to be made under the supervision of the board of managers of the State institution. No money has as yet been received by our Soldiers' Home from this appropriation, but this may be accounted for by the fact that provision must be made for the proper carrying out of certain conditions mentioned in the act of Congress. All preliminaries will, however, soon be settled and the institution in receipt of this money from the United States.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The amount raised by State tax and appropriated to the public schools during the year was $1,870,055, to which was added the $100,000 annual appropriation from the School Fund, making an increase of $413,395 of receipts over those of the preceding year. The operation of the law of last winter, raising the State School Tax from four to five dollars to each child, has proved satisfactory. The amount of township school tax ordered to be raised was $48,-992.01. The amount received from the interest of the surplus revenue fund was $32,084.49. The amount of district and city tax for teachers' salaries was $474,293.45. The total amount devoted during the year to the maintenance of the schools was $2,525,424.95. In addition to this amount, $590,016.46 was ordered to be raised for building and repairing school-houses.

The school accommodation has been considerably increased and the buildings improved; there were thirty new school-houses erected and forty-five enlarged or remodeled. The total value of the school property in the State is $7,837,706, an increase of $351,500 during the year. Nine hundred schools have established libraries.

There were, at the close of the school year, 1,615 public schools, employing 4,121 teachers, and giving instruction to 387,847 pupils.

The law of last winter, intended to afford to cities the benefit of the law enjoyed by school districts in the country, of borrowing from the School Fund, has failed of its purpose, from a doubt raised as to whether the bonds issued under it would afford the same security as the others. School district bonds are a lien upon all the property of the district, and are issued by authority of a vote of the district; the law in question was not specific as to the extent of the lien of the bonds, and some doubt was entertained whether it would be a charge on all the property in the city without express declaration to that effect, and as a result of the vote of the inhabitants. It is of the highest importance that the city districts should have the benefits to be derived from loans from the School Fund, to provide increased accommodations needed in their respective districts, and I recommend further legislation to secure that result.

I last year recommended, and again urge, that plans for schoolhouses, prepared with reference to the advanced theories of architects to secure accommodation with reference to health, be procured and kept by the State Superintendent for reference and adoption by the district officers.

NORMAL AND MODEL SCHOOLS.

There have been in attendance at the Normal School during the school year ending in 1888, 241 pupils. The average attendance was 189. The number graduated from the advanced course, 22; the number graduated from the elementary course, 13; total graduates, 35.

The whole number in attendance at the Model School during the year was 471, and the average attendance, 390. Graduates, 18.

The attendance at the Farnum School, Beverly, amounted to 139; the average, 129.

The school buildings and boarding halls of the Normal and Model Schools were all put in good repair during the summer vacation, and the health of the pupils has been unusually good during the year. The report of the trustees devotes considerable space to the system of manual training, and points out very forcibly the necessity for the proper equipment of teachers in the system, and the propriety of having such education at the Normal School. I submit, with approval, the views expressed in the report by the president of the board.

BLIND AND FEEBLE-MINDED CHILDREN.

The blind children who are supported at the expense of the State are placed in institutions in the cities of New York and Philadelphia, 31 being in New York and 8 in Philadelphia. The amount paid during the year for the former was $8,704.73, for the latter, $2,410.83.

Under the provisions of the law, there have been 108 feeble-minded children provided for by the State, 82 of these being at the Pennsylvania Training School for Feeble-Minded Children, at Elwyn; 5 at the Connecticut Institution for Imbeciles, and 21 at the Educational Home for Feeble-Minded Children, at Vineland, N. J. The amounts expended for the maintenance and support of these children are as follows:

Pennsylvania Training School for Feeble-Minded Children, at Elwyn, Pa	$20,029 38
Connecticut Institution for Imbeciles	1,415 68
Educational Home for Feeble-Minded Children, at Vineland, N. J	3,376 81

SCHOOL FOR DEAF-MUTES.

There were under instruction at the school during the year 117 pupils, with an average daily attendance of 96.

The amount expended in the maintenance of the school has been for the fiscal year, $26,162; for improvements and repairs, $5,000.

This school is located in that part of the city of Trenton which was formerly Chambersburg, and consists of a large building which was erected for other purposes, and is not especially well adapted to the use of this institution. It stands on a large tract of land belonging to the State. This property has of late years greatly enhanced in value, and can be sold for an amount ample for the purchase of other lands and the erection of more suitable buildings for such an institution. This would be an advantage, not only to the institution itself, but to the city, as its present ownership withdraws that much property from the ratables of taxation.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

The contract made with the State by the trustees of Rutgers College, gave to the college the annual interest on the fund arising from the sale of land scrip appropriated by the United States for that purpose, which amounted to $116,000, and required them to use this interest, amounting annually to $6,960, in paying the salaries of teachers, and to provide suitable and sufficient buildings and equipments for the students, and land suitable for an experimental farm, at their own charge, and also to allow forty scholarships free of all tuition fees to be filled by students from the several counties of the State.

The Board of Visitors report that the number of students applying for the free scholarships is much beyond the number provided for. Sixty-three students, applicants for these scholarships, are now in attendance at the college, and enjoying the advantages.

STATE PRISON.

There were in confinement, October 31st, 1888, 881 prisoners. The total number during the year was 1,305. The daily average was 874, of whom 835 were males, and 39 females.

There was expended for maintenance the sum of $67,000.76, a per capita cost of 20 95-100 cents per diem, and $76.66 per annum.

The total expenditures were $151,048.81, a per capita cost of 47 35-100 cents per diem, and $172.82 per annum.

The earnings for the year were $57,287.13.

The contracts made to put the piece-price system in operation will expire during the year. The supervisor reports that, in his opinion, the trial of the system has not been encouraging. I cannot but think that these contracts were made under disadvantageous circumstances. It is difficult to understand why, under a system which throws the whole risk on the State and none on the contractor, contracts less advantageous to the State were secured, than under a system which reverses the conditions and the liabilities of loss, and throws the risk upon the contractor. When these contracts were made the question was a new one, and the officers were dependent, in a great measure, on the contractors for information. They now have the experience, and it would seem as if they should be able to make better contracts.

It is but natural that those in charge of the institution should desire to show that its operation has been remunerative. It is, however, not as a source of revenue that the convict is given employment; it is necessary for the health, discipline and morals of the prisoners; it is desirable that it should be made as small a charge as possible on the State, but this is only a secondary consideration. The State owes it to the industries that they should not be brought into unnecessary competition with convict labor. It would seem as if the desirable result of cheapening the cost might in some degree be obtained by reducing the expenses, which have increased from $129,762.94 in 1882, with 831 prisoners, a per capita cost of $152.54 per annum, to $151,048.81 in 1888, with 874 prisoners, a per capita cost of $172.82. There may be some satisfactory explanation of this increase, but it is not apparent.

The report urges with great force the necessity of more accommodation, a question which is hereafter considered. They suggest that it would be desirable to have a hospital building entirely distinct from the others. The necessity of this was made manifest last summer when one of the prisoners was taken down with small-pox, and it was only prudent to stop for a month all communication and, consequently, all work, a serious condition for the prisoners, and entailing a loss of several thousand dollars. Fortunately the spread of the disease was prevented, no other person being attacked.

The prison, under the care of the keeper and matron, has been admirably managed, its discipline maintained, and in each of their departments satisfactorily conducted.

The school established by the keeper, and kept up by him, has been attended regularly by the prisoners, and has been the source of great advantage to many. I commend the suggestions of the report as to this school and other requirements.

PRISON SYSTEMS.

I renew the recommendations of my last message on the subject of an intermediate reformatory. It is not punishment alone, with its salutary lesson of warning to others, that is to be accomplished by a perfectly-constituted penal system. The reformation of the criminal is not to be lost sight of in securing the safety and well-being of the community. So long as the convict is capable of improvement, he should be the object of proper means to effect his reform. There are two classes of criminals to be dealt with—those who, by proper care and treatment, may be reclaimed, and those who are incorrigible. As to the latter class, penologists are, at present, of the opinion that their term of imprisonment should be for an indefinite period, to be released only on satisfactory evidence of thorough reformation.

As to the other class, the problem is more interesting and difficult, Statistics show that the average age of the convicts in the United States is a little over twenty-six. The majority must, therefore, be mere youths. If the boy, led astray by evil associations or unchecked vice, or the man who, in some sudden passion or through unfortunate indulgence, commits serious crime, and is convicted of that which is his first offense, he will, under our present system, probably, and properly, be sent to the State Prison. He is there brought into daily contact with the hardened criminal, and on the expiration of his time goes into the world, not only with the disgrace of his imprisonment on him, but his moral system poisoned by the associations in which he has been forced to live. It will be a miracle if that youth or man ever becomes a useful member of society. Our system is behind the position of enlightened thought and experience upon this question. We have taken steps in the right direction in the establishment and maintenance of our reform schools for boys and girls. These institutions, under the intelligent, humane, religious and moral management of their excellent boards of trustees and corps of managers, are being successfully carried on in the interest of society, and the improvement of the erring. They reach and provide for the first division of the first class, but there is another division of the reclaimable, that intermediate division between the subject for the reform school and the confirmed criminal, for whose punishment for crime we make no provision which carries with it the hope for a reform and the better life of the unfortunate.

No more opportune time can come to us to remedy this evil than that afforded by existing circumstances. The crowded condition of our State Prison demands relief. It has ceased to be a question of propriety; it is one of humanity and good government. It can only be afforded by increased accommodations being provided by an enlargement or addition to the prison, or by making other provision for some of the inmates. The establishment of a reformatory for the intermediate class, with provisions of law authorizing the confinement of persons of such class therein, when constructed, would relieve the State Prison of the surplus number, and give ample accommodation for all convicts who should be confined therein.

The able superintendent of the Reform School for Boys is of opinion that such an institution could be located on the property of the State now partly occupied by that institution, without detriment to its management and success. If, however, it should be thought unwise to have the two institutions so near to each other, there can be no difficulty in securing the proper place for its location. I recommend this matter to your serious and earnest consideration, as one which will not permit any further delay. The report of the State Prison officers for years past has depicted the crowded condition of the prison, and the want of increased accommodations. It is again repeated with emphasis; it ought to be met with a response which will give promise of relief, and in my judgment no better plan can be suggested than by providing an intermediate reformatory.

REFORM SCHOOL FOR BOYS.

The whole number at this institution during the year was 424. There remained October 31st, 1888, 298. There was received during the year, on account of maintenance, $42,317.24 from the State; from the farm and other works, $7,028.60, which, with a balance on account October 31st, 1887, of $2,088.37, in all amounting to $51,488.20 received, is chargeable to the maintenance account during the fiscal year. The total amount of expenditures and expenses during the same period was $50,664.49, leaving the balance on hand October 31st, 1888, of $823.72.

The Legislature last year passed a law requiring those in charge of the jails to keep all persons under the age of sixteen, who are sent to such jails for any purpose whatever, separate and apart, so that no communication can take place between them and other persons above such age, confined therein on a charge or conviction of crime; and the Boards of Chosen Freeholders in the several counties were by the said act required to so arrange the jails, work-houses and places of confinement in their respective counties, that the requirement of the law could be complied with; and, further, that no justice of the peace and other officer should detain or cause to be detained, any such person in any station-house for a longer period than twenty-four hours, unless such provision had been made in the station-house or place of confinement.

It is a subject of regret that this act has not been complied with more fully by the county officials of the State. By the record of the boys who have been sent to the Reform School, it appears that in the counties of Morris, Passaic, Hunterdon and Monmouth, boys and adult prisoners are not separated. In Union, Hudson, Essex and Camden the law has been partially carried out. The counties of Cumberland and Somerset are the only ones in which the provisions of the law have been complied with. It may possibly be that this neglect has resulted from an oversight, and I would recommend that the attention of the committees of the grand juries who visit the county jails be called to the requirements of this law, and that its provisions be enforced.

STATE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

The trustees of this institution report that the present number of girls under charge at the institution is 76, an increase of 9 over the number at the time of last year's report. Of those now under the care of the officers of the institution, 26 are out at service, and 50 are at the home. The Legislature at its last session authorized the purchase of a strip of land adjacent to the present property. The authority thus given has not been exercised in consequence of the trustees not being able to obtain the property at a desirable price. The present home was intended for the accommodation of 35 girls, and the best results of such institutions can only be obtained where those in charge have sufficient room for the proper accommodation and care of those who are sent there. There is sufficient room upon the farm for the erection of additional sleeping apartments, and I respectfully recommend your serious consideration to what is said by the matron in her report in reference to the necessity of this addition. The home has been, in all respects, well conducted. The health of the inmates during the year has been good, and the business affairs conducted economically and satisfactorily.

TRENTON INSANE ASYLUM.

