SYNOPSIS

The City of North Wildwood (North Wildwood) filed a petition in June 2014 seeking removal of pre-kindergarten and kindergarten school programs run by the Wildwood Board of Education (Wildwood BOE) within the jurisdictional limits of the City of North Wildwood, claiming that Wildwood BOE lacks authority to engage in such action outside of its own district boundaries. Wildwood BOE has leased space for early childhood school programs from St. Simeon's Episcopal Church – which is located one block from the Wildwood city line, within the municipal limits of North Wildwood – for about thirteen years. Petitioner pursued its case against Wildwood BOE for more than a year before submitting a letter in July 2015 requesting to withdraw the petition, stating that it intended to seek the same relief in Superior Court. Wildwood BOE subsequently filed a motion seeking to have the case dismissed with prejudice. On August 21, 2015, North Wildwood filed a complaint against Wildwood BOE in Superior Court; the petitioner seeks the same or similar relief that it sought in the appeal it had just withdrawn from the Commissioner and Office of Administrative Law (OAL).

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: this matter is governed by N.J.A.C. 1.1-19.2, which is silent on whether a voluntary withdrawal is with or without prejudice; the parallel Superior Court rule directs that an action may be dismissed by the plaintiff "without court order by filing a notice of dismissal at any time before service by the adverse party of an answer or of a motion for summary judgment"; pursuant to Shulas v. Estabrook, 385 N.J. Super. 91, 97 (App. Div. 2006), the determination of whether to dismiss with or without prejudice, as well as whether to impose terms that are fair under the circumstances, lies within the court's discretion; in the instant case, Wildwood BOE went through the expense of hiring counsel, filing responsive pleadings, holding public hearings, participating in settlement conferences, and submitting a motion for summary decision, only to have North Wildwood abruptly withdraw the matter one day before oral argument involving dispositive motions was to begin; such withdrawal and re-filing with the Superior Court under the Declaratory Judgment Act, N.J.S.A. 2A:16-50 et seq., was strategic, tactical in nature, and jurisdictionally improper; the Commissioner of Education has primary jurisdiction over education matters. The ALJ granted Wildwood BOE's motion to dismiss the petition with prejudice. In so doing, he emphasized that, while North Wildwood's remedies now rest exclusively with the Superior Court, the fact that the matter has been dismissed "with prejudice" at the administrative level is not intended to create or manufacture a basis for the Superior Court to assert jurisdiction over matters it would ordinarily not take.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter, but declined to make any finding as to the merits of the petitioner's pending Superior Court action. The Commissioner stated that petitioner can elect to pursue its claim elsewhere, but may not leave the door open to duplicative future litigation before the Commissioner. Accordingly, the petition was dismissed with prejudice.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record in this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), petitioner's exceptions, and respondent's reply thereto – filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – have been reviewed. Upon full consideration of the record and the parties' submissions, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the instant petition is appropriately dismissed with prejudice.

Petitioner's exceptions, which substantially reiterate the arguments it presented to the ALJ, are unpersuasive. Although petitioner faults the ALJ for failing to discuss the unpublished decisions it cited, those decisions are neither controlling nor precedential – and contain facts and circumstances which are wholly distinguishable from the present matter.[1] The Commissioner finds that the ALJ applied the relevant law to the facts and circumstances of this case – as discussed within his comprehensive Initial [1] D&P Liquor Corp. v. Hillside Twp. Alcohol Beverage Control Bd., OAL Dkt. No. ABC 17603-13, Initial Decision (August 21, 2014) (withdrawal without prejudice following commencement of OAL hearing after testimony from petitioner's expert witness was excluded due to petitioner's failure to serve expert report upon respondent); J.G. o/b/o J.G. v. Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. No. EDS 9178-03, Initial Decision (February 26, 2004) (petitioning parent in special education case permitted to withdraw request contesting child's change in placement without prejudice); *DeBose v. Decision – and that the ALJ's determination to dismiss the petition with prejudice was not an abuse of discretion.

In short, this matter proceeded for over a year – with its merits having been fully briefed in connection with the parties' respective motions for summary decision. The day before oral argument was to occur on those dispositive motions, petitioner requested withdrawal of its petition and expressed intent to pursue its claim for relief in Superior Court. In addition to the preparation of its motion for summary decision and supporting brief, respondent spent time and money preparing answers to petitioner's discovery requests, participating in settlement conferences, and telephone pre-hearing conferences with the ALJ. Based upon the present record, it cannot be disputed that this case was nearing its conclusion; therefore, the Commissioner disagrees with petitioner's contention that this matter was somehow in its early stages, and that a withdrawal without prejudice is appropriate.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter – for the reasons stated therein – with one caveat: the Commissioner makes no findings as to the merits of petitioner's pending Superior Court action. Certainly, the petitioner can elect to pursue its claim elsewhere at this juncture – but not while leaving the door open to duplicative future litigation before the Commissioner. Given this late stage, and the well-documented efforts already expended by respondent to defend against and resolve this action, petitioner should be precluded from returning to the Commissioner with the same claim. Consequently, respondent's motion is granted and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed with prejudice.

STATEMENT OF THE FACTS AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Board of Education of the City of Wildwood (WBOE or respondent) provides pre-kindergarten and kindergarten (pre-k and k) educational services and programs at facilities located within the jurisdictional limits of North Wildwood under a lease arrangement with St. Simeon's Episcopalian Church (St. Simeon's building). The leased building is about one block inside the jurisdiction of North Wildwood or conversely one block from Wildwood. The pre-k and k services have been provided at the St. Simeons location for about thirteen years.

On June 6, 2014, North Wildwood filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking to remove the WBOE's pre-k and k school functions and programs from within North Wildwood claiming WBOE's lack authority to engage in such action outside its borders. On June 25, 2014, WBOE filed responsive pleadings to the petition.

On June 27, 2015, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A telephone prehearing conference was held on September 10, 2014. Thereafter a plenary hearing was scheduled for April 27, 2015. Several telephone and in person settlement conferences followed, to no avail. On January 12, 2015, substitute counsel entered the case for North Wildwood.

On March 11, 2015, counsel for the WBOE filed a motion of summary decision. On April 21, 2015, North Wildwood filed its opposition and a cross-motion for summary decision. Oral argument on the motions was scheduled for July 24, 2015.

Then, by letter dated July 23, 2015, North Wildwood abruptly withdrew its petition and indicated that it intended to seek the same form of relief in the Superior Court. On July 23, 2015, WBOE submitted a letter objecting the North Wildwood's withdrawal of the petition. Unfortunately, the matter was promptly returned to the Commissioner of Education by the undersigned, since the petition was withdrawn.

On July 29, 2015, WBOE filed a more formal motion with the undersigned seeking to have the case dismissed "with prejudice." The undersigned advised WBOE Counsel that the case was returned to the Commissioner so the motion would have to be filed with the Commissioner, and the Commissioner could either rule on the motion or return the matter to the OAL. On August 5, 2015, the Commissioner returned to the case to the OAL under Docket No. EDU 11718-15 with instructions to address WBOE's motion seeking to have case dismissed "with prejudice."

On August 21, 2015, North Wildwood filed a complaint against the WBOE in the Superior Court, Law Division, Cape May County under Docket No. CPM L-402-15 seeking the same or similar relief that it had just withdrawn from the Commissioner and the OAL.

On November 9, 2015, oral argument was held on the WBOE's motion for the petition to be marked dismissed "with prejudice." For the reasons explained below, WBOE's motion seeking to have the North Wildwood's petition dismissed "with prejudice" is GRANTED.

CONCLUSIONS

The withdrawal of an OAL matter is governed by N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2 which states:

> (a) A party may withdraw a request for a hearing or a defense raised by notifying the judge and all parties. Upon receipt of such notification, the judge shall discontinue all proceedings and return the case file to the Clerk. If the judge deems it advisable to state the circumstances of the withdrawal on the record, the judge may enter an initial decision memorializing the withdrawal and returning the matter to the transmitting agency for appropriate disposition.
> (b) When a party withdraws, the Clerk shall return the matter to the agency which transmitted the case to the Office of Administrative Law for appropriate disposition.
> (c) After the Clerk has returned the matter, a party shall address to the transmitting agency head any motion to reopen a withdrawn case.

The OAL rule is silent on whether a voluntary withdraw is with or without prejudice.

The parallel Superior Court rule is found at R. 4:37-1 and it states:

> (a) By Plaintiff; By Stipulation. Subject to the provisions of R. 4:32-2(e) (class actions), R. 4:53-1 (receivership actions) and R. 4:60-18 (attachment actions), an action may be dismissed by the plaintiff without court order by filing a notice of dismissal at any time before service by the adverse party of an answer or of a motion for summary judgment, whichever first occurs; or by filing a stipulation of dismissal specifying the claim or claims being dismissed, signed by all parties who have appeared in the action. Unless otherwise stated in the notice or stipulation, the dismissal is without prejudice.
> (b) By Order of Court. Except as provided by paragraph (a) hereof, an action shall be dismissed at the plaintiff's instance only by leave of court and upon such terms and conditions as the court deems appropriate. If a counterclaim has been filed and served by a defendant prior to being served with plaintiff's motion to dismiss, the action shall not be dismissed against the defendant's objection unless the counterclaim can remain pending for independent adjudication by the court. Unless otherwise specified in the order, a dismissal under this paragraph is without prejudice.

The scope and intent of the withdraw is rule explained in Shulas v. Estabrook, 385 N.J. Super. 91, 97 (App. Div. 2006), where the court explained:

> Whether to dismiss with or without prejudice, whether to impose terms, and the crafting of terms that are fair and just in the circumstances, are all matters that lie within the court's sound discretion. See Mack Auto Imports, Inc. v. Jaguar Cars, Inc., 244 N.J. Super. 254, 258, 581 A.2d 1372 (App. Div.1990). In exercising that discretion, the court is chiefly required to protect "the rights of the defendant." Burke v. Central R. Co., 42 N.J. Super. 387, 398, 126 A.2d 903 (App. Div.1956). As explained by Judge Matthews, Fed. R. Civ. P. 41(a)(2) --upon which R. 4:37-1(b) was patterned-- was adopted to protect defendants from the duplication of litigation costs:
> The evil aimed at by the rule "Is present in any instance in which a defendant is damaged by being dragged into court and put to expense with no chance whatever (if there is a > dismissal without prejudice) of having the suit determined in his favor." McCann v. Bentley Stores Corporation, 34 F. Supp. 234 (W.D. Mo.1940). The obvious purport of our rule is to protect a litigant where a termination of the proceedings without prejudice will place him in the probable position of having to defend, at additional expense, another action based upon similar charges at another time.

> [Union Carbide Corp. v. Litton Precision Products, Inc., 94 N.J. Super. 315, 317, 228 A.2d 99 (Ch. Div. 1967).]

The Court added in Shulas v. Estabrook, supra that:

> If there is a legitimate basis for granting a voluntary dismissal without prejudice, the trial judge should impose such terms as are appropriate. Those terms should at least encompass plaintiff's payment of the counsel fees incurred by defendants for services that will be duplicated should plaintiff be permitted to pursue the new complaint. In so holding, we do not mean to suggest that no other terms would be appropriate if the action takes this alternative course; a proper exercise of discretion requires that the judge balance the interests of the parties, but the judge must take particular care to protect defendants from the cost or other prejudice resulting from the duplication of their previously expended efforts.

The WBOE urges the undersigned to dismiss the petition filed by North Wildwood "with prejudice", because of its last minute withdrawal of the matter on the eve of oral argument involving dispositive motions. WBOE went through the expense of hiring counsel, filing responsive pleadings, holding public hearings, participating in settlement conferences and most significantly, submitting a motion for summary decision.

The City of North Wildwood relies upon Aldrich v. Manpower Temporary Services, 277 N. J. Super. 500 (App. Div. 1994), cert. denied 139 N.J. 442. In Aldrich petitioner filed an administrative civil rights action with the New Jersey Division of Civil Rights. Thereafter the administrative complaint was withdrawn prior to the prehearing conference, and it was re-filed in the Superior Court asserting the same or similar claims pursuant to the Law Against Discrimination. Both actions arose under N.J.S.A. 10:5-13, therefore the Superior Court and Division of Civil Rights had concurrent subject matter or primary jurisdiction by statue.

The present matter is distinquisable from Aldrich. Here, the WBOE filed an answer; participated in a prehearing conference that was held on September 10, 2014; a plenary hearing was scheduled for April 27, 2015; several telephone and in person settlement conferences followed; WBOE filed a motion of summary decision on March 11, 2015; North Wildwood filed its opposition and a cross-motion for summary decision on April 21, 2015; and finally oral argument on the dispositive motions was scheduled for July 24, 2015.

It was only after the extensive case analysis, workup and motion practice that North Wildwood abruptly withdrew its petition on July 23, 2015, one day before oral argument, cognizant that the case was close to being decided with finality. And North Wildwood used a statute that is more procedural in nature and re-filed it claims with the Superior Court under the Declaratory Judgment Act N.J.S.A. 2A:16-50 et seq. Nonetheless the majority rights and obligations still must be decided under education law (title 18A and administrative code 6A). The Declaratory Judgement Act contains no substantive law on the subject at hand but merely paves a unique procedural path into the Superior Court. A Superior Court Judge would have to resort to Title 18A or Administrative Code 6A to decide the case.

The Administrative Procedure Act found at N.J.S.A. 52:14B-8 permits the filing of declaratory rulings before state agencies. The statute states:

> [An] agency upon the request of any interested person may in its discretion make a declaratory ruling with respect to the applicability to any person, property or state of facts of any statute or rule enforced or administered by that agency. A declaratory ruling shall bind the agency and all parties to > the proceedings on the state of facts alleged. Full opportunity for hearing shall be afforded to the interested parties. Such ruling shall be deemed a final decision or action subject to review in the Appellate Division of the Superior Court.

In Board of Education v. Asbury Park Education Asso., 145 N.J. Super. 495 (Ch. Div. 1976) modified at 155 N.J. Super. 76 (App. Div. 1977) a suit was commenced in the Superior Court by way of an order to show cause with request for temporary restraints. The filing raised two issues – 1) whether teachers could properly withhold the performance of "extracurricular" activities while continuing to perform what they contend to be their sole educational responsibility, - and 2) whether the withholding of "extracurricular" activities constitutes an illegal strike. A jurisdictional question arose as to whether the Superior Court; Chancery Division could be divested of its inherent jurisdiction to enjoin such activity by virtue of the Public Employer-Employee Relations Act, N.J.S.A. 34:13A-1 et seq. The Chancery Division ultimately denied the request for restraints. On appeal the Appellate Division modified the Chancery Division's ruling and stated:

> We sustain the trial court's denial of declaratory judgment, not for the reasons given, but because the judge should not have undertaken to decide the underlying issue in this action. Although the original dispute was cognizable in the Superior Court, the question of extracurricular duties lay within the special competence of the Public Employees Relations Commission (PERC). N.J.S.A. 34:13A-5.2, 5.4(d). Its expertise was available, and under the doctrine of primary jurisdiction, which is concerned with "promoting the proper relationship between the courts and administrative agencies charged with particular regulatory duties," this important issue should have been transferred to that administrative body. Patrolman's Benev. Ass'n v. Montclair, 70 N.J. 130, 135 (1976); In re Hoboken Teachers' Ass'n, 147 N.J. Super. 240, 247-249 (App. Div. 1977); Plainfield Bd. of Ed. v. Plainfield Ed. Ass'n, 144 N.J. Super. 521, 525 (App. Div. 1976).

I CONCLUDE that the petition filed by North Wildwood must be DISMISSED with prejudice. North Wildwood's re-filing with the Superior Court under the Declaratory Judgment Act was strategic, tactical in nature, and jurisdictionally improper in the opinion of the undersigned. It came very late in the process and more importantly on the eve of possibly deciding the outcome of the case. The Commissioner of Education has primary jurisdiction over education matters. The Superior Court generally defers administrative matters to the respective state agencies where special expertise exists under the principle of exhaustion of administrative remedies or primary jurisdiction. R. 4:69-5. It would be unfair and prejudicial to WBOE if the Superior Court invoked the exhaustion of administrative remedies or primary jurisdiction doctrines; rejected the relief sought by North Wildwood; and only to have the case refiled before the Commissioner. The taxpayers of both cities would incur unnecessary legal expenses and an unnecessary delay in knowing the outcome of the case. Most education matters have a ninety-day statute of limitation[1] because school budgeting can be seriously undermined if unknown expenses arise that were not budgeted.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, the relief sought is WBOE, designating the June 6, 2014, petition filed by North Wildwood with the Commissioner of Education, as withdrawn or dismissed WITH PREJUDICE, is GRANTED. The relief sought by North Wildwood is DENIED. North Wildwood's remedies, if any[2], now exclusively rest with the Superior Court.

[1] N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(h)4(i) prescribes that an appeal to the Commissioner "shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." The 90-day rule "provides a measure of repose, an essential element in the proper and efficient administration of the school laws." Kaprow v. Board. of Educ. of Berkeley Twp., 131 N.J. 572, 582 (1993). "The limitation period gives school districts the security of knowing that administrative decisions regarding the operations cannot be challenged after ninety days." Ibid. [2] The fact that this matter is dismissed "with prejudice" at the administrative level is not intended to create or manufacture a basis for the Superior Court to assert jurisdiction over matters it would ordinarily not take.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. ## SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a tenured Special Education teacher in respondent's employ – appealed the determination of the respondent Board to withhold her 2014-2015 salary increment, alleging that the Board failed to set forth reasons for withholding the increment in their notice to petitioner. The Board contended that petitioner's increment was withheld for good cause, and that she was properly served notice via a letter dated June 20, 2014, which referenced an enclosed corrective action plan that set forth the reasons for petitioner's increment withholding. The parties filed cross motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14, a board of education may withhold, for inefficiency or other good cause, the scheduled increments of any staff member in any year; the board must provide written notice of such action within 10 days, together with the reasons for the withholding; here, the Board complied with this notice requirement when it submitted the June 20, 2014 letter with an enclosed corrective action plan for the petitioner; the corrective action plan sufficiently set forth the reasons that petitioner's increment was withheld; and there are no genuine issues of material fact herein, and the matter is ripe for summary decision. Accordingly, the ALJ granted summary decision to the respondent Board, and dismissed the petition.

Upon comprehensive review and consideration, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Initial Decision was adopted as the final decision in this matter.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner Kathleen Boger (Boger), a teacher, challenges the determination of respondent, Board of Education of the Lenape Valley Regional High School, Sussex County (Board), to withhold her increment for the 2014-2015 school year.

On September 22, 2014, Boger's Petition of Appeal was filed with the Commissioner of Education. On September 26, 2014, the Board filed an Answer. The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed for determination as a contested case on October 3, 2014. Prior to the hearing, the parties filed cross-motions for Summary Decision. Respondent's motion was filed on April 20, 2015, and in support of the cross-motion, respondent submitted a brief, Joint Stipulation of Facts,[1] and Joint Exhibits.[2] Petitioner's cross-motion, filed on April 23, 2015, and an email from petitioner's attorney, dated April 21, 2015, reference both procedural and substantive issues, and during oral argument on April 23, 2015, petitioner's attorney indicated petitioner's intention to file an amended complaint. Petitioner filed a motion to amend the Petition of Appeal, and submitted a proposed Amended Petition of Appeal. Respondent opposed the motion to amend. On September 14, 2015, petitioner's motion to amend was denied.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The parties submitted a Joint Stipulation of Facts, in accordance with which I FIND the following FACTS:

Boger is a tenured teaching staff member and was employed for the 2013-2014 school year by the Board.

On or about the latter part of the month of February 2014, an incident occurred in Boger's classroom involving a student who presented a power point project which included inappropriate and defamatory slides regarding a teacher.

On or about the latter part of the month of February 2014, an incident occurred in Boger's classroom involving a different student who presented a power point project that portrayed a faculty member in a derogatory manner and included slides referring to alcohol consumption.

In a letter dated April 16, 2014, Superintendent/Principal Paul M. DiRupo reviewed the relevant facts relating to the incidents involving Boger and the students, concluded that the actions of Boger were grossly inappropriate, and informed Boger that he would be recommending to the Board that her increment be withheld for the 2014-2015 school year.

At a meeting held on June 18, 2014, the Board adopted a resolution approving the recommendation of the Superintendent to withhold Boger's salary increment for the 2014-2015 school year.

In a letter addressed to Boger, dated June 20, 2014, DiRupo informed Boger that the Board approved a resolution to withhold her salary increment for the 2014-2015 school year at a meeting held on June 18, 2014, and enclosed Boger's corrective action plan dated June 20, 2014, for the 2014-2015 school year.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Boger's Petition of Appeal states, in its entirety, the following:

> Kathleen [Boger[3]], residing at . . . hereby asks the Commissioner of Education to hear and determine her dispute.
> 1. The [Board] has its principle [sic] offices at 28 Sparta Rd, Stanhope, NJ.
> 2. Petitioner [Boger] is a tenured teaching staff member employed in said School District as a Special Education Teacher.
> 3. Petitioner [Boger] was notified that the Board of Education voted to withhold her salary increment for the 2014-2015 school year. "As a result, you will remain in your > current salary." Said letter also stated "Enclosed is your corrective action plan for the 2014-2015 school year."

[3] The Petition of Appeal incorrect reflects petitioner's surname as "Bogar."

> 4. N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 mandates that when an individual has his/her increment withheld, it is the "duty of the Board of Education, within 10 days to give written notice of such action, together with the reasons therefore [sic], to the member concerned."
> 5. The action on the part of the Board in purporting to withhold the increment of Petitioner [Boger] is null and void as the District did not comply with such statutory requirement, i.e., there was no reason for the withholding of the increment as set forth in the notice given to Petitioner [Boger] within 10 days of the Board action.
> WHEREFORE, Petitioner [Boger] prays that the Commissioner direct the Board of Education to restore her increment for the 2014-2015 school year.

As noted in the Petition of Appeal, the statute applicable to petitioner's appeal is N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14, which provides, in pertinent part, as follows:

> Any board of education may withhold, for inefficiency or other good cause, the employment increment, or the adjustment increment, or both, of any member in any year by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board of education. It shall be the duty of the board of education, within 10 days, to give written notice of such action, together with the reasons therefor, to the member concerned.

Relying upon the foregoing statute, Boger's Petition of Appeal contends that "the action on the part of the Board in purporting to withhold the increment of Petitioner [Boger] is null and void as the District did not comply with such statutory requirement, i.e., there was no reason for the withholding of the increment as set forth in the notice given to Petitioner [Boger] within 10 days of the Board action."

Here, there is no dispute that by letter dated June 20, 2014, the Board notified Boger that the Board "approved a resolution to withhold your salary increment for the 2014-2015 school year at the meeting dated Wednesday, June 18, 2014. As a result you will remain at your current salary. Enclosed is your corrective action plan for the 2014-2015 school year." There is likewise no dispute that Boger received the June 20, 2014, letter or that the June 20, 2014, corrective action plan, incorporated by reference, was enclosed therewith. The corrective action plan states, in pertinent part, as follows: "Due to disciplinary action resulting from your negligence in not previewing a public presentation for class, namely the withholding for your increment for the 2014-2015 school-year, the administration's corrective plan for you is as follows:". Further, paragraph "SECOND" of the corrective action plan states:

> Before any student, athlete, guest, or visitor makes a presentation to a class, team, group, or public forum where you are executing your duties as a teacher, coach, or representative of the Lenape Valley Regional High School, you will: preview all materials for their content and suitability, will closely monitor the presentation in order to safeguard against any defamatory, infamous, or otherwise damaging and harmful content. Upon detection of such material, you will immediately take the appropriate disciplinary action. Any material that could be deemed as harassing, intimidating, or bullying to students or staff and colleagues will be reported to the administration immediately.
> A. On the next occasion that students, guests, onlookers, or observers are exposed to unsuitable material as a result of your failure to have previewed the content or inability to exercise classroom management, you will receive a formal, written reprimand, and it will be recommended to the Board of Education that your increment for the following school-year be withheld.
> B. On the next occasion that students, guests, onlookers, or observers are exposed to unsuitable material as a result of your failure to have previewed the content or inability to exercise classroom management following the formal, written reprimand, the administration will present your name to the Board of Education for the termination of your employment.

The statute requires written notice, and I CONCLUDE that the June 20, 2014, letter and corrective action plan satisfy the "written notice" component of the requirement.

The corrective action plan plainly states that her increment was withheld for the 2014-2015 school year for "negligence in not previewing a public presentation for class" in its first paragraph, and paragraph SECOND plainly requires that before a student makes a presentation for class, Boger must preview it for content and suitability, and monitor the presentation to safeguard against damaging or harmful content, and she must report any such material upon detection. Paragraph SECOND also plainly refers to others' exposure to unsuitable materials "as a result of [her] failure to have previewed the content or inability to exercise classroom management." Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the corrective action plan sufficiently set forth the reasons that Boger's increment was withheld. Petitioner's argument that the statute was violated because the letter enclosing the corrective action plan did not set forth the reasons is unavailing. The corrective action plan was both incorporated by reference and enclosed with the letter, and Boger was on notice, in no uncertain terms, of the reasons that the increment was withheld in the very first paragraph of the enclosure.

Applications for summary decision after a matter has been transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law shall be filed with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) in accordance with applicable rules of the OAL. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.12(b). A contested case before the Office of Administrative Law "can be summarily disposed of before an ALJ without a plenary hearing in instances where the undisputed material facts, as developed on motion or otherwise, indicate that a particular disposition is required as a matter of law." In re Robros Recycling Corp., 226 N.J. Super. 343, 350 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 113 N.J. 638 (1988).

N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) provides, in pertinent part:

> The motion for summary decision shall be served with briefs and with or without supporting affidavits. The decision sought may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. When a motion for summary decision is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding.

Here, there is no genuine issue as to any material fact, as the parties do not dispute that petitioner received the June 20, 2014, letters/corrective action plan, and I CONCLUDE that this matter is appropriate for summary decision.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that summary decision is GRANTED in favor of the respondent, and Boger's Petition of Appeal is hereby DISMISSED.

| OF RITA O'MALLEY, SCHOOL DISTRICT | : | COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION |
| OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WOODBRIDGE, | : | DECISION |
| MIDDLESEX COUNTY. | : | |

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board filed tenure charges of conduct unbecoming against respondent, a tenured teacher, and sought to terminate her employment with the district. Neither respondent nor any attorney acting on her behalf filed an answer to the petition following notice pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4.

The Commissioner concluded that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3(c), the allegations – which respondent has chosen not to deny – may be deemed admitted and are sufficient to warrant termination of the respondent from her tenured position. Accordingly, the Commissioner granted summary decision to the petitioner, dismissed the respondent from her tenured position in petitioner's school district, and forwarded a copy of this decision to the State Board of Examiners for review and action as that body deems appropriate.

| IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING | : | |
| OF RITA O'MALLEY, SCHOOL DISTRICT | : | COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION |
| OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WOODBRIDGE, | : | DECISION |
| MIDDLESEX COUNTY. | : | |

For the Petitioner, Ari D. Schneider, Esq.
No appearance by or on behalf of Respondent, Rita O'Malley

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on November 30, 2015[1] through tenure charges of conduct unbecoming certified by Robert Zega, Superintendant of Schools of the Woodbridge Township School District, together with supporting evidence against respondent Rita O'Malley, a tenured teacher in the petitioner's employ. The petitioner provided respondent with written notice of such certification at her last known address – via overnight, certified, and regular mail – on November 20, 2015. The petitioner also served a copy of the tenure charges on the respondent's attorney.

On December 1, 2015, the Commissioner directed respondent – via both certified and regular mail, with a copy to respondent's attorney – to file an answer to the charges. This communication provided notice to respondent that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified "shall have 15 days from the date such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges with the Commissioner," and that failure to answer within the prescribed period would – absent granting of an extension for good cause shown – result in the charges being deemed admitted. No reply to the tenure charges was received from, or on behalf of, respondent.

[1] The District submitted sworn tenure charges against Rita O'Malley to the Commissioner on November 23, 2015, but neglected to include a copy of the Certificate of Determination in the filing. This matter was opened before the Commissioner on November 30, 2015, the date the Certificate of Determination was received.

The certified tenure charges filed by the petitioner in this matter indicate that in the 2014-2015 school year, respondent submitted inaccurate and potentially fraudulent student educational evaluation reports, jeopardizing the authenticity of the educational evaluation and disrupting the educational environment for at least twelve students. Specifically, the inaccuracies on the educational evaluation reports included inserting false test scores for subtests that had not been administered, including incorrect test results for subtests that had been completed, misplacing or failing to complete protocols, preparing write-ups regarding subtests that were not administered, failing to include test results for subtests that were completed, and failing to administer subtests and complete an educational evaluation report. The charges and supporting evidence also indicate that respondent engaged in unbecoming conduct by submitting false mileage reimbursement vouchers and receiving monetary payment for funds to which she was not entitled.

Deeming the allegations to be admitted and noting that respondent has failed to respond to the charges certified against her, the Commissioner finds that petitioner's charges of conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member have been proven and warrant the respondent's dismissal from employment.

Accordingly, summary decision is hereby granted to the petitioner, and the respondent is dismissed from her tenured position with the District. This matter will be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for action against respondent's certificate(s) as that body deems appropriate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

| PETITIONER, | : | |
| v. | : | COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION |
| BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF MARGATE, ATLANTIC COUNTY, | : | DECISION |
| RESPONDENT. | : | |

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a taxpayer within the Margate City School District – filed a complaint contending that the Mayor of Margate inappropriately used his influence to obtain the appointment of his daughter-in-law, Audrey Becker, as principal of the school district's Tighe Middle School. The respondent Board denied the allegations of misconduct, and filed a motion for summary decision, citing: petitioner's lack of standing to bring this action; failure to name an indispensable party; failure to timely file the petition; and failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted by the Commissioner of Education.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: while the appeal cannot be dismissed for any of the procedural arguments brought by the Board, the petitioner fails to advance a cause of action for which the Commissioner can grant relief, as it does not invoke the Commissioner's primary jurisdiction under the school laws; the within matter does not involve a nepotism policy under N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-6.2, as petitioner has not alleged that Audrey Becker is related to any member of the school board; rather, petitioner seemingly alleges that Board members violated the Code of Ethics of School Board Members by appointing the mayor's daughter-in-law as principal of the middle school – an issue over which the School Ethics Commission, not the Commissioner, has jurisdiction; similarly, the petition appears to raise allegations of misconduct on the part of the Mayor, and the Commissioner has no authority over the actions of an elected municipal official. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision, and dismissed the petition for lack of jurisdiction.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's determination that the petition must be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition was dismissed.

| BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF MARGATE, ATLANTIC COUNTY, | : | DECISION |
| RESPONDENT. | : | |

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) – for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision – that the petition must be dismissed because the petitioner does not allege a cause of action under the Commissioner's jurisdiction.[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Specifically, the Commissioner is in accord that the petitioner fails to allege that the Board acted in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(a) when it appointed Audrey Becker – the mayor's daughter-in-law – as principal of Tighe Middle School (Tighe), as there is no allegation that the Board acted without the recommendation of the chief school administrator or without a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the Board. Additionally, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the Board did not violate N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-6.2, as Audrey Becker is not related to any member of the Board or the chief school administrator; rather, she is the mayor's daughter-in-law, which is not a violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-6.2.

Instead, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that any allegation that certain members of the Board acted unethically by appointing the mayor's daughter-in-law as principal of Tighe falls under the jurisdiction of the School Ethics Commission and would be more appropriately brought in a complaint before the Commission for a violation of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1. Furthermore, the Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ's determination that he has no authority over allegations of conflict of interest or nepotism by the mayor, as the actions of a municipal official are not governed by the school laws of this State. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition is hereby dismissed.

Record Closed: October 16, 2015 Decided: November 27, 2015

BEFORE BRUCE M. GORMAN, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petitioner requested a fair hearing and the matter was filed at the Office of Administrative Law on February 4, 2015, to be heard as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and 14F-1 to 13. On April 7, 2015, counsel for the respondent filed a motion to dismiss. On August 10, 2015, petitioner filed its opposition to the motion to dismiss and on August 31, 2015 respondent filed reply brief to petitioner's objections.

FACTUAL SUMMARY

On October 8, 2014 the Margate City Board of Education (Board) approved Superintendent John DiNicola's recommendation to appoint Audrey Becker as principal of the Tighe Middle School. Becker is the daughter in law of Margate Mayor Michael Becker. Margate is Type 1 Board of Education and pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-7, the members of the Board are appointed by the Chief Executive Officer of the municipality. In this case, that Chief Executive Officer was Mayor Michael Becker.

The petitioner complained that Mayor Becker used his influence to obtain his daughter in law's appointment. That influence included, among other things, replacing Board members with friends who would support the appointment of his daughter in law. The petitioner concluded by urging the Commissioner to "fully investigate the allegations set forth and rescind the actions of the Margate Board of Education".

The Board of Education filed an answer wherein it denied the allegations of misconduct contained in the petition. The Board now moves to dismiss the petition.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Although the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules do not expressly prohibit a Motion to Dismiss, neither do those Rules provide for such a motion. In either event, respondent board has filed an Answer in this matter. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(G) would permit a Motion to Dismiss in lieu of filing such an answer but once the Board filed its Answer, any such motion must necessarily be considered a Motion for Summary Decision under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. Accordingly, the Board's Motion will be dealt with as a Motion for Summary Decision.

The board has moved for Summary Decision on several procedural grounds. They are:

1) Lack of Standing;
2) Failure to name an indispensable party;
3) Failure to timely file the petition;
4) Failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted by the Commissioner of Education.

Standing is "a threshold justiciability determination whether the litigant is entitled to initiate and maintain an action before a court or other tribunal." In re Six Month Extension of N.J.A.C. 5:91-1 et seq., 372 N.J. Super. 61, 85 (App. Div. 2004), certif. denied, 182 N.J. 630 (2005). In New Jersey, there exists a rather liberal approach to questions of standing. Crescent Park Tenants Ass'n v. Realty Equity Corp. of N.Y., 58 N.J. 98, 101, 107-111 (1971). The "[e]ntitlement to sue requires a sufficient stake and real adverseness with respect to the subject matter of the litigation" and "[a] substantial likelihood of some harm visited upon the plaintiff in the event of an unfavorable decision is needed for purposes of standing." New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce v. New Jersey Election Law Enforcement Comm'n, 82 N.J. 57, 67 (1980).

In the case of taxpayers of a school district, standing may be found if they have a "'slight private interest, added to and harmonizing with the general public interest.'" Ridgewood Educ. Ass'n v. Ridgewood Bd. of Educ., 284 N.J. Super. 427, 432-33 (App. Div. 1995) (quoting Hudson Bergen Cnty. Retail Liquor Stores Ass'n v. Bd. of Comm'rs, City of Hoboken, 135 N.J.L. 502, 510 (E. & A. 1947)). In Silverman v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Millburn, 134 N.J. Super. 253 (Law. Div. 1975), aff'd, 136 N.J. Super. 435 (App. Div. 1975), for example, which involved a dispute over a school board's proposed action to close an elementary school and lease it for use as a school for the hearing impaired, the court held that plaintiff taxpayers had standing to sue the school board because "they represent their own personal interest and the public interest of the community in the resolution of the dispute over the closing of this school." Id. at 258. And, as the court explained in Haines v. Burlington Cnty. Bridge Comm'n., 1 N.J. Super. 163, 171-72 (App. Div. 1949):

> [t]he standing of taxpayers and citizens, under appropriate circumstances and without any showing of increased tax burden, to maintain proceedings seeking to remedy wrongful acts of public officials has long been recognized in our State. Thus, in Ferry v. Williams, supra, Mr. Justice Dixon pointed out (at p. 337) that, 'our courts have exercised a large discretion in annulling the illegal acts of municipal bodies and officers, and compelling the performance of their public duties at the instance of citizens and taxpayers who were not otherwise interested in the controversy than was the rest of the community', and cited (at p. 338) 'instances of interference by the courts with official action affecting only public rights at the suit of private persons, where questions of taxation were not at all concerned, or were so remote from the matters complained of as not to be noticed in the decision.' Cf. Tube Reducing Corp. v. Unemployment Comp. Comm'n, 1 N.J. 177, 62 Atl. 2d 473, 475 (Sup. Ct. 1948). In Oliver v. Jersey City, 63 N.J.L. 96, 98 (Sup. Ct. 1899) (rev'd. on other grounds in 63 N.J.L. 634 (E. & A. 1899)) the court, in sustaining the standing of a taxpayer to attack official action without any showing of injury except as a member of the public using the highway, stated that it could find 'no consistent rule of law nor any reason of wise public policy' which would deny relief 'when the citizen at his own expense, and at the risk of burdensome costs, seeks to intervene for the purpose of averting imminent injury to the public of which he is a part.

Here, petitioner would have taxpayer or citizen standing because he seeks to void alleged wrongful acts of public officials. According to the petition, the Board improperly appointed Audrey Becker to a principal position and "[t]he faith of the public in an independent and objective school board cannot be undermined and compromised by a rogue mayor's nepotism machinations." While petitioner has not alleged that he, as a resident taxpayer of Margate, is more interested in the controversy than the rest of his community, he "seeks to intervene for the purpose of averting imminent injury to the public of which he is a part." Thus, he represents his personal interest and the interest of the community. This is sufficient to find – if this matter were properly before the Commissioner – that petitioner has taxpayer or citizen standing.

Accordingly, the Board's motion for summary decision on the basis of standing must be DENIED.

While petitioner failed to name an indispensable party, Audrey Becker, in his petition, he correctly argues that he should be able to amend his petition to include her as a party (if his petition is properly before the Commissioner). Under education law, an indispensable party is "a person(s) without whose inclusion a matter cannot proceed or adequate judgment cannot be entered." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.2. As the Supreme Court has explained, "[a]s a general proposition, it seems accurate to say that a party is not truly indispensable unless he has an interest inevitably involved in the subject matter before the court and a judgment cannot justly be made between the litigants without either adjudging or necessarily affecting the absentee's interest." Allen B. Du Mont Labs., Inc. v. Marcalus Mfg. Co., 30 N.J. 290, 298 (1959). The rules for filing a petition of appeal with the Commissioner provide that "[a] petitioner shall name as a party any person or entity indispensable to the hearing of a contested case" and that the "[f]ailure to name an indispensable party may be grounds for dismissal of the petition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(b).

Here, Audrey Becker is certainly an indispensable party because her interest in her job is inextricably involved in this matter and a judgment could not justly be made in this matter without necessarily affecting her interest. However, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-6.2, which allows for pleadings to be freely amended, petitioner can be allowed to amend his petition to include Ms. Becker as a party.

Consequently, the Board's Motion for Summary Decision for failure to join an indispensable party is DENIED.

In any motion for Summary decision, the fact must be construed most favorably to the party against whom summary decision is asserted. With that caveat in mind, we now examine the Board's contention that the petitioner should be dismissed for failure to timely file.

While it appears that petitioner filed his petition outside of the ninety-day limitations period for filing appeals with the Commissioner – there were ninety-six days between October 10, 2014, the latest date by which Petitioner could be deemed to have had knowledge of the Board's October 8, 2014, decision, and January 14, 2015, the date on which the Bureau acknowledged Petitioner's perfected petition – relaxation of the ninety-day rule may be appropriate if this matter is not dismissed for other reasons. Under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), a "petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing" (ninety-day rule). The ninety-day rule may be relaxed "in any case where a strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16. However, the rule is relaxed only for compelling reasons, including "cases involving (1) important and novel constitutional questions; (2) informal or ex parte determinations of legal questions by administrative officials; and (3) important public rather than private interests which require adjudication or clarification." Brunetti v. Bor. of New Milford, 68 N.J. 576, 586 (1975).

The petition would be untimely if petitioner had notice of the Board's decision on October 10, 2014, but did not file a perfected appeal until January 14, 2015. However, petitioner states that "[t]he NJ D.O.E. ... sent a letter dated 12-15-2014 with [the following] directions: 'If the necessary filings are timely submitted, December 2, 2014 will be deemed the filing date of the appeal.'" If the Bureau accepted an earlier filing date than January 14, 2015, as petitioner contends (albeit with a direct quote from correspondence from that office, and not through submission of a copy of the actual document), application of the ninety-day rule might be inappropriate here. Petitioner's certification of the fact of the correspondence is enough to raise a genuine issue of material fact that would need to be determined at a hearing.

In addition, relaxation of the ninety-day rule would be appropriate if, as Petitioner alleges in his reply brief, the Executive County Superintendent contributed to any delay in the filing of Petitioner's petition with the Commissioner. See, e.g., J.M. & D.M. ex rel. J.L.M. v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Summit, EDU 3937-98, State Bd. of Educ. (November 3, 1999) <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal> (relaxing ninety-day rule due to Department of Education employees' failure to timely advise petitioners of proper office for filing a petition after they asked for assistance); C.G. & R.G. ex rel. R.M.G. v.

Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Brick, EDU 2375-05, State Bd. of Educ. (July 19, 2006) (relaxing ninety-day rule because pro se petitioner asked Department for help in filing her petition, but employees failed to timely direct her to the appropriate office for filing). Petitioner herein alleges in his reply brief that an Executive County Superintendent received his complaint regarding the Board's decision on October 10, 2014, but did not reply until November 18, 2014, when he directed petitioner to file his complaint with the School Ethics Commission. According to petitioner, the Executive County Superintendent informed him of the proper place to file his complaint, but waited over a month to so advise him. It appears that petitioner had notice of the Board's decision by October 10, 2014, at the latest, but it also appears that he did not sit on his rights, and instead quickly attempted to appeal the Board's decision to appoint Ms. Becker as principal of Tighe. However, he may have been unnecessarily delayed in his filing with the Commissioner due to the length of time of the Executive County Superintendent's inaction. In this regard, petitioner has also raised a genuine issue of material fact that would preclude summary decision on the ninety-day rule issue if this matter is not dismissed on other grounds.

Accordingly, the Board's Motion for Summary Decision for untimely filing must be DENIED.

But having disposed of those procedural arguments, the question that remains is whether petitioner has set forth a cause of action for which relief may be granted by the Commissioner.

Under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.4(a), a petition filed with the Commissioner must include such elements as "a statement of the specific allegation(s) and essential facts supporting them which have given rise to a dispute under the school laws" and "the relief petitioner is seeking," and "[t]he petition should also cite, if known to petitioner, the section or sections of the school laws under which the controversy has arisen." However, the allegations in petitioner's petition do not advance a cause of action for which the Commissioner can grant relief and the petition generally cites to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, which announces the scope of the Commissioner's jurisdiction, rather than a specific section under which the controversy has arisen. Nonetheless, the allegations reflect a dispute arising, not under the jurisdiction of the Commissioner, but under the jurisdiction of the School Ethics Commission, which may be able to grant relief upon consideration of petitioner's cause of action.

The cause of action advanced by petitioner does not invoke the Commissioner's primary jurisdiction under the school laws. As the Board points out in its brief, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:27-1.4(a), "[a] board of education shall appoint, transfer or remove a certificated or non-certificated officer or employee only upon the recommendation of the chief school administrator and by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board," but petitioner has failed to allege that the Board, in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(a), appointed the principal without the recommendation of the chief school administrator or without a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the Board.

In addition, while under N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-6.2, a school board must implement a nepotism policy that includes "[a] provision prohibiting any relative of a school board member or chief school administrator from being employed in an office or position in that district," Petitioner has failed to allege that Audrey Becker is related to any member of the Board. Instead, Petitioner seemingly alleges that Board members violated the Code of Ethics of School Board Members by appointing the mayor's daughter-in-law, Audrey Becker, as principal of Tighe, an issue over which the School Ethics Commission, and not the Commissioner, would have jurisdiction.

Under the School Ethics Act, "[a]ny person, including a member of the commission, may file a complaint alleging a violation of the provisions of this act or the Code of Ethics for School Board Members as set forth in section 5 of P.L.2001, c.178 (C.18A:12-24.1), by submitting it, on a form prescribed by the commission, to the commission." N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(a). Under the Code of Ethics, a school board member must "uphold and enforce all laws, rules and regulations of the State Board of Education, and court orders pertaining to schools;" "carry out my responsibility, not to administer the schools, but, together with my fellow board members, to see that they are well run;" "recognize that authority rests with the board of education and will make no personal promises nor take any private action that may compromise the board;" "refuse to surrender my independent judgment to special interest or partisan political groups or to use the schools for personal gain or for the gain of friends;" and, "vote to appoint the best qualified personnel available after consideration of the recommendation of the chief administrative officer." N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (d), (e), (f), and (h). The petition alleges that the Board "did appoint Margate Mayor Michael Becker's daughter-in-law Audrey Becker as the new principal of the Tighe School" and that this appointment "is a most obvious, blatant conflict of interest and flagrant nepotism," and he requests that the Commissioner "fully investigate the allegations set forth and to rescind the actions of the Margate B.O.E." Petitioner's allegations may give rise to a cause of action under the School Ethics Act, but he has failed to advance a cause of action for which the Commissioner can grant relief.

Similarly, the petition appears to raise allegations of misconduct on the part of Mayor Becker. The Commissioner of Education has no authority over the actions of an elected municipal official. The actions of a municipal official are governed by the Local Government Ethics Law (N.J.S.A. 40A:9-22.1 et seq). Under that statutory scheme the Mayor's conduct would be subject to review by the Municipal Ethic Board, if one exists, or if not, by the State Local Finance Board. Any complaint about Mayor Becker's conduct must be venued there, and not with the Commissioner of Education. The Commissioner of Education has no authority over the actions of Mayor Becker.

Accordingly, the Board's motion for summary decision must be GRANTED because the petitioner has failed to set forth a cause of action for which relief can be granted.

Re: In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Chet Churchill, State Operated School District of the City of Camden, Camden County
Agency Dkt. No. 340-11/15

Ms. Humma and Mr. Diamantis:

This letter responds to Respondent Chet Churchill's (Respondent's) Motion for Summary Decision and the arguments raised in response by the State Operated School District of the City of Camden (District).

Respondent Chet Churchill is a tenured biological life science education teacher in the District. Respondent received summative ratings of partially effective for the 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 school years. His summative evaluation for the 2014-2015 school year took place on May 26, 2015. By letter dated June 8, 2015, Respondent was assigned by the District to teach at Camden High School for the 2015-2016 school year. On August 31, 2015, Churchill received an email from the District and a letter rescinding his teaching assignment for the 2015-2016 school year. That letter provided in pertinent part:

> In or around mid-July 2015, you may have received a letter advising you of your proposed location and assignment as a teaching staff member with the Camden City School District for the 2015-2016 school year. The Superintendent has advised that letter was sent to you in error and is hereby rescinded. To the extent your 2015-2016 placement, which was made in error, appears on a Superintendent's Report, it will be corrected at a future Board meeting. Also, consistent with the Superintendent's decision, any communication you received stating that you should show up to work or professional development for the 2015-2016 school year was also in error.

> This letter is also to advise you that effective immediately, the Superintendent is placing you on administrative leave with pay due to issues including, but not limited to, your evaluation scores. Thus, you are not to report to any Camden City School District location on or after September 1, 2015. When the matter surrounding your administrative leave is resolved, you will receive more specific instructions. [emphasis in original].

On or about October 14, 2015, the District served a Notice of Inefficiency on Respondent Chet Churchill (Respondent). With that Notice, Paymon Rouhanifard, State District Superintendent with the Camden City School District, filed notice of charges based on inefficiency pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3 against Respondent. On October 26, 2015, Respondent filed a Statement of Position and Statement of Evidence in opposition to the tenure charges. On November 2, 2015, State Superintendent Rouhanifard certified tenure charges against Respondent. Those charges were served on the Commissioner of Education and Respondent on November 3, 2015. The charges were received in the Department of Education's Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on November 4, 2015, and on that same date, the Commissioner of Education acknowledged "receipt of certified tenure charges filed with the Commissioner on November 4, 2015." That acknowledgement provided specifically that "Respondent is required to file written response to the charges within 15 days of date filed with Commissioner." The acknowledgement provided the following "IMPORTANT NOTICE" set off in a separate box:

> Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified shall have 15 days from the date such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges with the Commissioner.
> (emphasis in original).

On November 19, 2015, Respondent filed a Motion for Summary Decision with the Commissioner of Education. On November 30, 2015, the tenure charges were referred to me for decision. On that same date, the Department of Education advised the parties:

> Please be advised that, following receipt of the Respondent's motion for summary decision on November 19, 2015, the above captioned tenure charges have been reviewed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3c. Upon review, the Commissioner is unable to determine that the evaluation process has not been followed. The arbitrator's decision with regard to these charges shall be made pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2, subject to determination by the arbitrator of the motion for summary decision. Should the arbitrator deny the motion, > Respondent's answer should be filed directly with the arbitrator. The arbitrator shall review those charges which are not dismissed as the result of a motion under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2, subject to the determination by the arbitrator of Respondent's defenses and any motions which may be filed with the arbitrator.

On December 16, 2015, the District filed a brief in Opposition to Respondent's Motion for Summary Decision. On December 23, 2015, Respondent filed a Letter Brief in reply to the District's Brief in Opposition.

Respondent has filed a Motion for Summary Decision in response to the tenure charges filed against him asserting that the charges were not filed "promptly" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3(b). Specifically, Respondent asserts that because the tenure charges were not filed until October 14, 2015, approximately 141 days from the summative conference held on May 26, 2015, the tenure charge must be dismissed.

In response to this Motion, the District asserts that it, as well as Respondent's position statement filed on the same date, is improper and untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:5-1(c)(5) and therefore the tenure charges should be admitted and sustained. The District asserts that Respondent's Motion for Summary Decision is improper because neither his position statement nor his motion were timely filed under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1. The District bases it's argument on N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(c)(5), which provides that Respondent "shall have ten days to submit to the Commissioner a written response to the charge," as well as N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3, which sets forth procedures for seeking an extension within ten day period. The District asserts that the tenure charges were served on Mr. Churchill on November 3, 2015 and he had ten days to respond, so Churchill's response was due no later than November 13, 2015. The District points out that Mr. Churchill's position statement and motion were not filed and served until November 19, 2015, almost a week late, in violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1. Accordingly, the District asserts that pursuant to the regulation, "the charges shall be deemed admitted by the charged employee." As a result, the District asserts that the inefficiency tenure charges in this matter must be deemed admitted and therefore sustained.

Respondent emphasizes the acknowledgement of receipt of the charges from the Department of Education. That acknowledgement provided specifically that "Respondent is required to file written response to the charges within 15 days of date filed with Commissioner." As detailed above, the acknowledgement provided Respondent with fifteen days "from the date such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response."

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(c)(5) does provide the Respondent with ten days to submit a response to the charges to the Commissioner where the "tenure charges are charges of inefficiency." Subsection (c)(5) provides specifically,

> 5. Upon receipt of the charge, the Commissioner or his or her designee shall examine the charge. The charge shall again be served upon the employee at the same time it is forwarded to the Commissioner and proof of service shall be included with the filed charges. The individual against whom the charge is filed shall have 10 days to submit to the Commissioner a written response to the charge.

In contrast, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 provides the Respondent with fifteen (15) days to provide a written response in cases other than inefficiency.

> (a) Except as specified in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(c)5, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified shall have 15 days from the date such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges. ...
> 1. Consistent with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g), nothing in this subsection precludes the filing of a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer to the charges, provided the motion is filed within the time allotted for the filing of an answer. Briefing on the motions shall be in the manner and within the time fixed by the Commissioner, or by the arbitrator if the motion is to be briefed following transmittal to an arbitrator.
> (b) Upon written application by the person against whom charges are filed, the Commissioner may extend the time period for the filing of an answer upon a finding of good cause shown consistent with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16. Such application shall be received prior to the expiration of the 15-day answer period, or the 10-day answer period specified in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(c) and a copy shall be served upon the charging district board of education or the State district superintendent. The district board of education or State district superintendent shall promptly notify the Commissioner or any opposition to the request.

The District aptly notes that N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(c)(5) provides ten (10) days rather than fifteen (15) days for a Respondent to submit a response to tenure charges to the Commissioner of Education. Similarly, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3(c) provides that "the individual against whom the charges are filed shall have 10 days to submit a written response to the Commissioner."

In this instance, Respondent received written direction from the Department of Education that provided "an individual whom tenure charges are certified shall have 15 days from the date such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges with the Commissioner." (emphasis in original). Respondent complied with the direction received from the Department of Education and filed his response to the charges together with his Motion for a Summary Decision on November 19, 2015, or on the 15th day after the charges were received by the Department of Education.[1]

Under the circumstances present here, where the Respondent complied with the fifteen (15) days for a response as required by Department of Education's acknowledgement of the charges, the Department of Education's acceptance of the Motion and its specific determination to refer it to me for decision, the Respondent should not be penalized for following the direction of the Department of Education. Under these circumstances, I find the Motion and Position Statement can not be deemed admitted and sustained due to untimeliness.

The District also asserts that Respondent's Motion for Summary Decision is improper because N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3(c) provides only for submission of a written response to tenure charges for inefficiency that have been certified to the Commissioner and does not provide for the filing of a motion to dismiss or for summary decision in lieu of a written response. The District emphasizes that additional qualifications not included in the statute should not be added and asserts that if the legislature had intended to allow for motions to dismiss or summary decision in lieu of a filing of a written response to tenure charges for inefficiency, it would have done so explicitly. In support, the District cites N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 which provides in pertinent part:

> The individual against whom the charges are certified shall have 15 days to submit a written response to the charges to the commissioner ...
> If, following receipt of the written response to the charges, the commissioner ... shall determine that such charge is sufficient to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary of the person charged, he shall refer the case to an arbitrator ... for further proceedings, except that when a motion for summary decision has been made prior to that time, the commissioner may retain the matter for purposes of deciding the motion.

[1] This period included Election Day.

Respondent emphasizes the direction from the Commissioner that "[t]he arbitrator's decision with regard to those charges shall be made pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2, subject to determination by the arbitrator of respondent's motion for summary decision." Respondent also cites numerous inefficiency cases arising under TEACHNJ where motions for summary decision or motions to dismiss has been heard and decided by arbitrators exercising their inherent powers and discretion. For example, IMO the Tenure Hearing of Elena Brady, State Operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, 9/11/15 (#294-15); IMO the Tenure Hearing of Nancy Mastriana, School District of the Township of Hillsborough, Somerset County, 10/9/15 (#343-15); and IMO Sherlene Thomas, State Operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, 11/16/15 (#383-15).

The District's assertion that resolution of Respondent's Motion for Summary Decision is not within my authority because the statute does not expressly provide for the filing of a dispositive motion in lieu of an answer is not persuasive. In several previous arbitration awards addressing inefficiency cases, including those cited above, arbitrators have exercised their discretion to decide dispositive motions such as Respondent's Motion for Summary Decision. Further, in this instance, the Commissioner has expressly delegated that authority to me by providing me with the authority to address these inefficiency charges, "subject to determination by the arbitrator of respondent's motion for summary decision." Accordingly, I find the District's argument that the statute does not expressly provide for the filing of a dispositive motion in lieu of a written response is not cause for denial of the motion.

Turning to the merits of Respondent's Motion for Summary decision, I note that my authority is defined and limited by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2(a)(1)-(4), which provides four factors to be considered by an arbitrator in rendering a decision as to whether the tenure charges warrant dismissal of the educator.

In this instance, Respondent asserts that the amended tenure charge must be dismissed because the District failed to promptly file the written tenure charge pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3(b). Respondent points out that the requirement that charges of inefficiency be "promptly" filed also is incorporated into the Administrative Code in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(c)(1), which provides "[w]hen the conditions described in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3.a(1) or (2) have been satisfied, the Superintendent shall promptly file with the Secretary of the District Board of Education a charge of inefficiency."

Acknowledging that the word "promptly" is not defined with TEACHNJ or its rules, Respondent points to numerous definitions of the word "promptly" including Black's Law Dictionary 1093 (5th Ed.) which defines promptly as "ready and quick to act as occasion demands ... [t]o do something "promptly" is to do it without delay and with reasonable speed."

Additionally, Respondent would rely upon case law in interpreting the use of "prompt" within the Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA), N.J.S.A. 10:4-14, which provides that minutes kept by public bodies "shall be promptly available to the public ..." Respondent cites several cases providing that statutory words should be given their "ordinary and understood meaning" unless there is an indication that a special meaning is intended. See Matter of schedule of rates for Barnert Memorial Hospital, 92 NJ 31, 40 (1983); Levin v. Parsippany-Troy Hills Township, 82 NJ 174, 182 (1980).

The Respondent relies on Matawan Regional Teachers Association v. Matawan Regional Board of Education, 212 NJ Super 328, 333 (Law Div. 1986) which found that a thirty (30) day delay in releasing meeting minutes where the Board of Education met every two weeks violated the OPMA because under the circumstances, meeting minutes were not "promptly" made available. The Court in Matawan considered five factors, including 1) the prior experience in publication of board minutes; 2) the subject matter of the minutes and their importance to the Association and others directly affected by Board action; 3) the subject matter of the minutes and their importance to the public in general; 4) the intervals at which regular meetings were scheduled; and 5) whether meetings complained of were regularly scheduled or were, due to an exigency, held so close together that the Board could not reasonably be expected to abide by the Act's requirement.

Respondent would, to the extent applicable, analyze whether tenure charges were filed against Churchill "promptly" using the Matawan factors. Based upon this analysis, Respondent emphasizes that the District was fully informed of his summative score for the 2014-2015 school year by at least May 26, 2015 when the summative conference occurred and the District had been aware of the possibility that the Respondent might be subject to tenure charges since the end of the 2013-2014 school year when he was rated "partially effective." Respondent points out that the Superintendent had the authority to decide and file tenure charges against Churchill and was not restrained from acting at regularly scheduled meetings. Under these circumstances, Respondent asserts that a 141 day delay cannot be considered "prompt" under TEACHNJ. Specifically, acknowledging that the District does not have extensive experience in filing inefficiency tenure charges pursuant to TEACHNJ, Respondent asserts that because the District is subject to the OPMA requirements, it should have known that a delay in filing of the tenure charge of at least 141 days would not be "prompt" under TEACHNJ because that length of time has never been "prompt" under the OPMA.

Applying the second Matawan factor, Respondent points out that both the District and Churchill have a strong interest in expediting the tenure process. Respondent asserts that the public also has a strong interest in prompt tenure filings because children suffer if instruction is provided by an alleged inefficient teacher. Further, the public suffers due to an unnecessary waste of public funds by delaying the filing of tenure charges by 141 days.

Because the School District is under State intervention, there is no board of education and no formal meeting required for the State Superintendent to take action and he may act at any time, thus providing support under the fourth and fifth Matawan factors in favor or prompt tenure charge filings, according to Respondent.

The District asserts that it "promptly" filed tenure charges for inefficiency in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3(b) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(c)(1). Specifically, the District asserts that the promptness requirement of TEACHNJ is not analogous to the requirements of the OPMA. The District asserts that Respondent's efforts to analogize the use of the term "promptly" in TEACHNJ with the OPMA is misguided and there are no cases or administrative decisions that have relied upon the OPMA to interpret the term "promptly" in TEACHNJ.

The District asserts that the requirement for the filing of tenure charges for inefficiency are significantly different from any efforts required to generate meeting minutes under OPMA and they are not analogous. Further, the District asserts that tenure charges for inefficiency were "promptly" filed in accordance with both the statue and regulations. The District emphasizes that when determining whether tenure charges for inefficiency should be filed against a teacher, the school district must evaluate the summative evaluations scores and if they warrant tenure charges for inefficiency under TEACHNJ, the District must then review the evaluation process of the particular teacher and assess and evaluate each document related to the process, including those related to training and professional development. Further, the District must interview all parties involved in coaching, training and observing those teachers within the two year time period and then determine whether tenure charges are warranted. Further, in a case where a teacher was rated partially effective in two years as is the case here, the District must also determine whether there are any exceptional circumstances which might warrant a teacher another year to show that he is able to be an effective teacher. Given the size of the District's staff and its financial pressures, the District was able to review each tenure charge case during the summer months while continuing to prepare for the upcoming academic year and subsequently to file tenure charges against its inefficient teachers in the moths of September and October. Under these circumstances and given the complexity of the tenure charge review process, the District maintains that the tenure charges filed in this instance on October 14, 2015 were promptly filed.

The District also points out that the claim that the District did not "promptly" file the tenure charges for inefficiency under TEACHNJ is not grounds for dismissal under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2. That statutory provision limits the factors that may be considered by the arbitrator when rendering tenure charges for inefficiency. For these reasons, the District asserts that Respondent's Motion for Summary Decision must be denied.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2(a) limits an arbitrator's review of a District's determination to review charges of inefficiency to four factors:

(1) the employee's evaluation failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process, including, but not limited to providing a corrective action plan;

(2) there is a mistake of fact in the evaluation;

(3) the charges would not have been brought but for consideration of political affiliation, nepotism, union activity, discrimination as prohibited by State or federal law, or other conduct prohibited by State or federal law; or

(4) the district's actions were arbitrary and capricious.

If any of those factors apply, then pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2(b), the arbitrator "shall then determine if that fact materially affected the outcome of the evaluation." Respondent's Motion for Summary Determination seeks dismissal of the tenure charges against him because they were not filed "promptly" as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3(a)(1). Respondent acknowledges that the requirement that tenure charges be filed "promptly" is not one of the four factors to consider when determining to revoke a teacher's tenure. However, the failure to file tenure charges "promptly" could lead to undue delay that may be prejudicial to Respondent.

Respondent would apply factors adopted by the court for determination of whether publication of the minutes of public meetings have been published promptly pursuant to the OPMA to define "promptly" in reference to tenure charges filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3. Transcription and publication of the minutes of public meetings is not an apt analogy to the requirements of filing tenure charges. Publication of meeting minutes is a ministerial duty. The determination to file tenure charges requires compilation and substantive review of records, interviews with supervision and determination of whether the proper procedures were followed. In short, publication of meeting minutes and filing of tenure charges are not comparable.

Respondent also points to dictionary definitions of the word "promptly" which include "without delay and with reasonable speed." In this instance, Respondent asserts that the 141 days that elapsed between Respondent's summative conference of May 26, 2015 and October 14, 2015 when he was served with tenure charges is sufficient to establish that the District failed to file tenure charges "promptly" as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3. That time lapse by itself does not establish that the District failed to act promptly. Rather, the time lapse relied upon by the Respondent must be considered in light of the four factors subject to review pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2(a). Neither this Motion nor the pleadings responsive to the Motion address whether the time lapse here was "without delay and with reasonable speed" or whether it materially supports one or more of the four factors to be considered in determining whether the tenure charges filed against Respondent are sustained.

Accordingly, determination of Respondent's Motion for Summary Decision shall remain pending during the arbitration process. Both parties shall have the opportunity to further address whether the District's failed to file tenure charges against Respondent "promptly" in the context of the factors for review in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2(a).[2] The hearing in this matter remains scheduled for January 14, 2016. Given the brief period between this letter and the scheduled hearing date, Respondent's answer is due filed on Monday, January 11, 2016.is due filed on Monday, January 11, 2016.

SYNOPSIS

In this case, petitioner – formerly employed as a custodian for the respondent Board – challenged the termination of his employment and sought reinstatement, back pay, and compensation for unused sick and vacation days. Petitioner contended, inter alia, that he acquired tenure when he was appointed via Board resolution on June 26, 2012 to the position of custodian for an indeterminate term, effective July 1, 2012; accordingly, petitioner argued that he was improperly terminated in violation of his tenure rights at the end of the 2012-2013 school year. The respondent Board asserted that – pursuant to the collective bargaining agreement (CBA) and Board Policy Number 4360, both of which expressly state that custodians are not entitled to acquire tenure – petitioner had been employed under a series of annual contracts with fixed terms since his initial hiring in 2001, and never acquired tenure with the Board.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: for each year prior to 2012-2013, petitioner had been appointed via a one-year fixed term contract; he was initially appointed in 2001 as a custodian, but promoted in his second year to head custodian – a position he retained via annual reappointment through the 2011-2012 school year; petitioner was demoted to custodian effective July 1, 2012 because of performance issues; although the Board's resolution appointing petitioner as custodian for the 2012-2013 school year – at an annual salary of $46,000 – did not expressly state that his appointment was for a one-year term, the Board does not grant tenure to custodial staff, and routinely appoints custodians for a one year term; petitioner had always been appointed via a one-year contract until July 2012; although no fully executed contract for 2012-2013 could be produced by either party, any failure to execute such a contract was clearly not intended to confer tenure upon petitioner; in fact, a contract could not be produced only due to the dysfunction of the Board's business office, and the misfeasance of its prior administrators; the CBA expressly stipulates that custodians in the Netcong school district will not earn tenure; records produced by the Board confirm that petitioner was already paid for 20 unused vacation days; and no further vacation pay is due or owing to petitioner. The ALJ concluded that petitioner was not tenured at the time of his discharge, and that his claims are meritless and/or outside of the Commissioner's jurisdiction. The ALJ noted that at hearing, the Board did concede that petitioner should have been paid at the rate of $46,000 for the 2012-2013 school year, and was paid only $45,000. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered the Board to compensate petitioner in the amount of $1,000 for the amount owed him for his last year of employment. The remaining claims were dismissed.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ, and adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter.

| RESPONDENTS. | : | |

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner, Ali Feti, and the respondents' reply thereto. In this matter, the petitioner is challenging the Board's non-renewal of his employment as a custodian in the school district following the 2012-2013 school year.

The petitioner takes exception to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) determination that he did not have tenure as a custodian at the time of his discharge. Specifically, the petitioner maintains that since he had no written contract for the 2012-2013 school year, he was a custodian with no fixed term of employment and entitled to tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 as a matter of law. The petitioner emphasizes that the intent of the Netcong Board of Education (Board) is not relevant to whether he acquired tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3, and where a board of education does not invoke its power to prevent tenure for custodians, it accrues by default.

Additionally, the petitioner asserts that his demotion from head custodian to custodian for the 2012-2013 school year violated his newly acquired tenure rights. Therefore, the ALJ wrongfully found that he was covered by the collective bargaining agreement[1] (CBA) because the anti-tenure strictures of the CBA do not include head custodians and, since his demotion violated his tenure rights, he should have remained head custodian. Finally, the petitioner contends that the ALJ's decision on the claim for unpaid wages and vacation pay misinterprets the documentary evidence and is incorrect.

In reply, the respondents maintain that the ALJ had the opportunity to review numerous documents, as well as the opportunity to assess the credibility of the witnesses at the hearing. There is nothing in the petitioner's exceptions that points to any inappropriate or incorrect findings or conclusions made by the ALJ. The respondents stress that it would have been completely illogical for the Board to decide to grant tenure to the petitioner when it had been appointing him and other custodians on annual contracts for at least a dozen years. Further, the CBA and Board Policy Number 4360[2] both expressly state that custodians are not entitled to acquire tenure. In light of the petitioner's employment history – coupled with the relevant provisions of the CBA and Policy Number 4360, and the applicable case law – it was reasonable for the ALJ to conclude that the petitioner's 2012-2013 contract was for a fixed one-year period. As a result, the petitioner did not acquire tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 and his non-renewal in 2013 was consistent with the law.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision – that the petitioner did not have tenure as a custodian at the time of his discharge. The Commissioner is also in accord with the ALJ's determination that the Board did not violate the petitioner's due process rights when it non-renewed his employment. Finally, based on the Board's concession at the hearing, it is undisputed that the Board is required to pay the petitioner $1000.00 that is owed to him based on the miscalculation of the payment he received for his accrued vacation time.[3]

[1] The CBA states that, "[c]ustodians shall continue the practice of executing annual employment contracts with the Board. Custodians shall not receive tenure."

[2] Board Policy Number 4360 states that, "[p]ersons employed as janitors, custodians, and maintenance personnel including supervisory personnel will be employed on fixed term contracts and will not acquire tenure in their positions."

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3, boards of education have the discretion to deny tenure to custodial staff or to confer that status upon them. In order to exercise the discretion to deny tenure to custodial staff, a board of education must appoint the custodians for a fixed term. In this case, it is undisputed that in each year – beginning in 2001 and continuing through the 2011-2012 school year – the Board awarded the petitioner a fixed term, one-year contract; thus, he did not acquire tenure during those years. The dispute concerns whether the petitioner acquired tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 when he was reappointed on July 1, 2012, in light of the fact that neither party was able to produce a written contract that included the fixed term of his appointment.[4]

In reaching her conclusion, the ALJ had the opportunity to assess the credibility of the various witnesses who appeared before her and made findings of fact based upon their testimony. In this regard, the clear and unequivocal standard governing the Commissioner's review is:

> The agency head may not reject or modify any findings of fact as to issues of credibility of lay witness testimony unless it is first determined from a review of the record that the findings are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or are not supported by sufficient, competent, and credible evidence in the record. [N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c)].

The Commissioner finds no basis in the record to reject either the ALJ's recitations of testimony or her determinations of witness credibility.

The ALJ found the petitioner's theory of what happened in connection with the circumstances of his reappointment for the 2012-2013 school year to be nonsensical. In contrast, the Board's witnesses testified consistently regarding the events leading up to the petitioner's

[3] The Commissioner also agrees with the remaining determinations made by the ALJ regarding various claims advanced by the petitioner, including his entitlement to additional compensation for vacation and sick time.

[4] The record contains a copy of the Board resolution approving the petitioner's employment as a custodian effective July 1, 2012, with an annual salary of $46,000; however, the resolution does not include any additional terms of his employment.

reappointment for the 2012-2013 school year, and the intention of the Board to again appoint the petitioner to a fixed one-year term. The ALJ found that a contract for the 2012-2013 school year could not be produced because of dysfunction in the Board's business office and misfeasance on the part of prior administrative staff; the Board's intention would have been to again enter into a one-year fixed contract with the petitioner for the 2012-2013 school year. As a result, the petitioner was not tenured under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 when his employment was non-renewed following the 2012-2013 school year. The totality of the evidence in the record amply supports the ALJ's determination, including petitioner's contractual history with the Board and the anti-tenure provisions outlined in both the CBA and Board Policy Number 4360. Finally, the Commissioner finds the petitioner's exceptions unpersuasive, largely reflecting arguments and objections previously raised before the ALJ and taken into account by her in weighing the testimony and the documentary evidence.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. The Board is directed to pay the petitioner $1000.00 owed to him for the miscalculation of the payment received for his accrued vacation time. The remaining claims in the petition of appeal are hereby dismissed.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Ali Feti (Feti), challenges the termination of his employment as a custodian by the Netcong Board of Education (the Board). He seeks reinstatement, back pay, and compensation for unused sick and vacation days. Feti's petition of appeal was filed with the Commissioner of Education (the Commissioner) on September 24, 2013. An answer was filed by respondents on October 15, 2013, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case on October 16, 2013. The case was initially assigned to the Honorable Tahesha Way, ALJ, and was reassigned to me on August 20, 2014.

A motion to amend the petition was denied via letter order dated October 16, 2014. A motion for summary decision was filed by respondents on January 6, 2015. Petitioner responded via cross-motion on February 27, 2015. Respondents replied via letter brief on March 16, 2015. Oral argument took place on April 16, 2015. Finding that the parties' submissions revealed disputed material facts, the motions were both denied via order dated April 21, 2015. Feti sought interlocutory review of the April 21, 2015, order; his request was denied by the Commissioner via letter dated May 13, 2015.

Hearings were conducted on July 13, 2015, and August 3, 2015. Post-hearing submissions were received on August 31, 2015, September 1, 2015, and September 25, 2015, at which time the record closed.

ISSUES PRESENTED

1. Did Feti hold his position of employment under tenure, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3?

2. If not, was the Board's termination of Feti's employment at the end of the 2012-2013 year otherwise compliant with applicable law? If not, what should be the remedy?

3. Is Feti entitled to additional compensation for unused vacation and sick days?

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS OF FACT

The following background facts are uncontroverted, and I FIND:

Feti had been employed by the Board as a custodian since on or about April 1, 2001, when his employment was not renewed at the close of the 2012-2013 school year. He was given thirty days' notice, making his termination effective July 26, 2013. Feti never requested a formal written statement of reasons for his non-renewal, nor did he request an informal appearance before the Board.

For each year prior to 2012-2013, Feti had been appointed via a one-year fixed-term contract. Initially appointed as a custodian, Feti's October 2, 2002, contract promoted him to head custodian, a position he retained via annual reappointment through the 2011-2012 year. Effective July 1, 2012, Feti was demoted to custodian at a salary of $46,000 per annum. Neither Feti nor the Board could produce a written contract specifying the terms of his appointment for 2012-2013.

Feti's Appointment for the 2012-2013 School Year

Minutes of the Board's Education Committee meeting on June 12, 2012, reveal concerns about the quality of District custodial services. Interim Superintendent Dwight Pfennig recommended that no head custodian be appointed for the 2012-2013 school year, and that Feti and Stephen Peterson be appointed as custodians. (R-6.) This reflected a change in heart by Pfennig, as Feti previously had received a May 11, 2012, letter in which Pfennig had non-renewed his employment, effective July 1, 2012. (R-4.)

The Board acted on Feti's employment on June 26, 2012, via a resolution appointing him at a salary of $45,000. Discussion ensued, with one Board member questioning the decision not to appoint a head custodian, and likewise questioning the amount of salary. It was agreed that Feti's salary should be $46,000, and an amended resolution unanimously carried, as follows:

> BE IT RESOLVED that the Netcong Board of Education, upon the recommendation of the Interim Superintendent, approve the employment of Mr. Ali Feti as a Full-Time Custodian, effective July 1, 2012 with an annual salary of $46,000.

The resolution language for other appointments made that night, to include custodial and secretarial staff, was similar. Conversely, resolutions appointing an assistant principal and an interim business administrator explicitly stated that these individuals had been hired for a one-year term.

The events leading up to Feti's reappointment for 2012-2013 were described by Board President Bernadette Dalesandro (Dalesandro). Dalesandro is an experienced Board member, having served the public for nearly twenty years. From 1995-2004 she simultaneously served on the Netcong Board and on the Lenape Valley Regional Board of Education. She has served as a member of the negotiating committee continuously since 2004, with the exception of the 2009-2010 year, when she took a leave from service for health reasons. Dalesandro testified that Pfennig did not wish to renew either Feti's or Richardson's employment, and she indicated that the letter of May 11, 2012, was sent to Feti because Pfennig was dissatisfied with Feti's performance. But Pfennig was leaving the District. It was decided to give Feti an additional chance; allow him to work for the 2012-2013 school year; and let Pfennig's successor, Kevin Carroll, determine the future of Feti's employment.

Dalesandro was adamant, notwithstanding her inability to produce a written contract, that it was never the intention of the Board to appoint Feti for anything more than a one-year term. Dalesandro pointed to the history of contracts awarded to Feti previously each year. She pointed to the language in the Collective Bargaining Agreement (CBA) between the Board and the Netcong Teacher's Association, which provides at Article XV, paragraph E that, "[c]ustodians shall continue the practice of executing annual employment contracts with the Board. Custodians shall not receive tenure." (R-5.) Likewise, Board Policy Number 4360 provides that "[p]ersons employed as janitors, custodians, and maintenance personnel including supervisory personnel will be employed on fixed term contracts and will not acquire tenure in their positions." (R-9.)

As for why there was no contract, Dalesandro described a business office that was in complete disarray. Her description was confirmed by Business Administrator Nicole Sylvester, who had attempted to locate Feti's contract in District files, but to no avail. Since 2011, the District had employed so many different business administrators that Sylvester could not recall their names or dates of employment without the assistance of a previously prepared certification. That document confirmed that there have been five different individuals holding the position since 2011. (R-1.) Both Sylvester and Dalesandro shared that Christine Werner, who held the position for the 2011-2012 school year, kept important school documents in her car; only with the intervention of Board counsel were some of these documents later returned. Sylvester provided a photograph of the office "filing system," which consisted of piles of boxes containing personnel files and other critical business office files stacked against a wall. This photograph depicted the files after some effort had been undertaken to organize them, but nonetheless continued to reflect an appalling way to maintain important public records. Additionally, there was a constant turnover of school superintendents. Many were appointed as interims as the Board explored the cost savings that could result from a shared arrangement with neighboring districts. This background was offered to further explain both why Feti's 2012-2013 contract could not be located, and why the resolution appointing him did not expressly state that his appointment was for a one-year term.

Feti likewise could not produce a fully executed copy of a contract for the 2012-2013 year, although he contended that he signed a contract, and unsuccessfully requested a finalized copy several times. But Feti urged that he anticipated that he would not be given a contract that year, because Dalesandro was the president of the Board and she disliked him. He pointed to events that transpired in or about 2009. Then Interim Superintendent of Schools Arthur DeBenedetto also served as Superintendent for the Stanhope Schools in a shared-services arrangement. According to Feti, DeBenedetto insisted that the husband of the Stanhope Board of Education president, John Thomas, be hired as a custodian in Netcong. Thomas was ultimately fired in the aftermath of an incident in which he threw his keys at DeBenedetto. Feti perceived that shortly thereafter, DeBenedetto was fired as well. In Feti's view, DeBenedetto and Dalesandro were close friends; she blamed him for DeBenedetto's discharge; and for this reason, his contract went unsigned.

Feti's theory is nonsensical for multiple reasons. Dalesandro explained that DeBenedetto was a retired superintendent who was retained in an interim capacity. DeBenedetto was not fired, as Feti contended, but rather, had simply reached the end of his term. It moreover strains credibility that Dalesandro would harbor a grudge and non-renew Feti's employment in 2013 to retaliate for an affront years earlier. Nor is it credible that Dalesandro, a highly experienced Board member, would fail to provide a contract to Feti when doing so might create an issue relative to his acquisition of tenure. According to Feti, she did not return his contract because she disliked him; but query then, why would Dalesandro appoint someone she so disliked for an indeterminate term?

In summary, I FIND that on June 26, 2012, Feti was appointed at an annual salary of $46,000 to serve as custodian effective July 1, 2012. The resolution so appointing him does not expressly state that his appointment was for a one-year term. But I also FIND that the Board does not grant tenure to custodial staff, and routinely appoints custodians for a one-year term. I FIND that Feti himself was always appointed via a one-year contract until July 2012. I FIND that for the last year of Feti's employment, neither party was able to produce a fully executed contract, either because the contract could not be located, or does not exist. But I FIND that any failure to fully execute such a contract was in no way intended to confer tenure upon Feti. To the contrary, a contract could not be produced only due to the dysfunction of the Board's business office, and the misfeasance of its prior administrators. Finally, I FIND that the CBA expressly stipulates that District custodians will not earn tenure.

Vacation and Sick Pay

Sick Pay

Feti has made a claim for payment for unused sick pay, and has made the bald statement that the Board owes him compensation for forty days. Accompanying his motion for summary decision was no evidence that this number of days remains in his sick leave bank. Feti cites Article IV, paragraph A(1) of the CBA to support his request for sick leave, which provides that "[a] teacher having been in the employ of the Board for (10) or more years shall be entitled to severance allowance for unused sick leave . . . ." The agreement makes no reference to such benefits for custodians, however. [1]

Vacation Pay

I FIND that Feti was already paid for the twenty days of unused vacation pay that he seeks via this petition. Business records produced by the Board confirm that he received payment both for working in July 2013, and for unused vacation days.[2]

Sylvester shared a copy of a handwritten check dated July 24, 2013, in the amount of $2677.05, reflecting net pay on a gross amount of $3750. That amount of payment was later formalized in a non-negotiable check issued officially through payroll. Feti urged that this check does not say "vacation pay," and insisted that it was actually payment for his work in July 2013. His argument is unavailing. Dalesandro related that among the issues surrounding the revolving door of business administrators in Netcong was a former administrator who wrote what Dalesandro described as "hand checks," and defrauded the District in the process. Thereafter, Dalesandro kept a closer eye on the business office, and expressly prohibited the issuance of handwritten checks. The check issued to Feti was a notable exception; Dalesandro expressly recalled being asked to permit the check to be issued, and being expressly informed that it was for Feti's vacation pay. Her testimony was credible.

Moreover, the Board produced documentary evidence that payment was made both for the vacation days and for the period of notice in July 2013. Dalesandro produced a payroll register for the period ending July 31, 2013. It reflects a gross payment for the period from January 1, 2013, through July 31, 2013, of $26,250. This is the equivalent of seven months' pay at the rate of $3750 per month; twelve months of payment at $3750 per month would equal $45,000. Thus, Feti was paid through July

[1] A copy of the CBA accompanies the certification of counsel filed in support of the Board's motion for summary decision.

[2] Feti was paid at the rate of $45,000 per annum during the 2012-2013 year, and the additional pay was calculated at this erroneous rate. The Board conceded at hearing that Feti should have been paid at the rate of $46,000 per annum and that it should compensate Feti in the amount of $1,000.

31, 2013; since his termination date was July 26, 2013, Dalesandro correctly testified that he was actually overpaid by a few days. (See R-10.)

The payroll register also reveals a separate payment in the gross amount of $3750; this was the payment made for Feti's unused vacation days. It is thus clear, and I FIND, that no further vacation pay is due or owing to Feti.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Burden of Proof

Feti unsuccessfully asserts that the Board bears the burden of proving that it has appointed him for a fixed term. He urges that in the absence of such proof, his employment status must be deemed to be protected by tenure. The following language in Schaffer v. Weast, 546 U.S. 49, 56,126 S. Ct. 528, 534, 163 L. Ed. 2d 387, 396 (2005), is instructive:

> . . . the ordinary default rule [is] that plaintiffs bear the risk of failing to prove their claims. McCormick § 337, at 412 ("The burdens of pleading and proof with regard to most facts have been and should be assigned to the plaintiff who generally seeks to change the present state of affairs and who therefore naturally should be expected to bear the risk of failure of proof or persuasion"); C. Mueller & L. Kirkpatrick, Evidence § 3.1, p 104 (3d ed. 2003) ("Perhaps the broadest and most accepted idea is that the person who seeks court action should justify the request, which means that the plaintiffs bear the burdens on the elements in their claims").

Feti points to no statutory authority that would support a departure from the default rule. Accordingly, Feti must prove his claims by a preponderance of the credible evidence. See also N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c).

Feti's Entitlement to Tenure

Tenure is a legislative status. It is earned by operation of law, and upon meeting the precise requirements of the tenure statute. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90

N.J. 63 (1982); Zimmerman v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 38 N.J. 65 (1962). Feti's claims spring from N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3, which provides:

> Every public school janitor of a school district shall, unless he is appointed for a fixed term, hold his office, position or employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and shall not be dismissed or suspended or reduced in compensation, except as the result of the reduction of the number of janitors in the district made in accordance with the provisions of this title or except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense and only in the manner prescribed by subarticle B of article 2 of chapter 6 of this title.

Thus, local public school districts retain the discretion to deny tenure to custodial staff, or alternatively, to confer that status upon them. Wright v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Orange, 99 N.J. 112 (1985). Our Supreme Court has held that, "[b]oards may, without contravening the terms of the statute, permissibly pick and choose between the statutory minimum of no tenure for any custodial employee and the statutory maximum of instant tenure for all custodians." Id. at 119.

In Strincoski v Board of Education of East Brunswick, 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 37, the State Board of Education relied on Wright to award tenure to a custodian where the CBA provided that tenure would be earned after three years of service. The State Board so determined notwithstanding evidence proffered by the board that it awarded its custodians fixed term contracts. Although these individual contracts evinced an intent to deny tenure, the CBA was held to govern the rights of the parties. When the reasoning in Strincoski and Wright is applied here, it is plain that Feti's claim to tenure must fail.

In Netcong, the CBA clearly and unequivocally denies tenure to custodians. Thus, the inability of the Board to produce an executed fixed term contract for the 2012-2013 school year does not dictate a result in favor of Feti. Moreover, unlike Strincoski, the course of conduct between the parties here is consistent with the CBA, and lends further support to the Board's contention that it has consistently exercised its discretion under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 to deny its custodians tenure. Each year the Board awarded Feti a fixed-term one-year contract, and but for the malfeasance of its administrative staff, would have done so again in 2012-2013. Our courts have considered the course of conduct between the parties when determining if tenure should be granted to school district custodians. See Hunterdon Central High Sch. Educ. Ass'n. v Hunterdon Central Reg'l High Sch. Bd. of Educ., 1988 S.L.D. 2468, 2473, aff'd, A-5036-87T2 (App. Div. June 28, 1989).

I CONCLUDE that at the time of his discharge, Feti was not tenured. In his post-hearing memorandum Feti urges that his demotion to custodian from head custodian violated his tenure rights because he suffered a reduction in compensation. He moreover urges that the CBA's terms are inapplicable to his employment as a head custodian. But until 2012-2013, Feti was unequivocally appointed for repeated fixed terms; was not tenured; and was subject to demotion at the discretion of the Board. At the time of his termination, and throughout the 2012-2013 year, Feti was serving in a position that fell within the CBA's recognition clause. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that these additional claims are without merit.

The Termination of Feti's Employment

In the alternative, Feti argues that the Board violated his due process rights when it non-renewed his non-tenured employment. Feti asserts that the Board improperly failed to alert him of his right to a formal statement of reasons and an opportunity for a hearing. But the statutes that afford Feti due process place the clear burden on him to request a statement of reasons and a hearing, and place no concomitant burden on the Board to invite him to do so. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b); see also N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.2.[3] As the court stated in Hubbard v. Springfield Board of Education, 2003 U.S. App. LEXIS 23118 (November 12, 2003), the statute affords no automatic right to reasons or to a hearing, and "[t]he information and opportunity need only be provided upon written request . . . ." Id. at *8. Likewise, in Leang v. Jersey City Board of Education, 198 N.J. 557, 578-79 (2009), the court held:

> Upon plaintiff's receipt of the notification from the Board that her contract would not be renewed, she had a statutory right to request and to receive a written statement of reasons for the Board's decision not to renew her contract. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.2. In addition, she had a statutory right to demand an "informal appearance" before the Board during which she would be permitted "to convince the members of the board to offer reemployment." N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1.
> Those statutory rights are the embodiment of the process created by the Legislature through which plaintiff could seek to challenge and to be heard about the Board's non-renewal decision. Plaintiff did not avail herself of those statutory rights and therefore failed to take advantage of the avenues of relief that would have afforded her the due process she now complains was denied to her. We will not permit her to expand upon her statutorily protected right to be heard by authorizing her to pursue a claim that she was in some way deprived of due process in the Board's non-renewal decision.

Accordingly, it was incumbent upon Feti avail himself of the applicable statutory due process procedures, and there is no basis for his claim that his rights were violated by the Board's failure to affirmatively invite him to do so.

The remaining due process contentions of the petition demand little analysis or discussion. The claimed violations of N.J.S.A. 11A:2-13 and N.J.S.A. 11A:2-24 are brought in the incorrect forum. The Commissioner's jurisdiction is defined by statute, and is limited to "controversies and disputes arising under the school laws." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Our courts have held that where a controversy does not arise under the school laws, it is outside the jurisdiction of the Commissioner, even if the dispute pertains to school personnel. Bd. of Educ. of E. Brunswick Twp. v. Twp. Council of E. Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94, 102 (1966). Feti's demand for arbitration under the CBA likewise must be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction.

I CONCLUDE that Feti's claims to reinstatement and back pay due to a violation of his due process rights are meritless.

Sick and Vacation Days

Feti has no entitlement to payment for either sick or vacation days. Relative to vacation days, there is no factual basis for his claim to additional compensation and I CONCLUDE that he was paid for his vacation days. The Board readily conceded, and I CONCLUDE however, that the amount paid to him should be adjusted to reflect pro rata payment at the rate of $46,000 per annum.

Feti's demand for payment for unused sick days is meritless. He cites no provision of Title 18A of the New Jersey School Laws, and accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Feti's claims are outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction. See: Bd. of Educ. of E. Brunswick Twp., supra, 48 N.J. at 102. But it bears reiteration that even the collective bargaining language upon which Feti relies lends no support to his claim.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, the Board is ORDERED to compensate Feti in the amount of $1000, reflecting the difference between the $45,000 it paid him and the $46,000 it owed him for his last year of employment. His payment for vacation pay should likewise be adjusted to reflect pro rata payment at the rate of $46,000 per annum. The remaining claims of the petition are DISMISSED in their entirety and with prejudice.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Re: Diane Potorski v. Board of Trustees of the Princeton Charter School, Agency Dkt. No. 307-9/15

Dear Parties:

Upon review of the petition of appeal filed in connection with this matter as well as the Board's motion to dismiss, I have determined to dismiss the above-captioned matter without prejudice for failure to provide the information required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(c). However, petitioner is advised that she may refile her petition with the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (Bureau) once she obtains an eligibility determination for work-related disability benefits by the Division of Workers' Compensation (Division).[1]

In brief, the instant petition contends that the Board deducted certain sick and vacation days from petitioner "for a work related injury" in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1(a). N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(c) provides, in relevant part:

> A petitioner claiming benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 shall include a copy of the ruling or settlement agreement issued by the Division of Workers' Compensation with respect to the injury underlying the claim or provide reasons why the matter constitutes an exception to the requirement that the Commissioner refrain from exercising jurisdiction until the Division makes a determination of work-related injury.

[1] The 90-day limitation period for petitions seeking benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 now runs from the date of the Division's determination that either finds the employee to have been injured in the performance of duty or settles the compensation claim without a determination of work-related causation.

New Jersey Is An Equal Opportunity Employer • Printed on Recycled Paper and Recyclable

Upon receipt and review of the Board's motion, it became apparent that the petition lacks any indication that a decision on petitioner's eligibility for work-related disability benefits has been rendered by the Division, or that petitioner's claim falls within an exception contemplated by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(c).

Via letter dated November 6, 2015, petitioner was given an opportunity to remedy the deficiency by submitting, on or before November 23, 2015, either 1) a copy of her Division ruling or 2) reasons why this matter is properly before the Commissioner, notwithstanding that no Division determination has been made. To date, the Bureau has not received a response from petitioner.

Absent the information required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(c), the petition remains deficient and, therefore, I find that it must be dismissed as premature. See, e.g., Naomi Weiss v. Board of Education of the City of New Brunswick, Middlesex County, EDU 3576-14, Initial Decision (July 24, 2014), adopted, Commissioner Decision No. 360-14 (September 4, 2014).

Accordingly, the Board's motion to dismiss the petition is granted. The petition is hereby dismissed without prejudice.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Sincerely,

David C. Hespe

| IN THE MATTER OF TENURE CHARGES OF JUANA JAVIER | AGENCY REF. NO. 280-9/15 |
| STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK | STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT |

The State-Operated School District of the City of Newark (the "District"), whose principal office is located at 2 Cedar Street, Newark, New Jersey 07102, and its successors, assigns, officers, employees, agents and representatives (collectively, "School District"), and Juana Javier, residing at 12 Gallagher Court Street, Bergenfield, New Jersey 07621 ("Respondent") (collectively, the "Parties") have voluntarily resolved all disputed matters and enter into the following Stipulation of Settlement, which fully disposes of all issues in controversy between them in full and complete settlement of all outstanding issues as detailed below.

WHEREAS Respondent is a tenured teaching staff member employed by the District as a teacher; and

WHEREAS the State District Superintendent of the School District ("Superintendent") certified tenure charges of inefficiency to the Commissioner of Education of the State of New Jersey, captioned In the Matter of Tenure Charges Against Juana Javier, State-operated School

District of the City of Newark, Essex County ("Tenure Charges"), upon allegations, including, but not limited to, that Respondent received ineffective annual evaluations during the 2013-14 and 2014-15 school years, and such charges were assigned Docket No. 280-9/15; and Respondent filed an answer opposing the charges; and the Commissioner of Education, having reviewed the charges and Respondent's answer, determined that the charges were sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in compensation, and accordingly referred the matter to Arbitrator Randi E. Lowitt, Esq. ("Arbitrator") for a hearing; and

WHEREAS, Respondent has denied the allegations set forth in the tenure charges; and

WHEREAS, the Parties are aware of the uncertainty of the outcome of arbitration; and

WHEREAS, the District is a State-operated school district with stringent budget limitations and due to the expenditure of resources due to multiple days of hearings with numerous witnesses and the concern that school personnel will be removed from their educational duties and responsibilities during that time, the Parties wish to resolve this matter in accordance with the terms set forth herein rather than proceed with arbitration; and

WHEREAS the proposed Stipulation of Settlement is in the best interest of the Parties and the public because Respondent resigns from her employment without litigation and it avoids an uncertain conclusion after protracted and costly proceedings at the expense of the public;

NOW, THEREFORE, subject to approval by the Arbitrator, the Parties hereby agree as follows:

1. Concurrent with the execution of this Stipulation, Respondent shall submit an irrevocable letter of resignation to the District, which shall provide for her resignation from the District effective February 1, 2016 ("Effective Date"). (See Exhibit A to the Stipulation, a copy of Respondent's signed letter of resignation).

2. Respondent also agrees to withdraw with prejudice any and all claims or suits that she may have previously filed against the District that are still pending in any and all courts and/or before any and all agencies with the exception of workers compensation claims. This Settlement is intended to be the final resolution of all outstanding matters between the District and Respondent. Should Respondent fail to submit letters of withdrawals for any such pending claims or suits, this Stipulation of Settlement will serve as Respondent's formal written notice of withdrawal of those pending claims or suits, except for workers compensation claims.

3. Upon final approval of the signed Stipulation by the Arbitrator, the District shall and hereby does withdraw the instant Tenure Charges. The District agrees to not pursue the subject Tenure Charges against Respondent as long as this Stipulation remains in effect and is not voided by any court or administrative agency of competent jurisdiction. In the event the Stipulation is voided, the District retains the right to file and consider for certification, tenure charges against Respondent, including those tenure charges which have been previously filed against her by the District, and Respondent reserves the right to defend same.

4. Upon final approval of the signed Stipulation by the Arbitrator, Respondent will be placed on administrative leave with pay and will receive salary for the time commencing on September 1, 2015 until her date of resignation on January 31, 2016. All salary paid for said period shall be subject to all applicable salary withholdings and deductions. Other than the salary that Respondent receives from being placed on administrative leave with pay for the time period identified above, Respondent will not receive any other monies from the District in exchange for this Stipulation of Settlement.

5. Respondent represents that since on or about September 1, 2015, she has been covered by her spouse's health and prescription insurance policy.

   a. In light of her other health and prescription coverage, Respondent agrees to waive District provided health and prescription coverage for all periods covered by any retroactive salary checks received by Respondent.

   b. Although Respondent agrees to waive District provided health and prescription coverage as set forth in subsection 5a, Respondent will not seek and/or accept any health and prescription waiver payment from the District.

   c. Notwithstanding Paragraph 4, as a result of Respondent's waiver of health and prescription coverage as set forth in subsection 5a, the District shall not deduct Chapter 78 premium contributions from any retroactive salary checks received by Respondent.

   d. However, to the extent that Respondent receives any regular payroll checks in January 2016 and February 2016 (not retroactive payments as set forth in Paragraph 5), all applicable salary withholdings and deductions shall be made by the District, including Respondent's Chapter 78 premium contributions, as there will be no waiver by Respondent of District provided health and prescription coverage for the time period covered by the regular payroll check(s).

6. Respondent shall not earn any paid days (e.g. sick, personal or vacation) for any portion of the 2015-16 school year.

7. This Stipulation is based upon the understanding that Respondent's separation from employment with the District, effective February 1, 2016, will be deemed a voluntary resignation in good standing. Upon inquiry from any third party to authorized employees or representatives of the District, those employees or representatives will provide no information other than to confirm Respondent's employment, position, salary and dates of employment, and state that the reason for her separation from employment was her voluntary resignation.

8. The District will not oppose any application by Respondent for unemployment benefits.

9. In accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 (a) 6, Respondent has been advised of the Commissioner's duty to refer tenure determinations resulting in loss of position to the State Board of Examiners. Respondent acknowledges that the District is legally required to participate in proceedings initiated against Respondent's license by the State Board of Examiners resulting from the Commissioner's referral and that said participation will not be considered to be a violation of this Stipulation of Settlement. Aside from such requirements, pursuant to the above-referenced regulation, the District agrees to not independently seek the suspension or revocation of Respondent's teaching certification or license or seek to prevent her from applying for or receiving pension benefits on any grounds related to the Tenure Charges or her resignation pursuant to this Stipulation of Settlement.

10. As of the Effective Date, all of Respondent's rights of employment with the District, including but not limited to accrued salary, benefits, tenure and seniority, will permanently end.

11. Respondent will not apply for reemployment with the District at any time. Specifically, Respondent will be considered to have permanently resigned from her tenured position as a result of this Stipulation of Settlement. If Respondent does apply for reemployment with the District and is approved for employment, the terms of this Agreement shall control and shall be grounds for termination of Respondent's employment.

12. In exchange for the consideration set forth in paragraph 4 above, the sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, Respondent hereby waives, releases and discharges any and all claims or rights that she has or may have against the District, the State District Superintendent, its Advisory Board of Education and its Advisory Board members, and any and all other District officers, employees, representatives, agents, successors and assigns (collectively, the "Released Parties") including any claim for attorneys' fees, costs or other monetary relief. This waiver, release and discharge includes, without limitation, any and all actions, claims, and liabilities of whatsoever kind or character, in law or in equity, now known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, directly or indirectly related to Respondent's employment with the District or separation from employment with the District. It specifically includes, without limitation, all claims which Respondent may have regarding tenure, withholding of increment, discrimination on any basis, any federal or state civil rights law, any alleged violation of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, as amended; the Older Worker Benefits Protection Act; Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended; Sections 1981 through 1988 of Title 42 of the United States Code; the Civil Rights Act of 1991; the Equal Pay Act; the Americans with Disabilities Act; the Rehabilitation Act; the Family and Medical Leave Act; the Fair Labor Standards Act; the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended; the Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act; the National Labor Relations Act; the Fair Credit Reporting Act; the Occupational Safety and Health Act; the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Act; the Employee Polygraph Protection Act; the Immigration Reform Control Act; the retaliation provisions of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002; the False Claims Act; the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination; the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act; the New Jersey Family Leave Act; the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law; the New Jersey Equal Pay Law; the New Jersey Occupational Safety and Health Law; the New Jersey Smokers' Rights Law; the New Jersey Genetic Privacy Act; the New Jersey Fair Credit Reporting Act; New Jersey Wages and Hours Law, unemployment compensations laws, disability benefits laws, retaliation provisions of the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Law; the United States Constitution, the New Jersey Constitution; and/or any other alleged violation of any federal, state or local law, regulation or ordinance; any claim based on contract, implied contract, collective bargaining agreement, tort law; personal injury, or public policy, having any bearing whatsoever on her employment by and/or termination of her employment with the District, including but not limited to any claim for wrongful discharge, back pay, vacation pay, sick pay, personal day pay, wages, attorneys' fees, costs, and/or future wage loss. Respondent also agrees to withdraw any and all pending complaints or actions that have been filed against the District or any of its employees or representatives.

13. Notwithstanding Paragraphs 2, 11 and 14 of this Stipulation of Settlement, it is understood and agreed that the parties are not prohibited from communicating with or participating in any administrative proceeding before the United States Department of Labor, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, or any other federal, state or local law agency. Should any entity, agency commission or person file a charge, action, complaint or lawsuit against the District based upon any of the above-released claims in Paragraph 11, Respondent agrees not to seek or accept any resulting relief whatsoever.

14. To comply with the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act, if applicable, this Stipulation of Settlement advises Respondent of the legal requirements of the Act and fully incorporates the legal requirements by reference into this Stipulation of Settlement. Accordingly, by executing this Stipulation, Respondent acknowledges that she: (i) fully understands the terms and conditions of this Stipulation of Settlement; (ii) has consulted with an attorney to review the Stipulation of Settlement; (iii) specifically waives her right to pursue any current claims she may have under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act; (iv) has been given sufficient time within which to consider this Stipulation of Settlement; and (v) has 7 days from the date of the execution of this Stipulation of Settlement to revoke it. Respondent understands that she may rescind this Agreement within 7 calendar days of signing it, and such rescission must be in writing and delivered to counsel for the District either by hand or by certified mail within the 7 day period.

15. This Stipulation and all of its terms, are and will remain confidential to the maximum extent permitted by law, including the Open Public Records Act, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1, et al. Respondent is expressly forbidden from discussing this Stipulation with any person, other than her accountant, tax advisor and attorney ("permitted disclosures") and any other individual or entity as necessary to implement the Stipulation or to which it is legally obligated to respond ("legally-required disclosures"). In making any permitted disclosure, Respondent agrees that it will inform the person to whom it is making the permitted disclosure that the existence and substance of this Stipulation, the settlement giving rise to this Stipulation and the sum of money paid pursuant to this Stipulation are to be held strictly confidential to the fullest extent permitted by law. Respondent specifically agrees not to discuss the nature, terms, conditions of this Stipulation with others, any representative of the media, or any past, present, or prospective employee of the District, or its agents or attorneys. Respondent understands that this provision is not a simple recital but is an important, integral part of this Stipulation. The District agrees that it will keep this Stipulation confidential to the extent permitted by law, including the Open Public Records Act, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1, et seq. ("OPRA"). In the event that the District receives an OPRA request, for which this Stipulation would be responsive to, the Respondent understands that the District is legally obligated to disclose same under OPRA and that such disclosure would not be a breach of this Stipulation.

16. This agreement shall not constitute a precedent in any matters involving other District employees.

17. The Parties each acknowledge that counsel has advised them regarding this Stipulation and that each is signing this Stipulation freely and voluntarily, without duress, coercion or pressure from the other party, with full understanding of its terms and conditions and consents to the terms contained herein.

18. Each signatory to this Stipulation understands, acknowledges and agrees that this Stipulation constitutes the full agreement of the parties and may not be altered, amended, modified, or otherwise changed in any respect whatsoever except by a duly executed writing signed on behalf of both Parties.

19. This Stipulation shall be construed and enforced in accordance with New Jersey law. The Commissioner of Education and/or federal and state courts of the State of New Jersey, as applicable in accordance with such law, shall have exclusive jurisdiction over any dispute arising from, in connection with, or related to this Stipulation.

20. This Stipulation may be executed in counterparts with the same effect as if the signatures hereto and thereto were upon the same instrument. Each counterpart will be deemed an original, which taken together shall constitute a single instrument. Facsimile signatures or signatures in electronic Portable Document Format ("PDF") shall be construed and have the same force and effect as original signatures.

21. This Stipulation or any uncertainty or ambiguity therein shall not be construed against any party, but shall be construed as if both Parties to this Stipulation jointly prepared this Agreement.

22. Each party acknowledges that this is the entire agreement of the Parties concerning the subject matter of the foregoing paragraphs, and that there are no written or oral representations, understandings or agreements directly or indirectly connected with this Stipulation.

23. If any provision of this Stipulation is held by a court of competent jurisdiction or determined under applicable law to be invalid, void, or unenforceable, the remaining provisions will continue and remain in full force and effect.

24. Additionally, this Stipulation is subject to final approval by the Arbitrator pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(c), and will become effective only upon approval by the Arbitrator. Counsel for the Parties shall jointly request the Arbitrator's approval of this Agreement and each shall take any and all necessary steps to effectuate dismissal of the Tenure Charges.

| V. | : | COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION |
| NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, DIVISION OF ADMINISTRATION AND FINANCE, H.L., H.L.(2), H.L.(3), BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY, AND BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SPARTA, SUSSEX COUNTY, | : | DECISION |
| RESPONDENTS. | : | |

SYNOPSIS

The petitioner, Board of Education of Highland Park (Highland Park), contended that it is not financially responsible for H.L's educational program during the 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 school years, claiming that Highland Park is not H.L.'s "district of residence" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(b). In 2011, H.L. – a multiply disabled classified student – was placed by the Department of Children and Families in a group home affiliated with Willowglen Academy. H.L. turned 21 years of age at the close of the 2014-2015 school year. Petitioner argued, inter alia, that either the Board of Education of Sparta (Sparta) – where Willowglen Academy's business offices are located – or the Board of Education of West Orange (West Orange) – where H.L.'s adoptive parents (parents) formerly lived – is financially responsible for H.L.'s tuition. The petitioner filed a motion for summary decision; respondents West Orange and Sparta filed cross motions for summary decision. West Orange additionally filed a counterclaim for tuition reimbursement from either Highland Park or H.L.'s parents.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts in dispute, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; when children are placed residentially by state agencies such as DCF, local school districts remain financially responsible for their educational services; pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(b), the district of residence for children who have been placed by State agencies in group homes is the present district of residence of the parent or guardian with whom the child lived prior to the most recent placement by a State agency; pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.2(a)(1), the district where H.L.'s parents resided as of October 16 in any given academic year is responsible for the tuition costs for a child placed by a state agency, which during 2013-2014 was Highland Park; there is no factual or legal basis for assigning responsibility to Sparta for H.L's tuition; financial responsibility cannot be assigned to West Orange under the theory that H.L. or her family were homeless; and H.L.'s parents cannot be held liable for their daughter's educational costs. The ALJ concluded that Highland Park is responsible for tuition costs attached to H.L.'s placement at Willowglen for the 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 school years. Summary decision was granted to Sparta and Highland Park was ordered to reimburse West Orange for monies expended for H.L.'s education for the 2013-2014 school year.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein.

| RESPONDENTS. | : | |

In this matter, petitioner challenges the Department's determination that the Borough of Highland Park is H.L.'s district of residence pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b[1] and, therefore, that petitioner is responsible for the cost of her educational program at Willowglen Academy.[2] The record and the November 30, 2015 Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have

[1] When the Department of Children and Families (DCF) places a child in a group home, that child's local school district – or district of residence – is financially responsible for his or her educational program. (Initial Decision at 7) Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b, "The district of residence for children who are in residential State facilities, or who have been placed by State agencies in group homes, skill development homes, private schools or out-of-state facilities, shall be the present district of residence of the parent or guardian with whom the child lived prior to his most recent admission to a State facility or most recent placement by a State agency."

[2] In June 2011, the Department of Children and Families placed H.L. – who is classified as "multiply disabled" – at a group home affiliated with Willowglen Academy, a private residential facility approved by the New Jersey State Department of Education for the provision of education and post-secondary services to both school-aged students and adults with disabilities. From that point forward, H.L. attended school at the Willowglen Academy. (Initial Decision at 4) been reviewed, as have petitioner's exceptions – filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – and the Department's reply thereto.[3]

In its exceptions, petitioner argues that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred when determining H.L.'s district of residence to be Highland Park for the 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 school years[4] by failing to address the "impact" of: 1) certifications submitted by H.L.'s parents[5] and 2) H.L.'s exercise of her rights as an adult student under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). In reply, the Department asserts that the ALJ considered those issues and rightfully dismissed them as irrelevant. Upon review of the parties' submissions, the Commissioner finds that both of petitioner's contentions – which were adequately addressed by the ALJ in her comprehensive Initial Decision – are without merit.

As to petitioner's first point, the documentation submitted by H.L.'s parents, in which they "callously disavowed any involvement in her life", does not warrant a legal determination that their daughter – "who has never in her life lived independently" – is emancipated. (Initial Decision at 11) As noted by the ALJ, "There is no fixed age when emancipation occurs." Dolce v. Dolce, 383 N.J. Super. 11, 17 (App. Div. 2006). (Initial Decision at 11) H.L. does not become emancipated under the law simply by reaching the age of 18. Furthermore, H.L.'s parents' claim that she will not ever live with them again lends no support whatsoever to petitioner's contention that H.L. is emancipated, or petitioner's contention that its district should not be held responsible for H.L.'s tuition at Willowglen.[6] Similarly, as to petitioner's second point, H.L.'s exercise of her rights under IDEA through participation in her individualized education program (IEP) meetings has absolutely no bearing upon the determination of her district of residence pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b. Moreover, as emphasized by the ALJ, students with disabilities are entitled to a free, appropriate public education between the ages of three and 21 under both state and federal law. (Initial Decision at 12) Neither H.L. nor her parents are responsible for the tuition costs incurred at Willowglen; petitioner's attempt to avoid its financial obligation in this regard is without merit.

[3] Respondents Board of Education of the Township of West Orange, Board of Education of the Township of Sparta, H.L., H.L.(2), and H.L.(3) did not submit exceptions or replies. Since H.L. and her parents share the same first and last initials, the ALJ utilized H.L.(2) and H.L.(3) in the Initial Decision to identify H.L.'s parents. To ensure consistency, the same nomenclature is used herein.

[4] H.L.'s parents have resided in Highland Park since November 2012. Between 1999 and November 2012, they resided in West Orange. Prior to H.L.'s various residential placements (and hospitalization) in supervised settings due to her special needs, she lived with her parents. (Initial Decision at 4)

[5] Although H.L.(2) and H.L.(3) refer to themselves as H.L.'s "adoptive" parents, they will be referred to herein as her parents.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Respondent Sparta's motion for summary decision is granted, and the claims against Sparta are hereby dismissed. Petitioner's motion for summary decision is hereby denied. Respondent West Orange's motion for summary decision is granted, in part. Petitioner is hereby ordered to reimburse West Orange for all monies it expended for H.L.'s educational program during the 2013-2014 school year. Petitioner is further declared responsible for tuition costs attached to H.L.'s educational program at Willowglen for the 2014-2015 school year. West Orange's cross-claim against H.L.'s parents is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[7]

Date of Decision: 1/15/16

Date of Mailing: 1/15/16

[6] Contrary to petitioner's assertions, N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.3(a)(7) is inapplicable here since – although she is over 18 years old – H.L. has never lived independently, nor is she legally emancipated. (Initial Decision at 9-11) Indeed, the record contains admissions by H.L.(2) and H.L.(3) that "H.L. did not live on her own before her initial placement at Willowglen Academy on June 9, 2011."

[7] This decision may be appealed to the Appellate Division of the Superior Court pursuant to P.L. 2008, c. 36 (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.1) and applicable Appellate Division rules.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, the Highland Park Board of Education (Highland Park), contends that it is not financially responsible for H.L.'s educational program, asserting that it is not her "district of residence" under N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arose with the filing of a petition of appeal by Highland Park on September 6, 2014. The Department of Education, Division of Administration and Finance, (the Department) filed an answer on September 29, 2014. The West Orange Board of Education (West Orange) filed an answer on September 30, 2014. The Sparta Board of Education (Sparta) filed an answer on October 2, 2014. Respondents H.L., H.L.(2), and H.L.(3) have not filed a formal responsive pleading, although H.L.(2) and H.L.(3) did respond via a letter to Highland Park dated October 21, 2014, and likewise responded to the Department's request for discovery.[1]

West Orange's motion to amend its answer to include a counterclaim and crossclaim for tuition reimbursement from either Highland Park or H.L.(2) or H.L.(3) was granted by order dated January 21, 2015. Highland Park filed its answer with its opposition to the motion, on January 7, 2015.

[1] H.L.(2) and H.L.(3) are the parents of H.L.

A stipulation of fact with accompanying exhibits was filed by the parties on June 1, 2015. A motion for summary decision was filed by Highland Park on June 29, 2015; cross-motions were filed by the responding parties on July 29, 2015; and Highland Park replied on August 10, 2015. Upon reviewing the submissions of the parties, it appeared unclear whether H.L. attended a school program located in Sparta and/or resided there via a residential placement. Via letter dated September 17, 2015, counsel for Sparta supplied a certification from Patricia Kane, Director of Willowglen Academy (Willowglen), which confirmed that although H.L. remains enrolled at Willowglen it has never been at a facility physically located in Sparta. Highland Park asked for an opportunity to reply in writing to the Sparta submission, which I granted. Highland Park filed a supplemental reply on November 2, 2015, at which time the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The parties' stipulations, together with the supplementary certifications filed in support of the cross-motions, reveal that there are no facts in dispute. I FIND:

H.L. is a classified student whose birthday is June 27, 1994, and accordingly, turned twenty-one years of age at the close of the 2014-2015 school year. H.L.(2) and H.L.(3) are H.L.'s adoptive parents. They currently reside in Highland Park and have done so since November 2012. From 1999 until their move to Highland Park, H.L.(2) and H.L.(3) lived in West Orange. H.L. was enrolled as a student in West Orange in 1999. West Orange Director of Special Services Constance Salimbeno emphasized via certification that H.L.(2) and H.L.(3) never notified her that they had relocated from West Orange to Highland Park in November 2012. West Orange continued to keep H.L. on its rolls and fund the educational component of her residential placements until February 2014. West Orange stopped paying tuition to Willowglen for H.L.'s placement as of February 14, 2014, after a residency investigation confirmed that the family had relocated.

Sparta Director of Special Services Danielle Hamblin obtained the history of H.L.'s placements from a review of records. From in or about September 1999 until and including part of the 2003-2004 school year, H.L. was placed by West Orange at the Calais School. During that last year, her classification was changed from "emotionally disturbed" to "multiply disabled," and she was placed at the Bergen Center for Child Development. Her placement there continued through the 2006-2007 year. Commencing with the 2007-2008 school year, H.L. was placed residentially at the CPC High Point Adolescent School via an IEP developed by West Orange. In or about January 2010, H.L. was admitted to Trinitas Hospital, and West Orange provided bedside instruction. On or about March 19, 2010, H.L. was placed residentially in the Estelle Manor residential facility under the auspices of a State agency, the Division of Children and Families (DCF). While she lived at Estelle Manor, West Orange funded H.L.'s educational program at the DCF Regional School in Cumberland County.

H.L. remained at Estelle Manor until June 9, 2011, when DCF advised West Orange that she was being discharged to a group home affiliated with Willowglen, a private residential facility approved by the State of New Jersey Department of Education for the provision of educational and post-secondary services to both school-aged students and adults with disabilities. Hamblin emphasizes that at no time was H.L. living independently; her various residential placements, to include Willowglen, were all supervised settings. Moreover, none of these placements were physically in Sparta. Indeed, the Kane certification confirms that Willowglen maintains corporate offices in Sparta; an educational facility in Newton; and group homes in various locations throughout Sussex and Warren counties. But Kane confirmed that while H.L. has been enrolled at Willowglen since June 2011, she "has never attended an educational facility at Willowglen's Sparta Campus, nor has she resided in a group home or any other similar facility within the Township of Sparta." Moreover, H.L. has never been enrolled in the Sparta school system; was not placed at Willowglen by Sparta; her parents never resided in Sparta; and indeed, Hamblin's office had no knowledge of H.L. whatsoever until this petition of appeal was filed.

On April 10, 2014, a "district of residence" determination was requested by Hope Farber, Child Study Team Regional Manager and State Responsible Student Coordinator for DCF. On April 30, 2014 the Department found that, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12, N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.2, and N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.3, Highland Park was H.L.'s district of residence for the 2013-2014 school year and therefore was responsible for the educational costs of H.L.'s placement at Willowglen.

On May 19, 2014, Highland Park appealed the Department's decision to David Corso, Assistant Commissioner for Administration and Finance, as permitted by N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.2(d). On June 19, 2014, Corso held that the "[d]istrict of residence responsibility continues to be based upon a parent or guardian's address even after age 18 if the child has never lived on his or her own before the child's initial placement." He determined that "[H.L.] has never lived on her own before her initial placement with Willowglen Academy on June 9, 2011," noting that a residential treatment facility such as Willowglen cannot be considered a residence for assigning district responsibility. Accordingly, Corso upheld the Department's decision that Highland Park was responsible for the educational costs of H.L.'s placement at Willowglen for the 2013-2014 school year. To date, Highland Park has paid Willowglen a prorated portion of tuition for the 2013-2014 school year, and the entire tuition for the 2014-2015 school year, including the Extended School Year (ESY). From July 1, 2013, until February 2014, West Orange paid $39,883.38 in tuition to Willowglen.

Via letter dated October 21, 2014, H.L.(2) advised as follows:

> Please be advised that [H.L.] became emancipated on June 27, 2012. My husband . . . and I elected not to be her legal guardians. At that time we resided at 4 Rosemont Court, West Orange, N.J.
> My husband and I moved to Highland Park, N.J. at the end of November 2012. [H.L.] has never resided in Highland Park, has never visited or stayed in Highland Park. And, she will not ever be living with or visiting us.
> [J-13.]

H.L.(2) responded to requests for admissions served by the Department, in which she stated that H.L. did not reside with them prior to her placement at Willowglen, but rather, resided in a different residential setting, or was hospitalized.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." Our regulation mirrors R. 4:46-2(c), which provides that "the judgment or order sought shall be rendered if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law."

A determination whether a genuine issue of material fact exists that precludes summary decision requires the judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the allegedly disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. Our courts have long held that "if the opposing party offers . . . only facts which are immaterial or of an insubstantial nature, a mere scintilla, 'fanciful frivolous, gauzy or merely suspicious,' he will not be heard to complain if the court grants summary judgment." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520 (1995) (citing Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co., 17 N.J. 67, 75 (1954)).

The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 540 (citing Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, 477 U.S. 242, 249, 106 S. Ct. 2505, 2511, 91 L. Ed. 2d 202, 212 (1986)). When the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law," the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 U.S. at 252, 106 S. Ct. at 2512, 91 L. Ed. 2d at 214. I CONCLUDE that this matter is ripe for summary decision, and that the respondent school districts and Department of Education are entitled to judgment as a matter of law.

The Department's determination regarding "district of residence" is entitled to a presumption of correctness. Bd. of Educ. of S. River v. Dep't of Educ., EDU 10117-98, Initial Decision (November 1, 2000), <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. When a local school board contests a district-of-residence determination made by the Department, the local board bears the burden of proving that the determination was in error. Bd. of Educ. of Bradley Beach v. Dep't of Educ., EDU 4975-99, Comm'r (July 3, 2000) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>.

When children are placed residentially by state agencies such as DCF, local school districts remain financially responsible for their educational services. The State Facilities Education Act of 1979, N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-2(a), provides as follows:

> For each State-placed child who is resident in a district and in a State facility on the last school day prior to October 16 of the prebudget year, . . . the Commissioner of Education shall deduct from the State aid payable to that district an amount equal to the approved per pupil cost established pursuant to the provisions of section 24 of P.L. 1996, c. 138 (C.18A:7F-24) . . . .

The phrase "resident in a district" is defined by N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(b) as follows:

> The district of residence for children who are in residential State facilities, or who have been placed by State agencies in group homes, skill development homes, private schools or out-of-State facilities, shall be the present district of residence of the parent or guardian with whom the child lived prior to his most recent admission to a State facility or most recent placement by a State agency.

Regulations promulgated by the Commissioner clarify which district retains fiscal responsibility for students such as H.L. These regulations recognize that a parent's residence may change, and, accordingly, N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.2 provides as follows:

> (a) The district of residence for school funding purposes shall be determined according to the following criteria:
> 1. The "present district of residence" of a child in a residential state facility defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-45 and referred to in the first paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(b) > means the New Jersey district of residence of the child's parent(s) or guardian(s) as of the last school day prior to October 16.

> 2. The "present district of residence" of a child placed by a State agency in a group home, skill development home, approved private school for students with disabilities or out-of-State facility also referred to in the first paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(b) means the New Jersey district of residence of the child's parent(s) or guardian(s) as of the date of the child's most recent placement by the State agency. In subsequent school years spent in the educational placement made by a State agency, the child's "present district of residence" shall be determined in the same manner as for a child in a residential State facility as set forth in (a)(1) above.

The regulatory reference to the "last school day prior to October 16" is purposeful. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-33, local school districts are required annually, "on or before October 20," to "file with the commissioner a report . . . containing all data necessary to effectuate the aid provisions of P.L. 2007, c. 260 (C. 18A:7F-43 et al.), which shall include . . . the number of pupils enrolled by grade . . . on the last school day prior to October 16." State aid is based, in part, on these student enrollment figures. Hence, the regulations that implement the State Facilities Education Act seek to correlate the "district of residence" assignment of financial responsibility with an accurate determination of where a student is included, each academic year, for State-aid reporting purposes. See also N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.3.

The Contention that Sparta is Financially Responsible for H.L.'s Tuition

Plainly, Sparta was not responsible for H.L.'s tuition for the 2013-2014 school year. The Kane certification reveals that the theory upon which Highland Park's claim against Sparta is based is simply unsupported by the factual record. Highland Park asserts that Sparta was H.L.'s domicile when she never resided there, either independently or via a residential placement under the auspices of Willowglen. Indeed, Sparta's only nexus to H.L. is that Willowglen maintains corporate offices within its boundaries. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Highland Park's claims against Sparta are without merit, as there is no factual or legal basis whatsoever for assigning responsibility to Sparta for H.L.'s tuition.

Highland Park has suggested that it would be appropriate to inquire further of Willowglen, and determine in which community it actually has placed H.L. The expense to the parties, and the delay in adjudicating this matter that would result from reopening the record for this purpose, is unwarranted. I CONCLUDE that, per the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.2(a)(1), Highland Park was indisputably "the New Jersey district of residence of the child's parent(s) or guardian(s) as of the last school day prior to October 16, [2013]."

Highland Park relies upon several arguments to evade its responsibility in this regard; all are unavailing. It cites N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.3(a)(7), which provides, relative to students who have reached the age of majority, as follows:

> 7. If the child is age 18 or older, or has been legally emancipated and has lived on his or her own before the initial placement, the present address of the child as of the date required by N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.2(a)(1) or (2) is submitted.

It thus asserts that having reached age 18, the district where H.L. resides is financially responsible for her educational costs. But Highland Park ignores the fact that under the regulation H.L. needed to have "lived on . . . her own" before her initial placement by DCF in order for her "present address" to govern financial responsibility. H.L. was under 18, and had been residentially placed by West Orange at the time of her initial placement in March 2010 at Estelle Manor.[2] Thereafter, she has remained residentially placed by DCF to date. Accordingly, it is clear that H.L. has never "lived on . . . her own."

Concededly, the regulation is inartfully punctuated. The placement of a comma after the words "age 18 or older . . . " could give the impression that only a legally emancipated child would also have to "live on . . . her own," in order for the child's address to dictate educational responsibility. The regulation could be read to mean that an eighteen year old's address governs responsibility in all instances. Indeed, a regulation with the meaning ascribed to it by the Department should look like this, grammatically:

> 7. If the child is age 18 or older or has been legally emancipated, and has lived on his or her own before the initial placement, the present address of the child as of the date required by N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-19.2(a)(1) or (2) is submitted.

But the Department persuasively argues that the regulatory intent is that a child's address dictate responsibility for tuition only if the child has lived independently, both as to students who are legally emancipated, and as to students who have reached the age of majority. An agency's interpretation of its own regulations is entitled to deference. Matturi v. Bd. of Tr. of the Judicial Ret. Sys., 173 N.J. 368, 381 (2002). Moreover, the intent of a statute or regulation should be gleaned from a view of the whole and of every part of the regulation, with the real intention prevailing over the literal sense of its terms. Schierstead v. City of Brigantine, 29 N.J. 220 (1959). For this reason, our courts have recognized that "[p]unctuation, though important, is not necessarily controlling in the search for legislative intent." Perez v. Zagami, 218 N.J. 202, 210 (2014) (citing Casriel v. King, 2 N.J. 45, 50 (1949)).

The history of the statute reveals that it was enacted, in part, to "avoid placing an undue burden on the municipality in which the state facility is located." Governor's Statement to A-86, "The State Facilities Education Act of 1979", L. 1979 c. 207. Severely handicapped students, like H.L., are entitled to educational services past the age of majority; indeed, until they are twenty-one. See N.J.A.C. 6A:14-1.1(c)(1); N.J.A.C. 6A:14-1.3. If the district where a residential placement is located was responsible for the educational costs for all students ages eighteen to twenty-one, as Highland Park essentially urges here, this would create an untenable financial burden for that district, and one that is entirely inconsistent with the clear intent of the drafters of the State Facilities Education Act.

Nor can Highland Park successfully argue that H.L. was emancipated simply because she has reached the age of 18. It is indisputable that parents are responsible for the "care, custody, education and maintenance of [their] children," and equally so when those children are adopted. N.J.S.A. 2A:34-23; N.J.S.A. 9:3-50. Our case law recognizes that emancipation is "the conclusion of the fundamental dependent relationship between parent and child." Dolce v. Dolce, 383 N.J. Super. 11, 17 (App. Div. 2006). There is no fixed age when emancipation occurs. Schumm v. Schumm, 122 N.J. Super. 146, 150 (App. Div. 1973). Highland Park would have this tribunal determine that this young lady, who has never in her life lived independently, is emancipated. This record does not permit me to do so. The fact that H.L.'s parents have callously disavowed any involvement in her life via their statements in letters and in answers to requests for admissions does not detract from this conclusion. Moreover, N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12 concerns itself not at all with formal guardianship, or with whether a child is welcome to return to her parents' home. The district where H.L.'s parents resided as of October 16 in any given academic year is responsible for the educational costs for a child placed by a state agency; during 2013-2014, that district was Highland Park.[3]

The Contention that West Orange is Financially Responsible for H.L.'s Tuition

In the alternative, Highland Park asserts that West Orange remains financially responsible for H.L.'s educational expenses under the theory that H.L. is homeless. This argument is without merit. A "homeless child" is one "who lacks a fixed, regular, and adequate residence . . . ." N.J.A.C. 6A:17-1.2. The regulations offer examples of homelessness, to include children who reside in shelters, hotels, motels, or any place "not designated for or ordinarily used as a regular sleeping accommodation." N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.2(a). In accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12.1, "[t]he district of residence for a homeless child determined pursuant to . . . [N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12] shall be responsible for the education of the homeless child . . . when the homeless child attends school in a district other than the district of residence, the district of residence shall pay the costs of tuition for the child to attend school . . . ."

[3] The argument that since H.L. never lived in Highland Park, it cannot be held responsible for her education likewise thus is without merit. The statutory scheme clearly affixes financial responsibility based upon a parents' residence, not the child's.

Clearly, H.L. is not homeless as that term is defined by law. Neither are her parents. H.L. has resided full-time in State residential facilities since in or about the 2007-2008 school year. Her parents likewise have maintained a fixed residence at all times pertinent to this controversy, first in West Orange, thereafter and to date, in Highland Park. Highland Park urges that upon reaching the age of majority H.L. "became . . . essentially homeless, as she has never returned to her adoptive parents' residence, and presumably would not be allowed to do so." But the Department correctly points out that the regulations nowhere contemplate "essential homelessness" as a basis for any educational determinations, financial or otherwise.[4] Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that financial responsibility cannot properly be assigned to West Orange under the theory that H.L. or her family were homeless.

H.L.(2) and H.L.(3) Cannot Be Held Liable for their Daughter's Educational Costs

As a resident of the State of New Jersey, who was classified as eligible for special education and related services, H.L. was entitled to a free and appropriate public education until she reached the age of twenty-one. The Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), 20 U.S.C.A. §§ 1400-1487, requires that all children with educational disabilities have access to a free appropriate education and related services designed to meet their unique needs. New Jersey regulations are in accord, and provide that "[e]ach district board of education shall have policies, procedures and programs . . . in effect to ensure . . .[a] free, appropriate public education . . . is available to all students with disabilities between the ages of three and 21 . . . ." N.J.A.C. 6A:14-1.2(b).

There is thus no basis for either Highland Park's or West Orange's claim that H.L.'s parents are liable for her tuition. This is a dispute exclusively between the party school districts, because it is one of them, and not the parents, that is responsible financially by law to educate H.L. Accordingly, notwithstanding their failure to appear in this matter, I CONCLUDE that the claims against H.L.(2) and H.L.(3) must be dismissed.

[4] Indeed, the Department in its brief correctly notes that homelessness status would require a formal determination by a district board of education, N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3. If that status was disputed, a determination by the Executive County Superintendent is required by regulation. N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.8. No formal homelessness determinations took place here.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED as follows:

1. The motion for summary decision filed by Sparta is GRANTED, and the claims against Sparta are hereby DISMISSED.

2. The motion for summary decision filed by Highland Park is DENIED.

3. The motion for summary decision filed by West Orange is GRANTED, in part. Highland Park is ORDERED to reimburse West Orange for all moneys it expended for H.L.'s educational program during the 2013-2014 school year. Although H.L.'s parents moved in November 2012 to Highland Park, they resided in West Orange on October 16, 2012, thus making West Orange responsible for their daughter's educational tuition for the 2012-2013 school year. West Orange's cross-claim against H.L.(2) and H.L.(3) is DISMISSED.

4. Highland Park is responsible for tuition costs attached to H.L.'s placement at Willowglen for the 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 school years, at which time its obligation ended because H.L. turned twenty-one years of age.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record, proposed settlement agreement, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that the Superintendent of the Florence Township Board of Education signed the agreement on behalf of the Board. The file does not contain a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement and designating the Superintendent to sign the agreement on its behalf – as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.13 under these circumstances – nor is the resolution attached to the settlement agreement itself. In the alternative, the agreement is not signed by the Board attorney, who is the Board's duly authorized representative in litigation. Without either the Board attorney's signature or the appropriate Board resolution designating the Superintendant to sign the agreement on its behalf, the Commissioner cannot approve the within settlement.

Further, it is noted that the agreement indicates that it resolves all issues pertaining to emergent relief, but does not indicate whether it resolves all requests for relief alleged in the petition or whether issues remain to be adjudicated at a hearing on the merits. It is also noted that the settlement makes reference to actions intended to be taken on December 15, 2015. The parties are reminded that a settlement of litigation before the Commissioner is not binding until the Commissioner approves the proposed terms.

Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for revision of the settlement agreement consistent with the concerns set forth above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to hearing.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was transmitted on an emergent basis to the Office of Administrative Law on December 3, 2015, and scheduled for Oral Argument on December 14, 2015

At the scheduled proceeding, the parties entered into successful settlement negotiations. The parties have prepared a Settlement Agreement (J-1) indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

Re: Camden Education Association, on behalf of its members v. State-Operated School District of the City of Camden, Camden County, Agency Dkt. No. 219-8/15

Dear Counsel,

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with the respondent State-Operated School District of the City of Camden's motion for reconsideration of the Commissioner's December 11, 2015 decision and request to vacate the default in the above-captioned matter. Upon review of the submissions, I find that the December 2015 default decision should be vacated and the petition of appeal should be reopened. The basis for the December 2015 decision was the District's failure to file an Answer to the petition of appeal. Although the District was served with the petition, it does not appear as though the petition was forwarded to the District's labor counsel.

Accordingly, the District's motion to vacate the default decision and reopen the petition of appeal in this matter is hereby granted. The District is directed to file an Answer within twenty (20) days of receipt of this decision. Under the circumstances, no further extensions will be granted.

Sincerely,

David C. Hespe

On October 6, 2015, the Camden City School District filed tenure charges against Eva Lewis ("Respondent"). After reviewing the charges, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3c, the Commissioner of Education referred the tenure charges to me, Edmund Gerber, as Arbitrator.

I conducted hearings on November 30, 2015 and December 1, 2015. Both parties examined and cross-examined witnesses and introduced evidence. The parties submitted briefs which were received by December 31, 2015.

FACTS

Respondent was first employed in the District as a substitute teacher in 1993. She subsequently received a B.A. degree Rowan University and a Master's Degree in Special Education and in Curriculum. She acquired certification to teach Special Education, and was employed by the District as a full time teacher and beginning in school year 2010-11 was employed as a full time special education co-teacher in an inclusion class in Woodrow Wilson High School. She continued there through 2013-14 school year. She was then assigned to the Coopers Poynt Family School as a general education teacher in a second (2nd) grade inclusion class for the 2014-15 school years.

At the conclusion of the 2014-15 school year the District brought tenure charge for inefficiency against Respondent pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18-A:6-17.3 based upon her two consecutive "partially effective" summative evaluations.

The evaluations were made using the Charlotte Danielson Framework ("Danielson") as its instrument for performing evaluations. Under Danielson, teachers are scored on a scale of 1 to 4:1-1.84 – ineffective; 1.85-2-.64 – partially ineffective; 2.65-3.49 – effective; 3-.5-4 – highly effective. The Teacher Practice Instrument is one part of the two-part evaluation process under TEACHNJ.

Daniel encompasses four (4) domains: (1) Planning and Preparation, (2) Classroom Environment, (3) Instruction, and (4) Professional Responsibilities. Teacher scores are based, in part, on classroom observations as required by TEACHNJ. Each domain contains "subdomains," which are scored to then produce a score in the four domains based on percentage of the total teacher practice score attributed to each specific domain. The scoring under this framework is as follows: 1-ineffective, 2-partially effective, 3-effective and 4-high effective.

The District also implements Teachscape, a software program used to access and store the records of the Danielson system.

Under TEACHNJ, the second element to the evaluation process, is the calculation of a teacher's Student Growth Objective ("SGO"). A teacher's total evaluation score for any particular year is based partially upon an SGO score.

TESTIMONY

Nicole Harrigan, is currently Principal of the Hatch Family School. She testified that during the 2013-14 school year, Harrigan was a Teacher Coach Evaluator. As such, she went to several different schools to perform training of teachers in the Danielson system. Teams that were trained in Danielson went to every school in the District to teach Danielson so that all the teachers in the District had received training in the Danielson; that training lasted six (6) hours and included practice videos, and scoring those videos and, moreover, in the 2013-14 school year, teachers are also trained in Teachscape.

Harrigan also performed evaluations of teachers and did coaching of teachers, as well. During the 2013-14 school year, the Principal of the Woodrow Wilson High School took a leave of absence and Harrigan was assigned to the High School to do evaluations.

According to Harrigan, the first observation of the Respondent in school year 2013-14 was performed on December 10, 2013 by Deborah Olusa who assumed the role of Co-Principal that year (Ms. Olusa is no longer an employee of the District). Prior to the observation, Olusa had a conference with Respondent and, also conducted a post-observation conference. Olusa's evaluation was partially effective and Respondent filed a rebuttal to that evaluation.

The second evaluation of Respondent that year was by Jill Trainor who was a Trainer and Evaluator during the 2013-14 school year. Trainor testified that she attempted an unannounced evaluation of Respondent but, on three separate occasions Respondent was not in her classroom. On the third attempt, neither Trainer nor the school Vice Principal was able to locate Respondent. Trainor finally observed Respondent on April 2, 2014; the observation lasted a minimum of 20 minutes, and Trainer found that entire observation was concerning. Respondent never submitted lesson plans for the class and the questions she asked to the students were of a lower level. Trainer scored Respondent with mostly ineffective and a few partially effective scores in the sub-domains. Trainer completed a post-observation conference with Respondent and, during the conference, spoke with Respondent about her "guided reading lesson," which, according to Trainor, Respondent taught incorrectly.

Trainor also completed an informal walk-through of Respondent's class on May 8, 2014. Respondent was late to the classroom on that date and claimed that she had a meeting with administrative staff. When Trainor inquired of the named staff members, both denied they had met with Respondent.

Respondent's third evaluation in 2013-14 was performed by Kristen Reid who, at the time, was a Teacher Trainer and Evaluator. Reid conducted a formal observation on May 2, 2014 which lasted at least 20 minutes. Reid specifically recalls there was minimal observable instruction during the period because Respondent spent a significant amount of time with one student who could not remember a computer password. Respondent also took a personal phone call in the middle of her class.

Reid had a post-observation conference with Respondent on May 5, 2014 and made recommendations for Respondent during the meeting. She also afforded Respondent the opportunity to have a fourth observation and coaching to help her improve, but Respondent never contacted Reid to schedule another observation or coaching. Also during the conference, Respondent mentioned that a student had broken her wrist during the school year. Reid indicated that it did not affect her observation because if Respondent was fit to return to work, she was fit to be evaluated.

In completing the evaluation, Harrigan reviewed all three of Respondent's observations for the year to prepare for the summative evaluation. She specifically recalled Olusa's observation and believed it was accurate and consistent with her own observations. The concerns and issues mentioned in the other two observations were similar to those mentioned by Olusa.

Harrigan had a summative conference with Respondent on June 3, 2014. Respondent's summative evaluation for the year was partially effective. Although she received a highly effective score of 4 on her SGO portion of her evaluation, overall,, after weighing each component, the Respondent's overall summative rating of 2.15, which is only "partially efficient.." In the Danielson system a score must by at least 2.62 to be considered efficient.

Harrigan discussed the summative evaluation with Respondent and gave her an opportunity to voice any concerns.

In the following year, 2014-15, Respondent was assigned to the Coopers Poynt School. Stephen Bournes is the Principal of the school. He testified that the District notified him that Respondent needed to be placed on a Corrective Action Plan ("CAP") due to her partially effective summative evaluation score for the 2013-14 school year.

Bournes created a CAP for Respondent at the beginning of the school year and met with her twice as part of the process. During their first meeting on September 22, 2014, they reviewed the CAP and Respondent suggested a change with regard to an attendance issue. Based upon her concerns, Bournes removed the attendance issue from the CAP. Bournes did not consider the fact that Respondent taught at the high school level the prior year significant in the creation of the CAP. According to Bournes, the areas Respondent needed to improve upon would have been the same whether she was teaching in the high school or second grade, and whether she was teaching general education students or special education students. Every teacher is evaluated upon the same rubic.

Bournes detailed three major areas in which Respondent needed improvement: (1) the quality of her lesson plan, (2) increased higher order thinking questions during discussion, and (3) improved classroom routines and procedures to avoid loss of instructional time.

Pursuant to the CAP created for Respondent, Bournes noted that all teachers at the school were provided with training on Danielson and, during the school year, there were professional development meetings every Monday which also focused on Danielson. Bournes specifically recalled Respondent attending the mandatory Danielson training and taking at least two optional refresher courses. Bournes noted that if a teacher had any problems with Teachscape, she could approach Nick Pillsbury an expert in the program; teachers were able to contact Pillsbury directly.

Bourne provided Respondent with common planning time as well as lesson plan review and feedback specifically as to both the substance and implementation of her lesson plans. He also provided her with a questioning tool in order to assist her in promoting higher order questioning of her students during lessons.

Respondent was also provided with weekly "PinPoynt" coaching sessions to provide feedback and suggestions regarding her lessons. Reid was also provided support to Respondent. Reid conducted coaching sessions and completed a walk-through of Respondent's classroom.

Respondent was provided a Children's Literacy Initiative consultant who would model and demonstrate effective literacy practices, although the consultant complained to Bournes that Respondent avoided her and would not get back to her.

Respondent was provided with a Peer Mentor, Nicole Almanzar, a highly effective teacher of a primary class whose classroom was nearby. Almanzar was basically Respondent's grade level mentor.

Almanzar testified that she met with Respondent to discuss multiple topics including instructional practices, lesson plans, setting up the classroom, curriculum and teaching practices. Respondent would approach Almanzar outside of more formal meetings and ask questions about grade keeping, report cards, lesson plans and setting up things on the computer. Almanzar was assigned as Respondent's mentor at the beginning of the school but first thought that she was assigned as mentor because Respondent was new in the building; she did not learn that she was Respondent's CAP mentor until October or November of that year.

Respondent's first observation for the year was on September 24, 2014 by Bournes who has completed approximately 150 teacher observations since starting work with the District. Bournes' observation report shows that the observation lasted at least 20 minutes. He noted that Respondent was inconsistent in addressing all of the students; she used some harsh tones with the students, there was a lack of structure to her lessons and the classroom was chaotic. Bournes conducted a post-observation conference with Respondent on October 1, 2014.

Kristen Reid, a Lead Educator, conducted a 40-minute evaluation of Respondent on October 20, 2014. Reid and Respondent had a pre-observation on October 17, 2014 and a post-observation conference October 27, 2014. In that post-observation conference, Respondent produced evidence of student work and Reid raised at least one of Respondent's scores from a 2 to a 3

Reid testified that all Teacher Trainer Evaluator/Coaches received training in Danielson in August of 2013 and throughout the year in 2013-2014.

Bournes conducted a third observation of Respondent on November 24, 2014. The observation lasted at least 20 minutes and Bournes had the same concerns during this observation as he did in his prior observation of her. He also conducted a post-observation conference with Respondent on December 10, 2014.

Respondent's fourth observation of the school year was conducted on February 19, 2015 by Reid. The observation lasted at least 20 minutes. Reid recalled the students bickering and antagonizing one another during this observation and some of these behaviors were addressed by Respondent harshly while some were ignored. Reid held her post-observation conference with Respondent on February 27, 2015. Reid also prepared Respondent's summative evaluation for the 20014-15 school year.

As part of the evaluation in Domain 4, Respondent produced a binder of materials that Reid believed needed some work and Reid permitted Respondent to provide supplemental materials.

Reid completed the end-of-the-year summative evaluation for the Respondent in 2014-15. Although Respondent again received a score of 4 on here SGO, her final summative rating was 2.49, which was again "partially effective." (To receive an "effective score," one needs a rating of 2.65 or higher.)

Reid noted that the Respondent's high SGO scores for both years were based on the test Respondent that were created by Respondent and were at such a low grade level they may have artificially inflated the SGO scores. Reid also explained this issue was not addressed at the time the tests were scored because the apparent ease of the final tests was not discovered until later.

Reid conducted a summative conference with Respondent on June 3, 2015. Reid described Respondent's classroom as being tough due to kids fighting and crying. Respondent's interactions with students was intimidating, especially in the way she spoke to them.

Reid reviewed Respondent's CAP in connection with the summative evaluations and found Respondent on the low end of "partially effective." She testified, "I don't think she's an effective teacher. I would not want my child in that classroom." Reid further testified that if Respondent were to return to work, that students would not receive well-designed and implemented instruction, nor would they be in an environment that is conducive to academic growth and/or well-being.

Bournes described some of Respondent's struggles as those he would expect from a novice teacher, not an experienced one. Respondent often had grammatical errors on her black board and in student work handouts. He suggested to Respondent that she have another person review these materials to ensure they were correct, but the problem persisted throughout the year.

A number of parents of students in Respondent's class expressed serious concerns over errors on report cards and grades, as well as issues with Respondent yelling at students. Some parents requested to transfer their children out of her classroom and related that Respondent had embittered conversations with some parents. Bournes had to remove four (4) students from Respondent's classroom and place them in a different second grade class.

Bournes testified that based upon his twenty-two (22) years as an educator, he believes that Respondent is an ineffective teacher, "She is not able to sustain and maintain the quality of instruction that is expected of a teacher to be highly effective both in terms of knowledge of pedagogy and in terms of classroom routines and procedures and overall instruction."

Respondent testified that in the 2013-14 school year, in addition to her assigned classroom, she was often assigned to cover other classes as well as English as a Second Language and bilingual classes. Whenever there was a need for substitute in the high school, she would be assigned even though she was a special education teacher.

Respondent attended a class given by the District about how to do SGOs for special education students. Respondent had students in the ninth and tenth grade students reading at third grade levels and she would have to make up her own tests for SGOs. The tests she made were signed off by the school Principal.

Respondent initially denied that she received training in Teachscape and Danielson. However, later in her testimony she acknowledged that her colleagues showed her how to use Teachscape and acknowledged that she did, in fact, receive training in Danielson.

She believes that the quality of her teaching was affected by an incident in the Spring of 2014. A student had broken her wrist apparently in class and she had to take leave after the injury. Subsequently, she suffered from Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder ("PTSD") because of the injury.

Respondent claims that her first evaluation of the 2013-14 year by Olusa lasted only nine (9) minutes and in the midst of the observation, Olusa got a telephone call on her cell phone and took the call. Olusa said that she would resume the observation at another time but she never did. Respondent prepared a rebuttal to Olusa's evaluation but there is no mention in the rebuttal that: Olusa never completed the observation, that the observation only lasted nine minutes or that Olusa took a telephone call during the observation.

As to Respondent's second observation in 2013-14 by Trainor, Respondent claimed that the first time Trainor found Respondent unavailable, Respondent was covering another class. As to Trainor's claim that Respondent was not in her class when Trainor went to do a "walk through", Respondent claimed that she was speaking with two administrators.

As to her third observation in 2013-24 by Reid which was critical of Respondent for spending too much time trying to get one student online, Respondent claims the students were in the computer lab and she was not there to teach but to "get kids their Google accounts."

Although Respondent does not dispute that she received a rating of only "partial effective" in her summative evaluation at the end of 20130-14, she was unaware she was going to be placed on a CAP until her meeting with Bournes on September 22, 2014. Respondent acknowledged that Bournes told her to ask Almanzar for assistance if needed, but denied she was part of any professional development class or program with Bournes or anyone else in the school.

RESPONDENT'S ARGUMENT

Respondent makes a number of arguments in her defense. Specifically:

The District failed to comply with the TEACHNJ statutory and regulatory requirements in the first evaluation of 2013-14. There is no evidence that the first observer, Deborah Olusa, was appropriately trained using the evaluation instrument pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2-2(b). Other evaluators have testified of the lengthy training process they underwent to implement the Danielson evaluation instrument but there was no proof at all that Olusa received appropriate training in the evaluation instrument or demonstrated competence in using that evaluation instrument as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2-2 (4)(i.) (1-3).

Respondent was entitled to at least one announced observation and the observation by Olusa was the only announced observation in 2013-14. Respondent testified that the evaluator took a cell phone call and left the classroom after approximately nine minutes, not the required minimum of twenty minutes. Respondent testified that Olusa promised to continue the evaluation at a later time, but there is no evidence that it ever took place. There is nothing indicated in the text of Olusa's observation report to provide the time the observation took place.

While Trainor testified that Respondent was uncooperative with scheduling evaluations, there was no such finding in her summative evaluation nor was there a problem with Respondent's SGO in 2013-14. There were no disciplinary issues with Respondent In 2013-14.

In 2014-15, Respondent was assigned as a regular education teacher for an inclusion class, but in the prior year, her assignment was as a Special Education co-teacher in Woodrow Wilson High School. Respondent expressed concern about this change in assignment; however, Bournes did not take into consideration the differences in the students' ages, grades or abilities when evaluating Respondent. The District failed to have an established process of transferring the areas of concern in her CAP from one teaching position to another.

There were also issues about the level of assistance from a Special Education teacher who was assigned since she was splitting her time with other classes. The lack of support from the Special Education teacher affected Respondent's ability to comply with the recommendations of the evaluator.

N.J.A.C. 6A:2.5 requires that teaching staff members rated "partially effective" in a summative evaluation meet to discuss a CAP prior to the September 15th of the following school year. Respondent was unaware she would be placed on a CAP until September 22, 2014.

TEACHNJ requires the District implement a research-based mentoring program as per N.J.S.A. 18A:6-128. No evidence was presented that this program was in place in the District to assist Respondent to improve her teaching skills. There is no evidence that Respondent's meetings with Almanzar were developed in consultation with a CAP. Respondent testified that she saw Almanzar as a helpful colleague, not as a formal mentor. Almanzar testified that she did not know she was assigned as a mentor for any reason other than to assist Respondent as a new person in the building.

Respondent objects to the testimony of Reid as to any discrepancy of SGO testing in the 2014-15 school year. Similarly, Reid's testimony regarding classroom management alleged intimidation and student behaviors should be disregarded because this was never disclosed in support of the charges in discovery.

Prior to the filing of the tenure charges, the District was on notice of Respondent's treatment for PTSD due to the incident that occurred at Woodrow Wilson High School in May, 2014. Respondent testified she was treated by the District's psychologist. Bournes testified he was aware of Respondent's illness during the school year. The District had knowledge and information of the violent attack on Respondent well before the tenure charges were filed. There is no evidence that there was any consideration of Respondent's circumstances.

The District produced no proof of the certification or training of the evaluators nor was any evidence produced of the certification by Danielson of training of any of the evaluators. Based upon the District's failure to comply with the evaluation process, the District has acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner. Therefore, Respondent's evaluations should be set aside and Respondent should be returned to work.

DISCUSSION

Given the tenure charges brought against the Respondent were for being rated "partially effective" for two (2) consecutive years my authority as Arbitrator is limited by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2. Specifically:

> In rendering a decision the arbitrator shall only consider whether or not:
> (1) the employee's evaluation failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process, including, but not limited to, providing a corrective action plan;
>
> (2) there is a mistake of fact in the evaluation;
>
> (3) the charges would not have been brought but for considerations of political affiliation, nepotism, union activity, discrimination as prohibited by State or federal law, or other conduct prohibited by State or federal law; or
> (4) The district's actions were arbitrary and capricious.
> b. In the event that the employee is able to demonstrate that any of the provisions of paragraph (1) through (4) of subsection a. of this section are applicable, the arbitrator shall determine if that fact materially impacted the outcome of the evaluation. If the arbitrator determines that it did not materially affect the outcome of the evaluation, the arbitrator shall render a decision in favor of the [district] and the employee shall be dismissed.

Respondent's arguments must be evaluated in light of the statute and, accordingly, the scores issued by the observers and evaluators cannot be challenged per se.

Respondent challenged the observations of Olusa on two grounds. Respondent testified that Olusa's evaluation, which was the first of three evaluations performed during the 2013-14 school year, failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process. Specifically, Respondent testified that the observation only lasted nine (9) minutes, not twenty (20) minutes as required by regulation and there is no evidence that Olusa received the required training to be an evaluator.

I do not find Respondent's testimony credible that Olusa's observation only lasted nine minutes. The Respondent submitted to a post observation conference with Olusa even even though Olusa supposedly told Respondent that they would continue that observation at another time but never did. Although Respondent was dissatisfied with the grading of the observation and filed a rebuttal to Olusa's overall evaluation, the rebuttal does not mention that the observation was too short, was interrupted by a cell phone call to Olusa or that Olusa failed to come back to finish the observation as promised.

However, there is no clear evidence that Olusa, who did not testify, had training in the evaluation process (Danielson) as required by regulation N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2-2(b). Both Trainor and Reid testified that every teacher was trained in Danielson before the start of the school year in August 2013 and Reid testified that all Evaluator/Coaches received training in Danielson in August of 2013 and throughout 2013-2014. But neither witness could testify that Olusa received such training. Given that evaluator training is a clear requirement of the regulation, and the District failed to establish Olusa received training, Olusa's evaluation failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process.

After such a finding the statute requires a determination as to whether the finding materially impacted the outcome of the evaluation. As Reid so testified, Olusa's scoring of Respondent's observation is consistent with all six subsequent evaluations received by Respondent, both as to issues which the Respondent was either ineffective or partially effective and as to overall scoring (See also, Exhibit P-3). I do not find that Olusa's lack of observation training materially impacted upon her overall evaluation of Respondent.

As to Respondent's other arguments, specifically:

The district did not provide any documentary evidence that the Respondent's r evaluator, apart from Olusa, received training in Danielson. Aside from Olusa, all of the Respondent's evaluators testified that they received training. Absent some issue as to the witnesses lack of credibility, and there was none, their testimony was sufficient to establish that they were trained in Danielson.

Trainor's testimony that the Respondent was uncooperative with scheduling her evaluations should not be considered. The tenure charges filed by the district are based upon partial ineffectiveness, not specific misconduct. Accordingly, Respondent's alleged failure to cooperate with the evaluation process is not relevant to my decision.

Respondent had difficulty transitioning from teaching Special Education at the high school level to teaching a second grade inclusion class. The transition should have been taken into account in her evaluations. This argument is one of an educational nature and is outside my authority under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2. Similarly, Respondent's contention that she did not receive sufficient support from her co-teacher is an educational issue outside of my authority.

The District failed to meet and discuss Respondent's CAP prior to September 15, 2015 as required by regulation. However, Respondent was absent from school from September 9, 2015 l until September 15, 2015. Accordingly, Respondent was not informed of her CAP until September 22, 2015. Given Respondent's absence, such a minor deviation from the regulation did not substantially interfere with the Respondent's right to a CAP under TEACHNJ.

The District failed to implement a research based monitoring program pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-128. However, the statutory reference to Research based mentoring appears in N.J.S.A.18A:6-127 and is addresses mentoring of first year teachers. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-128b, provides for :

> additional professional development for any teaching staff member who fails or is struggling to meet the performance standards established the board, as documented in the teaching staff member's annual summative evaluation. The additional professional development shall be designed to correct the needs identified in the annual summative evaluation.

Bournes testimony is clear that he prepared a multi-phased Corrective Action Plan. The statute does not require that the district establish that the plan is "research based" The plan is education based and not subject to my substantive review.

Testimony regarding discrepancies in her SGO rating should not be considered in my consideration. The Board of Education has not challenged the results of those SGO ratings and used the final score of 4 or "highly effective" in computing Respondent's overall evaluation score; that score was still only partially effective. The District has never taken the position that the SGO scores should not be counted in Respondent's overall evaluation score The argument is without merit.

The District should have taken into consideration the fact that she suffered PTSD after she was attacked by a student and suffered a broken wrist at Woodrow Wilson High School in May of 2014. However, it is noted that Respondent did not introduce any medical evidence in support of her claim that she suffered from PTSD. Reid was aware of the attack when she prepared Respondent's summative evaluation for 2013-14 and Bournes was aware of Respondent's condition during the 2014-15 school year. Given Bournes' evaluations were performed in light of Respondent's condition, and I cannot reasonably evaluate the severity of the symptoms due to the lack of medical evidence, the district's responses to Respondent's medical condition were educational based and beyond my authority to review.

Respondent argues that the District's actions were arbitrary and capricious, but offers no specifics and facts in support of her argument beyond those previously mentioned herein the argument is without merit.

Based upon the entire record, I make the following:

This matter comes before me on tenure charges brought under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 and 18A:6-10 et seq. by Petitioner Elizabeth Board of Education, Union County, against Respondent Nikita Clarke-Huff. The tenure charges at issue here were filed with the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on September 22, 2015. I was appointed the arbitrator to adjudicate this matter on October 16, 2015. The Respondent made a motion to dismiss all of the charges, which I granted in part and denied in Part in a Decision and Award dated November 16, 2015.

