Upon review, the Commissioner agreed with the ALJ's findings and conclusion, and adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter. In so doing, the Commissioner emphasized that overturning a Board's finding of HIB presents a high hurdle, requiring clear evidence that the Board acted indiscriminately or in bad faith in reaching its determination. Such was not the case here. The petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Final Decision

M.S. and N.S., on behalf of minor child, J.S.,

Petitioners,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Hainesport, Burlington County,

Respondent,

and

J.M. and D.M., on behalf of minor child, J.M.,

Intervenors.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

In this matter, petitioners challenge the Board's determination that their son committed an act of harassment, intimidation and bullying (HIB), pursuant to the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq. This case stems from a complaint made by the parents of J.M. in January 2016, alleging that J.S. slammed J.M's Chromebook, pulled on his earbuds, called him a "weakling," and commented on J.M.'s athletic ability, using the phrase "you suck." Following an HIB investigation, the school district's Anti-Bullying Specialist issued a report substantiating the HIB allegation. The report found that J.S.'s actions constituted HIB because the conduct was: motivated by J.M.'s distinguishing characteristics of being weak and bad at sports; substantially disrupted or interfered with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other pupils; and caused J.M. to feel embarrassed. As a result, J.S. was given a one-day, in-school suspension and his schedule was adjusted to limit interaction with J.M. Thereafter, the Board affirmed the HIB findings. Petitioners appealed the Board's determination. Following motions for summary decision, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the Board's HIB determination was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable.

As a preliminary matter, in cases where a challenge to the decision of a local board of education is brought before the Commissioner, such challenge is subject to a high standard of review based upon the deference which must be granted to a board's good faith determination of the issues presented by the facts of the case. It is well established that any "action of the local board which lies within the area of its discretionary powers may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives." Kopera v. W. Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). In order to prevail, the petitioners must establish that "the Board acted in bad faith, or in utter disregard of the circumstances before it." G.H. and E.H., on behalf of K.H. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of Franklin Lakes, Bergen County, EDU 13204-13, Initial Decision (February 24, 2014), adopted Commissioner Decision No. 157-14 (April 10, 2014). Furthermore, "[w]here there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration," such that the Commissioner will not substitute his opinion for that of the board, even if he would have come to a different conclusion. Bayshore Sewerage Co. Dep't of Envtl. Prot., 122 N.J. Super. 184 (1973), aff'd 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974). In the case at issue here, the ALJ noted: "[w]hile some finder of fact might conclude otherwise, where there is more than one reasonable way to understand a set of facts, it cannot be said that the choice of one reasonable interpretation over the other reasonable interpretation amounts to an unreasonable choice." (Initial Decision at 14)

Based on the foregoing, the Commissioner emphasizes that overturning a board of education's finding of HIB presents a high hurdle, requiring clear evidence that the board acted indiscriminately or in bad faith in reaching its determination. Here, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Board's determination was carefully considered, and that it was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable in finding that J.S.'s conduct constituted HIB. It was reasonable for the Board to conclude, on the evidence presented, that J.M. had the distinguishing characteristic of being weak, and J.S.'s comment that he was a "weakling" was motivated by that characteristic. Likewise, it was not unreasonable for the Board to find that J.M. was embarrassed by the comment.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter – for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision – and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

Record Closed: February 11, 2019 Decided: March 28, 2019

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ (Ret., on recall):

This contested case arises from a petition of appeal filed with the Commissioner of Education on May 24, 2016, by M.S. and N.S., the parents of J.S., a minor. The petitioners seek to overturn a determination made by the Hainesport Township Board of Education that their minor child had engaged in conduct against a fellow student, J.M., that violated the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights, N.J.S.A. 18A:13-2 et seq. (Act), which prohibits harassment, intimidation and bullying (HIB) arising from certain defined motivations. The Commissioner transferred the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). Counsel for the Board of Education filed a motion to dismiss the petition for failure to name an indispensable party. On August 15, 2018, the day after this judge assumed responsibility for the case originally assigned to a different judge, this judge signed an Order granting intervention to intervening parents, J.M. and D.M., on behalf of their minor child J.M., and denying the Board's motion to dismiss. A Confidentiality Order wsas issued on October 23, 2018, with respect to the disclosure of student records and student information. Counsel for the Board then filed a motion for summary decision, as authorized by N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. The petitioner and intervenor have responded to the motion, each also seeking summary decision.

The essence of the petitioners' appeal is that the conduct that the Board found to violate the law was actually part of a longstanding and ongoing unresolved conflict between students J.S. and J.M. and did not constitute an instance of bullying falling within the statutory definition of HIB. It was not, as the statute requires, conduct motivated by a "distinguishing characteristic," actual or perceived. As such, no violation of the Act occurred and the Board's decision must be overturned, as it was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. In addition, as the facts underlying the Board's decision are not in dispute, summary decision is an appropriate means of resolving the contested case.

In January 2016, J.S., a seventh-grader, received a Disciplinary Referral based upon a teacher's statement that he had made "comments to another student calling him 'weak' and 'weakling' and made comments about the student's athletic ability." This Referral was the result of an email sent to the Assistant Principal, Christopher Butler, on January 5 by J.M.'s father. In that email, Mr. M. explained that his son had appeared bothered by something and he revealed to his parents that J.S. "was at it again." More specifically, that J.S. had slammed the lid on J.M.'s Chromebook in Ms. Kraft's class that very day, had kept pulling on J.M.'s earbuds, had prevented J.M. from opening the lid of the Chromebook, pushing it down so that J.M. had to "let it down slowly so it wouldn't break," had called J.M. a "weakling" and "got other kids to do the same thing."[1] Further, J.M. had been telling other children about a football launcher he received for Christmas and J.S. told J.M. to "shut up no one cares, that's how you got your black eye, you can't catch. You suck." In fact, J.M. had the remnants of a black eye that his father said he had gotten accidently when elbowed by his brother. He further reported that J.S. kept making hand gestures at J.M. "and points at him and says 'boooy.'" He imitates J.M. "by acting like he is a person with mental disabilities." Mr. M. noted that while J.M. is trying to show restraint, he is bothered most by J.S's turning "the other kids against him." "This bullying everyday is starting to take a toll. It NEEDS to stop!"

Mr. Butler responded to the email, noting that he needed to investigate the incident to determine if it met the definition of HIB. According to the Board's brief, Mr. M. was "extremely disappointed by this response." He advised Butler that "This has been going on everyday for the past 7 years with this kid! . . . Everyone of the criterial has been met . . . ."

After receipt of the email and issuance of the Referral, a "full Level II" investigation was conducted by the District's Investigating Anti-Bullying Specialist Rose Wenz. According to her "Final Determination & Conclusion of the Level (2) Investigation Report to Superintendent," signed by Wenz, Christopher Butler and Superintendent Joseph Campisi, all on January 20, 2016, J.M. complained that on January 5, 2016, J.S. called J.M. "weak" and "weakling" and made comments about J.M.'s athletic ability, stating, "you suck." J.M. told his father about this and requested that his father call the school to report it. The child stated that he felt "embarrassed" by the comment that he was a "weakling," a comment made in front of other members of his class. The report of the investigation, which accepted that the comments were made, concluded that the comments made by J.S. were about an actual or perceived characteristic or other identifiable characteristic of J.M.; that the comment(s) had "substantially disrupted or interfered with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other pupils; and that the act(s) had a physical or emotional harm to a pupil or the pupil's property, or had the effect of insulting the student and created a hostile educational environment for J.M." Thus, the conduct violated the Act. On January 20, 2016, Mr. Butler advised J.S.'s parents by mail of the substantiation of the charges and the consequence to be imposed. This involved a one-day in-school suspension for J.S. and an adjustment to his academic schedule "to limit interaction."

The petitioners' motion notes that Rose Wenz's Level I investigation concluded that she saw it as "possible" that the conduct being examined was "reasonably perceived as being motivated by either actual or perceived characteristic . . . or other characteristic." The moving papers offer portions of the recorded responses of students interviewed by Wenz and Butler. It notes that at the "first" appeal from the findings, the Board heard in closed session from N.S. of the history of the two students not getting along while at school and that they mutually participated in the ongoing conflict, citing to the Board an example from October 2015. According to the movants, J.M.'s parents were not in attendance at this first appeal. After the closed session, the Board, in open meeting, split 4-4 with 1 member absent, and could not affirm, reject or modify the HIB finding. The matter was then placed on the Board agenda for the next meeting, scheduled for February 25, 2016. Then, on January 30, 2016, Mr. M., parent of J.M., emailed to the then District Superintendent, Joseph Campisi, sharing with him a text from "Mrs. Richmond" from May 23, 2013 (fourth grade) in which she acknowledged that J.S. was causing problems with J.M. The parent, Mr. M., added, "As I have mentioned to you and to Mr. Butler, this harassment by [J.S.] has been going on since first grade."

At the February 25, 2016, Board meeting, J.M.'s parents spoke, as well as Ms. S. and Ms. Wenz. The petitioners assert that J.M.'s parents' statements appeared to have been "coached by someone with a working knowledge of HIB." After Mr. Butler explained the two boys' history of conflict and the various interventions implemented by the schools, N.S. noted that at times the boys have been able to get along. N.S. noted that while the incident had occurred, J.S. had reacted to J.M. searching the term "grandma shoes" on J.M.'s Chromebook to show examples of "grandma shoes" to J.S. The parents of J.M. argued that their child had been the target of ongoing HIB by J.S., with problems going back to first grade. Also, that J.S. had pushed so hard on the notebook lid so as to bend it, causing J.M. to fear that it would break. The Board then voted in open session to affirm the HIB finding by a vote of 5-4, with 2 members who had voted at the first appeal to reject the finding not present at the second appeal.

According to the petitioners, at the time of the alleged conduct, the two students were in seventh grade in the Hainesport Middle School. They had been first graders together at the Hainesport Elementary School, and it was there that they first engaged in a voluntary dispute mediation. Thus, as the petitioners argue, their disruptive interaction began quite early in their educational career. As a result of the mediation, they agreed that they would (1) stop making fun of each other and their clothing; (2) if they accidentally did something to each other, they would say they were sorry, (3) they would talk to each other if either had a problem or a question, and (4) they would agree to disagree, acknowledging that it was "O.K. to like different things." According to a Certification filed on January 24, 2019, as part of their motion for summary decision, M.S. and N.S., on behalf of J.S., contend that J.M. was, at the time of this alleged incident, of a "much larger physical stature and build than J.S." and "J.S. did not perceive, nor was he motivated to make any comments, based on J.M. having the distinguishing characteristics or being weak or bad at sports." They claim that due to the findings of the HIB investigation, J.S. had his student schedule adjusted and was required to meet with a school counselor. His homeroom teacher was changed, and his remaining course schedule was changed. He was also moved away from his peer group for the duration of the school year. After the petitioners requested a hearing before the school board to appeal the HIB determination, J.M. continued to taunt J.S. by staring at him and smirking, and "overall attempting to instigate additional conflicts."

Legal Principles

Before considering the evidence and the arguments, it may be helpful to note the legal context.

The Anti-Bullying Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 provides that

> "Harassment, intimidation and bullying" means any gesture, any written, verbal or physical act, or any electronic communication, whether it be a single incident or a series of incidents, that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic, that > takes place on school property, . . . that substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students . . . .

N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 identifies the following as necessary for a gesture, act or communication to be deemed prohibited.

> a) a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student or damaging the student's property, or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person or damage to his property;
> b) has the effect of insulting or demeaning any student or group of students; or
> c) creates a hostile educational environment for the student by interfering with a student's education or by severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student.

The Act made local school boards responsible for the supervision of HIB policy within the districts, but required that local policies conform, at a minimum, to all applicable statutes and case law.

It is important here to note that not all disputes between students, not all actions that may involve harassment, intimidation and bullying, necessarily come within the reach of the Act. The motivating element of the matter must be a "distinguishing characteristic, actual or perceived, such as identified in the Act." Some single incidents and long-standing disputes between students may not be based upon such prohibited reasons, and where that is the case, other legal or disciplinary remedies may lie, but the situation is not one that falls within the reach of the Act. L.B.T. ex rel K.T. v. Board of Education of the Freehold Regional School District, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 7894-12 (January 24, 3013), adopted, Comm'r (March 7, 2013). As the court noted in K.L. v. Evesham Township Board of Education, 423 N.J. Super. 337, 351 (App. Div. 2011), for purposes of HIB the offending conduct must be motivated by a distinguishing characteristic. The statutory definition of HIB "does not include all violent or aggressive conduct against a student," but it has consistently required that the perceived motivation be a distinguishing characteristic. 423 N.J. Super. at 350–51. The court also provided a summation of what does not constitute HIB:

> Thus, harmful or demeaning conduct motivated only by another reason, for example, a dispute about relationships or personal belongings, or aggressive > conduct without identifiable motivation, does not come within the statutory definition of bullying.

Before further considering the evidence before the Board and the arguments of the parties, it is also necessary to recall the legal standard under which such review takes place. As the petitioners recognize, the Commissioner of Education will not disturb the local school board decision unless it was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Kopera v. W. Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960).; Thomas v. Morris Twp. Bd. of Educ., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd, 46 N.J. 581(1966)). Thus, if the overall assessment of the evidence that the Board had before it will support a reasonable outcome that matches the Board's, the Commissioner will affirm the Board's decision, even if the Commissioner might have ruled differently on the same evidence. Of course, the Board's decision must also conform with the standards set in case law for understanding the Act. But to successfully overturn the Board's decision, the petitioners must demonstrate that "the Board acted in bad faith, or in utter disregard, of the circumstances before it." G.H. & E.H. ex rel. K.H. v. Bd. Of Educ. of the Bor. of Franklin Lakes, EDU 13204-13, Initial Decision (February 24, 2014) (adopted, Comm'r (April 10, 2014).

Finally, it must be noted that the only determination sustained by the Board was J.S.'s comment to J.M. that J.M. was "weak." "Specifically, the requirements of HIB were met. First, the conduct in question was reasonably perceived as being motivated by an actual or perceived characteristic—the characteristic of being weak." The summary of the Board hearing of February 25, 2016, notes that Mrs. S. admitted that her son called J.M. "a weakling." The summary does not specifically make a determination about any comment about J.M.'s athletic ability. It is the case that during the investigation students reported other comments made by J.S. about J.M., on other occasions. It is also the case that students, including J.S. and even J.M., reported comments made by J.M. about J.S. However, the only HIB complaint made and subsequently investigated by Wenz was about a specific incident involving a Chromebook on January 5, 2016, and the Board's determination was specifically about that event. Thus, while there is much comment in briefs and evidential material about other interactions between the boys, this information can only serve as some historical information, and cannot result in determinations about other possible HIB violations, or other disciplinary violations. To the extent that the petitioners note the ongoing conflict between the students, that does not seem to be a disputed matter. The case, however, is about what occurred on January 5, and whether that incident, and that incident alone, involved any HIB violation. If other potential HIB events occurred involving these two students, such matters were not the subject of a complaint before the Board, nor are they before the Commissioner or this forum.

Thus, as noted, the thrust of petitioners' argument is that rather than the January 2016 incident having been motivated by some actual or perceived characteristic of J.M., it was simply the latest of a long-standing history of mutual disagreement between the two students. Indeed, the undisputed fact is that J.M. and J.S. have had issues with each other at least as far back as 2010, when they were in first grade. Indeed, Mr. M., in his response to Mr. Butler's stating that he needed to investigate the January incident, referred to what he said had been going on for "7 years with this kid!" According to the petitioners, "[T]he evidence is overwhelming demonstrable that the incidents in the present matter were all part of a longer on-going and unresolved conflict . . . and not instances of bullying that fall within the statutory language of conduct motivated by a distinguishing characteristic. . . . " While admitting that their son made comments about J.M., including "weak" and "weakling," "they were motivated by a longer on-going history of conflict between the students." Indeed, they note that students told the investigators that J.M. called J.S. "small," which they see as "an insult comparable to 'weakling.'" "Thus, J.S. did not perceive J.M. to be a weakling."

Review of the investigative materials supplied by the movant indicates that Rose Wenz discussed the alleged incident with J.M. on January 7, 2016. In a written statement, he said that J.S. "slamed [sic] my chromebook shut and kept pulling out my earbuds. [I.V.] and [A.S.] were doing it as well." He did not tell his teacher, but did tell his father to email Mr. Butler. He was also presented with a form questionnaire, which asked at No. 3., "[W]hen and where did the incident happen? (Please be clear if occurred was once or more than once)." Although the phrasing of the question is certainly unclear, J.M. understood it and wrote "Mrs. Higgins room since first grade at hainesport." As for the description of what "[E]xactly . . . was said or what was specifically done by the person . . . you believed harassed, intimidated, or bullied you," he wrote, "Slaming [sic] of the chromebook. He also called me a 'weakling.'" J.M. reported that he felt "imbarassed [sic] in that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic, that takes place on school property, front of other kids." Asked if the incident harmed his property, he said that "[H]e was bending the chromebook lid." And, as to whether the incident caused him "fear, physical or emotional harm," he repeated that "I felt embarrassed." J.M. also added that "I've been called names by him (gay, girl, weakling, Jewish) He calls me mentally challenged and does a thing with his hands." As to this latter quote, he did not provide any time frame for when these comments were made, other than the reference to "weakling" as the term used in the Chromebook incident of January 5.

Wenz first spoke to J.S. on January 7. He said that he pulled J.M.'s earbuds because "his music was to [sic] loud." He added, "we were messing around about [unclear from written statement] and he took it to [sic] hard. And we never called Jew boy never made fun of him for black eye never heard hitler prototype we picked each other 4 project he called me lil bill and I called him [unclear from written statement]." Also, "Never said anything about his cabability [sic] of playing sports." Wenz also spoke to J.S., on January 12, 2016. He said that he did "not feel like I did anything wrong, and he was bulling me and I fought back and I am not going to let someone bully me." He gave the names of students that he said might be witnesses to the "situation." He admitted that he did call J.M. "weak." He did this "because he told me I have grandma shoes, and trips me so I said things back and stood up for my selfe [sic]." He added, "[J.M.] picks on me and calls me grandma shoes, and trips me." Also, "[J.M.] tells [J.S.] he has grandma shoes he trips him during PE just prior to winter break. J[M.] just said he has grandmom shoes for no reason. He looked up grandmom shoes on his chromebook during math."

These represent the description of the alleged HIB incident from the complainant and the response from the alleged perpetrator. In addition to these, the investigation produced information gathered from other students. Student I.V., identified by J.M. as also involved in the events that day, told Ms. Wenz on January 7 that J.S. "called J.M. Caihou and little bill."[2] He also calls him "Hitler's prototype." [J.S.] and J.H. tried to turn off and take [J.M.]'s earbuds/chromebook. [J.S.] and [J.M.] sometimes throw paper and erasers at each other." He advised that his whole class had witnessed the Chromebook and earbuds incident. The comment about "Caihou" and "little bill", as well as "weakling," were made on "Monday" in math class; the "Hitler" comment in lunch "prior to break." On January 14, he told Wenz that he had never heard J.M. make fun of J.S.'s shoes or say that they were "grandmom" shoes.

D.S. told Wenz on January 11, that he heard both boys make fun of each other; "it isn't just one side." J.S. calls J.M. "weak, not good at sports, and make [sic] fun of him for playing flag football. [J.M.] makes fun of him in general. It is starting to pick up." He reported that this activity occurred "mainly at lunch and gym and homeroom." As for the "Hitler" comment, he had only heard that such a comment was made from someone else. He also noted that "[J.M.] says to [J.S.] 'you are small,' while J.S. 'makes more direct insults.'" He reported that J.S. "talks about [J.M.] to everyone at lunch table," commenting on how J.M. "thinks he's the best at sports but I'm better than him," and making fun of J.M. for wearing Eagles clothing.

J.H. denied seeing anyone touch J.M.'s Chromebook and offered that "during class everyone was turning people's chromebooks on and off." He noted that J.M.'s music was too loud and he was told to lower it. A.D. said J. and D. would pick on J.M. for being bad at volleyball, but he was not specific about when this occurred. Similarly, Ja.M. told Wentz that D. and J.S. told J.M. he was not athletic, but again he did not specify when this occurred.

On January 12, 2016, S.F. told Wenz of an incident in which J.S. told J.M. that he should not play Minecraft, as no one does that anymore. "[J.M.] took it like J.S. was making fun of him." She added, "[J.S.] and [J.M.] have always had problems with fighting." This student does not refer to the type of comments ("weak" "weakling" or such) that are the basis of the finding of a violation of the Act. Her reference appears to be to comments made on January 11, 2016, in Mrs. Hartsough's class, while that teacher was absent. She does report that J.M. "got red in the face" and that J.M. "always says to everyone that J.[S.] makes fun of him."

A number of these and other students confirmed that the two had a longstanding problem. E.F. said, "I know there were problems that occurred in the past," adding, "[J.S.] used to make fun of [J.M.] but didn't mean it, [J.M.] would take it the wrong way and slowly got angrier." D.R. said that the boys "go back and forth ongoing about things said or done in gym."

He quoted words used, such as "very sick" or "shut up." J.S. would say "You suck" and "you aren't athletic." J.M. would say, "Shut up" or "you suck." J.S. made comments about J.M.'s football launcher and "why don't you just have a catch with your dad." In response to the question about when and where "the incident" happened, he wrote "gym, lunch-Hitler's prototype," but he did not specifically state who used these words and Mr. Butler's note indicates that D.R. was not "there" and that others told him about this. He never heard any comment about "grandmom shoes." He also noted "mentally handicapped"—never between [J.S.] and [J.M.]" and that sometimes J.M. mocked J.S. if J.S. messes up in gym— he will say "Yeah, I'm the one who is bad." D.S. also noted that J.S. and J.M. each "make fun of each other" and J.M. tells J.S. that J.S. is "small."

Summary Decision

A party may move for summary decision as a means to resolve a contested case without the necessity of a hearing involving witnesses and testimony. Such a motion is made based upon the contention that the material facts necessary to determine the legal issues in the case are not in genuine dispute, and that the application of the law to those undisputed facts must necessarily result in a decision in favor of the moving party. Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co., 142 N.J. 520 (1995). As the Brill Court stated, the "essence of the inquiry[,]" is, "whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a [fact-finder] or whether it is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Brill, at 536 (quoting Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 251-52 (1986). To defeat the motion, the opposing party must demonstrate, by affidavits, the existence of genuine disputes as to the material facts. All reasonable inferences arising from the undisputed evidence must be accorded to the opponent of the motion. If all parties agree on the material facts, and if there are cross-motions for summary decision, then the applicable law determines if any party is entitled to a favorable decision. Discussion

The Board argues that the investigation by Ms. Wenz determined that J.S. had called J.M. "weak" and a "weakling," as well as referring to J.M.'s athletic ability by saying "you suck." "These facts supported the District's finding of an actual or perceived characteristic." Added to this was the disruption caused by J.M. having to report the remarks to his father who then had to report them to the school district, thereby causing disruption in the orderly operation of the school or in J.M.'s rights and emotionally harming the "embarrassed" student. As for the story told by J.S. in his second interview about J.M. talking about "grandmom" shoes, the Board specifically noted that this claim was unsubstantiated and, while also deciding that it rejected Mrs. S.' argument that the conduct complained of resulted from a "conflict," found instead that the "problems between J.M. and J.S. arose from J.S's conduct." The Board found that the preponderance of the evidence supported that the comments were made by J.S., the motivation was based on the actual or perceived characteristic of J.M. as being "weak," and that they met the definition of HIB.[3] Based upon the evidence, the Board made a decision that was clearly neither arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The evidence was that the comments about weakness came in the context of J.S. pushing down on the lid of J.M.'s Chromebook, "while J.M. resisted the physical pressure." This comment about his lack of strength embarrassed J.M. The size difference between the larger J.M. and the smaller J.S. was irrelevant to the analysis of the motivating factor for J.S.'s comments. And the comment was not made in a "conflict" situation, as the claim about the "grandmom" shoes was not substantiated and even if it were made, the comments about "weakness" could not be connected to the use of that phrase or reference by J.M. The Board's decision was entirely within the realm of reasonableness, even if others might reasonably disagree.

In this case, I FIND that there is no doubt that the record establishes that J.S. and J.M. have had problems getting along with each other since first grade. It is true that such a long standing, unresolved conflict between two students may be accompanied by the sort of "harmful or demeaning conduct motivated only by another reason, for example, a dispute about relationships or personal belongings, or aggressive conduct without identifiable motivation," identified in K.L. As the court said, this sort of conduct does not fall within the statutory definition of HIB. However, merely because two students have such an ongoing conflict does not mean that there may not be instances in which that conflict includes conduct that crosses the line into prohibited HIB. If particular comments or actions by one of the two against the other are "reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as . . . a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic, . . . ," the fact that such conduct occurs against a background of conflict that may not have historically included conduct reasonably perceived as motivated by such reasons does not insulate the conduct under review from being properly determined to be in violation of the Act. Indeed, even if past history might include such prohibited conduct, it is the specific matter under investigation following an HIB complaint that must be judged to determine if it involved such offensive conduct. And, the existence of evidence of possible past HIB actions by the victim of the conduct at issue does not excuse any current HIB conduct directed at that child. Here, J.S. admitted that he told J.M. that J.M. was weak. Although J.S. did not admit that he was pushing down on the lid of the Chromebook, J.M. explained that J.S was doing that and that J.S. slammed the lid down, while telling J.M. that he was "weak." Student I. confirmed an incident involving the Chromebook. He also heard the "weakling" comment. No one substantiated J.S.'s story about "grandmom" shoes, a story he only told during his second interview, but not during his first discussion with Ms. Wenz. Clearly, if the Board credited J.M.'s version of events, it could decide that during a struggle over the Chromebook, J.S. told J.M. that he was "weak," a "weakling," a comment that might quite reasonably embarrass the recipient of the comment. I CONCLUDE that such a comment, especially when made during a physical confrontation, however limited it might have been, could reasonably be seen as motivated by an actual or perceived physical characteristic. There is no basis here for concluding that the incident either did not occur or that the Board's decision to credit J.M.'s version of the facts was unreasonable. Given this, I CONCLUDE that it cannot be said that the Board's determination that J.S. violated the prohibition against HIB on January 5, 2016, was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. While the petitioners try to deflect from this conclusion by invoking the existence of historical conflict that arguably did not appear to involve such motivation(s), that fact alone does not establish the legal infirmity of the Board's conclusion as to this particular event. Thus the case differs from that in either R.A. o/b/o B.A. v. Board of Education of the Township of Hamilton, http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/html/initial/edu10485-15_1.html; adopted, Comm'r (June 22, 2016), or L.B.T. o/b/o K.T. v. Board of Education of the Freehold Regional School District, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 7894-12 (January 24, 2013), adopted, Comm'r (March 7, 2013), in each of which the Board had determined that the complained of conduct was part of ongoing conflicts and, most significantly, unlike here the comments complained of did not address distinguishing characteristics. The respective administrative law judges and the Commissioner each deferred to these board determinations of the lack of motivations that fell within the Act's definition of HIB conduct.

While perhaps the petitioners and others might believe that the legislation takes an overbroad approach to the realities of some conflicts and interactions between immature students, the fact remains that the Legislature, seeking to address a pervasive problem of significant concern in the school environment, with additional important societal impacts, created a definition of prohibited conduct and the facts here reasonably support a conclusion that the conduct found to have occurred falls within the definition. While some finder of fact might conclude otherwise, where there is more than one reasonable way to understand a set of facts, it cannot be said that the choice of one reasonable interpretation over the other reasonable interpretation amounts to an unreasonable choice.

ORDER

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that petitioners' appeal of the Board's decision that J.S. engaged in prohibited conduct in violation of the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights is DENIED. The Board imposed sanctions which resulted in J.S. having his student schedule adjusted, a requirement that he meet with a school counselor, and a change in his homeroom teacher. These all were reasonable approaches to the situation created by J.S.'s conduct, and they are affirmed.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Board of Education of the City of Englewood, Bergen County, Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Englewood Cliffs, Bergen County, and New Jersey State Department of Education,

Respondents.

Synopsis

The dispute herein concerns the payment of tuition for students from the Englewood Cliffs School District who attend the Academies@Englewood (Academies), a magnet school program that began in 2002 and is based at Dwight Morrow High School (Dwight Morrow), the Englewood Board of Education's (Englewood) only public high school. Since 1965, students from Englewood Cliffs have attended high school in Englewood under a send-receive agreement between Englewood and Englewood Cliffs – which does not operate a high school of its own. From 2002 until 2013, up to twenty-five Englewood Cliffs students attended the Academies each year. During that period of time, Englewood reported these pupils as "choice students" on its Application for State School Aid; therefore, the New Jersey State Department of Education (Department), and not Englewood Cliffs, paid tuition to Englewood for the education of these students. The Department recognized this anomaly in 2013, instructed Englewood to report the students in question as "received students" under the send-receive relationship going forward, and moved to stop providing Choice aid to Englewood for the Englewood Cliffs students who attend Academies. The Department filed a motion for summary decision in 2016, which was held in abeyance pending resolution of discovery matters; Englewood Cliffs filed opposition to the motion in 2018.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; the fundamental dispute here is whether Englewood Cliffs students attending the Academies are "choice students" entitled to state aid under the Interdistrict Public School Choice Program; the purpose of the school choice program is to allow students to be educated in a district they otherwise would not be entitled to attend for free; here, Englewood Cliffs students are already entitled to attend Dwight Morrow for free under the send-receive agreement; the Department's determination that Englewood Cliffs students attending the Academies are not "choice students" and therefore not entitled to Choice aid is correct; and Englewood Cliffs' arguments that 1) the Supreme Court decision in Board of Education of Englewood Cliffs v. Board of Education of Tenafly, 170 N.J. 323 (2002) obligates the State to pay for Englewood Cliffs students to attend the Academies, and 2) that the Department's determination that the subject students are not "choice students" amounts to unlawful rulemaking under the Administrative Procedure Act, are without merit. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Department's motion for summary decision and dismissed the petition.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed with prejudice.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Board of Education of the City of Englewood, Bergen County, Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Englewood Cliffs, Bergen County, and New Jersey State Department of Education,

Respondents.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the exceptions filed by the Borough of Englewood Cliffs (Englewood Cliffs), and the Department of Education's (Department) reply thereto have been reviewed and considered. The dispute in this matter concerns the payment of tuition for Englewood Cliffs students attending the Academies@Englewood (Academies), a magnet school program based at Dwight Morrow High School (Dwight Morrow) in Englewood. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that Englewood Cliffs students attending the Academies are not Choice students; therefore, Englewood Cliffs is required to pay tuition for those students pursuant to the pre-existing sending/receiving agreement between the two districts.

As a preliminary matter, the Commissioner notes that the Initial Decision addresses the Department's arguments that the matter is moot in light of the Department's decision to release Choice aid for Englewood Cliffs students attending the Academies for the 2013-14, 2014-15 and 2015-16 school years and that, to the extent a viable claim might remain despite the payment of Choice Aid for those years, it is procedurally defective because it is essentially a Petition for a Declaratory Ruling that was not filed as such. The Department did not contest the ALJ's conclusions on these issues in its reply to Englewood Cliffs' exceptions. The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the matter is not moot due to the recurring need to determine who will pay for Englewood Cliffs students to attend the Academies. The Commissioner also agrees that, given that the dispositive issue has been squarely presented and adequately briefed, and the lack of any reasonable prospect that either party will change its position if Englewood Cliffs is required to refile this matter as a Petition for Declaratory Ruling, the matter should proceed to a decision based on the record as it stands.

Englewood Cliffs has filed exceptions to the ALJ's determination, which largely repeat arguments made in its filings before the ALJ. First, Englewood Cliffs argues that whether the Department provided Choice Aid for Englewood Cliffs students prior to 2013 intentionally or inadvertently is a material dispute of fact that the ALJ incorrectly resolved without a hearing. Englewood Cliffs contends that the Department directed the districts to report these students as Choice students[1] and that, accordingly, the ALJ should not have accepted the Department's representation that it only learned of the practice of classifying the students as Choice students during a review of the Choice Program in the 2013-2014 school year.

[1] On this point, Englewood Cliffs' exceptions cite to "Cross-Petition Ex. D." This exhibit includes an email from the Department to Englewood Cliffs, dated December 17, 2013, stating, "Since Englewood Cliffs and Englewood City have a formal send/receive relationship, Englewood Cliffs high school students attending Englewood City must be reported by Englewood Cliffs as sent to Englewood City. Englewood City must report these students as received from Englewood Cliffs. The students should not be reported as Choice students." Therefore, this exhibit does not support Englewood Cliffs' argument. However, Englewood Cliffs' brief in opposition to the Department's motion for summary decision, which makes this same argument, cites to a different document: Exhibit B to the Cross-Petition, which includes an email from Englewood to the Department, dated October 9, 2013, stating, "Previously, NJSMART has directed me to code the Englewood Cliffs residents in our Choice academy as Choice students," and an October 10, 2013 email response from the Department to Englewood, stating, "While we review this question, please report these students the same way that you've reported them in the past. Please follow NJSMART instructions." The Commissioner presumes, for the sake of argument, that Englewood Cliffs' exceptions intended to refer to Exhibit B rather than Exhibit D, but disagrees with Englewood Cliffs that this document proves prior instructions by the Department regarding the reporting of Englewood Cliffs students attending the Academies, as the description of the alleged instructions comes from Englewood staff and no other document is attached or referenced to show actual instructions from the Department. Moreover, regardless of any alleged prior instructions, this matter presents a purely legal question and the fact of the Department's prior instructions is irrelevant to the resolution of that question.

Next, Englewood Cliffs argues that the applicable statutes and regulations provide for Choice Aid in these circumstances, citing to N.J.A.C. 6A:12-1.2(d), which provides, "District boards of education currently in a sending/receiving relationship are eligible to participate in the Choice Program unless otherwise legally prohibited," and N.J.A.C. 6A12-1.2(a), which provides, "A Choice district may accept non-resident students into an educational program in the Choice district at the expense of the State." Englewood Cliffs argues that these regulations mean it is eligible to participate in the Choice Program, and that the Choice district (Englewood) may accept non-resident students (from Englewood Cliffs) into a program in the Choice district (the Academies) at the expense of the Department. Englewood Cliffs further claims that because there is a competitive admissions process for the Academies, students are not admitted as a matter of right, and thus Englewood Cliffs cannot designate the Academies as the high school for its students.

Englewood Cliffs argues that the Department has an independent obligation to fund Englewood Cliffs students with Choice Aid under the New Jersey Supreme Court's decision in Board of Education of Englewood Cliffs v. Board of Education of Englewood, 170 N.J. 323 (2002). In particular, Englewood Cliffs relies on the concurrence in that case, which indicates that the State Board of Education bears the primary responsibility for providing financing to alleviate racial imbalance, id. at 345, as well as the Department's subsequent provision of funding to implement programs to address racial imbalance in Englewood, to conclude that the Department has assumed the obligation to finance the operation of the Academies.

Finally, Englewood Cliffs argues that the Department has violated the requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act. Specifically, Englewood Cliffs disputes the ALJ's findings regarding three prongs of the standard for determining whether administrative rulemaking is required, as set forth in Metromedia, Inc. v. Director, Division of Taxation, 97 N.J. 313 (1984). First, Englewood Cliffs argues that the ALJ incorrectly found that the Department's action impacted a narrow and select group, because the action – although only applied in this matter to Englewood and Englewood Cliffs – could apply to any district in the Choice Program or in a sending/receiving relationship. Second, Englewood Cliffs argues that the ALJ incorrectly found that the action was clearly and obviously inferable from the enabling statutory authorization, because the language of the enabling statutes and regulations provides for Choice aid in these circumstances. Third, Englewood Cliffs notes that the ALJ found that the question of whether the action was a material and significant change from a past agency position was "a mixed bag," but argues that this factor should weigh in favor of requiring rulemaking because the Department allowed these students to be classified as Choice students for ten years.

In its reply, the Department argues that whether it made a mistake by providing Choice Aid in the past is not a material fact because the matter to be resolved is only the ongoing status of Englewood Cliffs students who attend the Academies. The Department further contends that Englewood Cliffs used the Choice Program improperly as a matter of law, and that the Department acted appropriately to correct it. As such, the Department contends that this matter was appropriately resolved by summary decision.

The Department argues that Englewood Cliffs students are not Choice students because they are entitled to go to Dwight Morrow, including the Academies, for free based on the sending/receiving agreement between Englewood and Englewood Cliffs. The Department notes that the Academies is "an academic program of Dwight Morrow High School," as indicated on the Academies' own website. Furthermore, the website treats Englewood and Englewood Cliffs students identically in its description and admission procedures, stating that the "Interdistrict Public School Choice Program allows students who live outside Englewood and Englewood Cliffs to apply" to the Academies, and that "Englewood and Englewood Cliffs residents are exempt" from the requirement that applicants must have been enrolled in a public school for at least one year prior to enrollment at the Academies. In other words, the Department argues, Englewood Cliffs students admitted to the Academies are effectively Englewood resident students attending a program at their resident high school and are not converted to Choice students merely because the program has admissions criteria. The Department further notes that the Supreme Court's decision in Englewood, supra, does not obligate the Department to fund the Academies, and argues that other legislative appropriations to support integration efforts in Englewood are entirely separate from appropriations for the Choice Program.

Lastly, the Department maintains that it has not violated the Administrative Procedures Act because its correction of Englewood Cliffs' reporting error is a directive expressly provided by or obviously inferable from the enabling statutory authorization. The Department argues that it is obvious from the language and design of the Choice Program that Choice Aid is not available for students who are attending their designated high school. The Department further contends that Englewood Cliffs has not proven a contrary "clear past agency position" and that correcting statutory noncompliance of which the Department was previously unaware does not constitute a material change in position.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ's findings and determination of this matter. The case presents the purely legal question of whether Englewood Cliffs students attending the Academies are entitled to Choice Aid pursuant to the applicable statutes and regulations; therefore, the ALJ's disposition of this case via summary decision was proper.

The Commissioner is also in accord with the ALJ's determination that Englewood Cliffs students attending the Academies are not Choice students. While N.J.A.C. 6A:12-1.2(d) provides that districts participating in a sending/receiving relationship may also participate in the Choice Program, this provision should not be strained beyond its plain meaning: that districts such as Englewood may receive students from Englewood Cliffs through the established sending/receiving relationship while also enrolling Choice students from other districts, just as Englewood Cliffs students may attend school in Englewood through the sending/receiving relationship or another participating district through the Choice Program. The regulatory permission to participate in both types of relationships does not in any way suggest that the Choice Program relieves a district of its obligation to pay tuition under a sending/receiving agreement simply because the receiving district also accepts Choice students from other districts. Moreover, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:36B-20(a) and N.J.A.C. 6A:12-1.3, for purposes of the Choice Program, the "sending district" is defined as the district or school that the student "is required by law to attend." Englewood Cliffs students are required by law to attend high school in Englewood, making Englewood the sending district for Englewood Cliffs students for purposes of the Choice Program. It is illogical, and inconsistent with the purpose of the Choice Program, for Englewood to be both the Choice sending district and the Choice receiving district. Just as Englewood cannot report Englewood students attending the Academies as Choice students – because they are resident students attending a program within their resident high school – Englewood Cliffs cannot report students attending the Academies as Choice students, because they are effectively resident students attending a program within their designated high school.[2]

The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ's conclusion that the Supreme Court's decision in Englewood, supra, does not obligate the State to provide Choice Aid to Englewood Cliffs students attending the Academies. The majority opinion specifically notes that "no issue concerning funding of the proposed academy partnership is before the Court." Englewood, supra, at 344. As such, the decision cannot be the law of the case for this matter. The concurrence relied on by Englewood Cliffs for the proposition that the State bears primarily responsibility for providing financing holds limited weight compared to the majority opinion, and is balanced by a second concurrence that objects to any conclusion that the State Board's statements in previous decisions about its "power and responsibility to direct such measures as are necessary to remedy segregation in the schools [are] pronouncements on responsibility for the cost of such remedial actions." Id. at 345. Moreover, the fact that the State has provided other types of funding for the Academies does not establish any obligation to provide Choice Aid for Englewood Cliffs students attending the Academies

[2] This conclusion does not, however, mean that Englewood may not apply admissions criteria to Englewood Cliffs students applying to the Academies. It merely means that Englewood Cliffs students are in the same position as Englewood students for purposes of the Choice Program: both are ineligible to receive Choice Aid when attending the Academies.

The Commissioner also agrees with the ALJ that the Department's decision to correct the reporting of Englewood Cliffs students attending the Academies did not require formal rulemaking. N.J.S.A. 18A:36B-20(a) and N.J.A.C. 6A:12-1.3 very clearly define a sending district, for purposes of the Choice Program, as the district that the student "is required by law to attend." Englewood Cliffs has designated Englewood as the district that Englewood Cliffs students are required to attend for high school and, as such, Englewood is their "sending district" for purposes of the Choice Program. To read the statutes and regulations of the Choice Program to allow Englewood to be both the Choice sending district and the Choice receiving district for Englewood Cliffs students attending the Academies, such that it could receive Choice Aid from the Department for those students, would be an absurd result, and one inconsistent with the goal of the Choice Program: to increase options for students to attend schools other than the ones that they would be entitled to attend for free. Englewood Cliffs' obligation to pay for its students to attend the Academies pursuant to the sending/receiving agreement is thus clearly and directly inferable from the enabling statute and regulations. Furthermore, the New Jersey Supreme Court has held that it is not a material and significant change in administrative policy for an agency to enforce a law that has not previously been enforced. Airwork Service Division v. Director, Division of Taxation, 97 N.J. 290, 200-01 (1984). While Englewood Cliffs received the benefit of its reporting error for fourteen years, the Department is not required to continue to allow that error.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is hereby adopted as the final decision in this matter; summary decision is granted in favor of the Department, and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

BEFORE JEFFREY A. GERSON, ALJ (Ret., on recall):

BACKGROUND

Englewood School District operates one public high school: Dwight Morrow High School. It educates students from Englewood and since 1965, it has been the designated high school for students from Englewood Cliffs School District, which chooses not to operate its own. Under this send-receive agreement, Englewood Cliffs students are entitled to attend Dwight Morrow and Englewood Cliffs is obligated to pay tuition to Englewood for each Englewood Cliffs student that chooses to attend. In 2002, a magnet school program called Academies@Englewood opened in Dwight Morrow. Students from Englewood, Englewood Cliffs, and any other school district in the State can apply for admission. Interested students must submit an application and sit for an entrance exam and interview.

Through a new initiative called the Interdistrict Public School Choice Program, the State agreed to fund the education of out-of-district students that attended Academies@Englewood. These students are "choice students." To receive state funding, school districts must submit an Application for State School Aid. The district must, among other things, report the number of "choice students" being educated in its district.

From 2002-2013, Englewood Cliffs students (up to twenty-five each year) attended Academies@Englewood. Englewood reported these students as "choice students" and thus the State, not Englewood Cliffs, paid the tuition to Englewood for their education.

In 2013, the New Jersey Department of Education (the Department) reviewed the school funding it had distributed for the 2013-14 school year. It discovered that Englewood had been reporting Englewood Cliffs students attending Academies@Englewood as "choice students." Believing this was an error, the Department instructed Englewood to report them as "received students" because, in its view, they attended Dwight Morrow pursuant to the send-receive agreement with Englewood Cliffs.

The Department withheld $414,225 in aid it was scheduled to release to Englewood for the 2013-14 school year. For the 2014-15 and 2015-16 school years, it did not provide funding to Englewood for the Englewood Cliffs students that attended Academies@Englewood. This litigation followed.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On November 25, 2014, Englewood filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education. It asked that the reduction in the school choice aid for the 2013-14 school year be reversed. It also requested an order declaring that Englewood Cliffs students attending Academies@Englewood be designated as "choice students." In the alternative, it asked that Englewood Cliffs be required to pay tuition for its students under the send-receive agreement.

On December 5, 2014, Englewood Cliffs filed an Answer and a Cross-Petition against the Department. In its Cross-Petition, it sought an order declaring that Englewood Cliffs students attending Academies@Englewood be declared as "choice students" and that the State is obligated to fund the cost of their education. In the alternative, it requested an order to prevent Englewood from seeking tuition reimbursement.

On October 5, 2015, the Department filed Answers to the Petition and Cross-Petition. The matter was thereafter transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case and assigned to Hon. Michael Antoniewicz.

On October 7, 2015, the Department informed Englewood that it was prepared to release $1,242,675 in choice aid for students it educated from Englewood Cliffs for the 2013-14, 2014-15, 2015-16 school years. It reiterated its position, however, that Englewood is not eligible for school choice aid for Englewood Cliffs students that attend its schools effective July 1, 2016.

On November 30, 2015, Englewood withdrew its Petition of Appeal. Englewood Cliffs continued to pursue its Cross-Petition against the Department. On March 29, 2016, the Department filed a Motion for Summary Decision. That motion was held in abeyance for some time pending the resolution of outstanding discovery matters. On February 14, 2018, Englewood Cliffs filed it opposition. On April 30, 2018, the Department filed its reply brief. This matter was reassigned to the undersigned on September 17, 2018.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The legal issue presented here is whether Englewood Cliffs students attending Academies@Englewood at Dwight Morrow High School are "choice students" entitled to State aid under the Interdistrict Public School Choice Program.

Before reaching the merits, however, the Department argues two procedural grounds on which to dismiss this case.

First, it argues that Englewood Cliff's Cross-Petition is moot in light of the decision to release school choice aid to Englewood for the 2013-14, 2014-15, and 2015-16 school years. "An issue is 'moot' when the decision sought in a matter, when rendered, can have no practical effect on the existing controversy." Greenfield v. N.J. Dep't of Corrections, 382 N.J. Super. 254, 258-59 (App. Div. 2006). "It is firmly established that controversies which have become moot or academic prior to judicial resolution ordinarily will be dismissed." Cinque v. N.J. Dep't of Corrections, 261 N.J. Super. 242, 243 (App. Div. 1993).

Englewood Cliffs agrees that any request for monetary relief for those school years are indeed moot. Yet there remains the fundamental dispute whether students from Englewood Cliffs attending Academies@Englewood are "choice students." If they are, the State must pay for their education. If not, Englewood Cliffs has that obligation. Because the parties do not agree on the answer, there is a controversy, the resolution of which will determine who must pay for these students to attend Academies@Englewood going forward. Therefore, as Englewood Cliffs contends this case is not moot.

This leads directly to the Department's second ground for dismissal. It argues that to the extent Englewood Cliffs has a viable claim, it is for declaratory relief and as such, its Cross-Petition is procedurally defective because it was not filed with the Commissioner as a Petition for Declaratory Ruling. See N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1.

Englewood Cliffs fights the characterization that it seeks declaratory relief. Yet in the requested relief section of its Cross-Petition, it uses the verb "declaring" no less than three time. In any event, even if the Department is correct that the Cross-Petition is procedurally defective, any defects should be excused. See N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16 (providing that the rules "may be relaxed or dispensed with by the Commissioner, in the Commissioner's discretion, where a strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice.").

This case has been pending since 2015. The dispositive issue is squarely presented in this case; it has been adequately briefed; there are no material issues of fact; and there is no reasonable prospect that either party will change its position if the Cross-Petition is dismissed and restyled as a Petition for Declaratory Ruling.

Interdistrict Public School Choice

The Interdistrict Pubic School Choice Program of 1999 and 2010 transformed public education in the State of New Jersey by expanding children's access to a free public education in schools outside of their designated school districts.

In general, before this school choice program, children were entitled to a free public education in one of two places: either in the schools located in the school district in which they were domiciled; or, if their school district lacked the necessary educational facilities, the out-of-district schools designated through a send-receive agreement. See N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1; N.J.S.A. 18A:38-11.

Parents did have other options for their children's education. Short of moving into a different school district, they could enroll them in a private school or in a public school that accepted non-resident students. Neither option, however, was free. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-3. Parents that could not afford to pay tuition or move, therefore, had little to no choice where their children were educated.

Recognizing the need "to increase options and flexibility for parents and students in selecting a school that best meets the needs of each student," the Legislature empowered the Commissioner of Education to establish the Interdistrict Public School Choice Program – first as a Pilot Program in 1999 and later on a permanent basis in 2010. N.J.A.C. 6A:12-1.1; N.J.S.A. 18A:36B-16.

This school choice program allows students to attend certain public schools outside their designated school district at the State's expense. N.J.A.C. 6A:12-1.2(a). To be eligible for this program, school districts must apply to become a "choice district." N.J.A.C. 6A:12-1.2(b). If approved, choice districts can "enroll students across districts lines in designated schools of the choice district." N.J.S.A. 18A:36B-16. These out-of-district students that are accepted into a choice district are called "choice students" and their education is funded entirely by State aid. N.J.A.C. 6A:12-1.3; N.J.A.C. 6A:12-9.1.

In addition to increasing choice for students and parents, this program promotes the added virtues of "improving efficiency through a voluntary redistribution of students from overcrowded to under-enrolled school districts" and "creating healthy competition among school districts." N.J.A.C. 6A:12-1.1.

Englewood School District was one of the 21 original choice districts; today there are 125 throughout the State. See, N.J. Dep't of Educ., Interdistrict School Choice Program, https://www.state.nj.us/education/choice/ (last visited Mar. 14, 2019). Its status as a choice district allows Englewood to accept students from outside the district to attend Academies@Englewood at Dwight Morrow High School.

Students from Englewood Cliffs have attended Academies@Englewood since the program first started in 2002. The question is whether this program relieve Englewood Cliffs' of its obligation under the send-receive agreement to fund the education of its students attending Dwight Morrow.

Neither the enabling statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:36B-16, or the regulations, N.J.A.C. 6A:12 et seq., answer the question in explicit terms. There is but one mention of send-receive agreements. N.J.A.C. 6A:12-1.2(d) says that "[d]istrict boards of education currently in a sending/receiving relationship are eligible to participate in the choice program unless otherwise legally prohibited." This regulation, however, does nothing more than make Englewood eligible to be a choice district notwithstanding its send-receive agreement with Englewood Cliffs.

When one looks to the purpose of the school choice program, however, it becomes clear that it was not meant to cover the students at issue in this case. This program, as mentioned, was designed to open up school districts by allowing students to be educated in a district they otherwise would not be entitled to attend for free. This goal is in no way advanced if the State pays for Englewood Cliffs students to be educated at Academies@Englewood because Dwight Morrow is their designated high school under a send-receive agreement with Englewood. In other words, even before this program, these students were entitled to attend the school of their choice for free.

Englewood Cliffs argues that although Academies@Englewood is operated within Dwight Morrow, it has a competitive admissions process and therefore its students are not guaranteed admission. That may be true, but it is also true for students from Englewood. No one argues that Englewood students attending Academies@Englewood are "choice students." It would be anomalous to treat these students differently because the send-receive agreement puts Englewood students and Englewood Cliffs students in the same position with respect to public high school education: each is entitled to attend Dwight Morrow.

Indeed, on its website, Academies@Englewood consistently makes this distinction between Englewood and Englewood Cliffs students on the one hand, and students from other districts on the other. See e.g., Academies@Englewood, Admissions, www.academies-englewood.org/Admissions.html, (last visited Mar. 14, 2019) ("The Academies@Englewood serves the children of Englewood and Englewood Cliffs as well as students from over 30 Bergen County districts and districts outside Bergen County."); ("The Interdistrict Public School Choice Program allows students who live outside Englewood and Englewood Cliffs to apply to Academies@Englewood."); ("Englewood and Englewood Cliffs residents are exempt from this requirement."); see also Academies@Englewood, Frequently Asked Questions, www.academies-englewood.org/2023/Frequently_Asked_Questions_2023.pdf, (last visited Mar. 14, 2019) ("Approximately 135 seats will be filled. Approximately half will be from Englewood/Englewood Cliffs; the other half from out-of-Englewood.").

For all these reasons, the Department's determination that Englewood Cliffs students attending Academies@Englewood are not "choice students" and therefore not entitled to State aid is correct.

Englewood Cliffs offers two additional reasons why the State should pay for these students' education. First, it argues that notwithstanding the school choice program, the Department has an independent obligation to fund its students attending Academies@Englewood under the Supreme Court's decision in Bd. of Educ. of Englewood Cliffs v. Bd. of Educ. of Tenafly, 170 N.J. 323 (2002). Second, it argues that the Department's determination is invalid because it failed to follow the formal rulemaking procedures required by the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52-14B-1 to -15. Neither argument, is correct.

Segregation Remediation at Dwight Morrow

First, Englewood Cliffs argues that the Supreme Court's decision in Bd. of Educ. of Englewood Cliffs v. Bd. of Educ. of Tenafly, 170 N.J. 323 (2002) (Englewood II) obligates the State to pay for its students to attend Academies@Englewood. Some background information on the long-running legal dispute between Englewood, Englewood Cliffs, and the State Board of Education, is necessary to analyze and ultimately, reject this claim.

In 1965, Englewood and Englewood Cliffs entered into a send-receive relationship under which Englewood Cliffs agreed to pay tuition to Englewood for each of its students that chose to attend Dwight Morrow High School. It did not take long for Englewood Cliffs to regret this decision. School districts, however, cannot unilaterally "sever" a send-receive relationship; it must be approved by the Commissioner of Education. See N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13. In 1977 and 1985, Englewood Cliffs petitioned the Commissioner to sever the relationship. Englewood II, 170 N.J. at 327, 329. It withdrew the first petition and the second petition was denied. Id. at 327-29.

During this period, white families from Englewood and Englewood Cliffs increasingly avoided sending their children to Dwight Morrow. Id. at 330-31. Parents either enrolled their children in private schools or in other districts, most notably Tenafly School District, that accepted non-residents students on a tuition basis. Ibid. Some suspected that parents avoided Dwight Morrow for racial reasons; others thought it was because of the quality of education. Id. at 331. Either way, it caused Dwight Morrow's student population to suffer from severe racial imbalance. Id. at 332-33.

To help remedy this segregation problem, the State Board of Education enjoined Tenafly and all other school districts from admitting students from Englewood and Englewood Cliffs on a tuition basis or otherwise. Id. at 333. This injunction remained in force until 2003. There were also efforts to bring magnet and specialty programs to Dwight Morrow to increase the quality of education and thus make the school more attractive for students and parents. Id. at 335-35.

In Englewood II, the Supreme Court granted a petition for certification to resolve this question: what is "the appropriate allocation of specific responsibilities between the Commissioner of Education and the Englewood School District in relation to the development and implementation of a voluntary plan that is designed to achieve an appropriate racial balance and educational quality at Dwight Morrow High School by means of magnet and specialty schools." Id. at 325.

In answering this question, the Court held that "the Commissioner and State Board retain the ultimate responsibility for developing and directing implementation of a plan to redress the racial imbalance at Dwight Morrow." Id. at 343.

More importantly the court went on to discuss what was then an emerging partnership between Englewood and Bergen County Technical School, in which Bergen Tech would offer some of its academic programs at Dwight Morrow, with the goal "to significantly diminish the racial imbalance". Id. at 338-39. Though not mentioned in the Court's opinion, this partnership produced Academies@Englewood in September 2002. The court did not address the potential funding needs for Academies@Englewood. Indeed, it noted that "no issue concerning funding of the proposed academy partnership is before the Court." Id. at 344. The Court did, however, make some observations. It recognized that the State had already "accepted responsibility to fund initial start-up costs in the amount of $ 385,000." Id. at 344. "The amount of long-term funding required," the Court predicted, "obviously will depend on the specific costs to be incurred, the amount of Federal and other public and private grant money available, and the tuition revenues to be realized." Ibid.

In concluding, the court invoked optimism. It said that the "proposed academy partnership" appeared "both feasible and affordable" and "we are confident that the parties will not permit so promising a resolution of Dwight Morrow's racial imbalance to fail because of disagreement over a fair allocation of funding responsibility." Id. at 344.

Writing for himself, Justice Stein concurred in a brief opinion to address funding obligations for the proposed academy. He wrote that although the issue was not presented in the case, it was his "clear understanding" that the State Board had acknowledged that it "bears primary responsibility for providing or procuring financing for any plan designed to alleviate racial imbalance at Dwight Morrow." Id. at 345 (Stein, J., concurring).

Justice LaVecchia, also in a solo concurrence, registered her disagreement. In her view, previous statements by the State Board that it had the "power and responsibility to direct such measures as are necessary to remedy segregation in the schools" did not amount to "pronouncements on responsibility for the cost of such remedial actions." Id. at 345 (LaVecchia, J., concurring).

In the years since, the State has invested 23.3 million dollars in Academies@Englewood and the Integration Plan in Englewood. Motion for Summary Decision, p. 8. There is simply nothing in the Court's opinion, however, that obligates the State to fund Englewood Cliffs students attending Academies@Englewood.

Administrative Procedure Act

Second, Englewood Cliffs contends that the Department's determination that its students attending Academies@Englewood are not "choice students" amounts to unlawful rulemaking under the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52-14B-1 to -15.

In Metromedia Inc. v. Dir., Div. of Taxation, 97 N.J. 313 (1984), the Supreme Court distilled from precedent a six-factor test to determine when an agency must comply with the rulemaking procedure of the Administrative Procedure Act. According to the Court, "an agency determination must be considered an administrative rule when all or most of the relevant features of administrative rules are present and preponderate in favor of the rule-making process." Id. at 331. These features include whether the determination:

> (1) is intended to have wide coverage encompassing a large segment of the regulated or general public, rather than an individual or a narrow select group;
> (2) is intended to be applied generally and uniformly to all similarly situated persons;
> (3) is designed to operate only in future cases, that is, prospectively;
> (4) prescribes a legal standard or directive that is not otherwise expressly provided by or clearly and obviously inferable from the enabling statutory authorization;
> (5) reflects an administrative policy that > (i) was not previously expressed in any official and explicit agency determination, adjudication or rule, or
> (ii) constitutes a material and significant change from a clear, past agency position on the identical subject matter; and > (6) reflects a decision on administrative regulatory policy in the nature of the interpretation of law or general policy.

[Id. at 331-32].

"These relevant factors can," the Court explained, "either singly or in combination, determine in a given case whether the essential agency action must be rendered through rule-making or adjudication." Id. at 332. The Court did acknowledge, however, that "in many cases the question of whether the agency determination is a rule or an adjudication is a close one." Id. at 332. The challenger, here Englewood Cliffs, bears the burden of proving that an agency action falls on the wrong side of that line. In re N.J.A.C. 7:1B-1.1 Et Seq., 431 N.J. Super. 100, 133 (App. Div. 2013) (noting that "agency action is presumed valid and a challenger bears the burden of rebutting that presumption.").

On balance, the Metromedia factors weigh in favor of a finding that the Department did not engage in unlawful rulemaking because its determination that certain students are not eligible for State funding is limited to "a narrow select group," and its interpretation is "clearly and obviously inferable from the enabling statutory authorization" without amounting to "a material and significant change from a clear, past agency position." Id. at 331-32.

To start, Metromedia factor (1) is not implicated in this case. The Department's decision not to fund certain students under the school choice program applies only to "a narrow select group," not "a large segment of the regulated or general public." Id. at 331. Its decision, at this time, is limited to Englewood Cliffs students that attend Academies@Englewood at Dwight Morrow. Historically, there are no more than 25 such students each year.

Presumably, and this speaks to Metromedia factor (2), the Department intends to apply this decision "generally and uniformly to all similarly situated persons." Id. at 331. That is, the Department is likely to maintain its position that the State is not obligated to fund students that attend school in a "choice district" that is also their designated district under a send-receive agreement. On this record, it is not clear how many other students fit that description; though, if the numbers were considerable, the parties would have represented as much.

Metromedia factors (3) and (6) are the most easily satisfied. The Department's decision applies "prospectively" only. Id. at 331. It has not sought, and it has not indicated that it will seek reimbursement from Englewood Cliffs in the amount it paid to have its students educated at Academies@Englewood. In addition, it cannot be disputed that the Department's determination "reflects a decision on administrative regulatory policy in the nature of the interpretation of law." Id. at 331-32.

In contrast, Metromedia factor (4) is not present here because the Department's "directive" is "clearly and obviously inferable from the enabling statutory authorization." Id. at 331. The school choice program, as previously explained, was enacted to allow students to attend school in a district they otherwise would not be entitled to attend for free because of their domicile. The goal of this program -- to encourage students to attend free of charge the school best suited for their needs regardless of where it is located -- is in no way promoted if the State pays for Englewood Cliffs students to attend a high school they are entitled to attend by virtue of a send-receive agreement. More to the point, there is nothing in the school choice program to suggest that it was meant to displace a sending district's funding obligations under a send-receive agreement.

Finally, Metromedia factor (5) is a mixed bag because, although the Department's position "was not previously expressed in any official and explicit agency determination, adjudication or rule," it also did not represent "a material and significant change from a clear, past agency position." Id. at 331. It is true that the Department unknowingly paid for Englewood Cliffs students to attend Academies@Englewood from 2002-2013, but that does not constitute "a clear, past agency position." Ibid. It was an oversight that the Department is free to correct.

For these reasons, the Department did not need to engage in formal rulemaking under Metromedia to make its determination.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On July 30, 2018, the School District of the City of Newark [District or Petitioner] served high school math teacher Emmanuel Ikheloa [Ikheloa or Respondent] with a Notice of Tenure Charges pursuant to *N.J.S.A.*18A:6-11 and 18A:6-17.3. The Charges alleged Inefficiency: that the Respondent had been rated partially effective in his 2016-2017 annual summative evaluation; and ineffective in his 2017-2018 annual summative evaluation.

In its Notice of Tenure Charges the District, through Superintendent Roger Leon, alleged that based upon Ikheloa's Annual Summative Ratings for the 2016-2017 and the 2017-2018 school years Ikheloa had failed to effectively perform the duties of a teacher. The Petitioner alleged, for example; that Respondent failed to: use individual standard-aligned lessons to build on previous lessons; clearly and accurately communicate content and instructions effectively; tailor instruction to move all students toward mastery; anticipate and respond to student reactions and misunderstandings; and more.

The Respondent apparently filed an initial response to the Charge on August 19, 2018 and filed an Answer on or about September 18, 2018 denying the Charges. Respondent argued, for example, that he was a successful mathematics teacher for the District with a sustained track record of effectiveness since he was hired in September 2004; that is, allegedly until the Petitioner compelled him-against his wishes-to teach in a field outside of his expertise and allegedly without adequate support from the District. The Respondent noted that beginning in the 2017-2018 school year he was assigned to teach special education math, but he indicated he only had a certificate of eligibility in special education, he did not hold a standard certification in special needs education.

On August 21, 2018, the Petitioner, having considered the Charge, supporting evidence and the Respondent's initial response, concluded that the Charge, if credited, was sufficient to warrant Respondent's dismissal or reduction of salary. The District, therefore, certified the Charge to the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3.

On September 25, 2018, the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes [Bureau] determined that the Charge, if true, was sufficient to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary and it referred the matter to me as the Arbitrator pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16.

Based upon N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, Ikheloa was suspended without pay effective August 28, 2018. The Respondent filed a Motion to Dismiss the Charges with me on October 22, 2018. The District filed its responsive brief to the Motion on November 5, 2018. On November 6, 2018 I issued a letter decision dismissing that Motion finding that there were several material facts in dispute that could only be resolved through a hearing.

A hearing was scheduled to commence on November 14, 2018, but the parties spent that day engaged in settlement discussions. Subsequently, when a resolution of the charges could not be reached, hearings were held on December 4, 2018; January 16 and 17; and March 1, 7 and 28, 2019 in Newark, New Jersey. The parties had the opportunity to examine and cross-examine witnesses, introduce documentary evidence and argue orally at the hearing. Testimony was received from Larry Ramkissoon, currently Special Assistant to the Superintendent but formerly Principal at West Side High School; Henry Ogele, Vice Principal at West Side High School; Yakima Johnson, Vice Principal at Malcolm Shabazz High School; Errol Douglas, Special Education Teacher; Emmanuel Ikheloa, Respondent Grievant; and Yolanda Mendez, Acting Executive Director for Human Relations. After Ikheloa served a 120 day suspension as provided for by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, he was, at least temporarily, reemployed by the District. Both parties filed post-hearing briefs on May 6, 2019

ISSUE

Has the District established the inefficiency charges against the Respondent?
If so, do those charges warrant the Respondent's dismissal?
If not, what shall the remedy be?

RELEVANT STATUTORY PROVISIONS

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2 Considerations for Arbitrator in Rendering Decision

23. a. In the event that the matter before the arbitrator pursuant to section 22 of this act is employee inefficiency pursuant to section 25 of this act, in rendering a decision the arbitrator shall only consider whether or not:

(1) the employee's evaluation failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process, including, but not limited to providing a corrective action plan.;
(2) there is a mistake of fact in the evaluastion;
(3) the charges would not have been brought but for the considerations of political affiliation, nepotism, union activity, discrimination as prohibited by State or federal law, or other conduct prohibited by State or federal law; or
(4) the district's actions were arbitrary and capricious,

b. In the event that the employee is able to demonstrate that any of the provisions of paragraphs (1) through (4) of subsection a. of this section are applicable, the arbitrator shall then determine if that fact materially affected the outcome of the evaluation. If the arbitrator determines that it did not materially affect the outcome of the evaluation, the arbitrator shall render a decision in favor of the board and the employee shall be dismissed.

c. The evaluator's determination as to the quality of an employee's classroom performance shall not be subject to an arbitrator's review.

d. The board of education shall have the ultimate burden of demonstrating to the arbitrator that the statutory criteria for tenure charges have been met.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3 Evaluation Process, Determination of Charges
[In pertinent part]

25. a. Notwithstanding the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 or any other section of law to the contrary, in the case of a teacher, principal, assistant principal, and vice-principal:
(1) the Superintendent shall promptly file with the secretary of the board of education a charge of inefficiency whenever the employee is rated ineffective or partially ineffective in an annual summative evaluation and the following year is rated ineffective in the annual summative evaluation.

In accordance with the above statutory provisions, in considering tenure charges in an inefficiency case, an arbitrator may only consider the four items enumerated in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2 (23. a) above. In such cases an arbitrator may not consider the quality of a teacher's classroom performance, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2 (23. c). The teacher (a Respondent to such tenure charges) may raise any or all of the four items in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2 (23 a.) above as a defense(s) to the tenure charges.

If the teacher proves that any of the four provisions in subsection 23 a. above apply in his/her case, the arbitrator must then determine whether having proved such provision(s) it (they) materially affected the outcome of the evaluation. If the arbitrator determines that a teacher's evaluation was materially affected by having proved such a provision, the arbitrator will need to determine an appropriate remedy for the teacher/Respondent. But if the arbitrator finds that such a provision(s) - even if proved - did not materially affect the outcome of an evaluation, the charges must be sustained and the teacher dismissed: N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2 (23. b).

The District created a guidebook for teacher evaluations known as the "Framework for Effective Teaching" for 2016-2017 [Exhibit P-23] and for 2017-2018

[Exhibit P-24] [Framework]. Ramkissoon noted that there were no significant differences between P-23 and P24. He explained that the Framework contains teacher performance competencies. Competency 1 includes Lesson Design and Focus; Competency 2 includes Rigor and Inclusiveness; Competency 3 includes Culture of Achievement; Competency 4 includes Student Progress towards Mastery; and, Competency 5 includes Commitment to Personal and Collective Excellence. Those guidebooks are distributed to the teachers by the Newark Teachers Union.

Each Competency contains three to four indicators. Competency 1, for example, contains lesson sequence; lesson components; pacing and momentum; and, clarity. Competency 2 contains tailored instruction; questions and tasks; responsiveness; and, precision and evidence. Competency 3 contains enthusiasm for learning; persistence; community; and, attention. Competency 4 contains check for understanding; feedback; and, demonstration of learning. Competency 5 is not structured like other Competencies.

Although a teacher will be rated on each Competency during each observation evaluation he/she may not necessarily be rated on each indicator during each observation. Teacher Competency is rated as highly effective; effective; partially effective and ineffective with each rating receiving a point value. A teacher's overall point score for each observation or evaluation determines the teacher's rating for that observation/evaluation.

Based upon a teacher's preceding year performance each teacher participates in the creation of a professional development plan with their supervisor for the following new school year which contains the teacher's goals for the new year. Teachers who received a highly effective or effective rating for the previous year develop an individualized professional development plan [IPDP] with their administrator that sets forth their goals for the new year. Teachers who received a partially effective or ineffective rating for the previous year must develop a corrective action plan [CAP] with their supervisor which includes the goals, extra support and other items the teacher needs to improve his/her competency in the new year. Based upon N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3 (25.a(1)) a teacher receiving a partially ineffective or an ineffective annual evaluation and the following year receives an ineffective annual evaluation must be dismissed.

The record shows that Ikheloa taught math at Wes Side High School in Newark during the 2013-2014; 2014-2015; and, the 2015-2016 school years and was rated effective in 2013-2014, partially effective in 2014-2015; and effective in 2015-2016.[1] Based upon his 2015-2016 evaluation Ikheloa and West Side Vice Principle Ogele collaborated on the creation of Ikheloa's IPDP for 2016-2017 [Exhibit P-2]. That IPDP, P-2, identified certain Action Steps or strategies that Ikheloa needed to do. They included:

> Teacher will utilize open-ended questions from Agile Mind (Constructed Response) to implement "Rich Task" in his lessons.
> Teacher will script out high level questions involving application, analysis and synthesis prior to the lesson and use that during "Habits of Discussion"/Whole Group Session in the class.
> Teacher will analyze data from Mid-Unit & End of Unit Assessment to plan Corrective Action Plan, > Teacher will submit End of Unit spreadsheet and Corrective Action Plan to Supervisor

Ramkissoon was the Principle of West Side High School in 2016-2017. He conducted an announced observation of Ikheloa on October 25, 2016 [Exhibit P-3].

[1] · There is some evidence that at the end of 2014-2015, despite apparently having originally received an effective rating for that year, Ikheloa said he was told he really received a partially effective rating for that year and he was required to be placed on a CAP for 2015-2016. Whether accurate or not, that information is irrelevant in this case.

Although that observation was rated effective overall, Ramkissoon rated Ikheloa partially effective in the factors for Pacing and Momentum; Responsiveness; Precision & Evidence; Attention; and, Feedback.

Ogele conducted a second formal observation of Ikheloa (for 2016-2017) on January 4, 2017 [Exhibit P-4]. Ikheloa received an overall partially effective rating for that observation because he received a partially effective rating for Competencies 1, 2 and 4 and an ineffective rating in Competency 3. Ogele found, for example, that only 5 of 18 students were able to complete the independent practice task; Ikheloa spent too much or too little time on some lesson components; he did not recognize or properly respond to student misunderstandings or reactions; few students demonstrated enthusiasm; and students did not demonstrate mastery of the lessons objectives.

Ogele conducted Ikheloa's mid-year summary evaluation on February 13, 2017 [Exhibit P-5] and gave Ikheloa an overall partially effective rating. Ogele testified that Ikheloa struggled with nearly all the indicators in Competency 2 and with all of the indicators in Competencies 3 and 4.

On May 1, 2017, Vice Principal Cook conducted a formal observation of Ikheloa and overall rated him ineffective [Exhibit P-7]. Cook found Ikheloa's pace either too slow or too fast; that students had no clear understanding what to do; that Ikheloa did not adjust his teaching strategies; and that there was little evidence of student progress.

Ogele conducted Ikheloa's annual summative evaluation on May 30, 2017 rating him partially effective for the 2016-2017 school year [Exhibit P-8]. Ogele testified that Ikheloa struggled with several factors in Competencies 2, 3 and 4 including tailored instruction; questions and tasks; responsiveness; precision in evidence; depth of knowledge; enthusiasm; and persistence.

Ikheloa testified that when Ogele initially issued his (Ikheloa's) 2016-2017 end of year summative evaluation Ogele rated him ineffective. Ikheloa believed that Ogele had miscalculated that evaluation and that he (Ogele) had not properly considered Ikheloa's professionalism. After meeting with Ikheloa, Ogele changed Ikheloa's annual summative evaluation for 2016-2017 to partially effective. Ikheloa did not believe he received sufficient support from Ogele during the 2016-2017 school year and he (Ikheloa) accused Ogele of not being fair to him. Ikheloa said their relationship did not change or improve going into 2017-2018. He believed Ogele felt uncomfortable toward him (Ikheloa) because of the change in his 2016-2017 summative evaluation. Ogele denied any animosity or ill will toward Ikheloa over changing his 2016-2017 summative evaluation.

Ramkissoon testified that during 2016-2017 professional learning community supports and a math coach were available for Ikheloa, but Ramkissoon was not certain that Ikheloa took advantage of those supports that year.

In late May or early June 2017 Ikheloa was notified that his teaching position had been eliminated for 2017-2018. But on June 7, 2017 Ramkissoon notified Ikheloa of a vacancy for a Teacher of Special Education in math. Since Ramkissoon knew that Ikheloa was certified in math and physics and had a certificate of eligibility for special needs education he sought Ikheloa's interest in the position. Later that day (6/17/17) Ikheloa responded and accepted the position with the following email to Ramkissoon:

> Mr. Ramkissoon,
> I will be humbled and delighted to be given the opportunity to serve our children in the capacity of a special need teacher. Thank you for the offer or anticipated offer.

> I will enroll with a college, at the earliest opportunity – most likely in September if it is still possible due to admissions deadlines, to complete the required courses in order to obtain the standard certificate.
> Thank you again and God Bless
> E. Ikheloa [Exhibit R-5]

The District had a need for a math teacher to teach two courses: Advanced Algebra with Financial Applications, and Geometry, and both courses included some special needs students with individualized education programs (IEP's). Ramkissoon noted that a certified math teacher could teach such classes with students with IEP's, without a special education certification, and knowing that Ikheloa was certified in math and had his certificate of eligibility in special needs education Ramkissoon thought Ikheloa was a good fit to teach those classes.

Although Ikheloa accepted that teaching assignment as evidenced by R-5 above, he believed that Ramkissoon's offer to accept that position was conditioned upon Ikheloa taking classes to obtain his special education certification. Ikheloa was willing to take such classes not just because he thought his acceptance of the position was conditioned on that, but also because he seemed to prefer having a special education certification if he was teaching special needs students.

Based upon the above Ikheloa applied for admission to Rutgers University to attend a program that would result in his obtaining a special education certification. As part of that application process Ikheloa asked Ramkissoon for a letter of recommendation which Ramkissoon provided [Exhibit R-10]. That letter states:

> Mr. Ikheloa has accepted our school assignment in the fall to provide instruction to our special need students population based on his current Teachers of Special Education (COE – Certificate of Eligibility). Mr. Ikheloa has also agreed to take the required non-credit courses towards obtaining the standard NJ teacher of special education certificate. He has indicated his preference to take these courses with your University starting in the fall of 2017, I recommend > him to be accepted into this program. Please let me know if there are any additional requirements.

On or about August 16, 2017, Ikheloa sent an email letter to Ramkissoon [Exhibit R-11] informing him of his (Ikheloa's) acceptance to Rutgers and notifying Ramkissoon that the expected cost to complete the program was $21,000. Although there is no evidence that Ramkissoon or anyone else offered to or promised Ikheloa that the District would pay Ikheloa's cost for the program, Ikheloa appeared to believe that the District would assume the tuition costs. After talking with the District's Human Resource Department Ikheloa was unsure of the District's willingness to assume those costs thus he included the following statements to Ramkissoon in R-11.

> If you conclude, after consulting with the Human Resources that the burden of paying for this program will be on me, I will therefore request to excuse myself from the position you had offered me that was conditional on this SN standard certification.
> Consequently, you would request returning me to the TWA poll to be deployed by the district to another school in need of my current certifications.
> As you can recall, I am still entitled to a job with the district on my Mathematics and Physics standard certification the district had financed through the alternate route and PSI programs for me to obtain.

Ramkissoon acknowledged that Ikheloa had asked him (Ramkissoon) if the District would pay the tuition costs for the program and he (Ramkissoon) told Ikheloa the District would not assume that responsibility. Ikheloa acknowledged that Ramkissoon never promised the District would pay for his tuition.

As a result, Ikheloa told Ramkissoon he (Ikheloa) would prefer not to accept the position that was offered, and that he preferred to go into the EWPS – a pool of "employees without permanent site" – and be placed at a math opening at another school.

Ramkissoon responded that it was too late to make that change because the transfer period was over and he (Ikheloa) could not be moved into the EWPS. Ikheloa acknowledged that whether or not he began taking courses in the fall of 2017 to obtain his special education certification he would not have completed the program to obtain that certification during the 2017-2018 school year. Ikheloa acknowledged it would have taken him two or three years to obtain that certification.

For 2017-2018 Ikheloa was assigned to teach two classes of Algebra with Financial Applications with 10 students in each class [Exhibits R-2 and R-3], and one class of Geometry with 17 students [Exhibit R-4]. Ramkissoon explained that approximately 30% of the students at West Side High School were special needs students in 2017-2018. He explained that an inclusion class is one that includes some students with special needs who have IEP's, and some students without special needs; and a self-contained class is one with all special needs students who have IEP's. Ramkissoon noted that one of Ikheloa's Algebra classes was an inclusion class and that his Geometry class was also an inclusion class. Ramkissoon testified that there were no special education self contained math classes at West Side that year. Both Ramkissoon and Vice Principal Johnson testified that Ikheloa was not required to possess a special needs certification to teach a class that included special needs students.

Johnson noted that the "N" designation on the Geometry class roster, R-4, indicated that special needs students were included in that class, but she felt certain that general education students were also included in that class. Ikheloa testified that he believed his Geometry class was self-contained with all students having IEP's in part due to the "N" designation on R-4. But Ikheloa did not claim that his Algebra class listed in R-2 was self-contained even though that roster also contained an "N" designation. The roster in Ikheloa's other Algebra class, R-3, did not contain an "N" designation.

Ramkissoon noted that the District has many special education teachers that in the high schools will support math and English classes. But he emphasized that not every math class that includes students with IEP's require the inclusion of a special education teacher. He said that such teachers are not required for inclusion in a math class unless that is a specific support requirement in a student's IEP. Ramkissoon noted that special education teacher Errol Douglas, was assigned to co-teach with Ikheloa in the Geometry class.

Douglas testified that he co-taught with Ikheloa for his full Geometry class in 2017-2018, and co-taught with Ikheloa for half the time in his (Ikheloa's) inclusion Algebra class listed in R-2. Douglas was not certain whether Ikheloa's Geometry class was self-contained, but he indicated that nearly all the students had special needs.

The record shows that a special needs student's IEP usually contains a grade scale adjustment which is intended to enable the student to score better despite his/her disability. Douglas said that Johnson told him that if an IEP did not contain such an adjustment - a 75% adjustment - should be used. Johnson denied telling any teacher to use a 75% defacto grade scale adjustment unless it was specifically contained within a student's IEP.

Due to Ikheloa's partially effective evaluation for the 2016-2017 school year, he needed a CAP for the 2017-2018 school year. The CAP and its content are intended to provide support for a teacher, and is developed through a collaborative process between the teacher and his/her supervisor.

Ogele held at least three meetings with Ikheloa to develop his CAP beginning on October 10, 2017. They talked about the standards Ikheloa wanted to focus on to move students towards mastery; the goals Ikheloa had for the students; the professional plan he had to achieve those goals; the action steps Ogele would implement to help Ikheloa achieve those goals; and the metrics to be used to make sure Ikheloa was progressing towards those goals. Ogele testified that Ikheloa identified the standards and set the goals for the students.

Ikheloa's CAP was completed and signed by him and Ogele on November 6, 2017 [Exhibit P-9]. The "Goal" section Ikheloa created included that at least 70% of the students would be proficient on the standards noted in the CAP. The "Action" steps required of Ogele to support Ikheloa included providing Ikheloa the opportunity to peer-observe the practices of an effective teacher; provide him the opportunity to engage in common planning time with a coach, ensure that he participates in Professional Learning Communities which were meetings with other math teachers to discuss how to achieve goals; provide feedback to Ikheloa after his observations; and other supports.

Subsequent to P-9, Ikheloa notified Ogele that he (Ikheloa) wanted to change his goal to state "that at least 100% of my students will score at least 80% on the standards". Ikheloa and Ogele signed Ikheloa's revised CAP on December 12, 2017 [Exhibit P-10].

In accordance with his CAP, Ikheloa was provided with many supports in order to achieve success in 2017-2018. The average teacher at West Side had 5 teaching blocks over every two days. Ikheloa, however, only had 4 blocks. In addition to special education teacher Douglas being assigned as a co-teacher to his Geometry classes, and Ikheloa's required attendance at the professional learning community meetings held throughout the year [Exhibit P-18], and teacher aides assigned to certain students throughout the year, Ikheloa also received the following supports: Ikheloa was provided with a math coach, Priyank Bhatt, and a math interventionist, Jerome Hancock, both of whom assisted Ikheloa with co-planning lesson designs; co-modeling class presentations; peer coaching which included Bhatt or Hancock observing Ikheloa teaching then debriefing him, or Ikheloa observing Bhatt or Hancock teach his (Ikheloa's) class and then debriefing with Bhatt or Hancock.

Ikheloa was also taught about Pastore's Perch which is a teacher's most efficient physical placement in the classroom to get and hold student attention; he was given the opportunity to watch videos of effective teachers teaching classes; he received feedback from Ogele; he had support from Vice Principal Yakima Johnson, the Child Study Team Supervisor who worked with the special education students; and, he had access to his students IEP's through Mr. Douglas.

Ikheloa was observed four times during the 2017-2018 school year and received a mid-year and an annual evaluation. On October 18, 2017, Ogele conducted an unannounced observation of Ikheloa teaching his Geometry class and he received an ineffective rating [Exhibit P-11]. Ogele found Ikheloa ineffective in Competencies 2, 3 and 4 finding Ikheloa did not tailor strategies to lead students towards mastery; students did not demonstrate enthusiasm for the material; and, students scored low in lesson objectives.

On January 17, 2018, Vice Principal Yakima Johnson conducted an announced observation of Ikheloa teaching one of his Advanced Algebra classes and he received a partially effective rating [Exhibit R-12]. She found that Ikheloa did not give clear instructions; classroom values were not consistently enforced; and students failed to master the objective.

On January 31, 2018 Ogele conducted Ikheloa's mid-year evaluation and rated him partially effective [Exhibit P-13]. Ogele noted that students were rarely mastering the lesson objectives; Ikheloa's communication with students was inconsistent; and, Ikheloa had failed to provide student assignments of the standards.

On March 13, 2018, Ogele conducted an unannounced observation of Ikheloa teaching one of his Algebra classes and he received a partially effective rating [Exhibit P-14]. Obele noted that Ikheloa's instructions were sometimes unclear; he had spent too much time on one task; and, he did not require students justify their responses.

On April 17, 2018 both Ogele and Administrator Nadirah Mateen conducted unannounced observations of Ikheloa teaching one of his Algebra classes. Both Ogele and Mateen rated Ikheloa ineffective [Exhibits P-15 and P-16, respectively]. Ogele noted that Ikheloa's instructions were unclear; he did not move the students to mastery; students had no clear understanding of what to do in the beginning of the lesson; Ikheloa did not demand supporting evidence; few students demonstrated enthusiasm; and, there was no evidence the students mastered the objective. Mateen made many of the same findings.

On May 14, 2018 Ogele conducted Ikheloa's Annual Summative Evaluation and rated Ikheloa ineffective for the 2017-2018 school year [Exhibit P-17]. Ogele noted that Ikheloa's instructions to the students were sometimes unclear; classroom values and norms were inconsistently reinforced; students often were not on task throughout the lessons; students rarely mastered the lesson objectives; and, that few students reached the goal Ikheloa set in his CAP.

Ogele testified about Ikheloa's rating in P-17, explaining that Ikheloa struggled with lesson sequence; clarity; and, twice made the same feedback error to students. Ogele also explained that Ikheloa failed to submit IEP planners for some students which made it difficult for the Child Study Team to provide enough services for those students; and he failed to submit all of the required student assessments. Ogele concluded that Ikheloa did not perform up to the required standards.

Student Growth Objectives or SGO's is a measurement of progress that is generated by students with IEP's which are used not only to measure the student's progress, but is also used to determine whether the teacher has met his/her set student goals. The grades of students with IEP's are modified based upon the child Study Team determination and that modification is used to determine the SGO's.

Since the SGO's were used to determine whether Ikheloa met the goal he established in his revised CAP, P-10, or rather, because the SGO's were used to determine he did not meet his goal; early in the hearing – and renewed at various times during the hearing – the Respondent questioned whether the SGO's were correctly calculated. The Respondent did not believe they were properly calculated and raised that as an issue in the case. The Respondent requested the opportunity to review the IEP's which contain information used to determine the SGO's to see if the District correctly calculated those SGO's.

The Board objected to that request raising the confidentially of the information generally contained in an IEP. Ramkissoon also explained that the SGO's only represented 15% of a teacher's overall rating. He noted that even if the Respondent could produce evidence that there was a mistake in the SGO's and more students achieved mastery, then in the best case scenario Ikheloa's end of year evaluation, P-17, would only move from an ineffective rating to a partially effective rating, which would still support the filing of tenure charges.

To resolve the issue over the accuracy of the SGO's I eventually performed an in camera inspection of the IEP's and required the District to provide grade modification information from the IEP's to the Respondent for his review. The Respondent did not subsequently present any evidence that the SGO's were improperly calculated.

Ogele testified that during 2017-2018 Ikheloa failed to timely submit student assessments and spreadsheets showing student progress for at least two quarters that were needed to be used to determine if the students were meeting expectations. Ogele noted that based upon the information he had, Ikheloa did not meet the goal of 100% of students would achieve 80% mastery which Ikheloa had set in P-10. Ogele said that only 69% of Ikheloa's students achieved 80% mastery.

Ogele also testified that at least in four cases (that is, regarding four students) Ikheloa used incorrect percentages to determine student grades. Ikheloa used higher percentages than included in those students' IEP's which would make it easier for those students – or at least make it appear – that those students achieved mastery. Ikheloa did not explain his failure to timely submit assessment information and the record supports Ogele's testimony that Ikheloa used incorrect information for four students.

In rebuttal to P-17 Ikheloa requested that Douglas submit a recommendation on his (Ikheloa's) behalf. In Exhibit R-7 Douglas defined Ikheloa as an outstanding teacher who cared about each student and was dedicated to his work.

As a result of P-17, on June 4, 2018 Ramkissoon sent Interim Superintendent Robert Gregory a memorandum [Exhibit P-1] recommending tenure charges against Ikheloa because he had a partially effective rating for 2016-2017, and an ineffective rating for 2017-2018. Ramkissoon noted that Ikheloa received substantial support throughout 2017-2018 but noted he struggled in all of the Framework Competencies. R-1 included information showing that students failed to meet the goal Ikheloa had established in his CAP.

As a result of the tenure charges and in accordance with *N.J.S.A.*18A:6-14, Ikheloa was suspended for 120 days. That time ran before the hearing in this case was completed. On January 25, 2019 the District – at least temporarily – offered Ikheloa reemployment when he was provided a letter by the District's Acting Executive Director, Yolanda Mendez, [Exhibit R-8] confirming his transfer to Central High School as a math teacher effective January 29, 2019. Ikheloa accepted that position and presumably worked for the District through the end of the 2018-2019 school year while awaiting the decision in this matter.

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

PETITIONER-DISTRICT

The Petitioner argued that it had no improper or unlawful motive for filing the tenure charge against Ikheloa. It denied the charges were filed due to any of Ikheloa's affiliations or based upon any of Ikheloa's conduct, and it noted that the Respondent did not provide any such evidence.

The Petitioner also denied the Respondent's claim that its (the District's) filing of tenure charges was arbitrary and capricious. The District emphasized that Ikheloa was certified to teach both the Geometry and Algebra courses particularly with the co-teaching provided by Douglas and the other supports Ikheloa received. It highlighted the fact that even if teaching the Geometry class raised a certification problem, only one of Ikheloa's 2017-2018 observations occurred in that class, and there was no dispute that he was properly certified to teach the Algebra classes which were clearly not self-contained classes.

The District also argued that the Respondent failed to demonstrate that it (the District) did not comply with the requirements of TEACHNJ or its own Framework for Effective Teaching or any procedural requirement. It claimed there was no factual basis for any of the four statutory defenses and that the Respondent failed to produce evidence supporting those or any other defenses or claims.

The District noted that Ikheloa was observed eight times over two years by five different evaluators and only one of those observations resulted in an effective rating, and that in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.(c), I am not authorized to review Ikheloa's classroom performance. The District maintains that Ikheloa's SGO's were properly calculated and that its witnesses were not effectively disputed.

Finally, the District explained that it reassigned Ikheloa to a classroom in 2019 because it was obligated to resume paying Ikheloa during the processing of this matter and therefore it could not also pay for a substitute teacher.

RESPONDENT-IKHELOA

The Respondent primarily argued that the District acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner by requiring Ikheloa to teach what it (the Respondent) claimed was a self-contained Geometry class of special needs students. According to the Respondent, that assignment materially affected the outcome of Ikheloa's observations and evaluations and violated both N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2 and N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.7(g) warranting dismissal of the tenure charge.

In its brief, the Respondent indicated that Ikheloa agreed to teach math classes with special needs students on the condition that the District would pay for him to obtain a standard special needs certification. According to the Respondent in its brief, Ikheloa was legally unqualified and ill prepared to be a special needs teacher, and when the District refused to pay for him to obtain a standard special needs certificate the District arbitrarily and capriciously, would not reassign him back to the District's pool of teachers. The Respondent claims that Ikheloa was "forced" or "compelled" to teach what it claimed was a self-contained special needs Geometry class making him a "defacto" teacher of special education.

The Respondent noted that Ikheloa had not received an ineffective rating prior to 2017-2018, and but for what it claimed was the District's "arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable" actions he would not have been rated inefficient in 2017-2018.

The Respondent acknowledged that Ikheloa took advantage of all of the training opportunities and supports that were made available to him but that those opportunities and supports were inadequate resulting in his inefficient ratings. According to the Respondent, Ogele was biased towards Ikheloa because he (Ogele) was required to change Ikheloa's 2016-2017 end of year evaluation.

The Respondent criticized the District's decision reinstating Ikheloa to the classroom during the processing of this matter, but seeks a remedy here making Ikheloa whole for all lost wages and benefits. In the alternative, even if there is some basis for the tenure charge, the Respondent seeks a lesser penalty than termination.

DISCUSSION

As noted earlier in this Decision and in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2(23a) a Respondent in an inefficiency case must prove: 1) that the employee's evaluation failed to substantially adhere to the evaluation process; or, 2) that there is a mistake of fact in the evaluation; or 3) the charges were brought based upon political affiliation, nepotism, union activity, or discrimination prohibited by State or Federal law; or 4) that the district's actions were arbitrary and capricious: in order to overcome inefficiency charges. Here, the Respondent did not present evidence that the District failed to adhere to the evaluation process; made a mistake of fact in any evaluation or brought the charge due to any unlawful or improper considerations. The Respondent's case is based primarily upon its argument that the District acted arbitrarily and capriciously in assigning – and allegedly compelling – Ikheloa to teach what it (the Respondent) claimed was a self-contained Geometry class of special needs students without him having a standard certificate to teach special education.

The Respondent's claims and arguments, however, were not persuasive. In the first instance I find that the Respondent did not conclusively prove that Ikheloa's Geometry class was self-contained. At best, it is unclear whether that class was self-contained. Ramkissoon and Johnson testified it was not a self-contained class and I found them to be credible witnesses; and the mere "N" designation on R-4 did not conclusively establish that point. Johnson testified that an "N" designation means it's an inclusion class, and the Respondent never argued that the "N" designation on R-2, the Algebra class, meant that it was a self-contained class. Based on the record before me I cannot conclude that Ikheloa's Geometry class was self-contained. Therefore, the Respondent's reliance on N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2 and N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4-7(a) to invalidate the charges is misplaced.

The Respondent's claim that Ikheloa was forced or compelled to teach the Geometry class is also unpersuasive. Ikheloa acknowledged that Ramkissoon never offered or agreed that the District would pay for Ikheloa to take classes towards obtaining a full special education certification. In fact, Ikheloa accepted the opportunity to teach the special education inclusion classes in R-5 on June 7, 2017, and he did not therein condition his acceptance on the District paying for classes. Although he testified that – at least presumably in his mind – he conditioned his acceptance on the District paying for classes, by the time he told Ramkissoon of that in R-11 on August 16, 2017, and asked to be placed in the teacher pool for some other work, it was too late to make the change. But there is no evidence the District somehow "forced" Ikheloa to continue in the position. He clearly was able to refuse to teach the Geometry class and continue with the Algebra classes even if it meant he'd lose the whole teaching opportunity.

The Respondent's position that the District acted arbitrarily and capriciously by refusing to move Ikheloa into the teacher pool in August also makes little sense given Ikheloa's own statement that he only wanted to accept the position if the District paid for the certification classes. By tying the certification tuition costs to teaching the math classes to his willingness to accept the position Ikheloa was really acknowledging that his willingness to accept the position had nothing to do with the fact that he would be teaching an inclusion class. I find Ikheloa's acknowledgement that even if he had enrolled in the special education classes he would not have had a full special education certification during the 2017-2018 school year or even by the following school year supports a finding that his lack of such a certification in 2017-2018 was not the primary basis upon which he wanted to be reassigned to the teacher pool after he had previously agreed to teach the inclusion classes. I believe he wanted to be assigned to the teacher pool primarily because the District would not pay for him to obtain the special education certification. No evidence was presented disputing Ramkissoon's testimony that by the time Ikheloa asked him (Ramkissoon) in August 2017 to reassign him (Ikheloa) to the teacher pool it was too late to effectuate such a move.

It is important to remember that this case is really only about what happened in 2017-2018. Although the evidence shows that after Ikheloa's complaint in the spring of 2017, Ogele changed the results of the 2016-2017 final evaluation, there was no evidence that there was a special education problem with Ikheloa's classes that year nor any evidence the District violated any of the provisions in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2 (23a) for that year. I found Ogele to be a credible witness and do not infer that his change of Ikheloa's 2016-2017 final evaluation tainted his ability to honestly evaluate him in 2017-2018.

In recognition that Ikheloa was assigned to teach inclusion classes, and was working under CAP requirements, the District provided Ikheloa with a substantial level of support in 2017-2018, particularly the co-teaching by Douglas in Geometry, and the coaching by Bhatt and Hancock. To suggest otherwise is a mischaracterization of the evidence. Ikheloa acknowledged that he took advantage of all of the supports, including the peer teaching, yet he struggled on a number of Competencies.

Ikheloa was not just observed by Ogele, he was observed by several different administrators – even by two different administrators on the same day – yet he was consistently rated ineffective or partially effective. To the extent he blames ineffective ratings on teaching the Geometry class, the record shows that in 2017-2018 only one of his many observations was in Geometry. Most of the results of his 2017-2018 final evaluation were based upon his performance in the Algebra classes which clearly were not self-contained classes.

Although the Respondent seems to argue that Ikheloa was not certified to teach the Algebra and Geometry classes, the record does not support that contention. Ramkissoon and Johnson testified that Ikheloa's math certification, particularly with his special education eligibility and the co-teaching support provided by Douglas, entitled Ikheloa to teach those classes. Nothing Ikheloa or Douglas said effectively disputed their (Ramkissoon and Johnson's) testimony.

Finally, the Respondent's suggestion that the District's decision to reassign Ikheloa to a classroom in 2019 pending the results of this case somehow weakens the District's inefficiency case lacks merit. I am unaware of any statute; regulation; court or arbitration decision finding that a school district's decision to reassign a teacher to a teaching position during the pendency of tenure hearings regarding a charge of inefficiency somehow negates such a charge.

Having considered all of the testimony, documents, arguments and briefs related to this case I find that the District did not act arbitrarily or capriciously in assigning Ikheloa to teach inclusion classes without possessing a standard special education certification.

Based upon all of the above I issue the following:

AWARD

The District has established that the Respondent properly received a partially effective rating in his annual summative evaluation for 2016-2017, and an ineffective rating in his annual summative evaluation for 2017-2018. The Respondent has failed to prove the District violated any of the provisions in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.2 (23a).

Accordingly, the inefficiency charge is sustained, and in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3, the Respondent's dismissal is upheld.

Re: A.L. o/b/o K.L. v. Hanover Park Board of Education ("Board")
Agency Ref. No. 1-1/19

Dear Judge Moscowitz:

In accordance with our recent telephone conversation, I reviewed settlement options with my client in order to resolve the above-referenced matter. To that end, kindly be advised of the following proposal from the Board. By copy of this letter I am providing same to Ms. Love for her review and consideration. In the event Ms. Love accepts this proposal, I would ask that she simply sign the bottom of this document where indicated.

The parameters of the proposal are as follows:

1. K.L. will be permitted to continue at the Hanover Park Regional High School for the balance of the 2018-2019 school year, free of tuition;
2. A.L. o/b/o K.L. will either provide proof of permanent residency within the three Districts that send to Hanover Park on or before June 30, 2019;
3. In the event A.L. fails to provide said proof of residency, K.L. will be immediately removed from Hanover Park and his files transferred to the East Orange Board of Education, or district of residence, for registration. The parties agree to a Consent Judgment with no additional need for a Residency Hearing;
4. Temporary residency will not be acceptable unless A.L. provides proof that she will be residing at a location for the 2019-2020 school year a minimum of four (4) nights per week. Said proof must be submitted by June 30, 2019. Failure to do so will also result in K.L. being deregistered from the Hanover Park Board of Education as set forth by Consent Judgment as outlined above; and
5. A.L. agrees to withdraw the within Petition of Appeal.

Mrs. Love 3/19/19

Please review these parameters and advise as to your position.

Thank you.

Dear Ms. Love:

I am in receipt of your correspondence dated March 12, 2019 concerning the above-referenced matter. While I do not understand the text of your correspondence, it appears that we do not have an agreement with respect to settlement.

The Board of Education requires permanent residency in order to continue Kahlil's education. If you cannot secure permanent residency for four (4) nights of out a given week, then the Board of Education will have no recourse but to submit this matter to Judge Moscowitz for adjudication.

Kindly advise at your earliest convenience as to the status of this matter.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On or about September 6, 2017, petitioners R.B. and A.B. on behalf of J.B. filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education challenging the HIB determination by respondent Board of Education of the Morris School District. The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was filed on October 30, 2017, for hearing as a contested case. A telephone prehearing conference was held on November 21, 2017. The undersigned issued an Order denying respondent's motion to dismiss on January 24, 2018, and a hearing was scheduled for May 17, 2018. Subsequently, the hearing was adjourned in view of the parties' motions for summary decision. On June 26, 2018, the undersigned issued an Order denying the motions for summary decision, and a hearing was scheduled for July 16, 2018, which adjourned at petitioners' request as the parties were discussing settlement. Following the adjournment of the hearings scheduled for December 12, 2018 and February 4, 2019, at petitioners' request, the hearing was rescheduled to May 6, 2019. Petitioners requested that the hearing be converted to a settlement conference during which the parties reached an amicable resolution. Under cover letter dated June 13, 2019, counsel for respondent submitted the attached Agreement and Release, indicating the terms of agreement between the parties.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of the consent order and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the consent order as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The consent order fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

RESPONDENT ORANGE BOARD OF EDUCATION

172-19

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Glenn Ciripompa,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Bound Brook, Somerset County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner's tenure as a physical education teacher in Bound Brook schools was revoked following two arbitration hearings and multiple court actions stemming from two charges of unbecoming conduct – namely, sending nude photographs from a school district computer and iPad, and inappropriate and harassing interactions with female staff members – filed in July 2014 by the respondent Board of Education of the Borough of Bound Brook (Board). In the instant petition, Mr. Ciripompa sought back pay for the period between the end of his 120-day suspension without pay and the resolution of the tenure charges. The Board filed a motion for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue in this case, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; following suspension from his teaching position, petitioner received income from unemployment ($16,514), earnings from driving a school bus for Snyder's Bus Service during the 2014-15 and 2015-16 school years ($46,335.44), earnings from driving a school bus for Snyder's during the summers of 2015 and 2016 ($4,509.65) and earnings from umpiring games ($3,105); petitioner's income for the period following his 120-day suspension without pay totaled $70,464.09, which exceeded his backpay expectation of $63,886 from employment by the Board; and petitioner is not entitled to realize the unwarranted financial gain which would result from his demand for back pay. The ALJ concluded that petitioner is not entitled to any back pay; accordingly, the Board's motion for summary decision was granted and petitioner's claim was dismissed.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions as set forth in the Initial Decision. The Commissioner noted that the only issue for consideration at this stage of the proceedings was petitioner's legal entitlement to back pay, and the Board's legal ability to deduct sums received by petitioner during his period of suspension as mitigation. Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter. Summary decision was granted in favor of the Board, and petitioner's claim for back pay was dismissed with prejudice.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Glenn Ciripompa,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Bound Brook, Somerset County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the exceptions filed by petitioner Glenn Ciripompa, and the reply thereto by respondent Board of Education of the Borough of Bound Brook (Board), have been reviewed and considered. The lengthy procedural history of this matter is recounted both in the Initial Decision and a previous decision by the Commissioner in this matter. Commissioner Decision No. 206-17, decided July 27, 2017. Currently at issue before the Commissioner is the petitioner's entitlement to back pay for the period between the end of his 120-day unpaid suspension and the resolution of the tenure charges filed against him by the Board. The ALJ found that the petitioner's earnings of $70,464.09, which included earnings from unemployment, substitute employment as a bus driver during the school year and the summer, and as an umpire, exceeded his back pay expectation of $63,886. As such, the ALJ concluded that the petitioner was not entitled to receive any back pay from the Board and granted the Board's motion for summary decision.

Petitioner argues in his exceptions that the ALJ improperly reduced his back pay by the amount of unemployment benefits he received during his 120-day unpaid suspension. Petitioner contends that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 does not allow the board to recoup money that the employee earned during the time when the board had no obligation to pay salary. Petitioner claims that the law as applied through the Initial Decision would result in a "double punishment" whereby an employee would be deprived both of his normal earnings and of the opportunity to earn a salary from other employment during the 120-day unpaid suspension.

Petitioner next disputes the ALJ's finding that earnings from his employment during the summer months with Snyder's Bus Service (Snyder's) mitigate his back pay entitlement, arguing that because he was not entitled to receive any salary from the board during the summer, other employment during that time should not be deducted. Finally, petitioner contends that the ALJ incorrectly found that his employment with Snyder's conflicted with his school employment. Petitioner notes that he may have worked approximately 80 potentially conflicting hours over an 18-month period but alleges that applying the entirety of his earnings as mitigation is an inequitable reading of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. Petitioner argues that he did not fail to discharge any duty imposed by the board on him during his paid suspension and, accordingly, nothing he did during that time could be incompatible with his duties.

In its reply, the Board argues that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 clearly provides that the Board is entitled to deduct "any sums received" during the "period of suspension," and that the period of suspension runs from the filing of the tenure chares to their resolution, including the 120-day unpaid suspension period. The Board notes that if petitioner had been successful in his defense of the tenure charges and received no penalty, he would have received full back pay for the entire period of suspension, including for the initial 120 days, minus any earnings from the entire period of the suspension.

Next, the Board replies that all earnings from Snyder's must be deducted, because petitioner did not work for Snyder's prior to his suspension, and he could not have done so during the school year while he was teaching. The Board contends that petitioner's exceptions distort the record and that there were at least 419 days when petitioner's work for Snyder's conflicted with his work hours as a teacher. Finally, the Board argues that because petitioner only received summer employment at Snyder's based on his employment there during the school year, the summer earnings should also be deducted.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ's findings and determination of this matter. While the facts in this case are complex, the issue at this stage of the proceedings pertains only to the legal entitlement of the petitioner to back pay, and the legal ability of the Board to deduct sums received by the petitioner during the period of suspension as mitigation. The facts themselves are not in dispute; therefore, the ALJ's disposition of this case via summary decision was proper.

The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that the petitioner's unemployment benefits, including those received during his 120-day unpaid suspension, must be deducted from his back pay, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. The "period of suspension" runs from the beginning of his unpaid suspension on September 1, 2014 until the second arbitration decision sustaining the tenure charges on June 16, 2017.[1] Nothing in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 suggests that the "period of suspension" does not include the 120-day unpaid suspension. To the contrary, all references to the suspension encompass the entire time period, beginning "[u]pon certification of any charge to the commissioner." Because the statute plainly requires that "any sums received . . . during such period of suspension" must be deducted from the back pay owed, the unemployment benefits received by the petitioner during the 120-day unpaid suspension must be deducted.

The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the petitioner's employment with Snyder's during the school year constitutes "substituted employment" within the meaning of [1] This is consistent with the Commissioner's prior decision in this matter, Commissioner Decision No. 206-17, decided July 27, 2017, which found that the issue of back pay should not be dealt with in a piecemeal fashion and that the matter must instead be viewed as a whole.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, as explicated in School District of the Township of Willingboro and Gilbert, 3 N.J.A.R. 206 (1981), affirmed at 3 N.J.A.R. 209 (1981). The petitioner did not obtain his employment with Snyder's until after he was suspended by the Board, and the ALJ found that the undisputed evidence from the deposition testimony of the president of Snyder's was that his employment there during the school year was inconsistent with his obligation to the Board. The routes driven by the petitioner occurred during times that he would have been required to be present at school, and the records of his work hours demonstrate that he regularly worked hours that were incompatible with his teaching hours. The Commissioner is therefore satisfied that all earnings from Snyder's during the school year may be counted as mitigation.

Regarding summer earnings, the Commission concurs with the ALJ's finding that the petitioner would not have obtained summer employment with Snyder's if he had not also worked there during the school year. The president of Snyder's so stated explicitly in her deposition, and the petitioner has not presented any evidence to refute the information she presented. Additionally, the Commissioner reiterates that the petitioner did not obtain employment with Snyder's until after he was suspended by the Board, differentiating his circumstances from those of teachers who held summer employment prior to their suspensions and whose summer earnings did not count as mitigation.

During the petitioner's period of suspension, the maximum back pay due was $63,886. For the reasons stated above, his unemployment benefits of $16,514, his school-year earnings from Snyder's of $46,335.44, and his summer earnings from Snyder's of $4,509.65 are all countable as mitigation. Additionally, the ALJ found that the petitioner earned $3,105 as an umpire during the period of suspension. Neither party disputes this amount in the exceptions or reply, and the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusion. Accordingly, the petitioner earned $70,464.09 during his period of suspension, exceeding the amount of his back pay expectation. The petitioner is entitled to be made whole by the Board, but he is not entitled to be made more than whole.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is hereby adopted as the final decision in this matter; summary judgment is granted in favor of respondent, and the claim for back pay is dismissed with prejudice.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Record Closed: April 22, 2019 Decided: May 23, 2019

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ (Ret., on recall):

The Bound Brook Board of Education seeks summary decision in the latest installment of this long-running case, which began when the District filed tenure charges against Glenn Ciripompa. After an arbitrator found Ciripompa guilty of a portion of the allegations and dismissed the remainder, the Superior Court overturned the arbitration decision, the Appellate Division reinstated the decision, and ultimately, the Supreme Court vacated the arbitration decision, remanding the matter for a new arbitration before a different arbitrator. Bound Brook Bd. of Educ. v. Ciripompa, 228 N.J. 4 (2017). That second arbitration upheld the Board's charges and revoked Ciripompa's tenure. However, the parties have been unable to reach any agreement on what, if any, back pay may be due to Ciripompa, and that dispute has now once again resulted in the Board moving for summary decision.

The chronology of these events is significant. The Board certified its charges to the Commissioner of Education on July 17, 2014. Ciripompa was then suspended without pay for 120 days, as authorized by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. The first arbitration decision was issued on October 20, 2014. It suspended Ciripompa for 120 days without pay for the charges he was found guilty of. Other charges were dismissed. That 120-day suspension without pay, which was separate from the statutory suspension, ended on March 9, 2015. However, as the Board was then appealing the Superior Court Order that had overturned the arbitrator's decision, the Board did not return Ciripompa to pay status. He remained unpaid until November 1, 2015, the day after the Appellate Division upheld the arbitrator's decision. He was reinstated to full pay status on November 1, 2015. The Supreme Court vacated the first arbitrator's decision on February 21, 2017. Nevertheless, Ciripompa remained in full pay status until his termination on June 16, 2017, following the issuance of the second arbitrator's decision sustaining the tenure charges.

On April 28, 2017, this judge issued a decision on a previous motion, establishing the Board's back pay responsibility in light of the need for Ciripompa to mitigate damages for the period from March 9, 2015 until October 31, 2015, that is, the period following the conclusion of the first arbitrator's suspension until Ciripompa's return to paid status, while noting that any remaining issues of additional back pay and mitigation should be the subject of a new petition to the Commissioner.[1] The second arbitrator's decision was issued on June 16, 2017. On July 27, 2017, the Commissioner rejected the April 28, 2017, decision, determining that the back-pay issue should be resolved for the entire period from September 1, 2014 through June 16, 2017 in one proceeding.

In June 2018, the Board moved for summary decision, arguing that the undisputed facts confirmed that Ciripompa's salary from substitute employment with Snyder's Bus Service, combined with unemployment benefits and additional earnings working as an umpire, exceeded those he would have received from Bound Brook and thus no back pay was due. However, on July 30, 2018, I issued an Order Denying Summary Decision, finding that there were disputed facts as to whether the employment at Snyder's during the school year would have conflicted with Ciripompa's responsibilities to Bound Brook. Subsequently, a subpoena was issued to Snyder's for Ciripompa's work records and a deposition was taken of Tina Snyder, the president of Snyder's Bus Service. The Board again moves for summary decision, and Ciripompa responds that the facts show that he is indeed entitled to back pay.

The Board's claim is based upon N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, which in pertinent part, provides that while a Board is required to pay the suspended tenured employee his full salary after the completion of the initial 120-day period following the certification of tenure charges, any back pay award must be mitigated and the "board of education shall deduct from such full salary any sums received by such employee or officers by way of pay or salary from any substituted employment assumed during such period of suspension."

The Board offers that given the undisputed rates of pay that Mr. Ciripompa would have or did receive in his role as a teacher in school years 2014-15, and 2015-16, his back pay for those periods in those two school years in which he did not receive pay totaled $50,104 for 2014-15 and $13,782 for 2015-16, for a total back pay due of $63,886. During his unpaid suspension he received unemployment benefits totaling $16,514. In addition, he earned $68,960.75 from Snyder's Bus Company, of which $4,509.65 was paid for summer work performed from July 1, 2015, through August 31, 2015, and July 13 through August 31, 2016. Additionally, the Board offers that he earned another $18,115.31 from June 17, 2017, the day after his termination, until December 31, 2017. Finally, after subtracting certain sums previously disallowed as mitigation in a prior ruling, the Board contends that he earned $3,105 as an umpire during 2015 and 2016. Mr. Ciripompa does not appear to dispute these figures. He asserts that he should receive $34,494.41 in back pay. The Board claims that he is not entitled to receive any back pay, as his earnings, combined with the unemployment benefits, totaled 65,954.44, exceeding the total of back pay that would be due. Indeed, this total does not include the summer earnings from Snyder's. However, the Board urges that given new evidence, the summer earnings should be included in the mitigation calculation.

In reply to the Board's motion, Mr. Ciripompa contends that the back-pay calculations must be made for four distinct time frames. These are the (1) the statutory unpaid suspension (effectively September 1, 2014 through November 17, 2014); (2) the arbitrator-imposed 120-day unpaid suspension from November 17, 2014 through March 9, 2015; (3) the unpaid period, following the March 10 conclusion of the arbitrator's suspension until pay was restored on November 1, 2015, and (4) from November 1, 2015 until termination on June 16, 2017, during which time Ciripompa received his full pay. In regard to the third of these periods, Ciripompa argues that in rejecting the April 28, 2017, decision, the Commissioner did not dispute the initial decision's calculation of the back pay and mitigation for the period from March 10, 2015 through October 31, 2015, that is, the period when the 120-day suspension ordered by Arbitrator Pecklers ended through the date Ciripompa was reinstated to pay status after the Appellate Division reinstated that arbitrator's decision. As such, Ciripompa contends that the back pay due for the third unpaid suspension period of March 10, 2015 through October 31, 2015, has already been established at $22,000.53. However, the Board argues that the mitigation offset to any back-pay award must be measured by Ciripompa's total earnings from September 1, 2014 through June 17, 2017, that is, the entire period from the start of the 2014-15 school year through the date when Ciripompa was terminated after Arbitrator De Treux's decision sustaining the termination of tenure.

Considering these arguments, I CONCLUDE that given the Commissioner's rejection of the initial decision and determination that the back pay and mitigation issues should be resolved for the entire period of suspension, it is appropriate to reconsider the matter without considering the prior initial decision to be in any manner the law of the case. And this is particularly true as there is now additional evidence to consider, especially the deposition testimony of Ms. Snyder. The record existing at the time of the prior initial decision lacked evidence that would have clarified two key questions. One is the question whether Ciripompa's work at Snyder's during the school year was inconsistent with his obligations to the Board. The second is whether his summer earnings from Snyder's were dependent upon his employment already existing prior to the summer, or whether, alternatively, those summer earnings were independent of any need for Ciripompa to have been already employed by Snyder's during the school year.[2]

[2] In the prior ruling, I noted that the Board asserted it should be entitled to mitigation for earnings received by petitioner while working for Snyder Bus Service during the summer months of 2015. The basis for this claim is that while the Board recognizes that it is generally not permitted to seek mitigation for earnings during a period of time when an employee would not have been working for the Board, in this case it posits that were it not for petitioner's employment with the bus company during the school year while he was serving his suspension, he would never have been employed by the company during the summer . . . The Board notes that Mr. Ciripompa did not work for the bus company prior to his suspension and could not have done so had he been actively working for the Board. The Board cites cases in which an employee had already been employed by an outside employer prior to a suspension and continued that employment during the period of suspension. In such cases mitigation has not been permitted from the earnings obtained from that employer. However, here, employment with the bus company did not predate the suspension. Thus, the Board argues that mitigation should be permitted from these earnings.

Mr. Ciripompa does not appear to respond to the Board's contentions regarding the summer employment with Snyder Bus Service. However, he more generally notes that earnings during the summer when an employee is not expected to be working for the school employer are generally not subjected to mitigation. Presumably he contends that as for the monies earned from the bus service during the summer which the Board seeks to be included in mitigation, no mitigation should be permitted.

Based upon the record then existing, I concluded that "any determination of whether Mr. Ciripompa might have obtained employment with the Bus Service for the summer of 2015 had he been actively employed by the Board for the entire 2014-2015 school year must be based upon speculation," as "neither party had presented any affidavits or certifications from anyone connected to Snyder, nor otherwise addressing the circumstances under which the employment was obtained, or might, or might not, have been obtained, in a different factual scenario." Because of this, I concluded that, since it was not unreasonable to assume

In her deposition, Ms. Snyder explained that Mr. Ciripompa started working for Snyder's part-time in late 2014, as he attempted to qualify for a commercial driver's license, or CDL. He began driving for the company shortly thereafter. In late 2014, Ciripompa was serving the 120-day suspension ordered by the first arbitrator, which followed upon the issuance of that arbitrator's decision on October 20, 2014. That suspension lasted until March 9, 2015. Thus, Mr. Ciripompa's employment with the bus company did not begin until after he had been initially suspended in July 2014. Thus, all of his earnings with Snyder post-date that initial suspension date. Some of the monies he earned were for employment that occurred during the school year, some for work performed in the summer when school was not in session and Ciripompa would not have been expected to be performing duties for the Board even if not suspended.

In seeking to include all of Ciripompa's earnings from Snyder's as mitigating his back-pay award, the Board relies on School District of the Township of Willingboro and Gilbert, 3 N.J.A.R. 206 (1981). In Gilbert, Administrative Law Judge Beatrice Tylutki considered the meaning of "substituted employment," the type of employment specified in the statute as the type of earnings to be included in calculating mitigation ("any sums received by such employee or officers by way of pay or salary from any substituted employment assumed during such period of suspension.") After his suspension, Gilbert obtained employment at a job that involved working hours which Judge Tylutki concluded were "not consistent with his employment as a teacher." Thus, while earnings from an employment held prior to the suspension and not inconsistent with his teaching responsibilities would not be included as mitigation, as it was not "substituted" for the employment with the District, the "set off of wages earned by the employee" applied to "a position which the employee could not have held while employed by the [school district]." The judge held that as the teacher had never been employed by the outside employer prior to his suspension and "it appears to be a substitute employment sought out by Mr.

that even if Ciripompa was not employed by Snyder before his suspension that he could have secured employment for the summer, the summer earnings from Snyder Bus Service were not subject to mitigation.

Gilbert because of his suspension," the earnings were required to be included in calculating mitigation against the back pay. 3 N.J.A.R. 209. Allowing Gilbert to exclude the earnings from such employment from the calculation of mitigation "would be to permit Mr. Gilbert, during a period of suspension and while receiving his full teacher's salary, to realize a financial gain." Id. On review, the Commissioner of Education adopted Judge Tylutki's decision. 3 N.J.A.R. 209.

As Ciripompa's employment with Snyder, like that of Gilbert's post-suspension job, was a position only secured after his July 2014 suspension, it seems clear enough that the earnings from Snyder are included as mitigation as "substituted employment," unless it were shown that that employment was not inconsistent with the obligations that Ciripompa would have had to the Board, thus, as Judge Tylutki suggested, employment he "could . . . have held while employed by the [school district]." In Gilbert's case, the testimony made it clear that he secured the post-suspension employment to replace income lost from the Board during his suspension. It is not clear how the judge would have ruled if Gilbert's new employment had involved time commitments that would have not clashed with those he would have had to the district. One way of understanding "substituted employment" could be that any post-suspension employment is "substituted," for any money earned could be viewed as "substituted" for the lost wages. Another understanding could focus on the "consistency" or "inconsistency" of the time obligations, considering that only work "inconsistent" with the time requirements as a teacher was actually "substitute" employment, while work performed at times consistent with maintaining the teacher's obligations to the district was "supplemental" employment," not includable as mitigation. But in Mr. Ciripompa's case, the undisputed evidence garnered from Ms. Snyder's deposition testimony makes it clear that his employment with Snyder's during the school year was inconsistent with this obligation to Bound Brook and thus countable as mitigating earnings. And, there is no evidence to suggest other than that he sought this employment to substitute the earnings therefrom for that he was not receiving from Bound Brook during his unpaid suspension.

According to Ms. Snyder's deposition testimony, her company is located in Washington Township, Warren County. Ms. Snyder explained that the company's morning bus routes run from 6:30 a.m. to 9:05 a.m., however, "most everyone comes in at 6:00." These routes usually last between two and three hours. Some afternoon routes start between 1:00 and 2:00 p.m., but "most everyone comes in between 2:00 and 3:00." These routes generally last until 4:00 and 4:30. She confirmed that the company had no morning routes that finished before 6:45 a.m. or any regular afternoon routes that started after 3:40 p.m., except perhaps a late start at 3:30 p.m. Bound Brook High School is in Somerset County. According to a regular day schedule for 2014-15, the school day periods ran from 7:35 a.m. until 2:52 p.m. In 2015-16 and 2016-17, the schedule of periods ran from "Teacher Arrival" at 7:30 a.m. until "Teacher Dismissal" at 2:55 p.m. According to a MapQuest printout offered as Exhibit J to the Board's brief, the 32.0-mile trip from Bound Brook to Snyder's facility in Washington Township (based on traffic conditions at 3:15 p.m. on March 20, 2019) lasted for 47 minutes. Given these time frames, which appear reasonably translated to the time frame of Ciripompa's employment in 2014-17, the Board posits that Mr. Ciripompa could not have worked at Snyder's during the school year if he had been working his required hours at Bound Brook, as he could not have operated the company's morning routes and arrived at school by 7:35 a.m. or have left school at 2:52 or 2:55 p.m. and arrived at Snyder's before about 3:45 p.m. Thus, he could not have obtained work at Snyder's if he had been working at Bound Brook. And the records of his work hours in 2015 amply support that he did in fact regularly work during hours incompatible with employment as a teacher for Bound Brook. Thus, I FIND that the employment for Snyder's was "substitute" employment, inconsistent with his obligations to Bound Brook, rather than "supplemental," non-conflicting employment.

As for his summer earnings, Ms. Snyder testified that her company does not hire summer employees. Instead, the work is performed by the same drivers who work for the company during the school year.

Q. Do you hire from outside for the summer work or do you use the same drivers?
A. No. We use the same drivers but they don't all work.

Q. You don't hire just summer drivers?
A. No.

In his response to the current motion, Mr. Ciripompa does not present any evidence to refute Ms. Snyder's testimony. As such, in the absence of any affidavit or certification disputing her answers regarding summer employees, I FIND that Snyder's Bus Service did not hire additional employees for summer work and that to have worked for the company during the summer months following the conclusion of the school years 2015-16 and 2016-17, Mr. Ciripompa would have had to have been employed by Snyder's during the school year. And, since he could not have worked for Snyder's during the school year without substantial, disqualifying schedule conflicts with his obligations to Bound Brook or have been hired for solely summer work, as the company did not hire separate employees for the summer, I FIND that all of the earnings from Snyder's, both that earned during the school year and that earned in the summers, must be included as income in calculating the mitigation against back pay. Taking these facts into account, I FIND that Mr. Ciripompa received

$16,514.00	Unemployment
$46,335.44	School year earnings from Snyder's in 2014-15 and 2015-16
$ 4,509.65	Summer earnings from Snyder's in July/August 2015 and July/August 2016
$ 3,105.00	Umpiring
$70,464.09

Even if the summer earnings are not included, the total earnings were $65,954.44, which exceeded his backpay expectation of $63,886 from employment by the Board during the entire period from September 1, 2014 through the resumption of pay on November 1, 2015. Mr. Ciripompa is not entitled to realize a financial gain from his substituted employment. Gilbert. And, of course, as explained above, the summer earnings count as well. Thus, receipt of any back pay would provide such an unwarranted gain.

I CONCLUDE that there are no genuine disputes of material fact that need resolution and that applying the applicable standard of review and substantive law to the undisputed facts, Bound Brook Board of Education, as the moving party, is entitled to summary decision in its favor. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5; Brill v. The Guardian Life Ins. Co. Of America, et al., 142 N.J. 520 (1995).

ORDER

I CONCLUDE that Mr. Ciripompa is not entitled to any back pay. IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the Board's motion for summary decision is GRANTED and the claim for back pay is DISMISSED.

Synopsis

This residency appeal was remanded to the OAL in July 2018 for supplementation of the record and calculation of tuition due to the respondent Board following consideration of the merits by the Commissioner (Commissioner Decision No. 229-18R, decided July 27, 2018). The Commissioner found no basis to disturb the findings of fact and credibility determinations of the ALJ, and adopted the conclusion that the petitioner was never domiciled in North Arlington but, rather, was domiciled in Kearny from September 2014 forward. A hearing was held on February 14, 2019 on the issue of tuition owed to the Board for the period of ineligible attendance.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: a certification from the Board's business administrator was submitted into evidence, and concluded that $30,857.03 was due from the petitioner for the ineligible attendance of her sons, D.Y. and W.Y.; petitioner disputed two of the days of attendance, which the Board deducted from the total tuition owed, making the amount due $30,720.47. The ALJ found the certification to be accurate and credible. Accordingly, the ALJ filed the Initial Decision with the Commissioner for his consideration.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ, with a slight modification to the amount of tuition due because of rounding differences. The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter, and modified the amount of tuition owed to $30,720.36. The petitioner was directed to reimburse the Board in the total amount of $30,720.36 for tuition costs incurred during the time period for which D.Y. and W.Y. were ineligible to attend school in North Arlington.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision on Remand

Y.Y., on behalf of minor children, W.Y. and D.Y.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of North Arlington, Bergen County,

Respondent.

In his July 26, 2018 decision, the Commissioner determined that the petitioner failed to sustain her burden of demonstrating that she was a domiciliary of North Arlington from the 2014-2015 school year to the present; thus, the minor children were not entitled to a free public education in the District's schools during that time. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 18A:38-1b, the Commissioner shall assess tuition against petitioner for the time period during which the minor children were ineligible to attend school in North Arlington. The Commissioner noted, however, that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2(a), tuition may only be assessed for the period during which the hearing was pending "and for up to one year of a student's ineligible attendance in a school district prior to the appeal's filing and including the 21-day period to file an appeal." As such, the Commissioner determined that since the Board issued its final notice of ineligibility on May 4, 2016, the tuition assessment is limited to the period from May 4, 2015 to the present. As the record lacked the information required to calculate the amount of tuition owed to the Board, the Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL for calculation of tuition due to the Board and supplementation of the record as warranted.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board is entitled to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $30,720.36[1] for the period from May 4, 2015 to the present, during which time petitioner's minor children were ineligible to attend school in the District. Specifically, the record establishes that D.Y. attended school for 30.5 days from May 4, 2015 through the end of the 2014-15 school year, at a cost of $60.24 per day, and 8 days in the 2015-16 school year, at a daily rate of $68.28. The cost of tuition for W.Y. at the Bergen County Technical Schools was $47.60 per day for 33 days from May 4, 2015 through the end of the 2014-15 school year, $8,730.00 for the 2015-16 school year, $8,910.00 for the 2016-17 school year, and $9,126.00 for the 2017-18 school year.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, as modified herein, and the petition is hereby dismissed. Petitioner is directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of $30,720.36 for tuition costs incurred during the time period for which D.Y. and W.Y. were ineligible to attend school in North Arlington.

BEFORE JEFFREY A. GERSON, ALJ t/a:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The Commissioner remanded the above matter in July 2018 to supplement the record with a calculation of tuition due from petitioner.

The Commissioner found no basis to disturb the undersigned Findings of Fact and credibility determination and adopted the conclusion that petitioner never was domiciled in North Arlington and remained domiciled in Kearny from September of 2014 forward.

An In-person hearing was conducted on February 14, 2019.

Submitted in evidence was a Certification from Kathleen Marano, Business Administrator for the North Arlington School District. The Certification of Marano (attached hereto) concludes that $30,857.03 is due from petitioner for the ineligible attendance of her sons, D.Y. and W.Y. Marano's Certification, supported by several exhibits was, for the most part, uncontested by petitioner. Petitioner questioned only 2 days which the district credited to petitioner in the amount of $137.56 reflecting two days of attendance.

The total owed by petitioner after deducting the two days of credit is $30,720.47.

The Certification of both Marano and John Susino, the Business Administrator and Board Secretary for the Bergen County Technical and Special Services School, I FIND to be accurate and creditable. (Susino Certification attached).

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Y.Y O/B/O D.Y AND W.Y Petitioners, V. NORTH ARLINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION Respondent.	STATE OF NEW JERSEY OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW AGENCY REF NO. 149-5/16 OAL DOCKET NO. EDU 08260-2016 N Administrative Action CERTIFICATION OF KATHLEEN MARANO

I, Kathleen Marano, of full age, duly certify and say:

1. I am the Business Administrator for the North Arlington School District ("the District") and Secretary for the Board of Education ("the Board").

2. I make this certification in response to the Commissioner of Education's July 26, 2018 Decision on Remand, requiring the Office of Administrative Law to calculate tuition due to the District.

3. In accordance with the Decision on Remand, the foregoing calculations include the period from May 4, 2015 to the present.

4. Attached as Exhibit A is a spreadsheet showing that petitioner is responsible for reimbursing the District for $30,857.03 for the ineligible attendance of her sons, D.Y. and W.Y., during that period.

TUITION REIMBURSEMENT FOR D.Y.

5. As of May 4, 2015, petitioner's son D.Y. was a 5th grade student in the District.

6. The per pupil tuition rate for Grades 1-5 in the District for the 2014-15 school year was $10,844.00. A true copy of an August 5, 2014 memorandum outlining the District's tuition costs for the 2014-15 school year is attached as Exhibit B.

7. Thus, the daily per pupil tuition rate for Grade 5 in the 2014-15 school year was $60.24,[1] calculated by dividing $10,844.00 by 180, the total number of yearly school days.

8. Between May 4, 2015 and the last day of school on June 19, 2015, D.Y. missed 2.5 days (half day on May 11, 2015; full days on May 12, 2015 and June 16, 2015) out of a remaining 33 days. A true copy of D.Y.'s attendance records for the 2014-15 school year is attached as Exhibit C.

9. The total tuition owed for the 30.5 days that D.Y. was in attendance during the 2014-15 school year starting on May 4, 2015 is $1,837.46, calculated by multiplying 30.5 days by $60.24/day.

10. During the 2015-16 school year, D.Y. was a 6th grade student in the District.

[1] Please note that all decimal points are rounded to the hundredths place for simplicity in this certification. The figures calculated in the spreadsheet take into account the full decimal value and may not match the computed value using the rounded figures stated in this certification. The final tuition figures are based on the full values from the spreadsheet.

11. The per pupil tuition rate for Grades 6-8 in the District for the 2015-16 school year was $12,290.00. A true copy of a June 24, 2015 memorandum outlining the District's tuition costs for the 2015-16 school year is attached as Exhibit D.

12. Thus, the daily per pupil tuition rate for Grade 6 in the 2015-16 school year was $68.28, calculated by dividing $12,290.00 by 180.

13. D.Y. attended school for 10 days during the 2015-16 school year. A true copy of D.Y.'s attendance records for the 2015-16 school year is attached as Exhibit E.

9 DAYS

14. The total tuition owed for the 10 days that D.Y. was in attendance during the 2015-16 school year is $682.78, calculated by multiplying 10 days by $68.28/day.

15. D.Y. did not attend school in the District in either the 2016-17 or 2017-18 school years.

16. The total tuition reimbursement owed by petitioner Y.Y. for her son D.Y.'s ineligible attendance is $2,520.23, which is calculated by adding the total tuition of $1,837.46 from the 2014-15 school year (after May 4, 2015) and $682.78 from the 2015-16 school year. (See Exhibit A)

TUITION REIMBURSEMENT FOR W.Y.

17. As of May 4, 2015, petitioner's son W.Y. was a student at the Bergen County Technical Schools ("BCTS").

18. For the 2014-15 school year, the District paid a total of $8,568.00 for W.Y. to attend BCTS. A true copy of the District's payment ledger showing the total billed tuition amount for W.Y.'s attendance at the Bergen County Technical Schools during the 2014-15 school year is attached as Exhibit F.

19. Thus, W.Y.'s daily tuition rate was $47.60, calculated by dividing $8,568.00 by 180.

20. Between May 4, 2015 and the last day of school on June 19, 2015, there were 33 total school days. (See Exhibit C)

21. The total tuition owed for these 33 days is $1,570.80, calculating by multiplying 33 days by $47.60/day.

22. For the 2015-16 school year, the District paid a total of $8,730.00 for W.Y. to attend BCTS. A true copy of the District's payment ledger showing the total billed tuition amount for W.Y.'s attendance at the Bergen County Technical Schools during the 2015-16 school year is attached as Exhibit G.

23. For the 2016-17 school year, the District paid a total of $8,910.00 for W.Y. to attend BCTS. A true copy of the District's payment ledger showing the total billed tuition amount for W.Y.'s attendance at the Bergen County Technical Schools during the 2016-17 school year is attached as Exhibit H

24. For the 2017-18 school year, the District paid a total of $9,126.00 for W.Y. to attend BCTS. A true copy of the District's payment ledger showing the total billed tuition amount for students at the Bergen County Technical Schools during the 2017-18 school year is attached as Exhibit I.

25. The September 17, 2018 Certification of John Susino, Business Administrator and Board Secretary for the Bergen County Technical and Special Services School Districts, confirms that the North Arlington School District has paid all billed amounts for the 2014-15, 2015-16, 2016-17, and 2017-18 school years in full.

26. The total tuition reimbursement owed by petitioner Y.Y. for her son W.Y.'s ineligible attendance is $28,336.80, which is calculated by adding the total tuition of $1,570.80 from the 2014-15 school year (after May 4, 2015), $8,730.00 from the 2015-16 school year, $8,910.00 from the 2016-17 school year, and $9,126.00 from the 2017-18 school year.

TOTAL TUITION REIMBURSEMENT

27. In total, petitioner Y.Y. is responsible for total tuition reimbursement to the District of $30,857.03.

I hereby certify that the foregoing statements made by me are true. I am aware that if any of the foregoing statements made by me are willfully false, I am subject to punishment by law.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Ruth Young-Edri,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner, a tenured teacher employed by the Elizabeth Board of Education (Board), alleged that the Board failed to comply with the due process requirements of the New Jersey Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (the Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq., when it determined that she had harassed, intimidated, or bullied a student in her class. Petitioner requested that the charges against her be dismissed, or – in the alternative – remanded to the Board with the directive that she be afforded the due process to which she is entitled by law. The petitioner filed a motion for summary decision, which was opposed by the Board.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue in this case, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; school districts are required by law to adopt policies that prohibit harassment, intimidation and bullying (HIB) of students, outline expectations for student behavior, and create procedures for reporting HIB-related concerns; the Commissioner has recognized that the due process protections contained in law have equal applicability when an HIB charge is directed against a staff member; in this case, the due process protections enumerated in the Act were largely ignored by the Board; petitioner was not given an opportunity to review the report produced by the Board's anti-bullying specialist, nor any statements or documentary evidence upon which the report was based; there is no evidence that the report was ever shared with the superintendent of schools as required by the Act; and petitioner was not given the opportunity to fully understand the evidence against her and to present testimony in her defense. Accordingly, the ALJ granted petitioner's motion for summary decision and remanded the matter to the local board of education with a directive that petitioner be afforded the due process required under N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter, for the reasons well stated therein. Summary decision was granted in favor of petitioner, and the Board was directed to conduct further proceedings consistent with the requirements of the Act.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Ruth Young-Edri,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed and considered. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) – for the reasons thoroughly stated in the Initial Decision – that the Elizabeth Board of Education (Board) failed to comply with the due process requirements of the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq., related to an allegation of harassment, intimidation, and bullying (HIB) made against petitioner by a student in her class. Staff members accused of committing an act of HIB are entitled to the same due process guaranteed to students under the Act. Gibble v. Hunterdon Central Board of Education, Commissioner Decision 254-16 (July 13, 2016). The record is clear, and the Board did not refute, that: the petitioner was not provided with a written summary of the HIB investigation, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(d); the results of the investigation were not reported to the superintendent, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(b); and the superintendent did not render a decision regarding the allegations, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(e).

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is hereby adopted as the final decision in this matter, and summary decision is granted in favor of petitioner. The Board is directed to conduct further proceedings consistent with the Act.

RUTH YOUNG-EDRI,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY,
Respondent.

Nicholas Poberezhesky, Esq., for petitioner (Caruso Smith Picini, attorneys)

Heather Ford-Savage, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: May 9, 2019 Decided: May 30, 2019

BEFORE ELLEN S. BASS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Ruth Young-Edri, a tenured teacher employed by respondent, the Elizabeth Board of Education (the Board), alleges that the Board failed to comply with the due-process requirements of the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (the Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13, et seq., when it determined that she had harassed, intimidated, and bullied a student in her class. Young-Edri asks that the charges against her be dismissed, or, in the alternative, remanded to the Board with the direction that it afford her the due process to which she is entitled by law.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Young-Edri filed her petition of appeal on October 25, 2018. An answer was filed by the Board on December 7, 2018, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on December 10, 2018. Young-Edri filed a motion for summary decision on March 1, 2019. The Board opposed the motion on April 1, 2019. Young-Edri replied to the opposition on April 8, 2019.

On April 12, 2019, I conferred with counsel via telephone conference. I advised both attorneys that I would like to offer them an opportunity to supply additional information via supplemental certifications. The Board had opposed the motion, but not in certification form. And the Board's submission focused on the truth of the allegations against Young-Edri, rather than the issue in the case, which is whether the Board had afforded Young-Edri an adequate measure of due process. Counsel for Young-Edri had not supplied a certification from his client, and I afforded him an opportunity to do so. These additional submissions were filed on May 9, 2019, at which time the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

It is uncontroverted, and I FIND, that Young-Edri is a tenured teacher who has been employed by the Board for over twenty-six years. In or around April 2018, she became the subject of a harassment, intimidation, or bullying (HIB) investigation, conducted in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13. She was removed from her active teaching duties and placed on administrative leave.

Anti-bullying specialist Peter Vosseler investigated the charges, and interviewed both teachers and students between April 24, 2018, and May 3, 2018. Young-Edri was interviewed on April 26, 2018. I FIND that a written report was generated by Vosseler, but that report was not shared with Young-Edri. The report reveals that Young-Edri was told which child had alleged mistreatment. Young-Edri recounted that the child at issue was a behavioral problem. The summary of her interview reveals that she did not feel fully supported in dealing with this child; for example, she notes that she was not made aware that he had a behavioral intervention plan in place. She was asked about several incidents, to include one involving a mess made at lunch, another about a confiscated laptop, and yet another involving the child's personal cell phone. The author of the report shares that Young-Edri denied any wrongdoing.

A letter of reprimand dated May 9, 2018, was issued to Young-Edri by her building principal, indicating that she was a "perpetrator" in the HIB case, and that she had created a "hostile educational environment." But I FIND that the letter did not provide any information about the investigation, or in any way recount the factual support for the letter's conclusion that Young-Edri had violated the Anti-Bullying Law. Despite being afforded two opportunities to do so, counsel for the Board, in her opposition to the pending motion, shared no evidence that the findings of the anti-bullying specialist were shared with either the superintendent of schools or with the Board itself. The Board offered no evidence that any investigatory materials were shared with Young-Edri at any time prior to this litigation.

Young-Edri appealed the HIB determination on May 16, 2018, and requested a hearing before the Board. Pending that hearing, she was transferred involuntarily to another school building. Young-Edri and her attorney appeared before the Board in executive session on or about July 19, 2018. Young-Edri asserts that she and her attorney were given an opportunity to make brief statements to the Board; Vosseler, who was at the meeting, did not speak. The Board does not disagree. On July 25, 2018, Young-Edri received a letter from the Board attorney notifying her that it had upheld the determination of the anti-bullying specialist. But I FIND that this letter again did not detail with specificity the conduct or incidents that were perceived to have risen to a violation of law.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." Our regulation mirrors R. 4:46-2(c), which provides that "[t]he judgment or order sought shall be rendered forthwith if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law."

A determination whether a genuine issue of material fact exists that precludes summary decision requires the judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. Our courts have long held that "if the opposing party . . . offers . . . only facts which are immaterial or of an insubstantial nature, a mere scintilla, 'Fanciful, frivolous, gauzy or merely suspicious,' he will not be heard to complain if the court grants summary judgment." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 529 (1995) (citing Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co., 17 N.J. 67, 75 (1954)).

The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." Brill, 142 N.J. at 540 (citing Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, 477 U.S. 242, 249 (1986)). When the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law," the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. Liberty Lobby, 477 U.S. at 252. I CONCLUDE that this matter is ripe for summary decision. The Board has offered no facts that would call into question, much less defeat, Young-Edri's claim that the Board failed to provide her with the due process required under N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15.

Districts are required by law to adopt policies that prohibit HIB; that outline expectations for student behavior; that set forth consequences for inappropriate behavior; and that create procedures for reporting HIB-related concerns. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14; N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15. In regard to the investigation of bullying charges, the law requires as follows:

> (b) the results of the investigation shall be reported to the superintendent of schools within two school days of the completion of the investigation . . . ;
> (c) the results of each investigation shall be reported to the board of education no later than the date of the board of education meeting next following the completion of the investigation, along with information on any services provided, training established, discipline imposed, or other action taken or recommended by the superintendent;
>
> (d) parents or guardians of the students who are parties to the investigation shall be entitled to receive information about the investigation, in accordance with federal and State law and regulation, including the nature of the investigation, whether the district found evidence of harassment, intimidation, or bullying, or whether discipline was imposed, or services provided to address the incident of harassment, intimidation, or bullying. This information shall be provided in writing within 5 school days after the results of the investigation are reported to the board. A parent or guardian may request a hearing before the board after receiving the information, and the hearing shall be held within 10 days of the request. The board shall meet in executive session for the hearing to protect the confidentiality of the students. At the hearing the board may hear from the school anti-bullying specialist about the incident, recommendations for discipline or services, and any programs instituted to reduce such incidents;
> (e) at the next board of education meeting following its receipt of the report, the board shall issue a decision, in writing, to affirm, reject, or modify the superintendent's decision. The board's decision may be appealed to the Commissioner of Education, in accordance with the procedures set forth in law and regulation, no later than 90 days after the issuance of the board's decision . . . .

Regulations promulgated by the Department of Education further assist local districts in complying with these statutory requirements. N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.7.

The Commissioner has recognized that the due-process protections contained in law have equal applicability when a bullying charge is directed against a staff member. See K.T. on behalf of K.H. & T.D. v. Deerfield Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 00489-13, Initial Decision (June 19, 2013), rev'd and remanded, Comm'r (July 30, 2013), https://www.nj.gov/education/legal/ (where, in the context of a claim that a teacher bullied a kindergarten student, the Commissioner confirmed that the internal HIB investigation mandated by law is not discretionary); see also Gibble v. Hunterdon Central Bd. of Educ., EDU 02767-15, Final Decision (July 13, 2016), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/; Sadloch v. Cedar Grove Bd. of Educ., EDU 00619-14, Initial Decision (March 26, 2015), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/, aff'd, Comm'r (June 23, 2015), https://www.nj.gov/education/legal/.

I CONCLUDE that the due-process protections contained in the Anti-Bullying Law were largely ignored by this board. A written summary of the investigation was not provided to Young-Edri within five days of the issuance of the anti-bullying specialist's report. The results of the investigation were not shared with the superintendent of schools. The superintendent rendered no decision relative to the bullying allegations and investigation, although, ultimately, the Board was required to "issue a decision, in writing, to affirm, reject, or modify the superintendent's decision." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(e) (emphasis supplied). Relative to the scope of the information that should have been shared with Young-Edri, the recent unpublished Appellate Division decision in J.L. v. Bridgewater Board of Education, No. A-2022-16 (App. Div. October 16, 2018), https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/courts/, is instructive. There, the local board did not supply the parents of an alleged bully with investigative reports completed by the anti-bullying specialist and an HIB committee. The matter was remanded to the local board, which was directed to provide the parents with the full record of the HIB allegations, "including the underlying investigative report, [and] any additional written reports or summaries." Ibid. Only with this completeness of information, the court determined, would the hearing contemplated by law afford the family its rightful measure of due process, and satisfy the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6).

The proper remedy under the totality of the circumstances is a remand to the Board so that it may afford Young-Edri a proper measure of due process. This case is readily distinguishable from Sadloch v. Cedar Grove Board of Education, where the Commissioner determined that violations of due process warranted dismissal of charges against petitioning football coaches. As noted in Gibble v. Hunterdon Central Board of Education, the relief fashioned in Sadloch was based on a unique set of circumstances, and a "state of the record in that case [that] made it impossible for a determination to ever be reached." Gibble, EDU 02767-15, Final Decision (July 13, 2016), at *9, http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/. Not so here. The investigatory report shared here reveals that the anti-bullying specialist conducted a comprehensive investigation and interviewed numerous witnesses. I CONCLUDE that due process requires that Young-Edri be given an opportunity to review that report, and any available statements or other documentary evidence, and be permitted to appear again before the Board for the hearing contemplated by law. And Young-Edri is moreover entitled to evidence that her situation was properly shared with the superintendent and the Board.

As for what the board-level hearing should look like, the plain language of the statute does not require a full adversarial hearing, and it is well established that statutory language should be given its ordinary meaning. Klumb v. Bd. of Educ. of Manalapan-Englishtown Reg'l High Sch. Dist., 199 N.J. 14, 23–24 (2009).[1] The statute only demands that the hearing be conducted in executive session, and that "the board may hear from the school anti-bullying specialist about the incident." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15. But what is surely required is an opportunity for Young-Edri to fully understand the evidence against her and to present testimony and documents to the Board for its consideration; or, put another way, what is required is the modicum of local due process needed to guard against arbitrary, capricious, or ill-informed Board action.

[1] The opportunity for a full adversarial hearing is available if and when the matter is appealed to the Commissioner of Education. In other contexts, law and regulations make it clear when an adversarial hearing is required at the board level. See, e.g., N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3(a)(10), which specifies that the right to cross-examination is available in a board-level appeal of a long-term student disciplinary suspension.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is ORDERED that petitioner's motion for summary decision is GRANTED. This matter is REMANDED to the local board of education so that it can afford petitioner the due process required under N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15. This requires that the Board have its superintendent review the determination of the anti-bullying specialist; that the results of the investigation be shared with the Board; that Young-Edri be supplied with the investigatory file to include witness statements and the report of the anti-bullying specialist; and that she be permitted to present witnesses and documentary evidence to the Board at a hearing.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Respondent.

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and Initial Decision of the OAL have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons set forth in the recommended Order – that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to the standards enunciated in *Crowe v. Petitioner C.D. is the mother of N.P. who is a sophomore at the Paterson Charter School for Science and Technology. Thinsha Carter is the Dean of Discipline at the school. According to Ms. Carter, N.D. has been a challenging student for all school officials and teachers throughout her enrollment at the school. This is N.P.'s third year at the school. Due to poor academic performance, it was necessary for N.D. to repeat 9th grade. She was headed for the same recommendation at the end of the school year, due to failing grades in Language Arts and Math.

Ms. Carter testified that while serving a two day in school suspension, a serious incident occurred on May 9, 2019 involving N.D. and another student who became involved in an altercation. Unable to express herself properly, N.D. threw a plastic milk container at the other student hitting them in the face. The incident triggered a ten day out of school suspension due to the severity of the incident. C.D. was advised that upon returning to the school N.D. would be facing an expulsion hearing at the end of May. Not wanting N.D. to face expulsion, C.D, voluntarily withdrew N.D. from school. Shortly thereafter, C.D. experienced second thoughts about this decision and sought readmission to the school for N.D. so she could complete the school year. The school declined and the within appeal was filed.

Thinsha Carter provided background about N.D.'s experience at the school as well as an uncontroverted affidavit. N.D. frequently left class early. She failed to report to suspensions. N.D. also missed twenty-six days of school unexcused. Petitioner says some of the unexcused absences were due to suspensions, but she can't account for any of the days N.D. failed to report to school. Petitioner further testified N.D. is one of five children she is responsible for. She is single mom who works full-time. Each of her children have different types of challenges. She feels great stress trying to guide N.D. and feels she is doing the best she can in difficult circumstances. Petitioner says she made a mistake pulling N.D. out of school and want N.D. to have an opportunity to compete the school year, even it if means she must repeat the year due to academic issues.

On behalf of the school, Ms. Carter states N.D. has had several chances to correct her behavior, she is a distraction to others and the school is unwilling to take her back. Ms. Carter was unable to say if N.D. was evaluated by the school's Child Study Team, but there is no evidence to indicate that such a study was ever suggested or done.

LAW

This is an application for Emergent Relief. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6 Emergent relief or stay is set forth below:

a) Where the subject matter of controversy is a particular course of action by a district board of education or any other party subject to the jurisdiction of the Commissioner, the petitioner may include with the petition of appeal, a separate motion for emergent relief or stay of that action pending the Commissioner's final decision in the contested case.

b) A motion for stay or emergent relief shall be accompanied by a letter memorandum or brief which shall address the following standards to be met for granting such relief, pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982):

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted.

2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;

3. The petitioner has likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

c) Any party opposing such motion shall so indicate as part of the answer to the petition field pursuant to N.J.A.C 6A:3-1.5. However, upon review, the Commissioner may:

1. Act upon such motion prior to the filing of an answer, provided a reasonable effort is made to give the opposing party an opportunity to be heard;

2. Act upon such motion upon receipt of the answer; or

3. Transmit the motion to the OAL for immediate hearing on the motion.

> d) The Commissioner may decide a motion for interim relief or stay prior to any transmittal of the underlying matter to the OAL for hearing. Once a matter has been transmitted, any subsequent motion for emergent relief shall be field with Commissioner who shall forward the motions for determination by the OAL in accordance with applicable rules of the OAL. See T.I. v Monroe Township Board of Ed OAL Docket No. EDS 10816-17 2017 NJ AGEN. LEXIS 814 denying Emergent Relief due to failure to establish four elements.

According to the Charter School Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-1 et seq., PCSST acted within its authority when it notified C.D. of the possibility of N.D.'s expulsion. Section 9 of the Act provides:

> Except as otherwise provided in [C. 18A:37-2a], a student may be expelled from a charter based on criteria determined by the board of trustees, which are consistent with the provisions of N.J.S. 18A:37-2, and approved by the commission as part of the school's charger. Any expulsion shall be made upon the recommendation of the charger school principal, in consultation with the student's teachers.

Conduct that is considered "good cause" for suspension or expulsion of as student includes insubordination and physical assault of another student, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2. The Act also provides, "A student may withdraw from a charter school at any time." N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-9. C.D. did just that on May 14, 2019, rather than allow her child to finish the school year at least until a hearing before the board of trustees occurred. C.D. was informed that if she withdrew N.D. from PCSST, N.D. could not return without going through the annual lottery for admission because the school has a waiting list for this school year and the following year. (Carter Cert., ¶9.) Admission to PCCST, like other charter schools is "on a space available basis.: See N.J.S.A. 18A:6A-7. Although the school registrar explained to C.D the difficulty in re-enrolling N.D. if C.D. were to withdraw her and later change her mind, C.D. withdrew N.D. anyway. Id. She also withdrew N.D.'s brother from enrollment. Id.

When a student withdraws from a charter school, the student may enroll in the public-school district in which the student lives. Therefore, N.D. will be able to continue her high school education in Paterson is she is not enrolled in PCSST.

Under the circumstance presented here, C.D.'s petition does not meet the criteria for emergent relief found in Crowe v. DiGoia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). First of all, N.D.. will not suffer irreparable harm since she can attend high school in Paterson Public Schools at not cost to her. She also may not prevail on the merits since she was facing an expulsion hearing for valid reasons. Unfortunately, she will have to repeat the tenth grade, since she did not earn sufficient credits in 2018-19 school year to advance to eleventh grade. (Carter Cert.,¶13.)

Further, the legal right that C.D. asserts is not settled in petitioner's favor. N.D. has no right to continued enrollment in PCSST because her mother withdrew her enrollment voluntarily. The law permits withdrawal form a charter school, and there is no allegation that N.D.'s withdrawal was compelled or processed erroneously. Therefore, petitioner has no likelihood of success on the merits. And finally, weighing the equities between the petitioner and PCSST in granting or denying the relief sought, there is not equitable reason for granting the relief sought. N.D. has at least one educational option available to her to enroll in a Paterson public high school.

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. N.P. was a sophomore at Paterson Charter School for Science and Technology.

2. This is N.P.s third year as a student at the school. Throughout her tenure there, she has been a challenge to teachers and school officials, periodically skipping class or not attending school altogether.

3. Due to academic infractions, she was required to repeat 9th grade, and was on track to be told she had to repeat 10th grade due to failing grades in Language Arts and Math.

4. On May 8th, while serving a two day "in school" suspension, an incident occurred between N.P. and another student that escalated, leading N.P. to throw a full plastic container of chocolate milk at the other student.

5. The container struck the other student in the face, and resulted in N.P. receiving a 10 day "out of school" suspension.

6. When N.P.'s mother, petitioner C.P. was brought to school, it was explained to her that it was likely upon returning to school, N.P. would be facing expulsion.

7. Rather than expose N.P. to this likely event, petitioner immediately withdrew her from school, with only 30 days remaining in the school year.

8. C.P. admitted to being under great stress, as she is a single mother of five children who works full time.

9. Petitioner admitted that although it was recommended to her that she arrange for N.P. to go for counseling to address her behavioral issues, she never did so.

10. It does not appear that officials at the school ever recommended N.P. undergo a Child Study Team evaluation, so there was no I.E.P. or 504 accommodations provided to N.P., nor was such a study ever requested by N.P.'s mother.
11. Within days of removing N.P. from school, petitioner had second thoughts and sought re-enrollment for N.P.

12. The 10-day suspension, the de-enrollment process, the notice of possible expulsion and the denial of re-admission to the school were all in accordance with the student handbook which was provided to all students and families at the time of enrollment.

13. The decision not to re-admit N.P. to the school does not constitute a violation of FAPE or IDEA in that N.P. is not classified, there is no IEP or 504 involved and there is an alternative school available to her specifically the Paterson Public Schools, and one of its general high schools.

Based on the testimony of the witnesses, the affidavit of Thinsa Carter, and other related documents, I CONCLUDE that the decision of the Paterson Charter School for Science and Technology, denying re-admission to N.P. was appropriate and should be AFFIRMED. [1]

ORDER

It is ORDERED that petitioner's Petition of Appeal be and hereby is DISMISSED.

[1] Though not obligated to do so, to help N.P.'s transition back to the general Paterson Public Schools, it is recommended that officials at Paterson Charter School of Science and Technology communicate with the school N.P. will be placed and suggest a Child Study Team evaluation to help streamline her transition to a new school.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Order on Emergent Relief

Antoine Gayles,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Hillside, Union County,

Respondent.

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the recommended order – that petitioner has demonstrated entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to the standards enunciated in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL, granting petitioner's application for emergent relief, is adopted for the reasons expressed by the ALJ. This case shall continue at the OAL with such proceedings as the parties and the ALJ deem necessary to bring it to closure.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Record Closed: June 17, 2019 Decided: June 21, 2019

BEFORE ANDREW M. BARON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner Antoine Gayles, currently suspended/placed on leave from his position as Superintendent of Schools in Hillside, New Jersey, with pay, brings a second Emergent Relief application to this tribunal as a result of a recent unilateral action by the Hillside

Board of Education with the substantive underlying matter on remand from the Commissioner still pending before this forum wherein with virtually no notice stopped all further payments, health coverage and benefits.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed a second motion for Emergent Relief directly with the undersigned due to its connection to a pending related case, seeking reinstatement of salary and benefits. The matter had been the subject of a prior application for Emergent Relief before the Hon. Thomas Betancourt on March 6, 2019. Based on certain representations that were made on the record at the time by the Board counsel, and the respective position of the Board itself, Judge Betancourt denied the application by petitioner on the basis among other things that the Board was still paying petitioner and continuing to provide benefits, and his determination that he did not believe petitioner could succeed on the merits and meet the other criteria required for this type of application.[1]

Although Judge Betancourt ruled at the time that the rest of petitioner's case was moot, the Commissioner disagreed and remanded the matter for additional proceedings. Subsequently, Judge Betancourt recused himself from handling the rest of the case as well as the related Summary Action filed by the board. [2]

On May 9, 2019, the Board changed its position on the continued payments to petitioner based in part on the recently decided case of Wall Twp. Educ. Ass'n v. Wall Twp. Bd of Ed. The decision to do so, while the case on the merits was still pending before the office of Administrative Law was only done on 3 days notice to petitioner, with the notice omitting what action was going to be taken against him.

Having learned that the salary and benefits would now be terminated, petitioner brings the within second Emergent Application on May 23, 2019, to compel the Board to return him to the status quo and continue the payments, at least until both cases on the merits could be heard.

[2] Transcript of prior proceeding March 5, 2019 attachment

Each party filed briefs and oral argument was held on June 17, 2019. Counsel for both parties granted the undersigned additional time though June 21st to file this decision. The current Superintendent, Dr. Sheard was notified of her right to file to Intervene in this proceeding and be heard, but declined to do so.

Virtually all of the facts set forth below are undisputed:

1. Petitioner began his position as Superintendent of the Hillside Public Schools under a contract with a term from July 1, 2016 through June 30, 2020.

2. On November 6, 2018, an election for five seats on the District Board of Education was held. Four new members were elected, together with one remaining incumbent member.

3. At one of its last public meetings prior to the new Board assuming office, on November 29, 2018, the prior Board took action to rescind petitioner's existing contract, and replace it with a new contract, which, among other things extended petitioner's term for three additional years through June 2023 and raised his salary.

4. At its first meeting which took place on January 3, 2019, the new Board issued a Rice Notice to petitioner.

5. At another meeting on January 24, 2019, the Board suspended petitioner with pay and benefits continuing. No date was memorialized for this change of status to end, and there are no facts that have been presented that the superintendent has been suspended for cause or any allegations of improper acts.

6. The parties, with counsel, appeared before Judge Betancourt on March 6, 2019, at which time the District through counsel represented that the relief requested should be denied because petitioner would still be paid. In fact, it was represented to Judge Betancourt that "the Board did not want to diminish petitioner's compensation, until it got a got a declaratory ruling as to which contract if either, was valid....he's out with pay." (Transcript of Argument before Judge Betancourt page 7 lines 11-20).

7. Two days before the hearing before Judge Betancourt, on March 4, 2019, the District filed its request for a Declaratory Ruling.

8. Both matters were remanded to the OAL, and with Judge Betancourt's recusal, the matters were assigned to the undersigned ALJ.

9. Following a status phone conference, the parties were directed to appear for a settlement conference, one of which was held on April 29, 2019, and the second on May 14, 2019.

10. Five days prior to the second conference, the Board on less than 3 days notice to petitioner, unilaterally took action to stop the payments it had previously agreed to make, resulting in no further payments to petitioner as of May 15, 2019. As of the date of this unilateral action, no date had been scheduled for the Board's request for Summary Decision, and/or the remand of the remaining parts of the case that had previously been filed by petitioner.

11. On the return date of the second request for Emergent Relief, no testimony was taken and the parties relied on their submissions and oral argument. Subsequent thereto, an expedited hearing date has been scheduled on the merits of both matters for July 8 and July 9, 2019. The District has also filed a Motion to Strike Petitioner's Answer and Disqualify Petitioner's counsel, a date for which is still to be assigned.

12. In support of its actions and position, the District relies on the recently decided Wall case, as well as its belief this is a contract case only and since the first contract was mutually rescinded, they have authority to cease payments.

13. The Board does not dispute however that when making its representations to Judge Betancourt, which in part were the basis for his denial of the first application since he was told petitioner would be paid, at no time did the District indicate that there was a deadline for when the payments would end, or that they would do so while both cases on the merits were still pending before the Office of Administrative Law. The District, which shortly after placing petitioner on suspension hired a new superintendent, represents that it has to protect its taxpayers and cannot afford to pay two superintendents.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

The threshold question in this matter is again whether or not the District can place the superintendent on administrative leave or otherwise suspend him, and then cease his salary payments after agreeing to do so.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 states: "any employee or officer of a board of education in this State who is suspended from his employment office or position, other than by reason of indictment, pending any investigation, hearing or trial or any appeal therefrom, SHALL receive his full pay or salary during the period of suspension except that in the event of charges against such employee or officer brought before the board of education or the Commissioner of Education pursuant to law, such suspension may be with or without pay or salary as provided in chapter 6 of this section.

N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-3.1 governs the review of employment contracts for superintendents, and N.J.A.C. 6A23A-3.2 addresses the required actions for early terminations of such contracts. Among other things, notice is required, and at least 30 days notice of a hearing is required before any such action is taken. Simply put, the District's argument on the return date of the second Emergent Relief application that these provisions due not apply because there was a prior rescission are not justified, at least until a hearing on the full merits can be conducted.

And the undisputed fact that a prior ALJ ruled on Emergent Relief, albeit on different facts and representations estopps this ALJ from ruling is not a convincing argument, as again, for lack of a better term, the Board changed the playing field while the game had not yet been played.

It is undisputed that the question of which contract or either contract has still not been decided, yet the Board on May 9, 2019 unilaterally voted to stop the payments it had been making to petitioner, which it previously represented it would do to the ALJ previously assigned to this case. During argument, the District advocated that the provision of N.J.A.C. 6A:23A do not apply since there was a prior mutual rescission yet at the same time they also argue that the actions of the prior Board in providing a new and extended term contract to petitioner were invalid. The argue that at worst, petitioner has a money damages argument which the Office of Administrative Law does not have the power or authority to entertain.[3]

Finally, the Board argues that with respect to this second Emergent Relief application, petitioner cannot meet the requirements of Crowe v. DeGioa, 90 NJ 126, 132,34 (1982), factors of which are also enumerated at N.J.A.C. 6A:14.2-7 as follows:

i. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted.

ii. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled

iii. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the underlying merits

iv. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will if the relief is not granted.

[3] The District argues that this matter of damages should be litigated in Superior Court despite being well aware that such parties must first exhaust administrative remedies at the OAL.

The burden for demonstrating success on these prongs is on the moving party. Waste Management of NJ v. Union County Utilities Authority, 399 NJ Super 508 (App. Div. 2008).

Certainly, petitioner can demonstrate he will suffer immediate and irreparable harm. Contrasted with the first application for Emergent Relief, the second action by the Board on May 9th strips him of the continuing temporary salary and benefits while the underlying matter is working its way through the OAL. And further and equally if not more important, there was no action to undue or explain the suspension effective January 2019, thereby making it difficult if not impossible to mitigate his damages and secure a new position in another District, which would essentially meet the needs of the Board to save its taxpayers money.

Petitioner's moving papers essentially represent that he was not considered for 5 positions he applied for due to the suspension, and also had to turn down a prestigious award, so as not to embarrass the organization that wanted to honor him. As to prong ii- , the law on the underlying claim is settled and can be decided once a full hearing is conducted.

As to the likelihood of success on the merits, an argument can be made either way, but there is at least a 50 percent likelihood that petitioner may prevail given the Board's failure to follow statutory and code requirements governing early termination of a superintendent.

Finally, as to prong iv- it seems clear that with no pay and benefits, while a full hearing is pending, with a black mark of a suspension not triggered by bad conduct causing petitioner to be unable to find a new position, he will suffer greater harm than that of the District, and will suffer a financial hardship, at least until a full hearing on the merits now scheduled for July 8th and 9th can be conducted.

ORDER

I ORDER that petitioner's motion for Emergent Decision be and hereby is GRANTED as to the request for ongoing salary and benefits only, retroactive to May 15, 2019 until further Order of this Tribunal and/or the Commissioner of Education. However, this ruling should not in any way be deemed to restore petitioner to the status of superintendent of the Hillside Schools, as that would be too disruptive to the District and its students since another individual is currently serving in that position.

I further ORDER that the Board compensate petitioner for any salary and benefits lost and credit petitioner any seniority credit lost retroactive to January 1, 2019, pending further Order of this Tribunal and/or the Commissioner of Education, and this Order shall remain in full force and effect until the hearing on the merits is held on July 8th and 9th 2019, and a Final Decision is entered.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If (title of agency head) does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

PURSUANT TO THE REFERRAL BY THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION, STATE OF NEW JERSEY

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF NOEL GORDON	: BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF : EDUCATION, STATE OF NEW JERSEY
BY THE SCHOOL BOARD OF THE CITY OF ENGLEWOOD, BERGEN COUNTY	: AGENCY DOCKET NO. 25-1/19
	: DECISION ON MOTION TO DISMISS

BEFORE: CAROL F. LASKIN, ESQUIRE, ARBITRATOR

APPEARANCES:

On behalf of Noel Gordon
Andrew L. Schwartz, Esquire

On behalf of Englewood Board of Education
Dennis McKeever, Esquire
Sciarrillo, Cornell, Merlino,
McKeever & Osborne, LLC

On January 25, 2019, the Englewood Board of Education ("Board", "Petitioner", or "District") filed Tenure Charges of unbecoming conduct, incompetence and other just cause consisting of one hundred and thirty-six (136) separate paragraphs (some with sub-parts) against Respondent Noel Gordon ("Dr. Gordon" or "Respondent"). The charges against Dr. Gordon emanated from irregularities found in student transcripts at Dwight Morrow High School ("DMHS") and Academies@Englewood.

The instant sworn Tenure Charges is the third occasion in which the District filed charges against Respondent. By Resolution, on February 16, 2017, the Board placed numerous employees, including Dr. Gordon, on paid administrative leave until the completion of an internal investigation regarding, inter alia, transcript irregularities.