The number of patients under treatment at this institution during the year was 905, and there remained there on the 31st day of October last, 761. The total amount of receipts, including balance on hand October 31st, 1887, by the treasurer's report was $219,908.29. The total amount disbursed was $186,954.43. The balance on hand October 31st, 1888, $32,953.86. The managers report that the new building in course of construction has not been completed in consequence of unavoidable delays, and that they have extended the time for the completion of the building to the 1st day of March next; the board report that they will be enabled to finish the improvements within the limits of the appropriation which has already been made. The health of the inmates of the institution has been, during the past year, very good. The management has been successful, and the business affairs of the institution have been carried on so successfully that the steward is enabled to report a profit from the working of the farm, garden and dairy of $4,094.61. The report of the matron also shows a most gratifying condition of so much of the institution as is under her care and direction.

MORRISTOWN INSANE ASYLUM.

The Board of Managers report that there have been under treatment at this institution during the past year, 1,111 patients; that there remained there on the 31st day of October, 1888, 904 patients, 772 of whom were public and 131 private. The average number under treatment has been 885. The total receipts for the maintenance of the institution for the year were $241,494.86. The total expenditures (in which is included amount paid for improvements on buildings and grounds, and which ought not properly to be charged to the account of current expenses of the institution) amount to $229,764.08, leaving the balance, October 31st, 1888, as reported by the treasurer, $11,730.78.

As originally intended, the buildings of this institution were designed for the accommodation of 600 patients. In 1887, by the apportionment of the quotas of the several counties in the district assigned to this institution, the number to be provided for was fixed at 1,004. The kitchen and dining arrangements were constructed on a plan which was, at that time, considered the better one, but which time and experience have proved not to be satisfactory. The kitchen is located in the center building, and the dining-rooms are in the different wards in the different parts of the buildings; some being in the extreme wings, distant about one-fifth of a mile from the kitchen.

The managers desire to change the existing arrangement to the system adopted in other large institutions of recent years, viz, the construction and use of what are known as assembly dining-rooms, one for each sex, in which the patients are served with their meals all at the same time. Experience has shown that this is not attended with any danger or any serious results to the inmates, but that it has, on the other hand, proved of beneficial influence. These dining-rooms being built one on either side of the kitchen and near to it, would enable the attendants to serve the food in better condition to the patients. An additional reason for the change is found in the fact that the crowded condition of the asylum requires some relief, and the present dining-rooms could, in the event of this improvement being made, be utilized for sleeping apartments. The managers are unable to state with accuracy the amount which would be required for the construction of two additional assembly dining-rooms, but I understand that the probable cost would be about $25,000 each.

A joint committee of both houses of the Legislature was appointed last winter to investigate charges made against certain officials. They have taken testimony and will undoubtedly report to your body. The investigation has been followed by a change in the personnel of the medical department, and I am happy to report that since that time everything seems to have worked smoothly and harmoniously. The affairs of the institution, so far as the products of the farm, garden, &c., are concerned, are very satisfactory, showing that it has been carried on at a profit of $8,862.09 for the year.

HOME FOR FEEBLE-MINDED WOMEN.

The Legislature at its last session appropriated the sum of $10,000 to the establishment of a home for feeble-minded women, with an additional $2,000 for its maintenance. The managers organized and purchased a property in Vineland well adapted, so far as its capacity goes, for the purposes of the institution. The managers, however, report that they require additional sleeping accommodation, and desire an appropriation for the purpose of erecting an additional building.

I call your attention to the report of the managers with reference to the importance of this institution in caring for a class which it is the imperative duty of the State to furnish other provision for than that of being inmates in our alms-houses. The danger to which they are exposed in such institutions is apparent, and there is no charity in which the funds of the State could be more judiciously expended than in providing for the future maintenance of an institution of this character.

STATE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE.

I regret that the report of the president of the State Board of Agriculture reached me at so late an hour that I can only call attention to a few points. The board has entrusted to a committee the important work of revising the Road acts, which committee will probably prepare a bill to be submitted to you this session. Another committee of practical farmers has been appointed to examine into and report what benefits are really derived from the money expended in the interests of agriculture. Suggestions are made as to the publication of the report of the annual meetings in different languages, and I would recommend that the publication in other than the English language be limited to the number advised by the board.

AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATION.

The annual report of the Agricultural Experiment Station shows that institution to be in a prosperous condition. Its largest work is in analyzing the numerous brands of fertilizers which are sold to farmers of the State. The nature and condition of these is such that no positive judgment of their quality or value can be formed except from official analysis. A million dollars' worth or more of fertilizers is sold yearly to our farmers, and the protection which the station can give them by the publication of these analyses, is a needed benefit to one of the most important industries of the State.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

The Geological Survey of the State is faithfully fulfilling the objects of its establishment. Its topographical maps are models for all the States of the Union, of fullness, accuracy and beauty. Provision should be made for placing an atlas in each of the public schools. The accumulated work of past years is now being arranged in form for publication, and the first volume of the final report has been issued. It gives a systematized statement of all matters relating to the State's geography, boundaries, divisions, elevations, drainage, water-supply, its forests, &c.; the interesting and wide variations of the magnetic needle, which has been used in surveying all its lands, and the climate of the different parts of the State, which, as it becomes better known, is making it to be one of the great health resorts of our whole country. Volumes upon other departments of the survey will follow as rapidly as they can be properly prepared.

RIPARIAN COMMISSIONERS.

The grants, leases, and leases converted into grants during the year, amount to $104,479.89. The rentals paid to the State during the past year on leases heretofore made by legislative acts, and by the commissioners, amount to $59,754.43. The amount which represents the principal for land disposed of by grants or leases from April 4th, 1884, to October 31st, 1888, is $3,182,347.56.

PILOT COMMISSIONERS.

It appears by the report of the Commissioners of Pilotage that two boats were unfortunately lost in the storm of March last, the W. W. Story and Ezra Ney, the former being lost in the lower bay, and the latter going ashore at Bay Ridge; fortunately the crews of both were saved. The Ney was a total loss, and has since been replaced by the E. T. Gerry. The number of boats now in service is seven; there are fifty-five Sandy Hook and two Perth Amboy pilots licensed by the State. The number of vessels piloted inward from November 1st, 1887, to October 31st, 1888, was 1,050, and the number piloted outward was 1,036. There are four apprentices in the service.

THE STATE LIBRARY.

By the report of the State Librarian, it appears that 1,369 volumes have been added to the library during the past year, making the total number of volumes in the library 34,677.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

The work of the State Board of Health for the past year has been very encouraging. Its operations have been so extended that any summary of the report would give but an inadequate idea of the scope and extent of its operations, and I therefore refer to it, and respectfully request due consideration to its statements and recommendations.

The Bureau of Vital Statistics is now entirely under the charge of the State Board of Health. Its system is well organized. It is valuable for legal reference, and furnishes important data in locating causes of disease.

The oversight of animal diseases is still with the State Board, although, by arrangement with the United States Government, most of the expenses incurred in the suppression of pleuro-pneumonia are borne by it. This disease, for the past pear, has been almost entirely confined to Hudson county.

INSPECTOR OF FACTORIES AND WORKSHOPS.

The Inspector of Factories and Workshops reports that the regular police force of the different municipalities fail to carry out the provisions of the Compulsory Education law, and recommends that further legislation be had to compel the proper authorities to comply with its provisions. He states, with much force, the evil effects which result from this neglect, and gives good reason for his recommendation. He also recommends that the provisions of the law of 1883, with reference to the employment of children, should be modified so as to provide that no boy or girl under the age of fourteen years should be employed in the factories, and enforces his recommendations, which are entitled to your consideration. He also recommends that the provisions of the law of 1887, with reference to the safety of buildings, be extended to include all public and private places of assemblage. The recommendation is entitled to weight, but should be incorporated in a separate act, as it would not be properly described in the title to the general factory act.

LABOR BUREAU.

The Chief of the Bureau of Labor and Statistics informs me that his report is not ready, but is in course of preparation.

RESTORATION OF THE STATE CAPITOL.

I am happy to report that this work is rapidly approaching completion. The contracts called for such completion on the 1st of November, 1887. The delay has been vexatious and inexcusable. The commission notified the sureties of the contractors of the expiration of the time, and have in every way in their power urged more expeditious work. The only remedy to which they have not resorted was to take the work out of the hands of the contractors and have it done by others; this was not considered a desirable, judicious or economical course to pursue. The appropriation already made has, under contracts extremely favorable to the State, sufficed for the construction of a building which, in the opinion of competent judges, is not only handsome, commodious and creditable, but which provides the necessary accommodation at a cost much lower than that of any similar enterprise. Provision remains to be made for mantels, grates, gas fixtures and furniture for the different offices and rooms, for which estimates will be made in time for your action.

GETTYSBURG MONUMENTS.

The commissioners who were entrusted with the responsible duty of erecting monuments to the memory of the soldiers of New Jersey organizations on the historic field of Gettysburg, have discharged their trust in a manner which entitles them to the thanks of the State. New Jersey's tributes to her heroes are worthy of her as a State, and of their record in that decisive battle. The monuments are beautiful and appropriate in design, and each has been erected upon the locality at which the organization was engaged. They were dedicated on the 30th of June, thus enabling the veterans to remain and attend the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the battle on the 1st, 2d and 3d days of July by the Association of the Army of the Potomac. The invitation extended under legislative authority to New Jersey ex-soldiers to participate at the expense of the State for transportation and subsistence, was accepted by a much larger number of duly-attested veterans than was anticipated. Provision for these and an unexpected cost in the item of transportation caused an excess of expenditure over the appropriation made of $9,759.95, for which I suggest that provision be made.

The veterans were organized in camp under the command of Colonel John Schoonover. The detail from the National Guard consisted of the First Regiment, one company each of the Second and Fourth Regiments, and First and Third Battalions, all under the command of Colonel E. A. Campbell.

The commissioners have discharged the duties imposed on them at an expense not exceeding the appropriations and contributions; they report that they have received for the payment to the Gettysburg Association, for the land and monuments and expenses:

From the State	$18,450 00
From subscriptions	5,410 80
	$23,860 80

And that this amount has been expended by them in payments to the Gettysburg Monument Association, and for land, the monuments, expenses, &c., the latter amounting to a little over $1,000. The monuments erected comprise one to the First New Jersey Brigade, composed of the First, Second, Third, Fourth and Fifteenth Regiments; and one each to the Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Eleventh, Twelfth and Thirteenth Infantry, and First Cavalry Regiments, and of Battery "A" and Battery "B," respectively.

Battery "A" was organized and known in New Jersey and history as Hexamer's Battery, so called from its gallant commander. Its monument, by some rule, has been inscribed "Parson's" Battery, designating the person in command at Gettysburg. I recommend that the Governor be authorized to have a bronze tablet put upon its base, with a proper inscription, to identify it as the Hexamer Battery of New Jersey. This can be done at a small expense.

The grounds around these monuments should be properly enclosed, improved and cared for, and I recommend that a commission be created to see that they are properly protected and kept in condition, and that an annual appropriation of $1,000 be made for that purpose.

NEW YORK CENTENNIAL.

The last of the historic events which marked the first epoch of our national existence, will be celebrated in New York, on the 30th of April, the centennial anniversary of the inauguration of Washington as President of the United States. The co-operation of the State has been requested in the arrangements and celebration. It is fitting that New Jersey, which bore so prominent a part in the past, should be properly represented in this national event, and I ask that authority be given to the Executive to take the necessary action to accomplish this end in a way creditable to the dignity and importance of our State.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.

I again urge upon the Legislature the necessity of an amendment to the Constitution. In my inaugural address and message last year many reasons were stated for action. These, of themselves, should be sufficient, but there are others of equal importance. The Senatorial representation provided for by the present Constitution is unjust. There is no similarity in the case of the United States, for in the United States Senate States are equally represented as equal sovereignties. Counties have no such character, being merely municipal divisions of the State, subject to legislative control and change. The Senate should be representative of population, not of geographical lines.

The attempt to legislate for municipalities by general laws has been a failure, and experience has shown that different places require different laws. Many are burdened and hampered with charter provisions from which they cannot be relieved, and each year shows the necessity for special provisions for almost every city or town.

The experiment of amendment by a commission and legislative action did not prove successful, and a convention seems to be the only means to effect a satisfactory revision.

RAILROAD COMMISSION.

I renew my recommendation that the State Board of Assessors be invested with the powers and duties of Railroad Commissioners, confining those powers to such as pertain to the relations between the corporations, their employes, the people and the public interest.

TRENTON, Jan. 8th, 1889.

Hon. Robert S. Hudspeth, Speaker of the General Assembly, Trenton, N. J.:

SIR—Pursuant to the provisions of "An act relative to the public printing," approved March 23d, 1883, and a supplement thereto, approved April 5th, 1885, I have this day entered into articles of agreement with The John L. Murphy Publishing Co., of Trenton, N. J., to do all the work known as the "current printing" for both Houses of the Legislature during the session of 1889.