I conducted hearings to take evidence in the City of Elizabeth, Union County, on December 4, 7 and 10, 2015 on the remaining charges, set forth below. The parties submitted written post hearing briefs to me on January 4, 2016 at which time the record was closed.

ISSUES PRESENTED

1. Did the Respondent engage in any or all of the charged misconduct related to falsifying her child's residency and chronic absenteeism?
2. If so, does the proven conduct constitute unbecoming conduct warranting dismissal from her employment with the Board or some lesser penalty?

TENURE CHARGES

CHARGE II

NEGLECT, MISBEHAVIOR OR OTHER OFFENSE, INCLUDING BUT NOT LIMITED TO UNBECOMING CONDUCT OR OTHER JUST CAUSE, RELATED TO RESPONDENT FALSIFYING HER CHILD'S RESIDENCY

The foregoing background information, charge, counts, and the facts alleged therein are incorporated by reference as if fully set forth herein. Nikita Clarke-Huff has violated by unbecoming conduct the public trust placed upon Respondent as an employee of this District, failed to exhibit the good behavior necessary to continued employment, and failed to comply with all requirements of the law, including, without limitation and over an extended period of time: by falsely certifying to the District that her daughter resided in the District during the 2014-2015 school year, thereby depriving the District of tuition Respondent otherwise would owe the District for her non-resident child's enrollment and attendance at the Upper Academy High School in Elizabeth, New Jersey. These acts and omissions, more specifically set forth below, constitute conduct unbecoming a school employee, or other just cause, warranting the immediate dismissal of Respondent.

On or about June 26, 2014, Respondent signed and submitted to the District a form entitled Temporary Guardianship Authorization for Care of Minor ("TGA"), in which Respondent falsely declared that during the period from July 1, 2014 to July 30, 2015, she had placed her child, N.H., a 12th grade student at all times relevant, in the care of a temporary guardian residing within the City of Elizabeth, for purposes of obtaining a free education for N.H. at the Upper Academy High School in Elizabeth, New Jersey, at a tuition cost to the District and its taxpayers of not less than $17,283.00, when in fact both Respondent and her daughter resided during this period at a home located at 22 Colton Road in Edison, New Jersey, and notwithstanding that the TGA form signed by Respondent clearly indicated that execution of same by the declarant was "under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of New Jersey."

The facts alleged in Charge II, Count 1, above, are incorporated by reference as if fully set forth herein. The foregoing facts also constitute conduct unbecoming, including theft by deception, of tuition costs in an approximate amount of $17,283.00 that Respondent properly owed the District, for her non-resident child's enrollment and attendance at the Upper Academy High School in Elizabeth, New Jersey, during the 2014-2015 school year, had she not improperly falsified the foregoing forms.

The foregoing acts and omissions by Nikita Clarke-Huff, individually and cumulatively, constitute just cause for dismissal based upon conduct unbecoming or other just cause related to her acts of false declaration and theft by deception of tuition, by which Respondent has demonstrated that she is unworthy of the public trust placed upon Respondent as an employee of this District. The Board, a public employer charged with providing a thorough and efficient education to children who legitimately reside within the District, cannot have the proper allocation of tuition jeopardized by the reprehensible conduct of Respondent, an untrustworthy employee who occupies a confidential position, and the Board should no longer have to be burdened by such misfeasance. Immediate dismissal is fully warranted.

CHARGE III, Counts 15 through 18

CHRONIC ABSENTEEISM

The foregoing background information, charges, specific counts and the facts alleged therein, are incorporated by reference as if fully set forth herein. Nikita Clarke-Huff has displayed chronically poor attendance during the last nineteen (19) years of her employment with the Elizabeth School District, during which she has been absent from her post on not less than 379.37 occasions, which has adversely affected the proper operation of the school, despite repeated warnings.[1] Ms. Clarke-Huff has been chronically absent for sick days and personal days. These acts and omissions, more specifically set forth below, constitute neglect, misbehavior or other offense, including but not limited to chronic absenteeism, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, warranting her immediate dismissal.

During the 2011/2012 school year, Respondent was absent from her post on no less than eighteen and one-fourth (18.25) occasions, including one (1) family illness, one (1) personal, and sixteen and one-quarter (16.25) sick.

Count 16

During the 2012/2013 school year, Respondent was absent from her post on no less than eighteen and one-fourth (18.25) occasions, including one (1) family illness, fifteen and one-quarter (15.25) sick and two (2) "accident on duty."

Count 17

During the 2013/2014 school year, Respondent was absent from her post on no less than ten and one-half (10.5) occasions, including one-half (.5) family illness, one (1) personal, and nine (9) sick.

Count 18

During the 2014/2015 school year, Respondent was absent from her post on no less than forty-eight and one-half (48.5) occasions, including one (1) family illness, one

---

[1] I include the introductory and concluding paragraphs, although they include a reference to Counts 1 through 14, which have been dismissed. The total number of alleged days absent for Counts 15 through 18 is 95.5.

(1) personal, ten (10) sick, thirty-four and one-half (34.5) paid administrative leave, two "Mitchell Building," and was one-tenth day (.1) tardy.

The foregoing acts and omissions by Nikita Clarke-Huff, individually and cumulatively, constitute neglect, misbehavior or other offense, including but not limited to chronic absenteeism, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause; during the last nineteen (19) years of her employment with the Elizabeth School District, Respondent has been absent from her post on not less than 379.37 occasions, which has adversely affected the proper operation of the school, warranting her immediate dismissal.

CHARGE IV

INSUBORDINATION, NEGLECT, MISBEHAVIOR AND/OR OTHER JUST CAUSE FOR DISMISSAL, RELATED TO A PATTERN OF CONDUCT

All of the foregoing charges and the facts set forth therein are incorporated by reference as if fully set forth herein. The course of misconduct set forth in the above charges and counts, jointly and severally, manifests a pattern of numerous infractions over an extended period of time, and constitute neglect, misbehavior or other offense, including but not limited to unbecoming conduct, chronic absenteeism, or other just cause. This pattern and course of conduct during an extended period of time demonstrates Ms. Clarke-Huffs unfitness to serve in a position of trust as an Administrative secretary, warranting her immediate dismissal.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Respondent Nikita Clarke-Huff has been employed by the Petitioner, Elizabeth Board of Education, (Board) as a school secretary since 1996, that is, for the past 19 years. Her title at the time these charges were served upon her was Administrative Secretary II at the Jerome Dunn Academy. She is assigned to a 12-month position. Prior to working for the Board, Respondent held a number of other jobs, including serving in the U.S. Army for twenty years as a soldier. In the army, she rose to the rank of Staff Sergeant. She was stationed in a number of locations, including overseas.

Respondent is currently married to Eddie Huff. The couple has been together for 25 years, and they have been married for the past 15 of those years. They have two children together: Dante, aged 24 and N., aged 18, who has now graduated from the Elizabeth public schools. This is the second marriage for both Respondent and Mr. Huff. Respondent was previously married to a man named Pittman, with whom she had two children: Veronica, now aged 34 and Christina aged 30. Veronica resides in Sicklerville, New Jersey, near Camden. Christina resides in Baltimore, Maryland. Christina is a graduate of Morgan State University in Baltimore, which N. now attends, having graduated from Elizabeth High School Upper Academy in June 2015. Mr. Huff has three children from his prior marriage, ages, 43, 42 and 39. One of those, Shakira, resides in Virginia.

Respondent is part of large, extended family. She has six siblings, one of whom, Robert Jones, resides at 1116 Anna Street in Elizabeth, New Jersey. A sister resides in Virginia. She also has a step-mother, Willie Mae Banks. who resides on Anna Street, in Elizabeth, at Number 1057. Respondent identified eight family members who reside with Ms. Banks on Anna Street: a disabled uncle, two sisters, one of whom has two children aged 13 and 11, an adult niece who has a 2 year old son, and a step-brother.

The Charges in this case involve two separate issues: Respondent's attendance for the school years: 2011-2015, and whether she lied regarding her residency and that of her daughter N. during the spring of 2015, when N. was a senior in the Elizabeth school system.

Attendance Issues.

The collective bargaining agreement covering Respondent provides for 14[2] sick days per year, 2 personal days per year and other leaves of absence, including days for funerals. Unused sick and personal days roll over and accumulate. (R. 7, 8) Respondent and other similarly situated employees were entitled to 20 vacation days per year. At the start of the 2011-2012 school year, Respondent had accumulated 55.63 days in her sick day bank.

During the 2011-12 school year, Respondent was diagnosed with ovarian cancer. She was operated upon and received treatment. Respondent used all but ¼ day of her vacation days for her operation and used 16.25 sick and one of her two personal days for treatment and doctors' visits. At the end of that year, Respondent still had a balance of 39.38 sick days in her bank. (P. 13)

During the 2012-13 school year, Respondent continued to use sick days for her cancer treatment. She also suffered an accident at work on May 2, 2013 that resulted in two days absence. In that year, Respondent used all of her 20 vacation days, one day for family illness, one and one-half day for a funeral, two days for her accident on duty and 15.25 for sickness. At the end of that school year, she still had a balance of 39.13 days in her sick bank, only fractionally different from the number of days in her bank at the end of the previous year. (P. 14)

[2] The record is somewhat unclear about the precise number of sick days Respondent was receiving in 2015; it may have been 15 or even 16. See Respondent's Brief, p. 43, n. 20.

During the 2013-14 school year, Respondent used 9 of her allotted sick days. She completed the year with 46.13 days in her sick bank, an increase of 7 days over the prior year. Respondent again took all of her vacation days. The only category of days she exceeded was for family funerals – she took a total of 7.5 days for this purpose – 2.5 days in August of 2013, and another 5 days in June of 2014. (P. 15)

During the final year at issue in this case, 2014-15, Respondent took 10 sick days. She took all of her vacation days. The remaining 37.50 days with which she is charged were due to her being involuntarily reassigned while these charges were under investigation. (P. 16)

Residency Issue.

In March 2015, the Board Superintendent received an anonymous tip that Respondent and her daughter did not reside in Elizabeth. The Superintendent handed the matter over to Marvin Lehman, Board General Counsel, who in turn assigned Donald Pulidore to investigate the matter.

As far as the Board knew, in the spring of 2015, Respondent resided in the City of Elizabeth with her daughter N. at 1022 Emma Street, 2nd Floor. This was the address listed for N. in Power School, the student information system (P. 11), as well as the address on file for Respondent in the employee information system, known as Edumet. (P. 24) After Mr. Pulidore was unable to verify that Respondent and her daughter resided at that address, he took further steps to locate a residence. Those steps are detailed in his Investigation Report dated March 25, 2015. (P. 1) Mr. Pulidore consulted several sources in the course of investigation, including a database called "Accurint" that identifies addresses associated with a given name from such sources as property records, utilities, car registrations, cell phones, etc. Ultimately, Mr. Pulidore located Respondent leaving to go to work on three days – March 25, 26, 27 – from a house at 22 Colton Road, Edison, New Jersey, an address associated in Accurint with Eddie Huff. On those mornings, Respondent drove a car registered to Mr. Huff. On two of those mornings – March 25 and 26 – her daughter, N., left the home with her. Mr. Pulidore took photographs showing someone, allegedly Respondent, leaving the house. Those photographs are of poor quality, but are in evidence as exhibits to his report. (P. 1) On those days, Mr. Pulidore observed Respondent as she drove N. to her high school in Elizabeth. (P. 1)

Based upon Mr. Pulidore's report, Mr. Lehman made a preliminary determination that N. was ineligible to attend high school in Elizabeth. He sent Respondent a "Notice of Initial Determination of Ineligibility" (P. 5) and scheduled a meeting with Respondent for March 30, 2015. Respondent brought an attorney with her to the meeting.

Respondent admits that neither she nor N. was residing at the Emma Street address in 2015. When asked by Mr. Lehman where she lived, Respondent replied that at the moment she "had no domicile." Respondent told Mr. Lehman, however, that N. resided with her brother, Robert A. Jones, at 1116 Anna, Apt. 4F in Elizabeth. She presented some documents to support that statement. Of particular significance were two purported leases for the premises for the periods 2/1/14-1/31/15 and 2/1/15 – 1/31/16 (P. 4, R. 4) and a handwritten "Temporary Guardianship Authorization for Care of Minor" signed by both Respondent and Robert A. Jones, both signatures dated June 26, 2014 (P. 3).

Respondent's residence.

Respondent testified that she first reported the address on file for her with the Board – 1022 Emma – in approximately 2011. She and N. lived at that address during the 2011-12 and 2012-13 school years, along with a friend, Janet Moore. Her husband, Eddie Huff, N.'s father, did not live at the Emma Street address with them that year; they were having marital problems.

Respondent admits she never reported a change in address after she left Emma Street. When asked why she had not done so, she testified that all mail from the Board, including paychecks, was delivered to her at her school, and "she didn't think anything of it."

In the following two years, Respondent and her daughter moved around, staying with various friends and family. This roaming, about which she testified for several hours through direct and cross-examination, was due to her marital problems, which continued through the spring of 2015. Her brother, Robert Jones, confirmed that Respondent was going through hard times with Mr. Huff. Respondent did not go into detail about the nature of the problems between her and her husband, other than to say:

- Huff had a history of substance abuse with drugs and alcohol and in recent years, "he fell off the wagon;"
- Although Huff never hit Respondent, he was volatile at times, raising his voice, belittling and disrespecting her;
- N. was affected by the tension in the household; she got embarrassed when her father came home drunk; Respondent felt hurt to have her daughter see all of this;

- There were financial problems as well in the marriage, as a result of which Respondent was short of money; Robert Jones confirmed his sister had no money during this time.

Respondent testified to the following other residences during the period from 2012-2015:

- In 2012 and/or in 2013-2014 while she was recuperating from surgery for ovarian cancer, she stayed with a friend named Vanessa at 2125 Fay Avenue, Linden New Jersey. That address was one identified with Respondent's name in the Accurint database consulted by Board investigator Pulidore.
- During 2014 and 2015 Respondent lived "off and on" with her step-mother, Willie Mae Banks, at 1057 Anna Street. Respondent testified that she still receives mail at that address. Residing in the house on Anna Street were the nine family members listed above, in addition to Respondent. N. stayed at Ms. Banks' house "less than five times," because it was crowded, and N. did not get along with Respondent's niece.
- For approximately 4 months Respondent lived with her aunt and uncle at 917 Kensington in Plainfield, New Jersey. She moved out after the house was severely damaged in a fire.
- After the fire, Respondent stayed for a bit – probably less than 10 days – with her daughter Veronica, in Sicklerville, New Jersey after a blow-up with Mr. Huff.

- Finally, Respondent resided at 22 Colton, in Edison, New Jersey with her sister-in-law, Vickie Larry. That was where Investigator Pulidore observed her in March 2015.
- Eddie Huff resided with different friends during this period of time, ultimately landing at 22 Colton with his sister, Vickie.

N.'s residency.

According to Respondent and her brother, Robert Jones, Respondent arranged to have N. move in with Mr. Jones at his apartment, #4F, 1116 Anna Street in the spring of 2014 – Mr. Jones placed this event at the end of April or beginning of May 2014. Mr. Jones testified that he offered to have both Respondent and her daughter move in with him, but Respondent stayed to work on her marriage. Mr. Jones, like Respondent, felt that N. should not have to stay with her parents while they were having "troubles."

Mr. Jones lived in a large one-bedroom apartment. He gave N. his own bedroom and allowed her to put her clothes in his closet. While she resided with him, which was until she graduated form high school in June of 2015, he used the pull out couch in the living room as his bed. He purchased a partition that gave him more privacy and allowed N. to go to the bathroom or kitchen without disturbing him or seeing "her uncle sleeping with his shirt off."

For the most part, N. stayed with her uncle during the week while school was in session. On weekends, she would frequently stay with other family members or with her girlfriends, C. and M.; over vacations, she would travel to visit family in Maryland and Virginia. Because 1116 Anna was over a mile from the high school she attended, N. would often gets rides to school from her boyfriend, or her mother, who would pick her up and drop her off at the school and then proceed to her own place of work. At times, N. would walk to or from school.

During the time N. lived with him, Mr. Jones was mostly unemployed, having been laid off from his job at a photography studio in August 2014. Thereafter, he collected unemployment compensation, and had at least one temp job. Mostly, however, he worked with the VA on finding new employment: since he was a veteran, the VA had him "moving around every day" for his job search, for example, attending classes on resume building. He started a new job in October of 2015, and the parties agreed to allow him to testify via telephone during his lunch break, so as not to jeopardize the job.

During her years in high school, N. was an A student. She was also a tutor and participated in girl scouts. But she was particularly active in band, chorus and drama. Band practice began in August with a one-week band camp in Elizabeth. After that the band played at football games every Friday, and would participate in competitions which involved practice on Saturday and travel to competitions. The big competition was an all-day event in Delaware on a Sunday around Thanksgiving. Respondent was active as a band parent, chaperoning the students on the bus, arranging for food and selling tickets at games. On occasions, when the band returned late, Respondent would have N. stay over with her wherever she was staying at the time.

Once band season was over, rehearsals picked up for drama at the Thomas Jefferson Arts Academy in Elizabeth. As with school band, Respondent was an active parent supporter: the drama production program identified her as one of several "Drama Mamas" who helped throughout the production process, helping find costumes, feed the kids, drive them, and do other chores. In the 2012-13 school year, N. was in the cast as a soldier for the school production of Pippin in March. (R. 10, p. 00173); Respondent was thanked in the program (Id. p. 00177) In the 2014-15 school year, the drama group performed "Bring It On". (Program, R. 9) N. played part of "Danielle" (Id. p. 00153); Respondent was one of the "Drama Moms" thanked by the Director "for always offering your time and talents and for supporting your daughters' passion!" (Id. p. 00158)

The performances of "Bring It On" were on March 26, 27 and 28, 2015. Robert Jones testified that he was out of town that month, but returned to see his niece in the play. Respondent testified that some nights, when her brother was away, or when rehearsals went late, she brought N. to stay with her, rather than leave her alone in the Anna apartment in Elizabeth. At that time, as observed by Mr. Pulidore, Respondent was staying in Edison. Respondent does not dispute that Mr. Pulidore observed N. staying with her the two nights he identified: March 25 and 26. She testified these stays were a result of Mr. Jones' travels and the drama production schedule.

As further proof that N. resided with Mr. Jones in the spring of 2015, Respondent produced photographs of N. in front of 1116 Anna Street, dressed up for the prom, standing with her boyfriend. (R. 31., pp. 281-3) She also produced a receipt for the limousine paid for by Eddie Huff and Robert Jones, showing that the limo was to pick and drop off its charges at 1116 Anna Street in Elizabeth on June 3, 2015. (Id. p. 00280)

Certificate of Guardianship. Respondent testified that when she and her brother decided that N. would reside with him, in the spring of 2014, she downloaded a guardianship form from the internet, filled it out, signed it, and had her brother sign it.

The form, signed by her "under penalty of perjury" authorizes the temporary guardianship from July 1, 2014 to July 30, 2015. (P. 3, p. 0077) She testified:

- She thought her brother needed "something extra because he was taking care of" her daughter;
- She had used this procedure before when she was in the army: knowing her unit could be activated, she always had a contingency plan for the care of her children.

Mr. Jones confirmed in his testimony that he and his sister had executed the Guardianship form in June of 2014. He also signed an affidavit on April 4, 2015 to the same effect that was presented to the Board on Respondent's behalf. (R. 4, p. 00073) He testified that it was when his sister asked him to sign the paper, that he realized "how serious the situation was at home with Eddie." Mr. Jones testified that he provided most of the financial support for N. because his sister "was dealing with stuff on her own; Nikkie didn't really have the money to pay me. I wasn't asking her to, either."

Leases for 1116 Anna Street.

Purported residential leases for Apartment #4F at 1116 Anna Street in the name of Robert A. Jones were placed in evidence for two years, 02/01/14 to 1/31/15 and 02/01/15 to 01/31/16. Pages of the leases were placed in evidence by both sides. (P 4, R. 4) Several features of these leases are of note:

- Although Mr. Jones signed the 2015-16 lease and his initials appear on each page throughout the lease, no signature from the leaser – FDG Management Corp – appears anywhere on the document.

- One copy of the 14-15 lease has Mr. Jones's signature on the first page (P. 4, pp. 0079); the other does not (R. 4, pp. 00059)
- N.'s name is typed onto 14-15 lease, even though the parties testified she did not move into the apartment until April or May of that year;
- N.'s name is also typed onto the 15-16 lease.
- Two different social security numbers appear on the two leases: for 14-15 the number ends in -9776; for 15-16 the number ends in -1596. Neither number is Mr. Jones' social security number.

A representative of the landlord, Alan Rosenbaum, testified in this proceeding. Mr. Rosenbaum only started at FDG Management on March 31, 2015, when Mr. Jones was already a tenant in apartment 4-F. Regarding the purported leases, Mr. Rosenbaum testified:

- Neither copy of the lease appears in the management company's file, but the form of the leases is one that FDG uses; the rental amount shown on the lease for 15-16 is incorrect: it shows $725, whereas the actual rent is $730;
- It is not the company's practice to include social security numbers on any lease;
- While the company requires a signed lease for a new tenant, thereafter, the company sends out a renewal. If tenants do not agree to the renewal, they are continued on a month-to-month tenancy. FDG did send Mr. Jones a lease for 2015-16, but he did not return it signed.

Mr. Jones testified that he would not have put N.'s name on any lease: he was afraid that if he told the landlord about the situation the landlord might raise the rent. Respondent confirms that Mr. Jones told her he was apprehensive because he hadn't told the landlord about N.; he thought it might be an issue so had not put her formally on the lease. Mr. Jones said he did have a lease in 2011 when he first moved in, and that he turned in a lease last December. He didn't know how "that idiot Alan" couldn't find a lease. Respondent testified that she obtained the two lease documents from her brother's apartment along with utility bills for the apartment. (R. 4) It is not clear if Mr. Jones was present in the apartment when Respondent retrieved the documents; he had "no clue" when he was asked about having a lease in his apartment or giving it to his sister. Respondent was adamant that she did not alter the lease documents in any way.

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

The Board argues that it has proven the charges by a preponderance of the credible evidence; further, that the charges establish the Respondent is guilty of making false statements to the Board, knowingly committing theft of the Board's services, has exhibited chronic absenteeism; and has exhibited a pattern of conduct over a period of years constituting just cause and warranting dismissal from her tenure position. In particular: (1) the Board's full and fair investigation, including surveillance of the Respondent at an Edison address, established that Respondent was residing with her child in Edison, rather than Elizabeth, in the spring of 2015; indeed, she was observed leaving the Edison home with her daughter on "several" mornings to drive her daughter to school; (2) the Respondent blatantly lied to the Board in order to obtain free educational services from the City of Elizabeth for her daughter, specifically,

Respondent knowingly submitted false and fraudulent documentation in the form of a Temporary Guardianship Authorization form, prepared under penalty of perjury as well as fraudulent leases to establish that her daughter lived with her brother, Robert A. Jones, at 1116 Anna Street, Elizabeth; (3) the Temporary Guardianship Authorization must be rejected as legally inadequate to establish an actual guardianship by Robert Jones of the minor daughter in that (a) it was never presented to a court of law, as required by NJ AC 6A:22-1.2 (b) it was never submitted to the Board until Respondent was summoned to an investigative meeting in March 2015; (c) on its face the form states that support will be provided, presumably by Respondent to Mr. Jones, yet the parties testified that no such support was in fact provided; (d) the asserted residential arrangement – namely that a teenage girl would share a one-bedroom apartment with her uncle – is inherently unbelievable; further, Mr. Jones' testimony is that the daughter did not reside at the apartment on weekends, and often not during the week, including "two nights per week" spent elsewhere; (4) the leases must be disregarded because (a) the landlord's representative testified that no such leases are on file with the landlord; (b) Mr. Jones testified that he never gave any leases to Respondent, nor had he executed a lease for the year in question; (c) on its face, the leases are unsigned; further, they contain social security numbers which the landlord says are never included, and for the two years submitted, those social security numbers differ from one another and from Mr. Jones' social security number; (5) All Board employees have an obligation to follow the Board's rules and regulations with regard to residency; the obligation of Respondent, a school secretary, is particularly critical, and her failure to follow these rules must be deemed conduct unbecoming; (6) the Board has further proven excessive absenteeism on the part of Respondent since 2011 that has deprived the Board of her services and warrants termination; (7) given that the Respondent was subject to an increment withholding in 2011 for unbecoming conduct and excessive absenteeism, which must be regarded as progressive discipline, the current charges must be considered as proving a pattern of misconduct over time that merits discharge.

The Respondent, on the other hand, argues that the Board has not proven the charges against Respondent involving falsification of her child's residency; nor can the Board claim theft of services or excessive absenteeism based upon the record in this case. In particular, (1) the Board is required to prove the allegations charged by at least a preponderance of the evidence; indeed, a stricter standard of proof – clear and convincing evidence – has been applied in some New Jersey tenure cases; (2) under either standard, the Board has failed to meet its burden of proof: the facts established through the credible testimony of Respondent and her brother, and not contradicted by any contrary facts presented by the Board, prove that Respondent's daughter, N., did in fact reside in the City of Elizabeth with her brother at all relevant times; (3) the credible and uncontroverted evidence shows that Respondent and her brother did execute, in good faith, a temporary guardianship form; the fact that this was somewhat less than the court order required by N.J.A.C. 6A:22-1.2 is irrelevant since (1) the temporary guardianship shows substantial compliance with Board policies and thus suffices as a matter of equity; (2) under the state's and the Board's own rules and regulations, N. was entitled to attend school in Elizabeth either because she in fact resided in Elizabeth with a relative who provided her with support without remuneration; or because her family was in crisis and under New Jersey law she was entitled to continue her education in the district while the family worked on resolving the crisis; or because the Board had discretion – which it in fact exercised – to allow her to continue her education once the question of residency arose; (4) the Board failed to present any salient facts beyond the ones gathered by its investigator and reported on March 25, 3015; those facts are amply rebutted by the uncontroverted evidence from the Respondent and her brother who both testified credibly; indeed, their testimony had the "ring of truth"; there is no question that Mr. Jones did in fact reside in Elizabeth at the address noted in the leases; other record evidence, including the prom photograph and limousine receipt corroborate that N. resided with him; further, if the leases are flawed as legal documents, nevertheless, Respondent has not been charged with presented false leases, only with a false statement on the Guardianship form; (5) there is simply no evidence that the Respondent created the Temporary Guardianship form out of a motive to steal tuition dollars or mislead the Board; instead the evidence shows that the Respondent did what she felt was reasonably necessary despite difficult circumstances to provide a stable residence for her daughter with her brother, in the district, while she worked on her marriage; the essential statements in the Guardianship – namely that N. resided with her uncle while attending school – are true; (6) the Board cannot claim theft of services for tuition since Respondent's daughter did qualify for free educational services; further, the Board did not at any time attempt to go through appropriate processes to determine a theft of service; finally the Board could and did exercise its discretion to allow the child to finish her education; it cannot now claim that it was deprived of funds to which it might have been entitled; (7) with respect to the charges that Respondent was excessively absent or tardy, the evidence shows that she was only tardy – and that by a small amount – on one occasion; with respect to absences, Respondent underwent treatment for cancer during two of the years at issue and suffered an on-the-job injury and even then did not come close to depleted her accumulated sick bank; the final year at issue contained very few absences other than the days on which she was involuntarily reassigned, for which the Board alone retains responsibility; further the Board presented absolutely no evidence that her absences caused any harm to the Board; (8) finally, the Board has not demonstrated any pattern of conduct warranting dismissal; instead it continues to try to make this claim by relying on matters that were the subject of a settled increment withholding action and that have been dismissed from this proceeding. Consequently all charges against Respondent should be dismissed; she should be reinstated to her tenured secretarial position with full back pay, benefits and seniority.

DISCUSSION

Both parties were represented by counsel in this proceeding and had full opportunity to present evidence and make arguments in support of their respective positions. All witnesses were sworn. Two of the witnesses testified via telephone, with the consent of all parties. The parties submitted written closing statements with supporting legal authorities to me by January 4, 2016. Neither side has objected to the fairness of this proceeding.

In the preparation of this Opinion and Award, I have given careful consideration to the testimonial and documentary evidence, the legal authorities cited, and the positions and arguments set forth by the parties. I find that the Board has failed to prove the charges against the Respondent for the reasons set forth below.

Charge II. Falsifying Child's Residence.

By far the most serious of the charges against Respondent, and they are very serious indeed, are the charges in Charge II, Counts 1 and 2, that Respondent falsely certified to the District "that her daughter resided in the District during the 2014-2015 school year, thereby depriving the District of tuition Respondent otherwise would owe the District for her non-resident child's enrollment and attendance at the Upper Academy High School in Elizabeth, New Jersey." Count I recites the particulars of the false certification narrowly and specifically as the execution of a fraudulent Temporary Guardianship Authorization:

> On or about June 26, 2014, Respondent signed and submitted to the District a form entitled Temporary Guardianship Authorization for Care of Minor ("TGA"), in which Respondent falsely declared that during the period from July 1, 2014 to July 30, 2015, she had placed her child, N.H., a 12th grade student at all times relevant, in the care of a temporary guardian residing within the City of Elizabeth, for purposes of obtaining a free education for N.H. at the Upper Academy High School in Elizabeth, New Jersey, at a tuition cost to the District and its taxpayers of not less than $17,283.00, when in fact both Respondent and her daughter resided during this period at a home located at 22 Colton Road in Edison, New Jersey, and notwithstanding that the TGA form signed by Respondent clearly indicated that execution of same by the declarant was "under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of New Jersey."

The overwhelming evidence adduced through three days of hearings establishes that Respondent did, indeed, place her daughter in the temporary care of her brother, Robert Jones, a resident of Elizabeth. I found the Respondent and her brother to be credible witnesses. Respondent testified at great length, through direct and a detailed cross-examination, about her personal situation. She was neither defensive nor hostile under the questioning. Instead, she responded calmly and in a forthcoming manner about what had to be a painful subject: the disruption to her life and that of her youngest child because of her husband's instability after a return to drug use. Respondent was not asked, and did not volunteer, details about the relationship or the couple's financial problems. But what was very clear was that she was in a tumultuous relationship and reached out to friends and family to help her through. She testified to an extended family – her own children from her own first marriage, children from her husband's first marriage, stepmother, and brothers, sisters, aunts, uncles and cousins. She related how she stayed with one or another of those, or placed her daughter in their care, as she went back and forth with her husband to try to save her marriage over at least a two-year period.

Often Respondent stayed with her stepmother. But she also turned to her brother, Robert Jones, for help. Both lived close by one another on Anna Street, in Elizabeth. There is absolutely no doubt that Mr. Jones lived in an apartment at 1116 Anna Street: in addition to the testimony to that effect of Respondent and Mr. Jones, the landlord's agent called as a witness by the Board confirmed that fact.[3]
As to whether the daughter resided with Mr. Jones, we have the uncontroverted testimony of Respondent and Jones. But, in addition, we have the photograph and limousine receipt from the prom, neither of which was fabricated for this hearing. The key photograph (R. 31, pp. 281-3) shows the daughter dressed up for the prom and standing proudly in front of 1116 Anna; the receipt (R. 31, p. 280) shows that she was to be picked up and delivered back to that address.

[3] The leases introduced as evidence that Mr. Jones rented the apartment are problematic in many ways, including the unexplained appearance of N.'s name on the lease, two different and both incorrect social security numbers, a discrepancy in the rental amount. Yet, Respondent is not charged with presenting fraudulent leases, only a fraudulent guardianship form. The underlying fact of Mr. Jones' residence in the apartment at Anna Street is beyond question.

Against this evidence, the Board had very little to offer. The Board argues that it is improbable that a teenage girl resided with her uncle in a one-bedroom apartment, with him sleeping on a sofa bed and using a screen for privacy. Yet, many families do share apartments, as Respondent's testimony about her stepmother and daughters makes clear. The Board could have, but did not assign its investigator to visit the Anna Street apartment or to put it under surveillance. Instead it relied entirely upon Mr. Pulidore's observation of an address in Edison, New Jersey, where N. was observed on two occasions – not "several" as claimed by the Board in its brief – exiting the home with her mother.

Respondent does not challenge Mr. Pullidore's observations on those two days; she merely explained that they are not determinative of N.'s residence in March 2015. The two days are particularly significant: they are March 25 and 26, the evening before and the first night of her show, "Bring it On" at the Thomas Jefferson Arts Academy in Elizabeth. The program from the show (R. 9) provides independent corroboration of N.'s participation in the show, the dates of the show, and Respondent's active support as a "drama mama." These pieces of evidence support Respondent's testimony that on a few occasions, including March 25 and 26, she had her daughter stay with her in Edison when there were late rehearsals and when Mr. Jones was out of town. The Board countered none of this information: not the prom, nor the drama performance, nor Mr. Jones' claims about his travels out of town in March.

The Board rests its case upon the assumption that the Temporary Guardianship form was fraudulent. But, as shown above, I find that the underlying facts of the guardianship, namely that Respondent had her daughter living with Mr. Jones in Elizabeth, are true.

Further, I find that that brother and sister, in June of 2014, filled out the Temporary Guardianship Authorization form for the purpose - not of obtaining a free education for the daughter that she was not entitled to – but rather to give Mr. Jones some documentation in case he would need to establish his relationship to the daughter while she was staying with him. The Respondent's testimony about her experience as a member of the military with small children from her first marriage, when she used such forms because she anticipated being deployed overseas and left her children with family members, was entirely credible. The Board offered no evidence to rebut that testimony, so I conclude that Respondent's prior military experience is as she asserted.

It is perhaps understandable that the Board would be suspicious of the guardianship document produced only when Respondent was questioned about her daughter's residence. Further, the document is a casual document, certainly not a formal court order.[4] Yet after a full hearing, with lengthy testimony and the opportunity for cross examination and further investigation, the Board has offered no reason why the Respondent and her brother would have manufactured such a document and backdated it specifically to June of the prior year. The document, like the testimony of Respondent and her brother, had the ring of truth about it. I find that there was no falsification of guardianship.

[4] I find no particular significance to the "discrepancies" pointed to by the Board between the form's statement that costs of the guardianship shall be paid "monthly" and the testimony that Respondent did not pay Mr. Jones for her daughter's rent and food. The form does not say who will pay such expenses and it is clear that Mr. Jones covered basic expenses for his niece.

The Board refers me to requirements of local and state law regarding establishing domicile for a child: generally the child must be the child of a parent or guardian domiciled in the district. Guardianship, for such purposes is defined in to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-1.2:

> A person to whom a court of competent jurisdiction has awarded guardianship or custody of a child, provided that a residential custody order shall entitle a child to attend school in the residential custodian's school district unless it can be proven that the children does not actually live with the custodian.

Respondent counters by pointing out that both state and local laws and regulations give latitude to a school district to allow a student to attend without payment of tuition, even when the child in fact resides outside the district. The district may look at the totality of circumstances, including family crises, to determine whether a tuition waiver should be granted. (See Board's policy, R. 30, and N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.4) The Board in this case did exercise its discretion to allow N. to complete the school year and graduate.

In any case, I need not address the issue of whether the Guardianship form is sufficient to establish that Robert Jones was the legal guardian of his niece in March 2015. The only issue before me is whether Respondent falsely declared, under penalty of perjury, that she had placed N. into her brother's guardianship for the purpose of obtaining a free education to which her daughter was not entitled. I find that she made no false declaration. I find that the Guardianship form was executed in good faith in June 2014 for the purpose stated above: namely, giving her brother some authority to act in the child's best interests should a need arise.

It is certainly true that the Respondent failed to report changes in her own and her child's address as required by Board policies and procedures. As a school secretary, she certainly knew or should have known that she was supposed to report such changes. It is perhaps understandable why an employee, whose personal life is in such turmoil, would not want to share all of the ups and downs of her own and her daughter's residency with the Board. Certainly many employees do fail to report address changes. In any case, Respondent is not charged with failing to report address changes for herself or her child to the Board, only with falsely claiming guardianship in order to receive a free education for her daughter. That I find she did not do. Hence, I dismiss Charge II, Count 1.

As to Charge II, Count 2, the Board charges Respondent with theft by deception by falsely claiming residency for her daughter. For the reasons set forth above, I find no false claim of residence and hence, no theft by deception. Charge II, Count 2 is also dismissed.

Charge III, Chronic Absenteeism

In four counts, Counts 15 through 18, covering school years 2011/2012, 2012/2013, 2013/2014, 2014/2015, the Board charges Respondent with excessive absenteeism and tardiness. Respondent does not contest any of the dates at issue, arguing only that none of the evidence shows chronic absenteeism.

Respondent points out that she had only .1 day of tardiness, which is hardly "excessive." As to the absences, they, too, were not excessive, and Respondent never exceeded her allotment of days for sickness, family illness, personal leave, bereavement and the like. In the first two years charged, when she was under treatment for cancer, Respondent did dip into her accumulated sick bank, but even under those circumstances, she did not exceed days to which she was entitled. And, in the final two years that are charged, she actually increased, rather than decreased her bank of unused sick days, using only 9 and 10 days respectively for sick leave. I agree with Respondent: this is not a record of excessive absenteeism.

In the final school year (Count 18), she is charged with absences when she was assigned involuntarily to sit in a "rubber" room, while these matters were investigated. I find no basis for the Board to charge Respondent with absenteeism for the days when it assigned her to desk duty rather than to her usual place of work. That assignment was done at the Board's discretion and at it's bidding: Respondent cannot be faulted for complying with that assignment.

Finally, the Board had no basis whatever to charge excessive tardiness for one tenth of one day over a four-year period.

All parts of Charge III, Counts 15 through 18, are dismissed.

Charge IV, Pattern of Conduct of Misbehavior

In this Charge, the Board incorporates all of Charges II and III. Insofar as Charge IV relies upon the matters pled in Charges II and III, which I have dismissed, this charge too must be dismissed. In addition, the Board refers in its brief to matters that were the subject of a settled increment withholding. In my Order dismissing charges based upon events prior to June 2011, I made clear that no claim could be prosecuted against Respondent now for those same issues. I stand by that decision. There is nothing new in Charge IV. I have found the Board failed to prove any of the charged misbehavior, let alone a pattern of misbehavior over a period of years.
Charge IV is consequently dismissed.

AWARD

For all of the reasons set forth herein, all of the charges herein are dismissed. Respondent is ordered reinstated, with full back pay, seniority and benefits.

The State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson ["District" or "Petitioner"], certified tenure charges of inefficiency separately against Respondents Carrie Osborne, Thomas Schaefer and Ardeena Long pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3. Respondents filed Answers opposing the charges filed against them.

On October 26, 2015, I received notice from M. Kathleen Duncan, the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, New Jersey Department of Education, that the matter pertaining to Respondent Osborne was referred to me pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 as amended by P.L. 2012, c. 26 and P.L. 2015, c. 109:

> Please be advised that, following receipt of respondent's answer on October 16, 2015, the above-captioned tenure charges have been reviewed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3c. Upon review, the Commissioner is unable to determine that the evaluation process has not been followed. The arbitrator's decision with regard to those charges shall be made pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2, subject to determination by the arbitrator of respondent's defenses and any motions which may be filed with the arbitrator.
> The balance of the charges have been reviewed and deemed sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary, subject to determination by the arbitrator of respondent's defenses and any motions which may be filed with the arbitrator, including, but not limited to, whether N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2 and 6-17.3 now provide the exclusive mechanism for bringing inefficiency charges. The arbitrator shall review those charges brought pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 – which are not dismissed as the result of a motion – under the preponderance of the evidence standard.

With respect to Respondent Osborne, a settlement conference was conducted on November 5, 2015, at the Law Offices of Oxfeld Cohen in Newark, New Jersey. At that time, the parties brought to my attention that there were global issues common to all of the Respondents' cases that needed to be addressed. The Respondents contend that "the manner in which Paterson Public Schools ("PPS") implemented its teacher evaluation system during the 2014-2015 school year violated New Jersey State evaluation statutes and regulations." [Respondent Brief, p. 1]. More specifically:

> Respondents assert that PPS' actions in implementing Student Growth Objectives ("SGO"), PPS' non-disclosure of key evaluation grading rubric information for its teachers' observations and evaluations, and PPS failure to implement and enforce uniform and objective observation scoring rules all violated State statutes and regulations, thus bringing the integrity of all of PPS's 2014-2015 school year teacher evaluations into doubt. [Id. at 2, footnote omitted].

The parties mutually requested that I conduct a single hearing on the global issues in accordance with the following tentative schedule:

- Respondent will serve witness certification(s) in support of argument of defects in the District-wide implementation of its performance evaluation system and procedures by Monday, November 16th;
- Petitioner will serve witness certification(s) in support of the Paterson Public Schools' District-wide implementation of its performance evaluation system and procedures by Monday, November 23rd;

- A hearing in the Osborne case will occur before Arbitrator Gifford on Wednesday, December 2nd. This hearing will be limited to cross-examination (and rebuttal testimony) of the witnesses;

- The parties will file briefs regarding this issue only, due one week after receipt of expedited transcripts;

- Arbitrator Gifford will issue a decision regarding District-wide implementation of its performance evaluation system and procedures by January 13, 2016.[1] [Ex. J-1, p. 1].

The parties and the Arbitrators who are addressing the charges against Respondents Schaefer and Long agreed to rely upon my interim decision "as to the District-wide implementation of its performance evaluation system and procedures, and for each case to then separately address the remaining issues." [Ex. J-1, p. 2].[2]

The Respondents submitted certifications from Mary Chowhan – Treasurer of Paterson Education Association ["PEA], Executive of PEA Evaluation Committee, and Math Teacher; and Sasha Wolf – NJEA Field Representative. The District submitted a certification from Sandra Diodonet – Acting Associate Chief Academic Officer. The parties timely exchanged their witness certifications. [Exs. R-1 (Chowhan), R-2 (Wolf), SD-1 & SD-2 (Diodonet)]. Then, two (2) days of hearing took place on December 2 and 8, 2015 in Paterson, New

[1] The parties did not object to my request for an additional day to render this decision.

Jersey. A stenographic recording of the proceedings was taken in accordance with the tentative schedule above.[3] Sworn testimony was received Chowhan, Wolf and Diodonet. The parties submitted post-hearing briefs on December 21, 2015. The record was closed upon receipt of the parties' briefs.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2. Considerations for arbitrator in rendering decision.

23. a. In the event that the matter before the arbitrator pursuant to section 22 of this act is employee inefficiency pursuant to section 25 of this act, in rendering a decision the arbitrator shall only consider whether or not:

(1) the employee's evaluation failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process, including, but not limited to providing a corrective action plan;

(2) there is a mistake of fact in the evaluation;

(2) if the employee is rated partially effective in two consecutive annual summative evaluations or is rated ineffective in an annual summative evaluation and the following year is rated partially effective in the annual summative evaluation, the superintendent shall promptly file with the secretary of the board of education a charge of inefficiency, except that the superintendent upon a written finding of exceptional circumstances may defer the filing of tenure charges until the next annual summative evaluation. If the employee is not rated effective or highly effective on this annual summative evaluation, the superintendent shall promptly file a charge of inefficiency.

b. Within 30 days of the filing, the board of education shall forward a written charge to the commissioner, unless the board determines that the evaluation process has not been followed.

c. Notwithstanding the provision of N.J.S. 18A:6-16 or any other section of law to the contrary, upon receipt of a charge pursuant to subsection a. of this section, the commissioner shall examine the charge. The individual against whom the charges are filed shall have 10 days to submit a written response to the charges to the commissioner. The commissioner shall, within five days immediately following the period provided for a written response to the charges, refer the case to an arbitrator and appoint an arbitrator to hear the case, unless he determines that the evaluation process has not been followed.

d. The only evaluations which may be used for purposes of this section are those evaluations conducted in accordance with a rubric adopted by the board an approved by the commissioner pursuant to P.L.2012, c.26 (C.18A:6-117 et al.).

FINDINGS

The parties presented proposed findings of fact in their post-hearing briefs. Having reviewed the entire record, I have adopted the proposed findings as modified below.

1. Sandra Diodonet has been employed in the District either as a teacher or an administrator since 2003. (Diodonet Certification, Ex. SD-1, ¶2). Diodonet has been the Acting Associate Chief Academic Officer since May 2015. (Id. at ¶1). Prior to that, Diodonet serves as a Principal at Public School No. 5 from August 2013 to April 2015, an Interim Principal at Public School No. 5 from December 2012 to July 2013, and a Supervisor/Department Head at International High School from January 2011 to November 2012. (Id. at ¶2). Diodonet was the District's sole witness in this proceeding.

2. To comply with the mandates of TEACHNJ, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-123(c), the School District developed, and the State District Superintendent adopted, a teacher evaluation rubric to be followed beginning in the 2013-2014 school year. (Id. at ¶4). The New Jersey Department of Education ("NJDOE") approved the School District's teacher evaluation rubric by letters dated September 7, 2012 and October 4, 2012. (Ex. SD-1(A)). NJDOE notified the District that "[i]f you release a new version [of the Teaching Practice Evaluation Instrument], or if a district employing your instrument makes substantial modifications to the approved version, this information must be submitted through the next review cycle for potential inclusion on the approved list." (Id.).

3. In 2013, the District held staff development programming regarding TEACHNJ and AchieveNJ. (Ex. SD-2, PPS-SD-103). The staff was provided with an opportunity to submit questions to the District. On June 24, 2013, Deputy Superintendent Eileen Shafer provided staff members with a copy of the questions and answers. (Ex. SD-2, PPS-SD-104-152). The District later provided another opportunity for questions. The answers were provided in a September update. ((Ex. SD-2, PPS-SD-104-153-157).

4. Pursuant to the District's teacher evaluation system, teachers are evaluated on either two or three components: Teacher Practice, Student Growth Objectives ("SGO" or "SGOs"), and Student Growth Percentage ("SGP"). (Wolf Certification, Ex. R-2, ¶ 13). For most teachers, the Teacher Practice Score ("TPS") and the SGO are the two components used to determine the summative rating. (T2:305; Ex. SD-2, 2014-2015 Guidebook, PPS-SD-256). Teachers assigned to teach in non-tested areas (subjects other than grades 4-8 math and English Language Arts) receive annual summative evaluation ratings comprised of two parts: (i) a teacher practice score based on their performance on the evaluation instrument; and (ii) an SGO score based on the academic growth shown by their students over the course of the school year. (Ex. SD-1, ¶10).

5. Teacher Practice Scores are calculated by measuring teaching performance according to seven standards: (1) Preparation for Instruction, (2) Use of Data to Inform Instruction, (3) Delivers Quality Instruction, (4) Interventions to Meet Diverse Needs, (5) Classroom Environment, (6) Leadership and (7) Professionalism. (Ex. SD-1, ¶11; Ex. SD-2, 2013-2014 Guidebook, PPS-SD-11; Ex. SD-2, 2014-2015 Guidebook, PPS-SD-257.) Each standard is comprised of several indicators:

Standard 1: Preparation for Instruction

- Indicator 1a. Establish a culture of high expectations for learning and achievement.
- Indicator 1b. Use district-adopted curriculum and content knowledge to design coherent lessons.
- Indicator 1c. Post aligned lesson objectives and plan for demonstrations of learning.

Standard 2: Use of Data to Inform Instruction

- Indicator 2a. Focus on improving instruction using data.
- Indicator 2b. Use a variety of assessment methods when designing classroom assessments.
- Indicator 2c. Involve students in assessing their own learning.

Standard 3: Delivers Quality Instruction

- Indicator 3a. Instruct bell to bell.
- Indicator 3b. Use a variety of instructional strategies to focus instruction.
- Indicator 3c. Engages students in learning.
- Indicator 3d. Continually checks for understanding.
- Indicator 3e. Deliver rigorous and relevant content.
- Indicator 3f. Integrate 21st Century Skills in instruction.
- Indicator 3g. Provides feedback about student proficiency.

Standard 4: Interventions to Meet Diverse Needs

- Indicator 4a. Differentiate instruction based on student needs and background.
- Indicator 4b. Implements interventions with fidelity and adjusts interventions based on results.
- Indicator 4c. Adapt and modify instruction for the unique needs of learners.

Standard 5: Classroom Environment

- Indicator 5a. Contribute to a safe and orderly learning environment.
- Indicator 5b. Use effective classroom management procedures.
- Indicator 5c. Effectively manage student behavior.
- Indicator 5d. Foster collaboration and self-regulation in students.
- Indicator 5e. Promote positive and respectful rapport.

Standard 6: Leadership

- Indicator 6a. Understand their role and responsibility in implementing the District and/or Building Action Plan.
- Indicator 6b. Promote the concept of Professional Learning Communities/ Professional Forums through collaboration and purposeful involvement.
- Indicator 6c. Continue professional growth.

Standard 7: Professionalism

- Indicator 7a. Adhere to federal laws, state statutes and regulations pertaining to education, Board of Education (BOE) policies, and school rules.
- Indicator 7b. Demonstrate professionalism.

- Indicator 7c. Effectively communicates and solves problems.

(Ex. SD-1, ¶11; Ex. SD-2, 2013-2014 Guidebook, PPS-SD-10 through 38; Ex. SD-2, 2014-2015 Guidebook, PPS-SD-168, 257).

6. For each sub-indicator, there are three (3) sub-indicators. (Ex. SD-2, 2013-2014 Guidebook, PPS-SD-10 through 38; Ex. SD-2, 2014-2015 Guidebook, PPS-SD-196 through 222).

7. In order to evaluate teacher performance observed in classroom observations, the administrators (i.e. principal) assigned ratings for each of the indicators being measured in that observation. (Ex. SD-1, ¶12; Ex. SD-2, 2013-2014 Guidebook, PPS-SD-64). The ratings ranged from "exemplary" (or highly effective) to "unsatisfactory" (or ineffective). Evaluation categories were as follows:

Unsatisfactory (Ineffective, 1 point)
Progressing I (Partially Effective, 2 points)
Progressing II (Partially Effective, 3 points)
Proficient I (Effective, 4 points)
Proficient II (Effective, 5 points)
Proficient III (Highly Effective, 6 points)
Exemplary (Highly Effective, 7 points)

(Ex. SD-1, ¶12; Ex. SD-1(H), p. 11; Ex. SD-2, 2013-2014 Guidebook, PPS-SD-64 & 66).

8. The numerical ratings for the seven performance standards (based on the rating of each component indicator) were then weighted with one to three, based on the following weights:

Standard 1: Preparation for Instruction (2)
Standard 2: Use of Data to Inform Instruction (2)
Standard 3: Delivers Quality Instruction (3)
Standard 4: Interventions to Meet Diverse Needs (3)
Standard 5: Classroom Environment (2)
Standard 6: Leadership (1)
Standard 7: Professionalism (1)

(Ex. SD-1, ¶13; Ex. SD-2, 2013-2014 Guidebook, PPS-SD-51 & 52; Ex. SD-2, 2014-2015 Guidebook, PPS-SD-167.) Performance Standard 6 (Leadership) was initially weighted once, but later changed to a weight of two (2) in the Spring of 2014:

Standard 1: Preparation for Instruction (2)
Standard 2: Use of Data to Inform Instruction (2)
Standard 3: Delivers Quality Instruction (3)
Standard 4: Interventions to Meet Diverse Needs (3)
Standard 5: Classroom Environment (2)
Standard 6: Leadership (2)
Standard 7: Professionalism (1)

(Ex. SD-1 ¶13; T2:321; Ex. SD-2, 2014-2015 Guidebook, PPS-SD-255 through 257).

9. Diodonet testified that in order to calculate the annual Teacher Practice Score, the teacher's ratings in each observation were averaged, and the total point values in each of the seven standards were weighted as outlined above. (Ex. SD-1, ¶14; Ex. SD-1(H)). That final sum was then applied to the following chart:

| PPS Weighted Sum Intervals | Score |
| 14-27 | 1 |
| 28-55 | 2 |
| 56-83 | 3 |
| 84-105 | 4 |

(Ex. SD-1, ¶¶ 14 & 23.)

The same point values and weights were applied to calculate the summative ratings in the 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 school years. (Id. at ¶¶ 26 & 27). As more fully discussed below, the Respondents claim that they were not fully informed that the point values and weights would not change for 2014-2015.

10. In the Spring of 2014, teachers were given a PowerPoint presentation concerning the implementation of the teacher observation and evaluation system, specifically with respect to the weighting of the teacher practice standards. (Ex. SD-1(H)). The presentation explained how each of the seven (7) standards were weighed, the scoring of the summative rating, and when a particular standard was rated in more than one observation that the scores for the standard were added and averaged. (Ex. SD-1(H), p. 11).

11. In addition to evaluating their practice, teachers are evaluated on the extent to which they meet their SGOs each school year. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 defines "Student growth objective" as "an academic goal that teachers and evaluators set for groups of students." "SGOs are long-term academic goals for groups of students set by teachers in consultation with their supervisors." (See http://www.nj.gov/education/AchieveNJ/teacher/objectives.shtml). SGOs are required to be set by each teacher in collaboration with the principal or supervisor, with the principal having the authority to make the final determination. (N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4(e)3; Ex. SD-1, ¶17; T2:219-220, 267-268.) The teacher determines annual academic goals for a class or group of students and tracks the academic progress of that class or group towards the assigned goals during the school year. (Ex. SD-1, ¶17.) These goals are aligned with Common Core Standards, Core Curriculum Content Standards and school goals, and are based on student learning data from pre-assessments and post-assessments. (Id.). Student progress on an identified SGO is determined by an assessment of the increase in learning between two points in time, as indicated by: (i) acquisition of knowledge or skill from a particular starting point or readiness level; or (ii) development of a portfolio indicating a change in skill or knowledge over a period of time; and (iii) difference in learning on pre-assessments and post-assessments. (Id. at ¶18). Additional information concerning SGOs can be found on the New Jersey Department of Education's website in the AchieveNJ Home section.

12. On October 1, 2013, Assistant Superintendents Maria Santa and Aubrey Johnson issued a memorandum to all principals regarding the SGO Professional Development scheduled for October 4, 2013. (Ex. SD-1(J)). The memorandum included an agenda for the October 4th meeting. Attached thereto were comprehensive materials related to the SGO PowerPoint presentation including, but not limited to, an SGO planning calendar, information addressing SGO specific best practices, SGO samples, and other SGO information from the New Jersey Department of Education. (Id.) The memorandum indicated that the purpose of the half day of development was "for teachers to actually write SGOs". (Id.)

13. The Annual Summary Conference Form is the document that reports a teacher's annual summative evaluation rating. The form includes both the Teacher Practice Score and SGO score. In the 2013-2014 school year, teacher practice scores counted for 85% of a teacher's overall rating and SGO scores counted for the remaining 15%. In the 2014-2015 school year, teacher practice scores counted for 80% of a teacher's overall rating and SGO scores counted for the remaining 20%.

14. On the 2013-2014 Annual Summary Conference Form, the Teacher Practice Score and the SGO are listed in their raw data form, and the form indicates the weight given to each piece of data in the calculation of the final rating: 85% for the Teacher Practice Score, and 15% for the SGO. (Ex. SD-1, ¶21). Those scores were then weighted and the annual summative score determined. (Id.). The form also includes a summative rating scale in order to show teachers how this numerical summative rating ranks them as highly effective, effective, partially effective or ineffective. (Id.).

15. The data to establish the Teacher Practice Score is summarized in the Teacher Practice Summary Report that accompanies the Annual Summary Conference Form, which shows the teacher's average scores in each of the seven performance standards from observations throughout the year. (Ex. SD-1, ¶22). This report also shows the weight given to each performance standard and includes a weighted sum interval chart. (See SD-2, PPS-SD-256).

16. In the 2014-2015 school year, the District continued to use the evaluation rubric that had been approved previously by the Commissioner of Education. (Ex. SD-1, ¶26). The framework for evaluation was outlined again for teachers in the 2014-2015 Guidebook. (Id.; Ex. SD-2, 2014-2015 Guidebook). Diodonet indicated that the point values assigned to each indicator were the same as those that had been used in the 2013-2014 school year, as the 2013-2014 Guidebook had set forth. (Ex. SD-1, ¶27). The same calculation method was used in both 2013-2014 and 2014-2015. (Ex. SD-1, ¶15; T2:321).

17. As in the 2013-2014 school year, the 2014-2015 Annual Summary Conference Form contained a Teacher Practice Score and SGO score. (Ex. SD-1, ¶29). Also as in the 2013-2014 school year, the Teacher Practice score was determined based on the ratings assigned for each performance indicator in classroom observations throughout the school year, and the weights assigned to each performance standard, while the SGO score was determined based on the calculations in the teacher's SGO goal-setting process. (Id.). On the 2014-2015 Annual Summary Conference Form, the Teacher Practice Score and SGO were listed as weighted data, rather than in their raw data form as in 2013-2014. (Id. at ¶30). The form also indicated the 80% weight given to teaching performance and 20% to student growth in the calculation of the final rating. (Id.). The weighted Teacher Practice and the SGO scores were added together to determine the summative evaluation score. (Id.).

18. In addition to formal classroom observations that were rated, the rubric requires administrators to observe teacher performance informally by doing informal "walkthroughs". (Id. at ¶34). A walkthrough identifies and informs teacher practice in the areas of classroom environment, instruction and student engagement. (Id.). Trained administrators debrief with the teacher and provide feedback and recommendations to improve teaching and learning. (Id.; SD-2, 2013-2014 Guidebook, PPS-SD-44-47). A walkthrough is a non-evaluative classroom visit of no more than ten (10) minutes. (Ex. SD-1, ¶34; Ex. SD-2, 2014-2015 Guidebook, PPS-SD-183).

19. Diodonet testified that toward the end of the 2013-2014 school year, principals, supervisors and teachers in the Paterson Public Schools were directed to begin drafting Corrective Action Plans ("CAPs") for those teachers who did not earn a summative rating of "effective" or "highly effective." (Ex. SD-1, ¶25). A CAP requires "[t]he teaching staff member to work with their supervisor to create a plan of professional development that is designed to correct the needs identified in their evaluation. The CAP includes timelines for corrective action, and clearly delineates responsibilities of the teaching staff member versus the district in implementing the plan." http://www.state.nj.us/education/AchieveNJ/intro/TeachNJGuide.pdf. CAPs were to be drafted by principals in collaboration with teachers and supervisors, meaning that the teachers were to be provided with an opportunity to provide input into the content of their individual CAPs. (Ex. SD-1, ¶25).

20. Diodonet indicated that the 2014-2015 Guidebook originally required that eight walkthroughs be conducted each year for teachers on a CAP, an expectation which was reduced later in the 2014-2015 school year. (Ex. SD-1, ¶35; Ex. SD-2, 2014-2015 Guidebook, PPS-SD-183).

21. Diodonet testified, as reflected by the guidebooks, training and guidance with respect to implementation of the new evaluation system was initially provided to teaching staff members, including school administrators and teachers, in the 2012-2013 school year and continued during the 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 school years. (Ex. SD-1, ¶¶5, 8, 28). As a reference, the District produced manuals describing each aspect of the evaluation framework, which were distributed to all teaching staff in the 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 school years. (Ex. SD-1, ¶9; Ex. SD-2, 2013-2014 Guidebook and 2014-2015 Guidebook). The District also distributed "District Updates" to further inform teachers on the new evaluation system. (Ex. SD-1, ¶7; Ex. SD-1(D); SD-2, 2013-2014 Guidebook, PPS-SD-87-100).

22. Teachers received training from the District's Office of Accountability during the 2012-2013 school year. (Ex. SD-1, ¶6; Ex. SD-1(B) & (C). In the training conducted in May and June 2013, teachers were informed that the new framework would be the basis on which their performance would be evaluated beginning in the 2013-2014 school year. (Ex. SD-1(B) & (C)). During these sessions, teachers were informed that at the end of the 2013-2014 school year, and in following years, each teacher would receive an annual summative rating of "highly effective," "effective," "partially effective," or "ineffective" based on a points rating system; and that if any teacher earned a summative rating of "ineffective" or "partially effective" in both the 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 school years, the District would be required to file a tenure charge of inefficiency after the 2014-2015 school year. (Id.).

23. Diodonet testified that additional training sessions were conducted over several days in preparation for rollout of the system in the 2013-2014 school year. (Ex. SD-1, ¶5). At multiple training sessions, principals were instructed on how to train teachers on the purpose and implementation of the new evaluation framework. (Id.; T2:243-245). Principals were directed to train their teachers on the evaluation system. (Id. at ¶6; T2:243-245). Training was also conducted throughout the 2013-2014 school year for teachers and school administrators. (Ex. SD-1, ¶8; Ex. SD-1 (E), (F), (G), (H) & (I)).

24. The point values and the weights given to the performance standards were communicated to teachers in the 2012-2013 school year, prior to implementation of the evaluation system, and again in the 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 school years. (Ex. SD-1, ¶¶15, 27; Ex. SD-2, 2013-2014 Guidebook, PPS-SD-51-52 and 2014-2015 Guidebook, PPS-SD-167).

25. As to training on SGOs in particular, information about SGOs was delivered to all District principals on October 1, 2013. On October 4, 2013, a half day was devoted to district-wide professional development for the purpose of teachers drafting their SGOs with principals and supervisors. (Ex. SD-1, ¶19; Ex. SD-1(J)). The materials used on that training day are attached to Diodonet's Certification, Ex. SD-1(F). (T2:315-316). Additionally, information about SGOs was distributed to teachers in the 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 school years. (Ex. SD-1, ¶16; SD-2, 2013-2014 Guidebook, PPS-SD-70 through 85, 2014-2015 Guidebook, PPS-SD-171 through 175).

26. The calculation of the Teacher Practice Score was explained in a March 2014 training provided by the District, which included PowerPoint slides with an audio explanation. (Ex. SD-1(H), Slides 10, 11 and 12; T2:326-327). In the 2014-2015 school year, principals and central office administrators continued to train teachers on the evaluation framework. (Ex. SD-1, ¶28; Ex. SD-1(K), (L) & (M)). Diodonet testified that the District had also provided training to principals and that principals trained their teachers in March 2014 on the evaluation framework. (T2:326).

27. With respect to the Teacher Practice Score, the Respondents contend that there were problems with how the District's observers (i.e. principals) differentiated between the different scores for the seven (7) standards and the sub-categories (indicators) within each standard for 2014-2015.

28. Mary Chowhan is a Math Teacher at the School of Business, Technology, Marketing & Finance at John F. Kennedy High School. She is also the Treasurer of Paterson Education Association ["PEA], and was the Executive of PEA Evaluation Committee in 2014-2015. Chowhan testified that teachers were unable to determine Standard scores either for a given observation or for the full year for purposes of calculating their TPS. (T1:78-79). During the 2013-2014 school year, when the District provided its teachers and the PEA with written explanations of how the District would calculate the TPS for annual summative evaluations. (Ex. R-2, ¶15). For instance, the 2013-2014 guide included a chart for calculating the raw scores for each of the seven Standards considered for the TPS. (Ex. SD-2, PPS-SD-64). Chowhan testified that for 2013-2014 she was able to calculate the total summative rating based upon the information contained in the Summary Report and the Annual Summary Conference Form. (T1:38-39; See Ex. SD-2, PPS-SD-256-257). In comparison, however, Chowhan explained that during the 2014-2015 school year, teachers received scores for the sub-categories during observations, but not an overall score for the Standard. (T1:16). Chowhan testified that the teachers were never told how the scores were added together for an observation standard score or how the standard scores were added together to determine the TPS. (T1:97-98). Chowhan asked her department chair to explain the ratings process who informed her that the ratings were compiled on a software system called McREL. (T1:67-68; 94). Diodonet testified that as a principal she did not personally perform the calculations because that was done by McREL, a system that was later replaced by Media-X. (T2:297, 301).

29. The Respondents claim that during the 2014-2015 school year, the District also failed to provide any training or information for calculating an overall Standard score for an observation. As a result, teachers did not know how the District's observers differentiated between the different scores for sub-categories and Standards. Teachers were also unable to determine Standard scores either for a given observation or for the full year for purposes of calculating their TPS. (T1:78-79).

30. Chowhan testified that the lack of information regarding the Standard scores became problematic as teachers and the PEA were unable to check the accuracy of the observation reports, which varied significantly in their calculations. (T1:59-60). Although teachers received observation reports, they could not know their standing for the school year. The observation reports did not include whether the teachers were on track for effective ratings in their eventual annual summative evaluation. (Ex. R-1, ¶6). Further, for the Standards that were observed more than once during the school year, the District failed to explain to the PEA or its members how multiple observation scores for a particular Standard were considered together in the District determining a final Standard score for the year. (T1:64-65).

31. Chowhan testified that PEA members reached out to her during the 2014-2015 school year to raise their concerns with the District's teacher evaluation system, including regarding the scoring rubric for the teachers' annual summative evaluations. (Ex. R-1, ¶ 5). Chowhan shared in the teachers' concerns. Chowhan testified that she asked her department chair for an explanation, but was told that the calculations were done by the computer associated with the McRel evaluation system, without elaboration. (T1:66-67).

32. Sasha Wolf is a Field Representative for the NJEA. Wolf testified that the PEA approached him with respect to its concerns with the scoring rubric and Standard scores. (Ex. R-2, ¶ 12). On November 11, 2014, Wolf emailed Superintendent Evans to address the scoring guide rubric. (Ex. R-2(C)). On November 24, 2014, Acting Chief Human Resources Officer Marnie McKoy responded to Wolf. McKoy wrote that there had been training during the 2013-2014 school year and that the District's principals would provide additional training the following January. (Ex. R-2(D)). Wolf was not aware of any such training taking place in or after January 2015. (Ex. R-2, ¶ 17; T2:148:6-12).

33. Chowhan developed her own charts in an effort to help the members understand the significance of the observation reports. (Ex. R-1, ¶ 7). Chowhan testified that her calculations were only approximations and did not always match up with the averages established by the District. (T1:69). The PEA ran CAP training seminars, some of which were conducted by Wolf, in which the PEA addressed member concerns about their evaluations. (T1:24; T2:158-159). Wolf testified that during the seminars members described not knowing how their 2014-2015 observation scores would be tallied for the purposes of determining their TPS. (T2:158-159). Chowhan testified that teachers also independently asked their principals for information about their standing for the year, but were not provided the information to be able to calculate their Standard scores or TPS. (T1:25).

34. Wolf testified that there was no indication that the March 2014 teacher training (which occurred during the 2013-2014 school year) was applicable to the 2014-2015 evaluations. (T2:224). Wolf indicated that the materials provided at the training were apparently not even up to date as of the end of the 2013-2014 school year. (Ex. R-1(H); T2:329-330). Wolf testified that other training materials previously provided to District teachers included significantly important errors, such as a supposedly false depiction of the evaluation instrument summary and inaccurate calculations of sample summative evaluation scores. (Ex. SD-2, PPS-SD-64; Ex. SD-2, PPS-SD-256; T2:278-279, 294).

35. The Respondents claim that the District never told its teachers that the scoring rubric and evaluation procedures would remain the same for the 2014-2015 school year. To the contrary, as Chowhan testified, the District during the 2013-2014 school year informed its teachers that they would be made aware of the changes when they returned to school in September 2014, but the District never made follow-up comments as to the changes taking effect for the 2014-2105 school year. (T1:85-86).

36. The Respondents point out that the Diodonet has only been the Acting Associate Chief Academic Officer since May 2015. Prior to that, she did not previously hold any District-wide position. She, therefore, was not responsible for disseminating information to other schools or ensuring that principals complied with State evaluation requirements. (T2:217-218; 238-239). The Respondents indicate that out of all of the documents attached to her certification, Diodonet's input was limited to one page of the 2014-2015 evaluation manual and the May 2015 presentation to District principals. (T2:231-232; 236-237). For these reasons the Respondents submit that Diodonet could not comment as to how other schools trained their teachers on the evaluation framework for the 2014-2015 school year. (T2:243-244).

37. Chowhan testified that the District never gave the PEA information for distinguishing between a Proficient 1 or a Proficient 2 performance (both of which fall within Proficient) in a sub-category. (T1:16). Diodonet acknowledged that a decision between a Proficient 1 or Proficient 2 or other scores was left to the principal's discretion. (T2:277).

38. Chowhan testified that during the 2014-2015 school year she asked multiple District evaluators and administrators to explain how they determined teacher observation scores. These individuals included, but not limited to Pamela Powell (Principal at BTMF), Jorge Osoria (BTMF Vice Principal) and Judy Rhodes (Chowhan's supervisor). (T1:29-30). Chowhan testified that the administrators gave inconsistent answers. For instance, one person told Chowhan that a Standard was determined by taking an average of the relevant observation scores, while another based a Standard score on whichever rating had the most check marks. (T1:30-31).

39. Chowhan also testified that one (1) District official admitted to artificially lowering observation scores in multiple respects because he did not believe in giving out 7's (on a 1-7 scale) in observations because everyone always had room to grow. (Ex. R-1, ¶ 13). Chowhan also indicated that administrators at District schools #7 and #28 admitted to their teachers that they gave lower scores during the first observation of the year because they felt the need to have an opportunity for a teacher to show growth during the course of the year. (Id. at ¶ 14).

40. With respect to the Student Growth Objectives, Wolf testified that during the Spring and Summer of 2014 he received complaints from leadership members of the Paterson Education Association that some of the District's supervisors and/or administrators were unilaterally dictating the content of SGOs on teachers for the 2014-2015 school year. (Ex. R-2, ¶17; T2:109, 114-115). The schools where each of the Respondents taught were not identified as participating in this alleged practice. (T2:132).

41. The District concedes that if, in fact, any administrator had unilaterally decided on a teacher's SGOs, doing so would have been contrary to the District's evaluation system that requires a collaborative SGO-setting process. (Ex. SD-1, ¶17; Ex. SD-1(F) & (J); T2:317). Diodonet testified that developing an SGO is a complicated process that depends on incorporating student academic achievement data that teachers have, not administrators. (T2:219-220; 270). Diodonet indicated that it would have been impractical for any principal to "impose" an SGO on a teacher, because the principal does not have the student achievement data necessary to develop an SGO. (T2:270, 314-315).

42. On August 21, 2014, Wolf emailed District Superintendent Donnie Evans regarding the PEA's concern that the District was unilaterally implementing SGOs. (Ex. R-2(A)). Wolf requested a meeting with Evans for the purposes of discussing the SGOs. (Ex. R-2(A)).

43. On September 12, 2014, Wolf and other PEA representatives met with District representatives - Assistant Superintendent Susie Peron, District Director Lauren Kazmark, Deputy Superintendent Eileen Shafer, and District General Counsel Lisa Pollack. (T2:177-178). Wolf indicated that two members of the New Jersey State Department of Education were also in attendance. (Ex. R-2, ¶9). Wolf testified that during this meeting Peron and Kazmark both admitted to the District's unilateral development of the SGOs for the 2014-2015 school year. (T2:119). According to Wolf, Kazmark remarked that the District would try to work on a different method for developing SGOs and Peron indicated that there had not been solicitation of staff member input. (T2:120-121). Wolf testified that neither Shafer nor Pollack denied the accuracy of Kazmark and Peron's statements. (T2:178). Diodonet was not present at the meeting and has never talked to Peron or Kazmark about the statements they made during the meeting. (T2:255; 334-335).

44. Diodonet testified that Peron and Kazmark were central office administrators whose job responsibilities were to develop and provide assessments to teachers for use with their students; those assessments were approved for use in obtaining data to be used to set SGOs. (T2:310-311). According to Diodonet, those administrators likely provided the assessments for teachers to use in order to obtain the data needed to develop SGOs, rather than determining the SGOs themselves. (T2:311).

45. On September 24, 2014, Wolf followed up on the meeting with an email to Peron. (Ex. R-2(B)). Wolf testified that despite this communication the District never informed him of any changes to its SGO implementation. (T2:179). Wolf testified that if such changes had been made that he would have heard about it from the PEA because the SGOs represented an existential threat to the PEA members. (T2:179-180).

46. The Respondents submit that the District's "neglect in its obligation to inform the PEA of the calculation methods for the scoring rubric not only violated Article 14 of the collectively negotiated agreement between PPS and PEA, it also violated PPS' Board policy and PEA's right to challenge increment withholdings." (Respondents' Brief, p. 9; T2:138-139). The Respondents note that "[t]he PEA filed a grievance against [the District] because of [its] failure to provide information for the scoring rubric." (Respondents' Brief, p. 10; Ex. R-1, ¶8). The PEA then filed a Petition of Appeal against PPS on the issue with the State Commissioner of Education. (Respondents' Brief, p. 10; Ex. R-2(E)).

The parties presented the following legal arguments and conclusions of law in support of their respective positions.

The Respondents' Position[4]

The following legal arguments have been presented in the Respondents' post-hearing brief:

> PATERSON PUBLIC SCHOOLS ACTIONS ON A SCHOOL DISTRICT WIDE SCALE VIOLATED STATUTORY AND REGULATORY REQUIREMENTS FOR NEW JERSEY TEACHER EVALUATIONS

> A. Paterson Public Schools' Legal Obligations for Teacher Obligations
>
> Under the Teacher Effectiveness and Accountability for Children of New Jersey Act ("TEACHNJ"), an arbitrator rendering a decision for inefficiency based tenure charges can consider whether:

> 2) There is a mistake of fact in the evaluation;
> 3) The charges would not have been brought but for considerations of political affiliation, nepotism, union activity, discrimination as prohibited by State or federal law, or other conduct prohibited by State or federal law; or

[4] Footnotes 5-7 herein are actually numbered 11-13 in the Respondents' Brief.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2(a). The issues identified in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2(a)(1) are meant to ensure that a school district drafted and complied with a State-approved teacher evaluation system in the observations and evaluations of its teachers during a school year. An arbitrator may consider evidence that a teacher's annual summative evaluation score is an inaccurate depiction of his or her performance during a school year if the underlying reason for the divergence falls under one of the enumerated subsections.

TEACHNJ and State regulations identify numerous requirements for a school district to follow to ensure a reliable and fair system in that school district's evaluation of its teachers. For instance, school districts are required to annually submit to the Commissioner of Education the evaluation rubric it intends to use for teacher evaluations in the subsequent school year. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-122. The evaluation rubrics are due to the Commissioner by June 1st, with the State's approval by the following August 1st. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2.1. The evaluation rubrics include a description of "scoring guide," which is defined by the state as:

> "Scoring guide" means a set of rules or criteria used to evaluate a performance, product or project. The purpose of a scoring guide is to provide a transparent and reliable evaluation process. Educator practice instruments include a scoring guide that an evaluator uses to structure his or her assessments and ratings of professional practice.

N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 (Emphasis added). A school district is also obligated to ensure that the data it uses for the evaluations is collected and stored in an accessible and usable format. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2.2(a)(6).[5]

School districts must comply with additional State statutes and regulations concerning administering teacher evaluations. Some of the statutes and regulations concern the creation, measuring and evaluating of SGOs. SGOs are expected to be specifically tailored to an individual teacher, [5] Respondents acknowledge that as a State-Operated School District, PPS' Board of Education do not have the same authority or responsibility as other boards of education. However, the management of the Board of Education would not affect the ability or obligation to ensure that data is safely stored and accessible in a usable format.

rather than broad, generally applicable plans. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.2(a)(2). To ensure that the SGO's are properly developed to comply with State obligations:

> 3. Each teacher shall develop, in consultation with his or her supervisor or a principal's designee, each student growth objective. If the teacher does not agree with the student growth objectives, the principal shall make the final determination.

N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.2(e). A School district must also provide its teachers with ongoing professional development, including additional professional development for any teacher who is struggling to meet performance standards. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-128.

TEACHNJ also addresses the relationship between a School District and any representative labor union. Under TEACHNJ school districts and labor unions can negotiate over teacher evaluations. In fact, unless a subject is superseded by State statute or regulation, all aspects of teacher evaluations are mandatorily negotiable. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-126.

B. Paterson Public Schools' Implementation of the 2014-2015 Student Growth Objectives violated State Requirements and the Purpose of Student Growth Objectives.

Prior to and during the 2014-2015 school year, PPS wholly ignored the State's laws addressing the formation of SGOs. Rather than pursuing a collaborative process which would have buttressed the reliability of this element of the annual summative evaluations, PPS opted to take short cuts in the creation of the SGOs, compromising the integrity of its teachers' SGOs and the regulatory scheme in the process.

Under N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.2(e), PPS needed to first allow its teachers to develop their SGOs for the 2014-2015 school year. A teacher must be provided the first opportunity to draft his or her SGO. Only if a PPS teacher and his or her supervisor were in disagreement with the content of the SGO was a PPS administrator permitted to make a final determination as to the content of the SGO. Although PPS had latitude in what ultimately went into the SGO, the State still required PPS to undertake a collaborative process with its teachers in creating the documents.

PPS' admissions during the September 12, 2014 meeting that it unilaterally imposed SGOs to its teachers at the majority of the PPS schools must be treated as a confession of PPS' violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.2(e). The uncontroverted testimony establishes that Peron and Kazmark, both high ranking PPS officials, admitted that PPS unilaterally developed SGOs for the 2014-2015 school year. Peron and Kazmark declared that PPS had failed to solicit staff members and that PPS would work on changing the method for SGOs. Neither PPS' deputy superintendent nor general counsel denied or otherwise tried to backtrack from Peron and Kazmark's remarks. Notwithstanding PPS' admission at the September 12, 2014 meeting, it did not rectify the problem during the 2014-2015 school year. The only reasonable conclusion is that the improper SGOs were largely or entirely left intact for the duration of 2014-2015 school year.

PPS' violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.2(e) undermined the SGOs' purpose of trying to correctly measure a teacher's impact on his or her students' improvement during the course of a school year. PPS' and Respondents' witnesses agreed at the hearings that a teacher is in the best position to draft an SGO. Only the teacher can best determine student placement and address other factors within the class which would affect an SGO.

Diodonet admitted that principals setting the requirements for an SGO (which PPS admitted to doing during the September 2014 meeting) would be unwise. Absent significant prior interaction with a class prior to drafting an SGO, it would be nearly impossible for a principal or other administrator to tailor SGOs as directed N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.2(a)(2) to adequately reflect a classroom's teaching environment. Absent teachers' significant involvement from the beginning of an SGO's formation, SGOs would be imprecise and inaccurate depictions of teaching performance, thus losing all utility for teacher evaluations. Accordingly, it must be found that PPS' actions in the creation of the 2014-2015 SGOs violated State rules and regulations and otherwise compromised the purpose of the teacher evaluation system.

C. Paterson Public Schools' Failure to Disclosure Scoring Rubric Information Violated State Statutes and Regulations.

In addition to the problems with the SGOs during the 2014-2015 school year, PPS' handling of teacher observation scores also violated TEACHNJ. By failing to share the information needed to determine the teachers' Standard scores for the annual summative evaluations, PPS prevented its teachers from being able to determine during the school year whether they were meeting their goals and performing at an effective level. This impediment was exponentially more troublesome for teachers under a CAP in the 2014-2015 school year, as it left those teachers in doubt for the entire year as to whether they were at risk for the filing of tenure charges.

The evidence established that PPS, even after a grievance and the PEA's filing of a Petition of Appeal on the issue, failed to provide its teachers or the PEA the grading rubric information required under TEACHNJ. Chowhan and Wolf's certifications and testimony demonstrated that hundreds of PPS teachers across most if not all of PPS' schools had the same issues about calculating their teaching performance. Without fail, all of the teachers told Chowhan and Wolf that PPS had not given them enough information to determine their projected TPS and annual summative evaluation scores. Despite the PEA and its teachers' best efforts, they could not independently ascertain the missing information for the Standards and annual summative evaluation scores, it was unfeasible to make accurate calculations without PPS' cooperation. In fact, the PPS teachers and PEA's efforts served to highlight the PPS administrators' lack of knowledge about how the scores were tabulated and the administrators' inability to find the Standard scores used for the Standard Summary Report.

The PEA's communications with PPS confirms PPS' neglect in the sharing of scoring rubric information. Wolf's emails to Superintendent Evans put PPS on notice of the issue. McKoy's response that PPS would rectify the issue with additional training in January 2015 was an admission that PPS had not met its obligations as of November 2014. PPS' lack of the promised training meant that it also failed thereafter to meet these obligations.

Although PPS provided some training to its teachers in September 2014, there is no evidence that PPS ever addressed the issue of calculating Standard scores either within an observation report or for the annual summative evaluation. The March 2014 training asserted by PPS could not and did not serve as training for the 2014-2015 evaluations. Diodonet testified that the March 2014 training session was intended for the 2013-2014 school year. It would have been impossible for PPS to have known its 2014-2015 evaluation procedures as of that date. Its evaluation plans were not due to the Commissioner of Education for nearly another three months, with approval likely occurring on or around August 1, 2015. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-122; N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2.1. It is obvious that neither prior to nor during the 2014-2015 school year did PPS provide its teachers or the PEA information on how to calculate Standard scores, a central component of the teachers' evaluation grading rubric.

The one documented instance of PPS training of teachers on the 2014-2015 scoring rubric generally also did not comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-128's requirement to provide ongoing professional development. One training seminar for teachers in September 2014 cannot qualify as ongoing professional development. Media-X did not cure any defects or provide additional training as Diodonet admitted that the only information Media-X provided relevant to the annual summative evaluations was the information provided in the observation reports.[6] As the observation reports did not include the missing Standard scores, Media-X[7] did not ameliorate this issue.

Because of the deficiencies in PPS' training and materials, its teachers faced insurmountable hurdles in their efforts to independently calculate their teaching performance during the 2014-2015 school year. First, the [6] The other information allegedly provided on Media-X (classroom visitations, walk throughs and prior annual summative evaluations) did not go into the calculations for a TPS or annual summative evaluation. (T336:17-T337:6).

[7] Even assuming for the purposes of this brief that Media-X was running and operational for PPS teachers throughout the 2014-2015 school year, which Respondents deny

2013-2014 observation reports differed from the 2014-2015 reports because the 2014-2015 reports only included scores for a Standard's sub-categories, with no Standard scores included. The PEA and PPS teachers could not have relied upon training from the 2013-2014 school year as calculating an observation report's Standard score was not previously an issue. Moreover, the 2014-2015 training materials actually had less information regarding the Standard score than the materials from the prior school year, as PPS left out information previously found within the 2013-2014 manual regarding the calculations of the Standard scores. See Exhibit R-2A at SD-64.

Unable to determine the Standard scores from an observation, it already would have been an impossible for someone to calculate his or her Standard scores for the year with any degree of confidence. However, since PPS also refused to divulge how it added multiple observation Standard scores together in order to calculate the final Standard score for the year, teachers and the PEA were that much further in the dark as to how to calculate their TPS and annual summative evaluation scores. This was extremely important as accuracy was paramount in tracking teaching performance. Even a one point change in the average of some of the Standards would result in a three point swing in a teacher's weighted sum score. Considering that many PPS teachers were near the 56 weighted sum score which served as the cut-off for a 3 for the TPS (and for all intents and purposes as the cut-off between an overall partially effective and effective rating), certainty as to the precision of their Standard scores was a prerequisite for determining a teacher's performance. Instead, PPS teachers and the PEA could only wait until Standard Summary Report at the end of the school year to find out a teacher's TPS and Standard scores, unable to independently verify the accuracy of PPS' numbers.

Despite the PEA's best efforts, it was unable to crack the code to help PPS teachers find out the missing evaluation rubric information. The PEA, including Chowhan, tried to calculate observation scores for its membership, but was unable to determine the formula which matched up with the method used by PPS. This was unsurprising since much of the PPS' information previously provided to the PEA was flawed.

PPS admitted at the hearing to multiple mistakes in documents it had given to the PEA and PPS teachers, such as the unannounced changing of the evaluation instrument summary previously included in the evaluation materials and an inaccurate "Summative Rating" in the 2014-2015 evaluation training manual. See Exhibit P-2B at SD-256. If even PPS could not accurately express or understand key aspects of its grading rubric, there was no way the PEA or its members could have deciphered PPS' grading rubric with any conviction. Simply put, PPS' errors and omissions further robbed its teachers and the PEA of any meaningful opportunity to review their teaching performances during the course of the 2014-2015 school year.

As Diodonet explained in her testimony, PPS' is supposed to support its teachers rather than run an "I got you" system. (T247:18-T248:9). Diodonet's statement captures the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-128, especially PPS' obligation under subsection (b), to provide additional professional development for teachers who are failing or struggling to meet PPS' performance standards. Because of PPS' refusal to share observation Standard scores and other evaluation rubric information, PPS teachers (and supervisors) were left in the dark during the year as to whether they were struggling to keep up with or failing expectations. Denied this critical information, PPS teachers who were in need of help were not put on notice of their situations until the end of the year, thus depriving them of the opportunity for additional professional development as required under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-128. Instead, PPS set up these teachers for an "I got you" moment at the end of the 2014-2015 school year.

PPS' refusal to explain how it calculated Standard scores for observations and the Annual Summary Report also defied N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2.2(a)(6). This regulation required PPS to keep all of its evaluation data in an accessible and usable format. Neither the PPS teachers nor the PEA were able to access this vital data. For the entire 2014-2015 school year, PPS withheld from its teachers and the PEA key ingredients for how PPS determined Standard scores, and ultimately the TPS. When confronted, PPS responded by saying that McRel took care of it, that teachers would be trained later (supposedly in January 2015), ignoring pending grievances and cases, or by falsely asserting that no changes took place at all.

Throughout the 2014-2015 school year, the teachers and PEA were kept in the dark. As a result, they were denied the State recognized right to review PPS' records and determine if PPS' calculations were inaccurate, arbitrary or otherwise inappropriate.

PPS' incomplete description of the scoring rubric used for the TPS is contrary to TEACHNJ also because it does not meet the definition of a scoring guide. The State's definition of "scoring guide" under N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 expressly declares that a scoring guide is supposed to provide a transparent and reliable evaluation process. PPS' system during the 2014-2015 school year was neither transparent nor reliable. Rather, the few parts divulged to the teachers and PEA gave false impressions of PPS' true system. Even now, PPS teachers and the PEA are uncertain as to how PPS calculated the teachers' annual summary report scores, unable to determine the reliability of the documented results. PPS has never shared the Standard scores earned by teachers during their 2014-2015 observations. PPS has never shared how it added up the observation Standard scores to determine the year-end Standard score. As far as the teachers and PEA are aware, there was no formula at all for calculating the average Standard scores for the 2014-2015 school year.

Objectivity, consistency, reliability and accuracy are the foundations of the evaluation system under TEACHNJ. If the PPS teachers (and its union) are unable are unable to confirm that PPS' evaluation has any of these features, the evaluation system ceases to be an effective tool of evaluating teacher performance. PPS' refusal to share its evaluation grading rubric undermined the credibility of the 2014-2015 teacher evaluation determination. Accordingly, PPS' failure to share evaluation rubric information with its teachers and the PEA must be found to have violated State statutes and regulations.

D. Paterson Public Schools' Failure to Implement and Enforce Objective Observation Scoring Rules violated State Statute.

Two of the grounds for which an arbitrator can dismiss inefficiency tenure charges under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2 are if an evaluation failed to comply with a school district's evaluation process, and if a school district's actions were arbitrary and capricious. If an arbitrator makes one of these findings, then the arbitrator must decide whether the school district's transgressions materially affected the outcome of the teacher's evaluation. The PPS, by failing to implement or divulge the scoring metrics for teacher observation or otherwise failing to train and require its teachers to comply with the supposed system, so significantly violated N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2 as to require a further determination as to whether they so significantly affected the integrity of the Respondents' 2014-2015 evaluations as to have materially affected the outcomes of Respondent's evaluations.

Differences of even one or two points in sub-category or Standard scores in an observation can significantly impact a teacher's TPS and annual summative evaluation scores. PPS, however, never explained how its observers picked between point values. PPS failed to clarify how observers distinguished between a Proficient I or II performance (the options within the Proficient classification) or a Progressing I or II performance (the options within the Progressing classification). The PPS Guidebooks did not clear up the confusion as they did not differentiate between the two performance ratings for the four classifications. Without this information, neither a PPS teacher nor the PEA could determine if the observation report supported a 2 vs. 3, a 4 vs. 5, or a 6 vs. 7 for a sub-category (such as Standard 3(a)), or for a full Standard in an observation. Without this tool, teachers and the PEA could not properly check PPS' observation reports for mistakes of fact or for the observers' compliance with evaluation procedures. When a single point in an observation can make the difference between a raw score of 55 (condemning a teacher to a CAP and tenure charges) or 56 (all but ensuring an effective rating at the annual summating evaluation), teachers must be presented an accurate and justifiable explanation for every score within an observation.

At the hearing, PPS, for the first time, tried to explain how it distinguished between different performance ratings within a classification. However, since there was no evidence to support the assertion, there is no basis to conclude that PPS actually used the asserted method during the 2014-2015 school year. Crucially, even in the hypothetical that PPS actually wrote out a method to differentiate between the different performance ratings, PPS' nondisclosure of the system to its teachers and the observers' flouting of the alleged steps negated any legitimacy it could have provided to the evaluation process.

Diodonet, in alleging that PPS actually had a way on paper to differentiate between to performance ratings in calculating sub-category and Standard scores, admitted that she did not believe that this information was ever provided to PPS' teachers. Accordingly, the supposed method was as worthless as no method at all since a secret formula hidden from PPS teachers and the PEA does not protect the State's interests in ensuring fair teacher evaluations. A school district's evaluation system is supposed to promote clarity. Absent the sharing of information regarding the performance ratings, PPS teachers and the PEA could not ensure honesty or accuracy in the teacher observation reports.

PPS' supposed method to distinguish between performance ratings also fails to validate PPS' actions because if such a system existed, PPS' administrators either were unaware of it or ignored it with impunity. Chowhan's conversations with at least half a dozen administrators establish that there was no common understanding between PPS' administrators for how to calculate sub-category or Standard scores. Chowhan described how some administrators took an average of the scores below while others made their decisions based upon the mode of the scores (even if they differed from the average). There was no rhyme or consistency in determining a sub-category or Standard scores.

The actions of other PPS officials only further revealed the subjectivity and unreliability of the observation reports. Numerous teachers at multiple schools (all wholly separate from the schools represented in Chowhan's conversations) described administrator admitting to lowering observations scores for reasons wholly unrelated to teaching performance. This artificial suppression of sub-category and Standard scores negatively impacted all teacher evaluations. If the highest scores were now only a 5 or 6 rather than the listed seven, teaching performances that would have otherwise received a 4 or 5 were moved down a point or two to reflect the difference between their performances and those of the highest performers.

When a single point in a single observation can make the difference between a 'partially effective' and 'effective' rating, administrators cannot be allowed to refuse to give out highest scores or to temper scores in order to demonstrate a supposed improvement in performance. Evaluation systems under TEACHNJ are reliable only if they can demonstrate consistency and objectivity. If observation scores are influenced by inconsistent or conflicting scoring methods and subject to an observer's personal opinion as to how PPS should administer or grade observations, the entire evaluation system implodes. Unfortunately, such an implosion occurred here.

The only reasonable determination is to find that there was no effective performance rating differential system in place at PPS for observation reports, resulting in the elimination of any semblance of objectivity during teacher observations. As a result, PPS' actions must be found to have substantially failed to adhere in evaluation process and to have been arbitrary and capricious, in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2.

CONCLUSION

For all of the aforesaid reasons, Respondents Carrie Osborne, Thomas Schaefer and Ardeena Long respectfully requests that Paterson Public Schools be found to have violated New Jersey teacher evaluation statutes and regulations in its school district wide actions during the 2014-2015 school year.

The District's Position

The District provides the following conclusions of law in its post-hearing brief:

> Under TEACHNJ, the arbitrator's decision is final and binding, subject only to judicial review pursuant to the New Jersey Arbitration Act, N.J.S.A. 2A:24-7 et seq. See N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1. On the other hand, under TEACHNJ, the arbitrator is prohibited from second-guessing the evaluators' determinations regarding the quality of the teacher's classroom performance. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1(c). Thus, while the arbitrator's authority is broad, the standard of arbitral review of teacher evaluations is quite deferential, and the factors to be considered in the arbitrator's review of a tenure charge of inefficiency are limited. In light of the required deference and the limited scope of review, the evidence to be considered in arbitration is similarly limited. In this case, review by the arbitrator is further limited, based on the agreement of the parties, to the implementation of the School District's teacher evaluation system and the procedural challenges brought by Respondent.
> The arbitrator's analysis at this stage in the proceeding must be conducted within the analytical framework of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2. To that end, the arbitrator should consider not only whether any facts support Respondent's procedural claims, but also whether those facts "materially affected" the evaluation system. (In further proceedings, the arbitrator also will need to consider whether any facts presented in support of Respondent's defenses "materially affected" her own evaluation.) The evidence establishes that even if any facts in support of Respondent's claims could be proven, none can be found to have materially affected the validity of the School District's evaluation system or its compliance with applicable legal requirements.

I. THE SCHOOL DISTRICT COMPLIED WITH ALL APPLICABLE LEGAL REQUIREMENTS FOR ITS TEACHER EVALUATION SYSTEM IN THE 2013-2014 AND 2014-2015 SCHOOL YEARS.

A. The School District's Evaluation Rubric Satisfies All Applicable Requirements.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-122(a) requires school districts to "annually submit to the Commissioner of Education, for review and approval, the evaluation rubrics that the district will use to assess the effectiveness of its teachers, principals, assistant principals, and vice-principals and all other teaching staff members." The School District submitted its evaluation rubric for approval from the Commissioner for the first time in 2012 and received approval for its rubric at that time. (SD-1, ¶2 and Ex. A.) TEACHNJ sets forth specific guidelines for the minimum standards for Commissioner approval of district evaluation rubrics. Those standards include, at a minimum:

(1) four defined annual rating categories for teachers, principals, assistant principals, and vice-principals: ineffective, partially effective, effective, and highly effective;

(2) a provision requiring that the rubric be partially based on multiple objective measures of student learning that use student growth from one year's measure to the next year's measure;

(3) a provision that allows the district, in grades in which a standardized test is not required, to determine the methods for measuring student growth;

(4) a provision that multiple measures of practice and student learning be used in conjunction with professional standards of practice using a comprehensive evaluation process in rating effectiveness with specific measures and implementation processes. Standardized assessments shall be used as a measure of student progress but shall not be the predominant factor in the overall evaluation of a teacher;

(5) a provision that the rubric be based on the professional standards for that employee;

(6) a provision ensuring that performance measures used in the rubric are linked to student achievement;

(7) a requirement that the employee receive multiple observations during the school year which shall be used in evaluating the employee;

(8) a provision that requires that at each observation of a teacher, either the principal, his designee who shall be an individual employed in the district in a supervisory role and capacity and who possesses a school administrator certificate, principal certificate, or supervisor certificate, the vice-principal, or the assistant principal shall be present;

(9) an opportunity for the employee to improve his effectiveness from evaluation feedback;

(10) guidelines for school districts regarding training and the demonstration of competence on the evaluation system to support its implementation;

(11) a process for ongoing monitoring and calibration of the observations to ensure that the observation protocols are being implemented correctly and consistently;

(12) a performance framework, associated evaluation tools, and observation protocols, including training and observer calibration resources;

(13) a process for a school district to obtain the approval of the commissioner to utilize other evaluation tools; and

(14) a process for ensuring that the results of the evaluation help to inform instructional development.

N.J.S.A. 18:6-123(b)(1)-(14). See also N.J.A.C. 6A:10. In order to receive approval from the Commissioner, as the School District did here, the evaluation system was required to meet these minimum standards. Respondent has failed to show that the School District's approved evaluation system, including its evaluation rubric, does not meet any of these requirements. Therefore, the arbitrator should rule that Respondent's defense to the tenure charge (if any) based on any alleged failure of the School District's evaluation rubric to meet applicable requirements is rejected.

B. The School District Satisfied All Applicable Legal Requirements Regarding Training and Professional Development on its Evaluation System.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-128 requires school districts to conduct ongoing professional development for teaching staff. More specifically, Section 128(a) requires districts to "provide its teaching staff members with ongoing professional development that supports student achievement and with an individual professional development plan." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-128(a). See also N.J.A.C. 6A:10-3.2(a)(4); N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2.4(e)(3). Respondent has failed to show that the School District has not met this requirement, either with respect to training and professional development provided to principals and supervisors or with respect to that provided to teachers. Extensive training, information, and professional development regarding the evaluation system and process were provided to administrators and teachers over the course of three school years. The evidence presented—specifically, Sandra Diodonet's testimony—demonstrates the School District's support of its teaching staff through professional development:

> Based on the observation trends from the building, [administrators] would develop professional development for your teachers. [For example], if you have a teacher who, let's say, did not do well on Standard 4 . . . the job of the principal and the observer would be to get [that teacher] the > professional development or support that she needs to do well at the next time around. Because the system is supposed to be not an "I got you" system, but a support system . . . [If an administrator sees teachers] coming in proficient I or progressing II or unsatisfactory in an area, you, as the building leader, as the principal, are supposed to create professional development for that. So every month or so we have those professional development days that could be used for that; or you can send your teachers to a training; or your school-based supervisor, at grade level meetings, vertical articulation meetings, could address that standard that needs fixing.

Thus, the School District satisfied all applicable requirements regarding training and professional development for its teaching staff members with respect to its evaluation system, its rubric, and calculation of evaluation ratings. Therefore, the arbitrator should rule that Respondent's defense to the tenure charge based on the School District's alleged failure to provide sufficient training and professional development, failure to "disseminate information regarding the grading rubric for calculating annual summative ratings for the 2014-2015 school year," or failure to "teach its teachers about the formula for the grading rubric for calculating annual summative evaluating ratings for the 2014-2015 school year" is rejected.

C. The School District Satisfied All Applicable Legal Requirements Regarding Development of Student Growth Objectives.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-123(b) requires SGOs to be developed through a collaborative process between each teacher and his or her principal or the principal's designee. See also N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.2(e). In other words, school districts and administrators are not permitted to "impose" SGOs on their teachers without receiving input from each teacher regarding his or her own SGOs. Respondent has failed to show that the School District violated this requirement. The evidence presented demonstrates that the School District has satisfied its obligations regarding collaborative development of SGOs. Not only that, the evidence also demonstrates that it would be nearly impossible for principals to "impose" SGOs, as the data necessary for the development of SGOs is held by teachers. (T267-268; T314-315.) Indeed, as Diodonet testified, it "would be almost impossible" for an administrator to assign SGOs to teachers without any teacher involvement "because you cannot set an SGO without having data in front of you." (T270:4-13.) Furthermore,

> It's virtually impossible for [principals] to do this for all of their teachers. It's a lot of work, because there's a lot of math that goes into it and a lot of debating back and forth with the teacher and seeing what group the kid would fall in and the evidence that the teacher has to say the kid should stay here. And you have to look at data in the teacher's spreadsheets and her evidence to show that 20 percent increase. [It's] rigorous. So a principal would have to assess the students herself, get that data and do it. And I don't think that a principal would shoot themselves in the foot to blindly give a percentage of kids that are going to meet the SGO because, again, at the end of the school year, every teacher in the building, all those SGOs get averaged out [and] the principals get that rating.

Therefore, the arbitrator should rule that Respondent's defense to the tenure charge based on the School District's alleged failure to provide for collaborative development of SGOs, or based on any alleged unilateral drafting or "imposition" of SGOs on teachers, is rejected.

D. Respondent Cannot Have Been Affected by any Alleged Deflation of Observation Scores for Higher Performing Teachers.

As noted, the testimony presented on behalf of Respondent regarding alleged "deflation" of observation scores should be ruled inadmissible. Even if it were admitted into the record, Respondent – who indisputably was not a "higher performing teacher" – cannot have been affected by any such action. Therefore, the arbitrator should rule that Respondent's defense to the tenure charge based on any alleged "deflated observation scores," or based on any alleged district-wide policy or practice permitting such deflation, should be rejected.

CONCLUSION

For all the foregoing reasons, the State-operated School District of the City of Paterson respectfully submits that on the basis of the evidence presented the arbitrator should find in favor of the District on the procedural issues raised in this hearing.

DISCUSSION

I have carefully reviewed the entire record of this proceeding. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2 sets forth the "[c]onsiderations for arbitrator in rendering decision":

> 23. a. In the event that the matter before the arbitrator pursuant to section 22 of this act is employee inefficiency pursuant to section 25 of this act, in rendering a decision the arbitrator shall only consider whether or not:
> (1) the employee's evaluation failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process, including, but not limited to providing a corrective action plan;
>
> (2) there is a mistake of fact in the evaluation;
>
> (3) the charges would not have been brought but for considerations of political affiliation, nepotism, union activity, discrimination as prohibited by State or federal law, or other conduct prohibited by State or federal law; or
>
> b. In the event that the employee is able to demonstrate that any of the provisions of paragraphs (1) through (4) of subsection a. of this section are applicable, the arbitrator shall then determine if that fact materially affected the outcome of the evaluation. If the arbitrator determines that it did not materially affect the outcome of the evaluation, the arbitrator shall render a decision in favor of the board and the employee shall be dismissed.
> c. The evaluator's determination as to the quality of an employee's classroom performance shall not be subject to an arbitrator's review.
> d. The board of education shall have the ultimate burden of demonstrating to the arbitrator that the statutory criteria for tenure charges have been met.

The New Jersey Department of Education has published on its website a document entitled "Summary of Legal Requirements for Teacher Evalation and Tenure Cases". This document can be found at www.nj.gov/education/AchieveNJ/implementation/legalrequirements.pdf. As indicated therein, "this guide outlines the actions required in law before bringing an inefficiency charge based on the new tenure revocation process, including the following elements:

A. Minimum Requirements to Ensure Compliance with Evaluation Procedures
   I. Observation Requirements
   II. Student Achievement Requirements
   III. Summative Evaluation Requirements
   IV. Corrective Action Plan (CAP) Requirements
   V. Additional Requirements

B. Requirements for Filing an Inefficiency Tenure Charge

C. Streamlined Tenure Revocation Process".

This guide must be read in conjunction with the applicable laws, rules and regulations. (See N.J.A.C. 6A:10 et seq ("Educator Effectiveness"), Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes ("Education")).

I will initially address the Respondents' claim that the District unilaterally implemented Student Growth Objectives. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4(e) provides:

(e) Student growth objectives for teachers shall be developed and measured according to the following procedures:

1. The chief school administrator shall determine the number of required student growth objective for teachers, including teachers with a student growth percentile. A teacher with a student growth percentile shall have a least one and not more than four student growth objectives. A teacher without a student growth percentile shall have at least two and maximum of four student growth objectives. By August 31 prior to the academic year in which the evaluation rubric applies, the Department shall provide on its website the minimum and maximum number of required student growth objectives within this range.

2. A teacher with a student growth percentile shall not use the standardized assessment used in determining the student growth percentile to measure progress toward a student growth objective.

3. Each teacher shall develop, in consultation with his or her supervisor or a principal's designee, each student growth objective. If the teacher does not agree with the student growth objectives, the principal shall make the final determination.

4. Student growth objectives and the criteria for assessing teacher performance based on the objectives shall be determined, recorded, and retained by the teacher and his or her supervisor by October 31 of each academic year, or within 20 work days of the teacher's start date if the teacher begins work after October 1.

5. Adjustments to student growth objectives may be made by the teacher in consultation with his or her supervisor only when approved by the chief school administrator or designee. Adjustments shall be recorded in the teacher's personnel file on or before February 15.

    i. If the SGO covers only the second semester of the school year, or if a teacher begins work after October 1, adjustments shall be recorded before the mid-point of the second semester.

6. The teacher's designated supervisor shall calculate each teacher's student growth objective score. The teacher's student growth objective score, if available, shall be discussed at the teacher's annual summary conference and recorded in the teacher's personnel file.

Section 3 above requires collaboration between the teacher and his/her principal or supervisor before an SGO is set. Establishing an SGO without input from the individual teacher would be inconsistent with the requirements of this provision. Wolf testified that he received complaints that SGOs were being implemented without teacher input. Diodonet acknowledged that if such action took place that it would be contrary to the District's legal obligations. With this said, there is insufficient evidence to conclude at this point in the proceedings that SGOs are being unilaterally implemented by the principals and/or supervisors either globally or individually. Such a claim must be reviewed and considered by the appointed Arbitrator on a case-by-case basis after the parties have had an opportunity to fully develop their evidence and claims specific to each individual Respondent.

I now turn my attention to the Respondents' claims pertaining to the calculation of teacher observation and evaluation scores. To summarize, the Respondents claim that the District failed to disclose scoring rubric information, refused to explain the calculation of Standard scores for observations and the Annual Summary Report, and failed to implement and enforce objective observation scoring rules. With respect to the scoring on the evaluation rubric, N.J.A.C. 6A:10-1.2 defines and expresses the purposes of a "scoring guide":

> "Scoring guide" means a set of rules or criteria used to evaluate a performance, product, or project. The purpose of a scoring guide is to provide a transparent and reliable evaluation process. Educator practice instruments include a scoring guide that an evaluator uses to structure his or her assessments and ratings of professional practice.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2, paragraph 23(a) provides that "the evaluator's determination as to the quality of an employee's classroom performance shall not be subject to an arbitrator's review." However, the District must comply with fourteen (14) minimum standards set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-123, paragraph 17.b including, but not limited to, "guidelines for school districts regarding training and the demonstration of competence on the evaluation system to support its implementation"; "a process for ongoing monitoring and calibration of the observations to ensure that the observation protocols are being implemented correctly and consistently"; and "a performance framework, associated evaluation tools, and observation protocols, including training and observer calibration resources".

2013-2014 and 2014-2015 school years. The District also indicated that the evaluators received training on how to evaluate the teachers, but this area of discussion was presented in a broader context. The evidence to date does not detail the measures that the District has in place to ensure that it is able to satisfy the minimum requirements of the statute. The District can avail itself of this opportunity during the case it will present against each individual Respondent.

As to the calculation of the scoring on the rubric, the District's explanation as to how the indices within each standard factored into the score of the standard and the overall Teacher Practice Score currently lacks specificity. For instance, Performance Standard #1: Preparation for Instruction Indicator, is comprised of three (3) indicators:

- 1a. Establish a culture of high expectations for learning and achievement.
- 1b. Use district-adopted curriculum and content knowledge to design coherent lessons.
- 1c. Post aligned lesson objectives and plan for demonstrations of learning.

Within each of these indicators are three (3) sub-indicators that the evaluator must rate the teacher as unsatisfactory, progressing, proficient and exemplary. Based upon these ratings, a teacher can receive a performance rating for each indicator of unsatisfactory, progressing I, progressing II, proficient I, proficient II, proficient III, and exemplary. Depending on the scores of the indicators, a teacher will receive a performance rating for the overall Performance Standard of unsatisfactory, progressing I, progressing II, proficient I, proficient II, proficient III, and exemplary.

I am unable to determine from the record before me how the sub-indicators factored into the rating for the indicator. By way of example, if a teacher who has been evaluated on Indicator 1a received a rating of "unsatisfactory" for the first sub-indicator, "progressing" for the second, and "exemplary" in the third, I am unable to ascertain how those ratings, when combined, factor into the rating of Indicator 1a for Performance Standard #1. I have reviewed the PowerPoint presentation that the District presented to its teachers on March 19, 2014, with respect to the "Weighting of Components". Although this information shows how the seven (7) standards factor into the Teacher Practice Score, similar information is not provided for the indicators or the sub-indicators. Wolf and Chowhan testified that the issues about the District's calculation methods were brought to the District's attention after receiving numerous inquiries from teachers, but they did not receive a satisfactory response. As Chowhan testified, her department chair indicated that a software program took care of the calculations. Whether or not the individual Respondents were given additional guidance by their evaluators or other District representatives that went beyond the information provided during the professional development sessions has yet to be addressed.

My analysis only addresses the evidence that has been developed on the record to date. Notwithstanding my discussion above, there is insufficient evidence to conclude at this point in the proceedings that the District has failed to meet its legal requirements. Put simply, the issues raised by the Respondents pertaining the calculation of the teacher observation and evaluation scores must be reviewed and considered by the appointed Arbitrator on a case-by-case basis after the parties have had an opportunity to fully develop their evidence and claims specific to each individual Respondent.

Accordingly, based upon the foregoing and the entire record, the arbitration proceedings for each individual Respondent shall move forward.

DECISION

There is insufficient evidence in the record at this time to conclude that the District has failed to satisfy the legal requirements of TEACHNJ. The arbitration proceedings for each individual Respondent shall move forward.

| BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF WOODBURY, GLOUCESTER COUNTY, | : | DECISION |

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner filed a pro se residency appeal on behalf of her son in February 2015, seeking a determination that Z.R. resided in the City of Woodbury. Respondent Board counterclaimed for tuition. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to ascertain petitioner's residency and the amount of any tuition due. In November 2015, the Board moved to dismiss the petition based on petitioner's failure to provide discovery. Petitioner failed to oppose the motion, and further failed to appear at oral argument on the matter despite having received appropriate notice.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, petitioner has the burden of proof in a determination of residency ineligibility; petitioner failed to participate in scheduled proceedings and provided no excuse for failure to provide discovery as required by N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.4; and petitioner has failed to file an answer to the Board's counterclaim for tuition. The ALJ concluded that he was compelled to grant the Board's motion to dismiss the petition. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered that the petition be dismissed, and further ordered that the respondent's counterclaim for tuition reimbursement in the amount of $17,403 be granted. Additionally, the ALJ ordered that Z.R. be permitted to attend school in Woodbury through December 23, 2015, the last school day prior to the district's winter recess.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ findings and conclusions, with modification regarding the amount of tuition reimbursement owed to the Board. The Commissioner declined to award $333 in tuition for the three days that the ALJ ordered the school district to permit Z.R. to attend school through December 23, 2015, because the record contains no information to show that Z.R. did, in fact, continue to attend school through that date. Accordingly, the Commissioner ordered petitioner to reimburse the Board in the amount of $17,070 for tuition costs incurred during Z.R.'s period of ineligible attendance in Woodbury schools.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner finds that petitioner failed to sustain her burden of establishing that she was a domiciliary of Woodbury between January 23, 2015 and December 18, 2015.[1] As a result, Z.R. was not eligible to receive a free public education in Woodbury during this time.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted, as modified herein.[2] Respondent's motion to dismiss the petition is hereby granted and the petition of appeal is

[1] As indicated in the Initial Decision, petitioner failed to appear at the scheduled OAL hearing and failed to provide discovery in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.4.

[2] The Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that respondent is entitled to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $100/day for 97 days of ineligible attendance during the 2014-2015 school year ($9,700). With regard to the 2015-2016 school year, the certification of Superintendent Joseph Jones indicates in Paragraph 5 that the applicable tuition rate is $111/day. However, Paragraph 7 of that same certification states that the tuition rate is $110/day for 67 ineligible days of attendance through December 18, 2015 ($7,370). Using these figures, the grand total becomes $9,700 + $7,370 = $17,070, as illustrated in the certification. Yet, the ALJ awarded $17,403 - adding on 3 additional days at the rate of $111/day, as he ordered that Z.R. would be permitted to attend school in the district through December 23, 2015. The Commissioner declines to award the additional $333 because the record does not contain information indicating that Z.R. did – in fact – continue to attend school in the district through December 23, 2015.

dismissed. Respondent's counterclaim for tuition is granted. Petitioner shall reimburse the Board in the amount of $17,070 for tuition costs incurred during the time period that Z.R. was ineligible to attend school in Woodbury.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

Record Closed: December 18, 2015 Decided: December 18, 2015

BEFORE JOSEPH A. ASCIONE, ALJ:

Petitioner, C.G. on behalf of minor child Z.R (C.G. o/b/o Z.R.), opposed the respondent's claim that Z.R. did not reside within the City of Woodbury, Gloucester County and on February 17, 2015, brought this action to the Commissioner of Education seeking a determination that Z.R. resided in the City of Woodbury, Gloucester County. The City of Woodbury Board of Education, Gloucester County (COWBOE) counterclaimed for tuition in the amount of $100 per day for each day during the 2013-15 school year attended by Z.R. in the COWBOE.

On March 9, 2015, the New Jersey State Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-8.2, and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.7(a), to ascertain residency of petitioner and tuition due if any. On November 5, 2015, respondent moved to dismiss the petition based upon petitioner's failure to provide discovery and seeks tuition. Petitioner provided no opposition to the motion. The undersigned noted the failure to oppose the motion and the matter was scheduled for oral argument on December 18, 2015. Prior to the entry of this Initial Decision the undersigned accepted proofs of the daily tuition amount and the number of days sought by respondent. On that date, December 18, 2015, the record in this matter closed.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

Based upon the failure to oppose the motion to dismiss for failure to provide discovery and the proofs adduced at the oral argument I FIND:

1. On April 24, 2015, the parties and the undersigned conducted an initial prehearing telephone conference. The date of May 4, 2015, was set as the next prehearing telephone conference. Petitioner did not make herself available on May 4, 2015. The undersigned accommodated petitioner and rescheduled the prehearing telephone conference for May 18, 2015.

2. On May 5, 2015, respondent demanded discovery of petitioner.

3. On May 18, 2015, petitioner represented that the requested discovery would be supplied on May 19, 2015. On May 20, 2015, the OAL issued a Prehearing Order setting forth a discovery deadline of June 30, 2015.

4. Petitioner has not provided the requested discovery.

5. The respondent moved on November 5, 2015, to dismiss the petitioner based on petitioner's failure to provide the discovery.

6. Petitioner provided no opposition to the discovery motion. The undersigned noted the absence of opposition, however, requested oral argument on December 18, 2015, for the respondent to provide proof of the amount of the daily cost of education in the district and the number of days sought from petitioner.

7. Petitioner did not appear on December 18, 2015, despite notice of this appearance on December 3, 2015. Respondent presented its proofs on December 18, 2015, by submission of a December 16, 2015, certification from Joseph Jones the superintendent of respondent's school district (R-1).

8. The 2014/2015 reimbursement for tuition due the respondent by petitioner is $100 per day times the ninety-seven days which the petitioner's child attended the school district during the 2014/2015 school year, and the 2015/2016 reimbursement for tuition due the respondent by petitioner is $111 per day times the seventy days which the petitioner's child is allowed to attend the school district during the 2015/2016 school year. The total amount of tuition due is $17,403.00

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Petitioner has the burden of proof in a determination of residency ineligibility N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. Petitioner failed to participate in said proceeding and has provided no excuse for the failure to provide the discovery as required by N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.4, or participate in the presentation of her claim. Petitioner has failed to provide an argument as to why the actions of the Department of Education are incorrect. Petitioner has failed to file an answer to the counterclaim for tuition reimbursement. Accordingly, the undersigned is compelled to grant respondent's motion to dismiss the petition and grant the respondent's counterclaim in the amount of $17,403.00.

CONCLUSION

I CONCLUDE that respondent's motion to dismiss petitioner's petition is granted and that the reasonable value to the cost of tuition is $100 per day during the 2014/2015 school year and $111 per day during the 2015/2016 school year; and the petitioner obtained the benefit of ninety-seven days during the 2014/2015 school year and seventy days during the 2015/2016 school year for a total reimbursement of tuition in the amount of $17,403.00.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's petition is DISMISSED for the failure to provide discovery or otherwise oppose respondent's motion.

It is hereby ORDERED that respondent's counterclaim for tuition reimbursement in the amount of $17,403.00, is GRANTED in all respects. Z.R. will be permitted to attend the school district through December 23, 2015, the last school day prior to the winter 2015/2016 recess. This Order disposes of all issues in controversy regarding this matter.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BRIDGEWATER-RARITAN EDUCATION ASSOCIATION, ON BEHALF OF TAMARA MANZUR, PETITIONER,

V.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BRIDGEWATER-RARITAN SCHOOL DISTRICT, SOMERSET COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner Bridgewater-Raritan Education Association asserted that Tamara Manzur – formerly employed as a teacher by the respondent Board – had attained tenure in her position, and was improperly terminated from employment at the end of the 2010-2011 school year, in violation of her tenure rights. The Board contended that Ms. Manzur never attained tenure, because her service during the 2007-2008 school year was as a replacement for a teacher who was out on an extended maternity leave and, as such, did not qualify as creditable time toward the attainment of tenure. The within dispute was remanded from the New Jersey Supreme Court (Court) for a determination as to whether Tamara Manzur had sufficient prior notice that the Board designated her as a replacement teacher under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1 for the 2007-08 school year. The parties agreed that if it is found that Ms. Manzur is entitled to receive tenure credit for the 2007-2008 school year, she would have obtained tenure in the district prior to her non-renewal in June 2011.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: Ms. Manzur was hired by the Board for the 2006-2007 school year as a temporary employee to replace a full-time teacher who was on maternity leave; she continued to teach in the district full-time for the 2007-2008, 2008-2009, 2009-2010, and 2010-2011 school years; in April 2011, Ms. Manzur was notified by letter that her contract would not be renewed for the 2011-2012 school year; the dispute herein is whether Ms. Manzur – at the time she was told her contract for 2011-2012 was not renewed – was a non-tenured teacher and therefore subject to non-renewal at the discretion of the Board, or a tenured teacher who could not be so summarily removed from her position; the Supreme Court (Court), in Bridgewater-Raritan Educ. Assoc. v. Board of Educ. of the Bridgewater-Raritan School District, Somerset County, 221. N.J. 349, 361 (2015), concluded that if the respondent Board could not demonstrate that it had provided Ms. Manzur with notice that her 2007-2008 service was still in a replacement, non-tenure accruing role, it could not deny her credit for that year's service toward the attainment of tenure status; the Court construed N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1 to require a board of education to make an employee aware that he or she is being employed as a "replacement" and therefore would not have the normal expectation that his or her time in service would count toward the acquisition of tenure; in this case, Ms. Manzur did not receive sufficient notice that she was designated as a replacement teacher; and therefore her service during the 2007-2009 school year does count toward the accrual of tenure. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that Ms. Manzur was tenured at the time of her unlawful non-renewal in June 2011, and is entitled to $127,586.67 in back pay.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ, and adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision, with modification to the amount due to Ms. Manzur to include back pay for the period between January 2016 and the date upon which the Board offers to return her to employment with the Board. In so doing, the Commissioner noted that, based on the Court's decision in Bridgewater-Raritan, supra, it would behoove all boards of education intending to designate an individual as a replacement employee to provide written notice of such designation prior to the commencement of work in the replacement position.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the Bridgewater-Raritan Board of Education (Board) and the Bridgewater-Raritan Education Association's (Association) reply thereto.[1]

This tenure dispute was remanded from the New Jersey Supreme Court for a determination as to whether Tamara Manzur had notice that the Board designated her as a replacement teacher under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1 for the 2007-08 school year. The Court further directed that, "Manzur is entitled to receive [tenure] credit for the school year in question if she succeeds in her claim that no notice or other source of information of her replacement status was provided to her regarding her service for the 2007-08 school year." It is undisputed that if it is determined that Ms. Manzur is entitled to receive tenure credit for the 2007-08 school year, she would have obtained tenure in the district when she was non-renewed in June 2011.[2]

Following a hearing at the OAL, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) determined that Ms. Manzur did not receive sufficient notice that she was designated as a replacement teacher and therefore her service during the 2007-08 school year counted toward the accrual of tenure. As a result, Ms. Manzur was a tenured employee at the time of her unlawful non-renewal in June 2011, and she is entitled to $127,586.67 in back pay.

In its exceptions the Board argues that the ALJ erred because he imposed a heavier burden on the Board than was required by the Supreme Court when he concluded that verbal notice from a principal is insufficient to satisfy the rudiments of notice required by the Court. The Board contends that under the Supreme Court's holding, verbal notice from a school administrator regarding a teacher's status as a leave replacement is plainly sufficient to preclude tenure accrual under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1. The ALJ improperly discounted the verbal notice provided by Principal Diskin and minimized it to the point where he disqualified it as per se insufficient, suggesting a fundamental misapprehension of the significance of the role of a school principal.

The Board also maintains that the ALJ erred in finding that Principal Diskin did not give Ms. Mazur notice that her service with the District could continue in 2007-08 as a replacement teacher. Contrary to the ALJ's credibility findings, the indicia of credibility regarding Principal Diskin's and Ms. Manzur's respective testimony weigh in favor of Principal Diskin. The relevant testimony indicated that Principal Diskin provided specific notice

[2] The parties agree that Ms. Manzur was informed that she was designated as a replacement teacher for the 2006-07 school year and that she was not entitled to accrue tenure. Ms. Manzur continued to teach in the District during the 2007-08, 2008-09, 2009-10 and 2010-2011. The Board agrees that Ms. Manzur was a permanent employee during the 2008-09, 2009-10 and 2010-2011 school years.

regarding Ms. Manzur's continued status as a leave replacement teacher for the 2007-08 school year during their conversations in the Spring of 2007. In fact, Principal Diskin's testimony did not waver even when the ALJ engaged in protracted direct questioning of Principal Diskin.

Further, the ALJ erred by failing to address the inconsistencies between Ms. Manzur's testimony and her prior sworn statements, while discounting Principal Diskin's clean and consistent testimony. The Board urges that Ms. Manzur's claims regarding the lack of conversations regarding her potential return for the 2007-08 school year belie common sense. Due to the uncertainty regarding Ms. Manzur's continued employment, common sense suggests that she would have inquired as to her status for the upcoming year. By March of 2007, Principal Diskin knew that Ms. Fischer – the employee who Ms. Manzur replaced during the 2006-07 school year - would be extending her leave of absence for another year. Thus Principal Diskin's testimony was rational while Ms. Manzur's was not, and the ALJ was mistaken in discrediting Principal Diskin's version of events. The Board also stresses that Principal Diskin's testimony was consistent with two sworn statements that he signed in August 2015 in response to the petitioner's discovery request.

Assuming, arguendo, that the ALJ's determination that Ms. Manzur did not receive sufficient notice is adopted, the Board claims that Initial Decision must be modified because any entitlement to pay back should have been substantially reduced. In calculating the back pay, the ALJ improperly assumed that Ms. Manzur would have progressed along the salary guide via increments. The Board suggests that even if Ms. Manzur was not terminated, she would not have advanced along the salary guide until at least the 2011-12 school year because she was not recommended for increment advancement in her 2010-11 annual evaluation. The Board also reiterated the arguments made below as to why Ms. Manzur's award of back pay should be reduced for certain periods of time due to her failure to mitigate her damages by exercising reasonable diligence and ordinary care in seeking alternate employment.

In reply, the petitioner asserts that the Board's contention that the ALJ erred in questioning whether the notice requirement instituted by the Supreme Court can be satisfied by a principal's verbal remarks is of no moment to the outcome of Ms. Manzur's claim. Although the ALJ acknowledged a potential concern with that type of notice, he thoroughly examined the evidence and found that Ms. Manzur had not been given notice of her replacement status prior to the 2007-08 school year. The ALJ specifically found that no conversation regarding replacement status ever occurred between Principal Diskin and Ms. Manzur prior to the commencement of the 2007-08 school year.

The petitioner also maintains that the ALJ's finding that Principal Diskin did not give Ms. Manzur notice that she was a replacement teacher for 2007-08 was based on a thorough credibility analysis and must be adopted because his credibility determination was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. As a fact-finder, the ALJ was able to observe Principal Diskin's demeanor on the witness stand, and the manner in which he responded to questions and prompting from the Board's counsel, which was only one of many factors upon which the ALJ based his credibility determination. The petitioner reiterated how Ms. Manzur testified credibly that she was not notified of her replacement status for the 2007-08 school year and that her testimony was consistent with the certifications she has made since the beginning of this case. The petitioner also provided a response to each argument advanced by the Board, emphasizing why the ALJ's credibility determinations were not arbitrary capricious or unreasonable.

The petitioner also contends that the ALJ's ruling on back pay correctly applied the facts in this matter to the law and Ms. Manzur's entitlement to back pay is fully supported by the record. The petitioner claims that the Board's exceptions concerning the amount of back pay owed to Ms. Manzur present the same legally and factually flawed arguments that were rejected below. Therefore the petitioner requests that Ms. Manzur be awarded the back pay determined by the ALJ in the Initial Decision with two modifications. The petitioner claims that the Board should be required to reimburse the Department of Labor for the unemployment benefits that Ms. Manzur received during the period in question. Additionally the petitioner asserts that the Board should be required to pay the difference between Ms. Manzur's current rate of pay and what she would be earning in the Bridgewater-Raritan School District until it is practicable that she return to work at the Bridgewater-Raritan School District in the beginning of the 2016-17 school year.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision – that Ms. Manzur did not receive sufficient notice that she was being designated as a replacement teacher for the 2007-08 school year.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1, a board of education may designate a person to act in the place of an employee during the employee's absence, disability, or disqualification, but the designated replacement shall not acquire tenure during that temporary service. The Supreme Court found that the term designate in N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1, "incorporates an obligation that the employer give notice to the employee receiving the specialized designation that takes the employee off the normal service road toward tenure. We construe N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1 to require a board of education to make an employee aware that he or she is being employed as a 'replacement.'" Bridgewater-Raritan Educ. Assoc. v. Board of Educ. of the Bridgewater-Raritan School District, Somerset County, 221 N.J. 349, 361 (2015).

In light of the fact that there is no documentation stating that Ms. Manzur was designated as a replacement teacher prior to the commencement of the 2007-08 school year, the testimony of the relevant witnesses becomes paramount. The ALJ evaluated the testimony of Ms. Manzur and Principal Diskin, their prior statements and the documentary materials, and found that the greater weight of the credible evidence is that Mr. Diskin did not specifically tell Ms. Manzur during the Spring of 2007 that she was being offered the opportunity to accept a position as a replacement for Ms. Fisher, who would be remaining on maternity leave. The ALJ had the opportunity to assess the credibility of the various witnesses who appeared before him and made findings of fact based upon their testimony. In this regard, the clear and unequivocal standard governing the Commissioner's review is:

> The agency head may not reject or modify any findings of fact as to issues of credibility of lay witness testimony unless it is first determined from a review of the record that the findings are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or are not supported by sufficient, competent, and credible evidence in the record. [N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c)].

The Commissioner finds no basis in the record to reject either the ALJ's recitations of testimony or his determinations of witness credibility.[3] Therefore, the ALJ's determination that Ms. Manzur did not receive sufficient notice that she was being designated as a replacement teacher for the 2007-08 school year is fully supported by the record.

Additionally, despite the Board's assertion in its exceptions, the ALJ did not rule that a verbal notice from a principal is insufficient as a matter of law. In the Initial Decision, the ALJ expressly stated that because it was already determined that Principal Diskin did not give [3] The record did not contain a transcript from the hearing conducted at the OAL on September 17, 2015. The Board submitted a recording of the hearing along with the exceptions it filed. However, it should be noted that audio recordings of the hearings at OAL are only reviewed in connection with Orders on Emergent Relief. If a party intends to reference witness testimony in its exceptions, the actual transcripts must be provided.

Ms. Manzur adequate notice, it was not necessary to reach a determination on that issue. The Commissioner agrees that it is not necessary to explore the extent of notice that was envisioned by the Supreme Court in light of the fact that Ms. Manzur did not receive any notice that she was being designated as a replacement teacher for the 2007-08 school year.[4]

The Commissioner is also in accord with the ALJ's conclusion – for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision – that Ms. Manzur did not fail to mitigate her damages so as to warrant the reduction of back pay. The objections raised in the exceptions filed by the Board generally reiterate the arguments previously made before the ALJ, which were clearly taken into account by him in determining the amount of back pay owed to Ms. Manzur. The Board attempts to argue that Ms. Manzur's back pay should be reduced for the failure to mitigate her damages, notwithstanding the fact that Ms. Manzur applied for at least 90 teaching jobs following her nonrenewal. The Board has not established that Ms. Manzur failed to make "a reasonable and diligent effort to obtain other employment." See, Bonnie Goodman v. London Metals Exchange, Inc., et al., 86 N.J. 19, 36 (1981). Therefore, the amount of back pay that Ms. Manzur is entitled to receive shall not be reduced.

Ms. Manzur was hired as a teacher at Cedar Hill Preparatory School at a lesser salary than she would have made at Bridgeton-Raritan for the 2014-15 and 2015-16 school years. It is undisputed that Ms. Manzur was out on maternity leave from September 2015 through December 2015 and she is not entitled to any back pay for that period. Further, in the Initial Decision, the ALJ appropriately determined the amount of compensation Ms. Manzur was entitled to receive for the 2014-15 school year, which was the difference in compensation between Ms. Manzur's rate of pay at Cedar Hill and what she would be earning in the Bridgewater-Raritan School District. Under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-30, an employee entitled to back pay after an improper dismissal is entitled to compensation for the period covered by the illegal suspension. Thus, in addition to the $127,586.67 in back pay recommended by the ALJ, the Board shall also reimburse Ms. Manzer for any additional back pay that she is entitled to receive between January 2016 and the date upon which the Board offers to return her to employment with the Board.[5] Despite the petitioner's request, Ms. Manzur is not entitled to compensation from January 2016 through June 2016. Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter, as modified above.[6]

Record Closed: November 2, 2015 Decided: December 11, 2015

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ t/a:

Tamara Manzur, formerly employed as a teacher with the Bridgewater-Raritan Regional Board of Education, whose contract was not renewed by the Board for the 2011-2012 school term, claims that she attained tenure in that position, having served as a teacher in the District for the time required by statute in order to attain tenured status. She therefore seeks a ruling that the Board acted illegally in terminating her in violation of her tenure status. The Board disagrees, arguing that Ms. Manzur's service during the 2007-2008 school year was as a replacement for a teacher, Concetta Fischer, who was out on an extended maternity leave and, as such, it did not qualify as creditable time toward the attainment of tenure. It believes that Manzur would not have attained tenure until September 2001, by which date the Board had already determined not to renew her employment, an action that occurred at the end of the previous 2010-2011 school year.

Manzur was one of three teachers who filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education on December 14, 2009 disputing the Board's denial of their claimed tenured status. An administrative law judge granted a motion for summary decision dismissing the petition and the Commissioner and the Appellate Division agreed with the judge's ruling. The New Jersey Supreme Court granted certification and in a decision issued on May 6, 2015, affirmed the dismissal of the claims of teachers Cassidy and O'Neil, but remanded Ms. Manzur's case for further hearing. Bridgewater-Raritan Educ. Assoc. v. Bd. of Educ. of Bridgewater-Raritan Sch. Dist., 221 N.J. 349 (2015). In its decision, the Court determined, for the first time, that in the case of a teacher employed during a school term by the Board as a temporary replacement for a teacher out on maternity leave, where the teacher was then continued in employment in the following school year, if the Board contended that she was still only serving as a temporary replacement for the teacher continuing her absence due to an extension of that maternity leave, the Board had the burden to demonstrate that the teacher had been noticed that her continued employment for the following school year was as a replacement and not as a permanent, tenure track, employee. The Court considered that "on the question of notice of replacement status specifically," the Board was "in the best position to prove'" such notice. The Court reversed the grant of summary decision as to Ms. Manzur only, and remanded the case for a hearing.

A hearing was conducted in the Office of Administrative Law on September 17, 2015. Thereafter, the parties filed briefs and replies and the record closed on November 2, 2015.

The undisputed facts from which this dispute emerges is that Ms. Manzur was hired by the Board in September 2006, as a temporary employee to replace a full-time sixth grade teacher who was commencing parental leave. She was informed that the job was for the entire 2006-2007 school term, ending in June 2007. Ms. Manzur continued to teach in the District during the school years 2007-2008, 2008-2009 and 2009-2010. The Board agrees that Manzur was a permanent employee during school terms 2008-2009 and 2009-2010. On April 27, 2011, Ms. Manzur was advised by letter from School Superintendent Schilder that her contract would not be renewed for the 2011-2012 school year. Her employment ceased on June 2011. As noted, the Board's position is that Ms. Manzur's service in the 2007-2008 school term was not as a permanent employee, but merely as a continued replacement for the teacher who she first replaced in September 2006, who remained out on an extended leave. As the Board had determined that her tenure date was September 2, 2011, it did not deem her a tenured employee when it decided that her employment would not continue after June 2011.

Tenure is a statutory status that can only be attained under statutory strictures set forth at N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, which requires that, in part, the employee be employed for "three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year." "[I]t is settled principle of school law that substitute teacher who 'act in place of' another employee do not earn credit toward tenure for time spent as a replacement" Bridgewater-Raritan Educ. Assoc., supra, 221 N.J. at 360 (quoting Spiewak v. Bd. of Educ. of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63, 74 (1982). The Board contends that in the spring of 2011, Ms. Manzur was not yet entitled to tenure and therefore her contract could be non-renewed as the Board saw fit. However, Manzur asserts that she was never told that her service for the school term 2007-2008 was as a replacement, and was not told that the service for that year was considered as not counting toward her earning tenure. As such, she understood that her service in 2007-2008, 2008-2009 and 2009-2010 and her employment as of the first day of the 2010-2011 term in September 2010 qualified her for tenure. Manzur contends that the first reference to the Board's understanding that her tenure would not be effective as of the date that Manzur understood came when she received a letter from the Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Michael Schilder, dated September 14, 2009. The letter stated that under New Jersey statutes only service in a permanent position could be counted toward tenure. It announced that Manzur's "tenure earning start date is 9/1/2008" and advised that "you will earn tenure on 9/2/11. Since you were a leave replacement for Concetta Fischer from 1/2/07 to 6/30/07, this time does not count toward tenure." It is noted that while in this litigation the Board contends that Ms. Manzur's service in the 2007-2008 school year was still as a leave replacement for Ms. Fischer, this letter does not state that the service as replacement for Fischer continued for the school year 2007-2008. However, the Superintendent's calculation of the date upon which tenure would be attained implies that the service in that 2007-2008 term did not count, as if it did, tenure would have been attained in September 2010 (three consecutive academic years," 2007-2008, 2008-2009, 2009-2010, "together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year," 2010-2011, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5).

In considering the state of the proofs on Ms. Manzur's case as they existed at the time of the motion for summary decision, the Supreme Court noted that while the Board contended that replacement status for 2007-2008 could be "inferred" from the September 2009 letter for Superintendent Schilder, the Board > produced no evidence to establish that the position Manzur occupied in 2007-2008 was one that she was told was already assigned to another teacher. Indeed, both parties acknowledge that the record does not demonstrate that Manzur was acting in place of Concetta Fischer for the 2007-2008 school year, or that Fischer was "absent" for that year laid the burden to prove notice of replacement status on the Board. In other words, even if Schilder's failure to mention the 2007-2008 school year evinced his continued belief that Manzur worked as a replacement for Fischer for that year, no evidence proves that Manzur was given notice of the same. Manzur asserted in her affidavit that she was not told that 2007-2008 was a replacement year, as she was before beginning work in the 2006-2007 teaching year.

In this hearing, the Board, attempting to meet its burden to demonstrate that Manzur received notice that her employment for the 2007-2008 school year was as a continued replacement for Concetta Fischer, offered some written materials which it contends at the very least served as a form of notice to Ms. Manzur that her service in 2007-2008 was not counted by the Board toward the attainment of tenure. In addition to the Superintendent's September 14, 2009, letter, it points to an annual summative evaluation for 2009-2010, which reflected a tenure date of September 2, 2011, and another summative evaluation for 2010-2011, which again showed the tenure date as September 2, 2011. Each of these was then consistent with the Superintendent's letter of September 14, 2009, as to the date upon which Ms. Manzur would, if still employed at that time, attain tenure. The annual evaluation issued to Manzur in the spring of 2011, noted that she was not being recommended for renewal or increment progression. In regard to these written materials, it is evident that to the extent they may be understood, at least by inference, to show that the Board did not view Ms. Manzur's employment in 2007-2008 as eligible for tenure credit, none of them directly spoke to the nature of the employment, that is, that it was as a replacement, nor can any of them demonstrate that Ms. Manzur received some sort of timely notice in 2007 that if she accepted employment of the upcoming 2007-2008 term, it was as a replacement and was not permanent employment and was not therefore creditable toward fulfillment of the statutory time needed to attain tenure. As such, I FIND that the Board has not provided any evidence that Ms. Manzur was ever provided with any sort of formal, written notice prior to the commencement of the 2007-2008 term that she was acting in a continued replacement mode. Indeed, no writing exists that ever specifically and without the need for inferential analysis, advised her as to her serving as a replacement in 2007-2008.

While the Board has not offered such evidence, it has offered the testimony of the school principal, Joseph Diskin, who contends that he verbally informed Ms. Manzur that she was continuing as a replacement, and that he did so in the spring of 2007. Mr. Diskin has been principal of the Eisenhower School in the Bridgewater-Raritan District for fourteen years. He is responsible for the hiring, evaluations and observations of teachers. He hired Ms. Manzur in August 2006, as a replacement sixth grade teacher for Ms. Fischer, who was going on maternity leave. At that time, Fischer was expected to be out until January 2007. Manzur advised that she could accept the position as a long-term substitute for Fischer. Later on, Mr. Diskin learned that Fischer was extending her leave and he asked Manzur if she would remain through June 2007. On December 22, 2006, Diskin recommended in writing that Manzur be switched from a long-term substitute to "regular contract status for Concetta Fischer who is on maternity leave as of January 15th." According to Diskin, Manzur was aware that Fischer was on extended maternity leave. Manzur was then hired as of January 2, 2007, as a teacher "replacing" Fischer who is noted in a form entitled, "Certified Staff New Employee Forms Checklist" as on "MLOA." Diskin informed Manzur that he had recommended her for employment until the end of June 2007, telling her that Fischer was on leave until the end of June 2007.

Diskin testified that as is normal in the District, a staffing personnel meeting was held during the spring of 2007, at which meeting a discussion took place as to which staff members were returning to work or were not. He was told that Fischer had decided to extend her leave through the 2007-2008 academic year. According to Diskin, this information as to who is or is not returning is vital so as to assure appropriate staffing for the coming year. In addition, it is important to know this so that the courtesy of information can be provided for those who may wish to pursue other employment for the coming year if the person they have been replacing is returning to work. He contends that he informed Manzur that Fischer was not returning for 2007-2008, and asked her if she was interested in continuing with the position. He testified as follows in response to a question from Board counsel (BC)

> BC: And did you happen to have any conversations in that time period with Ms. Manzur?

Diskin: Yes.

BC: Okay, could you describe them?

Diskin: Just letting her know that Mrs. Fischer—that she would not be returning and she'd be taking another year and if she was interested in continuing in that position. And her response was yes.

BC: Okay. When you say another year in that position.

At this point counsel was cautioned not to ask a leading question.

BC: Okay. Did you say anything further?

Diskin: Yeah just another—if she would like to continue another year in that maternity leave position.

BC: Okay. Do you have a clear recollection of telling Ms. Manzur what you described?

Diskin: Yes.

BC: And do you recall what she said?

Diskin: She was very happy and appreciative at the time. Again, people who are on maternity leave sometimes from us, it is a touch and go thing—they don't know if they're going to be employed for that following year and she was very pleased.

She accepted and Diskin informed the Human Resources department that the position was filled for 2007-2008. Manzur's contract renewal was reflected in the Board minutes for the May 22, 2007 meeting. Her name is included in this listing of staff renewals under the category "Non-Tenured." Of course, under any conception of the facts here, she was not a tenured employee as of that time, nor was she about to become tenured, as others who are listed as "Going to Tenure." Board minutes for the August 22, 2006 meeting listed Fischer as on paid leave of absence as of May 10, 2006, but additional entries to that original entry show that she continued on extensions of that leave, as unpaid leave, during the 2006-2007 term.

On cross-examination, Mr. Diskin insisted that although the sort of conversation he described with a teacher who needs to be informed of the prospect of continued employment in the coming year was a standard part of his responsibility each year, he had specific recollection of having this discussion with Manzur in the spring of 2007. At the time there were approximately seventy-five teachers, twelve para-professionals, seven lunch aides and five secretaries on staff at Eisenhower School and fifteen were non-tenured teachers. He added that although this "formal" conversation was one that he initiated, there were other conversations regarding Manzur's status for the coming year which she initiated, "other conversations . . . asking me if I knew the status of the individual—if they were returning or not. And my responses to her at that time were that we were not informed and that I would share the information at the appropriate time." These discussions took place before the "formal" conversation, by which time he was aware that Mrs. Fischer was not returning. "It is that time of the year so that is—people who are on maternity leave replacement—that is a question we get asked frequently."

On further questioning concerning his direct testimony, Diskin explained that when he testified that he had spoken to Manzur during what he characterized as the "formal" conversation, he had told her that Fischer was not returning, "When I said before that she was not coming back, I meant that she was not coming back and she was going to be on maternity leave of absence." Asked if he had specifically told Manzur why Fischer was not coming back, he responded, "Well, that's true, yeah, because that's part of what we have to communicate from Human Resources and the Superintendent to the individual . . . the fact that the individual is not going to be returning to her position because she is going to be extending her maternity leave."

Mr. Diskin's first statements for the record regarding these issues were made in August 2015, when he signed two Certifications, dated August 18 and 21, 2015, respectively, which were entered into evidence during his testimony. It is noted that these were produced for the present remand and post-date the Supreme Court's May 2015, decision regarding the importance of "notice." In the first Certification, Mr. Diskin discussed his informing Manzur that she could continue in employment for the following term as follows:

> 10. During the 2007-2008 school year I informed Manzur that her position as a leave replacement was going to continue throughout the 2007-2008 school year.

In this statement, Diskin makes no reference to conversations in the 2006-2007 school year concerning the fact that Manzur would be continuing as a replacement in the coming term. However, in the second Certification, he expanded upon this description, repeating the above-quoted statement and adding,

> "Many of these conversations occurred in the spring of the 2006-2007 school year. This was because I wanted to ensure that Fischer's position was properly staffed, and because I wanted to ensure that Manzur was aware that she was a replacement; thus, if she wished, she could seek employment in a permanent position either with the Bridgewater-Raritan School District or within another school district."

In addition, the record contains employment contracts entered into between Ms. Manzur and the Board of Education for the school years 2006-2007, 2007-2008, 2008-2009. The contract for 2006-2007 was dated January 23, 2007. It does not identify Manzur as either a replacement or a permanent employee. Neither does the 2007-2008 contract, dated May 22, 2007. It also does not address her status, nor does the 2008-2009 contract.

Discussion

The dispute between Ms. Manzur and the Board of Education is over whether at the time that she was told that her contract for the school term 2011-2012 was not renewed, she was a non-tenured teacher subject to non-renewal at the discretion of the Board, or instead, a tenured teacher who could not be so summarily removed from her position in the District. She contends that the school term 2007-2008 was the first year in which she attained tenure credit, and that year, with the subsequent years 2008-2009 and 2009-2010, and her service on the first day of the 2010-2011 school year, fulfilled the service time requirement of the tenure statute (three consecutive academic years and employment as of the first day of the next consecutive academic year). However, the Board denies that she was eligible to receive credit for the 2007-2008 academic year, as she was still then only serving in a replacement role for Concetta Fischer, the teacher whom she had replaced in 2006-2007 while Fischer was on maternity leave, which she extended for the 2007-2008 school year. The Supreme Court concluded that if the Board could not demonstrate that it had provided Ms. Manzur with notice that her 2007-2008 service was still in a replacement, non-tenure accruing role, it could not deny her credit for that year's service toward the attainment of tenured status.

In her opinion for the Supreme Court, Justice LaVecchia noted that while there was a "paucity of case law explaining how someone can be designated as a replacement teacher," nevertheless, the Appellate Division had identified two requirements in N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1. These were (1) that the individual was "act[ing] in place of" a teacher, and (2) who is absent or disabled. Platia v. Board of Education of Hamilton, 434 N.J. Super. 382, 391(App. Div. 2014), quoting Spiewak v. Board of Education of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63 (1982). The Supreme Court determined that there was a third criterion that must also be demonstrated by a board if it is to successfully argue that a teacher, otherwise having fulfilled the time of service element in the tenure statute, was to be denied tenure status. For the exception which bars a teacher who has, in fact, performed service for an academic year in a district from obtaining credit for that year toward fulfilling the statutory time requirement is just that, "an exception to an otherwise generally applicable statute that confers tenure upon mere completion of service for a period of time." Bridgewater-Raritan, supra at 241 N.J. 349, 361. The additional criteria identified by the Court is that an employer give notice to the employee receiving the specialized designation that takes the employee off normal service road toward tenure," Id. This requirement for notice arises from the wording of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1, which allows a district to "designate" such employees ("In each district the board of education may designate some person to act in place of any officer or employee during the absence . . . ."). Considering the meaning of "designate" "in common parlance," the Court found that its "natural reading contemplates that a person, who is 'designated' as having some conferred status, is informed that he or she has been so designated or is made aware of that conferred status." The "employer" 'must > give notice to the employee receiving the specialized designation that takes the employee off the normal service road toward tenure. We construe N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1 to require a board of education to make an employee aware that he or she is being employed as a "replacement." That construction reasonably and fairly ensures that a person being offered specific employment as a replacement will not have the normal expectation that his or her time in service will count toward the acquisition of tenure, . . . . Id.

Importantly, the Court noted its concern that in the absence of a "notice of requirement" which allows for "transparency," districts could "manipulate those designations to avoid tenure." Id.

It seems apparent from the quoted language of the Court that the intent of the requirement for notice is that such be provided to the "designated" employee in a timely manner. After all, if "notice" is to be make one aware of some vital information that may affect one's rights and the decision-making in respect to the information provided and its possible consequences, such "notice" must be delivered to the intended recipient in a timely manner, or it may well lose, or at least, lessen its intended value. In its decision, the Court speaks of notice as required for the "employee . . . being employed as a 'replacement'" and of "a person being offered specific employment as a replacement." It does a person little good to first be told well after the fact that the service they performed at some past time did not count toward tenure acquisition because the employer is now claiming, at the time of such belated notice, that the service was under a "designation" by the employer that removed the service from the normal tenure track. Here, Ms. Manzur worked for the Board in 2007-2008. The first written suggestion that her 2007-2008 service was not credited toward tenure was in the September 2009 letter, issued over one year after the end of the 2007-2008 term in June 2008, and much more importantly, approximately two and a quarter or more years after the crucial spring 2007 period when Manzur would have had to assess her circumstances in light of such notice that the 2007-2008 employment was under a designation that would preclude her receiving tenure credit if she accepted that employment. Given this, I CONCLUDE that any notice provided in September 2009 or thereafter, express or, as here, at best implied, by the letter and the subsequent tenure-date references in evaluative documents cannot serve as the notice required by the Supreme Court. Any such "notice" here, if it can be elevated to that level, was untimely and of little practical use to the person to whom the Court deems notice to be due.

In the end then, the question is (1) whether Principal Diskin did tell Ms. Manzur that she was being offered a chance to continue in a replacement position for Ms. Fischer for the 2007-2008 term, and (2) whether such a verbal advice from the school principal is the sort of "notice" that the Court found "the board of education" was required to provide the employee in such timely fashion.

The assessment of the credibility of testimony relies upon a breath of considerations such as the consistency and overall sense of the testimony, the demeanor and trustworthiness of the witness, the possible bias, prejudice and motivations of the witness, the sense in which the testimony "hangs together" and the common sense and reasonableness of that which the witness offers. State v. Daniels, 182 N.J. 80, 99 (2004); State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 10 N.J. 316 (1952); Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718 (9th Cir. 1963).

The Board urges that Diskin's testimony at hearing that he did advise Ms. Manzur in the spring of 2007 that she was being offered the chance to continue in a maternity leave position for 2007-2008 was accurate and worthy of belief, as it was consistent with the fact that the Board knew at the latest on March 27, 2007, that Mrs. Fischer was extending her leave, that the principal and other administrators met to discuss staffing for the coming 2007-2008 term as they would normally do during the spring, that Diskin then learned that Fischer would not be returning as originally thought, and that it was District "practice" to inform leave replacement teachers whether the teacher they were replacing was returning for the upcoming term, as the District needs to know if the replacement will be remaining to fill that absent teacher's position or whether other staffing actions will be required to assure positions are filled. Thus, he testified, he told Manzur that "Fischer . . . would not be returning and she'd be taking another year and if she [Manzur] was interested in continuing in that position." Board counsel then asked him if there was more to the conversation, "Did you say anything further?" (As if what he had just testified to telling Manzur was not sufficient.) He responded to this seeming prompt, adding that he asked her, "if she would like to continue another year in that maternity leave position." (emphasis added). Interestingly, in his original Certification, in paragraph 9, he stated that while he had "multiple conversations" in which he informed Manzur that she was hired as a replacement for Fischer, he did not give any time frame for these (she was hired in 2006). In paragraph 10, he said that he told her that her position for 2007-2008 was as a leave replacement, but he states that this information was provided to her "during the 2007-2008 school year." It is not stated when during that term this supposedly occurred: whether at its beginning, middle, end, or whenever. But in his subsequent Certification, signed just three days later, paragraph 10 is greatly expanded to include not only this reference to informing Manzur "during the 2007-2008 school year," but to also offer that "many of these conversations occurred in the spring of the 2006-2007 and 2007-2008 school year." Obviously, for the required notice to have been timely, some notice during the spring of 2006-2007 was needed. It is unclear what is meant by "many of these conversations" taking place "in the spring of 2006-2007." Was it one such conversation, the "formal" one mentioned by Diskin when he testified, or does this include others, in which he seems to say that at the time when Manzur asked him he did not yet know if Fischer was returning. Again, the information presented in his first Certification in paragraph 10 does not reference any such spring 2006 conversation(s). It is again as if the first Certification was deemed insufficient to address the need for timely notice, prompting her need for a second, expanded Certification.

Mr. Diskin was apparently not called upon to make statements about his recollections of what happened between he and Ms. Manzur until after the issue of notice became crucial following the Court's May 2015 decision. Thus, at least as the record reveals, his Certifications and testimony were offered over eight years after they purportedly occurred. Ms. Manzur has expressed her surprise at being advised that her service in 2007-2008 was not to be credited since at least the filing of a petition with the Commissioner in December 2009, shortly after the September letter was issued. At that time, Manzur was one of many teachers who were claiming to have been affected when the District purportedly disavowed through this letter an earlier policy of crediting employment in a maternity leave replacement position for tenure purposes. That petition was dismissed on motion as not ripe for adjudication, but nevertheless it demonstrates that Manzur had been concerned with the issue of exactly what her status was and the consequences thereof for a much longer period of time than Mr. Diskin is likely to have been. See Bridgewater-Raritan Educ. Ass'n v. Bd. of Educ. of the Bridgewater-Raritan Sch. Dist., Somerset Cnty., EDU 01199-10, Initial Decision (November 8, 2010), adopted, Commissioner (Dec. 15, 2010), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>.

Another difference in the Certifications is that in the first, Diskin relates that Manzur was assigned to Fischer's classroom in both 2006-2007 and 2007-2008, but in the second he corrects this, noting that in 2007-2008, Manzur "was transferred to a different classroom because she had the same certifications as Ms. Fischer."

Having evaluated the evidence, including the testimony of Diskin and Manzur, their prior statements as recorded in certifications and affidavits, and the documentary materials, I am convinced that the greater weight of the credible evidence is that Mr. Diskin did not specifically tell Ms. Manzur during the spring of 2007 that she was being offered the opportunity to accept a position as a replacement for Ms. Fischer, who would be remaining on maternity leave. I FIND that he did tell her that there was a position open for her if she chose to take it; that her employment could continue in the 2007-2008 term. But I do not trust his recollection that he told her that she was continuing as a replacement. He was not called upon to detail any of this information as to the specifics of what he told her until many years after the supposed conversations he now claims to recall occurred. His certifications and his testimony are less than convincing. His testimony lacks the ring of truth that is needed to obtain credit. It seems as if each time he had to be drawn out, prompted, to "recall" elements that he did not at first offer, and while I fully acknowledge that this is not in and of itself fatal to the credibility of his claims, and that such a pattern does not automatically undermine the credibility of testimony, here, coupled with the fact of how long ago these events happened and the fact that at the time, the need for such specific notice was not appreciated, as well as the question of why Diskin would have such purportedly sure recall of this spring 2006 conversation and its specific contents as he claims (after in each instance having offered a limited and then a more "complete" version of the conversation) I simply do not credit his recall. I do not doubt that he would have told Manzur that a position was available, but I do doubt that he actually told her in the spring of 2007, before she contracted for the job, that it was merely as a continued replacement position or that it was for replacing Ms. Fischer while she continued on extended maternity leave. Thus, I FIND that Mr. Diskin did not provide the rudiments of notice to Ms. Manzur required by the Supreme Court's decision.[1]

It should also be noted that even if Diskin told Manzur what he claims to have said in the spring of 2007, he was the school's principal, not the employer. The Board hires employees; principals do not. The Board's contract with Manzur says nothing about temporary or replacement status. The Board never sent her any letter advising her as to the limited nature of the position she was offered in that contract. The Board never advised her of any formal Board action to be taken at a Board meeting to hire her only in a replacement capacity. Whether the mere verbal remarks of the principal could be relied upon by the Board to fulfill its requirement to provide timely notice is open to question, and reliance on such verbal information from staff, not themselves the employer, and not themselves in a position to contract with staff, is of doubtful worth, especially as often, although not here, the staff member purportedly providing the notice may no longer be employed when issues regarding notice surface. But here I do not need to resolve that issue, as I have determined that no such specific conversation occurred. Nevertheless, the facts here, including the simple fact of the passage of time as it can impact memory, the advantages gained by the creation of trustworthy records and the Court's expressed concern about possible manipulation of the tenure process, strongly suggest the need for boards of education to fulfill the Court's notice requirement by written communication with staff.