After the investigation, on September 20, 2017, the District filed a consolidated set of Tenure Charges against eight (8) employees. The Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") dismissed the charges, Agency Docket Number 216-9/17, declaring them "procedurally defective," sealing all records on November 9, 2017 because identifying student information was included in support of the charges. The dismissal was without prejudice to refile. (R- 1)[1]

On January 29, 2018, the District filed separate charges against each employee, including Dr. Gordon. Those charges, Agency Docket Number 24-1/18 were dismissed on August 13, 2018, by Arbitrator Joseph Licata for failing to comply with specific requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b)(1) and failing to adhere to the Commissioner's prior directives. Again, the dismissal was without prejudice to refile. (R-2) In both dismissals, the Board was directed to reinstate Dr. Gordon with full back pay and benefits.

Dr. Gordon's employment, however, was effected by the Board's determinations to abolish positions - a Reduction In Force (RIF). At the expiration of the 2016-2017 school year, during the investigation, the Board abolished the Position of Director of Guidance, Testing and Evaluation. Dr. Gordon also held tenure as a Vice Principal. Nonetheless, On June 1, 2017, Dr. Gordon was informed, "Please be advised, however, that due to the pendency of the investigation and your status of being on paid suspension, no formal assignment shall be designated at this time for the 2017/2018 school year." (R-4)

[1] Respondent's Exhibits attached to the Motion to Dismiss are identified as R-.

Kravitz conveyed the following notification to Dr. Gordon:

> "Please be advised that at the May 3, 2018 Englewood Public School District Board of Education meeting, I will be recommending a reduction in force to the Englewood Board of Education. My recommendation is based upon reasons of economy and other just cause. Your employment position will be impacted by this recommendation, and effective for the 2018-2019 school year, your position will be eliminated.
> Your employment with the District will, therefore, conclude on June 30, 2018. COBRA information will be provided to you by the Business Office, Department of Human Resources.
>
> This is a difficult decision to make, one that I have given careful and deliberate thought, and one that is not made lightly.
> I thank you for your service and dedication to the Englewood Public School District." (R-3, emphasis supplied)

On May 3, 2018, by Resolution, the Board abolished the position of Vice Principal, effective July 1, 2018, "for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause." (R-3)

On July 1, 2018, after the Board's approval of the RIF, Dr. Gordon was removed from the payroll, from insurance programs and ceased receiving pension contributions. He retains no District property nor has any access to District emails or technology.

On or about July 25, 2018, Dr. Gordon filed a Petition of Appeal, with the Commissioner (thereafter amended), claiming, inter alia, tenure entitlement to various positions held by non-tenured and/or less senior staff members. The Petition is before the Honorable Danielle Pasquale, A.L.J. with the Office of Administrative Law.

In his Brief in Support of the Motion to Dismiss, Dr. Gordon argues the "Tenure Hearing Law", N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. applies only to school district employees under tenure. And, as Dr.

Gordon is no longer a District employee, the charges, procedurally invalid, should be dismissed.

The Board maintains the tenure laws do not prohibit a District from certifying tenure charges against a tenured "inactive employee" who has been reduced-in-force.

Accordingly, in assessing whether to grant or deny the instant Motion, the following issue must be addressed:

> Whether the Englewood Board of Education can file tenure charges against Dr. Gordon after the positions to which he earned tenure were abolished by Resolutions of the Board of Education, Reduced-in-Force, said RIFs the subject of a Petition of Appeal before the Office of Administrative Law?

Title 18A - EDUCATION

The Parties identified the following provisions of Title 18A- Education as particularly relevant:[2]

18A:6-10. Dismissal and reduction in compensation of persons under tenure in public school system

No person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation,

except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing held pursuant to this subarticle, by the commissioner, or a person appointed by him to act in his behalf, after a written charge or charges, of the cause or causes of complaint, shall have been preferred against such person, signed by the person or persons making the same, who may or may not be a member or members of a board of education, and filed and proceeded upon as in this subarticle provided.

Nothing in this section shall prevent the reduction of the number of any such persons holding such offices, positions or employments under the conditions and with the effect provided by law.

18A:6-11 Written charges, statement of evidence; filing; statement of position by employee; certification of determination; notice.

[2] The Parties also identified numerous administrative code provisions, the recitation of which would overburden this decision.

Any charge made against any employee of a board of education under tenure during good behavior and efficiency shall be filed with the secretary of the board in writing, and a written statement of evidence under oath to support such charge shall be presented to the board. The board of education shall forthwith provide such employee with a copy of the charge, a copy of the statement of the evidence and an opportunity to submit a written statement of position and a written statement of evidence under oath with respect thereto....

18A:6-14 Suspension upon certification of charge; compensation; reinstatement.

18A:6-14. Upon certification of any charge to the commissioner, the board may suspend the person against whom such charge is made, with or without pay, but, if the determination of the charge by the arbitrator is not made within 120 calendar days after certification of the charges, excluding all delays which are granted at the request of such person, then the full salary (except for said 120 days) of such person shall be paid beginning on the one hundred twenty-first day until such determination is made. Should the charge be dismissed at any stage of the process, the person shall be reinstated immediately with full pay from the first day of such suspension. Should the charge be dismissed at any stage of the process and the suspension be continued during an appeal therefrom, then the full pay or salary of such person shall continue until the determination of the appeal. However, the board of education shall deduct from said full pay or salary any sums received by such employee or officers by way of pay or salary from any substituted employment assumed during such period of suspension. Should the charge be sustained on the original hearing or an appeal therefrom, and should such person appeal from the same, then the suspension may be continued unless and until such determination is reversed, in which event he shall be reinstated immediately with full pay as of the time of such suspension.

18A:28-9. Reduction of force; power to reduce and reasons for reduction

Nothing in this title or any other law relating to tenure of service shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article.

18A:28-12. Reemployment in order of seniority

18A:28-12. If any teaching staff member shall be dismissed as a result of such reduction, such person shall be and remain upon a preferred eligible list in the order of seniority for re-employment whenever a vacancy occurs in a position for which such person shall be qualified and he shall be reemployed by the body causing dismissal, if and when such vacancy occurs and in determining seniority, and in computing length of service for re-employment, full recognition shall be given to previous years of service.....

POSITION OF THE PARTIES

The Parties proffered comprehensive argument; the essence of each is as follows:

Respondent Noel Gordon

In support of his motion, Dr. Gordon maintains the Tenure Employees' Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq., applies only to school district employees under tenure. It does not apply to individuals such as Dr. Gordon who have been dismissed by way of a reduction in force pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9.

Every applicable provision of the Tenure Employees' Hearing Law assumes employment within the district or suspended persons under salary. The State Board of Education Administrative Code Provisions, the implemented regulations, also refer to employees, professes Respondent. RIF statutes would be undermined if tenure charges could ensue after the abolishment of a teaching staff member's position. That Dr. Gordon has a pending Petition of Appeal before the Commissioner of Education, does not change his status from one who's employment with the district "concluded" on June 20, 2018. (R-3)

Respondent requests the instant tenure charges be dismissed, as procedurally invalid, without prejudice to refile.

Petitioner Englewood Board of Education

Tenure laws provide procedures to follow and criteria for dismissal or salary reduction. The laws do not prohibit the Board of Education from certifying tenure charges against a tenured "inactive" employee who has been reduced-in-force, avers the Board. A person, within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq., who has been reduced-in-force is tenured, otherwise there would not be entitlement to a preferred eligibility list - to be recalled to the position. The Board maintains a person is not isolated from tenure charges while on the preferred eligibility list.

As a tenured employee, Dr. Gordon does not lose his status regardless of whether he is an active employee or inactive employee on the eligibility list. As Respondent's tenure rights did not disappear when Dr. Gordon was reduced-in-force, the legal ability of the Board to terminate him for inefficiency, unbecoming, conduct or just cause did not disappear.

Moreover, the District asserts, every statute and administrative code regulation relating to the Tenure Employees' Hearing Law also applies to a tenured person who has been reduced-in-force. "The focus of tenure charges is on an inactive employee's tenure entitlement to a position in the school district and not whether the person is an active employee." (Brief at 8) Counsel concludes,

> "It is Respondent's tenure status that required Respondent be on a preferred eligibility list and it is Respondent's tenure status that permits the Petitioner to certify tenure charges against Respondent. Respondent's motion to dismiss the tenure charges must be dismissed." (Brief at 10)

ANALYSIS

Whether the Englewood Board of Education can file tenure charges against Dr. Gordon after the positions to which he earned tenure were abolished by Resolutions of the Board of Education, Reduced-in-Force, said RIFs the subject of a Petition of Appeal before the Office of Administrative Law?

Contrary to the two previous tenure charges referred by the District, neither the verbiage of the charges, nor supporting evidence is the basis of the instant Motion to Dismiss. Rather, a determination of the issue before me requires an examination of statutory language and enforcing administrative code provisions.

The instant charges of January 25, 2019, were certified and referred to the Commissioner of Education by the District, almost six (6) months after the position of Vice Principal was eliminated in a RIF, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. Almost six (6) months after Dr. Gordon's employment in the District "concluded."

The issue herein necessitates a discussion as to whether the tenure statutes can be interpreted to apply to the Board's concept of an "inactive employee." While the Board presented creative thought-provoking argument, upon consideration of the statutory provisions of Title 18A, the enforcing administrative code provisions found in N.J.A.C. 6A, and the parties' argument, I find the Board's concept of tenure of an "inactive employee" unconvincing, not persuasive. The undersigned finds she lacks statutory authority to conduct a hearing, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1, Panel of Arbitrators, on tenure charges alleging conduct unbecoming against Dr. Gordon.

Tenure is a statutory right. As recently as April 30, 2019, the Supreme Court of New Jersey in Zimmerman v. Sussex Cty. Educ. Servs. Comm'n, 237 N.J. 465 reiterated, once employed for the "duration of service" required to acquire tenure, termination of a tenured individual's employment rights requires strict compliance to the Tenure Act. The Court, therein, cited Spiewak v. Bd of Educ. of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 68, 74-75 (1982) recognizing tenure protections, as remedial legislation, "should be liberally construed to achieve its beneficent ends."

The statutes provide two pathways to terminate a tenured individual's employment. The Board may certify charge(s) of inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause. Upon review, if the Commissioner determines the tenure charge(s) are sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or a reduction in salary, the matter is transmitted to an arbitrator appointed to hear and determined the case, according to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1 Panel of Arbitrators. (see also N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.5 Controversies and Disputes).

A tenured employee can be also be "concluded" by elimination of the tenured position by way of a RIF conducted in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, upon the abolishment of "any such position for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of administrative change or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause." Thereafter, the reduced-in-force employee is listed, in order of seniority, upon a preferred eligibility list.

The language of the Tenure Employees' Hearing Act is clear, unambiguous and consistent with code provisions. In order to evoke N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, a "person" must be "under tenure of office, position or employment." N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 expresses the word "employee", refers to "the holder of any position or employment." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 articulates charges are made "against any employee." It is to the "employee" that a Board must provide a copy of a charge or an opportunity to submit a written statement of position. And, upon the Board's referral of the case for arbitration, "the employing Board of Education shall provide all evidence...to the employee or the employees' representative." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1 (b)(3).

The Petitioner did not proffer any decisions of the Commissioner of Education or Appellate Courts to support the concept of an "inactive employee"; nor of its claim placement of an employee who was subject to a reduction in force on a preferred eligibility list until a vacancy occurs, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12 and N.J.A.C.6A32-5.1(I), resurrects the Board's power to certify tenure charges.

DETERMINATION

In light of the above review, I find the "person" referenced in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, Dismissal and reduction in compensation of persons under tenure in public school systems, must be an employee of the Board of Education at the time charges are certified. The Tenure Employees'

Hearing Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. applies only to school district employees under tenure. The Englewood Board of Education cannot pursue tenure charges filed against Noel Gordon after the positions to which he earned tenure were abolished by Resolutions of the Board of Education, Reduced-in-Force, said RIFs the subject of a Petition of Appeal before the Office of Administrative Law.

Accordingly, Respondent's Motion to Dismiss is, hereby, granted, without prejudice to refile.

This Agreement is made by and between Petitioner, Natasha Williams, and the Respondent, Ewing Board of Education ("Board").

RECITALS

WHEREAS, in or about January of 2018, Respondent Ewing Board of Education determined, based on the results of a residency investigation, that minor student N.W. was not domiciled in the Ewing School District ("District") and thus not entitled to a free, public education in the District and passed a resolution ordering the removal of the student from the District; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner thereafter commenced an administrative action to challenge the Board's residency determination with regard to N.W.; and

WHEREAS, this administrative action is captioned N.W. o/b/o N.W. v. the Ewing Board of Education and is presently pending before the Commissioner of Education in the Office of Administrative Law and docketed as OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8312-18S, Agency Dkt. No.

116-5/18 ("the Litigation"), the allegations of which are detailed more fully in the Petition of Appeal served and filed in the Litigation; and

WHEREAS, in order to avoid the expense, inconvenience, distractions and inherent uncertainties associated with continuation of this dispute, and the fees and expenses that inevitably would result therefrom, the Parties, by this Agreement, herein agree to adopt a full and final settlement of any and all claims, lawsuits, complaints, and/or disputes between Petitioner and Respondent in connection with any and all damages and losses arising from the Litigation; and

WHEREAS, by this Agreement, Petitioner will voluntarily dismiss the Litigation with prejudice, without costs to any party as against the other;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of good and valuable consideration, the sufficiency and adequacy of which is acknowledged, the parties to this Agreement agree as follows:

1. The Parties understand that during the pendency of the residency investigation, N.W. was found by the Board not to be domiciled in Ewing, but rather, in Trenton, New Jersey.
2. Petitioner shall pay the Board the sum of One Thousand, Five Hundred Dollars ($1,500.00), representing back tuition due and owing for the period of N.W.'s ineligible attendance in the District during the 2017-2018 school year, which shall constitute a full and final settlement of the claim for back tuition asserted against Petitioner by Respondent Board of Education in the Litigation.
3. The amount of $1,500 is to be paid as follows: Within fifteen (15) days after approval of the Agreement by the Administrative Law Judge and Commissioner of Education, Petitioner shall make an initial payment in the amount of Fifty Dollars ($50.00), in the form of a check made payable to the "Ewing Board of Education," hand-delivered or mailed to the office of Dennis Nettleton, School Business Administrator/Board Secretary, at the District Administration office, 2099 Pennington Road, Ewing, New Jersey 08618. The remaining amount of $1,450.00 shall be paid in fourteen (14) subsequent equal monthly installments of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) each and a final payment of $50.00, until the full amount has been satisfied. Nothing herein shall prevent Petitioner from paying a greater amount than the monthly payment amount, provided that at least the minimum payment of $100.00 is received monthly.

4. Each installment payment is due on the first (1st) day of each Month at the office of the School Business Administrator at the above address, beginning in the month following that in which the initial payment was made. Payments received by the School Business Administrator after the 30th day following the payment due date shall incur a late fee of $25.00. Any payment and late fee not received by the 15th of the then-following month shall constitute a default by Petitioner and a breach of this Agreement. Petitioner will receive receipts for each payment from the School Business Administrator.

5. Petitioner, in consideration of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release, and in full, final, and complete settlement of the matter, hereby agrees to a withdrawal and/or dismissal, with prejudice, of their Petition of Appeal in this matter.

6. Petitioner further understands and agrees that, if she fails to make a payment in accordance with this Agreement, the entire remaining unpaid amount shall immediately become due and owing, payable in a single lump sum.

7. Petitioner further agrees to indemnify Respondent for any and all costs, including court costs and attorney's fees, associated with any action instituted by Respondent to enforce the terms of this Agreement should Petitioner breach the Agreement and/or fail to adhere to the agreed-upon payment plan.

8. The terms of this Agreement shall in no way constitute acceptance or assent by the Board that N.W., nor any other child of Petitioner, as may be applicable, is automatically entitled to a free public education in the District at any point in the future, and the Parties understand and agree that Respondent reserves the right to investigate N.W.'s residency status in the District at any time should same become necessary to do so, in order to determine whether or not Petitioner and/or her child(ren) remain domiciled in the District.

9. This Agreement is subject to approval by the Ewing Board of Education. If approved, the Board President, Superintendent and/or Business Administrator, as indicated, is fully authorized to execute this Agreement on behalf of the Board.

10. In exchange for the above consideration, Respondent Ewing Board of Education agrees to release Petitioner from any and all claims, cross-claims, counterclaims, demands, liabilities, damages, indebtedness, costs, attorneys' fees, actions or obligations of any nature, which solely arise out of or are related in any way to this Litigation, through the date of this Agreement and agrees to the withdrawal/dismissal of any counter-claim for tuition payments, through the date of this Agreement.

11. This Agreement shall not constitute an admission of wrongdoing by any party and no party shall be considered to be a prevailing party for any purpose.

12. This Agreement is to be construed in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey.

13. Petitioner hereby represents that she is freely entering into this Agreement, that he was advised of her right to obtain counsel of her choosing and has consulted with her attorney regarding the effect of this Agreement.

14. This Settlement shall be subject to the approval of the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education prior to becoming effective.

15. This Agreement shall be binding upon all parties hereto, and shall inure to the benefit of each of them, as well as their respective estates, heirs, legal representatives, successors, predecessors, parent companies, subsidiaries, affiliates, owners, directors, officers, shareholders, members, employees, agents and assigns.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Decision

Guadalupe Ferreiro,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner – a tenured social worker employed in the respondent Board's school district – alleged that the Board violated her rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 when it docked her salary in the amount of $1,033.38 as discipline for excessive tardiness. The Board contended that its actions were lawful and must be upheld, as the docking for tardiness falls within the category of minor discipline which was agreed upon in the Collective Bargaining Agreement (CBA) with the Elizabeth Education Association (Association). The parties filed cross motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; petitioner has been employed by the Board for 20 years, and is tenured; the salary deduction at issue here came after petitioner was marked tardy on thirteen occasions during September and October 2018; the Board contended that petitioner's tardiness has been an ongoing issue, and she was also chronically tardy during 2017-2018 school year; no tenure charges were filed against petitioner; the Board is party to a CBA with the Association, which includes a clause that defines the penalty for chronic tardiness; the penalty structure agreed upon in the CBA is also spelled out in a Board policy entitled "Staff Attendance Improvement Plan"; petitioner's claim springs from N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, which provides that a tenured employee may not be "dismissed or reduced in compensation" unless tenure charges are brought against her; however, the deduction in petitioner's salary here does not violate her tenure rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 because N.J.S.A. 34:13A-24 allows school boards to impose minor discipline when it is duly negotiated with the collective bargaining unit. The ALJ concluded that the docking of petitioner's pay for tardiness is a fine that amounts to minor discipline, and the Board's action was consistent with the law. The Board's motion for summary decision was granted and the petition was dismissed.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusion of the ALJ. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition was dismissed.

BEFORE ELLEN S. BASS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Guadalupe Ferreiro, a tenured social worker employed by respondent, the Elizabeth Board of Education (the Board), alleges that the Board violated her rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, when it docked her salary in the amount of $1,033.38 due to tardiness. The Board replies that its actions should be upheld, as this is minor discipline agreed upon in the Collective Bargaining Agreement with the Teachers' Association, and expressly authorized by N.J.S.A. 34:13A-24.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Ferreiro filed her petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education (the Commissioner) on January 14, 2019. An answer was filed by the Board on February 25, 2019, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on March 19, 2019. I conferred with counsel via telephone, and it was agreed that this dispute could be resolved via Cross-Motions for Summary Decision, as the pleadings presented a purely legal issue. Motions were filed by the parties on or about May 31, 2019, and simultaneous replies were filed on June 7, 2019, at which time the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The salient facts are not in dispute, and I FIND as follows:

Ferreiro has been employed by the Board as a social worker for approximately twenty years, and is employed under tenure. During two pay periods in October 2018, her salary payment was reduced due to tardiness. In total, her gross salary was docked in the amount of $1,033.38. In an email to her building principal dated October 14, 2018, Ferreiro acknowledged that she had been tardy in the past, and that her principal had alerted her that effective with the 2018-2019 school year, the Board would be strictly enforcing its attendance policies for staff. And on September 4, 2018, Ferreiro had signed a document entitled "2018-2019 Statement of Assurance," in which she acknowledged receiving and reading a list of policies, to include the attendance policy.

No tenure charges have been filed against Ferreiro. The salary deduction came after Ferreiro was marked tardy on thirteen occasions during the months of September and October 2018. The Board relates that Ferreiro's tardiness has been an ongoing issue, and notes that during the 2017-2018 school year, Ferreiro was also chronically tardy. Ferreiro disagrees that she has been tardy quite this often. But she concedes that this disagreement is not material as the issue presented is not the egregiousness of her lateness, but rather, the scope of the Board's authority to dock the pay of a tenured employee.

The Board is a party to a Collective Bargaining Agreement with the Elizabeth Education Association. At page 82, the agreement provides that

> A. The accumulation of five (5) tardy marks to an assigned duty within a given school year will result in a deduction from pay of twenty-five percent (25%) of the daily salary computed at 1/200 for ten (10) month employees; 1/220 for eleven (11) month employees; 1/240 for twelve (12) month employees of the employee's annual salary.
> B. After the first accumulation of five (5) tardy marks in a given school year, each tardy will result in a deduction from pay of twenty-five percent (25%) of the daily salary computed at 1/200 for ten (10) month employees; 1/220 for eleven (11) month employees; 1/240 for twelve (12) month employees of the employee's annual salary.

[Board Exhibit G; Petitioner's Exhibit C]

The penalty structure agreed upon in the collective bargaining agreement is spelled out as well in Board Policy 4151/4251, entitled "Staff Attendance Improvement Plan."

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." Our regulation mirrors R. 4:46-2(c), which provides that "[t]he judgment or order sought shall be rendered forthwith if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law."

A determination whether a genuine issue of material fact exists that precludes summary decision requires the judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. Our courts have long held that "if the opposing party . . . offers . . . only facts which are immaterial or of an insubstantial nature, a mere scintilla, 'Fanciful, frivolous, gauzy or merely suspicious,' he will not be heard to complain if the court grants summary judgment." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 529 (1995) (citing Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co., 17 N.J. 67, 75 (1954)).

The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." Brill, 142 N.J. at 540 (citing Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, 477 U.S. 242, 249 (1986)). When the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law," the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. Liberty Lobby, 477 U.S. at 252. I CONCLUDE that this matter is ripe for summary decision, and that the Board is entitled to judgement as matter of law.

Ferreiro's claim to relief springs from N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, which provides that as a tenured employee, she may not be "dismissed or reduced in compensation" except "for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing held...by the commissioner, or a person appointed by him to act in his behalf..." Since no tenure charges have been filed against her, she urges that the Board has violated her rights.

But N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 must be read in conjunction with N.J.S.A. 34:13A-24, which provides as follows:

> a. Notwithstanding any other law to the contrary, and if negotiated with the majority representative of the employees in the > appropriate collective bargaining unit, an employer shall have the authority to impose minor discipline on employees. Nothing contained herein shall limit the authority of the employer to impose, in the absence of a negotiated agreement regarding minor discipline, any disciplinary sanction which is authorized and not prohibited by law.

> b. The scope of such negotiations shall include a schedule setting forth the acts and omissions for which minor discipline may be imposed, and also the penalty to be imposed for any act or omission warranting imposition of minor discipline.
> c. Fines and suspensions for minor discipline shall not constitute a reduction in compensation pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S. 18A:6-10.

N.J.S.A. 34:13A-22 defines "minor discipline" thusly:

> "Minor discipline" includes, but is not limited to, various forms of fines and suspensions, but does not include tenure charges filed pursuant to the provisions of subarticle 2 of subarticle B of Article 2 of chapter 6 of Subtitle 3 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes, N.J.S. 18A:6-10 et seq., or the withholding of increments pursuant to N.J.S. 18A:29-14, letters of reprimand, or suspensions with pay pursuant to section 1 of P.L. 1971, c. 435 (C.18A:6-8.3) and N.J.S. 18A:25-6.

It is clear that in the public-school setting, duly negotiated minor discipline, even if such discipline results in a reduction of salary, does not violate N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-10.

I CONCLUDE that the docking of petitioner's pay is precisely the type of minor discipline contemplated by N.J.S.A. 34:13A-24, as it is a fine, but neither tenure charges nor an increment withholding, letter of reprimand or suspension with pay. The schedule for such discipline was negotiated and agreed upon between the Board and the majority representative for teaching staff members in Elizabeth, and thus does not constitute a reduction in benefits or compensation in violation of the school laws.[1] N.J.S.A. 34:13A-

[1] The school law issue is the only one cognizable before the Commissioner. I do not have jurisdiction to invalidate the Collective Bargaining Agreement, as petitioner urges in her submission. Petitioner's

Based on the foregoing, it is ORDERED that the Board's Cross-Motion for Summary Decision is GRANTED, and the petition of appeal is DISMISSED.

Agency Dkt. No. 9-1/19

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Guadalupe Ferreiro,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by the petitioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. The Board did not file a reply.[1]

In this matter, the petitioner alleges that the Board violated her tenure rights when it docked her salary in the amount of $1,033.38 due to tardiness on thirteen occasions in September and October 2018. According to the Collective Bargaining Agreement (CBA) between the Board and the Elizabeth Education Association (Association), the Board will deduct 25 percent of the daily salary after the accumulation of five tardy marks in a given school year, and each tardy thereafter will result in a deduction of 25 percent of the daily salary. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the deduction in salary does not violate the petitioner's tenure rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 because N.J.S.A. 34:13A-24 allows boards to impose minor discipline when it is duly negotiated with the collective bargaining unit.

[1] The supplemental exceptions filed by petitioner were not timely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were therefore not considered by the Commissioner.

Specifically, N.J.S.A. 34:13A-24(c) provides that "[f]ines and suspensions for minor discipline shall not constitute a reduction in compensation pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S. 18A:6-10." As such, the ALJ concluded that the docking of the petitioner's pay for tardiness is a fine that amounts to minor discipline.

In her exceptions, the petitioner argues that a 25 percent reduction in the daily salary for excessive tardiness constitutes major discipline, rather than minor discipline. The petitioner relies on N.J.A.C. 4A:2-3.1, which defines minor discipline in the New Jersey Civil Service context as "a formal written reprimand or a suspension of five working days or less." The petitioner maintains that the ability to withhold 25 percent of an employee's salary can exceed a 5-day suspension. Accordingly, the petitioner argues that the provision in the CBA that allows for the docking of pay for tardiness is unenforceable because it permits the Board to impose major discipline. The petitioner argues, however, that she is not asking the Commissioner to invalidate a CBA provision – which the ALJ found is not within the Commissioner's jurisdiction – but is instead seeking to uphold the petitioner's tenure rights and reimburse her for the $1,033.38 docked from her pay.

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ, for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision, that the Board's action in docking the petitioner's salary was consistent with the law. The Commissioner does not find the petitioner's exceptions to be persuasive. N.J.S.A. 34:13A-24, which allows for boards to negotiate minor discipline, clarifies that "[f]ines and suspensions for minor discipline shall not constitute a reduction in compensation pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S. 18A:6-10." Furthermore, N.J.S.A. 34:13A-22 defines minor discipline as including "various forms of fines and suspensions, but does not include tenure charges . . . or the withholding of increments . . . letters of reprimand, or suspensions with pay[.]" The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the docking of the petitioner's pay is the type of minor discipline contemplated by N.J.S.A. 34:13A-24, and in this circumstance, the minor discipline was negotiated and agreed upon by the Board and the Association, which represents the majority of teaching staff members in the district. As such, the docking of the petitioner's pay for excessive tardiness is not a violation of her tenure rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. The petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Date of Decision: 7/22/19

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Lisa Healy,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Hardyston, Sussex County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner requested that the Hardyston Board of Education (Board) recognize her tenured status and place her at step five (5) on the salary guide. Petitioner had been employed by the Board as a teacher from September 1994 until April 1999, becoming tenured on or about September 1, 1998. Beginning in April 1999, petitioner was granted several leaves of absence for pregnancy, child-care, and medical reasons. She failed to return to work following the expiration of her child-care leave at the end of the 2000-2001 school year, having filed an application for Social Security Disability Insurance benefits in October 2000. Beginning in the 2015-2016 school year, petitioner became re-employed by the Board as a substitute teacher on an intermittent basis, and in February 2018, petitioner was re-employed as a full-time teacher. She filed the within petition on November 20, 2018. The respondent Board filed a motion to dismiss.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; petitioner was hired by the Board as a non-tenured teacher at Step 1 of the school district's salary guide on February 13, 2018, but petitioner did not file her appeal disputing the salary step and non-tenured status until December 14, 2018 – well beyond the ninety-day window for filing a petition of appeal; petitioner's contention that she never submitted a letter of resignation and therefore remained an active employee from 1999 until her return to full-time employment in 2015 is without merit, as is her argument that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 applies in this case. The ALJ concluded that the within appeal must be dismissed as untimely. Accordingly, the Board's motion for summary decision was granted.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the petition of appeal was time-barred under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Accordingly, the Initial Decision was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition was dismissed.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HARDYSTON, SUSSEX COUNTY,
Respondent.

Record Closed: May 22, 2019 Decided: June 13, 2019

BEFORE JUDE-ANTHONY TISCORNIA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Lisa Healy (Healy) requests that Hardyston Board of Education (District) recognize her tenured status and place her at step five (5) on the salary guide. Healy was employed as a teacher at the District from September 1994, until April 1998.

Healy became re-employed by the District as a substitute teacher on an intermittent basis beginning in the 2015-2016 school year and as a full-time teacher in February of 2018.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed the instant petition with the New Jersey Commissioner of Education, which was received on November 20, 2018, by the Department of Controversies and Disputes (Department).

Respondent Hardyston Board of Education filed an answer and affirmative defenses with the Department which was received on December 17, 2018.

The matter was transmitted as a contested case on December 18, 2018, to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was received on December 20, 2018.

Respondent filed a Motion to Dismiss with the undersigned on May 20, 2019. Petitioner's response to respondent's motion and cross-motion was filed on May 22, 2019. The parties did not request oral argument. The written submissions are sufficient to dispose of the matter.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The following facts are undisputed, and I FIND them to be the FACTS of the case:

1. Healy began employment in the Hardyston School District in September of 1994, teaching second grade at the Hardyston Elementary School.
2. Pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 et seq., Healy became tenured in the District on or about September 1, 1998.
3. On or about January 22, 1999, Healy wrote to Dr. Anne Wilkins, then-District Superintendent, requesting a leave of absence due to pregnancy.

4. Healy's request for a leave was granted. Healy left the District on April 19, 1999, when the District went on spring vacation.
5. On or about May 12, 1999, Healy was diagnosed with Hodgkin's Lymphoma and immediately began treatment.
6. Via letter dated July 21, 1999, Healy informed then-Superintendent Wilkins that she wished to extend her Family Leave until October 26, 1999, and requested that she be placed on maternity leave thereafter through June 30, 2000.
7. Via an undated letter, but which was received in the District's offices on February 16, 2000, Healy requested an extension of her child care leave for the 2000-2001 school year.
8. The Board granted Healy's request, informing her of same via letter dated March 28, 2000.
9. At the time of her leave from the District, Healy was on Step 5 of the salary guide.
10. Healy did not return to work upon the expiration of her child-care leave at the end of the 2000-2001 school year.
11. Healy was later diagnosed with additional medical problems, including, but not necessarily limited to, radiation pneumonitis, hypothyroidism, hyperthyroidism, and cardio-vascular disease.
12. On October 25, 2000, Healy filed an application for Social Security Disability Insurance benefits. In a decision dated September 26, 2001, (Federal) Administrative Law Judge Dennis O'Leary granted Healy's Social Security Disability application retroactive to May 14, 1999.

13. As Healy did not have sufficient years in the Teacher's Pension and Annuity Fund (TPAF), she could not apply for a Disability Pension from the Division of Pensions and Benefits.

14. On May 18, 2001, Healy did apply for a withdrawal of her TPAF pension funds from the Division of Pensions and Benefits. On her application, she indicated that she terminated her employment in the Hardyston School District in April of 1999, resigning due to illness.

15. Healy did not submit a letter of resignation to the Hardyston School District. There is no such letter contained in Healy's District personnel file.

16. The Board did not file tenure charges against Healy for abandonment of her position.

17. In the spring of 2015, Healy was sufficiently recovered to be able to substitute teach. Healy was informed by the Board of Education that they approved her as a substitute teacher at its August 11, 2015, meeting. Healy thereafter served as a substitute teacher on an intermittent basis beginning in the 2015-2016 school year.

18. On or about March 7, 2017, the Vernon Township School District sent notice to the Hardyston School District, informing the Board that Vernon wished to hire Healy as a substitute teacher and asked that Hardyston verify Healy's employment.

19. On March 16, 2017, Healy was appointed by the Vernon Township Board of Education as a substitute teacher, effective March 17, 2017.

20. In or about January of 2018, the Hardyston Board of Education advertised for a permanent elementary teaching position in order to fill a mid-year vacancy created when the previous teacher retired. Healy applied for that position and was interviewed by Michael Ryder, Chief School Administrator.

21. After the interview, Mr. Ryder recommended that Healy be appointed to the permanent position.

22. At the Board's February 13, 2018, meeting, a motion was passed to hire Healy for a full-time teaching position at Step 1 of the Masters salary schedule as set forth in the collective negotiations agreement between the Board and the Hardyston Township Education Association.

23. Healy did not object at the time to her placement on the salary guide and thanked Mr. Ryder for the opportunity.

24. On May 8, 2018, the Board of Education approved a motion to renew Ms. Healy's contract for the full 2018-2019 school year as a non-tenured certified staff member.

25. Healy is currently on Step 2 of the Masters salary guide.

26. Healy now seeks credit on the salary guide for her previous five years' experience in the District.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

In the case at bar, both sides seek relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, which provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." The regulation mirrors R. 4:46-2(c), which provides that "[t]he judgment or order sought shall be rendered forthwith if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law." I FIND there is no issue of material fact in dispute with regard to the foregoing matter and I CONCLUDE the matter is ripe for Summary Decision.

I. THE APPEAL WAS NOT FILED TIMELY AND IS BARRED

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) states in pertinent part:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling, or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, that is the subject of the requested contested case hearing. This rule shall not apply in instances where a specific statute, regulation, or court order provides for a period of limitation shorter than 90 days for the filing of a particular type of appeal.

Healy disputes the District's hiring her as a non-tenured teacher at Step 1 of the pay scale and not taking into account her prior years of service. Healy was hired as a non-tenured teacher at Step 1 of the salary guide via unanimous District Board approval on February 13, 2018. The forgoing petition appealing the District Board's action was filed on December 14, 2018; approximately ten months after Healy's hire at Step 1. Thus, I FIND the foregoing petition of appeal was filed more than ninety days after the alleged adverse action and I CONCLDE that the foregoing petition of appeal is out of time and therefore barred by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

II. PETITIONER RESIGNED FROM HER INITIAL EMPLOYMENT WITH THE DISTRICT

In the case at bar, it is undisputed that Healy went out on planned maternity leave beginning April 19, 1999, and did not return to work for the 1999-2000 and 2000-2001 school years. It is further undisputed that Healy applied for a withdrawal of her TPAF funds from the Division of Pensions and Benefits on May 18, 2001, indicating on her withdrawal application that she had resigned from her employment at Hardyston in April of 1999 due to illness. Healy now argues that since she never submitted a formal letter of resignation, that she remained an active employee from 1999 up until her return to full time employment with the District in 2015. I disagree.

Petitioner sites Capodilupo v Board of Education of West Orange Township, Essex County, 218 N.J. Super. 510, 515 (App. Div. 1987), which states that "the tenure act should be liberally construed to achieve its beneficent ends." Ibid. (quoting Spiewak v. Bd. of Educ. of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63, 74 (1982)). Notwithstanding this general directive to liberally interpret the tenure act, Healy fails to cite any precedent that would explain how an individual, who has had no communication with a district for such an extended period of time, could possibly remain an "active employee" of that district, especially where the individual applied for Social Security Disability Benefits and withdrew her pension payments. Further, Healy indicated on her TPAF withdrawal form that her reason for withdrawing the pension payments was "resignation due to illness." Based on the foregoing, I FIND that Healy resigned from her position as a tenured teacher in 1999 based on her own conduct and admissions. I CONCLUDE that Healy was not an active tenured employee at the time of her recent re-hire by the District (February 13, 2015).

III. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 DOES NOT APPLY

Healy further argues that since she was never formally dismissed by the District during her sixteen-year absence, that she, then, remained an active employee during that period of time. Healy cites N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-10, which states that no person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation without formal written charges being brought against her. Since Healy was never served with written tenure charges by the District as required by N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-10, she claims she was never formally dismissed by the District. Thus, she argues, she remained an active employee of the District during her absence. As I have already found that Healy resigned from her teaching position in 1999, I CONCLUDE the above-referenced statute does not apply to the case at bar as Healy was not an active tenured employee during her extended absence.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision be DISMISSED. It is further ORDERED that respondent Hardyston Board of Education's

Motion for Summary Decision be GRANTED; it is further ORDERED that the foregoing petition of appeal is hereby DISMISSED and the Respondent's decision to hire Lisa Healy as non-tenured at Step 1 of the pay scale be UPHELD.

Final Decision

Heather Deitch,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Berlin, Camden County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

The petitioner – a librarian and certified media specialist previously employed in the respondent Board's school district – claimed that her tenure rights were violated when the Board abolished her position in April 2017 and announced plans to make the library/media specialist job a shared position, staffed under an arrangement with the Camden County Educational Services Commission (CCESC). Petitioner filed a motion for summary decision. The Board contended that its actions were consistent with law and regulations.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; the Board acted lawfully in eliminating petitioner's position for economic reasons, and its intention to provide library/media services through a shared service agreement was appropriate; there was no violation of petitioner's tenure rights during the time when the Board was relying upon the CCESC to interview and fill the new shared position, from May/June through early September 2017, or perhaps through January 2018, when the Board's waiver request to provide required library/media services using a non-certified employee was rejected by the Commissioner; after that point, however, the Board had an obligation to restore a position for a certified media specialist either full or part-time, and petitioner would have been entitled to that position if she chose to exercise her tenure rights; while a teacher whose tenure rights have been violated is generally entitled to receive back pay, here the petitioner obtained full time employment with another school district by the beginning of the 2017-2018 school year; petitioner therefore suffered no financial damage from the Board's failure to create a part-time library/media services position. The ALJ concluded that despite the Board's failure to honor petitioner's tenure rights by restoring her to a part-time library/media specialist job, petitioner suffered no financial loss because she was already employed by another school district, earning more that she would have made had she been rehired by the Board to fill the new part-time library/media services position. Accordingly, the ALJ granted petitioner's motion for summary decision, but found that she is not entitled to any monetary award given the facts of this matter.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions as thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision. Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter.

HEATHER DEITCH,
Petitioner,
v.
BERLIN BOROUGH BOARD OF EDUCATION, CAMDEN COUNTY,
Respondent.

Amy L. Gillette, Esq. and Matthew B. Wieliczko, for petitioner (Zeller & Wieliczko, LLP, attorneys)

Daniel H. Long, Esq., for respondent (Wade, Long, Wood & Long, LLC, attorneys)

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ (Ret., on recall):

Heather Deitch was employed by the Berlin Borough Board of Education (BOE) as a librarian and certified media specialist at Berlin Community School. She is the holder of a Standard Elementary School Teacher certificate and a Standard Educational Media Specialist certificate. In April 2017, she was notified that her position as a librarian and certified media specialist would be eliminated and that she would no longer be employed with the school district as of June 30, 2017. On April 27, 2017, the Board of Education voted to abolish her position and announced plans to make the library/media specialist position a shared position, to be staffed under an arrangement with the Camden County Educational Services Commission (CCESC). The current matter involves Ms. Deitch's claim that the Board of Education violated her tenure rights in the librarian and certified media specialist position. In previous proceedings under this docket, I granted partial summary decision, dismissing her claim for tenure under her instructional certificate. In addition, a separate proceeding filed by petitioner against the CCESC was dismissed because Ms. Deitch had no tenure rights that she could assert against that agency. She now moves for summary decision, as permitted by N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, asserting that the undisputed facts demonstrate that the Board violated her tenure as a librarian and certified media specialist.

The parties entered into a Joint Stipulation of Facts and Exhibits, A through Q. The Stipulation is incorporated herein as if recited in full. From the Stipulation, certain facts regarding the chronology of events need be recited here. As already noted, the Board voted to abolish the petitioner's position as a librarian and certified media specialist on April 27, 2017. The Board resolution regarding the abolishment of this position as the result of a reduction-in-force, or RIF, noted that the position was abolished for reasons of economy, reorganization, reassignment of staff and other good cause, effective June 30, 2017. In doing so, the Board also announced its plan to provide library/media services for its students through a shared service arrangement with the CCESC. Thus, the person providing the services in the Berlin Borough District would do so on a part-time basis. On June 22, 2017, the Board approved the shared services agreement. The CCESC quoted the projected salary for the part-time, shared media specialist position for the school year 2017-2018 at $34,272.

Ms. Deitch filed an application with the CCESC for the shared services library/media specialist position on May 24, 2017. On July 27, 2017, the position of library/media specialist was advertised on the Berlin Community School website, with the posting noting that applications were to be filed online with the CCESC. Ms. Deitch did not interview for nor did she obtain this advertised position. The job posting specified that the media specialist would be shared by one to three public school districts.

On September 14, 2017, the Board, aware that the attempt to provide library/media services through the arrangement with the CCESC for shared services had not produced a provider, passed a motion to approve a submission to the New Jersey Department of Education, seeking a waiver under N.J.A.C. 6A:5. The submission described the necessity for the waiver in the following terms

> The waiver is necessary for the district to implement media services and meet the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:13-2.1(h). The district is requesting that media services be provided by a certified Elementary School Teacher in Grades K-6 with Middle School Subject matter specialization: Language Arts/Literacy Specialization in Grades K-5-8 or a certificate Teacher of Supplemental Instruction in Reading and Mathematics, Grades K-8.
> The need to eliminate our full-time Media Specialists, due to RIF, was first brought to the attention of the public and the BOE at the April 27, 2017 BOE meeting. The district sought the assistance of the Camden County Educational Services Commission (CCESC) to provide a PT Media Specialist. Since June 2017, the district and the CCESC has posted the availability of the position. The district has reached out to several establishments seeking support and information on individuals who possess the Media Specialists Certificate, as well as seek opportunities for a shared service. To date, we have not been able to locate such a certificated individual or engage in a shared service. The community, parents, BOE, administration and staff have all had access to the BOE agendas and information pertaining to the media specialists since April 2017

The Stipulation of Facts notes that on January 2, 2018, the CCESC website again contained a posting for a shared service school librarian/media specialist. On January 11, 2018, Commissioner of Education Kimberly Harrington denied the BOE's request for a waiver. In her letter, the Commissioner found that the waiver application failed to meet the "spirit and intent" of Title 6A because > N.J.A.C. 6A:5-1.3 specifically states the certification requirements of N.J.S.A.18A:26-2 shall not be violated. Approval of the equivalency application would be a de facto waiver of school library media specialist certification requirements at N.J.SA.C. 6A:9B-14.14, which would be in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2.

> Please know that finding a candidate who is eligible for an emergency school library media specialist endorsement, which is renewable at least once, would be an appropriate remedy for this situation.

Ms. Deitch again applied for the posted shared services library/media specialist position on January 16, 2018. The CCESC library/media specialist position remained posted on the Berlin Borough School District website as of February 13, 2018. The petitioner, a qualified applicant, was not contacted or interviewed by the CCESC for the posted position. On May 10, 2018, the BOE approved a professional services proposal, dated March 27, 2018, with the CCESC for a media specialist for the 2018-2019 school year. This provided for a media specialist working in the District three days per week and a basic skills teacher working two days a week. The BOE has certified that it did not offer the petitioner an interview because the employment decision for the position was within the purview of the CCESC. According to answers to supplemental interrogatories, Superintendent Martello certified that "to the best of respondent's information Petitioner never applied to CCESC for the posted position."

In moving for summary decision, the petitioner acknowledges that a Board of Education has the right to eliminate positions as part of a reduction in force for the purpose of effecting monetary savings. Ms. Deitch does not argue that the Board's original determination in April 2017 to abolish the position violated her rights. She does not dispute that the determination was made for reasons of economy. However, she notes that at the time that the Board abolished the position that provided services it was legally required to provide under the direction of a certified school library/media specialist it had not yet established a shared services arrangement with the CCESC for the required position and therefore was taking a chance as to whether such an arrangement would result in the shared services position being filled in time for the 2017-2018 school year. Additionally, she argues that when the position remained unfilled at the start of the next school term in September 2017, the Board violated her rights under the pretense of a shared service arrangement which was not actually put in place for the 2017-2018 school year. The tenure right she asserts arises from N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12.

> If any teaching staff member shall be dismissed as a result of such reduction, such person shall be and remain upon a preferred eligible list in the order of seniority for reemployment whenever a vacancy occurs in a position for which such person shall be qualified and he shall be reemployed by the body causing dismissal, if and when such vacancy occurs . . . .

She notes that N.J.A.C. 6A:2.1(h) requires that all school districts shall provide library/media services under the direction of a certified school library media specialist.

> (h) All school districts shall provide library-media services that are connected to classroom studies in each school building, including access to computers, district-approved instructional software, appropriate books including novels, anthologies and other reference materials, and supplemental materials that motivate students to read in and out of school and to conduct research. Each school district shall provide these library-media services under the direction of a certified school library media specialist.

Ms. Deitch argues that when the District was unable to fill the abolished position through the part-time arrangement it sought to initiate under its agreement with the CCESC, the Board, having an ongoing obligation to provide the required service, was, in view of her tenure rights to the position, obligated to place her in that position.

The Board replies that the Uniform Shared Services and Consolidation Act, N.J.S.A. 40A:65-1 to 35 authorized "agreements between local units for services or circumstance to reduce property taxes through the reduction of local expenses." N.J.S.A. 40A:65-2. N.J.S.A. 40A:65-3 specifically includes local school districts in this authorization. Where a RIF occurs, and a shared services agreement is reached for a service that the local board is required to provide for its students, the agreement does not violate the tenure rights of the riffed individual(s). Prezioso v. Board of Education of the Polytech Career Academy, Hunterdon County. Prezioso involved school nursing services. By statute, each school district was required to "employ a certified school nurse" to provide nursing services while school was in session. N.J.A.C. 6A:16-2.3(b). Yet, despite the "employment" requirement, the shared services arrangement was held to be an acceptable means of assuring that school nursing services were available. In the present case, in contrast to the requirement to "employ" nurses, the law does not require that a school district "employ" a "library/media specialist." Instead, the applicable regulation does requires that the district "provide" library-media services "under the direction of a certified school library media specialist." The shared services agreement with the CCESC was intended to do just that, to "provide" the library/media services, but do so through someone not an employee of the District. As the CCESC was the agency charged with hiring the shared service provider, and as the recall rights afforded to tenured, riffed employees only relate to openings occurring within the employ of the "body causing dismissal," Ms. Deitch cannot assert a right to recall against the Berlin Borough School District, which was not the employer of the person who would provide the part-time, shared service to the District's students. Indeed, as the full-time position she held with the District had been lawfully abolished, there was no position with Berlin Borough for her to be returned to.

In response, the petitioner asserts that while the Board was intending to perform a legally authorized RIF for economic reasons and enter into a shared services agreement for the part-time provision of the required services, it did not proceed "correctly" in pursuing that goal. It had no actual "provider" in place when she was riffed. Then, once the provider position remained open in September, despite the CCESC's presumed attempt to fill it, she was "ready, willing and able to work in that same legally obligated Certified Media Specialist position." And the waiver application, which sought to provide library/media services through improperly certificated personnel, was denied. Thus, as she puts it, there are "two elephants in the room," the lack of any shared services agreement in 2017-2018 and the denial of the waiver. As counsel sees it, the District's timing on the RIF was "off." As for the alleged lack of any vacancy or opening within the employ of the Board for the certified media specialist position since the RIF, that "contention . . . is incorrect," due to the Board's failure to staff a required position within its schools when its alterative plan failed.

In its reply to this argument, the Board contends that the failure of the CCESC to fill the shared services position neither invalidates the RIF and abolishment of Deitch's position nor violates her tenure rights. CCEC was designated in the shared service agreement as the primary employer, as authorized by N.J.S.A. 40A-65.6(a).

> a. In the case of an agreement for the provision of services by an officer or employee of a local unit who is required to comply with a State license or certification requirement as a condition of employment, the agreement shall provide for the payment of a salary to the officer or employee and shall designate one of the local units as the primary employer of the officer or employee for the purpose of that person's tenure rights. If the agreement fails to designate one of the local units as the primary employer, then the local unit having the largest population, shall be deemed the primary employer for the purposes of that person's tenure rights.

As the employer of the shared service position was designated as the CCESC, it alone had the authority to hire for the position. The Berlin Borough School District had no "opportunity or say at any point to . . . afford Petitioner the opportunity to interview or be considered for the proposed shared services position." It could only advertise that the shared service position with the CCESC existed, "in order to direct potential candidates to the CCESC position." As for the contention that the Board had to "employ" a person to provide the required media specialist services, the wording of N.J.A.C. 6A:2.1(h) only requires that the service be provided by the Board ("shall provide"), but does not require that the person(s) providing the service be employed by the Board. If the Board failed to provide the required service, that failure might implicate the District's obligation under the "Standards-Based Instructional Priorities" of the Department of Education's regulations, but such a failure would not involve any violation of Ms. Deitch's tenure or bumping rights.

Discussion

As petitioner has conceded, the law authorized the Board of Education to RIF her position for economic reasons. She does not challenge the announced reason for that action. The stipulated facts show that the Board then entered into an agreement with the CCESC for that agency to provide part-time library/media specialist services. The Board was, as petitioner notes, required to have such services in the District, but, as respondent argues, the regulation that requires the service does not require that the Board "employ" the provider, only that the service be "provide[d]." As such, I FIND that, on its face, the Board's intention to "provide" the service through the shared service agreement was not a violation of its obligations to its students. The record shows that the shared service position was advertised after the District abolished its own in-house position, and, indeed, it is stipulated that Ms. Deitch applied for it on May 24, 2017, even before the Board approved the agreement on June 22. As the Board correctly states, the process of interviewing and hiring for the shared position lay in the hands of the CCESC, not its own. There does not appear to be anything improper in the Board having first abolished the in-house position and then seeking to arrange for the required services through the initiation of an intended shared service position through the auspices of the CCESC. I CONCLUDE that based on these facts, there was no violation of Ms. Deitch's tenure rights during this period from May/June through the early days of September 2017. However, on September 14, no doubt shortly after the start of the 2017-2018 school year, the Board was obviously aware that the CCESC had not managed to fill the shared services position, and it was aware that it did not have on staff or otherwise have available the legally required certified library/media specialist to "provide" the services required by law. The existence of this situation raises the question of what the Board's rights and obligations were after it became aware that the proposed shared service position was unfilled, and that school was starting without a certificated media specialist on staff or otherwise "available."

The Board having legally abolished the position of library/media specialist through the reduction in force, Ms. Deitch's claim of a violation of her tenure rights to be reemployed by Berlin Borough Board of Education can only have merit if, at some point in time, the Board was legally required to recreate a position of certified library/media specialist on its own employment rolls. That is so because the wording of the tenure provision that she relies on to establish the Board's obligation to reemploy her after the lawful RIF provides that the Board's obligation to her only exists "whenever a vacancy occurs in a position for which such person shall be qualified and [she] shall be reemployed by the body causing dismissal, if and when such vacancy occurs . . . ." The employment "position" that Ms. Deitch occupied prior to the conclusion of the 2016-2017 school year did not exist after the lawful RIF. Thus, there was no vacancy in that non-existent position for her to be reemployed in. As such, her right to reemployment with the Board was dependent upon action by the Board to restore the position, or, in the absence of such action, there being a legal obligation for the Board to re-establish the position of certified media specialist on its employment rolls, a position that once re-established would be "vacant" and for which she could then be hired in recognition of her tenure rights. But the facts here show that as of September 14, 2017, the Board, aware of the lack of a person to "provide" the required service, did not choose to restore the in-house, full-time position that it had earlier abolished for economic reasons, nor did it decide to create its own part-time position to be staffed by a properly certificated person. Instead, it sought a different means to "provide" required library/media services. It determined to apply to the Commissioner of Education for a waiver that, if granted, would allow it to have a certificated elementary school teacher in grades K-6 with middle school subject matter specialization: Language Arts/Literacy Specialization in grades K-5-8 or a certificate Teacher of Supplemental Instruction in Reading and Mathematics, grades K-8, "provide" the services normally provided, as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:13-2.1(h), by a certified school library/media specialist. As the Board noted in Section 4 of the Waiver Application, the "description of the process," it had riffed the full-time media specialist position and had sought the "assistance" of the CCESC to provide a part-time media specialist. Clearly, by seeking this waiver, the Board was announcing that in the face of the absence of a certified part-time library/media specialist produced through the shared services agreement, it was not intending to recreate the full-time position that it had eliminated to save money, or, alternatively, to create a part-time position of its own. It still wanted to proceed without the economic burden it had shed with the abolition of the full-time slot(s).

As previously noted, N.J.A.C. 6A:5 does provide for the possibility of a waiver. N.J.A.C. 6A:5-1.1 announces

> (a) This chapter's purpose is to provide regulatory flexibility for school districts to meet the requirements of the rules contained in the New Jersey Administrative Code Title 6A. Regulatory flexibility may be granted as a waiver or equivalency to a specific rule so school districts can provide effective and efficient educational programs. The Commissioner, with authority delegated by the New Jersey State Board of Education, may approve on a case-by-case basis a waiver or equivalency to a specific rule.

Despite this authorization for some regulatory flexibility, here the Commissioner decided to deny the waiver. In doing so, she noted that its fundamental premise, the provision of library/media services by personnel not properly certificated, violated the "spirit and intent" of Title 6A because

> N.J.A.C. 6A:5-1.3 specifically states the certification requirements of N.J.S.A.18A:26-2 shall not be violated. Approval of the equivalency application would be a de facto waiver of school library media specialist certification requirements at N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-14.14, which would be in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2.

Thus, the Commissioner in effect advised the Board that, given the specific commands of N.J.A.C. 6A:5-1.3 and N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2, its proposal was fundamentally flawed. Despite this seemingly obvious flaw in its plan, given the Board's intent to economize, perhaps the Board thought it worth the chance that the Commissioner might nevertheless allow the waiver. However, it must be noted that in its description of the facts underlying its application, the Board stated that after posting of the shared service position by the CCESC and by the Board itself (with that posting directing the applicants to file with the CCESC), it "reached out to several establishments seeking support and information on individuals who possess the Media Specialists Certificate, as well as seek opportunities for a shared service. To date, we have not been able to locate such a certificated individual or engage in a shared service." It is not at all clear why the Board did not attempt to contact Ms. Deitch, its very own recent and fully certificated employee, about the position, who it certainly could have located. Even if the position was to be a shared service job through CCESC, rather than a position on the Board's own payroll, the Board could have asked her if she had applied to the CCESC, or if it contemplated the need to staff the position itself, to see if she was interested in it as either a part- or full-time position. The lack of any suggestion that the Board tried to see if Deitch was interested raises concerns about the Board's representation to the Commissioner in the waiver application. Yet, that said, I FIND that there is no direct evidence that in filing for the waiver, the Board was purposely seeking to deny Ms. Deitch a job or directly seeking to avoid her tenure rights.

The Board was legally obligated to provide services and, as the Commissioner explained, to do so with properly certificated personnel. If the waiver attempt, fundamentally flawed as it was, did somehow postpone the Board's obligation in the face of the failure to obtain shared services until the waiver was denied, surely by January the Board could no longer avoid an obligation to lawfully staff the services. In either case, whether that obligation attached in September or in January, Ms. Deitch would have been entitled to be offered the restored position, even though she was then employed in the Trenton School District. That said, if the Board did have an obligation to restore a position so as to "provide" services through a properly certificated individual in conformity with N.J.A.C. 6A:2.1(h), what exactly did that obligation entail? Must the Board have created a full-time position, as existed prior to the RIF, or was it only required to create a part-time slot, in accordance with the intent of the shared service agreement, which clearly contemplated that the services to be provided by a shared, properly certificated, individual working part-time in the District under the auspices of the CCESC would be sufficient to meet the requirements of the law? In either case, if the obligation existed, Ms. Deitch was entitled under her tenure rights to the position, but the question of what damages and remedy is appropriate for any violation of her rights may turn on the nature and timing of the Board's obligation.[1]

Counsel for the Board argues that while the District did not "provide" the library/media services during 2017-2018 through a properly certificated library/media specialist, any violation of its legal obligations under N.J.A.C. 6A:2.1(h) might subject the District to criticism or possibly some sanction for not complying with that regulation, but that failure would not provide any basis for Deitch to claim a violation of her tenure rights. And, even if the Board did, either in September or January, have an obligation to create a position of library/media specialist, at most it was required to create a part-time position. Given her full-time employment in Trenton during the entire 2017-2018 school year, even if her rights were violated, Ms. Deitch's potential earnings from such a part-time position in Berlin, whether for the full school year or certainly from January through June, were such that she has no claim for any financial damages. In response, counsel for Ms. Deitch notes that there never was a shared service in the 2017-2018 school year, and as such, the full-time position that existed before the RIF is the position the Board was required to restore and to which Ms. Deitch had rights.

The Board of Education is legally responsible to manage its school district in conformity with the established statutes and regulations that mandate the curriculum and the providers authorized to deliver it to students. So long as the Board assures that these mandates are met, it is within the Board's discretion as to how to allocate staff and funding to achieve these mandates. As such, if a school board determines that library/media services can be properly "provided" by properly certificated, part-time staff, subject to any other statutory or possibly contractual obligations, the Board may so arrange. If the Board decides that full-time certificated staff are not necessary to fulfill the obligation, it may reduce the position(s) to part-time, so long as it does so, in the case of tenured staff, for legally acceptable reasons of economy or efficiency. And, as said before, it may RIF certificated staff completely, so long as it provides the required media services in some other lawful manner, such as a shared service arrangement. As such, in the spring of 2017, the Berlin Borough Board of Education could have chosen to reduce Ms. Deitch's position to part-time rather than eliminate it, and so long as the services were properly filled in this part-time fashion, the Board's action would be acceptable. Importantly, no claim is made here that the services could not have been properly provided by the shared service personnel intended by the arrangement with the CCESC. As such, I cannot readily see why in September 2017, the Board could not have both sought to economize and still provide the mandated services through a part-time staff member on its own payroll. Merely because the CCESC did not deliver a provider does not mean the Board had to abandon any possibility of lessened expense, so long as the mandated services to its students were met. Given this, I FIND that the Board had an obligation, at least as early as September 2017, to restore a position for a certified media specialist on its rolls, but in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, that obligation could have been met by a part-time position. I CONCLUDE that Ms. Deitch would have been entitled to that restored, vacant part-time position, if she chose to exercise her tenure rights. Indeed, she had applied for that very part-time position through the CCESC.

Damages

While a teacher whose tenure rights have been violated and who has thereby been denied employment is generally entitled to receive back pay for such losses as she may have suffered, measuring whether Ms. Deitch is entitled to any monetary damages for the Board's failure to honor her tenure rights presents some difficulties. After her position with Berlin Borough was abolished, Ms. Deitch obtained full-time employment with the Trenton Board of Education, thereby fulfilling her responsibility to seek to mitigate her damages. The parties have stipulated that her base salary for 2017-2018 in Trenton was $69,440. As noted, her anticipated salary for 2017-2018 as a full-time employee of Berlin Borough was $88,398, a difference of $18,958. In seeking relief for the violation of her tenure rights, Ms. Deitch also notes commuting costs of $8,677.27 associated with her employment in Trenton, that she contends were required by her loss of employment with the respondent, as well as medical expenses of $1,724.20, following the termination of her health care benefits received from her employment with respondent, until she obtained new coverage through the Trenton Board. She received $4,268 in unemployment benefits.

It is clear that if Ms. Deitch could have expected full-time employment in 2017-2018 with the respondent her anticipated earnings would have exceeded those from the position she obtained in Trenton. However, given that the Board only had to create a part-time position to which she would have had entitlement, it is also clear that if she had been placed in the part-time position with the respondent that she applied for with the CCESC, or if she had been offered and had accepted the part-time position that this decision concludes the respondent was obligated to create in September 2017, the salary for that part-time position would obviously not have been the $88,398 that she anticipated she would have earned in a full-time position with the respondent in 2017-2018. According to the Stipulation, the CCESC pegged the salary for the part-time position advertised that summer as $34,272. According to a quote for services from the CCESC to the Board, this was to be for two days a week at $476 a day. Clearly, if all that Ms. Deitch could have expected to receive from respondent for a part-time position restored to the Board's rolls would have been this figure, her earnings in Trenton far exceeded this figure, and that is so even if the commuting and medical expenses are included as money to which she would be entitled in view of the violation of her tenure rights. Even if the two-day a week salary were measured against her anticipated full salary of $88,398, 40 percent of that salary, representing two of five work days, would total $35,359.20. Again, the earnings from Trenton far exceed this figure. Thus, I FIND that she suffered no financial damage from the Board's failure to create a part-time position for school year 2017-2018 to allow it to properly provide media specialist services in the absence of provision through the shared services arrangement. Of course, had the Board created the part-time position for that school year, it could have then chosen to abolish that part-time position and seek to fill it through a shared service arrangement with the CCESC for 2018-2019. In fact, while it did not create a position of its own for 2017-2018, it did succeed in obtaining shared service from CCESC for 2018-2019. But if it had an obligation to create this part-time position on its rolls for 2017-2018, it would have had to formally abolish, or RIF, the position before it entered into a new shared service arrangement. Since it never created the part-time position that this decision concludes it was obligated to create, it of course never acted to abolish it. Thus, if Ms. Deitch, exercising her tenure rights, had taken the part-time position Berlin Borough should have created, in the absence of proper action to abolish the position, she would have been entitled to the part-time position for 2018-2019. Her anticipated salary for that year in Berlin Borough, at two days a week as per the work anticipated by part-time arrangement sought for 2017-2018, and based on 40 percent of the anticipated full-time salary of $89,198 would have been $35,679.20. Instead if three days a week were required, as was the case under the actual part-time arrangement filled by the CCESC for 2018-2019, the salary would have been approximately $53,518.80; 60 percent of the full salary. In reality, Ms. Deitch was riffed by Trenton at the end of 2017-2018, hired by the Millville School District, worked there from September 2018 through October 31, 2018, resigned and was rehired by Trenton, starting on November 2, 2018, through June 30, 2019. She received unemployment during the summer of 2018, totaling $3,977. She earned $8215.84 from Millville. Her salary with Trenton was $72,390, plus a $1,500 stipend for her dual certifications, totaling $73,890, a figure that was prorated for the time employed by Trenton starting November 2, 2018. While she again notes additional commuting costs related to travel to Millville and Trenton, it is obvious that once again her actual earnings exceeded any earnings she would have received from a part-time position with the Berlin Borough School District. As such, I CONCLUDE that despite Berlin Borough's failure to honor Ms. Deitch's tenure rights when it failed to restore a position of library/media specialist, as that obligation only involved the creation of a part-time position, she suffered no financial loss and thus no damages are warranted.

There being no material facts in dispute and the evidence supporting Ms. Deitch's claim that under the tenure law she was entitled to a position with the Berlin Borough Board of Education, and that the Board failed to honor her tenure rights, IT IS HEREBY

Final Decision

Heather Deitch,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Berlin, Camden County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) – for the reasons thoroughly expressed in the Initial Decision – that the petitioner was entitled to a restored, vacant part-time library/media specialist position by virtue of her tenure rights following a reduction in force. Nevertheless, the Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ that the petitioner suffered no financial loss as a result of the Board's failure to restore a position of part-time library/media specialist since the petitioner had already secured full time employment, with a higher salary, in a different school district.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Petitioner's motion for summary decision is granted but she is not entitled to a monetary award.

Final Decision

Christine Skurbe,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Monroe, Middlesex County; Kathleen Kolupanowich, Board President; Steven Riback, Board Vice President; and Jill DeMaio, Board Member, Respondents.

Synopsis

Petitioner – formerly the vice president of the Monroe Township Middle School Parent Teacher Organization (MTMS PTO), a parent organization that hosts fundraising activities for the benefit of students and staff – founded a second parent organization in 2018, the Monroe Township Middle School Parent Staff Association (MTMS PSA), of which she is president. A majority of members of the respondent Board voted to recognize the MTMS PSA at a meeting on August 22, 2018. Petitioner, however, believed that dissenting Board members would hold a second vote to revoke MTMS PSA's status as an organization over alleged violation of certain Board policies. A petition for due process was filed by petitioner in February 2019, in which she requested that the Commissioner investigate board members for allegedly retaliatory conduct and declare that the Board cannot revoke MTMS PSA's status. The Board filed a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted, asserting that the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction in this matter.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the Commissioner has jurisdiction to "hear and determine…all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws," N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9; in this role, the Commissioner adjudicates disputes and can review certain final decisions of a board of education to determine if it acted in and "arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner"; the Commissioner does not have investigative powers, but rather has the power to review final rulings or actions of a board of education; as the Board in this matter has not moved to revoke the MTMS PSA's status as a parent organization, the issues raised by petitioner herein are not yet suitable for consideration by the Commissioner. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion to dismiss the petition.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusion of the ALJ, for the reasons thoroughly expressed in the Initial Decision. According, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

Record Closed: June 11, 2019 Decided: June 27, 2019

BEFORE DEAN J. BUONO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Prior to the 2018 school year in the Monroe Township Middle School, there was one-parent organization that hosted fundraising activities for the benefit of the students and its staff. It was the Monroe Township Middle School Parent Teacher Organization (MTMS PTO). Petitioner Christine Skurbe (Skurbe or petitioner) served as its vice president before founding her own organization, Parent Staff Association (MTMS PSA), of which she is the president. Respondent refused to recognize the MTMS PSA and requested to revoke its status as an organization because it violated some of the Board policies.

Skurbe argues her organization has not violated the relevant Board policies, and as such, there is not a valid basis for board members to consider revoking its Class I status. She alleges, therefore, that their discussions were "clearly retaliation," and asks that the matter be "looked into," "investigated," and "stopped."

On February 15, 2019, petitioner filed a petition for due process with the Office of Controversies and Disputes of the New Jersey Department of Education requesting that the Commissioner: (1) investigate board members for allegedly retaliatory conduct; and (2) declare that the Board cannot, consistent with its own policies, revoke the organization's Class I status. On April 18, 2019, the complaint was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for disposition.

In lieu of an answer, Monroe Township Board of Education (Monroe or respondents) filed a motion to dismiss the petition, for "failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted." (R. 4:6-2(e).) They argue that even accepting the alleged facts as true, the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction to grant the requested relief. The question is whether the Commissioner of Education has jurisdiction to investigate a board of education and declare if it would violate its own policies if it voted in a certain way on a hypothetical matter.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The following facts are not in dispute and as such I FIND AS FACT that parent organizations host fundraising activities for the benefit of a school's students and its staff. In Monroe Township Middle School, before 2018, there was one such organization, the Parent Teacher Organization (MTMS PTO). Petitioner Christine Skurbe served as its vice president before founding her own organization, Parent Staff Association (MTMS PSA), of which she is the president. Her organization submitted the necessary paperwork to the Monroe Board of Education and asked that it be recognized and granted Class I user status. In August 2018, the Board considered that request.

District Policy 9210 governs the Board's relationship with parent organizations. It promises that the Board "will encourage and support" such organizations "whose objectives are to promote the educational interests of district pupils." District employees are thus required to treat "representatives of recognized parent organizations" "as interested friends of the schools and as supporters of public education." The Board, however, "reserves the right to withdraw recognition from any parent organization whose actions are inimical to the interests of the pupils of the district."

Organizations and individuals that wish to use school facilities are designated as either Class I or Class II users. The Class I status comes with certain benefits. District Regulation 7510 provides that, as between the two classes, "Class I users will be given priority for the use of school facilities." Class I users also do not need to pay a "fee or charge for custodial and service (fuel, water, and electricity) costs," whereas Class II users must do so. Regulation 7510 lists the eligible Class I users, including Parent Teacher Organizations and Parent Teacher Associations.

On this subject, the Board was not of one mind. The Board's President, Kathleen Kolupanowich, took the position that it should not grant MTMS PSA Class I status because there should be only one parent organization in the school. (Ms. Skurbe later filed an ethics complaint against Ms. Kolupanowich, which was dismissed by the School Ethics Commission on December 19, 2018.) Other members, including Ken Chiarella, disagreed. He argued that because the organization met the definition of a Class I user under Regulation 7510, it should be designated as such. The number of parent organizations, he submitted, is the principal's concern, not the Board's.

On August 22, 2018, a five-member majority voted to recognize MTMS PSA and grant it Class I user status. Three members voted against the motion and one abstained. Months later, at its January 26, 2019 meeting, Ms. Skurbe alleges that two of the dissenting members expressed their desire to hold a second vote. The Board's president and vice president, she claims, "made it clear that they are looking for the Board to take another vote to take away Class I status" because its fundraising success had adversely affected the other parent organization's success.

Believing that such a vote was imminent, Ms. Skurbe filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education on February 15, 2019, naming the Board and the three dissenting members as respondents. On this record, the Board has not voted to revoke the organization's Class I status.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

In her petition, Skurbe maintains that her organization has not violated the relevant Board policies, and as such, there is not a valid basis for board members to consider revoking its Class I status. She alleges, therefore, that their discussions were "clearly retaliation," and asks that the matter be "looked into," "investigated," and "stopped." Again, liberally construed, the petition requests that the Commissioner: (1) investigate board members for allegedly retaliatory conduct; and (2) declare that the Board cannot, consistent with its own policies, revoke the organization's Class I status.

However, even accepting all the alleged facts as true, the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction to grant the requested relief and as such, the petition should be dismissed in full.

The Commissioner has jurisdiction to "hear and determine" "all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. In this role, the Commissioner adjudicates disputes. The Commissioner can, among other things, review certain final actions of a board of education to determine if it acted in an "arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner."

But the power to adjudicate does not include the power to investigate. The Office of Controversies and Disputes, within the Department of Education, is not an investigative agency, and the Legislature has not granted the Commissioner investigatory powers. For this reason, the Commissioner cannot investigate individual board members for allegedly retaliatory conduct. Neither can the Commissioner declare that the Board would violate its own policies if it revoked the organization's Class I status.

This matter is not justiciable. The Commissioner does not "render advisory opinions or function in the abstract." Crescent Park Tenants Ass'n v. Realty Equities Corp., 58 N.J. 98, 107 (1971); Milano v. Franklin Twp. Bd. of Educ., EDU 6797-06, Final Decision (July 24, 2008), https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/.

Respondents argue that petitioner lacks standing. In New Jersey, a litigant has standing if her "concern with the subject matter evidenced a sufficient stake and real adverseness." Crescent Park Tenants Ass'n v. Realty Equities Corp., 58 N.J. 98, 107 (1971). The antecedent question, however, is whether this matter is ripe. If it is not, then no person has standing to pursue it; in this way, these justiciability doctrines overlap. See Trombetta v. Mayor & Comm'rs of City of Atlantic City, 181 N.J. 203, 223 (Law Div. 1981), aff'd, 187 N.J. Super. 351 (App. Div. 1982) ("The standing question bears close affinity to questions of ripeness, that is, whether the harm asserted has matured sufficiently to warrant judicial intervention.").

The "ripeness" doctrine "protects against deciding issues before they are necessary." Brodie v. Saddle Brook Twp. Bd. of Educ., 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 694. The two relevant factors are "the fitness of the issues for judicial decision and the hardship to the parties of withholding court consideration." ibid (quoting Abbott Laboratories v. Gardner, 387 U.S. 136, 149 (1967.) Legal issues are suitable for resolution if "the ruling or action complained of is final." Ibid (citing Abbott Laboratories, 387 U.S. at 149).

In Brodie, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 694, a resident challenged the Board's decision to close a school before the Department of Education had approved the closure. The ALJ and Commissioner agreed that because the challenged action was not final, the claim was not ripe for review. "Each time a public entity, or official, determines to pursue a course of conduct," the ALJ observed, it "does not immediately give rise to a litigable issue." "Only after the approval has been given is a 'school law dispute' ripe."

In this case, the Board has not voted to revoke the organization's Class I status. If it chooses to do so, at that time, Ms. Skurbe would be aggrieved by a final action of the Board and could properly challenge it. Before then, however, she has not suffered any harm and the matter is not ripe for review because the Commissioner's decision would amount to an "advisory opinion."

Respondents offer two additional arguments for dismissal. Both lack merit and neither needs to be addressed if the case is dismissed on ripeness grounds.

First, respondents cite Jordan v. Bd. of Educ., No. A-4420-14T1, 2017 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 1865 (App. Div. July 21, 2017), for the proposition that "there is no authority that would require a Board to be bound by its own policies."

That case involved the Board's decision not to renew the contract of a non-tenured guidance counselor. Id. at *1-2. It provided notice of that decision after the date required by its policy but before the date required by the relevant statute. Id. at *10-11. In an unpublished opinion, the court noted that fact without further comment. Ibid ("While the Board failed to comply with its own policy providing notice of re-employment by April 24, the Board's action remained in compliance with N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10, as plaintiff received notice prior to May 15.").

Thus, if Jordan stands for anything, it is for the modest proposition that a Board's failure to follow its policies may be excused if it otherwise complies with statutory mandates. It does not stand for the more sweeping proposition, however, that a Board may ignore its policies without consequence.

Second, respondents argue that the petition is untimely under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Known as the "ninety-day" rule, it provides that a petition must be filed "no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling, or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, that is the subject of the requested contested case hearing."

Respondents contend that all the claims raised in the petition relate to the Board's meeting on August 22, 2018. Measured from that date, the petition—filed on February 15, 2019—would be untimely. But petitioner is not challenging any action taken at that meeting, and for good reason: The Board voted to recognize her organization and grant it Class I status, which is exactly what she requested.

Her claim instead relates to the January 26, 2019, meeting where certain members discussed holding another vote to revoke the organization's Class I status. The problem with this claim is not that its untimely. It is instead that the Board did not take any final action that would even trigger the ninety days to file under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). That, as previously explained, is a ripeness problem.

I FIND AS FACT that there are no genuine issues of material fact requiring a hearing. For the foregoing reasons, I CONLUDE Monroe's motion to Dismiss is GRANTED.

Having CONCLUDED that respondent Board's motion to dismiss is GRANTED. It is hereby ORDERED that the petitioner's appeal be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BEFORE THOMAS R. BETANCOURT, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed a Petition with the Office of Controversies and Disputes in the New Jersey Department of Education (DOE). The contested matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1, where it was filed on June 28, 2019, to be heard on an emergent basis.

Petitioner requests a ruling declaring a Memorandum of Understanding (MOA) negotiated between the Respondent Board and the Jersey City Education Association (JCEA) was done contrary to law and should be declared null and void. Petitioner seeks on an emergent basis a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction against the implementation of the MOA.

JCEA submitted a motion to intervene on July 2, 2019. Oral argument on the motion was held on July 3, 2019 prior to oral argument on the request for emergent relief. The motion to intervene was granted on the record on July 3, 2019. A written Order was also entered on July 3, 2019.

The application for emergent relief was heard on July 3, 2019. Petitioner was given to July 9, 2019 to submit a supplemental brief to address jurisdiction and potential remedies. No reply from Respondent or Intervenor was permitted. Petitioner submitted her supplemental brief on July 9, 2019, whereupon the record was closed.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

The Respondent herein, the Jersey City Board of Education, negotiated a MOA with the JCEA. This collective bargaining agreement took effect on July 1, 2019. Petitioner filed her petition with the Commissioner on June 27, 2019. It was transferred to the OAL on June 28, 2019, to be heard on an emergent basis. Petitioner alleges certain violations of the School Ethics Act in that some members of the Respondent Board had conflicts with the JCEA and should not have been involved in the negotiation process.

Last year the JCEA went on strike. Thereafter the Board created a Standing Committee on Labor Negotiations to manage the same. Labor counsel for the Board conducted a conflict analysis to identify non-conflicted members for participation on the standing committee. Any agreement negotiated by the standing committee is subject to Board ratification.

The Board determined thereafter that a majority of the Board was conflicted from matters involving collective bargaining with the JCEA. The Board determined that it needed to invoke the Doctrine of Necessity. On three separate occasions the Board read a resolution adopting the doctrine. The resolution was re-adopted by the Board at its meeting on April 29, 2019. The Board then voted to approve the MOA.

The SEC provided an advisory opinion to the Board on June 3, 2019. The SEC, in said advisory opinion, did not invalidate the Board's adoption of the Doctrine of Necessity.

Petitioner, in her petition, alleges three causes of action; Board president Sudhan Thomas and vice president Lorenzo Richardson engaged in improper negotiations in violation of the common law and the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24; the Board's invocation of the Doctrine of Necessity on March 7, March 28 and April 29, 2019 was defective and in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21; and, the Board violated the School Ethics Act by failing to obtain full Board approval before negotiating with the JCEA.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The threshold question in the instant matter is one of jurisdiction: Does the Commissioner, and therefore the OAL, have jurisdiction to consider the petition herein.

The Commissioner of the Department of Education has jurisdiction over disputes "arising under the school laws." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

Should there be jurisdiction a second question arises: can the remedy of a temporary restraining order on the MOA, and the voiding of the MOA be granted.

The answers to both questions clearly is no. The Commissioner, and therefore the OAL, does not have jurisdiction as the claims set forth in the petition all hinge upon alleged violation of the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. The proper venue for the within matter would be the School Ethics Commission (SEC). N.J.S.A. 18A:12-27.

Further, the SEC has no authority to grant the relief requested in the petition. The SEC may impose the following sanctions pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c):

> Upon completion of the hearing, the commission, by majority vote, shall determine whether the conduct complained of constitutes a violation of this act, or in the case of a board member, this act or the code of ethics, or whether the complaint should be dismissed. If a violation is found, the commission shall, by majority vote, recommend to the commissioner the reprimand, censure, suspension, or removal of the school official found to have violated this act, or in the case of a board member, this act or the code of ethics. The commission shall state in writing its findings of fact and conclusions of law. The commissioner shall then act on the commission's recommendation regarding the sanction.

Further, should the Commissioner have jurisdiction on some other area of school law, which I cannot determine exists, there is no authority for the Commissioner under any area of school law that permits the issuance of a temporary restraining order or injunctive relief of the MOA, which is a collective bargaining agreement.

As stated in the Statement of the Case and Procedural History, the undersigned permitted Petitioner to submit a supplemental brief regarding jurisdiction and potential remedies. In her supplemental brief, submitted this date, Petitioner argues several areas that would allow for jurisdiction herein. All fail.

Initially, Petitioner argues that the Respondent Board is formed pursuant the School Law and is only authorized to act under the School Law. Petitioner further argues that much of what the Board does is done pursuant to the School Law. N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 to 76-4. While this argument rings true, it avoids the real issue herein: The entire petition was brought under alleged violations of the School Ethics Act.

Petitioner then argues that the Commissioner, and therefore the OAL, has jurisdiction under the Transition Plan. The Transition Plan was issued by the New Jersey Board of Education after it transferred control of the schools of Jersey City back to the local Board of Education. Nothing contained in the Transition Plan provides jurisdiction to the Commissioner, and therefore the OAL, to hear a petition arising under the School Ethics Act.

Lastly, Petitioner claims the Commissioner has incidental jurisdiction as she alleges that the Respondent Board violated the Open Public Meetings Act for not properly noticing all its meetings pursuant to N.J.S.A. 10:4-9, and for not keeping all meetings open to the public at all times in violation of N.J.S.A. 10:4-12. Petitioner cites Gardner v. Board of Education of the City of Hackensack, Bergen County, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 09421-12, 2013 WL 2467918, at *6 (OAL May 1, 2013), citing Sukin v. Northfield Bd. of Educ., 171 N.J. Super. 184, 187 (App. Div. 1979).

It is important to note that Petitioner did not make any claim in the petition based upon a violation of the Open Public Meetings Act. To suggest she did assert such a claim is not accurate. In Gardner the incidental jurisdiction of the Commissioner is based upon a controversy under the school laws. In the instant matter there is a claim of jurisdiction under the School Ethics Act.

To the extent that Petitioner, in her supplemental brief, requests the opportunity to submit an amended pleading to allege a violation of the Open Public Meetings Act, it is DENIED.

As to Petitioner's arguments regarding the remedy requested in her petition, those arguments are generic and not based upon any statutory or case law that is relevant herein. Accordingly, they will not be addressed.

Having determined that there is no jurisdiction of the Commission to hear this matter, and therefore no jurisdiction for the OAL to hear it, the matter should be dismissed. However, as the issues presented in the petition were argued I will do an analysis under Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-34 (1982).

The New Jersey Supreme Court has set forth a four-prong test for determining whether an applicant is entitled to emergent relief. Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-34 (1982) enumerating the factors later codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:14.2-7(s)1.

The four factors ("the Factors"), include:

> 1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
>
> 2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;
>
> 3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
> 4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

The moving party bears the burden of proving each of the Crowe elements "clearly and convincingly." Waste Mgmt of N.J. v. Union County Util. Auth., 399 N.J. Super. 508, 520 (App. Div. 2008).

As the following analysis will show, Petitioner has failed to establish any of the four elements to be successful. Petitioner asserts that she, and the other residents of Jersey City, will suffer irreparable harm from Respondent's failure to abide by the ethical rules governing conflicts of interest and failure to abide by the ordinary and proper procedural and substantive rules and law governing the negotiation of public collective bargaining agreements. No concrete harm, irreparable or otherwise, has been demonstrated. Further the harm argued is, at best, speculative, and therefore does not satisfy this element of Crowe.

The second element of Crowe is that the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled. While it may, or may not, be accurate that some members of the Board were conflicted and that the invocation of the doctrine of necessity was done improperly, a hearing on the same would be required. However, the relief requested is not within the powers of the Commissioner, and therefore, the OAL. Injunctive relief on a negotiated MOA cannot be granted in this venue. The proper venue is the Superior Court of New Jersey.

Further, the alleged breaches of the School Ethics Law by certain members of the Board should have properly been filed with the SEC.

Likewise, Petitioner has not demonstrated that there is a likelihood of success on the merits. The facts, as outlined in the petition and supporting affidavits, are hotly contested by Respondent. There is no showing in the moving papers, or at oral argument, that petitioner is likely to succeed. In fact, given the current facts as outlined in all the moving papers, it seems Respondent is more likely to prevail.

The last element of Crowe, when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted, does not weigh in petitioner's favor. The MOA took effect on July 1, 2019. The Board and the JCEA negotiated the MOA over a lengthy period. To enjoin the agreement would, at this point, place the District budget in question and could quite possible effect individual's employment. Clearly, when the equities are balanced Respondent would suffer greater harm if the requested relief is granted.

Based upon the foregoing I CONCLUDE that petitioner's request for emergent relief be DENIED; and that the petition should be DISMISSED with prejudice as there is no jurisdiction to hear this matter.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's request for emergent relief is DENIED; and, It is further ORDERED, as there is no jurisdiction to hear the underlying claim in the petition, that the petition is dismissed with prejudice.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

In the Matter of Michael Gaimari, Hopewell Township Board of Education,
Mercer County.

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (Commission), finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely complete school board member training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1. The Commission's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner for final determination on the recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c). The Commission advises that respondent ultimately completed the training after the issuance of its May 3, 2019, Order to Show Cause. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty nor instituted an appeal, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq., of the Commission's underlying finding of violation.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission for respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon board members by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

Docket No.: T16-18
Decision for Failure to Complete Mandatory Training Requirement

I/M/O Michael Gaimari,
Hopewell Township Board of Education, Cumberland County

I. Procedural History

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at a special meeting on May 2, 2019, and mailed on May 3, 2019, via regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1.

In the OTSC mailed on May 3, 2019, the Commission notified Respondent that he had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of twenty (20) days, the Commission would proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

II. Analysis

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1 require every board member to complete a training program prepared and offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA).

Respondent is a member of a board of education located in Hopewell Township, Cumberland County. As a result of his position as a board of education member, and in accordance with the statute and regulation cited above, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program on an annual basis. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online so any board member may complete it at any time, from anywhere. Respondent was required to complete the Governance IV training program by December 31, 2018.

On March 5, 2019, NJSBA provided the Commission with the names of those board members who failed to complete mandated training by December 31, 2018, and the list provided included Respondent. Prior to this time, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to Respondent, and to his Business Administrator, from NJSBA. More specifically, an e-mail was sent to all board members about mandated training, including Respondent, on August 3, 2018, August 16, 2018, October 2, 2018, and February 13, 2019, reminding them of the annual training requirement and the December 31, 2018, deadline. On January 15, 2019, NJSBA sent an e-mail to Respondent advising him that he had not completed Governance IV, and provided a link to the online training module.

Additional notifications were sent to the Hopewell Township School District's Business Administrator on November 29, 2018, December 20, 2018, December 28, 2018, January 8, 2019, January 18, 2019, January 29, 2019, and March 14, 2019, advising that, as of those dates, Respondent had not completed training. Notwithstanding all of these communications with Respondent and/or the Business Administrator for the Hopewell Township School District, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In addition to the communication efforts undertaken by the NJSBA, Respondent's County Office of Education (County) also communicated with the Respondent regarding his failure to complete the mandated training requirement. More specifically, on March 7, 2019, the Commission's staff notified the County that the NJSBA had identified Respondent as a school official who failed to complete training by December 31, 2018. As a result, the County sent correspondence to Respondent, with a copy to the Business Administrator, advising that Respondent remained delinquent in completing training. Notwithstanding this correspondence from the County dated March 8, 2019, Respondent did not complete training as directed.

As a final warning, the Commission sent a letter to Respondent dated March 18, 2019, via regular and electronic mail, advising him that the Commission requires completion of the training to avoid the issuance of an OTSC for non-compliance. This final warning letter provided instructions for completing the training. Again, notwithstanding this correspondence, Respondent did not complete the required training. As a result, an OTSC was mailed to Respondent on May 3, 2019.

To date, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete his required training by December 31, 2018, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC. However, and after being served with the OTSC, Respondent completed his training requirement on May 13, 2019, but did not respond to the Commission's OTSC as to why he did not complete training by December 31, 2018.

III. Decision/Penalty Recommendation

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at a special meeting on June 19, 2019, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1. Respondent received repeated notifications of his training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, he failed to complete training as required.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq., within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's briefs on appeal.

DECISION AND AWARD

Pursuant to NJSA 18A:6-16 the undersigned Arbitrator was appointed to hear and determine the above captioned matter which was appealed to arbitration by Jill Maria ("Ms. Maria") after the Lawrence Township School District Board of Education ("the District" or "the Board") terminated her for reasons of law.

A hearing was conducted on May 13, 2019 in the offices of the District, Lawrence, New Jersey. At that time and place, both parties had an opportunity to call and confront witnesses and produce non-testimonial evidence. There being no procedural objections material to the case, this matter is ready for adjudication on its merits.

Background:

There are no disputed facts in this matter. Ms. Maria was hired as a special education teacher by the District (NT 71), and she was granted tenure on or about September 1, 2005. She has taught sixth grade special education the last three years at the Lawrence Township Intermediate School. On December 18, 2018 she was placed on administrative leave after the District was told she had been arrested. Although Ms. Maria had not informed the District of her arrest, the District believed reporting was required by law. At the time she was placed on leave she had only taught for about two months in the 2017-2018 school year, having returned from an approved leave of absence to attend her son's severe disabilities which include cerebral palsy. (NT 73).

By her own admission Ms. Maria had been arrested on or around January 7, 2017 in Pennsylvania. (NT 25 74). It is uncontroverted that the District has a policy requiring teachers to report arrests. (NT 51; BX 7) and that Ms. Ms. Maria had signed for receipt or knowledge of the policy. (NT 99-100). However, at hearing she explained she did not believe a report was necessary and that to avoid possible loss of her job she followed her criminal attorney's advice and accepted a plea agreement on August 7, 2018 (NT 74, 75). The plea agreement was also not reported.

Unfortunately, on December 3, 2018 Ms. Maria was stopped again by police in Pennsylvania, this time for a traffic violation. (NT 76). After being stopped, she was detained for a violation of her earlier plea agreement that required her to meet with her probation officer as scheduled. (Id.). That failure had prompted a bench warrant for her arrest. (NT 78). Although the bench warrant was only discovered by police after they did a look up (NT 82), it was also found that Ms. Maria was driving on a suspended license. (NT 84).

Ms. Maria was released from jail the following morning. (Id.). She did not report this arrest to the District, either. (NT 89). As with her first arrest, Ms. Maria explained her failure was due to the fear that if she reported the incident arrest, she would be fired. (NT 89).

Ms. Maria's legal difficulties eventually reached Sean Fry ("Mr. Fry")), the District's Director of Personnel and Administrative Services, who was informed in early December 2018 by Ms. Maria's principal. (NT 17). After contacting both the District's Superintendent and the leadership of Ms. Maria's union (NT 17), Mr. Fry met with Ms. Maria, a union representative named Lori Boggs ("Boggs), and Ms. Maria's principal, Cindy Westhead ("Westhead") on December 19, 2018. (NT 19). After a very brief time with Mr. Fry, the latter three left his office. Boggs soon returned with Ms. Maria and announced the latter would not be answering any questions at that time, but wanted the opportunity to consult with legal counsel. (NT 21; 41, 42) Apparently undeterred, Mr. Fry told Ms. Maria he needed her to tell him if she had recently been arrested and if there were any prior arrests that she had not reported. (NT 21, 23). Mr. Fry told Ms. Maria that if she did not answer he would suspend her. When Ms. Maria continued to refuse (NT 23)[1], Mr. Fry notified her she was suspended with pay, pending the District's investigation. (NT 22; BX 2). He further agreed to meet her request and schedule a second meeting to which she could bring representation. (NT 44). Despite a written assurance from Mr. Fry, that meeting never was scheduled. (NT 44; 53; 55).

The District's review of Ms. Maria's arrest and court records disclosed she had been arrested on January 7, 2017 and agreed to a plea arrangement for simple assault. Additional charges of unlawfully possessing a controlled substance, use or possession of drug paraphernalia, and harassment were not prosecuted. (NT 25; BX 3). The District also examined and took into consideration certain letters of discipline critical of her in-school conduct that were in Ms. Maria's personnel file (NT 31-32, 35, 37; BX 6). Contemporaneous with those letters and at all times of record, Ms. Maria' annual evaluations and performance reports all documented satisfactory or proficient work (NT 40; RX 1-17), and the record discloses no issue with Ms. Maria's care for student safety or any complaints from parents about her in-school performance. (NT 65-66).

Nevertheless, once Mr. Fry had confirmed her arrests, the instant tenure charges were filed with the Board.

[1] At hearing, Ms. Maria testified that she had been advised not to answer Mr. Fry's questions by her Union representatives. (NT 91).

The Tenure Charges Brought by the Board:

The District brought three charges against Ms. Maria's tenure status on February 22, 2019 based on three grounds provided in NJSA 18A: 6-10:

1. Other Just Cause for tenure removal because Ms. Maria failed to report her arrest and conviction for the 2017 offense and, by the District's information and belief, also failed to report her 2018 detention as required by law;
2. Conduct Unbecoming by (a) being insubordinate in refusing to answer Mr. Fry's questions on December 19, 2918; (b) having a prior disciplinary history that included insubordinate conduct with the District;, and, (c) being untrustworthy in regard to her obligation to be truthful and her overall professional judgment.
3. Incapacity by virtue of the previously stated acts of nonfeasance and malfeasance.

On March 13, 2019 the Board upheld the Charges and suspended Ms. Maria without pay, pursuant to NJSA 18A: 6-14. On March 18, 2019 the Board delivered the Charges, with a related Statement of Evidence, a Certificate of Determination, and Proof of Service upon Ms. Maria to the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Controversies and Disputes. On March 27, 2019 Ms. Maria's counsel filed an Answer to the charges with the Office, and on April 8, 2019 the Office notified all parties that the Charges and Statement of Evidence were enough, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary, subject to the determination of the undersigned.

Arguments of the District:

The District begins by characterizing tenure as a measure designed to protect against arbitrary dismissal rather than a fortress that defies termination for all but extremely serious infractions. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 NJ 63, 73 (1982). In no way was tenure intended to protect staff from improper performance, according to the Board. In re Tenure Hearing of Giglio, EDU 11457-2003, Initial Decision (August 9, 2004). In the instant case, the Board argues, the removal of Ms. Maria's tenure is founded upon her failure to report an arrest, conviction, and sentence---and on her insubordination, poor judgment and deceit.

Turning to its charge of unbecoming conduct, the District recognizes it is an elastic term that includes behavior which tends to destroy public respect for public employees and confidence in public services. Giglio, supra; Karins v. Atlantic City, 152 NJ 532, 554 (1998), The Board claims that no particularized rule needs to be violated for unbecoming conduct to be found. Rather, unbecoming conduct occurs when implicit standards of good behavior are violated by one who is supposed to observe best practices and behavior as a function of his or her office. (Id., citing Hartman v. Police Dep't. of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App Div. 1992).

In this case, the Board says that Ms. Maria violated NJAC 6A:9B-4.3 (c) (1) which expressly requires teachers to inform districts of their arrests within fourteen days of the occurrence, and any disposition within seven days. NJAC 6A: 9B-4.3 (c)(2). Failure to comply with either directive is just cause for revocation of certification. NJAC 6A:9B-4.3(c).

The Board points out that such failure has been found to constitute conduct unbecoming even when, as in this case, there was evidence the accused did not know of the reporting obligation. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Bessellieu, (EDU 4766-12, Initial Decision (December 3. 2011), modified on other grounds, Comm., (January 15, 2013). The same is true, the District points out, even where there is evidence that the employee did not believe an arrest had been effectuated. In the Matter of Tenure Hearing of Guarni, EDU 08705-06, Initial Decision (June 5, 2007), adopted, Comm. (July 23, 2007). And, even failure to report on the advice of counsel has been found a violation of the regulations. Fikentscher v. Ramapo College, HEC 03339-09, Initial Decision (Dec. 14, 2009).

In Ms. Maria's case, she raised no such defenses. Instead, she said she had gotten the District's policy requiring compliance with the regulations, was aware she had been arrested, and remained silent not on the advice of an attorney but because she feared for her job.

The District's next charge, insubordination, is substantiated the District says, on two factual grounds, both of which amount to just cause for tenure removal under NJAC 6A:9B-4.3(c). Guarini, supra; Bessellieu, supra; Fikentscher, supra. The District points out that no overt disrespect or disobedience is necessary for a finding of insubordination, Tenure Hearing of Duran, EDU 6754-06 and EDU 6957-06, Initial Decision (May 17, 2007), adopted, Comm., (July 5, 2007) and that a simple non-compliance with regulations or lawful orders constitutes insubordination. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Toorzani, EDU09713-11 Initial Decision, (December 28, 2011), adopted (February 9, 2012). Consequently, the District argues, Ms. Maria's failure to report her arrests, although passive in nature, were acts of insubordination.

Similarly, however, the District notes that Ms. Maria engaged in active insubordination when she refused Mr. Fry's instruction at their December 19, 2018 meeting to admit or deny she had been arrested. The District cites Bessellieu, supra, for the proposition that advice from her union representative not to answer cannot protect Ms. Maria from a finding of insubordination. The fact is, the, District says, she admittedly did not report her arrests out of concern that she would lose her job and even her claim that she was uncertain about the status of her detention in 2018 is insufficient to excuse her for not obeying Mr. Fry's command. Guarni, supra.

Finally, the District asserts, Ms. Maria's conduct has proven an incapacity to serve as a teacher and therefore should her tenure should be revoked. Although the status of incapacity is not precisely defined, In re Grossman, 127 NJ Super. 13, 28 (App. Div. 1974), the District says the term should be given a reasonable and sensible interpretation and considered in conjunction with just cause for tenure removal. Grossman, supra. Among factors to be considered in weighing incapacity is the effect a teacher's presence in the classroom might have on students. The District holds that Ms. Maria's arrest, the fact of her non-disclosure, her insubordination, Grossman, supra, and her failure to tell the truth when asked renders her incapable of being a trusted classroom presence.

Moreover, the District would have entries in her disciplinary file reinforce the notion of her incapacity to work as a teacher because those entries—which Ms. Maria admittedly did not contest—make reference to her "poor judgment," "issues of insubordination [and] leaving students and the school grounds." These notations, the District argues, affirm the view that Ms. Maria simply lacks the capacity to be an education employee.

In light of the foregoing, the District contends that removal is the only appropriate response. The District asserts there is evidence Ms. Maria cannot be rehabilitated and that her present conduct is so serious as to merit termination. In re Hermann, 192 NJ 19, 33 (2007) ("progressive discipline is not a necessary consideration...when the misconduct is severe, when it is unbecoming to the employee's position, or when application of the principle would be contrary to the public interest"); In re Stallworth, 208 NJ 182, 196-197 (2011). The District again points to the four letters of discipline in Ms. Maria's file, this time as evidence that the District had imposed progressive discipline in the form of written warnings or counselings, all of which put Ms. Maria on notice that she had to conform to all of the District's directives and policies. Those progressive measures put her on notice that the District would not tolerate non-compliance with its lawful requirements, thus serving the purposes of progressive discipline which are to admonish and offer an opportunity for reform. That having occurred, the District reasons, there is no place for any penalty here but removal.

Arguments of Ms. Maria:

Countering the District's position that tenure can be lost for less than the gravest failings, Ms. Maria emphasizes that tenure can only be removed for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, NJAS 18:A6-10, and these must be found by a preponderance of competent, credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parkesian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962). There being no record nor charge of inefficiency, Ms. Maria focuses on the District's reliance on unbecoming conduct and insists that before such a finding can be entered, a tribunal must examine the nature and gravity of the alleged offense, the impact of the offense on the teacher's career, any extenuating or aggravating circumstances, and the harm the conduct may have had on the administration of the teacher's district. In re Falcomer, 93 NJ Super. 404, 422 (App. Div.1967). Where unbecoming conduct is discerned, the penalty must turn on whether the teacher can continue working without harm to the operation of the school district. Grossman, supra; In re Young, 202 NJ 50, 66 (2010). The decision on all these matters is for the trial tribunal "de novo", Ms. Maria avers, without deference to the Board's own findings contained in its Statement of Evidence.

Ms. Maria also urges the application of progressive discipline, a concept she cites as having been approved both administratively and judicially. West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962); IMO Tenure Hearing of Owen Newson, State Operated School District, City of Newark,, DOE Dkt. No. 276-9/12; In re Arnold Borero, City of Newark, 2009 WL 3816616 (NJ Admin).

Here, Ms. Maria observes, the District has adopted progressive discipline in its own policies. (RX 20).

Continuing on that theme, Ms. Maria cites a number of decisions where teachers were not stripped of their tenure even in cases of flagrant misbehavior such as striking pupils, Boyd, supra; utterance of racially insensitive remarks, IMO the Tenure Hearing of George Mamunes, Pascaack Valley Regional School District, Comm. Of Ed. Dec. No. 208-00; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Barbara Emri, Comm. Of Ed. Dec. No 371-02; reference to a parent in front of a class as a "dyke," IMO the Tenure Hearing of Poston, Comm. Of Ed. Dec. No. 362-06; displays of temper, IMO Tenure Hearing of Adam Mierzwa, Comm. Of Ed. Dec. No. 283-08; IMO Tenure Arbitration of Richard Vicenti, DOE DKT. No. 255-14; sexually inappropriate discussions or words, IMO Tenure Hearing of Kimberlh Geurds, Comm. Of Ed. Dec. No. 267-10 IMO Tenure Hearing of Henry Allegretti, School District of the City of Trenton, Comm of Ed. Dec. No. 96-00; leaving pupils unattended, IMO Tenure Hearing of Victoria Jakubiak, Comm. Of Ed. Dec. No. 33-99; IMO Tenure Hearing of Carmen Quinones, 1996 NJAR 2d (EDU) 649).

Ms. Maria especially focuses on IMO Tenure Hearing of Martin Lieb, School District of the Town of West Orange, Essex County, 1985 SLD 933 where a teacher was not removed after a conviction for lewd conduct and IMO Tenure Removal Hearing of Brenda Bruni, NJ DOE No. 207-9/17 where a teacher was arrested for possession of drug paraphernalia.

Finally, turning to incapacity, Ms. Maria argues that charge is restricted to an inability to perform and not to situations in which a district simply claims the teacher is unwanted or unsatisfactory. There is no evidence she is incapable of teaching; in fact, Ms. Maria says, the collection of observations and annual evaluations in evidence speaks loudly to her competence. (RX 1-17). Turning to the four letters of reprimand in her file, Ms. Maria notes their exclusion from the record in terms of proof of what they assert and the absence of any testimony about the events underlying their issuance as well as the lack of any further discipline based on their alleged events. In all years of record, she emphasizes, she received satisfactory or proficient summative evaluations.

Turning more specifically to the charges, Ms. Maria concedes only her failure to report one arrest, in contravention of NJAC 6A: 9B-4(3). She underscores that the regulations merely provide that such a failure "may be deemed just cause." NJCA 6A:9B-4.4, a clear indication that a tribunal is free to ignore a district's decision to terminate an employee for such a failure.

Although she admits she did not report her 2017 arrest, she argues the arrest, which occurred in Pennsylvania, had no nexus with her work as a New Jersey teacher and should be seriously discounted in importance.

As for her second encounter with Pennsylvania police, in December 2018, Ms. Maria characterizes that as a detainment—not an arrest--because she had not complied with a term of her probation and therefore had become the subject of a bench warrant. Despite being taken into custody and jailed for several hours before being released the next day, Ms. Maria argues there was no arrest—within the meaning of the regulation—to report. Of note, she maintains, there was no criminal complaint lodged against her that precipitated the 2018 jailing, and therefore the incident was outside the reporting requirements of NJAC 6A:9B-4.3 (c) which requires reporting of arrests "for any crime or offense."

Addressing the charge of insubordination, Ms. Maria says that although she was not prepared to speak to Mr. Fry at their meeting on December 19, 2018, she asked him for a second meeting that day and was assured that a second meeting would be arranged at which she would have counsel. (BX 2). Instead, she was charged and suspended without pay without being given a chance to speak again with anyone in the District since the second meeting was never conducted. Further, Ms. Maria sees Mr. Fry's representation of a second meeting as a form of condonation of her silence on December 19, 2018, a silence she says she was prepared to break at their second meeting. She argues she cannot be found to be insubordinate as to her refusal to answer Mr. Fry's inquiries on December 19, 2018 when he gave the clear indication a second meeting would be conducted.

Denying the incapacity charge, Ms. Maria points out that the only ground for that accusation is her failure to report as required by NJAC 6A:9B-4.3 (c). That failure, even if upheld by the undersigned, she reasons, does not render her in any fashion incapacitated from serving the District's students. The District's attempts to buttress this charge with inadmissible letters of reprimand from her personnel file fail because the District never claimed the contents of the letter, if true, touched on her capacity to teach.

Lastly, Ms. Maria returns to the Fulcomer case to argue that it presents "factors" which must be considered before a teacher is terminated for a disciplinary infraction. The first factor is the gravity of the teacher's offense, a quality that is missing here, Ms. Maria argues, because there was no harm done to the District by her failure to report and nothing about that failure that would threaten the operation of the District. Second, under the Falcomer analysis for the sufficiency of just cause, the impact of the offense on the District and on the teacher's career should be weighed. Ms. Maria says her failure should have no impact on the District but termination would destroy her ability to work in her profession, possibly leading to the suspension or revocation of teaching certificates by the State. In addition, she would be ineligible to benefit from pension contributions made by or obligated from the State. Third, as held in Falcumer, there is an extenuating circumstance that influenced her decision not to report her 2017 arrest and that was the humiliation and shame she would surely suffer and her fear she would lose her job. Additionally, Ms. Maria continues to claim she did not know of the District's reporting requirement or the regulations mandating the same. Fourth, Falcomer requires an examination of the impact the teacher's delinquency had on the district. Here,Ms. Maria contends, her failure to report had absolutely no effect on the operation of the District and the District has offered no proof that it had.

Opinion:

My review of the record convinces me this case turns on only one of the District's charges, viz, that Ms. Maria was guilty of unbecoming conduct by failing to report her arrest on January 7, 2017[2] and her arrest on December 18, 2018. Further, it is also clear that pursuant to her earlier arrest, she had not reported her entry of plea and sentence of 24- months probationary supervision to the District. As recited above, the failure to report arrests and disposition of criminal charges is a violation of NJAC 6A:9B-4.3 (c) (1), and the failure to report an arrest may be grounds for termination according to NJAC 6A: 9B-4.4.

[2] At the time the Charges were drawn, the District only had information and belief that the January 7, 2017 arrest had occurred. The record amply demonstrates that it did in fact occur, and I believe the Charges can be read as incorporating the failure to report that arrest and disposition of charges on which the arrest was made as an fact in this proceeding.

There is no question that she did not report either arrest, and that she knew she was to report at least the first arrest and disposition.

The responsibilities attending Ms. Maria's second arrest are not as glaringly obvious but only because it was pursuant to a bench warrant issued for her failure to appear as scheduled before her probation officer. Although Ms. Maria refers to the December 18, 2018 incident as a detainment, it had both the hallmarks of and justification for an arrest because the existence of a bench warrant required police to arrest her. Moreover, she was held in a cell for at least several hours after being taken into custody. It is difficult to consider this incident as something less than an arrest within the meaning of NJAC 6A:9B-4.3(c) (1) and having observed Ms. Maria's testimony at hearing I am persuaded she is more than smart and knowledgeable enough to know she had, in fact, been arrested.

As for the District's other charges of conduct unbecoming and incapacity, there is nothing in the record to support either as an independent or even related cause for her termination.

The unbecoming conduct allegation is explained in the Board's charges as insubordination, an offense which the Board correctly argues does not necessarily have to include a direct, personal, and public refusal to follow orders. Yet the very fact that the concept of insubordination exists indicates it is a separate offense from others and cannot be sustained solely because a rule has been violated. Moreover, aside from the failure to report her arrests, the District rests its insubordination charge on four disciplinary notices placed in her record. Yet no competent admissible evidence was presented as to the underlying complaints in the notices. It is hornbook law that although hearsay and other evidence that would be inadmissible before a court can be admitted for limited purposes in administrative proceedings, such evidence cannot be considered when offered to prove a dispositive fact. Here, the District attempts to not only prove a dispositive fact but attempts to then extend that fact to the conclusion that Ms. Maria is deceptive, lacks professional judgment, and is an untrustworthy guardian of children. This conflation is unreasonable even were the letters of reprimand admitted. This is especially obvious considering that in each school year in which the letters were filed the District evaluated her as satisfactory or efficient and refrained from withholding a salary increment.

The other branch of the District's insubordination charge is Ms. Maria's failure to respond to Mr. Fry's question at their meeting on December 19, 2018. I fully concur with the District that Mr. Fry had a right (and obligation) to question Ms. Maria, and she had a responsibility to answer him. However, given that her failure to answer at that time was insubordinate, that fault was immediately expiated when Mr. Fry agreed to re-schedule the meeting so Ms. Maria could confer with and be accompanied by counsel before answering his questions. This certainly signals a strong implication that she could defer answering. Having suspended her with pay, Mr. Fry would be expected to schedule the next meeting, but that was never done. To have implied Ms. Maria had a chance to answer later and then not give her that chance, the District cannot be heard to accuse her of insubordination for not answering on December 19.

Similarly, the incapacity charge is meritless. Like insubordination, incapacity has a special meaning and is generally restricted to situations in which a teacher cannot perform because of physical limitations, confinement, or legal restraints on performance such as a loss of licensure. As with the insubordination charge, the incapacity complaint is a conflation of Ms. Maria's failure to report her arrests and disposition with the letters of reprimand in her file, and the incapacity charge must fall for the same reason as the insubordination charge.

That leaves the question of what penalty is appropriate for failing to report the two arrests and disposition. At hearing I resisted efforts by the District's counsel to explore the underlying causes of Ms. Maria's arrests, fearing that inquiries into them would distract from the essential question of her guilt or innocence on the precise charges brought by the Board against her tenure. At this juncture, however, it is necessary to refer to those charges for the very reason District counsel so eloquently urged their consideration at hearing.

As District counsel argued, the public policy behind the arrest and disposition regulation is the need to know behavioral tendencies that might render public school employees unsuited for their positions. This is of utmost importance given the nature of pupil-teacher relationships and responsibilities teachers have for their students. Having entered the teaching profession, teachers take on a willingness to have their out-of-school conduct examined where there is evidence of some wrongdoing. This is not a gratuitous extension of control over out-of-school life; it is necessary safeguard when alarms are sounded.

Arrests are such alarms, and although a district has no right to suspend or terminate simply based on an arrest, the fact of arrest alerts a district to possible jeopardy and justifies an inquiry into the basis for the arrest. A district cannot fulfill this responsibility without knowledge the arrest has occurred. Thus, NJAC 6A:9B-4.3 (c) (1) was adopted and NJAC 6A:9B-4.4 provides enforcement for failure to comply with the former regulation and provides a district may deem a failure to report as just cause for tenure removal.

The question is whether such removal is justified in this case. At this point, I think not, based on the totality of the circumstances and the guidance provided under Fulcomer, supra.

The circumstances are gleaned from the reports of Ms. Maria's arrests and disposition of the first one. That arrest was for a number of charges, all but one—simple assault—having been dropped by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The nature of the 2017 assault charge is not of record, but a sentence of 24 months reporting probation strongly suggests that the underlying conduct was not of a serious nature. The second arrest was on a bench warrant for not complying with the terms of her probation to which she had agreed in connection with her first arrest. That non-compliance consisted of Ms. Maria's failure to meet with her probation officer at an appointed time.

There is no suggestion in the record that either the first or second arrest was for conduct that involved children. However, as stated above, the District had a right to know the nature of Ms. Maria's assault charge so that it could properly evaluate her continuation as a teacher and—if necessary—bring charges against her based on what it found.

Application of the Fulcomer factors guide my application of the above circumstances to the question of removal. Two of the four factors clearly favor dismissal: (1) the nature and gravity of the offense and (2) the harm or injurious effect the conduct may have had on the District. As explained above, the failure to disclose the first arrest denied the District a timely opportunity to investigate the bases for the arrest. That denial was serious given the District's responsibility for the safety of its youngsters and vigilance over inclinations that might make staff members unqualified to care for pupils. The other two Fulcomer factors weigh against dismissal because I find Ms. Maria's long and evidently acceptable service to the District an important mitigating factor and further find dismissal to pose an absolutely destructive effect on her career and future employment opportunities.

Based on the foregoing considerations of the charges presented to the Commissioner, I do not find that Ms. Maria's tenure should not be removed on the charges as written, notwithstanding her unacceptable failure to report her arrests and probation status. Instead, she should be reinstated without backpay or benefits as of the first day similarly situated staff members are to report for the 2019-2010 school year. Further, upon her return to service whatever yearly increment would be owed her for service in the 2019-2020 school year shall be withheld.

Nothing herein should be construed as denying the District the right to bring charges based on unbecoming conduct grounded in the conduct that led to Ms. Maria's arrest in January 2017. That conduct was not the subject of the instant charges, most likely because Ms. Maria refused to disclose it when questioned in December 2018, and the District's desire to promptly act on that refusal and the other allegations presented in the above charges.

Award:

Ms. Maria's tenure shall not be removed on the charges presented to the Commissioner. She should be regarded as having been suspended without pay or benefits until the first day of the 2019-2020 school year on which similarly situated staff are to report. At that time she shall be reinstated without backpay or benefits and whatever yearly increment would be owed her for service in the 2019-2020 school year shall be withheld.

Re: K.K-M. on behalf of minor children A.W. and R.M. v. Board of Education of the City of Gloucester, Camden County, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 2505-18; Agency Dkt. No. 18-1/18; Commissioner Decision No. 305-18.

Dear Counsel:

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with petitioner's July 1, 2019 motion to stay the Commissioner's October 4, 2018 decision in the above-captioned matter. In the October 4, 2018 decision, I found that A.W. and R.M. were not entitled to attend school in the Gloucester City School District. Upon review of the parties' submissions, I find that the petitioner has not satisfied the criteria necessary to warrant a stay of the October 4, 2018 decision.

Under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(a), "[a]ny party may make a motion for stay of a Commissioner's decision pending an appeal to the Appellate Division of the Superior Court. Such motion shall be made subsequent to, or concurrent with, the filing of a notice of appeal with the court, but within 45 days of the filing of the Commissioner's decision." Here, the petitioner filed her motion for a stay almost nine months after the October 4, 2018 decision.

Moreover, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), a motion for stay is considered an extraordinary remedy that may only be issued upon a finding that petitioner has met each prong of the four-pronged standard for the granting of interim relief set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). Thus, a stay may be granted: where necessary to prevent irreparable harm; where the legal right underlying the movant's claim is settled; where there is a likelihood of success on the merits; and where the relative hardship to the moving party favors granting such relief. Id. at 132-134. In the submissions filed by the petitioner in support of the stay request, the petitioner failed to address any of the Crowe standards. Instead the petitioner cited to the fact that there are numerous issues pending on appeal before several different judicial forums, and that a stay would have public policy benefits.

Therefore, I find that the motion for a stay was untimely filed and that the Crowe factors necessary for the granting of a stay were not established by the petitioner. Accordingly, the petitioner's request for a stay of the October 4, 2018 decision is hereby DENIED.[1]

Final Decision

Tamaika DeFalco,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Hamilton, Mercer County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner, a tenured Spanish teacher employed by the Hamilton Township Board of Education (Board), appealed the Board's determination that she had committed an act of harassment, intimidation and bullying (HIB) pursuant to the New Jersey Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (the Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq. The Board found that petitioner committed HIB against a student classified to receive special education services when, in the presence of other students and an in-class aide in her Spanish class, she inappropriately directed the classified student to visit the child study team or guidance office if he was unable or unwilling to perform work in her class. Petitioner requested that the Commissioner enter an order vacating the Board's determination of HIB. The Board contended that it acted in a reasonable manner, and that – under the legal standard governing the Commissioner's review of the action of a local school board entrusted to determine HIB matters – its action was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The Board filed a motion for summary decision, which was opposed by the petitioner.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioner's argument that the Board failed to provide her with due process because she had no opportunity to cross examine witnesses relied upon by the Board when deciding she had committed an act of HIB, is without merit as – pursuant to the Act – due process in an HIB inquiry does not require a full evidentiary hearing before the Board or the ability to cross examine witnesses; petitioner admitted that she made statements to a classified student in her class, directing him to visit the child study team, caseworker, or In-School Alternative Program; this statement was made in front of the class and had the distinct capacity to point out to the other students the actual or perceived characteristic of the classified student's mental or sensory disability; petitioner knew, or should have known, that her comments would have the effect of 1) placing the student in reasonable fear of emotional harm, 2) insulting or demeaning him, and 3) creating a hostile educational environment. The ALJ concluded that the Board's determination that petitioner committed an act of HIB was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Accordingly, the petition was dismissed.

Upon review, and finding the petitioner's exceptions to be unpersuasive, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions in this matter. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision for the reasons well stated therein. The petition was dismissed.

OAL Dkt. No. EDU 2365-18
Agency Dkt. No. 9-1/18

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Tamaika DeFalco,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Hamilton, Mercer County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) been reviewed and considered, as have the exceptions filed by the petitioner, Tamaika DeFalco, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. The respondent, the Hamilton Township Board of Education (Board), did not file a reply.

This matter concerns an allegation of harassment, intimidation, and bullying (HIB) committed by a teacher against a student. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that due process in an HIB inquiry does not require that a staff member be afforded a full evidentiary hearing before the Board or the ability to cross examine witnesses. Regarding the substance of the allegation, the ALJ noted that petitioner admitted she made statements to a classified student in her class, directing him to visit the child study team, caseworker, or the In-School Alternative Program; such a statement, made in front of the class, had the distinct capacity to point out to the other students the actual or perceived characteristic of the classified student's mental or sensory disability. The ALJ found that the petitioner knew, or should have known, that her comments would have the effect of 1) placing the student in reasonable fear of emotional harm, 2) insulting or demeaning him, and

3) creating a hostile educational environment for him. As such, the ALJ found that the Board's determination that the petitioner committed an act of HIB was neither arbitrary nor capricious.

In her exceptions, the petitioner argues that a finding of HIB mandates constitutionally adequate due process protections, including the right to cross examine witnesses. The petitioner contends that the HIB finding constitutes a "badge of infamy" accompanied by "enormous reputational loss." The petitioner cites to Matter of Allegations of Sexual Abuse at East Park High School, 314 N.J. Super. 149 (App. Div. 1998) for the proposition that allegations against a teacher must be the subject of a hearing in which the teacher has the opportunity to challenge evidence, cross examine witnesses, and present evidence of her own. The petitioner argues that although boards of education are not required to conduct plenary hearings regarding HIB allegations, such a hearing must be available – at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) – before a final order becomes effective. The petitioner claims that because no such hearing was conducted by the ALJ, the Initial Decision must be rejected.

Next, the petitioner contends that the standard for HIB findings against teachers is a preponderance of the evidence, rather than the arbitrary and capricious standard applied to HIB findings against students. The petitioner claims that the Board stands in a different role in relation to its teachers than it does to its students, and that teachers are subject to reputational loss, direct employment consequences, and the potential foreclosure of future employment opportunities, while students are afforded confidentiality protections under federal and state privacy laws and cannot be denied access to a free an appropriate public education as the result of an HIB finding. As such, according to petitioner, review of an HIB allegation against a teacher under an arbitrary and capricious standard is constitutionally inadequate.

Finally, the petitioner argues that there is a significant factual dispute as to whether her statements fell within the acceptable scope of the student-teacher relationship. The petitioner cites to S.A. and C.A. o/b/o G.A. v. Moorestown Bd. of Ed., Commissioner Decision No. 125-18, decided April 23, 2018, in which the Commissioner found that a teacher's conduct – checking a classified student's work and test scores in the presence of other students – was not motivated by the student's status as a special education student and was a required part of her job as a special education teacher. The petitioner claims that the limited scope of the Initial Decision's review improperly foreclosed inquiry into the details of how a teacher should assist a student in accessing special education services.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Board's procedures, as applied in this case, complied with the due process requirements of the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq., and that the Board's determination that the petitioner had committed an act of HIB was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable.

The Commissioner has previously addressed the question of the nature of a board of education's hearing regarding an HIB allegation and concluded that the Act does not require trial-type adversary proceedings. L.K. and T.K., obo A.K. v. Mansfield Bd. of Educ., Commissioner Decision No. 107-19 (April 22, 2019). The Act provides that "[a]t the hearing the board may hear from the school anti-bullying specialist about the incident, recommendations for discipline or services, and any programs instituted to reduce such incidents." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(d). Provisions for discovery, cross-examination, or other procedures more judicial in nature could have been included by the Legislature in the Act, but were not, and the Commissioner declines to require such procedures when they are not supported by the plain language of the statute.

The Commissioner finds unpersuasive the petitioner's argument that a plenary hearing must be conducted at the OAL. When a contested case is transmitted to the OAL, the proceedings are conducted pursuant to the New Jersey Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, under which motions for summary decision are permitted. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. The standard for granting a motion for summary decision is well-established by Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995), and the ALJ followed that standard in determining that there are no material facts in dispute, given that petitioner admitted to making public statements that referenced a student's special education status.

Staff members accused of committing an act of HIB are entitled to the due process guaranteed by the Act, including the same right to a hearing before the Board that is provided to parents or guardians of students. Gibble v. Hunterdon Central Bd. of Educ., Commissioner Decision 254-16 (July 13, 2016). Nothing in the Act suggests that staff members are entitled to due process protections that exceed those provided to students involved in HIB investigations. As such, the standard of review to be applied is the same for both students and teachers. When a local board of education acts within its discretionary authority, its decision is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be disturbed unless there is an affirmative showing that the decision was "patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives." Kopera v. W. Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). Furthermore, "where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration [,]" such that the Commissioner will not substitute his judgment for that of the board. Bayshore Sewage Co. v. Dep't. of Envtl. Prot., 122 N.J. Super. 184 (1973). Here, the Board followed the procedures required by the Act by making the petitioner aware of the charges and the evidence on which they are based, and by offering the petitioner the opportunity to present evidence to the Board – an opportunity of which she availed herself. Following those procedures, the Board determined that the petitioner had committed an act of HIB. Nothing in the record indicates that the Board, in making that determination, operated in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner.

Regarding the petitioner's argument that a factual dispute exists about whether her conduct fell within the normal student-teacher relationship, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that this issue is a "red herring." Initially, District Policy 2466 – which is attached as an exhibit to petitioner's exceptions – clearly states, "The Board of Education guarantees the privacy provided by law that no pupil with a disability be labeled publicly," and sets forth procedures for "coding" this type of information, including referring to special education classes by the teacher's name. The petitioner's conduct is contrary to this policy and thus cannot be construed to fall within the normal student-teacher relationship. Moreover, as the ALJ noted, it is difficult to believe that the petitioner did not understand that she could privately contact the student's caseworker if she were concerned about his ability to complete the work in her class.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is hereby adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[1]

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2365-18
AGENCY DKT. NO. 9-1/18

TAMAIKA DE FALCO,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP HAMILTON,
Respondent.

Edward A. Cridge, Esq., for petitioner (Mellk O'Neill, attorneys)

Joseph D. Castellucci, Jr., Esq., for respondent (Methfessel & Werbel, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 23, 2019 Decided: June 25, 2019

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ (Ret., on recall):

The Hamilton Township Board of Education (Board) found that Tamaika DeFalco committed an act of Harrassment, Intimidation and Bullying (HIB) in violation of Board "Policy 5512 Harassment, Intimidation and Bullying." By Verified Petition, she seeks to have the Commissioner of Education overrule the Board's decision. The Board responds that it acted in a reasonable manner, and that under the legal standard governing the Commissioner's review of the action of a local school board entrusted to determine HIB matters, its action was neither arbitrary, capricious nor unreasonable and therefore must be upheld. The Board moves for summary decision, as authorized by N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5.

The Board notified Ms. DeFalco of its decision on October 9, 2017. She filed her Verified Petition on January 16, 2018. The Board filed an Answer on February 5, 2018. The contested case was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law on February 13, 2018. A prehearing conference was held by Administrative Law Judge Patricia Kerins on July 16, 2018. A Protective Order was issued on July 17, 2018. The Board moved for summary decision on March 27, 2019. The contested case was transferred to this judge on April 9, 2019. Ms. DeFalco responded to the Board's motion on April 29, 2019. Oral argument was held on May 23, 2019, following which the record for the motion closed.

According to the Board's Statement of Undisputed Facts, Ms. DeFalso is a tenured Spanish teacher. B.L. is a student classified to receive special education services who was in Ms. DeFalco's Spanish class in the 2016-2017 school year. Lisa Kowalski is an education assistant employed by the Board who served as an in-class aide in DeFalco's class. On June 7, 2017, in the presence of several students and Ms. Kowalski, DeFalco directed B.L. to visit the child study team or guidance office if he was unable or unwilling to perform classwork. According to the Board, this action directed attention to B.L.'s status as a special education student. DeFalco e-mailed a school counselor, Barbara Arora, and the learning consultant on the child study team, Lisa Scaringelli, advising them that B.L. had his head on the desk and, as a result, she had asked B.L. to visit the nurse, the school counselor, or his caseworker. DeFalco also advised that when B.L. refused all of these options, she "told him he should go down to [the In-School Alternative Program ("ISAP") if he wants to lay on a desk, as it is not permitted in the class." She then requested the e-mail address of B.L.'s case manager. On June 8, 2017, B.L.'s special education teacher, Jessica Sawicki (formerly Jessica Zipko) e-mailed Principal Brian Smith, reporting "Petitioner's inappropriate behavior toward B.L." Sawicki found the incident had broken confidentiality and "truly embarrassed B.L." On June 12, 2017, Ms. Kowalski advised Mr. Smith that DeFalco told B.L. that "if he [did not] feel well he could go to the nurse." He declined to go to the nurse or to complete his work and DeFalco then "asked him if he wanted to talk to someone in child study or guidance because if he [did not] like being there or if the work was too difficult[,] then maybe they could help him or put him in a different class." When he refused to visit the child study team or guidance office, "he was asked to go sit in ISAP and he could sleep there."

On June 14, 2017, B.L. reported to Robin Gesuelli, the anti-bullying specialist or HIB coordinator and student assistance counselor, that DeFalco's comments made him feel "uncomfortable and embarrassed." A.V., a student who witnessed the incident, provided a statement corroborating B.L.'s statement. A letter was then sent to DeFalco notifying her of the allegation that she had committed an act of HIB and that an investigation would be conducted by the school's anti-bullying coordinator, Nathan Webber, within ten school days of the written report. B.L.'s mother was also notified of the investigation.

The Board's Statement of Undisputed Facts details the investigation that followed. For the present, it is sufficient to note that various witnesses were interviewed, as was Ms. DeFalco. At the conclusion of the investigation on June 27, 2017, the Superintendent of Schools determined that DeFalco's conduct had caused "substantial disruption or interference with orderly operation of school or the rights of other students." The Superintendent wrote that B.L. believed that DeFalco "insulted his intelligence" and "an adult witness verified that . . . [Petitioner]" made the alleged statements. "The adult witness also verified that "the personal conversation continued after the student left and that the class was laughing due to the conversation in class." The superintendent found that DeFalco's conduct was "[r]easonably perceived as motivated by actual or perceived characteristic" and "was insulting or demeaning to B.L. because [DeFalco] was aware of B.L.'s IEP." B.L. suffered emotional harm given that the other students in the class were made aware of B.L.'s disability and laughed after DeFalco stated "If you are struggling in this class, I can write you a pass to child study and you can be removed" and B.L. refused to return to the class. In the Superintendent's opinion, DeFalco's conduct created a hostile educational environment because it caused B.L. emotional harm and led the other students to perceive the classroom environment as not a supportive educational environment. Given this, the Superintendent determined that the incident involved a violation of the Board's HIB Policy.

On July 27, 2017, Ms. DeFalco was notified by letter that the results of the HIB investigation had been reported to the Board and would remain on file. Her file would include a letter noting the incident and "[u]pon returning to school on September 1, 2017, [DeFalco] will be required to participate in remedial training on HIB and building positive relationships in the classroom." On September 17, 2017, the Board conducted a hearing at DeFalco's request regarding the Superintendent's report. At that hearing, DeFalco "denied making any disparaging or demeaning comments towards B.L in her class." On October 9, 2017, the Board affirmed the Superintendent's decision and found that "the investigation demonstrated a preponderance of the evidence that [DeFalco] engaged in a harassing and disparaging act toward . . . the classified student on or about June 7, 2017 at the Hamilton High School West."

In moving for summary decision, the Board invokes the standard of review that governs the Commissioner's consideration of the action of a local board of education determining that an act of HIB has occurred. That standard requires that the Commissioner affirm the local board's action unless the party challenging the board's determination demonstrates that the board acted in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. As the board is by statute the body designated to make the discretionary decision regarding whether an HIB violation has occurred, its discretionary action "will not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives." Kopera v. W. Orange Bd. Of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294-96 (App. Div. 1960). Thus, if there "is room for two opinions, action is [not arbitrary or capricious] when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached." Worthington v. Fauver, 88 N.J. 183, 204-05 (1982). As the court noted in Thomas v. Morris Twp. Bd. Of Educ., 89 N.J. Super 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), the Commissioner will not substitute his or her judgment for that of the Board, as its action is entitled to a presumption of correctness and may not be disturbed unless shown to be arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. In the Board's view, its action cannot be successfully shown to be tainted by such arbitrariness or unreason, and, given that the material facts relevant to determining that question are not in genuine dispute, summary decision in its favor is warranted and Ms. DeFalco's petition must be dismissed. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5; Brill v Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995).

In response to the Board's motion, Ms. DeFalco claims that this traditional review standard cannot be applied to the Board's determination that an HIB incident occurred. She argues that the hearing process that the Board utilized at the "purported 'Board Level' hearing" did not afford Ms. DeFalco constitutional due process, as she was denied the right to cross-examine the witnesses who provided information in the investigation. Indeed, the Board did not hear from the alleged victim of the comments, or from any of the student or adult witnesses. Instead, it only had before it the school administration's recitation of the investigatory findings and conclusions. Noting what in her view is the due process constitutionally required in the case of a teacher, someone with "liberty and property interests" that are different than those of students accused of HIB infractions (and without considering in her appeal the constitutionality of such process vis-a`-vis students so accused), DeFalco contends that since the basic constitutional due process to which she was entitled was not provided, the application of a deferential "arbitrariness" standard in reviewing the issue of whether DeFalco committed an act of HIB would be improper. In fact, the very process utilized by the Board was itself arbitrary. Additionally, the Board made its decision without having before it "any competent (i.e., first-hand) evidence other than the statements of Ms. DeFalco, and, as such, its decision was made without any "rational basis for its crediting those statements over the first-hand statements of Ms. DeFalco." Given these fundamental deficiencies, the Board must be required to prove its case against her in this forum. Thus, the motion for summary decision should be denied.

In addition to her due process argument, Ms. DeFalco argues that on the facts, her conduct cannot be a violation of the HIB statute or the Board's HIB Policy. In this regard, she claims that the Board decision > ignored and failed to consider a critical issue: specifically, the circumstances and manner in which a teacher may appropriately refer a classified student to receive special-education services during the school day. In the absence of this information, there is no established legal principle underlying the Board's determination that Ms. DeFalco's referral of the student for such services constituted an act of HIB.

The Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13.1 to –32 (Act) prohibits harassment, intimidation or bullying of students, whether such conduct emanates from students or teachers or school administrators. The prohibited acts are defined thusly, > "Harassment, intimidation or bullying" means any gesture, any written, verbal or physical act, or any electronic communication, whether it be a single incident or a series of incidents, that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic, that > takes place on school property, at any school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds as provided for in section 16 of P.L.2010, c.122 (C.18A:37-15.3), that substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students and that:

> > a. a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student or damaging the student's property, or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person or damage to his property;
> > b. has the effect of insulting or demeaning any student or group of students; or
> > c. creates a hostile educational environment for the student by interfering with a student's education or by severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student.

While local boards of education are authorized to adopt policies to implement the legislation, the investigation of a complaint of HIB conduct must be carried out in accordance with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 6A:37-15, which dictates certain time limits that must be met for the investigation and determination of such complaints. There is no allegation here that the investigation of this complaint did not meet these time requirements. Here, the Board adopted Policy 5512, addressing "Harassment, Intimidation and Bullying."

The Due Process Issue

In arguing that the Board failed to provide Ms. DeFalco with the due process required by the Due Process Clause of the Sixth Amendment to the United States Constitution, she focuses upon the lack of any ability afforded to her to cross-exam the witnesses who the Board apparently relied upon in deciding that she had committed a prohibited act of HIB. More broadly, her contention that she could not cross-exam means that she could not confront her accusers, including the student allegedly harassed and the student and adult witnesses seen as supporting the allegation. Traditionally, the right of confrontation, including as it may the right to cross-examine, has been guaranteed in criminal matters, as a "fundamental aspect of procedural due process." Jenkins v. McKeithen, 395 U.S. 411, 428 (1969). The ability to cross-examine has been viewed historically as "the greatest legal engine ever invented for the discovery of truth." California v. Green, 399 U.S. 149, 158, 90 S. Ct. 1930, 1935, 26 L. Ed. 2d 489, 497 (1970) (quoting 5 Wigmore § 1367); see also Pointer v. Texas, 380 U.S. 400, 404, 85 S. Ct. 1065, 1068, 13 L. Ed. 2d 923, 926 (1965); State v. Branch, 182 N.J. 338, 348 (2005). However, while a criminal defendant is guaranteed such confrontation by the Amendment, the applicability of that right has been generally restricted to the criminal law. Here, counsel for Ms. DeFalco asserts that caselaw has nevertheless argued for its applicability in administrative cases, such as this, where property rights are in jeopardy and the accused individual is threatened with a "badge of infamy" if the charge of HIB conduct is upheld. In order to determine if Ms. DeFalco suffered a constitutional deprivation, it is necessary to review the cases upon which counsel bases his argument that the right exists in this administrative context.

The general proposition that the due process clause's promise of "fundamental fairness" applies to administrative proceedings in which significant property rights are in jeopardy cannot be doubted. Cleveland Bd. Of Educ. v. Loudermill, 470 U.S. 532, 542 (1985). However, the nature of that due process that conforms to constitutional requirements can vary depending upon the context. Thus, the criminal context, wherein the liberty interest is generally seen as in the most jeopardy, requires the highest level of due process. That due process which is "due" in the civil, and especially in administrative, area can be less stringent.

> Administrative hearings in contested cases may conform to procedural due process standards that are less restrictive than those imposed in court proceedings . . . The issue is whether he received a hearing conforming to principles of fundamental fairness. The determination of whether principles of basic fairness have been afforded in contested administrative cases requires an examination of the facts in each case, giving great weight to the effect of the decision on the agency's public policy.

None of the cases cited by counsel have explicitly held that the ability to cross-examine witnesses is an essential element of the fundamental fairness to which one facing an administrative hearing is entitled. In Greene v. McElroy, 360 U.S. 474 (1959), a case arising from the administrative revocation of a security clearance from an engineer which led to his discharge from employment, the Supreme Court discussed the question. The context of national security considerations raised issues of the inherent authority of the President in such matters. The Court explained

> [4] Certain principles have remained relatively immutable in our jurisprudence. One of these is that where governmental action seriously injures an individual, and the reasonableness of the action depends on fact findings, the evidence used to prove the Government's case must be disclosed to the individual so that he has an opportunity to show that it is untrue. While this is important in the case of documentary evidence, it is even more important where the evidence consists of the testimony of individuals whose memory might be faulty or who, in fact, might be perjurers or persons motivated by malice, vindictiveness, intolerance, prejudice, or jealousy. We have formalized these protections in the requirements of confrontation and cross-examination. They have ancient roots. They find expression in the Sixth Amendment which provides that in all criminal cases the accused shall enjoy the right "to be confronted with the witnesses against him." This Court has been zealous to protect these rights from erosion. It has spoken out not only in criminal cases, e. g., Mattox v. United States, 156 U.S. 237, 242-244; Kirby v. United States, 174 U.S. 47; Motes v. United States, 178 U.S. 458, 474; [*In re Oliver, 333 U.S. 257, 273, but also in all types of cases where administrative and regulatory actions were under scrutiny. e g., Southern R. Co. v. Virginia, 290 U.S. 190; Ohio Bell Telephone Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 301 U.S. 292; Morgan v. United States, 304 U.S. 1, 19; Carter v. Kubler, 320 U.S. 243; Reilly v. Pinkus, 338 U.S. 269. Nor, as it has been pointed out, has Congress ignored these fundamental requirements in enacting regulatory legislation. Joint Anti-Fascist Committee v. McGrath, 341 U.S. 168-169 (concurring opinion).
> Professor Wigmore, commenting on the importance of cross-examination, states in his treatise, 5 Wigmore on Evidence (3d ed. 1940) § 1367:
>
> > For two centuries past, the policy of the Anglo-American system of Evidence has been to regard the necessity of testing by cross-examination as a vital feature of the law. The belief that no safeguard for testing the value of human statements is comparable to that furnished by cross-examination, and the conviction that no statement (unless by special exception) should be used as testimony until it has been probed and sublimated by that test, has found increasing strength in lengthening experience.
> Little need be added to this incisive summary statement except to point out that under the present clearance procedures not only is the testimony of absent witnesses allowed to stand without the probing questions of the person under attack which often uncover inconsistencies, lapses of recollection, and bias, but, in addition, even the members of the clearance boards do not see the informants or know their identities, but normally rely on an investigator's summary report of what the informant said without even examining the investigator personally.

The Court ultimately did not determine "whether those procedures under the circumstances comport with the Constitution . . . ." Nevertheless, it said

> Where administrative action has raised serious constitutional problems, the Court has assumed that Congress or the President intended to afford those affected by the action the traditional safeguards of due process. See, e. g., ... These cases reflect the Court's concern that traditional forms of fair procedure not be restricted by implication or without the most explicit action by the Nation's lawmakers, even in areas where it is possible that the Constitution presents no inhibition.
> In the instant case, petitioner's work opportunities have been severely limited on the basis of a fact determination rendered after a hearing which failed to comport with our traditional ideas of fair procedure. The type of hearing was the product of administrative decision not explicitly authorized by either Congress or the President. Whether those procedures under the circumstances comport with the Constitution we do not decide. Nor do we decide whether the President has inherent authority to create such a program, whether congressional action is necessary, or what the limits on executive or legislative authority may be. We decide only that in the absence of explicit authorization from either the President or Congress the respondents were not empowered to deprive petitioner of his job in a proceeding in which he was not afforded the safeguards of confrontation and cross-examination.

Thus, in a Cold War-era national security-related case where the petitioner's job was terminated and his "work opportunities . . . severely limited," the Supreme Court determined that a procedure that deprived him of confrontation and cross-examination was "fundamentally unfair," even if perhaps not unconstitutional. As such, the case cannot be read as defining the due process constitutionally required in all administrative cases, as indeed even in McElroy, the Court appears to have left open the possibility that had the President or Congress explicitly authorized the process involving a denial of confrontation and cross-examination, the process might meet constitutional standards. And in the other cases cited by the Court in the above-quoted paragraph for the proposition that the protection of "confrontation"might apply in the administrative context, the Court has also not decided the issue squarely. In Southern R. Co. V. Virginia, 290 U.S. 190 (1933), the state's corporation commission required that the railroad construct an overhead bridge. The Court summarized thusly

> As authoritatively interpreted the challenged Act permits the Highway Commissioner—an executive officer—without notice or hearing to command a railway company to abolish any designated grade crossing and construct an overhead when, in his opinion, necessary for public safety and convenience. His opinion is final upon the fundamental question whether public convenience and necessity require the elimination, unless what the Supreme Court denominates "arbitrary" exercise of the granted power can be shown.

The Supreme Court concluded that

> After affirming appellant's obligation to comply with the Commissioner's order, the court below said: "The railroad is not without remedy. Should the power vested in the Highway Commissioner be arbitrarily exercised, equity's long arm will stay his hand." But, by sanctioning the order directing the Railway to proceed, it, in effect, approved action taken without hearing, without evidence, without opportunity to know the basis therefor. This was to rule that such action was not necessarily "arbitrary." There is nothing to indicate what that court would deem arbitrary action or how this could be established in the absence of evidence or hearing. In circumstances like those here disclosed no contestant could have fair opportunity for relief in a court of equity. There would be nothing to show the grounds upon which the Commissioner based his conclusion. He alone would be cognizant of the mental processes which begot his urgent opinion.
> The infirmities of the enactment are not relieved by an indefinite right of review in respect of some action spoken of as arbitrary. Before its property can be taken under the edict of an administrative officer the appellant is entitled to a fair hearing upon the fundamental facts. This has not been accorded. The judgment below must be reversed.

Once again, the case reflects on the need for fairness, notice and hearing. But the Court did not address the exact nature of such a hearing, other than that the opponent of the proposed governmental action be advised, in advance, of the nature of the action proposed and given the opportunity to be heard in opposition to such action. These requirements were also emphasized in Morgan v. United States, 304 U.S. 1 (1938), a case testing "the validity of an order of the Secretary of Agriculture fixing maximum rates to be charged by market agencies at the Kansas City Stock Yard." Morgan, at 13, where the Court spoke to the need for a "full and fair hearing" and the need for such to provide the "fundamental requirements of fairness." Chief Justice Hughes explained > a "full hearing"—a fair and open hearing—requires . . . The right to a hearing embraces not only the right to present evidence but also a reasonable opportunity to know the claims of the opposing party and to meet them. The right to submit argument implies that opportunity; otherwise the right may be but a barren one. Those who are brought into contest with the Government in a quasi-judicial proceeding aimed at the control of their activities are entitled to be fairly advised of what the Government proposes and to be heard upon its proposals before it issues its final command . . . Congress, in requiring a "full hearing," had regard to > judicial standards,—not in any technical sense but with respect to those fundamental requirements of fairness which are of the essence of due process in a proceeding of a judicial nature. If in an equity cause, a special master or the trial judge permitted the plaintiff's attorney to formulate the findings upon the evidence, conferred ex parte with the plaintiff's attorney regarding them, and then adopted his proposals without affording an opportunity to his opponent to know their contents and present objections, there would be no hesitation in setting aside the report or decree as having been made without a fair hearing. The requirements of fairness are not exhausted in the taking or consideration of evidence but extend to the concluding parts of the procedure as well as to the beginning and intermediate steps.

Perhaps the case that comes closest to addressing the issue of whether the right to cross-exam is a constitutionally mandated element of the basic fundamental fairness required in administrative proceedings is Reilly v. Pinkus, 338 U.S. 269 (1949). The Postmaster General ordered that the respondent's use of the mails be restricted due to alleged fraudulent activity. Federal law provided authority for such restriction. The alleged fraud involved advertisements promoting kelp as an aid to weight loss. There was at least some dispute over the scientific value of kelp and iodine for such purposes. Although the Court was convinced that there was sufficient evidence to support the findings that the advertisements misrepresented the respondent's anti-fat treatment based on kelp, the Court nevertheless determined that the order could not stand. In the administrative hearing held before the Postmaster issued the order, cross-examination was permitted, but restrictions were placed upon the respondent's ability to cross-exam doctors testifying for the government who had based at least some of their opinions on medical texts and publications, about which cross-examination was not allowed. The Court noted

> We think this was an undue restriction on the right to cross-examine. It certainly is illogical, if not actually unfair, to permit witnesses to give expert opinions based on book knowledge, and then deprive the party challenging such evidence of all opportunity to interrogate them about divergent opinions expressed in other reputable books . . .
> The power to refuse enforcement of orders for error in regard to evidence should be sparingly exercised. A large amount of discretion in the conduct of a hearing is necessarily reposed in an administrative agency. And what we have said is not to be taken as removing this discretion or as a compulsory opening of the gates for floods of medical volumes, even where shown to be authoritative. But in this kind of case as in others, one against whom serious charges of fraud are made must be given a reasonable opportunity to cross-examine witnesses on the vital issue > of his purpose to deceive. And in this case any holding of harmless error is precluded by the fact that the assistant solicitor presiding at the hearings adopted the prosecutor's view that respondent was to be barred from using the mails "regardless of the question of good faith, even if the respondent believed in all of his representations . . . if they were false as a matter of fact."

Thus, in Reilly, the Supreme Court, in reviewing a case in which cross-examination was permitted, balked at the limits imposed on that cross. While the decision may be read to hold that cross-examination must, as a general rule, be permitted, at least in cases of "serious charges of fraud," the case does not appear to stand for the proposition that in any administrative proceeding involving any level of possible sanction, the right to cross-examine in an essential part of "fundamental fairness" or of constitutional due process.

With this background concerning the cases that the McElroy Court cited for the proposition that even in administrative and regulatory proceedings a party had the right to "be confronted with the witnesses against him," we must look to recent statements of the Commissioner and Appellate Division concerning the nature of the HIB hearing. In Gibble v. Board of Education of the Hunterdon Central Regional School District, Hunterdon County, http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/final/edu02767-15_1.pdf, the Commissioner explained that staff members of boards of education had the same rights to receive written information about HIB investigations concerning their alleged conduct as students and parents of students investigated for possible HIB infractions had. "It is only reasonable that this due process protection also includes the same right to a hearing before the Board that is provided under N.J.S.A. 18A37-15(b)(6)(d) to parents or guardians of students involved in HIB investigations." This position was endorsed on appeal by the Appellate Division, S.G. v. Board of Educ. of the Hunterdon Cent. Reg'l Sch. Dist., A-5199-15T3 (March 1, 2018)(unpublished). There, the Court added, that while it did not have to detail the exact nature of the scope of such a hearing to decide the case before it, nevertheless, "we point out that the hearing should be meaningful and should be consistent with the procedures for hearings involving students." However, the Commissioner has rejected an argument which the Commissioner characterized as calling for an expansion of "the investigatory process and the HIB determination procedures to mirror discovery and trial-type adversarial proceedings," because such were not within the "intent of the Act." L.K. and T.K., on behalf of minor child, A.K. v. Board of Education of the Township of Mansfield, Burlington County. In her initial decision in the L.K. case, Acting Chief Administrative Administrative Law Judge Lisa James-Beavers noted that while petitioners therein argued for an "evidentiary" hearing, the statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(d) provides that "[a]t the hearing the board may hear from the school anti-bullying specialist about the incident, recommendations for discipline or services, and any programs instituted to reduce such incidents." The Legislature could have added the word "evidentiary" had it wanted to direct a more judicial-type process, but it did not do so. L.K., Initial Decision at http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/html/initial/edu07067-16_1.html.

While it would no doubt be more satisfactory to some if HIB determinations by school boards were made after a full trial-type, judicialized hearing process with full rights to cross-examine witnesses, I CONCLUDE that there is simply no constitutional, statutory or case law support for the proposition that in a proceeding such as a Board HIB determination a right to cross-examination exists. The absence before the Board of any direct testimony by the accuser or other witnesses relied upon by the investigator and the Superintendent does not present a ground for finding the process in violation of due process or fundamental fairness. The due process/fundamental fairness requirement in an HIB inquiry is met by a process in which the staff member is made aware of the charges and evidence upon which the charge is based before the Board hearing and is then able to present to the Board such documents, witnesses and testimony and argument as the staff member may offer. The Board may then evaluate this evidence and determine if an incident of HIB occurred. Given the nature of the legislativwe command and the limited sanctions, which do not involve the loss of tenure, employment or future employment (the first two not without additional processes that would, at least in the tenure situation, involve an full arbitration process), a more "judicialized" process is not mandated.

Did Ms. DeFalco Engage in an Act of HIB?

Turning to the substantive question of whether Ms. DeFalco's comments did violate the HIB prohibition and therefore gave the Board sufficient legal grounds to find an HIB violation, in her response to the Board's statement of what the Board asserts are undisputed facts, paragraph 4, she admits that there was a conversation in which she, "in the presence of students and Ms. Kowalski, directed B.L., a classified student in her class who receives special education and related services, to visit the child study team or guidance office if he is unable or unwilling to perform classwork." She specifically denies the remainder of the paragraph, which claims that her admitted statement to B.L. "direct[ed] attention to B.L.'s status as a special education student." Indeed, it may be that this last, disputed section is not a direct statement of fact, but a conclusion concerning the purported effect of the admitted statement. In her e-mail of June 7, DeFalco reported that she offered B.L. a choice of going to his "counselor or case manager." As for the Board's paragraph 5, she admits that she told B.L. "he should go down to the In-School Alternative Program ("ISAP") if he wants to lay on a desk as that is not permitted in the class." Ms. Kowalski reported the incident in an e-mail of June 12, 2017, wherein she notes that DeFalco asked B.L. if he "wanted to talk to someone in child study or guidance because if [B.] didn't like being there or if the work was too difficult then maybe they could help [B.] or put [B]. in a different class." In his written statement, B.L. reported that he had his head down and Ms. DeFalco first said she was writing him a pass to the nurse, to which he said, "No" and then she said that she was writing a pass "to child studies and I want you to tell them you are struggling in my class." After he said that "I will skip," she told him to go to ISAP and he said "fine." B.L. reported that he felt that Ms. DeFalco had "insulted my intelligence." He felt "ridiculed" and "disrespected."

While there may be some divergence as to the exact words spoken by DeFalco to B.L., the basic fact that she at the very least admits that she openly told the special education student to go to his case manager when he refused to do his work is undisputed. Given that she does not dispute this comment, her contention as to why the Board's decision to find that she had committed an act of HIB, aside from the due process argument, was arbitrary and capricious is that the Board has failed to address the "mechanisms by which a student can be referred to special education services, and the confidentiality procedures, if any, which exist to maintain student privacy with such referrals." It seems that DeFalco is claiming that her words suggesting that B.L. might go to the child study team or guidance office were, possibly in the absence of Board-supplied guidance, simply an acceptable means of referral of the child to the team for the team's support, guidance or for, perhaps, a change in the child's IEP. Frankly, this "defense" appears to be nothing other than a "red herring." There is no question that there can be times when a teacher may observe that a special education student's current IEP may need to be re-evaluated, when a particular class or means of support may not seem to be effective in delivering a child the benefits of an appropriate educational experience (FAPE). In such instances, it would be expected that the teacher would contact the case manager to raise the concern. But to anyone familiar with the confidentiality elements inherent in the special education context, as well as anyone familiar with and acting with awareness of the HIB strictures, it could not be reasonable to believe that a public statement to a classified student that he should go to the child study team due to a perceived inability or unwillingness to do the classwork is an acceptable form of reference to the child study team or for the purpose of enabling that student to receive assistance with needed special education services. Such a statement, made in front of other students, has the distinct capacity to point out to the other students the actual or perceived characteristic of the subject student's mental or sensory disability. If Ms. DeFalco truly believed that the student's ability to handle the work in her class was in doubt due to issues related to his special education status, it is hard to imagine that she would not have understood that she could privately contact the case manager or other responsible child study team member and raise her concern. Indeed, in her e-mail of June 7, she specifically asked Ms. Scaringelli for the name of the case manager. The claim that the Board has not provided information about how to appropriately refer a student ignores the fact that no reasonable teacher aware of the need for confidentiality and trained concerning HIB would choose to publicly announce her concern or her direction to the student in front of his peers, an action that reasonably could be foreseen as embarrassing and demeaning to the student. Thus, as I FIND that the Board was well aware of the evidence of Ms. DeFalco's comments, as reported in the investigation by her, by Ms. Kowalski, who was present when they were made, and by B.L., it could quite reasonably found that

A) DeFalco knew, or should have known, that her comments would have the effect of placing this special education student in reasonable fear of emotional harm;
B) had the effect of insulting or demeaning him; and
C) created a hostile educational environment for B.L.

As such, as I FIND that there are no material facts in dispute, I CONCLUDE that the Board's decision was neither arbitrary nor capricious.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

C.G., on behalf of minor child, G.G.

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Morris, Morris County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

The Commissioner previously issued a decision in this case, concurring with the ALJ that G.G. was not domiciled in Morris Township between January 20, 2017 and February 2, 2018, and was therefore ineligible for a free public education in the school district during this period. The matter was remanded to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for the sole purpose of calculating the correct amount of tuition due to the school district for the period of G.G.'s ineligible attendance. Subsequent to the remand, the Board submitted a letter stating that the petitioner, C.G., had filed for bankruptcy. The Board requested that the Commissioner consider issuing a final decision based solely on the determination of G.G.'s residence in order to avoid the waste of judicial resources that would occur if the ALJ were to proceed with the recalculation of tuition.

Accordingly, the Commissioner affirmed the Initial Decision insofar as it concluded that G.G. was not domiciled within the Morris School District. C.G. on behalf of minor child, G.G. v. Board of Education of the Township of Morris, Morris County, Commissioner Decision No. 35-19, decided January 30, 2019. Further, the Commissioner rejected the Initial Decision's calculation of tuition and conclusions related thereto, as the Board effectively withdrew its counterclaim prior to the ALJ's issuance of the Initial Decision on Remand. The petition was dismissed.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

C.G., on behalf of minor child, G.G.

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Morris, Morris County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

In the previous decision in this matter, the Commissioner concurred with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that G.G. was not domiciled in the District between January 20, 2017 and February 2, 2018. C.G. on behalf of minor child, G.G. v. Board of Education of the Township of Morris, Morris County, Commissioner Decision No. 35-19, decided January 30, 2019. However, the Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL to calculate tuition costs because there was insufficient evidence in the record regarding the number of school days in the relevant time period and the per diem tuition rate for each school year at issue. Following the remand, the Board submitted a letter dated March 11, 2019, recognizing that the petitioner had filed for Chapter 7 bankruptcy and, as such, it would be "a waste of judicial resources for the ALJ to proceed, on remand, to re-calculate the sum the petitioner owes to the District..." Therefore, the Board requested that the Commissioner "consider issuing a final decision based solely upon the determination of G.G.'s residency."

Accordingly, the Commissioner affirms the Initial Decision insofar as it concludes that G.G. was not domiciled in the district, which is consistent with C.G. on behalf of minor child, G.G. v. Board of Education of the Township of Morris, Morris County, Commissioner Decision No. 35-19, decided January 30, 2019. The Commissioner rejects the Initial Decision's calculation of tuition and conclusions related thereto, as the Board has effectively withdrawn its counterclaim for tuition prior to the ALJ's issuance of the Initial Decision on Remand. The instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

Record closed: May 6, 2019 Decided: June 27, 2019

BEFORE JOHN P. SCOLLO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner C.G. challenges the "Notice of Final Determination of Ineligibility" dated April 3, 2018, (R-12) rendered by the Morris Township School District (Morris Township B.O.E. or District), which determined that C.G. was ineligible to attend Morris Township Schools during the period from January 20, 2017, through February 2, 2018. Petitioner

C.G. also seeks an Order relieving her from any obligation to pay for tuition for her daughter, G.G., to the Morris Township School District.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On January 24, 2018, the Superintendent of the Morris Township School District (the District) sent a "Notice of Initial Determination of Ineligibility" (R-11) to C.G. advising her that the District determined that she and her daughter, G.G., did not reside in in the District based on its investigation, including an interview of C.G. at her home in Randolph Township. The District offered C.G. the opportunity to appear at a hearing before the Morris Township Board of Education to contest the District's determination. C.G. declined the offer of a hearing and withdrew G.G. A short time later Rosemary Strelec, a friend of C.G. who resided in Morristown (a town within the Morris Township School District) sought and obtained an Order (R-20) from the Superior Court, Chancery Division granting residential custody of G.G. to her with liberal visitation rights for C.G. Strelec re-enrolled G.G. in the District's school. The District conducted a second investigation which confirmed its previous opinion that neither C.G. nor G.G. was domiciled in the District.

C.G. filed a Residency Appeal on April 18, 2018, with the Department of Education, which was transmitted to the OAL on May 17, 2018, and filed on May 18, 2018, under the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and the act establishing the Office of Administrative Law, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -23 for a hearing under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6, and the rules of procedure established by the Department of Education to hear and decide controversies and disputes arising under school laws, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1 to -1.17. Jurisdiction is conferred under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

An initial telephone conference was held on June 29, 2018, and a Pre-Hearing Order was issued on that date. On or about July 20, 2018, the Tribunal received correspondence from C.G. stating that she wished to withdraw her appeal. The Tribunal processed this as a withdrawal, closed the file, and returned the file to the Department of Education. On August 24, 2018, counsel for the BOE brought the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2 to the Tribunal's attention and demanded the right to a hearing to present its proofs for the charging of tuition against C.G. On October 18, 2018, the Tribunal held a telephone conference on the record with C.G. and Janelle Edwards-Stewart, Esq., counsel to the District. During that telephone conference the ALJ explained that he had erred when he processed the withdrawal and closed the file. The ALJ set the hearing date for November 13, 2018. The ALJ warned the parties that failure to appear at the hearing on November 13, 2018, would result in an adverse verdict for the non-appearing side, that is, a marking of "Failed to Appear," and that the presentation of proofs by the appearing side would take place. On November 13, 2018, the hearing was held, but neither C.G. nor anyone else appeared for the Petitioner's side. The BOE presented its proofs at that hearing. On the date of the hearing the Tribunal was not aware of any bankruptcy petitions filed by the Petitioner.

On December 21, 2018 the Tribunal issued its Initial Decision affirming the action taken by the Morris BOE and ordering C.G. to pay tuition for the time during which G.G. Attended school in Morris Township while being ineligible to attend. That period of time included January 18, 2017 through February 2, 2018.

On January 30, 2019, the Commissioner of Education issued Decision No. 35-19 in which he concurred with the ALJ that C.G. was nor domiciled in Morris Township and was therefore ineligible to attend school in Morris Township from January 18, 2017 through February 2, 2018. However, the Commissioner remanded the case back to the OAL for the purpose of obtaining information needed for the re-calculation of tuition payable, including information regarding the per diem tuition rate for the 2016-2017 school year and the 2017-2018 school year, as well as ascertaining the correct number of school days between January 18, 2017 and February 2, 2018.

On April 5, 2019 the Tribunal asked the parties for the information regarding the respective tuition rates and school day information. On April 26, 2019 the BOE's counsel provided the 2016-2017 per diem tuition rate and the 2017-2018 per diem tuition rate. The BOE's counsel also provided the school calendars for the school year 2016-2017 and for the school year 2017-2018. Since no further information was forthcoming, the record closed on May 6, 2019.

The computations for the days of ineligible attendance in the 2016-2017 school year and in the 2017-2018 school year and the calculations of tuition re-imbursement owed are set forth on the Findings of Fact and Conclusions sections of this Initial Decision.

TESTIMONY

The following is not intended to be a verbatim recitation of the testimony, but rather only highlights of the testimony, which the ALJ found especially relevant and important.

Testimony of Debora Engelfried

Debora Engelfried (Engelfried) presented a binder of twenty-two tabbed documents and utilized most of them during her testimony. Engelfried testified that the Morris Township School District contains the towns of Morristown and Morris Plains. Persons between the ages of five and twenty years of age who are domiciled in those towns are eligible to enroll in the District's public schools. The Morris Township Board of Education is the body that presides over and operates the District.

Engelfried testified that when students enroll in one of the District's schools his or her parents or legal guardians are asked to provide various documents which would prove that they are domiciled in the District. These can include documents such as the child's birth certificate, utility bills, leases, deeds, mortgages, etc.

Engelfried testified that there is a recurring problem of people who attempt to enroll their children in the District's schools even though they are not bona fide domiciliaries of the District. She testified that when non-domiciliaries enroll in the District's schools, they use resources that should be utilized for students who are bona fide District domiciliaries. The District's efforts to detect the enrollment of people who are not domiciled in the District often involves utilizing the services of a private detective, named Jeffrey Oster.

In regard to G.G.'s enrollment in one of the District's schools, Engelfried testified that the parent of one of G.G.'s classmates alleged that G.G. and her mother, C.G. were no longer living in the District and provided the address of their actual residence in Randolph Township, which has its own school district. Engelfried testified about social media posts by C.G. (R-17), which demonstrated that C.G. and G.G. moved into their Randolph home on January 18, 2017.

Engelfried testified that the District initiated an investigation. Using the address information supplied by C.G. when she enrolled G.G., the District discovered that they were no longer living in their former apartment on Village Drive in Morristown. A search at the Morris County Registry of Deeds and Mortgages revealed that C.G. purchased a home in Randolph Township on January 18, 2017. (R-22 is a copy of C.G.'s Deed to the Randolph home.) Utilizing the surveillance services of Private Investigator Jeffrey Oster (Oster or the detective), Engelfried testified that the District obtained information from him that C.G. and G.G. resided in Randolph in January 2018. Specifically, on January 23, 2018 C.G. admitted to Oster that she and G.G. resided at the Randolph home. (See R-6.)

Engelfried testified that she communicated with C.G. regarding whether she and G.G. were properly domiciled in the District or whether they had changed their domicile to Randolph Township. In the interim, the Board of Education issued its "Notice of Initial Determination of Ineligibility," dated January 24, 2018 (R-11), in which it informed C.G. that G.G. was improperly enrolled in the District's school and it asked C.G. to either withdraw G.G. from the District's school voluntarily or opt for a hearing before the Board of Education. Engelfried testified that she and C.G. spoke about the investigation and that C.G. decided to withdraw G.G. and enroll her in the Randolph schools on February 2, 2018. However, Engelfried further testified that only a short time later, C.G. asked her how long it would take to re-enroll G.G. in the District's school, an inquiry which Engelfried thought was peculiar. Engelfried testified that shortly thereafter Rosemary Strelec (Strelec), C.G.'s friend, who was domiciled in Morristown, procured an Order from the Morris County Superior Court, Chancery Division on March 19, 2018 (see R-20), which granted residential custody of G.G. to Strelec and granted liberal visitation rights to C.G. On March 19, 2018 Strelec submitted paperwork to re-enroll G.G. in the District's school and G.G. was re-enrolled on April 9, 2018.

Engelfried testified that paperwork from the Randolph Township school system stated that as of February 2, 2018, (the date that C.G. enrolled G.G. in the Randolph School system) C.G. stated that she had sole custody of G.G. She further testified that Strelec gave a copy of the Court Order to the Morris Township BOE and informed the BOE that G.G. has lived with her since March 19, 2018. She testified that the change of custody in such a short time and the statement that G.G. lived with Strelec only since March 19, 2018, were among the circumstances which led her to initiate a second investigation to find out if G.G. was actually residing with Strelec in Morristown or was still residing with her mother in Randolph. Again, Oster's services were utilized. Engelfried testified that Oster's surveillance indicated that G.G. was not residing with Strelec and that G.G. continued to reside with her mother in Randolph. (See R-6, R-7 and R-8.) As a result of this investigation the BOE decided that neither C.G. nor G.G. were domiciliaries of the District, that G.G. was not entitled to a free public education in the Morris Township School District and that per diem tuition would be sought.

Testimony of Jeffrey Oster, Private Detective

Jeffrey Oster testified that he was a licensed private detective and was a retired detective sergeant from the Mine Hill Police Department.

Oster testified that he went to the Randolph home on January 23, 2018 and spoke with C.G. about the investigation into whether she and G.G. were domiciled in Morris Township. C.G. admitted that she was the owner of the Randolph home and stated that she moved into the home in the Summer of 2017, but that G.G. sometimes stayed overnight with Strelec in Morristown. Oster mentioned that C.G. did not mention anything about sharing custody of G.G. with Strelec. Oster reported this information to the District. (R-6.)

Oster testified that on March 26, 2018, he was asked by the BOE to conduct a second investigation. He was aware of the Court Order granting residential custody of

G.G. to Strelec. He testified that he conducted surveillance of Strelec's home on March 27 and 28, 2018, both of which were school days, and reported that no child came out of Strelec's residence on either day. (R-8.)

Oster testified that he was aware that G.G. was re-enrolled into the District school on April 5, 2018. He testified that he conducted surveillance of the Randolph home on April 11, 12, and 13, 2018, (all of which were school days) and on those dates he observed C.G. and G.G. leave the Randolph home in the early morning (from 6:45 a.m. to 7:15 a.m.) and drive away in C.G.'s car. He also took several photographs of C.G. and G.G. exiting the home and entering C.G.'s car. Oster testified that on each day he contacted the District and learned that G.G. was in school.

Oster testified that he believes that C.G. became aware of his surveillance activities. During surveillance conducted on April 16, 17 and 18, 2018, he did not see G.G. leave the Randolph home. He testified that he had spoken directly with C.G. at her home on January 23, 2018, and so she already knew who he was. Oster testified that he conducted surveillance on April 25 and 26, 2018. Both were school days. He testified that on April 25, 2018, he saw C.G. leave her home with G.G. and enter a new Land Rover car, which was registered to her. On this occasion C.G. stopped her car near Oster's car and looked straight at him. The next morning, April 26, 2018, C.G. left her home without G.G. Oster testified that he spoke with the District and learned that G.G. was in school on both days. (See R-9 and R-10.) In his report to the District dated April 26, 2018, (R-10) he concluded that G.G. was not residing with Strelec in Morristown and that she was residing with her mother, C.G., in the Randolph home.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

No one appeared at the hearing on behalf of C.G. Therefore, the testimony of the witnesses for the Morris Township Board of Education was received without objection in its entirety, as summarized above.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Having had the opportunity to examine the documents presented and to hear the witnesses and to assess their credibility, I make the following FINDINGS of FACT:

1. C.G. and G.G., formerly of Morristown, moved into their new home in Randolph, NJ on January 18, 2017. (See R-17 and R-22.)

2. C.G.'s social media post of January 18, 2017, (R-17) constitutes an admission that she and her daughter, G.G., resided in the Randolph home from January 18, 2017, forward.

3. G.G. remained enrolled in a Morris Township school after January 18, 2017.

4. Upon information from a school parent, officials from the Morris Township BOE conducted an investigation into whether C.G. and G.G. were domiciled in Morris Township. That investigation resulted in the BOE concluding that C.G. and G.G. were no longer domiciled in Morris Township as of January 18, 2017. (See R-11.)