Very respectfully,

E. J. ANDERSON,
Comptroller,
per E. L. ANDERSON.

Mr. Feeney offered the following resolution, which was read and adopted:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to procure bill and minute files for the use of the members and officers.

Under the resolution the Speaker appointed Messrs. Feeney, McDermit and O'Neill as such committee.

Mr. Meeker, from the committee appointed under a concurrent resolution of the One Hundred and Twelfth Legislature of New Jersey, to inquire into and investigate the management, government and discipline of the State Asylum for the Insane at Morristown, submitted the following report:

To the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

The committee appointed under concurrent resolution of the One Hundred and Twelfth Legislature of New Jersey to inquire into and investigate the management, government and discipline of the State Asylum for the Insane, at Morristown, N. J., would respectfully submit the following report:

Your committee was appointed by virtue of the following resolution:

"WHEREAS, Charges directly affecting the management, government and discipline of the State Asylum for the Insane, at Morristown, New Jersey, are made in the public prints and otherwise; therefore,

"Resolved, That a special committee, to consist of three members of the Senate and five members of the House of Assembly, be appointed to inquire concerning the management, government and discipline of the State Asylum for the Insane, at Morristown, N. J., and whether any, and if so what, action should be taken in the premises."

By a joint resolution passed subsequently to the passage of the resolution above quoted, your committee were authorized to sit during the recess of the Legislature.

Eight entire days were consumed in taking, with the aid of a stenographer, the testimony of witnesses upon the matters involved in the inquiry. One hundred and twenty-four different persons were examined as witnesses, and some of these were recalled and re-examined several times. The testimony so taken, as written out by the stenographer, covers over 1,400 type-written pages.

Your committee explored every quarter where it was suggested or seemed to them likely that information could be gained touching the matters under investigation. Every person suggested from any source as likely to be able to give testimony of importance, except where such testimony appeared to be unnecessarily cumulative, was sought out and examined, if his attendance before the committee could be procured.

The charges referred to in the preamble of the resolution under which your committee was appointed, were found to be of two kinds—one affecting the official integrity of Martin B. Monroe, the Warden of the Asylum, and accusing him of dishonest conduct in making large sums of money by exacting bonuses and commissions from persons furnishing supplies to the Asylum, and also in using for the private supply of himself and his family articles bought and paid for by the State for Asylum uses. The second class of charges related to the business conduct and management of the institution under Mr. Monroe's wardenship in various particulars that will be more fully stated hereafter.

As to the first class of charges, your committee are happy, for the credit of the institution and of Mr. Monroe, to be able to report that they are unanimously of the opinion that these charges are entirely unfounded.

Nearly all the principal dealers that have furnished supplies to the Asylum during Mr. Monroe's term as Warden were called, and testified that the houses they represent had never allowed to Mr. Monroe, or to any one for him, either directly or indirectly, any fee, bonus or commission whatever, for the custom given them by Mr. Monroe; that Mr. Monroe had never asked for or suggested any such compensation, and that as a matter of fact Mr. Monroe was so close and careful a buyer that they could not have afforded to take such a course, had they so desired. The firms whose representatives were examined with the result above reported, comprise such eminent and reputable names as Thurber, Whyland & Co., John S. Martin & Co., and H. D. Van Nostrand & Co., of New York city. Adding to this that Mr. Monroe denied under oath, in the most emphatic manner, ever having asked or received anything whatever in the way of bonus, commission or drawback from persons of whom he bought supplies for the Asylum, as well as his testimony that he had never saved above $500 in any one year since his connection with the Asylum, and the fact that neither from the evidence nor from the suggestions of his accusers could anything be discovered to show that he had amassed any property disproportionate to his salary and position, we have the most justifiable grounds for affirming his entire honesty and fidelity to his trust in these particulars.

The alleged instances of the procurement by the Warden of various articles of household and domestic use for his private needs out of the public supplies, are all entirely and satisfactorily refuted by the evidence and explanations produced on his behalf. These allegations were apparently due to misconstruction on the part of discharged employes of facts of which they had only very imperfect knowledge; and your committee are of the opinion that this misconstruction was not wholly devoid of a malicious and vindictive purpose towards Mr. Monroe.

The charges against the business management and conduct of the Asylum under Mr. Monroe's wardenship, though not preferred in the first instance by Dr. E. C. Booth, the Medical Director of the Asylum, were first formally stated to the committee by that officer. They were presented in writing. We quote here so much thereof as is necessary to show the charges made:

"FOOD.

"The first abuse in the management of the Asylum to which we call attention relates to the food of the attendants and patients. We do not hesitate to say that in the last three years food has very frequently been supplied to feed our patients and their attendants which was unfit to be supplied to human beings in any institution whatsoever. The fault in the food begins in the purchase of supplies. Large deliveries have been made to the Asylum of meat unfit for use, which ought never to have been accepted from the seller. The quality of the butter supplied has been usually very poor. The milk, eggs, oatmeal and other sundries have varied from time to time, but have often been bad. The evils arising from poor supplies have been aggravated by negligence and incapacity in the kitchen department. The preparation of food for so many people requires not only special skill and knowledge, but also intelligent and careful supervision. While there have been many faithful employes in the kitchen, who have done their best with the poor material furnished, yet the general management has been negligent and incompetent. The orders for special diet are among the most important duties of the physicians. If they are not obeyed, the physicians might as well be dispensed with. These orders can only be carried out through the kitchen. To carry them out requires care and system, but no more than is found in every well-conducted hotel. Under the present system the physicians and attendants have found that they cannot rely on obedience to their directions, and this may be attributed partly to indifference to duty and partly to a willful disposition to show an independence of authority of the medical department. The instances of this character are very numerous and will be established by the supervisors and attendants. The negligence and lack of skill and system in the store-room and kitchen result in the sending to the wards of quantities of spoiled and wormy food, not only unfit, but dangerous to eat, which no sane person could eat. Details can be supplied by abundant evidence of the attendants, who have often refused to place before their charges the nauseous preparation sent up from the kitchen under the name of food. The food supplied is also deficient in quantity. This complaint arises chiefly in the male department, and details can be established by abundant testimony.

"THE LAUNDRY.

"Next in importance to the food of the patients is their clothing. Cleanliness is simply vital. The mismanagement of the laundry is equally striking with that of the kitchen. The amount of clothing destroyed or lost, often the property of private patients who pay liberally for their support, is too great to be overlooked or explained.

This grievance is particularly felt among the female patients, and will be shown by lists made by attendants of goods lost or injured in the laundry. It is a very common thing for patients to receive packages by mail or express. To prevent the introduction of improper articles sent by injudicious friends it is necessary to supervise the opening of these packages. This is a very delicate duty, which needs to be exercised with tact, and, as a rule, by means of the kind personal relations between patients and attendants or physicians, the supervision can be exercised by them without annoyance to patients; and this was long the practice. Under the present management the packages are opened by the Warden before they come to the attendants, and this often causes much excitement and anger among the patients. The reason given for the change is that a record should be made of the property brought in by patients, but in the opinion of the physicians, if there were no better ground than this to break open these packages, it would be no more justifiable than for the proprietor of a hotel to ransack the baggage of his guests. The physicians and their assistants alone can judge what articles each particular patient may properly receive, and they can also be trusted to attend to the important duty of furnishing a list of property which needs to be accounted for without going into details. As to other departments, we charge generally that the clothing supplied is insufficient in quantity and of a poor quality and of a uniform cut, needlessly irritating and therefore injurious to indigent patients. The tailor-shop is managed without the good results shown in former years to be easily attainable. The garden and farm do not furnish to the table of the Asylum the fresh and abundant supplies available from these sources under proper management. Repairs in the wards are long neglected, and when made are made or sometimes carried on without due regard to the comfort and convenience of the patients. The proper requisitions of the medical department for drugs, furniture and supplies for wards and patients are habitually neglected. That many of the single items which go to establish the charges are petty is inevitable."

To ascertain the truth concerning these charges formulated by Dr. Booth, your committee examined Dr. Booth himself and all the medical assistants then employed in the Asylum, together with almost all the supervisors, attendants and other employes in the medical branch of the institution, and many of the other persons either then or theretofore employed there. As the result and a summary of the evidence upon these points, we would report that, while it is not true that such frequent or gross delinquencies occurred in the kitchen, store-room or laundry departments as would be inferred from the language of Dr. Booth's charges, yet it is true that, dating principally from some time in the fall of 1887 and extending to a time near the commencement of our investigation, there were instances more numerous than is excusable of improper articles of food served out from the store-room and meat-house to the kitchen, and prepared and served to the patients and employes.

These articles include meat, oat-meal and eggs. To give an idea of the nature and frequency of such instances we refer to the evidence of Miss Julia Murphy, one of the supervisors. She kept a memorandum of occasions when improper food was served in her department. Her observations were begun to be noted down in June, 1887. The instances noted by her from June 6th, 1887, to the date of her testifying, April 17th, 1888, were as follows:

June 6th, hash condemned by Dr. Russell.
June 9th, oat-meal had worms in it.
June 9th, at dinner, milk was sour.
February 9th, 1888, sour oat-meal, continuing to February 16th.
February 26th, apple-sauce had worms and bugs in it.
March 6th, roast beef too rare to be eaten.
April 13th, potatoes soggy.

These are all the instances noted by her; though she says there were others she did not put down; that they only put down the unusually bad instances.

Dr. Andrew McFarlane, an assistant physician, also took notes. As he was somewhat active in pressing the charges contained in Dr. Booth's statement, we give here so much of his written testimony read to the committee as will show the instances that he deemed of enough importance to record:

"On February 27th, 1888, the mutton in 1–2 hospital ward, where old, sick and feeble men are confined, was tainted and not eaten; it smelled badly and was thrown in the swill barrel. The mutton stew in 3–4, about twelve weeks ago, was so tainted and had such a bad odor that it was thrown away. On March 5th the corned beef on 3–4 was most of it fat and gristle, with a bad odor, and was most of it not eaten. The beef-steak is usually very much overdone, and so dried up that there is no nourishment in it. March 25th the patients on 2–1 could not eat the roast beef because it was improperly prepared, being entirely too rare. The corned beef, if not tainted, is very uninviting, having much fat, gristle and bone, and often not near enough lean, good meat for the patients. This is almost always the case, and the meat has been very much complained of, especially about the mutton as being green and tainted.

"Now, about the extra meats. The roast beef that is ordered is usually uninviting, and invariably it is not properly prepared. There is a great deal of fat and gristle about it, and the lean meat is very small in comparison with the amount of the beef sent up. January 18th, 19th and 20th the roast beef that came up as extras for private patients on ward 3–1 north, was not fit to be eaten, over three-fourths of it was fat and gristle."

These records may be taken as affording a fair statement of the frequency of the instances when notably bad food was served. There were doubtless other instances not recorded by these witnesses, perhaps not occurring in their departments. Taken in connection with the other evidence, too voluminous to be quoted, they go to show that there was a lack of care or supervision in the kitchen and store-room that resulted in the serving of improper food more frequently than is excusable. We believe that on at least two occasions meat was received at the Asylum that should have been rejected and returned to the seller. One was the lot of veal received in October, 1887, and the other was the lot of mutton received and used in February, 1888.

That any of it was used in an unfit state we think is due to the butcher and to the cook. It appears that Mr. Monroe's orders to the butcher were never to send any meat to the kitchen which was not in first-rate condition. It is hardly credible that Mr. Monroe would knowingly permit spoiled meat to be served; and the evidence of all the reliable witnesses goes to prove that he was not informed of these two specific instances.

We believe, also, that on several occasions worms may have been bred in oat-meal or flour, and served up to the patients in that condition. Also, that water bugs found their way into the food; that spoiled or stale eggs were sometimes given out; and that other articles of diet were sometimes spoiled or infested with foreign bodies. All these things will happen even in the best-regulated families, as every housekeeper knows. It is the frequency or infrequency of such things that determines the good or bad quality of the housekeeping.

From the fact that all the witnesses agree that the service and food had much improved in these particulars since the charges under examination had been made public, it is safe to infer that there was culpable fault theretofore in the kitchen management.

The quality of the cooking was also greatly complained of, and we think it very likely that in that matter there has been a good deal of just ground of complaint. During the period covered by the complaints which are in evidence, the kitchen was never under the charge either of a really competent cook or of a Steward. Had there been a competent cook, the complaints of overdone and underdone meats, poor beef-tea, &c., would not have been so frequent. Had there been a Steward to supervise and inspect all articles of food before they were cooked as well as after, there would have been little chance for the occurrence of those instances of complaint that have been referred to; and had they occurred, the responsibility could have been fixed at once on the cook or Steward, and the recurrence of the complaint avoided.