[1] In its reply brief, the Board argues that Mr. Diskin, a public official and school administrator, would not have made a false statement under oath and that as such, the credibility of his assertions after the court noted some concern about his testimony supports that he was testifying accurately. But simply because I do not find his recollection of his actions in the spring of 2007 to be accurate does not mean that I am accusing him of making knowing false statements. Instead, it appears that after so much time, his recall about what occurred, as reflected in his certifications and testimony, is not persuasive.

I CONCLUDE that the Board has failed to meet its burden to demonstrate timely notice. Therefore, Ms. Manzur, having fulfilled the requirements for receiving tenure as of the first day of the 2010 school term, was improperly not retained when the Board did not renew her contract in the spring of 2011.

Remedy

Ms. Manzur contends that as a result of a decision in her favor she is entitled to back pay in the amount of $127,486.67. This is the result of deducting from a sum she calculates at $228,491, the sum she contends she would have earned had she continued her employment with Bridgewater-Raritan after her non-renewal in June 2011, through the present, minus monies she received from unemployment and from employment that she obtained during the course of the years after she was let go by the District. The Board contends that any back pay to which she may be entitled must be reduced further than she has calculated, contending that she has failed to sufficiently mitigate her damages.

In Goodman v. London Metals Exchange, 86 N.J. 19 (1981)("London Metals"), the Court explained

> "unreasonable refusals to accept other proffered employment or failure to exercise reasonable diligence in seeking other suitable available positions trigger mitigation principles . . . Mitigation depends upon the facts of the case. If the claimant has actually obtained other employment, it is simple enough to credit the employer with the amount of those earnings. Beyond that, there are several complications. In order to invoke mitigation there must, of course, be available jobs. In their absence, mitigation is not feasible. Further, if > positions are available, mitigation will apply if the claimant has not made a reasonable and diligent effort to obtain other employment. It is possible that even though such an effort was made, the claimant may not have been successful finding work. In that situation mitigation would not be appropriate." Id. at 35-36

In London Metals, supra and O'Lone v. Dep't of Human Services, 357 N.J. Super. 170 (App. Div. 2003), the courts have placed the burden to demonstrate that an employee failed to adequately seek to mitigate damages upon the employer, which must show the existence of jobs that were available for the employee during the relevant period.

Ms. Manzur became unemployed after her non-renewal at the start of the summer of 2011, and first obtained any employment in December 2013. She received unemployment payments totaling $50,853 from July 2011 through February 2013. She then earned $2,651 working at Tony's Appliance Repair, where she worked from December 2013 until February 2014. She then worked for Newsholme Financial Services, from March 2014 through May 2014, where she earned $7,500. After these non-teaching positions, she secured employment as a teacher at a private school, Cedar Hill Prep, where she remains employed as of the hearing. There, she has earned $40,000.08 for the 2014-2015 school year and is presently under contract with Cedar Hill for the present school year at a salary of $41,000, although she is currently on maternity leave through the end of 2015, and will return to the school in January 2016. Her salary at Cedar Hill is lower than that which she would have earned in comparable years if she had remained employed at Bridgewater-Raritan, where, if she had received the normal increments during the years starting with the 2011-2012 school year, she would have earned a salary of $55,101 for 2011-2012; $55,720 for 2012-2013; $58,535 for 2013-2014, and $59,135 for 2014-2015.

Ms. Manzur presented documentary evidence as to the job searches she claims to have made during the period from July 2011 through December 2013. In addition to the e-mail evidence offered, she testified that she also mailed applications and/or dropped applications of by hand, which are not reflected in the e-mails and thus constitute additional attempts to secure teaching employment which are not themselves reflected in the documentary record. Manzur's documentary material indicates that from July 2011 through November 2013, she applied for at least seventy-seven positions, although, as noted, she claims this is not a full record of her attempts, only those she can now document. And her evidence details a total of ninety-two jobs applied for from June 2011 through September 2015. She also noted that her contract with Cedar Hill required that she provide ninety days' notice if she was moving to a new position, a requirement that made any attempt to obtain employment in a different teaching position during the course of the school year extremely difficult from a practical standpoint.

In its attempt to meet its burden and show that her attempts to mitigate fell short of the requirement to "exercise reasonable diligence," the Board contends that there were many more available positions that she could have attempted to obtain, offering documentary evidence intended to show this larger pool of opportunity. It notes the many months when Manzur did not, at least according to her documentary record, file any job applications. It points to the existence of over 500 school districts in the State, whereas it offers that Manzur, at least based on the documents, only applied to 18 districts. It notes the many jobs listed on the K12 jobspot.com website that Manzur herself cited as a source she utilized to locate positions. It notes the high concentration of applications filed during the period immediately following her non-renewal (20 percent of the total). After this burst, which it concedes might be deemed "reasonable diligence," it contends that she did not continue to exercise this diligence, certainly until a "burst" of activity starting in August 2013 through November 2013, a period that coincides with a time after she had last received unemployment compensation, which apparently ended following payments in January and February 2013. It analyzes the documentary record, P-18, and argues against any back pay for several periods when the exhibit does not demonstrate any, or many, applications having been filed.

In addition, the Board also argues that, in regard to her estimated earnings if she had remained at Bridgewater-Raritan, Ms. Manzur includes in the calculation the assumption that she would have received the increments that were provided in the several years, when, in fact, she was not recommended for an increment in her 2010-2011 annual evaluation due to performance issues prior to her non-renewal. Of course, it is the case that at the time that she was not recommended for an increment, the Board determined to non-renew her, and, as this decision holds, that determination to have been in violation of her tenured status at the time the decision was made. It is difficult to know what would have occurred had the District properly understood that she was a tenured teacher. Given that it had no intention of retaining her, it is hard to understand why the evaluation would have recommended that she receive an increment when she was not going to be on the staff for the following school year. Given that it was not intending her return, the Board never went through the process for denying an increment. Therefore, I place little weight upon the recommendation against an increment and CONCLUDE that she should be deemed to have been entitled to pay at the incremental rate for the several years when she was improperly denied employment by the District.

In response to the Board's arguments, Ms. Manzur asserts that the Board relies entirely upon her documentary evidence to support the conclusion that during periods when she does not have documentary proof that she applied for positions that she in fact did not do so. But she testified to other applications, made in person, or mailed rather than e-mailed, and thus contends that the full picture of her efforts must be gleaned not only from what she can document, but from the acceptance of her testimony as to her other efforts to obtain employment.

There is no statutory reference, Commissioner's decision or judicial case law that establishes a set formula or benchmark for determining whether an employee has conducted sufficient mitigation to avoid a reduction in the amount of back pay that they would be otherwise entitled to as a result of an improper termination of employment. Under Goodman, the Board's burden in offering the affirmative defense of "mitigation of damages" is to demonstrate the existence of such "comparable employment." If it does so, the decision then must be whether, given the circumstances, the employee acted in seeking such employment with "reasonable diligence." To do so, the employee must be understood to have made what has been characterized as an "honest attempt" to obtain "comparable employment." Zielinski v. Guttenberg Bd. of Educ., 1981 S.L.D. 759, 762. Based upon the record, it is the case that there were some comparable jobs available over time, but based upon her testimony and the documentary record of her efforts, I FIND that Ms. Manzur did exercise such honest effort and acted with due diligence. The Board's attempt to demonstrate that there are innumerable districts and thus potentially many more jobs is a bit of make weight, since there exists no requirement that someone search for jobs in remote areas. And "comparable employment" must mean actual, not potential, positions that might exist.

The record shows that when Ms. Manzur did obtain employment, first in non-teaching positions, but most significantly perhaps when in her teaching position at Cedar Hill Prep, she took employment that paid less than she would have earned at Bridgewater-Raritan. She notes that in London Metals the Supreme Court recognized that at some point in the search for employment, even the most diligent person may find it necessary to take steps to obtain gainful work which may include such as expanding the search area, the nature of possible employment sought and the level of compensation. "With the passage of time circumstances may dictate that the claimant lower his sights and accept employment with lower pay, with different work, or at a more distant location." Id. at 86. This means that the employee may have to lower her sights so as to obtain some reasonable, if not necessarily completely comparable, employment such as she previously had and was improperly excluded from. In this regard the Court quoted from NLRB v. Southern Silk Mills, Inc., 242 F.2d 697, 700 (6 Cir.1957), cert. den. 355 U.S. 821, 78 S.Ct. 28, 2 L.Ed.2d 37 (1957),

> We are of the opinion . . . that the usual wage earner, reasonably conscious of the obligation to support himself and his family by suitable employment, after inability over a reasonable period of time to obtain the kind of employment to which he is accustomed, would consider other available, suitable employment at a somewhat lower rate of pay "desirable new employment. . . ."

Given this, I FIND no fault in her accepting the job at Cedar Hill, and I accept that given the ninety-day notice requirement and the likelihood that a board of education seeking a mid-term employee to fill a position that presumably already is vacant or is to be so shortly, it is unlikely that a board would offer a position to someone who must wait for ninety days after being offered the position to first undertake that employment.

I CONCLUDE that Ms. Manzur is entitled to receive $127,586.67 in back pay.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

Ms. Thomas was a tenured teaching staff member of the State-Operated School District, City of Newark and was assigned as a mathematics teacher. On August 11, 2015, Edwin Reyes, Principal of Technology High School, in the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark, filed a Notice of Inefficiency, (tenure charges) against the Respondent. That Notice of Inefficiency included thirty-five (35) separate counts of an inability of the Respondent to "completely and responsibly execute her duties as a teacher" for the period of September 2013 to the present. Those charges were filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3. On or about August 14, 2015, the above charges were served on the Respondent.

On September 8, 2015, Christopher Cerf, Superintendent of the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark, filed a Certification of Determination in support of the Tenure Charges filed by Principal Edwin Reyes. That Certification was filed in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3 Superintendent Cerf also determined that, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-39 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, the Respondent is to be suspended without pay for one hundred-twenty (120) days effective September 9, 2015.

On September 25, 2014, Jerrold Wohlgemuth, counsel for the Petitioner, filed the tenure charges with David Hespe, Commissioner of Education. That filing included Notice of Charges, Statement of Evidence in Support of Charges, Supporting Documents, Certification of Determination and Proof of Service.

On September 21, 2015, the Respondent filed an answer to the tenure charges. On September, 28, 2015, M. Kathleen Duncan, Director of New Jersey Department of Education's Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, sent a letter to Messrs. Wohlgemuth and Poberezhsky in which she indicated that the tenure charges and Respondent's answer were reviewed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3 c, and upon review "the Commissioner is unable to determine that the evaluation process has not been followed. The arbitrator's decision with regard to those charges shall be made pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2, subject to determination by the arbitrator of Respondent's defenses and any motions which may be filed with the arbitrator." Additionally, Ms. Duncan stated that the arbitrator "shall review those charges brought pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 which are not dismissed as a result of a motion – under the preponderance of evidence standard."

Accordingly, on September 28, 2015, the undersigned was appointed arbitrator in the instant matte. Hearings were scheduled for December 7, 17, 21, 2015, and January 20, 2016. Prior to the December 7, 2015, hearing the parties entered into settlement discussions. Those discussions were expanded at the December 7, 2015, hearing. On January 14, 2016, the parties signed a stipulation of settlement, whereby the Respondent resigned her teaching position effective March 31, 2016.

I accept, acknowledge, and agree to the stipulation of settlement and it shall be incorporated into my Award. In view of the Respondent's unilateral resignation, it is my opinion that in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 the tenure charges may be considered moot and a review by the Commissioner of Education is unnecessary.[1]

AWARD

| IN THE MATTER OF TENURE CHARGES OF SHERLENE THOMASandSTATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK | AGENCY REF. NO. 257-9/15STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT |

The State-Operated School District of the City of Newark (the "District"), whose principal office is located at 2 Cedar Street, Newark, New Jersey 07102, and its successors, assigns, officers, employees, agents and representatives (collectively, "School District"), and Sherlene Thomas, residing at 108-136 Martin Luther King Boulevard, #1204 B, Newark, New Jersey 07104 ("Respondent") (collectively, the "Parties") have voluntarily resolved all disputed matters and enter into the following Stipulation of Settlement, which fully disposes of all issues in controversy between them in full and complete settlement of all outstanding issues as detailed below.

WHEREAS, Respondent is a tenured teaching staff member employed by the District as a teacher; and

WHEREAS, the State District Superintendent of the School District ("Superintendent") certified tenure charges of inefficiency to the Commissioner of Education of the State of New Jersey, captioned In the Matter of Tenure Charges Against Sherlene Thomas, State-operated

School District of the City of Newark, Essex County ("Tenure Charges"), upon allegations, including, but not limited to, that Respondent received a "partially effective" annual evaluation during the 2013-14 school year and also received an "ineffective" annual evaluation during the 2014-15 school year, and such charges were assigned Docket No. 257-9/15; and Respondent filed an answer opposing the charges; and the Commissioner of Education, having reviewed the charges and Respondent's answer, determined that the charges were sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in compensation, and accordingly referred the matter to Arbitrator Gerard G. Restaino ("Arbitrator") on September 28, 2015 for a hearing; and

WHEREAS, the Parties are aware of the uncertainty of the outcome of arbitration; and

WHEREAS, the District is a State-operated school district with stringent budget limitations and due to the expenditure of resources due to multiple days of hearings with numerous witnesses and the concern that school personnel will be removed from their educational duties and responsibilities during that time, the Parties wish to resolve this matter in accordance with the terms set forth herein rather than proceed with arbitration; and

WHEREAS, the proposed Stipulation of Settlement is in the best interest of the Parties and the public because Respondent resigns from her employment without litigation and it avoids an uncertain conclusion after protracted and costly proceedings at the expense of the public;

NOW, THEREFORE, subject to approval by the Arbitrator, the Parties hereby agree as follows:

1. Concurrent with the execution of this Stipulation, Respondent shall submit an irrevocable letter of resignation to the District, which shall provide for her resignation from the District effective April 1, 2016 ("Effective Date"). (See Exhibit A to the Stipulation, a copy of Respondent's signed letter of resignation).

2. Respondent also agrees to withdraw with prejudice any and all claims or suits that she may have previously filed against the District that are still pending in any and all courts and/or before any and all agencies with the exception of workers compensation claims. This Settlement is intended to be the final resolution of all outstanding matters between the District and Respondent. Should Respondent fail to submit letters of withdrawals for any such pending claims or suits, this Stipulation of Settlement will serve as Respondent's formal written notice of withdrawal of those pending claims or suits, except for workers compensation claims.

3. Upon final approval of the signed Stipulation by the Arbitrator, the District shall and hereby does withdraw the instant Tenure Charges. The District agrees to not pursue the subject Tenure Charges against Respondent as long as this Stipulation remains in effect and is not voided by any court or administrative agency of competent jurisdiction. In the event the Stipulation is voided, the District retains the right to file and consider for certification, tenure charges against Respondent, including those tenure charges which have been previously filed against her by the District, and Respondent reserves the right to defend same.

4. Upon final approval of the signed Stipulation by the Arbitrator, Respondent will be placed on administrative leave with pay and will receive salary for the time commencing on October 10, 2015 until her date of resignation on March 31, 2016. All salary paid for said period shall be subject to all applicable salary withholdings and deductions. Other than the salary that Respondent receives from being placed on administrative leave with pay for the time period identified above, Respondent will not receive any other monies from the District in exchange for this Stipulation of Settlement. Respondent will be deemed to have been placed on an unpaid administrative leave from September 9, 2015 through October 9, 2015.

5. Respondent shall not earn any paid days (e.g. sick, personal or vacation) for any portion of the 2015-16 school year.

6. This Stipulation is based upon the understanding that Respondent's separation from employment with the District, effective April 1, 2016, will be deemed a voluntary resignation in good standing. Upon inquiry from any third party to authorized employees or representatives of the District, those employees or representatives will provide no information other than to confirm Respondent's employment, position, salary and dates of employment, and state that the reason for her separation from employment was her voluntary resignation.

7. The District will not oppose any application by Respondent for unemployment benefits.

8. In accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 (a) 6, Respondent has been advised of the Commissioner's duty to refer tenure determinations resulting in loss of position to the State Board of Examiners. Respondent acknowledges that the District is legally required to participate in proceedings initiated against Respondent's license by the State Board of Examiners resulting from the Commissioner's referral and that said participation will not be considered to be a violation of this Stipulation of Settlement. Aside from such requirements, pursuant to the above-referenced regulation, the District agrees to not independently seek the suspension or revocation of Respondent's teaching certification or license or seek to prevent her from applying for or receiving pension benefits on any grounds related to the Tenure Charges or her resignation pursuant to this Stipulation of Settlement.

9. As of the Effective Date, all of Respondent's rights of employment with the District, including but not limited to accrued salary, benefits, tenure and seniority, will permanently end.

10. Respondent will not apply for reemployment with the District at any time. Specifically, Respondent will be considered to have permanently resigned from her tenured position as a result of this Stipulation of Settlement. If Respondent does apply for reemployment with the District and is approved for employment, the terms of this Agreement shall control and shall be grounds for termination of Respondent's employment.

11. In exchange for the consideration set forth in paragraph 4 above, the sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, Respondent hereby waives, releases and discharges any and all claims or rights that she has or may have against the District, the State District Superintendent, its Advisory Board of Education and its Advisory Board members, and any and all other District officers, employees, representatives, agents, successors and assigns (collectively, the "Released Parties") including any claim for attorneys' fees, costs or other monetary relief. This waiver, release and discharge includes, without limitation, any and all actions, claims, and liabilities of whatsoever kind or character, in law or in equity, now known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, directly or indirectly related to Respondent's employment with the District or separation from employment with the District. It specifically includes, without limitation, all claims which Respondent may have regarding tenure, withholding of increment, discrimination on any basis, any federal or state civil rights law, any alleged violation of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, as amended; the Older Worker Benefits Protection Act; Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended; Sections 1981 through 1988 of Title 42 of the United States Code; the Civil Rights Act of 1991; the Equal Pay Act; the Americans with Disabilities Act; the Rehabilitation Act; the Family and Medical Leave Act; the Fair Labor Standards Act; the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended; the Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act; the National Labor Relations Act; the Fair Credit Reporting Act; the Occupational Safety and Health Act; the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Act; the Employee Polygraph Protection Act; the Immigration Reform Control Act; the retaliation provisions of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002; the False Claims Act; the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination; the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act; the New Jersey Family Leave Act; the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law; the New Jersey Equal Pay Law; the New Jersey Occupational Safety and Health Law; the New Jersey Smokers' Rights Law; the New Jersey Genetic Privacy Act; the New Jersey Fair Credit Reporting Act; New Jersey Wages and Hours Law, unemployment compensations laws, disability benefits laws, retaliation provisions of the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Law; the United States Constitution, the New Jersey Constitution; and/or any other alleged violation of any federal, state or local law, regulation or ordinance; any claim based on contract, implied contract, collective bargaining agreement, tort law, personal injury, or public policy, having any bearing whatsoever on her employment by and/or termination of her employment with the District, including but not limited to any claim for wrongful discharge, back pay, vacation pay, sick pay, personal day pay, wages, attorneys' fees, costs, and/or future wage loss. Respondent also agrees to withdraw any and all pending complaints or actions that have been filed against the District or any of its employees or representatives. In the event the Stipulation is voided, Respondent retains the right to proceed with any of the claims waived, released or discharged in this provision.

12. Notwithstanding Paragraphs 2, 11 and 14 of this Stipulation of Settlement, it is understood and agreed that the parties are not prohibited from communicating with or participating in any administrative proceeding before the United States Department of Labor, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, or any other federal, state or local law agency. Should any entity, agency commission or person file a charge, action, complaint or lawsuit against the District based upon any of the above-released claims in Paragraph 11, Respondent agrees not to seek or accept any resulting relief whatsoever.

13. To comply with the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act, if applicable, this Stipulation of Settlement advises Respondent of the legal requirements of the Act and fully incorporates the legal requirements by reference into this Stipulation of Settlement. Accordingly, by executing this Stipulation, Respondent acknowledges that she: (i) fully understands the terms and conditions of this Stipulation of Settlement; (ii) has consulted with an attorney to review the Stipulation of Settlement; (iii) specifically waives her right to pursue any current claims she may have under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act; (iv) has been given sufficient time within which to consider this Stipulation of Settlement; and (v) has 7 days from the date of the execution of this Stipulation of Settlement to revoke it. Respondent understands that she may rescind this Agreement within 7 calendar days of signing it, and such rescission must be in writing and delivered to counsel for the District either by hand or by certified mail within the 7 day period.

14. This Stipulation and all of its terms, are and will remain confidential to the maximum extent permitted by law, including the Open Public Records Act, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1, et al. Respondent is expressly forbidden from discussing this Stipulation with any person, other than her accountant, tax advisor and attorney ("permitted disclosures") and any other individual or entity as necessary to implement the Stipulation or to which it is legally obligated to respond ("legally-required disclosures"). In making any permitted disclosure, Respondent agrees that it will inform the person to whom it is making the permitted disclosure that the existence and substance of this Stipulation, the settlement giving rise to this Stipulation and the sum of money paid pursuant to this Stipulation are to be held strictly confidential to the fullest extent permitted by law. Respondent specifically agrees not to discuss the nature, terms, conditions of this Stipulation with others, any representative of the media, or any past, present, or prospective employee of the District, or its agents or attorneys. Respondent understands that this provision is not a simple recital but is an important, integral part of this Stipulation. In the event that the District receives an OPRA request, for which this Stipulation would be responsive to, Respondent understands that the District is legally obligated to disclose same under OPRA and that such disclosure would not be a breach of this Stipulation.

15. Respondent understands that the instant tenure charges constitutes a public document maintained by the District under OPRA. As such, while the instant tenure charges and related documents will be maintained elsewhere by the District, Respondent's personnel file will not contain the tenure charges or any related documents referencing the tenure charges.

16. This agreement shall not constitute a precedent in any matters involving other District employees.

17. The Parties each acknowledge that counsel has advised them regarding this Stipulation and that each is signing this Stipulation freely and voluntarily, without duress, coercion or pressure from the other party, with full understanding of its terms and conditions and consents to the terms contained herein.

18. Each signatory to this Stipulation understands, acknowledges and agrees that this Stipulation constitutes the full agreement of the parties and may not be altered, amended, modified, or otherwise changed in any respect whatsoever except by a duly executed writing signed on behalf of both Parties.

19. This Stipulation shall be construed and enforced in accordance with New Jersey law. The Commissioner of Education and/or federal and state courts of the State of New Jersey, as applicable in accordance with such law, shall have exclusive jurisdiction over any dispute arising from, in connection with, or related to this Stipulation.

20. This Stipulation may be executed in counterparts with the same effect as if the signatures hereto and thereto were upon the same instrument. Each counterpart will be deemed an original, which taken together shall constitute a single instrument.

Facsimile signatures or signatures in electronic Portable Document Format ("PDF") shall be construed and have the same force and effect as original signatures.

21. This Stipulation or any uncertainty or ambiguity therein shall not be construed against any party, but shall be construed as if both Parties to this Stipulation jointly prepared this Agreement.

22. Each party acknowledges that this is the entire agreement of the Parties concerning the subject matter of the foregoing paragraphs, and that there are no written or oral representations, understandings or agreements directly or indirectly connected with this Stipulation.

23. If any provision of this Stipulation is held by a court of competent jurisdiction or determined under applicable law to be invalid, void, or unenforceable, the remaining provisions will continue and remain in full force and effect.

24. Additionally, this Stipulation is subject to final approval by the Arbitrator pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(c), and will become effective only upon approval by the Arbitrator. Counsel for the Parties shall jointly request the Arbitrator's approval of this Agreement and each shall take any and all necessary steps to effectuate dismissal of the Tenure Charges.

SYNOPSIS

The Commissioner issued a decision in this residency matter on October 23, 2015, which affirmed the Initial Decision of the OAL with respect to the finding that N.P. was not domiciled within the school district; however, the matter was remanded to the Office of Administrative Law for development of the record and calculation of tuition costs owed to the district for N.P.'s period of ineligible attendance in Burlington Township schools.

On remand, the ALJ found that: subsequent to the Commissioner's October 23, 2015 decision remanding the matter to the OAL, the Board filed a motion for determination of the amount of tuition due, along with an affidavit by the Board's business administrator which clarified both the last day of school for the 2014-2015 school year and the district's tuition reimbursement rate; the affidavit indicated that N.P. attended school in the district for a total of eighty-six school days between February 2, 2015 and June, 18, 2015 – which was the last day of school; the per diem tuition rate in Burlington Township for the period in question was $107.33 per day; and the Commissioner is authorized to assess tuition where – as in the instant case – the evidence does not support the claims of the resident. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered that the respondent is entitled to reimbursement from the petitioner in the amount of $ 9,230.38.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision on remand as the final decision in this matter. Accordingly, B.P. shall reimburse the Board $9,230.38 in tuition costs for N.P.'s ineligible attendance in the Burlington Township School District from February 2, 2015 through June 18, 2015.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, B.P., the father of the minor child N.P., appealed the determination of the Burlington Township Board of Education (Board) that N.P. did not reside within the district and that tuition reimbursement was required. The Board alleges that the minor child, N.P., was not residing at the Burlington Township address provided by the petitioner and seeks repayment of tuition. After a full hearing on the matter, an Initial Decision was issued on September 10, 2015, finding that N.P. did not reside in the district and ordering tuition reimbursement. The Commissioner of Education issued a decision on October 23, 2015, affirming the Initial Decision with respect to the finding of residency, but remanding the case for a determination of the amount of tuition due. The Commissioner found inconsistencies regarding what the last day of school was and remanded for a determination on that issue. The respondent filed a motion for a determination of amount due along with the Affidavit of the Business Administrator, Mary Ann Bell on November 25, 2015, clarifying the last day of school and the tuition reimbursement rate. No opposition was filed to the Motion, and the record closed on December 4, 2015.

TUITION REIMBURSMENT

The affidavit of Mary Ann Bell, the Interim Superintendent/Business Administrator for the Board, indicates that N.P. was in attendance in the district for the period in question from February 2, 2015 to June 18, 2015, which was the last day of school. The affidavit further indicates that N.P. was enrolled for a total of eighty-nine school days, but had been absent for three of those days. The per diem tuition rate in Burlington Township is $107.33 per day. The reimbursement due for the eighty-six days of school is $9,230.38.

The Board asserts that it is entitled to be reimbursed for tuition for the period of N.P.'s ineligible enrollment in its schools. Where, as here, the evidence does not support the claims of the resident, the Commissioner of Education is authorized to assess tuition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2(a). Tuition shall be assessed as follows:

> If in the judgment of the commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, he shall assess the resident tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual > per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced.

> [N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1).]

In this matter, the affidavit of Ms. Bell indicated a per-diem rate for school year 2012–2013 was $107.33. Ms. Bell indicated that N.P. was in the district for eighty-six days for a total of $9,230.38.

I therefore CONCLUDE that the respondent is entitled to reimbursement from the petitioner for the costs of audited tuition in the amount of $9,230.38, representing the amount due from February 2, 2015, through June 18, 2015, based upon her daily attendance record.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the respondent's determination that N.B. is not domiciled with her father, B.P., in Burlington Township, New Jersey, and was not so domiciled within its school district during the period of February 2, 2015, through June 18, 2015, is hereby AFFIRMED. It is further ORDERED that respondent is entitled to reimbursement from petitioner for the cost of audited tuition in the amount of $9,230.38, representing the period from February 2, 2015 through June 18, 2015.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." On or about January 14, 2016, this matter was returned to the Commissioner by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2(b) in light of petitioner's withdrawal of the Petition of Appeal.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner notes that – notwithstanding petitioner's letter to the OAL indicating that the petition was being withdrawn – the Board's answer in this residency matter contains an unresolved counterclaim for tuition for the period of B.W.'s alleged ineligible attendance in the district. ## SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the respondent Board's determination that her child, B.W., was not entitled to a free public education in the Pemberton Township Schools based on a residency hearing. Petitioner asserted that she and her child were current residents of Browns Mills, Pemberton Township. Subsequently, the matter was returned to the Commissioner by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2(b), in light of petitioner's withdrawal of the Petition of Appeal.

Notwithstanding petitioner's letter to the OAL indicating that the petition was being withdrawn, the Board's counterclaim for tuition for the period of B.W.'s alleged ineligible attendance in the district remains unresolved. Accordingly, the Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL for such proceedings as are necessary to address the Board's counterclaim.

| BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EDISON, MIDDLESEX COUNTY, | : | APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF |
| RESPONDENTS. | : | |

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. In this case the petitioner is seeking an Order requiring the Edison Board of Education (Board) to immediately place E.S. in honors chemistry. The ALJ denied the petitioner's request for emergent relief.[1]

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), a grant of emergent relief is considered an extraordinary remedy that can only be issued upon a finding that petitioner has met the four-pronged standard set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, supra. The party seeking such relief must demonstrate the existence of each of the following: 1) the movant will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted; 2) the legal right underlying the movant's claim is settled; 3) the movant has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and 4) when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the movant will suffer greater harm than the other party if the requested relief is not granted. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b).

[1]The recommended Order does not indicate why the request for emergent relief was denied; however the ALJ stated on the record that the petitioner did not show that E.S. would suffer irreparable harm if the relief was not granted and the petitioner did not establish a likelihood of success on the merits.

In this case, the petitioner has failed to establish a likelihood of success on the merits. It is undisputed that E.S. did not meet the requirements necessary to be automatically placed in honors chemistry because he is not currently enrolled in an honors math course. Students that are not enrolled in an honors math course must have the approval of the science supervisor in order to be enrolled in honors chemistry. Based on a review of E.S.'s transcripts and the fact that honors chemistry relies heavily on content taught in honors math, the science supervisor determined that it was more appropriate for E.S. to be placed in academic (college prep) level chemistry. At the very least a hearing on the merits is required to determine if the Board's decision to deny the petitioner's request to have E.S. placed in honors chemistry was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Therefore, in light of the fact that all of the Crowe prongs must be met in order for emergent relief to be granted, it is not necessary to analyze the remaining factors.

The ALJ captioned his decision as an "Initial Decision" with "Order Denying Emergent Relief" despite the fact that N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6 makes no provision for the issuance of an Initial Decision on Emergent Relief. The audio recording of the hearing indicates that the ALJ concluded that a full hearing on the merits was necessary to determine whether the Board's decision to deny petitioner's placement request was arbitrary capricious or unreasonable. Yet, in addition to denying emergent relief, the ALJ dismissed the petition in its entirety without providing any reasoning whatsoever.[2] Nonetheless, while the Emergent Relief Order was under the Commissioner's review, the parties filed a joint stipulation of dismissal.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief is adopted. The petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

On or about January 28, 2016, this matter was returned to the Commissioner by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2(a), in light of petitioner's withdrawal of the Petition of Appeal.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner notes that – notwithstanding petitioner's letter to the OAL indicating that the petition was being withdrawn – the Board's answer in this residency matter contains an unresolved counterclaim for tuition for the period of M.S.'s alleged ineligible attendance, which makes reference to an investigation conducted by the district during the 2014-2015 school year. Although the record also contains a letter from the district's attorney to petitioner indicating that the district would not dispute his residency for the 2015-2016 school year, nothing was mentioned regarding the 2014-2015 school year – and the counterclaim filed under docket number EDU 13778-15[1] was never withdrawn.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the respondent Board's determination that his child, M.S., was not entitled to a free public education in the Somerset Hills Regional School District, based on a residency investigation. Petitioner asserted that he and his child were current residents of Bernardsville, which is located within the respondent Board's school district. Counsel for the Board subsequently notified petitioner that the District would not challenge the residency of M.S. with respect to the 2015-2016 school year. Accordingly, the petitioner submitted a letter withdrawing the instant appeal, and the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) returned the matter to the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2(a).

Upon review, the Commissioner noted that – notwithstanding petitioner's letter to the OAL indicating that the petition was being withdrawn – the Board's counterclaim for tuition for the period of M.S.'s alleged ineligible attendance in the district during the 2014-2015 school year remains unresolved. Accordingly, the Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL for such proceedings as are necessary to address the Board's counterclaim.

On October 30, 2015, a final agency decision was rendered in this matter, wherein the Commissioner found O.B. and D.L. liable for tuition in the amount of Sixteen Thousand-Four Hundred and Seven Dollars and Sixty Cents ($16,407.60), representing tuition for a period of ineligible attendance by their children, N.B. and K.L., in the Board's school district between December 12, 2012 to June 20, 2013. The Board subsequently notified the Commissioner that O.B. and D.L. have failed to comply with the decision, and requested that the Commissioner seek entry of the assessment on the judgment docket of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10. O.B. and D.L. offered no reasons why the judgment against them should not be so docketed, although given an opportunity by this agency to do so.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10, Otis Boone and Dawn Lovett are now subject to entry of a judgment by the court in the amount of $16,407.60, which represents the payment ordered at the conclusion of the case before the Commissioner, with interest to accrue as provided by law.

SYNOPSIS

The petitioning Board served a Notice of Ineligibility on respondent C.P. in November 2014, following an investigation into the residency of her daughter which determined that E.V. did not reside in Hamilton Township, but instead was living in the City of Trenton. After a hearing before the Board in December 2014, the petitioner upheld the determination of ineligibility and served a Final Notice of Ineligibility on the respondent – who acknowledged receipt of the certified mail on February 3, 2015. The attorney for the respondent conceded that his client did receive and sign for the letter containing the Final Notice of Ineligibility, but no appeal was filed. On April 29, 2015, the Board filed a petition for an order assessing tuition. Thereafter, on May 28, 2015, C.P. sent a letter in response to the order assessing tuition. The matter was then transmitted to the OAL, where it was filed as a contested case on June 19, 2015. The Board filed a motion for summary decision, and respondent filed a cross motion for same. Through counsel, the respondent filed opposition to the petitioner's motion, and sought to re-litigate the merits of the residency petition. However, no argument was submitted regarding why petitioner failed to timely appeal the Final Notice of Ineligibility.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: it is undisputed that a letter providing notice of respondent's right to appeal the Board's residency determination was received by C.P., and advised her that an appeal must be made in writing to the Commissioner within twenty-one days of the decision; the letter was received, and no appeal was timely filed; the respondent sought to re-litigate the underlying merits of the residency matter, but provided no legal basis to support the request; E.V. attended school in the district during the 2014-2015 school year; the petitioning Board demonstrated at the December hearing that E.V. was not living in Hamilton Township during this period of time, and therefore assessment of tuition is appropriate and permissible under the regulations. The ALJ granted petitioner's motion for summary decision, and ordered that the Board is entitled to reimbursement from the respondent for the cost of tuition in the amount of $13, 723, representing the tuition rate in the District for the 2014-2015 school year.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's granting of summary decision to the Board, and adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter, with modification to the amount of tuition due based on evidence in the record that indicates the Board is entitled to reimbursement for 172 days of ineligible attendance by E.V., at a daily rate of $76.24. The Commissioner directed the respondent to reimburse the Board in the amount of $13,113.28.

| C.P., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, E.V., | : | |
| RESPONDENT. | : | |

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) determination that summary decision should be granted in favor of the Board. The Board determined that E.V. was not a domiciliary of Hamilton for the 2014-2015 school year and was, therefore, not entitled to a free education in the District's schools during that time. The Board informed respondent that an appeal of the Board's residency determination must be filed within twenty-one days, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b. Despite receiving the Board's notice via certified mail, respondent failed to appeal the Board's determination. Accordingly, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that respondent may not re-litigate the issue of whether E.V. was entitled to a free education in the District during the 2014-2015 school year, as respondent did not appeal that determination and there is no evidence in the record which would warrant reopening that issue.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b, the Commissioner shall assess tuition against respondent for the time period during which the minor child was ineligible to attend school in Hamilton. There are inconsistencies in the ALJ's decision with respect to the total amount of tuition owed to the Board and the dates of ineligible attendance by the minor child.[1] A review of the record and the parties' submissions makes clear that there were 172 days of ineligible attendance by the minor child from September 3, 2014 through June 8, 2015. Therefore, the Board is entitled to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $13,113.28 ($76.24 per day for 172 days), pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL – as modified herein – is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Respondent is directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of $13,113.28 for tuition costs incurred during the time period that E.V. was ineligible to attend school in Hamilton.

Date of Decision: 2/03/16

[1] The ALJ found that the Board is entitled to $13,723 in tuition reimbursement. This figure represents the full cost of tuition for the entire 2014-2015 school year, rather than 172 days in which E.V. was ineligible to attend school in the District. Additionally, although the ALJ found that the Board was entitled to tuition beginning at the start of the 2014-2015 school year, it appears that she inadvertently wrote September 1, 2014, rather than September 3, 2014. Further, in the ALJ's order, she indicated that the Board was owed tuition starting September 24, 2014, which is inconsistent with her finding that the Board was entitled to tuition from the beginning of the school year.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Hamilton Township Board of Education (Board) served a Notice of Ineligibility on respondent, C.P. o/b/o minor child, E.V. on November 13, 2014. The respondent appealed and requested a hearing, which was conducted before the Board on December 18, 2014. On January 23, 2015, the Board upheld the determination of ineligibility and served a Final Notice of Ineligibility on the respondent. The attorney for the respondent has conceded that his client did receive and sign for the letter containing the Final Notice of Ineligibility. No appeal was filed. Accordingly, on April 29, 2015, the Board filed a Petition for an Order assessing tuition. On May 28, 2015, the respondent sent a letter in response to the Order assessing tuition. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law where it was filed as a contested case on June 19, 2015. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Petitioner filed a Motion for Summary Decision on August 13, 2015. The respondent, through counsel, filed Opposition to the Motion and a Cross-Motion for Summary Decision on September 1, 2015. The Opposition filed on behalf of the respondent seeks to re-litigate the merits of the residency petition. However, no argument is submitted regarding why the petitioner failed to timely appeal the Final Notice of Ineligibility. Counsel for respondent, by letter dated November 17, 2015, acknowledges receipt by his client of the Final Notice of Ineligibility. Counsel claims in the same letter that the respondent "may have filed a letter of appeal", which "may have been filed in the wrong place." I have received nothing further than this unfounded allegation in the form of a letter from counsel. Counsel also asserts that there "may" not have been actual notice, because of a language barrier. I have likewise received no further substantiation of these allegations.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The respondent enrolled her daughter, E.V. in the Hamilton Township School District on June 6, 2014. Thereafter, the parents filled out the Parent/Legal Guardian Certification form for E.V. Sometime in September 2014, the District commenced an investigation into the residency of E.V. The investigator conducted surveillance at XXX Sadim Boulevard in Hamilton Township as well as XXX Adeline Street, in the City of Trenton. The investigator conducted surveillance on school days between September 24 and December 10, 2014. Based on the surveillance, the investigator determined that E.V. did not reside in the District, and was residing in the City of Trenton. Accordingly, a Notice of Ineligibility was sent to the respondent on November 13, 2014. The respondent appealed this decision and a hearing was conducted on December 18, 2015. The respondent appeared, presented witnesses and testified at the hearing. Following the hearing, the Board determined that E.V. was not a resident of Hamilton and on January 23, 2015, issued a Final Notice of Ineligibility. The notice was sent to the respondent via certified mail, return receipt requested. The respondent acknowledged receipt of the Notice of Ineligibility on February 3, 2015. No appeal was filed.

The above is found as FACT.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

In this matter, a residency investigation commenced on September 24, 2015, to determine the residency of E.V. The Board determined the child was not a resident of Hamilton Township and served a Notice of Ineligibility on November 13, 2014. The respondent appealed and a hearing was held before the Board on December 18, 2014. Following the hearing, the Board determined that the child was a nonresident, and issued a Final Notice of Ineligibility on January 23, 2015. The Final Notice was served on the respondent via certified mail, return receipt requested, on February 3, 2015. The notice provides in relevant part that the Board found that the child resides in the City of Trenton. The letter further provided notice of the right to appeal and advised the respondent that an appeal must be made in writing to the Commission of Education within twenty-one days of the decision.

It is undisputed that the letter was received and no appeal was filed. Accordingly, the determination of ineligibility will not be disturbed and the respondent's Motion for Summary Decision is denied. The respondent seeks to re-litigate the underlying merits of the residency issues, but provides no legal basis to support this request. The respondent's attorney, in a one-page letter, asserts that the respondent "may" have filed an appeal in the wrong place, and further that respondent "may" have a language barrier. I received no affidavits or documentary evidence to support such allegations, and thus, the respondent's Cross-Motion for Summary Decision on the issue of residency is denied. The petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision on the issue of residency is granted and the petitioner's request for tuition assessment as set forth below is hereby ordered.

The petitioner has requested an order of tuition reimbursement from the beginning of the school year. The child in question was enrolled and attending school in the district from September 1, 2014, to June 8, 2015. The District demonstrated at the hearing before the Board that the child was not living in Hamilton Township and thus, the assessment of tuition from September 1, 2014, to June 8, 2015, is appropriate and permissible under the regulations. I therefore CONCLUDE that the petitioner is entitled to reimbursement from the respondent for the costs of tuition in the amount of $13,723, representing the tuition rate in the District for the 2014-2015 school year.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner is entitled to reimbursement from respondent for the cost of tuition in the amount of $13,723, representing the period from September 24, 2014, through June 8, 2015.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BACKGROUND:

The matter arose as a result of Tenure Charges filed against Respondent, Kimble Wright. According to a letter dated November 16, 2015 from M. Kathleen Duncan, Director of Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, the charges were reviewed and "deemed sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary."

Prior to the first session, Respondent filed a "Motion to Dismiss" and Petitioner responded. The parties met on December 18, 2015 to further discuss their positions and the Charges:

> Charge One:
> Absence Without Leave, thirty (30) items
>
> Charge Two:
> Other Sufficient Cause, two (2) items

However, during that session, Mr. Tosti, on behalf of Petitioner, agreed that the only Charges to be addressed are those relating to > what happened from September, unless there were other intervening things for historical references that you want to bring in, but from September 2nd of '14, to the end of the school year. That's all I'm interested in.

Based on the initial briefs and the discussions on December 18, 2015, this Arbitrator rendered the following decision on December 28, 2015 denying the "Motion to Dismiss" and restating the scope of the revised Charges as agreed to by Petitioner.

Dear Ms. O'Driscoll & Mr. Tosti;

Re: Parties – Kimble Wright & State Operated School District of City of Newark
Docket No. 328-10/15

Respondent made a Motion to Dismiss the tenure charges. However, after carefully rereading the briefs and reviewing the positions stated at the meeting on Friday, December 18, 2015, the following decision was reached.

While the Board had a responsibility to accurately state the specific statute under which it was charging Respondent, the pleadings were sufficient notice that the issue was conduct unbecoming. The School District clearly made a mistake in citing the wrong statute but there was no evidence to suggest that this caused prejudice to Respondent. Further, there is nothing in the charges suggesting that the School District is claiming inefficiency. In the opinion of this Arbitrator, there was clear notice of the charges of conduct unbecoming.

Finally, the cases cited by Respondent can be differentiated from the fact pattern in this matter. The four tenure matters cited dealt with the issue of getting two bites at the apple. In those instances, inefficiency charges were dismissed because the District filed charges under Section 25 and then, after being dismissed, the District attempted to refile the same charges under Section 8. In this matter, there were no inefficiency charges, the charges were not refiled and the only issue was the fact that the Statute cited was 18A:6-17.3 whereas the matter should have been filed under 18A:6-17.1. No harm was done.

Therefore, on Monday, January 11, 2016 the parties will present testimony and evidence as to Respondent's absences during the 2014-2015 school year but will not address the charges of absences during the 2006-2007 school year or of intermittent leave requests for a family member.

Sincerely,

Mattye M. Gandel

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES:

Petitioner's Position:

As to the Tenure Charges, Petitioner's position is that Respondent was unresponsive to NPS's letters during the 2014-2015 school year; that he was advised on July 18, 2014 that he was required to be examined both by his personal and district physicians to be medically cleared to return to work and that he failed to respond and failed to schedule an appointment with the District's physician. He further failed to respond to an October 2, 2014 letter advising him that his paperwork was insufficient and directing him to provide information from a physician. Similarly, he failed to respond to a Letter of Reprimand dated January 5, 2015 advising him that additional absences would lead to more severe discipline. On March 13, 2015, the District wrote a letter to Respondent regarding his continued absence without authorization and his continued medical leave with insufficient paperwork. Respondent failed to reply.

Further, it is Petitioner's position that Respondent was duty bound to respond to the July 18, 2014 letter advising of his assignment in the fall and his failure to report his status and intentions created a misunderstanding at the Talent Office. He did not report to work on September 4, 2015 but reported to his assigned location, Fast Track, on September 9, 2015 for only four days, which enabled him to receive a fully replenished bank of sick days. Petitioner asserts that while no one was looking closely at Respondent's activities, his AFLAC, private insurance, forms remained unchallenged and he remained out of work.

Additionally, Petitioner contends that though NPS employees filled out the AFLAC forms, which covered non-medical questions, that did not mean that his medical leave was authorized. Respondent continued to receive letters from NPS and should have responded as he was the person who knew best the disconnect between his AFLAC forms and the letters he was receiving from NPS. Rather, Respondent avoided an examination by a District physician and pursued a course that would least jeopardize his medical status as "disabled."

Therefore, as Respondent thwarted efforts by NPS to gather information and assess the validity of his absence, Petitioner asks this Arbitrator to sustain the Tenure Charges and not reinstate Respondent to the District.

Respondent's Postion:

Respondent's position is that the purpose of the tenure act is to ensure competent and efficient school systems by affording teachers security in their positions and protection from dismissal and by preventing boards of education from abusing their superior power. In the instant matter, Petitioner, having the burden of proof, failed to prove by a preponderance of the evidence that Respondent was AWOL. Rather, the record established that Respondent was diligent and responsible in submitting medical notes to Health Services and requisite forms to Human Resources. Respondent's actions were correct, not contrary to District policy or otherwise unauthorized. With the exception of one letter, no one contacted Respondent to inquire of his status and when he did receive the AWOL letter, he contacted the Union's general counsel, who communicated with the District's general counsel to no avail. Therefore, any penalty is unjustified.

Further, Respondent cited many decisions supporting the proposition that absenteeism must be prolonged and excessive and that the burden is on the District to prove that it tried and failed in eliciting any change in correcting the pattern of absences. There was no evidence that Respondent did not follow a recognized procedure for reporting his absences; no evidence that he was contacted to determine his status or to advise him that he was proceeding improperly and no evidence that he was required to call subfinder daily for a year to report his absences as he was submitting forms, which the District was approving. No one questioned him on the way he was submitting paperwork.

To the contrary, Respondent asserts that the evidence shows that he suffered a serious injury, chose to recover through a non-surgical, holistic approach, as is his right, submitted documents, which were never questioned, and that once he was cleared to return to work in September 2015, the District sought to terminate him.

Moreover, while Respondent's position is that no penalty is appropriate because Petitioner failed to prove the Tenure Charges, if the Arbitrator determines some penalty is warranted, the doctrine of progressive discipline applies. Respondent, a long time employee, was never progressively disciplined for the alleged AWOL charge and there was no intent on his part to obfuscate the system.

Therefore, Respondent asks this Arbitrator to dismiss the Tenure Charges and to direct Petitioner to reinstate Respondent to a teaching position together with all back pay, benefits, and emoluments, retroactive to the date the Tenure Charges were filed. Alternatively, mitigating factors warrant a conclusion that progressive discipline be applied with a much less severe penalty.

OPINION:

Respondent has been a teacher for approximately twenty-three (23) years, the last fourteen (14) of which were spent in the Newark Public Schools, until these Tenure Charges were filed on October 23, 2015. Respondent never received any form of discipline prior to these charges. On March 31, 2014, Respondent suffered an off-duty back injury while playing basketball. The record established that Respondent sought medical care immediately and regularly submitted doctors'[1] notes from April 4, 2014 through April 1, 2015 each note stamped as the received by the District's Office of Health Services and that no one from the District questioned these doctors' notes, no one told him that they were insufficient and no one told him he needed better documentation.

Respondent's unrefuted testimony was that because he was injured and could not work, he received disability forms from the District with instructions as to how to fill them out; one form was to be completed by him, a second by his doctor and the third by his Employer. The completion of these forms allowed Respondent to receive disability payments under his private insurance plan. A series of disability claim forms were entered into the record of the hearing beginning with the Initial Disability Claim Form in April 2014

[1] Respondent sought medical care from several chiropractors and there was no evidence to convince this Arbitrator that Respondent was required to go to another kind of doctor for his treatment. He testified that the chiropractors sent him to two medical doctors, who performed an MRI, R-12, and a CT scan and through April 2015. Each form followed the same pattern. Respondent completed his form, his doctors completed their forms and these forms were presented to the District, which completed its form. Respondent's unrefuted testimony was that upon submitting these forms, he was approved for disability benefits and received his payments under his policy for a full year.

Petitioner claimed that these forms were only signed by two District clerks and only provided responses to non-medical questions. However, the forms completed by the District did not claim to be medical forms but rather sought confirmation that Respondent was a teacher in the District, the number of hours he worked prior to his injury and other non-medical questions. In each instance, while the forms were very difficult to read, it was undisputed that Respondent's doctors completed the forms confirming that Respondent was under their care, for what period of time and the codes for the types of procedures the doctors administered. Of importance was that Respondent's wife's undisputed testimony was that she regularly submitted these forms, plus the doctors' notes, to the Office of Health Services and Office of Employee Resources and that she was never told that she needed more or different information.

The packet of three forms was submitted to the insurance company and Respondent's disability was continually approved. The record established that no one from the District questioned the forms submitted by Respondent and no one told him he was doing anything improper. Therefore, it must be concluded that the District's Office of Health Services as well as its Office of Employee Services were aware of Respondent's medical condition and his inability to return to work. Ultimately, the doctor cleared Respondent to return to work on September 1, 2015.

However, during the 2014-2015 school year the District asserted that it sent Respondent several letters to which he did not respond. Specifically Vanessa Rodriguez, Chief Talent Officer, sent Respondent the same exact two letters except for the dates, JT051[2] (July 18, 2014) and JT053 (September 4, 2014), indicating that Respondent was scheduled to return to work on September 2, 2014 and directed him to "make an appointment with your personal physician and the school district's physician in order to be medically cleared to return to work." The record confirmed that the address on the letters, 12 Vanderbilt Court, Irvington, NJ, was Respondent's correct address. Respondent was not asked if he received these letters.

Another letter dated October 2, 2014, JT057, was entered into the record of the hearing. Though Respondent was not questioned about this letter, his lack of response, if he received it, was reasonable. The letter denied him a leave of absence because of insufficient paperwork and advised him if he had any questions, he could call the Talent Office. Respondent was already approved for disability during this time period and, therefore, there was no reason to respond because he did not need the leave of absence.

He was asked about letters dated January 5, 2015 (JT059) and March 13, 2015 (JT061). Regarding the January 5th letter,[3] Respondent replied that he did not remember receiving it. Though there was no proof that in fact he received it,[4] his unrefuted testimony was that because he had been out on disability since April 2014, he would not have been calling subfinders on a daily basis. As for the March 13th letter, which was sent via UPS, Respondent acknowledged that he received this letter. The March 13th letter from Rodriguez addressed the issue of being AWOL and the possibility of discipline but Respondent did not respond to her directly. His testimony regarding returning to work and in particular the AWOL claim was that forms had been submitted regularly to two departments in the District; that the District knew that he had been going to his doctors and that he was approved for a disability leave and that he believed that he had complied with the requirements.

[2] JT is a Joint Exhibit and is followed by the bates stamp.

[3] This was a strange letter in that it issued a reprimand and docked his pay for one day because Respondent was absent from his duties on January 5, 2015 at Fast Track without calling subfinders to report his absence. However, Respondent had been absent every day beginning in April 2014 and had not reported to work any day from that time until the end of the 2015 school year, while he was on approved disability, except for four days in September 2014. This letter clearly illustrates the District's lack of communication between departments as to Respondent's employment status.

In fact, though Respondent did not contact Rodriguez, he did enlist the assistance of the Union's attorney, Eugene G. Liss, who sent a letter, dated May 18, 2015 with supporting documentation, Respondent Exhibit R-13, to Bernard Mercado, General Counsel for the NPS requesting that the District not pursue an AWOL charge because Respondent was injured and was regularly submitting disability forms and that Tenure Charges should not be filed.

While this Arbitrator agrees with the District that it would have been reasonable for Respondent to have contacted Rodriguez regarding her letters just to clarify the record, the fact that he did not, given that the District was well aware that he had been approved for disability benefits, was not a reason to bring Tenure Charges against a twenty-three (23) year teacher with no prior discipline and to seek his termination. The burden of proof in this matter is on the District and it has not sustained its burden.

Finally, a letter from Christopher Cerf, State District Superintendent, indicated that, in accordance with TEACHNJ Act when Tenure Charges are filed, Respondent was suspended without pay starting on October 21, 2015 for 120 calendar days, JT014. Despite the fact that Respondent did not believe he had to contact Rodriguez as requested in her letters because he was submitting all the paperwork, it would have been reasonable to have done so and, therefore, Respondent shall receive a one (1) month suspension without pay. Further, not only will Respondent be reinstated to his employment at NPS at a school, preferably Fast Track, where his expertise as a special education educator can be utilized to the fullest for the benefit of the students, but Respondent will also receive three (3) months back pay and benefits.

In conclusion, this Arbitrator has reviewed and carefully weighed all the evidence and arguments presented at the hearing and through briefs by both parties even though many facets were not referred to in the Opinion. Considering all the facts, this Arbitrator must decide that the Tenure Charges shall be dismissed.

In consonance with the proof and upon the foregoing, the undersigned Arbitrator hereby finds, decides, determines and renders the following:

A W A R D

1. Tenure Charges are dismissed and reduced to a one (1) month suspension with three (3) months back pay, benefits and emoluments.

2. Respondent shall be reinstated to a school, preferably Fast Track, where his expertise as a special education educator can be utilized.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

In the Matter of the Tenure Charges Against

and

CARLSTADT-EAST RUTHERFORD REGIONAL BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Bergen County, New Jersey

Agency Docket No.: 142-6/15

AWARD OF ARBITRATOR

The undersigned Arbitrator, having been designated as Impartial Arbitrator by authority of the Commissioner of Education of the State of New Jersey in accordance with the TeachNJ statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17, and having been duly sworn, and having duly heard the proofs and allegations of the parties, after applying the criteria set forth in the TeachNJ statute AWARDS as follows:

Based on the evidence submitted, the eleven tenure charges bought by the Carlstadt-East Rutherford Regional Board of Education against Respondent William Carr are sustained in part and denied in part.

The Board was entitled to suspend Respondent on April 23, 2015 for the balance of the 2014-15 school year in response to Respondent's actions regarding students that occurred on April 21, and 23, 2015, provided that the District had initiated in a timely manner a process to refer Respondent for a fitness for duty evaluation by an Independent Medical Examiner selected, in the first instance, by the District and for anger management counseling. The District failed to take either action. Filing of tenure charges for these two incidents, rather than suspending Respondent and referring him for evaluation by a medical professional or psychologist was arbitrary, which violated an applicable standard established by the TEACHNJ statute, and thus cannot be sustained. Therefore, the discipline imposed regarding Charge Four and Charge Five is hereby modified as described below.

Respondent shall be reinstated forthwith to his former position as a history teacher at Becton High School. The following penalties shall be assessed for Respondent's proven conduct precipitating the filing of tenure charges in the instant case. The 120-day interval during which Respondent was suspended without pay shall be deemed an unpaid disciplinary suspension for his submission of vouchers to which he signed names other than his own, which is the subject of Charges One and Two, and for his conduct toward colleagues and students, which is the subject of Charge Three, Counts I and II and Charge Six, Counts I, II, and III. Had the District imposed an appropriate sequence of progressively severe discipline identifying Respondent's perceived shortcomings in the classroom and his interactions with colleagues before preferring tenure charges, a more stringent penalty might have been sustained.

The District shall refer Respondent forthwith for a fitness for duty examination, specifically referring Respondent for anger management counseling and such other therapy or counseling as an Independent Medical Examiner shall determine. The IME shall be selected by mutual agreement of respondent or his representative and the District Superintendent or her representative. In the event of a deadlock on the selection, the parties shall return to this Arbitrator for a determination.

If the neutral IME determines that Respondent is ready and fit to return to his teaching duties at Becton High School, Respondent shall be assigned to similar teaching duties as in the past and shall be eligible for extra-curricular assignments as he was before tenure charges were filed. In the event that the District determines that returning Respondent to full duty immediately after he has been released to work by the IME, or the IME's designated therapist, if any, would be pedagogically disruptive, the District may, at its discretion for sound educational reasons, defer Respondent's return to full, active duty until the beginning of the 2016-17 school year, provided that Respondent is provided with full pay and benefits hereafter through his reinstatement to duty, is listed immediately as a full-time tenured faculty member at Becton High School, is given unfettered opportunity to bid for extra-curricular activity positions for 2016-17, and is offered a teaching schedule that is substantially similar to the schedule he was assigned before tenure charges were filed.

Given the unequivocal testimony by District witnesses establishing that Respondent's submission of vouchers seeking payment of third party vendors for goods and services provided regarding extra-curricular activities for which Respondent was responsible as faculty advisor did not violate any District policy or applicable law, and further considering that Respondent's submission of vouchers on which he had signed the names of others without their authorization constituted improper conduct that violated the generally applicable standards of ethical and fair dealing, the District shall also withhold increments from Respondent for each of the next two years.

By operation of the TEACHNJ statute, Respondent was off the District payroll for 120 days, after which his salary and benefits should have been fully restored pending the outcome of this arbitration proceeding. If they have not been fully restored as of the 121st day after suspension, all unpaid salary and benefits shall be paid forthwith.

The District's tenure charges based on Respondent's classroom performance have not been sustained by a preponderance of credible evidence. Charge Eight is unduly vague. Therefore, Charges Seven, Eight, Nine, and Ten are hereby dismissed. Charge Eleven, which is an amalgam of the preceding charges, is hereby dismissed as unsupported by the evidentiary record.

The Arbitrator hereby retains jurisdiction to resolve any dispute that may arise regarding the remedy, or the enforcement of the remedy, ordered pursuant to this Award.

Agency Docket No.: 142-6/15

Hearings in the above-entitled matter were held on September 22, 2015, September 25, 2015, October 1, 2015, October 20, 2015, and October 22, 2015 at the Carlstadt-East Rutherford Regional High School District Board offices in East Rutherford, New Jersey, before Daniel F. Brent, duly designated by the New Jersey Commissioner of Education as Impartial Arbitrator pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-17, the Teacher Effectiveness and Accountability for the Children of New Jersey (TeachNJ) statute. Both parties participated in these hearings, were represented by counsel, and were afforded full and equal opportunity to offer testimony under oath, to cross examine witnesses, and to present evidence and arguments. A verbatim transcript was made of the proceedings. The evidentiary record was declared closed upon the receipt of the stenographic transcript and the subsequent submission of post-hearing briefs by both parties.

NATURE OF THE CASE

Respondent William Carr has been employed as a history teacher at Becton Regional High School in East Rutherford, New Jersey for twenty-six years, during which time he has also coached the debate team, been advisor to the school newspaper, and received accolades for his teaching, including AP level courses, with great success. To motivate and engage his students at various levels of academic rigor, Mr. Carr has developed a repertoire of techniques and antics that have won him admiration and approval from many of his students and colleagues over the years. Respondent has also demonstrated, particularly in the two years before tenure charges were filed against him, passive aggressive behavior and a confrontational attitude toward co-workers and several students that precipitated the tenure charges at issue in the instant case.

More particularly, tenure charges were filed after Mr. Carr was observed engaging in what the Board construed as angry, aggressive, and unprofessional behavior toward two students in two separate incidents that occurred only two days apart in April 2015 while Respondent was monitoring the school cafeteria. These incidents were recorded on video cameras positioned through the school. There is no audio component. The High School Principal and the Disciplinarian testified in support of the District's assertion that, despite a warning after the first incident on April 21, 2015, Respondent again lost self-control and angrily berated a female student until she broke down in tears in the main school office.

The District also cited many interactions between Respondent and other teachers and supervisors in which Respondent was allegedly uncooperative, dismissive, or disruptive. His angry outbursts were characterized by the District as inconsistent with the District's reasonable expectations of professional collegiality and standards of conduct toward students. The eleven tenure charges filed in June 2015 included allegations that Respondent consistently made off-topic, personal, and inappropriate comments to students and that he exhibited odd and concerning behavior in class, including throwing erasers and faking seizures when students gave incorrect answers. Respondent was also charged with disrespectful demeanor towards colleagues and supervisors to the extent that two female supervisors reported feeling distressed and threatened. According to the District, Respondent has unequivocally demonstrated that he is patently unfit to perform the functions of a teacher.

Respondent was also charged with dishonest conduct and violating District policies by signing vendors' names to multiple payment vouchers for extra-curricular activities such as debate tournament registrations and travel expenses. These violations occurred over many years, but only recently came to the attention of District officials. Although the District made no claim that the Respondent defrauded the District of any funds or that he personally profited from his actions, the District alleged that his deviation from the prescribed protocol for securing payment for vendors regarding extra-curricular activities, which occurred repeatedly over many years and which Respondent readily admitted when confronted, created an adequate independent basis to terminate his employment.

Respondent Carr refuted the tenure charges as unfounded or as insufficient to terminate his employment. Mr. Carr admitted his circumvention of vendor procurement policies, but characterized his conduct as either necessary to register for debate tournaments or similar events in a timely manner where no vendor signature could be obtained before registration fees were due or as regrettable laziness to seek written vendor confirmation in advance. Respondent also described his theatrical antics in the classroom as an important element in keeping his students alert and engaged with his lessons. According to Respondent Carr, although most students understood and appreciated his rapid-fire references and off-beat humor, some students, including several former students who testified at the arbitration proceedings, did not grasp the subtlety, sarcasm, or humor of his remarks.

Respondent asserted that the absence of any progressively severe discipline addressing his alleged shortcomings in the classroom precluded sustaining the tenure charges regarding his teaching. He further asserted that he had behaved appropriately in fulfilling his cafeteria supervisory responsibilities on April 21 and 23, 2015 and that the District had over-reacted to his comments to the students and to administrators. Respondent defended his interactions with colleagues as within the boundaries of civility, if not collegiality, and cited the absence of discipline for the incidents cited in the the tenure charges as precluding termination of his employment on this or any other basis.

TENURE CHARGES

The eleven tenure charges signed by the District Superintendant on May 21, 2015 and received by the Commissioner of Education on June 22, 2015 are incorporated by reference herein in their entirety.

OPINION AND ANALYSIS

Respondent William Carr has been, by all accounts, a gifted and dedicated teacher at Becton High School for more than two decades. His devotion to conveying history, politics, and a sense of how government works to generations of students was amply chronicled during the arbitration hearings in this tenure dispute. His dramatic, and sometimes edgy, sometimes outlandish techniques for getting his points across have been part of his teaching repertoire for years. Also part of his mode of presentation and relationship building techniques have been off-beat humor, sarcasm, exaggerated reactions to student responses, and a sincere investment in creating a dynamic learning environment in his classroom, regardless of the skill and ability levels of a particular student or group of students.

Apparently, according to the testimony offered by the District, not every student understood or appreciated Respondent's offbeat, oddball, and energized teaching style. On balance, however, the evidentiary record demonstrated persuasively that Bill Carr has been a talented and effective teacher, extra-curricular activity leader, and mentor for a very long time. If the newly appointed cadre of District management found his style and techniques to be at odds with their concept of good pedagogy, it was incumbent on them to communicate their perception to Respondent long before citing his techniques as evidence of unfitness to teach. No significant or meaningful progressively severe corrective discipline predicated on Respondent's classroom activity or teaching prowess was imposed by the District before tenure charges were filed. Therefore, the District has failed to demonstrate not only that Respondent's behavior in the classroom violated discernible District instructional standards, but also that he was placed on notice, and subsequently disciplined in reasonable increments, for failing to respond to such notice related to his teaching skills.

Furthermore, the derogatory testimony of students who were purportedly offended at his comments about the Marines or other topics raised in class must be discounted substantially, not only because their testimony reflected a lack of understanding of the points Respondent was trying to teach at the time, as established persuasively by his testimony and theirs, but also because one student witness is the sister of JR, the subject of another tenure charge to be discussed below, and the other student witness was a friend of JR's sister. Their perspective, relevance, and motivation mandate discounting the reliability of their portrayal of Respondent's classroom demeanor as accurate in establishing actionable misconduct beyond Respondent's admitted description of his dramatic classroom antics.

This is not to say that Respondent was above reproach or that her did nothing "creepy" in his classroom remarks. However, the evidentiary record established that District officials should have taken corrective action, beginning with a counseling and increasing incrementally thereafter, rather than precipitously escalating this category of complaint regarding his teaching performance to the basis of a tenure charge.

Nothing in the record established that Respondent made any sexually suggestive or otherwise patently inappropriate remarks to these complainant witnesses. At most, he ventured too far into a grey area of good taste with some of his classroom allusions. None of these remarks justified a conclusion that Respondent was unfit to teach. Thus, in the absence of progressively severe corrective discipline recently imposed and addressing these actions, the District's use of his classroom performance as a basis for a tenure charge was arbitrary and capricious.

The District's imposition of discipline on this basis violated the standard established by the TEACHNJ statute, thereby creating a valid basis mandating the Arbitrator to dismiss Tenure Charges Seven and Eight.

As Respondent readily admitted as soon as he was asked, Respondent is culpable for having signed vendor's names to vendor requisitions related to securing funds for student extra-curricular activities that he had submitted to the District's Business Office over a period of many years. The District acknowledged that it has no evidence that Respondent personally profited financially or in any other way from forging these signatures or that the District suffered any loss or other detriment because of these actions. Nor is there any basis in evidentiary record to dispute Respondent's testimony that he resorted first to this shortcut to resolve a bureaucratic conundrum of needing to register for debate tournaments in advance as there was no vendor or tournament representative who could sign off on the requisition in time to meet registration deadlines. Thereafter, Respondent's practice of signing another person's approval of the vendor requisition was motivated by laziness and expedience. In any event, his actions, especially without disclosure to District officials, were patently wrong and justified discipline.

Although Respondent readily and immediately admitted his longstanding practice as soon as he was asked to explain the voucher signatures, his candor did not complete offset the inherent dishonesty of his actions. Neither does the absence of any indication that Respondent personally profited in any way from this practice exonerate him. Forging an official employer document is a serious offense. Under most other circumstances, forging a vendor's signature would sustain a summary dismissal for conduct unbecoming a District employee. However, the unique testimony adduced in the instant case distinguishes the instant situation. Both the District's auditor and the District's Business Administrator credibly and unambiguously testified that Respondent's submission of vouchers he had signed forging vendors' names, while distasteful and poor practice, did not violate any law or Board policy. But for this credible testimony, the Respondent's actions may have justified dismissal for cause. However, this competent and credible testimony by responsible and experienced District agents precludes summary discharge based on the unique facts and circumstances of the instant case. Respondent's actions nevertheless merit substantial discipline.

The District initially recognized that summary discharge was not justified, and the Board authorized an increment withholding. Moreover, testimony by Union officials described a settlement they thought had been reached with the District to impose an increment withholding as the sole appropriate penalty for Respondent's voucher related misconduct. This testimony was credible, but the settlement agreement was not formalized before the District Superintendent thereafter discovered the total number of vouchers involved and the long interval during which Respondent's voucher practice had continued. Following the District Superintendent's discovery of the full facts, the increment withholding was escalated to a tenure charge seeking dismissal.

Regardless of which version of the purported settlement deal is more accurate, the discovery of additional evidence of wrongdoing could properly be considered by the Board in modifying its initial penalty. Moreover, given the credible testimony by both the Board's outside auditor and the Business Administrator that no applicable law or District policy was violated by Respondent, the tenure charge emanating from voucher-related impropriety, Charges one and Two must be dismissed.

Regardless of whether Respondent's actions contravened an explicit Board policy, this conduct should not be excused entirely, as District employees are expected to act with integrity in their dealings, particularly with the District. Respondent failed to fulfill this responsibility over an extended period of time. That the procedure to secure payment of extra-curricular activity expenses has since been modified to eliminate the requirement of obtaining a vendor's certification signature in advance of preparing for payment by the District directly to the vendor is irrelevant and immaterial. Therefore, the category of penalty initially implemented by the Board of an increment withholding shall be increased to an increment withholding of two years duration to reflect the severity and longevity of Respondent's misconduct.

There was extensive testimony describing Respondent's interactions with his peers and supervisors. Stated succinctly, Respondent failed to act in a cheerful and overtly collegial manner. He was grumpy and arrogant, and did not reform his conduct despite repeated admonitions that collegiality was deemed essential to his successful performance of his duties. On the other hand, the responses described by complaining employee witnesses in their testimony exaggerated their sense of alarm and dismay at the Respondent's abrupt or condescending reactions to actions he felt were demeaning to his professionalism. No reasonable basis was adduced in their testimony to justify the level of anxiety and visceral dread described by these witnesses.

According to their accounts of interactions with Respondent as portrayed in their testimony, Respondent may have been unpleasant, but he was never physically threatening or so verbally abusive as to support a tenure charge seeking immediate dismissal. Discipline short of tenure charges was been warranted, but a tenure charge based on his occasional inappropriate verbal outbursts cannot be sustained.

Pleasant collegial interactions are a reasonable expectation in the workplace, and especially in a school setting. However, not every interaction will be suffused with sweetness and light. The Arbitrator finds that the complaints reported to management by the two complaining employee witnesses were sufficient to justify intervention by management at the level of counseling, and the imposition of progressively severe discipline if counseling failed to remediate the conduct. The eccentric or rude behavior described by these two complainants did not justify sustaining a tenure charge.

Respondent was charged with intentionally thwarting an investigation of a small batch of unclaimed office supplies, which he eventually acknowledged having ordered. The divergent testimony regarding attempts to identify these supplies precludes a finding that Respondent intentionally was uncooperative. The witness who testified about this incident on behalf of the District was indignant about Respondent's dismissive treatment when she raised the issue while he was teaching. The totality of circumstances underlying the supply issue was insufficiently probative of any misconduct to sustain discipline, much less a tenure charge, based on Respondent's conduct during this sequence of events. Therefore, Charge Six, Counts 1 through 3 are hereby dismissed.

The allegations of out of control behavior with two students while Respondent was performing his assigned cafeteria supervision duty on April 21 and 23, 2015 are more problematic. Video surveillance cameras recorded two incidents involving students in or near the cafeteria. In the first, JR resists Respondent's apparent entreaties that he abide by conditions previously imposed by the school administration limiting JR's access to, and presence in, the cafeteria. These limits were based on multiple prior incidents involving JR, whose prior difficulties at school were also well known to the police officer regularly assigned to Becton High School. This incident forms the basis for Charge Four. The second incident depicts a female student, GC, who, after being told repeatedly by Respondent to return to the cafeteria from a hallway adjacent to the cafeteria, where she had ventured for a drink of water and was meandering to look into what appears to be a gym class, was apparently uncooperative. When Respondent insisted, the student became overtly disrespectful, and according to Respondent, verbally abusive including profanity, and the situation escalated as Respondent walked the student to the main office at a quick pace.

There is no soundtrack for these videos, but the body language and actions of Respondent and JR and GC in the cafeteria, the hallway and the main office support the District's contention that Respondent behaved improperly and overreacted in both situations.

Respondent testified that he was provoked by disrespectful verbal responses by both students while properly performing his assigned cafeteria supervision duties, and that he simply directed them, as emphatically as the situation warranted, to report to the central office when they did not acquiesce to his instructions and thereafter accompanied them to assure prompt compliance with his directives. According to Respondent, his ire as depicted on the video recordings was raised by the failure of administrators to react to the students' disrespectful conduct, including profanity, with sufficient urgency and to impose sufficient and appropriate discipline.

Despite the absence of audio, and accepting Respondent's description of the student's provocative conduct in each incident as accurate, there remains a perceptible unambiguous residue of anger portrayed by Respondent's movements as augmented by visible indicia of his attitude. His testimony corroborated this conclusion. Whatever the students said, Respondent was obligated by virtue of his position and experience to remain the adult in charge of each situation and to act with professional decorum. According to credible testimony offered by the District regarding JR, Respondent should have called for assistance, rather than leaving his post precipitously. A similar conclusion applies as to the incident involving GC.

Respondent's conduct in the main office and immediately outside the office after the High School Principal closed the door to defuse the situation with GC demonstrated anger management issues justifying legitimate concern by District administrators. Whatever rationale Respondent cited in his testimony to explain his actions on April 21 and 23, 2015, the District reasonably concluded that further intervention was necessary. How this intervention was implemented forms the crux of the instant case.

Respondent was an effective and highly rated teach for more than two decades before multiple interactions with peers and students gave rise to growing concerns about his temperament and what the District perceived as significant deterioration of his self-control. The District's decision to intervene was supported by the evidentiary record, but the District's reaction of filing tenure charges seeking immediate dismissal reaction was unwarranted, arbitrary, and capricious.

If the District, in exercising its managerial discretion, determined that Respondent could no longer be trusted to perform his duties on school premises after the April 23, 2015 incident, the District should have not only suspended Respondent, but also referred Respondent for a fitness for duty evaluation and then for anger management training rather than simply suspending Respondent as its sole disciplinary antecedent to filing tenure charges. If Respondent was behaving too irascibly to perform his duties satisfactorily, he should have been placed on involuntary leave pending an independent medical evaluation and thereafter been afforded treatment consistent with the IME's findings.

The Board's treatment of what it perceived as Respondent's deteriorating job performance after twenty-five years of stellar teaching and prize-winning extra-curricular activity mentoring, coupled with recent sporadic unprofessional outbursts, as the basis for immediately filing tenure charges for conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member and inefficiency was arbitrary and capricious in the context of standards imposed by the TEACH NJ statute. The District's concern with what supervisors perceived to be Respondent's overt or purportedly passive aggressive expressions of anger and unprofessional level of collegiality should have been treated initially as a cause for referral for potential professional intervention to determine if a treatable medical or psychological existed, or at least by imposing progressively severe discipline, rather than as a basis summarily to dismiss an excellent teacher whose behavior in school was becoming, from the District's perspective, more and more problematic.

The District has not established by either a preponderance of the evidence or by clear and convincing evidence that Respondent William Carr has satisfied the criteria for removal or dismissal of a tenured teacher established by the TEACHNJ statute or under the applicable case law cited as the basis of the eleven tenure charges preferred by the District. The conduct cited by the District in tenure charges comprising the instant case does, however, justify the imposition of substantial discipline. Respondent's conduct also mandates that the District refer Respondent to fitness for duty testing and remedial anger management or other treatment consistent with the findings of an Independent Medical Examiner and as may be deemed appropriate by professional evaluators and therapists.

Therefore, based on the evidence submitted, the District was entitled to suspend Respondent on April 23, 2015 for the balance of the 2014-15 school year in response to Respondent's actions regarding students that occurred on April 21, and 23, 2015, provided that the District had initiated in a timely manner a process to refer Respondent for a fitness for duty evaluation by an Independent Medical Examiner selected, in the first instance, by the District and for anger management counseling. The District failed to take either action. Filing of tenure charges for the two incidents described in Charges Four and Five, rather than suspending Respondent and referring him for evaluation by a medical professional or psychologist was arbitrary, which violated an applicable standard established by the TEACHNJ statute, and thus cannot be sustained. Therefore, the discipline imposed regarding Charge Four and Charge Five is hereby modified as described below.

Respondent shall be reinstated forthwith to his former position as a history teacher at Becton High School. The following penalties shall be assessed for Respondent's proven conduct precipitating the filing of tenure charges in the instant case. The 120-day interval during which Respondent was suspended without pay shall be deemed an unpaid disciplinary suspension for his submission of vouchers to which he signed names other than his own, which is the subject of Charges One and Two, and for his conduct toward colleagues and students, which is the subject of Charge Three, Counts I and II and Charge Six, Counts I, II, and III. Had the District imposed an appropriate sequence of progressively severe discipline identifying Respondent's perceived shortcomings in the classroom and his interactions with colleagues before preferring tenure charges, a more stringent penalty might have been sustained.

The District shall refer Respondent forthwith for a fitness for duty examination, specifically referring Respondent for anger management counseling and such other therapy or counseling as an Independent Medical Examiner shall determine. The IME shall be selected by mutual agreement of respondent or his representative and the District Superintendent or her representative. In the event of a deadlock on the selection, the parties shall return to this Arbitrator for a determination.

If the neutral IME determines that Respondent is ready and fit to return to his teaching duties at Becton High School, Respondent shall be assigned to similar teaching duties as in the past and shall be eligible for extra-curricular assignments as he was before tenure charges were filed. In the event that the District determines that returning Respondent to full duty immediately after he has been released to work by the IME, or the IME's designated therapist, if any, would be pedagogically disruptive, the District may, at its discretion for sound educational reasons, defer Respondent's return to full, active duty until the beginning of the 2016-17 school year, provided that Respondent is provided with full pay and benefits hereafter through his reinstatement to duty, is listed immediately as a full-time tenured faculty member at Becton High School, is given unfettered opportunity to bid for extra-curricular activity positions for 2016-17, and is offered a teaching schedule that is substantially similar to the schedule he was assigned before tenure charges were filed.

Given the unequivocal testimony by District witnesses establishing that Respondent's submission of vouchers seeking payment of third party vendors for goods and services provided regarding extra-curricular activities for which Respondent was responsible as faculty advisor did not violate any District policy or applicable law, and further considering that Respondent's submission of vouchers on which he had signed the names of others without their authorization constituted improper conduct that violated the generally applicable standards of ethical and fair dealing, the District shall also withhold increments from Respondent for each of the next two years.

By operation of the TEACHNJ statute, Respondent was off the District payroll for 120 days, after which his salary and benefits should have been fully restored pending the outcome of this arbitration proceeding. If they have not been fully restored as of the 121st day after suspension, all unpaid salary and benefits shall be paid forthwith.

The District's tenure charges based on Respondent's classroom performance have not been sustained by a preponderance of credible evidence. Charge Eight is unduly vague. Therefore, Charges Seven, Eight, Nine, and Ten are hereby dismissed. Charge Eleven, which is an amalgam incorporating by reference the preceding charges, is hereby dismissed as unsupported by the evidentiary record.

The Arbitrator hereby retains jurisdiction to resolve any dispute that may arise regarding the remedy or the enforcement of the remedy ordered pursuant to this Award.

For the Respondent:

Helen Tobia, Supervisor of Social Studies, Fine Arts, Pupil Personnel Services

I. BACKGROUND CONSIDERATIONS

Helen Tobia is a tenured employee of the School District of the Township of Lakewood, New Jersey, currently serving as the Supervisor of Social Studies, Fine Arts, Pupil Personnel Services since on or about October 2012. On August 7, 2015, the District's State-Appointed Monitor Michael Azzara filed tenure charges against Ms. Tobia, charging her with unbecoming conduct, inefficiency, and other just cause warranting dismissal, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 and 6-10, et seq. On or about August 26, 2015, a response to the charges was submitted to the Board by Ms. Tobia's counsel. The Lakewood Board of Education thereafter certified the tenure charges to the Commissioner of Education at its August 26, 2015 Meeting by a majority vote of the full membership, and additionally resolved to suspend Ms. Tobia without pay in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. See, CERTIFICATE OF DETERMINATION executed by Asst. Bus. Admin./Board Secretary Kevin Campbell.

These were received by the DOE on September 11, 2015, which acknowledged receipt of the certified tenure charges in a letter to the parties. Respondent Tobia through Counsel Oppito filed an ANSWER to the charges on September 23, 2015, which was received by the DOE Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on September 24, 2015. On October 5, 2015, M. Kathleen Duncan, Director Bureau of Controversies and Disputes advised the parties that:

> following receipt of the respondent's answer on September 24, 2015, the above captioned tenure charges have been reviewed and deemed sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary, subject to determination by the arbitrator of respondent's defenses and any motions which may be filed with the arbitrator. The arbitrator shall review those charges which are not dismissed as the result of a motion under the preponderance of the evidence standard.

That same date I was advised of my appointment as Arbitrator pursuant to P.L. 2012, c. 26 by Ms. Duncan under separate cover. On October 13, 2015, a conference call was conducted with counsel, with a discovery schedule that included the propounding of interrogatories memorialized in my correspondence of that same date. Initial hearing dates were also set down. On October 23, 2015, Respondent Tobia filed a motion to disqualify Marc Zitomer, Esq. as counsel of record and/or disqualify other attorneys with the firm of SCHENCK, PRICE, et al. from testifying at hearing. On November 2, 2015, Mr. Zitomer submitted a letter brief in opposition to the motion, with supporting case citation. On November 12, 2015, I issued an ORDER denying Respondent's application. See, Joint Exhibit 5. The positions of the parties on the motion coupled with my findings included the following:

Respondent Helen Tobia

RPC 3.7(a) provides in pertinent part: "[a] lawyer shall not act as advocate at a trial in which the lawyer is likely to be a necessary witness except where: (3) disqualification of the lawyer would work substantial hardship on the client." Assuming arguendo that Mr. Zitomer may demonstrate that there would be substantial hardship to the Lakewood Board of Education by withdrawing at this time in the proceeding (the burden of proof is on Mr. Zitomer) then all attorneys connected to Schenck, Price are disqualified as witnesses.

Although RPC 3.7(b) provides that a lawyer may act as advocate in a trial with another lawyer in the firm likely to be called as a witness, unless precluded by RPC 1.7 or RPC 1.9, RPC 1.7 is the general conflict of interest rule. RPC 1.7(b) reads that a lawyer shall not represent a client which may materially limit the lawyer's responsibility to a third person. Helen Tobia was the Board of Education's employee, representative and/or agent in special education matters in which Schenck, Price represented the Board of Education's interest, but had attorney-client privileged discussions with Ms. Tobia during the conduct of the proceedings and prepared documents for Ms. Tobia to sign on behalf of the Board. In subparagraph (2) it specifically reads that a client may consent to the representation after full disclosure, "except that a public entity cannot consent to any such representation." Of note, paragraph (c) provides that this rule shall not alter ethics opinions.

Essentially, Schenck, Price represented the Board of Education in special education matters in which Ms. Tobia was the Board's employee, representative and/or agent. Attorneys for Schenck, Price discussed privileged attorney-client information with Ms. Tobia and prepared legal documents for Ms. Tobia's signature. There is a clear conflict of interest in having attorneys of Schenck, Price who had privileged discussions with Ms. Tobia testify to those discussions. Ethics Opinion 233 supports why the disqualification of attorneys at Schenck, Price as litigators and witnesses is required. The opinion speaks for itself and is entered in whole in support of this Motion, with the following emphasis:

> [i]f a lawyer is both counsel and witness, he becomes more easily impeachable for interest and thus may be a less effective witness. Conversely, the opposing counsel may be handicapped in challenging the credibility of the lawyer when the lawyer also appears as an advocate in > the case. An advocate who becomes a witness is in the unseemly and ineffective position of arguing his own credibility. The roles of an advocate and a witness are inconsistent, the function of an advocate is to advance or argue the case of another, while that of a witness is to state facts objectively.

In conclusion, if Mr. Zitomer opines that there is a hardship to the Lakewood Board of Education in his withdrawing from representation in this matter, it is respectfully requested that the Arbitrator disqualify all attorneys of Schenck, Price to be witnesses. Additionally, Respondent reserves the right to forward to the Attorney General's office to quash any subpoena served upon the mediators and/or employees of the New Jersey Department of Education and/or the Office of Administrative Law.

Petitioner School District City of The Township of Lakewood

The New Jersey Supreme Court has recognized that 'only in extraordinary cases should a client's right to counsel of his or her choice outweigh the need to maintain the highest standards of the profession.' Dewey v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., 109 N.J. 201, 220 (1988). In that same case the Supreme Court observed, 'disqualification motions are often made for tactical reasons, but that, 'even when made in the best of faith, such motions inevitably cause delay in the underlying proceedings.' Id., at 219 (citing Evans v. Artek Systems Corp. 715 F.2d 788, 792 (2d Cir. 1983) (quoting Board of Education v. Nyquist, 590 F.2d 1241, 1246 (2d Cir. 1979).

Disqualifications cannot be premised on mere "doubt about the propriety of the representation." Realco Services, Inc. v. Holt, 479 F. Supp. 867, 872 n.4 (E.D. Pa. 1979). Courts recognize that a motion such as this is part of the gamesmanship of litigation and may be brought by a party seeking a tactical advantage. As a result, such motions require close judicial scrutiny in order to "prevent unjust results." In re A & T Paramus Co., Inc., 253 B.R. 606, 613 (D.N.J.) 1999); see also, Smith v. Whatcott, 757 F.2d 1098, 1099-1100 (10th Cir. 1985); J.P. Foley & Co. Inc. v. Vanderbilt, 523 F.2d 1357, 1360 (2d Cir. 1975) (Gurfein, J., concurring); Kalmanovitz v. G. Heileman Brewing Co., 610 F. Supp, 1319, 1323 (D. Del. 1985). For the reasons that follow, there is absolutely no legal basis for disqualifying this firm in this tenure proceeding.

A. Disqualification is Not Required under Subpart (a).

The undersigned will serve as the lead counsel in this matter and will prosecute the charges on behalf of the Board of Education. The undersigned is not a witness to the charges in this case, did not supply an affidavit and was not listed as a witness in the disclosures provided to opposing counsel, pursuant to N.J.S.A.18A:6-17.1(b)(3). Respondent has not even alleged in her motion that the undersigned "is likely to be a necessary witness." Indeed, even if Respondent had claimed that the undersigned will be a witness, the Court in J.G. Ries & Sons, Inc. v. Spectraserv, Inc., 384 N.J. Super. 216, 894 A.2d 681, 2006 N.J. Super. LEXIS 91 (App. Div. 2006), held that Defendant's mere representation, in support of its disqualification motion, that plaintiff's counsel would be called as a witness did not satisfy the threshold requirements of RPC 3.7 which specifies there must be a likelihood that a lawyer will be a necessary witness.

Moreover, the Court emphasized that the subject matter of the attorney's testimony could be provided through a lay witness' testimony. See, State v. Tanksley, 245 N.J. Super. 390, 393-94 (App. Div. 1991) (holding that testimony of trial attorney who had been present when his client made a statement to police was unnecessary because defendant had not alleged that the statement was false or argued that it was inadmissible); see also, Host Marriott Corp. v. Fast Food Operators, Inc., 891 F. Supp. 1002, 1010 (D.N.J. 1995) (holding that the record before the Court was insufficient for it to hold that the testimony of defendant's attorney would be "necessary" in the case). Simply put, there is no evidence at this point to suggest the undersigned will be a witness in this case.

It is for this reason that Respondent's reliance on Opinion 233 is entirely misplaced. Opinion 233 apparently involves a predecessor to RPC 3.7 which is different in many respects from RPC 3.7. Moreover, in that case, the Advisory Committee recommended that both law firms withdraw because the lawyers who were actually representing their clients in the proceeding were also likely to be witnesses. For the reasons previously discussed, that is not the case here. Therefore, disqualification of the undersigned in this case is neither required, nor appropriate.

Even if the Arbitrator were to somehow conclude that the undersigned will likely be a witness, disqualification would be improper under subpart (3) which addresses substantial hardship on the client. At this juncture, we are approximately two (2) weeks away from trial and under a statutory mandate to start the hearing within forty-five (45) days from the date the matter was assigned to the Arbitrator, or by no later than November 18, 2015. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1(b)(1). For the Board to have to secure a new counsel at this late juncture would be highly prejudicial to the Board of Education and a virtual impossibility, particularly given the specialty required in the area of employee tenure and school law. See, ABA Model Rules of Professional Conduct Rule 3.7 Comment (2000) (recognizing that in considering whether an attorney should be disqualified "due regard must be given to the effect of disqualification.") Thus, due to the extreme hardship which would flow to the Board, Respondent's motion should be denied.

A. Disqualification is Not Required under Subpart (b).

In this case, several lawyers from the undersigned's firm will be called as a witness which is permitted under subpart (b) unless there is a conflict of interest under RPC 1.7. RPC 1.9 (Duties to former clients) is not applicable to this matter. Respondent makes the blanket statement that there is a conflict in attorneys of Schenck, Price, Smith & King testifying about discussions they had with Respondent. However, Respondent fails to articulate what responsibilities counsel owes to Respondent under RPC 1.7 (a) (2) which would materially limit its responsibilities to the Board. The reason is simple — this firm owes no responsibility to Respondent. Moreover, the RPC 1.7 (a) (2) speaks to a "significant risk" that the lawyer's representation will be limited by responsibilities to a third person. Here, even assuming arguendo that there is such a risk, which is vehemently denied, the risk is certainly not "significant."

Finally, Ms. Tobia is not this firm's client, nor does Respondent claim that she is a client of the firm. Rather, this firm represents the Board of Education. Indeed, RPC 1.13 which deals with organizational clients provides that "a lawyer employed to represent an organization represents the organization as distinct from its directors, officers, employees, members, shareholders or other constituents." Even assuming arguendo that Respondent was a member of the organization's litigation control group, the fact remains that the privilege belongs to the Board, not to Respondent. For all the foregoing reasons, Respondent's disqualification motion must be denied.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

At the outset of this discussion and as argued by Petitioner, notice is taken of the New Jersey Supreme Court's recognition that 'only in extraordinary cases should a client's right to counsel of his or her choosing outweigh the need to maintain the highest standards of the profession.' See, Dewy v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., 109 N.J. 201, 220 (1988). The Court went on to opine that "disqualification motions are often made for tactical reasons, but that 'even when made in the best of faith, such motions inevitably cause delay' in the underlying proceedings." Consequently, such motions require close judicial scrutiny to protect against unjust results. See, In re A & T Paramus Co., Inc., 253 B.R. 606, 613 (D.N.J. 1999); see also, Smith v. Whatcott, 757 F.2d 1098, 1099-1100 (10th Cir. 1985); J.P. Foley & Co., Inc. v. Vanderbuilt, 523 F.2d 1357, 1360 (2d Cir. 1975); Kalmanovitz v. G. Heilman Brewing Co., 610 F. Supp. 1319, 1323 (D.Del. 1985).

Parenthetically, as the TEACHNJ statute is in its relative infancy, arbitrators are well-advised to proceed cautiously when faced with such disqualification motions that operate as matters of first impression in this forum. And while guidance from our ALJ forebears is frequently provided and instructive in these tenure cases, Respondent has failed to provide any such citation in support of her application. Instead, my focus is initially directed to RPC 3.7(a), which provides in material part that '[a] lawyer shall not act as advocate at a trial in which the lawyer is likely to be a necessary witness unless: (1) the testimony relates to an uncontested issue; (2) the testimony relates to the nature and value of legal services rendered in the case; or (3) disqualification of the lawyer would work substantial hardship on the client.'

As the moving party, Respondent assumes the burden of proving its entitlement to the desired relief and clearly has not done so concerning the disqualification of Mr. Zitomer as trial counsel. Instead, there is not currently a scintilla of evidence that he will likely be called as a witness, and as properly argued by Petitioner: Mr. Zitomer does not appear on any witness list provided pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1(b)(3); he did not file an affidavit in support of the subject tenure charges. Even in the event that such a contingency should arise during the multiple hearings in this case that will be necessary, my review of the numerous emails recently provided by Petitioner pursuant to a discovery request convinces me that the subject matter of the testimony could be alternatively provided by a lay witness. See, State v. Tanksley, 245 N.J. Super. 390, 393-94 (App. Div. 1991).

However, even assuming arguendo that Respondent had demonstrated that there was a likelihood of Mr. Zitomer being called as a witness, Petitioner has established to my satisfaction that his disqualification would work a substantial hardship on the Board of Education. In that regard, the initial hearing is scheduled for November 18, 2015 and there is a statutory mandate that it be completed within forty-five (45) days of the referral to arbitration. The field of school law vis-à-vis tenure hearings and particularly special education law is also highly specialized. Accordingly, based upon the foregoing considerations, Respondent's motion with respect to the disqualification of Mr. Zitomer is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

Counsel for Respondent has essentially conceded this result in his brief, but nevertheless insists that the other Schenck, Price lawyers must be disqualified as witnesses based upon RPC 3.7(b). This indicates that '[a] lawyer may act as advocate in a trial in which another lawyer in the lawyer's firm is likely to be called as a witness unless precluded from doing so by RPC 1.7 (Conflicts of Interest) or RPC 1.9 (Duties to Former Clients).' On that count, Respondent contends that Helen Tobia was the Board of Education's employee, representative and/or agent for special education matters in which Schenck, Price represented the Board of Education's interest, but had attorney-client privileged discussions with her during the conduct of the proceedings. It is also alleged that the firm prepared documents for Respondent to sign on behalf of the Board.

There are several concerns which militate against the acceptance of this argument at this juncture of the case, and render Advisory Opinion 233 upon which Respondent relies inapposite. No evidence has been brought forward that the other attorneys who will be testifying have a conflict of interest under RPC 1.7. Rather, I share the view of the Petitioner that Respondent has failed to articulate what responsibilities the law firm owes per RPC 1.7(a)(2) that would materially limit its responsibilities to the Board. As to RPC 1.9, Ms. Tobia is not and has never been a client of Schenck, Price and no argument has been made in that regard. The first prong of the substantial relationship test under RPC 1.9(a)(1) has therefore not been satisfied. See generally, Host Marriott Corp. v. Fast Food Operators, 891 F. Supp. 1002, 1010 (D.N.J. 1995).

Furthermore, and as Petitioner has argued, evening assuming > arguendo that Respondent was a member of the litigation control group, any privilege belongs to the Board and not to Ms. Tobia. That said, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1c. requires that '[t]he Arbitrator shall determine the case under the American Arbitration Association rules. In the event of a conflict between the American Arbitration Association labor arbitration rules and the procedures established pursuant to this section, the procedures established pursuant to this section shall govern.' There is no statutory or regulatory prohibition against the firm's attorneys testifying, so the AAA rules control. Rule 27 provides inter alia, that '[t]he arbitrator shall determine the admissibility, the relevance, and materiality of the evidence offered and may exclude evidence deemed by the arbitrator to be cumulative or irrelevant and conformity to legal rules of evidence shall not be necessary…'

> Accordingly, because it is not clear at this time what testimony the other attorneys for the firm will be offering, Respondent reserves the right to renew her objection to the same at hearing. That should be accomplished by a request for an Executive Session with opposing counsel and I. Following a proffer as to what the testimony will consist of, counsel for Respondent will articulate his objection. A short recess will be taken with a bench ruling then read into the record. Therefore, Respondent's motion for a blanket disqualification of all Schenck, Price attorneys who will testify at hearing is DISMISSED WITHOUT PREJUDICE at this time. IT IS SO ORDERED. [Emphasis added in originals].

Hearings in the case were thereafter convened at the Lakewood Board of Education, 200 Ramsey Avenue, Lakewood Township, New Jersey, on November 23, 2015; December 1, 2015; December 14, 2015; & December 15, 2015. At that time, counsel were afforded a full opportunity to introduce relevant and admissible documentary evidence; to engage in oral argument; and to undertake the direct and cross-examination of sequestered witnesses who testified under oath, some pursuant to a subpoena as previously indicated. A verbatim transcription of the proceedings was provided by TAYLOR & FRIEDBERG, LLC. Notice is taken that pursuant to my prior ruling on the motion, Respondent preserved a standing objection to the testimony of all associates and partners of the firm of SCHENCK, PRICE, SMITH & KING, LLC. Post-hearing briefs were undertaken in lieu of closing argument, which following receipt of the transcripts were returnable January 22, 2016. By virtue of the briefing schedule and at my request, on December 23, 2015, Ms. Duncan graciously granted an extension for the issuance of this AWARD until February 5, 2016, which is therefore timely submitted.

1. To the maximum extent appropriate, a student with a disability is educated with children who are not disabled;

2. A pupil may be handicapped/disabled within the meaning of §504, and therefore entitled to regular or special education and related aids and services under the §504 regulation, even though the pupil may not be eligible for special education and related services under Part B of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act.

No pupil will be denied, because of his/her educational handicap/disability, participation in co-curricular, intramural, or interscholastic activities or any of the services offered or recognitions rendered regularly to the pupils of this district.

V. CONTENTIONS OF THE PARTIES

Petitioner Lakewood Township Board of Education

In the case presently before the Arbitrator, the Lakewood Board of Education ("Board" or "District") has proven far beyond a preponderance of the evidence that Respondent, Helen Tobia ("Ms. Tobia" or "Respondent"), a tenured supervisor employed by the Board, has committed numerous acts of unbecoming conduct or other just cause sufficient to warrant her dismissal from her position. Testimony and voluminous documentary evidence introduced at the hearing proved that during the course of her employment with the Board, Ms. Tobia engaged in a pattern of inappropriate behavior in violation of District policies, procedure and the general standard of behavior to which certificated staff members are expected to adhere. More importantly, many of her actions were in violation of State law and regulation and had a deleterious effect on the District and its students.

In fact, Ms. Tobia's false swearing, under oath, in an affidavit submitted to the Court in a matter directly involving the District, as well as her improper and highly inappropriate directives to her staff regarding special education eligibility determinations, student placements and the use of Section 504 Plans, evidence a clear inability to carry out her duties as a supervisor or act as a role model for the District's students and the community. This is even more evident when one considers that Ms. Tobia's actions cavalierly and negatively affected the education provided to the very students who most require assistance – special education students, and resulted in increased costs to the District and its taxpayers, as well as a negative finding from the New Jersey Department of Education. Consequently, Ms. Tobia's actions mandate her dismissal.

For example, in or about July of 2013, the parents of student M.W. filed a petition for due process and request for emergent relief, seeking to have the student remain at the Special Children's Center ("SCC"), an out-of-District placement. Ms. Tobia submitted an affidavit in opposition to the petition, signed under oath, regarding the SCC's education program. Therein, she indicated that there were religious symbols and icons present in the school. The ALJ later referenced Ms. Tobia's affidavit when issuing her decision granting the parents' application.

However, the SCC is not, and has never been, a religious institution. Moreover, as the Supervisor of Pupil Personnel Services, Ms. Tobia was fully familiar with the SCC and knew that it was not a religious school. Furthermore, when giving sworn testimony in an unrelated special education matter, Ms. Tobia admitted that her affidavit in the M.W. matter was false and agreed that the SCC was a nonsectarian placement. She also admitted that she had never seen any religious symbols on the walls in the SCC and that she could not attest that the M.W. affidavit was true.

Based on well-settled case law, Ms. Tobia's decision to lie under oath, in and of itself, requires her dismissal, particularly since her false affidavit was related not only to her duties as a District employee but to specific matters involving the education of a District special education student. However, Ms. Tobia also engaged in deplorable and inappropriate behavior when she improperly and illegally directed the District's Child Study Team ("CST") to find certain students eligible or ineligible, as the case may be, for special education related services, and to discontinue the use of Section 504 plans in the District.

Although she was not a member of the CST, she also directed CST members to place students in yeshivas, including giving case managers the exact wording for insertion into said students' Individualized Education Plans ("IEPs"), despite the fact that the Department of Education had not approved such placements. Due, in part, to Ms. Tobia's actions, a complaint was filed against the District with the Office of Special Education Programs ("OSEP"). OSEP substantiated the complaint and specifically referenced Ms. Tobia's improper conduct in its findings.

As a result of its investigation, OSEP placed the District on a corrective action plan ("CAP"), and ordered that a number of students placed in yeshivas and other unapproved, unaccredited placements be reevaluated and educated in lawful, approved placements. Nevertheless, despite OSEP's findings, Ms. Tobia continued to direct staff to place students in unapproved placements and entered into so-called "parent agreements," by which the District would reimburse parents for monies paid for tuition to private schools, in an apparent effort to subvert the legal requirements for such placements. Finally, in June of 2015, Ms. Tobia refused to sign a certification in support of the District's petition for due process to block a parent's request for certain independent evaluations. Because Ms. Tobia did not sign the certification or even contact Board counsel to discuss same, counsel was unable to file the Petition and consequently, the District became legally required to provide the evaluations at its own expense.

Simply put, Ms. Tobia's actions, particularly given the extent of her admittedly improper conduct when lying under oath, her failure and outright refusal to follow applicable law and regulations governing the provision of an appropriate education to special needs students and her directives to staff regarding certain students' eligibility or ineligibility for special education, among other similar wrongdoing, demonstrate that she is patently unfit to perform the functions of a certificated supervisor in the District. Certainly, Ms. Tobia's conduct is clear evidence of her blatant disregard for the law as well as her own duties, District policies and procedures, and evidence a lack of integrity in her position. It is also noteworthy that at no point did Ms. Tobia take any responsibility for her actions, but rather, blames everyone from other staff members to the former Board attorneys for her misconduct.

Accordingly, the Board has sustained its burden of proving that Ms. Tobia has committed conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member. Furthermore, her conduct is of such an egregious nature that it is more than sufficient to warrant her dismissal from her position in the District.

PROPOSED FINDINGS OF FACTS

The following facts were gleaned through witness testimony and documentary evidence presented at the hearing, as well as from Respondent's admissions and responses as set forth in her Answer to the Charges and Answers to Interrogatories (Exhibits J-1, J-2, J-3, B-1-B7).

Ms. Tobia is a tenured employee of the Lakewood Board of Education, currently serving as the District's supervisor of Pupil Personnel Services ("PPS"). Ms. Tobia began employment in the District in or about January of 1995, becoming tenured as a District teacher approximately three (3) years later in January of 1998. Throughout her employment she has served in a number of positions, having most recently been assigned to her current position in or about July of 2013, where she has served since that time.

A. Facts in Support of Tenure Charge One (False Swearing/Lying under Oath)

In or about July of 2013, the parents of student M.W. filed a Petition for Due Process and Emergent Relief against the Board, in which they sought placement of M.W. at the SCC, in accordance with the student's IEP. Exhibit J-2, Tab 1. Ms. Joanne L. Butler, Esq., partner at the law firm Schenck, Price, Smith & King, LLP, the newly appointed Board counsel, then contacted Ms. Tobia and discussed the case for approximately thirty-five (35) minutes. Exhibit J-2, ¶7; Exhibit B-1; T. Joanne Butler ("JLB"), 33:18-19. At that time, Ms. Butler was wholly unaware of the SCC in general or whether it was a religious institution. T.JLB, 36:21-25.

During their conversation, Ms. Tobia informed Ms. Butler that the SCC was an unapproved and unaccredited school, that the New Jersey Department of Education had verbally informed the District that students could not be placed at the SCC, and that the SCC had very few, if any, certified teachers. T.34:21-25. Ms. Tobia also informed Ms. Butler that "there were religious symbols, icons, around the building, and there was writing in Hebrew on the building." T.34:25-35:5. Ms. Butler's contemporaneous notes memorializing her conversation with Ms. Tobia confirm that Ms. Tobia informed Ms. Butler that the SCC was religious in nature. Exhibit B-1.

Based upon Ms. Tobia's information, Ms. Butler then prepared a draft affidavit of facts for Ms. Tobia's signature, which was to be submitted to the Office of Administrative Law in support of the District's opposition to M.W.'s emergent relief application. Exhibit J-2, Tab 1, ¶9. The affidavit reflected Ms. Tobia's statements to Ms. Butler regarding the SCC, including that Ms. Tobia had visited the SCC and was aware of the school's staffing levels, and that there were "religious symbols and icons present in and around the building." Exhibit J-2, Tab 1, ¶10-11.

Ms. Tobia reviewed the affidavit on numerous occasions and went so far as to make multiple edits to the statements contained therein before signing the affidavit. However, at no time did Ms. Tobia modify paragraph 32 of the affidavit, which stated that the "SCC has religious symbols and icons present in and around the building." Exhibit J-2, Tab 1, Exhibits A and B. On July 12, 2013, Ms. Tobia signed the final version of the affidavit which contained paragraph 32 in its entirety, and informed Ms. Butler that it was "accurate and signed." Exhibit J-2, Tab 1, ¶16 and Exhibit C; T.JLB, 43:17-20. The affidavit was submitted to Administrative Law Judge Patricia M. Kerins, who relied upon the information contained therein when rendering her decision on the matter. In fact, Judge Kerins noted in her decision that the Board had raised the issue of whether SCC was sectarian, in an apparent reference to Ms. Tobia's affidavit. Exhibit J-2, Tab

1, Exhibit D at page 8.

At the hearing, Ms. Butler testified that Ms. Tobia told her that she had personally seen religious icons and symbols at the SCC. T.JLB, 37:4-9. Ms. Butler further testified that she believed it was important to include that information in the affidavit because it supported a possible defense to the Petition on behalf of the Board, since the District is prohibited from educating a student in an unapproved, unaccredited or religious institution. T.JLB, 35:6-21, 37:5-9. Ms. Butler also stated that Ms. Tobia never told her that any part of paragraph 32 of the affidavit, regarding the presence of religious symbols and icons at SCC, was incorrect or needed revision prior to its submission to the Court. T.JLB, 46:15-19, 51:15-19.

Nearly two (2) years later, in March of 2015, Ms. Tobia provided testimony in a matter captioned C.F. and L.F. o/b/o L.F. v. Lakewood Board of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDS 13665-14, before the Hon. John Schuster, ALJ. Exhibit J-2, Tab 5. When asked during her testimony about the affidavit she submitted in the M.W. case, Ms. Tobia admitted that the SCC was not a religious institution. Exhibit J-2, Tab 5 at 275. Ms. Tobia also admitted that she had "no idea" why there was a reference to religious icons and symbols in her prior affidavit. Id.

According to Ms. Tobia, she had "never seen any of those symbols on the walls in [the SCC]," despite having "been there several times." Id. She also testified that she "had to have missed" paragraph 32 in her original affidavit in the

M.W. matter. Id. at 277. When asked how she could have signed the M.W. affidavit and attest that it was true, Ms. Tobia simply replied, "I don't know." Id. Even after reviewing Judge Kerins' decision in the M.W. matter, Ms. Tobia made no attempt to correct the record or inform anyone that her affidavit was false. Id. at 282. Ms. Tobia also admitted during her testimony in the C.F. matter that the affidavit was "not accurate." Id. at 281.

At the hearing in this matter, Ms. Tobia alleged that the statement in her M.W. affidavit regarding the presence of religious icons and symbols at the SCC, as set forth in paragraph 32, was one that "Miss Butler and I devised and put together for the affidavit." However, she stated that she did not stand by statement set forth therein and that "anyone in the District knows there was no religious connotation with SCC. There never has been". T. Helen Tobia ("HT"), 72:24-25, 76:13-16, 25-74:2. On cross-examination, Ms. Tobia further admitted that she made revisions to the affidavit on multiple occasions but did not seek to change the wording of paragraph 32. T.HT, 75:10-77:18. Ms. Tobia also testified that she was "well aware" of the contents of her affidavit, including paragraph 32, when she signed it in July of 2013. T.HT, 79:11-12.

B. Facts in Support of Tenure Charge Two (Predetermination of Eligibility for Student D.D.)

In or about May of 2013, Ms. Chana Zentman, a school social worker/case manager employed by the District, was assigned by Ms. Tobia to serve as case manager for student D.D. Exhibit J-2, Tab 12; T. Chana Zentman ("CZ"), 7:6-17.

Ms. Tobia directed Ms. Zentman to hold an eligibility meeting for the student, during which Ms. Zentman and the rest of the CST assigned to D.D. was to review the results of D.D.'s evaluations and determine whether the student was eligible for special education or related services. T.CZ, 9:16-25. According to Ms. Zentman, such a determination must be made collaboratively by the CST, rather than by a single individual. T.CZ, 11:4-10.

Prior to the eligibility meeting taking place, and despite the fact that Ms. Tobia was not even a member of the CST, much less assigned to D.D.'s team specifically, Ms. Tobia copied Ms. Zentman on an email, dated May 29, 2013, and stated that "[Ms. Zentman] is to schedule an eligibility meeting. The student is not eligible." Exhibit J-2, Tab 12 [Emphasis supplied]. Upon receiving the email, Ms. Zentman became concerned that the student had been determined to be ineligible for special education when she had not yet reviewed the results of his evaluations. T.CZ, 14:2-4.

In the afternoon on May 29, 2013, Ms. Zentman followed up with Ms. Tobia via email, in which Ms. Zentman indicated that she had concerns with regard to Ms. Tobia's predetermination of D.D.'s eligibility. Exhibit J-2, Tab 13. Ms. Tobia replied to Ms. Zentman, again stating that "The student is not eligible and based on the assessments will not be eligible for special ed and related services." Id.

D.D.'s eligibility meeting took place on June 17, 2013, after which the student was found ineligible for special education services. Exhibit B-2, T.CZ,19:14-20:5. The student's eligibility conference report was dated June 14, 2013, which further indicated that the student's eligibility status was predetermined. Exhibit B-3.

At the hearing, Ms. Zentman testified that it was not within Ms. Tobia's purview to make such a determination regarding a student's eligibility or ineligibility for special education. T.CZ, 16:8-10. Ms. Zentman also testified that both before and after the eligibility meeting was held, she continued to express her concerns to Ms. Tobia regarding her directive to predetermine the student's ineligibility, particularly since Ms. Zentman had reviewed the student's evaluations, which, in her view, were sufficient to support the classification of the student for special education purposes. T.CZ, 16:8-17:14.

In fact, on June 6, 2013, Ms. Zentman emailed Ms. Tobia to discuss the results of D.D.'s evaluations. Exhibit B-6. Therein, Ms. Zentman informed Ms. Tobia that the evaluating doctor stated that "the student is appropriate to receive all supporting educational services possible . . . possible classification and other health impaired, emotionally disturbed would be appropriate for [the student]." Id. Ms. Zentman again expressed her concerns to Ms. Tobia regarding the student's classification status, noting that "this seems to be a strong implication to classify which concerns me if we're going to be determining ineligible." Id. Ms. Tobia continued to insist to Ms. Zentman that the student was not eligible for special education. T.CZ, 21:15-22:8.

Ms. Zentman also brought her concerns regarding Ms. Tobia's directive to find the student ineligible to Elchanan Freund, then-Supervisor of the Child Study Team. According to Mr. Freund, Ms. Zentman felt "trapped" by Ms. Tobia's directive and that the District may have been "inhibiting [D.D's] ability to receive the appropriate services," by finding him ineligible even though Ms. Zentman's review of his evaluations supported a determination that he was eligible for special education. T. Elchanan Freund ("EF"), 20:16-24. Mr. Freund also testified that he and Ms. Zentman had a telephone conference with Ms. Tobia, who again repeated her directive that "this child is not eligible." T.EF, 21:18-23. According to Mr. Freund, at the conclusion of that conversation, Ms. Zentman "had no choice but to find [D.D.] ineligible." T.EF, 22:16-25.

Ms. Zentman also testified she was so troubled that D.D.'s ineligibility had been predetermined by Ms. Tobia that she informed her union of Ms. Tobia's actions. T.CZ, 21:13-14, 22:12-3:17. Because the directive to find D.D. ineligible for special education had come from Ms. Tobia, who was Ms. Zentman's direct supervisor, the union advised Ms Zentman to follow the directive so as not to be found insubordinate. T.CZ, 22:19-23:15. Consequently, Ms. Zentman and the other members of the CST found D.D. ineligible because "we were given a directive that the student's not eligible . . . by Ms. Tobia." T.CZ, 20:15-18. After the student was determined to be ineligible, the student's parents filed a petition for due process against the District. T.CZ, 23:18-20.

Ms. Tobia later testified on behalf of the Board in the due process hearing for D.D. During her testimony in that proceeding, she admitted that D.D.'s eligibility conference report was dated prior to the date on which the eligibility meeting actually took place, and that the student's ineligibility was pre-determined. Exhibit J-2, Tab 8 at 149. In fact, when asked by D.D.'s counsel whether "you predetermined ineligibility, correct?" Ms. Tobia replied "yes." Id. at 248.

In January of 2014, six (6) months after the student's June, 2013 eligibility meeting in which he was found to be ineligible, D.D. was ultimately found eligible for special education services. T.CZ, 24:22-25. The student was classified as "multiply disabled," and placed in an out-of-District program. T.CZ, 25:1-11.

C. Facts in Support of Tenure Charges Three and Four (Placement of Various Students, Including Y.T., in Unapproved, Unaccredited Schools and/or Yeshivas/OSEP Investigation)

Beginning in the spring of 2013, the District began to receive a significant number of records requests relating to students who had been placed in private, unaccredited and/or religious schools from a local attorney, Michael Inzelbuch. T.EF, 24:1-25:5. These records requests sought a number of students' entire student file, and oftentimes were a precursor to litigation. Id. At the time the records requests were received, Ms. Tobia had complete oversight over District litigation matters involving special education students. T.EF, 11-21; Exhibit J-2, Tab 4, Affidavit of Elchanan Freund at ¶5-7.

At the time the records requests were received, Mr. Freund attended a meeting with Ms. Tobia and Laura Winters, District Superintendent, to discuss the handling of the requests and the possibility that litigation might result. T.EF, 26:2-11. At that meeting, Ms. Tobia directed Mr. Freund to hold IEP meetings for each student and to "offer these parents whatever they wanted." T.EF, 26:13-19. Ms. Tobia went on to say that if the parent sought to place their student in an unaccredited, unapproved school, the placement could be done through the student's IEP, despite the fact that such placements were illegal. T.EF, 26:20-27:8, Exhibit J-2, Tab 4 at ¶¶5 and 10.

Mr. Freund then met with each Child Study Team member to inform them that per Ms. Tobia's directive, they were to write IEPs for each student and place the students "wherever the parents wanted to send the children." T.EF, 28:20-25. In addition, during the summer and/or fall of 2013, Ms. Tobia also personally met with case managers and directed them to place students in yeshivas through the use of IEPs. T.EF, 31:13-24. At the hearing, Mr. Freund testified that such placements were improper and that the New Jersey Administrative Code does not allow students to be placed in unaccredited, unapproved schools or religious yeshivas. T.EF, 29:19-31:9.

In or about September of 2013, Ms. Tobia requested that Katherine A. Gilfillan, Esq., an attorney at SPSK, review approximately seventy (70) tuition contracts for special education students who had been placed in out of District placements at Ms. Tobia's request. T. ("KAG"), 7:10-25; Exhibit J-2, Tab 2, Affidavit of KAG at ¶3. Upon her review of the contracts, Ms. Gilfillan had a number of concerns, including that the contracts were being utilized to place children in either unaccredited, unapproved or religious placements. T.KAG, 8:10-17; Exhibit J-2, Tab 2, ¶4. However, pursuant to New Jersey law and regulation, such placements were impermissible without specific approval from the New Jersey Department of Education. Id. Accordingly, Ms. Gilfillan informed Ms. Tobia, via correspondence dated September 25, 2013, that the contracts governing the placement of students in yeshivas could not be approved. Id., Exhibit 1 to KAG Affidavit at page 3. Specifically, Ms. Gilfillan advised Ms. Tobia that without State approval, the Board "would not legally be able to enter into those agreements." T.KAG, 9:20-23.

At the hearing, Ms. Gilfillan testified that she had numerous conversations with Ms. Tobia regarding the placements of students in yeshivas and the fact that such placements were illegal. T.KAG, 10:12-11:14. Ms. Gilfillan further testified that Ms. Tobia responded that "she wanted to avoid litigation with Michael Inzelbuch at all cost. She wanted to give the parents what they wanted. That would include putting these students at private religious placements." T.KAG, 11:20-25. Nevertheless, Ms. Tobia failed to heed Ms. Gilfillan's advice and took no steps to discourage the placement of students in yeshivas. T.KAG, 13:1-5; Exhibit J-2 at Tab 2, ¶6-7.

Thereafter, in or about January of 2014, a complaint investigation regarding the District's practice of placing students in yeshivas was filed by Mr. Inzelbuch with the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs ("OSEP"). In the complaint, Mr. Inzelbuch raised an issue regarding the District's actions to place student Y.T. in Yeshiva Tiferes Torah ("YTT"), an unapproved, unaccredited yeshiva, for the 2013-2014 school year. Exhibit J-2, Tab 14.

During the 2012-2013 school year, Y.T., a then-six-year-old student classified as eligible for special education, attended the School for Children with Hidden Intelligence ("SCHI") via an IEP issued by the District. SCHI was an approved, accredited school for the disabled. T. Gila Nussbaum ("GN"), 8:22-9:2. In or about January of 2013, the student's case manager, Gila Nussbaum, began the process of reevaluating the student for the upcoming 2013-2014 school year. T.GN, 10:9-22. The student's father informed her that he wanted Y.T. to attend YTT as a public school student through an IEP, so that the student would receive an aide and other additional related services that he would not receive if he enrolled in YTT as a private school student subject to a service plan. T.GN, 11:7-18, 8:14-17. The student's father also told Ms. Nussbaum that he had spoken to Ms. Tobia and they had already reached an agreement to place Y.T. in YTT as a public school student for the 2013-2014 school year. T.GN, 14:2-7. Ms. Nussbaum and the CST then arranged for Y.T. to attend YTT pursuant to an IEP. T.GN, 14:22-15:4.

Ms. Nussbaum also sent a letter to the student's parents, dated April 8, 2013, which stated that the student was to attend YTT "full time as a public school student, as per the director of Pupil Personnel Services." T.GN, 20:10-14;

Exhibit B-4. According to Ms. Nussbaum, "Ms. Tobia did give me a directive that [Y.T.] was to be placed at YTT as a public school student, and that's why I did go ahead and include that in the IEP." T.GN, 20:20-22. Ms. Nussbaum also testified that she never completed a Naples application for Y.T.'s placement and did not receive State approval to place the student there. T.GN, 21:1-11. On April 6, 2013, Ms. Tobia emailed Ms. Nussbaum and informed her again that Y.T. was to be a public school student while attending YTT, and that the District would enter into a parent agreement with Y.T.'s parents, by which the parents would be reimbursed for costs related to Y.T.'s education, rather than the school itself. Exhibit R-1.

In or about March of 2014, OSEP substantiated the complaint and placed the District on a Corrective Action Plan ("CAP"). Exhibit J-2 at Tab 14. In its initial report, OSEP found that that Ms. Tobia had "issued a directive to the IEP team that the team should write an IEP placing the student at [YTT]," an unapproved, unaccredited yeshiva. Exhibit J-2, Tab 14 at ¶7. OSEP further found that the District had failed to follow procedures to place the student in an unapproved placement. Exhibit J-2, Tab 2 at ¶8. The CAP required the District to submit a list of all students who were being educated in unapproved placements, along with supporting documentation evidencing the approval of any of the placements by either the State or an Administrative Law Judge. Id. at ¶10; Exhibit J-2, Tabs 14 and 15.

Ms. Gilfillan responded to the initial CAP on behalf of the District. T.KAG, 15:4-11, Exhibit J-2, Tab 2, ¶10. Ms. Gilfillan also requested that Ms. Tobia provide her with any approval forms for the placements. Id. While Ms. Tobia initially provided some documentation to Ms. Gilfillan, she was unable to provide any evidence to support the approval of the out-of-district placements. Id. at ¶11, T.KAG, 15:16-16:5.

In or about August of 2014, OSEP issued a supplemental CAP which required the District to hold IEP meetings for those students who had been placed in yeshivas or other unapproved, unaccredited schools. T.KAG, 16:25-17:4. OSEP further directed the District to rewrite the students' IEPs to offer an approved placement for them. Id., Exhibit J-2, Tab 2 at ¶12.

However, after the IEP meetings were held, a large number of the parents of the affected students, if not all of them, filed requests for mediation or petitions for due process, seeking to maintain the students' placements in the yeshivas. Exhibit J-2, Tab 2 at ¶13. In defending these actions and the initial CAP, the District incurred "tens of thousands of dollars" in costs, to be paid for by taxpayer funds. T.KAG, 13:9-21. A large number of administrative time and work hours were also required to not only respond to the CAP, but to schedule and hold IEP meetings and staff briefings. T.EF, 45:14-46:7; Exhibit J-2, Tab 4 at ¶12. In addition, the District's State-provided funding for special education programs was placed at risk due to the State's findings. T.KAG, 13:18-21.

D. Facts in Support of Tenure Charges Five and Six (Improper Actions With Regard to Students S.S., Y.S. and M.W.)

In response to OSEP's directive to hold IEP meetings for students who had previously been placed in unapproved yeshivas, the District convened an IEP meeting for student Y.S. on September 15, 2014 T.EF, 50:25-51:3. At the conclusion of the IEP meeting, the CST recommended that the student be removed from the yeshiva and placed in the District's Clifton Avenue Elementary School. T.EF, 51:21-25. Ms. Tobia, along with Mr. Freund, then met with the student's parents and their education advocate, Rabbi Eisemann. T.EF, 52:3-9.

During the meeting, Ms. Tobia advised Rabbi Eisemann and the student's family to file for mediation or due process in order to allow the student to continue in his yeshiva placement under "stay put." T.EF, 53:24-54:5. Mediation is a process by which parents request a meeting with the District, facilitated by a State-employed mediator, in order to discuss a student's education plan or proposed placement and attempt to reach a resolution of the matter prior to filing a formal petition for due process with the Office of Administrative Law. T.EF, 55:10-17. Once mediation is filed, the student must "stay put" in his or her current placement while the mediation process is ongoing. T.KAG, 18:5-11, T.EF, 59:9-14. Mr. Freund testified that Ms. Tobia advised the parents of their option to filing for mediation or due process in order to "get around" the implementation of the proposed placement. T.EF, 54:12-22, 59:9-14.

Thereafter, in or about October of 2014, the student's parents heeded Ms. Tobia's advice and filed a request for mediation for Y.S., as well as a separate request for his brother, S.S. However, the mediation was never held and the Department of Education closed the files for both students. T.KAG, 17:5-9; T.EF, 55:3-21. Because the mediations were not held, the proposed placements for the students, which included removing them from their yeshivas and educating them in-District, should have gone into effect by operation of law. T.KAG, 18:12-16, T.EF, 56:1-4.

Via email dated November 11, 2014, Ms. Gilfillan informed Ms. Tobia that the mediations were closed. Exhibit J-2, Tab 2 at Exhibit 6. Therein, Ms. Gilfillan also told Ms. Tobia that "stay put no longer applies and these students should be transitioned to their new placement if, in fact, that was what was proposed for them." Id. However, Ms. Tobia disregarded Ms. Gilfillan's advice and took no steps to implement the new placements for either Y.S. or S.S. T.KAG, 20:1-2. Moreover, the District continued to pay all costs associated with the placements of Y.S. and S.S. in their yeshivas, in direct contravention to OSEP's directive and CAP. T. KAG, 20:3-7, T.E.F., 56:15-19.

Similarly, in response to the CAP issued by OSEP, the District convened an IEP meeting in October of 2014 for student M.W. who had, like S.S. and Y.S., been placed in a yeshiva. T.EF, 57:8-15. At the conclusion of the IEP meeting, the CST determined that the student could be educated in the District's Clifton Avenue School. T.EF, 58:2-11. Ms. Tobia and Mr. Freund then attended a meeting with the advocate retained by M.W.'s family, Rabbi Eisemann, to discuss the newly recommended placement. T.EF, 58:21-59:2.

As she did with S.S. and Y.S., during the meeting to discuss M.W.'s placement, Ms. Tobia again advised the family's advocate to file for mediation or due process in order to prolong the student's placement in his yeshiva. T.EF 59:9-14. By doing so, the District would remain legally obligated to pay for the student's attendance in his unapproved, unaccredited private school. Id. M.W.'s family did, in fact, file a request for mediation subsequent to Ms. Tobia's meeting with Rabbi Eisemann. T. Alison L. Kenny, Esq. ("ALK"), 7:14-20.

E. Facts in Support of Tenure Charges Seven and Eight (Improper Actions During Mediation Sessions)

On December 29, 2014, Ms. Kenny, along with Ms. Tobia, represented the Board of Education at scheduled mediation sessions for students M.W. and Y.S. Almost immediately at the start of the mediation, Ms. Tobia informed the parents and the State mediator that the placements proposed by the CST for the students were "completely inappropriate." T.ALK, 8:14-17; Exhibit J-2, Tab 4, Affidavit of Alison L. Kenny, at ¶2-3. Instead, Ms. Tobia, on her own, contrary to OSEP's directives and without CST input, agreed to continue each student in their sectarian placements. T.ALK, 9:11-18; Exhibit J-2, Tab 4 at ¶4.

Ms. Kenny advised Ms. Tobia not to enter into any agreement to that effect, because "there was a corrective action plan issued by the State stating that . . . the District was required to remove all students from sectarian placements." T.ALK, 10:2-6; Exhibit J-2, Tab 4 at ¶4, Tab 2 at ¶17. Specifically, Ms. Kenny testified that the agreements were "against the corrective action plan and that [she] recommended against signing it." T.ALK, 35:11-13.

Ms. Kenny also testified that the mediator was unable to memorialize Ms. Tobia's agreements with the students' parents in writing because the agreement reached between Ms. Tobia and the students' parents was a continuation of an illegal placement. T.ALK, 11:9-22. Ms. Kenny further stated that she was "quite surprised" that Ms. Tobia expressed a viewpoint contrary to the District's official position, particularly since doing so had the potential to compromise the District's position in future litigation and because Ms. Tobia lacked the individual authority to make such a statement or enter into an agreement to maintain the students' placements in their yeshivas. T.ALK, 8:23-9:4; Exhibit J-2, Tab 4 at ¶4.

Furthermore, Ms. Kenny testified that Ms. Tobia's personal feeling on whether the proposed in-District programs for the student were "of no moment, because it is the IEP team that determines the appropriateness of the student's program and placement." T.ALK, 38:12-21. Nevertheless, Ms. Kenny was unprepared for Ms. Tobia's actions during the mediation, as she testified that prior to the start of the mediation session, she had met with Ms. Tobia in preparation for the meetings and "at no time during that discussion did Ms. Tobia opine that the proposed placement in the IEP was inappropriate." T.ALK, 31:24-32:1.

On January 2, 2015, Ms. Gilfillan emailed Ms. Tobia to again inform her that the agreements regarding Y.S. and M.W. were improper. Exhibit J-2, Tab 2, Exhibit 7. Therein, Ms. Gilfillan stated that "these agreements could be seen as having circumvented the State's directive that these students be placed in approved and accredited placements." Id. In closing, Ms. Gilfillan unequivocally stated that "the District must find appropriate, approved placements for these students in very short order." With regard to Ms. Tobia's actions at the mediation sessions when announcing her personal disapproval of the in-District placements proposed for the students, Ms. Gilfillan told Ms. Tobia that while she may have had some concerns in that regard, "stating as much in front of the parents ensures that we will be unsuccessful at due process," further memorializing the potentially devastating effect that Ms. Tobia's actions had on the District's position in future litigation. Id.

On or about March 9, 2015, Ms. Gilfillan, along with Ms. Tobia, attended mediation for student S.S. As she did with Y.S. and M.W., Ms. Tobia informed Ms. Gilfillan that the program proposed for S.S. was wholly inappropriate for him, despite not having been a member of S.S.'s CST. T.KAG, 24:3-12. Ms. Gilfillan and Ms. Tobia then spoke with the student's case manager, Shana Shiffrin, who stated that the proposed placement was appropriate, that the student had been accepted into the program. T.KAG, 25:6-17, Exhibit J-2, Tab 2 at ¶20. At the mediation, which was attended by the student's parents and their advocate, Rabbi Eiesmann, it was requested by the parents that the student remain in his yeshiva. T.KAG, 26:6-9. Ms. Gilfillan responded that such a placement was improper and that the District could not legally continue the placement as requested. T.KAG, 26:16-17. The parents then replied that Ms. Tobia had already agreed to continue the placement for S.S.'s brother, Y.S., and were therefore surprised and angry that the same agreement could not be reached for S.S. T.KAG, 27:4-12.

At that point, the mediator suggested that he, Ms. Tobia and Ms. Gilfillan leave the room so that S.S.'s mother had the opportunity to privately with her advocate. Exhibit J-2, Tab 2 at ¶21; T.KAG, 28:22-25. Ms. Tobia refused to heed the mediator's request. Id. When the mediator requested that Ms. Gilfillan again ask Ms. Tobia to leave the room and to "get control of [her] client, Ms. Tobia responded by shutting the door in Ms. Gilfillan's face. T.KAG, 29:8-13; Tab 2 at ¶22. Ms. Tobia then engaged in a private conversation with S.S.'s parent and Rabbi Eisman for approximately ten (10) minutes before allowing Ms. Gilfillan and the mediator to return to the room. Id. The matter did not settle at the mediation, and is currently pending before the Office of Administrative Law as a due process proceeding. Tab 2 at ¶22.

At the hearing, Ms. Gilfillan testified that it was her belief that during those conversations and mediations, Ms. Tobia provided advice to the parents and their advocate, as evidenced by the manner in which they were comporting themselves as if a decision had already been made. T.KAG, 32:4-12. Ms. Gilfillan memorialized her concerns regarding Ms. Tobia's actions during the mediation session in an email to Michael Azzara, State Monitor, dated March 10, 2015. Exhibit J-2, Tab 2, Exhibit 9.

Six months later, on June 1, 2015 Ms. Kenny emailed Ms. Tobia to inquire about the students' placements and again inform her IEPs must be developed to offer an approved or non-sectarian, accredited school. Exhibit J-2, Tab 2, Exhibit 8. Ms. Kenny further opined that "the District cannot begin the 2015-2016 [school year] with the students in the current sectarian placements." Id. Ms. Tobia replied that as of the date of the email, June 2, 2015, the students remained in their current, sectarian placements. In addition, the Department of Education reached out to Mr. Azzara to express its disapproval that the District was continuing to allow students to remain in the yeshivas instead of placing these students in approved placements as required by the CAP issued by OSEP. T. Michael Azzara ("MA"), 64:22-25.

F. Facts in Support of Tenure Charge Nine (Discontinuance of Section 504 Plans)

Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 requires that eligible students with disabilities receive the necessary accommodations and modifications to their educational program to ensure that these students have access to their education on the same level as their non-disabled peers. T. Adina Weisz ("AW"), 9:14-22. Students eligible for such services are provided with a Section 504 Plan, which sets forth the parameters for the implementation of any accommodations that the student needs. In general, Section 504 Plans are issued to students with physical disabilities. Students with cognitive disabilities, on the other hand, would normally be classified as eligible for special education. T.AW, 10:6-12.

During the 2012-2013 school year, Ms. Tobia, as part of her duties as Supervisor of Pupil Personnel, oversaw the Section 504 and IEP process. T.AW, 8:13-15. In that capacity, in or about April of 2013, Ms. Tobia issued a directive to all staff to discontinue the use of new Section 504 plans in the District, as she felt that too many students were being provided with Section 504 Plans. T.EF, 60:10-22; T.AW, 9:2-4; T. Jennifer Kaznowski ("JK"), 24:4-7.

Ms. Adina Weisz currently serves as the District's supervisor of Related Services and IDEA Coordinator. As part of her responsibilities, Ms. Weisz implements occupational, physical and speech therapy services pursuant to students' Section 504 Plans. On May 17, 2013, Ms. Weisz emailed Mr. Freund, with a copy to Ms. Tobia, and asked for guidance regarding the implementation of occupational therapy services to a student pursuant to the student's 504 Plan. Exhibit J-2, Tab 9. Ms. Weisz was concerned because although Ms. Tobia had directed staff to discontinue the use of Section 504 Plans, the 504 Plan at issue was already signed by the parties and consequently, the District was legally required to implement the services set forth therein. T.AW, 13:16-24, 28:25-29:4.

One week later, on May 24, 2013, Ms. Weisz again emailed Mr. Freund for guidance and copied Ms. Tobia on that email. Id. Ms. Tobia responded to Ms. Weisz's request and simply informed her to "throw it out," in reference to the student's Section 504 Plan. Id. Although Ms. Weisz did not destroy the Section 504 Plan, she did not implement the services required by the plan, based on Ms. Tobia's email. T.AW, 15:14-15.

In August of 2013, Ms. Weisz emailed Ms. Tobia and asked her to "please advise if we will be servicing students for occupational therapy under a 504 plan for [the 2013-2014 school] year, as there were concerns last year." Exhibit J-2, Tab 9. Via email dated August 26, 2013, Ms. Tobia informed Ms. Weisz that rather than implement Section 504 Plans, the staff was to instead refer all children, regardless of need, to the CST for evaluation to determine whether the students were eligible for special education. Id. When Ms. Weisz again asked Ms. Tobia if she meant that "all new and existing 504 request (sic) should be referred to CST and not provided an evaluation or therapy through a 504," Ms. Tobia replied "yes" in the affirmative. Id.

Ms. Weisz testified at the hearing that she had numerous concerns with Ms. Tobia's directives, in that many students who required Section 504 Plans did not also require special education. T.AW, 17:8-15. Furthermore, on or about November, 20, 2013, a number of staff approached Ms. Gilfillan during a training session, informed Ms. Gilfillan that Ms. Tobia had given a directive not to utilize Section 504 plans and inquired as to whether that directive was legal. T.KAG, 33:16-23, 36:1-4; Exhibit J-2, Tab 2 at ¶¶23-24. Ms. Gilfillan replied that such an action was impermissible, and that "the District has an affirmative obligation to provide students who do not qualify for IDEA with services, including evaluations, through a 504 Plan." T.KAG, 34:1-4.

As a result of Ms. Tobia's directive, there was a substantial drop off in the number of Section 504 plans for students with occupational and physical therapy needs from the 2012-2013 school year, when approximately thirty-six (36) students were serviced pursuant to their individual plans, to the following 2013-2014 school year, when zero students whatsoever were serviced. T.AW, 18:10-18; T.JK, 38:18-34. According to one member of the CST, Jennifer Kaznowski, there was "absolutely" an increase in referrals to the CST due to the elimination of Section 504 Plans in the District. T.JK, 26:9-11.

In addition, Ms. Gilfillan met with Ms. Tobia, Mr. Freund and Ms. Winters after the November 20, 2013 training session and advised that the District was legally prevented from discontinuing 504 Plans. Exhibit J-2, Tab 2 at ¶24. However, Ms. Tobia did not retract her prior directive or issue additional clarification of same. Id. When asked on cross-examination to explain her reasoning for directing Ms. Weisz to throw out a student's Section 504 Plan or to discontinue the use of 504 Plans generally, Ms. Tobia had no answer. T.HT, 109:3-10.

G. Facts in Support of Tenure Charge Ten (Private Agreements for Out-of-District Placements)

Pursuant to the so-called Naples Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:46-14, the District must submit an application for approval to the New Jersey Department of Education prior to placing a student in an accredited, but unapproved, out-of-District school. The student may not legally be placed in the proposed school absent the Department of Education's approval. Nevertheless, during the 2013-2014 school year, Ms. Tobia instructed District staff to place students in non-approved schools without State approval through the use of independent parent agreements.

For example, at the hearing, school social worker Jennifer Kaznowski testified that she was the case manager for student R.M. during the 2012-2013 school year. At that time, R.M. was a five year old student attending an out-of-District placement at SCHI. T.JK, 7:10-16. In May of 2013, the CST held an eligibility meeting for R.M. and determined that he no longer required an out-of-District placement. T.JK, 8:19-21. The CST instead believed that an in-District, in-class resource program was more appropriate for the student. T.JK, 9:2-7. However, because the student required a climate-controlled environment, the District could not meet the student's needs and Ms. Kaznowski began to inquire whether other public school districts had the capacity to educate the student. T.JK, 10:8-15. In response, the student's mother raised the possibility of the student attending Orchos Chaim, a private, unapproved, unaccredited yeshiva, and informed Ms. Kaznowski that she would prefer that the student attend the yeshiva rather than a public school. T.JK, 10:16-11:3.

Ms. Kaznowski testified that it was her understanding that Ms. Tobia had engaged in private discussions with Rabbi Mandelbaum, Head Rabbi at Orchos Chaim, regarding the placement of the student at the school. Consequently, on May 13, 2013, Ms. Kaznowski emailed Ms. Tobia and sought guidance on placing the student at the school. Exhibit J-2, Tab 10; T.JK, 11:15-17. Therein, Ms. Kaznowksi informed Ms. Tobia that the District had not received a Naples approval for the placement from the Department of Education. Id. Ms. Tobia responded that an acceptance letter from the school was required before the student could be placed there, but then directed Ms. Kaznowski to "not hold up the meeting. If the Naples process is not completed by the school, we will do a parent agreement to place the student. Parent will be reimbursed on a monthly basis for tuition." Id.

According to Ms. Kaznowski, the process for entering into a parent agreement of this type was for Ms. Tobia to meet with the student's parents and "come up with an agreement that their child can attend Orchos Chaim, and will work it out between the school, the parent and [the District]." T.JK, 15:5-8. Thereafter, on June 6, 2013, Ms. Kaznowski again emailed Ms. Tobia seeking guidance regarding student R.M. and the fact that he was leaving SCHI prior to the 2013-2014 school year. Ms. Tobia replied that "all IEPs must state an approved placement as recommended by the IEP team." Exhibit J-2, Tab 11. However, Ms. Tobia continued to state that "for existing students who were already placed in other programs, the parents will most probably reject placement. At that point I will meet with the parents to reach an agreement." Id.

Ms. Kaznowski testified that the student's mother also informed her that Ms. Tobia met with the parent on August 6, 2013. When asked what the substance of the meeting was, Ms. Kaznowski replied that it was "to do the parent agreement so that their child can be placed at Orchos Chaim." T.JK, 20:14-15.

During the 2014-2015 school year, Ms. Kaznowski also served as case manager for student R.J. T.JK, 20:18-24. In August of 2015, R.J.'s parents requested that the student be placed in a nonpublic yeshiva. T.JK, 21:7-14. Ms. Kaznowski, along with Ms. Tobia, met with the parents to discuss the request. At the meeting, Ms. Tobia informed the parent of additional documentation which would substantiate a placement at the yeshiva, and that if the documentation was provided, the student would be placed via an IEP at the school. T.JK, 22:13-25. Ultimately, the documentation was provided, and R.J. was placed at the Bais Faiga yeshiva pursuant to an IEP. T.JK, 23:2-19.

In addition, on various occasions, Ms. Tobia met privately with Rabbis and other principals at various yeshivas to discuss whether students could be placed in those schools. At the conclusion of the meetings, Ms. Tobia then directed students' case managers to modify certain IEPs and place the students into the yeshivas, contrary to the CAP issued by OSEP.

On March 23, 2015, Ms. Rosemarie Frazer, former secretary to Ms. Tobia, testified under oath in the "C.F." matter before the Hon. John Schuster, III, ALJ, in the Office of Administrative Law. Ms. Frazer stated that she was present in many of these meetings between Ms. Tobia and the Rabbis, and that agreements were reached to change the students' placements to yeshivas.

Specifically, Ms. Frazer testified as follows:

> Q So even though we may not always see Helen Tobia's signature, it is your testimony, as her executive secretary, that any child that went out of district, the Shared Services, the rationale, the notice of placement, the IEP, the supporting documentation, for sure, was observed and reviewed and put for Helen's review?
>
> A That's correct.
>
> Q And you're certain on that?
>
> A I am certain.
>
> Q Okay. Now we heard testimony that there were certain students who were not recommended for Yeshiva's, like case managers, and then Helen would meet with maybe Yankie Mandelbaum, Rabbi Mandelbaum, you know Rabbi Mandelbaum, yes?
>
> A Yes, I do.
>
> Q And would meet with others and they would have a meeting with Helen and then we heard testimony and we know from parents that magically, almost, the placement, whether it be wherever it was, an approved placement or accredited place was then changed to a Yeshiva; are you aware of that?
>
> Q Ms. Frazer, I'll let you testify without asking -- I asked you if you're aware, and you said "yes," and I appreciate your honesty, as does the court, that there were cases you know of where case managers were directed [by Tobia] to change the placements to Yeshivas, correct?
>
> A Correct.
>
> A For the most part the -- what I recall is that Helen [Tobia] and the Rabbis would be speaking about how they could accommodate the student.

Q Oh, good, okay.

A And –

Q What happened next? The IEP was changed to Yeshiva.

A Yes.

Exhibit J-2, Tab 6.

At the hearing, Ms. Tobia did not refute or address these allegations.

H. Facts in Support of Tenure Charge Eleven (Failure to Sign Certification in Support of Due Process Petition)

In April of 2015, Ms. Kenny was assigned to represent the Board in a special education matter involving student J.Q. T.ALK, 13:14-18. In May of that year, Ms. Kenny received documentation from the parents' attorney purporting to show that a request for pre-classification evaluations of the student was sent to Ms. Tobia's attention on April 15, 2015. T.ALK, 14:1-4.

On June 1, 2015, Ms. Kenny emailed Ms. Tobia to inquire whether she had ever received the request for evaluations. Exhibit J-2, Tab 3 at Exhibit 2. Ms. Tobia replied that she had been out of the office on April 15th, but would inquire with her staff to determine if anyone else had received it. Id. at ¶6. Having received no answer from Ms. Tobia, Ms. Kenny followed-up with her via email on June 9, 2015. Id. at ¶7. It was determined that the parents' request had been sent to an unused facsimile machine and therefore had not been received by the District. Id.

The District decided to file for due process in order to deny the request for evaluations. T.ALK, 16:3-23. The petition for due process must be filed within fifteen (15) days of the date on which the request for those evaluations was received. Id. In support of the petition, and because the original request was purportedly sent directly to Ms. Tobia, Ms. Kenny drafted a certification for Ms. Tobia's signature in order to address the late receipt of the request. Exhibit J-2, Tab 3 at ¶8. According to Ms. Kenny, a certification from Ms. Tobia was "absolutely necessary to explain the discrepancy that the letter from the parents was dated April 15th and we would not be filing [the due process petition] until early June." T.ALK, 19:20-24. The certification was provided to Ms. Tobia for review on June 16, 2015. Exhibit J-2, Tab 3 at Exhibit 2.

Ms. Tobia responded to Ms. Kenny and informed her that she would not certify to the facts in the certification as she was not familiar with the facts relating to the parents' initial request for evaluations. Id. at Exhibit 3, T.ALK, 21:1-5. However, Ms. Kenny simply required Ms. Tobia to certify that she had not received the initial request for evaluations, rather than to any specific facts related to the child's education or potential classification. T.ALK, 21:8-17. Ms. Kenny then forwarded a revised certification to Ms. Tobia which further narrowed the facts to which Ms. Tobia was to certify and focused solely on whether she had received the initial request for evaluations. T.ALK, 21:23-22:9; Exhibit B-7. Ms. Tobia did not otherwise respond to Ms. Kenny's requests for clarification or return a revised certification to her. Exhibit J-2 at Tab 3, ¶9.

Because Ms. Tobia did not reply to Ms. Kenny's requests for clarification, and would not certify that she had not received the request for evaluations, Ms. Kenny was unable to file the petition to deny the evaluations on behalf of the District. T.ALK, 22:23-24. Consequently, the District became legally obligated to provide, at District expense, all of the independent evaluations that had been requested by J.Q.'s parents, notwithstanding the District's initial position that the evaluations need not be offered to the student. T.ALK, 23:1-3; Exhibit J-2 at Tab 3, ¶10 and Exhibit 4. According to Ms. Kenny, such evaluations would typically cost upwards of $5,000.00 to $10,000.00. T.ALK, 23:13-14.

I. Facts in Support of Tenure Charges Twelve, Thirteen, Fourteen, Fifteen, Sixteen and Seventeen (Violation of Board Policies and Procedures)

i. District Job Description

In a September 20, 2006 memorandum to Ms. Tobia from then-Assistant Superintendent W.T. Anderson, Mr. Anderson set forth the expectations of the Board of Education with respect to the job duties of the position of Supervisor of Pupil Personnel Services. Pursuant to the memorandum, the Supervisor of Pupil Personnel Services was expected to, among many other things, satisfy the following minimum requirements:

a) Coordinates, assigns, supervises and evaluates all Child Study Team Members;

b) Ensures that Child Study Team members (e.g., school social workers, psychologists and learning disabilities teacher consultants) are informed of the requirements and regulations for disability identification.

c) Coordinates instructional services provided to identified students with disabilities with the Supervisors of Special Education and Relates Services;

d) Supervises the eligibility determination of all students referred for special education;

e) Supervises and coordinates IEP procedures to ensure that student evaluations are up-to-date, accurate and thorough, and that teachers have copies of their students' IEPs to facilitate appropriate services and instruction;

f) Works with building administrators, the supervisor of special education, the supervisor of related services and child study team members to ensure appropriate services for identified students;

g) Completes all required state and federal reports accurately and on-time;

h) Maintains compliance with federal and state special education regulations;

i) Works with CST members to help special education students and their parents cope with transitions from one school to another; and

j) Develops and maintains compliance programs to meet legal requirements concerning students' rights to privacy and due process of law in accordance to applicable laws and regulations.

Exhibit J-2, Tab 22.

Ms. Tobia's actions, as set forth above, including her failure to adhere to various laws and regulations, her failure to comply with directives issued by OSEP, her improper directives to CST members and her involvement in, and handling of, student eligibility for special education and Section 504 Plan implementation, all fall far short of these requirements and did not satisfy the high expectations for a District' supervisor as set forth therein.

ii. Board Policy #1510

Board Policy #1510, "Rights of Persons with Handicaps or Disabilities Policy on Non-Discrimination," provides, in pertinent part, that:

> The Board has an affirmative obligation to evaluate a pupil who is suspected of having a handicap/disability to determine the pupil's need for special education and related services.
> . . .
> Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act requires the Board to address the needs of children who are considered handicapped/disabled under §504 and do not qualify for services under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act. A pupil may be handicapped/disabled within the meaning of §504 and therefore entitled to regular or special education and related aids and services under the §504 regulation, even though the pupil may not be eligible for special education and related services under Part B of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act.
> The Board shall not interfere, directly or indirectly, with any person's exercise or enjoyment of the rights protected by the §504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the Americans with Disabilities Act of 19990, the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act or Title IX.
> Exhibit J-2, Tab 16.

At the hearing, State Monitor Azzara testified that Ms. Tobia's actions when directing staff not to implement Section 504 Plans for students who required them, predetermining eligibility for certain students and directing staff to find students not eligible for special education, were in violation of Policy #1510. T.MA, 41:14-43:24. Specifically, Mr. Azzara noted that the policy at issue provided both that certain students may be eligible for Section 504 Plans even if not eligible for special education, and that the Board has an obligation to evaluate any student to determine whether special education services are necessary. Mr. Azzara then stated that by directing that certain students should not receive Section 504 Plans or should not be given special education subject to an IEP, Ms. Tobia violated the policy. T.MA, 43:19-44:17.

Moreover, as set forth at length supra, as well as by testimony provided by District administrators, case managers and the Board's own attorneys and the documents in evidence, Ms. Tobia, by her actions, violated Policy 1510.

iii. Board Policy #2460

Policy #2460, entitled "Special Education, sets forth the responsibilities of the District and its employees with regard to the identification, treatment and education of students eligible for special education. Pursuant to this Policy, the District must ensure that "all pupils with disabilities, who are in need of special education services, including pupils with disabilities attending nonpublic schools, regardless of the severity of their disabilities, are located, identified and evaluated according to N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.3. Exhibit J-2, Tab 17. In addition, the policy requires that IEPs be "developed, reviewed and revised as appropriate" in accordance with State regulation, and that, to the extent possible, "pupils with disabilities are educated in the least restrictive environment." Id.

By her actions, Ms. Tobia violated this policy. As set forth supra, at the hearing, the District's case managers, Ms. Kaznowksi, Ms. Nussbaum and Ms. Zentman, each testified that Ms. Tobia had directed them to find students eligible or ineligible for special education, notwithstanding the fact that Ms. Tobia was not a member of the CST or that evaluations of each student appeared to support the opposite outcomes.

Furthermore, Mr. Freund testified that the District is required to educate each student in the "least restrictive" environment possible, which would normally constitute placement in a general education classroom with supports and modifications. T.EF, 48:8-13. Ms. Tobia's actions in directing students be placed in yeshivas contrary to the recommendations of the CST, and her negotiation of parent agreements to accomplish this goal in an apparent attempt to circumvent the law, further demonstrates her disregard for this requirement. See, generally, Testimony of Rosemarie Frazer, Exhibit J-2 at Tab 6; CAP issued by OSEP, Exhibit J-2 at Tab 14; Hearing Testimony of Jennifer Kaznowski, Katherine A. Gilfillan, Esq., Adina Weisz and Eli Freund. Similarly, Ms. Tobia's directive to Ms. Zentman that student D.D. be found ineligible for special education services, prior to reviewing any of the student's evaluations, is contrary to law and regulation, and fails to ensure that the student be evaluated pursuant to State regulation, as required by Policy #2460.

Mr. Azzara also testified at the hearing that Ms. Tobia's actions contravened Policy #2460, particularly with respect to the fact that she predetermined that a student was not eligible for special education and directed that students should not receive Section 504 Plans when they may have been legally entitled to receive same. T.MA, 45:9-12. According to Mr. Azzara, Ms. Tobia's actions were "noncompliant" with this Policy. T.MA, 45:11-12.

District Regulation #2460.1, entitled "Special Education – Location, Identification and Referral," provides, in pertinent part, that "the Director of Pupil Personnel Services will coordinate the child find activities to locate, identify and evaluate all children, ages three through twenty-one, who reside within the school district or attend nonpublic schools within the school district and who may be disabled." Exhibit J-2, Tab 19.

As set forth supra, Ms. Tobia was not a member of the CST. Nevertheless, she directed that certain students be found ineligible for special education services and that other students should attend specific yeshivas after reaching agreements with the students' parents. Rather than coordinate the location and identification of these children to determine whether the students are disabled or whether it is appropriate to educate them in out-of-district placements, Ms. Tobia unilaterally made these decisions without the necessary input from the CST or an in-depth review of the student's evaluations or individual needs, contrary to the requirements of Regulation #2460.1. See, Exhibit J-2, Tabs 2, 4, 6, 11, 14 and 15. In fact, while providing sworn testimony in another matter, Ms. Tobia admitted to predetermining eligibility for at least one student, D.D. Exhibit J-2, Tab 5.

Mr. Azzara further testified that that it was his understanding that Regulation 2460.1 concerned the District's obligations to identify students with [special] needs and that the Regulation requires the District to "locate, identify and evaluate children. Not to predetermine that they're not eligible." T.MA, 45:21-46:8.

v. Board Regulation #2460.8

District Regulation 2460.8 entitled "Special Education – Free and Appropriate Public Education," mandates, in pertinent part, that "a free and appropriate public education is available to all pupils with disabilities between the ages of three and twenty-one . . ." Exhibit J-2, Tab 20.

The Regulation further provides that referrals of preschool age children are processed in accordance with the requirements set forth in law, and that for special education pupils advancing from grade to grade, "the Director of Pupil Personnel Services . . . shall ensure pupils with disabilities who are advancing from grade to grade with the support of specially designed services continue to be eligible when as part of a reevaluation, the IEP Team determines the pupil continues to require specially designed services to progress in the general education curriculum and the use of functional assessment information supports the IEP Teams determination." Id.

At the hearing, Mr. Azzara testified that Ms. Tobia's actions with regard to the SCC constituted a violation of this Regulation. According to Mr. Azzara, when he was first appointed by the Commissioner of Education to serve as the District Monitor in 2014, the SCC had been approved by the Department of Human Services as a child care provider. T.MA, 11:21-12:3. Because the school was not approved by the Department of Education, the District was permitted to place classified preschool students in the program only if the students attended inclusion classes with their nondisabled peer. A number of District preschool students had been placed at the SCC pursuant to their IEPs with this understanding. T.MA, 13:3-14. However, upon visiting the school, Mr. Azzara found that all of the classes were self-contained special education classes, rather than inclusion classes. T.MA, 13:12-14. Ms. Tobia informed Mr. Azzara that she was unaware of that fact. Id.

Mr. Azzara also testified that Ms. Tobia had negative feelings towards the SCC in general. For example, the SCC was also in the process of obtaining State approval as a private school for the disabled so that it could educate a greater number of students without the requirement that disabled students only be placed in inclusion classes. T.MA, 11:21-12:3. The SCC requested that the District complete a needs assessment form as part of the application process. T.MA, 12:2-15. When Mr. Azzara discussed the needs assessment with Ms. Tobia, she "became very irritated and started a rant about the school, and she was not going to sign any needs assessment." T.MA, 17:5-14.

Mr. Azzara further testified that Ms. Tobia also demonstrated her dislike of the SCC by, among other things, underreporting the number of District students that attended the SCC, which negatively affected the school's application to the Department of Education, and scheduling meetings with representatives from the school but failing to attend those meetings. T.MA, 20:9-14, 21:21-22:20.

Mr. Azzara also testified that because District preschool students were placed in the SCC but being educated in self-contained classes, with Ms. Tobia's knowledge, such an action violated both the law and Board Regulation 2460.8. T.MA, 47:4-13. According to Mr. Azzara, had the SCC been approved as a private school for the disabled, or, had the students placed in the SCC been educated in inclusion classes, such placements would have been lawful. T.MA, 47:14-18.

vi. Board Policy #3282

Board Policy #3282, entitled "Inappropriate Staff Conduct" provides, in pertinent part, that:

> The Board of Education holds all school staff to the highest level of professional responsibility in their conduct with pupils. Inappropriate conduct and conduct unbecoming a school staff member will not be tolerated in this school district.
> . . .
> School staff's conduct in completing their professional > responsibilities shall be appropriate at all times.