5. As a result of the BOE's investigation and of the issuing of the "Notice of Initial Determination of Ineligibility" by the District, C.G. withdrew G.G. from the Morris Township school in which she had been enrolled and registered her in a Randolph Township school.

6. Rosemary Strelec, who is domiciled in Morristown and who is a friend of C.G., initiated an action to obtain residential custody of G.G. On March 19, 2018, the Superior Court of New Jersey, Chancery Division, Morris County issued an Order entered on March 22, 2018, granting residential custody to Strelec and granting liberal visitation rights to C.G.

7. Having been granted residential custody of G.G. by the Chancery Division, Strelec submitted paperwork to re-enroll G.G. in school in Morris Township and G.G. was re-enrolled on April 9, 2018.

8. Due to unsettled facts and apparent inconsistencies in the facts as related by C.G., the BOE decided to, once again, verify the actual domicile of C.G. and G.G. The BOE undertook a second investigation which involved surveillance of Strelec's home and C.G.'s home. The testimony of the BOE's private investigator, Jeffrey Oster, along with clear and convincing photographic evidence, convinces this Tribunal that G.G. resided almost exclusively with her mother, C.G., at the Randolph home and that she did not leave for school on school days from Strelec's home.

9. As a result of the second investigation the BOE sent a "Notice of Final Determination of Ineligibility" dated April 3, 2018, to C.G. (R-12.)

10.The BOE proved by a preponderance of the credible evidence that C.G. sent her daughter G.G. to school in Morris Township during period of time, Specifically January 18, 2017, through February 2, 2018, when they were not domiciled in Morris Township.

11. Several days after the November 13, 2018, hearing the Tribunal received Information (a letter from an attorney representing C.G.) that C.G. had filed for bankruptcy.

12. From the information provided, I FIND that between January 18, 2017 and June 16, 2017 (the last day of the school year for the 2016-2017 school year) there were ninety-eight (98) school days; however, I FIND that due to the fact that the BOE may only recoup money for one year prior to the filing of the appeal, the BOE may only recoup from April 4, 2017 forward to June 16, 2017, a total of forty-seven (47) days. Thus, I FIND that the number of recoupable ineligible days for the 2016-2017 school year comes to forty-seven (47) days.

I also FIND that between September 6, 2017 (the first day of the 2017-2018 school year) and February 2, 2018 (the last date on which G.G. attended) there were ninety-seven (97) school days, all of which are recoupable.

Thus, I FIND that the total number of recoupable ineligible days of attendance totals 144 school days.

I also FIND that the per diem tuition rate for the 2016-2017 school year was $81.93 and that the per diem tuition rate for the 2017-2018 school year was $84.55.

APPLICABLE LAW

N.J.S.A. 18A:36-19a provides "the school district shall obtain proper identification of any new student such as a certified copy of the student's certificate of birth." N.J.S.A. 18A:36-25.1(a) provides "When a child is enrolled in a school district for the first time, the superintendent shall require the child's parent or legal guardian to provide a certified copy of the child's birth certificate or other proof of the child's identity, within 30 days of enrollment."

Public schools are free to persons over five and under twenty years of age who are domiciled within the school district or are kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). If the school district finds that the parent or guardian of a child who is attending the schools of the district is not domiciled within the district and the child is not kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and supported by such person gratis as if the child was the person's own child, the superintendent or administrative principle may apply to the Board of Education for the removal of the child. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2). The parent or guardian is entitled to a hearing before the board and, if in the judgment of the board, the parent or guardian is not domiciled within the school district or the child is not kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and supported gratis, the board may order the transfer or removal of the child from school. Ibid. The parents or guardian may contest the board's decision before the commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and is entitled to an expedited hearing. Ibid. The parent or guardian has the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in the statute. Ibid.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3(1)(a)(1), a student is eligible to attend a school district if he or she is domiciled within the school district, and a student is domiciled in the school district when he or she is the child of a parent or guardian whose domicile is located within the school district.

"Domicile" is defined as "the place where [a person] has [his or her] true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has an intention of returning." C.B.W. ex rel. A.W. v. Bd. of Ed. of the Township of Belleville, Essex County, 1998 N.J. AGEN. LEXIS 122, Agency Docket number 159-5/96, 1998 WL 668678 (N.J. ADM. JUNE 18, 1998). As the court noted in Collins v. Yancey, 55 N.J. Super. 514, 520-21 (Law Div. 1959), a person may have several residences or places of abode, but only one domicile at a time. Ibid.; D.L. v. BD. of Educ. of Princeton Reg'l Sch. Dist., 366 NJ Super. 269, 273-74 (App. Div. 2004).]

N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6 governs the tuition rate; and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-2.10 governs the calculation of tuition charged.

N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.1 governs tuition assessments where no appeal is filed; and N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2 governs tuition assessments where an appeal is filed.

N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2(a) states:

> If an appeal to the Commissioner is filed by the parent, guardian, adult student, or school district resident keeping an "affidavit" student and the petitioner does not sustain the burden of demonstrating the student's right to attend the school district, or the petitioner withdraws the appeal, fails to prosecute, or abandons the appeal by any means other than settlement, agreeing to waive or reduce tuition, the Commissioner may assess tuition for the period during which the hearing and decision on appeal were pending, and for up to one year of a student's ineligible attendance in a school > district prior to the appeal's filing and including the 21-day period to file an appeal.

N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.1(a) reads similarly to 6.2(a). Thus, for both 6.1(a) and 6.2(a) there is a one-year limitation on the amount of tuition a school district can recoup.

CONCLUSIONS

The Tribunal is satisfied that the factual record demonstrates that, during the time period proven by the BOE, specifically, January 18, 2017, through February 2, 2018, G.G. resided with her mother, C.G. at the Randolph home. Moreover, there was little or no factual evidence presented in support of Petitioner's allegation that G.G. resided during the school term with Rosemary Strelec in Morristown and/or that Rosemary Strelec supported G.G. gratis as if she were Rosemary Strelec's own child. It follows, and I CONCLUDE that from January 18, 2017, through February 2, 2018, G.C. was domiciled and resided in Randolph Township, which is not within the Morris Township School District. Moreover, I CONCLUDE that C.G. and G.G. did not meet the requirement set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) of G.G. being "kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and supported by such other person gratis as if she were such other person's own child." The Petitioner having failed to carry her burden of proving that G.G. was domiciled in the Morris Township School District, I CONCLUDE the Morris Township Board of Education acted properly when it removed G.G. from its school. Moreover, I CONCLUDE that the Morris Township Board of Education has proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that during the time of G.G.'s attendance in the Morris Township School District, she was not domiciled in the Morris township School District and therefore the BOE is entitled to collect from G.G.'s parent, C.G., an amount of per diem tuition.

I CONCLUDE that the BOE is allowed to collect per diem tuition from C.G. for only the period of one year before the filing of C.G.'s appeal according to the limitations set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2(a). I CONCLUDE that, counting backwards from April 3, 2018 (the date of the appeal) for one year (365 days), the District is precluded from recouping money before April 4, 2017, but may recoup money from C.G. for the period covering from April 4, 2017 to April 3, 2018.

I CONCLUDE that the number of recoupable school days ineligibly attended between April 4, 2017, and June 16, 2017 (the last day of the 2016-2017 school year), comes to forty-seven (47) school days and that when the applicable per diem tuition rate of $81.93 is applied, the total due the District is $3,850.71 for the applicable days in the 2016-2017 school year.

I CONCLUDE that the number of school days ineligibly attended between September 6, 2017(the first day of the 2017-2018 school year) and February 2, 2018 (the last school day attended) comes to ninety-seven (97) school days and that when the applicable per diem tuition rate of $84.55 is applied, the total due the District is $8,201.35 for the 2017-2018 school year.

I also CONCLUDE that C.G., by failing to appear at the hearing, failed to prove that she is entitled to an Order relieving her from any obligation to pay for the tuition for G.G.'s attendance in the District's school.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the action taken by the District to remove G.G. from its school is hereby AFFIRMED. It is hereby ORDERED that C.G. shall pay to the Morris Township Board of Education the sum of $12,052.06, which ORDER shall be stayed under the laws of the United States of America concerning bankruptcy, until the Trustee in Bankruptcy authorizes the payment or until the conclusion of the bankruptcy proceedings.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Board of Education of the Township of Lakewood, Ocean County, Petitioner,

v.

New Jersey Department of Education,

Respondent.

Synopsis

In June 2019, the Board of Education of the Township of Lakewood (Lakewood) filed an application for emergent relief and a petition seeking, inter alia, state aid of approximately $30,000,000 to enable the Lakewood school district to provide its students with a thorough and efficient education. Such funding had been included in the Governor's proposed budget for 2019-2020, but was eliminated from the final budget as approved by the Legislature and signed by the Governor. Lakewood argued that the promised funding was required to meet its anticipated shortfall for the 2019-2020 school year. The Department contended that Lakewood's petition was procedurally deficient and failed to state a claim upon which relief can be granted, thereby requiring dismissal of the petition. Following a June 26, 2019 hearing on the matter, Lakewood announced it was shutting down the school district effective July 1, 2019, despite the fact that its underlying petition indicated that the school district had sufficient funds to cover operations through March 2020. The Department subsequently argued that the within matter is now moot, because on July 1, 2019, the Commissioner certified to the State Treasurer that Lakewood required $36,033,862 to enable it to meet its constitutional obligations, and the State Treasurer subsequently approved a loan in that amount to the district.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: although Lakewood failed to file the required formal motion for emergent relief, and instead combined a request for an emergent hearing with a petition seeking final relief, an accommodation for the procedurally deficient filing was allowed because of the importance of the issue herein; however, such accommodation must not be construed as precedent for accepting other procedurally deficient filings; Lakewood has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6; further, on July 1, 2019, the Commissioner certified to the State Treasurer that Lakewood required $36,033,862 to enable it to meet its constitutional obligations; and the State Treasurer subsequently approved a loan in that amount to the district, which has rendered the matter moot. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Department's motion to dismiss the petition.

Upon a comprehensive review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

August 6, 2019

In reply, the Department asserts that the Initial Decision denying Lakewood's request for emergent relief and granting the Department's motion to dismiss should be adopted as the final decision in this matter. First, the Department contends that the ALJ properly found that Lakewood failed to establish any of the Crowe factors required for entry of emergent relief. Specifically, the Department stresses that Lakewood failed to timely approve its budget and ceased operations, which was a self-created emergency that does not constitute irreparable harm, particularly in light of Lakewood's admission that it had funds available to meet its obligations through March 2020. As the ALJ stated, "[t]he failure of the district to produce a budget by the statutory date does not create an emergency warranting immediate relief when it represents that it has funds to operate." (Initial Decision at 8). Additionally, Lakewood cannot choose to cease district operations over the State's political budget process, and then claim that any hypothetical harm to the students it serves is irreparable. The Department also addressed and replied to Lakewood's exceptions in connection with the remaining Crowe factors.

Regarding the viability of Lakewood's underlying claim, the Department agrees with the ALJ that, to the extent Lakewood is seeking consequential relief in the form of revenue to cover any alleged shortfalls in its FY2020 operating budget, the matter is moot. Despite Lakewood's contention that the matter is not moot because the original issue presented [is] the removal of $30,000,000 in State aid from the Governor's budget, the ALJ correctly rejected Lakewood's efforts to have the OAL "interject itself into the political process of state budget approval." (Initial Decision at 11). The Department further argues that the Commissioner lacks the authority to provide Lakewood with aid that the Legislature did not appropriate. Lakewood has received aid in the amount that it requested in its petition, which are sufficient funds to provide its students with a thorough and efficient education. Therefore, the Commissioner should adopt the ALJ's determination that Lakewood's claims are now moot and adopt the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision – that Lakewood has failed to demonstrate an entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to Crowe, supra. Notably, the essence of Lakewood's irreparable harm argument is that without the State aid promised in the Governor's budget, Lakewood was unable to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-5(c) as it lacked the financial resources to submit a budget sufficient to provide a thorough and efficient education. Lakewood further alleges that its inability to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-5(c), forced it to shut down services on July 1, 2019. Yet, Lakewood admittingly had the funds necessary to meet its obligations to provide a thorough and efficient education through March 2020, so clearly no financial shortfall was imminent. Moreover, on July 1, 2019, the Commissioner, consistent with his practice of prior years, certified to the State Treasurer that Lakewood required $36,033,862 to enable it to meet its constitutional obligations. The Commissioner likewise agrees with the ALJ's determination that Lakewood did not establish any of the remaining Crowe factors.

The Commissioner is also in accord with the ALJ's determination that the underlying petition should be dismissed as moot. As discussed above, on July 1, 2019, the Commissioner certified to the State Treasurer that Lakewood required $36,033,862 to meet its constitutional obligations. As the ALJ succinctly stated, "[t]he Commissioner has acted within the limits of his statutory authority to ensure that the district will have sufficient funding to provide its students [with] a thorough and efficient education. The State Treasurer has complied and has approved the loan to the district." (Initial Decision at 11). Further, to the extent

Lakewood is seeking a political remedy – i.e. recourse for the disparity between the Governor's recommended budget and the budget passed by the Legislature – this forum does not have any authority to rule on that request. Finally, the Commissioner is not persuaded that the exceptions filed by Lakewood dictate a different result, because the objections outlined therein were previously raised before the ALJ and were clearly taken into account by her in denying emergent relief and determining that Lakewood's underlying claim is now moot. Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.[7]

IT IS SO ORDERED. [8]

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF LAKEWOOD TOWNSHIP, (OCEAN COUNTY), Petitioner,
v.
NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Michael I. Inzelbuch, Esq., appearing for petitioner

Lauren Jensen, Deputy Attorney General, appearing for respondent (Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: July 3, 2019 Decided: July 3, 2019

BEFORE SUSAN M. SCAROLA, ALJ (Ret., on recall):

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, the Board of Education of Lakewood Township (Board or district), filed this action against respondent, the New Jersey Department of Education (DOE), as an emergent-relief request and petition, including a request that the petition also be accepted as an application for emergent relief in lieu of a more formal petition. Lakewood seeks that the DOE provide any and all requested records/documents previously requested as to the [DOE] budget and the budget proceedings; that the DOE take any and all steps to provide necessary and definitive and secure funding to the Board; that the DOE take whatever action is required to allow the district to complete its budget; that the DOE immediately advise the Board that public-school children will be provided with a thorough and efficient education and the source of funding; that the DOE forego collecting any and all previous loans/State-aid advances as it knew or should have known that the monies were required to provide a thorough and efficient education and were not able to be paid back; that the DOE reimburse the Board for any and all costs and fees associated with the application; and any and all other relief deemed appropriate and just.

The DOE contends that the petition is procedurally deficient and also fails to state a claim on which relief can be granted, thereby requiring dismissal of the petition. Further as of July 1, 2019, when the Commissioner provided the state aid advance sought by the petitioner, the DOE contends the case is moot.

BACKGROUND AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On or about June 19, 2019, the petitioner filed an "Emergent Relief Request and Petition" with the DOE. The Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter as "emergent" to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on June 20, 2019. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The petitioner supplemented its filing on June 26, 2019.

On June 26, 2019, the DOE filed a motion to dismiss. Oral argument was held on June 26, 2019.[1] The respondent was given until July 1, 2019, to respond to the petitioner's supplemental exhibits, and the district was given until July 3, 2019, to respond, if necessary. On July 1, 2019, before the DOE could respond, the district filed two supplementary briefs and exhibits. The DOE was given additional time to respond to these new filings, and replied on July 1 and 2, 2019. The district filed additional supplementary letters and exhibits on July 1, 2, and 3, 2019.[2] The record closed on July 3, 2019.[3]

FACTS

Lakewood is a unique school district within New Jersey: it is comprised of approximately 6,000 enrolled public-school students, as well as approximately 31,000 non-public-school students. State aid to the district is based on the number of public-school students. This calculation impacts the amount of funds that remain available for the district to provide its enrolled students with a constitutionally-mandated thorough and efficient education, because Lakewood also has a statutory mandate to pay for the transportation and special-education costs for the non-public-school students.

Lakewood has been under the supervision of a State monitor since 2014. In addition to School Funding Reform Act funding, the district has received nearly $47 million in advance State-aid payments since the 2015–2016 school year. Under the School District Fiscal Accountability Act (SDFAA), N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-54 to -60, the Commissioner of Education can recommend to the State Treasurer that an advance State-aid payment should be made to a school district for which a State monitor has been appointed. The Commissioner's recommendation is based upon whether the payment is necessary to ensure the provision of a thorough and efficient education. N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-56(a).

[1] The district bused approximately 100 students, including young special-education students, to the hearing in Trenton. While hearings at the OAL are generally open to the public, and while the interest of the children is understandable, the presence of children is not necessary to impress upon this tribunal the seriousness of this matter.

In 2015–2016, the Commissioner recommended, and the district received, $4,500,000; in 2016–2017, the Commissioner recommended, and the district received, $5,640,183; and in 2017–2018, the Commissioner recommended, and the district received, $8,522,678.[4] Most recently, the Commissioner recommended, and the district received, approximately $28,000,000 in advance aid for the 2018–2019 school year. Under the SDFAA, such aid is to be repaid by the school district through automatic reductions in the State aid provided to the school district in subsequent years. N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-56(b).

As the Governor prepared his proposed State budget for fiscal year 2019–2020, an additional $30,000,000 (approximately) was earmarked for the district. However, by June 20, 2019, the Legislature had approved and submitted a budget to the Governor that eliminated this provision. Notwithstanding that these funds had already been removed from the legislatively approved budget (appropriations act), the Board approved its budget for 2019–2020 on June 24, 2019, but made it contingent upon the receipt of the "promised" funds.

The Board states that it requires the $30,000,000 to meet its anticipated shortfall for school year 2019–2020 to meet its constitutional obligations to the public-school students to provide a thorough and efficient education, and to the non-public-school students for whom it is statutorily mandated to provide services.[5] At oral argument, Lakewood represented that the relief it was seeking was an order compelling the Commissioner to write a letter to the State Treasurer to obtain the $30,000,000 in advance aid the district claims is necessary to complete its budget for the upcoming school year, and for that amount to be forthcoming from the State.[6]

[4] For fiscal year ending June 30, 2018, the letter was not sent from the Commissioner to the Treasurer until November 11, 2017.

[5] The basis for the $30,000,000 in aid has not been disclosed as part of these proceedings other than that the state fiscal monitors employed by the district have certified that this amount is necessary to provide Lakewood students a thorough and efficient education.

[6] Transcript at 67:

> The Court: So what you're saying is what you're really looking for is another letter, like the four previous letters that have been sent from the Commissioner to the Treasurer saying "Lakewood needs X dollars because it needs it to get a T&E"?
> Mr. Inzelbuch: Exactly.

Following oral argument on June 26, 2019, the Board advised that because the budget signed by the Governor on June 30, 2019, did not include the $30,000,000, the budget the Board had approved earlier that week was null and void, the district had no operating budget in place, and it was shutting down services effective July 1, 2019.[7] On July 1, 2019, the Board shut down the school district.

On July 2, 2019, the DOE advised that on July 1, 2019, the Commissioner had written a letter to the State Treasurer requesting that $36,033,862 be provided to the district in the form of advance aid for school year 2019–2020, and that the State Treasurer had approved the request. The DOE urges that this matter is now moot and must be dismissed. The Board has not consented to the dismissal because the removal of the funds from the governor's budget was "political" and the loan of approximately $36,000,000 recommended by the Commissioner and approved by the State Treasurer is not the same as receiving $30,000,000 in direct aid.

As of July 3, 2019, the district represents that it is the only one in the state without a certified budget and that it requires an additional $16.9 million in aid for the coming school year.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

I. Procedural Issues

The DOE has initially raised a procedural issue, namely, that the application that was filed is not in conformity with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(a), which provides:

> Where the subject matter of the controversy is a particular course of action by a district board of education or any other party subject to the jurisdiction of the Commissioner, the petitioner may include with the petition of appeal, a separate motion for emergent relief or a stay of that action pending the Commissioner's final decision in the contested case.

[7] The underlying "petition" indicated that Lakewood had sufficient funds to cover the school district through March 2020.

Here, the petitioner filed an "Emergent Relief Request and Petition." If this application is considered as a "petition," then no motion seeking emergent relief accompanied it. If the application is considered as a "motion for emergent relief," then no underlying petition seeking final relief accompanied it.

The DOE is correct that procedurally the filing is deficient. However, given the importance of the issue, the application will be treated as both a petition seeking final relief and as a motion for emergent relief without the necessity of the petitioner filing a formal motion for emergent relief, or filing supplemental pleadings.[8]

II. Emergent Issues

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), an application for emergent relief shall not be granted unless it satisfies the following four standards:

> 1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
>
> 2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;
>
> 3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
> 4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.
> [See Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132–34 (1982).]

The petitioner must meet all four criteria to prevail on its motion. See Crowe, 90 N.J. 126; DEC Electric, Inc. v. Bd. of Educ. of the S. Gloucester Cty. Reg'l High Sch. Dist. & USA Elec. Contractors, Inc., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 789, 790 (citing DEC Electric, Inc. v. S. Gloucester Cty. Reg'l High Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ. & USA Elec. Contractors, Inc., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 10833-95, Order Denying Emergent Relief (December 6, 1995), adopted, Comm'r (December 26, 1995) (denied unsuccessful bidder's request for emergent relief because it was unable to establish that it would suffer immediate and irreparable harm, although it was able to establish a reasonable likelihood of success on the merits and that the parties opposing the motion would not suffer undue harm)).

[8] This accommodation, however, is not to be construed as precedent for accepting any other procedurally deficient filings.

The moving party has the burden to prove each of the Crowe factors by clear and convincing evidence. Brown v. City of Paterson, 424 N.J. Super. 176, 183 (App. Div. 2012); Waste Mgmt. of N.J. v. Union Cty. Utils. Auth., 399 N.J. Super. 508, 520 (App. Div. 2008).

Accordingly, each prong of the test must be analyzed:

1. Whether petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the application is not granted.

One of the principles for emergent relief is that relief should only be ordered to prevent irreparable harm to the petitioner. Crowe, 90 N.J. at 132–33. Harm is irreparable when it cannot be addressed with monetary damages. Ibid. This standard contemplates that the harm also be both substantial and immediate. Subcarrier Commc'ns, Inc. v. Day, 299 N.J. Super. 634, 638 (App. Div. 1997). "In certain circumstances, severe personal inconvenience can constitute irreparable injury justifying issuance of injunctive relief." Crowe, 90 N.J. at 133. "Pecuniary damages may be inadequate because of the nature of the injury or of the right affected." Ibid.

The district alleges that its students will suffer irreparable harm if the relief sought is not granted, namely that the Commissioner be compelled to certify to the State Treasurer that it requires $30,000,000 to meet its funding obligations.

Under N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-5(c), "[a]nnually, on or before March 4, or on or before March 20 in the case of a school district with an annual school election in November, each district board of education shall adopt, and submit to the commissioner for approval, together with such supporting documentation as the commissioner may prescribe, a budget that provides for a thorough and efficient education."[9] Neither the statutes nor the regulations governing school budgets specifically address the consequences of a school district's failure to adopt, or submit for approval, a budget within the prescribed time limits. In particular, and important to this matter, there is an absence of statutory or regulatory authority addressing whether a school district that fails to adopt a budget for an upcoming school year may, or must, shut down and cease all operations upon the start of the school year.

The Board did not approve its budget until the eleventh hour—and a contingent budget at that. By not having a budget, the Board is asserting that irreparable harm will occur because it cannot pay for services to its students. However, the petition alleged that the district has funds available to meet its obligations through March 2020, so no financial shortfall has yet occurred. While without a budget, the district may continue to operate if it so chooses. The district is seeking a remedy that is in the form of monetary relief. The failure of the district to produce a budget by the statutory date does not create an emergency warranting immediate relief when it represents that it has funds to operate.

2. Whether the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is well settled.

The Board claims that the legal right underlying its claim is well settled, but it is not. The school funding formula has been found to be constitutional.[10] The Board contends that the district cannot spend money if it does not have an approved budget in place for the 2019–2020 school year, but it has provided no law in support of that position except to note that as State law requires the State to shut down non-essential services if it does not have an approved budget, so must the district.

The regulations concerning the budget process were designed to give districts more than adequate time to arrange for budget review and approval with the DOE. Were the district's position correct, then districts acting with a monitor across the state could decline to adopt budgets in accordance with the regulations and then claim an emergency to compel the DOE to fund its services.

[9] The date was adjusted by the Commissioner to March 12, 2019.
[10] Abbott ex rel. Abbott v. Burke, 199 N.J. 140 (2009). In a separate action pending in the OAL, other petitioners allege that the school funding formula is unconstitutional as applied to Lakewood.

The district also claims that because the State monitors certified the amount necessary for the district to provide a thorough and efficient education, that the Commissioner should accept that amount without further review or analysis. But the Commissioner can review any requests for additional aid to cover budget deficiencies in order to determine whether a district is entitled to grants or loans. The Board has certainly availed itself of this procedure in the years preceding this application. Indeed, for fiscal year 2017-2018, the Board passed its budget but the requested letter from the Commissioner was not issued until November 2017.

Accordingly, this prong of Crowe has not been met.

3. Whether petitioner is likely to be successful on the merits of its claim.

The Board did not demonstrate at the emergent hearing that it is likely to prevail on the merits as the Commissioner had not yet determined whether to provide financial assistance to the district for the 2019–2020 school year. The district has not shown that relief is mandated in these circumstances. Moreover, no law or regulation requires the Commissioner to be ordered to grant additional aid to the district, although as the record closed, the DOE advised that the Commissioner did in fact send a letter to the State Treasurer to request that the advance State aid be sent to the district in the amount of $36,033,862, and further, that the treasurer has approved the request.

4. Whether the petitioner will suffer greater harm than respondent if the requested relief is not granted.

No doubt the issues raised by the district are substantial, but the harm is not necessarily greater to the district than to the DOE. Indeed, if relief were granted here, it could act as precedent for other monitored districts facing a budgetary shortfall to withhold complying with the budget regulations and to file for orders to compel the Commissioner to provide funds to them. Such a result could cause chaos in the school funding and budget procedures. Moreover, the district has not demonstrated that it would suffer greater harm if the relief requested were not granted, although undoubtedly, children would suffer greater harm if they could not attend school.

Conclusion

After weighing the Crowe criteria, the district has not proven clearly and convincingly that it has satisfied Crowe's four prongs or that the district is entitled to emergent relief. Accordingly, the request for emergent relief must be denied because it is moot. The district received the relief it requested.

III. The Underlying "Petition"

The "petition" filed in this matter, while essentially seeking emergent relief, is also being treated as an original petition. (See Section I.) Here, the district seeks the following:

1. Compel the DOE to provide any and all requested records/documents previously requested as to the budget and the budget proceedings;

2. that the DOE take any and all steps to provide necessary and definitive and secure funding to the Board;

3. that the DOE take whatever action is required to allow the district to complete its budget;

4. that the DOE immediately advise the Board that public-school children will be provided with a thorough and efficient education and the source of funding;

5. that the DOE forego collecting any and all previous loans/State-aid advances as it knew or should have known that the monies were required to provide a thorough and efficient education and were not able to be paid back; and

6. that the DOE reimburse the Board for any and all costs and fees associated with the application; and any and all other relief deemed appropriate and just.

The DOE moves to dismiss the petition for failure to state a claim on which relief can be granted and, further, because the matter is moot. Indeed, this matter is now moot. On July 1, 2019, the Commissioner, consistent with his practice of prior years, certified to the State Treasurer that the Board required $36,033,862 to meet its constitutional obligation. The Commissioner has acted within the limits of his statutory authority to ensure that the district will have sufficient funding to provide its students a thorough and efficient education. The State Treasurer has complied and has approved the loan to the district.[11]

The request for records is too vague for relief to be granted. The request for costs is not available in this forum. The remaining prayers for relief were resolved, as counsel for the Board represented at the hearing that the letter from the Commissioner that has now been provided would resolve this matter. The district would like this forum to interject itself into the political process of state budget approval and the disparity between the Governor's recommended budget and that passed by the Legislature (but later signed by the Governor). As the district seeks a political remedy, this forum is without authority to rule on those issues. Accordingly, the matter is now moot. "Courts should not decide cases where judgment cannot grant relief," or when the court's decision can have no practical effect on the existing controversy. Plainfield v. Dep't of Health & Senior Servs., 412 N.J. Super. 466, 483–84 (App. Div. 2010).

The petition shall be dismissed.

[11] The district argues that this advance should be an outright grant and not a loan.

ORDER

The Board having failed to meet the four-pronged test of Crowe, the application for emergent relief is DENIED.

As to any underlying claims not disposed of in the emergent application, they are moot. Accordingly, the respondent's motion to dismiss the petition is hereby GRANTED. The petition is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this order on application for emergent relief and this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This order on application for emergency relief and this initial decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief and a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

This matter comes before me on tenure charges brought under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, et seq., by Petitioner Bridgewater-Raritan Township Regional School District, Board of Education, Somerset County (the "District) against Respondent Stephen Michaele. The tenure charges at issue here were certified to the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes by the District on or about March 13, 2019. I was appointed the arbitrator to adjudicate this matter on May 2, 2019.

In this proceeding, I heard testimony from twelve witnesses over 3 days – June 5, 13 and 14, 2019 -- at the offices of the District in Bridgewater, New Jersey. Both sides were represented by counsel and were afforded the opportunity to call witnesses, present evidence and to cross-examine witnesses offered by the opposing party.

The District presented the testimony of Superintendent Russell Lazovick, Principal Charles Ezell, eight students and one parent. The District placed 31 exhibits into evidence, consisting of documents and a video recording. Respondent testified in his own behalf and placed five exhibits in evidence. All witnesses were sworn and the testimony of all but one witness was recorded by a court reporter; the parties agreed to accept the Arbitrator's notes as the official record of the first witness' testimony. The parties submitted post-hearing briefs prior to July 26, 2019. No objection has been made to the fairness of this proceeding.

TENURE CHARGES

BACKGROUND INFORMATION COMMON TO ALL CHARGES

1. Mr. Michaele has been employed by the Board as a High School Business Teacher since on or about September I,201,3. As a member of the teaching profession and an employee of this District, he is at all times expected to conduct himself professionally in accordance with the law, school policies, regulations and provisions; to exhibit high standards of ethical behavior and sound judgment, as well as to refrain from inappropriate socialization, contact and fraternization with students. Further, Mr. Michaele is obliged, among other things, to serve as a role model to this District's students and maintain a high degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior.

2. Board Policy 3281, Inappropriate Staff Conduct, states in relevant part:

> ... the Board recognizes there exists a professional responsibility for all school staff to protect a student's health, safety and welfare. The Board strongly believes that school staff members have the public's trust and confidence to protect the well-being of all students attending the school district.
> In support of this Board's strong commitment to the public's trust and confidence of school staff, the Board of Education holds all school staff to the highest level of professional responsibility in their conduct with all students. Inappropriate conduct and conduct unbecoming a school staff member will not be tolerated in this school district.

The Board recognizes and appreciates the staff-student professional relationship that exists in a school district's educational environment. This Policy has been developed and adopted by this Board to provide guidance and direction to avoid actual and/or the appearance of inappropriate staff conduct and conduct unbecoming a school staff member toward students.

School staff's conduct in completing their professional responsibilities shall be appropriate at all times. School staff shall not make inappropriate comments to students or about students and shall not engage in inappropriate language or expression in the presence of students. School staff shall not engage in inappropriate conduct toward or with students. School staff shall not engage or seek to be in the presence of a student beyond the staff member's professional responsibilities ...

Inappropriate conduct by a school staff member outside their professional responsibilities may be considered conduct unbecoming a staff member. Therefore, school staff members are advised to be concerned with such conduct which may include, but is not limited to, communications and/or publications using e-mails, text-messaging, social networking sites, or any other medium that is directed and/or available to students or for public display.

A school staff member is always expected to maintain a professional relationship with students and to protect the health, safety and welfare of school students. A staff member's conduct will be held to the professional standards established by the New Jersey State Board of Education and the New Jersey Commissioner of Education. Inappropriate conduct or conduct unbecoming a staff member may also include conduct not specifically listed in this Policy, but conduct determined by the New Jersey State Board of Education, the New Jersey Commissioner of Education, an arbitration process, and/or appropriate courts to be inappropriate or conduct unbecoming a school staff member.

3. Board Regulation, 3281 - Inappropriate Staff Conduct, states plainly that "Inappropriate conduct by a school staff member will not be tolerated by the Board of Education. Policy No. 3281 and this Regulation have been developed and adopted by this Board to provide guidance and direction to avoid actual and/or the appearance of inappropriate conduct and conduct unbecoming a school staff member to pupils" (emphasis supplied). The Regulation also provides more specific guidance concerning the nature of "inappropriate conduct":

(5.) "Inappropriate comments" includes, but is not limited to, comments of a sexual nature, sexually oriented humor or language, inappropriate comments about a pupil's clothing or physical appearance, comments with sexual overtones, comments regarding a pupil's dating partner or comments about the staff member's personal life that are not relevant to the professional responsibility of the school staff member.

(6.) "Inappropriate conduct" includes, but is not limited to, sexual misconduct, a request by a school staff member to a pupil for a social relationship outside the school staff/pupil relationship, sexually harassing conduct, inappropriate touching by the staff member to a pupil or permitting a pupil to inappropriately touch a staff member, corporal punishment, requesting a pupil to expose private parts of their body, other than for school medical purposes, and a staff member exposing their own private parts of their body to a pupil. Inappropriate conduct also includes physical contact between a staff member and pupil that is beyond the staff member/pupil professional relationship. This contact includes, but is not limited to, kissing, touching or feeling private parts of the body, holding hands or arms, and other contact that typically shows a sign of affection beyond the staff member/pupil professional relationship. "Inappropriate conduct" does not include a hug initiated by a pupil as a sign of the pupil's appreciation to a school staff member at a school sponsored activity such as school banquets, school recognition programs, graduations, etc.

(7.) "Inappropriate language or expression" includes, but is not limited to, the use of any profanity, obscene language, public lewdness or the use of public lewdness, comments with sexual overtones, distribution and/or discussion of any pornography.

(8.) "Inappropriate staff conduct" is any conduct prohibited by this Policy and corresponding Regulation including any other conduct deemed by the Commissioner of Education, the State Board of Education, statute, administrative code, and/or the judicial case law to be inappropriate conduct and/or conduct unbecoming a school staff member.

4. Board Policy 3280, "Liability for Student Welfare" states in pertinent part that:

Teaching staff members are responsible for supervision of students and must discharge that responsibility with the highest levels of care and prudent conduct.

(4.) Staff members will not knowingly socialize . .. verbally except on matters initiated by the staff member that pertain to school-related matters. . .

(15.) Staff members will not associate with students at any time in any situation or activity which could be considered sexually suggestive ...

Staff members must be cognizant of the intent of this policy and should not put themselves in any position that could be perceived as a violation of said policy. Any violation of this policy may result in disciplinary action up to and including dismissal.

5. Board Policy 5751, and its cognate Regulation, make it plain that the Board of Education also will not tolerate sexual harassment of students by school employees.

6. All Board Policies and Regulations, including the foregoing, are available on the District's public website.

7. Importantly, as more fully set forth below, Mr. Michaele's conduct is not an isolated incident, but rather involves a pattern of inappropriate conduct directed at a number of female students at various points in time. The incident initially giving rise to the Administration's investigation herein, involved the unwanted and uninvited kissing of a female student, "J.M.", by Mr. Michaele. However, further investigation revealed that Mr. Michaele has been engaged in a pattern and course of conduct over a period of time in which he has engaged in repeated acts of misconduct in violation of the foregoing policies and regulations, as well as the standard of conduct imposed by the Commissioner of Education upon every public school teacher in this State.

FACTS COMMON TO ALL CHARGES

8. During the 2018-2019 school year, student "J.M." was enrolled in Mr. Michaele's macroeconomics class.

9. On or about September 17, 2018, in the lobby of the 100 Building, at approximately 2:20 p.m., Mr. Michaele placed his arm around the shoulders of "J.M.", pulled her towards him and kissed her on the cheek. This action was observed and anonymously reported by a "concerned staff" member.

10. The foregoing incident was recorded on the School security camera. The High School Principal, Charles Ezell, and Assistant Principal, Laura Zamrock, reviewed the video. Upon observing the reported conduct, the Principal contacted the New Jersey Department of Children and Families ("DCF"), as well as the police.

11. Following completion of the DCF investigation, Principal Ezell undertook his own administrative investigation, in which, among other things, several students were interviewed and provided the statements annexed to the accompanying Sworn Statement of Evidence.

12. When the Principal's investigation was completed, he determined that Mr. Michaele's conduct was consistent with hostile environment sexual harassment and unbecoming conduct, warranting dismissal, subject to completion of an affirmative action investigation.

13. On or about January 4, 2019, Mr. Ezell notified the District's affirmative action officers of what he had found.

14. In due course, an affirmative action investigation was initiated by Dr. Gina Villani and Ms. Karen Jones, the District's Affirmative Action Officers.

15. On or about January 29, 2019, Mr. Michaele and his attorney, Edward Cridge, Esq., participated in a meeting with the Affirmative Action Officers.

16. At the aforesaid meeting, after reviewing the information that had been obtained through Mr. Ezell's investigation and interviews with students, Mr. Michaele admitted to engaging in most of the conduct, and said he could not either confirm or deny the remainder of the allegations against him. The allegations are set forth in the Affirmative Action Officers' report to the undersigned which is annexed to the accompanying Sworn Statement of Evidence in support of the within Tenure Charges.

17. The Affirmative Action Officers' report to the undersigned, dated January 30, 2019, sets forth the investigation results and recommendations.

18. In the above referenced correspondence, the Affirmative Action Officers determined that there was evidence of hostile environment sexual harassment, and recommended that the Board consider tenure charges.

19. After giving due consideration to all of the evidence set forth in the Sworn Statement of Evidence, the reports and findings of Principal Ezell and the Affirmative Action Officers, I hereby charge Stephen Michaele with conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member and/or other just cause for dismissal, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and 18A:6-10. As more specifically set forth below, it is clear that Mr. Michaele has exhibited a careless disregard for the professional and ethical standards imposed upon him as a member of the professional staff and has been engaged in a pattern and course of conduct that demonstrates that he is no longer fit to perform his duties as a public-school educator and an employee of this Board. I simply cannot, in good conscience, return Mr. Michaele to the classroom and take the chance that Mr. Michaele will continue in the manner described or even worse.

62. All of the allegations and facts set forth in the Background Information and Facts Common to All Charges are incorporated by reference as if fully set forth herein.

63. The afore described misconduct of Stephen Michaele has occurred with multiple students over an extended period of time; it is not an isolated incident of poor judgment or a mistake.

64. It is well established that the Commissioner of Education and the Courts recognize that the totality of a pattern of conduct may constitute unbecoming conduct, even when the individual acts comprising it, standing alone, may not. See, e.g. Cowan v. Bernardsville Bd. of Ed; Tenure Hearing of Greg Young/South Plainfield Bd. of Ed., and Tenure Hearing of Donald Dudley/Neptune Bd. of Ed.).

65. The course of misconduct set forth herein constitutes such a pattern of conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member.

66. This pattern and course of unbecoming conduct during an extended period of time, manifestly demonstrates Mr. Michaele's unfitness to continue to serve in a position of trust as a public teaching staff member, warranting his immediate dismissal.

ISSUE PRESENTED

Whether the Board has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that the Respondent has engaged in conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member. If so, what shall be the penalty?

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

These tenure charges were brought against Respondent, a tenured high school teacher, after the administration at Bridgewater-Raritan Township Regional School District (District) initiated an investigation of an incident that occurred on September 27, 2018. During the investigation, as will be described below, the District learned of other conduct on the part of Respondent during the 2017-18 school year. There is virtually no factual dispute about any of the charged conduct; there is, however, a substantial dispute about (1) the context of each of the charged incidents, (2) their effect on the student body, and (3) the content and extent of training provided to Respondent by the District. There is also substantial dispute about the appropriateness of the penalty imposed by the District upon this teacher. Accordingly, I review the allegations in some detail below.

Grievant. Grievant came to teach at the District as a second career. Having attended Catholic parochial schools in the Bronx in his youth (Tr. III at 84), he attended Manhattan College where he graduated in 1980 with a double major in computer information systems and finance. He did graduate work in these fields, receiving an MBA in computer information systems and marketing in 1985, also from Manhattan College, and an MSE in Management of Technology from Wharton in 1999. Finally, he got a graduate certificate in project management from George Washington University. (Tr. III at 3-4)

With this educational background, Respondent pursued a career in IT in the business world, starting as a programmer at AT&T, where he initially spent 9 years. He moved up in the company, eventually becoming a manager over a group doing IT architecture for consumer services. In 1989, he left AT&T and spent the next 4 years consulting. In 1993 AT&T called him back to continue some work on a project that he had been working on when he left. He stayed with A&T this second time until 2002, becoming director of strategy and innovation at AT&T Broadband. (Tr. III at 5-6)

After leaving AT&T for the second time, Respondent was employed between 2002 and 2013 as the chief information officer at Direct Marketing Association, a fairly large trade association in New York. Thereafter he worked briefly as the Chief Information Officer at a small consulting firm. (Tr. III at 6)

At some point Respondent made a decision to leave the corporate world and become retrained as a teacher. He and his wife no longer needed the income, since two of their children had graduated from college and the third had a scholarship, and he found the corporate world wasn't fun anymore: he felt worn out by the traveling and commuting. (Tr. III at 6) His wife suggested that he find something "less stressful" and suggested teaching. Because he had enjoyed teaching in the corporate world but did not want to teach at the college level, he looked into high schools. The District had one of the largest business departments in the area, so he began to work as a substitute teacher there. When a business teacher retired from the high school, creating an opening, Respondent applied. (Tr. III at 7)

He pursued an alternative path to certification, enrolling in a program at Raritan Valley Community College on Saturdays. (Tr. III at 56) Initially he completed a 24-hour course to get a temporary certificate. Then he was sponsored by the District to take additional courses while going through a first year of teaching, at the end of which he received certification. (Tr. III at 8) Respondent was hired as a teacher by the District for the 2013-14 school year. He took an approximately 50% pay cut to work as a school teacher, starting with a salary of $60,035 (SD. 19 at BRRSD 72) as compared with his salary in the private sector of $130-140,000. (Tr. III at 7) He achieved tenure.

Personnel record. During the five years that Respondent worked for the District, he never received any form of discipline. Each year he received an overall rating as Effective; for 2017-18, (SD 19 at 206); 2016-17, (Id at 234); 2015-16, (Id. at 289); 2014-15, (Id. at 302); 2013-14, (Id. at 333). Each year, the rating was accompanied by praise, for example, for:

- his hard work "to build a professional and personal rapport with the students and staff of the district (See, e.g., Id. at 333);
- creating a warm, safe, and exciting learning environment for his students (See, e.g., Id. at 258);
- building a teacher/student rapport "based on his abilities, knowledge and natural authority" (See, e.g., Id. at 224);

- demonstrating "patience, compassion, and humor while interacting with students" (See, e.g., Id. at 231);
- communicating with students in a way that "was positive, encouraging and he demonstrated a genuine concern for the students and their well-being." (See, e.g., Id. at 323)

Respondent is repeatedly described in his annual evaluations as a "kind and caring teacher." (See, e.g., Id. at 224, 347) He is also repeatedly praised for "going above and beyond" both within his department and throughout the high school, for example, by sponsoring student activity groups. (See, e.g., Id. at 206.)

In a letter to Respondent dated February 2, 2018, Superintendent Russell Lazovick commended him for his contributions to school staff, by teaching a workshop during a District-sponsored professional development activity day on a technological solution – GoogleApps –that "promoted independent learning.' Dr. Lazovick was effusive with praise for Respondent's workshop that "spoke to the hearts and minds of those who took it." He praised Respondent for throwing "caution to the wind and shar[ing] your passion with your colleagues," and concluded by urging him to "continue to take the lead," stating "thank you for sharing your light with the rest of us." (SD 19 at 99)

Letters from students. Respondent placed in evidence thank-you notes from approximately 23 students over several years. The notes mention how much the students enjoyed his class (R. 3e), how much fun they had in class (R. 3-a), how supportive they found him in and out of class (R. 3d), how he reduced their stress levels (R. 3d), and how he was one of their favorite teachers. (R 3a-k)

The incident giving rise to the investigation and charges herein. On September 24, 2018, District high school Principal Charles Ezell, who had just started as principal July 1, 2018 (Tr. II at 10), received an anonymous letter in his mailbox. (Tr. II at 14) The letter stated:

> I feel that it is necessary for me to bring this insident [sic] to you as it still bothers me after a few days of thought. I do however wish to remain anonomous. [sic]
> On Monday 9/17 I and another teacher witnessed a teacher, [Respondent], kiss a student. It was on the cheek, and it was clearly unwanted physical contact on the part of the girl student. This teacher pulled her in by the shoulders and she clearly looked like she already wanted to pull away. This happened in the 100 building lobby right by where the parents sell the food afterschool. It happened at approximately 2:20 pm. I feel extrememly [sic] unconfortable [sic] with the situation.
> I just wanted to bring it to light.
> Thank you

Dr. Ezell went to his Assistant Principal, Dr. Godown, and asked him to locate the security video that would show this location. (Tr. II at 19) The video was found and watched by the two administrators. (Id. at 20) It was also produced in this hearing, played for me, and is in evidence as SB 31. (Tr. II at 113) The video shows a group of three students walking through the lobby and moving toward the building exit. There is a table nearby where adults are selling food. Respondent is seen walking through the lobby with a piece of pizza in one hand. He notices the students and walks over to them and greets them. He puts his free arm on the shoulder of one of the students and kisses her on the cheek. Watching the video again in preparing this Opinion, I did not observe that the student "clearly looked like she already wanted to pull away;" the author of the anonymous letter may, however, have had a different vantage point. The students' testimony about this incident is discussed below.

After this encounter, the students left the building. (Tr. II at 23-4) There is a second piece of video tape that was provided to me on a flash drive as part of SB 31. It was not played in the hearing. It shows Respondent and the three students outside, together walking away from the building. Respondent still has his pizza in his hand. He and the three students are walking side by side, talking. There is no touching.

With the help of his Assistant Principals, Dr. Ezell was able to identify at least two of the three students in the video. Dr. Ezell deemed the video to corroborate an interaction between Respondent and a student that could be "understood to be institutional abuse." Accordingly, he called the police and contacted the Department of Children and Families (DCF). He also reported the incident to Superintendent Lasovick and suspended Respondent pending investigation. (Tr. II at 26)

The police conducted a quick investigation and declined to press charges. (Tr. II at 27) DCF's investigation took longer. By letter dated November 2, 2018, which was received by the District on November 12, 2018, DCF made a finding that "Sexual abuse/sexual molestation is not established." (Tr. II at 28, SB 30) Subsequent to our hearing, on July 2, 2019 DCF issued a letter stating that its finding in the investigation was changed from "not established" to "unfounded." That letter was entered into evidence, without objection, to supplement the record. (R. 5)

The District's investigation into Respondent's conduct. After receiving the results of the DCF investigation, Dr. Lasovick decided that the District needed to conduct its own investigation into Respondent's behavior. He discussed the matter with the principal, Dr. Ezell, who conducted the investigation.

Dr. Ezell began by asking the student who was kissed in the video to come see him. He asked one of his assistant principals, Laura Zamrock, the 12th grade administrator, to assist him because the student involved was a 12th grader. He followed up by asking every student who was named by another student to also come down and see him. He had each student, individually, write a statement about her interactions with Respondent. He did not tell the students what to write, but followed the same framework with each one: (1) He told them the teacher's name; (2) he stated that the student may have information that would be useful for us to know; (3) he asked if the student was aware of any interactions that would be unusual or noteworthy." Then the students sat by themselves and wrote their statements. Afterwards, he and Ms. Zamrock questioned the students to clarify their states of mind and impressions: what did you think, how did you feel. The interviews all took place in early December 2018. Altogether, Dr. Ezell collected statements from 8 students, all of whom testified before me; their statements were all entered into evidence. (SB 3-10)

At the conclusion of his investigation, Dr. Ezell wrote up his findings in a memorandum addressed to Superintendent Lazovick. (SB 11) Dr. Ezell's conclusions and recommendations formed the basis for the tenure charges at issue here.

Charged Misconduct. Below I review the specific charges. I group the allegations by similar conduct.

Kisses on the cheek. There are charges, supported by testimonial evidence, concerning three different times when Respondent kissed students on the cheek or forehead. Four students testified to these incidents.

JH. Age 17, Senior. This was the student seen in the video being kissed on the cheek by Respondent. Her testimony matched her written statement:

- Respondent was her teacher for AP macroeconomics during the 2017-18 school year. She sat in front of the class with her friend, AJ. She had a "normal teacher student relationship" with Respondent, engaging in "friendly conversation during the year."
- At the end of the year, at the suggestion of AJ, the two took a photo with Respondent; after that Respondent kissed both her and AJ "on the cheek, quickly;" (SB 3, Tr. I at 74)
- JH was "surprised" by the kiss, but not "uncomfortable" or "alarmed;" (Tr. I at 76); she discussed it with AJ: "We both said that we were surprised but neither of us felt like anything wrong I guess had happened. Neither of us felt like anything bad was happening." (Tr. I at 77) Her relationship with Respondent "is casual and normal, I was not uncomfortable at any point." (SB 3)
- JH also wrote and testified that in her senior year, the fall of 2018, she saw Respondent walking to the parking lot while she was with SS; they had a "brief conversation" and he gave her a "kiss on top of the head." (SB 3, Tr. I at 81-82) She does not recall that Respondent put his arm around her or touched her in any way. (Tr. I at 82) She testified that it was the first time she had seen Respondent this year, "so we said hello and it was just friendly like a greeting." (Tr. I at 83)

AJ. Age 17, Senior. She had Respondent as her teacher for AP macroeconomics during her junior year. (Tr. I at 93) Her testimony matched her written statement:

- On the last day of school of her junior year (2017-18), she and her friend, JH, asked for a picture with Respondent. They took a "selfie" "it seemed pretty normal." (SB 5)
- After the picture, Respondent kissed JH and AJ on the cheek "in that order. (SB 5, Tr. I at 96) "It was just a light peck" (SB 5)
- She and JM both agreed that "it was strange but we didn't think too much about it at the time." (Tr. I at 97) Her feelings about the kiss changed, and she came to regard it as "more serious" after school administrators questioned her about it. (Tr. I at 98)
- She thought Respondent had an arm around her and JM for the picture but does not recall him touching either of them during the kiss (Tr. I at 102-3);

EA. Age 18, Senior. She was in Respondent's 2017-18 AP macroeconomics class.

- When the AP macroeconomic students were lined up outside the gymnasium to go in to take their AP exam, Respondent, like other teachers normally do, accompanied them, sending them off "like marching into war." (SB 7, Tr. I at 23) Normally teachers will be saying "good luck" and answering last minute questions, and that is what Respondent was doing: giving students "high fives" and being encouraging. (Id.) EA "high fived" Respondent, and he then kissed her on the cheek. She thinks he said, "good luck on the test." (SB 7, Tr. I at 23-4)
- To EA, "it wasn't a big deal;" (TR. I at 23) She thought Respondent was trying to be "comforting." (Tr. I at 42) She thought Respondent was "showing affection like a friendly grandpa but to many this was seen as creepy." (SB 7) Her friends in the class "were a little confused about what just occurred." (SB 7) She did not tell anyone about what had happened. (Tr. I at 28) She continued to feel comfortable around him. (Tr. I at 44)

- EA enjoyed Respondent's class: "I thought it was a fun class. He was a good teacher. (Tr. I at 42)
- EA was very anxious and emotional while testifying. She told us that she had started taking medication for her anxiety, which had gotten worse during high school; all of her teachers knew about this, and she thought Respondent was trying to be supportive of her. (Tr. I at 42) At more than one point during the hearing, she asked to be excused to regain her composure. One of those times, I went outside and spoke with EA and her father, after which I put their comments on the record (Tr. I at 30):

> While I was with the student and her father in the hallway trying to get her calmed down, he said, so I wanted to report what he said, that she was very upset because she felt badly for the teacher. She thought he hadn't done anything wrong and she felt badly about being called to testify.

JV, Age 17, Senior. She was another student in Respondent's 2017-18 AP macroeconomics class. She is a friend of EA.

- The class was outside the gym where the AP exams take place waiting to be called in and Respondent, since he was their teacher, was there "wishing us luck giving us high-fives." EA was there, and Respondent "just like kissed her, not on the lips, just like on the face. It was really brief. She didn't really react to it." (Tr. I at 56, SB 6)
- JA remembers this event clearly: "I found it very out of place and unexpected. EA brushed it off and did not make a scene. It was time to enter the gym and take our AP Exam, so that was basically the end of it." (SB 6)

Respondent's testimony. Respondent testified that he has given students "what I would call a peck on the cheek." (Tr. III at 26) He specifically recalled giving students JM and AJ kisses on the cheek after they asked to take a "selfie" with him. He kissed them as a way of saying "a thank you for a good school year and the selfie. I don't have a lot of students asking me to take selfies with them." Tr. III at 31)

Respondent did not recall giving EA a kiss going into the AP exam, although he does not deny it. He recalls that EA was nervous about all the tests, and he told her "don't worry about it, you know, she will do fine." (Tr. III at 35)

He watched the video of himself giving JM a kiss. As he recalls the incident, it was the end of the day; they were all leaving school. She had been his student the prior year and was a very good student. She had given him a gift of fountain pens, which he found very thoughtful, because he collects fountain pens. It was the first time he had seen her this year, so "that was just a, hey, JM, how are you doing? How was your summer? It was welcome back." (Tr. III at 32-3)

When asked where he got the idea that it was appropriate to kiss students on the cheek, he stated there were two influences on him:

(1) It was a part of his Italian upbringing: "growing up just in family situations and with friends, that was something that we regularly did. It was a sign of respect. It was a sign of sometimes affection, sometimes it's a hello, sometimes it's a good luck. That was my experience." (Tr. III at 27)

(2) Teachers gave students kisses on the cheek in his parochial schools, both elementary and high school. "As tough as they were, there were teachers that were very approachable, very kind to the students." Twice each year, his French teacher would give each student kisses on both cheeks in celebration of the 6-month anniversary of Bastille Day and the anniversary of VE day. (Id.)

Touching students. The District presented evidence of two kinds of inappropriate touching of students: touching them on the shoulders or arms while talking to them and giving "long high-fives."

2017-18 Macroeconomics class: placing a hand on students' shoulders or arms while talking to them. More than one student observed JG place a hand on the shoulder or arm of a student while he stopped to address that student's questions. Other students did not observe this behavior.

- SS testified that Respondent touches the shoulders of students and would linger with a hand on their shoulder when talking to them. (Tr. I at 136) This happened many times, when SS or other students had a one-on-one question. (Tr. I at 138, 151) Respondent did it with both male and female students. (Id. at 151) It did not make SS uncomfortable. (Id. at 150)
- JV recalls that during AP class Respondent would approach students to answer their questions "by putting his hand on their shoulder and then proceeding to answer their question. This happened to my classmates and me." (SB 6, tr. I at 61-2) This happened to her and she observed it with one other female student a couple of times for each of them. No one ever commented about it; the other students never told her they thought it was weird. (Tr. I at 62-3)
- JH does not recall ever seeing Respondent put a hand on a student's shoulder while addressing that student. (Tr. I at 85)
- JA never observed Respondent touching a student by placing a hand on the student's shoulder while talking to the student and does not know of anyone complaining about that. (Tr. I at 104)

Respondent does not dispute the student accounts, but was unaware of this behavior. (Tr. III at 22)

Giving a long "high-five" to students. ML, a student in the AP macroeconomics class, wrote that during the 2017-18 school year, Respondent congratulated her for a soccer win "and he gave me a "long high-five" or a "lingering handshake." (SB 4, Tr. I at 118) She testified that she added that comment to her written statement because "Dr. Ezell told me both of these things that I think he wanted me to write down." (Tr. I at 118) She did not observe Respondent giving other students long high-fives or lingering handshakes. (Tr. I at 119) She testified that it was not something that stood out to her as "strange or out of the ordinary;" (Tr. I at 118) but when pressed further by counsel, she testified that she thought it was "weird but not really uncomfortable." (Tr. I at 119).

Respondent, when asked about ML's testimony, stated that "honestly, the first time I heard the phrase long high-five I didn't even know what that meant. I give a lot of high-fives to students and athletes..." (Tr. III at 19)

Receiving a gift of a "onesie" from students and posing with them for pictures. SS, a 17-year-old Senior, was a student in Respondent's AP macroeconomics class during the 2017-18 school year. She also had him for a summer night-school class on coding before she entered high school. (Tr. I at 130) She and three of her friends (one male and three females) in the macroeconomics class gave Respondent a "gag" present at Christmas 2017. The present was an animal "onesie" – a baggy one-piece monkey costume that can be used as sleepwear. "[W]e thought it would be fun to give [Respondent] because he was our favorite teacher." (Id. at 131) She testified that she and her friends got the idea because they had worn their own "onesies" to school on Halloween. (Id.) Respondent did not give SS a gift but wrote her a thank you note. (Id. at 133)

At the end of the school year, after the AP exam was over, the group of friends decided they wanted to take a picture with Respondent with all of them in their animal onesies. They planned what day this would happen and asked Respondent to bring his onesie back to wear in school. (Tr. I at 153-4) They posed for a picture with Respondent that was entered into evidence as R. 1. The students and Respondent are all standing with their arms around each other's shoulders, wearing the onesies over their regular clothing and smiling broadly. (R. 1, Id. at 153) This did not interfere with any teaching in the classroom. (Tr. I at 153, III at 25-6)

When asked by Principal Ezell to write about her experiences with Respondent, SS wrote "this was one of my more favorite classes I've taken." She went on at some length:

> My friends and I always had fun in that class and always talked to [Respondent] about other classes and other things going on in our life. [Respondent] always cheered us up. In fact, after my friend died in January, he was the only teacher who talked about it and said something meaningful and it really helped me when I finally came back to school. Also, during Christmas, I gave him a box of cookies, like I do for all my teachers, and a letter because I wanted him to write my rec [recommendation] letter. My friends and I also bought him a onesie for Christmas so we would all have matching animal onesies. He was one of our favorite teachers.

(SB 10) She explained in this hearing that her friend had committed suicide in January of 2018, and Respondent asked her if he should say something to the class and then he did so. He also spoke with her privately, letting her know that she could talk with him if she needed to and suggesting that she talk with her counselor and the grief counselor provided by the school. (Tr. I at 135)

Hugging students. SS testified that she gave Respondent a hug when she and her friends gave him their Christmas gift. And at the end of the school year, "I initiated a hug with him saying good-bye." (Tr. I at 144) SS described the hug as a "normal hug." (Id.)[1] Her friends also hugged Respondent. (Tr. I at 145) The hugs did not make her uncomfortable; she regarded them as the kind of hugs she shares with her grandparents; they were not romantic in any way. (Tr. I at 151)

Providing candy for students. There is no dispute that Respondent kept candy in his classroom for his students and for anyone else, like teachers, who asked for it. (Tr. III at 20) Respondent bought the candy from students and other teachers selling it for fundraising purposes. (Tr. III at 19-20) He got the idea to have candy on hand from another teacher, Jean McAteer, who told him he used it sometimes as an incentive for students. (Tr. III 20-1) Student EA testified that Respondent bought candy from students selling it as fundraisers and gave it to students: "That was just a nice thing he did as a teacher." (Tr. I at 35, SB 7)

Commenting on students' personal appearance. There was evidence concerning two separate occasions when Respondent made comments to two different female students about their personal appearance.

June 2018 comment to JG. JG never had Respondent as a teacher. (SB 29 at 1)[2] However, Respondent shared a classroom with Ms. Stroka, who taught a career exploration class that JG was in. One day in June 2018, when JG was in class,

[1] SB's attorney questioned SS at length about the hug, the extent of body contact, etc. I found those questions frankly disturbing, an effort to pull out of SS that there had been a sexual aspect to the hugs she initiated, even though that was clearly not her experience. (See Tr. I at 144-7) During this questioning, SS stated, "I'm a little sick." (Tr. I at 146)

[2] Because the court reporter was late, no stenographic record was made of JG's testimony. Instead, the parties have agreed to use my notes as the official record of JG's testimony. It is identified as SB 29.

Respondent was at his desk in the back of the room doing his class prep; he had no teaching duties in the class. JG was wearing a black outfit that day. (Id.) Her mother testified that the outfit was a "black stomper and a cardigan" that had been "tacked" so that it was not low cut. (Tr. I at 12)

Toward the end of the class, Respondent was exiting the classroom and passed by JG's desk. When he was still a "comfortable distance" away, Respondent told JG words to the effect that "You look good in basic black" (SB 8) or "Black's your color" (SB 9). JG was taken aback and said, "What?" Respondent came closer to JG and repeated his comment. (SB 29 at 1) There is no dispute that Respondent did compliment JG that day about her outfit. (Tr. III at 48)

There is some dispute, however, about how close Respondent came when he repeated the comment. JG testified that he came close to her, touched her on the shoulder, and repeated the comment by whispering in her ear. (SB 29 at 1) In the statement JG wrote about this incident on December 12, 2018, she wrote that Respondent "got closer and whispered into my ear," but she did not say that Respondent touched her. (SB 8)

Student RW sat next to JG and witnessed the interaction between Respondent and JG. RW wrote a statement (undated) and testified in this proceeding. She observed Respondent say something "in a quiet tone" to JG. She could not hear what he said. She testified that she did not see Respondent get any closer to JG than 3-4 feet and did not see him whisper in her ear. (Tr. I at 170-1)

Respondent testified that he was about 5-6 feet away from JG when he made the first comment and moved back 2-3 feet to repeat. He did not whisper in her ear, and doubts that he placed a hand on her shoulder. (Tr. III at 17)

It is not disputed that this interaction made JG uncomfortable. (SB 29 at 1) She told RW so right after class, as RW wrote in her statement (SB 9) and confirmed in her testimony. (Tr. I at 168) JG also called her mother right after the class. (SB 29 at 1) Her mother was at work but took the call. She testified that her daughter was uncomfortable and upset. JG told her mother what Respondent had said, that Respondent had whispered in her ear, and that he had touched her on the shoulder. (Tr. I at 11) The mother told her daughter to discuss the incident with her guidance counselor, Mr. Seavey, and not with any other students. (Tr. I at 11) The whole incident upset the mother. (Tr. I at 13) JG texted her mother a bit later, upset again because the administration seemed to be talking to other people – "it was becoming an incident which, you know, it wasn't her intention." (Id.) The mother exchanged emails with Mr. Seavey, who told her that the Principal, Dr. Morrell, wanted to know how she wanted this handled. She replied that she wanted the school to handle this "according to protocol," and that she wanted to hear directly from Dr. Morrell, about what was being done. (Id.)

As evidenced by Dr. Morrell's subsequent email to JG's mother (SB 28), and confirmed by Respondent's testimony (Tr. III at 48-9), Dr. Morrell talked to Respondent about the incident later the same day. Dr. Morrell sent Respondent an email asking to see him: Respondent testified about their conversation:

> I had gone over to see him and he was actually exiting the 900 building at the time so we were standing in the lobby of the 900 building. He had asked me did you say something to a student like you look good in basic black? I said yes. He said he had received a complaint about it. I didn't know actually until today, not today, this week that the complaint came from J[G]'s mother, that he had received a complaint about it. He told me that statements like that could be misunderstood and I needed to be more careful in the future. That was it.

Q. What was your reaction to that conversation?

A. It upset me. I had asked Dr. Morrell if I should go apologize to the student. He told me no, I should just let it be. I made certain, then, for the rest of the school year that I stayed out of second period class. So I went and took my prep somewhere else and I hadn't seen JG again until she came in to testify.

(Tr. III at 48-9 Emphasis added.)

Dr. Morell sent an email to JG's mother letting her know that he had spoken with Respondent:

> I wanted to let you know that I spoke with [Respondent] regarding the comments made. ... He indicated that he did make the comment as he left the room, but it was meant to be a compliment. I mentioned that students do not always perceive things that way and that it was not a comment that should've been made. He understood and agreed that he would comply. I'm not sure if he even knows your daughter's name and I know she doesn't have him as a teacher.
> I'm confident that the matter has been resolved, but should anything else arise please don't hesitate to let me know. Thank you for reporting this incident. We want [JG] to feel comfortable on this campus and are here to support her.

(SB 28) Dr. Morrell did not report the incident to the Superintendent, and nothing was put in Respondent's personnel file.

Respondent gave two reasons for his compliment to JG that day. First, he often complimented students who were well dressed. He explained that the District does not have a dress code, and some students dress "atrociously," so he likes to compliment others who dress nicely, male and female alike, like basketball players in jackets and ties before a game, singers dressed for concerts, "things of that nature." Second:

> [W]e are a school of business and business education and proper dress is important in the business world. I don't know if it is still the case, but part of a > rubric at one time for interviews, practice interviews for these students, included professional dress. So it is something that I notice.

(Tr. III at 16)

September 2018. ML is currently a senior. She is 18 years old. She was in Respondent's AP macroeconomics class in the 2017-18 school year. (Tr. I at 112) In the fall of the current year, she was on her way to the bathroom and passed Respondent, who was in the hall on bathroom duty. (Tr. I at 113) She said "hello" to Respondent, and he said, she was "looking healthy." (Id., SB 4) She did not know what he meant by the comment and thought it was "funny" "Just because of the oddity of it. ... It was a little strange." (Tr. I at 114) She could not recall his making any other personal comment, and it did not make her uncomfortable. (Id.)

Respondent recalled talking with ML at the beginning of this school year. She stopped by to say, "hi" while he was in front of his classroom, waiting for students to come in. (Tr. III at 18) He recalls the interaction this way:

> I had asked her how her summer was. She said good. I asked her what she did. She said, well, I was playing soccer all summer. I said who do you play for. She told me she plays for a club team named PDA, Professional Development Academy. That is a very elite club team. I know that because my own daughter played for PDA for one year. So she had been playing all summer. I went ahead and I told her, well, you look healthy. The reason for that is the important thing to an athlete, in particular an athlete that wants to play in college, is staying healthy. Being injured hurts that. She was going into her senior year and I knew she wanted to play in college. I told her, well, you look healthy. I wished her a good season and that was the nature of the conversation.

(Tr. III at 18-19)

The recommendation of tenure charges. Both Principal Ezell and Superintendent Lazovick testified about their conclusions that the conduct at issue here was inappropriate and unbecoming as well as their conclusions that discharge was the appropriate penalty.

Dr. Ezell testified that after he finished the interviews described above and consulted with AP Zamrock, he concluded that "the behaviors that I saw and experiences students had were consistent with (1) sexual harassment, (2) hostile workplace, and (3) conduct unbecoming. He was "not comfortable having [Respondent] at campus any longer." (Tr. II at 45)

Dr. Ezell had "concerns that this was not isolated this was a pattern of behavior;" he thought that a penalty less than dismissal would allow Respondent to go to another school and put other students at risk. (Tr. II at 47) He was also concerned by the students' reports that they found Respondent's conduct "not unusual" or "normal."[3] He explained that Respondent's conduct would not be appropriate for any boss with a subordinate and "certainly not appropriate for a teacher with a student," because there is an imbalance of power with younger subordinate students unable to say no. He thinks that it is "not appropriate for students to think that interactions like that are normal or regular because they are not. And if they are that is indicative of an expectation that is unhealthy and will have an impact the rest of their lives;" they may have bosses in the future to whom they are not comfortable saying no. "I think the younger you are the less likely you are to feel empowered to say no" (Tr. II at 51)

Asked about the practice of exchanging gifts with students, Dr. Ezell acknowledged that District policy allows teachers to accept gifts from students: "small gifts are not reason for concern." (Tr. II at 53) Dr. Ezell, nevertheless, was concerned about Respondent giving candy to his students. His concern came out of his experience in a former school district where a teacher had a pattern over years of providing gifts and candy to students to whom he then made sexual overtures. That case resulted in 40 criminal counts against the teacher. The prosecutor in that case referred to the teacher's gift giving as "grooming behavior." (Tr. II at 52-3) When asked to review his notes (SB 18), his report to the Superintendent (SB 11), and the student statements (SB 3-10), he acknowledged that there is no report that Respondent gave any student a gift, and no report that he gave any particular student or students candy – only that he had candy available in his classroom. (Tr. II at 56-60) He further acknowledged that the district does not have a policy against teachers bringing cookies or candy or a treat in for a class. (Tr. II at 61)

[3] The District's attorney asked Dr. Ezell about student use of the term "normalized;" to which he replied, "That was not my language." (Tr. II at 50) I did not locate that term in any student statement. Students did use the terms "normal" about their relationship with Respondent (JH, SB3; AJ, SB5; SS Tr. I at 144).

In his formal report to the Superintendent dated February 26, 2019, Dr. Ezell stressed the following points:

- The student reports were credible, because they were consistent, verified by other witnesses, and not all the students are part of the same peer group;
- The evidence established "a pattern of behavior where he makes frequent physical contact with female students and comments on female students' physical appearance;"
- Respondent's conduct was unwelcome, "was severe and persistent" and adversely impacted the educational environment by "altering student's sense of security."

(SB 11) Dr. Ezell could not point to any specific student or students who were adversely impacted by Respondent's conduct: that was his deduction. (Tr. II at 96) It is his contention that students who witness or hear about an inappropriate act by a person in power toward another student are themselves likely to feel unsafe. (Tr. II at 104-5)

In addition to completing his own report, Dr. Ezell recommended that the District's Affirmative Action Officers conduct another investigation. The Officers reviewed the statements of the students gathered by Dr. Ezell and also interviewed Respondent. In a report dated January 30, 2019, the officers recommended that Respondent "should receive consequences for his actions." They recommended the District consider tenure charges; alternatively, if Respondent's employment continued, "it must be made clear to him that any future deviation from district policy or misconduct will lead to additional discipline, up to and including termination." (SB 12) Asked if he thought Respondent could be remediated, Dr. Ezell, who had been Respondent's principal for less than one month, (Tr. II at 10) replied that he did not know the Respondent well enough to say; it would be speculation. (Tr. II at 111)

Dr. Lazovick reviewed the reports and recommendations from Dr. Ezell and the Affirmative Action Officers, as well as the student statements discussed above, which were appended by Dr. Ezell to his report. He concluded that Respondent's conduct – the kissing of students, physical contact with them, and making personal comments about appearance – was inappropriate and violated Board policies against sexual harassment and inappropriate behavior. (Tr. II at 130-3) Dr. Lazovick asserted that the District follows progressive discipline. (Tr. II at 134) He summarized the evidence presented to him that he deemed inappropriate: Respondent "put his hands on a student in any way, shape or form" over a period of time, when there "had been a conversation in the middle of these documented incidents," before he and Dr. Ezell had become aware of them. That conduct was "unacceptable." (Tr. II at 134) By prior conversation, he was referring to the emails between the former Dr. Morrell and JG's mother, documenting that the principal had spoken to Respondent. (SB 28, Tr. II at 135) When asked if those emails constituted a "warning," he replied, "Not so much warned." He went on to state that in his view, simply putting hands on a student is grounds for termination:

> [A]ctions sustained of this nature are on their own in any district I have been in grounds for termination. You do not put your hands on students The simple fact that he had already received a conversation in some way, shape or form didn't change my mind in any way, shape or form.

(Tr. II at 136)

Dr. Lazovick was asked whether he regarded all touching of students, regardless of context, to be inappropriate. He said he did, but admitted that as a former coach, he has seen coaches slap student athletes on the back or put an arm around their shoulders. He stated that at the District high school "we work with coaches" to ensure that any physical contact is mutual." (Tr. II at 143) Asked about student-initiated hugs, for example, at graduation, he replied,

> That is where we have to be careful. Correct. We at times can't physically restrain students, but it is about who is initiating in that respect.

(Tr. II at 146) District policy 3281(5) expressly exempts student-initiated, thank-you hugs. The Superintendent acknowledged it is possible for both parties to view hugs and kisses as non-sexual. (Tr. II at 161)

Dr. Lazovick testified that his concern was that "this pattern of behavior will not be broken and I cannot risk other students being put into an environment where we have this type of result." (Tr. II at 150) Shown pictures from the school's website of two teachers or staff members posing for pictures with their arms around the shoulders of students, the Superintendent was asked if those poses violated the District's training. He replied that in both situations there had to be a conversation with the teachers; he was not aware there had been a formal complaint about this behavior, but he would have to have a conversation with those teachers. (R. 4a, b, Tr. III at 126) Shown pictures of President Obama and Secretary Hillary Clinton hugging students at a graduation and at a school, he saw "no imbalance of power:" "I would hope this would be appropriate." (Tr. II at 176)

The Superintendent testified regarding the state-mandated, annual training given to District employees about sexual harassment and related subjects. The District uses online training modules and videos. The District placed in evidence two screen shots identified as the particular training slides relevant to the issues in this case. The text of the two slides was:

> 1:01 Types of Staff-student Sexual Harassment
> Teachers may also make harassing comments. Staff-to-student harassment might also include hugging students, complimenting them inappropriately, making sexual gestures, and suggesting they hang out outside of school. IN other words, staff-to-student sexual harassment is often much more subtle than the stories that are hyped up in the news.
> 1:49 Avoiding Accusations of Harassment Against you
>
> In order to avoid any appearance of improper behavior, you should give students space by not standing too close. Avoid touching students for any reason. Avoid meeting one-on-one with students in a closed room. Compliment students only on merit, such as grades or accomplishments in sports, school-affiliated extracurriculars, or college acceptance. Never comment on a student's actual or perceived sexual orientation, dating life, or relational partners. Never transport students in your own vehicles. Always be fully aware of how your comments or actions might be perceived.

The Superintendent identified the above slides as being from the 2019 training, after Respondent was suspended; he did not know whether those two slides were included in the training that Respondent took in prior years. (Tr. III at 123) While the Superintendent believed that Respondent had taken the training that included these two slides, (Tr. III at 112), the District's records show only that Respondent completed training modules on student issues with sexual harassment and staff to student sexual misconduct in August 2017 and July 2015. (SB 22 at 382)

Respondent's response to the charges. As noted above in the sections discussing interactions with particular students, in general Respondent admitted that the charged interactions took place. He acknowledged the remark about looking good in black to JG, and the remark "you look healthy" to ML. He also acknowledged the kisses on the cheek – what he called "pecks" on the cheeks – to students JH and AJ as well as to JM. He has kissed male students on the cheek, as well, in particular two students, who came to say goodbye at the end of the year. (Tr. III at 36-7) He does not recall, but also does not dispute, that he kissed EA on the cheek. (Tr. III at 35)

He testified that he was not aware that he put a hand on the shoulder of students when answering their questions, but does not dispute that, either. (Tr. III at 22) And he was not aware of giving "lingering" high-fives; he gives a lot of high-fives. (Tr. III at 19)

Asked if he ever stopped to think a student might not want a peck on the cheek from him, he said, he had not. "Probably because, to me, a peck on the cheek was – it was friendly. It was – it was a way to...maybe, you know, celebrate something, maybe say good luck, maybe say, you know, hello, haven't seen you in a while. It wasn't anything that was sexual in nature." (Tr. III at 36)

When Respondent was asked if he believed he had the ability to change his behavior if he was permitted to return to school, that is, if he thought he was capable of maintaining rapport with students without giving hugs or kisses or putting his hand on their shoulder, he replied, "I believe so. I mean I like to think – I believe in lifelong learning. When you make a mistake, you know, learn from it and do better, so, yes." (Tr. III at 41)

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

The District argues that it has met its burden to prove the tenure charges by a preponderance of the credible evidence in that (1) the District has established the facts alleged in the charges; these facts show that Respondent kissed students on the cheek on multiple occasions; the kisses were unwanted; the facts further establish that Respondent repeatedly engaged in other inappropriate behavior with sexual overtones, including making personal comments to two female students about their appearance, and touching students, including by placing his hand on their shoulders and hugging them; these actions violated Board Policies and Regulations, including policies prohibiting Inappropriate Staff Conduct (District Policy 3281, SB 15, 16), Liability for Student Welfare (District Policy 3280, SB 17), and Sexual Harassment of Students (District Policy 5751, SB 13, 14); (2) the District has further established that Respondent accepted an inappropriate gift of a "onesie" article of sleepwear, in violation of District Policy discouraging the exchange of gifts between staff members and students; (District Policy 3280, SB 17); he made matters worse by donning the onesie and posing for pictures with students during class time; the item has clear sexual overtones; (3) the District additionally proved that Respondent's conduct was unbecoming, regardless of whether it violated Board policies or state law; (4) the conduct conveyed at least the appearance of impropriety and was inappropriate in any case, whether sexual or not; all of the conduct was uninvited by the students, and, although some of the students stated they were not offended or overly concerned, almost all of the students regarded the conduct as undesirable, weird, and confusing; (5) even if the conduct was not sexually motivated, the physical contact Respondent initiated with students clearly had sexual overtones, since the recipients of hugs were 16 and 17 year old attractive females, a fact that can hardly have been a coincidence; Respondent was in a position of power vis-à-vis the students; this was the kind of conduct that students might come to believe later in life they could not say "no" to, teaching them negative lessons about how to deal with advances from supervisors as they enter the workforce; (6) the fact that the DCF made a finding of "unfounded" about these incidents is irrelevant; Respondent must adhere to District policies, and, as the District's thorough investigation showed, he did not over a significant period of time; (7) the facts in this case are similar to other cases where Arbitrators and the Commissioner have sustained discharge for patterns of conduct by staff who thought they were acting in a fatherly or grandfatherly way and did not intend harm, but could not control their ingrained habits toward students; (8) Respondent was not only trained by the District to avoid the behaviors at issue here, but he was specifically warned after a student complained that he had made a personal comment to her about her appearance; his Principal spoke to him and admonished him to exercise caution in his interactions with students in the future; the admonition satisfies the District's preference for progressive punishment, but even if it did not, the Respondent's pattern of conduct of putting his hands on multiple students merits termination; (9) the evidence is clear that Respondent never really thought there was anything wrong about his conduct; indeed he was unaware of much of the touching; his assurances and promises that he will be able to refrain from such conduct in the future strain credulity; he should not be given any further opportunities to harm students by exposing them to further misconduct; rather, the District has a duty to protect the welfare of the students entrusted to its care. In sum, because Respondent has forfeited the trust of his Principal and the Superintendent and betrayed the public trust and that of the District who expect nothing less than the highest standards of professional behavior and avoidance of even the appearance of impropriety, termination is appropriate; Respondent must be dismissed.

On the other hand, Respondent argues that the facts established on this record do not warrant Respondent's termination from his tenured teaching position in that (1) the interactions between Respondent and his students were not prurient, sexual, power-driven, or, with one exception, even unwelcome; rather they were expressions of fondness from a deeply committed teacher toward the students in his charge, and were so understood by the students who regarded Respondent with affection and esteem; (2) under the applicable legal standards, the Arbitrator in this case has no authority to rewrite or transmute the charges; this Respondent is charged with conduct unbecoming, not hostile work environment sexual harassment; moreover the Arbitrator is required to independently determine the appropriate penalty, if any, to be imposed and to give no consideration or deference to a District's decision to seek termination; (3) generally progressive discipline is applied to findings of unbecoming conduct; indeed, the District's own policies require progressive disciplinary measures, including verbal and written warnings as appropriate, providing for progressive penalties for repeated violations; failure to give prior warnings may be a reason used by an arbitrator to refuse to sustain disciplinary action, particularly termination; (4) termination is a draconian penalty, not always warranted even in the face of significant misconduct; arbitrators have refused to impose termination in cases involving significantly more serious misconduct than what is at issue here; this is particularly the case where a teacher's wrongful actions are not cruel, premeditated, or vicious; (5) Respondent had a record as an effective, caring and compassionate educator, coming to the profession after a career in the corporate world in information technology; he has received Effective ratings each year and positive feedback for going above and beyond with students in the classroom and as advisor to student extra-curricular groups; he has also received notes and letters from his students thanking him for being kindhearted, caring, compassionate, sincere, resourceful and making the class fun; these sentiments were repeated in the written statements of the students and in their testimony in the hearing; (6) while Respondent does not dispute the incidents alleged, the evidence establishes that his conduct was not sexual or romantic, but rather friendly and supportive and was understood as such by the students; all but one of the students testified that they were and continued to be comfortable with Respondent after the conduct at issue; the one student who felt uncomfortable complained, and Respondent's principal spoke to him, telling him that his compliment of the student's dress could be misunderstood and Respondent should be more careful in the future; that interaction was very brief; there was no formal or informal admonition and nothing was placed in Respondent's file; (7) Respondent's use of kisses on the cheek comes from his Italian cultural background, where such gestures are signs of respect, affection, sometimes a "hello", sometimes "good luck;" the gestures were not sexual in nature, and Respondent had made such gestures with male as well as female students; (8) this has been a horrible experience for Respondent, he has learned from it, and he would diligently find other ways to support students in the future; he would be able to change his behavior; (9) Respondent did not violate District policies: the prohibition against physical contact is clearly directed toward romantic or sexual contact and does not apply to pecks on the cheek or a "grandpa hug;" moreover, District policies specifically exclude hugs that are initiated by students; further, while District policy discourages the exchange of gifts between staff and students, it specifically states that gifts from students may be accepted as long as they are of a nominal value and are not encouraged; the only gift Respondent is charged with accepting is an animal onesie, not of particular value and given by a group of students; (10) the District has failed to prove that Respondent in fact received the sexual harassment training testified to by the Superintendent; the District's own records do not establish that he had that training annually, or that the training included the two slides identified by the Superintendent as advising staff to "avoid touching students for any reason;" (11) the District is unable to appreciate the distinction between prurient or power-driven contact between staff and students and perfectly normal physical expressions of fondness, empathy, celebration, or support; when shown photographs from its own website of District staff members with their arms around students' shoulders, the Superintendent claimed that such conduct might violate the District's policies, yet he has taken no action in the past where he has witnessed staff-student physical contact because no complaints had been made, no one was uncomfortable and the environment was "not unhealthy;" the Superintendent's conclusion that Respondent was making students uncomfortable is not supported by the record; indeed, the District's decision to pursue tenure charges against Respondent has caused more harm to the students than anything Respondent has done. Because Respondent's actions were not intended to and did not cause any appreciable harm, this is clearly the sort of case where progressive, remedial measures are appropriate. Accordingly, this much-loved teacher should be returned to the classroom; his removal would be a loss for the District's study body. For all of these reasons, termination is not warranted, and the Arbitrator should exercise her discretion to issue a penalty less than discharge.

DISCUSSION

This case involves a teacher who by all accounts was much beloved by his students. He engaged their interest and was friendly and supportive of them. His friendliness took a number of forms, some of which were appropriate and not outside the District's policies, while others involved physical contact that was not appropriate and violated District policies. There were three instances where he kissed students on the cheek, all in public settings and in specific contexts that might have been appropriate within Respondent's cultural upbringing and experience. The kisses were not intended as sexual and were not perceived by the students as such; no student complained about any of the kisses. Nevertheless, they were confusing and uncomfortable for some students involved either as recipients or witnesses, and they were inappropriate for a teacher in the District. These instances of kissing students constitute conduct unbecoming a teacher. There were also multiple times when Respondent placed a hand on students' shoulders while speaking to them. This conduct, too, was not intended by Respondent as sexual, and it was not perceived by the students as such; no student complained about these touches. Nevertheless, habitual touching of students while speaking to them is inappropriate for a teacher in the District and constitutes conduct unbecoming a teacher.

Finally, Respondent made two comments to female students about their appearance. The first was a comment about a student's clothing. This was inappropriate, despite the teacher's intention merely to compliment a business student on appropriate attire. The student found the remark uncomfortable both in content and the way it was delivered, and she complained about it to her mother, who complained to the District. Respondent was admonished by his principal and warned to be more careful in the future; he was not disciplined for this remark. The second remark was to an athlete and consisted of an observation that she "looked healthy." This remark was inartful – had he expressed the observation as a question, for example, there would not have been a problem. But the student remembered the remark: she thought it was "funny," but it did not make her uncomfortable. She did not complaint about it, and, looked at objectively, it was, at most, a minor incident and should not be the basis of disciplinary charges.

The remaining incidents for which Respondent was charged were not inappropriate and cannot form the basis for any disciplinary action nor can they be considered in aggravation of the charges that were established as violating District policies. The evidence establishes that on two occasions, both at the end of school terms, a student initiated a hug with Respondent. There was nothing sexual about the hug, not on the part of the student nor on the part of the teacher. Hugs initiated by students are expressly exempted from the District's policies. Likewise, a group of four students gave Respondent a gag present of an animal onesie. While the exchange of gifts between students and staff is discouraged, District policies expressly allow staff members to receive gifts of minimal value from students. There was nothing sexual or inappropriate about this silly article of clothing, even if can be regarded as sleepwear; it was not an item of great value. The hugs and the gift cannot form the basis of any tenure charges. Nor is there anything sexual about adults and students placing their arms around one another's shoulders when posing for a picture. I cannot find that District policies forbid such commonplace gestures.

Finally keeping candy in a teacher's classroom for students or others to take does not violate any District policy. Indeed, the evidence establishes that the school has a culture of encouraging the selling of candy and pizza by students, teachers, and parents to support extracurricular activities. The District does not dispute that other teachers keep candy in their rooms and use it to reward students. There is no evidence that Respondent gave candy to particular students or in any particular way. Nothing about the candy violates District policies, and it cannot form the basis of any tenure charges.

In this era of evolving cultural expectations, conduct between teachers and students must be examined carefully and in context. Some conduct may be ill-advised but well-intentioned and not upsetting to students. It is just as important to identify that type of conduct and treat it with a measured response, as it is to expose and punish conduct that is prurient and predatory. I find that Respondent's kisses or pecks on the cheek and placements of his hand on students' shoulders fall into the former category: they are gestures of friendliness, given in particular contexts -- a greeting, a goodbye, a thank you for a good year or good luck on your exam -- meant to express support. They were not intended to be sexual in nature, and they were not seen as sexual by the students involved. They were, however, confusing to some students and perceived as "weird" by others. Such gestures have no place in a public school setting. They were misconduct, but neither "persistent" nor "severe;" they were not egregious misconduct.

In urging me to find Respondent guilty of all charges and uphold the penalty of discharge, the District cites a number of cases that it argues are precedent for the ultimate penalty based upon the facts here. Of the cases cited , the one most similar to the present case is that of I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Marvin Davis and the SD of Asbury Park, (Symonette, Arbitrator, 2014) Arbitrator Symonette upheld the discharge of a long term custodian who was charged with conduct unbecoming a school employee for touching and pulling the hair of several students and hitting them on their backs.

There were some similarities in that the touching took place in public areas of the school, such as in the cafeteria, in front of other students and adults, including in front of the mother of one girl. Further, the custodian testified that he came from a large family where such touching was seen as "natural" and an expression of affection. Nevertheless, the differences are significant:

- The students involved were fourth graders;
- The incidents were unrelated to any legitimate interaction with the students; sometimes the Respondent would sneak up on the girls and punch them in the back (p. 6);
- Respondent pulled the hair on several girls so hard that their heads were bent backwards (p. 6);
- All of the students interviewed stated they felt uncomfortable with Respondent's actions, which felt "very weird" (p. 10, 11)
- Respondent had a disciplinary history: he had been counseled about inappropriate contact with students during his probationary period (p. 22); he was reportedly involved in similar incidents at two other schools (p. 9); he was previously disciplined for an unrelated matter (p. 22)

Respondent argued that he was "just playing around" and being " a very loving grandfather" (p. 12), and if reinstated, he would never touch a student again (p. 13). However, Arbitrator Symonette found that while his actions might be appropriate with family, there was an issue of "impulse control in the school environment." (p. 23) He was unconvinced that Respondent would be able to refrain from the activity in the future and consequently upheld the discharge. (p. 22-3)

The evidence in the present case, presents quite a different set of facts from Davis. The students involved were high school, advanced placement students, rather than fourth graders; the actual physical contacts, were (1) a brief kiss on the cheek as one student was going into the AP exam with her classmates; (2) a brief kiss on the cheek by way of greeting in the school lobby as Respondent met a group of students; (3) kisses on the cheeks of two students after they asked for a "goodbye" selfie at the end of the school year. None of the four students complained about these kisses, which occurred in very specific contexts. By contrast Davis, the janitor, had no reason to interact with any of the young girls whose hair he touched and pulled vigorously; his touches had no explanatory context.

The District also cites the cases of I/M/O Tenure hearing of James Dunckley and Rockaway Township BOE, (McKissick, Arbitrator, 2016) and I/M/O Tenure hearing of George McClelland and SD Washington Township (Erickson, ALJ, 1983) as similar to the present case. I find both cases dissimilar and unhelpful. In Dunckley, the Respondent was accused of repeatedly touching two thirteen-year-old students on their legs, shoulders, collarbones, backs, and, in one instance, on the chest. The school psychologist testified to the traumatic harm this behavior caused the two students. The Respondent did not choose to testify or offer any evidence in his defense, although he made limited admissions in his written response to the charges. Finally, he had been counseled and warned of this type of behavior previously. In McClelland the teacher was accused of habitually and flagrantly "touching, caressing and hugging minor female" middle-school students. (p. 227) The allegations included the Respondent reaching his hand inside a girl's slacks to touch her on her bare buttocks and inside another girl's blouse, causing her bra to become undone. (p. 229) Respondent had been cautioned about touching pupils in 1978 and again in 1983. The Hearing officer did not find all of the allegations to be credible and further found that Respondent's touching of pupils was "a father-figure type gesture, rising from an inner conviction that body contact has certain psychological values in the education process," (p. 238) and was "a reflexive habit deeply ingrained from his many prior years of teaching" (p. 239) He recommended that Respondent be reinstated, but the Commissioner ordered the Respondent terminated because of his "admitted inability to keep his hands off female pupils, even after the advice and direct order from his superiors." (p. 246) These two cases are not remotely similar to Respondent's conduct in this case.

I found the two administrators who led the investigation in this matter and recommended the tenure charges against Respondent to be sincere and well-intentioned. When they received a complaint about Respondent kissing a student on the cheek, they had a duty to investigate and they tried to be thorough and objective. They were justifiably concerned that such kisses could be perceived as power plays or sexual, if not by the students who received them, then possibly by others who observed them. They were also concerned to learn that the kisses and touches appeared to be habitual – conduct that Respondent was largely unaware of and thus would not be able to stop.

Nevertheless, the administrators over-reacted, piling on charges for conduct – accepting hugs and a humorous gift -- that was not only innocent but expressly permitted under District policy.[4] Further, they put the students through an unduly long and upsetting process. The precipitating incident took place in September, at which time students learned that Respondent had been suspended; they were not interviewed until December; and they were called to testify before me in June. While some students expressed more emotion than others in their appearances before me, almost universally, the student witnesses expressed appreciation for Respondent as a teacher and testified they had not been particularly upset, if at all, by Respondent's gestures of friendliness and support. Several indicated they were upset by the process of having to testify against their teacher.

There was one student who had been upset and had complained in June 2018. Her complaint had been handled by the Principal at the time, who admonished Respondent and cautioned him that "statements like that could be misunderstood" and he "needed to be more careful in the future." The Principal did not regard the matter as serious enough to either report it to Superintendent Lazovick or to document it in Respondent's personnel file. Thus, contrary to the District's arguments, that incident did not put Respondent on notice in any way that his physical gestures of support were inappropriate or violations of District policy.

The District argues that any reasonable teacher should have known that kisses – even on the cheek – and habitual touches on the shoulder violated District policies against sexual harassment. I agree Respondent should have known such physical contact, even if non-sexual, was inappropriate.

But Superintendent Lazovick goes further, stating that all touching of students, regardless of context, is inappropriate – "You do not put your hands on students." The District has utterly failed to prove that its policy forbids any kind of touching of any student at any time. Dr. Lazovick acknowledged that the District does not forbid accepting a hug from students, for example, at graduation. For him the questions are:

who initiated the physical contact and was it mutual. He appears to have ignored the fact here that a student initiated the hugs, not Respondent.

When asked about the District's training on these matters, Dr. Lazovick could only produce two slides from the most recent training in 2019, which, he admitted, may not have been in previous years' training modules. (Tr. III at 123) The District's own records show that Respondent only received training on staff-to-student physical contact in 2015 and 2017. In any event, the training does not absolutely prohibit physical contact. One slide lists hugging students as among types of teacher conduct – along with harassing comments, complimenting students inappropriately, making sexual gestures, and suggesting hanging out outside of school – that may constitute sexual harassment. It does not discuss student-initiated hugs, which is what happened here. The other slide, rather than prohibit touching, advises teachers to avoid accusations of harassment by not standing too close to students and "Avoid touching students for any reason." It does not train staff that every form of touching violates District policy. In short, the District failed to put Respondent on notice that his conduct, which I find, based on the overwhelming preponderance of the evidence, to have been non-sexual in nature, violated District policy. Likewise, the warning by Principal Morrell did not put Respondent on notice regarding non-sexual physical contact.

The District's own policies require progressive discipline, unless the conduct is so egregious that the staff member must be removed for the safety of the school community. The facts in this case do not establish egregious misconduct. This Respondent is entitled to an opportunity to learn from his mistakes and to correct his behavior, which, by the students' own testimony, did not cause them great harm.

Obviously, if Respondent does not change his behavior in the future and continues to kiss students on the cheek or touch them on the shoulder, further discipline up to and including termination may be appropriate.

With regard to the Charges, I make the following findings:

Charge I. The following allegations are sustained: Respondent did put his arm around student JM and kissed her on the cheek in the 100 Building lobby; Respondent did initiate this contact, which was uninvited by the student. The following allegations are not sustained: There is insufficient evidence that the contact was unwelcome or forced on the student against her will.

Charge II. The following allegations are sustained: Respondent did put his hand on EA's shoulder and that of other students while answering their questions. Respondent did kiss EA on the forehead or cheek as she and other students were waiting to go into their AP exam.

The following allegation is not sustained: Respondent did buy candy and had it available in the classroom for students and others; this does not violate any District policy. I find insufficient evidence that Respondent engaged in misconduct by giving students "long handshakes" as charged.

Charge III. This charge is not sustained. I find that Respondent did make a statement to JG "You look good in basic black" or words to that effect; that comment was inappropriate and violates District policy. However, Respondent was admonished and counseled about this remark by his Principal at the time, who did not report the incident or write it up for his personnel file. While the incident is relevant in terms of background, it cannot form the basis of a current tenure charge. Accordingly I do not sustain this charge.

Charge IV. This charge and the allegations that comprise it are not sustained. Respondent did participate in conversations with SS about classes and other things going on in the students' lives. There is absolutely no evidence that any of those conversations was inappropriate or violated any District policy; indeed, some of the conversations had to do with helping the students cope with the suicide of one of their friends, and suggesting they talk to their counselors, all of which was entirely appropriate. It is undisputed that a group of students gave Respondent a humorous gift of an animal onesie and that, at their request, he posed with them all dressed in their onesies during class time, toward the end, if not the last day of class, when AP exams were over. This behavior did not violate any District policy; instead District policy explicitly allows staff to accept nominal gifts from students.

Charge V. I find that Respondent did make a comment to ML that she "looked healthy." However, I do not find that comment to have violated District policies. Accordingly this charge is not sustained.

Charge VI. I find that Respondent did engage in a pattern of inappropriate conduct with multiple students over an extended period of time, to-wit, he kissed four students on the cheek and placed his hand on the shoulders of many students while answering their questions. To that extent, I find this charge sustained.

Penalty. I find that termination is too harsh a penalty for a teacher based on the facts in this case. It is true that Respondent kissed four students on the cheek on three occasions and repeatedly, and apparently unconsciously, placed his hand on students' shoulders when answering their questions. All of these actions were inappropriate and unbecoming. However, they were minor incidents. No student complained about any of them.

Respondent was never counseled or disciplined for physical contact, only spoken to by his principal for a single comment made to a student in June 2018. No disciplinary memo was placed in his file. And it is important to recognize that type of misconduct was not repeated; I find Respondent's comment to a student athlete in September that she looked healthy may have been inartful but was not the kind of personal comment he had been warned to avoid. Finally, the District failed to prove by a preponderance of the credible evidence that District policy forbids every type of touching whatsoever, or that it communicated such a policy to Respondent through its training.

It is apparent that the District considered, in aggravation, conduct that was innocent, initiated by students, and expressly permitted by District policy. This included student-initiated hugs, accepting a humorous present from a group of students, and posing for a group photograph with students, with everyone placing their arms around the shoulders of others in the group. These incidents should not have been considered in any way.

Finally, the District appears to have given no consideration to the record of this teacher as a kind and caring, supportive educator, lauded each year he taught by those who evaluated him as well as by the students who were subpoenaed to testify in this hearing. Indeed, in early 2018 the Superintendent, with effusive praise, commended Respondent for "throwing caution to the wind and sharing his passions" with his colleagues in putting together a session teaching them how to use technology to promote independent learning. Dr. Lazovick urged Respondent to "continue to take the lead," and thank him for "sharing your light with the rest of us." (SB 19 at 99)

In sum, this is not an educator who should be dismissed without an opportunity to learn from his mistakes. Those mistakes were the result of misplaced energy and affection; there is absolutely no evidence that they derived from sexual, prurient or predatory impulses or that they were perceived as sexual by the students involved.

AWARD

As detailed above, the District has established some of the allegations in Charges One, Two, and Six. The District has not established the remaining allegations in Charges One and Two. The District has not established Charges Three, Four or Five. With regard to the proven charges, the District has failed to establish that such conduct warrants Respondent's dismissal from employment. Respondent has already been suspended for a full school year; he has already been penalized. Further suspension or other form of penalty would be excessive. This Opinion should be regarded as a formal reprimand and warning to refrain from casual physical contact with students in the future. Further, Respondent is ordered to complete training regarding appropriate physical contact between staff and students; that training must be through a program that is approved by the District; the District shall not unreasonably withhold approval of such a program.

Before Jay D. Goldstein, Impartial Arbitrator

FINDINGS and OPINION

Background:

On/about June 18, 2019, Jennifer Killough-Herrera, Acting Director, Office of Controversies & Disputes of the New Jersey Department of Education appointed this Arbitrator to hear and decide the above tenure related matter. In accordance with the Arbitrator's authority under P.L. 2015, c. 109, several preliminary matters were immediately addressed by the Arbitrator, upon receipt and review of the Agency's file.

Thereafter, 'discovery' challenges were discussed and decided by / between Party Counsel and the Arbitrator. In a Pre-Hearing Conference call between Counsel / Arbitrator held on June 25, 2019, discovery issues resolved (i.e., scheduled for completion by Aug. 2, 2019) and blocks of Hearing dates were tentatively scheduled for late August and mid-September of 2019. Notice of the above was transmitted to the Parties; including an agreed upon location for Hearing and agreement for sharing transcript costs.

The above matters contributed to a minimal delay in the attempt to schedule hearings; however preliminary timelines were met by the occurrence of the telephonic Conference. However, the extended time frame resulted in apparent settlement discussions between the named Parties during that hiatus before discovery completion.

Through the parties' attempts, a settlement was reached between them. The settlement was announced and transmitted to this Arbitrator on July 30, 2019, immediately after the Arbitrator had written to the Parties seeking a status report for the scheduling of Hearing days.

Counsel for the School District, Attorney Fogarty wrote to the Arbitrator on July 30, 2019: "Attached please find our correspondence of even date, along with attachments, with regard to the above captioned matter." Notably and in well documented fashion, Mr. Fogarty's correspondence and documentation included the following:

"1. Separation of Employment Agreement that is fully executed by the parties.

2. Letter of Resignation from Courtney Bullen from all employment with the Norwood Board of Education.

3. Personal Leave of Absence Request.

4. Certified Resolution by the Norwood Board of Education approving the Separation of Employment Agreement, granting Ms. Bullen personal leave and accepting her resignation.

5. Board's submission setting forth compliance with the standards for settlement of tenure charges."

[5 documents; hereafter, "Settlement" package]

Along with the above referenced "Settlement" documentation was an appropriate and conventional request for the Arbitrator's approval of: "...the terms of the parties' settlement and incorporate same into a Final Award."

That material was copied to Mr. Fogarty's opposing counsel [Sanford R. Oxfeld, Esq.]; and, several School District officials.

Review of Settlement Reached and Documentation Submitted:

All five (5) "Settlement" documents referenced above were reviewed by this Arbitrator.

The document entitled, "Separation of Employment Agreement" is the main one and, while standing on its own, acts as the anchor to the documents that follow. It appears by its' terms to describe an 'arms-length' transaction entered into without duress and with each of the principle signatories relying upon the advice of counsel.

Consistent with its terms, it makes reference to the documentation advising, 'Teacher' has submitted her, "Letter of Resignation"; from all employment with the Norwood Board of Education". Further, by its terms that 'Teacher' has submitted her, "Personal Leave of Absence Request".

Moreover, the 'School Board' has demonstrated its part in, "...consideration of the mutual covenants and promises", contained in the Agreement, by providing a, "Certified Resolution", effectively, "approving the Separation of Employment Agreement, granting Ms. Bullen personal leave and accepting her resignation. Last but not least the, "Board's submission setting forth compliance with the standards for settlement of tenure charges", effectively completed the transaction, which thus terminates the Tenure charge proceedings against this Teacher.

Accordingly, the hiatus occurring after the initial Conference Call but before the extensive scheduled Hearings in August and September of 2019 resulted in the parties having negotiated a successful and amicable resolution of the charges pending. Therefore, the documentation resultant thereto appears to be in the mutual best interest of maintaining ongoing and harmonious relationships in the Parties environment, in the public interest and, found to be consistent with the settled law of the jurisdiction.

The Parties settlement of their differences encompasses all outstanding issues of this matter, achieving School Board approval and thereafter the approval of this Arbitrator after his review of the entire matter. The Arbitrator considered whether their proposed settlement represents an appropriate resolution of the issues, taking into account the relevant law and the best interests of the parties. On the basis of that review the Arbitrator finds the parties' proposed settlement of their differences to be an appropriate compromise of their respective positions.

Taking all of the above into consideration, the following Decision in the form of a 'Consent Award' is issued:

The underlying record of this 'Final Award, by Consent' matter involves the "Settlement" of Tenure Charges filed against Tenured Teacher, Courtney Bullen by the Norwood Borough School District. The documents encompassing the "Settlement" include but are not limited to the fully executed "Separation of Employment Agreement" [by the Teacher and Board of Education] and "Letter of Resignation" [by The Teacher] and, have been carefully reviewed.

The Arbitrator believes and thus finds that the "Settlement" is consistent with established standards governing settlement of tenure matters in this jurisdiction. Moreover, the terms agreed to by the Parties are deemed to be consistent with and therefore in conformity with the principles established by, "In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846.

All terms of the "Separation of Employment Agreement" referred to hereunder and the accompanying supporting documents referenced above shall be enforced and deemed enforceable by the Parties to them. Moreover this matter is concluded, having been deemed final and binding. Accordingly, this settlement is hereby approved and the tenure matter dismissed, subject to full compliance with the terms of all the "Settlement" documents referenced hereunder.

SEPARATION OF EMPLOYMENT AGREEMENT

THIS AGREEMENT is made and entered this 29 day of July, 2019 by and between COURTNEY BULLEN (hereinafter "Bullen") and the NORWOOD BOARD OF EDUCATION (hereinafter the "Board") (collectively the "Parties"), according to the following:

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, the Board is a body politic and corporate, organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey, N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, which is entrusted with maintaining and conducting the public schools of the Township of Norwood; and

WHEREAS, Bullen is a tenured member of the teaching staff; and

WHEREAS, the Board and Bullen have engaged in good faith discussions concerning Bullen's separation from employment with the Board and have reached an agreement, which they wish to memorialize herein; and

WHEREAS, the Board and Bullen wish to fully and finally resolve all the issues between them respecting her employment, of any kind whatsoever, whether known or unknown, which either party may have against the other in this agreement.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants and promises contained herein, the legal sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged by the parties, the Board and Bullen agree as follows:

1. SEPARATION FROM EMPLOYMENT

Bullen will formally end all employment with the Board at the close of business on December 31, 2019. She will be granted a personal leave of absence with pay, and with benefits and remain on said paid leave through December 31, 2019. She will submit an irrevocable letter of resignation effective December 31, 2019, which shall be in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A.

2. LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Bullen shall submit a request for a personal leave of absence with pay through December 31, 2019, which shall be in the form attached hereto as Exhibit B. Bullen shall not have any professional responsibilities as a teaching staff member during her paid leave of absence, and shall not be present on any of the Board's campuses without the express written consent of the Superintendent. During Bullen's paid personal leave of absence through December 31, 2019, she shall continue to receive her regular annual salary less the mandatory taxes, pension, health benefit payment and/or any other deductions required by her employment with the Board. Any vacation, personal leave, sick leave, pay for accumulated sick leave and any other financial remuneration to which she is otherwise entitled under the terms of the CNA shall be subsumed during her leave of absence and shall not accrue, nor shall Bullen be entitled to their cash equivalent.

3. PAYMENT

In consideration for Bullen's resignation as set forth in paragraph 1 of this Agreement and the waiver and release as set forth in paragraph 6 of this Agreement, the Board, by and through this Agreement, approves Bullen for back pay for the period of her unpaid suspension from June 1, 2019 through June 30, 2019 in the amount of $6,183.80, plus four months' salary for the period of September 1, 2019 through December 31, 2019 in the amount of $24,735.20. The total payments shall be equal to $30,919, subject to any negotiated increase in the successor collective negotiations agreement with the Norwood Education Association for the 2019-2020 school year, less the mandatory taxes, pension, health benefit payment, and/or any other deductions required by her employment with the Board. During the period of Bullen's personal leave of absence with pay, she shall continue to receive the health insurance or cash out payment that she is eligible to receive consistent with the collective negotiations agreement in effect between the Board and the Norwood Education Association.

Bullen shall also receive a lump sum payment of $1,000., which represents the prorated stipend that Bullen is owed for the extracurricular activity she performed during the 2018-2019 school year.

4. HEALTH BENEFITS

Bullen shall continue to receive or be reimbursed the premiums for all district-provided health and medical benefits until December 31, 2019. Following December 31, 2019, consistent with her rights under the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986 ("COBRA"), Bullen shall have the same COBRA rights as any other former employee and shall be solely responsible for all costs associated with said COBRA coverage.

5. NO FURTHER COMPENSATION/BENEFITS

Other than as stated in paragraphs 3 and 4 above, Bullen waives any right she may have to any other compensation or emoluments of employment from the Board that otherwise may have been due to her as a result of any collective negotiations agreement, contract or Board Policy, apart from any benefits to which he may be lawfully entitled under the Workers' Compensation Act, COBRA or other governmental benefit to which he may be entitled by statute.

6. MUTUAL RELEASE

In exchange for the above consideration, Bullen, her heirs and assigns and the Board and its successors in interest mutually irrevocably and unconditionally waive, release and forever discharge any and all claims or rights, whether known or unknown, which they have or may have against each other, personally and officially, individually and collectively, against past and present Board members, all officers and administrators, its agents and employees, personally and

Arbitrator

Appearances: For the Petitioner School District: Jeffrey R. Caccese, Esq., Comengo Law Group
For the Respondent Teacher: Keith Waldman, Esq. and Hop Wechsler, Esq.,
Selikoff & Cohen, P.A.

Dates of Hearings: May 30 and 31, 2019

Date of Award: August 23, 2019

This matter came before the Arbitrator pursuant to P.L 2012, Chapter 26 of Title 18A, N.J.N.J. The Arbitrator decided a number of pretrial evidentiary motions. The hearings took place on May 30 and 31, 2019 at the District's offices in Penns Grove, NJ. Both parties submitted briefs. Attorney Caccetti requested and received an extension, without objection, of one day, to July 17, 2019. No reply briefs were provided for. After briefs were submitted, Attorney Wechsler on, behalf of Mr. Bassetti, filed a post-filing motion to strike Charges Two and Three, which the Arbitrator denied. The Arbitrator obtained an extension to file the decision from August 16, 2019 to August 23, 2019.

Both parties were represented by counsel and had a full opportunity to present evidence, to cross-examine each other's witnesses and to make arguments in support of their respective positions. Neither party has raised any objection to the fairness of this proceeding. Whether or not expressly referred to herein, the relevant evidence, the authorities cited and the arguments set forth by the parties have been fully considered in the preparation and issuance of this Opinion and Award.

Tenure Charges

Following the statement of facts, the Board's Charges contain these paragraphs.

"Charge One, Conduct Unbecoming" lays out two incidents, incorporated by reference, from the statement of facts, one incident in the classroom, the other during the interview/investigation jointly held by Middle School Assistant Principal Roy Wright, Jr. and Middle School Principal Dr. Luis Amberths. The classroom Charges allege:

"[Statement of Facts] §6. Mr. Bassetti used the word "nigger"in his fifth (5^{th}) period science class comprised of seventh (7^{th}) grade students.

[Statement of Facts] §7. More specifically, the students alleged that Mr. Bassetti quietly said to himself something to the effect of "I'm done with these niggers" or "I'm not trying to deal with these niggers" while walking away from certain students who were disruptive in the class." [Emphasis added]

Referring to the post-incident interview, Charge One alleges:

[Statement of Facts] § 28. "Thereafter , in an effort to cover up his grossly inappropriate conduct, he made the situation worse when he explained that he could not have used the word "nigger" because the student to whom he was referring was white."

The Arbitrator was puzzled by paragraph§ 28. Assistant Principal Wright strongly reacted to the words he attributed to Mr. Bassetti and abruptly ended the meeting, and this was the source for this Paragraph § 28. It was among the charges relied upon by Superintendent Zenaida Cobian in moving forward these proceedings. Assistant Principal Wright's explanation as to why he believed Mr. Bassetti's words to be was an intolerable racial comment will be discuss later.

[Statement of Facts] § 30. "The use of any racial epithet by a teacher is intolerable There is no place in a school district for such conduct. By making such highly sensitive and intolerable comments, Mr. Bassetti has lost all credibility with both students and staff, and, therefore, cannot continue to be employed by the Board."

> Charge Two Incapacity," incorporates the same facts as Charge One and states in § 34 that "it is impossible for him to effectively return to the District" because it "would cause acrimony with student, staff and community." Charge Two states [§ 35] that "Mr. Bassetti will not be able to perform the duties of his job if he were to be returned to the District and, therefore, is incapable of continuing his employment with the District."

"Charge Three, Other Just Cause" incorporates the same facts as Charge One and states that returning Mr. Bassetti back to the classroom "would violate the public trust to ensure the District students' care and well-being and that they are in a safe environment where they are not subjected to racial slurs by their teachers."

Discussion

This termination is based on a single event, involving a single word "n" - which the Board alleges and the Respondent denies saying in the course of a rambunctious period five, seventh grade class.

Mr. Bassetti (Respondent) is a tenured teacher employed by the District for fourteen years, since January 8, 2005, as a science teacher at the Penns Grove-Carney's Point Middle School. His record shows no previous discipline of any time, and no previous accusations of the accused of the use of "the N Word," on the job or off. He testified that when growing up, he used the "n" word, but stopped using it years ago. There is no evidence he makes racist comments to others. He has been a volunteer in the community, assisting minority students. He holds all of his students to the same high standards. Because the "n" word may be distracting in reading this Award, I have shortened to "n". "N" is, in the African-American community, simply "toxic" or more graphically, as called in the Amazon.com review of a book[1] on the word, "'the nuclear bomb of racial epithets,' a word that whites have employed to wound and degrade African Americans for three centuries", and a word that can provoke in some African Americans an immediate, visceral reaction. So when Assistant Vice Principal Wright, during his investigatory interview with Mr. Bassetti, showed such a reaction when just discussing the word, it was understandable when placed in context of "n" long history of derision and insult. Whether his reactions damaged the investigation is another question, to be discussed later.

On February 27, 2009, Mr. Bassetti was teaching a fifth period, seventh grade science class. His testimony continues:

> I was sitting at my desk and the students were returning those corrected tests and I was going through them, and I noticed across the room that [Student 1] was using a Chromebook and it was teetering on top of his stuff.
> So across the room I said, please keep all Chromebooks flat on the table. And he looked at me and I gave it a minute or two and he refused. So I walked over to him and I went to take the Chromebook from him and as I was [sic] reached out to take the Chromebook, he slowly slid the Chromebook to his left over to [Student 2] , out of my reach. [Emphasis added]
> Rather than cause any classroom disruption or engage [Student 1] in any way, I returned to my desk and continued with the test papers.
> And then I waited till the end of the class period and then students were bringing me their Chromebooks to check them back in and I noticed that [Student 1] had gotten up and was walking away from his Chromebook. And I asked him to please, please bring me the Chromebook. And he said, "are you lazy, come get it yourself."
> And that was as the bell had rung and I pretty much just smiled at him as he walked out the door and he did a little double take and I wanted to leave him thinking that maybe there was going to be some discipline action [sic] for his comment. And then that's how I let him to [sic] walk out the door.

Mr. Bassetti's prior written statement from the day of the alleged incident, February 27, 2019, is consistent with this testimony. It states:

> Bassetti "asked [Student 1] to please put Chrome book flat on desk. [Student 1] refused. Went to take Chrome book and [Student 1] slid Chrome book to another student. At class end asked [Student 1] to return Chrome book, [Student 1] responded, 'Are you lazy, come get it yourself' "No other communication with [Student 1] during class period."

The statements of the students varied in length, words used, with differences about time, place, and the comment. A number did write that they heard the word, "n." One heard "n...a." Eight students heard nothing. To save hearing time and save these students from testifying that they heard nothing, Attorneys for the parties devised a creative solution.

The students were at the District Office, many with a parent. The attorneys together interviewed them one by one, in the absence of the Arbitrator, immediately before the start of Hearing Two. The attorney's then stipulated that none of them would be called as witnesses because they heard nothing.

Several students noticed details, unnoticed by the others, that solve the mystery of why some students heard 'n" but Mr. Bassetti denied saying it when at the investigation Assistant Principal Wright asked whether he said "n", the grievant's reaction as immediate, visceral, and emotional "No No No, adding words to the effect that made no sense because the student was "white." He has consistently denied saying "n".

The answer to the puzzle is he doesn't remember saying "n" because he said it "under his breath". He was not speaking to the class. He was speaking to himself. He was "mumbling' "under his breath." Student 3 so wrote on the incident report: "Me and [Student 1] were siting down. Mr. Bassetti comes over to me and [Student 1] and tells [illegible] to do, me and [Student 1] he'd [said?] a smart remark back and Mr. Bassetti walked away and mumbled under this breath, 'I'm done with these N'" [Emphasis added].

> The Definition of the underline phrase: "If you say something under your breath, you say it in a very quiet voice, often because you do not want other people to hear what you are saying.

These fleeting thoughts, self-articulated, are stored in short-term memory.[3] Persons reading this opinion will store the start of each sentence in short term memory to understand its meaning. When the parties read this Opinion, they will be using short term memory .

Bassetti was able to recall what happened in the classroom because he experienced it. He remembered not trying to provoke a confrontation. Not remembering what he said to himself is understandable and hardly unusual.

[Student 3] was sitting right next to Student 1, the provocateur, and Mr. Bassetti, and in a good position to see and hear the incident, and had the experience and vocabulary to describe it as mumbling to himself under his breath.

Other student's observations were similar to [Student 3's] version. These students used their own vocabularies. [Student 3] wrote: "We were doing our work kids where [sic] loud and very quietly Mr. Bassetti [sic] said "nigger" and I thought he did not really say it but my classmates heard him say it." [Emphasis added] [Student 4] wrote that Student 4 and another student were turning off the chrome book and Mr. Bassetti, said the n word very softly." Student 5 wrote [two students] were turning off the chrome book and Mr. Bassetti [sic] said the n word softly. [Emphasis added]

From this I conclude that Mr. Bassetti was not lying when he denied saying "n". Lying is knowing at the time you make it that your statement is false.[5] He cannot be punished for lying when saying something that he mistakenly believes to be true.

The Petitioner's arguments in favor of disregarding all of the student statements are not persuasive. The Arbitrator has considered the student testimony with great caution. The Arbitrator is not persuaded that the low grades Mr. Bassetti issued to some of these students motivated them to invent their stories.[6] Some were uncertain about hearing whether he said, "n". They talked about it in the halls after his class: "Did you hear it?" This is not the same as a conspiracy to lie about it. (One student, who was out of class, later wrote about hearing it. Two others were considered not credible. None of the three testified.) The student written statements varied widely in some details – time of day, location, words used. Common to the statements of students in a position to hear was the word, "n."

[6] Mr. Bassetti assigned a science project to all of his students, setting the same high standards for all of them. Those who did not do the assignment, or could not complete it after extensions, knowing it counting for 30% of the grade, got low grades coincidental with this incident. After submitting the low grades for the project, and after his suspension with pay pending this arbitration, Mr. Bassetti discovered that someone had substituted a new grade: "E" for "Excused." That raised the grades.

The Respondent contends, also in the alternative, that the other stated reasons for termination are without merit. They are the subjects of the rest of the Opinion.

Part Two of Charge One is the investigation, which the Petitioner contends was unfair and filled with errors. The Board contends otherwise. The Arbitrator finds that the Petitioner's contentions have merit. Even without these deficiencies, the part of the charge dealing with Mr. Bassetti's statements during the meeting are on its face, illogical, and not based on any reasonable interpretation of what Mr. Bassetti said.

The Regional School District rules and normal practices required the matter to have been assigned to Affirmative Action, who was Dr. Michael Ostroff, but he was out of town that day on school business. So the matter was assigned to Assistant Principal Wright. There then followed a series of events that the Respondent contends undermined the results. Assistant Principal Wright was not the proper investigator - it should have been assigned to the District's Affirmative Action Officer, Dr. Michael Ostroff, who signed off on the report based on the student's written statements obtained by Assistant Principal Wright.

But the two most serious deficiencies in the Assistant Principal's Investigation was first, when he summoned Mr. Bassetti to an investigatory interview which could lead to (and did lead to) discipline and Mr. Bassetti was denied Union representation. And second, that he did not recuse himself when it became evident that he was so deeply and emotionally involved that it impaired the investigation and his judgment and led to the filing of an illogical complaint about what Mr. Bassetti did not say during the interview, but Mr. Wright claimed he implied.

"Thereafter , in an effort to cover up his grossly inappropriate conduct, he made the situation worse when he explained that he could not have used the word " "nigger" because the student to whom he was referring was white."

This Charge makes no sense. Mr. Bassetti had a right to defend himself. By inferring an unstated and illogical meaning, the Board has interfered with the right to defense. For example, if a teacher denies a charge during an investigatory interview, and is hit with an additional charge of lying, then what purpose would be served with having the interview in the first place? And what if the teacher was not lying? If these were the ground rules, then the purpose of the interview – to allow the employee to have his or her say, so the employer would know both sides - would be defeated.

Mr. Wright claimed that, after informing Mr. Bassetti of the allegations, Mr. Bassetti asked who the student was towards whom he allegedly used the "N" word. Mr. Wright's answer was, " [Student 1]". Mr. Bassetti allegedly responded "I couldn't have called him that because he's white." Hearing this, Mr. Wright testified, "I became extremely angry, just put my head down and told. . . Mr. Bassetti that I found his response to my question on its own merits to be offensive. And I said, 'The meeting will now end.'"

The following explains why the Arbitrator upon reading the Charges, could not understand it. Mr. Wright explained that he interpreted Mr. Bassetti's alleged response to mean that "[using the 'N' word] would have been justifiable had it not been a white student that he said that to or because it was a white student that he couldn't have possibly said the word. And like I said, [that] just didn't put me in a good place."

The argument is absurd and contrary to the rules of logic. Mr. Bassetti never said that he would have used the "n" word if the student were black. Nor did he infer it. Deconstructing why it is illogical, here is the false syllogism: Mr. Wright has constructed and them laid upon Mr. Bassetti a false argument. "Illogical" means not following the rules of logic. This is why:

Major premise: Mr Bassetti calls African Americans "n".

Minor premise: [Student 1] is not African American.

Conclusion: Therefore Mr. Bassetti did not call [Student 1] a "n".

Mr. Wright has constructed the major premise out of whole cloth and attributed it to Mr. Bassetti. It's a verbal slight of hand, arising out of feelings, creating a denial into an admission. Creative, but not valid. This part of Charge Two is without merit.

And because it found part of the foundation for Principal Cobain's decision to embrace it and refer it to the Board of Education, it seriously impairs the Principal decision and the Board's.

Superintendent Cobain accepted Mr. Wright's implied inference as being an admission by Mr. Bassetti that he would use "n" against African-Americans. Superintendent Cobian then mischaracterized Mr. Wright's version of his interview with Mr. Bassetti as unfavorable to Mr. Bassetti on direct examination. Referring to "concerns that Mr. Bassetti ha[d] said, if it would have been a white student, I would have not said it [sic], implies that he will not use it against a white [sic], but he will use it against a black [sic]" The Superintendent inserts a newly invented sentence using the subjunctive verb "would have": "If it would have been a white student."

The Superintendent attributes to Mr. Bassetti words he did not say to create a conclusion he did not make.

The Respondent contends that additional defects in the investigation voided the process, That Assistant Principal Wright was "investigating" was established by credible evidence. Dr. Michael Ostroff, the district's Affirmative Action Officer who wrote the investigation report, but did not conduct the student's investigatory interviews, as he was out of district on a training session, and was not aware of the situation until after the weekend, and was not present for any of the investigatory interviews with the students or with Mr. Bassetti. Dr. Ostroff stated that "[i]t was a judgment call. By that time . . . the kids had been interviewed by administration. I had received the statements in PDF form from the Superintendent. I was able to review those and felt at that time that the students' statements, along Dr. Ostroff accepted Mr. Wright's conclusions without questions and without interviewing Mr. Bassetti.

The Resondent contends these are serious defects that call the result into question. The Arbitrator agrees.

The respondent states that the Board denied Mr. Bassetti his right to Union representation at the investigatory interview with Assistant Principal Wright and Principal Amberths. The Arbitrator agrees.

Mr. Bassetti testified that Principal Amberths "told me I did not require union representation for this, I needed to make a statement" and thus slammed shut the Union representation door. And that, when Mr. Wright testified that Mr. Bassetti never asked for and was never denied union representation, Mr. Wright was incorrect. A violation of an employee's Weingarten rights "is not harmless error or a formality." On the contrary, it is well-recognized that "[r]equiring a lone employee to attend an investigatory interview which he reasonably believes may result in the imposition of discipline perpetuates . . inequality [of bargaining power between employees and employers], and bars recourse to the safeguards the[National Labor Relations] Act provided 'to redress the perceived imbalance of economic power between labor and management.'" N.L.R.B. v. J Weingarten, Inc., 420 U.S. 251, 262 (1975) (quoting Am. Ship Bldg. Co. v. N.L.R.B., 380 U.S. 300, 316 (1965)).

The New Jersey Supreme Court extended the Weingarten rule to New Jersey public employees, writing:

> an investigatory interview of an employee often entails an atmosphere of isolation and intimidation ...In such a setting, employees may be less than articulate in attempting to defend themselves. Employees may not realize that they could exonerate themselves through recounting to the employer certain mitigating circumstances. Thus, an employee's defense may be less than compelling, squandering the last chance of exculpation before punishment is delivered. Matter of Univ. of Med. & Dentistry of New Jersey (Sch. of Osteopathic Med.), 144 N.J. 511, 528 (1996).

Charge Two Incapacity," incorporates the same facts as Charge One and states in § 34 that "it is impossible for him to effectively return to the District" because it "would cause acrimony with student, staff and community." Charge Two states [§ 35] that "Mr. Bassetti will not be able to perform the duties of his job if he were to be returned to the District and, therefore, is incapable of continuing his employment."

The Charge is without merit. The Arbitrator has found that Mr. Bassetti, while speaking to himself softly under his breath, used "n". To uphold this termination would create a new common law of teacher termination: "If you so much as breathe to yourself the word "n", with no intention to communicate it to others, but are overheard by some students, even if you never intended them to hear, even if you have never said "n" to students in 14 years, your intent is irrelevant, and your spotless record is irrelevant, and you shall be terminated for the first offense."

First, The New Jersey legislature set up a statutory plan to balance the needs of School Districts for competent teachers, and the needs of teachers to be treated fairly, and created a panel of experienced arbitrators to adjudicate these disputes. The Board's argument here would transfer that power directly to the School Boards or the public, and that their decision, not the arbitrator's, shall be final and binding.

Second, the Arbitrator is aware of the facts of this case, because of the hearing with witnesses and cross-examination. The public is not so aware. Misinformation, rumor, innuendo can run rampant in any community. Especially where, as here, an individual has tried to influence Board decisions, regularly calling out for the termination of teachers, includint Mr. Bassetti. In the Bassetti matter, a parent of a student who came home and reported that Mr. Bassetti said "n", called a local television station that sent over a reporter, and interviewed the student about this matter. The matter as also reported in local newspapers. The legislature never intended to dispense with an orderly hearing under strict safeguards and turn terminations over to the press and the public.

Charge Two is without merit.

"Charge Three, Other Just Cause" incorporates the same facts as Charge One and states that returning Mr. Bassetti back to the classroom "would violate the public trust to ensure the District students' care and well-being and that they are in a safe environment where they are not subjected to racial slurs by their teachers."

Charge Three is without merit.

Mr. Bassetti did not direct his comments outward. He was saying softly under this breath to himself, not the students. Reinstatement would not violate the public trust. No student said he or her was unsafe. Mr. Bassetti.

Under (TEACHNJ Act), L. 2012, c. 26 (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-117 to -129), fact-finder in a tenure hearing involving allegations of misconduct should consider, when determining the appropriate penalty, "the nature and gravity of the offenses under all the circumstances involved, any evidence as to provocation, extenuation or aggravation, and .. . any harm or injurious effect which the teacher's conduct may have had on the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system." In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 422 (App. Div. 1967) Other factors to be considered include "the impact of the penalty on [the respondent's] teaching career"; the respondent's "teaching record . . and teaching ability"; and whether the respondent "had . . . been disciplined in any manner by the board prior to the date of the incident[s] involved in [the] charges." Id.

The Charges relate to a single incident, not a pattern of misconduct. His conduct will have no harm or serious effect on the maintenance of discipline or the school system. It leaves open the ability of the District to discipline other teachers for direct and open and intentional verbal belittling of students. No student was injured. He did say it to the students. He made the comment under his breath under provocation from a student who refused his request to move the Chrome Book off the pile, challenged his authority, called him "lazy", and when Mr. Bassetti walked over to take the Chrome Book, the student slid it over to another student. At the same time, Mr. Bassetti was trying to control other students and had to raise his voice. (This was the seventh period of the day. The students had been in school for a long time.)

The impact on Mr. Bassetti's career would be devastating. He has good teaching ability, has good evaluations, is initiates regular contact with parents of struggling students, tries to help the students improve, hold all students to high standards, sets limits and adheres to them, and encourages students to meet the standards, regardless of background. Prior to this event, his record shows no discipline.

The incident was not premeditated. He did not intend for his thoughts expressed to himself be heard by students; he did not intend to communicate to students. He was muttering to himself, under his breath.

The contentions advanced by the Board are not persuasive. I have addressed most of them and need not repeat them. I disagreed with the Board's assessment of the facts and the implications from those facts.

Mr. Bassetti had no obligation to respond at the meeting to the Superintendent. There was nothing left to say. The result had already been reached. His Union representative told him to stay silent.

The Arbitrator rejects the Board's contention that they proved each element of their case against Mr. Bassetti, as discussed previously. The Arbitrator rejects the Board's contention that Mr. Bassetti engaged in unbecoming conduct.

The Arbitrator rejects the Board's argument that Mr. Bassetti lacks credibility, for reasons explained in detail in this Award.

The Arbitrator rejects the Board's contention that Mr. Bassetti cannot continue his employment. He has had a spotless record for 14 years. He was good evaluations.

Balancing all of these factor, discharge is too severe, disproportionat to the offense. Mr. Bassetti did not engage unbecoming conduct. Mr. Bassetti is not a racist. The Board did not have statutory cause, including just cause, to terminate him.

AWARD AND REMEDY

The District has failed to establish any of the charges as sufficient grounds for termination against the Respondent. Accordingly, the tenure charges are dismissed.

As a remedy, the District is ordered to remove the dismissal from Bruce Bassetti's record. It is further ordered to immediately reinstate him to his former position, or to a comparable position mutually agreeable to the parties, without loss of seniority. It is further ordered to make Bruce Bassetti whole for losses, if any, incurred as a result of his dismissal.

The Arbitrator shall retain jurisdiction of the case for the sole purpose of resolving any dispute over the implementation of the remedy.

On October 22, 2018, I was appointed by the New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes to serve as arbitrator pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 as amended by P.L. 2012, c. 26 and P.L. 2015, c. 109, to hear and make a final determination on tenure charges filed by the Belleville Township Board of Education [the "Petitioner"] against tenured teacher Christopher Michele [the "Respondent"]. Upon receipt of that appointment, I reviewed the certified tenure charges and the answer opposing the charges, as well as all documentation accompanying those submissions. Thereafter, I convened a conference call with counsel for the parties, at which time the procedures for processing this case were discussed, mutually agreed upon and set. Pursuant to the understandings reached during the conference call, an informal pre-hearing conference was held on November 14, 2018 to clarify all issues raised in the formal filing and responses, potential evidentiary issues that could arise during hearing and also to engage in efforts that could resolve the issues raised in the formal filings. At the conclusion of the informal conference, it was agreed that formal hearings were to be scheduled but not to the exclusion of any future efforts that could be undertaken to resolve all issues.

Arbitration hearings in this matter were held on January 28, April 16 and June 4, 2019. During the June 4, 2019 hearing, the Petitioner and Respondent voluntarily engaged in informal discussions to again ascertain whether the issues that gave rise to this proceeding were susceptible to resolution. After lengthy joint discussions ensued, the parties successfully constructed preliminary tentative terms for resolution but were unable to finalize all terms. This required the arbitrator to request an additional extension of time and to schedule a final arbitration hearing to be held on August 19, 2019. Prior to the conduct of the August 19, 2019 hearing, the parties were successful in refining all terms. The Settlement Agreement was then formalized into mutually agreed upon language. Those terms were signed by Respondent on August 14, 2019, approved by the Belleville Township Board of Education at its August 19, 2019 meeting and signed by the Board's authorized representatives on August 26, 2019. Pursuant to the terms of settlement, the Respondent submitted an irrevocable letter of resignation from employment as one element of a lengthy and comprehensive Settlement Agreement. Another element included the Board's acceptance of the letter through its approval of the Settlement Agreement that also included the withdrawal of any pending disciplinary and/or legal actions concerning Respondent.

As acknowledged by all parties, the arbitrator is required under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 to issue a decision approving the settlement of tenure charges and to explain why the arbitrator is approving the terms of settlement. After review, I have approved these terms for the reasons that follow.

I am persuaded that the issues that were raised in the Statement of Tenure Charges and the Statement of Evidence filed by the Petitioner and the Answer to Tenure Charges filed by the Respondent have been satisfactorily addressed and resolved by the terms of settlement. In addition to the fact that these terms are mutually acceptable to the parties, I also find that the interests of the public will also be served by the voluntary resolution and the avoidance of continued extended litigation and the attendant uncertainties to the parties of final disposition of any disputed issues by the arbitrator

The parties have agreed that the interests of all concerned will be served by Respondent's separation from employment by voluntary resignation as a condition precedent to the withdrawal of the tenure charges. The parties have acknowledged that these terms have been agreed upon without admission of any wrongdoing or liability by, or on the part of, any party as to the merits of any claim raised by Petitioner in the tenure charges or by Respondent's answers to the charges. The Settlement Agreement resolves Petitioner's desire that Respondent no longer be employed by the Board and Respondent's acknowledgement that he no longer seeks retention of employment by this employee while denying all allegations against him that have now been withdrawn. I conclude that the considerations received by the Respondent as part of the Settlement Agreement are reasonable in all respects and reflect an amicable termination of Respondent's employment on terms consistent with the public interest. The Board and the public will further benefit by the avoidance of additional litigation costs and the uncertainties attendant to having a final disposition of the tenure charges through an Award, as well as any potential for either party to seek judicial review after the issuance of an Award.

Accordingly, and based upon all of the above, I hereby approve the parties' settlement agreement.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On July 17, 2019 the School District of the Camden County Technical Schools [Petitioner or District] served Brett Fetty [Respondent or Fetty] with a Notice of Tenure Charges pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. Charge One alleged Conduct Unbecoming; and Charge Two alleged Other Just Cause. On or about August 1, 2019, the Respondent, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3(a)(1), filed a Motion to Dismiss [Motion] the tenure charges with the Office of Controversies and Disputes in lieu of filing an answer. I was appointed the Arbitrator to adjudicate this matter on August 7, 2019. A conference call was held with the parties on August 8, 2019 which resulted in the Petitioner filing its response in opposition to the Motion on August 23, 2019. This is a Decision on the Respondent's Motion to Dismiss the tenure charges filed by the Petitioner.

BACKGROUND

Brett Fetty has been employed by the District since July 1, 2013. He served as Assistant Principal at the District's Gloucester Township Campus from July 1, 2013 until June 30, 2016; and has served as the Principal of the District's Pennsauken Campus from July 1, 2016 through June 30, 2019. Based upon its tenure charges the District is seeking to demote Fetty from a Principal to an Assistant Principal (presumably to revoke his principal certification) and reassign him to the Gloucester Township Campus. On or about July 16, 2019, Fetty was suspended without pay pending this matter.

In its Statement of Charges the District alleged in Charge One, that Fetty engaged in unbecoming conduct by his allegedly repeated verbal abuse and malicious conduct and disparaging and humiliating remarks, particularly about a female administrator that created a hostile work environment and violated District Policies and Procedures. The District elaborated, alleging that Fetty made such remarks to and about staff members; he allegedly berated a female administrator in front of staff and subordinates thereby undermining her authority; and it alleged he treated female and male staff members differently.

The District also alleged in Charge One that Fetty's conduct demonstrated his failure to perform in accordance with the Multidimensional Principal Performance Rubric because his conduct allegedly negatively impacted morale and the school environment. The District further alleged Fetty failed to provide a safe, efficient and effective learning environment; that he associated accountability with threats and made decisions based upon his own self interest.

Finally, the District also alleged in Count One that Fetty's conduct failed to adhere to and follow the goals stated in the principal's job description. The District alleged Fetty failed to foster an effective learning environment; failed to foster staff and personnel relationships; failed to solve problems effectively; and, failed to maintain superintendent relationships and execute administrative regulations.

In Charge Two the District alleged that the above alleged Conduct Unbecoming constituted Other Just Cause warranting that Fetty be removed from his principal position and be reassigned as an assistant principal with his mandatory participation in the employee assistance program and with counseling. The District concluded Charge Two arguing that Fetty's increment for the 2019-2020 year be withheld and that his suspension without pay; continue during the pendency of the charges.

In its Statement of Evidence the District primarily relies upon nine documents. But it also stated that there may be other supporting evidence that exists beyond those nine documents and it "reserved" the right to supplement the evidence.

Exhibit 01 is the June 19, 2019 memorandum of written "charges/recommendations" by Superintendent Patricia Fitzgerald to the District's Board of Education. In her memorandum Fitzgerald relies upon written statements by 10 staff members sent to the District's Affirmative Action Officer, Kathleen Cassidy, regarding Fetty's alleged conduct. Fitzgerald summarizes remarks made by staff members about Fetty in their statements to Cassidy, but Fitzgerald does not name any of those staff members.

Fitzgerald refers to Cassidy's summation of staff members statements to her [which is Exhibit 03], and Fitzgerald refers to comments she made in Fetty's evaluation. Fitzgerald concludes that Fetty's performance did not comply with the Principals Multi-dimensional Rubric; and that he violated the District Healthy Workplace Environment Policy (No. 3351) and its' Code of Ethics Policy (No. 3211).

Exhibit 02 is the District's Healthy Workplace Environment Policy. It provides that employees are entitled to a healthy workplace environment where employees are treated with dignity and respect and an environment devoid of threatening, intimidating or humiliating conduct by another employee. Under the Policy employees can submit a report of Policy violations to the Superintendent.

Exhibit 03 is Cassidy's summary of the ten staff statements submitted to her allegedly regarding Fetty's conduct. Cassidy is both the District's Manager of Human Relations and its Affirmative Action Officer. Cassidy referred to those staff statements as Staff Members A through Staff member J.

Cassidy explained that she spoke to four female staff members on May 22, 2019, and asked them to submit written statements. Subsequently, six other staff members submitted statements concerning Fetty. Two of those ten staff members are no longer employed by the District. Cassidy noted that she asked all of the staff members if they wanted to file affirmative action claims (against Fetty), but they all declined to do so. Cassidy wrote that all of those staff members still employed by the District requested that their statements remain confidential allegedly because they feared Fetty's retaliation.

Exhibit 04 includes the ten staff member statements submitted to Cassidy. None of those statements are signed. Rather, they are designated as A through J.

Exhibit 05 is an excerpt from Fitzgerald's June 20, 2018 evaluation of Fetty. Fitzgerald notes in that document that Fetty should use professional wording in all staff communications, and he should not make any negative comments to or about staff or administrators.

Exhibit 06 is the District's Code of Ethics Policy. It provides that staff will adhere to the highest ethical standards.

Exhibit 07 is the District's Multidimensional Principal Performance Rubric.

Exhibit 08 is the District's Job Description for Principal. It includes the requirement that a Principal provide; a "safe, secure and caring environment", and, enforce the Code of Conduct.

Exhibit 09 is the District's Policy No. 4381, Protection Against Retaliation. It provides that the District will not take retaliatory action against any employee that has disclosed behavior that the employee believes is in violation of law or rule.

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

RESPONDENT

The Respondent's Motion to Dismiss the Charges was filed on August 1, 2019. It argued two reasons for dismissal. First, because the Petitioner relies upon an incomplete statement of evidence that deprives Respondent of the right to prepare a complete defense; and Second, because the statement of evidence primarily relies upon ten written but unsworn and anonymous statements. The Respondent argues that TEACHNJ prohibits such unspecific and indefinite charges and individually, and particularly when combined, those reasons require the charges be dismissed.

The Respondent's first reason for dismissal refers to the Petitioner's remark in its statement of evidence that "there may be other supporting evidence that exists beyond the documents attached with this submission". The Respondent argues that the above remark indicates that the District's evidence was incomplete when the charges were filed and thus violated the intent of both N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 and the regulation in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b)(1).

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 provides in pertinent part that when a tenure charge is filed it shall include a "written statement of evidence under oath to support such charge". The regulation in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b)(1) conforms to the Statute and requires that charges be specific; and that they be accompanied by a supporting statement of evidence with complete copies of all documents referenced in the statement of evidence.

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b)(1) specifically provides:

> 1. Charges shall be stated with specificity as to the action or behavior underlying the charges and shall be filed in writing with the secretary of the district board of education or with the State district superintendent, accompanied by a supporting statement of evidence, both of which shall be executed under oath by the person(s) instituting such charges. Complete copies of all documents referenced in the statement of evidence shall be attached as part of the statement.

The Respondent contends that the Petitioners reference to the possible existence of other evidence not included in its statement of evidence; and, its reliance upon ten unsigned and anonymous employee statements lacks the required specificity required by law. Relying upon several prior decisions, the Respondent therefore argues that the Petitioner has failed to comply with both the Statute and the Regulation.

In In re Neal Gordon/Endlgwood Board of Education, Docket No. 24-1/18 (8/13/18), Arbitrator Licata granted a motion to dismiss due to the Board's failure to comply with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b). The Arbitrator held in pertinent part that:

> The sworn tenure charges must align with the sworn statement of evidence and the sworn statement of evidence must include all documents identified therein. At p.11

In In re Marie Ebert/School District of the City of Newark, Docket No. 267-9/14 (1/30/15), Arbitrator Denenberg granted a motion to dismiss due to the Board's failure to comply with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1(b)(3). That Statute provides in pertinent part:

> Upon referral of the case for arbitration, the employing board of education shall provide all evidence, including, but not limited to, documents, electronic evidence, statements of witnesses, and a list of witnesses with a complete summary of their testimony, to the employee or the employee's representative. The employing board of education shall be precluded from presenting any additional evidence at the hearing, except for purposes of impeachment of witnesses.

In the Ebert case the Respondent had not been provided with certain requested documents or with summaries of witness testimony. Arbitrator Denenberg held that a district and all its evidence must be thoroughly prepared before tenure charges are filed. She concluded that the tenure charges in that case were premature, and dismissed those charges due to the District's failure to disclose all evidence to the Respondent when the charges were referred to arbitration.

The result was the same in In re Tara Trongone/School District of the City of Gloucester City, Docket No. 173-6/16 (9/12/16); and in In re Kevin Karp/Barnegat Township Board of Education, Docket No. 102-4/16 (5/26/16) where arbitrators granted motions to dismiss when the respective employers failed to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-11 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b) in part by relying upon unsigned and unsworn statements made to superintendents who did not directly participate in the related investigations.

Relying upon the above cited decisions the Respondent here makes the point that the District's comment in its statement of evidence that there may be other supporting evidence demonstrates that the District is not ready to proceed as required by TEACHNJ. Similarly, the Respondent contends that the Petitioner's reliance on unsworn and unnamed statements places it (the Respondent) in an unfair position forcing it to guess the identity of its accusers. The Respondent maintains that the District was obligated upon filing the charges to disclose the identity of the staff members upon whose statements Cassidy and Fitzgerald relied.

PETITIONER

In its brief opposing the Motion the Petitioner raised three arguments. First, it represented that it reference in its original statement of evidence that there may be additional evidence was a mistake; and, that there is no other evidence or documents to be submitted in this case other than its previous submission and the new affidavits by Fitzgerald and Cassidy submitted with this response which includes the names of the staff members who provided statements to Cassidy. In her most recent affidavit Fitzgerald certifies that the remark in the District's original statement of evidence that there may be additional evidence was an error, and that the statement of evidence provided with the tenure charges (apparently, now with the inclusion of staff member names on the statements in Exhibit 04) is complete.

Second, the Petitioner argued that it should be permitted to "correct or amend" its tenure charges by providing the identity of the staff members who wrote statements about Fetty to Cassidy. The District noted that Fitzgerald's most recent affidavit indicates that those names should have been included in its original statement of evidence and were added to those statements as attached to her most recent affidavit. The District contends that since those names are now provided it removes any prejudice to the Respondent's ability to respond to the charges.

Third, the Petitioner argued that Fitzgerald's original affidavit and most recent affidavit should be accepted because she did have first-hand knowledge of and was directly involved in participating in the investigation that led to the tenure charges against Fetty, and that both her statements were sworn. Additionally, the District argued that Cassidy's now sworn affidavit submitted with its (the District's) response to the Motion should be accepted as a correction or amendment to the tenure charges because it supports Fitzgerald's certifications and the letters submitted to both of them by the staff members.

The Petitioner concludes its response arguing that the cases relied upon by the Respondent have different fact patterns than this case, and that with the additional information provided in its response to the Motion, the Respondent is no longer prejudiced in proceeding to develop its case.

DISCUSSION

I remind the parties that the Motion before me does not concern the merits of the Petitioner's charges, but rather the procedural issue of whether the Petitioner's filing of the charges complied with both the statute and the rules. Consequently, I can not consider in this Decision whether Fetty made any inappropriate remarks to other staff or violated the rubric, his job description or District policies. My Decision here is limited to whether the charges were properly filed.

An initial view of the Petitioner's original statement of evidence reveals that the District's mention that there may be other evidence; and its reliance on anonymous written statements certainly creates doubt about the specificity and reliability of its charges. Standing alone, anonymous statements do not comply with the decision in In re Gordon above because since they are not sworn statements, they cannot be considered part of or included in the sworn statement of evidence. Such anonymous statements present an untenable position for any respondent; hindering his or her ability to prepare a legitimate defense. Therefore, such anonymous statements seem to violate the intent of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11; N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1(b)(3); and, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b)(1).

Although the wording of *N.J.S.*A. 18A:6-11 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b)(1) requiring a statement of evidence supporting the charges may not clearly enunciate what needs to be included therein, the same cannot be said about N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1(b)(3). That provision clearly requires that the employing board of education provide "all evidence" including "statements of witness, and a list of witnesses" to the affected employee or his/her representative. Subsumed within the requirement to provide "all evidence" and "statements of witnesses" is the need to provide the names of the authors of any statements a board relies upon. Anonymous statements are of no reliable or probative value and their submission in a statement of evidence is a failure to comply with the statutory requirement.

It appears from its response to the Motion that the District here realized that the statements in its Exhibit 04 were insufficient, and it sought to correct the problem by providing the names of the authors of those statements through Fitzgerald's supplemental affidavit. I appreciate the District's effort in its response to the Motion to correct (or to at least attempt to correct) its remark in its original statement of evidence that there may be additional evidence, and its effort to attempt to correct its original submission of anonymous statements. It asserts those were both errors that it was correcting with Fitzgerald's supplemental affidavit. Fair enough, I understand why it would make sense to accept those corrections so that a hearing may proceed on the merits of the charges.

But I cannot accept Fitzgerald's recent affidavit to correct those errors and this Motion must be granted for two particular reasons. First, a board's obligation to submit all evidence it intends to rely upon when filing tenure charges is a statutory requirement. It appears to me that the Legislature understood that the revocation of tenure was a serious matter and it (the Legislature) intended board's of education to reveal all of the evidence it would rely upon and to be fully prepared to proceed on such charges before filing tenure charges. There is no provision I am aware of in the TEACHNJ statutory scheme that provides that a board can amend or supplement its original statement of evidence after filing charges in order to subsequently comply with N.J.S.A 18A:6-11 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1(b)(3) after having originally failed to comply with those statutes. The appropriate procedure, I believe, is that such a board must refile its charges.

The decisions cited above support that position. The arbitrators in In re Neal Gordon; In re Marie Ebert; In re Tara Trongone; and, In re Kevin Karp: were vigilant about enforcing the "statement of evidence" requirements in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b)(1) and the "all evidence" and "statements of witnesses" requirement in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1(b)(3). By enforcing those requirements board's of education will be consistently on notice to carefully and fully comply with those requirements when they file tenure charges.

Second, even if I were inclined to accept Fitzgerald's supplemental affidavit that there was no additional evidence for the District to present in this case; the mere providing of the names of the authors of the statements in Exhibit 04 was insufficient to cure those originally anonymous statements. The District's own statement of evidence revealed that all of the staff members who submitted statements declined to file affirmative action claims, and, apparently, they all requested that their statements remain confidential. I can only infer from that information, that those staff members were/are reluctant to give evidentiary level statements. Based upon those stated positions the Respondent can not be certain of the veracity or the accuracy of those statements with just the names of the authors of those statements. At the very least, for those statements to have legal viability – or at least for the statements the District intends to rely upon to be included in the sworn statement of evidence as discussed in In re Gordon – they need to be sworn and signed by the authors of the statements

Based upon all of the above the Respondent's Motion to Dismiss the Charges is granted because the District failed to comply with the statutory and procedural filing requirements. However, this ruling is without prejudice to the District's right to re-file charges that comply with those filing requirements and procedural provisions. However, any refilling must contain sworn and signed statements from employees who claim inappropriate behavior by Fetty.

The District shall immediately reinstate the Respondent with full back pay and benefits, as if he were in a principal position, but this Decision is not intended to require the District to return the Respondent to the principal position at the Pennsauken (or at the Gloucester) Campus.

Accordingly, I issue the following:

AWARD

The Motion to Dismiss is granted without prejudice to the District's right to re-file tenure charges. The District shall reinstate the Respondent with full back pay and benefits consistent with the above Conclusion. If the charges are refilled, the District must provide sworn statements from those staff members it chooses to rely upon.

WHEREAS, the Petitioner commenced an action against the Respondent before the Commissioner of Education by way of Petition of Appeal, which action was captioned Cindy Matute-Brown v. Golden Door Charter School Board of Trustees, OAL Docket. No.: EDU 17937-

The Parties certify that they have not assigned any claims and will not file any claims based upon any facts leading up to the date of the signing of this Settlement Agreement and Release.

7. No Admission of Liability:

(a) Respondent expressly denies liability for any and all of the Petitioner's claims, whether known or unknown, alleged in the Complaint. It is understood and agreed between the Petitioner and Respondent that this Agreement will not be construed at any time or for any purpose as an admission by the Respondent of any act or omission alleged by Petitioner, or any acts or omissions that could have been alleged by Petitioner, or any liability or responsibility for any wrongdoing of any kind;

(b) The Parties expressly agree that neither of them shall be considered to be a "prevailing party" as a result of this Agreement; and

(c) The Parties further agree that this Agreement shall not be offered, used or considered as evidence in any proceeding of any type, except to the extent necessary to enforce the terms of this Agreement. The Parties further agree and understand that they shall not provide a copy of this Agreement to any person, other than their attorneys, except if compelled to do so by legal process.

8. Attorneys' Fees:

This Settlement Agreement and Release shall be binding and inure to the benefit of Petitioner and her spouse, heirs, representatives, successors and assigns, and to Respondent, its present or former departments, elected and appointed officials, officers, directors, agents, administrators, board members, attorneys, representatives, past and present employees, and any and all of their respective heirs, representatives, successors and assigns.

10. Covenant Not to Sue:

The Parties covenant that no other claim shall at any time hereinafter be filed against any party relating to any event or matter that was or could have been raised in the Complaint.

11. Confidentiality of Agreement:

The Petitioner agrees that, going forward, the amounts and fact of the payments described herein, any and all consideration provided herein, any and all discussions, communications and correspondence leading to this Agreement, which could give rise to an inference as to the parties involved shall be kept confidential, to the extent permitted by law. The Petitioner also agree that, pursuant to this Agreement, no party has admitted liability, nor has any party succeeded on the merits of the case. The Petitioner is precluded from disclosing any and all events, conduct, statements, and/or communications giving rise to, forming the basis for, or relating in any way to any and all of the claims asserted, which would give rise to an inference that a party has succeeded on the merits of the case. It is the Parties' understanding, agreement and expectation that this confidentiality provision shall apply to the fullest extent permissible by law, and shall preclude the Petitioner, her agents or representatives, from voluntarily or otherwise testifying at or participating in any proceeding, hearing, trial or preparation for hearing or trial, concerning the matters covered by this confidentiality provision, unless compelled to do so by law or by court order. The sole consideration for this confidentiality provision is the mutuality of the obligations of the parties with respect thereto.

The Parties mutually agree not to make any disparaging remarks about any party or former party to the litigation. The Parties further agree that they will not speak to the press or media including, but not limited to, television, newspaper, radio or internet press or media regarding any aspect of this matter, or any of the underlying facts and circumstances. The Parties agree that if they are solicited by the press or media for a comment regarding this matter, or any of the underlying facts or circumstances, their only responses will be that they do not have a comment.

The Petitioner also acknowledges that this settlement being made with a public entity is subject to disclosure, notwithstanding this confidentiality clause, in accordance with the Open Public Meetings Act, N.J.S.A. 10:4-6, et. seq.; Open Public Records Act, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1, et. seq.; any and all Federal or New Jersey statutes or regulations governing public entity meetings and disclosures including all case law interpreting same.

12. Future Employment

The Petitioner agrees to not seek any future employment from the Respondent.

13. Recusal

The Parties acknowledge that Petitioner presently is employed by the State of New Jersey Office of Charter and Renaissance Schools within the New Jersey Department of Education. STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner challenges the short-term suspension imposed by the Board. The petitioner's request for a hearing was granted and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on May 30, 2017, for hearing as a contested case.

During a conference call held on June 6, 2017, the parties advised that the suspension had been served already; no other discipline was pending; nothing would appear on the transcript, and there were no immediate consequences to the suspension. The parties also reported that the student would be graduating in a few days and the case was over. The parties agreed to discuss disposition and advise the undersigned.

On September 14, 2018, correspondence was sent to the parties inquiring as to the status of this matter. Neither counsel provided the courtesy of a reply. Over two years have elapsed since the transmittal and filing of this matter, and nothing has been heard from either party since the June 6, 2017, conference. Based upon all of the foregoing I FIND that this matter should be and is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

WHEREAS, A.B. and C.B. currently attend school in the District; and

WHEREAS, on November 19, 2018, following notice to the Parent and a hearing, the Board determined by a roll-call vote that A.B. and C.B. do not reside within the District and are thus ineligible to attend school in the District; and

3. The Board shall permit the Parent to attend her son's graduation ceremony at the conclusion of the 2018-2019 school year.

6. In consideration of the above, Parent, individually and on behalf of A.B. and C.B., hereby forever and fully waives and releases the Board, its members, officers, administrators, agents, servants, employees, or assigns from any and all claims that have accrued as of the date of this Agreement, and that may accrue through June 30, 2019, under any law, regulation, or legal theory, including without limitation:

Nothing in the release set forth in this Paragraph shall be construed as a release or waiver of any claims between the Parties seeking to enforce any term or provision of this Agreement.

7. Parent understands and acknowledges that should she breach any term of this agreement, including, but not limited to the confidentiality provisions of paragraph 5, the Board may immediately seek to collect tuition from Parent for the full period of time during which A.B. and C.B. attended school in the District, but were not District residents.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

T.C., on behalf of minor child, P.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Monmouth Regional High School District, Monmouth County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Pro se petitioner filed an appeal in April 2019 seeking emergent relief on behalf of her son, P.S., who was expelled from Monmouth Regional High School (MRHS) and placed on home instruction following an incident in which P.S. allegedly threatened a teacher during class in March 2019. Petitioner contested the Board's action and sought an order to return her son to the classroom to complete his classes for the 2018-2019 school year. Emergent relief was denied in May 2019, and the underlying petition appealing the Board's disciplinary action remained pending at the OAL.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: subsequent to the denial of emergent relief, a prehearing telephone conference in this matter was scheduled for June 26, 2019; petitioner was provided with appropriate notice, but failed to answer her phone to participate in the scheduled call; the Board then filed a motion to dismiss for failure to appear at the prehearing conference; petitioner emailed the Board and the OAL after the filing of the motion to dismiss to say that she did not receive the phone call from OAL to initiate the prehearing conference on June 26, 2019; subsequent efforts to initiate telephone conferences to address the status of the pending case failed, as petitioner never answered her phone; petitioner made no further filing in opposition to the Board's motion to dismiss. The ALJ concluded that petitioner has been dilatory in prosecuting her appeal, effectively abandoning the prosecution of her petition. Accordingly, the Board's motion to dismiss was granted and the file was returned to the Department of Education.

Upon comprehensive review of the record, and for the reasons stated in the Initial Decision, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's determination that the petition of appeal should be dismissed for failure to appear and/or prosecute. Accordingly, the Initial Decision was adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition was dismissed.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

T.C., on behalf of minor child, P.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Monmouth Regional High School District, Monmouth County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Pro se petitioner filed an appeal in April 2019 seeking emergent relief on behalf of her son, P.S., who was expelled from Monmouth Regional High School (MRHS) and placed on home instruction following an incident in which P.S. allegedly threatened a teacher during class in March 2019. Petitioner contested the Board's action and sought an order to return her son to the classroom to complete his classes for the 2018-2019 school year. Emergent relief was denied in May 2019, and the underlying petition appealing the Board's disciplinary action remained pending at the OAL.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: subsequent to the denial of emergent relief, a prehearing telephone conference in this matter was scheduled for June 26, 2019; petitioner was provided with appropriate notice, but failed to answer her phone to participate in the scheduled call; the Board then filed a motion to dismiss for failure to appear at the prehearing conference; petitioner emailed the Board and the OAL after the filing of the motion to dismiss to say that she did not receive the phone call from OAL to initiate the prehearing conference on June 26, 2019; subsequent efforts to initiate telephone conferences to address the status of the pending case failed, as petitioner never answered her phone; petitioner made no further filing in opposition to the Board's motion to dismiss. The ALJ concluded that petitioner has been dilatory in prosecuting her appeal, effectively abandoning the prosecution of her petition. Accordingly, the Board's motion to dismiss was granted and the file was returned to the Department of Education.

Upon comprehensive review of the record, and for the reasons stated in the Initial Decision, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's determination that the petition of appeal should be dismissed for failure to appear and/or prosecute. Accordingly, the Initial Decision was adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition was dismissed.

MOTION TO DISMISS
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 05628-19
AGENCY DKT. NO. 82-4/19

T.C. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD P.S., Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE MONMOUTH REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY,
Respondent.

T.C., petitioner, pro se

Samantha Dev, Esq., for respondent (Capehart Scatchard, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 8, 2019 Decided: July 30, 2019

BEFORE DAVID M. FRITCH, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The petitioner, T.C., initiated the present action by filing a petition seeking emergent relief on behalf of her son, P.S., who was a student at Monmouth Regional High School (MRHS). MRHS alleged that P.S. verbally threatened a teacher during class on March 21, 2019. Following an expulsion hearing before the MHRS Board (Board) on April 2, 2019, P.S. was expelled from MRHS and placed on home instruction pending placement at the Class Academy school beginning in the fall of 2019. On April 26, 2019, the petitioner appealed the Board's action and filed for emergent relief, seeking an order immediately returning P.S. to MRHS for the remainder of the school year to complete his classes.[1] The motion was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was heard on April 30, 2019. The emergent relief motion was denied in an order dated May 1, 2019.

Following the denial of emergent relief to allow P.S. to return to MRHS pending the appeal of MRHS' disciplinary action, the underlying petition to appeal MRHS' disciplinary action remained pending before the OAL. The matter was scheduled for a telephone prehearing conference and, on June 18, 2019, the parties were given notice of a telephone prehearing conference on the matter to be held on June 26, 2019, at 3:30 p.m. The petitioner failed to answer her phone to participate in the scheduled pre-hearing conference call, and on June 28, 2019, the respondent filed the present motion to dismiss the petitioner's petition for her failure to appear on the prehearing conference call pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4. Later that day, the petitioner responded via email to the respondent and OAL that, while she was aware of and available for the scheduled telephone conference, she did not receive the phone call from OAL to initiate the conference call on June 26, 2019. The petitioner was unresponsive to subsequent efforts by the OAL on July 3, 2019, and July 8, 2019, to initiate telephone conferences to discuss the status of the pending case and made no further filing in opposition to the respondent's present motion.

[1] As found in the previous hearing on the petitioner's motion for emergent relief, the Board recommended that P.S. be transferred to the CLASS Academy, an alternative high school within the District, beginning in the fall of 2019. At the time of the hearing on the emergent motion in April 2019, P.S. was a junior in high school, but had only completed 25 of the 120 credits required to graduate. MRHS does not have a credit recovery program that would allow P.S. to complete these credits in time for him to graduate next year. CLASS Academy offers a credit recovery program that would allow P.S. to make up the credits he needs to graduate high school next year. Although P.S. and his mother indicated at the April 2019, hearing that they were willing to try CLASS Academy starting in the fall, they still wanted P.S. returned to MRHS to finish out his classes in the current school year. The current school year at MRHS ended on June 17, 2019.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On April 26, 2019, the New Jersey Department of Education received the underlying petition of appeal and motion for emergent relief. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was filed on April 26, 2019. N.J.S.A. 52:14F-5(e), (f), and (g) and N.J.A.C. 1:6A-1 through 18.5. Oral argument on the motion for emergent relief was held on April 30, 2019, and the motion was denied in an order dated May 1, 2019. On June 18, 2019, the parties were given notice that a prehearing telephone conference on the underlying petition to appeal the school's disciplinary action was scheduled for June 26, 2019, at 3:30 p.m. The petitioner did not answer her telephone when called by OAL staff to participate in the scheduled telephone conference. On June 28, 2019, the respondent filed the present motion to dismiss the petitioner's petition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.2, the record on the motion remained open until July 8, 2019, to permit the petitioner to file and serve responsive papers to the respondent's motion. The petitioner responded to the respondent's filing with an email communication directed to the respondent and OAL staff on June 28, 2019, but made no further filing in opposition to the respondent's motion. OAL staff attempted to reach the petitioner via telephone to set up a conference call with the parties on July 3, 2019. The petitioner did not answer her phone and did not respond to a voice mail message left for her by OAL staff seeking a return telephone call. The petitioner was also unresponsive to voice mail left for her by OAL staff on July 8, 2019, seeking to set up a conference call to discuss the status of the pending matter. As neither party requested oral argument and no other responsive papers were received from the petitioner, the record on the motion closed July 8, 2019.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

A summary of the pertinent facts is undisputed and largely procedural, and I FIND the following FACTS:

1. The petitioner's motion for emergent relief was denied on May 1, 2019. Following denial of her emergent relief motion, both parties to this matter were contacted by OAL staff via email on May 21, 2019, seeking availability for a prehearing conference call on the petitioner's underlying petition. (Resp. Br. at Ex. A.)

2. On May 21, 2019, counsel for the respondent replied, via email, providing dates and times for their availability for a prehearing conference call. As late as June 18, 2019, however, the petitioner had not responded to provide her availability for a prehearing conference call. (Id.)

3. OAL staff followed up via telephone with the petitioner and secured her verbal confirmation of availability for a telephone call on June 26, 2019, at 3:30 p.m.

4. On June 18, 2019, the parties were notified by OAL staff, via email, of a telephone status conference to be held on June 26, 2019, at 3:30 p.m. (Id. at Ex. B.) The parties were informed that the OAL would initiate the conference call. (Id.)

5. On June 18, 2019, at 3:30 p.m., OAL staff called the parties to initiate the scheduled conference call. Respondent's counsel was reached via phone and waited on the call, however, despite numerous calls made to the petitioner's phone number, the petitioner did not answer the phone.

6. Because the petitioner did not answer the phone to participate in the call, the scheduled conference call could not take place.

7. Consistent with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4, no action was taken on the matter following the petitioner's failure to appear on the June 26, 2019, status conference call. The petitioner did not attempt to contact the OAL staff or respondent's counsel to inquire if the scheduled conference call was proceeding on the designated date and time, and no communication was received by the OAL from the petitioner in the twenty-four hours following the scheduled call to explain her non-appearance on the scheduled telephone call.

8. On June 28, 2019, at 1:04 p.m., two days after the petitioner's failure to appear on the scheduled conference call, the respondent filed the present motion, transmitting it via email to the OAL with a copy to the petitioner.

9. On June 28, 2019, at 1:45 p.m., the petitioner responded to the email from respondent's counsel transmitting the present motion to dismiss, relaying the following in an email to respondent's counsel and OAL staff:

> To whom it may concern:
>
> I waited by the phone from 3:00 pm till 3:45pm. No call came thru. It is not my fault.
>
> That I did not received [sic] phone call. Don't know what happened under these circumstances.
>
> The call did not come thru for some reasons as I mentioned I waited for phone call from the Court.
>
> It's a phone system – they don't always work properly I guess.
>
> For the most part, I don't need attorneys speaking on behalf of me and quoting – I did a nonappearance.
>
> It's Friday and I will not be in the office till Monday. I have no idea why the call did not come thru as I have arranged the conference with your assistance [sic] on the phone so it is my belief that I never got the call.
>
> I don't think you people understand . . . The educational system hurt my son. If you don't want him in the school[.]
>
> What's the argument about. I don't want this to get nasty because I am still disgusted by this whole thing.
>
> Sincerely,

[2] The petitioner in this matter is proceeding pro se, and it is unclear from the content of this email if her communications to the respondent and OAL on June 28, 2019, was intended to be a filing in opposition to the respondent's motion to dismiss or, in the absence of any other filing by the petitioner, the respondent's current motion is unopposed. For purposes of making a complete record, and in the absence of any further filing or communication from the petitioner, this tribunal shall regard this email as the petitioner's responsive filing to the respondent's motion and address the respondent's present motion on the merits.

10. On July 3, 2019, OAL staff attempted to contact the petitioner via telephone to set up a conference call with the parties to discuss the matter and to address any confusion the petitioner may have regarding the dismissal of her motion for emergent relief and proceedings on her underlying appeal of MRHS' disciplinary action against her son. The petitioner did not answer the phone and did not respond to a voicemail left for her by OAL staff asking her to contact the OAL regarding her case by the close of business on July 3, 2019.