During the progress of this investigation, and as soon as practicable after these complaints of bad food and bad cooking were brought out before the committee, the Board of Managers secured the services of a first-class cook and superintendent in the kitchen, and appointed a qualified store-keeper; and we are glad to be able to assure the Legislature, that under these arrangements, the food is now prepared in a manner that is beyond criticism.

The inquiry naturally arises, why was not all this remedied before? The Board of Managers are charged by law with the employment of proper officers and servants, as well as with the management and control of the whole institution. Prior to the year 1885, the Medical Director had the charge (of course under the control of the Managers) of the whole institution; both the medical and the business department. In 1885, by act of the Legislature, it was provided that the Managers should appoint both a Medical Director and a Steward or Warden. The Medical Director was to have charge, direction and control of all the patients and of all persons engaged in the care of patients in the Asylum; the Steward or Warden was to be the General Manager of the Asylum buildings, grounds, and farm, with the furniture, fixtures and stock thereto belonging, and to perform such other duties as should be assigned to him by the Managers, subject to the by-laws, rules and regulation prescribed by the Managers. This is what is known as the dual system. The management of the institution in both departments was vested in the Board of Managers, gentlemen appointed on account of their business capacity and high standing in the State, who serve without compensation. Both the medical and business departments were completely under their control. The Board has always comprised among its members, a large proportion of physicians, ranking among the most eminent in the medical profession of the State. The Legislature and the people of the State expected, and had a right to expect, that with the ample powers given them by law, these Managers would do whatever was necessary to make this institution a model among Asylums, and a source of pride, as it is an ornament, to the State. If reform was necessary in the kitchen, or laundry or anywhere else, the Managers were the agents of the State to make the reform, and it was the duty of any officer in the institution, having knowledge of faults or deficiencies, to report them to the Board for correction.

Your committee, upon receiving Dr. Booth's written presentment of delinquencies in the business department of the institution, very quickly, therefore, desired to find out why the Board of Managers had not corrected the evils complained of. They asked Dr. Booth if he had ever complained to the Board respecting the matters contained in his written charges, and detailed in his testimony. We copy here his evidence on that point:

"Q. Did you ever complain to the Board of Managers on this subject?

"A. I have complained to the Board of Managers of this.

"Q. Well, have you ever made formal complaint to the Managers?

"A. I did make formal complaint in, I think, October, 1886, a few months——

"Q. Was there any improvement after that?

"A. For a short time things were better; I think that they gave directions; that they endeavored to ameliorate matters, I am satisfied.

"Q. Have you never complained since then?

"A. Not to them as a Board, but I have told individual members from time to time, things were going about the same; I told Dr. Varick and Mr. Lewis about it; I often told Dr. Varick, who is now dead, and I have, I think, told other members.

"Q. There have been three or four physicians on the Board of Managers all the time, have there not?

"A. I should say so; yes, there have been several.

"Q. Dr. Jackson, Dr. Green, Dr. Varick, Dr. Clark?

"A. And Dr. Hendry.

"Q. Well, these matters are such as would be easily appreciated by a physician, are they not?

"A. I think so.

"Q. Why did not you present the matters formally to the Board, as often as you had occasion to complain?

"A. The Managers told me that matters would be remedied after making these formal charges—set charges.

"Q. The last formal complaint you made to the Board, was in October, 1886?

"A. Yes, sir.

"Q. Has there been any understanding between you and the Board of Managers, that you should make a report to them, when anything was in trouble?

"A. The Board of Managers have inquired how things were going on in the house, had not inquired otherwise, and I have never told the Board of Managers, in any one instance, things were going on well in the house; they would ask how things were going, and I have told them they were going just about the same; that, I think the gentlemen will say, has been my habitual and general remark; they have not asked me particularly about it, and I have not gone on to explain what was the state of things; I have a great many letters from friends, imploring me to let the patients themselves open their parcels.

"Q. Have you laid that matter before the management?

"A. Yes, sir; I laid that matter before Dr. Varick.

"Q. But not before the Board of Management?

"A. Not as a Board of Management; I have felt a little diffident in bringing frequent charges to the Board of Managers, since the failure of my charges in 1886; I felt the management would think

I was captious and fault-finding, and I have endeavored to get along without, for that reason, and I believe it has been the only reason I have been able to stay for the time I have; I have put up with a great many things in that and other respects."

Mr. George A. Halsey, President of the Board of Managers, and Judge Banta and Dr. Green, members of the Board, testify that they never knew or heard of the complaints of bad food until the charges appeared in the newspapers just prior to the appointment of this committee.

We understand Dr. Booth to testify substantially that he never brought these complaints of bad food and cooking to the attention of the Board. He says something in an indefinite way about having told Dr. Varick, a former Manager, now deceased, about "these charges," but it is scarcely credible, and hardly in keeping with the high sense of public duty we know Dr. Varick to have possessed, to believe that Dr. Booth could have told him "that in the last three years food was frequently supplied to feed the patients and their attendants which was unfit to be supplied to human beings," and that Dr. Varick should not have taken prompt action to investigate and remedy the evil, or at least to impart the information to his associates on the Board.

Dr. Booth gives as a reason for his failure to make complaint to the Board, a statement of the history of a complaint against the Warden, made in October, 1886, which he alleges was not properly investigated or considered. Remarking in passing, that nothing in that complaint related in any way to improper food or cooking, we give here the complaint of 1886, as then submitted in writing:

"(1) I charge the Warden with a disposition to carry on the affairs of the Asylum as if he were the only head, which, indeed, he has declared himself to be.

"(2) With encroaching upon the department of the Medical Director, and with contempt for his authority.

"(3) With discourtesy and insult towards the medical officers.

"(4) With breeding insubordination among the attendants and disaffection among the patients.

"(5) With hindering the successful operation of the institution by inefficient management of his own department, as regards supply of special diet to patients on physicians' orders, care of clothing while in the laundry and its return to the wards, attention to requisitions and orders from the Medical Director.

"(6) With unwarrantable interference of his subordinates in the management and discipline of the wards."

It will be observed that five out of six of these specifications relate to matters of alleged encroachment and interference by the Warden in and upon the domain of the Medical Department. These charges were referred to a special committee consisting of Judge Banta, Dr. Varick, Dr. Jackson and Messrs. Halsey and Meeker. The action of the committee is thus detailed by Judge Banta in his testimony:

"On the 22d of October the committee met; Dr. Varick and Mr. Meeker were absent. Dr. Varick wrote me that he would not come, that he had an engagement which prevented him from coming. On that day the committee had before them Dr. Booth and Mr. Monroe; they heard the statements of both of those gentlemen, and I think that ended their investigation for that day. The next meeting of this committee was on the 27th of October. Dr. Varick was then here; Mr. Meeker was absent on account of sickness in his family. Dr. Varick had been informed of what had been done, and I think Dr. Varick sent for Dr. Booth and Mr. Monroe, and in the presence of both of them, Dr. Varick, in his short and emphatic way, asked them if there was any difficulty in getting along in the future, and both of them said they thought there was no difficulty at all, and that ended the whole thing, and we supposed that they would in the future get along very nicely; we supposed that it was a mere matter of misunderstanding, or something of that kind, and there was really no report made by the committee of investigation; they supposed they were both men of sense and would use their sense in getting along pleasantly.

"From that time until the 7th of July, 1887, not a word of complaint was ever heard by any member of this Board, or, at any rate, not officially, not as a Board. Dr. Booth then made some complaint before the Board, the nature of which I do not understand, because I was not present at the time; but I know that a resolution was offered (I was then present) by Dr. Green that the Warden and Dr. Booth should confer, I think the resolution said, on the morning of each day, with regard to their duties and work. I think that resolution is on July 7th, and that was the last we ever heard of any complaints. No other complaints were ever made to the Managers. The Managers never heard of any bad food being furnished the institution. Officially, at any time, not one single word concerning bad food, or rotten eggs, or tainted beef, or wormy flour, or bad cooking, ever came before this Board. The Board simply understood the difficulty between the Warden and Dr. Booth to be one of conflict of authority or jurisdiction, and they supposed by smoothing over the rough edges, there would be no difficulty in their getting along.

"I read from the minutes of the meeting of the Board of Managers of July 7th:

"On motion, the following resolutions, by Dr. Green, were acted upon separately, and each passed by a unanimous vote:

"Resolved, That it shall be the duty of the Medical Director and the Warden to meet each other daily, at some regularly-appointed place and hour, to arrange and consult about the business and interests of the Asylum, in order that their separate departments may be harmoniously conducted.

"Resolved, That in the event of any difference of opinion arising in the settlement of any matter coming to the conference of the Medical Director and the Warden, which they shall not be able to satisfactorily arrange, it shall be referred at once in a written communication to the President or the Chairman of the Medical Committee for immediate adjudication and settlement. If the matter in contest belongs to the business side of the Asylum, the communication shall be made by the Warden to the President of the Board; and if it relates to the medical conduct of the house, by the Medical Director to the Chairman of the Medical Committee."

We think there is nothing in the conduct or action of the Board of Managers in reference to these charges of 1886 to justify any supposition on the part of Dr. Booth that the Board would not do its duty, or would fail to deal properly and efficiently with any complaint he might lay before it, not to speak of such serious charges as he now makes against the Warden and business department. At any rate, he was the subordinate officer, and it was his duty to report such matters to his responsible chiefs, in order that they might be given opportunity to correct the evils complained of. He was not responsible for their action; but he was responsible for some of the evil or its continuance, if he failed to take the natural and lawful course to secure a remedy. We do not doubt that if Dr. Booth had reported to the Board the matters he detailed to the committee, the necessary reforms in the kitchen and store-room would have been as promptly made as they were when they did finally come to the knowledge of the Managers. Thereby much discomfort to the patients would have been spared, and public scandal avoided. Nor did Dr. Booth, except in a few instances, report these matters to the Warden, who could have corrected them. They were mostly allowed to go on and accumulate in number without the knowledge of the parties that could have applied the remedy, until they found their way into the public prints and became the basis of this investigation.

There was a great deal of complaint about the laundry service. Clothing was torn in washing, delayed in its return, or entirely lost. Much of this fault was due to the fact that the laundry machinery was old and worn, and inadequate to the increased number of patients. Much confusion and delay also arose from the failure to adopt a regular system of recording the pieces sent to the laundry from each ward. Prior to the beginning of the investigation, the supervisors and the attendants kept no record of the different articles of clothing sent to the laundry for patients under their charge; nor was any system of mutual lists, receipts, &c., in vogue. The washing business in each quarter, up stairs in the medical department, and down stairs in the laundry, was carried on with a lack of system that would have been discreditable even to a Chinese wash-house. Now, however, a proper system has been adopted and is used; better machinery, which had been planned for before this committee was ordered, has been put in, and we feel justified in believing that the laundry service will hereafter be as good as it ought to be.

The testimony shows that the articles of general use for food, especially meat, flour, butter, potatoes, tea and coffee, are of the best quality, such as would be supplied to a first-class hotel. In those instances where butter has been testified to as being unfit to eat, we attribute the cause, in some cases, to exposure of the butter for too long a time to the air and light, and in others to delay in using it from the store-room. The butter used is creamery butter, and it is a well-known fact that such butter becomes more easily tainted than ordinary dairy butter. If tea and coffee have been unfit to drink, it was because of bad preparation and not because of poor quality. We are convinced, however, that many of the instances of inedible and spoiled food testified to by attendants and other employes, were imaginary, or arose from inability to judge of the difference between sound and spoiled food. In two instances attendants swore before us that articles of food, produced and shown to us, were spoiled, when the reverse was the fact according to the senses and judgment of every member of the committee.

We do not attribute any of the faults which we discovered in the conduct of the Asylum to lack of executive ability or official zeal on the part of the Warden. We believe that the Warden has had more under his personal care than he should have been expected to attend to. Here is a general list of matters under his charge, as stated by him:

"My duties are defined by the statute and by-laws of the institution, and my jurisdiction extends over the buildings as buildings, which include repairs of every kind, all the out-buildings, the laundry, kitchen and heating, farm, garden, gas-works, all the out-door employes, carpenters, painters, upholsterers, &c. The tailors, the bakery, and all the employes connected with these departments. There is a carpenter shop, a paint shop, a plumber shop, an upholstery, gas-works, boiler and engine-house, water-works, blacksmith shop, each with its head and separate organization.

"I purchase all the supplies of every kind, and have the care and charge of the store-room, where the supplies are kept.

"The by-laws especially enjoin upon me the following: 'He shall be accountable for the careful keeping and economical use of all furniture, stores and other articles provided for the Asylum, farm and garden.'"

The institution is large, and furnishes a home for over 1,000 adult persons, composing a population that would make a good-sized town. Its management involves much detail. There should always be provided enough head officers for the practicable subdivisions of the administration to insure proper attention to every detail.