>
> A school staff member is always expected to maintain a professional relationship with pupils and to protect the health, safety and welfare of school pupils. A staff member's conduct will be held to the professional standards established by the New Jersey State Board of Education and the New Jersey Commissioner of Education. Inappropriate conduct or conduct unbecoming a staff member may also include conduct not specifically listed in this Policy, but conduct determined by the New Jersey State Board of Education, the New Jersey Commissioner of Education and/or appropriate courts to be inappropriate or conduct unbecoming a school staff member.
> Exhibit J-2, Tab 21.

According to Mr. Azzara, Ms. Tobia, by her actions, failed to exhibit the 'highest level of professional responsibility," as required by the Policy. T.MA, 48:9-12. Mr. Azzara stated that Ms. Tobia's demeanor and attempts to mislead him with regard to (i) whether she had visited the SCC; (ii) whether applications for Naples approvals for yeshivas were filed with the State prior to each student placement; (iii) her attempts to circumvent the Naples approval process for yeshivas, which, as sectarian schools, could not be approved by the State for any placement; (iv) her insubordination towards Mr. Azzara, and (v) her attesting to false information on an affidavit later submitted to the Court, among other things, were all evidence of her disregard for her professional responsibilities. T.MA, 48:14-55:9. Mr. Azzara also testified that staff members were fearful of retaliation from Ms. Tobia, further leading to the conclusion that Ms. Tobia's actions were violative of Policy #3282. T.MA, 56:5-58:5.

LEGAL ARGUMENT

POINT I

THE BOARD HAS PROVEN BY A PREPONDERANCE OF THE CREDIBLE EVIDENCE THAT RESPONDENT COMMITTED CONDUCT UNBECOMING A TEACHING STAFF MEMBER

In the State of New Jersey, a tenured certificated staff member shall not be dismissed from his or her position or reduced in compensation "except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. In tenure cases in which a teacher is alleged to have committed unbecoming conduct, the Board of Education has the burden of establishing the allegations supporting the charges by a preponderance of the evidence. In re Polk License Revocation, 90 N.J. 550, 560 (1982); In re Tenure Hearing of Tyler, 236 N.J. Super. 478 (App. Div. 1989); In Re Tenure Hearing of Marrero, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 104 (Cmm'r of Educ., 1996). The term "preponderance of the evidence" means "the greater weight of credible evidence in the case. It does not necessarily mean the evidence of the greater number of witnesses but means that evidence which carries the greater convincing power to our minds." State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975).

The classic definition of this standard holds that if the evidence in support of and against the charges is equally balanced on the scales of justice, where the Board of Education adds so much as the weight of a feather to its proofs, the Board has carried its burden by a preponderance of the evidence. See, e.g., Lesniewski v. W.B. Furze Corp., 308 N.J. Super. 270 (App. Div. 1998). Proof "need not have the attribute of certainty, but it must be well-founded in reason and logic." Id. at 279.

In the New Jersey Supreme Court case of Karins v. Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532 (1998), the term "unbecoming conduct" is found to be a broadly defined, elastic term encompassing any conduct which has a tendency to destroy public respect for government employees and competence in the operation of public services. Indeed, in Laba v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 23 N.J. 364, 384 (1957), the Court established that the touchstone of unbecoming conduct is the teaching staff member's fitness to discharge the duties and functions of one's office or position. Moreover, it has been held that a finding of unbecoming conduct does not require a violation of any specific rule or regulation, but rather, may be based primarily on an implicit standard of good behavior "which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960).

According to the Commissioner of Education, teachers are professional employees "to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of . . . school children with the hope that this trust will result in the maximum educational growth and development of each individual child. This heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment." In re Tenure Hearing of William Thomas, OAL Dkt. No.

The evidence at the hearing clearly established that Ms. Tobia is patently unfit to be a supervisor in a public school environment. The Board proffered eighteen (18) tenure charges against Ms. Tobia, including multiple subparts, alleging that she committed unbecoming conduct due to, among other things: (1) false swearing and/or lying under oath on an affidavit submitted to the Court; (2) directing that student D.D. be found ineligible for special education prior to the student's eligibility meeting taking place and despite the fact that Ms. Tobia lacked the authority to make such a determination; (3) directing that the District no longer place students on Section 504 Plans, regardless of their need for such a plan; (4) entering into parent agreements to place students in unapproved, unaccredited yeshivas in contravention to law and a State-issued corrective action plan; and (5) compromising the District's position during mediation sessions.

With these charges in mind, the Board introduced extensive evidence at the hearing which established beyond any doubt that Ms. Tobia committed unbecoming conduct. Importantly, she herself admitted to a great deal of the conduct as alleged during sworn testimony given before the Office of Administrative Law in unrelated special education matters, including that she signed an affidavit containing false information, which was then submitted to the court, and that she predetermined eligibility for a student. Moreover, the evidence in the record clearly supports a finding of unbecoming conduct for those actions to which she did not admit.

Ms. Tobia's actions have breached the public trust and cast doubt on her ability to perform the functions of her position in light of the high standard of morality and self-restraint imposed on public school employees. In re Emmons, supra. Consequently, the Board has established by a preponderance of the evidence that Ms. Tobia engaged in conduct unbecoming a certificate holder warranting her dismissal.

With regard to Ms. Tobia's actions in signing, under oath, an affidavit containing false information, Administrative Law Judges and the Commissioner of Education have held that engaging in such dishonest actions constitutes unbecoming conduct. For example, in I/M/O Tenure Hearing of John Howard, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 7442-01; 2005 N.J. Agen. Lexis 46 (Cmm'r, 2005), the East Orange Board of Education filed a set of tenure charges against the District's superintendent, alleging that he had lied under oath during a deposition.

During the deposition, the superintendent stated that he had no knowledge about a particular Board employee, did not know where she lived, did not know how long she was employed in the District and had never dated her. However, in a separate certification, the superintendent admitted that he did have a personal relationship with the employee and that the information provided at his deposition was false.

Although the superintendent claimed that he simply corrected the record when he admitted to his personal relationship with the employee and asserted that no criminal charges for perjury were filed against him in an attempt to mitigate his actions, the ALJ found these defenses "irrelevant" and determined that he had committed unbecoming conduct. Initial Decision at 3. According to the ALJ, teaching staff members must be held to a high standard of "honesty, integrity and judgment," and that by lying during a deposition in a case involving his employment, the superintendent "violated fundamental principles underlying out system of justice in circumstances which . . . directly relate to his employment. There is no greater breach of the public trust."

The Commissioner of Education affirmed the ALJ's determination, noting that he "is not persuaded by respondent's contention that correcting his testimony mitigates his conduct. While recantation may be an affirmative defense to perjury, it does not excuse respondent's deceptive and dishonest conduct in a school setting." Cmm'r Decision at 6. According to the Commissioner, the "respondent not only violated the fundamental principles underlying our system of justice, but also violated the public trust placed in him as superintendent of schools. The Commissioner, therefore, finds respondent guilty of conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member." Id. The Commissioner further emphasized that because the respondent was a high-level administrator, the standard of behavior to which he is held is even more stringent than a teacher. Id.

Similarly, the Commissioner, ALJs, and the State Board of Examiners have also found that a staff member's dishonest actions, such as falsifying documents, constitute unbecoming conduct. See, e.g., I/M/O Teaching Certificate of Crawford, OAL Dkt. No. EDE 8665-98, 1999 N.J. Agen. Lexis 270 (1999) (teacher engaged in dishonesty and unbecoming conduct by submitting documents that he knew or should have known contained false information); I/M/O Certificates of Cantz (OAL Dkt. No. EDE 4520-12, 202 N.J. Agen. Lexis 584 (2012) (teacher's actions in submitting a falsified copy of her certificate constituted unbecoming conduct).

In this matter, Ms. Tobia submitted an affidavit to the Court containing information that she knew or should have known to be false. In the affidavit, which was submitted to the OAL on behalf of the Board in a special education matter concerning a dispute over a student's placement, Ms. Tobia certified that she had visited the Special Children's Center and was fully familiar with the school. See, Exhibit J-2, Tab 1, Exhibit C at ¶29. However, in paragraph 32 of that affidavit, Ms. Tobia stated that the "SCC has religious symbols and icons present in and around the building." Exhibit J-2, Tab 1. Despite Ms. Tobia's assertion in her affidavit, the SCC is not, and never has been, a religious institution.

The attorney who represented the Board in that case, Joanne L. Butler, Esq., testified at the hearing that she had no knowledge of the SCC when she prepared the affidavit for Ms. Tobia's signature, and that all information regarding the SCC was provided by Ms. Tobia, including that the school was a religious institution. T.JLB, 37:4-9; Exhibit B-1.

Furthermore, Ms. Tobia revised the affidavit numerous times before declaring it to be final and submitting it to the Court, yet did not disturb the wording of paragraph 32 with regard to the SCC's religious nature. Exhibit J-2, Tab 1, ¶16 and Exhibits C; and D' T.JLB, 43:17-20. Ms. Tobia went so far as to inform Ms. Butler that the affidavit, including paragraph 32 in its entirety, was "accurate and signed." Id. When issuing her decision in the case, Judge Kerins noted that the Board "has raised an issue whether SCC is sectarian," in reference to Ms. Tobia's assertion. Id.

Two years later, in March of 2015, during sworn testimony before the Office of Administrative Law in another student education matter, Ms. Tobia admitted that the SCC was not a religious institution. Exhibit J-2, Tab 5 at 275. Ms. Tobia also admitted that she had "no idea" why there was a reference to religious icons and symbols in her prior affidavit. Id.

According to Ms. Tobia, she had "never seen any of those symbols on the walls in [the SCC]," despite having "been there several times." Id. Although she testified that that she was "well aware" of the contents of her affidavit when she signed it in July of 2013, T.HT, 79:11-12, she admitted during her testimony in the C.F. matter that the affidavit was "not accurate." Id. at 281.

Thus, Ms. Tobia's assertion in her affidavit that the SCC had religious icons and symbols in the building was patently, and knowingly, false. In fact, Ms. Tobia was well aware of the SCC, having visited the school on multiple occasions in her capacity as Supervisor of Pupil Personnel Services, and candidly admitted at the hearing that "anyone in the district knows there was no religious connotation with SCC. There never has been". T. Helen Tobia ("HT"), 72:24-25, 76:13-16, 25-74:2.

Ms. Tobia's negative feelings towards the SCC further supports the allegation that she would lie on an affidavit regarding the school. Mr. Azzara testified that Ms. Tobia did not approve of the SCC and that she felt that if the school was approved by the State, it would bankrupt the District. T.MA, 14:9-22, 21:17-19. Mr. Azzara also testified that Ms. Tobia had "intense animosity" towards the SCC and refused to sign a needs assessment in support of the SCC's application to receive State approval. T.MA, 26:21-25. Thus, it stands to reason that she would certify that the school was religious, even if it were not, in an attempt to harm the school and block a family's attempt to enroll their child there.

As in Howard, supra, Ms. Tobia's actions clearly constitute unbecoming conduct and were directly related to her employment. In fact, because her actions had the potential to affect the education provided to a special needs student, including whether the student would remain at his placement in the SCC, Ms. Tobia's improper actions far exceed those of the superintendent in Howard.

Ms. Tobia's attempts to deflect blame and [imply] that Ms. Butler suggested she include information in her affidavit regarding the SCC's religious nature have no basis in fact and as set forth in Howard, have no bearing on the determination of whether her actions constitute unbecoming conduct. The fact that she was not criminally charged with perjury for swearing to false information also does not alter the fact that her actions mandate a finding of severe unbecoming conduct. Moreover, unlike in Howard, she did not even attempt to correct the record after receiving and reviewing Judge Kerin's decision. Exhibit J-2, Tab 5 at 275.

Notwithstanding, and in addition to, Ms. Tobia's admitted unbecoming conduct concerning the affidavit in the M.W. matter, her other actions, including her directive to find student D.D. ineligible for special education, her directive not to place students on Section 504 plans and her actions in entering into parent agreements to place students at unapproved, unaccredited yeshivas, among other things, also constitute unbecoming conduct.

As stated supra, unbecoming conduct is defined as any conduct which has a tendency to destroy public respect for government employees and competence in the operation of public services. Karins, supra. Unbecoming conduct may be exhibited by a violation of a specific rule or regulation, or may be based primarily on an implicit standard of good behavior "which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Emmons supra.

Ms. Tobia's actions not only violated numerous State laws, regulations and directives, but had the potential to, and did, negatively affect the District, its finances and, most importantly, the quality of the education provided to District students. There can be no greater example of activity which destroys the public respect for Ms. Tobia or casts doubt on her competence in the performance of her duties.

As stated herein and at the hearing, there are a number of statutes and regulations governing the determination of eligibility for special education students. For example, N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.3(k) provides, in part, that a meeting to determine a student's eligibility and develop an IEP shall include the parent, a teacher, the student, one CST member, the case manager, and other appropriate individuals. The determination as to a student's eligibility shall be made only after this meeting takes place. N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.3(i).

N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.5(a) provides that "when an initial evaluation is completed for a student age three through 21, a meeting . . . shall be convened to determine whether the student is eligible for special education and related services." If the student is determined to be eligible, the student's educational program and placement must be set forth in his or her IEP. N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.7. Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, 34 C.F.R. 104, provides certain protections for disabled students who may or may not be eligible for special education, but who require accommodations in order to receive an education on the same level as their non-disabled peers.

The Naples Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:46-14, permits a child study team to place a classified student in a non-approved school if a suitable special education program cannot be provided elsewhere. Such a placement requires the consent of the Commissioner of Education. N.J.A.C. 6A:14-6.5. The Commissioner may only approve the placement when the District certifies, among other criteria, that: (1) the school is accredited; (2) the school is the most appropriate placement for the student; (3) it meets the requirements of the student's IEP; and (4) the school provides services which are nonsectarian. N.J.A.C. 6A:14-6.5(b). See also H.W. and J.W. o/b/o A.W. v. Greater Brunswick Charter School and Highland Park Bd. of Educ., OAL Docket No.: EDS 905-00 (August 28, 2001) ("Under the Naples Act . . . [t]he implementing regulations specify that the private school must meet certain conditions, including that the school must be fully accredited, that it must be nonsectarian, that its teaching staff must be appropriately certified, and that it must comply with State and federal antidiscrimination statutes.").

As set forth in detail above, Ms. Tobia's various actions and directives violated all of these laws and regulations and thus constitute unbecoming conduct. In fact, the requirement that a staff member's actions comport with law and regulation, particularly where the education of students is involved, is self-evident. Knowingly or purposely violating such laws, as Ms. Tobia did, clearly constitutes unbecoming conduct.

At no time was Ms. Tobia a member of the Child Study Team. Nevertheless, she frequently exceeded her authority and issued various directives regarding the placement and education of special education students. For example, in May of 2013, Ms. Tobia assigned Ms. Zentman as case manager for student D.D. and directed her to hold an eligibility meeting for the student. At the same time, Ms. Tobia unequivocally informed Ms. Zentman that "the student is not eligible." Exhibit J-2, Tab 12. When Ms. Zentman asked for clarification because she was concerned that the student may be eligible based on her initial review of the student's evaluations, Ms. Tobia again replied that "the student is not eligible and based on the assessments will not be eligible for special education." Exhibit J-2, Tab 13.

Based on Ms. Tobia's directive, the student was found ineligible for special education. T.CZ, 16:8-10. Six months later, after the student's family filed for due process and the matter proceeded to litigation the Court determined that the student should have been classified and provided with any and all necessary special education and related services. T.CZ, 25:1-11. Ms. Tobia's actions with regard to D.D. caused the District to incur significant legal fees in order to defend the due process petition, and resulted in the student not receiving services for which he should have been entitled under the law.

Similarly, in or about May of 2013, Ms. Tobia directed that no new Section 504 Plans would be written or provided to students. Rather, all students would be referred to the Child Study Team for evaluation for special education. When Adina Weisz, Supervisor of Related Services, asked Ms. Tobia if her directive meant that students should not be provided an evaluation or therapy through a 504 Plan, Ms. Tobia responded in the affirmative. Exhibit J-2, Tab 9. Additionally, when Ms. Weisz asked whether a particular student's 504 Plan should be implemented because the plan had been signed by the parents, therefore legally requiring the District to adhere to it, Ms. Tobia advised Ms. Weisz to "throw it out." Id.

Ms. Tobia's actions resulted in students being denied services to which they were entitled, and in fact, based on Ms. Tobia's directive, the District did not implement or follow any Section 504 plans whatsoever during the 2013-2014 school year. T.AW, 18:10-18. This resulted in a significant rise in the number of referrals of students to the Child Study Team despite the fact that the students may have merely needed accommodations and not special education services. T.JK, 26:9-11; T.AW, 13:16-24, 28:25-29:4 Exhibit J-2, Tab 2 at ¶24. These actions are clearly contrary to the requirements of Section 504, 34 C.F.R. 104.

Ms. Tobia also entered into numerous agreements with parents and approved the placements of students at yeshivas without proper Commissioner of Education approval under the Naples Act. T.AW, 13:16-24, 28:25-29:4; T.GN, 20:10-14; T.JK, 11:15-17; Exhibit J-2, Tabs 2, 4, 10, and 11; Exhibit B-4. In fact, pursuant to the Act, approval was not possible for these students. Nevertheless Ms. Tobia disregarded the advice of the District's attorneys, Ms. Gilfillan and Ms. Kenny, and continued to effectuate these placements, going so far as to direct her staff to "offer these parents whatever they wanted." T.EF, 26:13-19.

Per Ms. Tobia, if a parent sought to place their student in an unaccredited, unapproved school, the placement could be done through the student's IEP, despite the fact that such placements were illegal. T.EF, 26:20-27:8, Exhibit J-2, Tabs 2, 3 and 4 at ¶¶5 and 10; T.KAG, T.ALK. At one point, Ms. Tobia ceased to even complete the Naples paperwork since the approvals would not, and could not, be granted. T.MA, 49:7-12.

Ms. Tobia also failed to comply with OSEP's directive to reduce the number of students placed in out-of-District yeshivas. In or about March of 2014, OSEP placed the District on a Corrective Action Plan. Exhibit J-2 at Tab 14. In its initial report, OSEP found that that Ms. Tobia had "issued a directive to the IEP team that the team should write an IEP placing the student at [YTT]," an unapproved, unaccredited yeshiva. Exhibit J-2, Tab 14 at ¶7. In response, OSEP directed the District to hold IEP meetings for all students placed in unaccredited, unapproved private schools and offer them an approved placement. In complete disregard for OSEP's ruling, Ms. Tobia took no steps to transfer the affected students to new placements. T.KAG, 13:1-5; Exhibit J-2 at Tab 2, ¶6-7. Ms. Tobia further advised parents during mediation sessions on ways to maintain their students' current placements, notwithstanding the recommendations of the District's attorneys, CST or the requirements of the CAP, and also refused to sign a certification of facts to support the District's petition to block a request for independent evaluations filed by the parents of students J.Q. See, e.g., Exhibit J-2 at Tabs 2, 3, and 4.

All of Ms. Tobia's actions, as set forth above, had a negative effect on the District. Her misconduct required the District to expend significant legal fees in the defense of numerous due process petitions, as well as in preparing a response to the CAP issued by OSEP. Furthermore, Ms. Tobia's actions resulted in negative attention being placed on the District from the Department of Education and potentially jeopardized the District's receipt of State aid. T.KAG, 13:9-21; T.EF, 45:14-46:7; T.MA, 64:22-25; Exhibit J-2, Tab 5 at ¶12.

More importantly, Ms. Tobia's actions had the potential to negatively affect the education provided to District special needs students. As stated supra, numerous students were placed in unapproved, unaccredited yeshivas, which is prohibited by law. Moreover, students were denied educational services to which they may have been entitled, including services pursuant to Section 504 plans for extended periods of time. In addition, students did not receive all necessary services, as recommended by the CST, while due process petitions were ongoing, some of which, including the D.D. petition, were filed as a direct result of Ms. Tobia's actions.

Therefore, as set forth above and as proven by the testimony introduced at the hearing and in the documentary evidence submitted by the Board, Ms. Tobia's actions were in violation of law, regulation and State directive, and resulted in harm to the District and its students. Thus, her actions clearly constitute unbecoming conduct.

In addition to the specific instances above, Ms. Tobia's actions, taken as a whole, also constitute insubordination. Generally, insubordination is an action or series of actions which demonstrate a willful refusal to comply with a supervisor's directive. In re Tenure Hearing of Ingram, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9068-01, aff'd St. Bd. of Educ. (2002). Insubordination has also been found to include a failure to comply with District policies. In re Certificates of Resto, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3869-04, aff'd St. Bd. of Educ. (2005) (Violation of policy constituted unbecoming conduct and reflected "a disregard for the appropriate role of a teacher, which in turn lowers students' respect for authority").

Insubordination, on its own, constitutes conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member. In re Tenure Hearing of Getty, 2009 N.J. Agen. Lexis 319, aff'd, Cmm'r, 2009 N.J. Agen. Lexis 731; In re Tenure Hearing of Duran, et al., OAL Dkt. NO. EDU 6754-06, Agency Dkt. No. 307-9/06 (2007) (Finding that insubordination may be, but need not be, an outright refusal to obey directives); In re Certificates of Turner, S.B.E. Dkt. No. 0405-257 (St. Bd. of Exam., 2005) (Failure to follow directives constitutes insubordination).

There is no doubt that Ms. Tobia was insubordinate by failing to comply with District policies regarding the identification of special education students, the provision of special education to eligible students, the implementation of Section 504 Plans and the maintenance of a healthy workplace environment. Exhibits J-

2, Tabs 16-22. She also failed to adhere to, and actively disregarded, the State's corrective action plan and directive that the District take steps to effectuate the removal of students from unapproved yeshivas. Ms. Tobia refused to comply with legal advice and various requirements set forth in New Jersey and Federal law concerning special education students, and consistently provided false or misleading information to direct requests from the State Monitor appointed by the Commissioner of Education to oversee the District. T.MA, 14:9-15, 53:17-24.

Taking the facts of this matter into account, there can be no dispute that Ms. Tobia committed numerous instances of conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member by engaging in all of the actions alleged by the Board in the tenure charges. Exhibit J-1. Each of Ms. Tobia's actions were documented and supported by the evidence in the record, fall far short of the high standard required of an individual serving in Ms. Tobia's position, and violate the implicit standard of good behavior for public school employees, "which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super at 140. Any one of her actions in this regard, taken independently, would constitute unbecoming conduct. All of them, when considered together, mandate such a finding.

POINT II

THE TESTIMONY PRESENTED AT THE HEARING BY MS. TOBIA WAS CONTRADICTORY, SELF-SERVING AND NOT CREDIBLE

Ms. Tobia's testimony was not credible and should be given no weight.

The trier of fact is the individual best situated to judge whether a witness is credible. I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Dennis Cooke, 1991 S.L.D. 1381, citing In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 513, 522 (1950). A finding of credibility results from that which "common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances" and which is derived from "that quality of testimony or evidence which makes it worthy of belief." Id. To be believed, testimony must itself be credible. It must be such as the common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances. Perrone, supra. A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura- Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

In order to assess credibility, inferences may be drawn concerning the witness' expression, tone of voice and demeanor. MacDonald v. Hudson Bus Transportation Co., 100 N.J. Super. 103 (App. Div. 1968). In addition, the witness' interest in the outcome, motive or bias should be considered. State v. Spruill, 16 N.J. 73 (1954) (Court looked to the interest of a party in the outcome of a trial as a factor in evaluating the evidence).

With this in mind, a great deal of Ms. Tobia's testimony at the hearing was contradicted by her own statements, other testimony and documentary evidence. These contradictions cast doubt on the veracity of her denials and testimony relating to the conduct as alleged herein. During her testimony, Ms. Tobia embellished certain points in an effort to appear blameless and attempted to shift the blame from her own wrongful actions to other individuals.

For example, Ms. Tobia testified unequivocally that she did not supervise the District's special education department in September of 2013. T.HT., 66:13-18. However, Ms. Tobia submitted a sworn affidavit in a Federal court matter, dated September 17, 2013, in which she stated that she "supervise[d] the District's special education department." Exhibit B-5. After being asked on cross-examination whether the affidavit was false, Ms. Tobia was evasive and would not admit that it was untrue, yet again declared that she "did not supervise the special education department in 2013." T.HT, 69:11-18. After again being asked regarding the veracity of the affidavit, Ms. Tobia simply replied "I don't know. I don't know how we got to that point there." T.HT, 70:15-20. She also blamed the Board's attorney, Katherine A. Gilfillan, Esq., who prepared the affidavit for Ms. Tobia's signature. T.HT, 71:1-6.

Regarding the affidavit she submitted in the M.W. matter concerning the SCC (Exhibit J-2, Tab 1), Ms. Tobia repeatedly answered in the affirmative when asked whether the affidavit was true and accurate. T.HT, 72:7-12, 74:7-9. In her answers to interrogatories, submitted under oath, Ms. Tobia also stated that the affidavit was true to the best of her knowledge and belief. Exhibit B-2, Answer to Question 6. She also testified that paragraph 32 of the affidavit, which stated that "the SCC has religious symbols and icons present in and around the building," was a true statement. T.HT, 72:20-25.

In response to the very next question, however, in which Ms. Tobia was asked for clarification concerning that statement and whether she stood by the contents of paragraph 32 of the affidavit, Ms. Tobia answered "No, I do not." T.HT, 73:13-16. Ms. Tobia further conceded that paragraph 32 of the affidavit, concerning religious symbols and icons in the building, is "not true because I don't know them to be religious symbols."

In addition, Ms. Tobia testified that she was aware of the affidavit prior to signing it, made revisions to the affidavit and knew that paragraph 32 was present in the affidavit prior to signing it. T.HT, 77:12-78:4. However, in the C.F. matter, Ms. Tobia testified that she was not aware that paragraph 32 was contained in the M.W. affidavit when she signed it, that she "must have missed it," and that the SCC does not have religious symbols and icons. Exhibit J-2, Tab 5 at 277; T.HT, 78:4-17.

Ms. Tobia also continually attempted to try and shift responsibility to Ms. Butler for including paragraph 32 in the M.W. affidavit. However, Ms. Butler testified unequivocally that at the time she prepared the affidavit for Ms. Tobia's signature, Ms. Tobia informed her that the SCC was a religious school. Exhibit B-1. Ms. Butler's handwritten notes from her conversation with Ms. Tobia further support her recollection. Id. Ms. Butler also testified that she had only been representing the Board at that time for a matter of days, and was completely unaware of what type of school the SCC was. Exhibit J-2, ¶7; Exhibit B-1; T.JLB, 33:18-19, 34:25-36:25.

Regarding student D.D., Ms. Tobia testified that she "absolutely" did not predetermine the student's eligibility for special education prior to his case manager scheduling his evaluation meeting. However, during her testimony in the D.D. due process matter, Ms. Tobia, under oath, admitted that D.D.'s eligibility conference report was dated prior to the date on which the eligibility meeting actually took place, and the student's ineligibility was pre-determined. Exhibit J-2, Tab 8 at 149. In fact, when asked by D.D.'s counsel whether "you pre-determined ineligibility, correct?" Ms. Tobia replied "yes." Id. at 248.

Furthermore, despite her prior testimony in the D.D. matter, Ms. Tobia, when presented with her May 29, 2013 email to Ms. Zentman, in which she informed Ms. Zentman that the student was not eligible, provided evasive answers and refused to acknowledge the contents of the email. T.HT, 91:15-17. Ms. Tobia also stated that she was trying to avoid litigation by including this information in her email to Ms. Zentman, but could not explain how finding a student ineligible, rather than eligible, for special education would lead to less, not more, litigation. T.HT, 95:13-16.

Ms. Tobia's actions in lying under oath clearly and completely demonstrate her lack of credibility. Howard, supra. However, Ms. Tobia also continually provided evasive answers when directly questioned regarding the remaining allegations in the tenure charges. For example, Ms. Tobia continually testified that she did not remember whether she directed staff not to provide students with Section 504 plans, even when presented with emails to that effect.

T.HT, 108:15-111:17. At one point, Ms. Tobia was provided with her email to Ms. Weisz, which stated that students should be referred to the CST rather than placed on a 504 Plan. Exhibit J-2, Tab 9. When asked on cross-examination what that sentence meant, Ms. Tobia stated that she was "not sure what this all says and means here." T.HT, 111:18-20.

Ms. Tobia also testified that she did not know who made the decision to place student R.M. at the Orchos Chaim yeshiva and that she was unaware of the identity of the case manager for the student. T.HT, 122:3-4. However, Ms. Tobia was present during the testimony of Jennifer Kaznowski, the student's case manager, at which time Ms. Kaznowski testified at length regarding R.M.'s placement. Moreover, it was Ms. Tobia herself who determined the placement for R.M. Exhibit J-2, Tab 10. Ms. Tobia also provided evasive answers with regard to Naples approvals and parent agreements to place students in yeshivas, informing Board counsel that his questions over those items were simply issues of "semantics." T.HT, 125:24.

Ms. Tobia's remaining testimony was entirely self-serving and dismissive of the tenure allegations. She did not address or refute the majority of the allegations on her direct testimony, including allegations that she was present during mediation sessions with rabbis or that she held private discussions with parents and rabbis to reach agreements regarding student placement, and no other witnesses testified or responded to the allegations on Ms. Tobia's behalf. Clearly, Ms. Tobia's testimony was offered for the sole reason of self-preservation and embellished or tailored accordingly.

Furthermore, when questioned regarding her conduct, Ms. Tobia fashioned a number of possible theories and motives to explain her actions, going so far as to blame others for her actions. She also claimed, among other things, that she was merely following attorney advice, despite the voluminous evidence in the record showing that each attorney provided advice to Ms. Tobia regarding her responsibilities with regard to special education student placements and regulations, which she disregarded.

Ms. Tobia also claimed that the false statements in her affidavits were placed there by Ms. Butler and/or Ms. Gilfillan despite her having reviewed and revised each affidavit in depth, and that her directives to staff with regard to student placement and eligibility determinations were intentionally vague and misunderstood. Ms. Tobia never once took responsibility for her actions or expressed remorse. Such facts merely serve to further support the proposition that her testimony was not credible.

To the contrary, the Board's witnesses were credible in all respects. Each witness testified competently and directly regarding the facts comprising the actual tenure charges before the Arbitrator. All of the testimony, including that of Ms. Butler, Ms. Gilfillan, Ms. Kenny, Mr. Azzara, Mr. Freund, Ms. Nussbaum, Ms. Kaznowski, Ms. Zentman and Ms. Weisz, was supported by evidence introduced at the hearing. This evidence including, but was not limited to, emails authored by Ms. Tobia which directly prove her alleged misconduct, transcripts of sworn testimony given by Ms. Tobia herself and other individuals which address, and confirm, the allegations at issue, and the OSEP CAP, which specifically identifies Ms. Tobia as having improperly directed that a student be placed in an unapproved, unaccredited yeshiva. See, Exhibit J-2. The testimony provided by each of the Board's witnesses complemented, and did not contradict, one another, and unlike Ms. Tobia, none of the Board's witnesses had ulterior motives to fabricate or embellish their testimony. In fact, taking into account the Board's evidence, it is more likely than not that Ms. Tobia engaged in the conduct alleged in the Tenure Charges.

POINT III

MS. TOBIA SHOULD BE DISMISSED FROM HER EMPLOYMENT

Ms. Tobia's inappropriate and improper conduct, as set forth in the tenure charges, each of which are independently substantiated, as set forth above, warrants a finding of unbecoming conduct and/or other just cause for dismissal. Moreover, tenure charge eighteen (18) alleges that Ms. Tobia has engaged in a course of behavior which constitutes a pattern of conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member. When the charges are viewed in their totality, a pattern of unbecoming conduct emerges sufficient to warrant Ms. Tobia's dismissal from her tenured position. See, Cowan v. Bernardsville Bd. of Educ., 224 N.J. Super. 737, 751 (App. Div. 1988).

The determination as to whether an employee has engaged in unbecoming conduct warranting dismissal from a tenured position requires consideration of the nature of the act(s), the totality of the circumstances and the impact on the teacher's career. I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Molokwu, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9650-04 (Dec. 12, 2005), citing In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super 404 (App. Div. 1967). Usually, a series of events demonstrating a pattern of behavior is an indication of "unbecoming conduct." Id. However, if an incident is sufficiently flagrant, one incident will suffice to remove a teaching staff member from his or her position. Redcay v. State Board of Education, 130 N.J.L. 369 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd o/b/ 131 N.J.L. 326 (E&A, 1944). See also, I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Stephen Fox, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 7955-04 (Regardless of a teacher's long and distinguished career, one sufficient flagrant event could lead to a tenured teacher's dismissal for conduct unbecoming).

Here, Ms. Tobia's career has been anything but distinguished. Her conduct is of such a sufficiently flagrant level that her dismissal is warranted based on her actions as set forth in each individual tenure charge. In fact, her lying under oath in an affidavit submitted to the Court in a contested case involving the appropriate educational placement of a student is, by itself, sufficient to require her dismissal.

In Howard, supra, the ALJ held that the respondent committed unbecoming conduct by lying under oath. According to the ALJ, "there is no question that this conduct warrants the imposition of the most severe sanction available." When issuing the decision, the ALJ paid particular attention to the fact the respondent's actions were directly related to his employment. The Commissioner of Education also noted that "[i]n assessing the penalty to be imposed, the Commissioner concurs with the reasoning of the ALJ that respondent's conduct warrants the imposition of the most severe sanction available." Teaching staff members have also had their certificates revoked for engaging in dishonest conduct similar to that exhibited by Ms. Tobia. See, e.g., Crawford, supra; Cantz, supra.

Ms. Tobia's actions were clearly related to her employment, as she submitted a false affidavit to the Court in her capacity as Supervisor of Pupil Personnel Services. The affidavit was provided in support of the Board's opposition to an emergent relief application and petition for due process filed by a student's family. As stated supra, the fact that Ms. Tobia's statements, later proven to be false, were referenced by the ALJ in her decision and had the potential to affect a student's educational placement is only further indicative of the seriousness of this offense. Consequently, her actions clearly violate the fundamental principles of honesty and integrity and the public trust placed in public school employees. Emmons, supra; Howard, supra. Thus, Ms. Tobia's dismissal is warranted.

In addition, her other actions, including (1) directing that a student be found ineligible for special education; (2) directing that students no longer receive Section 504 plans; (3) reaching parent agreements to place students in yeshivas;

(4) disregarding the advice of the District's attorneys and the directives of the New Jersey Office of Special Education Programs; and (5) her general insubordination, among other things, have no place in a school environment. Her actions have had a negative effect on the District and the education provided to its students, and therefore warrant her dismissal from her position.

In fact, in I/M/O Margaret Sidberry, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9572-97S, a school district filed tenure charges against a school psychologist, alleging that she failed or refused to complete timely reports for special education students as mandated by law. The respondent claimed that a number of mitigating factors were present, including that: (1) she had an excellent employment record; (2) her actions were not deliberate; and (3) staff cutbacks and increased duties led to her inability to complete the reports. Nevertheless, the ALJ ruled that the respondent be dismissed from her position. In doing so, the ALJ found that her actions "resulted in the delayed implementation of programs. Students have been denied access to appropriate educational programs and [the respondent has] contributed to placing the district in jeopardy of noncompliant status." Initial Decision at 24.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and ordered that the respondent be dismissed from her position, rejecting as "untenable" her claim that there was no deleterious effect to students or the District as a result of her actions. The Commissioner specifically found that "at a very minimum, the untimely preparation and submission of her reports delayed the initial or re-evaluative placement of students in appropriate educational programs and placed the District in unnecessary jeopardy of potential legal action for failure to comply with federal and state statutes and regulations governing the rights to classified students." Cmm'r Decision at 9. See also, I/M/O Certificates of Oberwanowicz, Dkt. NO. 0910-218 (2014) (in which a retired director of special education was ordered to surrender his license for a period of thirty (30) months for, among other things, allowing the district to place special education students in sectarian schools and underreporting the number of students placed by the District in a yeshiva on State reports).

In this case, Ms. Tobia behaved in a manner strikingly similar to that of Sidberry and Oberwanowicz. Her actions resulted in the delay of educational services to the very students who need them most – special education students, and in at least one case, a student who she had ordered be found ineligible for services, D.D., was later found to be eligible after a protracted and costly litigation. He received no services during the interim period between the finding of ineligibility and the ALJ's determination that he be entitled to special education services. T.CZ, 25:1-11. Moreover, she ordered that students no longer be placed on Section 504 plans, again denying services to eligible students and continued to allow and negotiate for the placement of students in yeshivas, despite the law's prohibitions against such placements. See, Exhibit J-2.

In addition, her actions not only cost the District thousands of dollars in legal fees, but placed its State funding at risk, particularly since Ms. Tobia continued to allow students to remain in yeshivas despite a directive from OSEP that it reevaluate those students and place them in approved schools or programs. T.KAG, 13:9-21. Moreover, as set forth at length supra, Ms. Tobia's insistence on participating in and overseeing student placement and eligibility decisions, despite not being a member of the CST, was contrary to law and exposed the District and its students at risk. She also disregarded attorney advice and compromised the District's legal position during mediation sessions by informing the parents that the CST's proposed program for certain students was inappropriate and by reaching agreements with parents to maintain student placements in yeshivas.

All of Ms. Tobia's actions, like those of the respondents in Sidberry and Oberwanowicz, placed the district at risk of legal and administrative penalties. More importantly, her actions jeopardized the education provided to students with special needs. Accordingly, Ms. Tobia has failed to satisfy the standards of one whose profession is inextricably linked to the shaping and teaching of young minds, and who is held to a higher standard than that of the general public. Indeed, as an administrator, Ms. Tobia is held to a higher standard than even a classroom teacher. Howard, supra. Her actions in lying under oath are, alone, sufficient to pierce the inherent trust placed in her and negate her position as a role model in the school community. See, e.g., Howard, supra; Crawford, supra.

The remainder of her unbecoming conduct, all of which is focused on or related to the District's provision of a free and appropriate education to special needs students, further evidences Ms. Tobia's inability to remain a supervisor in the District. Moreover, her flippant disregard of the severity of the charges, her attempts to deflect blame from her actions and refusal to even address many of the charges does not engender confidence that such actions will not reoccur in the future if she is returned to the District. See, e.g., Karins, supra; Laba, supra; Emmons, supra.

Accordingly, Ms. Tobia's demonstrated pattern of unbecoming conduct is certainly sufficient to warrant her dismissal. Her unbecoming conduct, when taken together as a whole, demands such a penalty.

POINT IV

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION IS NOT PRECLUDED FROM INTRODUCING EVIDENCE RELATED TO MS. TOBIA'S CONDUCT DURING MEDIATION SESSIONS

At the hearing, Ms. Tobia's counsel objected to the Board's introduction of evidence concerning Ms. Tobia's actions during mediation sessions. In fact, tenure charge seven and eight directly concern Ms. Tobia's improper behavior during mediation sessions for students M.W., S.S. and Y.S. These charges allege, among other things, that during mediation, Ms. Tobia reached independent agreements with the students' parents to place the students in yeshivas, that she disregarded attorney advice when doing so and that she compromised the District's litigation position by informing the parents that the CST's findings and recommendations for the students' programs, i.e., the very reason that the parties had gone to mediation, were inappropriate T.ALK, 8:14-17; Exhibit J-2, Tab 4 at ¶2-3.

However, while certain discussions during mediation are confidential in nature, the intent of this confidentiality is to ensure that discussions and settlement offers elicited during mediation are not referred to or relied upon during subsequent due process hearings between the parents and the District. N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.6(a) provides that "mediation is a voluntary process that is available to resolve disputes arising under this chapter. Mediation shall be available for students age three through 21 years when there is a disagreement regarding identification, evaluation, classification, educational placement or the provision of a free, appropriate public education." [Emphasis added]. Thus, per the regulation, mediation is utilized only for special education disputes pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:14, and only between a school district and a student's parents.

Furthermore, N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.6(d)(6) provides that "discussions that occur during the mediation process shall be confidential and shall not be used as evidence in any subsequent due process hearings or civil proceedings." Even a cursory reading of this provision, when read together with section (a) of the same regulation, reveals that confidentiality during a mediation session relates only to discussions stemming from disputes arising between the District and the student's parent pursuant to special education law. In other words, mediation, and the rules governing same, does not apply to tenure matters such as the case at issue or to other types of contested cases before the Commissioner or an

There is no prohibition against a District from identifying wrongdoing committed by school staff during a mediation session and taking action to address same. Indeed, under Ms. Tobia's interpretation of this regulation, a school district would be prohibited from disciplining a staff member who had yelled at or struck a parent during a mediation session. Such an interpretation is simply absurd and certainly not the intent of the regulation.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, it is respectfully submitted that the Board has met its burden of proof on each of the tenure charges and that the evidence warrants Ms. Tobia's dismissal from the Lakewood School District.

Respondent Helen Tobia

The Lakewood School District appears to be rather unique to New Jersey. According to the State Monitor, Michael Azzara, there are approximately 6400 students in the Lakewood Public Schools and about 25,000 students attending sectarian schools primarily Orthodox. The majority of the members of the Lakewood Board of Education, which is responsible for the administration and operation of the Lakewood Public Schools, are Orthodox. Thus, the operation of the public schools is controlled by members of the Orthodox community.

Mr. Azzara testified that he was assigned to Lakewood by the New Jersey Department of Education to oversee the financial situation in the school district.

The two primary issues he is addressing are transportation for the nonpublic school students and out of district special education costs. The transportation issue was the cause of the school district's original budget deficit and Mr. Azzara recalled this being an issue in Lakewood when he was still "assistant commissioner back in 2000". Mr. Azzara's educational background is that he has a business administration degree from Rutgers and a M.A. in educational leadership from Kean. He has worked primarily at the NJ Department of Education. He admitted that he never taught in the public schools. He was an assistant superintendent in Paterson, a state operated school district. His duties in Paterson were that he was in charge of the business office, technology, transportation, food services and the operation and maintenance of the plant (facilities).

It was not his role to evaluate principals and assistant principals. He has no background in special education and in fact, the Department of Education appointed a special education monitor for Lakewood, Ms. Teri Sinatra. Ms. Sinatra is the expert in special education and was assigned by the Department of Education to oversee the operation of the special education matters in Lakewood. Ms. Sinatra did not testify in this matter, even though she is the special education monitor assigned to the school district and the issues herein concern special education.

In effect, Mr. Azzara was assigned to Lakewood to try to straighten out the budget deficit, primarily due to "courtesy bussing". "Courtesy bussing" is the name given to the transportation of students who live less than the state mandated limits for a district to provide transportation for those students. The state limit for elementary school students is two miles and for high school students is 2 1/2 miles. Students living within these limits and are transported are said to be provided with "courtesy bussing". The Department of Education does not reimburse school districts for transportation costs for "courtesy bussing".

Other than Mr. Azzara, the other witnesses for the Board were the litany of attorneys from Schenck, Price, the law firm, including Mr. Zitomer which represents the Lakewood Board of Education, none of which supervised Ms. Tobia. Mr. Azzara testified that when he came to the Lakewood School District, he felt there was a "culture of fear", fear on behalf of those staff members who were Orthodox for reprisals in the Orthodox community, if they made a decision contra to a member of that community. This turns out to be important in that, through the testimony of these witnesses, it becomes apparent that when any controversial decision had to be made, they went to Ms. Tobia, who is not a member of the Orthodox community, to make the decision. In this way, it was easy to blame Ms. Tobia for the decision and no repercussions would come to them in the community. Apparently decisions were controversial enough concerning student placements in the yeshivas, that Robert Singer, the state senator representing Lakewood, and the former mayor of Lakewood, went to Mr. Azzara and told him to fire Ms. Tobia. Thus, even the politicians are involved in the operation of the Lakewood School District, when it comes to the Orthodox community. Why would it not be so, since this community represents a sizeable voting bloc.

The other underlying theme in this matter is the involvement of Michael Inzelbuch, Esq., an attorney noted for his work in special education. Mr. Inzelbuch was for many years the board counsel in Lakewood and concurrently served as the special education attorney/director/consultant. Prior to becoming board attorney, Mr. Inzelbuch had represented parents in special education matters against the Lakewood Board of Education. He was so successful that the Board appointed him as their general counsel and also the special education attorney/director/consultant. (No one in the district testified to his board actual approved title). During this period of time, when Mr. Inzelbuch headed special education, Ms. Tobia was hired as the Supervisor of Pupil Personnel Services and worked under the supervision of Mr. Inzelbuch. There were other supervisors in charge of special education.

After approximately 12 years, Mr. Inzelbuch was replaced by the Schwartz, Simon law firm as the attorneys in Lakewood. Mr. Zitomer was a member of the Schwartz, Simon law firm at the time. Upon his replacement as board attorney, Mr. Inzelbuch again began representing parents in Lakewood against the Board. Not coincidentally, in all of the cases involving an attorney referred to in this matter, Mr. Inzelbuch was the attorney for the parents.

Helen Tobia is a staff member in the Lakewood School District for over 21 years. She has been a teacher, supervisor, assistant principal and a supervisor again. During the 21 years, her employment service has always been satisfactory to commendable. Mr. Azzara testified that when compiling information for the charges that he signed, items in her personnel file were scarce. The events alleged in most of the charges occurred prior to Mr. Azzara coming to the district as state monitor. There were no disciplinary actions taken against Ms. Tobia, prior to the filing of these charges. There was no progressive discipline and no corrective action plan. Ms. Tobia's file is squeaky clean. The school district did not present one witness who evaluated Ms. Tobia in a negative manner. In fact, the school district did not produce a witness who evaluated Ms. Tobia at all.

For all the following reasons, respondent, Helen Tobia, respectfully requests that the Arbitrator dismiss all of the charges in this matter and reinstate Ms. Tobia, awarding her the 120 day lost in pay and benefits. In the alternative, Ms. Tobia respectfully says that the charges, if true, would not warrant her dismissal and requests that arbitrator award a penalty short of dismissal.

TENURE CHARGES

CHARGE ONE

MS. TOBIA DID NOT WILLFULLY OR DELIBERATELY LIE UNDER OATH

The underlying allegations in CHARGE ONE is that prior to July, 2013,

MW was a student, whose parents were represented by Michael Inzelbuch, Esq. in a special education matter. Robert Mucciolo, Esq. of the law firm of Schwartz, Simon was representing the school district from on or about January, 2013 to June, 2013. According to Ms. Tobia, Mr. Mucciolo had reached out to the Ocean County Supervisor of Special Education concerning whether a program at the Special Children's Center (SCC) would be appropriate for the proposed placement of M.W. Mr. Mucciolo did not receive a response. Mr. Mucciolo also drafted a status update for the Lakewood Board of Education.

While this matter was still ongoing, effective July 1, 2013, the Board appointed new counsel, Schenck, Price. Joanne Butler, Esq. was assigned by the new law firm to represent the Board in the M.W. matter. Over the July 4th, 2013 holiday, Mr. Inzelbuch filed a Motion for Emergent Relief. Ms. Butler, brand new to the case, drafted an affidavit for Ms. Tobia to sign. Ms. Tobia testified that when asked by Ms. Butler what Ms. Tobia may have observed in the SCC, Ms. Tobia responded she saw a "wooden reed-type looking object in the doorway". Neither Ms. Butler nor Ms. Tobia are Jewish. Eventually, Ms. Butler placed in the affidavit for Ms. Tobia to sign that the wooden reed-like object was a "religious" object. Although Ms. Tobia was apprehensive, Ms. Butler told her "to trust her and that she knew what she was doing". Ms. Butler is an experienced special education attorney. When Ms. Tobia signed the affidavit, it was true to the best of her knowledge and belief. (Testimony of Helen Tobia pp 19-27).

In a separate special education litigation, in March 2015 (almost 2 years later) and which by this time, Eli Freund is the Supervisor of the Child Study Team, Ms. Tobia is subpoenaed to testify by the parents' attorney, Michael Inzelbuch. This is one of those situations where Ms. Tobia is being set up to be the "bad guy". Ms. Tobia is being asked to testify in a matter that she was not involved. In her words, she was ambushed and had no preparation. Despite the efforts by Eric Harrison, Esq., the attorney representing the Board, (not with Schenk, Price) to quash the subpoena, Ms. Tobia testified.

Mr. Inzelbuch placed the affidavit from almost two years prior in the M.W. matter. (the only commonality is that Mr. Inzelbuch was the attorney for the parents in both matters). Under Mr. Inzelbuch's examination of Ms. Tobia, as a witness, Mr. Inzelbuch elicited that there was a discrepancy from the affidavit in M.W. and her testimony in D.D., the discrepancy being whether or not the SCC was a religious school. This hardly amounts to lying under oath. Rather, an experienced attorney, Mr. Inzelbuch, found an inconsistency in an affidavit from two years past and her testimony in another special education matter, D.D. which was not a case that she was familiar with. Ms. Tobia was blindsided at the hearing, but did not willfully lie or deliberately mislead.

The Board will point to In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Dr. John Howard, Jr., Dr. Howard was the superintendent of schools in East Orange. Dr. Howard admittedly lied under oath at a deposition concerning a romantic relationship he had with a subordinate. Shortly thereafter, he recanted and admitted the relationship. The situation in the Howard matter and this matter are polar opposites. In a manner of speaking, Howard got caught with his pants down. Here Ms. Tobia had signed an affidavit drafted by an experienced special education attorney, Joanne Butler, who told her to trust her and that she knew what she was doing. Two years later, another experienced attorney, Michael Inzelbuch, crossed her up on the witness stand by asking her questions about that two year old affidavit in a totally different special education matter. Ms. Tobia may not have been a good witness, but she did not intentionally lie.

CHARGE TWO

With regards to the allegations in CHARGE TWO, Ms. Tobia denies any wrongdoing. Again this Charge revolves around the representation of the parents and child, D.D., by the former board attorney, Michael Inzelbuch. With regards to the D.D. matter, see Testimony of Helen Tobia, pp 31-35. Again this is another situation resulting from the changeover of attorneys in July 2013 from Schwartz, Simon to Schenk, Price. Prior to Schenck, Price becoming the attorneys, the former attorney, Marc Mucciolo, Esq. reached an agreement to have D.D. be assessed by the Monmouth-Ocean Education Services Commission. Eventually, there was an agreement on the placement, but not implementation. When Schenk, Price came in, apparently Mr. Inzelbuch made additional demands and the matter was litigated. At all times, the school district was represented by counsel. Furthermore, effective July 1, 2013, Mr. Freund was the Supervisor of the Child Study Teams. Again this is another situation when someone else had the responsibility (Mr. Freund), but the matter is being put on Ms. Tobia. Also, this event occurred in July, 2013, why did the district wait until August, 2015 to bring this charge. Two years passed without any mention of this to Ms. Tobia. No letter of reprimand, corrective action plan or any other letter was presented to Ms. Tobia for a response.

CHARGE THREE

MS. TOBIA DENIES ANY WRONGDOING WITH REGARDS TO THIS CHARGE

Charge THREE is a vague charge intended to paint a broad brush on Ms. Tobia. Ms. Tobia denies any wrongdoing. In May or June, 2013, Schwartz, Simon was the Board's attorneys. The numerous record requests made concerning students all came from the same attorney, Michael Inzelbuch. As previously noted, Mr. Inzelbuch was the longtime Board attorney and special education director/consultant. After his separation from the Board, he again represented parents against the Board, as he did prior to being board attorney. As noted in documents (R-3 and R-4), all tuition contracts were reviewed by the board special education counsel, whether that was Schwartz, Simon or Schenck, Price and placement notification was sent to the Ocean County Office of Special Education. Tuition contracts, once reviewed by special education counsel, were sent to Business Office and Board of Education for approval. The Board of Education and the Business Office approved all tuition contracts. If there was a problem with the contracts in September, 2013 (two years prior to these Tenure Charges), the attorneys could have advised the Board and the Business Office. The attorneys could have certainly advised the Board that if the student placements were inappropriate, the Board should not pay on the tuition contracts. The tuition contracts were, for the most part, to schools operated by the Orthodox community and the Board of Education majority was Orthodox and approved the contracts. The Board paid on the contracts.

CHARGE FOUR

Charge FOUR references a complaint investigation by the NJDOE, Office of Special Programs (OSEP) in January, 2014. The complaint was filed with the NJDOE by Michael Inzelbuch. Subsequently, the NJDOE substantiated the complaint and issued a corrective action plan (CAP) to the school district to place students in approved placements. The CAP was just that a plan to correct past problems. Like most CAPs, the district was given a timeline to make corrections. As Ms. Tobia testified, the school district was given a year. Not coincidently, Ms. Sinatra, the special education monitor, was not called by the district to discuss what progress the district was making towards correcting the deficiencies. Rather, the Charges cite deficiencies that were noted by the CAP, but do not indicate how and when the deficiencies were corrected. (See Board document 15) Further this CAP was placed on the Lakewood School District, not Ms. Tobia. This Charge against Ms. Tobia was never proven and Ms. Tobia denies any deliberate refusal to perform her duties. She further denies any gross misconduct which would warrant her dismissal.

CHARGES FIVE, SIX, SEVEN AND EIGHT

Essentially Charge FIVE concerns the placement of two brothers, Y.S. and S.S. The Charge is about a special education matter that was closed by the state in November, 2014. It erroneously indicates that Ms. Tobia continued tuition payments, when it was well established at the hearing that tuition contracts are reviewed by Special Education Counsel and approved by the Board and the Business Office. Quite clearly, Ms. Tobia does not pay the bills, which requires Board approval and payment from the Business Office. Charges SIX, SEVEN and EIGHT deal with the interaction between Ms. Tobia and Schenck, Price attorneys, Alison Kenny, Esq. and Kate Gilfillan, Esq. Again nothing in these Charges warrants dismissal of Ms. Tobia. With regards to the mediation process in which Ms. Tobia and Ms. Gilfillan were involved, it must be noted that pursuant to NJDOE special education regulations, the substance of mediation is confidential. While Ms. Gilfillan testified as to her recollection of the substance of the mediation, consistent with this requirement, Ms. Tobia did not divulge the substance of what occurred, but indicated that she disagreed with Ms. Gilfillan's characterization of the confidential discussions. (Testimony of Helen Tobia, Pp 33 to 40).

CHARGE NINE

Charge NINE revolves around a series of emails concerning 504 Plans. This is another charge that involves other supervisors not wanting to make a decision in an area of their responsibility. This charge alleges that Ms. Tobia directed staff to discontinue use of 504 Plans in the Spring, 2013. At this time, Mr. Freund was the District's 504 Coordinator and Adina Weisz was the Supervisor of Related Services. In Board document (9), there is an initial inquiry by e-mail concerning 504 Plans and a request for guidelines from Mr. Freund and annual reviews of 504 Plans. The process for 504 Plans is outlined by Ms. Tobia in a March 25, 2013 e-mail. In May, 2013, Ms. Weisz indicates to Mr. Freund that there was no doctor's note for a student whose 504 Plan was signed on 1/23/12 and to please advise. Instead of Weisz or Freund making a decision, they inquire to Ms. Tobia on how to proceed. From the dates in the e-mail, the plan is past the annual review date and there is no doctor's note supporting the 504 Plan, so Ms. Tobia responds to throw it out, meaning it's not valid. The proper procedure should be used as outlined in the March 25, 2013 e-mail. During these proceedings, the school district did not name one student who was improperly denied a 504 Plan and to this day, 504 Plans continue to be written in Lakewood. There simply is no wrongdoing on behalf of Ms. Tobia.

CHARGE TEN

Charge TEN alleges, at various time during the 2013-2014 school year, that Ms. Tobia instructed various staff members to enter into individual agreements for student placement at non-approved yeshivas. First and foremost, during this school year, Mr. Freund was the Supervisor of the Child Study Teams, not Ms. Tobia. Another example of Ms. Tobia being blamed for someone else's responsibility. However, more importantly, in the NJDOE letter to Laura Winters, Superintendent, dated April 28, 2014 concerning "Review of Corrective Action Plan..." (Board document - 15), the NJDOE found that with regard to item #1, the district was to revise its procedures for placing students in unapproved schools. The district submitted its procedures and they satisfied the OSEP directive. Ms. Tobia denies any wrongdoing and the NJDOE was satisfied with the procedures in place.

CHARGE ELEVEN

Charge ELEVEN deals with a request by Schenck, Price attorney, Alison Kenny, Esq. to have Ms. Tobia sign an affidavit in a case that she was not involved. In or about April and June, 2015, a request was made by, who else, Michael Inzelbuch, Esq., for independent student evaluations. Ms. Kenny was working with Mr. Freund, Supervisor of Child Study Teams on this matter. When the request from Mr. Inzelbuch was sent by fax to a no longer operating fax number, Ms. Kenney wanted Ms. Tobia to sign an affidavit to that effect.

Conveniently Mr. Freund was not available. Ms. Tobia would not sign an affidavit in a case that she was not familiar with. Having been "burnt" in an affidavit drafted by Joanne Butler, Esq, a Schenck, Price attorney, that Ms. Tobia signed 2 years before. ("Trust me, I know what I'm doing), Ms. Tobia would not sign. The affidavit could have been signed by the Supervisor of Technology, as to the inoperative number, but he refused as well. There was nothing preventing Ms. Kenny from submitting an affidavit based on what was told to her or telecommunicating with Mr. Freund to sign. Simply put, the refusal by Ms. Tobia to sign an affidavit in a case that she was not involved does not amount to unbecoming conduct and does not warrant any discipline.

CHARGE TWELVE

Charge TWELVE is a non-issue involving a memorandum from 2006 to Ms. Tobia from then Assistant Superintendent William Anderson. The memorandum was not disciplinary in any sense, but rather an outline of job duties. As Ms. Tobia testified her duties had changed over the past 10 years and part of that time, she was an assistant principal.

CHARGES THIRTEEN THROUGH SEVENTEEN

Charges THIRTEEN THROUGH SEVENTEEN are a regurgitation of regulations and policies that are generic to all. Nowhere in the hearing did the Board produce a verbal or written reprimand citing Ms. Tobia's failure to comply with the policies and/or regulations. Furthermore, the failure to follow policy amounts to inefficiency. There are no negative evaluations or individual corrective action plan for Ms. Tobia to improve her performance and there certainly was no progressive discipline before these charges were filed.

CHARGE EIGHTEEN

Charge EIGHTEEN is a catch-all. Ms. Tobia denies any wrongdoing, inefficiency or unbecoming conduct which individually or collectively would warrant her dismissal.

CONCLUSION

As set forth in the beginning, these charges revolve around the change of the school district's attorneys on or about July 1, 2013; Ms. Tobia's interaction with the "new" attorneys; litigation matters and special education demands by a former board attorney and special education consultant/director; and the "culture of fear" which the State Monitor, Michael Azzara, testified to existing in Lakewood Orthodox staff members, [who] were afraid of repercussion in the Orthodox community, if they made the "wrong" decision. Each of the Charges had been answered in the preceding text. None, whether individually or collectively, warrant Ms. Tobia's removal from her tenured position in Lakewood School District, where she has served honorably for 21 years. Included for the arbitrator's convenience is N.J.A.C 6A:3-5.1 et. seq., the Department of Education regulations concerning Tenure Charges. Of note, with regard to the charges of inefficiency, the regulations require that the evaluation process be followed. Here the process was not followed because the Board did not produce any evaluation instrument. Simply put there are no negative evaluations of Ms. Tobia's job performance and no progressive discipline of any kind.

Also included for convenience is the enabling legislation, referred to as the Teach NJ ACT N.J.S.A. 18A:6-117 et. seq. The Act addresses "corrective action plan", "evaluation" and "individual professional development plan", none of which has been followed in this matter. The only Charge which really refers to unbecoming conduct is Charge 1, lying under oath. This Charge was addressed (see Response to Charge 1) and even in the Howard matter where Dr. Howard (the case relied upon by the Board) admittedly lied under oath, his penalty was 120 days suspension of pay. Again, in this matter Ms. Tobia did not lie under oath.

For all the foregoing, respondent, Helen Tobia, respectfully requests that the Arbitrator determine that she is not guilty of any wrongdoing, inefficiency or unbecoming conducts which individually or collectively warrant her removal from her tenured positions. Alternatively, if the arbitrator determines that some penalty is warranted, Ms. Tobia requests that the penalty be less than dismissal.

VI. STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Notice is taken at the outset that the tenure laws of our State were originally enacted and designed to establish a "competent and efficient school system," and to protect teaching and other staff from dismissal for "unfounded, flimsy or political reasons. See generally, Viemeister v. Prospect Park Board of Education, 5 N.J. Super, 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949); Spiewak v. Rutherford Board of Education, 90 N.J. 63 (1982). The statutory status of a tenured individual should accordingly not be lightly removed. See, In re Tenure Hearing of Claudia Ashe-Gilkes, City of East Orange School District, 2009 WL 246266 (January 12, 2009), adopted by the Commissioner of Education (May 2, 2009).

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 provides that a tenured teacher may not be dismissed or reduced in compensation "except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause..." As the moving party in this disciplinary matter, the District encumbers the prefatory burden of making a prima facie showing that it has satisfied or established the sufficiency of the unbecoming conduct and other just cause tenure charges by a preponderance of the credible evidence. See, Cumberland Farms, Inc. v. Moffett, 218 N.J. Super. 331, 341 (App. Div. 1987); In re Tenure Hearing of Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 23 (App. Div. 1974 cert. denied 65 N.J. 292 (1974)); In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567, 575 (1990); In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); In re Tenure Hearing of Ziznewski, A-0083-10T1, 2012 WL 1231874 (New Jersey Sup. Ct. App. Div. April 13, 2012) (unreported); see also, State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975) (defining preponderance as the "[g]reater weight of the credible evidence in the case."); Bornstein v. Metropolitan Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958); Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546, 554-555 (1954); see also, In re Polk License Revocation, 90 N.J. 550, 560 (1982); In re Tenure Hearing of Tyler, 236 N.J. Super 478 (App. Div. 1989); In re Tenure Hearing of Marrero, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 104 (Cmm'r of Educ. 1996).

Should that be accomplished, the burden of production will shift to Respondent to proffer and establish her affirmative or exculpatory defenses. In that event, the burden will finally return to the District to rebut this showing with substantial, credible evidence. Once a determination has been made of whether the tenure charges have been established, Petitioner is then tasked with the additional burden of demonstrating that the dismissal of Ms. Tobia for the charged conduct is warranted. In deciding whether to remove Respondent from her tenured administrative position with the Lakewood Township School District, I am required to consider the totality of the circumstances, the nature of the act(s) and the impact on her career. See, In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 421 (App. Div. 1967).

In Karins v. Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532 (1998), the Supreme Court of New Jersey determined the phrase unbecoming conduct "is an elastic one that has been defined as 'any conduct which adversely affects the morale or efficiency of the bureau... [or] which has a tendency to destroy public respect for municipal employees and confidence in the operation of municipal services.'" citing, In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 164 A.2d 184 (App. Div. 1990) (quoting, In re Zeber, 398 Pa. 35, 156 A. 2d. 821, 825 (1959); see also, Laba v. Board of Education, 23 N.J. 364, 129 A.2d 271 (1957); I/M/O The Tenure Hearing of Christopher Molokwu, OAL Docket No. EDU 9650-04 (Jones, ALJ)

Following a comprehensive analysis of all evidence of record, with full consideration given to the respective positions of the parties as well as the case citation, I find that the Petitioner made its prefatory showing which was not rebutted by Respondent, requiring that the instant tenure charges be SUSTAINED. The facts of the instant case are both disputed and undisputed, and with respect to the former, the District's version is credited over that of the Respondent. They are found to be the following:

1. Helen Tobia has been employed by the Lakewood Board of Education for the period of a little over 21 years. At all times that are relevant for the purposes of this proceeding, she held the position of a tenured supervisor of Social Studies, Fine Arts and Pupil Personnel Services since October 2012. Ms. Tobia was also previously the supervisor of the Child Study Teams from 2012 – 2013, an assistant principal from 2007 until 2012, and served as a teacher of special education within the District. T6:7-24; T7:1-25 (December 15, 2015).

2. In October of 2011, then-Lakewood Superintendent of Schools Silva had asked Ms. Tobia to assist her with the Child Study Team and other special education issues. These duties were performed along with the assistant principal responsibilities until the supervisor of Child Study Team job was assumed in 2012. During the initial period of time in 2011, Michael Inzelbuch was still Board counsel, later being replaced by the SCHWARTZ, SIMON, EDELSTEIN & CELSO firm in April 2012, with Marc Mucciolo, Esq. assigned to work with the District on special education matters.T8:13-21; T10:21-23; T11:2-5.

3. Regarding out-of-district contracts for special education students, the practice would be that the contracts would be prepared by the receiving school and come into the Pupil Personnel Office, which would review the student's name and placement. At that point, the contracts were sent to the Board counsel as well as the Business Office for review, eventually being placed on the Board agenda for approval. T9:15-25; T10:1-19; T13:2-4.

4. The procedure for the preliminary review of out of district contracts prior to Board adoption was modified somewhat following the replacement of the SCHWARTZ, SIMON firm by SCHENCK, PRICE, SMITH & KING firm which took over on or about July 1, 2013. After initially forwarding the contracts to Marc Zitomer, Esq. and on to Joseph Roselle, Esq., at some point Business Administrator D'Ambola advised Ms. Tobia that he would be reviewing them and would speak to SCHENCK PRICE as need be on the contracts. T13:9-22. See also, Respondent Exhibits 4A – 4F.

5. In or about July 2013, the parents of pre-school Lakewood student M.W. filed a Due Process & Emergent Relief Petition against the District through their counsel, Michael I. Inzelbuch, Esq. This sought placement of the child at the Special Children's Center ("SCC"), which was not an approved/or accredited special education school, pursuant to M.W.'s April 3, 2013 IEP. T26:3-25; T27:14-24; T28:4-7 (November 23, 2015); August 6, 2015 AFFIDAVIT OF JOANNE L. BUTLER, ESQ, at Joint Exhibit 2, Tab 1.

6. Upon receiving the petition, on July 11, 2015, Schenck, Price Partner Joanne L. Butler, Esq. contacted Ms. Tobia by telephone. They then discussed the facts of the case for approximately thirty-five (35) minutes. During the conversation, Ms. Tobia told Ms. Butler that M.W.'s IEP called for placement at SCC but that Janina Zak-Krasucki, Supervisor of Child Study at the Ocean County Office of the New Jersey Department of Education had verbally advised her that students could not be placed at SCC because it was not approved or accredited and could not satisfy the Naples requirements. Ms. Tobia also indicated that there was a computer based curriculum; that there were very few, if any, certified teachers; and that there were religious symbols, icons, around the building as well as writing in Hebrew on the building. The issue of SCC being a religious school was significant, because even if a school is unapproved but accredited, a student may be placed there if the Naples criteria are satisfied. There is a prohibition against any placement in a religious school, however. T28:18-22; T34:21-25; T35:1-25; T36:1-20; Ibid; see also, NOTES at Petitioner Exhibit 1.

7. The District through Ms. Tobia had discussed with the parents the potential of placing M.W. at either the Lakewood Early Children's Center or the School for Children with Hidden Intelligence ("SCHI"), which were both approved special education schools. Upon being told that the District could no longer honor M.W.'s placement at the SCC and that he would have to be removed, the parents then filed for the emergent relief, seeking to trigger the stay put provisions that would not permit any change in the student's placement at that time. T29:22-25; T30:1-25; T31:1-8; Ibid.

8. Upon receiving the M.W. file, Ms. Butler knew nothing about the operation of the SCC or any other of the local schools, and had never personally visited the SCC. As the District was going to oppose the application for emergent relief by arguing that it was legally prevented from maintaining the SCC placement as stay put based upon the verbal directive from the DOE, Ms. Butler spoke to Ms. Tobia about the need to have an affidavit discussing the facts of the case to present to the court. Included in the same as a defense, was the fact that SCC was a religious school.T32:11-25; T33:1-11; T37:10-21; Ibid.

9. Following the July 11, 2013 call to Ms. Tobia, Ms. Butler prepared an answer, a letter memorandum, and the affidavit on behalf of the Lakewood School District. After reviewing the affidavit, Ms. Tobia sent back handwritten changes in two sets of revisions by e-mail. No changes were made by Ms. Tobia to the references to religious symbols and icons present in and around the building that appear in ¶ 32 at the bottom of page 4 in either version or at page 5 of the July 12, 2013 final document that was executed by Ms. Tobia. T38:5-19; T40:25; T41:1-25; T42:1-25; T43:1-25; Joint Exhibit 2, Id., at Tab 1, Exhibits A, B, C.

10. On July 16, 2013, ALJ Kerins granted the motion for emergent relief on behalf of M.W. and ordered that he be enrolled at the Special Children's Center with all supports and services as specified in his April 3, 2013 IEP. At page 5 of the decision, the ALJ remarked that "[i]t should be noted that respondent has raised an issue whether SCC is sectarian. However, it provided no evidence in that regard and petitioners dispute any such assertion." Id. at Exhibit D; T44:16-22; T45:5-10. Ms. Butler later provided a copy of this decision to Ms. Tobia as well as District Superintendent Winters. At no point subsequent to this period of time, did Ms. Tobia indicate to Ms. Butler that this was not a true statement.T46:5-19.

11. Ms. Tobia later recanted her position that the SCC was a religious school during direct examination by Mr. Inzelbuch in an unrelated L.F. OAL matter, when on March 23, 2015 she denied that SCC was a sectarian placement or that she ever thought that it was, and had no idea why she had signed the affidavit. Joint Exhibit 2, Id., at Tab 5, T268; 271; 275.

12. According to State Monitor Michael Azzara, Ms. Tobia had negative feelings toward the SCC. These included that if it was approved by the State, it would bankrupt the District; her refusal to sign a Needs Assessment in support of the SCC's application to receive State approval. T21:17-19; T17:9-14.

13. Chana Zentman has served as a school social worker/case manager with the Lakewood School District for a period of eleven

(11) years. Her job responsibilities require her to evaluate, develop, plan and implement the IEPs of special needs children and to serve as a resource/liaison between the school and the parents. Ms. Zentman assisted teachers in implementing the IEPs, and made sure they were implemented. She additionally served as a member of the Child Study Team in connection with her school social worker responsibilities. T5:23-25; T6:1-25. [December 1, 2015].

14. In May of 2013, Ms. Tobia assigned Ms. Zentman to serve as the case manager for student D.D., and directed her to hold an eligibility meeting for the student. At that time, the CST was to review the results of D.D.'s evaluations and determine whether the child was eligible for special education and related services. While such a determination must be made collaboratively by the CST, on May 29, 2013 Ms. Tobia copied Ms. Zentman on an e-mail which stated that she was to schedule the eligibility meeting, and that "[t]he student is not eligible. The judge ordered/agreed to certain evaluations. Omy will scan you copies of the evaluations." Ms. Zentman became concerned, because the student had been determined not eligible for special education when she had not yet reviewed the results of his evaluations and did not know what this determination was based on. See, Joint Exhibit 2, Tab 12; T9:16-25; T10:4-10; T11:4-8; T13:24-25; T14.

15. Later in the afternoon of May 29, 2013, Ms. Zentman replied to Ms. Tobia's e-mail, stating "I have some concerns in regard to this. I am in the process of gathering some information and investigating myself. I would like to discuss this with you. Please let me know when you are available to discuss with me." Ms. Tobia responded to Ms. Zentman later that evening, explaining "I am not available to meet until next week. In the meantime, please schedule the meeting. I have the documentation which court orders us to proceed. We will meet to discuss. The student is not eligible and based on the assessments will not be eligible for special ed. and related services. We cannot wait until we meet to send out the meeting notice. Please send it out tomorrow and send me a copy. I must send a copy of the meeting notice to our attorney. Omy will schedule a meeting for next week after you have reviewed the documentation to address your concerns." Id. at Tab 13; T14:19-25; T15:1-15.

16. The eligibility meeting for D.D. was held on June 17, 2013, with the mother; LDTC; special education teacher; school psychologist; regular education teacher; case manager; and translator signing the attendance sheet. After the meeting, and per the ELIGIBILITY CONFERENCE REPORT ("Report"), D.D. was found not to meet the criteria for special education and related services. The June 14, 2013 date in the lower right hand corner of each page indicates that the Report was generated prior to the actual eligibility meeting. See, Petitioner Exhibit 3; T19:14-25; T20:1-8; T21:1-7.

17. Prior to the eligibility meeting, Ms. Zentman continued to express concern to Ms. Tobia concerning D.D.'s eligibility for special education and related services. On June 6, 2013, Ms. Zentman e-mailed Ms. Tobia after receiving a doctor's report on the child. This stated: "[t]he doctor mentions in #5 that 'the student is appropriate to receive all supporting educational services possible for them to be academically successful. Possible classification under Other Health Impaired or Emotionally Disturbed would be appropriate for [D.D.].' In the summary of his psychological evaluation it states 'they may also want to consider an Other Health Impairment or 504 plan if medical documentation is supportive.' Helen, this seems to be a strong indication to classify which concerns me if we are going to be determining ineligible. Please advise how we should proceed and deal with this information. Thanks for your support." Ms. Zentman also spoke to the Union president, who advised her to follow Ms. Tobia's directive or risk a charge of insubordination. See, Petitioner Exhibit 6; T21:8-25; T22:1-23.

18. Later in the afternoon of June 6th, Ms. Tobia answered Ms. Zentman's e-mail: "Chana, are you implying that you think the student should be classified? RTI? SST? Was the I & RS process ever completed with this student? Has anyone ever raised a concern regarding this child's ability to learn? Please provide me with an extensive list of strategies and interventions, work samples and frequency and duration of each; date, an FBA and documentation to support that interventions were provided to this student. Ms. Zentman replied to Ms. Tobia on June 7th, saying, "Helen, No I was not implying this student should be classified. I just wanted to clarify this point since this is a legal case. I appreciate your guidance and support always." Ibid; T23:1-15.

19. Ms. Zentman also approached the then-supervisor of the Child Study Team Elchanan Freund regarding the situation. Mr. Freund never discussed the situation with Ms. Tobia, but was privy to a discussion Mr. Zentman had with her on speakerphone at the conclusion of an I & RS meeting, when Ms. Tobia essentially told them both that the child was not eligible. At that time, Ms. Zentman had advised Ms. Tobia that there was something they could go on, but the latter was adamant that the child could not be found eligible. T20:20-25; T21:1-24; T22:1-25. [November 23, 2015].

20. Based upon the lack of eligibility finding, the parents of D.D. then filed for due process. Ms. Zentman testified in that matter, consistent with the testimony presented in the instant case on December 1, 2015. Ms. Tobia also presented testimony on behalf of the Board in the D.D. due process hearing. On cross-examination by Mr. Inzelbuch, Ms. Tobia: admitted the bottom of the ELIGIBILITY CONFERENCE REPORT indicates that it was written June 14, 2013, while the conference was held on June 17, 2013; agreed 100 % that "we do not write up Eligibility Conference Reports ahead of time, because the Child Study Team and the parent determine all of the things that will happen at the meeting and they are then put in; that is apparently what happened in the D.D. case as ineligibility was determined before the meeting; she had spoken to the case manager who did not agree with what Ms. Tobia had said, but that was her interpretation based on the documents; Joint Exhibit 2, Tab 8 at T147:23-25, T148:1-25, T149:1-4.

21. As a result of that litigation, it was determined in January 2014 that D.D. was eligible for special education and related services, classified as Multiply Disabled, and should receive an out-of-District placement. (CZ)T23:23-25; T24:22-25; T25:1-11.

22. Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 mandates that qualifying students with disabilities receive necessary accommodations and modifications to their educational program, to ensure that they have access to education at the same level as their non-disabled peers. These children receive a Section 504 Plan, detailing the confines for the implementation of the accommodations, which are usually related to physical disabilities. By contrast, students with cognitive disabilities are referred to the Child Study Team for possible classification and eligibility for special education and related services. (A.W.)T9:14-22; T10:6-12. [December 14, 2015].

23. Included in Ms. Tobia's job responsibilities as Supervisor of Pupil Personnel Services was oversight of the Section 504 and IEP process during the 2012 – 2013 School Year. In or about April of 2013, Respondent issued a directive to all staff that the use of new Section 504 Plans in the District should be discontinued as too many students were being provided with them. T8:13-15; T9:2-4; (EF)T60:10-22; (JK)T24:4-7.

24. Supervisor of Related Services Adina Weisz is charged with implementing the occupational, physical and speech therapy programs contained with the Section 504 Plans. On May 17, 2013, Ms. Weisz sent an e-mail to 504 Coordinator Mr. Freund with a copy to Respondent seeking direction concerning occupational therapy services for a student under the 504 Plan. Joint Exhibit 2, Tab 9. Although Ms. Tobia had instructed that the 504 Plans should be discontinued, this 504 Plan had already been signed by the parties, thereby legally requiring the District to implement the same. T13:16-24; T28:25; T29:4.

25. Ms. Weisz e-mailed Mr. Freund again on May 24, 2013, and copied Ms. Tobia. Respondent replied to Ms. Weisz to "throw it out." Ms. Weisz did not discard the 504 Plan, however, based upon Ms. Tobia's e-mail, it was not implemented. In August of 2013, Ms. Weisz e-mailed Ms. Tobia stating "please advise if we will be servicing students for occupational therapy under a 504 Plan for the 2013 – 2014 School Year, as there were some concerns last year." See, Joint Exhibit 2, Tab 9. In an e-mail dated August 26, 2013, Respondent advised Ms. Weisz that rather than implement Section 504 Plans, the staff was to refer all children to the Child Study Team for a determination of whether they were eligible for special education. Ms. Tobia replied "yes," when asked by Ms. Weisz if she meant all new and existing 504 requests. Ibid. On November 20, 2013, a number of the District staff approached Ms. Gilfillan during a training session, and informed her of Respondent's directive not to utilize Section 504 Plans and asking whether the directive was legal. (KAG)T33:16-23; T36:1-4; Joint Exhibit 2, Tab 2 at ¶¶23-24.

26. The Lakewood School District had an affirmative obligation to provide students who do not qualify for special education and related services under IDEA with services, including evaluations, through a 504 Plan. T34:1-4. During the 2012 – 2013 School Year, approximately 36 students were serviced under a 504 Plan, and in the 2013 – 2014 School Year no students received this accommodation. (A.W.)T18:10-18; (JK)T38:18-34. Child Study team Member Jennifer Kaznowski testified that there was "absolutely an increase in CST referrals due to the elimination of Section 504 Plans in the District." T26:9-11.

27. Following the November 20th training session, Counsel Gilfillan met with Ms. Tobia, Mr. Freund and Superintendent Winters to inform them that the District was legally prevented from discontinuing 504 Plans. Joint Exhibit 2, Tab 2, ¶24. Respondent did not issue additional clarification to District staff or retract the prior directive afterwards. Ibid.

28. Commencing in the Spring of 2013, the Lakewood School District received a significant number of records requests concerning students who had been placed in private, unaccredited and/or religious schools, from Michael Inzelbuch, Esq. (EF)T24:1-25; T5. These sought the students' entire file, and often were a precursor to litigation. At this time, Ms. Tobia had the responsibility of overseeing District litigation matters related to special education students. T11-21; Joint Exhibit 2, Tab 4; AFFIDAVIT of Elchanan Freund, ¶¶5-7.

29. During the time that the records requests were received, Mr. Freund attended a meeting with Ms. Tobia and Ms. Winters, to discuss the requests and potential resulting litigation. T26:2-11. During the meeting, Ms. Tobia instructed Mr. Freund to hold IEP meetings for each student, and to "offer the parents whatever they wanted." T26:13-19. Respondent continued that if the parent sought a placement in an unaccredited, unapproved school, this could be done through the student's IEP. T26:20 – T27:8. Id. at ¶¶5 and 10.

30. Mr. Freund later met with each Child Study Team Member to inform them that per Ms. Tobia, they were to write IEPs for each student and place the child wherever the parents wanted to send the children. T28:20-25. During the summer and fall of 2013, Ms. Tobia also personally met with case managers and directed them to place students in Yeshivas through the use of IEPs. The New Jersey Administrative Code does not permit students to be placed in unaccredited, unapproved schools or religious yeshivas. T29:19-T31:9.

31. In or around September, 2013, Ms. Tobia asked Katherine A. Gilfillan, Esq. of Schenck, Price to review approximately seventy (70) tuition contracts for special education students who had been placed in out-of-District placements. T7:10-25; Exhibit J-2, Tab 2, AFFIDAVIT, ¶3. After reviewing the contracts, Ms. Gilliland was concerned that some of the contracts were being utilized to place children either in unaccredited, unapproved or religious placements. T8:10-17; Id. at ¶4. Therefore, in a correspondence dated September 25, 2013, Ms. Gilfillan advised Ms. Tobia that the contracts governing the placement of students in yeshivas could not be approved, and that without State approval the Board would legally not be able to enter into those agreements. T9:20-23; Id. at Exhibit 1 attached to AFFIDAVIT.

32. In or about January 2014, a complaint was filed with the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs ("OSEP") by Mr. Inzelbuch. This related to the District's placing of students in yeshivas, in particular the decision to place student Y.T. in Yeshiva Tiferes Torah ("YTT") for the 2013 – 2014 School Year. Id. at Tab 14.

33. Y.T. attended the approved and accredited SCHI during the 2012 – 2013 School Year. (GN)T8:22-T9:2. In or around January 2013, Case Manager Gila Nussbaum began reevaluating the student for the coming 2013 – 2014 School Year. The student's father advised Ms. Nusssbaum that he wanted Y.T. to attend YTT as a public school student through an IEP, and also told her he had spoken with Ms. Tobia and that they had already reached an agreement to place Y.T. in YTT as a public school student during the 2013 – 2014 School Year. T11:7-18; T8:14-17; T14:2-7. Ms. Nussbaum and the CST then arranged for Y.T. to attend YTT under an IEP, with Ms. Nussbaum sending a letter to the parents on April 8, 2013, confirming that Y.T. was to attend YTT full-time as a public school student, "per the Director of Pupil Personnel Services." Ms. Tobia e-mailed Ms. Nussbaum on April 6, 2013, verifying that Y.T. was to be a public school student while attending YTT, and that the District would enter into a parent agreement with the parents under which they would be reimbursed for costs related to the education. No Naples application was generated and State approval was not approved to place the student there. T20:10-14; T14:22; T15:4; T21:1-11; Petitioner Exhibit 4; Respondent Exhibit 1.

34. OSEP substantiated the Inzelbuch complaint in or around March 2014, and placed the Lakewood School District on a Corrective Action Plan ("CAP"), which required the District to submit a list of all students who were being educated in unapproved placements, with any supporting documentation demonstrating the approval of any of the placements by either an ALJ or the State. See, Joint Exhibit 2 at Tab 14. This found inter alia that Ms. Tobia had issued a directive to the IEP Team that it should write an IEP placing the student at YTT, which was an unapproved, unaccredited yeshiva. Id. at ¶7. A further finding was made that the District had failed to follow procedures in placing the student in an unapproved placement. Id., at ¶¶8, 10; Tab 15.

35. Ms. Gilfillan addressed the initial CAP on behalf of the District, and asked that Ms. Tobia provide her with any approval forms for the placements. Some documentation was initially provided by Respondent, however, ultimately Ms. Tobia was unable to provide evidence supporting the out-of-District placements. T15:4-16; T16:5; Joint Exhibit 2, Id., at Tab 2, ¶¶10,11.

36. A supplemental CAP was issued by OSEP in August 2014, requiring the District to hold IEP meetings for those students who had been placed in yeshivas or other unapproved, unaccredited schools, and to rewrite the same to offer an approved placement for them. T16:25; T17:4; Id. at ¶12.

37. Once the IEP meetings were held, many if not all of the parents of the affected children filed for due process or requested mediation, seeking to maintain the students' placement in the yeshivas. Id., at ¶13. Due to these factors, a large number of work hours and administrative time was expended to respond to the CAP, as well as hold the IEP meetings. The District's State special education funding was also placed at risk. T13:9-21; (EF)T45:14-T46:7; Ibid.

38. In compliance with OSEP's directive to hold IEP meetings for students who had previously been placed into unapproved yeshivas, a meeting was convened on September 15, 2014 for student Y.S. At the conclusion of the meeting, the CST recommended that the student be removed from the yeshiva and placed in the District's Clifton Avenue Elementary School. Ms. Tobia along with Mr. Freund then met with the student's parents and their educational advocate, Rabbi Eisemann. (EF)T50:25; T51:3-21-25; T52:3-9.

39. During the meeting, Ms. Tobia advised Rabbi Eisemann and the family to file for mediation or due process, in order to permit the student to continue in his yeshiva placement under the IDEA's "stay put" provision. T53:24-54:5.

40. In October of 2014, the parents filed a request for mediation for Y.S. as well as a separate one for his brother S.S. The mediations were never held, however, and the DOE closed the files for both students. Because of this fact, new proposed placements for these students returning them to the District should have gone into effect. (KAG)T17:5-9; T18:12-16; (EF)T55:3-21; T56:1-4. In an e-mail dated November 11, 2014, Ms. Gilfillan informed Ms. Tobia of the mediations being closed, that stay put no longer applied, and that the students should be transitioned into their new placements. See, Joint Exhibit 2, Tab 2, Exhibit 6. Respondent failed to implement the new placements for either student, and the District continued to pay the cost of the placement of Y.S. and S.S. in their yeshivas. This inaction was in violation of the OSEP CAP. (KAG)T20:1-2; 3-7; (E.F.)T56:15-19.

41. A similar IEP meeting was convened in October of 2014 with the parents of student M.W., who also had been attending a yeshiva. The Child Study Team concluded at the end of the meeting that the student could be placed at the District's Clifton Avenue School. Ms. Tobia and Mr. Freund later attended a meeting with the child's family and Rabbi Eisemann. At that time, Ms. Tobia advised the family advocate to file for mediation or due process, to maintain the student's placement in the yeshiva. Subsequent to the meeting, a request for mediation was filed, which legally required the District to continue to pay for the placement under stay put. (EF)T57:8-15; T58:2-11, 21; T59:9-14.

42. On December 29, 2014, Ms. Tobia attended mediation sessions for students M.W. and Y.S. along with Alison Kenny, Esq. of Schenck, Price, as representatives of the District. At the start of the mediation, Ms. Tobia informed the parents and the State mediator that the placements proposed by the CST for the students were "completely inappropriate," and agreed to continue the students in their sectarian placements. This action was contrary to the CAP, taken without input from the CST, and Respondent lacked the authority to make such an offer. (ALK)T8:14-17, 23 – T9:4; T9:11-18; AFFIDAVIT, at Joint Exhibit 2, Tab 4, at ¶2-3.

43. The mediator was unable to memorialize Respondent's agreements with the parents in writing, because they were continuations of an illegal placement. T11:9-22.

44. On January 2, 2015, Ms. Gilfillan e-mailed Ms. Tobia to advise her that the agreements concerning Y.S. and M.W. were improper, stating that "[t]hese agreements could be seen as having circumvented the State's directive that these students be placed in approved and accredited placements." See, Joint Exhibit 2, Tab 2, Exhibit 7.

45. On or about March 9, 2015, Ms. Gilfillan and Ms. Tobia attended a mediation for student S.S. Respondent informed counsel that the program proposed for S.S. was wholly inappropriate for him. (KAG)T24:3-12. They then spoke with the case manager, Shana Shiffrin, who stated that the proposed placement was appropriate, and that the student had been accepted into the program. T25:6-17. Id., at ¶20. Rabbi Eisemann requested that the child be permitted to remain in the yeshiva, and Ms. Gilfillan responded that such a placement was improper and that the District could not legally continue the placement. T26:6-9, 16-17. The parents replied that Ms. Tobia had already agreed to continue the placement for Y.S., the brother of S.S., and were surprised and angry that the same agreement could not be reached for S.S. T27:4-12.

46. The mediator then suggested that he, Ms. Tobia and Ms. Gilfillan leave the room, so that the mother of S.S. could speak with the advocate. Respondent refused to do so, and when the mediator again requested that Ms. Gilfillan ask Ms. Tobia to leave the room and "get control of her client," Ms. Tobia shut the door in the attorney's face. Respondent then took part in a conversation with the parents and Rabbi Eisemann for roughly ten (10) minutes before permitting the mediator and Ms. Gilfillan to return to the room. Ms. Gilfillan recorded her concerns about Ms. Tobia's actions during the mediation session in a March 10, 2015 e-mail to State Monitor Michael Azarra, Id., at ¶ 21; Exhibit 9; T28:22-25; T29:8-13.

47. On June 1, 2015, Ms. Kenny e-mailed Ms. Tobia to inquire about the students' placement and advised her that IEPs must be developed to offer an approved, non-sectarian, accredited school, stating "the District cannot begin the 2015 – 2016 School Year with the students in the current sectarian placements." Ms. Tobia replied on June 2, 2015 that the students remained in their current, sectarian placements. The DOE later contacted Mr. Azzara to express disapproval that the Lakewood District was continuing to allow students to remain in yeshivas rather than placing them in approved placements as required by the CAP. (MA)T64:22-25; Id., at Exhibit 8.

48. In May of 2013, the CST held an eligibility meeting for R.M., determining that an out-of-District placement was no longer required, and that an in-District resource program would be appropriate. The student, however needed a climate controlled environment, which Lakewood could not accommodate. School Social Worker Jennifer Kaznowski according made an inquiry as to whether other public school districts had this capability. The child's mother raised the issue of R.M. attending Orchos Chaim, an unapproved and unaccredited yeshiva and advised the school social worker that she would prefer he attend there rather than a public school. (JK)T 7:10-16; T8:19-21; T9:2-7; T10:8-15, 16-T11:3.

49. Based upon her understanding that Ms. Tobia had discussions with Rabbi Mandelbaum, the head Rabbi at the school, Ms. Kaznowski e-mailed Respondent concerning placing the student in the school, informing her that a Naples approval from DOE had not been received. Ms. Tobia responded that an acceptance letter from the school was required, but directed Ms. Kaznowski not to hold up the meeting, and submitted that if the Naples process was not completed by the school a parent agreement would be done providing reimbursement for tuition on a monthly basis. See, Joint Exhibit 2, Tab 10; T11:15-17.

50. In a June 6th follow-up e-mail, Ms. Kaznowski again sought direction from Ms. Tobia regarding student R.M., based upon the fact that he was leaving SCHI prior to the 2013 – 2014 School Year. Respondent replied that "[a]ll IEPs must state an approved placement as recommended by the IEP Team. For existing students who were already placed in other programs, the parents will most probably reject placement. At that point I will meet with the parents to reach an agreement." R.M.'s mother told Ms. Kaznowski that she met with Ms. Tobia on August 6, 2013 to do the parent agreement placing the child at Orchos Chaim. Id, at Tab 11; T20:14-15.

51. Alison Kenny, Esq. was assigned to represent the Lakewood Board of Education in a special education matter involving student J.Q. in April of 2015. After receiving documentation from the parents' attorney in May purporting to show that a request for pre-classification evaluations was sent to Ms. Tobia on April 15, 2015, Ms. Kenny called Respondent on June 1st. Ms. Tobia stated that she had been out of the office that date, but would check with her staff. When no response was received, a follow-up e-mail was sent on June 9th. It was later determined that the request had been sent to an unused facsimile machine and therefore was not received by the District. (ALK) T13:14-18;

T14:1-4; Joint Exhibit 2, Tab 3 at Exhibit 2.

52. The District decided to file for due process to challenge the request for evaluations, with the petition needing to be filed within fifteen (15) days of the date of receipt of the request. It was therefore absolutely essential for a certification to be provided by Ms. Tobia indicating that the parents' fax had not been received, and Ms. Kenny provided the same to her for review on June 16, 2015. Respondent replied to Ms. Kenny and said that she would not certify to the facts in the certification, as she was not familiar with the facts concerning the parents' initial request for evaluations. A revised certification was later forwarded to Ms. Tobia by Ms. Kenny, which was narrowly tailored to focus on whether the initial request for evaluation was received. Respondent did not return the revised certification, or respond to Ms. Kenny, resulting in the District's inability to file the petition seeking to deny the evaluations and accordingly became legally obligated to pay for the same. T16:3-23; T21:1-5, 8-17; T21:23 – T22:9; Board Exhibit 7; Joint Exhibit 2, Id. at Tab. 3.

53. By virtue of her job description, Ms. Tobia was aware of the duties and responsibilities of her position, and due to her education, training and experience, was or should have been aware of the operative State statutes and regulations, and Board policies which were violated by the established unbecoming conduct.

The District's prima facie showing of unbecoming conduct was easily accomplished based upon the voluminous evidence relied upon by the Petitioner in bringing the tenure charges, coupled with the credible testimony of its witnesses. Tenure Charge One pertains to the Due Process & Emergent Relief petition filed by the parents of M.W., which was designed to trigger the stay put provision of the IDEA, thereby permitting the child to remain in the SCC as the out-of-District placement. Ms. Butler provided credible testimony on the District's case-in-chief in this regard. Generally, this recalled that as Schenck, Price had just taken over as Board counsel, the M.W. file was the first one she received.

As such, she was unfamiliar with the SCC (as well as the other schools) and had never been there. She accordingly relied upon the information provided to her by Ms. Tobia, which included inter alia, that this was a religious school with icons and symbols, as well as Hebrew writing on the building. That information was significant, as one of the Naples criteria that prohibits DOE approval of a student placement in an otherwise accredited though unapproved school is that it cannot be a religious school.

This information was later incorporated into an affidavit executed by Ms. Tobia in opposition to M.W.'s application before ALJ Kerins. The ALJ in fact referenced the same in her DECISION, which granted the petition and ordered that M.W. remain at the SCC. However, as the Petitioner has emphasized, although she knew that this assertion was untrue Respondent took no steps to inform the District. Subsequent to this in another unrelated OAL proceeding involving student L.F. two years later, Ms. Tobia recanted her prior position in very damaging testimony that was elicited by Mr. Inzelbuch. In doing so, she: initially denied that SCC was sectarian or that she had ever believed it was; when confronted with her affidavit, agreed that she had read it before signing it; denied that it was her position at the time that SCC was sectarian; denied that she had ever seen any religious symbols or icons on the walls and was there several times; given these facts, was unable to explain why she had signed the affidavit; while denying the statement was false, agreed it was definitely a mistake; agreed that she had reviewed Judge Kerins decision, but did not ever tell her lawyers there was a mistake in her affidavit. See, Joint Exhibit 2, Tab 5.

Given these facts, it is clear that Ms. Tobia submitted an affidavit that she knew or should have known contained false information. The Petitioner's argument is therefore credited that both ALJs and the Commissioner of Education have found that engaging in such a dishonest action constitutes unbecoming conduct. See generally, I/M/O Tenure Hearing of John Howard, OAL Docket No. EDU 7442-01; 2005 N.J. Agen. Lexis 46 (Cmm'r, 2005). In that case, there were two (2) consecutive sets of tenure charges filed by the Board. The Commissioner affirmed the initial ALJ decision sustaining the termination in Howard I. A second hearing then ensued in Howard II, related to the charge of conduct unbecoming charging Dr. Howard had lied under oath during a deposition conducted in anticipation of the Howard I litigation. In finding that the Board properly imposed a second 120 day period of suspension, ALJ Mancini La Fiandra opined:

> [a]s I noted in the Initial Decision in Howard I, the Commissioner has repeatedly and consistently affirmed the importance of holding teaching staff members to a high standard of honesty, integrity and judgment. The Board cites In re Tenure Hearing of Ortiz, 86 S.L.D., aff'd, Comm'r of Ed., 86 S.L.D. 1004, aff'd, St. Bd., 86 S.L.D. 1008, where the Commissioner of Education found that a tenured teacher's falsification of an employment application constituted unbecoming conduct as to warrant dismissal and in In the Matter of Vitacco, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 449, aff'd, Comm'r of Ed., 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 454 where the Commissioner referred to the position of a school superintendent as a person in whom the public is required to place considerable reliance with respect to, among other things, his honesty and integrity. In lying during his deposition, Dr. Howard violated fundamental principles underlying our system of justice in circumstances which, as the Board points out, directly related to his employment. There is no greater breach > of the public trust. I FIND, therefore, the conduct in which Respondent Howard engaged was deceptive and dishonest.

> There is no question that this conduct warrants the imposition of the most severe sanction available. Since dismissal cannot be ordered and, as the Board notes, the only penalty available is forfeiture of the 120 days' pay withheld at the time this suspension was imposed, I CONCLUDE that is the penalty to be imposed in this matter. Further, I CONCLUDE this matter should be referred to the State Board for consideration of revoking Respondent's certificates.

Tenure Charge Two alleges that in her capacity as supervisor of Pupil Personnel Services, Ms. Tobia indicated via e-mail to School Social Worker/Case Manager Chana Zentman that she should schedule an eligibility meeting for student D.D., while directing her that the child should nevertheless be found ineligible for special education and related services.

Ms. Zentman testified credibly to her significant concerns regarding this predetermination decision and multiple attempts to level the playing field by calling Ms. Tobia's attention to comments made in reports by D.D's evaluating doctors, which appeared to weigh in favor of classifying the student. These efforts are memorialized in e-mails as previously discussed, and Mr. Freund testified that he was present when Ms. Zentman called Ms. Tobia and the call was placed on speaker. Respondent then reiterated her prior instructions in no uncertain terms.

Following the perfunctory finding of ineligibility at the June 17, 2013 eligibility meeting with the parent and myriad team members, D.D.'s parents filed for due process. At that time, Ms. Zentman provided testimony consistent with that given before me at the December 1, 2015 hearing with regard to her concerns. For her part Ms. Tobia acknowledged on cross that the ELIGIBILITY CONFERENCE REPORT dated June 14, 2013 amounted to a predetermination of the eligibility status; explained that this is not done before hand, as the parent and the CST determine all the things that will happen at the meeting; and that the case manager had disagreed with her assessment, but allowed that was her assessment based on the documentation. Ultimately, D.D. was found eligible for special education and related services and Ms. Tobia's admissions were recorded in the transcript of the proceeding. See, Joint Exhibit 2, Tab 8.

These facts support the District's posture that Ms. Tobia's actions inter alia, violated numerous State laws, regulations and directives, and most importantly negatively affected the quality of the education provided to a Lakewood student. N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.3(k) provides in relevant part, that a meeting to determine a student's eligibility and develop an IEP shall include the parent, a teacher, the student, one (1) CST member, the case manager, and other appropriate individuals. N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.3(i) requires that the determination as to a student's eligibility shall be made only after the meeting takes place. See also, N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3,5 ("Eligibility shall be determined collaboratively by the participants described in N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.3(k)1."). N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.5(a) further states that

"[w]hen an initial evaluation is completed for a student age three through 21, a meeting ... shall be convened to determine whether the student is eligible for special education and related services. Thereafter, if the student is determined to be eligible, the student's educational program and placement are set forth in the IEP, per N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.7.

Tenure Charge Nine also pertains to Respondent's failure to comply with a statutory mandate. Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 requires that eligible students with disabilities not necessarily eligible for special education and related services receive necessary accommodations or modifications to their educational programs, so that they receive the same level of education as their non-disabled peers. Notwithstanding this clear mandate, as testified to by Ms. Weisz, Mr. Freund, and Ms. Kaznowski, in or about April of 2013, Ms. Tobia issued a directive that no new 504 Plans would be written or provided to students.

Instead, all students would now be referred to the Child Study Team for a special education evaluation. I recognize that the Respondent has objected to the admission of the hearsay statement by Ms. Kaznowski that staff members were talking about Respondent's 504 Plan directive. However, as Petitioner has countered, and my bench ruling found, hearsay evidence is admissible in this forum, subject to the residuum rule. See e.g., I/M/O The Tenure Hearing of Cowan, 224 N.J. Super. 737 (App. Div. 1988 at p. 8) citing, Weston v. State, 60 N.J. 36 (1972) (the ultimate finding of fact must be supported by a residuum of competent evidence.).

When asked by Supervisor of Related Services Adina Weisz in an e-mail if this meant that students should not be provided an evaluation or therapy under a 504 Plan, Respondent confirmed that was the case. See, Joint Exhibit 2, Tab 9. Furthermore, when Ms. Weisz inquired on May 17, 2013 as to whether a particular student's 504 Plan should be implemented because it had been signed by the child's parents legally requiring the District to follow it, Ms. Tobia told Ms. Weisz to "throw it out."

The end result was that the District did not implement or adhere to any 504 Plans during the 2013 – 2014 School Year, resulting in a significant number of referrals to the Child Study Teams notwithstanding the fact that the children may have needed an accommodation rather than a classification. And following a number of staff approaching Ms. Gilfillan during a November 20, 2013 training session, inquiring as to the discontinuance of the 504 Plans, the attorney held a meeting with Mr. Freund, Ms. Tobia and Superintendent Winters. At that time, Ms. Gilfillan advised them that they could not legally discontinue 504 Plans. Despite this guidance, Ms. Tobia never rescinded her earlier directive or issued a clarification. These actions contravened the clear and unambiguous language of Section 504, 34 C.F.R. 104 and constitute unbecoming conduct under the operative case law.

Tenure Counts Three, Four and Ten generally chronicle Ms. Tobia's

further directives that classified students be placed at unapproved and sometimes unaccredited private schools, including yeshivas. The Naples Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:46-14 allows the CST to place a classified student in an unapproved out-of-District school if a suitable special education program cannot be provided elsewhere. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:14-6.5, the placement must be approved by the Commissioner of Education and only when inter alia, (1) the school is accredited; (2) the school is the most appropriate placement for the student; (3) the requirements of the student's IEP are met; (4) the school provides services which are nonsectarian. Id. at (b). See also, H.W. and J.W. o/b/o A.W. v. Greater Brunswick Charter School and Highland Park Bd. Of Education, OAL Docket No. EDS 905-00 (August 28, 2001).

The evidence of record as buttressed by the credible testimony of Ms. Nussbaum and Mr. Freund underpins the District's position that Ms. Tobia entered into numerous agreements with parents and approved the placement of students at yeshivas without proper Naples approval being received or even sought. As a practical matter, due to the sectarian nature of the yeshivas, they would be eliminated from consideration under any circumstances.

Nevertheless, Ms. Tobia repeatedly attempted to pull an "end-run" around the State special education regulations by writing the illegal placements into the IEPs, and entering into private contracts with the parents that provided for direct reimbursement. In response to numerous record requests from the District's nemesis Mr. Inzelbuch in the Spring of 2013, which would eventually trigger litigation, Respondent went so far as to direct Mr. Freund to hold IEP meetings and "give the parents anything they wanted." This message was then passed along to the Child Study Team members.

Mr. Inzelbuch initiated a complaint with OSEP with regard to one of these placements, Y.T. Following an investigation, a CAP was issued and included within the FINDINGS OF FACT was that Respondent had issued a directive to the IEP Team that it should write an IEP placing the student at the unapproved, unaccredited yeshiva. Among the provisions of the CAP was that the District was to hold IEP meetings for all of the students in the unaccredited, unapproved private schools, with an approved placement offered. Ms. Tobia, however, did not adhere to this requirement and did not transfer any of the students to new placements, as Ms. Gilfillan remarked during her testimony. See, Joint Exhibit 2, Tab 14.

Were these transgressions not enough, the District has also established to my satisfaction that Respondent acted in a grossly insubordinate way, which also constitutes unbecoming conduct. See generally, I/M/O The Certificates of Jennifer Turner, DOE Docket No. 0405-257 (2005). A consistent theme throughout the charges is Ms. Tobia's concerted attempts to adopt positions in meetings with parents and others that were diametrically opposed to the best interests of the Lakewood School District and contrary to Board counsel's legitimate and legal positions that were being advanced. As detailed in Tenure Charges Five and Six, this took place with regard to students S.S., Y.S. and

M.W. More particularly, this was evident at the mediation sessions that provided the basis for Tenure Charges Seven and Eight, where Respondent's behavior may only be characterized as outrageous, when she refused to leave the room at the mediator's request and then slammed the door in Ms. Gilfillan's face. Tenure Charge Eleven also bears stark testimony to Ms. Tobia's obstinate nature, when she refused to even reply to Ms. Kenny and sign an affidavit that had been narrowly tailored to only confirm the fact that she had not received the parent's request for evaluations by fax. The cumulative result of Respondent's actions was that she incurred countless additional and needless financial expenses for the Lakewood Board of Education, and meaningfully compromised the educational entitlements of a fragile special education population that she was immutably obligated to assist. In doing so, she violated numerous State statutes and regulations, as well as the Board policies cited by the District and engaged in repetitive unbecoming conduct within the contemplation of Karins and its progeny. See also, I/M/O Margaret Sidbery, OAL Docket No. EDU 0952-97S (Harned, ALJ); I/M/O Certificates of Oberwanowicz, Docket No. 0910-218 (2014).

The District's prima facie showing having been accomplished, the burdens of production and persuasion shift to the Respondent. My attention is initially directed to the uniqueness of the Lakewood School District, coupled with the composition of its School Board. The record indicates that as Mr. Azarra testified and Respondent underlined, there are approximately 6,400 children enrolled in the Lakewood public schools, with roughly another 25,000 attending sectarian schools, primarily Orthodox yeshivas. The Board of Education is primarily comprised of Orthodox Jews. On these bases, Respondent concludes that the operation of the public schools is controlled by members of the Orthodox community.

Respondent has seized upon the testimony of the state monitor that upon his arrival in Lakewood his impression was that a "culture of fear" existed among Orthodox staff members, who feared reprisal from the Orthodox community for any decisions viewed as contrary. Mr. Azarra's testimony that Senator Singer had advised him to fire Ms. Tobia, is also amplified. These contentions are all supported by the evidence. As the involvement of politics, sectarian and non-sectarian alike, is not unusual in school districts around our state, the operative question becomes whether this consideration was a motivating factor in whole or in part for the personnel decision made.

The totality of the evidence convinces me that it was not. Instead, Mr. Azarra's testimony was credible and at times incredibly candid. The testimony of the Schenck, Price attorneys was likewise straight forward, reliable and credible. The same may be said of the lay witnesses who testified for the District, some who courageously did so under subpoena. These findings require the conclusion that not an ounce of proof has been provided by Respondent in support of her further position that as a result of the pervasive culture, Orthodox staff members were reluctant to make hard decisions on issues related to the special education and related services of Lakewood children and went to Ms. Tobia instead because she was not Orthodox. Nor do I believe that Mr. Azarra was assigned to Lakewood by the State Department of Education merely to address the courtesy busing issue, as he plainly testified that was one of the issues as well as out-of-District special education costs. The latter of course is partially related to the instant tenure charges.

Any suggestion that Ms. Tobia was somehow "set-up as the fall guy" by the inaction of her colleagues is not supported by the evidentiary record, as it is abundantly clear to me that Respondent was at all times, "driving the bus." Mr. Freund in fact, testified to the general reluctance of staff members to question the directives of Ms. Tobia. Respondent's testimony was inconsistent, self-serving and at times incredible. In Abbott Northwestern Hospital, 94 LA 621, 630-631 (Berquist, 1990), Arbitrator Berquist provides a useful balancing test for analyzing the credibility of witnesses, which includes consideration of the following:

1. interest or lack of interest in the outcome of the case;
2. their relationship to the parties;
3. ability and opportunity to know, remember, and relate the facts;
4. their manner and appearance;
5. their age and experience;
6. their frankness and sincerity or lack thereof;
7. the reasonableness or unreasonableness of their testimony in light of all the other evidence in the case;
8. any impeachment of their testimony;
9. any other factors that bear on believability and weight.

See also, I/M/O Tenure Hearing of William Thomas, School District of the City of Plainfield, Union County, OAL Docket No. EDU 01763-08 (Solomon, ALJ 2008 at p. 6 "[c]redibility is the value that a finder of fact gives to a witness's testimony. It requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, its internal consistency, and the manner in which it 'hangs together' with the other evidence." Citing, Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (8th Cir. 1963)).

Many of the tenure charges at hand concern children from the Lakewood School District whose parents were represented by Michael Inzelbuch, Esq., who for many years was Lakewood Board counsel, while concurrently serving as its special education attorney/director/consultant. Respondent has noted that during this time period, Ms. Tobia was hired as supervisor of Pupil Personnel Services and worked under his supervision. And while his fingerprints are on many of the cases that form the basis for the subject charges, generally speaking his purported influence operates as a red herring from my perspective.

In defense of Charge One, related to the Due Process/Emergent Relief petition of M.W, Respondent attempts to be portrayed as being led down the garden path by the very experienced special education counsel Ms. Butler. The record discloses however, that this was the first case the attorney had handled after her firm took over as Board counsel, and was totally unaware of any of the facts attendant to the SCC. She therefore relied upon the information provided by Ms. Tobia.

Parenthetically, Ms. Butler's contemporaneous notes at Petitioner Exhibit 1 establish that Ms. Tobia broached the issue of there being religious icons and symbols in the building, as well as Hebrew writing on it. There is similarly no support for the premise that this falsehood was placed into the affidavit by Ms. Butler and merely obligingly signed by Ms. Tobia. Instead, as shown by Exhibits A, B, C of Joint Exhibit 2, Tab 1, Respondent corresponded with Ms. Butler by e-mail and made a number of corrections to the affidavit that was ultimately submitted, with counsel incorporating the same each time.

These considerations undercut Respondent's testimony upon cross-examination at the December 15, 2015 hearing. This asserted that the affidavit provided in the M.W. case was true and accurate; that paragraph 32 related to religious symbols and icons was a true statement that she and Ms. Butler had devised for the affidavit; that she never asserted they were religious, but that was the statement that came out of Ms. Butler; and that anyone in the District who knows her knows that there is no religious connotation with SCC, and never has been. Significantly, Ms. Tobia allowed that Ms. Butler had not encouraged her to sign an affidavit that was not true.

As the District has underlined, noticeably absent was any modification to the religious icons/symbols language that appears in paragraph 32. Ibid. The testimony of Mr. Azzara also touched upon the animus that Ms. Tobia apparently had toward the Special Children's Center. This provides a motive for the false swearing and included: that Respondent did not approve of the SCC; felt that if the school was approved it would bankrupt the district; had intense animosity toward SCC and refused to sign a needs assessment in support of the SCC's application to receive State approval.

In defense of Charge Two, Respondent attempts to deflect blame onto succeeding Board counsel. The argument is advanced that prior to Schenck, Price coming on, Marc Mucciolo, Esq. of the predecessor Schwartz Simon firm reached an agreement to have D.D. be assessed by the Monmouth-Ocean Education Services Commission. And while there was eventually an agreement on the placement as well, this was never implemented as apparently Mr. Inzelbuch made additional demands upon Schenck Price, causing the matter to be litigated. This leads to the conclusion that this is another situation when someone else had the responsibility (Mr. Freund, who was the supervisor of Child Study Teams in July of 2013) but the matter is being put on Ms. Tobia. Finally, Respondent rhetorically asks why two years passed within incident before this issue was raised.

Preliminarily, the record does not disclose why the D.D. issue was never previously addressed with Ms. Tobia, or any action taken by the Board. Given that there were a number of Board counsel it may have fallen through the cracks, and while the one person who could shed some light on that topic, State Monitor Azzara, was asked a few questions on D.D. during cross, that issue was not broached. Under the circumstances, I therefore do not believe that this charge is so remote in time or stale that Ms. Tobia has been prejudiced by its inclusion.

Respondent addressed D.D. during her testimony, and recalled that in April 2013, Mr. Mucciolo of Schwartz Simon with the assistance of Nathanya Simon, Esq., reached an agreement with Mr. Inzelbuch. This provided that three (3) independent evaluations would be conducted by the Monmouth Ocean Educational Services Commission and not the Lakewood Child Study Team. According to the testimony, these were performed and Ms. Zentman briefly touched upon these as well during her testimony. Who conducted the evaluations however is of no moment in these proceedings, and unless there was also an agreement as to placement (which there was not), the normal procedural safeguards control.

Respondent later categorically denied that she had made any independent predetermination of ineligibility for D.D., and that position is at odds with her sworn testimony contained in the transcript of the D.D. OAL hearing, which appears at Joint Exhibit 2, Tab 8. It is also at variance with the e-mail evidence in the record and the credible testimony of Ms. Zentman in this regard. There is likewise no evidence that this job was tasked to Mr. Freund, who apparently took over as the supervisor of the CST in July 2013. It is worth remembering, however, that the chain of events was set in motion by Ms. Tobia in her May 29, 2013 e-mail to Ms. Zentman and later, when a decision of ineligibility was made by Respondent when she was in charge.

I similarly do not believe that the proverbial 504 Plan buck was passed to Ms. Tobia to make a hard decision, as she implies in her affirmative defense to Charge Nine. Several District witnesses credibly testified that they themselves had been directed by Respondent to cease utilization of the same, and when a number of staff approached Ms. Gilfillan during a November 20, 2013 training session to inquire as to the legality of Ms. Tobia's action, a meeting was held with Mr. Freund, Ms. Winters and Ms. Tobia.

At that time they were all unequivocally told that Lakewood could not legally discontinue the utilization of 504 Plans. Despite this fact, there were NO 504 Plans written during the 2013 – 2014 School Year, and Ms. Tobia never retracted or clarified her prior instruction. [Emphasis supplied]. I recognize that in the instance of the one student cited, there was a 504 Plan signed on January 23, 2012 with no doctor's note included. This may have rendered the plan invalid, requiring that it be updated or revisited during an annual review, as detailed in the "504 Process Memo" sent out by Ms. Tobia on March 25, 2013. See, Joint Exhibit 2, Tab 9. Clearly, however, "throw it out," would not appear to be a valid response under the circumstances.

Nor do I believe that the District was required to establish that "one" student was improperly denied a 504 Plan. Instead, there was unrebutted testimony from the District that there were no plans completed during 2013 – 2014. During her testimony, Ms. Tobia denied that she had told Ms. Weisz not to implement the 504 Plans, and contended that there were in fact 504 Plans written and implemented during the 2013 – 2014 School Year, with monthly reports provided to Superintendent Winters. These positions run counter to the record evidence and no documentation has been provided by Respondent in support of these claims. The testimony has accordingly been discounted.

Respondent's defense to Charges Three and Four may be combined for the purposes of this discussion. With respect to the former, Ms. Tobia insists that all contracts were reviewed by past Board counsel, and approved by the Orthodox majority Board of Education, with the schools paid. In support of this proposition, reliance is placed upon Respondent Exhibit 3 and 4, which are a series of memos. Respondent Exhibit 3(a) is a July 17, 2012 Memo from Ro Frazer to Nathanya Simon, Esq. and Marc Muccio, Esq. of the Schwartz Simon firm, then-Board counsel. This merely states "[p]lease confirm that you have received the packet of contract for nursing services, Commission of the Blind and several tuition contracts for students placed in non-public schools. Thank you." Mr. Mucciolo later responds "[y]es, we got it yesterday and are in the process of reviewing the contracts." Respondent Exhibit 3(b) is an undated Memo from Ms. Frazer to Mr. Mucciolo, which indicates: "I understand you will be here next Friday. Can you please bring the following contracts:

A.B. – Yeshiva Orchos Chaim;

S.G. – Bnos Yaakov Ruchama Wenger – Bais Rivka Rochel"

Respondent Exhibit 4(a) – (f) is a series of e-mails and memos related to counsel approval of certain out-of-District placement contracts. There is no dispute that all contracts had to be reviewed by counsel in conjunction with the Business Office prior to official Board action. The mere mention of Hebrew names in isolation, however, does not justify the actions of Respondent, and short of identifying the documents this area was not explored on direct examination.

Rather, based upon Ms. Tobia's education, experience and training first as a special education teacher and later as director of the Child Study Team, she knew or should have known that the actions taken and directives given were in direct violation of the controlling State statutes and regulations governing special education. The District's witnesses who testified with no apparent bias toward Respondent, were acutely aware that such was the case. Therefore, absent evidence that prior or current Board counsel had actual or constructive notice of or directed the same, Ms. Tobia's actions constitute additional unbecoming conduct. Accordingly, viewed simply in burden of proof terms, this affirmative defense has not been established.

Charge Four is the allegation tied to the OSEP CAP. I credit Respondent's position that this was a CAP imposed upon the Lakewood School District and not Ms. Tobia personally, but do not share the view that the charge against Ms. Tobia was never proven. Moreover, Issue # 1 of the COMPLAINT INVESTIGATION REPORT posed the question "[w]hether the district board of education followed appropriate procedures to develop an IEP for a student with disabilities?"

FINDINGS OF FACT numbers 6, 7 & 8 then detail the circumstances of Y.T.'s transition from SCHI to YTT, including the fact that the Director of Special Services met with the student's parents to discuss the parents' request to have their child attend YTT the following year. Number 7, in particular, states that "[f]ollowing the meeting, the Director of Special Services issued a directive to the IEP team that the team should write an IEP placing the student at YTT." This finding is on "all fours" with the testimony of Ms. Nussbaum on this topic, and further evidence of Respondent's unbecoming conduct.

Tenure charges Five through Eight pertain to the conduct of Ms. Tobia at a series of mediation sessions involving a variety of students. Admittedly, Respondent's position that the substance of mediations is confidential has surface appeal. That said, adoption of such a premise would require me to endorse an unduly myopic reading of N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.6(d)(6) which provides that "[d]iscussions that occur during the mediation process shall be confidential and shall not be used as evidence in any subsequent due process hearings or civil proceedings."

Instead, this language is intended to encourage the free flow of information and respective positions during the mediation process that per N.J.A.C. 6A:14 may only takes place between a school district and the child's parents, in keeping with the prior offer of compromise rule. I do not read the same to prohibit a board from attempting to discipline a staff member, as here, for what it perceives to be ultra vires conduct. Accordingly, Ms. Tobia's actions are fair game.

In keeping with her prior position, Respondent attempts to parry Charge

Ten by resort to the "burned by the affidavit" defense. The record instead establishes that the certification drafted by Ms. Kenny simply reflected that the fax was not received by Mr. Tobia on April 15, 2015, without resort to any facts of the case. It is true that a number of other individuals could have been asked to complete the certification, but as the District's agent Ms. Kenny reasonably asked Ms. Tobia to do so. Respondent was therefore under an affirmative obligation to execute it or provide a legitimate explanation why she would not. She did neither.

Finally, in response to Charges Twelve through Seventeen, Respondent properly identifies that inefficiency charges have not been filed against Ms. Tobia and that she has had no negative evaluations or CAP. I do not subscribe to the proposition, however, that allegations related to violations of District policies are exclusively filed on inefficiency grounds.

Because the District has established the subject unbecoming conduct tenure charges by a preponderance of the credible evidence, the remaining issue becomes the appropriate penalty. The In re Fulcomer balancing test requires that I consider the totality of the circumstances, the nature of Ms. Tobia's acts, and the impact the discipline will have upon her career. 93 N.J. Super., supra at 421. Respondent has properly argued that she has an unblemished record with the Lakewood School District throughout her roughly 21 years of service.

Reduced to its lowest terms, the question becomes whether the spirit and the letter of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 may be harmonized by returning Ms. Tobia to her position as supervisor of Social Studies, Fine Arts and Pupil Personnel Services with less than a termination. In my considered opinion, that question must be answered in the negative as the aggravating factors abundantly outweigh the mitigating. Charge One comes the closest to being a cardinal violation as the District posits, which standing alone warrants Ms. Tobia's removal. It is axiomatic that even in the absence of progressive discipline, as here, one serious flagrant event may warrant termination. See generally, Redcay v. State Bd. Of Educ., 130 N.J.L. 369, 370 (Bodine, 1943). Respondent has attempted to minimize the reach of Howard upon which the District relies, by arguing that Dr. Howard in fact received only a 120 day suspension for his perjury.

A careful reading of the ALJ's dicta in Howard II, as cited above, however, reveals that she would have upheld a termination if that was before her. Because she was limited to the issue of a 120 suspension, that was the extent of her ruling. Even assuming without deciding this charge would not have been sufficient standing alone, the record is replete with other acts of unbecoming conduct committed by Ms. Tobia which palpably and materially comprised the educational opportunities of the Lakewood special needs population.

Pursuant to Charge 2, ineligibility for special education and related services for student D.D. was predetermined prior to the June 17, 2013 conference with the parent and other team members with the report generated June 14th. And when the case manager repeatedly attempted to call Ms. Tobia's attention to the comments made by doctors in various evaluation reports that would suggest the child may be classified, the supervisor shut her down on numerous occasions ultimately adopting a heavy-handed tone in her June 6th e-mail, while demanding that voluminous documentation be provided to support even the mere implication that there was eligibility for special education. Per Charge Nine, Ms. Tobia determined willy nilly that the Lakewood School District would no longer issue §504 Plans under the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. Illegal yeshiva placements were effectuated by merely writing them into IEPs. These actions evidence an outrageous disregard for the very statutes and regulations that Ms. Tobia was charged with ensuring compliance with under her job description, further ignored the Corrective Action Plan put in place by the DOE, and constituted a startling display of poor judgment.

I am fully cognizant of the crushing effect the loss of Respondent's Lakewood position will have upon her both personally and professionally. In balancing the equities, however, I remain unconvinced that returning her to the same position would modify her behavior as she took no responsibility whatsoever for her actions at hearing and showed no remorse. Doing so would therefore continue to place the special needs community in jeopardy. Based upon the foregoing findings, I therefore determine that the tenure charges are SUSTAINED, with Respondent removed from her supervisory position.

VI. CONCLUSION

Petitioner Lakewood Township Board of Education has established the tenure charges of unbecoming conduct under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 by a preponderance of the credible evidence.

Introduction

This matter arises from tenure charges of conduct unbecoming a staff member against Moriamo Okundaye, (Respondent) by the State Operated School District of The City of Newark, Essex County (the District) and a November 23, 2015 referral of the tenure charges to the undersigned by the New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes pursuant to P.L. 2012, c. 26 as amended by P.L. 2015, c. 109.

The hearing in this matter was conducted on January 7, 2016 in Newark, New Jersey. All parties were afforded the opportunity for argument, examination and cross-examination of witnesses and the introduction of relevant exhibits. Respondent Moriamo Okundaye was present for the entire hearing and testified on her own behalf. At the close of the hearing on January 4, 2016, the parties elected to submit written closing argument, upon the receipt of which by the arbitrator on January 25, 2016 the matter was deemed submitted.

This Decision is made following careful consideration of the entire record in the matter, including the under-sign's observations of the demeanor of all witnesses.

Issues

The issues presented in this matter may be accurately stated as follows:

> Has the District met its burden of establishing the truth of its conduct unbecoming tenure charges against Respondent, and (a) if so, what is the appropriate penalty, if any, and (b) if not, what is the appropriate remedy?

The Tenure Charge

The tenure charges in this matter were certified by the State District Superintendent of the State Operated School District of The City of Newark Christopher Cerf October 27, 2015. The Notice of Tenure Charges provides in its entirety:

District Evidence

Testimony of Larry Ramkissoon

Larry Ramkissoon is Principal of the Newark Vocational High School (West Side Campus) and held that position during the 2014 – 2015 school year. He testified that Respondent was a math teacher at the school and that the class involved in this matter was a special needs math class. He recalled that on January 15, 2015 while at a meeting with school administrators he was informed by school Vice Principal Ogele that the mother of student DB had shown him a video of Respondent using inappropriate language in the classroom. According to Ramkissoon he thereafter asked DB to show him the video – which the student did – and received permission from DB's mother to take possession of the phone so that a copy of the video and a transcript of the words spoken in the video could be made Ramkissoon explained that after viewing the video he "was appalled" and communicated to his supervisor and requested direction on how to proceed.

Because he was concerned about the video being viewed by the public, Ramkissoon further testified, he received assurance form DB that the student would not post the video on social media and received assurance from the student's mother that she would make sure the video was deleted. The principal testified that DB stated he had taken the video, and further testified that he did not know DB's qualifications relating to video recording, did not know if the video had recorded all of the incident, did not know if the video had been altered and did not know when the video had been taken.[1] He did not make any effort to identify the students speaking on the video, Ramkissoon testified.

[1] According to Ramkissoon, DB was suspended for violating the school's rule against having cell phones in the building.

Nor did he attempt to interview students about the incident individually. However, he further testified, he did speak with the class as a group and at least one student (Murphy) approached him after the meeting and expressed the view that Ramkissoon was making too big a deal out of the matter and that such talk has always been done in the classroom.

After seeing the video on January 15, 2015 Ramkissoon reported the matter to the Institutional Abuse Investigation Unit at the Department of Children and Families (DCF)[2] and requested that Respondent meet with him about the matter. At the resulting meeting that same day Respondent was accompanied by her union representative. According to Ramkissoon, the union representative stated that she had advised Respondent not to say anything and Ramkissoon then said what the allegations were, that they would be investigated and that Respondent was to report to the Media Center rather than her classroom.

According to Ramkissoon the entire investigation into the matter consisted of his review of the video, the decline of Respondent to offer any information on the matter and the principal's meeting with Respondent's math class. Ramkissoon provided a report of the incident to District Administration on January 16, 2015. That report provides in relevant part:

> Description of Incident:
> At the end of the day, yesterday – 1/15/15, I was advised by Vice-Principal Henry Ogele, that Ms. [VB], parent of a 10th grade male student, [DB], reported that her son had shared with her a video of his teacher making inappropriate comments to students. At the time, Ms. [VB] gave her son permission to share a copy of the video that he had made on his phone with [2] DCF declined to proceed on the basis of insufficient evidence. According to Ramkissoon the school was informed by DCF that it should contact the police and determine what, if anything, could be done by that authority. Ramkissoon testified that the school's Pubic Safety Officer thereafter reviewed the video and opined that there was not enough evidence to pursue a criminal charge.

Vice-Principal Ogele. In the video the teacher is sitting at her desk and the following conversation is overheard:

Student: Don't call my mother again...
Teacher: Excuse me I just called dumb ass bitch
Student: you really ugly as shit
Teacher: basically your mother is a dumb ass bitch
Student: she no dumb ass bitch, you is a fat ass bitch
Teacher: tell that dumb ass bitch to come in here
Student: I'm gonna smack the shit out of you, you gonna be mad as hell
Teacher: you gonna smack the shit out of me...(the teacher got up out of her desk and approached the students...the video clip ended)

Administrative Action:
I informed the Asst. Superintendent of the incident
I contacted Labor Relations and spoke with Janelle Francios
I advised the teacher in the presence of the NTU representative of the allegations and of the following actions that would be taken:

- The teacher was asked to remain in the media center while an investigation was conducted
- The teacher was asked to avoid all interaction with students until she has been officially notified
- A copy of this incident and the video will be shared with Labor Relations

Ramkissoon submitted the tenure charges. He explained that he has been a teacher for 29 years and that as a parent he was appalled that a teacher would use such language in an urban district and found it totally inappropriate for the classroom. Teachers should be role models, Ramkissoon testified.

Respondent Evidence

Testimony of Respondent

Respondent has taught Math in the Newark School District since 2001, initially as a long-term substitute and eventually as a full-time teacher since 2007. Prior to the incident at issue herein, Respondent received no discipline. She is certified in Math and Statistics and holds a temporary Special Needs certification.

Respondent testified that one of the students during the 2014-2015 school year (referred to herein as "TW") was a special needs student and in her words; "a troublesome child." She explained that TW's I-E-P stated that the student needed to be in a small class with one-on-one help. In contrast, she explained, her class began the year with over thirty students, a number eventually reduced to about 12 students and TW had no one-on-one help. She explained that TW was always late to class, would cause a disruption when eventually entering class, would grab and rip up her notes and would just get up in the middle of class and shut off Respondent's computer. Respondent recalled one incident when TW threw paper balls at Respondent while she had her backed turned as she was writing on a white-board, and two incidents when TW swiped at and hit Respondent with a yard-stick ruler. According to Respondent, she made three disciplinary referrals to the school's administration about TW's conduct, including two oral referrals and one written referral. She explained that the oral referrals occurred before the District instituted an October 2014 electronic discipline referral system.

In any event, Respondent testified, she received no long-term relief from her referrals. (She did on one occasion have the school's safety officer remove TW for the remainder of a class period but the student returned the next scheduled class session.) According to Respondent, she eventually had a conversation with the Vice Principal about TW and the Vice Principal responded to her complaints by saying the only thing Respondent could do was file a police report and have the student locked up. Respondent testified that she rejected the Vice Principal's advice as she is a mother of three and TW is a special needs student who needs a one-on-one environment and should not have to suffer so. According to Respondent, she received no other advice from school administration.

After rejecting the have-him-locked-up advice from the administration, Respondent decided to try to take some action of her own. She explained that she had attended District workshops on "Restorative Practices" in 2012 and 2013 and used the materials she received in the workshops, and the demonstrations made during the workshops, to help her develop a plan.[3]

That plan, Respondent testified, involved a roll-playing exercise where TW could observe others behaving as he behaved and the impact of such conduct on them. On October 27, 2014 Respondent spoke to her class and explained her plan to the class when TW was not present. According to Respondent, student CC had agreed to help Respondent engage in a roll-play interaction designed to mimic TW's conduct and the other students agreed to play along with the act. Student DB was present and was the student who watched out for TW and announced he was approaching. When TW entered the classroom, KC and Respondent began their exchange, an exchange that Respondent estimated lasted about three minutes. Student (DB) video recorded a potion of the exchange on his cell phone.

According to Respondent, after the roll-play she spoke with TW and asked him how they could help him and discussed why the students acted that way he did. Thereafter, Respondent testified, TW changed his behavior and he was no longer an issue in the classroom. Respondent admitted that she had not informed any administrator of her plan beforehand and that her restorative plan was not included in her lesson plans.

[3] Respondent admitted that she did not know if the written Restorative Practices materials provided to teachers says a teacher may use abusive language in applying restorative practices, but stated that participants in a demonstration given during the workshop used abusive language.

Respondent further testified the words she used in the roll-play were not said out of anger or hatred; that she was trying to make TW think the incident was real. She further testified that in the normal course students were not permitted to use "street language" in her classroom and that when students did so she would correct them.

As for her interaction with DB, Respondent explained, unlike TW, DB was not a special needs student. She testified that she met with DB's mother about report cards in December 2013 and that during that meeting Respondent explained that she had an issue with DB walking out of the classroom during class. According to Respondent, DB's mother responded by asking the teacher to call her the next time such happened. On January 12, 2015, DB walked out of class but had a permission slip. On January 14, 2015 the student walked out without permission and as suggested, Respondent testified, she telephoned DB's mother and made an appointment for January 15. Meanwhile, Respondent testified, DB came back to her classroom and learned of Respondent contacting his mother. According to Respondent, DB was angry and began texting his mother and told Respondent she was going to lose her job.

According to Respondent, the next day, January 15, 2015, DB's mother came directly to Respondent's classroom while class was going on. Respondent explained to the parent that she did not have another teacher to cover the class at that time and asked the parent to wait in the Vice Principal's office. When she thereafter went to the office to meet with CB's mother, Respondent testified, the parent was no longer there and the Vice Principal informed Respondent that he had sent the parent home and that the parent would be coming back the next day.

Respondent further testified that when she arrived in her classroom the next morning, the morning of January 16, 2015, there was another teacher in her classroom and Respondent was instructed to go to the Media Center. Respondent reported to the Media Center as instructed and was eventually called to a meeting in the principal's office. Present, Respondent recalled, were five or six administrators and a representative of the teachers' union. According to Respondent the Principal then asked her; "what happened in you classroom yesterday?" Respondent testified that she responded by looking bewildered because nothing had happened in her classroom the day before. Respondent admitted she did not say anything based upon advice she received from her union rep.

According to Respondent, she reported to the Superintendent's office for the remainder of the school year.

Testimony of Shaquan Murphy

Murphy is 20 years old and a graduate of the West Side school. He was in Respondent's math class during the events at issue during the 2014-2015 school year. Murphy testified that TW was disruptive in class and would arrive for the 2:00 pm math class at 2:20 or 2:30 pm, late arrivals resulting from what Murphy believed were efforts by TW to hide from the school's discipline team. Murphy testified that TW would strike Respondent with a ruler and would do it often until Respondent said she would call security. He recalled that on one occasion TW struck Respondent with the yard stick and

Respondent grabbed the stick and immediate typed up an incident report and called security. Murphy testified that Respondent tried her best with TW and he recalled that on one occasion when Respondent gave the student a pass to take a walk, something Respondent did to allow TW to calm down, while TW was out of the classroom Respondent told the class that the next day they were going to do a play on TW. Respondent explained that she and a female student CC were going to do a play to show TW what he does to Respondent. At the hearing, Murphy viewed the video and testified that the video was of the October 2014 play between Respondent and CC. The students were all laughing on the video because, Murphy testified, "we all knew what was going on."

As for DB, Murphy testified, because he was always sneaking out of class without permission, Respondent had moved him to a desk right next to the teacher's. According to Murphy, he knew DB was recording the play because Murphy saw that he was doing so. Also, Murphy continued, DB knew it was roll-playing because he was in on it.

Murphy confirmed that he spoke to Principal Ramkissoon when the principal came down and spoke to the class. Finally, according to Murphy, the play-acting effort worked as TW's behavior improved after the event.

Testimony of Alayah Valentine

Alayah Valentine is also a recent graduate of the school and testified that she was in Respondent's math class when she was in 12th grade during the 2014-2015 school year. She recalled that the math class eventually had about 12 students and that Respondent and TW had an "iffy" relationship. Valentine testified that TW was always coming in late, disrupting the lesson, going around class picking on everyone and going to Respondent and cursing her. Valentine recalled that when she arrived in class one day there was no objective on the board and Respondent told the students that that day they were going to have a lesson for TW. Valentine recalled that Respondent explained that maybe if TW realizes how he speaks to her he would realize his impact on her. Valentine confirmed that the video in evidence was of the lesson for TW. She testified that hers is the voice saying; "Oh shit!" on the video.

Valentine testified that TW really changed after the lesson; it really helped him and that TW's relationship with Respondent improved.

The Video

The video of the incident offered into evidence and relied upon by the District as the primary evidence to support its conclusions in this matter is about 25 to 30 seconds long. The video reflects that the dialog transcribed by the District is substantially accurate. However, the transcript does not reflect the general laughter of students and the teacher throughout the dialog. The video is taken from a low angle from five to ten feet away from Respondent and is primarily focused on Respondent sitting at her desk. The video ends with the dialog reflected in the transcript and Respondent standing.

Position of the School District

The District argued that the video is admissible and reliable evidence and asserts that the evidence supports its tenure charges. The District has relied upon the video throughout the course of this tenure case and at no time has Respondent herself denied that the video depicted what occurred in her classroom. The video establishes that Respondent participated in and permitted conduct that Principal Ramkissoon reasonably concluded could not be tolerated; that he could not permit such poor teacher modeling in a school building under his control. The video shows that Grievant engaged in misconduct and, the District asserted, serious consequences are called for.

As for Respondent's claim that she was engaged in an exercise of Restoration Justice, such should be discredited, the District argued. In this regard, the District explained, in her initial sworn response to the tenure charges Respondent did not identify TW as the reason for the exercise but rather, identified an entirely different student; CC. Second, the District continued, the conduct shown in the video is inconsistent with the Restorative Practices technique taught by the District. In this regard, the Restorative Practices related manual provided Respondent by the District specifically provides that adults should respect children by "holding them to a higher standard of behavior" and by "giving them the support they need to become more responsible." Yet the evidence establishes that Respondent did not hold her students to a higher standard but rather allowed her students to use street language. Respondent's alleged lesson did not conform to the Restorative Practice methods she was taught, was not contained in her lesson plans and was not reviewed by a supervisor prior to Respondent engaging in the risky, double-messaged endeavor shown in the video.

Nor should the testimony of former students be considered persuasive, the District argued, as the two students offered little, and Respondent may not claim that she was not given the opportunity to present her story when the matter was under investigation as she was given the opportunity and refused to offer her statement.

Importantly, the District asserted, much of the explanation Respondent offered at the hearing to support her defense was focused upon her relationship with student DB, her claim that the video was taken in October 2014 and her further claim that DB showed the video in retaliation for Respondent's contacting DB's mother much later in January 2015. Yet, inexplicably, in her original sworn response to the charges Respondent said noting of DB and did not make a claim that the video was taken some months before.

Considering the serious and offensive nature of Grievant's conduct, the District exercised its managerial judgment and concluded that discharge was warranted. Having exercised reasonable managerial judgment, such judgment may not be second guessed by the arbitrator as there has been no showing that the decision by the District was arbitrary, capricious, discriminatory or otherwise violative of fundamental notions of fairness and/or due process. Under the circumstances, considering the nature of the misconduct of Respondent and the total lack of cooperation of Respondent during the investigation, the District has shown that a very severe penalty is warranted and the arbitrator should sustain the tenure charges.

Position of Respondent

Respondent maintained that the tenure charges should be dismissed. The video relied upon by the District should not be considered by the arbitrator. First, the Respondent argued, the video was taken by DB and in taking the video DB violated the rules of the school; the video is the product of nefarious conduct by DB. Second, the record establishes that the video was surely edited by DB or someone else as the testimonial evidence offered by Respondent and two former students – the only evidence of the actual lesson subject to cross examination offered at the hearing – establishes that the lesson was approximately three minutes long, yet the video is only about 30 seconds in duration. Third, the Respondent continued, the motivation of DB in disclosing the video when he did so should be considered. In this regard, the record establishes that DB was angry at Respondent for calling the student's mother about the student's misbehavior in class and deftly deflected the negative consequences he was surely to receive onto Respondent. Thus, the "abridged" video has not appropriately been authenticated; the student who reportedly took the video was not presented to answer questions about how, where and when the video was taken or the context of the video or whether the video has been altered. Nor was the student presented for examination as to the student's motivation for taking the video. The video is not competent evidence and should not be considered by the Arbitrator.

The record also reflects that other than have an unidentified staff member transcribe the video; the District did virtually nothing to investigate this matter. Nor did the District present any competent evidence to support its tenure charges at the arbitration. Instead the District simply offered the video. In contrast, Respondent offered her own un-contradicted testimony about the timing of the video, the reason for the lesson partially captured by the video and the reasons for the timing of student DB disclosing the video. Importantly, two other witnesses who were present during the Restorative lesson corroborated Respondent's truthful testimony. Respondent's conduct did not amount to misconduct and does not support discipline.

Respondent has been a full-time teacher for the District since 2007 and has never been the subject of disciplinary action; she had been consistently rated Proficient and has received numerous positive comments in her annual evaluations and observations. Her evaluations, disciplinary history and observations of her supervisors do not support a finding that Respondent inappropriately used the language that is attributable to her.

The District has failed to show that Respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming through admissible and competent evidence and the charges should be dismissed.

Discussion

Considering the full record in this matter including all testimony, evidence and argument of the parties, I find that the District has failed to establish the truth of its unbecoming conduct charge against Respondent, or that Respondent engaged in conduct that otherwise warrants her termination, suspension or reduction in salary.

Admissibility and Relevance of the Video

The undersigned cannot determine whether the District had sufficient basis upon which to file its tenure charges without considering what the District relied upon in making those charges. Here, the District primarily relied upon its 25 to 30-second video of an exchange between Respondent and students in her class; the video was, plain and simply, the motivating reason for the tenure charges. As a result, the undersigned admitted the video into evidence because notwithstanding other potential objections to its source, authenticity and reliability, it is the primary evidence upon which the District based its decision to certify tenure charges against Respondent. However, having admitted the video into the record under such circumstances does not mean the video must be, as a matter of course, given any more weight than it otherwise should be given.

Findings

Having considered the record as a whole, I find that the District's evidence does not establish the truth of its tenure charges. In reaching such conclusion I rely upon the following considerations:

1. The video relied upon by the District is without any non-hearsay evidence of provenance and is only a partial recording of an event;
2. The District failed to establish when the video was taken;
3. Respondent offered un-rebutted testimony (evidence I credit) that the video was taken months before it was presented to school administration;
4. Respondent offered un-rebutted testimony (evidence I credit) that the behavior depicted in the video was play acting and designed with a legitimately purpose of correcting conduct of a disruptive student;[4]
5. Respondent offered un-rebutted testimony (evidence I credit) that the video was incomplete and showed only a portion of the restorative effort;

[4] As pointed out by the District, in her initial sworn written response to the tenure charges, Respondent stated that student C.C. was the focus of the lesson. Although Respondent's testimony at the hearing was that the lesson was motivated by a desire to change the behavior of TW, all witnesses to the exchanged identified CC as the student primarily engaged in the exchange with Respondent. Under such circumstances, notwithstanding that Respondent's sworn response and testimony are not identical, I find that such inconsistency is not sufficient basis upon which to discredit the testimony of Respondent and other witnesses that the recorded exchange was part of a pre-planned lesson to modify student behavior.

6. Although Respondent may not have received prior, specific permission to implement a restorative practices lesson in the circumstances, the District gave implicit encouragement of such efforts by Respondent by providing her two years of training on the process and by failing to otherwise assist Respondent in managing disruptive students;

7. Respondent offered un-contradicted testimony (testimony I credit) that examples of lessons presented during her restorative practices course included scenarios where language of a nature similar to that shown in the video was used;

8. It is true that the words used by the teacher and students in the video are inappropriate for the classroom under normal circumstances. However, based upon the video itself, it is manifest that: (a) the conversation being recorded was not a bona fide altercation between teacher and student; (b) the words used were not being spoken in anger or with bad intent and (c) some sort of play-acting was going on. All witnesses who were present during the incident confirmed such conclusions. As a result of these conclusions and my finding that the roll-play was a good faith effort by Respondent to apply restorative practices with a legitimate goal of improving student classroom behavior, I find the use of the words by Respondent under the circumstances did not constitute unbecoming conduct;

9. The District's witness testified, and the Tenure Charges confirm, that "a" motivation in recommending termination of Respondent was Respondent's failure to offer a statement during the investigation. Although in this regard it is true that Respondent did not offer a response when Principal Ramkissoon asked her what had happened in her classroom the day before because of advice received from her Union representative and because she did not know to what the principal was referring, the District offered no evidence to support a conclusion that an employee's failure to give a statement during an investigation is contrary to any District rule or norm or otherwise constitutes unbecoming conduct.

Conclusions

The District has failed to establish the truth of its conduct unbecoming charge against Respondent or to otherwise support the termination, suspension or other disciplining of Respondent. Under such circumstances, the District's pursing tenure charges against Respondent is contrary to fundamental notions of fairness.

Order

The subject tenure charges against Respondent Moriamo Okundaye are dismissed.

As remedy, the District is ORDERED to:

1. Promptly offer Respondent reinstatement to her former position.

2. Make Respondent whole for any and all losses of pay, seniority and other benefits she may have suffered as a result of her discharge from the date of her discharge to the date of her reinstatement by the District.

3. Expunge all record of her dismissal from the District's files.

BACKGROUND

This matter is before the arbitrator for a decision on the motion to dismiss filed by Davis Hannah (Respondent) on December 2, 2015, along with a letter memorandum in support of the motion. On December 18, 2015, the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark (District) filed a letter memorandum in opposition to the motion to dismiss. On January 4, 2016, the Respondent filed a reply brief. On January 8, 2016, the District submitted a recent arbitration decision in support of its opposition to the motion to dismiss.

I. Statement of Facts

The Respondent is a tenured art teacher who has been employed by the District since the 1998-1999 school year. He holds a New Jersey instructional certification with an endorsement to teach art. For the 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 school years, Mr. Hannah taught art at the elementary grade level at BRICK Peshine Academy.

The Respondent was rated "Partially Effective" in his 2013-2014 annual summative evaluation (Statement of Evidence, Exhibit 6). During the 2013-2014 school year, he received two unannounced, formal classroom observations—one of 25 minutes on November 18, 2013, and the other of 22 minutes two weeks later, on December 2, 2013 (Statement of Evidence, Exhibits 3 and 4). Also, administrators conducted informal "Learning Walks" in the Respondent's classroom on December 21, 2013; January 27, 2014; February 4, 2014; and March 4, 2014 (Statement of Evidence, Exhibit 15).[1] The Respondent's 2013-2014 annual summative evaluation described him as > very open to improving his practice during the Midyear Review. We discussed having weekly coaching sessions. A plan was put in place. Immediat[el]y, Mr., Hannah began to implement the strategies and suggestions given to him during the coaching sessions. Unfortunately, Mr. Hannah became ill and was hospitalized. Upon his return, NJASK testing took place and after that, the Arts teachers began planning for the Grease Production.

> Since these ratings took place in that order, it was difficult for us to continue our coaching sessions. Out of fairness to Mr. Hannah, he should still be eligible for his increment even though his annual rating is Partially Effective.
>
> Mr. Hannah has agreed to continue to be open to the feedback given for the 2014-2015 school year. He is a valuable team player and a great asset. Mr. Hannah is a hard worker and dedicated to becoming a Highly Effective teacher.
> Statement of Evidence, Exhibit 6.

The Respondent was rated "Ineffective" in his 2014-2015 annual summative evaluation (Statement of Evidence, Exhibit 14). During the 2014-2015 school year, he received four formal classroom observations on October 6, 2014; January 6, 2015; March 19, 2015; and March 24, 2015 (Statement of Evidence, Exhibits 7, 9, 11, and 12). Administrators also conducted informal "Learning Walks" in his classroom on October 21, 2014; December

[1] The District contends that an informal "Learning Walk" also was conducted in the Respondent's classroom on October 21, 2013, but the record does not verify that incident (see Statement of Evidence, Exhibit 15).

16, 2014; January 6, 2015; and January 8, 2015 (Statement of Evidence, Exhibit 15). The summary portion of the Respondent's 2014-2015 annual summative evaluation was left blank (Statement of Evidence, Exhibit 14).

On August 20, 2015, the District filed tenure charges against the Respondent with the Commissioner of Education, pursuant to Section 25 of the TEACHNJ Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3 (Certification, Exhibit A). On November 14, 2015, the Commissioner of Education forwarded the charges to arbitration, stating that he "is unable to determine that the evaluation process has not been followed" (Opposition at 1).

II. Contentions of the Parties

The Respondent Contends:

The Respondent maintains that the tenure charges should be dismissed because the District failed to adhere to the evaluation procedures prescribed by Section 25 of TEACHNJ. New Jersey statute and regulation require that allegations of inefficiency be rejected if the evaluation process has not been followed. In support of his contention, the Respondent cites arbitral decisions, dismissing tenure charges because a school district failed to conduct a proper evaluation.

More specifically, the Respondent cites N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.4(c) as setting forth the following mandatory evaluation procedures:

> Each teacher shall be observed as described in this section, at least three times during each school year but not less than once during each semester. For all teachers, at least one of the required observations shall be announced and preceded by a pre-conference, and at least one of the required observations shall be unannounced....
> N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.4(c) (emphasis supplied by the Respondent).

The District's own evaluation guide, titled "Framework for Effective Teaching," similarly requires a minimum of three observations annually, including at least one announced observation, and dictates that "[a]ll teachers must be observed at least once in each semester" (Certification, Exhibit E).

According to the Respondent, the 2013-2014 annual summative evaluation is flawed and, as a matter of law, may not form the basis of the instant charges because, during that school year, he: (1) did not receive at least three observations, the minimum number required by law (Certification, Exhibit B ¶¶3-6); (2) did not receive at least one announced observation, preceded by a pre-conference, as required by law (Certification, Exhibit C at 1); and (3) was not observed at least once each semester, as required by law (Certification, Exhibit D at 1). The District does not dispute these facts, as is apparent from the Statement of Evidence that it filed.

The Respondent asserts that each of these procedural violations, standing alone, constitutes a serious failure to adhere to the evaluation process, since they undermine the integrity of his 2013-2014 summative evaluation. When the violations are viewed together, it becomes clear that the District completely disregarded its obligation to observe and evaluate the Respondent fairly and in accordance with the uniform regulatory requirements applicable to all teachers. Such an egregiously defective evaluation warrants the immediate dismissal of the charges, the Respondent argues.

Further, answering arguments presented in the District's opposition, the Respondent asserts that the arbitrator has jurisdiction to consider and resolve the motion to dismiss at the pre-hearing stage. In support, the Respondent cites arbitral decisions holding that motions to dismiss premised upon a district's failure to comply with statutory and regulatory procedural requirements are properly within the jurisdiction of the arbitrator. In addition, the Respondent contends that the Commissioner's statement—that he is unable to determine that the evaluation process has not been followed—is not dispositive and does not preclude an arbitrator from addressing a district's compliance with required statutory procedures.

The Respondent also disputes the District's claim that its failure to formally observe him in accordance with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.4(c) is mitigated by its conduct of "learning walks" throughout the year. According to the Respondent, there is no statutory or regulatory authority that permits a school district to substitute such informal evaluation methods for the formal classroom observations required by law.

Finally, the Respondent disputes the District's contention that a tenure charge cannot be dismissed absent a determination that the District's failure to follow the evaluation process "materially affected the outcome of the evaluation" in the relevant school year. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(c) does not contain such a requirement and plainly dictates that any failure to abide by the evaluation procedures prohibits the tenure charges from being moved to the next stage of the filing process, including to an arbitration proceeding. The language quoted by the District is in Section 23 of the TEACHNJ Act (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2), titled "Considerations for arbitrator in rendering decision." According to the Respondent, that section, which limits the issues that an arbitrator can consider and the defenses an employee can raise at an arbitration hearing, applies only to decisions on the substantive merits of a tenure charge after an arbitration hearing has concluded.

In sum, the Respondent contends that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2 has no bearing on the pre-hearing motion to dismiss, which essentially seeks a ruling on a procedural arbitrability issue. The instant motion seeks dismissal of the tenure charges on the ground that the procedural conditions leading to arbitration—namely, that the District must comply with the evaluation procedures required by law—have not been met. In the absence of any factual dispute regarding the District's failure to evaluate the teacher in the manner required by law, the motion to dismiss must be granted, according to the Respondent.

The District Contends:

As an initial matter, the District challenges the Respondent's argument that the charge is defective on its face by noting that the Commissioner stated that he was "unable to determine that the evaluation process has not been followed" (Opposition at 1). The District contends that if the charge were clearly defective, the Commissioner would have dismissed the charge outright.

Secondly, the District asserts that the claims made in the motion should be weighed after a hearing. The motion alleges, in essence, that the District did not follow its teacher performance evaluation process in the 2013-14 school year. According to the District, whether a teacher's evaluation adhered substantially to the evaluation process is one of four defenses that TEACHNJ permits respondents to raise in response to a tenure charge of inefficiency. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2(a)(1). That issue implicates findings of fact that can be made only after a hearing. Where, as here, the facts are in dispute, summary decision cannot be entered.

Third, the District contends, it is unclear on what authority the Respondent seeks summary decision. Citing an arbitral decision, the District asserts that the rules of the American Arbitration Association (AAA) which apply to tenure charges of inefficiency—see N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-17.1(c)—do not provide for entry of summary decision. The only authority cited in the Respondent's Notice of Motion is N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3(a)1, which addresses filing a motion to dismiss "in lieu of an answer to the charges." Since the Respondent has filed an answer, that rule is inapposite here.

As to the merits of the motion to dismiss, the District asserts that when considering a district's failure to comply substantially with its teacher evaluation process, an arbitrator must perform a two-step analysis pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2(b):

1. Determine whether or not the employee's evaluation failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process; and, if so,
2. Determine if that fact materially affected the outcome of the evaluation.

The District emphasizes that the tenure charges are based on two years of summative evaluations of the Respondent's performance. The District acknowledges that in 2013-2014 the Respondent did not receive one formal observation to which he was entitled. However, the District asserts that this failure, in the context of the many formal and informal observations which occurred in a period of two years, cannot be said to have materially affected the outcome of his evaluation. After 2013-2014, he acquired a corrective action plan to improve his performance (Statement of Evidence, Exhibit 8), following two formal and multiple informal observations, plus a mid-year evaluation (Statement of Evidence, Exhibit 5). The same analysis, according to the District, holds true for the Respondent's claim that an announced observation was omitted in 2013-2014, and he was not observed at least once in each semester, as called for in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.4(c).

Further, the District contends that the arbitral awards dismissing tenure charges are unavailing because, unlike here, those dismissals were issued after disputed facts were resolved at arbitration hearings. The District also contests the Respondent's reliance on another arbitration award, in which the arbitrator addressed a pre-hearing motion for summary decision as a matter of discretion, given the importance and relative novelty of the legal principles involved. Here, the District contends, there is nothing novel about the issue presented by the motion. The disputed facts as to whether the District adhered substantially to the evaluation process present the fundamental issue on which a hearing should be based, and this issue should not be determined on a motion for summary decision.

For the foregoing reasons, the District argues that the Respondent's motion for summary decision should be held in abeyance, pending a hearing on the charge. Alternatively, if the arbitrator decides the motion on its merits, it should be denied because the District adhered substantially to the evaluation process in 2013-2014 and 2014-2015, and any procedural flaw did not materially affect the outcome of the Respondent's evaluation.

DISCUSSION

The threshold issue is whether the arbitrator has the authority to rule on the Respondent's motion to dismiss charges at this early stage of the proceeding. The arbitrator relies here on her decision on January 30, 2015, in another Newark case, involving a teacher's motion to dismiss tenure charges before the arbitration hearing.

In Marie Ebert, State-Operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, Agency Docket No. 267-9/14 (Ebert), a respondent teacher filed a pre-hearing motion to dismiss tenure charges on the ground that the District did not make timely disclosure to her of evidence due before the scheduled hearing. The District put forward there, as it does here, arguments based on procedural arbitrability. It claimed that the arbitrator could not consider the motion because the Commissioner had already determined that the charges could be brought to arbitration and because any ruling on a motion to dismiss had to be based on a full evidentiary hearing.