11. On July 8, 2019, OAL staff again attempted to contact the petitioner via telephone to set up a conference call with the parties to discuss the status of the pending matter. The petitioner did not answer the phone and did not respond to a message left on her voicemail by OAL staff seeking her return telephone call by close of business on July 8, 2019.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The respondent's motion was filed seeking dismissal of the petitioner's petition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4. Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4:

> (a) If, after appropriate notice, neither a party nor a representative appears at any proceeding scheduled by the Clerk or judge, the judge shall hold the matter for one day before taking any action. If the judge does not receive an explanation for the nonappearance within one day, the judge shall, unless proceeding pursuant to (d) below, direct the Clerk to return the matter to the transmitting agency for appropriate disposition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.3(b) and (c).
> (b) If the nonappearing party submits an explanation in writing, a copy must be served on all other parties and the other parties shall be given an opportunity to respond.
>
> (c) If the judge receives an explanation:
>
> 1. If the judge concludes that there was good cause for the failure to appear, the judge shall reschedule the matter for hearing; or
> 2. If the judge concludes that there was no good cause for the failure to appear, the judge may refuse to reschedule the matter and shall issue an initial decision explaining the basis for that conclusion, or may > reschedule the matter and, at his or her discretion, order any of the following:

> i. The payment by the delinquent representative or party of costs in such amount as the judge shall fix, to the State of New Jersey or the aggrieved person;
>
> ii. The payment by the delinquent representative or party of reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees, to an aggrieved representative or party; or
> iii. Such other case-related action as the judge deems appropriate.
> (d) If the appearing party requires an initial decision on the merits, the party shall ask the judge for permission to present ex parte proofs. If no explanation for the failure to appear is received, and the circumstances require a decision on the merits, the judge may enter an initial decision on the merits based on the ex parte proofs, provided the failure to appear is memorialized in the decision.

Based upon the facts as detailed herein, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner was provided with appropriate notice of a scheduled proceeding, namely a telephone conference call which was to be held on June 26, 2019, at 3:30 p.m. The petitioner was provided written notice of this scheduled proceeding via email on June 18, 2019, (Resp. Br. at Ex. B) and the petitioner concedes in her email communications with the OAL that she was aware of the scheduled call and reported that she was waiting by the phone at the scheduled date and time for a call to initiate the scheduled conference. Despite receiving appropriate notice, neither the petitioner, nor her representative appeared on the scheduled conference call by answering any of the multiple phone calls placed to her by the OAL staff in an effort to participate in the scheduled conference call at the pre-determined date and time. As the petitioner herself conceded in her email communications to the respondent and OAL staff following the scheduled conference call, she "did a nonappearance." The petitioner has further been unresponsive to subsequent efforts by OAL staff to communicate with her regarding her pending matter on July 3, 2019, and July 8, 2019.

Although the OAL received email communications from the petitioner on June 28, 2019, regarding her failure to appear on the scheduled conference call on June 26, 2019, the OAL did not receive "an explanation for the nonappearance within one day" of > reschedule the matter and, at his or her discretion, order any of the following:

> i. The payment by the delinquent representative or party of costs in such amount as the judge shall fix, to the State of New Jersey or the aggrieved person;
>
> ii. The payment by the delinquent representative or party of reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees, to an aggrieved representative or party; or
> iii. Such other case-related action as the judge deems appropriate.
> (d) If the appearing party requires an initial decision on the merits, the party shall ask the judge for permission to present ex parte proofs. If no explanation for the failure to appear is received, and the circumstances require a decision on the merits, the judge may enter an initial decision on the merits based on the ex parte proofs, provided the failure to appear is memorialized in the decision.

Based upon the facts as detailed herein, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner was provided with appropriate notice of a scheduled proceeding, namely a telephone conference call which was to be held on June 26, 2019, at 3:30 p.m. The petitioner was provided written notice of this scheduled proceeding via email on June 18, 2019, (Resp. Br. at Ex. B) and the petitioner concedes in her email communications with the OAL that she was aware of the scheduled call and reported that she was waiting by the phone at the scheduled date and time for a call to initiate the scheduled conference. Despite receiving appropriate notice, neither the petitioner, nor her representative appeared on the scheduled conference call by answering any of the multiple phone calls placed to her by the OAL staff in an effort to initiate the call at the pre-determined date and time. As the petitioner herself conceded in her email communications to the respondent and OAL staff following the scheduled conference call, she "did a nonappearance." The petitioner has further been unresponsive to subsequent efforts by OAL staff to communicate with her regarding her pending matter on July 3, 2019, and July 8, 2019.

Although the OAL received email communications from the petitioner on June 28, 2019, regarding her failure to appear on the scheduled conference call on June 26, 2019, the OAL did not receive "an explanation for the nonappearance within one day" of the petitioner's non-appearance within the meaning of N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(a). Having not received a explanation from the petitioner to explain her non-appearance on the June 26, 2019, conference call within a day of her non-appearance on the scheduled call, N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4 directs that this tribunal "shall, unless proceeding pursuant to (d) below, direct the Clerk to return the matter to the transmitting agency for appropriate disposition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.3(b) and (c)." As the respondent has not requested a decision on the merits of the matter be issued ex parte, no further proceedings pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(d) are necessary. This tribunal, therefore, is left only with the mandate that the matter "shall" be returned to the transmitting agency for appropriate disposition. N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(a).

The use of the term "shall" in N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(a) is generally construed as mandatory as opposed to the statutory use of the term "may" which is permissive or directory. Franklin Estates, Inc. v. Edison, 142 N.J.Super. 179, 184 (App.Div. 1976). I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has been dilatory in prosecuting her appeal, effectively abandoning the prosecution of her petition, has been unresponsive to communications from the OAL regarding her pending matter, and failed to present good cause in a timely manner as to why her failure to appear for a scheduled conference should be excused pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(c). A plain reading of N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(a), therefore, requires that the matter now be returned to the transmitting agency for appropriate disposition. See also N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.3(b).

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, the respondent's motion to dismiss the petition is GRANTED and I ORDER that the clerk return the case to the transmitting agency for appropriate disposition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.3(b) and (c).

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Final Decision

D. Lynn Schwartz,

v.

James Gallagher, Avalon-Stone Harbor Board of Education,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (SEC) have been reviewed. The SEC found that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i) when he approached the Chief School Administrator's subordinate employee to inquire whether she would be interested in assuming the position of Chief School Administrator, even though that position was not vacant. The SEC recommended a penalty of reprimand. The SEC's decision was forwarded pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) for the Commissioner's final determination on the recommended penalty. Respondent did not file exceptions to the recommended penalty, nor was the SEC's underlying finding of a violation appealed to the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the SEC. Accordingly, the respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

James Gallagher,
Avalon-Stone Harbor Board of Education, Cape May County,
Respondent

I. Procedural History

This matter arises from a Complaint filed on January 2, 2018, by D. Lynn Schwartz (Complainant), alleging that James Gallagher (Respondent), a member of the Stone Harbor Board of Education (SHBOE) and the SHBOE representative on the Avalon Board of Education (ABOE), violated the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. By correspondence dated January 10, 2018, Complainant was notified that the Complaint was deficient, and required amendment before the School Ethics Commission (Commission) could accept her filing. On January 24, 2018, Complainant cured all defects and filed an Amended Complaint (Complaint) that was deemed compliant with the requirements detailed in N.J.A.C. 6A:38-6.7. The Complaint alleges that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i), and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members (Code).

On January 29, 2018, the Complaint was sent to Respondent, via regular and certified mail, notifying him that charges were filed against him with the Commission, and advising that he had twenty (20) days to file a responsive pleading. On February 9, 2018, Respondent filed a Motion to Dismiss in Lieu of Answer (Motion to Dismiss). On February 27, 2018, Complainant filed a response to the Motion to Dismiss.

After review, and at its meeting on April 24, 2018, the Commission voted to grant the Motion to Dismiss as to the alleged violations of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(j), but to deny the Motion to Dismiss as to the alleged violations of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i). The Commission also directed Respondent to file an Answer to Complaint as to the remaining allegations, which he did on May 2, 2018.

The parties were notified by correspondence dated May 14, 2018, that this matter would be placed on the Commission's agenda for its meeting on May 22, 2018. At its meeting on May 22, 2018, and after considering the parties' filings, the Commission voted to transmit the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a plenary hearing on the remaining allegations in the Complaint, namely the alleged violations of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i). By correspondence dated May 30, 2018, the above-captioned matter was transmitted to the OAL.

At the OAL, an initial telephone conference was conducted on August 2, 2018, during which discovery issues were discussed. Initial Decision at 2. On August 31, 2018, Respondent faxed a letter to Administrative Law Judge Catherine A. Tuohy (ALJ Tuohy), and advised that "he was withdrawing from the proceeding based on the advice of his physician." Id. By correspondence dated September 11, 2018, Respondent was advised that because he is the Respondent, and not the Complainant, he is not permitted to "withdraw" from the matter. Id. Respondent was further advised that, because he was unable to withdraw, it was expected that he would participate in the next telephone conference, which was scheduled for October 3, 2018. Id. Despite this advisement, Respondent failed to participate in the telephone conference on October 3, 2018. Id. The matter was ultimately scheduled for a hearing on May 2, 2019, but, once again, Respondent failed to appear. Id. Nonetheless, ALJ Tuohy conducted a hearing on May 2, 2019, and the record closed. Id.

On May 9, 2019, ALJ Tuohy issued an Initial Decision detailing her findings of fact and legal analysis. Based on her findings of facts and legal analysis, ALJ Tuohy concluded that Complainant had proven, by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence, that Respondent's actions violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i). Based on her legal conclusions, ALJ Tuohy recommended a penalty of reprimand. Initial Decision at 5-7.

The Commission acknowledged receipt of ALJ Tuohy's Initial Decision on May 9, 2019; therefore, the forty-five (45) day statutory period for the Commission to issue a Final Decision was June 24, 2019. Prior to June 24, 2019, the Commission requested a forty-five (45) day extension of time to issue its decision so as to allow the Commission, which only meets monthly, the opportunity to receive and review the full record, including the parties' Exceptions (if any). Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8, and for good cause shown, the Commission was granted an extension until August 8, 2019. Respondent filed Exceptions to the Initial Decision on or about May 23, 2019. Complainant did not file her own Exceptions, and did not file a reply to Respondent's Exceptions.

The Commission considered the full record in this matter, including ALJ Tuohy's Initial Decision and Respondent's Exceptions, at a special meeting on June 19, 2019. At its regular meeting on July 23, 2019, and for the reasons more fully detailed below, the Commission voted to adopt ALJ Tuohy's findings of fact; to adopt the legal conclusion that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e); to adopt the legal conclusion that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i); and to accept the recommended penalty of a reprimand.

II. Initial Decision

As set forth in the Initial Decision, ALJ Tuohy issued the following findings of facts:

1. Complainant has been a member of the ABOE for twenty (20) years, the last eight (8) of which she has served as Board President. Initial Decision at 2.

2. The ABOE and SHBOE, although separate boards of education, share the services of the Chief School Administrator (CSA) (Ms. Stacey Tracey) and the Supervisor of Curriculum (Dr. Renee Murtaugh). Id.

3. Respondent was a member of the SHBOE for approximately one year, and was the Stone Harbor representative on the ABOE. Id.

4. Prior to the start of the December 20, 2017, ABOE meeting, Respondent waived Dr. Murtaugh into the hallway and asked her if she would be interested in becoming the CSA of the SHBOE. Id.

5. Dr. Murtaugh said no, and Respondent said he was glad he asked. The two then returned to the ABOE's meeting room. Id.

6. Dr. Murtaugh subsequently advised Ms. Tracey (the CSA) what Respondent had asked. Id.

7. After Dr. Murtaugh disclosed her conversation with Respondent to Ms. Tracey, Ms. Tracey then reported it to Complainant. Id.

8. After conferring with counsel, Complainant filed an ethics complaint against Respondent. Id.

9. On February 2, 2018, Respondent sent an email to Complainant admitting that his actions on December 20, 2017, were completely outside of the scope of his authority as a board member, and decided that he would not challenge the ethics complaint. Id. at 3.

10. Respondent also apologized and indicated that, as a former school district administrator for over thirty (30) years, he should have been aware his actions were not within his authority. Id.

11. Respondent requested a second chance to serve the students of ABOE and SHBOE, but if that request was not possible, he would submit a letter of resignation. Id.

12. Complainant replied to Respondent's email by thanking him for his apology, and indicating that any decision about resignation from the Board was completely his own. Id.

13. During her testimony as a witness for Complainant, Dr. Murtaugh confirmed that, at the ABOE meeting on December 20, 2017, she was waived out of the meeting room by Respondent. Id.

14. Dr. Murtaugh's testimony further confirmed that while speaking with Respondent in the hallway, he asked her if a position of CSA was created for the SHBOE, would she be interested in the position. Id.

15. Dr. Murtaugh also testified that she replied no to Respondent's inquiry, and Respondent replied that he was glad he asked. Id.

16. Dr. Murtaugh acknowledged that, upon returning to the meeting room, she told Ms. Tracey about the conversation with Respondent. Id.

17. During her testimony as a witness for Complainant, Ms. Tracey stated that she watched Respondent waive Dr. Murtaugh into the hallway, and confirmed that Dr. Murtaugh advised her (Ms. Tracey) about her (Dr. Murtaugh's) conversation with Respondent when she returned to the meeting. Id. at 4

18. Ms. Tracey acknowledged that she subsequently advised Complainant about the conversation that took place between Dr. Murtaugh and Respondent. Id. at 4.

19. Respondent submitted his letter of resignation (as a Board member) to the Board on or about November 14, 2018. Id.

20. Respondent did not appear at the hearing on May 2, 2019, and did not otherwise offer any testimony or witnesses in support of his defense. Id.

Based upon due consideration of the testimonial and documentary evidence presented at the hearing, and after having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses and assess their credibility, ALJ Tuohy found the testimony of Complainant and her witnesses, namely Dr. Murtaugh and Ms. Tracey, to be fact. Initial Decision at 4.

In light of the facts offered by Complainant, Dr. Murtaugh, and Ms. Tracey, ALJ Tuohy found that Respondent's actions at the ABOE meeting, specifically, initiating a conversation with Dr. Murtaugh about her interest in serving as the CSA of the SHBOE, was beyond the scope of his duties as a Board member and had the potential to compromise the Board. Initial Decision at 5. As a Board member, ALJ Tuohy noted that Respondent could only act with the remainder of the Board and vote on matters properly presented to the Board as a whole. Id. Importantly, none of these issues discussed with Dr. Murtaugh at the ABOE meeting were before the Board. Id. Not only was there no position to fill, as Ms. Stacey Tracey was the current CSA of both the ABOE and SHBOE, but Dr. Murtaugh was Ms. Stacey's subordinate. Id. By inquiring of Dr. Murtaugh whether she was interested in her boss's job, Respondent undermined the CSA, thwarted the chain of command, and compromised the CSA in the proper performance of her duties. Id. Respondent's actions also compromised Dr. Murtaugh in the proper performance of her duties as the Director of Curriculum, and as someone who reported to Ms. Tracey, the CSA. Id. Respondent owed both Dr. Murtaugh and Ms. Tracey his support in the proper performance of their respective duties, and his inquiry of Dr. Murtaugh undermined and harmed both of them in the performance of their duties. Id. As such, ALJ Tuohy found that Complainant had proven, by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence, that Respondent's actions violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i). Id. at 5-6.

In light of her legal conclusions, and because Respondent – a former district administrator for more than thirty (30) years - "was aware" that his actions were not within his authority, he issued an apology, and he resigned from the Board, ALJ Tuohy concluded that a penalty of reprimand was warranted. Initial Decision at 6.

III. Exceptions

Although Respondent failed to attend the hearing before ALJ Tuohy, Respondent filed Exceptions with the Commission on or about May 23, 2019. In his Exceptions, Respondent admitted that his actions were beyond the scope of his authority, and that he should have notified Ms. Schwartz, in advance, of the decision ("conceived" by him (Respondent) and others) to approach Dr. Murtaugh to see if she would be interested in serving as the CSA of the Stone Harbor School District (SHSD). As for why he approached Dr. Murtaugh, Respondent explained that after the solicitor explained that the SHSD could have its own CSA, and after discussing it with the other Board members, they decided that the administrative costs of having a CSA would be "an issue of concern." However, they discussed that Dr. Murtaugh is already receiving a salary from the SHSD, and she was currently doing a "fine job," so they thought that if she would be willing to be the CSA of the SHSD, it would help with the costs. If she declined, then it would not be feasible to appoint a CSA to the SHSD. As it turned out, Dr. Murtaugh declined and no further action was taken. Respondent understands the Commission must issue a decision and that his actions constitute a violation; however, he "implores the members of the...Commission to consider that [his] reputation, which was built over decades, could come to ruin due to poor judgment in an instance which [he] regret[s]."

Complainant did not file her own Exceptions, and did not file a reply to Respondent's Exceptions.

IV. Analysis and Decision

Upon careful and independent review of the full record, the Commission adopts ALJ Tuohy's findings of fact; adopts the legal conclusion that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e); and adopts the legal conclusion that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i). The Commission agrees that by inquiring about an employee's willingness to serve as the CSA at a time when the CSA position was not vacant, and when the inquiry was made of the CSA's subordinate, Respondent took action beyond the scope of his duties as a Board member in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), and took action which compromised both Ms. Tracey and Dr. Murtaugh in the performance of their respective duties in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i).

V. Penalty

Based upon the legal conclusion that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i), and in recognition of the fact that Respondent – a former district administrator for more than thirty (30) years - "was aware" that his actions were not within his authority, he issued an apology, and he resigned from the Board, ALJ Tuohy recommended a penalty of reprimand. After consideration, and for the reasons noted by ALJ Tuohy, the Commission adopts the recommended penalty of reprimand.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner for review of the Commission's recommended sanctions. Parties may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's findings of violations of the Act; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction and an appeal of the Commission's findings of violations of the Act.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanctions of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's findings of violations may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended sanctions to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's findings of violations must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4, et seq. within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. In such cases, the Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanctions will be deferred and incorporated into the Commissioner's review of the findings of violations on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's brief on appeal.

Agency Dkt. No. 108-5/19

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

In the Matter of the Certificates of Ranjan Chattopadhyay, School District of the Township of North Brunswick, Middlesex County.

For the Petitioner, Ari D. Schneider, Esq.

No appearance by or on behalf of Respondent, Ranjan Chattopadhyay

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on May 16, 2019, by way of an Order to Show Cause served by petitioner, the North Brunswick Township Board of Education (Board), upon the respondent, Ranjan Chattopadhyay, requiring respondent to show cause why an order should not be entered suspending his teaching certificate pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 for resigning without giving the notice required by his contract with petitioner. By notice dated June 12, 2019, the Office of Controversies and Disputes (Office) acknowledged receipt of proof that the Order to Show Cause had been served upon respondent and directed respondent to answer within 20 days.

No answer having yet been received, on July 3, 2019, the Office sent respondent a second notice, via regular and certified mail, directing that he file an answer within ten days. The notice advised that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(e), failure to answer would cause each allegation in petitioner's papers to be deemed admitted and might result in summary decision by the Commissioner. The copy of the notice that was sent via certified mail was returned as unclaimed. The copy of the notice sent via regular mail was not returned. No answer to the Order to Show Cause has been filed as of this date.

The affidavit submitted by the petitioner in this matter states that the respondent entered into a contract with the petitioner for employment from October 21, 2018 through June 30, 2019. On March 20, 2019 the respondent informed the district that he would not be fulfilling the term of his employment. Despite a warning that the failure to give 60 days notice prior to his resignation could jeopardize his certificate, the respondent resigned effective March 28, 2019. The respondent has not denied the allegations therein; therefore, the Commissioner deems such allegations to be admitted pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(e) and further deems them sufficient to justify suspension of respondent's teaching certification pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10.

Accordingly, summary decision is hereby granted to petitioner, and respondent's teaching certification is suspended for a period of one year from the filing date of this decision, a copy of which shall be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for implementation of the suspension.

Agency Dkt. No. 2-5/18A
SEC Dkt. No. D07-17

New Jersey Commissioner of Education
Final Decision

In the Matter of Kenyatta Stewart, College Achieve Paterson Charter School, Passaic County.

This matter involves an appeal of the School Ethics Commission's (SEC) March 28, 2018 determination that respondent Kenyatta Stewart – a newly appointed charter school trustee for the College Achieve Paterson Charter School – violated the School Ethics Act (Act) for failure to timely file his Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements (disclosure statements) in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26. Respondent ultimately filed his disclosure statements after the issuance of the SEC's February 27, 2018 Order to Show Cause (OTSC), but prior to its March 27, 2018 meeting. The SEC recommended a penalty of reprimand for the violation. Having carefully reviewed the SEC's decision and the record in its entirety, the Commissioner finds that the SEC's decision is supported by sufficient, credible evidence, and that respondent failed to establish that the decision is arbitrary, capricious or contrary to law. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1(a). Additionally, the Commissioner finds that a penalty of reprimand is appropriate.

By way of background, the Commissioner notes that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1, school officials must file disclosure statements with their local board secretaries annually, on or before April 30th. Additionally, after April 30th, newly elected or newly appointed board members or administrators must file their disclosure statements within thirty days of appointment or taking office. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(c), (d), (e), and (f). In this matter, respondent was appointed to the board of trustees in May 2017. He failed to file his disclosure statements within thirty days. Therefore, on February 5, 2018, the Passaic County Office of Education sent a reminder to respondent by regular mail and e-mail – with a copy to the charter school designee – that his disclosure statements had not yet been filed. Respondent points out that the address used on this correspondence was unfortunately not his home address, nor was it the charter school's address. Respondent also alleges that the reminder was sent to an old e-mail address, even though he had updated the charter school with his new e-mail address in September 2017. The SEC sent a letter on February 14, 2018 to the same incorrect address, with an e-mailed copy to the Business Administrator, informing respondent that failure to file his disclosure statements by February 21, 2018 would result in the SEC voting to issue an Order to Show Cause (OTSC). Accordingly, the SEC issued an OTSC at its meeting on February 27, 2018, sent again to the incorrect address with a copy to the Business Administrator. Thereafter, on March 5, 2018, respondent filed his disclosure statements. Respondent maintains that he never received any of the notifications or the OTSC, and that he only became aware of the OTSC when he was notified by the Business Administrator. In its decision dated March 28, 2018, the SEC found that respondent violated the Act for failure to timely file disclosure statements in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26, and recommended a penalty of reprimand for the violation.

In his appeal to the Commissioner, respondent argues that the SEC was out of time in filing its OTSC as it was more than 250 days after the disclosure statements were due, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.5(a) places a 180-day filing deadline on complaints before the SEC. Additionally, respondent contends that language in the rule proposal and in response to a comment in the rule adoption for N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.3 demonstrates that the SEC intends to send a warning notice letter prior to issuance of an OTSC for failure to file disclosure statements. 41 N.J.R. 26(a); 41 N.J.R. 2095(a). As such, respondent argues that he was deprived of due process because he was not provided with notice and an opportunity to correct any deficiencies before the issuance of the OTSC. He also maintains that he did not willfully violate the Act. Respondent further argues that the 30-day period provided for newly elected or newly appointed board members to submit disclosure statements in N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1 is only set forth in regulation, not statute, whereas N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 allows one year for new board members to complete the training program. Finally, respondent argues that even if respondent is found to have violated the Act, no penalty should be issued because his actions were de minimis.

In opposition, the SEC argues that its decision that respondent violated the Act was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable, as respondent admitted he failed to file his disclosure statements within the required timeframe. The SEC contends that the Commissioner should reject respondent's argument that this matter is out of time because N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.5(a) places a 180-day filing deadline on complaints alleging violations of the Act. The SEC explains that this matter was not initiated by a complaint, but rather by issuance of an OTSC pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6, which does not have a filing timeframe. Additionally, the SEC argues that respondent was provided with due process as he was given notice and an opportunity to respond to the OTSC – which he in fact utilized, as he did respond to the OTSC. The SEC contends that there is no requirement that it issue "warning letters" before the issuance of an OTSC. Nevertheless, the SEC maintains that it did issue two warning notices to respondent, and that his argument that he did not receive them is "undermined by the fact that Respondent did receive and respond to the OTSC, which was sent to him and copied to the charter school's designee in exactly the same manner as to the two prior correspondence(s)." (SEC opposition brief at 8). Finally, the SEC notes that its recommended penalty of a reprimand – the lowest level of penalty – is justified, as respondent failed to timely file his disclosure statements.

In reply, respondent argues that it is undisputed that he never received the notices sent by the SEC, as they were sent to the wrong street address and email address. Although the SEC claims they sent multiple notices, respondent contends that the argument is irrelevant because they sent them all to the same incorrect addresses. Additionally, respondent reiterates his argument about failing to meet the 180-day filing deadline. Finally, respondent argues that any violation of the Act should not warrant a penalty because he filed his disclosure statements three business days after the issuance of OTSC.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner finds that the decision of the SEC as to a determination of a violation of the Act is supported by sufficient credible evidence, and the respondent has not established that the SEC's decision is arbitrary, capricious, or contrary to law. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1(a). Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1, respondent – as a newly appointed charter school trustee in May 2017 – was required to file his disclosure statements within thirty days. It is undisputed that respondent did not file his disclosure statements until March 5, 2018, well beyond thirty days from May 2017. As such, respondent failed to timely file his disclosure statements in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26.

The Commissioner does not find respondent's arguments as to whether a violation occurred to be persuasive. With respect to his timing argument, the Commissioner notes that this matter was initiated by way of an OTSC, not a complaint, and therefore the 180-day deadline for the filing of complaints does not apply in this case. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6. Additionally, respondent had been in continual violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26 at the time the SEC issued the OTSC, as he had not yet filed his overdue disclosure statements; therefore, a statute of limitations would not apply in this circumstance, even if one existed. Furthermore, respondent's argument that the SEC waited more than 250 days after the disclosure statements were due to file its OTSC undermines his own argument that he did not violate the Act, because it clearly demonstrates how late respondent was in filing his disclosure statements. Regarding his argument that he did not receive any warning letters, such argument does not affect whether a violation occurred. It is undisputed that the disclosure statements were due many months before respondent ultimately submitted them. Finally, the Commissioner notes that this is not the proper forum for a challenge to the regulatory requirement that newly elected or appointed school officials have 30 days to file disclosure statements, set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1.

With respect to the appropriate penalty, while the Commissioner is sympathetic to respondent's argument that he did not receive the notices or the OTSC from the SEC, the Commissioner finds that a reprimand – the lowest penalty – is the appropriate penalty in this matter. The Commissioner notes that there is no requirement that the SEC issue warning notices prior to issuance of an OTSC; the SEC does so as a courtesy. With respect to service of the OTSC, it must be noted that the order was mailed to an address in Tinton Falls, Monmouth County, when the College Achieve Paterson Charter School is located in Paterson, Passaic County; yet the SEC failed to address this fact and instead argues that respondent must have received it because he did respond to the OTSC. However, respondent's argument that the Business Administrator alerted him to the OTSC is consistent with the fact that the Business Administrator was copied electronically. Nevertheless, as respondent received the OTSC – albeit not from the SEC – he had the opportunity to respond to it, which he did. The Commissioner must note that respondent was still months late in filing his disclosure statements. Given the lengthy time that respondent remained out of compliance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26, the Commissioner finds that a penalty of reprimand is warranted in this matter. Furthermore, the Commissioner finds that issuance of a reprimand here is consistent with penalties in prior cases where a school official filed disclosure statements after the issuance of an OTSC. See, e.g., In the Matter of Johanna Lopez, East Newark Board of Education, Commissioner Decision No. 361-17SEC (December 18, 2017); In the Matter of David Eichenholtz, East Newark Board of Education, Hudson County, Commissioner Decision No. 359-17SEC (December 18, 2017). Therefore, the SEC's recommended penalty will not be disturbed.

Accordingly, IT IS ORDERED that respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on February 27, 2018, and mailed on February 28, 2018, through regular and electronic mail (e-mail), directing Respondent, a "school official" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find her in violation of the Act for failing to file Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements (Disclosure Statements) as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1.

The OTSC issued by the Commission provided notification to Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was further notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. Annually, on or before April 30th of each year, all school officials, as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23, must file Disclosure Statements with their local board secretaries or charter school designees. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(a). In addition, after the April 30th filing date, all newly elected board members or board members appointed to fill vacancies, newly appointed members of a board of trustees of a charter school, and administrators appointed to fill a vacancy must file their Disclosure Statements within thirty (30) days of appointment or taking office. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(c), (d), (e) and (f).

Respondent is a school official who was elected or appointed after April 30, 2017 and, therefore, required to file Disclosure Statements within thirty (30) days of election or appointment. Respondent failed to file her Disclosure Statements within the statutorily required timeframe.

By correspondence dated February 5, 2018, from the Passaic County Office of Education, Respondent was reminded that her Disclosure Statements had not yet been filed with the Commission. This correspondence further advised Respondent that if she failed to file her Disclosure Statements within the next week, the Commission had the authority to issue an OTSC, find her in violation of the Act, and recommend a penalty up to and including removal for her non-compliance.

When the correspondence from the Passaic County Office of Education failed to cause Respondent to file her Disclosure Statements, the Commission sent her another letter dated February 14, 2018, and informed Respondent that failure to file her Disclosure Statements by February 21, 2018, would result in the Commission voting to issue an OTSC. The Commission further advised that, if an OTSC issued, Respondent would be assessed a penalty, up to and including removal.

When Respondent failed to file her Disclosure Statements as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1 by February 21, 2018, and despite receiving multiple reminders and opportunities to file her Disclosure Statements, an OTSC was issued by the Commission at its meeting on February 27, 2018. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent filed her completed Disclosure Statements on March 5, 2018. Respondent also filed a response to the OTSC, but did not dispute that her Disclosure Statements were not timely filed.

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on March 27, 2018, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1. Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, it may recommend to the Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed on the school official. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended penalty of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq. within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's brief on appeal.

Final Decision

K.P., on behalf of minor child, I.M.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Saddle River, Bergen County, and Danielle Shanley, Superintendent,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner submitted a harassment, intimidation and bullying (HIB) complaint to the respondent Board pursuant to the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq., in which she alleged that a student told her daughter that she was "ugly and [a] bad dancer." When the Board failed to carry out an investigation into the matter, petitioner filed the within appeal, asserting that her daughter had been the victim of HIB and alleging that the Board failed to conduct the investigation required under the Act. The Board contended that no investigation was conducted because the allegations, even if true, did not constitute a violation of the Act. The Board filed a motion for summary judgement.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no genuine issues of material fact here, and the Board is entitled to prevail as a matter of law because petitioner failed to allege a violation of the Act that would require an investigation; under the Act, "harassment, intimidation, or bullying" means any gesture, any written, verbal, or physical act, or any electronic communication that is reasonably perceived as motivated by any actual or perceived distinguishing characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical, or sensory disability, that takes place on school property and substantially disrupts the orderly operation of the school; in the instant case, petitioner has not asserted, let alone offered any proof, that the statement allegedly made to her daughter by a fellow student – i.e., that I.M. is "ugly and [a] bad dancer" – was motivated by any distinguishing characteristic, or that the alleged statement substantially disrupted or interfered with the orderly operation of the school. The ALJ concluded that the respondent Board did not fail to investigate this allegation of HIB in violation of the Act. Accordingly, the ALJ granted summary decision to the Board as a matter of law and dismissed the petition.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the Board was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable in making a preliminary determination that the alleged conduct did not meet the statutory definition of HIB, as – pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.7(a)(2)(ix)(1) – its HIB policy set forth a process by which to make such a determination prior to launching a full HIB investigation, which process was followed in this case. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition was dismissed.

Final Decision

K.P., on behalf of minor child, I.M.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Saddle Brook, Bergen County, and Danielle Shanley, Superintendent,

Respondents.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

In this matter, petitioner submitted a harassment, intimidation and bullying (HIB) complaint to the Board pursuant to the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq., in which she alleged that a student told her daughter that she was "ugly and [a] bad dancer." The Board did not conduct a HIB investigation, and instead determined that the allegation, if true, did not constitute HIB. Petitioner challenged that determination and the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found the alleged conduct did not meet the statutory definition of HIB because petitioner did not allege that the comment about her daughter's dancing was motivated by an actual or perceived distinguishing characteristic, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A: 37-14.

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the Board was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable in making a preliminary determination that the alleged conduct did not meet the definition of HIB. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.7(a)(2)(ix)(1), a Board's HIB policy may include a "process prior to initiating an investigation by which the principal, or his or her designee, in consultation with the anti-bullying specialist, makes a preliminary determination as to whether the reported incident or complaint, assuming all facts presented are true, is a report within the scope of N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14." In this matter, the Board utilized this procedure and determined that, if true, the alleged conduct did not constitute HIB. The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that petitioner did not allege that I.M. had a distinguishing characteristic, or that the comments regarding her dancing were in any way motivated by a distinguishing characteristic. As such, petitioner has failed to demonstrate that the alleged conduct meets the definition of HIB. N.J.S.A. 18A: 37-14.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

BEFORE BARRY E. MOSCOWITZ, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner alleges that a student told her daughter that her daughter is an "ugly and bad dancer" in violation of the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (ABRA), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq. Respondents, however, conducted no investigation. Did respondents violate the ABRA? No. To violate the ABRA, the statement must be motivated by any actual or perceived distinguishing characteristic—such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical, or sensory disability. See N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On November 15, 2018, petitioner notified respondents that a student had allegedly told her daughter that her daughter is an "ugly and bad dancer" in violation of the ABRA. Respondents, however, conducted no investigation. As a result, petitioner filed an appeal with the Department of Education.

On January 23, 2019, petitioner filed her appeal with the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, alleging that respondents had failed to conduct an investigation in violation of the ABRA. On March 12, 2019, respondents filed their answer. Ostensibly, respondents assert that they conducted no investigation because the allegations, even if true, do not constitute a violation of the ABRA.

On April 3, 2019, the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes transmitted this case to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case under the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and the act establishing the Office of Administrative Law, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -23, for a hearing under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6.

On June 27, 2019, respondents filed a motion a motion for summary decision. Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), petitioner had until July 17, 2019, to file her response. On July 18, 2019, petitioner emailed this tribunal claiming that she had never received service of the motion. This claim, however, is rejected. On June 27, 2019, respondent served petitioner by certified mail, return receipt requested, and by ordinary mail. Then, on July 8, 2019, respondent served petitioner in person, placing the motion in her mailbox. Since the ordinary mail was never returned, and the motion was later placed in her mailbox, the service is deemed to be good service under N.J.A.C. 1:1-7.1. In other words, these methods provided actual notice to petitioner. As a result, the date by which petitioner had to submit her response will be enforced, not relaxed, and this motion will remain unopposed, so as to achieve just results for all parties, which includes respondents, given the merits of the motion, and to eliminate unjustifiable delay under N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3(a).

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon the documents submitted in support of and in opposition to the motion for summary decision, I FIND the following as FACT:

On November 15, 2018, petitioner, K.P., sent an email to respondents stating, among other things, that a student told her daughter, I.M., that her daughter is an "ugly and bad dancer":

> Today an ignorant student J. (black kid) or whatever his name is if I don't spell it correctly had told my [I.] how ugly, and bad dancer she is and all school feels the same. I don't know if this kid has a life or knows anything about dance. Instead he will shut up his dirty mouth and will be charge with HIB. He is lucky that my daughter didn't say anything to him but I will make sure he gets charge with HIB and shut up his dirty mouth forever.
>
> NOT APOLOGY IS ACCEPTABLE. ONLY HIB. This is the only way and example for any ignorant and ugly like him and many to STOP at least torch my baby girl.
> [Ex. A to the Certification of Danielle Shanley, Superintendent, dated July 2, 2019.]

Respondents conducted no investigation because they determined that the allegation, even if true, did not constitute HIB.

Meanwhile, respondents were more concerned about K.P. because of the demands she placed on staff through her daily emails, oftentimes more than several emails a day, and the threats she made against staff in those emails. In particular, respondents were concerned about K.P.'s description of the student whom she alleged had told her daughter that she is a bad dancer, and K.P.'s threat that she would make sure that student got "charge[d]" with HIB to "shut up his dirty mouth forever." In fact, respondents, to underscore the seriousness with which they take these threats, filed a criminal complaint against K.P. for having made terroristic threats against staff.

The criminal complaint is pending.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

A party may move for summary decision upon any or all substantive issues in a contested case. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). The motion for summary decision shall be served with briefs and may be served with supporting affidavits. Ibid. "The decision sought may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b).

In this case, no genuine issue of any material fact exists and respondents are entitled to prevail as a matter of law because petitioner has not alleged a violation of the ABRA for respondents to investigate.

Under the ABRA, "harassment, intimidation, or bullying" means any gesture, any written, verbal, or physical act, or any electronic communication that is reasonably perceived as being motivated by any actual or perceived distinguishing characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical, or sensory disability, that takes place on school property. See N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14. It must also substantially disrupt or interfere with, among other things, with the orderly operation of the school. Ibid. Although the ABRA does not limit "distinguishing characteristic" to those specified in the statute, it has consistently required such a perceived motivation. See K.L. v. Evesham Twp. Bd. of Educ., 423 N.J. Super. 337, 351 (App. Div. 2011). "Thus, harmful or demeaning conduct motivated only by another reason, for example, a dispute about relationships or personal belongings, or aggressive conduct without identifiable motivation, does not come within the statutory definition of bullying." Ibid.

The definition of "harassment, intimidation, or bullying" is reproduced below in full:

§ 18A:37-14. Definitions relative to adoption of harassment and bullying prevention policies

As used in this act:

"Electronic communication" means a communication transmitted by means of an electronic device, including, but not limited to, a telephone, cellular phone, computer, or pager;

"Harassment, intimidation or bullying" means any gesture, any written, verbal or physical act, or any electronic communication, whether it be a single incident or a series of incidents, that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic, that takes place on school property, at any school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds as provided for in section 16 of P.L.2010, c.122 (C.18A:37-15.3), that substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students and that:

a. a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student or damaging the student's property, or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person or damage to his property;

b. has the effect of insulting or demeaning any student or group of students; or

c. creates a hostile educational environment for the student by interfering with a student's education or by severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student.

In this case, petitioner has not even alleged, let alone offered any proof, that the statement the student allegedly made to her daughter, that I.M. is an "ugly and bad dancer," was motivated by an actual or perceived distinguishing characteristic such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical, or sensory disability. In addition, one cannot reasonably argue that being an "ugly and bad dancer," or expressing oneself as an "ugly and bad dancer," even if understood, and even if understood as true, constitutes such a distinguishing characteristic. Likewise, petitioner has not even alleged, let alone offered any proof, that the statement the student made to her daughter substantially disrupted or interfered with the orderly operation of the school. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that respondents did not fail to investigate this allegation of harassment, intimidation, or bullying in violation of the ABRA, and that respondents are entitled to summary decision as a matter of law.

ORDER

Given my findings of fact and conclusions of law, I ORDER that this case be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified, or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this case. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify, or reject this decision within forty-five days, and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision under N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." Dear Counsel:

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with the New Jersey Council of Vocational-Technical Schools' (Council) motion for leave to appear in this case as amicus curiae pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-3.2. The Council filed the motion to appear in this matter after the Initial Decision was issued by the Administrative Law Judge on August 6, 2019.

Upon review and consideration of the parties' submissions, I find that there is no provision that permits the filing of a motion to participate as an amicus curiae when a case is filed under N.J.A.C. 6A:3. The regulatory provision that permits the filing of a motion to participate as an amicus curiae, N.J.A.C. 6A:4-3.2, is limited to appeals filed under N.J.A.C. 6A:4, i.e. appeals of decisions of the State Board of Examiners suspending or revoking certificates pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4 and appeals of the School Ethics Commission finding a school official has violated the School Ethics Act. The petition of appeal in this case was filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3 and the matter has already been adjudicated at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) and returned to the Commissioner for a final decision.[1]

[1] Under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.8, requests for intervention or participation in a contested case may be filed with the Commissioner prior to any transmittal to the OAL, or directly to the OAL after transmittal of the matter.

Accordingly, the motion for leave to appear in this case as amicus curiae is hereby DENIED.[2]

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Board of Education of the Cumberland County Technical Education Center, Cumberland County, Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Cumberland Regional High School District, Cumberland County and Board of Education of the City of Millville, Cumberland County, Respondents.

Synopsis

Petitioner, the Board of Education of the Cumberland County Technical Education Center (CCTech) filed an appeal in 2018 seeking to compel the respondent Boards to permit full-time students of CCTech who reside within either the Cumberland Regional High School District (Cumberland) or the Millville School District (Millville) to participate in their home district's athletic programs. The respondent Boards had denied CCTech's request, citing financial and other concerns, and contending that they were not required to permit CCTech students to join their athletic programs. CCTech asserted that the respondent Boards' denials were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. In a June 2018 decision, the Commissioner directed Cumberland and Millville to meet with CCTech to address logistical concerns and to develop an agreement that would enable CCTech students from Cumberland and Millville to participate in sports programs in their home districts; subsequently, the Commissioner proposed mediation as a means for the three schools to reach an agreement. Prior to the July 2019 hearing in this matter, Cumberland advised that it had reached an agreement with CCTech, and the petition as it pertained to Cumberland was withdrawn.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the issue here is whether Millville acted in an arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable manner when it was unable to reach an agreement with CCTech to permit Millville resident students to participate in the sports programs of their home district; the Commissioner clearly expected the parties to reach an agreement within a reasonable period of time after his June 2018 decision; the policies of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) govern this matter as Millville is an NJSIAA member; the applicable NJSIAA rule governing this issue clearly states that participation in interscholastic sports is subject to discretionary agreement between the principals of both the vocational school and the sending public high school; though discretionary, such determination must be reasonably based on legitimate considerations; CCTech has demonstrated by a preponderance of evidence that the reasons advanced by Millville for not coming to an agreement with CCTech are not legitimate, reasonable or practicable concerns; and there was no reason why CCTech students residing in Millville should be denied the opportunity to participate in Millville's athletic programs. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered Millville to admit CCTech students residing in Millville into the district's sports programs.

The Commissioner noted that, subsequent to the filing of the Initial Decision, Millville advised that the parties had reached a settlement. Accordingly, as an amicable resolution has been reached whereby Millville students attending CCTech are now able to participate in their home district sports programs, the Commissioner determined that the matter herein is now moot.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Although the parties did not file exceptions to the Initial Decision, the Millville Board of Education (Millville) advised that the parties have reached a settlement and, accordingly, the matter should be deemed withdrawn.[1]

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner finds that because the parties reached an amicable resolution in this case, enabling students who attend CCTech to participate in the athletic programs offered in their home districts, the matter is now moot. Further, now that CCTech students are permitted to participate in athletic programs at Millville, it is not necessary to evaluate whether Millville's prior rationale for prohibiting CCTech students from Accordingly, Cumberland Regional's involvement in this matter has been resolved and the petition, insofar as it relates to Cumberland Regional, is withdrawn.

BEFORE SUSAN M. SCAROLA, ALJ (Ret., on recall):

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The petitioner, the Board of Education of the Cumberland County Technical Education Center (CCTech), seeks to compel the respondents, the Board of Education of the Cumberland Regional High School District (CR) and the Board of Education of the City of Millville (Millville), to comply with the directive of the Commissioner of the Department of Education (Commissioner) and to resolve any outstanding issues in order to permit its full-time students who reside within those districts to participate in their athletic programs. CR has now resolved those issues with a Memorandum of Agreement (MOA); Millville has not, contending that it continues to have reasonable logistical and financial concerns.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In a previous related matter, EDU 12252-16, CCTech filed a Request for Emergent Relief to compel CR and Millville to permit its students to participate in sports in their home districts. On August 23, 2016, the request was denied, a decision adopted by the Commissioner on September 20, 2016.

On March 29, 2018, after three days of hearing, an Initial Decision was filed concluding that both CR and Millville had demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that they each had valid, legitimate, reasonable, or practical concerns for denying CCTech the ability to compel CR and Millville to admit its students into their respective athletic programs for school year 2016–2017.

On June 7, 2018, the Commissioner of Education issued an Order concurring with the ALJ that Cumberland and Millville's decisions barring CCTech's students from participating in their sports programs for the 2016–2017 school year were not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. However, the Commissioner directed the principals of Cumberland and Millville to meet with the principal of CCTech within twenty days of his decision to address the logistical concerns and to develop an agreement that would enable the CCTech students to participate in sports programs in their home districts of CR and Millville.[2] He reminded the Districts that a blanket policy purporting to bar all of CCTech students from CR's and Millville's athletic programs was "absolutely impermissible." CCTech v. Cumberland Reg'l & Millville, EDU 12252-16, Comm'r (June 7, 2018), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/.

Following this directive, CCTech met individually with CR (on June 26 and July 18, 24, 2018) and Millville (on July 3, 2018). The relative progress of those negotiations was disputed, and the parties were then unsuccessful in resolving the issues.

On August 6, 2018, CCTech filed a Petition for Emergent Relief with the Commissioner arguing that respondents were engaged in a pattern of delay in implementing the Commissioner's June 7, 2018, decision. The Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on August 9, 2018, as OAL Dkt. No. EDU 11467-18. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

[2] The Commissioner also set some parameters for the negotiations. Concerns about student enrollment and State funding were not "bona fide legitimate reasons" for failing to accommodate these students. He also directed CCTech to give the districts "all of the information necessary to facilitate meaningful discussion." In the event an agreement could not be reached or if one of the parties failed to participate in the process, the Commissioner stated, CCTech "may file another petition of appeal." Dist., Cumberland Cty., Bd. of Educ. of Millville, Cumberland Cty., EDU 12252-16, Comm'r (June 7, 2018), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/.

On August 14, 2018, the application for emergent relief was denied by the Hon. Kathleen Calemmo, ALJ. On September 10, 2018, the Commissioner agreed that CCTech was not entitled to emergent relief, and directed that "this matter shall continue with proceedings at the OAL," and "[W]hile this matter is pending at the OAL, [he would] designate an individual to facilitate discussions between the parties to assist in reaching an agreement that will enable the students to participate in sports in their home districts." Up to that date, no agreement had been reached between the respective parties.[3]

On November 21, 2018, CR filed a motion for summary decision, which was joined by Millville on November 26, 2018, and assigned to me. On December 8, 2018, CCTech filed a response contending that the Commissioner had remanded the matter for further proceedings and that no reason had presented itself for the matter to be dismissed. On April 12, 2019, the motion was denied, and the matter continued.

Prior to the hearing, CR advised that CCTech and it had resolved their differences and that an MOA was pending their respective boards' approval. The hearing was held on July 25, 2019, and the record closed.

On July 29, 2019, CCTech advised that the MOA had been approved by their respective boards on July 25, 2019, which would permit CR student residents attending CCTech to participate in CR athletic activities. That matter has been resolved, and the petition insofar as it related to CR is withdrawn.

[3] The first mediation session scheduled for November 29, 2018, was postponed for a date unknown at Millville's request.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Background[4] (uncontested facts)

CCTech operates one of the five public high schools located in Cumberland County, New Jersey. From its inception in the 1970's until the school year ending June 30, 2016, CCTech operated as a part-time educational program whereby students would attend academic courses at the schools in their home districts (presumably where they resided) and would attend vocational courses at CCTech.

Commencing in September 2016, CCTech began operating a full-time program for ninth-graders, consisting of both vocational and academic courses, in new, larger facilities. Within four years, all students attending grades nine to twelve at CCTech will have been transitioned to full-time students. CCTech does not offer an athletic program for its students, although it has some athletic and sports facilities. The Bridgeton and Vineland public school districts have permitted their CCTech students to participate in their athletic programs. No formal protocol to handle disciplinary or other matters is in effect with those two districts and CCTech.

In April 2016, Millville advised its eighth-grade students and their parents that if they chose to attend CCTech, they would be unable to participate in sports at Millville.

Millville is a member of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) and has adopted the bylaws, rules, and regulations of the NJSIAA that govern high-school sports and athletic activities. The applicable NJSIAA rule pertinent to the issues presented here is found in Article V, Section 4(G), CL3, of its bylaws, which provides:

> If a Vocational/Technical High School/Public Academy does not offer the particular sport in which one of its full-time students desires to participate, that student may participate in that sport at his/her home school upon agreement of both > Principals, regardless of the number of sports programs offered at the Vocational/Technical High School/Public Academy.

TESTIMONY

For Petitioner CCTech

Gregory McGraw is the principal of CCTech and participated in the transition of CCTech from part-time to full-time. He is familiar with sports in the public-school setting, having previously served as a coach at CR for a number of years.

After the Commissioner's decision in June 2018, he tried to resolve the issues with CR and Millville. Those with CR were resolved with an MOA that was to be signed by the respective boards on July 25, 2019.

McGraw met with Millville on July 3, 2018, and presented a proposed agenda to resolve the issues. Millville responded to the agenda about a month or two later (P-1). Much of the proposal responses, including paragraphs 1, 2, 5, 8, 9, 10, and 12 were satisfactory to CCTech, but particular areas of disagreement remained in paragraphs 3, 4, 6, 7, and 11. McGraw reviewed each of the responses.

Paragraph 3 of the proposal response reads as follows:

> 3. Academic Clearance.
> Millville agrees to the proposal outlined by Mr. McGraw whereby CCTEC students would adhere to Millville academic standards for sports eligibility. CCTEC will assign an employee to monitor CCTEC student academic performance and email weekly status reports to Millville coaches.

Millville indicated that the second sentence needed to be clarified. CCTech was willing to permit Millville athletic directors to access CCTech's Genesis system to check on students' academic progress. CCTech was also willing to assign a counselor and to provide weekly reports to Millville to ensure academic eligibility.

McGraw noted that CCTech students played sports on Vineland and Bridgeton's teams, and that their athletic directors have access to CCTech's computer system and there have been no issues. McGraw agreed that Millville coaches needed to monitor their athletic activities in Millville to ensure eligibility.

Paragraph 4 of the proposal response reads as follows:

> 4. Transportation.
>
> Millville agrees to the offer of CCTech providing transportation to CCTech students at its own expense.
> CCTech must transport its students and arrive on the same schedule as Millville students for practice and games so as not to create additional supervision burdens for Millville staff. CCTech must provide transportation at the end of each student's athletic activity back to CCTech for parental pickup so as not to create additional supervision burdens for Millville staff of CCTech students.
> CCTech must transport its students to and from all Millville athletic program activities so that CCTech students adhere to the same schedule as Millville students including college recruitment interviews.

McGraw testified that CCTech would transport its students to practices at the same times that practices commence. McGraw stated that it is unreasonable for CCTech to transport students from Millville back to CCTech after activities when they would be in Millville, where they presumably live. They could go home just like any other Millville athletes on the team. That was how it was working for Vineland, Bridgeton, and soon CR. CR was a bit different since its student athletes attending CCTech were from different areas, so CR had agreed to send an activity bus to CCTech to transport students.

As for the provision that "CCTech must transport its students to and from all Millville athletic program activities so that CCTech students adhere to the same schedule," McGraw had no problem with practices, but he wanted some flexibility, for example, if a student were taking a test. Practices and games start at different times, and CCTech would be willing to transport its students to the away games. Sometimes parents can transport the students, or the security team. In some cases, CCTech might be on the way to the game, so pickup could occur that way. They would try to match up transportation with the schedule.

CCTech was willing to make every effort to get students to college recruiting interviews, but wanted some flexibility in working it out. McGraw has been able to work out any issues with Vineland and Bridgeton when this came up, and has had no major problems with these towns when it came to the student athletes.

Paragraph 6 of the proposal response reads as follows:

> 6. Student Discipline.
> Millville cannot agree to disparate disciplinary standards and systems for CCTech and Millville students participating in the sports program. Such disparities would result in unequal treatment of CCTech and Millville students which would be perceived as fundamentally unfair by both our students and our community.

CCTech's position was that team discipline was Millville's and its coaches' decision and that CCTech would support that decision. But if those infractions rose to a team punishment, that should be a collaborative decision with CCTech and Millville. CCTech wants to hold its students accountable and will discipline them as much as possible as Millville does, but wants the opportunity to work it out with Millville. For example, if a student athlete were to cause a problem, but that student was in the process of being evaluated for an IEP, that would be something that CCTech would want to decide.

McGraw agreed that all students should be held to the same standards and that there should be no disparate treatment. He thought potential disparities could be resolved with collaboration. It was unreasonable for CCTech to not have any say in discipline of a student attending its school.

McGraw did not see collaboration as a problem. He recalled an incident a year or two ago where a fistfight occurred between two girls. The principal of the school wanted a ten-day suspension for both. Although CCTech thought the punishment was excessive, the principal ultimately agreed to keep it the same for both students. In the MOA with CR, they agreed on team discipline, with the coach having that authority, but for infractions within school, CCTech needed input.

Paragraph 7 of the proposal response reads as follows:

> 7. Other Logistical Issues.
> Participation in the sports program is a privilege that must be earned by Millville students by adherence to higher standards of conduct including fostering school spirit, serving as role models and school leaders and involvement in the community. It would not be fair to have Millville students earn the privilege of participation and not require the same of CCTech students. Millville must run one sports program with rules that apply equally to all participants. Therefore, CCTech students would have to meet the same standards by participating in the same activities on the same schedule as their teammates. For example, Leader's Club activities; pep rallies; nutritional program; student mentoring activities; community activities. CCTech must also transport its students to these activities at its sole expense.

McGraw noted that not all athletes are members of the Leader's Club, as it is tied to physical education and teachers' recommendations. It is not inclusive of all students or athletes. As for other activities, such as pep rallies, or other entire-team events during the school day, CCTech would make every effort to get the student there, subject to whatever may be happening at CCTech, such as testing. It would be a collaboration between the principals. If every team member were expected to perform community service, then the Millville student attending CCTech would also be expected to participate.

McGraw agreed that team unity was important and that having all members of a team following the same rules and standards was important. He expected that they would be able to work out a way for CCTech and Millville students to meet the same standards and follow the same rules, just as CCTech had done with the other districts.

Dina Rossi Elliott, Ed.D., testified that she has been the superintendent of CCTech for seven and a half years. She stated that McGraw was accurate in his responses to Millville's concerns as presented in the agenda response proposals. She addressed the remaining proposal issues:

Paragraph 8 of the proposal responses reads as follows:

> 8. [Financial Concerns.]
>
> Millville will pay for the general cost of the sports programs utilized by CCTech students but will not incur extra out of pocket expenses for CCTech students, e.g., uniforms—equipment—supplies or need for additional staff solely due to CCTech student participation. CCTech must pay those out of pocket expenses for its students. The estimated cost per student would be in the $300–500 range depending upon the sport.
> It would be unfair to ask the Millville district to use its scarce resources to pay the extra out of pocket costs for CCTech students.

Dr. Rossi was familiar with the Commissioner's decision of June 2018. Although the decision said nothing about requiring CCTech to pay for sports, CCTech decided to offer a financial reimbursement for sports because it was clear that finances were an issue. So CCTech came up with a plan that it could afford and that also would not be a financial barrier to students participating in sports. The financial incentive to Millville also included Vineland, Bridgeton, and CR.

In determining the financial assistance to offer to districts sending students to CCTech, it created a $100,000 fund. Each of the four sending districts (Vineland, Bridgeton, CR, and Millville) would receive a portion based on their respective percentage of students enrolled as of October 15 of each year. CCTech used this number because it is part of the ASSA,[5] and the ASSA not only must be agreed upon with the sending district, but also was subject to State audit. CCTech could not use the number of students who participated in sports, because this number was always in flux and was not reliable because students get cut or quit a team. Some students might participate in three sports; others might participate in just one. It would be an unreliable statistic to count athletes because they could not be tracked financially or accurately.

CCTech thought its formula was a solid way to pay the districts. It looked at funding for 2018–2019 and used that year as the basis for their calculation. The amount it agreed upon was affordable and had minimal impact on the financial status of the district. For 2018–2019, Vineland had 317 students attending CCTech (44.77% of the total CCTech enrollment); Bridgeton had 137 students (19.35%); CR had 103 students (14.55%); and Millville had 151 students (21.33%). For year 2018–2019, Millville would have received $21,327.68. Based on the projected enrollment for 2019–2020, Millville will have approximately 21.84% of CCTech's student enrollment and would receive a payment of $21,835.44. The payment would be made to Millville in December when the ASSA is finalized.

CCTech also polled its students to see how many were interested in participating in sports, and determined that those numbers were unreliable. Some students said they might try but were not sure. Others picked sports whose seasons overlapped or were duplicates. It looked at Vineland and Bridgeton to try to get a sense of how many of the CCTech students participated in sports and what percentage participated in those towns. Using those numbers, it estimated that approximately thirty to forty Millville students attending CCTech would be participating in sports.

Taking all sports into consideration, CCTech made a reasonable estimate of $300–500 per student. If forty Millville students decided to play sports, the total using the highest amount of $500 per student was $20,000. Using the funding formula as determined by CCTech will provide Millville with $21,853, more than the estimated cost. Dr. Rossi noted that the Commissioner did not say that CCTech had to pay anything for its students to participate in sports activities in their resident districts. She also noted that a number of students had declined the offer to attend CCTech, and of those who declined and gave a reason, approximately twenty-five students said it was because of sports. Dr. Rossi agreed with McGraw that CCTech's cooperation with Vineland and Bridgeton has been running smoothly.

Paragraph 11 of the proposal responses reads as follows:

> 11. [Term of Agreement.]
> Any agreement will be for a term of 12 months and then renegotiated by the parties.

Millville wants the agreement to be renegotiated after a year. CCTech sees this as a barrier to its students participating in sports. An ongoing cycle of starting and stopping negatively impacts students.

CCTech was able to resolve this issue with CR in their MOA by agreeing that at a specific time each year (February), they would meet to tweak the agreement before the end of the school year so that the athletes could remain on the fields and to provide their respective boards with notice of the resolution. CCTech would offer this same resolution to Millville, and objects to an automatic termination of the agreement.

As to CCTech offering sports, Dr. Rossi noted that at this time, CCTech had no plans for interscholastic sports. This was because it has a student population that may not be sizable enough to field a team; because it may have student athletes on another district's field, which could negatively affect student recruiting or team unity in ongoing sports; and because CCTech's mission is academic and technology oriented for career and college.

Sports programs take money from the budget, and academic and technology training is costly. For example, CCTech must pay for shop equipment and culinary kitchens that are commercial grade. Combining this with academic funding makes sports teams not currently feasible. CCTech focuses its resources on career and college, and has extracurricular activities tied to that. If CCTech had a sports program, those monies would have to be budgeted as in any other district, so the cost would be included in calculating tuition and the costs would go up to sending districts.

Dr. Rossi was aware that Millville had been an Abbott district and that it was an economically challenged community. Ninety percent of its budget was from State aid. She agreed that Millville was facing budget deficits and had been cutting programs and staff, which could hurt students. She also agreed that it was a reasonable concern of Millville's that the cost of CCTech students participating in Millville sports be "cost neutral."

For Respondent Millville

Stephanie DeRose testified that she is the principal of Millville Senior High School. Her concern was discipline, and that the perception of disparity in discipline could affect the students. She did not want students to feel discriminated against and that students could be placed in a bullying situation if discipline were disparate. School discipline could result in a student being disqualified from participating in sports, so it was important that CCTech students participating in Millville sports be held to the same standard as Millville students.

As far as collaboration with McGraw, she noted that he may not always be there. Millville has in-school suspension but CCTech does not, and this could result in students not being eligible to play sports. CCTech does not have the middle level of discipline that Millville has.

DeRose noted that Millville has budgeting issues and not enough money. Sports costs vary, but the high school would have to absorb the additional costs if CCTech students played on Millville teams. She might have to cut other budget items to accommodate the students. Millville is in the process of developing its own vocational program, and she would have to sacrifice something to make sports possible. DeRose wanted the cost of sports for CCTech students in Millville to be cost neutral, and CCTech's formula was based on speculation. She acknowledged that Millville would be receiving over $21,000 under the formula developed by CCTech. Costs could change over time. She wants cost neutrality so that Millville does not have to sacrifice any of its programs to pay for CCTech students to play sports in Millville. This can be done by having costs itemized for each student athlete.

Michael Jones, a teacher of history at Millville Senior High School, is also head coach of the men's basketball team, and the spring and fall weight team. He is familiar with the dynamics of sports in Millville.

He expressed how important it is for a coach to have all his athletes adhere to the same standards and rules. Students vocalize if they see disparity. If a CCTech student participates in Millville sports and is treated differently, such disparity would affect team unity, which could negatively impact team performance.

Millville students are held to certain expectations to play sports. They are expected and required to participate in community activities and community service, such as cleaning up streets, charity work, and fundraisers. These are team bonding experiences. Millville set these parameters to help the community and to get its students to experience helping others. If CCTech students played in Millville and did not perform all these activities, it would be detrimental to the sports program.

Jones did not recall any student who did not participate in these activities, but if they did not, he would try to come up with alternatives. He could not think of any reason why CCTech students would not participate, but if they did not, he would try to find out the reason and to find something else for the student to do.

Findings

For testimony to be believed, it must not only come from the mouth of a credible witness, but it also has to be credible in itself. It must elicit evidence that is from such common experience and observation that it can be approved as proper under the circumstances. See Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546 (1954); Gallo v. Gallo, 66 N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1961). A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality or internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). Also, "'[t]he interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the [trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony.'" State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 10 N.J. 316 (1952) (citation omitted).

A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

Here, the witnesses appeared to testify credibly. Each one answered the questions directly. Each of these educator witnesses was knowledgeable, insightful, and forthright about his or her respective educational and athletic programs. They appeared to care deeply for their students and expressed their concern about how their respective programs would be impacted by the decisions being made. No witness appeared to be unreasonable in his or her view about sports participation, or in his or her ability to collaborate with others. I accept their testimony as fact. The real issue is how these facts can be applied to the particular concerns of Millville and its relationship with its students who attend CCTech and who wish to participate in Millville sports activities.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

The issue presented by CCTech is whether Millville was acting arbitrarily, capriciously, and unreasonably when it was unable to reach an agreement with CCTech to permit Millville student residents who had enrolled at CCTech to be able to participate in its athletic and sports programs.

It is clear that the Commissioner expected the parties to reach an agreement within a reasonable period of time after his decision of June 2018. The original petition covered school year 2016–2017. School year 2019–2020 is now fast approaching and no agreement has yet been reached between Millville and CCTech. Students who entered as freshman may graduate next year without having had the opportunity to play sports in their home district.

Because Millville did not have a formal policy addressing the participation of vocational-school students in its athletic programs, the policies of the NJSIAA govern. Under N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3, a board of education may join a voluntary association, such as the NJSIAA, which regulates the conduct of student activities between and among members. "The said rules and regulations shall be deemed to be the policy of the board of education and enforced first by the internal procedures of the association." N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3. The applicable NJSIAA rule pertinent to the issues presented here is found in Article V, Section 4(G), CL3, of its bylaws, which provides:

> If a Vocational/Technical High School/Public Academy does not offer the particular sport in which one of its full-time students desires to participate, that student may participate in that sport at his/her home school upon agreement of both Principals, regardless of the number of sports programs offered at the Vocational/Technical High School/Public Academy.

Thus, participation in interscholastic sports is subject to the agreement of the principals of both the vocational school and the public high school.

In G.W.S. ex rel. A.F.S. v. Petrino & Rahway Board of Education, Union County, EDU 09797-99, Comm'r (November 29, 1999), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/, the Rahway school district had permitted vocational students in grades nine through twelve to participate in extracurricular activities and sports programs in their home districts. Starting in September 1999, participation was denied to ninth-graders enrolling in the vocational school. The Commissioner noted that under the NJSIAA rules, vocational-technical-school students may participate in the sports programs of their home districts upon the agreement of the (high-school) principals. Although the decision to allow participation is discretionary, "that discretionary authority must be reasonably exercised based on bona fide, legitimate considerations." The Commissioner has noted that participation in interscholastic sports may not be practicable or reasonable because of "scheduling constraints, transportation costs or logistical difficulties, or other valid considerations."

The question, then, is whether Millville, a member of the NJSIAA, and the superintendent or principal in the high school have continuing bona fide, legitimate reasons for denying CCTech students the opportunity to participate in the Millville athletic program.

Each of Millville's concerns as set forth in its proposal responses to CCTech's offers will be addressed.

3. Academic Clearance.

> Millville agrees to the proposal outlined by Mr. McGraw whereby CCTEC students would adhere to Millville academic standards for sports eligibility. CCTEC will assign an employee to monitor CCTEC student academic performance and email weekly status reports to Millville coaches.

As to whether this remains a reasonable concern, Millville indicated that it agrees with the first sentence, but wants a better way to verify academic eligibility. CCTech agreed that Millville coaches needed to be able to monitor student academic performance. CCTech was willing to permit Millville to access CCTech's Genesis system to check on students' academic progress. CCTech was also willing to assign a counselor and to provide weekly reports to Millville to ensure academic eligibility.

CCTech students play sports on Vineland and Bridgeton's teams and their athletic directors have direct access to CCTech's computer system, with no issues. The same policy would also apply to CR students as set forth in their MOA. No reason was presented why this plan would not also work for Millville.

It is not reasonable for Millville to deny CCTech students the opportunity to play sports based on this concern. Each principal can designate one or two people available for daily contact if the Millville coaches have concerns over the academic qualifications of any CCTech student athlete playing in Millville.

4. Transportation.

> Millville agrees to the offer of CCTech providing transportation to CCTech students at its own expense.
>
> CCTech must transport its students and arrive on the same schedule as Millville students for practice and games so as not to create additional supervision burdens for Millville staff. CCTech must provide transportation at the end of each student's athletic activity back to CCTech for parental pickup so as not to create additional supervision burdens for Millville staff of CCTech students.
> CCTech must transport its students to and from all Millville athletic program activities so that CCTech students adhere to the same schedule as Millville students including college recruitment interviews.

Millville expressed concern that if CCTech students arrived at times not in sync with its program, students would be unsupervised. CCTech has agreed to transport its students to practices at the same times as practices commence to avoid this problem.

As for CCTech transporting its students back to CCTech after games or practices in Millville, it is unreasonable for CCTech to have to transport students from Millville back to CCTech when they would already be in the city in which they reside, Millville. The students could go home, or be picked up by their parents, just as any other Millville resident athlete on the team. This was how it worked for Vineland and Bridgeton and, soon, CR, although is a bit different for CR, as its student athletes attending CCTech were from different areas. To handle this, CR will be using an activity bus to CCTech to transport its students.

As for the provision that "CCTech must transport its students to and from all Millville athletic program activities so that CCTech students adhere to the same schedule," CCTech had no problem with this, but wanted some flexibility, if, for example, a student were taking a test. Practices and games start at different times and CCTech was willing to transport its students to the away games. Parents or the security team could also assist with transportation as agreed. In some cases, CCTech might be on the way to a game from Millville so the students could be picked up at CCTech. CCTech would try to match up transportation with the practice, game, and event schedules.

CCTech was willing to make every effort to get students to college-recruiting interviews, but wanted some flexibility in working it out. Any issues that arose with Vineland and Bridgeton were resolved amicably and no major problems have occurred. CCTech thought that some flexibility and collaboration with Millville would resolve any issues. No reason was presented to believe that the principals involved could not come to a reasonable resolution of any transportation issue that might arise.

It is not reasonable for Millville to deny CCTech students the opportunity to play sports based on this concern. Each principal or his or her designee can review the practice, game, and event schedules and can work out times for pickup and drop-off that do not cause students to be unsupervised, and get the students to their games, practices, and recruiting interviews on time.

6. Student Discipline.

> Millville cannot agree to disparate disciplinary standards and systems for CCTech and Millville students participating in the sports program. Such disparities would result in unequal treatment of CCTech and Millville students which would be perceived as fundamentally unfair by both our students and our community.
> CCTech and its students would have to agree to be bound by Millville school and team disciplinary standards for their conduct while participating in the Millville sports program and further agree to submit themselves to the Millville disciplinary system including final review by the Millville Board of Education.

The issue of discipline and disparate treatment of CCTech students playing on Millville teams is a genuine concern for Millville, as well as for CCTech. Millville wants to retain all control over discipline of CCTech students playing sports in Millville, while CCTech wants to have input and use a collaborative practice to resolve any disciplinary issues that might arise.

Millville did not want students to feel discriminated against and wanted to prevent any bullying situations. Because school discipline could result in a student being disqualified from participating in sports, it was important that CCTech students participating in Millville sports be held to the same standards as Millville's students. Millville has in-school suspension but CCTech does not, and this could result in students not being eligible to play sports. CCTech does not have the middle level of discipline that Millville has.

CCTech's position was that team discipline was Millville's, and its coaches', responsibility and that CCTech would support their decisions. But if those infractions rose to a team punishment, CCTech thought that it should be a collaborative decision between it and Millville. CCTech wants to hold its students accountable and was willing to discipline them as much as possible as Millville does, but wanted the opportunity to work it out with Millville and have input and cooperation on any decision. CCTech proffered the example of a student athlete who might be in the process of being evaluated for an IEP. In such case, CCTech would want to have input into what discipline should be imposed.

CCTech agreed that all students should be held to the same standards and that there should be no disparate treatment. It felt that potential disparities could be resolved with collaboration between the principals or their designees. It was unreasonable for Millville to insist that CCTech not have any input into the discipline of its students participating in Millville sports and to yield final decision-making authority to the Millville BOE.

CCTech did not see collaboration as a problem. The principal of CCTech was previously able to resolve a disciplinary issue between two students. Although CCTech thought the punishment was excessive, the principal ultimately agreed to keep it the same for both students to avoid the appearance of disparate treatment. In the MOA with CR, CCTech agreed on team discipline with the coach having that authority, but for infractions within school, CCTech received input.

While disparate disciplinary treatment is a valid consideration for Millville, it would be unreasonable for it to have final say in imposing discipline on a CCTech student participating in Millville sports. The principals of the schools appeared to be reasonable and cooperative educators, seeking the best for their students. No reason was presented why they, or their designees, could not collaborate and reach agreement on any discipline to be imposed, except that they may not always be employed in these positions. This is not a sufficient basis to determine that CCTech and Millville would not be able to reasonably address any disciplinary issues that might arise.

Accordingly, it is not reasonable for Millville to deny CCTech students the opportunity to play sports based on this concern. The principals, or their designees, can collaborate and resolve any disciplinary issues that may arise.[6]

7. Other Logistical Issues.

> Participation in the sports program is a privilege that must be earned by Millville students by adherence to higher standards of conduct including fostering school spirit, serving as role models and school leaders and involvement in the community. It would not be fair to have Millville students earn the privilege of participation and not require the same of CCTech students. Millville must run one sports program with rules that apply equally to all participants. Therefore, CCTech students would have to meet the same standards by participating in the same activities on the same schedule as their teammates. For example, Leader's Club activities; pep rallies; nutritional program; student mentoring activities; community activities. CCTech must also transport its students to these activities at its sole expense.

[6] If this becomes an issue, the parties can develop alternate methods for resolving disciplinary issues.

Both districts agreed that team unity was important and that having all members of a team following the same rules and standards was also important. Millville contended that its students are held to certain expectations to be able to play sports. They are expected, and required, to participate in community activities and community service, such as cleaning up streets, charity work, fundraisers, and team bonding experiences.

Millville set these parameters to help the community and to get its students to experience helping others. It argued that if CCTech students played in Millville and did not perform all these activities, it would be detrimental to its sports program. If all the athletes did not adhere to the same standards and rules, the disparity would affect team unity, which could negatively impact team performance.

As to the activities listed by Millville, CCTech noted that not all athletes are members of the Leader's Club. As for other activities such as pep rallies, or other entire-team events that might occur during the school day, CCTech would make every effort to get its students there, subject to whatever may be happening at CCTech, such as testing. If every team member were expected to perform community service, then the Millville student attending CCTech would also be expected to participate. CCTech and Millville students could meet the same standards and follow the same rules, but this would require collaboration between the principals, recognizing that some flexibility was necessary. If a student could not participate in these activities, an alternative could be found that satisfied Millville.

It is not reasonable for Millville to deny CCTech students the opportunity to play sports based on this concern. Each principal or his or her designee can exchange schedules and proposed activities, and can reach a reasonable accommodation for Millville students attending CCTech, recognizing that some flexibility is required to assure that students are able to achieve academically as well as athletically.

8. [Financial Concerns.]

> Millville will pay for the general cost of the sports programs utilized by CCTech students but will not incur extra out of pocket expenses for CCTech students, e.g., uniforms—equipment—supplies or need for additional staff solely due to CCTech student participation. CCTech must pay those out of pocket expenses for its students. The estimated cost per student would be in the $300–500 range depending upon the sport.
> It would be unfair to ask the Millville district to use its scarce resources to pay the extra out of pocket costs for CCTech students.

In his decision of June 2018, the Commissioner stated, "[C]oncerns regarding the impact on student enrollment at Cumberland and Millville and corresponding State funding do not equate to bona fide legitimate reasons for denying CTech students the opportunity to participate in sports programs." CCTech v. Cumberland Reg'l & Millville, EDU 12252-16, Comm'r (June 7, 2018), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/. The cost for permitting students to participate in sports was not addressed in the Commissioner's decision. Neither does NJSIAA Article V, Section 4(G), CL3, mention any reimbursement for expenses incurred by the resident student district:

> If a Vocational/Technical High School/Public Academy does not offer the particular sport in which one of its full-time students desires to participate, that student may participate in that sport at his/her home school upon agreement of both Principals, regardless of the number of sports programs offered at the Vocational/Technical High School/Public Academy.

Millville wants the cost of permitting CCTech students to play on its teams to be "cost neutral." It cites budgetary concerns, the development of new projects, and State-aid losses. No statutory or regulatory basis for this proposition has been cited.

In order to address this concern, CCTech created a fund of $100,000 as a financial incentive to be distributed to the four districts (Vineland, Bridgeton, CR, and Millville) whose students attend CCTech. It was not mandated by the Commissioner or the statute or regulations and was seen by CCTech as a reasonable way to address Millville's concerns and to reduce the costs to the districts where CCTech students play.

In determining the amount distributed from the fund, CCTech would provide each of the four districts with a portion based on their respective percentage of students enrolled as of October 15 of each year (the ASSA number). CCTech used this number because the ASSA must be agreed upon with the sending district, and was also subject to State audit, so it could be verified by any district. CCTech could not use the number of students who participated in sports because this number was always in flux and was not reliable. It is a statistic that cannot be accurately tracked or verified.

Using 2018–2019 as the basis for their calculation, Millville had 151 students attending CCTech (21.33% of the total CCTech enrollment) and would have received $21,327.68. Based on the projected enrollment for 2019–2020, Millville would have approximately 21.84% of CCTech's student enrollment and would receive a payment of $21,835.44. The payment would be made in December when the ASSA is finalized by the State.

CCTech estimated that approximately thirty to forty Millville students attending CCTech would be participating in sports. Taking all sports into consideration, CCTech made the reasonable cost estimate of $300–500 per student. If forty students decided to play sports, the total using the highest amount of $500 per student was $20,000. Using the funding formula as determined by CCTech would have provided Millville with $21,853, more than the estimated cost.

Millville objected to CCTech's proposal and countered that it wanted to be paid in accordance with an itemized list of the cost for each student athlete: Millville did not want to receive more than it was entitled to for the cost of athletic participation, nor did it want to receive less. However, CCTech felt that this counter-proposal was unwieldy. Students may try out for a sport or start and drop out. Or they may switch sports. They may participate in several sports. An accounting would not be available with any reasonable accuracy for verification by the public, unlike CCTech's proposal, which is capable of verification.

Accordingly, it is not reasonable for Millville to deny CCTech students the opportunity to play sports in Millville based on this concern, as CCTech has made a very reasonable proposal that addresses this issue for Millville and its three other sending districts.

11. [Term of Agreement.]

> Any agreement will be for a term of 12 months and then renegotiated by the parties.

Millville wants the agreement to be renegotiated after a year. CCTech objects to an automatic termination and proposes to resolve this issue as it did with CR in their MOA by agreeing that, at a specific time each year (February), they would meet to tweak the agreement before the end of the school year so that the athletes could remain on the fields and to provide their respective boards with notice of the resolution.

The position of CCTech is reasonable. Given that it has been more than three years since this litigation commenced and the end is not yet in sight, and its students are not yet participating in sports, it would be most unreasonable to terminate the agreement after twelve months and have to start anew. It is not reasonable for Millville to want to renegotiate each year with the likely attendant delay in implementing the Commissioner's directive to permit the CCTech students to play sports in the district where they reside.

Accordingly, it is not reasonable for Millville to deny CCTech students the opportunity to play sports based on this concern.

CONCLUSION

Under the NJSIAA rules as adopted by Millville, vocational-school students may participate in the sports programs of their home districts upon the agreement of the principals. Although the decision to allow participation is discretionary, that discretionary authority must be reasonably exercised based on bona fide, legitimate considerations. Here, I CONCLUDE that CCTech has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that the reasons advanced by Millville for not coming to an agreement with CCTech for the participation of its students in Millville's athletic activities, as directed by the Commissioner, are not legitimate, reasonable, or practicable concerns. CCTech has addressed each concern of Millville with reasonable and practical solutions. Accordingly, there is no reason why CCTech students residing in Millville should be denied the opportunity to participate in Millville's athletic program.

ORDER

I ORDER that the application of the petitioner, Cumberland County Technical Education Center, Cumberland County, to compel the respondent, the Board of Education of the City of Millville, Cumberland County, to admit its students residing in Millville into Millville's athletic and sports programs, is GRANTED. New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Decision

Noemia Gomes,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner – formerly a tenured secretary in the respondent Board's school district – appealed her removal from the Board's health benefits plan, and sought reimbursement for the insurance premiums she continued to pay thereafter through COBRA. The action to terminate payment of her insurance premiums occurred after Ms. Gomes had been absent from work for more than 180 days during the 2016-2017 school year. The Board contended that its actions were lawful, as it acted in compliance with the school district's collective bargaining agreement (CBA), which provides that the Board "...shall continue to pay the full premium for each employee working an average of 20 hours or more per week"; as petitioner had not been working the required number of hours, nor was she on an approved leave of absence, the Board terminated her health benefits on June 14, 2017. In a separate proceeding, the Board filed tenure charges against petitioner in February 2018, and she was subsequently dismissed from her position by an Arbitrator in a decision dated March 4, 2019. The parties filed cross motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; health insurance is a benefit subject to the CBA, and health insurance benefits are not compensation as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10; however, the CBA is silent on how, or when, health insurance benefits should be terminated given the facts in this matter; petitioner had a long history of extremely poor attendance, and stopped working altogether in August 2017; prior to that date, in June 2017, the Board ceased payment of health insurance premiums for petitioner; and, for unknown reasons, the Board failed to file tenure charges against petition until February 2018. The ALJ concluded that the Board should have proceeded with the filing of tenure charges instead of waiting until eight months after the termination of petitioner's health benefits before filing charges. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered the Board to reimburse petitioner for the cost of health benefits for the period from the date benefits were terminated in June 2017 to the date the Board certified tenure charges in February 2018, in the amount of $40,276.46.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred that health insurance benefits for a tenured employee are controlled by the CBA and are not compensation under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. However, the Commissioner found that the ALJ erred in determining that the Board was required to file tenure charges in order to terminate petitioner's health benefits. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was rejected as the final decision in this matter. Petitioner is not entitled to reimbursement for the cost of any health benefit premiums. The petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Noemia Gomes,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by the parties pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and petitioner's reply thereto.

Petitioner, a tenured secretary, challenges her removal from the Board's health benefit plan after she was absent from work more than 180 days during the 2016-17 school year. Regarding health benefits, the school district's Collective Bargaining Agreement (CBA) provides: "The Board shall continue to pay the full premium for each employee working an average of at least 20 hours or more per week." As petitioner had not been working an average of 20 hours per week, nor was she on an approved leave of absence, the Board terminated petitioner's health benefits on June 14, 2017. Thereafter, the petitioner filed the within appeal.[1] The Board subsequently certified tenure charges against petitioner on February 22, 2018. In a separate proceeding on the tenure charges, petitioner was dismissed from her position by an Arbitrator in a decision dated March 4, 2019.

In the instant Initial Decision, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that health insurance is a benefit subject to the CBA, and is not compensation pursuant to the tenure law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. However, the ALJ found that the CBA did not provide guidance as to how, or when, health insurance benefits should be terminated. As such, the ALJ concluded that the Board should have proceeded by filing tenure charges first, instead of waiting until eight months after the termination of petitioner's health benefits before filing the charges. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered the Board to reimburse petitioner for the cost of health benefits in the amount of $40,276.46, representing petitioner's out of pocket costs from the date the benefits were terminated on June 14, 2017, to the date the Board certified tenure charges on February 22, 2018.

In its exceptions, the Board maintains that the ALJ properly determined that health benefits are governed by the CBA and are not considered compensation under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. However, the Board takes exception to the ALJ's conclusion that petitioner is entitled to reimbursement for health benefits through the date upon which the Board certified tenure charges against petitioner. The Board argues that the ALJ erred in finding that the CBA did not delineate how or when termination of health benefits should occur. The CBA states that an employee must work a minimum of 20 hours per week to quality for health benefits. As such, there is no need for further detail regarding how or when to terminate health benefits since a staff member who does not work at least 20 hours does not qualify for such benefit. Here, the Board emphasizes that petitioner was not working an average of 20 or more hours per week when the benefit was terminated, nor was she on an approved leave of absence.

The Board also contends that the ALJ erred in finding that the ability to terminate health insurance benefits hinges on the filing of tenure charges, as there is no support for such a finding. The ALJ's determinations contradicted one another: he first found that the CBA is the controlling document regarding the payment of health insurance premiums, and that health insurance benefits are not compensation under the tenure laws; he then concluded, however, that tenure charges should have been filed pursuant to the tenure laws in order to terminate petitioner's health benefits. The Board maintains that health benefits are not contemplated by the tenure laws, so the filing of tenure charges should not be a prerequisite to the termination of premium payments, especially since health benefits under the CBA cover non-tenured employees in addition to tenured employees.

Alternatively, the Board argues that the ALJ concluded the respondent was untimely in filing tenure charges, yet the ALJ failed to conduct any fact-finding on the issue before reaching his conclusion. The Board maintains that the tenure laws do not set forth specific timeframes for the filing of tenure charges in matters, such as this one, wherein petitioner abandoned her position. Additionally, tenure charges are fact specific and are part of a lengthy process. The Board contends that the ALJ improperly made the determination that eight months was an unreasonable period of time to wait before certifying tenure charges, without first conducting fact-finding as to the history of petitioner's attendance issues or why the Board certified charges when it did.

In reply to the Board's exceptions, petitioner argues that the ALJ properly found that the CBA does not provide guidance on how or when to terminate health insurance premiums. Petitioner contends that the Board cannot act unilaterally by canceling health benefits anytime it chooses; rather, such decisions should be part of the collective negotiation process. Petitioner disputes the Board's interpretation of the ALJ's finding that the Board was required to file tenure charges in order to terminate the payment of health premiums. Instead, petitioner argues that the ALJ found that the Board waited a lengthy time to file tenure charges without explanation, and that in effect, the board terminated petitioner – a tenured employee – by ceasing to pay her salary and insurance payments, thereby bypassing the tenure laws. Petitioner further contends that the issue of the timeliness of the tenure charges was not raised sua sponte by the ALJ, and was instead raised by petitioner in her cross motion for summary decision. As such, petitioner urges the Commissioner to reject the Board's exceptions and adopt the Initial Decision without modification.

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that health insurance benefits for a tenured employee are controlled by the CBA, and are not considered compensation for the purposes of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. The Commissioner has made clear that "the term 'compensation' with respect to the tenure right protections provided by education law is by now well-established, having been explicitly defined as encompassing only salary." Thomas Manna v. Board of Education of the Somerset County Vocational Technical School District, Somerset County, Commissioner's Decision No. 178-10, June 14, 2010, at 4 (emphasis in original). Additionally, the Commissioner has found that health insurance benefits – in addition to other benefits such as accumulated sick leave – are not preserved and protected by the tenure statutes, and instead are "a contractual benefit subject to collective bargaining negotiations." Manna, supra, at 5; Arlene C. Allen, et al v. Board of Education of the Township of Clark, Union County, Commissioner Decision No. 189-04, April 30, 2004, aff'd State Board, September 1, 2004. As such, the Commissioner agrees that petitioner's health benefits are governed by the CBA.

However, the Commissioner disagrees with the ALJ's determination that the Board was required to file tenure charges in order to terminate petitioner's health benefits. As the payment of health benefit premiums is controlled by the CBA, and is not considered salary under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, the termination of health benefits cannot logically be impacted in any way by the filing of tenure charges. The Commissioner agrees with the Board that, as petitioner did not work for 20 hours per week and was not on an approved leave, she was not eligible for health benefits under the CBA. As the Commissioner found in Manna, supra, when the petitioner went from a full-time position to a part-time position following a reduction in force, "because petitioner did not qualify as 'eligible' for health insurance benefits pursuant to the Contract, he possesses no entitlement to this benefit." Similarly, here, petitioner has no entitlement to health insurance benefits if she does not meet the minimum requirement of working 20 hours per week. Accordingly, the Board's action in terminating the payment of petitioner's health benefit premiums was not arbitrary, capricious, or contrary to the law.

The Commissioner does not find petitioner's reply exceptions to be persuasive. Contrary to petitioner's argument, the Board is not able to act unilaterally and cancel health benefits anytime it chooses. The Board must act in accordance with the eligibility requirements for health benefits, which were part of the collective negotiation process and are set forth in the CBA. Additionally, the termination of petitioner's health insurance premiums did not effectively terminate her employment and bypass the tenure laws. As detailed above, health insurance benefits are not compensation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is rejected as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed herein. Petitioner is not entitled to reimbursement for the cost of any health benefit premiums. The petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

The matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on November 17, 2017, as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A pre-hearing telephone conference was held on December 1, 2017, and a Pre-Hearing Order was entered on the same date.

Petitioner's counsel submitted correspondence requesting an adjournment of the March 21, 2018, hearing date, and that the matter be placed on the inactive list pending the outcome of a tenure charge hearing. Respondent's counsel joined in the request. The matter was placed on the inactive list by order dated March 26, 2018. The matter was continued on the inactive list by order dated September 28, 2018.

By letter dated October 17, 2018, Petitioner's counsel requested the matter be restored to the active list. The matter was thereafter restored to the active list.

Respondent filed a motion for summary decision, and brief in support of said motion, dated March 5, 2019. Petitioner filed a cross-motion for summary decision, and brief in support of said motion and in opposition to Respondent's motion for summary decision, dated April 15, 2019. Respondent filed its reply brief in opposition to the Petitioner's cross-motion on April 26, 2019. Petitioner filed her reply brief on May 9, 2019.

The undersigned requested supplemental briefs, which were due on or before May 24, 2019.

The record closed on May 24, 2019.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The following FACTS are not in dispute:

1. Petitioner was hired by Respondent Board in February 2008 as an administrative secretary.
2. Petitioner was hired as a twelve-month employee.
3. Petitioner obtained tenure during her third year of continuous full-time employment.
4. Health insurance benefits were provided to Petitioner pursuant to the Collective Bargaining Agreement (CBA) between the parties.
5. During the 2016-2017 school year commencing on July 1, 2016, and ending June 30, 2017, Petitioner was absent from work for one (1) illness day, eleven and one-half (11.5) vacation days, one and eighty-eight hundreds (1.88) personal days, fifty-three and thirty-eight one hundredths (53.38) sick days, one hundred seven (107) days on leave of absence, and seven (7) unexcused absences.
6. By letter dated June 13, 2017, the Respondent Board, through its Interim Assistant Superintendent for Human Resources Francisco Cuesta, informed Petitioner that her health benefits would be terminated effective June 14, 2017.
7. The basis for Respondent's termination of health benefits was that Petitioner did not work full time or on an approved leave of absence in order to qualify for health benefits.
8. The CBA provides in pertinent part at Article XVII as follows: "The Board shall continue to pay full premium for each employee working an average of at least 20 hours or more per week."
9. Petitioner has not been at work since August 23, 2017, which is an unpaid, unapproved leave of absence.
10. Petitioner avers that she paid her own health insurance premiums through COBRA from June 2017 through November 2018, totaling $40,279.46.
11. The Respondent certified tenure charges against Petitioner on February 22, 2018.
12. On March 4, 2019, Petitioner was dismissed from her position with Respondent following a hearing on the tenure charges.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

A motion for summary decision may be granted if the papers and discovery presented, as well as any affidavits which may have been filed with the application, show that there is no genuine issue of material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). If the motion is sufficiently supported, the non-moving party must demonstrate by affidavit that there is a genuine issue of fact which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding, in order to prevail in such an application. Ibid. These provisions mirror the summary judgment language of R. 4:46-2(c) of the New Jersey Court Rules.

The motion judge must "consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party . . . , are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995). And even if the non-moving party comes forward with some evidence, this forum must grant summary decision if the evidence is "so one-sided that [the moving party] must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 536 (citation omitted).

The parties do not dispute the facts in the instant matter. Rather, the parties dispute whether or not Respondent Board's termination of medical benefits for Petitioner are permitted pursuant to statutory and case law. Accordingly, the matter is ripe for summary decision.

Initially, Respondent asserts that Petitioner's submissions on the instant motion and cross-motion should not be considered as they were not timely filed. Respondent cites N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) which sets forth the time frames for filing responsive papers, which is twenty (20) days from the date of service of a motion for summary decision. Respondent also asserts that Petitioner failed to submit a signed affidavit in support of her cross-motion for summary decision.[1] A signed affidavit was thereafter submitted.

[1] Petitioner submitted an unsigned affidavit.

Petitioner does not dispute that her response and cross-motion were not timely filed, and that an unsigned affidavit was submitted, and offers an excuse for same. I need not delve into the merits of the excuse here.

N.J.S.A. 1:1-3(b) states:

> Except as stated in (c) below, procedural rules may be relaxed or disregarded if the judge determines that adherence would result in unfairness or injustice. The judge shall make such determinations and state the reasons for doing so on the record.

Respondent suffers no prejudice from the late filing. Striking Petitioner's response and cross-motion would be a Draconian response, and one not merited herein. It would be more prudent to consider all papers filed regarding the motion and cross-motion for summary decision and to render an opinion on the merits of same.

Respondent asserts in its motion for summary decision that it correctly terminated health insurance benefits to Petitioner in accordance with the CBA, citing Article XVII thereof, which states in pertinent part, "The Board shall continue to pay the full premium for each employee working an average of at least 20 hours or more per week . . . ." It is not disputed that Petitioner did not work an average of twenty hours or more per week.

In support of its argument, Respondent cites Allen v. Board of Education of the Township of Clark, Union County, Commissioner's Decision No. 189-04 (April 30, 2004), https://www.nj.gov/education/legal/commissioner/2004decisions.shtml, affirmed, State Board (September 1, 2004), affirmed, A-754-04T2. In said decision the Commissioner found that payment upon retirement for unused sick leave is not compensation. Such payment for unused sick leave is a benefit subject to collective bargaining.

Respondent argues that, likewise, the payment of health benefit premiums is also a benefit subject to collective bargaining and that the CBA is controlling herein.

In further support of its argument Respondent cites Manna v. Board of Education of the Somerset County Vocational Technical School District, Somerset County, Commissioner Decision No. 178-10 (June 14, 2010), https://www.nj.gov/education/legal/commissioner/2010decisions.shtml, the Commissioner interpreted Basset v. Board of Education of the Borough of Oakland, 223 N.J. Super. 136 (App. Div. 1988). Therein the Commissioner determined that health insurance benefits are not preserved and protected by this statute[2] but, rather – as recognized by the ALJ – are a contractual benefit subject to collective bargaining negotiations.

Manna involved a teacher whose hours were reduced below thirty-five hours per week, thereby rendering him ineligible to receive health insurance benefits. Manna argued that this was a reduction in compensation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and therefore impermissible.

Respondent's position is that the CBA is controlling herein and that the termination of payment for health insurance premiums for Petitioner was justified thereunder. Respondent further asserts that, as health insurance is a benefit subject to the CBA, it is not compensation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. I agree.

Petitioner argues that both Allen and Manna are not controlling and that DePasquale v. State of N.J., 211 N.J. 40 (2012) is controlling. I disagree. The issue in DePasquale was the compensation of New Jersey Judges and Justices. It did not involve public employees. Further, DePasquale was decided on the New Jersey Constitution provision regarding the diminishment of the salaries of sitting Judges and Justices.

Petitioner also asserts that the termination of health insurance by Respondent violates N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10(b), which provides that "No person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation" . . . "except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing held pursuant to this subarticle."

It is clear that health insurance benefits for a tenured school employee are controlled by the CBA. This is supported by both Allen and Manna. However, the CBA is silent as to how, or when, health insurance benefits should be terminated given the facts herein. In the instant matter Petitioner simply stopped going to work. After a long history of extremely poor attendance Petitioner stopped working altogether on August 23, 2017. Prior to that date, on June 14, 2017, Respondent ceased payment of health insurance premiums for Petitioner. For unknown reasons Respondent failed to file tenure charges against Petitioner until February 22, 2018.

While I have determined that the CBA is the controlling document concerning the payment of health insurance premiums, and that health insurance benefits are not compensation as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, It is clear from the undisputed facts that tenure charges should have been filed as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

As the CBA offers no guidance on how to terminate payment of health insurance premiums given the facts herein the only reasonable way for Respondent to proceed would be to timely file tenure charges. It did not. Rather, Respondent waited eight months from the time it stopped payment of Petitioner's health insurance premium to the time tenure charges were filed. Why Respondent waited is not explained.

Petitioner notes that she was not reinstated to health insurance benefits by Respondent on the 120th day after the filing of tenure charges.

N.J.S.A. 18:6-14 states in pertinent part:

> Upon certification of any charge to the commissioner, the board may suspend the person against whom such charge is made, with or without pay, but, if the determination of the charge by the arbitrator is not made within 120 calendar after certification of the charges, excluding all delays which are granted at the request of such person, then the full salary (except for said 120 days) of such person shall be > paid beginning on the one hundred twenty-first day until such determination is made.

N.J.S.A. 18:6-14 is not applicable in the instant matter. Petitioner was not suspended. She did not report to work at all from August 23, 2017. Further, N.J.S.A. 18:6-14 refers only to reinstatement of salary.

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that Respondent's motion for summary decision should be denied. I further CONCLUDE that Petitioner's cross-motion for summary decision should be granted.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that Respondent's motion for summary decision is DENIED; and,

It is further ORDERED that Petitioner's cross-motion for summary decision is GRANTED; and,

It is further ORDERED that Respondent shall reimburse Petitioner for the cost of health benefits premiums paid by her from the date such benefits were terminated by Respondent (June 14, 2017) through the date of tenure charges were certified (February 22, 2018) totaling $40,279.46; and,

It is further ORDERED that no reimbursement shall be made until such time Petitioner submits adequate documentation as to the payment of insurance premiums by way of canceled checks and/or receipts from the insurance provider; and

It is further ORDERED that reimbursement to Petitioner shall be made within sixty (60) days after receipt of such adequate documentation.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

M.R., on behalf of minor child, N.R.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent Board that his child was ineligible to receive a free public education in respondent's school district. Petitioner asserted that he is domiciled in Elizabeth and that his daughter spent most of her time with him during the relevant time period, from November 2018 through her graduation from high school in June 2019. The Board contended that a residency investigation had demonstrated that M.R. lived in East Orange, and N.R. lived in Union with her mother; the Board filed a counterclaim for tuition.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the testimony provided by M.R. at hearing in this matter was credible, and no persuasive evidence to the contrary was presented by the Board; M.R. resides in Elizabeth in a shared apartment situation, and both his name and his daughter's name appear as residents on the property lease; both M.R. and L.R., the mother of N.R., gave credible testimony describing the time spent by N.R. between their two homes; N.R. did share her time between the separate domiciles of her two parents, but primarily spent four nights per week in Elizabeth during the school year. The ALJ concluded that M.R. is domiciled in Elizabeth, and has met his burden of demonstrating that N.R. was properly enrolled in the Elizabeth public schools and eligible for a free education therein. The ALJ ordered that the Board's demand for tuition set forth in its counterclaim be dismissed; further, as N.R. has graduated from high school, the continued free attendance in the Elizabeth public schools requested in the petition is now moot. The petition was dismissed.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Final Decision

M.R., on behalf of minor child, N.R.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.[1] The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner sustained his burden of demonstrating that he was a domiciled in Elizabeth from November 30, 2018 through the end of the 2018-19 school year. As such, the minor child, N.R., was entitled to a free public education in the District's schools during that time. Additionally, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the issue of N.R.'s continued free attendance in the District is moot as she has graduated from high school.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. The Board's counterpetition for tuition is dismissed.

BEFORE ELLEN S. BASS, ALJ:

Petitioner, M.R., appeals the determination of respondent, the Elizabeth Board of Education, that he is not domiciled in its district. The Board had determined that his daughter was ineligible to attend the public schools, and counterclaims for tuition.

Petitioner filed an appeal with the Commissioner of Education (the Commissioner) on February 13, 2019. The Board filed an answer on March 4, 2019, and the contested case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on March 20, 2019. The case was scheduled for hearing on April 24, 2019, and May 3, 2019. The April date was adjourned at the request of the Board. The Board then requested an adjournment of the May 3, 2019, date, and the matter was rescheduled for July 10, 2019. This date was again adjourned at the request of the Board. All adjournments were granted with petitioner's consent.

The hearing ultimately proceeded on August 7, 2019; the parties presented documentary and testimonial evidence and the record closed. In the interim, N.R. graduated from high school. M.R. thus no longer seeks his daughter's continued attendance in the Elizabeth schools. The Board continues to press its entitlement to tuition under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. The Board contests M.R.'s residency in Elizabeth for the period from November 30, 2018, until N.R.'s graduation from high school in June 2019.

FINDINGS OF FACT

On November 30, 2018, the Board sent a Notice of Initial Determination of Ineligibility to M.R. at an address it had on file in East Orange. The letter was signed for by "R," M.R.'s last name.[1] A Board level residency hearing took place on January 28, 2019. Investigator William Buteau was present at the Board hearing, and related that M.R. had advised that he lived in Elizabeth with his girlfriend L.P. M.R. produced a lease that listed himself and N.R. as occupants of the apartment. His driver's license, however, bore the East Orange address. When asked for his Elizabeth address at the Board hearing, M.R. initially offered the incorrect street number; he later corrected himself. After hearing Buteau's testimony, M.R. told me he made this error because the Board hearing was a frightening and unfamiliar situation, and he was stressed and confused. M.R. seemed similarly stressed and uncertain about the process when he appeared at the OAL.

[1] M.R.'s mother lives at that address and has the same last name.

Buteau testified that he conducted surveillance at the Board's request on January 29, 2019, and January 30, 2019. He observed a vehicle owned by L.R., N.R.'s mother, transport N.R. from Union to school in Elizabeth both mornings. Based on Buteau's findings, and on the information supplied at the hearing, the Board determined that M.R. resided in East Orange, and that N.R. resided with her mother in Union. On February 5, 2019, the Board wrote to M.R. and advised that the Board had determined that he did not reside in Elizabeth, and that N.R. was not eligible to attend the public schools. Importantly, I FIND that the sole basis expressed in the Notice of Final Ineligibility for his daughter's removal was M.R.'s purported domicile outside of Elizabeth. The concern that N.R. resided with her mother went entirely unmentioned. The Notice advised M.R. that he had a right to appeal to the Commissioner. N.R. appealed the findings in the February 5, 2019, letter; N.R. remained in school in Elizabeth in the interim as required by law.

M.R. appeared at the OAL hearing with L.R. He explained that together he and L.R. had decided that their daughter should live with him in Elizabeth. N.R. was not having a successful experience in the Union schools, where she had attended high school previously. M.R. has lived in Elizabeth since October 2017; N.R. started to attend school in Elizabeth at that time. Until 2016 he had lived in Union, and then temporarily relocated to Berkley Heights before moving to Elizabeth.

M.R. produced a lease between L.P. and Elizabeth Gardens, LLC, for the period from February 1, 2018, until February 1, 2019. Although he is not a signatory to that lease, M.R.'s name and that of his daughter appear as additional occupants. A similar one-year lease was executed on February 1, 2019. M.R. indicated however, that he has lived at the address noted on the lease with L.P., who he described as a friend, since October 2017. He shares the rent for the apartment. While M.R. stated that he pays half of an $1,100 per month rental fee, the two leases reflected entirely different rental amounts: $1,270 per month in 2018, and somewhat curiously, only $1,025 per month in 2019.

M.R. also produced three 2019 bills for his Visa account, all with the same Elizabeth address as that on L.P.'s lease. He provided me with a copy of his driver's license and explained that when he appeared at the residency hearing before the Board, his license reflected the East Orange address where his mother resides. M.R. stated that he has not resided with his mother since 1989, but never changed the address on his license. In an effort to avoid any further confusion about where he lives, M.R. changed his license in June 2019 to reflect the Elizabeth address.

M.R. explained the living arrangements once N.R. came to live with him in Elizabeth. He was emphatic that she usually stayed with him during the week and spent only weekends with her mother in Union. He stated that N.R. spent Monday through Thursday nights at his home. Both M.R. and L.R. readily admitted that there were occasional times when N.R. would spend the night mid-week with her mother. But L.R. urged that this would happen no more than one or two times per month. During the summer, N.R. would spend more time with her mother in Union.

M.R. seemed genuinely confused by the Board's cross-petition for tuition. He asserted without equivocation that he lived in Elizabeth, and that his daughter spent most of her time with him there during the relevant time period. He urged that he brought her to Elizabeth because she had been bullied in Union, and the schools there seemed powerless to rectify the situation. M.R. was incredulous that there would be any reason why his daughter could not attend school in Elizabeth. He was firm that his only objective in having his daughter to live with him in Elizabeth was to obtain a proper education for his child, and that he was not trying to cheat anyone.

A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). Our courts have held that "credibility findings . . . are often influenced by matters such as observations of the character and demeanor of witnesses . . . that are not transmitted by the record." State v. Locurto, 157 N.J. 463, 474 (1998). M.R. showed an inability to recall some details; for example, the rental amount quoted at the hearing was not the sum reflected on the leases. This was reminiscent of his inability to correctly offer the correct street address at the Board level hearing. But overall, I found his assertion that he lived in Elizabeth believable and I heard no persuasive evidence to the contrary. Board Investigator Buteau attempted to raise some question about whether N.R. spent most of her time in Elizabeth, but he offered nothing to support the Board's finding that M.R. himself did not reside in Elizabeth.[2] Indeed, since the Board had directed him to conduct surveillance, Buteau could have easily followed M.R. and offered proof that M.R. did not spend the night in Elizabeth. It is noteworthy that no such evidence was presented. I FIND that M.R. resides in Elizabeth at the address reflected on the lease he presented at the hearing. I likewise believed both M.R. and L.R. when they described the time spent by N.R. between their two homes. I FIND that N.R. shared her time between her parents' homes, but primarily spent four nights per week in Elizabeth during the school year.

The Board produced a budget worksheet that reflected the daily rate for high school students, and also shared a school calendar. Per Buteau's testimony, I FIND that the Board seeks tuition reimbursement for 125 school days at a tuition rate of $79.79 per day, for a total sum of $9,973.75.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Public schools are required to provide a free education to individuals between the ages of five and twenty years who are domiciled within the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). Domicile has been defined as the place where a person has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning. State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238, 250 (1955). The domicile of an unemancipated child is that of her parent, custodian or guardian. P.B.K. ex rel minor child E.Y. v. Bd. of Educ. of Tenafly, 343 N.J. Super. 419, 427 (App. Div. 2001).

[2] Buteau's surveillance proof that on two nights in January 2019 N.R. spent school nights in Union with her mother was consistent with her parents' testimony that she did sometimes stay with her mother mid-week, albeit infrequently.

Where a local board determines that a child is not properly domiciled in its district, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) provides a right of appeal to the parents as follows:

> The parent or guardian may contest the board's decision before the commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the commissioner and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this subsection.

I CONCLUDE that M.R. is a domiciliary of Elizabeth. Since the determination of the Board was based on a finding that he did not reside in Elizabeth, I further CONCLUDE that M.R. has met his burden of demonstrating that N.R. was properly enrolled in the Elizabeth public schools and was eligible for a free education.

Due process required that the Board provide M.R. with any and all bases for its determination of ineligibility; as its determination that he did not reside in Elizabeth was the only basis expressed in its February 5, 2019, Notice of Final Ineligibility, my analysis can end here. But in the interest of thoroughness, I will note that the administrative code offers guidance where, as here, a child shares her time between divorced or separated parents who live in two different school districts. N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)(1)(i) provides that

> 1. A student is domiciled in the school district when he or she is the child of a parent or guardian whose domicile is located within the school district.
> > i. When a student's parents or guardians are domiciled within different school districts and there is no court order or written agreement between the parents designating the school district of attendance, the student's domicile is the school district of the parent or guardian with whom the student lives for the majority of the school year. This subparagraph shall apply regardless of which parent has legal custody.

This regulation evinces a regulatory recognition that in today's world custody arrangements are often changing and fluid and are often determined by parents informally and without court intervention. The regulation in essence allows divorced parents to informally decide where their child will attend school. Since the evidence revealed that N.R. spent more nights than not in Elizabeth during the school year, N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)(1)(i) makes it plain and I CONCLUDE that she was domiciled in Elizabeth from November 2018 until she graduated from high school in June 2019.

Having determined that N.R. was eligible for school attendance from November 30, 2018, until the end of the school year in June 2019, I CONCLUDE that there is no basis for the award of tuition sought by the Board's counterclaim, and it should be dismissed.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, together with the record as a whole, I ORDER that the Board's demand for tuition as set forth in its counterclaim be DISMISSED. Insofar as N.R. has graduated from high school, the relief sought by the petition, that is, continued free attendance in the Elizabeth public schools, is moot and likewise is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF MONIQUE KIRKLAND,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF	:	DECISION
EAST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY.	:

For the Petitioner, Jonathan L. Williams, Esq.
No appearance by or on behalf of Respondent, Monique Kirkland

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on August 9, 2019, through tenure charges of conduct unbecoming, chronic absenteeism, insubordination, neglect, and other just cause certified by Kevin R. West, Superintendent of Schools for the East Orange Board of Education, together with supporting evidence against respondent, Monique Kirkland, a tenured secretary in the petitioner's employ. The petitioner provided respondent with written notice of such certification at the respondent's last known address on August 9, 2019.

On August 12, 2019, the Office of Controversies and Disputes (C&D) directed the respondent – via both certified and regular mail – to file an answer to the charges. This communication clearly provided notice to respondent that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified "shall have 15 days from the day such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges with the Commissioner," and that failure to answer within the prescribed period would – absent granting of an extension for good cause shown – result in the charges being deemed admitted. Having received no response to the first notice, on August 27, 2019, C&D sent a second and final notice to respondent – via both certified and regular mail – again directing her to file an answer to the charges. To date, no reply to the tenure charges has been received from or on behalf of respondent.

The certified tenure charges and statement of supporting evidence filed by the petitioner in this matter indicate that respondent has been employed by the District as a tenured secretary at the East Orange Campus High School. On or about November 28, 2018, respondent requested an intermittent health leave of absence for a "seasonal" asthma condition. In January 2019 the Board approved a fifteen (15) day intermittent leave of absence effective from December 21, 2018 through June 30, 2019. However, respondent has been continuously absent since on or about January 8, 2019. Having exhausted her fifteen (15) days of intermittent leave as of January 28, 2019, and her accrued sick leave as of February 22, 2019, respondent has been on unpaid leave ever since. Respondent's health benefits were terminated effective April 1, 2019 for failure to make her required contributions. Further, although she was never approved for such, as of April 2, 2019, her twelve (12) weeks of statutorily protected extended leave of absence would have expired. At no point during this time has Ms. Kirkland responded to, acknowledged, or complied with the District's repeated requests for medical verification in accordance with the Board's verification of sick leave policy. Respondent has communicated that she is "out of state" despite being allegedly too unwell to come to work. She has not reported to her job since January 8, 2019.

Deeming the allegations to be admitted and noting that respondent has failed to respond to the charges certified against her, the Commissioner finds that petitioner's charges of conduct unbecoming a school employee, chronic absenteeism, insubordination, and neglect of duty have been proven and overwhelmingly warrant the respondent's dismissal. Accordingly, summary decision is hereby granted to the petitioner, and the respondent is dismissed from her tenured position with the District.

Final Decision

Debra Venedam,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Marlboro, Monmouth County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner – a taxpayer in the respondent's school district – alleged that the Board violated its stated policy regarding the filling of Board vacancies when it failed to vote in public session on a vacancy in December 2018. The Board contended that its actions in filling the vacancy in question were at all times in compliance with its Bylaw #143 and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-15, and filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the issue for determination here is whether the Board's motion to dismiss should be granted, or whether petitioner is entitled to an evidentiary hearing to show that the Board vacancy was improperly filled; petitioner failed to show that she standing to bring this matter, as she had no specific personal and concrete stake in the outcome of the Board vote; petitioner named individual Board members in her petition, but failed to name the Board as a whole as a party to this matter; petitioner did not allege any violations of Title 18A by the Board, nor did she demand any remedy or relief unter Title 18A; and the respondent Board appears to have fully complied with its Bylaw #143, which contains the Board's policy regarding the filling of vacancies. The ALJ concluded that the Board was in compliance with bylaw #143 and petitioner failed to show that there was any genuine issue of material fact herein. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion to dismiss the petition.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the Board complied with its policy regarding the filling of Board vacancies, and therefore the petition must be dismissed. However, the Commissioner disagreed with the remaining findings of the ALJ, specifically on the issues of standing, the naming of indispensable parties to the case, and jurisdiction, as the petitioner did allege a violation of New Jersey school laws. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as modified herein, and the petition was dismissed.

Final Decision

Debra Venedam,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Marlboro, Monmouth County,

Respondent.

In this matter, petitioner – a taxpayer in respondent's district – alleges that the Board violated its stated policy regarding the filling of Board vacancies when it failed to vote in public session on a vacancy in December 2018. Regarding board vacancies, the Board's "District Policy #143: Board Member Election and Appointment," states: "In considering candidates who have expressed an interest in the vacancy, the Board of Education will interview interested candidates in public. Deliberation may occur in executive session, but the board must vote to appoint a candidate to a vacancy in public session so that the public can see the decision making process." In this case, the Board interviewed five candidates for the vacant position in public session on December 18, 2018. The Board then deliberated on the candidates' qualifications in an executive session, during which the Board determined that none of the five candidates were qualified to fill the vacancy. Accordingly, no vote to fill the vacant seat occurred during the public session that followed the executive meeting; rather, a motion was made, seconded, and unanimously approved to re-advertise the vacancy. Petitioner contends that the executive session deliberations were in fact a Board vote on the vacancy, which should have occurred in a public session pursuant to Policy #143.

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the Board complied with its policy because it interviewed interested candidates in public and deliberated in executive session, as permitted in the bylaws. The Board did not vote on candidates in executive session, but rather decided not to vote on any of the five candidates, as none of them were qualified for the position. Thereafter, the Board advertised the position again, conducted interviews of additional candidates at the next Board meeting – in January 2019 – and voted on the resulting nominee in a public session as required by the relevant Board policy. As the ALJ stated, "The plain meaning of bylaw #0143 was that, if a Board chose to nominate a candidate, the final vote on the candidate was to take place in public session." (Initial Decision at 6) Since the Board fully complied with its policy regarding the filling of Board vacancies, the Commissioner agrees that the within petition must be dismissed.

The Commissioner disagrees, however, with the remaining findings of the ALJ – specifically, on the issues of standing, the naming of indispensable parties to the case, and petitioner's alleged failure to demand any remedy or relief under New Jersey's school laws. Petitioner does in fact have standing as a taxpayer to challenge the application of a school policy, given New Jersey's "venerable liberal application of standing criteria, . . . particularly in taxpayer suits and the like[.]" Ridgewood Education Association, et al. v. Ridgewood Board of Education, 284 N.J. Super. 427, 431 (App. Div. 1995) (internal citations omitted).[1] Additionally, petitioner did not fail to name an indispensable party. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16, the Department of Education has traditionally provided leniency, where appropriate, when considering the pleadings of pro se litigants. Accordingly, when the within petition named each member of the Board individually, rather than the Board as a whole, the Office of Controversies and Disputes adjusted the filing to indicate that the petition was against the Board, as this was petitioner's clear intent. The petition was transmitted to the OAL with the corrected caption, indicating that the respondent was the Marlboro Township Board of Education. Finally, the Commissioner does have jurisdiction over this matter as the petition alleged a violation of Board policy, which clearly falls under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted – as modified herein – as the final decision in this matter. The petition is hereby dismissed.

However, the State Board's decision was subsequently reversed by the Appellate Division.

INITIAL DECISION GRANTING RESPONDENT'S MOTION TO DISMISS IN LIEU OF ANSWER

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6455-19
AGENCY DKT. NO. 58-3/19

DEBRA VENEDAM,

Petitioner,

v.

MARLBORO TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, MONMOUTH COUNTY[1],

Respondent.

Debra Venedam, petitioner, pro se

Marc H. Zitomer, Esq., for respondent (Schenck, Price, Smith & King, LLP, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 17, 2019 Decided: July 1, 2019

---

[1] This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) with the respondent name listed as the "Marlboro Township Board of Education," but petitioner filed this matter listing the respondents as individual members of the Marlboro Board of Education and Board employees: Robyn Wolf; Dr. Randy Heller; Stephen Shifrinson, Dara Enny, Ellen Xu, Susan Shrem; Vlad Goldfarb; Dr. Eric Hibbs; Cindy S. Barr-Rague; and Joseph Roselle. Petitioner stated that the controversy was between her and the listed individuals.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner has alleged that respondent, the Marlboro Township (Monmouth County) Board of Education (the Board), failed to fill a Board vacancy in accordance with Board bylaw #0134, and has demanded audio recordings and transcriptions of executive session minutes and written explanations from all respondents as to their purported actions. Respondent denied said allegation and has filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 12, 2019, petitioner filed a complaint with the Commissioner of Education, New Jersey Department of Education (DOE), alleging that the Board violated its policy by failing to take a vote in public session when attempting to fill a vacancy on the Board. Respondent filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer with an accompanying brief on April 26, 2019. Petitioner did not file an answer or responsive brief. The DOE Bureau of Controversies and Disputes transmitted petitioner's claim to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on May 13, 2019. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A.52:14F-1 to -13. A telephone prehearing call took place on June 17, 2019, and the record closed on that date.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Petitioner did not file an answer to respondent's motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer, nor did she file a brief, statement of facts or sworn affidavits in response to respondent's motion, nor did she file any documentation disputing the preliminary statement or statement of facts and procedural history provided in respondent's motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer and brief. The parties had not stipulated to any joint statement of facts.[2] Based upon the parties' submissions, and for purposes of deciding the motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer, I FIND the following:

[2] A copy of petitioner's "Petition" of appeal to the "Commissioner of Education of New Jersey" dated March 12, 2019, was provided to this court. It contained a narrative that purported to be a factual summary of this matter. This narrative was taken into consideration in setting out the facts of this matter.

1. A vacancy on the Marlboro Township Board of Education became effective on November 20, 2018. Board bylaw #0143, regarding board vacancies, stated, "In considering candidates who have expressed an interest in the vacancy, the Board of Education will interview interested candidates in public. Deliberation may occur in executive session, but the board must vote to appoint a candidate to a vacancy in public session so the public can see the decision making process." (Petition, at 1.) The vacancy must be filled within sixty-five days of the vacancy. (Respondent Brief, at 12.)

2. Five candidates were invited by the Board for interviews at the Board meeting of December 18, 2018. The candidates were interviewed in public session, and their qualifications were then discussed in closed executive session. The Board members determined that none of the five candidates were qualified to fill the vacancy. The Board returned to open public session, and Board president, Robyn Wolfe, announced that the Board could not reach a consensus decision to appoint a new member. Mrs. Wolf made a motion to re-advertise the vacancy, which was seconded and approved unanimously by the Board. (Petition, at 2.)

3. On December 19, 2018, Mrs. Wolfe sent out a district-wide email explaining bylaw #0143 and stating that since it was clear from the Board's executive session discussion that no candidate had the support of the majority of the remaining Board members, no motion to nominate had been made by any member, resulting in the Board unanimously deciding to re-advertise for the vacancy. Mrs. Wolfe announced in her email that the next round of interviews would take place in January (2019). The vacancy was filled at the Board's January 22, 2019 meeting. (Petition, at 3.).

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

The issue is whether the respondent Board's motion to dismiss should be granted, or whether petitioner is entitled to an evidentiary hearing to show that the Board vacancy was filled improperly.

A summary decision may be granted when the papers and discovery that have been filed show that there was no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). "An adverse party in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding." Ibid. See Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). The non-moving party has the burden "to make an affirmative demonstration . . . that the facts are not as the movant alleges." Spiotta v. William H. Wilson, Inc., 72 N.J. Super. 572, 581 (App.Div. 1962).

Respondent asserted that petitioner lacked standing to file the underlying petition, that petitioner failed to state a claim upon which relief could be granted, and that the Board of Education was an indispensable party whom petitioner failed to name as a respondent. Respondent also argued that the Board had complied with the requirements of bylaw #0143 and that, therefore, there were no genuine issues as to any material facts which would require an evidentiary hearing.

Respondent was correct in stating that a party filing a petition must have a specific, personal, and concrete stake in the outcome in order to receive effective legal and judicial redress. Crescent Park Tenants Ass'n v. Realty Equities Corp., 58 N.J. 98, 107-08 (1971). A lack of standing precludes a court from entertaining any of the substantive issues presented by a petitioner for determination. Watkins v. Resorts Int'l Hotel and Casino, 124 N.J. 398, 424 (1991). It is not sufficient for a petitioner to claim they had standing based on being a taxpayer, unless they made a showing that they had both a public and private interest which was detrimentally impacted. Ridgewood Education Association, et.al. v. Ridgewood Board of Education, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 137 (1993).

Petitioner did not offer any information indicating that she had a specific, personal and concrete stake in the outcome of the Board vote to fill a vacancy, and made no showing that she suffered any detrimental impact, either personal or public.[3] Accordingly, I FIND that petitioner lacked standing to file the within petition.

A petitioner is obligated to name as a party "any person or entity indispensable to the hearing of a contested case. Failure to name an indispensable party may be grounds for dismissal of the petition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A: 3–1.10." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(b). In the within matter, petitioner had asserted irregularities by the Marlboro Township Board of Education in adhering to one of its own rules. Any vote taken would have constituted an action taken by the Board itself, not individual Board members. While petitioner named individual Board members in her petition, she failed to name the Marlboro Township Board of Education as a party.

Accordingly, I FIND that the Marlboro Township Board of Education was an indispensable party to the within action and FIND that petitioner failed to name the Marlboro Township Board of Education as a party to this litigation.

Respondent argued that the within petition should be dismissed for failure to state a claim, in that petitioner had alleged a violation of a Marlboro Township Board of Education policy but had not asserted any violation of school laws under Title 18A of the New Jersey statutes. Respondent correctly cited to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, which states that the Commissioner of Education is empowered to adjudicate "all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws." The Commissioner of Education only has jurisdiction over disputes "primarily" and "directly" arising under the school laws set out in Title 18A. See Board of Education of Hamilton v. Fraleigh, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 538; Fair Lawn Board of Educ. v. Mayor of Fair Lawn, 143 N.J.Super. 259, 266 (Law Div. 1976), aff'd 153 N.J.Super. 480 (App. Div. 1977).

Petitioner had not alleged any violations of Title 18A by respondent. Petitioner did not demand any remedy or relief under Title 18A. Respondent had suggested that the relief sought by petitioner would arise from the New Jersey Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA), N.J.S.A. 10:4-6, et. seq. Violations of OPMA would properly be filed in Superior Court, not before the Commissioner of Education. However, whether petitioner's demand for relief would be resolved under OPMA was irrelevant because petitioner failed to assert violations under Title 18A. While N.J.S.A. 18A:12-15 addresses the timelines to be followed when filling a Board of Education vacancy, that statute does not address how a board must consider a candidate's qualifications, or whether consideration of the candidate's qualifications is permitted during executive session or whether the vote must be taken in open public session. Regardless, while petitioner asserted that the Commissioner of Education may hear and determine controversies under school law, specifically citing N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, she failed to plead that respondent committed a violation of any statute under Title 18A.

[3] Additionally, petitioner failed to assert that there was any harm suffered by the public or students within the school district.

Accordingly, I FIND that petitioner failed to state a claim upon which relief could be granted.

Finally, respondent appeared to have fully complied with its bylaw #0143. The Board interviewed interested candidates for the vacancy in public, as required by bylaw #0143. The Board conducted its deliberations over the five candidates in an executive session, as permitted by bylaw #0143. The Board ultimately filled its vacancy at its meeting of January 22, 2019, within the sixty-five-day time period required by bylaw #0143.

Bylaw #0143 did not contain a requirement that the Board must nominate and vote on a candidate upon completion of interviews. Such an interpretation would force boards of education to conduct public votes on candidates that might not have met the requirements of the position. The plain meaning of bylaw #0134 was that, if a Board chose to nominate a candidate, the final vote on the candidate was to take place in public session.

Further, typical board of education bylaws, Robert's Rules of Order, and procedures from time immemorial dictate that a motion must first be made and seconded before a vote could take place. If a board was dissatisfied with candidates for a position, there was nothing in law or the respondent's bylaws that obligated any board member to have to make a motion to take a vote on unsatisfactory candidates.

In the within matter, no board members opted to make a motion to appoint a candidate on December 18, 2018. Without such a motion, no vote in public session could have taken place. However, a motion was made when the Board returned to public session on December 18, 2018, when Board president Wolfe made a motion to re-advertise the vacancy and interview additional candidates. That motion was made, seconded and approved unanimously, which then became the official Board action in this matter. Petitioner had not raised any issues with regard to the motion and vote which ultimately took place on January 22, 2019, in which the vacancy was finally filled.

Accordingly, I FIND that the Board's actions were in compliance with bylaw #0143.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that because petitioner lacked standing to file the within petition, failed to name an indispensable party, and failed to state a claim upon which relief could be granted, this matter is ripe for summary decision. I CONCLUDE that because respondent was in compliance with bylaw #0143 and because petitioner failed to show that there was any genuine issue as to a material fact, respondent is entitled to prevail as a matter of law.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that respondent Board's motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer is GRANTED. I further ORDER that petitioner's appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Shakiela Felder, School District of the City of Newark, Essex County.

For the Petitioner, Bernard Mercado, Esq.

No appearance by or on behalf of Respondent, Shakiela Felder

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on August 26, 2019, through tenure charges of conduct unbecoming and other just cause certified by Roger Leon, Superintendent of the Newark Public School District ("District"), together with supporting evidence against respondent, Shakiela Felder, a tenured teaching staff member in the District's employ. The District provided respondent with written notice of such certification at the respondent's last known address, via certified mail, on August 23, 2019.

On August 27, 2019, the Commissioner directed the respondent – via both certified and regular mail – to file an answer to the charges. This communication clearly provided notice to respondent that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified "shall have 15 days from the day such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges with the Commissioner," and that failure to answer within the prescribed period would – absent granting of an extension for good cause shown – result in the charges being deemed admitted. No reply to the tenure charges was received from or on behalf of the respondent.

The certified tenure charges and statement of supporting evidence filed by the petitioner in this matter indicate that the respondent was employed by the District as a tenured teacher when she was approved for an unpaid personal leave of absence from October 26, 2015 through June 30, 2016. Respondent subsequently requested an extension of her leave of absence from September 1, 2016 through September 1, 2017, which was also approved by the District. Respondent failed to return to duty in September 2017 and remained on unapproved, unpaid absence for the entire 2017-2018 and 2018-2019 school years. Respondent has not provided any answer to multiple correspondences from the District, continues to remain AWOL, and has not provided any explanation for her AWOL status. Respondent has effectively abandoned her position. Ms. Felder's actions constitute conduct unbecoming of a tenured teacher and have disrupted the delivery of instruction to students, as well as the normal operations of the school to which she was assigned.

Deeming the allegations to be admitted and noting that the respondent has failed to respond to the charges certified against her, the Commissioner finds that petitioner's charges of conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member and other just cause have been proven and overwhelmingly warrant the respondent's dismissal. Accordingly, summary decision is hereby granted to the petitioner, and the respondent is dismissed from her tenured position with the District. This matter will be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for action against respondent's certificate(s) as that body deems appropriate.

THIS AGREEMENT made this 19th day of August, 2019 by and between the Highland Park Board of Education (the "Board"), and Christopher Brzozowski ("Petitioner"), who is currently employed by the Highland Park Board of Education:

WHEREAS, Petitioner was employed by the Board commencing on July 1, 2004 in a secretarial position subject to tenure rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner was previously employed by the Board in a confidential secretarial position; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner's confidential position was eliminated and he was placed on leave with full pay and benefits in May of 2018; and

WHEREAS, on July 16, 2018, Petitioner was appointed to a 10-month paraprofessional position; and

WHEREAS, on October 15, 2018, Petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal asserting certain claims against the Board in the Office of Controversies and Disputes, New Jersey Department of Education, with the OAL Docket Number EDU 15888-2018 S (hereinafter referred to as "the Petition"); and

WHEREAS, the parties have reached an agreement to fully and finally settle any and all of Petitioner's claims against the Board, including those not asserted in the Petition, arising out of Petitioner's employment by the Board, as well as all other actions and claims which Petitioner has, had, or otherwise may have against the Board from the beginning of time, through the date on which this Agreement is executed by Petitioner; and

WHEREAS, by entering into this agreement, the Board does not admit any liability whatsoever and specifically denies any and all allegations of wrongdoing; and

WHEREAS, the parties would like to reduce to writing their agreement regarding the terms of Petitioner's employment;

NOW, THEREFORE, the Board and Petitioner agree as follows:

1. The terms of this Agreement cover Petitioner's 2018-2019 and 2019-2020 contracts of employment.

2. The parties enter into this Agreement with the understanding that Petitioner's employment from the date this Agreement is executed will be subject to the terms of the applicable Collective Bargaining Agreement. The terms of this Agreement do not alter, amend, modify, supersede, cancel or terminate any of the terms of the Collective Bargaining Agreement.

3. From this point forward, the Board recognizes that Petitioner is a tenured Assistant Administrative Secretary who is currently at Step 12 on the contractual salary guide.

4. Pursuant to this position, Petitioner henceforth will work 12 months per year, subject to the terms and conditions of the applicable Collective Bargaining Agreement.

5. Commencing retroactively on September 1, 2018, the Board will provide Petitioner with an annual salary of $57,501 plus 3% longevity, totaling $59,226, subject to the terms of the Collective Bargaining Agreement.

6. The Board agrees to provide Petitioner with retroactive pay for the months of July and August 2018 by reimbursing him a total of $5,376.20, equal to the monetary value of the 32 days of vacation and personal time he accrued at the end of the 2017-2018 school year and two vacation days he has accrued at the end of the 2018-2019 school year.

7. Commencing retroactively on July 1, 2019, the Board will provide Petitioner with an annual salary of $58,665 plus 3% longevity, totaling $60,425, subject to the terms of the Collective Bargaining Agreement.

8. The paycheck he receives on July 30, 2019 will reflect the salary he earned for the entire month of July 2019, including retroactive pay for the days he did not work during that month.

9. In light of the fact that his compensation for the months of July and August 2018 will include the monetary value of two vacation days he has accrued at the end of the 2018-2019 school year, he will have 20 vacation days and 3 personal days to use at the start of the 2019-2020 school year.

10. In exchange for the consideration and other promises set forth above, Petitioner agrees:

a. To adhere to the hours set by the principal of the building where he works, which are as follows: 7:15 a.m. to 3:15 p.m.;

b. To withdraw, with prejudice, the Petition before the Commissioner of Education, bearing OAL Docket Number EDU 15888-2018 S;

c. To knowingly and voluntarily release, waive, acquit, disclaim and forever discharge the Board, its partners, members, officers, employees, agents, servants and all other persons, who or which are or might be liable from any and all claims which the Petitioner has or might have against them, their successors, heirs and executors from any and all lawsuits, charges, claims, complaints, demands, judgments, obligations, causes of action, controversies or any other proceedings with any administrative agency, or court or any other forum, under any federal, state or local laws or regulations, including, but not limited to, claims arising under the Americans with Disabilities Act, the National Labor Relations Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Vocational Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, as amended, and including the Older Worker Benefit Protection Act, the Federal Family Medical Leave Act, the Consolidated Budgetary Reconciliation Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the New Jersey Family Leave Act, the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Act, New Jersey Wage and Hour laws, and/or any other federal, state or local employment, human rights, civil rights, wage-hour, pension or labor law, rule, statute, regulation, constitution or ordinance and/or public policy, contract or tort law, or any claim of retaliation under such law, or any claim of breach of any contract or promise (whether express, oral, written or implied from any source), or any claim of intentional or negligent infliction of emotional distress, tortious interference with contractual relations, wrongful or abusive discharge, constructive discharge, common law retaliation, defamation, prima facie tort, fraud, misrepresentation, negligence, estoppel, loss of consortium, or any action similar thereto against the Board, including any claim for attorneys' fees, that the Petitioner, her heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns, now have, ever had, or may hereafter have, whether known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, based upon any conduct arising out of the Petitioner's employment with the Board from the beginning of time, up to and including the date of execution of this Agreement. This Paragraph is not intended and shall not preclude the Petitioner from instituting proceedings seeking to enforce the terms of this Agreement.

d. To refrain from filing any proceeding, action, charge or complaint regarding the employment of the Petitioner with the Board from the beginning of time up to and including the date of the execution of this Agreement. It is expressly understood and agreed, however, that Petitioner reserves the right to bring a claim before any tribunal of competent jurisdiction to enforce their rights under this Agreement.

11. Each party shall be fully responsible for the payment of its own attorneys' fees and related costs in this matter through the date of each party's execution of this Agreement.

12. It is understood and agreed that this is a compromise settlement, reached collaboratively to avoid the expense and risk of litigation, and is not to be construed as either an admission that the Board violated Petitioner's tenure rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 or violated any provision of the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination or the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act.

13. This Agreement is not an admission by either party of any liability, wrongdoing, or the violation of any law, statute, or regulation, nor shall it be cited as precedent or used as evidence in any future judicial or administrative proceedings, except as needed for enforcement or interpretation of its specific terms.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Lisa Healy,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Hardyston, Sussex County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner requested that the Hardyston Board of Education (Board) recognize her tenured status and place her at step five (5) on the salary guide. Petitioner had been employed by the Board as a teacher from September 1994 until April 1999, becoming tenured on or about September 1, 1998. Beginning in April 1999, petitioner was granted several leaves of absence for pregnancy, child-care, and medical reasons. She failed to return to work following the expiration of her child-care leave at the end of the 2000-2001 school year, having filed an application for Social Security Disability Insurance benefits in October 2000. Beginning in the 2015-2016 school year, petitioner became re-employed by the Board as a substitute teacher on an intermittent basis, and in February 2018, petitioner was re-employed as a full-time teacher. She filed the within petition on November 20, 2018. The respondent Board filed a motion to dismiss.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; petitioner was hired by the Board as a non-tenured teacher at Step 1 of the school district's salary guide on February 13, 2018, but petitioner did not file her appeal disputing the salary step and non-tenured status until December 14, 2018 – well beyond the ninety-day window for filing a petition of appeal; petitioner's contention that she never submitted a letter of resignation and therefore remained an active employee from 1999 until her return to full-time employment in 2015 is without merit, as is her argument that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 applies in this case. The ALJ concluded that the within appeal must be dismissed as untimely. Accordingly, the Board's motion for summary decision was granted.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the petition of appeal was time-barred under Accordingly, in a decision dated July 22, 2019, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision, and dismissed the petition. Subsequently, petitioner filed a motion to re-open the case based on counsel for petitioner's certification that his office did not receive the Initial Decision, and thus had no opportunity to file exceptions. Following the submission of petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto, the Commissioner comprehensively reviewed the new filings and the record. Finding petitioner's exceptions to be unpersuasive, the Commissioner again concurred with the ALJ that the petition of appeal was time-barred under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Accordingly, the Initial Decision was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition was dismissed.

OAL Dkt. No. EDU 208-19
Agency Dkt. No. 279-11/18

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Lisa Healy,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Hardyston, Sussex County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by the petitioner, Lisa Healy, and the Hardyston Board of Education's reply thereto.[1] In this case, the petitioner is seeking to have the Board recognize her tenured status and place her on Step Five, rather than Step One, of the salary guide. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) granted summary decision in favor of the Board, finding that the petition of appeal was untimely filed under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). The ALJ also reached the merits of the case and determined that the petitioner resigned from her position as a tenured teacher in 1999 based on her own conduct and admissions, and that she was not an active tenured employee at the time of her recent re-hire by the District in February 2018.

In her exceptions, the petitioner contends that the ALJ erroneously granted summary decision in favor of the Board. With respect to the 90-day rule, the petitioner argues that the ALJ applied an improper trigger date for the limitations period. The petitioner maintains that she did not receive notice that she was placed on Step One of the salary guide until she received her first pay check in September of the 2018-2019 school year. The petition of appeal was filed on November 20, 2018, well within the requisite 90-day period. The Initial Decision is clearly erroneous as evidenced by the fact that the ALJ stated that the petitioner did not file her appeal until December 14, 2018, which was the date that the Board filed its answer. Further, while it is true that she was hired by the Board at Step One of the salary guide on February 13, 2018, petitioner contends that was hired in a substitute position. It was not until September of the 2018-2019 school year, when she began teaching on a permanent basis, that petitioner first learned that she was not being given credit for her prior years of teaching experience, and she timely filed her petition on November 20, 2018. Therefore, the petition of appeal should not be dismissed as untimely.

[1] After receipt of the Commissioner's decision dated July 22, 2019, the petitioner filed a motion to re-open this case based upon the fact that counsel for the petitioner certified that his office did not receive the Initial Decision and thus did not have the opportunity to file exceptions. By Order dated August 6, 2019, the Commissioner re-opened this matter to enable the petitioner to file exceptions to the Initial Decision.

The petitioner also takes exception to the ALJ's determination that she resigned from the District in April 1999. Petitioner asserts that she never resigned from her employment with the District nor did the District ever file tenure charges against her, so she remained an employee throughout her leave and must be returned to the appropriate step on the salary guide. The petitioner argued that the case law relied upon by the Board in its submissions at the OAL was not analogous to the circumstances in the case at bar. The petitioner emphasizes that she never submitted a formal letter of resignation. The petitioner also reiterated the arguments advanced below contending that she had no choice but to select "resign" on her application to withdraw her pension funds because the only two options available on the form were "resign" or "dismiss." Therefore, the decision of the ALJ must be reversed on both counts and the petitioner should be found to be a tenured employee of the Board, thereby affording her the rights of the Tenure Act.

In reply, the Board asserts that for the reasons articulated in the Initial Decision as well as the Board's submissions, the Initial Decision should be adopted as the final decision in this matter. Although the ALJ did incorrectly state that the filing date of the petition was December 14, 2018, which was the date the Board filed its answer, this minor error does not change the fact that the petition is time-barred. The petitioner was appointed to a permanent position created by the retirement of a staff member on February 13, 2018, and she was placed at Step One of the salary guide as a non-tenured employee. Contrary to the petitioner's claim, she was not hired as a substitute at that time, but was appointed as a full-time, permanent employee assigned to fill a vacancy created by a retirement. The petitioner was aware of her salary and tenure status upon her appointment, as she accepted her placement and its concurrent compensation and began receiving paychecks at the Step One level of the salary guide through the end of the 2017-2018 school year. Thus, as the ALJ correctly found, the petitioner's claim accrued on the date of the Board's action on February 13, 2018; therefore, the petition must have been filed within 90 days of the date, or by May 14, 2018. Yet the petition was not filed until November 20, 2018. As such, the ALJ's determination that the petition of appeal was filed out of time is fully supported by the law and the record in this case.

Should the merits of this case be reached, the Board maintains that the ALJ correctly found that the petitioner effectively resigned from her employment with the District. The petitioner withdrew her pension payments and indicated on her withdraw form that she withdrew the funds because of her "resignation due to illness." Moreover, the petitioner failed to contact the District for at least 16 years after the date on which her initial leave expired. During the intervening years, petitioner was in fact employed as a substitute teacher by at least two different school districts – including the respondent's district – at the same time. Beginning in the 2015-2016 school year the petitioner served as a substitute with the Hardyston Township Schools until she was appointed to a permanent position with the district in February of 2018. Accordingly, petitioner was clearly not an active employee at the time she was rehired by the Board to a permanent teaching position on February 13, 2018.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's determination – for the reason outlined in the Initial Decision – that the petition of appeal was time-barred under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). In so doing, the Commissioner notes that the Initial Decision did incorrectly state that the filing date of the petition was December 14, 2018; as the actual filing date was November 20, 2018.

Under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), a petition must be filed "no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." Guidance as to what constitutes notice sufficient to trigger the running of this regulatory provision was provided by the Supreme Court in Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572 (1993). The "notice of a final order, ruling or other action" of the Board contemplated by the rule has been defined as notice "sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate." Kaprow at 587.

In this case, the petitioner had notice of her salary and non-tenured status upon her appointment in February 2018 as a full-time, permanent employee assigned to fill a vacancy created by the retirement of a staff member. Further, the petitioner accepted her placement and began receiving paychecks at the Step One level of the salary guide through the end of the 2017-2018 school year. The petitioner's claim accrued on the date of the Board's action on February 13, 2018, but her petition was not filed until November 20, 2018 – well beyond the 90-day window for the filing of a petition of appeal pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). The Commissioner finds the exceptions submitted by the petitioner to be unpersuasive as they largely replicate the arguments advanced at the OAL, which were fully considered and appropriately addressed by the ALJ in the Initial Decision.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition of appeal is dismissed.[2]

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9/26/19

[2] Since the petition of appeal was appropriately dismissed as untimely, it is not necessary to render a decision on the remaining legal issues decided by the ALJ in the Initial Decision; however, the Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ's determination – for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision – that the petitioner effectively resigned from her tenured employment with the District through her own actions and admissions.

[3] This decision may be appealed to the Appellate Division of the Superior Court pursuant to P.L. 2008, c. 36. (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.1).

LISA HEALY,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HARDYSTON, SUSSEX COUNTY,
Respondent.

Jesse Humphries, Esq., for petitioner (Oxfeld Cohen, attorneys)

Joseph Roselle, Esq., for respondent (Schenck Price Smith & King, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 22, 2019 Decided: June 13, 2019

BEFORE JUDE-ANTHONY TISCORNIA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Lisa Healy (Healy) requests that Hardyston Board of Education (District) recognize her tenured status and place her at step five (5) on the salary guide. Healy was employed as a teacher at the District from September 1994, until April 1998.

Healy became re-employed by the District as a substitute teacher on an intermittent basis beginning in the 2015-2016 school year and as a full-time teacher in February of 2018.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed the instant petition with the New Jersey Commissioner of Education, which was received on November 20, 2018, by the Department of Controversies and Disputes (Department).

Respondent Hardyston Board of Education filed an answer and affirmative defenses with the Department which was received on December 17, 2018.

The matter was transmitted as a contested case on December 18, 2018, to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was received on December 20, 2018.

Respondent filed a Motion to Dismiss with the undersigned on May 20, 2019. Petitioner's response to respondent's motion and cross-motion was filed on May 22, 2019. The parties did not request oral argument. The written submissions are sufficient to dispose of the matter.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The following facts are undisputed, and I FIND them to be the FACTS of the case:

1. Healy began employment in the Hardyston School District in September of 1994, teaching second grade at the Hardyston Elementary School.
2. Pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 et seq., Healy became tenured in the District on or about September 1, 1998.
3. On or about January 22, 1999, Healy wrote to Dr. Anne Wilkins, then-District Superintendent, requesting a leave of absence due to pregnancy.

4. Healy's request for a leave was granted. Healy left the District on April 19, 1999, when the District went on spring vacation.
5. On or about May 12, 1999, Healy was diagnosed with Hodgkin's Lymphoma and immediately began treatment.
6. Via letter dated July 21, 1999, Healy informed then-Superintendent Wilkins that she wished to extend her Family Leave until October 26, 1999, and requested that she be placed on maternity leave thereafter through June 30, 2000.
7. Via an undated letter, but which was received in the District's offices on February 16, 2000, Healy requested an extension of her child care leave for the 2000-2001 school year.
8. The Board granted Healy's request, informing her of same via letter dated March 28, 2000.
9. At the time of her leave from the District, Healy was on Step 5 of the salary guide.
10. Healy did not return to work upon the expiration of her child-care leave at the end of the 2000-2001 school year.
11. Healy was later diagnosed with additional medical problems, including, but not necessarily limited to, radiation pneumonitis, hypothyroidism, hyperthyroidism, and cardio-vascular disease.
12. On October 25, 2000, Healy filed an application for Social Security Disability Insurance benefits. In a decision dated September 26, 2001, (Federal) Administrative Law Judge Dennis O'Leary granted Healy's Social Security Disability application retroactive to May 14, 1999.

13. As Healy did not have sufficient years in the Teacher's Pension and Annuity Fund (TPAF), she could not apply for a Disability Pension from the Division of Pensions and Benefits.

14. On May 18, 2001, Healy did apply for a withdrawal of her TPAF pension funds from the Division of Pensions and Benefits. On her application, she indicated that she terminated her employment in the Hardyston School District in April of 1999, resigning due to illness.

15. Healy did not submit a letter of resignation to the Hardyston School District. There is no such letter contained in Healy's District personnel file.

16. The Board did not file tenure charges against Healy for abandonment of her position.

17. In the spring of 2015, Healy was sufficiently recovered to be able to substitute teach. Healy was informed by the Board of Education that they approved her as a substitute teacher at its August 11, 2015, meeting. Healy thereafter served as a substitute teacher on an intermittent basis beginning in the 2015-2016 school year.

18. On or about March 7, 2017, the Vernon Township School District sent notice to the Hardyston School District, informing the Board that Vernon wished to hire Healy as a substitute teacher and asked that Hardyston verify Healy's employment.

19. On March 16, 2017, Healy was appointed by the Vernon Township Board of Education as a substitute teacher, effective March 17, 2017.

20. In or about January of 2018, the Hardyston Board of Education advertised for a permanent elementary teaching position in order to fill a mid-year vacancy created when the previous teacher retired. Healy applied for that position and was interviewed by Michael Ryder, Chief School Administrator.

21. After the interview, Mr. Ryder recommended that Healy be appointed to the permanent position.

22. At the Board's February 13, 2018, meeting, a motion was passed to hire Healy for a full-time teaching position at Step 1 of the Masters salary schedule as set forth in the collective negotiations agreement between the Board and the Hardyston Township Education Association.

23. Healy did not object at the time to her placement on the salary guide and thanked Mr. Ryder for the opportunity.

24. On May 8, 2018, the Board of Education approved a motion to renew Ms. Healy's contract for the full 2018-2019 school year as a non-tenured certified staff member.

25. Healy is currently on Step 2 of the Masters salary guide.

26. Healy now seeks credit on the salary guide for her previous five years' experience in the District.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

In the case at bar, both sides seek relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, which provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." The regulation mirrors R. 4:46-2(c), which provides that "[t]he judgment or order sought shall be rendered forthwith if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law." I FIND there is no issue of material fact in dispute with regard to the foregoing matter and I CONCLUDE the matter is ripe for Summary Decision.

I. THE APPEAL WAS NOT FILED TIMELY AND IS BARRED

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) states in pertinent part:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling, or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, that is the subject of the requested contested case hearing. This rule shall not apply in instances where a specific statute, regulation, or court order provides for a period of limitation shorter than 90 days for the filing of a particular type of appeal.

Healy disputes the District's hiring her as a non-tenured teacher at Step 1 of the pay scale and not taking into account her prior years of service. Healy was hired as a non-tenured teacher at Step 1 of the salary guide via unanimous District Board approval on February 13, 2018. The forgoing petition appealing the District Board's action was filed on December 14, 2018; approximately ten months after Healy's hire at Step 1. Thus, I FIND the foregoing petition of appeal was filed more than ninety days after the alleged adverse action and I CONCLDE that the foregoing petition of appeal is out of time and therefore barred by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

II. PETITIONER RESIGNED FROM HER INITIAL EMPLOYMENT WITH THE DISTRICT

In the case at bar, it is undisputed that Healy went out on planned maternity leave beginning April 19, 1999, and did not return to work for the 1999-2000 and 2000-2001 school years. It is further undisputed that Healy applied for a withdrawal of her TPAF funds from the Division of Pensions and Benefits on May 18, 2001, indicating on her withdrawal application that she had resigned from her employment at Hardyston in April of 1999 due to illness. Healy now argues that since she never submitted a formal letter of resignation, that she remained an active employee from 1999 up until her return to full time employment with the District in 2015. I disagree.

Petitioner sites Capodilupo v Board of Education of West Orange Township, Essex County, 218 N.J. Super. 510, 515 (App. Div. 1987), which states that "the tenure act should be liberally construed to achieve its beneficent ends." Ibid. (quoting Spiewak v. Bd. of Educ. of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63, 74 (1982)). Notwithstanding this general directive to liberally interpret the tenure act, Healy fails to cite any precedent that would explain how an individual, who has had no communication with a district for such an extended period of time, could possibly remain an "active employee" of that district, especially where the individual applied for Social Security Disability Benefits and withdrew her pension payments. Further, Healy indicated on her TPAF withdrawal form that her reason for withdrawing the pension payments was "resignation due to illness." Based on the foregoing, I FIND that Healy resigned from her position as a tenured teacher in 1999 based on her own conduct and admissions. I CONCLUDE that Healy was not an active tenured employee at the time of her recent re-hire by the District (February 13, 2015).

III. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 DOES NOT APPLY

Healy further argues that since she was never formally dismissed by the District during her sixteen-year absence, that she, then, remained an active employee during that period of time. Healy cites N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-10, which states that no person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation without formal written charges being brought against her. Since Healy was never served with written tenure charges by the District as required by N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-10, she claims she was never formally dismissed by the District. Thus, she argues, she remained an active employee of the District during her absence. As I have already found that Healy resigned from her teaching position in 1999, I CONCLUDE the above-referenced statute does not apply to the case at bar as Healy was not an active tenured employee during her extended absence.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision be DISMISSED. It is further ORDERED that respondent Hardyston Board of Education's

Motion for Summary Decision be GRANTED; it is further ORDERED that the foregoing petition of appeal is hereby DISMISSED and the Respondent's decision to hire Lisa Healy as non-tenured at Step 1 of the pay scale be UPHELD.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Decision

Crystal Saylor,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Town of West New York, Hudson County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner – formerly employed by the respondent Board's school district, most recently as Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent – appealed her termination from employment, alleging that she was a tenured secretary and entitled to statutory tenure protections. Petitioner began employment with the Board in 2010 as a secretary and was promoted in 2011 to the position of Administrative Assistant to the Assistant Superintendent. In 2015, petitioner was promoted to Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent, the position in which she remained until her termination in June 2018 for conduct unbecoming a public employee. The Board contended that its actions were lawful, as petitioner was employed in a position without union or statutory rights when she was terminated; further, she had never earned tenure in any of her positions with the school district.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the issue here is whether petitioner was protected from summary termination under the tenure laws, such that she would have the right to be returned to her position with back pay from June 5, 2018; N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 governs the tenure of individuals who are employed by school districts in secretarial or clerical positions; the preponderance of evidence demonstrates that petitioner never acquired tenure rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 while she served as a secretary in the Business Department, where she worked for less than three years performing basic secretarial and clerical tasks; petitioner's duties changed significantly in her "confidential" positions as Administrative Assistant to the Assistant Superintendent and Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent; when she was terminated, petitioner was employed in a position without union or statutory rights. The ALJ concluded that petitioner does not have tenure, was never awarded tenure, and was last employed in a position that would not earn tenure. Accordingly, the ALJ affirmed the Board's action to terminate petitioner's employment and dismissed the petition.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the determination of the ALJ in this matter and adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision, for the reasons expressed therein. The petition was dismissed.

Final Decision

Crystal Saylor,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Town of West New York, Hudson County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by petitioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and the Board's reply thereto.[1]

In this matter, petitioner challenges her termination from respondent's district, alleging that she was a tenured secretary and was entitled to statutory tenure protections. By way of background, petitioner began her employment with the Board on January 16, 2010 as a secretary in the Business Department, in which role she answered phones and typed documents.[2] She was promoted to the position of Administrative Assistant to the Assistant Superintendent, Clara Herrera, effective November 16, 2011.[3] On or about July 15, 2015, after Clara Herrera was promoted to Superintendent of Schools, petitioner was promoted to the position of

[2] Petitioner earned an annual salary of $33,000.

Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent.[4] In this role, she was given additional responsibilities, including preparing agendas for Board meetings, coordinating professional development for District-wide staff, overseeing the Read Across America program in the District, renewing contracts for the early childhood program, and arranging accommodations for out-of-district seminars. She remained in that position until she was terminated for conduct unbecoming a public employee on June 5, 2018.

Following a hearing on the matter, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that petitioner does not have tenure, never earned tenure, and was last employed in a position that would not earn tenure. The ALJ explained that petitioner was not employed as a secretary in the Business Department long enough to earn tenure, and could only earn tenure if she maintained a "secretarial or clerical position" without a break to a non-secretarial position. The ALJ found that when petitioner became an Administrative Assistant, she was no longer in a secretarial position and was instead a "confidential" employee, as she had additional job responsibilities beyond that of a secretary. Accordingly, the Board was permitted to terminate petitioner.

In her exceptions, petitioner argues that she earned tenure as a secretary. Although her duties and responsibilities increased upon her promotion to Administrative Assistant, petitioner maintains that her new duties were not out of the ordinary for a secretary. Petitioner cites Rita Hibo and Susan Arillo v. Board of Education of the West Essex Regional School Distrtict, EDU 1226-96, Initial Decision (November 12, 1997), adopted Commissioner's Decision No. 659-97, decided December 29, 1997, for the proposition that because her position as Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent did not require any specialized training or skill, and since she simply handled routine work for her supervisor, she was a secretary for purposes of tenure. Petitioner further emphasizes that whether Superintendent Herrera referred to her title as a Confidential Secretary is irrelevant because the Board did not present evidence to demonstrate that petitioner was a "confidential" employee pursuant to the PERC definition. Instead, the substance of petitioner's job duties demonstrate that she was not a confidential employee.

Additionally, petitioner argues that the ALJ misinterpreted DiNapoli v. Board of Education of the Township of Verona, 434 N.J. Super. 233 (App. Div. 2014), certif. denied, 217 N.J. 589 (2014), as the case actually supports petitioner's position. In that case, the petitioner did not keep her tenure when she left a tenured secretary position to move to a separately tenurable position as Assistant Business Administrator, which requires a certification. Petitioner maintains that her position did not require a certification and she never transferred out of a secretarial position. Therefore, she contends that she earned tenure by the time she was promoted to Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent, and her tenure rights must transfer with her as the position was inherently the same.

Petitioner also argues that the ALJ ignored Lisa Salimbene v. Board of Education of the Township of Dennis, Cape May County, EDU 9322-10, Initial Decision (October 5, 2011), remanded Commissioner's Decision No. 511-11, decided November 10, 2011, which is directly on point. In that matter, the ALJ found the petitioner was the tenured Secretary to the Elementary School Principal and had rights to the position of Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent over a non-tenured secretary, as the job qualifications were very similar.[5] Petitioner maintains that since she was promoted from Administrative Assistant to the Assistant Superintendent to Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent, she has an even stronger claim

[5] Although the job qualifications were similar, the Commissioner found that the job descriptions for the positions were quite different. Accordingly, the Commissioner remanded the matter for further fact-finding on the issue of whether the petitioner had the skills required for the position of Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent.

Moreover, petitioner contends that even if she was a confidential employee without statutory tenure rights, her employment contract indicated that she was tenured when she was Administrative Assistant to the Assistant Superintendent, so her tenure should extend to her promotion, as the positions were substantially similar. Accordingly, petitioner contends that she had obtained tenure, and therefore the Board improperly terminated her.

In reply, the Board argues that the ALJ correctly found that petitioner was not a tenured secretary. The Board maintains that petitioner admitted that her duties were well beyond that of a secretary in the Business Department. For example, as Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent, petitioner drafted agendas for Board meetings, coordinated professional development for District-wide staff members, oversaw the Read Across America program, and renewed contracts for the early childhood program, as opposed to her position as a secretary, where she answered phones and sorted mail. The Board points out that the increases in her annual salary – from $33,000 when she started as a secretary to $72,500 when she became Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent – further demonstrate her increased responsibilities.

The Board distinguished the cases cited by petitioner in her exceptions. Additionally, the Board contends that regardless of whether petitioner's 2013-14 employment contract used the word "tenured," the contract is irrelevant because tenure is acquired by law and not by contract. The Board maintains that the only secretarial position that petitioner held was secretary to the Business Department, and she was not in that position for the three years required to earn tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2. The Board points out that N.J.S.A.

18A:17-2 does not extend tenure beyond the time that the employee holds the secretarial position, so even if petitioner had earned tenure as a secretary, she would have relinquished her tenure when she transferred to the positions of Administrative Assistant to the Assistant Superintendent and Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent. As such, the Board argues that it acted within its authority when it terminated petitioner.

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that petitioner was not employed as secretary when she held the position of Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent, and therefore did not have tenure rights when she was terminated. When petitioner transferred from a secretary in the Business Department to Administrative Assistant to the Assistant Superintendent and then to Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent, her responsibilities, as well as salary, increased dramatically. She went from answering phones and typing documents to preparing for Board meetings, coordinating District-wide professional development activities, renewing contracts for the early childhood program, and coordinating the Read Across America program. The ALJ appropriately relied upon Joanne Burger v. Board of Education of the Borough of Maywood, Bergen County, Commissioner's Decision No. 191-11, decided May 19, 2011, affirmed 2012 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 1244 (App Div. 2012), certif. denied, 212 N.J. 431 (2012), where the ALJ, Commissioner, and Appellate Division all found that a tenured secretary was not entitled to the position of Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent over a non-tenured employee, after the hours of her secretary position were reduced as part of a reduction in force. Just as the Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent in Burger was not considered to be a secretary because of her increased responsibilities – including supervising other secretaries in the Superintendent's office, coordinating district-wide administrative activities, overseeing the hiring of substitute teachers, and preparing for Board meetings – the petitioner's job responsibilities also extended far beyond her former duties as a secretary, so the positions are not substantially similar.

The Commissioner does not find petitioner's exceptions, or the cases she cites, to be persuasive. Contrary to petitioner's assertion, Hibo, supra, does not support her position, because her job duties as Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent are far more in depth than the duties of the secretaries in that case, which involved routine tasks such as sorting mail, typing correspondence, and handling phone calls.

In DiNapoli, supra, the Appellate Division found that DiNapoli did not retain her tenure when she transferred from a tenured secretary position to Assistant Board Secretary, a certificated position. Petitioner's argument that since her position as Assistant to the Superintendent did not require a certificate, she did not leave her secretarial position, is of no moment. It is clear that the reasoning in DiNapoli applies equally when an employee transfers out of a tenured secretary role and into a non-secretarial position, regardless of whether that new position requires a certificate. Further, the Appellate Division in DiNapoli explained that "the language of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 limits the retention of tenure to the time during which the employee holds a secretarial office, position or employment." 434 N.J. Super. at 239. As such, when petitioner transferred out of her secretarial position, she relinquished any tenure rights that she had earned.

Petitioner relies on Salimbene, supra, for the proposition that secretarial tenure rights apply to the position of Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent, because the job qualifications are similar. Petitioner's reliance is misplaced because the Commissioner remanded that matter to the OAL for further fact-finding as to whether the petitioner could perform the job duties of Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent, because although the job qualifications were similar, the job descriptions were vastly different. Additionally, Salimbene predates Burger, which is on point and found that a tenured secretary was not entitled to the position of Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent over a non-tenured employee due to the higher-level, district-wide responsibilities performed by the Administrative Assistant. Here, once again, petitioner held more advanced, district-wide responsibilities that were well beyond the role of a secretary.

Finally, petitioner's 2013-14 employment contract did not provide her with tenure because tenure rights are statutory under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2, and not contractual. DiNapoli, supra, 434 N.J. Super. at 237. As such, petitioner was not a tenured employee when she held the position of Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent and was terminated by the Board.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein, and the petition is hereby dismissed.

CRYSTAL SAYLOR,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF WEST NEW YORK, HUDSON COUNTY,
Respondent.

Sanford R. Oxfeld, Esq., on behalf of petitioner Crystal Saylor (Oxfeld Cohen, attorneys)

Lester E. Taylor, III, Esq., for respondent Board of Education of the Town of West New York (Florio Perucci Steinhardt & Cappelli, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 21, 2019 Decided: July 8, 2019

BEFORE GAIL M. COOKSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Crystal Saylor (petitioner or Saylor) appeals her termination effective June 5, 2018, from the Board of Education of the Town of West New York (Board) under cover of August 23, 2018. The Board filed its Answer to the Petition on Appeal under cover of October 11, 2018. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), on October 26, 2018, for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A.

52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The central issue is whether petitioner held a tenured position from which she could not be summarily terminated.

On November 28, 2018, and January 10, 2019, I held case management conferences telephonically with the parties in which discovery, potential motion practice, and hearing dates were discussed. A hearing was thereafter scheduled for May 13, 2019, but was adjourned at the request of one or both parties. The plenary hearing was ultimately held on May 20, 2019. Post-hearing briefs were permitted and the record closed on June 21, 2019, with receipt of the written closing statements as the final submissions.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Based upon due consideration of the testimonial and documentary evidence presented at the hearing, and having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses and assess their credibility, I FIND the following FACTS:

Petitioner commenced employment with the Board on January 16, 2010, as a Secretary assigned to the Business Department at an annual salary of $33,000. [P-A, B.] She described her responsibilities at that time as clerical, attending to phones, typing documents, etc. Petitioner continued in her position within the Business Department under annual contracts for the next school year, with an increase in her salary to $34,304 (2010-2011). [P-C.] As set forth in her evaluation in March 2011, Saylor was not tenured at that time.

Petitioner was transferred to the position of Administrative Assistant to the Assistant Superintendent, Clara Herrera, at a salary of $40,000 during the 2011-2012 school year. The Board Resolution had an effective date of November 16, 2011 (P-G) but the Contract has a date of July 1, 2011. Petitioner remained in the title of Administrative Assistant for the 2012-2013 and 2013-2014 school years. [P-H, I.] For the 2013-2014 school year, her salary increased to $41,616 (P-J), and the contract stated that she was "tenured."

On or before July 1, 2015, Herrera was promoted to Superintendent of Schools. [P-L.] On or about July 15, 2015, Saylor was approved for a promotion as her Secretary or Administrative Assistant at a substantially increased salary, recommended by Herrera, of $72,500. [P-M, N.] Saylor testified that her large salary increase was justified because her duties then included, in addition to answering the phone and making appointments, preparing for meetings and workshops, preparing documents for monthly Board meetings, communicating with parents and resolved concerns/issues, and fulfilling requests for supplies. Saylor further testified that following her promotion to Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent, she was given additional duties, including drafting agendas for the Board meetings, coordinating professional development for staff members District-wide; she was responsible for the Read Across America program in the District, she renewed contracts for the early childhood program(s), and arranged accommodations for out-of-district seminars.

On June 5, 2018, petitioner was relieved of her duties "immediately" for conduct unbecoming a public employee, and given sixty (60) days pay in lieu of notice. [P-O, P.] Under cover of August 1, 2015, counsel for Saylor adviced the Board that it was their position that petitioner had tenure rights as someone who held a "secretarial or clerical position" for more than three years, and was thus entitled to a hearing for cause before she could be terminated. [P-Q.]

On cross-examination, petitioner was asked to review the several contracts and resolutions that impacted her positions over the years. She acknowledged that tenure requires "three years and a day." Petitioner could not recall the conversations that took place as she was transferred with Herrera to be the Superintendent's Administrative Assistant but it was definitely discussed between them. While petitioner stated that she was not provided the reasons for her termination, she admitted that the termination notice did set forth the reason.

Clara Herrera testified for the Board with respect to the hiring and supervision of petitioner as her confidential secretary. Herrera has worked for the district for almost forty years. She has been the Superintendent for the Board since July 1, 2015, prior to which she was the Assistant Superintendent for Payroll and Personnel, as well as a Principal for over a decade.

Herrera stated that she and petitioner used to work together quite a number of years earlier before petitioner took a long break from Board employment. Herrera recalled petitioner contacting her as soon as it was announced that Herrera was being promoted to the position of Assistant Superintendent. She agreed to have Saylor work as her Administrative Assistant. Herrera explained that this position is sometimes referred to as a Confidential Secretary to a Board Cabinet level position, of which there are five, overseen by the Superintendent. As she understood, persons in those positions did not acquire tenure, although a few have been tenured before they were promoted or transferred into such a position. In this case, petitioner did not have tenure rights before becoming Herrera's assistant.

Herrera explained that, unlike a secretary in the Business Department, petitioner had authority to speak on her behalf, to access confidential documents, and other non-secretarial tasks. When Herrera was being promoted to Superintendent, the Administrative Assistant who had been working for the then-Superintendent was retiring. So Herrera specifically spoke with petitioner about moving her into that position along with her own promotion. She described the increased duties and hours, which she thought might be a burden on petitioner's family, but also told her that she would advocate for a substantial increase in salary.

On cross-examination, Herrera confirmed that she was unaware of any policy on tenure for Administrative Assistants. She elaborated on the "confidential" aspect of positions that assist the Cabinet members and reiterated that they are non-tenured.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The issue at hand is whether petitioner was protected from summary termination under the tenure laws such that she would have the right to be returned to her position with back pay from June 5, 2018.

Tenure statutes are "designed to aid in the establishment of a competent and efficient school system by affording to [covered employees] a measure of security in the ranks they hold after years of service." Viemeister v. Bd. of Educ. of Prospect Park, 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949). In general, they are meant to protect competent and qualified employees who have completed a probationary period from removal for "unfounded, flimsy, or political reasons." Zimmerman v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 38 N.J. 65, 71 (1962), cert. denied, 371 U.S. 956, 83 S. Ct. 508, 9 L. Ed. 2d 502 (1963).

To acquire the security of tenure, the precise conditions enunciated in the applicable statute must be met. See Picogna v. Bd. of Educ. of Cherry Hill, 143 N.J. 391, 400 (1996); Kletzkin v. Bd. of Educ. of Spotswood, 136 N.J. 275, 278 (1994); Spiewak v. Bd. of Educ. of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63, 72 (1982); Zimmerman, 38 N.J. at 72. Tenure "arises only by passage of the time fixed by the statute . . . ." Canfield v. Bd. of Educ. of Pine Hill, 97 N.J. Super. 483, 490 (App. Div. 1967) (Gualkin, J., dissenting), rev'd on dissent, 51 N.J. 400 (1968).

N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 specifically governs the tenure of individuals who are employed by school districts in secretarial or clerical positions.

> a. Any secretary, assistant secretary, school business administrator or business manager of a board of education of any school district who has or shall have devoted his full time to the duties of his office and has or shall have served therein for three consecutive calendar years, and

> or
>
> 2. Employment for three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year, an academic year being the period between the time when school opens in the district after

> c. Any person, who has acquired, or shall hereafter acquire, tenure in any secretarial or clerical office, position or employment under the board of education of a school district and has been appointed district clerk or secretary, or shall hereafter be appointed secretary of said district, as such secretary, shall hold his office, position or employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and shall not be dismissed or suspended or reduced in compensation, except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense and only in the manner prescribed by subarticle B of article 2 of chapter 6 of this title.