It has been urged upon us by some, that the dual system is wrong in principle, and that the proper way to conduct the Asylum is to return to the former plan of having the Medical Director the single officer in charge of the whole administration. We have found most of the present and former attendant physicians to be warm partisans of the single-head system, and have been complimented in the receipt of numerous able and learned pamphlets, magazine articles and other treatises in opposition to the dual system. We have also found the eminent physicians on the Board of Managers taking the other side and asserting their belief in the superiority of the dual system in the management of the hospitals for the insane, and asserting that they can see no reason why such a system should not work as well in these as it does in hospitals of other kinds. Who shall decide when the doctors disagree? We are of opinion that none of the faults in management brought to light in this investigation are incapable of easy remedy under the present system. The single-head system may or may not be the best, but we do not think a change of the system is necessary here in order to have better cooking, better laundry service, better butter, beef-tea or coffee, than those complained of.

That there has been lack of cordiality and sympathy between the business and the medical branches of the administration, we are satisfied. We go further, and say we think there has been, especially on the part of some of the physicians and the medical attendants, a spirit of hostility to the other branches, and that to some degree a spirit of partisanship has arisen between the subordinates in the two departments, that has tended to create, rather than to prevent, trouble and complaint. But this has been due to other causes than the dual system, and is attributable more to undue personal and professional jealousy than to any just provocation. It is not unlikely that both the Warden and the Medical Director, in seeking to uphold and maintain their own jurisdiction, have forgotten that they are both subordinates, and that the Board of Managers is the head of the institution. That with the exercise of the ordinary forbearance and mutual consideration to be expected of every adult person in business or professional life, this institution can be successfully run under the present system, we have no manner of doubt. It is so run now, as we believe. The troubles complained of have been obviated; and we have faith in the ability of the Board of Managers, under the powers given them by law, to maintain an efficient and proper administration of the affairs of the institution.

During the course of the investigation several employes that had given evidence unfavorable to the Warden were discharged. While the Managers and the Warden furnished reasons for these discharges that would have been adequate and satisfactory under ordinary circumstances, yet, being made before our investigations were concluded, this action of the Board had a direct tendency to intimidate other employes that were to be examined afterwards before us, and prevent such a free and full disclosure as other witnesses might otherwise have been able to make. It was certainly ill-advised that this action of the Managers should not have been deferred until all the witnesses had given their evidence.

We see no necessity for any legislative action upon the matters involved in this investigation, and therefore make no recommendation of any alteration in the law governing this institution.

We think, however, that the interests of the State might be served by adopting a system of purchasing staple supplies by contract on bids solicited at stated periods.

This system has been found advantageous, on the ground of economy, in many public institutions in the different States and cities of the country, and it would also largely allay the public suspicions that often unjustly attach to a single officer or board purchasing supplies at pleasure.

The adoption of this system would require no new legislation, as the Board of Managers have full powers to put it into operation if they deem it advisable, and we make this suggestion especially for their consideration, believing that they will do what is best for the interests of the State in the matter.

We concur in the above report in all respects except so far as it says that the committee "sees no necessity for legislative action upon the matters involved in the investigation, and therefore makes no recommendation of any alteration in the law governing this institution," upon which subject we do not at this time wish to express an opinion.

The Speaker laid the following petition before the House:

To the House of Assembly of New Jersey:

The State Legislative Committee of the New Jersey Federation of Trades and Labor Unions, representing all the organized wage-workers of New Jersey, will submit, during the one hundred and thirteenth session of the Legislature, a number of bills in the interest of their constituents, for which they ask your most favorable consideration.

These bills, all of which have been carefully prepared, are, in the judgment of the masses represented by this committee, reasonable and right, and their passage into law cannot fail to reflect the highest credit upon your deliberations and action.

As the bills to be introduced concern the vital interests of your constituents, of the bone and sinew of the State, and as their passage into law will benefit the entire community, it is requested by the State Legislative Committee that you will give them prompt, as well as favorable consideration.

The Legislative Committee appeals to your sense of right and justice in behalf of the honest and industrious wage-workers of New Jersey, and confides to your care the measures asked for by the men and women who work in our mills and factories, our fields and highways, our mines and work-shops.

The Legislative Committee has been instructed to present the following measures:

1. A bill for the examination and licensing of stationary engineers. This measure is in the interest of life and property.

2. A bill for the protection of employes, making it unlawful for employers to demand or receive written or verbal pledges from employes not to belong to certain lawful organizations. This measure is for the maintenance of one of the fundamental principles of American citizenship.

3. A bill for electoral reform (House Bill No. 30, already introduced in the House of Assembly). This is a political measure which cannot fail to meet your hearty approbation. The Governor of our State has pronounced in favor of the principles of this bill in his annual message, and it is commended not only by trade and labor organizations and labor papers, but by prominent citizens of all political views, and by the leading newspapers of both political parties. The passage of this bill is looked upon as a foregone conclusion.

4. A supplement to the General Factory act. The passage of this bill is earnestly desired by the thousands of honest men and women who toil in our factories, mills, mines and work-shops. Its provisions are already law in other States of the United States.

5. A supplement to the Mechanics' Lien law. The enactment of this measure into law is favored by all wage-workers and honorable employers engaged in the building trade. The bill has been prepared with a view to protecting the interests of all concerned.

6. A bill for additional Factory Inspectors. This bill is favored by the Chief of the Factory Department and by all who take an intelligent interest in the education and welfare of the children of the State. After years of experience, it has been found that the present force of Inspectors is totally inadequate, and that at least three more Deputy Inspectors must be added to make the Department thoroughly efficient.

7. A supplement to the act for the punishment of crimes. This bill makes it unlawful to employ non-citizens and non-residents as police officers and constables. It is believed that the police force and resident constables of our State can at all times be relied on to do their duty in maintaining peace and enforcing law, and that the employment of irresponsible strangers, who have no legal residence in this State, is more likely to lead to than prevent disturbance.

8. A bill for the protection of trade-marks. This measure is in the interest of all good citizens, but especially of those who are engaged in lawful industries and who find it necessary to use trade-marks.

9. A Saturday half-holiday bill. The passage of this bill is earnestly urged by the employes of factories and work-shops. Its provisions are already law in the great State of New York. Its enactment will not be opposed by the best manufacturing establishments, and will be appreciated by the thousands who now petition in its favor.

In asking your favorable consideration for these bills, the Legislative Committee desires to say, that in other States and countries many of the provisions of the bills now submitted are already law.

The members of this committee will be always ready to meet your committees and make explanations. They rely upon you, as faithful representatives of the people, to legislate in the best interests of the masses. Very respectfully,

On behalf of the State Legislative Committee,

J. P. McDONNELL, Chairman.

The following message was received from the Governor by the hands of his Private Secretary:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
TRENTON, January 30th, 1889.

To the Senate and General Assembly:

GENTLEMEN—By an act relative to public printing, approved March 23d, 1883, it is made the duty of the Comptroller to advertise, during the month of December, for proposals to do the current printing of the two Houses of the Legislature at its next ensuing session, and by a supplement approved April 7th, 1885, it is made the duty of the Comptroller to open the proposals received, publicly, in the presence of the Governor, in the Executive Chamber, and to contract for the printing, with the approval of the Governor, upon the most advantageous terms that may be offered.

During last December the Comptroller advertised for proposals to do the current printing of the two Houses at its present session. In response but two bids were received, one from The John L. Murphy Publishing Company and one from MacCrellish & Quigley. These proposals were opened, as required by law, in my presence, and referred to an expert to ascertain which was the lower of the two bids. He reported the bid of the Murphy Publishing Company to be the lower, and the contract was awarded to such company with the approval of the Governor. The contract for the work being presented some days after for my signature, on a careful examination of its provisions, my attention was attracted to several items of work with which I was somewhat familiar, which appeared rather high, and on comparing the items with those of former years, the prices were so out of proportion to similar ones in those years, that I was unwilling to execute the contract.

The following shows the items of the present bid and the amount paid for similar work in the year 1888:

300 diagrams of the Senate, $36; price in 1888, $3.25.

500 diagrams of the House of Assembly, $60; price in 1888, $3.75.

300 lists of officers of two Houses for Senate, $30; price in 1888, $6.50.

500 lists of officers and members of two Houses, for House, $50; price in 1888, $6.75.

For Senate bills printed on 14-pound foolscap, 31 lines to a page, for 300 copies of each bill of one sheet, $6; price in 1888, $2.30.

For each additional 100 copies, $1; price in 1888, 20 cents.

For Senate bills printed on 14-pound foolscap, 31 lines to a page, for 300 copies of each bill of one-half sheet, $3; price in 1888, $1.20.

For each additional 100 copies, 50 cents; price in 1888, 10 cents.

The amounts paid last year about average the amounts paid under the contracts for 1887, 1886, 1885 and 1884, as to some items being higher, as to some lower.

The representative of the company making the bid informs me that the work in former years was done at a loss, and that he made the bid this year at prices which would be remunerative, willing to do the work at such rates, but unwilling to do it lower or at the loss incurred in former years.

The law was evidently passed in the hope and with the expectation that the course to be pursued would secure competition, and that the State would in that way get the work done at a less rate than it formerly paid. This result was reached for a few years, but it has now practically failed.

I do not feel justified in signing this contract, as there has really been no competition in the bid, and the prices are so much in excess of what has been formerly paid. Notice of the award of the contract was given to the bidder, and to each House, and the work is being done by the Murphy Publishing Company. It is necessary that steps be taken to relieve the State, if the Legislature is satisfied that the prices named in the bid should not be paid. In such case the second section of the act of 1885 should be repealed or amended, and other arrangements for the current printing of this session made at once.

Respectfully,

ROBT. S. GREEN,
Governor.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
OFFICE OF COMPTROLLER OF THE TREASURY,
TRENTON, January 31st, 1889.

Hon. Robert Hudspeth, Speaker of the House of Assembly:

SIR—I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of a copy of the following resolution adopted by the House of Assembly, January 30th, 1889:

Resolved, That the Comptroller be requested to report to this House the facts relating to the award of the contract for current printing during the present session to The John L. Murphy Publishing Company.

By an act entitled "An act relative to public printing," approved March 23d, 1883 (P. L. 1883, p. 210), the Comptroller is directed to advertise during the month of December in each year, in two newspapers published in each of the cities of Trenton, Camden, Jersey City and Newark "for proposals to do the current printing of the two Houses of the Legislature at its next ensuing session, which proposals shall be submitted to the Comptroller on or before the first Monday in January following." The same act provides (Section 6) "that it shall be the duty of the Comptroller, upon receipt of said proposals, to open the same in the presence of the Governor, and to contract for the said printing, with the approval of the Governor, upon the most advantageous terms offered." In 1885 a supplement to this act was passed (P. L. 1885, p. 210), providing that "if, upon the day and hour fixed for the opening of said proposals, the Governor is unable to be present, the Comptroller shall open the same publicly in his office, and the contract shall be subsequently awarded by him with the approval of the Governor, as previously stated."

In pursuance of these acts the following advertisement was published during the month of December, 1888, in the State Gazette and True American, of Trenton; the Daily Courier and West Jersey Press, of Camden; the Daily Advertiser and Newark Journal, of Newark, and the Jersey City Argus and Evening Journal, of Jersey City:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
OFFICE OF COMPTROLLER OF THE TREASURY,
TRENTON, December 1st, 1888.

Pursuant to an act of the Legislature entitled "An act relative to the public printing," approved March 23d, 1883, proposals will be received by the Comptroller to do the current printing of the two Houses of the Legislature at the session of 1889.

All proposals must be addressed to the undersigned, indorsed "Proposals for Current Printing," and must be delivered at this office not later than 12 o'clock, noon, January 7th, 1889.

Samples and specifications may be seen at this office.

E. J. ANDERSON,
Comptroller.

At noon, January 7th, 1889, two proposals had been received in response to the advertisement, and these were found to be from Messrs. MacCrellish & Quigley and from The John L. Murphy Publishing Company, both of Trenton. The Governor being absent, the proposals were opened and read in my office, the competitors or their representatives being present.

For reasons so obvious that a recital of them here would be superfluous, a calculation is always necessary in such cases to determine which bidder offers the most advantageous terms, and for the purpose of this calculation the proposals were at once placed in the hands of Mr. Charles Bechtel, a practical printer, who is employed by the State as an expert under the provisions of the act of 1883 above referred to. Upon examination the bid of the Murphy Publishing Company was found to be considerably lower in the aggregate than that of Messrs. MacCrellish & Quigley, and Mr. Bechtel on the same day returned the proposals to me with the following certificate:

TRENTON, N. J., January 7th, 1889.

E. J. Anderson, Esq., Comptroller:

DEAR SIR—I have examined the bids of The John L. Murphy Published Company and Messrs. MacCrellish & Quigley for the current printing of the session of 1889, and find the said John L. Murphy Publishing Company to be the lowest bidder.

(Signed) CHAS. BECHTEL.