Both claims were rejected by the arbitrator in Ebert:

> Consideration of the relevant statutory provisions leads to the conclusion that the Respondent's motion to dismiss is properly before the Arbitrator.
>
> It is clear from the provisions of TEACHNJ, and is undisputed by the parties, that a chief purpose of the legislation was to expedite the processing of teacher tenure cases. To this end, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3 states that upon receipt of a charge of teacher inefficiency, the Commissioner shall examine the charge, and the teacher shall have 10 days to submit a written response. Within five days from the deadline for a written response, the Commissioner must refer the case to an arbitrator, unless he or she determines that the evaluation process has not been followed. Thus, the Commissioner's determination must be made within a brief period.
> The term "evaluation" is defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-119 as a process
>
> > based on the individual's job description, professional standards and Statewide evaluation criteria that incorporates analysis of multiple measures of student progress and multiple data sources. Such evaluation shall include formal observations, as well as post conferences, conducted and prepared by an individual employed in the district in a supervisory role and capacity and possessing a school administrator certificate, principal certificate, or supervisor certificate.
>
> The Legislature also defined the factors that an arbitrator may consider in analyzing the "evaluation process." Under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2a.1, the arbitrator shall consider whether "the employee's evaluation failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process, including, but not limited to providing a corrective action plan." If the employee is able to demonstrate > such a failure, the arbitrator must determine if it materially affected the outcome. If it did not, the arbitrator renders a decision in favor of the board, and the employee is dismissed. N.J.S.A 18A:6-17.2b.

> Thus, the Legislature created distinctive roles for both the Commissioner and an arbitrator in reviewing the evaluation process. The Legislature clearly intended the Commissioner to decide within five days whether a District had taken the requisite steps for completing an evaluation, whereas the arbitrator was asked to determine whether those steps were carried out correctly and in accordance with the prescribed standards. This construction of the legislation gives meaningful purpose and effect to both its language and intent.
>
> The Respondent's motion to dismiss presents several arguments challenging the way her evaluation was conducted, which is the domain of the arbitrator. . . . [The] arguments submitted in the motion are properly before the Arbitrator and will be addressed to the extent necessary.
>
>
> Contrary to the [District's] argument, holding a full evidentiary hearing is not a prerequisite to considering the motion to dismiss. Nothing in the relevant statutory provisions limits an arbitrator's ability to resolve motions before holding a hearing. Indeed, demanding a full evidentiary hearing before ruling on potentially dispositive motions could unnecessarily prolong tenure disputes, ignoring the expressed desire of the Legislature to expedite them.
> [Ebert at 7-8 (footnotes omitted) and 18.]

The same reasoning and conclusions are warranted here with respect to both of the District's procedural arguments. First, the Commissioner's statement—that he was unable to determine that the District had not followed the evaluation process—does not preclude the arbitrator from determining whether each step of the process was carried out correctly and in accordance with the prescribed standards. Second, nothing in the relevant statutory provisions limits an arbitrator's ability to rule on motions before holding a hearing. Similarly, nothing in the AAA rules cited by the District precludes an arbitrator from resolving dispositive motions prior to a hearing in appropriate circumstances. As stated in Ebert, requiring a full evidentiary hearing before ruling on potentially dispositive motions could unnecessarily prolong tenure disputes, thwarting the expressed desire of the Legislature to expedite their resolution.

The District contends that there are disputed facts in this case which require a hearing before acting on the motion. The District's Statement of Evidence concedes, however, that in 2013-2014 the Respondent was denied several entitlements: one formal observation, one announced observation, and at least one observation in each semester, as N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.4(c) requires. The District's opposition to the motion is, therefore, premised not on disputed facts but on an argument of law—that the District's observations of the Respondent over the two-year period under review satisfied the statutory requirements. This statutory claim can be considered without a hearing.

Having found that the motion to dismiss may be submitted at this stage of the proceeding, the arbitrator turns to the merits of the motion. In enacting TEACHNJ, the legislature stated with clarity and precision the minimum requirements for evaluating a teacher:

> Each teacher shall be observed as described in this section, at least three times during each school year but not less than once during each semester. For all teachers, at least one of the required observations shall be announced and preceded by a pre-conference, and at least one of the required observations shall be unannounced....
> N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.4(c).

These minimum requirements are reiterated in the District's own evaluation guide, titled "Framework for Effective Teaching," which also requires a minimum of three observations annually, including at least one announced observation, and mandates at least one observation in each semester.

The Respondent's 2013-2014 annual summative evaluation fell short of the statutory requirements in three distinct respects. First, he was observed only twice, not three times—the minimum allowed by law. Second, he was not observed during both semesters, as required by law.[2] Third, he was not provided with an observation that was announced and preceded by a pre-conference.

The requirements set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.4(c) are not ambiguous, complex, or onerous.[3] They are plainly intended to establish a sufficient basis for judging a teacher's performance during a school year and to assure the teacher due process by specifying how he or she will be evaluated. In this instance, the District clearly did not carry out the obligatory steps prescribed by law. At no point during the evaluation process or subsequently has it offered any justification for its failure to do so.

As noted above, Ebert stated:

[2] His two observations during the 2013-2014 school year occurred within two weeks of each other, during the first semester of the school year.

[3] The Legislature was as forthright in this respect as it was in a related provision (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1b3), requiring districts to provide teachers with all evidence upon referral of tenure charges to arbitration. The comment in Ebert about that provision applies with equal force here: "The Legislature could not have more lucidly articulated the District's obligation" [Ebert at 16].

> The Legislature also defined the factors that an arbitrator may consider in analyzing the "evaluation process." Under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2a.1, the arbitrator shall consider whether "the employee's evaluation failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process, including, but not limited to providing a corrective action plan." If the employee is able to demonstrate such a failure, the arbitrator must determine if it materially affected the outcome.
> [Ebert at 8.]

There can be no doubt that the District's evaluation of the Respondent in 2013-2014 failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process and that this unexplained error materially affected the outcome of his evaluation. Although there was no contention that the 2014-2015 process was defective, ignoring the minimum statutory requirements in 2013-2014 deprived the Respondent of due process protections explicitly set forth in the Legislature's enactment of TEACHNJ. In these circumstances, the motion to dismiss the tenure charges must be granted.[4]

Tia Schneider Denenberg
Arbitrator

[4] Both the District and the Respondent cite other arbitrators' decisions in support of their respective positions. Those decisions are not dispositive here but have been given due consideration. As Ebert observed:

> The awards are informative, but the controlling consideration is the Legislature's intent, as evidenced in the statutory provisions. Since the TEACHNJ Act established a permanent panel of 25 [recently enlarged by the Legislature to 50] arbitrators to hear tenure charges, it is to be expected that awards may reach contradictory interpretations of the legislation. The awards are subject to judicial review, which may ultimately resolve conflicts among them. Until then, the awards ought not to be regarded as final for purposes of collateral estoppel.

| OF THE BOROUGH OF GLEN ROCK, | : | |

SYNOPSIS

In November 2015, the Commissioner of Education issued an Order to Show Cause requiring respondent to show cause why an order should not be entered suspending his teaching certificate for unprofessional conduct pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 for resigning his position without giving the notice required for tenured employees by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8. The respondent failed to answer the order. Respondent was duly advised that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(e), failure to respond would cause each allegation raised by the Board to be deemed admitted, and might result in summary decision by the Commissioner.

There being no response to the order to show cause, the Commissioner concluded that the allegations – which respondent has chosen not to deny – may be deemed admitted, and justify suspension of respondent's certification. Accordingly, summary decision is granted to petitioner, and respondent's certificate is suspended for a period of one year from the date of the filing of this decision – a copy of which has been forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for the purpose of effectuating this order.

| OF ANDREW SILVER, SCHOOL DISTRICT | : | DECISION |
| OF THE BOROUGH OF GLEN ROCK, | : | |
| BERGEN COUNTY. | : | |

For Petitioner, Rodney T. Hara, Esq.

No appearance by or on behalf of respondent

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on November 25, 2015, by way of an Order to Show Cause served by petitioner (School District of the Borough of Glen Rock) upon respondent (Andrew Silver), requiring respondent to show cause why an order should not be entered suspending his teaching certificate pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 for resigning without giving the notice required for tenured employees by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8. By notice dated November 25, 2015, the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (Bureau) acknowledged receipt of proof that the Order to Show Cause had been served upon respondent and directed respondent to answer within 20 days.

No answer having yet been received, on December 17, 2015, the Bureau sent respondent a second notice, via regular and certified mail, directing that he file an answer within ten days. The notice advised that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(e), failure to answer would cause each allegation in petitioner's papers to be deemed admitted, and might result in summary decision by the Commissioner. The notice sent by certified mail was returned by the postal service as unclaimed; however, the notice sent by regular mail was not returned, and no answer to the Order to Show Cause has been filed as of this date.

The verified complaint submitted by the petitioner in this matter states that: the respondent has been employed by petitioner as a full-time teaching staff member since September 1, 2001, and subsequently acquired tenure in the district; the respondent was expected to report on September 1, 2015 for the start of the 2015-2016 school year; and on August 31, 2015, the respondent submitted his resignation to the district, providing only a one day notice prior to the start of the school year. The respondent has not denied these allegations; therefore, the Commissioner deems such allegations to be admitted pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(e) and further deems them sufficient to justify suspension of respondent's teaching certification pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8.

Accordingly, summary decision is hereby granted to petitioner, and respondent's teaching certification is suspended for a period of one year from the filing date of this decision, a copy of which shall be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for implementation of the suspension.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

WHEREAS, M.M., a resident of New Brunswick, and M.Z., a resident of North Brunswick, are the legal guardians and maternal grandmother and mother, respectively, of J.H.; and

WHEREAS, J.H. has been classified as eligible for special education and related services by the New Brunswick Township Board of Education; and

WHEREAS, the New Brunswick Township Board of Education ("New Brunswick") was the local educational agency with the responsibility for providing J.H. with a free and appropriate public education ("FAPE") in the least restrictive environment ("LRE"); and

WHEREAS, through his most recent New Brunswick IEP, J.H. attends Center School, a approved private school for the education of students with disabilities; and

WHEREAS, a dispute arose between Petitioners and New Brunswick during the 2014-2015 school year relative to J.H.'s residency in that District; and

DEC 21 2015

WHEREAS, on May 5, 2015 a Residency Hearing was held before the New Brunswick Board, wherein the Board determined that J.H. was not a resident of that District, and in fact lived with his mother, M.Z., in North Brunswick; and

WHEREAS, a Petition of Appeal was filed by M.M. and M.Z. on behalf of J.H. against New Brunswick, on August 12, 2015, challenging the residency determination; and

WHEREAS, through a Consent Order, an Amended Petition of Appeal was filed on August 26, 2015, naming North Brunswick Township Board of Education ("North Brunswick") as a Respondent; and

WHEREAS, the parties have negotiated in good faith concerning this matter, and have a desire to settle this matter in an amicable way, without the need for further litigation, the parties enter into this Agreement in order to reach a compromise in the interests of the parties;

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the covenants contained herein and for good and valuable consideration, the sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, it is hereby agreed by and between the parties as follows:

1. It is hereby agreed that M.Z.'s residence in North Brunswick is the primary residence of J.H. As a result, for the remainder of the 2015-2016 School Year moving forward, J.H. is determined a resident of North Brunswick. North Brunswick will be the local educational agency responsible for providing J.H. a free appropriate public education in the least restrictive environment for that time period. North Brunswick is therefore responsible for J.H.'s program and placement at Center School for the 2015-2016 school year. North Brunswick agrees to pay all educational costs (including related services) as well as transportation costs relative to J.H.'s attendance at Center School for the remainder of the 2015-2016 school year. It is also agreed that North Brunswick will officially commence its' duties as the LEA responsible for J.H. as of January 4, 2016.

2. Any monies due and owing to Center School from January 4, 2016 through the remainder of the 2015-2016 school year for J.H.'s placement will be paid directly to Center School by North Brunswick, upon formal Board approval of a contract between that Board and Center School for the remainder of the 2015-2016 school year. Any monies already paid to Center School by New Brunswick for the 2015-2016 school year, from July 1, 2015 through January 1, 2016, will be reimbursed within sixty (60) days of receipt of proof of payment by New Brunswick and formal Board approval by North Brunswick of reimbursement.

3. The parties agree to meet on or before June 1, 2016 to assess J.H.'s continued attendance at Center School. At the June 2016 meeting, North Brunswick will develop and offer J.H. an IEP for the 2016-2017 school year. If the Petitioners disagree with the IEP offered for the 2016-2017 school year, and if a legal dispute arises regarding J.H.'s programming/placement for that school year, then Center School shall be considered the student's "stay put" programming/placement during the pendency of any dispute regarding the student's placement for the 2016-2017 school year.

4. Any and all other costs and expenses, of whatsoever nature, including, but not limited to medical expenses, personal expenses, attorneys' fees incurred by the Petitioners regarding the filing of any and all due process petitions against either District, or any private educational expenses, associated with this matter and not specifically addressed herein, are and shall remain the sole responsibility of the Petitioners. The financial and other terms of this Agreement are specifically contingent upon M.Z.'s continued domicile in North Brunswick Township. If M.Z. moves from North Brunswick Township, she agrees to notify the Board immediately and all future payments of tuition and transportation to the out-of-district placement shall cease. Any remaining unpaid payments contemplated under this Agreement will be reduced on a pro rata basis, should this circumstance arise.

5. The foregoing shall constitute full and complete settlement regarding any and all claims of whatever nature the Petitioners and/or J.H. have or may have against either New Brunswick or North Brunswick through June 30, 2016, including settlement with prejudice of the instant

August 26, 2015 Amended Petition of Appeal. As a material part of this Agreement, the Petitioners, individually and on behalf of J.H., specifically release and waive all rights and claims of whatsoever nature relating to J.H.'s education, including but not limited to any claim for reimbursement for educational services unilaterally provided to date; reimbursement of any and all incurred attorneys' fees or expert costs; their procedural rights; and their right to receive educational services for J.H. from either New Brunswick or North Brunswick, for the effective dates of this Agreement.

6. The foregoing shall also constitute full and complete settlement regarding any and all claims of whatever nature New Brunswick has or may have against North Brunswick for any tuition, fees and costs associated with J.H.'s program and placement, prior to the 2015-2016 school year. New Brunswick hereby specifically waives and releases all rights and claims of whatsoever nature as against North Brunswick relating to costs associated with J.H.'s education prior to the 2015-2016 school year, including but not limited to reimbursement for tuition, transportation, related services, expert fees and attorney fees and costs, for the effective dates of this Agreement.

7. The foregoing shall also constitute full and complete settlement regarding any and all claims of whatever nature that New Brunswick has or may have against Petitioners for any tuition, fees and costs associated with J.H.'s program and placement through the date of execution of this agreement. The parties agree that Petitioners are in no way responsible for any tuition or transportation fees and costs associated with J.H.'s educational program and placement.

8. This Agreement is made without any admissions of liability or responsibility by any party hereto and shall not be construed as an admission by either New Brunswick or North Brunswick that it did not offer J.H. a FAPE in the LRE for the 2013-2014, 2014-2015, or 2015-2016 school years.

9. This Agreement represents the entire understanding between the parties and will not be modified in whole or in part except by a mutual subsequent written and signed Agreement executed by both of the parties.

10. This Agreement shall not be effective as to either New Brunswick or North Brunswick without the specific approval of those Boards of Education at a public meeting. This Agreement shall be governed by the Laws of the State of New Jersey and constitutes a legal release of all claims that were or could have been raised as set forth herein.

11. The parent agrees to enroll J.H. in the North Brunswick School District prior to approval of this Agreement by the North Brunswick Board of Education. The parent will also provide to North Brunswick a transfer card from New Brunswick that evidences J.H.'s disenrollment from that District, as soon as possible.

12. Upon full execution and approval by the Boards of Education, the herein Agreement shall be submitted to the Office of Administrative Law's Newark vicinage for approval and incorporation into a Final Decision and Order by the Honorable Margaret M. Monaco, A.L.J., the administrative law judge assigned to this matter.

13. It is acknowledged that this Agreement has been entered into freely, willingly and voluntarily, without duress or coercion, and with the opportunity to consult with counsel of each party's choosing and option. The Petitioners did consult with counsel, Paul Barger, Esq., of Barger & Gaines; New Brunswick did consult with George F. Hendricks, Esq., of Hendricks & Hendricks; and North Brunswick did consult with Marc G. Mucciolo, Esq. of Schwartz Simon Edelstein & Celso, LLC.

14. The parties acknowledge that they were represented by competent counsel, that they understood the contents of this Settlement Agreement and Release, and that each party hereto will be responsible for bearing the costs of their own attorneys' fees and costs, and any other costs pursuant to 20 U.S.C.A. §1415 or any other Federal or State Statutes. It is further agreed that neither party is considered a "prevailing party" for any purposes. This Agreement shall be governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey and constitutes a legal release of all claims that were or could have been raised as set forth herein.

15. Petitioners agree to keep the terms of this Settlement Agreement confidential to the maximum extent permitted by law.

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to the standards enunciated in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6. Specifically, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons set forth in the recommended Order – that petitioner has failed to demonstrate that she will suffer irreparable harm absent emergent relief. As petitioner must demonstrate all four Crowe factors in order to warrant emergent relief, the Commissioner need not make a determination on the remaining three factors.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief is adopted. This matter shall continue at the OAL with such proceedings as the parties and the ALJ deem necessary to bring it to closure.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner Tracey Pitts requests an emergent order compelling respondent, the State-Operated School District of the City of Camden, Camden County, (the District) to reinstate her to her employment as a tenured teacher. On December 29, 2015, petitioner filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education, along with an application for emergent relief.[1] The entire matter, including Pitts' motion for emergent relief, was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was filed on December 31, 2015, and scheduled for an emergent oral argument on January 14, 2016. The parties filed written briefs with proposed exhibits, and a telephone conference was held on January 13, 2016, when oral argument was rescheduled at respondent's request with petitioner's consent. On January 19, 2016, oral argument was heard and the record for petitioner's emergent-relief application was closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

From 1988 through October 31, 2015, Pitts was employed by the District, and during that time she attained tenure as a special-education teacher. (Petition of Appeal, ¶ 1; Motion for Emergent Relief, ¶ 19; Answer to Petition of Appeal, ¶ 1.) On August 21, 2015, the District served her with tenure charges, seeking to remove her from her teaching position for reasons of inefficiency. (Petition of Appeal, ¶ 2; P-2.) On September 9, 2015, Pitts communicated through her attorney that she wished to retire before the District sent the tenure charges to the Commissioner of Education for certification. (Id. at ¶ 3.) On October 15, 2015, Pitts communicated that she would resign rather than retire, effective October 31, 2015, and asked the District for a drafted settlement agreement. (Ibid; Motion for Emergent Relief, P-4.) According to a drafted "Settlement Agreement and Release," "Pitts shall provide the District . . . with an irrevocable letter of intent to resign on October 31, 2015," and "[t]he District agrees not to pursue tenure charges against Pitts in consideration for her submission of the irrevocable letter of intent to resign." (Motion for Emergent Relief, P-2, at 1.) That draft further provides that "[t]his Agreement encompasses the sole and entire agreement between the Parties and fully supersedes any and all prior agreements or understandings pertaining to the subject matter hereof," and that "[n]o other promises or agreements shall be binding unless in writing, signed by the Parties, and expressly stated to represent an amendment or supersession to this Agreement." (Id. at 3.) The document also states that "during the seven (7) day period following execution of the Settlement Agreement and the Release, [Pitts] may revoke her acceptance of this Agreement . . . [which] shall not become effective or enforceable until after the revocation period has expired." (Ibid.) However, on October 26, 2015, Pitts' attorney advised the District's attorney that Pitts would not sign the agreement and that she wished to defend against the tenure charges.

[1] Pitts' petition of appeal requests that the Commissioner issue an order finding that the District "violated her due process and tenure rights when it terminated her" and her motion for emergent relief requests an order "compelling [the District] to reinstate her as a teacher with the Camden School District and proceed with the tenure charge, pursuant to the Tenure Employee Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq."

On November 5, 2015, the District filed a complaint in Superior Court seeking to enforce the parties' agreement. (R-1.) According to the complaint, "the District sent [Pitts' counsel] a settlement agreement on October 19, 2015, which reflected the agreement for Pitts to resign and for the District to forego certification and filing of the tenure charges against her with the Department of Education." (Id. at ¶ 6.) The District further avers in the complaint that "an agreement had been formed regardless of whether Pitts signed it." (Id. at ¶ 9.) On January 8, 2016, the Honorable Anthony Pugliese, J.S.C., issued an order granting the District's motion to proceed summarily with its complaint, and that matter is pending in Superior Court. (R-3.) To date, the District has not filed tenure charges against Pitts with the Commissioner of Education.

I FIND as FACT all of the above, which is undisputed.

In Pitts' application for emergent relief, she asserts that: (1) she will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted because her "statutory right to defend against the tenure charge has been wrongfully taken away by the District through its wrongful designation of her as a terminated employee, in the guise of enforcing a settlement agreement that she did not sign" and "the right to defend against the tenure charges . . . is the type of situation that '[c]annot be redressed adequately by monetary damages'"; (2) "[t]he law is clear that, as a tenured employee, Pitts can only be terminated through the filing of tenure charges" and "[t]herefore, the legal right underlying her claim is settled and she will clearly prevail on the underlying claim"; (3) Pitts "will suffer greater harm [than the District if the requested relief is not granted] because she will not have the opportunity to defend against the tenure charge of inefficiency."

In opposition, the District contends that: (1) "the only harm Petitioner will suffer without a preliminary injunction is merely a delay in obtaining her relief"; (2) Pitts was not terminated, but resigned, and is therefore not entitled to a tenure hearing and, if the Superior Court judge "decides that a settlement is reached, Ms. Pitts can no longer contend that her tenure rights were violated" and "[s]he simply cannot demonstrate a likelihood of success."

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

According to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6, an application for emergent relief shall not be granted unless it satisfies the following four standards:

> 1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
>
> 2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;
> 3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
> 4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.
> [N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b); Crowe v. DeGoia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).]

(1) Irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted

Petitioner has failed to show that she will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted. As the Court has explained, "harm is generally considered irreparable in equity if it cannot be redressed adequately by monetary damages." Crowe, supra, 90 N.J. at 132–33. Further "[p]ecuniary damages may be inadequate because of the nature of the injury or of the right affected." Id. at 133 (citations omitted). Pitts has failed to explain how "the right to defend against the tenure charges" is the type of situation that "[c]annot be redressed adequately by monetary damages." Even if the District violated her tenure rights by failing to reinstate her and file tenure charges against her after she declined to sign the settlement agreement, Pitts has failed to show that any loss in salary and benefits cannot be redressed adequately by a monetary award. If Pitts ultimately succeeds on the merits of her underlying claim, the District would have to reinstate her and compensate her with back pay and emoluments. It is thus unclear how a delay in an order compelling the District to pursue tenure charges against her represents "some threatening, irreparable mischief, which should be averted until opportunity is afforded for a full and deliberate investigation of the case." Id. at 132 (citations omitted).

The emergent-relief standards under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) are listed in the conjunctive and must all be met in order for Pitts to be entitled to emergent relief. As such, Pitts' failure to satisfy the first standard for emergent relief compels the denial of her application irrespective of her ability to satisfy any of the other three standards. Nonetheless, for the sake of thoroughness, the following discussion addresses whether Pitts has satisfied the second, third, and fourth standards for emergent relief.

(2) Settled legal right underlying petitioner's claim

The legal right underlying Pitts' claim is settled because, under the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -18.1, "[n]o person shall be dismissed . . . if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency in the public school system of the state . . . except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. Thus, it is settled that a tenured teacher cannot be removed from her position except for inefficiency and then only in accordance with the procedures required by the Tenure Employees Hearing Law.

(3) Likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim.

Under the third emergent-relief standard, "a plaintiff must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits." Crowe, supra, 90 N.J. at 133 (citing Ideal Laundry Co. v. Gugliemone, 107 N.J. Eq. 108, 115–16 (E. & A. 1930)). This typically "'involves a prediction of the probable outcome of the case' based on each party's initial proofs, usually limited to documents." Brown v. City of Paterson, 424 N.J. Super. 176, 182–83 (App. Div. 2012) (quoting Rinaldo v. RLR Inv., LLC, 387 N.J. Super. 387, 397 (App. Div. 2006)). Petitioner thus need not prove success to any degree of certainty.

Here, the initial proofs show that Pitts has a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits of her underlying claim that the District has, in effect, removed her from her teaching position in violation of the Tenure Employees Hearing Law because she did not sign the settlement agreement and instead announced her intention to remain in her position and defend against any tenure charges the District determined to pursue. In support of her application for emergent relief, Pitts submitted a draft copy of the Settlement Agreement and Release, which states that "Pitts shall provide the District . . . with an irrevocable letter of intent to resign on October 31, 2015," and "[t]he District agrees not to pursue tenure charges against Pitts in consideration for her submission of the irrevocable letter of intent to resign." That document further provides that "[t]his Agreement encompasses the sole and entire agreement between the Parties and fully supersedes any and all prior agreements or understandings pertaining to the subject matter hereof" and that "[n]o other promises or agreements shall be binding unless in writing, signed by the Parties, and expressly stated to represent an amendment or supersession to this Agreement." Finally, the document states that "during the seven (7) day period following execution of the Settlement Agreement and the Release, she may revoke her acceptance of this Agreement . . . [which] shall not become effective or enforceable until after the revocation period has expired." In light of these contemplated terms and the fact that Pitts did not sign the document, Pitts has made a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits.

While mindful of both the pending action filed by the District in Superior Court "seeking a declaration that the settlement agreement is valid and to enforce it" and the District's argument that "the Commissioner cannot decide whether Ms. Pitts's tenure rights were violated until the Superior Court decides whether the settlement agreement was valid," District's Brief in Opposition to Pitts' Application for Emergent Relief, p. 3, the initial proofs nonetheless lead to the conclusion that Pitts would likely prevail on the merits of her underlying claim that the District violated her tenure rights when, after she declined to sign the written settlement agreement, the District failed to reinstate her to her teaching position and proceed with the tenure charges against her.

(4) The greater harm, considering a balancing of the equities and interests of the parties

In terms of the greater harm if the relief sought is not granted, at this point, Pitts has lost her employment and primary means of support, including her salary and benefits.[2] The District, on the other hand, has perhaps only temporarily forgone the processing of tenure charges. Accordingly, a balance of the equities and interests of the parties does indicate that petitioner would suffer the greater harm if the requested relief is not granted.

Under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) and Crowe, all four criteria for emergent relief must be sustained. Based upon all of the above, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not met all four of the applicable criteria for emergent relief, because she has not shown that she will suffer irreparable harm.

ORDER

Therefore, it is hereby ORDERED the petitioner's request for emergent relief is DENIED.

This Order disposes of only the issues raised in petitioner's application for emergent relief.

The matter will be scheduled for a telephone prehearing in the near future regarding the plenary hearing. Notices will be sent to the parties under separate cover.

[2] Notably, under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, "[u]pon certification of any charge to the commissioner, the board may suspend the person against whom such charge is made, with or without pay."

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

| PETITIONER | : | |
| V. | : | COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION |
| NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS, | : | DECISION |
| RESPONDENT. | : | |

SYNOPSIS

In this case on remand, petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent – the State Board of Examiners (SBE) – that she had not met the requirements for issuance of a certificate of eligibility (CE) for the position of Teacher of Preschool through Grade Three. Specifically, the SBE disqualified twelve liberal arts credits out of 125 credit hours which petitioner completed at Baptist Bible College, leaving her short of the 60 liberal arts credits required for the CE she desires. Petitioner holds a Bachelor of Science degree from the college, where she majored in Bible. The parties mutually agreed to proceed without a hearing, and the SBE filed a motion for summary decision. The ALJ issued an Initial Decision in April 2015 in which she denied the SBE's motion, reversed the SBE's determination that petitioner had not met the requirements for the CE she had applied for, and granted summary decision in favor of petitioner. Upon review, the Commissioner remanded the matter back to the OAL, finding that he was unable to determine whether the SBE's decision was consistent with applicable statutory and regulatory provisions since the ALJ made no findings of fact as to which course credits the SBE rejected – or which were counted – toward the 60 semester-hour liberal arts credits required under N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-10.1(a)(3).

On remand, the ALJ indicated that she "made no further independent fact finding but recited the undisputed facts as conveyed by the parties," and incorporated the legal analysis and conclusions of her April 2015 Initial Decision into her Initial Decision on remand, dated December 31, 2015.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner found that the Initial Decision on remand did not address the Commissioner's concerns set forth in his June 2015 decision, which remanded the matter to the OAL; the ALJ's acknowledgement that she simply recited the facts as found in her April 2015 Initial Decision and conducted no further fact finding is in direct contravention of the Commissioner's instructions; the Initial Decision on remand does not make factual findings as to which course credits were accepted by the SBE toward the 60 semester-hour credit requirement in liberal arts under N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-10.1(a)(3), nor which credits were rejected by the SBE; and such factual findings are necessary for the Commissioner to determine whether the SBE acted consistently with applicable statutory and regulatory provisions when it denied the petitioner's application for a CE. Accordingly, the Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL for further action and development of the record consistent with the instant decision and the Commissioner's June 2015 decision.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision issued April 28, 2015 by the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL"), and the subsequent Initial Decision issued December 31, 2015 (in response to the Commissioner's June 12, 2015 remand) have been reviewed. The exceptions filed by respondent, State Board of Examiners ("Board") – pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – were also considered. For the reasons stated herein, the Commissioner is constrained to remand the matter to the OAL for further proceedings and for development of a factual record.

In this action, petitioner disputes the Board's May 22, 2014 decision denying her application for issuance of a Teacher of Preschool through Grade Three Certificate of Eligibility. The Board denied her application because she was 12 credits short of the 60 semester-hour credits required under N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-10.1(a)(3).[1] Specifically, the Board found that certain courses petitioner took in theology and bible do not qualify as liberal arts courses because they "are not intended to provide general knowledge, rather, in depth study of a particular discipline" and "do not suffice as providing a one-to-one correspondence between the licensure deficiency, i.e., 12 liberal arts credits, and what [petitioner] proffered." (Board Decision at 2-3).

[1] N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-10.1(a)(3) requires that candidates seeking a Preschool through Grade Three Certificate of Eligibility "complete a liberal arts, science, dual content or interdisciplinary academic major or a minimum of 60 semester hour credits in liberal arts and/or science." The regulation was cited as N.J.A.C. 6A:9-11.1(a)(3) prior to the amendments which took effect on July 7, 2014.

Petitioner appealed the Board's determination. Respondent filed a motion for summary decision, and the parties agreed to proceed without a hearing. In her April 28, 2015 decision, the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") denied respondent's motion, reversed the Board's determination, and granted summary decision in favor of petitioner.

Upon review, in his June 12, 2015 decision, the Commissioner found that "no findings of fact were made by the ALJ as to which course credits the Board had rejected, or which course credits the Board counted toward the 60 semester-hour liberal arts credits requirement under N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-10.1(a)(3)." Ward v. Board of Examiners, Commissioner Decision No. 198-15, decided June 12, 2015, at 2-3. The Commissioner further found that the Initial Decision lacked citations to the record and the requisite listing of exhibits admitted into evidence. Id. at 3. Finally, the Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL because "[a]bsent specific factual findings as to which course credits were accepted by the Board in satisfaction of the 60 semester-hour liberal arts credits requirement under N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-10.1(a)(3), which course credits were rejected by the Board, and which course descriptions were evaluated by the Board in connection with petitioner's subsequent request for a credentials review," he was unable to determine whether the Board's decision was consistent with applicable statutory and regulatory provisions. Ibid.

On remand, the ALJ indicated in the December 31, 2015 Initial Decision that she "made no further independent fact finding but recited the undisputed facts as conveyed by the parties." (Initial Decision at 3). The ALJ then incorporated the legal analysis and conclusions of the Initial Decision issued April 28, 2015. (Ibid.)

In its exceptions to the December 31, 2015 Initial Decision, respondent asserts that the matter must be remanded because it fails to address the deficiencies identified in the Commissioner's June 12, 2015 remand decision. (Respondent's Exceptions at 2-4). Specifically, respondent contends that the parties did not have the opportunity to address the issues raised in the Commissioner's remand decision because they did not receive a Notice of Hearing, pre-hearing conference notice, or a request for supplemental briefing from the ALJ. (Id. at 3). Instead, respondent argues, "the ALJ issued a second Initial Decision elaborating on the facts from the parties' original moving papers, ignoring the specific issues identified in the Commissioner's decision[.]" (Ibid.).

Upon a comprehensive review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner agrees with respondent that the Initial Decision did not address the Commissioner's concerns set forth in the June 12, 2015 remand decision. The ALJ acknowledged that she simply recited the facts as found in her April 28, 2015 decision and conducted no further fact finding, in direct contravention of the Commissioner's instructions. Indeed, the Initial Decision does not make factual findings as to which course credits were accepted by the Board toward the 60 semester-hour credit requirement in liberal arts under N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-10.1(a)(3) and which credits were rejected by the Board. Such factual findings are necessary for the Commissioner to determine whether the Board acted consistently with applicable statutory and regulatory provisions when it denied petitioner's application.

Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.7, for further action and development of the record consistent with this decision and the Commissioner's decision issued June 12, 2015.

Decided: December 31, 2015

BEFORE TIFFANY M. WILLIAMS, ALJ:

This matter was initially decided on April 28, 2015, at OAL DKT. NO. EDU 13688-14. By way of decision issued June 12, 2015[1], the Commissioner of the Department of Education (Commissioner) remanded the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) based on a finding that the original Initial Decision failed to make factual findings as to which course credits the State Board of Examiners had rejected or counted toward the 60 semester hour liberal arts credit requirement, and which course descriptions were evaluated by the Board under N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-10.1(a)(3), in consideration of the petitioner's request for credentials review. The decision also requested a list of exhibits admitted into evidence.

The initial decision dated April 28, 2015, at OAL DKT. NO. EDU 13688-14, is hereby incorporated herein. The first paragraph of that decision noted the following facts were found as undisputed facts:

> The facts in this matter are undisputed and are FOUND as FACT. The petitioner applied for her Certificate of Eligibility for a Teacher of Preschool through Grade Three. Her application was denied by the Board on May 22, 2014, and the petitioner appealed requesting a credentials review. On April 4, 2014, the Board heard the application for the credentials review and ultimately determined that the petitioner was short twelve credits of liberal arts classes; therefore, was not eligible for the requested certificate. The Board has specifically disqualified petitioner's twelve liberal arts credits from 125 credit hours completed at Baptist Bible College. Petitioner appealed and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing. During a telephone status conference, the parties mutually agreed to proceed without a hearing, opting to resolve the case by motion instead. By way of motion, the Board requested summary decision in its favor, upholding the denial of the petitioner's application for the Preschool through Grade Three Certificate.

As an initial matter, the Board's decision that formed the jurisdiction of this appeal stated on page 2, that "Ms. Ward was evaluated for completion of the 60 semester-hour credits in liberal arts and/or science and was found to be lacking 12 liberal arts credits." The Board's decision at pages 2-3 further stated, "A listing of courses provided by Mr. Dreyer and Ms. Ward's request of the Board to review the course descriptions do not suffice as providing a one-to-one correspondence between the licensure deficiency, i.e. 12 liberal arts credits, and what she proffered." In the first paragraph of the decision, the Board noted that Ms. Ward requested that the Board consider her Theology and Bible courses taken at Baptist Bible College and Seminary in Summit, PA between 1990-1994, in fulfillment of the 12 liberal art credit requirement. One of the underlying facts referenced in the Board's decision was disputed by the parties, and were specifically referenced in the statement of facts in the State's briefs. The parties did not want a contested hearing to determine the propriety of any of these underlying facts and the State brought a motion for summary decision. The parties mutually agreed to resolve the matter by summary decision based on the same underlying facts that had been the underpinning of the Board's decision.

Accordingly, this Court found made no further independent fact finding but recited and relied upon the undisputed facts. Further, the matter was decided as a matter of law and the legal analysis and conclusions of the Initial Decision dated April 28, 2015, are incorporated herein.

By way of further clarification, the last page of the exhibit list had not been transmitted with the Initial Decision dated April 28, 2015. That was a clerical error which is corrected by its inclusion to this Initial Decision. The exhibits relied upon in this decision were submitted by the parties as the undisputed record.[2]

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

[2] Several additional exhibits were submitted in the briefs but were omitted because they were copies of transmittals to the OAL or briefs filed by the parties, which are not evidence.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. ## SYNOPSIS

Petitioner appealed determination of the respondent – the State Board of Examiners (SBE) – that he had not met the requirements for issuance of a School Psychologist certificate. Petitioner was notified of the SBE's determination by letter mailed on October 29, 2014, and initially submitted his pro se appeal on January 16, 2015; however, his appeal was not perfected until April 2015, despite notifications that the petition was incomplete. The SBE subsequently filed a motion for summary decision based on petitioner's failure to adhere to the 90-day time frame for the submission of appeals set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), a petitioner must file a petition of appeal no later than the ninetieth day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the individual or agency that is the subject of the requested contested case hearing; a petitioner must also file proof of service on each respondent pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(a) and (h); the Commissioner may relax certain rules regarding controversies and disputes if "strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice," N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16; it is clear from the applicable regulations that the filing of a petition is not complete until the required service has been made upon the parties to the action, and in the case of the SBE, the Division of Law must be served as well, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(j); in the instant matter, petitioner failed to perfect the required service until months beyond the 90-day time frame despite communications which specifically set forth the requirement; and petitioner has set forth no compelling reason or explanation for his failure to complete such service. The ALJ concluded that the petitioner's appeal is time-barred. Accordingly, the SBE's motion to dismiss was granted and the petition was dismissed.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusion. Accordingly, the Initial Decision was adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's determination that the petition of appeal was time-barred under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition of appeal is dismissed.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner Assadour Choungourian (Choungourian) appeals the denial of his application for issuance of a School Psychologist certificate by respondent New Jersey State Board of Examiners (Board). On June 11, 2015, his appeal was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) by the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (Bureau) of the Department of Education for a hearing as a contested case. Subsequent to that transmittal, respondent filed a Motion to Dismiss the petition based on petitioner's failure to fulfill the requirements of the "90-day" filing rule since service was not made upon the Division of Law within that time frame.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

At its September 19, 2014 meeting, the Board considered Choungourian's application for a School Psychologist certificate. Its written decision denying his application was mailed to petitioner on October 29, 2014. Choungourian, pro se, then filed his petition appealing the denial with the Bureau on January 16, 2015. However, he did not serve a copy of his petition on the Division of Law (Division) of the Department of Law and Public Safety as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(j). By letter dated January 20, 2015, Choungourian was advised by the Bureau of the requirements necessary for the complete and proper filing of a petition under the applicable regulations. Included in that letter was the requirement that service be made upon the Division.

In response to letters from petitioner dated February 24 and March 17, 2015, the Bureau responded by letter of March 24, 2015, advising petitioner that the filing of his petition was incomplete since he had not served it upon the Division. On April 7, 2015, petitioner mailed the petition to the Division, and on April 16, 2015, the Division acknowledged receipt by letter. On June 9, 2015, the Bureau transmitted the petition to the OAL for hearing as a contested case. Respondent then moved for dismissal of the petition based on petitioner's failure to serve the Division within the 90-day time frame set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

The Commissioner of Education has jurisdiction to hear and determine all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. To initiate a contested case for the Commissioner's determination of a controversy or dispute arising under the school laws, a petitioner shall prepare a petition of appeal meeting certain requirements and serve such petition upon each respondent. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(a). A petition of appeal must include the contact information of the respondent; state the allegations and facts giving rise to the appeal; state the specific relief sought; and include a notarized statement of certification. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.4(a). A petitioner must also file proof of service on each respondent. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(a) and (h). The petitioner must file a petition of appeal no later than the ninetieth day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the individual or agency that is the subject of the requested contested case hearing (90-day rule). N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). The Commissioner may relax certain rules regarding controversies and disputes if "strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16.

In this matter, the Board argues that its motion to dismiss should be granted because Choungourian failed to file his petition of appeal within the 90-day period required under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). While petitioner submitted his appeal within the 90-day time frame encompassed by the regulation, the Bureau informed him by letter of January 20, 2015 of the requirements necessary for a complete filing of an appeal. Although that letter clearly sets forth the requirement that service be made upon the Division, it was not until April, and receipt of a second letter from the Board citing the requirement, that petitioner completed the service requirement upon the Division. Respondent argues that Choungourian has presented no valid reason why he did not fulfill the service until months after the 90-day period had run and that his petition should be dismissed.

It is clear from the applicable regulation that the filing of a petition of appeal is not complete until the required service has been made upon the parties to the action, and in the case of the Board of Examiners, the Division of Law as well. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(j). In this matter, petitioner failed to perfect such service until months beyond the 90-day time frame despite communication from the Bureau setting forth the requirement. Additionally, petitioner has set forth no compelling reason or explanation for his failure to complete such service.

For the reasons stated above, I CONCLUDE that Choungourian's petition of appeal is time-barred under the 90-day rule because the 90-day rule is strictly applied and there is no compelling reason to relax the rule.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based on the foregoing, respondent's motion to dismiss petitioner's petition of appeal as time-barred under the 90-day rule pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10 is GRANTED, and petitioner's petition is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." In the Matter of the TENURE Charges Against

TONI LENZ,

Agency Dkt. No.
372-10/15

By: STATE OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY

---X

Before MELISSA H. BIREN, Esq., Impartial Arbitrator

ORDER APPROVING SETTLEMENT OF TENURE CHARGES

The State District Superintendent of the State Operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County (the "District") certified tenure charges against Toni Lenz ("Respondent" or "Lenz"), a tenured teacher in the District. The District's counsel, Brenda Liss, Esq. (Riker Danzig Scherer Hyland & Perretti LLP), filed the tenure charges, alleging conduct unbecoming and other just cause, with the Commissioner of Education of the State of New Jersey; the Commissioner received the charges on October 26, 2015. Respondent, by her counsel, Nancy Oxfeld, Esq. (Oxfeld Cohen, PC) filed an answer with the Commissioner, received on November 5, 2015, denying the allegations and asserting various defenses. The Commissioner of Education, having reviewed the charges and the Respondent's answer, determined that the charges were sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in compensation and, therefore, referred the matter to arbitration. These charges were referred to the undersigned Arbitrator on November 16, 2015 pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16, as amended by P.L. 2012, c. 26. A timely request for an extension of time was granted.

The parties reached a mutually acceptable settlement of the tenure charges at a hearing on December 21, 2015. The settlement terms were thereafter set forth in a written Stipulation of Settlement ("Stipulation"). On February 10, 2016, the Stipulation, signed by the parties and counsel, was forwarded to the arbitrator for review and approval. In accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6, the settlement of the tenure charges pursuant to the terms of the Stipulation is hereby approved; the standards for settlement have been satisfied as set forth below.

1. A copy of the Stipulation, as well as the Tenure Charges and the Answer are annexed to this Order.
2. The settlement of the tenure charges is warranted as it resolves the charges without additional cost to the State or to the parties. The settlement also removes the uncertainty of litigation for both the District and the Respondent.
3. Both the charged and charging parties have consented to the settlement terms. Both parties were represented by counsel in the negotiation of the settlement terms and the preparation of the Stipulation. Lenz signed the Stipulation indicating her voluntary agreement to its terms on February 1, 2016. The State District Superintendent signed the Stipulation indicating his voluntary agreement to its terms on February 9, 2016. Counsel for both parties likewise signed the Stipulation. In addition, counsel for the District, Brenda Liss, Esq. (Riker Danzig Scherer Hyland & Perretti LLP), signed a Certification of Consent to Settlement Terms Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(b) on February 9, 2016.
4. Respondent confirmed to the arbitrator at the hearing and in the Stipulation that she fully understands the settlement terms and that she voluntarily entered into the settlement with a full understanding of her rights. Competent counsel provided advice and counsel to the Respondent throughout the settlement process.
5. The settlement is in the public interest. By the settlement, the District avoids the uncertainty of the outcome of the arbitration, the time and expense associated with litigation and any disruption to the District resulting from school personnel's participation in the hearing.
6. Respondent, who under the Stipulation's terms will be on an unpaid leave of absence until the start of the 2016-2017 school year, has not lost her position in the District as a result of this settlement. She will be eligible for reinstatement in the 2016-2017 school year to any position to which she is entitled by virtue of her tenure and seniority in the District in accordance with the Stipulation's terms.

By reason of the foregoing, the settlement of the tenure charges against the Respondent, Toni Lenz, pursuant to the terms set forth in the Stipulation, is approved.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE

This Settlement Agreement and General Release ("Agreement") is made by and between the STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, with an address at 2 Cedar Street, Newark, New Jersey 07102, and its successors, assigns, officers, employees, agents and representatives (collectively, "School District"), and TONI LENZ, residing at 114 Adelphi Street, Apt. D, Roselle, New Jersey 07203 ("Employee") (collectively, the "Parties").

WHEREAS Employee is a tenured teaching staff member employed by the District as a teacher;

WHEREAS the State District Superintendent of the School District ("Superintendent") certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct and other just cause to the Commissioner of Education of New Jersey, captioned In the Matter of Toni Lenz, State-operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County ("Tenure Charges"), and such charges were assigned Docket No. 327-10/15; and Employee filed an answer opposing the charges; and the Commissioner of Education, having reviewed the charges and Employee's answer, determined that the charges were sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in compensation, and accordingly referred the matter to arbitration and assigned Arbitrator Melissa Biren ("Arbitrator") to conduct a hearing;

WHEREAS the Parties wish to resolve this matter in accordance with the terms set forth herein rather than proceed with arbitration; and

WHEREAS the proposed settlement is in the best interest of the Parties and the public because it avoids an uncertain conclusion after protracted and costly proceedings at the expense of the public;

NOW, THEREFORE, subject to approval by the Arbitrator, the Parties hereby agree as follows:

1. Upon execution of this Agreement and approval by the Arbitrator, Employee will be placed on unpaid leave of absence, and such unpaid leave will extend until the first day on which teaching staff members are required to report to work for the 2016-2017 school year. Employee acknowledges and agrees that she will not be entitled to any compensation or benefits during the leave of absence, and she agrees not to exercise her preferred eligibility rights, if any, to the position of Teacher of Graphic Design (vocational) prior to the 2016-2017 school year.

2. In the 2016-2017 school year and thereafter, Employee shall be entitled to reinstatement to any position to which she is entitled by virtue of her tenure and seniority in the School District. Employee shall have no right to employment with the School District, in the 2016-2017 school year or at any time thereafter, except in any position to which she is entitled by virtue of tenure and seniority.

3. In exchange for Employee's agreement to the terms of paragraphs 1 and 2 above, the School District agrees to withdraw the Tenure Charges, and further agrees not to pursue the Tenure Charges so long as this Agreement remains in effect and is not ruled invalid or void by any court or administrative agency of competent jurisdiction. However, if this Agreement is ruled invalid or void, the School District retains the right to pursue action against Employee, including but not limited to tenure charges and termination of her employment.

4. During the period of leave set forth in paragraph 1 above, Employee shall not enter onto the premises of any school in the School District without express written permission of the principal. If Employee does enter onto the premises of any school in the School District without such permission, all of the School District's obligations under this Agreement shall cease immediately.

5. In exchange for the consideration set forth in paragraph 3 above, the sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, Employee hereby waives and releases any and all claims of any nature against the School District, including any claim for attorneys' fees, costs or other monetary relief, and hereby releases and discharges the School District with respect to any and all claims or rights that she has or may have against the School District. This waiver, release and discharge includes, without limitation, any and all actions, claims, and liabilities of whatsoever kind or character, in law or in equity, now known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, directly or indirectly related to Employee's employment with the School District or separation from employment with the School District. It specifically includes, without limitation, all claims which Employee may have regarding tenure, withholding of increment, discrimination on any basis, any federal or state civil rights law, any alleged violation of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, as amended; the Older Worker Benefits Protection Act; Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended; Sections 1981 through 1988 of Title 42 of the United States Code; the Civil Rights Act of 1991; the Equal Pay Act; the Americans with Disabilities Act; the Rehabilitation Act; the Family and Medical Leave Act; the Fair Labor Standards Act; the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended; the Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act; the National Labor Relations Act; the Fair Credit Reporting Act; the Occupational Safety and Health Act; the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Act; the Employee Polygraph Protection Act; the Immigration Reform Control Act; the retaliation provisions of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002; the False Claims Act; the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination; the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act; the New Jersey Family Leave Act; the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law; the New Jersey Equal Pay Law; the New Jersey Occupational Safety and Health Law; the New Jersey Smokers' Rights Law; the

New Jersey Genetic Privacy Act; the New Jersey Fair Credit Reporting Act; New Jersey Wages and Hours Law, unemployment compensations laws, disability benefits laws, retaliation provisions of the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Law; the United States Constitution, the New Jersey Constitution; and/or any other alleged violation of any federal, state or local law, regulation or ordinance; any claim based on contract, implied contract, collective bargaining agreement, tort law, personal injury, or public policy, having any bearing whatsoever on his employment by and/or termination of his employment with the School District, including but not limited to any claim for wrongful discharge, back pay, vacation pay, sick pay, wages, attorneys' fees, costs, and/or future wage loss. Employee agrees to withdraw with prejudice any and all claims or suits that she may have previously filed against the School District that are still pending in any and all courts and/or agencies. This Settlement is intended to be the final resolution of all outstanding matters between the District and Employee. Should Employee fail to withdraw any such pending claims or suit, this Agreement will serve as Employee's formal written notice of withdrawal of those pending claims or suits.

6. Notwithstanding the terms of paragraph 5 of this Agreement, Employee does not hereby waive any right she may have to workers compensation benefits or pension benefits. Moreover, notwithstanding the terms of paragraph 5, Employee is not and shall not be prohibited from communicating with or participating in any administrative proceeding before the United States Department of Labor or the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Should either such agency file a charge, action, complaint or lawsuit against the School District based upon any of the claims in Paragraph 5, Employee agrees not to seek or accept any resulting relief whatsoever.

7. To comply with the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act, if applicable, this Agreement advises Employee of the legal requirements of the Act and fully incorporates the legal requirements by reference into this Agreement. Accordingly, by executing this Agreement, Employee acknowledges that she: (i) fully understands the terms and conditions of this Agreement; (ii) has consulted with an attorney to review the Agreement; (iii) specifically waives her right to pursue any current claims she may have under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act; (iv) has been given sufficient time within which to consider this Agreement; and (v) has seven (7) days from the date of the execution of this Agreement to revoke it. Employee understands that she may rescind this Agreement within seven (7) calendar days of signing it, and such rescission must be in writing and delivered to counsel for the School District either by hand or by certified mail within the seven-day period.

8. Upon inquiry from any third party to authorized employees or representatives of the School District, those employees or representatives will provide no information regarding Employee other than to confirm Employee's employment, position, salary and dates of employment.

9. Employee shall keep the terms of this Agreement strictly confidential. In the event of any breach of this confidentiality provision, all of the School District's obligations under this Agreement shall cease immediately.

10. This Agreement shall not constitute a precedent in any matters involving other employees.

11. The Parties each acknowledge that counsel has advised them regarding this Agreement and that each is signing this Agreement freely and voluntarily, without duress, coercion or pressure from the other party.

12. Each signatory to this Agreement understands, acknowledges and agrees that this Agreement constitutes the full agreement of the parties and may not be altered, amended, modified, or otherwise changed in any respect whatsoever except by a duly executed writing signed on behalf of both Parties.

13. This Agreement shall be construed and enforced in accordance with New Jersey law. The Commissioner of Education and/or federal and state courts of the State of New Jersey, as applicable in accordance with such law, shall have exclusive jurisdiction over any dispute arising from, in connection with, or related to this Agreement.

14. This Agreement may be executed in counterparts with the same effect as if the signatures hereto and thereto were upon the same instrument. Each counterpart will be deemed an original, which taken together shall constitute a single instrument. Facsimile signatures or signatures in electronic Portable Document Format ("PDF") shall be construed and have the same force and effect as original signatures.

15. This Agreement or any uncertainty or ambiguity therein shall not be construed against any party, but shall be construed as if both Parties to this Agreement jointly prepared this Agreement.

16. Each party acknowledges that this is the entire agreement of the Parties concerning the subject matter of the foregoing paragraphs, and that there are no written or oral representations, understandings or agreements directly or indirectly connected with this Agreement.

17. If any provision of this Agreement is held by a court of competent jurisdiction or determined under applicable law to be invalid, void, or unenforceable, the remaining provisions will continue and remain in full force and effect.

18. This Agreement is subject to approval by the Superintendent and further subject to approval by the arbitrator pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(c), and will become effective only upon approval by the Superintendent and the arbitrator. Any disapproval by the Superintendent or the arbitrator shall not interfere with the rights of either party to pursue the matter further.

| In the Matter ofTONI LENZ,STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, IN THE COUNTY OF ESSEX | NOTICE OF TENURE CHARGES OF UNBECOMING CONDUCT AND OTHER JUST CAUSE |

TO: TONI LENZ

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that Vanessa Rodriguez, Chief Talent Officer of the State-operated School District of the City of Newark, hereby files charges of unbecoming conduct and other just cause against Toni Lenz ("Respondent"), a tenured teacher employed by the State-operated School District of the City of Newark ("School District"), pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1.

CHARGE ONE: UNBECOMING CONDUCT

1. Respondent has engaged in conduct unbecoming a professional teaching staff member. Specifically, Respondent has committed the following acts, each and all of which constitute unbecoming conduct:

2. On December 13, 2014, Respondent was arrested for unlawfully and knowingly possessing marijuana in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:35-10(A)(4), and using or possessing with the intent to use drug paraphernalia with the purpose to inhale and/or ingest a controlled dangerous substance, specifically by possessing two metal pipes, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:36-2; and Respondent was served with a Summons and Complaint in connection with her arrest;

3. A final disposition of the charges against Respondent was entered by order of the Municipal Court of the Borough of Roselle on February 19, 2015. By such order, Respondent was granted suspended proceedings and placed on conditional discharge for a period of one year pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:36A-1.

4. Such disposition indicates that Respondent neither admitted nor denied the charges of unlawfully possessing marijuana and using or possessing with the intent to use drug paraphernalia with the purpose to inhale and/or ingest a controlled dangerous substance, specifically by possessing two metal pipes.

5. By Respondent's failure to deny the criminal charges against her, the School District infers that Respondent in fact engaged in the conduct that led to her arrest.

6. Such conduct violated the law and School District policy, and was conduct unbecoming a professional teaching staff member.

CHARGE TWO: UNBECOMING CONDUCT

7. The School District repeats the allegations of Count One as if set forth at length herein.

8. Respondent failed to report her arrest to the Superintendent or any other official of the School District, as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.1(c) and School District policy.

9. Respondent failed to notify the Superintendent or any other official of the School District of the disposition of the charges within seven days of disposition of the charge, as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.1(c) and School District policy.

10. Such failure violated the law and School District policy, and was conduct unbecoming a professional teaching staff member.

TENURE CHARGE THREE: OTHER JUST CAUSE

11. Each and all of the acts and failures to comply with reporting requirements described in paragraphs 2-10 above constitute other just cause for dismissal of a tenured teaching staff member.

WHEREFORE, the undersigned hereby requests the following relief:

a. Dismissal of Respondent from the position in which she has tenure in the School District;

b. Suspension of Respondent, without pay, pending review and consideration of these Charges; and

c. Such further relief as may be authorized by law and deemed equitable by the State District Superintendent, the Commissioner of Education, and any assigned arbitrator.

These charges are supported by the Statement of Evidence annexed hereto.

The Respondent, Toni Lenz, by way of response to the Tenure Charge against her, hereby states as follows:

1. Respondent denies the allegations of Paragraph 1 of the Tenure Charges.

2. Respondent admits the allegations of paragraphs 2 and 3 of the Tenure Charges against her.

3. Respondent denies the allegations of paragraphs 4, 5 and 6 of the Tenure Charges against her.

4. In response to paragraph 7 of the Tenure Charges against her, Respondent repeats her responses to paragraphs 1 through 6 of the Tenure Charges against her as though set forth at length herein.

5. Respondent denies the allegations of paragraphs 8, 9, 10 and 11 of the Tenure Charges against her.

FIRST SEPARATE DEFENSE

The instant Tenure Charges must be dismissed, for failure of the State District Superintendent to comply with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13.

SECOND SEPARATE DEFENSE

The within Tenure Charges must be dismissed based on principles of res judicata and collateral estoppel.

THIRD SEPARATE DEFENSE

To the extent the Tenure Charges allege violation of the Administrative Code and/or policies of the Newark Public Schools, such allegations, if true, are not sufficient to merit dismissal or reduction in compensation of the Respondent.

FOURTH SEPARATE DEFENSE

The action of the State District Superintendent in seeking to have the Respondent reduced in compensation or dismissed from tenured employment is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable, in that Respondent is being held to a higher standard of knowledge and conduct as a teacher of Art than the State District Superintendent holds those responsible for knowledge of and enforcement of the State Administrative Code and the Newark Public Schools' policies.

WHEREFORE, Respondent hereby requests that:

(a) The Tenure Charges against her be dismissed;

(b) She be reinstated to her position of employment together with all lost pay and benefits of employment.

| RESPONDENT. | : | |

On October 22, 2015, a final agency decision was rendered in this matter, wherein the Commissioner assessed petitioner $20,453.44 in tuition to compensate the Board for her child's period of ineligible attendance in the public schools of the district – during a portion of the 2013-2014 school year and the entire 2014-2015 school year – pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, and dismissed petitioner's appeal. The Board subsequently notified the Commissioner that petitioner has failed to comply with his decision and it requested that the Commissioner seek entry of the assessment on the judgment docket of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10.

While petitioner expressed disagreement with the outcome of the underlying proceedings in her letter dated January 30, 2016, she offered no valid reason why the judgment against her should not be recorded. Notably, petitioner does not assert that any error has been made in calculating the amount of judgment sought; moreover, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-12.1(b)1 does not permit the non-prevailing party to "dispute the fact that monies are owed or the amount of such monies as reflected in the final order of assessment."

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10, Jessica Chinn is now subject to entry of a judgment by the court in the amount of $20,453.44, which represents the payment ordered at the conclusion of the contested case before the Commissioner, with interest to accrue as provided by law.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

| BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF GLOUCESTER, CAMDEN COUNTY, | : | DECISION |

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a non-tenured teaching staff member formerly employed by the respondent Board – appealed the non-renewal of her contract following her notification, by letter dated March 31, 2015, that she would not be recommended for renewal for the 2015-2016 school year. Petitioner filed her appeal with the Commissioner on August 10, 2015, challenging her non-renewal as arbitrary, capricious, and without basis in fact or law. The Board filed a motion to dismiss, asserting that the appeal was time-barred pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the petitioner had notice of the Board's decision to non-renew her contract as of March 31, 2015; the time for filing a petition is clearly set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), which provides that a petition of appeal before the Commissioner must be filed no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order or ruling; in this case, the petition should have been filed on or about June 30, 2015; however, petitioner waited almost a full month and a half after that date, and filed on August 10, 2015. The ALJ concluded that the within petition was not timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer, and dismissed the petition.

Upon careful review, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter for the reasons stated therein, and dismissed the petition.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that the instant petition is appropriately dismissed because it was filed outside the 90-day limitation period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter – for the reasons stated therein – and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

Record Closed: December 22, 2015 Decided: January 15, 2015

BEFORE LISA JAMES-BEAVERS, ALJ:

Petitioner, Melanie Perkins filed a petition claiming that the Board's decision not to renew her employment contract for the 2015-2016 school year was arbitrary, capricious and without basis in law. The respondent Board of Education of the Township of Gloucester (Board) has moved to dismiss the appeal in lieu of an answer for failure to timely file her petition within ninety days as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND SUMMARY OF FACTS

Petitioner was a non-tenured teaching staff member under contract with Gloucester Township Public Schools for the 2014-2015 school year. By letter dated March 31, 2015, Kim R. Capone, the Supervisor of Human Resources for Gloucester, notified petitioner that she would not be recommended for a renewal of her contract for the upcoming 2015-2016 school year. This notice advised petitioner of her right to request, in writing, a statement of the reasons for such non-reemployment. The notice further advised that, within ten days of receiving the Board's statement of reasons, the petitioner may request in writing an informal appearance before the Board.

Angel McDermott, on petitioner's behalf, requested an informal appearance before the Board otherwise known as a Donaldson hearing. Petitioner's Donaldson hearing was held on May 11, 2015. The Board decided not to offer re-employment for the 2015-2016 school year. By letter dated May 12, 2015, the petitioner was notified of the outcome of this hearing. More specifically, the notice informed petitioner that the Board had affirmed the superintendent's non-renewal and additionally advised petitioner that her employment would terminate at the close of business on June 30, 2015.

On August 10, 2015, petitioner filed the present petition with the Commissioner of Education, challenging her non-renewal as arbitrary, capricious and without basis in fact or law. Daniel Long, Esq. filed an answer on respondent's behalf on September 1, 2015, but later confirmed that he filed it in error as he was not representing the Board in the present case. The Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on September 8, 2015. On September 17, 2015, pursuant to an extension, the Board filed a Motion to Dismiss the Petition of Appeal in Lieu of an Answer. Also, pursuant to an extension, Christopher Manganello, Esq. filed opposition to the motion to dismiss on December 23, 2015. The Board filed a reply on December 22, 2015.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

After an individual files a petition of appeal with the Department of Education initiating a contested case pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3, a respondent is required to serve an answer upon the petitioner within twenty days after receipt of the petition. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(a). In lieu of an answer, the respondent may file a motion to dismiss the petition. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g).

Should a motion to dismiss be filed in lieu of an answer, the Commissioner may, prior to the transmittal of the pleadings to the OAL, "dismiss the petition on the grounds that the petitioner has advanced no cause of action even if the petitioner's factual allegations are accepted as true or for lack of jurisdiction, failure to prosecute or other good reason." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10. "[W]here the Commissioner does not determine to dismiss the matter pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10, the Commissioner may . . . transmit the matter for hearing before the OAL . . . , [which] shall be conducted in accordance with the rules of the OAL." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.11. In the present case, the Board filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer, which the Commissioner transmitted to the OAL.

In pertinent part, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) provides:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.

The ninety-day rule is a mandatory rule, set forth by regulation and uniformly enforced. Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ. of Berkeley Twp., 131 N.J. 572 (1993). Although this provision does not address what circumstances constitute "adequate notice," the New Jersey Supreme Court has offered guidance. The ninety-day period for filing a petition begins when a party learns of facts that would enable the filing of a timely claim. Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ. of Berkeley Twp., 131 N.J. 572, 588 (1993). "Adequate notice must be sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate." Id. "The ninety days begins to run when notified of an adverse action regardless of whether the action is proper, and when petitioner learns of facts that would enable her to file a timely claim." Id. at 588.

In non-renewal of a non-tenured teaching staff member, the ninety-day period begins to run on the date the teaching staff member is notified of the non-renewal decision. In Nissman v. Bd. of Educ., 272 N.J. Super. 373, 381-382 (App. Div. 1994), Nissman received notice of the non-renewal of her contract on April 27, 1990, and continued to work in her position until August 31, 1990, the last day of her contract. On August 31, 1990, she faxed correspondence to the Board alleging that, as she had served three consecutive years in her position, and she had acquired tenure, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a). The Board replied on the same day, stating that the Board had taken formal action at its April 23, 1990, meeting, to terminate petitioner's contract and that petitioner had been duly notified of such action.

Nissman filed an appeal on September 21, 1990, alleging that the Board's August 31, 1990 correspondence constituted Board action in an effort to deny her tenure rights and, since her petition was filed within ninety days of August 31, it was timely filed. The court held that, for purposes of the ninety-day rule, the relevant date is the date that the petitioner received the non-renewal notice from the superintendent., In that regard, the appeal is not from a denial of tenure, but rather from the non-renewal, an action clearly contrary to Nissman's interests, and clearly known to her as of April 27, 1990. Thus, the court determined that the ninety-day period must be measured from that action.

Additionally, in Clark v. Winslow Twp. Bd. of Educ., 2011 U.S Dist. Ct. (February 9, 2011), the Court dismissed the plaintiff's race discrimination claims as time barred. The Court held that Clark's claims began running when she was notified via hand delivery on May 2, 2008, that she would be deemed non-renewed as of May 5, 2008. Clark alleged that her non-renewal did not occur until her June 25, 2008, Donaldson hearing before the Board of Education. However, the Court stated:

> Clark's assertion that the non-renewal did not occur until the Board of Education hearing on June 25, 2008 is belied by her own complaint. She alleges that the purpose of the hearing was to "convince the BOE to offer re-employment" and that, at the hearing, "the BOE affirmed its decision to terminate Plaintiff's employment." Indeed, New Jersey law is clear. Clark's non-renewal must have occurred prior to the Board of Education hearing because the hearing must take place after a statement of reasons for non-renewal is provided.
> Id. at 9.

Here, the petitioner violated the statute of limitations by filing the petition beyond the ninety-day limitation period. Petitioner was specifically informed on March 31, 2015, that the superintendent would not recommend renewal of her employment contract in the following school year. At that point, she had notice of an adverse action and facts that would enable her to file an appeal. Petitioner acknowledged in her own petition that she had notice of the adverse employment action against her as early as March 31, 2015. She admitted that she was "advised that she would not be recommended for renewal for the 2015-16 school year" on March 31, 2015. Petition, August 12, 2015, ¶3. This action was clearly contrary to her interest, and gave her notice of facts that would enable her to file an appeal. Therefore, March 31, 2015, is the relevant date for calculating the ninety-day limitation period.

Additionally, as discussed in Clark v. Winslow Twp. Bd. of Educ., supra, the assertion that the decision of non-renewal occurred after the Donaldson hearing, which took place on May 11, 2015, is belied by the petitioner's own allegations. The hearing could not have taken place before petitioner was notified of the non-renewal decision. The petitioner had notice of the Board's decision before the Donaldson hearing. Therefore, the relevant date for the ninety-day limitation period is not the date of the Donaldson hearing, but the date the petitioner was notified of the non-renewal decision, which in this case is March 31, 2015. In order to have been timely filed, the petition must have been filed within ninety days of this notification, on or about June 30, 2015. However, petitioner waited almost a full month and a half after June 30, 2015, and filed on August 10, 2015. Therefore, the petitioner did not file the petition in a timely manner as prescribed by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

CONCLUSION

Petitioner had notice of the Board's decision of non-renewal of her contract as of March 31, 2015. In order to have been timely filed, the petition must have been filed within ninety days of this notification, on or about June 30, 2015. However, petitioner waited almost a full month and a half after June 30, 2015, and filed on August 10, 2015. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioner failed to file the appeal within the ninety-day limitation period as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

I. BACKGROUND OF THE CASE

Jajuana Vaughn is a tenured instructor of the State Operated School District of the City of Newark, New Jersey, Essex County ("the District"). On August 25, 2015, the District executed a tenure charge against Ms. Vaughn, charging her with conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member by virtue of being AWOL, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3. After being permitted to file a written statement of position in response to the charge, on October 27, 2015, State District Superintendent Christopher Cerf determined that there was probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the tenure charge, and that such charge if credited, was sufficient to warrant a dismissal or reduction in salary. Ms. Vaughn was then suspended without pay for a period of 120 days, per N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, with the charges submitted to the Commissioner of Education and concomitantly served upon Ms. Vaughn via Federal Express on October 27, 2015. See, CERTIFICATE OF DETERMINATION.

In a November 23, 2015 letter to counsel, M. Kathleen Duncan, Director of the DOE Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, advised the parties that: "following receipt of the Respondent's answer on November 13, 2015, the above captioned tenure charges have been reviewed and deemed sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary, subject to determination by the arbitrator of Respondent's defenses and any motions which may be filed with the arbitrator. The arbitrator shall review those charges which are not dismissed as the result of a motion under the preponderance of the evidence standard."

By separate cover letter that same date, I was advised of my appointment as Arbitrator pursuant to P.L. 2012, c. 26 by Ms. Duncan. On December 8, 2015, I conducted a conference call with counsel, at which time a discovery schedule that included the propounding of interrogatories was set down. An initial hearing in the case was originally scheduled for January 6, 2016, but then subsequently cancelled. Oral argument in support of the respective positions was nevertheless undertaken during a conference call that was convened that afternoon.

A hearing took place on January 25, 2016 at the offices of the New Jersey State Board of Mediation in Newark, New Jersey. At that time, counsel were provided with a full opportunity to introduce relevant and admissible documentary evidence; to participate in oral argument; and to engage in the direct and cross-examination of the witnesses who testified under oath. A verbatim transcription of the proceedings was provided by RIZMAN RAPPAPORT DILLON & ROSE. No post-hearing briefs were submitted, and the instant OPINION & AWARD is issued in timely fashion.

II. FRAMING OF THE ISSUE

Has the District satisfied its burden in having the tenure charge established by a preponderance of the credible evidence? If not, what shall the remedy be?

III. STIPULATION

- The basis of the tenure charge is the failure of Ms. Vaughn to properly advise the District of her status following the absences commencing on November 12, 2014.

V. POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

Petitioner State Operated School District City of Newark

This is a very circumscribed proceeding. The tenure charge basically refers to a period of time beginning in September of 2014, in which a certain aspect of the District found it unsatisfactory that Ms. Vaughn did not respond to certain AWOL notices. If the District sends out an AWOL notice, it needs a response. Notwithstanding the fact there may be an excuse, it's good to tie those things together and say "[p]lease check with Health Services because they're aware that I'm out due to a serious automobile accident, and I am not in the Bahamas sipping Pina Coladas, as the Arbitrator said. I am ready, willing and able to come back to work when I can."

So this is a very technical case that as a professional, we expect our teachers to respond to notices. The crux of this case is therefore sort of legal verbiage as opposed to reality. The District understands that the term "conduct unbecoming" implies wrongdoing. That's not the case here. We live with the documents and laws that we're given, and the AWOL charge falls under the category of conduct unbecoming. It's not meant as a pejorative term or that she did something wrong, other than the limited scope of the question. From the District's perspective, we have to keep track of our teachers; to know that they come to school; if they are out, when they will come back to school. There can't be a nebulous relationship that extends forever with a current teacher who is not teaching.

In conclusion, the context of this case is that the higher-ups in the Newark Public Schools have people in Trenton who they report to. They have an open position, like Ms. Vaughn's, that extends without date. That is something that is bureaucratically undesirable and almost forbidden. It is therefore very difficult to have a situation like this, and the District certainly understands and apologizes for people suggesting Ms. Vaughn retire, but that wasn't a formal position of the District. Ms. Vaughn said very eloquently how dedicated she is. There comes a time when that dedication may be interrupted by her health situation. So that is the reason for the charge, which should be taken with that understanding. She comes in peace, we come in peace. But we need to have a school district that operates efficiently and with full knowledge of what happens next week, next month and next year.

Respondent Jajuana Vaughn

The District in this case, and I am not referring to Mr. Breton, is — it's like cutting off their nose to spite their face, in this case. Ms. Vaughn is a dedicated teacher, who originally is from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. She was a teacher there and was recruited by the District to come here in 2001. She gave up all the time she had in Pittsburgh to come here to the City of Newark and teach its kids. Since then, she has shown herself to be an asset to the District, and testified to the impact she has had on some of the children of this community. She has successfully done her job and done her part. Ms. Vaughn has performed well. This is not a teacher who absent an injury, would be out of school.

Unfortunately, she has had some injuries starting in 2012. She got injured by a student in a work-related matter previously. Ms. Vaughn came back from that, fought hard, and came back to work. No sooner had she come back from that, then in November 2014, she was driving home from school and got rear-ended through no fault of her own. This car accident added a new injury to her neck and exacerbated some back problems that she had. Since that time, she has been fighting to get back; had surgeries; and has been rehabilitating.

Ms. Vaughn did get a notice from the District in April of 2015, and she responded. The evidence includes numerous doctor's notes, and status reports that were filed with the District's Health Service's Department. They are stamped "File Received." These say why she is out and how long they anticipate her being out. Ms. Vaughn dutifully supplied these during the period of time she was out. She was told that's where to bring the notices. This is a legitimate injury, and since November of 2014, Ms. Vaughn has been doing everything she can to get back.

Ms. Vaughn explained that teaching is not just a job to her, it's a calling and she wants to make an impact on the kids. She does not want to retire and is too young. Frankly, she's 41 and believes that she's got a lot to offer the kids of this community. The record is pretty clear that when she was given notice by the District about letting them know her status, she did. It is not clear whether the eighth floor is not communicating with the ninth, or the ninth floor is not communicating with the eighth. One thing that is pretty undisputed though, is that she was keeping them advised from the minute she went out in November 2014 until the present. Fortunately, she's getting better, and expects to be able to return to work. She had surgery in September, and is going to physical therapy. Ms. Vaughn expects and hopes to be back as soon as she is physically able to do so. Hopefully that will be relatively soon.

In conclusion, this is an educator who has been commended for her attendance in the past. Ms. Vaughn has dedicated her life to teaching and to the students in Newark. Under these circumstances presented, the District therefore cannot meet the burden of proving conduct unbecoming, which is a pretty severe charge for what we are talking about for the alleged missteps on the part of Ms. Vaughn. We do not think these were missteps, but even if they were, it would seem that a conduct unbecoming charge would seem to be unduly harsh. Discipline is also supposed to be progressive and there have been no prior increment withholdings. We accordingly ask that the Arbitrator conclude that the District did not meet its burden and that Ms. Vaughn should be returned to her position with the Newark Public Schools.

VI. STATEMENT OF THE CASE

As I have often remarked in other cases, the tenure laws of the State of New Jersey were enacted and designed to establish a "competent and efficient school system," and to protect teaching and other staff from dismissal for "unfounded, flimsy or political reasons." See generally, Viemeister v. Prospect Park Board of Education, 5 N.J. Super, 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949); Spiewak v. Rutherford Board of Education, 90 N.J. 63 (1982). The statutory status of a tenured individual should accordingly not be lightly removed. See, In re Tenure Hearing of Claudia Ashe-Gilkes, City of East Orange School District, 2009 WL 246266 (January 12, 2009), adopted by the Commissioner of Education (May 2, 2009).

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 provides that a tenured teacher may not be dismissed or reduced in compensation "except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause..." The District has acknowledged that it bears the prefatory burden of making a prima facie showing that it has satisfied or established the sufficiency of the subject tenure charge by a preponderance of the credible evidence. See, Cumberland Farms, Inc. v. Moffett, 218 N.J. Super. 331, 341 (App. Div. 1987); In re Tenure Hearing of Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 23 (App. Div. 1974 cert. denied 65 N.J. 292 (1974)); In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567, 575 (1990); In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); In re Tenure Hearing of Ziznewski, A-0083-10T1, 2012 WL 1231874 (New Jersey Sup. Ct. App. Div. April 13, 2012) (unreported); see also, State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975) (defining preponderance as the "[g]reater weight of the credible evidence in the case."); Bornstein v. Metropolitan Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958); Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546, 554-555 (1954); see also, In re Polk License Revocation, 90 N.J. 550, 560 (1982); In re Tenure Hearing of Tyler, 236 N.J. Super 478 (App. Div. 1989); In re Tenure Hearing of Marrero, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 104 (Cmm'r of Educ. 1996).

In that event, the burden of production shifts to Respondent to plead and establish her affirmative or exculpatory defenses. Should that be accomplished, the burden will finally return to the District to rebut this showing with substantial, credible evidence. After a determination has been made of whether the tenure charges have been established, Petitioner is then encumbered with the additional burden of demonstrating that the dismissal of Ms. Vaughn for the charged conduct is warranted. In deciding whether to remove Respondent from her tenured teaching position with the Newark Public Schools, I am required to give due weight to the totality of the circumstances, the nature of the act(s) and the impact on her career. See, In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 421 (App. Div. 1967).

In Karins v. Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532 (1998), the Supreme Court of New Jersey determined the phrase unbecoming conduct "is an elastic one that has been defined as 'any conduct which adversely affects the morale or efficiency of the bureau... [or] which has a tendency to destroy public respect for municipal employees and confidence in the operation of municipal services.'" citing, In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 164 A.2d 184 (App. Div. 1990) (quoting, In re Zeber, 398 Pa. 35, 156 A. 2d. 821, 825 (1959); see also, Laba v. Board of Education, 23 N.J. 364, 129 A.2d 271 (1957); I/M/O The Tenure Hearing of Christopher Molokwu, OAL Docket No. EDU 9650-04 (Jones, ALJ). In the case at bar, the District has emphasized that of necessity conduct unbecoming was cited under the statute due to the perceived AWOL status of Ms. Vaughn, but recognized that she has committed no wrongdoing in the traditional sense.

Notice was also taken of Respondent's eloquent testimony regarding her dedication.

Upon my comprehensive analysis of the record evidence, with full consideration of the respective positions, I find that the Petitioner has failed to make the requisite prefatory showing, requiring that the instant tenure charges be DISMISSED. The underlying facts of the case are generally not in contention, and are found to be the following:

1. Jajuana Vaughn has been employed by the Newark Public Schools as an elementary teacher since September 2001, when she was recruited from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. She is tenured in her position, and at all times that are relevant for the purposes of the case, worked at the Brick Avon Academy. T28.

2. In or about October 1, 2012, Ms. Vaughn sustained a workplace accident, when she was struck with a chair by a special needs student. This eventually required her to take a continuous approved leave of absence commencing on January 16, 2013, until on or about March 25, 2013. See, POSITION STATEMENT, Joint Exhibit 4, at Tab A; T33:14-25; T34:1-3.

3. After returning to work in April of 2013, on or about May 22, 2013, Ms. Vaughn was pulled to the floor by another student. This aggravated her back condition. While she again attempted to teach, the condition of her back would not allow it. Ibid.

4. In the following 2013 – 2014 School Year, Ms. Vaughn was absent on leave from approximately November 14, 2013 until June 30, 2014. On August 28, 2014, the District notified Ms. Vaughn that the prior year's leave was approved, and that her request for an extension of her illness leave of absence from her position at the Louise A. Spencer School would be reviewed accordingly. See, STATEMENT OF EVIDENCE, at Exhibit 1.

5. The requested leave was again acknowledged by the District in a September 19, 2014 letter. Id. at Exhibit 2. Ms. Vaughn was out on sick leave from September 9, 2014 until October 9, 2014. By letter dated October 8, 2014, Respondent was notified by the District's Chief Talent Officer Vanessa Rodriquez that her further request to extend her leave had been denied as a result of exhausting greater than 12 months of leave time. She was therefore directed to make appropriate arrangements to return to work as soon as possible. Id., at Exhibit 3.

6. On October 14, 2014, Ms. Vaughn was hired to fill a vacancy at the Brick Avon Academy, and reported for work until November 12, 2014.

7. On or about November 12, 2014, Ms. Vaughn was involved in a car accident, when she was rear-ended by another vehicle. The impact of the accident aggravated her pre-existing back injuries, and also caused a new injury to her cervical spine. See, POSITION STATEMENT, Id. at Joint Exhibit 4, Tabs B + C; T35:13-25.

8. Respondent currently has a herniated disc and disc bulge in her neck resulting from the car accident for which she is receiving treatment, in addition to her back injuries. Id., at Tab C.

9. On April 28, 2015, Ms. Rodriquez notified Ms. Vaughn via overnight mail that she had been AWOL since November 13, 2014; should return to work immediately; and was subject to disciplinary action. See, STATEMENT OF EVIDENCE, Id., at Exhibit 4; ATTENDANCE INCIDENT DETAIL REPORT at Exhibit 5.

10. While Ms. Vaughn failed to respond to the April 28, 2015 correspondence directly, she had been in contact with the District's Health Service's Department at all relevant times. See, POSITION STATEMENT, Id., at Tab D. Respondent had also asked them to notify the AOS. T36:18-25; T37:1-25; T38:1-25; T39-42.

11. In February 2015, Ms. Vaughn filed a claim for disability benefits through Unum, which indicated an inability to work beyond March 2, 2015. The medical certification was provided to the District's Health Service's Department. Id.

12. On or about May 4, 2015, Respondent provided Health Services with a letter from her pain management physician, which confirmed her inability to return to her teaching duties until at least May 29, 2015. Id.

13. A subsequent update was submitted to Health Services on May 20, 2015, which memorialized an inability to return to work through June 29, 2015. Id.

14. On August 27, 2015, additional medical updates were furnished to Health Services, which established Respondent's inability to work from July 29, 2015 through September 30, 2015. Id.

15. On September 1, 2015, Ms. Vaughn had surgery on her back, and on September 23, 2015 received injections to her cervical spine to help alleviate some of the pain. Id. at Tab E.

At the outset, I credit the position of Petitioner that it has a significant interest in not retaining positions for a prolonged period of time for instructors who may be unwilling or unable to return to duty following various leaves. That said, by any measure the District has failed to establish that Ms. Vaughn was "AWOL" within the traditional contemplation of that term, and instead has ably relied upon what I perceive as a technical argument in support of the instant tenure charge. It essentially conceded the same in its closing argument while at once recognizing Ms. Vaughn's eloquent and moving testimony concerning her dedication to the children of Newark as well as the long-term effect she has had upon some of them.

It is of course true that Ms. Vaughn did not respond directly to Ms. Rodriquez's April 28, 2015 letter. She should have done so and in a perfect world, that may have saved her from having these tenure charges brought. During her testimony, Respondent acknowledged receiving the correspondence, and explained that:

Q. Do you recall receiving the letter?

A. Yes I recall receiving this letter.

Q. Did you – upon receiving this letter, did you keep the District advised of your status?

A. Yes, I called – at the time, the date that I was given that, I had no ability to move my legs at that time. It was hard for me to get from my bed to the bathroom at that time. So I made a phone call to Health Services and let them know I received a letter, I don't know what to do about this letter.

And I said 'I can't drive and I can barely walk.' What should I do about this letter?

And I asked if my doctor's notes were good enough and I asked Health Services to please communicate with the – and I told them who the letter was from.

And I said 'could you please communicate and give them whatever information they need to just let them know I'm working as hard as I can to get my body back so that I could return as soon as possible?'

And they told me they would communicate the information to the other office.

T42-43.

There is however, no basis in fact for the statement by the chief talent officer that there had been no record of communication with Health Services. Respondent pled numerous affirmative defenses in her ANSWER, most particularly, that the teacher gave the District fair notice of the absences, which were for legitimate reasons. The record indicates and the parties do not dispute that Ms. Vaughn was injured-on-the job when a special needs student struck her with a chair. After receiving treatment, this situation was exacerbated when yet another student pulled her to the ground, reinjuring her back. And when Respondent again fought back to return to the classroom, the November 2014 car accident took place. This added yet another layer of injuries upon the preceding ones, and ultimately has prevented Ms. Vaughn from returning to work.

Prior to that time, there were no issues with respect to Respondent's attendance, and in fact, the certificates entered into evidence reflect that during the month of March in both 2007 and 2008, she had perfect attendance. See, Respondent Exhibit 1(a); 1(b). Ms. Vaughn likewise received a CERTIFICATE OF APPRECIATION on June 16, 2012 for her support and dedication to the EMBRACING THE COMMUNITY FESTIVAL. Ibid., at 1(c). The Stipulation that was entered at hearing by counsel indicated that the only period at time considered for AWOL purposes was from November 12, 2014 forward.

I note that the District opted to file the tenure charge based on the discrete fact that Ms. Vaughn purportedly failed to respond to the April 28, 2015 letter with a status update, and not based upon incapacity grounds by virtue of her continued absence. It is therefore relegated to the facts as they are. On balance, the evidence demonstrates that Ms. Vaughn kept Health Services informed of her status at all times, including the period following the filing of the tenure charges. Parenthetically, there are numerous medical documents stamped received by the District's Health Department that appear at Tab D of Respondent's POSITION STATEMENT in evidence at Joint Exhibit 4.

In closing, notwithstanding the fact that Respondent failed to communicate directly with Ms. Rodriquez following the April 28, 2015 letter, she was diligent in keeping the District's Health Service's Department fully apprised of her status, which as Mr. Breton confirmed during his testimony was the procedure. Ms. Vaughn's credible and at times compelling testimony on this point was not rebutted, and she continued to express great interest in returning to the classroom.

The remaining question that must be answered is the proper remedy in this case. Respondent testified to her September 2015 surgery, as well as cervical spine injections which have assisted her in getting better. While she has made significant progress toward returning to the Newark Public Schools, she is continuing her rehabilitation and is not yet able to do so. Under these circumstances, she may not be left in legal limbo and I believe the District should be required to place her on an approved medical leave or leaves of absence through June 30, 2016. At that point, the parties may explore their options. She will be however, required to keep both Health Services and AOS fully informed of her continuing treatment and prognosis. IT IS SO ORDERED.

VII. CONCLUSION

Petitioner State Operated School District of the City of Newark has failed to establish the tenure charges of unbecoming conduct by a preponderance of the credible evidence.

On January 22, 2016, representatives of the State Operated School District of the City of Camden [the "Petitioner"] and Chet Churchill [the "Respondent"] met with the arbitrator, reviewed the terms of settlement and formally adopted terms resolving the tenure charges filed by the Petitioner with the State of New Jersey, Department of Education on October 14, 2015. The terms of settlement were approved by Respondent on February 1, 2016. The terms were also approved by the Camden City School District on February 10, 2016.

The terms of settlement provide that Respondent Chet Churchill will tender his resignation in exchange for a monetary settlement of $40,000.00. The Settlement Agreement also provides that Respondent is not eligible for rehire, includes a general release and other terms addressing outstanding issues concerning Respondent's separation from employment with the District.

Under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6, the arbitrator is required to issue a brief decision approving the settlement of tenure charges and explaining why the arbitrator is approving the terms of settlement. I have approved these terms for the following reasons.

I am persuaded that the issues that were raised in the Statement of Tenure Charges and Specifications filed by the Petitioner and the Answer to Tenure Charges filed by the Respondent have been fully reviewed and discussed by all parties and that the issues raised therein have been satisfactorily addressed by the terms of settlement. The terms of settlement reflect an appropriate resolution of the charges leveled against the Respondent and will allow both parties to move forward without using valuable educational time to proceed with the hearing in this matter. The Respondent's determination to tender his resignation in exchange for a monetary settlement will allow the District to continue its efforts to provide a thorough and efficient education to the District's students. The Respondent has been advised and understands that by accepting this settlement and tendering his resignation the Commissioner of Education has a duty to refer tenure determinations resulting in a loss of position to the State Board of Examiners for possible suspension or revocation of certificate. I believe that the settlement terms properly balance all of the parties' interests and provide a satisfactory basis for the resolution of any concerns that were raised by the Statement of, and the Answer to, the Tenure Charges that were set forth in the record of this proceeding.

Additionally, I note that both on the record and in the Settlement Agreement, Respondent acknowledged that he has read, understands and agrees with the terms of the Settlement Agreement and that he signed it "knowingly and voluntarily."

Accordingly, and based upon all of the above, this will serve as the arbitrator's approval of the parties' settlement agreement.

BEFORE: ERNEST WEISS, ARBITRATOR

FOR THE RESPONDENT: MICHAEL T. BARRETT, ESQ.

FOR THE DISTRICT: J. PETER SOKOL, ESQ.

ISSUE: What shall be the disposition of the tenure charges filed against Respondent Kevin Garifine by Board of Education City of Long Branch County of Monmouth New Jersey.

BACKGROUND

Respondent Kevin Garifine has been employed by the District as a groundskeeper/plumber and worked in a number of capacities, in the various schools of the District, during his 13 years of service.

He was evaluated semi-annually and he received the highest mark in every evaluation during each year of his employment. There are no documented instances of discipline in evidence herein.

The "industrial capital punishment" of discharging Kevin Garifine occurred as a result of a playful incident on March 1, 2012 when Mr. Garifine and Mr. Rigo were working in the boys' bathroom of Gregory School. While Kevin Garifine was working in one of the stalls, several boys initially arrived in the bathroom, which increased eventually to approximately seven boys. The boys were being loud. The noise had significantly increased as testified by Respondent Garifine at the instant arbitration hearing. He also stated that he was a father of three children with various ages.

The children in question indicated that they were playing with the yellow Scotch tape for less than three minutes. It was "fun" and none complained that they were restrained when they returned to the classroom.

The tape in question, in evidence herein, was a half inch yellow Scotch electrical tape which was playfully given to some of the boys by Rrespondent. As described at the instant hearing by Respondent. He testified that he gave the boys about three feet of electrical tape and about an inch and a half piece which the boys placed lengthwise on their mouth. They used the longer, three foot piece, as a wrap loosely on each others' arms not wrists. When they were ready to leave the bathroom the boys were able to pull their arms from the tape and discard all their tape pieces into the trash can. After being less than three minutes in the bathroom, they returned to the classroom visibly "happy" according to their teacher. Later, the School Nurse indicated in writing that she did not find any tape marks on their hands or face.

THE POSITION OF RESPONDENT

In his post-hearing brief, Mr. Barrett, Esq. argued for Respondent in relevant part that, during his thirteen (13) years of service, Mr. Garifine received only the highest semi-annual evaluations of his work performance. His evaluations were submitted in evidence at the instant arbitration hearing. As stated above, there have been no documented instances of discipline submitted in evidence herein. Respondent comes before this tenure hearing as a "first offender" with documentation that his action does not meet "the statutory requirement to find abuse" (IAIU) (Institutional Abuse Investigation Unit)

On June 12, 2012, Superintendent Salvatore of the Long Branch Board of Education, received the IAIU Findings Report in the Matter of Child Physical Abuse at the Gregory Elementary School on March 1, 2012.

Four seven year old students were examined individually by the school nurse who observed no visible injuries and described the students' demeanor as happy.

(Two of the four nameless herein), both reported placing the tape on their own mouths'.

The students easily removed their arms out of the tape and returned to their classrooms. As per (school recorded) surveillance tape, the students were in the bathroom less than three minutes including their time using the facilities. Based upon the information obtained, the actions of Mr. Garifine do not meet the statutory requirement to find abuse.

(The IAIU concluded.)
Since the allegation of abuse is unfounded, the School District is not required to take any disciplinary or other actions against School Plumber Kevin Garifine. (EX. R-1) (Underline added)

In his post-hearing brief, Counsel Barrett stressed that Mr. Garifine has been employed by the Long Branch Board of Education (Board) as a groundskeeper/plumber and worked in a number of capacities in schools throughout the District.

During his 13 years of service, he was evaluated semi-annually and those evaluations were submitted in evidence at the hearing. A review of those evaluations will demonstrate that he received the highest mark possible in every evaluation during each year of his employment. "General Rating" comments like "good," "very good" and "excellent" pepper the evaluations. During his tenure of service for Petitioner, it is quite clear that he excelled at his job. In addition, there have been no documented instances of discipline submitted in evidence. As a consequence, Mr. Garifine comes before this tribunal as a "first offender."

In prosecuting these tenure charges, the Board takes the position that the question of discipline in this case should be measured not by what Mr. Garifine actually did but, rather, what he was perceived to have done by virtue of the acts of others. He clearly and without hesitation acknowledges his acts, acknowledges that what he did was wrong and injudicious and is prepared to accept both the responsibility for and consequences of those actions. However, he should not have to be responsible for the acts of others that were a significant factor in the exponential growth of this incident as to constitute supervening events.

It is quite clear through the prism of three (3) years that what Mr. Garifine did on March 1, 2012, although inappropriate, was not actually harmful to the children involved. But interestingly, as early as the evening of March 1, 2012, lead investigator Police Detective Michael Decker was quite aware of what actually did and did not happen earlier that day. In the middle of page 2 of Detective Decker's report (B-21), the following is stated:

> I explained to them [the parents] that after speaking with Hunter and Jeffrey that the children did not feel threatened or in danger. I explained to them that the children thought that the maintenance workers, no matter how inappropriate, were joking with them. The parents agreed that they don't believe that their children were harmed, but they could not understand why the school had handled the situation in the manner that they did. It was explained to me that they [the parents] received a phone call from the school stating that their children were bound and gagged in the bathroom by two maintenance workers and that a photograph was taken by one of the workers. (Emphasis Added)

A day or two after the event, when it became clearer still that, though injudicious, the bathroom event was in and of itself relatively benign, an individual believed to be the uncle of one of the children involved, leaked information to a local news outlet essentially echoing what the principal had told the parents. That is, that the students were bound and gagged, forcibly prevented from leaving and that pictures were taken of them. It was this misinformation leak that brought the District into the local and, eventually, national media spotlight.

The entire theme of the Petitioner's prosecution here is that Mr. Garifine is to blame for all of this. Any reasonable review of the facts here must conclude that while Mr. Garifine and Mr. Rigo share a modicum of responsibility, they and, in particular, Mr. Garifine, are not responsible for this matter becoming a national media event. One can reasonably conclude that maintenance workers doing what they did in this instance might cause a rumble within the school and even within the District. But the fact of the matter is that those kinds of events happen all the time and no one would reasonably predict that an event such as this would garner national headlines. It is far easier to understand and predict that an event such as this would result in media attention when the Chief Operating Officer of the school calls parents telling them that their children were bound and gagged in the bathroom by two adult male maintenance workers' who took a picture of them. Indeed, as stated by Detective Decker (see quote above), after only 2 or 3 hours of investigation and explanation, "the parents agreed that they don't believe that their children were harmed, but they could not understand why the school had handled the situation in the manner that they did. (Emphasis Added.)

The bottom line is that Mr. Garifine's behavior that day should be measured by what it actually was and not by what others claimed it to be either by embellishment or fabrication. Similarly, the tenure charges should be analyzed and measured by what the proofs actually show and not by some conclusary determination that this event cost the District one million dollars and Mr. Garifine should be solely responsible.

RESPONCE TO THE HEREIN TENURE CHARGES

(As presented in the post hearing brief of Respondent' )

Tenure Charges #2, #3, and #4 should be dismissed outright as there was absolutely no evidence adduced at the hearing that even suggested access to tools.

While Board witness Dudeck glibly suggested that tape was a tool, Mr. Garifine acknowledged that he provided two small pieces of tape to the students that first entered, and one larger piece of tape to the four students (dropping it over their hands) just before they left. There is no evidence in the record at this point suggesting that the students "had access to his tools."

In addition, there is absolutely no evidence that the Board, the central administration or the building administration made any effort, on the day in question (or any other day in Mr. Garifine's experience), to police or in any way close off the bathroom in question. It is certainly not Mr. Garifine's responsibility nor is it within the ambit of his authority, to be closing down school bathrooms. While reasonable people can argue whether a policy is needed to address a circumstance such as this (there was no policy), those same people would have to conclude that the building administrator has some responsibility in supervising such a circumstance. They take no responsibility here.

Tenure Charges #5 and #6 are charges that call into question, the propriety of the actions of Mr. Garifine on the day in question. As stated at hearing and as stated above, Mr. Garifine acknowledges what he did. He acknowledges providing small pieces of tape to the students in what was clearly a joking manner. He also acknowledges having given a larger piece of tape to the students in response to their request that be provided. Such actions were unnecessary and outside of the scope of his employment. There was no work basis for those actions and he should be held accountable for what he did. Critical to this acknowledgement of responsibility, however, is the limitation that his accountability should be for "what he did." If there was no media spotlight and no lawsuits directly related to the media spotlight, it is submitted that tenure charges would not have been filed, let alone prosecuted. Indeed, but for the embellished irresponsible initial communication from principal to parents and the subsequent, nearly identical leak to the press of the bogus account of what occurred, there would be no media response, no lawsuits and in all likelihood, no tenure charges. To hang all of this around Mr. Garifine's neck is unfair and legally inappropriate.

Tenure Charge #8 seeks to terminate Mr. Garifine for being untruthful and evasive. This allegation is baseless. The conversation between the Superintendent and Mr. Garifine on that day and over the telephone was an informal conversation and not an interrogation. At the time of the conversation, Mr. Garifine had already spoken with the investigator and told him precisely what happened. Mr. Garifine's statement, if parsed, is actually accurate. He didn't do anything (nothing close to what he was accused of doing by the principal and later in the media); he didn't touch the children but rather handed them tape; and he didn't wrap them up. He did what he testified to doing and nothing more. An informal conversation where protestations of innocence were made, can hardly be described as an interrogation and his comments cannot accurately be described as untruthful and evasive.

The balance of the tenure charges relate to the lawsuits that followed the events in question. The argument that the passing of information from the principal to the parents and the publication of the fabricated news release constitute supervening causes was made above and will not be repeated herein again at length. However, it must be pointed out that nothing in the investigation of the event, either by the police or the Institutional Abuse Investigation Unit (IAIU) found its way into the lawsuits. Rather, it was the language employed by the principal to the parents and subsequent leak by the parent (or uncle) to the press that was mimicked in the lawsuits. A review of Tenure Charge #9 makes this abundantly clear. Both the police investigation and the IAIU investigation found that the event was intended as a joke and, as or more importantly, was interpreted by the children as a joke. In addition, both investigators found that the children were un-phased by the event and were laughing about it rather than being cowed by it. The language of "bound and gagged" is taken directly from the principal's comment and press release. In view of the direct connection between those two things, it is irrational to conclude that Kevin Garifine is solely responsible for the lawsuits as alleged in the Tenure Charges (Charge #10) - Mr. Garifine "caused two lawsuits by four families." (Emphasis Added.)

The police did a thorough investigation and found that no charges were warranted. Even in the face of that determination, the parents were free to file charges against Mr. Garifine but chose not to. IAIU did a thorough investigation and found that no action should be taken against Mr. Garifine in view of their determination that the charges were unfounded. Indeed, even the Petitioner itself completed an investigation and determined not to terminate the employment of Mr. Garifine. They were certainly free to terminate him but they chose not to. Curiously, they now do so, after three (3) years and only in the face of a determination by the Commissioner of Education that Mr. Garifine now enjoys tenure status.

Mr. Garifine's legal responsibility in this matter should be measured by the actions he took on March 1, 2012. As stated above, he accepts full responsibility for those actions. If the Arbitrator believes that these actions in and of themselves constitute misconduct sufficient to warrant termination in the face of no prior documented transgressions, then he will be detenured. However, if his behavior is measured by what he did that day and that day alone, as it should be, then he should not lose his tenure status. If some penalty or consequence must be imposed, then a letter of reprimand, increment withholding or brief period of suspension should be imposed.

Finally, all tenure charges should be dismissed as a consequence of N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-7(a). This statute and the requirement of the statute were pleaded as an affirmative defense in the Answer to Tenure Charges filed on October 13, 2015.

> N.J.S.A 18A:6-7(a) states the following:
> > When a complaint made against a school employee alleging child abuse or neglect is investigated by the Division of Youth and Family Services, the division shall notify the school district and the employee of its findings. Upon receipt of a finding by the division that such a complaint is unfounded, the school district shall remove any references to the complaint and investigation by the division from the employee's personnel records. A complaint made by the Division of Youth and Family Services shall not be used against the employee for any purpose relating to employment, including but not limited to, discipline, salary, promotion, transfer, demotion, retention or continuance of employment, termination of employment or any right or privilege relating to employment.

This provision is important for two reasons. First, it's clear and concise language prevent tenure charges from being prosecuted in a case such as this where a determination of "unfounded" has been made by DYFS (IAIU). Second, it demonstrates the import that the legislature placed upon IAIU investigations and determinations. For those reasons, and the above stated reasons, the Tenure Charges should be dismissed.

PORTIONS OF THE POST HEARING BRIEF OF SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF LONG BRANCH, MONMOUTH COUNTY.

Counsel J. Peter Sokol argued extensively in relevant part on behalf of the District, that the removal from his tenure position of Mr. Garlfine, for "misbehavior" or "other offence" under the tenure statute and if so, whether he should be removed from his tenured position of employment, or in the alternative, whether suspension without pay is warranted for his March 1, 2012 behavior.

The District argued that the Respondent provided no valid excuses for his misbehavior on the day in question. It is also expected that he should be reinstated without a suspension or loss of pay since the event in question became exaggerated by others, to the local and national media.

The District further argued that Respondents' behavior is inexplicable with seven year old boys in an elementary school bathroom and for lying about his participation in the events to the Superintendent and to the BOE investigation. In its post hearing brief the District listed a sampling of 28 separate statements of excuses during the sworn testimony of the of the Respondent at the instant arbitration hearing.

The District also argued that his inaccurate and incomplete description of his actions demonstrate to this day that he is not professional enough to be trusted with a return to a public school district's employment.

Based on the above, Mr. Garifine is responsible for his inappropriate, unprofessional and inexplicable actions and the damages that resulted and he should lose his tenured position of employment.

DISCUSSION AND OPINION
(In the interest of time and space the tenure charges of Kevin Garifine submitted by the District, are hereby attached but not reproduced herein but replied above herein, by Counsel Barret for Respondent. )

Respondent Kevin Garifine was assigned to fix a plumbing problem in one of the stalls of the second floor boys' bathroom in the Gregory Elementary School, on the morning of March 1, 2012.

The bathroom door lock was broken. Initially, two seven or ten year old students came in, followed by additional elementary students mostly seven years old and came to the bathroom at around the same time in the morning when classes were in progress.

A number of seven year old students came into the bathroom and were making much noise while Respondent was repairing a flushing problem in one of the stalls.

Students H.D, V.O, J.F, and M.D were all seven year old and were examined individually by the school nurse who observed no visible injuries and described the students' demeanor as "happy."

Students H. and V. were talking to the staff and Mr. Garifine gave the two boys tape to cover their mouths to stop them from talking and interrupting their work. H. and V. both reported placing the yellow Scotch one half inch wide tape and about one and one-half inch in length and placed it on their own mouths by suggestion of Mr. Garifine. Given the half inch wide tape, it was impossible to have been "bound and gagged"

All four students reported that either the Janitor Supervisor (Mr. Rego), or Mr. Garifine subsequently wrapped tape loosely around the students' arms as they stood in a circle. The students easily removed their arms out of the one-half inch tape and returned to their classrooms. As per a recorded surveillance tape, (B2 in evidence) the students were in the bathroom for less than three minutes, including their time using the facilities.

Based upon the information obtained by IAIU, during their investigation, found that the actions of Mr. Garifine did not meet the statutory requirement to find abuse.

Investigative Findings

Physical abuse/Tying/Close Confinement is "unfounded" regarding the actions of School Plumber Kevin Garifine, in accordance with N.J.S.A.9:6-8.21. No adjudicative findings have been made as the Institutional Abuse Investigation Unit's review herein is solely investigative.

Additional Observation

As per school administration, the school staff should have placed an "Out of Order" sign on the bathroom while doing the repairs. However, there is no written school policy relative to this issue.

The IAIU Findings Report concluded: (As above stated)

"Since the allegation of abuse is unfounded, the school District is not required to take any disciplinary or other personnel actions against School Plumber Kevin Garifine."(R1)

He was working with the presence of his co-worker Robert Rego, who witnessed the brief joking with the young students involving the one half inch yellow Scotch tape in question and who took some pictures with his smart phone. If the children were in fact "bound and gaged," pictures would obviously not have been taken by Mr. Rego. Additionally, the children would not have been capable to remove a two inch wide construction tape from their mouth and wrists, as they in fact did with the one-half inch yellow Scotch tape the size used in the average office. Clearly, such narrow tape could not cover even a seven year old mouth with which it would be impossible to be "bound and gagged".

The students who were interviewed all pointed out that they were in the bathroom less than three minutes as corroborated by the recorded School Surveillance (B2) in evidence. They removed their own tape without the help of one of the present adults. The students removed the tape themselves and discarded it into the wastebasket or on the floor on the way out of the bathroom after a period of less than three minutes, which included their sanitary stop.

Significantly, according to the record before me, they all responded, when asked, that the bathroom incident was just a joke. Additionally, if they were actually "bound and gagged" they would not have been able to remove the tape themselves as they were leaving to return to their classroom.

N.J.S.A 18A:6-7(a) contains a portion of following:

> Upon receipt of a finding by the division that such a complaint is unfounded, the school district shall remove any references to the complaint and investigation by the division from the employee's personnel records. A complaint made by Division of Youth and Family Services shall not be used against the employee for any purpose relating to employment including but not limited to discipline, salary, promotion, transfer demotion, retention or continuance of employment, termination of employment or any right or privilege relating to employment.

Having thoroughly considered all the evidence, arguments and allegations of both parties at the Arbitration Hearing before me, and in in their extensive post-hearing briefs, I have found that Respondent Kevin Garifine provided thirteen (13) years of unblemished service to the Board of Education of the City of Long Branch Monmouth County. However, the episode which occurred on the morning of March 1, 2012 which was essentially trivial but became enormous and embellished to almost criminal behavior. It involved the local and national print media the local Police, the Prosecutors, IAIU the State of New Jersey Department of Children and Families. All of this, due to the existence of a mysterious "uncle" of one of the children, who exaggerated a joke created essentially by seven year old children themselves during a less than three minute bathroom break which included a sanitary stop.

Having also thoroughly considered all the evidence including the arguments and allegations of both parties at the tenure arbitration hearing before me and in their extensive post hearing submissions, I have concluded that the behavior of Kevin Garifine on the morning of March 1, 2012 was merely joking with the seven or so students who congregated in the boys' bathroom where Mr. Garifine was repairing one of the stalls that was out of order. His playfully distributing some peace's of narrow electrical Scotch tape was acknowledged their presence with a joke which they regarded as such and said so during the various investigations.

Therefore, since the evidence herein clearly demonstrated that the extensive investigations resulted in "unfounded" findings, and there was clearly no showing that Kevin Garifine misbehaved in the presence of seven or ten year old students which was nothing more than several minutes of joking. As a result I found no punishable transgression on the morning of March 1, 2012 and the tenure charges provided by the District are hereby dismissed.

The District is hereby directed to reinstate Respondent Kevin Garifine forthwith, to his employment and make him whole financially, and benefits. Should the parties herein be unable to agree on the nature and amount of his make whole remedy, then for that sole purpose I herby retain jurisdiction.

APPEARANCES

FOR THE PETITIONER:

Ramon E. Rivera, Scarinci Hollenbeck
Shana T. Don, Scarinci Hollenbeck
Christina M. Michelson, Scarinci Hollenbeck

FOR THE RESPONDENT:

Nancy I. Oxfeld, Oxfeld Cohen

BACKGROUND

On November 20, 2014, the parties and the arbitrator opened hearings by telephone in the tenure charges filed by the district against the respondent, Marie Ebert [Agency Docket No. 267-9/14] and agreed to postpone two hearing days scheduled for November 21 and 22. In a ruling on January 30, 2015, the arbitrator granted respondent's motion to dismiss the charges for failure to comply with statutory time limits. The ruling stated, in relevant part: "[T]he dismissal is without prejudice to the district's right to file charges again in a manner that fully comports with applicable statutory provisions" [at p. 19].

Subsequently, the district filed "amended" tenure charges against the respondent, alleging inefficiency[1] and unbecoming conduct, pursuant to Section 25 and Section 8 of TEACHNJ [Agency Docket No. 49-3/15]. In a telephone conference held on April 8, 2015, the arbitrator advised the parties that, in light of her decision in Rinita Williams, SOSD of Newark [Agency Docket No. 241-8/14, January 31, 2015], she was inclined to dismiss the Section 25 charge of inefficiency. As requested, the arbitrator allowed the parties to file submissions. Hearings were scheduled for June 11 and 12 at the offices of Scarinci Hollenbeck in Lyndhurst, New Jersey.

On April 20, 2015, the respondent submitted another motion to dismiss the charges. On April 30, 2015, the district replied, opposing the motion. On May 21, 2015, the arbitrator ruled that both charges would proceed to hearing under Section 8 on June 11 and 12. A transcript was taken, and the following witnesses testified for the district under oath or affirmation:

Katherine Kaczka,[2] Special Education Teacher, Alexander Street School

Rebekah (Rhodes) de La Rosa,[3] Special Education Teacher, Alexander Street School

Homere Breton,[4] Executive Legal Assistant, 504 Compliance Officer, NPS

Keith Barton,[5] Managing Director of Operations, Affirmative Action Officer, NPS

[1] The amended document charged inefficiency under both Sections 8 and 25. DOE docketed the case as a new matter.

[2] Ms. Kaczka, who has worked in the district since September, 2012, holds a master's degree in education. In 2013-2014, she and Ms. Rhodes taught a fifth-grade inclusion class of 18 students, some with an IEP, at Alexander Street School [Tr., pp. 30-31, 59]. Ms. Rhodes said that she functioned as the designated Special Education teacher in the classroom and that Ms. Kaczka was the general education teacher [Tr., p. 92].

[3] Ms. Rhodes has a bachelor of arts degree in sociology and a master of arts degree in teaching from Montclair State University. She has three New Jersey standard teaching certificates: preschool to third grade, 16 kindergarten to fifth grade, and teacher of students with disabilities. In her first year in the district (2013-2014) she taught in the Alexander School until it closed [Tr., pp. 85, 113].

[4] Mr. Breton has served in various administrative capacities in the district, including manager of administrative operation services and manager of records and verification for the Talent Office. He has been employed since 1999 [Tr., pp. 125-126, 128].

[5] In his EEO capacity, Mr. Barton said, "my office responds to allegations of harassment, hostile work environment, that sort of thing.... [W]e investigate claims that come into our office, and we also are responsible for training each year throughout the District [Tr., p. 194]. He was been with the district for 20 years [Tr., p. 196].

Kimberly Kassnove,[6] Executive Director of Staffing and Recruitment, NPS

Sharanda Evans-Humes,[7] Vice Principal, Alexander Street School (2013-2014)

Rhonda Williamson-Green,[8] Vice Principal, Alexander Street School (2013-2014)

Al-Jathiyah Cannon,[9] Social Worker, Alexander Street School (2013-2014)

Maria Ortiz,[10] Principal, Alexander Street School (2012-2014)

The respondent called no witnesses and entered one exhibit for the purpose of impeaching a district witness [Respondent Exhibit 22]. Briefs and all other submissions were received by the arbitrator. The commissioner extended the due date for the arbitrator's award to February 23, 2016. In the course of the proceeding the arbitrator conducted conference calls with the parties.

The objective of this proceeding is to determine the validity of following charges:

During the period from June 7, 2013 to the present, Respondent has demonstrated unbecoming conduct in the following manner:

a. The Respondent has failed to create an environment of respect and rapport.
b. The Respondent has failed to manage student behavior.
c. The Respondent has failed to engage students in learning.
d. The Respondent has failed to contribute to the School and District.

[Petitioner Exhibit 1]

Accompanying the charges was a Statement of Evidence (SOE), comprising 45 points. Specific evidentiary items were attached to the SOE as exhibits keyed to each point. The exhibits are shown herein as italics in parentheses: Evidence admitted at the hearing is bracketed. Quoted material is shown as it was received in evidence. Errors in spelling, grammar, punctuation, and capitalization have not been corrected unless necessary for clarity. The legibility of many exhibits was poor, and some were missing dates or signatures. On some observations it was difficult to ascertain with precision when they occurred. The signature date is indicated in this opinion as a post-observation conference [POC]. The absence of a date is odd since the forms appear to reside in a computerized system which should make it simple to note the actual date of the observation.

The district's brief maintained that the evidence related to the two charges has proven just cause to remove the respondent from her tenured teaching position. The evidence establishes, acccrding to the district, that she "was incapable of managing her classroom" and "demonstrated a pattern of racism and prejudice toward her students"[at pp. 1 and 2].

Charge One, the district asserted, focused on the respondent's > consistent lack of improvement and declining performance as documented in her evaluation ratings of "partially effective" and "ineffective", consecutively for the 2012-2013 and 2013-2014 school years.

> These evaluation ratings took into account the Respondent's poor attendance, failure to prepare and implement a behavioral management plan; failure to provide lesson plans for an extended absence, and her inability to effectively manage a classroom. In the 2012-2013 school year alone, the Respondent's inefficient classroom management was demonstrated by the thirty-seven (37) incident reports she herself submitted documenting disruptive students, name calling, being off-task or taking art supplies. Therefore, Ebert did not have control over her classroom [at pp. 1-2].

The respondent's brief [at p. 2] countered the district's argument as follows:

> There are two charges against Ms. Ebert, the first charge being Inefficiency and the second charge being Unbecoming Conduct and Other Just Cause. There are fourteen specifications (a-n) to the charge of Inefficiency and four specifications (a-d) to the charge of Conduct Unbecoming. The arbitrator can only consider allegations that are set forth specifically in those charges, and the burden is on the NPS to prove those allegations....[T]he NPS has not met its burden. No testimony was proffered on most of the fourteen subcategories of Inefficiency and four subcategories of Conduct Unbecoming.

By failing to meet its burden, according to respondents's brief, the district has not demonstrated just cause for removal. The teacher thus should be reinstated and made whole.

DISCUSSION

At the time of the charges, the respondent was an art teacher in the Alexander Street School.[11] Located in the Newark's West Ward, the school closed in June, 2014 [Tr., p. 196]. According to Mr. Barton the building had been emptied by the second week in July, 2014, in order to allow a charter school to prepare for its opening in August [Tr., p. 197]. Mr. Barton described the school's pre-closure student population:

> The majority of the student population is African-American. There's certainly a portion of the population in that area of the city that is Jamaican, that is Haitian. So I don't know particularly to what degree the student population consisted of folks from Haiti or from Jamaica, but I would say easily 90 percent, 95 percent African-American [Tr., p. 201].

Charge One: Inefficiency

Charge One is based on two annual evaluations in which the respondent was rated less than effective. "Newark Public Schools Framework for Effective Teaching—Teacher Observation and Performance Evaluation" was a guidebook for administrators and teachers in 2012-2013 and in 2013-2014 [Petitioner Exhibit 26 and 27 respectively]. The guidebook called for teachers to be rated as Highly Effective, Effective, Partially Effective, or Ineffective in the following competencies:

[11] The respondent had worked there since the 2011-2012 school year.

> Competency 1: Lesson Design and Focus > Competency 2: Rigor & Inclusiveness
> Competency 3: Culture of Achievement
> Competency 4: Student Progress Toward Mastery > Competency 5: Commitment to Personal and Collective Excellence

The first four competencies would be rated on the basis of observations throughout the year. The fifth competency would reflect the teacher's cumulative performance and would appear only in the mid-year review and end-of-year evaluation. A mid-year review conference was not required in Year One but was strongly recommended by the guidebook as > an opportunity for the administrator to discuss the teacher's progress toward student, classroom, school, and district performance goals as well as the implementation and alignment of the professional standards for teachers.

>
> The mid-year ratings are formative ratings, rather than summative. The mid-year ratings serve as one piece of evidence for the Annual Review Ratings and as an important element of formative feedback for the teacher.
> [Petitioner Exhibit 26, pp. 22-23]

In 2013-2014, teachers on a Corrective Action Plan (CAP) were subjected to additional minimum requirements:

- Four observations per year, one in each semester.
- Two short observations (20 minutes in length), completed by different observers.
- Two long observations (40 minutes in length or an entire lesson, the shortest of the two).
- Midyear reviews, to be completed by February 15th.
- Annual reviews, to be completed by May 15th.

[Petitioner Exhibit 27, pp. 21- 25]

The fifth competency rating may add points for highly effective teaching or subtract points for poor attendance and lateness. Tenured teachers require one announced observation, with a pre-observation conference, followed by a POC within ten calendar days of the observation [Id., pp. 20-22]. A performance review "must be completed for each teacher on an annual basis. This evaluation is a summative statement which incorporates the data and evidence gathered throughout the year" [Id., p. 23].

Every teacher was instructed to create a Professional Development Plan that year, as noted in the SOE:

9. A Professional Development Plan for Evaluation Year 2012-2013 (SOE Exhibit 4) [Petitioner Exhibit 74].

10. The Plan provided that Respondent would work on enhancing her teaching strategies (SOE Exhibit 4) [Petitioner Exhibit 74].

The period, according to the SOE, began on October 19, 2012:

2. During the period from October 19, 2012 to the present Respondent failed to satisfactorily perform the duties and responsibilities of a classroom teacher despite numerous suggestions and assistance given by the administrative staff. The following documents are relied upon to support the charge of inefficiency:

3. Correspondence from Maria J. Ortiz, Principal, to Respondent dated October 19, 2012 (SOE Exhibit 1) [Petitioner Exhibit 67].

4. The correspondence advises Respondent that she is responsible for providing her students with effective classroom management, Respondent having reported 4 incidents where students were out of control in her class (SOE Exhibit 1) [Petitioner Exhibit 67].

The SOE refers to the following memo by Principal Ortiz about classroom management, dated October 19:

> Mrs. Ebert, this notification is to memorialize our conversation in reference to your classroom management. You are responsible for providing your students with effective classroom norms that promote positive and productive teacher-student and student-student relationships.
>
> Since September 2012, you have reported 4 incidents w[h]ere the students were out of control in your class. Since, several of the students in the classes who you have reported as having difficulty have transferred out of Alexander Street School. On Tuesday, October 16, 2012 at 3:10 p.m. you came in to my office stating that, "The students were out of control again, that they were getting up from their seats and being disruptive." You stated, "Something has to be done." I informed you, that it was not a good time to discuss because I was in the middle of preparing for the Staff Development day the next day. I proceeded to tell you that when we meet to come with solutions, you stated, "We have to get these kids out of here." I stated that was not an option and I repeated that it was not a good time to discuss the matter. You insisted that we discuss the concern and before storming out of my office, you stated, "It's never a good time."
>
> Again I remind you that time is available on your schedule for PLC weekly meetings where a forum is provided to problem solve, raise student concerns and create SMART goals in order to maximize student learning. I also remind you that PD360 is a district resource that can offer several classroom management strategies. It is the teacher's professional duty to adhere to all the responsibilities that are required for teaching.
>
> In an effort to set a culture of rigor and high quality instruction, you must re-design your classroom management plan. A meeting is scheduled for October 26, 2012 at 2:05 p.m. to discuss the new classroom management plan that you will implement. If there are any problems with regard to this matter, please feel free to speak to me.
> [Petitioner Exhibit 67]

On the meeting day, the respondent and principal were apparently working cooperatively to improve the teacher's control of a classroom. The respondent emailed Ms. Ortiz (October 26, 2012) to report her progress:

> Attached find two articles which I have read and am currently implementing with Room 312.
> The second article titled "What to Do when you realize you have lost control of your class," has proved to be very helpful.
> By walking around the room and politely asking students to take their seats.. I was able to keep everybody in their seats for the duration of the lesson on Monday, October 24th. They were not disrespectful at all. Unfortunately 7 of the students did not complete the assignment. I gave them all week to finish it but as of 2:05 today they did not hand in the completed assignment. They told me they could not access the PP on the computer in their classroom, therefore I am extending the deadline for them.
> I look forward to seeing them again on Monday October 29th and will again visit them in their classroom.
> I will keep you posted. Have A Great Weekend

The respondent's first observation (December 14, 2012) was announced. Pre- and post-observation conferences were held with the principal, who rated her "effective" overall. Ms. Ortiz was particularly impressed with her effectiveness in Competency 2:

> Rigor and Inclusiveness, she did a very good and effective job at questions and tasks. I think underneath that I rated that indicator Highly Effective, because she really captured and did a great job in making sure that the students were asking questions and they were really having an opportunity to get deep into the objective of the lesson. So I was so impressed with that indicator that I even encouraged Ms. Ebert to do a lesson or share that technique of what it took for her to plan questions and tasks that well with other teachers, and she did do that, which was awesome. She did have an opportunity for her to share that workshop of questions and tasks with the rest of the staff and she did really well [Tr., pp. 365-366].

The teacher's mid-year evaluation rating was also "effective" [Petitioner Exhibit 72]. The mid-year report called attention to the following aspects of her professional conduct:

> Competency 2: Rigor and Inclusiveness
>
> 2b. Questions & Tasks: Questions and tasks ensure student comprehension and ask for application, analysis and/or synthesis - Highly Effective for 2.b
>
> Competency 3: Culture of Achievement (Partially Effective) under evidence:
> > A reduced number of incidents related to student behavior in the third grade shows that classroom management and classroom culture supports a culture of learning [at p. 2].

Finally, in Competency 5 (Commitment to Personal and Collective Excellence) the teacher exceeded expectations, earning an extra point in the overall rating. The bonus appeared to recognize her commitment to professional growth through workshop and conference participation, as well as a good attendance and promptness record: "The teacher is present and prompt and attendance reflects his/her focus on student learning as a priority" [at p. 4]. The following comment appears under IPDP:

> By February 19, 2013 attend the workshop on classroom management offered by the district's Special Education department and immediately turnkey to colleagues during PLC meetings. In order to promote a classroom culture of Achievement when the students are disruptive, arrange with homeroom teachers to have Art lectures and lessons in the homeroom classes [at p. 4].

During the first half-year, the respondent avoided a negative rating. Her second and final observation was conducted on May 10; the post-observation conference occurred on May 21. The observer described the lesson as follows:

> Lesson Objective: Warm & Cool Tissue Paper Flower. After reviewing the color wheel and naming the primary secondary colors, the art student will Learn about warm and cool colors by looking at a slide Show, - Choose and be able to identify a warm or cool scheme. - Create a tissue paper flower for mother's day using warm or cool colors.
>
> Ms. Ebert went over the concept of warm and cool colors using a slide show. She questioned her students to gauge their understanding of the concept. Then she had them create tissue paperflowers using warm and cool colors.

The SOE summarized what the district found lacking:

> 5. A Formal Observation Form dated May 21, 2013 wherein Respondent was rated "partially effective" (SOE Exhibit 2) [Petitioner Exhibit 29].
> 6. Respondent was advised in this Formal Observation Form that, among other things, her questions and tasks for students were not challenging and she did not adjust instructional strategies based on student reactions (SOE Exhibit 2) [Petitioner Exhibit 29].

That is an apparent reference to Competency 2,"Rigor and Inclusiveness: Instructional strategies challenge all students and provide multiple pathways to mastery," the sole competency in which she was rated less than effective. The teacher's comment was "Rigour was related to student testing and the fact that Sunday was Mother's Day."

The annual evaluation, held 17 calendar days later,[12] also rated her "partially effective:"

> 7. An Evaluation Summary Form dated June 7, 2013, wherein Respondent was rated "partially effective" (SOE Exhibit 3) [Petitioner Exhibit 73].
> 8. Respondent was advised in this Evaluation Summary Form that, among other things, she needed to consider the population of students she is servicing and prepare lessons matching her students' learning styles and further that she needed to promote positive and productive teacher-student and student-student relationships. It was also noted that Respondent had filed 37 incident reports concerning the conduct of her students and that she had made statements to the effect that she would rather teach in a school where "the students are better behaved" and that the kids at the school "are out of control" (SOE Exhibit 3) [Petitioner Exhibit 73].

In her mid-year evaluation she gained an extra point for Competency 5, but in the annual evaluation two points were deducted. Point 8, quoted above, is from that section. Several events were also mentioned, including that > several students in Mrs. Ebert's class have been recognized by the Essex County... Executive for their art work. Mrs. Ebert joined the Alexander Street School Essex County Fun Run. Mrs. Ebert conducted a workshop on how to provide highly effective questions and task to her colleagues.

Her attendance also met expectations.

Because of her rating of ineffective for the previous school year, the respondent was required to follow a CAP, as noted in the SOE:

11. Corrective Action Plan ("CAP") prepared by Respondent in collaboration with Maria J. Ortiz, Principal dated September 27, 2013 (SOE Exhibit 5) [Petitioner Exhibit 33].

12. In the CAP, Respondent set forth numerous professional goals, including but not limited to the development of a timeframe for student mastery of various standards, the establishment of a baseline using beginning and end-of-the-year assessments, and the commitment to the design of lessons predicated upon the NJ Core Curriculum Standards (SOE Exhibit 5) [Petitioner Exhibit 33].

Additionally, the SOE indicates that all teachers received the following:

13. ASE Actionable Feedback SY 13-14 "Five Focus Indicators for November 2013-January 2014", provided to all Alexander Street School teachers, including Respondent, in November of 2013 (SOE Exhibit 6) [Petitioner Exhibit 79].

14. The Actionable Feedback SY 13-14 document provides 3 areas of indicators upon which all teachers, including Respondent, were encouraged to focus. The indicators included Pacing and Momentum, Questions & Tasks, and Responsiveness (SOE Exhibit 6) [Petitioner Exhibit 79].

The district listed other supports that were provided to the respondent:

15. Email dated March 10, 2014 from Rhonda Williamson-Green, Vice Principal, to Respondent (SOE Exhibit 7) [Petitioner Exhibit 35].

16. The email advises Respondent that Ms. Williamson-Green intended to set up a formal weekly meeting schedule and provided proposed times (SOE Exhibit 7) [Petitioner Exhibit 35].

On October 8, Vice Principal Williamson-Green undertook a Long Observation of the respondent. Her summary comment was as follows:

> Ms. Ebert has established an exemplary classroom environment that promotes student learning. She has taken the time to know the needs of her students and teaches accordingly. Her lessons are thorough and rigorous which lea[d]s most of her children to mastery.
> [Petitioner Exhibit 36, p. 4]

As in the first year, there was a long gap—in this instance seven months—between her first, "effective" observation of the year and her next observation. She had a number of lengthy absences (discussed below), beginning in late November. She also submitted several requests for transfers to another school.

Leave and Transfer Requests

In evidence is the respondent's absence authorization report [9/3/13-5/15/14] rather than her complete attendance record. There is a handwritten notation, indicating that, from November 26, 2013, through February 18, 2014, she was on FMLA leave [Petitioner Exhibit 15]. The record was not adequately explained in the hearings, but it appears that only some days of absence were authorized, from the district's perspective. Despite requests from the arbitrator, the district did not provide data for school year 2013-2014 that would summarize her complete record and indicate the sources that were relied on.[13] It is also apparent that, owing to the siloing of functions, there was a marked lack of coordination between the school and various district officials. It goes without saying that employees must be accountable for their attendance, but the district did not confront the respondent promptly and precisely and neither did the school.

[13] The absence authorization report lists a total of 81 sick days [Petitioner Exhibit 15, p 2] but the annual evaluation lists 35 days out [Plaintiff Exhibit 39].

On February 6, prior to her return to work, the respondent's psychiatrist wrote to Vanessa Rodriguez, the Chief Talent Officer:

> I am writing this letter in regards to Marie Ebert (dob 11/4/59), a patient in my care. I have been treating Mrs. Ebert since December of 2013. After several visits with Mrs. Ebert, it is my firm recommendation that she be given priority in transferring to a different public school other than the one she is currently working in (Alexander Street School).
>
> I find it quite likely that a return to the environment in this school would be a detriment to her health & well being.

Shortly after her return, on February 26, the respondent wrote to the principal and other officials:[14]

> As of February 19th I returned to work at Alexander Street School as the Art teacher. My Dr. Had recommended that I not return to the same location as it would be a detriment to my health and well being. Against his advice NPS Human Resource Department placed me back at Alexander Street School. On Monday February 24th I was involved in an incident in my classroom, where students began fighting. I was pushed into the door and the door knob struck me in the back. I sustained a bruise and injury to my back. I was sent to Concentra for X-rays. Luckily I am not seriously injured. I am back to work today. However I feel this incident is a clear indication that I should not be in this environment. The procedures and protocols to protect my safety are not in place at this school and therefore I am asking that you honor my doctor's recommendation.
> A full investigation of the incident has not been reported to me. Security did not arrive when I first called them. I sent a student to get security. A teacher from upstairs heard the commotion and came to my aide.
>

Mr. Breton recalled that he contacted the respondent > because it was understood that she was in need of a 504 accommodation. Ms. Ebert actually paid a visit to me and stated, No, she is not in need of a 504 accommodation, she is not disabled. What she is in need of or was in need of was a transfer from the respective school location....She stated that the students were out of control; that she feared for her safety. And that she had brought it to the attention of her respective administrator, to no avail [Tr., pp. 136, 139-140].

He said that she was "adamant" [Tr., p. 180] about not being disabled but desired a transfer based on medical need. The district had received two letters from her psychiatrist, requesting a transfer [Petitioner Exhibits 17 and 18], but Mr. Breton explained to her that a request for transfer must be addressed to "our staffing department, the head of which is Kimberly Kassnove" [Tr., p. 138].

On March 5 the psychiatrist wrote to Tiffany Hardgrove, Assistant Superintendent:

> I continue to see this woman on a monthly basis. On 2/19/14 she returned to work at the Alexander Street School It is quite unfortunate that on 2/24/14 she was involved in an altercation in her classroom, where she was pushed into a door, requiring medical attention.
>
> As her physician, I am reporting to you that her health & well being is being compromised by her working environment & the conditions in her school.
>
> I have been treating Mrs. Ebert since December of 2013. After several visits with Mrs. Ebert, it is my firm recommendation that she be given priority in transferring to a different public school other than the one she is currently working in.

Mr. Breton testified that the respondent had a leave that terminated in March, 2014 [Tr., p. 124]. He explained the procedure that employees are required to follow when applying for leave:

> They...will give me an application which will secure medical document to support their medical disability. And once I have that information, we will move forward to see whether or not we can provide reasonable accom[m]odation for the respective employee [Tr., p. 127].

For FMLA, he said, the process is similar:

> The teacher must go through the same process as an employee would go through, and there are particular requirements that the employee must have in order for them to go out on an FMLA. First and foremost, we need to make certain that the employee had been with the District for one year, and that they have provided the District with 1,250 hours. Step one of that process really speaks to whether or not the person is eligible. If they have satisfied that requirement of 1,250 hours, they would go into the next level, which would be qualifying the employee. Qualification occurs when the employee provides medical documentation to our Health Services Department. Our Health Services Department reviews that medical documentation, and then ascertains whether or not they would recommend that the employee be approved for Family Medical Leave and/or an illness leave of absence. Once we receive that recommendation from Health Services, a letter goes out to the respective employee denying or approving or even asking for further supportive medical documentation to see whether or not we could provide such approved leave [Tr., pp. 128-129].

Teachers may apply directly through an on-line, self-service system [Tr., p. 130]. When returning from an approved leave, the employee must be cleared by the district's Health Services as well as the employee's personal physician. When cleared, Health Services will provide a receipt of return to the Administrative Operations Services Department, which Mr. Breton also heads. This allows the district to notify the teaching location when to expect the employee's return.

Mr. Breton advised her that because she was alleging a hostile work environment that complaint "needs to be brought to the attention of our Affirmative Action officer," Keith Barton [Tr. p. 138].

Ms. Kassnove testified that there are no midyear transfers except "unless there is a true hardship" [Tr., p. 214]. On March 7, 2014, the respondent emailed Joy Lindsay, the former manager of staffing, with copy to Ms. Kassnove, requesting a transfer to Park Elementary, where she believed there was a vacancy. She noted she was placed in Alexander school against the recommendation of her physician at the end of her FMLA leave [Petitioner Exhibit 10]. Ms. Kassnove wrote to Principal Ortiz, asking her views on the possible transfer:

> we are looking into whether there is a vacancy at Park. I wanted to make you aware of her request. Per our earlier conversation we will not be allowing a transfer until next year.
> If there is a budgeted role at Park, will you support her getting hired into that role should Sylvia make her an offer?
> [Petitioner Exhibit 10].

Since Alexander School was closing, there would be a necessity to place staff, including Ms. Ebert, in other schools for the next school year. Ms Kassnove recalled there was a request to transfer to Lafayette as well but she was told that it was denied since > is not District policy to transfer educators outside of the transfer period....It's the policy because when we transfer educators, it leaves holes at schools. So it doesn't actually support the holistic means of the District. It's really important for students that they have a consistent teacher throughout the year. It's really important for schools that they're not scrambling midyear to find a replacement [Tr., p. 218].

She noted that the two schools she requested are "in higher socioeconomic brackets" and are sought after by teachers [Tr., pp. 219-220]. She acknowledged that teachers who was suspected of causing harm to students could be transferred at any time to a non-teaching assignment, pending investigation [Tr., p. 233].

There was a series of emails beginning on March 14, in which the respondent's complaint of a hostile working environment and the need for a transfer was discussed. The respondent wrote

> As of March 13, 2014 I have not heard any response from the Human Resources Department regarding my Dr's requests that I be placed in a different environment. The hostility and aggressive behaviors from students at Alexander Street School Is placing me In a detrimental situation. I am looking into extending my FMLA or filing a new one. I have asked you in good faith to find me another placement. I continue to experience a great amount of stress and anxiety surrounding the working conditions at Alexander Street School. I look forward to hearing from you.

Mr. Barton responded:

> Per our conversation today, you were previously informed by Ms. Kassnove that you were to report to Alexander St. School. Your assignment has not changed. I am continuing to follow up on this matter per our meeting and our brief talk today. I am scheduled to visit Alexander St. School on Thursday of this week. You stated to me today that your FMLA has been extended until May. I am now unable to observe your interaction with students in the classroom setting. During our first meeting I stated that I would make an unannounced visit to your classroom during one of the periods you identified for me. In closing I will continue to progress through the steps previously outlined for you.
> [Petitioner Exhibit 12]

Mr. Barton said that he met with the respondent in her classroom for about 20 minutes to discuss her concerns about student behavior, but "at this point Ms. Ebert had been out consecutively. So it was rendering it virtually impossible me for to visit her while she was teaching, which was really the whole thing" [Tr., p. 207]. However, the classroom visit never happened. Ms. Ortiz informed him that "Ebert has been out" [Petitioner Exhibit 11].

On May 2, Ms. Rodriguez wrote to the respondent:

> It has come to the attention of the Talent Office of Administrative Operation Services that you are and have been on an unauthorized leave of absence as of Friday, March 14, 2014. Although the district has recognized that you submitted a medical documentation to our Health Services department, it is evident that you have not received a notice of approval to be out as of the above-mentioned date. Consequently, your employment status with the district is AWOL (absent without authorized leave). Accordingly, you are directed to report to your school location immediately; failure to do so may have already subjected you to disciplinary action.
> [Petitioner Exhibit 14]

On May 5, Ms. Kassnove wrote: "Concerning the stated disciplinary action, should Marie Ebert report to Alexander Street School effective 5/5/14 all disciplinary infractions for this stated period will be dropped" [Petitioner Exhibit 14]. Ms. Kassnove said she did not give the respondent a chance to correct any paperwork problems or deficiencies regarding the so-called AWOL period [Tr., p. 230].The respondent's brief noted that she "returned to work on Monday, May 5, 2014 and worked on that date through May 13, 2014, dates on which she was deemed medically unable to work by the Board's physician" [Respondent Brief at p. 16, Respondent Exhibit 22].

Mr. Breton maintains that while the district received medical notes the respondent never in fact applied for a new FMLA leave or extension in March [Tr., 188]. Leave, he said, is "formally authorized by Vanessa Rodriguez," Chief Talent Officer and ultimately approved by the superintendent [Tr., p. 189]. During the March exchange of emails [Petitioner Exhibits 11 and 12], Mr. Breton said, he looked into the respondent's claim that she was on an FMLA leave, found it not to be so but did not contact her and did not know if anyone else in the district did [Tr., pp. 190-191].

In quick succession after her return, the respondent underwent three observations, in which she was rated "ineffective." The last was signed on the same day that she received one of these ratings as her annual evaluation:

17. A Long Observation Summary Form, dated May 9, 2014, wherein Respondent was rated "ineffective" (SOE Exhibit 8) [Petitioner Exhibit 83].

18. Respondent was advised in this Long Observation Form that, among other things, she did not plan the lesson and prepare the necessary components for effectiveness and as a result did not have a clear understanding of the objective. Respondent was also informed that some new students sat idle without instructions, that she experienced difficulty maximizing learning times and that classroom values and norms were inconsistently reinforced (SOE Exhibit 8) [Petitioner Exhibit 83].

19. A Short Observation Summary Form dated May 13, 2014, wherein Respondent was rated as "ineffective" (SOE Exhibit 9) [Petitioner Exhibit 41].

20. The Short Observation Summary Form notes that, among other things, Respondent's instructional strategies did not challenge the students (SOE Exhibit 9) [Petitioner Exhibit 41].

21. A Short Observation Summary Form dated May 15, 2014, wherein Respondent was rated as "ineffective" (SOE Exhibit 10) [Petitioner Exhibit 38].

22. The Short Observation Summary Form notes that, among other things, that Respondent needed to maximize student learning time and that her lessons may not be met as a result of pacing and momentum (SOE Exhibit 10) [Petitioner Exhibit 38].

A major criticism of observer Williamson-Green was that the teacher "spent to much time on preparing for the lesson" and that "direct instruction" began after five minutes. However, "once order has been restored Ms. Ebert's lesson content and instructions are communicated clearly." The teacher's comments were as follows:

The observation was made following testing, I served as a hall monitor from 8:15 am to 11:55. I did not have a prep period. The art room had been used as a testing sight. All resources and placement of furniture have been disrupted. I have a letter from my Physician stating that for my health and well being I should not be in this work environment. The NPS Human Resource Department has chosen to disregard the letter and placed me back in this environment.

23. An Annual Evaluation Summary Form dated May 15, 2014, wherein Respondent was rated "ineffective" (SOE Exhibit 11) [Petitioner Exhibit 39].

24. Respondent was advised in this Annual Evaluation Summary Form that, among other things, Respondent needed to work on responsiveness and that her instruction was not shifted to meet the demands of the entire class, which led to disengagement and inability to master the lessons' objectives. It was also noted that Respondent often raised her voice and engaged in unproductive exchanges with her students (SOE Exhibit 11) [Petitioner Exhibit 39].

Throughout most of the year, the respondent lacked a functional CAP. After the "partially effective" rating for school year 2012-2013, she apparently did not collaborate with district administrators to create a plan. The teacher did not come forward because she was still disputing the prior year's evaluation [Petitioner Exhibit 33]. Waiting for her input, the principal did not suggest the steps she needed to include in her CAP. Creating a CAP is a joint responsibility. The SOE notes:

25. Corrective Action Plan IPDP and/or Corrective Improvement Plan Feedback Summary Form for School Year 2013-2014 dated May 15, 2014 (SOE Exhibit 12) [Petitioner Exhibits 30-34].

26. The Feedback Summary Form lists, among other things, dates and topics of reviews conducted with respect to Respondent and follow-up action steps taken thereafter (SOE Exhibit 12).

27. Corrective Action Plan IPDP and/or Corrective Improvement Plan Feedback Summary Form for School Year 2013-2014 dated May 30, 2014 (SOE Exhibit 13).

28. The Feedback Summary Form lists, among other things, dates and topics of reviews conducted with respect to Respondent and follow-up action steps taken thereafter (SOE Exhibit 13).

Charge One—Conclusion

The inefficiency charge has not been proven. Although the evaluation process in 2012-2013 satisfied the required elements, the respondent's first "partially effective" observation did not occur until May, just before the annual evaluation. In 2013-2014, the process was marred by other arbitrary timing decisions and serious deficiencies in the district's record-keeping.

The respondent had an "effective" observation in October, but there is no satisfactory record of a mid-year review, which is a required element. The district's brief maintains that the "evaluation" or "observation" occurred on February 14, 2014, citing Petitioner Exhibits 28 and 34 [Brief, pp. 25 and 45]. The former exhibit is titled "Data Driven Instruction 2013-2014." It includes the respondent's CAP Feedback Summary Form, on which is an entry for February 14, 2014: "IPDP/Corrective Action Plan/Review Conference." The second exhibit is the respondent's CAP, signed on March 12, 2014. Neither provides any detail which establishes that a mid-year review was conducted, that it contained the required components, or that the respondent received a performance rating. When questioned about a mid-year review of the CAP, Ms. Williamson-Green said that she believed it occurred in March, 2014 [Tr., p. 326], which would seem to refer to Petitioner Exhibit 34. That exhibit contains little useful guidance and suffers in comparison to the 2012-2013 mid-year evaluation. In any case, the respondent's brief correctly argues that it is an incomplete document, promising to "update by Monday, 3/17/14." The brief notes: "No update was ever provided" [at p. 12]. By any measure, the record of the mid-year review is woefully inadequate.

The remaining observations for 2013-2014 followed the respondent's return in May from a lengthy absence, even though, as the respondent's brief correctly points out, the framework recommends a timeline for observations and evaluations that is front-loaded for teachers with a CAP [at p. 11, Petitioner Exhibit 27, p. A20]. Moreover, the series of observations came in rapid succession. No time was left in between for the teacher to improve her performance on the basis of each preceding observation. The final observation was signed on the same day as her annual evaluation. In a similar case, Arbitrator Gandel aptly commented that "there has to be a reasonable time period between evaluations to show improvement" [Patsy Cuntrera, Passaic County Vocational School District, Agency Docket No. 223-8/15, November 27, 2015, p. 5]. The respondent's absence itself was so poorly managed by the district that it adversely influenced many elements of the observation and evaluation process.

Charge Two: Conduct Unbecoming

Charge Two focuses on a pattern of bizarre events, extending from about June, 2013, to May, 2014. The evidence, consisting primarily of SOE entries combined with testimony, begins to accumulate when the respondent received an annual evaluation of "partially effective" along with a critique of her approach to teaching. The SOE notes:

> 29. During the period from June 7, 2013 to the present Respondent has demonstrated unbecoming conduct. The following documents are relied upon to support the charges of conduct unbecoming and other just cause:

30. An Evaluation Summary Form dated June 7, 2013, wherein Respondent was rated "partially effective" (Exhibit 3) [Petitioner Exhibit 73].

31. Respondent was advised in this Evaluation Summary Form that, among other things, she needed to consider the population of students she is servicing and prepare lessons matching her students' learning styles and further that she needed to promote positive and productive teacher-student and student-student relationships. It was also noted that Respondent had filed 37 incident reports concerning the conduct of her students and that she had made statements to the effect that she would rather teach in a school where "the students are better behaved" and that the kids "are out of control" (SOE Exhibit 3) [Petitioner Exhibit 73].

Ms. Evans-Humes commented that the respondent's resort to Student Incident Reports was not typical "or an effective way of handling student behavior." She explained:

> Most of the time I received a lot more Incident Reports from Ms. Ebert than anybody else. The Incident Reports, a lot of them were just basic kind of classroom management issues, not specifically, say, what would normally be considered an incident. So a lot of times the incidents as they came in, they were read, but they were kind of pushed to the side. I would go back to Ms. Ebert, I would ask her, Well, what did you do? And I said, You have to send me, you know, what you did in this process [Tr., p. 265].

Two further incident reports about her students were submitted by the respondent in December, 2013. The principal determined that they were unfounded:

34. Email dated December 5, 2013 from Maria J. Ortiz, Principal, to Respondent (Exhibit 14).

35. The email advises Respondent that a review of 1 of the incident reports she had filed with respect to alleged misconduct of a student was conducted and it was found that Respondent had attributed a witness statement to a teacher who reported that she did not, in fact, make the statement Respondent alleged she had made (SOE Exhibit 14) [Petitioner Exhibit 64].

36. An Incident Report dated December 9, 2013 filed by Maria J. Ortiz, Principal, wherein details of the investigation of the above-referenced incident report filed by Respondent were set forth and it was concluded the allegations were unfounded (SOE Exhibit 15) [Petitioner Exhibit 62].

Almost three months later, an incident report was filed against the respondent for "inappropriate dialog," involving students in one of the respondent's art classes. It resulted in a Letter of Warning:

37. An Incident Report dated March 12, 2014 filed by Rhonda Williamson-Green, Vice Principal, wherein allegations made by teachers against Respondent for having made inappropriate remarks were memorialized (SOE Exhibit 16) [Petitioner Exhibit 3].

38. The Incident Report attached notes from the teachers. Those notes included expressions of concerns wherein students reported to the teachers that they felt that Respondent did not like them and that they felt disrespected by her. The students identified these feelings as being the cause of some of their disruptive behaviors. Students further reported having been called stupid, lazy and racist by the Respondent and one student was told by Respondent that she stinks. Students also reported that they have been kicked out of class and had nowhere to go (SOE Exhibit 16) [Petitioner Exhibit 3].

39. The Incident Report reflects that administrative action taken as a result of the investigation included a conference with the Respondent (SOE Exhibit 16) [Petitioner Exhibit 3].

40. An Incident Report dated March 13, 2014 filed by Al-Jathiyah Cannon, School Social Worker, wherein allegations made by students against Respondent for numerous inappropriate conduct were memorialized (SOE Exhibit 17) [Petitioner Exhibit 7].

41. The Incident Report described allegations made by students wherein students reported that Respondent called one student "retarded", that Respondent called students racist, crazy and stupid, that Respondent yelled "for no reason", and that Respondent said students act like "fools" and "wild monkeys" (SOE Exhibit 17) [Petitioner Exhibit 7].

42. Correspondence dated March 13, 2014 from Rhonda Williamson-Green, Vice Principal, to Respondent (SOE Exhibit 18) [Petitioner Exhibit 8].

43. The _ correspondence served as a letter of warning for conduct unbecoming for the inappropriate dialogue described in the March 13, 2014 Incident Report (SOE Exhibit 18) [Petitioner Exhibit 8].

The respondent gave art lessons to a fifth-grade class that included special needs students taught by Ms. Kaczka and Ms. Rhodes. The former acknowledged that some of the students presented behavioral issues but maintained that the co-teachers had equipped them with a check list of effective coping strategies. Their class received a single period of instruction each week from the respondent. Art was later changed to a double period on Wednesday afternoon [Tr., p. 38]. Ms. Kaczka said that problems followed the change [Tr., p. 63], prompting her to write Principal Ortiz on March 12, 2014:

> [Ms. Rhodes] and I are concerned with our students' experiences in art class. On Wednesday afternoons, the students attend art class for two periods while Ms. [Rhodes] and I are at our OLC meeting. At the end of the day, our students return to the classroom and express their feelings about art class and Ms. Ebert. Students have reported that Ms. Ebert has called them stupid, crazy, and racist. In addition, one student was told that she stinks. Students have also reported that they have been kicked out of class and have no where to go. They feel Ms. Ebert does not like nor respect them.
> We are concerned with our student's safety, emotional well-being and their academic growth.
>
> Please let us know if you need an additional information. Thank you for your attention in this matter.
> [Petitioner Exhibit 3]

That was the only time the students reported being called names, according to Ms. Kaczka [Tr., p. 66], but the students also faulted other aspects of the respondent's performance:

believed that derogatory remarks > can almost be a self-fulfilling prophecy, where the student starts to internalize. If they just keep hearing it over and over again, they start to feel like, Oh, maybe it is true. So it's very harmful to the students and their growth, and especially their emotional and social [Tr., pp. 56-57].

Another allegation under Charge Two is that the respondent loudly irrupted into the main office. The details are given in the SOE:

> 44. Correspondence dated May 19, 2014 from Maria J. Ortiz to Respondent (SOE Exhibit 19) [Petitioner Exhibit 82].
> 45. The correspondence describes that Respondent, on even date [sic], walked into the main office during a class and began yelling how disruptive the 8th grade class was behaving. The correspondence further advised that it was imperative that she supervise students at all times (SOE Exhibit 19) [Petitioner Exhibit 82].

The next day, the respondent went to the Office of Health Services and Nursing. Mr. Breton's testimony pointed to the following statement, prepared by the office:

> On Tuesday, May 20, 2014, Mrs. Ebert, Art Teacher, had a medical situation and went to the health office for attention. Mrs. Lara, our school guidance counselor attended to Mrs. Ebert after Mrs. Ebert requested for her.
>
> Below is a brief description from Mrs. Lara;
>
> "When I came into the nurse's office, Ms. Ebert was crying about apparently getting written up. She expresses frustration with not being able to handle the students. I was there to listen to her. I did not offer any advice or counsel. I was simply present [to] allow her to vent her frustrations.
>
> Question: Is Mrs. Ebert able to continue her duties to teach Art in grades 2-8?
>
> We believe that this educator is unfit for duty, and would like to evaluate to determine whether or not she is capable of leading instruction.
>
> Mrs. Ebert claims that she is seeking a transfer to another school due to a hostile work environment
> - We have investigated and our investigation has shown no evidence of a hostile environment
> - She claims that she is traumatized -wakes up screaming in the middle of the night -as a result of working at the school
> - She abandoned her classroom earlier this week because children were throwing markers at her
> - She identified to the school nurse on or around Tuesday of last week that Mrs. Ebert felt like she was having a breakdown
> If there are any further questions, we will send them on Tuesday, May 27, 2014.
>

Charge Two–Conclusion

Viewed as a whole, the record portrays the deterioration of an elementary school art teacher over a period of less than 12 months. When the district was introducing a new evaluation rubric, coupled with a campaign to keep teachers aware of every student, the respondent initially was successful. In December, 2012, she collaborated with her principal and colleagues to adopt an approach that seemed to produce good results. In her first observation she was rated "effective." One of the three components was even rated "highly effective." The principal invited her to model her techniques, which she did. She was rated "effective" in her mid-year evaluation.

But she began showing signs of difficulty in controlling a class. The respondent filed frequent complaints about student misbehavior. The principal regarded the incident reports as trivial and an admission that the teacher could not manage students. In 2013-2014, the respondent sought a transfer out of the school—apparently to avoid anxiety linked to students. Transfers are not generally granted at mid-year, and she would have been assigned elsewhere in any event when the school closed. She refused to apply for disability accommodation that might have permitted a transfer, insisting that nothing was needed but better-behaved students.

In March, 2014, students turned the tables on the respondent. Four of them complained to their classroom teachers and the social worker that she had addressed them in demeaning, racially-tinged terms.[15] She freely acknowledged that she was afraid of them, which was also taken to be an expression of racism.

The respondent began a two-month absence, to which the district seemed oblivious —a remarkable lapse in oversight—until discovering that she had never initiated the formal administrative procedure for leave-taking. The parties agreed not to make the absence a reason for discipline. Nevertheless, she was penalized in her summative evaluation for poor attendance without making clear which periods were involved.

The respondent's return in May was followed by the outburst in the main office, which was apparently heard by visitors. The respondent had abandoned a classroom to reach the main office and the next day went to see the nurse because she was fearful that students would harm her. Although the Office of Health Services reported that the respondent might be experiencing an emotional breakdown, the district never demanded an independent medical examination that would focus on her psychological fitness.[16]

The respondent's sustained pattern of erratic behavior demonstrates that, at the very least, she "failed to manage student behavior" (Charge Two), an element of unbecoming conduct that corresponds with her loss of self-control when faced with unruly students. Taken together, her resort to degrading epithets, her outburst in the main office, her unexplained absence for months, and her desperate search for another school cast doubt on her fitness to teach. The most plausible interpretation of the record is that her judgment has been clouded by an inordinate fear of students.

Consequently, there is just cause to find that the respondent has committed conduct unbecoming a teacher. However, the district has not proven just cause for a penalty as severe as loss of tenure and discharge.[17] She should be reinstated, but without back pay, at the beginning of the 2016-2017 school year, provided that an Independent Medical Examination (IME) finds her fit to teach and manage students. Failure to cooperate with the IME and to abide by its conclusions will be tantamount to constructive resignation. In the interim, she should strive to improve her inter-personal and professional skills, ensuring that she can succeed in any environment she may be placed in if she returns to work.

[16] The district did not order the respondent to undergo a fitness examination until May 23. She refused by means of a lawyer's letter, which produced an offer of a hearing. She did not undergo an IME [Tr., p. 149].

[17] For one thing, the district had already imposed a penalty short of discharge—a formal letter of warning—for the four-student incident. The same event cannot be used to justify discharge.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner AAA School, LLC (AAA) – a company that provides transportation services to public schools – owns six (6) seven-passenger minivans. Petitioner has bid several times for business from the respondent, Passaic County Educational Services Commission (Commission), and has filed several appeals before the Commissioner prior to the instant case. Petitioner submitted a bid in March 2015 for one of the respondent's student transportation routes – Route 8213 – but was not awarded same because it was not able to meet the requirement in the specifications that a sixteen-passenger yellow school bus be provided. Petitioner filed the within appeal on May 25, 2015. Respondent filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer, and requested reimbursement of attorney fees as well as an order that petitioner be barred from filing repetitive petitions.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the respondent's motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer was accompanied by documents and certification in addition to the pleadings, and was therefore converted to a motion for summary decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5; there were no genuine issues of material fact, and the matter was ripe for summary decision; AAA's petition fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted, as petitioner admits that AAA does not possess the type of vehicle that is required by the bids specifications; AAA has filed six previous petitions, all of which argue that he should be awarded a sixteen-passenger vehicle route even though he does not own a sixteen-passenger yellow bus; petitioner owns only white minivans; petitioner is not legally capable of performing the service required by the bid specifications; petitioner's position that he should not be required to own or lease a sixteen-passenger yellow bus because it is an unnecessary extravagance is without merit; the Commission's bid specifications were approved by the Department of Education through the Passaic County Executive Superintendent's Office and are both appropriate and legal; a yellow bus is clearly needed to make other drivers aware to use caution around the vehicle; AAA's appeal is barred by the doctrine of res judicata; the actions of the pro se petitioner do not at this time rise to the level of being in bad faith and solely for the purpose of harassment, delay or malicious injury as required by N.J.S.A. 2A:15-59.1(b); and petitioner was cautioned regarding the filing of another petition in this same issue. The ALJ granted the respondent's order to dismiss, but denied the Commission's request for attorney fees and costs, as well as its request to bar petitioner from filing repetitive petitions.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the Commission is entitled to summary decision. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition was dismissed. In so doing, the Commissioner emphasized that the petitioner is not legally capable of performing the services required by the bid specifications for Route 8213 because AAA does not own or operate the required vehicle.

| V. | : | DECISION |
| PASSAIC COUNTY EDUCATIONAL SERVICES COMMISSION, | : | |
| RESPONDENT. | : | |

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner, AAA School, LLC, and the Passaic County Educational Services Commission's (Commission) reply thereto.[1] This case is one of a series of appeals filed by the petitioner, in which it is alleged that the Commission improperly denied it a contract after it submitted bids for transportation services that require a sixteen-passenger yellow school bus. The specifics of this case involve the March 2015 bid for Route 8213.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that the Commission is entitled to summary decision for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision. The objections raised in the exceptions filed by the petitioner mimic the arguments previously raised before the ALJ and were clearly taken into account by him in determining that the Commission was entitled to summary decision. Notably the petitioner admits that he does not own a sixteen-passenger yellow school bus, which was expressly required in the bid specifications for Route 8213.