Petitioner argues that this provision protected her employment with the Board even after she became the confidential secretary to Herrera. A claimant of tenure in situations such as this one imposes upon petitioner the burden of presenting sufficient competent and credible evidence of facts essential to her claim. Here, petitioner must prove by a preponderance of competent and credible evidence that the respondent employed her in a clerical position in order for her claim for tenure to succeed. Wright and E. Orange Personnel Ass'n v. E. Orange Bd. of Educ., 99 N.J. 112, 118-19 (1985). See also DiNapoli v. Bd. of Educ. of Twp. of Verona, 434 N.J. Super. 233, 238 (App. Div. 2014).

As the preponderance of the credible and documentary evidence demonstrates, petitioner never acquired tenure rights while she served as a secretary of the Business Department. With respect to the question whether she could tack on her service to Herrera to her less-than-three years with the Business Department, the DiNapoli court set forth the answer thusly:

> Rather, the language of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 limits the retention of tenure to the time during which the employee holds her secretarial office, position or employment. The Commissioner's conclusion that secretarial staff maintain tenure upon transfer to nonsecretarial positions is unfounded under the express terms of the statute.

An alternative legal means by which petitioner could have acquired tenure rights is if she earned same as the Administrative Assistant or Confidential Secretary to Herrera.[1] Yet factually, petitioner was in that position for less than three years also. Accordingly, petitioner can only succeed on her argument herein if she maintained a "secretarial or clerical position" throughout this relevant period with no break for a transfer to a nonsecretarial position. I CONCLUDE that she did not so maintain.

> The State unclassified service shall not be subject to the provisions of this title unless otherwise specified and shall include the following:
> h. One secretary and one confidential assistant to each department head, board, principal executive officer and commission. Each certification and appointment hereunder shall be recorded in the minutes of the Civil Service Commission;

As our courts have made clear, a "confidential" secretary or assistant is more of a confidante and less of a secretary.

> A confidential secretary is privy to the most critical policymaking decisions and has access and exposure to the policymakers as well. It is a position of trust. Those charged with the responsibility of making policy for what they perceive to be the public good cannot have their attention diverted by even a suggestion that those in whom they confide, either directly or indirectly, are not committed to the same view or vision. While this case implicates significant constitutional principles, it resolves itself as a matter of common sense. By assuming a position of confidence such as the secretary to a high-level cabinet officer, an individual assumes a degree of knowledge and access which limits his or her ability to associate freely and without restriction even though such conduct might otherwise be protected by the Federal or State Constitutions.

[1] Petitioner argues that her employment contract from July 1, 2013, noted that she was tenured. Respondent speculates in its post-hearing submission, although without any evidentiary testimony having been presented on the point, that such contract might have been created or edited by petitioner herself. For other reasons set forth herein, I need not reach this issue. I do take cognizance, however, of the fact that no Board Resolution noted petitioner as tenured.

[2] In State service, each department head, principal executive officer, board and commission may appoint one unclassified secretary and one unclassified confidential assistant. N.J.A.C. 4A:3-1.4(a).

> The job specifications for the position of "confidential secretary" to the Secretary of State (and to the Assistant Secretary of State) confirms that its inherent duties are similar to those of the unprotected "confidential" position of secretary to the mayor in City of North Olmstead, supra,whose inherent duties were summarized as follows: "[The] mayor's secretary must undertake those functions in relation to the flow of information, whether by writing, speech, or personal visit, to and from the mayor's office, that the mayor wants the secretary to perform." 927 F.2d at 913-914. An office holder may legitimately compel the loyalty and commitment necessary for the office holder to effectively fulfill his or her responsibilities. Plaintiff's position is not protected by the federal or state constitutions as a matter of law.
> [Weisel v. Hooks, 277 N.J. Super. 78, 86-87 (Ch. Div. 1994).]

OAL decisions have concurred and been upheld. Petitioner's job description for Secretary to the Business Department was consistent with the common understanding of the duties of a secretary. However, the duties of the Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent are significantly different. Her duties as an Administrative Assistant to the Assistant Superintendent are not interchangeable with her duties as Secretary to the Business Department. As an Administrative Assistant to the Assistant Superintendent, Saylor performed work that a secretary would not, including preparation for workshops and Board meetings. Petitioner was a "confidential" employee, who admittedly was responsible to "stand in" for the Superintendent as the supervisor of the office when she was out of the office. Burger v. Borough of Maywood Board of Education, EDU 7616-10 Initial Decision (Apr. 4, 2011), Final Decision Comm'r (May 19, 2011) http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.shtml.

> The administrative assistant was a confidential employee and, along with the secretary to the school business administrator, was employed on a twelve month basis under a separate employment contract and excluded from the collective negotiation agreement. The administrative assistant was the sole staff member in the Superintendent's office.
> The responsibilities of an administrative assistant were defined in a job posting issued by the Central Office of Administration, and included: coordinating workflow in the school system; performing secretarial duties including typing > scheduling, fielding telephone calls, filing, etc.; supervising the activities of other secretarial and clerical personnel assigned to the Superintendent's office; maintaining district-wide personnel records; facilitating new-student registrations and residency checks; maintaining a filing system; scheduling workshops and conferences for the Superintendent; overseeing the hiring, qualification, and scheduling of substitute teachers; preparing and submitting of all State reports; preparing all Board communications, agendas, and minutes; facilitating background checks for new hires and substitutes; preparing conference and workshop materials and purchases; acting as a liaison and "voice of the district" at all times, with the public, parents, and the district attorney; and performing other duties as assigned by the Superintendent.

> [Burger v. Bd. of Educ., 2012 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 1244, *4-5 (App. Div. June 5, 2012).]

Based on the foregoing facts and applicable law, I CONCLUDE that petitioner was employed as an Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent, without union or statutory rights. Therefore, she does not have tenure, was never awarded tenure, and was last employed in a position that would not earn tenure.

ORDER

Accordingly, and for the reasons articulated above, it is ORDERED that the termination action of respondent the Board of Education of the Town of West New York is hereby AFFIRMED. It is further ORDERED that the appeal of petitioner for relief under Title 18A is hereby DISMISSED with prejudice consistent with the reasons set forth above.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

In the Matter of Jenny Brown, Board of Education of the Borough of Ringwood, Passaic County.

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (SEC), finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely file her Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements ("Disclosure Statements") in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1. The SEC's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner for final determination on the recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c). The SEC advises that the respondent ultimately resigned from the Board after the issuance of its July 23, 2019 Order to Show Cause, but prior to the SEC's August 30, 2019 meeting; therefore, the SEC recommends a penalty of reprimand. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty, nor has she instituted an appeal of the SEC's underlying finding of violation pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the SEC in consequence of respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon school board members by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

Before the School Ethics Commission
Docket No.: D08-19
Decision for Failure to File Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements

---

I/M/O Jenny Brown,
Ringwood School District Board of Education, Passaic County

I. Procedural History

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on July 23, 2019, and mailed on July 24, 2019, through regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "school official" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find her in violation of the Act for failing to file Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements (Disclosure Statements) as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1.

The OTSC issued by the Commission provided notification to Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was further notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute. The Commission discussed this matter at its special meeting on August 30, 2019.

II. Analysis

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. Annually, on or before April 30th of each year, all school officials, as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23, must file Disclosure Statements with their local board secretaries or charter school designees. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(a). In addition, after the April 30th filing date, all newly elected board members or board members appointed to fill vacancies, newly appointed members of a board of trustees of a charter school, and administrators appointed to fill a vacancy must file their Disclosure Statements within thirty (30) days of appointment or taking office. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(c), N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(d), N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(e), and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(f).

Respondent is a returning school official and, therefore, was required to file her Disclosure Statements by April 30, 2019. Respondent failed to file her Disclosure Statements within the statutorily required timeframe.

By correspondence dated July 1, 2019, from the Passaic County Office of Education, Respondent was reminded that her Disclosure Statements had not yet been filed with the Commission. This correspondence further advised Respondent that if she failed to file her Disclosure Statements by

July 10, 2019, the Commission had the authority to issue an OTSC, find her in violation of the Act, and recommend a penalty up to and including removal for her non-compliance.

When the correspondence from the Passaic County Office of Education failed to cause Respondent to file her Disclosure Statements, the Commission sent her another letter dated July 11, 2019, and informed Respondent that failure to file her Disclosure Statements by July 19, 2019, would result in the Commission voting to issue an OTSC. The Commission further advised that, if an OTSC was issued, Respondent would be assessed a penalty, up to and including removal.

When Respondent failed to file her Disclosure Statements as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1 by July 19, 2019, and despite receiving multiple reminders and opportunities to file her Disclosure Statements, an OTSC was issued by the Commission at its meeting on July 23, 2019. By email dated August 19, 2019, the Business Administrator (BA) for the Ringwood School District advised that Respondent submitted a letter of resignation on August 5, 2019, and that same would be accepted by the Ringwood School District Board of Education at its meeting on August 26, 2019. Despite her resignation, Respondent still has not filed her completed Disclosure Statements, or otherwise responded to the OTSC.

III. Decision/Penalty Recommendation

Based on the record as set forth above, at its special meeting on August 30, 2019, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, it may recommend to the Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed on the school official. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand. The Commission additionally notes that, but for Respondent's resignation from the Board, it would have pursued her removal.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended penalty of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq. within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's brief on appeal.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Decision

T.F., on behalf of minor child, J.B.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the White Township Consolidated School District, Warren County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the proposed stipulation of settlement and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that part of this settlement appears to have been conducted on the record on May 10, 2019, and a Board resolution was passed on May 20, 2019; subsequently, a hand-written addendum was drafted by petitioner on August 23, 2019. The Board resolution indicates that:

> Petitioner has agreed to withdraw all aspects of her petition except the portion relating to the out of County HIB investigation. As proposed by the ALJ, and as agreed by Petitioner on the record on May 10, 2019, the White Township Board of Education agrees to submit the December 6, 2017 HIB allegation to an out of county HIB experienced person to conduct this investigation. Both sides agree to be bound by this decision with no appeals.

As the language of the resolution indicates that petitioner is withdrawing her petition "except for the portion relating to the out of county HIB Investigation," and given that the Commissioner does not have a record of what was discussed on the record on May 10, 2019, it is unclear to the Commissioner whether the entire matter was settled or whether a portion of the petition remains active.

Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for execution of a more complete settlement agreement consistent with the concerns set forth above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to hearing.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Final Decision

In the Matter of Kelly Scaturro, Board of Education of the Borough of Monmouth Beach, Monmouth County.

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (SEC), finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely file her Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements ("Disclosure Statements") in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1. The SEC's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner for final determination on the recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c). The SEC advises that the respondent ultimately filed disclosure statements on the same day that the SEC issued its July 23, 2019 Order to Show Cause; therefore, the SEC recommends a penalty of reprimand. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty, nor has she instituted an appeal of the SEC's underlying finding of violation pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the SEC in consequence of respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon school board members by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

Docket No.: D05-19
Decision for Failure to File Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements

---

I/M/O Kelly Scaturro,
Monmouth Beach Elementary School District Board of Education, Monmouth County

I. Procedural History

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on July 23, 2019, and mailed on July 24, 2019, through regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "school official" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find her in violation of the Act for failing to file Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements (Disclosure Statements) as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1.

The OTSC issued by the Commission provided notification to Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was further notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute. The Commission discussed this matter at its special meeting on August 30, 2019.

II. Analysis

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. Annually, on or before April 30th of each year, all school officials, as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23, must file Disclosure Statements with their local board secretaries or charter school designees. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(a). In addition, after the April 30th filing date, all newly elected board members or board members appointed to fill vacancies, newly appointed members of a board of trustees of a charter school, and administrators appointed to fill a vacancy must file their Disclosure Statements within thirty (30) days of appointment or taking office. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(c), N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(d), N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(e), and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(f).

Respondent is a returning school official and, therefore, was required to file her Disclosure Statements by April 30, 2019. Respondent failed to file her Disclosure Statements within the statutorily required timeframe.

By correspondence dated July 1, 2019, from the Monmouth County Office of Education, Respondent was reminded that her Disclosure Statements had not yet been filed with the Commission. This correspondence further advised Respondent that if she failed to file her Disclosure Statements by July 10, 2019, the Commission had the authority to issue an OTSC, find her in violation of the Act, and recommend a penalty up to and including removal for her non-compliance.

When the correspondence from the Monmouth County Office of Education failed to cause Respondent to file her Disclosure Statements, the Commission sent her another letter dated July 11, 2019, and informed Respondent that failure to file her Disclosure Statements by July 19, 2019, would result in the Commission voting to issue an OTSC. The Commission further advised that, if an OTSC was issued, Respondent would be assessed a penalty, up to and including removal.

When Respondent failed to file her Disclosure Statements as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1 by July 19, 2019, an OTSC was issued by the Commission at its meeting on July 23, 2019. On the same day that the Commission issued an OTSC (July 23, 2019), Respondent filed her completed Disclosure Statements. Although Respondent filed her Disclosure Statements, she has not disputed that her Disclosure Statements were not timely filed, or otherwise submitted anything, in writing, explaining why a penalty should not be imposed.

III. Decision/Penalty Recommendation

Based on the record as set forth above, at its special meeting on August 30, 2019, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1. Although Respondent ultimately filed her Disclosure Statements on July 23, 2019, her filing was nearly ninety (90) days late, and was submitted only after multiple correspondence and reminders were sent to Respondent reiterating her statutory obligation to file her Disclosure Statements.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, it may recommend to the Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed on the school official. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended penalty of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq. within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's brief on appeal.

Final Decision

C.I. and C.G., on behalf of minor child, Y.I.,

Petitioners,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Maple Shade, Burlington County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the proposed settlement agreement and general release, and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), have been reviewed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1.

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that the President of the Maple Shade Township Board of Education signed the agreement on behalf of the Board. Despite the erroneous assertion made by Board counsel in the August 27, 2019 letter – attached to the Initial Decision as J-2 – N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.13 clearly requires that when a district board of education is a party to a contested matter, a proposed settlement agreement must either include a copy of the Board resolution approving the settlement or the signature of the Board's attorney, who is the Board's duly authorized representative in litigation. Without either the Board attorney's signature or the appropriate Board resolution designating the Board President to sign the agreement on its behalf, the Commissioner cannot approve the within settlement.

Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for revision of the settlement agreement consistent with the concerns set forth above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to hearing.

Re: In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Robert DeLude, School District of the Township of Middlesex, Middlesex County. Agency Dkt. No. 227-8/19.

Dear Counsel,

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with respondent, Robert DeLude's request to hold the tenure charges in abeyance until the entry of a final disposition in a related Department of Child and Families (DCF) matter pending at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). In the alternative, the respondent seeks to have the tenure charges consolidated with the DCF case pending at the OAL.

Although the DCF case may stem from same conduct alleged in the tenure charges, under New Jersey's Tenure Employees Hearing Law certain procedures must be followed when boards of education certify tenure charges against an employee. Regardless of the outcome of the DCF case, the Tenure Hearing Law must be complied with, and it is not appropriate to delay the tenure proceedings while the respondent challenges the substantiated finding of child abuse by DCF. The statutory provisions also require the Commissioner to refer the charges to an arbitrator. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1.[1] Thus, the matter cannot be consolidated with the DCF case that is pending before an Administrative Law Judge.

[1] The case cited by the respondent in support of consolidation of this matter with the DCF matter was before the enactment of the N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1.

Accordingly, the respondent's request to hold the tenure charges in abeyance and for consolidation with the pending DCF case is hereby DENIED.[2] The respondent is directed to file an answer to the tenure charges within 15 days after the receipt of this decision. Thereafter, the matter will be referred to an arbitrator pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1.

Final Decision

P.S., on behalf of minor child, T.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of East Brunswick, Middlesex County; Michael Vinella Principal; and Glen Pazinko, Assistant Principal, Respondents.

Synopsis

Pro se petitioner filed an appeal in January 2019, opposing the Board's imposition of a penalty of one Saturday detention upon her son, T.S., following his involvement in a conversation about school shootings with two other male students. Petitioner, inter alia, questioned the process followed by school administration in this matter and contended that the Board had acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner in assigning discipline to her son after a search of their home revealed no weapons or evidence that T.S. was planning a school shooting. The Board argued that T.S. had violated the district's policies and regulations regarding student discipline and the student code of conduct by making what could be considered terroristic threats against the school, and the discipline of a one-day Saturday detention was the appropriate punishment.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the issue for resolution here is whether the alleged statements by T.S. warrant the discipline of a one day detention, and if so, whether the Board acted appropriately in issuing that penalty to T.S.; the preponderance of evidence showed that T.S. voluntarily made statements to two other students in the school cafeteria – and later admitted to making statements to two other students – regarding school shootings, including asking what would happen if a shooter came into the school, and asking if the police could disarm the shooter if the shooter was using an AR-15 (rifle); the imposition of discipline was appropriate in this case; and the petitioner failed to carry her burden of proof to show that the Board's action was unlawful, arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Accordingly, the ALJ affirmed the Board's decision in this matter and dismissed the petitioner's appeal.

Upon comprehensive review and for the reasons stated in the Initial Decision, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and determination in this case. Accordingly, the Initial Decision was adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

P.S., on behalf of minor child, T.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of East Brunswick, Middlesex County; Michael Vinella, Principal; and Glen Pazinko, Assistant Principal,

Respondents.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by petitioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. The Board did not file a reply.

By way of background, this matter involves a conversation about school shootings between T.S. and two other students on November 13, 2018, in which T.S. is alleged to have said the following: "If I came into the school and shot it up how may people do you think I could kill?"; "I'll shoot the cops"; "I've made a list before"; and "I would do it with an AR-15." (Initial Decision at 5). The principal and superintendent became aware of the situation after a student notified a guidance counselor. Thereafter, they informed the school resource officer, and the East Brunswick Police conducted a search of petitioner's home for weapons, finding none. According to police, T.S. admitted to making the comments, but claimed it was in a joking manner with no serious intent. The Board imposed a Saturday detention on T.S. as discipline for the infraction, but agreed that the incident would be listed in T.S.'s school record as "inappropriate language" rather than a "threat."

Petitioner filed an appeal challenging the Board's determination. After a hearing on the merits, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that petitioner did not meet her burden of demonstrating that the Board's action was unlawful, arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. The ALJ noted that the principal "testified credibly that he gave due consideration to a number of factors when imposing discipline on T.S., including the findings of no credible threat by the EB Police and the EBHS guidance department, the statements of all the students, and the fact that this was T.S.'s first violation of the Handbook." (Initial Decision at 11). While the district's policies and regulations authorized a greater penalty, the Board decided on a Saturday detention. As such, the ALJ concluded that the Board was reasonable in its determination that T.S. should serve a one-time suspension and that his record should reflect his violation of the student handbook.

In her exceptions, petitioner contends that the assistant principal forced students to give untrue statements about what they heard T.S. say. Additionally, petitioner alleges that the assistant principal acted inappropriately by interrogating T.S. in a room alone and forcing him to sign an admission.

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ – for the reasons expressed in the Initial Decision – that the Board did not act in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner, or contrary to law, when it imposed a Saturday detention on T.S. for his comments relating to school shootings. The Commissioner does not find petitioner's exceptions to be persuasive. In the Initial Decision, the ALJ addressed her argument that her son was the victim of a scheme by other students, and that the school administration acted in bad faith by "creating a narrative to satisfy a preordained decision." (Initial Decision at 11). The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that petitioner failed to present credible evidence to support her theories.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition is hereby dismissed.

Record Closed: August 26, 2019 Decided: August 28, 2019

BEFORE TRICIA M. CALIGUIRE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF CASE

Petitioner P.S. on behalf of minor child, T.S. (P.S.), appeals the decision of respondents, Board of Education of the Township of East Brunswick (Board), Middlesex County, Dr. Michael Vinella (Vinella), Principal of East Brunswick High School (EBHS), and Glen Pazinko, Assistant Principal of EBHS, to impose the penalty of detention on her son T.S.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On January 14, 2019, P.S. filed a petition of appeal against respondents with the Office of Controversies and Disputes of the New Jersey Department of Education (DOE). On February 1, 2019, respondents filed an answer by which they denied all claims. On February 5, 2019, DOE transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to be heard as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Prehearing telephone conferences were held on April 2 and May 29, 2019, and a hearing was held on June 4, 2019, after which the record remained open for the parties to obtain transcripts of the hearing and submit written closing summations. On July 9, 2019, the parties received the transcript. On July 11 and 16, 2019, the parties participated in telephonic settlement conferences. The parties were unable to reach settlement[1] and respondent submitted a post-hearing brief on August 8, 2019. Petitioner submitted her post-hearing brief on August 14, 2019. Neither party filed a response brief; the record closed on August 26, 2019.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

By way of background, this matter involves an incident that took place on November 13, 2018, in the EBHS cafeteria. T.S. and two other male students, F.A. and N.D., had a discussion about school shootings. Although there is some dispute over whether this discussion was or could have been overheard,[2] a student who was not at the same table alerted a guidance counselor of the discussion by email, and the guidance counselor in turn forwarded the student email to Vinella after school hours. Vinella notified Superintendent Dr. Victor Valeski (Valeski). They decided to contact the school resource officer (SRO), who contacted the East Brunswick

[1] In her post-hearing brief, P.S. questions the intention of respondent to negotiate in good faith and asserts that the refusal of the Board to approve the proposed settlement is further evidence of a pattern of bad faith. Ltr. Br. of Pet'r (August 12, 2019) at 3. Although the proposed settlement is not part of the record, for clarity, I note that while counsel for respondent presented a settlement agreement to the Board after petitioner accepted its terms, the Board voted against the agreement.

Police Department (EB Police). That same evening, the EB Police conducted a search of T.S.'s home for weapons. Weapons were not found. I FIND the preceding as FACTS.

Petitioner's letter of appeal includes a detailed description of events occurring on, before, and following the above-described incidents, and petitioner seeks forms of relief which are outside the jurisdiction of this tribunal. Therefore, prior to taking testimony, I reminded the parties that the dispute in this matter is limited to whether the decision of the EBHS administration in imposing the penalty of detention on T.S. was appropriate. The decision of the EBHS administration to investigate an allegation that students, including T.S., were making statements regarding school shootings is not at issue, nor is the decision of the administration to notify the SRO of the allegations and/or the subsequent actions of the EB Police except to the extent, if any, that the conclusions of the EB Police were considered by the administration in determining the penalty imposed on T.S.

Petitioner P.S. and her husband, V.S., testified and introduced documentary evidence. Respondent called Vinella to testify and introduced documentary evidence. Based on the testimony and documentary evidence, I FIND the following additional FACTS:

T.S. is a male student at EBHS. On November 13, 2018, he was fifteen years old and a sophomore at EBHS. Prior to the incident in question, T.S. had not been disciplined by the EBHS administration.

EBHS publishes a "Student/Parent Handbook" (Handbook) each year. (R-1.) At the beginning of the school year, the students watch a video review of the Handbook, which is available to students and parents online. A summary of the Handbook is included in the EBHS agenda books; all students must by signature state that they have received the Handbook.

The Handbook describes the various forms of discipline that may be administered, including detention. (R-1 at 23.) Infractions that may result in discipline are defined. (R-1 at 25-28.) The Handbook includes no specific prohibition against talking about school shooting(s) but the Handbook states that additional behavior(s) not described may be subject to punishment. Specifically, the Handbook defines the infraction of "Administrative Action" as follows:

> Any other inappropriate student behavior/act not mentioned in this book may be subject to administrative action. These incidents may include, but are not limited to, behaviors/acts which result in violence to another's person or property or which threaten the safety of others in the school, on school property, on school buses, or at any school activity. These actions may result in consequences that range from an immediate informal hearing to expulsion from school. Parent/ guardian notification is required. Serious violations shall be reported in writing to the [EB Police], and a formal criminal complaint shall be filed by the administration as appropriate. The foregoing is not meant to preclude any criminal or civil action taken by the student victim or his/her parents/guardians.

The Board has adopted policies and regulations regarding student discipline and a code of conduct. (District Policy, R-2; District Regulations, R-3.) The District Policy provides in pertinent part:

> The Student Discipline/Code of Conduct Policy and Regulation shall be disseminated annually to all school staff, students and parents. . . . Policy and Regulation 5600 include a description of school responses to violations of behavioral expectations established by the Board that, at a minimum, are graded according to the severity of the offenses, and consider the developmental ages of the student offenders and their histories of inappropriate behaviors pursuant to N.J.S.A. 6A:16-7.1(c)5. . . . Any student to be disciplined shall be provided the due process procedures for students and their families as set forth in Policy and Regulation 5600 and N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.2-7.4.

The District Regulations on discipline provide for detention as an option for just two types of pupil misconduct:

> Minor behavior on the part of the pupil that impedes orderly classroom procedures or interferes with the orderly operation of the school.
>
> Misbehavior whose frequency or seriousness tends to disrupt the learning climate of the school.

Vinella described the purpose of discipline as to "help change behavior," alert students to problems with behavior, and deter future inappropriate behavior, Tr. (June 4, 2019), at 13, and to ensure the safety of students as well as to "ensure appropriate discussions take place in school." Id. at 26. When issuing discipline, Vinella stated he considers the event in question, subsequent events that result, the grade and cognition levels of the student, and the student's disciplinary history. Id. at 17, 28.

Based on the EB Police Report filed on November 13, 2018, Officer Thomas Soulias (Soulias), EB Police, was dispatched to N.D.'s home to investigate "terroristic threats." (P-2.) Soulias spoke with N.D. and his stepmother. N.D. told Soulias that T.S. made the following comments:

> If I came into the school and shot it up how many people do you think I could kill?
>
> I'll shoot the cops.
>
> I've made a list before.
>
> I would do it with an AR-15.
> [(Id.)]

N.D. knew that a female friend of his had notified a guidance counselor regarding this discussion. He stated that he had known T.S. "since elementary school and that he had never heard him ever make statement like these before[.]" Id.

Detective Joseph Bauer, EB Police, conducted the search of the S. home and spoke with T.S. and his parents. Bauer reported that T.S. "admitted to making such comments, but that there was no serious intent and that they were made in a joking manner." Id. Bauer did not find any weapons in the S. home and contacted Vinella to report that no credible threat was found. Vinella asked the officer to direct P.S. and V.S. to accompany T.S. to school the next morning to meet with him before school hours. Although P.S. complained that her own physical condition made it difficult for her to do so, P.S. did accompany T.S. to EBHS to meet with Vinella, Pazinko, and Peggy Haas (Haas), Student Assistant Specialist.[3]

Vinella stated that he asked for the meeting to get greater clarification as to the incident in the cafeteria so he could decide "what school action needed to be taken according to [the EBHS Code of Conduct]." Tr. at 21.[4] During this meeting, T.S. stated that in the cafeteria the previous day, he, F.A. and N.D. talked about school shooting but made no direct threats. Vinella asked T.S. to meet with Haas and another counselor. Based on the counselors' recommendation, the police report, and the parents' statements, Vinella deemed that T.S. did not present a direct and immediate threat to the school and he was allowed to return to class. Id. at 25-26.

Vinella determined that based on the Handbook, the action of T.S. warranted discipline. Even though a suspension would normally be given, Vinella decided that a detention was the appropriate punishment under all the circumstances, including that T.S. has no other infractions on his record. Id. at 29. On November 16, 2018, Pazinko issued the notice of detention to T.S. (P-8.) On November 15 and 19, 2018, T.S. and V.S. respectively, submitted appeals to a number of EBHS officials, including Valeski and Vinella. (R-6; P-1.) Vinella stated that he met with T.S. to discuss his appeal and spoke by telephone with V.S. On December 11, 2018, Vinella sent written notice to P.S. and V.S. that the appeals were denied and that T.S. would serve a Saturday detention on January 12, 2019.[5] (R-7.) Vinella

[3] Vinella further described Haas's position as a counselor. Tr. at 22.

[4] Detective Bauer reported that Vinella stated that T.S. could only return to school if accompanied by his parents. (P-2.) The District Regulations provide that a "parent may be required to attend a meeting with the Principal . . . to discuss the student's conduct and to ensure the parent and the student understand school rules and expectations." (R-3 at 5600.G.3.a.)

[5] T.S. served the detention on January 12, 2019. P.S. brought this action to challenge the decision to impose the detention and, if successful, to clear T.S.'s record.

and V.S. engaged in at least one additional conversation regarding the infraction code used in the incident report in T.S.'s school record; they agreed that the infraction should be described as "inappropriate language" rather than a "threat." (R-4; R-5.)

DISPUTED ISSUES

By their testimony and documentary evidence, P.S. and V.S. raised issues related to the process followed by the EBHS administration. They were both, at the least, surprised by the decisions to notify the EB Police and to issue a detention to T.S. as a result of this incident, describing them as "quick and hastily judged," and stated that EBHS should have looked into the matter further before sending the police to the S. home.[6]

P.S. stated that she was never fully informed as to the accusations against T.S. during the meeting of November 14, 2018. In particular, P.S. criticized the inconsistency of the responses to the incident between the EBHS counseling staff, who allegedly told her there was nothing to worry about and were willing to blame N.D., and the EBHS administration, who issued the discipline to T.S.

Both parents claim that T.S. never admitted to making the statements attributed to him and blame Pazinko for making it up and then calling P.S. a liar when she challenged him. See, Tr. at 101. V.S. filed a report with the EB Police alleging unfair treatment by the administration and slander by Pazinko. (P-9.) Petitioner introduced the transcript of a voice mail recording made by F.A., who appears to concede that he told respondent what he felt was necessary to be done with the matter. (P-7.)[7] On November 14, 2018, F.A., however, wrote and signed a statement regarding what he heard from T.S. which contradicts his voice mail statements. (P-4.)

[6] Based on Vinella's testimony, he notified the SRO and this officer sent the EB Police to the S. home. Given, however, that most SROs are members of the local police force, Vinella effectively notified the EB Police.

[7] Although F.A. did not appear at hearing to corroborate this hearsay statement, both parties reviewed the tape prior to the hearing and respondent raised no objections to the introduction of the transcript and its consideration by the undersigned.

On more than one occasion, P.S. requested an apology from the EBHS administration. V.S. too stated that he only wants to clear T.S.'s name and get an apology for the S. family. Besides the black mark on T.S.'s permanent school record, his parents allege that respondents' actions put T.S. under stress and harmed his reputation among his peers.

P.S. and V.S. offered alternate bases for T.S.'s exoneration; first, that the discussion of school shootings was topical, is not specifically prohibited by the Handbook, and had this conversation taken place in a classroom, in the context of a lesson on current events, T.S. would not have been disciplined.

Second, petitioner claims that N.D. took advantage of a casual conversation to get back at T.S. for interpersonal problems the boys had been having for some time.[8] The "hit list" that T.S. allegedly told N.D. about was just a list of "weird names," interpreted by N.D. as a hit list. (See, P-6.) P.S. stated that Haas told her that N.D. was the problem and had caused significant problems for other students. Tr. at 82. They claim that it was N.D. who supplied the information to the student who sent the email to the guidance counselor (which then led to the investigation). V.S. stated that he tried to explain to respondent that T.S. and N.D. had prior issues, but no one would listen.

Finally, P.S. and V.S. contend that Vinella failed to consider T.S.'s entire record which is devoid of prior discipline, the findings of the EB Police of no threat, the findings of the guidance counselors of no threat, and the involvement of the other students. For his part, Vinella claimed he took all of the above into consideration, as well as the discretion afforded him by the Handbook and Board polices and regulations. Further, he stated that the other participants in the lunchroom conversation also received discipline.

It goes without saying that a visit from the local police is cause for concern, and it must have been especially disturbing for P.S. and V.S. to watch the EB Police search their home for weapons allegedly belonging to their fifteen-years old son. But, as discussed with the parties, the decision of the EBHS administration to notify the EB Police and the subsequent actions of the police are not under review.

[8] In her brief, P.S. stated that N.D. initiated the conversation, but T.S.'s written statement made clear that he was not simply responding to questions posed by N.D., but posed questions of his own to N.D. Br. of Pet'r, at 2; see, P-3.

While the actions of N.D. and his female classmate may have been, as alleged by petitioner, an elaborate, and successful, plan to obtain retribution against T.S. for past slights, there is no credible evidence to support that claim.[9] Weighing strongest in petitioner's favor are the statements of T.S. that after a short back-and-forth about school shooting-related topics, he and the other boys went back to looking at their phones, an indication that none of them paid much attention to the conversation. (See, P-3; P-6.) None of the students, however, were called to testify; petitioner did not present affidavits from Haas or other EBHS personnel in which they describe N.D.'s history.

There is no evidence that Vinella or other members of the EBHS administration acted in a manner contrary to their responsibilities as outlined in the Handbook, Board policies and/or regulations. If the results of the EB Police investigation had been different, the same quick decision to involve the police would have been lauded, not criticized. Finally, and most significant, the preponderance of credible evidence supports the FINDING that on November 13, 2018, while in the EBHS cafeteria, T.S. voluntarily made statements to two other students, and later admitted to making statements to two other students, regarding school shootings, including asking what would happen if a shooter came into the school and asking if the police could disarm the shooter if the shooter was using an AR-15 (gun). (P-3; P-6.)

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

The issues for resolution are whether the above-described statements made by T.S. warrant discipline under the Handbook, District Policy and/or District Regulations and, if so, whether the EBHS administration acted appropriately in issuing to T.S. the penalty of a Saturday detention.

[9] Petitioner introduced a copy of an unauthenticated text message allegedly written by N.D. to T.S., in which N.D. apologizes for what he has done. Even if this message were authenticated, which it was not, the sender does not state that he lied to the EBHS administration or to the EB Police and, therefore, it would be of little use in exonerating T.S. (P-11.)

As noted by respondent, the DOE requires local boards of education to adopt and implement codes of student conduct which establish "standards, policies and procedures" for student behavior on school grounds and to support and maintain a "civil, safe, secure, supportive and disciplined school environment conducive to learning." N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1. School boards are routinely granted broad discretion in the enforcement of student codes of conduct. See, L.B. o/b/o S.C. v. Hamilton Tsp. Bd. of Educ., OAL Docket No. EDS 08561-17 (June 22, 2017).

Actions within a school board's authority, including the adoption and implementation of disciplinary policies, are entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset by the courts unless there is an affirmative showing that a decision is arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Thomas v. Bd. of Educ. of Morris Twp., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), affirmed, 46 N.J. 581 (1966). In general, a board of education's actions are entitled to a presumption of lawfulness and good faith. Where board actions are challenged, the challenger bears the burden of proving that such actions were unlawful, arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Schuster v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Montgomery, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 670, 676 [citing Schnick v. Westwood Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 448 (App. Div. 1960), and Quinlan v. North Bergen Twp. Bd. of Educ., 73 N.J. Super. 40 (App. Div. 1962)].

In matters involving the exercise of a board of education's discretion, the scope of the Commissioner's review is "not to substitute his judgment for that of those who made the evaluation but to determine whether they had a reasonable basis for their conclusions." Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 296 (App. Div. 1960). Our courts have held that "[w]here there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached." Bayshore Sewage Co. v. Dep't of Envtl. Prot., 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199–200 (Ch. Div. 1973), affirmed, 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App Div. 1974). To satisfy the arbitrary and capricious standard, petitioner must prove that respondent acted in either bad faith or in disregard to the circumstances.

State law obligates and authorizes respondent to maintain order and ensure the safety of the students and staff of EBHS. The duly adopted District Policy and Regulations authorize the EBHS administration to impose discipline, including detention, on a student when his or her behavior impedes the orderly operation of the school. Vinella testified credibly that he gave due consideration to a number of factors when imposing discipline on T.S., including the findings of no credible threat by the EB Police and the EBHS guidance department, the statements of all the students, and the fact that this was T.S.'s first violation of the Handbook. It is noteworthy that the District Policy and District Regulations authorized Vinella to impose a greater penalty on T.S., but he opted otherwise.

Petitioner and V.S. vigorously claim that their son is the victim of a well-orchestrated plan by disgruntled peers and/or of a pattern of bad faith on the part of an administration bent on creating a narrative to satisfy a preordained decision, but they failed to present competent and reliable evidence supporting either theory.

No code of conduct or policy can ever be as good at identifying and defusing potential threats to school safety as the real-time intelligence generated by students and teachers. Respondent should be credited for encouraging action when potential problems are identified—even when the alleged threat turns out to be baseless. To rule against respondent here would undermine the authority given to the administration by the Legislature and DOE. The statements to which T.S. admitted making on school property had the potential to impede the orderly operation of EBHS and/or to disrupt the learning climate. Petitioner has not shown that the Board was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable in its determinations that T.S. should serve a one-day Saturday detention and that his record should reflect this one-time violation of the Handbook. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioner did not carry her burden in proving that the Board's action was unlawful, arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

ORDER

I ORDER that the decision of respondents Board of Education of the Township of East Brunswick, Dr. Michael Vinella, Principal of East Brunswick High School, and Glen Pazinko, Assistant Principal of East Brunswick High School, to impose the penalty of detention on petitioners' son T.S., is AFFIRMED, and petitioner's appeal is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." New Jersey Commissioner of Education

C.S. on behalf of minor child, J.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Lacey, Ocean County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner, now an adult, appealed the determination of the Lacey Township Board of Education that she committed an act of harassment, intimidation and bullying (HIB) in May 2014 when she reacted to a fellow student's vocal performance in music class by plugging her ears and allegedly saying "I'm going to need ear plugs to get through this part of the concert." The Board contended that it had properly conducted an HIB investigation and based its finding on two potential distinguishing characteristics when it determined that J.S. had committed an act of HIB against fellow student, C.H. Petitioner claimed that she had trouble with noise hypersensitivity, and that her actions had nothing to do with C.H. The parties filed opposing motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no genuine issues of material fact here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; an action by a board of education is entitled to a presumption of correctness unless it is proven to be arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable; under New Jersey's Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (Act), "harassment, intimidation, or bullying" is broadly defined as any gesture, any written, verbal, or physical act, or any electronic communication that is reasonably perceived as motivated by any actual or perceived distinguishing characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical, or sensory disability, that takes place on school property and substantially disrupts the orderly operation of the school; in the instant case, the Board found that J.S.'s conduct while C.H. was singing – i.e., plugging or covering her ears, and allegedly making a derogatory comment – constituted an act of HIB; however, the alleged conduct did not satisfy the threshold requirement of being motivated by a distinguishing characteristic, and instead appeared to be motivated by a past relationship between J.S. and C.H. The ALJ concluded that J.S.'s alleged conduct did not constitute a HIB violation. Accordingly, the ALJ denied the Board's motion for summary decision and granted the petitioner's cross motion for summary decision. The Board's determination of HIB was reversed.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusion, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

C.S., on behalf of minor child, J.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Lacey, Ocean County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by the Board pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and petitioner's reply thereto.

This matter stems from an incident that occurred on May 1, 2014, when J.S. allegedly plugged her ears, made gestures, and possibly made a comment about needing earplugs, while another student, C.H., was singing a solo in music class. J.S. and C.H. previously had a close personal relationship that had ended. Following an investigation, the Board found that J.S. had committed an act of harassment, intimidation and bullying (HIB), pursuant to the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq. Petitioner filed an appeal on behalf of J.S.,[1] challenging the Board's finding of a HIB violation.

The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) reversed the Board's determination and concluded that the alleged conduct did not constitute a HIB violation. The ALJ found that the alleged conduct did not meet the threshold requirement of being motivated by a distinguishing characteristic. While the Board sets forth two potential distinguishing characteristics – C.H.'s perceived sexual orientation or that C.H. is a weaker and more vulnerable female – the ALJ found that it was unclear on which characteristic the Board was basing its finding, and that there was insufficient evidence presented in the record that C.H.

[1] The Commissioner notes that J.S. is no longer a minor and is now pursing this case on her own behalf.

is weaker or more emotionally vulnerable. Even if the Board had established a distinguishing characteristic, the ALJ found that there was no link between the distinguishing characteristic and the alleged conduct to establish that the conduct was motivated by the characteristic. The ALJ noted that, instead, the actions in this matter appear to have been motivated by the girls' past relationship, and that pursuant to K.L. v. Evesham Township Board of Education, 423 N.J. Super. 337, 351 (App. Div. 2011), certif. denied, 210 N.J. 108 (2012), "harmful or demeaning conduct motivated only by another reason, for example, a dispute about relationships or personal belongings, or aggressive conduct without identifiable motivation, does not come within the statutory definition of bullying."

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the alleged conduct – plugging her ears and making gestures or a comment about needing earplugs – did not meet the statutory definition of HIB. The Commissioner further concurs that the alleged conduct appears to stem from the students' past relationship and was not motivated by an actual or perceived distinguishing characteristic of C.H. The Board's exceptions do not challenge the ALJ's conclusion that the finding of HIB against J.S. is reversed. Finally, the Commissioner notes that the Board argues that the Initial Decision should have addressed petitioner's claim for monetary relief. However, there is no legal authority for petitioner to recover damages in this forum.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision.

GRANTING CROSS MOTION FOR SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 03693-15
AGENCY DKT. NO. 34-2/15

C.S., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, J.S., Petitioner,
v.
LACEY BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF LACEY, OCEAN COUNTY,
Respondent.

J.S., petitioner, pro se

Steven Tedeschi, Esq., for respondent (Stein and Supsie, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 1, 2019 Decided: September 5, 2019

BEFORE PATRICIA M. KERINS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner J.S., now an adult, appeals from respondent Lacey Township Board of Education's (Lacey) finding that she committed an act of HIB when, after another student started singing in music class, she plugged her ears and allegedly said, "I'm going to need ear plugs to get through this part of the concert,".

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

By petition dated February 5, 2015, petitioner C.S., on behalf of his then minor daughter, J.S. filed this appeal of the determination by Lacey that J.S. had committed an act of HIB. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on March 18, 2015, for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The parties then engaged in extensive motion and discovery practice, and numerous status and prehearing conferences were conducted. On March 18, 2019, respondent filed a motion for Summary Decision and by letter of April 30, 2019, J.S. replied to the motion and requested that the matter be decided by summary decision. Oral argument was held, and the record closed on August 1, 2019.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

On May 1, 2014, in Stephanie Faille's (Faille) music class at Lacey Township High School, an incident occurred involving two eleventh grade students — J.S. and C.H., both female—who had once had a close personal relationship. For the first ten - fifteen minutes of class, all the students (about twenty) were gathered around the piano, singing together as Faille played. Then the class paused for C.H.'s solo vocal.

In a Discipline Report completed the next day, Faille recounted that: "[J.S.] was making harassing gestures while [C.H.] was singing her solo. She made the student feel so uncomfortable she moved to the back of the room." The "harassing gestures" was the act of placing her fingers in her ears.

In a HIB Report, also completed that day, Faille described the scene this way:

> [C.H.] was singing a solo with the group and while her solo was going on [J.S.] was mocking her and talking to those around her in a harassing way. [C.H.] saw what [J.S.] was doing and saying and moved to the back of the room to get > away from the sneers and was noticeably upset by the interaction. I had spoken with [J.S.] before she went on homebound about not staring or glaring at [C.H.] during class because [C.H.] had expressed to me that it makes her feel really uncomfortable. [J.S.] got upset that I mentioned it to her and left my office.

The HIB Investigation

HIB Team Members Kevin Donahue and Paul O'Neill launched an investigation. They interviewed both girls and one unidentified witness, later memorializing those interviews in narrative summaries on statement forms. It appears they did not interview. Faille and instead relied on her statement in the HIB Report because it is reproduced in a statement form under her name without any new information.

Interview of J.S.

In her interview, "[J.S.] claimed that she had trouble with her ears and would often plug one of them so that she could hear herself sing." When asked about why she did this right after C.H. began singing, "[J.S.] stated that her actions had nothing to do with [C.H.]." This is the extent of the interview as reflected in the narrative summary.

J.S. later produced a document dated May 16, 2014, from Sean D. Houston, M.D., with whom she treated from January 2013 to April 2014.[1] He explained that her "sensitivity to noise and sound is documented by our office prior to this event." He concluded therefore that her reaction was "reasonable," and in his medical opinion, "related to her noise sensitivity and not due to a social/bullying issue."

Interview of C.H.

Her interview focused more broadly on her relationship with J.S., and there is no mention of the alleged incident in the narrative summary.

[1] In her letter dated April 30, 2019, J.S. says that she has treated with Dr. Houston since she was "a young girl." His report, however, identifies only the above-mentioned treatment period.

C.H. said that she dated J.S., who ended their relationship after five months. She believed that J.S. was "trying to turn her against her family and friends." For example, J.S. would limit who she could talk to, sometimes physically removing her from conversations, all of which made her feel "sad."

For a time after their breakup, the girls continued to hang out as "best friends." That ended, however, when C.H. realized that J.S. was "nutty." She started to distance herself, which J.S. had a hard time accepting. She would follow her around school and had at least once, lingered around her house and commented on her social media.

This school year, C.H. said that she and J.S. had lunch and music class together. On the day of the incident, which was also opening night for the concert, C.H. did not know that J.S. would be returning to school, making things awkward. During lunch, J.S. stared at her "like she always does," and when she moved, J.S. also moved to get back in her line of vision.

C.H. recounted two recent episodes at school events where both her sisters had confronted J.S. about her actions, including about allegedly taking pictures of C.H. She also recently received a candygram, which she suspected was from J.S. In the end, C.H. did not anticipate talking to J.S. in the future, but she thought that J.S. "may still want to be with her romantically."

Interview of Unidentified Witness

It is not clear whether this student was in Faille's class, but the student did know both girls. The student and C.H. had been getting closer, and J.S. would speak about this to the student. She would tell the student that C.H. told her that she still had feelings for her. She would also say that she thought C.H. "is pretending not to love her and using her parents as an excuse." The student said that J.S. had a hard time when C.H. would show affection toward others.

The HIB Investigation Report

The HIB Investigation Report was submitted by Principal James Handschuch to Superintendent Dr. Sandra Brower on May 16 and affirmed on May 27, 2014. The Report concluded that J.S. committed an act of HIB when she "made a gesture to [C.H.] that was done to harass and intimidate her. [J.S.] also continues to discuss [C.H.] after she has been instructed multiple times to end their relationship." The consequence imposed was a "schedule change."

On May 19, 2014, three days after the HIB Investigation Report was submitted, Donahue emailed Faille, asking if she remembered "any specifics that [J.S.] said when she put her fingers in her ears." He also asked if other people witnessed the incident. She responded in full: "[J.S.] put her fingers in her ears while [C.H.] was singing her solo and said I'm going to need earplugs to get through this song at the concert." This is the first documented mention of this comment.

This email exchange and Dr. Houston's report become a part of the HIB Investigation Report. Following the investigation, during a telephone conference call with several school officials, J.S. and her father, C.S., were told of the HIB finding. C.S. was also notified of the same by letter dated June 20, 2014. He timely requested a hearing before the Board of Education.

Board Meeting and Report

Through a Committee, the Board of Education held a hearing on this matter on September 3, 2014. The Committee later issued a written report in which it summarized the hearing and made certain findings of facts. The following information is drawn exclusively from that report.

Handschuch, Faille and O'Neill were present at the hearing to answer any questions. It is not clear to what extent any of them testified, but Faille and O'Neill likely did because there are details in the Committee Report that cannot be found in the HIB Investigation Report or C.S.'s testimony.

While J.S. did not attend the hearing or testify, her father did attend, and he testified but did not offer any other witnesses. C.S. said that the girls previously had a relationship, which he labeled an affair. He testified, however, that there were no problems between the girls—any problem was between the families. He offered as exhibits text messages exchanged between himself and C.H.'s parents in which there is no shortage of hostility.

His testimony focused mainly on explaining away his daughter's gesture and disputing the alleged comment. He opined that she plugged her ears because C.H. is a loud singer and she is sensitive to loud noises. For evidence of this, he cited the fact that J.S. wears headphones in the car to drown out noise from the tires. He also cited Dr. Houston's May 16, 2014 report, which confirmed her treatment for noise sensitivity. Regarding the alleged comment, C.S. testified that on the conference call following the investigation, he was told that J.S. had not made any comments.[2]

The Committee discounted Dr. Houston's report because it postdated the incident and J.S.'s treatment with him. It also found that the report amounted to a "net opinion" because it did not include facts about the incident. Neither did the Committee credit C.S.'s explanation—that J.S. plugged her ears to protect her hearing—because, when the entire class was singing together before C.H. started her solo, there was "no allegation or claim that [J.S.] made any movement to protect her hearing or her ears with her fingers or by any other means." More generally, the Committee noted that during concerts, sounds will reverberate toward the singers, and J.S. had "never expressed any concern about her hearing or the effect of that reverberating sound on her own hearing."

Regarding the alleged comment, the Committee found that "Mr. O'Neill, who was part of the conversation with [C.S.] upon the conclusion of the investigation . . . does not recall [C.S.] being informed that [J.S.] said nothing when she placed her fingers in her ears."

[2] In her letter dated April 30, 2019, J.S. admits that she covered her ear because C.H. "has a beautiful, loud and distinctive tone that caused my ear to hurt." She emphasizes, however, that "I have never stuck my finger in my ear, nor did I say anything derogatory towards [C.H.] at the time of this incident."

In its report, the Committee found that the girls were standing around the piano, five feet from one another, and once C.H. started her solo, J.S. "placed her fingers in her ears and was heard to say, 'I'm going to need ear plugs to get through this part of the concert.'"[3] Relying on Faille's observations, the Committee also found that C.H. saw what J.S. was doing, and then "appeared to physically shrink in posture and removed herself from where the students were gathered around the piano and moved to the back of the class to be by herself" for the remainder of class.

Regarding her alleged motivation, the Committee found that "[J.S.] targeted [C.H.] who she viewed as a weaker and emotionally vulnerable female with [J.S.] having a perception of a characteristic of [C.H.] relating to sexual orientation." "It is unknown if the perception is accurate and for purposes of this investigation and the Committee's finding, such determination is not necessary as being motivated by a perceived characteristic that substantially disrupts or interferes with the right of another student is sufficient to justify a finding or harassment intimidation or bullying."

Based on these findings, the Committee recommended that the full Board vote to affirm the Superintendent's HIB finding, which it did at its September 15, 2014 meeting.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Summary Decision Standard

Under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6, which govern the conduct of contested cases before the OAL, a party may file a motion for summary decision on substantive issues in a contested case. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). The motion "shall be served with briefs and with or without supporting affidavits." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b).

Under this regulation, which is akin to the judiciary's motion for summary judgment, see R. 4:46-1, "the determination [of] whether there exists a genuine issue with respect to a material fact challenged requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party in consideration of the applicable evidentiary standard, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995). In making this determination, the analysis is "'whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a [fact finder] or whether it is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 533 (quoting Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 251–52 (1986). Summary decision is also proper when the opposing party "points only to disputed issues of fact that are 'of an insubstantial nature.'" Id. at 529.

Standard of Review

An action by a board of education "is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset unless there is an affirmative showing that such decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable." Thomas v. Morris Twp. Bd. of Educ., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965). Thus, in order to prevail, those challenging an HIB decision made by a board of education "must demonstrate that the Board acted in bad faith, or in utter disregard of the circumstances before it." G.H. & E.H. o/b/o K.H. v. Bd. of Educ. of Franklin Lakes, EDU 13204-13, Initial Decision (February 24, 2014), adopted, Comm'r (April 10, 2014), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/. Also, a board's decision may be overturned if its determination violates the legislative policies expressed or implied in the governing act. J.A.H. o/b/o C.H. v. Twp. of Pittsgrove Bd. of Educ., EDU 10826-12, Initial Decision (March 11, 2013), adopted, Comm'r (April 25, 2013), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/.

HIB Regulations

Under the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act, "harassment, intimidation or bullying" is broadly defined as:

any gesture, any written, verbal or physical act, or any electronic communication, whether it be a single incident or a series of incidents, that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic, that takes place on school property, at any school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds as provided for in section 16 of P.L.2010, c.122 (C.18A:37-15.3), that substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students and that:

a. a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student or damaging the student's property, or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person or damage to his property;

b. has the effect of insulting or demeaning any student or group of students; or

c. creates a hostile educational environment for the student by interfering with a student's education or by severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student.

[N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 (emphasis added).]

First, to satisfy the statutory definition of HIB, the conduct must be "reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14. "The statute has not limited 'distinguishing characteristic' to those specifically enumerated, but it has consistently required such a perceived motivation." K.L. v. Evesham Twp. Bd. of Educ., 423 N.J. Super. 337, 351 (App. Div. 2011). "The Legislature in the Anti-Bullying Act intentionally included a very open-ended phrase, 'any other distinguishing characteristic,' to signal that the Act would apply to a broad, unlimited range of distinguishing characteristics, so long as the distinguishing characteristic motivated the bully to harass the targeted student." L.P. and H.P. o/b/o. L.P., EDU 04462-16, Initial Decision (June 10, 2016), adopted, Comm'r (July 25, 2016), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/. However, the Appellate Division has made clear that "harmful or demeaning conduct motivated only by another reason, for example, a dispute about relationships or personal belongings, or aggressive conduct without identifiable motivation, does not come within the statutory definition of bullying." K.L., 423 N.J. Super. at 351.

Here, the Board found that J.S.'s conduct while C.H. was singing—a gesture (placing her fingers in her ears) and comment ("I'm going to need ear plugs to get through this part of the concert")—constituted an act of HIB. It is undisputed that J.S. obstructed at least one of her ears. The Committee found that she placed fingers in both of her ears. She maintains, however, that she covered (not plugged) only one ear. Either way, the effect was the same.

The comment, however, is disputed. In the Discipline Report and HIB Report, both completed the day after the incident, Faille did not mention this comment. Neither is there a reference to this comment in the HIB Investigation Report. It is documented for the first time in an e-mail three days after the HIB Investigation Report was completed and submitted to the Superintendent. Thus, the girls and the third-party witness were not asked about this comment in their interviews. Further, at the hearing before the Committee, J.S.'s father disputed that she made such a comment. And J.S. continues to maintain that she did not say anything derogatory about C.H.

In any event, even accepting the Board's finding as true, its ultimate HIB finding must nevertheless be overturned. To satisfy the "threshold requirement," J.S.'s conduct must be "reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic." C.K. and M.K. o/b/o M.K. v. Voorhees Twp. Bd. of Edu., EDU 20510-15, Comm'r (March 23, 2017), https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/. "Absence of this factor, alone, is sufficient to render a finding of no HIB." Ibid. In this matter the HIB Investigation Report did not identify a distinguishing characteristic that motivated J.S.'s conduct. In its report, however, the Committee found that J.S. had "a perception of a characteristic of [C.H.] relating to sexual orientation." While sexual orientation is an enumerated characteristic under N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14, the Board then went on to discount it stating that it was "unknown if the perception is accurate and . . .such determination is not necessary". Simply put, the finding was unclear the characteristic upon which the Board was basing its HIB finding. While referencing sexual orientation, it appeared to base its finding on its characterization of C.H. as a weaker and vulnerable female. However, there was insufficient evidence presented in the record as set forth by Lacey to even determine whether the alleged characteristic of "a weaker and emotionally vulnerable female" applied to C.H.

Yet even granting that the Board based its HIB determination on either sexual orientation or C.H. being a weak and vulnerable female, there was no factual showing that either characteristic motivated J.S.' denigration of her singing. The fact that C.H. had a distinguishing characteristic is not, by itself, enough to support a finding that demeaning conduct directed at her was motivated by that characteristic. There must be something more linking the conduct to the characteristic, and that link is notably absent here. Nothing in J.S.' alleged conduct during the chorus class at issue raised the issue of sexual orientation or "a perception related to a sexual characteristic", nor were the alleged words or actions tied to C.H.'s purported status as a weaker and emotionally vulnerable female. Rather the conduct complained of here related to C.H.'s singing. While J.S.' alleged conduct may have been rude or inappropriate and may have warranted some form of censure or discipline, nothing in her alleged words or actions in that particular instance tied it to sexual orientation or status as a weaker female.

Rather, the conduct complained of here appears to have arisen out of the girls' past personal relationship. It is undisputed that they were close personal friends, with the Committee characterizing it as a "relationship of some kind with some form of undetailed intimate characteristics. The record was replete with the ups and downs of the girls' relationship which arguably was the real motivating factor in the conduct complained of in the HIB complaint. However, as noted by the Court in K.L., conduct arising out of a dispute over something such as a relationship, does not without more rise to the level of an HIB violation.

CONCLUSION

Based on the above, the Board's motion for summary decision is denied. petitioner's cross-motion for summary decision is granted.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Amended Decision

Jamie Truncellito,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Lyndhurst, Bergen County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner, formerly employed by the respondent Board, appealed the non-renewal of her employment and sought reinstatement to the position of guidance counselor. The Board contended that petitioner was a non-tenured employee at the time of her non-renewal due to budgetary constraints. Petitioner asserted that the non-renewal was politically motivated and was therefore arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioner was employed by the Board as a school counselor from August 2018 through June 2018; she received a standard notice of non-renewal on April 25, 2018, stating that she would be non-renewed for the 2018-2019 school year; she was subsequently recommended for re-appointment by the Superintendent of Schools and received a written offer of employment, which she accepted via email on May 23, 2018; at a meeting on May 29, 2018, the Board voted not to renew the petitioner's employment; there was adequate funding available for petitioner's employment in the 2019-2019 district budget; petitioner was non-renewed at the May 2018 Board meeting because a faction of Board members wished to free the position she held so that it could be filled by a Lyndhurst resident; and N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b) stipulates that an employment contract shall renew only upon recommendation of the chief school administrator and by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full board, and that the board shall not withhold its approval for arbitrary and capricious reasons. The ALJ concluded that the Board's motivation to remove petitioner so that a Lyndhurst resident could fill the position was arbitrary and capricious. Accordingly, the ALJ determined that petitioner's non-renewal was improper, and ordered that her appeal be granted.

In a decision dated October 16, 2019, the Commissioner rejected the Initial Decision of the OAL and dismissed the petition. Subsequently, the Board filed a motion to re-open the case based upon the fact that the date of mailing on the respondent's copy of the Initial Decision differed from the date on the Commissioner's copy; as such, the Board contended that its exceptions were timely filed. Upon granting the motion to reopen, the Commissioner comprehensively reviewed the new filings and the record, and again rejected the ALJ's decision and dismissed the petition. In so doing, the Commissioner noted that a board of education has virtually unlimited discretion in renewing non-tenured staff members absent constitutional constraints or legislatively-conferred rights. Where a non-tenured staff member challenges a district board's decision to terminate her employment on the grounds that the reasons provided by the board are not supported by the facts, she is entitled to litigate that question only if the facts she alleges, if true, would constitute a violation of constitutional or legislatively-conferred rights. Petitioner herein has specifically stated that she is not arguing that her constitutional rights were violated, nor has she alleged a violation of any legislatively-conferred right. Accordingly, the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Amended Final Decision

Jamie B. Truncellito,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Lyndhurst, Bergen County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by the respondent, Lyndhurst Board of Education (Board), and the reply thereto by petitioner, Jamie Truncellito.[1] This matter involves a decision by the Lyndhurst Board of Education (Board) to non-renew petitioner in her position as guidance counselor. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the Board's motivation to non-renew petitioner was to allow a Lyndhurst resident to fill the position and, accordingly, that the decision was arbitrary and capricious. The ALJ reversed the Board's decision and ordered that petitioner be reinstated to her position.

In its exceptions, which recast the arguments made in its post-hearing brief, the Board argues that the ALJ did not consider the bona fide reasons presented by the Board

[1] The Commissioner issued a decision in this matter on October 16, 2019, which stated that exceptions filed by respondent were not timely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were therefore not considered by the Commissioner. After receipt of the decision, respondent filed a motion to re-open this case based upon the fact that the date of mailing on respondent's copy of the Initial Decision was different than the date on the Commissioner's copy. As such, respondent contended that its exceptions were timely filed. By order dated November 22, 2019, the Commissioner re-opened this matter to consider the exceptions filed by respondent.

regarding petitioner's non-renewal – the deficit experienced by the district and the appointment of a State Monitor. The Board contends that the testimony presented the alleged motivations of only one board member, solely through hearsay evidence with no residuum of competent evidence. Furthermore, according to the Board, no competent evidence supported imputing that Board member's motivation to the other four Board members who voted against petitioner's renewal.

In her reply, which includes arguments substantially similar to those made in her post-hearing briefs, petitioner argues that the ALJ carefully reviewed the testimony of all the witnesses, which supports petitioner's assertions of nepotism. Petitioner further contends that the Board refused to honor the recommendation of the superintendent, making its decision arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable. Petitioner alleges that the Board's claim of economic crisis does not square with the facts because her employment had already been accounted for in the budget and the business administrator, who co-authored the budget, testified that he had no knowledge of why petitioner was not renewed. Respondent filed a reply to petitioner's reply. However, N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 does not permit the filing of a reply to a reply to exceptions; as such, respondent's submission was not considered.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the ALJ erroneously reversed the Board's decision. A board of education has virtually unlimited discretion in hiring or renewing non-tenured staff members absent constitutional constraints or legislatively-conferred rights. Dore v. Bedminster Twp. Bd. of Ed., 185 N.J. Super. 447, 456 (App. Div. 1982). As such, where a non-tenured staff member challenges a district board's decision to terminate her employment on the grounds that the reasons provided by the board are not supported by the facts, she is entitled to litigate that question only if the facts she alleges, if true, would constitute a violation of constitutional or legislatively-conferred rights. Guerriero v. Bd. of Ed. of the Borough of Glen Rock, decided by the State Board of Education February 5, 1986, aff'd Docket #A-3316-85T6 (App. Div. 1986). In this case, petitioner has specifically stated that she is not arguing that her constitutional rights were violated. Furthermore, she has not alleged a violation of any legislatively-conferred right.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is rejected and the petition is hereby dismissed.

Record Closed: August 14, 2019 Decided: September 9, 2019

BEFORE JUDE-ANTHONY TISCORNIA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Jamie Truncellito (petitioner or Truncellito), a former guidance counselor employed by the Board of Education of the Township of Lyndhurst (Board) appeals the Board's decision of non-renewal and seeks reinstatement to her former position as a guidance counselor. The Board argues Truncellito was a non-tenured employee at the time of non-renewal and claims her contract was non-renewed due to budget constraints. Truncellito asserts that the non-renewal was politically motivated and thus arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable.

ISSUE

Was the non-renewal of Truncellito's contract by the Board a result of a reduction in force due to budget shortfalls or was she non-renewed for political reasons, specifically so that a Lyndhurst Township native could take her position.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed the instant petition with the New Jersey Commissioner of Education, on June 20, 2018, where it was received on June 21, 2018, by the Department of Controversies and Disputes.

The matter was transmitted as a contested case on July 30, 2018, to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was received on July 30, 2018.

The matter was set down for a hearing on May 2, 2019, and May 20, 2019. Final submissions were received on July 10, 2019, and response briefs on August 14, 2019, at which point the record was closed.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The I FIND that the following facts are undisputed, and I therefore FIND them to be the FACTS of the case:

1. Petitioner was employed as a School Counselor under a Student Services Certificate from August 26, 2016, through June 30, 2018.
2. On April 25, 2018, Truncellito received a standard Notice of Non-Renewal stating that she would be non-renewed for the 2018-2019 school year.

3. Truncellito was recommended for re-appointment by Jamie Stevens, Director of Special Services (her immediate supervisor), the High School Principal Laura Vouno, and the Superintendent of Schools Shauna DeMarco.
4. On May 22, 2018, Truncellito was given a written offer of employment by Superintendent Shauna DeMarco in advance of the May 29, 2018, Pubic Board Meeting.
5. Truncellito accepted the offer of employment in writing through an email communication with the Superintendent on May 23, 2018.
6. At the May 29, 2018, Lyndhurst Board of Education Meeting, the Board voted five to four not to renew Truncellito's employment.
7. During the fall and winter months of the 2017-2018 school year, a budget deficit was discovered by the Superintendent of Schools and the Business Administrator.
8. The initial deficit was projected at approximately $1.8 million dollars and subsequently determined to be approximately $3.8 million dollars.
9. The Business Administrator advised the Acting Bergen County Superintendent of Schools of the deficit in writing on March 31, 2018, identifying the amount of the deficit and the District's plan to address the same.
10. The Business Administrator, with the assistance of the Superintendent of Schools Demarco, prepared a budget for the 2018-2019 school year and submitted the same to the County Superintendent.
11. The budget presented to and approved by the Country Superintendent reflected cuts taken to address the deficit that was reported to him.
12. The 2018-2019 budget contained numerous cuts in non-tenured personnel, reductions in tenured staff, and other operational cuts in spending.
13. The approved 2018-2019 budget was adopted by the Board included the salary for Truncellito's employment.
14. Petitioner's salary for the 2017-2018 school year was $83,910.
15. Petitioner's salary, unadjusted for collective bargaining for the 2018-2019 school year would have been $88,080.
16. A fiscal monitor, Thomas Egan (Egan), was appointed to manage the District's finances in August 2018.

17. The monitor possesses the powers as set forth under New Jersey State Law and the New Jersey Administrative code, including the power to amend the 2018-2019 budget and corresponding personnel decisions.
18. The monitor chose not to amend the approved 2018-2019 budget and corresponding personnel decisions.
19. When Egan took control of the District's finances, he did not non-renew any of the non-tenured employees approved in the 2018-2019 budget.
20. Shauna DeMarco resigned as Superintendent in February of 2018, effective June 30, 2018.
21. Shauna DeMarco was replaced by Anthony Grieco as Superintendent in July of 2018.
22. When Truncellito's renewal was defeated by the Board, neither Superintendent DeMarco nor her successor recommended any individual to fill the position.

Shauna Demarco

Shauna DeMarco (DeMarco) has been employed by the Lyndhurst School District since 2006, first as a substitute, then a full-time teacher, and then the Superintendent. As the Superintendent, she was fully involved with the budgetary process and made recommendations to the Board that considered these budget constraints.

DeMarco testified that at the end of the 2017-2018 school year, all non-tenured staff, including petitioner, were sent notice of non-renewal. She would then decide who of these were essential to re-hire. In analyzing who to re-hire, DeMarco took recommendations from the principals, vice principals, and supervisors within the district.

When conferring with the guidance department regarding who to re-hire, everyone agreed that Jamie Truncellito was essential to the department. She testified that she felt that Truncellito could handle a crisis if need be, as Truncellito regularly dealt with very sensitive issues and her expertise was very valuable to the district. There were three counselors who had been non-renewed (Truncellito, Samantha Foti, and Laura Tunnell) but the decision was made that Truncellito's would be the only re-hire. While the other counselors were excellent, they were new and less experienced than Truncellito.

The serious financial situation in the district was carefully examined while making all of these determinations. Jamie Truncellito was making over $83,000 and the other two were making $59,000. These facts were taken into careful consideration when recommending to re-hire Jamie Truncellito. Her salary was included in the budget that was sent to the Board and to the County for approval.

DeMarco then testified that there came a time when certain Board members tried to influence personnel decisions by persuading other members to vote to non-renew certain non-tenured employees, such as Truncellito, so that these certain Board members could offer the position to people they knew.

With respect to the Guidance Counselor position, the principal and others began receiving signals from a certain Board member that an individual named Laura Tunnell should get the position occupied by Truncellito. Notwithstanding these influences, DeMarco explained to her staff that the best candidates should be put forward regardless of political bias and that she alone would make the final recommendation.

DeMarco testified that in January of 2018, she was advised by the Director of Curriculum that a certain Board member inquired about who would be recommended for the guidance counselor position (occupied by Truncellito). DeMarco was surprised that the Board was interfering with personnel recommendations and she therefore reached out to the Board member for a conversation. This Board member advised DeMarco that the only candidate the Board would support would be Laura Tunnell because she was a "good kid" from Lyndhurst. There was never a discussion about money or budget.

DeMarco explained to the Board member that it was improper for the Board and its members to influence personnel decisions in this manner. DeMarco then had a conversation with the Board president and vice president because she was concerned about what she considered the non-ethical behavior of certain members of the Board.

DeMarco resigned from the District February 2, 2018, even though she had a five-year contract. She testified that she resigned because she felt that she was not able to accomplish what she wanted to in this district.

With respect to the Jamie Truncellito recommendation, DeMarco testified that she was in contact with the business administrator and her recommendation in favor of Truncellito was clear. When she made the recommendation for Truncellito, she was acutely aware of the financial problems and that there was sufficient money in the budget for Truncellito. She was also aware that there would be lay-offs of the two other counselors whose salaries totaled $120,000 plus benefits. This recommendation was made because DeMarco believed it was essential that the District retain Jamie Truncellito and the funds were available to do so.

DeMarco then testified with regard to executive session that occurred before the Board vote at the May 29, 2018, Board of Education Meeting. At this meeting, there were two names given to be voted upon separate and apart from the list of people being recommended for re-hire. DeMarco asked why these individuals were being separated from the larger list of pre-approved, recommended candidates. DeMarco was advised that the Board wanted Truncellito to be voted on separately. DeMarco then testified that in response to this conversation, Board member Jim Donovan got up and said "are you kidding me?" He was upset with Susan Alcuri and with the Board. He said "this isn't about money. It's about Susan wanting to put in a position for Laura Tunnell."

The Board decided to remove Jamie Truncellito's name for the larger block of names being approved and vote on her re-employment by a separate line item. Once Truncellito's name was removed, the larger block of names was ultimately voted on and approved by the Board. The vote on Truncellito alone was 5-4 against re-hiring Truncellito. This vote created a vacancy for Truncellito's position.

DeMarco was asked by the Board to make another recommendation for the position, but she refused. DeMarco added that she was shocked by the vote of the Board. Laura Tunnell has multiple family members in the Lyndhurst school system.

DeMarco opined that the Board was attempting to create a vacancy so that they could hire Laura Tunnell.

Lisa Klein

Lisa Klein (Klein) is a staff developer in the Lyndhurst School district. She has been an administrator there for twenty years. Klein had a role in the development of the budget. She had monthly meetings with Scott Bisig and Shauna DeMarco and she was aware of the budget constraints.

Klein made recommendations on how many positions were needed and she knew certain personnel cuts would have to be made. Klein testified that a determination was made to keep Jamie Truncellito and cut the other two counselors. This decision was made because Truncellito provided classroom experience, she ran many programs, she helped students in crisis, she partook in confidential meetings, and she went out of her way for students. One example was with an English student who was having problems and she would work every day to help him complete a project. Klein felt the retention of Truncellito was essential.

Klein testified that at the May 29, 2018, Lyndhurst Board of Education meeting related to budget and staffing, motions were made to appoint a large list of non-tenured staff. Jamie Truncellito was the only non-tenured staff member who was singled out and taken off the list.

Laura Vuono

Laura Vuono (Vuono) is employed as the Lyndhurst High School principal. She is very familiar with the school board budget process and the budgetary problems facing the Lyndhurst school district. Vuono recommended re-hiring Jamie Truncellito for the position of guidance counselor. Vuono testified that Truncellito did excellent work with the students, was the liaison for the Gay Straight Alliance, she had the ability to deal with students in crisis and sensitive issues and the skills to handle large caseloads. Vuono's recommendation was based on Truncellito's performance and work ethic and took the budgetary constraints of the District into account when making the decision.

Jamie Stevens

Jamie Stevens (Stevens) is the Supervisor of the Special Education and Guidance in Lyndhurst and she supervised Jamie Truncellito. Stevens was aware of the budget problems facing the district at the time. She recommended Truncellito and was advised there were adequate funds in the budget for her position. Stevens made a conscious choice to let two other counselors go and keep Truncellito as a priority re-hire. She felt petitioner was the best qualified and made this decision keeping in mind the best interests of the students. If Stevens had been advised there was a financial issue with Truncellito's re-hire, she would have moved some line items in our budget to allow her to remain. She felt Truncellito was essential to the district.

James Vuono

James Vuono (Vuono) is a member of the Board. He was indirectly part of the budget process and was present at Board meetings, committee meetings, and caucuses where the budget was discussed. He is aware of the budget deficit issue that the previous business administrator left behind.

Vuono testified that at the May 29, 2018, Board meeting, there was a block of names of personnel recommended to be voted on. He recalls that Jamie Truncellito was on the recommended list and that there was money in place in the budget to fund her position.

Vuono recalls Board conversations regarding a motion for her re-appointment. He received a phone call from Board member Susan Alcuri asking him if he would support Laura Tunnell instead of Jamie Truncellito. He said no.

Vuono then testified that at the May 29 Board Meeting, Truncellito's name was taken off a long list of names of people who were recommended for hiring and her name was made a separate line item. The motion passed to move her name and then the vote was 5-4 against re-hiring her.

The person who called for Jamie Truncellito's name to be separate also voted against hiring her was Board member Susan Alcuri. James Vuono believes that he was excluded from some of the private conversations among other Board members regarding Truncellito's re-hire because he had already made it known that he would be voting in favor of Truncellito. The context of these private discussions was to remove Truncellito because she was not from Lyndhurst and to then fill her position with someone who was from Lyndhurst. There was no discussion of District finances regarding the decision to remove Truncellito. James Vuono opines that Jamie Truncellito lost 5-4 as she was not a "Lyndhurst person."

James Donovan

James Donovan (Donovan) is a Lyndhurst Board of Education Trustee, elected in 2016. He was present for the budget crisis and served on several committees. The town did not raise taxes to pay for this.

Donovan was present at the May 29, 2018, Board of Education meeting and he voted in favor of the Superintendent's recommendations. The money for Jamie Truncellito's salary was included in the budget and he voted in favor of her re-hire. As a Board member, he does not tell the Superintendent who to hire. He bases his vote on her recommendation and he testified that the Board is not able to hire anyone who is not recommended.

Prior to this May 29 Board meeting, there were discussions between himself and other Board members regarding who should remain employed by the District and who should not. Donovan testified that someone on the Board was attempting to influence him and that he was being pressured. He testified that certain members of the Board did not want Jamie Truncellito hired because she was from Rutherford and not from Lyndhurst.

Donovan testified that there were two other non-tenured guidance counselors non-renewed but Truncellito was the only one recommended by the Superintendent. Laura Tunnell was offered a job by the District in August of 2018 which she accepted. He testified that she was not recommended by the Superintendent.

Erin Keefe (by telephone conference)

Erin Keefe (Keefe) was sworn onto the Board of Education in January of 2018, and she serves as the current president. She was made aware of the financial crisis within a month of taking office. She was not on the finance committee, but she did participate in meetings and discussions regarding the deficit, which was substantial.

The new budget for 2018-2019 was prepared by Shauna Demarco and Scott Bisig. The purpose of the March 28, 2018, letter from Scott Bisig to the County Superintendent was to alert the County of the deficit and the corrective actions being taken. The budget was submitted and approved. The budget included personnel decisions, policy decisions, budget cuts, and it was mindful of the deficit. It also included Jamie Truncellito's salary.

Keefe was present at the executive session held before the May 29, 2018, Board of Education meeting. There was discussions of staffing and cuts. The guidance counselor positions were discussed. The decision was made for Lisa Klein and Jamie Truncellito to be voted on separately. Truncellito was the only non-tenured staff member listed for re-appointment who was taken off the list. She had been recommended by the Superintendent.

Board member Susan Alcuri discussed that two counselors cut were from Lyndhurst and Truncellito was not. She stated that Lyndhurst people should be hired first. She also stated that they made less money than Truncellito. Susan Alcuri voted "no" for Truncellito. The vote was 5-4 against her re-hire.

Keefe testified that the Superintendent's recommendations on cuts and retention were made in the best interests of the District. She felt that Truncellito was essential and voted "yes" for Truncellito. Keefe believes that residency was made a factor by Ms. Alcuri and was a factor in the vote not to re-hire Truncellito.

Jamie Truncellito

Truncellito was hired by the Lyndhurst School District in August 2016, and she worked from October 2016 until June 30, 2018, as a guidance counselor. She was responsible for administering SAT, AP, and other testing. She oversaw the anxiety group and the Gay Straight Alliance, ran the lunch and learn program, totally revamped the INRS process, and provided academic, college, and crisis counseling.

Truncellito testified that In January of 2018, she learned of serious budget issues in the district and noted that all of the non-tenured staff were worried. Truncellto testified that there were two other non-tenured guidance counselors at the school; Samantha Foti, who was hired in 2017, and Laura Tunnell, who had just been hired January of 2018. In light of the budget issues and her non-tenured status, Truncellito began sending out resumes. Truncellito's supervisor, Jamie Stevens, heard that she was looking for another job and told Truncellito not to send out any more resumes as there were no plans to let her go. Truncellito testified that she was also advised by her principal, Laura Vuono, that her job would be safe.

On April 25, 2018, Truncellito received a letter of non-renewal along with all of the other non-tenured staff. On May 22, 2018, she was given a letter by Laura Vuono indicating that the Superintendent was recommending her for the position of guidance counselor. She accepted this position by email on May 23, 2019. She was told that her job would be approved at the May 29, 2018, Board of Education meeting. On May 30, Truncellito learned that she was not re-hired and that her name had been singled out and voted on separately. She testified that the vote was 5-4 against her. She was distraught by the news and inconsolable at the time.

Truncellito then testified that later, at a school award ceremony, she saw Board member Erin Keefe and thanked her for her "yes" vote. Keefe apologized to Truncellito and said that she could give Truncellito no reason as to why she had lost her job. Keefe stated she was still trying to figure out the various relationships among Board members and that her leaving would be a loss to the District. She never mentioned finances.

Truncellito is currently working in Tenafly in a temporary job making $76,000. It is a maternity leave position with no pension credits. Truncellito holds six certifications K-5 elementary, 5-8 with language arts, teacher of the handicapped, reading specialist, teacher of reading, and school counseling. In her last year working at Lyndhurst, she was making $83,910. If was working there today, her salary, pursuant to the guide, would be $88,080.

When Truncellito was employed at Lyndhurst there were nine counselors and she believes there are now six. Laura Tunnell was hired in August 2018, and then resigned in September 2018. Truncellito does not know if her former job description was ever posted and she has been advised that ultimately, the Board did not re-hire anyone for this position.

Scott Bisig

Scott Bisig (Bisig) testified on behalf of the Board. His testimony was offered to show how Truncellito's non-renewal was directly related to a reduction in force due to budgetary shortfalls. He was hired by the Lyndhurst School District as the business administrator in 2017. Prior to this, he was employed in Oradell as the business secretary and prior to that, he was employed as a teacher in Bergenfield. He was made aware of glaring accounting discrepancies in November 2017. He contacted Shauna DeMarco and told her of a 1.2 million dollar deficit.

An audit was conducted and a second audit completed in January. After the audits, he was informed that the deficit could be as high as 4.5 million dollars.

On April 16, 2018, the District sent non-renewal notices to all non-tenured staff. Jamie Truncellito received a notice. When the 2018-2019 budget was prepared it include Truncellito's salary.

There were two other non-tenured counselors being cut. To date, the Board has not rehired this guidance counselor position. There was a maternity leave position offered to Laura Tunnell, but she did not accept it. That money has since been used to pay other expenses.

Bisig testified that he had no knowledge as to why Truncellito was not hired.

CREDIBILITY DETERMINATION

I FIND each and every witness in this case to be entirely credible.

FINDINGS OF FACT

In light of the above testimony, and having assessed the credibility of each witness, I FIND the following FACTS:

The moneys necessary to fund Truncellito's employment for the 2018-2019 school year were available and accounted for in the 2018-2019 District Budget. Truncellito was non-renewed at the May 29, 2018, Board meeting because a faction of Board members, including Member Alcuri, wished to free the position held by Truncellito so that it may be filled by a Lyndhurst resident. The decision by these Board members was not motivated by concerns regarding any budget shortfalls but instead the decision was purely motivated by in interest to employ Lyndhurst residents over non-Lyndhurst residents.

Legal Discussion

In the Case at bar, Truncellito was recommended for re-hire by the Superintendent, received a written offer of employment, and accepted same. Truncellito was ultimately not re-hired by the Board because a faction of the Board members wished to free-up her position as counselor so that a Lyndhurst resident may be hired to fill it.

N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 b states:

> A Board of Education shall renew the employment contract of a certified or non-certified employee only upon the recommendation of the chief school administrator and by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the > board. The board shall not withhold its approval for arbitrary and capricious reasons.

In light of the above, I FIND the Board's motivation to remove Truncellito so that a Lyndhurst resident may fill it to be arbitrary and capricious and I CONCLUDE the Board's non-renewal of Truncellito was improper and should be reversed.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner Jamie Truncellito's petition be GRANTED and that she be reinstated to her position of school counselor on the appropriate salary guide step for the 2019-2020 school year. It is further ORDERED that Truncellito be awarded the difference between what her earnings and benefits for the 2018-2019 school year would have been had she not been wrongfully removed from her position and what she actually received.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Decision

Jamie Truncellito,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Lyndhurst, Bergen County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner, formerly employed by the respondent Board, appealed the non-renewal of her employment and sought reinstatement to the position of guidance counselor. The Board contended that petitioner was a non-tenured employee at the time of her non-renewal due to budgetary constraints. Petitioner asserted that the non-renewal was politically motivated and was therefore arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioner was employed by the Board as a school counselor from August 2018 through June 2018; she received a standard notice of non-renewal on April 25, 2018, stating that she would be non-renewed for the 2018-2019 school year; she was subsequently recommended for re-appointment by the Superintendent of Schools and received a written offer of employment, which she accepted via email on May 23, 2018; at a meeting on May 29, 2018, the Board voted not to renew the petitioner's employment; there was adequate funding available for petitioner's employment in the 2019-2019 district budget; petitioner was non-renewed at the May 2018 Board meeting because a faction of Board members wished to free the position she held so that it could be filled by a Lyndhurst resident; and N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b) stipulates that an employment contract shall renew only upon recommendation of the chief school administrator and by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full board, and that the board shall not withhold its approval for arbitrary and capricious reasons. The ALJ concluded that the Board's motivation to remove petitioner so that a Lyndhurst resident could fill the position was arbitrary and capricious. Accordingly, the ALJ determined that petitioner's non-renewal was improper, and ordered that her appeal be granted.

Upon review, the Commissioner rejected the Initial Decision of the OAL and dismissed the petition. In so doing, the Commissioner noted that a board of education has virtually unlimited discretion in hiring or renewing non-tenured staff members absent constitutional constraints or legislatively-conferred rights. As such, where a non-tenured staff member challenges a district board's decision to terminate her employment on the grounds that the reasons provided by the board are not supported by the facts, she is entitled to litigate that question only if the facts she alleges, if true, would constitute a violation of constitutional or legislatively-conferred rights. Petitioner herein has specifically stated that she is not arguing that her constitutional rights were violated, nor has she alleged a violation of any legislatively-conferred right. Accordingly, the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Final Decision

Jamie B. Truncellito,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Lyndhurst, Bergen County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.[1] This matter involves a decision by the Lyndhurst Board of Education (Board) to non-renew petitioner in her position as guidance counselor. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the Board's motivation to non-renew petitioner was to allow a Lyndhurst resident to fill the position and, accordingly, that the decision was arbitrary and capricious. The ALJ reversed the Board's decision and ordered that petitioner be reinstated to her position.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the ALJ erroneously reversed the Board's decision. A board of education has virtually unlimited discretion in hiring or renewing

[1] Exceptions filed by respondent were not timely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were therefore not considered by the Commissioner. Petitioner timely filed a reply, which includes arguments substantially similar to those made in her post-hearing briefs. Petitioner's reply argues that the ALJ carefully reviewed the testimony of all the witnesses, which supports petitioner's assertions of nepotism. Petitioner further contends that the Board refused to honor the recommendation of the superintendent, making its decision arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable. Petitioner alleges that the Board's claim of economic crisis does not square with the facts because her employment had already been accounted for in the budget and the business administrator, who co-authored the budget, testified that he had no knowledge of why petitioner was not renewed. Respondent filed a reply to petitioner's reply. However, N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 does not permit the filing of a reply to a reply to exceptions; as such, respondent's submission was not considered.

non-tenured staff members absent constitutional constraints or legislatively-conferred rights. Dore v. Bedminster Twp. Bd. of Ed., 185 N.J. Super. 447, 456 (App. Div. 1982). As such, where a non-tenured staff member challenges a district board's decision to terminate her employment on the grounds that the reasons provided by the board are not supported by the facts, she is entitled to litigate that question only if the facts she alleges, if true, would constitute a violation of constitutional or legislatively-conferred rights. Guerriero v. Bd. of Ed. of the Borough of Glen Rock, decided by the State Board of Education February 5, 1986, aff'd Docket #A-3316-85T6 (App. Div. 1986). In this case, petitioner has specifically stated that she is not arguing that her constitutional rights were violated. Furthermore, she has not alleged a violation of any legislatively-conferred right.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is rejected and the petition is hereby dismissed.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Jamie Truncellito (petitioner or Truncellito), a former guidance counselor employed by the Board of Education of the Township of Lyndhurst (Board) appeals the Board's decision of non-renewal and seeks reinstatement to her former position as a guidance counselor. The Board argues Truncellito was a non-tenured employee at the time of non-renewal and claims her contract was non-renewed due to budget constraints. Truncellito asserts that the non-renewal was politically motivated and thus arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable.

ISSUE

Was the non-renewal of Truncellito's contract by the Board a result of a reduction in force due to budget shortfalls, or was she non-renewed for political reasons, specifically so that a Lyndhurst Township native could take her position.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed the instant petition with the New Jersey Commissioner of Education, on June 20, 2018, where it was received on June 21, 2018, by the Department of Controversies and Disputes.

The matter was transmitted as a contested case on July 30, 2018, to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was received on July 30, 2018.

The matter was set down for a hearing on May 2, 2019, and May 20, 2019. Final submissions were received on July 10, 2019, and response briefs on August 14, 2019, at which point the record was closed.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The I FIND that the following facts are undisputed, and I therefore FIND them to be the FACTS of the case:

1. Petitioner was employed as a School Counselor under a Student Services Certificate from August 26, 2016, through June 30, 2018.
2. On April 25, 2018, Truncellito received a standard Notice of Non-Renewal stating that she would be non-renewed for the 2018-2019 school year.

3. Truncellito was recommended for re-appointment by Jamie Stevens, Director of Special Services (her immediate supervisor), the High School Principal Laura Vouno, and the Superintendent of Schools Shauna DeMarco.
4. On May 22, 2018, Truncellito was given a written offer of employment by Superintendent Shauna DeMarco in advance of the May 29, 2018, Pubic Board Meeting.
5. Truncellito accepted the offer of employment in writing through an email communication with the Superintendent on May 23, 2018.
6. At the May 29, 2018, Lyndhurst Board of Education Meeting, the Board voted five to four not to renew Truncellito's employment.
7. During the fall and winter months of the 2017-2018 school year, a budget deficit was discovered by the Superintendent of Schools and the Business Administrator.
8. The initial deficit was projected at approximately $1.8 million dollars and subsequently determined to be approximately $3.8 million dollars.
9. The Business Administrator advised the Acting Bergen County Superintendent of Schools of the deficit in writing on March 31, 2018, identifying the amount of the deficit and the District's plan to address the same.
10. The Business Administrator, with the assistance of the Superintendent of Schools Demarco, prepared a budget for the 2018-2019 school year and submitted the same to the County Superintendent.
11. The budget presented to and approved by the Country Superintendent reflected cuts taken to address the deficit that was reported to him.
12. The 2018-2019 budget contained numerous cuts in non-tenured personnel, reductions in tenured staff, and other operational cuts in spending.
13. The approved 2018-2019 budget was adopted by the Board included the salary for Truncellito's employment.
14. Petitioner's salary for the 2017-2018 school year was $83,910.
15. Petitioner's salary, unadjusted for collective bargaining for the 2018-2019 school year would have been $88,080.
16. A fiscal monitor, Thomas Egan (Egan), was appointed to manage the District's finances in August 2018.

17. The monitor possesses the powers as set forth under New Jersey State Law and the New Jersey Administrative code, including the power to amend the 2018-2019 budget and corresponding personnel decisions.
18. The monitor chose not to amend the approved 2018-2019 budget and corresponding personnel decisions.
19. When Egan took control of the District's finances, he did not non-renew any of the non-tenured employees approved in the 2018-2019 budget.
20. Shauna DeMarco resigned as Superintendent in February of 2018, effective June 30, 2018.
21. Shauna DeMarco was replaced by Anthony Grieco as Superintendent in July of 2018.
22. When Truncellito's renewal was defeated by the Board, neither Superintendent DeMarco nor her successor recommended any individual to fill the position.

Shauna Demarco

Shauna DeMarco (DeMarco) has been employed by the Lyndhurst School District since 2006, first as a substitute, then a full-time teacher, and then the Superintendent. As the Superintendent, she was fully involved with the budgetary process and made recommendations to the Board that considered these budget constraints.

DeMarco testified that at the end of the 2017-2018 school year, all non-tenured staff, including petitioner, were sent notice of non-renewal. She would then decide who of these were essential to re-hire. In analyzing who to re-hire, DeMarco took recommendations from the principals, vice principals, and supervisors within the district.

When conferring with the guidance department regarding who to re-hire, everyone agreed that Jamie Truncellito was essential to the department. She testified that she felt that Truncellito could handle a crisis if need be, as Truncellito regularly dealt with very sensitive issues and her expertise was very valuable to the district. There were three counselors who had been non-renewed (Truncellito, Samantha Foti, and Laura Tunnell) but the decision was made that Truncellito's would be the only re-hire. While the other counselors were excellent, they were new and less experienced than Truncellito.

The serious financial situation in the district was carefully examined while making all of these determinations. Jamie Truncellito was making over $83,000 and the other two were making $59,000. These facts were taken into careful consideration when recommending to re-hire Jamie Truncellito. Her salary was included in the budget that was sent to the Board and to the County for approval.

DeMarco then testified that there came a time when certain Board members tried to influence personnel decisions by persuading other members to vote to non-renew certain non-tenured employees, such as Truncellito, so that these certain Board members could offer the position to people they knew.

With respect to the Guidance Counselor position, the principal and others began receiving signals from a certain Board member that an individual named Laura Tunnell should get the position occupied by Truncellito. Notwithstanding these influences, DeMarco explained to her staff that the best candidates should be put forward regardless of political bias and that she alone would make the final recommendation.

DeMarco testified that in January of 2018, she was advised by the Director of Curriculum that a certain Board member inquired about who would be recommended for the guidance counselor position (occupied by Truncellito). DeMarco was surprised that the Board was interfering with personnel recommendations and she therefore reached out to the Board member for a conversation. This Board member advised DeMarco that the only candidate the Board would support would be Laura Tunnell because she was a "good kid" from Lyndhurst. There was never a discussion about money or budget.

DeMarco explained to the Board member that it was improper for the Board and its members to influence personnel decisions in this manner. DeMarco then had a conversation with the Board president and vice president because she was concerned about what she considered the non-ethical behavior of certain members of the Board.

DeMarco resigned from the District February 2, 2018, even though she had a five-year contract. She testified that she resigned because she felt that she was not able to accomplish what she wanted to in this district.

With respect to the Jamie Truncellito recommendation, DeMarco testified that she was in contact with the business administrator and her recommendation in favor of Truncellito was clear. When she made the recommendation for Truncellito, she was acutely aware of the financial problems and that there was sufficient money in the budget for Truncellito. She was also aware that there would be lay-offs of the two other counselors whose salaries totaled $120,000 plus benefits. This recommendation was made because DeMarco believed it was essential that the District retain Jamie Truncellito and the funds were available to do so.

DeMarco then testified with regard to executive session that occurred before the Board vote at the May 29, 2018, Board of Education Meeting. At this meeting, there were two names given to be voted upon separate and apart from the list of people being recommended for re-hire. DeMarco asked why these individuals were being separated from the larger list of pre-approved, recommended candidates. DeMarco was advised that the Board wanted Truncellito to be voted on separately. DeMarco then testified that in response to this conversation, Board member Jim Donovan got up and said "are you kidding me?" He was upset with Susan Alcuri and with the Board. He said "this isn't about money. It's about Susan wanting to put in a position for Laura Tunnell."

The Board decided to remove Jamie Truncellito's name for the larger block of names being approved and vote on her re-employment by a separate line item. Once Truncellito's name was removed, the larger block of names was ultimately voted on and approved by the Board. The vote on Truncellito alone was 5-4 against re-hiring Truncellito. This vote created a vacancy for Truncellito's position.

DeMarco was asked by the Board to make another recommendation for the position, but she refused. DeMarco added that she was shocked by the vote of the Board. Laura Tunnell has multiple family members in the Lyndhurst school system.

DeMarco opined that the Board was attempting to create a vacancy so that they could hire Laura Tunnell.

Lisa Klein

Lisa Klein (Klein) is a staff developer in the Lyndhurst School district. She has been an administrator there for twenty years. Klein had a role in the development of the budget. She had monthly meetings with Scott Bisig and Shauna DeMarco and she was aware of the budget constraints.

Klein made recommendations on how many positions were needed and she knew certain personnel cuts would have to be made. Klein testified that a determination was made to keep Jamie Truncellito and cut the other two counselors. This decision was made because Truncellito provided classroom experience, she ran many programs, she helped students in crisis, she partook in confidential meetings, and she went out of her way for students. One example was with an English student who was having problems and she would work every day to help him complete a project. Klein felt the retention of Truncellito was essential.

Klein testified that at the May 29, 2018, Lyndhurst Board of Education meeting related to budget and staffing, motions were made to appoint a large list of non-tenured staff. Jamie Truncellito was the only non-tenured staff member who was singled out and taken off the list.

Laura Vuono

Laura Vuono (Vuono) is employed as the Lyndhurst High School principal. She is very familiar with the school board budget process and the budgetary problems facing the Lyndhurst school district. Vuono recommended re-hiring Jamie Truncellito for the position of guidance counselor. Vuono testified that Truncellito did excellent work with the students, was the liaison for the Gay Straight Alliance, she had the ability to deal with students in crisis and sensitive issues and the skills to handle large caseloads. Vuono's recommendation was based on Truncellito's performance and work ethic and took the budgetary constraints of the District into account when making the decision.

Jamie Stevens

Jamie Stevens (Stevens) is the Supervisor of the Special Education and Guidance in Lyndhurst and she supervised Jamie Truncellito. Stevens was aware of the budget problems facing the district at the time. She recommended Truncellito and was advised there were adequate funds in the budget for her position. Stevens made a conscious choice to let two other counselors go and keep Truncellito as a priority re-hire. She felt petitioner was the best qualified and made this decision keeping in mind the best interests of the students. If Stevens had been advised there was a financial issue with Truncellito's re-hire, she would have moved some line items in our budget to allow her to remain. She felt Truncellito was essential to the district.

James Vuono

James Vuono (Vuono) is a member of the Board. He was indirectly part of the budget process and was present at Board meetings, committee meetings, and caucuses where the budget was discussed. He is aware of the budget deficit issue that the previous business administrator left behind.

Vuono testified that at the May 29, 2018, Board meeting, there was a block of names of personnel recommended to be voted on. He recalls that Jamie Truncellito was on the recommended list and that there was money in place in the budget to fund her position.

Vuono recalls Board conversations regarding a motion for her re-appointment. He received a phone call from Board member Susan Alcuri asking him if he would support Laura Tunnell instead of Jamie Truncellito. He said no.

Vuono then testified that at the May 29 Board Meeting, Truncellito's name was taken off a long list of names of people who were recommended for hiring and her name was made a separate line item. The motion passed to move her name and then the vote was 5-4 against re-hiring her.

The person who called for Jamie Truncellito's name to be separate also voted against hiring her was Board member Susan Alcuri. James Vuono believes that he was excluded from some of the private conversations among other Board members regarding Truncellito's re-hire because he had already made it known that he would be voting in favor of Truncellito. The context of these private discussions was to remove Truncellito because she was not from Lyndhurst and to then fill her position with someone who was from Lyndhurst. There was no discussion of District finances regarding the decision to remove Truncellito. James Vuono opines that Jamie Truncellito lost 5-4 as she was not a "Lyndhurst person."

James Donovan

James Donovan (Donovan) is a Lyndhurst Board of Education Trustee, elected in 2016. He was present for the budget crisis and served on several committees. The town did not raise taxes to pay for this.

Donovan was present at the May 29, 2018, Board of Education meeting and he voted in favor of the Superintendent's recommendations. The money for Jamie Truncellito's salary was included in the budget and he voted in favor of her re-hire. As a Board member, he does not tell the Superintendent who to hire. He bases his vote on her recommendation and he testified that the Board is not able to hire anyone who is not recommended.

Prior to this May 29 Board meeting, there were discussions between himself and other Board members regarding who should remain employed by the District and who should not. Donovan testified that someone on the Board was attempting to influence him and that he was being pressured. He testified that certain members of the Board did not want Jamie Truncellito hired because she was from Rutherford and not from Lyndhurst.

Donovan testified that there were two other non-tenured guidance counselors non-renewed but Truncellito was the only one recommended by the Superintendent. Laura Tunnell was offered a job by the District in August of 2018 which she accepted. He testified that she was not recommended by the Superintendent.

Erin Keefe (by telephone conference)

Erin Keefe (Keefe) was sworn onto the Board of Education in January of 2018, and she serves as the current president. She was made aware of the financial crisis within a month of taking office. She was not on the finance committee, but she did participate in meetings and discussions regarding the deficit, which was substantial.

The new budget for 2018-2019 was prepared by Shauna Demarco and Scott Bisig. The purpose of the March 28, 2018, letter from Scott Bisig to the County Superintendent was to alert the County of the deficit and the corrective actions being taken. The budget was submitted and approved. The budget included personnel decisions, policy decisions, budget cuts, and it was mindful of the deficit. It also included Jamie Truncellito's salary.

Keefe was present at the executive session held before the May 29, 2018, Board of Education meeting. There was discussions of staffing and cuts. The guidance counselor positions were discussed. The decision was made for Lisa Klein and Jamie Truncellito to be voted on separately. Truncellito was the only non-tenured staff member listed for re-appointment who was taken off the list. She had been recommended by the Superintendent.

Board member Susan Alcuri discussed that two counselors cut were from Lyndhurst and Truncellito was not. She stated that Lyndhurst people should be hired first. She also stated that they made less money than Truncellito. Susan Alcuri voted "no" for Truncellito. The vote was 5-4 against her re-hire.

Keefe testified that the Superintendent's recommendations on cuts and retention were made in the best interests of the District. She felt that Truncellito was essential and voted "yes" for Truncellito. Keefe believes that residency was made a factor by Ms. Alcuri and was a factor in the vote not to re-hire Truncellito.

Jamie Truncellito

Truncellito was hired by the Lyndhurst School District in August 2016, and she worked from October 2016 until June 30, 2018, as a guidance counselor. She was responsible for administering SAT, AP, and other testing. She oversaw the anxiety group and the Gay Straight Alliance, ran the lunch and learn program, totally revamped the INRS process, and provided academic, college, and crisis counseling.

Truncellito testified that In January of 2018, she learned of serious budget issues in the district and noted that all of the non-tenured staff were worried. Truncellto testified that there were two other non-tenured guidance counselors at the school; Samantha Foti, who was hired in 2017, and Laura Tunnell, who had just been hired January of 2018. In light of the budget issues and her non-tenured status, Truncellito began sending out resumes. Truncellito's supervisor, Jamie Stevens, heard that she was looking for another job and told Truncellito not to send out any more resumes as there were no plans to let her go. Truncellito testified that she was also advised by her principal, Laura Vuono, that her job would be safe.

On April 25, 2018, Truncellito received a letter of non-renewal along with all of the other non-tenured staff. On May 22, 2018, she was given a letter by Laura Vuono indicating that the Superintendent was recommending her for the position of guidance counselor. She accepted this position by email on May 23, 2019. She was told that her job would be approved at the May 29, 2018, Board of Education meeting. On May 30, Truncellito learned that she was not re-hired and that her name had been singled out and voted on separately. She testified that the vote was 5-4 against her. She was distraught by the news and inconsolable at the time.

Truncellito then testified that later, at a school award ceremony, she saw Board member Erin Keefe and thanked her for her "yes" vote. Keefe apologized to Truncellito and said that she could give Truncellito no reason as to why she had lost her job. Keefe stated she was still trying to figure out the various relationships among Board members and that her leaving would be a loss to the District. She never mentioned finances.

Truncellito is currently working in Tenafly in a temporary job making $76,000. It is a maternity leave position with no pension credits. Truncellito holds six certifications K-5 elementary, 5-8 with language arts, teacher of the handicapped, reading specialist, teacher of reading, and school counseling. In her last year working at Lyndhurst, she was making $83,910. If was working there today, her salary, pursuant to the guide, would be $88,080.

When Truncellito was employed at Lyndhurst there were nine counselors and she believes there are now six. Laura Tunnell was hired in August 2018, and then resigned in September 2018. Truncellito does not know if her former job description was ever posted and she has been advised that ultimately, the Board did not re-hire anyone for this position.

Scott Bisig

Scott Bisig (Bisig) testified on behalf of the Board. His testimony was offered to show how Truncellito's non-renewal was directly related to a reduction in force due to budgetary shortfalls. He was hired by the Lyndhurst School District as the business administrator in 2017. Prior to this, he was employed in Oradell as the business secretary and prior to that, he was employed as a teacher in Bergenfield. He was made aware of glaring accounting discrepancies in November 2017. He contacted Shauna DeMarco and told her of a 1.2 million dollar deficit.

An audit was conducted and a second audit completed in January. After the audits, he was informed that the deficit could be as high as 4.5 million dollars.

On April 16, 2018, the District sent non-renewal notices to all non-tenured staff. Jamie Truncellito received a notice. When the 2018-2019 budget was prepared it include Truncellito's salary.

There were two other non-tenured counselors being cut. To date, the Board has not rehired this guidance counselor position. There was a maternity leave position offered to Laura Tunnell, but she did not accept it. That money has since been used to pay other expenses.

Bisig testified that he had no knowledge as to why Truncellito was not hired.

CREDIBILITY DETERMINATION

I FIND each and every witness in this case to be entirely credible.

FINDINGS OF FACT

In light of the above testimony, and having assessed the credibility of each witness, I FIND the following FACTS:

The moneys necessary to fund Truncellito's employment for the 2018-2019 school year were available and accounted for in the 2018-2019 District Budget. Truncellito was non-renewed at the May 29, 2018, Board meeting because a faction of Board members, including Member Alcuri, wished to free the position held by Truncellito so that it may be filled by a Lyndhurst resident. The decision by these Board members was not motivated by concerns regarding any budget shortfalls but instead the decision was purely motivated by in interest to employ Lyndhurst residents over non-Lyndhurst residents.

Legal Discussion

In the Case at bar, Truncellito was recommended for re-hire by the Superintendent, received a written offer of employment, and accepted same. Truncellito was ultimately not re-hired by the Board because a faction of the Board members wished to free-up her position as counselor so that a Lyndhurst resident may be hired to fill it.

N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 b states:

> A Board of Education shall renew the employment contract of a certified or non-certified employee only upon the recommendation of the chief school administrator and by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the > board. The board shall not withhold its approval for arbitrary and capricious reasons.

In light of the above, I FIND the Board's motivation to remove Truncellito so that a Lyndhurst resident may fill it to be arbitrary and capricious and I CONCLUDE the Board's non-renewal of Truncellito was improper and should be reversed.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner Jamie Truncellito's petition be GRANTED and that she be reinstated to her position of school counselor on the appropriate salary guide step for the 2019-2020 school year. It is further ORDERED that Truncellito be awarded the difference between what her earnings and benefits for the 2018-2019 school year would have been had she not been wrongfully removed from her position and what she actually received.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BEFORE CARL V. BUCK III, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner[1] appealed the action of respondent Moorestown Board of Education (Board) denying him promotion from the seventh grade to the eighth grade at the William Allen Middle School for the 2019-2010 academic year. Notice of the possibility to retain student was given as early as January 2019. Direct notice of intent of the School's principal to retain student was given to petitioner on June 17, 2019. Petitioner requested an appeal to the Superintendent of the Board, who upheld the principal's decision on or about July 15, 2019. Petitioner requested an appeal to the Board which upheld the decision made by the principal and the superintendent.

[1] As the petitioner and his son have the same initials, in the body of this Order the father shall be referred to as "Petitioner" or "Father" and the student shall be referred to as "Student" or "Son".

The State of New Jersey, Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies received a petition for emergency relief on or about September 12, 2019. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing as a contested case on September 13, 2019, on petitioner's application for emergency relief. The Director of the OAL assigned the undersigned to hear this matter pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-5.

Oral argument on the matter was scheduled for September 18, 2019. Subsequent to oral argument on that date, both parties requested time to make an additional submission and agreed to the extension of this order so that information could be considered in the Order. Respondent was given until 10:00 am on Friday, September 20, 2019 and made a submission. Petitioner was given until 10:00 am on Monday, September 23, 2019 and did not make a submission. Nothing from petitioner was received by the close of business on Tuesday, September 24, 2019.

For the reasons discussed below, the relief sought by the petitioner is DENIED.

FACTUAL FINDINGS

For the purposes of deciding the application for emergent relief, the following facts are determined to be undisputed:

Respondent Board's policy 5410 deals with retention of students within the Moorestown Township School District. This policy deals with promotion to a subsequent grade and states:

> A pupil in the elementary grades will be promoted to the next succeeding grade level when he/she has completed the course requirements at the presently assigned grade; has achieved the instructional objectives set for the present grade; has demonstrated > the proficiency is required for movement into the educational program of the next grade; and his demonstrated the degree of social, emotional, and physical maturation necessary for a successful learning experience in the next grade.

Beginning with PAARC testing results of May 2018, student's scores indicated that he was below proficient levels in language arts and math. In August 2018 the student was placed in remedial classes for general education students for the subjects of math and language arts. The student was also recommended to the PASS class - that being a class to improve executive functioning for general education students. The petitioner initially refused to consent to these placements.

In September and October 2018, the student's teachers requested that he stay after school for extra assistance due to his low grades. Petitioner did not consent to allow the student to stay after school to accept assistance. On September 25, 2018, the teachers requested a meeting with petitioner. In October 2018 the student was referred to the intervention and referral services team; however, petitioner refused to allow the student access to this assistance. In September and October 2018, the school nurse contacted the petitioner regarding a concern with the student's need for eyeglasses. The student was not provided with eyeglasses for several months.

In November 2018 the principal met with the student to discuss the student's responsibilities to complete his work for the first marking period. Petitioner was notified of that meeting and objected to the meeting. In November 2018 the student was offered a mentor and the school nurse notified petitioner of concerns regarding the student's weight. Petitioner indicated he would not allow a mentor to assist the student nor use the nurse's advice.

In December 2018 the possibility the student joining the wrestling team was discussed with petitioner; however, petitioner failed to follow up.

In January 2019 the child study team (CST) offered to evaluate the student again and the student was recommended for the PASS class. Petitioner refused to consent to either a review or evaluation by the CST or for the student to participate in the PASS class. In January 2019 the principal notified petitioner that the student could be retained or changed to different classes, specifically, the BSI math and the PASS class, if his grades did not improve. Petitioner refused to consent to the PASS class but consented to the BSI math class. In March 2019 petitioner was notified for the second time that the student was in jeopardy of retention if his grades did not improve. In March 2019 the principal met again with petitioner to discuss the possibility that student could be retained. This was the third time petitioner had been made aware of the possibility of his son being retained in seventh grade. Petitioner then agreed to receive weekly updates of student's progress and assignments. The student was again offered extra assistance after school, but petitioner refused to allow the student to receive such assistance.

From March 2019 through June 2019, the student's teachers communicated with petitioner regarding student's failure to complete assignments via the student's agenda book. Petitioner did note that the book was misplaced at least on one occasion. The school asserted that petitioner did not respond to the notations regarding the student's failure to complete assignments.

In March 2019 petitioner agreed he would email the student's teachers every Wednesday and would respond with updates. The teachers forwarded emails to the petitioner with updates regarding the student's progress. In June 2019 the petitioner was requested to schedule a final meeting regarding the student's retention. The petitioner requested a telephone conference for June 17, 2019. However, petitioner did not call at the scheduled time. On June 21, 2019, the principal met with the petitioner and petitioner's mother to discuss the student's retention. This was the fourth time student's retention was mentioned to petitioner.

TESTIMONY

J.M.

J.M. is the father of the student. He requests emergent relief so that his son may be advanced to eighth grade. His position is that he was told during several discussions with the principal that if the student evidenced satisfactory effort that he would be advanced. Petitioner states that the student has tried to advance; therefore, he should be advanced to the eighth grade. Petitioner further states that the harm in retaining the student is far greater than the harm in holding him back for another year. He provided citations to many articles which petitioner stated evidence that position, but petitioner could not provide a succinct analysis of how those articles correlate to the matter at hand. It was his goal to have the student advance, as he will be responsible for the child for another year. As a single parent, he has made efforts to keep the student involved in school but was unable to do so. Petitioner argued that the burden of retaining the student will be placed on himself and the student only, and that it hurts nobody to put the student in the eighth grade.

R.K.

R.K. is the mother of the petitioner (and grandmother of the student). She represented that she possesses a master's degree in higher education and a master's degree in experimental psychology. She testified not as a professional, but simply as a family member with knowledge and involvement in this case. She has done tremendous research and found that it is harmful to not promote a student. There are mental-health ramifications for high school dropouts, and she is concerned that her grandson would ultimately become a high school dropout due to this event. She requested a CST evaluation be done and stated, what harm would it be to have him in the eighth grade while this evaluation is being done. She stated that she does not feel that it would be harmful to promote the student to the eighth grade.

Board

The Board attorney, John Comegno, Esq., reiterated the terms of Board Policy 5410 detailed above. Specifically, he detailed that when and how a promotion occurs is not based on attendance, intentions, etc. but strictly on academic results and emotional readiness to advance. The retention decision was not punitive and was based on the evidence as detailed as well as the student's final report card (R-1). The decision was initially made by the Principal, Matthew Keith. Petitioner requested an appeal to Superintendent Scott McCartney who upheld the principal's decision. Petitioner then requested a further appeal to the entire Board of Education. The Board then upheld the decisions below made by the principal and the superintendent. In their argument, the Board relied on two decisions from the Hon. Joseph Martone ALJ dealing with similar circumstances - but not exact fact patterns. The Board then detailed the four criteria of Crowe v. DeGioia stating that the criteria were not met, and that the contention of the petitioner must ultimately fail.

A secondary issue, regarding standing (in that petitioner withdrew the student from the school system on September 9, 2019) was not heard by the Court. This issue was raised during a telephone conversation before the court date and the court's position was that that issue would not be dealt with but that the appeal would continue as filed.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), an application for emergent relief shall not be granted unless it satisfies the following four standards:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;

2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;

3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

[See Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132–34 (1982).]

The petitioner must meet all four criteria to prevail on his request. See Crowe, 90 N.J. 126; DEC Electric, Inc. v. Bd. of Educ. of the S. Gloucester Cnty. Reg'l High Sch. Dist. and USA Elec. Contractors, Inc., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 789, 790 (citing DEC Electric, Inc. v. S. Gloucester Cnty. Reg'l High Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ. and USA Elec. Contractors, Inc., EDU 10833-95, Order Denying Emergent Relief (Dec. 6, 1995), adopted, Comm'r (Dec. 26, 1995) (denied unsuccessful bidder's request for emergent relief because it was unable to establish that it would suffer immediate and irreparable harm, although it was able to establish a reasonable likelihood of success on the merits and that the parties opposing the motion would not suffer undue harm). The moving party bears the burden of proving each of the Crowe elements "clearly and convincingly." Waste Mgmt. of N.J. v. Union Cnty. Utils. Auth., 399 N.J. Super. 508, 520 (App. Div. 2008).

Accordingly, each prong of the test must be analyzed:

1. Whether petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the student is not advanced to the eighth grade for the 2019-2020 school year.

The first principle for emergent relief is that relief should only be ordered to prevent irreparable harm to the petitioner. Crowe, 90 N.J. at 132–33. Harm is irreparable when it cannot be addressed with monetary damages. Ibid. This standard contemplates that the harm also be both substantial and immediate. Subcarrier Commc'ns, Inc. v. Day, 299 N.J. Super. 634, 638 (App. Div. 1997). "In certain circumstances, severe personal inconvenience can constitute irreparable injury justifying issuance of injunctive relief." Crowe, 90 N.J. at 133. "Pecuniary damages may be inadequate because of the nature of the injury or of the right affected." Ibid.

Here, petitioner claims that no one will be hurt by the student's elevation to eighth grade. Petitioner further states that there will be ongoing harm and trauma to the student should the student not be promoted. Petitioner's mother also states that it is harmful to retain a student.

In opposition, the Board maintains that it is following its adopted Board Policy 5410. In support of its position, the Board avers that the student's grades throughout the year were deficient; with the ultimate result being that the student failed four of the core curriculum courses needed for promotion to the next grade level. (R-1). The student failed language arts for three of the four quarters; math for three of the four quarters, science for all four quarters, cultural geography for three of the four quarters and math support for two quarters. The student's final grades reflect an A- in chorus, a B+ in art, a B in physical education, a C- in health, a P in math support. The student received an A+ and a C for two quarters of Spanish. The Board demonstrated that assistance was offered to the student throughout the course of the year but was, for the most part, rejected by the parent.

Petitioner is seeking to have the student promoted to eighth grade while a CST evaluation occurs. A CST evaluation was recommended by the school last year but was refused by the father at that time. Conducting such evaluation at a time the student in the untenable position of expecting (or hoping) that he will provide satisfactory results in a grade for which he is ill-prepared and unready is not a sound plan and doing so, in the Court's opinion, would be setting up the student for failure.

Accordingly, I FIND that petitioner has not shown neither irreparable harm nor the risk of harm to the student based on the Board's action. The issue of damages remains speculative and therefore does not satisfy the first prong of the four-prong test under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b).

2. Whether the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is well settled.

Petitioner claims that the legal right underlying his claim is well settled because the principal, the superintendent, and the Board of Education have made such determination and by his citation to numerous articles citing the harm in retaining students.

Respondent claims that the Board's action is in compliance with Board Policy 5410 and does not violate any legal right of petitioner.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:35-4.9(a), Boards of Education are empowered to develop retention and promotion policies. The policies the Board of Education produce pursuant to this delegated power have the force and effect of law. See P.D.M. o.b.o.

K.M. v Bd. Of Educ. of Somerville, EDU 6706-98, (Aug. 27, 1998); J.Y. and C.Y. o.b.o. M.Y. v. Bridgewater-Raritan Reg. Sch. Dist., EDS 6876-98 (September 17, 1998). It is well settled that decisions of local boards of education are entitled to a presumption of correctness unless they are shown to be "patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives." J. M., by His Guardian, D. M. v. Hunterdon Central Regional High School District, Hunterdon County, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 415, 419; R. A. M. and C. A. M. v. Board of Educ. of the OAL DKT. NO. EDU 04389-18 8 Township of Tabernacle, 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 573, 576 (citing, Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960)). Petitioner bears the burden of proving, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the respondent's action was "arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable." J.M., 96 N.J.A.R.2d at 419.

Respondent claims that the Board's action is in compliance with Board Policy 5410 and does not violate any legal right of petitioner.

The claim before me is unique with sparse reference to caselaw. But, the statute and the Board Policy are plain on their face, and the petitioner has not shown (nor has my review revealed) that the actions here were either "arbitrary" or "capricious". Accordingly, I FIND that the legal issue here is settled as a matter of law.

3. Whether petitioner is likely to be successful on the merits of its claim.

Petitioner's appeal does not assert an argument that supports the contention he will prevail on the merits.

4. Whether petitioner will suffer greater harm than respondent if emergent relief is not granted.

Petitioner claims that the student will suffer greater harm than respondent if the requested relief is not granted. Petitioner has not shown that student will suffer greater hardship than respondent and it is the position of the tribunal that if the student is not provided with appropriate assistance in an appropriate classroom setting, that he will, through lack of an appropriate educational foundation, suffer harm here.

While I agree that ensuring the welfare of the student is paramount, I do not FIND that such a correction can be made by way of allowing the student to progress to the eighth grade when he does not have the appropriate educational background to do so.

CONCLUSION

Petitioner has not satisfied the four prongs required to obtain emergent relief. Petitioner has not shown imminent and irreparable harm. He has not shown that that the legal right to petitioner's claim is well settled. He has not shown that he has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits. He has not shown any harm to the student or that the student will be negatively impacted by retention in the seventh grade.

This matter was filed as an Emergent matter only. No filing for a Due Process hearing was made by petitioner. Therefore, this office will retain this file until the final decision by the Commissioner.

ORDER

The application for emergent relief is DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

In the Matter of Israel Varela and Kenneth Puccio, Perth Amboy Board of Education, Middlesex County.

This matter involves an appeal of the School Ethics Commission's (Commission) May 2, 2019 decision that appellant Kenneth Puccio, a member of the Perth Amboy Board of Education, violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members (Code) in connection with his attendance at a meeting of the local American Federal of Teachers (AFT), which is the teachers' union.[1] The Commission found probable cause that the appellant violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f) in connection with his behavior at a Board personnel meeting held on February 22, 2012, and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) in connection with his attendance at an AFT meeting on May 9, 2012.[2] Following a hearing at the Office of Administrative Law, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) dismissed the charges regarding the Board personnel meeting, concluded that appellant violated N.J.S.A.

[1] Complaint C21-12 was filed with the Commission against appellant on May 24, 2012. Complaints C17-12 and C18-12 involved Israel Varela, whose matters were consolidated with Mr. Puccio's due to the similarity of the legal issues and evidence. The Commission's May 2, 2019 decision involved findings against both Mr. Varela and Mr. Puccio. Mr. Varela did not appeal the Commission's decision. The Commissioner's Final Decision regarding Mr. Varela was issued on June 18, 2019 under Agency Docket No. 106-5/19.

[2] The Commission's May 2, 2019 decision indicates that it also found probable cause that appellant violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i). However, the September 26, 2012, Probable Cause Notice indicates that the Commission found no probable cause to credit the allegation that appellant violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i), and the ALJ's decision does not address this provision of the Code. Accordingly, this citation appears to have been included in the May 2, 2019 decision in error.

18A:12-24.1(d) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) in relation to the AFT meeting, and recommended a penalty of a sixty-day suspension.[3] In its May 2, 2019, decision, the Commission adopted the ALJ's factual and legal determinations, but modified the recommended penalty to a one-year suspension.

In his appeal to the Commissioner, the appellant argues that the conclusion that he violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) is not supported by the record. Appellant contends that there is no evidence that he made a direct order or became directly involved in day to day activities of the school, as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.4(a) to demonstrate a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d), or that he made a personal promise beyond the scope of his duties, as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.4(a)(5) to demonstrate a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e). Appellant claims that the ALJ and Commission decisions were based on speculative hearsay evidence by the district's superintendent, Dr. Janine Caffrey, who did not attend the AFT meeting and who instead testified based on information she had been told by an unnamed source. Appellant argues that the superintendent's testimony should be discounted because it was not supported by any residuum evidence. The only other witnesses to testify regarding the meeting were appellant and the then-president of the AFT, neither of whom corroborated the superintendent's testimony. Finally, the appellant questions the credibility of the superintendent's testimony in light of the dispute between Dr. Caffrey and the Board, and alleges that her motivation in filing the ethics complaint was to conflict appellant from voting on her continued employment.

[3] The ALJ further recommended that, in lieu of a suspension, appellant be replaced as Board president by another member chosen by the county superintendent. The Commission rejected this recommendation because its authority is limited to the reprimand, censure, suspension, or removal of a board member. The Commissioner concurs with the Commission's decision to reject the ALJ's recommendation of a demotion as such an action is not contemplated by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c).

Appellant further claims that the Commission erred in finding a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:24.1(e) because he attended the AFT meeting in his capacity as Vice President of the Board, at the request of the Board President. He testified, and argues, that he believed the majority of the board wanted both him and the President to attend the meeting. Furthermore, appellant contends that he was not required to obtain formal Board approval to attend the meeting and notes that neither the ALJ nor the Commission relied upon any decision or advisory opinion requiring formal approval in these circumstances.

With respect to the penalty, appellant argues that a penalty of a one-year suspension is excessive, inconsistent with prior Commission decisions, and unwarranted given appellant's service to the Board in the seven years since the initial allegations. Appellant first notes that he was chosen as the Board President by the Middlesex County Superintendent, who was aware of the allegations of ethical violations against appellant,[4] following a contest between two board members for the position. Additionally, the current superintendent of the district testified that appellant was a "significant asset" to the district.

Appellant distinguishes In the Matter of Gartland and Picardo, West Essex Board of Education, Essex County, SEC Dkt. No. C-44-05, March 28, 2006, affirmed Commissioner Decision No. 210-06, decided June 12, 2006, which was relied upon by the Commission, because the respondent board members in Gartland, supra, had been asked not to attend the union meeting by at least one other board member, while the appellant herein understood that the majority of his fellow board members wanted him to attend the AFT meeting. Furthermore, in Gartland, supra, the board members could have contacted the superintendent about the union meeting, but the appellant claims he could not have done so in the instant matter because [4] The Commissioner notes that this information was provided by David Roman, current superintendent of the Perth Amboy school district, who testified, "I believe that they were" aware of the ethics complaints. Tr8, 42:19-22.

Dr. Caffrey was not acting in the position of superintendent at the time of the meeting. Appellant also argues that the recommended penalty of a one-year suspension is not consistent with prior decisions, citing cases in which board members who engaged in similar conduct received only a reprimand or a censure, while a board member in another case who engaged in multiple instances of ethics violations received only a sixty-day suspension. Appellant contends that a penalty of suspension requires something more extreme than "just" taking action beyond the scope of one's authority.

In reply, the Commission argues that its decision that appellant violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) was reasonable and supported by the record. The Commission notes that the appellant attended the AFT meeting without the Board's approval and with the admitted specific purpose of removing the superintendent from her position. The Commission contends that appellant's attempts to cure what it alleges are prior admissions about the meeting should be rejected.

The Commission compares this matter to Gartland, supra, in which two board members met with the local union to discuss concerns that the union had brought to their attention, without the approval or knowledge of the superintendent. In Gartland, supra, the Commission found that the board members had violated several provisions of the Code, including N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d), because the board members had usurped the authority of the superintendent by meeting with the union. According to the Commission, the appellant here similarly interfered with the superintendent's relationship with the teacher's union and undermined her ability to manage the district's teachers. The Commission argues that its position is further supported by the testimony of the district's current superintendent that actions such as appellant's would have the effect of undermining his authority as the superintendent.

The Commission submits that appellant violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) because he acted privately by attending the meeting without Board approval. The Commission argues that board members do not have implied authorization to act on the board's behalf in all matters, but rather are generally prohibited from acting without board authorization by the basic restriction inherent in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e). Additionally, the Commission disagrees with appellant's argument that he did not make any personal promises, pointing to appellant's 2013 testimony and discovery responses in a related matter, in which appellant stated that he told the membership that the Board supported the teachers and that the Board was exploring all possible options for removing the superintendent, and contending that the Commission reasonably interpreted this statement as a promise. The Commission further points out that the more than six years of litigation that followed the meeting demonstrates that appellant's actions clearly had the potential to compromise the Board.

The Commission argues that the sixty-day suspension recommended by the ALJ is insufficient, relying on Gartland, supra, in which the Commission recommended, and the Commissioner concurred with, penalties of a one-month suspension and censure for two Board members who met with the local union to discuss enhancing educational opportunities in the school district. The Commission contends that appellant's conduct warrants a more significant penalty than in Gartland, supra, because his explicit intent was to undermine the superintendent, while the board members in Gartland, supra, intended only to open a channel of communication with the union.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner finds that the decision of the Commission that the appellant violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) is supported by sufficient credible evidence, and appellant has not established that the Commission's decision is arbitrary, capricious, or contrary to law.[5] The record is clear that appellant was well aware of the significant issues between the district's teachers and the superintendent when he attended the meeting. He nonetheless inserted himself into the middle of the relationship, and he did so at a time when, according to his own admission, his intent was to have the superintendent removed from her position.[6] At least one member of the union, local president Donna Chiera, believed that appellant was empathizing with the union members and wanted to make sure that the teachers felt supported in their dealings with the superintendent. Furthermore, the appellant attended the AFT meeting without any formal board approval, or any proof of informal consent.

The superintendent had been reinstated prior to the AFT and thus was the person responsible for the day-to-day operation of the schools, including interacting with the union members and their leadership. Appellant took this responsibility upon himself when he attended the AFT meeting, thus violating N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d). Appellant's actions had the potential to undermine the authority of the superintendent and her ability to manage the day-to-day operations of the schools and interactions with AFT members. While the appellant argues that he made no personal promise about Dr. Caffrey's employment, such is not required by N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.4(a)(5), which provides that evidence of a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) may include that "respondent made personal promises or took action beyond the scope of his or her duties" (emphasis added); see also Persi v. Woska, 2017 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 625, *7 (App. Div. Mar. 10, 2017) (finding that action taken by a board member that is beyond the scope of his authority and duties as a board member meets the definition of "private action" and is sufficient to demonstrate a violation). Attending a meeting of the teacher's union to discuss the employment of the superintendent, at time when her employment was in question and when appellant clearly understood that there was friction in her relationship with the district's teachers, without approval by the board, went beyond the scope of his duties and had the potential to compromise the board.

[5] The Commissioner is also in accord with the Commission's determination that appellant did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f) in connection with the February 22, 2012 Board personnel meeting.

[6] Although appellant attempted to explain this admission, which occurred in his 2013 testimony in a related matter, when he testified in the current matter, the ALJ credited the earlier testimony, and the Commissioner accepts the ALJ's credibility determination.

With respect to the appropriate penalty, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ and finds that a penalty of a sixty-day suspension is appropriate in this matter. The one-year penalty recommended by the Commission is not consistent with other cases involving similar offenses. For example, in Persi, supra, a board member who wanted to terminate the interim superintendent's employment unilaterally directed the issuance of a Rice notice, met with incoming board members-elect about terminating the interim superintendent and identified a potential replacement, and met with the potential replacement. He was found to have violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and received only a reprimand. See also Schwartz v. Gallagher, Commissioner Decision No. 228-19SEC (Sept. 5, 2019) (reprimanding a board member for approaching an employee to inquire whether she would be interested in assuming the position of Chief School Administrator, even though that position was not vacant). In Gartland, supra, two board members met with union representatives to discuss concerns that the union had brought to their attention without the knowledge of the rest of the board or the superintendent. The Commission found, and the Commissioner affirmed, that the board members had violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d), with a penalty of a one-month suspension for the board member with one year of experience and censure for the newly-elected board member.

The Commissioner agrees with the Commission that appellant's actions are more egregious than those of the board members in Gartland, supra, as appellant was well aware that the matter of the superintendent's employment was in flux. Appellant was also more experienced than the board members in Gartland, supra, having served three years on the board at the time of the AFT meeting. As such, an increase from the reprimand, censure, and thirty-day penalties assessed in those cases is warranted. However, a one-year suspension is excessive in comparison to the similar cases.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby suspended for sixty days as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

In the Matter of William Santomauro,
The Ethical Community Charter School,
Hudson County.

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (SEC) – finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely file his Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements ("Disclosure Statements") in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1. The SEC's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner for final determination on the recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c). The SEC advises that respondent failed to file his Disclosure Statements despite the issuance of its July 23, 2019 Order to Show Cause. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty, nor has he instituted an appeal of the SEC's underlying finding of violation pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the SEC for respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon school officials by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby removed – effective on the date of this decision – as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act for failure to file his Disclosure Statements.

Docket No.: D04-19
Decision for Failure to File Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements

---

I/M/O William Santomauro,
The Ethical Community Charter School Board of Trustees, Hudson County

I. Procedural History

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on July 23, 2019, and mailed on July 24, 2019, through regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "school official" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find him in violation of the Act for failing to file Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements (Disclosure Statements) as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1.

The OTSC issued by the Commission provided notification to Respondent that he had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was further notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute. The Commission discussed this matter at its special meeting on August 30, 2019.

II. Analysis

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. Annually, on or before April 30th of each year, all school officials, as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23, must file Disclosure Statements with their local board secretaries or charter school designees. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(a). In addition, after the April 30th filing date, all newly elected board members or board members appointed to fill vacancies, newly appointed members of a board of trustees of a charter school, and administrators appointed to fill a vacancy must file their Disclosure Statements within thirty (30) days of appointment or taking office. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(c), N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(d), N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(e), and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(f).

Respondent is a returning school official and, therefore, was required to file his Disclosure Statements by April 30, 2019. Respondent failed to file his Disclosure Statements within the statutorily required timeframe.

By correspondence dated July 1, 2019, from the Hudson County Office of Education, Respondent was reminded that his Disclosure Statements had not yet been filed with the Commission. This correspondence further advised Respondent that if he failed to file his Disclosure Statements by July 10, 2019, the Commission had the authority to issue an OTSC, find him in violation of the Act, and recommend a penalty up to and including removal for his non-compliance.

When the correspondence from the Hudson County Office of Education failed to cause Respondent to file his Disclosure Statements, the Commission sent him another letter dated July 11, 2019, and informed Respondent that failure to file his Disclosure Statements by July 19, 2019, would result in the Commission voting to issue an OTSC. The Commission further advised that, if an OTSC was issued, Respondent would be assessed a penalty, up to and including removal.

When Respondent failed to file his Disclosure Statements as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1 by July 19, 2019, and despite receiving multiple reminders and opportunities to file his Disclosure Statements, an OTSC was issued by the Commission at its meeting on July 23, 2019. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent still failed to file his completed Disclosure Statements, or to otherwise respond to the OTSC.

III. Decision/Penalty Recommendation

Based on the record as set forth above, at its special meeting on August 30, 2019, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, it may recommend to the Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed on the school official. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of removal, with such removal to become effective immediately upon adoption by the Commissioner of Education. However, if Respondent files his Disclosure Statements before the Commissioner of Education adopts a final decision (which will be forty-five (45) days after the mailing date of the within decision), then the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education, in lieu of removal, impose a thirty (30) day suspension, with such suspension to become effective immediately upon adoption by the Commissioner of Education.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended penalty of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq. within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's brief on appeal.

Final Decision

In the Matter of Zandile Nkabinde, Jersey City Community Charter School,
Hudson County.

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (SEC) – finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely file her Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements ("Disclosure Statements") in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1. The SEC's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner for final determination on the recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c). The SEC advises that respondent did not file her Disclosure Statements until after the issuance of its July 23, 2019 Order to Show Cause. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty, nor has she instituted an appeal of the SEC's underlying finding of violation pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the SEC for respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon school officials by law. Because respondent has previously received a thirty-day suspension for failure to complete ethics training in 2017, a suspension of sixty days for this second violation of the School Ethics Act is appropriate. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby suspended for sixty (60) days – effective from the date of this decision – as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act for failure to file her Disclosure Statements.

The OTSC issued by the Commission provided notification to Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was further notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute. The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. Annually, on or before April 30th of each year, all school officials, as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23, must file Disclosure Statements with their local board secretaries or charter school designees. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(a). In addition, after the April 30th filing date, all newly elected board members or board members appointed to fill vacancies, newly appointed members of a board of trustees of a charter school, and administrators appointed to fill a vacancy must file their Disclosure Statements within thirty (30) days of appointment or taking office. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(c), N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(d), N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(e), and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(f).

Respondent is a returning school official and, therefore, was required to file her Disclosure Statements by April 30, 2019. Respondent failed to file her Disclosure Statements within the statutorily required timeframe.

By correspondence dated July 1, 2019, from the Hudson County Office of Education, Respondent was reminded that her Disclosure Statements had not yet been filed with the Commission. This correspondence further advised Respondent that if she failed to file her Disclosure Statements by

July 10, 2019, the Commission had the authority to issue an OTSC, find her in violation of the Act, and recommend a penalty up to and including removal for her non-compliance.

When the correspondence from the Hudson County Office of Education failed to cause Respondent to file her Disclosure Statements, the Commission sent her another letter dated July 11, 2019, and informed Respondent that failure to file her Disclosure Statements by July 19, 2019, would result in the Commission voting to issue an OTSC. The Commission further advised that, if an OTSC was issued, Respondent would be assessed a penalty, up to and including removal.

When Respondent failed to file her Disclosure Statements as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1 by July 19, 2019, and despite receiving multiple reminders and opportunities to file her Disclosure Statements, an OTSC was issued by the Commission at its meeting on July 23, 2019. After being served with the OTSC, Respondent filed her Disclosure Statements on August 15, 2019. However, Respondent has not disputed that her Disclosure Statements were not timely filed, or otherwise submitted anything, in writing, explaining why a penalty should not be imposed.

III. Decision/Penalty Recommendation

Based on the record as set forth above, at its special meeting on August 30, 2019, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, it may recommend to the Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed on the school official. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of suspension for sixty (60) days, with such suspension to become effective immediately upon adoption by the Commissioner of Education. The Commission's recommended sanction is predicated on the fact that, not only is Respondent's filing nearly four (4) months late, Respondent was also sanctioned in 2017 (suspension for thirty (30) days) for failing to comply with the statutory requirement to complete ethics training. Respondent's repeated failure to abide by, and comply with, her statutory obligations as a trustee, must be met with an appropriate sanction.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended penalty of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq. within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's brief on appeal.

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on July 23, 2019, and mailed on July 24, 2019, through regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "school official" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find her in violation of the Act for failing to file Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements (Disclosure Statements) as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1.

The OTSC issued by the Commission provided notification to Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was further notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute. The Commission discussed this matter at its special meeting on August 30, 2019.

II. Analysis

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. Annually, on or before April 30th of each year, all school officials, as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23, must file Disclosure Statements with their local board secretaries or charter school designees. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(a). In addition, all newly elected board members or board members appointed to fill vacancies, newly appointed members of a board of trustees of a charter school, and administrators appointed to fill a vacancy must file their Disclosure Statements within thirty (30) days of appointment or taking office. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(c), N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(d), N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(e), and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(f).

Although Respondent was appointed to the Board on or about September 18, 2018, she was not added to the Red Bank Charter School's electronic list of school officials until January 31, 2019. As a newly appointed member of a board of trustees, Respondent was required to file Disclosure Statements within thirty (30) days of her appointment, which was on September 18, 2018. Respondent failed to file her Disclosure Statements within the statutorily required timeframe.

By correspondence dated July 1, 2019, from the Monmouth County Office of Education, Respondent was reminded that her Disclosure Statements had not yet been filed with the Commission. This correspondence further advised Respondent that if she failed to file her Disclosure Statements by July 10, 2019, the Commission had the authority to issue an OTSC, find her in violation of the Act, and recommend a penalty up to and including removal for her non-compliance.

When the correspondence from the Monmouth County Office of Education failed to cause Respondent to file her Disclosure Statements, the Commission sent her another letter dated July 11, 2019, and informed Respondent that failure to file her Disclosure Statements by July 19, 2019, would result in the Commission voting to issue an OTSC. The Commission further advised that, if an OTSC was issued, Respondent would be assessed a penalty, up to and including removal.

When Respondent failed to file her Disclosure Statements as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1 by July 19, 2019, and despite receiving multiple reminders and opportunities to file her Disclosure Statements, an OTSC was issued by the Commission at its meeting on July 23, 2019. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent still failed to file her completed Disclosure Statements, or to otherwise respond to the OTSC.

III. Decision/Penalty Recommendation

Based on the record as set forth above, at its special meeting on August 30, 2019, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, it may recommend to the Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed on the school official. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of removal, with such removal to become effective immediately upon adoption by the Commissioner of Education. However, if Respondent files her Disclosure Statements before the Commissioner of Education adopts a final decision (which will be forty-five (45) days after the mailing date of the within decision), then the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education, in lieu of removal, impose a thirty (30) day suspension, with such suspension to become effective immediately upon adoption by the Commissioner of Education.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended penalty of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq. within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's brief on appeal.

This provision does not waive or release future claims, claims which may not be released under applicable law, or claims to enforce the provisions of this Agreement.

4. Confidentiality

(a) Except as otherwise provided in Paragraph 2 Subpart (v) of this Agreement, the Parties and their attorneys shall keep the terms of this Agreement strictly confidential and shall not disclose any information contained in this Agreement to anyone. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Parties may disclose such information their attorneys, financial advisors, tax advisors, and/or as required by law in connection with a legal proceeding and/or governmental investigation. In addition, Plaintiffs may disclose such information to members of their immediate family. If either Plaintiff tells members of his immediate family, lawyers, and/or tax or financial advisors about the terms of this Agreement or its contents, that Plaintiff must immediately instruct the person to whom the disclosure is made that the information disclosed must be kept strictly confidential.

(b) Notwithstanding the above, this Paragraph shall not be violated by the Parties responding to a direct inquiry with the statement that "the matter has been resolved." Similarly, nothing in this Agreement shall prohibit or restrict the Parties from responding to any inquiry, or providing testimony, about this Agreement or its underlying facts and circumstances by or before any federal or state administrative or regulatory agency or authority, pursuant to legal process, court order, subpoena or other law, rule, or regulation.

5. Non-Disparagement.

(a) Plaintiffs expressly agree to refrain from disparaging, defaming, or criticizing the Defendants and their Releasees, including, without limitation, making any untrue statement, oral or written, which portrays the Defendants, their affiliates, officers, agents, representatives, and Commissioners in an unfavorable light or subjects any thereof to scorn, obloquy or ridicule.

(b) Nothing in this paragraph shall be interpreted as prohibiting Plaintiffs from making truthful statements, including any truthful statements pursuant to a lawfully issued subpoena or testimony under oath in a legal, administrative or regulatory proceeding.

6. Plaintiffs Responsibility for Taxes.

Plaintiffs assume full responsibility for the payment of any and all federal, state and local taxes or contributions which may hereafter be imposed or required to be paid by Plaintiffs under any federal, state or local laws of any kind, with respect to the monies paid by Defendants to Plaintiffs pursuant to this Agreement. Plaintiffs expressly acknowledge and warrant that they are, and shall be, responsible for all federal, state, and local tax liabilities which are attributable to them that may result from the payments under this Agreement, and Plaintiffs hereby warrant that Defendants shall bear no responsibility for any such tax liabilities. Plaintiffs acknowledge that neither the Defendants nor their Releasees have provided any tax advice with respect to this Agreement or the Settlement Sum, and that Plaintiffs have not relied on any such tax advice. Plaintiffs further agree to indemnify and hold Defendants harmless to the full extent of any such liabilities, payments or costs, including taxes, interest, penalties, and attorneys' fees (except such liabilities, payments or costs relating to the employers' payroll tax contributions) which may be assessed against or incurred by Defendants in connection with any payment made to or on behalf of Plaintiff hereunder. Plaintiffs agree that should any tax liability arise or accrue to Plaintiff under local, state, or federal tax law as a result of any payments made under this Agreement, Plaintiff will pay any and all such finally determined obligations without seeking indemnity or reimbursement from Defendants.

7. Non-Admission.

This Agreement does not constitute an admission that Defendants have violated any law, committed any tort, breached any agreement, or committed any wrongdoing whatsoever, and Plaintiffs expressly acknowledge that Defendants have denied and continue to deny any wrongdoing arising out of the events alleged in the Complaint, as well as any liability to Plaintiffs or to anyone else. Neither this Agreement nor any of its terms shall be admissible in any proceeding other than in a proceeding to enforce the terms of this Agreement.

8. Attorneys' Fees.

Except as otherwise specifically set forth herein, Plaintiffs and Defendants expressly agree to bear their own attorneys' fees, costs and disbursements incurred in this litigation, including the fees, costs and disbursements incurred in negotiating and preparing this Agreement and obtaining the dismissal of the Action without prejudice. Plaintiffs further represent that they had sufficient opportunity to consider this Agreement, have reviewed the terms of this Agreement, had the opportunity to confer with their legal counsel, Warshaw Law Firm, LLC, in order to obtain advice with respect to the terms of this Agreement, had the opportunity to consider their legal counsel's advice with respect to the Agreement, fully understand the terms of the Agreement, are entering into this Agreement of their own free will and accord after consultation with their legal counsel, and are signing the Agreement knowingly and voluntarily.

It is understood and agreed that the Settlement Sum and the other good and valuable consideration provided for herein are not a mere recital but are the consideration for this Agreement and all terms herein, including the full and final release effected thereby. The Parties represent and warrant that this Agreement, including the monies received by Plaintiffs and referenced herein, is a fair and reasonable resolution of a bona fide dispute. The Parties represent and warrant that the Settlement Sum is fair and reasonable.

10. Important Acknowledgments Regarding Medicare.

Plaintiffs confirm that they have not received any health care treatment as a result of the events alleged in their Complaint or their claimed injuries in the Complaint and Medicare has made no conditional payments for any claimed medical injuries. Plaintiffs warrant and affirm that they are not Medicare recipients with respect to the alleged injuries by Defendants alleged in the Complaint and will not become Medicare beneficiaries within thirty (30) days.

Plaintiffs represent that they will agree to save and hold harmless the defendants, their respective attorneys, their respective law firms and their respective liability indemnity carriers for any lien or subrogation action, either known or unknown, arising out of this lawsuit.

Plaintiffs and plaintiffs' attorney represent that they are unaware of any lien, claims, etc. that may be applicable to this settlement.

11. Oral Modifications Prohibited.

This Agreement represents the entire agreement between Plaintiffs and Defendants with respect to the Action. This Agreement cannot be amended, supplemented, or modified nor may any provision be waived, except by a written instrument executed by or on behalf of the party against whom enforcement of any such amendment, supplement, modification or waiver is sought.

12. Choice of Law.

This Agreement shall be governed by the law of the State of New Jersey, without regard to the choice-of-law or conflicts-of-law principles of any jurisdiction.

13. Headings.

The headings used herein are for reference only and shall not in any way affect the meaning or interpretation of this Agreement.

14. Counterparts.

This Agreement may be executed on multiple counterparts, each of which shall be considered an original but all of which shall constitute one (1) Agreement.

15. Facsimile, Electronic, and Email Signatures.

Any party may execute this Agreement by signing on the designated signature block below and transmitting or causing to be transmitted that signature page via facsimile or email to counsel for the other party. Any signature made and transmitted by facsimile or email for the purpose of executing this Agreement shall be deemed an original signature for purposes of this Agreement and shall be binding upon the party whose counsel transmits the signature page by facsimile or email.

16. Severability.

The invalidity or unenforceability of any provision(s) of this Agreement (other than Paragraph 2) shall not affect the validity or enforceability of any other provision of this Agreement, which shall remain in full force and effect.

17. Status of Settlement if Case Is Not Ultimately Dismissed.

In the event that the Court fails to dismiss the Action with prejudice as contemplated by this Agreement, this Agreement shall be null and void ab initio. In such case, the Parties shall be returned to their respective statuses as of the date immediately prior to the Effective Date of this Agreement, and the Parties shall proceed in all respects as if the Agreement had not been executed.

18. No Other Representations or Agreements; Entire Agreement.

Each party acknowledges that, except as expressly set forth herein, no representations of any kind or character have been made by any other party or parties, agents, representatives, or attorneys to induce the execution of this Agreement. This Agreement constitutes a single integrated contract expressing the entire agreement of the Parties hereto. There is no other agreement or understanding, written or oral, expressed or implied, among the Parties hereto concerning the subject matter hereof, except the agreements set forth in this Agreement. Dear Judge Incarvito-Garrabrant:

As Your Honor is aware, this office represents the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Fiscal Accountability and Compliance. Enclosed please find an executed settlement agreement on behalf of the parties. Because this settlement does not fall under the circumstances contemplated by N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1(c) (settlements where the agency head has approved the terms of the settlement), an initial decision should be issued regarding the matter.

v.	:	AGENCY REF. NO.: 57-3/17 OAL DKT. NO.: 06935-2017 s
NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF FISCAL ACCOUNTABILITY AND COMPLIANCE	:	SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

WHEREAS, the Oakwood School ("Oakwood") and the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Fiscal Accountability and Compliance, ("OFAC") have mutually agreed to settle the above-captioned matter, with Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of New Jersey, by Caroline Jones, Deputy Attorney General, appearing on behalf of OFAC, and Jerry Dougherty, Executive Director/Principal of Oakwood appearing on behalf of Oakwood; and

WHEREAS, this matter arose from the April 20, 2015, OFAC Fiscal Monitoring Report, Oakwood School Fiscal Monitoring, OFAC Case #SG-0045-12 ("the audit"). The audit made six findings regarding non-allowable costs and ordered corrective action; and

WHEREAS, on June 14, 2015, Oakwood appealed findings #1, #3, and #4 to OFAC. By letter dated November 9, 2016, OFAC resolved to hold Oakwood's appeal of finding #1 in abeyance but denied Oakwood's appeal of findings #3 and #4; and

WHEREAS, on or about May 15, 2017, Oakwood filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education appealing findings #3 (key man insurance) and #4(disability insurance) of the audit. Finding #1 is not subject of the Petition of Appeal. The matter was transmitted to the OAL as a contested case; and

WHEREAS, during the course of litigation Oakwood furnished additional records regarding finding #4. And based on a review of these records, on March 29, 2018, OFAC rescinded finding #4 of the audit; and

WHEREAS, only finding #3 remains as subject to the Petition of Appeal; and

WHEREAS, the audit remains in force because finding #1 is held in abeyance; and

WHEREAS, the settlement of this matter shall not constitute precedent in other pending or future litigation.

NOW, THEREFORE, the parties hereto agree to settle the above-captioned matter upon the following terms:

1. Oakwood will withdraw, with prejudice its Petition of Appeal.

2. Oakwood will issue a refund to all schools for the total costs as set forth in finding #3 of the audit. The total cost being $6,647. To achieve this, a prior period adjustment will be recorded in the school's audited financial statements. And the school will include a note disclosure describing the reason for the adjustment.

3. The total refund will be staggered over three years, i.e. approximately $2,216 each year.

4. OFAC will prepare the calculations to determine what proportion of that total for each year is to be returned to each sending district based on the district's enrollment. The calculations will be provided by OFAC to Oakwood by letter after this matter is settled. The letter will be incorporated as fully part of this agreement. Oakwood agrees to and will not contest OFAC's calculations regarding the amount due to each sending district.

5. OFAC does not admit or concede that finding #3 in the report was not correct nor does Oakwood admit or concede the finding #3 is correct, and both parties have entered into this agreement for the purpose of settlement only.

6. The parties agree that this agreement resolves the Petition of Appeal, but that the audit remains open. This agreement does not fully resolve the audit.

7. Oakwood asserts and agrees that Jerry Dougherty has the authority to settle this matter under these terms and withdraw the Petition of Appeal on behalf Oakwood. Oakwood asserts and agrees that it had the option to consult with legal counsel and to be represented by legal counsel in this litigation and for purposes of this settlement agreement but it has knowingly and on its own elected not to consult or seek representation by legal counsel.

8. The parties agree that this agreement fully resolves all issues between them arising from the Petition of Appeal.

Final Decision

C.W., on behalf of minor child, T.W.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Montclair, Essex County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the proposed settlement agreement and general release, and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), have been reviewed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1.

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that the Interim Superintendent of the Montclair Board of Education signed the agreement on behalf of the Board. Despite the language in paragraph 9 of the proposed stipulation of settlement – which incorrectly states that settlements involving short-term discipline are not subject to Board approval – N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.13 clearly requires that when a district board of education is a party to a contested matter, a proposed settlement agreement must either include a copy of the Board resolution approving the settlement or the signature of the Board's attorney, who is the Board's duly authorized representative in litigation. Without either the Board attorney's signature or the appropriate Board resolution designating the Interim Superintendent to sign the agreement on its behalf, the Commissioner cannot approve the within settlement.

Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for revision of the settlement agreement consistent with the concerns set forth above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to hearing.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Walter Fields,

Complainant,

v.

Stephanie Lawson-Muhammad, South Orange-Maplewood Board of Education, Essex County, Respondent/Appellant.

This matter involves an appeal of the School Ethics Commission's (SEC) March 26, 2019 determination that appellant Stephanie Lawson-Muhammad – a member of the South Orange-Maplewood Board of Education (Board) – violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e)[1] and (f)[2] of the School Ethics Act (Act) based on her conduct during an April 27, 2018 traffic stop. The SEC recommended a penalty of a six-month suspension for the violations. The appellant filed a Notice of Appeal appealing the SEC's finding of a violation pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.3(c).

In her appeal to the Commissioner, the appellant maintains that the SEC erred in finding that she violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (f) of the Act.[3] The appellant argues that her

[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), states "I will recognize that authority rests with the board of education and will make no personal promises nor take any private action that may compromise the board."

[2] N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f), states "I will refuse to surrender my independent judgment to special interest or partisan political groups or to use the schools for personal gain or for the gain of friends."

[3] This decision provides a summary of the arguments advanced by the appellant on appeal. Many of the arguments reiterate the substance of the submissions below that were fully outlined in the SEC's March 26, 2018 decision and will not be repeated herein.

speech during the traffic stop was clearly "beyond the scope of [her] authority and duties as a board member" and thus was private action. While some of her speech during the stop was undeniably lamentable, it did not have the potential to compromise the Board. The appellant cites to the Advisory Opinion of the School Ethics Commission, No. A03-07, decided April 2, 2007, for the proposition that "board members do not surrender the rights that they have as a private citizen, such as First Amendment rights, when they become a board member." Indeed, the SEC must balance "a board member's rights as a private citizen with the interests of the Legislature in ensuring that a board ... avoids conduct that would violate the public trust or create a justifiable impression among the public that trust is being violated."

The appellant stresses that at no point during the stop did she engage with a member of the public; rather she had a personal interaction with Officer Horst, a public official, that was fully unrelated to the Board. When a board member's work or duties are not implicated, there must be evidence of an explicit request for preferential treatment or a nexus between the invocation of the member's position and the benefit sought, which did not occur during the stop. Appellant argues that during her initial introduction to Officer Horst, she did not "create ... the impression that she was representing the interests of the Board" when she mentioned her board membership. Further, at no point during the stop did the appellant link her position on the Board to her relationship with South Orange Village President, Sheena Collum. The complainant did not present any evidence that the two mentions of Ms. Collum's name invoked "special or elevated standing" sufficient to constitute an abuse of public trust. The appellant also emphasizes that but for an anonymous government actor taking steps to release the video into the public domain, the public would not have had knowledge of the traffic stop, as the stop had nothing to do with Board business.

In addition, the appellant argues that there was no evidence presented showing that she used the schools to acquire some benefit for personal gain as required to establish a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f). Moreover, the SEC's assertion that the failure to accrue a benefit is "of no moment, as [appellant's] outspoken threat to do so is sufficient" is legally and factually incorrect. First, actual proof of the accrued benefit is required by the statute to substantiate a violation. See N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.4(6) ("Factual evidence of a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f) shall include evidence that the respondent(s) ... used the schools in order to acquire some benefit for the respondent(s) ..."). Here, the appellant received no benefit in mentioning Ms. Cullom's name as she later appeared in court and paid a fine for the summons issued by Officer Horst. Secondly, appellant contends that name dropping is not a threat nor is it inappropriate. The SEC completely leaves out of its factual summary and subsequent analysis the detail that the appellant called her husband during the stop, who informed her and Officer Horst that he was in possession of the couple's current insurance card. Both invocations of Ms. Cullom's name were made in reaction to what appellant perceived as unfair statements by Officer Horst and a direct reaction to the fact that she did not believe she did anything wrong. Her reference to "Sheena" and calling Chief Kroll a "skinhead" is in direct response to what the appellant believes to be an injustice and her desire to remedy same. Therefore, the SEC's findings must be found to be arbitrary and contrary to law.

Additionally, the appellant asserts that the SEC's analysis of the aggravating factors that allegedly justify the unduly harsh recommended penalty is without merit. Naming her speech "offensive and inappropriate," the SEC ridicules appellant's statement to Officer Horst that "you guys hurt black people." The SEC failed to consider the appellant's words within a broader cultural context or to understand appellant's desire to immediately dispel any concern

Officer Horst may have entertained as to whether, as a black woman, she might pose a threat to him. Given the contemporaneous racially motivated events occurring around the country involving police officers, appellant's fears – while not entirely rational – were justified.[4] The complainant's assertion that the appellant's fear was not only unreasonable but also offensive, without any collaborating evidence, further underscores the arbitrary nature of the SEC's finding that the appellant's speech was offensive. Moreover, the appellant mentioned being on the Board and being a member of the community within seconds of the stop to provide her credentials so that the officer knew that she was not a "dangerous black woman." The appellant also points out that punishing an individual in their personal capacity for not being adequately deferential is dubious on its face and implicates the First Amendment. While the SEC may not have liked the tenor of the appellant's language, the SEC's displeasure cannot and does not support a violation of the Act. The appellant also disagrees with the SEC's characterization of "skinhead" as a racial slur, arguing that it may qualify as an epithet, but it is not a racial one.

In analyzing her conduct in conjunction with past cases, the appellant notes that the SEC cites to the cases collectively referred to as Pleasantville. See Hyman, et al. v. Davenport, SEC Dkt. Nos.: C31-13, C28-13, C45-13, C41-13, C42-13, C43-13, C44-13, affirmed, Commissioner Decision No. 113-18SEC, decided April 13, 2018. In that case, the board member respondent, Lawrence Davenport, accosted a pregnant principal in the elevator about a comment the principal's mother made, resulting in the principal having to call law enforcement. The same board member later called a school district employee a "stupid n*er" in an exchange regarding school business that occurred on school property. In that case, the SEC recommended a sixty-day suspension. Using Pleasantville to justify the severity of the appellant's penalty, the SEC finds that unlike the Pleasantville matter, the appellant was not "involved in a mutual verbal exchange," and that the respondent in Pleasantville "denied" his racist behavior; finally, and most outrageously, the respondent's action in Pleasantville "did not impact anyone other than him ...." The appellant claims that these justifications are as shocking as they are inapposite. Unlike in Pleasantville, no nexus exists between the appellant's interaction with Officer Horst and the Board or a school employee. The appellant did not take any action, either with Officer Horst or Ms. Collum, under the auspices of Board authority. Thus, the alleged "aggravating factors" used here as the basis for the SEC's severe penalty recommendation are arbitrary and without basis in fact or law.

[4] Appellant cites to various sources and documented incidents that have occurred throughout the country to provide context as to why she was fearful during the stop.

Finally, the appellant cites to various cases where the SEC has recommended a penalty of a reprimand or a censure. By contrast, the appellant stated that suspension was only proposed as a sanction in the most egregious breaches of trust, including confrontations between a board member and members of the public involving threats of or actual physical violence and/or harassment, or soliciting financial donations which could have been perceived as under the auspices of the board. See, In the Matter of Jan Rubino, SEC Dkt. No. C16-08, decided September 28, 2010. Therefore, the appellant maintains that the SEC's recommended six-month suspension should be rejected, and the Commissioner should determine that the SEC failed to provide credible and corroborating evidence to support its finding of a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (f) of the Act.

In his response brief, the complainant maintains that the SEC acted appropriately and within the scope of its authority in finding that the appellant violated the Act. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (f) represent a minimal expectation of a school board member as these provisions speak to a basic level of behavior and decency.[5] In her appeal of the SEC's findings, the appellant demonstrates an inability to surrender her self-interest for the welfare of the South Orange-Maplewood School District. The complainant stressed that the SEC provided the appellant with ample opportunity to make her case and properly deliberated on the testimony and the evidence provided at the hearing in reaching its decision. The standard of review of the SEC's decision is whether the decision is arbitrary and capricious, which is a significantly high burden for the appellant.

The complainant also contends that the appellant offers a misconstrued interpretation of the Act, as the appellant suggests that since there was no direct action between a board member and the public that involved actual business of the Board, her speech did not violate the Act. This is a misrepresentation of the spirit and intent of the Act and further, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) does not reference "direct action." The integrity of the Board is called into question when a member: presents herself as a Board member during a traffic stop; attempts to qualify her public standing to evade being issued a traffic summons when she is guilty of violating a municipal statute; uses her political connections to try to intimidate the officer; and then insults a public employee and denigrates the employee's superior by calling him a racist epitaph. Moreover, there is no question that the appellant sought to use her public position in a private action for personal gain, and by doing so violated the Act. The appellant's claim that the term "skinhead" is not a racial epithet is disingenuous and inconsistent with the fact that the word is universally associated with extremist views held by white males whose appearance includes shaved heads and tattoos.

[5] This decision also provides a summary of the arguments advanced by the complainant on appeal. Many of the arguments reiterate the substance of the submissions below that were fully outlined in the SEC's March 26, 2018 decision and will not be repeated herein.

Additionally, the complainant argues that the appellant wrongfully seeks to have the Commissioner believe that she had reason to fear the officer due to the current social climate. Yet at no time did Officer Horst make a threat: he spoke respectfully and in an even tone, and went so far as to let the appellant's daughter exit the car and walk to school. The appellant is clearly seeking to take advantage of current tensions in the relationship between the African American community and law enforcement. However, the appellant's behavior was irresponsible, unattached to the substantive issues African Americans have faced with local law enforcement, and is abusive of real efforts to resolve long-standing issues. Finally, in its March 26, 2019 decision, the SEC made clear that it had taken into consideration all "mitigating factors" and levied a penalty that could have been more severe. The appellant's behavior cannot be condoned as acceptable: her service is a privilege and not an entitlement. As a result, the complainant contends that the SEC's decision should be adopted by the Commissioner.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record – which includes a video of the April 27, 2018 traffic stop, as well as the sound recording of the hearing before the SEC on November 27, 2018 – the Commissioner finds that the appellant has not established that the SEC's decision, finding violations of the Act, is arbitrary, capricious, or contrary to law. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1(a). The facts in this case are not in dispute as the video of the traffic stop clearly depicts the appellant's behavior and her interaction with Officer Horst. There is no evidence in the record to suggest that the SEC was unreasonable in determining that the appellant violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (f) in referencing her membership on the Board and her relationship with the South Orange Village president. Regardless of the appellant's motivation for identifying herself as a Board member, the fact that she did so at the very least gave the appearance of impropriety, and it was not unreasonable for the SEC to find that it linked her Board membership to the traffic stop.

Likewise, based on the video of the traffic stop, it was not unreasonable for the SEC to determine that the appellant used the schools for personal gain when she stated her position as a Board member and referenced her relationship with the South Orange Village president. The Commissioner is mindful of the appellant's contention that, but for an anonymous source providing the video to the complainant, the circumstances surrounding the traffic stop would have remained a personal issue. However, the video did ultimately become public and the impact that it has had on the Board and the community cannot be ignored.

Turning to the appropriate penalty, and while in no way minimizing the appellant's conduct, the Commissioner finds that the SEC's recommended penalty of a six-month suspension is not supported by the evidence in the record and is inconsistent with penalties recommended by the SEC in other cases. In recommending the extreme penalty of a six-month suspension, the SEC assessed the appellant's conduct during the traffic stop and her testimony before the Commission in an unduly harsh manner. Moreover, the weight afforded to the aggravating factors by the SEC was disproportionate to that afforded to the mitigating circumstances in light of the nature of the offense.

Specifically, the Commissioner disagrees with the SEC's conclusion that "seemingly without any reasonable basis" the appellant stated "[a]nd I am scared of cops because you guys hurt black people." The SEC did not give due consideration to the fact that the appellant testified that she was afraid and, more importantly, the SEC appeared to minimize the anxiety the appellant experienced during the traffic stop. Whether the SEC believes that the appellant should or should not feel a certain way is immaterial here; rather, in evaluating an appropriate penalty, the motivation behind appellant's behavior must be fully considered.[6] Although the appellant's use

[6] In the March 26, 2019 decision, the SEC did state that in recommending the penalty of a six-month suspension, it "gave due consideration to [appellant's] testimony as to how she felt during the traffic stop, and her stated mindset on of inappropriate language was not necessary, it was also not unreasonable for the appellant to feel insulted when Officer Horst offered to call an ambulance given her mindset that morning. The appellant's testimony at the hearing about why she felt the way she did (i.e., her concern for her personal safety as a black woman during a traffic stop; her stress about getting her kids to school; her irrational response to her interaction with Officer Horst) was overall very compelling in light of the circumstances.

Further, a review of the hearing testimony reveals that the appellant was contrite, recognizing that she was anxious and overreacted during the traffic stop, and she unequivocally conceded that she was rude to Officer Horst. Audio of the November 27, 2018 Code Hearing (Audio) 1:17, 1:19, 1:30. Appellant also emotionally testified about the impact that this situation has had on the community, the police chief, Officer Horst and herself, stressing that she "had a very bad day" and that she is not proud of her behavior nor is she trying to justify her conduct. Audio 1:45-47. [7] As such, the Commissioner does not agree with the SEC's finding that an aggravating factor was the appellant's failure to recognize that her words could negatively impact the public's perception of the Board. Clearly, the appellant has also been personally impacted by the public release of the video. As she emphasized during the hearing, "[m]y worst moment was caught on film and I have had to pay for it." Audio 1:47.

The Commissioner also finds that the recommended penalty is inconsistent with the penalty recommended by the SEC in other cases. Most notably, in Hyman, supra, board member actual and observed interactions with police officers." This statement, however, is not consistent with the SEC's ultimate characterization of the appellant's conduct and the unduly harsh penalty recommendation.

[7] The appellant also apologized to the police chief and issued a formal statement of apology at a board meeting. With respect to the fact that the appellant did not issue an apology to Officer Horst, the record reveals that there are clearly some unresolved feelings between the appellant and Officer Horst. It was undoubtably a bad interaction with Officer Horst, but it was a stretch for the SEC to conclude that the appellant "attempted to escalate the situation."

Lawrence Davenport was found to have violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), (g) and (i) when he: approached and questioned a pregnant principal in the elevator of the middle school about a personal matter, causing the principal to visit her doctor and call law enforcement; had an exchange with a district employee on school premises that resulted in Mr. Davenport giving the employee the middle finger and calling him a "stupid ner"; and blatantly disregarding the board's policies regarding the use of facilities. The totality of Mr. Davenport's conduct, which involved three separate incidents on school grounds over the course of several months, was far more egregious and offensive than the conduct displayed by the appellant in this case. Yet, in Hyman, supra, the SEC recommended a sixty-day suspension for Mr. Davenport's "completely inappropriate conduct" and "wholly unacceptable decision making," while recommending a six-month suspension in this case.[8]

Moreover, the appellant's interaction with Officer Horst was an isolated incident that did not occur in a school setting or at a board meeting, as the only link to the Board was the appellant's statement that she was a board member. This stands in contrast to the facts in In the Matter of John Talty and Sharon Kight, Brick Township Board of Education, Ocean County, SEC Dkt. No. C18-05 and C19-05, affirmed, Commissioner Decision No. 84-06SEC, decided March 1, 2006, where the board member received a sixty-day suspension for verbally and physical confronting a member of the public that actually took place at a board meeting. Similarly, the six-month suspension imposed on the board member in In the Matter of Jan Rubio, Matawan-

[8] In its March 26, 2019 decision, the SEC appeared to suggest that the conduct in this case necessitated a more severe penalty than Mr. Davenport received because the appellant and Officer Horst were not involved in a mutual verbal exchange; Mr. Davenport denied giving the employee the middle finger and using the racial epithet; and Mr. Davenport's actions did not impact anyone other than him. The Commissioner disagrees with the SEC's comparison of the circumstances in Hyman, supra, with the appellant's conduct in this case. The fact that Mr. Davenport had the benefit of no video evidence of his inappropriate conduct does not negate its existence and degree of egregiousness. Further, the Administrative Law Judge who had the opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses at the hearing and assess their credibility found that Mr. Davenport did in fact give the employee the middle finger and call him a "stupid ner"

Aberdeen Regional School District Board of Education, Monmouth County, SEC Dkt. No. C16-08, affirmed, Commissioner Decision No. 494-10, decided November 15, 2010, resulted from Code violations for soliciting – via the school email system – and receiving campaign contributions from school employees. The impact on the integrity of the boards of education in those cases was far more pronounced than in the instant case.