Upon this certificate I made the following indorsement:

The contract for current printing for 1889 is awarded to The John L. Murphy Publishing Company, when the Governor has approved this action.

(Signed) E. J. ANDERSON,
Comptroller.

On the following day (January 8th, 1889) I sent both the proposals, together with Mr. Bechtel's certificate, to the Governor, and he returned them to me with the following indorsement upon the certificate:

Approved. ROBT. S. GREEN,
Governor.

I therefore notified the Murphy Publishing Co. that the contract had been awarded to them, prepared the necessary contract and bond, and forwarded the usual communications to both Houses of the Legislature, informing them that a contract had been entered into with the Murphy Publishing Co. to do the current printing for the session. Two copies of the contract were executed by me on the part of the State, and by Mr. John L. Murphy, President of the Murphy Publishing Co., on the part of that company, and a satisfactory bond, with sufficient sureties, was delivered to me by Mr. Murphy.

The contracts were sent to the Governor on the ninth of January for his approval, and have not yet been returned; but I am informed that the work is being done by the Murphy Publishing Co., under my notice that the contract had been awarded to them with the approval of the Governor.

The proceedings in this case, so far as this department is concerned, have not differed from the course which has been pursued each year since the contract law went into operation; but I have recited them in detail, in response to your resolution calling for the facts relating to this particular award.

Your resolution only calls upon me for the "facts" relating to the award, but of course I am aware that the resolution was incidental to the discussion which has arisen concerning the rates allowed for the work in the contract made with the Murphy Publishing Co. Under a strict interpretation of the law, it might be argued that the Comptroller has no concern with the rates which may be offered by the several competitors for this work. He is required to offer by advertisement the fullest opportunity for competition, and to award the contract upon the most advantageous terms that may be offered. The law is specific and imperative, leaving no discretion to the Comptroller, and not authorizing him to reject all bids and re-advertise for proposals if the rates are found to be excessive or exorbitant. But notwithstanding this defect in the law, it would, in my judgment, be the duty of the Comptroller to suspend official action and report the matter to the Legislature if none but exorbitant rates were offered, or if he had reason to suspect unfairness in the bidding or collusion between the bidders. In this case I have not been able to discover anything of the kind. It is true that the prices named by the competitors were higher than the rates proposed in any year since the contract law went into operation; but this fact finds a ready explanation in the experience of the State and the printers under that law. The competition for the current printing in the past four years has been confined to a few printers (probably because there are not many offices in the State having facilities for doing the work), but between the bidders the competition has been exceedingly sharp, and the result has been, as I am informed by practical printers, that the rates offered to and paid by the State have been reduced to so low a point that the work has been done at a microscopic profit at best, and sometimes even at a loss to the printer.

In the present instance, notwithstanding the wide public notice given to all possible competitors, only two of the many printers in the State submitted proposals. Both of these had competed successfully for this work in former years, and both declared that they preferred this year to lose the work rather than compete for it at the ruinous rates which have heretofore prevailed. The representative of the successful competitor (The John L. Murphy Publishing Company) informs me that he submitted the proposals at rates which would furnish him but a fair profit; and I am further informed by disinterested practical printers that the average of the rates offered to and accepted by the State in this case is such as to afford but a fair business profit on the work embraced in the contract. The prices on the items comprising the principal part of the work are lower than the rates fixed by the Legislature, and paid by the State, up to the time of the passage of the contract law in 1883, and lower than the rates now allowed by law, and paid for such printing as does not come within the provisions of the contract law. Hence, there was, in my judgment, nothing to justify me in delaying or withholding such official action as I have taken in connection with the award of this contract.

Respectfully submitted,

E. J. ANDERSON,
Comptroller.

Resolved, That the Attorney-General be and he hereby is requested to furnish this House with his opinion, in writing, upon the following points:

1. Has the State of New Jersey a title as trustee of the public and for the common use and benefit, or otherwise, in and to the waters in lakes, ponds, streams and fresh-water rivers within its boundaries, which are necessary or useful for purposes of public water-supply, or for the promotion of the public health, or which may become so?

2. Has the State, by virtue of such trusteeship, or otherwise, the right to regulate and control such waters, and appropriate them to common use for the purposes of public water-supply, and to that end authorize or cause such waters to be permanently diverted from their natural channels?

3. Does such right of appropriation and diversion exist as a private right and as an appurtenance to the ownership of the soil?

4. Is running water property which can be the subject of sale?

6. Has the State made a grant of water in the charter of the Morris Canal and Banking Company, or its amendments, and, if so, under what limitations?

7. Are grants of water made by the State to private parties, without compensation, revocable by the State to meet a public necessity for purposes of water-supply to the population of cities and towns, and purposes connected with the public health?

8. Does an act of the Legislature, approved March 28th, 1888 (Chapter CCVII., Laws of 1888), authorizing the sale by a canal company of its real and personal estate, waters and rights, confer upon the Morris Canal and Banking Company the power to sell and give title to any of the waters of this State, as if such waters were its property; if it does not, does it confer upon it the power of sale and disposal of such waters if the title thereto is in the State?

9. Can the waters of this State, without express authority from the Legislature, be diverted and conveyed beyond the boundaries of this State, for sale or otherwise?

10. Can the Legislature authorize the permanent diversion of its potable waters from their natural course to places beyond its own boundaries, without exceeding its constitutional powers?

11. Can the Legislature, by law or contract, divest any subsequent Legislature of the power to legislate regarding the use and control (without exercising the right of taking the same by the exercise of the right of eminent domain) of any of the potable waters of the State flowing or being in its rivers, streams, lakes, ponds or water-courses, which such subsequent Legislature shall deem necessary for the use of the public for drinking or other purposes affecting the public neces-

Mr. Heppenheimer offered the following resolution, which was read and adopted:

The Speaker laid before the House the following communication:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
OFFICE OF ATTORNEY-GENERAL,
TRENTON, March 6th, 1889.

Hon. Robert S. Hudspeth, Speaker of the House:

MR. SPEAKER—I am in receipt of a resolution of the House of Assembly, requesting me to furnish an opinion on the following points, viz.:

"1. Has the State of New Jersey a title as trustee of the public and for the common use and benefit, or otherwise, in and to the waters in lakes, ponds, streams and fresh-water rivers within its boundaries, which are necessary or useful for purposes of public water-supply, or for the promotion of the public health, or which may become so?

"2. Has the State, by virtue of such trusteeship, or otherwise, the right to regulate and control such waters, and appropriate them to common use for the purposes of public water-supply, and to that end authorize or cause such waters to be permanently diverted from their natural channels?

"3. Does such right of appropriation and diversion exist as a private right and as an appurtenance to the ownership of the soil?

"4. Is running water property which can be the subject of sale?

"5. Has the State made a grant of water in the charter of the Society for Establishing Useful Manufactures, or the amendments thereto, and, if so, under what limitations?

"6. Has the State made a grant of water in the charter of the Morris Canal and Banking Company, or its amendments, and, if so, under what limitations?

"7. Are grants of water made by the State to private parties, without compensation, revocable by the State to meet a public necessity for purposes of water-supply to the population of cities and towns, and purposes connected with the public health?

"8. Does an act of the Legislature, approved March 28th, 1888, (Chapter CCVII., Laws of 1888,) authorizing the sale by a canal company of its real and personal estate, waters and rights, confer upon the Morris Canal and Banking Company the power to sell and give title to any of the waters of this State, as if such waters were its property; if it does not, does it confer upon it the power of sale and disposal of such waters if the title thereto is in the State?

"9. Can the waters of this State, without express authority from the Legislature, be diverted and conveyed beyond the boundaries of this State, for sale or otherwise?

"10. Can the Legislature authorize the permanent diversion of its potable waters from their natural course to places beyond its own boundaries, without exceeding its constitutional powers?

"11. Can the Legislature, by law or contract, divest any subsequent Legislature of the power to legislate regarding the use and control (without exercising the right of taking the same by the exercise of the right of eminent domain) of any of the potable waters of the State flowing or being in its rivers, streams, lakes, ponds or water-courses, which such subsequent Legislature shall deem necessary for the use of the public for drinking or other purposes affecting the public necessity and health? Does it make any difference in the right of the Legislature whether such waters are navigable or not?"

The resolutions are so broad in their terms that it is only from the preamble that I am able to judge what are the exact points on which the House desires an opinion. It would seem, from this preamble, that claims are made by individuals and corporations to rights of absolute ownership in the potable waters of certain lakes, rivers and streams in this State, and the parties claiming such ownership also claim in virtue thereof the right to divert such waters and dispose of them for their own profit, and for that purpose to convey and deliver such waters beyond the boundaries of this State for consumption, &c.

The answer to any of the questions must necessarily assume facts which are not submitted to me, and which would require time to ascertain, and it seems to me that it would be unwise for the Attorney-General to commit the State to an application of the principle of law to an uncertain state of facts in matters so momentous.

The decisions of our courts show that certain parties have acquired for specified purposes, rights and interests of a private nature in the use of waters within the territorial limits of the State. The extent of those rights and interests, so far as they affect private and individual claims as against one another are concerned, has been the subject of litigation, and the opinions of eminent judges have been given upon the question immediately involved in those cases; but I know of no case or opinion which would enable me to answer by authority the questions propounded.

The Commissioners of State Water Supply, appointed by the Governor, have from time to time, under the provisions of the law, consulted me in reference to dangers that were apprehended from schemes originating outside of our State, and I have examined with care the positions which I thought it best for the State to assume, but the solution of the problems involved depends upon questions of international law, the relation of the States to one another under our system, as well as the riparian rights in navigable streams, lakes, ponds and waters of a more private character.

The examination of these great questions in connection with an eminent jurist of our State, now deceased, satisfied us both that no safe application of the principles which should control the action of the State could be made abstractly, but that the rights of the State and its citizens would be best protected by an application of the principles of the law to each case as its facts were disclosed.

I am very respectfully your obedient servant,

JOHN P. STOCKTON.

Mr. Heppenheimer moved that the opinion of the Attorney-General be received and placed on file,

Which was agreed to.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
TRENTON, March 20th, 1889.

To the General Assembly:

I return to the House of Assembly, in which it originated, Assembly Bill No. 231, entitled "A Supplement to an act entitled 'An act relative to the jurisdiction and practice of district courts in this state,' approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two," with my objections thereto.

The bill provides that there shall be allowed to the constables for each day's attendance on the District Court, the sum of two dollars and fifty cents, to be paid by the Mayor or the Common Council of the city where said courts may be established, out of the treasury of said city.

The jurisdiction of the District Court is co-extensive with the county, and while it is true that by existing law the expenses of said court are chargeable to and paid by the city in which it may be located, there is no valid reason to my mind why such rule should have been established, and certainly none why additional expense should be imposed upon the city treasury. If the county has the benefit of the District Court, there is no reason why the county should not bear the expense attendant upon the administration of justice in such courts.

Very respectfully yours,
ROBT. S. GREEN,
Governor.

Assembly Bill No. 191, entitled "An Act concerning cities,"

To the Soldiers' and Sailors' Veteran League.:

Your committee, to whom was referred the matter of certain rumors pertaining to the welfare and interest of our comrades, who, from necessity, are compelled to seek a refuge in a home provided by the generosity of the people of this State, respectfully present the following report:

Your committee had no settled plan of action, but each member pursued his own method of gaining information, unaccompanied by either the Superintendent or any one in authority at the home.

We found the buildings and all the internal arrangements for the comfort and convenience of the inmates perfect, the food good and in abundance, clothing of good quality, and beds comfortable and clean. We talked with those who had been inmates of the home from one to eleven years, some of whom had spent some time in one or more of the national homes, and whom we deemed fully competent to speak intelligently of the management of this home. These comrades and inmates cheerfully expressed their views and opinions of its management; all were indignant, and some very forcibly expressed their feelings of the condemnation of the course of those whom they hold responsible for the unjust accusation against Superintendent Major

Rodgers. He is held in high esteem as a Superintendent for his humanity, honesty and devotion to duty. Your committee was surprised at the expressions of confidence and affection for one whose duties and responsibilities are so trying. There was not one word of complaint of his management. The opinion of one of the inmates well illustrates the prevailing sentiment at the home. When asked what he thought of the management, he said: "There is nothing lacking to make us comfortable. We have kind treatment, liberty to go and come, and what more could we desire?"

The most serious complaint your committee heard, and one seemingly well founded, was that there is a great necessity for a resident physician. The increasing number of inmates and their continued weakening physical condition calls loudly for an increase in the medical staff. The distance from the city of Newark makes it difficult for the physician to respond as promptly as might be desired in cases of sudden illness, although he visits the home daily. It was observable that many of these unfortunate comrades are physical wrecks, whose nervous systems are shattered, and give evidence of mental weakness.

The inmates, in general, freely expressed their views relative to the Superintendent being insubordinate to the physician, who is now by law commandant. They think the Superintendent should have full control of the management of the home. They believe that the physician's duties should be confined to the care of the sick alone.

Mr. McDermit presented to the House the following memorial, which was received:

To the Honorable, the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

The undersigned, your memorialists, respectfully represent that they have been forced to leave their house and home in Bergen county, New Jersey, in 1884, through the lawless acts of certain parties, forming a conspiracy, flooding our lands and making it unsafe for us to live there; that before that time and since, we have tried to be protected through the courts, but conspiracy and perjury have so far succeeded in defeating the laws of New Jersey, and deprive us of our home, for which we have paid our taxes to date.

During all this time, and while half of our family were sick with malaria, we were waiting for the authorities of the State to abate the nuisance, so that we might return to our home, but nothing was done.

The prayers of a dozen honest and hard-working families were pigeon-holed, while all were forced to contribute their share of taxes to carry on the government.

When honest people go to law they want their grievances adjusted as soon as possible, while dishonest people, through all sorts of tricks, try to delay legal action, with the view of defeating justice. For twelve long years we have been waiting for that protection due to all citizens of these United States, and for twelve long years we have seen corruption defeat justice. Is it not time that this honorable body look into this matter and see that the State Board of Health and other officers do their duty, and see that all citizens and taxpayers are protected in their rights without spending their whole lifetime in the courts of law? And to that end your memorialists will ever pray, &c.

LOUIS KOCH and family.

A message was received from the Governor, by the hands of his Private Secretary, as follows:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
TRENTON, March 25th, 1889.

To the General Assembly:

I return herewith to the General Assembly, in which it originated, Assembly No. 119, entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act for the relief of such portion of the militia of this state as may be called into service,'" approved May eleventh, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, and supplement thereto, approved May eleventh, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, and supplement.

This bill, by its title, purports to be a supplement to the act of May 11th, 1861, and also to the act of March 31st, 1865. The body of the bill simply provides that certain persons shall be entitled to all the benefits of the first-mentioned act, but nowhere makes any reference whatever to the other act included in the title. The bill provides that certain persons shall be entitled to all the benefits of the act of May 11th, 1861, without specifying in any particular what benefits are conferred by that act, under what conditions they are to be enjoyed or for what length of time they are to be received. Read by itself, the bill is as unintelligible as if it were written in an unknown language. It cannot be comprehended except by turning to the act of 1861 and acertaining what were the provisions of that statute. No member of the Legislature, when called upon to vote upon it, could, from its contents alone, ascertain what interests of the State were affected or what privileges or benefits it proposed to confer. It was just this kind of legislation which was sought to be reached by the amendment to the Constitution. The evil was that bills were drawn referring to other legislation and making the provisions thereof apply to the act under consideration. In order to meet and correct this, the amendment to the Constitution was adopted. The bill in question is in direct, open, palpable disregard of the last paragraph of Clause 4, Section 7, Article III., of the Constitution, which provides "That no act shall be passed which shall provide that any existing law, or any part thereof, shall be made or deemed a part of the act, or which shall enact that any existing law, or any part thereof, shall be applicable, except by inserting it in such act."

Respectfully,

ROBT. S. GREEN,

Governor.

A message was received from the Governor, by the hands of his Private Secretary, as follows:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
TRENTON, April 2d, 1889.

To the General Assembly:

I return herewith to the House of Assembly, in which it originated, Assembly Bill No. 249, entitled "An Act for the relief of Isaac N. Thompson," with my objections thereto. This bill proposes to restore Isaac N. Thompson, of Newton, in the county of Sussex, to citizenship. It does not disclose the crime of which the beneficiary was convicted, nor what his present position is. The bill belongs to a class of legislation which is not to be encouraged. The Court of Pardons is vested with the power to restore any person who has been convicted of a crime which destroys his citizenship, to all of his former political rights. The court can and does give such cases not only consideration, but examines into the facts connected with the crime, and the condition of the person convicted, and if the case presented is one which, in the opinion of the court, calls for restoration, the same is granted. The record of the State Prison shows that Isaac N. Thompson was convicted in the county of Sussex of the crime of forgery, and sentenced on April 19th, 1886, for a term of three years, which, by commutation, was reduced so that he was discharged from State Prison in September, 1888. There is nothing that has been presented to me which justifies the interference of the Legislature to restore him to citizenship, and as before stated, if there are any facts which would lead to this conclusion, he can apply to the Court of Pardons for relief of that character, and it can be obtained.

Respectfully,

ROBT. S. GREEN,

Governor.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Meseroll, of Trenton.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Mr. Heppenheimer, Chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary, submitted the following report:

The Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the message of the Governor relating to the public printing and the communication of the Comptroller upon the same subject, respectfully report:

That the bids for doing the current printing of the Legislature at this session were presented in pursuance of advertisements by the Comptroller, and were opened by him (the Governor being absent) in the Comptroller's office, and read in the presence of the competitors, or their representatives, as required by law. There were but two proposals, one from MacCrellish & Quigley and the other from The John L. Murphy Publishing Company, both of Trenton. They were referred to Charles Bechtel, as an expert, for the purpose of ascertaining which of the two parties was the lower bidder. He gave his certificate, after examination, that The John L. Murphy Publishing Company was the lower bidder. Thereupon the Comptroller indorsed the certificate of Mr. Bechtel, that the contract for the public printing for 1889 is awarded to The John L. Murphy Publishing Company when the Governor has approved this action, and on that being sent to the Governor, he indorsed the certificate "approved." When the contract was prepared, on its being examined by the Governor, he discovered a great discrepancy between the prices for the work and the materials with similar items in former years. So great was this discrepancy that the Governor refused to sign the contract, and referred the matter to the House. An examination of the prices contained in the contracts since 1884, fully justifies the position taken by the Governor with reference to the matter. Your committee append to this their report a detailed statement of the prices which have been charged from the year 1884 down to the present time for similar work.

Formerly this work was done under contracts, made each year by the several Legislatures after negotiations with gentlemen in the business. This course was open to serious criticism in consequence of the high prices which it was alleged were paid by the Legislature, and it was in the hope of securing better terms for the current printing and for furnishing stationery necessary for the Legislature that the law was passed requiring such work to be let out under contract, after proposals had been advertised for. The law, when it first went into operation, had the effect which was expected of it, and the work was done at very much lower rates. Such has been the working of the law every year until last winter. In response to the advertisement to do the printing for the present session of the Legislature, for some unexplained reason, but two bids were presented, the lower one of which is an increase in every item of from 100 to 500 per cent. With reference to a great deal of the work which the proposals called for, it is reported that most of it was done before the opening of the session. The bulk of the expenses for printing is comprised in the items for paper and composition for the bills and weekly minutes. The bid for composition is 60 cents per thousand ems, and for paper, $6 for fifty pounds. First-class sized, calendered paper can be bought, as your committee is informed, even in small lots and without special bargain, at 8½ cents per pound, or $4.25 for fifty pounds, and in the bid it is charged for at the rate of $6 per fifty pounds, or 12 cents per pound. Under the old law, the printer was required to put in the paper at the lowest wholesale market price. It will be seen that this bid charges nearly fifty per cent. profit on the paper. Bids for the same paper were put in in 1885, at 7.6 cents per pound; in 1886, at 7.5 cents per pound; in 1887, at 7.4 cents per pound, and in 1888, at 6.4 cents per pound. The price of composition in Trenton is 35 cents per thousand ems. This bid is for 60 cents, as against 25 cents in 1885, 23 cents in 1886, 25 cents in 1887, and 24 cents in 1888.

The Comptroller, in his report, refers to the phraseology of the law, that the contract is to be awarded on the terms most advantageous to the State, presented by the bids which are put in, and in doing so calls attention to a defect in the law which does not authorize, in terms, to reject any or all bids.

Your committee herewith report, and would recommend the passage of a supplement to the act requiring an advertisement for bids in October, with the power either to the Governor or Comptroller to reject any and all bids when they are of opinion that the best interests of the State demand it, and for another advertisement, or re-advertisement, as the exigencies of the case may require, and if no bid which shall be deemed reasonable and fair is received, that the matter shall be reported by the Governor to the Legislature at the opening of the session.

A message was received from the Governor, by the hands of Mr. Trimmer, of Hunterdon county, as follows:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
TRENTON, April 9th, 1889.

To the General Assembly:

I return to the House, in which it originated, Assembly Bill No. 228, entitled "A Supplement to an act entitled 'An act for preventing the injury of illegal confinement, and better securing the liberty of the people'" [Revision], approved March 27th, 1874, with my objections thereto.

This bill makes it obligatory upon any court or judge having cognizance of a writ of habeas corpus, upon the return of the writ to forthwith discharge the person in custody if, on an examination of all the preliminary proceedings, it appears that any error was committed, prejudicial to the party named in the writ, in any of the proceedings upon which the commitment is founded.

By the operation of this provision, if it should become a law, if any error whatever was discovered in any of the proceedings which might not have controlled the decision resulting in the commitment, yet was in any degree prejudicial, the party would be entitled to his discharge.

This is certainly too broad. If the error should be a material one which controlled the whole of the proceedings, to the prejudice of the defendant, it might be proper enough to discharge him in consequence thereof, but to discharge a prisoner simply because a single error may be discovered somewhere in the preliminary proceedings, is opening the door wide to the release of criminals.

Respectfully,

ROBT. S. GREEN,

Governor.

Mr. Marsh, from the Special Committee of Investigation, appointed in regard to Senate Bill No. 185, entitled "An Act concerning railroad corporations,"

Submitted the following report:

To His Excellency, Robert S. Green, Governor of the State of New Jersey:

The committee of three members of the House of Assembly appointed by the Speaker "to investigate and report to the Governor all of the facts touching the alleged passage in this House of Senate 185," would respectfully report as follows:

Your committee met and gave a public hearing to such persons as desired to appear before them; statements were made by many members of the House as to their recollection of the circumstances attending the passage of the bill in question.

It appears from the minutes of the House, as kept by the Clerk, that the bill in question was received by the House on the 19th day of March, and referred to the Committee on Railroads and Canals, by whom it was reported March 25th, with amendments. These amendments were read on March 27th, adopted and ordered engrossed, and the bill directed to be placed upon the calendar, and to have a third reading. On the 2d day of April the bill, with the amendments, was reported engrossed; on the next day the bill was advanced on the calendar, and taken up for action on April 3d. The announcement was made by the Speaker that the bill was under consideration and that the amendments by the House should be read; this was in accordance with the practice of the Speaker during the session, with reference to all House amendments to Senate bills. After the amendments had been read by the Clerk, it appears from statements made to the committee, that a motion was made, which others stated they did not hear, that the title of the bill should be taken for its third reading. The title to the bill was read, and the roll called with the result as mentioned in the minutes of the House; and thereupon the Speaker announced that the bill had passed, and the Clerk was directed to carry it to the Senate, with the information that the House had passed the same with amendments.

From statements made by many of the members we are led to infer that some of the votes recorded in favor of the passage of the bill were cast under a misapprehension as to the matter before the House for its consideration, while others were cast with a full understanding that the bill was upon third reading.

It is safe to conclude that many members honestly supposed that they were voting on the amendments, and not on the final passage of the bill as amended. Strictly speaking, it may be concluded that the bill was passed, but in the manner and under the misapprehension above mentioned.

Respectfully submitted,

FREDERICK C. MARSH,
JOHN M. VOORHEES,
JACOB KLOTZ.

FEDERATION OF TRADES AND LABOR UNIONS OF THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY.
April 15th, 1889.

To the House of Assembly:

The undersigned, by direction of 60,000 organized workingmen, petitioners, and in behalf of all the wage-workers of New Jersey, most respectfully and earnestly requests you to consider and pass Senate Bill No. 37, known as the Unlawful Pledge act. This bill has been for weeks in the Committee on Municipal Corporations, although its passage is prayed for by the workingmen of New Jersey. It passed the Senate almost unanimously, and we now ask you to take it up and pass it into law. Any attempt to delay or amend at this time will simply kill it.

I am also directed to urge the immediate consideration and passage of House Bill No. 455, substitute for House Bill No. 48. This is the engineers' examination bill, which has been amended to suit the objections of many members of the House. If its passage is delayed longer it cannot become law, as there will be no time to consider it in the Senate. The fate of those two bills is left in your hands. In the interest of your constituents—the masses—I ask you to pass them.

Respectfully submitted on behalf of New Jersey's workingmen.

J. P. McDONNELL,
Chairman.

Senate Bill No. 252, entitled "An Act to authorize cities in this state to issue bonds to secure a new water-supply, and to refund bonds heretofore issued in certain cases,"

Was recommitted to the Committee on the Judiciary, with instructions to report the same this afternoon.

A message was received from the Governor, by the hands of his Private Secretary, as follows:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
TRENTON, April 15th, 1889.

To the General Assembly:

I return herewith to the House, in which it originated, Assembly Bill No. 412, entitled "A Supplement to an act entitled 'An act to provide for the purchase of sites for the erection and equipment of armories in cities of the first and second class, and making appropriations therefor, and to provide for the taking of real estate for such sites by commission, in case the same cannot be purchased by agreement,' approved April twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight," with my objections thereto.

This bill proposes to relieve counties from the operation of the armories law of 1888, unless in the city in which a site is selected there are more than two companies of infantry attached to the regiment or battalion for which the armory is to be erected.

It makes no provision whatever for the protection of outstanding contracts, but wipes out obligations with the stroke of a pen. The act of 1888 created a State Board of Commissioners, endowed them with so much of the sovereignty of the State as pertains to the exercise of the right of eminent domain; empowered them to select sites for armories, and to purchase the land in the name of the State, agreeing with the owner on the price, if possible, and if not, to take proceedings in condemnation.

When the property of the citizen has been secured to the public use, either by the agreement as to the price, or the fixing of the value thereof on proceedings in condemnation, the act of 1888 provides that on notice given to the County Collector of the purchase or condemnation, the Freeholders shall proceed to furnish the money therefor. No county liability is created until after the property of the citizen has been appropriated and he is bound by his contract, or by the State's strong arm in exercise of its right of eminent domain. There is no escape for the citizen. Can the State say to him "while you are held the State is not?" It is true, a contract cannot be enforced against a State by the ordinary proceedings in the courts, but there is a law of laws which holds sovereignty to its obligations and to equal and exact justice to its citizens. While it might be competent for the State to substitute some municipality to pay the purchase-money other than the county, it certainly cannot say to the citizen whose property is virtually taken, that it will annul all provisions for its payment.

The Constitution of New Jersey is singular in the provision that no law shall be passed which takes away a remedy. In the case supposed, with all the incidents of a contract, binding the individual, if the county should refuse to pay, a remedy by a mandamus exists. This the present bill takes away without making any provision for another.

There is a case now pending the facts of which accord with those suggested, and as this bill may be retroactive as well as prospective in its operation, I cannot approve it.

Respectfully,
ROBT. S. GREEN,
Governor.

Mr. Voorhees, of the Special Joint Committee on Extension of Shore Front in New York Bay, appointed at the last session, presented the following report:

To the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

Near the close of the session of the Legislature of 1888, the following concurrent resolution was passed by both Houses:

"WHEREAS, It has been represented to this Legislature by the riparian owners and owners of land who have acquired title by grant or lease from this State, to certain lands under water in New York Bay, lying between the southerly bulkhead of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, in Jersey City, and Constable's Point, in the city of Bayonne, that the proper accommodation and advancement of commercial interest in this locality require an extension of the present exterior lines for solid filling, and for piers further out into the deep water of said bay; and whereas, the State of New Jersey is also largely interested in the lands under water in said bay, which have not yet been granted or leased; therefore, be it

"Resolved (the Senate concurring), That a joint committee of three members of the Senate and three members of the House of Assembly be appointed, the members of the committee from the Senate by the President of the Senate, and the members from the House of Assembly by the Speaker thereof, to confer and consult with the Board of Riparian Commissioners as to the advisability and necessity of a further extension of the solid filling and pier lines of riparian owners, in the Bay of New York, and of some general and uniform plan or system of reclaiming the lands lying under the water of New York Bay, and of improving the same by the construction of basins, piers, wharves or other structures, for the accommodation and advancement of commercial interests, not interfering with the general navigation interests of the harbor of New York, and said committee are hereby authorized to hold sittings and pursue their investigations after the present session, and in connection with said Riparian Commission, shall make report to the next session of the Legislature, in January, 1889, of the result of their inquiries and investigations in the premises, and their recommendation in reference thereto, and such report shall be accompanied by maps and surveys showing the proposed improvement; and that said committee be authorized to employ such clerical aid as may be reasonably necessary to properly facilitate such inquiries as are authorized by this resolution."

Under authority of this resolution the President of the Senate appointed Senators Cranmer, of Ocean, Gardner, of Atlantic, and Edwards, of Hudson, on behalf of the Senate, and the Speaker of the House appointed Messrs. Voorhees, of Union, Hill, of Essex, and Feeney, of Hudson, on behalf of the House of Assembly.

In June, 1888, your joint committee met at the office of the Riparian Commission in Jersey City, and organized by electing Edwards, of Hudson, as Chairman, and W. Scott Snyder as Clerk. In order to expedite the business of the committee, Alexander T. McLean was engaged as stenographer.

Notices were sent out of the various meetings to all the known shore-owners in the Bay of New York, and other persons supposed to be interested in the work of the committee. Many persons were heard and considerable testimony was taken at the various meetings of the committee, all of which were held in conjunction with and upon notice of the Riparian Commission and their engineer, Mr. Bacot.

A part of the testimony so taken is hereto annexed and made a part of this report. Your committee find and report as follows:

On the westerly side of the twenty-foot channel in New York Bay, there is a shallow expanse of water in the bay extending from the present ferries of the Central Railroad at Communipaw to Constable's Hook, containing about five thousand acres of land; the average depth of the water at low water is only about five feet; the general character of the bottom is muddy and soft. This shoal extends from the upland of Communipaw, Cavan Point and Greenville, in Jersey City, and from Bayonne, for a distance of over two miles, without material change of depth, until it suddenly strikes the edge of the deep water or channel of the bay at what is known as the twenty-foot curve. The State has, by its Riparian Commission, changed the exterior lines for solid filling and piers from time to time in this part of the bay, and the same are now located about feet from the shore and about feet inside of deep water at the twenty-foot curve. The State has, by legislative grants, or through the Riparian Commission, made grants or leases of its interest in nearly all the lands under water out to the present exterior lines for solid filling and piers.

All the grants heretofore made by the Commission have contained a covenant on the part of the State against the sale of lands under water, outside of the exterior lines, as fixed at the date of the grant.

One of the questions to be considered in the improvement of the harbor of New York is the effect such improvement will have upon the depth of water over the bar on the main ship channel at Sandy Hook. This channel is secured not so much by the water flowing down the Hudson river as by the daily wash of the tide, rushing up at high tide over the bay, river and flats, and receding at low tide. The volume of water thus scouring the channel depends entirely upon the surface or area overflowed in the inner harbor and river, and not upon the depth of the water therein, inasmuch as only the water which fills the space between mean high and mean low water ebbs and flows with the tides.

So jealously does the Federal Government watch all encroachments upon this tidal area, that in the River and Harbor Bill of 1888 special powers to prevent encroachment were vested in the Secretary of War, who has appointed a special commission to consider the question for the harbor of New York. That commission is now sitting.

This tidal area, however, is very extensive, as it runs up the Hudson river for many miles, and includes the wide expanse of the Zuyder Zee, as well as Newark bay, with its affluents. The amount of such area embraced within the limits of the Jersey flats, now under consideration, is therefore so small in proportion to the whole that its total absorption and filling in would not affect, materially, the scouring of the channel at Sandy Hook. Moreover, the State of New York has already reclaimed, at several points, a large area. A glance at a map of the vicinity of the Bay of New York will show that the commerce of the port should find its natural depot on the west bank of the bay, at the termini of the great railroad systems in Hudson county. Here should be located the great warehouses of the country. Yet, by reason of the lack of facilities on the New Jersey shore for the berthing of the merchant marine, the great bulk of the warehouses are located in New York and Brooklyn, on deep water.

Under grants already made, very large improvements have been projected and partially consummated on these Jersey flats. The National Storage Company has reclaimed and filled in a large area known as "Black Tom," which it has connected with the main land by a trestle, sustaining a number of railroad tracks, and from which it has excavated a ship channel through the flats beyond the exterior line for solid filling to deep water. This company has also erected very extensive warehouses upon its property. This has all been done at enormous expense.

All other attempts to improve the Jersey flats have hitherto been unsuccessful from a commercial point of view, on account of the enormous outlay of money required for filling in, the distance of the present line for solid filling from deep water, and the difficulties attendant upon the excavation and maintenance of proper channels through the flats of deep water. It would seem as if, ultimately, these flats would be entirely excavated and converted into wet basins for the accommodation of the commerce of the western world, after the plan of the Mersey docks, at Liverpool.

Your committee are of opinion that it would not be wise at this time, in view of the great value of these lands under water, the great changes in ownership recently made, and the ever-changing demands of commerce, to recommend any inflexible plan for the improvement of these flats; that the power should be given to the Riparian Commission to extend the line for solid filling beyond its present limits, and also to extend the exterior line for piers to a point approaching the twenty-foot curve in New York bay, upon such conditions, including the character of the improvements and the use thereof, as said Commission may deem fit to impose.

Your committee have not considered the question as to whether additional compensation should be paid to the State as one of the conditions precedent to such extension.

As to the title raised by Prof. George H. Cook to Oyster Island and the lands under water adjacent thereto, your committee make no report, as the same are not within the scope of the concurrent resolution appointing them, and involve possible legal complications belonging exclusively to the courts.

Your committee desire to officially record the courtesy and assistance extended to them in their investigation by the Riparian Commissioners and their Chief Engineer, Robert C. Bacot, Esq.

Your committee herewith present to the Legislature a short bill, embodying their views as to necessary legislation at this time.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM D. EDWARDS,
GEORGE T. CRANMER,
J. J. GARDNER,
On behalf of the Senate.

JOHN R. FEENEY,
FOSTER M. VOORHEES,

(By Mr. Smith), that the privilege of the floor be extended to the Grand Army Encampment, Department of New Jersey, now in session in this city—213.

(By Mr. Voorhees), (the senate concurring), that there be appointed a committee of five, consisting of three members of the house of assembly, to be chosen by the speaker, and two members of the senate, to consider the matter of taxation of property other than railroad and canal property, and to prepare and report to the next legislature a bill for that purpose; and that such committee have power to sit during vacation, and to employ necessary counsel and clerical assistance—254.

(By Mr. Heppenheimer), whereas, claims are made by individuals and corporations to rights of absolute ownership in the potable waters of certain lakes, rivers and streams in this state; and the parties claiming such ownership also claim in virtue thereof the right to divert such waters and dispose of them for their own profit, and, for that purpose, to convey and deliver such waters beyond the boundaries of this state, for consumption in another state; said parties derogating and denying the right of the state of New Jersey to interfere with the use or disposition to be made of such waters, except by the exercise of its power of eminent domain, to extinguish the title of the owners of the soil forming the bed of such lakes, rivers and streams, and to condemn certain franchises and public grants claimed by said parties; therefore, be it resolved, that the attorney-general be and he hereby is requested to furnish this house with his opinion, in writing, upon the following points:

1. Has the state of New Jersey a title as trustee of the public and for the common use and benefit, or otherwise, in and to the waters in lakes, ponds, streams and fresh-water rivers within its boundaries, which are necessary or useful for purposes of public water-supply, or for the promotion of the public health, or which may become so?

2. Has the state, by virtue of such trusteeship, or otherwise, the right to regulate and control such waters, and appropriate them to common use for the purposes of public water-supply, and to that end authorize or cause such waters to be permanently diverted from their natural channels?

3. Does such right of appropriation and diversion exist as a private right and as an appurtenance to the ownership of the soil?

4. Is running water property which can be the subject of sale?

5. Has the state made a grant of water in the charter of the Society for Establishing Useful Manufactures, or the amendments thereto, and, if so, under what limitations?

6. Has the state made a grant of water in the charter of the Morris Canal and Banking Company, or its amendments, and, if so, under what limitations?

7. Are grants of water made by the state to private parties, without compensation, revocable by the state to meet a public necessity for purposes of water-supply to the population of cities and towns, and purposes connected with the public health?

8. Does an act of the legislature, approved March twenty-eighth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight (Chapter CCVII., Laws of 1888), authorizing the sale by a canal company of its real and personal estate, waters and rights, confer upon the Morris Canal and Banking Company the power to sell and give title to any of the waters of this state, as if such waters were its property; if it does not, does it confer upon it the power of sale and disposal of such waters if the title thereto is in the state?

9. Can the waters of this state, without express authority from the legislature, be diverted and conveyed beyond the boundaries of this state, for sale or otherwise?

10. Can the legislature authorize the permanent diversion of its potable waters from their natural course to places beyond its own boundaries, without exceeding its constitutional powers?

11. Can the legislature, by law or contract, divest any subsequent legislature of the power to legislate regarding the use and control (without exercising the right of taking the same by the exercise of the right of eminent domain) of any of the potable waters of the state flowing or being in its rivers, streams, lakes, ponds or water-courses, which such subsequent legislature shall deem necessary for the use of the public for drinking or other purposes affecting the public necessity and health? Does it make any difference in the right of the legislature whether such waters are navigable or not—254, 255, 256.