[1] The petitioner also submitted a reply to the Commission's reply exceptions. N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 makes no provision for replies to reply exceptions; therefore, the petitioner's submission was not considered.

Moreover, the Commissioner is not persuaded that the bid specification is unlawful simply because the petitioner believes the Commission's expressed bid requirement of a sixteen-passenger yellow school bus is illogical and a "ridiculous extravagance." (Petitioner's Exceptions at 9) There is simply no doubt that the petitioner is not legally capable of performing the services required by the bid specifications for Route 8213 because AAA School does not own or operatethe requisite vehicle. For this reason, the petitioner cannot be awarded the transportation route.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.[2]

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

[2] The Commissioner is also in accord with the ALJ's determination that the Commission is not entitled to attorney's fees and costs pursuant to the Frivolous Litigation Statute, N.J.S.A. 2A:15-59.1. Neither the Commissioner nor the OAL have the authority to award the monetary judgment sought by the Commission. The Commissioner does, however, reiterate the sentiment of the ALJ in that the petitioner should be mindful going forward that a bid specification that requires the use of a sixteen-passenger yellow school bus is not unlawful on its face, and there is no requirement that the Commission's transportation bids must be altered to specifically fit the vehicles possessed by the petitioner.

[3] Pursuant to P.L. 2008, c. 36 (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.1), Commissioner decisions are appealable to the Superior Court, Appellate Division.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, AAA School, LLC (AAA/petitioner), is a closely held corporation that provides transportation services to public schools and other related and unrelated services. The Petition alleges that AAA was improperly denied contracts by the Passaic County Educational Services Commission (the Commission or PCESC) after submitting a March 2015 bid specification for Route 8213, which requires a sixteen-passenger yellow school bus. The Commission asserts that AAA's claims fail to state a claim upon which relief may be granted and that pursuant to the doctrine of res judicata, petitioner is barred from pursing this matter as similar cases which the petitioner filed were dismissed and thus the Petition of Appeal should be dismissed.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

AAA filed its Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education (the Commissioner) on May 25, 2015. The Commission filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer on June 15, 2015, and the contested case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on June 16, 2015. A telephone prehearing conference was held on July 22, 2015, at which time the parties were advised to file all motions by December 31, 2015, and a hearing was scheduled for February 1, 2016. Petitioner filed its opposition with the Commissioner on June 15, 2015, and with the undersigned on December 30, 2015.

On December 2, 2015, petitioner filed an application to consolidate this matter with the remanded case pending before Administrative Law Judge JoAnn Candido under OAL Dkt. No. EDU 09967-15, which is currently scheduled for hearing on May 11, 2016. Counsel for the Commission objected to the consolidation by motion, dated December 14, 2015. In light of the action taken with reference to the motion to dismiss, I issued a letter order dated January 4, 2016, denying the consolidation of this matter with the remanded matter presently pending before Judge Candido.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The salient FACTS are uncontroverted and I FIND:

The Petition filed by AAA asserts that it was the unsuccessful bidder at a bid opening in March 2015. AAA contends in its Petition that the PCESC's bid specification for this route, which requires a sixteen-passenger yellow school bus with a wheelchair lift, favors the "big yellow bus companies." Petitioner also relies heavily on the Commissioner's remand of Judge Candido's decision on which I take no position.

PCESC is an educational services commission as defined by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-51 and was established for the purpose of carrying out programs and providing educational and administrative services to public school districts. One of the services that PCESC provides to local school districts is coordinating transportation for school districts' regular and special education students.

PCESC sends a Coordinated Student Transportation Information Sheet (Information Sheet) to each school district to be completed for each student in need of transportation. The Information Sheet expressly states that if the school district does not indicate the type of vehicle required, a sixteen-passenger yellow school bus will be provided. (See Coordinated Student Transportation Information Sheet for Route 8213.)

PCESC's transportation route bid specification for the route at issue in this case (Route 8213) was formulated based upon the Information Sheet completed by the district serviced, Prospect Park. The March 2015 transportation bid specifications were submitted and approved by the Passaic County Executive County Superintendent of Schools.

In March 2015, the District advertised for public bids for transportation services for various bus routes, including Route 8213. The route description for Route 8213 advertised by the District contained requirements as to the vehicle necessary to service the bus route and other special instructions regarding this route. For example, the route description for Route 8213 notes the requirement for a "Minimum Vehicle Capacity 16 Passenger Yellow School Bus (two-way radios required on vehicle). Air conditioned – Wheelchair Lift Bus with additional special instructions that an aide was also required."

Petitioner submitted a bid on Route 8213 and requested that AAA be permitted to use his "big van wheelchair vehicle white not yellow." It was determined that petitioner's bid was nonconforming, and PCESC rejected AAA's bid. There can be no dispute that the petitioner's bid was, in fact, nonconforming even though petitioner argues in its papers that the district's requirements are an "extravagance." The petitioner has failed to present evidence sufficient to counsel me to set aside the bid specifications and award the bid to AAA.

Prior to this Petition, AAA filed two complaints in the New Jersey Superior Court, Passaic County (PAS-L-4303-12 and PAS-L-4651-13), in which it disputed the legality of the bid specifications and the award of a contract to another bidder. Via order dated December 21, 2012, the Superior Court transferred the matter to the Commissioner, noting its lack of jurisdiction[1] and the other complaint was dismissed with prejudice on February 14, 2014.

The matter currently before this tribunal is the sixth Petition petitioner has filed on behalf of AAA with the Department of Education asserting the same allegations and claim, i.e., that he was the lowest bidder for transportation route(s) he admittedly cannot perform because he does not possess the equipment required by the bid specifications. See AAA Sch. v. PCESC, EDU 06429-14, Initial Decision (June 18, 2014), http://nj.law.rutgers.edu/collections/oal; EDU 07495-14 Initial Decision (July 9, 2014), http://nj.law.rutgers.edu/collections/oal; EDU 08063-14; and EDU 13493-14. In each of these cases, the filed Petition was dismissed. The case handled by Judge Candido was held on a Motion for Summary Decision and was then remanded to Judge Candido by the Commissioner and is presently awaiting a hearing to be held on May 11, 2016.

To the point of this Petition, it is clearly undisputed that the petitioner does not own a sixteen-passenger yellow school bus. Petitioner only owns a white minivan and the petitioner attacks the bid requirements as merely an extravagance which should be set aside. Petitioner further claims that the requirement of a sixteen-passenger yellow bus is "illogic."

[1] The submissions of the parties leave is unclear what path the 2012 complaint took upon transfer to the Commissioner.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Commission's motion is filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g), which permits the filing of a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer. Since the motion was accompanied by documents and certification in addition to the pleadings, I have converted the Commission's application to a motion for summary decision under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5.

This rule provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." The regulation mirrors R. 4:46-2(c), which provides that "[t]he judgment or order sought shall be rendered forthwith if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law."

Under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10, the Commissioner of Education may dismiss a petition on the grounds that the petitioner has not advanced a cause of action, even if the petitioner's factual allegations are accepted as true, or for lack of jurisdiction, failure to prosecute or other good reason. Since evaluating a motion to dismiss is a quasi-judicial responsibility, State agencies may look to judicial principals for guidance. See City of Hackensack v. Winner, 82 N.J. 1, 29 (1980); see also N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3.

A determination whether a genuine issue of material fact exists that precludes summary decision requires the judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. Our courts have long held that "if the opposing party . . . offers . . . only facts which are immaterial or of an insubstantial nature, a mere scintilla, 'fanciful frivolous, gauzy or merely suspicious,' he will not be heard to complain if the court grants summary judgment." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 529 (1995) (quoting Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co., 17 N.J. 67, 75 (1954)). I CONCLUDE that this matter is ripe for summary decision, and that the Commission's motion should be granted.

Petitioner's Failure to State a Claim and Res Judicata

A review of the Petition filed by AAA clearly shows that it fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. Petitioner admits that he/it does not possess a vehicle that is required by the bid specifications. Petitioner takes issue with PCESC's decision to award the contract for Route 8213 to a vendor whose bid was higher than his who was capable of performing the services required by the bid specifications. Petitioner insists that he was the lowest bidder even though his bid failed to conform to the bid specification requiring a sixteen-passenger yellow school bus. This fact cannot be disputed by the Petition as by petitioner's own admission, he/it does not own a sixteen-passenger yellow school bus. Petitioner also raises issues of the accepted bid of being noncompliant, yet fails to address how that makes his bid compliant with the bid qualifications.

It is further without dispute that petitioner has filed six previous petitions, all of which opine that he should be awarded a sixteen-passenger vehicle route even though he does not own a sixteen-passenger yellow bus. It is undisputed that the petitioner only owns a white minivan. Petitioner advocates that the Commissioner should award him this route and, in addition, award him money damages in order to compensate him for the work that he states he had lost. It seems clear to this body that since this petitioner is not qualified, he/it cannot be awarded this route. "Each bidder shall be compelled to conform to every substantial condition imposed upon other bidders." N.J.A.C. 6A:27-9.10(a)(2)(c) (emphasis added.)

Petitioner is not legally capable of performing the services required by the bid specifications. The school bus route in question requires a sixteen-passenger yellow school bus, which petitioner clearly does not own or lease. It is the petitioner's position that he should not be required to own or lease such a school bus because such a requirement is an extravagance.

Furthermore, this Petition is barred by the doctrine of res judicata. Petitioner has, on numerous occasions, repeatedly filed petitions on the same issue, for different bus routes. Respondent has taken the same position in each case, i.e., that petitioner is not qualified to be awarded each route as he does not own/lease the necessary sixteen-passenger yellow bus required by the bid specifications. Such bid specifications are approved by the Department of Education through the Passaic County Executive Superintendent's Office.

I FIND that these bid specifications are both appropriate and legal. Accordingly, in order to be awarded a route, the petitioner's bid must conform to the bid specifications. For purposes of public awareness, a yellow bus is clearly needed to make other drivers aware to use caution around the vehicle. The public is well aware that when seeing a yellow school bus, they should drive with caution as the vehicle is likely dropping off or picking up young school children. Instead the petitioner, in this case, is arguing to have the bid specifications be altered to fit the type of vehicle he possesses. Petitioner's position has previously been presented to the OAL, adjudicated and rejected in prior cases. In AAA/El Eldesouky v. Passaic County Educational Services Commission, EDU 8063-14, Commissioner Decision No. 489-14 (December 18, 2014), http://nj.gov/education/legal/commissioner/2014/, the Commissioner found "Petitioner could not be awarded the contracts in question because he does not own and operate the sixteen-passenger yellow school buses which the contracts called for in their specification." The issue in that case and in this case should begin and end there.

Barring Petitioner From Filing Repetitive Petitions and Request For Attorney's Fees and Costs

With a more detailed review of all the petitions and complaints filed by this petitioner, I am unable to grant the respondent's request to bar the petitioner from filing additional petitions. In addition, I am unable to grant the respondent's request for attorney's fees and cost as the cites presented by the respondent are applicable to Superior Court matters. I FIND that the actions of the pro se petitioner do not, at this point and time, rise to the level of being in bad faith and solely for the purpose of harassment, delay or malicious injury as required by N.J.S.A. 2A:15-59.1(b). I further

FIND that the petitioner neither knew nor should have known that the complaint was without reasonable basis in law or equity and could not be supported by a good faith argument for an extension, modification, or reversal of existing law. N.J.S.A. 2A:15-59.1(b)(2). I am giving some amount of deference to the fact that the petitioner, here, is not an attorney and is representing himself; however, I would advise the petitioner to seek legal counsel prior to filing another petition on this issue. I would further caution this petitioner regarding the filing of another petition in this same issue.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I ORDER that the respondent's motion to dismiss is hereby GRANTED and the claims raised by the Petition are DISMISSED. I further ORDER that the respondent's request to bar the petitioner from filing repetitive petitions and reasonable attorney's fees and costs are hereby DENIED.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16, as amended by P.L. 2012, c. 26 ("TEACHNJ"), the tenure charges brought by the Camden City School District (the "District" or "Petitioner") against Daniel Ojomoh ("Ojomoh" or "Respondent") were referred to me by the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes for a hearing and decision on October 6, 2015. I conducted hearings at the Board's offices in Camden, New Jersey on December 17, 18, and 21, 2015.

At the hearing, the parties argued orally, examined and cross-examined witnesses, and introduced documentary evidence into the record. Testimony was received from David Corvi, Principal of Forest Hill School, Dr. Jennifer Foley-

Hindman, currently Chief School Administrator, Greenwich Township School District, Charles Dawson, Vice President of Forest Hill School, Jerry L. Brown, Vice Principal of Camden High School, Nick Pillsbury, Implementation Manager for the Office of Evaluation, Robert Atwell, Vice Principal of Yorkshire Elementary School, Sonja Cuspid-Roane, former Special Needs Teacher at Forest Hill School, and Daniel Ojomoh. Post-hearing briefs were received on February 8, 2016, whereupon the record was closed.

THE CHARGES

The Sworn Tenure Charges brought against Daniel Ojomoh on August 21, 2015, are in pertinent part as follows:

1. The Camden City Board of Education entered into a Consent Order with the Commissioner of Education in March of 2013 to allow for full State intervention to begin on the last day of the school year in June 2013. The State of New Jersey began operating the Camden City School District ("the District") on June 26, 2013. In accordance with the newly enacted "Teacher Effectiveness and Accountability for the Children of New Jersey Act" ("TEACHNJ"), one of the crucial initiatives upon state intervention was a thorough assessment of all teachers within the District.

2. Daniel Ojomoh has been found to be an inefficient teacher pursuant to the process outlined in the TEACHNJ legislation. He lacks the ability to effectively perform his daily responsibilities. This is simply not acceptable in a State-operated school district which is trying to effectuate important reforms, including the elimination of school teachers who fail or refuse to grasp the concept of being an efficient and effective teacher. Daniel Ojomoh must be dismissed from his employment.

Year 1: The 2013-2014 Evaluation Process and Requirements

Practical Portion

29. Upon information and belief, each observation lasted for the required twenty minutes and Daniel Ojomoh was evaluated by more than one evaluator during the 2014-2015 academic year.

30. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.4(b) requires that each evaluator conduct a post-observation conference not more than fifteen (15) working days after the observation.

32. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.4(c) requires that at least one observation in an academic year be announced and preceded by a pre-observation conference.

33. In the 2014-2014 academic year, Daniel Ojomoh participated in a pre-conference which, upon information and belief, was in compliance with the timing requirements set forth in the regulations.

34. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.4(c) also requires that at least one teacher observation occur during the first half of the school year and that at least one occur during the second half of the school year.

40. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2.4(f), a summative conference must be held and both the teacher and supervisor must sign the summative evaluation within five (5) days of such conference. Conclusion: Inefficiency

44. Due to the fact that Daniel Ojomoh received an ineffective rating for the 2013-2014 academic year and an Ineffective rating for the 2014-2015 academic year, the Superintendent is required to bring tenure charges for inefficiency under the TEACHNJ statute.

45. As such, the District is pursuing tenure charges against Daniel Ojomoh for inefficiency.

BACKGROUND

The Respondent, Daniel Ojomoh, has a Bachelor's Degree in Business Administration from Temple University and a Master's Degree in Finance from St. Joseph's University. He also has a Master's Degree in Education from Cheney University. He initially served as a substitute teacher in the Camden City School System between 1991 and 1994. Mr. Ojomoh was hired by the District as a computer teacher in 1995. He is certified in elementary education as well as business education K-12.

When Mr. Ojomoh was initially hired, he was assigned as a computer teacher at the Camden Middle School. Mr. Ojomoh was transferred to several different schools until the 2013-2014 school year when he was assigned to Camden High School. Mr. Ojomoh was assigned to teach Web Page Creation, Personal Financial Literacy and Office Systems.

In order to implement the TEACHNJ law, the District has adopted the Charlotte Danielson Framework for use to evaluate teacher practices and professional development. The Danielson Framework has four domains: (1) planning and preparation; (2) classroom environment; (3) instruction and (4) professional responsibilities. Each domain includes several components.

The Danielson Framework is used to evaluate teachers by collecting "evidence," that is, collecting facts from what is seen or heard from teachers or students in a classroom. The evidence that is collected is then aligned to the components within the four domains. Evaluators from the District, after aligning the evidence to the components, then score the components on a scale of one through four, one being ineffective and four being highly effective.

In addition to the scoring the components within the four domains of the Danielson Framework, teachers are also evaluated and measured for "student growth objectives" ("SGOs"), where baseline or diagnostic data on students are taken in September and then growth marks or goals are set that students need to achieve before the end of the school year. For example, in core subject areas, standardized test assessments are used to measure whether there has been growth in student academic performance. The goals are set by the teachers with input from administrators and finalized between the teacher and the administrator. Under the Danielson Framework, in the second year, 20 percent of a teacher's overall evaluation score is based on SGOs and the remaining 80 percent based on classroom observation. In special subject areas, such as computer classes, the teacher establishes the SGO.

The District uses an online platform called TeachScape as a portal to implement the Danielson Framework. TeachScape is used by approximately one hundred and ninety (190) other school districts in New Jersey. Teachers can access TeachScape on laptop computers provided by the District, their home computer or smart phone through an account, login and password assigned to each teacher. Information such as records of classroom observations, SGO scoring, information or documents provided by teachers to support their instruction can be uploaded into TeachScape by teachers and administrators.

During the 2012-2013, 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 school years, Mr. Ojomoh received training in TEACHNJ, the Danielson Framework and TeachScape. Mr. Ojomoh also recalled that he attended optional workshops presented by the NJEA to address TEACHNJ and the new evaluation process. Mr. Ojomoh described these workshops as "general". Mr. Ojomoh acknowledged, "[p]ersonally, I didn't understand it." He believed that the Danielson model was supposed to help teachers improve their skills rather than being used as a tool to terminate teachers.

During the 2013-2014 school year, Mr. Ojomoh taught computer and business classes at Camden High School. Jerry Brown, a Vice Principal at Camden High School, conducted a short or twenty minute observation of Mr. Ojomoh on November 12, 2013. Mr. Brown did not recall conducting a pre-observation conference. Mr. Brown found that Mr. Ojomoh did not "try to ascertain varied ability levels among students in the class." Mr. Brown observed that the "quality of interactions between teacher and students, or among students, is uneven, with occasional disrespect or insensitivity." Mr. Ojomoh submitted a Post-Observation Reflection Form that addressed his lesson plans and objectives as well as pointing out "inadequacies" in his classroom. These included "lack of heat, lack of adequate furnitures (sic), use of laptops coupled with student logins problems." After receiving this, Mr. Brown conducted but could not specifically recall a post-observation conference.

Robert Atwell worked as a Vice Principal at Camden High School. After scheduling a pre-conference and observation with Mr. Ojomoh that needed to be rescheduled as a result of a weather-related delayed opening, Mr. Atwell conducted a short observation of Mr. Ojomoh on December 10, 2013. Mr. Atwell does not specifically recall conducting a pre-conference with Mr. Ojomoh, but Mr.

Ojomoh submitted a pre-observation form on December 10. Further, a December 9, 2010 email from Mr. Atwell to Mr. Ojomoh rescheduled the pre-observation conference to 7:30 a.m., the next day and advised that he would conduct the observation on December 10 during second period. Atwell rated Mr. Ojomoh as partially effective at "managing student behavior" and recommended, that he "[d]evelop better techniques and strategies to manage behavior." According to Mr. Ojomoh, Atwell returned to classroom at a later date for an informal observation. At that time, Mr. Atwell told him that he was improving.

On February 19, 2014, Dr. Jennifer Foley, who at the time worked for the District as a coach evaluator within the Office of Evaluation, conducted a short evaluation of Mr. Ojomoh. Based upon her twenty minute plus unannounced observation, Dr. Foley noted that the observation occurred "during the opening days of a new semester" and, as a result, Mr. Ojomoh "had limited time to get to know his students." She further observed that the lesson plan, had it been followed, would have provided Mr. Ojomoh with "ample opportunity to get to know his students." Dr. Foley addressed the classroom environment finding "numerous examples of disrespect" that were ignored by Mr. Ojomoh. Dr. Foley observed that instructional goals were set so low that students received a message that they were not capable of more and stopped making an effort.

Dr. Foley made other observations and urged Mr. Ojomoh to establish "clear procedures for work within the classroom and then follow through with them." Dr. Foley documented several examples and noted that "[s]tudents were in control of the classroom and demonstrated that regularly by ignoring Mr. Ojomoh's limited attempts at control."

Documentation of a post-observation conference that occurred on February 24, 2014 included a suggestion by Foley that Mr. Ojomoh "speak with your building principal about being assigned a mentor to aid you in your development. Observe other teachers and reflect upon what they do to establish control in their classrooms." Dr. Foley rated Mr. Ojomoh as ineffective. Foley also recommended that Mr. Ojomoh watch TeachScape videos addressing components, 1E, Designing Coherent Instruction, 2A, creating an environment of respect and rapport and 2C, managing classroom procedures.

Mr. Ojomoh explained that the day Dr. Foley conducted an observation was not a typical day. It was very cold and the High School was conducting a "round up" where security officers round up students from hallways, the campus or the streets and bring students into classrooms. According to Ojomoh, this caused a lot of commotion. Mr. Ojomoh explained that students were dragged in one at a time over the course of ten or fifteen minutes. Mr. Ojomoh observed that it took these students, who did not want to be in the classroom, a long time to settle down. Further, the class was not one that Mr. Ojomoh had been teaching on a regular basis. The class had been assigned to another teacher. Mr. Ojomoh acknowledged that the situation was so chaotic that day he considered calling security.

Mr. Ojomoh recalled that at the post-observation conference, Dr. Foley told him that she would speak to the principal about providing him with some workshops on how to handle this type of situation. According to Mr. Ojomoh, the principal never offered him the opportunity to attend any such workshops. Mr. Ojomoh did not take any action to secure a mentor. The record does not reflect that Ojomoh watched the recommended TeachScape videos.

On June 23, 2014, Camden High School Principal James Thompson completed Mr. Ojomoh's annual evaluation. As a result of that evaluation, Mr. Ojomoh received an overall score of 1.79, ineffective. This score was based on a score of 2.6 for student growth objectives, which received a weight of .15 and a score of 1.65 for teacher practice which received a weight of .85.[1] This overall evaluation was based upon the three short (minimum twenty minutes) observations by Mr. Brown, Mr. Atwell and Dr. Foley. Based upon these observations, Mr. Thompson listed three areas for growth:

- Teacher needs to improve classroom management
- Teacher needs to improve engaging students
- Teacher must become more familiar with the Danielson rubric

For the 2014-2015 school year, Mr. Ojomoh was transferred to the Forest Hill School. According to David Corvi, Principal at Forest Hill, there were weekly staff meetings that included training sessions on best practices for instruction. Those sessions included information about ACHIEVE NJ, TeachScape and the Danielson Framework. Mr. Corvi also indicated that one of the three professional development days prior to the start of the school year addressed the Danielson model, AchieveNJ, SGOs and TeachScape. The District also offered a Summer Teacher Academy before the beginning of the 2014-2015 school year that included optional training on the Danielson Model, AchieveNJ and SGOs. Mr. Ojomoh acknowledged that he attended this training. The NJEA also offered similar training and Mr. Ojomoh acknowledged attending that training.

Based upon his summative rating of ineffective for the 2013-2014 school year, Mr. Ojomoh was placed on a corrective action plan (CAP) for the 2014-2015 school year. Mr. Ojomoh met with Principal Corvi on September 15, 2014 to review the CAP. According to Mr. Ojomoh, he was given approximately five minutes to review the CAP and asked to sign it. Mr. Ojomoh explained that he was not given an opportunity to review the document prior to his meeting with Mr. Corvi and was not asked for his input. Mr. Corvi estimated that Mr. Ojomoh had approximately five minutes to review the document before their meeting began. The CAP was developed by Vice Principal Charles Dawson and approved by Principal Corvi.

The CAP addressed 1E – Designing Coherent Instruction by requiring Mr. Ojomoh to submit weekly lesson plans which required weekly approval, feedback and revisions by Mr. Corvi and/or Mr. Dawson. Mr. Ojomoh's Measure of Success required a score of 4/5 on each lesson plan rubric throughout the school year.

The "Action Step for Supervisor" block of the CAP addressing "Managing Classroom Procedures incorrectly references Mr. Turner, a physical education teacher who was also placed on a CAP. Specifically, the "Action Steps for Supervisor" provides:

> Mr. Corvi and/or Mr. Dawson will check equipment inventory submitted by Mr. Turner, as well as check that the equipment closet is organized according to inventory.
> Similarly, the "Measure of Success" for that same component provides:
>
> - Mr. Turner will submit an itemized inventory of all Physical Education equipment to Mr. Corvi and Mr. Dawson by October 3, 2014.
>
> - Mr. Corvi and/or Mr. Dawson will check that the closet in the gymnasium has been organized according to the inventory.
> - Mr. Turner will score at least a 3 – effective during his three observations in the component 2C – Managing Classroom Procedures.

Likewise, component 3C – Engaging Students in Learning also references Mr. Turner under "Action Steps for Supervisors," providing that "Mr. Corvi and/or Mr. Dawson will check Mr. Turner's lesson plans for the times he will stop and the questions he will pose to students." Mr. Corvi characterized these errors as typographical errors. Neither Mr. Corvi, Mr. Dawson, nor Mr. Ojomoh appeared to notice these errors. According to Mr. Corvi, these typographical errors "would not have had any major impact" on the implementation of Mr. Ojomoh's CAP.

"Action Steps for Supervisor" also provided that Mr. Corvi or Mr. Dawson "will conduct weekly walk-throughs and coaching conferences to observe that Mr. Ojomoh is stopping 3-4 times throughout instruction and implementing these strategies."

teacher were not productively engaged." Mr. Corvi conducted a post-observation conference with Mr. Ojomoh on November 13, 2014.

Mr. Ojomoh submitted a Post-Observation Conference Form acknowledging that the lesson was not successful but asserting that classroom procedures are in place because "students line up before they enter the lab and sit on assigned seats." Mr. Ojomoh viewed the login issues as an impediment to delivering the lesson effectively.

Mr. Dawson conducted a second observation of Mr. Ojomoh on February 5, 2015. Mr. Dawson's ratings and comments about Mr. Ojomoh's control of the classroom mirror those of his first observation. Specifically, Dawson observes that students are talking to each other throughout the class requiring Mr. Ojomoh to repeat instructions over and over. Students are not responding to Mr. Ojomoh's directives. Mr. Dawson identified the following areas of growth:

> 2c – The transitions are disorganized with much loss of instructional time. Procedures for transitions, and a classroom routine has not been clearly established. There do not appear to be any established classroom routines or procedures. A considerable amount of time is spent off task because of unclear procedures.

Mr. Dawson gave Mr. Ojomoh the following recommendations:

> As the instructional leader, you must establish and maintain full control of your classroom. The first routine or procedure that must be implemented is an effective entry routine. Your entry routine describes how you expect students to enter the classroom and how the classroom session begins. Secondly, institute daily "Do Now" activities should be written on the white board or placed on student's desks for them to do as soon as they enter the classroom. In order to increase communication between with all of your students, they should be fully aware of the objective being taught each day. Post It means displaying your lesson plan objective in the same location every day so that anyone that walks into the classroom can identify your purpose. This technique will help students pursue the objective more intentionally and will help peers give you useful feedback on whether you are doing what you set out to do.

Mr. Dawson recalled that this observation was conducted shortly after Mr. Ojomoh returned from a bereavement leave in Africa where one of his wife's relatives had passed away.

Mr. Corvi conducted an additional observation of Mr. Ojomoh on February 24, 2015. During that observation, Corvi observed students playing computer games for approximately 16 minutes and noted that the "materials do not meet instructional outcomes." Based upon this observation, Mr. Corvi rated Mr. Ojomoh ineffective in Component 1E, Designing Coherent Instruction.

Mr. Corvi rated Mr. Ojomoh partially effective for Component 2A – Creating an Environment of Respect and Rapport. Corvi noted that Mr. Ojomoh attempted to "respond to disrespectful behavior among students with uneven results." Corvi also rated Mr. Ojomoh partially effective on Component 2B – Establishing a Culture of Learning, noting that Mr. Ojomoh's "primary concern appears to be complete the task at hand" and that Mr. Ojomoh's "energy for the work is neutral, neither indicating a high level of commitment nor ascribing need to do the work to external focus." Mr. Corvi rated Mr. Ojomoh ineffective on Component 2C – Managing Classroom procedures, noting that "there do not appear to be any established procedures for distributing and collecting materials" and as a result, "a considerable amount of time is spent off task." Mr. Corvi also observed that "[s]tudents not working with the teacher are not productively engaged." Mr. Corvi rated Mr. Ojomoh partially effective for Component 2D – Managing Student Behavior. Mr. Corvi noted that Mr. Ojomoh "attempted to keep track of student behavior, but with no apparent system" and that he attempted to "maintain order in the classroom" by referring to classroom rules, "but with uneven success." Addressing Component 2E – Organizing Physical Space, Mr. Corvi rated Mr. Ojomoh partially effective, noting that the physical environment neither "enhance[d]" nor impeded learning.

Turning to the instructional component, Mr. Corvi rated Mr. Ojomoh ineffective at communicating with students observing that "at no time during the lesson does the teacher convey to students what they will be learning." Mr. Corvi also rated Mr. Ojomoh ineffective on Component 3C – Engaging Students in Learning, observing that "[f]ew students are intellectually engaged in the lesson" and "[l]earning tasks/activities and materials require only recall or have a single correct response or method."

After this observation, Mr. Corvi again identified as areas of growth, Components 1E – Designing Coherent Instruction, 2C – Managing Classroom Procedures and 3A – Communicating with Students. Mr. Corvi provided the following recommendations:

> Map out all your routines down to the smallest student action. How do students enter the classroom; how do they sit down; how do they log in; what should the classroom sound like, etc. Provide students very clear what to do directions and implant (sic) 100% strategy, start with narrative the positive.

Mr. Ojomoh completed a Pre-Observation Conference Form for his February 24, 2015 observation on February 27, 2015.

Mr. Corvi also recounted instances of "coaching in the moment" where he stopped by Mr. Ojomoh's classroom and stepped in and took over the classroom to get students in their seats and settled. Mr. Corvi explained that this would model an approach to controlling the classroom for Mr. Ojomoh.

Dawson walked through the school two or three times daily and often peeked in to make sure everything was okay in Mr. Ojomoh's classroom. According to Mr. Dawson, if necessary, an informal conference to address issues or provide assistance. Mr. Dawson recalled that Mr. Ojomoh sent students to the administrative office to request his presence in the classroom when Mr. Ojomoh had trouble controlling the class. Mr. Dawson recalled that students were unruly when they came into Mr. Ojomoh's classroom, so he suggested not allowing them to enter the classroom until they were lined up and quiet. Dawson also suggested that Mr. Ojomoh assign seats or computers so that students cannot sit where they are most comfortable. Mr. Dawson explained that it reduced talking in class. Mr. Dawson also addressed making sure that the level of instruction is appropriate and the lesson is sufficiently rigorous. Mr. Dawson testified that he did review Mr. Ojomoh's lesson plans on a bi-weekly basis and was in his classroom for walk-throughs on a weekly basis. Dawson acknowledged that they did not have weekly meetings as provided in the CAP.

Because Mr. Ojomoh was on a CAP, he received a mid-year evaluation. This mid-year evaluation was conducted at the same time as the post-observation conference after his fourth observation conducted by Mr. Corvi. That review reflected that Mr. Ojomoh did not meet the goals set out for him in the CAP and concluded:

> At this time, Mr. Ojomoh has not met the criteria set forth in this Corrective Action Plan. Additionally, he has been receptive to the recommendations made by Mr. Dawson, however, successful and effective implementation of these strategies has not yet occurred. A Summative Evaluation Meeting for Mr. Ojomoh will be scheduled between May-June of 2015 to assess whether these goals were reached. At this meeting, next steps will be discussed and decided, which may include any one of the following: Removal from Improvement Plan with Support, or Recommendation for Termination from Position.

Mr. Corvi explained that at this point, "it might be that there was some kind of effort involved" ... [b]ut overall, Mr. Ojomoh's ability to instruct and deliver instruction and manage the classroom were just unsuccessful."

Although no formal observations occurred between that meeting on February 27, 2015 and his final summative evaluation, Mr. Dawson continued to visit his classroom and walk-throughs which generally lasted five to ten minutes. They discussed and Mr. Ojomoh was receptive to suggestions regarding classroom management, classroom routine and classroom procedures.

Mr. Ojomoh received a summative evaluation for the 2014-2015 school year on June 3, 2015. Mr. Ojomoh's summative rating was 1.83 or ineffective. This rating was based on an average score for Domain 1 – Planning and Preparation, of 1.75, an average score for Domain 2 – Classroom Environment of 1.53; an average rating for Domain 3 – Instruction 1.5; an average rating for Domain 4 – Professional Responsibility of 2; and a score of 2.5 for Student Growth Objectives.

Mr. Ojomoh recalled that when Mr. Corvi gave him his summative evaluation, he learned that tenure charges would follow.

DISCUSSION

The District asserts that Respondent is required to prove that one of the four factors in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2(a) apply and, if so, he must also establish that this factor "materially impacted the outcome of the evaluation." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2(b). Further, the District emphasizes that the TEACHNJ Act provides explicitly that "the evaluator's determination as to the quality of an employee's classroom performance shall not be subject to an arbitrator's review."

The District argues that Respondent is required to show that "the employee's evaluation failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process." (emphasis added). Acknowledging that Respondent may point to alleged omissions by the District in implementing the TEACHNJ Act procedures, the District asserts that none of those alleged omissions are "substantial." To the contrary, the District contends that the record establishes its substantial efforts to comply with the new statutory and regulatory requirements for removal of teachers for inefficiency. The District maintains that even if Respondent is able to demonstrate the alleged problems in his evaluation process, either individually or collectively, he cannot demonstrate either that they amount to substantial failure by the District to adhere to the evaluation process or that they materially affect the outcome of his evaluation.

The District emphasizes that although Respondent received poor scores in other areas, observations from seven different observers over a two year period, all identified the same fundamental problem, that Respondent was unable to control the classroom. Further, the District points out that despite having two entirely different sets of evaluators in two different school years at two different schools, Respondent received "pretty close overall scores."

The District contends that Respondent cannot show that it did not try to help him overcome his classroom management problems and he was simply unable to do so despite the support provided by the District.

The District emphasizes its substantial efforts during the 2013-2014 school year to provide training to evaluators as well as training to teachers regarding TEACHNJ, the Danielson Framework and TeachScape. That training continued into the 2014-2015 school year with the Danielson Framework discussed repeatedly in weekly staff meetings. Further, the District points out that it provided full-day non-mandatory education and training session for teachers and additionally, teachers may review training videos provided on TeachScape. The District points out that Respondent took advantage of seminars on TEACHNJ that were conducted by the NJEA.

The District points to Mr. Corvi's testimony that during the 2014-2015 school year, he informally met with Respondent and engaged in "coaching in the moment" with him by taking over the classroom to provide Respondent with a model to follow in controlling classroom behavior. The District notes that Mr. Corvi also went to Respondent's classroom on several occasions to assist with noisy students and provide visible support for him in the classroom.

Further, the District points to Mr. Dawson's testimony that he went to Respondent's classroom to "just see if he needed support." Mr. Dawson also noted that on occasion, Respondent would send a student to him and Dawson would go to Respondent's classroom to find out what the problem was. The District points out that these informal meetings occurred frequently because Mr. Dawson walked through the school two or three times each day. The District points out Mr. Dawson also provided specific tips to Respondent.

The District argues that the record is devoid of evidence of alleged failure to comply with the TEACHNJ evaluation requirements that would have made any difference in Respondent's evaluation over a two-year period. The District acknowledges that pre-observation conferences were missed but notes that Respondent did not demonstrate how the failure to conduct such a conference rose to the level of a "substantial" failure to adhere to the evaluation process or how it "materially" impacted the results of Respondent's evaluation.

Addressing other alleged failures, the District points to the allegation that Thompson did not discuss Respondent's summative evaluation with him in 2013-2014 when it was given in June of 2014. However, the District points out that Respondent signed the acknowledgment for the summative evaluations in which he certified that Thompson discussed it with him.

Addressing that Respondent's CAP for the 2014-2015 school year mistakenly referred to "Mr. Turner" rather than Respondent, the District maintains that this error cannot be considered a "substantial" failure to adhere to the evaluation process and cannot be said to have a "material" impact on the evaluation. Rather, the District considers it to be a "mere proofreading error" that was overlooked by everyone, including Respondent who also signed off on the CAP.

The District asserts that its alleged failure to review Respondent's lesson plans also was neither a "substantial" failure to adhere to the evaluation process or "materially" affected the outcome the final score of "ineffective." Addressing the alleged failure to conduct weekly coaching sessions, the District points to the substantial support, backup and coaching provided by both Mr. Corvi and Mr. Dawson throughout the 2014-2015 school year. The District maintains that given this extensive support, backup and coaching, the record does not support an alleged substantial failure to adhere to the evaluation process based upon an alleged failure to conduct weekly coaching sessions.

Finally, the District asserts that there is no meaningful consequence arising from the fact that Respondent's mid-year review in the 2014-2015 school year occurred on February 27 instead of February 15, 2015, the date set by TEACHNJ. The District emphasizes that there is no evidence that it would have made any material difference in the outcome if the mid-year review occurred two weeks earlier. The District points out that by February of 2015, Respondent had gone through seven observations with the attendant post-observation conferences, a summative evaluation conference in June of 2014, a CAP conference in September of 2014, and ongoing coaching and counseling provided by Mr. Corvi and Mr. Dawson throughout the 2014-2015 school year. The District maintains that despite extensive interactions with administration members regarding how to handle a classroom, Respondent, through receptive to counseling, was unsuccessful in implementing the ongoing tips, recommendations and advice he received.

The District notes that Respondent showed a "surprising indifference or lack of comprehension" about the District's implementation of TEACHNJ, the Danielson Framework and TeachScape. The District notes that Respondent received extensive training and education but claimed that he did not know what a CAP was until he met with Corvi and Dawson to go over his CAP. Further, Respondent claimed that he did not understand that if he did not perform well under the Danielson Framework, he could receive tenure charges and ultimately termination. Further, the District points out Respondent acknowledged that he was advised to seek a mentor but never did so and never sought out someone from the Association to complain that the District's observations, evaluations, CAP or mid-year review were unfair but instead felt that he "knew the material well enough to teach effectively." The District maintains that Respondent bears the burden to show that an omission in the implementation in the TEACHNJ standards was substantial and, if so, that it materially affected his evaluation. The District asserts that Respondent did not offer evidence supporting this and thus the District asks that the tenure charges be sustained.

Respondent asserts that the District has not met its burden of proof. Respondent argues that that the District did not comply with the statutory evaluation procedures and CAP procedures did not take place. According to Respondent, these deficiencies were significant enough to influence the outcome of the scoring. Specifically, Respondent asserts that the manner in which the evaluations were conducted and in which the CAP was prepared and implemented, materially affected the outcome of the evaluations and Respondent was set up for failure rather than success. Respondent points to the lack of pre-observation conferences as well as the fact that one of the critical observations during the 2014-2015 school year took place the day he returned to school from an extended bereavement leave of absence in Nigeria. Further, the final observation took place shortly thereafter and did not provide Respondent with a reasonable time period between observations to exhibit improvement.

Specifically, Respondent asserts that for the 2013-2014 school year, at least one of the three required observations was to be announced and preceded by a pre-observation conference. Respondent points out that none of his observations during the 2013-2014 school year included a pre-observation conference. Further, addressing the summative conference conducted on June 23, 2014, by Principal James Thompson, Respondent points out that Mr. Thompson did not appear at the hearing and Respondent testified that Thompson failed to explain the ramifications of an ineffective rating to him. Respondent points to his testimony that he did not know that he would be placed on a corrective action plan and he did not know that he would be transferred to a different school until mid-August of 2014.

Turning to the CAP, Respondent points out that Mr. Corvi and Mr. Dawson created the CAP based only on the information in TeachScape without input from prior administrators at the high school who had observed Respondent. Respondent emphasizes that the CAP was not properly prepared in that it contains many references to Mr. Turner who is a physical education teacher who was also placed on a CAP. Respondent maintains that this demonstrates that Mr. Corvi and Mr. Dawson were rushing to put together a CAP for Respondent that was not truly designed to facilitate his improvement and growth as a teacher. Further, once Respondent was presented with the CAP, he was only given a few moments to read it and review it and was not provided with a copy of the CAP before the meeting. Respondent emphasizes that he did not understand the ramifications of the CAP. Respondent also points to the differences between Corvi's testimony that Respondent was shown a CAP at a meeting and given a chance at input and Respondent's testimony that he was shown the CAP for the first time on September 15, 2014 and asked to sign it without previous review or an opportunity for input into the development of the CAP. Respondent emphasizes that his meeting with Mr. Corvi and Mr. Dawson to discuss the CAP lasted five or six minutes and he understood that Mr. Dawson was assigned to work with him under the CAP. Further, Respondent points out that according to the CAP, he and Dawson were to have weekly coaching sessions on Tuesday mornings but those never occurred.

Further, Respondent points out that it is undisputed that Dawson, as the supervisor assigned to implement Respondent's CAP, did not comply with significant aspects of the plan. Respondent points out that lesson plans were not reviewed on a regular basis, weekly coaching sessions did not occur, and feedback was not provided to Respondent other than the reports following each of the observations that took place during the 2014-2015 school year. Respondent emphasizes that the discussion during each post-observation conference of Respondent's progress towards the goals set forth in the CAP was not occurring as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2.5(f).

Respondent also points out that during the 2014-2015 school year, he had four observations with two being conducted by Corvi and two being conducted by Mr. Dawson and that none of these observations included a pre-conference before the observation. Further, because Respondent was on a CAP, he was required to have a mid-year evaluation before February 15 to include, at a minimum, a discussion of the teacher's goals outlined in the CAP. Pursuant to regulation, this evaluation may be combined with a post-observation conference. Respondent points out that his mid-year and fourth and final observation was conducted on February 24, 2015 by Mr. Corvi and he was scheduled to have a post-observation conference with Mr. Corvi on February 27, 2015. Respondent emphasizes that although a meeting occurred on February 27, 2015, there was no discussion of the CAP but rather Respondent was presented with a document dated February 13, 2015 that was a mid-year evaluation form. Respondent points out that regulation requires that the mid-year evaluation be completed by February 15, 2015 and thus, his mid-year evaluation was out of compliance.

Respondent emphasizes that he had no additional observations after February 24, 2015 and it is evident from the mid-year evaluation that Mr. Corvi had already determined that Respondent had not met the goals under the CAP. Respondent asserts that this conclusion is supported by the fact that he had no interaction with either Mr. Corvi or Mr. Dawson from the end of February until his summative conference on June 3, 2015.

Respondent argues that the tenure charges against him should be dismissed because the District failed to comply with the mandatory evaluation procedures and the corrective action plan. Respondent emphasizes that for the 2013-2014 school year, none of his observations were preceded by a pre-observation conference in violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.4(c). Similarly, Respondent emphasizes that the District did not establish that any of his observations were preceded by a pre-observation conference for the 2014-2015 school year. Based on the failure to conduct pre-observation conferences, Respondent argues that he was deprived of the opportunity to discuss the lessons and what he was trying to accomplish prior to the observation.

Respondent also asserts that the numerous procedural deficiencies in the preparation of the CAP, as well as its implementation, also warrant dismissal of the tenure charges. Citing N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2.5(b), Respondent points out that the CAP is required to be developed and the teacher and his designated sponsor are required to meet to discuss the CAP before September 15 of the following school year. In this instance, Respondent points out that the record shows that Mr. Dawson prepared the CAP with no discussion or input from Respondent who was being transferred from another school in the District. Further, Respondent points out that neither Mr. Dawson nor Mr. Corvi ever contacted Respondent's previous principal but rather simply accessed the observation reports that were uploaded into TeachScape. Respondent argues that this process was both one-sided and non-collaborative, thus violating both the substance and spirit of the TEACHNJ Act.

Citing N.J.S.A. 18A:6-120(c), Respondent was required to receive a mid-year evaluation before February 15, 2015 to include, at a minimum, a conference to discuss progress towards the teacher's goals outline in the CAP. This conference did not occur until February 27, 2015, following Mr. Corvi's February 24, 2015 observation. At that conference, Respondent received a document indicating he had not met the goals set forth in the CAP. That document also references the coaching sessions that were to take place between Mr. Dawson and Respondent despite the fact that those sessions never took place. Further, although the form provided that Respondent would continue to be observed and monitored throughout the school year, no additional observations took place. Because no additional evaluations took place after February 27, 2015, the summative evaluation for the 2014-2015 school year was based only on four observations that occurred prior to February of 2015. As a result, Respondent was deprived of any opportunity to show that he exhibited improvement or progress to the goals set forth in the CAP.

Under the Teacher Effectiveness and Accountability for Children of New Jersey Act (TEACHNJ), N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2(a) the arbitrator's review of a board of education's finding of teacher inefficiency is limited to considerations of whether or not:

> (1) the employee's evaluation failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process, including, but not limited to providing a corrective action plan;
> (2) there is a mistake of fact in the evaluation;

(3) the charges would not have been brought but for considerations of political affiliation, nepotism, union activity, discrimination as prohibited by State or federal law, or other conduct prohibited by State or federal law; or

(4) the district's actions were arbitrary and capricious.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2(b), if a respondent is able to prove one or more of the above considerations, then the arbitrator must determine whether "that fact materially affected the outcome of the evaluation." In reviewing these considerations, the "quality of an employee's classroom performance shall not be subject to an arbitrator's review." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17(c).

Initially, the District is required to prove that the statutory criteria for tenure charges have been met. Passaic County Vocational School District & Patsy Contrera, Agency Dkt. No. 223-8/15 (Arb. Gandel).

Focusing on alleged deficiencies in the evaluation process in both the 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 school years, as well as in the creation and implementation of his CAP in the 2014-2015 school year, Respondent argues that the District failed to adhere to the evaluation process and its actions were arbitrary and capricious to the extent that the District's actions "materially affected the outcome of the evaluation".

Beginning with the 2013-2014 school year, Respondent points out that at least one of the three required observations was required to have a pre-observation conference and to be announced. Although Mr. Atwell does not have specific recall of such a pre-observation conference, Mr. Ojomoh submitted a Pre-Observation Planning Form on December 10, 2013 and email suggests that a pre-observation conference, along with the observation, was rescheduled due to a weather-related delayed opening. Under these circumstances, I find that Mr. Ojomoh was provided an opportunity for a pre-observation conference and had notice of when the December 10, 2014 observation would occur. That observation was not unannounced.

Further, Respondent notes that Mr. Thompson, who gave Mr. Ojomoh his summative evaluation in June of 2014, failed to appear at hearing and did not explain the ramifications of an ineffective rating. That Mr. Thompson did not appear at the hearing does not alter Respondent's summative evaluation and has little impact on whether the District substantially adhered to the evaluation process. In this instance, the summative evaluation was based primarily on the three underlying observations. The individuals who conducted those observations testified to what occurred during the observations and the basis for both the ratings and suggestions for improvement. Although Mr. Ojomoh was receptive, there is little evidence that his control over the students and the classroom or his planning and preparation improved. As an administrator, Mr. Thompson should have explained the ramifications of an ineffective rating to Mr. Ojomoh, but if he failed to do so, that does not render the summative evaluation itself or the underlying observations insufficient. Further, Mr. Ojomoh received training covering TEACHNJ during the 2012-2013 and 2013-2014 school years. Mr. Ojomoh should have been aware of the ramifications of an ineffective rating. There is insufficient evidence that the District failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process in its observation and evaluation of Mr. Ojomoh during the 2013-2014 school year.

Turning to observations conducted during the 2014-2015 school year, Respondent asserts that although he had four observations, two conducted by Mr. Corvi and two conducted by Mr. Dawson, he had no pre-observation conference and his fourth and final observation was conducted on February 24, 2015, several months before the end of the school year, thus depriving him of the opportunity to have further improvement observed. There is no requirement that the fourth observation be conducted towards the end of the school year. The only requirement is that at least one observation be conducted during the first half of the school year and at least one observation be conducted during the second half of the school year. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.4(c). In this instance, two of four observations were conducted during the first half of the school year and the remaining two were conducted during the second half of the school year. Although Mr. Ojomoh completed a pre-observation form dated February 27 for the February 24, 2015 observation, there is no other evidence that a pre-observation conference was conducted. The District has not established that Mr. Ojomoh had a pre-observation conference at any point during the 2014-2015 school year.

Because Mr. Ojomoh was on a CAP, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-120(c), the District was required to provide him with a mid-year evaluation by February 15, 2015. The District provided a mid-year evaluation together with a post-observation conference on February 27, 2015. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2.5(m), the District is permitted to combine the mid-year evaluation with a post-observation conference, but does not have discretion to conduct that conference after February 15. Thus, the mid-year evaluation did not technically adhere to the evaluation process, but the deviation from the process was not substantial. I find that in this case, the twelve calendar day discrepancy between the deadline for the mid-year evaluation and the date when it occurred does not constitute substantial deviation from the evaluation process. I further find that Mr. Corvi's comments on the mid-year evaluation did not foreclose significant improvement by Mr. Ojomoh in the remaining months of the 2014-2015 school year. Mr. Corvi noted that Mr. Ojomoh had been "receptive" to suggestions but "successful and effective implementation of these strategies had not yet occurred." (emphasis added). Mr. Corvi, by noting that "successful and effective implementation had not yet occurred," left room for

Mr. Ojomoh to achieve such improvement in the remaining months of the school year.

I am not convinced that the late mid-year evaluation and likely lack of a pre-observation conference during the 2014-2015 school year, on their own, are sufficient to "materially affect the outcome of the observation." Nonetheless, I consider them together with the District's missteps and omissions regarding the creation and implementation of Mr. Ojomoh's CAP.

Mr. Ojomoh's CAP was drafted without due care and included significant references to requirements for improvement for a physical education teacher rather than a computer or business teacher. These errors are more significant than mere typographical errors. Specifically, a CAP requiring Mr. Ojomoh to take care to put away physical education equipment is not the same as a requirement that he take care of computer equipment. Further, although there is significant evidence that Mr. Ojomoh had difficulty controlling his classroom, there is no evidence that Mr. Ojomoh had difficulty corralling computer equipment. The record does not reflect that keeping track of physical education equipment is a task that appropriately should have been in Mr. Ojomoh's CAP.

It is troubling that neither Mr. Corvi nor Mr. Dawson caught these mistakes. Given the brief opportunity for Mr. Ojomoh to review the document before meeting with Mr. Corvi, it is understandable that he did not immediately notice the errors. However, I note that as the school year progressed, neither Mr. Ojomoh nor Mr. Dawson, who was assigned by Mr. Corvi to coach and meet with Mr. Ojomoh weekly, noticed the error even though both were to be following the requirements of the CAP.

Mr. Dawson, as Mr. Ojomoh's assigned coach or mentor was required to review lesson plans, meet with Mr. Ojomoh every Tuesday, and to conduct weekly walk throughs. Although Mr. Dawson did conduct frequent walk throughs and coaching and reviewed Mr. Ojomoh's plans on at least a bi-weekly basis, he did not conduct weekly meetings or a weekly review of lesson plans with Mr. Ojomoh. Had those meetings occurred, greater discussion of the goals of the CAP might have disclosed the drafting errors.

Mr. Dawson's failure to conduct weekly meetings with Mr. Ojomoh constitutes a significant failure to comply with the terms of the CAP that he and Mr. Corvi established and implemented for Mr. Ojomoh. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2.5(e)(3), the CAP shall "[i]nclude responsibilities of the evaluated employee and the school district for the plan's implementation." This requires that both the teacher and the supervisor(s) meet their responsibilities under the terms of the CAP. The District's failure to provide required guidance to Mr. Ojomoh as provided in the CAP constitutes "failure to adhere" to the evaluation process. In this instance, the District provided, but did not comply with its responsibilities under the CAP. It is not enough to provide the teacher with a CAP. Both the employee and the District are required to fulfill their responsibilities as stated in the CAP.

When the District's failure to provide Mr. Ojomoh with a pre-observation conference during the 2014-2015 school year, and the late mid-year evaluation are coupled with its failure to take due care in creating a CAP that applied to Mr. Ojomoh and its failure to meet its stated responsibilities pursuant to the CAP, I find that the District failed "to adhere substantially to the evaluation process." When these defects in the evaluation process, including substantial errors in the drafting and implementation of the CAP are taken together with the likely lack of a pre-observation conference and the delayed mid-year evaluation, I find the deviation from the required evaluation process is substantial.

Accordingly, I turn to the question of whether the District's failure to "adhere substantially" to the evaluation process "materially" affected the outcome of the evaluation. In other words, I must determine if Mr. Ojomoh's ratings were materially affected by the District's failure to follow the required processes.

I find the District's errors and omissions did not materially affect the outcome of Mr. Ojomoh's evaluation. TEACHNJ creates a two-way street designed to improve teachers' performance. To that end, TEACHNJ imposes significant substantive and procedural requirements on school districts designed to assist poorly performing teachers to improve their teaching skills. That two-way street also requires the affected teacher to make significant efforts to improve his or her skills. In this instance, the record demonstrates that Mr. Ojomoh was cooperative and attempted to follow coaching instructions provided by Mr. Dawson. However, the record also reflects that Mr. Ojomoh repeatedly sought to deflect responsibility for his inability to control the class to outside forces, including equipment problems, a poorly heated classroom, recent return from a trip to Africa for a funeral and a new class where he did not know the students. While any teacher can have a bad day, and consequently a poor observation, Mr. Ojomoh was observed by five different supervisors over the course of two years and received consistent comments from them over the course of those two years. Those consistent comments demonstrate that Mr. Ojomoh must bear the responsibility for his consistent poor performance.

Further, at his post-observation conference with Dr. Foley, in February of 2014, she advised him to review videos on TeachScape and to seek out a mentor. She also indicated that she would recommend that Mr. Thompson send him to workshops. Mr. Thompson did not do so, but there is no evidence that Mr. Ojomoh sought a mentor, watched the training videos or followed up with Mr. Thompson. Likewise, despite attending repeated workshops sponsored by both the District and the NJEA, Mr. Ojomoh professed not to understand that the series of observations and the CAP could culminate in these tenure charges of inefficiency.

In sum, Mr. Ojomoh did not demonstrate his commitment to improving his teaching skills by following up on suggestions provided by those supervisors who observed his classes. Rather, he suggested a variety of excuses for consistent poor performance. Under these circumstances, including Mr. Ojomoh's limited efforts to improve his teaching performance and his failure to follow suggestions and direction that would have provided him with additional guidance, I do not find that the District's failure to strictly adhere to evaluation processes and CAP requirements materially affected Mr. Ojomoh's teaching performance.

Accordingly, I find that the District has established just cause for inefficiency charges. The charges of inefficiency against Respondent Daniel Ojomoh are substantiated.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a tenured teacher in respondent's school district – challenged the District's decision to terminate her services and put her on unpaid leave following a psychological evaluation performed by a licensed doctor of psychology. Petitioner furnished proof of her recovery and sought reinstatement with back pay. The District found petitioner's proofs to be unsatisfactory and declined to reinstate her to the classroom. The parties filed opposing motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2(a) provides that "The board may require individual psychiatric or physical examinations of any employee, whenever, in the judgment of the board, an employee shows evidence of deviation from normal physical or mental health;" the District determined that such evidence existed based on actions of the petitioner during her employment in 2012 and 2013, and that this evidence was sufficient to require an examination pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2(a); such examination was conducted in 2014 by Jonathan Mack, Psy.D., who provided an expert medical report; Dr. Mack concluded that petitioner "is at unacceptable risk for inappropriate behavior with her students when under stress;" accordingly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-4, this expert medical report formed the basis for the District to deem petitioner unfit for further service until satisfactory proof of recovery was submitted; and the documents subsequently offered by petitioner – namely, one page letters from two osteopathic doctors advising that petitioner was mentally fit for duty, provided that previously requested accommodations were provided – were not deemed to be acceptable proof of recovery. The ALJ concluded that the District properly exercised its right to request a mental health examination of petitioner, and that the District's rejection of petitioner's proof of recovery was reasonable. Accordingly, the ALJ granted summary decision in favor of the respondent, and dismissed the petition.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

| STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY, | : | DECISION |
| RESPONDENT. | : | |

The record and Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, along with petitioner's exceptions – filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – and respondent's reply thereto.

Upon full consideration of the controversy and all submissions, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's recommendation to dismiss the petition since petitioner failed to demonstrate that the District's determination was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Thomas v. Morris Tp. Bd. of Educ., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965). Here, the record supports a finding that the District's rejection of petitioner's proof of recovery – which consisted of one-page letters from two practitioners – was reasonable. Indeed, neither letter references the multiple diagnoses made by Dr. Mack,[1] nor do the letters describe petitioner's recovery efforts and/or any treatment regimen in place to address Dr. Mack's concerns.[2] Both letters merely provide conditional recommendations that petitioner be permitted to return to work – with certain parameters in place, e.g., that she only be permitted to teach certain grade levels and student populations. Under the law, student safety must be the District's paramount concern. See Gish v. Paramus Bd. of Educ., 145 N.J. Super. 96, 104-105 (App. Div. 1976).[3]

[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2 specifically permits the Board to require "psychiatric or physical examinations" of its employees under certain circumstances. Because the parties failed to address whether a psychological evaluation satisfies this statutory provision, the Commissioner declines to decide that issue herein.

The Commissioner is unpersuaded by petitioner's exceptions, which do not warrant reversal of the ALJ's conclusion. Initially, the merits of this controversy were properly addressed by the ALJ[4], who did not act with partiality. The Commissioner agrees with the District that petitioner's arguments[5] and citations to irrelevant case law lack merit. To the extent that petitioner now claims disputed issues of fact exist – despite the fact that she moved for summary decision – and that certain factual findings made by the ALJ are inaccurate, any such factual discrepancies are immaterial and bear no impact upon this matter's final determination.[6]

[2] Significantly, petitioner fails to address Dr. Mack's recommendation that she be mandated to undergo weekly psychological counseling and be evaluated for medication by a psychiatrist – and provides no proof that same has occurred.

[3] Because the District has not filed tenure charges against petitioner, this matter is not governed by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 or N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. Until petitioner submits satisfactory proof of recovery, the District is not required to pay her during the period of ineligibility. N.J.S.A. 18A:16-4; Chambers v. Board of Education of the City of Pleasantville, EDU 8498-97, Initial Decision at 13 (May 1, 1998), adopted, Comm'r. June 18, 1998.

[4] Regarding the ALJ's finding as to the appropriateness of requiring petitioner to be evaluated, said finding – even if unnecessary, since that issue was not contested – does not detract from the ALJ's ultimate conclusion on the merits.

[5] While petitioner denies that she suffers from any mental abnormality and contests the District's interpretation of Dr. Mack's report, she failed to provide any evidence in support of her position. Instead, premised upon her redaction of the majority of the 45-page report, petitioner engages in a semantic exercise – citing certain sentences from the report out of context. The Commissioner finds petitioner's approach to be unpersuasive, and notes that the District appropriately reviewed the entire, unredacted report when rendering its determination.

[6] Petitioner is correct in asserting that the record reflects it was respondent – not petitioner – that moved for emergent relief, and that petitioner obtained her doctors' notes in March, not May. Nevertheless, errors in the Initial Decision concerning this information are immaterial. The courts have established the longstanding principle that "if the opposing party . . . offers . . . only facts which are immaterial or of an insubstantial nature, a mere scintilla, 'fanciful frivolous, gauzy or merely suspicious,' he will not be heard to complain if the court grants summary judgment." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 529 (1995) (quoting Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co., 17 N.J. 67, 75 (1954)).

Finally, the ALJ's reference to the net opinion rule[7] was harmless, as the rule was not invoked to bar consideration of petitioner's documents as inadmissible; rather, the ALJ reviewed petitioner's proof of recovery and referenced the rule when considering the proofs' content to illustrate that the two doctor's letters, in his view, lacked a sufficient factual basis to justify the conclusions offered therein.

Accordingly, for the reasons stated therein, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. The District's motion for summary decision is granted, petitioner's motion for summary decision is denied, and the petition is hereby dismissed in its entirety.

[7] The net opinion rule "requires an expert 'to give the why and wherefore' of his or her opinion, rather than a mere conclusion." Rosenberg v. Tavorath, 352 *N.J. BEFORE JOSEPH A. ASCIONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner Claudine D. Hayes (Hayes) challenges the March 3, 2015, action of respondent State-Operated School District of the City of Camden (SOSD-C) terminating petitioner from her teaching position. Respondent deemed petitioner ineligible for service due to mental unfitness. Petitioner opposed the respondent's position, and on June 1, 2015, brought this action to the Commissioner of Education seeking reinstatement with back pay. Administrative Law Judge Elia Pelios denied petitioner's related application for emergent relief to allow her medical expert to perform the psychological evaluation of petitioner. The parties agreed to a mental/neurological evaluation by Dr. Jonathan H. Mack, Psy.D. This evaluation became the basis for the SOSD-C's action. On March 31, 2015, petitioner submitted two one-page letters to the SOSD-C from two doctors of osteopathic medicine, one professional allegedly providing mental-health assistance to petitioner, the other being petitioner's primary physician. These documents were submitted as alleged evidence that petitioner was mentally fit to return to work. Both documents were rejected by the SOSD-C as insufficient to satisfy the requirements to restore petitioner to her position. Petitioner's pay terminated on May 3, 2015. Previously, petitioner had been relieved of her duties and placed on paid administrative leave on December 13, 2013.

On June 24, 2015, the New Jersey State Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-8.2. The petitioner moved for summary decision, seeking restoration to her position. Respondent opposed said motion and cross-moved for summary decision. Petitioner has voluntarily limited her presentation to the reasonableness of the SOSD-C's termination based upon Dr. Mack's report and the absence of the SOSD-C's acceptance of petitioner's doctors' subsequent correspondences. Petitioner also confirmed that other actions are pending in other venues related to the events in question.

DISCUSSION

Initially, I note that no certifications or affidavits have been provided in support of the motions by the parties in this matter. Counsel submitted certifications confirming service of papers, and identifying many documents, most of which they did not create or participate in creating. The latter documents are all hearsay, and while hearsay may be acceptable evidence in this administrative proceeding, if otherwise relevant, it must be supported by a residuum of competent testimony or evidence. Accordingly, I advise counsel to consider submission of certifications in further proceedings before this office and this administrative law judge, so they are not surprised by the denial of admission of similar evidence in the future. For the purpose of these motions, where counsel has not disputed the authenticity of a proffered document in their opposition to the motions, I will view the documents as satisfying the residuum rule.

FACTS

The following facts are not disputed, and I FIND:

1. Hayes is a tenured teacher who had been employed by the SOSD-C for approximately twelve years.

2. Hayes's standard teaching certificate is Teacher of the Handicapped. She also holds a Teacher of Preschool through Grade 3 certificate. A portion of Hayes's teaching career included teaching the high-school autistic population.

3. On March 16, 2012, Hayes requested an immediate transfer from her position of teaching autistic sixth- and seventh-grade students for her "own mental wellbeing and physical safety," and "due to circumstances beyond [her] control." (Lessig Cert., Exhibit D.) The SOSD-C granted that request and placed Hayes at the Forest Hill School teaching handicapped students.

4. Hayes submitted a medical-leave-of-absence request for February 18, to March 31, 2013, based upon her inability to perform her job due to excessive stress. (Lessig Cert., Exhibit E.)

5. On April 23, 2013, shortly after Hayes's return from the medical leave of absence, an incident occurred with a student. That incident occasioned an investigation by the Institutional Abuse Investigation Unit (IAIU). The investigation concluded on or about June 18, 2013, with a finding that Hayes had restrained a student, but the IAIU made a finding of no establishment of abuse. (Lessig Cert., Exhibit F.)

6. Hayes received a written reprimand for her April 23 restraint of the student in violation of school policy to have school security solely conduct student restraints.

7. In the 2013–2014 school year, the SOSD-C assigned Hayes to teach the behavioral-development-handicapped student population in the third through fifth grades.

8. On November 15, 2013, at 10:00 a.m., Hayes abandoned a continuing-education seminar on classroom management of behavioral-disabilities students, scheduled to run from 8:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. (Lessig Cert., Exhibit G.)

9. On December 11, 2013, Hayes experienced an incident where she exhibited stress, and was taken to Our Lady of Lourdes Medical Center by ambulance. Her students were transferred to another teacher.

10. The SOSD-C placed Hayes on paid administrative leave on December 13, 2013.

11. The SOSD-C required Hayes to undergo a mental-fitness-for-duty examination. After various issues raised by Hayes, she submitted to a mental-fitness-for-duty examination on May 28, and May 29, 2014. (Lessig Cert., Exhibit C.)

12. Various tests were administered to Hayes, and the examination resulted in a forty-four-page medical report and opinion of Jonathan H. Mack dated August 11, 2014. (Lessig Cert., Exhibit C.)

13. The examiner concluded to a reasonable degree of psychological and neuropsychological scientific certainty that "Hayes is at unacceptable risk for inappropriate behavior with her students when under stress." (Lessig Cert., Exhibit C at CCSD 50.)

14. On May 16, 2015, Chris F. Colopinto, D.O., and on May 18, 2015, Safeer Ansari, D.O., issued one-page documents advising that Hayes was mentally fit for duty provided that Hayes's previously requested accommodations were provided. Dr. Ansari also opined that the accommodations requested were reasonable.

15. The SOSD-C did not accept those opinions.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Summary decision, or as it is known in judicial matters, summary judgment, is a well-recognized procedure for resolving cases in which the facts that are crucial to the determination of the matters at issue are not actually in dispute and the application to that set of material facts of the applicable law and standard of proof lead to a determination of the case without the necessity of a hearing at which evidence and testimony need be taken. The procedure is equally applicable in judicial and executive-branch administrative cases. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. The standards for deciding motions for summary decision are contained in Judson v. People's Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74–75 (1954). The Supreme Court later elaborated on the motion and its standard in Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). Under the Brill standard, as in Judson, a motion for summary decision may only be granted where there is no "genuine issue" of "material fact." The determination as to whether genuine issues of material fact exist is made after a "discriminating search" of the record, consisting as it may of affidavits, certifications, documentary exhibits and any other evidence filed by the movant and any such evidence filed in response to the motion, with all reasonable inferences arising from the evidence being accorded to the opponent of the motion. In order to defeat the motion, the opposing party must establish the existence of "genuine" issues of material fact. The facts upon which the party opposing the motion relies to defeat the motion must be something more than "facts which are immaterial or of an insubstantial nature, a mere scintilla, 'fanciful, frivolous, gauzy or merely suspicious.'" Judson, supra, 17 N.J. at 75 (citations omitted). The Brill decision focuses on the analytical procedure for determining whether a purported issue of material fact is "genuine" or is of an "insubstantial nature." Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 530. Brill concludes that the same analytical process used to decide motions for a directed verdict is used to resolve summary-decision motions. "[T]he essence of the inquiry in each is the same: 'whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a jury or whether it is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law.'" Id. at 536 (quoting Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 251–52, 106 S. Ct. 2505, 2512, 91 L. Ed. 2d 202, 214 (1986)). In searching the proffered evidence to decide the motion, the judge must be guided by the applicable substantive evidentiary standard of proof, that is, the "burden of persuasion" that would apply at trial on the merits, whether that is the preponderance-of-the-evidence standard or the clear-and-convincing-evidence standard. If a careful review under this standard establishes that no reasonable fact finder could resolve the disputed facts in favor of the party opposing the motion, then the uncontradicted facts thus established can be examined in the light of the applicable substantive law to determine whether or not the movant is clearly entitled to judgment as a matter of law. However, where the proofs in the record are such that "reasonable minds could differ" as to the material facts, then the motion must be denied and a full evidentiary hearing held. Id. at 535 (citation omitted). Here, the petitioner's proofs are severely lacking in evidential value.

Dr. Colopinto's and Dr. Ansari's letters are not acceptable as medical-expert reports, as each is a net opinion without any established basis for the writer's opinion. Dr. Ansari's opinion regarding the reasonableness of Hayes's requested accommodation is also disregarded as outside the scope of his alleged medical opinion. This tribunal will accept no testimony from either doctor based upon the materials provided in this application for summary decision. This tribunal also takes note of the limited submission of petitioner regarding Dr. Mack's medical-expert report, which is accepted. This tribunal also takes note of the attempt of petitioner to prevent access to her medical history, as well as her determination not to present all of her claims cognizable in this forum.

N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2(a) provides, "The board may require individual psychiatric or physical examinations of any employee, whenever, in the judgment of the board, an employee shows evidence of deviation from normal, physical or mental health." Here the SOSD-C determined that such evidence existed from Hayes's actions in 2012 and 2013. Sufficient evidence existed to require the examination. The examination occurred in 2014, and Dr. Mack provided an expert medical report. Dr. Mack concluded, "Hayes is at unacceptable risk for inappropriate behavior with her students when under stress." (Lessig Cert., Exhibit C at CCSD 50.) This expert medical report allowed the SOSD-C, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-4, to deem Hayes unfit for further service until such time as proof of recovery, satisfactory to the SOSD-C, is furnished. The SOSD-C, pursuant to that section, determined that Hayes's submission is deficient in proof of recovery.

CONCLUSION

I CONCLUDE that the SOSD-C properly exercised its right to request a mental-health examination of Hayes based upon others' observations of her conduct. I CONCLUDE that the SOSD-C's action in rejecting Hayes's offered proof of recovery, the one-page notes of Dr. Colopinto and Dr. Ansari, was reasonable. When balancing a teacher's ability to teach against the safety of the student population, a reasonable person would err on the side of the safety of the student population. Accordingly, the SOSD-C action of rejecting the offered proof of recovery is legally sufficient.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's motion for summary decision is DENIED.

It is hereby ORDERED that respondent's motion for summary decision is GRANTED, and petitioner's petition is DISMISSED and DENIED in all respects. This Initial Decision disposes of all issues in controversy in this matter.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a private school for students with disabilities – appealed the final determination of the respondent – the Office of School Finance (OSF) – to disallow the salaries and fringe benefits of two Calais School (Calais) employees for the 2007-2008 school year, which determination was issued by letter dated January 9, 2015. OSF contended that, based on an audit of financial statements submitted by Calais, the salary and fringe benefits for the two employees at issue were non-allowable costs because the individuals lack proper certifications; therefore, these costs would not be reimbursed. The Calais School filed its petition of appeal on June 17, 2015. Respondent OSF filed a motion to dismiss the petition as untimely.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the OSF issued a written determination denying reimbursement of the salary and fringe benefits for the two employees at issue in April 2013; Calais filed a timely appeal from the findings of the April 2013 letter in June 2013; OSF subsequently issued its final decision in the matter via a letter dated January 9, 2015; pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), an appeal before the Commissioner must be filed no more than ninety (90) days from receipt of notice of a final ruling; the instant appeal was filed on June 17, 2015, which is one hundred fifty-nine (159) days after petitioner's receipt of the OSF's final decision, or sixty-nine (69) days beyond the expiration date for the filing of an appeal in the instant matter; petitioner's argument that the January 2015 final determination letter was not legitimate as it was not written by an agency or agency head is without merit; petitioner's contention that the ninety-day rule should be relaxed because Calais' legal counsel sent the 2015 final determination to the email of the school's former business manager – who had been terminated in 2013 – is also without merit; Calais bears the responsibility for its failure to take due care to transfer the business manager's workload to someone else who was competent to do the work; and petitioner's attempt to apply the "square corners" doctrine is without merit as petitioner offers no proof that OSF consciously delayed the disposition of this matter to gain an "unfair litigational advantage". The ALJ concluded that petitioner's appeal was untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), and ordered the petition dismissed.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein.

The record and Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), along with petitioner's exceptions and respondent's reply thereto – filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – have been carefully reviewed.

Having determined that the instant Petition of Appeal was filed 69 days after expiration of the 90-day filing deadline mandated by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) granted respondent's motion to dismiss the petition as untimely and declined to relax the timely filing requirement set forth in the regulation.

In its exceptions, petitioner argues that N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) is inapplicable because "it was far from clear" that Director Dehmer's written determination represented final agency action. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2-3) Petitioner also asserts that the "square corners" doctrine should excuse petitioner's delay in filing its appeal, or that – even if said doctrine is inapposite – relaxation of the 90-day rule is appropriate under the circumstances. (Id. at 3)

Conversely, respondent supports the ALJ's determination that N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) is applicable, and that no compelling reason exists to relax the 90-day rule. (Respondent's reply at 2-3) As to the "square corners" doctrine, respondent maintains it is inapplicable since petitioner failed to demonstrate that the Department "delayed concluding its investigation into the non-allowable costs" at issue in this case "to gain an advantage over the petitioner." (Id at 3).

Upon review, the Commissioner finds petitioner's exceptions to be without merit. First, the concluding paragraph of Director Dehmer's January 9, 2015 written determination provides "unmistakable notice of its finality" – thereby activating the 90-day timeframe cited in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) for the filing of a timely petition of appeal:

> The above shall be considered the final review of this matter. Please notify the school that in order to certify its rate for the 2007-2008 school year, OSF requires submission of a revised audited financial statement to account for the above-detailed non-allowable costs. OSF will follow up with the School directly within thirty-five (35) days from the date of this letter, should it not receive the necessary revisions. (Petition of Appeal, exhibit C, at 3)

In re CAFRA Permit No. 87-0959-5, 152 N.J. 287, 299 (1997). Second, the ALJ correctly declined to apply the "square corners" doctrine because the record contains no proof that respondent sought to gain an "unfair litigational advantage" by delaying its investigation. See CBS Outdoor, Inc. v. Borough of Lebanon Planning Bd., 414 N.J. Super. 563, 586-587 (App. Div. 2010); (Initial Decision at 6) Finally, the Commissioner finds that petitioner has not presented any compelling reason or exceptional circumstance which would warrant relaxation of the timely filing requirement.

Upon full consideration of the record and the parties' submissions, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the instant petition is appropriately dismissed because it was filed outside the 90-day limitation period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons stated therein, and respondent's motion to dismiss the petition is granted.

Please notify the school that in order to certify its rate for the 2007-2008 school year, OSF requires submission of a revised audited financial statement to account for the above-detailed non-allowable costs. OSF will follow up with the School directly within thirty-five (35) days from the date of this letter, should it not receive the necessary revisions. (Petition of Appeal, exhibit C, at 3)

In re CAFRA Permit No. 87-0959-5, 152 N.J. 287, 299 (1997). Second, the ALJ correctly declined to apply the "square corners" doctrine because the record contains no proof that respondent sought to gain an "unfair litigational advantage" by delaying its investigation. See CBS Outdoor, Inc. v. Borough of Lebanon Planning Bd., 414 N.J. Super. 563, 586-587 (App. Div. 2010); (Initial Decision at 6) Finally, the Commissioner finds that petitioner has not presented any compelling reason or exceptional circumstance which would warrant relaxation of the timely filing requirement.

Upon full consideration of the record and the parties' submissions, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the instant petition is appropriately dismissed because it was filed outside the 90-day limitation period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons stated therein, and respondent's motion to dismiss the petition is granted.

BEFORE: JOHN P. SCOLLO, A.L.J.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Calais School ("Calais" or "Petitioner") is a private school for students with disabilities. This case involves a dispute over the disallowance of the salaries and fringe benefits of two Calais School employees for the School Year 2007-2008. The New Jersey Department of Education, Office of School Finance ("DOE" or "the Department" or "OSF" or "Respondent") conducted an audit of financial statements submitted by the Calais School and found that certain salary and fringe benefit reimbursement requests (notably, those of Susan Ragonese and Patti Russo), were non-allowable costs and, therefore, would not be reimbursed.

On November 6, 2009, letter the DOE's Office of Fiscal Policy and Planning ("OFPP") determined that due to Ragonese's and Russo's lack of proper certifications [under N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.4 (a) (22)], their salaries and fringe benefits were considered non-allowable costs [under N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.5 (6)].

On April 11, 2013, the DOE issued a written determination (the "Elise Sadler-Williams letter" denying re-imbursement of: (1) salary and fringe benefits of Susan Ragonese's entire salary and fringe benefits from July 1, 2007 through June 30, 2008; and (2) salary and fringe benefits of Patti Russo from July 1, 2007 through January 31, 2008).

The Calais School filed a timely Appeal from the findings of the Elsie Sadler-Williams letter) on June 10, 2013. The DOE issued its "final decision" / "final response" / "final review" of the Calais School's Appeal in a letter dated January 9, 2015 (the "Kevin Dehmer" letter) affirming the rulings made on April 11, 2013, contained in the Elise Sadler-Williams letter.

The subject Appeal followed when David B. Rubin, Esq., counsel for the Calais School, on June 16, 2015, filed a Verified Petition in appeal of the DOE's January 9, 2015 final decision (the Kevin Dehmer letter).

On August 13, 2015, the DOE filed a Motion in Lieu of Answer with the Acting Commissioner of Education seeking dismissal of the Petitioner's June 16, 2015 Appeal. However, the case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on August 18, 2015. Respondent's Motion at bar is the one filed with the Acting Commissioner of Education.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Having had the opportunity to review the parties' Outlines of Facts and Issues, the Motion and its attachments, and the Opposition and its attachments, and having participated in a Status Conference with legal counsel for both parties on December 31, 2015, I make the following FINDINGS OF FACT:

(1) On April 11, 2013, the DOE issued a written initial determination (the "Elise Sadler-Williams letter), which disallowed the salary and fringe benefits of two Calais school employees, Susan Ragonese and Patti Russo for the 2007-2008 school year as non-allowable costs because the employees did not possess the required certifications from the DOE to perform their assigned duties.

(2) On June 10, 2013, Calais School through its legal counsel filed a written appeal from the April 11, 2013 written determination.

(3) On January 9, 2015, the DOE issued its final written determination (the "Kevin Dehmer letter") affirming its initial determination of April 11, 2013.

(4) Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3 (i), a Petitioner has no more than ninety (90) days from the date of receipt of the notice of a final ruling to file a Petition of Appeal. I FIND that there is no dispute that the DOE sent its January 9, 2015, final written decision in a timely manner to the Petitioner. I FIND that the ninetieth day after January 9, 2015 was April 9, 2015. I FIND that the filing date of the Petition of Appeal was June 17, 2015, and I further FIND that June 17, 2015 was one hundred fifty-nine (159) days after January 9, 2015 and sixty-nine (69) days after April 9, 2015. I FIND that the Petition of Appeal was filed sixty-nine (69) days late.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3 (a) provides that in order to initiate an appeal a Petitioner must file a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, serve copies of same on each respondent along with Proof of Service. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3 (i) sets forth the time limit in which a Petition of Appeal must be filed. That time limit is ninety days from the date of receipt of the final order, ruling or other action of the agency (i.e. the DOE).

There is no dispute about the filing date of the subject Petition of Appeal. It was filed on June 17, 2015, which is one hundred fifty-nine days after the issuance of the January 9, 2015 final written decision and sixty-nine days after the April 9, 2015 expiration date of the ninety-day time period allowed for the filing of Petitions of Appeal. I CONCLUDE that the Petition of Appeal was filed beyond the ninety-day period allowed and I CONCLUDE that it was filed late.

Counsel for Petitioner's first argument is that the ninety-day filing period has not begun to run in this case because the January 9, 2015 Kevin Dehmer letter was not a letter written by an agency or agency head. Petitioner presented no proof to establish that Director Kevin Dehmer did not have the authority to act on behalf of the DOE. I CONCLUDE that Director Kevin Dehmer, had the authority to act on behalf of the DOE and was indeed legitimately acting on behalf of the DOE when he wrote his January 9, 2015 final written determination.

Counsel for Petitioner does not deny that he received actual notice of Kevin Dehmer's final written determination on January 9, 2015. There is no doubt that he immediately sent Dehmer's determination to his client, the Calais School, by e-mailing it to Donald Dohm, the Calais School's Business Manager. Counsel offered the November 4, 2015 Certification of David Leitner in which Leitner states that Donald Dohm was terminated from his position by the Calais School on June 27, 2013, about a year and a half before Kevin Dehmer's final written determination. Counsel states that he did not know that Dohm was no longer serving as Business Manager when he sent his e-mail on January 9, 2015, containing Kevin Dehmer's final written determination. Counsel then argues (his second argument) that if Calais did not receive actual notice of Dehmer's final written decision because Dohm was no longer part of the Calais School, then the ninety-day period has not begun to run. Missing from this fact pattern is the answer to the questions: (1) "Who at Calais was monitoring Dohm's e-mail after his termination?" and "Why didn't Calais, after terminating Dohm, exercise due care to ensure that all correspondences sent to Dohm were properly routed to his successor?" The argument presented is predicated upon the assumption that once Dohm was gone the Calais School bore no continuing responsibility for receiving its business and legal correspondence that was being sent to its former employee, Dohm. This assumption makes no sense. What does make sense is that a business which chooses to terminate an employee has a duty - in the interest of its own self-preservation - to make sure that it properly transfers the workload of a terminated employee to a competent, responsible person and to make sure that steps are taken to assure that its vital communications with other people and entities remain uninterrupted.

There is another noteworthy point, one not presented in the papers, but nonetheless relevant to the case at bar. There can be little doubt that legal correspondence sent by the DOE to the attorney handling a specific case for Calais, who acknowledges actual receipt of same, is deemed actually received by the client, Calais.

I CONCLUDE that Calais received actual notice of the January 9, 2015 final written determination (the "Kevin Dehmer letter") on January 9, 2015. I CONCLUDE that having received actual notice, the Calais School's Petition of Appeal should have been filed by April 9, 2015.

Petitioner's third argument is that there is good cause for relaxing the ninety-day rule set forth in N.J.S.A. 6A:3-1.3(i) because the delay in filing the Petition of Appeal was due to the inattentiveness of a sick employee, who neglected to alert his superiors of the initial determination rendered on April 11, 2013. As noted above, the Calais

School, having decided to terminate Dohm, bore the responsibility to take due care to transfer Dohm's workload to someone else who was competent to do the work in order to protect its own interests.

The Calais School bears the responsibility for its failure to take this common sense precaution. I CONCLUDE that the above-cited regulation setting forth a ninety-day filing period cannot be set aside when there is no presentation of good cause for doing so.

Petitioner's fourth argument is that under the "square corners doctrine" the State is required to set its standards of conduct so as to be beyond reproach. This, of course, is true. The allegation made in the Petitioner's argument is that the State is taking unfair advantage of the Petitioner and that it rendered its final written determination on January 9, 2015, regarding monies claimed by the Petitioner from the school year 2007-2008. The argument implies, but does not offer proof for the proposition that the State consciously delayed the disposition of this matter. There is no proof offered to prove the proposition that the State tried to exploit litigational or bargaining advantages. No such advantages are demonstrated. No exploitation is demonstrated. I CONCLUDE that the "square corners doctrine", while an interesting and somewhat unique doctrine, is inapplicable in this instance.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is on this Twentieth (20 th) day of January, 2016 ORDERED that the Petition of Appeal, having been filed beyond the time limits set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3 (i), is hereby dismissed.

2. Contribution Toward Pennco Tech: Lawnside shall contribute a total amount of thirty thousand dollars ($30,000) for the educational program and placement of M.S. at Pennco Tech in the diesel technician program as follows:

   a. Within twenty (20) school days of full execution of this Agreement, Lawnside shall pay directly to Pennco Tech $6905.43 for the cost of tuition and materials from July 14, 2015 through December 14, 2015.

   b. Lawnside shall pay five thousand five hundred dollars ($5,500) directly to Great Lakes Higher Education Corporation, located at 2401 International Lane, Madison, Wisconsin 53704, which represents the full amount of M.S.'s student loan from July 14, 2015 through December 14, 2015. Additionally, Lawnside shall pay an amount not to exceed $150 for interest that accrued from July 14, 2015 through December 14, 2015 upon proof of interest accrued by Petitioners.

c. Beginning January 2016, Lawnside shall commence monthly payments by the 14th of each month to Pennco Tech for the educational program and placement of M.S. at Pennco Tech until (1) M.S. graduates from the Pennco Tech Program, (2) the total contribution by Lawnside equates to $30,000, or (3) September 20, 2016 – whichever comes first. Specifically, the payment for January 14, 2016 will be $3867.28, payments between January 20, 2016 and July 20, 2016 will be $1,799.71, and payments between July 21, 2016 and September 20, 2016 will be $2,099.50 until the $30,000 is exhausted.

d. The Parties understand that interest and tuition shall not exceed the $30,000.

e. Petitioners will act in good faith and will use and/or exhaust all reasonable and available means in the pursuit of earning credits for M.S.'s graduation from Pennco Tech with a certificate as a diesel technician by September 20, 2016.

f. It is anticipated that M.S. will receive the requisite educational credits to earn a certificate as a diesel technician pursuant to the credit completion requirements of Pennco Tech by September 20, 2016. Upon achieving sufficient credits for graduation, Lawnside will have no further obligation to contribute to M.S.'s placement at Pennco Tech or in any other program or placement for M.S. Furthermore, after September 20, 2016, Lawnside will have no further obligation to contribute to M.S.'s placement at Pennco Tech or in any other program or placement for M.S, subject to Paragraph 3 of this Agreement.

g. The payments set forth immediately above in Paragraphs 2(a) through (d) reflect Lawnside's total contribution to the educational costs of Pennco Tech. The aforesaid payments shall be in full and final settlement of all claims for tuition reimbursement, residential costs, medical services, mental health services, behavior intervention services, health and nursing services, social worker services, parental counseling/training, related services, compensatory education, evaluation fees, attorney fees, expert witness fees, ESY services, transportation costs, and/or any other costs or fees arising from or associated with M.S.'s attendance at Pennco Tech for the time period beginning July 14, 2015 and ending September 20, 2016, as more fully set forth in Paragraph 8 below.

h. Lawnside's contribution toward the educational costs as set forth immediately above in Paragraphs 2(a) through (d) will be paid directly to Pennco Tech or Great Lakes Higher Education Corporation. Petitioners will cooperate in good faith to allow open communication between Lawnside and Pennco Tech to confirm M.S.'s continued attendance and progress, and Petitioners shall execute the necessary releases to allow the sharing of education and financial records of Pennco Tech with Lawnside.

i. Lawnside's obligations towards Pennco Tech regarding Petitioners as described in this Paragraph 2 shall end if M.S. is no longer domiciled; does not reside on a continuous basis within the Lawnside School District pursuant to N.J.S.A. 38-1; or if M.S. withdraws from the Pennco Tech program. Petitioners shall notify the Superintendent of Schools of both Lawnside and Haddon Heights of any change in M.S.'s domicile, residence, or enrollment status at Pennco Tech within two (2) business days.

3. Contribution Toward Educational Costs: Provided that Petitioners comply with all of the obligations set forth in Paragraph 2 of this Agreement, if M.S. does not complete, is dismissed from, or withdraws from the diesel technician certification program at Pennco Tech prior to September 20, 2016, Lawnside shall contribute toward educational services for M.S. in the amount of thirty thousand dollars ($30,000) minus the amount paid by Lawnside pursuant to Paragraph 2 ("the remaining balance") as follows:

   a. The remaining balance shall be strictly used for only educational services, including but not limited to speech-language therapy, occupational therapy, physical therapy, community based instruction, academic instruction and/or remediation, behavioral interventions and services, counseling, and social and emotional skills development.

   b. Lawnside shall make payments under this Paragraph 3 directly to the providers of the educational services described in Paragraph 3(a) upon sufficient proof of services rendered, such as an invoice.

   c. The remaining balance shall not be used for payment of attorneys' fees or for services not educational in nature, such as, but not limited to, medical services and recreational/leisure activities.

   d. Petitioners agree that Lawnside is in no way responsible for payment of educational services under this Paragraph 3 after September 20, 2016.

e. Petitioners agree that Lawnside is in no way responsible for payment of educational services after Petitioners have exhausted remaining balance set forth in this Agreement.

f. Lawnside's obligations as described in this Paragraph 3 shall end if M.S. is no longer domiciled or does not reside on a continuous basis within the Lawnside School District. In this eventuality, Lawnside's settlement obligations will be deemed to have been fully paid, and the Release provisions as set forth in Paragraph 8 below will remain in effect. Petitioners shall notify the Superintendent of Schools of both Lawnside and Haddon Heights of any change in M.S.'s domicile or residence within two (2) business days.

4. No FAPE Obligation: Except for the payments described in Paragraphs 2 and 3 above, Haddon Heights and Lawnside shall not be responsible, financially or otherwise, for any other cost or obligation with respect to provisions of FAPE for M.S. from the beginning of time through the 2015-2016 school year. This includes, but is not limited to, any cost for special education or related services, supplies, evaluations, tutoring, counseling, treatment, residential costs, books and school supplies, extracurricular activities, transportation costs, any costs arising out of a change in placement, and attorney's fees. The Petitioners shall have full responsibility for any other such items and costs. This provision shall not be construed to limit any rights or obligations as set forth in Paragraph 9 herein.

5. No Prevailing Party Status: The Petitioners, Haddon Heights, and Lawnside agree that no party to this Agreement shall be deemed a "prevailing party."

6. Dismissal of Petition of Appeal and Due Process Petitions: Upon full execution of this Agreement, the Petition of Appeal (OAL Docket No. EDU 09496-2014, Agency Reference No. 106-4/14) and Due Process Petition (OAL Docket No. EDS 06746-2015, Agency Reference No. 2015-22509) shall be dismissed with prejudice.

7. Release and Waiver of Claims between Haddon Heights and Lawnside: Haddon Heights and Lawnside mutually agree to waive and release any and all claims that were or could have been brought against each other regarding M.S.'s education, including any allegation or claim asserted in the Petition of Appeal or Due Process Petition and any claim for compensatory education, tuition, services, transportation, monetary damages, costs and attorneys' fees through the date of full execution of this Agreement.

8. Release and Waiver of Claims against all Parties: The Petitioners, on behalf of themselves and on behalf of M.S., as well as both Respondent Boards agree to the following RELEASES AND WAIVERS:

   a. In consideration of their obligations under Paragraphs 1-7 of this Agreement, and for other good and valuable consideration, the Parties RELEASE, WAIVE AND FOREVER DISCHARGE each other (includes former, present and future board members, officers, employees, agents, and servants) from any and all claims and causes of action, in law or in equity, whether known or unknown, whether asserted or unasserted, contingent or otherwise, arising from or relating directly or indirectly to M.S.'s education, special education program, placement, proposed placements, IEP, related services, discipline, counseling, safety, and/or attendance within the Haddon Heights School District, Lawnside School District, and any out-of-district placement. This Release and Waiver shall run from the beginning of time through the date of full execution of this Agreement. This Release and Waiver includes, but is not limited to: (a) any and all claims asserted or which could have been asserted in the Petitioners' Petition of Appeal or Due Process Petition; (b) any and all claims that M.S. is entitled to special education and/or related services beyond the 2014-2015 school year; (c) compensatory education; (d) reimbursement of any medical, behavioral, or education evaluations; (e) transportation; (f) expert witness fees; and/or (g) attorney's fees, except as set forth in Paragraphs 2-3 of this Agreement.

9. Confidentiality: The terms of this Agreement shall be kept confidential to the fullest extent permitted by law. The Petitioners shall not disclose the terms of or existence of this Agreement with any third party, except as necessary to implement same or as required by law. ### Introduction

This matter arises from tenure charges submitted on September 11, 2015 by the State Operated School District of the City of Newark (the School District or the District) based upon inefficiency pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 and N.J.S.A. 18A6-17.3 against Alexander Gonzalez (Respondent) and a September 28, 2015 referral of the tenure charges to the undersigned by the New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes pursuant to P.L. 2012, c. 26, as amended by P.L. 2015, c. 109.

The hearing in the matter was conducted on November 12 and 23, 2015, December 8 and 16, 2015 and January 5 and 11, 2016 in Newark, New Jersey. At the hearing all parties were afforded the opportunity for argument, examination and cross-examination of witnesses and the introduction of relevant exhibits. A transcript was taken of the hearing. Respondent was present for the entire hearing and testified on his own behalf. At the close of the hearing on January 11, 2016 the parties elected to submit written closing argument, upon the receipt of which by the arbitrator on February 15, 2016 the matter was deemed submitted.

This Award is made following my careful consideration of the entire record in the matter, including my observation of the demeanor of all witnesses.

Respondent was certified by the State of New Jersey as a "Teacher of Spanish" in 2006, began teaching Spanish in the District in the 2005-2006 school year and from that time through the 2012-2013 school year, taught Spanish in three District high schools. He testified that throughout his time in the District he was never subject to any significant discipline and prior to the two years at issue herein always received his increment. For the 2012-2013 school year, Respondent taught at Newark Vocational High School and received an "Ineffective" in his annual evaluation. In the spring of 2013 Respondent sought a transfer from Newark Vocational and during the summer of 2013 sought a teaching position in other schools within the District as well as other school districts; a search that did not result in a teaching position for Respondent. By letter from the District's Chief Talent Officer dated August 31, 2013, Respondent was informed that he had been assigned as an additional support staff member for the 2013-2014 school year in an "Educator Without Placement Site" (EWPS) status, and was directed to report to Park Elementary school on September 3, 2013.

At Park Elementary principal Sylvia Esteves assigned Respondent to teach World Language (Spanish) because her school's permanent World Language teacher was going out on leave. As the school's World language teacher, Respondent taught classes to 1st, 2nd, 4th and 5th grade students including special education and bilingual students. Due to his prior year's annual evaluation (for school year 2012-2013) Respondent was subject to a Corrective Action Plan (CAP) at Park Elementary.

Respondent's Observations and Evaluations

During school year 2013-2014 Respondent was observe and evaluated pursuant to the District's 2013-2014 "Framework for Effective Teaching" and received:

(1) A scheduled Long Observation by Park Elementary Vice Principal Theresa Empirio on October 10, 2013 (including a pre-observation conference and later post-observation conference) in which he received an overall "Ineffective" rating;

(2) A Short Observation on November 19, 2013 (including a later post-observation conference) by Park Elementary Vice Principal Maria

Rosendary-Donaldson, in which he received an overall "Ineffective" rating;

(3) An unscheduled Long Observation by Empirio on December 19, 2013 (including a later post-observation conference) in which he received an overall "Ineffective" rating;

(4) A Mid Year Review on February 14, 2014 by Empirio in which he received an "Ineffective" rating;

(5) An unscheduled Long Observation by Empirio on March 19, 2014 (including a later post-observation conference) in which he received an overall "Ineffective" rating (and on which Respondent wrote: "I am signing, but I am not agree at all. Since Sept/13 -> 2/14/14 I was teaching a subject area with no license on it";

(6) An unscheduled Short Observation by Empirio on April 24, 2014 (including a later post-observation conference) in which he received an overall "Ineffective" rating;

(7) An Annual Evaluation on April 9, 2014 by Empirio in which he received an "Ineffective" rating and

(8) An unscheduled Short Observation by Theresa Empirio on April 24, 2014 (including a later post-observation conference) in which he received an overall "Ineffective" rating.

By memorandum dated May 23, 2014, Park Elementary principal Sylvia Esteves recommended tenure charges against Respondent for failing to meet required standards for effective instruction. The District did not pursue the tenure charge recommendation of Esteves.

Respondent again held EWPS status for the 2014-2015 school year and was assigned to the Roberto Clemente elementary school. For that year Respondent was again subject to a CAP and was again assigned to teach World Language (Spanish). As in the previous year, Respondent was required to travel from classroom to classroom throughout the school to teach different grade levels of students.

During school year 2014-2015 Respondent was observe and evaluated pursuant to the District's 2014-2015 "Framework for Effective Teaching" and received:

(1) An announced Long Observation by Vice Principal Sheila Laurenceau on September 28, 2014 (including a pre-observation conference and later post-observation conference) in which he received an overall "Partially Effective" rating;

(2) A Short Observation on November 5, 2014 (including a later post-observation conference) by Laurenceau in which he received an overall "Partially Effective" rating;

(3) A Short Observation on January 23, 2015 (including a later post-observation conference) by Principal Yolanda Mendez in which he received an overall "Ineffective" rating;

(4) A February 2, 2015 Mid Year review by Mendez in which he received a rating of "Ineffective";

(5) A Long Observation on March 24, 2015 (including a later post-observation conference) by school Innovation Officer Claudio

Barbaran in which Respondent received a rating of "Partially Effective";

(6) A Long Observation on May 7, 2015 (including a later post-observation conference) by Pier Validator Gina Wells in which he received a rating of "Ineffective" and

(7) An Annual Evaluation by Mendez, Barbaran and Laurenceau on May 8, 2015 in which he received an overall rating of "Ineffective."

In post observation conferences, semi-annual evaluations and annual evaluations throughout both years at issue, administrators continually evaluated Respondent's applicable CAP and Respondent's progress under the CAP and made recommendations and offered assistance to Respondent for his successful attainment of the improvements in his performance required by the CAP. In this regard, in addition to the consistent testimony of principals Esteves and Mendez, the various observation conference records and evaluations admitted into the record establish that Respondent was given repeated "CAP Reflection" feedback by administrators wherein his progress and lack of progress in addressing his performance issues were addressed, recommendations made and action steps by both Respondent and the administrators identified.

Efficiency Tenure Charges and Arbitral Authority

Because Respondent was rated Ineffective in two consecutive annual summative evaluations the District filed its charge of inefficiency Pursuant to Section 25 of TEACHNJ, N.J.S.18A:6-17.3 (2).[1] In such circumstances, TEACHNJ (the Act) provides

[1] As provided by N.J.S.18A:6-17, only evaluations conducted in accordance with a rubric adopted by the board and approved by the commissioner pursuant to P.L.2012, c.26 (C.18A:6-that in rendering a decision on the tenure charges the arbitrator shall only consider whether or not:

> (1) the employee's evaluation failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process, including, but not limited to providing a corrective action plan;
>
> (2) there is a mistake of fact in the evaluation;

117 et al.) may be relied upon by the District for purposes of such efficiency tenure charges. I find that the District's 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 rubrics (as contained in the District's 2013-14 and 2014-15 "Framework for Effective Teaching") were "approved by the commissioner" as required by statute. Respondent asserts herein that the District failed to comply with various requirements of the District's rubric(s),

Respondent's Theory of the Case

Respondent argues that the two annual summative evaluations relied upon by the District as basis for the tenure charges are not valid because: (1) the District failed to substantially adhere to the evaluation process by failing to comply with statutory mandates regarding Corrective Action Plans (CAPs) and Student Growth Objectives (SGOs) in evaluations, (2) the District's conduct was retaliatory and (3) the District's conduct was arbitrary and capricious. As a result, the Respondent asserts, the tenure charges should be dismissed. Each of the Respondent's arguments are considered below.

Respondent's Claim that the District Failed to Substantially Adhere to the Evaluation Process, Including Providing a Corrective Action Plan

Respondent asserts that the District failed to substantially adhere to the evaluation process by failing to comply with statutory minimal requirements for Corrective Action plans. In this regard, Respondent argues that the 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 CAPs produced by the District for Respondent were defective and thereby did not meet the minimal standards to qualify as "adhering substantially to the evaluation process." In support of its argument Respondent maintains that each of the CAPs was not completed in a timely manner, each lacked timelines for corrective action, and each contained only "specific demonstrable goals" that were entirely unattainable under circumstances where, as here Respondent asserted, Respondent was; (i) never provided with a District approved curriculum, (ii) was never provided Spanish language text books or workbooks, (iii) was required to teach outside of his certification and (iv) was not provided adequate class instructional time to attain such goals. Nor did the CAPs include the required SGOs and "action steps" tailored to remedy perceived deficiencies, Respondent maintained.

Respondent's 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 Corrective Action Plans

Respondent was initially required to have a Correction Action Plan (CAP) for the 2013-14 school year because he received an annual rating of "Ineffective" for the 2012-13 school year. A CAP is the product of collaboration between the involved teacher and the teacher's supervisor. Respondent's 2013-14 CAP identified certain World Language, Common Core State Standards in response to the CAP question; "what are the standards you want all students to master this year?" The CAP went on to provide how Respondent would determine "student starting points" and provided that such would include – > running records to track student growth toward mastery, > informal assessment to gain understanding of the students' Spanish Language ability, and > informal assessment to gain understanding of the students' Spanish culture and then provided how Respondent would determine "student end points" to establish whether students had met their learning goals, including:

> Guided teaching questions to measure students understanding, > running records to track student growth toward mastery, > informal assessment and > completion of class work.

The CAP also identified instructional tools and resources for Respondent including visiting exemplary classrooms to observe best practices, attending PLC[2] meetings, utilizing specific books on teaching, discussions with direct supervisor, pre and post observation assessments and the Common Core website. The CAP additionally provided

[2] PLCs (Professional Learning Communities) are weekly meetings of related teaching staff members in the school where teaching-related issues are explored and addressed. For Respondent, the community included other teachers of "specials."

a "Professional Growth Plan" wherein Respondent identified various "action steps" he would take to improve his teaching practice in identified indicator areas and steps the Administration would take to assist Respondent in improving. The steps listed for the administration included; "PLC," "Pre-Conference," "Post-Conference," "Pre & Post Assessment," "Long/Short Observation," "Administrative Monitoring," "Make opportunities for teacher to view an exemplary teacher instruct" and "Model lessons."

In 2014-15 Respondent's CAP set two Student Learning Goals, also known as Student Growth Objectives (or SGOs) for the school year. The first SGO focused on 12 Fourth Grade students to be measured over the course of the school year. Respondent identified the New Jersey Common Core Curriculum Standards as that to be used, identified a pre-test made by the World Language Department as the starting point assessment tool, and as the ending point assessment tool the CAP identified "Teacher made tests and post-test made by World Language Department NPS (Test will be modified for elementary students by teacher)". The CAP stated that based upon the starting assessment; "7 of 11 need support in writing and applying vocabulary, grammar, and sentence structure skills in the Spanish." The CAP described the Goal for Student Performance for the first SGO as; "Most (at least 70% to 90%) students will be able to write at least one cohesive paragraph with proper vocabulary, grammar and sentence structure skills in the Spanish language."

Respondent's second SGO in the 2014-15 CAP related to a class of third Grade students and offered similar means of pre and post assessments. The CAP stated that based upon assessments administered to students in that class "14 of 15 need support in writing and applying vocabulary, grammar, and sentence structure skills in the Spanish."

The CAP established an end of the year goal that; "At least 75% of students will be able to write at least one paragraph in Spanish with proper grammar, vocabulary and sentence structure." District witnesses testified that the SGO's in Respondents 2014-2015 CAP were narrowly drawn and limited to only two classes to give Respondent a good chance of succeeding in meeting the goals in the SGOs.

The record establishes that CAPs are uploaded to the District's on-line records site "Bloomboard," and that only the teacher, not the supervisor/administrator, may upload a CAP. Consequently, the teacher subject to the CAP bears significant responsibility to assure that the CAP is completed in full and within the time periods established by regulation. As a consequence, where as here, a teacher is claiming a school district failed to substantially comply with the evaluation process because one or more CAP was not timely or adequately completed, such a claim should be strictly scrutinized to determine whether the District exercised such attention and good faith in the process as to satisfy the "substantial compliance" standard and/or whether the alleged untimeliness of the CAP was caused by the teacher.

Contrary to the argument of Respondent, I find sufficient evidence to conclude that in both school years at issue the District received extensions of time from the Department of Education for completion of CAPs, that Respondent's CAPs were completed within the timeframes provided and that the terms of the CAPs were adequate. Although the 2013-14 CAP is not dated, the District offered testimony I credit by the responsible Park Elementary School Principal that the CAP was completed by the extended deadline approved by the Department of Education for that year. Similarly, the evidence establishes that the 2014-2015 CAP was submitted prior to the extended filing deadline granted the District. In any event, the record further establishes that for both school years 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 Respondent was lackadaisical in his efforts to complete his CAPs and that District school administrators spent significant time and attention on encouraging and facilitating his compliance with requirements for timely completion of the CAPS. Notwithstanding Respondent's own lack of enthusiasm for the process, the administrations here did not let the matter go unaddressed and, instead, followed-up on the CAPs with Respondent and worked collaboratively with the teacher to assure that the CAPs were completed. There was no delay caused by the District and I find that Respondent's 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 Corrective Action Plans were timely filed. Moreover, considering the content of the CAPs, Respondent's shared responsibility for the plans and record evidence establishing that the requirements of the CAP were consistently reviewed with Respondent by District school administrators, that Respondent was provided ongoing feedback on his progress relating to the CAPs and Respondent was provided continuing and varied support designed and tailored to help him succeed under the CAPs, I find the CAPs were; (i) adequate and (ii) adhered substantially to the evaluation process.

The District otherwise Adhered Substantially to the Evaluation Process

In the two school years involved Respondent was presented with a daunting task and I do not discount the challenges he faced in adjusting to teaching elementary students where he had only previously taught high school students. However, under circumstances presented here, where Respondent is certified to teach the grades involved and has years of teaching experience, I find that the nature of the challenges facing Respondent are not enough, standing alone, to support either a claim that Respondent was set-up-to-fail or a claim that evaluations of a teacher under such circumstances cannot reasonably be found to substantially adhere to the evaluation process. Instead, based upon the record as a whole, I find that as to each school year 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 the administration of Respondent's schools made substantial, good faith efforts to provide Respondent with the opportunities and tools to learn how to adjust his teaching to meet the needs of his students. In each school year the respective school administration offered Respondent support in meeting the goals outlined in the CAPs, conducted classroom observations to collect evidence of Respondents progress towards goals, provided Respondent opportunities and guidance on how to access and participate in professional learning opportunities throughout the year, and gave Respondent clear and regular feedback about his development. Respondent was provided coaching, pre and post observation conferences, access to peer groups, lesson plan reviews, recommendations of appropriate books, web-based resources, opportunities to observe other accomplished teachers and assistance of other teachers in the classroom.

Considering the number of observations and evaluations of Respondent conducted each year, and the varied identities of those conducting the observations, the CAPs applied to Respondent and the fact that an arbitrator is without authority to review the determinations as to the quality of an Respondent's classroom performance made by District evaluators, I find that during each school year at issue the respective administrations of Respondent's schools – and therefore the District - complied substantially with the District's applicable evaluation processes; processes approved by the Commissioner of Education.[3]

Retaliation /Arbitrary and Capricious Conduct

Respondent asserts that the tenure charges are in retaliation for his response to an assault by a student in December in of 2012. In this regard, Respondent testified that when he was speaking with a student in the hallway on or about December 7, 2012 he was hit with a water bottle thrown by another student, that he filed a report with the school, had to seek medical treatment and that when the school removed the offending student from his classroom only for one day, he filed a report with the local police department. Respondent argued that because the school disapproved of his having gone to the police, his school principal at the time threatened him by stating that his "life is going to change." Respondent argues that the instant tenure charge is the realization of the threat he received in December 2012 and the manner in which the District intended his life was "to change."

Consistent with its threat, Respondent asserted, his life was changed by the District when he was designated an Employee Without Placement Site, effectively removing him from his school, and the District thereafter assigning Respondent to the elementary school level rather than the high school level at which Respondent had successfully taught for years. In addition to such, Respondent argued, the District set Respondent up for sure failure when it; (1) failed to provide him with a curriculum for his elementary students, (2) refused to provide him text books, (3) refused to provide him workbooks and (4) instead of recognizing the principles for effective learning of a language contained in the New Jersey Common Core Standards for World Languages and scheduling students for a minimum of three class periods per week, the District scheduled most of his students for only one class period a week. Considering many of his students were special needs or bi-lingual students and that he was not certified to teach either bi-lingual classes or special needs students, Respondent maintained, it is clear that the District not only acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner by setting Respondent up to fail, but that it also retaliated against Respondent for exercising his right to report an assault to the police.

[3] As discussed above, the District's evaluation rubrics are contained in each year's "Framework for Effective Teaching" publication. In regard to the number of minimal observations and conferences for teachers on a CAP, the Framework incorporates controlling sections of the New Jersey Administrative Code.

The Evidence is Insufficient to Support a Finding of Retaliation

I am not persuaded by Respondent's argument that he was subject to retaliation for conduct in which he engaged in December 2012. Contrary to Respondent's argument, the evidence established that Respondent was not transferred out of Newark Vocational High School against his will, but rather that he requested transfer from the High School toward the end of the 2012-2013 school year. Additionally, the comment relied upon by the Respondent to show a retaliatory intent – that his life would change if he sought a transfer - is ambiguous at best and could easily be interpreted as stating the obvious; a teacher changing schools will likely experience change. In any event, there is no evidence that any observation or evaluation of Respondent during the two school years at issue was completed by any individual with knowledge of any aspect of Respondent's alleged December 2012 student-assault. Nor, for that matter, is there any evidence in the record sufficient to establish animus toward Respondent by any supervisor or administrator during the 2013-2014 or 2014-2015 school years.

Curriculum, Textbooks, Workbooks and Class Time

Contrary to the argument of Respondent, I find based upon the evidence, including testimony I credit by administrator Barbaran, that Respondent was provided a copy of the District's world language curriculum. Although it may be true that textbooks and workbooks were not provided Respondent because of the District's then recent transition to the Common Core Standards, the evidence establishes that Respondent was directed to specific web addresses containing extensive, relevant online teaching materials. Nor am I persuaded that because the New Jersey Core Curriculum Standards state that data has shown that programs "offering a minimum of 440 hours of particular instruction in classes that meet at least three times a week throughout the academic year produce a majority of students who can speak at novice, high proficient level or higher" requires a finding that a school's evaluation of a teacher who meets with students for fewer hours or fewer times per week must necessarily be arbitrary of capricious. In the instant matter there is no evidence that Respondent was singled out and given a more onerous schedule than the world language teachers he replaced, that the school's scheduling of Respondent's classes were inconsistent with the resources available to the schools, that the Respondent's CAPs were calibrated to a level of instructional time inconsistent with that provided Respondent, or that the goals set for Respondent – such as having his students progress to a point of being able to write a single paragraph with correct grammar – were so wholly unrealistic as to controvert the very legitimacy of the goals.

Respondent's Certification

Consistent with the argument of Respondent, the evidence establishes that Respondent is neither certified in "special education" or in "bilingual education," and that during both years at issue Respondent was required to teach bilingual classes and classes containing special needs students.[4]

District witnesses, including Park Elementary Principal Esteves, Roberto Clemente Principal Mendez and Roberto Clemente Administrator Barbaran, offered testimony that "specials" teachers in their respective schools who are certified to teach in the subject of their specialty course are qualified to teach bilingual and special needs students. Although Respondent disputed that the three District-witnesses had the authority and expertise to offer such testimony, the three witnesses testified based upon their years of experience and I credit their testimonies. The fact is, Respondent is certified and as stated in his state Certification; "is authorized to serve in the public schools of New Jersey as... Teacher of Spanish." There is nothing on the face of Respondent's teaching certification that otherwise restricts his certification or would render him unqualified as a "Teacher of Spanish" to students in New Jersey Pubic Schools who were bilingual of special needs.

[4] As a World Language teacher Respondent taught what is referred to as a "special" class. "Specials" include such subjects as art, music, physical education and other subjects that students are taught one or two periods a week by teachers other than the student's regular classroom teacher. The teaching of such "specials" should not be confused with teaching of "special needs" students. As for the bilingual education reference, the record establishes that all bilingual classes taught by Respondent primarily consisted of students who spoke the Spanish language.

Conclusion

Under the circumstances presented, I find that the evidence is insufficient to support a finding that Respondent's annual evaluations were in any part motivated by a desire to retaliate against him or that additionally, in rating Respondent "Ineffective" in his annual summative evaluations the District actions were otherwise arbitrary or capricious. The District's administrators did not set Respondent up to fail, but rather the administrators made substantial, good faith efforts to address Respondent's performance issues and support the teacher. Notwithstanding such efforts, complying substantially with its applicable evaluation processes, the District rated Respondent Ineffective in school years 2013-2014 and 2014-1015.

Based upon the record as a whole and my consideration of all claims, theories and argument offered by the parties, I find that the District has met its burden of establishing by a preponderance of the evidence the truth of its efficiency tenure charges.

The tenure charges are sustained.

Based on the foregoing case law and N.J.A.C. 6A:2-5.6, I hereby accept the Letter of Resignation signed by Ryan Tirrell, effective February 23, 2016, and Order that the tenure charges against Ryan Tirrell be dismissed as moot. (See attached).

BACKGROUND

In accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 as amended, by letter dated January 4, 2016, the Penns Grove Carney's Point Regional District Board of Education ("Board") filed Tenure Charges against respondent, Ryan Tirrell. The Board Certificate of Determination approving the Tenure Charges and suspension of Mr. Tirrell without pay, dated January 19, 2016, was filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.2(a). The respondent was charged with conduct unbecoming a teacher, incapacity and other just cause as the reason for the tenure charges.

On February 16, 2016, the tenure charges were referred to the undersigned pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 as amended by P.L. 2012, c.26. Prior to the commencement of the hearing, the respondent submitted a unilateral, voluntary and irrevocable resignation.

Given the respondent's unilateral resignation, in the Arbitrator's opinion, the approval of the Commissioner of Education would not be necessary pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6, namely a "Withdrawal, settlement or mooting of tenure charges." The case of State-Operated School District of the City of Jersey City, Hudson County v. Deborah Robinson, Docket No.: 403-11/03 (2004) would seem applicable to the instant case. In Robinson, the respondent submitted a letter of resignation, indicating that she was "retiring on an ordinary disability pension." ALJ Sandra Ann Robinson of the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") held: " An issue is 'moot' when a determination is sought on a matter, which, when rendered, cannot have any practical effect on the existing controversy since there remains no conflict between the parties."

Similarly, In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Bernard Saez, State Operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, OAL DKT. NO. EDU 11306-05 (2006), ALJ Robert J. Giordano held:

> "Against this backdrop, the disposition of the case is made. I CONCLUDE that given his unilateral resignation as a tenured teacher ... the tenure charges against the respondent are rendered moot. HE is no longer employed by the school district. He has no claim for back pay which could be resolved by the disposition of the charges here. The petitioner has no other legitimate interest arising out of the instant matter. I thus CONCLUDE the tenure charges certified by petitioner Bernard Saez should be dismissed."

| STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY, | : | DECISION |

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – formerly employed in various secretarial/clerical positions with the respondent school district – challenged the District's decision to terminate her employment on August 15, 2014, contending that she had acquired tenure in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 and that the termination violated her tenure and seniority rights. Further, petitioner alleged that the termination of her employment was carried out by an individual who is neither the State District Superintendent nor someone to whom that duty had been appropriately delegated. The District asserted that petitioner was an unclassified employee within a school district that adheres to the Civil Service Act (Act), and as such she was not entitled to tenure or seniority under the Tenure Act; rather, petitioner was afforded only the rights conferred by the Act. The respondent filed a motion for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there is no genuine issue of material fact in this matter, and the case is ripe for summary decision; there is no dispute that the District has opted to be a Civil Service jurisdiction covered by the Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 et seq.; petitioner served under several Civil Service clerical titles during her employment with the District; in June 2012, petitioner's position was reclassified from a Secretarial Assistant-Confidential to the unclassified titled of Confidential Assistant, and she was advised that as a result of the transfer, "there was a change in (her) employment status from non-instructional (governed by NJ Civil Service Commission) to unaffiliated; petitioner was also advised that her employment record would reflect a resignation from her civil service title effective June 30, 2012, and that she would no longer be afforded Civil Service rights; N.J.S.A. 18A:28-2 provides that no person who is in the classified service of the civil service of the state pursuant to Title 11 shall be affected by any provisions of Chapter 28 of Title 18A; conversely, it appears that if someone such as petitioner is not in the classified service, she is then subject to Title 18A. The ALJ concluded that the District is not entitled to summary decision on the claim that the Civil Service Commission (CSC) alone has jurisdiction to govern petitioner's rights; rather, where petitioner's rights under Title 11A ended when the District made her an unclassified employee outside the jurisdiction of the CSC, she then became entitled to rights under Title 18A consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:28-2. Accordingly, the ALJ granted summary decision in favor of petitioner and ordered that she be reinstated to a full-time position or assignment as appropriate to her tenure, together with back pay and benefits.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner rejected the Initial Decision, finding, inter alia, that petitioner could not have earned tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 because she did not satisfy the conditions of the statute, as she was employed in her unclassified title for less than the three years required to accrue tenure; accordingly, she could not have accrued tenure under Title 18A. The matter was remanded to the OAL for adjudication of Count Two of the petition, regarding whether petitioner's termination was carried out by an appropriately delegated individual.

| PETITIONER, | : | |
| V. | : | COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION |
| STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY, | : | DECISION |
| RESPONDENT. | : | |

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark (District) and petitioner's reply thereto.

In this action, petitioner challenges the District's decision to terminate her employment on August 15, 2014, contending that she had earned tenure in her secretarial or clerical position in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2. Petitioner also alleges – in Count Two of the petition – that the individual who terminated her employment had not been appropriately delegated the authority to make personnel determinations on behalf of the State District Superintendant. Count Two was not briefed by the parties or addressed in the Initial Decision.

By way of background, petitioner was hired by the District in May 1998 as a Provisional Clerk, Typing. As the District is a Civil Service jurisdiction covered by the Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 et seq.,[1] the Civil Service Commission (CSC) granted her

[1] Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 11A:3-1, the Civil Service Act creates three classifications of employees: career service, senior executive service, and unclassified service. N.J.S.A. 11A:3-5 provides that "[t]he political subdivision unclassified service shall not be subject to the provisions of this title unless otherwise specified." Specifically, permanent status as a Clerk 1 in January 2000. Petitioner held several other titles – including Technical Assistant 3 Provisional, Senior Clerk, and Secretarial Assistant Typing – through June 2012. Effective July 1, 2012, petitioner's position was reclassified from a classified position to the unclassified title of Confidential Assistant, and petitioner was informed by the District that she would no longer be afforded Civil Service rights. The District terminated petitioner's employment on August 15, 2014.

Petitioner filed an appeal of her termination with the Commissioner.[2] Subsequently, the District filed a motion for summary decision. Upon review, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) denied the District's motion, granted summary judgment in favor of petitioner, and ordered the District to reinstate petitioner to a full-time position as appropriate to her tenure.

In its exceptions, the District argues that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred in finding that the Commissioner has jurisdiction over the petitioner's claims because, as a Civil Service employee, the CSC has exclusive jurisdiction over her claims. (District's exceptions at 4-7). Specifically, the District argues that employees who fall under Civil Service and those who are tenured pursuant to Title 18A have separate disciplinary paths. (Id. at 6-7). The District emphasizes that by allowing petitioner to seek an appeal with the CSC and a tenure hearing from the Commissioner, petitioner is being afforded two bites at the apple. (Id. at 4-5).

Further, the District contends that the ALJ erred in finding that any secretarial or clerical position is eligible for tenure. (Id. at 8-9). The District explains that although

"teaching staff, as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1, in the public schools and county superintendants and members and business managers of boards of education" are included in the unclassified service. N.J.S.A. 11A:3-5.

[2] Petitioner also appealed her termination with the CSC. The CSC determined that petitioner was not entitled to an appeal before the CSC because it does not have jurisdiction to review the termination of an unclassified employee, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6 and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.1. Petitioner appealed the CSC decision to the Appellate Division, which is currently pending.

N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 provides tenure to any person holding any secretarial or clerical position in a school district after three consecutive years of employment, employees are not eligible to receive double tenure protections under both Title 11A and Title 18A because N.J.S.A. 18A:28-2 excludes persons who are in the classified service of the civil service from obtaining tenure under Title 18A. (Id. at 9). Additionally, the District argues that the ALJ erred when he found that petitioner became eligible for tenure when her Civil Service rights ended. (Id. at 10-13). The District maintains that even though petitioner's Civil Service rights ended when she resigned from her classified title, she remained in a school district that was exclusively governed by the CSC. (Id. at 11).

Finally, the District contends that the ALJ erred in finding that petitioner held tenure in a secretarial position when her title was Confidential Assistant. (Id. at 14-17). The District points out that the Initial Decision fails to address when and in what capacity petitioner obtained tenure rights. (Id. at 14). Alternatively, the District argues that "even if the extinguishing of Title 11A tenure rights allowed [petitioner] to begin accruing tenure rights under Title 18A, she would not have achieved tenure in this position until three years after June 30, 2012, or July 1, 2015," and petitioner was terminated one year shy of the statutory minimum set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2. (Id. at 15).

In reply, petitioner argues that the ALJ properly found that petitioner acquired tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2. (Petitioner's reply at 7). As tenure laws are construed in favor of employees, petitioner argues that Title 11A did not apply to her as she was unclassified, and that she met the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2. (Id. at 7-12). Specifically, petitioner reiterates that there is no doubt that she acquired tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(b) because she worked in a secretarial or clerical position since she received a permanent status appointment on January 1, 2000, more than a decade prior to her termination. (Id. at 12). Petitioner contends that there are no exceptions to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 and "nothing which states that individuals employed in a school district who are able to attain tenure under Civil Service laws are more limited in their right to acquire tenure than those school district employees who can acquire tenure under the education laws." (Id. at 12). Petitioner also argues that her job duties, rather than her title, entitle her to tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2. (Id. at 6). However, if the District is raising this issue now, then petitioner contends that the matter should be remanded to the OAL for a factual hearing as to petitioner's job duties and what position, if any, petitioner is entitled to upon reinstatement. (Id. at 5-7).

As a preliminary matter, the Commissioner finds that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, the Commissioner has jurisdiction over controversies and disputes arising under New Jersey's school laws. Accordingly, the Commissioner has jurisdiction to hear the claims alleged in the petition as they arise under Title 18A.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner agrees with the District that petitioner could not have earned tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 because she did not satisfy the conditions of the statute. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(b), tenure is granted to "any person holding any secretarial or clerical position or employment under a board of education" after "the expiration of a period of employment of three consecutive calendar years in the district." However, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-2, "[n]o person, who is in the classified service of the civil service of the state pursuant to Title 11, Civil Service, of the Revised Statutes, shall be affected by any provisions of this chapter." Petitioner was employed in a classified Civil Service title from the beginning of her employment with the District through June 30, 2012. Accordingly, during that period, petitioner could not have accrued tenure under Title 18A because she was in the classified service, and – pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-2 – Title 18A's tenure provisions did not apply to her.

Even if petitioner became eligible for tenure under Title 18A when she became an unclassified employee – an issue which the Commissioner need not reach – she did not accrue tenure because she was only employed in that position from July 1, 2012 through August 15, 2014, approximately one year less than the three years required under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2. Petitioner is not permitted to combine the time she worked in several classified titles to the time she worked as a Confidential Assistant. See Diana Giardina v. Board of Education of the Township of Pequannock, Morris County, Commissioner Decision No. 124-05, decided April 4, 2005, at 2 (finding that petitioner "may not combine the time she was employed in the position of office aide to the time she was employed as a ten-month secretary for purposes of accruing tenure in the position of secretary, nor may she tack the time she was employed as a ten-month secretary to the time she was employed as an office aide for the purpose of accruing tenure in a clerical position").

Accordingly – for the reasons expressed herein – the Initial Decision is rejected and the matter is hereby remanded to the OAL for adjudication of Count Two of the petition.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Record Closed: October 7, 2015 Decided: December 9, 2015

BEFORE JESSE H. STRAUSS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Brenda Miller, contends that the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark (District) improperly terminated her despite her tenure and seniority while retaining persons who were non-tenured and/or were tenured but with less seniority than her in positions for which she had acquired tenure and seniority. She also contends that the person who terminated her had not properly had such duties delegated to her by the State District Superintendent. The District contends that Miller was an unclassified employee within a school district that adheres to the Civil Service Act. As such, she is not entitled to tenure or seniority under the Tenure Act (Title 18A); rather she is afforded only those rights conferred by the Civil Service Act (Title 11A).

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 10, 2014, petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal. After the District filed a timely Answer, the Department of Education's Office of Controversies & Disputes transmitted the matter, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13, to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), which filed it for hearing and determination as a contested case on November 26, 2014. After two adjournments requested by the parties, I received a Motion for Summary Decision from the District on August 4, 2015. Miller filed papers in opposition.

BACKGROUND

The following facts are set forth in the District's filing:

The District adheres to the Civil Service Act with regard to its support staff.

The July 17, 2015, Final Administrative Action of the Civil Service Commission (CSC) from Miller's appeal there disclosed the following history: Miller began her employment with the District as a Provisional Clerk, Typing in May 1998; the CSC granted her permanent status as a Clerk 1 with the District on January 1, 2000; she served as a Technical Assistant 3- Provisional from March 25, 2002 to March 31, 2004; she served in permanent status as a Senior Clerk from April 1, 2004 to July 22, 2007; she served in permanent status as a Secretarial Assistant, Typing from July 23, 2007, to June 15, 2012. Secretarial Assistant, Typing was subsequently renamed Secretarial Assistant effective June 16, 2012.

In June 2012, Miller's position was reclassified from a Secretarial Assistant-Confidential to the unclassified title of Confidential Assistant, and she was so advised. On or about November 18, 2013, through Chief Talent Officer, Vanessa Rodriguez, the District notified Miller as follows regarding her employment record:

> This will confirm your reassignment from your position of Secretarial Assistant Typist Confidential to that of Confidential Assistant that was effective July 1, 2012.
> As a result of this transfer, there was a change in your employment status from non-instructional (governed by NJ Civil Service Commission) to unaffiliated. Therefore, be advised that your employment record will reflect a resignation from your civil service title of Keyboarding Clerk 1 effective June 30, 2012. In that regard, you will no longer be afforded Civil Service rights.

Miller did not file an appeal of this employment action with the CSC.

The District notified Miller in an August 15, 2014, letter that, "[a]s an unaffiliated, at-will employee the [Newark School District was] exercising it right to terminate [her] services as a Confidential Assistant, effective the close of business [on] Friday, August 15, 2014." This action, indeed, occurred on that date. Although her "unaffiliated" status had been made clear to her, Miller filed an appeal on September 3, 2014, of her termination with the CSC. CSC records reflect that when Miller resigned in good standing from her Secretarial Assistant position on July 1, 2012, she had "Accepted unclassified position." In 2014, the CSC advised Miller that since she was serving in an unclassified title and did not appear to have taken a leave of absence from her permanent title, she was not entitled to appeal to the CSC. She, however, pursued her appeal, which led to the above-referenced July 17, 2015, CSC Final Administrative Action. In that appeal before the CSC, Miller raised the same arguments she makes in this proceeding: namely that she had retained her permanent status; and that the District failed to follow layoff procedures. The CSC concluded that the CSC does not have jurisdiction to review the termination of an unclassified employee and that Miller's remedy was to be placed on a regular reemployment list to be consulted for appointment until June 30, 2016, under Civil Service law.

At the same time that Miller filed her 2014 appeal to the CSC, she also filed this Petition of Appeal alleging that the District violated N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 et. seq. by employing either non-tenured or less senior staff in positions for which she had acquired tenure and seniority and claiming that she is entitled to such positions.

ANALYSIS AND LEGAL CONCLUSIONS

Petitioner argues that the District improperly terminated her despite her tenure and seniority while retaining persons who were non-tenured and/or were tenured but with less seniority than her in positions for which she had acquired tenure and seniority. The District argues that since the District has opted into the Civil Service Act, the CSC alone, rather than the Commissioner of Education, has the jurisdiction to determine the rights of certain of the District's employees. This matter involves the interaction between N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2, the section of the Education Laws which grants tenure to "[a]ny person holding any secretarial or clerical position or employment under a board of education of any school district or any officer thereof . . ." after being employed for specified periods of time, and Title 11A of the Civil Service Act, which does not grant tenure rights to employees in the "unclassified service." This matter appears to be one of first impression.

The standard for granting summary judgment (decision) is found in Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). In Brill, the Court looked at the precedents established in Matsushita Electric Industrial Company v. Zenith Radio Corporation, 475 U.S. 574, 106 S. Ct. 1348, 89 L. Ed. 2d 538 (1986); Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, 477 U.S. 242, 106 S. Ct. 2505, 91 L. Ed. 2d 202 (1986); and Celotex Corporation v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 106 S. Ct. 2548, 91 L. Ed. 2d 265 (1986), wherein the Supreme Court adopted a standard that "requires the motion judge to engage in an analytical process essentially the same as that necessary to rule on a motion for a directed verdict, i.e. 'whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a jury or whether it is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law.'" Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 533 (quoting Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 U.S. at 251-252, 106 S. Ct. at 2512, 91 L. Ed. 2d at 214). The Court stated that under the new standard:

> A determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact-finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial."

The Brill standard contemplates that the analysis performed by the trial judge in determining whether to grant summary judgment should comprehend the evidentiary standard to be applied to the case or issue if it went to trial. "To send a case to trial, knowing that a rational jury can reach but one conclusion, is indeed worthless and will serve no useful purpose." Id. at 541.

In addressing whether the Brill standard has been met in this case, further guidance is found in R. 4:46-2:

> An issue of fact is genuine only if, considering the burden of persuasion at trial, the evidence submitted by the parties on the motion, together with all legitimate inferences therefrom favoring the non-moving party, would require submission of the issues to the trier of fact.

I CONCLUDE that this matter is ripe for summary decision under the applicable standard.

There is no dispute that the District has opted to be a Civil Service jurisdiction covered by the Civil Service Act (Act). N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 et seq. The Act creates three classifications of employees: (1) career service, (2) senior executive service and (3) unclassified service. N.J.S.A. 11A:3-1. N.J.S.A. 11A:3-5 provides that the political subdivision unclassified service shall not be subject to the provisions of this title unless otherwise specified. That section then provides an inclusive list of such unclassified positions without designating the list as exclusively inclusive. That list, for the purpose of school districts, includes, "Teaching staff as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1, in the public schools and county superintendents and members and business managers of boards of education." N.J.S.A. 11A:3-5.g. Additionally the list includes, "[i]n school districts organized pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-1 et seq., the executive controller, public information officer and executive directors of board affairs, personnel, budget, purchasing, physical facilities, data processing, financial affairs and internal audit." N.J.S.A. 11A:3-5r. The District has determined, apparently without objection by the CSC as indicated in the CSC's July 17, 2015, Final Administrative Action, that Miller's title was unclassified[1] as a Confidential Assistant. In other words, it added to the list of unclassified school district personnel set forth in the Civil Service Act. Not only does the District's November 18, 2013, letter (R-4) advise Miller that she would "no longer be afforded Civil Service rights," the CSC's July 17, 2015, decision (R-7 p. 5) states that, "[p]ursuant to N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6 and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.1, the Commission does not have jurisdiction to review the termination of an unclassified employee." [emphasis supplied] In light of the CSC's clearly articulated position to the contrary, the District's argument is unpersuasive that, since the District has opted into the Civil Service Act, the CSC alone, rather than the Commissioner of Education, has the jurisdiction to govern the rights of certain of the District's employees such as Miller. This is not a case, as the District contends, where a party is looking for two bites of the apple or where a party should have made an election of forum where a grievance could be addressed in either forum. See, Winters v. N. Hudson Reg. Fire and Rescue, 212 N.J. 67 (2012). The CSC has clearly concluded that Miller gets no bite of its apple because it considers Miller to be an unclassified employee.

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-2 provides that no person, who is in the classified service of the civil service of the state pursuant to Title 11[2] shall be affected by any provisions of Chapter 28 of Title 18A. Conversely and logically, it appears that, if someone such as Miller is not in the classified service, then she is subject to Title 18A. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the District is not entitled to Summary Decision on the claim that the CSC alone has jurisdiction to govern the rights of Miller. Instead, I CONCLUDE that, whereas Miller's rights under Title 11A ended when the District made her an unclassified employee outside the jurisdiction of the CSC, she then became entitled to rights under Title 18A consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:28-2.

[1] The District used the term "unaffiliated" rather than "unclassified" in its November 18, 2013, letter to Miller.
[2] Now Title 11A.

Our courts have long held that "the widest range should be given to the applicability of the [tenure statutes] law." Sullivan v. McOsker, 84 N.J.L. 380, 385 (E. & A. 1913). Also see, Barnes v. Bd. of Educ. of Jersey City, 85 N.J. Super. 42, 45 (App. Div. 1964). Because of its remedial purpose, the Tenure Act should be liberally construed to achieve its beneficent ends. Spiewak v. Bd. of Educ. of Rutherford, 74-75 (1982). Anything but a liberal interpretation of the interplay between the above statutes would leave Miller with no remedy.

N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 provides that any person holding any secretarial or clerical position or employment in a school district, after the expiration of a period of employment of three consecutive years in the district or a shorter period as may be fixed by the Board, shall hold the position or employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency.

By reading N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-2, and the Final Determination of the CSV in pari materia, I CONCLUDE that Miller is entitled to the tenure protections of Title 18A as the holder of a secretarial position. The District concedes that Miller received a permanent status appointment in January 2004 and had served through August 15, 2014. Although the tenure provisions of Title 11A do not apply to certain individuals in the unclassified service, there is nothing that suggests that employees denied tenure under Title 11A are thereby not entitled to tenure under Title 18A where such protections are denied only to employees in the classified service under Title 11A.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – formerly employed as a teacher of English in respondent's school district – challenged the District's decision to non-renew her contract for the 2011-2012 school year. Her appeal alleged, inter alia, that: she had been subjected to an illegal prior restraint on her freedom of speech; her poor evaluations were in retaliation for exercising her First Amendment rights; the respondent Board violated the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination (LAD) by creating a hostile work environment; she was the target of defamation; the Board's teacher observation methods were improper; her employment contract was breached; and the Board's decision not to renew said contract was arbitrary and capricious in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1. By Order dated May 3, 2013, as amended June 18, 2013, partial summary decision was granted on behalf of the Board as to those issues regarding jurisdiction to hear petitioner's claims of violation of the LAD, defamation, and breach of contract. At the conclusion of petitioner's case, the Board filed a motion for involuntary dismissal, which was granted on behalf of the Board on the issues of alleged personal bias or improper motive, and on the issue regarding petitioner's First Amendment claims. Involuntary dismissal was denied on behalf of the Board on the issue of whether the Board acted arbitrarily and capriciously in failing to renew petitioner's contract.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 provides that a board of education shall renew an employment contract only upon recommendation of the chief school administrator and a majority vote of the full membership of the board, and renewal shall not be withheld for arbitrary and capricious reasons; the petitioner bears the burden of proving that the underlying reasons for the board's actions were improper; in the instant matter, the Board strictly complied with the statutory requirements for teacher evaluations, and petitioner failed to prove that the Board acted improperly in conducting her evaluations; although petitioner had excellent reviews during her first two years of teaching honors students, her reviews declined in her third year when she was required to teach non-honors students; petitioner admitted that she had difficulty with behaviorally-challenged students, characterized as "trade students"; the Gloucester County Institute of Technology is a vocational school, with a student population of both vocational, or trade, students and college-bound pupils; the respondent Board had valid reasons to consider the petitioner's problems in teaching classes with students of differing abilities; unsatisfactory classroom performance is a valid reason for a Board to conclude that tenure should not be granted. The ALJ concluded that the Board did not act in an arbitrary or capricious manner in failing to renew the petitioner's contract. Accordingly, the ALJ affirmed the Board's actions, and dismissed the petition.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner, Catherine Buonanno.[1]

Upon a comprehensive review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) – for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision – that the Board's decision to non-renew the petitioner for the 2011-2012 school year was not arbitrary capricious or unreasonable. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

BEFORE EDWARD J. DELANOY, JR., ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner challenges her failure to receive tenure status as a teacher of English. On August 3, 2011, petitioner filed a petition alleging that she was subjected to an illegal prior restraint on her freedom of speech; that the poor evaluations she received were in retaliation for exercising her First Amendment rights; that the Gloucester County Institute of Technology (hereinafter Board or GCIT) violated the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination (hereinafter LAD), N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 to -49, by creating a hostile work environment; defamation; breach of contract; that the Board's teacher observation methods were improper; and that the Board's decision not to renew her contract was arbitrary and capricious in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1. The Board filed an answer on September 29, 2011, and the contested case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was filed on September 29, 2011. On June 13, 2012, an Order striking the Board's Answer for failure to provide discovery was entered. On September 10, 2012, an Order reinstating the Board's Answer was entered.

Thereafter, the Board moved for summary decision on grounds that the Office of Administrative Law (hereinafter OAL) did not have jurisdiction over the First Amendment, defamation, LAD, or breach of contract claims; that petitioner failed to state a cause of action under the LAD or common law defamation; to bar any evidence that the respondent's teacher evaluation method was improper; and to dismiss petitioner's claim that respondent's decision was arbitrary and capricious. By Order dated May 3, 2013, as amended on June 18, 2013, partial summary decision was granted on behalf of the Board as to those issues regarding jurisdiction to hear petitioner's claims of violation of the LAD, defamation, and breach of contract. Conversely, partial summary decision was denied on behalf of the Board on the issue of allegations of personal bias or improper motive, and regarding the procedure used by the Board in conducting evaluations. An evidentiary hearing was scheduled to establish if personal bias or improper motive existed, and regarding the procedure used by the Board in conducting evaluations. In addition, evidence was permitted to be presented regarding petitioner's First Amendment claims to the extent necessary to determine whether the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1. Any First Amendment issues raised beyond that limited scope were dismissed for a lack of jurisdiction. Hearings were held on September 23, 2013, January 6, 2014, January 14, 2014, and July 22, 2015.

At the conclusion of petitioner's case, respondent filed a motion for involuntary dismissal. By order dated February 19, 2015, involuntary dismissal was granted on behalf of the Board on the issue of allegations of personal bias or improper motive, and involuntary dismissal was granted on behalf of the Board on the issue regarding petitioner's First Amendment claims. Involuntary dismissal was denied on behalf of the Board on the issue regarding the procedure used by the Board in conducting evaluations, and involuntary dismissal was denied on behalf of the Board on the issue regarding whether the Board acted arbitrarily and capriciously in failing to renew petitioner's contract. Those two issues remain to be decided. Written summations of the parties were received on November 4, 2015, and on that date the record closed. On December 18, 2015, an Order of Extension was entered, extending the time for filing the Initial Decision until February 4, 2016.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Testimony

Michael Dicken was the assistant superintendent of the Board's schools during the time of petitioner's employment, and he was responsible for recommending contracts for teachers. At that time, policy and regulation 3221 entitled, "Evaluation of Non-tenured Teaching Staff Members" were in effect at GCIT. (P-55; P-56.) Dicken first learned that petitioner had an issue with the alleged relationship between supervisor Christine Deeck and teacher Krystal Sloan on or about May 3, 2011. Dicken used the Professional Annual Performance Report in analyzing petitioner's performance with the Board. (P-34.) After numerous conversations, all administrators were in agreement regarding the non-renewal of petitioner's contract. This was based on the drop-off in her performance during her third year. Petitioner did not request a meeting with Dicken and Dicken did not meet with petitioner prior to making the decision not to renew her contract. Dicken reviewed petitioner's evaluations and observations before coming to his decision on petitioner.

Petitioner's professional growth plan from April 27, 2011, contained no new information for Dicken to consider. (P-30.) Dicken had all necessary information regarding petitioner, and on May 3, 2011, Dicken forwarded to petitioner a letter recommending non-renewal of petitioner's contract. (P-35.) A statement of reasons prepared by administrator Brian Shakespeare on May 4, 2011, concluded that the petitioner met the Board standard on 123 of 201 indicators observed, or 61 percent. (P-36.) This letter did not contain any new information. Dicken would not, and has never, recommended a teacher for tenure with a 61 percent qualification level. Shakespeare was incorrect on the dates of the first and second observations. (P-36.)

On the basis of this data and the recommendation of the superintendent, the Board voted not to renew the petitioner's contract based on her performance at its meeting on May 11, 2011. (P-37.) On May 25, 2011, Dicken provided a letter to petitioner again outlining the reasons for her non-renewal. (P-38.) Petitioner was deficient in approximately twenty-three areas. (P-38.) The letter provided the same reasons as outlined by Shakespeare to Dicken on May 4, 2011. (P-36.) Dicken was not clear on what a sufficient passing percentage would be, but he was certain that 61 percent was not acceptable. Upon testifying during respondent's case, Dicken stated that a teacher should have at least an 80 percent qualification level.

Catherine Buonanno received her provisional teaching certificate as a teacher of English in September 2008. (P-7.) She was employed as an English teacher at GCIT on September 23, 2008 (P-8), for the 2008-2009 school year (P-11), and continuing for the 2009-2010 and 2010-2011 school years. On October 2, 2008, petitioner was certified as a "Highly Qualified Teacher." (P-10.) During the 2008-2009 school year, petitioner improved in ten areas between her ten- and twenty-week evaluations (P-12; P-13), and she completed twenty-four hours of professional development. (P-14.) In June 2009, petitioner was approved in her summative evaluation by Dr. Gina Mateka, principal, of GCIT. (P-16.) In August 2009, petitioner received her standard certificate as a teacher of English. (P-17.) During the 2009-2010 school year, petitioner completed twenty-one and a half-hours of professional development (P-18), and she met or exceeded all Board requirements as determined by teacher observations, and end-of-year reviews.

At the beginning of the 2010-2011 school year, petitioner was assigned to teach three English classes a day, each ninety minutes long, with approximately thirty students in each class. Some of petitioner's students had section 504 plans, and some were special education students. Petitioner was located in a new classroom—a single classroom separated by a material screen, with two classes being taught concurrently in the same room. Krystal Sloan, also a third-year teacher up for tenure review, was assigned to share the space with petitioner.

During the early part of October 2010, Sloan's classroom was being taught by a substitute teacher. Petitioner was administering a standardized test. Sloan's class was very noisy, and petitioner called the substitute teacher and requested that she quiet her students down. When the noise continued, petitioner repeated her request to the substitute. After again receiving no relief, petitioner called the front office and requested assistance, which was provided.

On the following day, petitioner apologized to Sloan for involving the front office. Sloan was unhappy, and several days later, she called the front office to report that petitioner's class was being disruptive. Petitioner was requested to quiet her class down. Several weeks later, Sloan again called the front office to report that petitioner's class was being disruptive. Petitioner spoke to Sloan about the issue, and Sloan advised petitioner that, "You put a black mark on my record when you called the office, I'm putting a black mark on your's."

On October 21, 2010, petitioner received an e-mail from the English department coordinator, Theresa Wilson, regarding the incident, alerting petitioner and Sloan to the fact that "It is a tenure year for both of you," and that both teachers should avoid "making it an administrative issue." (P-21.) Wilson did not evaluate petitioner.

On the following morning, Dr. Mateka called petitioner to her office. Supervisor Christine Deeck was present, and Mateka asked petitioner if she wanted a union representative present. Petitioner declined, and the issue regarding Sloan was discussed. Petitioner was concerned because Deeck and Sloan seemed to have a close relationship or friendship at the school. Mateka was an intimidating presence to petitioner. Mateka advised petitioner not to speak to anyone in the English department, as they did not have petitioner's best interests in mind. After petitioner became upset, Mateka advised petitioner to go home for the day.

On October 26, 2010, petitioner received her first classroom observation/evaluation of her Senior British Literature class by Christine Deeck. (P-22.) Petitioner did not meet Board standards. Specifically, Deeck found that petitioner met the Board standard on only 37 of the 68 indicators observed, or 54 percent. Many of the criticisms about petitioner had never been raised in the prior two years. Petitioner prepared a rebuttal and discussed it with Deeck. Deeck was concerned about the special education students. Petitioner did not file a grievance concerning this review.

On November 2, 2010, petitioner was advised by Mateka to seek professional development opportunities related to various topics. (P-23.) Petitioner pursued those suggestions.

On November 19, 2010, petitioner's period 3-4 disruptive classroom was observed by Mateka (P-24.) Petitioner again did not meet Board standards. Mateka found that petitioner met Board standards on 42 of the 68 indicators observed, or 62 percent. Petitioner did not prepare a rebuttal or file a grievance concerning this review. At this time, petitioner was beginning to hear rumors that her replacement had been hired. Between November 3, 2010, and December 7, 2010, petitioner accrued twenty-seven hours of professional development on her own time. (P-25.)

On December 9, 2010, Mateka held a "pizza party" with petitioner's senior British Literature class, however the petitioner was not invited to attend. Suggestions from the students were given to petitioner. (P-26.)

On January 21, 2011, and February 9, 2011, petitioner's classroom was observed by administrator Brian Shakespeare. (P-28.) On February 28, 2011, the petitioner received her third and final classroom observation by Shakespeare (P-27), and a post-observation conference based on all three of the Shakespeare observations was to be held on March 10, 2011. Petitioner again did not meet Board standards. Shakespeare found that petitioner met the Board standards on 44 of the 68 indicators observed, or 65 percent. On April 27, 2011, petitioner met with Shakespeare, and she was given a Professional Growth Plan based on a Professional Annual Performance Report for June 2011 through June 2012, despite not being recommended for renewal of her contract for the 2011-2012 school year. (P-30; P-33; P-34.) The Professional Annual Performance Report utilized a numbering system that was new to the district. Petitioner was concerned because 77 percent was considered a level 2 for demonstrating knowledge of content and pedagogy, and because despite receiving 100 percent for the utilization of technology, petitioner received only a level 3 rating out of 4. (P-33.)

The petitioner requested a statement of reasons from the Board on April 27, 2011 (P-31), and wrote a rebuttal to Shakespeare on April 29, 2011. (P-32.) Overall, the statement of reasons prepared by Shakespeare on May 4, 2011, concluded that the petitioner met the Board standard on 123 of 201 indicators observed, or 61 percent. (P-36.) Shakespeare was incorrect on the dates of the first and second observations. (P-36.) On May 3, 2011, petitioner received a letter recommending non-renewal of petitioner's contract from Michael Dicken, the Interim Superintendent of Schools at GCIT. (P-35.) On the basis of this data and the recommendation of the superintendent, the Board voted not to renew the petitioner's contract at its meeting on May 11, 2011. (P-37.) On May 25, 2011, Dicken provided a letter to petitioner again outlining the reasons for her non-renewal. (P-38.) Petitioner was deficient in approximately twenty-three areas. (P-38.) The letter provided the same reasons as outlined by Shakespeare to Dicken on May 4, 2011. (P-36.) Petitioner was never advised what an acceptable percentage of indicators would have been to allow her to keep her job.

On June 6, 2011, the petitioner requested a Donaldson hearing before the Board. (P-39.) The hearing was held on July 5, 2011 (P-41.), at which time petitioner read her statement into the record. (P-43.) Petitioner also provided the Board a PowerSchool comprehensive analysis of her CP English IV Class. The purpose of this document was to provide the Board data on petitioner's classroom and students, and to prove that the decision not to renew her contract was incorrect. (P-57.) On July 20, 2011, after reviewing the evidence, the Board affirmed the superintendent's decision not to renew petitioner's contract for the 2011-2012 school year. Petitioner never received tenure status at GCIT. Petitioner agreed that she was never advised by any administrator that she and Sloan were competing for a single position.

Dr. Gina Mateka received her Ph.D. in 2001 and was the principal of GCIT during the 2010-2011 school year. She has performed over 200 observation reports in her career. Mateka encouraged petitioner to apply for a job at GCIT and as a result of a satisfactory interview with Mateka, petitioner was hired. During petitioner's first teaching year of 2008-2009, Mateka allowed petitioner a chance to settle into her job. Mateka did not undertake any observations of petitioner that year. Petitioner performed well that year, and no meetings were needed to discuss her performance.

During the 2009-2010 school year, petitioner also did relatively well. Mateka observed petitioner, and petitioner met or exceeded the district standards in most categories. (P-68.)

During the 2010-2011 school year, Mateka initially became aware of an issue between Sloan and petitioner on or about October 20, 2010. The two teachers had words in the hallway, and Sloan went to Mateka with the problem. On October 21, 2010, Mateka addressed the issue with petitioner, who was upset that Sloan went to Mateka. Petitioner complained that she was getting resistance from some students, that she had no aide for her period 3-4 class, and that some children did not like her.

The petitioner was concerned with loud noise issues in the classroom, but she did not want to "throw Sloan under the bus." The petitioner called the front office about Sloan's classroom when a substitute teacher was working there. (P-70.) Mateka advised petitioner not to have conversations with other employees regarding Sloan. Mateka did not recall stating that other members of the department did not have petitioner's best interests at heart. Mateka was not aware that department coordinator Wilson had written to both teachers with regard to the incident. (P-21.)

During a teacher's tenure year, multiple evaluations are considered. Mateka was concerned with a problem with petitioner when she reviewed petitioner's first observation by Deeck of October 26, 2010. (P-22.) Deeck reported that there was a lack of continuity in the classroom, that topics were not being fully developed, that the class was fast paced and that behavior issues were not being addressed.

On November 2, 2010, the post-observation review was held. A union representative was present on behalf of petitioner. At that meeting petitioner was angry and emotionally unstable. Petitioner was upset that she was being ignored by other employees, and she was concerned that she was always being assigned reluctant students who were a challenge. Petitioner was upset that her period 9-10 class had eleven children and was difficult. Petitioner asked why things were going wrong after two good years. Mateka responded by advising that in petitioner's first two years she had mostly honors students, and that in her third year, due to a Department of Education change, the petitioner did not have honors students. Nonetheless, district teachers must be able to teach all honors and non-honors trade school students. Mateka offered to assist administratively with petitioner's classroom issues by doing classroom walkthroughs and offering counseling. (P-23.) Petitioner was also offered a professional improvement plan, and she was encouraged to observe other teachers. Mateka did receive the professional development certificates that petitioner earned.

On November 19, 2010, Mateka independently observed the petitioner in her period 3-4 class. Mateka observed the entire ninety-minute class. Although there were technology issues and the internet was down in petitioner's classroom, the petitioner did not perform well during this observation and did not meet all district standards. (P-24.) Petitioner received satisfactory ratings of "3" on only 62 percent of the indicators. (P-24.) Petitioner's lesson was elementary and below standards for senior level students. Students were copying vocabulary words for half of the period. The expectation was that all indicators in the evaluation should be met. Following this observation, Mateka had concerns regarding petitioner's continued employment. The petitioner did not rebut Mateka's observations. Mateka inquired about the status of the petitioner's personal life and was advised that everything was fine.

The petitioner requested that Mateka speak to her period 3-4 class with regard to their behavior. On December 9, 2010, Mateka spoke to the period 3-4 class during their lunch period. The petitioner had the option to attend but chose not to stay. After discussing their classroom behavior, Mateka requested and received input from students. (P-26.) After receiving this input from the students, petitioner became upset and distraught.

Mateka met with Deeck and Shakespeare toward the end of the year before making a decision on petitioner. Mateka did not recommend petitioner for tenure because petitioner's performance was not improving, and because petitioner was becoming overly emotional and unprofessional. Mateka found this disheartening, and not understandable. Petitioner was not meeting the Board's expectations at a 61 percent overall performance rate. Mateka has never recommended a teacher with a 61 percent performance rating.

Mateka did not consider petitioner's first two years of excellent performance while making this decision. Mateka could not give petitioner additional time to improve because the law allowed for only three years of evaluations. Mateka hired a new teacher with whom she had gone through her doctoral program, but the teacher did not replace petitioner, rather the teacher was hired as an additional English teacher, needed because of school expansion. Although Sloan was rehired, this had no bearing on petitioner's dismissal. Petitioner's classroom type, as well as the classroom divider, was approved by the Department of Education.

Rita Hale retired from GCIT in July 2013, after twenty-seven years as an in-class support teacher. Hale had never been an administrator and she was not trained to do performance evaluations. Hale met the petitioner during the 2008-2009 school year, and she was the in-class support teacher for the petitioner during the 2009-2010 school year. Hale agreed that petitioner did an excellent job teaching the students during the 2009-2010 school year. After her retirement, Hale stayed in touch with the petitioner as casual friends.

Hale had heard from several students of petitioner that Mateka had offered them a pizza party. Hale was not present for the party, but the students told Hale that Mateka asked them about what was going on in the classroom, what was being taught, and how was the petitioner performing. The petitioner had advised Hale that petitioner was not invited to the pizza party but was told to wait. Mateka had a reputation for being friends with certain teachers, and care had to be taken when speaking to those friends of Mateka, because the conversations would often get back to Mateka.

Shakespeare was known by the nickname, "The Grim Reaper," because he would destroy a teacher and his evaluations did not contain constructive criticism. Hale was aware that the administration had done certain evaluations and destroyed the observations. Although Hale was not present in the classrooms during the petitioner's 2010-2011 evaluations, Hale did not believe that the petitioner was fairly evaluated during the 2010-2011 school year.

Brian Shakespeare has worked in the Gloucester County School District for twenty-three years. Prior to becoming an administrator in 2003, he began his career as a teacher at the middle school where he taught behaviorally challenged children. He is currently the assistant superintendent for curriculum instruction. Part of his responsibility as an assistant superintendent is to conduct performance evaluations. He has performed over 500 evaluations in his career.