Although a six-month suspension is unduly harsh, the Commissioner agrees with the SEC that the proven conduct necessitates some form of penalty. The traffic-stop video reveals that appellant displayed questionable judgment in referencing her Board membership and her relationship with the South Orange Village president. Further, the use of inappropriate language toward Officer Horst and offensively referring to the police chief as a "skinhead" had a detrimental effect on the Board and the community. Therefore, the Commissioner finds that a 30-day suspension is a sufficient penalty to impress upon the appellant the significance of her errors in judgment displayed in this matter.

Accordingly, IT IS ORDERED that respondent is hereby suspended from the South Orange-Maplewood Board of Education for thirty (30) days as a school official having found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[9]

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

The Children's Center of Monmouth County, Inc.,

Petitioner,

v.

New Jersey Department of Education, Office of School Finance,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner, The Children's Center of Monmouth County (CCMC) – a private school for students with disabilities – appealed the determination of the respondent, the New Jersey Department of Education's Office of School Funding (NJDOE; OSF), to classify a portion of an employee's salary for the 2012-2013 and 2013-2014 school years as a "non-allowable expenditure". CCMC also appealed OSF's determination that the write-off of certain uncollected accounts receivable is a "non-allowable expenditure". The parties filed cross motions for summary decision. The cross motion of the respondent OSF on the issue of write-offs was granted in July 2018, finding that the costs were not allowable as a matter of law. A hearing on the issue of the employee's salary was conducted in April 2019, and the ALJ's Initial Decision was issued on August 12, 2019.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: private schools for children with disabilities are governed by N.J.S.A. 18A:46-2, which authorizes the NJDOE to promulgate regulations governing the tuition rates that approved private schools for students with disabilities (APSSD) may charge local public school districts; OSR reviews audited financial statements of APSSDs to ensure compliance with regulations, including N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2, which pertains to private school employee salaries; in the instant matter, respondent asserted that the employee whose salary was partially disallowed was serving in a non-recognized job title and his salary was properly capped at the maximum permitted pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2(r); the petitioner argued that the position in question aligns to the duties and requirements of the recognized position of "Assistant Director" provided in N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.1, but included extra duties related to law, affirmative action and compliance. The ALJ concluded that the employee in question was acting as a Director of Law and Compliance, and not as Assistant Director of the school and his salary was properly capped. Accordingly, the ALJ affirmed the determination of the OSF, and dismissed the petition.

Upon a comprehensive review of this matter, the Commissioner agreed with the findings and conclusion of the ALJ. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition was dismissed with prejudice.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

The Children's Center of Monmouth County, Inc.,

Petitioner,

v.

New Jersey Department of Education, Office of School Finance,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the exceptions filed by petitioner The Children's Center of Monmouth County (CCMC), and the reply thereto by respondent New Jersey Department of Education, Office of School Finance (Department) have been reviewed and considered.

This matter involves a challenge to the Department's audit findings that the write-off of uncollected debts and a portion of an employee's salary were unallowable costs for purposes of calculating the tuition rate for educating students at CCMC, an approved private school for students with disabilities (APSSD). The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) granted the Department's motion for summary decision regarding the write-off on July 20, 2018, finding that the costs were not allowable as a matter of law. On August 12, 2019, the ALJ issued an Initial Decision, concluding that disallowing the salary of Peter Kalac, an employee of CCMC, was proper.

In its exceptions, which largely reference its briefs below and present the same arguments, petitioner argues that the ALJ's decision regarding the write-off failed to acknowledge that the Department's guidance regarding back-billing was equivocal. According to the petitioner, while the regulation might contemplate APSSDs billing sending districts prior to the second year following the Department's certification of the final tuition rate, the Department has sometimes supported the position of sending districts that they are under no obligation to pay until after the conclusion of an audit or appeals, which could take years. Petitioner contends that this representation was unrebutted and should have been accepted as fact by the ALJ for purposes of the motion for summary decision. Furthermore, petitioner claims that its efforts to collect the debts were hampered by the Department through a 2013 memo that discouraged districts from honoring the school's requests for payment.

Regarding the disallowance of compensation for Peter Kalac, petitioner argues that it is unclear why the ALJ believed that Mr. Kalac's testimony was "not credible". If the ALJ believed that Mr. Kalac misstated the facts when he testified that he actually performed the specific duties of Assistant Director as spelled out in the regulations, his testimony was never challenged by the Department; this served to unfairly blindside petitioner since there was no challenge to Mr. Kalac's testimony on that point at the hearing. If the ALJ rejected as a matter of law Mr. Kalac's belief that his overall workload fit the definition of an Assistant Director because of the extra duties he performed, those extra duties were expressly why the Department disallowed his compensation, in which case petitioner points to its post-hearing brief for its legal argument. Finally, petitioner contends that the ALJ failed to consider the Department's prior approval of Mr. Kalac's job title and duties.

In a reply that also reiterates arguments made below, the Department argues that N.J.A.C. 6A:23-18.2(m) is clear that billing must occur in the second school year following the school year for which the charge was agreed upon and that an APSSD must undertake reasonable efforts to collect outstanding tuition. In light of these requirements, the Department contends that the ALJ properly found that CCMC's efforts to bill sending districts up to nine years beyond the billing timeframe in N.J.A.C. 6A:23-18.2(m) were not reasonable. The Department also submits that petitioner's arguments regarding the 2013 memo mischaracterize it. Moreover, the Department notes that the memo was issued two months after CCMC sent bills for the prior decade, and even if the memo provided a valid excuse for CCMC's failure to engage in efforts to pursue collection after its issuance, it does not excuse CCMC's failure to make any attempts to collect sooner.

Regarding Mr. Kalac, the Department argues that the ALJ's credibility finding was supported by the record and that his testimony was rejected because of the extra job duties he performed, which is a proper application of the relevant law to the facts presented. The Department notes that no documents in the record support petitioner's contention that the Department had previously approved Mr. Kalac's job title and duties.

After a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the findings of the ALJ. Regarding the bad debt write-offs, N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2(m)[1] clearly contemplates that APSSDs will timely bill sending districts for the difference between tentative and final tuition rates. Petitioner admits that it failed to send tuition adjustment bills for the 2002-2003 through 2010-2011 school years until October 2013. Rather than making reasonable efforts to collect these debts, petitioner made no effort at all for up to ten years. Such a lengthy delay is precisely what the regulation was intended to prevent. See 49 N.J.R. 1855(a) ("a reasonable effort is a sufficient measure to prevent an APSSD from including the amounts for which the APSSD failed to timely bill as a 'bad debt' in the tuition charged to sending school districts" (emphasis added)). Furthermore, although petitioner seeks to lay the blame for its failure to collect at the feet of the Department, the Department's actions are separate and distinct from petitioner's. Neither the Department's position that sending districts are not obligated to pay tuition adjustment bills until after an audit or appeals,[2] nor its 2013 memo regarding tuition adjustment, excuse CCMC's failure to send tuition adjustment bills for the ten years prior to that time. Similarly, petitioner's efforts to collect the bills after 2013 cannot cure its earlier failure.

Regarding the salary disallowance, Mr. Kalac's employment contract lists his title as Assistant Director of Law, Affirmative Action and Compliance, which was not included in the list of recognized job titles published by the Department. Moreover, looking beyond the title itself to the job duties performed by Mr. Kalac, the Commissioner accepts the ALJ's finding that Mr. Kalac's testimony was not credible.[3] Furthermore, his job description lists fourteen responsibilities, eleven of which are not included in the regulatory definition of Assistant Director. Because the vast majority of his responsibilities are unrelated to defined Assistant Director tasks, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ and concludes that Mr. Kalac's role was significantly different from the role of Assistant

[2] The record includes an email in which the Department acknowledged that some sending districts want to receive a desk review certification letter before remitting payment to the APSSD. The Department continues by stating, "this is often a policy within the sending districts [sic] business office and/or governance manuals" and encourages petitioner to work with the sending district. It is not clear from this email that the Department's position is that sending districts are not obligated to pay until after an audit or appeals, and – because the timing of the sending district's payment is not the subject of this matter – the Commissioner declines to reach any conclusion on this issue. However, assuming for purposes of argument that a sending district is not obligated to pay until after an appeal or audit, it would not relieve the APSSD from timely billing the sending district, as is required by N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2(m).

[3] Despite petitioner's exceptions arguing that the ALJ's finding on this point was unclear, the Commissioner finds that the ALJ's credibility finding was clear and pertained to the nature of Mr Kalac's overall role; as the ALJ stated, "the testimony of Mr. Kalac that he was acting as an Assistant Director was not credible."

Director and therefore he served in an unrecognized job title.[4] The maximum salary for unrecognized job titles during the school years at issue was restricted to $110,610, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2(r), and prorated to $44,244 for Mr. Kalac's part time employment. His salary of $60,000 exceeded the maximum allowable amount by $15,676, which the Department and the ALJ properly found was a non-allowable cost.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is hereby adopted as the final decision in this matter; and the petition is dismissed with prejudice.

[4] Any prior approval by the Department of Mr. Kalac's salary is irrelevant to its audit for the years in question here. Petitioners' assertion regarding prior approvals is not supported by any documents in the record, and while the Department did not rebut this assertion, neither did it concede it. Nonetheless, the Department is not precluded from applying the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2(r) to disallow the excess salary in the audits at issue here, even if the salary was previously allowed.

BEFORE SARAH G. CROWLEY, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, The Children's Center of Monmouth County, Inc. (CCMC), a private school for students with disabilities, appeals the determination of respondent, the Department of Education's Office of School Finance (OSF), to classify a portion of an employee's salary for the 2012-2013 and 2013-2014 school years as a "non-allowable expenditure." CCMC also appealed OSF's determination that the write-off of certain uncollected accounts receivable is a "non-allowable expenditure." CCMC filed its appeal with the Department of Education and the Department transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -13; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. On March 8, 2018, CCMC moved for summary decision. On March 26, 2018, OSF cross-moved for summary decision maintaining that its decisions were proper as a matter of law. The parties presented oral argument before the undersigned on May 25, 2018, and the cross-motion of the state on the issue of the write-offs was granted. The undersigned ruled that the uncollected accounts receivables were non-allowable as a matter of law. The petitioner's motion for summary decision on other issues was denied. The hearing was conducted on April 18, 2019, and the record closed after written summations from the parties were received on July 29, 2019.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

CCMC is an approved private school for students with disabilities in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:23-18.1 et. seq.[1] As far back as 2002, CCMC contracted with various New Jersey public school districts to receive preschool disabled children and charge the sending districts a tentative tuition rate for educating the students. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23-18.1; N.J.S.A. 18A:46-21, the actual cost per student is later calculated and submitted to the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) for approval.

[1] The regulations governing private schools who receive public students with disabilities, N.J.A.C. 6A:23-18.1 et. seq. were revised in July 2017. See 49 N.J.R. 365(a); 49 N.J.R. 1855 (a). Because the current regulations were revised, some substantially, this decision references the then existing regulations that petitioner was required to adhere to, which included the 2012-2014 regulations.

In accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.9,[2] CCMC obtained independent audited financial statements for the 2012-2013 and 2013-2014 school years. CCMC submitted the financial statements, which detailed the tuition costs, to the Commissioner for approval. Ibid. The Department of Education's Office of School Finance (OSF) is responsible for reviewing CCMC's audited financial statements to ensure compliance with Department's guidelines and regulations.

On June 17, 2016, OSF issued two letters informing CCMC that its audited financial statements for the 2012-2013 and the 2013-2014 school years conflicted with the Department's regulations. Specifically, the OSF informed CCMC that it "reviewed the audited financial statements for the 2012-2013 school year" and found that the employment contract of > Mr. Peter Kalac reflects the unrecognized administrative position title of Director of Law, Affirmative Action and Compliance. In accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:23-18.2(r), private schools for students with disabilities may use unrecognized administrative job titles, but the maximum salaries of these titles are restricted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.5(a)9 . . .

> Mr. Kalac's part time salary of $60,000 is in excess of the prorated part time lowest maximum salary of $44,244 . . . As such, the excess salary of $15,756 and the associated benefits must be considered non-allowable costs when calculating the Certified Actual Cost Per Student.

The petitioner argues that the disallowance of Kalac's salary was improper and that his salary and benefits should not have been disallowed just because he had an unrecognized job tittle. They also argue that they should have looked beyond his title to what his job duties were. The only issue is what these duties were and whether the salary of Peter Kalac which exceeds the maximum allowable salary under the statute is allowable.

TESTIMONY AND FINDINGS OF FACT

For petitioner

Peter Kalac testified regarding his job duties and his role at the school. He is an attorney by trade and he practices school law and workers compensation. He started getting involved in the IDEA and saw that Districts were not doing a good job of serving children with disabilities, so he decided to open a school in Monmouth County. The school opened in 1990 for children with disabilities, mostly autistic children. He created the job title for himself and it was part of the contract. He also served as legal counsel handling anything from workers compensation to lawsuits regarding injuries at work. He had a lot of issues with workers compensation, so he handled a lot of that for the school. However, he was also involved in school plans as well, and went to one meeting a month, where they discussed everything from hiring to termination.

He was also the affirmative action officer and met with someone in State about their hiring practices. He dealt with a lot of Human Resources issues with employees. He testified that Assistant Director was an accurate description of what he did, but they had labeled it something else. If they had told him it was a problem, he would have changed it. He testified about the contract and the job duties listed in the contract. On cross-examination, it was pointed out that there are several things that are not listed but he handled as an assistant administrator for the school. He testified that a great deal of what he did was related to his practice involving school law issues and representing school boards. He reemphasized that if he knew it was an issue, he would have given himself a different title.

For respondent

Elsie Sadler Williams is an auditor for the New Jersey Department of Education. She was responsible for the audit conducted of the petitioner in this case. She has been with the Department since 2001 and is responsible for fiscal oversight of private schools for children with disabilities. She testified that most of the funding comes from Local Education agencies in the form of tuition reimbursement. She was involved in the audit of the Children's school from 2011- 2012, 2012-2013 and 2013-2014. Mr. Kalac's job title was not listed as one of the authorized job titles, so payment above the maximum allowance was not permitted. If they are not using appropriate titles that is why it is held to the lowest maximum tile and since he was only a part-time employee, it was adjusted accordingly.

Ms. Williams testified that the school argued that his job title aligned with that of the Assistant Director. However, she reviewed the job description, and disagreed, finding that his job duties were more of a legal nature. She testified that if someone wanted approval for a title that was not recognized, they could have gone to the County Superintendent and obtained approval to have someone work outside a title. It appeared to her that not only was he performing duties outside the scope of the assistant director, he had a different job title. If he had the correct job title, they may not have flagged it, but looking at his duties, it was clear to her that he was not acting as an assistant director, and thus, the maximum permitted salary was appropriately capped. A director of law and compliance is not an authorized position. She believed upon review of what he was doing that he was in fact acting as a director of law and compliance and not the assistant director of the school. Accordingly, the salary was properly capped.

The resolution of the issue in this case requires that I make a credibility determination regarding the critical facts. The choice of accepting or rejecting the witnesses' testimony or credibility rests with the finder of fact. Freud v. Davis, 64 N.J. Super. 242, 246 (App. Div. 1960). In addition, for testimony to be believed, it must not only come from the mouth of a credible witness, but it also has to be credible in itself. It must elicit evidence that is from such common experiences and observation that it can be approved as proper under the circumstances. See Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546 (1954); Gallo v. Gallo, 66 N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1961). A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witnesses' story considering its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718,749 (1963). A fact finder is free to weigh the evidence and to reject the testimony of a witness, even though not directly contradicted, when it is contrary to circumstances given in evidence or contains inherent improbabilities or contradictions which alone, or in connection with other circumstances in evidence, excite suspicion as to its truth. In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514. 521-22 (1950). See D'Amato by McPherson v. D'Amato, 305 N.J. Super. 109, 115 (App. Div. 1997).

Having had an opportunity to carefully observe the demeanor of the witnesses, it is my view that the testimony of Mr. Kalac that he was acting as an Assistant Director was not credible. Moreover, his own testimony contradicted such a finding. It is clear that his background was in law, and he was acting as a director of law and compliance and not a director of school. Therefore, I FIND as FACT that Mr. Kalac was the assistant director of law and compliance at CCMC.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

Private schools for children with disabilities are governed by N.J.S.A. 18A:46-21. This enabling statute authorized the New Jersey Department of Education to promulgate regulations governing the tuition rates that approved private schools for students with disabilities (APSSD) may charge local public-school districts. Brookfield Schools v. New Jersey State Dep't of Ed., Div. of Finance, EDU 11447-10, Initial (June 15, 2011) adopted Comm'r (July 28, 2011).

To that end, the OSF reviews audited financial statements to ensure compliance with the Department's regulations, including N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2,[3] the regulation pertaining to private school employee salaries. N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2, states, in pertinent part:

> (o) An APSSD shall reference as guidance the list of maximum allowable salaries by job title and county, according to the job titles contained in N.J.A.C. 6A:9, which > pertain to approved private schools for students with disabilities that is published by the Commissioner . . .

>
> (p) An APSSD shall reference as guidance a list of maximum allowable salaries by administrative and job titles and county according to the job titles contained in N.J.A.C. 6A:9 and 6A:23A-18.1 which pertain to approved private schools for students with disabilities that is published by the Commissioner . . .
> (r) An APSSD shall employ staff pursuant to the list of the recognized job titles in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:9 that require certification and N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.1 that require a bachelor's degree, which is published by the Commissioner. An approved private school for students with disabilities shall only hire staff or consultants in job titles that require certification or a bachelor's degree if such titles are included on the list, or if such titles are unrecognized job titles that are approved annually in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.5. The APSSD may use unrecognized administrative job titles, but maximum salaries for the titles are restricted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.5(a)(9). If an APSSD hires staff in administrative or support job titles such as but not limited to Chief Executive Officer or Chief Financial Officer, the maximum salaries of such job titles shall be limited to the maximum salary of a director in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2(p).

For the 2012-2013 and 2013-2014 school years, the Office School Finance listed the following approved administrative positions for private schools:

- 0701 Assistant Director
- 0702 Executive Director
- 0703 Business Manager

N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.1[5] defines Assistant Director as:

> An individual whose job function includes a majority of the following: the formulation of school goals, plans, policies, and budgets and the recommendation of their approval to the school's board of directors; the recommendations for all staff appointments and other personnel actions, such as terminations, suspensions and compensation, including the appointment of the business manager to the school's board of directors; responsibility for school operations and programs including administration, supervision and evaluation of administrators, supervisors, and all other school staff. The holder of this job title shall hold a bachelor's degree from an accredited institution but is not required to hold a school certification.
> [N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.1.]

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2(r),[6] the Commissioner determined that "whether salaries and fringe benefits of certain employees should properly be considered in establishing tuition rates payable to [APSSDs] requires one to look beyond titles and determine what the employee actually does." Youth Consultation Serv. v. Dep't of Ed, EDU 03573-06, Initial (Aug 6, 2007) adopted Comm'r (Oct 4, 2007) https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/html/initial/edu03573-06_1.html.

In Youth Consultation Serv., the OFPP found that a private school improperly charged the salaries of certain staff, functioning in unrecognized position titles, as part of its certified tuition rates. Ibid. The court, in its finding of facts, held that the duties, and not title alone, determined whether the position was an unrecognized title. Ibid. For example, the court held that "the duties of those individuals designated as Head Teachers (an unrecognized title) . . . primarily involve direct student instruction and not the continuing direction and guidance of the work of instructional personnel." Ibid.

[5] Current N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2.
[6] Current N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.3(q).

Thus, "their duties correlate to those of certified Teachers of the Handicapped rather than Supervisors and that the lack of a Supervisor's certificate is not a basis for disallowing their salaries and fringe benefits." Ibid.

The Supreme Court also found that "[a]s Yvonne Montemurro is charged with authority and responsibility for the continuing direction and guidance of the work of instructional personnel, I conclude that she is a supervisor within the meaning of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-12.3(c) rather than occupying an administrative position" as [the private school designated.] Thus, her salary and fringe benefits are disallowed by N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.5(a) 6 and 10." Ibid.; see also Cerebral Palsy League of Union County v. N.J. Dep't of Educ., EDU 11301-07, Initial Decision (June 14, 2010), adopted, Comm'r (July 29, 2010) (stating disallowances that involve job duties is required to be guided by the actual job functions of the employee at issue.) https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/final/edu11301-07_1.pdf.

In the instant matter, OSF asserts that the Recognized Job Titles List in effect during the relevant time permitted the position of Assistant Director. However, Mr. Kalac's employment contract listed the administrative title of "Director of Law, Affirmative Action and Compliance." In accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2(r), although an APSSD may use an unrecognized title, it is restricted to a maximum salary of $44,244. CCMC concedes that Mr. Kalac's title includes additional words – of Law, Affirmative Action and Compliance – that were not included in the approved title of Assistant Director, it argues that his actual job duties align with the requirements of "Assistant Director" provided in N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.1,[7] and simply include extra duties related to Law, Affirmative Action, and Compliance. However, the testimony of Mr. Kalac demonstrates that although some of the duties he performs correspond with the definition of an Assistant Director provided at N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18, the majority of Mr. Kalac duties related to legal issues and compliance. I therefore, CONCLUDE that Mr. Kalac was acting as a Director of Law and Compliance, and not an Assistant Director of the school, and thus his salary was property capped and he is not entitled to reimbursement above the maximum permitted pursuant to N.J.A.C.

[7] Current N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2.

6A:23A-18.2(r). Accordingly, the decision of the OSF is AFFIRMED and the appeal is DISMISSED.

CONCLUSION

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE, that the duties of Peter Kalac mainly that of a legal and compliance director and not the assistant director of the school, and thus the salary disallowance was proper.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that the petitioner's appeal is DISMISSED and the determination of the OSF is AFFIRMED.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Board of Education of the Township of Brick, Ocean County, et. als.,

Petitioners,

v.

Lamont Repollet, Commissioner of Education, and Elizabeth Maher Muoio, New Jersey State Treasurer,

Respondents.

Synopsis

Eight local boards of education, five municipalities and one individual taxpayer challenged recent amendments to the School Funding Reform Act of 2008 (SFRA), N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-43 et. seq. Petitioners asserted that the school funding formula as it is now written: requires that they pay more than their fair share of local property taxes to financially support the public schools; has resulted in an underfunding of State aid; and has created a funding formula that is neither equitable, predictable nor constitutional. Petitioners further claim that they have been deprived of due process and equal protection under the law. Respondents filed a motion to dismiss, arguing that the petition fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the five municipalities lack standing to bring claims on behalf of their constituent taxpayers regarding whether the SFRA unfairly burdens those taxpayers or whether it deprives children of a thorough and efficient education (T&E); municipalities do not have the legal capacity to challenge State action based on equal protection grounds; boards of education lack standing to bring claims on behalf of taxpayers or on equal protection grounds, but do have standing to raise claims of educational inadequacy and inequality, though their claims are not viable; the school boards herein cannot rely on Abbott v. Burke cases to support their contention that the SFRA as amended is unconstitutional, as the educational disparity Abbott was concerned with readily dwarfs the claims raised herein; as to the taxpayer petitioner in this matter, she does have standing to assert that the SFRA amendments deny her children T&E, and to bring claims of unfair taxation as well as an equal protection claim, but has failed to state a viable equal protection claim. Based on the foregoing, the ALJ dismissed the petition.

Upon a comprehensive review of this matter, the Commissioner agreed with the ALJ – for the reasons thoroughly analyzed and discussed in the Initial Decision – that the petition must be dismissed on the basis of standing and for failure to state a claim. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

v.

Lamont Repollet, Commissioner,
New Jersey Department of Education
and Elizabeth Maher Muoio,
New Jersey State Treasurer,

Respondents.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by petitioners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and the respondents' reply thereto.

Petitioners in this matter are eight local boards of education, five municipalities, and one individual taxpayer. Collectively, petitioners challenge the recent amendments to the School Funding Reform Act of 2008 (SFRA), N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-43 et seq., alleging that the new school funding formula is unconstitutional and inequitable as it results in an underfunding of State aid and forces petitioners to pay more than their fair share in local property taxes.

The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) granted the respondents' motion and dismissed the petition. The ALJ found that the five municipalities lack standing to bring claims on behalf of their constituent taxpayers regarding whether the SFRA unfairly burdens those taxpayers or whether it deprives children of a thorough and efficient education (T&E); further, municipalities do not have the legal capacity to challenge State action based on equal protection grounds. Similarly, the ALJ found that the boards of education lack standing to bring claims on behalf of taxpayers or on equal protection grounds, but found that they do have standing to raise claims of educational inadequacy and inequality. Regarding the taxpayer petitioner, the ALJ found that she has standing to assert that SFRA amendments will deny her children T&E and to bring claims of unfair taxation, as well as an equal protection claim.

With respect to the T&E claim, the ALJ found that the school board petitioners and taxpayer petitioner failed to state a claim upon which relief could be granted. Specifically, the ALJ found that the petition does not demonstrate that "the students' educational opportunities are so deficient as to jeopardize their futures." (Initial Decision at 12). The Abbott v. Burke line of cases do not support their contention because the educational disparities in Abbott are of such a high magnitude that they are not comparable to the educational concerns in this matter. 119 N.J. 287 (1990) (Abbott II). Moreover, the ALJ found that claims involving "inequitable local taxation cannot form the basis of a viable constitutional claim under the T&E clause." (Initial Decision at 13).

Additionally, the ALJ concluded that the petitioning boards have failed to state a claim that the New Jersey constitution entitles them to the funding set forth by the pre-amendment SFRA. The SFRA was declared constitutional in Abbott v. Burke, 199 N.J. 140 (2009) (Abbott XX) with respect to the educational inequality claims made only by Abbott districts, and the petitioners here are not Abbott districts. Finally, the taxpayer petitioner's equal protection claim alleges that she suffers from an unequal tax burden because she is required to pay more than her "fair share" in property taxes to support her local school district. The ALJ found that New Jersey courts are unwilling to decide school funding disputes through the equal protection clause, and therefore dismissed the claim, thus dismissing the entire petition.

In their exceptions, petitioners argue that the ALJ erred in failing to apply the proper legal standard on a motion to dismiss because she did not afford petitioners every reasonable inference of fact. For example, when the ALJ found that the educational deprivations in Abbott "dwarf" those presented by petitioners, and that therefore petitioners' claim could not be sustained, the ALJ compared and contrasted the educational disparities. Petitioners contend that "[e]ven if the educational inadequacies in Abbott were more extensive than Petitioner school districts . . . that would not automatically render Petitioners[']] claims without merit." (Petitioners' Exceptions at 3). Additionally, many issues of material fact were also presented, and "whether Petitioners can ultimately prove their case (and demonstrate an entitlement to a particular level of funding) is a factual determination, which can only be made after a full record has been developed." (Id. at 5). Further, to the extent that the ALJ found the pleadings were not specific or needed clarity, petitioners maintain that the proper remedy would be to allow for an amended petition, rather than dismissal.

Petitioners also take exception to the ALJ's characterization of this case as one about unequal taxation, rather than unequal education. The petition makes clear that due to inadequate state aid, the petitioner school districts cannot deliver T&E without placing an excessive burden on taxpayers. The educational deficiencies resulting from underfunding include staff reductions, the reduction of course offerings, the discontinuance of extra-curricular activities, and the inability to fund text book purchases, technology needs, or building and grounds repairs. Petitioners emphasize that the real cause of action is one of unequal education, and that unequal taxation is simply a consequence of that. Additionally, petitioners point out that the goal of the legislature in enacting the SFRA was to create a funding formula that is fair, equitable and predictable. The SFRA amendments are inconsistent with that goal as they result in certain districts facing uneven and inequitable fiscal challenges. Further, petitioners argue that because the SFRA amendments will result in an unequal and unpredictable funding pattern, it violates petitioners' equal protection rights.

Petitioners contend that the ALJ erred in relying on Stubaus v. Whitman, 339 N.J. Super. 38 (App. Div. 2001) for the conclusion that petitioners lack standing.[1] While Stubaus, only involved claims of disparate and burdensome tax rates, this matter involves educational deprivations and the failure to comply with T&E requirements. Petitioners claim that the ALJ should have placed more reliance on Elizabeth Board of Education v. New Jersey State Department of Education, Division of Early Childhood Education, EDU 09004-15, Initial Decision (July 14, 2017), adopted Commissioner's Decision No. 251-17, decided

[1] The Commissioner notes that the ALJ did, in fact, find that the taxpayer petitioner had standing, and instead dismissed the petition on the basis that the taxpayer petitioner failed to raise a viable claim upon which relief can be granted.

August 24, 2017, as it is substantially the same as this matter since both cases involve the inability to deliver required services to students due to insufficient funding. In Elizabeth, the ALJ made factual determinations only after hearing testimony and reviewing evidence, ultimately finding that the budgetary shortfall was due to the board's own conduct. Similarly, in Abbott v. Burke, 206 N.J. 332 (2011) (Abbott XXI), a Special Master heard testimony from Superintendents before determining whether the school districts could provide their students with T&E, despite reduced levels of state aid. Here, petitioners contend that the ALJ made findings of fact – such as that the allegations here differed from those in Elizabeth – without having developed a factual record through testimony and evidence, and disregarding that allegations in the petition are assumed to be true for the purposes of a motion to dismiss.

Petitioners point out that the ALJ failed to address their arguments regarding the unconstitutionality of the SFRA amendments as it applies to petitioners. The funding formula fails to account for municipal tax abatements, which skew the formula by artificially depressing a municipality's ratable property tax base. The ratable property base does not consider improvements on a property that are subject to Payments in Lieu of Taxes (PILOTs), which divert funds away from school districts to the municipality, thus cutting school districts out of the revenue source. Essentially, the wealth of municipalities with an artificially depressed ratable property tax base is distorted because the PILOTs are not considered in the funding formula. Therefore, the local fair share of the petitioning districts is inequitably increased.

In reply, respondents urge the Commissioner to adopt the Initial Decision. First, respondents argue that the ALJ properly found that the petitioner municipalities did not have standing to bring T&E or equal protection claims on behalf of their residents, and that the petitioner school boards did not have standing to raise claims involving an unequal tax burden on behalf of taxpayers. Second, respondents maintain that "[p]etitioners' ability to plead different, more specific, facts will still not permit it to claim that inequitable local taxation is an actionable equal-protection violation under the T&E Clause of the State Constitution." (Respondents' reply at 4). Third, respondents contend that petitioners' request to amend the petition is useless because the ALJ found that their causes of action are unstainable as a matter of law. Finally, respondents argue that the ALJ properly found that the case involves one of unequal tax burden, and not unequal education, as petitioners have not alleged that students are being denied T&E since they are still being provided a constitutional education.

Upon a complete review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ – for the reasons thoroughly analyzed and expressed in the Initial Decision – that the petition must be dismissed on the basis of standing and for failure to state a claim. The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the petition does not properly allege a claim that the SFRA as amended denies students in the petitioning districts access to T&E, nor have the petitioners raised a viable claim that their State aid was under-funded. The Commissioner further agrees that since New Jersey courts have declined to decide school funding disputes through the equal protection clause, the taxpayer petitioner's claim that she has been required to pay more than her fair share in property taxes must also fail.

The Commissioner does not find petitioners' exceptions to be persuasive. The ALJ applied the appropriate standard in deciding the motion to dismiss, and made determinations on the basis of law regarding the issues of standing and whether petitioners alleged viable claims; therefore, a full hearing with testimony is unnecessary. Additionally, although petitioners allege that certain budget cuts will result from the decreased funding – and even assuming that every educational deficiency alleged by petitioners is true – petitioners still fail to demonstrate that the school districts cannot deliver T&E. Instead, petitioners argue that taxpayers have to pay more than their fair share in property taxes in order to provide the necessary funding for the local school districts. But as the ALJ found, such arguments on the basis of equal protection have not been entertained by New Jersey courts.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein, and the petition is hereby dismissed.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BRICK, OCEAN COUNTY, ET. ALS, Petitioners,

v.

LAMONT REPOLLET, COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION, AND ELIZABETH MAHER MUOIO, NEW JERSEY STATE TREASURER,

Respondents.

Record Closed: June 12, 2019 Decided: August 1, 2019

BEFORE ELLEN S. BASS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Eight local boards of education, five municipalities and one individual taxpayer challenge recent amendments to the School Funding Reform Act of 2008 (SFRA).

N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-43 et. seq. They assert that the school funding formula as it is now written requires that they pay more than their fair share of local property taxes to financially support the public schools; has resulted in an "underfunding" of State aid; and has created a funding formula that is neither equitable, predictable nor constitutional. Petitioners claim that they have been deprived of due process and equal protection under the law. Respondents have filed a Motion to Dismiss, urging that the petition fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioners filed their petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education (the Commissioner) on January 22, 2019 and filed a Motion for Emergent Relief on February 11, 2019. The contested case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as an emergent matter on February 13, 2019. I conferred with counsel via telephone on February 20, 2019, at which time it was agreed, and memorialized in an order of the same date, that respondents did not need to formally respond to the emergent application. Petitioners' counsel clarified that his goal simply was to obtain as expedited a review of his clients' concerns as possible. By consent, respondents were afforded additional time to file an answer or Motion to Dismiss.

A Motion to Dismiss was filed on March 20, 2019. Petitioners opposed the motion on or about April 12, 2019. Respondents replied to the opposition on April 26, 2019. Oral argument took place on May 6, 2019. At oral argument I invited the parties to file supplemental briefs. They did so on May 28, 2019, and June 12, 2019, at which time the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Respondents' motion is filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g), which permits the filing of a Motion to Dismiss in lieu of an Answer. For purposes of the pending motion, "all facts alleged in the complaint and legitimate inferences drawn therefrom are deemed admitted." Smith v City of Newark, 136 N.J. Super. 107, 112 (App. Div. 1975). I thus FIND as follows:

The petitioning school Boards are elected to supervise and direct the delivery of public educational services to students domiciled in their Type II school districts. The named municipalities are the governing bodies responsible for collecting the property taxes assessed for their local school districts. Stephanie Wohlrab is a resident of Brick Township, President of the Brick Township Board of Education, a parent of students who attend the public schools, and a taxpaying property owner in Brick.

The petition shares the history of New Jersey's struggle with constitutionally sound school funding as the backdrop for its challenge to the recent amendments to the SFRA. The SFRA was enacted in 2008 to provide a formula that would base State aid on needs of the student population and local fiscal capacity. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-44. The statutory goal was to ensure that > Every child in New Jersey must have an opportunity for an education based on academic standards that satisfy constitutional requirements regardless of where the child resides, and public funds allocated to this purpose must be expended to support schools that are thorough and efficient in delivering those educational standards. In turn, school districts must be assured the financial support necessary to provide those constitutionally compelled educational standards. Any school funding formula should provide State aid for every school district based on the characteristics of the student population and up-to-date measures of the individual district's ability to pay.

> [N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-44(d)]

The SFRA requires the adoption of an "adequacy budget" by each school district based on criteria established by the Department of Education (DOE). The DOE then determines the "local fair share;" or the amount that should be raised locally to support the schools, taking into account the taxable property and the income of the residents of the municipalities that comprise the school district. "Equalization aid" is the difference between the "adequacy budget" and the "local fair share." N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-53. Prior to the controverted amendments to the SFRA, a State Aid Growth Limit capped the total percentage increase in State aid a district could receive from year-to-year. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-47 (repealed by P.L. 2018, c. 67, § 8, eff. July 24, 2018).

In July 2018 the Legislature amended the SFRA by enacting P.L. 2018, c. 67. These amendments eliminated Adjustment Aid[1] and the State Aid Growth Limit beginning with the 2018-2019 school year; thus modifying the way a school district's "local fair share" is calculated when a district is spending below "adequacy." See: N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-5d; N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-68. The amendments introduced a concept of "State Aid Differential," which is defined as > . . . the difference between the sum of a school district's or county vocational school district's allocations of equalization aid, special education categorical aid, security categorical aid, transportation aid, adjustment aid, and non-SFRA aids in the prebudget year, and the sum of equalization aid, special education categorical aid, security categorical aid, and transportation aid as calculated for the budget year in each category in accordance with the provisions of sections 11, 13, 14, and 15 of P.L. 2007, c.260(C.18A:7F-53, C.18A:7F-55, C.18A:7F-56, and C.18A:7F-57), respectively.

> [N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-67]

Where State Aid Differential is positive, the excess aid would be phased out over a multi-year period. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-68. Where the differential is negative, the statute provides that districts

> . . . shall receive State school aid in an amount equal to the sum of the district's State aid in the prior school year plus the district's proportionate share of the sum of any increase in State aid included in the annual appropriations act for that fiscal year and the total State aid reduction pursuant to subsection b. of this section based on the district's State aid differential as a percent of the Statewide total State aid differential among all school districts and county vocational school districts for which the State aid differential is negative.

[1] Adjustment Aid was an amount designed "to ensure that the district receives the greater of the amount of State aid calculated for the district pursuant to the provisions of the [SFRA] or the State aid received by the district for the 2007-2008 school year multiplied by 102%." N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-58. In subsequent years, the SFRA provided for differing amounts of adjustment aid; for example, for 2009-2011 and 2010-2011 districts would "receive adjustment aid in such amount as to ensure that the district receives the greater of the amount of State aid calculated for the district pursuant to the provisions of [the SFRA] or the State aid, other than educational adequacy aid, received by the district for the 2008-2009 school year." N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-58(a)(2).

Under the amendments to the SFRA, if a district receives a reduction in State aid and is spending below "adequacy," the "required local air share shall equal 102% of the budgeted local share for the prebudget year..." N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-5d.

Petitioners point out that the SFRA's funding formula fails to account for the widespread use of municipal tax abatements. This artificially depresses a municipality's ratable property base, thus skewing the formula and negatively impacting the availability of State aid for districts located in municipalities that do not likewise use tax abatements. As part of the calculation of the "local fair share", the amended SFRA requires that values be inputted for a district's "equalized valuation" and income. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-52(c). But the amended SFRA's definition of "equalized valuation" accounts for a municipality's ratable property base, but does not consider improvements on property subject to Payments in Lieu of Taxes (PILOT), which by their nature divert funds from school districts to municipalities.[2] Petitioners thus urge that the amended SFRA "still fails to account for the true wealth of a community in its funding formula."

The petitioning Boards now receive less State aid. They cannot deliver necessary educational services to their students without compelling taxpayers to pay more than their "local fair share;" these amounts range from 100.05% to 100.99% of the "local fair share". The shortfall in funding is outlined below:

District	2017-2018 State Aid	2018-2019 Proposed	2018-2019 Actual	Shortfall from 2017-2018	Shortfall from Proposed
Brick	$35,304,821	$36,055,619	$34,142,597	$1,162,224	$1,913,022
Jackson	$49,635,886	$50,122,386	$48,770,072	$865,814	$1,352,314
Manalapan-Englishtown	$19,440,358	$19,938,658	$18,773,314	$667,044	$1,165,344
Toms River	$66,975,394	$$68,224,666	$65,984,284	$991,110	$2,240,382
Lacey	$21,204,577	$21,556,936	$20,970,400	$234,177	$586,536

[2] Ninety-five percent of each PILOT payment is retained by the municipality, and 5% goes to the County, thus essentially cutting the school districts out of this revenue source, unless the municipality and the school district voluntarily enter into a tax revenue sharing agreement.

Freehold Regional	$51,564,083	$51,564,083	$50,269,156	$1,294,927	$1,294,927
Weymouth	$2,326,148	$2,365,542	$2,245,862	$80,286	$119,680
Ocean	$7,614,796	$8,079,720	$7,472,792	$142,004	$606,928

In an effort not to unduly burden local taxpayers, the Boards have reduced staff and eliminated programmatic and curricular offerings; they find themselves unable to afford new textbooks or technology needs; and were forced to forego necessary investments in buildings and grounds. In order to offset further property tax increases, a number of the petitioning districts have spent down their Fund Balance levels.

By way of example and not by way of limitation, Brick has been forced to eliminate six teachers and two supervisors. Elective programs, sports and co-curricular activities will be cut, or participation fees will be imposed. Brick will be unable to meet the goals of its Long-Term Technology Plan, and may have to eliminate its full-day kindergarten. Class sizes will increase. Jackson will be forced to eliminate course offerings and discontinue courtesy bussing. It will have to cut after-school enrichment programs and increase activity fees for sports; Jackson fears that ultimately it will be impossible to continue these activities. It will have to reduce its technology and custodial budgets; eliminate a total of 25 teaching positions; and increase class size. Jackson anticipates closing one school building.

Manalapan-Englishtown has already been forced to cut a media specialist; three full-time push-in enrichment specialists; pull-out enrichment teaching positions; one physical education position; and staffing for extra-curricular programs at the elementary level. It will have to curtail its technology plan. Manalapan-Englishtown will have to charge activity fees, anticipates future staffing cuts, and the need to close its sixth-grade building. Lacy Township will be forced to eliminate instructional, administrative, paraprofessional and athletic positions. It will have to increase class size. Lacy will be unable to support its district-wide preschool program. It will be forced to eliminate support programs it offers to at-risk students. Toms River will be forced to reduce staff; will be unable to meet the goals in its Long-Range Technology Plan; and fears that it might be forced to eliminate kindergarten.

Freehold Regional will be unable to comply with its Strategic Plan; will be forced to reduce its student support systems; reduce its athletic offerings; and eliminate certain world language options. It will have to eliminate personnel and increase class size. Freehold anticipates reducing its buildings and grounds budget, and will be able to support only mandatory health and safety repairs to its facilities. Weymouth is a small district with only one classroom per grade. It will be unable to purchase needed instructional technology items, and be unable to move forward with an initiative to establish a Library/Media Center. It will have to consider the elimination of extra-curricular activities and courtesy bussing. The current full-day pre-K and kindergarten programs will have to be reduced to half-day. Weymouth will need to make staff cuts; to include instructional, custodial, and office staff, as well as, an assistant assigned to at-risk students.

Ocean has already been forced to eliminate three faculty positions, two secretarial positions, and defer the hiring of needed security guards. It has been forced to charge a fee for its preschool program. It lacks sufficient funds to perform necessary routine maintenance of its buildings and grounds, and will be unable to implement aspects of its Strategic and Technology Plan. Ocean was in the midst of a district-wide solar panel project which it has now been forced to defer.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

In ruling on a Motion to Dismiss, my inquiry is limited to examining the legal sufficiency of the facts alleged on the face of the petition. Printing Mart-Morristown v Sharp Electronics, 116 N.J. 739, 746 (1989); see also R. 4:6-2(e). A reviewing forum must search "the complaint in depth and with liberality to ascertain whether the fundament of a cause of action may be gleaned even from an obscure statement of claim . . . ," Printing Mart-Morristown, 116 N.J. 739 at 746 (citing DiCistofaro v. Laurel Grove Memorial Park, 43 N.J. Super. 244, 252 (App. Div., 1957)). The petitioners are entitled "to every reasonable inference of fact. The examination of a complaint's allegations of fact . . . should be one that is at once painstaking and undertaken with a generous and hospitable approach." Id. But dismissal of a complaint "is mandated where the factual allegations are palpably insufficient to support a claim . . ." Rieder v State of N.J. Dep't of Transp., 221 N.J. Super. 547, 552 (App. Div. 1987). Under the foregoing standard, I CONCLUDE that the petition of appeal must be dismissed.

The SFRA was enacted in 2008 as part of New Jersey's ongoing effort to ensure that public schools throughout the state receive the financial support needed to deliver a thorough and efficient free public education (T & E) to our children. N.J. Const. art. VIII, § 4, para. 1; N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-43 et seq. The statute sought to create a "clear, unitary, enforceable statutory formula to govern appropriations for education." N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-44(g). The New Jersey Supreme Court found the SFRA facially constitutional in Abbott v. Burke, 199 N.J. 140 (2009) (Abbott XX). Two years later, the Court again addressed school funding with its determination that the action by the State in underfunding the SFRA could not be sustained, as "the shortfall in appropriations purports to operate to suspend not a statutory right, but rather a constitutional obligation. . ." Abbott v. Burke, 206 N.J. 332, 363 (2011) (Abbott XXI). Some seven years later, the legislature amended the school funding law in a manner, petitioners contend, that is inconsistent with the spirit and intent of the 2008 version of the SFRA. They posit several reasons why their State aid must be restored to pre-amendment levels.

These petitioners contend that their petition is motivated by a desire to maintain strong and vibrant public schools. I do not question the sincerity of their commitment to their students for a moment. Nonetheless, at its essence, their petition is a challenge to a perceived unfair local tax burden; this is a case about unequal taxation, not unequal education. The first count of the petition contains the somewhat odd allegation that the amendments to the SFRA violate the SFRA. As I am required to do, I have attempted to be hospitable to this claim, and I take this count to actually allege that the petitioning Boards are entitled to the level of State funding promised by the unamended SFRA; that the constitution demands nothing less. The second count quite directly avers that "[t]he SFRA, as amended ... is unconstitutional as applied."

Count three of the petition asserts that the amendments to the SFRA render it "unconstitutional as written," because the widespread use of municipal tax abatements inequitably impacts the availability of State aid, thus increasing the local burden in districts that do not use tax abatements. This count thus grounds its allegations of unconstitutionality exclusively on local burden disparity. The fourth and final count of the petition alleges that "[b]y placing a property tax burden on taxpayers in the Petitioning Districts which is greater than is constitutionally approved, the methodology directed by the Legislature, the Commissioner and the Treasurer, each in his/her official capacity, have caused violations of the Due Process rights and the Equal Protection rights of taxpayers in the Petitioning Districts." Again, the focal point of this count is unfair and inequitable local taxation.

The Municipal Petitioners

The named petitioners include five local municipalities. Standing is a "threshold justiciability determination whether the litigant is entitled to initiate and maintain an action before a court or other tribunal." In re Six-Month Extension of N.J.A.C. 5:91-1, 372 N.J. Super. 61, 85 (App. Div., 2004); Stubaus v. Williams, 339 N.J. Super. 38, 47 (App. Div. 2001). To have standing, a party "must present a sufficient stake in the outcome of the litigation, a real adverseness with respect to the subject matter, and a substantial likelihood that the party will suffer harm in the event of an unfavorable decision." In re Camden Cty., 170 N.J. 439, 449 (2002). A petitioner must show a direct impairment of his own constitutional rights, and must have suffered a distinct injury or harm that was caused by the adverse party and that can be remedied by the administrative forum. See Trombetta v. Atl. City, 181 N.J. Super. 203, 221 (Law Div. 1981), aff'd o.b., 187 N.J. Super. 351 (App. Div. 1982); New Jersey Turnpike Auth. v. Parsons, 3 N.J. 235, 240 (1949); In re Ass'n of Trial Lawyers of Am., 228 N.J. Super. 180 (App. Div. 1988). A desire to vindicate the public interest is insufficient to confer standing; there must be a specific connection between the petitioner and the public interest he alleges to represent.

The municipal petitioners clearly seek only to vindicate the rights of their constituents and thus lack standing. The claim that the amendments to the SFRA unfairly burden taxpayers in their communities can be brought only by those taxpayers. And any allegations that the SFRA amendments deprive the children in their communities of T & E is a claim that belongs to those taxpayers and their children, and not to the municipalities in which those children reside. Stubaus v. Whitman, 339 N.J. Super. 38 at

56. To the extent that the municipal petitioners contend that they have asserted a direct impact or harm caused by the 2018 amendments to the SFRA, I have scoured the petition and could find no facts to support such a contention.

Additionally, relative to the claims raised in the petition's fourth count, our courts have recognized that "political subdivisions of the State, including municipalities and local boards of education, lack the legal capacity to challenge State action based on equal protection grounds." Stubaus v. Whitman, 339 N.J. Super. 38 at 48, citing Newark v. New Jersey, 262 U.S. 192, 196 (1923); McKenney v. Byrne, 82 N.J. 304, 315, n. 4 (1980); In re Charter School Application of Englewood, 320 N.J. Super. 174, 238 (App. Div. 1999). For this additional reason, I CONCLUDE that as to Brick Township, Toms River Township, South Toms River Borough, Beachwood Borough, and Pine Beach Borough, the petition must be dismissed.

The School Board Petitioners

Standing - The Unfair Taxation Claim

For the reasons expressed above, I CONCLUDE that the school Board petitioners likewise lack standing to vindicate the rights of their taxpaying citizens. And local Boards, like municipalities, cannot challenge State action on equal protection grounds. To reiterate, "[b]ecause school districts are 'creatures of the State,' no school district can be the 'subject of discriminatory practice by the State'." Stubaus v Whitman, 339 N.J. Super. 38 at 47, citing Borough of Glassboro v Byrne, 141 N.J. Super. 19, 23 (App. Div., 1976). I CONCLUDE that the claims by the Brick Township, Jackson, Manalapan-Englishtown, Toms River Regional, Lacey Township, Freehold Regional, Weymouth Township, and Ocean Boards of Education likewise must be dismissed.

The allegations of this petition stand in stark contrast to the claims made in Elizabeth Bd. of Educ. v. N.J. State Dept. of Educ., Div. of Early Childhood Education, EDU 09004-15, Initial Decision (July 14, 2017), aff'd, Comm'r (August 24, 2017), <https://www.nj.gov/education/legal/>. There, an Abbott district (now referred to as an SDA district) contended that early childhood funding provided by the Department was insufficient, asserting alternatively that the district did not receive what the SFRA promised, or that the SFRA unconstitutionally offered it an insufficient amount of funding to permit it to deliver mandated pre-school services to its students. Unfair local tax burdens were not the central issue. Elizabeth thus offers these school district petitioners no solace.

The petitioners' reliance on Abbott XXI is likewise misplaced. The petitioning Boards urge that Abbott XXI reflects an evolution in the concept of standing, because in dicta the decision references "the importance of a predictable stream of education funding for any school district." Abbott v. Burke, 206 N.J. 332 at 370. But Abbott XXI dealt only with the aftermath of a legislative failure to fully fund the SFRA formula; it offers no precedential ruling concerning the standing of local school Boards to assert unfair local taxation claims.[3] I am accordingly unable to agree that Abbott XXI supports the claims of these petitioning districts that "now...school districts themselves have been granted entitlements adequate to form the basis for standing" for a claim that centers on inequities in local funding of schools.

The T & E Claim

But I must afford every inference to these petitioners, and I of course acknowledge that the petition does allege that programmatic cuts will flow from the controverted changes in the SFRA funding formula. In Stubaus the petitioning school districts were held to lack standing in large part because their petition did not allege that the funding system then at issue resulted in program inadequacy or educational inequality. I CONCLUDE that the school board petitioners have standing to raise claims of educational adequacy and inequality.

But their claims are not viable. The SFRA as amended, like any statute, is presumed valid. Stubaus v. Whitman, 339 N.J. Super. 38 at 52, citing In re CVS Pharmacy Wayne, 116 N.J. 490 (1989). These petitioners carry a heavy burden. Ibid;

[3] The plaintiffs in Abbott were school children. Standing was addressed only vis-à-vis the request that the relief sought extend to students outside the Abbott districts. The Court rejected the notion that its jurisdiction extended beyond the rights of the plaintiff class before it.

Smith v Penta, 81 N.J. 65 (1979). And as respondents correctly urge, a properly pled deprivation of T & E would allege that the students in the subject districts are not being equipped for their roles as citizens and competitors in the marketplace. Abbott v. Burke, 119 N.J. 287, 313 (1990) (Abbott II).

This pleading makes no claims of constitutional dimension. These non-Abbott districts allege that staff will be cut; courtesy bussing will be discontinued; half-day kindergarten would be reinstituted; increases would be made in class size; course offerings reduced; and limitations placed on some extra-curricular offerings as a result of the amendments to the SFRA. To their constituents, and to these Boards, these cuts potentially affect the quality of the education that is delivered to their children. It is not the intent of this decision to minimize or trivialize this legitimate concern. But these Boards cannot rely on the Abbott v. Burke cases to support their contention that the SFRA as amended is unconstitutional. The educational disparity Abbott was concerned with readily dwarfs the claims raised here. The following excerpt from Abbott II hammers home this point:

> In an elementary school in Paterson, the children eat lunch in a small area in the boiler room area of the basement; remedial classes are taught in a former bathroom. In one Irvington school, children attend music classes in a storage room and remedial classes in converted closets. At another school in Irvington a coal bin was converted into a classroom. In one elementary school in East Orange, there is no cafeteria, and the children eat lunch in shifts in the first 1 floor corridor. In one school in Jersey City, built in 1900, the library is a converted cloakroom; the nurse's office has no bathroom or waiting room; the lighting is inadequate; the bathrooms have no hot water (only the custodial office and nurse's office have hot water); there is water damage inside the building because of cracks in the facade; and the heating system is inadequate.
> [Abbott v. Burke, 119 N.J. 287 at 363.]

Respondents argue that T & E "is student focused and to allege a deprivation of T & E requires a demonstration that the students' educational opportunities are so deficient as to jeopardize their futures." They assert that petitioners' allegations "are insufficient for a T &E claim." I agree. I moreover concur that if the petitioning Boards would like more generous State aid, "their argument should more appropriately be made to the legislature." Stubaus v. Whitman, 339 N.J. Super. 38 at 56.

Moreover, and importantly, inequitable local taxation cannot form the basis of a viable constitutional claim under the T & E clause. Stubaus v Whitman, 339 N.J. Super. 38 at 52-57. Our Supreme Court has "rejected the argument that T & E mandates statewide equality of tax burdens and [has] interpreted T & E to ensure equal educational opportunity, but not taxpayer equality." Id. at 53, citing Robinson v. Cahill, 62 N.J. 473 (1973)(Robinson I). The State is obliged to provide public school children "an equal educational opportunity." Robinson v. Cahill, 62 N.J. 473 at 513. But it can "meet its obligation by financing education either on a statewide basis with funds provided by the State, or, in whole or in part, by delegating the fiscal obligation to local taxation." Robinson v. Cahill, 69 N.J. 133, 142 (1975) (Robinson IV), citing Robinson v. Cahill, 62 N.J. 473 at 519.

If local funding for these schools was unavailable, there might be a different outcome here. But the petitioning school Boards do not aver with any specificity that they will be unable to raise the local taxes needed to deliver T & E. They allege, in passing, that "in some instances" districts would be "unable to [raise local taxes] altogether because of the State-imposed cap on property tax increases." But the petition does not indicate whether or how a cap would directly impact any of the named petitioners, or specifically how that cap would affect the delivery of essential programming. I CONCLUDE that, to the extent the petition alleges that the SFRA as amended denies students in the petitioning districts access to T & E, it fails to state a claim and must be dismissed.

The Claim that the Funding Promised by the Pre-amendment SFRA is Likewise Promised by the New Jersey Constitution

The petition alleges that the SFRA amendments have resulted in "underfunding," and that the petitioning Boards are entitled to the State aid that would have been available under the version of the SFRA found facially constitutional in Abbott XX. They argue that the amendments to the SFRA "on its face and as applied, [are] a repetition of the Legislature's failures highlighted in Abbott XXI .... [that the amendments] constitute a failure by the State to honor its Abbott XX obligations to fund its SFRA obligations." But respondents reply persuasively that the SFRA was declared constitutional relative only as to the claims of educational inequality made by the Abbott districts. These petitioners are not Abbott districts; accordingly, their reliance on Abbott XXI is once again misplaced. The Court held that > ...plaintiffs can look in vain for support in Abbott XX for a finding that the failure to provide full funding of SFRA to any district is the equivalent of the constitutional violation previously litigated and found to exist for children in the Abbott districts... in the prior application that led to the Abbott XX holding, we specifically declined to recognize that pupils from any district other than the Abbott districts were before us when taking up the question of the SFRA's facial constitutionality.

> [Abbott v. Burke, 206 N.J. 332 at 370 (Abbott XXI).]

Abbott XXI thus lends no support to petitioners' contention that they are constitutionally entitled to the level of funding they would have received under the unamended SFRA.[4] I CONCLUDE that the school district petitioners have not raised a viable claim that their State aid was "underfunded."

The Taxpayer

Taxpayer Stephanie Wohlrab has standing to bring her claims of unfair taxation, and standing to assert that the amendments to the SFRA will deny her children T & E. Notwithstanding, she has failed to state a claim for the reasons discussed above. Unlike the municipal and school board petitioners, as a citizen, Wohlrab may bring an equal protection claim. Accordingly, it is necessary to address the allegations of the fourth count on its merits. I CONCLUDE that Wohlrab has failed to state a viable equal protection claim.

[4] The petition in paragraphs 32 and 33 avers that the State aid figures received by the petitioning districts were less than those included in the Governor's budget message. Respondents interpret these paragraphs as alleging that moneys promised by the SFRA were not properly appropriated. If this indeed is what the petition alleges, these claims "run directly into the holdings of" Camden v Byrne, 82 N.J. 133 (1980) and Karcher v Kean, 97 N.J. 483 (1984). Abbott v. Burke, 206 N.J. 332 at 370 (Abbott XXI). The Court has confirmed that "even though local government might find itself 'handcuffed' by statutory fiscal limitations, [the] Court is 'powerless to remove those handcuffs'." Camden v Byrne, 82 N.J. 133 at 157, citing N.J. State Policemen's Bene. Ass'n. Local 29 v. Irvington, 80 N.J. 271 (1979). The statutory fiscal constraints imposed on these petitioners is a matter of legislative, not judicial prerogative. Ibid.

New Jersey's equal protection clause provides that "[a]ll persons are by nature free and independent, and have certain natural and unalienable rights, among which are those of enjoying and defending life and liberty, of acquiring, possessing, and protecting property, and of pursuing and obtaining safety and happiness." N.J. Const. art. I, para. 1. The equal protection clause "prohibits the State from adopting statutory classifications that treat similarly situated people differently." Stubaus v. Whitman, 339 N.J. Super. 38 at 57, citing Sanchez v. Dep't of Human Servs., 314 N.J. Super. 11 (App. Div. 1998). Equal protection claims under the New Jersey Constitution are analyzed using a "balancing test to determine whether there is an appropriate governmental interest that is suitably furthered by the differential treatment." Stubaus v. Whitman, 338 N.J. Super. 38 at 60, citing In re Charter School Application of Englewood, 320 N.J. Super. 174, 237 (App. Div. 1999). Courts look to "the nature of the affected right, the extent to which the governmental restriction intrudes upon it, and the public need for the restriction." Ibid., citing Greenberg v. Kimmelman, 99 N.J. 552 (1985). Here, Wohlrab contends that the SFRA funding formula will cause an increase in her property taxes and an unequal tax burden; that she will be required to pay more than her "fair share" to support the public schools. Like the Stubaus plaintiffs, she contends that the "range of property tax rates establishes a 'present system of school funding [which] is irrational and grossly discriminatory'." Stubaus v. Whitman, 339 N.J. Super. 38 at 56-7.

Stubaus discusses at length the reluctance of the Robinson v. Cahill and Abbott v. Burke Courts to analyze school funding disputes on equal protection grounds. Stubaus observes that > [t]he Court in Robinson I was unwilling to analyze the problem under equal protection because such an approach could raise questions regarding the delivery of all municipal services. In other words, if inequality in educational services among the various school districts in the State violated equal protection, it was an easy step to argue that so also would be unconstitutional any inequality among municipalities delivering fire, police and other services. The Court refused to mount this slippery slope, and instead turned the case on the T & E clause.

> [Stubaus v. Whitman, 339 N.J. Super. 38 at 57.]

As Stubaus points out, thereafter, every court called upon to review the funding of public education has relied exclusively on the T & E clause. Abbott II reiterated "the monumental governmental upheaval that would result if the equal protection doctrine were held applicable to the financing of education..." Stubaus v. Whitman, 339 N.J. Super. 38 at 58, citing Abbott v Burke, 119 N.J. 287, 390 (1990). The Stubaus court thus declined to allow the case before it to continue on equal protection grounds, stating "[w]e have unease about pronouncing a willingness to decide the claim on an equal protection basis, and we conclude that we remain bound by Robinson I and reject any attempt to project equal protection into the school funding dispute." Ibid. I accordingly will do likewise, and CONCLUDE that the equal protection claims of the fourth count must be dismissed.

T.H. on behalf of minor child, H.H., petitioner, pro se

Joseph F. Betley, Esq., for respondent (Capehart and Scatchard, P.A., attorneys)

BEFORE SUSAN L. OLGIATI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner T.H., parent of minor child, H.H., challenges the decision of the Washington Township Board of Education (the Board) removing H.H. from Washington Township High School (WTHS) and placing her in the Ombudsman Alternative Program. Petitioner seeks to overturn the Board's decision and have H.H. return to WTHS.[1]

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner prepared a request for emergent relief which was received by the Department of Education, Office of Controversies & Disputes on September 11, 2019. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 12, 2019. Oral argument on the request for emergent relief was held on September 18, 2019.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

H.H. is in the ninth grade and currently attends the Ombudsman Alternative Program in Washington Township.

During the 2018-2019 school year, H.H. was an eighth grade student at Bunker Hill Middle School (BHMS). On May 30, 2019, following investigation of an in-school incident, H.H. was placed on a ten-day out-of-school suspension. The incident giving rise to the suspension arose out of student reports alleging that during class, H.H. took out a pair of Cutco kitchen scissors and began sharpening them while staring at her classmates and making various threatening remarks. In addition to disciplinary charges, school officials filed a police report regarding the incident. H.H. was placed on home instruction effective May 31, 2019. As H.H. is a student with a Section 504 plan, a manifestation determination meeting was held on June 5, 2019. H.H.'s actions were deemed not to be a manifestation of her disability and the school administration recommended that the suspension stand. [2]

[1] Petitioner also sought dismissal of the "felony charges" against H.H. See P-A. Aside from the charges being an issue over which this tribunal has no jurisdiction, the juvenile court charges against H.H. were adjudicated via a Civil Action Order, issued on September 11, 2019, thus, this aspect of the requested relief is now moot.

A disciplinary hearing before the Board was scheduled for June 17, 2019. The parties agreed to adjourn the hearing and the matter was rescheduled for August 19, 2019. At the rescheduled disciplinary hearing, petitioner was represented by counsel, and T.H. and H.H.'s grandmother spoke on her behalf. By letter dated August 21, 2019, petitioner was advised of the results of the disciplinary hearing, including but not limited to, that the Board had, sustained the disciplinary charges against H.H., approved her removal from WTHS for the first semester[3] of the 2019-2020 school year, and approved her placement in the Ombudsman Program.

On September 11, 2019, T.H. entered a guilty plea to the downgraded charge of harassment. Pursuant to the Civil Action Order issued by the Honorable George H. Gangloff, Jr., JSC, T.H. received a deferred disposition on the juvenile charges for a period of twelve months (until September 10, 2020). The disposition/conditions of probation include: "the juvenile to follow all recommendations of court ordered evaluation(s); attend school with no unexcused absences or tardiness or suspension; cooperation with CMO; and Other: no new charges." P-F.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), emergent relief may be granted if the judge determines from the proofs that each of the following elements have been established:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;

[2] At oral argument, on the requested emergent relief, petitioner asserted that she was unaware she had a right to appeal the manifestation determination. Petitioner similarly indicated that she was unaware she had a right to appeal the recent determination that H.H. was not eligible for special education services.

[3] At oral argument, the parties acknowledged that the first semester ends on February 3, 2020.

2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;

3. The petitioner has the likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

The petitioner has the burden of establishing all of the above required elements to warrant relief in her favor and must prove each of the Crowe elements "clearly and convincingly." Waste Mgmt. of N.J. v. Union Cnty. Utils. Auth., 399 N.J. Super. 508, 520 (App. Div. 2008); D.I. and S.I. on behalf of T.I. v. Monroe Township Board of Education, 2017 N.J.Agen LEXIS 814, 7 (October 25, 2017).

As to the first element, petitioner must show that irreparable harm will result if emergent relief is not granted, "irreparable harm" is defined as the type of harm "that cannot be redressed adequately by monetary damages." Crowe, 90 N.J. at 132-33. In addition, the irreparable harm standard contemplates that the harm be both substantial and immediate. Subcarrier Communications v. Day, 229 N.J. Super. 634, 638 (App. Div. 1977). The threshold standard for irreparable harm in education matters is showing that once something is lost, it cannot be regained. M.L. ex rel. S.L. v. Bd. of Educ. of Ewing, EDU 4949-09, Initial Decision (June 15, 2009), modified, Acting Comm'r (June 15, 2009), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/ collections/oal/. The analysis to be used is that if compensatory education, provided at a later date, cannot remedy the situation, then the harm is irreparable. Howell Twp. Bd. of Educ. v. A.I. & J.I. ex rel. S.I., 2011 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 2017, (Order Granting Emergent Relief), (May 2, 2012).

Petitioner argues that the harm suffered by H.H. will include falling severely behind in her studies. Petitioner contends the Ombudsman Program is self-taught, on-line learning and that H.H. needs to learn under the instruction of a board certified teacher. Petitioner also argues that H.H. will suffer increased anxiety and depression due to social isolation. Petitioner further argues that H.H. will suffer harm because she is required to attend the afternoon session of the Ombudsman Program and that her medication wears off by midday.[4] At oral argument on the requested emergent relief, petitioner also argued that H.H.'s Section 504 plan has not been implemented. [5]

Respondent argued that petitioner has not demonstrated immediate irreparable harm as there has been no denial or break in educational services to H.H. Respondent argued that petitioner's claim of irreparable harm is mere speculation of future harm and that petitioner's dislike of the Ombudsman Program, an accredited alternative education program within the district, is not evidence of irreparable harm.

Here, petitioner expressed genuine concern regarding her daughter's well-being and the appropriateness of her placement in the Ombudsman's Program. However, the concerns regarding H.H's academic performance and the impact upon her mental health are at this point, speculative and based on petitioner's subjective belief of future harm. While sincere, petitioner's claims, are not supported by any competent evidence from academic or medical professionals. Moreover, the alleged harm is not irreparable because it can be addressed through the provision of compensatory educational and/or related services at a future date.

During oral argument, petitioner also raised new issues regarding the Ombudsman Program, including claims that a student requested H.H. to perform oral sex, and that other students offered H.H. drugs and introduced her to "vaping." Petitioner advised that she brought these claims to the attention of the administration. Counsel for the Board responded that these claims had been looked into and that certain action had been taken to separate H.H. from the other students. To the extent that petitioner, raised new claims which appear to be beyond the scope of the request for emergent relief, petitioner should continue to bring her concerns to the [4] On September 19, 2019, counsel for the Board provided this ALJ with a copy of an email from counsel to T.H., dated September 19, 2019, confirming that the Ombudsman Program has agreed to accommodate petitioner's request to have H.H. moved to the morning session. Thus, it would appear this aspect of petitioner's claim of irreparable harm no longer exits.

[5] In his September 19, 2019, email to T.H., counsel for the Board, also advised T.H. that he is looking into "the 504 issues as well."

respondent/Ombudsman Program administrator and the parties are encouraged to continue to discuss such issues pending a full hearing on petitioner's due process underlying claims.

For the above reasons, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to meet her burden of establishing a clear showing that H.H. will suffer immediate irreparable harm unless the requested relief is granted.

Next, in order to obtain emergent relief, the petitioner must also demonstrate that the legal right underlying her claim is settled and must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of success on the merits. Crowe, 90 N.J. at 133. Petitioner seeks to overturn the decision of the Board which led to H.H.'s suspension, temporary removal from WTHS, and placement in the Ombudsman Program. Actions within a school board's authority, including establishing policies for student discipline, are entitled to a presumption of validity and will not be overturned in the absence of an affirmative showing that the decision was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Thomas v. Morris Twp. Board of Education, 89 N.J.Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd, 46 N.J. 581 (1966). The arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable standard of review imposes a heavy burden on challengers of board actions. This standard has been defined by New Jersey courts as follows:

> In the law, "arbitrary" and "capricious" means having no rational basis. Arbitrary and capricious action of administrative bodies means willful and unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances. Where there is no room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached . . . Moreover, the court should not substitute its judgment for that of an administrative or legislative body if there is substantial evidence to support the ruling.
> [Piccoli v. Ed. of Educ. of Ramapo Indian Hills Regional School District, EDU 1839-98, Initial Decision, (January 22, 1999) http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html (citing Bayshore Sewage Co. v. Dent. of Envir. Protection, 122 N.J.

Super. 184, 199-200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974)).]

The petitioner's legal right to challenge the Board's decision is well-established; therefore, I CONCLUDE that she has met her burden as to this element.

To obtain emergent relief, petitioner must also demonstrate a reasonable probability of success on the merits. Petitioner challenges the Board's action on the basis that H.H. was not provided due process. Despite her claims, the evidence admitted into the record at oral argument suggests that petitioner was properly afforded due process in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.3. Further, despite petitioner's continued denial that H.H. engaged in the conduct alleged, H.H. pleaded guilty to downgraded charges of harassment. Based upon the Civil Action Order issued on September 11, 2019, H.H. received a deferred disposition which will result in the charges being dismissed on September 10, 2020, assuming the conditions of probation have been met. Further, petitioner's belief that H.H.'s placement in the Ombudsman Program amounts to excessive or unwarranted discipline and that H.H. has already been sufficiently punished by her two-week suspension and being prevented from attending end of the year, eighth grade activities does not render the Board's decision arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable.

For the above reasons, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to demonstrate a reasonable probability of success on the merits.

Finally, to demonstrate an entitlement to emergent relief, petitioner must also show that when balancing the relative equities and interests of the parties, she will suffer the greater harm if relief is not granted. Petitioner argues that H.H. will suffer the greater harm if she is not returned to the WTHS and that respondent will suffer no harm as H.H. is just one additional student to educate. Conversely, the Board argues that it has a substantial and valid interest in ensuring the safe and orderly operation of the activities of its' schools.

Here, the balance weighs in favor of the Board over H.H. because a ruling to the contrary could undermine respondent's authority and have a far reaching effect on its dealings with its students. See L.B. o/b/o S.C. v. Hamilton Township Board of Education, EDS 08561-17, Final Decision, (June 22, 2017) http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html. Therefore, in balancing the equities and interests of the parties, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to meet her burden to show that H.H. will suffer the greater harm if the requested relief is not granted.

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to meet all four of the required elements set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), as a result, she is not entitled to the emergent relief requested.

ORDER

Accordingly, I ORDER that the petitioner's application for emergent relief is hereby DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Order on Emergent Relief

Michael Rich,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of North Brunswick, Middlesex County,

Respondent.

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed.[1] Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to the standards enunciated in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief is adopted. This matter shall continue at the OAL with such proceedings as the parties and the ALJ deem necessary to bring it to closure.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 10/31/19
Date of Mailing: 10/31/19

[1] Petitioner submitted exceptions to the Order on October 28, 2019. N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 permits the filing of exceptions to an initial decision, but no provision of the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules allows for exceptions to an Order Denying Emergent Relief. Accordingly, petitioner's submission was not considered.

MICHAEL J. RICH,
Petitioner,
v.
NORTH BRUNSWICK BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Nicholas Poberezhsky, Esq. for petitioner (Caruso, Smith, Picini, P.C., attorneys)

Adam S. Weiss, Esq. for respondent, Ari D. Schneider, Esq. on the brief (Busch Law Group, LLC, attorneys)

BEFORE DAVID M. FRITCH, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The petitioner, Michael Rich, filed a petition on an emergent basis to enjoin the respondent North Brunswick Board of Education (NBBOE), his former employer, from continuing to disclose that he resigned his former teaching position with the respondent while under investigation for sexual misconduct, and to rescind any such disclosures previously made to other New Jersey school districts where he is seeking employment.

The respondent contends that disclosing this information to other school districts considering hiring the petitioner is a mandatory statutory obligation pursuant to New Jersey's "Pass the Trash" law.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 2, 2019, the New Jersey Department of Education received the petition for emergent relief. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was filed on October 3, 2019. N.J.S.A. 52:14F-5(e), (f), and (g) and N.J.A.C. 1:6A-1 through 18.5. Oral argument on the petition for emergent relief was held on October 7, 2019.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

A summary of the pertinent evidence presented is as follows, and I FIND the following FACTS:

1. On or about September 1, 2014, the petitioner was hired by the respondent to serve as a certified special education teacher of science at North Brunswick Township High School (NBTHS). (Pet. Br. at ¶ 1.)

2. The petitioner continued to work at NBTHS in this capacity and his contract for employment was renewed by the respondent for the 2019-20 school year. (Id. at ¶ 2.)

3. On or about May 22, 2019, the petitioner was working at NBTHS. (Id. at ¶ 12.) Around noon that day, a female NBTHS student came into the petitioner's classroom while he was working to prepare chemistry examination materials. (Id. at ¶ 14.) The student was sixteen or seventeen years old and was a former student of the petitioner's who was on her lunch period at the time.

4. The student came into the petitioner's classroom and approached his desk. (Ibid.) The respondent asserts that the petitioner then took the student's hand, "kissed it, and told her he loved her." (Resp. Br. at ¶ 2.)

a. The petitioner's version of this incident is that, because he did not have time to talk to the student at the time, when she reached over the desk to shake his hand, the petitioner took her hand, "placed his left hand on top of hers and, in jest, kissed the back of his own left hand. He then quickly pulled his hands away, said 'love ya,' and waved her goodbye." (Pet. Br. at ¶ 14.) Petitioner claims that this was, "in essence, a polite way of asking [the student] to leave." (Ibid.)

5. Based on this incident, on June 17, 2019, the respondent notified the petitioner that they intended to terminate his employment during the executive session at its next meeting. (Pet. Br. at ¶ 3.)

6. The petitioner tendered his resignation to the respondent on or about June 18, 2019, and his resignation was accepted by the respondent via official resolution approximately one week later. (Pet Br. at ¶ 5.)

a. By doing so, the petitioner waived his right to have the teacher's association file a grievance to challenge his termination from NBTHS. (Id. at ¶ 7.)

b. By tendering his resignation in lieu of termination, the petitioner believed he was improving his future employment prospects since "school board employers are generally hesitant to consider applicants who were terminated from their previous place of employment." (Id. at ¶ 6.)

7. Following his resignation from NBTHS, the petitioner was hired by the Monroe Township School District (MTSD) to serve as a special education teacher in August 2019. (Pet. Br. at ¶ 8.)

8. During a training seminar for MTSD on August 28, 2019, the petitioner was called to the superintendent's office. (Id. at ¶ 9.) The superintendent informed the petitioner that "upon receipt of new information" MTSD had decided to rescind its offer of employment and the petitioner was immediately discharged and sent home. (Ibid.)

a. The petitioner asserts that this "new information" received by MTSD was a disclosure made by the respondent pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-6.7, et seq., that he was the subject of an investigation into sexual misconduct that was not determined to be false. (Id. at ¶ 11.)

b. The petitioner believes that this disclosure is based on the incident at NBTHS on May 22, 2019. (Id. at ¶ 12.)

9. The respondent notified MTSD about their investigation of the petitioner's conduct of May 22, 2019. (Resp. Br. at 5.) The respondent asserts that they reasonably determined that "its investigation of [the p]etitioner's alleged conduct, which included kissing and stating 'I love you' to a female student, was a 'sexual misconduct investigation' as defined by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.6 and -7.7" and their disclosures to MTSD regarding this investigation were required by law. (Id. at 6—7 (citing N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.7).)

10. The petitioner asserts that the alleged conduct "does not rise to the level of 'sexual misconduct' as the term is defined" in the relevant statutes which the respondent cites to as the justification for their disclosures to MTSD. (Pet. Br. at ¶ 18.) The petitioner claims that the respondent "had no right to disclose" this information to MTSD that he "was the subject of a sexual misconduct investigation." (Id. at ¶ 18.)

a. The petitioner requested that the respondent retract its disclosure to MTSD and stop making disclosures of this nature to future prospective employers. (Id. at ¶ 20.) The respondent refused, citing to its obligations under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.5—7.9. (See Resp. Br. at 8.)

b. The petitioner claims that the respondent's actions are causing him "severe, immediate, and irreparable harm," by tarnishing his professional reputation, making him unable to secure employment at other school districts, and causing him financial harm. (Pet. Br. at ¶ 21.)

LEGAL DISCUSSION

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) sets forth the standards governing motions for emergent relief:

> A motion for stay or emergent relief shall be accompanied by a letter memorandum or brief which shall address the following standards to be met for granting such relief pursuant to Crowe v. Degioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982):
>
> 1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
> 2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;
> 3. The petitioner has the likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
> 4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

The petitioner has the burden of establishing all of the above requirements in order to warrant relief in his favor and must prove each of these Crowe elements "clearly and convincingly." Waste Mgmt. of N.J. v. Union Cnty. Utils. Auth., 399 N.J. Super. 508, 520 (App. Div. 2008); D.I. and S.I. on behalf of T.I. v. Monroe Township Board of Education, 2017 N.J.Agen LEXIS 814, 7 (October 25, 2017).

Beginning with the first requirement, it is well-settled that emergent relief should not be granted except "when necessary to prevent irreparable harm." Crowe, 90 N.J. at 132-33. In this regard, harm is generally considered irreparable if it cannot be adequately redressed by monetary damages. Id. at 132-33. In other words, it has been described as "substantial injury to a material degree coupled with the inadequacy of money damages." Judice's Sunshine Pontiac v. General Motors Corp., 418 F.Supp. 1212, 1218 (D.N.J. 1976) (citation omitted).

The moving party bears the burden of proving irreparable harm. More than a risk of irreparable harm must be demonstrated. Continental Group v. Amoco Chemicals Corp., 614 F.2d 351, 359 (D.N.J. 1980). In this case, the petitioner claims a loss of employment opportunities at MTSD, and other potential future employers, which creates "extreme financial distress." (Pet. Br. at ¶ 21.) The irreparable harm requirement, however, cannot be satisfied where monetary relief is capable of adequately addressing the alleged harm. Crowe, 90 N.J. at 132–33. The loss of job opportunities and earning prospects can be compensated adequately by monetary damages awarded after a plenary hearing, making the harm in this matter not considered irreparable to justify the emergent relief sought. Id. at 133 (finding "reduction to poverty can be compensated adequately by monetary damages awarded after a distant plenary hearing" and not justification for emergent relief). Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to meet their burden of establishing a clear showing that he will suffer immediate irreparable injury unless the requested relief is granted.

Secondly, the petitioner must also demonstrate that the legal right underlying their claim is settled. Crowe, 90 N.J. at 133. The respondent's disclosures at issue in this matter were made subject to New Jersey's recently enacted "Pass the Trash" law, which set forth guidelines to ensue that teachers, administrators, and vendors who come into contact with students have not been previously accused of or convicted of abusive or predatory conduct prior to their hiring. The law requires school districts and others who hire persons serving in positions with regular contact with students to review potential employees' prior employment history, including determining if the potential employee:

> (a) Was the subject of any child abuse or sexual misconduct investigation by any employer, State licensing agency, law enforcement agency, or the Department of Children and Families, unless the investigation resulted in a > finding that the allegations were false or the alleged incident of child abuse or sexual misconduct was not substantiated;

> (b) Was disciplined, discharged, nonrenewed, asked to resign from employment, resigned from or otherwise separated from any employment while allegations of child abuse or sexual misconduct were pending or under investigation, or due to an adjudication or finding of child abuse or sexual misconduct;
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.7.]

In addition, the law requires prior employers, like the respondent, who have had an employment relationship with these potential employees to disclose the information requested to the new school employer within twenty days of receiving the request. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.9(a). The petitioner alleges that the application of this statute's reporting provisions to the May 22, 2019, incident is improper because the allegations, even if accepted as true, do not rise to the "level of 'sexual misconduct' as the term is defined in the statute." (Pet. Br. at ¶ 18.) The relevant statute broadly defines "sexual misconduct" as follows:

> "Sexual misconduct" means any verbal, nonverbal, written, or electronic communication, or any other act directed toward or with a student that is designed to establish a sexual relationship with the student, including a sexual invitation, dating or soliciting a date, engaging in sexual dialogue, making sexually suggestive comments, self-disclosure or physical exposure of a sexual or erotic nature, and any other sexual, indecent or erotic contact with a student.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.6]

The governing statutes became effective in June 2018, making interpretation of these statutes largely a case of first impression without the benefit of governing precedent to apply the intentionally broad language of the statute to specific conduct situations. Whether the alleged conduct fits within the statutory definition of "sexual misconduct" is, by its nature, a fact-intensive question. Factors, including the context of the alleged interaction between the petitioner and the student, and consideration of the relative power imbalance inherent in a student-teacher relationship all play a role in evaluation of the propriety of the conduct at issue and these facts are not available for consideration in the limited factual record available in this petition for emergent relief. In light of the lack of available caselaw and the myriad of factors to be considered, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has not met his burden to show a well-settled legal right underpins his claim.

The petitioner must also sustain their burden to make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of success on the merits of their claim. Crowe, 90 N.J. at 133. The respondent, in taking its action against the petitioner in June 2019, found the petitioner's conduct sufficiently egregious to justify termination proceedings. The petitioner, rather than challenging the respondent's determination on this matter, opted to resign from his position in order to "avoid having a 'termination' on his record." (Pet. Br. at ¶ 5.) The petitioner stated that he submitted his resignation under the circumstances to aid his employment prospects with future school employers "as school board employers are generally hesitant to consider applicants who were terminated from their previous place of employment." (Id. at ¶ 6.)

While the petitioner asserts the allegations, even if accepted as true, do not rise to the "level of 'sexual misconduct'" to invoke the reporting requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.7 (Pet. Br. at ¶ 18), the conduct at issue, namely a male teacher grasping a female student's hand, manipulating her hand towards his lips and either kissing or feigning a kiss on the student's hand, and telling the student "love ya" is clearly inappropriate conduct which could, on its face and in the absence of appropriate context to demonstrate otherwise, be viewed as conduct which attempts to improperly sexualize the student-teacher relationship. See, e.g., James Dunckley v. Board of Education Rockaway Township, Morris County, 2018 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 615 (App. Div. March 19, 2018) (finding male teacher touching female students on the back, shoulder, arms, and hair "inappropriate behavior towards female students that appears designed to impose [his] will, gratify [his] perverse impulses, humiliate the student, and sexualize the student-teacher relationship"). On this record as developed at this stage in the proceedings, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to meet his burden to demonstrate a reasonable probability of success on the merits.

Finally, in balancing the relative equities of the parties' respective positions, this type of situation, where a school employee resigns while under investigation for allegations of possible sexual misconduct with the goal of preserving his future employment prospects with another school district by concealing the circumstances surrounding his resignation appear to be exactly the type of employee-shifting that New Jersey's "Pass the Trash" legislation is designed to combat. The petitioner faced credible allegations of improper conduct involving touching, kissing, and a verbal expression of "love" towards a minor student. Based upon these allegations, his school district employer took action to investigate them and to terminate the petitioner's employment. Rather than challenge the respondent's adverse employment action, the petitioner resigned his position, and quickly secured a teaching position with another New Jersey school district that was unaware of the circumstances surrounding his resignation from his former school district.

Although the petitioner argues that the respondent is improperly notifying potential employers that he was investigated for sexual misconduct when the conduct alleged does not qualify under the statutory definition of sexual misconduct, the statutory disclosure provisions go further than merely affirming the existence of an investigation or allegation. The statute also requires potential school district employers to make a full inquiry to ascertain the details of any reported information. See N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.10(a) (requiring an employer, after receiving an affirmative response to their inquiries about a prospective employee's history, to "make further inquiries of the applicant's current or former employer to ascertain additional details regarding the matter disclosed" before continuing with the potential employee's job application process). This system of disclosures means that MTSD, and any future potential school employer had, and will continue to have, the full opportunity to evaluate the details of the petitioner's employment history at NBTHS and the incident in question to permit them to make a fully-informed evaluation of the petitioner's conduct in considering him for potential employment rather than relying only on the respondent's characterization of the allegations at issue as "sexual misconduct."

While the petitioner argues that the respondent "would suffer no harm whatsoever" if they were enjoined from making further disclosures regarding the petitioner's prior employment, the respondent is a public school employer that regularly hires teachers and others who have regular contact with students. As a public school district, the respondent has an interest in maintaining the trust that its students' parents have placed in them, and that trust is furthered by the system of disclosures between school employers that New Jersey's "Pass the Trash" statutes require. These disclosures are critical in helping school districts like the respondent protect their students and others from potential predatory teachers who move from school to school due to failures of their prior school district employers to disclose prior sexual misconduct investigations and allegations. (Pet. Br. at 5.) Against this potential harm of undermining this disclosure system which supports not only the respondent, but all school employers in New Jersey, is balanced the petitioner's interest in preserving his future employment prospects by hiding his actions which led to his resignation in lieu of termination from his prior teaching position at NBTHS from disclosure to potential school district employers. As the respondent notes in its briefing, the consequences that the petitioner is now facing are "entirely attributable" to his own conduct with a student at NBTHS on May 22, 2019, and his subsequent decision to resign his position there in lieu of termination. (Resp. Br. at 9.) In balancing of the respective equities, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to meet his burden to demonstrate that he will suffer greater harm than the respondent if the requested relief is not granted.

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to meet the requirements set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) warranting an order for emergent relief in this matter.

ORDER

Accordingly, I ORDER that the petitioner's application for emergent relief be and hereby is DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SEPARATION OF EMPLOYMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

This Separation of Employment Agreement and Release (hereinafter the "Agreement") is made and entered this ___ day of September, 2019 by and between BONNIE HUSTON (hereinafter "Huston"), the SADDLE RIVER EDUCATION ASSOCIATION (hereinafter the "Union") and the SADDLE RIVER BOARD OF EDUCATION (hereinafter the "Board") (collectively the "Parties"), according to the following:

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, the Board is a body politic and corporate, organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey, N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, which is entrusted with maintaining and conducting the public schools of the Saddle River School District; and

WHEREAS, HUSTON is currently employed as a Teacher with the Saddle River Board of Education and is a member of the Union; and

WHEREAS, HUSTON has acquired tenure in her position as a Teacher pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5; and

WHEREAS, on April 24, 2019, the Board passed a resolution, effective the 2019-2020 school year, which reduced HUSTON's employment for the 2019-2020 school year from seven-tenths (7/10) of full time to six-tenths (6/10) of full time as part of a Reduction in Force ("RIF"); and

WHEREAS, on June 12, 2019, the Board rescinded its April 24, 2019 resolution that reduced HUSTON'S position; and

WHEREAS, on or about July 12, 2019, HUSTON filed a Verified Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education, assigned Agency Docket No. 166-7/19, in which she disputed the Board's April 24, 2019 action; and

WHEREAS, the Board filed an Answer in response to HUSTON's Verified Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education on or about August 13, 2019; and

WHEREAS, the Board, the Union and HUSTON have engaged in good faith discussions concerning HUSTON's separation from employment with the Board and have reached an Agreement that is in the best interests of the parties, which they wish to memorialize herein; and

WHEREAS, the Board, the Union and HUSTON wish to fully and finally resolve all the issues between them respecting her employment, of any kind whatsoever, whether known or unknown, which either Party may have against the other in this Agreement.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants and promises contained herein, the legal sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged by the Parties, the Board, the Union and HUSTON agree as follows:

1. SEPARATION FROM EMPLOYMENT

HUSTON will be placed on sabbatical leave for the 2019-2020 school year, which shall begin on September 1, 2019, and continue through June 30, 2020. During her sabbatical for the 2019-2020 school year, the Board will provide HUSTON full time pay (1.0 of FTE) in accordance with the rates established in the applicable collective negotiations agreement for an individual holding an BA+30 degree on Step 18 of the salary guide for the 2019-2020 school year, including health insurance benefits.

HUSTON shall be placed on another sabbatical, beginning September 1, 2020 and ending on January 15, 2021, during which time the Board shall provide HUSTON with prorated pay at the rate of one (1/2), or five-tenths (0.5 of FTE), at the rate of pay afforded for an individual holding an BA+30 degree on Step 18 of the salary guide for the 2019-2020 school year in accordance with the rates established in the applicable collective negotiations agreement until January 15, 2019. HUSTON will not be entitled to Board-provided health benefits between the period of September 1, 2020 to January 15, 2021.

The Board will make appropriate pension contributions and take ordinary withholdings for taxes, social security, disability and other withholdings as required by law from her periodic salary payments. Sabbatical payments, in accordance with Paragraph 1 herein, shall be made in accordance with the collective bargaining agreement between the Board and the Union for the pay periods applicable to this Agreement. HUSTON is not entitled to any additional payment or benefits outside of those enumerated in this Agreement.

2. HUSTON'S IRREVOCABLE RETIREMENT FROM THE BOARD

Immediately following HUSTON'S sabbatical leave, effective January 15, 2021, HUSTON will formally and irrevocably retire from her employment with the Board. Effective January 15, 2021, or HUSTON's commencement of pension eligible alternative public employment in the State of New Jersey, whichever occurs first, HUSTON shall irrevocably retire from employment as a Teacher with the Saddle River Board of Education. Nothing herein shall require Huston to file for retirement with the New Jersey Division of Pensions, Teachers Pension and Annuity Fund.

Contemporaneous with her execution of this Agreement, HUSTON shall execute her irrevocable letter of retirement from employment with the Board effective January 15, 2021, which letter is attached hereto as Exhibit A. Said letter shall be held in escrow by the Board's counsel until January 15, 2021, whereupon it shall be surrendered to the Board. However, should HUSTON accept alternative, pension eligible, public employment in the State of New Jersey prior to January 15, 2021, she shall notify the Board within seven (7) business days and provide the Board with an irrevocable letter of resignation effective on the date of her commencement of such employment. A sample of said letter is attached hereto as Exhibit B. Said letter, when presented to the Board shall void her letter of resignation effective January 15, 2021.

In the event HUSTON begins alternative, pension eligible, public employment in the State of New Jersey while she is on sabbatical, the Board will no longer be obligated to pay the salary or health benefits coverage provided herein, effective on the date of said employment. Nothing herein shall prohibit HUSTON from obtaining any other non-pension eligible or private employment during the sabbatical period or reduce the Board's salary obligation hereunder.

3. HEALTH BENEFITS

As set forth and limited by Paragraph 1 of this Agreement, the Board shall provide HUSTON with district-provided health and medical benefits between September 1, 2019 through June 30, 2020. If the Board is enrolled in the New Jersey State Health Benefits Program (NJSHBP), said health benefits shall continue through August 31, 2020 as provided by the plan. In no event shall HUSTON be entitled to Board-provided health benefits beyond June 30, 2020 unless said benefits are automatically provided by the NJSHBP. If not provided through the NJSHBP through August 31, 2020, effective June 30, 2020, HUSTON shall be removed from the Board's health benefits. She retains the right to pursue the continuation of her health benefits through the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986 ("COBRA") and will be notified as to her eligibility for COBRA by the insurance carrier and/or the New Jersey Division of Pensions and Benefits. HUSTON shall have the same COBRA rights as any other former employee and shall be solely responsible for all costs associated with said COBRA coverage. In the event HUSTON secures alternative public employment that offers health benefits prior to June 30, 2020, HUSTON will be removed from the Board's health benefits effective upon her commencement of service with the alternative public employment.

4. NO FURTHER COMPENSATION/BENEFITS

Other than as stated herein, HUSTON waives any right she may have to any other compensation emoluments of employment from the Board that otherwise may have been due to her as a result of any collective bargaining agreement, contract or Board Policy.

5. NO ADMISSIONS

The Parties agree that the entering of this Agreement and/or retirement of HUSTON does not constitute an admission of any liability, wrongdoing and/or improper conduct on the part of any party. Further, this Agreement shall not be construed as an admission by any Party or representative, of any violation of any federal or state law, administrative code, ordinance, regulation, or violation of any public policy.

6. WITHDRAWAL OF COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION APPEAL

In exchange for the covenants contained herein, HUSTON agrees to enter into a Stipulation of Dismissal, with Prejudice, of the Verified Petition of Appeal filed with the Commissioner of Education, assigned Agency Docket No. 166-7/19.

7. COMPLETE RELEASE AND MUTUAL COVENANT NOT TO SUE BY HUSTON

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner filed a pro se petition challenging the determination of the respondent Board that his child, S.S., was ineligible to receive a free public education in respondent's school district during a portion of the 2017-2018 school year. Petitioner asserted that he was domiciled in Elizabeth for 15 years but was forced to relocate to Roselle as of January 17, 2018 due to his employment situation. Petitioner returned to Elizabeth in mid-May 2018. The Board contended that petitioner and his child relocated from their Elizabeth home on or about January 3, 2018 through the end of the school year on June 25, 2018. The Board filed a counterclaim for tuition for this period of time.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) and N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a), public schools are free to any person over five and under twenty five years of age who is domiciled within the school district; in this case, petitioner relocated from Elizabeth for financial reasons and began residing in Roselle as of January 17, 2018, but returned to Elizabeth as of May 20, 2018; as petitioner was not domiciled in Elizabeth during this time period, S.S. was not entitled to attend school in the district, and tuition is owed for the period of ineligible attendance. The ALJ concluded, however, that the petitioner could only be assessed tuition for the period after the date of the Board's final notice of ineligibility, which in this case was after February 21, 2018. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered petitioner to pay tuition for a modified period of ineligibility, from February 22, 2018 to May 20, 2018, in the amount of $4,477.20, representing 56 school days at a daily tuition rate of $79.95.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that petitioner failed to sustain his burden of establishing that he was domiciled in Elizabeth from January 17, 2018 to May 20, 2018. However, the Commissioner determined that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2, the Board is entitled to tuition reimbursement for the full period of time that S.S. was ineligible to attend Elizabeth schools. Accordingly, petitioner was directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of $6,236.10 for tuition costs for the time period from January 17 through May 20, 2018. The Initial Decision of the OAL, as modified herein, was adopted as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

J.S., on behalf of minor child, S.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.[1] The parties did not file exceptions.

In this matter, petitioner is challenging the Board's determination that he did not reside in Elizabeth from January 3, 2018 to the end of the 2017-18 school year, and that the minor child was therefore ineligible to attend school in the district during that time. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that petitioner left Elizabeth and began residing in Roselle as of January 17, 2018, but returned to Elizabeth as of May 20, 2018. However, the ALJ found that petitioner should not be assessed tuition until after February 21, 2019, the date on which the Board's Notice of Final Ineligibility was sent. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered tuition reimbursement in the amount of $4,477.20, representing 56 school days from February 22, 2018 to May 20, 2018, at a daily tuition rate of $79.95.

[1] The Commissioner was not provided with a transcript of the June 14, 2019 hearing at the OAL.

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that petitioner failed to sustain his burden of establishing that he was a domiciliary of Elizabeth from January 17, 2018 to May 20, 2018, and that the minor child was, therefore, not entitled to a free public education in the District's schools during that time. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b, the Commissioner shall assess tuition against petitioner for the time period during which the minor child was ineligible to attend school in Elizabeth. However, the Commissioner notes that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2, the Commissioner may only assess tuition for "up to one year of a student's ineligible attendance in a school district prior to the appeal's filing and including the 21-day period to file an appeal." Therefore, as the ALJ found that petitioner was no longer a domiciliary of Elizabeth as of January 17, 2018, the Commissioner finds no reason to limit the Board's assessment of tuition to the date following the Notice of Final Ineligibility. The Board is entitled to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $6,236.10 ($79.95 per day for 78 days) for the time period from January 17, 2018 to May 20, 2018, during which time petitioner's minor child was ineligible to attend school in Elizabeth.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted – as modified herein – as the final decision in this matter. Petitioner is directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of $6,236.10 for tuition costs incurred during the period in which S.S. was ineligible to attend school in Elizabeth. The petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

BEFORE ERNEST M. BONGIOVANNI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner J.S., on behalf of minor child S.S., (petitioner or J.S.) appeals the residency determination and tuition due associated with it, of the respondent, Board of Education of the Township of Elizabeth, Union County (respondent or BOE).

Petitioner filed a pro se residency appeal with the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, which transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on March 29, 2018 as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15. A hearing was held on June 14, 2019, and the record left open for post hearing submissions until July 15, 2019 when the record closed. An order of extension was entered to extend the time for filing the initial decision in this matter.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

The BOE charged that at some point in the 2017-2018 school year, but no later than January 3, 2018, petitioner, J.S., S.S. a minor child, and their family changed their residency from the City of Elizabeth to Roselle. The BOE submitted essentially uncontested proofs that at some point in the 2017-2018 school year, J.S. and his family, including his child, S.S., moved out of their home in Elizabeth and relocated to a home in Roselle owned by S.S.'s mother, C.M. The school seeks the assessment for tuition for S.S.'s enrollment in Elizabeth schools from the date January 3, 2018 when a Notice of Initial Determination of Eligibility (R-2) was mailed to them until the end of the school year, June 25, 2018.

Investigator David Salnier testified that in December 2017 and January 2018, he conducted surveillance of a house in Roselle which mortgage and deed data listed it as being owned by C.M., the mother of S.S. He also checked voting information and found that C.M and J.S. were registered voters in Roselle. On two occasions he saw J.S., once with S.S., entering said residence in Roselle. On the second occasion, he confronted J.S., who admitted that while he owned a house in Elizabeth, he and his family live in Roselle. (R-1).

On or about January 3, 2018, the BOE notified J.S. of their initial determination that S.S. was ineligible for a free public education from Elizabeth schools as it determined S.S. did not reside in the district. The Initial notice advised J.S. of his right to appeal this determination to the District Board. J.S. appealed and on February 6, a contested residency determination tool place at the BOE (R-3). On February 21, 2018, the BOE issued a Notice of Final Ineligibility. (R-4) This Notice advised J.S. of his right to file an appeal within 21 days to the Commissioner of Education. The Notice stated in pertinent part.

> [I]f no appeal is filed by the 21st day following the date of this notice [S.S.] will be removed from school , you will be asked to indicate where he will be educated...and we may assess your tuition at the rate of $64.55 for each day [S.S.] attended school during this period...
> [I]f you appeal to the Commissioner but abandon your appeal through withdrawal, failure to prosecute, or any means other than settlement with the district and/or [S.S.] is found not to be entitled to free education in the district you may be assessed for any period of [S.S.] ineligible attendance, including the initial 21 day filing period and the period during which the appeal was pending before the Commissioner.

J.S. testified that he lived in and owned a home where he and S.S. resided in Elizabeth for 15 years. Owing to his "employment situation," sometime during the 2017-2018 school year, he had to "let this property go" to relocate to a house in Roselle, which was owned by C.M., who is S.S.'s mother. (R-7) He also testified that owing to his family's continued financial problems, he and C.M. then lost the Roselle home in a distress sale, after which, and still during the same school year, they moved in with R.R. who owns a home in Elizabeth, in the same school district as the former J.S. home. R.R. testified that he is a close family friend and cousin to the J.S. family. He stated that, while he was not certain of the exact date, soon after the distress sale of C.M.'s home in Roselle, the J.S. family moved in with him. The distress sale had taken place in the "first or second week of May," during which time they relocated all the home furnishings to C.M.'s home. The family, including S.S., resided in Elizabeth with R.R. until J.S. found new employment and finally relocated he and his family to Florida in the summer of 2018. There was no evidence presented to refute any part of J.S.'s or R.R.'s testimony.

Considering the documentary and testimonial evidence presented in this matter, I FIND the following FACTS:

1. At some point during the 2017-2018 school year, J.S. and S.S. were forced to leave their residence in Elizabeth and relocate to a residence in Roselle, which was owned by S.S.'s mother.

2. Since J.S. admitted that at least as of January 17, 2018, he and S.S. were living in Roselle, and by that time J.S. was a registered voter in Roselle, the family relocated to Roselle at least by that date.

3. During the same school year, the J.S. family lost the house in Roselle and relocated back to Elizabeth in mid-May 2018.

4. In the Summer of 2018, J.S and his family became permanently domiciled in Florida.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) and N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a) sets forth the right of a student to a free public education, which in pertinent parts states:

> Public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under twenty years of age:
>
> a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district[.]

See V.R. ex rel A.R. v. Hamburg Bd. of Educ., 2 N.J.A.R. 283, 287 (1980), aff'd, State Bd., 1981 S.L.D. 1533, rev'd on other grounds sub nom.; Rabinowitz v. N.J. State Bd. of Educ., 550 F. Supp. 481 (D.N.J. 1982) (New Jersey requires local domicile, as opposed to mere residence, in order for a student to receive a free education).

The domicile of an unemancipated child is that of his parent, custodian or guardian. Somerville Bd. of Educ. v. Manville Bd. of Educ., 332 N.J. Super. 6, 12 (App. Div. 2000), aff'd, 167 N.J. 55 (2001); P.B.K. o/b/o minor child E.Y. v. Board of Ed. of Tenafly, 343 N.J. Super 419, 427 (App. Div. 2001).

A student may attend school in a district in which he is not domiciled, with or without payment of tuition, at the discretion of the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-3(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-2.2. A superintendent or administrative principal may also have a non-domiciled student removed from that school, on application to the board of education. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2).

When, as here, a local board determines that a child is not properly domiciled in its district, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) provides a right of appeal for the parents as follows:

> The parent or guardian may contest the Board's decision before the Commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the Commissioner and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this section.

A student's "domicile" is where the student's parent or guardian has a permanent home in the school district such that "the parent or guardian intends to return to it when absent and has no present intent of moving from it, notwithstanding the existence of homes or residences elsewhere." N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)(1); State v. Benny, 20 N.J 238, 250 (1955); In re Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 374 (Law Div. 1991), aff'd, 311 N.J. Super. 589 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 157 N.J. 541 (1998), cert. denied, 526 U.S. 1051, 119 S. Ct. 1357, 143 L. Ed. 2d 518 (1999).

When a person arguably has more than one residence, there are factors to consider in determining his or her domicile: the physical characteristics of each place; the time spent and the things done in each place; the other persons found there; the person's mental attitude towards each place; and whether or not there was an intention, when absent, to return to that address. Mercadante v. City of Paterson, 111 N.J.

Super. 35, 39–40 (Ch. Div. 1970), aff'd, 58 N.J. 112 (1971). "[A] choice of domicile by a person, irrespective of his motive, will be honored by the court, provided there are sufficient objective indicia, by way of proofs, supporting the actual existence of that domicile." In re Unanue, supra.

Consideration in proving residency for purposes of establishing eligibility for school district placement is found at N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.4, stating,

> (a) A district board of education shall accept a combination of any of the following or similar forms of documentation from persons attempting to demonstrate a student's eligibility for enrollment in the school district:
>
> 1. Property tax bills, deeds, contracts of sale, leases, mortgages, signed letters from landlords and other evidence of property ownership, tenancy or residency;
>
> 2. Voter registrations, licenses, permits, financial account information, utility bills, delivery receipts, and other evidence of personal attachment to a particular location;
>
> . . .
>
> 3. Court orders; State agency agreements; and other evidence of court or agency placements or directives;
>
> 4. Receipts; bills; cancelled checks; insurance claims or payments; and other evidence of expenditures demonstrating personal attachment to a particular location or to support the student;
>
> . . .
>
> 6. Affidavits, certifications and sworn attestations pertaining to statutory criteria for school attendance, from the parent, guardian, person keeping an "affidavit student," adult student, person(s) with whom a family is living, or others as appropriate;
>
> . . .
> 8. Any other business record or document issued by a governmental entity.

> (b) A district board of education may accept forms of documentation not listed in (a) above and shall not exclude from consideration any documentation or information presented by a person seeking to enroll a student.
>
> (c) A district board of education shall consider the totality of information and documentation offered by an applicant and shall not deny enrollment based on failure to provide a particular form of documentation, or a particular subset of documents, without regard to other evidence presented.

(Emphasis supplied)

N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.3(b) provides that,

> Nothing in this chapter shall preclude an equitable determination by the district board of education or the Commissioner that tuition shall not be assessed for all or part of any period of a student's ineligible attendance in the school district when the particular circumstances of a matter so warrant. In making the determination, the district board of education or Commissioner shall consider whether the ineligible attendance was due to a school district's error.

The BOE's Notice of Final Ineligibility states that the BOE may assess tuition after the Notice is sent, and that even if an appeal is filed, it may assess for "this period" i.e. "following the date of this notice..." in this case being, after February 21, 2018, "including the 21 day filing period" and during the pendency of the appeal to the Commissioner. Accordingly, any tuition reimbursement commences after the date of the Notice of Final Ineligibility, i.e. after February 21, 2018. There remains the question of how much of the remaining part of the 2017-2018, the family remained in Roselle, and therefore remained ineligible for free public education in Elizabeth.

Uncontroverted evidence showed that, owing to S.S.'s family's continued financial problems, after they relocated from their home in Elizabeth to C.M.'s house in Roselle, they had to leave the Roselle home owing to a distress sale and returned back to Elizabeth. The Roselle sale took place in the "first or second week of May 2018" according to both J.S. and R.R. Thereafter, the J.S. family moved back to Elizabeth with R.R., a family friend and cousin, and remained there from mid-May until the family finally relocated to Florida in the summer of 2018. Although difficult to pinpoint the exact day that S.S. and his family began living with R.R., it is safe to conclude that they were completely moved in to R.R.'s house in Elizabeth within a week after the short sale in Roselle.

The Board claims, however, that there was "no proof submitted to the District or the Court regarding proof of residency with respect to the required forms, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.4(a)." (Post hearing brief, page 2). However, N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.4 (c) provides that "the district board of education shall consider the totality of information and documentation offered by an applicant and shall not deny enrollment based on failure to provide a particular form of documentation, or a particular subset of documents, without regard to other evidence presented." (emphasis supplied). Here it would be arbitrary and capricious and contrary to the plain intent of N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.4 (a) to simply ignore the credible "other evidence" of the J.S. family's relocation to R.R.'s Elizabeth home as provided by uncontroverted and credible testimony, simply because of the absence of correct "forms." Moreover, it was established that S.S. and the family resided with R.R., not because J.S. wanted S.S. to attend school there but because they were under continued financial distress which caused them all within one year to leave their home of longstanding in Elizabeth, to temporarily relocate to Roselle to a home J.S.'s wife owned, then to relocate back to Elizabeth to R.R's house after being forced out of Roselle by having to accept a short sale, and to eventually take up new permanent residency in Florida.

N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.3(b) provides that, nothing precludes "an equitable determination by the district board of education or the Commissioner that tuition shall not be assessed for all or part of any period of a student's ineligible attendance in the school district when the particular circumstances of a matter so warrant." J.S.'s move to Roselle was precipitated by the financial loss of the family residence of 15 years in Elizabeth. J.S.'s and S.S.'s residency in Roselle, even if it established a domicile was not precisely settled, as they soon lost the Roselle house as well. Based on their precarious financial circumstances of S.S. and the loss of one home in Elizabeth, and then, after relocating to Roselle, losing that home, J.S. and S.S. were living an almost nomadic like existence until J.S. found new employment and they became domiciled finally in Florida. It is surely equitable that given this family's "particular circumstances" that year, that tuition should not be assessed from the time J.S. and S.S. relocated back to Elizabeth in R.R.'s house from mid-May to the end of the school year.

I do however, agree with the Board that their administrative error in the Final Notice of Ineligibility which stated that J.S. would be assessed tuition for S.S. at the rate of $64.55 (the kindergarten student's rate) per school day, rather than the first to fifth grader rate of $79.95 per school day does not warrant the assessment of the tuition during the period of ineligibility at the lower rate. The notice itself referred to the amount tuition that could be assessed being an "estimated" amount. Further, although N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.3(b) provides that, a "district board of education or Commissioner shall consider whether the ineligible attendance was due to a school district's error," it would be inequitable for the petitioner to receive such a windfall for a mere technical error.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the period of ineligibility for which J.S. may be assessed tuition for S.S. while S.S. resided in Roselle rather than in Elizabeth while S.S. attended school in Elizabeth was February 22, 2018, the day after the Notice of Final Ineligibility was sent to J.S., to May 20, 2018, when J.S. and S.S. had relocated back to Elizabeth. The school calendar (R-5) shows there were 56 school days during that time. At the rate of $79.95 a day, the BOE is entitled to an assessment of $4477.20 for tuition reimbursement during the aforesaid period.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing it is ORDERED that the respondent's decision is MODIFIED, and that the petitioner pay respondent tuition in the amount of $4,477.20

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

R.R., on behalf of minor child, W.R.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner filed a pro se petition in July 2019 challenging the determination of the respondent Board that her child, W.R., was not domiciled in the city of Elizabeth, and was therefore ineligible to receive a free public education in respondent's school district. The Board filed a counterclaim for tuition.

The ALJ found that petitioner advised during a telephone conference on September 12, 2019 that she was withdrawing the petition; in return, the respondent Board agreed to waive its counterclaim for tuition. An email, dated September 13, 2019, memorialized this telephone conference and requested that petitioner submit a withdrawal letter with copies to the Board and counsel. To date, no withdrawal letter has been submitted despite two additional requests for same. The ALJ concluded that the petitioner has unreasonably failed to comply with the ALJ's order to submit a withdrawal letter. Accordingly, the ALJ dismissed the case pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.14(a)(1).

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusion in this matter. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision and the petition was dismissed.

BEFORE NANCI G. STOKES, ALJ

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On September 12, 2019, petitioner agreed to withdraw her residency petition if respondent, Elizabeth Board of Education (Elizabeth), agreed to waive its counterclaim for for tuition. Elizabeth agreed and waived its counterclaim, but petitioner failed to withdraw withdraw her petition; despite my instructions to do so. Should this case be dismissed? Yes. Yes. Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-14(c)(1), dismissal may be granted for the unreasonable failure to to comply with a judge's order.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On April 4, 2019, Elizabeth determined that petitioner's child, W.R., was not domiciled in the city of Elizabeth, New Jersey; therefore, W.R. was not eligible for public education in the school district.

On July 18, petitioner filed a residency appeal on behalf of her child.

On July 29, 2019, Elizabeth filed an Answer with the New Jersey State Department of Education.

On August 5, 2019, the Office of Controversies and Disputes within the New Jersey State Department of Education transmitted the case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) under the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and the act establishing the OAL, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -23, for a hearing under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6.

On August 21, 2019, I held a telephone prehearing conference and Elizabeth advised that it would be filing a Motion for Summary Judgement, which I received on September 10, 2019.

FINDINGS OF FACT

On September 12, 2019, during a telephone status conference, petitioner advised advised that a hearing was no longer needed because W.R. was enrolled in school in Elizabeth. Petitioner stated that she "did not care about last year," and that she would submit a letter withdrawing her petition. In return, Elizabeth agreed to waive its counterclaim for tuition if the petition was dismissed.

On September 13, 2019, an email was sent to the parties memorializing the telephone conference and requested that petitioner submit a withdrawal letter with a copy to Elizabeth and Elizabeth's counsel at the addresses provided. (Exhibit 1). A memorandum restating these instructions was sent to petitioner by regular mail. (Exhibit 2). On September 18, 2019, I received a letter from Elizabeth withdrawing its counterclaim regarding tuition. (Exhibit 3).

Petitioner, however, failed to send her letter withdrawing her request for a hearing. On October 3, 2019, an email was sent to petitioner again requesting that she submit the withdrawal letter. To date, I have not received a withdrawal letter from petitioner.

Given these circumstances, petitioner has failed to act, and I FIND that she has abandoned her case.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.14 (a)(1), a dismissal may be granted for the unreasonable failure to comply with judge's order. In this case, I instructed petitioner to submit a withdrawal letter, based upon Elizabeth's waiver of its counterclaim for tuition, but petitioner failed to do so. Meanwhile, petitioner had stated that she no longer cares about this case, and I found that petitioner constructively abandoned it. Given the circumstances, I conclude that petitioner has unreasonably failed to comply with my order and that this case be DISMISSED.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I ORDER that this case is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified, or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who is authorized by law to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify, or reject this decision within forty-five days, and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision under N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Re: Jamie Truncellito v. Board of Education of the Township of Lyndhurst, Bergen County. Agency Dkt. No. 150-6/18, Commissioner Decision No. 271-19

Dear Counsel,

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with respondent Lyndhurst Board of Education's Motion for Reconsideration of the Commissioner's October 16, 2019 decision. Based upon the information submitted by counsel to respondent, demonstrating that the copy of the Initial Decision he received from the Office of Administrative Law indicates a mailing date of September 12, 2019, rather than the September 10, 2019 date indicated on copy transmitted to the Commissioner, this matter will be reopened for the Commissioner to consider the exceptions filed by respondent on September 25, 2019. The reply to exceptions filed by the petitioner, Jamie Truncellito, were considered in the Commissioner's October 16, 2019 decision and will be considered in the Commissioner's amended decision.

Accordingly, the respondent's Motion for Reconsideration is hereby granted.

This Settlement Agreement ("Agreement") dated September ___, 2019 is entered into by and between the Washington Township Board of Education, a local public school board of education organized under Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes with its principal offices at 206 East Holly Avenue, Sewell, New Jersey 08080 in Gloucester County ("Board") and Patricia Secoolish on behalf of minor children, Cross Dhanse and Giavanna Secoolish (herein collectively referred to as the "Parties"), to resolve and settle any and all outstanding issues involved between the Parties regarding the Executive County Superintendent's homeless determination with respect to Cross Dhanse and Giavanna Secoolish's enrollment in the Washington Township School District ("District").

WHEREAS, Patricia Secoolish ("Ms. Secoolish") is the parent of Cross Dhanse and Giavanna Secoolish;

WHEREAS, Cross Dhanse and Giavanna Secoolish are students currently enrolled in the District who currently reside with Patricia Secoolish within the District;

WHEREAS, during the Fall of 2018 enrollment the District sought to transfer Cross from Thomas Jefferson Elementary School ("TJES") to Wedgwood Elementary School ("Wedgwood ES") and Giavanna from Orchard Valley Middle School ("OVMS") to Chestnut Ridge Middle School ("CRMS") based upon their residency at the Washington Way Apartments;

WHEREAS, on or about August 28, 2018, Ms. Secoolish disagreed with the District's position that the students should be transferred on the basis of the McKinney Vento Homeless Education Assistance Act, 42 U.S.C.A. §11431 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:17 et. seq. and provided support that the children should remain at TJES and OVMS as they were evicted from their prior home and resided at the Washington Way Apartments with a family member out of necessity;

WHEREAS, on or about August 29, 2018, the District notified Ms. Secoolish that the children could remain at TJES and OVMS based upon their homeless status under the law;

WHEREAS, on or about August 30, 2018, the District obtained a copy of the Secoolish's lease at the Washington Way Apartments which indicated that the lease was executed on May 23, 2017;

WHEREAS, on September 18, 2018, the District notified Ms. Secoolish that the District was disputing the prior determination of homelessness since the Secoolish family had been living at the Washington Way Apartments for approximately fifteen (15) months and therefore must attend their proper sending schools;

WHEREAS, on September 25, 2018, the District filed for a review of the documentation and determination of homeless with the Gloucester County Executive County Superintendent, Ave Altersitz;

WHEREAS, on November 16, 2018, Ms. Altersitz determined that Giavanna Secoolish and Cross Dhanse remain McKinney Vento eligible and must be allowed to continue in their schools of origin at the time of their initial McKinney Vento eligibility, OVMS and TJES;

WHEREAS, on November 29, 2018, the District filed a Petition of Appeal of the Homeless Determination of Ms. Altersitz, captioned as Washington Township Board of Education v. Ave Altersitz/Executive Co. Supt. and P.S. o/b/o minor children, G.S. and C.D., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 01768-2019S, Agency Ref No. 294-12/18;

WHEREAS, in order to resolve any and all disputes between the Parties without continuing with time-consuming and costly litigation, the Parties have agreed to a full and final settlement; and

NOW THEREFORE, the Parties having a desire to settle the above matter in an amicable way, hereby agree as follows:

1. For the 2019-2020 school year, Giavanna Secoolish will remain at OVMS for the remainder of her eighth grade year, with transportation to OVMS to be provided by Ms. Secoolish;

2. For the 2019-2020 school year, Cross Dhanse will remain at TJES with transportation to TJES to be provided by Ms. Secoolish;

3. For years beyond the 2019-2020 school year, Ms. Secoolish agrees to provide transportation for Cross Dhanse for as long as Cross is attending school outside of the family's school sending zone. For example, if Cross continues to attend TJES and then attends middle school at OVMS, Ms. Secoolish agrees to provide transportation for Cross for the time he is attending school outside of the family's school sending zone.

4. Within fifteen (15) calendar days of full execution of this Agreement, the Board agrees to dismiss the Petition of Appeal captioned as Washington Township Board of Education v. Ave Altersitz/Executive Co. Supt. and P.S. o/b/o minor children, G.S. and C.D., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 01768-2019S, Agency Ref No. 294-12/18, with prejudice.

5. This Agreement resolves any and all issues regarding Cross Dhanse and Giavanna Secoolish's eligibility under McKinney Vento, their ability to remain at OVMS and TJES and the Executive County Superintendent's determination of homelessness dated November 16, 2018.

6. This Agreement does not waive the Board's ability to challenge the Secoolish's eligibility for enrollment within the Washington Township School District in accordance with the law, after the date of this Agreement.

7. The Parties have reached this compromise to avoid the expense, inconvenience, and potential acrimony of litigation. It is understood that the execution of this Agreement does not constitute an admission by either party.

8. Each party shall be responsible for their own fees and costs.

9. This Agreement contains the entire Agreement and understanding between the Parties and constitutes a full and final Agreement on any and all issues.

15. This Agreement shall be interpreted, enforced, and governed under the laws of the State of New Jersey. The language of all parts of this Agreement shall in all cases be construed as a whole, according to its fair meaning, and not strictly for or against any of the Parties.

WHEREAS, a student, S.C.W. was enrolled in the North Bergen School District ("North Bergen"); and

WHEREAS, S.C.W., disenrolled from North Bergen and enrolled in the Clifton School District ("Clifton") and was found by Clifton to be homeless; and,

WHEREAS a dispute arose between North Bergen and Clifton (collectively "the Parties") regarding the determination of homelessness, and responsibility to pay for S.C.W.'s Tuition; and

WHEREAS, the Clifton Board of Education asked the Interim Executive County Superintendent ("ECS") of Passaic for a determination as to the child's homelessness;

WHEREAS, on or about July 9, 2018, Melissa Pearce, Interim ECS of Passaic County and ECS of Hudson County, issued a decision finding that S.C.W. was homeless, and that North Bergen bore responsibility for the cost of the student's education;

WHEREAS, North Bergen challenged the ECS' decision by filing a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education on or about October 1, 2018.

WHEREAS, the Parties, without alleging or admitting deficiencies in their own determinations, or the determination of the ECS, are desirous of arriving at an amicable resolution regarding responsibility for S.C.W.'s tuition, and

WHEREAS, in consideration of the mutual promises and covenants contained herein and other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged by the Parties, the Parties enter into this Agreement to outline their agreement, release claims, and express the full and complete terms of same; and

NOW THEREFORE, the parties having a desire to settle the above matter in an amicable way and in consideration of the following terms, hereby agree as follows:

1. For the 2017-2018 school year, North Bergen shall reimburse Clifton for one-half of the tuition rate for the Clifton Public School District for those school years. For the above school year, North Bergen agrees to reimburse Clifton the amount of Five Thousand Eight Hundred and Seventy ($5,870.70) Dollars and Seventy Cents, as calculated by the daily tuition rate of $65.23 x 90 days.

2. The payments reflected in paragraph 1 from North Bergen shall be the sole, final, and total remaining financial obligation toward the education of S.C.W. in the Clifton School District. All other costs, including, without limit, any additional tuition, extended school year costs, related services, evaluations or transportation costs shall be the sole responsibility of Clifton School District.

3. The Parties have reached this compromise to avoid the expense, inconvenience, and potential acrimony of a due process hearing under the special education laws. It is understood that the execution of this Agreement does not constitute an admission by North

Bergen or Clifton.

4. This Agreement contains the entire Agreement and understanding between the parties and constitutes a full and final Agreement on any and all issues.

5. This Agreement shall be governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey.

6. If, during the term of this Agreement, a specific clause of this Agreement is determined to be illegal or in violation of any Federal or State law, the remainder of this Agreement shall not be affected by such a ruling and shall remain in full force and effect.

7. This Agreement is dispositive of all issues in dispute between the Parties hereto, and is intended to constitute a final resolution of the dispute between the Parties, and the Parties agree to waive any claim against the other for any action which may have arisen from the alleged facts for which this action was instituted.

8. The Parties acknowledge that they have read and understand the terms of this Agreement, that they have had the opportunity to have the Agreement reviewed by counsel, that they are satisfied with the advice of their respective counsel, and that they are entering into this Agreement knowingly, freely, voluntarily, without coercion and not under the influence of anything or anyone.

9. The Parties mutually waive any claims for attorney's fees with the understanding that each party shall be responsible for their own fees and costs, including physicians', experts', and attorneys' fees and costs, incurred in connection with this dispute, to the extent applicable. No party shall be deemed a "prevailing party."

10. The Parties agree and acknowledge that this Agreement is subject to approval by the North Bergen Board of Education during its next regularly scheduled meeting following the execution of this Agreement.

11. The Parties agree and acknowledge that this Agreement is subject to approval by the Clifton Board of Education during its next regularly scheduled meeting following the execution of this Agreement.

12. Upon approval of both Boards of Education, the North Bergen Board of Education will withdraw their Petition of Appeal, and except for as otherwise provided for above, the obligations of the Parties to each other relating to the Education of S.C.W. shall be considered null and void.

12. The Parties agree that the terms of this Agreement shall remain strictly confidential to the fullest extent permitted by law, and they shall not share or communicate the existence of the settlement or the terms of same with any other individual, unless enforcement of same is sought by either party in a court of law.

This Settlement Agreement and General Release (hereinafter "Agreement") is entered into by and between the Cumberland County Technical Education Center (hereinafter "CCTEC" or "Respondent") and Michael Marino (hereinafter "Marino" or Petitioner"). CCTEC and Marino are hereinafter collectively referred to as "the Parties" or individually as "a Party."

WHEREAS, Marino is a former employee of CCTEC who worked as an Automotive Technical Teacher; and

WHEREAS, Marino was laid off by virtue of a reduction in force ("RIF"); and

WHEREAS, Marino claimed tenure and seniority to Respondent's posted Automotive Technology Teacher position in June 2018 but another candidate was chosen; and

WHEREAS, the CCTEC maintains that it did nothing improper when it selected another candidate for the Automotive Technology Teacher position; and

WHEREAS, the Parties engaged in settlement discussions in an attempt to find a mutually agreeable resolution to their respective claims and disputes; and

WHEREAS, the Parties now wish to compromise and settle all claims and disputes among and between them including but not limited to the claims articulated in OAL docket number EDU 18169-2018S (also NJDOE docket number 268-11/18); and now

THEREFORE, for good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, and intending to be legally bound hereby, Marino and CCTEC agree that this matter shall be settled and compromised pursuant to the following terms and conditions:

1. Payment. CCTEC agrees to pay Marino the sum of One Hundred Thousand Dollars and 00/100 ($100,000.00) within sixty (60) days of the effective date of this Agreement (hereinafter "Settlement Payment"). With respect to the Settlement Payment:

Marino shall also be solely liable for the payment of any liens required by law that he may have against him. Marino agrees to indemnify and hold harmless CCTEC from any and all penalties and/or fees and/or interest relating to and/or arising from any state, federal or local taxes and/or any liens that may be required by law to be paid by Marino with respect to the Settlement Payment described herein.

d. Marino expressly understands and agrees that he shall not receive any other payment of any kind other than the Settlement Payment described in this Paragraph 1.

2. Dismissal of Action. Marino understands and expressly agrees that in conjunction with this settlement and the payment of the amounts referenced herein, in the manner described herein, the Complaint field at OAL docket number EDU 18169-2018S (also NJDOE docket number 268-11/18) shall be dismissed with prejudice. b. "Released Claims" as used in this Agreement shall mean any and all liabilities, claims, demands, causes of action, suits at law or in equity, covenants, charges, debts, dues, costs, any sums of money, attorneys' fees, accounts, bills, reckonings, extents, judgments, and rights, whether known or unknown, whether accrued or unaccrued, whether contingent on non-contingent, whether or not capable of proof, regardless of the theory of recovery, and whether common law or statutory in nature that occurred at any time in the past up to and including the effective date of this Agreement. Expressly excluded from this Release are claims for the breach of this Agreement including, but not limited to, the failure to pay any of the compensation set forth herein. "Released Claims" shall also include the following:

ix. All claims for any attorneys' fees, costs, disbursements and the like for any incident, act or omission that occurred in the past up to the date of execution of this Agreement.

c. The CCTEC does for itself and its executives, administrators, predecessors and assignees, agree to hereby irrevocably and unconditionally release and forever discharge Marino from any and all Released Claims from the beginning of time up to and including the effective date of this Agreement.

d. The Parties agree that neither Party nor any person or entity acting on either Party's behalf will file any type of complaint, charge, claim and/or cause of action, or cause or permit any complaint, charge, claim and/or cause of action to be filed, against any Released Party or Marino involving any matter whatsoever which occurred at any time from the beginning of time up to and including the effective date of this Agreement, or involving any continuing effects or any acts or practices which may have arisen or occurred prior to the effective date of this Agreement. It is understood that if a class action is filed against the CCTEC that the mere filing of said class action does not place Marino in breach of this Agreement provided that Marino immediately takes reasonable steps with all due speed to remove himself from the class.

e. The Parties agree that if either Party brings any type of complaint, charge, claim and/or cause of action in any administrative and/or judicial forum against any Released Party for any Released Claim, the filing Party will be in breach of this Agreement. In such event, the filing Party will be liable for (1) paying all of the Released Party's attorneys' fees and costs associated with the defense of any such complaint, charge, claim and/or cause of action, and (2) paying all of the Released Party's attorneys' fees and costs associated with the enforcement of this Agreement.

4. Attorney's and Mediator Fees. Marino and CCTEC each agree to bear his/its own costs and attorney's fees, if any, which have been incurred in connection with the within matter and in connection with the negotiation and preparation of this Agreement. Marino and CCTEC each agree that no amounts other than the Settlement Payment described in Paragraph 1 shall be paid in connection with this matter, and Marino expressly agrees that he shall not receive any other payment and shall not seek to collect any attorneys' fees or costs. It is expressly agreed by Marino and CCTEC that neither Party will be considered a prevailing Party.

5. Satisfaction of Claims and/or Liens. It is further understood that as a condition of this settlement, all claims and/or liens, past, current and/or future arising out of this settlement or asserted against the proceeds of this settlement are to be satisfied by Marino, including but not limited to any Medicare or Medicaid claims and/or liens, Worker's Compensation claims and/or liens, Social Security claims and/or liens, hospital/healthcare insurer claims and/or liens, physician attorney claims and/or liens, or any of the statutory, equitable, common law or judgment claims and/or liens, including but not limited to claims based subrogation or any other legal or equitable theory, Marino therefore agrees, upon prompt presentation of any such claims and/or liens, to indemnify and hold the School Board harmless against any judgment entered against the School Board based on such claims and/or liens, including the payment of any fines or charges incurred as a result of any such lien. Failure to satisfy any such lien shall be considered a breach of this Agreement and Marino agrees to pay all costs and interest relative to any such lien.

6. No Admission of Liability. Marino and CCTEC agree that this Agreement represents a compromise to resolve a dispute. None of the terms of this Agreement shall be construed to be an admission of wrongdoing by either Party. It is expressly understood that neither the execution of this Agreement, nor any other action taken by the School Board in conjunction with Marino's alleged claims, nor the Settlement Payment defined herein constitutes an admission by the School Board or any violation of any law, duty or obligation. Marino and CCTEC both agree that they have entered into this Agreement for reasons other than the merits of the case, including but not limited to the cost and uncertainty of litigation. It is also expressly understood that acceptance of this Agreement does not constitute any representation by or to Marino as to the merits of the underlying claims or lack thereof.

7. Confidentiality. Marino agrees that neither he nor his spouse, partner, immediate family members, dependents, heirs, executives, administrators, predecessors, successors, assignees, attorneys, or representatives will publish, publicize or disseminate, or cause to be published, publicized or disseminated, to the news, social media, communications media or any agent thereof, or to any online/internet based forum, or to any employees, friends or any other third party, any of the following: the amount of the Settlement Payment described herein, any offers or counteroffers leading to the Settlement Payment, and/or any of the terms or conditions of this Agreement. The only exception to this Paragraph 7 is that Marino may share the amount of the Settlement Payment with his spouse, attorney and/or tax preparer for tax purposes.

8. Open Records. Marino acknowledges that this Agreement may be subject to disclosure pursuant to New Jersey's Open Public Records Act and that CCTEC has no legal authority to negotiate or bargain away any of the statutory requirements of the Open Public Records Act. Marino acknowledges and agrees that whether or not the School Board is required to disclose this Agreement pursuant to the Open Public Records Act in no way diminishes Marino's obligations pursuant to Paragraph 7.

9. No Reemployment/Future Employment. Marino agrees that he shall not apply or be eligible for employment with CCTEC in any capacity. In the event that Marino should apply for employment with CCTEC, CCTEC shall disregard said application. It is expressly agreed by the Parties that CCTEC's disregard of any such employment application shall be pursuant to this Agreement and shall not be the result of any unlawful conduct of CCTEC. Marino agrees that he is waiving and relinquishing any and all tenure rights for which he had attained while employed at CCTEC for any and all positions including but not limited to Automotive Technology Teacher.

10. Neutral Reference. CCTEC agrees that, if contacted by any third party for a reference, CCTEC shall only provide Marino's dates of employment, positions held and salary information. Marino shall refer all third parties seeking reference checks to CCTEC's Superintendent.

11. Consultation with Legal Counsel. Both Parties acknowledge and agree that they had ample time and opportunity to review this Agreement with legal counsel of their own choosing and that each Party is satisfied with the advice received.

12. Breach. If either Party fails and/or refuses to comply with any obligation she/it has pursuant to this Agreement, regardless of the reason for said failure and/or refusal to comply, that Party shall be in breach of this Agreement. In such event, the breaching Party will be liable for paying all of the attorneys' fees and costs associated with the enforcement of this Agreement.

13. Knowing and Voluntary Execution of Agreement. Marino acknowledges and agrees that he freely and voluntarily agreed to all of the terms and conditions contained in this Agreement after consulting with legal counsel of her choosing and after considering all of his options. Marino further acknowledges and agrees that he had ample time to read and understand the Agreement. Marino's agreement is not the result of any fraud, coercion or duress. Further, Marino warrants and represents that he is under no disability or impairment that would prevent him from understanding this Agreement or from knowingly and voluntarily entering into this Agreement.

14. Effective Date. This Agreement shall become effective on the date that the Agreement has been fully executed by both Marino and CCTEC. Marino acknowledges and agrees that this Agreement is subject to a vote of approval by the CCTEC Board of Education.

15. Entire Agreement. This Agreement represents the sole and entire agreement between the Parties. This Agreement supersedes all prior agreements, representations or understandings, oral or written, express or implied, with respect to the subject matter hereof.

16. Modification and Waiver. No modification or waiver of any of the terms of this Agreement shall be valid unless in writing and executed with the same formality as this Agreement.

17. Rules of Construction. This Agreement shall be interpreted in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey and, to the extent applicable, the United States government. Marino acknowledges and agrees that in consideration of the fact that he has carefully read, reviewed and considered the terms of this Agreement and that he has had full opportunity to obtain legal advice from counsel of his choice in connection with this Agreement, the normal principle of contract construction whereby all ambiguities are to be construed against the drafter shall not be employed in this interpretation and construction of this Agreement.

18. Choice of Venue. The Parties agree that any action to enforce or interpret this Agreement shall only be brought in a court of competent jurisdiction in the State of New Jersey, which parties hereby acknowledge and agree to be the Superior Court of New Jersey in Cumberland County.

19. Counterparts. In the event that two or more counterparts of this Agreement are executed, all such counterparts shall collectively constitute the same instrument.

20. Severability. All agreements and covenants contained herein are severable. In the event that any provision of this Agreement should be held to the unenforceable, the validity and enforceability of the remaining provisions hereof shall not be affected thereby. Any court (or arbitrator) construing this Agreement is expressly granted the authority to revise any invalid or unenforceable provision hereof in order to render same enforceable.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the Parties hereto, intending to be legally bound hereby, have set their hands and seals on the dates indicated:

ADAM S. HERMAN, ESQ.

FOR THE RESPONDENT:

MARIA RODRIGUEZ (pro se)

Pursuant to NJSA 18A:6-16, as amended by P.L. 2012, c.26 and P.L. 2015, c. 109("TEACHNJ"), the tenure charges brought by the Newark Board of Education ("the District" or "Petitioner") against Maria Rodriguez ("Rodriguez" or "Respondent") were referred to me by the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes for a hearing and Decision on July 18, 2019. I conducted a hearing at the offices of the New Jersey Board of Mediation on September 19, 2019.

The Respondent represented herself at the hearing. However, she was not represented by Counsel. The undersigned had sent multiple communications to Respondent prior to the hearing, advising Respondent of the seriousness of the proceeding and the recommendation to obtain counsel. The undersigned repeated this recommendation at the hearing, but Respondent indicated she wished to proceed without counsel. At the hearing, the parties had full and fair opportunity to examine and cross-examine witnesses, introduce documentary evidence and make argument in support of their respective positions. The hearings were transcribed. The District submitted a written closing statement and Respondent sent multiple emails regarding the matter. The record was declared closed on October 25, 2019

BACKGROUND

This case arises out of charges of incapacity, insubordination and conduct unbecoming. Respondent is a tenured teacher who has been employed by the District since approximately 1997. Her last position was as a home instructor.

In 2012, Respondent was directed to undergo an independent medical examination (IME) based on her behavior. The IME found her to be unfit for duty. She received medical clearance to return to work in 2013.

According to Homere Breton, Executive Legal Assistant and 504 Accommodation Officer, testified he received reports of strange and upsetting behavior from the Grievant in 2017. As the 504 Accommodation Officer, Breton is responsible for the intake of requests for accommodation as well as making arrangements for employees to undergo IME, when required.

Breton testified that beginning in September 2017, reports of Respondent "acting out of sorts" began again. He received documents from Principal of Home Instruction Gerald Samuels. One staff member reported she overheard Respondent talk about the need to protect herself and that she had a permit to carry a gun. The person also reported she heard her speak badly of Muslims and unwed mothers. [See, District Exhibit 8] Breton testified he also received a letter from Rev. Dr. David O. Carter that was sent to Principal Samuels. It noted that he has been called on to intervene numerous times between Respondent and co-workers. He wrote:

> I have had to go downtown on one occasion to the Newark Public Schools Law Office as her representative for antagonizing her fellow colleagues, stating fictitious accusations, and numerous arguments. This is all factual, documented, and this problem has escalated to the point where something has to be done to correct a now volatile problem. [District Exhibit 9]

Another teacher, Eneida Dias-Castro also sent a letter to her principal about her observations of Respondent. They included racial comments, yelling incoherently, making unfounded accusations. [District Exhibit 10].

According to Breton, these concerns warranted sending her to the IME, especially in light of her prior history. He testified she was sent to Jersey City Medical Center, RWJ Barnabus Health. She was determined to be unfit for duty. [District Exhibit 12] She was referred for a psychological IME with Dr. Mary Ann Kezmarsky. Dr. Kezmarsky issued a Fitness for Duty Evaluation. She diagnosed Respondent with Delusional Disorder, Paranoid Type.

The report provided further:

> Given the continued reports of her behavior that are causing problems at school, it is my opinion that she is not fit to return to her position at this point in time. She most likely could be helped by psychiatric medications as well as psychotherapy, though given the longstanding issues that this has undergone, it is highly unlikely that she is going to make a dramatic change. [District Exhibit 13]

Respondent was then placed on medical leave.

Breton testified he sent follow up letters to the Respondent's Union representative advising him that a follow-up evaluation was scheduled for April. [See, District Exhibits 14, 15, 16] According to Breton, Respondent failed to appear for the follow-up examination.

He further testified that Respondent violated the rules regarding her leave status, by showing up at various sites to clock in to work. He explained that when on such leave, she was not allowed on school property. He submitted a punch report showing her attempts. [District Exhibit 17].

Principal Samuels testified he spoke with Respondent on April 17, 2018. He told her that she was not allowed to return to work because of her leave status. However, he testified, she returned at the end of the day to clock out. She continued to do so on April 18, 19, 20, 23, and 24.

As a result of Respondent's attempts to clock in, the Security Department to advise that she was not allowed on site. On one occasion the Newark Police Department was called.

Breton testified that on October 31, 2018, Respondent went to a location referred to as Zion Towers to attempt to provide services as a home instructor. It was reported to the District she attempted to enter the building and became rude when told to leave. The incident report provided in relevant part:

> Maria Rodriguez refused to show I.D. to enter building. I informed her all visitors must sign in with security. Rodriguez then proceed to tell me she doesn't have to show ID because she has her PhD and finished school all the way. I then informed Rodriguez that she was being disrespectful and the she would have to leave the property Rodriguez proceeds to tell by stating that their living in jail. Tenants felt disrespected and approached Rodriguez. I (s/o Smith) informed Rodriguez if she didn't leave I would call the police. Which I did to defuse the situation between Rodriguez and the bystanding tenants.

Respondent also clocked in at a District site on February 4, 2019. Breton testified she was on illness leave at this time as well. He noted she attempted to clock in at a District site even though she was still on illness leave and was not allowed to be on site.

The District continued to attempt to have Respondent undergo a medical examination. On January 28, 2019, Mr. Breton sent Respondent another letter directing her to undergo a follow-up psychiatric IME with Dr. Kezmarsky on February 14, 2019. The letters advised Respondent that her failure to comply with the directive could result in disciplinary action. The District also sent a letter to her counsel advising of the follow-up IME. On February 13, 2019, her attorney Steven Schuster, sent the District a letter indicating he advised her to attend the examination. However, on February 14, 2019, Dr. Kezmarsky advised Breton by letter that Respondent failed to appear for the examination. [District Exhibit 27]. Dr. Kezmarsky copied Respondent on the email she sent to Breton.

In May 2019, Respondent sent an email to Mr. Breton which read:

> I am not your show and none of that. Tried to confused me with "you have to pay some liability" of the liability tort of the Constitution and instead you sent me to a tort doctrine of the indenture servants of the Brit. They are under the Brexit order right now after the Declaration of the Independence and the expulsion from Breogan. I am the public system not he private schools of the Brit, therefore my position in the public schools belongs to me first not to the Brits and not to the civil rights and disobeying the law, a lot of those lost their rights specially the right to vote for others. [District Exhibit 28]

Respondent decided not to be represented by Counsel. The undersigned allowed her to testify in a narrative form to address any issues she believed were important. Respondent claims these charges are retaliation for a complaint she raised in 2010 against another teacher. She testified that others were pushing her to have a sexual relationship with her.

With respect to the IME report, Respondent asserts she is fully capable of working. She testified that she answered over 600 written questions in the appointment, most of them relating to sex.

Positions of the Parties

Position of the District

The District argues it has proven the charges by a preponderance of the evidence. With respect to the charge of incapacity, it argues the education statute and supporting caselaw demonstrate the concept of fitness to teach is based on a broad range of factors, including "whether there is any harm or injurious effect which the teacher's conduct may have upon the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system." [District Brief at 14].

It argues the 2017 IME report establishes Respondent's incapacity. It notes the December 2017 indicates Dr. Kezmarsky conducted a thorough review. It included interviews with Respondent as well as the administration of 5 psychiatric tests. The diagnosis of delusional disorder; paranoid type led her to conclude Respondent's incapacity at that time.

The District maintains that despite repeated attempts to re-evaluate Respondent, she has failed to comply with these directives. Thus, it can only conclude that she remains incapacitated and, thus, unable to perform her job duties.

The District argues the Respondent has been insubordinate by refusing the District's lawful directives to undergo a follow-up IME to determine her medical status. Likewise, it argues, it has also demonstrated she has committed unprofessional conduct and insubordination by clocking in and out of work when she is not allowed to be on school property as well as being confrontational when told to leave.

Position of Respondent

As noted earlier, Respondent represented herself in this proceeding. She rejected her Union representation and although urged by the undersigned to obtain counsel, she declined. At the hearing, she stated she could not afford private representation.

As a result, the undersigned provided Respondent latitude in addressing the charges. Respondent did not submit a final closing statement, but rather sent messages and copies of laws or articles she believed relevant to the proceeding.

Rather than summarize, I have copied relevant portions of her statements.

On October 22, 2019, she wrote:

[referring to the binder of evidence submitted by the District]

The 3 ring binder does not address the legal characteristics of a teacher tenure charges, it addresses the characteristics of a morgue summary instead. Therefore "all charges dropped by prejudice" it means they can't be revive again. Reinstate my payroll instead that I am entitled to and stop the imbecility.

On October 25, 2019:

It was replied with evidence that the charges belong to my colleagues not to me. They are having a lot of intra personal and inter personal relationships problems due to lack of knowledge of the law of USA along with no faith or other different from the Christian/Masonic, the morality and they display the opposite at work, during lunch and after work punching the Kronos and going back up to the 2rd. Floor to conduct serious business until late at night. They aren't my charges and it is felony and treason to a citizen of USA, myself.
Remove them by dropped of charges with prejudice and pay me my salary as the most fit for the position. I have morality and teach the subjects to the contrary from my colleagues, they are immoral and instead of teaching the subjects they write to others as therapy of their problems.

Finally, respondent forwarded a letter send to "Judge C." which read:

Case:#2:19-CV-05842-CCC-JBC
Your Honor:
I have received another repetition of the same when it was solved and I am cleared to return to work.
This repetition isn't normal, the board of Ed. Sent 24 pages repeating the word "fit" an average of 5 times on each page, which it accounts for about 120 times repeating the same word "fit". I never saw anything like it Another pattern that I encountered of repetition was to repeat mandatorily appointments for no reason of $1,900.00 cash from Homere's Breton pocket where on two consecutive years I had to go for a letter of fit already in existence and cleared to return to work on Christopher Columbus Day and at 11:00 a.m. not option of rescheduling the appointment or it will be a threat of insubordinate, disobedient, bad conduct, etc., opportunity for writing charges against me and I would have to pay the cash from my pocket when I had Aetna insurance at that time. Other repetitions were appointments for a physical to mandatorily independent doctors at 9:00 a.m. when I had my doctor to go to If I needed. After collecting all the letters of fit they told me that I was rescheduled to do it again using the same pattern of appointments at 9:00 a.m. 11:00 a.m. and as well a series of repetitions involving mandatorily appointments for no reason at 3:00 p.m. this to go to Ho HO Ho Kush of Homere's business friends. Asking for the reason to it, was an opportunity for them to write word charges against me, the same over and over. I received orders which is prohibited under the Constitution of USA where we the people hold the power and don't live in fear under the law. They are above the law ones.

During the workshops which were banned a long time ago in the Public Schools, the board sent the employees a letter stating that the board of Ed. Has the right to throw us workshops any time they wanted, it is illegal, only to create problems and write me more word charges, when trying to participate in the dialogues, I was considered insubordinate and sabotage for no reason, when working in groups I was isolated and mocked, throwing prepared math applications with the answer sheet pretending holding the power. I know the content of the subjects I teach and they don't, this was an opportunity for engaging in immoral conduct to obtain favors as the answer keys they were throwing to the students instead of teaching the curriculum, it is negligence. The word tiered was the leading word of all the workshops very characteristic of the style of the columns supporting the arches of the ancient Mosques.

To engage in this type of repetition coupling with the socialization of brothers and sisters instead of Mr. and Mrs. walking the hallways embracing each other, female/male and very intimately, the Principal Samuels walking the hallways with a baby bib around his neck and looking at the females with a dirty look was an incitation or provocation to sex in his secret room he held across his office, telling me in one occasion, "you can come too, I have something for you as well". He is ill and a sex predator, it happened in the hallway, where there is surveillance.

My personal opinion as a teacher, nurse and psychologist, I recommend them, all the ones involved in accumulating harmful bad intentional words against me to instead take the test DSM-5 or diagnostic statistical manual to take care of their intellectual disability characterized by limitations in both intellectual functioning and adaptive behavior. They feel inferior to me mainly because of my ability to speak other languages and be certified to teach them and they aren't.

Due to persistent repetition of the same, they may suffer from spectrum disorder, which can cause impairment in important areas of life as performing daily schedules or readjustments in their lives.

Probably factitious disorder is applicable as well, this happens when an individual intentionally creates, fakes or exaggerates something that is irrelevant, probably to attract attention. When engaged in factitious behavior obsessive and disruptive eating patterns happens and they are always eating and chewing gun, socking hard candy and repetitive talking without given others turns to have a fluent conversation.

Conduct disorder is very characteristic of them, Homere Breton and his gang called team, when a team isn't required to work home instruction. They violate the social norms and the rights of others, individuals or in groups display aggression toward people, Eneida Dias Castro hit me twice at work, she suffers from bipolar disorder and misconduct at work, destroys property, Eneida broke my telephone at work and Shareida Tarver, stole Zuleika's phone during work because this student took a picture of her sleeping instead of imparting education to the student, the student's mother got it back, Tarver slapped the student's face and through all the items from the table to the floor, she created a tsunami in the student's house during instruction time and let the student play Pokemon instead, this is to destroy others property and conduct disorder, all of my colleagues deceive along with the board of Education and violate others rules of the law. These types of behavior result in significant problems at work, intra and inter personal functioning, they refuse to comply with the requests all the time resulting in repetition of the same for no reason and engage in behaviors to deliberately annoy others. They do it for fun and is a serious mental problem.

Your honor drop the charges of repetitive words they invented into my persona, my tenure is legal as well as my teaching proceedings and social interaction and let me get back to work. I am cleared to go back to work and the imbeciles of the board of Ed. Persecute me around prohibiting me the entrance to the public schools which they are my business of the law, the Constitution. I am a 100% professional and the board and my colleagues don't hold the credentials to fit in the Public System, they are a shame to have them as staff members and the parents of the students make comments about them as well, the teachers don't teach and the principal falls asleep while observing the teachers and without a license to write comments and they don't comprehend why they still at work.
Cordially;

Decision

After carefully considering the entire record before me, including my assessment of witnesses' credibility and the probative value of evidence, I find the Board has met its burden under the statute to sustain the charge of Incapacity. My reasons follow.

At issue in this case is the Incapacity of the Grievant. The record evidence demonstrates the Grievant was placed on illness leave after being examined by the IME as being unfit for duty as a result of a diagnosis of delusional disorder, paranoid type. The psychiatrist found there was little hope for dramatic improvement, although she recommended therapy and medication.

Contrary to Respondent's assertions, I find the decision to refer the Grievant for an IME to have been justified. I credit Mr. Breton's testimony that he received numerous complaints regarding Respondent's irregular behavior, which included making derogatory comments about muslims and unwed mothers, accusations of improper sexual behavior with no evidence and telling individuals she was permitted to carry a gun. Given her prior history of mental incapacity, he was more than justified in seeking a medical examination of Respondent to determine fitness for duty.

The IME included a detailed report indicating extensive testing and interviews with Respondent to reach her conclusions. Thus, I find Respondent was determined to be incapacitated upon reasonable medical evidence.

At this time, no evidence has been submitted to refute or change the determination of the IME. In fact, Respondent has failed to undergo follow-up examinations after being ordered to do so on multiple occasions. Thus, not only does the evidence show she is currently not fit for duty, she has failed to follow lawful direction.

The undersigned, however, finds insufficient evidence to conclude Respondent was insubordinate and/or engaged in conduct unbecoming. Clearly, her failure to follow direction and also disruptive behavior meets those standards. However, given the medical diagnosis, it is not clear in this record whether Respondent had requisite intent. Without testimony from a psychiatrist, I do not find it necessary to reach a conclusion on these charges.

The undersigned determines the record evidence is sufficient to discharge the Respondent from service. The District provided her with extensive medical leave to care for her health. There is no evidence of further treatment and she has not She has been given lengthy leave with the intent to restore her to health. However, her failure to undergo treatment and abide by needed follow up examinations has left the District with no choice but to discharge her from service. The undersigned finds no reason to disturb that decision.

AWARD

The charges of Incapacity are substantiated. The District has demonstrated just cause for termination.

DECISION APPROVING SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

Agency Docket No. 210-8/19

For the Petitioner:

For the Respondent:

On September 12, 2019, I was assigned as the arbitrator for the above referenced matter. The parties chose to engage in settlement discussions in lieu of proceeding on the evidentiary record. A settlement conference took place on September 18, 2019. The parties continued to have discussions through November that finally produced a settlement.

In November 2019, the parties formally executed and adopted the settlement resolving the tenure charges that the Monroe Township Board of Education filed with the State of New Jersey Department of Education on August 21, 2019. The terms of settlement are included in the settlement agreement attached hereto. On November 26, 2019, I conducted a final conference with the parties' Counsel and the Respondent to discuss the terms of settlement.

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 requires the arbitrator to issue a brief decision approving the settlement of tenure charges and explaining why the arbitrator is approving the terms of settlement.

The parties' settlement agreement expressly details the basis for resolution. I have thoroughly reviewed and considered the parties' reasons for settlement set forth therein. Having considered the stated reasons in conjunction with the issues raised in the Statement of Tenure Charges and the Statement of Evidence filed by the Petitioner and the Response to Tenure Charges filed by the Respondent, I am persuaded that the parties entered the settlement agreement knowingly and willingly and that the terms of the settlement agreement represent a reasonable basis for settlement that will serve the public's interest and are consistent with the public good.

Accordingly, and based upon the foregoing, I approve the parties' settlement agreement.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE CHARGES AGAINST SHAWN M. CICALE,	:	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF NEW JERSEY
BY THE MONROE TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, GLOUCESTER COUNTY.	:	AGENCY DKT. 210-8/19
	:	SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

WHEREAS, the Monroe Township Board of Education ("Board") is a body politic and corporate, organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey, N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, which is entrusted with maintaining and conducting the public schools of the School District; and

WHEREAS, Shawn M. Cicale is employed by the Board as a tenured secretary; and

WHEREAS, on July 8, 2019, Dr. Richard Perry Superintendent of Schools filed sworn tenure charges against Ms. Cicale together with a sworn statement of evidence in support thereof, and said charges were certified by the Board to the Commissioner of Education on August 15, 2019.

WHEREAS, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter for hearing and determination by an arbitrator; and

WHEREAS, the parties, now wishing to resolve the within matter amicably without the need for further litigation, while achieving the goals of both parties, hereby stipulate to settle same, subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein;

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants and promises contained herein, the legal sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged by the parties, they agree as follows:

1. Tenure Charges to be Abandoned

The Board agrees that upon execution of the within Settlement and Release ("the Agreement") by the parties, the subject tenure charges shall be moot and shall be deemed to be withdrawn and abandoned by the Board.

2. Acceptance of Suspension Without Pay

Ms. Cicale, by signing this Agreement, hereby accepts a fifty-two (52) day suspension without pay from August 16, 2019, through October 6, 2019. From October 7, 2019 through November 15, 2019, she will not be considered as suspended but on medical leave. She shall be permitted to utilize fourteen (14) paid sick leave days during that leave for which the Board agrees to pay her. The remainder of the days shall be considered unpaid medical leave. She will be placed back on payroll at full salary beginning November 18, 2019. It being understood that the suspension/leave shall not change her status as a tenured secretary.

3. Agreement to Undergo Medical Examination

Ms. Cicale, by signing this Agreement, hereby agrees to promptly undergo a medical examination (not a psychological or psychiatric examination) to determine whether she is presently physically or physiologically able to perform her essential job functions with or without reasonable accommodations and without posing a direct threat to self or others, said examination to be scheduled with a board certified medical doctor chosen by the school district and paid for by the Board. Ms. Cicale further agrees that the Superintendent may provide the examining physician with Exhibit C to the Statement of Evidence. The Board, giving reasonable notice, will advise counsel for Ms. Cicale with the name and address of the physician along with the date and time of the examination. Regardless of the results of the examination, the Board will not be relieved of the obligation to place Ms. Cicale back on payroll effective November 18, 2019. It being understood that the Board reserves its right to take such other action as it deems appropriate based on those findings, if adverse to Ms. Cicale. Ms. Cicale likewise, reserves all of her rights to challenge such findings if adverse.

4. No Admissions

The parties agree that neither the suspension without pay of Ms. Cicale, nor the Board's approval of this Agreement, constitute an admission of liability or wrongdoing by either party.

5. Mutual Release

In exchange for the above consideration, Shawn M. Cicale, her heirs and assigns hereby irrevocably and unconditionally waives, releases and forever discharges any and all claims or rights whether known or unknown, which she has or may have, personally or officially, individually or collectively, against past and present Board members, all officers and administrators, its attorneys, agents and employees, personally and officially as well as their successors and assigns, including, but not limited to any and all claims for attorneys' fees, back pay or front pay, any claims for emotional distress or pain and suffering, any and all claims involving tax liability stemming from this Release and any and all claims arising under any federal, state or local ordinance, regulation or law including, but not limited to, the New Jersey and Federal Constitutions, Title VII of the Civil Rights Acts of 1871 and

1991, Section 1983, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Older Working Benefit Protection Act, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, the Federal Family and Medical Leave Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Equal Pay Act, the Workers' Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the New Jersey Family Leave Act, the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the New Jersey Civil Rights Act, the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Law, the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law, the Employer-Employee Relations Act, any collective negotiations agreement, any common law claim and any and all other claims for harassment, discrimination or retaliation of any kind, breach of promise, misrepresentation, negligence, fraud, estoppel, defamation, violation of public policy, wrongful or constructive discharge or any other tort, contractual or quasi-contractual claim. Specifically exempted from this release are any claims arising under the Workers' Compensation Act, N.J.S.A. 34:15-1 el seq., the Public Employee Retirement System laws, the indemnity provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 and 6.1 with regard to civil and criminal actions, for health insurance continuation coverage under and pursuant to Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act (referred to as "COBRA") as well as claims arising from any breach of this Agreement. To the extent Ms. Cicale pursues any of the exempted claims, the Board's rights to oppose and/or dispute such claims shall be preserved. Ms. Cicale represents that she does not have knowledge of any claims or causes of action which would require or implicate the indemnity provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 and 6.1

In exchange for the above considerations, the Board hereby releases and forever discharges any and all claims against Ms. Cicale which it has as of the date this Agreement is executed. Specifically exempted from this release are any employment claims or causes of action arising directly or indirectly from (1) proceedings in State v. Shawn M. Cicale (complaint number 0811 S 2018 001015), or (2) the medical examination described above, or (3) claims arising from breach of this Agreement. To the extent the Board pursues claims under (1), (2) and/or (3) above, Ms. Cicale's rights to oppose and/or dispute such claims shall be preserved.

It is understood that pursuant to this agreement Ms. Cicale is to continue as an employee of the Board and therefore nothing herein shall be construed to impact the rights of either party in connection with any future event or occurrence.

6. Public Interest Served

The within settlement will serve the public interest, eliminating potentially costly additional litigation costs.

7. Assent to Terms

The parties hereby acknowledge that they have entered into this Agreement with a full understanding of their rights and obligations and that they were fully informed of the implications of this Agreement by their respective attorneys, and they do so without duress, of their own free will and volition.

Ms. Cicale understands and acknowledges that she has had the opportunity to consult her attorney, has been advised of her right to take at least twenty-one (21) days to consider whether or not to execute this Agreement and Ms. Cicale has decided to waive this right and sign this Agreement in less than twenty-one (21) days. Ms. Cicale further agrees that she has had the opportunity to review this Agreement in its entirety with her attorney, Michael C. Damm, Esq., of Selikoff & Cohen, P.A.

Ms. Cicale may revoke her signature of this Agreement within seven (7) calendar days of signing it by delivering written notice of revocation to Sanmathi Dev, Esq. Capehart & Scatchard, P.A., 8000 Midlantic Drive, Suite 300-S, P.O. Box 5016, Mount Laurel, New Jersey, 08054. If Ms. Cicale has not revoked her signature of this Agreement by written notice received within the seven (7) day period, it becomes effective immediately thereafter. In the event of such revocation, this Agreement shall be null and void and the subject tenure proceedings shall be reinstated.

It is understood that this Agreement is subject to formal approval by the Monroe Township Board of Education.

8. Compliance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6

The parties agree that settlement of this case is justified by the need for an expeditious and final resolution. As a result of Ms. Cicale's acceptance of a suspension without pay and her agreement to undergo a medical examination (not a psychological or psychiatric examination) to determine whether she is presently physically or physiologically able to perform her essential job functions with or without reasonable accommodations and without posing a direct threat to self or others, the Board will achieve a guaranteed result, in an expeditious manner, at a comparatively low cost and will avoid the uncertainty of litigation before an arbitrator. Additionally, the within matter involves extensive testimony of witnesses, both lay and expert, whose interests would be better and permanently served by resolution through this Agreement.

The parties further agree that the proposed settlement will serve the public interest. As a result of Ms. Cicale's acceptance of a suspension without pay and her agreement to undergo the medical examination, the Board will not have to incur any further expenses associated with arbitration of any subsequent action related to this matter..

9. Entire Agreement

This Agreement represents the entire understanding of the parties.

10. Severability

In the event that a court or agency of competent jurisdiction shall deem any part of this Agreement to be contrary to law, then the remaining portions of the Agreement shall remain in full force and effect to the extent that they do not materially impair the consideration upon which the parties have mutually relied.

11. Governing Law

This Agreement and all provisions hereof shall be governed by and construed under the laws of the State of New Jersey.

12. The Parties agree that this Agreement may be signed in counterparts and that facsimiles of signatures as well as electronic signatures through the use of email or .pdf files will have the same force and effect as original signatures.

13. By signing this Agreement, each signatory represents that he or she is a Party or has been duly authorized by a Party to sign on that Party's behalf and that this Agreement is duly authorized, approved and consented to as to terms.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the signatures and/or seals of the parties or their duly executed authorized representatives have been set forth on the dates indicated below:

Re: Askiaa Nash v. New Jersey State Board of Examiners, Agency Dkt. No. 51-3/19

Dear Parties:

I have reviewed the petition of appeal, as well as the materials filed in connection with the respondent's motion to dismiss the petition in the above-referenced matter. Upon review of the submissions, I have determined to dismiss this matter as explained below.

Petitioner contends that he is entitled to the former Associate Educational Media Specialist (AEMS) endorsement because he met the relaxed requirements that were in effect in 2006 – which, according to petitioner, removed the requirement that individuals hold a standard teaching certificate. Petitioner argues that, at that time, individuals who were "in the pipeline" were given the opportunity to be "grandfathered in"; further, he argues that he was not advised of the rule changes due to his incarceration. (See Petitioner's letter dated March 6, 2019). Petitioner explains that the AEMS endorsement was subsequently replaced by the Associate School Library Media Specialist endorsement.

The Board advises that the Commissioner issued a final agency decision in a prior case involving the parties on January 4, 2019, i.e., Askiaa Nash v. New Jersey State Board of Examiners, Commissioner's Decision No. 14-19, decided, January 4, 2019. Petitioner appealed that decision, and the matter is currently pending before the New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division. The Commissioner finds that, as the issues in this matter were previously raised and decided in a prior Commissioner decision, this matter is barred by the doctrine of res judicata.

Accordingly, the Board's motion to dismiss the petition is GRANTED, and the petition is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[1]

Synopsis

Petitioner – a resident of the City of Jersey City – alleged that the Board violated the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., during negotiations members engaged in regarding a Memorandum of Agreement (MOA). The MOA related to a collective bargaining agreement (CBA) between the Board and the Jersey City Education Association (JCEA) that went into effect on July 1, 2019. Petitioner contended, inter alia, that certain board members who participated in negotiations had conflicts of interest, and that the Board had improperly invoked the Doctrine of Necessity in approving the MOA. Petitioner sought to invalidate the MOA through an application for emergent relief, which was opposed by the Board. A motion to intervene was filed on behalf of the JCEA, and was granted on July 3, 2019. Emergent relief was denied on July 22, 2019. The Board filed a motion for summary decision on August 6, 2019.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the only disputed facts herein pertain to whether the respondents violated the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq.; there are no genuine issues of material fact in this case, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; the threshold issue is whether the Commissioner of Education has jurisdiction to consider the within petition; the Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to matters that arise under the school laws, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9; petitioner's claims involve alleged violations of the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., which fall under the jurisdiction of the School Ethics Commission; and there is no incidental jurisdiction pursuant to the Open Public Meetings Act as claimed by petitioner. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision and dismissed the petition.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ, and adopted Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Catherine Coyle,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Jersey City, Hudson County

Respondent,

and

Jersey City Education Association,

Intervenor.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by the petitioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and the replies thereto filed by the Board and the intervenor, Jersey City Education Association (JCEA).

By way of background, the Board and JCEA negotiated a Memorandum of Agreement (MOA) regarding a collective bargaining agreement that took effect on July 1, 2019. Petitioner – a resident of the city of Jersey City – sought to invalidate the MOA in an emergent petition, alleging that members of the Board violated the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., by participating in the negotiations while having conflicts of interest and that the Doctrine of Necessity was improperly invoked. The Commissioner denied petitioner's emergent application on July 22, 2019. Thereafter, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) dismissed the petition, finding that the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction over the claims set forth in the petition, which all involve alleged violations of the School Ethics Act. Instead, the proper venue would be with the School Ethics Commission (SEC).

In her exceptions, petitioner argues that the Commissioner has jurisdiction over her claims because whether a board of education follows proper procedures in the negotiation and ratification of teacher contracts falls under New Jersey School Law, as N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 requires Boards to act in accordance with the law. Otherwise, a finding that the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction would result in the Commissioner having no oversight over a board negotiating a contract with a union. Additionally, petitioner contends that the Commissioner has primary jurisdiction over this matter because he has oversight over the Board due to the transition plan that returns local control to the district, and that the Commissioner also has incidental jurisdiction over violations of the Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA), N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 et seq.

Petitioner further argues that the Commissioner has the authority to issue injunctions and should enjoin the MOA. Petitioner maintains that she is not seeking relief under the School Ethics Act – such as a reprimand, censure, suspension, or removal – so she should not be limited to the remedies available under the Act.

Petitioner also contends that there are genuine issues of material fact that should preclude summary decision. For example, the ALJ makes a finding that a Standing Committee on Labor Negotiations was formed to manage the JCEA, but petitioner maintains that fact-finding is necessary to determine whether the Board members who negotiated with the JCEA had the authority to do so. Additionally, a hearing is necessary to determine if the doctrine of necessity was improperly invoked.[1]

In reply, the Board asks the Commissioner to adopt the Initial Decision because the ALJ properly found that the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction over the allegations outlined in the petition. The Board explains that the petition alleges three counts: "improper negotiations due to conflicts of interest"; "unauthorized independent action by President and Vice President"; and "improper voting based on defective doctrine of necessity." (Petition at 14-19). All of those causes of action involve violations of the School Ethics Act and do not arise under the school laws, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 in order to trigger the Commissioner's jurisdiction. Petitioner's argument that her claims arise under N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 does not confer jurisdiction on the Commissioner because even if, arguendo, the claims did arise under this statute, the allegations would still require determinations by the SEC regarding the underlying claims of board member conflict of interest and the doctrine of necessity.

[1] Petitioner also argues that the grant of summary decision is improper because the Board has not filed an answer or responsive pleading. It is clear that the Board's motion for summary decision is akin to a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer, permitted by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g), and the Board was directed by the ALJ to proceed in this manner following the denial of emergent relief.

The Board notes the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction over contractual disputes, as the negotiation of a contract between a board of education and a union does not fall under School Law but is instead entered into under the Employer-Employee Relations Act, N.J.S.A. 34:13A-5.1 et seq. Therefore, as the Commissioner does not have the jurisdiction to adjudicate contractual matters, he also does not have the authority to issue the injunction that petitioner seeks. Additionally, the Board points out that the transition plan does not provide any authority for a private party to bring a claim to enforce its terms, nor does it take away the SEC"s jurisdiction over violations of the School Ethics Act. Furthermore, the Board explains that although petitioner did not include an OPMA claim in her petition, even if she had, the Commissioner's "incidental" jurisdiction over OPMA would not apply in this matter because he does not have jurisdiction over the underlying claim.

Finally, the Board contends that there are no disputes of material fact that preclude the entry of summary decision. The ALJ appropriately found that the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction over the claims made by petitioner; therefore, he does not have jurisdiction to resolve any of the disputed facts.[2]

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the he does not have jurisdiction over this matter as the claims set forth in the petition do not arise out of New Jersey School Law as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9; instead, they involve alleged violations of the School Ethics Act. Whether Board members were conflicted or took unauthorized independent action – and whether the Board properly invoked the Doctrine of Necessity – falls squarely within the SEC's jurisdiction. N.J.S.A.

[2] The arguments made by the JCEA in its reply exceptions are substantially similar to the arguments made by the Board, and therefore will not be addressed in detail.

18A:12-21 et seq. The Commissioner does not find petitioner's exceptions to be persuasive as they do not demonstrate that the Commissioner has jurisdiction over this matter. Petitioner cannot attempt to circumvent the SEC's jurisdiction by claiming that her allegations arise under N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, nor does the transition plan confer jurisdiction on the Commissioner instead of the SEC. Additionally, as the ALJ found, petitioner did not allege a violation of the OPMA; nevertheless, the Commissioner would not have incidental jurisdiction over such a claim because the primary allegations fall under the SEC's jurisdiction. With respect to petitioner's argument that there are genuine issues of material fact that should preclude summary decision, it is within the SEC's purview to make factual determinations, as the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction over the petition.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted – for the reasons thoroughly expressed in the Initial Decision – and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

BEFORE THOMAS R. BETANCOURT, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed a Petition with the Office of Controversies and Disputes in the New Jersey Department of Education (DOE). The contested matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1, where it was filed on June 28, 2019, to be heard on an emergent basis.

Petitioner requests a ruling declaring a Memorandum of Understanding (MOA) negotiated between the Respondent Board and the Jersey City Education Association (JCEA) was done contrary to law and should be declared null and void. Petitioner seeks on an emergent basis a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction against the implementation of the MOA.

JCEA submitted a motion to intervene on July 2, 2019. Oral argument on the motion was held on July 3, 2019 prior to oral argument on the request for emergent relief. The motion to intervene was granted on the record on July 3, 2019. A written Order was also entered on July 3, 2019.

The application for emergent relief was heard on July 3, 2019.

Petitioner was given to July 9, 2019 to submit a supplemental brief to address jurisdiction and potential remedies. No reply from Respondent or Intervenor was permitted. Petitioner submitted her supplemental brief on July 9, 2019, whereupon the record was closed on the request for emergent relief.

The undersigned, by order dated July 9, 2019, denied the request for emergent relief, and ordered the matter dismissed on jurisdictional grounds.

The Commissioner, in an Order on Emergent Relief dated July 22, 2019, adopted the undersigned's order denying emergent relief. The Commissioner further ordered that the matter continue at the OAL "with such proceedings as the parties and the ALJ deem necessary to bring it to closure." The Commissioner noted in a footnote that a dismissal for lack of jurisdiction cannot be made in an Order on Emergent Relief and would require and Initial Decision, citing N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.1.

A telephone conference was held on July 29, 2019. No hearing date was set to afford Respondent, Jersey City Board of Education, the opportunity to submit a motion for summary decision.

Respondent filed its motion for summary decision on August 6, 2019. Petitioner filed her response on August 23, 2019. Intervenor filed a letter brief in support of Respondent's motion on August 26, 2019. Respondent filed a sur reply on August 29, 2019, whereupon the record was closed.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

The Respondent herein, the Jersey City Board of Education, negotiated a MOA with the JCEA. This collective bargaining agreement took effect on July 1, 2019. Petitioner filed her petition with the Commissioner on June 27, 2019. It was transferred to the OAL on June 28, 2019, to be heard on an emergent basis. Petitioner alleges certain violations of the School Ethics Act in that some members of the Respondent Board had conflicts with the JCEA and should not have been involved in the negotiation process.

Last year the JCEA went on strike. Thereafter the Board created a Standing Committee on Labor Negotiations to manage the same. Labor counsel for the Board conducted a conflict analysis to identify non-conflicted members for participation on the standing committee. Any agreement negotiated by the standing committee is subject to Board ratification.

The Board determined thereafter that a majority of the Board was conflicted from matters involving collective bargaining with the JCEA. The Board determined that it needed to invoke the Doctrine of Necessity. On three separate occasions the Board read a resolution adopting the doctrine. The resolution was re-adopted by the Board at its meeting on April 29, 2019. The Board then voted to approve the MOA.

The SEC provided an advisory opinion to the Board on June 3, 2019. The SEC, in said advisory opinion, did not invalidate the Board's adoption of the Doctrine of Necessity.

Petitioner, in her petition, alleges three causes of action: Board president Sudhan Thomas and vice president Lorenzo Richardson engaged in improper negotiations in violation of the common law and the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24; the Board's invocation of the Doctrine of Necessity on March 7, March 28 and April 29, 2019 was defective and in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21; and, the Board violated the School Ethics Act by failing to obtain full Board approval before negotiating with the JCEA.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

A motion for summary decision may be granted if the papers and discovery presented, as well as any affidavits which may have been filed with the application, show that there is no genuine issue of material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). If the motion is sufficiently supported, the non-moving party must demonstrate by affidavit that there is a genuine issue of fact which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding, in order to prevail in such an application. Ibid. These provisions mirror the summary judgment language of R. 4:46-2(c) of the New Jersey Court Rules.

The motion judge must "consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party . . . , are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995).

And even if the non-moving party comes forward with some evidence, this forum must grant summary decision if the evidence is "so one-sided that [the moving party] must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 536 (citation omitted).

The disputed facts in the instant matter all pertain to questions of whether or not Respondents violated the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. No facts alleged in the petition, or argued in Petitioner's brief as being disputed, pertain to the School Law. N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 to 76-4, which would properly lay jurisdiction before the Commissioner.

The threshold question in the instant matter is therefore one of jurisdiction: Does the Commissioner, and therefore the OAL, have jurisdiction to consider the petition herein.

The Commissioner of the Department of Education has jurisdiction over disputes "arising under the school laws." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

Should there be jurisdiction a second question arises: can the remedy of a temporary restraining order on the MOA, and the voiding of the MOA be granted.

The answers to both questions clearly is no. The Commissioner, and therefore the OAL, does not have jurisdiction as the claims set forth in the petition all hinge upon alleged violation of the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. The proper venue for the within matter would be the School Ethics Commission (SEC). N.J.S.A. 18A:12-27.

Further, the SEC has no authority to grant the relief requested in the petition. The SEC may impose the following sanctions pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c):

Upon completion of the hearing, the commission, by majority vote, shall determine whether the conduct complained of constitutes a violation of this act, or in the case of a board member, this act or the code of ethics, or whether the complaint should be dismissed. If a violation is found, the commission shall, by majority vote, recommend to the commissioner the reprimand, censure, suspension, or removal of the school official found to have violated this act, or in the case of a board member, this act or the code of ethics. The commission shall state in writing its findings of fact and conclusions of law. The commissioner shall then act on the commission's recommendation regarding the sanction.

Further, should the Commissioner have jurisdiction on some other area of school law, which I cannot determine exists, there is no authority for the Commissioner under any area of school law that permits the issuance of a temporary restraining order or injunctive relief of the MOA, which is a collective bargaining agreement.

Petitioner reargues the points made in her brief in support of the request for emergent relief and the supplemental brief filed on July 9, 2019.

Petitioner again argues that the Respondent Board is formed pursuant the School Law and is only authorized to act under the School Law. Petitioner further argues that much of what the Board does is done pursuant to the School Law. N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 to 76-4. While this argument rings true, it avoids the real issue herein: the entire petition was brought under alleged violations of the School Ethics Act.

Petitioner then argues again that the Commissioner, and therefore the OAL, has jurisdiction under the Transition Plan. The Transition Plan was issued by the New Jersey Board of Education after it transferred control of the schools of Jersey City back to the local Board of Education.

Nothing contained in the Transition Plan provides jurisdiction to the Commissioner, and therefore the OAL, to hear a petition arising under the School Ethics Act.

Petitioner again claims the Commissioner has incidental jurisdiction as she alleges that the Respondent Board violated the Open Public Meetings Act for not properly noticing all its meetings pursuant to N.J.S.A. 10:4-9, and for not keeping all meetings open to the public at all times in violation of N.J.S.A. 10:4-12. Petitioner cites Gardner v. Board of Education of the City of Hackensack, Bergen County, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 09421-12, 2013 WL 2467918, at *6 (OAL May 1, 2013), citing Sukin v. Northfield Bd. of Educ., 171 N.J. Super. 184, 187 (App. Div. 1979).

Again, I note that Petitioner did not make any claim in the petition based upon a violation of the Open Public Meetings Act. To suggest she did assert such a claim is not accurate.

In Gardner the incidental jurisdiction of the Commissioner is based upon a controversy under the school laws. In the instant matter there is a claim of jurisdiction under the School Ethics Act.

As to Petitioner's arguments regarding the remedy requested, an injunction, Petitioner cites Shankar v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of New Brunswick, Middlesex County, et al., 13 N.J.A.R. 566, 576 (Jan. 2, 1990). The holding in Shankar has no bearing on the instant matter. It revolved around a request for an injunction to name petitioner valedictorian. It cannot be read to grant the Commissioner authority to issue an injunction against the MOA where all the facts alleged revolve around violations of the School Ethics Act.

Having determined that there is no jurisdiction of the Commission to hear this matter, and therefore no jurisdiction for the OAL to hear it, the matter should be dismissed.

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that Respondent's motion for summary decision be GRANTED; and that the petition should be DISMISSED with prejudice as there is no jurisdiction to hear this matter.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that Respondent's motion for summary decision is GRANTED; and,

It is further ORDERED, as there is no jurisdiction to hear the underlying claim in the petition, that the petition is dismissed with prejudice.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Decision

Jamie Sterlacci,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Woodbridge, Middlesex County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner – a tenured teacher – filed a petition of appeal in 2018 seeking an order that the Board did not have reasonable suspicion to require her to undergo drug testing, despite the fact that she had exhibited signs of use; she further requested that the drug testing agency refuse to provide the results of the screening to the Board. Subsequently, the parties reached an agreement, titled a "Last Chance Agreement" (LCA), to fully resolve the matter in lieu of proceeding with litigation and the ultimate filing of tenure charges by the Board. In June 2019, however, the Board terminated petitioner's employment – without following the process required under the Tenure Employees Hearing Law (TEHL), N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. – after it alleged that she failed a drug test. Petitioner filed the within appeal, claiming that she was terminated in violation of her tenure rights under TEHL. The Board filed a motion to dismiss and a motion to seal the record; petitioner filed a motion for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: this matter arises under the school laws because petitioner alleged in her petition that the Board fired her in violation of her rights under the TEHL; the LCA is a contract between the Board and petitioner, an interpretation of the LCA is not the primary issue herein; the TEHL and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1 to 5.7 set forth specific procedural steps that must be followed before a tenured teacher may be dismissed; the LCA did not provide for petitioner's termination without resort and adherence to the procedural requirements of the TEHL; as such, the Board improperly fired petitioner and violated her tenure rights under the TEHL. The ALJ denied the Board's motion to dismiss, granted the petitioner's motion for summary decision, and granted, in part, the Board's request to seal the record. The ALJ concluded that petitioner is entitled to return to the Board's employ in a teaching position for which she is qualified, and is further entitled to back pay, less mitigation, and the benefits and emoluments she would have received had the Board not improperly fired her on June 13, 2019.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ, for the reasons thoroughly expressed in the Initial Decision. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter. Petitioner is entitled to return to a teaching position with the Board, as set forth in the Initial Decision.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Jamie Sterlacci,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Woodbridge, Middlesex County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by the Board pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and the petitioner's reply thereto.[1]

By way of background, on June 6, 2018, the Board ordered petitioner – a tenured teacher – to undergo a drug test; petitioner complied with the order, but refused to permit the testing agency to release the results to the Board. Thereafter, the petitioner filed a petition challenging the Board's authority to require a drug test, and the Board filed a petition to compel petitioner to release the results. While the matters were pending before the Commissioner, petitioner and the Board entered into a Last Chance Agreement (LCA) on November 28, 2018. Under the LCA, the petitioner agreed to submit to random alcohol and drug testing in exchange for her return to work and in lieu of the Board taking more serious action, including the filing tenure charges against her. The LCA also stated that if petitioner was under the influence of drugs or alcohol on Board property, it "would constitute 'just cause,' per se, for the termination of her tenured employment with the Board." (LCA at ¶6).

On June 13, 2019, the Board terminated petitioner after it alleges that she failed a drug test. Petitioner filed a petition before the Commissioner, claiming that she was terminated from her employment with the Board in violation of her tenure rights under the Tenure Employees Hearing Law (TEHL), N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) agreed with petitioner, finding that the Board improperly terminated her from her position without certifying tenure charges.[2] The ALJ noted that the terms of the LCA deprived petitioner of her tenure protections, as it did not indicate that petitioner was waiving or relinquishing her tenure rights. The ALJ further explained that the LCA did not force petitioner to resign from her position upon testing positive for drugs or alcohol. As such, the ALJ found that petitioner is entitled to return to her teaching position, along with back pay, benefits and emoluments.[3]

In its exceptions, the Board argues that the ALJ erred in failing to discuss the merits of the case – specifically by failing to include an interpretation of the LCA and the Board's primary argument that the agreement equated to a voluntary relinquishment of petitioner's employment. The Board maintains that common sense would indicate that it would not have entered into the LCA but for petitioner's consent to waive her tenure rights if she tested positive again for alcohol or drugs. The Board would not have bargained for the right to file tenure charges if petitioner failed a drug test, as the Board already has the right to file tenure

[2] The Commissioner notes that the ALJ inadvertently stated that the State Board of Education certifies tenure charges to the Commissioner, when his statement should have indicated that this is the responsibility of district boards of education. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1.

[3] The ALJ also granted the Board's motion to seal the record with respect to: (1) any of petitioner's medical records that the Board provided with its motion to dismiss; and (2) the LCA, to the extent that it includes certain information deemed confidential under the school laws. The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ and orders that those records remain sealed.

charges. As such, the ALJ ignores that the basic principles of contract law require consideration in a valid contract, and the only consideration given to the Board in exchange for allowing petitioner to continue her employment is that it would be able to terminate petitioner without the filing of tenure charges.

In reply, petitioner contends that the ALJ correctly addressed the central issue in this matter – that petitioner did not waive her tenure rights under the TEHL by signing the LCA. Petitioner maintains that – while it was not necessary for the ALJ to reach this issue – a tenured teacher can relinquish a tenured position but cannot waive her tenure rights to a position that she still holds. Therefore, the petitioner contends that the Initial Decision should be adopted as the final decision.

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the Board improperly terminated petitioner without certifying tenure charges against her. Petitioner did not waive her tenure rights by virtue of the LCA. The LCA did not reference the TEHL and did not explicitly indicate that petitioner was agreeing to forfeit her tenure rights or resign from her position if she tested positive for drugs or alcohol. The Commissioner does not find the Board's exceptions to be persuasive. The ALJ discussed the LCA to the extent necessary to determine that petitioner had not waived her tenure rights. The LCA indicated that petitioner's presence on school property while under the influence of drugs or alcohol "would constitute 'just cause,' per se, for the termination of her tenured employment with the Board." (LCA at ¶6). Such a statement does not provide the Board with the ability to bypass petitioner's tenure rights, nor does it indicate that petitioner would be forced to resign from her position. Further, the LCA stated that it should remain in petitioner's personnel file "and may be used as evidence of progressive discipline in any future proceedings against [petitioner] initiated by the Board or District Administration." (I.C.A. at ¶7). Contrary to the Board's argument, such a statement indicates that the Board had contemplated the need to initiate future proceedings against petitioner – such as the filing of tenure charges – if she tested positive for drugs or alcohol.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted – for the reasons thoroughly expressed in the Initial Decision. Petitioner is entitled to return to a teaching position with the Board, with back pay, less mitigation, and the benefits and emoluments she would have received had the Board not improperly terminated her on June 13, 2019.

JAMIE STERLACCI,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WOODBRIDGE,
Respondent.

Ari Schneider, Jr., Esquire, for respondent (Busch Law Group, LLC)

Record closed: September 24, 2019 Decided: October 25, 2019

BEFORE DEAN J. BUONO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In 2018, Jamie Sterlacci, (petitioner or Sterlacci), filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Education, seeking an order that the Board did not have reasonable suspicion to require her to undergo drug testing despite exhibiting signs of use. She requested that the testing agency refuse to provide the results of the screening to the Board. The parties were able to reach an agreement to fully resolve the matter in lieu of proceeding with litigation of the petition and the ultimate filing of tenure charges by the Board. The agreement was titled a "Last Chance Agreement." However, on June 13, 2019, the Board unilaterally and summarily terminated Ms. Sterlacci's employment, without following the process required by the Tenure Employees Hearing Law. She again filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of the Department of Education appealing her termination by Woodbridge Board of Education (Board) as a violation of her rights under the Tenure Employees Hearing Law (TEHL), N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -18.1. As part of this matter, the Board has filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer to Sterlacci's petition and a motion to seal the record, and Sterlacci has filed a motion for summary decision. It was subsequently transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on August 19, 2019.

The questions for me to decide are whether: 1. I should grant the Board's motion to dismiss petitioner's petition for failure to advance a cause of action; 2. whether, I should grant the Board's motion to seal the record, which contains certain sensitive and/or confidential information pertaining to petitioner; and, 3. finally, whether I should grant petitioner's motion for summary decision by finding that the Board violated her rights as a tenured teacher by firing her without following the requirements of the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -18.1.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The following facts are not in dispute and as such I FIND AS FACT that Sterlacci began her employment as a teacher for the Board in 2001. Schneider Cert., ¶ 2. She subsequently acquired tenure. On June 6, 2018, school officials ordered Sterlacci to take a drug test. Id. at ¶ 3. Although she took the test, she refused to release the results to the Board. Id. at ¶ 4. Instead, Sterlacci filed with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) a petition challenging the Board's authority to compel the test. Id. at ¶ 5. In response, the Board answered Sterlacci's petition and simultaneously filed with the Commissioner a cross-petition to compel Sterlacci to provide the Board with the results of the drug test. Id. at ¶¶ 6-7.

The Commissioner subsequently transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case. However, while the matter was pending at the OAL, Sterlacci and the Board entered a "Last Chance Agreement (LCA)." Id. at Ex. D.

Under the terms of the LCA, which the parties executed on November 28, 2018, Sterlacci agreed to certain conditions for her continued employment "in lieu of the Board taking more serious action against her, up to and including the certification of tenure charges." Ibid. Those conditions included Sterlacci's submission to random alcohol and drug testing upon her return to work on January 2, 2019, and until June 30, 2020. Ibid.

The terms of the LCA further provided that, if in the future, Sterlacci were under the influence of alcohol or drugs while on Board property or if she refused to submit to random testing, such conduct "would constitute 'just cause,' per se, for the termination of her tenured employment with the Board." Ibid.

Over Sterlacci's objections, the Board asserts that Sterlacci failed a drug test after she returned to work and that, "consistent with [the LCA], [the Board] had per se just cause to terminate Ms. Sterlacci." Id. at ¶¶ 15-20. On June 13, 2019, the Board terminated Sterlacci's employment. Id. at ¶ 21.

On June 21, 2019, Sterlacci filed the instant petition with the Commissioner. In her petition, Sterlacci asserts that, "notwithstanding her tenured status," the Board "took action to summarily and unilaterally terminate" her employment, and that such action violates her rights under the TEHL. Petition, ¶¶ 1-4.

As relief, Sterlacci seeks an order from the Commissioner "[d]eclaring and adjudging [the Board's] summary termination of [her] employment to be null and void;" "[r]einstating [her] in her tenured teaching position;" and, "[a]warding [her] all lawful back pay, benefits, and emoluments to which [she] is entitled." Id. at ¶¶ B-D.

On August 1, 2019, the Board filed with the Commissioner a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer to Sterlacci's petition.[1] In support of its motion, the Board maintains that Sterlacci violated the terms of the LCA by failing a subsequent drug test and that, as a result, the LCA "both permits and requires [her] termination, without the filing of formal tenure charges." Brief, p. 8. The Board argues that "in exchange for her continued employment, [Sterlacci] agreed that, in the event she again tested positive for any controlled dangerous substance and/or alcohol during the school day, the Board would have just cause, per se, to terminate her employment." Id. at pp. 1-2. The Board reasons that "[i]f the [LCA] required [Sterlacci] to forfeit her position and resign in the event of a subsequent positive drug test, surely such a resignation would be deemed lawful" and that "[t]he herein matter, though worded slightly differently, achieves the same result and a result which both parties negotiated for and understood would occur." Id. at p. 2. In essence, the Board asserts that Sterlacci's petition should be dismissed because she has failed to advance a cause of action.

The Board also moves to seal the entire record in this matter due to the sensitive and/or confidential nature of certain documents pertaining to Sterlacci.

On August 19, 2019, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the OAL as a contested case. On September 9, 2019, Sterlacci filed a brief in opposition to the Board's motion, and in support of a cross-motion for summary decision. Sterlacci argues that the Board violated the TEHL by firing her without filing tenure charges or otherwise following the procedural requirements of that act. According to Sterlacci, "the LCA [does] not empower the Board to unilaterally and summarily determine that the LCA had been violated, and to terminate Ms. Sterlacci," but instead "it merely prescribed the consequence in the event that such a violation was ultimately proven through the appropriate procedural mechanisms, i.e., by way of tenure charges certified and litigated as per the TEHL." Brief, pp. 1-2. Sterlacci further maintains that "[t]he LCA contains no waiver, explicit or implicit, of [her] rights under the [TEHL]." Id. at p. 2. I agree.

[1] The Board characterized its motion as a "motion for summary decision" pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5; however, because the Board never filed an answer to Sterlacci's petition, the Commissioner properly transmitted the motion as a "motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer" pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

As a threshold jurisdictional matter, it appears that the parties' motions—which involve contractual claims involving the LCA—may be considered in this forum. The Commissioner generally has "jurisdiction to hear and determine . . . all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws[.]" N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Thus, "[a]lthough the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction over disputes which are purely contractual in nature, he does have jurisdiction over contractual claims which are incidental to his obligation to resolve education claims that are the subject of litigation."[2] B.P. ex rel. B.P. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Lenape Reg'l High Sch. Dist., 2003 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 1198, EDU 2782-02, State Bd. of Educ. (December 3, 2003). Indeed, "the Commissioner will not rule on the enforceability of a contract" in cases in which "the interpretation of the contract is the primary issue at hand and not merely implicated in a question of the school laws." Smith v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Willingboro, 97 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 205.

This matter arises under the school laws because Sterlacci alleges in her petition that the Board fired her in violation of her rights under the TEHL. While the LCA is a contract between Sterlacci and the Board, and the parties differ on their respective rights under the terms of the LCA, an interpretation of the LCA is not the primary issue in this matter, but instead the LCA is merely implicated in a question regarding the TEHL. Thus, the parties' claims regarding the LCA may be appropriately considered here in determining whether or not the Board fired Sterlacci in violation of the TEHL.

The purpose of teacher tenure laws is "to aid in the establishment of a competent and efficient school system by affording teachers 'a measure of security in the ranks they hold after years of service.'" Carpenito v. Rumson Bd. of Educ., 322 N.J. Super. 522, 528-29 (App. Div. 1999) (quoting Viemeister v. Prospect Park Bd. of Educ., 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949)); N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 to -18; N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -18.1. As such, a tenured teacher may not be dismissed except for inefficiency, incapacity,

[2] Since, "[f]or example, contract claims against [school] boards do not arise under the school laws but rather from statutory or common law," such claims are "typically and appropriately adjudicated in the courts." Archway Programs, Inc. v. Pemberton Twp. Bd. of Educ., 352 N.J. Super. 420, 424-25 (App. Div. 2002) (citations omitted).

unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after the procedural requirements of the TEHL have been met. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5; N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

The TEHL and its implementing regulations, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1 to -5.7, set forth specific procedural steps that must be followed before a tenured teacher may be dismissed. For instance, any charge against a tenured teacher must be filed with the Secretary of the State Board of Education and sworn evidence supporting such charge shall be presented to the State Board. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. The "[c]harges shall be stated with specificity as to the action or behavior underlying the charges." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b)(1).

If the State Board determines that probable cause exists for dismissal, the State Board shall certify the charges to the Commissioner. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1. In such case, "the [local] board may suspend the person against whom such charge is made, with or without pay[.]" N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14.

The Commissioner "shall determine whether the charge(s) are sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.5(a); N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16. If the Commissioner disagrees with the board's determination, he shall dismiss the charges; however, if the Commissioner determines that the charges are sufficient to warrant dismissal, "the matter shall be transmitted immediately to an arbitrator for further proceedings." Ibid.

Thus, while a tenured teacher may be involuntarily removed from her position for several reasons, including inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, the TEHL guarantees a tenured teacher certain procedural rights and protections, prior to her dismissal.

Of course, notwithstanding the procedural requirements of the TEHL, a tenured teacher may voluntarily relinquish her position, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8, voluntarily resign in lieu of a school board's filing of tenure charges, see, e.g., Camden City Sch. Dist. v. Pitts, 2019 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 1686 (App. Div. July 26, 2019) (holding that tenured teacher agreed to resign in exchange for school board's agreement not to pursue tenure charges for inefficiency), or voluntarily resign prior to adjudication under the TEHL, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6.

Here, Sterlacci did not voluntarily resign from her position under any of these scenarios. The Board concedes as much through its argument that "[i]f the [LCA] required [Sterlacci] to forfeit her position and resign in the event of a subsequent positive drug test, surely such a resignation would be deemed lawful" and that the LCA, "though worded slightly differently, achieves the same result . . . the cessation of [Sterlacci's] employment with the Board." Thus, by the Board's own admission, the LCA did not require Sterlacci to resign upon a subsequent positive drug test. And contrary to the Board's assertion, the LCA did not provide for Sterlacci's termination without resort and adherence to the procedural requirement of the TEHL.

Instead, the LCA simply provided thatifSterlacci failed another drug test, such a circumstance "would constitute 'just cause,' per se, for the termination of her tenured employment with the Board." These terms did not deprive Sterlacci of the TEHL's protections. In fact, the LCA does not even mention the TEHL. As a result, the LCA cannot be interpreted as a relinquishment of Sterlacci's rights under the TEHL or as authority for the Board to terminate Sterlacci without adherence to the requirements of the TEHL. Simply put, the LCA does not trump the TEHL.

The TEHL clearly states that a tenured teacher may not be dismissed "except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and only after a hearing held pursuant to this subarticle, by the commissioner, or a person appointed by him to act in his behalf, after a written charge or charges, of the cause or causes of complaint, shall have been preferred against such person, signed by the person or persons making the same, who may or may not be a member or members of a board of education, and filed and proceeded upon as in this subarticle provided." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. As such, the Board improperly fired Sterlacci from her position and violated her tenure rights by failing to follow the procedural requirements of the TEHL.

In light of the Board's violation, I CONCLUDE that Board's motion to dismiss is hereby DENIED and Sterlacci's motion for summary decision is GRANTED. The Board's motion to dismiss is denied because Sterlacci has clearly advanced a cause of action for the Board's violation of the TEHL.

Sterlacci's motion for summary decision is GRANTED because there are no issues of fact that the Board violated Sterlacci's rights. Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, "[a] party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues in a contested case." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). Such motion "shall be served with briefs and with or without supporting affidavits" and "[t]he decision sought may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). Here, summary decision in favor of Sterlacci is appropriate because there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and Sterlacci is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. The Board violated Sterlacci's tenure rights by firing her without following the requirements of the TEHL. As such, Sterlacci is entitled to return to the Board's employ in a teaching position for which she is qualified and she is further entitled to back pay, less mitigation, and the benefits and emoluments she would have received had the Board not improperly fired her on June 13, 2019.

Finally, the Board's request to seal the record should be granted in part for the following reasons. Under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6, "[t]he record of all hearings [and motion proceedings] shall be open to public inspection, but the judge may, for good cause shown, order the sealing of the record or any part thereof." N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.1(a). In deciding whether to seal a record or a part thereof, "the judge shall consider the requirements of due process of law, other constitutional and statutory standards and matters of public policy" and "the need to protect against unwarranted disclosure of sensitive financial information or trade secrets, to protect parties or witnesses from undue embarrassment or deprivations of privacy[.]" N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.1(b). In order to protect Sterlacci from undue deprivation of her privacy, it is appropriate to proceed with caution and Iam partially granting the Board's motion to seal the record by ordering that (1) any of Sterlacci's medical records that the Board provided with its motion to dismiss; and (2) the LCA, to the extent that it includes certain information deemed confidential under the school laws, shall be sealed, except for the purpose of any review of my order on the parties' motions.

Therefore, I FIND AS FACT that there are no genuine issues of material fact requiring a hearing. Based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the Board's motion to dismiss is hereby DENIED. I FURTHER CONCLUDE the Board's motion to seal the record is GRANTED IN PART. I FURTHER CONCLUDE Sterlacci's motion for summary decision is GRANTED. Sterlacci is entitled to return to the Board's employ in a teaching position for which she is qualified, and she is further entitled to back pay, less mitigation, and the benefits and emoluments she would have received had the Board not improperly fired her on June 13, 2019.

It is hereby ORDERED that the respondent's request for summary decision be DENIED. It is FURTHER ORDERED that the following records be sealed (1) any of Sterlacci's medical records that the Board provided with its motion to dismiss; and (2) the LCA, to the extent that it includes certain information deemed confidential under the school laws, shall be sealed. It is hereby further CONCLUDED that there are no genuine issues of material fact to be determined on petitioner's cross-motion for summary decision, and petitioner is entitled to summary decision, it is hereby FURTHER ORDERED that the petitioner's motion be GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Decision

Lisa Armstead,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, Union County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner sought reinstatement to her previous title of principal following a transfer to a vice principal position in the respondent Board's school district. Petitioner contended that she had served in the principal position for more than two years, and therefore is entitled to tenure rights as a principal. The Board argued that petitioner did not fill a "true vacancy" during the two years she served as principal and therefore cannot accrue tenure rights as a school principal.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the issue here is whether petitioner occupied a truly vacant principal position and thus gained tenure rights as a school principal after having served in that position for more than two years; petitioner was appointed to the position of interim principal on March 4, 2015, after the former principal was promoted to the position of Interim Assistant Superintendent of Educational Services – a position that had been vacated the previous school year by a resignation; petitioner served in the position of principal for the uninterrupted period between March 4, 2015 and July 16, 2017; therefore, under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6(b)(3), petitioner obtained tenure rights due to her service as principal for a period of more than two years; the Board's argument that the petitioner never filled a "true vacancy" because she was appointed to an "interim" position is without merit; and the Board's argument that petitioner must prove two favorable evaluations during the requisite two years in order to gain tenure is barred as this contention was never mentioned until the filing of the Board's summative brief. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered that petitioner be reinstated to her position of principal or, in the alternative, that she be placed on the appropriate salary guide step for principal for the 2019-2020 school year; further, the ALJ ordered that petitioner be awarded the difference between what her earnings and benefits for the 2018-2019 school year would have been had she not been wrongfully demoted, and the salary that she actually received.

Upon review, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision, with the modification that petitioner shall be awarded compensation for the difference in salary she is owed beginning from July 17, 2017, the date upon which she was wrongfully demoted. Further, the Commissioner accepted the evaluations submitted by petitioner for purposes of finding that she met the evaluation requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6(b). The Board was ordered to reinstate petitioner to a principal position and to compensate her for any salary and benefits lost since July 17, 2017.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Lisa Armstead,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, Union County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the exceptions filed by petitioner and respondent, and petitioner's reply to respondent's exceptions have been reviewed and considered.

This matter involves a school district employee who served in the position of interim principal for more than two years; she was subsequently transferred to a vice principal position and denied tenure as a principal on the basis that she did not fill a "true vacancy." The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that petitioner served for the requisite period of time, and – regardless of the intention of the Board during that period – petitioner was entitled to tenure as a school principal. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered that petitioner be reinstated to her position as principal or, in the alternative, placed on the appropriate salary guide step for principal for the 2019-2020 school year, and awarded the difference in her earnings and benefits for the 2018-2019 school year.

Petitioner filed exceptions to the Initial Decision. First, petitioner notes that the ALJ awarded the difference in her earnings and benefits for the 2018-19 school year and argues that her award should date from July 17, 2017, when she was wrongfully demoted. Second, petitioner contends that the Initial Decision incorrectly allows the Board the alternative of placing her on the salary guide step for principal. According to petitioner, she must be reinstated to the principal title, because N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 provides that upon earning tenure, she "shall not be dismissed . . . except for inefficiency, incapacity, or unbecoming conduct . . .".

Respondent also filed exceptions to the Initial Decision. First, respondent claims that there is no proof that petitioner was actually filling a true vacancy and that she admitted that she served in an interim position. Second, respondent argues that because there was no testimony or evidence of lost wages or wage entitlement, that issue is foreclosed.

In reply to respondent's exceptions, petitioner argues that the ALJ implicitly found that a true vacancy existed, because tenure rights cannot attach to a position that is not actually vacant. Petitioner also contends that the award of the difference between her wages at the vice principal salary and the principal salary follows from and is commensurate with the legal finding that she earned tenure as a principal, such that no specific testimony about wages or entitlements is required for the ALJ or Commissioner to enter such an order.

Upon a comprehensive review, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the petitioner is entitled to tenure as a principal. The Commissioner does not find the Board's exceptions, which cite no statutes, regulations, or case law, to be persuasive. The Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 et seq., "should be liberally construed to achieve its beneficent ends." Spiewak v. Board of Education of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63, 74 (1982). Permitting a board of education to avoid tenure rights by using "interim" or "acting" titles for over two years, under the guise of "mulling over" permanent assignments, contravenes the intent of the Tenure Act.

"...(T)he word 'vacancy' is commonly understood to mean an unoccupied position for which an incumbent does not intend to return, as contrasted with a leave of absence that 'connotes continuity of the employment status.'" Lammers v. Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of Point Pleasant, 134 N.J. 264, 272 (1993), quoting Bowers v. Am. Bridge Co., 43 N.J. Super. 48, 57 (App. Div. 1956), aff'd 24 N.J. 390 (1957). Prior to the events at issue in this case, the position of assistant superintendent was held by Margaret Morales, and it became truly vacant when she left the district. When Shirly Johnson-Tucker assumed the interim superintendent position, a true vacancy was created in her former position of principal. Her assumption of a different position in the district cannot be categorized as a leave of absence. Therefore, when petitioner assumed the interim principal position, she was assuming a truly vacant position. Petitioner filled that position for more than two years, meeting the time requirement to obtain tenure as a principal. Accordingly, she must be reinstated as principal and is entitled to the difference between the salary and benefits she received after her transfer to vice principal and what she would have received as principal. While the Initial Decision orders this payment for the 2018-2019 school year, the Commissioner agrees with the argument set forth in petitioner's exceptions that the award should date from July 17, 2017, when she was wrongfully demoted.

The Initial Decision notes that respondent's closing brief argued that petitioner did not meet her burden to prove that she received two favorable evaluations, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6(b).[1] The ALJ found that the argument was barred because respondent had not raised it at any time prior to its summation brief and had affirmed at the outset of the hearing that the only issue in dispute was whether petitioner had filled a true vacancy. The Commissioner acknowledges that, in order for an individual to receive tenure as a principal, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-

[1] Notably, respondent did not argue that petitioner had not received the required favorable evaluations, but rather merely that petitioner did not demonstrate that she had.

6(b) requires two annual summative evaluations of "effective" or "highly effective" within the first three years of employment in that position. In reply to respondent's closing brief, which raised this issue for the first time, petitioner submitted evidence of favorable evaluations from the 2016-2017 and 2017-2018 school years. Respondent did not contest, or even respond to, this evidence in any subsequent filing with the OAL or the Commissioner. As such, the Commissioner accepts the evaluations submitted by petitioner for purposes of finding that she met the evaluation requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6(b).

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, as modified herein. The Board is ordered to reinstate petitioner to a principal position and to compensate petitioner for any salary and benefits lost since July 17, 2017.

Record Closed: October 15, 2019 Decided: October 23, 2019

BEFORE JUDE-ANTHONY TISCORNIA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Lisa Armstead, was appointed to serve as an elementary school principal on March 4, 2015, by the City of Plainfield Board of Education (district or board). Petitioner remained in that position until July 16, 2017, at which time she was transferred to the position of vice principal at the Plainfield High School. Petitioner argues that since she remained in the principal position for more than two years, she gained tenure rights as a principal. The district argues that petitioner did not fill a "true vacancy" during the two years that she served as principal and can therefore not accrue tenure rights as a school principal.

ISSUE

Did petitioner occupy a truly vacant principal position and thus gain tenure rights as a school principal after having served in that position for more than two years?

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed the instant Petition with the New Jersey Commissioner of Education on or about August 3, 2017. The matter was transmitted as a contested case on September 20, 2017, to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was received on September 22, 2017. Petitioner filed a Motion for Summary Decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 on or about August 30, 2018. Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision was denied by Letter Order dated December 20, 2018. A hearing on the merits was set down for July 10, 2019. Final Submissions were received by the undersigned on October 15, 2019, at which point the record was closed.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The I FIND that the following facts to be the FACTS of the case:

The District employed Petitioner beginning on or about December 16, 1987, as a science teacher, serving under the required educational certificate until the District promoted her to the position of School Counselor on or about September 1, 2001. Petitioner served in the position of School Counselor under the requisite certificate, attaining tenure in that capacity, and was thereafter, promoted to the position of Acting Vice Principal in or around August 2012. Petitioner held the requisite Principal certificate, which authorized her to serve in, among other roles, the capacity of principal and vice principal. Thereafter, on November 21, 2012, the District changed Petitioner's title from "Acting Vice Principal" to that of "Vice Principal."

On March 4, 2015, the District appointed petitioner to the position of interim principal of the Woodland Elementary School. Petitioner was appointed to replace Ms. Shirly Johnson-Tucker, who had been promoted to the position of Interim Assistant Superintendent of Educational Services on February 27, 2015. Ms. Johnson-Tucker was promoted to her role as interim Assistant Superintendent of Educational Services in order to fill the position vacated by Ms. Margaret Morales who was no longer employed by the District as of June 30, 2014. Petitioner remained in her position as principal until July 16, 2017, when she was transferred to the position of Vice Principal at the Plainfield High School, effective July 17, 2017.

LEGAL ARGUMENT

PETITIONER OBTAINED TENURE RIGHTS DUE TO HER SERVICE AS PRINCIPAL UNDER N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6(b)(3)

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 Tenure upon transfer or promotion

> b. Any such teaching staff member under tenure or eligible to obtain tenure under this chapter, who is transferred or promoted with his consent to another position covered by this chapter on or after the effective date of P.L. 2012, c. 26 (C.18A:6-117), shall not obtain tenure in the new position until after:
>
> . . .
> (3) employment in the new position within a period of any three consecutive academic years, for the equivalent of more than two academic years. . . . .

Respondent district does not dispute that petitioner served as principal for the requisite academic years provided for by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6(b), nor does the district dispute whether such service was under the appropriate certificate. See Spiewak v. Bd. of Educ. of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63, 81 (1982) ("[A]ll teaching staff members who work in positions for which a certificate is required, who hold valid certificates, and who have worked the requisite number of years, are eligible for tenure[.]").

Respondent district only argues that petitioner never filled a "true vacancy" as principal, and thus cannot obtain tenure. In their closing brief, respondent fails to site any statute, code, or case law that discusses what constitutes a "true vacancy." Instead, respondent asserts that petitioner was appointed school principal in an "interim" position and states that during the two-plus years petitioner served as principal the district was "mulling over" to whom the position of principal should permanently be assigned. See Board's Summation Brief attached hereto, without attachments, as Exhibit A. The district is apparently asking this tribunal to infer that because the board was still "mulling over" a permanent appointee for the position of school principal that petitioner did not fill a true vacancy and should, therefore, not gain tenure as a principal. I FIND petitioner did actually serve as school principal for an uninterrupted period between March 4, 2015, and July16, 2017, and thus, I FIND that petitioner fulfilled all requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6(b), regardless of the mindset or intention of the board during that period, and I CONCLUDE that she is entitled to tenure rights as school principal as a matter of law.

It should be noted that in their closing brief, respondent argues that, under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6(b), petitioner must have received favorable evaluations during the requisite two years in order to receive tenure. Without addressing the merits of this argument, I CONCLUDE the argument is barred as respondent at no time prior to the filing of their summation brief ever brought into question petition's evaluations when she served as school principal. Indeed, it should be noted that both parties affirmed at the outset of the hearing that the only issue in dispute before this tribunal was whether or not petitioner filled a true vacancy when she served as principal in order to gain tenure rights as principal.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner Lisa Armstead's petition be GRANTED and that she be reinstated to her position of principal or, in the alternative, that she be placed on the appropriate salary guide step for principal for the 2019-2020 school year. It is further ORDERED that Armstead be awarded the difference between what her earnings and benefits for the 2018-2019 school year would have been had she not been wrongfully demoted from her position of principal and what she actually received.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Final Decision

S.B., on behalf of minor child, S.F.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Morris School District, Morris County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent Board that her child, S.F., was ineligible to receive a free public education in respondent's school district. S.F. divides her time equally between the Morris County School of Technology and the Morristown High School (MHS). The Board contended that S.B. and S.F. moved from Morristown to Boonton early in the 2018-19 school year, and from that point forward was ineligible to receive a free public education in the Morris School District. The Board filed a motion for summary decision, and a counterclaim for tuition.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue herein and the case is ripe for summary decision; pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a), public school is free to a minor who is domiciled within the school district; if a student is not domiciled within the school district, she is not entitled to attend district schools free of charge, and the Commissioner may assess tuition pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b; in the instant case, it is uncontroverted that S.B. and S.F. moved from Morristown to Boonton on September 30, 2018, but S.F. continued to attend MHS for the remainder of the 2018-19 school year; S.F. remains a student at MHS for the 2019-20 school year; and the respondent Board is entitled to tuition reimbursement for the period of S.F.'s ineligible attendance. The ALJ concluded that S.B. owes the Board $11,290.05 for the period from October 19, 2018 through June 30, 2019, and an additional amount of $73.70 per day for each school day S.F. attended school in respondent's district during the 2019-20 school year.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. However, in reviewing the tuition calculations in the Initial Decision, the Commissioner found that additional information is necessary in order to accurately calculate the total amount of tuition due to the Board. Accordingly, the Commissioner remanded this matter to the OAL for calculation of total tuition owed for S.F.'s ineligible attendance, and supplementation of the record as warranted.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

S.B., on behalf of minor child, S.F.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Morris School District, Morris County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) finding that petitioner failed to sustain her burden of establishing that she was a domiciliary of Morristown for the majority of the 2018-19 school year, as she admitted moving to Boonton on or about September 30, 2018. The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ that the minor child was, therefore, not entitled to a free public education in the District's schools, or at the Morris County School of Technology, which S.F. attended part time.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b, the Commissioner shall assess tuition against petitioner for the time period during which the minor child was ineligible to attend school in the district. The ALJ noted that the half-time tuition at Morristown High School for the 2018-19 school year was $7,994.50, and the part-time tuition at the Morris County School of Technology for the same period was $4,550. The ALJ prorated the tuition to $11,290.05 for the portion of the school year in which S.F. was ineligible to attend school in the Morris School District, but it is unclear what time period that calculation represents. The Initial Decision indicates that the $11,290.05 represents the prorated tuition for the time period from October 1, 2018 through June 30, 2019; elsewhere in the decision, however, the time period in question is stated as October 19, 2018 through June 30, 2019. Without the daily tuition rate for the 2018-19 school year and the number of school days in which S.F. was ineligible to attend school in the district during that time, the Commissioner cannot calculate the exact tuition amount.

Additionally, the ALJ ordered that petitioner pay $73.70 per day for each school day since the start of the 2019-20 school year and going forward, but it is unclear whether this daily tuition rate is comprised of the part-time rates from both of the schools S.F. attended, i.e., the Morristown High School and the Morris County School of Technology; further, the ALJ failed to include a calculation for any defined portion of the 2019-20 school year, such as to the date the record closed or the date of the Initial Decision.

In order to calculate the total tuition owed to the Board in this matter, additional information is necessary, such as the number of school days on which the minor child attended school ineligibly during both the 2018-19 and 2019-20 school years in respondent's school district. Accordingly, this matter is remanded to the OAL for calculation of tuition due to the Board, and supplementation of the record as warranted.

BEFORE BARRY E. MOSCOWITZ, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

S.F. is a minor and a student in the Morris School District but is domiciled in the Boonton School District. Should public school be free to S.F. in the Morris School District when she is not domiciled there? No. Under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a), public school shall be free to a minor who is domiciled within the school district, and S.F. meets no exception under this law.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, S.B., is the mother of S.F. Significantly, S.F. is a minor and a student in the Morris School District who divides her time equally between the Morris County School of Technology (Morris County VoTech) and Morristown High School. On October 19, 2018, the Morris School District discovered that S.B. had moved from Morristown, NJ, to Boonton, NJ. As a result, on November 1, 2018, the Morris School District sent S.B. a Notice of Initial Determination of Ineligibility, which afforded S.B. a hearing before its board of education to determine whether S.F. was entitled to a free, public education by the Morris School District.

On December 10, 2018, respondent, the Morris School District Board of Education (Board), held the hearing. On March 11, 2019, the Board determined that S.B. had failed to prove that S.F. lived within the Morris School District; concluded that S.F. was ineligible to receive a free, public education from it; and, consequently, voted to remove S.F. from the district. On March 14, 2019, the Board issued its Notice of Final Determination of Ineligibility. In its notice, the Board informed S.B. that she may be assessed tuition.

On March 25, 2019, S.B. appealed the determination.

On April 23, 2019, the Department of Education, Office of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted the case to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case under the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and the act establishing the Office of Administrative Law, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -23, for a hearing under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6.

On April 29, 2019, the case was assigned to me for hearing. On May 3, 2019, I held an initial prehearing conference, during which time the parties advised me that they were negotiating a settlement of the case. As a result, another prehearing conference was scheduled for May 17, 2019.

On May 17, 2019, I held the prehearing conference to learn the status of the settlement negotiations, during which time the parties advised me that they would enter into a settlement agreement within the next thirty days, so I scheduled another prehearing conference for June 19, 2019.

On June 19, 2019, before I convened the prehearing conference, the parties advised me that they could not enter into a settlement agreement and requested an adjournment of the prehearing conference until the following day, June 20, 2019.

At the prehearing conference on June 20, 2019, the parties informed me that they could not settle the case, but agreed that it could be resolved through a motion for summary decision, which the Board represented it would file shortly.

On September 12, 2019, the Board filed its motion for summary decision. On September 25, 2019, more than the ten days N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.2 allows for the filing of opposition, petitioner emailed this tribunal to request a conference call, which was scheduled for October 18, 2019. On October 18, 2019, before the conference call, petitioner emailed her opposition, and during the conference call, the Board advised that it would not submit a response. As a result, I closed the record.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the documents submitted in support of and in opposition to the motion for summary decision, I FIND the following as FACT for purposes of this motion only:

Petitioner, S.B., is the mother of S.F. S.F. is a minor and a student in the Morris School District who divides her time equally between the Morris County VoTech and Morristown High School. Before the 2018–19 school year, S.B. and S.F. lived in Morristown, NJ, at 23 D. Place. S.B. and S.F., however, moved for the 2018–19 school year. During the 2018–19 school year, on September 30, 2018, S.B. and S.F. moved to Boonton, NJ, at 81 D. Avenue. Uncontroverted evidence are the fact that on October 19, 2018, mail was returned to the Morris School District from 23 D. Place, Morristown, NJ, and admissions by S.B. that she and S.F. did, in fact, move to 81 D. Avenue, Boonton, NJ. Indeed, S.B. wrote a letter to the Commissioner of the Department of Education, dated March 20, 2019, listing her home address as 81 D. Avenue, Boonton, NJ, and another letter to the Commissioner dated March 25, 2019, stating that she moved from Morristown to 81 D. Avenue, Boonton, NJ, on September 30, 2018.

Despite having moved from Morristown to Boonton, S.F. continued to attend high school at Morristown High School for the 2018–19 school year, and she continues to attend high school at Morristown High School for the 2019–20 school year to this day.

The half-time tuition for general-education attendance at Morristown High School for the 2018–19 school year is $7,994.50. The part-time tuition for attendance at the Morris County VoTech for the 2018–19 school year is $4,550. Thus, the total and prorated tuition for S.F. to attend Morristown High School and the Morris County VoTech between October 1, 2018, and June 30, 2019, is $11,290.05.

Meanwhile, the per-diem tuition rate for the 2018–19 school year is $69.69, and the per-diem tuition rate for the 2019–20 school year is $73.70.

To date, S.B. has made no payments to the Morris School District.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

A party may move for summary decision upon any or all substantive issues in a contested case. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). The motion for summary decision shall be served with briefs and may be served with supporting affidavits. "The decision sought may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b).

In this case, no genuine issue of any material fact exists, and the Board is entitled to prevail as a matter of law for the reasons stated below.

Public school shall be free to a minor who is domiciled within the school district, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a); New Jersey has consistently held that the domicile of the child follows the domicile of the parent, Shim v. Rutgers, 191 N.J. 374, 399 (2007); and if a student does not have a right to attend the school district, the Commissioner may assess tuition, N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2.

In this case, S.F. is domiciled in Boonton, NJ, and has been domiciled in Boonton, NJ, since October 19, 2018, when she moved with her mother from Morristown to Boonton. Given this circumstance, the Morris School District assessed S.B. tuition for the time her daughter attended school at Morristown High School and the Morris County VoTech while she and her daughter were no longer domiciled in Morristown. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that S.B. owes the Board $11,290.05 for the period of ineligibility, from October 19, 2018, through June 30, 2019, and $73.70 for each school day going forward since the start of the 2019–20 school year.

ORDER

Given my findings of fact and conclusions of law, I ORDER that S.B. owes the Board $11,290.05 for the period of ineligibility, from October 19, 2018, through June 30, 2019, and $73.70 for each school day going forward since the start of the 2019–20 school year.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified, or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who is authorized by law to make a final decision in this case. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify, or reject this decision within forty-five days, and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision under N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Record Closed: November 14, 2019 Decided: November 15, 2019

BEFORE JEFFREY R. WILSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

V.S.W. (petitioner) on behalf of her minor daughter, P.Q. brings an action for emergent relief against the Board of Education of the Town of Hammonton, Atlantic County (respondent), challenging the respondent's refusal to accept P.Q. into the Choice Program.

The respondent opposes the relief requested and asserts that the petitioner's application is legally defective as none of the arguments in her petition provide a basis to grant the requested emergent relief. The respondent argues that the petitioner cannot satisfy any of the mandatory prerequisites outlined in Crowe v. DeGoia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982.)

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed a request for emergent relief on August 27, 2019, with the New Jersey Department of Education (NJDOE). On August 28, 2019, the NJDOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case seeking emergent relief for the petitioner. The parties presented oral argument on the emergent relief application on September 9, 2019, at the OAL offices in Atlantic City, New Jersey and the record closed. By Order dated September 9, 2019, the aforementioned emergent relief was denied.

By Order dated September 26, 2019, the Commissioner of Education adopted the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief. The Commissioner further ordered that the matter shall continue at the OAL with such proceedings as the parties and the ALJ deem necessary to bring this matter to closure.

On October 4, 2019, proper notice was emailed to the parties for a telephone status conference on November 13, 2019 at 2:00 p.m. The petitioner failed to participate in the status conference. Counsel for the respondent represented that she has had no contact with the petitioner since the September 9, 2019 oral argument. Counsel for the respondent further represented that the district has had no further contact with the petitioner relative to the matter.

To date, the petitioner has not provided a request for an adjournment of the November 13, 2019, status conference or an explanation for her nonappearance at the same. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to appear and abandoned her appeal.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that this matter is DISMISSED.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BEFORE JULIO C. MOREJON, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on November 4, 2019, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. [1]

---

[1] This matter was originally transferred to the OAL and filed as a contested matter on August 5, 2019, under docket number EDU 10717-19. The matter settled and on September 25, 2019, an Initial Decision Settlement was filed. Thereafter, on October 30, 2019, the Commissioner of the Department of Education remanded the matter to the OAL because the Stipulation of Settlement was not in compliance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein. This Settlement Agreement resolves all disputes in this matter.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signatures of the parties or their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

3. The settlement is in compliance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.13.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that settlement should be approved. Accordingly, I approve the settlement ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND RELEASE

THIS SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT (the "Agreement") made by and between the Montclair Board of education, with its principal office located in Montclair, New Jersey (hereinafter referred to as the "Board" or "District" and Chriss Williams ("Parent"), on behalf of Truman Foster Williams (hereinafter "T.W." or "student").

WHEREAS, the Montclair Board of Education is the local educational authority with the responsibility of educating T.W.; and

WHEREAS, on May 1, 2019, Truman was accused of engaging in a fight with another District student on school-grounds;

WHEREAS, as a result of the allegations, T.W. received a one (1) day suspension; and

WHEREAS, on June 24, 2019, Parent filed a Petition of Appeal with the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Controversies and Disputes, challenging the accuracy of the allegations made against T.W. and requesting that the matter be expunged from his student records; and

WHEREAS, the parties having a desire to settle the above matters in an amicable way so as to avoid a hearing and any further legal proceedings.

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises the parties hereto agree as follows:

1. Effective with the execution of this Agreement, references to the May 1, 2019 incident, as well as the associated one (1) day suspension, shall be expunged from T.W.'s student records.

2. It is understood and agreed that each Party shall be responsible for their own attorney's fees and that there is no "prevailing party". Petitioner further waives any and all other costs associated with this matter, whether alleged or not, up to the date of the execution of this Agreement.

3. Petitioner shall release the District from any and all claims, rights and liability, including but not limited to any claims or costs for attorney's fees, civil liability, or any other equitable or legal relief at all relevant times, whether known or unknown as of the date of this Agreement.

4. This Agreement contains the entire agreement between the parties hereto and is intended to resolve all disputes and issues between them as of the date of execution of this Agreement.

5. This Agreement shall remain confidential and neither party shall disclose its form or contents to third parties, except as required by law and as necessary for enforcement purposes.

6. This Agreement shall be governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey.

7. If, during the term of this Agreement, a specific clause of the Agreement is determined to be illegal or in violation of any Federal or State law, the remainder of the Agreement shall not be affected by such a ruling and shall remain in full force and effect.

8. This Agreement may not be altered, amended or modified except by writing, signed and duly authorized by all parties.

9. Because short-term discipline is within the discretion of the administration, this agreement is not subject to Board approval, unless otherwise required by the Court.

Final Decision

C.W., on behalf of minor child, T.W.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Montclair, Essex County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the proposed settlement agreement and general release, and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), have been reviewed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1.

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that the Interim Superintendent of the Montclair Board of Education signed the agreement on behalf of the Board. Despite the language in paragraph 9 of the proposed stipulation of settlement – which incorrectly states that settlements involving short-term discipline are not subject to Board approval – N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.13 clearly requires that when a district board of education is a party to a contested matter, a proposed settlement agreement must either include a copy of the Board resolution approving the settlement or the signature of the Board's attorney, who is the Board's duly authorized representative in litigation. Without either the Board attorney's signature or the appropriate Board resolution designating the Interim Superintendent to sign the agreement on its behalf, the Commissioner cannot approve the within settlement.

Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for revision of the settlement agreement consistent with the concerns set forth above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to hearing.

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed.[1] Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the recommended Order – that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6 and Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. This matter shall continue at the OAL with such proceedings as the parties and ALJ deem necessary to bring it to closure.

Record Closed: November 26, 2019 Decided: November 27, 2019

BEFORE SUSANA E. GUERRERO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner filed an application for emergent relief seeking a determination that an alternative placement or school transfer to Pope John XXIII Regional High School is a proper remedy to the petitioners' complaints that student F.P. was subject to harassment, intimidation and bullying at respondent school district. Petitioner makes this application to permit F.P. to compete immediately on the Pope John XXIII Regional High School's varsity basketball team, rather than "sit out" the first thirty days of the season as required by NJSIAA rules.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed a petition seeking emergent relief with the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Controversies and Disputes on or around November 15, 2019. On November 19, 2019, the matter was filed with the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). Oral argument was held on November 26, 2019, at which time the record was closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

F.P. is currently enrolled as a sophomore at Pope John XXIII Regional High School (Pope John). In the 2018–2019 school year, she was enrolled as a freshman at West Morris Central High School (West Morris), where she was a member of the West Morris Varsity Girls' Basketball Team.

Petitioners assert that F.P. was subject to harassment, intimidation and bullying (HIB) by her coach while on the West Morris Varsity Girls' Basketball Team, and that petitioners complained of the coach's conduct to the West Morris Athletic Director in February 2019. Petitioners allege that although they complained of HIB conduct, the Athletic Director failed to report the complaint and the school never initiated an HIB investigation. Petitioners assert that the Athletic Director's failure to do so constituted a violation of the respondent's HIB Policy and the New Jersey Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (the Act). F.P. completed the basketball season, and respondent did not renew the coach after the season ended.

Petitioners also assert that on May 12, 2019, petitioner S.P. sent an e-mail to the school principal, Principal Rymer, to report an HIB complaint with respect to another student, M.S., who was sharing an inappropriate photograph of a topless female with various boys in the high school alleging that the picture was of F.P. M.S. told other students that F.P. shared the photograph with him. These statements, according to petitioners, were intentionally false and cause her extreme emotional distress. The school conducted an investigation in response to the May 12 complaint, but it was not conducted pursuant to the District's HIB policy and the Act. Specifically, petitioners contend that the school never provided them with any information concerning the school's investigation or determination in writing, and never advised petitioners of their rights under the HIB Policy and the Act, including their right to a hearing before the Board of Education. In late May 2019, however, Principal Rymer did advise petitioners verbally that M.S. was found not to have violated the HIB Policy but was suspended from school. Despite being verbally informed in late May that M.S. was found not to have violated the HIB Policy, petitioners maintain that they had been aware "that M.S. was determined to not have violated the HIB Policy, petitioners would have sought a hearing as per their statutory right." Respondent maintains that the May complaint was properly handled by the school, and investigated pursuant to the student Code of Conduct after respondent determined that the reported acts of M.S. did not meet the threshold definition of HIB, pursuant to HIB Policy 5131.1, which is in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.7(a)(2)(ix)(1).

In early August 2019, M.S. began again to bully or harass F.P on social media. F.P. no longer felt safe at West Morris and petitioners decided that it was in F.P.'s best interest to transfer to Pope John. Petitioners assert that this decision was "based solely on the fact that respondent failed to properly adhere to its HIB Policy and to take the HIB complaints seriously."

Petitioners allege that M.S.'s harassing conduct against F.P. continued even after F.P. transferred from West Morris Regional High School, and that this resulted in petitioners requesting that respondent conduct another HIB investigation. None of the complaints filed by petitioners in August and September 2019 were investigated.

Petitioners met with the West Morris Superintendent in October 2019 to try to resolve "the outstanding dispute as to the school's failure to adhere to its HIB Policy which was now preventing F.P. from participating in the Pope John basketball program." The superintendent refused to sign a transfer form indicating that F.P.'s transfer was not for athletic advantage.

Petitioners allege that respondent failed to comply with its HIB policy by failing to follow the procedures outlined in the Act, and violated petitioners' due process rights by failing to advise them in writing as to the outcome of their investigation, by failing to advise them of their right to a statutory hearing and by failing to properly punish M.S. in the various HIB complaints against him. Respondent denies that it violated its HIB policy or the Act in its handling of petitioners' allegations, and have moved to dismiss the Petition of Appeal. Respondent asserts that petitioners' appeal of the May 2019 determination is untimely; respondent has no obligation to conduct any investigation in response to the August and September complaints (after F.P. left West Morris); and respondent had no obligation to inform petitioners in writing concerning the status of the M.S. complaint or its disposition of the matter since it was handled as a student Code of Conduct matter. Respondent asserts that the Petition of Appeal and this request for emergent relief is simply petitioners' attempt to circumvent NJSIAA rules concerning the thirty-day waiting period for transfer students.

The basketball season at Pope John begins on December 20, 2019. NJSIAA rules require athletes who switch schools without a "bona fide change of residence" to sit out of competition for thirty days. This applies to student athletes, like F.P., who played at the varsity level at her previous school. In order to permit F.P. to play for the Pope John basketball team immediately and not "sit out" the thirty days, petitioners seek a determination that "based on the background of the case and the current relationship between the respondent and the petitioners, a proper action to remediate the petitioners' complaints is an alternative placement or a school transfer," which would permit F.P. to immediately play for the Pope John basketball team and not "be punished" for transferring to Pope John as a result of the harassment, intimidation and bullying complaints made by petitioners.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The standards which must be met by the moving party in an application for emergent relief are embodied in N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6 and Crowe v. DeGoia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-34 (1982). Emergency relief may only be granted if the judge determines that:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the relief is not granted;

2. The legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled;

3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

Petitioners must satisfy all four prongs of the Crowe test.

With regard to the first required prong in considering an emergent relief request, "irreparable harm" is defined as the type of harm "that cannot be redressed adequately by monetary damages." Crowe, 90 N.J. at 132-33. In addition, the irreparable harm standard contemplates that the harm be both substantial and immediate. Subcarrier Communications v. Day, 229 N.J. Super. 634, 638 (App. Div. 1977). However, pecuniary damages may sometimes be inadequate because of the nature of the injury or the right affected. Crowe, 90 N.J. at 133. For example, in Crowe the Court determined neither an unwarranted eviction nor reduction to poverty could be compensated adequately by monetary damages awarded after a distant hearing. Ibid.

I agree that petitioners have sufficiently established that F.P. will suffer irreparable harm if required to sit out the first thirty days of the season as this is not the type of harm that can be redressed adequately by monetary damages. If not permitted to play for thirty days, F.P. will lose out on participating in approximately half of her sophomore season, which could have an impact on her recruiting opportunities. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that petitioners have met their burden of demonstrating irreparable harm.

However, with respect to the second and third prongs of the Crowe analysis, petitioners cannot demonstrate that the law is settled in their favor, or that they have a likelihood of succeeding on the merits of their claims. The only law cited by petitioners in their brief are references to the HIB Act, and specifically references relating to the investigatory procedures to be followed by school districts and the district's requirement to provide certain information to the parents in writing within five days after the results of the investigation are reported to the Board of Education. Petitioners fail to cite to any law supporting their claim that F.P. has any right to a school transfer, or alternative placement, as a remedy to their HIB complaints and the District's alleged failure to follow proper HIB procedure in not providing petitioners with their HIB determination in writing. Petitioners simply cannot demonstrate that the law supports a school transfer where the district may not have followed proper HIB procedures, as petitioners allege, or where there are complaints of HIB as described by petitioners, regardless of the district's findings of HIB. A school transfer is an extraordinary remedy in HIB matters. Even if the District had determined that a violation of HIB did occur in May, F.P. is not legally entitled to a school transfer as there are other, less extraordinary, remedies available.

As stated previously, petitioners failed to demonstrate a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim. In their Petition, petitioners seek, in part, a determination that M.S.'s conduct towards F.P. was in fact a violation of the Act and that the respondent's determination concerning the HIB complaint in May 2019 be overturned. Petitioners, however, have not and cannot demonstrate a likelihood of prevailing on the merits with respect to their claim that M.S.'s conduct constituted a violation of the Act. The fact that local law enforcement may have investigated M.S.'s conduct does not necessarily warrant a determination that the conduct constitutes HIB pursuant to the Act, and based on petitioners' submissions, it is unclear whether the complaint of conduct would meet the definition of HIB.

While petitioners also assert a due process violation because respondent did not provide a written decision concerning their determination of the HIB complaint involving M.S., petitioners concede that they were informed verbally of the determination in late May, six months ago. Respondent makes a compelling argument that the Petition should be dismissed for petitioners' failure to file an appeal of that determination within the ninety-day statute of limitations. There is, therefore, a question as to the timeliness of petitioners' appeal and petitioners cannot show a likelihood of prevailing on the mertis in this regard.

Petitioners also fail to cite to any law that would require the respondent to advise petitioners of their right to a hearing before the Board, as petitioners allege. Petitioners were advised verbally of respondent's initial determination on the HIB complaint in May and their assertion that they were entitled to receive this determination in writing is not clear since the matter was never presented to the Board as a HIB matter, but was handled as a violation of the student Code of Conduct after a "preliminary analysis" whereby the District determined that the reported acts did not meet the threshold definition of HIB. Instead, the District investigated the conduct in accordance with the District's Code of Conduct and M.S. was suspended. Petitioners did not cite to any Board Policy or law that specifically required the District to inform petitioners in writing that their preliminary analysis of the complaint resulted in a determination that M.S.'s conduct did not meet the threshold definition of HIB. I CONCLUDE, therefore, that petitioners have failed to demonstrate that the law is well-settled in their favor or that they have a likelihood of success on the merits.

Finally, in balancing the equities and interests of the parties, the scales tip in favor of the District. While petitioners will suffer irreparable harm if she is forced to sit out the first thirty days of the basketball season, it is worth noting that they have no property interest in playing basketball, as doing so is a privilege. The Board, on the other hand, has a strong and valid interest in the effective and orderly operation of its schools. The Board has the autonomy and discretion, pursuant to NJSIAA bylaws, Article V, Section 4.k.2 (CL 12), to determine whether a student's transfer to another school is a proper action to remediate a HIB complaint. Moreover, I also agree with respondent that should petitioners be granted the requested emergent relief, transferring students may be inspired to make unfounded HIB complaints in an effort to circumvent the NJSIAA thirty-day transfer rule. I CONCLUDE, therefore, that when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the respondent will suffer greater harm than the petitioners if the requested relief is granted.

Based upon the arguments made and record before the undersigned, I CONCLUDE that petitioners have not satisfied all four criteria required for emergent relief. As petitioners have failed to satisfy all four prongs of the Crowe test for emergent relief, and for the foregoing reasons, petitioners' request for emergent relief is DENIED.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioners' request for emergent relief is DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

On February 15, 2019, I denied in part and granted in part, Mr. Fuzy's Motion to Dismiss the charges. Specifically, Charge Number One, paragraph "e" was dismissed with prejudice. The policy cites N.J.S.A. 18A:25-7; N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4; N.J.S.A. 34:13A-1; and N.J.S.A. 34:19-1.

CHARGES

The tenure charges brought against Frank Fuzy on or about December 27, 2018 allege that he engaged in conduct unbecoming a public employee and other just cause. The tenure charges are produced in pertinent part below:

CHARGE NUMBER ONE

b. Mr. Fuzy has frequently commented to other staff members that he owns multiple guns, including an AR-15.
c. Mr. Fuzy has also informed staff members that he keeps a gun in the glove compartment of his car.
d. Mr. Fuzy has stated that he would run out to his car if he needed to use a gun.
e. In 2016, Mr. Fuzy made the following comment to a staff member: "don't be surprised if one day I come back here and take care of some people."
f. Mr. Fuzy frequently posts about guns on social media outlets.
g. Mr. Fuzy also shows pictures of guns to staff members.
h. As such, Mr. Fuzy's comments and actions regarding guns have served to create an atmosphere at the school whereby other staff members ae intimidated and fearful of imminent harm.
i. Indeed, staff members have advised that as a result of Mr. Fuzy's comments and actions, they routinely look over their shoulder when they walk on the school premises.
j. In January 2018, Mr. Fuzy made specific threatening comments to another staff member in connection to a request by the school principal that Mr. Fuzy observe another classroom teacher.
k. Mr. Fuzy expressed anger about being asked to participate in the observation.
l. Mr. Fuzy subsequently refused to cooperate with the observation.
m. When discussing the fact that the principal wanted him to participate in the classroom observation, Mr. Fuzy commented to this staff member that he is "six feet tall, weight 230 pounds and has 26 guns."

n. In his anger towards the school principal and the school, Mr. Fuzy repeated the statement about his height, weight and ownership of guns approximately seven times.
o. About one month after Mr. Fuzy's latest threatening comments about guns, a mass shooting occurred at a high school in Parkland, Florida.
p. Initial reports out of Parkland, Florida indicated that the gunman used an AR-15 style semi-automatic rifle.

CHARGE NUMBER TWO

b. During the Spring of 2017, a live deer was located on the school property
c. In response to seeing the deer within an enclosed section of the school property, Mr. Fuzy turned to another staff member and stated that he wished the deer would escape and injure students, so that his principal would "look bad."
d. Mr. Fuzy subsequently opened the gate and let the deer out.

CHARGE NUMBER THREE

b. Between September 2017 and January 2018, Mr. Fuzy picked up a student, S.G., by her feet.
c. Mr. Fuzy's inappropriate conduct was witnessed by other students and caused embarrassment for S.G.

CHARGE NUMBER FOUR

b. Between September 2017 and January 2018, Mr. Fuzy embarrassed and disparaged S.G. in front of her entire class.
c. Specifically, when S.G. attempted to ask Mr. Fuzy a question during class, Mr. Fuzy turned to the entire class and stated: "if she has to ask questions it must mean that she was not paying attention."

CHARGE NUMBER FIVE

b. Mr. Fuzy has yelled at his students.
c. In addition, Mr. Fuzy has stated the following to his students: "what are you stupid?"
d. Mr. Fuzy's behavior and comments have caused students to cry.
e. Mr. Fuzy's inappropriate conduct was witnessed by other students and staff members.

CHARGE NUMBER SIX

m. The Board's Superintendent stated in her January 24, 2018 letter to Mr. Fuzy that: ". . . During your suspension, you are not permitted on Board property and you should refrain from any contact with staff, students, or the families of students."
n. Mr. Fuzy has repeatedly and consistently contacted staff from the date of the letter to the present time; specifically, he has requested that staff members cooperate with a private investigator and/or that they support him and speak well of him.
o. Moreover, Mr. Fuzy has left voicemails for some staff members telling them not to believe the nonsense that they may have heard about him, then asking them to contact him with what they have heard, and stating, in March and April 2018, that he would be returning to Tamaques School by Mid-May 2018.
p. In April, 2018, Mr. Fuzy contacted at least one staff member, telling that person that he was out because he talked about guns and "taking care of the principal" and the district overreacted. The staff member shared the information from Mr. Fuzy with other members of the staff which heightened their fear and anxiety. Mr. Fuzy has repeatedly contacted parents to ask them to write letters of support and endorsement for him. A number of parents let the principal know that they were extremely uncomfortable with the request, and that the contact made them feel anxious and unsafe.
q. Mr. Fuzy entreated the Superintendent to allow him to attend a district daughter/daddy event, and contacted her multiple times for a response. She did suspend the terms of her restrictions as stated in the January 24, 2018 letter for that one event, but Mr. Fuzy abused the privilege.
r. Specifically, the Superintendent made it clear to the Fuzy family that their daughter, a kindergarten student at Lincoln School which houses all of the district's kindergarteners, would not be attending Tamaques School as a 1st grader (the Superintendent determines placement based on enrollment for all out of district students.) Therefore, there was no reason for the student to attend any events for incoming Tamaquest students and, under no circumstances should Mr. Fuzy have been at Tamaques School; yet, in April, Mr. Fuzy purposely chose Tamaques as the school where he and his daughter attended the incoming Brownies' daughter/Daddy event. While at the event, Mr. Fuzy told a number of students and parents that he would be returning in mid-May. This caused great anxiety and fear in parents, students, and the staff who learned about his statement.
s. When the Superintendent attended a teacher of the year celebration at Tamaques on May 8, 2018, teachers and parents told her that they were afraid for their safety and the safety of their children if Mr. Fuzy returned.

BACKGROUND

Frank Fuzy is a tenured member of the Westfield School District ("Board"), teaching third grade at the Tamaques School for approximately 23 years. During that time, Mr. Fuzy has enjoyed "effective" or better evaluations and has received commendations including being named New Jersey's Agricultural Teacher of the Year in 2013 for his work in starting a garden at the Tamaques School. In the comments to his summative evaluation for the 2016-2017 school year. Mr. Duelks wrote that Mr. Fuzy's "school year proved to be positive and successful with respect to ... [his] personal and professional growth."

Mr. Fuzy does not have an unblemished disciplinary record having received a four-day suspension and he was placed on a corrective action plan (CAP) to address anger management issues in 2014 after throwing Post-It notes at a student and hitting her in the face. Mr. Fuzy successfully completed the requirement of the CAP including the required counseling.

According to Mr. Fuzy he owns five guns, three handguns and two rifles. Mr. Fuzy has completed background checks and all of the weapons are legally owned and licensed. Mr. Fuzy testified he uses these weapons exclusively at shooting ranges and does not hunt. David Duelks, principal of Tamaques School testified that Mr. Fuzy showed him photographs of guns on his cell phone and asked if Mr. Duelks shot. Mr. Duelks recalled feeling uneasy and asking if Mr. Fuzy had a safe for his guns.

Jennifer Ullrich, was a resource room teacher at the Tamaques School during the 2017-2018 school year. She spent about thirty minutes of each school day in Mr. Fuzy's classroom. She described him as "always really worried that David Duelks, our principal was going to come in and observe him."

In December of 2017, Principal David Duelks completed an observation of Mr. Fuzy teaching a math lesson. Mr. Duelks' observation included several "positive takeaways" as well as the comment that Mr. Fuzy was "making strides in terms of planning, but Mr. Duelks "would like to see more growth with respect to preparation and delivery." Mr. Fuzy responded to this evaluation and both he and Mr. Duelks agreed that it would be a good idea for Mr. Fuzy to observe peers teaching a math lesson. Apparently, Mr. Fuzy believed that Mr. Duelks would make suggestions as to which teachers he should observe and Mr. Duelks was under the impression that Mr. Fuzy would select which peers to observe and report back to him.

As a result, on Friday, January 12, 2018 at 4:47 p.m. at the end of a day when Mr. Fuzy was out sick, Mr. Duelks emailed Mr. Fuzy to see whether he had a chance to conduct peer observations:

> As per your request and my endorsement, have you conducted any peer observations during a full math lesson to date? As recommended, you are to alert me of who and when and what your big takeaways were. If you're having a hard time finding a few teachers in-house, I can certainly arrange for you to visit another school.

When Mr. Fuzy received this email, he was confused because he was waiting for Mr. Duelks to suggest someone for him to observe. Mr. Fuzy testified that he believed Mr. Duelks was insinuating that he had been insubordinate by not observing another teacher when the confusion stemmed from a misunderstanding about who would select the teacher(s) to be observed. After receiving this email, at 6:41 p.m. the same day, Mr. Fuzy forwarded it to Lisa Quackenbush, a member of the WEA who assisted teachers who wished to respond to observations, with the following note:

> I was out today. I went to medi merge last night and was diagnosed with pneumonia. I even submitted a doctor's note and this is what I get. If you remember I asked him who I should go watch and even put it in my rebuttal. If this doesn't show that I am clearly being harassed I don't know what would. I'm ready to either meet with him and the union or a lawyer. The reason I'm getting sick is because of this treatment. Suggestions?

On Monday, January 15, 2018, a school holiday, at 7:41 p.m., Mr. Fuzy sent a second email to Lisa Quackenbush:

> Can you please discuss my response to be written with Gail. I'm only with my phone putting my daughter to sleep. I need to reply to him tomorrow. I'm not concerned that even Gail emailed me that she would call today at 6 but didn't. I'm the one with everything on the line and she couldn't call after saying she would and knowing my situation. Tomorrow will be ...[another] stressful start.

Mr. Fuzy explained that WEA President Lillian (Gail) Alston had said she would call him at 5:00 p.m. and she did not. Later that evening, at 9:13 p.m., Mr. Fuzy forwarded Mr. Duelks' January 12, email to Ms. Alston and Ms. Quackenbush with a long rambling and angry message complaining about Mr. Duelks. The message began:

> I received the below email from David [Duelks] on Friday knowing that I was not in school and had submitted a doctor's note. I had the onset of pneumonia. Not only do I feel that it was uncalled for to email me know[ing] that I was ill, but as discussed with Lisa [Quackenbush] at the time of writing my response the whole write up was unrealistic.... Despite the fact that as a supervisor he should have suggested someone in the first place and never did, I receive[d] the email below questioning if I have observed anyone.
>
> This is just one example that can illustrate that his intentions are not just. Past that, I have walked into my room several times since the PTO email mistake and found him sitting on my windowsill simply staring at us while we walked in.... The entire second floor watches him come and go from my room. No reasons are given, no hellos are exchanged, just enough presence to make me uncomfortable. This all started with the email that accidentally went from venting between colleagues to the PTO. It was followed by a meeting which Dominic attended with me, then turned into a letter sent a week later to yourself and Dr. Dolan which in itself contained tiny threats that were just easy enough to make out but nothing concrete. ....
>
> I have been trying to start each day new. Trying to keep my head up high and the best I can. However, the pressure of his walk ins, silent treatments, and not knowing what he will do next is beginning to wear on my family, my health and my career. It's hard to teach and teach well when you know that someone's intentions are to cause you harm. There is certainly no good that can come out of the way I am being treated.....

Mr. Fuzy continued by complaining that he was being intimidated and harassed and the Association had not given him proper support

The next morning, on January 16, 2018 at 6:44 a.m., when Ms. Alston had not called him back, Mr. Fuzy contacted the New Jersey Education Association (NJEA) via email to complain that he needed "more support and guidance than I am currently receiving." Mr. Fuzy continued, "I feel that I am being harassed and intimidated in my workplace." According to Mr. Fuzy he received a response to his email from the NJEA about two hours later and then he spoke with Ms. Alston that evening.

That same day, Mr. Duelks conducted an additional observation of Mr. Fuzy teaching a math lesson and this observation was more positive.

Also on January 16, 2018, at about 11:30 a.m., Ms. Alston forwarded Mr. Fuzy's January 15 email to Ms. Dolan. Later that evening Mr. Fuzy and Ms. Alston spoke twice in quick succession, with the first call beginning at 5:37 p.m. and lasting 26 minutes. The call was dropped and the second call began at 6:03 p.m. and lasted 19 minutes.[1] According to Ms. Alston, Ms. Quackenbush spoke with Mr. Fuzy about her suggestions. Mr. Fuzy was not receptive, so Ms. Alston spoke with him.

According to Mr. Fuzy, Ms. Alston asked him why he had contacted the NJEA and he explained that he "reached out to her many times, tried to contact her and she didn't get back to ...[him]" and he wasn't getting the help he needed. Mr. Fuzy noted that Ms. Alston brought up the prior discipline over the post-it note issue and said it labeled him as having anger issues. Mr. Fuzy objected, telling Ms. Alston that he had been evaluated privately by a psychologist and had seen a behavior management doctor and have been "cleared". According to Mr. Fuzy he had done everything the District had asked of him.

During the course of their conversation, they discussed that Mr. Fuzy and Mr. Duelks "didn't see eye to eye". Ms. Alston suggested that perhaps Mr. Fuzy should transfer to another elementary school so that he would have "peace of mind" and wouldn't view Mr. Duelks' coming into his classroom as an "act of harassment." At that point, Ms. Alston described the conversation as going "sideways" and Mr. Fuzy became very angry and asked why he should leave because he's been there 23 years. According to Ms. Alston Mr. Fuzy then told her how tall he was, how much he weighed and how many weapons he owned. Specifically, Mr. Fuzy repeated to Ms. Alston several times that he was five feet, ten inches tall and weighed 220 pounds and had 21 guns. Ms. Alston characterized the conversation as "one-sided" with Mr. Fuzy doing the talking.

Mr. Fuzy acknowledged that he said, "I'm 5-10. I'm 210 pounds. I do own firearms and many people take that the wrong way." Mr. Fuzy acknowledged that he could have repeated himself during the conversation and explained that he was trying to convey that people see him as "threatening or being angry" and in doing so, it's as if he's tough doesn't have feelings. In other words, Mr. Fuzy sought to convey the message that one shouldn't "judge a book by its cover". Mr. Fuzy acknowledged that he assumed Ms. Alston misunderstood him and viewed him negatively because he owns firearms. Mr. Fuzy denied that he was speaking in a threatening fashion. Mr. Fuzy testified that he "was not happy about the way ...[he] was being treated at Tamaques and ...[he] felt that a lot of ...[his] math observations were inaccurate."

[1] Ms. Alston contradicted herself repeatedly about the timing of these events, and failed to remember whether she spoke to Mr. Fuzy for 45 minutes before or after she sent the January 16 2018 email to Dr. Dolan.

After the conversation, because she was concerned, Ms. Alston called Mike Seiler, who was on medical leave but had been WEA president for 25 years. Mr. Seiler, who described the call as Mr. Fuzy telling Ms. Alston he's bigger and stronger than Mr. Duelks and has guns at home, viewed the comments as a threat and advised her to call the police or speak with Dr. Dolan. Ms. Alston also called Carol Feinstein, then the NJEA field representative for the WEA and Ms. Feinstein also advised her to call the superintendent. Ms. Alston also spoke with Lori Swanson, the WEA building representative for the Tamaques School. Ms. Swanson told her the conversation "needs to be taken very seriously" and reported to Dr. Dolan. After these conversations, Ms. Alston reported her conversation with Mr. Fuzy to Dr. Dolan who listened and replied that she would get back to her. At Ms. Alston's request, Mr. Seiler emailed Dr. Dolan on Sunday, January 21, 2018 urging Dr. Dolan to take some action perhaps including having Mr. Fuzy submit to a psychiatric evaluation.

Dr. Dolan described her concern after Ms. Alston told her about the phone conversation she had with Mr. Fuzy where he was very agitated and repeatedly mentioned his height, weight and ownership of several guns. At this point, Dr. Dolan asked Barbara Ball, the Director of Human Resources to begin an investigation into Mr. Fuzy's conduct.[2] Dr. Dolan also reported the conversation to the police who conducted an investigation and advised her that Mr. Fuzy had four or five legally registered guns.

The next morning, at 7:03 a.m. January 17, 2018, Mr. Fuzy sent a draft email response to Ms. Quackenbush and Ms. Alston for preview before sending it to Mr. Duelks. At 8:02 a.m., Ms. Quackenbush replied, "perfect".

On Thursday, January 18, 2018 at around noontime, Ms. Alston visited Mr. Fuzy in his classroom to discuss his observation with him. During that visit, Ms. Alston commented on how well it was decorated since she doesn't often have the opportunity to visit elementary school classrooms. She also noted that the classroom was furthest from the main office and suggested that Mr. Fuzy stay in his classroom to avoid Mr. Duelks.[3]

[2] As part of that investigation, the Board received a number of emails from parents that were not supportive of Mr. Fuzy. The Board considered these communications and included allegations in those emails in the formation of the tenure charges. Those emails, are relevant to the extent that the Board considered them in drafting tenure charges. Absent corroborative testimony or other evidence, those emails are not sufficient to prove any of the charges against Mr. Fuzy.

[3] Ms. Alston recalled that this meeting occurred before the 45 minutes of phone conversations, rather than afterwards. Mr. Fuzy's phone records establish that the phone conversations with Ms. Alston occurred on January 16, 2018 and Ms. Alston visited Mr. Fuzy's classroom on Thursday, January 18, 2018. Specifically, Mr. Fuzy sent Ms. Alston an email that evening and thanked her for coming "today" and Mr. Seiler sent an email on to Ms. Dolan on January 21, 2018 referring to Ms. Alston's meeting with Mr. Fuzy on Thursday, which was January 18, 2018.

According to Ms. Alston, Mr. Fuzy was upset with Mr. Duelks because he thought that he should not have to observe a teacher who has been teaching for only five years and who didn't yet have family responsibilities and had time to work early and late in the day. Ms. Alston recalled that Mr. Fuzy said "he didn't have time for that."

When Mr. Duelks learned of Mr. Fuzy's repeated statements to Ms. Alston about his height, weight and guns, he was scared. Mr. Duelks found it nonsensical for Mr. Fuzy to express such hostility towards him. According to Mr. Duelks, a few weeks before Mr. Fuzy's suspension, Ms. Ullrich showed him a text message from Mr. Fuzy accusing Mr. Duelks of "messing with his livelihood.". The combination of Mr. Fuzy's text to Ms. Ullrich and Ms. Alston's conversation heightened Mr. Duelks' concern.

Lori Swanson, then the Tamaques School Building Representative for the Association characterized her professional relationship with Mr. Fuzy as "adversarial" and indicated that he generally did not agree with her advice. Ms. Swanson testified that she was "truly afraid" and explained "if he's that angry, he's not going to just come after my principal. He's going to come after me too." Ms. Swanson was concerned that Mr. Fuzy "hated" her and noted that he had made negative comments about her on Facebook in association with an approved vacation she had scheduled and an email she sent about contract negotiations. According to Ms. Swanson, over the years, Mr. Fuzy boasted about going shooting and owning guns but never had a threatening conversation with her when he mentioned guns. Nonetheless, Ms. Swanson was sufficiently concerned after Ms. Alston's conversation with Mr. Fuzy that she began walking to her car at the end of each workday with Mr. Duelks.

According to Ms. Swanson, some teachers and paraprofessionals at Tamaques, including Ms. Ullrich, Ms. Eileen DiFabio and at least four others told her they were afraid of Mr. Fuzy.

Mr. Fuzy was suspended with pay effective January 24, 2018 which the District continue its investigation.

Superintendent Dolan explained why she determined to file tenure charges against Mr. Fuzy as follows:

> It became very, very apparent in the conversations with staff members both paraprofessionals and teachers that there were a number of teachers who felt unsafe in Tamaques School specifically because of Mr. Fuzy.
> They went – some of them went out of their way not to interact with him. Others made sure they did their work at home so they weren't > in the building outside of school hours. Some were just uncomfortable. And people—there were people who were afraid especially after they had been either – he had spoken to them about guns or – or expressed anger in some way.

>
> That was very evident and we only became aware of that in the investigation after I received the phone call from Gail Alston but it was evident that there were people who... felt intimidated by Mr. Fuzy in that building.
> So then Parkland happened in Florida, and people who were already nervous became more nervous.

Dr. Dolan acknowledged that Mr. Fuzy had previously posted statements and pictures about guns on social media and there was no reason to discuss these postings with him because it was his right to make such postings about his hobby regarding guns." Dr. Dolan distinguished between such postings and his comments to Ms. Alston.

In determining to bring tenure charges against Mr. Fuzy, Dr. Dolan focused on Mr. Fuzy "losing his temper and in anger, talking about how many guns he had and then finding out that when we did an investigation that this isn't the first time guns were mentioned and this isn't the first time that ... people felt intimidated in the school..."

Paraprofessional Eileen DeFabio works with Mr. Fuzy at lunch and recess. Mr. Fuzy discussed his guns and where and when he went to the shooting range. Mr. Fuzy would discuss his guns and his attendance at the shooting range when he got a new gun or when he went to the range. On one occasion, Mr. Fuzy told Ms. DeFabio that he kept a gun in the back of his truck. Mr. Fuzy denied ever telling anyone that he kept a gun in his vehicle or on school property. Ms. DeFabio was friends with Mr. Fuzy on Facebook and recalls that he posted photographs of guns either in the case or on a table and posted pictures of the targets he shot at. Mr. Fuzy's conversations about guns made Ms. DeFabio "a little uncomfortable" because she is not a "fan of guns". Also, Ms. DeFabio explained:

> Mr. Fuzy could get very frustrated and aggravated in—with situations and there's always in the back of your mind people that, you know, have a tendency to get aggravated – it's a little fearful; that, you know. There's a gun in the back of the car and they're aggravated so it's—you're a little—you have your guard up. I had my guard up.

Ms. DeFabio continued:

> Well, I was just very concerned that... he would never get frustrated enough where he felt like he needed to use it at Tamaques.

Ms. DeFabio testified that she was afraid of Mr. Fuzy because she has observed him get very agitated, frustrated and defiant. She recalled a few instances that where Mr. Fuzy's comments about guns or that he owned guns, made her afraid.

Paraprofessional Karen Ciullo worked one on one with a student assigned to Mr. Fuzy's class in the 2017-2018 school year. Mr. Fuzy told her he had guns including a handgun.

Ms. Ciullo recalled that Mr. Fuzy would sometimes complain about not sleeping well and on the days when he did not have a good night's sleep he would appear "frazzled" and that would set the tone for the children for the school day. Ms. Ciullo recalled that on one occasion, Mr. Fuzy raised his voice with the class because they didn't get their books out quickly enough.

Ms. Ciullo expressed her discomfort with Mr. Fuzy saying:

> ...it's just disturbing to me sometimes to think that someone who has a hobby of handguns which is fine—hobbies are hobbies—but also is openly taking prescription medications and just, you know, would come in and I would just never really know what kind of personality we were getting, ... it really would concern me a lot that the two were mixing in someone's personal life.[4]

Several members of the staff of the Tamaques School, including Ms. Ciullo, Ms. DeFabio, Special Education teacher and building delegate Sharon Contreras indicated that they would be concerned, afraid or reluctant to continue working at the school if Mr. Fuzy returned.

On one occasion in the spring of 2016, Principal Duelks wanted an outdoor recess while Mr. Fuzy preferred that recess should be indoors that day. Recess was outside and Mr. Fuzy came up to Ms. DeFabio and was very upset that Mr. Duelks had called for an outside recess and there were some deer in front of the building. Mr. Fuzy commented that he "wanted the deer to ... come into the back field and hurt just one student" because it would prove that outdoor recess was the [4] Ms. Ciullo testified that Mr. Fuzy told her on at least one occasion that he was going to take a Valium because the children stressed him out. During the hearing, counsel for the Board noted that Mr. Fuzy was closing his eyes and asked if he was under any medication that would prevent him from answering her questions. Mr. Fuzy said he was not. Mr. Fuzy acknowledged that he used Diazepam (Valium) and Adderall regularly to treat a health condition.

wrong decision. Mr. Fuzy denied ever wishing a child would be hurt by a deer at Tamaques School.

As recess ended that day, Mr. Fuzy went and put his hand on the gate. Ms. DeFabio believed that Mr. Fuzy was going to open the gate to let the deer into the yard. Ms. DeFabio asked the custodian to lock or shut the gate and then told the gym teacher to keep her eye out because there were deer on the property. Mr. Fuzy denies opening a gate to let a deer in so that it could harm students.

Ms. Ciullo also recalled Mr. Fuzy make comments about a student's ethnicity, saying "I can't believe I have to call this kid's mom. You, know she's Asian.... This shouldn't be happening." Mr. Fuzy also made similar comments to Ms. Ciullo about an Indian student.

Ms. Ullrich described Mr. Fuzy as berating student C.W. saying that "she's Asian. She's supposed to be smart." According to Ms. Ullrich, Mr. Fuzy would embarrass C.W. when she picked her nose instead of simply suggesting she use a tissue.

Ms. Ciullo recalled another incident where something spilled and Mr. Fuzy asked the nearest student to grab some paper towels and the student misunderstood and handed Mr. Fuzy a tee shirt. Mr. Fuzy said to the student, "are you stupid? I need paper towels." The child who brought the tee shirt was crying. Mr. Fuzy did not recall this incident and denied ever calling a student "stupid".

Several witnesses testified to Mr. Fuzy's good character including students A.V. and B.V. A.V. testified that Mr. Fuzy helped her parents arrange for her to keep up with her school work when she was out of the country for a month during the school year. B.V. testified that Mr. Fuzy helped her with spelling and math and that she nominated him for an award. Binaifer Vesuna, a parent of students who had been in Mr. Fuzy's class in past years testified that he helped her younger daughter in her struggle with language arts. Ms. Vesuna also described Mr. Fuzy's quick action while on a field trip to the Liberty Science Center to keep the group together and safe in a large unruly crowd. Jonathan Blitt, is parent of children who attended Tamaques, including a child who was in Mr. Fuzy's class for the 2017-2018 school year. Mr. Blitt found that Mr. Fuzy was supportive and encouraged his child's growth in language arts in particular. On the approximately four or five brief occasions that Mr. Blitt saw Mr. Fuzy interacting with students, it was "with respect and kindness and encouragement." None of these witnesses were in Mr. Fuzy's classroom regularly during the 2017-2018 school year.

Victor Alfanso, who teaches fifth grade at Tamaques, often stopped in Mr. Fuzy's classroom during his prep period for a few minutes to allow Mr. Fuzy to step out to use the rest room if he needed to. Mr. Alfanso referred to Mr. Fuzy as the "recess guy" who addressed security issues, such as a strange adult walking through the recess area. Jeanne Jensen worked at Tamaques as the school nurse and health educator until 2014. Ms. Jensen described Mr. Fuzy as a good teacher who got down to the students' level to talk to them. Ms. Jensen emphasized the State recognition Tamaques received for the garden Mr. Fuzy started and worked in with children. Mary Elena Fuzy, Mr. Fuzy's wife, testified that Mr. Fuzy was supportive and helpful when she was new to teaching third grade. Patricia Doyle, who worked as a paraprofessional in Mr. Fuzy's classroom several years ago described it as organized and well run. Ms. Doyle also worked in Mr. Fuzy's classroom in the 2017-2018 school year for approximately 15 minutes at the end of the school day, which she described as chaotic in the way most classrooms are at the end of the day.

Marcus DesPontes, of StoneGate Associates, a security/emergency management consulting firm provides emergency planning services, including security assessments, updating the emergency management plan, meeting with the local police department and staff training for the Westfield School District. Staff training provided by StoneGate includes emergency management training for teachers including evacuation, shelter in place and lock-down training based on best practices for active shooter situations.

When Mr. DesPontes conducted teacher training at Tamaques during the 2017-2018 school year, Mr. Fuzy approached him before the training and asked if he was a gun owner. They discussed guns and going to the shooting range. Mr. DesPontes noted that this was unprecedented in his experience.

Maryanne Rodriguez, NJEA Field Representative testified that Mr. Fuzy visited the NJEA's Trenton office. As a matter of practice, Ms. Rodriguez was notified because she is Mr. Fuzy's Field Representative. After Ms. Rodriguez was called, she tried to speak to Mr. Fuzy by telephone but was unable to reach him. Ms. Rodriguez noted that it is unusual for members to visit the NJEA's Trenton office.

DISCUSSION

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 provides that no tenured employees of the public school system "shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation ... except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause." The District bears the burden to establish that it met this standard.

The New Jersey Supreme Court has defined "unbecoming conduct" as conduct "which has a tendency to destroy public respect for [government] employees and confidence in the operation of [public] services." In re Young, 202 N.J. 50, 66 (2010) (quoting Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998) (citation omitted). The New Jersey Supreme Court further defined "unbecoming conduct" as that which violates "the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Bound Brook Bd. Of Ed. v. Ciripompa, Dkt. No. A-57-15, __ N.J. __ (February 21, 2017) (quoting Karins v. City of Atlantic City).

The Board asserts that it has established by the preponderance of the credible evidence that Mr. Fuzy is guilty of conduct unbecoming and other just cause and his employment should be terminated. Specifically, the Board asserts that Mr. Fuzy engaged in unbecoming conduct when he made repeated threatening comments to his union president about his principal. Emphasizing that the concept of "unbecoming conduct" encompasses a variety of categories of inappropriate behavior by tenured teachers the Board cites the "elastic" standard cited in In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960), as "any conduct that adversely effects the morale or efficiency of the [District] . . . [or] which has the tendency to destroy public respect for municipal employees and confidence in the operation of municipal services." Additionally, the Board points to the concept that unbecoming conduct "may be based primarily on a violation of an implicit standard of good behavior." Newark v. Massey, 93 N.J. Super. 317, 323 (App. Div. 1967).

The Board continues citing several opinions of the Commissioner of Education emphasizing the teacher as a role model. Specifically, the Board cites the Commissioner's reasoning as applied to impressionable elementary school students, pointing out that "they teach, inform, and mold habits and attitudes, and influence the opinions of their pupils." In re Tenure Hearing of Tordo, Jackson School District, 1947 S.L.D. 97, 98-99.

Applying these standards to this matter, the Board asserts that Mr. Fuzy's repeated threatening statements referencing guns in January of 2018 constitute conduct unbecoming and warrants his removal from his tenured position. Specifically, the Board points to the evidentiary record and points out that Mr. Fuzy, in a fit of anger, made threatening comments to Ms. Alston in connection with a request by Principal Duelks that Mr. Fuzy observe another classroom teacher. The Board emphasizes a conversation between Ms. Alston and Mr. Fuzy where he repeatedly told Ms. Alston that he was five foot ten inches, weighed 220 lbs. and had 21 guns. Ms. Alston recalled that she was very "worried and concerned" because Mr. Fuzy kept "repeating the same thing over and over again."

The Board emphasizes Ms. Alston's concern that these threatening comments could result in something being carried out by Mr. Fuzy. The Board cites Ms. Alston's testimony that she was concerned about Mr. Fuzy's anger, his threatening statements and his explicit and repeated reference to his guns. As a result, the Board notes that Ms. Alston determined to set aside her role as president of the local education association including Mr. Fuzy, in order to protect the safety and welfare of the principal and other staff and students by reporting Mr. Fuzy's comments to Principal Duelks and to Dr. Dolan.

The Board notes Ms. Alston initially thought that Mr. Fuzy simply needed to vent but when he kept repeating the same comment over and over again, she became concerned. Specifically, Ms. Alston testified:

> I became concerned because with all the media we've been exposed to with shootings . . . as an educator share that information to me was uncomfortable. Why would he even share that with me.

The Board points out that after Ms. Alston's conversation with Mr. Fuzy, she called Mr. Seiler, Ms. Feinstein, NJEA Representative and Ms. Swanson, all of whom urged her to call Dr. Dolan. The Board continues to cite Ms. Alston's testimony that:

> I can understand him being upset by his evaluation. . . . In the past . . . maybe his evaluations were different and maybe his present administrator was looking to take education in a different way but for him to share that information about his weight, his height, what he possessed, that was none of my business and he made it my business.

The Board also cites Mr. Fuzy's testimony acknowledging that he told Ms. Alston about his height, weight and gun ownership when they were discussing his evaluation. The Board asserts that Mr. Fuzy's explanation for these comments was that he wanted Ms. Alston to:

> Understand that I am a person and that, you know, it's - - - it's not easy that I'm seen this way. Don't judge a book by its cover. So, I just wanted her to get a better perspective of who I was and, you know, that I was not happy about how I was being treated at Tamaques and I felt that a lot of my math observations were inadequate.

The Board asserts that this statement as to why he repeated his height, weight and the number of guns he owned repeatedly during his conversation with Ms. Alston show that he was angry at Principal Duelks about his math evaluation and that his comment to Ms. Alston was intended to be intimidating and threatening. The Board asks rhetorically "what reasonable person would make such a statement in connection with a math lesson observation." The Board asserts that Mr. Fuzy's conversation with Ms. Alston was even more troubling when considered in light of his frequent initiation of conversations about guns.

The Board points to the testimony of its security consultant that before a presentation, Mr. Fuzy approached him and began talking about guns. The security consultant testified, according to the Board, again that this is the first time in his many years of giving presentations to school employees that a participant approached him to talk about guns. The Board emphasizes that Mr. DePontes indicated that he was sufficiently concerned that he reported the comments to the District's administration.

The Board argues that Mr. Fuzy's comments and actions about guns have created an atmosphere at the Tamaques School where other staff members are intimidated by him and fearful of imminent harm. The Board suggests that Mr. Fuzy's threats in January of 2018 were sufficiently outrageous and raised memories of the tragedy that struck Columbine High School. The Board suggests that Mr. Fuzy's frequent discussion of guns in an angry manner including while describing himself versus the school principal is at minimum deplorable and unbecoming for a teacher. The Board notes the unfortunate reality that school shootings are on the minds of school employees, parents and students every day. The Board cites the testimony of Mr. Blitt that:

> There was a person who was apprehended with a handgun in their lap in – in the parking lot of Tamaques [at] end of last year . . . but school shootings, of course, occurred long prior to that.
> We are all quite familiar with the fact that there was a gunman captured recently at Tamaques . . . I am saying school safety has become an issue; that we talk to our children on a regular basis ever since the very first school shootings.

The Board argues that it does not matter whether Mr. Fuzy had any intent to carry out the threat he suggested to Ms. Alston. The Board emphasizes that Mr. Fuzy was angry about his evaluation, made threatening comments to the WEA president in a conversation that had nothing to do with guns, shootings or gun ownership; but instead an observation of a lesson. Specifically, the Board points out the topic of the discussion between Ms. Alston and Mr. Fuzy was the Principal's recommendation that Mr. Fuzy observe another teacher to get ideas about how to teach. The Board emphasizes that Mr. Fuzy interjected into that conversation his height, his weight and his guns.

The Board likens threats of violence in reference to guns to the equivalent of yelling "fire" in a private movie theater. The Board emphasizes that Mr. Fuzy made these threatening remarks to the Association President who was so concerned by these statements that she set aside her obligation to advocate for him so that she could make sure students and staff were safe. The Board asserts that it is clear Mr. Fuzy acted in an inappropriate and unwarranted manner and his threatening comments and references to guns constitute conduct unbecoming. For this reason, the Board asserts Mr. Fuzy cannot be permitted to continue to be a teacher.

The Board asserts that Mr. Fuzy also engaged in conduct unbecoming when he threatened to permit a deer to come onto school property at the risk of injuring a student. Specifically, the Board asserts that in the Spring of 2017, a live deer was located on school property and after seeing the deer within an enclosed section of the school property, Fuzy told Ms. DeFabio that he wished the deer would escape and injure students so that Principal Duelks "would look bad." Citing Ms. DeFabio's testimony when the Tamaques school had a deer on the property and Mr. Fuzy suggested an indoor recess, Principal Duelks called for outdoor recess and in response Mr. Fuzy said to Ms. DeFabio he wanted the deer to come into the back field and "hurt just one student, that's all it would take, just to prove it was the wrong call and that it should have been indoors." The Board asserts that Mr. Fuzy's first priority as a teaching staff member should be to ensure that his students are safe.

The Board would place this conduct in context citing a 2014 incident where Mr. Fuzy threw a pad of Post-It notes at a student. The Board cites this instance and points to Mr. Fuzy's conduct in January of 2018 when he contacted the Union in anger about Mr. Duelks because Mr. Duelks sent Mr. Fuzy an email late on a Friday afternoon. The Board contrasts Mr. Duelks email which it characterizes as "polite, short and to the point" asking a question of Mr. Fuzy in an unthreatening fashion. In response, Mr. Fuzy was sent "into a furor" over a relatively gentle observation and commentary about Mr. Fuzy's teaching. The Board points out that in response to this email, Mr. Fuzy "went into a tirade with various union representatives, even going to the union hierarchy and reaching out to the NJEA, not just to the local union." The Board suggests that if Mr. Duelks recommendation for improvement generated threats of violence, the Board wonders what might happen next. The Board suggests that the administration of the Westfield Public School District could not feel safe making recommendations for any improvement to Mr. Fuzy if he were to return to work. The Board emphasizes that Mr. Fuzy acknowledged his statements to Ms. Alston and does not dispute his comments. For these reasons, the Board asserts that a finding that Mr. Fuzy is not fit to serve as a teacher and must be removed from his tenured teaching position is necessary.

The Board argues strenuously that the proper penalty for Mr. Fuzy's unbecoming conduct is removal of Mr. Fuzy from his tenured position. Citing I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Curtis Robinson, State Operated School District of the City of Paterson, 2008 WL 3819075, July 25, 2008, and I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Jacque L. Sammons, School District of Blackhorse Pike Regional, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321, the Board quotes from the Blackhorse Pike Regional decision as follows:

> [teachers] are professional employees to whom people have entrusted the care and custody of tens of thousands of school children with the hope that this trust will result in the maximum educational growth and development of each individual child. This heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment.

The Board also cites several other tenure decisions where teachers engaged in unbecoming conduct involving threats. Those decision include I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Theresa Lucarelli, Board of Education of the Borough of Brielle, Monmouth County, 1997 N.J. AGEN LEXUS 258; I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Demetrio Surace, Comm'r. #387-13 (November 1, 2013); I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Lisa Radzik, School District of the Township of Woodbridge, Middlesex County, #321-14 (August 4, 2014).

In each of these instances, the Board emphasizes the teacher failed to meet their obligation as a teacher and a public employee to set an example for students. In this instance, the Board contends Mr. Fuzy's actions are sufficiently flagrant and egregious to warrant termination. The Board emphasizes that Mr. Fuzy displayed inexcusable anger after being asked to observe another teacher, a common occurrence at the Tamaques School. Further, the Board emphasizes that Mr. Fuzy's anger was again apparent in his conversation with Ms. Alston where he made repeated comments about his stature and guns with respect to his principal. The Board argues strenuously that Mr. Fuzy's threatening statements created a fearful work environment. The Board maintains that no public school district should be required to employ a teacher who callously threatens another person with firearms particularly at this time where school shootings are almost ordinary.

Further, the Board argues that Mr. Fuzy is guilty of conduct unbecoming by making inappropriate comments to students. The Board cites testimony during the hearing that Mr. Fuzy berated students in an inappropriate reference to their ethnicity including telling a student that since she is Asian, she is "suppose to be smart." The Board also cites evidence presented showing that a student brought Mr. Fuzy a t-shirt to clean up a spill and he replied, "this is a t-shirt. Are you stupid? I need paper towels." The Board points out that Mr. Fuzy made these comments and statements after having been put on notice that he would be subject to discipline up to and including termination if he had further inappropriate interaction with students.

Respondent Frank Fuzy asserts that the tenure charges against him should be dismissed. First, Mr. Fuzy argues strenuously that the record shows a lack of substantial credible evidence in support of the charges. Respondent asserts that the Board relied substantially on hearsay and flawed testimony and with respect to several of the charges presented no testimony in its efforts to impugn Mr. Fuzy's name and reputation. Respondent asserts that the Board's actions have required him to be out of work for almost two years and derailed his career.

Respondent would apply the factors articulated by the Appellate Division in In re Tenure Hearing of Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967). Those factors include: (1) "the nature and gravity of the offenses under all of the circumstances involved," (2) "any evidence as to provocation, extenuation or aggravation," (3) "any harm or injurious effect which the teachers conduct may have had on the maintenance of discipline and proper administration of the school," (4) "the teaching record and the ability of the teacher," (5) "the teacher's disciplinary record," (6) "consideration as to the impact of the penalty on [the teachers] teaching career, including the difficulty which would confront him if the teacher dismissed for unbecoming conduct in obtaining a teaching position in this State." Id. at 421-422.

Turning first to the "nature and gravity of the offenses under all of the circumstances involved" Respondent emphasizes that he lawfully purchased and owns firearms which he uses in his hobby. Citing the testimony of Ms. Swanson and Ms. Ciullo, both witnesses described Mr. Fuzy's mention of guns as casual conversation.

Respondent emphasizes that the tenure charges don't actually mention a direct threat against Principal Duelks or that Respondent spoke with or interacted with Mr. Duelks in a threatening manner. Additionally, Respondent asserts that the Board has failed to meet its burden on proof. Respondent cites Ms. Alston's testimony which changed frequently as well as the timeline which establishes that Ms. Alston spoke with Mr. Fuzy after she forwarded the email to Superintendent Dolan. According to Respondent, this timeline impeaches Ms. Alston's testimony as to her reason for forwarding the email and supports Mr. Fuzy's suggestion that Ms. Alston forwarded the email after he contacted the NJEA. Further, Respondent points out that Ms. Alston's one-on-one visit to Mr. Fuzy's classroom occurred after the telephone call and suggests that Ms. Alston would not have visited Mr. Fuzy's classroom by herself if she had been afraid of Mr. Fuzy.

According to Respondent, the remaining charges are either not proven or have only flawed proof or present only hearsay testimony.

Turning to the factor of provocation, extenuation or aggravation, Respondent asserts that Ms. Alston forwarded Mr. Fuzy's January 15, 2018 email to Superintendent Dolan a few hours after learning that Mr. Fuzy had filed a complaint with the NJEA. Respondent contends that Ms. Alston forward Mr. Fuzy's email to Ms. Dolan in retaliation for his complaint to the NJEA. In support of this theory, Respondent points to Ms. Alston's question to Mr. Fuzy wanting to know why he went over her head to the NJEA and contacted them. Further, Respondent points out that after speaking with him on the phone Ms. Alston phoned Superintendent Dolan to inform her of her conversation with the union member. For this reason, Respondent asserts that both Ms. Alston's email and telephone call to Superintendent Dolan which led to these tenure charges were in retaliation for Mr. Fuzy's having "gone over her head" to the NJEA. Respondent maintains that the animus of the WEA against Mr. Fuzy can also be found in the email from former President Mike Seiler to Superintendent Dolan which led to the Board suspending Mr. Fuzy.

Addressing the harm or "injury effect," Respondent's conduct "may have had on the maintenance of discipline and proper administration of the school," Respondent highlights the distinction between Mr. Fuzy's reference to his height, weight and gun ownership in his conversation with Ms. Alston and any direct threat of harm to Mr. Duelks. Respondent emphasizes that there is no allegation that Mr. Fuzy ever directly threatened Mr. Duelks or approached Mr. Duelks and did something threatening to him.

Addressing the teaching record and ability of the teacher, Respondent contends this factor weighs heavily in favor of dismissal of the charges. To that end, Respondent cites testimony of many staff members, students and parents reflecting that Mr. Fuzy is a dedicated teacher, that he cares for his students and that he goes above and beyond. Respondent also cites Mr. Fuzy's teaching record as well as positive feedback for his performance including being named New Jersey Agricultural Society's Teacher of the Year in 2013 for his work developing the school garden. Respondent would also cite Mr. Fuzy's 22 years of work as a third-grade teacher at the Tamaques School and his consistent, positive performance evaluations.

Addressing Mr. Fuzy's disciplinary record, Respondent acknowledges his discipline in November of 2014 which resulted in a corrective action plan (CAP). Respondent notes that Mr. Fuzy completed and fulfilled all terms of the CAP and successfully participated in counseling. Respondent notes Mr. Fuzy has received no discipline and was not investigated for any of the allegations included in the tenure charges. Respondent also asserts that these allegations should be stricken because the Board did not comply with its own mandatory disciplinary policy with respect to any of the allegations included in the tenure charges.

Respondent notes the obvious impact of upholding the tenure charges on Mr. Fuzy's teaching career in that it would cause irreparable harm to his professional future. Respondent also notes that in addition to making it difficult if not impossible for Mr. Fuzy to continue his teaching career, upholding tenure charges can result in removal of his teacher license. Based upon this and the other Fulcomer factors, Respondent urges dismissal of the tenure charges.

Relying on previous tenure cases, Respondent points out that Mr. Fuzy's actions were not subject to progressive discipline and notes that progressive discipline should be imposed before bringing tenure charges. Citing In re Tenure Charges of Leonard Yarborough, State Operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, New Jersey, DOE Docket No. 259-9/15-12/14 at pg. 15 (May 24, 2016), Respondent points out that "[u]nfitness to remain a teacher can be demonstrated by a single incident if it is serious enough while less serious matters could be subject to progressive discipline." Respondent also cites In re Tenure Hearing of John Vingara, Somerset County Vocational Technical School District, Somerset County, DOE Docket No. 121-4/16 at 56 (January 17, 2017); In Re Tenure Hearing of William Carr, School District of Carlstadt-East Rutherford Regional High School, Bergen County, DOE Docket No. 142-6/15 (February 1, 2016); In Re Tenure Hearing of Kimble Wright, State Operated School District of Newark, Essex County, DOE Docket No. 328-10/15 (January 28, 2016).

Respondent asserts that comparison of Mr. Fuzy's situation to other tenure cases shows that the tenure charges should not have been initiated against Mr. Fuzy. To that end, Respondent cites numerous tenure cases where tenure charges were not substantiated or where the penalty was found not to be found proportional to the discipline imposed when compared to similar offenses for other public employees. Also citing numerous New Jersey tenure cases where the charges were upheld but removal of tenure was not found to be the appropriate penalty Respondent alleges that removing Mr. Fuzy is too severe a penalty. IMO Tenure Hearing of Edith Craft, School District of the Twp. Of Franklin, Somerset County, Comm. Of Ed. Dec. No. 366-11 (2011); IMO Tenure Hearing of George Mamunes, Pascack Valley Regional High School District, Bergen County, Comm. Of Ed. Dec. No. 208-00 (2000); In re Tenure Hearing of Gilda Nicole Harris, State Operated School District of the City of Jersey City, DOE Docket No. 342-11/14 & 379-12/14 (Oct. 2, 2015); IMO Tenure Hearing of Adelphia Poston, School District of the City of Orange Twp. Essex County, Comm. Of Ed. Dec. No. 362-06 (2006); IMO Tenure Hearing of Richard Vincenti, State Operated School District of the City of Paterson, DOE Dkt. No. 255-14 (2014); In re Tenure Hearing of Mark Boyle, Pittsgrove Township Board of Education, Salem County, DOE Docket No. 208-9/13 (Dec. 23, 2013); In re Tenure Hearing of Maryellen Lechelt, Edison Township Board of Education, DOE Docket No. 360-12/14 (June 30, 2015); In re Tenure Hearing of Leslie Ann Ramos, School District of the City of Elizabeth, Union County, DOE Docket No. 261-9/14 at 18 (Jan. 5 2015); and In re Tenure Hearing of Penny Keough, School District of the City of Burlington, Burlington County, DOE Docket No. 119-4/16 (Dec. 15, 2016). Respondent contrasts these situations with those where the Board met its burden of proving instances of corporal punishment against numerous students, slapping a handicapped child with an open hand and other abusive behavior against students including violating laws, cursing at children in the classroom and unacceptable instances of sexual interaction with students where removal of tenure in an appropriate penalty. Respondent points out that Mr. Fuzy's conduct does not come close to that of teachers in those cases and suggests bearing in mind that "many educational employees make decisions that in retrospect could have been wiser. This is not the standard for stripping tenure and terminating employment." In re Tenure Hearing of Penny Keough, School District of the City of Burlington, Burlington County, DOE Docket No. 119-4/16 (Dec. 15, 2016). As a result, Respondent urges that the tenure charges be dismissed and that Mr. Fuzy be returned to the classroom and made whole for losses in seniority, benefits and that his record be expunged of all disciplinary actions related to this matter. Finally, Respondent asserts that the charges evidences such an egregious effort to "smear" Mr. Fuzy that exemplary damages including but not limited to the reimbursement of Mr. Fuzy's legal expenses should be awarded.

Initially, Respondent asserts that all of the charges should be dismissed in their entirety because the District did not follow the procedural requirements of its disciplinary policy in that it did not provide notice that discipline was contemplated and the resulting due process that is detailed in Board Policy 3150. It is not disputed that the District did not apply the provisions of its Policy prior to filing these tenure charges. However, the provisions of TEACH NJ, including N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 and 18A:6-16, as amended by P.L. 2012, c. 26, provide for written notice of charges, and thereafter, written statement of the charges, the opportunity to provide a written response followed by a de novo hearing before a member of the panel of arbitrators maintained by the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.1. These statutory requirements provide sufficient due process and procedural protections in excess of those included in Board Policy 3150. The failure to follow the requirements of the School District's disciplinary policy is not cause to dismiss tenure charges. I now turn to the specific charges.

CHARGE NUMBER ONE

The first charge focuses on Mr. Fuzy's ownership of guns coupled with his comments to various teachers and paraprofessionals about his guns including his repeated comments to Ms. Alston about his stature and his gun ownership that led to these proceedings.

Turning first to the allegation in charge 1b that Mr. Fuzy has frequently commented to other staff members that he owns "multiple guns, including an AR-15," there is no dispute that Mr. Fuzy owns firearms. It is undisputed that Mr. Fuzy has commented to staff members that he owns multiple guns, though the record does not establish that he owns an AR-15. Ms. DeFabio, Ms. Ciullo, Ms. Ullrich and Ms. Swanson all testified that Mr. Fuzy told them he owned guns. Mr. Fuzy has acknowledged owning rifles, but has not specifically acknowledged owning an AR-15 assault rifle. The record does not otherwise reflect that Mr. Fuzy owns an AR-15, but does establish that he owns multiple guns.

Charge 1(c) alleges that, "Mr. Fuzy has also informed staff members that he keeps a gun in the glove compartment of his car." Ms. DeFabio testified that Mr. Fuzy once told her he kept a gun in the back of his truck. Mr. Fuzy denied ever telling anyone that he kept a gun in his vehicle or on school property.

Although Ms. DeFabio could not recall when in the past three years Mr. Fuzy told her that he kept a gun in his vehicle, the comment made her uncomfortable and it stuck with her. I credit Ms. DeFabio's testimony that Mr. Fuzy told her kept a gun in his truck or SUV. While the specific allegations of the charge are not substantiated, but I find that Mr. Fuzy made a statement about keeping a gun in his vehicle. Such a statement by itself does not establish misconduct, but has some relevance to the record as a whole.

The allegation in charge 1(d) that "Mr. Fuzy has stated that he would run out to his car if he needed to use a gun" is not supported by the record.[5] The allegations in charge 1(f) that. Mr. Fuzy frequently posts about guns on social media outlets and in 1(g) that "Mr. Fuzy also shows pictures of guns to staff members."

Ms. DeFabio was friends with Mr. Fuzy on Facebook and recalls that he posted photographs of guns either in a case or on a table and posted pictures of the targets he shot. Mr. Duelks recalled that Mr. Fuzy showed him a photo of a firearm on his cellphone.

Dr. Dolan acknowledged that Mr. Fuzy had previously posted statements and pictures about guns on social media and there was no reason to discuss these postings with him because it was his right to make such postings about his hobby regarding guns.

The record does not establish that Mr. Fuzy used social media or photographs of firearms to issue any threat including a threat of violence to any member of the school community. While this charge is substantiated, it does not, on its own establish any misconduct.

Charges 1(h) through 1(p) alleged that Mr. Fuzy, though his comments and actions, has created an atmosphere where "other staff members are intimidated and fearful of imminent harm" including by making angry and threatening comments about his stature in connection with guns and gun ownership.

These allegations are at the heart of the tenure charges. The record establishes that Mr. Fuzy had two phone calls with Ms. Alston, with the second call resulting from the first call being dropped. The record further establishes that during these calls Mr. Fuzy made repeated comments about his height, weight and gun ownership. Mr. Fuzy acknowledged these repeated comments, though there are differences in his reported, height, weight and the number of guns he owns. At issue is whether these comments should be construed as threatening or, as Mr. Fuzy would have it, as his effort to explain that his physical appearance and seeming toughness mask his feelings.

[5] Charge 1(e) was dismissed on February 15, 2019.

Because the Board replied in large part upon Ms. Alston's account of these phone calls in its determination to bring tenure charges, the Respondent argues strenuously that Ms. Alston's changing testimony with regard to the date when this conversation occurred and the chronology of events undermines the credibility of her testimony regarding the content of the phone conversation. Specifically, Ms. Alston initially testified that she met with Mr. Fuzy in his classroom on January 15, which was a school holiday. Ms. Alston later testified that it must have been on January 12, which was a day when Mr. Fuzy was out sick. Ms. Alston also testified that she met with Mr. Fuzy in his classroom before their phone conversations and before she read and forwarded his January 15, 2018 email to Dr. Dolan. The documentary record establishes that Ms. Alston received Mr. Fuzy's angry and inflammatory email on January 15, 2018 which was sent at 9:13 p.m. either later that night or early on January 16 and forwarded it to Dr. Dolan at 11:30 a.m. on January 16, 2018. The record also establishes that Mr. Fuzy emailed the NJEA at approximately 6:41 a.m. that same day. Ms. Alston and Mr. Fuzy spoke in the evening on January 16, 2018 and Ms. Alston visited his classroom on Thursday, January 18, 2018.

Ms. Alston did not recall the chronology of events accurately, but this is not sufficient to establish that Ms. Alston's entire recollection of the phone calls is inaccurate. In this instance, the statements that concerned Ms. Alston, Mr. Fuzy's repeated statements about his height, weight and ownership of multiple guns are corroborated by Mr. Fuzy, even though Ms. Alston apparently did not accurately recall Mr. Fuzy's height, weight or how many guns he owned.

This dispute did not begin with the phone calls between Mr. Fuzy and Ms. Alston. Rather, this dispute began when Mr. Fuzy was upset that Mr. Duelks emailed him after the end of the January 12, 2018 school day, when Mr. Fuzy was out sick, in follow up to their discussion about his observing other math teachers. It is apparent that this email was a simple follow up by Mr. Duelks that included a misunderstanding about who would select the teacher(s) who Mr. Fuzy would observe. The email asked, "[a]s per your request and my endorsement, have you conducted any peer observations during a full math lesson to date?" Mr. Duelks continued offering to arrange the peer observation if Mr. Fuzy preferred. Mr. Fuzy testified that he believed Mr. Duelks was insinuating that he had been insubordinate by not observing another teacher. Later that evening at 6:41 p.m., when he forwarded the email to Ms. Quackenbush from the WEA, he stated "[i]f this doesn't show that I am clearly being harassed I don't know what would." Mr. Fuzy continued, "I'm ready to either meet with him and the union or a lawyer. Plainly, Mr. Fuzy perceived Mr. Duelks' simple straight-forward, non-accusatory follow up email as harassment.

January 12, 2018 was the beginning of a three-day weekend as Monday, January 15, 2018 was a school holiday. The record does not reflect what occurred over that weekend, until the evening of January 15 when Mr. Fuzy emailed Ms. Quackenbush at 7:41 p.m. complaining that Ms. Alston had not called him when she said she would and stating, "I'm the one with everything on the line and she couldn't call after saying she would and knowing my situation." The record does not reflect that Mr. Fuzy needed to take any action other than to clear up the misunderstanding about who would suggest teacher(s) for his peer observation.

The record does not reflect whether Mr. Fuzy received any response in the next few hours, but at 9:13 p.m., Mr. Fuzy forwarded Mr. Duelks' email to both Ms. Quackenbush and Ms. Alston with a long, rambling and angry email complaining about Mr. Duelks. In that email, Mr. Fuzy stated that Mr. Duelks' intentions were "not just" and were designed to cause him "harm". Mr. Fuzy accused Mr. Duelks of making "tiny threats" and staring at him when Mr. Duelks was in his classroom.

The next morning at 6:44 a.m., when Ms. Alston had not called him back, Mr. Fuzy emailed the NJEA complaining that he was "being harassed and intimidated in my workplace". Based upon the record to this point, Mr. Fuzy's reaction to Mr. Duelks' January 12, 2018 email shows agitation, anger and impatience that he had not received a response over the three-day weekend. Later that morning, Ms. Alston forwarded Mr. Fuzy's January 15, 2018 email to Dr. Dolan.

The subsequent phone calls between Mr. Fuzy and Ms. Alston took place with this background of an escalating series of emails over the weekend suggesting that Mr. Duelks' routine follow up email constituted harassment and intimidation. During this phone call, Ms. Alston raised the incident with the Post-It notes and told Mr. Fuzy that he had been "labeled...as having anger issues." Ms. Alston also testified that when she suggested that Mr. Fuzy consider transferring to another school where he would not need to be concerned about Mr. Duelks, he became very angry and asked why he should leave. In response to this, Mr. Fuzy began reciting his height, weight and the number of guns he owned. While the testimony about his exact height, weight and the number of guns he claims to own has varied, both Ms. Alston and Mr. Fuzy testified that he mentioned his height, weight and gun ownership multiple times. After consulting with various Association officials, Ms. Alston reported this conversation to Dr. Dolan.

Respondent makes much of Ms. Alston's failure to accurately recall the dates and chronology of her conversations with Mr. Fuzy and her visit to his classroom and suggests that her report of the conversation is retaliatory and should be discounted in its entirety. Ms. Alston, however, reported her conversation to Dr. Dolan, the crux of which has been substantiated to the extent that Mr. Fuzy has acknowledged repeating his height, weight and gun ownership multiple times. Dr. Dolan proceeded to direct that an investigation be conducted. Dr. Dolan described her concern after Ms. Alston told her about the phone conversation she had with Mr. Fuzy where he was very agitated and repeatedly mentioned his height, weight and ownership of several guns.

The conversation between Ms. Alston and Mr. Fuzy, together with Mr. Fuzy's emails, particularly on January 15, 2018, illustrate a teacher who is angry at his principal and in expressing his anger, referred multiple times to both his stature and his gun ownership. That Mr. Fuzy passed a background check and his gun ownership is licensed and sanctioned is beside the point. Dr. Dolan and the School District are responsible to maintain a safe and secure environment for students, staff and parents in its schools. Ms. Alston, the colleagues she consulted and Dr. Dolan all considered Mr. Fuzy's repeated statements about his stature and gun ownership in response to a discussion of an in-class observation that included an agreement that Mr. Fuzy observe another math teacher to be a threat. This, coupled with his increasingly angry and agitated emails asserting that Mr. Duelks was harassing him raised cause for concern.

Ms. Swanson who was the Association's building representative at Tamaques testified that she felt "truly afraid because [she] felt like if this is something – if he's that angry, he's not going to just come after my principal. He's going to come after me too."

Ms. Swanson testified:

> . . . there just had been things in the news and—and I think that this whole idea of school shootings was becoming more—I don't want to say common but common, and I just—I felt like if I didn't say something and do something that it would be on my shoulders ... I said to her – I felt I was afraid to go into that building when he was there and I remained afraid even when he was out of the building.

Mr. Duelks testified that when he learned of Mr. Fuzy's repeated statements about his height, weight and guns, he was scared. According to Ms. Swanson, after she learned of Ms. Alston's phone conversation, she and Mr. Duelks would leave school at the same time and walk out together as a precaution.

Several members of the staff of the Tamaques School, including Ms. Ciullo, Ms. DeFabio, Special Education teacher and building delegate Sharon Contreras indicated that they would be concerned, afraid or reluctant to continue working at the school if Mr. Fuzy returned.

Ms. DeFabio testified that she feared Mr. Fuzy because:

> Mr. Fuzy could get very frustrated and aggravated in—with situations and there's always in the back of your mind people that, you know, have a tendency to get aggravated – it's a little fearful; that, you know. There's a gun in the back of the car and they're > aggravated so it's—you're a little—you have your guard up. I had my guard up.

Ms. DeFabio continued stating that she was "very concerned that...he would get frustrated enough" to use his guns at Tamaques.

Ms. Ciullo expressed her discomfort with Mr. Fuzy saying:

> ...it's just disturbing to me sometimes to think that someone who has a hobby of handguns which is fine—hobbies are hobbies—but also is openly taking prescription medications and just, you know, would come in and I would just never really know what kind of personality we were getting, ... it really would concern me a lot that the two were mixing in someone's personal life.

In determining to bring tenure charges against Mr. Fuzy, Dr. Dolan focused on Mr. Fuzy "losing his temper and in anger, talking about how many guns he had and then finding out that when we did an investigation that this isn't the first time guns were mentioned and this isn't the first time that ... people felt intimidated in the school..."

Mr. Fuzy's repeated statement to Ms. Alston about his height, weight and gun ownership must be viewed in the context that Mr. Fuzy exhibited signs of anger and unpredictability that, when coupled with repeated mention of guns, gave many staff members at Tamaques cause for concern. When Mr. Fuzy's repeated statement about his height weight and gun ownership are viewed in light of the increasingly angry and disproportionate emails he sent over the weekend of January 12-15, 2018, it becomes more difficult to view this repeated statement as anything but a generalized threat. Even if Mr. Fuzy believed that Ms. Alston was neglecting her responsibilities to him as an Association member with a potential concern for his livelihood, there was no basis to bring a repeated statement about his stature and his gun ownership into the discussion of his concerns about Mr. Duelks and an agreement between the two that he would observe another teacher's class.

The allegations in Charge Number One are substantiated to the extent that Mr. Fuzy made generalized threatening comments to another staff member in connection to a request for an update on an agreement between the school principal and Mr. Fuzy that he would observe another a math class. When discussing the principal's January 12, 2018 email about Mr. Fuzy's participation in a classroom observation, Mr. Fuzy commented repeatedly to Ms. Alston detailing his height, weight and gun ownership. Further, Mr. Fuzy's comments and actions regarding guns have served to create an atmosphere at the school where several other staff members are intimidated and fearful of imminent harm.

Mr. Fuzy's threatening comments in association with Mr. Duelks cannot be taken lightly in an era when school shootings and active shooter drills are all too common.[6] Under such circumstances, any threat, whether actual or implied, that could lead to harm of anyone in the school community and "breaches the obligation of a teacher to be a role model to students and to comply with the implicit standard of good behavior" required of a teacher. See, Bound Brook, supra.; Karins v. City of Atlantic City, supra.

CHARGE NUMBER TWO

In Charge Number Two, a deer was located on school property and Mr. Fuzy turned to another staff member and stated that he wished the deer would escape and injure students, so that his principal would "look bad."

In this charge, the Board refers to an incident when, in the spring of 2016, Mr. Fuzy wanted recess to be indoors, but Mr. Duelks determined that it would be outside that day. Many deer live in and frequent the area near the Tamaques School and that day there were some deer in front of the building. According to Ms. DeFabio, Mr. Fuzy was upset that recess was outside and commented to her that he "wanted the deer to ... come into the back field and hurt just one student" because it would prove that outdoor recess was the wrong decision.

As recess ended that day, Ms. DeFabio observed Mr. Fuzy put his hand on the gate and she believed that Mr. Fuzy was going to open the gate to let the deer into the yard.

Mr. Fuzy denied ever wishing a child would be hurt by a deer at Tamaques School. Mr. Fuzy denies opening a gate to let a deer in so that it could harm students.

The record does not reflect that Mr. Fuzy took any action to let deer in the same area with children. Ms. DeFabio was a credible witness and it is possible that Mr. Fuzy has forgotten that he made a comment suggesting that he wished to prove Mr. Duelks made the wrong decision in determining that recess would be outside that day. Such a comment is further evidence of his animosity towards Mr. Duelks, and on its own, might warrant discipline short of dismissal. Charge Number Two is substantiated to the extent that it further establishes Mr. Fuzy's animosity towards Mr. Duelks.

CHARGE NUMBER THREE

In this charge, the Board alleges, that "between September 2017 and January 2018, Mr. Fuzy picked up a student, S.G., by her feet". Although Dr. Dolan testified that this allegation was brought to her attention, the record does not include testimonial or other direct evidence establishing that that this alleged incident occurred. Charge Number Three has not been substantiated and is dismissed in its entirety.

CHARGE NUMBERS FOUR AND FIVE

In Charge Number Four, the Board alleges that between September 2017 and January 2018, Mr. Fuzy embarrassed and disparaged S.G. in front of her entire class. The charge alleges specifically that, "when S.G. attempted to ask Mr. Fuzy a question during class, Mr. Fuzy turned to the entire class and stated: 'if she has to ask questions it must mean that she was not paying attention.'"

In Charge Number Five, the Board alleges that Mr. Fuzy as stated to his students, "what are you stupid?" Further the Board alleges that this conduct and comments have caused students to cry.

Ms. Ciullo and Ms. Ullrich both worked in Mr. Fuzy's classroom for portions of the school day in the 2017-2018 school year. Ms. Cuillo recalled Mr. Fuzy make comments about a student's ethnicity, saying "I can't believe I have to call this kid's mom. You, know she's Asian.... This shouldn't be happening." Mr. Fuzy also made similar comments to Ms. Ciullo about an Indian student. Similarly, Ms. Ullrich described Mr. Fuzy as berating student C.W. saying that "she's Asian. She's supposed to be smart." According to Ms. Ullrich, Mr. Fuzy also embarrassed C.W. when she picked her nose instead of simply suggesting she use a tissue.

Ms. Ciullo recalled another incident where something spilled and Mr. Fuzy asked the nearest student to grab some paper towels and the student misunderstood and handed Mr. Fuzy a tee shirt. Mr. Fuzy said to the student, "are you stupid? I need paper towels." This caused the child who brought the tee shirt to cry. Mr. Fuzy did not recall this incident and denied ever calling a student "stupid".

The testimony of Ms. Ciullo and Ms. Ullrich is consistent and establishes that Mr. Fuzy did not always exercise the restraint necessary for a teacher and, on at least one occasion called a student "stupid" and engaged in stereotyping a child with Asian ethnicity. Mr. Fuzy may not recall these instances, but, the testimony of Ms. Ciullo and Ms. Ullrich is consistent and similar. I credit their testimony. I find the specific allegation in Charge Number Four is not substantiated by the testimony, but the allegations in Charge Number Five are proven. While Mr. Fuzy's conduct in calling a student "stupid" is serious and warrants discipline, it is not, by itself, sufficient to warrant tenure charges. Charge Number Five lends support to the allegations that Mr. Fuzy does not engage in the self-restraint necessary for a teacher of elementary school students.

CHARGE NUMBER SIX

In this charge, the Board alleges that the Superintendent advised Mr. Fuzy in his January 24, 2018 letter of suspension that, [d]uring your suspension, you are not permitted on Board property and you should refrain from any contact with staff, students, or the families of students." The Board alleges that in April, 2018, Mr. Fuzy "contacted at least one staff member, telling that person that he was out because he talked about guns and 'taking care of the principal' and the district overreacted." The Board asserts that Mr. Fuzy has consistently contacted staff and suggested that he would be returning to Tamaques School by Mid-May 2018 and made statements to staff that increased fear and anxiety. Further, the Board alleged that Mr. Fuzy was given permission to attend the daughter/daddy dance at Tamaques and Mr. Fuzy abused the privilege by again telling those present that he would be back in May. Additionally, the charges provide that "[w]hen the Superintendent attended a teacher of the year celebration at Tamaques on May 8, 2018, teachers and parents told her that they were afraid for their safety and the safety of their children if Mr. Fuzy returned."

In response to Respondent's Motion to Dismiss Charge Number Six, I declined to rule on that portion of the Motion and determined that the issues raised by both parties "must be determined based upon the factual record."

None of the several allegations in Charge Number Six are supported by direct evidence. There is no testimony supporting the allegation that Mr. Fuzy "contacted at least one staff member, telling that person that he was out because he talked about guns and 'taking care of the principal' and the district overreacted." Nor is there direct testimony asserts that Mr. Fuzy has consistently contacted staff and suggested that he would be returning to Tamaques School by mid-May 2018. Likewise, there is insufficient evidence that Mr. Fuzy attended the daughter/daddy dance at Tamaques and told those in attendance that would be back in May. Dr. Dolan did not attend that event and has no first-hand knowledge of what occurred. With respect to Dr. Dolan's testimony that at the teacher of the year celebration at Tamaques on May 8, 2018, teachers and parents told her that they were afraid for their safety and the safety of their children if Mr. Fuzy returned, no parents testified as to their concern if Mr. Fuzy returned to the classroom. Nor is there evidence that parents wrote letters expressing their concern if Mr. Fuzy returned to the District. There is insufficient evidence to support the allegations in Charge Number Six and it is dismissed in its entirety.

In sum, I find that Charge Number One is sustained to the extent that Mr. Fuzy made repeated threatening statements about his height, weight and gun ownership in association with his concerns that he was being harassed by Principal Duelks. I find Charge Number Two is sustained to the extent that it establishes animosity toward Mr. Duelks, but does not, by itself, support tenure charges. I find Charge Number Five is sustained to the extent that Mr. Fuzy called a student stupid and caused that child to cry.

I find that there is insufficient evidence supporting the allegations in Charges Number Three, Number Four and Charge Number Six and they are dismissed in their entirety.

Respondent asserts that the penalty of removal is not supported by the record and principles of progressive discipline should be applied if any discipline is warranted. Mr. Fuzy has already received progressive discipline. In 2014, Mr. Fuzy received a four-day suspension, was placed on a CAP and sent for anger management counseling after throwing Post-It notes and hitting a child in the face. While Mr. Fuzy successfully completed the CAP and the anger management counseling, this record establishes that Mr. Fuzy has not been fully successful at controlling his temper with students, teachers and other staff. As a result, Mr. Fuzy's conduct has led to calling students "stupid", inappropriately reducing students to tears; and most importantly discussing his height, weight and guns in a threatening manner in a conversation where he was stressed and angry.

That threat was in response to a routine follow up email from Mr. Duelks. Mr. Fuzy's conversation with Ms. DeFabio about deer on school grounds reinforces Mr. Fuzy's animosity towards Mr. Duelks. This conduct, when taken together, is not conduct that can be condoned and continued in an elementary school environment.

After the Post-It note incident, Mr. Fuzy was on notice that he needed to exercise self-restraint and control his anger in the school setting and provided with counseling to help him do so. Despite completing the requirements of the CAP, Mr. Fuzy has been unable to exercise sufficient self-control to the point where he has, in an angry and agitated state, made repeated generalized threatening statements about his stature and gun ownership in a conversation about a routine follow-up email from Mr. Duelks. Mr. Fuzy's inability to restrain his comments such as calling a student stupid and embarrassing another student, would not, on their own support the penalty of removal, but serve to reinforce that Mr. Fuzy's current lack of self-restraint when under stress is not appropriate in the position of a teacher and role model for elementary school students.

There is no doubt that Mr. Fuzy has been an effective teacher. Mr. Fuzy has a uniform record of good achievement for his approximately 23 years at the Tamaques School. Parents and former students attested to the gains students made in his classes. Colleagues have attested to his teaching abilities, care for the Tamaques School, establishment of the garden and supervision of recess and other achievements. Nor is there doubt that Mr. Fuzy has many supporters within the school district.

None of these achievements can outweigh or mitigate the impact of Mr. Fuzy's threatening statements regarding his stature and his firearms. These statements, whether made as threats or for more benign reasons, were justly viewed as threatening. Repeated statements about stature and gun ownership made by a school teacher in anger during a conversation about his principal at a time when schools, including those in the Westfield School District, have regular security training that includes active shooter training cannot be discounted or ignored.

The Westfield School District properly considered its obligations and responsibility to Mr. Fuzy and to the safety and security of the school community including Mr. Duelks, teachers, staff, students and parents at the Tamaques School. The Westfield School District had good cause to determine that it cannot expose the staff, students and parents at the Tamaques School to the risk posed by Mr. Fuzy's repeated and angry threatening statements. Mr. Fuzy's threatening statements referencing guns, coupled with is repeated expressions of anger disproportionate to the situation, constitute unbecoming conduct warranting Mr. Fuzy's dismissal.

Accordingly, I find that the Board has established that Respondent Frank Fuzy has engaged in unbecoming conduct that supports his dismissal from his position as a tenured teacher for the Westfield School District.

AWARD

The Westfield Board of Education had just cause to dismiss Frank Fuzy from employment.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Decision

Mark Santeramo,

Petitioner,

v.

New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Student Protection,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Pro se petitioner appealed the decision of the Office of Student Protection (OSP) to permanently disqualify him from serving in any institution under the supervision of the Department of Education (DOE) following his arrest and entry into a plea agreement. Petitioner pleaded guilty to assault by auto while driving intoxicated resulting in serious bodily injury, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1(c)(2) – a crime of the third degree. Petitioner contended that he did not intend to harm anyone and that his conviction should be considered a crime of the fourth degree, and therefore not disqualifying. He further argued that the accident was brought on by a seizure and that he had been coerced into a plea agreement. The respondent filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer to the petition.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioner was arrested on August 4, 2018 by the Nutley Police Department; he thereafter entered into a plea agreement wherein he pleaded guilty to a violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1(c)(2) in the third degree; petitioner was notified via letter from OSP dated June 18, 2019 that he was permanently disqualified from serving in any capacity with an educational institution under the supervision of the DOE; petitioner alleged that the accident was caused by him having a seizure; further, petitioner claimed that he was coerced into a plea agreement but felt it was in his best interests to avoid taking the case to trial; however, reckless behavior is all that is required for a conviction for assault by auto, and petitioner had to lay a factual basis under oath when he entered his guilty plea. The ALJ concluded that a third-degree conviction of assault by auto under these circumstances does warrant a disqualification of petitioner's employment in public education; further, this tribunal is not the appropriate forum to address petitioner's complaints regarding the prosecution of the criminal charges against him. Accordingly, the respondent's motion to dismiss was granted, and the appeal was dismissed with prejudice.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ, for the reasons thoroughly expressed in the Initial Decision. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition was dismissed with prejudice.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Mark Santeramo,

Petitioner,

v.

New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Student Protection,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the petitioner's guilty plea to assault by auto while driving intoxicated and resulting in serious bodily injury in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1(c)(2) – a crime of the third degree – warrants his disqualification from employment in public education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(c)(1). The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ that whether petitioner was coerced into a plea agreement is not within the Commissioner's jurisdiction and cannot be addressed in this forum.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons thoroughly expressed therein, and the petition is hereby dismissed with prejudice.

Record Closed: October 28, 2019 Decided: November 4, 2019

BEFORE THOMAS R. BETANCOURT, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed a pro se Petition of Appeal with the New Jersey Department of Education's Office of Controversies and Disputes appealing the decision of the Office of Student Protection to permanently disqualify him from serving in any institution under the supervision of the Department of Education.

The matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on September 17, 2019, as a contested case.

A prehearing conference was held on September 27, 2019. A prehearing order was entered on September 30, 2019.

Respondent filed a Motion to Dismiss in lieu of an Answer to the Petition with the Commissioner of the Department of Education, dated September 10, 2019. This occurred prior to the transmittal of the matter to the OAL.

The prehearing order set forth a briefing schedule for the motion. Petitioner filed his response to the motion, titled "Opening Statement"[1] on October 9, 2019. Respondent filed a reply thereto on October 28, 2019.

The record closed on October 28, 2019.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Petitioner was arrested on August 4, 2018, by the Nutley Police Department. That arrest led to Petitioner entering into a plea agreement wherein he entered a plea of guilty to the charge of a violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1(c)(2) in the third degree.

[1] Petitioner appears pro se. I accept his "Opening Statement" as his certification as he sets forth certain facts therein.

By letter dated June 18, 2019, OSP informed petitioner that he was permanently disqualified from serving in any position with an educational institution under the supervision of the Department of Education. Petitioner then filed the instant appeal.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Respondent seeks an order of dismissal as petitioner does not dispute he was convicted of a crime of the third degree in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:1(c)(2). Rather, it is petitioner's contention that the conviction should be treated as a fourth degree offense.

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10 provides as follows:

> At any time prior to transmittal of the pleadings to the OAL, in the Commissioner's discretion or upon motion to dismiss filed in lieu of answer, the Commissioner may dismiss the petition on the grounds that the petitioner has advanced no cause of action even if the petitioner's factual allegations are accepted as true or for lack of jurisdiction, failure to prosecute or other good reason.

It is clear herein that petitioner has not advanced a cause of action. Petitioner does not dispute his conviction, by way of plea bargain, to a crime of the third degree in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1(c)2. That crime is assault by auto while in violation of N.J.S.A. 4-50, Driving While Intoxicated, which results in serious bodily injury.

Rather, petitioner argues that he did not intend to harm anyone and that his conviction should be considered a crime of the fourth degree and therefore not disqualifying. Petitioner cites Parshelunis v. N.J. State Dep't of Educ., Office of Crim. Hist. Rev., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 10282-07, Initial Decision (August 28, 2008), adopted Comm'r Final Decision (November 25, 2008). In that matter the petitioner pled guilty to a fourth degree offense that did not involve serious bodily injury.

Parshelunis is distinguishable from the instant matter. In Markakis v. N.J. Dep't of Educ., Office of Crim. Hist. Rev., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 13275-10, Initial Decision (June 10, 2011), adopted Comm'r Final Decision (September 1, 2011), the petitioner was found guilty of the same offense as petitioner herein. In Markakis the decision disqualifying the petitioner from school employment was affirmed.

Petitioner alleges in his Opening Statement that the accident was caused by him having a seizure. He states that the criminal charges against him were "unscrupulous". He further states he was coerced into a plea agreement, but felt it was in his best interests to avoid taking the case to trial. This tribunal is not the forum to address what happened during the course of the prosecution of the criminal charges against petitioner. That is a matter to be addressed at the Superior Court level via perhaps a motion for post-conviction relief. It cannot be addressed here.

While petitioner may not have intended to cause the injury and harm that he caused, a mens rea of intent to harm is not a requirement of the statute. Reckless behavior is all that is required for a conviction for assault by auto, and petitioner had to lay a factual basis under oath when he entered his guilty plea. Reckless behavior can also form the basis for a conviction of aggravated assault and manslaughter, crimes listed as disqualifiers under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(c)(1). Petitioner caused serious bodily injury by the use of force upon another. I CONCLUDE that a third degree conviction of assault by auto under these circumstances does warrant a disqualification of petitioner's employment in public education.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that Respondent's motion to dismiss is GRANTED; and it is further ORDERED that petitioner's appeal is DISMISSED with prejudice.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Decision

Courtney Hambrecht,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Atlantic City, Atlantic County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner – formerly employed as a lifeguard in the respondent Board's school district – sought summary decision requiring the respondent Board to correct her personnel file to reflect her voluntary resignation as of January 29, 2019 and remove any references to a termination of her employment. The parties filed cross motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; petitioner argued that her resignation was effective on January 29, 2019 as she submitted her letter of resignation, the Superintendent recommended her resignation, and the Board approved the resignation; consequently, the Board's subsequent action to rescind its acceptance of her resignation was not valid because her employment relationship had already ended; further, without a recommendation of termination from the Superintendent, the Board had no authority to terminate her; the Board contended that it acted immediately after learning of compelling reasons to rescind its acceptance of petitioner's resignation and terminated her employment the same day; therefore, the Board opines that petitioner's personnel file correctly reflects that the Board terminated her; however, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(a), a personnel action to remove an employee may only be taken upon the recommendation of the Superintendent; in this case, the Superintendent accepted petitioner's letter of resignation and there is no evidence to show that the Superintendent made a subsequent recommendation to terminate petitioner based on new information. The ALJ concluded that petitioner's resignation was effective January 29, 2019. Accordingly, the ALJ granted petitioner's motion for summary decision, denied the Board's cross motion, and ordered the Board to correct petitioner's personnel file to reflect her resignation.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusion, and adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision is this matter. The Board was ordered to correct petitioner's personnel file to indicate that she resigned effective January 29, 2019.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Courtney Hambrecht,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Atlantic City, Atlantic County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

In this matter, petitioner – a lifeguard for the Board – was on duty during a near-fatal drowning incident on January 14, 2019. After an attorney for the family informed the Board of potential legal action, petitioner submitted her letter of resignation on January 29, 2019. Approximately five hours later at the Board's scheduled meeting that evening, the Superintendent recommended acceptance of petitioner's resignation, and the Board voted to accept it. Thereafter, the Board went into executive session and, upon emerging, voted to rescind its earlier approval of petitioner's resignation and terminate petitioner instead. Petitioner filed the within appeal challenging her termination.

Pursuant N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(a),[1] a personnel action to remove an employee may only be taken upon the recommendation of the Superintendent. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the Superintendent recommended the acceptance of petitioner's resignation, and there is no evidence in the record that the Superintendent made a new recommendation during executive session. The ALJ also noted that the Board was aware of the incident and the potential for litigation before it voted to accept petitioner's resignation. As such, petitioner's personnel files should be corrected to reflect that she resigned from her position on January 29, 2019.

[1] The ALJ inadvertently cited this statute as N.J.S.A. 18A:24.4.1(a) in several places in the Initial Decision. It is clear that the correct statute is N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(a).

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that petitioner's resignation was accepted by the Board following the Superintendent's recommendation, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(a). Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein. The Board shall correct petitioner's personnel files to indicate that she resigned from her position of employment on January 29, 2019.

COURTNEY HAMBRECHT,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ATLANTIC CITY, ATLANTIC COUNTY,
Respondent.

Michael A. Armstrong, Esq., appearing for petitioner (Michael A. Armstrong & Associates, LLC, attorneys)

Record Closed: November 6, 2019 Decided: November 6, 2019

BEFORE KATHLEEN M. CALEMMO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The petitioner Courtney Hambrecht (Hambrecht) seeks summary decision requiring respondent, Board of Education of the City of Atlantic City (Board), to correct her personnel file and any other files to reflect her voluntary resignation as of January 29, 2019, and remove any and all references to a termination from employment.

The Board seeks summary decision upholding its decision to terminate Hambrecht effective January 29, 2019.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On April 26, 2019, the petitioner filed a notice of motion for emergent relief that was denied by Order dated May 10, 2019. Petitioner advised this tribunal that she intended to continue to pursue her claim through a due process hearing. On August 9, 2019, petitioner filed a motion for summary decision and a supporting certification of counsel with supporting exhibits[1]. By letter dated August 23, 2019, petitioner supplemented her statement of undisputed material facts by including respondent's answers to request for admissions. On September 3, 2019, respondent filed its opposition and cross-motion to dismiss. On September 13, 2019, petitioner filed her response to respondent's cross-motion and her reply to respondent's opposition. On October 22, 2019, respondent supplemented its cross motion with petitioner's answers to its request for admissions.

ISSUE

Both parties are seeking summary decision. Petitioner maintains that her resignation was effective on January 29, 2019, because she submitted her letter of resignation, the Superintendent of Schools recommended her resignation, and the Board approved the recommendation. (P-1, Exhibits 2 and 3.) Consequently, the Board's subsequent action to rescind its acceptance of her resignation must fail because her employment relationship had ended and without a recommendation of termination by the superintendent, the Board had no authority to terminate her.

[1] Petitioner is also seeking to compel discovery as alternative relief. The parties agreed that the motion for summary decision would be decided first on its own merits without consideration of the alternative relief request.

Respondent maintains that although the Board voted to accept Hambrecht's resignation during the public session of the meeting, the information divulged during the closed session provided compelling reasons to overturn that vote. The Board acted immediately to rescind its acceptance and voted to terminate her employment. Therefore, respondent's personnel file pertaining to petitioner correctly shows that the Board terminated her employment.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The following facts taken directly from the admissions in the moving papers of both parties are undisputed, and I FIND them to be the FACTS of the case:

1. Hambrecht received and signed an offer of employment to work as a lifeguard for the Board on June 15, 2019, with employment to commence on September 1, 2019. (P-1, Exhibit 1.)

2. On January 14, 2019, a near fatal drowning incident occurred involving a student attending gym class at the pool located in the Atlantic City High School facility. (R-1, Exhibit A.)

3. On January 21, 2019, the attorney for the parents of the student sent a letter to the Atlantic City High School and the Board informing them of the student's intention to pursue a potential claim against the entities and individuals involved pending an investigation of the near fatal drowning incident. Id.

4. On January 29, 2019, Hambrecht submitted her letter of resignation to the Office of the Superintendent where it was stamped received at 1:17 p.m. (P-1, Exhibit 2.)

5. The Board held its regularly scheduled meeting on January 29, 2019, at 6:00 p.m. (P-1, Exhibit 3.)

6. As reflected in the minutes from the January 29, 2019, Board meeting, Barry S. Caldwell, Superintendent of Schools recommended the acceptance of Hambrecht's resignation from her position as lifeguard at the Atlantic City High School, effective January 29, 2019. Id.

7. As further reflected in the minutes from the January 29, 2019, Board meeting, the Board moved to approve Caldwell's recommendation of Hambrecht's resignation and voted to accept it. Id.

8. At approximately 6:27 p.m. on January 29, 2019, the Board went into executive session. Id.

9. The Board emerged from executive session two hours later, and after a motion, voted to rescind it earlier approval of Hambrecht's resignation. Id.

10. Following the vote to rescind, the Board by motion, voted to terminate Hambrecht's employment. Id.

11. By letter dated January 30, 2019, Diane M. Saunders, Director of Human Resources for the Atlantic City School District, sent Hambrecht a letter notifying her that at the January 29, 2019, regular oard meeting, the Board voted to terminate her employment effective January 29, 2019. (P-1, Exhibit 4.)

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Both parties contend that there are no disputed facts requiring a hearing, and that the matter is appropriate for summary decision.

Summary decision may be granted when "the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). The rule further provides that an adverse party must respond by affidavit setting forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined at an evidentiary hearing. Ibid. The rule is patterned on the New Jersey Supreme Court's rules concerning summary judgment. The New Jersey Supreme Court has explained that when deciding a motion for summary judgment under R. 4:46-2:

> A determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party.
> [Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995).]

Here, I CONCLUDE that there are no material facts in dispute and the matter is appropriate for summary decision.

In support of its motion, petitioner relies on N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(a) which provides that a board of education can only remove an employee upon the recommendation of the chief school administrator. Hambrecht maintains that Superintendent Caldwell recommended her resignation as reflected in the minutes of the January 29, 2019, Board meeting. After the Board voted to approve her resignation, Hambrecht's employment ended at that moment.

Petitioner's legal argument is two-fold. Her first argument is that after her resignation, her employment ceased, and the Board could no longer take any action regarding her employment. Stated differently, the Board could not reinstate her employment to terminate her. Her second argument is that the Superintendent's recommendation of her resignation was formalized in the minutes of the January 29, 2019 Board meeting. Respondent had not submitted any competent evidential materials to show that during the closed session, the Superintendent changed his public recommendation for resignation to a recommendation of termination. Without the chief school administrator's recommendation, the Board would be in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:24-4.1(a) if it acted to terminate her. Therefore, whatever happened in the closed session is irrelevant to the outcome of this matter and her resignation must stand.

Respondent's argument is that it did not have ample time to evaluate the situation involving Hambrecht's resignation when it voted to approve the Superintendent's recommendation. It was not until certain information was divulged during the closed session that the Board decided to rescind its acceptance and voted to terminate Hambrecht.

This is a unique situation with little support in existing case law. However, the controlling statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:24-4.1(a), provides clear guidance. In accordance with the statute, the key figure is Superintendent Caldwell. Respondent argues that there was insufficient time for Caldwell and the Board to consider all the facts before accepting Hambrecht's resignation. This argument is not supported by the time-line of events. The incident occurred on January 14, 2019. Hambrecht provided an incident report, but no immediate action was taken against Hambrecht. (P-1, Exhibit 6.) The attorney letter, putting the District and the Board on notice of potential litigation, was dated January 21, 2019. (R-1, Exhibit A.) Hambrecht submitted her letter of resignation on the afternoon of January 29, 2019. (P-1, Exhibit 2.) The minutes of the January 29, 2019, Board meeting reflected Caldwell's recommendation of Hambrecht's resignation and the Board's vote approving same. (P-1, Exhibit 3.) While it is not known what occurred during the closed session, the January 21, 2019, letter is proof that both Caldwell and the Board were aware of possible litigation involving the incident that directly affected Hambrecht before they voted to accept her resignation. By asserting that the attorney/client privilege applies to everything that was discussed during the executive session, respondent refused to answer whether Caldwell recommended termination during the executive session. Respondent did not provide a certification from Caldwell in support of its cross-motion. Without addressing the merits of respondent's attorney/client privilege claim, respondent's decision to assert the privilege hinders its ability to effectively defend petitioner's claim. As Caldwell's recommendation is required by statute, the only recommendation in the record before me is Caldwell's recommendation to the Board to accept Hambrecht's resignation.

Respondent's equity argument falls short because it is clear from the record that the parties were aware of the incident and the potential for litigation before the Superintendent recommended resignation and the Board voted to accept the Superintendent's recommendation. Respondent did not maintain that Caldwell was totally unaware of the severity of the situation when he recommended Hambrecht's resignation to the Board.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that based on the undisputed material facts and in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:24-4.1(a), petitioner's resignation was effective January 29, 2019, based upon the recommendation of Superintendent Caldwell and the vote of the Board.

ORDER

Petitioner's motion for summary decision is GRANTED. Respondent's cross-motion for summary decision is DENIED. In accordance with this Order, respondent will correct its personnel files on petitioner to reflect that she resigned her position of employment effective January 29, 2019.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

J.B. on behalf of minor child R.B.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Bergen County Vocational Technical School District, Bergen County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

In July 2019, J.B. filed a petition on behalf of his daughter, R.B., against the respondent Board, alleging, inter alia, that R.B.'s religious observance prevented her from competing academically with classmates, and also alleged that the Board failed to make accommodations for his daughter's religious observance in violation of Board policy; further, petitioner claimed that a 2017 response from R.B.'s guidance counselor in which he allegedly asked "what's more important to you, your religion or your schoolwork," constituted an act of harassment, intimidation, or bullying (HIB) in violation of the New Jersey Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (ABRA), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq. Petitioner asserted that he was notified by petitioner on August 6, 2018 that the Board did not investigate petitioner's claims under the ABRA. The Board filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer, arguing, inter alia, that the petition was filed outside of the time limit for filing an appeal, which is set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). The matter was transmitted to the OAL on August 7, 2019 as a contested case.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: J.B. is the father of R.B., who is now nineteen years old and a full-time, out of state college student; the incidents that petitioner alleges violate Board policy and State law occurred during the 2016-17 school year; the date on which J.B. was notified that the Board did not investigate his HIB complaint was August 6, 2018; petitioner did not file his petition until July 16, 2019, more than a year after R.B. graduated from the school district; pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), a petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of a final order, ruling, or other action by the district board of education that is the subject of the case; and petitioner's argument that negotiations with the Board after R.B.'s graduation toll the 90-day limitation period is without merit. The ALJ concluded that the case was untimely filed. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion to dismiss the case.

Upon review, the Commissioner concluded that the record of this matter does not contain sufficient information to render a decision; accordingly, the case was remanded the case to the OAL for supplementation of the record and further proceedings consistent with the Commissioner's decision.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

J.B. on behalf of minor child R.B.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Bergen County Vocational Technical School District, Bergen County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the exceptions filed by petitioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and the reply thereto by the respondent have been reviewed.

This matter involves a harassment, intimidation, and bullying (HIB) complaint made by a parent. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) granted the respondent's motion to dismiss on the basis that the petition was untimely, as it was filed more than 90 days after the notification to the petitioner that the Board of Education did not investigate his complaint. The ALJ further found that subsequent communications between the parties were in the nature of negotiations that did not toll the limitations period. The ALJ did not reach the other issues raised by the respondent in its motion to dismiss, including standing and mootness.

In his exceptions, petitioner argues that the final order of the board of education was not the letter dated August 6, 2018, which he characterizes as the superintendent's "initial position" concerning his allegations. He contends that an investigation occurred, at the superintendent's direction, sometime after December 10, 2018. He states that the petition included allegations regarding incidents that took place in February and March 2019, which could not have been addressed by the August 2018 letter. Finally, he argues that he could not have filed his petition until he pursued his rights at the lower level, which included an appearance at a Board meeting on March 26, 2019 to appeal the superintendent's determination, and the Board's subsequent decision dated April 16, 2019. According to petitioner, the April 16, 2019 letter is the final order of the Board that triggered the 90-day deadline.

In reply, the Board argues that it was reasonable for the ALJ to rely on the petition, in which petitioner admitted that he was on notice on August 6, 2018 that the investigation had been completed. The Board further contends that the April 16, 2019 letter should be disregarded because it was not submitted in evidence and, even if it is considered, the letter was an attempt to resolve the petitioner's concerns through negotiation, which does not toll limitations period.

Upon review, the Commissioner concludes that the record does not contain sufficient information to render a decision. Neither the August 6, 2018 nor the April 16, 2019 letter is part of the record, and the representations made in the filings regarding the content of the letters and the identity of the parties making any decisions outlined in those letters are inconsistent and unclear. The Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights provides that a superintendent's decision shall be reported to and affirmed, rejected, or modified by the board of education, with the board's decision being appealable to the Commissioner. N.J.S.A. 18A:35-17. While the petitioner admits to having received the August 6, 2018 letter, the petition indicates that the letter was sent by the superintendent, a fact that the Board does not appear to contest. Therefore, it is not clear from the current record when, if at all, the Board issued its decision.[1]

Accordingly, this matter is remanded to the OAL for further proceedings consistent with this decision.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

For example, it is unclear what violations of the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights, if any, petitioner is asserting on his own behalf.

J.B., petitioner, pro se

William C. Soukas, Esq., for respondent (Nowell, P.A., attorneys)

Record Closed: October 28, 2019 Decided: November 12, 2019

BEFORE BARRY E. MOSCOWITZ, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On August 6, 2018, respondent notified petitioner that it would not investigate his complaint for "harassment, intimidation, and bullying" (HIB) under the New Jersey Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13, et seq. On July 16, 2019, petitioner filed a petition appealing that determination. Should this case be dismissed? Yes. Under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), a petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling, or other action by the district board of education that is the subject of the case.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On July 16, 2019, petitioner, J.B. filed a petition with the Department of Education, Office of Controversies and Disputes, on behalf of his daughter R.B., against respondent, the Board of Education of the Bergen County Vocational Technical School, Bergen County, New Jersey. In his petition of appeal, petitioner alleges that his daughter's religious observance prevented her from competing academically with her classmates, and that respondent failed to make an accommodation for his daughter's religious observance in violation of Board policy. Petitioner also alleges two specific instances in which an accommodation was not made for two specific assignments. Finally, petitioner alleges that the response by his daughter's guidance counselor, a Mr. Natelli, around October 11, 2017, namely, "what's more important to you, your religion or your schoolwork," constitutes a violation of the New Jersey Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (ABRA), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13, et seq., which respondent notified petitioner on August 6, 2018, that it did not investigate.

On August 5, 2019, respondent filed a motion to dismiss instead of an answer under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5.

On August 7, 2019, the Office of Controversies and Disputes transmitted the case to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case under the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and the act establishing the Office of Administrative Law, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -23, for a hearing under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6.

On August 19, 2019, petitioner filed his opposition to the motion; on October 18, 2019, a prehearing telephone conference was held; and on October 28, 2019, respondent advised that it would not file a response.

Neither party requested oral argument.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon the documents submitted in support of and opposition to the motion, I FIND the following as FACT for purposes of this motion to dismiss:

J.B. is the father of R.B. R.B. was born on January 16, 2000, and is now nineteen years old. R.B. is enrolled as a full-time student at the University of Pittsburgh. The incidents petitioner alleges violate Board policy and State law occurred during the 2016–17 school year, and the date on which J.B. was notified that the Board of Education did not investigate his complaint for HIB was August 6, 2018. Finally, J.B. is not a lawyer licensed to practice law in this state, and no evidence exists that R.B. authorized him to represent her in any capacity in this case.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Respondent argues that this case should be dismissed for three reasons. First, respondent argues that petitioner, J.B., lacks standing because his daughter, R.B., is no longer a minor, and that the administrative rules of procedure do not allow a non-lawyer, such as J.B., to represent a litigant in this case. Second, respondent argues that the case is moot. Third, respondent argues that petitioner filed his petition out of time.

Petitioner argues in opposition that he has standing to file the petition as a parent, that he and his daughter continue to be adversely affected by the alleged incidents, and that the issues in this case are too important to be dismissed.

Under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), a petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling, or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency that is the subject of the case. As case law makes clear, such a time limitation confers due process, is both meaningful and reasonable, and provides finality in education matters, which negotiations do not toll. Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ. of Berkeley Twp., 131 N.J. 572, 583–88 (1983). As such, this time limitation has long withstood challenge. See, e.g., Nissman v. Bd. of Educ. of Long Beach Island, 272 N.J. Super. 373, 381–82 (App. Div. 1994), certif. denied, 137 N.J. 315 (1994) (where the court stated that the time limitation is not inherently arbitrary or capricious, and to rule otherwise would deprive district boards of education the security of the rule). Moreover, negotiations do not toll this time limitation. See, e.g., Giannetta et al. v. Bd. of Educ. of Egg Harbor, No. #147-05, Comm'r Decision (April 25, 2005), https://www.nj.gov/education/legal/commissioner/ (where the Commissioner of Education explicitly stated, citing Kaprow, 131 N.J. at 588, that attempts to resolve a claim through negotiation with a board of education do not negate receipt of adequate notice or toll the running of the time limitation).

In this case, the incidents petitioner alleges violate Board policy and State law occurred during the 2016–17 school year, and the date on which J.B. was notified that the Board of Education did not investigate his complaint for HIB was August 6, 2018, but petitioner did not file his petition until July 16, 2019, more than a year after his daughter graduated from the school district. Petitioner argues that respondent's negotiations after graduation somehow toll the 90-day time limitation, but as case law explains, such negotiations do not toll this time limitation and would otherwise thwart the purpose of the rule. Accordingly, the law required petitioner to have filed his claim on time, within 90 days from August 6, 2018, and negotiate its resolution later, not on July 16, 2019, nearly a full year later when R.B. is no longer in school. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that this case is out of time, that the motion to dismiss should be granted, and that this case should be dismissed.