All GCIT teachers are given a rubric which informs them of what their performance standards need to be, and such a rubric was provided to the petitioner. (P-58.) During the 2010-2011 school year, Shakespeare observed petitioner on more than three occasions but he authored a written evaluation of petitioner on only one occasion. (P-27.) This evaluation was based only upon the February 28, 2011, observation, but Shakespeare did review Mateka's and Deeck's recommendations prior to doing his evaluation. Shakespeare also prepared a draft evaluation which was based on three observations. (P-28.) This was done because petitioner and her union president objected to numerous observation dates being placed on her evaluation, and Shakespeare agreed to remove the January 21, 2011, and February 9, 2011, observation dates. Shakespeare observed petitioner on more than one occasion because he was hopeful that his recommended changes and ideas would be put in place by petitioner. He did not do written evaluations for the January 21, 2011, and February 9, 2011, observations because petitioner's performance was not good on those dates, and he was attempting to assist petitioner with her performance. Shakespeare did not hold a post-observation conference subsequent to the January 21, 2011, and February 9, 2011, observations, but he did briefly discuss issues and problems with petitioner immediately after each class. Shakespeare believed that he spoke to Mateka about petitioner's difficulties in meeting District standards sometime after his January 21, 2011, observation. In order to assist the petitioner, Shakespeare offered her his office so she could complete a webinar. He also offered recommendations on petitioner's evaluation document (P-27), but he did not follow up on his suggestions.

Shakespeare did not observe petitioner again after February 28, 2011, because of time constraints in attempting to meet an April 30, 2011, deadline for all teacher evaluations. Although Shakespeare felt that petitioner did not approach District standards, he did not give petitioner the corresponding grade of a "1" on her evaluations. Petitioner's lowest grades were "2's."

Shakespeare spoke to petitioner again at her summary evaluation. Petitioner's content was insufficient and progression on the content was too slow. At the completion of the 2011 year, Shakespeare was concerned about petitioner's tenure because of her low percentage (65 percent) of meeting the 69 required District standards. This was insufficient and Shakespeare has never recommended anyone for tenure with a 65 percent approval rating. Shakespeare compiled a summary of all of petitioner's evaluations. (P-30.) Petitioner met the required standards in only six of twenty-three performance areas. (P-30 at 2.) The District would normally expect a teacher to meet at least 85 percent of level 3 performances in their evaluations. As a result, Shakespeare did not recommend renewing petitioner's contract. At no time did petitioner ever file a grievance due to the failure of the District to undertake a post-observation conference.

Christine Deeck became the Director of Guidance for the District in 2008. She has undertaken approximately forty evaluations of third-year teachers in her career. To approve a teacher for tenure, Deeck requires 80 percent of evaluation standards to be "3" or better, and she has never recommended a teacher for tenure who has achieved less that an 80 percent efficiency rate.

Deeck observed petitioner's classroom on October 26, 2010, and recorded notes of her observations. (R-1.) She observed an entire class period consisting of senior year students. Deeck was looking for positive and negative teaching skills. Petitioner had difficulty controlling and managing the students and getting the class started. If petitioner lost control of the class, she would stop what she was doing and move on to a new topic, advising that she was doing so to save time. She did not complete her own expected tasks and she did not correct inappropriate student behaviors. Some in-class assignments were terminated before the students completed their work. Instructions were often confusing, and petitioner seemed to plead with the students for their cooperation. Petitioner was indecisive, unprepared and disorganized. Deeck disagreed that she did not find any positive aspects of petitioner's teaching skills during her observation.

Deeck found that petitioner satisfactorily met 37 of 67 indicators, or 54 percent. (P-22.) Deeck would and could not recommend a teacher with this percentage on her indicators. Deeck advised Mateka and Shakespeare of her findings

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon a review of the testimony and the documentary evidence presented, I FIND the following FACTS:

Petitioner received her provisional teaching certificate as a teacher of English in September 2008. The school principal, Dr. Mateka, encouraged petitioner to apply for a job at GCIT and as a result of a satisfactory interview with Mateka, petitioner was hired. She was employed as an English teacher at GCIT on September 23, 2008, for the 2008-2009 school year, and continuing for the 2009-2010 and 2010-2011 school years. On October 2, 2008, petitioner was certified as a "Highly Qualified Teacher." During the 2008-2009 school year, petitioner improved in ten areas between her ten- and twenty-week evaluations, and she completed twenty-four hours of professional development. In June 2009, petitioner was approved in her summative evaluation by Mateka. In August 2009, petitioner received her standard certificate as a teacher of English. During the 2009-2010 school year, petitioner completed twenty-one and one-half hours of professional development, and she met or exceeded all Board requirements as determined by teacher observations, and end-of-year reviews.

At the beginning of the 2010-2011 school year, petitioner was assigned to teach three English classes a day, each ninety minutes long, with approximately thirty students in each class. Each class had a different curriculum. While petitioner had previously been teaching honors students, she was assigned non-honors students for the 2010-2011 year. Some of petitioner's students had section 504 plans, and some were special education students. Petitioner was also assigned to a new classroom—a single classroom separated by a material screen, making it in effect a double classroom with two classes being taught concurrently. This classroom type, as well as the classroom divider, was approved by the Department of Education.

Sloan was assigned to share the classroom space with petitioner. The classroom was noisy, and petitioner found her classes to be "challenging" because of the differing abilities of the students. In early October 2010, Sloan's classroom was being taught by a substitute teacher. Petitioner was attempting to administer a test, and the substitute was permitting Sloan's class to become noisy. Petitioner requested assistance from the principal's office to assist in controlling Sloan's classroom. The following day, petitioner apologized and explained what had occurred to Sloan. Sloan was unhappy, and several days later, she called the front office to report that petitioner's class was being disruptive. Petitioner was requested to quiet her class down. Several weeks later, Sloan again called the front office to report that petitioner's class was being disruptive. Sloan admitted to making this report because, "You placed a black mark on my record, so I am placing a black mark on your record."

Thereafter, petitioner received an e-mail from the English department coordinator, Wilson, regarding the incident, alerting petitioner to the fact that "both teachers are in tenure year" and should avoid "making it an administrative issue." On the following day, petitioner was called into a meeting with Mateka, who advised petitioner not to speak to anyone in the English department about Sloan because those individuals did not have the petitioner's best interests at heart. Classroom management was also discussed at that meeting.

On October 26, 2010, petitioner received her first classroom observation on her Senior British Literature class by Director of Guidance Christine Deeck. Deeck observed an entire class period consisting of senior year students. Deeck was looking for positive and negative teaching skills. Petitioner had difficulty controlling and managing the students and getting the class started. If petitioner lost control of the class, she would stop what she was doing and move on to a new topic, advising that she was doing so to save time. She did not complete her own expected tasks and she did not correct inappropriate student behaviors. Some in-class assignments were terminated before the students completed their work. Instructions were often confusing, and petitioner seemed to plead with the students for their cooperation. Petitioner was indecisive, unprepared and disorganized. Deeck found few positive aspects of petitioner's teaching skills during her observation.

Deeck found that petitioner satisfactorily met 37 of 68 indicators, or 54 percent. Deeck was concerned about the special education students. Many of the criticisms about petitioner had never been raised in the prior two years. Petitioner prepared a rebuttal and discussed it with Deeck. Petitioner did not file a grievance concerning this review. Deeck would and could not recommend a teacher with this percentage on her indicators. Deeck advised Mateka and Shakespeare of her findings. Although petitioner alleges that Deeck had a friendship with Sloan that may have influenced Deeck's review of petitioner, I FIND no compelling evidence was presented by petitioner to substantiate those concerns.

On November 2, 2010, a post-observation conference took place with Deeck. On that same day, petitioner met again with Mateka. A union representative was present on behalf of petitioner. At that meeting petitioner was angry and emotional. Petitioner was upset that she was being ignored by other employees, and she was concerned that she was always being assigned reluctant students. Petitioner was upset that her period 9-10 class had eleven children and was a challenge. Petitioner asked why things were going wrong after two good years. Mateka responded by advising that in petitioner's first two years she had mostly honors students, and that in her third year, due to a Department of Education change, the petitioner did not have honors students. Mateka advised that district teachers must be able to teach all honors and non-honors trade school students. Mateka offered to assist administratively with petitioner's classroom issues by doing classroom walkthroughs and offering counseling. Petitioner was also offered a professional improvement plan, and she was encouraged to observe other teachers.

On November 19, 2010, petitioner's entire ninety-minute period 3-4 class was observed by Mateka. Although there were technology issues and the internet was down in petitioner's classroom, the petitioner did not perform well during this observation and did not meet all district standards. Petitioner received satisfactory ratings of "3" on only 42 of the 68 indicators, or 62 percent. Petitioner's lesson was elementary and below standards for senior level students. Students were copying vocabulary words for half of the period. The expectation was that all indicators in the evaluation should be met.

Following this observation, Mateka had concerns regarding petitioner's continued employment. The petitioner did not rebut Mateka's observations. Mateka inquired about the status of the petitioner's personal life and was advised that everything was fine.

On December 9, 2010, Dr. Mateka held a "pizza party" with petitioner's senior British Literature class; however the petitioner was not present. Dr. Mateka asked for input from the students regarding the class. The information gathered was put together in a document and given to petitioner.

On January 21, 2011, and February 9, 2011, petitioner's classroom was observed by Assistant Superintendent Shakespeare. On February 28, 2011, the petitioner received her third and final classroom observation by Shakespeare and a post-observation conference was held on March 11, 2011. Shakespeare's evaluation was based only on the February 28, 2011, observation, and Shakespeare did review Mateka's and Deeck's recommendations prior to doing his evaluation. He did not do written evaluations for the January 21, 2011, and February 9, 2011, observations because petitioner's performance was not good on those dates, and he was attempting to assist petitioner with her performance. Shakespeare did not hold a post-observation conference subsequent to the January 21, 2011, and February 9, 2011, observations, but he did briefly discuss issues and problems with petitioner immediately after each class. In order to assist the petitioner, Shakespeare offered her his office so she could complete a webinar. He also offered recommendations on petitioner's evaluation document but he did not follow up on his suggestions. Shakespeare did not observe petitioner again after February 28, 2011, because of time constraints in attempting to meet an April 30, 2011, deadline for all teacher evaluations. Shakespeare determined that petitioner did not meet District standards. Shakespeare found that petitioner met the District standards on 44 of the 68 indicators observed, or 65 percent. Shakespeare did not recommend renewal of petitioner's contract because he believed petitioner would need to meet approximately 85 percent of the indicators.

Mateka met with Deeck and Shakespeare toward the end of the year before making a decision on petitioner. Mateka did not recommend petitioner for tenure because petitioner's performance was not improving, and because petitioner was becoming overly emotional and unprofessional.

The petitioner requested a statement of reasons from the District on April 27, 2011. Overall, the statement provided by the District to petitioner concluded that the petitioner met the District standard on 123 of 201 indicators observed, or 61 percent. Dicken and Shakespeare expected that a teacher should have at least an 80 percent qualification level. Petitioner was not meeting the Board's expectations at a 61 percent overall performance rate, and Mateka has never recommended a teacher with a 61 percent performance rate.

Mateka did not consider petitioner's first two years of excellent performance while making this decision. Mateka could not give petitioner additional time to improve because the law allowed for only three years of evaluations. Mateka hired a new teacher with whom she had gone through her doctoral program, but the teacher did not replace petitioner, rather the teacher was hired as an additional English teacher, needed because of school expansion. Although Sloan was rehired, this had no bearing on petitioner's dismissal.

On May 3, 2011, petitioner received a letter of non-renewal from Dicken. On the basis of the data and the recommendation of Dicken, the Board voted not to renew the petitioner's contract at its meeting on May 11, 2011. On May 25, 2011, Dicken provided a letter to petitioner again outlining the reasons for her non-renewal. Petitioner was deficient in approximately twenty-three areas. The letter provided the same reasons as outlined by Shakespeare to Dicken on May 4, 2011.

On June 6, 2011, the petitioner requested a Donaldson hearing before the District. The hearing was held on July 5, 2011. On July 20, 2011, after reviewing the evidence, the District affirmed the superintendent's decision not to renew petitioner's contract for the 2011-2012 school year.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 provides that a board of education shall renew the employment contract of an employee only upon recommendation of the chief school administrator and by a majority vote of the full membership of the board. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1. "The board shall not withhold its approval for arbitrary and capricious reasons." Ibid. "Arbitrary and capricious" means having no rational basis. Bayshore Sewage Co. v. Dep't of Envtl. Protection, 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199-200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd, 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974). Where there is room for two opinions, an action is not arbitrary and capricious when exercised "honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached." Ibid. Where there is substantial evidence in the record to support more than one result, it is the agency's choice which governs. Dore v. Bedminster Bd. of Educ., 185 N.J. Super. 447, 453 (App. Div. 1982).

The petitioner bears the burden of proving that the underlying reasons for the board's actions are improper. Bigart v. Paramus Bd. of Educ., 1979 S.L.D. 123, 133. Such an allegation requires "substantial proof that the board acted improperly and to the exclusion of all other bona fide reasons." Ibid. (citing Bradley v. Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of Freehold, 1976 S.L.D. 590.) A petitioner's bare allegation of arbitrariness is insufficient to establish grounds for action. Donaldson v. Bd. of Educ. of North Wildwood, 65 N.J. 236, 247 (1974).

A board's determination not to grant tenure "need not be grounded on unsatisfactory classroom or professional performance for there are many unrelated but nonetheless equally valid reasons why a board . . . may conclude that tenure should not be granted." Donaldson, supra at 241. The board possesses the "right to reach its conclusion about a non-tenured teacher on a broad base of input received from a variety of people, including members of the public" and "parents of students." El-Hewie v. Bd. of Educ. of the Bergen Cnty. Vocational Sch. Dist., EDU 7673-06, Initial Decision, (February 27, 2008), adopted, Comm'r, (April 11, 2008) <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>.

Although a board may look beyond evaluations in making its decision, where there is evidence of improper motives, personal animosity, or bias, a hearing is needed to determine whether the board acted improperly. See Kopera v. Bd. of Educ. of West Orange, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960) (stating that discretionary action of a local board will not be upset unless patently arbitrary or induced by improper motives, and remanding to make findings of fact)[1]; Ruch v. Bd. of Educ. of Greater Egg Harbor Regional High Sch. Dist., 1968 S.L.D. 7 (stating in dicta that a hearing would have been required had there been allegations of personal bias).

In Ruch, the petitioner alleged that the board's failure to renew his tenure was improper, because it was based on inaccurate and prejudicial reports. Ibid. The administrative law judge (ALJ) dismissed the matter because there was "no allegation that the supervisor's report was made in bad faith, the result of personal animosity or bias." Ibid. An employee's dismissal for personal reasons does not give a probational teacher the right to a hearing. Ibid. However, a board's employment practices cannot be based on frivolous considerations which have "no relationship to the purpose to be served." Ibid. "Such a modus operandi is clearly unacceptable and when it exists it should be brought to light and subjected to scrutiny." Ibid.

I. Was the procedure used by the Board in conducting evaluations improper?

N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.1 governs the evaluation process for non-tenured teachers, and provides that:

[1] The Commissioner should not substitute his judgment for those who made the evaluation, but merely determine whether they had a reasonable basis for their conclusions. Kopera, supra at 296. The Kopera court held that "since the proceeding before the Commissioner was the first 'hearing' afforded appellant . . . the Commissioner should have determined (1) whether the underlying facts were as those who made the evaluation claimed, and (2) whether it was unreasonable for them to conclude as they did upon those facts . . ." Id. at 296-97.

> [e]very board of education in this State shall cause each non-tenure teaching staff member employed by it to be observed and evaluated in the performance of her or his duties at least three times during each school year but not less than once during each semester. Said evaluations are to take place before April 30 each year . . .
> Each evaluation shall be followed by a conference between that teaching staff member and his or her superior or superiors. The purpose of this procedure is to recommend as to reemployment, identify any deficiencies, extend assistance for their correction and improve professional competence.

The statute provides a minimum standard of procedural right that may be further implemented by more definitive procedural safeguards. Bd. of Educ. v. Fair Lawn Educ. Ass'n, 174 N.J. Super. 554, 558 (App. Div. 1980). Additionally, observations must be followed within a reasonable period of time by a conference between the staff member and the person who conducted the observation and prepared the written evaluation. N.J.A.C. 10:11-1.7(e).

At issue is whether the petitioner has furnished "substantial proof" that her evaluations were conducted improperly. From the proofs submitted, the Board did comply with the letter of the applicable statutes and regulations. As such, the petitioner must establish that the Board acted arbitrarily and capriciously with regard to her other claims concerning her evaluations. "Local boards of education have an almost complete right to terminate the services of a teacher who has no tenure, even if the recommended procedures to be followed for evaluating the teacher are not adhered to." Tuck-Lynn v. State-Operated Sch. Dist. of Newark, EDU 3181-08, Initial Decision, (October 15, 2009), adopted in part, modified in part, Comm'r, (November 20, 2009) <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>. In Tuck-Lynn, the appellant did not receive pre- and post-conferences for observations. Tuck-Lynn, supra, at Initial Decision. The appellant argued for reinstatement, on grounds that the State statute was not adhered to. The ALJ determined that because there was no evidence that the non-renewal violated "legislative policies expressed or fairly to be implied in the statutory scheme administered by the agency," that the board action was not improper.

Similarly in Dore, a non-tenured teacher whose contract was not renewed claimed that the board acted arbitrarily and capriciously by not conducting the requisite three evaluations during the school year. Dore, supra, at 450 (App. Div. 1982). The Appellate Division disagreed, however, and held that "the lack of strict compliance" with the evaluation requirements was not "a sufficient reason to afford petitioner either reinstatement or financial reward." Id. at 455-56.

Here, the petitioner argues that she met or exceeded all district goals in all criteria during both the 2008-2009 and 2009-2010 academic years, and she was never advised of any problem or deficiency in her first two academic years. Petitioner testified that she earned praises on her evaluations during her first two academic years. However, proof of excellent work in the first two years cannot presuppose excellent work in the third year. Petitioner's first observation during her third year of employment, performed by Deeck, occurred on October 26, 2010, five days after petitioner's meeting with Dr. Mateka regarding the Sloan issue. Deeck observed petitioner for the entire ninety-minute class. This resulted in petitioner's first unfavorable evaluation. Notwithstanding the short time period between petitioner's meeting with Mateka on the Sloan issue and her evaluation by Deeck, petitioner has produced no evidence, other than sheer speculation, of any evil intent on the part of Deeck. Petitioner was no longer teaching honors students in her third year, and her work was faltering. Deeck found few positive aspects of petitioner's teaching skills during her observation. However, the fact that Deeck found few positive aspects does not lead to a conclusion that Deeck acted arbitrarily and capriciously. There is no evidence of any impropriety in Deeck's evaluation.

On November 19, 2010, petitioner received her second observation from Dr. Mateka. This resulted in petitioner's second unfavorable evaluation. Petitioner surges that Mateka's use of scores of "2" rather than "1" indicates that Mateka did not understand the evaluation criteria, and prove that petitioner merely needed improvement instead of immediate action. However, the distinction is practically irrelevant, as petitioner received satisfactory ratings of "3" on only 62 percent of the indicators. Scores of "3" were required to meet District standards. None of petitioner's complaints regarding how Mateka conducted this observation or completed her evaluation rise to a conclusion that Mateka acted arbitrarily and capriciously. Shortly after Dr. Mateka's observation on November 19, 2010, Dr. Mateka promised to do frequent walk-throughs of petitioner's class to assist petitioner. However, although Dr. Mateka testified that she did not know when the walk-throughs occurred and she did not recall the outcome of those walk-throughs, the walk-throughs did occur.

Petitioner's third observation, undertaken by Shakespeare, began on January 21, 2011, and continued on for two more days on February 9, 2011, and February 28, 2011. Petitioner did not receive the evaluation from the Shakespeare observation that first occurred on January 21, 2011, until after February 28, 2011. Although by this time it may have been too late for petitioner to take corrective action to address the concerns in the evaluation, the Board had met its legal requirements for evaluations, and petitioner was not entitled to an additional evaluation. Shakespeare did speak to petitioner briefly after the January 21, 2011, observation, and after the February 9, 2011, observation. Petitioner therefore had knowledge that she had made no improvements in her practice. Shakespeare wrote the evaluation following the third observation because statutorily the Board was running out of time and the third observation had to occur. Shakespeare met with petitioner on April 27, 2011, to review her evaluation. Petitioner urges that it was arbitrary and capricious for Shakespeare to fail to write an evaluation and fail to give petitioner feedback following his first observation of petitioner. However, Shakespeare testified that he did not do written evaluations for the January 21, 2011, and February 9, 2011, observations because petitioner's performance was not good on those dates, and he was attempting to assist petitioner with her performance. Had an evaluation been done for the January 21, 2011, and February 9, 2011, observations, Shakespeare was clear that they would have not been helpful to petitioner. While not the optimal practice, the action of Shakespeare was done in an attempt to assist petitioner, and his actions were not arbitrary and capricious. In fact, the Board had met its legal requirements for evaluations.

By providing three evaluations and subsequent conferences, the Board met the minimum procedural requirements set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.1 and N.J.A.C. 10:11-1.7(e). Petitioner claims that the Board erred by not doing more than the minimal procedures required. Therefore, this presents an even easier case than Dore, because here, the Board strictly complied with the statutory requirements for evaluations.

Additionally, N.J.A.C. 10:11-1.7(e) requires a conference be held within a reasonable period after the evaluation. Although petitioner contends that seventeen days was an unreasonable lapse of time, in Tuck-Lynn, the petitioner was denied relief despite the fact that no post-observation conference was held at all.

In order to meet her burden of establishing that the procedure used by the Board in conducting evaluations was arbitrary and capricious, the petitioner must furnish "substantial proof" that the Board acted improperly. However, because the Board complied with the letter of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.1 and N.J.A.C. 10:11-1.7(e), it is clear that petitioner cannot prevail on this point. I CONCLUDE that the procedures used by the Board in conducting its evaluations of petitioner were not improper.

II. Did the Board act arbitrarily and capriciously in failing to renew petitioner's contract?

Petitioner asserts that the testimony of Dicken establishes that both he and the Board acted arbitrarily and capriciously in failing to renew petitioner's contract. Dicken agreed in his testimony that he authored the May 3, 2011, correspondence to petitioner in which he stated that he would be recommending non-renewal of petitioner's contract. He further testified that he made the decision to recommend non-renewal "several weeks before the Board meeting," which occurred on May 11, 2011. Dicken also conceded that petitioner's Professional Growth Plan, developed in the 2010-2011 academic year, was created on April 27, 2011. Dicken stated that the Professional Growth Plan was part of his decision-making process in determining whether or not to recommend petitioner's non-renewal to the Board. Petitioner urges that Dicken must not be believed because he was unclear as to how he could have considered the Professional Growth Plan, authored on April 27, 2011, when making his decision regarding petitioner, if he made his decision "several weeks" prior to the May 11, 2011, Board meeting. Dicken clarified in his testimony that the issue can be explained by his idea of what constitutes "several weeks." He stated that two weeks can constitute several weeks. Certainly, the time period of April 27, 2011, to May 11, 2011, can reasonably be considered as several weeks since it does constitute fourteen days or two weeks. A such, it is not unreasonable to conclude that Dicken considered the Professional Growth Plan, authored on April 27, 2011, when he made his decision regarding petitioner, if he made his decision "several weeks" prior to the May 11, 2011, Board meeting.

Petitioner raises another issue regarding the memorandum sent from Shakespeare to Dicken, dated May 4, 2011. This memo is titled "Report Summary for Catherine Buonanno," and is a summary of petitioner's observation data for the 2010-2011 academic year. However, it was authored one day after Dicken had already sent his letter of May 3, 2011, advising of his non-renewal recommendation to petitioner. Notwithstanding that petitioner had already been terminated when her summary report was produced, this is insufficient proof that the Board's actions were arbitrary and capricious. The Board had sufficient evidence regarding petitioner's performance prior to the issuance of the "Report Summary for Catherine Buonanno," and Dicken was clear that this document contained no new information regarding petitioner's performance.

In addition, Dicken was originally unclear as to what would and would not constitute a "passing grade for reemployment." He stated that there was no set percentage but that in his professional opinion, 62 percent did not meet the standard for employment and that it was a failing percentage. However, when recalled to testify, Dicken stated that a passing percentage would be 80 percent, a much higher mark than what petitioner received. Shakespeare also believed petitioner would need to meet approximately 85 percent of the indicators. As such, the two administrators were in close agreement as to a passing percentage, and an 80 percent passing percentage requirement is not untenable or unreasonable. Therefore, the Board's actions were not arbitrary and capricious as the Board was legally entitled to set its own benchmark passing percentage.

Finally, petitioner continues to suggest in its written summation, that the Board's decision was based on improper motives. Petitioner has argued that Krystal Sloan, the teacher who shared a classroom with her, made reports to the administrators that petitioner's class was disruptive, and admitted to petitioner that her motive was "to put a black mark" on her record. Further, petitioner asserts that Christine Deeck, the administrator who conducted petitioner's first evaluation, had a "budding friendship" with Sloan. Petitioner alleges that she was shunned by the English Department, was told by the principal that the Department "did not have her best interests in mind," and that she was advised to avoid making her problem with Sloan an administrative issue because both teachers were in tenure year.

Although the issues of bias and improper motive were previously dismissed, I reiterate that petitioner's issues with Sloan were between the two teachers. Sloan's statement regarding putting a "black mark" on petitioner's record had no bearing whatsoever on the outcome of her evaluations by GCIT administrators. There is no evidence that those administrators were even aware that Sloan made the statement. There is also no evidence, other than petitioner's suspicions, that Deeck had a "budding friendship" with Sloan. Even if such a relationship did exist, petitioner has offered no proofs that the relationship played some prejudicial role in petitioner's evaluations. Certainly any relationship between Deeck and Sloan would not have affected Mateka or Shakespeare's poor evaluations of petitioner. In addition, even if petitioner was shunned by the English Department, was told by the principal that the Department "did not have her best interests in mind," and was advised to avoid making her problem with Sloan an administrative issue because both teachers were in tenure year, none of these items rise to any material level of concern. There are no proofs offered by petitioner that any of the aforementioned items had any effect whatsoever in her reviews and evaluations.

Although petitioner had excellent reviews during her first two years of teaching honors students, her reviews declined in her third year, when she was required to teach non-honors students. Petitioner admitted to having challenging students of different abilities in her third year. She drew a distinction between college-bound students and "trade" students. GCIT is a vocational school, with a student population of both vocational, or trade, students and college-bound students. Petitioner admitted that she had difficulty with the behaviorally-challenged "trade students." The respondent was entitled to validly consider that fact.

Respondent was entitled to not offer the petitioner tenure because the Board's decision was rational and based on objective performance data. Because the decision that was made by the Board considered objective performance data, it was not arbitrary or without consideration of the circumstances. The petitioner's unrefuted performance data, and the process employed by the District to ascertain the performance of the petitioner, negates any finding of an arbitrary and capricious decision by the Board..

No evidence of arbitrariness exists. Petitioner's evidence was her own subjective testimony that she believed she was meeting the District performance standards. Petitioner has not carried her burden of proof because there is no convincing factual evidence to support her claims. The lack of evidence produced by petitioner requires a finding for respondent.

The petitioner met the District standard on 123 of 201 indicators observed, or 61 percent. Dicken and Shakespeare expected that a teacher should have at least an 80 percent qualification level. Petitioner was not meeting the Board's expectations at a 61 percent overall performance rate, and Mateka has never recommended a teacher with a 61 percent performance rate. The Board was entitled to validly consider that fact.

The petitioner has not met her burden of proving that the underlying reasons for the Board's actions were improper. She has not set forth substantial proof that the Board acted improperly and to the exclusion of all other bona fide reasons. Her allegation of arbitrariness, without more, is insufficient to establish grounds for action.

Here the Board was faced with unsatisfactory classroom performance, and that is a valid reason why a Board may conclude that tenure should not be granted. The Board validly exercised its rights in reaching its conclusion about the petitioner, a non-tenured teacher. I CONCLUDE that the Board did not act arbitrarily and capriciously in failing to renew the petitioner's contract.

CONCLUSION

The procedures used by the Board in conducting its evaluations of petitioner were not improper. In addition, the Board did not act arbitrarily and capriciously in failing to renew the petitioner's contract. It is therefore ORDERED that the Board's action of failing to provide petitioner with tenure status as a teacher of English is AFFIRMED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a tenured art teacher in respondent's school district – challenged the District's directive to submit to an independent psychiatric evaluation following a prolonged leave of absence, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2 and Board Policy No. 4161. The District informed petitioner on December 22, 2014 that the Superintendent would be recommending that petitioner submit to this evaluation. Petitioner filed the within appeal on April 9, 2015, contending that the Board's demand for such evaluation was arbitrary, and that it should be overturned. The Board filed a motion to dismiss. Subsequently, petitioner did submit to an independent psychiatric evaluation. On October 14, 2015, the Board sent correspondence to petitioner advising that they had received the resultant report – which stated that petitioner had recovered to the point that she was able to return to teaching – and welcoming her back to work, with an anticipated return date of October 15, 2015. As of January 6, 2016, petitioner had not returned to work.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts in dispute, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2(a) provides that "The board may require individual psychiatric or physical examinations of any employee, whenever, in the judgment of the board, an employee shows evidence of deviation from normal physical or mental health;" in this case, the Board had the right to require petitioner to submit to an independent psychiatric examination based on the N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2, board policy, and case law; further, since the petitioner has already submitted to the independent examination and the Board has accepted the resulting report, the petition is now moot; and, even if there was a finding that the Board's decision requiring petitioner to undergo the independent psychiatric exam was arbitrary and capricious, there would be no practical effect as petitioner has already submitted to the examination. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision, denied the petitioner's motion to quash subpoenas issued by the Board to two of her doctors, and dismissed the petition.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner, Roseanne Panico, and the Board of Education's (Board) reply thereto.

Upon the review of the record, the Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ's conclusion – for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision – that the issues raised by the petitioner are moot. This entire case involves a challenge to the Board's decision to require the petitioner to submit to an Independent Psychiatric Evaluation (IPE). After the petition of appeal was filed, the petitioner did indeed submit to an IPE. The IPE was performed by Dr. Robinson, a psychiatrist approved by the Board, and Dr. Robinson concluded that the petitioner was able to return to work. Notably, the Board accepted the IPE report and offered the petitioner the opportunity to return to work.

With respect to the petitioner's challenge to the ALJ's decision denying the petitioner's motion to quash the subpoenas issued by the Board to Dr. Renna and Dr. Tobias, the Commissioner agrees with the Board that the subpoena issue is also now moot. [1] No documentation or information was ever obtained by the Board as a result of the subpoenas, and the Board abandoned any effort to enforce the subpoenas after the petitioner complied with the Board's request to submit to an IPE.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed as moot.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner Roseanne Panico filed a Petition alleging respondent Readington Township Board of Education's (District) directive pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2(a) was arbitrary and that it be overturned.

The original Petition of Appeal was filed with the Department of Education on April 9, 2015. The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on April 28, 2015. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The parties filed several briefs in support and in opposition to a motion for summary decision and a motion to quash the subpoena directed to Dr. Carmen Renna and Dr. Steven Tobias. The record closed after a telephone conference was conducted on January 6, 2016.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Petitioner, an art teacher for the District since July 1, 2005, signed a request for Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) leave on August 26, 2014. This leave was ultimately approved after petitioner provided medical documentation from Dr. Carmen Renna (Dr. Renna), an internalist, and Steven Tobias, Psy.D. (Dr. Tobias). (See Exhibit 3 and Exhibit 5 of respondent's brief). Her initial return to work date was November 24, 2014. At the request of petitioner, supported by a second letter from Dr. Tobias, her leave of absence was extended through January 5, 2015. (See Exhibit 5 of respondent's brief). Dr. Tobias indicated that he had been treating petitioner since September 2014 for a major depressive disorder. Ibid. On December 9, 2014, petitioner and her attorney were scheduled to appear before the Board of Education in a closed session relating to a grievance she had filed. Petitioner did not appear at that meeting out of a concern of an overlap between her appearing before the Board and when others would begin to arrive for the public meeting. On December 10, 2014, petitioner requested another extension to her leave of absence to April 6, 2015. This request was supported by a letter from Dr. Tobias that indicated petitioner "will require at least several more months of treatment and is unable to work during this period." (See Exhibit 8 of respondent's brief).

The District informed petitioner on December 22, 2014 that the Superintendent would be recommending that petitioner submit to an independent psychiatric evaluation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2 and Board Policy No. 3161. (See Exhibit 9 of respondent's brief). The Board approved the superintendent's recommendation at a closed session meeting on January 20, 2015. The Board set forth a written statement of reasons in support of the Board's action in a letter dated January 30, 2015. (See Exhibit 11 of respondent's brief). The following two reasons were given for the Board's decision to direct petitioner to submit to the independent psychiatric evaluation:

> 1. On December 9, 2014, you were scheduled to appear before the Board with regards to your Level III grievance demand. However, despite the Business Administrator's assurances that the meeting would be held in a private, secluded area of the school, separate and apart from the public meeting area, and with its own entrance and exit, you still refused to appear for fear that you would be seen by your colleagues and members of the community.
> 2. On December 10, 2014, the District received a medical not, dated December 8, 201, from Dr. Steven Tobias, which indicates that you are unable to return to work due to your depressed mood and low energy level and, without further information, that you will require several more months of treatment and, thus will be unable to return to work during this time period. Id.

Petitioner appealed the Board's decision and appeared before the Board to explain or refute the reasons presented to the Board by the superintendent. Thereafter, the Board determined it would proceed with the decision to require petitioner to undergo an independent psychiatric examination.

Respondent served subpoenas upon Dr. Renna and Dr. Tobias to produce documents relating to the treatment of petitioner. Petitioner filed a motion to quash claiming that respondents were using the subpoenas as a means to collect information notwithstanding the violation of treating physician-patient confidentiality. Petitioner submitted to an independent psychiatric evaluation by Dr. Michael D. Robinson, and on October 8, 2015, respondent was provided with Dr. Robinson's report. Dr. Robinson was the individual the Board had intended to examine petitioner. According to his report, Dr. Robinson concluded that petitioner's refusal to attend the December 9, 2014 board meeting was "rational and understandable in the context of the conditions during which the meeting would occur. Her decision reflected appropriate situational anxiety rather than a deviation from normal mental health." (See Exhibit A of petitioner's brief dated October 15, 2015). Dr. Robinson opined that "[petitioner's] depression during the past school year was sufficiently severe as to prevent her from working as a teacher. She sought and received appropriate treatment, and has recovered to the point that she now is able to return to her profession as a teacher." Id. On October 14, 2015, the Board sent correspondence to petitioner advising that they received Dr. Robinson's report and accepted his expert medical opinion. The Board welcomed her back to work and expected her to return to work on October 19, 2015. (See Exhibit B of petitioner's brief dated October 15, 2015).

Petitioner asserts that this renders the need for medical records from Dr. Tobias and Dr. Renna moot and that the subpoenas should be withdrawn. Respondent asserts that since petitioner submitted to the independent psychiatric evaluation the petition is moot and should be dismissed as a matter of law. As of January 6, 2016, petitioner has not returned to work. As the above facts do not appear to be in dispute, I FIND them as FACT.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

N.J.A.C. 1:12-5, governing motions for summary decision, permits early disposition of a case before the case is heard if, based on the papers and discovery which have been filed, it can be decided "that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:12-5(b). The provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:12-5 mirror the language of R. 4:46-2 of the New Jersey Court Rules governing motions for summary judgment. To survive summary decision, the opposing party must show that "there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding." Ibid. Failure to do so entitles the moving party to summary decision. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520 (1995).

Moreover, even if the non-moving party comes forward with some evidence, this forum must grant summary decision if the evidence is "so one-sided that [the moving party] must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 536. This tribunal is required to do "the same type of evaluation, analysis or sifting of evidential materials as required by Rule 4:37-2(b) in light of the burden of persuasion that applies if the matter goes to trial." Id. at 539-540. Like the New Jersey Supreme Court's standard for summary judgment, summary decision is designed to "liberalize the standards so as to permit summary [decision] in a larger number of cases" due to the perception that we live in "a time of great increase in litigation and one in which many meritless cases are filed." Id. at 539 (citation omitted).

Here, there is no genuine issue as to material fact in this matter in relation to the District's requirement that petitioner submit to an independent psychiatric evaluation and her refusal to do so until she met with Dr. Robinson who filed a report with the District on October 8, 2015.

Respondent asserts that the Board exercised its right under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2 and Board Policy No. 4161 and approved the Superintendent's recommendation that petitioner undergo an independent psychiatric evaluation. Petitioner asserts that respondent does not have unfettered and absolute authority to direct petitioner to undergo the evaluation. N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2 provides, in pertinent part, that a board of education may require its employees to undergo a psychiatric examination whenever, in the judgment of the board, an employee shows evidence of deviation from normal, physical or mental health. The purpose of such examination is to "determine the individual's physical and mental fitness to perform within reasonable accommodation. Board Policy 4161 states the "superintendent shall recommend to the Board the examination of any support staff whose physical or mental condition so departs from normal health as to adversely affect the performance of the member's duties."

Petitioner argues that because Dr. Robinson concluded in his examination report that petitioner's refusal to attend the board meeting was rational and understandable . . . that the Board lacked sufficient basis to have triggered Board Policy No. 3161. Dr. Robinson's report, however, does not provide an explanation as to the second reason given by respondent for why they felt an examination was appropriate. Namely, on December 10, 2014, the District received a medical note, dated December 8, 2014, from Dr. Steven Tobias, which indicates that petitioner was unable to return to work due to her depressed mood and low energy level and that she required several more months of treatment and, thus will be unable to return to work during this time period. Furthermore, petitioner does not attempt to argue in neither her brief in opposition to the summary decision motion nor the brief in support of the motion to quash that the second reason given by the District was insufficient to trigger board policy or the provisions permissible under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2.

It is acknowledged in petitioner's brief, dated October 15, 2015, that school boards are entrusted by our Legislature with the duty of determining the general issue of fitness of teachers. See Gish v. Bd. Of Education of Paramus, 145 N.J. Super. 96, 105 (App. Div. 1976). Their obligation to determine a teacher's fitness is based upon their duty to protect the students from a significant danger or harm, whether physical or otherwise. See In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967). A teacher's fitness may not be measured "solely by his or her ability to perform the teaching function and ignore the fact that the teacher's presence in the classroom might, nevertheless, pose a danger of harm to the students for a reason not related to academic proficiency." In Re Tenure Hearing of Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 32 (App. Div. 1974).

A board of education may require a medical or psychiatric examination of an employee as a preliminary action or as an investigatory action. See Board of Education of Pleasantville v. Richard Chambers, OAL Docket No. EDU 7283-94. In Kochman v. Keansburg Board of Education, 124 N.J. Super. 203, (1973), the court recognized that a board of education "does not have the expertise to question the teacher on the matter itself but must rely on the expertise psychiatrist." Id. at 212. The Board in this matter lacked the expertise to determine whether petitioner's refusal to attend the board meeting was rational and understandable or if it demonstrated a deviation from normal mental health. Had petitioner submitted to the evaluation in the winter or spring of 2015, those questions would have been laid to rest. Based upon the above, I CONCLUDE that respondent had the right based on N.J.S.A. 18A:16.2, board policy and the aforementioned case law to require petitioner to submit to an independent psychiatric examination.

I further CONCLUDE that since petitioner has submitted to the independent psychiatric examination and respondent has accepted Dr. Robinson's report, the petition is now moot. A court will consider an issue moot when a decision that is being sought in a particular matter will, when rendered, have no practical effect on the existing controversy. See In re Conroy, 109 N.J. Super. 453, 458 (App. Div. 1983). Even if this tribunal were to conclude that the Board's decision requiring petitioner to undergo the independent psychiatric examination was arbitrary and capricious, there would be no practical effect as petitioner has submitted to the evaluation.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that:

1. Respondents' Summary Decision Motion is GRANTED;

2. Petitioner's Motion to Quash is DENIED;

3. The Petition filed in this matter is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." ## SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, the State-Operated School District of Camden (SOSD Camden), contended that E.H. and her family, including K.M., are residents of the City of Camden – despite previously being homeless after losing their home in Voorhees Township – and now live in a Camden home that is "fixed, regular and adequate," thus precluding a determination that they are homeless. Consequently, the petitioner urged that K.M. is entitled to a free public education in Camden schools, not in Voorhees Township schools. The Executive County Superintendent rejected the petitioner's position, concluding that E.H. and K.M. were homeless and, as such, K.M. is entitled to attend school in Voorhees Township – the district of origin – at the expense of SOSD Camden, which is responsible for both K.M.'s tuition and transportation costs. E.H. has never filed an answer to the petition. Petitioner filed a motion for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: documents filed by the family in this case indicate that at some point following April 2011, E.H. and her children were forced out of necessity to move in with E.H.'s mother at her residence in Camden, and no longer had a regular or permanent home of their own; the essential question here is whether their homeless state continues today; evidence supports a determination that E.H. and her family have resided at the same address on Bradley Avenue in Camden since 2011, and – as there is no material dispute on this question – summary decision as to the family being domiciled in Camden is warranted; petitioner's assertions that the Bradley Avenue residence is fully equipped and meets the criteria for a "fixed, regular and adequate" home have not been refuted by the parent or the County Superintendent; the County Superintendent, however, determined that the family is homeless and therefore Camden is responsible for tuition and transportation costs; and the record is devoid of competent evidence to explain the present intentions or resources of the E.H. – who has selected not to participate in these proceedings. The ALJ concluded that: there are no material issues in dispute, and summary decision is warranted in favor of the petitioner; E.H. and K.M. are not homeless, but domiciled in the city of Camden; and, accordingly, petitioner is responsible to provide K.M. with a free public education in its schools.

Upon full review and consideration, the Commissioner determined to remand this matter to the OAL for further proceedings, finding, inter alia, that: the ALJ failed to address all of the issues raised in the petition, and petitioner is entitled to findings of fact and conclusions of law on these issues; the ALJ erred in granting summary decision to petitioner on the issue of the family no longer being homeless, as petitioner failed to provide sufficient evidence to support its allegation that K.M. currently resides in a fixed, adequate and regular residence; and the record is devoid of evidence regarding K.M.'s present living conditions, as well as the resources and intentions of her parent.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed, along with respondent Volk's exceptions – filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – and petitioner's reply thereto. Upon such review, and consideration of all submissions, the Commissioner is constrained to remand this matter to the OAL for further proceedings.

First, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) failed to address all of the issues raised within the Petition of Appeal; the Initial Decision is silent as to Counts Two through Five, as well as petitioner's request for reimbursement from the State. Because petitioner is entitled to findings of fact and conclusions of law on those issues, a remand is warranted.

Second, the ALJ erred in granting summary decision to petitioner on Count One because petitioner failed to provide sufficient evidence in support of its allegation that K.M. presently resides in a fixed, adequate, and regular residence and is, therefore, not homeless. See Contini v. Bd. of Educ., 286 N.J. Super. 106, 121-122 (App. Div. 1995) (citing Brill v. Guardian

Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995) (the moving party must present sufficient evidence in support of its motion for summary decision).

The Commissioner has determined that "an evaluation of 'homelessness' cannot rest upon a simple calculation of the amount of time that children have spent in a particular location or municipality. The reasons for a child's homelessness, the child's living conditions, and the resources and intentions of the parents or custodians are relevant." M. O'K. v. Board of Education of the Borough of Cresskill, Bergen County, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 14830-13, Commissioner Decision No. 325-14, issued August 12, 2014, at 3. Here, the record is devoid of evidence regarding the child's present living conditions, as well as the resources and intentions of her parent or guardian. Petitioner's bare assertions that the Bradley Avenue home is regular, fixed and adequate are unsupported by the record. The only certification petitioner submitted in connection with its motion (from its school business administrator) merely confirms that K.M. presently resides at the Bradley Avenue address. Additionally, results of a public records search relied upon by petitioner suggest that E.H. has utilized the Bradley Avenue address to receive mail and pay bills. This information – taken alone and out of context – does not compel the conclusion that K.M. is not considered a homeless child under relevant federal and state law. Given the lack of information contained in the record, a plenary hearing centered upon a comprehensive, fact-specific examination of the family's circumstances is required to determine whether K.M. is homeless.[1] See, e.g., Board of Education of the Town of Hammonton, Atlantic County v. Board of Education of the City of Gloucester, Camden County, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 18573-13, Commissioner Decision No. 311-14, issued July 31, 2014, at 4.

[1] Although E.H. has elected not to participate as a respondent in this matter, nothing prevents either remaining party from compelling her – or any other occupant of the Bradley Avenue home – to testify at a plenary hearing.

Accordingly, petitioner's motion for summary decision is denied, respondent Volk's cross-motion for partial summary decision is denied[2], and the matter is remanded to the OAL for further proceedings consistent with this decision.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Record Closed: November 10, 2015 Decided: February 5, 2016

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ t/a:

The Board of Education of the City of Camden (Board) seeks summary decision in its dispute with C. Ann Volk, the Executive County Superintendent for Camden County, the New Jersey Department of Education (hereinafter Executive Superintendent), and E.H., the mother of a minor student, K.M. K.M. is currently a high school student who attends Eastern Camden County Regional High School in Voorhees

Township, New Jersey.[1] She lives with her mother in the City of Camden. The Board contends that E.H. and her family, including K.M., are residents of the City of Camden, and that while in the past the family was homeless after losing their home in Voorhees Township, they are now not homeless but instead are living in a home in Camden that is "fixed, regular and adequate," thus "precluding a determination" that they are homeless. As a result, the student's right to a free education paid for by the Board entitles her to attend school in Camden, not in Voorhees Township. After the issue was raised with the Executive County Superintendent, Superintendent Volk twice rejected the Board's position and concluded that E.H. and child were homeless, and as such, the child was entitled to attend school in Voorhees Township, the district of origin, at the expense of Camden, which was responsible for both the educational tuition and the costs of transportation. See letter decision dated September 23, 2014, and second decision letter dated October 15, 2014. The Board then filed a Petition of Appeal on December 22, 2014, with the Commissioner of Education, naming as respondents Executive County Superintendent Volk, the Department of Education, Camden County Office of Education and E.H. The Executive Superintendent and the Department filed an Answer to the Complaint and later filed a second Answer. E.H. did not file an answer and the Commissioner transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law on April 30, 2015, without any answer having been filed by the parent. No answer has ever been received from E.H. The case was originally assigned to an administrative law judge other than myself. Due to the overwhelming case load and shortage of judges, the case was reassigned to this judge, serving on recall, on December 17, 2015.

As noted, no answer has ever been filed by E.H. On February 12, 2015, while the Board's petition was still pending in the Department of Education, the Board filed a Motion to Deem the Petition Uncontested by Respondents, E.H. and K.M. On February 25, 2015, the Department of Education's Director of Controversies and Disputes, M. Kathleen Duncan, wrote to E.H., providing her, by certified mail, with a "Second and Final Notice," reminding her that she had not filed an answer to the Board's petition and noting, with the emphasis of bolded type,

[1] Camden does not seek any return of tuition it has been paying for the attendance of the family's children in the Eastern Camden County Regional School District.

> You are advised that, should an answer not be filed within ten (10) days of receipt of this notice, each allegation against you in the petition will be deemed to be admitted; whereupon, the Commissioner of Education may decide this matter on a summary decision basis pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(c).

This Notice was signed for as delivered on March 2, 2015.

Although no answer was filed even after Director Duncan's above-quoted warning, the pending Motion to Deem was not decided and was instead noted on the transmittal form when the case was transferred to the OAL as having been filed, leaving the fate of that motion to be determined in the OAL. The prior assigned judge did not decide the motion and it remains pending. E.H. has never filed any response to that motion. As a practical matter, in the absence of any response and any designation of an attorney as her representative, E.H. must be considered as representing herself in regard to the issue of her child's education and the questions surrounding "homelessness."

The current motion for summary decision was filed by the Board on June 29, 2015. The motion was served on all respondents, including E.H. The Executive Superintendent filed a reply brief on August 12. The petitioner filed its reply on November 9, 2015. Each such document and the letters in which counsel sought extensions of time for the filing of these submissions were sent to E.H.

After reviewing the briefs filed concerning the motion for summary decision, this judge determined to hold a conference call on January 28, 2016, with counsel and. E.H. A letter dated January 14, 2016, was sent to the lawyers and E.H., scheduling the call and advising E.H. that while she had filed no answer or any other responses, if she wished to be included in the call she should contact my secretary. She did not do so and did not participate in the call. Given E.H.'s complete lack of response to any of the filings made or the conferences scheduled for this case, it must be deemed that she has decided not to be involved and therefore, I CONCLUDE that as to E.H., default is warranted under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(c).

As the deputy attorney general previously assigned to the matter recently left the Division of Law, the newly-assigned deputy requested some additional time to respond to the issues that were discussed in the January 28 call. A second call was held on February 4, 2016.

Is Eastern Camden Regional Board a Necessary Party?

As part of the reply to the motion for summary decision, the Executive Superintendent argues that the Board of Education of the Eastern Camden County Regional School District ("Eastern") is a necessary and indispensable party to this action which has not been joined in the case by the petitioner Board. As will be explained herein, the primary question that must be resolved here is whether K.M. is "homeless." If she is, then the issue of where she is to educated must be resolved and the "best interest of the child," consideration that must be evaluated, along with legal presumptions regarding the district of origin's role in her continuing education, would of necessity require that Eastern be involved. N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.5(a)(1). However, if she is not homeless, then, as will be noted, Camden is without question her current domicile, and it is both responsible for her education and for determining the school she will attend (there being neither a school-choice or a special education issue in this case). It does not appear that the determination of the alleged continued homeless status of the family requires Eastern's involvement. 'The issues that need to be considered regarding that question, which will be explored below, revolve around the home in which the family currently lives in Camden, the conditions therein, their resources and intentions of the parent, and the duration of domicile in Camden at that home. There appears to be little reason to believe that Eastern can offer anything substantive on these points, which as will be explained, are in large part matters that of some necessity, must come from the parent.. As such, on the limited issue of homelessness, Eastern is not a necessary party. However, if it is found that K.M. is homeless, Eastern must then be noticed to determine if it can be of assistance in determining the educational path for the child going forward, as would be expected.

Domicile-Where has the Family Been Living

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1

> Public schools shall be free to the following persons under 20 years of age:
> d. Any person whose parent or guardian, even though not domiciled within the district, is residing temporarily therein, but any person who has had or shall have his all-year-round dwelling place within the district for one year or longer shall be deemed to be domiciled within the district for the purposes of this section;

It is first important to note that the remaining parties are not in dispute that whatever may be the status of E.H. and her family regarding "homelessness," they are domiciled in the City of Camden. On April 8, 2011, E.M. signed a "Student Residency Form" for Eastern Camden County Regional High School, indicating that her family had not had a permanent address since March 20, 2011, and was temporarily living with "more than one family." The form lists an A.M., born May 17, 1993, and E.M. A form signed by E.M. that same day, "Gloucester County Special Services School District McKinney-Vento Education Program," lists A.M. as a twelfth grader and E.M. as a ninth grader. At that time the address listed was on Echelon Road in Voorhees Township. According to an "Affidavit As to Homeless Status," filed in April 24, 2012, by E.M. with the Camden Board of Education's Office of The Homeless Liaison, she lived at an Echelon Road, Voorhees, address from which she and her family were forced to leave due to a "nonrenewal of lease." She advised that she was then living at an address on Bradley Avenue, Camden, with her mother, M.H. According to "School Year 2013-14 Homeless/DYFS Children Report and Tracking Form," dated August 30, 2013, Camden is identified as the sending district and Eastern Regional as the receiving district. The family is identified as including E.M., born March 31, 1996, and K.M., born September 4, 1999. Again, the address for the "actual temporary address" is listed as the Bradley Street address in Camden. E.H. signed an "Affidavit As to Homeless Status" on August 30, 2013, attesting to her having lost her Echelon Road residence due to the lease not being renewed and "separation from spouse. They are now div." She provides the Bradley Avenue address as the temporary residence. On August 23, 2013, M.H. signed a letter to the Board's Homeless Liaison, attesting to being the owner of the Bradley Avenue home and residing there with E.H, E.M. and K.A.M. On August 20, 2014, E.H. e-mailed the Homeless Liaison, claiming to still be homeless. It is apparent from this communication and one of the days before, that E.H. and the children still resided in Camden.

I FIND that the evidence supports a determination that since 2011, the family has resided in Camden. There is no material dispute as to this question and summary decision as to the family being domiciled in Camden is warranted.

According to photographs, real estate reports and Google Maps photographs, the property at Bradley Avenue is a 1,136 square-foot building, a single family residence, located on a residential street. The Board's petition contends that it has a full kitchen, cooking facilities, refrigerator, stove, oven, microwave, at least one bathroom, bathing facilities, at least two bedrooms, plumbing, electricity, heat, a living room and eating area. Although the record does not identify the source for this information about the various rooms and accoutrements purportedly within the home, neither the parent nor the County Superintendent have provided any evidence to refute the Board's assertions as to these matters.

Homelessness

N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.2 3. provides

> A district board of education shall determine that a child is homeless for purposes of this subchapter when he or she resides in any of the following:
> > 3. The residence of relatives or friends where the homeless child resides out of necessity because his or her family lacks a regular or permanent residence of its own;

Despite the clear evidence as to the family's domicile, whether the family is still "homeless" is not defined by the domiciliary status. In her decision that the family was homeless, Executive Superintendent Volk made the following determinations, which constituted the whole of her findings:

1. The family was displaced from their home;
2. The family is living in a "doubled up" situation with a relative; and
3. The family is experiencing financial hardship.

Superintendent Volk determined that the family was homeless and therefore, under N.J.A.C. 6A:17 and the federal McKinney-Vento legislation, the Camden Board was responsible for tuition and transportation costs. The Superintendent's second decision letter of October 15, 2014, simply iterated the determination of eligibility for Camden to bear these costs. In neither decision did the Executive Superintendent discuss the reasons for her stated conclusions or, importantly, as will be discussed below, the evidence upon which she relied to make her decision. And her decision does not address whether the home in which the family is living is a "fixed, regular and adequate" home for the family.

It appears from the documents filed by the family over the past years that this is a family that, at least at some point following April 2011, was forced out of necessity to live at the residence of E.H.'s mother and did not have a regular or permanent residence of their own. But the essential question here is whether that condition of homelessness continues even now, well over four years following their moving into the Bradley Avenue house. A "homeless child" is defined in 42 U.S.C. sec. 11434a(2)(A) and (B)(i) as one lacking "a fixed, regular and adequate nighttime residence . . . children and youths who are sharing the housing of other persons due to loss of housing, economic hardship, or a similar reason." And there is no maximum duration of homelessness. L.R. v. Steelton-Highspire School District, 54 IDELR 155 (M.D. Pa. 2010), citing 42 U.S.C. sec. 11434a(3)(A)(i). Yet, as the Commissioner of Education has held, even where a family is forced by circumstance to relocate from a fixed, regular and adequate nighttime residence to living with relatives or friends and remains in that living arrangement, it is possible that the family may be deemed not to remain in a homeless state. In Board of Education of the Township of Maurice River, Cumberland County v. Board of Education of the City of Wildwood, Cape May County, 93 N.J.A.R. (EDU) 895, the administrative law judge noted that > situation in which a family, already homeless, places one or more of its children with relations or friends. It is not intended to make all children who reside with relations and friends out of necessity homeless. Especially, when they are living with their mother.

> [Id. at 897].

The Commissioner and the State Board of Education affirmed this decision, but in L.C. on behalf of her Minor Child B.C. v. Board of Education of Branchburg, 96 N.J.A.R. (EDU)1003, the Commissioner noted that the decision in Maurice River did not hinge on the limited time that the child and her mother lived with the child's grandmother, but on the fact that the mother subsequently obtained a regular, fixed and adequate apartment. In L.C., the Commissioner adopted the administrative law judge's decision in a situation where it was determined that the petitioner's brother's home had "in the months since September 1995, effectively become petitioner's regular and fixed residence."

> Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that petitioner is neither domiciled in Branchburg, where she no longer maintains a permanent home or principal establishment, nor "homeless," as per N.J.A.C. 6:3-8.1 et seq., in that, while her living arrangements with her brother may not be permanent in the sense that she may wish to eventually return to Branchburg, the evidence shows them to have become sufficiently fixed, regular and adequate so as to preclude a finding of homelessness. Indeed, petitioner's circumstances are more analogous to temporary residency and eventual domicile (in Somerville) as envisioned by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d).
> Id. at 1006.

The Board argues that as the petitioner in L.C. had been at her brother's home for nine months and it became the family's "regular and fixed residence," given the over four-year residence at the Camden address, the grandmother's home surely has not remained only a "temporary residence," but has instead become, over time, a "regular and fixed residence," warranting the removal of the "homeless" designation.

In the recent case of M.O'K. and S.O'K. on behalf of minor children K.O'K., A.O'K. AND C.O'K. v. Board of Education of the Borough of Cresskill, Bergen County, and Board of Education of the Borough of Little Ferry, Bergen County, http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/html/initial/edu14830-13 1.html, the parties sought a determination as to where the petitioners' children should attend school and which district should be financially responsible for the children's education. Since the family had been living for over one year in Little Ferry, at the home of S.O'K.'s parents, after they had been evicted from their own home in Cresskill, they were deemed domiciliaries of Little Ferry, "triggering Little Ferry's obligation to fund the children's educations, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a)." However, on the issue of whether the family, although domiciliaries of Little Ferry, were nevertheless still "homeless," the Commissioner noted that at the Little Ferry home, where the family was residing with S.O'K.'s parents, the two parents and the three children occupied the bottom floor of the house, which floor had neither shower, sink or kitchen. There being only one small bedroom on that floor, the thirteen-year-old daughter and the ten-year-old son shared a bunk-bed in the parents' bedroom and the eighteen-year-old son slept in the common area. Petitioners had "always maintained that they wish to return to Cresskill, where M.O'K. lived for 27 years and where the three children were raised until their home was foreclosed on." The parents were not employed, the family's sole income was from Social Security Disability benefits, and the parents certified that they were actively searching for housing in Cresskill. Given these facts, determined from information provided by the petitioners in answers to Little Ferry's interrogatories, the Commissioner determined that the "family lacks a regular or permanent residence of its own and because of economic hardship." And, citing 42 U.S.C. sec. 11434a(2)(A), the Commissioner noted "the setting in which the children live constitutes a less than regular and adequate nighttime residence." [2]

In light of the previous case law, some of which is discussed above, the Commissioner's discussion in Cresskill of the means by which the issue of homelessness must be evaluated is enlightening

> Thus, an evaluation of "homelessness" cannot rest upon a simple calculation of the amount of time that children have spent in a particular location or municipality. The reason for the children's homelessness, their living conditions, and the resources and intentions of the parents or custodians are relevant.

[2] In a footnote, the Commissioner acknowledged that "the status of some homeless families can evolve into acceptable and permanent situations." However, in the case before him, he was not persuaded that this has occurred.

The Commissioner relied in part upon the decision in L.R. v. Steelton-Highspire School District, 54 IDELR 155 (M.D. Pa. 2010). There, the district judge concluded that, despite the fact that a grandmother and granddaughter she was raising, who had been forced by a fire in their home to move in with the grandmother's daughter, and had stayed there for an extended period of time, which in fact was about six months, the child nevertheless qualified as homeless, because she "lacked a fixed, regular and adequate nighttime residence, and was sharing the housing of other persons due to a loss of economic hardship or a similar reason." Cresskill, supra. The judge noted that the situation in the daughter's house involved, as the Commissioner put it, "less than ideal conditions." These "conditions" were apparently that the grandmother and granddaughter slept in the same bedroom and were not permitted to go to the lower level of the house after bedtime.

Thus, in the present matter, the fact that the family has been living in the grandmother's Camden home for such a long period of time does not preclude a determination of continued "homelessness." But as to the other factors cited by the Commissioner in Cresskill, what does this record provide. The reason for the original removal from the Voorhees Township home is known from the documents filed over the years. But, in regard to the question of "adequacy," that is, the living conditions within the Camden home, the record is essentially bare. And it is here that the parent's lack of involvement and default is critical. The parent has chosen to ignore all of the many documents filed in this case. Despite the clear warning contained in Director Duncan's letter that if no answer was filed within ten days, the assertions of the petition would be deemed admitted, E.H. never responded and has never denied that the house contained the various items and rooms identified in the petition and has never denied in any manner the contention in the Board's petition that the Bradley Avenue house is "fixed, regular and adequate." Never has E.H. chosen to deny that the home, even if not where she might wish to remain, is nevertheless an "adequate" place for her children to live. Although the Superintendent's brief refers to Exhibits A-C of its Appendix, that purport to state that the family was living with three families in the one-family residence and had not lived there continuously for the "past three years," the documents cited come not from the mother, but are instead at best hearsay and double-hearsay materials. Exhibit A is a Certification of C. Ann Volk, who merely states that in making her determination, she relied upon Arenda Kelly-Fleming, an educational Planner in the County office, who assisted Volk in regard to the dispute. Volk received information from Kelly-Fleming, including the information identified as in Exhibits B and C. Ms. Kelly-Fleming certifies in Exhibit B that in assisting Volk, she received from Danielle Anderson-Thomas, a homeless liaison for the Department of Education, an e-mail and had several phone calls with E.H. prior to the issuance of the September 23, 2014, determination letter. Kelly-Fleming relates that E.H. told her that while living at the Bradley Avenue address for a "number of years," "she had also lived in at least one hotel/motel during that same period." No further detail about this is provided, Exhibit C is an e-mail chain, consisting of three e-mails. In the first from September 16, 2014, Superintendent Volk asks that Kelly-Fleming look into the matter of homelessness. In the second, from that same day, Kelly-Fleming asks Anderson-Thomas if Anderson-Thomas is "handling this dispute with Camden?" In the third e-mail, dated that same day, Anderson-Thomas references some information from the mother as to being displaced from Voorhees and living in Camden out of necessity. Anderson-Thomas then states, "I was advised that there are three families in a one family house." It is unclear from this whether that information came from the mother when this was supposedly the case and whether that situation still pertained But what is clear is that the exhibits offered by the Department contain nothing more that hearsay, indeed, double and triple hearsay. Apparently this is the total evidential base upon which the Executive County Superintendent's decision was made. And, in regard to the present petition and the motion for summary decision, the Department has simply offered no evidence of any substance or competence that asserts the inadequacy of the home. "What is required of the party opposing summary judgment is affirmative evidence—competent evidence, not hearsay—that demonstrates the existence of a genuine issue for trial." GMAC Mortgage v. Fraser, A-3719-08-9T2 (App. Div. 2012, citing Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 256-57, 106 S. Ct. 2505, 2514, 91 L. Ed. 2d 202, 216-17. It cannot be merely assumed that this home is inadequate without some competent evidence to support that fact. And the parties defending the challenged decision are those from whom evidence of such a character would be expected.

As for the parent's resources and intentions, again the record is limited. The Board has provided evidence, intended to show that the family indeed lived at Bradley Avenue, of liens and bills, but by itself these do no tell us anything substantive about the actual resources of the family. As for intentions, there is nothing. In Cresskill, the Commissioner, noting the limited income of the family, observed that they were actively looking for housing in Cresskill. Here, the record discloses nothing to support any understanding of what the mother's intentions may be, and despite the fact of her long-ago, forced removal from the Voorhees Township home, it cannot simply be assumed that she has a desire or intention or has undertaken any efforts at all to obtain other regular, fixed and adequate housing outside of Camden, away from her mother's home.

Summary decision, as authorized by N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, is granted where a careful examination of the record discloses that as to the material issues of fact in the case, there is no genuine dispute, and the application of the relevant law to those undisputed material facts supports a decision in favor of the moving party. Here, as delineated by the relevant law discussed above, the relevant facts regarding the determination of "homelessness" include: First, the reason for it; here not disputed. Second, the duration of the purported continued homelessness: here over four years since removal from Voorhees Township. Third, the adequacy of the current housing. As noted, in the face of the petition, there is no competent opposing evidence. Fourth and fifth, the resources and intentions of the family. Certainly, it is the case that for these last three, the most obvious source for the information must be the parent. Her default means that she has provided no affirmative proofs as to these matters. And, it is the case that the Department, called upon by the petition to defend the decision of the Executive County Superintendent which effectively supports the parent's claim of continued homelessness, has not chosen to avail itself of discovery, through interrogatories or requests for admission, or even a request to depose the mother, in order to attempt to determine the information that would perhaps support that decision.

Given the above, I FIND that the petition's assertion that the Bradley Avenue home is "regular, fixed and adequate" is unopposed by any competent evidence that creates a genuine dispute of material fact as to that issue. As such, I FIND that the home is just that, "regular, fixed and adequate" and has moved from the status of a temporary home to that of "acceptable and permanent," which does not of course mean that the parent may not harbor some hope of someday leaving that home and Camden, but that the current situation precludes a finding of "homelessness." I FIND that the record is devoid of competent evidence to explain the present intentions of the parent, or to advise as to the actual resources available to her and the family. Indeed, while the Commissioner is certainly not bound to defer to her decision, in regard to the decision of the Superintendent Volk, the record does not disclose that it was based upon sufficient competent evidence. It is conclusory at best and relies on factors that, while surely relevant, are not the sole determining factors that must be assessed.

I CONCLUDE that based on the record, there are no material issues in dispute and summary decision is warranted in favor of the Board. I CONCLUDE that E.H. and K.M. are not homeless. Therefore, the Camden City Board of Education is responsible to provide the student with a free education, and shall have the right to determine the location at which that education shall be provided. It is encouraged to consult with the parent and with the child's current school in making that decision.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." | IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF GRACE PENN, WEST WINDSOR-PLAINSBORO REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MERCER COUNTY. | : | COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION |

SYNOPSIS

In January 2016, the Commissioner of Education issued an Order to Show Cause requiring respondent to show cause why an order should not be entered suspending her teaching certificate for unprofessional conduct pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-10 for resigning her position without giving the notice required for tenured employees.. The respondent failed to answer the order. Respondent was duly advised that – pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(e) – failure to respond would cause each allegation raised by the Board to be deemed admitted, and might result in summary decision by the Commissioner.

There being no response to the order to show cause, the Commissioner concluded that the allegations – which respondent has chosen not to deny – may be deemed admitted, and justify suspension of respondent's certification. Accordingly, summary decision is granted to petitioner, and respondent's certificate is suspended for a period of one year from the date of the filing of this decision – a copy of which has been forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for the purpose of effectuating this order.

| IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF GRACE PENN, WEST WINDSOR-PLAINSBORO REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MERCER COUNTY. | : | COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION |

For petitioner, Mark G. Toscano, Esq. (Comegno Law Group, P.C.)

No appearance by or on behalf of respondent

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on January 26, 2016, by way of an Order to Show Cause served by petitioner (West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional School District) upon respondent (Grace Penn), requiring respondent to show cause why an order should not be entered suspending her teaching certificate pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 for resigning without giving the notice required by her contract with petitioner. By notice dated February 3, 2016, the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (Bureau) acknowledged receipt of proof that the Order to Show Cause had been served upon respondent and directed respondent to answer within 20 days.

No answer having yet been received, on February 25, 2016, the Bureau sent respondent a final notice, via regular and certified mail, directing that she file an answer within ten days. The notice advised that – pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(e) – failure to answer would cause each allegation in petitioner's papers to be deemed admitted, and might result in summary decision by the Commissioner. The notice sent by certified mail was returned by the postal service as unclaimed; however, the notice sent by regular mail was not returned. No answer to the Order to Show Cause has been filed as of this date.

Having reviewed petitioner's affidavit in this matter – which states that respondent ceased working as a teacher without giving the 60 days written notice required by her employment contract – and noting that respondent has not denied the allegations therein, the Commissioner deems such allegations admitted pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(e) and further deems them sufficient to justify suspension of respondent's teaching certificate pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10.

Accordingly, summary decision is hereby granted to petitioner, and respondent's standard instructional certificate is suspended for a period of one year from the filing date of this decision, a copy of which shall be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for implementation of the suspension.

| STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS. | : | |

Order of Revocation by the State Board of Examiners, September 17, 2015

For the Respondent-Appellant, Sanford R. Oxfeld, Esq.

For the Petitioner-Respondent State Board of Examiners, Laura M. Console, Deputy Attorney General (John Jay Hoffman, Acting Attorney General of New Jersey)

Appellant challenges the determination of the New Jersey State Board of Examiners (Board) that he engaged in unbecoming conduct warranting revocation of his teaching certificates. Specifically, appellant contends that revocation is too severe a penalty here and that mitigating factors were not properly considered. In response, the Board argues that its determination was not arbitrary, capricious or contrary to law and that it appropriately deferred to the credibility determinations made by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) following two days of hearing at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL).[1]

In reviewing appeals from decisions of the State Board of Examiners, the Commissioner may not substitute his judgment for that of the Board so long as the appellant received due process and the Board's decision is supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record. Further, the Board's decision should not be disturbed unless the appellant demonstrates that it is arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1(a).

Initially, the Commissioner notes that appellant's objections to the Board's decision are fundamentally rooted in his disagreement with the ALJ's credibility determinations and the resultant weighing of testimonial and documentary evidence. The legal standard with respect to objections of this type is well established,[2] and in the present instance, the Commissioner finds the ALJ's credibility and fact determinations – as adopted by the Board – to be both clearly explained in the Initial Decision and sufficiently supported by the record. The Commissioner further finds that appellant has offered nothing in his papers that would warrant disturbing the deference to which the ALJ – as finder of fact with the greatest opportunity to observe the demeanor of witnesses – is entitled to in this regard. In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143, 158 (App. Div. 1987).

Contrary to appellant's assertions on appeal, the credible evidence in the record amply supports the Board's assessment of appellant's conduct, which included inappropriate and unprofessional behavior. Further, in light of appellant's serious lapses in judgment – as evidenced by the pattern of deception and dishonesty he exhibited through his interaction with the district and police – the Commissioner finds that revocation of appellant's certificates is the appropriate penalty. Although appellant obviously disagrees with the penalty, it is clear from the record that he was afforded due process throughout the proceedings, and that all of his arguments were fully considered by both the ALJ and the Board; any mitigating factors are outweighed, in this instance, by the serious nature of appellant's unbecoming conduct.

[2] N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) states in pertinent part: "The agency head may not reject or modify any findings of fact as to issues of credibility of lay witness testimony unless it is first determined from a review of the record that the findings are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or are not supported by sufficient, competent, and credible evidence in the record."

Because there is nothing in the record to suggest that the Board's decision to revoke appellant's certificates – based on the nature and extent of the unbecoming conduct proven during the hearing at the Office of Administrative Law – was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, the Commissioner finds no basis upon which to disturb the decision of the State Board of Examiners.

Accordingly, the decision of the State Board of Examiners is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein.[3]

| THE CERTIFICATES OF | : | STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS |
| WILLIAM MCMEEKAN | : | ORDER OF REVOCATION |
| _____ | : | DOCKET NO: 1314-188 |

At its meeting of July 15, 2014, the State Board of Examiners (Board) reviewed information it had received from the Scotch Plains-Fanwood School District (SP-F) regarding William McMeekan. The Scotch Plains-Fanwood School District (SP-F) certified tenure charges to the Commissioner of Education alleging that McMeekan had removed a computer from school without permission and made personal use of it in his home. The district also alleged that McMeekan had made a false statement to the district about the missing computer.

Specifically, SP-F alleged that when Emilia Treglia, the district's Technology Support Specialist, went into McMeekan's classroom to follow up on a student request that certain software be installed on the TV production computers, she observed that there were only four desktop computers in the classroom where previously there had been five. When she traced the computer's serial number, it was determined that it had last logged in from outside the district and that someone was logging onto the computer using McMeekan's user identification. The local administrator account name had been changed to "wmcmeekan" and the computer had been renamed from "HS-TV-03" to "W McMeekan's iMac." The district noted that there were several logins from this iMac to the district's computer network from a Verizon FIOS network originating in Newark.

SP-F also alleged that McMeekan had entered a ticket into the district's Help Desk System requesting that computer software be installed on his classroom computers. At the bottom of the ticket McMeekan wrote "Also, why are the 4 grey imacs (last year we had 5)."

After notifying the police regarding the missing computer, the district also noted that there was another remote login attempt from the missing computer from a FIOS Internet address located in Newark. On January 4, 2013 the Scotch Plains Police retrieved the missing computer from McMeekan's home. The district and McMeekan settled the tenure case and McMeekan resigned from his tenured position in the district.

McMeekan currently holds a Teacher of English Certificate of Eligibility With Advanced Standing, issued in June 1999, a Teacher of English certificate, issued in July 2003 and a Teacher of Television Broadcasting certificate, issued in August 2006. After reviewing the above information, at its July 24, 2014 meeting, the Board voted to issue an Order to Show Cause to McMeekan as to why his certificates should not be revoked.

The Board sent McMeekan the Order to Show Cause by regular and certified mail on July 29, 2014. The Order provided that McMeekan must file an Answer within 30 days. McMeekan responded on August 21, 2014. In his Answer, McMeekan admitted that the school computer was removed without permission but stated that no personal use of it occurred. (Answer, ¶ 2). He also stated that he did not know what SP-F had reported to the Board, but denied that he had made the statement on the Help Desk ticket regarding only having four computers in his room. (Answer, ¶¶ 4, 5). He also admitted that the computer was retrieved from his home, but noted that he fully cooperated with the police. (Answer, ¶ 6). McMeekan also claimed that no tenure charges were filed against him and that the matter was resolved prior to the filing of the tenure case. (Answer, ¶ 7). In a Separate Defense, McMeekan stated that he had never been found to have committed any inappropriate actions and at no time knowingly removed any computer from his classroom or attempted to convert a computer that was not his.

He also noted that he did not knowingly make any false statements to the district about any missing computer. (Answer, Separate Defense, ¶ 1).

Since there were material facts in dispute, the Board transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case. Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Ellen S. Bass heard the matter on March 10, 2015 and April 7, 2015. The record closed on June 1, 2015, and the ALJ issued an Initial Decision on June 23, 2015. In the Matter of the Certificates of William McMeekan, Dkt. No. EDE 12836-14 (Initial Decision, June 23, 2015).

In that decision, ALJ Bass found that, McMeekan had removed a computer from his classroom and took it home for "some unexplained personal use, and for no other purpose." (Initial Decision, slip op. at 5). The ALJ further found that McMeekan's conduct violated district policies for the use of computers as it was impermissible to load software onto school computers or remove them from school without permission. Ibid. ALJ Bass also determined that "McMeekan made false statements to school personnel and to the police when he 'punched a ticket' alerting the help desk that a computer that he had taken to his home was 'missing'; when he declined for almost an hour to admit to a police detective that the computer was in his home; and when he failed to tell [the district's Network Coordinator] that they were one computer short because McMeekan himself had removed the missing computer from the classroom." Id. at 5-6. The ALJ concluded that McMeekan's dishonest conduct "calls into question his capacity to be a role model for children" since that conduct demonstrated "disrespect for his role as a teacher; disrespect for the school district; and disrespect for the taxpayers whose hard-earned money purchased that computer for the children of Scotch Plains/Fanwood." Id. at 7.

After determining that the Board had demonstrated the allegations of unbecoming conduct against McMeekan by a preponderance of the credible evidence, ALJ Bass ordered the revocation of his certificates. Id. at 6-7. McMeekan filed Exceptions and the Deputy Attorney General (DAG) representing the Board filed Reply Exceptions in the case.

In his Exceptions, McMeekan argued that ALJ Bass did not find that he took the computer home for some illegal reason and that no one testified that he used the computer from his home for any purpose. (Exceptions, p. 2). He further argued that not every violation of district policies merited the forfeiture of a teaching certificate and that "taking home a computer without permission, while may be a terminable offense, certainly is not a certification issue (as it occurred only once)." (Exceptions, p. 3). He also noted that while he did initially lie to the police about having the computer, he told the truth after about 40 minutes. (Exceptions, p. 3). McMeekan argued that his single mistake should not result in the revocation of his certificates. (Exceptions, pp. 4-5). Finally, McMeekan took exception ALJ Bass' dismissal of his suggestion that only his Television Production certificate was implicated here and therefore that should be the only certificate to be revoked. (Exceptions, p. 6). In her Reply Exceptions, the DAG argued that McMeekan's Exceptions were without merit, especially his suggestions that the case turned on the purpose for which he took the computer or that there was a bright-line test for cases requiring revocation. (Reply Exceptions, p. 2). The DAG noted that "the decision to recommend revocation was appropriate and supported by the overwhelming evidence in the record" as the ALJ based it on McMeekan's "decision to misappropriate school district property followed by his evasive and dishonest behavior over the course of at least six weeks." (Reply Exceptions, p. 3). The DAG argued that the record demonstrated that McMeekan's conduct was more than an anomaly or a momentary lapse in judgment and that he had engaged in a prolonged period of deceptive behavior both with the district and the police. (Reply Exceptions, p. 3). The DAG therefore claimed that the record demonstrated and the ALJ correctly determined that McMeekan's certificates should be revoked. (Reply Exceptions, p. 4).

The Board must now determine whether to adopt, modify or reject the Initial Decision in this matter. At its meeting of July 30, 2015, the Board reviewed the Initial Decision, Exceptions and Reply Exceptions. After full and fair consideration of the Decision, the Board voted to adopt the Initial Decision.

There is no doubt that the ALJ is in the best position to render credibility determinations in this matter. Accordingly, the Board will defer to those findings. As noted above, after assessing the evidence and the credibility of the witnesses, ALJ Bass concluded that the Board had amply demonstrated that McMeekan engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher by taking a district computer home and then lying to district personnel and the police about its whereabouts. According to the ALJ, such conduct warranted the revocation of his certificates. (Initial Decision, slip op. at 6-7).

"Teachers ... are professional employees to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of ... school children. This heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment." Tenure of Sammons, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321. Unfitness to hold a position in a school system may be shown by one incident, if sufficiently flagrant. Redcay v. State Bd. of Educ., 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd, 131 N.J.L. 326 (E & A 1944). In this case, McMeekan's conduct of taking a district computer home, putting in a Help Desk Ticket that feigned puzzlement at having one less computer in his classroom and then obfuscating during his police interrogation about the computer's location, certainly satisfies that requirement. His actions, taken as a whole, clearly demonstrate conduct that warrants revocation. The Board therefore adopts the Initial Decision in its entirety.

Accordingly, on July 30, 2015, the Board voted to adopt the Initial Decision and ordered to revoke McMeekan's certificates. On this 17th day of September 2015, the Board formally adopted its written decision to adopt the Initial Decision in this matter, and it is therefore ORDERED that William McMeekan's Teacher of English Certificate of Eligibility With Advanced Standing and his Teacher of English and Teacher of Television Broadcasting certificates are hereby revoked, effective immediately. It is further ORDERED that McMeekan return his certificates to the Secretary of the State Board of Examiners, Office of Licensure, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625-0500 within 30 days of the mailing date of this decision.

The record of this matter and advisement of petitioner's failure to appear transmitted by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4 – along with copies of notifications sent to the parties by OAL on March 3, 2016, providing an opportunity to submit an explanation for such nonappearance – have been reviewed. To date, petitioner has failed to submit an explanation for her failure to appear at the scheduled hearing.

However, the Commissioner notes that the Board's answer in this residency matter contains an unresolved counterclaim for tuition for the period of J.F.'s alleged ineligible attendance in the district during the 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 school years. Accordingly, the Commissioner remands this matter to the OAL for such proceedings as are necessary to address the Board's counterclaim.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner filed a pro se residency appeal on behalf of her daughter in August 2015, seeking a determination that J.F. resided within the regional area served by the Red Bank Regional High School. The respondent Board counterclaimed for tuition. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to ascertain petitioner's residency and the amount of any tuition due. Petitioner failed to appear at a hearing scheduled for February 29, 2016, despite having received appropriate notice of the hearing date. Having received no explanation from petitioner for her failure to appear, the OAL returned the file to the Commissioner.

Upon review, the Commissioner noted that the Board's answer in this matter contained an unresolved counterclaim for tuition for the period of J.F.'s alleged ineligible attendance in the school district during the 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 school years. Accordingly, the Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL for resolution of the Board's counterclaim.

Introduction

This matter arises from tenure charges of inefficiency against Edgard Chavez, (Respondent) by State Operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County (the District) and an original October 9, 2012 referral of the tenure charges to the undersigned by the New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 as amended by P.L. 2112, c. 26. Following said referral, the undersigned conducted a hearing on the matter on November 23, December 20 and December 21, 2012 and January 18, 2013, and issued an Award dated February 6, 2013 finding that the District had shown by a preponderance of the evidence that the tenure charges filed against Respondent are true. By decision dated May 19, 2015 the Appellate Court remanded the matter to the Department of Education to:

> determine the appropriate standards to be used by arbitrators when adjudicating tenure hearings, thus determining a consistent procedure for teachers in positions similar to [Respondent ...] who have received tenure charges after the effective date of TEACHNJ, alleging poor performance that occurred prior to the implementation of the statute's new standards.

By letter dated June 1, 2015 the Department of Education remanded the matter to the undersigned stating:

> As directed by the Appellate Division decision issued May 19, 2015, the Commissioner is returning to you herewith the file in the above-captioned matter for you to review the facts anew pursuant to the preponderance of the evidence standard in effect for inefficiency cases prior to the enactment of TEACHNJ, subject to determination by you of each of respondent's defenses and any motions filed with you.

Following remand to the undersigned, the parties waived further hearings in the matter and agreed upon a briefing schedule whereby each party was given the opportunity to file an initial brief and each party was given the opportunity to file a responsive brief. After a period of holding the matter in abeyance pending a related matter, both the District and Respondent filed initial and responsive briefs, upon the receipt of which by the undersigned the matter was deemed fully submitted.

This Award is made following my careful consideration of the full original record in this matter and the arguments of the parties following remand including my careful review of the facts anew pursuant to the preponderance of the evidence standard in effect for inefficiency cases prior to the enactment of TEACHNJ, subject to my careful consideration and determination of each of respondent's defenses.

Preponderance of the Evidence

Pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 "a tenured teacher shall not be terminated or reduced in compensation 'except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just caus." Prior to the enactment of TEACHNJ charges of inefficiency as are presented here, had to be proven by the employing school district by a preponderance of the credible evidence. On remand, as instructed by the Department, I have considered this matter anew and based upon my de novo consideration of the full record in the matter, including my observations of the demeanor of the witnesses. the transcripts, admitted evidence and arguments of the parties, and my consideration of applicable law, I find; (1) the District complied with controlling pre-TEACHNJ statutory and procedural requirements relating to the subject Inefficiency Charges and (2) the subject tenure charges have been proven by the District by a preponderance of the credible evidence.

Applying the preponderance of evidence standard in effect prior to the enactment of TEACHNJ, I reaffirm and incorporate herein, all factual conclusions made in my Award in this matter of February 6, 2013. As part of my findings in my original Decision and found anew herein, the District has, by a preponderance of the evidence, established the assertions made by the District in the subject tenure charge against Respondent.

Those assertions therein made, include:

In reaching such conclusions, I have carefully considered each of Respondent's defenses and determined that such are not sufficient to support a finding that the tenure charges are not established by a preponderance of the evidence or that the penalty imposed should be reduced or modified.

Respondent's Primary Defenses

The District Failed to Provide Respondent a Full 90-day Improvement Period and the 90-day Plan was Inadequate

On March 26, 2012 Respondent was served with tenure charges and provided a ninety-day improvement plan. Respondent asserts that the District was thereafter required to, and failed to, comply with the guidelines and rubrics contained in the District's 2009-10 and 2010-11 Teacher Observation and Performance Guidebooks, including requirements of a modified professional development plan, teacher meetings with the school's principal and administrators to have the plan explained, monitoring of the plan, a minimum of ten observations including 6 informal and 4 formal with at least one observation occurring each week and a written analysis of how Respondent improved and did not improve by the principal. Because Respondent's 90-day plan did not comply with such mandates, Respondent asserts, the District is precluded from pursuing its tenure charges against Respondent.

The Respondent argues that the District did not provide Respondent the exacting individualized assistance necessary during the 90-day improvement period and that the plan was inadequate. Respondent asserts in this regard that Respondent was not given the opportunity to provide his input into the drafting and formulation of the plan as required, and that instead the plan was unilaterally drafted by principal Merlo. Nor was the plan specifically developed to address Respondent's alleged deficiencies and, instead, consisted of resources provided to teachers generally, including PD360 videos, books related to teaching and pedagogical skills and meetings with administrators and other math teachers. There was no on-going assistance throughout the 90-days given to Respondent other than meetings with the principal and vice principal to go over Respondent's weekly lesson plans from late March to mid June 2012. Respondent also maintained that he was not provided a full 90 days under his improvement plan. In this regard he explained that the plan did not begin after March 26, 2012 – the date principal Merlo met with him to go over the plan - and school ended for the year on June 24, 2012. In the interim, there was one day off for Memorial Day, one week off due to spring break, a week of testing for NJASK, a couple of field trips and days of very hot weather in June. Additionally, Respondent argues, there is no evidence that Respondent received any assistance from the District beyond the middle of June 2012.

As for Respondent's performance during the 90-day period, the record establishes that he did improve and that as a consequence, Respondent argued, the District should have concluded that Respondent successfully completed his improvement plan. In this regard, he used support from District Administrators and co-employees to improve his classroom management such as creating behavior modification contracts for problem students; at the suggestion of principal Merlo he created a sign in/out sheet for his students; he improved the organization of his classroom; at least one co-worker teacher assigned to assist Respondent in the classroom testified that Respondent improved in his classroom instruction, grading and management; and although principal Merlo expressed concern about the performance of Respondent's students in Learnia standardized tests and how such would translate into scores on NJASK, the record establishes that Respondent's students performed well on the math portions of NJASK.

As for District claims that it had concerns about Respondent's alleged failures to provide differentiation of instruction as part of the Connected Math Program, the fact is he was never offered formal training in such. As for claims relating to his lesson plans, Respondent asserted, the evidence establishes that during his 90-day period his plans improved measurably. The fact is, Respondent argued, that throughout his two years at the school and including during his 90-day plan, all of Respondent's lesson plans were approved by school administrators. Finally, "basic" ratings in evaluations are passing, Respondent asserted, and he received basic ratings throughout the 2010-11 and 2011-12 school years with the lone exception of an unsatisfactory observation by District Administrator Oliveira in May 2012. Thus, there was no reason for Respondent to receive his first ever unsatisfactory annual evaluation in his twenty years of teaching in the District from principal Merlo on June 1, 2012.

Discussion

Contrary to the argument of Respondent, the 90-day plan provided Respondent satisfied the 90 day required length of such plans. Under the law applying to pre TEACHNJ inefficiency charges the 90 days are calendar days and there is no dispute that Respondent was employed as a teacher at the Lafayette Street School a full 90 days while being subject to his 90-day plan. Additionally, the plan was detailed and was tailored and aligned to address Respondents numerous deficiencies, presented professional growth goals and provided much more than the weekly meetings about lesson plans claimed by Respondent. In this regard, the evidence establishes that during the 90-day period master teacher Fitzgerald continued her visits to Respondent's classroom to assist and model for Respondent, Respondent was given opportunities to observe other teachers and, contrary to any claim that the school's administration meetings with him were inadequate, on the witness stand Respondent testified that during his 90-day plan the principal and two vice principals were coming to his classroom too often.

When Respondent was presented the 90-day improvement plan, he met with Principal Merlo and by his own admission was told he had to improve in the ways indicated in the plan and that if he did not show significantly improvement, one possible consequence would be certification of tenure charges. As for the development of the plan itself, the record establishes that the plan was originally drafted by Merlo, but contrary to the Respondent's assertions in his post hearing briefs, I find that Respondent was given the opportunity to have input into the plan and modify the plan and that he declined (thereby waiving) the opportunity. In this regard, on direct examination about his initial 90-day plan meeting with Merlo, Respondent was asked:

> Q: Were you informed if you wanted you could add anything to the plan at all?
> A: Probably, she did. Probably, she did.
> Q: And did you partake in that?
> A: No. I took it as constructive criticism.

On cross examination Respondent admitted that during the meeting with Merlo he was nervous and that he does not remember what Merlo told him about the plan. In contrast Merlo credibly testified that she explained the details of the plan to Respondent and gave Respondent the opportunity to modify the plan but that Respondent did not offer any additions or changes to the plan. Based upon the record as a whole, I also find that Respondent was presented with an understandable explanation of the basis for criticism supporting the administration's allegations of inefficiency, and that at the beginning of the 90-day period and throughout the 90-day period Respondent was offered constructive advice on how he could meet the objectives established in his improvement plan.

I am also not persuaded by Respondent's argument that because in various of the areas of Inefficiency/Domains outlined in the 90-day improvement plan the District listed numerous professional books and "PD 360 Videos" that were generally available to other teachers, Respondent's plan necessarily cannot be found to have met the requirement that the improvement plan be individualized or designed specifically to remedy Respondent's deficiencies. There is no requirement in the law identified by Respondent to support a finding requiring that the District must offer materials to a teacher on such an improvement plan that have never been offered to any other teacher before and that are created specifically for the individual teacher and no other. Instead, the requirement that a plan be tailored to the needs of a teacher contemplates the District will use the resources the District has to assist the teacher to address the teacher's identified deficiencies. Here, the resources the District had available to address Respondent's various deficiencies included instructional videos, professional books, other teachers to model correct methods, other teachers to mentor and assist Respondent and administrators to mentor and assist Respondent, and the evidence establishes that the District used all such resources in its effort to assist Respondent.

Moreover, the videos and books referenced in Respondent's plan were not random selections or irrelevant to Respondent's needs. Instead, such books and videos were pointedly related to Respondent's specifically identified deficiencies. For example, Respondent's Improvement Plan identified as an Area of Inefficiency/Domain; "Failure to use question and discussion techniques with flexibility and responsiveness (3b)" and listed, among other things, two 360 videos in the related "Support Activities and Resources" section of the plan. The two identified videos included one entitled, "Questioning to Stimulate Learning and Thinking" and the other was entitled, "Effective Questioning in the Mixed Ability Classroom."

Nor are the areas in which Respondent improved and the levels of his improvement enough to satisfy the goals of the plan, as the Respondent asserts. In such regard, it is not enough that Respondent's work was deemed adequate only after his deficiencies were remedied by another teacher or by an administrator. For example, the fact that Respondent's lesson plans may have been determined adequate after modification by other teachers or administrators does not establish that Respondent was drafting adequate lesson plans; or that because another teacher assisted Respondent in drafting behavior contracts that Respondent successfully modified student problematic behavior, or that merely because Respondent viewed the recommended 360 videos that he was successful in addressing the underlying related deficiencies. Again, by way of example in the deficiency discussed above relating to Respondent's "Failure to use question and discussion techniques with flexibility and responsiveness (3b)," notwithstanding that Respondent may have viewed the two listed videos such does not alone establish that he successfully satisfied the "Professional Growth Goals" listed therein. There, Respondent was directed that: "-Teacher will submit high level questions with weekly lesson plans" and "-Teacher will consistently provide adequate wait time for students to process and respond to questions posed." Thus the videos identified in the plan were not ends in and of themselves, but rather were offered to Respondent as tools to assist him in his efforts to "submit high level questions with weekly lesson plans" and "consistently provide adequate wait time for students to process and respond to questions posed."

The District's Tier Policy Defense

The Respondent argued that effective with the 2009-2010 school year and continuing through the 2011-12 school year, the District adopted the "Tier Implementation Guidelines" and that the District failed to comply with the requirements of those guidelines relating to Respondent. First, Respondent asserts, he should not have been subject to tenure charges when he was evaluated as "basic" for the 2010-11 school year and "unsatisfactory" for the 2011-12 school year. Instead, he should have been considered under "Tier 3" of the process. Additionally, Respondent argued, a 90-day improvement period under the Tier Guidelines requires the school administrator to monitor the teacher as evidenced by 10 observations, weekly observations, including 6 informal and 4 formal observations. The District is bound by its own policy under controlling law, Respondent argued. Here, during his 90-day improvement period Respondent was given only two observations: a formal observation on April 20, 2012 by an interim vice principal in which he was rated "basic" and a formal observation on May 30, 2012 by District Administrator Oliveria in which Respondent was rated in only two of four domains, and rated "unsatisfactory." Where, as here, according to Respondent, the District is under the supervision of a State District Superintendent, the Superintendent stands in the shoes of the Board of Education and is thereby bound to comply with its adopted policies unless and until such are repealed or superseded. Respondent did not have two consecutive years of unsatisfactory annual evaluations, and, as a result, he may not be subject to tenure charges. Principal Merlo may not, as she attempted to do here, simply ignore District policy, Respondent maintained.

Discussion

According to Respondent, at all times relevant the District was bound to comply with the procedural and other requirements contained in the District's "Achievement Through Excellence: A System of Teacher Observation and Performance Evaluation/A Guidebook for Teachers and Administrators/ 2009-2010" and the 2010-2011 version of the Guidebook. (Referred to as the 09-10 Guidebook and 10-11 Guidebook.) Respondent argues that at the time Respondent received his 2011-2012 annual summative evaluation rating of Unsatisfactory, the District was required to apply the terms of the "Tier system" established by the District in the 09-10 Guidebook; and that under that system as a result of Respondent's rating he should have been placed in "tier 3" described in the 09-10 Guidebook as "teachers whose teaching performance is such that charges do not need to be filed until after two years of unsatisfactory annual evaluations." According to the Respondent, under the "Guidelines For Tenure Charges Process" contained in Appendix K-4 of the 09-10 Guidebook, during a 90-day improvement period a teacher "is monitored by school administrator. Ten (10) observations must be conducted during the 90-days [6 informal, 4 formal]. At least one (1) observation per week of instruction must be completed during the 90-day period...." Consequently, according to Respondent, his tenure charges were premature under the tier system and, in any event, his 90-day improvement period did not meet the requirements of the District's own policy; a policy Respondent argues was never terminated by the District.

In this regard, Respondent witness John Abeigon, Director of Organizing for the Newark Teachers Union, testified that he was the executive director of the Union running the Union's operation and managing the staff, and asserted that the 2009-2010 Guidebook was in place for the 2010-11 and 2011-12 school years; that the entire document was put in place District-wide in '10-'11 and '11-'12, and that he knew of no directives by the District that the guidelines were not in place in those years. Such included the tier system, Abeigon testified. When asked initially how he knew the Guidebook was in effect during such years, Abeigon testified; "The Newark Teachers Union was on the committee that authored parts of it."[2] Abeigon offered his interpretation of the tier system based upon a publication distributed by the Union; a publication (identified at the hearing as R-18) that I find does not speak for the District. Abeigon admitted that he was not present at any meetings where District administrators gave its directives to school principals in September of 2010 (regarding the 2010-11 school year) or September 2011 (regarding the 2011-12 school year) relating to evaluation of teachers or at any such meetings between principals in the District and their school staffs.

At the close of the hearing in this matter the record was left open for receipt of a rebuttal affidavit from the District relating to the tier system testified to by Respondent witness Abeigon and a responsive affidavit on behalf of Respondent. In an affidavit

[2] The witness did not testify that he had personal knowledge that the tier system was used by the District in the 2011-2012 school year, did not say he was on the committee that authored the guidebook and did not identify which "parts" of the guidebook were written by the Committee.

thereafter provided by the District, executed by District Assistant Superintendent Roger Leon, the Assistant Superintendent indicated that:

1. Consistent with the testimony of Abeigon, the Guidebook identified by Abeigon was distributed to teachers by principals at orientation sessions at the beginning of the 2008-2009 and 2009-2010 school years.
2. The Guidebook was distributed to teachers by principals at orientation sessions at the beginning of the 2010-2011 school year and principals were directed by the District to inform teachers that the evaluation forms and rubrics would continue to be used that school year but that the tier system would not be in use.
3. The Guidebook was not distributed to teachers during the 2011-2012 school year and instead a document entitled "Achievement Through Excellence: Teacher Observation and Performance Evaluation/A Guidebook for Teachers and Administrators/ 2011-2012" - a document that did not include a tier system - was distributed to teachers.
4. Per directives from the District administration, the tier system/procedures were not utilized in the District for the 2010-2011 and 2011-2012 school years, and

5. That principals recommending inefficiency tenure charges in 2011-2012 were directed by the District to do so without regard to the tier system.

In a responsive, executed affidavit, NTU Director of Organizing Abeigon indicated:

1. As he testified, it is his "understanding" that the District's policy with respect to the "tier" implementation program was in effect District-wide during the 2010-11 and 2011-12 school years.
2. It is his understanding that the 2010-2011 Guidebook, including a tier implementation guideline "should have been" distributed to teachers by principals at the beginning of that school year and that he knew of no written or oral directive from District administration which directed or informed principals that the tier system would not be used for the 2010-2011 school year.
3. That he was told by District administrators that as late as 2011-2012 the administrators were using the 2009-2010 guidebook.
4. That the 2011-2012 guidebook could not have been distributed to teachers at the beginning of that school year as it was not disseminated until January 2012 and that the Union filed a grievance relating to the unilaterally issued guidebook on or about January 23, 2012 and that the matter was eventually heard in arbitration on June 28, 2012.

5. Past practice and regulation require that the District consult with the Union regarding policies and procedures requiring evaluation of tenured teachers and past practice of the parties requires that unless a new evaluation model is created by October 1 of any year the prior year's model will remain in effect.
6. He knows of no directive from District administration to any principal directing that they go forward during the 2011-2012 school year with efficiency tenure charges without regard to the tier system, and that to the best of his knowledge he "believes" teachers have been led to believe in numerous District schools that the tier system was utilized in the 2010-2011 and 2011-2012 school years.

Based upon the record, I find both the testimony and written statement of Respondent's witness Abeigon on the tier system to be equivocal. He, I believe honestly as well as intentionally, repeatedly qualified his testimony about the implementation of the tier system in the 2010-2012 school years with ambivalent words rather than using affirmative, unequivocal statements and did not identify how he gained direct personal knowledge of the alleged required use of the tier system in the two school years at issue. The fact is, Abeigon admitted on cross examination that he was not present when any principal oriented teachers at the beginning of the 2010-11 or 2011-12 school years, and that he is not aware of any directives from District administration relating to the tier systems during those years. Abeigon's statements about what "should have" occurred as a result of the District's obligations to the Union relating to changes in evaluation systems, are legal conclusions and I find the record herein is insufficient for the undersigned to determine the correctness of such legal conclusions.[3] In contrast, the statement of Assistant Superintendent Leon is unequivocal; the District ended its use of the tier system prior to the 2010-2011 school year and the tier system was not in effect during the 2010-2011 school year or 2011-2012 school year. Importantly, such statements by Leon are consistent with the testimony of principal Merlo, a witness who was responsible for implementation of the District's policies at the Lafayette Street School and whose testimony that the tier system was not in use during the two school years involved herein I credit.

Based upon the record as a whole, I find; (1) that the fact that the District did not apply the tier system contained in the 09-10 or later Guidebook to Respondent does not constitute a defense to the instant tenure charges, and (2) that the 90-day improvement plan applied to Respondent was adequate.

Respondent's Highly Qualified Defense

According to Respondent, at all times relevant he was not "highly qualified" in math and consequently, his assignment to teach departmentalized middle-school math at [3] I also note that on remand the Union did not offer the results of its 2012 arbitration referenced in Abeigon's post-hearing rebuttal affidavit.

the Lafayette Street School was contrary to the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001, and as a result, he may not be found inefficient. According to Respondent, there is no evidence whatsoever, that he was Highly Qualified to teach 6th grate departmentalized math for the 2010-11 and 2011-12 school years at Lafayette Street school. The opinion of principal Merlo does not make Respondent so qualified and the District cannot deem Respondent inefficient in a position to which he was not qualified in the first place.

Discussion

I am not persuaded by Respondent's argument in this regard. Respondent identified no persuasive legal precedent to support such a finding. The penalties in the No Child Left Behind related law/regulations for having non highly qualified teachers teaching in certain schools related to issues of federal funding. The Respondent did not identify any portion of the law or regulation arguably establishing the protection for teachers as Respondent advocates herein.

Respondent Defense Relating to Progressive Discipline

The doctrine of progressive discipline applies to tenure charges and here, Respondent asserts, if any penalty is warranted at all, it should be one less severe than termination. In this regard, Respondent argues, in his twenty years with the District prior to the 2010-11 school year Respondent had never been subjected to any discipline whatsoever; his classroom observations and annual evaluations were extremely positive and during that period he never received an unsatisfactory annual evaluation. Under such circumstances, any deficiency in Respondent's teaching performance during the 2011-12 school year should be limited to some lesser form of sanction such as a Teacher Assistance Program, increment withholding, suspension without pay or transfer. In any event, Respondent argued, under principles of progressive discipline, removal is excessive considering the gravity of Respondent's conduct.

Discussion

Respondent's progressive discipline argument has to be considered within context. It may be true that Respondent taught adults for many years in the District and received annual evaluations that did not result in tenure charges. However, contrary to the implication of Respondent's argument, he was not "set up to fail" by the District's assigning him to Lafayette Street School. There is no dispute that the adult education program in which Respondent taught for many years ceased to exist. If Respondent was thereafter going to work as a teacher for the District, considering his teaching certification is K through 8, it was not unreasonable for the District to assign him a position at an elementary school. The challenges facing Respondent under such circumstances cannot be understated. However, the fact that Respondent was faced with such a challenge does not offer him a level of protection beyond that normally associated with tenure.

In the instant matter, the evidence establishes that the District, and particularly principal Merlo, recognized that the transition form adult to elementary students would be challenging for Respondent, and the record establishes that Merlo took extraordinary steps to assist Respondent, not just during the 90-day improvement period, but rather for the entire 2010-2011 school year and the entire 2011-2012 school year. Giving Respondent the benefit of the doubt, the District waited until the last minute, so to speak, to place Respondent on a 90-day improvement plan. Notwithstanding the extraordinary efforts of the District, the preponderance of the evidence establishes that Respondent was inefficient as asserted in his tenure charges.

Respondent's underlying theory in support of lesser discipline here is based upon principals of progressive discipline; that less severe discipline will result in desired improvements in the employee's behavior/performance. Under the circumstances here, I am not persuaded that a suspension of Respondent, a withholding of his increment or further efforts by the District to assist Respondent would result in such a substantial improvement in Respondent's performance as to warrant his retention. The District did so very much for Respondent for almost two years and did not obtained significant positive results. The opportunities offered Respondent and resources expended on his transition form adult teaching to elementary teaching that preceded his 90-day improvement period recommend against mitigation or a finding that a lesser penalty will result in the desired change in Respondent's performance.[4] I find that lesser discipline is not appropriate here

[4] Again, as I found in my original Decision in the matter and affirmed herein:

> After two years of such focused effort and assistance by the District as well as written reprimands, observations and evaluations that he never challenged, Respondent continued to struggle. Respondent continued to have difficulty with, among other things, the preparation and design of lesson plans and differentiating his plans to meet the differing needs of different groups of students; he continued to have difficulty with managing class time; he continued to have difficulty establishing and enforcing procedures and routines of his students; his classroom continued to be disrupted by student behavior; he had a difficult time creating an atmosphere in his classroom conducive to learning; and his students struggled to learn. Upon overall review of the record, and acknowledging that I have no reason to question the professional judgments and evaluations of the educators involved herein, when comparing Respondent's performance early in the 2010-2011 school year to his performance late in the 2011-2012 school year, I find that such a comparison establishes that Respondent failed to show improvement of any significance through the course of his two school years of teaching at Lafayette Street School.

Conclusion

Upon careful, de novo consideration of the full original record in this matter and the arguments of the parties following remand including my review of the facts anew pursuant to the preponderance of the evidence standard in effect for inefficiency cases prior to the enactment of TEACHNJ, and subject to my having careful consideration each of Respondent's defenses, I find that the District has met its burden of proving the subject tenure charges by a preponderance of the credible evidence.

Respondent's discharge is hereby sustained.

Re: I/M/O Tenure Charges Against Michael Lefkowitz , State Operated School District of the City of Camden
[Respondent's Emergent Motion for Reinstatement]
Agency Docket No. 329-10/15

Dear Counsel:

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, I hereby order the reinstatement of the Respondent, Michael Lefkowitz ("Lefkowitz"), to the payroll of the Camden City School District retroactive to February 25, 2016. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 clearly states that "[u]pon certification of nay charge to the commissioner, the board may suspend the person against whom such charge is made with or without pay, but, if the determination of the charge by the arbitrator is not made within 120 calendar days after certification of the charges ... then the fully salary ... of such person shall be paid beginning on the one hundred twenty-first [121st] day until such determination is made.

The above statute is clear and ambiguous. Since the tenure charge in the instant matter was certified to the Commissioner on October 27, 2015, Lefkowitz is entitled to receive his full pay retroactive to February 25, 2016. With respect to the District's claim that Lefkowitz is not entitled to reinstatement because he filed a Motion for Summary Decision, the Arbitrator finds that he had a right to file this motion, which he did contemporaneously with his Statement of Position and Statement of Evidence on September 2, 2015, and should not be penalized for exercising his rights to respond to the Tenure Charge. With respect to the District's second claim that it is entitled to a "setoff" of the unemployment benefits that Lefkowitz received since the start of his suspension without pay from the District because these benefits constitute "salary or pay" from "substituted employment," the Arbitrator concurs with the Respondent in finding that "there is no case law, administrative decision, statute or regulation that supports the concept that unemployment benefits, that is benefits an individual received because they are unemployed would constitute "pay" or salary" from "substituted employment."

INTERIM AWARD

The Respondent, Michael Lefkowitz, shall be reinstated to the District's payroll retroactive to February 25, 2016. It is so ordered.

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons set forth in the recommended Order – that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6.

This matter involves a dispute as to whether the petitioner is domiciled in the respondent Piscataway School District or in the Plainfield School District. Despite the fact that the petitioner did not establish the right to emergent relief permitting D.H. to immediately attend school in the Piscataway School District while this case is pending, D.H. must be enrolled in some school district.[1] The petitioner indicated during the argument on emergent relief that the Plainfield School District would not allow the petitioner to register D.H. in Plainfield. If the petitioner is not able to register D.H. in the Plainfield School District, the petitioner may file a separate petition of appeal and motion for emergent relief, and request that the new petition be consolidated with this matter. In the meantime, the respondent may voluntary enroll D.H. in the Piscataway School District to enable D.H. to attend school during the pendency of this case on the merits. In the alternative, if it is ultimately determined that D.H. is entitled to attend school in the Piscataway School District, the respondent could then be responsible for tuition costs sought by the Plainfield School District.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. This matter shall continue at the OAL with such proceedings as the parties and ALJ deem necessary to bring it to closure.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

D.H., pro se

David B. Rubin, Esq., for respondent

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

D.H. ("petitioner") filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education challenging a residency determination by the Board of Education of the Township of Piscataway ("respondent") in regard to her son, D.H. In conjunction with the petition, petitioner filed an application for emergent relief.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on February 18, 2016, for determination as a contested case. An oral argument in regard to petitioner's motion for emergent relief was conducted on March 1, 2016, at the Office of Administrative Law in Newark, New Jersey.

Petitioner filed her motion for emergent relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(a). As set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), the factors to consider in regard to an application for emergent relief are as follows:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
2. The legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled;
3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

In her Pro Se Residency Appeal, petitioner states that she has rented an apartment in Piscataway since 2014. Her parents own a home in Plainfield approximately four or five blocks away from petitioner's apartment. Petitioner's parents left their home in Plainfield and asked petitioner to "house sit" for them until the property is foreclosed on. Petitioner further states that when her parents come to New Jersey and stay in their home, she stays in her apartment every night. Further, in the event of a foreclosure she will be in her Piscataway address full time.

Respondent presented a certification of Martin Hibinski, who is employed by respondent as an Assistant Truant Officer. According to the certification, student D.H. left and returned to the address in Plainfield on numerous occasions from September 2015 to January 2016. Officer Hibinski concluded that petitioner and her son, D.H., were living in Plainfield and that petitioner was renting the apartment in Piscataway for her daughter.

After a hearing, respondent sent a letter dated December 21, 2015, to petitioner advising her of its determination that D.H. is not eligible to enroll in respondent's schools. Further, the letter advised petitioner of her right to appeal to the Commissioner of Education within twenty-one days. Despite this advice, petitioner did not file an appeal with the Commissioner of Education within twenty-one days.

The first factor is whether petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b)1. Harm is considered to be irreparable if it cannot be remedied by money damages. Moreover, the harm must be substantial and immediate; risk of harm alone is not sufficient.

The harm from loss of education would be considered irreparable, but petitioner may well be able to avoid this result by registering D.H. in Plainfield's schools. The pertinent regulations are set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:22-4.1 to -4.2.

The next requirement is that the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b)2. In this proceeding, petitioner claims that D.H. is domiciled within the school district and that therefore he has the right to attend respondent's schools.

In accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a), public schools shall be free to a person over five and under twenty years of age who is domiciled within the school district. It follows that the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled.

The next consideration is whether petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b)3. Respondent presented numerous details based upon an investigation that continued from September 2015 to January 2016. Petitioner attempted to raise some factual issues, but it cannot be said that petitioner has demonstrated a likelihood of prevailing on the merits.

The final requirement is that when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, petitioner will suffer greater harm than petitioner will suffer if the requested relief is not granted. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b)4. Since it appears that petitioner would be able to enroll D.H. in the Plainfield schools, petitioner has not established that she will suffer greater harm than petitioner, if the requested relief is not granted.

In order to prevail on a motion for emergent relief, the movant must satisfy all four requirements under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b). Here, petitioner meets one of the requirements but fails to satisfy the other three. Under the circumstances, I CONCLUDE that petitioner's request does not satisfy the applicable standard for emergent relief. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that petitioner's request for emergent relief is denied.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the Commissioner of Education, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Colin M. Lynch, Esq.,

BACKGROUND

On August 7, 2015, Armando Cepero, Principal of Miller Street School, State-Operated School District of the City of Newark ("District") filed a charge of inefficiency against Danielle Carroll ("Respondent"), a tenured teacher pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3.[1]

The bases for the tenure charge was that "Respondent has been rated Partially Effective and Ineffective in two consecutive annual summative evaluations as follows:

1) Respondent was rated Partially Effective in her 2013-14 annual summative evaluation;

2) Respondent was rated Ineffective in her 2014-15 annual summative evaluation."

Section 25 or N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3 of the TEACHNJ Act requires that in order to bring charges of inefficiency against a tenured teacher, he or she must have had two consecutive annual summative evaluation ratings of either "ineffective," "partially effective," or a combination thereof.

On November 15, 2015, the Respondent filed a Motion to Dismiss the Inefficiency Charge because "Carroll's summative evaluation is fatally flawed and, as a matter of law, may not form the basis of the instant charges."

Specifically, Respondent maintains that "her SGOs were simply ignored by her Principal in evaluating her 2014-15 teaching performance." According to the Respondent, "Carroll's Corrective Action Plan ('CAP') established two (2)

---

[1] By letter dated October 14, 2015, the District indicated that it "is willing to proceed at hearing as if the charge had been brought solely on the basis of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3."

specific Student Growth Objectives ('SGOs') as required by applicable law for the purpose of objectively analyzing student performance, and more importantly, for present purposes, for the purpose of analyzing Carroll's teaching performance."

STATEMENT OF FACTS

Respondent Carroll is a ten-year tenured teacher, most recently assigned by the District to teach Second Grade Elementary Education at the Miller Street School for the 2014-15 school year.

The District placed Carroll on a Corrective Action Plan for the 2014-15 school year. Since Carroll taught Second Grade, instructing in both Math and English, her SGOs contained objective data-driven measures of student growth in both of those subject areas.

For Math, on page 2 of Carroll's five-page CAP, the students were given a "baseline" assessment. "The baseline assessment was the MIP Pre-Test Numbers to 1,000 which is the district's recommended baseline assessment. Based on this assessment 9 students (60%) performed at or above grade level; 6 students performed below grade level." (See Ex. #A). Predicated on that baseline assessment, Carroll's Math SGO was specifically established as follows:

> The student growth objective for the above students is for 9 students to maintain mastery and an additional three students to perform at or above grade level. By the mid year (sic) assessment 80% of students will be performing at or above grade level. By the May (sic) 14 students (93%) will be performing at or above grade level in mathematics.

Respondent identified several metrics in her CAP, by which she would measure whether her students met their learning goals in Math, as follows:

o Interim Assessment
o Unit Assessment
o PARCC

In her mid-year review, the metric that would be used to measure student progress in Math was changed and listed as follows: "Math in Focus Assessments."

Respondent identified several metrics in her CAP by which she would measure whether her students met their learning goals in ELA as follows:

o DRA2 ["Diagnostic Reading Assessment"]
o KLA Unit Assessments ["Core Knowledge Language Assessment"]
o Weekly Writing Assessment

"In addition to the Math SGO, the CAP also established an SGO for 'ELA' or English Language Arts. Here too, the CAP identifies the students' baseline assessment for measuring growth: 'At the time that the DRA 2 assessment was administered 10 students (59%) performed at the suggested DRA2 performance level of a 16 or above for students entering grade 2. 7 students (41%) fell below the suggested benchmark and therefore are performing below grade level." (See Exhibit 'A')." Predicated on that baseline assessment, Carroll's ELA SGO was specifically established as follows:

> By June the student growth objective is for the 10 students (59%) that are performing at or above grade level to maintain mastery of their fluency skill in reading. An additional 5 students will join their classmates and be performing on a second grade reading level. This will increase the fall projection of 10 students (59%) to 15 students (88%) of students performing on grade level by the mid year (sic) assessment. The remaining two students who are significantly below grade level will move from a 6 DRA level to a level 12 demonstrating 33% growth from October to January. At the time of reevaluation I can project that these students will leave second grade performing on second grade level with an improvement rate of 67% from January doubling their growth objective for the year.

According to the Respondent, the foregoing SGOs met the legal requirement under NJTEACH to objectively measure student growth. Section (d) of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3 states that tenure charges filed against an employee alleging inefficiency may only be based on "those evaluations conducted in accordance with the rubric adopted by the board and approved by the commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 et al. The evaluation rubric is governed by another section of the TEACHNJ Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-123, which specifies the minimum requirements for its approval. Among other things, the evaluation rubric 'shall' include:

1) four defined annual rating categories for teachers, principals, assistant principals, and vice-principals: ineffective, partially effective, effective, and highly effective;

2) a provision requiring that the rubric be partially based on multiple objective measures of student learning that use student growth from one year's measure to the next year's measure;

3) a provision that allows the district, in grades in which a standardized test is not required, to determine the methods for measuring student growth;

4) a provision that multiple measures of practice and student learning be used in conjunction with professional standards of practice using a comprehensive evaluation process in rating effectiveness with specific measures and implementation processes. Standardized assessments shall be used as a measure of student progress but shall not be the predominant factor in the overall evaluation of a teacher." [emphasis added].

"Evaluation rubrics for all teachers shall include the requirements described in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-123, including, but not limited to... (1) Measures of student achievement pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.2"; (2) Measures of teacher practice pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.3 and 4.4. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.2 outlines detail the student achievement components, which includes the SGOs, that must be considered as part of a teacher's annual summative evaluations, as was set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.1 as follows:

> The student achievement measure shall include the following components...Student growth objective(s), which shall be specific and measurable, based on available student learning data, aligned to Core Curriculum Content Standards, and based on growth and/or achievement... (i) For teachers who teach subjects or grades not covered by the Core Curriculum Content Standards, student growth objectives shall align to standards adopted or endorsed, as applicable, by the State Board. (emphasis added).

Evaluations underlying inefficiency charges brought pursuant to the Act must be at least partially based on objective measures of student performance, commonly referred to as SGOs.

The District's Framework for Effective Teaching policy manual, specifically the "Overview of Evaluation Components" section, instructs teachers and administrators to "start the yearly evaluation process with a goal setting conference which will focus on setting both specific learning goals (sometimes called Student Growth Objectives or SGOs) and professional development goals for the teachers...[which] are captured in the teacher's Individualized Professional Development Plan ('IDPD') or Corrective Action Plan ('CAP'). The policy goes on to define a student learning goal as a 'long-term objective on which the teacher will focus for his/her classes or groups of students. Each objective or focus area should be a skill or behavior critical to the students' success in the course and be aligned to the standards and/or curricular objectives. The goals should be measurable and based on available student learning data.'" (Id. at p. A11) (emphasis added).

Each teacher without a student growth percentile ("SGP") (such as Carroll) shall have at least two (2) SGOs developed by the teacher in conjunction with his or her supervisor or a principal's designee. SGOs "and the criteria for assessing teacher performance based on the objectives shall be determined, recorded and retained by the teacher and his/her supervisor by October 31 of each academic year." N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.2(e)(4). In calculating Carroll's summative evaluation for the 2014-15 school year, the Respondent asserts that the District was required to include scores from Respondent's SGOs based on specific, measurable and available student learning data.

At the required "mid-year review" of Carroll's CAP, the evaluator found that she had made "significant progress" toward her goals and was "effective" in making progress toward her SGOs. (Resp. brief, Ex. #B).

On page 5 of 10 of Carroll's summative evaluation, the Principal listed only her ELA SGO.

Respondent's summative evaluation for 2014-15 included a rating as to whether her student learning goals/student growth objectives were met. In a section called "Competency 4: Reflecting on the Student Learning Plan," the summative noted that "the finding from this section should relate to the ratings that you assigned to the teacher for Indicator(s) 4d, 4e and 4f." (Petitioner's Statement of Evidence, Ex. #15 @ 4-5). The Evaluator rated Ms. Carroll on Indicators 4d, 4e and 4f, which are subsections of Competency 4, "Student Progress Toward Mastery" as follows:

4d. Partially Effective
4e. Partially Effective
4f. Ineffective

"In addition, the 2014-15 summative includes three questions about student learning goals, and the evaluator gave the following answers to those questions:"

Q. What were the student learning goals set during the creation of the IPDP/CAP, including any revisions made at the mid-year review or after observations?

A. By June the student growth objective is for the 10 students (59%) that are performing at or above grade level to maintain mastery of their fluency skills in reading. An additional 5 students will join their classmates and be performing on a second grade reading level. By the fall 15 students (88%) of students performing on grade level by the mid-year assessment. The remaining two students who are significantly below grade level will move from a 6 DRA to a level 12 demonstrating 33% growth from October to January. At the time of reevaluation I can project that these students will leave second grade performing on second grade level with an improvement rate of 67% from January doubling their growth objective for the year. [This goal was not revised during the course of the school year.]

Q. What progress did students demonstrate specifically around the earning [stet] these student learning goals? Please describe what metrics were used to assess progress of these goals.

A. As demonstrated by formal and informal observations, Ms. Carroll has not met students' learning goals. Below is list:

AIP, PLC's, implementation of professional development, lesson plans, unit plans and yearlong plans, quality of student work samples, gradebook, MIF [Math in Focus] training, CLI training and students responses and feedback.

Q. Overall, did the teacher meet the goals?

A. Did Not Meet Goals.

The mid-year review provides the following clarification regarding the "Math in Focus Assessment" metric:

> Yes. Ms. Carroll is on track to meet the goals that were set. Yes. For the DRA, students demonstrated 38% growth from September to January. Math in Focus Mid-Year Assessment: 72% or 16 students received 70% or above on the math mid-year assessment. Additional work with word problems through modeling and guided practice is necessary, as well as continual review of calendar routines to practice value, rounding, etc.

CONTENTIONS OF THE PARTIES

Respondent Position

The Respondent contends that her Motion for Summary Decision should be granted because her 2014-15 summative annual evaluation is "fatally flawed" due to the failure of her principal to provide either a SGO score or any objective data as to whether she met her SGOs. The District's conclusory assertion that she did not meet her SGOs supported only by "subjective, non-data driven criteria, such as 'Carroll's training' and generalized 'observations' is deemed insufficient to fulfill the statutory mandate." According to the Respondent, "[t]his deficiency is not a mere 'procedural' shortcoming, but rather, a substantive defect rendering Carroll's 2014-15 summative evaluation effectively void."

Given the purported defect in Carroll's 2014-15 summative evaluation, the Respondent argues that she "isn't required – as claimed by the District – to demonstrate that the error 'materially affected the outcome of the evaluation.'" To the extent that Respondent would be required to make such a demonstration, "she has done so, since SGO scores are a core requirement of any evaluation.

They represent 'a,' if not 'the,' centerpiece of the Act." The Respondent further argues:

> Their exclusion from her evaluation is statutorily material, such that her evaluation, in the absence of such scores, is inherently arbitrary and capricious and cannot serve as a basis for inefficiency tenure charges. Because Carroll's 2014-15 annual evaluation cannot serve as a basis for the charges, the District lacks the two summative annual evaluations necessary to pursue charges against Carroll for "inefficiency," and the charges must, respectfully, be dismissed.

With respect to the mid-year change made in Carroll's Math SGO, the Respondent notes that "she still met her Math SGO at mid-year. She also met her ELA SGO, and the determination she did so was based upon data-driven objective metrics. In Component 4(f) of her mid-year evaluation, it is undisputed that she was rated 'effective' based upon those objective data-driven metrics." (See, Dist. Ex. #12 @ p. 12).

In response to the District's assertion based on the Q&A portion of Carroll's evaluation that "[t]hese answers demonstrate that the evaluator used not only the metrics listed in Respondent's CAP, as revised in the mid-year evaluation, to determine whether she met her 2014-15 student learning goals, but also used other sources of information that were listed plainly in the summative," the Respondent notes that "the District then acknowledges that the summative evaluation 'does not recite a math goal in the answer to the question for the student learning goals recited." In addition, the Respondent notes that the District omitted noting that "the 'summative' also fails to state Carroll's Math SGO, or that the 'summative' fails to recite Carroll's ELA SGO score, which was also part of her CAP." The Respondent further takes issue with the District's claim that the "overwhelming amount of evidence demonstrates that Respondent's student learning goals were considered and rated in her 2014-15 summative evaluation."

Notwithstanding the District's claim of an "overwhelming amount of evidence," the Respondent contends that "no actual evidence is cited or proferred." With respect to the Principal's response to the query: "What progress did students demonstrate specifically around those student learning goals? Please describe what metrics were used to assess progress of these goals?", the Respondent concludes that the undisputed answer cites "no specifics" or "metrics" were used to assess progress. "Nor does the Principal bother to cite any of the "assessment/metrics" from either Carroll's Math or ELA SGOs cited in her CAP, the alleged revised "Math in Focus" assessment cited in her Mid-Year review, or even her ELA SGO assessment quoted in the summative evaluation."

"What we get instead of a 'specific' and 'metric' based assessment of Carroll's SGOs is as follows:

> As demonstrated by formal and informal observations, Ms. Carroll has not met student learning goals. Below is a list:
> AIP [Attendance Improvement Plan], PLC's [Professional Learning Communities], implementation of professional development, lesson plans, quality of student work samples, gradebook, MIF [Math in Focus] training, CLI training and students responses and feedback."

In the absence of a SGO score, specifics or metrics, either those in Carroll's CAP or mid-year review, the District relies on Carroll's "ineffective" rating on Component 4(f) in her summative, "progress toward goals" – with "no explanation provided as to why or how the determination was made based upon either Carroll's SGOs or the stated 'metrics' that were supposed to be used to determine if she met them – i.e., an SGO score."

Rather than cite to any specific metric – i.e., an SGO score, the Respondent characterizes as "gobbledy gook" the above-stated Principal's list of non-quantitative items. None of the above is deemed a metric that measures student growth. The Attendance Improvement Plan (AIP), Professional Development, lesson plans and student work samples, "do not objectively measure student growth as contemplated by the applicable law and regulations and certainly are not the measures of student growth identified in Carroll's CAP or mid-year evaluation."

Referring to the DOE guidance for "Developing and Using Practical Measures of Student Learning," SGOs are: "(1) long term goals; (2) that are specific and measurable; (3) aligned to state academic standards; (4) based on student growth and/or achievement; (5) set using available student learning data; (6) developed by a teacher in consultation with his or her supervisor; and approved and scored by a teacher's supervisor." (emphasis added).

The Respondent further maintains that "an evaluation rating may not be provided at all to a teacher in the absence of an SGO score." See N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2.4(4)(d). "[i]f any scores for teaching staff member's evaluation rubric are not available at the time of the annual summary conference due to pending assessment results, the annual summative rating shall be calculated once all component ratings are available."

The Respondent further cites the Legislature's findings and declarations regarding the TEACHNJ Act as follows:

> b. The New Jersey Supreme Court has found that a multitude of factors play a vital role in the quality of a child's education, including effectiveness in teaching methods and evaluations. Changing the current evaluation system to focus on improved student outcomes, including objective measures of student growth, is critical to improving teacher effectiveness, raising student achievement, and meeting the objectives of the federal "No Child Left Behind Act of 2001." (emphasis added).

Moreover, the DOE's implementing regulations, specifically 6A:10-4.1, Components of teacher evaluation rubric, mandate that teacher evaluations include student achievement components.

> (c) To earn a summative rating, a teacher shall have a student achievement score, including median student growth percentile and/or student growth objective(s) scores, and a teacher practice score pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.4.

The Respondent reiterates that, given the absence of a 2014-15 SGO score, "the District simply does not have the required two consecutive years of 'ineffective' or 'partially ineffective' performance evaluations necessary to pursue charges under Section 25 of the Act. Inasmuch as N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2(d) places the "ultimate burden" on the District "of demonstrating to the arbitrator that the statutory criteria for tenure charges have been met," the Respondent argues that the District cannot meet its burden because "[t]he only evaluations which may be used for the purposes of this section are those evaluations conducted in accordance with a rubric adopted by the board and approved by the Commissioner pursuant to P.L. 2012, C.26 (C. 18A:6-117 et al.)." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3.

With respect to the statutory defenses, the Respondent maintains that "defenses (1) and (4) would easily apply." According to the Respondent, defense one (1) is applicable because her evaluation "failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process, including but not limited to providing a corrective action plan." Also, defense four (4) is applicable because "the substitution of non-metric considerations in allegedly analyzing whether or not Carroll met her SGO's is the very height of arbitrary and capricious conduct..."

Finally, the Respondent rejects the Certification of Larisa Shambaugh, dated December 28, 2015, wherein "she explains how student growth objectives are incorporated into the annual summative scores of teachers in the Newark Public Schools (NPS)." The Respondent also takes issue with the District's "belatedly provided 'Equivalency Application'" as a rationale for not providing Carroll with a SGO score.

Although the Respondent acknowledges that "the District sought and received approval to wrap the SGO score into its Teacher Practice components, and more specifically 'Competency 4,' which contains a sub-section '4(f),' entitled 'Progress Toward Goals'... and increased the value of Competency 4 to 32% to ensure 'equivalency,"[2] the Respondent argues that "neither the waiver application, nor the Commissioner's approval of the application exempts the District from issuing a SGO score for the Respondent nor, even more importantly, utilizing objective measures of student growth in evaluating her and

[2] "The District increased the value of Competency 4 to 32% of the evaluation score, rather than 21% which would have been the case if the SGO score were an independent standalone component of the evaluation.'

her peers." Thus, the District neither sought, nor was granted, waiver from N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.1(c) ("to earn a summative rating, a teacher shall have a student achievement score, including median student growth percentile and/or student growth objective(s) scores, and a teacher practice score pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.4.").

The District's own "equivalency application" confirms this, by noting, "[t]o be clear, NPS is not requesting any waiver from the weighting or inclusion of SGOs or SGP...[i]ndeed, the district follows this regulation explicitly." (See ¶3 of Waiver Application).

In seeking the "waiver," the District informed the Commissioner that it would include within Competency 4 (presumably through sub-competency 4(f)) what is "seen through quantitative data, (e.g., progress on student learning goals set at the beginning of the year, interim assessments, standardized tests, etc.)." (See ¶2 of Waiver Application).

Since neither the District nor the Commissioner can waive a statutory mandate, the District's equivalency waiver does not exclude the requirement "that the evaluation rubrics include 'multiple objective measures of student learning that use student growth;' including the utilization of 'standardized assessments...' Certainly, there is no evidence in the 2014-15 summative evaluation of any quantitative data – only reference to patently subjective criteria that do not jibe with the SGOs established in Respondent's CAP or her mid-year evaluation."

District Position

The District, in opposition to the Respondent's Motion to Dismiss, maintains that it "complied fully with its obligation to provide a summative evaluation of the Respondent's performance in the 2014-15 school year that included a rating based on whether Respondent's students met objectives for their academic growth. As such, the Motion should be denied."

After reviewing and amending the Respondent's mid-year metric for Math to substitute "Math in Focus assessments," noting her ratings in Indicators 4d, 4e and 4f (subsections of Competency 4, "Student Progress Toward Mastery"), and reviewing the evaluator's Q&A answers about learning goals supra, the District states:

> "These answers demonstrate that the evaluator used not only the metrics listed in Respondent's CAP, as revised in the mid-year evaluation, to determine whether she met her 2014-15 student learning goals, but also used other sources of information that were listed plainly in the summative. The fact that the summative does not recite a math goal in the answer to the question asking for the student learning goals to be recited is hardly a 'fatal flaw,' as Respondent argues. Rather, the overwhelming amount of evidence demonstrates that Respondent's student learning goals were considered, and rated, in her 2014-15 summative evaluation."

The District acknowledges that TEACHNJ, inter alia, requires, in terms of measurable student objectives, the following:

P.L. 2012, c.26 ("TEACHNJ") requires that the school districts adopt a rubric approved by the Commissioner of Education, and that

> The State Board of Education shall promulgate regulations...to set standards for the approval of evaluation rubrics for teachers, principals, assistant principals and vice-principals. The standards at a minimum shall include:

(1) four defined annual rating categories for teachers, principals, assistant principals, and vice-principals: ineffective, partially effective, effective, and highly effective;

(2) a provision requiring that the rubric he partially based on multiple objective measures of student learning that use student growth from one year's measure to the next year's measure;

(3) a provision that allows the district, in grades in which a standardized test is not required, to determine the methods for measuring student growth;

(4) a provision that multiple measures of practice and student learning be used in conjunction with professional standards of practice using a comprehensive evaluation process in rating effectiveness with specific measure and implementation processes. Standardized assessment shall be used as a measure of student progress but shall not be the predominant factor in the overall evaluation of a teacher. N.J.S.A. 8A:6-123(a) and (b)...

"The School District adopted such a rubric, and its adoption and approval by the Commissioner are not at issue on this motion. The School District also abided by its obligation to use 'measures of student achievement' in teachers' summative performance evaluations, as the applicable regulation provides:

> Measures of student achievement shall be used to determine impact on student learning. The student achievement measure shall include the following components:
>
> Student growth objectives, which shall be specific and measurable, based on available student learning data, aligned to Core Curriculum Content Standards, and based on growth and/or achievement;
>
> (e) Student growth objectives for teachers shall be developed and measured according to the following procedures:
> (1) The chief school administrator shall determine the number of required student growth objectives of teachers, including teachers with a student growth percentile. A teacher with a > student growth percentile shall have at least one and not more than four student growth objectives. A teacher without a student growth percentile shall have at least two and a maximum of four student growth objectives. By August 31, prior to the academic year in which the evaluation rubric applies, the Department shall provide on its website the minimum and maximum number of required student growth objectives within this range.

>
> (3) Each teacher shall develop, in consultation with his or her supervisor or a principal's designee, each student growth objective. If the teacher does not agree with the student growth objectives, the principal shall make the final determination.
> (4) Student growth objectives and the criteria for assessing teacher performance based on the objectives shall be determined recorded, and retained by the teacher and his or her supervisor by October 31 of each year, or within 20 work days of the teacher's start date if the teacher begins work after October 1..."

In its sur-reply, the District reiterates that the Respondent's "2014-15 summative evaluation included measures of student learning goals ('student growth objectives')...both in the narrative portion of the summative evaluation as well as in the accompanying rating sheet." See Petitioner's Statement of Evidence, Ex. 15 (pp. 4-5) [narrative] and pp. 8-10 [rating sheet].

The student learning goals incorporated into the Respondent's summative evaluation are in conformance with the District's state-approved teacher performance evaluation system (i.e., the Framework for Effective Teaching).

With respect to Competency 4, called "Student Progress Toward Mastery," the District notes that "Competency 4 outlines mechanisms for identifying whether or not students are learning in one lesson and over the course of the year." Id. Six indicators, each of which is rated, comprise Competency 4:

> In an individual lesson:
> 4a. Checks for Understanding
> 4b. Feedback
> 4c. Demonstration of Learning
>
> Over the course of a year:
> 4d. Using Data
> 4e. Understanding of Growth
> 4f. Progress Toward Goals

According to the District, the ratings the Respondent received at her mid-year and summative evaluations for Competency 4 "but not in classroom observations during the school year," entailed, as described in the Framework, "utiliz[ing] the evidence specifically around the teachers' progress in meeting student learning goals in the teacher's...CAP."

The District disputes the Respondent's contention that "her summative evaluation should include a standalone 'SGO score,' or something to that effect, and she moves to dismiss the charge contending, in essence, that the lack of a category so denominated renders her summative evaluation deficient. To the contrary, the applicable regulation provides:

> Student growth objectives for teachers shall be developed and measured according to the following procedures: ...The teacher's designated supervisor shall calculate each teacher's student growth objective score. The teacher's student growth objective score, if available, shall be discussed at the teacher's annual summary conference and recorded in the teacher's personnel file." N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4-2(e)(6).

In short, the District argues that "the record shows plainly that student learning goals were included and rated in competencies 4d, 4e and 4f of the Respondent's summative evaluation."

The District has further submitted the Certification of Ms. Larisa Shambaugh ("Shambaugh"), Executive Director of Strategic Initiatives in the Talent Office of the NPS. Whereas Ms. Shambaugh "recognizes that the District's method of calculating student academic growth and evaluating teachers on that progress 'looks different' from the SGO-setting methods that the State Department of Education has suggested in nonbinding guidance," the District avers that it "requested a determination from the Department of Education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:5 that its method of rating student growth is equivalent to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.2 (student achievement components of teacher evaluation) (Shambaugh Cert. ¶1¶1 9-11 and Ex. A)."

The District urges the Arbitrator to "be guided by the Department's initial approval of the Framework and its January 2015 equivalency approval." Unlike the Respondent's reliance on NJSDOE guidance set forth in the "Student Growth Objectives Guidebook (undated), whose use is "suggested" rather than mandated, the District alludes to the Achieve NJ: Teacher Evaluation Scoring Guide which states:

> "Local school districts have discretion on how to combine observation data and evidence about a teacher's practice collected throughout the year into a final teacher practice rating on a 1 – 4 scale," and on page 6, "SGO scoring can be approached in several ways. The specific approach must be determined at the local level (district or school)..." (emphasis added).

In her Certification, Shambaugh notes that the District's evaluation rubric was approved by the NJSDOE in October 2012 and entitled Newark Public Schools Framework for Effective Teaching Guidebook for Teachers and Administrators. The Framework focuses on five competencies, with each competency containing several '"indicators' that are rated individually. When the overall summative evaluation is calculated at the end of the year, the evaluator determines the teacher's performance rating on each of the five competencies."

"The ratings on each competency is assigned a point value and the points are added together (or subtracted, which is possible with respect to the Competency 5 rating) to obtain an overall summative rating."

"The maximum possible number of points was seventeen (17) in 2013-14, and nineteen (19) in 2014-15 as a result of a two-point increase in weight given to Competency 4 in 2014-15. In 2014-15, teachers were rated 'highly effective' if their overall score was 17-19 points; 'effective' if their overall score was 13-16 points; 'partially effective' if their overall score was 8-12 points; and 'ineffective' if their overall score was 0 to 7 points."

"The School District's evaluation system factors annual measures of student academic achievement, called 'student learning goals' or student growth objectives, into each teacher's summative evaluation through ratings given in three of six indicators in Competency 4. Indicators 4(d), 4(e) and 4(f) measure various aspects of student learning progress in 'using data,' 4(d); 'understanding of growth,' 4(e); and 'progress toward goals,' 4(f). These three indicators address information that is gathered during the course of the school year, and are rated at the mid-year evaluation and the summative evaluation, not in each classroom observation."

"At no time did the Department mandate that NPS measure student achievement in the precise manner that is set forth in its guidance documents...The methods published by the Department are suggested, but not mandatory." At some point, "the District submitted a formal equivalency application to the Department of Education requesting recognition that its method of implementing annual student growth objectives into annual teacher performance evaluations is equivalent to what N.J.A.C. 6A:4-2 requires." It reads:

> Progress on a teacher's SGOs is included in a teacher's annual evaluation through Competency 4. Specifically, there are several indicators in Competency 4 that focus on the teacher's practice on setting goals (indicator 4d), reviewing data (4e), and ultimately accomplishing progress as set out in the SGOs (4f). As Competency 4 counts for up to 6 out of 19 points (or 32% of the overall rating), NPS is in compliance with the SGO requirements of TEACHNJ. (see third page)

The District explained that it was not seeking a waiver from the inclusion of SGOs that N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.2 requires because "it follows that regulation," but rather a declaration that "the manner in which the District incorporates these measures into a teacher's annual summative rating," as distinguished from the "typical approach of calculating the teacher's practice rating and then adding on scores from SGOs and SGP separately," was acceptable.

According to Shambaugh, "[a]ny argument that the NPS teacher evaluation system does not include a score for measuring student learning or SGO should be rejected because Competency 4 includes that very information.

Additionally, while the method that NPS uses 'looks slightly different in implementation than the typical approach,' the Department has determined that this method is in compliance with TEACHNJ."

The evidence collected using Framework includes "tangible outcomes or actions that can be seen and/or measured – that is, what can be observed (through classroom observations, team meetings, interactions with students, etc.); what can be seen in artifacts (e.g., examples of the teachers' and students' work, such as unit or lesson plans, student work portfolios, planning tools, etc.); and seen through quantitative data, (e.g., students' progress on learning goals set at the beginning of the year, interim assessments, standardized tests, etc.). Evaluators use what they have seen through all of these lenses to assign each teacher a score in each Competency, which leads to a single overall evaluation rating of Highly Effective, Effective, Partially Effective, or Ineffective."

DISCUSSION

The Arbitrator is persuaded that Respondent has made a prima facie case that when the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark filed tenure charges against her alleging inefficiency pursuant to the Section 25 of the NJTEACH Act not only was the District required include a student growth objective ("SGO") or student learning goal in her annual summative evaluation for each of the two years (2013-14/ 2014-15) where she had been consecutively rated "partially effective" and "ineffective, but also the SGO score had to be based on objective, measurable and data driven evidence of student growth or progress in the subject areas she taught. N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.1.

It is undisputed that Ms. Carroll, who was placed on a Corrective Action Plan ("CAP") for 2014-15, developed a Math SGO and an English Language Arts or ELA SGO in consultation with her principal. It is also undisputed that the Respondent set her Math SGO in the CAP as follows:

> The student growth objective for the above students is for 9 students to maintain mastery and an additional three students to perform at or above grade level. By the mid-year assessment 80% of students will be performing at or above grade level. By the May 14 students (93%) will be performing at or above grade level in mathematics.

Respondent further identified several metrics in her CAP that she would utilize to ascertain whether the students had met their learning goals in Math as follows:

> Interim Assessment
> Unit Assessment
> PARCC

Subsequently, in her mid-year review, the metric that would be used to measure student progress in Math was changed to: "Math in Focus" assessments. Accordingly, Carroll's SGO was measured by this "metric" in her summative evaluation.

As distinguished from a typical standalone SGO, which is numerically weighted and added to the teacher practice score to obtain the total summative rating for the academic year, the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark received an "equivalency" approval from the NJSDOE to integrate the SGO score into its Teacher Practice domains, specifically "Competency 4," which, in sub-domain 4(f), contains "Progress Toward Goals."

The annual summative evaluation Carroll received on sub-domains 4(d), 4(e) and 4(f), including, "Progress Toward Goals" reads as follows:

> Evidence-based Growth Areas for Competency 4
> Ineffective rating 4a-Checks for Understanding; 4b Feedback; 4f Progress Toward Goal. Ms. Carroll reads to prepare and anticipate students' inquiries. As demonstrated, she will try to respond to students' questions, but she will not have sufficient information. Provide students the opportunity to put a wondering up and then allow students to research. She needs to utilize the computer lab and provide students the opportunity for research of specific topics. Example what system was in place to police these ancient countries or states? Is it any different than today?

The District has maintained that "the record shows plainly that student learning goals were included and rated in competencies 4d, 4e and 4f of Respondent's summative evaluation." With respect to sub-domains 4d, 4e, and 4f, upon which the District has predicated the Respondent's SGO, specifically 4(f) Progress Toward Goals, the evaluator wrote the following responses to the queries:

> What progress did students demonstrate specifically around learning these student learning goals? Please describe what metrics were used to assess progress (toward) these goals.
> As demonstrated by formal and informal observations Ms. Carroll has not met student's learning goals. Below is a list:
>
> AIP, PLC's, Implementation of professional development, Lesson plans, Unit plans and year long plans, quality of student work sample's, gradebook, MIF training, CLI training and student responses and feedback.
>
> Overall, did the teacher meet the goals?
> Did Not Meet Goals

The crux of the Respondent's Motion for Summary Decision is the District's purported failure to comport its summative annual evaluation of

Respondent with N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.4(c) which states: "To earn a summative rating, a teacher shall have a student achievement score, including median student growth percentile and/or student growth objective(s) scores and a teacher practice score."

Whereas the District acknowledges that its method of "calculating student academic growth and evaluating teachers on that progress 'looks different' from the SGO-setting methods that the State Department of Education has suggested in nonbinding guidance," with respect to the Respondent's Motion for Summary Decision, the pivotal issue is whether the SGO "scores" the Respondent received based upon Indicators 4d, 4e and 4f, particularly assessing students' progress toward goals, are tantamount to the statutory requirement that evaluation rubrics include "multiple objective measures that use student growth," including the utilization of "standardized assessments."

Inasmuch as the evidence indicates that, notwithstanding the change made in Respondent's Math SGO during her mid-year CAP review, she still met her SGO based on objective numerical data and was rated "effective" at that juncture, in the Arbitrator's opinion, the District's discontinuance of these data-based SGO measures [i.e., DRA (38% growth); MIF (72% received 70% or above)] for her annual summative evaluation requires explanation. The District's acknowledgement that the summative evaluation "does not recite a math goal in the answer to the question asking for the student learning goals to be recited" combined with the fact that the Principal does not cite any of the "assessment/metrics" from either Carroll's Math SGO (i.e., the revised "Math in Focus") assessment cited in her mid-year review or even her ELA SGO quoted in the summative evaluation is problematic.

As previously noted supra, the AIP and Math in Focus training references to metrics used to formulate a SGO are devoid of data or measurable objective information such as standardized tests. Clearly, neither the MIF and CLI training nor the lesson plans and student work samples measure student growth.

In the absence of specific metrics or scores comprising Carroll's SGOs, given the Respondent's prima facie case, the ultimate burden shifts to the District to prove that it met the statutory mandate to generate a SGO score for a tenured teacher charged with inefficiency. "The board of education shall have the ultimate burden of demonstrating to the arbitrator that the statutory criteria for tenure charges have been met." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3(2)(d).

In the Arbitrator's opinion, a determination of whether the District's method of developing a SGO, given the Achieve NJ: Teacher Evaluation Scoring Guide which states, inter alia, "SGO scoring can be approached in several ways," and the District's reliance on its evaluation system approved by the NJSDOE, particularly its Framework for Effective Teaching, met the statutory criteria insofar as providing the Respondent with a data-based SGO is concerned, requires an evidentiary hearing. In this regard, it is noteworthy that the District's Framework for 2014-15 mandates that student learning goals "be measurable and based on available student learning data."

Although the District acknowledges that by seeking an equivalency waiver, which allowed it to incorporate its SGO score into its Teacher Practice components rather than using a standalone SGO score, "NPS was not requesting any waiver from the weighing or inclusion of SGOs or SGPs...," it is unclear how the District calculated whether the Respondent met the data-based SGOs set forth in her CAP. The evaluator conducting Respondent's mid-year review addressed the MIF assessment as follows:

> Yes. Ms. Carroll is on track to meet the goals that were set. Yes. For the DRA, students demonstrated 38% growth from September to January. Math in Focus Mid-Year Assessment: 72% or 16 students received 70% or above on the math mid-year assessment. Additional work with word problems through modeling and guided practice is necessary, as well as continual review of calendar routines to practice value, rounding, etc.

Also problematic are the means by which the District converted the subjective "metrics" it used to rate Carroll partially effective in sub-domains 4d and 4e, ineffective for 4f of Competency 4 into objective data, and then calculated the number of points out of a maximum of six (6) points she was entitled to receive. The Arbitrator further deems subject to additional explanation and reconciliation the Framework evidentiary standard of "What can be seen in quantitative data?" (i.e., standardized assessment data, interim assessments, standardized tests, etc.) with the paucity of metrics/data in the summative evaluation.

In order to render a summary decision, the Arbitrator should be persuaded by a preponderance of evidence that there are no genuine issues of material fact in dispute, and the nonmoving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. The areas discussed above for which greater clarity is sought preclude granting the Respondent's Motion to Dismiss. "Motion for summary decisions must be denied when there are genuine issues of material fact that can only be resolved through an evidentiary hearing."

In the final analysis, the Arbitrator will have to determine on the merits whether, on the one hand, the District failed to provide the Respondent with a legally sufficient SGO based on specific measurements of student learning goals or "metrics" and thereby its issuance of Carroll's 2014-15 annual summative evaluation, as well as the tenure charge of inefficiency based on two consecutive years of partially effective or ineffective summative evaluations, was statutorily deficient; or, on the other hand, as the District contends, there exists an "overwhelming amount of evidence that Respondent's learning goals were considered and rated in her 2014-15 summative evaluation."

Clearly, the DOE's implementing regulations mandate that in order "to earn a summative rating, a teacher shall have a student achievement score, including median student growth percentile and/or student growth objective(s) scores, and a teacher practice score pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.4." Moreover, these regulations further provide that " [i]f any scores for the teaching staff member's evaluation rubric are not available at the time of the annual summary conference due to pending assessments results, the annual summative evaluation shall be calculated once all component ratings are available." N.J.A.C. 10-2.4.4(d).

Since both the District's ultimate burden of proving that the tenure charges against Carroll for inefficiency brought, pursuant to Section 25 of the Act based on two consecutive years (2013-14 and 2014-15), of either partially effective or ineffective annual summative ratings were made in accordance with law and the implementing regulations, and the four statutory defenses to the tenure charges as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2 can only be determined "on the merits after a hearing and not procedurally without a hearing," the District's Motion to dismiss must be denied. See I/M/O Tenure Charge of Leonard Yarborough, (Dkt. No. 259-9/15)(Jan. 6, 2016)(Arbitrator Arthur A. Riegel). In the event the District either fails to meet its burden or the Respondent establishes that either statutory defense (1) or (4) or both are applicable in the instant case, evidence that the Respondent's "evaluation failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process" as a result of the District's omission of a quantitative SGO score, or that such omission constitutes "arbitrary and capricious" conduct on the District's part, the Arbitrator would be required to determine "if that fact materially affected the outcome of the evaluation." N.J.S.A. 18A:16-17.2. A related issue is whether a finding that a deficient SGO score "materially affected the outcome" of the Respondent's "evaluation process" is tantamount to a finding that but for her deficient SGO score she would have been rated effective?

Considering the remedy proposed by the Respondent of dismissing the tenure charge of inefficiency filed against her by the District based on a "partially effective" rating for 2013-14 and an "ineffective" rating for 2014-15 and "restoring the Respondent to employment with full back pay, benefits, seniority, and all other emoluments of her position," the Arbitrator finds that a factual inquiry is necessary to ascertain whether the District substantially complied with the evaluation process.

NOW THEREFORE, as the duly selected Arbitrator, having heard the evidence presented, I hereby issue the following:

AWARD

(1) The Respondent's Motion for Summary Decision is denied.

(2) The evidentiary hearing will proceed when the Respondent , Ms. Danielle Carroll, is medically cleared by her physician to attend the hearing.

Petitioner, Elizabeth Corbacho-Musngi, residing at 10 Honiss Place in Newark, New Jersey 07104 and Respondent, the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark, whose address is 2 Cedar Street, Suite #1, Newark, New Jersey 07102, having resolved the outstanding issues between them, agree as follows:

WHEREAS Respondent is a tenured teaching staff member employed by the District as a teacher; and

WHEREAS a prior tenure charge case was resolved by a decision of an arbitrator, and Petitioner was subject to certain loss of salary, and

WHEREAS due to a bookkeeping error, at the time the statutory period of unpaid suspension expired, petitioner was not placed back on the payroll in a timely manner and

WHEREAS, the District is an Abbott District, with stringent budget limitations and due to the uncertainly of the outcome of a trial as well as the expenditure of resources due to multiple days of hearings with numerous witnesses and the concern that school personnel will be removed from their educational duties and responsibilities during that time, the Parties wish to resolve this matter in accordance with the terms set forth herein rather than proceed with arbitration; and

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons set forth in the recommended Order – that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to the standards enunciated in *Crowe v. Rosa Elfant Rickett, Esq., pro se, petitioner (The Elfant Rickett Law Firm, attorneys)

Rodney T. Hara, Esq. for respondent, Board of Education of the Borough of Glen Rock, Bergen County (Fogarty & Hara, attorneys)

BEFORE KELLY J. KIRK, ALJ:

On February 22, 2016, petitioner, R.R., on behalf of her children, J.R. and L.R., filed with the Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Education (Department) a Petition for Emergent Relief against respondent, Board of Education of the Borough of Glen Rock, Bergen County (Board or District).

The Petition for Emergent Relief reflects that R.R. resides at 123 Maple Street[1], Glen Rock, New Jersey; that petitioner purchased her home in Glen Rock on or about January 5, 2016; that on or about January 20, 2016, petitioner completed the paperwork to enroll J.R. and L.R. in the District's schools; that petitioner provided a letter to the Superintendent outlining the reasons why it is necessary and in the best interests of her children to be placed at Coleman School; and that petitioner was thereafter advised by the Superintendent that her children were being placed at Central School.

The Petition for Emergent Relief alleges that the District's action in not allowing J.R. and L.R. to attend Coleman School was inappropriate, unreasonable, arbitrary and capricious, and in violation of her minor children's rights. The Petition for Emergent Relief seeks entry of an order directing that petitioner's children be immediately placed at Coleman School.

By letter dated February 22, 2016, the Director of the Department's Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (Bureau) notified petitioner that when relief is sought on an emergency basis, a motion accompanied by a memorandum addressing the standards for such relief must also be filed. On February 22, 2016, petitioner filed with the Commissioner a letter brief. On February 23, 2016, petitioner filed with the Commissioner correspondence to supplement the Petition for Emergent Relief. The Commissioner transmitted the Petition for Emergent Relief to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on February 24, 2016.

On March 1, 2016, the Board filed a letter brief in opposition to the Petition for Emergent Relief, accompanied by a Certification of Dr. Paul Valenti, District Superintendent, with exhibits. On March 1, 2016, petitioner filed a reply to the Board's opposition. On March 2, 2016, the Board filed a surreply. Oral argument was held on March 2, 2016.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(a), where the subject matter of the controversy is a particular course of action by a district board of education or any other party subject to the jurisdiction of the Commissioner, the petitioner may include with the petition of appeal, a separate motion for emergent relief or a stay of that action pending the Commissioner's final decision in the contested case. A motion for a stay or emergent relief must be accompanied by a letter memorandum or brief which addresses the following standards to be met for granting such relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982):

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;

2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;

3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

In order to prevail on an application for emergent relief, the petitioner must meet all four prongs as set forth above.

Irreparable harm is harm that cannot adequately be redressed by monetary damages. Crowe, supra, 90 N.J. at 132-33. Emergent relief should not be ordered except when necessary to prevent substantial, immediate and irreparable harm. Subcarrier Communications, Inc. v. Day, 299 N.J. Super. 634, 638 (App. Div. 1997). Here, while it may for various reasons be beneficial or preferred that petitioner's children attend the same school as other children on their street, petitioner argued that by not attending the same school as other children on the street, her children "may be emotionally and academically harmed." It is insufficient to argue that harm "may" result, and there was no evidence presented to support that petitioner's children will suffer emotional and academic harm. To the contrary, although petitioner's children presently attend school out-of-district, they have nevertheless forged friendships with their neighbors.

Petitioner also argued that the Board has discriminated against her children, and that her children will be harmed "by not being similarly treated as the other children living on [Maple Street] all of whom attend the Coleman School." However, the Superintendent certified that there is another child on Maple Street who attends Central School. Further, although the petitioner may take issue with the District's policies and regulations, there was no evidence to suggest that the District's policies and regulations are being applied solely or differently to her children. To the contrary, the Superintendent certified that there are multiple other children, geographically closer to Coleman School than petitioner's children, who do not attend Coleman School and are on a waiting list to do so. Further, the Superintendent certified that there are multiple other streets in Glen Rock with students who attend Coleman School and Central School.

Finally, petitioner argues that she will suffer harm "in the immediate future" when she is forced to transport J.R. to the middle school, L.R. to the Central School and her twins to preschool at the Coleman School. Even if such circumstance was to be viewed as "harm," is certainly is not immediate harm that would warrant the extraordinary remedy of emergent relief.