Since I have concluded that this case is out of time and should be dismissed, I need not address the other two arguments respondent presented in support of its motion to dismiss.

ORDER

Given my findings of fact and conclusions of law, I ORDER that the motion to dismiss is hereby GRANTED and that this case is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified, or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify, or reject this decision within forty-five days, and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision under N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Joel Schwartz and Corrine O'Hara,

Petitioners,

v.

Board of Education of the Town of Princeton, Mercer County and Board of Education of the Township of Cranbury, Middlesex County, Respondents.

Synopsis

Petitioners – residents of Princeton – filed the within action to seek a review of the Town of Princeton Board of Education's (Princeton) decision to renew its send-receive relationship with the Township of Cranbury Board of Education (Cranbury). Cranbury has for approximately thirty years sent its high school students to Princeton under a send-receive agreement. In 2018, an extension of the existing agreement was discussed at an open public meeting, and thereafter Princeton's board voted unanimously to approve the extended agreement. Princeton filed a motion for summary decision, which was joined by Cranbury; petitioners opposed the motion.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue in this case, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; local boards of education have broad discretionary authority and their actions are entitled to a presumption of correctness; the decision to renew a send-receive agreement is entirely discretionary as there is no statute, regulation, or policy that require a board of education to consider certain information or make specific findings prior to voting on the matter; in the instant case, Princeton made its discretionary determination after consulting with the Board attorney and a demographics expert, holding a public meeting on the issue, and listening to public comment; and Princeton did not act in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner in extending the send-receive agreement with Cranbury. The ALJ concluded that Princeton did not abuse its discretion in approving the send-receive relationship with Cranbury. Accordingly, summary decision was granted and the petition was dismissed.

Upon review, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter, and dismissed the petition.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Joel Schwartz and Corrine O'Hara,

Petitioners,

v.

Board of Education of the Town of Princeton, Mercer County and Board of Education of the Township of Cranbury, Middlesex County,

Respondents.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by petitioners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and the replies thereto filed by the Princeton Board of Education (Princeton) and Cranbury Board of Education (Cranbury).[1]

In this matter, petitioners – residents of the Town of Princeton – challenge Princeton's decision to extend its send-receive relationship with Cranbury. Cranbury has been sending its high school students to Princeton for approximately 30 years pursuant to a sending-receiving agreement. Discussion on whether to continue the relationship was held at the Princeton Board Meeting on April 24, 2018, and the Board voted on June 12, 2018 to approve the agreement. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that Princeton did not act in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner in extending the agreement because, in making the discretionary determination, the Board consulted with its attorney and a demographer, held public discussion, and listened to public comment. Additionally, the ALJ concluded that the Cranbury Board member who serves as a representative on Princeton's Board had a right under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.1 to vote on whether to renew the agreement, including the terms of the agreement. However, the ALJ found that even assuming, arguendo, that it was improper for the Cranbury representative to vote, there was no harm in the error because the agreement would have passed regardless of whether the Cranbury representative voted. Finally, the ALJ found that there is no authority or reason for the Commissioner to compel Princeton to conduct a feasibility study.

In their exceptions, petitioners argue that summary decision should have been denied because the Initial Decision was based on many disputed facts. Petitioners allege that Princeton's decision was not based on reports or analysis; instead, the Board presented limited documents purporting to provide financial, legal and demographic impacts that in actuality provided skewed information that was not based on verifiable facts. Petitioners maintain that the ALJ erred in relying on the facts presented by respondents, which were only made by certification of counsel and not by anyone with first-hand knowledge, including the fact that severance would have been contested by Cranbury, that there were financial incentives to continue the agreement, or that litigation would result in excessive costs.

Petitioners further argue that the ALJ mischaracterized their argument as asserting that Princeton's actions were arbitrary and capricious, when they actually argued that the Board and its members breached their fiduciary obligations to citizens of the Town of Princeton. Petitioners maintain that Princeton breached its fiduciary obligations by: relying on unexplained economic and enrollment assumptions; failing to consider the overcrowding caused by Cranbury's students and the consequence that Princeton residents will have to pay for expansion of the schools to remedy the problem; and by overlooking other schools located immediately adjacent to Cranbury that would be a better solution than sending their students to Princeton. Considering economics, petitioners maintain that the Board only considered the fact that 280 Cranbury students generated around $4.8 million in gross tuition payments. Petitioners argue that Princeton's assumption that it only costs about $1 million per year to educate those students was not based on any supporting data, and that it is inaccurate, given that it costs nearly five times that amount to educate Princeton residents. Further, the Board failed to conduct a current demographic study, and instead relied on former reports which were contradictory. With respect to legal considerations, petitioners also contend that Princeton relied on misinformation about the costs and risks of severance, and that Princeton ignored at least five instances where sending-receiving agreements have been successfully terminated, including the termination of Cranbury's sending-receiving agreement with Lawrence Township in order to initiate the current sending-receiving relationship with Princeton nearly 30 years ago.

Petitioners contend that the ALJ erred in finding that the "only sensible reason not to renew the agreement, then, is if the Board wanted to sever the relationship." (Petitioners' exceptions at 19). The ALJ failed to consider that Princeton would have had an alternative to severance – i.e., deferring any action until it had the information to make a reasoned decision. Additionally, petitioners argue that the Cranbury representative had an inherent conflict of interest when she voted at both Princeton's and Cranbury's board meetings in favor of the agreement, and that nothing in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.1 allows her to vote on a sending-receiving agreement. As such, petitioners seek for the Commissioner to reject the Initial Decision so that a plenary hearing may be held.

In reply, Princeton argues that contrary to petitioners' argument, its summary decision motion was not based on uncertified facts. Princeton submitted the certification of the Board's Business Administrator and Board Secretary who had direct knowledge of the events at the relevant meetings, and also incorporated video recordings of those meetings. Furthermore, Princeton maintains that the ALJ did not resolve any disputed facts. Whether or not petitioners claim that the underlying information was incorrect or that additional information was necessary, there is no dispute as to what information was presented at the Board meetings and what the Board considered in reaching its determination, including presentations from the Board attorney, public comment, and debate among Board members. Although petitioners contend that Princeton's decision was not based on actual and verifiable financial, demographic, and educational facts, Princeton points out that these issues – with the exception of the annual tuition amount – are based on estimates and projections, so they cannot be truly verified.

Princeton further contends that the ALJ applied the appropriate, long-settled standard of review of discretionary determinations made by boards of education – whether the action was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Nevertheless, Princeton maintains that it did not breach a fiduciary duty, as there is no evidence of any fraud or corruption in its decision making. Finally, Princeton argues that the ALJ properly concluded that the Cranbury representative was authorized to vote on the agreement, as N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.1 allows sending district representatives to vote on tuition or on "any matter" which directly involves the sending district's students, or the programs and services they use. Therefore, Princeton requests that the Commissioner adopt the Initial Decision.

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that Princeton did not act in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner in voting to extend the sending-receiving relationship with Cranbury. Such determination was based on information provided by the Board attorney and following public discussion and comment. The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ that there is no basis by which Princeton should be compelled to conduct a feasibility study when both Princeton and Cranbury wish to continue the sending-receiving relationship. With respect to the sending district representative, the Commissioner notes that regardless of whether the Cranbury representative was permitted by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.1 to vote on the renewal of the sending-receiving agreement, the result would still be the same. When a Board member's improper vote does not change the ultimate result, and his or her participation was not prejudicial to the cause, the error is harmless. Scardigli v. Borough of Haddonfield Zoning Board of Adjustment, 300 N.J. Super. 314, 324 (App. Div. 1997). As the ALJ found, excluding the Cranbury representative's vote, six of ten Board members voted in favor of the agreement, so a majority remained in favor of renewing the agreement. As such, the Commissioner need not make a determination regarding whether N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.1 permits sending district representatives to vote on the renewal of a sending-receiving agreement, as any error in this circumstance was harmless.

The Commissioner does not find petitioners' exceptions to be persuasive. The ALJ applied the correct standard for discretionary Board determinations. "It is well established that any 'action of the local board which lies within the area of its discretionary powers may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives.'" M.S., on behalf of minor child, J.S. v. Board of Education of the Township of Hainesport, Burlington County, Commissioner's Decision No. 155-19, dated June 18, 2019, at 2 (quoting Kopera v. W. Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960)). It is clear that Princeton had a rational basis for its decision to extend the sending-receiving relationship with Cranbury. Additionally, whether petitioners believe that the Board should have considered additional information or done additional research, there is no doubt that Princeton made an informed determination based on information provided by the Board attorney and following public comment and discussion. Further, the Initial Decision was not based on disputed facts. While petitioners seem to challenge the accuracy of the information presented to the Board, there is no dispute regarding what Princeton reviewed and considered in rendering its determination.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted – as modified herein – as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein, and the petition is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND STATEMENT OF FACTS

The petitioners filed this action seeking a review of the Town of Princeton Board of Education's (Princeton) decision to renew its send-receive relationship with the Township of Cranbury Board of Education (Cranbury). The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case on October 3, 2018. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14f-1 to -13. A motion for summary decision was filed by Princeton on March 1, 2019. By letter dated March 12, 2019, Cranbury joined in the Motion. Opposition to the motion was filed by the petitioners on July 23, 2019, and a Reply brief was filed by Princeton on August 30, 2019.

Petitioners are residents of Princeton. Cranbury is a K-8 public body organized pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:10-1 et seq. Pursuant to a send-receive relationship, Cranbury sends its high school students to Princeton. This send-receive relationship has existed for approximately thirty years since Cranbury petitioned to sever its relationship with Lawrence Township in 1985. On April 24, 2018, the extension of this agreement was discussed at an open public meeting of the Princeton BOE.

Presentations were made by the Board attorney, and interested parties were given an opportunity to discuss the matter. The petitioners were present as were other members of the public, who were permitted the opportunity to speak and ask questions. The Board presented information from a demographer as well as detailed financial information. The attorney for the Board provided a discussion of what would be required for severance to occur, including a feasibility study, approval from the Commissioner of the Department of Education, as well as potential litigation from Cranbury. Thereafter, on June 12, 2018, the Board voted unanimously to approve the agreement.

Petitioners argue that the Board acted arbitrary, capricious or unreasonably in approving the send-receive relationship with Cranbury. The petitioners also argue that the Cranbury BOE member should not have been permitted to vote on the issue, and her vote vitiates or nullifies the vote. And finally, the petitioners seek an order from the undersigned requiring the Princeton BOE to conduct a feasibility study on the severance of the relationship with Cranbury.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

Summary decision is the administrative counterpart to summary judgment in the judicial arena. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 provides that summary decision should be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. To defeat a summary decision motion, the adverse party must respond by affidavits setting forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary hearing. Use of the summary procedure is aimed at the swift uncovering of the merits and either their effective disposition or their advancement toward a prompt resolution by trial. Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954).

The New Jersey Supreme Court encouraged trial-level courts not to refrain from granting summary judgment when the proper circumstances present themselves. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 541 (1995). While cautioning that a judge should not weigh the truth of the evidence or resolve factual disputes at this early stage of the proceedings, the Court clarified that when the evidence is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law, the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. Id. at 540. Appellate courts recognize that "[a]n evidentiary hearing is mandated only when the proposed administrative action is based on disputed adjudicatory facts." Contini v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 286 N.J. Super. 106, 120 (App. Div. 1995), certif. denied, 145 N.J. 372 (1996).

Standard for Board Decisions

Under the familiar and deferential standard of review, local boards of education "have broad discretionary authority and their actions are entitled to a presumption of correctness absent a showing of bad faith, illegal motive or a lack of rational basis." L.S. o/b/o E.S. v. Westfield Twp. Bd. of Educ., EDU 7387-09, Final Decision (December 20, 2009), https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/. The decision whether to renew a send-receive agreement is entirely discretionary—meaning, the Princeton Board is not required by statute, regulation, or board policy to consider certain information or make particular findings before voting on the matter. Individual board members must decide for themselves what information is needed to make an informed decision.

In the instant case, before voting on whether to renew the agreement, the Princeton Board consulted its attorney and a demographer, presented information to the community, and listened to public comments. During this deliberative period, petitioners raised concerns to the Board about its decision-making process. First, even if it did not renew the agreement, by operation of settled law, the relationship would nonetheless continue on the same terms. The only sensible reason not to renew the agreement, then, is if the Board wanted to sever the relationship. The Board had a rational basis to avoid initiating the severance process, which its attorney advised is both uncertain and expensive—two propositions petitioners do not dispute. Assuming the respondents wanted severance, they would have to conduct a costly feasibility study and petition the Commissioner of Education for permission to sever. Moreover, it was known to the board that any such application would have been contested by Cranbury. The feasibility study alone—which Princeton would have to fully finance—could cost tens of thousands of dollars. And the unavoidable litigation costs and expert fees could easily exceed that amount. Measured against the prospect of success, the Board's decision to avoid these costs was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The Board also had sound financial incentives to continue the relationship. Tuition paid by Cranbury—$17,191 per-student, totaling about $5 million annually, which represents the second largest source of revenue for the operating budget.

The petitioners' main complaint is that the net loss estimates kept fluctuating, from a high of $3.8 million to a low of $1 million. This illustrates why, in their view, the Board needed to provide "verifiable facts or evidence" to substantiate the cost of educating Cranbury students and the cost savings if those students no longer attended Princeton High School. The fact that Princeton High School was over-capacity and projected to remain that way for the foreseeable future, does not render the Board's decision irrational. Moreover, the Board estimated, based on demographic reports, that even without Cranbury students, Princeton High School would remain over-capacity for all but one of the next eight school years. Thus, to accommodate the growing student population, Princeton High School nonetheless needed to be renovated, using funds raised by the then-proposed bond referendum. Petitioners question the accuracy of the demographic reports and thus, the Board's reliance on them. They argue that the five reports were flawed in that they produced contradictory results and failed to consider important information—for example, how recent housing developments in Princeton or Cranbury's affordable housing obligation would affect enrollment at the high school. They also allege that the Board ignored a relevant 2015 demographic report prepared by Cranbury. Yet there is no evidence that the reports were inaccurate or would have been more accurate had they considered the information petitioners suggest. Moreover, the petitioners did not present an expert of their own or an expert report from their own demographer.

Petitioners' also argue that the Board should have deliberated longer before voting; the Board's interactions with the community were merely "public relations events." It is undisputed that the Princeton Board did have a significant amount of data before them, had the law presented by their attorney, and listed to the public at an open public meeting. It is evident that the petitioners desired a different conclusion from the Board. However, the law only requires that the Board not act in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. In this case, it did not.

Sending District's Representative

The petitioners argue that Evelynn Spann, the Cranbury Board member should not have been permitted to vote on the extension of the agreement. The law permits Cranbury to appoint one representative to sit on the Princeton Board. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.2(a)(2). That representative, Evelynn Spann, voted with six of her colleagues to renew the send-receive agreement. The issue is whether she had the statutory authority to vote on that matter, as a sending district's representative is only eligible to vote on those matters listed from N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.1(a)-(i). There is also no dispute that the statute does not explicitly authorize voting on renewing a send-receive agreement. The disagreement concerns whether voting on that subject is authorized by the right to vote on ("tuition to be charged the sending district by the receiving district") and ("any matter directly involving the sending district pupils or programs and services utilized by those pupils"). N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.1(a) and (e).

The intent of the statute is that the sending district member voting rights be limited to those matters that affect the sending district students. The Legislature must have known that send-receive relationships are governed by written agreements. So, petitioners are correct that the Legislature could have (and maybe should have) been clearer if it intended to authorize voting on whether to renew such an agreement. However, if we begin from the premise that any good send-receive agreement would include, among other terms, tuition costs—as this agreement did—subsection (a) raises difficult questions. On the one hand, authorizing the representative to vote on one term in the agreement (tuition costs) is a clumsy way for the Legislature to authorize voting on the entire agreement. On the other hand, the Princeton Board is correct that unless the agreement is voted on in parts—which is an unusual way to conduct business—the representative would be deprived of their right to vote on tuition costs.

When subsections (a) and (e) are read together, it is only logical that the representative can vote on whether to renew the agreement. Subsection (e) authorizes voting on "any matter directly involving the sending district pupils or programs and services utilized by those pupils." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.1(e). This broad language seemingly covers other provisions in a typical send-receive agreement, for example, transportation costs and special education responsibility. Because these provisions concern the terms under which the sending district's students are educated, they fit comfortably within the language of subsection (e). For this reason, Ms. Spann was authorized to vote on the matter.

The petitioners also allege a conflict of interest on the part of the Cranbury board member. This particular conflict of interest statute, however, is found in the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., over which the School Ethics Commission has primary jurisdiction. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.4. Thus, this matter is not properly before the Commissioner of Education. See e.g., Gardner v. Hackensack Bd. of Educ., EDU 09421-12, Initial Decision (May 1, 2013), adopted, Comm'r (June 7, 2013), https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the Cranbury Board member had a right under the statute to vote on whether to renew the agreement and the terms of the agreement.

Finally, even assuming Ms. Spann voted improperly, that error was harmless. See Scardigli v. Borough of Haddonfield Zoning Bd. of Adjustment, 300 N.J. Super. 314, 324 (App. Div. 1997) ("[The board member's] improper vote does not change the ultimate result, and plaintiff has not claimed that [the board member's] participation . . . was prejudicial to plaintiff's cause. While it was erroneous to permit [the board member] to vote under the circumstances, we conclude the error is harmless.") Excluding her vote, six of ten board members voted to renew the agreement. That satisfied both the common law rule (requiring majority vote of those present) and the enhanced voting rule (requiring majority vote of the full board). See Negron v. South Plainfield Bd. of Educ., EDU 11522-10, Final Decision (March 28, 2011), https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/.

Feasibility Study

The petitioners do not dispute that the statute requires a feasibility study before severance of an existing send-receive relationship can occur. However, the Commissioner of Education cannot compel the Princeton Board to prepare a feasibility study. The Commissioner has supervisory authority over send-receive relationships. See Merchantville Bd. of Educ. v. Pennsauken Bd. of Educ., 204 N.J. Super. 508, 511 (App. Div. 1985). Once established, such a relationship may not be severed "except upon application made to and approved by the commissioner." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13. It is not enough, in other words, for two districts to agree to end their relationship. The district(s) seeking severance, as a pre-condition for filing an application to the Commissioner, must "prepare and submit a feasibility study," which considers the financial, educational, and racial implications of ending the relationship. Ibid; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-6.1(a). This study helps the Commissioner determine whether granting the application would have a "substantial negative impact." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13. If the Commissioner finds that it would not, the application must be granted. Ibid. There is no apparent reason, let alone a requirement, for a district to commission a feasibility study if it wants to continue the relationship—which is true for Princeton and Cranbury.

Petitioners seek to order the Commissioner to initiate the severance process for Princeton by ordering it to prepare a feasibility study. The Commissioner has no authority and no reason to disrupt a harmonious send-receive relationship. Local boards of education must decide whether to enter into such a relationship. But see N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8 (districts may be required to receive students). Likewise, the decision whether to initiate the process to end that relationship should also be left to their sound discretion. The absence of a governing standard is the clearest sign that the Legislature did not intend for the Commissioner to have this power. Cf. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 (standard for when severance application must be granted). Petitioners do not suggest under what circumstances it would be appropriate for the Commissioner to compel a board of education to prepare a feasibility study. Under their logic, if a taxpayer petitions for this relief, the Commissioner should grant it.
Decisions of this kind, however, are reserved for the democratic process. If taxpayers believe a feasibility study should be prepared, they must convince their local board members, who can vote to have the study conducted.

CONCLUSION

Respondent has filed a Motion for Summary Decision alleging that there are no factual issues in dispute, and they are entitled to judgment as a matter of law. The undisputed evidence demonstrate that the Board's decision was not arbitrary, unreasonable or capricious. Moreover, the petitioners have no right to demand a feasibility study or the dissolution of the send/receive agreement as a matter of law, as there is no private right to such a claim. Finally, the Cranbury Board member had a right to vote and even if their vote was excluded, the majority vote from the Board approved the send-receive relationship. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the Board did not abuse its discretion in approving the send-receive relationship with Cranbury. I therefore CONCLUDE that the petition is hereby DISMISSED.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that the District's Motion for Summary Decision is hereby GRANTED and the Petition is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. Final Decision

B.J., on behalf of minor child, L.J.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Carteret, Middlesex County, and James Bevere, Respondents.

Synopsis

Pro se petitioner filed an appeal in July 2016 challenging the disciplinary action taken by the respondent Board against her daughter, L.J.; L.J. received a four-day out-of-school suspension as consequence for her involvement in an altercation with another student in the school cafeteria on March 24, 2016. Both students received the same suspension for their involvement in the fight.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: it is widely recognized that local school boards are charged with the orderly conduct of the public schools, and are vested with broad discretion in matters involving pupil discipline; a school board's actions carry a presumption of validity and will not generally be disturbed absent an affirmative showing that its judgment was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable; the scope of the Commissioner's review here is limited to a determination regarding whether the Board had a reasonable basis for the actions taken; in the instant matter, it is undisputed that L.J. was involved in a fight on March 24, 2019 and remained physically and verbally aggressive after the fight was over; both students received a four-day suspension; there was video documenting the altercation at issue here, which L.J. has viewed, and petitioner's due process rights were not violated. The ALJ concluded that the Board's decision to suspend L.J. for her conduct on March 24, 2019 was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable and the Board followed its procedures for dealing with the situation.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition was dismissed.

BEFORE LELAND S. McGEE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On June 7, 2016, Petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal with the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (BCD), challenging disciplinary action taken by Respondents against her daughter, L.J. On June 14, 2016, BCD issued a notice to Petitioner advising that the Petition was deficient. On July 6, 2016, Petitioner filed a second Petition of Appeal with BCD which was accepted and on August 8, 2016, Respondents filed an Answer to the Petition. On August 10, 2016, the BCD transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case and the matter was assigned to the Honorable Leland McGee, ALJ. Prehearing Conferences were held on October 5, 2016, November 30, 2016, and December 14, 2016. Hearings were scheduled for May 1, 8, and 10, 2017.

On October 17, 2016, Petitioner filed a Request for Due Process Hearing with the Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs, which was forwarded to the OAL bearing Docket No. EDS-18509-16. On November 3, 2016, Respondent filed an Answer to the Due Process Petition. A Prehearing Conference was held on December 15, 2016, and a Prehearing Order was issued thereafter. Hearings in this matter were scheduled for September 20, 22, 25, and 27, 2017.

On January 30, 2017, Respondents filed a Motion for Partial Dismissal of the Petition for Due Process. On February 21, 2017, Respondents filed an Amended Motion for Partial Dismissal of the Petition for Due Process. On February 28, 2017, Petitioner filed an Answer to the Motion and on March 16, 2017, Respondents filed a Reply to the Answer.

On February 20, 2017, Petitioner filed a Motion to Consolidate the Petition of Appeal and the Petition for Due Process proceedings. On February 28, 2017, Respondents filed its Answer to the Motion for Consolidation and on March 10, 2017, Petitioner filed a Reply to the Answer. The two matters were never consolidated.

On April 17, 2017, Respondents filed a Motion to Dismiss the Petition of Appeal for Docket No. EDU 12095-16. On April 21, 2017, and again on April 25, 2017, counsel for Petitioner submitted a letter requesting to be relieved as Counsel. Following a series of telephone calls from both parties' attorneys and Petitioner herself, the undersigned converted the Hearing scheduled for May 1, 2017, to an in-person conference. The matter was then scheduled for a Hearing on May 8, 2017, which was adjourned.

On May 10, 2017, a hearing was held on the Motion to Dismiss the Petition of Appeal. Since Petitioner's counsel withdrew as counsel; she proceeded pro se at the hearing. The hearing was held solely for the purpose of addressing when Petitioner received notice of the adverse action taken against her daughter, L.J. The parties were given thirty days after receipt of the transcripts to submit post-hearing briefs.

On April 23, 2018, this matter regarding the Motion to Dismiss the Appeal bearing Docket No. EDU 12095-16, was reassigned to Honorable Elissa Testa, ALJ, due to the retirement of Judge McGee, ALJ. The matter of the Due Process petition bearing Docket No. EDS 18509-16 was transferred to the Honorable Jude Tiscornia, ALJ.

A decision on the Motion to Dismiss the Appeal had not yet been made because the recording of the hearing on May 10, 2017, before Judge McGee, could not be located. On May 1, 2018, the recording of the hearing from May 10, 2017, was located and a telephone conference was held by Judge Testa, counsel for Respondents and the Petitioner, pro se. It was decided that the parties would request a copy of the transcript and post-hearing briefs would be submitted by July 2, 2018. It was further decided that in the interest of judicial economy, Judge Testa would review the initial Motion papers and any response to same; listen to the May 10, 2017, hearing; consider the post-hearing briefs; and render a decision on the Motion to Dismiss the Appeal. There was no objection by the parties.

The time to file the post-hearing briefs was extended to July 27, 2018, due to continuing problems with obtaining the transcript. On July 27, 2018, the last of the post-hearing briefs were received, and the record was closed. It should be noted that the post-hearing briefs submitted by Petitioner on July 27, 2018, included additional Exhibits that did not address the testimony introduced before Judge McGee on May 10, 2017; nor were the Exhibits presented at the Hearing. Rather, they related to the Due Process Petition which is pending before Judge Tiscornia bearing Docket No. EDS 18509-16. Thus, the additional Exhibits were not considered.

On August 13, 2018, Judge Testa, granted Respondents' Motion to Dismiss. A copy of Judge Testa's decision was mailed to the parties on August 14, 2018. On September 20, 2018, Commissioner of Education remanded Judge Testa's ruling granting Respondent's Motion to Dismiss under OAL DKT. No. EDU 14210-18.

On December 18, 2018, Petitioner filed a Motion for Recusal of Judge Testa. On January 15, 2019, the case was reassigned from Judge Testa to Judge McGee and a Notice of the Hearing was issued on January 16, 2019, scheduling a hearing for February 14, 2019.

A hearing was held on February 14, 2019, limited to the issue involving the March 24, 2016, incident. On or about May 28, 2019, Petitioner filed a document called "closing arguments." On June 5, 2019, Respondents submitted a letter brief requesting the Petition of Appeal be dismissed in full with prejudice.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The following facts are undisputed and I therefore FIND them to be the FACTS of the case:

L.J. was born on August 23, 2002, and was initially classified as eligible for special education and related services on or about March 14, 2007. Specifically, she was classified under the category of "specific learning disability." On or about December 11, 2015, Petitioner withdrew her consent for special education and related services.

On March 24, 2016, L.J. was a fourteen-year-old student involved in an altercation in the Carteret Middle School cafeteria with another student. Security guards restrained L.J. while the other student was removed from the cafeteria. Respondents determined that it was necessary to summon the local police to diffuse the situation. The officers who arrived determined that L.J. would be placed under arrest and she was removed from the school building.

B.J. (hereinafter Petitioner) filed a pro se Petition of Appeal, on behalf of L.J., against the Carteret Board of Education in July 2016 based on the four-day suspension L.J. received because of the March 24, 2016, incident. On February 14, 2019, a hearing took place at the Office of Administrative Law.

TESTIMONY

Testimony of L.J.

L.J. testified on her behalf. She has attended the Carteret school district since kindergarten. L.J. had qualified for special education and related services on or about March 14, 2007. On or about December 11, 2015, Petitioner withdrew her consent for special education and Related Services. When questioned by the Court, L.J. stated that she felt like she was learning more after being removed from special education services. However, she expressed that she was being treated differently by the administration after being removed from special education classes, pointing to specific examples where she was called to the principal's office for different disciplinary matters. Although she was suspended once while still receiving special education services, she received about four to five detentions while out of special education services, along with two suspensions.

L.J testified that she got into a fight with another student in the cafeteria of Carteret Middle School on March 24, 2016. L.J. testified that she was being bullied by the other student. She testified that she told her mother about the bullying, and her mother reported the bullying to Tara Romero, the Assistant Principal, via email correspondence. When questioned by the Court, L.J. stated that she did not report the bullying incidences to the school directly for fear that the situation would worsen. She testified that the student was a lot bigger than her. Additionally, she testified that Vice Principal James Bevere called the police after the fight was over.

Upon cross-examination, L.J. testified that she hit the other student during the March 24, 2016, incident in the cafeteria.

Testimony of Mary Spiga

Mary Spiga (Spiga) testified on behalf of Respondents. In March of 2016, Spiga was employed by the Carteret Board of Education as the Principal of Carteret Middle School. As Principal, she oversaw multiple facets of Carteret Middle School, including enforcement of school policies and writing budgets. She has since retired, effective January 1, 2019.

Upon direct examination, Spiga referred to a log entry in Power School, a student information system created by the District. The log contained a record of L.J.'s discipline while attending Carteret Middle School. Spiga read the following from an entry in L.J.'s discipline log from March 24, 2016:

> [L.J.] and another student, [T.P.] were involved in an altercation in the cafeteria and it continued into the hallway. [L.J.] was pushing staff out of her way. Police were contacted and [L.J.] was taken to Carteret Police Department. Four Days OSS (out-of-school-suspension) on 4/4/16, 4/5/16, 4/6/16, 4/7/16. Mandatory re-entry meeting.

Spiga testified that she was not present in the cafeteria when the fight occurred, but she was notified through security radio in her office. She also saw video footage of the fight. Spiga testified that the video showed a verbal altercation between L.J. and T.P., and then L.J. proceeded to hit T.P. T.P. then hit L.J. back and a fight ensued.

When Spiga arrived at the cafeteria, L.J. appeared agitated. As Spiga and a security guard were escorting L.J. to the in-school-suspension room, in accordance with procedure, L.J. broke away and started cursing, and stated that she was going to "fuck up" T.P. When L.J. was ushered into the in-school-suspension room, she continued to threaten T.P. Ms. Heim, the school guidance counselor, was in the room with L.J. and concluded, along with Mr. Bevere, that the police should be called. Spiga credibly testified that in this situation, calling the police was justified. Spiga testified that typically, the police are called when a student cannot be calmed down and the situation has the potential to affect the safety of other student and staff in the building. Spiga testified that the police then come to the school to assess the situation to see if the student needs to be taken into custody. When the police arrived at the school on March 24, 2016, they were informed that there was a fight and that both parties were in separate rooms. The police took L.J. into custody. Spiga testified that she did not request that L.J. be taken into custody or handcuffed. She testified that she does not have the ability to make a demand on a police officer to arrest a student.

Spiga then testified regarding Carteret's Policy on Pupil Discipline and Code of Conduct (R-2). The policy reflected that "physical assault upon another student" was a behavior that may result in suspension or expulsion.

Spiga testified concerning the Carteret Middle School Code of Conduct (R-3), which lists various student infractions and their consequences. The consequences for fighting include "an out of school suspension and a parent conference upon return. Administration may file a police complaint with Carteret Police Department on the third offense. Recommendation for outside counseling services." As a result of the March 24, 2016, incident in the cafeteria, both L.J. and T.P. were given a four-day suspension.

After L.J. served her four-day suspension, Spiga and the Superintendent met with her parents prior to returning to school for "re-entry" purposes.

Spiga testified that besides the March 24, 2016, incident, L.J.'s discipline record was "substantial." The dates of discipline ranged from October 10, 2008, to June 1, 2016.

On cross-examination, Spiga testified that the other student involved in the incident, T.P., was not arrested. She also testified that she was not sure if the March 2016 incident was L.J.'s second or third code of conduct offense. Upon questioning from the Court, Spiga testified about the investigative procedure in the normal course of a fight. She stated that the administration talks to witnesses and looks at videotape if possible. There was no question as to whether there was a fight that day or who was engaged in that fight.

Testimony of James Bevere

James Bevere (Bevere) testified on behalf of the Respondents. Bevere is employed by Carteret Public Schools as the Vice Principal of Carteret Middle School. As Vice Principal, Bevere's role included disciplining students.

Bevere was at the middle school on the day of the March 24, 2016, incident. He was made aware of the incident via his security radio and entered the cafeteria after the fight was already broken up. A security guard was restraining L.J. When he got to the cafeteria, he was unable to calm L.J. down after repeated attempts. He left the cafeteria and went to his office, where T.P. was being placed. While in his office with T.P., Bevere testified that he could hear L.J. in the in-school-suspension room. She was yelling that she wanted to continue to fight. She said she wanted to "fucking kill" T.P.

Allison Heim (Heim), the school guidance counselor, asked Bevere whether she should call the police. Bevere testified that he advised Heim that the police should be called if L.J. was out of control. Bevere did not call the police or speak to them when they arrived. He testified that the police were not called because of the fight in the cafeteria, but because of L.J.'s behavior after the fight.

Bevere was able to subsequently review the incident on tape via the school security footage. He testified that L.J. hit T.P., and T.P. hit L.J. in return. He testified that both students received a four-day suspension as a result of the incident. Bevere also testified that there is typically no discretion in terms of punishment when students put their hands on each other, no matter who started it. Bevere signed a complaint by the Carteret Police Department outlining the incident and the charges.

On cross-examination, Bevere testified that Spiga was responsible for trying to diffuse the situation with L.J. He testified that he was limited in his contact with L.J. because he handled a lot of her discipline matters earlier in the year, and it would be best for other administrators to handle L.J. He testified that Spiga was the best option to diffuse the situation.

Testimony of Donald Dekolf

Donald Dekolf (Dekolf) testified on behalf of the Respondents. Dekolf has been employed by the Carteret Board of Education as the Manager of Information Technology for fifteen years. Specifically, he handles servers and security cameras for the District. The District uses Aimetis security cameras. This system was used in March 2016.

The security cameras are motion activated. Cameras are located throughout the district and the recorded footage is saved onto a server on a hard drive. The hard drive typically fills after thirty days and overwrites the previous data on the drive. If there is an incident, a copy of the tape is requested, but that request must be made within a specific time frame. That footage is then put on a disc. If the request is not made, the footage just gets continuously overwritten on the hard drive. He testified that recordings from 2016 would not currently be on the server.

Dekolf testified that he has seen the video footage of the March 2016 incident. It shows "two ladies getting into a fight" in the cafeteria. He testified that to his knowledge, that is the only video that exists from March 24, 2016.

Upon cross-examination, Dekolf testified that there was no request made for a tape of footage from the hallway. Upon questioning from the Court, he testified that parents do not have the authority to request a tape because it is not district policy.

DISCUSSION

The issue to be determined is whether the respondent school board's decision was arbitrary, capricious and/or unreasonable. It is widely recognized that local school boards have been charged by the Legislature with the orderly conduct of public schools and are vested with broad discretion in matters involving pupil discipline. K.O.H. ex rel.

R.H. v. Edison Twp. Bd. of Educ., , 276. When a local board has acted within its authority, its actions carry a presumption of validity and will not generally be disturbed absent an affirmative showing that its judgment was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Thomas v. Morris Twp. Bd. of Educ., , 332 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd, (1966). In matters involving the exercise of a local board of education's discretion, the scope of the Commissioner's review is not to substitute his/her judgment for that of those who made the evaluation but to determine whether they had a reasonable basis for making the conclusions and decisions they made.

FINDINGS

I FIND that Respondents' determination to suspend L.J. was appropriate. L.J. engaged in a physical altercation in the Carteret Middle School cafeteria on March 24, 2016. There is no dispute as to whether the fight occurred. L.J. continued to be physically and verbally aggressive after the fight was over and the police were called. Both students were given the same discipline of a four-day suspension.

I further FIND that Petitioner's due process rights were not violated regarding the video footage in the hallway. L.J. was suspended for the physical altercation in the cafeteria, of which Petitioner has seen the video footage. Carteret followed procedure, confirmed by the testimony of Donald Dekolf, in making a physical copy of the incident in the cafeteria from the security camera hard drive. A tape was made to allow the Petitioner to view the actions for which she was suspended.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that Respondents' action was supported by evidence properly adduced and presented and was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that Respondents' Motion to Dismiss be GRANTED and Petitioner's claim be, and hereby is dismissed.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Final Decision on Remand

B.J., on behalf of minor child, L.J.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Carteret, Middlesex County, and James Bevere,

Respondents.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the Board did not act in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner when it imposed a four-day suspension on L.J. following a physical altercation in the cafeteria with another student on March 24, 2016. The Commissioner notes that both students involved received the same discipline, despite the fact that L.J. remained physically and verbally aggressive after the fight was over. Additionally, the Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ that petitioner's due process rights were not violated as she was permitted to view the video footage of the fight in the cafeteria, which is the only video of the incident.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition is hereby dismissed.

State Board of Examiners Dkt. No. 1718-188

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

In the Matter of the Revocation of the Certificates of Michael Ettz, State Board of Examiners, New Jersey Department of Education.

Order of Revocation by the State Board of Examiners, May 17, 2019

For the Respondent-Appellant, Edward W. Cillick, Esq.

For the Petitioner-Respondent State Board of Examiners, Jaclyn M. Frey, Deputy Attorney General (Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of New Jersey)

The Commissioner has reviewed the record and the papers filed in connection with the appellant Michael Ettz's appeal of the Order of the State Board of Examiners, dated May 17, 2019, revoking his Teacher of Mathematics Certificate of Eligibility with Advanced Standing and Teacher of Mathematics and Supervisor Certificates. On appeal, the appellant maintains that the Board's decision to revoke his certificates was based solely on the fact that the Board believed his conviction to be a disqualifying offense. Specifically, the appellant argues that the record contains no evidence that the Board conducted any analysis or considered the underlying circumstances concerning the nature of the conduct at issue here. Rather, the Board based its determination solely on what appellant describes as the "wrongful ruling" that his conviction was a disqualifying offense pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1. The appellant contends that his offense was not a crime of the first or second degree, and therefore his conviction was not of the nature that mandated permanent disqualification. Accordingly, appellant argues that his conviction was not a disqualifying offense, and therefore the decision to revoke his certificates must be overturned.

In reviewing appeals from decisions of the State Board of Examiners, the Commissioner may not substitute his judgment for that of the Board so long as the appellant received due process and the Board's decision is supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record. Further, the Board's decision should not be disturbed unless the appellant demonstrates that it is arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1(a).

After a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner finds that the record adequately supports the Board's determination that the appellant engaged in unbecoming conduct and that the revocation of the appellant's certificates was the appropriate penalty. It is undisputed that on January 5, 2018, the appellant was driving while intoxicated when he struck a police officer's car, injuring the police officer. As a result of the incident, on September 22, 2017, the appellant pled guilty to Assault by Auto and was sentenced to a four-year prison term. Despite the appellant's assertions on appeal, he was in fact permanently disqualified from public school employment, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 et seq., because of his criminal conviction.[1] Moreover, it was not unreasonable for the Board to consider the appellant's disqualification in reaching the appropriate penalty for his unbecoming conduct. There is nothing in the record to suggest that the Board's decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable and, as a result, the Commissioner finds no basis upon which to disturb the decision of the State Board of Examiners.

[1] The appellant maintains that his conviction for 3rd Degree Assault by Auto did not constitute a disqualifying crime under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 et seq. However, as of the date of this decision, the March 2, 2018 decision of the Criminal History Review Unit has not been overturned.

Accordingly, the decision of the State Board of Examiners is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein.[2]

Decision

Cynthia Adams-Buffaloe, Gay Brown, Robert Atwell, Jerry Brown, Leon Mashore, and Hope Edwards-Perry,

Petitioners,

v.

State-Operated School District of the City of Camden,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioners were tenured vice principals employed by the State-Operated School District of Camden when their positions were eliminated as part of a reduction in force (RIF) in July 2016; they were subsequently reassigned as classroom teachers. Petitioners appealed their reassignment based on the contention that their status as tenured vice principals entitled them to the lead educator positions that were created by the District to replace the vice principal role. Respondent asserted that petitioners are not entitled to the positions by virtue of tenure rights, contending that the positions were not substantially similar.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioners claim in this matter arises from the tenure rights that accrued to their abolished positions as vice principals; a district-wide reorganization and RIF in 2016 resulted in the abolishment of all vice principal positions and the creation of new leadership roles, including the position of lead educator; none of the within petitioners were hired for this new role, but non-tenured staff were hired as lead educators; the security of tenure and the ensuing rights of teaching staff members resulting from the abolishment of positions is set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 et seq.; regulations set forth categories of prior employment to which a tenured employee may assert an entitlement if faced with a RIF, and case law recognizes that a tenured staff member is entitled to retention over non-tenured staff; in this case, the lead educator and vice principal roles are substantially similar, both dealing with instruction that endeavors to improve students' academic success; and the majority of the witnesses at hearing testified that there is no difference between the role of the vice principal and the role of the lead educator, as both are utilized in the same way. As such, the ALJ concluded that petitioners' tenure rights extend to the newly-created position of lead educator.

Upon review, the Commissioner agreed with the ALJ's conclusion that, given the facts in this matter, the roles of vice principal and lead educator are substantially similar. Accordingly, the Commissioner determined, inter alia, that the petitioners are entitled to appointment as "lead educators" retroactive to July 1, 2016, with all salary, benefits, and emoluments of that position, subject to mitigation. Further, the Commissioner directed the Board to review the tenure and seniority rights, if applicable, of petitioners and all individuals appointed as lead educators in the district as of the beginning of the 2016-17 school year and noted that if a dispute arises following the Board's review, a new petition should be filed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Final Decision

Cynthia Adams-Buffaloe, Gay Brown, Robert Atwell, Jerry Brown, Leon Mashore, and Hope Edwards-Perry,

Petitioners,

v.

State-Operated School District of the City of Camden,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the exceptions filed by petitioners, respondent, and intervenors, and the replies thereto by respondent and petitioners, have been reviewed and considered.

This matter involves six tenured vice principals whose positions were abolished, and now claim tenure entitlement to "lead educator" titles. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the lead educator and vice principal roles are substantially similar, both dealing with instruction that endeavors to improve students' academic success. The majority of the witnesses testified that there is no difference between the role of the vice principal and the role of the lead educator, as both are utilized in the same way. As such, the ALJ concluded that petitioners' tenure rights extend to the newly-created position of lead educator.

Petitioners filed exceptions to the Initial Decision, arguing that their reassignment to the lead educator title should be retroactive to July 1, 2016, when the vice principal title was abolished, and that the award should include a retroactive adjustment in salary.

In reply, respondent argued that the ALJ did not address the issue of monetary relief or whether it should be retroactive to the date when the vice principal positions were abolished. Respondent further asserts that, even if affirmed, the Initial Decision provides insufficient information as to a potential remedy because the district has several types of lead educator positions, including positions that are district-wide rather than specific to a single school and positions that require additional qualifications and certifications. Furthermore, respondent contends that there has been no evidence presented as to the application of tenure and seniority rights of petitioners to any of the specific lead educator titles, and requests that if the Initial Decision is affirmed, the order be limited and determined after further hearing or submissions.

Respondent also filed exceptions, arguing that the ALJ neglected to consider the testimony of respondent's witnesses or documentary evidence demonstrating that the roles of vice principal and lead educator are not substantially similar. Respondent maintains that the lead educator position has a more expansive role in instructional coaching and data analysis while eliminating the duties related to school climate and building operations, making the two positions dissimilar. According to respondent, the Initial Decision erroneously relied on the generic and hearsay testimony of petitioners, none of whom have served as lead educators and thus cannot speak to the similarities and differences of the positions; the only other witness to speak to this issue was a single principal who interchanged the roles of lead educator and vice principal in her building despite district directives. Furthermore, respondent contends that tenure accrued as vice principal does not extend to any other administrative or supervisory position, and the fact that petitioners hold the appropriate certification for the lead educator position is not dispositive when the actual duties of the jobs are distinguishable, since a mere overlap in duties is not sufficient to deem them equivalent for tenure purposes.

Exceptions were also filed by intervenors, who are individuals currently employed in lead educator positions.[1] They argue that vice principal is a position enumerated in the tenure statute and that tenure acquired as a vice principal does not extend to any other administrative or supervisory position. According to intervenors, because petitioners were never employed as lead educators, they have no tenure entitlement to that position.

Petitioners replied to the exceptions filed by respondent, substantially reiterating arguments made in their briefs below. Petitioners contend that respondent did not have the approval of the executive county superintendent to use the unrecognized title of lead educator. They point to case law holding, generally, that tenure is to be liberally construed and, specifically, that tenured staff members should be given preference over non-tenured staff members in unenumerated titles requiring the same certificate. Petitioners further argue that they are not required to show that the two titles are substantially similar as they would need to in a seniority case; rather, they are only required to show that the certification of vice principals and lead educators are the same, and that the functions of both titles "boil down to the fact that each contains duties that are instructional, that encompass supervising and evaluating staff and that each are intended to assist the principal in the management of the instructional component of the school." (Petitioners' Reply Exceptions at 8). After recounting the testimony of the witnesses at length, petitioners note that they all testified from their personal knowledge, not hearsay as alleged by the respondent in its exceptions. Further, both respondent's and petitioners' witnesses testified that both titles were involved in supervising teachers and the instructional component of the school; ultimately, the duties given to the lead educators were duties previously performed by vice principals.

Initially, the Commissioner notes that "lead educator" is an unrecognized position title and is, therefore, subject to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-5.5. That regulation provides that the district must submit to the county superintendent a written request for permission to use the proposed title, together with a detailed job description, prior to appointing a candidate. N.J.A.C. 6A:9-5.5(b)1. The county superintendent is then required to approve or disapprove the use of the title and, if approved, to specify the appropriate certification and identify the actual title under which the teaching staff member will accrue tenure and seniority rights. Here, there was a gap in the county superintendent's approval of the lead educator title for the 2016-2017 school year and, even in the years before and after the title was approved, the approval lacked specifics regarding the appropriate certification. However, the ultimate authority to determine the appropriate certification and title rests with the Commissioner. See Nicholas Duva v. State-operated School District of the City of Jersey City, Hudson County, State Board Decision No. 56-99, decided March 6, 2002, and Jack A. Perna v. State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson, Passaic County, Commissioner's Decision No. 2-12, decided January 4, 2012. The Commissioner hereby approves the district's request to use the unrecognized title of "lead educator," requiring an administrative certificate with a principal endorsement.[2]

This matter presents the question of whether tenure accrued through service in one of the positions specifically enumerated in the tenure statute can extend to an unenumerated position. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(c) provides that tenure in any of the administrative or supervisory positions enumerated in the statute – principal, other than administrative principal, assistant principal, vice principal, and assistant superintendent – shall accrue only by employment in that position. Here, petitioners are not seeking to transfer their tenure from the enumerated position of vice principal to any other enumerated position, but rather to the unenumerated position of lead educator. For this reason, respondent's and intervenors' reliance on Nelson v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Old Bridge, Middlesex County, 148 N.J. 358 (Mar. 1997) is misplaced. Nelson involved an individual seeking to transfer tenure accrued in an unenumerated position to an enumerated one. The Supreme Court, consistent with the then-recently amended tenure statute, held that enumerated positions are separately tenurable and require service in that specific position in order for tenure to accrue.[3] The Court's decision did not address the reverse situation, such as that presented by petitioners herein, although it did note that tenure rights decisions have recognized the distinction between separately-tenurable enumerated positions and unenumerated ones. Id. at 365.

[2] The county superintendent shall continue to review annually the use of the lead educator title and determine whether it will be continued for the next school year, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.5(c).

The tenure statute further states, "Tenure so accrued shall not extend to any other administrative or supervisory position. . .". N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(c). Respondent and intervenors suggest that this language precludes petitioners from transferring their tenure from vice principal to any other position of an administrative or supervisory nature, such as lead educator. This language is located in a subsection of the statute that specifically addresses the accrual of tenure in enumerated positions, enacted to rectify case law holding that tenure could be transferred into an enumerated position in which an individual had not served.[4] Accordingly, the Commissioner concludes that this language applies only to prevent the assertion of tenure in an enumerated position in which an individual had not served for the requisite period of time. This portion of the statute does not override the long-standing principle that a district may not abolish a title – even an unenumerated one – and rename it in order to circumvent tenure rights. Viemeister v. Board of Ed. of the Borough of Prospect Park, 5 N.J. Super. 215 (App. Div. 1949).

[3] Similarly, respondent and intervenors rely on Taylor v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Hardyston, Sussex County, Commissioner Decision 36-98 (Jan. 30, 1998) for the proposition that employment in a position with broad duties does not confer tenure rights in a position with some of the same, but narrower, duties. In Taylor, a principal whose position had been eliminated claimed that he was entitled to a position as vice principal because he had performed all of the duties of that position. His claim was rejected, but the basis for the decision was that both the principal and vice principal positions were separately enumerated in the tenure statute. Accordingly, the analysis does not apply to petitioners' circumstances.

Because petitioners are seeking to transfer their tenure to an unenumerated position, the analysis is governed by Duva, supra. The starting point for determining the scope of tenure protection is the certification that was required to serve in the employee's former position. Id. at 11. Here, an administrative certificate with a principal endorsement was required to serve as vice principal, N.J.A.C. 9B-12.3(b), which is also required for the lead educator position.

Next, the Commissioner must examine the duties and responsibilities of both positions. As the ALJ indicated in a thorough summary of the testimony, three individuals currently employed by the district as principals, who currently supervise lead educators and have served as or supervised vice principals in the past, testified that there is no difference between the duties performed in the two roles. An individual who had served as both a vice principal and a lead educator testified that the core duties she performed as a vice principal were the same as the core duties she performed as a lead educator. The petitioners also testified to their job duties when they served as vice principals, which the ALJ found are substantially similar to the job duties required of lead educators. For respondent, one principal testified that her vice principal focused on school culture, behavior and discipline, lunch duty, and building operations, while the lead educator focused on coaching, instruction, and professional development. However, she also testified that her vice principal sometimes evaluated and observed staff members and provide recommendations on improvements. One individual, who was formerly a vice principal and is now a lead educator, testified that although the lead educator position deals more with instructional duties, his job responsibilities and his instructional role as vice principal were similar to those of lead educator. Even the district's chief support officer at the time of the reorganization – who was involved in the decision-making process surrounding these positions, and who testified most specifically as to the differences between the positions – acknowledged that vice principals had an instructional role prior to the reorganization.[5]

[4] In a statement to the amendment, the Legislature found and declared that "due to the interpretation of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 by the Appellate Division in the case of Nelson v. Board of Education of the Township of Old Bridge, a clarification of that statute is necessary in order to continue the traditional practice of providing that tenure is acquired in one of the specifically enumerated positions only if the individual has served for the requisite period of time in that position." L. 1996, c. 58, § 1.

Having heard the abundance of testimony, the ALJ determined that the roles of vice principal and lead educator are substantially similar, and the Commissioner accepts that conclusion. Petitioners are entitled to appointment as "lead educators" retroactive to July 1, 2016, with all salary, benefits, and emoluments of that position, subject to mitigation.[6] While the record is lacking in evidence regarding the tenure and seniority rights of individuals currently holding the position of lead educator, that does not preclude the Commissioner from awarding relief to [5] Respondent also presented the testimony of a witness who is currently a lead educator but has never served as or supervised a vice principal, which the Commissioner does not find persuasive due to her lack of experience with the vice principal position. A second individual who formerly served as vice principal and is now a bilingual lead educator also testified regarding the differences in job duties. However, given that bilingual lead educator is a distinct job description requiring an additional certification, her testimony is not particularly revealing of the nature of the general lead educator role.

[6] The Commissioner does not find that petitioners are entitled to any of the variations of the lead educator title for district-wide positions or positions that have additional requirements based on the specialty, such as the Lead Educator, Special Educator position that requires a Teacher of Students with Disabilities certification.

petitioners. The Board is directed to review the tenure and, if applicable, seniority rights[7] of petitioners and all individuals appointed as lead educators as of the beginning of the 2016-17 school year. If a dispute arises following the Board's review, a new petition shall be filed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[8]

BEFORE CARL V. BUCK III, ALJ:

Record Closed: August 28, 2018 Decided: October 8, 2019

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioners Cynthia Adams-Buffaloe, Gay Brown, Robert Atwell, Jerry Brown, Leon Mashore, and Hope Edwards-Perry were tenured vice principals (VPs) employed by the State-Operated School District of the City of Camden (District or respondent). Their positions were eliminated as part of a reduction in force and district-wide reorganization in July 2016, and they were subsequently reassigned as classroom teachers. They appeal their reassignment on the grounds that based upon their status as tenured VPs they were entitled to the lead educator (LE) positions then created by the District to replace the VP role. Respondent asserts that petitioners are not entitled to the positions by virtue of tenure rights.

This litigation began as a result of the District's decision to abolish the VP positions effective July 1, 2016. On or about June 27, 2016, petitioners filed a Petition of Appeal on behalf of six individuals claiming a violation of tenure rights, that the District acted in bad faith by abolishing the VP positions, and that the District failed to comply with State regulations relative to obtaining approval to utilize unrecognized titles.

Former counsel for the District filed a Motion in Lieu of an Answer on September 6, 2016. Petitioners filed an opposition to this motion on September 23, 2016. The District withdrew its motion on January 19, 2017. An Answer to the Petition of Appeal was filed on February 3, 2017. Petitioners filed a Motion for Summary Decision on August 17, 2017. The respondent filed a Motion for Summary Decision on August 24, 2017. Petitioners filed an opposition to this motion on September 29, 2017, but did not oppose any of the facts set forth by the respondent. Respondent filed an opposition brief on October 2, 2017. Oral argument for these motions took place on October 13, 2017. A conference call took place between the parties and the judge on December 8, 2017, to discuss the status of the pending motions. The hearing commenced, without a decision on these motions, on December 12, 2017, and was completed on March 1, 2018. The parties submitted post-hearing briefs and the record closed on August 28, 2018. Extensions were requested and granted for the filing of this Initial Decision.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Many of the material facts are not in dispute:

1. Petitioner Cynthia Adams-Buffaloe began her employment with the District as a classroom teacher in 1988.

2. Petitioner Adams-Buffaloe was promoted to the VP position in 2008 and remained in that position until the 2015–2016 school year.

3. Petitioner Gay Brown began her employment with the District as a mathematics teacher in September 1992.

4. Petitioner Brown was subsequently promoted to the VP position and remained there through the 2015–2016 school year.

5. Petitioner Robert Atwell began his employment with the District in September 1992.

6. Petitioner Atwell was promoted to the title of VP in 2000 and remained in that position until the 2015–2016 school year.

7. Petitioner Jerry Brown began his employment with the District as a classroom teacher in March 1992.

8. Petitioner Brown was subsequently appointed to VP and remained in the role through the 2015–2016 school year.

9. Petitioner Leon Mashore was initially employed by the District as a classroom teacher in 1992.

10. Petitioner Mashore was promoted to the VP role in 1997 and remained in that position through the 2015–2016 school year.

11. Petitioner Hope Edwards-Perry began her employment with the District as a classroom teacher in 1988.

12. Petitioner Edwards-Perry was subsequently promoted to the VP position and remained there through the 2015–2016 school year.

13. The District first introduced the lead educator position in the 2014–2015 school year.

14. The VP position was abolished after the 2015–2016 school year.

15. The VP role was split into three different positions—the LE, the operations manager, and the dean of climate and culture.

16. The operations manager position addresses the daily operations of the building, manages office and security staff, and handles school budget, ordering and procurement, technology needs, teacher needs, and anything to do with operational strategy.

17. The dean of climate and culture position deals with student behavior and discipline, conducts parent conferences with regard to the District behavior policy, and has the responsibility to ensure that students are in the building and in the classroom during the school day.

18. The primary duties of an LE are instructional coaching, teacher evaluations, classroom walkthroughs, reviewing lesson plans, and proposing recommendations for teacher and instructional improvement.

19. Both the VP and LE positions require a principal certification.

20. All VPs were invited to apply for the LE position.

21. All petitioners, with the exception of petitioner Atwell, applied to become LEs.

22. No petitioner was chosen for the LE role, and all were reassigned to a classroom teaching position.

The issues in this matter arise out of the district-wide reorganization and reduction in force conducted by the respondent in 2016. That reorganization resulted in the abolishment of all VP positions and the creation of three separate roles—the operations manager, the dean of climate and culture, and the LE. When none of the petitioners were hired for the LE role and non-tenured staff were instead hired, this appeal ensued. With many of the underlying facts agreed upon by the parties, the testimony in this matter focused mainly on the scope of the duties performed by the LEs, and whether in reality this newly created position was actually the old VP position disguised under a new name.

Dr. Davida Coe-Brockington

Dr. Coe-Brockington has been employed with the Camden City Board of Education for thirty-one years and is currently a principal at the Creative Arts Morgan Village Academy. She testified that the VPs who worked with her evaluated and observed teachers, as well as conducted walkthroughs of the classrooms. The VPs also coached, meaning they met with teachers to discuss what was observed, and provided professional development to teachers. In addition, the VPs assisted with discipline, conducted parent conferences, and assisted in the overall running of the school. The LE who works with her evaluates, observes, coaches, and conducts professional development of teachers. The LE is also involved in discipline and meets with parents. Both the VPs and LEs utilized research-based strategies, such as student-data collection, to assist with instructional improvements in the school. Dr. Coe-Brockington testified that she sees no difference between the roles of the VP and the LE, and, more specifically, she utilizes the LE the same way she did the VP. She stated that only the senior LEs, who travel to multiple schools and are housed in the central district office, differ from the VP position, but the LE placed within her specific school performs the same duties as a VP.

Evelyn Ruiz

Ms. Ruiz has been employed with the Camden City Board of Education for twenty-five years and is currently the principal of the Harry C. Sharp Family School. She has an LE assigned to her who helps with teacher evaluations, observations, classroom walkthroughs, and professional development. Ms. Ruiz testified that the LE also deals with discipline issues and parental complaints and conferences. The LE assists with attendance records, as well as monitoring of the facility and operational needs of the building. Prior to becoming a principal, Ms. Ruiz was a VP. In that role, she evaluated and coached teachers, met with parents, and handled disciplinary issues. She stated that the role of a VP and the role of an LE are the same. Specifically, there is no distinction between the duties that the LE performs and the duties that VPs performed.

Herbert Simons

Mr. Simons has been employed with Camden City public schools since 1997 and at the time of his testimony was the principal of the Riletta Twyne Cream Family School. He was previously a VP for five years, and a teacher prior to that. He testified that the LEs he worked with observed, evaluated, coached, and held professional development for teachers. The LEs were also involved with student discipline and parent conferences. Mr. Simons stated that there were no differences between the duties LEs performed and the duties VPs performed. The only differences between the two positions are the title and the job description. There was no LE at his school that year, and he therefore handled all the instructional duties, but an operations manager deals with the budget, and monitoring and scheduling of the extracurricular activities. Mr. Simons testified that he and the operations manager served as the liaison with the police and probation and child welfare.

Gay Brown

Ms. Brown has worked in the Camden City School District since 1992. She is currently employed as a teacher, but previously served as a VP in various different schools from 2009 to 2016. She was suspended for the 2014–2015 school year because the District filed a tenure charge for inefficiency, but she returned to her position as VP with back pay. As a VP, she received her duties from her principal. These duties included observation and evaluation of teachers, conducting walkthroughs, coaching and providing feedback to teachers to ensure academic improvement for students, overseeing certain departments within a school, supervising clerks, holding additional practice for high-stakes State assessments, and ensuring that teachers were adhering to the curriculum. Ms. Brown utilized the Charlotte Danielson framework for teacher evaluations. As a VP, she also handled student discipline and held parent conferences.

Ms. Brown said that while employed as a VP, she provided professional development regarding student-growth objectives and participated in a school improvement panel. She further testified that she attended the same mandatory professional development programs that LEs attended. Although she acknowledged that a rubric allowed LEs to evaluate VPs, she stated that never occurred at her school while she was a VP. Ms. Brown had applied for the role of LE but did not obtain the job. She affirmed that she filed two complaints against the District after the abolishment of the VP position—one for discrimination and one for retaliation for increment withholding.

Cynthia Adams-Buffaloe

Ms. Adams-Buffaloe has been employed with the Camden City School District for twenty-nine years. She is currently a teacher, but previously held the title of VP for eight years at Woodrow Wilson High School. As VP, she observed teachers who worked with ninth-grade students, checked lesson plans, conducted walkthroughs, coached teachers, reviewed student data and discipline data, and met with parents. More specifically, she ensured that the teachers' instruction aligned to specific expectations the principal had and reviewed instruction to improve academic performance.

During the 2014–2015 school year, Woodrow Wilson High School had two LEs and two VPs, with each individual being assigned a specific grade level for which they were responsible. Ms. Adams-Buffaloe testified that the LEs at her school dealt with disciplinary issues for their respective grades, met with parents, and coached teachers. During the 2015–2016 school year she was the only VP, and she attended administrative-team meetings with the LEs and the principal where they discussed teacher observations, coaching, walkthroughs, and lesson-plan review, and provided feedback on lesson plans. They also discussed disciplinary issues and problematic teachers. Both LEs and VPs had lunch duty, participated in the same professional-development meetings, and were evaluated using the same rubric components. She was unaware of a pay difference between the LE and VP positions and believed the two positions to be equal. After the VP positions were abolished, she filed an age-discrimination complaint against the District. She had applied and interviewed for the LE position, but was not chosen, and was assigned to a teaching role.

Jerry Brown

Mr. Brown is currently employed as a teacher with the Camden City public schools and previously held the position of VP for eight years. As a VP, Mr. Brown provided feedback to teachers regarding what he witnessed in his evaluations, walkthroughs, and review of lesson plans. He discussed improvements in the classroom and issued letters to teachers regarding reprimand. Furthermore, he conducted professional development and provided a syllabus for this development. Mr. Brown stated that LEs performed the same duties as VPs. Both observed and evaluated teachers, handled student discipline, and dealt with parental issues. Mr. Brown testified that he has never been evaluated by an LE and only worked side by side with them. He was unaware of a pay difference between the two positions and believed the roles were equal.

Leon Mashore

Mr. Mashore was a VP for the Camden City public schools for twenty years before being assigned as a sixth-grade math teacher. He worked alongside an LE at Veterans Memorial Family School for the 2015–2016 school year. He testified that as a VP he was on the same salary guide as LEs and was never evaluated by an LE.

Hope Edwards-Perry

Ms. Edwards-Perry was previously employed as a VP with the Camden Board of Education for nineteen years. She is currently assigned as a math teacher. She testified that when she was a VP she was never evaluated by an LE, and when she worked alongside an LE they had the same responsibilities. She did not know if she was paid on the same salary guide as the LE.

Robert Atwell

Mr. Atwell was a VP with the Camden City Board of Education for sixteen years before being assigned as a classroom teacher for the 2016–2017 school year. He testified that he had never been evaluated by an LE when he was a VP. He and the LE split responsibilities in the school. Mr. Atwell did not know whether he was on the same salary guide as an LE. He applied for the LE title but did not get the job.

Pia Garbutt

Ms. Garbutt has worked with the Camden City Board of Education since 2015, first as a teacher, and then as an LE of Camden High School. As an LE, she observed teachers, provided feedback regarding instruction, held data meetings, and conducted professional development. She did not deal with any responsibilities related to operations or discipline. Ms. Garbutt had a certification of eligibility when she applied for and accepted the LE position, and received her provisional certification after August 2016.

Tracey Reed-Thompson

Ms. Thompson has been employed in the Camden City School District since 1994, first as a teacher, then a math coach, then a VP, and she is currently the principal of Yorkship Family School. During her time as a VP, she did not conduct professional development or coach teachers. She testified that the VP she worked with focused on the school culture, behavior and discipline, lunch duty, and building operations, while the LE focused on coaching and instruction, and provided professional development. However, Ms. Thompson testified that her VP did sometimes evaluate and observe specific-content-area staff members and would provide recommendations on improvements.

Charles Jennings Dawson

Mr. Dawson is an LE in the Camden City School District, but was previously employed as a teacher, school counselor, education program specialist, and VP within the District. As an LE he does not deal with discipline, parent conferences, or operations within the school, he instead only focuses on evaluations and observations of teachers. During his time as a VP, he was involved in discipline, school climate and culture, and operations. As a VP, Mr. Dawson also shared evaluation and observation duties with the principal, conducted walkthroughs, and made recommendations for instructional improvement with teachers. He testified that his instructional role as a VP was similar to his instructional role as an LE because he evaluated, observed, and coached in both positions. However, his LE position deals much more with instructional duties than his VP position did.

Anna Schwartz Shurak

Ms. Shurak has been employed with the Camden City School District since 2015 and currently serves as the chief school support officer of high schools. She testified that when she first started working in the District, the VP role was very generalized. While she stated that some VPs did have instructional duties such as walkthroughs, evaluations, and coaching, this was not a regular occurrence and only happened at some schools where a principal decided to assign these instructional duties. If a VP had an instructional role, their personal evaluations included instruction. Ms. Shaurak further testified that the LE position was necessary to deal with instruction to ensure better educational outcomes for students. She had input on the LE job formation and job description. She acknowledged that the LE role was the only new job that required certification, whereas the operations manager and dean did not require any certification. Ms. Shurak stated that only one VP, Charles Dawson, was chosen for an LE role.

Yolanda Babilonia

Ms. Babilonia is a bilingual LE with the Camden City School District. Prior to securing an LE role, she was a fourth-grade bilingual teacher, math coach, and then a VP from 2011 to 2016. She testified that her duties as a VP included operational duties, such as breakfast, lunch and dismissal duties, creating schedules, handling student discipline, and conducting teacher evaluations and observations. She testified that she did not coach as a VP, but she did make recommendations to teachers when she observed them, and followed up on those recommendations. As an LE, she focuses solely on instruction and she coaches, observes, and evaluates teachers. She does not handle any scheduling, discipline, or operational duties.

Kristen Reid

Ms. Reid was a VP for the Camden City School District for two years at Camden High School. She testified that her duties included instructional leadership, evaluations, observations, feedback, reviewing lesson plans, parent/student conferences, discipline, and hall duty. She also oversaw the guidance, special education, and fine arts departments. She stated that she spent 80 percent of her time on instruction and observed and evaluated thirty to forty teachers. She further testified that she conducted walkthroughs, made recommendations to the principal regarding teacher renewals, and provided professional development on instructional strategies.

Ms. Reid became an LE at Camden High School for the 2015–2016 school year. Her duties as an LE included evaluations, observations, and attending administrative-team meetings. She was assigned close to forty teachers to observe. She stated that the core duties she performed as a VP were the same core duties that LEs performed. She was reassigned to a teaching role for the 2017–2018 school year because her role as LE was not renewed due to unsatisfactory performance. Ms. Reid currently has an EEOC claim alleging racial and gender discrimination against the District.

Jason Wall

Mr. Wall has been employed with the Camden City School District for four years and is currently employed as an LE for strategic conditions and operations with the Camden School District. Prior to holding this position, Mr. Wall was a special education LE in the District. He testified that as a special education LE he supervised teachers at eight different buildings, and his duties included evaluating special education teachers to ensure that these teachers complied with students' individualized education programs, assisting with implementation of the curriculum, and coaching teachers with regard to instruction.

In his current role as an LE for strategic conditions and operations, Mr. Wall works in five high schools to ensure that the vision and mission of the school is being met through teacher instruction. Specifically, he continues to coach teachers by conducting walkthroughs, meeting with teachers to discuss his observations, and following up with them. As an LE, he does not have any managerial duties, such as lunch or dismissal duties, nor did he ever deal with any disciplinary issues. His LE position requires that he have the Charlotte Danielson Certification. When he first started in an LE role, Mr. Wall met with principals to discuss the evaluations he conducted, his observations of teachers, and his review of lesson plans. In his current role, he is not supervised nor evaluated by any school principal, rather, he is supervised through the central District office.

Andrew Travis Bell

Mr. Bell has worked in the Camden City School District since 1998 and currently holds the chief strategy officer position. He spent two and a half years working as a VP and four years working as a principal. As a VP, he conducted some teacher evaluations, but his main role focused on operational and managerial duties, such as recess duty, lunch duty, dismissal, and discipline. In the 2014–2015 school year, he was put in charge of LEs. Mr. Bell testified that, initially, the LE role was based on evaluations conducted in accordance with the Charlotte Danielson framework. The role later evolved into responsibility for instructional development in school buildings and instituting new programs and guidelines to aid student success. LEs did not deal with student discipline nor operations of the building. Mr. Bell testified that although both the VPs and LEs evaluated students using the Charlotte Danielson framework, the roles differed in that LEs focused on instructional duties and VPs mainly focused on managerial duties, with an occasional focus on instruction. He specifically stated that the titles of VP and LE are similar, but the critical aspects of the jobs are much different. The operations manager role replaced the VP role. However, only the VP and LE roles required a certification.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The petitioners assert their entitlement to the LE positions newly created by the District in its 2016 reorganization. Their claim arises from the tenure rights that accrued to their abolished positions as VPs. The security of tenure and the ensuing rights of teaching-staff members as a result of abolishment of positions are set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 et seq. Tenure is a "statutory right imposed upon a teacher's contractual employment status." Zimmerman v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 38 N.J. 65, 72 (1962), cert. denied, 371 U.S. 956 (1963).

A reduction in force (RIF) can challenge the parameters of those tenure rights, as the resulting dismissals must be made on the basis of seniority as set in statute and regulations. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-10; see N.J.A.C. 6A:32-5.1. Seniority provides a way to rank tenured school-staff members so reductions in that staff can be equitable and in accordance with sound educational policies. Capodilupo v. Bd. of Educ., 218 N.J. Super. 510, 514 (App. Div. 1987). Regulations set forth categories of prior employment to which a tenured employee may assert an entitlement if faced with a RIF. Additionally, case law recognizes that a tenured staff member is entitled to retention over non-tenured staff, regardless of seniority rights. Id. at 514–15. To hold otherwise would defeat the purpose of tenure, which provides a measure of security to educational staff after a certain number of years of service. Ibid.

Determining which positions fall within the scope of an employee's tenure protection can be complex. A teaching-staff member has tenure in either a specifically designated position as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 or another position for which an appropriate certificate is required. Ellicott v. Frankford Twp. Bd. of Educ., 251 N.J. Super. 342, 347 (App. Div. 1991). There are three types of educational certificates established by the Department: instructional, educational services, and administrative. N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.2 et seq. An endorsement on the certificate then specifies a category in which an individual is allowed to teach or provide a service within a public school. This matter involves tenure rights accruing to the holder of a principal certificate. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-12.3(b), that certificate allows endorsements for assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction, principal, assistant principal, vice principal, director, and supervisor. If an administrative officer position is enumerated in the tenure statute, such a position has been held to be "separately tenurable." Nelson v. Old Bridge Bd. of Educ., 148 N.J. 358, 363 (1997). A tenured staff member therefore may "bump" a less senior or non-tenured principal only by having served in that position. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(c) provides that "[f]or purposes of this chapter, tenure in any of the administrative or supervisory positions enumerated herein shall accrue only by employment in that administrative or supervisory position. Tenure so accrued shall not extend to any other administrative or supervisory position."

Each of the petitioners here were tenured VPs and do not assert their entitlement to any of the separately enumerated positions in N.J.S.A. 18:28-5. Instead, they contend that their tenure protection extends to the newly created, unrecognized LE positions. They argue that their rights are determined by Duva v. State-Operated School District of Jersey City, EDU 9801-98, State Bd. of Educ. (March 6, 2002), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/, which held that since neither "director" nor "supervisor" is among those positions enumerated in N.J.S.A. 18:25-5, a tenured supervisor was entitled to employment requiring a supervisor endorsement in preference to any non-tenured individuals. See also Sahagian v. N. Bergen Bd. of Educ., 1989 S.L.D. 2878, 2883–84, which held that a tenured supervisor was entitled to any other supervisory position in the district over a non-tenured individual.

Building upon the principal enunciated in Duva, petitioners argue that the more recent decision in Nicholson et al. v. Asbury Park Board of Education, EDU 9228-10, Initial Decision (August 1, 2013), adopted, Comm'r (September 16, 2013), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/, is directly on point with their case. In his Final Decision the Commissioner upheld the decision by an administrative law judge that tenured supervisors were entitled to the new assistant director position. The school board in Asbury Park abolished the supervisors' positions and created a new title of assistant director, but required an additional curriculum-based endorsement for the new position. Each of the petitioners who possessed both endorsements claimed a tenure right. The Commissioner reinstated the petitioners who were qualified to hold the title of assistant director, finding that as compared to the non-tenured holders of the title, they had a superior claim. Duva and its progeny therefore establish petitioners' right to claim other non-enumerated positions within the range of their administrative certificate over non-tenured individuals.

In this matter, the LE positions were approved by the executive county superintendent. N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.5(b)(1) provides that in order for board of education to use an unrecognized title, the board must submit a written request to the county superintendent to use the title proposed, including a detailed job description. Here, the LE title was initially approved for the 2015–2016 school year, but the title was not re-approved until the 2017–2018 school year, a year and a half after the petitioners had lost their VP positions. While approval for the position was delayed for a school year, it is clear that the executive county superintendent did not disapprove the District's creation of a new title nor contest the overall reorganization of the Camden City School District. Although petitioners contest the timing of review and ultimate approval, the record indicates that the superintendent did in fact review the LE job description and approved the new title.

The gravamen of petitioners' case is that the District violated their tenure rights when, in using its statutory authority under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, it abolished their VP positions in which each of them had accrued tenure and failed to assign them to the newly created, unrecognized LE title. They argue that the role of the LEs is the same or substantially similar to the role played by VPs with respect to instruction. Although the LE position is narrower than the VP position, in that the LEs do not have all of the administrative functions previously performed by VPs, the two positions both require the same certification and same instructional job duties. Petitioners argue that the primary reason for abolishing the VP role and creating the LE role was to remove them from their administrative assignments altogether. Petitioners acknowledge that the District is entitled to dismiss staff members under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-10; however, they argue that a RIF should not be used as an end-run to abrogate their rights of tenure. See Viemeister v. Bd. of Educ., 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949) ("The tenure provisions in our school laws were designed to aid in the establishment of a competent and efficient school system by affording to principals and teachers a measure of security in the ranks they hold after years of service.").

While the District does not dispute that the LE position requires the same certification as the VP position did, it argues that the two positions are not interchangeable. The District points to Dennery v. Passaic County Regional High School District #1, 131 N.J. 626, 640 (1993), which held that "[a] mere overlap in duties . . . does not mean that two positions are equivalent for tenure purposes. If a newly-created position is similar to a tenure holder's abolished position, but also requires additional duties or different responsibilities, then the newly-created position is not considered to be substantially similar to the former position." Dennery thus establishes that even if the duties of the LE and VP positions are similar, the positions are not necessarily equivalent for tenure purposes because the scopes of the positions may be different. The District alleges that an LE's primary responsibility is to ensure that the best instructional practices are being implemented in the classroom, whereas the VP had a generalized role which focused mainly on managerial and operational duties in the school building and was limited in terms of moving student progress and instruction forward.

It is clear from the record that the LE and the VP roles are substantially similar. Both positions dealt with instruction in an attempt to improve students' academic success. All of the petitioners, Andrew Bell, and Dr. Davida Coe-Brockington testified that both VPs and LEs evaluated and observed teachers, coached teachers, conducted classroom walkthroughs, and provided professional developmental. More importantly, the majority of these witnesses stated that there is no difference between the role of the VP and the role of the LE, as both are utilized in the same way. Respondent's reliance on Dennery is misplaced because there are no additional duties or different responsibilities with the LE role. Rather, the new role is actually narrower than the VP role and eliminates the managerial duties that the VPs performed. The duties of an LE are substantially identical to those of a VP, and therefore petitioners' tenure rights extend to this newly created position. See Dennery, 131 N.J. 626, 639–40 ("When the duties of the position in which a teaching-staff member has acquired tenure are substantially identical to those of the position that the person seeks, a local school board may not sidestep an educator's tenure rights by simply renaming the position or tacking on additional meaningless requirements. The local board must extend the teaching-staff member's tenure rights to the newly-created position.").

I therefore CONCLUDE that the petitioners were entitled by virtue of their tenure to the lead educator positions.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

APPEARANCES

FOR THE PETITIONER

Teresa L. Moore, Esq., Riker Danzig, LLP

FOR THE RESPONDENT

Nicholas Poberezhsky, Esq., Caruso Smith Picini, P.C.

BACKGROUND

In accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3, on August 20, 2019, the Newark Board of Education, County of Essex, State of New Jersey ("Petitioner" or "Board") determined that "a tenure charge of inefficiency against Carol Douglas ('Respondent'), a tenured teacher, shall be submitted to the Commissioner of Education." According to the Petitioner, the Respondent was evaluated pursuant to the Newark Public Schools Framework for Effective Teaching in the 2016-17, 2017-18 and 2018-19 school years and received summative evaluation ratings of Ineffective in 2016-17, Partially Effective in 2017-18, and Partially Effective in 2018-19. Consequently, the tenure charge of inefficiency against the Respondent was mandatory. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3(a)(1).

By letter dated August 26, 2019, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5-1(b)(6), Fiona E. Cousland, Counsel for the Petitioner, submitted the following documents to Dr. Lamont Repollet, the Commissioner of Education:

- Notice of Tenure Charge of Inefficiency
- Statement of Evidence
- Certificate of Service

In her statement of position submitted to the Board in response to the charges, Respondent maintains that in 2018-19 she was not observed by multiple observers as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.4 et seq. Respondent further maintains that her school assignments were inappropriate and retaliatory. In addition, Respondent contends that the Board "failed to adhere to the student achievement requirements set forth by N.J.A.C. 6A:10-4.2 et seq., failed to adhere to the summative evaluation process under N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2.4 et seq., failed to establish a legally sound Corrective Action Plan ('CAP') and did not satisfy the procedural and substantive CAP requirements explicated in N.J.A.C. 6A:10-2.5 et seq."

On September 13, 2019, the Commissioner, upon review of the tenure charges, found that he "is unable to determine the evaluation process has not been followed." Accordingly, the charges were referred to the undersigned Arbitrator pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16.

On November 20, 2019, the Newark Board of Education and Respondent, Carol Douglas, collectively, the "parties" submitted a document to the Arbitrator described as a "fully-executed Settlement Agreement in this matter," indicating that the Board and the Respondent had voluntarily resolved all disputed matters and entered into a Settlement Agreement ("Settlement"). (Attachment A). "The parties respectively acknowledge that Counsel has advised them regarding this Settlement Agreement and each is signing this Settlement freely and voluntarily, without duress, coercion or pressure from the other party."

Among the terms set forth in the Settlement is the agreement of the Respondent, Carol Douglas, "to resign from her tenured position, effective January 1, 2020...Douglas' separation from employment will be deemed a voluntary resignation in good standing." Moreover, "by entering into this Settlement Agreement, and in exchange for good consideration as set forth in Paragraph 3 above, the sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, Douglas hereby releases and discharges the Board of Education...with respect to all claims or rights that she may have against the Board of Education regarding her employment with the Board."

"This Settlement Agreement constitutes the full agreement between the parties and shall be construed and enforced in accordance with New Jersey law."

In the Matter of	NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
CAROL DOUGLAS	Agency Docket No. 222-8/19
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, IN THE COUNTY OF ESSEX	SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This Settlement Agreement ("Agreement") is made by and between the Newark Board of Education (the "Board"), with an address at 765 Broad Street, Newark, New Jersey 07102, and its successors, assigns, officers, employees, agents and representatives (collectively) and Carol Douglas, residing at 31 Warwick Street, Orange, New Jersey 07017 ("Douglas") (collectively, the "Parties").

WHEREAS Douglas is a tenured teaching staff member employed by the Newark Board of Education; and

WHEREAS on or about August 26, 2019, the Board certified a tenure charge of inefficiency against Douglas and a copy of the Notice of Tenure Charges of Inefficiency is attached to this Settlement Agreement (the "Settlement Agreement") as Exhibit A; and

WHEREAS the Parties wish to resolve this matter in accordance with the terms set forth herein rather than proceed with arbitration; and

WHEREAS the settlement set forth herein is in the best interest of the Parties and the public because it avoids an uncertain conclusion after protracted and costly proceedings at the expense of the public;

NOW, THEREFORE, the Parties hereby agree as follows:

1. Douglas hereby agrees to resign from her tenured position, effective January 1, 2020. Attached is a copy of Douglas' signed Letter of Resignation (Exhibit B). Douglas' separation from employment will be deemed a voluntary resignation in good standing. Upon inquiry from any third parties, the Board will only confirm Douglas' employment, position, title, salary and dates of employment.

2. Douglas also agrees to withdraw with prejudice any and all claims or suits that she may have previously filed against the Board that are still pending as of the date of this Settlement Agreement, with the exception of Workers' Compensation claims. This Settlement is intended to be the final resolution of all outstanding matters between the Board and Douglas. Should Douglas fail to submit letters of withdrawal or other stipulations of dismissal for any such pending claims or suits, this Settlement Agreement shall serve as Douglas' mutual written notice of withdrawal of those pending claims or suits, except for workers compensation claims.

3. In exchange, Douglas will: (1) be placed on administrative leave from October 1, 2019 through December 31, 2019; (2) receive salary less applicable payroll deductions for the months of October 2019; and (3) receive group health benefits for the months of October, November, and December 2019. Other than the salary that she receives for the month of October 2019 and the health benefits she receives from October 1, 2019 through December 31, 2019, Douglas will not receive any further monies or benefits from the Board in exchange for this Settlement Agreement. If applied for, the Board will not oppose Douglas' application for unemployment.

4. The Board also agrees not to pursue any disciplinary action against Douglas so long as this Settlement Agreement remains in effect and is not voided by any court or administrative agency of competent jurisdiction. However, if the Settlement Agreement is voided, the Board retains the right to pursue disciplinary action against Douglas including termination of her employment with the Board.

5. As of the effective date of her resignation, all of Douglas' employment rights, including but not limited to salary, insurance coverage, tenure and seniority, will cease and Douglas shall not be entitled to what she may be otherwise afforded under the Worker's Compensation Act or the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985 ("COBRA").

6. Douglas agrees that she will not apply for reemployment with the Board at any time in the future. Specifically, Douglas will be considered to have permanently resigned from her tenured position as a result of this Settlement Agreement. If Douglas does apply for reemployment with the School District and is approved for employment, the terms of this Settlement Agreement shall constitute valid and legal grounds for immediate termination of Douglas' employment.

7. This Settlement shall not constitute a precedent in any matters involving other employees.

8. Except as noted above, Douglas waives all claims of any nature against the Board with regard to her employment with and/or her separation from the Board including fees or other monetary relief, with the exception of workers' compensation claims.

9. By entering into this Settlement Agreement, and in exchange for good consideration as set forth in Paragraph 3 above, the sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, Douglas hereby releases and discharges the Board of Education and its members, and any all other school district officers, employees, representatives, agents, successors and assigns (collectively, the "Released Parties") with respect to all claims or rights that she has or may have against the Board of Education regarding her employment with the Board. This includes without limitation, any and all actions, claims, and liabilities of whatever kind or character in law or in equity, now known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, directly or indirectly related to Douglas' employment with or separation from the Board. It specifically includes, without limitation, all claims which Douglas may have regarding tenure, withholding of increment, discrimination or any other alleged federal or state civil rights law, any alleged violation of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, as amended, the Older Workers Benefits Protection Act, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, Sections 1981 through 1988 of Title 42 of the United States Code, the Civil Rights Act of 1991, the Equal Pay Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Rehabilitation Act, the Family and Medical Leave Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended, the Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act, the National Labor Relations Act, the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the Occupational Safety and Health Act, the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Act, the Employee Polygraph Protection Act, the Immigration Reform Control Act, the retaliation provisions of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, the Federal False Claims Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the New Jersey Family Leave Act, the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law, the New Jersey Equal Pay Law, the New Jersey Occupational Safety and Health Law, the New Jersey Smokers' Rights Law, the New Jersey Genetic Privacy Act, the New Jersey Fair Credit Reporting Act, New Jersey Wages and Hours Law, unemployment compensation laws, disability benefits laws, the retaliation provisions of the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Law (and including any and all amendments to the above), the United States Constitution, the New Jersey Constitution and any other state or federal statute or any federal, state or local law, regulation or ordinance, common law doctrine, contract or implied contract or collective bargaining contractual claim, tort law or public policy or whistleblower claim, having any bearing whatsoever on her employment by and the termination of her employment with the Board, including but not limited to any claim for wrongful discharge, back pay, front pay, vacation pay, sick pay, wages, commissions, bonuses, punitive damages, attorneys' fees, costs, and/or future wage loss, except for workers compensation benefits and for health insurance coverage under and pursuant to COBRA. Douglas agrees to save, hold harmless and indemnify the Released Parties for any legal costs and attorneys fees associated with the enforcement of the terms of this Settlement Agreement should enforcement become necessary.

5. Notwithstanding Paragraph 4 of this Settlement Agreement, it is understood and agreed that the parties are not prohibited from communicating with or participating in any administrative proceeding before the United States Department of Labor, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, or any other federal, state or local law agency. Should any entity, agency, commission or person file a charge, action, complaint or lawsuit against the Released Parties or any of them, based upon any of the above-released claims in Paragraph 4, Douglas agrees not to seek or accept any resulting relief whatsoever.

11. To comply with the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act of 1990, if applicable, this Agreement advises Douglas of the legal requirements of that Act, and fully incorporates the legal requirements by reference into this Settlement Agreement. Accordingly, by executing this Settlement Agreement, Douglas acknowledges that she: (i) fully understands the terms and conditions of this Settlement Agreement; (ii) has consulted with an attorney to review the Settlement Agreement; (iii) specifically waives her right to pursue any current claims she may have under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act; (iv) has been given twenty-one (21) days within which to consider this Settlement Agreement; and (v) has seven (7) days from the date of the execution of this Settlement Agreement to revoke it. Douglas understands that she may rescind this Settlement Agreement within seven (7) calendar days of signing it, and such rescission must be in writing and delivered to counsel for the Board either by hand or by certified mail within the seven-day period.

12. The parties respectively acknowledge that counsel has advised them regarding this Settlement Agreement and that each is signing this Settlement Agreement freely and voluntarily, with no duress, undue influence or pressure from the other party.

13. This Settlement Agreement constitutes the full agreement between the parties, and shall be construed and enforced in accordance with New Jersey law.

14. If any provision or portion of a provision of this Settlement Agreement is held by a court of competent jurisdiction or determined under applicable federal or state law to be invalid, void or unenforceable, the remaining provisions or remaining portions of a provision will continue and remain in full force and effect.

15. This Settlement Agreement is subject to final approval by the Board of Education of the City of Newark and will only become effective upon the approval of the Board. Any disapproval by the Board shall not interfere with the rights of either party to pursue the matter further.

hear this dispute on July 8, 2019. On July 29, 2019, the Respondent filed a motion to dismiss the tenure charges because of the Board's purported failure to to provide information required by N.J.S.A. 18a:6-17.1(b)(3). George J. Frino, Esq. and Paul Miller, Esq. of the firm of DeCotiis, FitzPatrick, Cole and Giblin, LLP represented the Board. William P. Hannan of the firm of Oxfeld Cohen, P.C. represented Ms. Allen.

THE ISSUE:

The issue for arbitral determination is:

Has the Board established that Ms. Allen engaged in misconduct alleged in the charge brought against her? If so, what shall be the penalty?

THE CHARGE

I, Dr. Kevin R. West ("Dr. West"), of full age and capacity, having been duly sworn by the undersigned authority, depose and say as follows:

I am the Superintendent of Schools for the East Orange Board of Education ("Board"). The Board maintains administrative offices at 199 Fourth Avenue, East Orange, New Jersey, 07017. I am charged with the general oversight of the East Orange School District ("District") and all employees serving therein. During all times relevant herein, Sharonda Allen ("S.A.") has been a teacher within the District at East Orange Campus High School ("EOCHS") and Patrick F. Healy Middle School ("Healy Middle School"). I am familiar with all of the facts and circumstances surrounding the Sworn Tenure Charges against S.A.

Based upon the Sworn Statement of Evidence, I hereby charge S.A. with conduct unbecoming and other just cause for dismissal, including but not limited to insubordination, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and 18A:6-10.1, et. seq.

BACKGROUND COMMON TO ALL CHARGES

Sharonda Allen ("S.A."), a tenured teacher, is responsible to conduct herself in a professional and appropriate manner, to follow the directives of her supervisors, and to comply with all District protocols and policies. S.A., however, has consistently failed to perform the foregoing duties and responsibilities, and worse, has demonstrated an unwillingness and, or perhaps an inability, to improve, correct and modify her behavior, despite multiple opportunities to do so. On multiple occasions dating back to 2015, S.A. has displayed unprofessional, inappropriate, and most recently, dangerous behavior in her interactions with students, and insubordinate behavior in her interactions with supervisors. Despite prior progressive discipline including a disciplinary-based increment withholding in 2015, and a two-week suspension in 2019, S.A. continues to act in a manner which constitutes insubordination and conduct unbecoming.

Between January 29, 2019 and January 31, 2019 Ms. Allen conducted herself in a manner that was insubordinate to her direct supervisor, Principal of EOCHS Dr. Ronald Estrict ("Dr. Estrict"), and to the Superintendent of Schools Dr. Kevin West ("Dr. West"). (See Exhibit 1). On or about January 29, 2019, in her capacity as Sophomore class advisor she appealed Dr. Estrict's denial of her request for a Sophomore class meeting. The appeal to Dr. West was denied and it was explained in writing that each grade level has one class meeting per quarter, and that the Sophomores already had theirs for the second quarter. S.A. refused to take "no" for an answer and engaged in an accusatory and confrontational back in forth with Dr. West, as follows.

On or about January 31, 2019 S.A. sent an email rebutting the denied request, stating that Dr. West's and Dr. Estrict's actions constituted "educational malpractice, inequitable treatment", and "criminal" "retaliation". S.A. went on to question Dr. West's and Dr. Estrict's "sensibility" and accuse them of engaging in a "conspiracy to sabotage" her and the entire Sophomore class. She then threatened her superiors with litigation, and essentially attempted to blackmail them into granting her request by stating "If my request is not immediately granted, I will take this action as retaliation, and I will move this grievance to the next level, exhausting all administrative remedies".

Dr. West responded to S.A. in a professional and constructive manner, again explaining the policy permitting only one class meeting per quarter, again explaining the rationale for the denial, and informing her of the grievance procedure.

Within just over an hour, S.A. wrote back to Dr. West, copying Dr. Estrict, again accusing both of retaliation, stating that the "denial is purely retaliation for not taking the abuse of administration here at the EOCHS... retaliation against those who do not bow down to the mismanagement here at EOCHS". She went on to call Dr. Estrict "incompetent, inept, inequitable, unfair, and super unprofessional." She then argued against the reasoning of her superiors and stated that the reasons were false, thereby essentially calling her superiors liars. She again requested the Sophomore class meeting and went on to tell Dr. West "You cannot continue to support a flawed decision... if I have clearly clarified to you" the flaws in reasoning behind the denial. Finally, she accused Dr. West of being unfair, incompetent, and engaging in illegal nepotism, stating as follows:

> I would expect that a fair and competent leader would see all the facts presented... if not, I will know and be clear about the nepotism that is illegal, based on fraternal connections, is alive and. well in this School District".

Dr. West patiently responded to S.A.'s attack, explaining to S.A. that he has the authority to approve or deny any request for any meeting made by a staff member, and instructing her to "please move forward and adhere to the final decision [...] regarding this matter". Dr. West reminded S.A. that "[f]ailure to do so is grounds for insubordination and conduct unbecoming" and that there is a grievance process she must follow if she feels she is being mistreated or if she feels "there is nepotism and all of the various other allegations [she] made".

Later that afternoon, S.A. responded to Dr. West in a rambling diatribe of an email, threatening and accusing him follows:

> The behavior of you and this administration is unbecoming, unprofessional, unfair, nepotistic, disrespectful, and demeaning after you detailed the made up rules about Class meetings, and then turned around and stated that you would stand by their erroneous decision to still deny a cycle 3 meeting, as per their own new made up rules.

If you don't understand why this is illegal, then I would refer you back to New Jersey Administrative Code Title 6:6A. You are making a threat about insubordination, while you are not even adhering to the rules that you presented. You can't say that there can be a meeting per cycle, then encourage administration to make up their own rules as they go along, retaliating against a State employee, who also lives in this city.

I am highly offended by your threats of grounds of insubordination, while you promote the mismanagement of this school. You are not utilizing your training as a leader in an equitable manner and well as functioning with nepotistic motives, which is conduct unbecoming and illegal. As a principal, you are not supposed to be an unquestioned, uncorrected dictator. You told me to inform you of any cases of inequity, but now you take sides with this corrupt behavior, even after you pointed out the so-called cycle meeting schedule. I clarified to you that the meeting would be during cycle 3, but you still lean to the wrong side and expose the nepotistic protection you are giving to this flawed administration.

Based on your own statements, you violated the protocol and procedures that you said that you stand by, which are not in writing and made up. Competent leadership requires written rules, if not, this argument would not stand up for this administration in a court of law. You are now promoting behavior that is wrong and bad for the reputation of this School District. There are safeguards in place so that this nepotistic behavior is checked in public domains and I will ensure that this incident is widely publicized and publicly responded to.

The next board of Education Meeting February 12, 2019, and please be clear that the Sophomore parents will be informed of your nepotistic conduct in this matter, and you will be put on notice of these offenses. I will again exhaust all administrative remedies in this matter, and I will be moving this matter to your unprofessional, favoritism, and cronyism.

Dr. West instructed her to "Please cease and desist with your disrespectful, combative and confrontational behavior immediately." Finally, she did, but only until the next day (February 1, 2019) when the two met to discuss the investigatory findings and consequential discipline resulting from an incident that occurred between S.A. and a student on December 5, 2018. On that day, she threatened freshman student S.B. during an assembly at East Orange Campus High School ("EOCHS"). An investigation was conducted whereby it was confirmed that multiple witnesses, both students and teachers, reportedly observed Allen yelling verbally abusive language and threats of physical violence several times in S.B.'s face. Specifically, the teacher was in S.B.'s "personal space" yelling the following: "Shut up", "Shut the fuck up", "I will get you jumped", "You don't know me", "I will get one of these big niggas to jump you" and "Watch your back at Campus". (Exhibit 6).

As memorialized in a memo titled "Notes from meeting with Dr. Kevin West and Ms. Sharonda Allen Friday February 1, 2019 at 1:OO PM" (Exhibit 2), the meeting began with Dr. West providing a summary of the incident that took place and the decision to suspend her for two weeks. He further informed her that due to student safety concerns, she would be transferred to a different school within the District at the conclusion of her suspension. The transfer was not punishment or discipline but a precaution in response to student safety concerns, as the incident involved her threatening physical violence against a Sophomore student. Dr. West handed her a letter outlining the findings, the disciplinary action, and the notice of transfer. S.A. interrupted Dr. West to comment as follows:

1 Dr. West does not have administrative authority to provide her with the letter;

2 It was illegal for him to suspend her because the Board had not met or approved the suspenswn (sic);

3- The letter was retaliation and a witch-hunt based on the email that she sent Dr. West the day before.

S.A. refused to acknowledge receipt of the letter via signature and refused to accept the transfer because she "did not do anything wrong." She then accused Dr. West of altering the investigation report and indicated that she would reach out to the investigator herself. (Exhibit 6). She then threatened "You don't know my reach. Councilwoman [...] is sponsoring my Valentine's event. The mayor will not support this [...] They will not agree with my removal. I am sure that parents will contact you and students will protest[...] Be prepared for the amount of people at the Board meeting."

Dr. West concluded the meeting by handing Ms. Allen four (4) District policies that she had violated: Inappropriate Staff Conduct, Healthy Workplace Environment, Use of Electronic Communication, and Civility. (Exhibit 2). Finally, she was told to refrain from speaking to parents and students regarding the matter out of respect to S.B.'s rights to privacy and confidentiality.

Instead of heeding the directive of Dr. West, S.A. organized a school-wide student walk out in protest of her suspension and transfer. The walk-out was to take place during class time, thus participants would have to cut class to attend. S.A. disseminated and publicized flyers and social media posts in support of the walk-out (Exhibit 3). She communicated with students and parents via social media encouraging them to participate in the protest on her behalf and insisting that they call the mayor demanding her immediate return to EOCHS. Essentially, S.A. attempted to influence students to break school rules and cut class to riot against the administration and in support of her. She attempted to use political connections to retaliate against and undermine Dr. West in response to his imposition of discipline.

As if all the above was not enough, S.A. violated the privacy and jeopardized the safety of Sophomore student S.B. She wrote to a student via Facebook Messenger as follows:

> S.A: [Student K.N.] said that the boy told her that he lied about the incident just to get me in trouble
>
> Undisclosed Student: Who's the boy and we're gonna report this
>
> S.A: S----- B----
> Undisclosed Student:
> Bet!!! (Exhibit 4).

It is clear that S.A. 's intent in releasing the student's name was either to have S.B harassed, intimidated, or bullied into recanting his statement, or, to have him retaliated against by way of physical harm. Ultimately, the Messenger thread was screenshotted and posted on an undisclosed student's Instagram Story with the caption "Who know S----- B----?" Thereafter, S.B. feared for his safety at EOCHS to such an extent that he resorted to transferring out of EOCHS and enrolling at another high school in the District. When interviewed, his mother stated that she "feared for her son's life". Despite this fear, he and all witnesses never recanted their statements and reaffirmed that S.A. threatened and verbally abused S.B on December 5, 2018 (Exhibit 5).

The District has issued progressive discipline in response to multiple instances of misconduct over the course of the last several years. Prior to the December 2018 incident and consequential suspension, S.A. was disciplined by way of increment withholding for the 2015-2016 school year in response to at least two instances of conduct unbecoming. (Exhibit 7). On or about April 30, 2015 there was an altercation between S.A. and a female student. Furthermore, due to S.A.'s failure to properly supervise students she chaperoned on an overnight field trip in October 2014, several students engaged in prohibited activity. In response, she made disparaging and inappropriate remarks of a sexual nature in front of everyone on the field trip, and, among other things, allegedly smelled a male student and stated that he "smelled like sex". Moreover, there were funds missing from the field trip accounting logs; S.A. was the organizer.

I hereby charge Sharonda Allen with unbecoming conduct and/or other just cause for dismissal, including insubordination, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and 18A:6-10.1, et. seq.

CHARGE I[1]
UNBECOMING CONDUCT, INSUBORDINATION, AND OTHER JUST CAUSE

While employed as a teacher in the East Orange School District, S.A. repeatedly violated the public trust by acting insubordinately and/or engaging in conduct unbecoming. Specifically, S.A.'s inappropriate interactions with students, her displays of complete disrespect for her supervisors, her total disregard for the directives of her supervisors, and her complete ignorance of District policies and protocols are evidenced, as follows:

Count One
On or about Tuesday, January 29, 2019, at 9:49 AM, S.A. wrote an email to her supervisors including but not limited to Dr. Estrict and Dr. West that rises to a level of insubordination warranting removal.

Count Two
On or about Thursday, January 31, 2019, at 8:54 AM, S.A. wrote an email to her supervisors Dr. Estrict and Dr. West that rises to a level of insubordination warranting removal.

Count Three
On or about Thursday, January 31, 2019, at 11:44 AM, S.A. wrote an email to her supervisors Dr. Estrict and Dr. West that rises to a level of insubordination warranting removal.

Count Four
On or about Thursday, January 31, 2019, at 1:02 PM, S.A. wrote an email to her supervisors Dr. Estrict and Dr. West that rises to a level of insubordination warranting removal.

[1] Exhibits attached to the charges have not been appended, and will be discussed if relevant in the body of this Opinion and Award.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Kevin West, S.A. behaved in a manner that constitutes insubordination, conduct unbecoming, and violates multiple Board policies

Count Six

During the period of her suspension (between February 1 and February 19, 2019) S.A. violated Board Policy by way of inciting student misconduct in the form of cutting class for a school wide protest on her behalf, i.e. a "walk-out", at EOCHS.

Count Seven

During the period of her suspension (between February 1 and February 19, 2019) S.A. violated Board Policy 3283 by way using social media to inappropriately communicate with students.

Count 8

S.A. jeopardized the safety of student S.B. by way of releasing his name to another student with the intent to have him harassed, intimidated, bullied, or worse, as retaliation for her suspension.

CONCLUSION

Each of the foregoing allegations, as well as the Sworn Statement of Evidence and all accompanying documents attached thereto, are incorporated by reference, as if fully set forth herein.

In aggregate, the foregoing actions and inactions exhibited by Sharonda Allen amount to unbecoming conduct, insubordination, and/or other just cause for dismissal. Sharonda Allen has received appropriately progressive discipline in response to numerous instances of misconduct over the course of the last several years, and dismissal via tenure charges is now the only appropriate recourse. By virtue, thereof, it is evident that S.A. has engaged in a course of misconduct extending over a period of time, such that, her pattern of misconduct, jointly and severally, constitutes unbecoming conduct and insubordination, and manifestly demonstrates her unfitness to serve in a position of educational leadership, thus warranting her dismissal.

FACTS

A. Background

Dr. Kevin West ("West") is the superintendent of schools in the District. (Tr. 13). There are four high schools within the District. (Tr. 28). The events giving rise to this proceeding occurred at Campus High School ("CHS"). (Passim). CHS is a comprehensive school with approximately 1600 students in grades nine through twelve. (Tr. 25). CHS has students that are high performing, average performing and who have challenges academically. (Tr. 26). Dr. West characterized the District as "urbanized" noting that there are concerns regarding violence among students. (Tr. 30). The CHS principal is Dr. Ronnie Estrict ("Estrict"). (Tr. 138). District policies are uploaded to the District's website. Dr. West testified that teachers are directed to the website in order to review those policies. Principals are also directed to review policies with teachers, and teachers are asked to acknowledge that they reviewed certain but not all policies. (Tr. 33, 142, 155-156).

Ms. Allen has been employed by the Board since 2003 and has been assigned to CHS since 2011. (Tr. 226). Ms. Allen has taught the following subjects at CHS: World History, Sociology, African American History, United States History and Economics. (Tr. 227). Ms. Allen has the following pedagogic certifications: Kindergarten through Elementary Certification, Kindergarten through 12 Social Studies Certification, and a Supervisor's Certification. (Tr. 227). She has generally received "effective" ratings as a teacher. (Respondent's Exs. 6-10). In addition to her teaching duties, Ms. Allen was the advisor for the class of 2021. During the relevant 2018 to 2019 school year, this meant that Ms. Allen was the advisor for the Sophomore class. (Tr. 228).

Ms. Allen's conduct while employed at CHS has been investigated on several occasions, and some of the investigations of her conduct has resulted in discipline[2]. On May 7, 2015, CHS Assistant Principal Felecia Duggins ("Duggins") issued a memorandum to Ms. Allen in which Ms. Duggins concluded that Ms. Allen used "inappropriate language, interfere[ed] in the instruction of students, and disrupt[ed] . . . the learning process." (Board Ex. 18). As a result, the East Orange Board of Education withheld Ms. Allen's salary increment for the 2015-2016 school year, and placed Ms. Allen on probation for conduct unbecoming. (Board Ex.19).

B. The December 5, 2018 incident with SB

As will be seen, the events giving rise to this proceeding are closely related to an incident that occurred on December 5, 2018. The record shows that, on December 5, 2018, Ms. Allen had an altercation with a ninth-grade student, "SB", at a school assembly. SB failed to follow Ms. Allen's directions to stop talking and was belligerent. In response, Ms. Allen in front of both student and teacher witnesses said the following: "Shut up", "Shut the fuck up", "I will get you jumped", "You don't know me", "I will get one of these big niggas to jump you" and "Watch your back at Campus." As a result of complaints from SB's mother, the Board hired a private detective to investigate the December 5, 2018 incident. (Tr. 19, 21). While the investigation was ongoing, on January 11, 2019 Dr. West met with Ms. Allen, SB and SB's mother. In a memorandum dated February 28, 2019, addressed to the Director of Labor Relations for the Board, Dr. West expressed misgivings about the way Ms. Allen conducted herself at the January 11, 2019

[2] I am specifically excluding from my analysis allegations that Ms. Allen acted inappropriately while chaperoning a student trip in October 2014. Although serious allegations of misconduct were made against Ms. Allen in connection with the trip, there is no evidence in the record that discipline was imposed, and Ms. Allen testified that she never saw the memo describing the events. (Tr. 293, Board Ex. 14).

meeting. In his memorandum, Dr. West noted that SB apologized to Ms. Allen for telling her to "get out of his face." As recounted in the memorandum, Dr. West asked Ms. Allen if she had something to say. Dr. West stated that Ms. Allen went into a discourse about how much she loves students at CHS, and how she demands respect. According to Dr. West, Ms. Allen never apologized to SB and the lack of apology infuriated SB's mother. Dr. West noted, however, that Ms. Allen attempted to hug SB's mother because they apparently knew each other outside of the school context. With respect to the attempted hug, Dr. West described SB's mother as looking at Ms. Allen like Ms. Allen "was crazy." Dr. West stated that Ms. Allen gave SB a "half-hearted apology." Ms. Allen also assured SB that he would be safe at the school. Prior to the end of the meeting, SB's mother described Ms. Allen as "ghetto," and Dr. West stated that he wrapped up the meeting by asking SB if he felt safe, and SB said that he did feel safe. (Board Ex.9).

Thereafter, on February 1, 2019, following the conclusion of the investigation, Dr. West convened a meeting with Dr. Estrict, Assistant Superintendent Dr. Deborah Harvest ("Harvest"), Ms. Greadington, the President of the East Orange Educational Association ("Association"), and Ms. Allen. At the meeting, Dr. West informed Ms. Allen that the private detective hired by the District to investigate the December 5, 2018 incident corroborated allegations made by SB and SB's mother that "Ms. Allen made several threats to a student [SB], got in the student's face, and used profanity." (Board Ex.4). (Board Ex. 4 is a copy of typewritten notes of Dr. West's impressions of Ms. Allen's behavior). As a result of the findings of the private detective, Dr. West suspended Ms. Allen for two weeks with pay[3].

[3] At the hearing in this matter, I limited questioning concerning the December 5, 2018 incident because neither Ms. Allen nor her Union grieved the suspension. I made the following statement into the record: "The incident occurred on December 5. It was described in charge specifications brought by the Board. I will accept those charges and specifications as true because it resulted in a two-week suspension for Ms.

The February 1, 2019, Notice of Suspension stated: "Your behavior demonstrated a total disregard and disrespect for the position as a teacher, the student that you made inappropriate comments to, and the school district." (Board Ex. 6). Ms. Allen did not grieve her suspension. (Tr. 317). In addition, Dr. West transferred Ms. Allen to another school[4].

Dr. West decided not to bring tenure charges against Ms. Allen as a result of the December 5, 2018 incident and chose instead to utilize progressive discipline in order to correct Ms. Allen's behavior. (Tr. 61-62). Dr. West also testified that he directed Ms. Allen to "keep the matter [of the December 5, 2018 incident] confidential." (Tr. 131). Dr. West stated:

> So the reason why I said, "Don't disclose this, " was because the boy [SB] was already feeling very unsafe, especially with the comments you saw inside of there where he stated that she said she was going to get some big N'ers in the school to take care of this kid.
> So he was already intimidated by that. I didn't want his name out there. I didn't want anybody discussing that because that kid even though Ms. Allen was moved out of there, the student at that point was still in the building, and he basically said there was a culture where she had these big N'ers that would go and take care of her situations for her.
>
> So this kid was almost shaking at the table when he came in with his mother to tell me about this story. That was why I left him in the building, but I removed her out of there. I didn't want this culture to be festering. And I definitely didn't want the other student body – students to attack this kid.

Allen." (Tr. 17).

[4] The transfer itself - not the suspension – was the subject of a petition filed by the Association with the New Jersey Public Employment Relations Commission ("PERC") bearing docket #: TO-2019-007. N.J.S.A. 34:12A-27 prohibits transfers of school employees for disciplinary reasons. PERC has jurisdiction to determine if a suspension was primarily disciplinary. On September 26, 2019 PERC, on a date in between the first and second days of hearing in this proceeding, ordered the District to return Ms. Allen to her position at CHS. PERC made no finding regarding the suspension. (Respondent's Ex. 17).

(Tr. 132-133). Dr. Estrict corroborated Dr. West's statement that the Superintendent had directed Ms. Allen to keep SB's name confidential. (Tr. 182-183). Ms. Allen admitted that Dr. West directed that she not disclose the reasons for her suspension, because Dr. West "knew it would be disruptive." (Tr. 312). Ms. Allen concluded that any difficulties she had with SB had been resolved at the January 11, 2019 meeting. (Tr. 251, 313-314).

C. Events leading to the filing of Tenure Charges

Following her suspension, one of Ms. Allen's students – KB - complained to her mother ("SH") about the suspension and transfer. SH communicated with Ms. Allen about fighting on behalf of Ms. Allen and protesting the suspension at a school board meeting. (Tr. 209). Ms. Allen also communicated with students and urged at least one student to contact KB's mother. (Tr. 44-46; 205-206; Board Ex.3). Communications among the students occurred on Instagram. In addition, a flyer was distributed in support of Ms. Allen. (Board Ex.3). There is no evidence that Ms. Allen posted this material on social media, however, Ms. Allen did take part in several Facebook Messenger conversations with students. In one statement protesting her suspension, Ms. Allen urges a student to: "Call the mayor and demand that I be put back at campus by this Tuesday!!!!" (Emphasis in the original). In yet another social media exchange with Student PS, Ms. Allen specifically identified SB. The exchange on Facebook Messenger went as follows:

> Ms. Allen: KB [a student] said that the boy told her that he lied about the incident just to get me in trouble.
> PS: Who's the boy and we're going to report this
>
> Ms. Allen: SB [she in fact used SB's full name]
> PS: Bet

(Bd. Ex. 3). Ms. Allen admitted that she utilized Facebook Messenger to identify SB because it was not publicly known that SB had lied[5] about the December 5, 2018 incident. In response to a question as to why Ms. Allen provided SB's name, Ms. Allen testified: "Because this person was upset about me being transferred out and wanted to have it reported to the authorities to make sure that school officials and everyone knew that the student was absolutely lying about the situation." (Tr. 283, 327). However, Ms. Allen is apparently relying on statements from KB who testified only that SB told her that "he felt bad that [Ms. Allen] was transferred. He didn't mean for it to be blown out of proportion, and it was a misunderstanding." (Tr. 219-220). Not that SB admitted to lying.

Following Ms. Allen's posting on Facebook Messenger, the material in Board Exhibit 3 was also posted by a student on Instagram, a more public site. This resulted in SB being approached by other students. SB's mother "furiously" informed Dr. West that SB had been approached by other students, and that SB had been identified on Instagram. (Tr. 126-127). In addition, Ms. Allen's supporter, student KB admitted that she confronted SB, and testified that other students had also confronted SB[6]. (Tr. 224). Because of his concerns for SB's safety resulting from the identification of SB's full name on social media, Dr. West transferred SB to another school. (Tr. 126-127,Board Ex.2). As a result, Dr. West recommended that tenure charges be brought against Ms. Allen. (Tr. 58-60). Dr. West testified:

> The tenure charges came up more so because of the fact - - when you look at the fact that the kid was threatened, and then his name was out there and given out to the public for [5] Ms. Allen's statement that it was not publicly known that SB lied fails to account for the fact that the December 5, 2018 incident had been corroborated by numerous witnesses.

[6] Several days after Ms. Allen was suspended, there was a student assembly during which KB spoke vociferously in support of Ms. Allen's. KB rose up on a chair, and as a result of this conduct, KB was suspended from school for three days. (Tr. 218-219).

somebody to retaliate against this kid. This was really where the tenure charges, we felt that it was just conduct unbecoming, almost inciting a riot by asking people to come out and support her, leave school to do that.

(Tr. 59).

Dr. West concluded that Ms. Allen's communications with students and parents on social media was a violation of the District's Social Media Policy. Policy 3283 states in pertinent part:

> Social Networking websites and other Internet-Based Social Media Electronic Communications Between Teaching Staff Members and a Student
>
> a. A teaching staff member is prohibited from communicating with any student through the teaching staff member's personal social networking website or other Internet-based website. Communications on personal websites are not acceptable between a teaching staff member and a student.
>
> b. A teaching staff member shall not accept "friend" requests from any student on their personal social networking website or other Internet based social media website. Any communication sent by a student to a teaching staff member's personal social networking website or other Internet-based social media website shall not be responded to by the teaching staff member and shall be reported to the Principal or designee by the teaching staff member.
>
> c. If a teaching staff member has a student(s) as a "friend" on their personal social networking website or other Internet-based social media website they must permanently remove them from their list of contacts upon Board adoption of this Policy.
>
> d. Communication between a teaching staff member and a student through social networking websites or other Internet-based social media websites is only permitted provided the website has been approved by the Principal or designee and all communications or publications using such websites are available to every student in the class; every member of the co-curricular activity and their parents; and the Principa1 or designee.

(Department Ex. B-22, East Orange Board of Education Policy 3283-Electronic Communications Between Teaching Staff Members and Students, Adopted October 14, 2014). Ms. Allen testified that she was not given training concerning this policy, and that she never acknowledged receiving the policy. (Tr. 290).

D. Other charges against Ms. Allen

As noted above, during the 2018-2019 school year, Ms. Allen was the Sophomore class advisor. While the investigation of the December 5, 2018 incident was ongoing, Ms. Allen had a dispute with Dr. Estrict concerning Dr. Estrict's refusal to allow Ms. Allen to conduct a meeting of the Sophomore class. Ms. Allen testified that a CHS vice-principal had given her permission to conduct that meeting. (Tr. 243-244). In a series of emails from January 29 to January 31, 2019, Ms. Allen pressed her case for an additional meeting to both Dr. Estrict and Dr. West.

As the email exchange between Ms. Allen and Dr. West and Dr. Estrict continued, Ms. Allen became increasingly angry, and in addition to other statements, Ms. Allen called Dr. West "unbecoming, unprofessional, unfair, nepotistic, disrespectful and demeaning." (Board Ex.5).

In response, Dr. West directed Ms. Allen to "cease and desist with your disrespectful, combative and confrontational behavior immediately. It is conduct unbecoming." Ms. Allen did not respond to this final email sent by Dr. West. Dr. West indicated that he would not have pursued tenure charges against Ms. Allen based on those emails alone.[7] (Tr. 59).

[7] Dr. West testified: "I have to say that [the tenure charges] came up not because of the situation with the emails, of her being disrespectful and that kind of thing, had nothing to do with it, because I left that alone." (Tr. 59).

However, the District included a recitation of this email exchange in charging Ms. Allen with unbecoming conduct.

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

A. The District's Position

The District contends that the only acceptable penalty for Ms. Allen's actions is termination. In reviewing the record evidence, the District concedes that a tenured public-school employee cannot be dismissed "except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause." (District's Brief at 17, citing N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10; In re Young, 202 N.J. 50, 66 (2010)).

The District maintains that Ms. Allen behaved in a manner unbecoming to her position and was insubordinate. Having reviewed the standards for finding that a teacher engaged in unbecoming conduct or was insubordinate, the District primarily relies on two cases: In re Tenure Hearing of Roth, No. A-5742-11T2, 2013 N.J. Super. Unpub. 2013 WL 3284128 (App. Div. July 1, 2013) and In re Harriman, No. A-1386-12T3, 2014 N.J. Super Unpub. 2014 WL 940943 at *1 (App. Div. Mar. 12, 2014). The Roth case concerned a verbal exchange between the teacher and a special education student in which the teacher threatened to "kick the ass" of the student. The ALJ recommended that the teacher be suspended, but the Commissioner decided to terminate the teacher's tenure. The Commissioner concluded that the mitigating factors in the record did not outweigh the gravity of the teacher's conduct. (District's Brief at 19-21).

Similarly, in In re Harriman, the Appellate Division determined that the Commissioner appropriately deprived a teacher of tenure where that teacher was found to have acted inappropriately towards the executive director of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association, defied administrative directives, and violated school policy regarding contacting parents. (District's Brief at 22-24).

The District contends that its decision to bring tenure charges against Ms. Allen was consistent with the holdings in both In re Roth and In re Harriman. The District maintains that Ms. Allen routinely and willfully disregarded the directives of her superiors.

The District notes that following the February 1, 2019 meeting during which the results of the investigation of the December 5, 2018 incident were shared with Ms. Allen, and Dr. West both suspended and transferred Ms. Allen, Dr. West instructed Ms. Allen to refrain from discussing the matter with students and parents. (District's Brief at 24, citing District's Ex. B-4, Tr. 131-133, 182-183). The District notes that despite these warnings, Ms. Allen communicated with both parents and students through social media to organize a protest on her behalf. The District argues that this communication violated the District's Social Media Policy. The District posits that it could not function effectively if teachers routinely protested every personnel decision outside of the formal grievance procedure.

The District argues that Ms. Allen's most egregious conduct concerned her violation of Dr. West's directive not to discuss the December 5, 2018 incident and her disclosure of SB's name on social media. The District contends that Ms. Allen jeopardized the safety of SB. The District notes that once SB's name was disseminated on social media, SB reported to the District that he felt unsafe and had been approached by other students. The fact that other students had approached SB was in part confirmed by the testimony of student KB. This prompted SB's mother to demand that SB be transferred from CHS.

The District points out that it applied progressive discipline to Ms. Allen and maintains that despite Dr. West's efforts to curb and correct Ms. Allen's behavior, the District had no choice but to bring tenure charges against Ms. Allen.

The District also points to Ms. Allen's emails regarding Dr. Estrict's decision to deny Ms. Allen's request to conduct a Sophomore class meeting. The District quotes Ms. Allen's emails and concedes that by themselves they do not constitute sufficient grounds for termination. The District argues, however, that these emails demonstrate Ms. Allen's lack of respect for her superiors.

The District also cites Ms. Allen's overall disciplinary record as justifying her dismissal.

B. Respondent's Position

Ms. Allen contends that the District has not met its burden of proof in order to justify sustaining the tenure charges against her. (Respondent's Brief at 37-38, citing In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967); IMO the Tenure Hearing Between the South Hackensack Board of Education and Christopher Masullo, Dkt. No 1-17 (April 8, 2017)).

1. Counts 1-4

Initially, the Respondent analyzes Counts 1-4 of the charge concerning the emails sent by Ms. Allen to Drs. West and Estrick regarding her request that she be permitted to have a meeting with the Sophomore class. Ms. Allen contends that she presented compelling reasons for requesting a second meeting and characterizes at least her initial email as having "clearly explained her reasons for wanting the meeting." (Respondent's Brief at 39). The Respondent argues that she had a first amendment right to criticize the decisions of the administration. (Respondent's Brief at 39, citing Green Township Education Association v. Rowe, 382 N.J. Super. 525, 534 (App. Div. 2000)).

The Respondent notes that Dr. West informed the Respondent that she could file a grievance and that, once Dr. West directed her to "cease and desist," the Respondent complied with Dr. West's directive. Therefore, the Respondent contends, that there was no insubordination, because the Respondent obeyed Dr. West's directive and did not schedule the Sophomore class meeting.

Further, the Respondent states that Dr. West recognized that the emails underlying Counts 1-4 could not form the basis of a tenure charge. The Respondent asks that these four counts be dismissed.

2. Count 5

The Respondent next argues that the Board has failed to prove the allegations of Count 5. Count 5 concerns Ms. Allen's behavior at the February 1, 2019 meeting and alleges that Ms. Allen engaged in "in a manner that constitutes insubordination, conduct unbecoming, and violate[d] multiple Board policies." The Respondent argues that the Board policies that were purportedly violated were never specified.

The Respondent analyzes the memorandum prepared by Dr. West following the February 1, 2019 meeting. The Respondent argues that Dr. West seemed most aggrieved by the fact that Ms. Allen interrupted him while he was talking. The Respondent posits that this cannot be unexpected in the context of a labor-management meeting, where Ms. Allen was facing the possibility of discipline,

The Respondent also notes that Dr. West was concerned that Ms. Allen was upset that he was going to transfer Ms. Allen away from CHS. The Respondent notes, however, that Ms. Allen's position was vindicated by PERC. PERC found that Ms. Allen was improperly transferred from CHS[8]. (Respondent's Ex. 17).

The Respondent also takes issue with Dr. West's challenge of Ms. Allen's assertion that the issues concerning the December 5, 2018 incident were resolved at the January 11, 2019 meeting which was attended by SB and SB's mother. The Respondent characterizes Ms. Allen's position as "not unreasonable." (Respondent's Brief at 42). Other items contained in Dr. West's notes state that Ms. Allen refused to sign an acknowledgement of receipt of a letter of discipline, and that she predicted parents would support her at an upcoming meeting of the Board. The Respondent characterizes Ms. Allen's actions and statements as permissible behavior.

The Respondent also points out that, at the end of the February 1, 2019 meeting, Dr. West states in his notes that he provided Ms. Allen with the following Board Policies: 1) 3281 Inappropriate Staff Conduct; 2) 3351 Healthy Workplace Environment; 3) Use of Electronic Communication and Recording Devices; and 4) Civility Policy. The Respondent notes that Dr. West did not provide Ms. Allen with a copy of the Social Media policy.

The Respondent also argues that Dr. West did not order Ms. Allen to refrain from talking to students and parents about her suspension and transfer, but only "requested" that Ms. Allen refrain from such discussions. Therefore, the Respondent contends Ms. Allen was not insubordinate nor had she engaged in conduct unbecoming.

3. Count 6

[8] As noted above, PERC made no finding concerning the propriety of Ms. Allen's suspension.

The Respondent next argues that the Board presented no competent evidence that Ms. Allen incited student misconduct in the form of encouraging students to cut class in order to participate in a school-wide student walkout. The Respondent argues that none of the social media postings introduced into evidence nor any testimony contained references to cutting class or urging students to participate in a walkout.

4. Count 7

The Respondent contends that Count 7 concerning communications on social media should also be dismissed. The Respondent maintains that Ms. Allen was never trained on Policy 3283 governing social media. The Respondent points out that Dr. Estrict testified that certain policies are deemed so important that teachers are asked to sign acknowledgements of receipt. (Respondent's Brief at 45, citing Tr. 156). The Respondent notes that there is no evidence that Ms. Allen ever signed for Policy 3283.

While conceding that Board policies are available on the District's website, the Respondent notes that there are hundreds of policies on the website and maintains that it is unreasonable for the District to expect that teachers would be familiar with all of the policies uploaded to the website without specific training. The Respondent reasons that an employer cannot demonstrate that it had just cause to discipline an employee for violating a policy unless it can also establish that the employee had knowledge of the policy. (Respondent's Brief at 39, citing Elkouri and Elkouri, How Arbitration Works, 7th Ed. at 15-70)).

The Respondent also contends that Dr. West and Dr. Estrict misidentified the platforms utilized on the Social Media postings contained in Board Exhibit 3. The Respondent notes that Ms. Allen was never interviewed about the screen shots posted on social media. Although Ms. Allen admits that she identified SB in the Facebook Messenger conversation, the Respondent denies that she had anything to do with the Instagram posting.

Regarding the content of the social media posts, the Respondent contends that there is nothing inappropriate in her urging students to support her cause by calling the mayor. The Respondent contends that Ms. Allen was not suggesting that students engage in wrongful conduct, and that, at most, she referred students to KB's mother.

5. Count 8

The Respondent recognizes that Count 8, in which she is accused of "jeopardiz[ing] the safety of student SB by way of releasing his name to another student with the intent to have him harassed, intimidated, bullied, or worse, as retaliation for her suspension" is the most serious charge against her. The Respondent admits that she gave SB's name to Student PS, but did so only after PS expressed a desire to report that SB lied to school administrators concerning the December 5, 2018 incident.

The Respondent notes that the hearing in this proceeding was the first time that she had the opportunity to explain what happened, because neither Dr. West, Dr. Estrict or other investigators ever interviewed her about that social media posting. The Respondent contends that Dr. West and Dr. Estrict ascribed speculative meanings to particular words in the social media postings, and that it was inappropriate for these administrators to impute violent tendencies to Student PS.

The Respondent describes her identification of SB as a "momentary lack of judgment" but contends that there is no evidence that she wanted to have SB "harassed, intimidated, bullied or worse." Ms. Allen states that during her conversation with Student PS she told Student PS that she heard from Student K "that the boy told her that he lied about the incident just to get me in trouble." (Respondent's Brief at 51). The Respondent vigorously argues that she disclosed SB's name to Student PS in order to allow the students supporting her to report the information she had received that SB lied about the December 5, 2018 incident. The Respondent argues that there is no credible evidence that SB was confronted by any students after SB's name was posted. Respondent's Brief at 53).

The Respondent characterizes the evidence that SB reported being harassed to his mother, who in turn reported it to Dr. West as "double hearsay." The Respondent insists that it was necessary to have SB's lie reported. The Respondent characterizes her efforts to explain the December 5, 2018 incident to the administration as falling on deaf ears. The Respondent also notes, that at the time of her suspension and transfer, she was directed not to report to any "District facility." She therefore posits that as such she had no way of directly reporting the fact that SB's prior statements were inaccurate.

The Respondent also maintains that she was not aware of and did not encourage PS to post SB's name on Instagram. Ms. Allen contends that the first time that she became aware that SB's name had been posted on Instagram was when she was served with the tenure charges. Therefore, Ms. Allen maintains, it was impossible for her to report to anyone that SB's name was publicly posted. The Respondent also notes that neither SB nor SB's mother testified.

Finally, the Respondent argues that the Board did not merely allege that Ms. Allen acted improperly by releasing SB's name, but that she did so with the intent to have SB harassed, intimidated or bullied. The Respondent argues that in order for this charge to be sustained very element of the charge must be proven, and therefore Count 8 should be dismissed.

6. Discussion of Penalty

The Respondent contends that she has been a "very successful educator inside and outside the classroom." (Respondent's Brief at 53). The Respondent notes that I had the opportunity to observe Ms. Allen's passion and expertise for improving the lives of her students.

The Respondent points to the allegations of Counts 1-4 concerning Ms. Allen's efforts to schedule a class meeting as evidence of her passion. The Respondent also points to the devotion of students to Ms. Allen, such as KB who were devastated by the decision to transfer and suspend Ms. Allen.

The Respondent concedes that Ms. Allen has been previously disciplined, and that the allegations contained in Count 8 are the most serious. However, the Respondent reiterates her contention that there was no evidence that she ever intended to harass or otherwise harm SB.

Finally, the Respondent maintains that, if I find there is just cause for discipline, the penalty should not be removal. The Respondent notes that if Ms. Allen is removed from tenured employment it could be devastating to her career.

DISCUSSION

A. The Legal Standard

The Education Tenure Act governing teacher tenure provides in pertinent part:

> No person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation,
>
> (a) if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency in the public school system of the state . . .
>
> except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing held pursuant to this subarticle, by the commissioner, or a person appointed by him to act in his behalf, after a written charge or charges, of the cause or causes of complaint, shall have been preferred against such person, signed by the person or persons making the same, who may or may not be a member or members of a board of education, and filed and proceeded upon as in this subarticle provided.

N.J.S.A. 18a:6-10.

Tenure is a "statutory right that may not be forfeited or waived." Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 77 (1982). Tenure is designed to protect employees from dismissal "for unfounded, flimsy or political reasons". Wright v. Bd. of Educ. Of E. Orange, 99 N.J. 112, 118 quoting Zimmerman v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 38 N.J. 65, 72 (1962). Although an employee's lack of fitness may be "demonstrated by a series of incidents" it is well established that a single "flagrant" act may be sufficient to remove a tenured teacher from his or her position. In re Tenure Hearing of Harriman, No. EDU 3510-12 (Initial Decision Aug. 31, 2102), adopted, No. 408-12 (Comm'r Oct. 12, 2012) citing, Redcay v. State Bd. of Educ., 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd, 131 N.J.L. 326, 327 (E. and A. 1944).

In order to find that an employee engaged in conduct which merits removal, that employee is "entitled to an evaluation of the conduct in terms of its relationship to the nature of the office itself, and in that context, an appraisal of the actual or potential impairment of the public interest which may be expected to result from the conduct in question." Sch. Dist. Of Parsippany-Troy Hills v. Hess, 97 N.J.A.R. 2D (EDU) 34, 45 (citations omitted). Charges of unbecoming conduct are determined on a "case-by-case basis." Santiago v. Bd. of Educ. Of Elizabeth, No. EDU 7135-98 (Initial Decision Aug. 16, 2000) (slip op. at 4), aff'd sub nom. In re Tenure Hearing of Santiago, No. 330-00 (Comm'r Oct. 2, 200d), aff'd o.b., No. 54-00 (State Bd. Mar 9, 2001).

In In re Tenure Hearing of Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (Super. Ct. App. Div. 1967), the Court established a number of factors that should be considered when deciding whether a teacher should be dismissed for unbecoming conduct. Those factors include: 1) the nature and gravity of the offenses under all the circumstances involved; 2) the teacher's attitude – i.e. whether the acts were premeditated, cruel, or done with intent to punish; 3) any evidence as to provocation, extenuation or aggravation. In Fulcomer, the Court recognized that there may be circumstances which should be considered which may mitigate any penalty to be imposed on a respondent teacher. These factors include: 1) the teacher's ability, record and length of service[9]; 2) the teacher's disciplinary record; and 3) the "impact of the penalty on the [teacher's] career, including the difficulty which would confront him as a teacher dismissed for unbecoming conduct, in obtaining a teaching position in the State."

[9] Fulcomer involved allegations of corporal punishment. The Court noted that the Respondent's "teaching record was good and his teaching ability unquestioned. [The Respondent] had not been disciplined in any manner by the Board prior to the date of the incidents" in question.

B. The Fulcomer Factors Applied to Ms. Allen

The allegations against Ms. Allen reflect discrete areas of behavior and will be discussed seriatim.

1. Counts 1-4

Counts 1-4 concern the series of increasingly vituperative emails that Ms. Allen sent to both Dr. Estrict and Dr. West following Dr. Estrict's denial of Ms. Allen's request to have a Sophomore class meeting. Taken as a group, the emails can only be characterized as intemperate. Nevertheless, I conclude these Counts have not been sustained.

First and most importantly, Dr. West himself testified that he would not have brought tenure charges against Ms. Allen based on these emails alone. Second, as the Respondent argues, the emails exemplify Ms. Allen's passion for her students and her role as Sophomore class advisor. Third, while Ms. Allen could have used less strident language in responding to Dr. West and Dr. Estrict, she was clearly arguing in good faith for her students. Finally, when Dr. West directed Ms. Allen to "cease and desist" she did so. To give Ms. Allen the benefit of the doubt, I will not sustain the tenure charges contained in Counts 1-4 of the Charge.

2. Count 5

Count 5 states:

> On or about Friday, February 1, 2019 at 9:00 AM, during a meeting with Superintendent of Schools Dr. Kevin West, S.A. behaved in a manner that constitutes insubordination, conduct unbecoming, and violates multiple Board policies.

This count arises from Ms. Allen's behavior at the February 1, 2019 meeting with Dr. West where Dr. West informed Ms. Allen that she would be both suspended and transferred. While Ms. Allen's behavior again may have been intemperate, I conclude that Ms. Allen's behavior did not rise to the level of conduct unbecoming or insubordination.

As the Respondent notes, this conversation took place in the context of a labor management meeting in which Ms. Allen was facing significant discipline. Arbitrators "are reluctant" to uphold discipline for improper behavior in this type of setting, because it unduly interferes with the employee's ability to defend herself. See, Elkouri and Elkouri, How Arbitration Works, 8th Ed. at 5-74.

In addition, as the Respondent contends, much of Dr. West's dissatisfaction arose from the fact that Ms. Allen was protesting her removal form CHS. As noted above, Ms. Allen's position was correct, and the District violated N.J.S.A. 34:12A-27 when it transferred Ms. Allen for disciplinary reasons.

Also, to the extent that Dr. West concluded that Ms. Allen violated his orders directing Ms. Allen not to speak about this incident the Respondent is correct in arguing that it interferes with her right to mount a defense. However, Ms. Allen's violation of Dr. West's direction not to disclose SB's name will be discussed below.

Accordingly, for the foregoing reasons, Count 5 is dismissed.

3. Count 6

Count 6 provides:

> During the period of her suspension (between February 1 and February 19, 2019) S.A. violated Board Policy by way of inciting student misconduct in the form of cutting class for a school wide protest on her behalf, i.e. a "walk-out", at [CHS]

Count 6 alleges that Ms. Allen attempted to incite student misconduct by encouraging students to cut class. While there is much evidence in the record to show that Ms. Allen was in contact with both students and parents during her suspension, and that she urged students and parents to protest at Board meetings and to contact the Mayor of East Orange, there is nothing in the record that supports the conclusion that Ms. Allen urged students to cut class or to walk out.

It is true that at a meeting of the Sophomore class held after Ms. Allen was suspended, KB stood on chair and demanded that Ms. Allen be returned to CHS. KB testified that this was a spontaneous gesture on her part. (Tr. 218-219).

Accordingly, there is no evidence that Ms. Allen encouraged a student walkout or any other form of student misbehavior. Therefore Count 6 is dismissed.

4. Count 7

Count 7 provides:

> During the period of her suspension (between February 1 and February 19, 2019) S.A. violated Board Policy 3283 by way of using social media to inappropriately communicate with students.

Count 7 alleges that Ms. Allen violated the Board's policies governing social media. Board Policy 3283 contains clear and precise directions to teachers that they are not to "accept 'friend' requests from any student on their personal social networking website or other Internet based social media website." There is no doubt that Ms. Allen's communications with PS and other students on Facebook Messenger violated this common-sense policy. It also exemplifies poor judgment on Ms. Allen' part to actively seek student support.

However, there is no evidence that the District ever provided Ms. Allen with the contents of this policy, beyond referring her to the District's website which contains voluminous policy provisions. Even when Dr. West concluded the February 1, 2019 meeting and handed certain policies to Ms. Allen, Board Policy 3283 was not among them.

It is a fundamental principal of just cause that before discipline may be imposed, the employee should be aware both of the rule and the penalties that may be imposed. J. Grenig & R. Scanza; Fundamentals of Labor Arbitration, § 7.03, citing Grief Bros. Cooperage Corp. 42 LA 555 (1964). There is no evidence that Ms. Allen was ever informed about the contents of Board Policy 3283, and therefore no evidence that Ms. Allen was instructed regarding restrictions on social media contacts. Accordingly, Count 7 must be dismissed.

5. Count 8

Count 8 provides:

> S.A. jeopardized the safety of student S.B. by way of releasing his name to another student with the intent to have him harassed, intimidated, bullied, or worse, as retaliation for her suspension.

Both the District and the Respondent acknowledge this is the most significant charge in this proceeding. There is no dispute that Ms. Allen clearly identified the full name of SB to Student PS. While this identification purportedly occurred on Facebook Messenger which is supposed to be for private communications, Student PS or some other student then identified SB on the more widely disseminated Instagram platform where other students could learn SB's full name. The result of identifying SB is that SB's mother became fearful for SB's safety and requested that SB be SB's transferred from CHS to another school.

The Respondent describes her identification of SB as a "momentary lack of judgment" and, in part, justifies her disclosure of SB's name as necessary so that students could report the fact that SB lied about the events of December 5, 2018 resulting in Ms. Allen's suspension and transfer. I find this testimony to be incredible.

As noted above, I ruled in this proceeding that both sides were going to have to abide by the District's decision to suspend Ms. Allen for two weeks. That meant that both the District and the Respondent were precluded from relitigating the December 5, 2018 incident. For tactical reasons, both parties attempted to evade that ruling. However, both sides are precluded from asserting that the events of December 5, 2019 did not occur as set forth in the Charge. It strains credibility for Ms. Allen to now assert that she disclosed SB's name because SB admitted to another student that he was lying about the December 5, 2018 incident in which Ms. Allen was found to have uttered profanity and threats to SB. Ms. Allen was intimately involved in the December 5, 2018 incident and its contours were confirmed by both student and teacher witnesses.

If Ms. Allen wanted to make an argument that SB lied, she should have grieved her two-week suspension in February of 2019, and not provide a post-hoc rationalization for disclosing SB's name in this proceeding. The most that Ms. Allen can glean from the record is KB's testimony that SB told her that: "he felt bad that [Ms. Allen] was transferred. He didn't mean for it to be blown out of proportion, and it was a misunderstanding." (Tr. 219-220). There is no evidence that SB admitted that he lied to get Ms. Allen in trouble or that he had any motivation to do so.

The Respondent also argues that there is no evidence that Ms. Allen intended to harass, intimidate or bully SB, and that there was no evidence that SB suffered any consequences as a result of his name being disclosed. However, KB testified that prior to the posting both she and at least one other student that she knew about approached SB. It is also clear that, as soon as SB's mother learned that SB's name appeared on social media that she contacted Dr. West and arranged for SB's transfer from CHS. I conclude that by disclosing SB's name, Ms. Allen intended to put undue pressure on SB, a ninth-grade student and to have SB intimidated.

In addition, Ms. Allen clearly violated Dr. West's injunction not to discuss this case with parents or students and was thus insubordinate. I am sympathetic to Ms. Allen's efforts to rally students and parents on her behalf, and I dismissed Counts 5 and 6 because the allegations in those Counts amounted to undue interference with Ms. Allen's speech and due process rights. Nevertheless, involving students in her defense showed poor judgment. Once Ms. Allen disclosed SB's name in defiance of Dr. West's order, Ms. Allen crossed a line and is guilty of the allegation of insubordination and conduct unbecoming.

Accordingly, I sustain Count 8.

6. The Penalty

Having concluded that the District has met its burden in proving the allegations contained in Count 8, I next must determine the appropriate penalty. In this case, the District seeks the ultimate penalty of dismissal. Even where disciplinary charges are sustained, Arbitrators are empowered to impose a range of penalties. See, e.g.; IMO the Tenure Hearing Between the South Hackensack Board of Education and Christopher Masullo, Dkt. No. 1-17 (April 8, 2017). The record must be analyzed to determine if there are enough mitigating factors to reduce the ultimate penalty of dismissal. Id.

In weighing the overall record, I am forced to conclude that Ms. Allen should be terminated. I recognize that Ms. Allen is an effective teacher who, in the course of her career, has provided great service to the District, her students and her community, and who has inspired a lot of passion and loyalty. Nevertheless, there are aspects of her record that are extraordinarily troubling.

She has a record of previous discipline for using "inappropriate language, interfering in the instruction of students, and disrupting. . . the learning process." (Board Ex. 18). This discipline administered in 2015 resulted in the loss of a salary increment and placement on probation. As a result of the December 5, 2018 incident, Ms. Allen was suspended for two weeks for using truly horrific language in speaking to SB. Dr. West consciously applied the principles of progressive discipline in Ms. Allen's case.

Unlike the Respondent in Masullo, supra, I do not find that Ms. Allen has expressed any remorse for her actions. As noted above, Ms. Allen testified that she was justified in disclosing SB's name so that students could report SB to school authorities for lying. Ms. Allen apparently was not concerned for SB's safety, nor did she feel obligated to follow Dr. West's direction not to identify SB. Nor at any time did Ms. Allen acknowledge her own responsibility for her actions.

In addition, although I have dismissed Charges 1-4 concerning emails sent by Ms. Allen to Dr. West and Dr. Estrict, the contents of those emails were clearly intemperate and do not support a reduction in the penalty of dismissal.

I am also mindful of the fact that if Ms. Allen is to be terminated, there is a very strong likelihood that her license to teach within the state of New Jersey will be endangered. Nevertheless, in light of all the circumstances of this case and Ms. Allen's overall disciplinary record, it is my view that she can no longer be an effective teacher in the East Orange School District.

Based on the above, I render the following:

AWARD

The undersigned Arbitrator having been designated pursuant to N.J.S.A., 18A:6-16, as amended by P.L. 2012, c. 26 and P.L. 2015, c. 109 ("TEACHNJ") hereby issues and AWARDS as follows:

For the reasons set forth in this Decision and Award, the Arbitrator finds

1. The EAST ORANGE BOARD OF EDUCATION, ESSEX COUNTY, NEW JERSEY has not proven by a preponderance of the evidence the allegations contained in Counts 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 of the Charges preferred against the Respondent Sharonda Allen;

2. The EAST ORANGE BOARD OF EDUCATION, ESSEX COUNTY, NEW JERSEY has proven by a preponderance of the evidence the allegations contained in Count 8 of the Charges preferred against Respondent Sharonda Allen and has proven that the Respondent has engaged in conduct unbecoming of a teacher, and was insubordinate;

3. The penalty of dismissal is upheld.

SUMMARY OF PROCEDURAL HISTORY BEFORE EVIDENTIARY HEARINGS

On February 16, 2017, the Englewood Board of Education ("Board", "Petitioner", or "District") approved a Resolution placing ten (10) employees, including Respondents herein on administrative leave until the completion of an internal investigation regarding, inter alia transcript irregularities in the School Student Information System. Prior to July 1, 2016, the Board utilized the Power School Student Information System. As of July 1, 2016, the Board migrated data to a new system, Genesis Student Information System.[1] (B-11)

After the investigation, on September 20, 2017, the Board filed a consolidated set of Tenure Charges against eight (8) employees, including Respondents. The Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") dismissed the charges, Agency Docket Number 216-

[1] Ten (10) Board Exhibits were admitted into Evidence. They are not numbered in sequence. Testimony is identified by the Hearing date, followed by page/line.

9/17, declaring them "procedurally defective", sealing all records on November 9, 2017 because identifying student information was included in support of the charges. The dismissal was without prejudice to refile.

On January 29, 2018, Petitioner filed separate charges against each individual named in Exhibit B-11 who remained in its employ, including Guidance Counselors, Nicole Cartwright ("Cartwright"), Venus Rose ("Rose") and Louis Sanchez ("Sanchez"), along with Vice Principal Joseph Armental ("Armental")

The charges against certificated Guidance Counselor Sanchez consist of one hundred and forty-two (142) separate paragraphs (47 pages). (Agency Docket No. 26-1/18) The charges against certificated Guidance Counselor Rose consist of one hundred and sixteen (116) separate paragraphs (38 pages). (Agency Docket No. 27-1/18) The charges against certificated Guidance Counselor Cartwright consist of one hundred and fifty-one (151) separate paragraphs (52 pages) (Agency Docket No. 28-1/18) Tenure charges against Armental, a certificated staff member holding the title of Assistant Principal at Dwight Morrow High School ("DMHS") consist of one hundred and forty (140) separate paragraphs (49 pages). (Agency Docket No. 25-1/18)

On January 29, 2018, the District also filed separate charges against Noel Gordon, Director of Guidance, Testing and Evaluation. Those charges, Agency Docket Number 24-1/18 were dismissed on August 13, 2018, by Arbitrator Joseph Licata for failing to comply with specific requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b)(1) and failing to adhere to the Commissioner's prior directives. Again, the dismissal was without prejudice to refile.

On January 25, 2019, the Board refiled Tenure Charges against Dr.

The Tenure Charges against all four (4) Respondents assert unbecoming conduct, incompetence, and other just cause for a series of alleged actions violating the Professional Conduct of a Public School Administrator and detrimentally affecting public respect for the District. Each Respondent filed a Motion to Dismiss all charges before Arbitrator Joseph Licata, Esq.[3]

On August 1, 2018, Arbitrator Licata denied each Motion to Dismiss, with the following clarification,

> "This matter shall proceed to a hearing on the charges of incompetency, unbecoming conduct and/or other just cause to determine whether (1) the Board has demonstrated that Respondent engaged in willful, knowing and/or fraudulent activities which had a deleterious impact on students and/or the school district as a whole; and (2) if so, whether the penalty of removal from employment is appropriate under the factors traditionally relied upon, i.e., the gravity of the offense, prior record of employment, including discipline, if any and a consideration of any other relevant aggravating or mitigating factor."

COLLATERAL MATTERS

A. Conscientious Employment Protection Act, N.J.C.A. 34:19-1 et seq. ("CEPA")

In September 2018 Guidance Counselors Rose, Sanchez and Cartwright filed separate civil actions, later consolidated, in Bergen County Superior Court alleging, inter alia, actions by Superintendent Robert L. Kravitz ("Superintendent" or "Kravitz") and the Board violated the Conscientious Employment Protection Act

Gordon, Agency Docket No. 25-1/19. On July 15,2019, the Undersigned granted Dr. Gordon's Motion to Dismiss.

[3] In March 2018, the Board changed its legal representation.

("CEPA") as articulated in N.J.S.A. 34:19-1 et seq.

In August 2018, Respondent Joseph Armental, along with other administrators effected by the Board's February 16, 2017 Resolution, B-11, also filed civil actions in Bergen County against the Board and Kravitz asserting, inter alia, a violation of CEPA.

The record in the instant consolidated matter is silent as to the status of these civil actions. Their existence, however, hindered attempts by the undersigned and Arbitrator Licata to resolve the Tenure Charges.

B. Reduction in Force Effecting Joseph Armental.

During the course of the tenure proceedings, by Resolution, on May 3, 2018, the Board abolished Joseph Armental's position of vice principal, effective July 1, 2018, "for reasons of economy or because a reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or other good cause...," N.J.S.A.18A: 28-9. Reduction of force; power to reduce and reasons for reduction.

Thereafter, Armental filed a timely Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education questioning the reduction in force. Armental maintains tenure and seniority rights as a certificated Teacher of Math.[3]

EVIDENTIARY HEARINGS

On May 7, 2019, the Hearing on the charges filed by the Englewood Board of Education against Respondents Armental, Sanchez, Rose and Cartwright commenced.[5] Between May 7, 2019 and June 12, 2019, twelve (12) hearing days were completed, the first eleven (11) of which were primarily focused on the direct (1½ days) and cross examination of the Superintendent.

In recommending the charges, Kravitz revealed his reliance upon an audit of student records of the Dwight Morrow High School graduating classes of 2015-2017 conducted by Pitbull Secure Technologies ("PST"), said audit approved by Board Resolution on December 15, 2016. (B-6) And, on February 16, 2017, within the same Resolution placing Respondents on administrative leave, Jamie Ciofalo, author of the PST report, was appointed Acting Director of Guidance. (B-11)

On day twelve (12) of the Hearing, June 12, 2019, the District offered Business Administrator/Board Secretary, Cheryl Balletto. On July 9, 2019, prior to the next scheduled day of hearing, the District held a special meeting to evaluate the tenure charges, supporting evidence, and Board Counsel's considered synopsis of the testimony provided thus far.

5. Upon his request, the consolidated charges were removed from Arbitrator Licata. These matters were then transferred by the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes to the undersigned Arbitrator for hearing and decision.

Thereafter, on August 15, 2019, Petitioner adopted a Resolution withdrawing all pending tenure charges against Respondents, restoring their employment with a make whole remedy.

Upon notification of the Board's intention to withdraw all charges, the parties conferred. Five conference calls with the undersigned were also conducted to ensure any executed withdrawal complied with standards articulated by the State Board of Education In re Cardonick, State Board decision of April 6, 1983 (1990 School Law Decisions (SLD) 842, 846. These standards have been codified in the New Jersey Administrative Code,Controversies and Disputes, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 Withdrawal, settlement, or mooting of tenure charges. Subsection (a)(3) expresses, "Consent of both the charged and charging parties," is required for this arbitrator to approve any withdrawal.

During the conference call of September 27, 2019, Respondents' counsel disclosed their clients would not "consent" to any withdrawal unless a certification executed by Kravitz contained language objected to by Petitioner. Consequently, on October 2, 2019, after conferring with the Office of the Commissioner, the undersigned informed the necessity of continuing the hearing.

The Hearing resumed on November 6, 2019 with the cross examination of Business Administrator/Board Secretary, Cheryl Balletto ("Balleto"). In reply to a query by Counsel to Guidance

Counselors Sanchez, Rose and Cartwright, she disclosed the present "cost" to the Board of the litigation was, "roughly up to $3 million." (November 6, 2019 5/21)

Upon conclusion of Balletto's testimony, determining not to introduce any additional witnesses, the Board rested. After impassioned argument, ten (10) Board exhibits were admitted.

Oral Motions to Dismiss

Prior to offering Respondents witnesses, their counsel requested the opportunity to present, orally, Motions to Dismiss. The statute, Teacher Effectiveness and Accountability for the Children of New Jersey ("TEACHNJ") Act, P.L. 2012, c.26, N.J.S.A., delineates procedures regarding tenure hearings conducted by an arbitrator. N.J.S.A.18A:6-17.1(c) mandates," the arbitrator shall determine the case under the American Arbitration Association labor arbitration rules." Rule 25, Order of Proceedings of these rules provides, in pertinent part, "The arbitrator, exercising his or her discretion, shall conduct the proceedings with a view to expediting the resolution of the dispute...."

In consideration of this Rule, the undersigned granted Respondents' Counsels request to proffer Motions to Dismiss all tenure charges filed against their respective clients. The arguments presented were thoughtful, impassioned and comprehensive. Relating the tenure charges to the hearing record, both counsel asserted the Board failed in any way, to establish, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, the bona fides of each charge. Counsel for the Guidance Counselors concluded, "This cries for dismissal, and I respectfully request that you do just that." (November 6, 2019, 88/12 to 14)

Respondents' Counsel were given leave to provide a written supplement to their oral argument; Board's counsel was granted leave to receive all position papers and the certified transcript prior to submitting Petitioner's reply. On November 22, 2019, by letter, Board's counsel set forth its response to the Motions to Dismiss. Therein, he conveyed,

> "The Board rested its case on November 6, 2019 after 13 days of hearing. The Board relies upon the proofs that were adduced during the hearing and already provided to yourself and the Respondents. The Respondents offered numerous reasons for the filing of the Motions to Dismiss in this matter; while the Board does not agree with those reasons as offered, it does not oppose the Motions and agrees that the tenure charges should be dismissed."

ANALYSIS

Prior to the enactment of TEACHNJ, tenure revocation proceedings were often lengthy and costly for all concerned. In the early 1990s, this arbitrator had the privilege of serving as an Administrative Law Judge/Temporarily Assigned and witnessed the effect of the lengthy process on a District, staff members, and their representatives.

The legislative intent of TEACHNJ for a cost efficient proceeding with due process protections was not met herein. The Board's February 16, 2017 Resolution, B-11, placing ten (10) employees on administrative leave, assigning new administrators, contracting for six (6) Acting High School Counselors, and authorizing a post PST review by its author, initiated a tsunami of collateral harm to its employees placed on paid administrative leave, to the District's reputation, and to many of its high school students. The tenure charges and Board Resolutions were published by the media, ushering unwanted and, based upon the record evidence, unfounded negative notoriety upon Respondents.

After twelve (12) hearing days, the District was well served by its counsel who informed this record does not support a finding the District meet its burden to establish any of the tenure charges referred to the Commissioner.[6]

Accordingly, the Motions to Dismiss all tenure charges filed by the Englewood Board of Education against Respondents Joseph Armental, Louis Sanchez, Venus Rose and Nicole Cartwright, are, hereby, granted.

AWARD

1. The Englewood Board of Education has not met is burden of proving the Tenure Charges against Joseph Armental as identified in Agency Docket No. 25-1/18.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

For the Respondent:

Craig Long, Esq.

For the Petitioner:
Ronald Hunt, Esq.
Hunt, Hamlin & Ridley

On August 29, the Irvington Board of Education [the "Petitioner"] filed tenure charges of inefficiency with the State of New Jersey Department of Education against Helen Tavakolzadeh [the "Respondent"], a teacher employed by the Petitioner. On September 6, 2019, Respondent answered the charges and filed a Motion to Dismiss and/or for Summary Judgement. On October 8, 2019, Petitioner filed a response to that Motion. On October 28, 2019, the charges were referred to me by the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, Department of Education, for a hearing and decision.

On November 11, 2019, I held a pre-hearing conference at which representatives of the Irvington Board of Education and Ms. Tavakolzadeh met with the arbitrator. At that time, the parties entered into settlement discussions and thereafter reached a Settlement Agreement resolving the charges brought against Ms. Tavakolzadeh. The terms of settlement were approved by both Respondent and Petitioner by December 19, 2019.

The terms of settlement provide that Petitioner agrees to withdraw and rescind the tenure charges, against Respondent and Respondent shall resign effective March 1, 2020. Respondent shall be paid her salary from September 1, 2019 through February 28, 2020 and will forfeit any sick or personal leave days. Respondent will be responsible for 100 percent of the cost of her health insurance premium for January 1 through February 28, 2020 and agrees to resign immediately in the event she becomes employed and eligible for full medical benefits prior to February 28, 2020. In that event, the Board's obligation to pay her salary and provide health benefits shall end.

Under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6, the arbitrator is required to issue a brief decision approving the settlement of tenure charges and explaining why the arbitrator is approving the terms of settlement. I have approved these terms for the following reasons.

I am persuaded that the issues that were raised in the Statement of Tenure Charges and Specifications filed by the Petitioner and the Answer to Tenure Charges filed by the Respondent have been fully reviewed and discussed by all parties and that the issues raised therein have been satisfactorily addressed by the terms of settlement. The terms of settlement reflect an appropriate resolution of the charges leveled against the Respondent. The terms of settlement reflect an appropriate resolution of the charges leveled against the Respondent. The settlement will allow both parties to move forward without using valuable educational time as well as the avoidance of protracted and costly proceedings at the public's expense. The Respondent's determination to tender her resignation in exchange for a monetary settlement will allow the Board to continue to provide a thorough and efficient education to the Board's students. I believe that the settlement terms properly balance all of the parties' interests and provide a satisfactory basis for the resolution of any concerns that were raised by the Statement of, and the Answer to, the Tenure Charges that were set forth in the record of this proceeding.

Accordingly, and based upon all of the above, this will serve as the arbitrator's approval of the parties' settlement agreement.

WALT De TREUX

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT is made and entered into this 11th day of December, 2019, by and between the CLIFFSIDE PARK BOARD OF EDUCATION, with offices located at 525 Palisade Avenue, Cliffside Park, New Jersey, 07010 ("Board") and LAURA AMICO ("Amico").

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, the Board currently employs Amico as a teacher and has done so since September 2, 2003; and

WHEREAS, certain employment issues have arisen between the Board and Amico, resulting in tenure charges against Amico filed with the New Jersey Commissioner of Education by the Board on September 27, 2019; and

WHEREAS, the parties have determined it is in their mutual interests to conclude the employment relationship; and

WHEREAS, Amico has requested a leave of absence with pay for the period beginning September 26, 2019 and ending at the close of business on April 30, 2020; and

WHEREAS, Amico has indicated a willingness to resign from all employment with the Board effective at the close of business on April 30, 2020, upon satisfaction of certain terms and conditions to be stipulated in this Settlement Agreement ("Agreement"); and

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the aforementioned mutual premises and promise, and in exchange for the consideration more particularly set forth below, it is hereby agreed:

1. No Admission. This Agreement is the compromise of disputed claims and shall never be treated as an admission of liability or wrongdoing by either party for any purpose. All parties shall bear their own attorneys' fees and costs for the entirety of any matter or matters related to the subject matter of this Agreement, except that nothing in this Agreement or the documents referenced herein shall preclude either party from seeking attorneys' fees and costs in an action to enforce performance of any term of this Agreement should there be a default in performance.

2. Resignation. In return for full compliance with this Agreement and subject to formal Board approval and ratification of the Agreement, Amico agrees to sign an irrevocable letter of resignation from all employment with the Board, to be effective at the close of business on April 30, 2020, which shall be in the form attached hereto as Exhibit 1. The Board shall, by Resolution, accept Amico's resignation at its next regularly scheduled meeting on December 11, 2019. Said resignation is effective only upon the full terms and conditions of the Agreement being accepted by Resolution of the Board, and is only then binding upon the parties and irrevocable and is not subject to modification or rescission. Amico agrees that, upon the execution of this Agreement and as a result of her resignation, she shall forfeit all tenure and seniority rights she has to any position with the Board, up until the date of this Agreement.

3. Settlement Terms. In consideration for Amico's resignation as set forth in paragraph 2 of this Agreement and the waiver and release as set forth in paragraph 6 of this Agreement, the Board, by and through this Agreement, shall pay Amico for the period from September 26, 2019 through the close of business on April 30, 2020 her annual prorated salary in the amount of Eighty Thousand, One Hundred Fifty-One Dollars and Fifty Cents ($80,151.50). The total payments shall be less the mandatory taxes, pension, health benefit payment, and/or any other deductions required by her employment with the Board.

It is expressly understood that any personal leave, sick leave, pay for accumulated sick and personal leave and any other financial remuneration to which Amico is otherwise entitled under the Collective Negotiations Agreement shall be subsumed during her leave of absence, and she shall not be entitled to the cash equivalent. No further leaves shall accrue during her leave of absence. Amico shall not be entitled to any other financial remuneration except as specifically set forth in this paragraph.

The Board further agrees that in consideration for Amico's irrevocable resignation as set forth in paragraph 2 of this Agreement and the waiver and release as set forth in paragraph 6 of this Agreement, the Board shall act promptly to withdraw the tenure charges. Amico acknowledges that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6, the tenure charges may be withdrawn or settled only with approval of the arbitrator or the Commissioner of Education in accordance with the applicable legal standards.

In consideration for the Board granting Amico a paid personal leave of absence from September 26, 2019 through the close of business on April 30, 2020, in the amount of Eighty Thousand One Hundred Fifty-One Dollars and Fifty Cents ($80,151.50) less the mandatory taxes, pension, health benefit payment, and/or any other deductions required by her employment with the Board, Amico agrees to withdraw with prejudice the Unfair Practice Charge that was filed against the Board by the Cliffside Park Education Association on her behalf with Public Employment Relations Commission on August 13, 2018, bearing Docket No. CO-2019-050 pursuant to Paragraph 3, "Settlement Terms," and Paragraph 7, "Mutual Releases" of this Agreement.

The Board shall pay Amico her back pay in full and begin paying her salary as specified in this Agreement in the next payroll period following approval of this Agreement by the arbitrator or the Commissioner of Education. The Board shall make all deferred summer salary payments to Amico.

4. Leave of Absence. Amico shall submit a request for a personal leave of absence from September 26, 2019 through the close of business on April 30, 2020, which is attached hereto as Exhibit 2. Amico shall not have any professional responsibilities as a staff member during her paid leave of absence.

5. Mutual Limited Contact Clause. The parties mutually agree that both parties will have limited contact with each other. Effective immediately Amico agrees that her presence on any of the Board's campuses shall be in accordance with the District's Visitors Policy, except to attend school events which are open to the public or to use District facilities, such as sports fields or running tracks that are accessible for public use.

6. Mutual Releases. Amico hereby releases and waives any and all claims, presently known to her or that could be known to her, which she has or could have against the Board, its individual members, officers, employees, administrators, agents, servants, and representatives, including but not limited to claims for discrimination, contract, tort, constitutional violation, and/or attorneys' fees. Amico shall execute a General Release in favor of the Board, its individual members, officers, employees, administrators, agents, servants, and representatives, releasing them from any and all claims, liabilities, or expenses to which they may be subject arising from any claims or rights of Amico which are presently known or could be known to her. This General Release shall encompass but not be limited to the Unfair Practice Charge filed against the Board by the Cliffside Park Education Association on behalf of Amico with the Public Employment Relations Commission on August 13, 2018, bearing Docket No. CO-2019-050 which Amico shall withdraw with prejudice. The form of the General Release Amico shall execute is attached hereto as Exhibit 3. Nothing in this Agreement or the documents referenced herein shall preclude either party from bringing an action to enforce performance of any term of this Agreement should there be a default in performance.

The Board and its individual members, officers, employees, administrators, agents, servants and representatives, hereby release and waive any and all claims and rights which the Board may have against Amico for claims resulting from anything which are known or could be known to the Board at the present time. The form of the Release that the Board shall execute is attached hereto as Exhibit 4.

7. Medical Insurance. Amico shall continue to be eligible to receive health benefits or any applicable health care waiver available to any other employee on an annual basis pursuant to the parties' applicable collective negotiations agreement subject to the appropriate payments toward the annual premiums required as an employee of the Board through the close of business on April 30, 2020.

Nothing contained within this Agreement shall alter Amico's rights to continuation of health insurance through Federal law—i.e., the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986 ("COBRA")—upon separation from employment with the Board as of the date which coincides with the date that Amico no longer receives health insurance as provided by the Board.

8. No Interference. Each party shall be free from interference, direct or indirect, by the other and neither shall disparage the other party, nor shall they discuss with, disclose to, or communicate with anyone the terms of this Agreement, except their attorneys or accountants who shall hold such communication as confidential, or as may be required by law. The Board shall be required to adopt a public resolution approving this Agreement and each of the documents which are incorporated by reference in said Agreement.

9. Reliance. This Agreement constitutes the entire understanding of the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof, and there are no representations, warranties, covenants, or undertakings other than those expressly set forth herein. Each party acknowledges that they are not relying upon any oral statements, representations, promises, or expectations which are not expressly and explicitly set forth in this Agreement, which alone fully and completely expresses all agreements between the parties.

10. Full Understanding. The parties acknowledge that they are entering into this Agreement of their own accord and without any undue influence, coercion, or pressure of any kind; that all the provisions of this Agreement, as well as all questions pertinent thereto, have been fully and satisfactorily explained to them; that they have given due consideration to such provisions and questions and understand them clearly; that the provisions embodied in this Agreement are in all respects acceptable to them and that they, therefore, accept these provisions in full and final satisfaction of all claims and demands which have been raised or which could have been raised in any litigation.

11. Opportunity to Consult with Counsel. Both parties acknowledge that they have consulted with an attorney of their own choosing prior to signing this Agreement and that they sign this Agreement as their own voluntary act and deed and fully understand the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

12. Severability. If, during the term of this Agreement, a specific clause of the Agreement is determined to be illegal or in violation of any Federal or State law, the remainder of the Agreement shall not be affected by such a ruling and shall remain in full force and effect.

13. Materiality, Modifications, and/or Waivers. All terms of this Agreement are deemed to be material. A modification or waiver of any of the provisions of this Agreement shall be effective and enforceable only if made in writing and executed with the same formality as this Agreement. The failure of any party to insist upon the strict performance of any of the provisions of this Agreement shall not be construed as a waiver of any subsequent default of the same or similar nature or of a continuation of an existing default.

14. Governing Law. This Agreement shall be subject to the laws of the State of New Jersey, without regard to its choice-of-law principles.

15. Ratification. This Agreement is subject to ratification by the Board and is without prejudice to any party if the terms are not agreed upon. It shall become effective only upon the ratification by and approval of the Board.

16. Section Headings. Section headings are for reference purposes only and shall not in any way affect the meaning or interpretation of any provision of this Agreement.

17. Counterparts. This Agreement may be signed in counterparts which, taken together, shall constitute but a single document when executed by all parties. This Agreement shall not be effective until such time as it has been duly authorized and executed by all parties.

18. Knowing and Voluntary Acknowledgement. Amico specifically agrees and acknowledges that: (A) Amico has read this Agreement in its entirety and understands all of its terms; (B) Amico has been advised of and has availed herself of her right to consult with her attorneys prior to executing this Agreement; (C) Amico knowingly, freely, and voluntarily assents to all of its terms and conditions including, without limitation, the release contained at Exhibit 3; (D) Amico is executing this Agreement, including the release, in exchange for good and valuable consideration in addition to anything of value to which she is otherwise entitled; and that (E) Amico is not waiving or releasing any rights or claims that may arise after her execution of this Agreement.

19. Notice of Time to Consider Agreement. Amico is advised that, prior to waiving claims she may have under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, she may take up to 21 calendar days to consider this Agreement before signing. In the event this Agreement is signed prior to the expiration of 21 days, Amico acknowledges that she has voluntarily and knowingly agreed to waive any entitlement to take 21 days to consider this Agreement for the purpose of expediting the settlement and that she has had a reasonable period of time within which to consider the Agreement.

20. Notice of Time for Revocation; Effective Date. Amico understands that she may revoke this Agreement at any time during the seven (7) calendar days following the day she executes this Agreement. Revocation may be made by delivering a written notice of revocation by mail or hand delivery to: Cliffside Park Board of Education, Attn: Mr. Teddy Tarabokija, Board President, 525

Palisade Avenue, Cliffside Park, New Jersey 07010. This Agreement shall become effective on the day after the 7-day Revocation Period has expired ("Effective Date"), unless timely notice of Amico's revocation has been delivered to the Board.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties set their hands and seals to this Agreement effective on the day and year first written above.