In view of the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not established irreparable harm.

Petitioner failed to specify any particular statute, regulation or other legal basis for the rights asserted by petitioner, to wit: her "legal right to promote the best interests of her children", her "right not to have to transport three different set of children to three different schools," and "J.R. and L.R.'s right to attend their District home school and be treated in a similar manner as the rest of the children living in their immediate neighborhood." Additionally, petitioner's brief and argument likewise failed to cite any legal support relative to the underlying issue of the legality of the District's policies and regulations, its "virtual border" system, or its ability to assign students to particular schools. Further, while in part relying upon the District's policies and regulations in support of her position, petitioner also argues that the policies are in conflict and not clear.

In view of the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not established at this time that the legal right to her claim is settled or a likelihood of success on the merits.

In balancing the equities and interests of the parties, the petitioner has cited a number of reasons she seeks to have her children enrolled at Coleman School, including personal, convenience and financial reasons. However, summarily placing petitioner's children in Coleman School, absent a determination on the merits, would open the door for other parents to similarly request specific school placements, potentially adversely affecting the number of students and class sizes at the District's schools, and potentially resulting in adverse financial ramifications in accommodating such changes.

In view of the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not established that she will suffer greater harm than the District if emergent relief is not granted.

In sum, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not met her burden to establish an entitlement to emergent relief.

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's application for emergent relief be DENIED. It is further ORDERED that a telephone prehearing be held on March 14, 2016 at 3:00 p.m. to address procedural and scheduling matters.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If (title of agency head) does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

I. PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

The State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson, Passaic County ("District" or "Employer") initiated and the State District Superintendent certified to the Commissioner of Education a tenure charge seeking the termination of employment of Responda Sims ("Respondent" or "Ms. Sims"), who is employed as a Secretary within the District. By letter dated December 28, 2015, the charges were referred to this Arbitrator pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:5-16 as amended by P.L. 2012, c. 26 and P.L. 2015, c. 109. By agreement of the parties, the hearing of this matter was commenced telephonically on February 11, 2016, and was continued in person on March 1 and 7, 2016, at the offices of the District, 90 Delaware Avenue, Paterson, New Jersey. Throughout this proceeding, both parties were ably represented by legal counsel. Each party was provided a full and fair opportunity to present evidence through documents and testimony. All witnesses testified under oath and were subject to direct, cross, and redirect examination. The parties agreed to the presence of a court reporter and to the subsequent preparation and use of a transcript of the evidential hearings. When the taking of evidence was concluded on March 7, 2016, counsel agreed to present written closing arguments. Same were timely conveyed to the Arbitrator, whereupon the record was closed. In reaching the conclusions and making the Award set forth herein, the Arbitrator has given full, fair, and careful consideration to all evidence of record, all arguments, and all authorities and citations offered by the parties.

II. THE CHARGES AND APPILCABLE STANDARDS

Based upon the Notice of Tenure Charge of Inefficiency issued by the District, the State District Superintendent's finding of probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the charges, and Respondent's Answer, the Office of the Commissioner of Education concluded that the charges, if true, were sufficient to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary, "subject to determination by the arbitrator of respondent's defenses. . . ." The charges thus were referred to this Arbitrator by the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes pursuant to N.J.S.A.18A:6-16 as amended by P.L. 2012, c. 26 and P.L. 2015, c. 109, for her review "under the preponderance of the evidence standard."

In the charges against Respondent, the District asserts that she "has demonstrated an inability to effectively execute her duties as a secretary" and that, specifically, she failed to effectively perform the following duties (set forth in Paragraphs 3 through 21 of the Notice of Tenure Charge): to demonstrate competency in word processing, computer data bases, and organizational skills; to demonstrate communication skills and proper etiquette; to organize and maintain files; to maintain information for yellow cards, registers, and monthly reports; to exhibit a mature attitude; to exercise good professional judgment; to cooperate with School District staff; to perform her duties skillfully; to exhibit good work habits; to accept constructive criticism; to establish and maintain rapport with parents and with administrators; to maintain confidentiality; and to maintain regular attendance and punctuality at work.

III. FINDINGS OF FACT

A. Background

Respondent has worked as a secretary since approximately 1995 and has been employed by the District as a Secretary for more than 16 years. Beginning in the year 2000, she worked at two schools in the District and then was assigned to Napier Academy, formerly known as School 4. She continued there until January 2013, when she was transferred to School 2, her current assignment. During Respondent's tenure at Napier Academy, the Principal to whom she reported completed evaluations in 2008, 2009, 2010, 2011, and 2012. In each, the Principal gave Respondent the highest of ratings for outstanding performance, with numerous accolades. In the performance evaluation at Napier Academy, issued in April 2012, the Principal wrote as follows:

> She is my confidant and friend. There isn't anything she wouldn't do for me, my staff or the students of Napier Academy. She was friendly to parent[s] and visitors and, at the same time confidential and discreet in private matters. She has been a blessing to me and an asset to the school.

By the end of 2012, however, the working relationship between Respondent and the Napier Academy Principal had deteriorated as the result, according to Respondent, of an argument that involved inappropriate remarks by Respondent.

In January 2013, Respondent thus transferred to School 2 ("the School") and began working directly for Principal Felisa Van Liew and two Vice Principals, Dorothy Eason, who joined the school in July 2013, and Edward Cisneros who joined School 2 at the beginning of the 2013-2014 school year. Also working in this office was another Secretary, who had been assigned to that office for a number of years.

Secretarial tasks within the office were allocated in a general manner by which Respondent would handle most matters pertaining to students while the other Secretary addressed primarily matters involving teachers. In the absence of one of the Secretaries, it was expected that the other would assume responsibilities for the student or teacher tasks, as the case may be. Also, while Respondent was responsible for student-related issues, she also performed duties relating to substitute teachers, which was a category of functions separate from those pertaining to faculty.

Principal Van Liew testified that there was a very significant workload for these two Secretaries. They were, she said, busy all of the time, with the telephone presenting frequent interruption from teachers, parents, staff, and students. Principal Van Liew testified that the office was understaffed and actually needed three secretaries in light of the volume of activity.

B. May 2013 Positive Evaluation

In May 2013, following five months on the job at School 2, Principal Van Liew completed a formal evaluation of Respondent's performance. In it, she listed "commendable" or "satisfactory" in all applicable categories. In no category was Respondent rated as needing improvement or as performing unsatisfactorily, and in no category was she rated as having been "outstanding." It was noted in the comments that Respondent was still new to the School and was learning the responsibilities. Principal Van Liew wrote that Respondent "is to be commended for her interpersonal skills. She demonstrates a pleasing telephone etiquette and is pleasant to the parents, students and staff." Principal Van Liew testified that, at this five-month point, until she had had a better opportunity to evaluate Respondent's skills, she wanted to stay "middle of the road," confirming that Respondent had excellent communication and interpersonal skills with parents and staff members.

C. Performance during 2013-14 School Year; Mixed Evaluation

The record conveys little information regarding specifics of Respondent's performance in the course of the 2013-14 school year, but, by the end of the year, Ms. Van Liew was, she said, "beginning to see things that needed improvement" as well as some areas in which Respondent was performing unsatisfactorily. Ms. Van Liew noted specific concern regarding Respondent's organizational skills, and, in particular, filing, which were areas in which Ms. Van Liew relied heavily on Respondent. She found, however, that Respondent sometimes could not quickly locate items.

The evaluation for Respondent's first full school year at the School was completed on June 19, 2014, by Principal Van Liew. While she gave Respondent mostly satisfactory ratings and included commendable ratings as to rapport with staff, personal appearance, dependability, and attendance/punctuality, she rated Respondent as needing improvement in organizational skills, work habits, organizing and maintaining files, office management categories of mature attitude, professional judgment, cooperation, and skillful performance of duties. Respondent was rated as "unsatisfactory" with regard to computer competency in the area of "data base." These areas of needed improvement were noted in the comments, to wit: "organizational skills for performing a variety of secretarial and clerical tasks in a timely manner needs [sic] improvement." Also it was noted that Respondent maintained a positive working relationship with the office staff, demonstrated basic knowledge of office skills and maintained commendable attendance and punctuality.

The Summary stated as follows:

> Overall the secretary exhibits a personality that relates well within the school community. However, her ability to perform confidential secretarial tasks for an effective and efficient school office are in need of improvement. Some of the tasks require a knowledge of the rules and regulations of the school and school system and the frequent exercise of independent judgment within the scope of the authority granted by the administration.

Respondent acknowledged receipt of the evaluation at the end of the school year but noted that she did not agree with the rating.

D. 2014-15 School Year and Imposition of CAP

When the following school year commenced, Respondent returned to work on or about August 23, 2014. A few weeks later, Ms. Eason found that Respondent was behind in preparing spreadsheets for lesson plans, faculty meetings, and "submitted documents."
As of September 1, Principal Van Liew had prepared a Corrective Action Plan (CAP) to guide the steps for performance improvement for Respondent. The District and its witnesses have acknowledged that the CAP approach is used for teachers, rather than staff, but Ms. Van Liew and Ms. Eason testified that they regarded it as a useful tool for assisting Respondent to improve in the needed areas. Ms. Van Liew, Ms. Eason, and Respondent met on or about September 1, 2014, and Respondent asked to have some time to review the written CAP before signing or otherwise indicating agreement.

Respondent then was away on medical leave from mid-September until on or about October 21, 2014. On the day of her return, they met again, and Respondent asked to have Union representative involved. They reconvened on October 23, with a Union representative participating. A summary of that meeting indicates that the Union representative asked if Respondent needed any additional training and Respondent replied that she could always use additional training and asked specifically to attend a training program on the Infinite Campus software, which had been introduced while she had been on medical leave. Respondent was told that she could not go for training, as a report was past due[1], and she was instructed instead to seek assistance from the other Secretary in the office.

[1] Respondent testified that, upon her return from medical leave, she discovered that a number of tasks had not been completed in her absence and that numerous medical documents for students and some staff had yet to be entered into the computer system.

The CAP, which Respondent signed only to indicate receipt, addressed a list of essential tasks, responsibilities, and skills which comported with the School Secretary Job Description, followed by a statement of the type of performance expected for Respondent to achieve proper fulfillment of each responsibility. For each function, the CAP also references the steps that the District planned to take to help the Respondent achieve each type of improvement needed. The CAP was to apply, generally, throughout the remainder of the 2014-15 school year. It addressed the need to prioritize tasks; create a route sheet/spreadsheet label for lesson plans, etc.; generate student attendance notifications; check substitute staff in the assigned teacher; distribute notices to staff, students and parents; complete required monthly reports; maintain student files and records; develop proficiency in MS Office; undergo Infinite Campus training; protect confidentiality of records of students and staff; keep area clear of clutter; and act as receptionist. In some categories, specific subsets of the tasks were noted. With regard to the support that was to be provided, the CAP states, as to Infinite Campus, that "training will be provided by a district designee from the office of Ms. Anita West." It also was recommended that Grievant have a refresher course on Microsoft. Other categories provided for support by "monitoring through observation" and review of policies.

Vice Principal Eason testified that, in the months that followed, she met with Respondent "various times" to walk through the CAP to "get her feedback as far as what was written in the tool and any concerns that she may have had." Ms. Eason also recounted her efforts to fulfill the supportive steps that were listed in the CAP. She testified to having provided a template for a spreadsheet that Respondent could use for documents being collected, even though Respondent has said that she knew how to create such a spreadsheet. Ms. Eason said that she "assisted" Respondent by monitoring substitute teacher assignments, noting that substitute reports had to be faxed or scanned for weekly submission but, as she was receiving word that this was not happening, she would go back to make sure that the reports were being submitted. Ms. Eason stressed the importance of reviewing attendance notice documentation, which must be done daily, and the consequences of the failure, but there was no specific information provided regarding efforts to monitor or observe this work or specific ways in which Respondent could improve. She noted that she monitored the route sheets which reflect faculty attendance. Ms.

Eason also said that she monitored Respondent's progress through observations, although no formal account or record of same was produced, and it does not appear that such observation was conducted in any formalized or organized manner.

E. Training

Vice Principal Eason said that training was provided, although details were sparse, and that "there were times when Ms. Sims did receive support in the MIS support here at Central Office when reports were due," referring to Infinite Campus. Respondent had requested, at the October 23 CAP meeting, to attend training in Infinite Campus that she had missed due to medical leave. That request was not approved, as noted above, because, Ms. Eason said, a monthly report was overdue (although Respondent had just returned from multi-week medical leave and the delay in this instance would not have been attributable to her). Respondent was instructed to seek assistance from the other Secretary in the office. Mr. Cisneros asked one of the specialists in the IT department to assist Respondent. That IT Specialist worked with Respondent once, but he described it as "unofficial" and noted that he had spent approximately an hour. Mr. Cisneros testified that this was more time spent in training than the teachers received, but he also noted that the Secretaries have access to more extensive information than teachers and thus their functions are more complicated. To develop proficiency, Ms. Cisneros said, it was necessary to use the system frequently and to "play with it" to become readily adept.

F. Performance Issues in 2015

Early in 2015, issues arose regarding the assemblage of student emergency contact information. Respondent was asked several times over the course of a week in January 2015 to prepare a list to verify if such information had been supplied for each student. Ms. Van Liew testified that she wanted to know who the teachers were who were not obtaining and supplying the information. For this and other matters to which teachers were not attending promptly, such as late lesson plans, Ms. Van Liew had told Respondent, "The first time you send it out. Second time you go through this. Third time you tell me who they are." The student contact information, once secured for all students, then had to be updated within Infinite Campus. To complete this work, Respondent asked if she could leave the office and work in an empty room. Ms. Van Liew at hearing acknowledged that this was a good point, as the office was very busy and Secretaries are often interrupted, but she noted that Respondent could not be permitted to leave the office, as it would result in only one Secretary being present.

Reporting of attendance is a key function to be performed by Respondent, yet there were instances in which she did not perform this task adequately. When teachers do not provide the necessary attendance information, the Vice Principal must be informed, for the consequences are significant. If a student is not recorded as being in attendance, a call automatically is placed to parents, and it of course creates undue alarm when the child is there but the attendance records are wrong. Ms. Eason testified, however, that, instead of reporting the teachers, Respondent would call them directly to get the attendance information in an effort, Ms. Eason believed, to protect the teacher from adverse action.

On January 28, 2015, Vice Principal Cisneros asked Respondent to obtain a list of staff members on the email list and to make corrections. Respondent on January 28 made an email inquiry to obtain this, and the IT person responded with a request for more specific information. Respondent apparently failed to reply, and Mr. Cisneros inquired two days later to spark Respondent to answer, which she did on February 5, resulting in receipt of the list on February 5. Mr. Cisneros then inquired as to whether the corrections had been completed. Having received no reply as of February 11, he emailed Respondent again on asking if the corrections had been made and advising her that he expected to receive an email confirming that the task was completed. Five days later he wrote again, noting that the changes had not been made, that he had expected an email from Respondent and that he regarded the directive he had given her as being incomplete. He advised Respondent that, at this point, he would handle the matter himself. Respondent replied that she had taken steps to have the changes made via a work order, as she had been advised that one "cannot just take anyone off the email list." Mr. Cisneros responded requesting the work order number and, when Respondent had not replied a few hours later, he wrote, "you can fwd me the email you got from the system. . ." The following day, Mr.

Cisneros emailed Respondent noting that he had not received information from her but that he had confirmed through IT that it had been done by another staff member at Respondent's request. He wrote that it had not been appropriate for her to pass this task along to another employee when she had been instructed to perform the task.

Issues also had arisen regarding the management of substitute teacher assignments and information. Information was not being forwarded in a timely manner, and Respondent in some instances attributed the failure to the scanner being inoperable, leading her to send facsimiles that reportedly were not received. This was, according to Ms. Eason, an ongoing problem and led to confusion as to which substitute teachers were assigned where and for what work they should be compensated.

G. CAP Review and June 2015 Evaluation

In April/May 2015, Ms. Eason reviewed the CAP with Respondent and noted in the CAP as follows:

> It is recommended that Ms. Sims work on prioritizing task[s] by creating a daily to do list, which will create good work habits for the operation of the office. Organizing her task[s] as they pertain to documenting monthly reports, student attendance, substitutes, and lesson plans is critical. These areas are in continuous need of improvement and often require verbal reminders (email correspondence) from administration. Her inability to organize and maintain documents efficiently effects [sic] task[s] being completing [sic] in a timely fashion. (Example: preparation of assigning substitutes first thing in the morning. All substitutes need to be provided with a schedule, class attendance sheet and substitute folder).
>
> Over all, Ms. Sims [sic] ability to perform secretarial and clerical task[s] are essential for the administration, faculty, students and parents of the school. It is imperative that she gain knowledge of the rules and regulations of the school, as it pertains to the maintaining an efficient and effective office.

Ms. Eason testified that it was her conclusion that Respondent had made no progress on the areas addressed in the CAP.

What followed, at the end of the 2014-15 school year, was an evaluation completed by Ms. Eason in which Respondent was rated as satisfactory in only seven categories and as needing improvement or as being unsatisfactory in most of the categories that corresponded with the CAP. In total, the evaluation reflected nine categories of unsatisfactory performance. For some reason, the "data base" was listed as not applicable, but computer competency in the area of communication was an area of unsatisfactory performance, as was organizing and maintaining files, organization skills in the area of maintenance of necessary information for yellow cards and monthly reports, and "cooperates and performance duties skillfully. She also was rated unsatisfactory in the "personal trait" categories of dependability, confidentiality, and good work habits.

In the comments, it was noted that, while Respondent presented a positive public relations image with the school community, "her level of confidentiality is questionable concerning business matters under her purview as the school secretary." It also was noted as to personal traits that, although she was pleasant and personable, engagement in personal calls was overwhelming and resulted in a lack of job performance. It also cited Respondent's use of 27.5 sick days, one personal day, and two instances of tardiness. The sick days appear to coincide with Respondent's period of medical leave, and there is no additional information regarding issues of tardiness. With regard to the personal day, Respondent noting in the evaluation, and Ms. Van Liew confirmed at hearing, that Respondent had taken personal time so that she could go to Central Office to seek assistance from the MIS department in completing reports, a practice of which Ms. Van Liew reasonably disapproved.

In the Summary Statement, Ms. Eason wrote:

> Despite numerous conversations about organization, the secretary's method or lack there of [sic] is haphazard at best. While she does collect various documents, she does not present information or explain procedures in any consistent or uniform manner. Part of her difficulty is having a working knowledge of the process and prioritizing projects. Attention needs to be given to pressing matters such as school building reports. These reports fall under her responsibility and are often not completed when due. Showing initiative in her willingness to learn would imply a willingness to accept constructive criticism which would improve her work habits.

On October 14, 2015, Principal Van Liew issued the Notice of Tenure Charge of Inefficiency. It set forth the charges noted above.

IV. ANALYSIS

A. Charges Not Supported by a Preponderance of the Evidence

The District bears the burden of proving the charges by a preponderance of the evidence. At the outset, the Arbitrator finds that insufficient evidence has been produced to support the charges alleging that Respondent failed to maintain regular attendance and punctuality. The June 2014 evaluation commended Respondent's performance in this area, and the only evidence in the record regarding subsequent absenteeism was the reference in the June 2015 evaluation, which cites two unidentified instances of tardiness, one personal day (used to seek training at the Central Office), and the single block of several weeks when Respondent was off duty due to medical procedure. While her attendance thus was not perfect, and the use of the personal day, while perhaps commendable for initiative was understandably not an action condoned by the District, the record does not establish a failure in attendance that could support a charge of ineffectiveness.

In addition, the charge relating to the critical responsibility of maintaining the confidential status of information is not supported by the record. Testimony by the District's witnesses indicated that certain information available only to the "front office" staff had become known beyond the administrative office and that the suspicion was that it had been conveyed by Respondent. Suspicion standing alone cannot prove a charge, and the record does not indicate the nature of the disclosed information, nor does it indicate why, other than the observation that Respondent has excellent communication skills and rapport with parents, students, and staff, it was believed to have been Respondent who released the information. Principal Van Liew testified only that "we weren't quite sure whether or not – things that would get things – that would come back to us from staff members, those were things that were discussed in the office." Accordingly, the proofs fail as to this charge as well.

The District also contends that, with regard to the handling of Vice Principal Cisneros' request for updates to the email list in January 2015, Respondent engaged in insubordination. Acknowledging that this allegation was not among the charges stated, the District argues that it is supported by the record and that the charges therefore should be viewed as having been amended to conform to the evidence. The Arbitrator finds, however, that the evidence upon which the District relies to establish insubordination shows a series of communications that resulted in compliance and completion of the task, albeit less than promptly and through means that did not meet with the Vice Principal's approval. Respondent's reaction was impertinent but it did not rise to the level of insubordination.

B. Remaining Charges/Procedural Shortcomings

What remain are charges that relate to Respondent's technical skills and competency is use of the necessary computer programs and processes, her organizations skills, work habits and tasks, including filing and completion and submission of required reports; and her communication and interaction with others. The Arbitrator finds that the record establishes deficiencies in the areas cited. Respondent was falling short of timely and complete fulfillment of her responsibilities as they related to maintenance and submission of important reports and completion of significant tasks. The Arbitrator also finds, however, that the process by which these deficiencies were addressed was flawed and does not comport with any applicable standard to support a finding that termination is warranted.

Respondent argues that the District inappropriately held her to the standards used for evaluating teachers and applied the faculty-based CAP system to her, which was an overly rigorous, intended to address the high standards of performance required by teachers, making it inapplicable to personnel such as Respondent who handle matters not in the direct course of educating children. In this regard, Respondent argues that, as secretaries were not included in the statutory system that involves the CAP, the prior system should apply. It provided for an employee to be given notice that his or her performance was inefficient and then the employee was to be given a 90-day improvement plan addressing those areas of inefficiency. The employee was to be informed with specificity of the areas in which performance was deficient and that unless the inefficiencies are corrected within a minimum of 90 days, the certification of inefficiency would result. As the District stresses, however, Respondent in this regard relies upon a statutory provision that is no longer in effect. Thus, application would not be appropriate.

The School in this instance chose to proceed with a process that roughly paralleled the approach required for tenured teachers. The School determined that using a CAP approach would be an effective means of helping Respondent improve and, if that failed, would provide the foundation which charges would be brought. The CAP process, however, cannot be borrowed to use as a sword while disregarding the elements that function as a shield. When the CAP process is applied to teachers, however, specific requirements exist, and comparable elements were lacking here. The absence is a flaw not because of imperfect application of a process that does not apply in the first place but because the omission eliminated important elements of corrective opportunity and notice that are fundamental elements associated with discharge from any form of tenured employment.

At the outset, the School moved to a CAP without a comparable history of poor evaluations. For teachers, the triggering element is the evaluation of partially effective or ineffective. Here, Respondent had received one very positive evaluation in April 2013, and then, in June 2014, she received an evaluation with commendable in four categories, satisfactory in 14, needs improvement in four, and unsatisfactory in one area of computer competency ("data base," which the following year was rated as being not applicable). There was no overall rating. By contrast, the system for teachers under NJAC 6A:10 provides for a specific approach to and components of evaluations and categories that are highly effective, effective, partially effective, and ineffective. The evaluation instrument used for Respondent did not follow or exist within a system that followed this rubric. Thus, it cannot be said that Respondent's June 2014 evaluation, with a single finding, out of 23 categories, of one unsatisfactory element could be regarded as the equivalent of partially effective or ineffective such that it would trigger the serious action of imposing a Corrective Action Plan. Indeed, the Principal's testimony was that, at this point, she only had "begun" to see areas in need of improvement.

Thus, regardless of whether there is an effort to hew as closely as possible to tenured teacher process or whether it is used merely as a guide for a fair and productive foundation to begin the process of corrective action, the June 2014 evaluation was insufficient to trigger the establishment of a CAP for which a lack of success would lead to termination. Further, as the Respondent argues, the review process for teachers is defined and logical and involves several formal steps in the course of a year, such as the required number of observations. No such elements existed for Respondent, which further supports the idea that a CAP and the concept of moving toward imposition of charges were not reasonable under these circumstances, as the first element that would lead to imposition of a CAP is lacking.

Further, the processes to be implemented with a CAP and to be pursued in helping the employee fulfill the improvements stated therein also were lacking in this case. The CAP incorporated no structured review or process. There was a review meeting after several months, but the record contains evidence only of a few amorphous conversations between Grievant and the Vice Principal. Unlike the increased observations and post-observation conducted for teachers who are working under CAPs, nothing indicates that consistent, meaningful review and evaluation were provided within a structure for improvement. Further, while the District highlights efforts it says were made to help Respondent achieve the performance improvements needed in computer proficiency, the support in the record for same is thin. Instead of significant training regarding the new Infinite Campus software, the training provided to Respondent was, by the IT specialist's own description, "unofficial," consisting only of an hour. Respondent's requests to seek assistance were declined, as they would have taken her away from the office. In the final evaluation, the Vice Principal suggested that Respondent lacked a willingness to learn, and yet the evidence shows that Respondent continued her efforts, although often fruitless, to seek training.

Most significantly, the system applicable to teachers ensures that effective notice is given so that the teacher is well aware when continued employment is in jeopardy. Through training, ready references, and the very clarity of the system itself, a teacher is aware of the process and that a CAP portends a possible step toward to termination of employment. In the instant case, Respondent was not put on notice that her job was in jeopardy, and nothing in the record suggests that she was ever advised that if she did not achieve the improvements sought in the CAP charges would be issued. The District argues that Respondent never became proficient in various tasks yet it appears that this was less a lack of proficiency or capability than a lack of focus or appreciation that precise and timely compliance with processes, without modification, was required and that failure in this regard could result in loss of employment. Teachers are made well aware that termination may result following a CAP, for it is part of a specific and formal process. That process does not apply to staff and thus there is no indication that Respondent would have known that a failure to fulfill the elements stated in the CAP or that a single poor evaluation would lead directly to discharge from a position she had held successfully (albeit at other schools) for 16 years.

For these reason, the Arbitrator must find that the procedures and processes employed by the School did not provide adequate notice, opportunity to improve, and support to do so. These steps are woven well into the process for teachers, but the School adopted only limited parts of that process, omitting the elements of notice and correction to which Respondent, as a tenured employee, is entitled. That is not to say that the District was wrong for attempting to parallel the process used for teachers, but the School failed to incorporate those essential elements that would have given Respondent proper notice of the potential for loss of employment, an understanding of the imperative for correction, and meaningful opportunities to improve.

AWARD

For the reasons stated, the charges against Respondent are dismissed. Respondent is to be restored to her position with full back pay and benefits.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 28, 2015, Counsel for the District served a Statement of Charges, a Statement of Evidence (including exhibits) and a Certificate of Determination and Personnel Action on Counsel for Respondent. On November 23, 2015, I was designated to serve as the Arbitrator for this proceeding.

Pre-hearing conferences were held on December 4 and 30, 2015. The hearing was convened on January 5, 2016. The parties subsequently determined that this matter should be resolved through a Stipulation of Settlement dated February 19, 2016. Counsel for the District forwarded a copy of the Stipulation of Settlement to me for my review and approval.

DISCUSSION

The adjudication of tenure charges are governed by the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:3. The specific section of this statute that relates to the withdrawal, settlement or mooting of tenure charges is N.J.A.C. 6A3-5.6.

Thus, the instant Stipulation of Settlement (Stipulation) must be reviewed pursuant to those terms. I have reviewed the Stipulation of settlement in the context of 6A3:5.6. I note that both the Respondent and Counsel for the District indicated their agreement to the Stipulation by signing the appropriate signature pages.

6A3:5.6 sets forth the standards to be used by the Arbitrator when determining if a settlement of tenure charges should be approved. Paragraph (a) sets forth the six specific standards set forth in In re Chardonick , State Board decision of April 6, 1983 (1990 School Law Decisions (S.L.D.( 842, 846). Paragraphs (b)- (e) set forth additional requirements. I have carefully reviewed 6A3:5.6 in its entirety and make the following findings.

Paragraph (a)(1)- The bottom item on page 1 of the Stipulation satisfies this provision.

Paragraph (a)(2)- The third item on page 2 of the Stipulation satisfies this provision.

Paragraph (a)(3)- The signature pages of the Stipulation shows that both the charged and the charging parties consented to the Stipulation, Paragraph (a)(4)- Item 16 of Stipulation indicates that Respondent agreed to the Stipulation with a full understanding of his rights.

Paragraph (a)(5)- Items 2, 5, 9, 11, 12,13, 14, 20 and 21 indicate that this Stipulation is in the public interest.

Paragraph (a)(6)- Respondent is a member of the teaching staff. Item 8 of the Stipulation indicates that Respondent is aware of the Commissioner's duty to refer tenure determinations resulting in a loss of position to the State Board of Examiners for possible suspension or revocation of certificate. Item 8 includes a statement indicating that the District has a duty to advise the Board of Examiners of Respondent's resignation.

Paragraph (b)- This paragraph reflects two requirements. The first one (concerning access to information and records deemed public by law) is satisfied by Item 12. The second one (concerning the signature of the board counsel authorizing the settlement ) is satisfied by the relevant signature page.

Paragraph ( c )- This paragraph requires the submission of Stipulation to the Commissioner in advance of its being forwarded to me. State District Superintendent Cerf indicated his approval of the Stipulation by signing it on February 29, 2016. The copy Stipulation that I received bore the signature of State District Superintendent Cerf.

Paragraph (d)- This provision is applicable if the tenure proceedings are concluded prior to the adjudication of the charges due to the resignation or retirement of the respondent. In this case, Respondent retired prior to the adjudication.

Under this provision, the District notified the State Board of Examiners of Respondent's resignation. Paragraph (d) is specifically addressed in Item 8 of the Stipulation.

Paragraph (e)- This provision is applicable when the Stipulation requires the respondent to relinquish his/her State Board of Examiners certificate.

In this case, the Stipulation does not require Respondent to relinquish his State Board of Examiners certificate. Thus, Paragraph (e) is inapplicable in this case.

Having reviewed the Stipulation in the context of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6, I conclude that is satisfies the statutory requirements. Thus, based on the above, I make the following

RULING

The State-Operated School District of the City of Newark (the "District"), whose principal office is located at 2 Cedar Street, Newark, New Jersey 07102, and its successors, assigns, officers, employees, agents and representatives (collectively, "School District"), and Kenyada Mitchell, residing at 21 Willoughby Street, Apartment 2A, Newark, New Jersey, 07112, ("Respondent") (collectively, the "Parties") have voluntarily resolved all disputed matters and enter into the following Stipulation of Settlement, which fully disposes of all issues in controversy between them in full and complete settlement of all outstanding issues as detailed below.

WHEREAS Respondent is a tenured teaching staff member employed by the District as a teacher; and

WHEREAS the State District Superintendent of the School District ("Superintendent") certified tenure charges of Unbecoming Conduct, Corporal Punishment and Other Just Cause to the Commissioner of Education of the State of New Jersey, captioned In the Matter of Tenure

Charges Against Kenyada Mitchell, State-operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County ("Tenure Charges"), and such charges were assigned Docket No. 345-10/15; and Respondent filed an answer opposing the charges; and the Commissioner of Education, having reviewed the charges and Respondent's answer, determined that the charges were sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in compensation, and accordingly referred the matter to Arbitrator Arthur A. Riegel ("Arbitrator") for a hearing; and

WHEREAS, Respondent has denied the allegations set forth in the tenure charges; and

WHEREAS, the Parties are aware of the uncertainty of the outcome of arbitration; and

WHEREAS, the District is a State-operated school district with stringent budget limitations and due to the expenditure of resources due to multiple days of hearings with numerous witnesses, including several young students, and the concern that school personnel will be removed from their educational duties and responsibilities during that time, the Parties wish to resolve this matter in accordance with the terms set forth herein rather than proceed with arbitration; and

WHEREAS the proposed Stipulation of Settlement is in the best interest of the Parties and the public because Respondent resigns from his employment without litigation, avoids requiring several young students to testify in this procedure and miss educational time, and further avoids an uncertain conclusion after protracted and costly proceedings at the expense of the public;

NOW, THEREFORE, subject to approval by the Arbitrator, the Parties hereby agree as follows:

1. Concurrent with the execution of this Stipulation, Respondent shall submit an irrevocable letter of resignation to the District, which shall provide for his resignation from the District effective April 1, 2016 ("Effective Date"). (See Exhibit A to the Stipulation, a copy of Respondent's signed letter of resignation).

2. Respondent also agrees to withdraw with prejudice any and all claims or suits that he may have previously filed against the District that are still pending in any and all courts and/or before any and all agencies with the exception of workers compensation claims. This Settlement is intended to be the final resolution of all outstanding matters between the District and Respondent. Should Respondent fail to submit letters of withdrawals for any such pending claims or suits, this Stipulation of Settlement will serve as Respondent's formal written notice of withdrawal of those pending claims or suits, except for workers compensation claims.

3. Upon final approval of the signed Stipulation by the Arbitrator, the District shall and hereby does withdraw the instant Tenure Charges. The District agrees to not pursue the subject Tenure Charges against Respondent as long as this Stipulation remains in effect and is not voided by any court or administrative agency of competent jurisdiction. In the event the Stipulation is voided, the District retains the right to file and consider for certification, tenure charges against Respondent, including those tenure charges which have been previously filed against him by the District, and Respondent reserves the right to defend same.

4. Upon final approval of the signed Stipulation by the Arbitrator, Respondent will be placed on administrative leave with pay for the time commencing on October 27, 2015 through March 27, 2016 and will receive salary for said time period. All salary paid for said period shall be subject to all applicable salary withholdings and deductions. Between March 28, 2016 and March 31, 2016, Respondent will be placed revocation of Respondent's teaching certification or license or seek to prevent him from applying for or receiving pension benefits on any grounds related to the Tenure Charges or his resignation, pursuant to this Stipulation of Settlement, based upon Respondent's prior years of satisfactory service to the District.

9. As of the Effective Date, all of Respondent's rights of employment with the District, including but not limited to accrued salary, benefits, tenure and seniority, will permanently end.

10. Respondent will not apply for reemployment with the District at any time. Specifically, Respondent will be considered to have permanently resigned from his tenured position as a result of this Stipulation of Settlement. If Respondent does apply for reemployment with the District and is approved for employment, the terms of this Agreement shall control and shall be grounds for termination of Respondent's employment.

11. In exchange for the consideration set forth in paragraph 4 above, the sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, Respondent hereby waives, releases and discharges any and all claims or rights that he has or may have against the District, the State District Superintendent, its Advisory Board of Education and its Advisory Board members, and any and all other District officers, employees, representatives, agents, successors and assigns (collectively, the "Released Parties") including any claim for attorneys' fees, costs or other monetary relief. This waiver, release and discharge includes, without limitation, any and all actions, claims, and liabilities of whatsoever kind or character, in law or in equity, now known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, directly or indirectly related to Respondent's employment with the District or separation from employment with the District. Respondent also agrees to withdraw any and all pending complaints or actions that have been filed against the District or any of its employees or representatives.

12. Notwithstanding Paragraphs 2, 11 and 14 of this Stipulation of Settlement, it is understood and agreed that the parties are not prohibited from communicating with or participating in any administrative proceeding before the United States Department of Labor, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, or any other federal, state or local law agency. Should any entity, agency commission or person file a charge, action, complaint or lawsuit against the District based upon any of the above-released claims in Paragraph 11, Respondent agrees not to seek or accept any resulting relief whatsoever.

13. To comply with the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act, if applicable, this Stipulation of Settlement advises Respondent of the legal requirements of the Act and fully incorporates the legal requirements by reference into this Stipulation of Settlement. Accordingly, by executing this Stipulation, Respondent acknowledges that he: (i) fully understands the terms and conditions of this Stipulation of Settlement; (ii) has consulted with an attorney to review the Stipulation of Settlement; (iii) specifically waives his right to pursue any current claims he may have under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act; (iv) has been given sufficient time within which to consider this Stipulation of Settlement, and (v) has 7 days from the date of the execution of this Stipulation of Settlement to revoke it. Respondent understands that he may rescind this Agreement within 7 calendar days of signing it, and such rescission must be in writing and delivered to counsel for the District either by hand or by certified mail within the 7 day period.

14. This Stipulation and all of its terms, are and will remain confidential to the maximum extent permitted by law, including the Open Public Records Act, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1, et al. Respondent is expressly forbidden from discussing this Stipulation with any person, other than his accountant, tax advisor and attorney ("permitted disclosures") and any other individual or entity as necessary to implement the Stipulation or to which it is legally obligated to respond ("legally-required disclosures"). In making any permitted disclosure, Respondent agrees that it will inform the person to whom it is making the permitted disclosure that the existence and substance of this Stipulation, the settlement giving rise to this Stipulation and the sum of money paid pursuant to this Stipulation are to be held strictly confidential to the fullest extent permitted by law. Respondent specifically agrees not to discuss the nature, terms, conditions of this Stipulation with others, any representative of the media, or any past, present, or prospective employee of the District, or its agents or attorneys. Respondent understands that this provision is not a simple recital but is an important, integral part of this Stipulation. The District agrees that it will keep this Stipulation confidential to the extent permitted by law, including the Open Public Records Act, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1, et seq. ("OPRA"). In the event that the District receives an OPRA request, for which this Stipulation would be responsive to, the Respondent understands that the District is legally obligated to disclose same under OPRA and that such disclosure would not be a breach of this Stipulation.

15. This agreement shall not constitute a precedent in any matters involving other District employees.

16. The Parties each acknowledge that counsel has advised them regarding this Stipulation and that each is signing this Stipulation freely and voluntarily, without duress, coercion or pressure from the other party, with full understanding of its terms and conditions and consents to the terms contained herein.

17. Each signatory to this Stipulation understands, acknowledges and agrees that this Stipulation constitutes the full agreement of the parties and may not be altered, amended, modified, or otherwise changed in any respect whatsoever except by a duly executed writing signed on behalf of both Parties.

18. This Stipulation shall be construed and enforced in accordance with New Jersey law. The Commissioner of Education and/or federal and state courts of the State of New Jersey, as applicable in accordance with such law, shall have exclusive jurisdiction over any dispute arising from, in connection with, or related to this Stipulation.

19. This Stipulation may be executed in counterparts with the same effect as if the signatures hereto and thereto were upon the same instrument. Each counterpart will be deemed an original, which taken together shall constitute a single instrument. Facsimile signatures or signatures in electronic Portable Document Format ("PDF") shall be construed and have the same force and effect as original signatures.

20. This Stipulation or any uncertainty or ambiguity therein shall not be construed against any party, but shall be construed as if both Parties to this Stipulation jointly prepared this Agreement.

21. Each party acknowledges that this is the entire agreement of the Parties concerning the subject matter of the foregoing paragraphs, and that there are no written or oral representations, understandings or agreements directly or indirectly connected with this Stipulation.

22. If any provision of this Stipulation is held by a court of competent jurisdiction or determined under applicable law to be invalid, void, or unenforceable, the remaining provisions will continue and remain in full force and effect.

This proceeding arises from two separate sets of tenure charges filed by the State Operated School District of the City of Camden [the "Petitioner" or "District"] against Brian Medley [the "Respondent" or "Medley"], a tenured principal employed by the District. Specifically, the District determined to certify tenure charges with the Commissioner of Education on September 26, 2014 charging Medley with inefficiency pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-45. Later, on December 19, 2014, the District filed additional tenure charges against Medley with the Commissioner of Education charging him with conduct unbecoming a school employee. Shortly thereafter, the District filed a Motion to Consolidate the initial and additional tenure charges. The additional tenure charges were filed after hearings had been scheduled on the initial tenure charges. Although the charges represent two separate cases, the Motion to Consolidate was granted. Thus, both the initial and additional tenure charges are properly before me for determination.

A pre-hearing conference was held on November 14, 2014. Formal arbitration hearings were scheduled and held on January 5, 7, 12 and 15, 2015 in Westmont, New Jersey. At the hearings, each party argued orally, presented and cross-examined witnesses and submitted documentary evidence into the record. Testimony was received from Timothy Matheney, Chief Intervention Officer, New Jersey Department of Education (October 2014, prior position Director of the Office of Evaluation) – Donna Agnew, Principal Evaluator, Camden City School District – Catherine McClellan, Managing Partner and Principal Scientist, Clowder Consulting – Leroy Seitz, Interim Superintendent of Schools for the Franklin Township School District, Somerset, New Jersey – Robert Fisicaro, Superintendent of Schools, Mantua Township, Gloucester County – Margaret Jeker Nicolosi, County Superintendent for Camden and Burlington counties, and Interim Regional County Superintendent for Gloucester, Salem, Cumberland, Cape May, Atlantic Counties – Thomas Flemming, Administrator and Evaluator, Camden City School District – Paul Nedeau, Assistant Director in the Office of Evaluation, Department of Education – Susan Ficke, Senior Director of Teacher/School Leader Evaluations – Carmen I. Ortiz, Bilingual Department Chair, Camden School District – Barbara Hutchinson, Department Chair for Health and Physical Education, East Camden Middle School – Respondent Brian Medley, Principal, Pyne Poynt Middle School, Camden County School District. Each party filed post-hearing briefs on or about March 13, 2015.

The public employer is the State Operated School District of the City of Camden. Pursuant to the terms of the State Intervention Statute, the operations of the Camden City School District were assumed by the State of New Jersey on June 25, 2013. Thereafter, evaluations of building principals and vice principals were conducted during the 2013-2014 school year. The evaluations resulted in tenure charges being filed against four administrators. One Respondent, Leon Mashore, filed a Motion to Dismiss. The motion contended that the tenure charges "were defective and premature in that such charges were not based on a two-year evaluative cycle pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3 and were not preceded by the issuance of a corrective action plan as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2.5." Because of the likelihood that similar motions would have been filed in the cases involving the three other administrators, the parties executed a Consent Order in the Mashore case that extended to all of the cases. This resulted in an agreement to have the decision on the Motion to Dismiss application in the Mashore case be applicable to the other tenure cases, including the instant one involving Medley. The Motion to Dismiss in the consolidated case was denied in an Opinion and Award issued on December 23, 2014 by Arbitrator Walter DeTreux. Because I have incorporated that Award into this decision, it will not be summarized in detail at this juncture. It is sufficient to note that Arbitrator DeTreux denied the Motion and found that TEACHNJ, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-117, et. seq. and its accompanying regulations N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2.1, must be read in concert with the evaluation provisions set forth in the State Intervention Statute N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-45. Although he found that the District had the authority to file tenure charges under the State Intervention Statute, he found that genuine issues of material fact existed that required resolution through the respective arbitrations.

BACKGROUND

Respondent is a tenured principal and was Principal of Pyne Point Middle School during the 2013-2014 school years. He began his career as an elementary school teacher at Sacred Heart School in 1982, spent two years in the juvenile justice system, taught seventh and eighth grade English at the Martin Luther Christian Day School in Pennsauken, taught fifth grade at Bonsall Family School in the Camden School District in 1990, became a Vice Principal at the Bridgeton School District between 2002 and 2004, returned to the Camden School District in 2004 as a Vice Principal at the Molina Elementary School and became Principal of Forest Hill Elementary School in 2008 until August 2011, at which time he transferred to Pyne Point Middle School.

On June 25, 2013, the operation of the District was assumed by the State of New Jersey pursuant to the State Intervention Statute N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-45. Margaret Jeker Nicolosi was appointed at that time to serve as Interim State District Superintendent. Around this time, Dr. Robert Fisicaro[1] was assigned to create a District Office of Evaluation [the "Office"] as authorized by N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-45. The Office was responsible to assess the performance of the District's principals and vice principals. According to Ms. Nicolosi, the date of the takeover, June 25, 2013, was the date that the assessment cycle for the evaluation of principals in the school district commenced. She testified that she met with the principals on June 25, 2013 and briefed them on the time period for the assessment cycle and the manner and method that would be used to conduct their evaluations. Respondent, for reasons cited below, disagrees that this date can serve as the commencement of the assessment cycle for Respondent's evaluations.

[1] Dr. Fisicaro was the lead Implementation Manager for the Office of Evaluation, Department of Education.

Under the authority of Dr. Fisicaro, two evaluators were assigned to assess the performance of Medley. Dr. Fisicaro explained that the use of two evaluators was for the purpose of ensuring fairness and reliability in the evaluations. The primary evaluator was Dr. Donna Agnew. The other evaluator was Dr. Thomas Flemming. Both are retired school district superintendents. Dr. Agnew was hired in October of 2013. She first visited Pyne Point Middle School on October 21, 2013 and conducted the first formal evaluation of Medley on December 4, 2013. A post-evaluation conference was held between Dr. Agnew and Medley on December 12, 2013 for the purpose of reviewing Dr. Agnew's evaluation and recommendations. Dr. Agnew conducted a second evaluation on March 19, 2014. A post-evaluation conference was held between Medley and Dr. Agnew on March 25, 2014. Dr. Flemming was also hired in October 2013. He conducted a third evaluation of Medley on June 12, 2014.[2] A post-evaluation was held between Dr. Flemming and Respondent on June 14, 2014. Dr. Agnew completed a summative evaluation, the Annual Performance Report, on June 19, 2014 and held a summative evaluation conference with Respondent on June 23, 2014.

[2] Dr. Flemming also held a pre-evaluation conference with Medley.

The Evaluation Instrument

The instrument to evaluate the District's principals was the result of the involvement of several educators, including:

- Timothy Matheney, then Director of the New Jersey Department of Education ("DOE") Office of Evaluation;
- Dr. Robert Fisicaro, then Lead Implementation Manager for the DOE Office of Evaluation;
- Margaret "Peggy" Nicolosi (then Camden County Superintendent);
- David Hardy, then Executive Director of the Camden Regional Achievement Center ("RAC"); and
- Anjali Kulkarni, then Project Manager with the Camden RAC

Mr. Matheney provided detailed testimony as to how the criteria for the instrument was set and submitted to the Department of Education through its Request for Qualification process. The recommended instrument was approved by the Department of Education on June 14, 2013 and was authorized to be used thereafter by the District. According to Mr. Matheney, the instrument complied with standards set by the Interstate School Leaders Licensure Consortium ("ISLLC"). The instrument consisted of three domains with each domain having a set of sub-domains. Domain 1 is entitled Instructional Leadership, Domain 2 is entitled Cultural Leadership and Domain 3 is entitled Organizational Leadership. According to Mr. Matheney, a fourth domain was added to the instrument entitled Effectiveness of Teacher Practice Viewing and Evaluation Practice. This domain was added for the purpose of assessing how principals performed teacher evaluations.

The Evaluations

The testimony and documentation as to the evaluations of Medley is extensive. The record on the conduct of the evaluations has been thoroughly reviewed along with the respective positions of the parties as to whether they can properly serve as a basis for the tenure charges. The evaluations yielded numerical ratings that were determined by the evaluators based upon their judgment of the evidence that related to the domains and subdomains. The evaluations also contained "actionable feedback" that were connected to the ratings received by the Respondent for the purpose of future guidance, especially in areas where the evaluations yielded ineffective ratings.

As previously stated, the first evaluation was conducted on December 4, 2013 by Dr. Agnew. In the first domain (Instructional Leadership), Medley received an ineffective score of 1.5 due to his receipt of 1 or 2 ratings in every sub-domain. In the second domain (Cultural Leadership) Medley received a partially effective rating of 2 due to having either received a 1 or 2 rating in four of the five sub-domains. In the third domain (Organizational Leadership) Medley received a partially effective rating of 2. In the fourth domain (Evaluation Leadership), Medley received an ineffective rating of 1.2. The level of the ineffective rating was largely caused by Medley receiving the lowest possible rating in four of the five sub-domains. Based upon each rating for each domain, Medley received an overall evaluation of 1.75. This rating is defined as ineffective.

Dr. Agnew also conducted the second evaluation on March 19, 2014. In the first domain (Instructional Leadership), Medley received an ineffective score of 1.5 due to his receipt of a rating of either a 1 or 2 in every sub-domain. In the second domain (Cultural Leadership) Medley received a partially effective rating of 2.2. In the third domain (Organizational Leadership) Medley received an ineffective rating of 1.4. In the fourth domain (Evaluation Leadership), Medley received an ineffective rating of 1.4. Based upon the ratings for each domain, Medley received an overall evaluation of 1.63. This rating is defined as ineffective.

The third evaluation was conducted by Dr. Flemming on June 12, 2014. In the first domain (Instructional Leadership), Medley received an ineffective rating of 1.5. In the second domain (Cultural Leadership) Medley received a partially effective rating of 2.2. In the third domain (Organizational Leadership) Medley received an ineffective rating of 1.8. In the fourth domain (Evaluation Leadership), Medley received a partially effective rating of 2. Based upon the ratings for each domain, Medley received an overall evaluation of 1.88. This rating is defined as ineffective.

An Annual Performance Report was completed by Dr. Agnew on June 19, 2014. Based upon her review of the evaluations that she and Dr. Flemming conducted, the Annual Performance Report, also known as a "summative evaluation," yielded an average score for Medley in Domain 1 of 1.58, a rating deemed as ineffective. In Domain 2, Medley received a partially effective rating of 2.13. In Domain 3, Medley received an ineffective rating of 1.73. In Domain 4, Medley received an ineffective rating of 1.55. Based on these results, Medley received an ineffective overall score of 1.75. After the evaluations were completed, Dr. Agnew held a summative evaluation conference with Medley on June 23, 2014.

In addition to asserting that it had cause to dismiss the Respondent for inefficiency based upon the ratings in the aforementioned unsatisfactory evaluations, the District filed separate charges alleging that Respondent engaged in unbecoming conduct by directing teachers to change their "self-assessments" for Domain 4 for the purpose of achieving higher evaluation ratings. In this regard, it alleges that Respondent failed to adhere to a requirement that he not have any direct input into a teacher's completion of a self-assessment form and further, to not view the teacher's self-assessment until it had been uploaded into Teachscape, a certification requirement. The District alleges that, despite receiving training to the contrary, he directed teachers Jose Matos and Shabrees Chrisdon, as well as Librarian Tania Morgan, to change certain aspects of their self-assessments to reflect improvements in the assessments. Petitioner further contends that while either tenure charge must be sustained individually, when the two tenure charges are considered as a whole, they form a basis to prove "other just cause" as an additional basis for dismissal.

Position of the District[3]

The District contends that the September 26, 2014 charges of inefficiency were timely filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-45(c). Under this provision, a State District Superintendent must wait until after the twelve (12) month assessment cycle has been completed to dismiss a principal for inefficiency. According to the District, that cycle commenced on June 25, 2013 when the former Interim State District Superintendent Peggy Nicolosi met with the principals, provided them with the evaluation instrument and informed them that they would be evaluated under new criteria. She informed them that they could be dismissed the following year if, pursuant to the State Intervention Law, they were deemed to have performed inefficiently after three evaluations. The District asserts that it complied with the minimum time requirements because Medley was evaluated three times during the 2013-2014 school year, he received a summative evaluation, was then served with inefficiency charges on July 15, 2014 and the District then certified the charges to the Commissioner of Education on September 27, 2014.

[3] The arguments of the District are comprehensive and broad in scope. They will not all be summarized but all have been considered.

The District further contends that the evaluation Instrument was fair, unbiased and reliable. It was approved by the Department of Education and complied with ISLCC standards. The District cites the testimony of Dr. Catherine McClellan, an expert in the field of educator evaluation instruments. She concluded that the instrument and system used by the District would produce evaluation results that are fair, unbiased and reliable. The District cites her testimony:

> The instrument is comprehensive in that it encompasses the key aspects of a school leader's job. It is clear and well-written. The evidence required is available to school leaders and should be relatively easy to procure and present. The evaluations ... contain actionable feedback, they are specific and detailed. The rubric has usable number of levels. It has four levels. So my experience and as a researcher in the space of using these types of scales, four levels is a usable number of levels. The subdomains are clearly related to and cover the space of each domain. And they are concrete and comprehensible.

The District also cited Dr. McClellan's testimony that the Instrument produced actionable feedback that in her view, and contrary to the view of Respondent, would make a formal corrective action plan ["CAP"] unnecessary. She concluded that there is not a "large distinction between having a formal corrective action plan and being given formal actionable feedback with a request that it be acted on by the next formal evaluation cycle." Dr. McClellan further opined that the training that the administrators' evaluators had received was effective and continued throughout the 2013-2014 school year. Her testimony also reflected her opinion that the time period of one year or even less was sufficient for the evaluatee, the Respondent, to act on the actionable feedback and the recommendations that were made during the three full evaluation cycles. She concluded that the performance of a principal such as Medley, who was rated at partially effective or ineffective over a series of observations, is reflective of one with significant deficiencies who could not continue to serve in the critical position of a principal after one year of state intervention.

The District further contends that the additional tenure charges it filed against Respondent on December 19, 2014 for conduct unbecoming a school employee must be sustained. This view is based upon evidence that Respondent directed teachers to manipulate their teacher self-assessments for the purpose of inflating their ratings. The District points out that no teacher at Pyne Point School was rated below an effective summative rating and that this was contrary to the rating results in 25 out of the District's 27 schools.

Position of the Respondent[4]

Mr. Medley, the Respondent, urges dismissal of the tenure charges involving both inefficiency and conduct unbecoming for several reasons. Initially, he asserts that the District failed to comply with the State takeover legislation. Respondent disputes that the District met the statutory requirement that a principal may be dismissed "after completion of an assessment cycle of not less than twelve months." Medley submits that his primary evaluator, Dr. Agnew, was not hired by the District to perform the evaluations until October 2013 and that timesheets show that October 24, 2013 was the first day that she actually visited Pyne Point Middle School. Thus, Respondent asserts that the assessment cycle could not have commenced until October 24, 2013. Because Respondent was served with tenure charges on July 15, 2014 after a June 23, 2014 summative evaluation, Respondent submits that the assessment cycle period was at best only 10 months in length and therefore violative of the statute. Respondent further notes that the tenure charges were filed only seven months after Dr. Agnew performed the first evaluation and only eleven months from the time that the principals received training in the evaluation procedures for principals on August 21, 2013. Given the above, Respondent argues that:

[4] The arguments of the Respondent are comprehensive and broad in scope. They will not all be summarized but all have been considered

> N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-45 clearly reads that the assessment cycle shall not be less than 12 months. The State-Operated School District in Camden did not afford Mr. Medley with the minimum amount of time for an assessment provided in the statute. The assessment unit was not hired until October, 2013. The charges must be dismissed because of the school district's failure to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-45. N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 provides for the definition of an "academic year" as being the period between the time school opens in September until the next succeeding summer vacation, generally a period of 10 months. The state takeover statute does not read that the assessment cycle is to be for an academic year. The Legislature could have done so, but it did not. The statute requires that the assessment cycle shall not be less than 12 months. The assessment cycle for Mr. Medley was considerably less than 12 months in violation of the statute. The tenure charges against Mr. Medley must be dismissed.

Respondent further contends that the District failed to comply with its own procedures. He cites a document in evidence that reflects the framework for the conduct of principal evaluations. Respondent contends that he was not offered additional support as required by the District's procedures for those who have less than effective ratings. Specifically, under the Principal Practice Section, Respondent asserts that the District was required to provide him with a Corrective Action Plan (CAP) and that he never received one. Respondent points to the Summative Rating section which states that "at the conclusion of the 12 month evaluation period ... all principals will receive individual development plans or Corrective Action Plans based on their ratings." Respondent submits that the comments, or actionable feedback, that Dr. Agnew made in her evaluations do not amount to a CAP and even assuming that it did, Respondent was entitled to have, but did not receive, at least one additional observation per year pursuant to the reference to a CAP contained in the Professional Development and Support section of the District's procedures. Respondent cites to case law holding that a board of education is required to render positive assistance in an effort to overcome any deficiencies and that the District did not do so.

Respondent also contends that the District's actions were arbitrary, unreasonable and/or capricious. According to Respondent, the District's primary evaluator had no experience with inner city school districts. In this regard, the evaluator is said to have not taken into consideration that Camden is an inner city school district with a large non-English speaking parent population and that such districts typically have greater difficulty in obtaining parent involvement. Despite this, Dr. Agnew was unduly critical of Respondent's efforts to obtain parental involvement. Respondent also contends that Dr. Agnew never testified as to what the basis was of her expectations for Respondent's involvement in school activities. Respondent further submits that the District did not consider State test scores which indicated that student performance at Pyne Point Middle School was actually improving.

Respondent offered expert testimony from Dr. Leroy Seitz who, in his long-term capacity as a school superintendent, testified to his familiarity with TEACHNJ and Achieve NJ. Dr. Seitz opined, among other things, that the evaluation process adopted by the District did not offer Respondent the opportunity to be aware of expectations and afford him with proper training on the evaluation instrument.

Respondent further contends that the tenure charge alleging conduct unbecoming is without merit and must be dismissed. It points out that in Domain 4, Professional Responsibilities, there was a new requirement for teachers to complete a Teacher Self-Reflection Form and that Respondent merely provided support for teachers in their effort to fulfill this new requirement. Respondent argues that:

> In these situations, Mr. Medley offered support in a variety of ways, email being just one. What is being alleged by the school district as an egregious and deliberate act to circumvent the evaluation system process, in effect, was Mr. Medley suggesting how the document would give a fair and accurate assessment, or reflection of the teacher's performance. These reports, as a part of all teacher evaluations, were forwarded to the Office of Evaluation, which reviewed them. To reiterate, this form was just one of the many, new requirements for teachers to fulfill in 2013-2014. More importantly, as the building principal, one of Mr. Medley's duties and responsibilities roles was to support his teachers. It would be unfair to the teachers to allow them to submit a document that did not give a true and accurate reflection of themselves as it relates to Domain 4. Mr. Medley's communications with teachers was very matter-of-factly with regards to the recommendations and/or directives for their document. He never mentioned or remotely alluded to anything about improving a "score." Mr. Medley's intent was to support teachers to include valuable information and data that would give a true and accurate reflection of their responsibilities during the 2013-2014 school year.

The charge indicates that the Self-Reflection form is "intended" to be done alone. However, no one from central administration (i.e., the Office of Evaluation) specifically stated to Mr. Medley that principals could not assist teachers in any way when completing Domain 4. As the building principal, Mr. Medley was responsible for support to his teachers. The school district's own witness, Sue Fricke, acknowledged that if teachers had questions, they would go to their principal. The suggestions Mr. Medley gave to the 3 teachers does not constitute unbecoming conduct and does not warrant his dismissal. Even, if Mr. Medley had a mistake in his recommendations to his teachers, the mistake would not warrant removal from his tenured position.

DISCUSSION

This proceeding includes separate tenure charges certified to the Commissioner of Education on September 27, 2014 and December 19, 2014 for inefficiency, conduct unbecoming or other just cause. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, "[n]o person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation ... if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency in the public school system of the state ... except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause." The District, as one subjected to state intervention, cites the State Intervention Statute for its authority to file tenure charges without having to base such charges on a two year evaluation cycle. The burden is on the District to establish, by a preponderance of the evidence, that there is merit to the tenure charges and, if so, whether they warrant Respondent's dismissal from employment.

The December 19, 2014 tenure charges allege conduct unbecoming centering on Respondent's communications with three teachers over their self-assessments. They do not directly implicate the separate charges of inefficiency that center on Respondent's evaluations and the relationship between the State Intervention Statute and TEACHNJ. I first address this separate filing.

The District's allegations are serious in nature. In the event that Respondent manipulated teacher self-assessments for the purpose of inflating their ratings, such conduct would clearly constitute conduct unbecoming and warrant close examination of whether the penalty of dismissal was justified. The charges go to the character and integrity of portions of Domain 4 and the self-assessment evaluation process. Teacher evaluations not only affect an individual teacher's ratings. They also allow the District to draw comparisons among the District schools in order to assess relative school performance.

The District makes specific allegations that Respondent interfered with the self-assessments of teachers Jose Matos and Shabrees Chrisdon, as well as Librarian Tania Morgan. The self-assessments fall under Domain 4 of the teacher evaluation in the area of professional responsibility. Domain 4 constitutes 20% of a teacher's summative evaluation rating.

The District has shown that Respondent was trained in Domain 4, received specific instruction on the self-assessment component of the domain and that the District conveyed caution to its administrators that the individual Domain 4 submissions were not to be subject to supervisory review until they were uploaded into Teachscape. The District, through documentary submissions, has established that Respondent did engage in email communication with the three individuals offering suggestions on how to revise their self-assessments through certain deletions and revisions. However, after thorough review of the record with respect to these communications, I cannot conclude that Respondent directly or indirectly attempted, or intended, to manipulate the teachers' self-assessments for the purpose of inflating their ratings or otherwise improperly alter the ratings by persuading the teachers to revise the substance of the self-assessments for that purpose.

The record does not include any evidence whatsoever that establishes that Respondent engaged in any oral or written communication with the teachers that concerned the actual ratings or scores in connection with the self-assessment form. It is important to note that the District had been no prior experience with this form prior to the 2013-2014 school year. It was not unreasonable for teachers and their principal to engage in communications directed towards submitting accurate observations and responding to inquiries concerning the completion of information on this new aspect of Domain 4. District testimony acknowledges that such communication itself was indeed not improper. A more reasonable response by the District under all of the circumstances would have been to engage its administrators in broader discussion over what communication and direction was appropriate and what was not and to provide clearer distinctions between the two.

Based upon the insufficiency of evidence in support of the December 19, 2014 tenure charges, I conclude that they must be dismissed in their entirety.

As previously indicated, the September 26, 2014 charges, as well as three other District cases, were consolidated before a single arbitrator, Walt DeTreux, to decide a Motion to Dismiss applicable to all Respondents. In all four tenure cases filed by the District, the Respondents' contended that the tenure charges "were defective and premature in that such charges were not based on a two-year evaluative cycle pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3 and were not preceded by the issuance of a corrective action plan as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2.5." After entertaining full legal argument by the parties, Arbitrator DeTreux decided that the State Intervention Statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-45, permitted the District to file the tenure charges by its terms and that such charges alleging inefficiency were consistent with the statute's goals of allowing the removal of ineffective administrators early in the process of rebuilding and revitalizing a failing district. However, he also found that the State Intervention Statute must be read "in concert" with TEACHNJ, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-117, et. seq., statute that revised the evaluation process. He also determined that the subject matter of the Motions with respect to other issues raised genuine issues of material fact that can only be resolved through arbitration hearings on the merits of each individual tenure charge. Thus, the interrelationship, if any, of the two statutes and the parties' interpretation of same must be analyzed and resolved on the facts of this case when considering the merits of the tenure charges and especially Respondent's objections to those charges based upon the District's alleged failure to apply TEACHNJ or to properly apply the terms of the State Intervention Statute.

The District has established that it acted promptly to implement its statutory authority under State Intervention. On or about the June 25, 2013 date of intervention, Ms. Nicolosi was appointed Interim State District Superintendent.[5] A School District Office of Evaluation had already been created under the authority of Dr. Fisicaro to evaluate the performance of vice principals and principals. Prior to State Intervention, on June 14, 2013, the Department of Education approved the evaluation instrument to be used by the District during the 2013-2014 school year. It was in place prior to Ms. Nicolosi meeting with the District's principals on June 25, 2013. During that meeting she explained how the evaluation process was going to proceed for principals. She testified that on June 25, 2013:

> I met with the principals, giving them the information about how they were going to be evaluated and the timelines, that it wouldn't be any less than 12 months and no more than 18 months.

The meeting was not limited to the procedures for the evaluation of principals. Discussions were also held concerning teacher evaluations. The principals were informed that in order to perform teacher evaluations, they were required to be certified in Teachscape.[6] Respondent attended the June 25, 2013 meeting. I find that the District has established that Respondent was properly noticed on the evaluation instrument and the timelines to be used for the conduct of the evaluations.

Formal evaluations of Respondent were conducted on December 4, 2013, March 15, 2014 and June 12, 2014. All overall ratings were "ineffective." At the end of the 2013-2014 school year, Respondent received an Annual Performance Report or "summative evaluation" on June 19, 2014. The overall rating on the summative evaluation was 1.75. Under the evaluation scheme, this score is deemed to be a rating of "ineffective." The overall score was based upon an average score of the evaluations that had been conducted by Evaluators Agnew and Flemming. There was general consistency in the results of virtually all of their evaluations. Although Respondent's testimony reflects that he had differences of opinion as to the ratings he received, there is no basis to conclude that the evaluations were not fair, regular or inconsistent with the terms and framework of the State approved evaluation instrument. Respondent's main objections to the utilization of the ratings as a basis for the tenure charge of inefficiency are the District's calculation of the time period for the evaluation assessment cycle and its completion pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7-45(c) and the District's failure to provide Respondent with a Corrective Action Plan.[7] I next address the merits of the tenure charges and the central objections asserting that they must be dismissed.

I have considered Respondent's objections to when the evaluation assessment cycle began. This issue is directly connected with calculating the length of the assessment cycle. I am persuaded, on this record, that the District has established that June 25, 2013 was the date that the assessment cycle for principals in the school district commenced. Respondent disagrees. He asserts that the assessment cycle could not have started prior to the evaluators being in place and that this date could not have been prior to October 24, 2013. Respondent regards this date as significant because Respondent's primary evaluator, Donna Agnew, was not hired until October 2013 and had not set foot in the Pyne Point Middle School until October 24, 2013. Thus, when this date is measured with the July 15, 2014 date when Respondent was served with tenure

[7] N.J.S.A. 18A:7-45(c) states: Notwithstanding any other provision of law or contract, the State District Superintendent, after completion of an assessment cycle of not less than 12 months, may dismiss any tenured building principal or vice-principal for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause as defined by the criteria for principal or vice-principal performance in districts under full State intervention established by the commissioner pursuant to subsection a. of this section.

charges, Respondent asserts that the time period was only ten (10) months. Respondent argues that this violates the State Intervention Statute even if this dispute is found to be governed solely by that statute.[8]

After due consideration, I find Respondent's perspective as to the proper calculation of the time period for the evaluation assessment cycle under the statute to be overly restrictive. If the commencement of the evaluation cycle were to be tied to the date of hire of the evaluator, or the date the evaluator first set foot into the school, this would relieve Respondent of his responsibility to be held accountable for the educational processes under his authority after State intervention commenced on June 25, 2013 and, in this case, for four months thereafter. Respondent would limit such accountability by excluding performance during all of the time period prior to his primary evaluator being on site. This view is not consistent with the evaluation criteria in the evaluation instrument that made him accountable for his performance after June 25, 2013, nor the broad and specific authority set forth in the State Intervention Statute that grants the State District Superintendent immediate authority over the education process in the District once the State officially intervened. In this case, that date was June 25, 2013.

The June 25, 2013 date is not significant solely because it marked the date of State intervention. I do not find that this date, standing alone, [8] As noted, Respondent's objections to the tenure charges extend beyond a strict application of the State Intervention Statute.

automatically constitutes the commencement of the assessment cycle. Instead, it was the actions of the District upon state intervention that dictates the effective date. As indicated, the Interim State District Superintendent promptly held a meeting with principals on that date. Respondent was in attendance. The meeting included information on the process under which the principals would be evaluated and also the time periods for the evaluation. An Office of Evaluation had already been created prior to the date of intervention. According to the testimony of Dr. Fisicaro, the Office created the evaluation instrument that provided the evaluation rubric and the feedback portion of the evaluation to the evaluatee. The instrument was approved by the Department of Education prior to intervention. Testimony reflects that significant efforts were made by the District to guide evaluators to develop explicit standards for the development of evidence relating to the evaluation instrument that could not be misunderstood. According to Ms. Nicolosi, at the June 25, 2013 meeting, she gave an overview of the evaluation rubric, its domains and provided each principal with a copy of a portion of the State Intervention Statute that was relevant to principals and vice principals. She informed them that they would be subject to multiple evaluations during an evaluation period that was no less than twelve (12) months but no more than eighteen (18) months. The principals were then provided a document on July 24, 2014 that, among other things, again noticed them that a principal could be dismissed for failing to meet performance criteria after a twelve (12) month evaluation cycle. Principals were provided with training and information regarding the evaluation process for principals during the summer and prior to the opening of schools in September. Specific training on the Instrument was provided by Mr. Matheney on August 21, 2013. Respondent was aware of the standards that were going to be applied. Training sessions were conducted during and after the commencement of the 2013-2014 school year. There is scant evidence reflecting that Respondent misunderstood or challenged the basis upon which he was going to be evaluated. The testimony from his evaluators consistently reflected that Respondent, whether intentional or not, did very little to engage them between evaluations, especially in regard to the actionable feedback that served as guidance for correction of the observations that led to the ineffective ratings. Evaluators Agnew and Flemming offered credible testimony as to their availability to meet with Respondent over any issues he had with the instrument, the ratings or the actionable feedback.

Respondent correctly points out that Dr. Agnew was not hired until October 2013 and Respondent's first evaluation was not conducted by Dr. Agnew until December 4, 2013. However, it is significant that the evidence that formed the basis for that evaluation consisted of information and standards set forth in the instrument that well preceded the date of the first formal evaluation and were known by the Respondent that they would serve as the basis for his evaluations. The overall rating on the December 4, 2013 evaluation was "ineffective." These findings included the Respondent's failure to attend subject matter meetings and to maintain sign-in sheets. These requirements were known to the Respondent and unrelated to the date that his main evaluator was in place. Dr. Agnew noted that Respondent's failure to participate in instructional learning team meetings prevented him from following up on subject matters when he met with teachers in their classrooms. Dr. Agnew observed that Respondent had not taken any surveys from parents and had not identified low performing staff members for the purpose of developing remediation plans for them. He had not completed evaluations of his teaching staff despite his awareness of this important requirement at the June 25, 2013 briefing by the Interim State Superintendent. Dr. Agnew also observed that Respondent did not meet the standard required for communicating with his staff and the community. He did not adhere to teacher observation timelines to ensure that the required number of teacher observations were undertaken. Respondent was noticed of the requirement to prepare for the Teachscape Danielson Certification Assessment. However, he did not achieve certification until October 2014. His failure to do so caused him to fall behind in his evaluation of teachers. Significantly, this time lag continued throughout the rest of the school year. Dr. Agnew found that Respondent did not perform walkthroughs nor complete evaluations in Teachscape in their proper format. It was an unreasonable and inaccurate argument by Respondent to assert that Dr. Agnew was barred from evaluating him for not meeting the requirements for which he had received proper and ample notice dating back to June 25, 2013. Actionable feedback was provided on this evaluation for Respondent's review to enable and assist him to correct the deficiencies that were found. Similar deficiencies and actionable feedback are reflected in the additional evaluations. The summative evaluation was also based in part upon an evaluation of Respondent's performance commencing on the date of the intervention and the Interim Superintendent's briefing.

Although Respondent's arguments were clearly articulated and vigorously presented, I do not find merit in his contention that the assessment cycle should have been calculated from the time that his initial evaluator was appointed and set foot in the school. The District has established, through testimony and relevant exhibits, that it complied with N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-45 by noticing Respondent of the District's authority under the law and its expectations for principals. The record is clear that Respondent was informed of his requirement to successfully pass the test to be proficient in conducting teacher evaluations. This fact was known to him prior to the appointment of his evaluators and independent of their presence. Upon takeover, Interim State Superintendent reminded Respondent and others that teacher evaluation is a crucial part of transforming education throughout the District. Respondent did not meet this requirement and his explanations for his failure to do so are without merit. Respondent's evaluator, despite her lack of presence at that time, was clearly authorized to evaluate Respondent on whether he fulfilled this obligation after state intervention.

I next turn to Respondent's contention that he was deprived of a Corrective Action Plan or an additional evaluation period in which to assess his performance prior to the filing of the tenure charges. This issue must be reviewed and considered within the overall dispute as to the District's statutory authority under the State Intervention Statute and/or TEACHNJ. This issue is also connected with Respondent's contention that he was entitled to a two year evaluation cycle prior to the filing of tenure charges based upon "inefficiency."

The initial issue for determination is the weight to be given to the substance of the statute that governs a state takeover district. Respondent's central objections are that notwithstanding the State Intervention Statute, TEACHNJ and its implementing regulations, as well as the District's own document explaining its evaluation process required either a Corrective Action Plan, "additional support" or "at least one additional evaluation" prior to deciding that tenure charges can be filed for "inefficiency." This is a matter of statutory construction and interpretation.

The District was subjected to state intervention pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-45. The statute at subsection 45(c) states:

> Notwithstanding any other provision of law or contract, the State District Superintendent, after completion of an assessment cycle of not less than 12 months, may dismiss any tenured building principal or vice-principal for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause as defined by the criteria for principal or vice-principal performance in districts under full State intervention established by the commissioner pursuant to subsection a. of this section.

The State Intervention Statute stands in contrast to certain provisions in TEACHNJ that provide for a two-year evaluative cycle (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3) and a corrective action plan (N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2.5). The contention that the District's actions were deficient by failing to adhere to these alleged requirements presumes that TEACHNJ either supersedes the State Intervention Statute or must be given greater weight when the State Intervention Statute is read "in concert" with TEACHNJ. Such conclusion would require that an addition or modification be read into TEACHNJ that would reflect a legislative intent to do so. Based upon the fact that State Intervention districts have been provided with clear and specific authority in N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-34, et. seq. with respect to dismissal of a tenured principal for inefficiency and the absence of any legislative action removing or modifying such authority, I simply cannot find evidence of such legislative intent. The authority of a takeover district has not been overridden, repealed or modified by subsequent legislation. As noted by Arbitrator DeTreaux, the legislature did not remove this authority when it approved TEACHNJ. I agree with his finding. The State Intervention Statute was, by its terms, legislation limited to the narrow legal action of the State taking over a local district that had been found not to have met its lawful obligations. Under the intervention statute, the District's utilization of an assessment cycle of twelve (12) months was consistent with its authority. If TEACHNJ had been intended to serve as a balance to the broad authorities granted to a State Intervention district, such intent was not manifested in the language of that statute. TEACHNJ does extend to public school principals but it did not remove the authority of a takeover district to act based upon a more narrow assessment cycle than that provided to principals employed in a non-takeover district. This is consistent with Arbitrator DeTreaux's observation that:

> One of the goals of the State Intervention Statute was to allow the State District Superintendent to remove ineffective administrators and supervisors early in the process of rebuilding and revitalizing the failing district. Extending the assessment cycle for principals and vice-principals from "no less than 12 months" to 2 years would be a significant departure from the goal of the intervention statute. It is unlikely the legislature would enact such significant change without clearly stating so in the TEACHNJ statute.

The application of the State Intervention Statute to the Respondent, based upon all of the above, clearly made him subject to a stricter standard for evaluation that he would have been had he not been employed, as here, by a district that was subject to state intervention. The record does show that the Respondent displayed important assets such as providing student supervision. Nevertheless, his employment in this District was subject to the exercise of unique statutory authority and the record supports the conclusion that this authority was properly exercised by the District in accordance with that authority.

I have closely examined Respondent's arguments that the District's evaluation policy required a corrective action plan that allowed additional periods of time to tenure charges being filed. I do not find reference to a corrective action plan thwarted the authority of the District to file tenure charges in this instance. Reference does exist to principals who are "on a corrective action plan." This is an apparent reference to those principals who may have been on such a plan at time of state intervention. Beyond this observation, there is nothing that would have prevented the District from providing such a plan at any time during the assessment cycle, in contrast with actionable feedback, if it deemed such course of action to have been appropriate. The fact that it did not exercise such discretion did not constitute a waiver of its statutory authority to file tenure charges. In the instant matter, the District did provide the Respondent with substantially similar direction for correction and improvement of his performance. Under the statutory scheme for state intervention, I find that the District has established that additional notice of ineffective performance and additional opportunity for improved performance was not required.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

SYNOPSIS

Pro se petitioner filed an appeal in October 2015 challenging the Board of Examiners' determination to deny her application for an experience-based Certificate of Eligibility (CE) as a Teacher of Career and Technical Education (CTE): Baking. Petitioner contended that she had 4,000 hours of relevant employment experience as well as significant training in baking at the French Culinary Institute, which should be deemed to meet the applicable statutory and regulatory provisions for obtaining a CTE: Baking endorsement. The respondent filed a motion for summary decision in lieu of an answer. Petitioner never responded to the motion for summary decision.

The ALJ found that: there are no issues of material fact, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; the issue in this case is whether respondent's denial of petitioner's application for the CTE: Baking CE was consistent with the applicable statutory and regulatory provisions; petitioner has not provided any evidence or documents to show that her education and experience at the French Culinary Institute, or her work as a teacher's aide at Hudson County School of Technology have a one to one correspondence with the certification requirements. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that petitioner has not shown that respondent's denial of her application for a CTE: Baking CE was inconsistent with applicable rules and regulations. The ALJ granted respondent's motion for summary decision, and recommended dismissal of the petition.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's determination that the respondent is entitled to summary decision. Accordingly, the petition was dismissed.

Jennifer Fargo, pro se

Lauren A. Jensen, Esq., for respondent New Jersey State Board of Examiners (John J. Hoffman, Attorney General)

Record Closed: January 29, 2016 Decided: March 2, 2016

BEFORE KIMBERLY A. MOSS, ALJ:

Petitioner, Jennifer Fargo, (Fargo) appeals the New Jersey State Board of Examiners (Board) denial of her application for teacher of baking licensure. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) and filed on December 9, 2015. December 7, 2015, respondent filed a motion for summary decision in lieu of Answer. A telephone conference was held on January 5, 2016. Petitioner was given until January 29, 2016 to file a response to the motion. To date, petitioner has not responded to the motion.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

I FIND the following FACTS in this case.

On April 6, 2015, Fargo completed an application for an experience based endorsement for teacher of career and technical education (CTE) baking certificate of eligibility (CE). On April 17, 2015, she was advised that she had not completed the 4,000 of 8,000 hours of employment experience, the test requirement and the twenty-four hour requirement. On April 28, 2015, petitioner advised the Office of Licensure and Credentials (OLC) that she wanted to appeal their decision. OLC re-evaluated her application and re-affirmed its denial OLC provided Fargo with the procedures to appeal an adverse credentials evaluation and request review of alternate experience or education. The Board determines if experience and /or study present is equivalent to the required employment experience. It recommended she supply a narrative statement clearly outlining the one to one equivalency of her experience/coursework to the licensure deficiency.

On June 10, 2016 petitioner submitted documentation to the OLC. She submitted documentation of work experience with the Hudson County School of technology and asked that her education at the French Culinary Institute be considered. The appeal was submitted to the Board on July 30, 2015. On September 17, 2015, The Board adopted the written decision denying petitioner's request for CTE: Baking CE. The Board stated that teaching experience cannot be substituted for the four years of occupational experience. The Board determined that Fargo's work experience as a teacher's aide at Hudson County School of Technology and her educational experience at the French Culinary Institute could not substitute for a four thousand hour deficiency.

Petitioner has not responded to the motion for summary decision. Petitioner did not ask for an extension to submit her response. The last communication with petitioner was during the January 5, 2016 telephone conference.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Respondent seeks summary decision in this matter. The rules governing motions for summary decision in an OAL matter are embodied N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. These provisions mirror the language of Rule 4:46-2 and the Supreme Court's decision in Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954). Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), the determination to grant summary judgment should be based on the papers presented as well as any affidavits, which may have been filed with the application. In order for the adverse, i.e., the non-moving party to prevail in such an application, responding affidavits must be submitted showing that there is indeed a genuine issue of fact, which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. The Court in Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co. of American, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995), set the standard to be applied when deciding a motion for summary judgment. Therein the Court stated:

> The determination whether there exists a genuine issue with respect to a material fact challenged requires the Motion Judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party... are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party.

In this matter there is no question of fact. The issues are whether respondent's denial of petitioner's application for CTE: baking CE was consistent with the applicable statutory and regulatory provisions.

N.J.A.C. 6A:11.3(b)(1) provides:

To be eligible for the CE, the candidate shall fulfill one of the following:
1. Experience-based endorsements: All candidates for an experienced-based endorsement shall pass an examination in physiology, hygiene, and substance abuse issues pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.9. If the candidate seeks an endorsement in a regulated occupation for which a State-issued occupational license, certificate, or registration is required for employment in or practice of the occupation, the candidate also shall hold the State-issued occupational license, certificate, or registration. The employing school district shall recommend for approval the candidate's experience pursuant to the criteria and procedures in this subsection. Candidates shall meet one of the following requirements:

i. Employment experience: The candidate shall present a minimum of four years of Department-approved and documented employment experience, which will be equivalent to 8,000 hours of employment. The employment experience shall be acquired within 10 years of the endorsement application and shall be verified by the applicant's employer(s).

(1) Teaching experience in the occupation cannot be used as a substitute for the required four years of occupational experience; however, the Department may consider teaching experience in an apprenticeship training program registered with the United States Department of Labor or equivalent state agency as evidence of eligible employment experience.

(2) The Department will identify industry credentials in consultation with experts from education and business. The industry credentials may be considered equivalent to the employment experience requirement in this subparagraph.

ii. Self-employment: The candidate shall present a notarized letter from a tax preparer and/or an attorney verifying the following:

(1) The candidate has filed State and/or Federal taxes for the self-employment using a Federal U.S. Census North American Industry Classification System (NAICS) that is appropriate for the endorsement; and

(2) The candidate's self-employment experience meets the minimum of four years of employment experience within 10 years of the certificate application, which will be equivalent to 8,000 hours of employment.

iii. Military experience: Candidates shall present a Military Discharge certificate (DD-214) indicating military qualifications and occupational training received to determine the extent of credit to be applied toward satisfying the employment experience requirements pursuant to (b)1i above.

Petitioner has not provided any evidence or documents that show that her education experience at the French Culinary Institute or her work as a teacher's aide at Hudson County School of Technology have a one to one correspondence with the certification requirements.

I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not shown that respondent's denial of her application for CTE: baking CE was inconsistent with the applicable statutory and regulatory provisions.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is ORDERED that respondent's motion for summary decision is GRANTED and the appeal is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended summary decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

| IN THE MATTER OF TENURE CHARGES OF EGBERT BURKEand theSTATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK | AGENCY REF. NO. 268-9/15STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT |

The State-Operated School District of the City of Newark (the "District"), whose principal office is located at 2 Cedar Street, Newark, New Jersey 07102, and its successors, assigns, officers, employees, agents and representatives (collectively, "School District"), and Egbert Burke, residing at 153 Park Street, East Orange, NJ 07017 ("Respondent") (collectively, the "Parties") have voluntarily resolved all disputed matters and enter into the following Stipulation of Settlement, which fully disposes of all issues in controversy between them in full and complete settlement of all outstanding issues as detailed below.

WHEREAS Respondent is a tenured teaching staff member employed by the District as a teacher; and

WHEREAS the State District Superintendent of the School District ("Superintendent") certified tenure charges of inefficiency to the Commissioner of Education of the State of New Jersey, captioned In the Matter of Tenure Charges Against Egbert Burke, State-Operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County ("Tenure Charges"), primarily based upon allegations that Respondent had not demonstrated proficient teaching ability and such charges were assigned

Docket No. 268 9/15; and Respondent filed an answer opposing the charges; and the Commissioner of Education, having reviewed the charges and Respondent's answer, determined that the charges were sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in compensation, and accordingly referred the matter to Arbitrator David Gregory ("Arbitrator") for a hearing; and

WHEREAS, the District is an Abbott District, with stringent budget limitations and due to the uncertainty of the outcome of arbitration as well as the expenditure of resources due to multiple days of hearings with numerous witnesses, and the concern that school personnel will be removed from their educational duties and responsibilities during that time, the Parties wish to resolve this matter in accordance with the terms set forth herein rather than proceed with arbitration; and

WHEREAS the proposed Stipulation of Settlement is in the best interest of the Parties and the public by establishing certainty of result and it avoids an uncertain conclusion after protracted and costly proceedings at the expense of the public;

NOW, THEREFORE, subject to approval by the Arbitrator, the Parties hereby agree as follows:

1. Upon final approval of the signed Stipulation by the District, the District shall and hereby does withdraw the instant Tenure Charges. The District agrees to not pursue the subject Tenure Charges against Respondent as long as this Stipulation remains in effect and is not voided by any court or administrative agency of competent jurisdiction. In the event the Stipulation is voided, the District retains the right to refile and consider for certification, tenure charges against Respondent, including those tenure charges which have been previously filed against him by the District, and Respondent reserves the right to defend same.

2. In consideration of the withdrawal of the charges, the Respondent Egbert Burke agrees to submit a binding and irrevocable resignation from all employment with the Newark Public Schools, in a form attached hereto as Exhibit A. The resignation is based upon Mr. Burke receiving all salary at his regular rate of pay from the date of his suspension in September 2015 until January 31, 2016. In addition, Mr. Burke will remain on the health insurance plan of the Newark Public School until February 29, 2016. Other than salary and insurance, Mr. Burke waives all other payment, benefits or emoluments of employment with the Newark Public Schools.

3. Except as noted above, Respondent waives all claims of any nature against the District with regard to his employment with the District including fees, or other monetary relief, with the exception of workers' compensation claims for the term of his prior employment until the date of this Agreement. This Stipulation is based upon the understanding that Respondent's separation from employment with the District, effective February 1, 2016, will be deemed a voluntary resignation in good standing. Upon inquiry from any third party to authorized employees or representatives of the District, those employee or representatives will provide no information other than to confirm Respondent's employment, position, salary and dates of employment, and state that the reason for his separation from employment was his voluntary resignation. The District will not oppose any application by Respondent for unemployment benefits.

4. In exchange for the consideration set forth in paragraph 2 above, the sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, Respondent hereby waives, releases and discharges any and all claims or rights that he has or may have against the District, the State District Superintendent, its Advisory Board of Education and its Advisory Board members, and any and all other District officers, employees, representatives, agents, successors and assigns (collectively, the "Released Parties") including any claim for attorneys' fees, costs or other monetary relief. This waiver, release and discharge includes, without limitation, any and all actions, claims, and liabilities of whatsoever kind or character, in law or in equity, now known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, directly or indirectly related to Respondent's employment with the District up to the date of this Agreement. It specifically includes, without limitation, all claims which Respondent may have regarding tenure, withholding of increment, discrimination on any basis, any federal or state civil rights law, any alleged violation of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, as amended; the Older Worker Benefits Protection Act; Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended; Sections 1981 through 1988 of Title 42 of the United States Code; the Civil Rights Act of 1991; the Equal Pay Act; the Americans with Disabilities Act; the Rehabilitation Act; the Family and Medical Leave Act; the Fair Labor Standards Act; the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended; the Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act; the National Labor Relations Act; the Fair Credit Reporting Act; the Occupational Safety and Health Act; the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Act; the Employee Polygraph Protection Act; the Immigration Reform Control Act; the retaliation provisions of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002; the False Claims Act; the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination; the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act; the New Jersey Family Leave Act; the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law; the New Jersey Equal Pay Law; the New Jersey Occupational Safety and Health Law; the New Jersey Smokers' Rights Law; the New Jersey Genetic Privacy Act; the New Jersey Fair Credit Reporting Act; New Jersey Wages and Hours Law, unemployment compensations laws, disability benefits laws, retaliation provisions of the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Law; the United States Constitution, the New Jersey Constitution; and/or any other alleged violation of any federal, state or local law, regulation or ordinance; any claim based on contract, implied contract, collective bargaining agreement, tort law, personal injury, or public policy, having any bearing whatsoever on his employment, including but not limited to any claim for back pay, vacation pay, sick pay, wages, attorneys' fees, costs, and/or future wage loss, except for workers' compensation claims.

5. Notwithstanding the terms of paragraph 9 of this Agreement, it is understood and agreed that the parties are not prohibited from communicating with or participating in any administrative proceeding before the United States Department of Labor, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commissioner, or any other federal, state or local law agency. However, should any entity, agency commission or person file a charge, action, complaint or lawsuit against the District based upon any of the above-released claims in Paragraph 9, Respondent agrees not to seek or accept any resulting relief whatsoever.

6. Notwithstanding the terms of paragraph 4 of this Stipulation, Respondent does not hereby waive any right he may have to workers compensation benefits or pension benefits.

7. To comply with the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act, if applicable, this Stipulation of Settlement advises Respondent of the legal requirements of the Act and fully incorporates the legal requirements by reference into this Stipulation of Settlement. Accordingly, by executing this Stipulation, Respondent acknowledges that he: (i) fully understands the terms and conditions of this Stipulation of Settlement; (ii) has consulted with an attorney to review the Stipulation of Settlement; (iii) specifically waives his right to pursue any current claims he may have under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act; (iv) has been given sufficient time within which to consider this Stipulation of Settlement; and (v) has 7 days from the date of the execution of this Stipulation of Settlement to revoke it. Respondent understands that he may rescind this Agreement within 7 calendar days of signing it, and such rescission must be in writing and delivered to counsel for the District either by hand or by certified mail within the 7 day period.

8. This Agreement shall not constitute a precedent in any matters involving other District employees.

9. This Stipulation, and all of its terms, are and will remain confidential to the maximum extent permitted by law. Respondent is expressly forbidden from discussing this Stipulation with any person, other than his accountant, tax advisor and attorney ("permitted disclosures") and any other individual or entity as necessary to implement the Stipulation or to which it is legally obligated to respond ("legally-required disclosures"). In making any permitted disclosure, Respondent agrees that it will inform the person to whom it is making the permitted disclosure that the existence and substance of this Stipulation, the settlement giving rise to this Stipulation and the sum of money paid pursuant to this Stipulation are to be held strictly confidential to the fullest extent permitted by law. Respondent specifically agrees not to discuss the nature, terms, conditions of this Stipulation with others, any representative of the media, or any past, present, or prospective employee of the District, or its agents or attorneys. Respondent understands that this provision is not a simple recital but is an important, integral part of this Stipulation. The District agrees that it will keep this Stipulation confidential to the extent permitted by law.

10. The Parties each acknowledge that counsel has advised them regarding this Stipulation and that each is signing this Stipulation freely and voluntarily, without duress, coercion or pressure from the other party, with full understanding of its terms and conditions and consents to the terms contained herein.

11. Each signatory to this Stipulation understands, acknowledges and agrees that this Stipulation constitutes the full agreement of the parties and may not be altered, amended, modified, or otherwise changed in any respect whatsoever except by a duly executed writing signed on behalf of both Parties.

12. This Stipulation shall be construed and enforced in accordance with New Jersey law. The Commissioner of Education and/or federal and state courts of the State of New Jersey, as applicable in accordance with such law, shall have exclusive jurisdiction over any dispute arising from, in connection with, or related to this Stipulation.

13. This Stipulation may be executed in counterparts with the same effect as if the signatures hereto and thereto were upon the same instrument. Each counterpart will be deemed an original, which taken together shall constitute a single instrument. Facsimile signatures or signatures in electronic Portable Document Format ("PDF") shall be construed and have the same force and effect as original signatures.

14. This Stipulation or any uncertainty or ambiguity therein shall not be construed against any party, but shall be construed as if both Parties to this Stipulation jointly prepared this Agreement.

15. Each party acknowledges that this is the entire agreement of the Parties concerning the subject matter of the foregoing paragraphs, and that there are no written or oral representations, understandings or agreements directly or indirectly connected with this Stipulation.

16. If any provision of this Stipulation is held by a court of competent jurisdiction or determined under applicable law to be invalid, void, or unenforceable, the remaining provisions will continue and remain in full force and effect.

17. This Stipulation of Settlement is subject to the final approval of the State District Superintendent of the State-operated School District of the City of Newark and will only become effective upon the final approval of the Superintendent. Any disapproval by the Superintendent shall not interfere with the rights of either party to pursue the matter.

18. Additionally, this Stipulation is subject to approval by the Arbitrator pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(c), and will become effective only upon approval by the Arbitrator. Counsel for the Parties shall jointly request the Arbitrator's approval of this Agreement and each shall take any and all necessary steps to effectuate dismissal of the Tenure Charges.

Introduction and Statement of Relevant Facts

Respondent Ratiba Ahmed is certified as a K-12 teacher of mathematics. During the 2013-14 school year, Ahmed taught at the Dr. William H. Horton Elementary School; and during the 2014-15 school year, she taught at the Lafayette Street School. Ahmed was subject to a Corrective Action Plan (CAP) during both school years. The CAPs focused, in part, on timely submission of lesson plans, measurement of student growth, and reading assignments for professional development.

Despite the CAPs, Respondent received an Ineffective rating on her 2013-14 and 2014-15 Annual Summative Evaluations. As a result, the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark issued tenure charges against her. Charge One alleged inefficiency based on the evaluations. Charge Two alleged conduct unbecoming and neglect of duty based on an alleged pattern of excessive absenteeism and a failure to effectively manage and supervise her classroom. Charge Three alleged a failure to adhere to District policies and procedures in the management of Respondent's classroom, as well as violation of the District policies on attendance.

On October 9, 2015, the New Jersey Department of Education declared that it "is unable to determine that the evaluation process has not been followed," and that "the balance of the charges have been reviewed and deemed sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary..." The same day, the undersigned was appointed to hear the tenure charges.

On November 13, 2015 and December 22, 2015, hearings were held at the law offices of Scarinci & Hollenbeck in Lyndhurst, New Jersey, during which time both parties had a full and fair opportunity to present documentary and other evidence, examine and cross-examine witnesses, and offer argument in support of their respective positions. The parties filed post-hearing briefs, and the matter was submitted to the Arbitrator for a decision.

Issue

Has the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark established the allegations of inefficiency, unbecoming conduct, neglect of duty, and/or other just cause against Ratiba Ahmed as set forth in the tenure charges? If so, do those charges warrant dismissal? To what remedies are the parties entitled?

Analysis and Decision

Charge One – Inefficiency

On September 23, 2013, Respondent Ahmed was placed on a Corrective Action Plan (CAP) for the 2013-14 school year. School administration conducted Mini-Observations of Respondent six times in the first half of the school year and communicated with her on areas that needed improvement. She was also assigned a coach to provide guidance and feedback. An October 28, 2014 Long Observation resulted in an overall Ineffective rating and was followed by a Post-Observation Conference (POC). A February 14, 2014 Short Observation resulted in an Ineffective rating. A Mid-Year Review completed at the same time also rated Respondent as Ineffective overall and in each of the four areas of evaluation. Respondent's May 12, 2014 Annual Summative Evaluation concluded with an overall Ineffective rating and Ineffective ratings in each of the four evaluation areas.

In the 2014-15 school year, Ahmed was administratively excused/suspended from September 8, 2014 to mid-February 2015. On February 17, 2015, she was assigned to the Lafayette Street Elementary School and began teaching on February 24, 2015. A Corrective Action Plan was proposed on March 9, 2015. However, Ahmed went on extended sick leave from March 10, 2015 to April 9, 2015. Upon her return on April 10, 2015, her CAP was finalized, and she received professional development, including training on the use of BloomBoard, assistance with creation and implementation of her lesson plans, and the assignment of a Math Teacher Coach.

On April 21, 2015, Respondent was rated Ineffective after a Long Observation by the Vice Principal; and she received a similar rating on May 13, 2015 after a Long Observation by the Principal. On June 1, 2015, a Short Observation by the Vice Principal resulted in an Ineffective Rating; and on June 15, 2015, she was rated Ineffective in her Annual Summative Evaluation.

Generally stated, the negative evaluation and ratings of Respondent focus on the quality of her instruction, her inability or refusal to draft adequate lesson plans, her failure to adequately measure student growth, and her inability to effectively manage the classroom. But the specifics of the evaluations and ratings have not been contested by the Respondent and need not be discussed in any detail. Rather, Respondent alleges that the inefficiency charges should be dismissed because the School District "failed...to appropriately provide Ms. Ahmed with a CAP and observations in time for Ms. Ahmed to have the opportunity to improve."

Under TEACHNJ, an inefficiency charge can be brought against a teacher if, as in Respondent's case, she received a final rating of Ineffective for two straight school years. An Arbitrator adjudicating the charges can only dismiss the charges for very specific reasons, including, as applicable in the present case,

> "the employee's evaluation failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process, including but not limited to providing a corrective action plan." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2(a)1

TEACHNJ also imposes requirements on a School District seeking to remove a teacher for inefficiency. The requirements include the following,

> "Each teacher shall be observed...at least three times during each school year but not less than once during each semester." N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4-4(c)

The Administrative Code requires an additional observation if the teacher is on a CAP. However, the Code further provides at N.J.A.C. 6A-10-4.4(e)(1),

> "If a teacher is present for less than 40 percent of the total student school days in an academic year, he or she shall receive at least two observations to earn a teacher practice score."

According to the School District, Ahmed was absent for more than 90 days in the 2014-15 school year, representing less than 40% of the 191 total teacher school days. Accordingly, it contends that it only needed to make at least two observations of the Respondent.

But Respondent's challenge to the inefficiency charge is not based on the number of observations, but rather the timing of the observations. Respondent notes that a CAP was proposed on March 9, 2015, immediately prior to Ahmed going on extended sick leave from March 10 to April 9, 2015. The CAP was finalized on April 10, 2015, the day after her return to work. Thereafter, Respondent was observed on the following dates: April 21, 2015; May 13, 2015; June 1, 2015; and June 15, 2015. Respondent argues that the time period between the CAP and the final observation and the first and last observation were not sufficient to provide Respondent with the time needed to improve.

Respondent cites to the decision in the case of In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Patsy Cuntrera, Passaic County Vocational School District, Agency Docket No. 223-8/15 (Gandel, 2015). Cuntrera was observed in mid-October 2014, late April 2015, and two consecutive days in May 2015. Cuntrera had worked in the fall of 2014, but went on extended medical leave of absence from December 8, 2014 to February 17, 2015. She was suspended by the School District from February 25, 2015 to March 25, 2015 and was out again for approximately two weeks in mid-April. Arbitrator Gandel noted, "...evaluations are supposed to help the teacher with his strengths and weaknesses and to give him guidance so he can improve." With that purpose in mind, Arbitrator Gandel concluded, "there has to be a reasonable time period between evaluations to show improvement." The Arbitrator noted that in Cuntrera's situation, "...the timing of the evaluations, the second the day he returned from an extended leave of absence and suspension and the third the day he returned from another absence followed by the fourth on the very next day did not appear to represent a District that was trying to work with its staff member..."

Similarly, in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Marie Ebert, State-Operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, Agency Docket No. 49-3/15 (Denenberg 2016), Respondent Ebert returned to work in May 2014 after a lengthy absence and was subject to a "series of observations...in rapid succession." Arbitrator Deneberg found that "[n]o time was left in between for the teacher to improve her performance on the basis of each preceding observation."

The School District is at a distinct disadvantage in evaluating a teacher who is absent for an extended portion of the school year. Unlike the District described in the Cuntrera Award, the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark appears to have been making every reasonable effort to address Respondent's performance deficiencies. A CAP was proposed on March 9, 2015, soon after her return from administrative suspension. But finalization of the CAP is largely dependent on the teacher, and Ahmed went out on a month-long sick leave the day after the CAP was proposed. As a result, it was not finalized until April 10, 2015, the day after her return to work. Around that time, the District provided her with assistance and coaching and professional development reading assignments to improve her performance and cure her deficiencies.

The first observation occurred on April 21, 2015, only 7 school days (3 of which Ahmed was out sick) after the CAP was finalized. It found her lacking in all four areas of evaluation. The second evaluation occurred on May 13, 2015, approximately 16 school days (3 of which Ahmed was out sick) after the preceding observation. A Short Observation occurred approximately 12 school days later on June 1, 2015. The Annual Evaluation was completed on June 15, 2015, approximately 9 school days (4 of which Ahmed was out sick) after the Short Observation. Accordingly, Respondent was observed and evaluated four times over approximately 34 school days for which she was present.

TEACHNJ anticipates that the observations scheduled throughout the school year, the mid-year review, and the CAP will provide guidance and feedback so that an underperforming teacher will have the opportunity to improve performance and correct deficiencies with assistance from the District. Unlike the situations described in Cuntrera and Ebert, the truncated observation schedule was not attributable to any mismanagement or bad faith on part of the District. Rather, the shortened time period was simply due to Respondent's frequent and lengthy absences from the school, initially due to an administrative suspension and later due to sick leave use.

Regardless of the reasons for the absence, Ahmed had a very limited time period in which to improve between the finalization of her CAP and her first observation (4 school days for which she was present); between her first and second observations (approximately 13 school days for which she was present); between her second and third observations (approximately 12 school days); and between her final observation and her Annual Summative Evaluation (5 school days for which she was present). The time span is simply not sufficient to allow the teacher to fully meet the goals of her CAP, for the School District to effectively assist her in improvement, and for her to achieve improvement sufficient to affect her evaluation ratings.

For these reasons, I find that the School District's evaluation of Respondent did not adhere substantially to the evaluation process in that the time period of the evaluations did not afford Ahmed the opportunity to correct her deficiencies and improve on her performance. Accordingly, the tenure charge of inefficiency is not sustained.

Charges Two and Three – Conduct Unbecoming, Neglect of Duty, and Other Just Cause

Charges Two and Three are related because they focus on Respondent's alleged excessive absenteeism and her alleged inability to effective manage and supervise her classroom. Respondent's attendance record is as follows:

2011-12: 46 days absent for sick leave;

2012-13: out on worker's compensation November 19, 2012 – June 28, 2013;

2013-14: 11 days absent for sick leave; out on worker's compensation March 2, 2014 – June 30, 2014;

2014-15: administrative suspension September 8, 2014 – February 24, 2015; 29 days sick leave from February 26, 2015 – June 30, 2015, including extended leave from March 10 – April 9.

In addition to her attendance record for which she received multiple warnings throughout 2014-15, Respondent was cited by the School District for the following:

- Failing to record grades for all students (January 14, 2014);
- Allowing students to leave her classroom without permission and failing to notify security (January 24, 2014);
- Creating a safety hazard by locking her classroom door (January 24, 2014);
- Failing to require students to remove hoodies in class and failing to teach while the class was in progress (January 30, 2014);

- Allowing students to leave the classroom without supervision (February 7, 2014);
- Leaving 25 students unattended in her classroom (May 20, 2015);
- Failing to request an assignment from the main office when her students were on a class trip (June 1, 2015); and
- Leaving her class unattended to observe other teachers conduct a lesson (June 15, 2015).

As the District notes in its brief, excessive absenteeism may lead to a termination of tenure rights even if the absences were excused or for legitimate reasons because of the negative impact such absences have on the educational program and the continuity of instruction. See, e.g., Metallo v. Union City Board of Education, 2003 N.J. Agen Lexis 227 (March 2003), aff'd by State Board, EDU No. 3454-01 (April 2004).

Beginning the 2011-12 school year and through the 2014-15 school year, Respondent missed a substantial amount of time from school – 46 days in 2011-12; approximately 7 months in 2012-13; more than 4 months in 2013-14; and a total of approximately 6 months in 2014-15. Arbitrator Michael Pecklers explained in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing between State Operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County and Jajuana Vaughn, Agency Docket No. 336-10/15 (Pecklers 2016) that the School District bears the "burden of making a prima facie showing that it has satisfied or established the sufficiency of the subject tenure charge by a preponderance of the credible evidence." (at 12) The sheer number of absences goes a long way in making a prima facie showing of excessive absenteeism.

But Respondent argues that the District's shoddy attendance record keeping precludes an accurate account of Ahmed's presence or absence during the school day. Specifically, Respondent focuses on the month of September 2014 and the months of January and February 2015.

The District introduced several different attendance records; and therein lies the confusion. The records are not consistent as to the reason for her absence in the contested time periods. For example, a "Time Detail" record indicates that Ahmed was "administratively excused" from September 1, 2014 through September 25, 2014 before going on Suspension Without Pay through January 23, 2015. An "Attendance Editor" document indicates that Ahmed was "Sick" on September 11, 12, 15, 16, 17, and 18.

Respondent came off Suspension Without Pay on January 23, 2015, but did not start working until February 24, 2015. (She was assigned to the Lafayette Street School on February 17, 2015.) A "Time Detail" document lists her as administratively excused in the last week of January 2015 and does not account for her time between February 1 and 13. It includes an unexplained notation of "Regular Settlement" for the week of February 16, and another "Time Detail" document indicates she returned to work on February 24, 2015.

Homere Breton, Executive Legal Assistant in the District's Talent Office, explained that the attendance documents reflect the type of report requested by the user. That is, the report only answers the query posed by the user. Accordingly, no single report conveniently sets forth Respondent's attendance record.

Despite that significant and disturbing shortcoming in the District's attendance record keeping, it is not particularly relevant to the present tenure charges. The issue for the tenure charges related to excessive absenteeism is whether Ahmed was absent on the many days in question. The records leave no doubt that Respondent was absent, and Respondent does not contend that she actually worked any of those days. The inconsistent record keeping in September 2014 and January-February 2015 only prevents a true understanding of the reasons for her absences. To be clear, the District has sufficiently demonstrated that Ahmed was absent during the relevant time periods in September 2014 and January and February 2015, although the exact reason for her absence has not been conclusively shown.

In Vaughn, Arbitrator Pecklers further explained "the burden of production shifts to Respondent to plead and establish her affirmative or exculpatory defenses." Respondent, who did not testify at hearing, did not offer any affirmative or exculpatory defenses other than her challenge to the sufficiency of the record keeping. But the Commissioner of Education enunciated the standard for termination of a tenured teacher for excessive absenteeism in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Lena White, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 157. The standard requires consideration of the particular circumstances of the absences, not just the number of absences; the impact that the absences had on the continuity of instruction; and some warning to the employee regarding the District's dissatisfaction with the pattern of absences. (at 161)

The total number of absences in and of itself demonstrates the impact on continuity of instruction. Absences of approximately 1-1/2 months, 7 months, 4 months, and 6 months in four consecutive school years indicates that students have experienced considerable interruption in the continuity of instruction. Further, Respondent was warned via memorandum and evaluations about her pattern of absenteeism beginning in 2012 and continuing through 2015. The only consideration to be examined is the particular circumstances of the absences.

Again, Respondent offered no testimony regarding the reasons for her absence. As can be seen from the District's records, the 46 absences in the 2011-12 school year are attributable to sick leave. The 7-month absence in 2012-13 was due to work-related injury, as was the 3-month absence in the 2013-14 (with an additional 11 days due to sick leave). The September 2014-February 2015 absence primarily related to Respondent's Suspension Without Pay, and she was absent an additional 29 days on sick leave from February 2015 through June 2015.

Although one can reasonably argue that absences due to work-related injuries should be given some consideration, the Commissioner of Education had held that "action may be taken against a teacher because of excessive absenteeism even if such is the result of work-related injuries." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Folger and the School District of the City of Orange, Commissioner Decision EDU 147-00 (May 2000).

Four school years can be equated to approximately 40 months (i.e., 10 months per year). Respondent was absent for approximately 19 months out of 40, or just less than half of the four-year period. Tellingly, after her return to work on February 24, 2015 after an approximate 6-month suspension without pay, Ahmed was absent on sick leave for 29 days, i.e., approximately one-quarter of the remaining school year.

The District has offered undisputed evidence that Respondent was excessively absent over the most recent four-year period. The pattern of those absences in the 2014-15 school year, left unexplained by Respondent, is particularly troubling. After a lengthy suspension without pay, she returned to work on February 24, 2015, took sick leave February 26 and 27, received a proposed CAP on March 9, and used sick leave from March 10 to April 8. After returning April 9, she again used sick leave from April 13-15. After being charged with excessive absenteeism on April 30, 2015 and facing a May 8, 2015 disciplinary hearing, Ahmed was absent on sick leave May 4, 5, and 6. After being fined one day's pay on May 8, 2015 for excessive absenteeism, she used an additional four days of sick leave between June 2 and June 17.

The record clearly demonstrates excessive absenteeism for the four-year period from the 2011-12 school year through the 2014-15 school year with particularly excessive absenteeism from the period February 24 – June 30, 2015.

In addition, as noted, the District offered evidence of classroom management and supervision issues on at least 8 occasions in the 2014-15 school year, for which Respondent was cited. Respondent offered no defense to those allegations other than to dismiss them as minor violations not warranting dismissal. Absent contrary evidence, the District has sufficiently demonstrated that Respondent has committed neglect of duty through these violations.

For all the reasons noted above, I find that the District has established the allegations of neglect of duty and other just cause as set forth in Tenure Charges Two and Three.[1] As Respondent has not shown, and has resisted, improvement in her attendance and classroom supervision issues particularly in the 2014-15 school year, I find that the charges warrant dismissal.

Award

The District has failed to establish the tenure charges alleging inefficiency and conduct unbecoming. The District has established the allegations alleging neglect of duty and other just cause as set forth in Tenure Charges Two and Three. Accordingly, those tenure charges are sustained, and dismissal is warranted.

Re: Board of Education of the Township of Jackson, Ocean County v. The Titusville Academy, Mercer County, et al. Agency Dkt. No. 379-12/15.

Dear Counsel:

I have reviewed the petition of appeal and the papers filed in connection with the respective motions to dismiss filed by the respondents in this matter. The Jackson Township Board of Education (Jackson) filed a petition of appeal on December 28, 2015 seeking to recover tuition costs that it paid to the Titusville Academy for T.S. between September 2012 and January 2013, in the amount of $24,478.32. Jackson alleges that it inadvertently paid the tuition costs for T.S. at the time without investigating the proper residence of T.S. because the Department of Children and Families placed T.S. within the Jackson School District.

At some point thereafter, Jackson investigated the matter and now alleges that it appears that several other districts, who are all named as respondents, may have been responsible for T.S.'s tuition costs. On July 27, 2015, Jackson filed a complaint in the Ocean County Superior Court, Chancery Division, seeking a declaratory judgment to determine T.S.'s residency. On November 20, 2015, the Chancery Division dismissed Jackson's complaint for failure to exhaust its administrative remedies.

New Jersey Is An Equal Opportunity Employer • Printed on Recycled Paper and Recyclable

Upon review and consideration of the submissions, I find that Jackson's petition of appeal was not timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), a petition must be filed "no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." Guidance as to what constitutes notice sufficient to trigger the running of this regulatory provision was provided by the Supreme Court in Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572 (1993). In Kaprow, supra, the Court found that adequate notice of a final order is one which is "sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate." Kaprow at 587. The Court also examined the underlying purpose of the limitations period and the concept of adequate notice, stating, > the notice requirement should effectuate concerns for individual justice by not triggering the limitations period until the [affected persons] have been alerted to the existence of facts that may equate in law with [their] cause of action... At the same time, [the notice] should further considerations of repose by establishing an objective event to trigger the limitations period in order "to enable the proper and efficient administration of the affairs of government." Id.

In June 2012, Jackson entered into an agreement with Titusville Academy to provide services for T.S. during the 2012-2013 school year. At the very least, Jackson was on notice that it was paying tuition for T.S. when it entered into the June 2012 agreement with Titusville Academy and when it did in fact pay the monthly tuition for T.S. between September 2012 and January 2013. Even if the triggering date for the limitations period was January 2013, when T.S was apparently disenrolled from the Jackson School District, the petition of appeal is untimely as it was not filed until over two years later.[1] If Jackson questioned the residency of T.S. or its tuition obligations, it should have raised the issue to the Department in 2012 or 2013 when it became clear that Jackson was paying the tuition for T.S. to attend Titusville Academy. Jackson's argument – that since neither the executive county superintendent nor the Commissioner has made a ruling on the residency of T.S. to date, there has been no final determination that has triggered the 90-day period – is disingenuous. Jackson was fully aware of the tuition that it was paying for T.S. in 2012 and 2013.

Finally, I find that the petitioning board has not presented any compelling reason or exceptional circumstance which would warrant relaxation of the timely filing requirement, citing only the fact that Jackson "inadvertently" made the tuition payments to Titusville Academy without investigating the residency issue. Moreover, Jackson's assertion that the other respondents failed to cooperate to resolve this matter amicably is also not a compelling reason to substantially relax the 90-day rule. Certainly Jackson could have filed a timely petition of appeal to preserve its rights while pursuing an amicable resolution.

[1] In July 2015, Jackson was clearly aware that there was a potential residency issue regarding T.S. because it filed a complaint with the Chancery Division. If I apply July 2015, when Jackson concedes that it had notice of a potential cause of action, as the triggering date this petition of appeal was still untimely filed beyond the 90-day time frame.

Accordingly, the respective motions to dismiss are hereby granted and the petition of appeal is dismissed as untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).[2]

David C. Hespe

SYNOPSIS

Pro se petitioner challenged the respondent Board's determination that her child, A.S., was not entitled to a free public education in the Monroe Township schools. Petitioner asserted that she had a lease on an apartment in Monroe for the period from October 1, 2014 until September 30, 2015, and that she and A.S. lived there during that period. J.S. contended that she and A.S. subsequently moved in with her daughter in North Brunswick after her daughter was diagnosed with a serious medical condition. The Board maintained that a residency investigation was conducted after J.S. was continually picked up late from school by family members, and surveillance revealed that: the address provided to the school district was located in a 55 and older community; the apartment was largely unfurnished; and J.S. and A.S. routinely left for school in Monroe from an address in North Brunswick. The Board found that J.S. and A.S. have been – and continue to be – domiciled in North Brunswick, and A.S. was therefore not eligible to attend Monroe schools free of charge. The Board sought tuition reimbursement for the period of J.S.'s ineligible attendance.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a), public schools are required to provide a free education to individuals aged 5 to 20 years who are domiciled within the school district; the domicile of unemancipated children is the domicile of their parent or guardian; in the instant case, the results of the Board's residency investigation show that J.S. and her child were domiciled in North Brunswick during the time period in question; petitioner failed to demonstrate by a preponderance of the credible evidence that her child was entitled to a free public education in Monroe; pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2), a school board is entitled to recover tuition from a parent or guardian of a child found ineligible to attend school in its district; and the daily tuition cost in Monroe schools was $68.91 for 2014-2015, and is $80.69 for the 2015-2016 school year. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that A.S. was not entitled to attend school in Monroe free of charge, and the Board is owed tuition for the period of the child's ineligible attendance. The ALJ dismissed the petition with prejudice and ordered J.S. to reimburse the Board for tuition in the amount of $18,706.47, plus an additional $80.69 for each day that A.S. remains in Monroe's high school after February 29, 2016.

Upon review of the record and the Initial Decision, the Commissioner found that petitioner failed to sustain her burden of establishing that she was a domiciliary of Monroe during the period in question. Accordingly, the Initial Decision was adopted as the final decision in this matter and petitioner was directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of $ 18,706.47. The petition was dismissed.

| RESPONDENT. | : | |

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.[1] The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) finding that petitioner failed to sustain her burden of establishing that she was a domiciliary of Monroe Township from November 3, 2014 to the present. The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that the minor child was, therefore, not entitled to a free public education in the District's schools during this time.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b, the Commissioner shall assess tuition against petitioner for the time period during which the minor child was ineligible to attend school in Monroe Township. Therefore, the Board is entitled to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $18,706.47 ($68.91 per day for 145 days and $80.69 per day for 108 days) for the time period from November 3, 2014 to February 29, 2016 – during which petitioner's minor child was ineligible to attend – plus $80.69 for each day beyond February 29, 2016 that the minor child remains in Monroe Township's schools.

[1] The Commissioner was not provided with a transcript of the February 16, 2016 hearing at the OAL.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Petitioner is directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of $18,706.47 – plus $80.69 for each day beyond February 29, 2016 that A.S. remains enrolled in the District's schools – for tuition costs incurred during the time period that A.S. was ineligible to attend school in Monroe Township. The petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

STATEMENT OF THE CASE PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, J.S., the mother of the minor child A.S., appeals the determination of the Monroe Township, Middlesex County, Board of Education (the "Board") that A.S. does not reside within the Monroe Township school district and that tuition reimbursement is required. The Board alleges that the minor child A.S. was not residing at the address provided by the petitioner and seeks repayment of tuition. At issue is whether A.S. is entitled to be enrolled in the district for purposes of receiving a thorough and efficient public education free of charge pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

On April 16, 2015, the Board notified J.S. that the child was ineligible to continue to attend school within the district. The petitioner filed a timely notice of appeal on or about April 24, 2015. The Board filed an answer on May 15, 2015. On May 19, 2015, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The hearing was held on February 16, 2016, and following the receipt of the Board's post-hearing submission, the record closed.

TESTIMONY

Michael C. Gorski

Mr. Gorski has been employed by the Monroe Township Board of Education as the business administrator and Board secretary for six years. He previously served for ten years as the assistant business administrator and accounting supervisor. He holds a master's degree in education administration and a bachelor's degree in accounting, and is a licensed certified public accountant, a public school accountant and a certified school business administrator.

He testified that at the Board meeting of April 15, 2015, (R-2) the Board resolved to accept the recommendation of the finance committee, made at its February 25, 2015, meeting, that A.S. is not domiciled within the district and therefore not eligible to continue to attend district schools, and should be removed. J.S. was notified of this determination by the Board on April 16, 2015 (R-3). Mr. Gorski testified that the tuition cost per pupil for the 2014–2015 school year, during which A.S. was in the eighth grade at Monroe Township Middle School, was $12,404 (R-4). That number is then divided by 180 days of the school year to arrive at a per-diem cost per pupil.[1] He also testified that the estimated tuition for the 2015–2016 school year, during which A.S. is attending ninth grade at Monroe Township High School, is $14,525.[2]

[1] A per-diem cost of $68.91 for the 2014–2015 school year.

Cherie McCoy

Ms. McCoy has served as a registrar for the Monroe Township Board of Education for ten years. She testified that when registering A.S. for school (R-6), J.S. provided a lease (R-7), which is between J.S. and K.K.[3] as tenants, in The Village at Stratford, LLC. McCoy testified that The Village at Stratford is an adult community and children are not allowed to live there. This is the home address the Board was given for A.S.

Ms. McCoy stated that questions arose as to A.S.'s residency when she received an email from the middle school (R-8) that indicated that A.S. was picked up every day between half an hour and forty-five minutes late by his mother, brother or sister and did not take the school bus. The email also indicated that the address provided was an adult community where children are not permitted to reside. School buses are also not permitted to pick up at or drop off to an adult community.

Stephen Naumik

Mr. Naumik has been employed by the district as its residency investigator and truancy officer for the past fifteen years. He was asked to do an investigation in December 2014 regarding A.S. Mr. Naumik commenced his investigation on December 16, 2015, by visiting the residence at 115 P. Drive in Monroe Township and explaining the nature of his visit. J.S. indicated that A.S. resided in the home. Mr. Naumik observed the two-bedroom apartment to be nearly empty. There was a mattress on the floor with no sheets and no pillows, and there were two articles of clothing in the closet. There were no books, backpacks or school supplies, and there was no indication whatsoever that a fourteen-year-old middle-school student resided in the apartment. There was a couch in the living room, but no lights, no television, no appliances on the kitchen counters, and no dishes or glasses, and the refrigerator was empty except for some restaurant leftovers. Mr. Naumik testified that J.S. stated that A.S. was at the library and that she would have him come home. A.S. arrived thirty-five minutes later with his sister S.S. He was not carrying any books, a backpack or any school supplies. Mr. Naumik added that the library is ten minutes from the 115 P. Drive address, yet it took over half an hour for A.S. and his sister to arrive. A.S. had been absent from school that day.

[2] A per-diem cost of $80.69 for the 2015–2016 school year.
[3] J.S. testified that K.K. is her sister.

The next morning, on December 17, 2014, Mr. Naumik observed the 115 P. Drive address between 7:00 a.m. and 8:10 a.m., and no one entered or exited the residence during that time. A.S. was in school that day, according to the attendance records, and was not tardy.[4] (R-9.) Mr. Naumik continued his investigation with his January 14, 2015, residency report (R-13), which reflected his findings from three days of observation, January 12 through 14, 2015, where there was no sign of A.S. anywhere at the 115 P. Drive address from 6:45 or 6:55 a.m. through 8:15 a.m., and the attendance records reveal that A.S. was in school those days and was not tardy.

His investigation continued with his May 4, 2015, report (R-14), where he observed the 115 P. Drive address, as well as the address of 908 A. Drive in North Brunswick, N.J., which was believed to be where J.S. and A.S. actually lived. On April 30, May 1 and May 4, observations of the 115 P. Drive address starting between 6:15 and 6:50 a.m. through 7:45 to 8:15 a.m. revealed no sign of A.S., and he was present at school on all of those days. On May 4 through May 8, 2015, Mr. Naumik observed A.S. and his mother leaving the A. Drive address in North Brunswick each morning, entering J.S.'s vehicle, and then following the same route to A.S.'s school. A.S. was observed either by the witness or the school security system being dropped off each morning by J.S., and on each of those days he was present in school. On all of the mornings in question, A.S. and J.S. left the complex at 7:40 or 7:45 a.m. in a vehicle identified as belonging to J.S., a red GMC Hummer, and drove to school.

[4] The middle school day started at 8:10 a.m.

Continuing with his investigation, Mr. Naumik took pictures of the red Hummer parked at the North Brunswick address, and those pictures are identified by date on the back of each picture as having been taken on May 6, May 7 or May 8, 2015. (R-15.)

Continuing with his investigation into January 2016,[5] Mr. Naumik performed residency checks at both the 115 P. Drive location as well as the A. Drive, North Brunswick, location. On the morning of January 13 the vehicle was once again not at the 115 P. Drive address in Monroe Township, but rather was located at the North Brunswick address, and J.S. was observed leaving the premises with A.S. and driving him to school.

Mr. Naumik identified his subsequent report covering his investigation from January 27, 2016, through February 4, 2016. Each day he went to the 115 P. Drive address and the car belonging to J.S. was not there. Each day he then went to the North Brunswick address, and the car belonging to J.S. was at that location, and on each of those mornings J.S. and A.S. were observed leaving the complex in that vehicle and driving to school in Monroe Township via the same route. On each of those days A.S. was present in school. Based upon all his observations covering a period of several months, Mr. Naumik concluded that there was not a single indication going back to the commencement of the investigation in 2014 that A.S. has ever lived at the 115 P. Drive address in Monroe Township.

Peter Piro

Mr. Piro is employed by the Monroe Township Board of Education as director of security and oversees residency and truancy investigations. He is a former Monroe Township police officer and served sixteen years in the detective bureau and three years as a supervisor. Mr. Piro testified that he conducted some observations in this investigation. From May 3, 2015, through May 8, 2015, he observed the premises at 115 P. Drive and noted that the vehicle belonging to J.S. was not there on any of those dates starting at 6:40 or 6:45 in the morning, but had been located by Mr. Naumik parked at 908 A. Drive, North Brunswick on those occasions. He also noted that pursuant to his instructions, a district security officer, Mr. Durski, observed A.S. being dropped off each day prior to school in a red Hummer driven by his mother, J.S. Mr. Piro performed a motor-vehicle check to confirm that this was her vehicle, and learned that it was. (R-21.) A subsequent report he prepared (R-22) noted that on January 21, 2016, as well as January 27, January 30, February 2 and February 8, 2016, at different times, he never once found the vehicle belonging to J.S. at the 115 P. Drive address; in fact, he has never seen her car in that parking lot, and there is no evidence that either J.S. or A.S. lives in Monroe Township.

[5] A.S. was now enrolled in Monroe Township High School, where the school day begins at 7:27 a.m.

J.S.

J.S. testified that she had sold her house in Sayreville on February 6, 2014, and moved in with her daughter in North Brunswick. She testified that her son A.S. finished the school year in Sayreville, and then attended school in North Brunswick for a few months after she moved there, beginning in September 2014. She testified that she signed a lease on October 1, 2014, for an apartment in an adult community in Monroe, and moved A.S. to school in Monroe in November 2014. She testified that she or her daughter would pick him up, because "there is no bus." J.S. agreed that the lease for the adult community was a one-year lease which expired on September 30, 2015, and that she has not entered into a new lease there. She stated that she moved out of that address when the lease ended because her daughter S.S., who is twenty-five years old, lost her job in October 2015 and was diagnosed with cancer around that time, so she moved in with her daughter in North Brunswick in October 2015 to help her. She testified that she has been living at 908 A. Drive, North Brunswick, N.J., ever since, with her daughter and her older son, K.S., who is thirty-one years old, and with A.S., who is fifteen. She agreed she has been driving A.S. to Monroe Township schools, and feels she established residency when she signed the lease for the adult community in October 2014.

J.S. agreed that she lived at the North Brunswick address before enrolling A.S. in Monroe schools and that she moved back there after her daughter was diagnosed. She stated that she did live in the 115 P. Drive apartment for one year between October 1, 2014, and September 30, 2015, and that A.S. lived there with her. She indicated that all her things are in storage and that is why the investigators saw an empty house. She also testified that she is planning to move back to Monroe and will be establishing residency.

J.S. also testified that A.S. has special needs and that Monroe Township offers opportunities not available elsewhere. She stated that he skipped a grade, and that it would be emotionally and mentally disturbing to A.S. if he had to change schools.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the credible testimonial and documentary evidence, I FIND the following as FACTS in this matter:

1. The Board had good cause to question the residency of A.S. after receiving notification that the child was picked up between thirty and forty-five minutes late each day after school by his mother or sister, and did not take a school bus.

2. J.S. was provided notice of the Board challenge to residency on April 16, 2015.

3. Surveillance conducted over many months of 115 P. Drive in Monroe Township revealed that neither J.S. or A.S. resided there. The surveillance and the testimony demonstrated that the child was transported by his mother each day from 908 A. Drive, North Brunswick, N.J., to school in Monroe Township.

4. At all times at issue herein, A.S. resided with his mother in North Brunswick, N.J.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

The issue in this appeal is whether A.S. had been a domiciled student in the Monroe Township school district during the period of attending school in Monroe.

Public schools are required to provide a free education to individuals between the ages of five and twenty years in certain circumstances, including individuals who are domiciled within the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). Domicile has been defined as the place where a person has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238, 250 (1955). The domicile of an unemancipated child is the domicile of the parent, custodian or guardian. P.B.K. ex rel. minor child E.Y. v. Bd. of Educ. of Tenafly, 343 N.J. Super. 419, 427 (App. Div. 2001). Thus, a child would routinely attend school in the district where his or her parents live.

From the evidence submitted, it is clear that A.S. had been domiciled in North Brunswick during the time he attended school in Monroe. J.S. failed to demonstrate, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that A.S. is entitled to a free public education in Monroe Township. To the contrary, the Board has proven that he is not, as he is not domiciled there. N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)(1) provides:

> A student is domiciled in the school district when he or she is the child of a parent or guardian whose domicile is located within the school district.

Based upon the facts adduced, I CONCLUDE that A.S. was domiciled in North Brunswick during the days he attended school in Monroe. He was observed leaving the North Brunswick address early in the morning, over the course of several days during an investigation that spanned many months, and driven to Monroe to attend school. Accordingly, A.S. was not entitled to attend school in Monroe and receive a free public education there pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a).

A school board is entitled to recover tuition from a parent or guardian of a child found ineligible to attend a school in its district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2). A.S. was not entitled to a free public education in Monroe based upon the above. The per-diem rate for school year 2014–2015 was $68.91, and the per-diem rate for school year 2015–2016 is $80.69. Accordingly, respondent is entitled to reimbursement from J.S. for the cost of providing a public education to A.S. in the sum of $9,991.95 for the period November 3, 2014, until June 23, 2015, and in the sum of $8,714.52 for the current school year until February 29, 2016, plus a per-diem rate of $80.69 for each day beyond February 29, 2016, that A.S. remains in the district high school, and I so CONCLUDE.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that the petition of petitioner, J.S., be and is hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE. It is further ORDERED that J.S. reimburse respondent the total sum of $18,706.47 for tuition costs associated with the attendance of A.S. in Monroe from November 3, 2014, through February 29, 2016, and an additional $80.69 for each day thereafter that A.S. remains in the district high school.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Introduction

On September 11, 2015, the New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, (the "DOE") received the filing of the tenure charge against Ardeena Long (the "Respondent" or the "Teacher") filed by the State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson (the "District" or the "Petitioner"). The Respondent's answer was received by the DOE on October 16, 2015. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 as amended by P.L. 2012, c. 26, the undersigned Arbitrator was appointed to serve, by the DOE, on October 23, 2015.

The arbitration hearing was initially opened on November 9, 2015. The parties indicated that certain global issues with respect to the District's implementation of the evaluation system were to be heard by Arbitrator Robert C. Gifford, consolidating three matters concerning tenure charges of inefficiency. Arbitrator Gifford's Interim Decision regarding the consolidated claims of three teachers (including the Respondent) as to the implementation of the evaluation system was issued on January 14, 2016. Although Arbitrator Gifford raised a

> The services of all teaching staff members employed prior to the effective date of P.L. 2012, c. 26, in the position of teacher…serving in any school district or under any board of education…shall be under tenure in good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause...

In the dispute at hand, the Board seeks the dismissal of the Teacher charging, "inefficiency." The Petitioner bears the burden of proving that there is a proper basis for such a result.

Positions of the Parties

Position of the District

The Petitioner contends that it has met its burden of proving that the Teacher was inefficient under the standards set forth in the statute, TEACHNJ. It points out that the Respondent received only a "partially effective" rating in two consecutive annual evaluations, establishing the proper basis for dismissal.

The District claims that the Teacher was extensively trained as to the evaluation rubric, including substantive and systematic elements of the process. It insists that the Respondent was provided an adequate opportunity to be involved in the CAP [Corrective Action Plan] process. The Petitioner maintains that the support provided to the Teacher, including post-observation conferences, did not result in sufficient consistent improvement in performance to meet the standards necessary for an "effective" evaluation.

The Petitioner stresses that the TEACHNJ statute provides for only four defenses to a charge of inefficiency. The four bases cited are: "(1) the evaluation failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process; (2) mistake of fact in the evaluation; (3) improper motive, including considerations of political affiliation, nepotism, union activity, discrimination as prohibited by law, or other conduct prohibited by law; and (4) the district's actions were arbitrary and capricious. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17(a)."

The District asserts that the Teacher presented evidence only relating (1) adherence to the evaluation process and (4) arbitrary and capricious actions. It emphasizes that the statute requires that the facts presented relating to these defenses must have "materially affected" the outcome of the evaluation, citing N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17(b).

The District characterizes the Respondent's case as "excuses, pleas of ignorance and self-serving answers." It argues that these statements do not establish any material effect upon the evaluations. It maintains that any argument by the Teacher relating to the scoring system should have been presented at the interim proceeding held by Arbitrator Gifford, which, in turn, did not make a global finding that the District's process was violative of the statute.

The Petitioner suggests that the Teacher's defenses should be limited to areas addressed in the answers to interrogatories, dated December 4, 2015. It maintains that the Teacher's response to inquiry, in interrogatories, as to facts relied upon for asserting defenses based upon the alleged failure to comply with the requirements of the law and arbitrary and capricious action:

> Answer 10. Many of the post-evaluation conferences for Respondent were out of time. Respondent was denied the opportunity to timely participate in the evaluation CAP process. The District failed to disclose to Respondent information as to the grading rubric used to calculate the annual summative rating. Information as to the scoring rubric was not disclosed to Respondent. These issues are subject to a continuing discovery and - as counsel is aware - are subject of a pending arbitral determination in companion inefficiency proceedings.

As a matter of law, the District seeks to limit the evidence considered in support of the Respondent's defenses to facts set forth in the answer to interrogatories.

The Petitioner asserts that the tenure charge of inefficiency should be upheld. It insists that the record supports the factual underpinning of the "partially effective" annual summative evaluation ratings for 2013-14 and 2014-15. The District maintains that it has properly adhered to the requirements of the evaluation process. It argues that the evidence does not establish any failure to adhere to the requirements of the law. The Petitioner further insists that there is no evidence that any claimed failure on the part of the District had a material affect on the outcome of the evaluation.

The Petitioner stresses that the Teacher was provided ample opportunity to be engaged in the process at post-observation conferences and in the ongoing discussion of the CAP, designed to assist in addressing problem areas of performance. It relies upon the testimony of administrators who provided direction to the Teacher and performed the observations and evaluations.

The District claims that there is no evidence establishing arbitrary and capricious action with respect to the Respondent's summative evaluations. It maintains that, "the evidence presented shows that the charge of inefficiency against the Respondent was based on a reasonable, rational, and consistent assessment of her teaching performance."

The Petitioner concludes that, "the evidence in the record supports none of the defenses available to the Respondent under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2(a); and does support a finding that Respondent was 'inefficient' on the basis of her two consecutive annual summative evaluation ratings of 'partially effective.'" The District believes that it has met its burden of proving the statutory tenure charge. It seeks to have the charge upheld and that the Respondent be dismissed from her position.

Position of the Teacher

The Respondent contends that the District did not sustain its burden to satisfy the statutory criteria required to support the charge of "inefficiency." The Teacher asserts that the Petitioner failed to adhere to the evaluation process.

The Respondent relies upon her own testimony that she did not collaborate in the development of the CAP [Corrective Action Plan]. The statutory requirement that the CAP be developed by the supervisor, "in collaboration with the teaching staff member" is emphasized, noting the definitional section of TEACHNJ. The Teacher insists that the CAP must be developed by two people, the teaching staff member and the supervisor. The Respondent advances the argument that this is a fatal flaw in the process as it was applied to the Teacher, requiring the dismissal of the tenure charge.

The Respondent maintains that the District failed to adhere to the evaluation process in 2013-14 with respect to an absence of "co-observers" during the three observations conducted that year. Further, citing the framework for the evaluation process, it is claimed that there was a failure to conduct the requisite number (six) of walkthrough observations in 2013-14, with evidence of only three such walkthroughs. Similarly, these failures are asserted for the 2014-15 school year, as well.

The Respondent suggests that the District failed to provide a timely meeting (within 15 days) to discuss the CAP following the receipt of the 2013-14 summative evaluation ratings. The meeting did not occur, according to the Teacher, until September. The Respondent also asserts that the District failed to fulfill responsibilities that it set out for itself in the CAP.

The Teacher additionally suggests that the Petitioner "consistently failed to conduct timely post-observation conferences." The requirement cited calls for post-observation conferences within 15 working days, in the imperative "shall" form. The claim advanced is that observations conducted on: January 30, 2014; September 30, 2014; December 1, 2014; February 10, 2015; and April 23, 2015; did not have timely conferences. The Respondent further notes that the collective negotiations agreement between the District and the Paterson Education Association contains a provision requiring those conferences to be held within 5 work days of the observation. The Respondent argues that the Petitioner should be held to this higher standard.

The Teacher suggests that the Petitioner failed to prove that the evaluation rubric for 2013-14, or for 2014-15, was approved by the State Commissioner of Education. The Respondent contends that this is a fatal flaw in the application of the evaluation process rating the Teacher as "partially efficient." The Respondent also assails the claimed failure of the Petitioner to establish "School Improvement Panels" required by TEACHNJ. Additionally, the evaluation procedure is attacked for lacking a "transparent and reliable" process. Specific elements of the scoring and rating system, including computer-driven calculations, are assailed by the Teacher. The Respondent argues that the, "partially effective rating given...is entitled to no weight."

The Respondent claims that the evaluation system used by the District is arbitrary and capricious. The District's explanation as to the differences between the ratings Proficient I and Proficient II or Progressing I and Progressing II is characterized as being without differentiation. The Teacher complains that the system is unclear and undefined. Similarly the method of scoring subcategories is criticized as unreliable.

The Teacher asserts that the Petitioner failed to demonstrate that the Teacher was properly trained in the evaluation rubric, as required by rule. The contention is that the record is devoid of evidence of appropriate training. The Respondent complains of a lack of support for the Teacher by the District.

The Respondent maintains that the violations noted above as to the evaluation process, as applied to the Teacher, materially affected the outcome of the evaluation results. Reliance is heavily placed upon the Respondent's own testimony, "that had she been able to contribute to the design of the CAP, she would have ensured that the plan correlated to her class that included classified, learning disabled students." Further, the late post-observation conferences are blamed for "wasting time" during which adjustments could have been accomplished.

The Respondent insists that the penalty of dismissal from employment is not merited. The fact that this is not a misconduct case is stressed. Respondent insists that the termination of the Teacher to is too severe a penalty for the circumstances set forth in this record.

In conclusion, the Respondent contends that the District engaged in multiple violations of TEACHNJ with respect to the evaluation process leading to the two consecutive years of a "partially effective" summative evaluation rating. The score is characterized as "an inaccurate depiction of her performance." The Respondent assails the numerous flaws in the process and asserts that they "resulted in a material degradation of the evaluation process to which Ardeena Long was entitled." The Respondent seeks that the tenure charge be dismissed and that the Teacher be returned to work.

Discussion and Analysis

The Teacher, Ardeena Long, was employed by the District for 35 years. From 2012 through the filing of these tenure charges (following the 2014-15 school year) she was assigned as an English teacher at the District's YES Academy. The charge of inefficiency is based upon a rating of "partially effective" in the annual summative evaluations at the end of two consecutive school years, 2013-14 and 2014-15.

The record establishes that the Teacher received a summative evaluation rating of "partially effective" for the 2013-14 school year [Exhibit D-7]. This rating was based on the weighted average of scores in seven standards (each with subsections) and a measure of the Student Growth Objectives [SGO]. The scores were reflective of three formal observations conducted during the 2013-14 school year, conducted on: October 29, 2013 [Exhibit D-4]; January 30, 2014 [Exhibit D-5]; and March 24, 2014 [Exhibit D-6].

The seven broad standards, referred to above, used by the District to evaluate the Teacher were:

1. Preparation for instruction
2. Use of data to inform instruction
3. Delivers quality instruction
4. Interventions to meet diverse needs
5. Classroom environment
6. Leadership
7. Professional responsibilities

Each standard might be subject to scoring in each formal observation, noting that some standards may not be addressed in every observation. Those addressed and scored are averaged for the year and weighted for a teacher practice score numerical factor. That weighted average is then placed on a scale to determine whether the teacher's performance has been: Ineffective, Partially Effective, Effective or Highly Effective. In 2013-14, the teacher practice score accounted for 85% of the overall summative rating; the remaining 15% was attributed to the SGO. With respect to the Teacher, the practice rating was partially effective and the SGO was highly effective; the overall rating was "partially effective."

The District presented Nicole Payne, the Principal of the YES Academy during 2013-14 and part of 2014-15, as a witness with respect to the evaluation of the Teacher. Ms. Payne was a particularly credible witness and she provided significant detail with respect to the process and its application to the Respondent.

Ms. Payne personally conducted the 2013-14 observations on: October 29, 2013 [Exhibit D-4]; January 30, 2014 [Exhibit D-5]; and March 24, 2014 [Exhibit D-6]. She testified that she was accompanied by a co-observer, Wanda Kopic, on the March 24, 2014 occasion. Ms. Payne provided clear and convincing evidence that the three observation ratings for 2013-14 are an accurate reflection of the Teacher's performance in the classroom. Ms. Payne testified that the post-observation conferences for the 2013-14 observations occurred as follows:

October 29, 2013 - November 1, 2013
January 30, 2014 - March 11, 2014
March 24, 2014 - April 1, 2014

Further, she was equally convincing that the annual summative evaluation [Exhibit D-7] was an accurate reflection of the Teacher's performance for the year.

It is important to note that Ms. Payne explained that, following the issuance of the 2013-14 annual summative evaluation, she met with the Respondent on June 27, 2014 to discuss areas for improvement, for example, the use of data in teaching. Ms. Payne testified that she encouraged the Teacher to improve, noting that the Teacher's performance was not that far below an effective rating. Ms. Payne indicated, that at the June 27, 2014 meeting, the Teacher did not disagree with any remark or score. Further, Ms. Payne explained that the Respondent did not indicate any lack of understanding of the evaluation process and the need to improve.

Ms. Payne testified that it was she who developed the 2014-15 Corrective Action Plan (CAP) for the Respondent [Exhibit D-8]. The CAP was discussed in a meeting on September 5, 2014, the Teacher, Ms. Payne and Tanya Greene were present. Ms. Payne described the fact that she and Ms. Greene (Ms. Payne's successor as Principal) went over each item of the CAP with the Teacher, providing an opportunity for questions or suggestions. Ms. Payne indicated that the Respondent did not suggest any changes in the CAP. Ms. Payne further testified that she believed the Teacher understood the relationship between the CAP and the evaluation process and the need for improvement.

Ms. Payne testified that the teaching staff, including the Respondent, was given extensive training as to the evaluation process. A power point presentation given on June 6, 2013 [Exhibit D-B] is documentation of a key element in the training process. The Teacher was present for that training session. Exhibits D-2 and D-3 provide proof that the Respondent received the documentation provided by the District in each of the two years in question herein. These documents include the rubric and a handbook (reference manual) for the evaluation process. Numerous training sessions are documented in this record, throughout the relevant time period.

Ms. Payne testified that she co-observed the Respondent (with Ms. Greene) on September 30, 2014 and December 1, 2014. She credibly explained that she met with the Teacher for a post-observation conference within a few days of each observation, although she did not identify or document the specific date. Ms. Payne was certain that the post-observation conferences were held within a week of both the September 30, 2014 observation and the December 1, 2014 observation. The witness explained that the signature dates on the observation reports [Exhibits D-9 and D-11] were mechanical not reflective of the actual dates of the conferences.

Tanya Greene was also a particularly credible witness with respect to the Respondent's performance and the evaluation process. With respect to the September 30, 2014 observation rating, Ms. Greene established that the observation was scored collaboratively with Ms. Payne. She also provided convincing testimony that the post-observation conference occurred in a timely manner, not reflected by the electronic dating on the document.

Ms. Greene notes that, on November 24, 2014, there was a pre-observation conference with the Respondent before the December 1, 2014 observation. She explained that the standards for rating the Teacher's performance were discussed at this pre-observation session. The Respondent's participation is documented by Exhibit D-34.

Ms. Greene noted that the December 1, 2014 observation was also done jointly, with Ms. Payne in attendance. She testified that the post-observation conference occurred shortly after the observation date.

Ms. Greene testified that the ratings of performance for the September 30, 2014 [Exhibit D-9] and December 1, 2014 [Exhibit D-11] observations are accurate. She further pointed out that certain aspects of each of these ratings were revised upward as a result of the discussions at the post-observation conferences with the Respondent. Ms. Greene testified that, on January 4, 2015, there was a mid-year CAP review meeting with the Respondent [documented in Exhibit D-31].

Danyel Cicarelli, a Supervisor of English and Language Arts, testified as to her involvement in the observation and evaluation process for the Teacher. Ms. Cicarelli was another credible witness presented by the District. She explained that she provided support for the Respondent during the 2014-15 school year in concert with Ms. Greene. She described certain efforts to gain better practices on the part of the Respondent including sending the Teacher to observe other classroom sessions as an example of best practices. Ms. Cicarelli generally observed that the Respondent seemed to understand the concept of best practices but that minimal change was observed in the Teacher's own classroom practices. A problematic example cited by Ms. Cicarelli was that the Respondent consistently answered her own questions in class rather than getting the students to work through the questions themselves.

Ms. Cicarelli performed the February 10, 2015 observation and the ratings are documented in Exhibit D-12. She testified that the ratings accurately reflect the Teacher's performance. Ms. Cicarelli explained that the Teacher exhibited some improvement but only of a limited nature. For example, Ms. Cicarelli observed that the lesson was better planned but not well-executed. Ms. Cicarelli stated that the observation report [Exhibit D-12] was posted and available to the Teacher on February 13, 2015; the post-observation conference was held jointly by Ms. Cicarelli and Ms. Greene on February 24, 2015. Once again the ratings were adjusted in response to the Teacher's input at the post-observation conference.

The April 23, 2015 observation of the Teacher was conducted by both Ms. Greene and Ms. Cicarelli. The two observers compared notes and reached a consensus as to the ratings of that performance, reflected in the ratings of Exhibit D-13. There was a pre-observation conference held on April 21, 2015 [documented by Exhibit D-35]. Ms. Greene credibly testified that the ratings of the April 23, 2015 observation are an accurate reflection of the Teacher's performance on that date.

The record establishes that the Teacher received a summative evaluation rating of "partially effective" for the 2014-15 school year [Exhibit D-14]. This rating was based on the weighted average of scores in seven standards (each with subsections) and a measure of the Student Growth Objectives [SGO]. The scores were reflective of four formal observations conducted during the 2014-15 school year, conducted on: September 30, 2014 [Exhibit D-9]; December 1, 2014 [Exhibit D-11]; February 10, 2015 [Exhibit D-12] and April 23, 2015 [Exhibit D-13].

Ms. Greene prepared the 2014-15 annual summative evaluation of the Respondent [Exhibit D-14]. This process involved the inputting of the ratings of four observations conducted in 2014-15. Calculations as to the weighted averages of the performance values and the overall rating of practice and SGO [now 80% practice and 20% SGO] were entered into a computer program and the report was generated based on a pre-determined formula. Once again, the Teacher received an evaluation below effective; she was rated "partially effective." This was the second consecutive annual summative rating at "partially effective" leading to the tenure charge of inefficiency.

TEACHNJ clearly and comprehensively delineates the considerations for the arbitrator deciding a dispute involving the charge of "inefficiency." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2 Considerations for arbitrator in rendering decision provides:

> 23.a. In the event that the matter before the arbitrator pursuant to section 22 of this act is employee inefficiency pursuant to section 25 of this act, in rendering a decision the arbitrator shall only consider whether or not:
>
> (1) the employee's evaluation failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process, including but not limited to providing a corrective action plan;
>
> (2) there is a mistake of fact in the evaluation;
>
> (3) the charges would not have been brought but for considerations of political affiliation, nepotism, union activity, discrimination as prohibited by State or federal law, or other conduct prohibited by State or federal law; or
>
> (4) the district's actions were arbitrary and capricious.
>
> b. In the event that the employee is able to demonstrate that any of the provisions of paragraphs (1) through (4) of subsection a. of this section are applicable, the arbitrator shall then determine if that fact materially affected the outcome of the evaluation. If the arbitrator determines that it did not materially affect the outcome of the evaluation, the arbitrator shall render a decision in favor of the board and the employee shall be dismissed.

Section 25 referenced above is set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A6-17.3 and it provides that a teacher rated "partially effective" in two consecutive annual summative evaluations is subject to a tenure charge of "inefficiency."

The issues presented in this arbitration relate entirely to subsections (1) and (4) above, whether the District failed to substantially adhere to the evaluation process and whether the District's actions were arbitrary and capricious. The Arbitrator determines that there is no issue presented as to a mistake of fact as referenced in subsection (2) or as to an improper consideration as referenced in subsection (3).

The Arbitrator finds that the District met its burden of proving that it has adhered substantially to the evaluation process. The District observed the Teacher on three occasions in 2013-14, applying a structured system for rating teacher performance that appears to have been applied to the Respondent in a reasonably consistent manner. There were multiple observers involved in the observation process and the Teacher was properly given post-observation conferences.

The 2013-14 annual summative evaluation [Exhibit D-7] appears to reflect the ratings of the three observation reports [Exhibits D-4, D-5, D-6]. Principal Payne met with the Respondent following the issuance of the 2013-14 annual summative evaluation to discuss its implications. Ms. Payne provided convincing evidence that she encouraged the Respondent, noting that the performance rating was not too far off the mark. The District provided ample evidence that the Teacher was given the opportunity for support to improve her position.

Although the CAP was initially drafted by Ms. Payne, there is clear evidence that the Respondent was given opportunity for collaborative input into the CAP, specifically at a meeting held September 5, 2014. The District also proved that it provided numerous training programs about the evaluation system and that it provided a continuing effort to assist teaching staff members to understand the process. This training was available to the Respondent and in many cases there is evidence that the Teacher attended such sessions.

The Teacher was observed on four occasions in 2014-15. Three of the four sessions were conducted by multiple observers. The District produced convincing testimony that the ratings of the four observations accurately reflected the observers' assessment of the Respondent's performance. Each observation was followed by a proper post-observation conference. The record strongly supports the District's contention that it provided support and direction to the Respondent in order to assist her in improving performance.

It is significant to focus on the testimony of Ms. Greene to gain and understanding of the problems observed in the Teacher's performance. Ms. Greene testified that the Teacher used suggestions when given direction but did not follow up with her own initiative. The Respondent exhibited periods of improvement but her performance lacked the necessary consistency to achieve "effective" ratings.

The Arbitrator finds that the District has also proved that the evaluation process, as applied to the Respondent, was not arbitrary and capricious. It has presented clear and convincing evidence [although the standard necessary is only "by a preponderance of the evidence"] that the administrative and supervisory staff involved in evaluating the Respondent have followed a systematic approach to rating her performance, applying substantive standards for assessing her performance.

Further, the record establishes that the District has provided numerous training opportunities to the Respondent in order to inform her about the nature of the evaluation process. These have included elements designed to provide an understanding of the rating methodology and the scoring system.

It is important to reiterate that there was an interim arbitration proceeding held before Arbitrator Gifford in a consolidation of cases, including this one. That arbitration was designed to deal with global claims as to the evaluation process, independent of the specific facts relating to each Respondent. The parties stipulated to have those global claims handled in a single consolidated decision that was issued on January 14, 2016. There was no finding in that proceeding, that there were global elements of the evaluation process in violation of TEACHNJ.

At this stage, the Arbitrator turns to a discussion of specific points raised by the Respondent. Each has been carefully considered as part of the process to reach the determinations herein.

The Arbitrator rejects the concept that there was a fatal flaw in the corrective action plan as a result of a claimed absence of collaboration. There was specific credible testimony from two witnesses (Ms. Payne and Ms. Greene) that the Teacher was given an opportunity for input into the CAP at a meeting held on September 5, 2014. This meeting satisfied the collaborative requirement.

The Arbitrator rejects the Teacher's claim that there was a failure to use co-observers in the process. There is clear and credible evidence that there were co-observers in many of the formative observations and that the ratings were often reached by consensus of the co-observers.

The Respondent insists that there is not documentation that the requisite number of walkthroughs performed by supervisors during the process. The Arbitrator, noting that there were walkthroughs (albeit fewer documented than the handbooks delineate), does not agree that this constitutes a substantial deviation from the evaluation process. Further, there in nothing to even suggest that, noting adherence in all other areas, this minor shortfall had a material affect on the outcome of the evaluations.

The Respondent assails the timeliness of the post-observation conferences as substantial failure of adherence to the evaluation process. The Arbitrator finds that the evidence does not support that contention. The rules call for a post-observation conference within 15 work days of the observation. There District presented credible evidence that nearly every observation was followed with a timely post-observation conference. The notable exception might have been the March 11, 2014 post-observation conference for the January 30, 2014 observation. There is nothing about this single delay to suggest that it was a substantial deviation from the process or that it had any material affect on the Teacher's evaluations. The Teacher's testimony that she would have performed better with more timely post-observation conferences was simply not compelling or credible.

The Respondent suggests that the collective negotiations agreement between the District and the Paterson Education Association establishes a five work day time frame is not given consideration in this statutory proceeding. The Arbitrator's jurisdiction in this dispute is derived from the TEACHNJ statute and the determinations herein are made within that structure.

The contentions of the Respondent that the Petitioner failed to prove that the rubric was approved by the Commissioner of Education and that there is a process failure relating to the establishment of School Improvement Panels raise global issues that should have been presented to the arbitrator in the interim global proceeding. Therefore, those claims are rejected in the case at hand.

The Teacher's contentions about the scoring system are not convincing. The process appears to have objective intent. There is nothing to suggest that its application to the Teacher was either skewed or inaccurate. There is no evidence of any indication that the scoring system is arbitrary and capricious.

The Teacher assails the rating system, maintaining that there was no adequate explanation as to the differences between Progressing I and Progressing II or between Proficient I and Proficient II. These differences were reasonably explained by the District's witnesses as a matter of degree and consistency.

The Respondent attacks the imposition of the penalty of dismissal as unreasonable. The Arbitrator finds that, under TEACHNJ, the statutory provisions provide for the dismissal of a teacher with two consecutive "partially effective" annual summative evaluations [see N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3]. This record establishes that the Respondent received two such evaluations. The penalty contention must be rejected.

In conclusion, the District has met its burden of proving that the Respondent has received "partially effective" annual summative evaluations in 2013-14 and 2014-15. It has provided convincing evidence that the evaluations were properly conducted under the statute [TEACHNJ]. The charge of "Inefficiency" shall be sustained and the dismissal of the Respondent shall be upheld.

A W A R D

For the reasons set forth in this Decision and Award, finding that the District has met the burden of proving that the Respondent has received "partially effective" annual summative evaluations in 2013-14 and 2014-15, providing convincing evidence that the evaluations were properly conducted under the statute [TEACHNJ], IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the charge of "Inefficiency" is sustained and the dismissal of the Respondent is upheld.

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

Lorenzo Richardson (hereinafter "petitioner") filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking various forms of relief in regard to the renewal or nonrenewal of the Superintendent's contract which is due to expire on June 30, 2016. In conjunction with the petition, petitioner filed a motion for emergent relief.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on February 29, 2016, for determination as a contested case. City of Jersey City Board of Education (hereinafter "Board") President Vidya Gangadin (hereinafter "respondent") filed papers in opposition to the motion for emergent relief, and Ramon Rivera joined therein. An oral argument in regard to petitioner's motion for emergent relief was conducted on March 8, 2016, at the Office of Administrative Law in Newark, New Jersey.

Petitioner filed his motion for emergent relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(a). As set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), the factors to consider in regard to an application for emergent relief are as follows:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
2. The legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled;
3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

In his verified petition, petitioner made various factual assertions supported by exhibits. Respondent submitted a statement of facts supported by her certification with attached exhibits. The parties differ as to their conclusions and certain assertions as to motivations, but the statements of fact reflect essentially the same course of events. Respondent's statement of facts is concise and accurate and is adopted herein. Net of emphasis, citations to certifications, conclusions and comments as to petitioner's motivations the facts as set forth in respondent's statement are as follows:
