With respect to the issue of whether a disabled retiree has a right to return to his or her former position upon a determination by TPAF that he or she is able to return to work, the Commissioner finds the Board's and the ALJ's reliance on Laing, supra, is misplaced. As set forth by the Commissioner in Christine Bublin v. Board of Education of the Borough of Point Pleasant, Ocean County, decided by the Commissioner January 26, 1994 (Bublin I):

> Initially, the Commissioner notes that Laing does indeed stand for the general proposition that retirement constitutes a resignation from the district of employment, and that action by TPAF to rescind such retirement does not necessarily obligate a district to reinstate a retired employee. Following this reasoning when turning to the specific question of a disabled employee's entitlement to reemployment under N.J.S.A. 18A:66-40, the Commissioner in Kopel interpreted that statute to make reinstatement by the former employer following a determination of fitness by the TPAF medical board optional rather than mandatory. However, in the wake of subsequent Court decisions (DiMuzio, supra, and Allen, supra), this interpretation can no longer be held valid. To the contrary, in interpreting language substantially identical to that of N.J.S.A. 18A:66-40,[4] the Court explicitly stated that

> Although the statute does not expressly compel the appointing authority to restore the employee to his former position, the [Police and Fireman's Retirement System] Board's construction of N.J.S.A. 43:61A-8(2) is fully consonant with the legislative purpose. It is apparent that the grant of disability retirement is conditioned on the continuation of the incapacity. If the retired employee regains the ability to perform his or her duties, the Legislature mandated that he or she be returned to the former position. The Legislature clearly recognized that individuals returning from a disability retirement are in a unique situation, plainly different from all other employees returning to active service. Their separation from employment is unlike the voluntary separation of other civil servants whose seniority is not aggregated. In our view, N.J.S.A. 43:16A-8(2) contemplates that a restoration to employment return the formerly disabled individual as nearly as possible to the status held at the time he or she was pensioned.  (Allen, supra, at 444)

Thus, the Commissioner can reach no other conclusion but that upon TPAF's determining that a disabled retiree is able to return to work, that retiree has a right to return to his or her former position. That right, however, is not unfettered as noted by the Court in DiMuzio:

> We recognize that N.J.S.A. 43:16A-8 does not require that an additional slot be created if there are no existing vacancies at the former duty level, nor does it require that incumbents be "bumped" to make room. The PFRS order does not so require, nor do we. If a vacancy at the former level, i.e., the [4] It is noted that the language at issue, "[i]f the report of the medical board shall show that such beneficiary is able to perform either his former duty or other comparable duty which his former employer is willing to assigned to him, the beneficiary shall report for duty; such a beneficiary shall not suffer any loss of benefits while he awaits his restoration to active service," appears in both N.J.S.A. 18A:66-40 and N.J.S.A. 43:16A-8(2). In Fairweather v. Employees' Ret. Sys., 373 N.J. Super 288, 291, Footnote 2, (App. Div. 2004) the court noted the precedential value for construing similar statutes:

> A similar requirement that the disability result from a traumatic event appears in connection with the statutes providing for accidental disability pension benefits under New Jersey's Police and Fireman's Retirement System, N.J.S.A. 43:16A-7, and the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund, N.J.S.A. 18A:66-39. Accordingly precedent construing each of the three statutes is relevant here.

> lieutenant, then existed the order (and the statute) requires that DiMuzio be there placed. If not, he should be returned to "any other available duty" to which the Department "is willing to assign him."  (DiMuzio, supra, slip opinion at p. 9)

Bublin I, slip op. at 23-25

Turning to the ALJ's deference to the December 16, 1998 letter from the Secretary, Board of Trustees, TPAF, pursuant to Texter, supra, at 385, the Commissioner observes that this letter does not appear to be a legal determination in that it does not contain an analysis of the statute in light of the interpretative court decisions, but simply restates the language of the statute. The letter states, in pertinent part:

> The governing statute, N.J.S A. 18A:66-40, states that if a member becomes employed again in a position covered by the retirement system his or her retirement will be canceled until they retire again, The statute does not address reemployment nor does it require an employer to reemploy the member. However, it does guarantee the continued payment of benefits until the member is reemployed in a position covered by the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund.

Assuming, arguendo, that the above letter is a legal determination of the TPAF, however, the practice of traditional deference to an agency's interpretation is not binding when it conflicts with judicial interpretation. As the appellate division has explained:

> In the interest of justice we abandon our traditional deference to agency decisions when an agency's decision is manifestly mistaken. (citations omitted) Moreover, although we respect the agency's expertise, ultimately, interpretation of statutes is a judicial, not an administrative function and we are in no way bound by the agency's interpretation. (citations omitted) Fairweather, supra, at 295.

In the instant matter, therefore, the Commissioner concludes that, in accord with the court's determinations in DiMuzio, supra, and Allen, supra, and the Commissioner's determinations in Bublin, petitioner is entitled to be reinstated to her former position of elementary teacher. Accordingly, the Board erred when it did not appoint petitioner to its opening for the position of elementary teacher, for which petitioner was interviewed on March 1, 1999.

With respect to petitioner's claim that the Board's actions are a violation of the New Jersey Education Association contract and an unfair labor practice, the Commissioner notes that he does not have jurisdiction over these issues as they are under the purview of the Public Employee Relations Commission. Petitioner also complains that the damages sought in the Superior Court Complaint -- which not only asked for her return to active service, but also for "comparative" and punitive damages, interest, attorney's fees and costs of suit -- were overlooked by the ALJ. With respect to petitioner's claim for "comparative" and punitive damages, it is well-established that the Commissioner lacks authority to award money damages or monetary sanctions that constitute compensation for "damages" other than lost earnings or restoring an increment which has been improperly withheld. See Dunn v. Elizabeth Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 279, 281 (Citing McLean v. Bd. of Ed. of Glen Ridge, 177 S.L.D. 311, 3154; Mith v. Bd. of Ed. of Hamilton, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5468-87 adopted in part and rejected in part on other grounds, decided by the Commissioner April 21, 1998) See also Scott and Yarnall, et al., v. Bd of Educ. of the City of Trenton, et al., decided by the Commissioner September 30, 2002, and Winter v. Bd of Educ. of the Twp. Of North Bergen, 1975 S.L.D. 236. In the absence of express statutory authority to award damages or monetary "sanctions" to compensate for damages, therefore, I may not direct that petitioner be compensated for any alleged damages in this matter beyond her lost earnings.

Turning to petitioner's claim for "interest," the Commissioner does not find that the Board deliberately violated the statute, acted in bad faith or acted from other improper motive. Accordingly, the Commissioner concludes that petitioner is not entitled to prejudgment interest in this matter. The Commissioner also observes that a claim for post-judgment interest is not properly before him at this time, since the requisite time period has not passed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(c)2. Accordingly, petitioner's claim for the award of "interest" is denied.

Finally, in the absence of express statutory authority to award counsel fees, the Commissioner may not direct that the Board compensate the petitioner for legal fees in this matter. See B.B., on behalf of her son, L.C. v. Board of Education of the Union County Regional High School District No. 1 and Donald Merachnik, Superintendent of Schools, Union County, 1987 S.L.D. 323, 336*; Balsley v. North Hunterdon Bd. Of Educ.,* 117 N.J. 434 (1990*); and State, Dept. of Environ. Protect. v. Ventron Corp.,* 94 N.J. 473 (1983).

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, summary decision is granted to petitioner. The Board is, therefore, ordered to reinstate petitioner to her former position as an elementary teacher as of March 1, 1999,[5] with all emoluments and back pay to which she is entitled, and to provide her with the support necessary to familiarize her with current methods and educational trends to assure petitioner's seamless re-acclimation to her teaching duties and the provision of quality educational services to her students.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[6]

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2892-03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 153-5/03

CHARLOTTE KLUMB,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE MANALAPAN – ENGLISHTOWN REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY,

Respondent.

Richard C. Swarbrick, Esq., for the petitioner

Cynthia A. Satter, Esq., for the respondent (Law Offices of Stephen E. Gertler, attorney)

Record Closed: November 9, 2004 Decided: December 22, 2004

BEFORE BEATRICE S. TYLUTKI, ALJ:

This matter concerns the claim of the petitioner, Charlotte Klumb, that she is entitled to be rehired as a teacher by the respondent, the Board of Education of the Manalapan – Englishtown Regional High School District (Board), pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:66-40, since the Board of Trustees of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund (TPAF) found that she no longer suffers from a disability. The petitioner requested a hearing, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on May 21, 2003, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –13.

The matter was initially assigned to Administrative Law Judge John Futey. Thereafter, the matter was reassigned to the undersigned on November 25, 2003.

The petitioner filed a motion for summary decision and argued that she should be reinstated by the Board. The Board opposed the motion and filed a cross-motion for summary decision. I had an in-person conference with the parties on December 2, 2003. At that time, both parties agreed that this matter could be decided on the briefs. The Board agreed to file a statement of the procedural history and undisputed facts. I received the document on December 23, 2003. At the conference, I stated that the petitioner could file a response. On behalf of the petitioner, Richard S. Swarbrick, Esq., stated at the conference that it was likely that the petitioner would not file a response.

By letter dated December 22, 2003, I received a letter from Swarbrick's office stating that he had had open heart surgery and asked for an extension for any response due in the matter. On behalf of the Board, Cynthia A. Satter, Esq., agreed to an extension for his response to the Board's statement. Swarbrick was out-of-work for an extensive convalescent period. By letter received by my office on November 9, 2004, Swarbrick expressed his intention not to file a response. The record in the matter closed on November 9, 2004.

APPLICABLE STATUTE

N.J.S.A. 18A:66-40a provides:

> Once each year the retirement system may, and upon his application shall, require any disability beneficiary who is under the age of 60 years to undergo medical examination by a physician or physicians designated by the system for a period of 5 years following his retirement in order to determine whether or not the disability which existed at the time he was retired has vanished or has materially diminished. If the disability beneficiary is engaged > in an occupation, then the amount of his pension shall be reduced to an amount which, when added to the amount then earned by him, shall not exceed the amount of the salary now attributable to his former position.

> If his earnings have changed since the date of his last adjustment; then the amount of his pension may be further altered; but the new pension shall not exceed the amount of pension originally granted.
> If a disability beneficiary, while under the age of 60 years, refuses to submit to at least one medical examination in any year by a physician or physicians designated by the system, his pension shall be discontinued until withdrawal of his refusal. If the report of the medical board shall show that such beneficiary is able to perform either his former duty or other comparable duty which his former employer is willing to assign to him, the beneficiary shall report for duty; such a beneficiary shall not suffer any loss of benefits while he awaits his restoration to active service. If the beneficiary fails to return to duty within 10 days after being ordered so to do, or within such further time as may be allowed by the board of trustees for valid reason, as the case may be, the pension shall be discontinued during such default.

UNDISPUTED FACTS

Based on Satter's statement of the procedural history and the undisputed facts, I FIND that the pertinent facts in this matter are:

1. By letter dated May 29, 1986, Klumb was contacted by her then Principal, Ruth Jacobson, with regard to problems the school was having with her attendance. Klumb had telephoned the morning of May 27, 1986 to advise that she was ill and would be going to a doctor, and had called for a substitute. The following day, she again called for a substitute. On May 29, 1986, Klumb did not attend school and did not call for a substitute teacher. The school had to find a temporary substitute for the morning, and another substitute for Klumb's afternoon sessions. The May 29, 1986 letter reminded Klumb of her responsibility to obtain coverage for her class in the event that she was ill (Exhibit C attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief).

2. By letter dated September 19, 1986, Klumb's Principal noted continuing problems with Klumb's performance as well as problems relating to Klumb having alcohol on her breath while teaching at school. The letter notes that Klumb had to take a "leave of absence" the prior school year and that she was absent 74.5 days in the 1985-1986 school year. The principal states that when she first saw Klumb on September 18, 1986, she appeared distraught and "wobbly" on her feet. When they began to talk, Jacobson smelled alcohol on Klumb's breath. They discussed Klumb's "problem" and agreed that Klumb should go home. Thereafter, Jacobson drove Klumb home and another teacher drove Klumb's car back to her home. The following day, September 19, 1986, Klumb called in sick. In her September 19, 1986 letter, Jacobson suggested that Klumb obtain professional assistance for her "problem" (Exhibit D attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief). Klumb was thereafter absent 173 days in the 1986-1987 school year, including a "health leave" from October 15, 1986 through June 30, 1987.

3. Klumb had continuing problems in the beginning of the 1987-1988 school year. In a memorandum dated September 21, 1987, Joseph Scozzari, then Superintendent of Schools noted that he had been advised by Jacobsen that they were unable to find Klumb. Scozzari went to Klumb's home but she was not there. When he returned to the school, he saw Jacobson with Klumb following behind. Jacobson informed him that she had been talking to Klumb, and that she smelled alcohol on Klumb's breath. He escorted Klumb to Jacobson's office and asked Klumb if she had gone home to get a drink. He was aware that Klumb had already participated in a rehabilitation program at Riverview Medical Center. Scozzari contacted Klumb's counselor, Mrs. Fenny who agreed that Klumb should not go back in the classroom and asked that Klumb contact her to make an appointment for further treatment. At that time, Scozzari drove Klumb home and Mrs. Bernstein drove Klumb's car to her home (Exhibit E attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief).

4. Because of continuing problems with Klumb's performance and her apparent consumption of alcohol on the job or coming to work smelling of alcohol, the Board suspended Klumb effective October 7, 1987. The suspension was to be in effect until the completion of physical and psychiatric examinations by physicians selected by the Board as permitted by N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2 (Exhibit F attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief).

5. By letter dated October 14, 1987, the Board officially voted to continue Klumb's suspension with pay pending the outcome of an examination by Dr. Abraham Isrow of the Paul Kimball Hospital. Klumb was asked to schedule an appointment for that examination within two weeks. Klumb was provided with a copy of this resolution which stated that since 1985, Klumb had shown continued inability to perform her duties as a classroom teacher due to alcohol related problems and that her inability to perform had an adverse impact on the classroom and administrative functions of the school district. (Exhibit G attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief).

6. By letter dated October 30, 1987, the Board recognized that Klumb had not made the necessary arrangement with Kimball Hospital, as of that date. The Board had left messages with Klumb, her counselor and her New Jersey Uniserve representative, and it had not received any response. The Board requested Klumb's cooperation (Exhibit H attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief).

7. By letter dated February 4, 1988, The Board proved Klumb with a copy of written tenure charges against her (Exhibit I attached to Satter's November 25, brief). These charges included "incapacity, excessive absenteeism, and insubordination (Exhibit J attached to Satter's November 25, brief).

8. The tenure charges against Klumb included the incident memorialized in the May 29, 1986 letter, the incident memorialized in the September 19, 1986 letter, the incident memorialized the September 19, 1986 letter, and the events memorialized in the September 21, 1987 memorandum. The charges included notations of "chronic absenteeism." Specifically, that in the school year 1985-86, Klumb was absent 74.5 days, including a health leave from December 9, 1985 through February 9, 1986. For school year 1986-87, Klumb was absent 173 days including a health leave from October 15, 1986 to June 30, 1987. The charges also included notations of poor teacher observation reports and poor annual performance reports which indicated poor teaching performance and incapacity to perform her duties. The insubordination charge was based on Klumb's failure to comply with the Board's resolution in a timely fashion.

9. Klumb saw Robert Berkowitz, M.D., a psychiatrist, on January 12, 1988. At that time, the doctor noted that she had been essentially out of work for two years (due to extended periods of "medical leave"), that her mental status was distracted and tangential, and that due to her long drinking history she showed very mild signs of organic brain syndrome. He noted that the organic brain syndrome could cause extremely poor functioning and that under these circumstances, he did not feel that Klumb could return to work as a teacher (Exhibit K attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief).

10. By letter dated February 18, 1988, Sanford D. Brown, Esq., on behalf of the Board wrote Thomas W. Cavanaugh, Jr. (then counsel for Klumb) stating that he had forwarded the report of Dr. Berkowitz to the Board, and that Klumb's status would be addressed at the Board's meeting on February 23, 1988. Brown confirmed that Cavanaugh had requested that the Board consider possible alternatives to the tenures charges and Brown suggested as a possible alternative that Klumb could resign and file for a disability pension (Exhibit L attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief).

11. By letter dated March 23, 1988, Cavanaugh noted that he had discussed the matter with Klumb and that she would be filing for an ordinary disability pension with the TPAF. Further, he noted that the Board had agreed to amend Klumb's status to "voluntary sick leave disability" which entitled Klumb to certain benefits but no additional salary, and that the Board agreed not to proceed to certify tenure charges pending the outcome of the pension matter. (Exhibit M attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief).

12. Klumb's application for an ordinary disability pension was approved. (Exhibit M attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief).

13. There was no evidence presented to show that Klumb was forced to take an ordinary disability pension in 1988.

14. At its October 1, 1998 meeting, the TPAF considered Klumb's request for instatement, and found that her disability had disappeared or had substantially diminished to the point that she could resume her former duties of teacher without restriction. The TPAF ordered the Board to reinstate Klumb to her former position (Exhibit N attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief).

15. By letters dated October 8, 1998 and October 21, 1998, the Board asked for a clarification of the TPAF's findings, and also requested medical documentation and the narrative report of an examination conducted by an independent physician. (Exhibit P attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief).

16. By letter dated November 13, 1998, the Board stated that it disagreed with the determination of the TPAF and requested a formal hearing (Exhibit Q attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief). The various requests for clarification and the November 13, 1998 request for a formal hearing were forwarded to the TPAF within the forty-five day time period.

17. By letter dated December 16, 1998, the TPAF responded to the Board's various requests and clarified its October 1, 1998 action. TPAF noted that it had considered an independent medical examiner's report which stated that Klumb was able to resume the position of teacher and that the TPAF concurred. Making reference to N.J.S.A. 18A:66-40, the TPAF noted that "if a member becomes employed again in a position covered by the retirement system his or her retirement will be cancelled until they retire again." The TPAF stated that "the statute does not address re-employment nor does it require an employer to re-employ the member." (Exhibit R attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief).

18. Thereafter, Klumb initiated an administrative hearing against the TPAF and asked that the TPAF order her reinstatement. By initial decision dated December 14, 1989, Administrative Law Judge John Futey dismissed Klumb's case with prejudice. (Exhibit S attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief).

19. In 1991, Bernstein, who is employed by the Board, wrote a letter of recommendation on behalf of Klumb (Exhibit J attached to Swarbrick's brief). Klumb taught courses for childcare givers and taught pre-kindergarten from 1991 to 1993. Between 1993 and 1994, she was a substitute teacher in the Keansburg Public School System and taught art in the Howell Public School System. What Paul Quirk, the Principal of the Keansburg Public Schools, requested that Klumb not be assigned as a substitute at the Frances Place School. In 1993, she was compensated $70.00 by the Keansburg Board of Education and 1994 she received $385.00. Keansburg did not rehire Klumb for the 1995-96 school year. (Exhibit

T attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief). With regard to Klumb's employment as an art teacher in the 1993-94 school year, Howell's records indicate that she worked a total of six days in that school year (Exhibit U attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief). Klumb worked as a teacher in Korea in 1995-96.

20. Klumb was interviewed on March 1, 1999 by representatives of the Board in order to determine whether she was qualified to fill a teacher position at the Pine Brook School, in the Manalapan-Englishtown District (Exhibits V and W attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief).

21. Assistant Principal Don Colbert and Principal Carmen Daccursa, both from the Pine Brook School, conducted the interview and prepared the following observations and rating:

(a) With regard to experiential and educational background, Klumb was given the lowest possible rankings with regard to her knowledge of instruction (cooperative learning, learning styles, flexible grouping) and also with regard to her knowledge of current trends (literature-based reading, math manipulatives and problem solving, technology and computers, integrated curriculum, portfolios).

(b) Her knowledge of classroom management and discipline was also ranked quite low on the applicable scale.

(c) Klumb's philosophy of education" was ranked relatively low on the applicable scale, noting that she did not have a clear or concise philosophy that was consistent with the District's philosophy. The "comments" section of the assessment form noted that Klumb is "not current at all. Needs considerable retraining."

(d) The interview rating overall was unsatisfactory.

(e) Klumb was not familiar with the "new" types of learning that were regularly being used in the Manalapan-Englishtown Regional School System.

(f) Daccurso felt that Klumb had not kept up on changes or trends in education during the ten years she had been out of education, and that her skills, knowledge of methods of instruction and then-current trends were not up to district standards.

22. Klumb filed a complaint against the Board and several individuals in the Law Division, New Jersey Superior Court on April 29, 2002 (Exhibit A attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief). She alleged that the Board had been ordered to restore her to her prior position as a teacher by TPAF's letter; she alleged that she made various demands for her return to her position with Board which were denied; and she demanded reinstatement as a tenured teacher.

23. An answer to Klumb's complaint was filed on behalf of the respondents. (Exhibit B attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief). In their answer, the respondents denied the relevant allegations, listed various defenses, including lack of jurisdiction over the claims set forth in Klumb's complaint.

24. On January 6, 2003, the defendants filed a motion for summary judgment and the motion was heard by the Honorable William P. Gilroy, J.S.C., on February 28, 2003. Judge Gilroy requested additional submissions from the parties, and he again heard the Motion on April 29, 2003. He opined that the "Commissioner of Education has fundamental and indispensable jurisdiction over all disputes and controversies arising under the School Laws and that plaintiff should exhaust her administrative remedies from the denial of the request for reinstatement with the defendant Manalapan-Englishtown Regional Board of Education...." He entered an "Order Transferring Action to the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9." (Exhibit B attached to Satter's November 25, 2003 brief).

It is also not disputed that Klumb worked for the Board as an elementary school teacher from September 1968 to June 1988. Prior to 1986, she received satisfactory or better evaluations (Exhibit G attached to Swarbrick's brief).

ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES

Both parties agreed that a decision based on the motions for summary decision is appropriate in this matter since as there are no disputes as to the pertinent facts. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.54; Judson v, People Bank and Trustees Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 73-5 (19540; Brill v. Guardian Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). I concur.

On behalf of the petitioner , Swarbrick argued that the Board violated the law by failing to rehire Klum and to pay her back wages and benefits. Swarbrick relied on the appellate court's decision in The Matter of Allen, 262 N.J. Super., 438 (App Div. 1993). In that case, the Court stated:

> Although the statute does not expressly compel the appointing authority to restore the employee to his former position, the Board's construction of N.J.S.A. 43:16A-8(2) is fully consonant with the legislative purpose. It is apparent that the grant of disability retirement is conditioned on the continuation of the incapacity. If the retired employee regains the ability to perform his or her duties, the Legislature mandate that he or she be returned to the former position. The Legislature clearly recognized that individuals returning from a disability retirement are in a unique situation, plainly different from all other employees returning to active service. Their separation from employment is unlike the voluntary separation of other civil servants whose seniority is not aggregated. In our view, N.J.S.A. 43:16A-8(2) > contemplates that a restoration to employment return the formerly disabled individual as nearly as possible to the status held at the time he or she was pensioned. The aggregation of seniority complies with the legislative mandate that disable employees return to their former position upon cessation of their disability. . . .

> Id. at 444.

Although the Matter of Allen case dealt with a police officer who returned to his prior job after recovering from a disability, Swarbrick argued that the holding is applicable since the provisions in the Police and Firemen's Retirement System's statute, N.J.S.A. 43:16A-892), regarding reemployment is similar to the TPAF statute in issue on the matter, N.J.S.A. 18A:66-40a. See also, Bd. of Police Comm., City of East Orange v. PFRS. DiMuzio (App Div. Dkt. No. A-2629-87T8, unpubl. op. May 18, 1989). Swarbrick also relied on the decision of the Commissioner of Education in Bubbin v. Bd. of Ed.of the Borough of Point Pleasant, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 768. In this case, the Commissioner recognized a teacher's right to reemployment upon recovering from a disability.

On behalf of the Board, Satter argued that the Board did not act illegally or unreasonably when it refused to rehire Klumb. Satter argued that the petitioner's reliance on Matter of Allen is misplaced. In the Matter of Allen case, the police officer's former employer had rehired him and the issue in the case was limited to whether he was entitled to his former position and to the restoration of his former seniority. The court ordered him to be restored to his former position with seniority. Satter noted that in a latter decision, Canavera v. Township of Edison, 271 N.J. Super. 125 (App. Div. 1994), the Appellate Division held that an employer did not act inappropriately when it treated a restored police officer, after a disability, as a new employee without seniority.

Satter argued that in neither the Matter of Allen or the Canavera case did the Court order the former employer to hire the person who had recovered from a disability and in both cases the court recognized that the pension statute in issue, N.J.S.A. 43:16A-8(2), does not "expressly compel" the former employer to restore a previously disabled person, Canavera at 162; Matter of Allen at 444.

Satter noted that in this matter, the TPAF acknowledged in its December 16, 1998 letter that the pension statute in issue here, N.J.S.A. 18A:66-40, does not require the former employer to rehire a previously disabled person.

Satter argued that in the Bublin case, also cited by the petitioner the Commissioner affirmed the administrative law judge's initial decision, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 768, that the board did not act inappropriately when it refused to hire Bublin after a screening committee recommended that Bublin not be hired since she did not meet the requirements for the position. The Commissioner in the Bublin case recognized the right of the school administrators to make subjective judgment so long as it is done in good faith and cited the decision in Ellen Bringhurst and Susan Kornacki v. Bd. of Ed. of the City of Cape May, 1981 SLD 564.

Satter relied on the decision in Laing v. Bd. of Ed. of the Township of Edison, 1977 S.L.D. 422; aff'd by Comm. of Ed., 1977 S.L.D. 426; aff'd by State Bd. of Ed., 1977 S.L.D. 427; aff'd by the N.J. App. Division (September 22, 1978), 1978 S.L.D. 1025. In this case, a teacher received a disability pension and after the pension was rescinded, she requested her former position. The Board of Education of Edison refused and the administrative law judge decided that there was no statute which compelled Edison to reinstate her. The initial decision was upheld upon appeal.

Satter also relied on the decision in Young v. Bd. of Ed. of City of West Orange, 1987 S.L.D. 776; aff'd by Comm. of Ed., 1987 S.L.D. 782; aff'd by State Bd. of Ed., 1987 S.L.D. 784. In this case, it was held that the former employer was not required to rehire Young. I recognize that this case is distinguishable based on the facts since Young did not retire with a disability pension.

I agree with the Board's arguments. It is clear that the statutory policy reflected in N.J.S.A. 18A:66-40a is to have a person who recovers from a disability rehired by his or her former employer but that the statute does not mandate that the former employer rehire the person. This is TPAF's interpretation of the statute and the courts have traditionally given deference to an agency's interpretation of its statute, Texter v. Dept. of Human Services, 88 N.J. 376, 385 (1982).

In this matter, the Board considered rehiring Klumb as a teacher. Klumb was interviewed by two administrators who recommended that she not be hired as a teacher. The petitioner presented no facts showing any bias by these individuals against Klumb nor any reason to question their evaluation and conclusions.

It is the prime responsibility of all boards to provide a good education for the students entrusted to its schools. In order to provide such an education, a board must have qualified teachers. In this case, the Board offered petitioner an opportunity to show that she had the necessary qualifications to resume her teaching position and the Board acted reasonably when it determined not to offer her a position after she failed to meet its qualifications for employment as a teacher.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the Board had the right to deny Klumb's request that she be rehired to her former position as a teacher.

I ORDER that the determination of the Board not to rehire Klumb as a teacher be AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon his full and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that the April 25, 2005 decision in the special education matter entitled L.P. v. New Jersey Department of Human Services, Office of Education, Dumont Board of Education, and Teaneck Board of Education, EDS 1959-05, renders petitioner's instant challenge to the Board of Education of the Borough of Dumont's residency determination moot.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

Record Closed: April 13, 2005 Decided: April 25, 2005

BEFORE DANIEL B. MC KEOWN, ALJ (t/a):

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

L.P., (petitioner), is an 18-year-old female who seeks through a due process hearing filed with the New Jersey Department of Education on February 23, 2005, an Order obligating each named respondent, individually or collectively, to be responsible for all costs associated with her attendance at the New York Institute of Technology (NYIT) in a program she says is appropriate for her identified needs flowing from a diagnosis of being multiply disabled. Petitioner contends that until November 2004, her district of residence for school purposes was Teaneck, and then moved to the respondent school district of Dumont which became her district of residence. The respondent New Jersey Department of Human Services, Office of Education (OOE), is obligated under the State Education Facilities Act, L.1979, c.207, as amended, to provide those who are in need of special education and in its care at a state facility as defined in administrative regulations, with a free and appropriate education.

On February 7, 2005, petitioner requested the Department of Education to mediate the dispute with the named respondents. The OOE objected to mediation because the issue presented is the same issue resolved in a prior settlement agreement between the parties. After the objection was made regarding mediation, petitioner requested a due process hearing. OOE asserts the issue petitioner seeks to raise in her due process request is a matter of enforcement of the prior agreement; it should not be the subject of a de novo special education due process hearing and that, therefore, the Office of Administrative Law is without jurisdiction to hear the matter. It says the matter should be before the Director of the Division of Special Education in the Department of Education.

On March 3, 2005, the matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law for final determination by an Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), as amended, 20 U.S.C.A. 1401, et seq., and N.J.S.A. 18A:46-1, et seq. The undersigned ALJ was assigned the case, after which the matter proceeded to hearing on March 15, 2005 at the Office of Administrative Law, Newark.

On the date scheduled for hearing, argument was heard on a motion for summary decision filed by the OOE, and on motions to dismiss filed by both the Dumont and Teaneck Boards of Education.

The OOE seeks summary decision on its argument that the issues presented were resolved by the existing agreement between the parties. OOE asserts petitioner's allegation that the agreement is not being honored is a matter of enforcement; not the basis for a new due process hearing. Therefore, the OOE concludes the Office of Administrative Law is without jurisdiction over the subject matter. The Dumont Board seeks to be dismissed as party respondent for the asserted failure of petitioner to state a claim against it. This Board says petitioner failed to establish residency in its district despite its best efforts to assist her in that regard. The Teaneck Board of Education filed a letter dated March 28, 2005, in which it asserts that its motion to dismiss should be considered as an alternative argument to the issue of whether the State Facilities Education Act of 1979, N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-1, et seq., imposes a financial or educational obligation upon it for petitioner must first be determined. The Teaneck Board suggests that its motion to dismiss be considered here only if the Commissioner decides the foregoing issue in a manner adverse to its interests.

I have reviewed petitioner's request for a due process hearing and the various motions of the named respondents in response to that request. I CONCLUDE that the OOE's motion for summary decision must be granted and the motion to dismiss argued by the Dumont Board of Education need not be decided.

Petitioner's request for a due process hearing must be dismissed in its entirety. Petitioner's source of relief should the parties not be honoring the settlement agreement entered is to seek its enforcement before the Director of the Division of Special Education, Department of Education.

FACTS AND ARGUMENTS

Although there is not a stipulation of fact in the record, the record does disclose facts that are not in dispute between the parties as reported here. For purpose only of the motions, the following facts are found to exist and are as seen in a light most favorable to petitioner.

1. L.P. was born January 2, 1986.

2. There is evidence in the record that L.P. may have been abused during her infancy and early childhood.

3. Although it appears L.P. has been in foster care through Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) since she was about four years of age, there is no evidence in the record that the parental rights of L.P.'s biological parents were terminated, nor is there evidence to show L.P. was placed for adoption. The mother had lived in Keansburg, New Jersey; she presently lives in Pennsylvania. The whereabouts of the father are not mentioned in the record.

4. OOE acknowledges that its "responsibility for petitioner's education was triggered by her placement in a specialized treatment home by DYFS." (OOE's supplemental letter brief March 28, 2005 in support of it motion for summary decision).

5. At some point before high school, probably in or about 1991-1992, L.P. was declared eligible for special education and related services based upon a diagnosis of multiply disabled. At the conclusion of the 2003-04 academic year, L.P. acquired 160 high school credits from the Bergen County Community High School, under what was apparently considered to be an appropriate individual education program for her identified needs until 2003.

6. In the meantime and by letter dated August 21, 2003 petitioner, through counsel other than present counsel of record for petitioner, filed a Request for Mediation with the New Jersey Department of Education that reads:

> This office represents [G.C.], the natural mother of [L.P.], and [M.E.], the long – term care foster parent of [L.P.], who is a special education student currently attending the Community School in Teaneck, NJ. Ms. [C.] is the parent responsible for making education decisions for [L.]. The child, whose date of birth is 1/02/86, resides with Ms. [E.] at [Teaneck]. [It is noted petitioner had not yet reached the age of 18]. This residence has been designated a Specialized Treatment Home by the Department of Human Services (DHS) through an arrangement with the Youth Consultation Service (YCS). It is considered to be a 'State facility' and subject to N.J.A.C. 6A:17, et seq. As Teaneck is the child's temporary district of residence, the entity responsible for the child's education is the Teaneck Public School district, in conjunction with the DHS-Office Education. The child's DHS case manager is Susan Reed and the Supervisor is Dianne Cole. The child's case manager at the Teaneck Public School is Colleen Mullen.
> Ms. C., [the natural biological mother] resides at [Keansburg, NJ].
>
> Both the natural mother and the foster care mother disagree with the proposed IEP which does not reflect the discussions and suggestions of the child's teachers and child study team representatives. At an 11/29/02 meeting, the team concluded that as part of a transition plan, [L.] requires an additional year of instruction, i.e., a 'fifth year' of high school, and this was stated in the IEP developed at that meeting. [L.P.] is beginning the 12th grade this school year ('03-'04). At an IEP review meeting held on 6/2/03, there was no discussion of changing the transition plan previously agreed to at the 11/29/03 meeting. However, the proposed IEP that was sent with cover letter dated July 31, 2003, to both Ms. [C.] and Ms. [E.] eliminated that provision. This latest draft IEP represents an attempt by the DHS-Office of Education to terminate its educational obligations to [L.] upon her attaining the required number of credits for a high school diploma, rather than until her IEP goals are substantially met.

> Consequently, we believe that the new IEP violates both the IDEA's FAPE requirement as well as the child's statutory rights under State law to an education that maximizes her potential [citation omitted].
> A mediation conference is requested to ensure that the program reflects the unique transition needs of this child at this critical juncture. The relief requested is the restoration of the language referring to a fifth year of education described in the IEP developed collaboratively by the appropriate individuals (teachers, providers) at the 11/29/02 meeting, and with which the child herself agrees, along with the additional related services agreed to in June. (Emphasis added).

It is noted that contrary to the assertion made in the foregoing letter regarding Teaneck being the district of residence, a district of residence determination is governed by N.J.S.A. 18A: 7B-12, the State Facilities Education Act of 1979, L.1979, c.30, as amended. which provides:

> For school funding purposes, the Commissioner of Education shall determine district of residence as follows:
> b. The district of residence for children who are in residential State facilities, or who have been placed by State agencies in group homes, skill development homes, private schools or out-of-State facilities, shall be the present district of residence of the parent or guardian with whom the child lived prior to his most recent admission to a State facility or most recent placement by a State agency.

[N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b. (Emphasis added)].

The implementing regulations define "present district of residence" as follows: * * *

> 2. The present district of residence of a child placed by a State agency in a group home, skill development home, private school or out of state facility also referred to in the first paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A: 7B-12b means the New Jersey district of residence of the child's parent(s) or guardian(s) immediately prior to his or her initial admission to a State facility or placement by a State agency.

[N.J.A.C. 6A: 23-5.2 (1) and (2) (emphasis added)].

Without deciding the issue but while following the rule that if the language of a statute is plain, unambiguous, and uncontrolled by other parts of the regulation, the words of the statute are to be given their ordinary and well-understood meaning, Fahey v. Jersey City, 52 N.J. 103, 106-07 (1968); Safeway Trails, Inc. v. Furman, 41 N.J. 467, 478 (1964); Lane v. Holderman, 23 N.J. 304, 313 (1957), it does appear Teaneck has a valid argument against it being assigned as the district of residence under the State Education Facilities Act. Petitioner's individual education plan adopted on February 19, 2004, acknowledges Keansburg Borough to be the district of residence for petitioner. A subsequent IEP developed for her February 10, 2005, lists the OOE as the district of residence. As far back as September 2000, there is evidence to show the OOE accepted full responsibility for L.P.'s education when, while acknowledging full responsibility for her IEP, invited a representative from the Teaneck schools to attend an IEP meeting for her as a matter of courtesy and referred to the district as the "LEA", meaning local educational agency under federal law. Despite the fact Teaneck provided some schooling for petitioner and some services for her over the years, reference by representatives of OOE to the district as the 'LEA', or local educational agency under federal law, 34 C.F.R. § 300.18, 20 U.S.C. 1401 (15), does not establish Teaneck as the "district of residence" under the State Education Facilities Act. (See, Exhibit C, attached to petitioner's reply letter, March 11, 2005).

Nevertheless, the record shows petitioner's request for a due process hearing was filed with the Office of Administrative Law on August 21, 2003, and docketed as OAL Docket No. EDS 11276-03, Agency Docket No. 2004 8108. Petitioner sought an additional year of education for her transition from high school to college, even though she would have acquired 160 credits by June 2004. Prior to the time the due process hearing was conducted by the Honorable Robert J. Giordano, the assigned ALJ, the OOE offered petitioner a fifth year of high school at the Bergen County Technical High School Springboard Program. Petitioner and her counsel accepted the offer. A settlement agreement was reached by the parties. Petitioner signed an acknowledgement on February 24, 2004, that she understood the agreement and her then attorney of record also signed the document as being "a full and final disposition of all issues in this matter." In addition to the fifth year of high school that was to occur in 2004-2005, $2,000 was also accepted by petitioner, which includes counsel fees, as part of the agreement.

Springboard, it is noted, is a full-time intensive program for students with disabilities who have participated in a comprehensive high school program and who would benefit from intensive instruction related to their transition outcomes. Petitioner had a comprehensive high school program at the Community School. The IEP sets forth as fact that petitioner was exempt from local graduation requirements of the Teaneck Board of Education because of the nature of her disability.

The settlement agreement refers to an Individual Education Plan that was developed for petitioner on February 19, 2004. This IEP was prepared in consultation with petitioner and her attorney, the Youth Consultation Service treatment home parent to which petitioner had been assigned in Teaneck, and representatives of the OOE as well as the Teaneck Board of Education. The document states the IEP was developed to "continue the IEP development process and to discuss transitional programming. [L.] recently applied to and was verbally accepted at the Bergen County Technical High School Springboard Program in Paramus for September 2004." The IEP recognizes that by the end of the 2003-04 academic years, petitioner would have achieved 160 high school credits but that she would not be issued a diploma because of her scheduled fifth year of attendance at the Springboard program. Petitioner's issuance of a diploma was not conditioned upon the successful completion of the Springboard program; rather, the issuance of a high school diploma depended upon her meeting the criteria for the stated goals and objectives in the IEP, ostensibly after having completed the Springboard program to which she agreed.

Petitioner was scheduled to begin the fifth year, or transition year, of high school in September 2004 at the Bergen County Springboard Program as the settlement agreement provides. While it is unclear precisely how many days petitioner attended the program, she now asserts the Springboard program is ill-suited to her needs, that it failed to hold an IEP meeting at the beginning of the 2004-2005 year and, that, she was provided a generic non-specific program wholly unrelated to her needs.

Petitioner says that after November 2004 when her foster mother died, she moved into a new foster home in Dumont where she tried to enroll in the public schools. The evidence more strongly suggests petitioner continues to reside in Teaneck at her deceased foster mother's home with the help of the foster mother's relatives. In any case, petitioner says that during January 2005 she was advised by Dumont officials to submit some evidence of actual residency in the Dumont district in order to complete the enrollment process in the Dumont schools. It appears that petitioner sought to reside with a Mr. and Mrs. P., who intended to operate a state approved 'YCS Treatment/Foster Home Program.' The Mr. and Mrs. P. were advised on January 31, 2005 by the "YCS" that certain violations in their Dumont home had to be abated before placement of any children may be made.

The Dumont schools notified petitioner by letter dated February 2, 2005, that she would be conditionally accepted as a student, but she must file within 30 days proof of domicility or residency at the address she claims to live, and that such proof may be by way of a deed, lease, affidavit of title, or current mortgage statement, plus a copy of a gas and electric bill. Should the gas/electric bill not be in her name, she would need to file two pieces of current legal mail in her name such as a credit card bill, medical bill, car insurance, registration, driver's license, employment verification, life insurance, home phone bill, or cable bill. In addition, petitioner was advised she also needed to file a court order or an equivalent document that she was placed in the Dumont address by DYFS, or other legal manner. While then counsel of record submitted a copy of the Mr. and Mrs. P.'s gas and electric bill, no other documents were forthcoming to the Dumont school. On February 24, 2005, Board counsel advised petitioner's counsel that the issue of violations abatement in the Mr. and Mrs. P.'s home is not resolved, nor is there any proof from anyone that petitioner was indeed residing at their residence. By letter dated March 2, 2005, the Dumont Board advised petitioner she is ineligible to attend the district's school because she failed to submit specific proof of residence at Mr. and Mrs. P.'s house.

In the meantime and because petitioner did not feel the Springboard program was helpful to her, she unilaterally enrolled in the NYIT during November 2004. The OOE was notified by letter dated December 22, 2004, from counsel of record. Petitioner's present costs associated with the New York program are being absorbed by relatives of the deceased foster mother. The relief she seeks is payment of her room, board and tuition at the NYIT. By letter dated February 7, 2005, petitioner sought mediation before the Department of Education as against the named respondents of what she now says is an inappropriate program, the Springboard program, and she seeks costs for her room, board and tuition at the NYIT.

The OOE is neutral with respect to the motions to dismiss of the Dumont and Teaneck Boards of Education, but it does note that Dumont was never considered by it to be the so-called local educational agency, or district of residence. It also acknowledges its understanding that while the Teaneck Board was the named district of residence, Keansburg Borough should have been so named. The OOE notes petitioner's natural mother lived in Keansburg and it is she who was considered petitioner's legal guardian until petitioner reached the age of majority on January 2, 2004. The OOE contends that DYFS did not at any time assume legal guardianship of petitioner, nor did petitioner's parents at any time have their parental rights terminated.

Indeed, attached to OOE's supplemental letter brief of March 14, 2005, is a letter sent to petitioner by the Director of Family Based Services. This letter advises petitioner she is discharged from the Youth Counseling Service Treatment Home Program as of February 1, 2005, because there is no DYFS Office of Licensing Treatment Home family of record for her to be placed and there is no DYFS Office of Licensing approved alternative care provider. On the basis of this letter, OOE concludes it is no longer responsible for the education of petitioner other than what was contained in the settlement agreement. It does acknowledge in a theoretical manner it could be responsible for compensatory education should that issue arise.

Finally, it is noted petitioner filed a separate Petition of Appeal before the Commissioner of Education challenging the determination of the Dumont Board of Education she is not entitled to attend its school under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

CONCLUSIONS

School funding is at the heart of the State Education Facilities Act. Under that law, specifically at N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12, determinations as to the district of residence of children in foster homes or who are in residential State facilities, or who have been placed by State agencies in group homes, private schools or out-of-State facilities, are to be made by the Commissioner of Education. Under law, a state facility is a residential or day program operated or contracted with the Department of Human Services, Department of Corrections or Juvenile Justice Commission. N.J.A.C. 6A:17-3.1. At paragraph (a) of the cited statute, the district of residence for children in foster homes shall be the district in which the foster parents reside unless the child is subsequently placed in a State facility or by a State agency in which case the district of residence shall be determined as if no such foster placement had occurred. At paragraph (b) of the cited statute, the district of residence for these children shall be the present district of residence of the parent or guardian with whom the child lived prior to his most recent admission to a State facility or most recent placement by a State agency

Under the law, the OOE has the responsibility of insuring each child in their care receive either a thorough and efficient program of education or a free and appropriate education. As explained by the OOE, the local district responsibility under law is satisfied when 'an amount equal to the approved per pupil expenditure established [by law]' is diverted from the district of residence to the Department of Human Services by the Commissioner of Education. (Supplemental letter brief, OOE, March 14, 2005, p.2).

Although petitioner's present due process request appears on its face to be valid under the IDEA and under N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7, close examination of the allegations disclose the issue presented has already been settled. Petitioner attended the Bergen County Community High School for at least four years under an individual education plan. Her mother had lived in Keansburg at the time, and her foster mother lived in Teaneck. These supervising adults in her life were in the immediate area, they knew or should have known what was happening with respect to L.P.'s education program. Indeed, it was during 2003 that the biological mother and foster mother made known their discontent with the absence of a fifth year of transitioning high school. In fact, it was petitioner herself who applied to and was accepted at the Bergen County Springboard program.

In the face of the then pending litigation, the Department of Human Services, as the supervising agent of petitioner's education under the State Education Facilities Act because DYFS had arranged for petitioner to be placed in a treatment home through the Youth Consultation Service, agreed to provide a fifth year transition period at the Springboard program. This is the program petitioner wanted, her biological and foster mother wanted, and for which her then-attorney argued. Indeed, the very letter that initiated the earlier litigation resulting in the settlement demanded a fifth year of high school intended for the successful completion of L.P.'s transition to college; not the mere accumulation of credits. Not only did petitioner receive the opportunity for a fifth year of transition high school which she herself selected, the Springboard program, petitioner also received $2,000 cash in return for her waiver of "all claims against the State of New Jersey with regard to the subject matter of this dispute." Petitioner had reached the age of majority by the time she signed the document on February 24, 2004, and her attorney also signed the document as a full and final disposition of all issues in this matter. When Administrative Law Judge Giordano accepted the settlement, he wrote:

> 1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced [by] the signatures of their representatives.

> I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded. If either party feels that this decision is not being fully implemented, this concern should be communicated in writing to the Director, Office of Special Education Programs.

There is no suggestion petitioner did not know what she was signing when she signed the agreement, there is no suggestion she was deceived, there is no suggestion petitioner was coerced into signing the agreement, and the evidence is clear petitioner not only had the advice of her natural mother and foster mother, she also had the advice of counsel. Once petitioner had secured agreement to attend the program she and her advisors ostensibly chose, the Springboard program and the $2,000 in cash, petitioner determined she did not like that program and wanted to go to the NYIT as a resident student. She seeks now to have a due process hearing to secure an Order requiring any or all respondents to be obligated for all costs at the NYIT.

The rule for summary decision pursuant to the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, specifically N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 is essentially the same as the summary judgment rule pursuant to the New Jersey Rules of Court. It provides as follows:

> [A] party may move for summary decision if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. When a motion for summary decision is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue, which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. If the adverse party does not so respond, a summary decision, if appropriate, shall be entered.

A contested case can be "summarily disposed of before an ALJ without a plenary hearing in instances where the undisputed material facts, as developed on motion or otherwise, indicate that a particular disposition is required as a matter of law." In the Matter of Robros Recycling Corp., 226 N.J. Super. 343, 350 (App. Div. 1988) (citing N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b); N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 (a)). Summary decision must be based on an examination of the totality of the circumstances, mitigating and aggravating factors, adequate factual findings and conclusions of law. Ibid.

Summary decision is appropriate in this case because the fact of the settlement and its terms are not in dispute. Settlement of litigation "ranks high in our public policy," Nolan v. Lee Ho, 120 N.J. 465, 472 (1990). That does not mean, however, that things not legitimately encompassed in the agreement document will be read to exist. The settlement of lawsuits is favored because of the notion that the parties to a dispute are in the best position to determine how to resolve a contested matter in a way which is least disadvantageous to everyone. It follows that any action which would have the effect of vitiating the provisions of a particular settlement agreement and the concomitant effect of undermining public confidence in the settlement process in general, should not be countenanced. Dep't. of Pub. Advocate v. N.J. Bd. of Pub. Util., 206 N.J. Super. 523, 528 (App. Div. 1985).

In this case, petitioner, her mother, her foster mother, and her then attorney of record, agreed to settle the prior litigation under terms they felt, at the time, were acceptable. In return for the Springboard program and the $2,000 cash settlement, petitioner waived any and all claims she may have had regarding her free and appropriate education.

N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7 provides at paragraph (n) as follows:

> If the public agency responsible for implementing the IEP fails to implement a hearing decision of the Office of Administrative Law, a request for enforcement may be made by the parent. The request shall be made in writing to the State Director of the Office of Special Education Programs, Department of Education. Upon receipt of this request, the Office of Special Education Programs shall determine the implementation of the decision. If it is determined that the district has failed to implement the decision or part of the > decision, the Office of Special Education Programs shall order the district to implement the decision or part of the decision, as appropriate.

A settlement agreement, an otherwise enforceable contract, cannot be lightly set aside on the basis one of the parties found something better. Therefore, I FIND and CONCLUDE petitioner is bound by the settlement agreement she entered as evidenced by her signature affixed thereto on or about February 24, 2004; I further FIND the subject matter in that enforceable agreement addresses the same issue sought to be litigated in this request for a due process hearing. Under the terms of the settlement agreement, petitioner received the opportunity of a fifth year of high school as her transition year and which she selected, despite the fact that at the end of the fourth year she would have acquired 160 high school credits, enough to have earned a high school diploma from Teaneck. Petitioner, in midstream and after the agreement was signed and sealed, changed her view of the program she wanted, and determined on her own to attend the NYIT.

If the agreement were not being honored by OOE, petitioner's relief is to bring the matter to the attention of the Director of the Division of Special Education at the New Jersey Department of Education. Repose of disputed issues is a desirable outcome of voluntary settlement agreements such as entered here. At some point, litigation over the same issue must cease – even in matters of special education – so long as the rights of the parties have been honored. Here, petitioner's rights were honored which she and her counsel recognized in the agreement they signed to settle the former litigation.

For the foregoing reasons, summary decision is granted to the New Jersey Department of Human Services, Office of Education, in that the settlement agreement accepted by Administrative Law Judge Giordano on April 22, 2004, is the law of this case. Therefore, petitioner's request for a due process hearing on the very same issue cannot be countenanced. Should the OOE not be abiding by the terms of the settlement, relief would be available through the Department of Education.

While there is a dearth of evidence to show a valid enforceable claim against the Teaneck Board of Education or the Dumont Board of Education, there is no need to rule on their motions to dismiss because the due process request itself is DISMISSED for lack of jurisdiction.

ORDER

Having found and concluded the issue presented in this due process request has already been amicably settled by the parties, a de novo hearing on the very same issue is neither required nor warranted. If petitioner claims the OOE refuses to honor the settlement agreement, that matter must be taken to another forum. Consequently, summary decision is GRANTED to the Department of Human Services, Office of Education. The due process request is DISMISSED.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

This decision is final pursuant to the provisions of 20 U.S.C.A. §1415(i)(1)(A) and 34 C.F.R. § 300.510 and is appealable by filing a complaint and bringing a civil action either in the Superior Court of New Jersey or in a federal District Court of the United States. 20 U.S.C.A. § 1415(i)(2), 34 C.F.R. §300.511. If either party feels this decision is not being fully implemented, this concern should be communicated in writing to the Director, Office of Special Education Programs.

Nancy Oxfeld, Esq., for petitioner (Oxfeld Cohen, attorneys)

Ronald C. Hunt, Esq., for respondent (Hunt, Hamlin & Ridley, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 2, 2005 Decided: June 3, 2005

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

On April 26, 2001, petitioner filed a petition alleging that the action of the Board of Education of the City of East Orange (the Board), which charged her sick days for work-related injury/illness, violates N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. The Board filed an Answer to the Petition on or about June 4, 2001. In a letter by counsel for petitioner, dated April 25, 2001, it was requested that the matter be held in abeyance pending a decision by the Division of Workers' Compensation. Subsequently, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on April 27, 2004, it was filed for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Following prior adjournments of the hearing on October 12, 2004 and March 22, 2005, the matter was rescheduled for hearing on April 22, 2005.

Counsel for the parties, as well as petitioner, appeared at the OAL on April 22, 2005 and engaged in discussions toward an amicable resolution of the matter. On April 22, 2005, the parties submitted the attached Settlement Agreement indicating the terms of agreement. Thereafter, counsel for respondent forwarded the attached letter dated June 2, 2005 memorializing that the Board and Superintendent of School consented to the aforesaid settlement.

Having reviewed the record and the terms of the settlement, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.
2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, I approve the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BEFORE ROBERT J. GIORDANO, ALJ:

On May 6, 2004, this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) by way of an appeal filed by petitioner Richard Nunn. Petitioner challenges the action of respondent Board of Education of the Borough of Mount Arlington, Morris Township, charging him sick days for work-related injury and/or illness.

After several adjournments, a hearing was scheduled on April 7, 2005 at the OAL, 33 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey. Prior to the hearing date, the parties advised the undersigned that they had resolved the matter. The parties submitted the attached Settlement Agreement, indicating the terms of settlement, which are incorporated herein by reference. The Mount Arlington Board of Education approved the settlement agreement as referenced by letter dated April 28, 2005. Counsel for the respondent confirmed that no formal resolution was required to approve the resolution of the within matter, by letter dated May 24, 2005.

Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the acknowledgement of such on the record, by their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

RICHARD NUNN, Petitioner, and the Board of Education of the Borough of Mt. Arlington, Respondent, hereby agree to resolve the issues in this matter upon the following terms:

1. The Respondent agrees that the Petitioner's seven days of absence in July 2002, 22 days of absence in August 2002, 20 days of absence in September 2002 and 7 sick days in October 2002 will be changed on his records to indicate that he was absent for reasons of workers' compensation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 on those dates, rather than for personal illness pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2;

2. The Respondent shall return to the Petitioner's accumulated sick days the 56 sick days for which he was charged for his absences on the dates set forth in Paragraph 1, which will be available to Petitioner for use in the future;

3. The Petitioner agrees to withdraw with prejudice his petition in this matter, and hereby waives any further claims which he could have pursued in this matter;

4. This agreement constitutes the entire agreement between the parties with regard to the matters at issue herein. This agreement may not be utilized by either party in any other proceeding as support or proof of any contention raised by that party in this proceeding and neither party is admitting any liability with regard to the allegations set forth in these proceedings.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE VOCATIONAL SCHOOL OF THE COUNTY OF PASSAIC,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE MANCHESTER REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

The petitioning Board of the Passaic County Technical Institute (PCTI) seeks tuition payment from the respondent Board of the Manchester Regional High School District (Manchester), alleging that Manchester's refusal to remit tuition for its resident students attending the PCTI for the 2004-2005 school year is in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1 and N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1. Both parties filed motions for summary decision, submitting a joint stipulation of facts which was adopted by the ALJ as her factual findings.

The ALJ found, as a matter of law, that the language of both the statute and the implementing regulation at issue here is clear and unambiguous, and therefore not subject to judicial interpretation. Furthermore, the respondent's reliance on a regulatory summary to support the position that Manchester is not obligated to pay sending tuition to the PCTI because it offers certain programs which are similar to programs offered by the vocational school, is misplaced and inappropriate. The plain language of the statute is mandatory: a district or regional board of education must send and pay tuition for any student who has applied for and has been granted admission to a vocational school operated by a county vocational school district. The ALJ granted summary decision in favor of the PCTI and ordered Manchester to pay tuition for its students who attend the vocational school.

The Commissioner concurs with the conclusions of the ALJ as set forth in the initial decision, that the respondent's contention that it is not required to pay tuition for academic instruction received by students enrolled at the vocational school because such courses are available in the Manchester district, is unsupported in statute and regulation. The Commissioner adds that respondent's argument was raised and rejected in prior cases, and respondent's assertion that withholding tuition from petitioner advances the cost-cutting goals of Public Law 2004, Chapter 73 is spurious. Furthermore, Manchester's suggestion that students are better off socially and culturally attending school in their district of residence is unsupported by facts, and the benefit to Manchester's vocational students of a strategy that requires shuttling them back and forth each day between two districts is unclear, even assuming such scheduling were logistically possible. Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the ALJ's recommended orders for relief shall be implemented forthwith.

PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE MANCHESTER REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT,	:

The record in this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed. Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) as set forth in the initial decision.

The following pertinent facts have been stipulated by and between the parties.

The Passaic County Technical Institute (PCTI), located in the Township of Wayne, Passaic County, is a duly authorized county vocational school operated by the petitioner. Admission is open to all Passaic County high school students, and both full-time and part-time or shared-time vocational and technical educational programs are offered. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1, petitioner charges tuition on a per student basis to the sending districts. Petitioner charges $9,564 for regular full-time students, $14,529 for full-time special needs students, and $3,500 for half-share or shared-time students.

Respondent operates Manchester Regional High School, a comprehensive high school that serves the boroughs of Haledon, North Haledon and Prospect Park, providing a full range of academic classes. Respondent Board does not maintain a vocational school, pursuant to Article 2 of Chapter 54 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes, but does offer four Classification of Instructional Program (CIP) approved occupational programs. Three of these programs are also offered by PCTI: business education / accounting technician; business education / general office; and technology and communications / CISCO Networking Academy.

On January 29, 2004, the Manchester Regional High School District Board of Education (respondent) passed a resolution directing that "starting with the 2004-2005 Freshman class, payment of full-time tuition payments not be paid to Passaic County Technology Institute (PCTI)" and "the Board of Education will not pay tuition to PCTI for students taking the same vocations courses that are offered at Manchester Regional High School for which MRHS has a CIP number."

In a February 4, 2004, letter to PCTI, Superintendent Kwak of the Manchester Regional High School District (Manchester District) advised that for the 2004-2005 school year the Manchester District would only pay the PCTI District for "'Shared Time' (the instructional time allocated only for vocational instruction – not academic instruction) services." The Superintendent also informed PCTI that it was "the Board's intent not to be financially responsible for any vocational instruction given to students who could otherwise attend Manchester in comparable CIP approved course [sic]."

On February 12, 2004 the PCTI District responded to the Manchester District, directing its attention to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a), Board of Ed. of the Union County Vocational-Technical School v. Board of Ed. of the City of Linden, Dkt. No. EDU 11819-99, decided October 18, 2002, and N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1, contending that those authorities preclude the action contemplated by respondent. While the Manchester Superintendent wrote to PCTI on March 26, 2004, advising that he had brought the statutory and case law to the attention of respondent, there was ultimately no reversal in respondent's position. However, respondent did defer taking any action on its resolution until the 2005-2006 school year.

On April 29, 2004, the PCTI Board (petitioner) submitted to the Department of Education a petition seeking an order directing respondent to pay tuition for PCTI students from the Manchester Regional High School (Manchester RHS), sending district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1. In Charge No. 1, petitioner alleged that respondent's intended withholding of tuition would violate N.J.S.A. 18A:53-20.1. In Charge No. 2, petitioner claimed that respondent's intended withholding of tuition would also violate N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1.

Respondent answered on June 1, 2004, denying the charges.

At any time after a case is determined to be contested, a party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues therein. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). A summary decision may be rendered if the submissions show that there is no genuine issue of material fact, and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. Both parties here have moved for summary decision and, by virtue of their submission of a joint stipulation of facts, there is no genuine issue of fact to be resolved. Thus, a summary determination on the law is appropriate.

As to the protocol for student attendance at county vocational schools, N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) provides:

> The board of education of each school district or regional school district in any county in which there is a county vocational school district shall send to any of the schools of the county vocational school district each pupil who resides in the school district or regional school district and who has applied for admission to and who has been accepted for attendance at any of the schools of the county vocational district. The board of education shall pay tuition for each of these pupils to the county vocational school district pursuant to subsection c of this section. The provisions of this section shall not apply to the board of education of a school district or regional school district maintaining a vocational school or schools pursuant to article 2 of chapter 54 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes. (Emphasis added.)

N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(c) provides, in pertinent part:

> The board of education of a county vocational school district  shall be entitled to collect and receive from the sending districts in which each pupil attending the vocational school resides, for the tuition of that pupil  a sum not to exceed the actual cost per pupil as determined for each vocational program classification, according to rules prescribed by the commissioner and approved by the State board . (Emphasis added.)

Respondent concedes that it does not maintain a vocational school. Thus, by virtue of the mandatory language in N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a), it must pay the tuition of the students in its district that attend PCTI.

Further, one of the regulations implementing N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1, namely, N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1(a), also directs sending districts to pay the tuition of its students who attend county vocational schools:

> All students shall be guaranteed the right to apply to and, if accepted, to attend a county vocational school. The sending district shall be responsible for the tuition and transportation costs for students admitted to a county vocational school. (Emphasis added.)

As the ALJ noted, the mandate in the statute and regulation is not qualified in any way (p.8). There is no exemption allowing sending districts to decline to pay tuition for county vocational school students taking occupational courses that are also offered by the sending district. There is similarly no provision allowing tuition reductions for the academic portions of the vocational students' programs.

Respondent urged the ALJ to ignore the plain language of the statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1, and the above referenced implementing regulation, N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1(a), and rely instead on language in two regulatory summaries. One summary, specifically of N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1, appeared in the New Jersey Register before the regulation was enacted. The other one is a broad brush summary, published by the Department of Education, of all the provisions in N.J.A.C. 6A:19. The language which is the focus of respondent's arguments states:

> The section includes new language which guarantees qualified students the right to attend a county vocational school, and further requires that the sending district board of education pay the associated tuition and transportation costs, as long as the resident district does not offer an approved, identical type of program. (Emphasis added.)

The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that this argument has no merit. First, the language in the summary is inconsistent with the language of the regulation. The discrepancy can be understood when the language of N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1(a) is compared with N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1(b). In N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1(a), quoted above, sending districts are unconditionally required to pay tuition for qualified resident students who attend county vocational schools. N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1(b), addresses a different set of students, i.e., those who wish to go to a vocational program in another local district. It provides:

> Students shall be permitted to enroll in programs of vocational instruction offered by local district boards of education other than their resident district so long as the resident local district board of education agrees to pay the tuition and transportation costs and does not offer an identical type of program, which is approved and meets or exceeds current program performance standards, with the same Classification of Instructional Programs (CIP) code, and as long as space is available for additional enrollees in the programs offered by the receiving district board of education.

Clearly, it is the latter set of students -- i.e., students who wish to take occupational courses in another local school district -- that may not receive tuition from the sending district if the sending district offers the same vocational programs as the student's intended receiving district.

It is unfortunate that the summary is misleading, since it is intended to facilitate understanding of the regulation. There is no question, however, that explanatory materials may not be relied upon where they contradict the plain language of a regulation. See, e.g., Aetna Insurance Company v. Trans American Trucking Service, 261 N.J. Super. 316, 328 (App. Div. 1993), where the court held that the content of the New Jersey Workers' Compensation and Employers' Liability Insurance Manual, compiled by the Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau, which bureau is presided over by a special deputy commissioner of banking and insurance, did not have the force of law, because it had not been adopted as a regulation under the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14b-1 et seq. Thus, the content of the manual could not be elevated above the legal definition of independent contractor. Ibid.

Second, even if respondent's interpretation of the regulation were correct, the regulation could not trump the plain meaning of the statute. I.M.O. Appeal of Adoption of N.J.A.C. 7:7A-1.4 (Definition of "Documented Habitats for Threatened and Endangered Species" and "Swale"), 7:7A-2.5(b)(2), and 7:7A-2.7(f), 240 N.J. Super. 224, 230 (App. Div. 1989) ("If the regulation is plainly at odds with the statute, it is ultra vires."). And where the language of a statute is clear and unambiguous, there is no room for judicial interpretation. Macysyn v. Hensler, 329 N.J. Super. 476, 485 (App. Div. 2000).

Third, petitioner's argument was raised and squarely rejected in prior cases. In Board of Education of the Bergen County Vocational and Technical School District, Bergen County v. Board of Education of the Ramapo-Indian Hills Regional School District, Bergen County, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 7891-03, Agency Dkt. No. 201-6/03 (August 25, 2004), adopted (Comm. Ed. October 13, 2004), the Board of Education of the Bergen County Vocational and Technical School District (Bergen County VTS District) sought tuition and transportation costs from the Ramapo-Indian Hills Regional School District (Ramapo-Indian Hills District). The Ramapo-Indian Hills District offered some vocational programs that were allegedly identical to programs at Bergen County VTS, but did not operate a vocational school per se. Some of its resident students chose to attend Bergen County VTS.

The Commissioner in that case determined that, where a sending district does not operate its own vocational school, the sending district must pay tuition and transportation costs for its resident students who attend the county vocational school, even if vocational programs offered by the sending school district are CIP approved and identical to those offered by the county vocational school. (Commissioner's Decision at 5.) Thus, the Ramapo-Indian Hills District was ordered to pay tuition and transportation costs. Ibid.[1]

Separate and apart from the issue of statutory intent, respondent argues that withholding tuition from petitioner would help respondent's district advance the cost-cutting goals of Public Law 2004, Chapter 73, "An Act concerning school district budget caps and amending and supplementing parts of the statutory law." But, as the ALJ determined, the legislature, via N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1, has mandated that local districts must pay county vocational districts for the costs associated with educating students from the local districts. Obviously, respondent may not advance the purposes of one law by violating another. Moreover, there is no basis to believe that in passing Public Law 2004, Chapter 73, the legislature contemplated that local districts could cut costs by defaulting on their obligations to county vocational school districts. It is unlikely that the legislature anticipated that a rob-Peter-to-pay-Paul approach could achieve state-wide stability in education funding.

Finally, respondent contends that even where its resident students attend PCTI and take courses not offered in the Manchester District, respondent should not be required to pay tuition for academic instruction received by those students. Respondent argues that such courses are offered in the Manchester District, and students are better off

[1] Respondent interprets footnote 2 in the Bergen County VTS – Ramapo-Indian Hills decision as an acknowledgment of the relevance of a district's offering of CIP approved vocational programs. The footnote states: "It is assumed for purposes of this analysis that Ramapo's programs do, in fact, operate under valid CIP codes, since, in the absence of such approval, there could be no arguable basis whatsoever for a claim of the type Ramapo attempts to make herein."

As a threshold matter, the footnote is dictum and has no precedential value. Additionally, the Commissioner was referring to a factual basis for a claim. Obviously, if the facts had not supported the allegation that the Ramapo-Indian Hills' vocational courses were approved in the designated CIP categories, there would have been no need to reach the legal issues.

socially and culturally attending school in their district of residence. As the ALJ recognized, there is no support in the statute or regulation for this position. (Initial opinion at 8.) Further, respondent offers no facts to support its assertions, and it is not at all clear how students can benefit from having to shuttle back and forth each day between two districts, assuming such scheduling to be logistically possible.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed by the ALJ and herein, petitioner is entitled to a summary decision in its favor, granting it tuition and transportation costs as a matter of law. Respondent's cross motion for summary decision is dismissed with prejudice. The initial decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the ALJ's recommended orders for relief are to be implemented forthwith.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Passaic County Vocational School Board of Education, seeks payment of tuition from the responding regional high school district and claims that

Respondent's, Manchester Regional High School District, refusal to remit tuition for its students who are attending the vocational school for the 2004-2005 school year is in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) and (c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.[1]

The parties agreed the matter could be disposed of by submitting a joint stipulation of facts, a copy of which is annexed hereto as Exhibit A. A briefing schedule was established; the record closed upon review of the submissions and document by the undersigned on April 5, 2005.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The parties submitted a joint stipulation of facts which are set forth in full and are adopted as the factual determinations in this matter.

1) PCTI Board operates the Passaic County Technical (PCTI), which is located in the Township of Wayne, Passaic County, New Jersey.

2) PCTI is duly authorized county vocational school.

3) PCTI provides vocational and technical educational programs to students on both a full-time and part-time or shared-time basis.

4) Admission to PCTI is open to all high school students in Passaic County.

5) PCTI charges tuition on a per student basis to the districts in which those students reside, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1.

6) The current tuition is $9,564 for a regular full-time student, $14,529 for a full-time special needs student and $3,500 for a half-share or shared-time students.

[1] Respondent advised implementation of the resolution dated January 29, 2004, had been delayed until the 2005-2006 school year.

7) Manchester Board operates the Manchester Regional High School District (Manchester RHS).

8) Manchester RHS services the Boroughs of Haledon, North Haledon and Prospect Park.

9) Manchester RHS is a comprehensive regional high school with a full-range of academic classes and four approved vocational programs.

10) As set forth in the State Board of Education's Directory of Verified Occupational Programs, there are four CIP approved occupational programs offered by Manchester RHS: (1) Business Education, Accounting Technician, CIP Code No. 520302; (2) Business Education, General Office, CIP Code No. 520408; (3) Marketing Education, General Marketing Operations, CIP Code No. 080708; and (4) Technology and Communications, CISCO Networking Academy, CIP Code No. 521204. Three of the foregoing CIP approved occupational programs are also offered by PCTI (CIP Code Nos. 520302, 520408, and 521204).

11) Manchester RHS does not maintain a vocational school pursuant to Article 2 of Chapter 54 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statues.

12) On January 29, 2004, the Manchester Board passed a resolution directing that "starting with the 2004-05 Freshman class, payment of full-time tuition payments not be paid to PCTI" and "the Board of Education will not pay tuition to PCTI for students taking the same vocations courses that are offered at Manchester RHS for which HRHS has a CIP number."

13) Under cover of letter dated February 4, 2004, PCTI was advised of the Manchester Board's position regarding its payment of tuition to PCTI for Manchester RHS district students accepted into PCTI.

14) In the February 4, 2004 letter, the Manchester Board stated that on January 29, 2004, the Manchester Board resolved to refuse to remit tuition for vocational instruction given to any PCTI student for "any vocational instruction given to students who could otherwise attend Manchester RHS in "comparable CIP approved" courses.

15) In the February 4, 2004 letter, PCTI was also advised that on January 29, 2004, Manchester Board passed a resolution in which it resolved to "only pay for 'Shared Time" (the instructional time allocated only for vocational instruction - not academic instruction) services" starting with the 2004-05 freshman class.

16) In a letter dated February 12, 2004, PCTI advised the Superintendent of the Manchester RHS district that the Manchester Board's action was in direct violation of state law and requested the Manchester Board reconsider its decision.

17) Manchester RHS district is a sending district within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1.

18) Originally, beginning with the 2004-04 school year, the Manchester Board was refusing to remit tuition to PCTI for students residing in the Manchester RHS district that are accepted to attend PCTI on a full-time basis if those students enroll in CIP-approved courses comparable to CIP-approved courses offered by Manchester RHS. However, the Manchester Board has deferred implementation of the foregoing action until the 2005-2006 school year.

19) Originally, beginning with the 2004-05 school year, the Manchester Board was refusing to remit tuition to PCTI for students residing in the Manchester RHS district that are accepted to attend PCTI for any vocational instruction given to students who could otherwise attend Manchester RHS in "comparable CIP approved" courses. However, the Manchester Board has deferred implementation of the foregoing action until the 2005-06 school year.

20) For the 2001-02 academic year, 51 students from the Manchester RHS district applied for admission to PCTI and 20 were accepted.

21) For the 2002-03 academic year, 63 students from the Manchester RHS district applied for admission of PCTI and 24 were accepted.

22) For the 2003-04 academic year, 50 students from the Manchester RHS district applied for admission to PCTI and 27 were accepted.

23) For the 2004-05 academic year, 55 students from the Manchester RHS district applied for admission to PCTI and 24 were accepted.

24) As of June 2002, 90 students from the Manchester RHS district were enrolled at PCTI for the 2001-02 school year, of which 62 were regular students and 28 were special education students. All 90 students attended on a full-time basis.

25) As of June 2003, 83 students from the Manchester RHS district were enrolled at PCTI for the 2002-03 school year, of which 61 were regular students and 22 were special education students. All 83 students attended on a full-time basis.

26) As of June 2004, 99 students from the Manchester RHS district were enrolled at PCTI for the 2003-04 school year, of which 73 were regular students and 26 were special education students. Of the 99 students attending, 98 students attended on a full-time basis and one special education student attended on a half-share basis.

27) As of October 2004, 84 students from the Manchester RHS district were enrolled at PCTI for the 2004-05 school year, of which 63 students were regular students and 21 were special education students. All 84 students attended on a full-time basis.

28) PCTI's tuition rates have remained unchanged since the 2001-02 school year. The tuition rates charged beginning with 2001-02 and continuing through the 2004-05 school year are as follows: Full-time, regular $9,564; Full-time, special education $14,529; Half-share, regular $3,500; Half-share, special education $3,500.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

The rules of this forum provide a party may move for summary decision at any time after a case is determined to be contested. A motion for summary decision shall be rendered if the submissions, including discovery and affidavits, if any, show there is no genuine issue as to a material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a).

In this case, the parties have each moved for summary disposition, indicating there is no genuine issue as to a material fact; accordingly, one party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law.

The petitioning vocational school district seeks payment of tuition from the responding regional high school district and claims that Respondent, Manchester Regional High School District's refusal to remit tuition for its students who are attending the vocational school for the 2004-2005 school year is in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) and (c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.

The statute provides:

> [t]he board of education of each school district or regional school district in any county in which there is a county vocational school district shall send to any of the schools of the county vocational school district each pupil who resides in the school district or regional school district and who has applied for admission to and has been accepted for attendance at any of the schools of the county vocational school district. The board of education shall pay tuition for each of these pupils to the county vocational school district

> pursuant to subsection c. of this section. The provisions of this section shall not apply to the board of education of a school district for regional school district maintaining a vocational school or schools pursuant to Article 2 of Chapter 54 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes.

N.J.S.A. 18A: 54-20.1 (Emphasis added).

In its response to Petitioner's application for summary decision, Respondent asserts, because Respondent offers certain comparable CIP-approved course, Respondent is relieved of its obligation to pay tuition for a student applying for admission to those comparable, approved courses who is granted admission to PCTI. Respondent, however, ignores the plain language of the statute cited above. Instead, Respondent relies on the Regulatory Summary to the regulation implementing the statute.

It is a fundamental principal of statutory interpretation that a court must first examine the language of the statute or regulation; where the language is clear and unambiguous, there is no room for judicial interpretation. Macysyn v. Hensler, 329 N.J. Super. 476, 485 (App. Div. 2000). In this case, the language of both the statute and the implementing regulation is clear. As denoted by the supplied emphasis in the citation of the statute above, a school district or regional school district in a county which maintains a county vocational school district shall send any student who applies for admission to and has been accepted by a county vocational school to that county vocational school; moreover, the board of education shall pay tuition to the county vocational school district. It is well-established that the use of the word "shall" denotes a mandatory provision, i.e., in this case, a district or regional board of education must send and pay tuition for any student who has applied for and has been granted admission to a vocational school operated by a vocational county school district.

Respondent asserts because it has certain programs which are similar to or the same as programs which are offered by the vocational school district, Respondent is relieved of the obligation to pay tuition to the county vocational school district for students who enroll in the program offered by Petitioner rather than the one offered by Respondent. To support this conclusion, Respondent ignores not only the clear language of the statute, but the clear language of the implementing regulation as well and, instead, relies on interpretive language from the New Jersey Register.

Not only is the language of the statute is clear on its face, the language of the implementing statute is equally clear. That language guarantees to all students the right to apply to and, if accepted, to attend a county vocational school. *N.J.A.C. 6A:*19-3.1(a). The action of the Manchester Regional High School District flies in the face of the legislative and regulatory mandate guaranteeing all qualified students who apply for and are accepted the right to attend a county vocational school.

Reliance on the Regulatory Summary is misplaced and inappropriate where, as here, the statute and regulations are clear and unambiguous. Moreover, although Respondent articulates public policy issues which, in Respondent's view, may support the position that, because it has similar CIP-approved programs, it is relieved of the obligation to pay tuition, because the statute and regulation are clear on the face, the public policy issues raised by Respondent are appropriately addressed to the legislature.

Finally, I can find nothing in the statute or regulation which permits a sending district, such as Respondent to determine to pay only for shared time tuition. The guarantee contained in the statute and regulation is not qualified in any way. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE summary decision in favor of Petitioner is appropriate.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER summary decision be and hereby is GRANTED in favor of Petitioner; I further ORDER Respondent to pay the tuition for its students who have applied for and been granted the right to attend the PCTI pursuant to the requirements of the statute and regulations; I further ORDER the cross application of Respondent seeking summary disposition be and hereby is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE VOCATIONAL SCHOOL OF THE COUNTY OF PASSAIC, Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF MANCHESTER REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT,

Respondent.

STIPULATION OF FACTS

Petitioner, Board of Education of the Vocational School of the County of Passaic (hereinafter referred to as "PCTI Board" or "petitioner") and respondent, Board of Education of Manchester Regional High School District ("Manchester Board" or "respondent"), stipulate to the following facts:

1. PCTI Board operates the Passaic County Technical Institute ("PCTI"), which is located in the Township of Wayne, Passaic County, New Jersey.

2. PCTI is a duly authorized county vocational school.

3. PCTI provides vocational and technical educational programs to students on both a full-time and part-time or "shared-time" basis.

4. Admission to PCTI is open to all high school students in Passaic County.

5. PCTI charges tuition on a per student basis to the districts in which those students reside, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1.

6. The current tuition is $9,564.00 for a regular full-time student, $14,529.00 for a full-time special needs student and $3,500.00 for "half-share" or "shared-time" students. 7. Manchester Board operates the Manchester Regional High School District ("Manchester R.H.S.").

8. Manchester R.H.S. services the Boroughs of Haledon, North Haledon and Prospect Park.

9. Manchester R.H.S. is a comprehensive regional high school with a full-range of academic classes and four approved vocational programs.

10. As set forth in the State Board of Education's Directory of Verified Occupational Programs, there are four CIP approved occupational programs offered by Manchester R.H.S.: (1) Business Education, Accounting Technician, CIP Code No. 520302; (2) Business Education, General Office, CIP Code No. 520408; (3) Marketing Education, General Marketing Operations, CIP Code No. 080708; and (4) Technology and Communications, CISCO Networking Academy, CIP Code No. 521204. Three of the foregoing CIP approved occupational programs are also offered by PCTI (CIP Code Nos. 520302, 520408, and 521204).

11. Manchester R.H.S. does not maintain a vocational school pursuant to Article 2 of Chapter 54 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes.

12. On January 29, 2004, the Manchester Board passed a resolution directing that "starting with the 2004-05 Freshman class, payment of full time tuition payments not be paid to Passaic County Technology Institute (PCTI)" and "the Board of Education will not pay tuition to PCTI for students taking the same vocations courses that are offered at Manchester Regional High School for which HRHS has a CIP number." A true and exact copy of an extract from the minutes of the January 29, 2004 meeting of the Manchester Board is attached hereto as Exhibit "A".

13. Under cover of letter dated February 4, 2004, PCTI was advised of the Manchester Board's position regarding its payment of tuition to PCTI for Manchester R.H.S. district students accepted into PCTI. A true and exact copy of the February 4, 2004 letter is attached hereto as Exhibit "B".

14. In the February 4, 2004 letter, the Manchester Board stated that on January 29, 2004, the Manchester Board resolved to refuse to remit tuition for vocational instruction given to any PCTI student for "any vocational instruction given to students who could otherwise attend Manchester H.S. in "comparable CIP approved" courses. See Exhibit B.

15. In the February 4, 2004 letter, PCTI was also advised that on January 29, 2004, Manchester Board passed a resolution in which it resolved to "only pay for 'Shared Time' (the instructional time allocated only for vocational instruction - not academic instruction) services" starting with the 2004-2005 freshman class. See Exhibit "B".

16. In a letter dated February 12, 2004, PCTI advised the Superintendent of the Manchester R.H.S. district that the Manchester Board's action was in direct violation of state law and requested the Manchester Board reconsider its decision. A true and exact copy of the February 12, 2004 letter is attached hereto as Exhibit "C".

17. Manchester R.H.S. district is a sending district within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1

18. Originally, beginning with the 2004-2005 school year, the Manchester Board was refusing to remit tuition to PCTI for students residing in the Manchester R.H.S. district that are accepted to attend PCTI on a full-time basis if those students enroll in CIP-approved courses comparable to CIP-approved courses offered by Manchester R.H.S. However, the Manchester Board has deferred implementation of the foregoing action until the 2005-2006 school year.

19. Originally, beginning with the 2004-2005 school year, the Manchester Board was refusing to remit tuition to PCTI for students residing in the Manchester R.H.S. district that are accepted to attend PCTI for any vocational instruction given to students who could otherwise attend Manchester R.H.S. in "comparable CIP approved" courses. However, the Manchester Board has deferred implementation of the foregoing action until the 2005-2006 school year.

20. For the 2001-2002 academic year, 51 students from the Manchester R.H.S. district applied for admission to PCTI and 20 were accepted.

21. For the 2002-2003 academic year, 63 students from the Manchester R.H.S. district applied for admission to PCTI and 24 were accepted.

22. For the 2003-2004 academic year, 50 students from the Manchester R.H.S.

district applied for admission to PCTI and 27 were accepted.

23. For the 2004-2005 academic year, 55 students from the Manchester R.H.S. district applied for admission to PCTI and 24 were accepted.

24. As of June 2002, 90 students from the Manchester R.H.S. district were enrolled at PCTI for the 2001-02 school year, of which 62 were regular students and 28 were special education students. All 90 students attended on a full-time basis.

25. As of June 2003, 83 students from the Manchester R. H.S. district were enrolled at PCTI for the 2002-03 school year, of which 61 were regular students and 22 were special education students. All 83 students attended on a full-time basis.

26. As of June 2004, 99 students from the Manchester R. H.S. district were enrolled at PCTI for the 2003-04 school year, of which 73 were regular students and 26 were special education students. Of the 99 students attending, 98 students attended on a full-time basis and 1 special education student attended on a half-share basis.

27. As of October 2004, 84 students from the Manchester R.H.S. district were enrolled at PCTI for the 2004-05 school year, of which 63 students were regular students and 21 were special education students. All 84 students attended on a full-time basis.

28. PCTI's tuition rates have remained unchanged since the 2001-2002 school year. The tuition rates charged beginning with 2001-2002 and continuing through the 2004-2005 school year are as follows:

Full time, regular	$9,564.00
Full time, special education	$14,529.00
Half share, regular	$3,500.00
Half share, special education	$3,500.00

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF SEA ISLE,	:
	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
PETITIONER,	:	DECISION
V.	:
WILLIAM J. KENNEDY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

The Board of Education filed a petition claiming that respondent Board member, who is pursuing claims against the district alleging violation of his son's educational rights, has an incompatible interest mandating his disqualification from Board service pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2.

The ALJ found that respondent did not have a disqualifying conflict of interest, relying on an October 2004 Advisory Opinion of the School Ethics Commission that interpreted N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(j) as carving out an exception whereby board members may, under circumstances such as respondent's, pursue their own interests in matters involving the board without violating the School Ethics Act.

The Commissioner rejected the Initial Decision, holding that the School Ethics Commission's interpretation of its own Act, and its determination that certain conduct would not violate the Act, could not be determinative of a board member's fundamental qualification to hold office under the school laws. Applying the standards of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 and prior case law, the Commissioner found respondent to have a direct and substantial interest in a claim against the petitioning Board, thus disqualifying him from Board membership. The Commissioner ordered respondent removed as a member of the Sea Isle City Board of Education as of the filing date of this decision, and directed the County Superintendent to fill the resulting vacancy for a term to expire at the reorganization meeting following the April 2006 annual school election, with the remaining one-year portion of respondent's term (expiring in April 2007) to be placed on the ballot at that same election.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 62-3/05

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF SEA ISLE,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
WILLIAM J. KENNEDY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions filed by the Board of Education (Board) were not considered by the Commissioner, having been submitted outside the applicable regulatory time frame absent a request for extension in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8.[1]

Upon careful review and consideration, the Commissioner determines to reject the Initial Decision, since he cannot concur with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the School Ethics Commission's October 2004 interpretation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(j) supersedes prior case law arising under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 or supports a conclusion that respondent does not have a conflict of interest precluding his membership on the Board pursuant to that statute.

As ALJ Law himself well stated in a prior matter where N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(j) was invoked as an exception to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2:

> Although subsection (j) of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24 provides that any school official, or members of his/her immediately family, may represent themselves in negotiations or proceedings concerning his/her own interests, this subsection of the statute does not amend nor supersede N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2. Rather, the School Ethics Act supplements Chapter 12 of Title 18A by "providing standards of ethical conduct for local school officials." (Historical and Statutory Notes, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21). The conflict of interest statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2, is clear and unambiguous where it states, "No member of any board of education shall be interested directly or indirectly in any ... claim against the board, ..." As the Commissioner observed in Alfonsetti, et al. v. Lakewood Twp. Board of Ed., 1975 S.L.D. 297 at 299:

[1] Unless an extension is requested and granted, exceptions are due within 13 days of the mailing date of the Initial Decision. N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. In this instance, the Initial Decision was mailed on May 20, 2005, but exceptions bearing a face date of June 3, 2005—already one day beyond the regulatory due date of June 2, 2005—were not filed until June 6, 2005.

> In every case involving the interpretation of a statute, it is the function of the court to ascertain the intention of the Legislature from the plain meaning of the statute and to apply it to the facts as it finds them, Carley v. Liberty Hat Mfg. Co., 81 N.J.L. 505, 507 (E. & A. 1910). A clear and unambiguous statute is not open to construction or interpretation, and to do so in a case where not required is to do violence to the doctrine of the separation of powers. Such a stature [sic] is clear in its meaning and no one need look beyond the literal dictates of the words and phrases used for the true intent and purpose in its creation. Watt v. Mayor and Council of Borough of Franklin, 21 N.J. 274 (1956) (at p. 277).
> Where the wording of a statue [sic] is clear and explicit we are not permitted to indulge in any interpretation other than that called for by the express words set forth... Duke Power Co. v. Patten, 20 N.J. 42 (1955) (at p. 49).

The wording of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 is clear, explicit and unambiguous with respect to the prohibition of a board of education member having a claim against the board of education with which he/she serves. The Commissioner has, in fact, upheld the statute to remove board members who have been found to be in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2. Taliaferro, supra; Holmdel, supra.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that respondent's reliance upon N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(j) as an exception to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 is misplaced and is hereby DISMISSED as a defense in this matter. (Board of Education of the Township of Brick, Ocean County v. Edward Mercer, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 5, 9)

This analysis and conclusion are no less cogent, and no less valid, as a result of the School Ethics Commission's subsequent opinion that N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(j) allows for an exception to the ethical standards set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(g).

In enacting the School Ethics Act, the Legislature declared that, in the interest of confidence in school government, it was necessary to ensure that board of education members avoid conduct that violates—or creates a justifiable impression of violating—the public trust; it further stated its intent to provide, through the Act, standards to guide such conduct. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22. It established the School Ethics Commission for the express purpose of carrying out the Act, and set forth a process whereby a board member found to have violated the Act's standards of conduct would be sanctioned through a penalty ranging from reprimand to removal. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-28, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Significantly, it did not act to repeal any part of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2, as it clearly could have if it had intended to have all questions of conflict addressed through the School Ethics Act, or to remove the possibility of a board member's disqualification based on inherently incompatible interests as opposed to removal based on the commission of unethical acts while in office.

On its face and in light of its legislative history, the School Ethics Act is clearly intended to guide, and where necessary sanction, the conduct of duly qualified board members; it was not intended, and cannot now be construed, as the means or standard for determining the qualification of a board member pursuant to Article 1 of N.J.S.A. 18A:12 (18A:12-1 through 18A:12-3). Moreover, although the School Ethics Commission clearly has the authority to interpret the Act through its decisions and issuance of advisory opinions, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-31, the Commissioner, to whom adjudication of board member qualification is reserved in the event of a dispute, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, is not bound by the Commission's interpretation in applying a school law within his own jurisdiction, particularly where, as here, such interpretation would effectively act to vitiate such law. In other words, the School Ethics Commission's opinion that a board member's pursuit of a claim of the type at issue herein would not constitute a violation of the School Ethics Act does not mean that the existence of such a claim could not disqualify the board member under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2; the Commission cannot determine the legal qualification of a board member, only whether a particular course of conduct violates the Act, and the Commission's opinion in that regard is not dispositive of an inquiry before the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2.

Thus, notwithstanding the Commission's conclusion that N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(j) carves out an exception to the Ethics Act whereby, under circumstances such as here present, board members may pursue their own interests in matters involving the board, that opinion does not—indeed, cannot—create a concomitant exception to the prohibitions of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2, so that the Commissioner must still ascertain whether respondent has a direct or indirect interest in a claim against the board of education so as to disqualify him as a board member while the claim is pending.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner finds that respondent does, indeed, have such a claim. In two separate proceedings as referenced in the Initial Decision's factual recitation, respondent has claimed that the Board is denying his son's educational entitlements, alleging that:

> [M.] has been abused and continues to be abused in his current placement andthis abuse is the direct result of a lack of support that [M.] and his teacher's aide should be receiving from district personnel and behavioral consultants. The district has violated both the letter and spirit of the Agreement [that settled respondent's prior due process complaint] through the complete disintegration of the provision of services, communication with the parents, and the proper support of the district's own personnel. In short, the district has created an environment that is hostile to [M.], and this environment is causing behavioral reversals. (Initial Decision at 3, Exhibits A and B)

It is well established that the "interest which disqualifies is not necessarily a direct pecuniary interest; it is based on the moral rule that no man can serve two masters whose interests conflict." Lee, supra, at 9, citing Aldom v. Borough of Roseland, 42 N.J. Super 495, 502 (App. Div. 1956). It is likewise well established that the determination of whether such a conflict exists is necessarily a factual one and depends on the circumstances of the particular case. Aldom, supra, at 503. Having undisputedly elected to pursue two legal claims against the district alleging violation of the educational rights of his child, there can be no question that respondent has an interest of the most direct and personal nature in a claim against the Board, and that his dual interests as a Board member and a father preclude his continued Board membership under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 unless he abandons his claims.[2]

Nor is respondent's abstention from voting in matters involving his son's case sufficient to remedy the situation, as respondent and the ALJ suggest based upon the School Ethics Commission opinion. Rather, as noted above, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 is a disqualifying statute, identifying situations that are inherently incompatible with membership on a board of education; it does not provide for board members in such situations to serve while abstaining from vote and discussion on selected issues. Indeed, as the statute recognizes, simply by virtue of his membership on the Board and regardless of any efforts on his part to avoid impropriety, respondent could not function as a Board member without regularly being placed in "a situation of temptation to serve his own purpose to the prejudice of those for whom the law authorized him to act as a public official." Holmdel, supra, at 676, quoting S&L Associates, Inc. v. Washington Township, 61 N.J. Super. 312, 329 (App. Div. 1960) At a minimum, respondent would routinely be—or equally important, have the opportunity to be—privy to matters involving staffing, programming, and personnel issues that directly or indirectly relate to issues implicated in his claim against the Board, raising both the temptation to act in his own interest and the appearance that he may have done so. This is not a question of respondent's conduct, but of the existence of an inherently untenable situation, precisely the evil N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 seeks to avoid. Board of Education of the Borough of Palmyra v. Robert Marinnie, decided by the Commissioner June 8, 2005 (#208-05), slip opinion at 11.

[2] This holding is in no way intended to suggest that respondent's son waives or abandons his educational rights because his parent is a Board member, nor does it mean that parents who are also board members lose the ability to pursue claims that their children are being denied lawful educational entitlements. What it does mean, however, is that such parents must decide which of their two conflicting interests they will honor at any given time, since a parent—like anyone else whose board service requires them to relinquish a claim or contract they would otherwise have the right to pursue—may not simultaneously sit as a member of a board while maintaining an action against it.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed herein, the Commissioner rejects the Initial Decision of the OAL, finding instead that respondent William J. Kennedy has a disqualifying conflict of interest in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 and is, therefore, removed as a member of the Sea Isle City Board of Education as of the filing date of this decision. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-15a, the Cape May County Superintendent of Schools is directed to fill the resulting vacancy for a term to expire upon the Board's reorganization following the next (April 2006) annual school election, and the Board is directed to place the remaining one-year portion of respondent's term, which was due to expire in April 2007, on the ballot for the April 2006 annual school election.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF SEA ISLE CITY, CAPE MAY COUNTY, Petitioner,

v.

WILLIAM J. KENNEDY,

Respondent.

James B. Arsenault, Jr., Esquire for petitioner (Cooper Levenson, attorneys)

Stacey D. C. Brock, Esquire, appearing for respondent, pro hac vice (Mayerson and Associates, attorneys)

Record Closed: April 25, 2005 Decided: May 16, 2005

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ, T/A:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, the Board of Education of the City of Sea Isle City (Board), asserts that respondent, William J. Kennedy, has an incompatible interest as a member of petitioner's Board as proscribed by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2, which mandates his disqualification from serving on the Board. Petitioner seeks a Declaratory Ruling issued by the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) to remove respondent from serving on the Board.

Respondent contends that he does not take part in any matters or discussions relating to his son, [M.K.], a pupil eligible for special education and related services pursuant to Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) 20 U.S.C.A. §1400, et seq. and the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, §504, 29 U.S.C.A. §794. Respondent further contends that the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction to determine the instant matter and that it most appropriately should be determined by the School Ethics Commission and seeks to have the Petition of Appeal dismissed.

On March 14, 2005, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. The instant matter was transmitted to the OAL with a companion case, W.K. & P.K. o/b/o M.K. v. Sea Isle City Board of Education, OAL Docket No. EDS 2027-05. The record opened on March 16, 2005, at the Atlantic City OAL. Thereafter, the parties engaged in settlement discussions with respect to the special education matter, with no resolution of the issues on that date. Subsequent conference calls were held on April 4 and April 8, 2005. The matter was scheduled for hearing on May 16, 2005, at the Atlantic City OAL.

As a consequence of the discussions concerning the special education matter, the instant matter was held in abeyance. By letter from counsel for the Board, dated April 25, 2005, requesting that a determination in the instant matter be issued, the undersigned complied and determined the matter as follows.

RESPONDENT'S BACKGROUND FACTS

On March 2, 2005, respondent's attorney addressed a letter to Barbara Gantwerk, Director of the Office of Special Education Programs, Department of Education, wherein he stated, in part, as follows:

> [M.K.] is an eight year old boy who has been diagnosed with an autism spectrum disorder and presents with a variety of "interfering behaviors requiring intensive and competent behavioral supports and interventions. [M.] is highly distractible, and has significant difficulty with transitions and with the process of generalization. On the other hand, [M.] tests within the range of normal intelligence and he has been benefiting being educated with non-disabled peers, with significant additional supports, services > and accommodations. In light of the Third Circuit's decision in the seminal Ridgewood case, what is "meaningful" and appropriate for a child like [M.] may be entirely different from the program that would be meaningful and appropriate for another child diagnosed with an autism spectrum disorder. In order to maintain [M.'s] meaningful success in a mainstream, least restrictive environment a "full court press" is necessary.

> In pursuit of a program for [M.] that would confer a meaningful educational benefit, [M.'s] parents exercised their due process rights and filed for an impartial hearing during the 2003-2004 school year. In an effort to resolve the complaint, the parties agreed to enter into a stipulation that applied to the 2004-2005 school year (hereafter the "Agreement"). See Attachment A. Among other things, the Sea Isle City Board of Education agreed to cooperate with the Kennedy family and implement the terms of the settlement in good faith, which included the proper and appropriate implementation of [M.'s] IEP.
> We submit that [M.] has been abused and continues to be abused in his current placement and that this abuse is the direct result of a lack of support that [M.] and his teacher's aide should be receiving from district personnel and behavioral consultants. The district has violated both the letter and spirit of the Agreement through the complete disintegration of the provision of services, communication with the parents, and the proper support of the district's own personnel. In short, the district has created an environment that is hostile to [M.], and this environment is causing behavioral reversals.

Respondent's attorney continues to state in his letter to Ms. Gantwerk, among other things, that the Board immediately perform in accordance with the Agreement with Compensatory Education in the form of increased consultation and support, together with the full backing and support of [M.'s] one-to-one aide. He requests an extended day service at home in order that [M.] may generalize his skills and achieve the meaningful educational benefit to which he is entitled and to maintain in his least restrictive environment. He also asserts, among other things, that [M.] is entitled to the "stay put" provision as per the law of IDEA.

FACTS AND CASE LAW ACCORDING TO THE BOARD'S PETITION

The following represents edited facts as set forth, in part, by the Board in its Petition of Appeal, and its legal arguments with respect to the instant matter:

1. The Board is a body corporate and politic, duly organized to operate the public schools for the City Isle City.

2. Respondent, William J. Kennedy, is a member of the Board

3. Mr. Kennedy was elected to a three-year term at the April 20, 2004, annual school election, was seated as a member of the Board at it reorganization meeting held on April 27, 2004, and was elected as the Board President.

4. This was Mr. Kennedy's second term as a Board member. Mr. Kennedy was initially elected to the Board in the 2001 school election, and was thereafter selected as its President. Mr. Kennedy resigned from the Board on or about June 29, 2003.

5. [M.K.], Mr. Kennedy's son, is presently in the Board's second grade and is a classified pupil and receives special education and related services pursuant to an individualized education plan (IEP).

6. Following his resignation from the Board on June 29, 2003, Mr. Kennedy and his wife filed a due process complaint against the Board on behalf of their child, [M.K.] The matter was captioned W.K. & P.K. o/b/o M.K. v. Sea Isle City Board of Education, Docket Number (EDS) 06465-2003S, Agency Ref. 2004-807 ("M.K. I").

7. Ultimately, a stipulation of settlement was reached in that litigation. The stipulation of settlement was dated April 27, 2004.

8. While the stipulation of settlement was being finalized, Mr. Kennedy ran for and was elected to his second term on the Board, which commenced on April 28, 2004 – the day after the stipulation of settlement was executed.

9. At the time of his election, Mr. Kennedy was qualified for office in accordance with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1. Given the execution of the stipulation of settlement, there was also no inconsistent interest as defined by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 which would disqualify Mr. Kennedy from taking office on April 28, 2004. Thus, Mr. Kennedy was seated as a Board member.

10. By letter dated March 1, 2005, Mr. Kennedy's attorney, Gary S. Mayerson, Esquire, filed an Application for Emergent Relief in a matter encaptioned (sic), W.K & P.K. o/b/o M.K. v. Sea Isle City Board of Education ("M.K. II"). A copy of Mr. Mayerson's March 1, 2005, letter is attached as Exhibit A. The Board's attorney received Mr. Mayerson's letter via facsimile on March 1, 2005, at 6:29 p.m.

11. On March 2, 2005, the Board's attorney received a second letter from Mr. Mayerson outlining the same allegations and the same requested relief, attached as Exhibit B.

12. Both the March 1 and March 2 letters include footnote 1 at page 1, which provides in relevant part that "William Kennedy is the Chief of the Sea Isle City Police Department and a member of the Sea Isle City School Board. Mr. Kennedy will recuse himself from all matters relating to the school district and those relating to his son."

13. In a continuing series of decisions, the Commissioner and the State Board of Education have reviewed the types of claims against local school boards of education by operation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2.

14. Beginning with Woodstown-Pilegrove Reg. Bd. of Educ. v. Ketas, 1979 S.L.D. 353, rev'd St. Bd. 1980 S.L.D. 1563, aff'd per curiam App. Div. 1980 S.L.D. 1507, and continuing in a line of cases which includes Holmdel Tp. Bd. of Educ. v. O'Connel, 1990 S.L.D. 674, Taliaferro v. Hawthorne Bd. of Ed., 94 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 197, Williams v. Ciliberto, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 990, I/M/O Tullo, 1999 S.L.D. April 26, and Berlin Borough Bd. of Educ. v. Lee, 2000 S.L.D. June 14, the Commissioner and/or the State Board of Education have concluded that substantial and material interests adverse to a board of education disqualify a board member from continued board service.

15. Such substantial and material adverse interests have included worker's compensation claims (See I/M/O Tullo, supra.), tuition claims for a board member's grandchild (See Williams, supra.) and claims of damages for assault brought on behalf of a board member's minor child. (See Holmdel Tp. supra.)

16. An actual claim is not necessary to present an incompatible interest; even the filing of a notice of tort claim prior to the commencement of any formal legal action is sufficient to warrant the disqualification of a board member (See Berlin Borough Bd. of Educ., supra. and Taliaferro, supra.)

17. Mr. Kennedy tendered his resignation from the Board prior to commencing the M.K. litigation. In doing so, Mr. Kennedy must have realized the incompatible interest that such a claim represents.

18. On or about February 15, 2005, Mr. Kennedy did resign as Board President, yet he specifically retained his seat as a member of the Board.

19. Based on the foregoing, the Petitioner submits that Mr. Kennedy has a incompatible interest as proscribed by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1 that mandates his disqualification as a member of the Board.

WHEREFORE, Petitioner request a declaratory ruling from the Commissioner with regard to Mr. Kennedy's continued membership on the Sea Isle City Board of Education. If the Commissioner agrees that an incompatible interest pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 exists that disqualifies Mr. Kennedy from serving as a Board member, the Petitioner asks for the Commissioner's guidance as to the status of that seat and any vacancy therein, and for any such other relief as may be necessary or warranted as a result of such determination.

FACTS ACCORING TO RESPONDENT'S ANSWER TO THE PETITION

The following represents the facts as contained in respondent's Answer to Petitioner's Appeal:

1. Respondent acknowledges the allegations set forth at paragraphs 1-10 and 12, 13, 14, and 20 of the Petition, except insofar as they would suggest that Petitioner is properly discharging it statutory and contractual obligations to Respondent's son, [M.K.]

2. In response to paragraphs 11 (9 herein) and 19 (17 herein) of the Petition, Respondent avers that even as to the 2003 due process litigation, although Respondent did temporarily resign from the Sea Isle City Board of Education, there is no legal requirement for Respondent to resign from the Sea Isle City Board so long as Respondent abstained from any discussions or deliberations concerning [M.K.], or the claims that had been asserted on his behalf.

3. In response to the allegations contained in certain paragraphs of the Petition citing decisional law, Respondent avers that the authorities cited by Petitioner's counsel are largely older or inappropriate decisions that have been superseded by the recent October 12, 2004 Advisory Opinion A30-04 of the School Ethics Commission (Exhibit A), an important and highly instructive authority that is simply missing in action from Petitioner's papers.

4. Respondent denies the allegations set for at paragraph 21 of the Petition, and avers that there are no facts that would mandate Respondent's automatic disqualification as a member of the Board provided the Respondent undertakes to abstain from all discussions and deliberations regarding [M.] and the claims and issues that have been asserted on his behalf.

5. The School Ethics Commission's Opinion A30-04 (Exhibit A) addresses *N.J.S.A.*18A:12-24 (Exhibit B) of the New Jersey Department of Education School Ethics Act which pertains to conflicts of interest.

6. Specifically, the School Ethics Commission's Opinion A30-04 (Exhibit A) explains why there is a recognized exception for precisely this kind of situation by reason of N.J.S.A. 18A;12-24(j), which provides that "nothing shall prohibit any school official, or members of his immediate family, from representing himself, or themselves, in negotiations or proceedings concerning his, or their, own interests." It is axiomatic that [M.K.], William Kennedy's son (with autism) is a member of Mr. Kennedy's "immediate family."

7. School Ethics Commission's Opinion A30-04 (Exhibit A) grants a board member an exception from disqualification so long as the board member takes the precaution to abstain from any deliberations or discussions regarding the claim asserted on behalf of he immediate family member. Here, the Petition admits the Respondent's March 1, 2005 claims were asserted with an express undertaking on Respondent's part to abstain and recuse himself from any and all such discussions. Under such circumstances, we urge that there is a clear exception to the general rule that permits Mr. Kennedy to stay on the Board, so long as he continues to follow the rule established by the School Ethics Commission.

8. There can be no substantial or material conflict if (as Mr. Kennedy voluntarily and previously undertook to do) the board member abstains and recuses himself from the pertinent discussions and deliberations. On this issue, Mr. Kennedy did the right thing here before anyone even asked him to do so.

9. The fact that Mr. Kennedy resigned from the Board in a prior 2003 due process proceeding involving his son [M.] is of no import. Mr. Kennedy did so voluntarily, of his own accord, strictly in an overabundance of sensitivity to this issue. It is irrelevant to the extent that Mr. Kennedy (to his honor and credit) did more in 2003 than he was required to do. Had Mr. Kennedy been aware of the statutory exception, or if the School Ethics Commission had rules on this issue at that time, Mr. Kennedy would not have resigned, but rather would have done the same thing that he is doing now (i.e. expressly undertaking to abstain from all ["M."] related discussions or deliberations).

10. Significantly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29 (Exhibit C) complaints of this type are required to first be filed with the School Ethics Commission. Subsection (d) of that Article states that "Any appeal of the commission's determination regarding a violation of this act. . . .shall be the State Board of Education in accordance with Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes." For reasons known only to Petitioner, Petitioner impermissibly leapfrogged over the exclusive jurisdiction of the School Ethics Commission and thus, we submit, it is not now properly before the State Board of Education. It is axiomatic that there must first be a decision from the School Ethics Commission before there can be and "appeal" to the State Board of Education. We mean no disrespect by urging that the State Board of Education does not yet have jurisdiction over this matter.

11. Accordingly, the Petition should be dismissed with leave to refile before the School Ethics Commission. However, we are compelled to put Respondent (sic) on notice that if Respondent (sic), with full knowledge of the October, 2004 Opinion of the School Ethics Commission, would elect to refile its Petition before that tribunal, we would consider it entirely frivolous and seek whatever financial or other remedies that would be available. Mr. Kennedy is trying to secure his son's educational entitlements-he should not be in the position of spending time and money defending his board position from a frivolous attack.

ADVISORY OPINION A30-04 OF THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION

On October 12, 2004, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) rendered an advisory opinion, upon respondent's request, as to whether or not respondent might appeal a § 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended , 29 U.S.C. §794 (§504) determination that was decided after respondent became a member of the Board. The request was filed with the Commission prior to respondent's election to the Board. Respondent also requested, among other things, for an opinion as to whether or not he could be reimbursed for tuition and/or attorney's fees if respondent's child prevails with the opinion.

The Commission found and determined, among other things, that pursuant to the authority in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-28, respondent had the same rights as any similarly situated parent. Specifically, the Commission determined that respondent did not have a substantial conflict of interest in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a) or (g) by serving as a member of the Board and pursuing an appeal of a §504 determination or seeking tuition or attorney's fees. The Commission did advise, however, that respondent abstain from all Board discussions and decisions involving the §504 determination pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c). The Commission advised respondent further, that he should not be present in the Board's executive sessions when it discusses matters concerning his son. The Commission cites the appropriate portions of the statutes upon which it relied in making its determination. The Commission

LEGAL ANALYSIS

In the matter of the Board of Education of the Township of Jackson, Ocean County v. Gustav Acevedo, II, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 163, a comprehensive discussion is set forth of the issue of a conflict of interest of a board of education member who has a claim against the board with which the board member serves. This discussion does not, however, include the issue of the rights of the board member's son to a free and appropriate public education (FAPE) under the law of IDEA.

In its analysis of the issue, the Commission has rightly determined that it believes N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(j) provides an exception to respondent's situation. The statute provides that, "Nothing shall prohibit any school official, or members of his immediate family, from representing himself, or themselves, in negotiations or proceeding concerning his, or their, own interests." Respondent herein is exercising the rights of his son, [M.K.] to a FAPE. Respondent's son does not waive or abandon his rights to a FAPE simply because his father is a member of the board of education responsible for providing such a FAPE. The statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(j) clearly allows respondent to opportunity to pursue his Petition of Appeal against the Board.

CONCLUSION

I CONCLUDE, therefore, grounded upon the discussion hereinbefore, that the Board's Petition of Appeal before the Commissioner to have respondent removed from its membership in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2, is without merit and must be dismissed. I CONCLUDE that the Board has failed to demonstrate an incompatible interest on the part of respondent. Rather, respondent is pursuing the rights of a minor, his son, [M.K.] to a free and appropriate public education, which the Board is required to provide under the IDEA.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the herein Petition of Appeal is hereby DISMISSED, with prejudice.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

CONTROL BUILDING SERVICES, INC.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY, AND PRITCHARD INDUSTRIES, INC.,	:	DECISION ON MOTION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The audiocassette tapes of the emergent hearing conducted on petitioner's motion for emergent relief at the Office of Administrative Law and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed by the Deputy Commissioner to whom this matter has been delegated for decision, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-33.

Upon review, the Deputy Commissioner initially clarifies the facts set forth by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) with respect to the history of the 2003 litigation between these parties set forth at page 3 of the Initial Decision. As noted in the Initial Decision, the ALJ issued a recommended Order on August 22, 2003 granting petitioner's motion for emergent relief to restrain the award of the contract at issue pending a decision on the merits of petitioner's claim. Subsequently, the ALJ's recommended Order was adopted by the Deputy Commissioner on September 8, 2003. However, on July 8, 2004, the ALJ issued an Initial Decision wherein he recommended granting the Paterson School District's (District) motion to dismiss petitioner's complaint. On September 3, 2004, the Deputy Commissioner, in his capacity as Acting Commissioner, adopted the ALJ's recommendation and dismissed the petition. On October 14, 2004, the Deputy Commissioner denied petitioner's application for a stay of his decision and on October 22, 2004, the State Board stayed the Deputy Commissioner's decision, pending its decision on the merits of petitioner's claim. On December 15, 2004, the State Board affirmed the Deputy Commissioner's September 3, 2004 decision.[1]

Turning to the motion for emergent relief which is at issue in this matter, the Deputy Commissioner points out that the standard for obtaining emergent relief is set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6. A grant of emergent relief is considered an extraordinary remedy which may only be issued where petitioner has demonstrated that the relief is necessary to prevent irreparable harm, where the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled, where there is a likelihood of success on the merits and where the relative hardship to the moving party favors granting such relief. Crowe, supra, at 132-34.

With respect to irreparable harm, the Deputy Commissioner concurs that petitioner has not demonstrated that it will be irreparably harmed absent a stay of the award of the 2005-2007 contract to Pritchard Industries, Inc. (Pritchard). Harm is generally considered irreparable only if it cannot be redressed by monetary damages. Crowe, supra, at 132-133. Notwithstanding petitioner's assertion that it will have no monetary remedy because it is barred by N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46 from filing a claim for monetary damages against the District arising from a violation of the Public Schools Contract Law, the Commissioner points out that petitioner has presented nothing to suggest improper actions by the District in awarding this 2005 contract to Pritchard, and N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46 does not preclude petitioner from seeking damages from Pritchard in the event it prevails on the merits of its appeal. Thus, the Deputy Commissioner is not persuaded that petitioner cannot be made whole should it ultimately prevail in its claim.

Moreover, petitioner has not demonstrated that the legal right underlying its claim is settled or that there is a likelihood of its success on the merits. Petitioner claims that Pritchard's bid must be rejected because the bid is non-conforming and materially deficient because it: 1) fails to itemize the number of daily hours of Black Seal custodians on Line 2 of the Bid Disclosure Sheet #1; and 2) fails to list a dollar amount for "vehicles" and "vehicle insurance" on Bid Disclosure Sheet #1. (Petitioner's Brief in Support of Motion at 21-24) With respect to Pritchard's failure to list the daily number of hours the Black Seal custodians will be working, the Deputy Commissioner notes that this line was not left blank and, as both the District and Pritchard point out, the information is available to the District by performing a simple mathematical calculation of dividing the total of the dollars paid to each category of custodian by the category's hourly wage. The information provided by Pritchard on lines #1 and #2 of the Bid Disclosure Sheet is as follows:

	Hours
1. Custodian/Wages	1738	x	$ 9.23 per hr.	$3,578,421.76
2. Custodian w/ black seal wages	incl above	x	$10.08 per hr.	$ 578,027.52

(Petitioner's Exhibit B, Bid Disclosure Sheet #1)

With respect to petitioner's assertion that Pritchard's bid is materially deficient because it fails to list a dollar amount for "vehicles" and "vehicle insurance," the District avers that:

> This argument is mistaken because the information on vehicles that Petitioner declares is lacking, was not required to be submitted by bidders in the first place. In fact, the District explicitly excluded any requirement in Bid Disclosure Sheet #1 that the dollar amount for vehicles and vehicle insurance be included in the form by adding the language "not in total" in the spaces where the dollar amount for these expenditures would be included. (District's Brief at 6)

In light of the District's representation that vehicle information was not required, the Deputy Commissioner rejects petitioner's argument that it will prevail on its claim that Pritchard's bid is materially deficient for failing to list a dollar amount for "vehicle" and "vehicle insurance."

Additionally, as noted by the parties, the controlling authority for determination of the materiality of a bid specification for purposes of disqualification is Meadowbrook Carting Co, Inc. v. Borough of Island Heights, 138 N.J. 307 (1994), in which the Supreme Court developed a two-prong test for determining whether an instance of noncompliance with a bid specification constitutes a substantial, non-waivable irregularity, as follows:

> first, whether the effect of a waiver would be to deprive the municipality of its assurance that the contract will be entered into, performed and guaranteed according to its specified requirements, and second, whether it is of such a nature that its waiver would adversely affect competitive bidding by placing a bidder in a position of advantage over other bidders or by otherwise undermining the necessary common standard of competition. (citations omitted) Meadowbrook at 315.

Under the Meadowbrook standard, the Deputy Commissioner cannot conclude petitioner has demonstrated a likelihood that it will prevail on its claim that Pritchard's bid is non-conforming and materially deficient for failing to list the number of daily hours attributable to Black Seal custodians. As noted above, this information is available through a simple mathematical calculation, and the Deputy Commissioner is not persuaded that the absence of a specific listing deprives the District of an assurance that the contract will be performed according to its specifications or that this de minimus deficiency adversely affected the competitive bidding process or gave Pritchard an advantage over other bidders.

Turning to petitioner's claim that it has a likelihood of success on the merits because Pritchard is not the "lowest responsible bidder" by reason of its lack of moral integrity as demonstrated in the 2003 bidding process, the Deputy Commissioner points out that, notwithstanding the review of petitioner's identical claims of fraud and collusion in the 2003 bidding matter by two superior court judges, the Deputy Commissioner and the State Board, there were no findings of fact with respect to petitioner's claims to substantiate petitioner's accusations. Instead, the Deputy Commissioner and the State Board determined that the District Superintendent's unilateral award to Pritchard was ultra vires in that the contract was never presented to the Board for a vote as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:18A:-48(b). As a result, the Deputy Commissioner and the State Board concluded that, given the circumstances, including the fact that the original specifications were erroneous, re-bidding was the appropriate remedy. There has been no allegation of misdeeds with respect to the re-bidding process at issue herein. Accordingly, for the reasons stated above, the Deputy Commissioner finds that petitioner has not demonstrated that the legal right underlying its claim is settled in its favor or that there is a likelihood of its success on the merits.

Finally, in weighing the equities, the Deputy Commissioner finds that the equities favor Pritchard and the District. Petitioner's arguments against awarding the contract at issue to Pritchard are essentially the same as it argued with respect to the 2003 contract award, which were fully considered by the Deputy Commissioner and State Board and resulted in a re-bidding of the contract. Moreover, the Deputy Commissioner points out that petitioner was held harmless during consideration of the 2003 matter and has continued as the contractor for custodial services for the District through the re-bidding process. Pritchard, the lowest bidder, and the District represent that they have been preparing for the transition to the new provider for the last six weeks and petitioner has presented no compelling argument why it should be permitted to remain as the contractor after failing to submit the lowest responsible bid for the 2005-2007 contract.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the ALJ is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein and for those reasons set forth above. This matter shall continue at the OAL for further proceedings on the merits of petitioner's claims as may be deemed necessary.

Record Closed: June 21, 2005 Decided: June 28, 2005

BEFORE DANIEL B. MCKEOWN, ALJ (t/a):

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Control Building Services, Inc., (petitioner), seeks emergency relief from the Commissioner of Education in the form of an Order by which Pritchard Industries, Incorporated (Pritchard), which submitted the low bid to supply custodial services to the

Petitioner was successful at that time to secure a temporary restraining order on July 9, 2003 from New Jersey Superior Court, Law Division, The Honorable Joseph F. Scancarella, Presiding, against the contract being awarded Pritchard for 2003-05 pending a hearing into the merits of Control's claim regarding the post bid announcement of low bidder between Pritchard and the School District. On July 18, 2003, The Honorable Ralph L. DeLuccia, Jr., J.S.C., ordered the continuation of the restraints already issued in the matter, but transferred the case to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing on the merits. On August 22, 2003, Richard McGill, Administrative Law Judge, issued an initial decision on a motion by which he continued the restraint against the awarding of an actual contract to Pritchard for 2003-05 be continued pending a full hearing on whether the entire contract should not be rebid. The initial decision was affirmed by the Commissioner of Education on September 8, 2003. An appeal was taken to the State Board of Education which affirmed the Commissioner of Education in his determination to agree with Administrative Law Judge McGill in continuing the restraints pending a hearing. It is interesting to note several observations made by the State Board in its decision. It said

> Initially, we recognize that the allegations made by Control are serious. However, as found by the ALJ and the Deputy Commissioner, they related to the original March 2003 invitation to bid and to actions that preceded the re-bidding process, and Control has made no allegations of wrong doing with respect to the re-bidding process as it has proceeded thus far.

And,

> Moreover, given the circumstances, including the fact that the original specifications were erroneous, re-bidding is the appropriate course to follow.

Petitioner Control Services contends that on these facts it is entitled to a temporary restraining order against the commencement of the 2005-07 contract by Pritchard because Pritchard, although the nominal low bidder, is not the 'lowest responsible bidder' within the meaning of the Public Schools Contract Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A -1, et seq., because it lacks the moral integrity to be so designated based on its conduct during the 2003 bidding process. Control says that these facts require Pritchard to be disqualified as the lowest responsible bidder and allow it, Control

Services, to continue providing the custodial services it has been providing the School District since 1996 and until it has a hearing to prove the truth of its allegations.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

Resolution of the emergent relief request is govern by the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1. Emergent relief shall be granted if it is determined from the proofs that:

i. Petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;

ii. The legal rights underlying the petitioner's claim is settled;

iii. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

iv. When the equities are an interest of the parties or balance the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if their requested relief is not granted. [N.J.A.C. 6A:14-12.7(m)1].

It is well settled that petitioner must meet these four criteria to prevail on this application. See Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Regarding the first prong of irreparable harm, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not shown irreparable harm. Control has not shown its right to continue in providing custodial services to the School District for 2005-07 in light of the fact it was not the low bidder on the contract for that period of time. I realize Control seeks to reach back to 2003 and use the efforts, misguided they may have been, of the School District and Pritchard to conclude such conduct is 'fraudulent' and 'collusive.' However, and despite the fact two superior court judges reviewed the facts on a preliminary basis, and an administrative law judge reviewed the 2003 bid facts on a preliminary basis, as did the Commissioner and State Board of Education, no such finding was entered in this record at any time. Control presented no evidence that it will suffer irreparable harm if

Pritchard is restrained from performing under the contract because it presented no evidence regarding its rights that will be harmed.

Petitioner Control must show that the legal right underlying the claim is settled. I CONCLUDE the record in this case, although voluminous at this point, does not settle Control's underlying claim.

Additionally, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not demonstrated the likelihood of success on the merits. Despite the fact Control has been providing the School District custodial services since 1996, its reliance on events in 2003 that both the Commissioner of Education and State Board of Education held, could be cured by rebidding, provides no basis for the conclusion that Pritchard and the School District engaged in fraud or collusive conduct.

In sum, I CONCLUDE for the above reasons that petitioner has not prevailed on his application for emergent relief and this application must be DENIED. Should petitioner Control wish to press claims made against the School District and Pritchard for conduct that was to have occurred in 2003, counsel must contact the Clerk of the Office of Administrative Law within 14 days from the date of this decision and a hearing date will be arranged. Otherwise, the matter shall be considered moot and will be dismissed.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BERNARD SMITH and GEORGE W. BRADFORD, individuals, Petitioners, v. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF PENNS GROVE-CARNEYS POINT, COUNTY OF SALEM, Respondent.	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY AGENCY DKT. NO.: 64-3/05 OAL DOCKET NO. 02596-2005S SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

THIS SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT is entered into by Bernard Smith and George W. Bradford, individuals, (Petitioners) and the Respondent, Penns Grove-Carneys Point Board of Education (Board).

WHEREAS, on or about March 3, 2005, the Petitioners filed a Petition of Appeal captioned Bernard Smith and George W. Bradford v. Board of Education of Penns Grove-Carneys Point, Agency Dkt. No. 64-3/05, OAL Docket No. 02596-2005S seeking the payment of attorneys' fees and costs pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6-1 in connection with not guilty findings entered in their favor by the Deptford Township Municipal Court and for the attorneys' fees and costs of an expungement; and,

WHEREAS, the Board filed an Answer to the Petition of Appeal dated April 11, 2005; and,

WHEREAS, the parties have conducted a full and complete investigation, and having had an opportunity to explore a means of resolving this dispute in a manner consonant with the public interest; and,

WHEREAS, this Agreement is the end-product of the investigation conducted between the parties and intended to dispose of the issues in controversy based upon the mutual understanding set forth below;

NOW, THEREFORE, it is agreed as follows:

1. The Petitioners agree to accept in full settlement of attorneys' fees and costs for legal representation of them in the Deptford Township Municipal Court the sum of $3,700.00 paid by the Respondent Board to Petitioners' attorneys Selikoff and Cohen, P.A. Petitioners acknowledge through their attorneys receipt/payment of this amount by the Board;

2. The Board shall also pay to Petitioners' attorneys Selikoff and Cohen, P.A. the attorneys' fees and costs incurred in connection with obtaining an expungement of the dismissed municipal court charges. Said payment shall be at the flat rate of $500.00 for each Petitioner, for a total of $1,000.00, plus any out-of-pocket costs expended, provided no court appearance is required. If an appearance is required by Petitioners' counsel, counsel will bill the Board at the hourly rate of $135.00 per hour for time expended. The Board will make payment to the Petitioners' counsel within fifteen (15) days of delivery to the Board of the signed Orders for Expungement in each case and billing invoice;

4. This Agreement shall dispose of the within matter before the Commissioner of Education, provided, however, that if payment is not made as agreed, the Petitioners may seek to enforce payment through any appropriate judicial forum having jurisdiction;

5. The parties have read the terms of this Agreement and have had the opportunity to discuss it with counsel, and acknowledge that they are executing this Agreement of their own volition, with the full understanding of its terms, and without coercion. By signing this Agreement, each signatory represents that she or he is a party to or has been duly authorized by a party to sign on the party's behalf. The parties agree that this Agreement may be signed in counterparts and that facsimiles of signatures will have the same force and effect as original signatures;

6. The parties recognize the right to a trial before the Office of Administrative Law and independent consideration of the case by the Commissioner of Education. The parties are waiving their right to a trial and agree to the settlement as set forth above. The parties have made the decision to resolve this case knowingly and voluntarily in recognition that this proposed settlement is subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Education.

Intending to be legally bound, the Petitioners and the Board, through its authorized representative, execute the foregoing Agreement on the dates indicated below.

Respondent.	:	STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

The above-captioned matter having been brought before the Commissioner of Education upon the Petition of Appeal filed by the East Brunswick Education Association (hereinafter "Association") against the Board of Education of East Brunswick (hereinafter "Board") alleging that the Board violated N.J.A.C. 6:3-3.2 by assigning several teaching staff members at the Hammarskjold Middle School to a lunch period which was not consistent with the lunch schedules of school district students (i.e. Period 7), and the parties desiring to amicably resolve the dispute between them now pending before the Court, subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein:

1. The parties acknowledge that the Hammarskjold Middle School is currently undergoing an expansion project necessitated by overcrowding in the school and that the construction project is scheduled to be completed by the end of the 2007-08 school year.

2. The Board alleges that the scheduling during the 2003-04 school year of a few teaching staff members at the Hammarskjold Middle School to a lunch period during Period 7, rather than Periods 4B through 6B, was driven by scheduling needs resulting from serious overcrowding at the school.

3. The parties recognize that until the construction is completed, scheduling difficulties resulting from the overcrowding may again result in the situation where a limited number of teaching staff members at the Hammarskjold Middle School may be assigned to a lunch period during Period 7, which is not consistent with the lunch schedules of school district students.

4. In light of the extraordinary circumstances occasioned by the current overcrowding at the Hammarskjold Middle School, and only until such time as the expansion project to alleviate that overcrowding is completed during the 2007-08 school year, the Association has agreed to allow the Board, if necessitated by scheduling needs, to assign a limited number of teaching staff members at the Hammarskjold Middle School to a lunch period during Period 7, rather than Periods 4B through 6B. This accommodation by the Association should not be interpreted as a willingness on the part of the Association to refrain from insisting upon compliance with the regulation (N.J.A.C. 6:3-3.2) in all other circumstances.

5. In the event it becomes necessary to schedule a limited number of teaching staff members to a lunch period during a period which is inconsistent with the lunch schedules of school district students, these teaching staff members shall not be assigned to a lunch period earlier than Period 4B nor later than Period 7, and the lunch period to which these teaching staff members are assigned must be no less than that provided to other teaching staff members. In addition, these teaching staff members must be provided with access to the cafeteria where any and all food selections offered to teaching staff members assigned to lunch during periods 4B through 6B must continue to be served.

6. The Board shall ensure that on days when school is scheduled for only a "half-day", with dismissal at 12:40 p.m., those teaching staff members who are assigned to lunch during Period 7 shall be assigned to a lunch during some other period in which other teaching staff members are assigned to take their lunch, but in no event earlier than Period 4B.

7. In the event that the scheduling needs of the district during the expansion project necessitates the assignment of teaching staff members to a lunch period during Period 7 of an upcoming school year, then the Board shall notify the Association and the individual teaching staff members of the proposed assignments no later than August 1 of that year. This will provide the Association and the affected teaching staff members with time to review the assignments and notify the Board if any of the assigned teaching staff members have medical or special needs which will not permit them to take lunch at such a late period of time.

8. In the event that the Association believes that the Board has assigned an excessive number of teaching staff members to a lunch period during Period 7, and/or that an assignment violates the work load language set forth in the parties' collective bargaining agreement at Article 10D1, then the Association shall have the right to file a grievance.

PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, DIVISION OF FACILITIES AND TRANSPORTATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Abbott district Board of Education appealed the Department's determination to deny retroactive funding, pursuant to the Educational Facilities Construction and Financing Act (ECFCA), for land acquired by the district in 1999 and used for the construction of an early childhood education center approved and funded pursuant to ECFCA in 2001.

In proceedings on remand, the ALJ found that the Board's land purchase was not an eligible school facilities project approved prior to the July 18, 2000 effective date of ECFCA, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-9c in order to be eligible for retroactive funding. The ALJ upheld the Department's determination as consistent with law and dismissed the petition.

Elaborating on the reasoning of the Initial Decision, the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's decision as the final decision in this matter.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF PERTH AMBOY, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION ON REMAND
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, DIVISION OF FACILITIES AND TRANSPORTATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision on Remand issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, the Board of Education (Board) filed timely exceptions, to which the Department of Education (Department) duly replied.

In its exceptions, the Board reiterates the position it has consistently taken throughout this matter, incorporating by reference its OAL briefs and previously submitted exceptions. The Board argues that it has met the conditions of the controlling statute with respect to both project eligibility and applicable time frame. With respect to project eligibility, the Board contends that both the Department and the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred in concluding that land acquisition does not constitute a school facilities project within the meaning of the Educational Facilities Construction and Financing Act (ECFCA). According to the Board, this interpretation ignores both the plain language of the statute, which provides for any of the enumerated activities to constitute an eligible project, and its remedial intent with respect to special needs districts. (Board's Exceptions at 5-7)

With respect to time frame, the Board argues that it did, in fact, have the Department's approval for acquisition of the property in question prior to the July 18, 2000 effective date of ECFCA, in that: 1) the "programmatic elements" of its 1999-2000 Early Childhood Education Plan were approved on March 24, 1999; 2) the "financial elements" of the plan—which, the Board contends, included funding for the proposed land acquisition—were addressed through its 1999-2000 general budget as approved by the Department five days later; 3) and the proposed site for the center was approved on April 28, 1999. These actions, the Board urges, occurred well before the existence of the approval and planning processes set forth in ECFCA and its implementing regulations, so that the Board secured approvals consistent with the laws in place at the time and cannot reasonably be expected to have foreseen the requirements it is now being told it must have met in order to receive retroactive funding. (Id. at 8-10) Moreover, the Board continues, its actions must at the very least be viewed as substantially compliant with the requirements of ECFCA, since the Department acknowledges that the property acquisition at issue would have been funded if it had been coupled with construction of the early childhood center; a perceived technical defect, according to the Board, should not prevent it from receiving the funding to which it is entitled—particularly when any such defect can be readily explained by the Board having acted as it did, i.e., acquiring the property promptly despite not receiving the anticipated aid, "in order to comply with the mandates of Abbott and the Department to have an early childhood education program up and running by September 1999." (Id. at 10-13, quotation at 12, referencing Abbott v. Burke, 149 N.J. 145, 183 (1997 and 153 N.J. 480, 524 (1998))

The Board reiterates its contention that the Department is estopped from denying its eligibility for retroactive funding on the basis of failure to meet the July 18, 2000 deadline, arguing that the August 22, 2001 settlement agreement that ended the parties' 1999-2000 Early Childhood Education Plan dispute specifically provided that such settlement was "without prejudice to the Board's retroactive funding application for acquisition of the property." The Board proffers that it understood the settlement to mean that "the Department would process the Board's application without consideration of any time constraint set forth in ECFCA, including the July 18, 2000 deadline for approval of a school facilities project," and the Board's agreement to withdraw the appeal was based on that understanding. (Id. at 13-15, quotations at 14) Finally, the Board argues that the Initial Decision is contrary to the Court's directives in Abbott, since the Board, through the State-mandated needs assessment process, demonstrated a particularized need for an early childhood education facility and is, therefore, entitled under the Court's decision to have the purchase of land associated with the building of such facility funded by the State. (Id. at 15-16)[1]

In reply, the Department urges adoption of the Initial Decision on Remand, likewise referencing prior arguments and submissions. With respect to project eligibility under the terms of the statute, the Department contends that the plain language

[1] The Board also objects to the ALJ's failure to consider the Proposed Supplemental Findings of Fact submitted by the Board, contending that, while the Board did enter into a joint Stipulation of Facts for purposes of proceedings on remand, the Board did not concede that the facts within the stipulation were the only relevant facts, so that the ALJ should have addressed the Board's proposed supplemental findings. (Id. at 5) of N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-9c, in conjunction with the definition of "school facilities project" at N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-3, makes it clear that a planned structure or building must be part of the referenced approval, and that land acquisition alone, even with the intent of eventually using it for a school building, does not meet the statutory requirement; therefore, the Board did not receive "project approval" in April 1999,[2] and, indeed, did not even incorporate the early childhood learning center into its Long Range Facilities Plan until July 18, 2001, a full year after the statutory deadline. (Department's Reply Exceptions at 5-7) The Department offers the rules adopted to implement EFCFA as further clarification of the distinction between 1) a school facilities project including land acquisition and 2) a request for approval of land acquisition independent of a school facilities project, the former being subject to then-effective N.J.A.C. 6A:23A—which included site approval pursuant to then-effective N.J.A.C. 6:22 as a precondition of project approval—and the latter to N.J.A.C. 6:22 alone. (Id. at 7-10)

With respect to the Board's other arguments, the Department states that the Abbott decisions do not relieve a district from compliance with the requirements of ECFCA, and that the doctrine of substantial compliance is not applicable to this matter because: 1) the Department lacks authority to waive or alter statutory time limits; 2) the Board did not meet the intent of the statute with a facilities project that had progressed to the point specified; 3) permitting land acquisition undertaken apart from a concurrent facilities project to qualify for retroactive funding would open a floodgate of similar claims; and 4) the Board's explanation for its noncompliance is not reasonable.

[2] The Department notes that the Board's land acquisition approval was not actually finalized until June 14, 1999, the Department's April 28 approval covering only one part of the process set out by applicable rules at that time.

Moreover, the Department asserts that the settlement agreement referenced by the Board did nothing more than affirm that the Board's right to apply for retroactive funding under N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-9 and its implementing rules was not affected by withdrawal of its early childhood plan appeal. (Id. At 10-13)

Upon full and careful review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner must concur with the ALJ that the Board did not receive approval for a school facilities project prior to July 18, 2000 so as to be entitled to retroactive funding under *N.J.S.A.*18A:7G-9c.

In enacting ECFCA in July 2000, the Legislature plainly stated its intent to establish a comprehensive system for addressing New Jersey's school facilities needs, particularly those in the Abbott districts. (N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-2) Viewed within the context of the full legislative enactment, the remedial relief provided by section 9c of ECFCA (N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-9c) is clearly intended to ensure that districts having recently begun the construction of a school facility, or having completed every step of the then-applicable process leading to such construction short of issuing debt, would still be able to avail themselves of the fiscal benefits of the newly enacted law notwithstanding that their project had not been approved under the terms and conditions now prescribed by N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-5. It distorts the reach of a carefully circumscribed statute to suggest, as the Board does here, that eligibility for retroactive funding was meant to extend to any lawfully effectuated prior purchase that may subsequently contribute—as evidenced by its inclusion in the list of possible components within the definition of "school facilities project" at N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-3—to a project undertaken and approved pursuant to ECFCA; the definition on which the Board relies for the proposition that land acquisition alone constitutes a school facilities project is applicable to the entire Act, and in context affirms nothing more than that a project submitted for approval pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-5 may include—among other elements necessary for or ancillary to a school facility—acquisition of the land on which a proposed facility is to be constructed.

Notwithstanding that the Board in this instance was, as evidenced by its application for site approval and inclusion of a proposed early childhood education center in the Early Childhood Education Plan submitted by the district for the 1999-2000 school year, clearly taking steps prior to July 2000 in anticipation of building a school facility, the fact remains that the Board did not receive the type of approval contemplated by N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-9c until well beyond the statutory deadline.

Although the Board did receive a site approval from the Department in June 1999 (Exhibit M-1[3]), it is clear from the full regulatory scheme in place at that time (N.J.A.C. 6:22, 30 N.J.R. 3619(a))[4] that approval pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:22-2.1 constituted nothing more than a determination that a proffered site was suitable for its anticipated eventual use; while site approval was unquestionably a necessary step in the construction approval process, there is no evidence on record that the Board proceeded to obtain the other reviews and approvals required by Chapter 22 before building could have begun. Moreover, the Department's February 11, 1999 review (Exhibit C) of the Board's proposed 1999-2000 Early Childhood Education Plan (Exhibit B) clearly states that requests for facilities (other than temporary) were to be addressed not through Early Childhood Education Plans pursuant to then-applicable N.J.A.C. 6:19A-2.3

[3] These and all subsequent similar references are to the Exhibits appended to the Petition of Appeal, which are identical to those appended to the Certification of John M. Rodecker.

[4] At all times pertinent to this matter, regulatory processes were in place by which boards of education were required to obtain Department review and approval before proceeding with planned school facilities.

(30 N.J.R. 3019(a)), but through the facilities management plan required elsewhere in the Abbott rules, N.J.A.C. 6:19A-5.1 et seq. (Ibid.),[5] and that, in the Board's case, before such a request would be considered, fuller collaboration with community early childhood education providers would have to demonstrated. Consistent with this position and with the regulatory schemes in place at the time, nothing in the Department's approval letter of March 24, 1999 (Exhibit E) suggests that construction of a new center was being approved—let alone required—by the Commissioner, either as part of the "program portion" of the district's plan or as part of the "fiscal elements" to be reviewed within the context of the district's general budget; indeed, such approval did not come until August 21, 2001 (Stipulation of Facts, ¶4), over a year after the effective date of ECFCA.

Under these circumstances,[6] the Commissioner cannot accept, as the Board urges, that the Board "substantially complied" with the standards of *N.J.S.A.*18A:7G-9c so as to have its 1999 land purchase eligible for retroactive funding, or that, in denying funding, the Department unreasonably expected the Board to have foreseen, and acted in accord with, the requirements of not-yet-existing ECFCA regulations. Neither can he accept the Board's explanation that it was "forced" to purchase land in order to comply with Abbott directives from the Court and Department to have an early childhood education program "up and running" by September 1999, or

[5] In accord with then-effective N.J.A.C. 6:19A-3.4 and 6:19A-8.1 (31 N.J.R. 2924(a)), this contention was reiterated by the Department in its review of the district's 2000-01 operational plan. (Exhibits M-3, M-4)

[6] The Commissioner here notes his concurrence with the ALJ (Initial Decision at 2, Findings of Fact) that no fact-finding beyond the parties' joint stipulation (see note 1 above) is necessary to decide this matter. The Commissioner further notes that several of the Board's proposed supplemental findings (¶ 2, 11, 12, 13, 14, 16) incorporate in whole or part allegations from the Petition of Appeal which the Department, in its Answer, either denied or was unable to either admit or deny because of insufficient knowledge, contrary to the parties' cross motions for summary decision.

that a "particularized need" was demonstrated through the regulatory processes established in order to effectuate the Court's mandate.

Finally, the Commissioner rejects the Board's contention that the Department is estopped from denying the requested funding based on the August 22, 2001 settlement agreement reached between the parties in the Board's 1999-2000 Early Childhood Education Plan appeal. To the contrary, whatever the Board now claims it understood that settlement to mean, the parties' agreement as memorialized by the Board attorney (Exhibit I) plainly does nothing more than provide that withdrawal of the early childhood plan appeal, which the Board states that it maintained even after the plan's other elements were approved (Rodecker Certification at 6, ¶16) in order to obtain funding for the land acquisition at issue herein, would not affect the Board's "right to seek" such funding by way of its then-pending application (submitted on July 18, 2001) for retroactive funding pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:23A-3.1 (33 N.J.R. 720(a)), the then-effective rule implementing *N.J.S.A.*18A:7G-9c. Even assuming, arguendo, that the Department might have, under the circumstances, ignored the lateness of the Board's application vis-à-vis the June 30, 2001 regulatory time frame for its submission, no prejudice resulted from this procedural deficiency because the Department went on to consider the merits of the application and ultimately denied it for substantive reasons (Exhibit N). Certainly, the settlement agreement cannot be construed to have authorized the Department to ignore a statutory deadline for project eligibility, or, indeed, as any kind of promise that the Board's application would be successful; such an interpretation would be contrary to law as well as common sense.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein and above, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision of the OAL, dismissing the Petition of Appeal, as the final decision in this matter.

BEFORE DOUGLAS H. HURD, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, the City of Perth Amboy Board of Education, challenges the State Department of Education's decision denying retroactive funding for an early childhood education facility, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-1. Respondent contends that the funding was appropriate and consistent with State law and implementing regulations. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was filed on March 8, 2004.

Petitioner and Respondent filed motions for summary decision on September 29, 2004. Responses were simultaneously filed on November 18, 2004. On December 20, 2004, an Initial Decision was rendered denying Petitioner's summary decision motion and granting Respondent's summary decision motion. On February 2, 2005, the Commissioner of Education entered a Decision remanding the Initial Decision to the Office of Administrative Law.

The Commissioner provides the following three reasons for the remand:

(1) Findings of Fact: The Commissioner's Decision states that the Initial Decision failed to set forth findings of fact. This matter is appropriate for summary decision because there are no material facts in dispute. In order to address the Commissioner's concerns, the parties prepared a stipulation of facts. The stipulation of facts is hereby incorporated into this Initial Decision (See Exhibit "A"). No additional findings of fact are necessary to address the parties' summary decision motions.

(2) Petitioner's Arguments: The Commissioner's Decision also states that the Initial Decision fails to provide a summary of Petitioner's arguments and the reasons for their rejection. Respectfully, there is no statutory or regulatory requirement that an Initial Decision summarize parties' arguments and the reasons for their rejection. The parties' arguments are set forth in their briefs that were transmitted to the Commissioner.

(3) Conclusions of Law: The Commissioner's Decision seeks a basis for the conclusions of law. I find and conclude that the Department's decision to deny the Board's application for retroactive funding for a school facilities project was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

The Board applied for retroactive funding pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-9, which provides that such funding is available (1) where approval was obtained from the Commissioner between September 1, 1998, and July 18, 2000, of the educational specifications of a school facilities project or approval was obtained from the Department of Community Affairs or the appropriately licensed municipal code official since September 1, 1998 of the final construction plans and specifications, and the district had issued debt, or (2) where a district, which received approval from the Commissioner for a school facilities project at any time prior to July 18, 2000, and has not issued debt, other than short term notes, for a school facilities project prior to that date. Since there is no credible evidence that Perth Amboy had issued debt for a school facilities project, such funding would have only been available if Perth Amboy received approval for a school facilities project prior to July 18, 2000.

N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-3 defines a "school facility" as any structure, building or facility used wholly or in part for academic purposes. Clearly, the mere obtaining of land does not meet this definition. Land acquisition along with or as a component of formal plans for construction would meet the definition, however. In this case, Perth Amboy did not receive approval for a school facilities project prior to July 18, 2000. Indeed, Perth Amboy did not even add a school facilities project to its Long Range Facilities Plan until July 18, 2001. In conclusion, the Department's application of EFCFA is consistent with its intent.

The Department's April 1999 recommendation for land approval pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:22-2.1 did not constitute approval of a school facilities project. Indeed, the land acquisition was approved pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:22-2.1, which was in place prior to the enactment of EFCFA, and does not require a school district to submit information regarding new construction, rehabilitation. The Department's correspondence stated that the request for land acquisition approval was being reviewed for compliance with former N.J.A.C. 6:22-2.1. The evidence is clear that under the regulatory scheme Perth Amboy sought approval solely for land acquisition, not a school facilities project. There is no question that prior to July 18, 2000 the Board had not received approval for the construction, rehabilitation or acquisition of a school facility on the site.

Petitioner contends that the Department violated the New Jersey Constitution and the Abbott v. Burke cases. However, since I find and conclude that the Department acted in conformance with EFCFA and its implementing regulations, I likewise find and conclude that there is no violation of the Constitution and Abbott v. Burke.

Perth Amboy, in relying on the doctrine of substantial compliance, contends that it substantially complied with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-9 and that, therefore, the denial of its application was unfair. However, the substantial compliance doctrine does not give the Department the authority to alter the July 18, 2000, deadline. See In the Matter of the Application of Virgo's, Inc., 355 N.J. Super. 590, 595 (App. Div. 2002) (finding that the substantial compliance doctrine did not apply where a liquor license had lapsed on June 30, 1998, but it was not until July 16, 2001, that the Petitioner had applied for the renewal of the license). In this case, the statute clearly delineates that retroactive funding may be available for certain projects that had received approval prior to July 18, 2000. Perth Amboy did not have a school facilities project, which had progressed to the required point by July 18, 2000. This is confirmed by the fact that Perth Amboy had not added a school facilities project to its Long Rang Facilities Plan until July 18, 2001 – one year later.

Finally, Perth Amboy claims the Department is estopped from denying its application for retroactive funding as untimely. However, the Department takes no issue as to when Perth Amboy filed its application for retroactive funding. Indeed, the Department in its October 14, 2003, decision did not deny Perth Amboy's application as untimely. Moreover, Perth Amboy fails to prove the elements necessary to establish an estoppel claim.

ORDER

In conclusion, the Department's denial of retroactive funding is consistent with Educational Facilities Construction and Financing Act and its implementing regulations, and does not violate the New Jersey Constitution or the Abbott cases. Accordingly, I hereby DENY the Board's motion for summary decision and GRANT the Department's motion for summary decision. The Board's Petition of Appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF PERTH AMBOY, Petitioner, -v.- THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY, DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, Respondent.	On Referral from the Commissioner of Education STIPULATION OF FACTS

Petitioner, the Board of Education of the City of Perth Amboy (the "Board"), and respondent, the State of New Jersey Department of Education (the "Department"), hereby stipulate to the following facts for purposes of this proceeding:

1. On April 28, 1999, the Middlesex County Superintendent of Schools recommended approval of the acquisition of property known as Lots 1 and 10 through 25 in Block 259 of the official Tax Map of Perth Amboy (the "Property") for the construction of a new early childhood education center. (See Certification of John M. Rodecker, Exhibit G; Certification of Bernard Piaia, ¶ 2).

2. On June 14, 1999, the Office of School Facility Financing sent correspondence approving the Board's acquisition of the Property pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:22-2.1. (See Certification of Rodecker, Exhibit M, Section 1; Certification of Piaia, ¶ 3).

3. On July 18, 2001, the Board submitted an application to amend its Five-Year Long Range Facilities Plan to the Department's Division of Facilities and Transportation and requested retroactive funding for acquisition of the Property for the construction of a new early childhood education center. (See Certification of Rodecker, Exhibit J; Certification of Piaia, ¶ 4).

4. On August 21, 2001, the Department approved a school facilities project involving the construction of a new childhood education center on the Property (but not the acquisition of the Property) as part of the Board's Long Range Facilities Plan. (Certification of Piaia, ¶5).

5. On September 20, 2001, the Department determined that the 1) Board's request for retroactive funding for the acquisition of the Property was not received prior to the Department's June 30, 2001, deadline for such submissions and that 2) the land acquisition alone did not meet the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-9(c), because it was inconsistent with the definition of a school facilities project pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-3. (See Certification of Rodecker, Exhibit K; Certification of Piaia, ¶ 6).

6. On October 22, 2001, the Board submitted a request for an informal hearing concerning the September 20, 2001, decision. (See Certification of Rodecker, ¶ 19, Exhibit L).

7. On February 13, 2002, an informal hearing occurred pursuant to the Board's request. The informal hearing pertained to the Board's application for retroactive funding for the acquisition of the Property for its early childhood center. (See Certification of Rodecker, ¶ 20, Exhibit M; Certification of Piaia, ¶ 7).

8. On February 20, 2002, the Board supplemented its retroactive funding request with additional documents. (See Certification of Rodecker, Exhibit M; Certification of Piaia, ¶ 7).

9. On October 14, 2003, the Department again denied the application for retroactive funding, finding that the Department had indeed issued a land approval on June 14, 1999, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:22-2.1, but that the Department approved a school facilities project, which included educational specifications, on August 21, 2001, over one-year after the July 18, 2000, statutory deadline for funding eligibility, N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-9(c). The Department further found that land acquisition alone is not a school facilities project, but a land acquisition project as defined in N.J.A.C. 6:23A-1.3 and N.J.A.C. 6A:26-1.2. The Department concluded that its September 20; 2001, decision remained unchanged and that the land acquisition was not eligible for State funding under N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-9(c). (See Certification of Rodecker, Exhibit N; Certification of Piaia, ¶ 8).

10. On January 9, 2004, the Board filed a petition of appeal challenging the 2003 Decision with the Commissioner of Education. The Department filed its answer to the petition on February 9, 2004.

11. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on March 8, 2004.

12. During a telephone conference among counsel for parties and the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") Douglas H. Hurd the parties agreed that this matter may be resolved by cross-motions for summary decision.

13. The Department and the Board each submitted cross-motions for summary decision on September 29, 2004, and responses were simultaneously filed by the parties on November 18, 2004.

14. On December 20, 2004, ALJ Hurd rendered an Initial Decision rejecting the Board's challenge to the denial of retroactive funding, denying the Board's cross-motion for summary decision and granting the Department's cross-motion for summary decision.

15. On January 5, 2005, the Board filed exceptions to the Initial Decision with the Commissioner of Education. On January 12, 2005, the Department filed a reply to the Board's exceptions.

16. On February 2, 2005, the Commissioner of Education entered a Decision remanding the Initial Decision to the Office of Administrative Law for revision of the Initial Decision.

PETITIONERS,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF CLINTON, HUNTERDON COUNTY,	:

Petitioners challenged the respondent Board's determination that the non-public school attended by petitioners' children was not "remote" (over two miles) from their home; this determination deemed them ineligible for transportation services or aid-in-lieu-of transportation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1. Respondent Board subsequently re-measured the disputed walking route between the non-public school and petitioners' home, determined that the distance is more than two miles, and advised petitioners and the OAL of same.

The ALJ found that the sole purpose of submitting this matter to the OAL was to determine whether petitioners were entitled to aid-in-lieu-of transportation services from the respondent Board for the 2003-2004 school year when actual transportation was not provided, and that respondent had conceded as much. Thus, the ALJ concluded that there was no longer a controversy to consider, and ordered respondent Board to provide aid-in-lieu-of transportation to petitioners pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 for that portion of the 2003-2004 school year when busing services were not provided by the Board.

The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusions and recommended order, and adopts the initial decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. In so doing, the Commissioner adds that petitioners' children are entitled to free transportation prospectively. In addition, the Commissioner finds that the exception issue raised by petitioners is immaterial, and points out that the ALJ did not rely on the language in respondent's concession letter, to which petitioners' take issue, in reaching his initial decision.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

G.E.S. AND N.D.S., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILDREN, G.E.S., K.L.S. AND N.J.S.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF CLINTON, HUNTERDON COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The Commissioner has carefully and independently reviewed the record, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), petitioners' "exception" and respondent's reply to same, and he has determined to adopt the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ's) initial decision.

This matter concerns transportation for the petitioners' children to a non-public school. Respondent had declined to provide it, due to its determination that the school was not "remote" (over two miles) from petitioners' home. Petitioners appealed.

By letter decision dated November 24, 2004, ruling on two motions to dismiss, the Commissioner initially forwarded this case to the OAL > for the limited purpose of determining whether petitioners' children were entitled to bus transportation services or aid-in-lieu thereof, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, for that portion of the 2003-04 school year when busing services were not provided by the Board, and prospectively, assuming no change in circumstances. (Commissioner's decision, p. 8)

Petitioners did not appeal that decision on motion. Thus, narrow parameters corresponding to the Commissioner's decision were imposed on the ALJ's determinations in this case. The Commissioner finds that the ALJ properly conformed to those parameters, and adopts the ALJ's finding that petitioners are entitled to aid-in-lieu of transportation for the designated time period. (Initial decision at 2.) The Commissioner adds that the relief shall also be prospective, assuming no change in circumstances.

N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 provides, in pertinent part: "Whenever in any district there are elementary school pupils who live more than two miles from their public school of attendance * * * the district shall provide transportation to and from school for these pupils." The same statute directs that

> When any school district provides any transportation for public school pupils to and from school pursuant to this section, transportation shall be supplied to school pupils residing in such school district in going to and from any remote school other than a public school, not operated for profit in whole or in part, located within the State not more than 20 miles from the residence of the pupil * * * .

And the statute further provides that

> It shall be the obligation of the parent, guardian or other person having legal custody of the pupil attending a remote school, other than a public school, not operating for profit in whole or in part, to register said pupil with the office of the secretary of the board of education at the time and in the manner specified by rules and regulations of the State board in order to be eligible for the transportation provided by this section. If the registration of any such pupil is not completed by September 1 of the school year and if it is necessary for the board of education to enter into a contract establishing a new route in order to provide such transportation, then the board shall not be required to provide it, but in lieu thereof the parent, guardian or other person having legal custody of the pupil shall be eligible to receive $675 or the amount determined pursuant to section 2 of P.L. 1981, c. 57 (18A:39-1a) * * * .

Clearly, the core question was whether petitioners live over two miles from the children's parochial school. In the course of the proceedings at the OAL, respondent conceded that they do. Thus, respondent had been obligated to, but had not, provided bus service for petitioners' children during part of the 2003-2004 school year. Accordingly, respondent agreed that petitioners were entitled to aid-in-lieu-of transportation for the time during which respondent did not provide the bus service. The ALJ therefore correctly concluded that there was no longer a controversy before him. (Initial decision at 2.)

The gravamen of petitioners' exception is that the ALJ attached to the initial decision the letter from respondent conceding that a remeasuring of the distance between petitioners' house and the children's school established the distance to be over two miles. In the body of his initial decision the ALJ had identified respondent's concession by quoting the following language in the letter: "Consequently petitioners would be entitled to 'aid-in-lieu' thereof pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, for that portion of the 2003-2004 school year when busing services were not provided by the Board."

Petitioners contend as their exception that respondent's letter contains a material error, i.e., that respondent "remeasured the disputed walking route, in the fashion requested by Petitioners . . . ." Even assuming that petitioners are correct that respondent's method of measurement did not comply with petitioners' requests, the Commissioner finds the issue to be immaterial to the resolution of the controversy. A determination by respondent that the petitioners' children's parochial school was "remote" settled the issues. Moreover, while the ALJ attached respondent's letter to the initial decision, he did not rely on the language to which petitioners object.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed by the ALJ and stated herein, the ALJ's recommended order for relief is to be implemented forthwith.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[1]

Record Closed: June 3, 2005 Decided: June 7, 2005

BEFORE JOHN SCHUSTER III, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter concerns whether petitioners are entitled to transportation benefits. Petitioners' children attend a non-public elementary school, which they contend is more than two miles from their home. This would entitle petitioners to transportation services or financial aid in lieu thereof. Petitioners filed a petition with the Department of Education seeking aid-in-lieu of transportation for the 2003-2004 school year when bus transportation was not provided. On November 24, 2004, the Commissioner of Education issued a letter decision forwarding this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for "the limited purpose of determining whether petitioners' children were entitled to bus transportation services or aid-in-lieu thereof, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, for that portion of the 2003-04 school year when busing services were not provided by the Board." The matter was originally scheduled for hearing on April 22, 2005, but an adjournment was granted to respondent because of witness unavailability. Hearing was re-scheduled for June 3, 2005. Prior to that date the respondent re-measured the disputed walking route using different criteria and determined petitioners' residence is more than two miles from the children's parochial school. As a result of that conclusion, counsel for respondent wrote the undersigned on June 3, 2005 (Exhibit A attached) advising the Court, "Consequently petitioners would be entitled to 'aid-in-lieu' thereof pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, for that portion of the 2003-2004 school year when busing services were not provided by the Board."

FINDINGS OF FACT

I FIND the purpose of the submission of this matter to the OAL was to have a hearing to determine whether petitioners were entitled to aid-in-lieu of transportation services from the respondent for the 2003-2004 school year when actual transportation was not provided. I further FIND the respondent has conceded that petitioners are entitled to aid-in-lieu of transportation services for the time period under consideration.

CONCLUSION

I CONCLUDE, based on the representation of respondent, that there is no longer a controversy before me.

ORDER

I ORDER respondent provide aid-in-lieu of transportation to petitioners in accordance with its letter to me of June 3, 2005.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Re: G.S. and N.S. o/b/o G.S., et al. v. Clinton Township Bd. of Educ.
Docket No.: EDS 10759-2004S
Our File No.: 01214.49825

Dear Judge Schuster:

We are counsel to the respondent Clinton Township Board of Education ("the Board") in the above matter. As you know, petitioners are disputing the Board's determination that their children do not live more than two miles from the parochial school they attend in Hunterdon County for the purpose of determining transportation eligibility. On November 24, 2004, the Commissioner of Education issued a letter decision forwarding this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for "the limited purpose of determining whether petitioners' children were entitled to bus transportation services or aid-in-lieu thereof pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, for that portion of the 2003-2004 school year when busing services were not provided by the Board."

In April 2005, the Board re-measured the disputed walking route, in the fashion requested by petitioners, and determined that petitioners' current residence is more than two miles from their children's non-public elementary school. Consequently, petitioners would be entitled to "aid-in-lieu thereof pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, for that portion of the 2003-2004 school year when busing services were not provided by the Board."

Accordingly, we respectfully request that the hearing previously scheduled in this matter be adjourned as moot based upon the foregoing concession by the Board and that a decision be issued based upon the above finding.

G.P. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, R.P.,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the Board's residency determination that his niece, R.P., was not eligible for a free education in the Township of West Orange School District based on family or economic hardship. Petitioner's appeal included an affidavit from R.P.'s mother, who resides in Haiti, alleging persecution of her family for its political beliefs. Petitioner did not appear at the OAL hearing and respondent moved for dismissal of the petition and an award of tuition reimbursement.

The ALJ found that: petitioner enrolled his niece, R.P., in West Orange High School in September 2004; R.P. attended the school on a regular basis through the date of the hearing on June 3, 2005; the tuition rate at West Orange High School for the 2004-05 school year was $12,655; and petitioner failed to attend the scheduled hearing or call to ask for an adjournment or to explain the reason for his failure to appear. Based on the petitioner's failure to appear at hearing, the ALJ concluded that he failed to meet his burden of proof pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) (1), and further concluded that respondent did meet its burden under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) (2), and is entitled to tuition reimbursement and removal of R.P. from the district schools; the ALJ so ordered.

Upon review of the record, the initial decision of the OAL, and a letter from petitioner dated June 17, 2005, the Commissioner rejects the ALJ's recommendations, and remands the matter to the OAL for a hearing on the merits. In so deciding, he states that there is enough in the record to justify, at minimum, a hearing to determine whether the allegations in R.P.'s mother's affidavit about the family's political oppression and economic hardship in Haiti are legitimate and sufficient to justify tuition-free attendance for R.P. in West Orange schools, and notes that such an important inquiry should not be short-circuited by dismissal of petitioner's appeal, where petitioner is pro se, where there was one hearing notice four months before hearing date and no further communication between the parties and the OAL, and where petitioner promptly took action when he learned that he missed the hearing. Accordingly, the Commissioner remands this matter to the OAL for an expedited hearing.

G.P. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, R.P.,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record in this matter, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and a communication from the petitioner, a copy of which is annexed hereto, have been reviewed. Upon consideration of the foregoing, the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) remands the matter to the OAL for a hearing on the merits.

Factual and Procedural History

G.P. (petitioner) applied to the West Orange Board of Education (respondent) to allow his niece, R.P., to receive a free public education in West Orange. Respondent denied his application on September 13, 2004, for the stated reason that it did not meet the statute's requirement of family or economic hardship. On October 25, 2004 the Commissioner of Education received an appeal from the petitioner which included an affidavit dated October 21, 2004, from R.P.'s mother, R.D.P., who resides in Haiti.

In the affidavit, R.D.P. alleged that her family was persecuted for its political beliefs: that they lived from house to house in fear; that after a beating in retaliation for attendance at a protest against Haiti's president, R.P.'s brother fled to the United States and applied for asylum; that before R.P. arrived in the United States to live with her uncle, the petitioner, she had been in hiding from the militia, which had tried to kidnap her; that R.P. was traumatized as a result of the conditions in Haiti; and that petitioner would care for R.P. gratis because of her mother's inability to provide her with security and basic necessities.

Respondent filed an answer on November 30, 2004, including a counterclaim for tuition reimbursement for the period in which R.P. had attended school in West Orange, and the matter was transmitted to the OAL. On February 7, 2005, the OAL sent a notice to the parties advising that the hearing would take place on June 3, 2005, at 9 a.m.

Petitioner did not appear at the hearing on June 3, 2005, and did not call the OAL to request an adjournment or explain his absence (Initial Decision, p.2). Respondent's counsel represented that he had left petitioner a telephone message on June 2, 2005, with the date and location of the hearing and his telephone number, but petitioner had not returned the call. Ibid. At 10:15 a.m. on June 3, respondent moved for dismissal of the petition and an award of tuition reimbursement. Ibid. Testimony was presented about R.P.'s school attendance and about tuition rates in West Orange. Ibid. The matter was held until Monday, June 6, 2005. Ibid. When petitioner failed to appear, respondent's motion for dismissal of the petition and an award of tuition fees was granted. Ibid.

The administrative law judge's (ALJ) initial decision was issued on June 8, 2005. The ALJ found that petitioner enrolled R.P. as an eleventh grader in West Orange High School on September 13, 2004; that she attended the school regularly throughout the year; that tuition for the 2004-2005 school year was $12,655; and that petitioner failed to attend the hearing scheduled to adjudicate R.P.'s right to a free education in West Orange (Initial Decision, p.3). He concluded that since petitioner failed to attend the hearing, and in so doing failed to meet his burden to show that R.P.'s residency with him entitles her to a free education in West Orange, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1), the petition should be dismissed. Ibid. In addition, he concluded that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2), and based upon the evidence, petitioner owed respondent tuition for the 2004-2005 school year (id. at 4).

Nine days after the initial decision, on June 17, 2005, petitioner hand delivered to the office of the Commissioner of Education the letter, a copy of which is annexed hereto, wherein he reports that he did not know about the hearing until two days after it took place. The letter further states in pertinent part:

> If I were to know, I would not have ever made the mistake of not attending, I was waiting for that chance for so long. Please I would like to have the opportunity to prove my case. I am pleading for another chance to be able to do so.

Discussion

Petitioner's letter was submitted within the time allowed for exceptions and can be regarded as a challenge to the initial decision. While the letter does not set forth specific facts explaining why petitioner did not know about the hearing date, the Commissioner notes that there was no contact between the parties and the OAL between the February 7, 2005 hearing notice and the June 3, 2005 hearing date, a period of four months. Also, respondent's counsel's representation that he left a message for petitioner on the day before the hearing is not grounds for concluding that petitioner knew about the hearing. The reference in the initial decision to counsel's representation contains no specifics about how counsel left the message and with whom.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1) allows a free public education for anyone (of qualifying age) who lives with and is supported gratis by a person domiciled in the school district, so long as the supporting person makes certain representations, and the parent of the student shows reasons why he or she cannot support or care for the student. More specifically, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1) states in pertinent part:

> Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statements, information from or about which shall be supplied only to the board and only to the extent that it directly pertains to the support or nonsupport of the child.

The record does not include what, if anything, petitioner initially submitted to respondent concerning his domicile, his intention to support R.P., and his commitment to assume responsibility for her for the long term. However, respondent does not appear to be challenging those issues. Respondent alleges that R.P.'s parents have not made a showing that economic or family hardship warrants that R.P. live with her uncle.

The Commissioner has determined that there is enough in the record to justify, at a minimum, a hearing to determine whether the allegations in R.P.'s mother's affidavit about the family's political oppression and economic hardship in Haiti are legitimate and sufficient to justify tuition-free attendance for R.P. at West Orange High School. Such an important inquiry should not be short-circuited by dismissal of petitioner's appeal, where petitioner is pro se, where there was one hearing notice four months before the hearing date and no further communications between the parties and the OAL, and where petitioner promptly took action when he learned that he missed the hearing.

Accordingly, for the reasons stated herein, the Commissioner remands this matter to the OAL for an expedited hearing on the merits of petitioner's appeal.

G.P., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD,

Petitioners,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,

Respondents.

G.P., pro se

Stephen J. Christiano, Esq., for respondents

Record Closed: June 6, 2005 Decided: June 8, 2005

BEFORE CAROL I. COHEN, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The petitioner, G.P. appeals from the denial by the Board of Education of the Township of West Orange, Essex County (respondent/West Orange) of her application to allow his niece (R.P.) to be educated in the West Orange School System. West Orange denied the petitioner's application on September 13, 2004, based on the fact that the application did not meet the statute's requirements of family or economic hardship. The petitioner filed his appeal on October 22, 2004. The respondent filed its answer on November 30, 2004. In its answer, the respondent requested tuition reimbursement for the period during which R.P. was ineligible to attend the West Orange schools. The matter was filed with the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on January 4, 2005. On February 7, 2005, the Clerk's Office sent a notice to the parties scheduling a hearing date for June 3, 2005. On that date the petitioner failed to appear. Mr. Christiano represented that he had called the petitioner on June 2, 2005 and left a message reminding him of the date and place of the hearing and leaving his telephone number for the petitioner. According to Mr. Christiano, the petitioner did not contact him. The petitioner failed to appear at the hearing, which was scheduled for 9:00 a.m. At 10:15 a.m., the district made a motion to dismiss G.P.'s petition and to grant its counterclaim for tuition reimbursement. The District presented testimony from Josepha Lopez, the registrar and attendance officer in West Orange, regarding R.P.'s attendance and the tuition rate for the school district. The matter was held until Monday, June 6, 2005. Since no communication was received from the petitioner by the court by that date, the respondent's motion to dismiss G.P.'s petition was granted.

ISSUES

1. Whether the petitioner is supporting the child gratis for longer than the school year as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1).

2. Whether the child's parents are incapable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship.

3. Whether the respondent is entitled to tuition reimbursement.

4. Whether the child shall be Ordered to be removed from the district's high school.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the testimony presented and the documentary evidence submitted, and having had an opportunity to observe the witness and to assess her credibility, I make the following FINDINGS OF FACT:

1. The petitioner enrolled his niece R.P. in the West Orange High School as an eleventh grade student on September 13, 2004.

2. Except for one or two days of absences, R.P. has attended the school on a regular basis from that date until the day of the hearing.

3. The tuition rate for a student attending the West Orange High School is $12,655.00 for the 2004-2005 school year.

4. G.P. failed to attend the scheduled hearing or to call the court to ask for an adjournment or to explain the reason for his failure to appear.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Public education must be provided free to persons over six and up to twenty years of age, who are domiciled within the School District - N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). Under section b(1) of this statute, there are certain requirements for any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within school district. These requirements state that:

> The petitioner must show that they are supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements; that he intends so to keep supporting the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term ...that the child's parents or guardian are not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. The petitioner shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria.

Since the petitioner did not appear at the hearing, he failed to meet his burden of proving the statutory requirements. Based on the District's motion, his petition should be dismissed.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38 b(2) allows the district to apply for removal of the child from the District, if they do not meet the statutory requirement and to ask for the reimbursement of tuition costs during the period of ineligibility. The District presented testimony that the child attended school from September 13, approximately two school days after the semester began, until the date of the hearing. Since the school year will conclude at the end of the third full week of June, it is clear that the student has attended school for the entire school year.[1] Therefore, the entire tuition for the year is due and owing the District.

CONCLUSION

Thus, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to meet his burden under the statute. I further CONCLUDE that the District has met its burden under N.J.S.A. 18A:38 b(2) and is entitled to tuition reimbursement and removal of R.P. from the District.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I hereby ORDER that the petitioner's appeal of the District's residency denial be dismissed.

I further ORDER that the District's application for tuition reimbursement is hereby GRANTED.

I further ORDER that R.P. be removed from the District effective the last day of the 2004-2005 school year.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

[1] Since the school will be in recess in less than one month, I see no reason to remove the student from West Orange High School prior to the end of the school year.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." 	:

The audiocassette tape of the emergent hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on July 7, 2005, the papers submitted by the parties and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed by the Commissioner in making his determination herein.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs that the emergent relief sought by petitioner must be denied as moot. Accordingly, the recommended Order of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein and petitioner's request for emergent relief is, therefore, denied. This matter shall continue at the OAL for further proceedings on the merits of petitioner's claim as may be deemed necessary.

BOARD OF TRISTEES OF THE CHARTER-TECH HIGH SCHOOL FOR THE PERFORMING ARTS, ATLANTIC COUNTY,

Respondent.

Mark Zydiak, petitioner, pro se

Garry Griffith, Esq., for respondent (Griffith and Carlucci, attorneys)

BEFORE BRUCE M. GORMAN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On June 21, 2005 petitioner filed a letter pro se with the Commissioner of Education which he characterized as a, "...Motion for Emergent Relief to restore me Marc Zydiak...to my position as Vice Principal of the chARTer~TECH High School for the Performing Arts..." In his moving papers, petitioner asserted that respondent's Board of Education was scheduled to meet on June 22, 2005, at 7:00 p.m. to consider a motion to terminate his contract with respondent's school district. Petitioner sought to enjoin respondent from taking such action so that he could be "restored" to his administrative position.

The Division of Controversies and Disputes transferred the case to the Office of Administrative Law on June 29, 2005, and the matter was set down to be heard on an emergent basis on July 7, 2005. On that date, the parties appeared before me, and petitioner reiterated his demand to be restored to his position as Vice Principal at respondent's school.

However, petitioner also stated that on June 28, 2005, respondent's Board of Education met and voted to terminate his employment. Consequently, admitted petitioner, the emergent relief he sought was no longer available to him because respondent's Board had already acted, and therefore, any Order enjoining respondent from taking such action would have no effect.

Given that respondent's Board has already acted, the emergent relief sought by petitioner must be DENIED as moot.

The remaining question before me is whether this Order disposes of the appeal. I have reviewed petitioner's letter-petition carefully, and I am satisfied that although couched in terms of a "Motion for Emergent Relief," the petition's true purpose is to seek petitioner's reinstatement to his former position as Vice Principal of respondent's school. That matter can and should proceed to trial in the ordinary course.

ORDER

I ORDER that petitioner's application for emergent relief be DENIED. A plenary hearing is scheduled for October 20, 2005, for 9:00 a.m., at the OAL office located at 1601 Atlantic Avenue, Atlantic City. New Jersey.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF THOMAS WACHENDORF,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT	:	DECISION
OF CORRECTIONS, MOUNTAINVIEW	:
YOUTH CORRECTIONAL FACILITY.	:

SYNOPSIS

The Department of Corrections (DOC) filed tenure charges of conduct unbecoming against Thomas Wachendorf, a tenured teacher at Mountainview Youth Correctional Facility, and sought his removal following an incident on May 2, 2004 which led to his arrest on charges of resisting arrest, obstruction of justice, eluding, and for failure to report his arrest to DOC within 48 hours.

The ALJ found -- based on testimony presented at hearing and the police videotape of the incident in question -- that the actions and conduct of the respondent constitutes unbecoming conduct so egregious as to warrant dismissal from respondent's tenured teaching position, and so recommended in his Initial Decision.

Upon careful review and consideration, the Commissioner adopts the OAL's Initial Decision, concluding that the record amply establishes that respondent's behavior on May 2, 2004 constituted conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member, and further concurs that dismissal from his tenured teaching position is warranted. The Commissioner emphasizes that the focus here is not the respondent's guilt or innocence regarding specific criminal charges, but rather whether his exhibited behavior underlying those charges amounts to unbecoming conduct; the behavior in question evidences total disregard and disrespect for the law and the authority of law enforcement officials, and is directly contrary and inimical to the expectations placed on teaching staff members – particularly an educator in a corrections facility which is charged with encouraging the rehabilitation of incarcerated persons and reintegrating them into the community as law abiding citizens. Accordingly, the respondent is hereby dismissed from his teaching position with DOC as of the date of this decision and the Commissioner will refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for action against respondent's certificate as that body deems appropriate.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6860-04
AGENCY DKT NO. 258-7/04

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF THOMAS WACHENDORF,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT	:	DECISION
OF CORRECTIONS, MOUNTAINVIEW	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent requested and received an extension of time within which to file exceptions to the Initial Decision. These exceptions and those of the New Jersey Department of Corrections ("DOC") were filed in accordance with the modified timeline.

Respondent's exceptions, in large measure, recast and reiterate his arguments advanced below. Specifically, he submits that he was not found guilty of the charges of eluding, resisting arrest, and obstruction of justice but, rather, entered Pre-Trial Intervention, which he completed on March 3, 2005, resulting in the dismissal of these charges. Moreover, respondent argues, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) in his Initial Decision does not conclude, even under the preponderance of the credible evidence standard, that he committed these underlying offenses which formed the basis of the tenure charges against him. Because the ALJ did not find respondent's conduct to constitute eluding, resisting arrest or obstruction, the specific conduct upon which the tenure charges are founded, dismissal from his tenured employment is unwarranted. (Respondent's Exceptions at 2)

Respondent charges that the ALJ recommends termination of his employment for unbecoming conduct, essentially based on two "findings": "(1) that [he] 'disregarded' a police/emergency vehicle for approximately one-half mile after he saw the vehicle (Initial Decision, p. 8) and, (2) that [he] waited 7 seconds before opening the door of his vehicle, which he had stopped in the driveway of his home, after a police officer shouted to him to exit the car." Respondent maintains that these "findings" neither constitute the crimes with which he was charged nor do they equate to conduct for which a tenured teacher should be terminated. (Id. at 2-3)

Next, although the ALJ finds the "most credible evidence" of the events which transpired on May 2, 2004 to be the videotape admitted into evidence, respondent submits that "[his] description of the images captured on the video is selective and misleading." (Id. at 4) Respondent presents his version of, what he categorizes as, "[t]he undisputed facts" evidenced on the videotape, corroborated by his testimony and that of his witnesses, and submits that the ALJ's two findings, for which he recommended respondent's termination from his position, must be viewed in light of these facts which, he avers, represent the "context of the entire off-duty incident." (Id. at 4-6)

Further, even assuming, arguendo, that any aspect of his actions on May 2, 2004 could be construed as unbecoming conduct, respondent cites to a string of education law cases involving charges of unbecoming conduct or other just cause where termination was found to be the appropriate penalty and submits that the two findings which the ALJ in the present matter found sufficient to sustain the tenure charges against him are far less egregious and fall well short of the type of conduct which the Commissioner has deemed sufficient to terminate a tenured teacher. (Respondent's Exceptions at 16) Also, again referencing his cited cases, respondent points out that tenure charges of unbecoming conduct have been sustained by the Commissioner in instances where there is a nexus between the teacher's conduct and his or her fitness for duty. Here, in contrast, he avers, the May 2, 2004 incident "was a one-time circumstance, occurring off-duty, not involving any students, and unconnected to [his] position as a teacher." (Id. at 19) The ALJ's attempt to fashion a nexus between his two findings and respondent's fitness to teach with his off-handed assertion that "allowing Wachendorf to continue teaching in a correctional facility sends the wrong message to the Mountainview residents," respondent maintains, is conclusory and purely speculative in nature, as there is no evidentiary support that Mountainview students are even aware of the tenure charges or that respondent would not be able to perform his duties effectively upon reinstatement. (Respondent's Exceptions at 17-18) Moreover, he asserts, in making his penalty recommendation the ALJ erred in failing to consider any mitigating factors. Respondent submits that he is a 13-year State employee, with no prior history of discipline. Pursuant to West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 and its progeny, which espouse the principle of progressive discipline, an employer is obligated to review an employee's entire record before meting out discipline. It is abundantly clear, respondent argues, that given his long, unblemished work history, the first step in the disciplinary process cannot be termination. (Id. at 19-20)

Finally, respondent points out that the ALJ determined that the DOC's Human Resources Bulletin 84:19 is unreasonable and unenforceable (Initial Decision at 10), and, therefore, clearly erred when he, nonetheless, found respondent guilty of violation of this policy and imposed a two-week suspension for such violation. Not only is it impossible for an unenforceable policy to form the basis for a tenure charge, he argues, but the instant record neither establishes that respondent's conduct with respect to the notice provision of this policy equated to unbecoming conduct nor does it provide a basis for a two-week suspension. (Respondent's Exceptions at 21-22)

The DOC's exceptions concur with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ with one objection. It professes that the ALJ made a factual finding which is in error and must be rejected by the Commissioner. Specifically, with respect to the construction and interpretation of the DOC's Human Resources policy, HRB 84-19, the ALJ found as fact:

> [t]he position of Corrections that only the employee can notify the institution of an arrest, only the immediate supervisor can receive notification, and that both must be done within 48 hours of the arrest is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. A policy which does not allow for serious medical conditions, or vacations or absences of personnel cannot be considered reasonable and enforceable. (Initial Decision at 9-10)

The DOC submits that neither the construction of this policy nor the DOC's interpretation of it were at issue at the hearing and there was no testimony with respect to either of these topics. Consequently, the DOC charges, the record contains no credible evidence in support of this finding. Moreover, it proposes, this finding is not necessary to the ALJ's valid conclusion that the policy was violated as "neither Wachendorf nor his representative, notified Corrections of Wachendorf's arrest until after a Readington police officer advised Mountainview Principal Investigator Smith on May 10 of the incident." (Initial Decision at 10) (DOC's Exceptions at 3)

Upon careful review and consideration of the record in this matter, which included transcripts of the three days of hearing conducted at the OAL[1] and a videotape of the May 2, 2004 incident at issue herein, the Commissioner, finding respondent's exception advancements without merit, determines to adopt the Initial Decision of the ALJ, as he concludes that the record before him amply establishes that respondent's behavior with respect to the incident surrounding the DOC's tenure charges constitutes conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member. He further concurs with the ALJ that, under the circumstances existing here, respondent's dismissal from his tenured teaching position is warranted.

In so determining, the Commissioner first finds that the criminal justice system outcome of the criminal charges which form the basis of Count 1 of the tenure charges is wholly irrelevant here. It is well settled that diversion or dismissal of criminal charges has no impact whatsoever on a finding of unbecoming conduct in a tenure matter as to the incident(s) underlying those charges or the imposition of an appropriate penalty. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Arlene Dusel, School District of the Borough of Sayreville, 1978 S.L.D. 526, supplemental decision 1979 S.L.D. 153, aff'd State Board of Education, 1979 S.L.D. 155; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Jeffrey Wolfe, School District of the Township of Randolph, 1980 S.L.D. 721, aff'd State Board, 1980 S.L.D. 728, aff'd App. Div., 1981 S.L.D. 1537; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of R. Scott McIntyre, Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional School District, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 726. Such is the case because of the fundamental differences in the purpose and scope of these adjudicating forums. Not only is the quantum of proof necessary to sustain criminal charges significantly enhanced from that required to prove tenure charges in administrative proceedings, i.e., beyond a reasonable doubt as opposed to a preponderance of the credible evidence, but, most significantly, the interests implicated in a tenure matter are intrinsically distinct from those in a criminal matter. As observed by the Commissioner in Dusel, supra:

> The "interests" to be protected herein are not those associated with a possible indictment or conviction in a criminal matter, but those concerned with fitness to hold a position as an instructor of school pupils. The right of these pupils to be taught by teachers who are free from the taint of patently illegal or flagrantly unbecoming acts is also at issue. (at 531)

For the above reasons, it is neither possible nor necessary for the ALJ to find respondent "guilty" of the criminal charges by a preponderance of the credible evidence in order to reach a determination of unbecoming conduct, notwithstanding these charges form the basis of the tenure charge against him. Rather, the touchstone of a charge of unbecoming conduct is fitness to discharge the duties and functions of one's office or position. See Laba v. Newark Board of Education, 23 N.J. 364 (1957); In re Tenure Hearing of Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13 (App. Div. 1974), certif. denied 65 N.J. 292 (1974) Said differently, a finding of unbecoming conduct does not require a violation of any specific law, rule or regulation, but is based primarily on a violation of an implicit standard of good behavior. Thus, the focus of the inquiry in this tenure matter is not respondent's guilt or innocence of specific criminal charges but, rather, whether his exhibited behavior underlying those charges amounts to unbecoming conduct.

The Commissioner, next, rejects as incongruous respondent's categorization of the factual underpinnings upon which the ALJ based his determination and criticism of his recitation of the events which transpired on the police videotape. More particularly, upon his reasoned review of both the transcripts and the videotape, the Commissioner is in full agreement with the ALJ's summarization in this regard:

> Having viewed the video during the hearing and again in preparation of this decision[,] I find the testimony of Thomas Wachendorf to be incredible and the testimony of Robert Wachendorf to be unsupported by the video. The overhead flashing lights on DeWire's vehicle were in operation for 4 minutes and 15 seconds before Wachendorf entered his driveway and are seen reflecting off Wachendorf's car. DeWire's siren was sounding for the final 3-1/2 minutes of the pursuit; the loud "squawk" horn was heard on the video tape for approximately 3 minutes. Automobiles approaching Wachendorf and DeWire from the opposite direction pulled to [the] shoulder of the road as required by law. After Wachendorf finally stopped his car and DeWire walked to the driver's door, Wachendorf delayed opening > the car door. Wachendorf waited 7 seconds – and four shouts from DeWire – before starting to open the door. I noted that DeWire holstered his weapon before ordering Wachendorf to exit his vehicle. Wachendorf admitted that he saw DeWire's car behind his vehicle before Wachendorf turned into his driveway, yet he did not drive to the shoulder of the road and stop. Wachendorf traveled about ½ mile knowing a police car was behind his vehicle, signaling Wachendorf to stop. When Wachendorf finally stopped he made no effort to inquire why he was being pursued. On the contrary, Wachendorf's every effort – during and after the police pursuit – "stone-walled" the police. I CONCLUDE that Wachendorf's disregard of the police/emergency vehicle and the police officer is conduct which brings discredit to himself and his public employer. (Initial Decision at 7-8) (emphasis supplied)

Like the ALJ, the Commissioner is persuaded that the respondent's explanations for his actions lack substance. He offers a curious concatenation of events to explain his behavior which, the Commissioner observes, lack persuasive evidential corroboration in the within record. Rather what is abundantly apparent is that respondent's deportment throughout this incident evidences a total disregard and disrespect for the law and the authority of law enforcement officials. Such behavior is directly contrary and inimical to the expectations placed on teaching staff members and, undeniably, conduct unbecoming a teacher, most particularly for an educator in a corrections facility which is charged with the responsibility of "provid[ing] an environment for incarcerated persons which encourages rehabilitation and reintegration into the community" (N.J.A.C. 10A:1-1.1(6)) as law abiding citizens.

Finally, turning to the requirement of notification of arrest, pursuant to DOC's Human Resources Bulletin 84-19, as amended, (Exhibit P-2), to the extent that the DOC may interpret this policy to require that only the employee may notify of an arrest and that notification must be communicated directly to the employee's immediate supervisor within 48 hours, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that such a stringent requirement, under a number of circumstances such as those existing here, would be impossible to satisfy and, therefore, would render application of the policy arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. However, the Commissioner finds it unnecessary to reach to the reasonableness of the policy as applied here as he agrees with the ALJ that there is no evidence in the record that anyone notified Wachendorf's supervisor or any other person at his job site of his arrest within 48 hours of such arrest.

In considering the appropriate penalty in this matter, the prior education law decisions cited by respondent in support of mitigation of penalty in consideration of what he claims is the "less serious" nature of his offense, his 13-year exemplary work record and his contention that his conduct here was not work related, are not particularly beneficial to him in the context of this case. As elucidated in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Frederick L. Ostergren, 1966 S.L.D. 185:

> The Commissioner finds significant differences between these cases and the matter herein. The circumstances under which the episode occurred, its provocation, the nature of the incident itself, the age of the pupil, the teacher's record, his attitude and the prognosis for his continued effective performance and usefulness in the school system, varied materially in these cases. In the Commissioner's opinion each matter must be judged in light of all of the circumstances. The kind and degree of penalty will necessarily vary also according to the particular problem. (Ostergren, at 188) (emphasis supplied)

Said differently, because in tenure matters each case is extremely fact sensitive, meaningful comparisons between cases can be difficult to make. The Commissioner's full review persuades him that none of the cases advanced by respondent is similar enough in nature or factual circumstances to the instant matter so as to provide precedential support for respondent's position.

The Commissioner, additionally, does not share respondent's belief that because the incident at issue herein occurred while he was off-duty and didn't involve students that there is no nexus between his offending actions and fitness for his position. Rather, as correctly observed by the ALJ:

> The responsibility of a teacher is not mitigated by when or where the improper behavior occurs nor the backgrounds of his/her students. Whether teaching in a suburban school district, inner-city school, or a State youth correctional facility, the teacher must set the standard of appropriate conduct. Respect for lawful authority becomes a greater responsibility for the teacher of a student body who [has] already demonstrated a great lack of respect for the rule of law. Wachendorf's return to his classroom at Mountainview would be vindication of his flaunting of lawful authority. Permitting Wachendorf to return to Mountainview, makes a farce of the risk associated with interfering, ignoring and obstructing law enforcement officers at work.

Although duly considering respondent's lengthy, apparently unblemished record with the State, the Commissioner concludes that these factors, which ordinarily could serve to militate against respondent's dismissal, are greatly outweighed by the seriousness of his conduct in this matter. It is without question "that teachers carry a heavy responsibility by their actions and comments in setting examples for the pupils with whom they have contact." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Blasko, School District of the Township of Cherry Hill, 1980 S.L.D. 987, 1003. As such, some actions are "so foreign to the expectations of the deeds and actions of a professionally certificated classroom teacher as to raise manifest doubts as to the continued performance of that person in the profession." (Ibid.) The Commissioner concludes that such is the case here.[2]

[2] It is noted that the civil service concept of progressive discipline plays no role whatsoever in this matter. Although as a State employee, respondent's employment rights and responsibilities are generally controlled by the provisions of Title 11A and the implementing regulations set forth in Title 4A, as a State employee working as a teacher in a State institution, respondent was granted tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:60-1.1 which specifies:

> The Legislature hereby finds that it is in the best interest of the State of New Jersey to provide job security during good behavior and efficiency for the teachers and other certified professional educators employed in State institutions within the Department of Corrections and the Department of Human Services.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision of the OAL, and hereby orders that Thomas Wachendorf be dismissed from his teaching position with the New Jersey State Department of Corrections, Mountainview Youth Correctional Facility as of the date of this decision. This matter shall be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for action, as that body deems appropriate, against respondent's certificate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6860-04

AGENCY DKT. NO. 258-7/04

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF THOMAS WACHENDORF, NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS, MOUNTAINVIEW CORRECTIONAL FACILITY.

Christopher Josephson, Deputy Attorney General, appeared for the Department of Corrections (Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Annemarie Pinarski, Esq., appeared for Thomas Wachendorf (Weinsmann & Muntz, LLC, attorneys)

Record Closed: April 19, 2005 Decided: May 3, 2005

BEFORE ANTHONY T. BRUNO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Department of Corrections ("Corrections") seeks the removal of Thomas Wachendorf ("Wachendorf") from his tenured position of Teacher 1 at the Mountainview Youth Correctional Facility ("Mountainview") pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 for unbecoming conduct or other just cause arising from his actions on May 2, 2004 leading to his arrest on charges of Wachendorf stopped at the stop sign at the intersection of School Road and Pulaski Road, but continued across the intersection onto Koscusko Road. He did not pull to the right shoulder of the road nor did he stop. Wachendorf drove the entire length of Koscusko Road, stopped at its intersection with Readington Road and continued onto Holland Brook Road. Wachendorf entered the long driveway to his home and finally stopped in front of his house. DeWire followed Wachendorf for more than two miles; the entire pursuit was videotaped (Exhibit P-7) once DeWire activated his emergency lights.

Sergeant Scott Crater ("Crater") joined DeWire's chase of Wachendorf. Crater heard DeWire's radio transmission and went to back-up DeWire. Crater reached DeWire on Holland Brook Road and followed Wachendorf and Crater for a half-mile until Wachendorf reached his home. Crater confirms that the emergency lights and siren on DeWire's patrol car were in operation at the time.

DeWire and Crater approached Wachendorf's car. DeWire ordered Wachendorf to exit the vehicle. Wachendorf did not immediately respond to DeWire's order, but after "a few seconds" Wachendorf opened the front, driver-side door. DeWire handcuffed Wachendorf's wrist and pulled Wachendorf from the car, placing Wachendorf on the ground to complete the handcuffing process. Wachendorf first drew himself into a fetal position before turning onto his stomach. After being handcuffed Wachendorf was assisted to his feet to be taken to the patrol car.

Sean D. McMurty is an assistant Mercer County prosecutor. On Sunday May 2, 2004, McMurty was driving on Housel Road approaching its intersection with Holland Brook Road when he saw Wachendorf's car traveling south on Holland Brook Road and DeWire's patrol car approximately 4-to-5 car lengths behind. McMurty testified that the police car's overhead lights were flashing at the time. McMurty followed Wachendorf and DeWire and a second, unmarked police car into the Wachendorf driveway. McMurty parked a distance away from the three cars and walked up the driveway to observe the situation. DeWire and Crater stood over Wachendorf. Wachendorf was "very still, very tense;" one police officer placed his hand on Wachendorf's leg to complete the handcuffing. After being handcuffed Wachendorf would not stand; the officers pulled at Wachendorf's arms to get Wachendorf to stand. As the officers walked Wachendorf to Robert Wachendorf also lives at the Holland Brook Road address. Thomas lives in the main house with his father and mother, Robert and his wife live in another dwelling on the farm. Robert saw Thomas drive into the yard on May 2. Robert described the scene, beginning with Thomas starting to open the car door and continuing with the two officers "grabbing" Thomas and "throwing him on the ground." Robert thought the officers were kneeling on Thomas; they "picked him up and put him in the back of the second police car." Thomas was not resisting but was totally compliant."

Bruce Fralinger is the Staff Representative of Local 1040 of the Communications Workers of America. Fralinger testified to his two attempts to reach Wachendorf's immediate supervisor and the letters (Exhibit R-2, -3, -4, and -5) he sent to Corrections to confirm and verify the notice given to Mountainview of Wachendorf's arrest and hospitalization.

On May 10, 2004, Greg Bartkowski, Associate Administrator at Mountainview learned that Wachendorf had been arrested by the Readington Police Department on May 2. Bartkowski testified that he was a secondary supervisor of Wachendorf; a Ms. Hansen was Wachendorf's immediate supervisor. Hansen did not mention Wachendorf's arrest when Bartkowski inquired of Wachendorf's attendance record after May 2.

Wachendorf was charged with eluding police, obstruction of the administration of law, and resisting arrest. On July 9, 2004 Wachendorf signed a waiver of indictment on the charge of eluding police and obstruction of the administration of law. A complaint and summons was issued to Wachendorf on the resisting arrest charge. Wachendorf was admitted into the Pre-Trial Intervention Program in Hunterdon County for 12 months.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Conduct unbecoming a public employee has been defined to include "any conduct with adversely affects the moral or efficiency of a public entity, conduct which has a tendency to destroy respect for public employee and their appointing authorities, or conduct which destroys confidence in public service." "Washington v. John J. Montgomery Medical Home, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d. (CSV) 100, 102. To demonstrate unbecoming conduct the public authority does not have to overborne by other testimony.' Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958). "Mack v. Forensic Psychiatric Hospital, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (CSV) 269, 272-273.

In this matter, the testimony of the witnesses for Corrections concerning the incident is disputed as inaccurate and untrue by the testimony of Wachendorf and his brother. It is thus my obligation and responsibility to weigh the credibility of the witnesses in order to make factual findings. Credibility is the value that a fact finder gives to the testimony of a witness. The word contemplates an overall assessment of a witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency, and manner in which it "hangs together" with other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F. 2d 718 (9th Cir. 1963). The term has been defined as testimony which must proceed from the mouth of the credible witness and must be such as our common experience, knowledge, and common observation can accept as probable under the circumstances. State v. Taylor, 38 N.J. Super 6, 24 (App. Div. 1955); See, also, Gilson v. Gilson, 116 N.J. Eq. 556, 560 (E. & A. 1934). A fact finder is expected to base decisions of credibility on his or her own common sense, which is also referred to as intuition or experience. Barnes v. United States, 412, U.S. 837 (1973).

The Readington Township police vehicles are equipped with video cameras, which are connected with the roof-top flashing emergency lights. When DeWire activated the flashing lights on his vehicle the video camera began to capture the events in front of the police vehicle. The old adage that one picture is worth 10,000 words is not only appropriate, but when expanded to 5 to 10 minutes of continuous pictures is the most credible evidence of the events of the morning and worth more than the testimony of all the witnesses.

Having viewed the video during the hearing and again in preparation of this decision. I find the testimony of Thomas Wachendorf to be incredible and the testimony of Robert Wachendorf to be unsupported by the video. The overhead flashing lights on DeWire's vehicle were in operation for 4 minutes and 15 seconds before Wachendorf entered his driveway and are seen reflecting off Wachendorf's car. DeWire's siren was sounding for the final 3½ minutes of the pursuit; the loud "squawk" horn was heard on the video tape for approximately 3 minutes. Automobiles approaching Wachendorf and DeWire from the opposite direction pulled to shoulder of the road as required by law. After Wachendorf finally stopped his car and DeWire

If, as stated by the Commissioner in In re McIntyre, ibid., "educators of this state serve as role models, they are required to set a good example for the children entrusted to them," allowing Wachendorf to continue teaching in a youth correctional facility sends the wrong message to the Mountainview residents. Permitting Wachendorf to return to Mountainview, regardless of the reduction in compensation, makes a farce of the risk associated with interfering, ignoring and obstructing law enforcement officers at work.

The second charge against Wachendorf "failure to notify supervisor within 48 hours of an arrest" in violation of Department of Corrections Human Resources Bulletin ("HRB") 84:19, as amended. The decision and penalty recommended for the unbecoming conduct charge, if accepted, would render most discussion of the notification charge. Nevertheless and analysis of the testimony and documentary evidence should be included in order to dispose of all of the issues in this matter.

The parties do not dispute that Wachendorf did not personally notify anyone at Mountainview within 48 hours after his arrest by the Readington Police. Wachendorf admits that those 48 hours were spent in the custody of the police, at Hunterdon Medical Center, and at home recuperating from Sunday's trauma. Wachendorf is sure someone – probably his brother – called Mountainview on the Monday or Tuesday after the arrest; Wachendorf could not recall exactly who called either day. Wachendorf testified that on Tuesday, May 4, he went to see Harold J. Bush, Esq., an attorney retained by Wachendorf's brother. On that day Wachendorf told Bush to notify Corrections of the arrest, emphasizing the importance of the notice. Bush's June 9 letter to Bruce Fralinger. (Exhibit R-3) affirms that Bush called Mountainview "on or about May 5" to speak with Linda Hansen. Instead of speaking to Hansen, Bush spoke with Bartkowski. Bush's letter and the additional correspondence from Fralinger to the Director of the Office of Education in Corrections (Exhibit R-4 and -5) explain Wachendorf's physical condition after he was released by the police and presume Corrections had notice of Wachendorf's arrest.

The residuum rule (N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(b)) precludes the ultimate Finding of Fact that Bush notified Wachendorf's supervisor of Wachendorf's arrest within 48 hours of the arrest. The position of Corrections that only the employee can notify the institution of an arrest, only the

The Initial Decision on Remand of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the parties' revised settlement agreement, and the record of this matter have been reviewed,[1] mindful of the Commissioner's May 3, 2005 determination that the prior settlement agreement recommended for adoption by the Administrative Law Judge failed to address the standards of Cardonick, infra, contained no indication of Board of Education approval, and suggested restrictions on access to documents which are by law public records.

CAMDEN CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION

AND

BETTY JANE HERRING

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

The Petitioner Camden City Board of Education (hereinafter referred to as the "Board") and Respondent Betty Jane Herring (hereinafter referred to as either "Ms. Herring" or "the Respondent"), collectively referred to as "the parties," being fully aware of the requirements for a Settlement Agreement as announced by the State Board of Education in the matter entitled In Re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846 (April 8, 1983), hereby agree that this matter shall be deemed settled and withdrawn, based upon the following terms and conditions, subject to the approval of the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education.

WHEREAS, Ms. Herring as a tenured teacher and administrator, has been employed by the Board as a biology teacher at Camden High School between 1976 and 1989; as an assistant principal at Hatch Middle School from 1989 through 1993; as an assistant principal at Lincoln Elementary School from 1993 to 1994; as an assistant principal at the W. Powell School from 1994 through 1997; as vice principal at Camden High from 1997 through 2001; and as principal of Camden High from July of 2001 through March 29, 2004; and

WHEREAS, the Board of Education certified tenure charges against the Respondent on or about October 15, 2004; and

WHEREAS, the Board of Education certified five (5) charges against the Respondent, alleging the following: 1. Respondent was guilty of neglect of duty and unbecoming conduct by not reporting acts of violence at Camden High School throughout the 2003-2004 school year; 2. Respondent was guilty of neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming by refusing and/or failing to evaluate non-tenured staff; 3. Respondent was insubordinate to the Superintendent and/or her supervisors by failing and/or refusing to comply with orders and instructions from the Superintendent and/or the Assistant Superintendents; 4. Respondent was guilty of neglect of duty, conduct unbecoming and/or insubordination by refusing and/or failing to comply with direct orders and instructions from the Superintendent and/or Assistant Superintendents relative to implementing the corrective action plan for Camden High School; 5. Respondent was guilty of neglect of duties in failing and/or refusing to ensure that Camden High School basketball team was in full compliance with N.J.S.I.A.A. rules, as necessary; and

WHEREAS, the Statement of Charges is attached hereto as Exhibit 1 ; and

WHEREAS, none of those tenure charges involve any criminal allegations or inappropriate behavior towards a student or encompassed any issues relating to Ms. Herring's fitness to be a teacher, personal integrity, or to act as an administrator in a different setting, but concerned alleged allegations primarily regarding neglect of duty and insubordination between September 2003 and March 2004 at Camden High School; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Herring on or about November 4, 2004 filed an Answer and Affirmative Defenses to those charges, vigorously denying the factual allegations set forth in the charges and raising a number of affirmative defenses; and

WHEREAS, a copy of Respondent's Answer and Affirmative Defenses is attached hereto as Exhibit 2; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Herring's efforts as an educator and administrator have been recognized in the community and by her peers and she received satisfactory performance evaluations from the District (see Exhibits A through L attached to Exhibit 2) ; and

WHEREAS, at no time was Ms. Herring's salary withheld or rescinded in connection with any of the tenure charges that were filed against her; and

WHEREAS, after the filing of tenure charges and Respondent's answer as well as an initial review of discovery, it became clear that there were going to be factual and legal issues relating to the tenure charges; and

WHEREAS, the Board is aware of the risks involved in litigating this matter to conclusion, in that the Respondent may not ultimately be dismissed from her position; and

WHEREAS, the Board would like to move the district forward with its current core of administrators; and

WHEREAS, it would be in the best interests of the community to resolve the outstanding issues without the necessary expense and time constraints placed on district employees to testify at hearing, especially in light of the risks involved in litigating this matter; and

WHEREAS, Respondent does not intend to seek a position as an administrator in a public school district in the State of New Jersey; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Herring is of retirement age and eligible to retire and she has been fully advised of her rights; and

WHEREAS, based upon the totality of the circumstances, both parties determined that the public interest would be served by an amicable resolution of this matter, and settlement would be prudent and in the interest of the parties, this Agreement is made and entered into this _____ day of _____, 2005 by and between Betty Jane Herring and the Camden Board of Education and is intended to amicably resolve all pending matters related to the employment of Betty Jane Herring by the Board as follows:

1. Betty Jane Herring agrees to retire from employment with the Board no later than September 1, 2005. Ms. Herring's irrevocable letter of resignation from employment with the Board effective no later than September 1, 2005 as a result of her retirement is attached hereto as Exhibit 3. She further understands that in entering into this settlement agreement, her letter of retirement is irrevocable.

2. The Board agrees to withdraw the tenure charges which have been filed against Betty Jane Herring and to remove from her files any and all references to such charges.

3. Betty Jane Herring will continue to be paid her contractual salary and all available contractual benefits as a Board employee up to the date of her retirement, but in no instance later than August 31, 2005. Her records with the Board will reflect that she was on a paid leave of absence up to her retirement date.

4. As a result of her retirement from the Board, the Board agrees to pay Betty Jane Herring for her unused accumulated sick leave days and her earned but unused vacation days and any other benefit to which she is entitled upon retirement, pursuant to and in accordance with the terms of the collective bargaining agreement between the Camden Board of Education and the Camden City Federation of School Administrators, Local 39.

5. The Board agrees that upon request for a reference from any prospective employer, the only information provided will be Ms. Herring's dates of employment with the Board, her titles and positions held; and salary information.

6. In consideration for the above, Ms. Herring agrees to waive any and all claims she has against the City of Camden Board of Education with regard to the subject matter of this Agreement, including any claims for pay beyond the scope of paragraphs 3 and 4, counsel fees or other monetary relief.

7. The parties agree that they have been duly represented by their respective attorneys and that they have voluntarily, without coercion, agreed to the resolution of the matters related to Ms. Herring's employment by the Board of Education as set forth above.

8. Both parties fully understand all of the terms of this Settlement Agreement and have voluntarily enter into and consent to this Agreement as evidenced by the signatures below.

9. Respondent Betty Jane Herring has entered into this Agreement with a full understanding of her rights and has been fully advised that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.6(a)(1), the Commissioner of Education may forward this matter to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation or suspension of her certificates.

10. This Agreement contains all of the terms of the parties' Agreement and cannot be modified or changed unless all parties agree to do so in writing.

11. The parties agree that this Agreement shall be non-precedential and shall not be evidence of past practice or policy of the Board and has been entered into without any admission of liability or wrongdoing by either party.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have signed, delivered and acknowledged this Agreement.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY :
SS:
COUNTY OF CAMDEN :

I, LEE E. BROCKINGTON, being duly sworn according to law upon my oath depose and say:

1. I am employed by the Petitioner, the Camden City Board of Education (hereinafter referred to as "the Board"), as the School Business Administrator/Board Secretary for the Camden City Public School District.

2. On September 8, 2004, the Respondent, Betty Herring, was served with tenure charges and supporting statement of evidence (hereinafter referred to as the "charges"), which contained the following charges of unbecoming conduct:

(a) CHARGE NO. 1: Ms. Herring is guilty of neglect of duty and unbecoming conduct for violating state law by not reporting acts of violence at Camden High School throughout the 2003-04 year.

(b) CHARGE NO. 2: Ms. Herring is guilty of neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming for violating state law by refusing and/or failing to evaluate non-tenured teaching staff as required by statute and the Administrators' Contract and Teacher's Contract.

(c) CHARGE NO. 3: Ms. Herring has been insubordinate to the Superintendent and/or her supervisors, by failing and/or refusing to comply with orders and instructions from the Superintendent and/or the Assistant Superintendents.

(d) CHARGE NO. 4: Ms. Herring is guilty of neglect of duty, conduct unbecoming and/or insubordination by refusing and/or failing to comply with direct orders and instructions from the Superintendent and/or the Assistant Superintendent relative to implementing the corrective action plan for Camden High School.

(e) CHARGE NO. 5: Ms. Herring is guilty of neglect of her duties as a Principal in failing and/or refusing to ensure that the Camden High School basketball team was in full compliance with N.J.S.I.A.A. rules, as necessary.

In support of the charges, the Respondent was also served with the Statement of Evidence and Exhibits 1 through 39. (Exhibit 2).

3. On September 24, 2004, the Respondent filed a written statement of position in opposition to the charges. (Exhibit 3).

4. On October 13, 2004, the Board met in closed executive session at its Special Board meeting held at 201 N. Front Street, Camden, New Jersey, to review the merits of the charges. After evaluating the charges, together with the supporting statement of evidence, and the Respondent's written opposition thereto, the Board made the following determinations by a majority vote of its full membership:

(a) There is probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the five (5) charges of unbecoming conduct;

(b) The five (5) charges of unbecoming conduct and the evidence in support thereof are sufficient, if true in fact, to warrant the Respondent's dismissal from her employment with the Board; and

(c) The five (5) charges of unbecoming conduct shall be certified to the Commissioner of Education; and

5. The Board has directed me to file the charges, together with the instant certificate of determination, with the Commissioner of Education and to forthwith notify Betty Herring of the Board's determination.

6. On October 15, 2004, I served the Respondent as well as Respondent's counsel with notice of the Board's determination to certify the charges with the Commissioner of Education, by certified mail (Exhibit 4).

STATEMENT OF CHARGES

I, Jan E. Gillespie-Walton, Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum and Instruction, do herewith charge that Betty Jane Herring, employed by the Board of Education of the City of Camden, as a tenured Principal, is guilty of neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming a Principal due to violations of state and federal statutes regarding the reporting of violence at Camden High School; violations of statute regarding the evaluations of non-tenured teaching staff; insubordination and other conduct unbecoming an employee so as to require that her employment with the Board of Education of the City of Camden be terminated. More particularly, it is charged that:

CHARGE NO. 1

Ms. Herring is guilty of neglect of duty and unbecoming conduct for violating state law by not reporting acts of violence at Camden High School throughout the 2003-04 year. On July 8, 2003, Camden High School was declared a persistently dangerous school under the federal No Child Left Behind Act. Beginning in September of 2003, Ms. Herring, as a Principal of Camden High School, began a pattern of unbecoming conduct, in an effort to subvert the No Child Left Behind statutory designation and in violation of the reporting requirements of the Electronic Violence and Vandalism Reporting Act, N.J.S.A. 18:17-46, et seq., Ms. Herring intentionally did not report incidents of violence. More specifically, although Camden High reported over two hundred incidents of violence in the 2003-2004 Academic Year, as of April 1, 2004, Ms. Herring submitted less than forty-five (45) reportable incidents for Camden High School in the 2003-2004 Academic Year (Exhibit 1). During this same time period, Ms. Herring received over one hundred seventy (170) incident reports from the school nurse and school law enforcement officer (Id.). As required by statute and school procedure, Ms. Herring was required to submit these reports to the Chief of Security for evaluation and reporting to the State. Despite the fact that Ms. Herring submitted approximately forty-two (42) reportable incidents, during this time period, an ambulance was required to respond to the hospital over forty (40) times; teachers were assaulted; over one hundred and twenty-five (125) students were attacked and/or injured; weapons were recovered from students which included knives, a razor blade and a .45 Caliber handgun; and at least one student was sexually assaulted (Exhibits 1-6). By not reporting incidents of violence, Ms. Herring endangered the safety, health and welfare of the students and staff and prevented the District from learning of and properly addressing these safety issues which resulted in continued and/or escalating violence at Camden High School. Under reporting of violence also precluded the effective delivery of educational services to the students. Such conduct establishes Ms. Herring's unfitness to administer a school and violates the public trust placed with Ms. Herring as a tenured Principal. Ms. Herring's conduct also endangered the physical safety of the students and staff of the school she was charged with protecting. The above incidents are only examples of Ms. Herring's neglect of her duties and unbecoming behavior as a Principal which warrants her dismissal from the position of Principal in the Camden School District.

Ms. Herring is guilty of neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming for violating state law by refusing and/or failing to evaluate non-tenured teaching staff as required by statute and the Administrators' Contract and Teacher's Contract.. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-31 mandates a minimum of three(3) evaluations per year for each non-tenured teaching staff member. The Collective Negotiation's Bargaining Agreement covering vice-principals and teachers specifies the time period by which each of these three (Administrators) or four (Teachers) evaluations is to occur (Exhibit 7). Ms. Herring did not evaluate the Vice-Principals at Camden High School as required by statute and contract. Neither did she evaluate nor direct the proper evaluation of the teachers at Camden High School as required under the statute and the applicable Agreement (Exhibits 7-20). This conduct deprived the District of the opportunity to evaluate properly and review non-tenured teaching staff and deprived these teachers and administrators of the appropriate supervision and guidance for them to effectively instruct and supervise. Such conduct establishes Ms. Herring's unfitness to administer a school, and violates the public trust placed in Ms. Herring as a tenured Principal to adhere to the law and the appropriate Collective Negotiations Agreements. The above incidents are only examples of Ms. Herring's unbecoming behavior and warrant her dismissal from the position of Principal.

Ms. Herring has been insubordinate to the Superintendent and/or her supervisors, by failing and/or refusing to comply with orders and instructions from the Superintendent and/or the Assistant Superintendents. For example, on or about October 9, 2003, when the Superintendent inquired regarding an incident of violence at Camden High School, Ms. Herring responded, "There was no fighting. No blood has been drawn. The only blood around here is on a pad between my legs." Despite being instructed by one of the Assistant Superintendents to apologize, Ms. Herring refused to apologize for this behavior (Exhibit 21) . Ms. Herring regularly failed and/or refused to comply with directives from her supervisors (Exhibit 22). Such conduct establishes Ms. Herring's insubordination, unfitness to administer a school, and violates the public trust placed with Ms. Herring as a tenured Principal to properly follow instruction from the administrators to whom she reports. These are but examples of Ms. Herring's insubordination and unbecoming conduct which warrant her dismissal from the position of Principal in the Camden School District.

Ms. Herring is guilty of neglect of duty, conduct unbecoming and/or insubordination by refusing and/or failing to comply with direct orders and instructions from the Superintendent and/or the Assistant Superintendents relative to implementing the corrective action plan for Camden High. Ms. Herring did not implement that plan or institute any significant changes at the school and failed to submit required updates regarding the safety measures at the high school despite numerous directives from the Superintendent and Assistant Superintendents (Exhibits 23-31) . By failing and/or refusing to comply with the corrective action plan and by failing and/or refusing to address the safety problems at Camden High School, Ms. Herring created and allowd a dangerous situation for students to continue at Camden High School. Such conduct establishes Ms. Herring's neglect of her duties; insubordination, unfitness to administer a school; and, violates the public trust placed in her as a tenured Principal to properly follow directives from the administrators to whom she reports. The above incidents are only examples of Ms. Herring's neglect of duties, insubordination and unbecoming behavior which warrant her dismissal from the position of Principal.

CHARGE NO. 5

Ms. Herring is guilty of neglect of her duties as a Principal in failing and/or refusing to ensure that the Camden High School basketball team was in full compliance with N.J.S.I.A.A. rules, as necessary. Ms. Herring was instructed to ensure compliance with the N.J.S.I.A.A. rules for the boys' basketball team. During the 2003-2004 year, due to a late application and the use of a new player from Europe, without the proper notifications to the N.J.S.I.A.A., the boys basketball team was required to forfeit games they had won, lost the opportunity to host two tournament games, and was required to surrender a high initial ranking in the tournament and accept a lower ranking just in order to be allowed to play (Exhibits 32-39). Such conduct establishes unfitness to administer and govern a school, and violates the public trust placed with Ms. Herring as a tenured Principal to comply with all required rules and regulations and to follow instructions from the administrators to whom she reports. The above incidents are only examples of Ms. Herring's neglect of duty, insubordination and unbecoming conduct which warrant her dismissal from the position of Principal at the Camden Board of Education.

In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Betty Herring, Camden City Board of Education, Camden County	:	Before the Commissioner of Education In the State of New Jersey Agency Reference No. 369-10/04 OAL Docket No.
	:	ANSWER AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES ON BEHALF OF RESPONDENT BETTY HERRING

NOW HERE COMES, James Katz of Jennings Sigmond, P.C., and on behalf of Betty Jane Herring (hereinafter referred to as "Ms. Herring" or the "Respondent"), employed by the Board of Education of the City of Camden for 28 years, with the last 15 of those years as a tenured Assistant Principal or Principal, files the following Answer and Affirmative Defenses to the tenure charges brought against Ms. Herring by the School District of the City of Camden. Based upon an objective view of the totality of the circumstances and the evidence, there is not probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the charges and/or to justify Respondent's termination from employment, and these charges should be dismissed without the need for a hearing before the Office of Administrative Law.

The Respondent has spent her life devoted to education and has endeavored to provide a quality education for all Camden students, which is conducive to learning and personal, social, and academic growth. Between 1976 and 1989, the Respondent was employed as a biology teacher at Camden High School. From 1989 through 1993, she worked as an Assistant Principal at Cooper B. Hatch Middle School. From 1993 to 1994, she was Assistant Principal at Lincoln Elementary School, and employed Assistant Principal of the W. Powell School from 1994 through 1997.

In 1997, the Respondent became Vice-Principal of Camden High, where she worked from 1997 through 2001. During this time, she was responsible for assisting and supporting the building Principal with the administration and management of the building and instructional program. She was appointed Principal of Camden High School by the Board of Education (hereinafter "the Board") in July of 2001, and worked as Principal of Camden High from 2001 through March 29, 2004, when she was improperly transferred to the position of Acting Supervisor of Science at the Riggs Center.

Throughout this period of time, Ms. Herring's efforts have been recognized in the community and by her peers. The Respondent consistently received satisfactory performance evaluations from the District. She received the Camden County Board of Freeholders 1996 Women's Recognition Award in Education. In March of 1998, she received the New Jersey Alliance of Black School Educators Award for excellence in education. In January of 2000, she was asked to serve on the Middle States Accreditation Committee. In June of 2003, she received the first Presidential Cultural Diversity Award from the Camden City Council. In October of 2003, she was inducted into the National Association of University Women.

Throughout her employment, the Respondent was consistently praised for her efforts. On July 1, 1991, Jan E. Gillespie-Walton, currently the District's Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum and Instruction and formerly Respondent's immediate supervisor, wrote as follows:

> This letter of commendation is one that is long overdue. For, indeed, your efforts on both daily and weekly basis are commendable.

> You not only do the many things expected of an Assistant Principal, but go far beyond those expectations. It is most comforting and reassuring to realize that we are truly a team supporting and enhancing each other's efforts for the good of the organization.
> I could neither have asked for nor received more support, energy or effort from anyone. You have assisted in program development. You have soothed ruffle feathers and connective calmed trouble times. You are both a strong disciplinarian and gentle surrogate parent. You are quick to praise and eager to constructively assist in professional growth . . . Thank you for all you do. Your efforts are truly appreciated [Exhibit A].[1]

On March 8, 1993, Ms. Gillespie wrote in support of her recommendation on the Respondent's behalf for a Middle School Principal position:

> Betty Herring would be an asset to any educational institution as its instructional leader [Exhibit B].

On August 16, 1993, former Superintendent Dr. Arnold Webster, in transferring Ms. Herring to the Lincoln School, wrote:

> Your loyalty and dedication to the District have been greatly appreciated and we encourage you to continue to utilize your many skills to assist in the facilitation of the district's education program." [Exhibit C].

In May of 1995, Respondent's evaluation as Assistant Principal at Lincoln stated that:

> Ms. Herring has worked well with her staff in order to meet the many needs of her students. A job well done. [Exhibit D].

On January 5, 1996, in naming the Respondent to the system-wide curriculum steering committee, Dr. Frazier explained that it was felt that her presence "would be an asset to the group through [her] contributions to the development of curriculum and the improvement of instructions." (Exhibit E). On May 30, 1997, in her annual performance report, it was written:

[1] The exhibits referenced with a letter are attached hereto and incorporated herein. Those referenced with a number were annexed to the District's tenure charges.

"Ms. Herring is commended for her fine performance this year. Powell School has been fortunate to have a fine leader." (Exhibit F).

Subsequently, Ms. Herring was named as Vice Principal to Camden High School and Dr. Knox, the current Superintendent, recommended and the Board approved Respondent's promotion to Principal on July 1, 2001. Regarding Respondent's work since becoming Principal at Camden High School, Charles H. Highsmith, Assistant Superintendent, on December 14, 2001, wrote as follows:

> Congratulations on the changes that have occurred at Camden High School to date. It is obvious you are a tireless worker who has a vision for an improved Camden High School. Prior to my arrival, I was told by many that Camden High School was as the kids say 'Off the Hook.' I have been delighted by your early efforts to bring lasting-substantive change to your high school. The new spirit in the 'Castle on the Hill' is exciting. You will be able to continue to build on this enthusiasm. You have been responsive to suggestions as evidenced in some procedures you have implemented. You and your staff have implemented many positive changes that have sustained this climate of change. Our success is directly tied into our willingness to change practices, grow professionally, and provide improved instructional opportunities for the clients we serve. Teaching and learning is the heart of our efforts.
> Your managerial performance is solid . . . I have no doubt you will reach all the goals you set because you will work hard, remain focused, and know that improvement is part of all of lives. . . Ms. Herring, your potential is great and the Camden school district is counting on your effort and continued growth [Exhibit G].

On September 9, 2002, Dr. Knox, provided the following performance review for the Respondent (Exhibit H), writing in pertinent part as follows:

> You have demonstrated great leadership in a difficult situation.
> Planning – In the short period of 8 months, you have begun a significant push to shift the culture of a school (1500 students) that was in great disorder with little or no focus on the academic progress of students. Student schedules were poorly planned, > many teachers were not programmed for full instructional engagement. There were many physical disturbances in the school, i.e. fights, fires, etc. . . . In my opinion, you have done a satisfactory job as the principal leader at Camden High School. I believe that the staff, the students, and the community is beginning to believe that the 'Castle on the Hill' is to be respected again [Exhibit H].

Since that evaluation in September of 2002, the Respondent received no further written evaluations from Superintendent Knox.

While the Respondent was Principal at Camden High, the Commission on Secondary Schools of the Middle States Association accredited Camden High School for the period of May 1, 2003 through May 1, 2010, finding that Camden High has demonstrated to evaluators that is effectively advancing the quality of the educational experience it offers its students and complies with the standards established by the Commission on Secondary Schools and approved by members of the Association (Exhibit I). In its report which was issued on January 27, 2003, the Middle States Commission wrote as follows:

> 1.) School Climate and Culture: The Visitor experienced a focused, purposeful climate with well-behaved, respectful students and staff. School rules, such as no hats and required hall passes, are followed and strictly enforced. Students seem to honor these rules and no misbehavior was observed.
> Much student work is proudly displayed in classrooms and in halls. The Visitor was impressed with the dedication demonstrated to student needs . . . Security also seems good. Rooms are kept locked when not in use. Eighteen security personnel are in evidence throughout the building. Unannounced hall sweeps are used . . . There is a palpable feeling of pride in the school's rich 126-year history. The Visitor was stuck by how well-prepared individuals were for this visit and how heartfelt their comments were.
> 2.) Technology and Library: Considerable attention has been given to technology . . .

6.) Curriculum and Student Activities Offerings: . . . Curriculum is aligned with the New Jersey Core Curriculum Content Standards and the state tests.

The Visitor was impressed with the wide range of offerings, and a few examples will help to show the range . . .

5.) Continued emphasis on addressing the dropout rate: CHS has instituted a range of programs to address the dropout problem. Progress is being made. At the time of the team visit in 1999, the dropout rate was 32%. Now, it is 20%. A Twilight program, School-to-Career Program, Night School, and a GED Program are in place to address this concern.

6.) Continued focus on attendance: A Perfect Attendance Wall greets the Visitor upon entering the building. Monthly attendance charts and recognition for specific students are used. The state standard for attendance is 95%. At the time of the team visit, CHS attendance was at 74%. Now, it is 82-83%. The school is on the right path, but knows it must continue its efforts in this area [Exhibit J].

On May 12, 2003, Dr. Fred Reiss, Assistant Superintendent of Schools in Camden, recommended the Respondent as a candidate for the Rutgers Camden Leadership Program, describing her experience as Principal of Camden High School and stating as follows:

> During the nearly two years [Ms. Herring] has been Camden High's principal, Betty has efficiently grappled with difficult administrative crises, academic and curricular issues, parental and student problems, and faculty concerns. For example, Betty has dealt with staff undermining her authority, student violence and vandalism, parents making unrealistic demands on her, creating new programs, implementing new curricula, and successfully leading her school through a Middle States evaluation.
> Betty has shown a great deal of growth and maturity in the nearly two years in her position and undoubtedly will benefit from interacting with colleagues in similar situations and with university staff able to help her turn theory into practice.
> Betty is an intelligent, articulate, and hard working administrator who daily demonstrates her love of the children and her desire to succeed in her position. The urban high school principal's job is, in my opinion, among the most difficult in the entire field of > education, and every consideration should be given to her to allow her to participate in this program. I know that she will succeed in the Rutgers-Camden Leadership Program, and consequently, I highly recommend Ms. Betty Herring to you without any reservation whatsoever [Exhibit K].

On October 6, 2003, Dr. Albert A. Monillas, Assistant Commissioner for Southern and Regional Office of the Department of Education, wrote in pertinent as follows:

> What a wonderful morning visit we had at your school! The 'southern regional' team was impressed with so many exciting things occurring at Camden High School.
> First, the new security measures will provide your staff and students with a feeling of safety. The security surveillance cameras will enable your staff to pinpoint any trouble areas. Your security software will enhance discipline. Besides security, your facility was very clean and welcoming.
> Second, your students appeared well behaved in the formal settings during instruction as well as during the change of classes. Your security staff appeared 'on their toes' keeping the school safe and orderly. We were very impressed at your personal touch in knowing so many students as you walked the halls with us.
>
> Third, your idea in creating 'small learning communities' is a research-driven decision that we are certain will yield good results. Basing your decisions on data is truly commendable.
>
> Finally, your initiatives revolving around academics are truly commendable . . . Your corrective action plan was gladly accepted by the team. . . .
> Thank you for inviting us to upcoming activities at Camden High School. Your genuine and welcoming response to our visit was heartwarming as we work together to make Camden High School a place where 'teaching and learning' prevail [Exhibit L].

Although Ms. Gillespie on or about September 8, 2004 certified tenure charges against the Respondent, it should be noted that no issues regarding tenure charges concerning the Respondent were raised until after March 31, 2004, when Ms. Herring filed a Petition before the Commissioner of Education of New Jersey, challenging the decision made by the Board of Education at its meeting on March 29, 2004, to transfer the Respondent, without her consent from the position of Principal of Camden High School to the position of Acting Supervisor of Science at the district's Riggs Center effective April 1, 2004 (Exhibit M).[2] At the time that the Superintendent recommended and the Board decided to transfer Ms. Herring to the position of Acting Supervisor of Science, no tenure charges had been brought. The Respondent was not informed at that time by anyone from the District that tenure charges would be brought, nor were doubts raised regarding her performance, such that it was felt that the Respondent should not be named Acting Supervisor of Science.

On April 20, 2004, the Commissioner of Education (hereinafter "the Commissioner") issued his opinion in which he held that the Respondent's transfer to the position of Acting Supervisor of Science was impermissible. In granting Respondent's petition, the Commissioner stressed that the Respondent would be:

> Irreparably harm by the District's decision to assign her, a tenured Principal, to the position of Acting Supervisor of Science in that the illegal transfer and the consequent de facto demotion to the separate and subordinate position of Acting Supervisor of Science can never be adequately addressed over time, nor can monetary damages ameliorate the blemish on her professional standing among her peers and her reputation in the school district and in the community. With respect to the balancing of the interests, the Board's argument that returning petitioner to her tenured position would disrupt the school operations with less than 90 days remaining in the school year is absolutely ludicrous. The Board exhibited no such concern for continuity in its school operations near the end of the school year when it acted a little over two weeks ago to transfer petitioner and appoint a non-tenured individual to fill the opening created by such illegal transfer.

[2] Nor were the contractual provisions regarding Respondent's performance evaluations complied with during 2003 and 2004. Under the collective bargaining agreement then in effect, tenured administrators are to be formally evaluated twice a year, once before December 31 and the second evaluation before May 31. Copies of individual Professional Improvement Plan, Administrative Observation Forms and Administrative Annual Performance Report are to be given to the Administrator being evaluated immediately upon completion. When areas of performance are identified as unsatisfactory, suggestions are to be given to the Administrator and time given to implement them. Follow-up conferences are to be held (Exhibit N). These procedures were not followed in connection with the Respondent's evaluations as Principal of Camden High School.

> Accordingly, I cannot conclude that the Board will suffer any harm from returning petitioner to her position.
> Finally, I cannot ignore that this is the second incident in just over a year when the Camden Board has transferred and demoted a tenured principal, without her consent, to a subordinate position in blatant disregard of her statutory tenure and seniority rights. See Sanchez, supra. Moreover, although petitioner's suspension is not before me at this juncture, it is noted that petitioner claims that she was suspended, pending the filing of tenure charges in retaliation for filing the within petition and motion for emergent relief. While I make no finding with respect to this claim, I cannot discount that the timing of the decision to suspend petitioner is suspect. The Board is, therefore, strongly cautioned that subsequent actions and violation of school law will not be tolerated (emphasis in original) [Exhibit O].

The Commissioner noted in his opinion that not only had no tenure charges been filed against Ms. Herring, but also her suspension pending the filing of tenure charges "occurred after the Board transferred [Ms. Herring] to the position of Acting Supervisor of Science." (Exhibit O at note 1).

Subsequently, the Board filed a motion for reconsideration, claiming that the Commissioner's decision dealt with a set of facts which did not exist as of April 20, 2004 because the Board had indicated that at a special meeting scheduled for April 19, 2004, it intended to return the Respondent to her position as High School Principal and suspend her pending the filing of tenure charges. The Commissioner denied the Board's motion for reconsideration, concluding that neither its intention to suspend Ms. Herring's transfer nor the Superintendent's recommendation to rescind the improper transfer had any effect on her status, and reiterated once again that the Respondent's transfer was effectuated on April 1, 2004, prior to any reference to the filing of tenure charges (Exhibit P).

Notwithstanding the assertion in April of 2004 that tenure charges were to be filed against the Respondent, no charges were filed for five months until September of 2004. The circumstances surrounding the charges, the timing of the charges, the fact that rather than filing tenure charges on March 29, 2004, it was recommended to the Board and the Board approved the Respondent's transfer to the position of Acting Supervisor of Science, evidences that these tenure charges represent an unfortunate effort to punish the Respondent for having challenged the District's decision to assign her, a tenured Principal, to the position of Acting Supervisor of Science.

RESPONSE TO CHARGE NO. 1

The Respondent denies each and every factual allegation set forth in Tenure Charge No. 1 and/or that she was guilty of neglect of duty and/or unbecoming conduct for violating state laws by not reporting acts of violence at Camden High School throughout the 2003-2004 school year. On the contrary, the Respondent sought to report and did report all incidents of violence that occurred at Camden High School of which she was made aware.

Although ignored by the District, Camden High has had persistent problems with violence which predated Respondent's appointment as Principal. The finding that Camden High is a Persistently Dangerous School (hereinafter "PDS") under the federal No Child Left Behind Act was based upon statistics, two of the three years of which (1999-2000 and 2000-2001) predated Ms. Herring's appointment. Further, two other schools in Camden, both with lower enrollments than Camden High School, East Camden Middle and Bonsall, were also classified as Persistently Dangerous Schools (Exhibit W). Further, the Superintendent appointed co-principals for the 2003-2004 school year at Camden High School, who were to share administrative duties.

As is demonstrated in response to Charge No. 4, the Respondent and the entire staff of Camden High School took the issue of student violence and the Persistently Dangerous School designation extremely seriously and organized a wide-range of activities to confront this problem (see response to Charge No. 4). The Respondent and the staff repeatedly sought to address safety issues at Camden High and undertook a variety of steps and strategies.

Further, the Respondent vehemently denies that she intentionally failed to report incidents of violence during the 2003-2004 academic year at Camden High School or made any effort to subvert the No Child Left Behind statutory designation or the reporting requirements of the Electronic Violence and Vandalism Reporting Act. On the contrary, the Respondent had been informed that if several individuals were involved in an act or an incident of violence, that should be reported as a single act or incident of violence rather than reporting it as multiple acts or incidents. That is the procedure which was followed during the 2003-2004 academic year. At no time during the year was the Respondent informed that the foregoing procedure was incorrect or improper. As indicated, Ms. Herring sought to faithfully report all incidents of violence of which she was aware, which occurred at Camden High School.

The manner in which the administration at Camden High School reported incidents of violence was never done with any intent to preclude the effective delivery of educational services to students, nor was it designed to endanger the physical safety of students and staff. Indeed, that was a foremost priority of the Administration. Throughout the year, the Respondent remained vigilant and undertook a number of efforts and activities to try to enhance the safety of students and staff at Camden High.

The Respondent denies each and every factual allegation set forth in Tenure Charge No. 2 and/or and that she was guilty of neglect of duty and/or conduct unbecoming for violating state law by refusing and/or failing to evaluate non-tenured teaching staff and/or Vice-Principals at Camden High School, as required by statute and the pertinent collective bargaining agreements. Although ignored by the District, for the 2003-2004 school year, administrative responsibilities at Camden High School were divided between co-principals, the Respondent and Mr. Gregory Allen. The non-tenured teaching staff, whose evaluations were allegedly not completed, were not staff members who were assigned to the Respondent to evaluate, but rather were staff members whose evaluations were to be conducted by her co-principal Mr. Allen. Further, for those administrators and/or non-tenured teaching staff employed during the 2003-2004 school year for whom Respondent was responsible, she performed their evaluations and forwarded the requisite copies of same and/or would have completed those evaluations in a timely fashion had the Respondent not been improperly removed as principal.

Respondent was principal of Camden High since July of 2001. At no time during the 2001-2002 or 2002-2003 school years, were any issues raised regarding her non-performance of evaluations. During the 2003-2004 school year, Respondent evaluated those non-tenured teachers for whom she was responsible to conduct observations and evaluations. The Respondent was never informed that the District was unable to properly review non-tenured teaching staff because evaluations for which she was responsible had not been completed.

The Respondent denies each and every factual allegation set forth in Tenure Charge No. 3 and/or that she was insubordinate to the Superintendent and/or her supervisors, by failing and/or refusing to comply with orders and instructions from the Superintendent and/or the Assistant Superintendents. The District sets forth only two examples of insubordination in this charge. First, this charge states that on or about October 9, 2003, the Respondent allegedly made an inappropriate remark to the Superintendent. The Respondent categorically denies that she made such a statement. Immediately after this occurred, Ms. Herring wrote to the Assistant Superintendent and the Superintendent requesting a meeting to discuss this matter, as she was appalled by the allegation. Further, she retained counsel who made a similar request (see Exhibit Q). No meetings were arranged and the Respondent heard nothing further about this incident.

Second, the only other reference to failing and refusing to comply with orders or instructions from the Superintendent and Assistant Superintendent is to a memo dated February 20, 2004 from Ms. Gillespie to the Respondent and Mr. Allen (Exhibit 22), her co-principal, a copy of which accompanied the District's charges, claiming that the Respondent and Mr. Allen did not furnish a list of teachers to formulate a focus group to discuss issues, concerns, and remedial efforts to help reorganize Camden High School. The memo indicated that because the Assistant Superintendent did not receive such a list, she had to create one and will be meeting with the faculty shortly. Such a list was provided (Exhibit V). During the Respondent's over 15 years as an administrator, she was never previously accused of being insubordinate or refusing to comply with orders and instructions from the Superintendent and/or the Assistant Superintendent.

Respondent denies each and every factual allegation set forth in Tenure Charge No. 4 and/or denies that she was guilty of neglect of duty, conduct unbecoming and/or insubordination by refusing and/or failing to comply with direct orders and instructions from the Superintendent and/or the Assistant Superintendent relative to implementing the corrective action plan for Camden High School. On the contrary, the Respondent and the rest of the staff were committed to addressing the safety problems at Camden High School, responding to the Persistently Dangerous School (PDS) designation, and implementing the School's corrective action plan.. These activities included, but certainly were not limited to the following:

July

- Sent letters out to parents concerning Camden High being designated as a Persistently Dangerous School.

August

- Ninth and tenth grade orientation with parents, students and staff to discuss the goals and mission of Camden High School, along with the corrective action plan that addressed Camden High being designated as a Persistently Dangerous School.
- Held parent conferences concerning the PDS.

September

- Reviewed with staff the corrective action plan for PDS and set up committees to address PDS for Camden High School.
- Met with parents to review the corrective action plan for PDS and how they could become involved in the process.
- All administrators were assigned to a strategic area of the Camden High School complex in the mornings from 7:50 a.m. to 9:00 a.m.
- Administrative meetings were held regularly to discuss the climate, culture, and education of the students.
- All ninth graders were assigned to the main building for all of their classes, with the exception of gym, health and technology.
- Pictures for I.D. badges were taken for all students.

- All students and staff were required to wear their I.D. badges and present them upon entering the building.
- A list was composed of 100 students by administrators, staff, and security of those students who were "at risk" and submitted to the Superintendent.
- A list of all staff vacancies that had not been filled, that were crucial to the educational and cultural climate and concerns of the schools were submitted to the Superintendent.
- Rules and regulations on attendance, bullying, vandalism, and violence were formulated and discussed with staff and students.
- Daily 9th grade success academy meetings were held to discuss: (1) academic strategies; (2) develop thematic units and team teaching across the curriculum; (3) plan assemblies that focused on careers, self-esteem and cultural diversity.
- Back to School Night with emphasis on cultural diversity, academics, attendance and self-esteem.
- Revision of teacher and student schedules for purpose of effective teacher-student ratios and to provide a more positive learning environment.
- Weekly assemblies for 9th graders to address cultural diversity and academics and career orientation.
- Car passes were given to all staff to display in their cars.
- Security was stationed at the gate to monitor all traffic entering the driveway to the school.
- All visitors and administrators to the building were required to sign in and visitors were required to receive a visitor's pass.

- All 9th graders through their English classes were required to read the book The Bully and discuss it in class.
- Each administrator was assigned to a specific cafeteria duty and the principal monitored all four lunches.
- After school detention for lateness for school and parent conferences held for lateness to school.
- Unannounced hall sweeps were conducted.
- Utilized the support services of Link, the school nurse, and the guidance counselor to assist students and families in crisis situations.
- Parent conferences were held regarding students who were involved in more than three lateness to school, acts of violence, bullying and vandalism and absenteeism problems.

October

- 9th grade "Making High School Count" assembly, presented by PriceWaterhouse Coopers.
- 9th grade assembly speaker, World B Free spoke on self-esteem.
- Monitoring staff absences and lateness to school, with lists submitted to the Superintendent.
- Corrective action plans were written by staff who had severe attendance problems.
- Monitoring by Dr. Albert B. Monillas, Assistant Commissioner for the Southern Regional Office, to review school's corrective action plan activities in response to Camden High's PDS designation. We were subsequently informed in a letter dated November 3, 2003 that all of the compliance documents, including the corrective action plan, to respond to Camden High's PDS designation were approved (Exhibit R).

- Mid-semester reports sent to parents.
- Rules and regulations established concerning beepers, pagers, cell phones in the school, with notices sent home to parents and given to students, signs placed throughout the school, and students checked for the above items by security after sufficient notification.
- Five step program with mandatory anger management classes for students involved in fights.
- Conferences were held with Sgt. Ways, Lt. Martin of the COPS program, Det. Pease for updates on conflicts in the community that involved Camden High students that might have an impact on the High School.
- Inservice for school secretaries in Spanish to improve communication with Hispanic parents.
- Administrators and the school law enforcement officers were present to meet and greet and monitor a safe entrance and dismissal of all Camden High School students.
- Weekly attendance accountability meetings were held to discuss activities and strategies to increase attendance, decrease lateness to school, locate students who never entered school, and to improve school culture and climate.
- Establishment of Learning Walks by all administrators.

November

- Corrective action plan and compliance for documentation for Camden High School was approved by the State of New Jersey (Exhibit R).
- Enrichment material "Ten Skills You Really Need to Succeed" was distributed to all students.
- Information was given to the staff on small learning communities.
- Third submission of 100 at-risk students for placement in alternative educational settings was forwarded to the Superintendent.
- Administrators attended all athletic events to ensure good sportsmanship, crowd control, and community and school spirit.
- Parent conferences were held with some of the at-risk students identified through PAC team referrals to develop support services.
- Town meeting to review with parents, students and staff the mission goals and activities implemented to remove the PDS label from Camden High School.
- School uniform presentation to parents, staff, and students and the rationale for the wearing of a school uniform.
- 50 Thanksgiving baskets were distributed to needy families.

December

- Fourth submission of 100 at-risk students to Superintendent.
- Regular meetings with Assistant Superintendent and Dr. Frazier on PDS and implementation of activities to address this issue.
- Conferences with seniors and their parents and guidance counselors who were in danger of not graduating.

- Cultural diversity assemblies for all grade levels.
- Community student involvement through student government.
- Holiday baskets for needy families, coat drive, after school tutorial program for all students, with teachers and administrators donating their services.

January

- Man-II Man Martin Luther King Program for all male students
- 9th Grade Book of the Month (The Bully)
- Parent Center Activities to Address Cultural Diversity
- "Salute to Cultural Diversity Service Men"
    a. Cultural Diversity
    b. Self-Esteem
    c. Pride In Our Community
    d. Stop the Violence
- First Restructuring Faculty Workshop with Dr. Ivory

February

- Bullying Focus Group
- Faculty Inservice on Bullying by Focus Group
- Violence Prevention Intervention Bullying Initiatives
- Meeting with At Risk Students and their parents
    a. Academics
    b. Attendance
    c. Bullying

d. Alternative Placement

- Cultural Diversity Assembly

March

- Identify At Risk Students and Potential Placements
- 11th Grade Class Meeting (Academics, Attendance, Bullying)
- 10th Grade Class Meeting (Academics, Attendance, Bullying)
- SNAKOFA – Violence Prevention Update
- 9th Grade Class Meeting (Academics, Attendance, Bullying)
- 12th Grade Class Meeting (Academics, Attendance, Bullying)
- Camden Collaboration Meeting
- Bullying Character Education
- Administrative Bullying Focus Meeting
- Bullying Follow-Up Meeting

Throughout this period of time, Camden High School representatives had regular conferences with parents and students; referrals and counseling through PAC, Guidance, Link and the Child Study Team; ongoing administrative meetings to discuss and plan PDS intervention strategies; Learning Walks by all administrators; daily rotating hall sweeps, and collaboration with Parent Rangers to address class cutting and hall monitoring.

At no time did the administrators at Camden High School ever ignore the PDS designation. Rather, the staff engaged in a wide variety of activities and strategies to respond to the issue of violence and to promote the Corrective Action Plan (Exhibit S).

Further, the Corrective Action Plan, as any Corrective Action Plan, is an ongoing living document. It included timeframes for performance through June 15, 2004. At the time that the Respondent was removed as Principal, the Camden High School administrators were in the process of complying with that document and making a concerted effort to do so, based upon that timeframe, through a variety of initiatives (Exhibit S).

RESPONSE TO CHARGE NO. 5

The Respondent denies each and every factual allegation set forth in Tenure Charge No. 5 and/or any claim that Respondent is guilty of neglect of duties as a Principal in failing or refusing to ensure that the Camden High School basketball team was in full compliance with N.J.S.I.A.A. rules, as necessary. Although ignored by the Board, there were serious problems with the performance of Al Hall as Athletic Director at Camden High School, whose responsibility was to ensure that the Camden High School basketball team was in full compliance with N.J.S.I.A.A. rules. On April 11, 2003, the Respondent wrote to Mr. Hall and indicated that she was recommending to the Superintendent that he be removed from his position as of that time because of repeated performance problems. The Respondent further recommended that his increment be withheld for the 2003-2004 school year. At the time of Mr. Hall's retirement as of April 1, 2004, it was in the context of the District considering bringing tenure charges against him and the Respondent's recommendation for his removal for the very problems which were identified in Charge No. 5 (Exhibit T).

As the report of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association indicated, the use of a new player from Europe without proper notification to the N.J.S.I.A.A. and the team's failure to timely file entry forms occurred as a result of decisions and actions made by Athletic Director Al Hall (Exhibit X). This decision was not appealed by the District. These events did not occur as a result of the Respondent's conduct and were not the Respondent's responsibility.

Indeed, it were these failings by Mr. Hall that led to the Respondent's February 24, 2004 recommendation that he be removed as Athletic Director (Exhibit U).

The Athletic Director is responsible to ensure that the basketball team was in full compliance with N.J.S.I.A.A. Rules as necessary. The incidents which resulted in the penalties imposed upon the boy's basketball team in February 2004 were a direct result of the actions of Mr. Hall and not due to any neglect of duty by the Respondent.

AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES

1. The tenure charges against the Respondent should be dismissed for failure to state a claim upon which relief may be granted.

2. The tenure charges against the Respondent should be dismissed as they have been brought in bad faith and in retaliation for the Respondent's protected activity of petitioning the Commissioner of Education of New Jersey to challenge the decision made by the Camden Board of Education at its meeting on March 29, 2004 to transfer the Respondent, without her consent, from the position of principal of Camden High School to the position of acting supervisor of science, effective April 1, 2004.

3. The tenure charges brought against the Respondent should be dismissed as they are untimely and based upon false representations and groundless assertions designed to harass the Respondent because the Respondent challenged the District's decision to transfer her, in the middle of the school year without her consent, from her position as principal of Camden High School to the position of acting supervisor of science at the District's Riggs Center, effective April 1, 2004.

4. The tenure charges brought against the Respondent should be dismissed as they are procedurally defective, in that they fail to enumerate all of the evidence and factual claims that are being asserted against the Respondent.

5. The tenure charges brought against the Respondent should be dismissed, since at most they amount to claims of inefficiency, and the Board has failed to comply with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 regarding allegations of inefficiency.

6. The tenure charges brought against the Respondent do not warrant her removal.

WHEREFORE, the tenure charges which have been brought against the Respondent should be summarily dismissed and the Respondent immediately reinstated to her position as principal of Camden High School.

Dear Ms. Herring,

This letter of commendation is one that is long overdue. For, indeed, your efforts on both daily and weekly basis are commendable.

You not only do the many things expected of an assistant principal, but go far beyond those expectations. It is most comforting and reassuring to realize that we are truly a team supporting and enhancing each others' efforts for the good of the organization.

I could neither have asked for nor received more support, energy or effort from anyone. You have assisted in program development. You have soothed ruffled feathers and connectively calmed troubled hearts. You are both a strong disciplinarian and gentle surrogate parent. You are quick to praise, and eager to constructively assist in proffessional growth.

Betty, you have done an excellent job with your ecology academy and all of its activities under your auspices. Your George Washington Carver Peanut showcase was exemplary as were your recycling drive efforts and your planting ceremonies. You complemented the Knowledge Bowl agenda so supportively by writing that outstanding curriculum. What a special administrator you are!!

Thank you for all you do. Your efforts are truly appreciated.

Sincerely,

Jan E. Gillespie

Dear Dr. Webster,

This is a letter of high recommendation for Ms. Betty Herring for the position of middle school principal.

"Betty" who has been my "right hand" for the past three years is an exceptionally talented professional who is both eager to learn and to implement state-of-the-art information and delivery system mechanisms. Because of her conscientious efforts, The Mae Jemison Ecology Academy, the school-within-a-school that she is administratively responsible for, has been a most successful component to the Hatch Experience. This group has maintained a grow lab, brought Zoo on Wheels to the school, adopted animal programs, held health fairs, developed a Wellness Room, and held annual Walk-a-Thons to benefit Cooper Hospital's Pediatric Program.

Indeed, while all of the aforementioned are both important and relevant, they cannot begin to describe "Betty's " sense of loyalty and commitment to the organization and to me. She has put in long evening and weekend hours assisting in volunteer programs and program development. She has been admirably involved in community volunteerism at Dayton Manor, Cooper Hospital, Forest Hill Elementary School via her Ecology Academy efforts and her Rites of Passage young ladies.

Betty gives her all to every positive educational thrust at Hatch Middle School. Indeed, she would be an asset to any educational institution as its instructional leader. And, I therefore strongly support Ms. Betty J. Herring for the position she is seeking.

Most Sincerely,

Jan E. Gillespie

Dear Ms. Herring,

I hope the final weeks of the summer have been restful as well as enjoyable for you. We have been reviewing each school and it's staff members so as to ascertain the staff placements that will be in the best interest of the school district for the coming school year. With this in mind we have decided to recommend that you be transferred to a new assignment.

Your loyalty and dedication to the district have been greatly appreciated and we encourage you to continue to utilize your many skills to assist in the facilitation of the districts educational programs. For the school year 1993-94 I am recommending to the board that you be transferred to Lincoln School.

Again, thanks for your continued support and dedication as we work together to prepare our students for the challenges of the future. All of us in the central office are available to assist you in your quest for professional excellence.

Sincerely,

SUBJECT: OBSERVATION ON 12/6/01

Congratulations on the changes that have occurred at Camden High school to date. It is obvious that you are a tireless worker who has a vision for an improved Camden High School. Prior to my arrival I was told by many that Camden High school was as the kids say "Off The Hook." I have been delighted by your early efforts to bring lasting - substantive change to your high school. The new spirit in the "Castle on the Hill" is exciting. You will be able to continue to build on this enthusiasm. You have been responsive to suggestions as evidenced in some procedures you have implemented. You and your staff have implemented many positive changes that have sustained this climate of change. Our success is directly tied into our willingness to change practices, grow professionally and provide improved instructional opportunities for the clients we serve. Teaching and learning is the heart of our efforts.

Your managerial performance is solid. I ask that you read the attached documents with an eye and ear to professional growth. I have no doubt you will reach all the goals you set because you will work hard, remain focused and know that improvement is part of all of our lives. If you have any questions, comments or concerns please feel free to contact me immediately. Ms. Herring your potential is great and the Camden school district is counting on your effort and continued growth.

Ms. Betty Herring
Principal Camden High School
1700 Park Blvd.
Camden, NJ 08103-2897

Dear Ms. Herring:

As we move forward with our plans to focus the district's resources for collegial planning and more effective instruction, each of the district's principals has been required to participate in a Performance Review Conference. The purpose of the Performance Review is three-fold:

- to plan for the 2002-2003 instructional school year,
- to serve as the Individual Professional Improvement Plan,
- to involve principals in their evaluations.

During each conference, we discussed the following—Curriculum & Instruction, including all content areas, i.e., bilingual, ESL, etc.; budget; student performance and special needs; personnel; Technology; facilities; staff evaluations (certified and non-certified) and professional development.

Literacy is handled at Camden High School in the following ways:

- Data enabled school to identify students in need of additional support.
- Principal utilized "Closing the Achievement Gap" text to support steps used at Camden High School.

Exhibit H

- The principal set long and short term goals for the school.

- Key ingredients:
  dedicated teachers,
  challenging courses,
  high expectations,
  creative ways to implement curriculum

- Teachers were able to plan and implement workshops: Thinking Out Loud, Writing, Goal Setting, Pacing, Poetry

- Workshops were conducted during teacher prep time.

- Writing project for seniors

- One book, "The Price of A Child", was used.

This focus is unusual for the Camden High faculty. You have demonstrated great leadership in a difficult situation.

Planning—In the short period of 8 months, you have begun a significant push to shift the culture of a school (1500 students) that was in great disorder with little or no focus on the academic progress of students. Student schedules were poorly planned, many teachers were not programmed for full instructional engagement. There were many physical disturbances in the school, i.e. fights, fires, etc.

At this time, you spend a great amount of your time moving through the building on Learning Walks. These walks allow a principal the opportunity to observe the methodology of her building; to determine how the building could be organized better for instruction and security; to identify hall walkers and students in need of another kind of academic setting. The walks also provide an opportunity for the principal to observe individual teachers and staff, and to be able to respond in writing to what is seen. They also create an opportunity for the establishment of a comfort level between staff and principal.

The things that you refer to have been evidenced by my observation of what has happened in Camden High School during the 2001-2002 school year. There are areas that continue to be of concern, i.e. the push for a creative arts curriculum which will present opportunities for more students to be immersed in the arts, but should not be confused with what is currently occurring at Creative Arts High School. There are numerous programs at Camden High School that are progressing well: the School to Work Program (Cisco, American Airlines, Dell Academy). There needs to be more student access to these programs. The plan is to advertise these on Channel 19.

In my opinion, you have done a satisfactory job as the principal leader at Camden High School. I believe that the staff, the students and the community is beginning to believe that the "Castle on the Hill" is to be respected again.

Please note also that attendance has improved. During the month of March 2002, the attendance rate was 82%. Although it fluctuates, attendance is improving.

Benchmarks for your school for the 2002-2003 year are as follows:

•Language Arts Literacy	10.0 %
•Mathematics	10.0 %
•Science	10.0 %

In my judgment, your evaluation is as follows—satisfactory.

Sincerely,

Annette D. Knox
Superintendent of Schools

The Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools is a non-profit association serving elementary, secondary and higher education institutions through programs of self-study, evaluation and accreditation

CHS has been changing demographically and is now about 60% African American and 40% Hispanic. Since 47% of the student body is bilingual, the school has placed emphasis on hiring bilingual teachers. There is a bilingual guidance counselor and a bilingual nurse. The school has a large special needs population, including a mild cognitively-impaired class. About 150 students each year are returnees from the adjudicated youth system.

Areas of Strength/Where Improvements have been seen:

1.) School Climate and Culture: The Visitor experienced a focused, purposeful climate with well-behaved, respectful students and staff. School rules, such as no hats and required hall passes, are followed and strictly enforced. Students seem to honor these rules and no misbehavior was observed.

Much student work is proudly displayed in classrooms and in halls. The Visitor was impressed with the dedication demonstrated to student needs. In the many conversations held with students, staff, and administration, the emphasis was first and foremost on individual students and their success. Next year, the school will begin to move toward small learning academies with the 9th Grade Success Academy. This is being done in an effort to ensure that attention is given to every child and to deal effectively with the varying needs of each grade level.

Security also seems good. Rooms are kept locked when not in use. Eighteen security personnel are in evidence throughout the school. Unannounced hall sweeps are used. The school is large and has 55 exits/entrances that may not, by law, be locked, but must be supervised.

District-wide, there has been much emphasis on the development of its 2002 Emergency Management Plan. An excellent, easy-to-use document has been developed that outlines procedures for over 15 possible crises including biological agents, shootings, bomb threats, and hostage situations. Each Camden City school was then required to make its own emergency management decisions, and there are plans to enact "model scenarios" at CHS. Because of its location, for example, CHS has contracted a 24-hour bus service should students need to be taken away from the school to another location. Staff inservice has been provided by the principal, and the school nurses are involved in this effort. A Health and Safety Committee made up of staff and administration has been appointed. Also available is an extensive School Health Services Guidelines notebook developed by the state in October 2001.

There is a palpable feeling of pride in the school's rich 126-year history. The Visitor was struck by how well-prepared individuals were for this visit and how heartfelt their comments were.

2.) Technology and Library: Considerable attention has been given to technology, and the school has about 900 computers, including several mobile/portable laptop labs. Every classroom has a minimum of 4 computers, all Internet connected. There are five labs located throughout the school. One of these is designated as a Research Lab where teachers bring classes for projects over a period of time. There is a full-time technology resource teacher who works with the classroom teachers on the design of the lesson plans and how best to use technology to achieve lesson objectives. This lab is so popular that sign-up sheets show it is fully booked through the end of April. LCD projectors were seen in wide use, and the school has camcorders and digital cameras.

regular training. The District offers at least 20 credits of courses per year for both staff and administration. This year, the school has offered two workshops on inclusion practices.

6.) Curriculum and Student Activities Offerings: The Visitor was presented with copies of the Camden City Public Schools curriculum guides. Guides are current (all have been developed/revised within the last 7 years) and are structured in a similar way. They include the educational goals for Camden City Public Schools, quarterly topic plans and assessment matrices. Some contain sample assessment questions and writing assignments. The quarterly topic plans include clearly written objectives/concepts/skills, materials and resources, interdisciplinary focus, and student expectations. The assessment matrices identify the assessment used and show relationships to state tests, core curriculum content standards, and cross content workplace standards. Curriculum is aligned with the New Jersey Core Curriculum Content Standards and the state tests.

The Visitor was impressed with the wide range of offerings, and a few examples will help to show the range.

- A political science elective provides experiences with current policy concerns and issues of leadership. Two Rutgers law students have volunteered to work with the class on an established schedule; the Visitor met these students and was impressed with their dedication, backgrounds similar to the CHS students, and the excellent role model they provide.
- The Visitor observed a research course where students were reading Fahrenheit 451 and debating the concept of censorship.
- A fully equipped Sylvan Lab with 3 full-time teachers (with reading specialist backgrounds) provides remedial assistance primarily to incoming, below-level 9th graders.
- Returnees from the judicial system meet with their parole officer at school each day for the first two months after returning to school. Workshops are run for these students, and CHS has an office dedicated to the needs of these students.
- The vocational side of the school was also exciting to see with 11 state-occupationally approved vocational programs, including well-equipped ASAE certified auto tech and auto body facilities, Dell A+, American Airlines Academy, and a Cisco Networking Academy. The Visitor observed students in the print shop, designing materials on the computers and then doing a range of large and small print jobs. The students were focused, engaged, and skilled.
- The Visiting Team report encouraged the school to involve more Hispanics in extra- and co-curricular activities. It is notable that Hispanics are represented in the homecoming court, the Student Government president, debate team, cheerleaders, band, and fine arts.

Other curriculum and student activity options include: radio journalism, BEES (Building Environmental Education Solutions), Man-to-Man Program (men mentoring male students), Model Congress competitions, Science Fair (CHS took five positions last year), Goodwill program for special needs students, Compass labs for reinforcement and advancement, HSPA and Terra Nova support classes, annual Career Days, internships and partnerships with businesses such as Jiffy Lube and Jo-Ann Fabrics, a special play room/kitchen area where teenage mothers can bring their babies for the day, and four-year foreign language sequence in three languages.

7.) Budgeting Practices: At the time of the team visit, budgeting was centralized and schools had limited input. Now, schools make up their own budgets, and the vast majority of the budget returnees from the adjudicated youth system to ensure a smooth transition from a very structured environment to the freedom of the school and community settings.

5.) Continued emphasis on addressing the dropout rate: CHS has instituted a range of programs to address the dropout problem and progress is being made. At the time of the team visit in 1999, the dropout rate was 32%. Now, it is 20%. A Twilight program, School-to-Career Program, Night School, and a GED Program are in place to address this concern.

6.) Continued focus on attendance: A Perfect Attendance Wall greets the visitor upon entering the building. Monthly attendance charts and recognition for specific students are used. The state standard for attendance is 95%. At the time of the team visit, CHS attendance was at 74%. Now, it is 82-83%. The school is on the right path, but knows it must continue its efforts in this area.

7.) Curriculum revision: Curriculum needs to be revised in the health areas. There is a desire to add a civics course.

Staff Recommendation

Grant the remainder of the full ten-year term of accreditation to Camden High School to May 1, 2010.

Require submission of a Progress Report by May 1, 2006 (to take the place of the Five Year Report that would have been required by May 1, 2005).

To Whom It May Concern:

It is with great pleasure that I recommend Ms. Betty Herring to you as a candidate for the Rutgers-Camden Leadership Program. During the nearly two years she has been Camden High's principal, Betty has efficiently grappled with difficult administrative crises, academic and curricular issues, parental and student problems, and faculty concerns. For example, Betty has dealt with staff undermining her authority, student violence and vandalism, parents making unrealistic demands on her, creating new programs, implementing new curricula, and successfully leading her school through a Middle States evaluation.

Betty has shown a great deal of growth and maturity in the nearly two years in her position and undoubtedly will benefit from interacting with colleagues in similar situations and with university staff able to help her turn theory into practice.

Betty is an intelligent, articulate, and hard working administrator who daily demonstrates her love of the children and her desire to succeed in her position. The urban high school principal's job is, in my opinion, among the most difficult in the entire field of education, and every consideration should be given to her to allow her to participate in this program. I know that she will succeed in the Rutgers-Camden Leadership Program, and consequently, I highly recommend Ms. Betty Herring to you without any reservation whatsoever.

Dear Ms. Herring:

What a wonderful morning visit we had at your school! The "southern regional" team was impressed with so many exciting things occurring at Camden High School.

First, the new security measures will provide your staff and students with a feeling of safety. The security surveillance cameras will enable your staff to pinpoint any trouble areas. Your security software will enhance discipline. Besides security, your facility was very clean and welcoming.

Second, your students appeared well behaved in the formal settings during instruction as well as during the change of classes. Your security staff appeared "on their toes" keeping the school safe and orderly. We were very impressed at your personal touch in knowing so many students as you walked the halls with us.

Third, your idea in creating "small learning communities" is a research-driven decision that we are certain will yield good results. Basing your decisions on data is truly commendable.

Finally, your initiatives revolving around academics are truly commendable. We eagerly await the follow up of your Corrective Action Plan activities to see if these work to decrease any acts of violence and vandalism as you ardently work to remove your school from the designated list of "persistently dangerous" schools. Your corrective action plan was also gladly accepted by the team. It is good we saw you personally to review this because it was not received previously. Mrs. Spates and Mr. Dotoli will be reviewing its contents this coming week.

Thank you for inviting us to upcoming activities at Camden High School. Your genuine and welcoming response to our visit was heartwarming as we work together to make Camden High School a place where "teaching and learning" prevail.

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

This matter arises from a Petition of Appeal filed by J.M. on behalf of S.F., ("petitioners") with the Commissioner of the Department of Education for allegations regarding pupil records involving the Evesham Board of Education and the Rancocas Valley Regional Board of Education ("respondents"). The Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law on January 26, 2005, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

It appears that the materials sought have either been provided or do not exist. Petitioner has not responded to requests for information as to whether the case needs to proceed. (See attached letters dated April 12, 2005 and May 16, 2005, to counsel from the undersigned judge.) Therefore, I CONCLUDE that this matter is now closed for failure to prosecute and failure to respond with any information about the status of the case. It is ORDERED that this matter be DISMISSED for failure to prosecute and returned to the transmitting agency.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Dear Counsel:

On April 12, 2005, I wrote a letter to you in connection with the above matter. A copy is attached. Unless I am advised within five days by Ms. Geronimo that there is any reason for this matter to be scheduled for further proceedings, it will be dismissed for lack of prosecution or because it is moot. As you will recall, documents were sought and I believe that to the extent they were available, they have been provided. Again, dismissal of this case will occur without some immediate indication from counsel for the petitioner why it is necessary that it continue.

Yours very truly,

Jeff S. Masin

Dear Counsel:

I have recently received the letters from Messr. Cavallo and Belz which report with respect to the search for records involving the student involved in this case. Based upon the information that she received, I request that Ms. Geronimo advise me within one week of whether there is a need to proceed with the current case, and if so, precisely what further relief she is seeking. If the current dispute that was forwarded to me by the Commissioner of Education regarding access to pupil records has been resolved as a result of the information provided, then I request that Ms. Geronimo so advise and withdraw the matter. Whether there needs to be some further proceeding arising out of the circumstances affecting this child, I do not know, but if the current relatively narrow dispute has been resolved, I would like to close this matter as quickly as possible. On the other hand, if Ms. Geronimo does identify some continuing need to proceed, then I want to schedule the matter for further proceedings as soon as possible.

Thank you for your attention to this matter and anticipating Ms. Geronimo's reply.

Yours very truly,

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF WILLIAM A. BROWN,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BERGEN COUNTY SPECIAL SERVICES	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT.	:	DECISION

SYNOPSIS

The Board certified tenure charges of abandonment of position against William A. Brown, a tenured custodian in the Bergen County Special Services School District, stemming from his repeated, abusive, unexplained and unexcused absences from employment beginning in the 2002-2003 school year and continuing through the 2004-2005 school year.

Respondent was directed to file an Answer to the charges against him, and advised that failure to answer within 15 days from the date of filing of such charges, where no extension has been applied for and granted, would result in the charges being deemed admitted pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:5-3(c). No reply was filed.

The Commissioner reviewed the tenure charges certified against the respondent, and the evidence in support of those charges. Noting that the respondent has chosen not to deny the allegations against him and, therefore, deeming the within charges to be admitted, the Commissioner concludes that the Board has demonstrated that respondent is guilty of abandonment of position, warranting termination from his position. Summary judgment is granted to the District, and William A. Brown is dismissed from his tenured position as custodian as of the date of this order.

AGENCY DKT NO. 144-6/05

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF WILLIAM A. BROWN,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BERGEN COUNTY SPECIAL SERVICES	:

For the Board, William C. Soukas, Esq. (Nowell Amoroso Klein Bierman, Attorneys)

William A. Brown, Pro se

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on June 8, 2005, through the certification of tenure charges of abandonment of position against William A. Brown, a tenured custodian, by the Board of Education of the Bergen County Special Services School District.

By notice dated June 9, 2005, the Commissioner directed respondent, via both certified and regular mail, to file an Answer to the tenure charges against him.* This communication from the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes clearly provided respondent notice that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified shall have 15 days from the date such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges, and that failure to answer within the prescribed period, where no extension has been applied for and granted, will result in the charges being deemed admitted by the charged employee. Because no reply has been received from respondent, or any attorney on his behalf, in response to the District's charges, each count of the charges against respondent is deemed to be admitted. N.J.A.C. 6A:5-3(c).

* The envelope mailed certified has been returned by the post office marked "unclaimed." The envelope mailed regular first class mail has not been returned and is presumed delivered.

The Commissioner has reviewed the tenure charges certified against respondent by the Board, and the evidence in support of those charges. They allege:

> 1. Repeated, abusive, unexplained and unexcused absences from employment beginning in the 2002-2003 school year and continuing through the 2003-2004 and 2004-2005 school years;
> 2. Failure to provide a doctor's clearance, as requested by the District on or about October 4, 2005 [sic], for the purpose of establishing respondent's ability to return to work;
>
> 3. Failure to advise the District on or after October 21, 2004 whether he intended to return to employment;
>
> 4. Failure to advise the District on or after January 10, 2005 whether he intended to return to employment; and
> 5. Failure of respondent to communicate with the District or respond to the District's correspondence and inquiries about his employment status or intentions since approximately January 2005.

Noting that respondent has chosen not to deny the allegations against him and, therefore, deeming the within charges to be admitted, the Commissioner concludes that the Board has demonstrated that respondent is guilty of abandonment of position, warranting termination from his position.[1]

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED this _____day of July 2005 that summary decision shall be granted to the District, and William A. Brown shall be dismissed from his tenured position as a custodian in the District's employ as of the date of this order.[2]

F.R., on behalf of minor child, M.R., :

PETITIONER, :

V. : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MONTVILLE, MORRIS COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner alleged that the principal – who is not named as a party in this matter -- of a Montville elementary school violated school district policies and humiliated his son, M.R., by disciplining him for selling merchandise in school by confiscating the money he collected from selling bracelets, accusing M.R. of "ripping off" his classmates and the cancer foundation, parading M.R. around to each classroom, and sending a public letter to each fifth grade parent. Petitioner sought: an apology from the principal; monetary compensation for slanderous remarks; a letter to each fifth grade parent acknowledging that the principal's letter about this matter sent previously was an overreaction; and "...legal fees and such other relief as the Court may deem fair and equitable."

Respondent Board filed a Motion to Dismiss with prejudice, arguing that the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction to award the relief requested by the petitioner in this matter. Furthermore, the Board disputes the characterizations set forth in the petition and claims that any actions taken by the principal were reasonable and appropriate.

Upon a thorough review of the parties' submissions, the Commissioner determined to grant the Board's Motion to Dismiss, based on lack of jurisdiction. In so deciding, he emphasizes that: applicable statute and regulation place public school personnel issues within the purview of the local board of education; the allegations giving rise to the request for money damages are based in tort law, over which the Commissioner has no jurisdiction; in the absence of express statutory authority to award damages, monetary sanctions to compensate for damages, or legal fees, the Commissioner may not direct that petitioner be awarded such relief. Accordingly, the petition in this matter is dismissed, with prejudice.

F.R., on behalf of minor child, M.R.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MONTVILLE, MORRIS COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

For Petitioner, John G. Geppert, Jr., Esq. (Wiley, Malehorn & Sirota)

For Respondent, Marc H. Zitomer, Esq. (Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler)

This matter was initiated by way of the filing of a Petition of Appeal on February 14, 2005 wherein petitioner alleges that the principal[1] of a Montville elementary school violated school district policies and humiliated his son when she disciplined him for selling merchandise in school by confiscating the money he collected from selling bracelets, accusing his son of "ripping off" his classmates and the cancer foundation, parading his son around to each classroom and sending a public letter to each fifth grade parent. (Petition of Appeal at 2-3) The relief that petitioner seeks is:

> "that [the principal] apologize to M.R. for falsely accusing him of 'ripping off' the cancer foundation and for selling illegal merchandise; the money seized from M.R. be returned to him to compensate for the slanderous remarks by [the principal] causing depreciation of his character; a written letter be sent to the parents of all fifth graders at the Hilldale School stating [the principal]'s letter of November 19, 2004 referring to the cancer foundation was an overreaction; and legal fees and such other relief as the Court may deem fair and equitable. (Id. at 6)

The Board filed its Answer on March 7, 2005 admitting that the principal had confiscated the money M.R. had collected and that a letter had been sent to parents, but denying petitioner's allegations that the principal had taken action to humiliate M.R. or that any Board policies had been violated. (Board's Answer at 2) The Board asserted as affirmative defenses, inter alia, that the petition failed to state a claim upon which relief may be granted and that the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction to award the requested relief. (Id. at 3)

By letter of March 11, 2005, the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes notified the parties that the Commissioner would exercise his discretionary authority under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.12 to entertain a motion with respect to the Board's claims that the petition fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted, and that the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction to award the requested relief in that these are threshold issues which appear to have merit. Accordingly, a briefing schedule was established to entertain a motion by the Board.

On April 29, 2005, the Board filed a Motion to Dismiss the petition in this matter with prejudice. In its motion, the Board notes that it adamantly disputes petitioner's characterization of the discipline, if any, imposed upon M.R. as set forth in the petition, and claims that any actions actually taken by the principal were reasonable and appropriate. (Motion to Dismiss at 2) The Board states, however, that for the limited purpose of its motion, even assuming, arguendo, that the facts as alleged by petitioner are true, the petition nevertheless must be dismissed because the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction to award the relief requested by petitioner. (Id. at 2-3)

In this regard, the Board points out that N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1(c) vests the power to control and regulate the conduct of public school employees exclusively in local boards of education, and the Board submits that ordering the principal, who is not named in this action, to apologize and to circulate a letter to all fifth-grade parents stating that she overreacted is clearly a disciplinary employment action.[2] (Id. at 3-4) Accordingly, in that there is no statutory authority for the Commissioner to order an employee of a public school district to tender an apology to students, parents or anyone else, and no statutory authority for the Commissioner to impose discipline on employees of a local board of education, with the exception of

[2] The Board observes that it is unclear whether petitioner is requesting that this letter be written by the principal or some other employee, but that, regardless, there is no statutory authority for the Commissioner to order anyone to write such a letter. (Id. at 5)

removal or reduction in salary of tenured teaching staff members in the course of tenure proceedings, the Board argues, the Commissioner may not grant the relief petitioner seeks. (Id. at 4-5)

Moreover, citing Montagna v. Bd. of Ed. of Twp. of Belleville, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 46 and Deborah E. Ciambrone v. Gerald Witty and the Board of Education of the Borough of Bloomingdale, Passaic County, decided by the State Board October 6, 2004, the Board contends that the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction to award monetary damages as compensation for allegedly slanderous statements made by the principal as the allegations giving rise to this requested relief are based in tort law, an area of law over which the Commissioner has no jurisdiction whatsoever. (Id. at 6) In further support of its argument, the Board points out that it has repeatedly been held that the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction to award money damages absent statutory authority to do so and that the Commissioner's authority to award money damages is limited strictly to lost earnings of an employee or restoring an increment which has been improperly withheld. (Id. at 7-8) Finally, the Board contends that it is well-established that the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction to award attorneys' fees or legal costs. (Id. at 8)

In response, petitioner argues that jurisdiction to hear this matter arises from *N.J.S.A.*18A:6-9, which gives the Commissioner jurisdiction to hear and determine all controversies and disputes arising under the schools laws. (Petitioner's Response to the Board's Motion at 6) Petitioner further asserts that the provisions for oversight and discipline of students in the public schools, N.J.S.A. 18A:25-2, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-1, and N.J.S.A. 18A:27-2(b) and (e), provide jurisdiction for the Commissioner to hear this matter, arguing that petitioner has alleged that the Board acted arbitrarily and capriciously in imposing discipline on M.R. and that M.R. was not afforded the due process to which he was entitled under the Board's policy. (Id. at 6-7) Petitioner also asserts that the principal's handling of this matter was contrary to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq., which prohibit harassment, intimidation and bullying and that the Board failed to adequately address the harassment, intimidation and bullying of M.R. by his school principal through the policies which it is required to maintain, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15. Moreover, pointing to G.W.S., on behalf of minor child, A.F.S. v. William Petrino, Superintendent, and Rahway Board of Education, Union County, decided by the Commissioner

November 29, 1999 and R.A.M. v. Tabernacle Twp. Board of Education, 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 573, petitioner asserts that the Commissioner has jurisdiction to review allegations involving local board of education policies. (Id. at 8)

Moreover, petitioner notes that he is appealing the decision of a board of education and that the Commissioner has the power to determine whether a disputed local decision by a board is improper as a matter of law, whether the evidence sustains the factual conclusions reached on the local level and whether there was a reasonable basis for the decision. (Id. at 9-10) Thus, petitioner argues, the Commissioner has jurisdiction to hear this matter under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d) -- the regulation governing appeals to the Commissioner -- when the controversy arises under the school laws and involves an appeal of a decision by the board of education. (Id. at 10) Petitioner further submits that any ancillary matters related to the issues rising under the school laws are also within the Commissioner's jurisdiction, as in the present matter wherein a principal humiliated an elementary student and the Board determined not to hear the matter or take any action.[3] (Id. at 10-11)

Upon a thorough review of the parties' submissions,[4] the Commissioner has determined to grant the Board's Motion to Dismiss the within petition. In so concluding, the Commissioner points out that, even assuming, arguendo, all of petitioner's allegations to be true, the Commissioner lacks the authority to award any of the requested relief.

Specifically, petitioner seeks an order requiring that the principal apologize to M.R. for falsely accusing him, and that a letter be sent to all fifth-grade parents stating that the principal's letter was an overreaction. In accordance with applicable statute and regulations, personnel issues within the public schools are within the purview of the local board of education. See, e.g., N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1(c), N.J.S.A. 18A:25-29 et seq., and N.J.A.C. 6:3-4 et seq. The mere fact that a dispute involves a principal

[3] The petition states that "[p]etitioners have contacted the Board of Education, however, the Board has neglected to respond to their claims" (Petition of Appeal at 6, No. 13), a claim which is denied by the Board (Answer at 2, No. 13).

[4] The Commissioner notes that on May 17, 2005, the Board filed an additional submission not provided for in the briefing schedule established for consideration of the Board's Motion to Dismiss. In that the Board did not make application for the filing of additional arguments, and, thus, permission to file the additional brief was not granted, the May 17, 2005 submission was not considered in making this determination.

does not confer jurisdiction upon the Commissioner, nor can an alleged violation involving the treatment of others with dignity and respect be permitted to survive as an independent cause of action where the relief sought by a petitioner is beyond the Commissioner's authority to grant. The Commissioner of Education becomes involved in personnel issues in only two instances: first, if tenure charges have been certified to the Commissioner by a local board of education; and second, if person filing tenure charges at the local level appeals a board's decision not to certify such charges to the Commissioner. As such, the Commissioner does not have the authority to award the relief sought.

With respect to petitioner's request that "the money seized from M.R. be returned to him to compensate for the slanderous remarks by [the principal] causing deprecation of his character," the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction to award monetary damages as compensation for allegedly slanderous statements made by the principal because the allegations giving rise to this requested relief are based in tort law, an area of law over which the Commissioner has no jurisdiction. Such action is properly brought before the New Jersey Superior Court. See Montagna, supra; and Ciambrone, supra. Moreover, it is well-established that the Commissioner lacks authority to award money damages or monetary sanctions that constitute compensation for "damages" other than lost earnings or restoring an increment which has been improperly withheld. See Scott and Yarnall v. Bd. Of Educ. of the City of Trenton, decided by the Commissioner September 30, 2002, affirmed St. Bd. June 2, 2004 (modified on other grounds); Dunn v. Elizabeth Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 279, 281 (Citing McLean v. Bd. of Ed. of Glen Ridge, 1977 S.L.D. 311; 315; Smith v. Bd. of Ed. of Hamilton, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5468-87 adopted in part and rejected in part on other grounds, decided by the Commissioner April 21, 1988) In the absence of express statutory authority to award damages or monetary "sanctions" to compensate for damages, the Commissioner may not direct that petitioner be compensated for any alleged damages in this matter.

Finally, with respect to petitioner's request for legal fees, in the absence of express statutory authority to award legal fees, the Commissioner may not direct that petitioner be compensated for legal fees in this matter. See Hinfey v. Matawan Regional Board of Education, 77 N.J. 514, 525 (1978); B.B., on behalf of her son, L.C. v. Board of Education of the Union County Regional High School District

No. 1 and Donald Merachnik, Superintendent of Schools, Union County, 1987 S.L.D. 323*; Balsley v. North Hunterdon Bd. of Educ.,* 117 N.J. 434 (1990); and State Dept. of Environ. Protect. v. Ventron Corp., 94 N.J. 473 (1983).

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, the Commissioner has determined to grant the Board's Motion to Dismiss the petition in this matter, with prejudice, as it seeks relief which the Commissioner is not empowered to grant.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[5]

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION :

OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF :

DIRK DOMINICK, BOARD OF : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF : DECISION

PARAMUS, BERGEN COUNTY. :

SYNOPSIS

The Board filed a Motion for an Order to Show Cause, seeking suspension of respondent's instructional certificate for unprofessional conduct stemming from his failure to provide adequate notice of resignation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10.

The Commissioner issued an Order directing respondent to show cause why further order should not be entered suspending his certificate for unprofessional conduct. Based on respondent's failure to defend himself against the Show Cause Order allegations, each allegation against the respondent was deemed to be admitted.

Therefore, the Commissioner orders that respondent's instructional certificate be suspended for a period of one year commencing as of the date of this decision, and forwards the matter to the State Board of Examiners for the purpose of effectuating this order and taking such further action, if any, as it may deem appropriate.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 128-5/05

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION : OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF :
DIRK DOMINICK, BOARD OF :		COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF :		DECISION
PARAMUS, BERGEN COUNTY. :

For Petitioner, Steven M. Fleischer, Esq. (Sills, Cummis, Epstein & Gross)

For Respondent, Dirk Dominick, Pro Se

On May 26, 2005, the Paramus Board of Education (Board) filed before the Commissioner of Education a copy of a letter indicating on its face that an Order to Show Cause, signed by the Commissioner on May 17, 2005, and an accompanying affidavit were mailed by regular and certified mail to respondent Dirk Dominick notifying him that he had 20 days to submit a written answer addressing why an Order should not be entered suspending his teaching certificate for unprofessional conduct, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10.[1] Respondent did not submit an answer within the time provided. Accordingly, on June 24, 2005, the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes sent a second and final notice to respondent advising him that, should an answer not be filed within ten days of receipt of the June 24 letter, the Commissioner may decide this matter by summary decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.12.[2]

[1] The Board subsequently provided a copy of the "green card" signed by respondent confirming receipt of the certified mail.

[2] The certified mail "green card" indicates that respondent received this letter on June 27, 2005.

In that respondent has failed to file an answer to the Order to Show Cause or to respond in any manner, the Commissioner has determined to decide this matter by summary decision, pursuant to his discretionary authority under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.12.

The following facts are found to be true, based on the undisputed affidavit of Joseph P. Lupo, Assistant to the Superintendent/Human Resources, Paramus School District:

1. On August 16, 2005, respondent signed an Employment Contract (Contract) to serve as a Latin teacher at Paramus High School from September 1, 2004 through June 30, 2005.

2. The Contract provides that either party may terminate the Contract, but only with 60 days' written notice.

3. On March 14, 2005, respondent announced to his classes that March 15, 2005 would be his last day.

4. Respondent did not notify the Board that he would be resigning prior to March 14, 2005.

5. At a meeting on March 15, 2005, the Assistant to the Superintendent/Human Resources and the high school principal advised the respondent that, should he not honor his commitment to complete the 2004-2005 school year or at least honor his 60-day notification period, the District would seek all appropriate recourse available, including suspending his license based on abandonment of position.

6. At the March 15, 2005 meeting, the Assistant to the Superintendent/Human Resources requested that respondent reconsider his decision in that his departure would cause disruption to the school system and negatively impact his students.

7. Upon conclusion of the March 15, 2005 meeting, respondent exited the building, thus abandoning his duties at the close of the school day.

8. On March 21, 2005, the superintendent of schools received a letter from respondent, dated March 8, 2005, explaining that he was leaving his position because he found the coursework associated with his certification program too burdensome, and that he did not feel like continuing.

9. Respondent did not provide 60 days' notice of his intent to resign on March 15, 2005.

10. On April 11, 2005, the Board unanimously voted in the affirmative to refuse respondent's resignation.

11. "Respondent's abandonment of his position caused the Board to suffer the loss of a permanent, certified classroom instructor," requiring the Board to attempt to secure an appropriate substitute Latin instructor in the middle of the school year, and also caused the students who attend Paramus High School to suffer a serious disruption in their academic program.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10, the Commissioner has both the authority and the discretion to suspend a teacher's certificate for a period of up to one year for ceasing to perform his duties before the expiration of his employment without consent of the Board. The Commissioner recognizes that "[t]he obvious purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 is to provide notice to the school so that a suitable replacement can be hired without adversely impacting students." (citations omitted) (Penns Grove-Carneys Point Board of Education v. Leinen, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 405, 407) In the instant matter, the Board claims that respondent's lack of adequate notice negatively affected his students by causing a serious disruption in their academic program. Moreover, the Board notes that respondent's lack of notice required that the Board find an appropriate substitute Latin teacher in the middle of the school year. However, even if the Board were able to find a replacement quickly, such replacement would not negate respondent's unprofessional conduct. (See In the Matter of the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate of Patricia Aiken, School District of the Township of East Amwell, Hunterdon County, 1986 S.L.D. 2816, 2821.) "The sudden departure of a teacher who has been working with a group of pupils for four months results in a disruption to the educational program to those pupils, if only because of a sudden change in teachers." (In the Matter of the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate of David T. Drake, School District of the Borough of Dunellen, Middlesex Co., 1987 S.L.D. 2016, 2019)

The Commissioner thus agrees with the Board that in resigning abruptly, respondent put his own self-interest above the interests of his students and his professional obligation to provide adequate notice to the Board. Accordingly, the Commissioner finds respondent guilty of unprofessional conduct, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10, and determines that the teaching certificate of respondent Dirk Dominick shall be suspended for a period of one year, which period shall commence upon the date of this decision. A copy of this decision is hereby forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for the purpose of effectuating the within decision and taking such further action, if any, as it deems appropriate.

PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EAST BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner contends that he acquired tenure rights based on his employment as a janitor in East Brunswick schools between April 2001 and June 2004, and appeals his termination by the Board following the end of the 2003-04 school year, claiming violation of tenure rights. The basis for petitioner's claim of tenure rights is a 1955 Board resolution granting tenure to custodians after three years of employment.

The ALJ concluded inter alia that: the Board's April 1995 revocation of the 1955 resolution—through approval of a board resolution which specifically revoked "Any Policy, ByLaw, Rule or Regulation for the governance of the Board" not contained in the written policy manual—negated any basis for the petitioner's claim to tenure rights; there was no implied contract between petitioner and the Board; and the authority of a board to make and rescind tenure related resolutions, and the notice required to do so, are well supported in case law. The ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision, and dismissed the petitioner's appeal.

The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the petitioner was a nontenured employee hired on a contractual basis, and the Board was not required to follow tenure removal procedures in terminating his employment. The Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as his own for the reasons expressed therein, and dismisses the petition.

RONALD NELSON,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EAST BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have petitioner's exceptions and the Board of Education's (Board) reply filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

In his exceptions, petitioner renews his contention, as previously argued before the OAL, that the Board's 1955 resolution granting tenure to custodians after three years of employment is still in effect. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1-3) Petitioner reiterates that the Board's 1995 resolution revoking prior Board policies, on which the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) relied in concluding that petitioner did not have tenure, did not nullify the Board's obligations in this regard because it did not expressly repeal the 1955 resolution or state a specific intent to discontinue custodial tenure. Citing Newark Publishers' Association v. Newark Typographical Union, 22 N.J. 419 (1956) as quoted with emphasis supplied in Kirschling v. Board of Education of the Township of Pemberton, 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 12, 20 (1993), petitioner urges that in deciding a matter such as this, it is "not the real intent but the intent expressed or apparent in the writing that controls." (Id. at 4-6)

In reply, the Board counters that, as correctly found by the ALJ, the Board had long since taken all actions necessary to formally rescind its prior regulations and policies with respect to custodial tenure. Reiterating the district's litigation history and the uncontested intent of the 1995 resolution, and pointing to the language of the resolution itself, the Board urges: "It is beyond the pale to assertthat the words 'any policy, bylaw, rule or regulation for the governance of the board not contained (in the written policy manual) is specifically revoked' [do] not reflect the clear intent of the Board of Education to repeal and revoke not only the specific 1955 resolution, but also any other unwritten rules, regulations or policies, whatever their source, which were not contained in the policy manual specifically being adopted at the 1995 Board reorganization meeting." (Respondent's Reply Exceptions at 2-5, quotation at 4)

Upon review, the Commissioner fully concurs with the ALJ that petitioner was a nontenured employee hired on a contractual basis, and the Board was not required to follow tenure removal procedures in terminating his employment because it had acted in 1995, six years prior to petitioner's hiring, to nullify its 1955 resolution granting tenure to custodians after three years of employment in the district.

Like the ALJ, the Commissioner distinguishes the current matter from the earlier cases cited by petitioner, since—unlike the situation in those cases—the Board here is not relying solely on silence about custodial tenure in policy manuals or a change in practice with respect to issuance of open-ended custodial employment contracts. Instead, the Board's position is based on an official resolution—duly adopted at a public meeting, promulgated through distribution of manuals to every school in the district, and clear both on its face and in its genesis as a response to administrative and court rulings on the continuing effect of unrepealed policies—that specifically revoked all prior policies, regulations, etc., not contained within the Board policy manual adopted via the same resolution. In taking this action, and in repeating it at each reorganization meeting since 1995, the Board has left no doubt about its official abrogation of any past policy not included within the currently sanctioned manual, thus curing the primary defect that prevented it, in the pre-1995 cases cited by petitioner, from successfully claiming that district custodians were nontenured employees.[1] [2]

The Commissioner also rejects petitioner's contention that the Board could not disavow its obligations to him under the 1955 resolution without express notification to the effect that, as a result of the Board's 1995 action, custodians could no longer obtain tenure in the district. Petitioner was hired six years after the Board formally rescinded its one-time policy of granting tenure to custodial staff; there is no reference to tenure status for custodians in any Board policy manual in effect at the time of petitioner's hire or during his employment; petitioner was employed from the outset through a series of fixed-term contracts; and the record contains no indication whatsoever—nor does the Petition of Appeal allege—that petitioner was somehow given the promise or expectation that he would acquire tenure in the district.

[1] A board's general authority to rescind prior policies is beyond question, and indeed, is assumed in the very cases cited by petitioner; the claimants in those cases prevailed only because the Board had not taken the actions necessary for such rescission.

[2] It is noted that this matter represents the first custodial tenure case decided subsequent to the Board's adoption of the 1995 resolution.

Accordingly, the Commissioner finds no creditable basis for petitioner's claim, and the Initial Decision of the OAL, granting summary decision to the Board and dismissing the Petition of Appeal, is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

RONALD NELSON,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EAST BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,

Respondent.

Nancy I. Oxfeld, Esq., for petitioner (Oxfeld Cohen, PC, attorneys)

Martin R. Pachman, Esq., for respondent (Martin R. Pachman, PC, attorneys)

Record Closed: April 27, 2005 Decided: June 13, 2005

BEFORE JAMES W. FAISON, III, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Ronald Nelson, was employed as a janitor by the Board of Education of the Township of East Brunswick, Middlesex County (Board). He was initially hired in a part-time capacity April 6, 2001. Petitioner was approved to work in a full-time capacity commencing November 19, 2001. Petitioner worked to the end of the 2003-2004 school year, i.e. June 30, 2004. July 8, 2004, the Board confirmed that it did not intend to employ petitioner for the 2004-

2005 school year. Petitioner contends that he had acquired tenure prior to the Board's action and could not be terminated from employment in that manner. Petitioner appeals his discharge.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed a certified Petition dated October 4, 2004, with the Commissioner of Education where it was received on that same date. (Exhibit P-1). The Board filed an Answer to Petition dated October 22, 2004, that was received at the Commissioner's office October 25, 2004. (Exhibit R-1). The Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was filed November 3, 2004. OAL acknowledged receipt of the contested case by Notice of Filing dated November 8, 2004, to the parties and Department of Education that set forth procedural requirements. (Exhibit C-2). The case was assigned and a Case Management Order dated December 1, 2004, was issued to the parties superseding some of the directions in the Notice of Filing. (Exhibit C-1). The parties were informed to serve discovery requests by January 7, 2005, and serve answers to the requests by March 7, 2005. An in-person settlement conference was scheduled for March 29, 2005. Petitioner's attorney acknowledged receipt of the Case Management Order by letter dated December 9, 2004. (Exhibit P-2). She also advised that she had been in contact with her adversary and that both agree that the dispute is legal rather than factual and jointly requested to forego the settlement conference. Neither anticipated making discovery requests. A briefing schedule was requested in order that the matter be resolved by summary "judgment"[1], however, there was no reference as to whether oral argument was requested. Calls made personally by the judge to petitioner's attorney's office on December 15, 2004, and January 3, 2005, to inquire about oral argument were unsuccessful. Neither call was returned.

A telephone conference was scheduled for January 25, 2005, but could not be conducted because of problems with the OAL phone system. (Exhibit R-4). A second telephone conference was scheduled for February 28, 2005, however, it was cancelled due to a forecast of six to ten inches of snow. Because of the unsuccessful attempts to discuss the case, the previously scheduled March 28, 2005, settlement conference was maintained. A briefing schedule was sent to the attorneys by letter dated March 2, 2005. (Exhibit C-3). At the March 29, 2005, settlement conference, attorney for respondent appeared, attorney for petitioner did not. (Exhibit P-4).

In compliance with the briefing schedule, respondent submitted a motion for summary "judgment" with attached brief and exhibits received at OAL April 5, 2005. (Exhibit R-2). Petitioner submitted similar filings that were received at OAL April 7, 2005. (Exhibit P-3). Subsequently, each party submitted a response to the brief filed by the adversary and, thereafter, the record closed for consideration of the motions. (Exhibits P-5 and R-3).

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Petitioner and respondent, through their respective briefs and responses, concur that there is no material issue of fact that is in dispute. There is no stipulation between the parties regarding the facts, however, the recitations of the facts in their respective pleadings strongly coincide. Also, where one brief may reference a factual circumstance not contained in the other, ample opportunity was provided in their responses to the simultaneously filed briefs to challenge any factual assertion. There was but one.

Respondent accurately challenges petitioner's assertion of "fact" set forth as, "5. Prior to his termination, Petitioner acquired tenure with the board." (Exhibit P-3 at p. 2). In response, respondent's reply brief assails petitioner's "fact" by stating, "Not only is this conclusion one of law rather than a 'fact,' but it is the centrally disputed issue which is submitted to the court by the petition." Clearly, tenure does not qualify in this instance as a material fact not in dispute, but is the primary legal issue that forms the basis of this case. Whether tenure was acquired will be determined by examination of the applicable, controlling law.

Therefore, following are the material facts that are relevant to this matter to which there is no genuine issue . They are neither disputed nor contested by the parties:

[1] N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, Motion for Summary Decision.

1. In 1955 the Board passed a resolution that stated, "Resolved that it is the stated policy of the Board of Education of East Brunswick Township to grant tenure to efficient janitors, who are members of the State Pension and Annuity Fund after three years of service." At its annual reorganization meeting of April 24, 1995, the Board adopted the following resolution: "Moved by Mrs. Paulson, seconded by Mrs. Teicher that the Board of Education hereby adopt the Policies, By-Laws and Rules and Regulations as presented and contained in the policy manual and referenced by the attached index. Any Policy, By-Law, Rule or Regulation for the governance of the Board not contained therein is specifically revoked and Move that a copy of all Polices, By-Laws and Rules and Regulations be available for review in each building throughout the school district." (Exhibit R-2 at Attachment G, pp. 9 and 10).
2. Petitioner was hired as a part-time custodian for the contractual term of April 6, 2001 until June 30, 2001. (Exhibit R-2 at Attachment A).
3. Petitioner was employed by the Board as a part-time custodian for the contractual term of July 1, 2001 until June 30, 2002. (Exhibit R-2 at Attachment B).
4. November 16, 2001, the Board approved petitioner as a full-time custodian for the term of November 19, 2001 through June 30, 2002. (Exhibit R-2 at Attachment C).
5. Petitioner was employed by the Board as a full-time custodian for the contractual term of July 1, 2002 to June 30, 2003. (Exhibit R-2 at Attachment D).
6. Petitioner was employed by the Board as a full-time custodian for the contractual term of July 1, 2003 to June 30, 2004. (Exhibit R-2 at Attachment E).
7. July 8, 2004, the Board voted to not renew petitioner's employment for the 2004-2005 school year. (Exhibit R-2 at Attachment F).
8. The Board's Policy Manual, created in 1969, contains no reference to the 1955 resolution regarding janitorial tenure. (Exhibit R-2 at Attachment H).

Additional facts for consideration are found in the Board's Certification of Bernardo J. Giuliana attached to its brief. It does not have an individual "attachment" letter of designation. Therefore, it will be referred to as Exhibit R-2 at Attachment I. The certification is dated March 31, 2005 and the affiant identifies himself as (Paragraph 1) "employed as the Board Secretary/Business Administrator for the East Brunswick Township Board of Education, and have held that position since April of 1994." Giuliana stated that he was aware of the impact of the 1955 "unwritten" resolution upon the janitorial tenure issue within the District. "Consensus arose that if a policy had been adopted prior to 1969 and had not been codified at that time, and had not been recognized as an operational requirement by the Board for over 25 years, the better course of action would be to simply revoke any policies, rules or regulations which were not contained in the manual." (Paragraph 8). "The intent of this revised (1995) resolution was to add language to the previous adoption of the policies, by-laws, rules and regulations as contained in the printed manual to specifically revoke any policy, by-law, rule or regulation not contained within that written manual." (Paragraph 10). "Thus, the only policies, by-laws, rules or regulations which are in existence at the present time are contained in the current written policy manual, and nothing in that manual awards tenure to custodial/janitorial employees." (Paragraph 12).

LEGAL DISCUSSION

N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) provides that summary decision should be granted "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." This language is substantially similar to the guidelines for summary judgment under New Jersey Court Rule 4:46-2(c).[2]

The OAL's standard for summary decision is set forth by the New Jersey Supreme Court. Thus, summary decision should be granted if, after considering the evidence presented in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party, there exists no genuine issue of material fact. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995). The essential question is "whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require (a hearing) or whether it is so one-sided that the one party must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 533 quoting Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 251-52, 106 S.Ct. 2505, 2512, 91 *L.Ed.*2d 202, 214 (1986).

[2] R. 4:46-2(c) provides in part: The judgment or order sought shall be rendered forthwith if the pleadings, dispositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law.

The court in Brill recognized that this necessarily involves the judge in the process of weighing of evidence presented. Accordingly, when determining whether a genuine issue of material fact exists, "the court (should) be guided by the same evidentiary standard of proof...that would apply" at a hearing. Ibid. This differs from the weighing the judge would perform after a hearing in that "(o)n a motion for summary (decision) the court must grant all the favorable inferences to the nonmovant." Id. at 536.

In the instant case, there are cross motions for summary decision. Therefore, each party is a movant. With one exception[3], each asserts similar facts as to which there exists no genuine issue of material fact. That factual agreement removes the obligation of determining whether there is any favorable inference to be granted to either party. What remains is that there be a determination that the proffered facts are relevant and not inconsequential to the resolution of the case. Such determination is found.

At the heart of this case is whether the Board's 1955 resolution granting tenure to janitors after three years of employment remains binding. Giuliana's affidavit clearly sets forth the Board's efforts to avoid that resolution playing any role in its employment relationship with petitioner and to void the resolution in its entirety. Petitioner claims that he acquired tenure in his employment by virtue of the 1955 resolution urging that, notwithstanding the Board's efforts to nullify, it remains binding because the Board's nullification efforts fell short. In Smith v. East Brunswick Board of Education, OAL Docket No. EDU 5654-81 (June 11, 1983, unreported), decided by the Commissioner (August 15, 1983), affirmed State Board of Education (April 6, 1984), by virtue of the 1955 resolution, janitors who had received fixed term contracts were determined to have acquired tenure. Speer v. Board of Education of the Township of East Brunswick, OAL Docket No. EDU 4660-83, decided by Commissioner (June 19, 1984), affirmed State Board of Education (January 2, 1985), although addressing the Board's authority to withhold an increment from a tenured custodian, affirmed the holding in Smith, supra, regarding the attainment of tenure via the 1955 resolution because the Board had neither modified nor rescinded it. The issue in Strincocski v. Board of Education of East Brunswick, 93

[3] Petitioner's brief (Exhibit P-3) at paragraph 5 under subheading STATEMENT OF FACTS AS TO WHICH THERE IS NO ISSUE OF MATERIAL DIFFERENCE (sic) set forth, "Prior to his termination, petitioner acquired tenure with the Board." (See FACTUAL DISCUSSION at paragraph 2).

*N.J.A.R.*2d 333, reversed Commissioner at 335, reversed State Board 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d 37, affirmed Appellate Division 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d 527, was whether a 1969 policy manual which did not address janitorial tenure effectively abrogated or supplanted the 1955 resolution. There the petitioner had been afforded only one-year contracts throughout her employment. The ALJ found that petitioner had tenure, however, the Commissioner reversed noting that the Board practice since Smith and Speer of affording only fixed one-year contracts to janitors and the absence of any reference to the 1955 resolution in the written policy manual of the Board led to the conclusion that petitioner did not have tenure. The State Board found that the adoption of the manual in 1969 did not revoke the 1955 policy because both Smith and Speer had been provided with nonfixed term contracts after 1969 and the Board had taken no action to rescind its 1955 resolution. Dictum in Strincocski also queries whether affected employees were sufficiently placed on notice regarding the Board's intentions

The case of Zielinski v. East Brunswick Board of Education, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d 161, affirmed Commissioner 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d ____, affirmed State Board 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d 164, affirmed Appellate Division *N.J.A.R.*2d 3, turned on the same factor, i.e., the 1955 resolution granting automatic tenure and the Board's failure to modify, amend or revoke.

Finally, on April 24, 1995, the Board heard the Department of Education and the Appellate Division and took action to rescind the 1955 resolution which granted tenure after three years, as well as all other resolutions that were not addressed in the 1969 Policy Manual. Notwithstanding the Board's action six years prior to his employment, petitioner asserts that tenure nonetheless was acquired. He claims support for tenure is found in Woolley v. Hoffman LaRoche, 99 N.J. 284 (1984), modified 101 N.J. 10 (1985), asserting the existence and inviolability of implied contract, which is here rejected. More persuasive are cases cited by respondent, to wit, Diane Swaim and Middletown Township Education Association v. Board of Education of the Township of Middletown, Monmouth County, OAL Docket No. EDU 6705-98, Agency Docket No. 394-10/95, October 27, 2000; affirmed Commissioner January 26, 2001, and Rall v. Board of Education of Bayonne, 54 N.J. 373 (1969). In Diane Swaim, the Board was approved to have amended a resolution to shorten tenure requirements for principals and subsequently rescind that amendment to return to the original tenure resolution requiring three years of service. As to notice requirements of such actions, Rall held that where the resolutions are adopted at a regularly scheduled meeting of the board of education, no further notice was necessary, as determined by the ALJ whose decision was adopted by the Commissioner.

To dissolve the reach and breathe of the 1955 resolution, the Board (finally) undertook all the actions necessary that were previously pointed out as its shortcomings in Smith, Speer and Zielinski, supra. By and because of the Board's corrective measures and expressed intent, petitioner did not acquire tenure upon completion of his three years of janitorial service for the Board.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The April, 1995, revocation by the Board of the 1955 resolution is a substantial distinguishing factor to petitioner's reliance upon Smith, Speer and Zielinski. Each of those cases pointed to the Board's inaction with respect to the revocation of the earlier resolution. By the Board's 1995 action, the 1955 resolution is now a nonfactor with respect to janitorial tenure. There is no implied contract between petitioner and the Board that would allow a reliance on Woolley. Authority to make and rescind tenure related resolutions and the notice required to do so are supported by the holdings in Diane Swaim and Rall, supra.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that respondent's motion for summary decision is GRANTED and petitioner's motion for summary decision is DENIED. It is further ORDERED that petitioner's appeal is dismissed.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." V. : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BRICK, OCEAN COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner appealed the Board's refusal to permit T.F. to participate in cheerleading due to academic ineligibility. Parent claims denial of an exception is unreasonable under the circumstances, and suggests that accommodations have been made for other students. Subsequent to the filing of the petition, T.F. dropped out of Brick Township High School. Because petitioner's claims are based on T.F.'s status as a student in Brick schools, the Board filed a motion for summary judgment to dismiss the petition.

The ALJ concluded inter alia that: petitioner's claims are moot based on the fact that T.F. is now 18 years old, and has dropped out of school; petitioner has provided no reasonable basis for a finding that the instant matter is of compelling public importance such that this case should be decided despite its mootness; petitioner's allegations do not appear to provide a reasonable basis for a claim for damages; and the Board's motion for summary decision must be granted as there is no genuine issue of material fact that necessitates a hearing in this matter. The ALJ granted the motion for summary judgment and ordered the petition in this matter dismissed.

The Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as his own for the reasons expressed therein, and dismisses the petition.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the grant of the Board's motion dismissing the within petition as moot since T.F. has dropped out of Brick Township High School and petitioner's claims are based on T.F.'s status as a student of that school. Moreover, the Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge's conclusion that petitioner has provided no reasonable basis for a finding that this is a matter of compelling public importance capable of repetition such that this case should be decided despite its mootness.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision granting the Board's motion and dismissing the petition in this matter is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

Petitioners,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION
OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BRICK,

Respondent.

D.F., petitioner pro se, for petitioners

Ben A. Montenegro, Esq., for respondent, Adam J. Steurman, Esq., on the Motion and Supporting Brief (Montenegro, Thompson, Montenegro & Genz, attorneys)

Record closed: June 27, 2005 Decided: June 28, 2005

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner T.F., then a student in the respondent Township of Brick Board of Education's (BOE's) Brick Township High School (BTHS), failed several courses. Consistent with the BOE's policy requiring that students maintain a minimum number of credits to participate in athletic programs, school administrators determined that T.F. was ineligible for participation in BTHS cheerleading and they dismissed her from the team. Petitioner D.F., petitioner T.F.'s mother, appealed from the dismissal and claimed that T.F. should be reinstated as a member of the team. T.F. has now dropped out of BTHS and the BOE moves for dismissal of the case as moot.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In D.F.'s September 13, 2004, letter (detailed below) to the Commissioner of Education, she wrote that she was appealing from the BOE administrator's determination that T.F. was ineligible for participation in BTHS cheerleading. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9; P-5. Beginning on September 23, 2004, in several letters (detailed below), the director of the Department of Education's Bureau of Controversies and Disputes repeatedly advised D.F. of procedural and other requirements for the filing of a petition for relief. R-5; R-6; R-7. In D.F.'s November 2, 2004, letter (detailed below) to the Commissioner, she added details to her allegations against the BOE, reiterated that she was appealing from the disqualification of T.F., and wrote that the BOE should apply its rule in a manner that allowed students to make up for failed classes and participate in extracurricular activities. P-6. By letter dated November 8, 2004, the director again advised D.F. of procedural and other requirements for the filing of a petition for relief. R-8. On December 21, 2004, the BOE filed its answer and defenses. The Department transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was filed on December 30, 2004. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(c). The case was scheduled for a hearing on May 25, 2005, but at D.F.'s request, was adjourned. On June 9, 2005, D.F., the BOE attorney and I engaged in a conference; D.F. confirmed that T.F. had dropped out of BTHS; the BOE's attorney represented that he would file papers in support of a motion for an order dismissing the case; and I notified D.F. that she should file any paper in opposition to the motion by June 27, 2005. On June 17, 2005, the BOE filed its papers in support of its motion. (I have organized and identified exhibits not according to how the BOE identified them in its motion papers, but according to whether they relate to the petitioners' claims or the BOE's defenses and chronologically.) D.F. filed no response to the respondent's motion, and the record closed on June 27, 2005.

FINDINGS OF FACT

As a young girl, T.F., born October 4, 1986, enjoyed and was dedicated to cheerleading. T.F.'s family has been active and involved in community activities and, by way of cheerleading and otherwise, T.F. displayed community and school spirit. P-5; P-6.

During the 2001-02, 2002-03, and 2003-04 school years, T.F. was a freshman, sophomore, and junior at BTHS. R-1.

The BOE's policy requires that students maintain a minimum number of credits to participate in athletic programs. R-1; R-1A. However, during the 2003-04 school year, T.F. became unfocused and associated with troublesome people. T.F. failed to attend school regularly. She was cited for excessive unexcused absences, cutting classes, being late for classes, and missing detentions. Her academic performance was poor and she failed several courses. R-3; R-4.

D.F. met with Dennis Filippone, the BTHS principal, among other BOE officials, to discuss T.F.'s academic problems and, during the summer of 2004, by way of private tutoring, T.F. made up and passed two classes. Her teacher reported that she was a pleasure to teach. The BTHS also arranged T.F.'s 2004-05 schedule so that during the 2004-05 school year she could obtain sufficient credits to graduate with her class. (Although, D.F. alleged that the schedule prevented T.F. from having a lunch period.) However, consistent with the above-described Athletics Eligibility Regulation, during the 2004-05 school year T.F. was ineligible for participation in the BTHS cheerleading program. P-5; P-6.

In a letter dated August 10, 2004, D.F. thanked Mr. Filippone and his staff for arranging credit for T.F.'s two summer classes. However, D.F. also wrote the following: T.F. was participating in therapy sessions and with the family's support she was making efforts to overcome her behavioral changes. Unfortunately, under the BOE's rules, T.F. remained ineligible for participation in the BTHS's cheerleading team. Cheerleading provided structure and guidance for T.F. and, without it, she could fail in school and in life. Given the "extenuating circumstances," D.F. requested an exception to the school system's rule that resulted in T.F.'s

In a letter dated August 16, 2004, George McDermott, a psychologist, wrote the following: Since June 2004 he had been seeing T.F. T.F.'s parents had been actively involved in her treatment and were totally supportive of T.F. T.F. was cooperative and punctual at her appointments, while working during the summer. T.F. was "committed to the process of self-examination," she had made tremendous strides in addressing and dealing with her issues, and her prognosis was good. However, disqualification from cheerleading, which was essential to T.F.'s academic progress, had had far-reaching consequences for T.F. and upset her. These circumstances also profoundly disturbed her parents. Given theses circumstances, he requested that T.F. be permitted to participate in the cheerleading program. P-3.

In D.F.'s August 24, 2004, letter to Thomas Seidenberg, the BOE's superintendent, she wrote that she and J.F., her husband, had met with BOE school administrators Filippone and Hrycenko. Since the administrators had not granted her request for exception to the BOE rule, allowing her to be considered eligible for cheerleading, she requested a meeting with Dr. Seidenberg. P-4.

In D.F.'s September 13, 2004, letter to the Commissioner of Education, she wrote (and/or essentially intended to state) the following: If the BOE officials had notified D.F that T.F. could make up a third class, she would have done so, so that she could be considered eligible for cheerleading. At the start of the 2004-05 school year, T.F. participated in the preliminary activities for cheerleading. However, since she had not made up all of the credits required by BOE policy for participation, BOE administrators dismissed her from the team. This caused T.F. embarrassment and anguish. During a telephone conversation (on a date not identified), Superintendent Seidenberg, thinking that he was speaking with a BOE secretary (whose first name is the same as D.F.'s), but actually speaking with D.F., insensitively stated that T.F.'s "case was closed" and that he did not know what D.F. wanted. In October 2004 T.F. would attain the age of eighteen years, when she could "make her own decisions," but without cheerleading to occupy her time, she might make unwise decisions. T.F. and her family were participating in therapy and it was imperative that she not have much free time on her hands. Given all these circumstances, D.F. was appealing Superintendent Seidenberg's determination that T.F. was ineligible for the cheerleading program. P-5.

By letter dated September 23, 2004, M. Kathleen Duncan, director of the Department's Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, notified D.F. of the following: Based on D.F.'s letter dated September 13, 2004, it appeared that she wished to appeal the determination that T.F. was ineligible for cheerleading. However, additional information and submissions were necessary for a proper petition of appeal. For example, as the petitioner, D.F. must verify statements on which she would rely. Also, D.F. must serve her letter/petition and all attachments on the BOE secretary. Also, D.F. must submit to the Bureau proof of such service by several forms (identified in Director Duncan's letter). Also, if D.F. wanted the case considered on an expedited basis, she must file a notice of motion with supporting papers (identified in Director Duncan's letter). Finally, the matter would not be processed unless and until D.F. complied with the above-described requirements. R-5.

By letter dated October 18, 2004, Director Duncan notified D.F. of the following: Her office had not received from D.F. the notarized verification and proper proof of service, etc., identified in the September 23, 2004, letter (a copy of which Director Duncan transmitted to D.F. with the October 18, 2004, letter). "Please be advised that unless such documentation is received on or before November 1, 2004, your petition will be dismissed, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10." R-6.

By letter to D.F. dated November 1, 2004, Director Duncan confirmed their conversation during which they discussed the following: D.F. should have served a copy of her petition and all attachments on the BOE (by way of its secretary) and proof of such service must be submitted to the Bureau in one of several forms (identified in the letter). By November 5, 2004, D.F. should submit a notarized verification and proof of service of her petition on the BOE. "Once again, please be advised that unless such documentation is received on or before November 5, 2004, your petition will be dismissed, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10." R-7.

In D.F.'s November 2, 2004, letter to the Commissioner of Education, she wrote (or essentially stated) the following: She was appealing from the dismissal of T.F. from cheerleading. T.F. was dedicated to cheerleading, for which she was always well prepared and attended camps. Cheerleading helped her stay focused and disciplined. She (D.F.) was "an involved parent [and] always followed School procedures when it came to absences." Consequently, during the 2003-04 school year, "[w]hen [T.F.] began making poor choices involving school attendance," she refused to make telephone calls or write notes justifying T.F.'s absences, leaving T.F. no choice but to admit her misconduct to the BOE administrators, so that T.F. would "learn a valuable lesson." As a result of T.F.'s many absences and poor scores, she failed three courses. Because of T.F.'s lack of sufficient credits, she was dismissed from the cheerleading squad. This caused T.F. to experience "mental stress and depression." The high school guidance counselor had referred T.F. to the family crisis center. The BOE's rule, providing that a student whose final grade score was less than 60 was disqualified from certain activities, was "ridiculous." Limiting a student to making up only two subjects (that the student had failed) deprived a student of the opportunity to "make up the work or at least try to get back on track." The BOE should allow a student to make up a third class. P-6.

By letter dated November 8, 2004, Director Duncan notified D.F. of the following: The Department had received her letter dated November 2, 2004. Assuming that D.F. wanted the letter to be considered part of her petition for relief, she should serve it and any other paper (such as her letter dated September 13, 2004) that she had previously filed with the Department on the BOE secretary. D.F. should also prepare and file with the Bureau documentation showing that she had properly served the BOE. R-5.

By letter dated November 12, 2004, D.F. forwarded copies of her letters (petition), etc., to the BOE's secretary. P-7.

By letter dated November 18, 2004, Director Duncan notified D.F. of the following: As the Department had repeatedly instructed her in writing, she was required to submit proof of service of her petition, etc., in one of several forms the Department had identified. Despite this instruction, the Department had not received the required proof of service of her petition, etc. "Pleased be advised that this matter will be dismissed if proper proof of service is not received on or before the close of business Tuesday, November 30, 2004. No further extensions will be granted." R-8.

On June 9, 2005, D.F., the BOE's attorney and I conferred by telephone and we reviewed the facts. D.F. confirmed that T.F. (now eighteen years of age) had dropped out of BTHS and the BOE's attorney represented that he would move for summary decision of the case as moot. No record has been made here that, e.g., T.F. has reenrolled as a student in BTHS.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

New Jersey's Constitution requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of free public schools for the instruction of all the children in the state between the ages of five and eighteen years. N.J. Const. art VIII, §4, ¶1. Consistent with the constitutional requirement, the Legislature has authorized boards of education to operate local school districts. See, e.g., N.J.S.A. 18A:8-1 to -41.

The Legislature has granted local public bodies wide latitude in the exercise of delegated discretion and such a body is presumed to act fairly, with proper motives and for valid reasons. Kramer v. Sea Girt Bd. of Adjustment, 45 N.J. 268, 296-97 (1965). Consistent with these principles, it is well established that actions of local boards of education within their discretionary powers may not be upset unless the complaining party shows that the board's action was patently arbitrary, without rational basis, or that it was induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960), citations omitted.

The BOE's policy that students maintain minimal credits for participation in athletic programs appears reasonably consistent with the constitutional and statutory intent to provide a thorough and efficient system of public education. In any event, T.F., who is now eighteen years of age, has dropped out of BTHS and, since petitioners' claims are based on T.F.'s status as a student of BTHS, the claims appear to be moot. Oxfeld v. New Jersey State Bd. of Educ., 68 N.J. 301, 303-04 (1975).

In response to the BOE's motion, D.F. has provided no reasonable basis for a finding that there is, e.g., some matter of compelling public importance capable of repetition such that this case should be decided despite its mootness. See In re J.I.S. Indus. Serv. Co. Landfill, 110 N.J.

101, 104-05 (1988) (citing Matter of Conroy, 98 N.J. 321, 342 (1985); Guttenberg Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Rivera, 85 N.J. 617, 622-23 (1981); Dunellen Bd. of Educ. v. Dunellen Educ. Ass'n, 64 N.J. 17, 22 (1973)).

D.F.'s allegations do not appear to provide a reasonable basis for a claim for damages and, in any event, there is no jurisdiction in this administrative forum for the granting of such a claim. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9; N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq.; see also J.A. v. Bd. of Educ. for S. Orange, 318 N.J. Super. 512, 526 (App. Div. 1999).

The motion for summary decision is an efficient means of resolving a contested case, available where there is no genuine issue of material fact that necessitates a trial-type hearing. The movant bears the burden of persuasion that there is no such genuine issue of material fact and, in making such a determination, reasonable inferences are drawn in favor of the objector. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5; R. 4:46-1; Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 528-40 (1995); Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 73-75 (1954). Even where a statute calls for a hearing, where the objector submits no evidence to demonstrate such a genuine issue of material fact, the motion procedure constitutes the hearing and no trial-type hearing is necessary. South Brunswick Asphalt v. Dep't of Envtl. Protection, No. A-693-98T5 (App. Div. April 10, 2000) (citing Contini v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 286 N.J. Super. 106, 120-21 (App. Div. 1995), certif. denied, 145 N.J. 372 (1996)), certif. denied, 165 N.J. 487 (2000).

There is no issue that requires a trial-type proceeding here. The BOE's motion must be granted and the petition dismissed. See A.K. obo R.K. v. Smith, Superintendent, & Rumson-Fair Haven Reg'l BOE, EDU 107-03, Initial Decision (July 17, 2003), adopted, Comm'r (August 19, 2003) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>.

This result does not mean that the BOE or BTHS educators have any ill will towards T.F. To the contrary, I assume that they hope that T.F. will complete her education somewhere and that she will have a productive life.

ORDER

I GRANT the respondent's motion and I ORDER the petition DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY, AND ANNETTE D. KNOX, SUPERINTENDENT,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, who was formerly employed by the Board under a fixed-term contract in the non-certificated title of public information officer, asserted that the Board: 1) did not follow proper procedures for non-renewal of her employment contract; and 2) denied her retroactive pay which was paid to other non-bargaining unit employees.

The ALJ concluded inter alia that: non-certificated employees of local school boards under fixed-term contracts have no right to continued employment by such boards other than the protections provided by N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1; petitioner has had due process by way of this case and has not shown that the Board's nonrenewal of her employment was arbitrary and capricious or otherwise unlawful; the Board should not be ordered to renew petitioner's employment; and the Board should not be ordered to pay the petitioner retroactive raises. The ALJ ordered the petitioner's claims dismissed with prejudice.

The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the petitioner failed in her burden of proving that the Board acted unlawfully when it: 1) did not renew her contract for the 2003-2004 school year; and 2) denied her claim for retroactive pay increases. Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, and the petition is hereby dismissed with prejudice.

ROSEANN E. BROWN,

Petitioner,

v.

CITY OF CAMDEN BOARD OF EDUCATION AND ANNETTE D. KNOX, SUPERINTENDENT OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN SCHOOLS,

Respondents.

Roseann E. Brown, petitioner pro se

Harold George, Esq., for respondents (Sumners, George, attorneys)

Record closed: June 15, 2005 Decided: June 28, 2005

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner Roseann E. Brown brings claims against respondent City of Camden Board of Education (BOE) and respondent Annette D. Knox, superintendent of the BOE's school system. Pursuant to a fixed-term contract, the BOE employed the petitioner as a public information officer (PIO), a title which was not certificated, and in 2003 the BOE did not renew her employment.

The petitioner's claims and the respondents' defenses can be summarized. (1) The petitioner demands an order requiring the BOE to renew her employment. The petitioner alleges that she performed her assignments satisfactorily. She also alleges that the BOE failed to provide her with timely notice of its determination, that it failed to provide her with a timely statement of reasons for its determination, and that it failed to provide her with documentation related to its determination. The respondents deny any wrongful conduct. The superintendent notified the petitioner that she had determined that the petitioner's performance was unsatisfactory. By letters served at the end of the 2002-2003 school year, the superintendent notified the petitioner that she would not recommend to the BOE that it renew the petitioner's employment, and the BOE did not renew her employment (so that it ended June 30, 2003). Respondents submit that the petitioner has not shown that their actions were arbitrary and capricious or otherwise unlawful, and they submit that petitioner's claim for reinstatement should be dismissed. See N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20; N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1; N.J.A.C. 6:3-2.1. (2) The petitioner also demands (retroactive) salary increases for school years 1999-2000, 2000-2001, and 2001-2002. She alleges that she attempted to negotiate salary increases for those school years, but that the BOE refused to negotiate with her in good faith. The respondents' responses are as follows: Consistent with past practice, a BOE administrator invited the petitioner to meet and negotiate a salary raise, but she refused and/or failed to do so. Thereafter, consistent with past practice, the BOE adopted a resolution governing salaries of employees in the same titles, including PIOs, and the BOE paid the employees, including the petitioner, consistent with the resolution. Relative to this claim also, respondents submit that the petitioner has not shown that their actions were arbitrary and capricious or otherwise unlawful, and they submit that the claim should be dismissed.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On September 23, 2003, the petitioner's former attorney filed her petition with the Department of Education and on October 21, 2003, the BOE's former attorney filed the respondents' answer and defenses with the Department. See N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1 to -1.17. The Department transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on November 17, 2003. See N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). In 2004 respondents' present attorney entered his appearance, the petitioner's attorney withdrew from the case, and I conducted conferences relative to discovery, etc. On February 8 and June 2, 2005, I heard the case in the OAL, Trenton. The parties' joint exhibits were admitted into evidence. I sustained the respondents' objections to most of the petitioner's exhibits as irrelevant or because they should have been but were not provided in response to respondents' discovery requests. (Admission of petitioner's exhibits referred to in the findings of fact will not prejudice the respondents, so the objections to those exhibits are not sustained.) After the petitioner rested her case, the respondents moved for dismissal for failure to prove a prima facie case. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3(a); R. 4:37-2(b). However, to allow for development of a full record and to allow the (pro se) petitioner a full opportunity for due process, I denied the motion. At the petitioner's request, written summations were allowed and the record closed with the receipt of the last submission.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The BOE's school system includes over thirty schools that provide educational services for 18,000 children from prekindergarten to high school. The BOE employs about 3,800 people, of which about 150 are administrators. The BOE's annual budget is about $325 million.

For a number of years before 2003, pursuant to a series of contracts, the BOE employed the petitioner. No contract between the BOE and the petitioner was for a period of employment of more than one year. During the 2002-2003 school year, the BOE employed the petitioner and Barton Leff as PIOs. The PIO title was not tenured and the PIOs were not part of a collective bargaining unit.

PIOs, who were part of the superintendent's staff, were responsible for press and media relations. PIOs' duties included keeping abreast of significant events and developments that affected the school system, and preparation and distribution of publications to notify the BOE's district's school children, parents, residents, and the general public of such events and developments and to promote school events. These publications included calendars, news releases, newsletters, press releases, and staff bulletins. PIOs were also to perform other duties related to internal and external matters, as assigned by the superintendent.

The petitioner testified that (in addition to the above-described duties) her PIO duties included managing crisis media relations, and responding to and attempting to resolve parental complaints that could not be resolved at the building level. Mr. Leff testified that (in addition to the above-described duties) his PIO duties also included responding to fire calls related to the school system and going to sites where fires occurred.

Camden is an Abbott district and the BOE's school system was subject to a State-approved Corrective Action Plan. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3 "Abbott district." Over the years, the BOE made changes in the school system's administration. For example, the petitioner testified that in the 1990s the BOE abolished the PIO title and, at a BOE meeting, she described the history and accomplishments of the PIOs. As a result of the abolition of the PIO title, Mr. Leff, a tenured teacher, returned to teaching, but the petitioner was out of a job for a while. Later, the BOE resumed employment of Mr. Leff and the petitioner as PIOs. The petitioner also testified that, over time, the PIOs' responsibilities changed, e.g., at one time she had responsibility for all the BOE's schools, and then responsibility for schools was divided between her and Mr. Leff.

Leon Freeman, the BOE's school business administrator/BOE secretary, testified that for employees (such as PIOs) who had the same title and responsibilities, but who were not part of a bargaining unit, the BOE's practice was to negotiate with them as a group and to make the same offer to those in the same title. After such negotiations, the BOE would pass a resolution providing for salaries, raises, etc.

Consistent with the above-described practice, on August 17, 2000, Mr. Freeman requested that on August 18, 2000, the petitioner and Mr. Leff meet with him relative to their salaries. The petitioner first agreed to meet as Mr. Freeman requested. However, in a memorandum to Mr. Freeman dated September 28, 2000, the petitioner wrote the following: Although she had agreed to the meeting, she had changed her mind. She requested that she negotiate as a "sole negotiator" and, if Mr. Freeman objected to her request, she requested that he set forth his objection in writing. She had visited Mr. Freeman's office, "seeking answers to questions in preparation for the 'negotiation' the following day." However, thereafter, she called

Mr. Freeman and stated that she was not prepared to meet and negotiate the next day. Also, she might want to retain labor relations counsel to assist her, and she required at least thirty days to prepare for a meeting. She remained "in the preparation process" and wanted "at least two (2) weeks prior notice" of a date on which she and the BOE could negotiate. J-27.

Relative to the petitioner's claim for retroactive pay raises, Mr. Freeman testified that the BOE's position was that it had offered the petitioner an opportunity to negotiate, but she rejected the opportunity.

On September 27, 2000, the BOE adopted a resolution that provided for an increase in the base salaries for certain BOE employees, including PIOs, and the increases were as follows: effective July 1, 1999 – June 30, 2000: 4.5 percent, inclusive of increment; effective July 1, 2000 – June 30, 2001: 4.75 percent, inclusive of increment; and effective July 1, 2001 – June 30, 2002: 5.00 percent, inclusive of increment. J-18. The petitioner made no record here that she ever timely challenged that action by the BOE. See N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

In January 2001 respondent Knox began as superintendent of the BOE's school system. In an effort to provide a thorough and efficient system of education, the superintendent began to reorganize the BOE's school system.

The superintendent directed the petitioner to produce publications including a newsletter at least every quarter and a school system travel directory, giving directions to the system's buildings. The petitioner was late with her production of the travel directory. However, she testified that difficulties obtaining photographs and directions caused the lateness.

In the spring of 2001 the superintendent collaborated with the petitioner on production (in English and Spanish), publication, and distribution of a vision statement for the school system, and this went fairly well.

In a memorandum dated August 23, 2001, to Daniel Bevilacqua, of the BOE's human resources office, the petitioner wrote the following: Her salary as of the 1997-1998 school year was $68,186. In August 2000 most administrators in this category entered negotiations with Theodore B. Johnson, the interim superintendent, and Mr. Freeman to negotiate salary percentage increases for the 1999-2000, 2000-2001, and 2001-2002 school years. However, she had not negotiated salary percentage increases for those years. Her salary as of June 30, 2001, was (still) $68,186. The August 27, 2001, Preliminary Report of the superintendent showed her salary as $76,417, which was "incorrect." She was prepared to enter salary negotiations "so that a correct salary [could] be posted." J-27.

The petitioner testified that during the superintendent's first year their relationship was good and that the superintendent rated her performance as "satisfactory" for the first year. However, the petitioner also acknowledged that in 2001 the superintendent notified her that she was concerned about her attendance.

The superintendent's Official Report, dated August 27, 2001, which listed reappointed BOE employees and their salaries, showed the PIOs' salary as $80,380. J-28.

The superintendent testified that, from the start, the petitioner's attendance was erratic. The school system's administrative staff's regular day was from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. However, on many occasions during the regular office day the superintendent could not locate the petitioner, and many mornings when she called the petitioner's office there was no answer or she was unavailable. On a number of occasions she observed the petitioner sitting in her car in front of the school building. Such circumstances interfered with her communication with the petitioner. Once, when she requested an opportunity to see how the petitioner was progressing on an assignment, the petitioner told her she could see it at 9 p.m., i.e., well after the administrative staff's regular day. Further, at 9 p.m., when she came to see the project, the petitioner told her that she should return at 11 p.m. to see it. The superintendent repeatedly told the petitioner that her attendance was a problem. The sign-in sheet was in the superintendent's office and, while Mr. Leff signed in, on many occasions the petitioner continued to be unaccountable. However, the superintendent admitted that she had not personally studied the sign-in sheets to confirm that the petitioner had not signed in. The petitioner testified that she purchased a cellular phone and gave its number to Helen Hammond, the superintendent's secretary, as a way for the superintendent to contact her.

Before the start of the 2001-2002 school year, among the assignments the superintendent gave the petitioner was production of a newsletter for parents to be distributed and mailed in August 2001, i.e., before the start of the school year. However, the superintendent testified that the petitioner failed to perform that assignment.

Mr. Leff testified that he had responsibility for oversight of the BOE's cable television programming, involving taping of panel discussions, BOE meetings, etc. The superintendent also assigned special projects to him. In addition to producing press releases, he also responded to press inquiries. Production of calendars involved the following: The calendar committee met. He and his staff obtained information to be entered into the calendar and reviewed photographs to determine whether they should be entered into the calendar. Photographs were scanned and cropped for use in the calendar. He supervised a secretary who used a desktop publishing computer program to print a dummy calendar which was constructed and laid out preliminarily and he reviewed and approved drafts for publication. The superintendent testified that the petitioner and Mr. Leff had conflicts on many projects, and Mr. Leff testified that the superintendent began to reassign responsibilities from the petitioner to him, to assure that activities involving the school system and school children were appropriately covered.

During the 2001-2002 school year, among the assignments the superintendent gave the petitioner was production of a newsletter that was to describe the goals and accomplishments of the superintendent's first year in office, to be distributed in early 2002. The superintendent explained to the petitioner that the newsletter should show the superintendent's six strategic goals, with details showing what had been accomplished. The superintendent handwrote how she wanted the newsletter's text and graphics laid out for printing and folding in newsletter form. She instructed the petitioner to type the text and to provide the layout for the printer so that it could be handed out in the BOE's schools and mailed to city residences.

The petitioner did produce a "Camden Schools Today, March/April 2002" edition of the newsletter. This edition had eight pages and included articles about the superintendent's first-year accomplishments, recognition of students and staff recognition, and the Department of Education's approval of the BOE's Facilities Management Plan, and had notice of the superintendent's upcoming meeting with the community, notice of the BOE's Creative Arts High School's upcoming performances, and notice that on April 16, 2002, a school election would be held and polls would be open from 2 p.m. to 9 p.m. J-3(18). The superintendent acknowledged that this newsletter was mailed to every residence of record in the city and acknowledged that (with supervision) the petitioner performed this assignment fairly well.

However, the superintendent testified, as time went on, the petitioner's performance deteriorated. The newsletters the petitioner was to produce were to have themes, e.g., compliance with the "No Child Left Behind" and "Safe Corridors" policies and, as PIO, the petitioner was to draft a newsletter bringing the themes into focus. The petitioner was to collect information and conduct interviews, to write articles, to obtain and present pictures and to lay out a draft, consistent with the theme, for the superintendent's review. However, the petitioner did not timely complete projects assigned to her and her work on newsletters was disappointing. The petitioner acknowledged that, in 2002, the superintendent told her she was out of her building an inordinate amount of time.

The petitioner produced news releases related to the BOE's Creative Arts High School, which her child attended. However, she failed to perform major assignments, including the newsletters to be produced at least every quarter. The superintendent testified that, instead of dedicating her time to her assignments, the petitioner inundated the superintendent with memoranda (detailed below).

The petitioner issued a memorandum entitled "A Plea for Assistance" dated April 11, 2002. This was one page, addressed to all central administrators and directors, and in it, petitioner requested that they provide any available clerks on April 12, 2002, to assist in preparing 25,000 "distributions" to be mailed to all homes in the city and "several thousand flyers to be sent home with the students." J-3(29). The petitioner also made a list of seven BOE staffers who helped prepare the newsletter mailing. J-3(32).

On April 12, 2002, the petitioner delivered 28,709 copies of the Camden Schools Today, March/April 2002 newsletter for mailing. J-3(26).

The petitioner produced the "Camden Schools Today, April 2002, School Election Issue" newsletter. This newsletter was one page, on which the following appeared: the total amount for the BOE's 2002-03 budget, a list of eleven "major expenditures," a list of the candidates for the BOE, the tax rate, and notice that the school election would be April 16, 2002. (Polling places and times were not shown.) J-3(34).

In a memorandum dated June 13, 2002, to the superintendent, the petitioner wrote, in part, the following:

> Madam Superintendent, this memorandum must necessarily be my last memo requesting that I receive immediately the retroactive pay for the years listed above [1999-2000, 2000-2001, 2001-2002]. Accomplishing this is a matter of "sitting down with me" to negotiate percentage increases for each year of the 3-year period listed above. I wish to be paid for the services already rendered to the [BOE] as everyone has been.

On a Supplemental Requisition for publication dated July 1, 2002, petitioner wrote that on July 25, 2002, she had received the requisition signed by the superintendent. J-3(6).

By letter dated July 3, 2002, Laurette Asante, Esq., of Murray & Murray (the BOE's former law firm) notified petitioner that, at the BOE's direction, on July 10, 2002, she would meet with the petitioner to discuss her June 13, 2002, memorandum to the superintendent. J-22.

In a letter dated July 8, 2002, the petitioner wrote to Ms. Asante that she had requested and Ms. Asante had agreed to provide a list of specific questions to be discussed relative to her June 13, 2002, memorandum to the superintendent. J-21.

In a letter to the petitioner dated July 9, 2002, Ms. Asante wrote the following: The petitioner had canceled their meeting scheduled for July 10, 2002. Contrary to the petitioner's assertion in her July 8, 2002, letter, Ms. Asante did not agree to send her a list of specific questions to be discussed during the July 10, 2002, meeting. Further discussion relative to petitioner's claims regarding salary increases would be between the petitioner, Karen Murray, Esq., of Murray & Murray, and the superintendent. J-20.

In a letter to Ms. Asante dated July 22, 2002, the petitioner made the following statements: The meeting between her and the attorney scheduled for July 10, 2002, had been cancelled at their mutual agreement. She did not know of a past practice wherein a sole non-bargaining unit administrator bargained directly with the BOE's labor attorney. If the BOE had instituted a new practice relative to bargaining with administrators and staff who were not represented by a bargaining unit, she requested that the BOE state that practice in writing. Her claim for retroactive pay for services rendered to the BOE for the years 1999-2000, 2000-2001 and 2001-2002 was "a simple matter" which could be resolved if she and the superintendent could sit down and reach an agreement, and if, thereafter, the BOE's labor attorney would draft an appropriate resolution. The attorney had stated that petitioner should communicate with the superintendent and, by way of her June 13, 2002, memorandum, she did so, but the superintendent referred the matter to Ms. Murray. J-19.

In petitioner's memorandum to the superintendent dated August 14, 2002, she wrote that she would submit a draft of a newsletter by the close of that day. J-3(9).

On a note attached to a Hardware Service Request Form, dated August 14, 2002, the petitioner wrote that she was in the process of completing a newsletter for the superintendent, but that a computer was not printing 11 x 17 size paper to the Canon color copier (apparently needed to produce the newsletter). J-3(11).

In a memorandum to the superintendent dated August 29, 2002, the petitioner wrote the following: Since August 14, 2002, she had experienced computer difficulties. The technology department had worked on her computer system and the newsletter was printed, but with incorrect spacing. The staff delivered a loaned computer and set it up, but a floppy disk and the original newsletter fonts needed to be installed. If the floppy disk and the original newsletter fonts were installed a newsletter could go to the printer by September 3, 2002. J-3(14).

In a memorandum to the superintendent dated September 18, 2002, petitioner wrote the following: Since 1986, when the BOE established a second PIO position, each of the two PIOs had submitted requisitions for service from Largmoor Film Service and both requisitions were approved. In 2002, although Barton Neff and she, both serving as PIOs, had both submitted requisitions for Largmoor, the superintendent had approved only Mr. Neff's requisition. The superintendent's declining to approve her requisition had prevented her from performing the photography/processing part of her duties. J-1.

In a memorandum to the petitioner dated October 17, 2002, the superintendent wrote the following: The (BOE's) district was of a size that it should have one newsletter each month and have a quarterly magazine. Prior to the opening of school, the superintendent had assigned to the petitioner the task of completing a newsletter (to be distributed in September 2002 for the opening of school). However, the petitioner failed to perform the assignment and, since January 2001, when the superintendent came to the district, the petitioner had produced only one newsletter and it was rushed and of poor quality. The petitioner had sent a letter, a copy of which she also sent to BOE members, representing that her computer had crashed, so that she was unable to send a newsletter to the printer. Thereafter, the computer was serviced and replaced. Nonetheless, the petitioner failed to complete a district newsletter. As a PIO, the petitioner had not completed assignments to enhance the image of the district. Additionally, the petitioner was often absent from her office and her location was unknown and there was no documented work to show whether her movements were work-related. J-2.

The superintendent notified the petitioner that she believed her performance was unsatisfactory. For example, the petitioner acknowledged that the superintendent advised the petitioner of her concern about the petitioner not being present in her building; that the superintendent advised the petitioner of her concern about the petitioner not producing a newsletter to be distributed in 2002; and that the superintendent advised the petitioner that in her opinion the quality of the petitioner's work was poor. However, the petitioner testified that computer problems and inadequate staff support and inadequate resources necessary for drafting, layout, etc., prevented her from producing a newsletter. The petitioner also testified that she purchased supplies for which she did not even request reimbursement. The petitioner also disagreed with the superintendent's opinion relative to a newsletter's quality.

The petitioner testified that the superintendent's (above-described) concerns left her bewildered and that, in an attempt to explain herself to the superintendent, she submitted a memorandum dated November 13, 2002, wherein she wrote the following: In July 2002 she found that her requisitions for the newsletter (to be distributed in September 2002 for the opening of school) were left unsigned in the superintendent's office. In August 2002 the superintendent requested and the petitioner delivered a draft of the newsletter, but that same day computer problems occurred. The computer problems prevented her from printing an 11" x 17" tabloid size newsletter for a color copier, but she printed an 8½" x 11" size and pasted pages together to submit a temporary draft. She denied that she arbitrarily neglected the newsletter to be distributed in September 2002. On April 12, 2002, an eight-page Camden Schools Today newsletter was mailed to every residence (28,709 pieces). At the superintendent's request, on April 24, 2002, a one-sheet school district newsletter, broadside, or flyer was produced and mailed to city residents, but the petitioner could not determine its distribution. J-3(2). In response to the superintendent's request that she put everything that she had done together, in December 2001 she placed materials in large boxes which the superintendent was presenting to the BOE members as evidence for her upcoming evaluation. The superintendent's reliance on the petitioner's work shows it to be satisfactory. The petitioner denied the superintendent's allegation that she was absent from her office. J-3(2).

In a memorandum to the superintendent dated November 15, 2002, the petitioner responded to the superintendent's above-described memorandum dated October 17, 2002, and with the memorandum, in an effort to show her performance, the petitioner transmitted copies of the following:

A certification of publication of notice of a BOE retreat, appearing in the Courier-Post on December 14, 2001. J-3(36).

The above-described Camden Schools Today, March/April 2002 newsletter. J-3(18).

Her above-described "A Plea for Assistance," dated April 11, 2002, and list of seven BOE staffers who helped prepare the newsletter mailing. J-3(29); J-3(32).

A Postage Statement, showing that, on April 12, 2002, the petitioner, as mailing agent for the BOE, had delivered the Camden Schools Today, March/April 2002 newsletter for mailing. J-3(26).

The above-described Camden Schools Today, April 2002 "School Election Issue" newsletter. J-3(34).

The above-described Supplemental Requisition for publication dated July 1, 2002. J-3(6).

Her above-described memorandum to the superintendent dated August 14, 2002. J-3(9).

Her note attached to the Hardware Service Request Form, dated August 14, 2002. J-3(11).

Her above-described memorandum to the superintendent dated August 29, 2002. J-3(14).

A list of dates between August 15 and October 18, 2002, on which the computer crashed and technology staff worked on it. J-3(16).

Her above-described memorandum to the superintendent dated November 13, 2002. J-3(2).

A one-page printed statement: "Public Relations . . . A Social Science. Public relations is a social science. It is responsibility and responsiveness in policy and information to the best interests of the institution and its publics." (The statement was undated and shows no reference to any person or purpose.) J-3(38).

A number of letters from 2002 wherein public officials commended her for school system publications, including the school system travel directory and "Significant First-Year Accomplishments" and a 2001 award for the Camden City School District's Annual Workshop School Communications Competition. J-3(40-47).

In a memorandum to the superintendent dated January 8, 2003, petitioner described her actions relative to a New York Times representative's inquiry about the condition of the Camden High School gymnasium floor. J-4.

The superintendent testified that the petitioner continued her failure to properly or timely perform assignments and, on January 8, 2003, she prepared a letter to the petitioner to document her mid-year evaluation of the petitioner's performance, wherein she wrote the following:

> Your continued failure to provide evidence through requested projects, i.e., monthly newsletters and other creative projects that your office is supportive of the goals and objectives set forth by the [BOE] and the district's Corrective Action Plans;
> Your continued failure to document your presence and absence from the building by the submission of a substantive body of work;
>
> Your continued failure to provide a list of creative projects to enhance the district's image;
>
> Submission of numerous letters and other written information to substantiate your failure to produce according to your job description.
>
> Your job performance at this time is a study in insubordination and is also indicative of either a refusal to produce as required according to job description and title, or failure of understanding of such. Therefore, in my judgment, you have achieved an "unsatisfactory" evaluation rating.
> If you wish to meet with me to discuss your evaluation, please make an appointment with Ms. Helen Hammond.

The petitioner signed an acknowledgement of receipt of the letter, but she refused to sit for a reading of the letter.

Mr. Leff prepared a BOE news release, for release by January 15, 2003, which described the award of an American Field Service Intercultural Programs (AFS) scholarship for study abroad to a Camden High School student who planned to travel to Japan. After learning of the news release, by way of a note dated January 21, 2003, the petitioner notified Mr. Leff that she was assigned to the Camden High School. By way of a memorandum dated January 16, 2003, Mr. Leff responded, writing that the superintendent had asked him to obtain media coverage for the AFS scholarship, etc. J-6.

By letter to the superintendent dated February 10, 2003, the petitioner acknowledged the above-described January 8, 2003, mid-year performance evaluation letter and she wrote that she was exercising her right to respond. Transmitted with the petitioner's February 10, 2003, letter was the petitioner's memorandum, wherein she made statements including the following: On January 13, 2003, she appeared at the superintendent's office to receive the performance evaluation letter. When she entered the superintendent's conference room, the superintendent and Jan Gillespie-Walton, an assistant superintendent, were present. The superintendent stated that, consistent with a practice she had established, Ms. Gillespie-Walton was present as a witness. Petitioner requested the opportunity to have a witness of her choice present, but the superintendent denied her request. The superintendent's denial of her request for a witness "stalled the meeting." No notations were made on the letter in her presence. The superintendent stated that the petitioner was not represented by a bargaining unit, but the petitioner stated that she had a right to due process. The superintendent then left the room. J-7.

Mr. Leff testified that as a result of circumstances including requests from school principals and other administrators, in 2002 and 2003 the superintendent reassigned additional responsibilities from the petitioner to him, including responsibility for coverage of events at some of the BOE's schools. For example, by memorandum dated February 10, 2003, Mr. Leff notified the petitioner of the following: The superintendent had assigned to him responsibility for coverage of the following Camden High School events: Oceola Davis Day, the Rutgers Law School/IPLE Connection, and the Hall of Justice concert for Black History Month. He was developing press releases for the events, copies of which he would forward to her. J-8. He testified that he completed the assignments, the events were appropriately covered in the media, and the events were successful.

The superintendent testified that because of the petitioner's failure to timely perform a number of assignments, in 2002 and 2003 she reassigned the job of production of the newsletters from the petitioner to Marlene Coleman, another staff member, who performed the assignment appropriately. Ms. Coleman testified that in the 1990s, under the petitioner, who was her immediate supervisor, she learned about layout, design and desktop publishing of newsletters. Ms. Coleman also testified that, when the superintendent reassigned the petitioner's duties to her, she said she was doing that because the petitioner was not performing according to her assignments.

The petitioner acknowledged that in January 2003 the superintendent rated her performance as "unsatisfactory."

In a memorandum to the superintendent dated February 12, 2003, the petitioner wrote the following: She had received Mr. Leff's above-described memorandum dated February 10, 2003, which showed "Public Relations Assignments" as the reference, but, since she was the PIO for Camden High School, should have showed, "Public Relations Reassignments" as the reference. She requested that, "as a matter of professional courtesy," in the future, the superintendent notify her "first hand." She was attaching lists of her PIO assignments and Mr. Leff's PIO assignments. J-9.

In March and April 2003 the petitioner did produce news releases, which described the BOE's Creative Arts High School's Select Concert Choir's trip to Italy to participate in an international music program. The news release included photographs of student participants and interviews with student participants, and described an award the students won, and the news releases resulted in a complimentary article in a local newspaper. P-8; P-9.

The school system's newsletter for the school election was a significant project. The superintendent and petitioner exchanged a number of memoranda relative to the newsletter petitioner was to prepare and mail for the April 2003 school election: By memorandum dated March 6, 2003, the superintendent notified the petitioner that she should prepare a draft of the annual school board election newsletter and by March 14, 2003, at 9:30 a.m., submit it to the superintendent's office for review. J-10. In a memorandum dated April 2, 2003, the petitioner wrote that Alesi Graphics had revised the schedule for delivery to April 7, 2003, and that she was requesting permission for a committee of six named BOE employees to assist with mailing the newsletter on April 7 and 8, 2003. J-11. In a responding memorandum dated April 3, 2003, the superintendent notified the petitioner that she was directing five other employees, including Mr. Neff, to assist, instead of the six employees the petitioner had requested. J-12. In a responding memorandum dated April 4, 2003, the petitioner wrote that the five employees the superintendent had directed to assist were not familiar with the mailing process, and "[m]ost assuredly using unfamiliar personnel will slow the mailing process." J-13. In a memorandum dated April 9, 2003, the petitioner wrote to the superintendent that, "despite the possible recommendation [the superintendent] may have received from a reportedly close advisor," she was "very pleased to report that on Tuesday, April 8, 2003, twenty seven thousand four hundred thirty seven (27,437) School election 'Camden Schools Today' newsletters have been delivered to the United States Postal Service" and that the "Postal Service deliveries to every residence of record (with the Postmaster) in the City of Camden begin on Wednesday, April 9, 2003." J-14.

The petitioner did produce a School Election Issue April 2003 newsletter of several pages which included the date of the school election, the locations of city wards, a description of the BOE's budget's income and expenditures, and an explanation of property tax rates. P-7. The superintendent acknowledged that this newsletter was mailed out.

The superintendent testified that the petitioner was less and less productive. The petitioner took time to prepare and forward a number of letters and/or memoranda to the superintendent and others, but she did not perform her assignments. Ms. Coleman, to whom some of the petitioner's assignments were reassigned, testified that after the superintendent gave her the assignment of producing newsletters, she produced the "District Highlights" newsletter, consisting of six pages, with about ten articles, which she wrote, based on information she gathered in the school system, among other features. Presently, Ms. Coleman produces several newsletters during the school year and sometimes a newsletter during July and August. She also produces numerous brochures, flyers, and reports. (Consequently, it appears that the tasks assigned to the petitioner were not impossible to perform.)

The petitioner testified that lack of resources, caused in part by the superintendent's failure to authorize requisitions, etc., prevented her from timely performance of at least some of her assignments.

The superintendent determined that the BOE should not renew its employment of petitioner. In letters to the petitioner served on the petitioner on June 25, 2003, the superintendent wrote the following: "The District is in the process of reorganizing numerous departments and positions in the Administration Building, including the Public Relations and Communications Offices." J-15. She would not recommend that the BOE renew its employment of the petitioner. The petitioner had the option to resign, but she should do so by the end of the day on June 25, 2003. She should gather her belongings and, if she had any keys, she should turn them in. The BOE would pay her until June 30, 2003. At the BOE's meetings on June 25 and 26, 2003, it would consider action affecting her employment. Pursuant to the Open Public Meetings Act, the BOE will go into private session to discuss her employment, but she had a right to have the discussion in public and she should return a form on one of the letters to request the discussion in public. A copy of the letter was forwarded to the BOE. J-15; J-16; see N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20; N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1; N.J.A.C. 6:3-2.1; see also N.J.S.A. 10:4-12.

The petitioner completed the above-described form to request that the BOE discuss her employment in public. However, during the hearing she stated that she believed that she could not be successful before the BOE, so she did not attend the BOE meetings to try to convince the BOE to renew her employment. J-16; J-17.

The BOE did not renew the petitioner's employment, so that it ended with the 2002-03 school year.

Thereafter, the parties' former attorneys exchanged several letters: In a letter dated June 26, 2003, petitioner's former attorney cited N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10 (which appears to apply to teaching staff members and therefore not to the petitioner), contended that the notice of no recommendation was untimely, objected to the BOE's consideration of the petitioner's employment, and demanded a statement of reasons for the nonrenewal. By letter dated August 4, 2003, the BOE's former attorney responded and wrote that the nonrenewal was based on the petitioner's poor work performance and failure to operate in cooperation with the goals and objectives of the BOE and the district's corrective action plan. By letter dated October 8, 2003, petitioner's former attorney submitted information for consideration by the BOE and described her many years of employment with the BOE and alleged that the nonrenewal of her employment was unwarranted. P-3; P-4; P-5; P-6. This exchange did not lead to resumption of the BOE's employment of the petitioner.

The superintendent testified that since the petitioner's departure, the office of public information was been much more productive. Now, she gives an assignment and the office performs it timely. That office produces booklets, major mailings, manuals, quarterly newsletters, and other documents and newsletters. That office produces manuals in house and has changed the BOE's television station's format. The superintendent testified that the BOE's mission and obligations are her guides in her determination of whether to recommend or not recommend renewal of employment of a BOE employee. The petitioner's age was not a factor in the recommendation not to renew her employment. The superintendent testified that she regrets not recommending renewal of any BOE employee because of the effects on the employee and the employee's family.

Summary of Findings of Fact

Pursuant to a series of fixed-term contracts, the BOE employed the petitioner in non-certified, non-tenured titles. In August 2000, when the BOE employed the petitioner and Mr. Leff as PIOs, consistent with past practice the BOE's business administrator/secretary requested that they meet with him to discuss their salaries. The petitioner first agreed to meet, but thereafter she refused to do so unless the BOE met a number of demands. In September 2000 the BOE adopted a resolution governing salaries of BOE employees, including the PIOs. There is no record here that the parties did meet to discuss the PIOs' salaries and the petitioner made no record here that she ever challenged that action by the BOE before she brought these claims, years after the BOE adopted the resolution and, consistent with it, paid her very substantial salaries for the relevant years. The petitioner accepted the very substantial salaries the BOE paid her and, not until September 2003, i.e., years after notice of the BOE's action, did she file her petition bringing these claims. See N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

In 2001 respondent Knox became superintendent and she began to make changes, intending to improve the school system. She found the petitioner's attendance, accountability and performance unsatisfactory. The superintendent repeatedly notified the petitioner of her determination that the petitioner's performance was unsatisfactory and she reassigned tasks from the petitioner to other BOE employees. The petitioner testified that lack of resources prevented her from timely performance of at least some of her assignments and, in an effort to show that she was productive, she submitted a series of memoranda and other documents to the superintendent. The superintendent remained dissatisfied with the petitioner's performance and repeatedly notified the petitioner of that dissatisfaction, e.g., by way of the January 8, 2003, mid-year performance evaluation letter.

On June 25, 2003, the superintendent served the petitioner with letters wherein she stated that the district was "reorganizing" and that she would not recommend to the BOE that it renew the petitioner's employment, that the petitioner could resign from employment with the BOE, and that during the BOE's June 25 and 26, 2003, meetings it would consider whether to renew her employment. The petitioner believed that she could not be successful before the BOE, so she declined to attend the BOE meetings and try to convince the BOE to renew her employment. The BOE did not renew the petitioner's employment, so that it ended June 30, 2003. The parties' former attorneys exchanged letters and the BOE's former attorney's letter identified petitioner's poor performance among the reasons for the nonrenewal.

Having observed the witnesses and having considered all of the evidence, I find that the superintendent was a credible witness and I find that the petitioner was not credible in her allegations that she properly performed her duties. The superintendent's intent was to improve the school system and, based on the monitoring of the petitioner and her performance, the superintendent repeatedly notified the petitioner of her determination that the petitioner's performance was unsatisfactory. The petitioner has not shown that the superintendent's determination was arbitrary and capricious or otherwise unlawful.

The superintendent did not relish seeing the end of an employee's employment and, in her letter to the petitioner, she wrote that the district was "reorganizing" and that she would not recommend to the BOE that it renew the petitioner's employment. It appears that the superintendent euphemized the situation and that she avoided writing (again) that the petitioner's unsatisfactory performance and attendance were the "reason for nonrenewal." N.J.S.A. 18A:27-

4.1. However, from the superintendent's repeated notice of her determination that the petitioner's performance was unsatisfactory, the petitioner knew the reason for the superintendent's not recommending renewal of her employment. Since the superintendent did not recommend renewal, since the petitioner declined to appear before the BOE during its June 2003 meetings, and since the BOE did not renew the petitioner's employment, the employment could reasonably be "deemed nonrenewed" and ended June 30, 2003. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1.

Communications between the parties' former attorneys resulted in a letter to the petitioner's attorney wherein the BOE's former attorney wrote that the petitioner's poor work performance was the reason that the superintendent did not recommend renewal and, thereafter, the BOE did not renew that employment.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

New Jersey's Constitution requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of free public schools. N.J. Const. art VIII, §4, ¶1. Consistent with the constitutional requirement, the Legislature has authorized boards of education to operate local school districts. See, e.g., N.J.S.A. 18A:8-1 to -41.

The Legislature has granted local public bodies wide latitude in the exercise of delegated discretion and such a body is presumed to act fairly, with proper motives and for valid reasons. Kramer v. Sea Girt Bd. of Adjustment, 45 N.J. 268, 296-97 (1965). Consistent with these principles, it is well established that actions of local boards of education within their discretionary powers may not be upset unless the complaining party shows that the board's action was patently arbitrary, without rational basis, or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960).

(1) Petitioner's Claim that the BOE Should Renew Her Employment

The Supreme Court has written that non-certificated persons employed by local school boards pursuant to fixed-term contracts have no right to continued employment by such boards other than the protections provided by N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1. Camden Bd. of Educ. v. Alexander, 181 N.J. 187, 192 (2004).

N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 states:

> Notwithstanding the provisions of any law, rule or regulation to the contrary,
>
> a. A board of education shall appoint, transfer or remove a certificated or non-certificated officer or employee only upon the recommendation of the chief school administrator and by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board. The board shall not withhold its approval for arbitrary and capricious reasons.
>
> b. A board of education shall renew the employment contract of a certificated or non-certificated officer or employee only upon the recommendation of the chief school administrator and by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board. The board shall not withhold its approval for arbitrary and capricious reasons. A nontenured officer or employee who is not recommended for renewal by the chief school administrator shall be deemed nonrenewed. Prior to notifying the officer or employee of the nonrenewal, the chief school administrator shall notify the board of the recommendation not to renew the officer's or employee's contract and the reasons for the recommendation. An officer or employee whose employment contract is not renewed shall have the right to a written statement of reasons for nonrenewal pursuant to section 2 of [N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.2] and to an informal appearance before the board. The purpose of the appearance shall be to permit the staff member to convince the members of the board to offer reemployment. The chief school administrator shall notify the officer or employee of the nonrenewal pursuant, where applicable, to the provisions of section 1 of [N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10].
> c. The provisions of this section shall not apply to the appointment, transfer, removal, renewal or nonrenewal of a person who is a treasurer of school moneys, election officer, board auditor, board attorney or board secretary, except a board secretary who performs business administration functions.

The Appellate Division, construing N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27, -28, which provides a process for nontenured teachers that is similar to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1, has described as "virtually unlimited" a local board's discretion in determining whether to renew or decline to renew employment of a nontenured teacher. Dore v. Bedminster Township Bd. of Educ., 185 N.J. Super. 447, 453 (App. Div. 1982). The nontenured teacher denied reemployment has a right to comment during a local board's public meetings and, when such a teacher claims deprivation of a constitutional or statutory right, he or she states a substantive basis for contesting the board's determination. Id. at 454. However, otherwise, when a local board has declined to renew employment of a nontenured teacher, the teacher does not have a right to an evidentiary hearing to review the factual underpinnings of the board's determination. Guerriero v. Bd. of Educ. of the Bor. of Glen Rock, No. A-3316-85T6 (App. Div. December 17, 1986), citing Donaldson v. Bd. of Educ. of No. Wildwood, 65 N.J. 236, 245 (1974).

Here the superintendent (the chief school administrator) repeatedly notified the petitioner that she had determined that the petitioner's performance was unsatisfactory and the petitioner has not shown that this determination was unreasonable. See N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20; N.J.A.C. 6:3-2.1. Thereafter, the superintendent served on the petitioner letters, notifying her that renewal of her employment after June 30, 2003, would not be recommended. The superintendent's "reasons for nonrenewal" set forth in the letters were generalized at best. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(a). However, from the superintendent's repeated notice of her determination that the petitioner's performance was unsatisfactory, the petitioner knew the reason for the superintendent's not recommending renewal of her employment. The petitioner did not have "an informal appearance before the board" to convince it to renew her employment. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b). During the hearing, she commented that she believed that she could not be successful before the BOE, so she declined to appear at the BOE's June 25 and 26, 2003, meetings.

A local board's lack of strict compliance with N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 by failure to strictly comply with the requirement of providing a statement of reasons for nonrenewal of employment is not sufficient reason to order the board to renew employment of the employee or provide him or her with a financial reward. Cf. Dore, supra, 185 N.J. Super. at 455.

The petitioner has had due process by way of this case and she has not shown that the BOE's nonrenewal of her employment was arbitrary and capricious or otherwise unlawful. It appears impractical to, e.g., remand the matter to the BOE to allow the petitioner an opportunity to convince the BOE to offer reemployment.

Given all the circumstances, the petitioner's employment was "deemed nonrenewed" after June 30, 2003, and I conclude that the BOE should not be ordered to renew the petitioner's employment. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b).

(2) Petitioner's Claim for Retroactive Pay Increases

In August 2000, when the BOE employed the petitioner and Mr. Leff as PIOs, consistent with past practice the BOE's business administrator/secretary requested that they meet with him to discuss their salaries. The petitioner first agreed to meet, but thereafter she refused to do so unless the BOE met a number of demands. In September 2000 the BOE adopted a resolution governing salaries of BOE employees, including the petitioner, from July 1, 1999, to June 30, 2002. The petitioner accepted the salary the BOE paid her, and not until September 2003 did she file her petition bringing a claim related to her salary. Procedurally, the claim may well be said to be out of time. See N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

Substantively, consistent with the above-cited law, the BOE is presumed to have acted lawfully, unless the petitioner proves that it acted arbitrarily, unlawfully, etc., and the petitioner has not shown sufficient, competent and credible evidence that the BOE acted arbitrarily, unlawfully, etc., and I conclude that the BOE should not be ordered to pay the petitioner retroactive raises, etc.

ORDER

Consistent with the above, I ORDER the petitioner's claims DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BELLEVILLE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner appealed the Board's residency determination that her son, D.E., was not eligible for a free education in the Township of Belleville School District during the 2003-2004 and 2004-2005 school years, contending that she is homeless and that her son is entitled to attend school in respondent's district because Belleville is the town in which petitioner last resided. A hearing was held on June 21, 2005.

Based upon the fact that the petitioner did not appear at hearing and offered no acceptable explanation for her absence as required pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(a), the ALJ determined that L.H. had abandoned her appeal. Based on the record in this matter, and the testimony and certification of the respondent Board, the ALJ found that petitioner failed to carry her burden of proof that D.E. was entitled to a free public education in the Township of Belleville during the relevant time periods, and concluded that L.H. owes the District total tuition of $11,229.60. The ALJ ordered petitioner to pay respondent tuition in this amount, and further ordered that, without proof of current domicile/residency, D.E. may be excluded from further attending the Belleville public schools, at the District's discretion, unless tuition is paid for his continued attendance.

The Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ in this matter. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, and the Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner, who did not appear for the hearing in this matter, has failed to carry her burden of proof that D.E. was entitled to a free public education in the Belleville School District (District) during the relevant time periods. The Commissioner further agrees with the grant of the Board's counterclaim for tuition in the amount of $11,229.60 for the period of D.E.'s ineligible attendance in the District's schools during the 2003-2004 and 2004-2005 school years.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1350-05

AGENCY DKT. NO. 391-10/04

L.H. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, D.E.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BELLEVILLE, ESSEX COUNTY,

Respondent.

No appearance by or on behalf of petitioner.

Mark A. Wenzcel, Esq., for respondent (Gaccione, Pomono & Malanga, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 30, 2005 Decided: June 30, 2005

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

On November 4, 2004, petitioner, L.H., filed a petition before the Commissioner of Education to compel the respondent, Board of Education of the Township of Belleville (Board), to provide her child, D.E., with a free public education in the Township schools pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b. The two periods in dispute were during the 2003-2004 and 2004-2005 school years.

On December 11, 2004, the school district (District) filed its answer to the petition and its counterclaim for tuition and, on January 21, 2005, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The hearing was scheduled for June 21, 2005.

During the afternoon of June 20, 2005, petitioner, L.H., called the Office of Administrative Law and spoke to the secretary to the undersigned. She sought an adjournment of the scheduled hearing solely on the grounds that she had laryngitis. She was told that no adjournment would be granted for that reason unless she obtained the consent of her adversary. She did not contact the office of the undersigned again and, consequently, the hearing was not adjourned.

On June 21, 2005, the morning of the scheduled hearing, L.H. did not appear. Counsel for the respondent did appear and verified that L.H. never contacted his office to request his consent to an adjournment. The circumstances surrounding her non-appearance were placed on the record.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(a), if a party receiving appropriate notice of the hearing fails to appear at any scheduled proceeding, the Administrative Law Judge shall hold the matter for twenty-four hours before taking any action. If no acceptable explanation is received in that time, the judge may direct that the matter be returned to the transmitting agency for appropriate disposition. After the passage of more than twenty-four hours, L.H. was determined to have abandoned her appeal.

However, the District did appear and asserted its counterclaim for tuition against L.H. It was directed to submit a certification setting forth in detail the exact amount of its counterclaim and the manner in which it was calculated. The record closed in this matter on June 30, 2005, upon receipt of the District's certification and attachments.

According to the Certification of Joseph Kraemer (R-1), Director of Curriculum and former interim Superintendent of the District, petitioner's children, D.E. and S.H., attended the Belleville schools during the 2003-2004 school year. D.E. attended the Belleville Middle School.

On November 17, 2003, the District served petitioner with a Notice of Defect in Application/Potential Ineligibility requiring her to submit additional documentation regarding the domicile/residency of herself and her child, D.E. L.H. never responded to the Notice. On November 17, 2003, the District served L.H. with a Notice of Initial Determination of Ineligibility advising her to remove her child from the Belleville school system and informing her of her right to appear before the Belleville Board of Education (Board) to appeal the Determination. She failed to appear.

L.H. withdrew D.E. from the District and apparently contacted the New Jersey Department of Education (DOE) to protest the Determination. In February 2004, the DOE directed the District to reenroll D.E. pending the outcome of a potential appeal. Although the Disrict waited, L.H. never filed an appeal and D.E. remained in the Belleville school system for the remainder of the 2003-2004 school year.

L.H. reenrolled D.E. in the District for the 2004-2005 school year. Upon receiving information that L.H. and D.E. were actually living with her mother in Newark, the District again determined D.E. to be ineligible and L.H. filed the appeal that is the subject of this Initial Decision. As a result, D.E. remained enrolled in the District for the entire school year.

If a parent or guardian fails to carry the burden of proof of domicile, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) provides that the district can remove the child from school and assess tuition for the student prorated to the period of ineligible attendance in district schools

Based upon the circumstances surrounding this matter, I CONCLUDE that L.H. failed to carry her burden of proof that D.E. was entitled to a free public education in the Township of Belleville during the relevant time periods. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that L.H. is liable to the District for D.E.'s tuition prorated to the period of D.E.'s ineligible attendance and the District may immediately remove D.E. from the District schools pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-b(2).

In this case, the District seeks tuition for D.E.'s attendance in the Belleville School District from March 1, 2003 through the end of the 2003-2004 school year, a total of seventy-nine (76) days. The per diem tuition rate for the 2003-2004 school year was $37.60. The District seeks tuition of $2,857.60 for this period of ineligible attendance. The District seeks further tuition of $8,372.00 for D.E.'s ineligible attendance in the District for the entire 2004-2005 school year. (R-1)

I FIND that these amounts are consistent with the Board-approved school calendars for the two school years in question and they are further consistent with its estimated tuition rates for these years. (R-1, Exhibit F) Therefore, I CONCLUDE that L.H. owes the District the total tuition of $11,229.60 for the ineligible attendance of D.E. in the District during the 2003-2004 and 2004-2005 school years.

ORDER

It is, therefore, ORDERED that L.H. pay respondent tuition in the total amount of $11,229.60 for unauthorized attendance in the District schools for the periods stated above. It is further ORDERED that, without proof of current domicile/residency, D.E. may be excluded from further attending the Belleville public schools, at the discretion of the District, unless tuition is paid for his continued attendance.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

The Board filed a Motion for an Order to Show Cause, seeking suspension of respondent's instructional certificate for unprofessional conduct stemming from his failure to provide adequate notice of resignation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 and N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.9.

The Commissioner issued an Order directing respondent to show cause why further order should not be entered suspending his certificate for unprofessional conduct. The respondent filed an answer to the show cause, explaining that personal reasons necessitated his relocation to California during the school year, and that he did not feel that any hardship had resulted from his resignation because a replacement was found "immediately after" respondent's departure. Respondent, however, failed to provide information necessary to transmit the matter to the OAL for adjudication and the Board's allegations against respondent were thus deemed to be admitted.

Therefore, the Commissioner orders that respondent's instructional certificate be suspended for a period of one year commencing as of the date of this decision, and forwards the matter to the State Board of Examiners for the purpose of effectuating this order and taking such further action, if any, as it may deem appropriate.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

For the Petitioning Board, Anthony P. Sciarrillo, Esq. (Lindabury, McCormick & Estabrook)

This matter having been opened by way of Motion for an Order to Show Cause before the Commissioner of Education by the Board of Education of the Township of Pequannock, seeking suspension of the instructional certificate of Paul Ullrich for resigning from employment on inadequate notice; and

The Commissioner having issued, on March 30, 2005, an Order directing Mr. Ullrich to show cause why further order should not be entered suspending his teaching certificate for unprofessional conduct pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 and N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.9; and

The Order and accompanying petition/Affidavit of Dr. Jacqueline Cusack, Superintendent of Schools of the Pequannock Township Board of Education, having been sent by the Board via certified and regular mail to Paul Ullrich; and

The Commissioner having directed respondent, by notice dated April 7, 2005, to submit an answer within 20 days of receipt of the Order; and

There being no Answer filed in that time, the Commissioner provided respondent, by notice dated May 2, 2005, sent via certified and regular mail,[1] an additional 10 days to file an Answer,

[1] The green card indicating receipt of the certified letter by "P. Ullrich" was received by the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on May 16, 2005.

pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(e), or else allegations raised by the Board would be deemed true and this matter would be resolved in summary fashion by the Commissioner of Education; and

By letter dated May 11, 2005, filed with the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on May 18, 2005, respondent provided the following response to the Show Cause Order:

> For personal reasons, it was necessary for me to relocate to California during the school year. I do not feel this created a particular hardship for the Pequannock Township BOE, as they were able to find a replacement immediately after my departure. Therefore I am troubled as to their motivations for taking this action. I spent a great deal of time and effort in getting certified just to have it stripped away like this. In addition, given the state of the education system, there should be more effort in trying to retain teachers instead of losing them.
> Although I am not planning to return to New Jersey in the near future, I may decide to become certified here, and would rather not have to explain having a suspended license. I hope you will take these matters into account when making your final decision. If you need any other details, I will be happy to provide them.

The Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, by letter dated May 23, 2005, mailed by certified mail, return receipt requested, and regular mail, advised respondent that the next step in the processing of this matter was transmission to the Office of Administrative Law for adjudication and respondent was directed to submit his current telephone number, a necessary requisite for transmission, within 10 days of his receipt of the letter.[2] Respondent was further advised that failure to submit this essential information would be deemed a determination that respondent did not wish to proceed in his defense of the board's charge against him; and

As of this date, respondent has not provided the information which would allow this matter to proceed and, therefore, the board's allegations against respondent are deemed to be admitted; and

Respondent having ceased to perform his duties as a high school mathematics teacher in the Pequannock Township School District before the expiration of the term of his employment, without the Board's consent, and under the circumstances set forth in the petition/Affidavit of [2] Although the green card has not yet been returned, neither has the regular mail envelope and it is, therefore, presumed delivered.

Dr. Jacqueline Cusack, Superintendent of Schools of the Pequannock Township Board of Education and, thereby Paul Ullrich being deemed to have engaged in unprofessional conduct, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 and N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.9; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED on this _____ day of July 2005, that Paul Ullrich's instructional certificate shall be suspended for a period of one year, to commence upon the date of this decision. A copy of this decision is hereby forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for the purpose of effectuating this order and taking such further action, if any, as it deems appropriate.[3]

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MONTGOMERY, SOMERSET COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner contended that the respondent Board improperly reduced her salary in violation of her tenure rights when they adjusted her regular semi-monthly paycheck to compensate only for the days she actually worked during the pay period in which she returned to work after an approved maternity disability leave; this pay period coincided in part with the district's spring break.

The ALJ found that the Board's recalculation of petitioner's semi-monthly salary on a per diem basis constituted an improper reduction in compensation in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, and ordered the Board to compensate petitioner in the amount of $1,310.40, and to pay such pension credits as it would otherwise have been required to make.

The Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter, concurring with the petitioner and the ALJ that the applicable statute and the case law interpreting it require that teacher salaries, including those of tenured teachers and teachers who work less than a full year, be calculated on the basis of monthly or semi-monthly pay periods. The Commissioner orders the Board to remit to the petitioner the sum of $1,310.40, which represents the difference between the salary payment she was owed and what she actually received, together with appropriate additional pension contributions.

PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MONTGOMERY, SOMERSET COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the Board of Education's (Board) exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. Petitioner did not file reply exceptions.

In its exceptions, the Board urges that additional findings of fact be made, based upon the testimony of Associate School Business Administrator Rossi as contained in the transcript of hearing, with respect to the district's long-established manner of making payroll adjustments for days off and leaves without pay. (Board's Exceptions at 2-4) The ALJ's failure to make such findings, according to the Board, is indicative of his misunderstanding of the issues involved in this matter:

> The ALJ never specifically discussed or challenged the [Board's] overall methodology. His conclusory analysis in the last full paragraph on page 11 of the Initial Decision is myopic in that it focuses solely on a single pay period (April 15 to 30), compares [petitioner] to employees who took no leave, and asks the Commissioner to put blinders on with respect to the rest of her work year and salary payments. This analysis ignores the inescapable reality that the semi-monthly check that other employees received for this period is not really a payment for the four days of work in that pay period. It is really an installment payment for the entire year's salary, and is based on an assumption that the employee will work the > entire year. As [Associate School Business Administrator] Rossi testified, teachers do not receive any paid vacation. They are simply paid a salary for the total number of workdays in the year. Thus, no one is really paid for spring break days per se; rather, they are paid for the entire school year, and some of the regular payments happen to fall in periods when there are few school days. (Id. At 9-10, emphasis in text)

The Board again urges that, because statute does not specify how the salary of a teacher who does not work for the entire school year is to be adjusted, the appropriate standard of review in judging the present claim is whether the Board's methodology of payroll adjustment 1) is impermissible because it violates a statute or regulation or 2) constitutes an abuse of the Board's discretionary authority because it is arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The Board reiterates that if neither of these conditions applies, petitioner cannot be found—as she was by the ALJ—to have suffered a reduction in salary in violation of her tenure rights. (Id. at 5-6, 13)

The Board counters that, even granting, arguendo, that the statute cited by the ALJ and petitioner, N.J.S.A. 18A:27-6, applies to tenured teachers—who, since the advent of collective bargaining, are generally not issued individual contracts of employment—the Board pays its annual salaries in semimonthly installments on the dates specified, and nothing in the statute speaks to what is to be done when an employee works less than the full year necessary for straightforward application of a scheme based on equal installments; thus, no violation has occurred. (Id. at 6-8) With respect to arbitrariness, the Board points to the explanation of its Associate School Business Administrator for the rationale of each and every aspect of its method of calculating salary adjustments for payroll purposes and urges that—in the absence of a statewide mandate and given that no system is likely to yield consistently perfect results because the teacher work year is invariably less than the 200-day figure assumed by related statute and used by school districts statewide[1]—the Board's methodology must be afforded a presumption of correctness, with modification, if any, left to the collective bargaining process. (Id. at 8-13)[2]

Reviewing the case law cited by the ALJ—as well as the other cases cited in the parties' post-hearing submissions at the OAL—the Board reiterates its argument that those cases are factually or legally distinguishable, do not address important arguments raised by the Board, or are not supportive of petitioner's position, and thus are neither determinative of the within matter nor clear in their establishment of a framework within which to analyze petitioner's claim.[3] (Id. At 13-19)

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter.

In so doing, the Commissioner concurs with petitioner and the ALJ that N.J.S.A. 18A:27-6(3) and the case law interpreting it—regardless of differences in argument and circumstances—fundamentally require that teacher salaries, including those of tenured teachers and teachers who work less than a full year, be calculated on the basis of monthly or semi-monthly pay periods. While this certainly does not preclude receipt of an adjusted paycheck for any pay period during which a teacher does not have sufficient leave days to cover an absence occurring on a day when school is in session—

[1] The Board observes, for instance, that the ALJ's solution, according petitioner a total salary of $33,742.80 ($32,432.40 already paid + $1310.40 recommended relief) would result in petitioner being paid at a higher daily rate than employees who worked the entire year. (Board's Exceptions at 10)

[2] Clarifying its position with respect to jurisdiction, the Board notes that its contention is not—as stated in the Initial Decision at 8—that the Commissioner has no jurisdiction over this matter, but rather that his jurisdiction is limited to deciding whether the Board's payroll adjustment methodology is a violation of school law or an abuse of discretion, and does not extend to issues relating to terms and conditions of employment. (Board's Exceptions at 13, footnote 5)

[3] The Board also notes its abandonment of the argument that petitioner is estopped from claiming salary for days not worked because she had previously waived this right. The Board now finds it sufficient to note the lack of prior agreement between the parties as to the methodology of salary calculation to be used upon petitioner's return to work following leave. (Board's Exceptions at 2)

indeed, N.J.S.A. 18A:30-6 expressly contemplates such adjustment—it does preclude a board from adjusting the contracted salary installment for a teacher not on leave status who has worked each day during the period that teaching staff members were required to report to work. To the extent that, in the current situation, this preclusion produces a result deemed inequitable by the Board, such result could have been avoided—as noted by the ALJ—by the Board's exercising its undisputed authority to change the requested end date of petitioner's leave so as to prohibit her return to full status on the first day of a pay period encompassing a substantial number of days when school was not in session.[4]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein. The Montgomery Township Board of Education is directed to compensate petitioner for the $1,310.40 difference between the salary payment she was owed for the second pay period of April 2003 and what she actually received, together with such additional pension contributions as are necessitated by this action.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[5]

[4] This holding makes it unnecessary to find additional facts with respect to the Board's method of payroll calculation and the qualifications of its Associate School Business Administrator, as requested by the Board. The Commissioner notes, however, that nothing in the record suggests that petitioner disputes the Board witness's recitation of the manner in which the Board calculates its payroll.

Record Closed: March 7, 2005 Decided: June 20, 2005

BEFORE ISRAEL D. DUBIN, ALJ

On July 3, 2003, petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education alleging that respondent Board of Education of Montgomery Township recalculated her semi-monthly salary on a per diem basis for the period from April 16, 2003 through and including April 30, 2003, thereby causing her to suffer a reduction in compensation in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. The Board filed its Answer to the Petition of Appeal on August 5, 2003 and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing as a contested case on September 3, 2003. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b) and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-15(o).

Following several adjournments, a prehearing conference was conducted by telephone on November 3, 2003, at which time the parties agreed that there were few contested facts. Therefore, with the addition of some limited testimony, the matter would be able to proceed on the parties' Stipulation of Facts and respective briefs. As a result of scheduling difficulties and adjournments, the hearing could not be held until January 25, 2005. The record closed upon receipt of the final reply briefs, which were contemporaneously filed on March 3, 2005.

The following Stipulation of Facts, copied verbatim from Exhibit J-9, has been accepted as comprising the record in this matter:

1. Petitioner Diane M. Tucker resides ... [in] Hillsborough, New Jersey, 08844.[1]
2. Respondent Board of Education of Montgomery Township, Somerset County, is a public school district with administrative offices located at 1014 Route 601, Skillman, New Jersey 08558.
3. Petitioner holds an Instructional Certificate issued by the State Board of Examiners with an endorsement as an elementary teacher.
4. Petitioner commenced employment with the respondent Board of Education of Montgomery Township on or about September 1, 1995 in the full-time position of teacher.
5. At all times pertinent, Petitioner held said certificate and held the proper endorsements for each of her assignments. As a consequence thereof, Petitioner acquired tenure with the respondent Board of Education of Montgomery Township.
6. Petitioner executed an employment contract with the respondent which provided for her to receive an annual salary of $43,680.00 for the 2002-03 school year, while employed on a ten (10) month basis (Exhibit J-1).

[1] Petitioner's street address has been deleted.

7. Petitioner's annual salary for the 2002-03 school year was payable in equal semi-monthly installments on the 15th and last work day of each month; more specifically, it was to be paid in twenty (20) equal semi-monthly installments of $2,184.00 (gross pay).

8. By letter to the Superintendent dated August 28, 2002 (Exhibit J-2). Petitioner advised the School District that she was expecting a child and that the expected due date was December 27, 2002. She requested a leave of absence for maternity purposes commencing January 2, 2002 [sic] and a return to work on April 16, 2003. She further requested paid leave from January 2nd through the end of February (based upon her calculation that she had 33 accumulated sick days, 3 personal days and 3 other comp leave days available) and an unpaid family leave (with benefits) for the remainder of her period of absence.

9. By letter dated September 12, 2002 (Exhibit J-3), Richard Hartz, respondent's Director of Human Resources, responded to Petitioner's request, setting forth an anticipated leave schedule in which Petitioner would commence her leave on January 2, 2003, use nineteen (19) days of accumulated paid leave time through January 29, 2003 and then take unpaid family leave (with benefits) from January 30, 2003 through April 15, 2003. In this letter Mr. Hartz also requested that Petitioner notify him of any disagreement with this schedule in advance of the Board meeting scheduled for September 24, 2002.

10. On September 19, 2002, Mr. Hartz met with Petitioner in the presence of Sandra Friedman, the Montgomery Township Education Association's grievance chair. The substance of this meeting is disputed and will be presented through testimony.

11. By letter dated September 19, 2002 (Exhibit J-4), and following the meeting with Hartz, Petitioner submitted a revised request for a leave to commence on December 9, 2002, in which she would use thirty-six (36) days of accumulated paid leave through February 7, 2003 and then take unpaid leave (with benefits) from February 10, 2003 through April 15, 2003. The handwritten notations on Exhibit J-4 are those of Mr. Hartz.

12. Further discussions took place regarding a dispute which remained as to the number of days of paid leave to which Petitioner was entitled, and this dispute was ultimately resolved with a determination that she was entitled to 35.5 days of paid leave. Mr. Hartz confirmed this in a letter to Petitioner dated October 15, 2002 (Exhibit J-5).

13. At its meeting on October 22, 2002, the Board passed a resolution (Exhibit J-6) approving respondent's revised leave request in accordance with the following schedule, and petitioner was notified of such approval by letter dated October 23, 2002 (Exhibit J-7):

Paid Leave (Pre-temporary disability period) (10 days)	12/9/02-12/27/02
Paid Leave (Post temporary disability period) (20 days)	12/28/02-1/30-03
Paid Leave (personal and compensatory) (5.5 days)	1/31/03-2/7/03 (1/2 day on 2/7/03)
Unpaid Family Leave	2/7/03-4/15/03

14. Pursuant to Article VIII(A) of the collective bargaining agreement between respondent and the Montgomery Township Education Association for the period from July 1, 2000 to June 30, 2003, the teachers' work year was to be no more than one hundred eighty-six (186) days, including school days and staff development days. During the 2002-03 school year, the teachers' work year was one hundred eighty-six (186) days. [(]A copy of the proposed school calendar for the 2002-03 school year is attached as Exhibit J-8).

15. The only change to the calendar which occurred during the course of the 2002-03 school year was that school was cancelled on February 18, 2003 due to snow. None of the excess days scheduled for snow makeup were needed, and school ended on June 24, 2003. The month-by-month breakdown of teacher work days was as follows:

September	19
October	23
November	17
December	15
January	21
February	17
March	21
April	15

May	21

16. Respondent paid Petitioner the following (gross) salary payments during the 2002-03 school year:

Working Days by Month		Days Worked or Credited With Pay by District	Amount Paid
September	19	19	$4,368.00
October	23	23	$4368.00
November	17	17	$4368.00
December	15	15	$4368.00
January	21	21	$4368.00
February	17	4.5	$ 982.80
March	21	0	$ 0.00
April	15	4	$ 873.60
May	21	21	$4368.00
June	17	17	$4368.00
Total	186	141.5	$32,432.40

17. Petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education on July 7, 2003.

18. Respondent filed an Answer to the Petition of Appeal on August 6, 2003.

19. The matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case on September 9, 2003.

Testifying in her own behalf, petitioner stated that after several discussions with Richard Hartz, she'd requested and been granted a maternity leave beginning on December 9, 2002 and ending on April 16, 2003. At that time, it was her understanding that she would first exhaust her accumulated sick, personal and compensatory leave days before being placed on unpaid leave.[2] In this way, she would continue to receive a semi-monthly paycheck for at least part of her leave.

Petitioner also stated that prior to submitting her leave request she had calculated the financial impact it would have by using the same formula she and the Board had utilized in calculating her first maternity leave. Using that formula, she calculated a paid leave of twenty work days, or four school calendar weeks, for January 2 – January 30, 2003, the first month school was back in session following the winter break.[3] Yet, she was "shocked" when she returned to work only to find that she had been paid for 16 days.[4] She attributed this discrepancy not only to a failure on the part of the Board to credit her with at least three days of compensatory time from an earlier grievance, but also to the difference between school work weeks and calendar weeks. Still, it had been her belief that the discrepancy had been satisfactorily resolved during her September 19, 2002 meeting with Mr. Hartz.

Petitioner concluded her testimony by providing two separate and distinct reasons for her decision to go back to work on April 16, 2003, the day before spring recess. First, "financially, it made sense." More specifically, had she not returned until the schools reopened on April 28, she would have sacrificed the regular semi-monthly salary payment encompassing that period of time. And second, she believed that returning to work one day before the break would make the transition from a substitute teacher back to her that much easier for the children.

Testifying on behalf of the Board, Richard Hartz allowed that petitioner's rationale for returning to work the day before spring break for the children's sake made sense. However, before agreeing to the April 16 return date, he advised her that his acceptance was conditioned upon her understanding that she would not be paid for any of the days school was not in session during the spring recess. To the best of his recollection, petitioner did not object, and Sandra Friedman "endorsed" his position, assisting him in explaining to petitioner that teachers were "not paid for school vacations, only for days worked."

[3] Petitioner utilized ten accumulated sick days to cover the days school was in session between December 9, 2002, the first day of her maternity leave, and December 27, 2002, her anticipated delivery date. She then utilized her twenty remaining sick days for the twenty days school was in session between December 28, 2002 and January 30, 2003. After using her remaining five and one-half days of accumulated personal and compensatory time for the days school was in session from January 31, 2003 through February 7, 2003, she took the balance of her maternity leave as unpaid family leave.

[4] A careful reading of Exhibit J-3 discloses that Mr. Hartz designated the sixteen days from January 2, 2003 through and including January 24, 2003 as "Paid Leave – Temporary Disability Period." However, he also recognized three

For her part, Ms. Friedman testified that most of the meeting with Mr. Hartz had been spent discussing the parties' disagreement over the total number of leave days petitioner had available for her use. Regarding petitioner's proposed return to work on April 16, she stated that she had simply advised petitioner that the Board had the right to change the beginning and end date of an employee's requested leave.

The final witness was Ronald Rossi, the Board's Associate School Business Administrator. According to Mr. Rossi, ten month employees such as petitioner are paid their annual salaries over twenty equal semi-monthly installments on the 15th and last days of each month. And this is so regardless of the actual number of work days in any given pay period. As he explained, if teachers were paid only for the days the schools were in session in any given month, their semi-monthly or monthly checks would vary from month to month. To avoid the "chaos" that would ensue, the Board elected to pay its teachers using equal semi-monthly payments.

However, while these salaries may be annual, they are actually based on a 200 day school year, which Mr. Rossi referred to as "the industry standard" established by N.J.S.A. 18A:30-6. Even though the school year may actually consist of 186 days, if an employee exceeds the annual allotment of sick days, that employee's salary will be reduced by 1/200th for each absence in excess of that number. Conversely, since employees are paid only for days the schools are actually in session, the Board paid petitioner on a per diem basis for the four days she was in school teaching between April 16 and April 30 by multiplying 1/200th of her annual salary by four.

As a tenured teacher, petitioner was protected by a statutory scheme, the purpose of which is to establish a competent and efficient school system by affording teachers and administrators "a measure of security in the ranks they hold after years of service." Viemeister v. Prospect Park Bd. of Ed., 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949). This "measure of security" includes, among other things, protection against being "dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause and then only in the manner prescribed by [N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq.]...." N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 (emphasis added). The issue here is whether the methodology used by the Board in calculating petitioner's April salary payment caused her to suffer a reduction in compensation in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.[5]

Compensation of teachers is addressed in a section of the education laws prescribing certain information that must be included in a teaching contract. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-6,

> Each such contract shall specify:
> 1. The date when the person shall begin such employment;
> 2. The kind and grade of certificate held by him and the date upon which the certificate will expire;
> 3. The salary at which he is employed, which shall be payable in equal semimonthly or monthly installments, as the board shall determine, not later than five days after the first and fifteenth day of each month in case of semimonthly installments and not later than five days after the close of the month in the case of monthly installments while the school is in session, a month being construed, unless otherwise specified in the contract, to be 20 school days or four weeks of five school days each; and
> 4. Such other matters as may be necessary to a full and complete understanding of the contract.

The Montgomery Township Board of Education uses the equal semimonthly payment method and pays its teachers who hold ten-month contracts twenty equal installments on the fifteenth and last days of each month.

Clearly, there is no direct correlation between the regular payroll schedule and the school calendar. As the Board characterized it, "[t]he equal installment payroll schedule is a mere convenience to spread actual payments out on a regular basis over time." Respondent's Post Hearing Brief (February 22, 2005), p. 13. Therefore, these equal installments are paid irrespective of the number of school days in a given month or the number of those days a teacher actually works. Still, as the Board argues, this method of payment is premised upon an assumption that the teacher will be working the entire year.

[5] The Board has also asserted that this is a collective negotiations matter over which the Commissioner has no jurisdiction. However, it did not submit any authorities or advance any arguments in support of this assertion. Thus, this matter is being decided as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq.

Unfortunately, the statutory scheme does not address how the salary of a teacher who is unable to work an entire year is to be adjusted.[6] And the reported cases that do touch upon the subject concern teachers and administrators who resigned their positions prior to the end of a school year. For example, in Parker v. Board of Education of the Town of Hammonton, 1980 S.L.D. 58 (EDU 1908-79), petitioner had been employed as a ten-month employee at an annual salary of $17,140. After certain negotiated adjustments, her contract called for her to receive bi-weekly checks in the amount of $799.09. Then, on December 14, 1978, she submitted her resignation effective January 1, 1979.

The Board adjusted petitioner's final salary in accordance with its policy that the final salary of a teacher who resigned prior to the expiration date of his or her contract was to be "adjusted and prorated on the basis of the total number of required attendance days school is scheduled for the term." Id. at 60. However, the Hon. Daniel McKeown, ALJ, not only took exception to the payment of salaries on a bi-weekly basis, but also determined that the Board's retroactive recalculation of petitioner's salary on a per diem basis had been improper. Specifically, he stated that he could find no grounds "upon which to conclude that it is permissible for a Board to pay its employees who are employed on an academic year basis less than once a month times ten months or more than twice a month for ten months." Id. at 61. He therefore ordered the Board to pay petitioner four full months (September – December), or two-fifths, of her total annual salary.

The Commissioner of Education in turn modified the initial decision, finding that the Board had violated its own policy by reverting to a per diem rate of compensation. However, he expressly adopted the ALJ's calculation of petitioner's final salary, which was based upon the payment schedule set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:27-6(3).

[6] N.J.S.A. 18A:30-6 provides that a Board of Education may continue to pay such an employee "each day's salary less the pay of a substitute, if a substitute is employed or the estimated cost of the employment of a substitute if none is employed, for such length of time as may be determined by the board of education in each individual case." The statute does not, however, address adjustments in salary.

Similarly, in Bruner v. Upper Freehold Regional Board of Education, 1980 SLD 1093 (EDU 697-80), a school psychologist resigned her position shortly after the start of the school year. Her contract called for her to work a five-day work week eleven months per year, not to exceed 206 working days. Although she worked an eleven-month year, she was remunerated as a twelve-month employee and paid in twenty-six equal semi-monthly payments over a twelve-month period. Yet, upon tendering her resignation to be effective October 15, 1979, she was advised that her salary would be retroactively recalculated on a per diem basis.

Ruling in favor of petitioner, the Hon. Eric G. Errickson, ALJ, held:

> It is clear that petitioner worked on an annual contract salary basis, not a per diem basis. Since few school districts require their ten-month teaching staff members to be present for each of two hundred days, it must be concluded that boards generally, and this Board in particular, compensate their ten-month employees for some days on which school is not in session.
>
> An equitable principle as authorized in statute has been to pay employees over the ten-month period "in equal semi-monthly or monthly installments  while the school is in session, a month being construed, unless otherwise specified in the contract, to be twenty school days or four weeks of five school days each;." N.J.S.A. 18A:27-6.

On the record before him, Judge Errickson found that petitioner had worked one month during the summer; the month of September; and one-half of October, for a total of two and one-half months. Consequently, he ordered the Board to pay petitioner the amount arrived at by multiplying her regular monthly salary entitlement by two and one-half months. Without passing judgment on the propriety of petitioner's eleven month status, the Commissioner of Education nevertheless adopted the formula utilized by Judge Errickson and calculated petitioner's salary by dividing her annual salary by eleven and then multiplying the result by 2.5.

Much the same result was obtained in Leeb v. Board of Education of the Township of Holland, 1988 SLD 2003 (EDU 7865-87). There, the teaching staff member was employed as a twelve-month employee whose annual salary was to be paid in twenty-six bi-weekly installments. She submitted a letter of resignation effective October 14, 1987 and, as in the preceding cases, was informed that her salary would be adjusted on a per diem basis. After approving the payment of a teaching staff member's salary on a bi-weekly instead of semi-monthly basis, Administrative Law Judge Joseph Lavery relied on a Board policy authorizing the payment of twelve-month employees on a per diem basis of $1/260^{th}$ of the employee's annual salary and upheld the adjustment of her salary.

The Commission of Education modified the Initial Decision and found that > the per diem calculation devised by the Board in determining what compensation may be due petitioner for the three days she worked during pay period 1, and the two she worked during pay period 9, is inappropriate for a salaried employee pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-6. Rather, the Commissioner adopts the system as illustrated in the case entitled Gladys Bruner v. Board of Education of Upper Freehold Regional, 1980 SLD 1097, 1098, which calculated salary due that petitioner by dividing the bimonthly salary entitlement by the proportion of the pay period for which she worked. In the instant matter petitioner worked three days in pay period 1 and also worked two days in pay period 9 which equals five days or one-half a bi-weekly pay module. [Petitioner's bi-weekly salary of] $1,647.31 divided by two equals $823.66. Additionally, petitioner worked seven biweekly pay periods which totals $11,531.17. Adding $11,531.17 and $823.66 brings the amount of compensation due petitioner for the period she was employed during the school year to $12, 354.83.

Here, following an unpaid maternity leave of approximately two and one-half months, petitioner came back to work on April 16, the first day of the second pay period that month. As it happens, it was also the last day school was in session prior to closing for Good Friday and the ensuing spring recess. She then returned when the schools reopened on April 28 and worked the last three days – April 28, 29 and 30 – of that pay period. Consequently, she worked every single day the schools were open for her to work.

Once she crossed the threshold her first day back at work, she should not have been treated any differently than any other teacher in the building. She worked no more and no less than a teacher in an adjoining classroom and, all things being equal, should have received the same amount of salary. To treat her differently would be to penalize her for taking advantage of the statutory scheme and following the letter of the law.

What is more, this situation was entirely of the Board's own making. As Ms. Friedman testified, the Board had the right to change the beginning and ending dates of an employee's requested leave. And the record discloses that the Board had more than ample opportunity to deny petitioner's requested return date of April 16, but chose not to do so. Even if Mr. Hartz did in fact advise petitioner that she would not be paid for the week of spring recess, which petitioner has denied, he certainly did not reduce this to writing. In fact, his own October 15, 2002 letter (Exhibit J-5) containing the "revised anticipated leave schedule" and including the April 16 return date is silent on the matter. The same is true of the Board's October 22, 2002 resolution approving her leave of absence (Exhibit J-6),[7] and Superintendent Schnur's confirming letter of October 23, 2003.

Based upon the foregoing, I conclude that the Board's recalculation of petitioner's semi-monthly salary on a per diem basis constituted an improper reduction in compensation in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and must be overturned. Since petitioner was entitled to receive her full semi-monthly salary of $2184 but was paid only $873.60, respondent Board of Education of Montgomery Township must compensate her for the difference of $1,310.40 and pay such pension credits as it would otherwise have been required to make. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This is a remand for a revision of a settlement agreement entered into by the parties in the above-captioned matter, under the previous Initial Decision - Settlement rendered under OAL docket number EDU 6709-03. The remand order was received at the Office of Administrative Law (hereinafter "OAL") on May 24, 2005. A telephone conference was conducted with counsel as a result of which the parties submitted a revised copy of the joint exhibit, J-1, which contained the original signature of Martin M. Barger, board attorney. The record closed on June 14, 2005, upon receipt of that revision.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

As indicated hereinabove, the Commissioner of Education remanded the above matter in order to obtain a revision of the settlement agreement to include either the board attorney's signature or the Board resolution approving the settlement and designating Maureen Flaherty to sign on its behalf. Mr. Martin Barger supplied his signature pursuant thereto. It is noted that Ms. Flaherty had previously affixed her title to that document, although the Board resolution approving the settlement and designating her to sign on its behalf was not so supplied, by way of alternative revision.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The inclusion of Mr. Barger's signature, as the attorney for the school board, appears to satisfy the concerns raised by the Commissioner of Education in the Remand dated May 18, 2005.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

Based upon all of the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED inasmuch as this matter is no longer a contested case before the Office of Administrative Law.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." WOODCLIFF LAKE EDUCATION ASSOCIATION Petitioner, vs. WOODCLIFF LAKE BOARD OF EDUCATION Respondent.	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION/OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW O.A.L. DKT. NO.: EDU 09023-2004 AGENCY REF. NO.: 234-7/04 SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

WHEREAS, the Woodcliff Lake Board of Education (hereinafter referred to as the "Board") recognizes the Woodcliff Lake Education Association (hereinafter referred to as the "Association") as the sole bargaining representative for the Board's teaching staff members; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3, the Board is required to adopt policies and procedures requiring the annual evaluation of all tenured teaching staff members by appropriately certified personnel; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3(f)(3), a certified supervisor, who has participated in the evaluation of a teaching staff member, must prepare an annual written performance report that includes an individual professional improvement plan ("PIP") developed by the supervisor and the teaching staff member; and

WHEREAS, on or about, June 30, 2004, the Association filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education alleging that the format of the PIPs to be at the District's Dorchester School for tenured teaching staff members during the 2004-2005 school year violated N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3; and

WHEREAS, in its petition, the Association sought an Order: (i) Declaring that the format for the PIPs constitutes a violation of N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3; (ii) Directing the Board to cease and desist from requiring teaching staff members to prepare PIPs in said format; (iii) Directing that the Board require that the process for development of PIPs be redone in a format and manner consistent with N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3; and (iv) Requiring the Board to expunge the PIPs from the personnel files of each affected teaching staff member; or, alternatively, directing that PIPs may not be used for any evaluative purposes or any other purposes that may impact on said teaching staff members terms and conditions of employment; and

WHEREAS, in response thereto, the Board filed an answer and separate defenses denying that the PIPs were in violation of N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3, and sought an Order: (i) Dismissing, with prejudice, the Petition of Appeal; (ii) Declaring that the Board has complied with all applicable school laws; and (iii) Declaring that the Board's action in regard to the PIP format and preparation thereof was not in violation of N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3; and

WHEREAS, the matter bearing Docket Number EDU 09023-2004N was assigned to the Honorable Kenneth R. Springer, A.L.J., and was scheduled for a plenary hearing on or about May 2, 2005; and

WHEREAS, the parties are desirous of resolving this matter without litigation, and have to come to a mutually agreeable resolution of this dispute.

NOW THEREFORE, based upon the foregoing premises and mutual promises and covenants contained herein, the parties hereby agree as follows:

1. The Board and the Association will engage in a collaborative effort to devise a mutually agreeable PIP form in full compliance with N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3, which shall be used for the 2005-2006 school year and for school years thereafter.

2. Following the development of the aforementioned mutually agreeable PIP form, the parties agree that the appropriate District administrator(s) will meet with each teaching staff member individually to devise individual PIP goals in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3(f)(3). Each meeting with the individual teaching staff members will afford a meaningful opportunity to develop an individual PIP based upon a staff member's respective individual areas of performance, strengths and/or needs for improvement.

3. The PIP form that is mutually developed shall also include a delineation of the responsibilities of the District for implementing the PIP.

4. With respect to the PIP forms that were developed and used for the 2004-2005 school year, neither party admits any wrongdoing whatsoever, including, but not limited to, any allegations that the Board's administrators did not hold individual staff meetings pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3(f)(3). Both parties reserve all rights under the law to challenge and/or defend the use of the aforementioned PIPs in the event that an actual dispute arises involving adverse employment action taken by the Board against a teaching staff member. The Board specifically agrees to waive the defense of timeliness if the Association files an action as described above.

5. The Association agrees to withdraw its petition of appeal bearing Docket Number EDU 09023-2004N, with prejudice. Notwithstanding the withdrawal aforesaid, the Association does not release and reserves unto itself and its members, all rights of challenge as set forth in Paragraph 4, above. Furthermore, the Association does not release, and reserves unto itself and its members, the right to assert any and all future claims that may arise out of the implementation of the terms of this Agreement or, the requirements imposed by N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3 and its subparts.

6. The parties hereto affirm that each has been represented by legal counsel or a representative of their own voluntary act and deed, and that they fully understand the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

7. This Agreement is the compromise of disputed claims, and shall never be treated as or introduced into evidence in any proceeding whatsoever as an admission of liability by either party for any purpose, except as otherwise set forth in the reservation of rights contained in Paragraph 4.

WOODCLIFF LAKE EDUCATION ASSOCIATION Petitioner, vs. WOODCLIFF LAKE BOARD OF EDUCATION Respondent.	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION/OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW O.A.L. DKT. NO.: EDU 09023-2004 AGENCY REF. NO.: 234-7/04 SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

WHEREAS, the Woodcliff Lake Board of Education (hereinafter referred to as the "Board") recognizes the Woodcliff Lake Education Association (hereinafter referred to as the "Association") as the sole bargaining representative for the Board's teaching staff members; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3, the Board is required to adopt policies and procedures requiring the annual evaluation of all tenured teaching staff members by appropriately certified personnel; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3(f)(3), a certified supervisor, who has participated in the evaluation of a teaching staff member, must prepare an annual written performance report that includes an individual professional improvement plan ("PIP") developed by the supervisor and the teaching staff member; and

WHEREAS, on or about, June 30, 2004, the Association filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education alleging that the format of the PIPs to be at the District's Dorchester School for tenured teaching staff members during the 2004-2005 school year violated N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3; and

WHEREAS, in its petition, the Association sought an Order: (i) Declaring that the format for the PIPs constitutes a violation of N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3; (ii) Directing the Board to cease and desist from requiring teaching staff members to prepare PIPs in said format; (iii) Directing that the Board require that the process for development of PIPs be redone in a format and manner consistent with N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3; and (iv) Requiring the Board to expunge the PIPs from the personnel files of each affected teaching staff member; or, alternatively, directing that PIPs may not be used for any evaluative purposes or any other purposes that may impact on said teaching staff members terms and conditions of employment; and

WHEREAS, in response thereto, the Board filed an answer and separate defenses denying that the PIPs were in violation of N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3, and sought an Order: (i) Dismissing, with prejudice, the Petition of Appeal; (ii) Declaring that the Board has complied with all applicable school laws; and (iii) Declaring that the Board's action in regard to the PIP format and preparation thereof was not in violation of N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3; and

WHEREAS, the matter bearing Docket Number EDU 09023-2004N was assigned to the Honorable Kenneth R. Springer, A.L.J., and was scheduled for a plenary hearing on or about May 2, 2005; and

WHEREAS, the parties are desirous of resolving this matter without litigation, and have to come to a mutually agreeable resolution of this dispute.

NOW THEREFORE, based upon the foregoing premises and mutual promises and covenants contained herein, the parties hereby agree as follows:

1. The Board and the Association will engage in a collaborative effort to devise a mutually agreeable PIP form in full compliance with N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3, which shall be used for the 2005-2006 school year and for school years thereafter.

2. Following the development of the aforementioned mutually agreeable PIP form, the parties agree that the appropriate District administrator(s) will meet with each teaching staff member individually to devise individual PIP goals in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3(f)(3). Each meeting with the individual teaching staff members will afford a meaningful opportunity to develop an individual PIP based upon a staff member's respective individual areas of performance, strengths and/or needs for improvement.

3. The PIP form that is mutually developed shall also include a delineation of the responsibilities of the District for implementing the PIP.

4. With respect to the PIP forms that were developed and used for the 2004-2005 school year, neither party admits any wrongdoing whatsoever, including, but not limited to, any allegations that the Board's administrators did not hold individual staff meetings pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3(f)(3). Both parties reserve all rights under the law to challenge and/or defend the use of the aforementioned PIPs in the event that an actual dispute arises involving adverse employment action taken by the Board against a teaching staff member. The Board specifically agrees to waive the defense of timeliness if the Association files an action as described above.

5. The Association agrees to withdraw its petition of appeal bearing Docket Number EDU 09023-2004N, with prejudice. Notwithstanding the withdrawal aforesaid, the Association does not release and reserves unto itself and its members, all rights of challenge as set forth in Paragraph 4, above. Furthermore, the Association does not release, and reserves unto itself and its members, the right to assert any and all future claims that may arise out of the implementation of the terms of this Agreement or, the requirements imposed by N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3 and its subparts.

6. The parties hereto affirm that each has been represented by legal counsel or a representative of their own voluntary act and deed, and that they fully understand the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

7. This Agreement is the compromise of disputed claims, and shall never be treated as or introduced into evidence in any proceeding whatsoever as an admission of liability by either party for any purpose, except as otherwise set forth in the reservation of rights contained in Paragraph 4.

Record Closed: July 8, 2005 Decided: July 13, 2005

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

On August 6, 2003, petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal alleging that the action of the Board of Education of the Warren County Technical School District (the Board), which charged him sick leave for work-related injury/illness, violates N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. The Board filed an Answer to Petition of Appeal on September 8, 2003. Subsequently, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on October 10, 2003, it was filed for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The matter was originally assigned to Thomas E. Clancy, Administrative Law Assignment Judge, who entered a letter order on November 13, 2003 placing the matter on the inactive list in view of a pending claim before the Division of Workers' Compensation. By letter dated January 18, 2005, counsel for petitioner advised Judge Clancy that the matter should be removed from the inactive list and restored to active status. The matter was assigned to the undersigned on January 24, 2005 and scheduled for hearing on May 9, 2005. The hearing scheduled for May 9, 2005, and later rescheduled for June 7, 2005, was adjourned at the parties' joint request to provide the parties more time toward an amicable resolution of the matter. Under letter dated July 7, 2005, counsel for the Board forwarded the attached Settlement Agreement, along with the attached excerpt of minutes from the Board's Executive Session on June 15, 2005 memorializing the Board's agreement to the settlement.

Having reviewed the record and the terms of the settlement, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.
2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, I approve the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Resolution E120-05 Personnel and Litigation Matters

Motion by Mr. Warne, seconded by Mrs. Johnson, at 5:23 p.m. the Board moved into executive session by adopting the following resolution:

BE IT RESOLVED, by the Board of Education of the Warren County Technical School as follows:

A. That the public be excluded from the attendance at a portion of its meeting held on April 20, 2005, for the reason that the following subject matter be discussed:

Personnel and Litigation Matters

B. The Board may exclude the public from the meeting pursuant to N.J.S.A. 10:4-12, B3 & B8 of the Open Public Meetings Act.

C. The matters discussed will be revealed to the public when the Board determines that such would not invade any right of privacy.

D. No action is anticipated.

VOICE VOTE: Yeas - Unanimous MOTION CARRIED

The Board Members discussed several legal issues.

The Martha Shade case is still in the discovery stage; we have provided Mr. Ed Glynn, the Board's attorney, with pertinent information we had in our files.

Dr. Mancuso will be deposed the week of June 20th for the Brown and Brown case. Mrs. Sharon Cooper from Brown and Brown will also be deposed that day. Mr. Carl Salisbury, the Board's special attorney, continues to believe the Board has a strong case.

Mrs. Crivello updated the Board on the Robert Allen case. The Board owes Mr. Allen the amount of $1,803.18 in connection with a Workers' Compensation case; the amount due is a result of a miscalculation. Mr. Allen will sign an agreement stating that with this payment, he will have no further recourse against the Board of Education. The Board members agreed to make payment in the amount of $1,803.18 to settle this case. Mrs. Crivello will provide the Board with a copy of the agreement at the July Board meeting.

JOY FERRONTO,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEYMOUTH, ET AL, ATLANTIC COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the validity of the Board's reduction in force, claiming violation of her tenure and contractual rights, when her position as School Clerk was eliminated after the 2001-2002 school year, her prior responsibilities were divided between two newly created part-time positions, and the Board failed to offer her an alternate full-time position.

The ALJ found: that the petitioner's termination was the direct result of the Chief School Administrator's determination that the petitioner was not competent to perform her clerical duties; that Board was required to comply with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 before it could terminate petitioner under the facts contained in the record; and that the Board failed to substantiate its argument that it terminated petitioner in the course of a valid RIF based upon economic considerations. The ALJ ordered that the petitioner be restored to her employment with the Board, and that she receive full back pay to the date of her termination, adjusted for other earnings. The ALJ further ordered the Board to pay petitioner's counsel fees.

Upon a thorough and independent review of the record in this matter the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions in the Initial Decision. Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision, with one exception. As the Commissioner is without authority to award counsel fees, that portion of the ALJ's order that awards same is rejected.

PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEYMOUTH, ATLANTIC COUNTY, LINDA N. GAVULA AND MARGUERITE BETZ,	:
RESPONDENTS.	:

This appeal followed the Weymouth Board of Education's (the Board) elimination of petitioner's position of "School Clerk." Petitioner challenges the validity of the reduction in force (RIF), and alleges that the Board's action violated her tenure and contractual rights. The Commissioner has carefully and independently reviewed the record, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and petitioner's reply exceptions[1], and for the following reasons is constrained to adopt the Initial Decision of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ).

Petitioner worked for the Board as a school aide from the 1988-1989 school year through the 1993-1994 school year. In 1994, she accepted the position of "School Clerk." It is undisputed that in the position of School Clerk, which petitioner held for the next eight years, she achieved tenure. Examination of the School Clerk job description (P-11) indicates that, as the School Clerk, petitioner performed both school aide responsibilities and most of the clerical tasks and office routines listed in the job description for the position of secretary. The record includes copies of several certificates indicating that petitioner took training in computer literacy and DOS before she commenced the position of School Clerk, and in Excel (beginning, intermediate and advanced) during her tenure as School Clerk. (P7)

[1] Respondent's exceptions were not timely received and have not been considered. The OAL has indicated that the initial decision was mailed to the parties on July 6, 2005. Respondent's exceptions were received on July 20, 2005, past the thirteen day period in which exceptions may be filed.

On July 18, 2002, upon the recommendation of a new chief school administrator, respondent Linda Gavula, the Board voted to eliminate petitioner's position of School Clerk and create two part-time positions (P-15), i.e., secretary and school aide. (P-J; P-8) Each of the two positions was to be 25 hours per week. (P-4) The Board also decided not to renew one of the three cafeteria/playground aides that had been working during the 2001-2002 school year. (P-1; Initial Decision at 2)

The schedules formulated for the new part-time secretary and part-time aide overlapped 1) during the students' lunch hour, 2) in the last two periods of the school day, and 3) for about ten minutes at the end of the day for bus duty. (P-6A; P-6B) Ms. Gavula maintained that the aide work and clerical work that petitioner had been performing needed to be done simultaneously, and that consequently the School Clerk position had to be eliminated. (Initial Decision at 4)

Neither the certified minutes of the July 18, 2002 Board meeting (P-15) nor the testimony before the ALJ demonstrated economic exigencies as the reason for the abolishment of the School Clerk position. (Initial Decision at 5-8) (As there are no transcripts in the record, the Commissioner must rely on the ALJ's account of the testimony.) An economic analysis of the action was not undertaken until Marguerite "Maggie" Betz, Business Administrator/Board Secretary, prepared one for the OAL hearing. (R-4; Initial Decision at 5) Because no benefits need be paid to the new part-time secretary and aide, the combined payroll cost for them was less than petitioner's School Clerk job with benefits. Ibid.

Ms. Betz testified, however, that she was unaware of anything that indicated that the Board eliminated petitioner's job and created two part-time positions for economic reasons. (Id. at 6) She further denied that petitioner was terminated to enable the Board to avoid health benefit costs. Ibid. Petitioner's salary for the 2002-2003 school year had been included in the district budget. Ibid.

The ALJ noted that, on redirect examination, "after prodding by respondent's [sic] counsel," Ms. Betz changed her position, stating that economy had been discussed during both the open and closed portions of the July 18, 2002 Board meeting, and that the District needed to use the money saved from petitioner's benefits to create the new positions, which had not been included in the 2002-2003 budget. Ibid. She conceded, however, that there was no mention of same in the meeting minutes. Ibid.

Testimony by Ms. Gavula also shed some doubt on the efficacy of the Board's action. She conceded that subsequent to the 'reorganization,' an additional aide had been hired to work ten hours per week. (Id. at 4)

It appears that Ms. Gavula had not, before recommending the elimination of petitioner's position, attempted to work with petitioner to configure a new schedule which would allow petitioner to keep her job. Ibid. According to the ALJ, Ms. Gavula "could not explain why petitioner could not continue to work buses from 8:00 a.m. to 9:00 a.m., then work as a secretary from 10:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. . . ." Ibid. (The schedule for part-time secretary that was disseminated by respondents was 10:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.) In fact, prior to the Board's action, respondents had never discussed with petitioner their plans to abolish her position. Ibid. Petitioner testified that she had never received notice that the Board intended to take action which could affect her employment, and had never been afforded the opportunity to meet with the Board and explain why she should be retained as School Clerk. (Id. at 7)

The record contains a copy of a notice dated July 22, 2002, advertising the two new part-time positions of aide and secretary, job descriptions with the same date for both positions (P-8; P-9), and copies of letters to petitioner dated July 23, 2002, and July 22, 2002, from Ms. Gavula and Ms. Betz (also respondents) about the 'reorganization.' (P-13; R-3) Ms. Betz's letter informed petitioner that she could choose to continue her medical benefits through COBRA, for $1272.62 per month. Ms. Gavula's letter, which advised petitioner that her position had been abolished, also informed her that she would be receiving COBRA information from Ms. Betz, a clear indication that petitioner was terminated.

The letter also included job descriptions for the two new part-time positions, and encouraged petitioner to apply for the aide position: "I truly hope you will apply for the aide's position. I've been pleased with what I've seen when you work with children and I feel you would be an asset in this capacity." (P-13) Noticeably absent was any suggestion that petitioner apply for the part-time secretary job. Ms. Gavula sent petitioner another short letter on July 29, 2002, advising that the deadline for letters of interest for the two new part-time positions was August 9, 2002. (P-14)

At the hearing Ms. Gavula revealed that she did not believe that petitioner would be a good candidate for the new secretary position. She doubted whether petitioner could multi-task and work independently. (Initial Decision at 4) She did not regard petitioner as astute or proficient in spelling and grammar, and stated that petitioner's work had to be corrected before it could be sent out. Ibid.

Petitioner testified that she had performed and was well able to perform both the clerical and aide functions of her job, but Ms. Gavula had reduced her clerical tasks and increased her playground and cafeteria duties. (Id. at 6) Ms. Gavula's explanation to petitioner for the change was that she needed petitioner elsewhere. Ibid. The only job evaluation Ms. Gavula prepared for petitioner was generally positive, with the instructions that petitioner comply with directives and let Ms. Gavula know when she has completed her work and can assume more. (P-10)

The ALJ found Ms. Gavula's credibility to be less than he would expect from a chief school administrator. He perceived her to be following a scripted story and resistant to questions that deviated from the script. (Initial Decision at 5) Notwithstanding her twenty years as a school administrator, she said she had no knowledge of seniority or bumping rights. (Id. at 4) She did not take into account petitioner's seven years as an aide, could not say whether petitioner should have been moved into one of the new jobs, but rather took the position that once the School Clerk position was eliminated, petitioner had no further right to employment. Ibid.

The ALJ was ultimately not convinced that the facts adduced at the hearing supported respondents' position that Ms. Gavula's recommendation and the Board's action to eliminate petitioner's job were driven by economic necessity. (Id. at 7) Thus, the ALJ concluded that respondents had not satisfied N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, which requires that reductions in tenured staff be necessitated by economy, pupil reduction, or changes in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district, or for other good cause.[2] (Ibid)

Nor was the ALJ persuaded that the facts supported respondents' contention that petitioner's termination was the necessary consequence of the creation of separate and primarily simultaneous positions for part-time secretary and part-time aide. In the ALJ's view, respondents violated petitioner's tenure and seniority rights by declining to assign petitioner the new secretarial position and let her continue the morning bus greeting activities she had performed as School Clerk. (Id. at 9) Together, these duties would have allowed her to work 32.5 hours per week and retain her benefits, and respondents could not explain why this was not done. Ibid.

The ALJ determined that the facts before him supported an impermissible motive for eliminating petitioner's job, i.e., Ms. Gavula's perception that petitioner's performance, at least with regard to clerical duties, was inadequate. (Id. at 8) This determination was based upon Ms. Gavula's testimony about petitioner's capabilities, upon petitioner's statement that Ms. Gavula reduced her clerical responsibilities, and upon Ms. Gavula's July 23, 2002, letter to petitioner in which she invited petitioner to apply for the part-time aide position, but not the secretarial position. Ibid. The ALJ concluded that the dividing of the School Clerk position was a subterfuge to remove petitioner. (Id. at 9)

While the ALJ allowed that Ms. Gavula may have been correct about petitioner's capabilities, he explained that "the law sets forth specific requirements for removing an incompetent or inefficient tenured employee, and none of those requirements was complied with here." Ibid. More specifically, the ALJ cited N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, which sets forth allowable grounds for dismissal of a tenured employee, and requires certain procedural rights, such as written charges and a hearing before the Commissioner of Education or his/her designee. (Id. at 9-10) Further, the ALJ cited N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, which requires, in the case of allegations of inefficiency, that the Board provide written notice to the employee specifying the perceived deficiencies and a period of 90 days or more for the employee to correct same. (Id. at 10)

Thus, while the ALJ made no findings about petitioner's efficiency or competence, he found that respondents did not substantiate their argument that petitioner was terminated for economic reasons; that the termination was rather motivated by Ms. Gavula's dissatisfaction with petitioner's performance; and that respondents did not follow the legal preconditions to terminating a tenured employee. Ibid. He reversed the Board's action terminating petitioner and directed that she be restored to her employment with back pay (less any amount earned during the applicable time period) and counsel fees. (Id. at 11)

Having reviewed the entire record, the Commissioner concludes that respondent has presented no basis to reject the ALJ's determination that the elimination of petitioner's School Clerk position was not based upon permissible grounds, i.e. economy of cost or scheduling. There were no transcripts or evidence provided to the Commissioner that would show that the district discussed financial considerations or sought advice about same prior to the Board action eliminating petitioner's job.

Regarding respondent's argument about scheduling, consideration of the proposed hours for the two new part-time positions alone is not adequate to conclusively resolve the question of whether the district could have kept petitioner on as a full-time or almost full-time employee. The record reveals that there were three part-time aides in addition to School Clerk at the end of the 2001-2002 school year. The district abolished the School Clerk position and let go one part-time aide, at the same time that it added a part-time secretary and part-time aide position. The net result was an extra part-time secretary and a deficit in number of hours devoted to aide work.

This was at a time when, according to respondent's counsel, pupil enrollment was up. (Respondent's brief at 2) Indeed, it appears from the record that the district had to hire another part-time aide to ameliorate the deficit. (Initial Decision at 4) As the ALJ noted, respondent's witnesses were unable to explain why the aide hours could not be arranged so that petitioner could work the hours of the new part-time aide position created in 2002, plus the bus greeting hour every morning, which would constitute a full-time position, albeit at less hours than petitioner worked as School Clerk. Nor could respondents explain why the hours of the part time secretary could not be combined with bus greeting to comprise a full time job.

The foregoing, as well as other facts mentioned by the ALJ suggest a disregard of petitioner's rights and a lack of good faith in reorganizing the non-professional staff. There is no evidence, for instance, that respondent notified petitioner before the Board action eliminating her position. As a tenured employee, she was entitled to reasonable advance notice, so that she could request that the matter be openly debated at the Board meeting before the execution of any action. Rice v. Union County Regional High School Board of Education, 155 N.J. Super. 64, 73 (App. Div. 1977).

Nor is there anything in the record which would justify discounting the ALJ's determination that respondent's main witness, Ms. Gavula, lacked credibility. Generally, the head of an agency must give substantial weight to the ALJ's credibility determinations and to all findings based on these determinations, since it was the ALJ who had an opportunity to hear the testimony of the witnesses and to assess their demeanor. See Clowes v. Terminix International, Inc., 109 N.J. 575, 587 (1988); Renan Realty Corp. v. Department of Community Affairs, 182 N.J. Super. 415, 419 (App. Div. 1981). Where the agency head believes it is necessary to reject or modify a factual finding of the ALJ, he or she must first determine that the findings are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, or are not supported by sufficient, competent evidence in the record. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10 (c). Further, the agency head must state with particularity the substantial, credible, competent evidence in the record on which he or she relies in making new or modified findings. N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6 (d). After thorough review of the record, applying the legal standards set forth above, the Commissioner is constrained to accept the ALJ's credibility determination.

It is undisputed that petitioner had tenure in Weymouth as a clerk, that she had years of experience as an aide, and that, in fact, the business administrator, Ms. Gavula, had praised her performance as an aide. Thus, the ALJ was correct in determining that best efforts should have been expended to retain her. Unless respondent could prove one of the criteria in N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-10 for dismissing tenured employees, e.g., conduct unbecoming, inefficiency, incapacity or other just cause, it did not have the right to violate petitioner's tenure. (And in the case of inefficiency charges, employees are entitled to written notice and 90 days to cure.) (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11)

Under the school laws, the only other way respondents could terminate petitioner was by way of a RIF. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. As mentioned above, the permissible reasons for reductions in teaching staff are set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, and will be used by the Commissioner as guidance. They include economy, reduction in number of pupils, change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district, or other good cause. There is nothing in the record to indicate that there was a district reorganization of the administration or supervisory staff, and the pupil population, according to respondent, increased during the time period at issue. Since, as has been established above, the Commissioner must adopt the ALJ's conclusion that the record did not support the notion that economy drove the elimination of the School Clerk position, respondent has not satisfied the Commissioner that there was a legitimate basis for the alleged RIF.

The ALJ also appears to have concluded, and the Commissioner agrees, that petitioner should have had precedence over any non-tenured secretary who might take the newly created, part-time secretary position. Tenure in the position of secretary is not generally interchangeable with tenure as a clerk. Rita Hibo and Susan Arillo v. Board of Education of the West Essex Regional School District, Essex County, decided by the Commissioner December 29, 1997; Diane Giardina v. Board of Education of the Township of Pequannock, Morris County, Commissioner's decision dated April 1, 2005. However, there is precedent in the case law for disregarding job titles and, rather, determining whether an employee has tenure in a sought after "position" by examining the actual duties and tasks the employee has been performing over the years and deciding whether same meet the requirements of the desired position - notwithstanding official title designations. In other words, substance is to prevail over form. Quinlan v. Board of Education of the Township of North Bergen, 73 N.J. Super. 40, 50 (App. Div. 1962); Viemeister v. Board of Education of the Borough of Prospect Park, Passaic County, 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949); Rita Hibo and Susan Arillo v. Board of Education of the West Essex Regional School District, Essex County, decided by the Commissioner December 29, 1997.

Under the circumstances of this case, petitioner's tenure in the School Clerk position was applicable to the new part-time secretary assignment, as it was described in the posting. The job description for that new position was very similar to the description of the clerical duties in the School Clerk position, and petitioner testified that she had performed all of the listed job functions. (Initial Decision at 6)

Hence, because of her tenure and capabilities, petitioner had tenure rights over the non-tenured individual who was given the newly created secretarial job. Regarding respondent's alleged scheduling needs, petitioner could have been assigned the secretarial job in combination with the bus greeting duties, to keep her at full time. At the very least, respondents could have shown some good faith by allowing petitioner to work as an aide for both the hours designated for the new job, and the bus greeting hours. That would have added up to a full-time position, albeit most probably at a lower salary than her previous job.

If Ms. Gavula's allegations about petitioner's secretarial deficiencies were true, the remedy under the school laws should have been written notice, a 90-day period to cure, and proper tenure proceedings. The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that Ms. Gavula's action, of reducing petitioner's clerical responsibilities in the School Clerk job rather than implementing a performance improvement plan, suggests bad faith. To conclude otherwise would be to "permit a local school board to control the rights of employees who had tenure by restricting the amount of work covered by tenure which it assigned to them." Quinlan, supra, 73 N.J. Super. at 51. And Ms. Gavula's specific invitation to petitioner to apply for the new aide job, but not the secretarial job, also denotes a desire to remove petitioner from her clerical position without following tenure procedures.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed by the ALJ and stated herein, the Commissioner finds that the elimination of petitioner's position was in bad faith, and qualified neither as a legitimate RIF nor a proper observance of the school laws regarding tenure. The ALJ's recommended order for relief is to be implemented forthwith, with one exception. As the Commissioner is without authority to award counsel fees, Balsley v. North Hunterdon Regional School District Board of Education, 117 N.J. 434, 447 (1990), that portion of the ALJ's order that awards same is rejected.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

William S. Cappuccio, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: June 20, 2005 Decided: June 28, 2005

BEFORE BRUCE M. GORMAN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner appealed respondent's action terminating her employment. The petitioner requested a fair hearing and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on December 30, 2002, to be heard as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and 14F-1 to 13. The matter was scheduled for a hearing on April 19, 2005, in the OAL office in Atlantic City, New Jersey. The hearing proceeded on that date. Briefs were to be submitted by June 6, 2005. Respondent's reply brief was submitted on June 22, 2005. The record closed on June 22, 2005.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Petitioner was initially hired by respondent in 1987 as a School Aide working 37.5 hours per week. In 1994 her title was changed to School Clerk.

Her duties in each position were varied, but differed little regardless of which title she held. At the beginning of the school day, petitioner greeted the incoming buses filled with school children. Thereafter, she worked where she was needed. She supervised children on the playground. She also worked in the main office. She answered the phone and took messages. She ran the copy machine, typed, prepared the daily attendance sheet, issued late passes, scheduled the bookmobile, inventoried supplies, and kept track of various matters such as warning notices and fire drills. In an emergency, she acted as a classroom teacher. At the end of the day she oversaw placing the children on the buses. Generally, she seems to have been the school's jack-of-all-trades. A review of the job description for School Clerk (R-5) confirms those duties.

From 1987 until 2000, petitioner was supervised by the Chief School Administrator (CSA), Marshall E. Behr. In 2000, Mr. Behr departed the district, and Linda N. Gavula became CSA. Ms. Gavula testified that she sought to reorganize and upgrade the school operation in Weymouth Township. Following the completion of the 2001-2002 school year, Ms. Gavula determined to reorganize certain positions.

At that juncture, the main office staff consisted of a full time Principal's Secretary and petitioner. Another secretary serviced the Child Study Team. Additionally, the district employed three Cafeteria/Playground Aides (Nicolosi, Vesce, and Wolf). These aides worked from 8:00 a.m. to 9:00 a.m. greeting the buses, then worked from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. supervising students in the cafeteria and on the playground.

Ms. Gavula testified she determined she needed to restructure the employees. Her goal was to have an aide who worked 25 hours and a secretary who worked 25 hours. To that end, on July 18, 2002, respondent passed a motion abolishing the position of School Clerk. The respondent also terminated Aide Nicolosi, notwithstanding the fact that she was senior to the other two aides.

On July 23, 2002 Gavula wrote to petitioner and officially advised her that her job position had been abolished (R-8). She told her that the positions of aide and secretary had been established in place of the School Clerk's position. Ms. Gavula then stated:

"I truly hope you will apply for the aide's position."

Nowhere in the letter was petitioner encouraged to apply for the secretary's position.

Ms. Gavula went on to say she would be advertising for the two new positions and interviewing for them the following week. The letter concluded by stating petitioner would receive COBRA information. The letter does not specifically state that petitioner's employment was terminated, but the language thereof allows no other conclusion.

Ms. Gavula then instituted schedules for the new secretary and aide positions. The secretary worked 25 hours per week as follows (P-6A):

Monday	-	9:30a.m. – 4:00 p.m.
Tuesday through Thursday	-	10:30a.m. – 4:00 p.m.
Friday	-	10:30a.m. – 3:00 p.m.

The aide worked 21 hours per week in accordance with the following daily schedule (P-6B):

Bus and Playground	-	8:00 a.m. – 9:00 a.m.
Lunch Duty	-	11:30 a.m. – 2:00 p.m.
Classroom Aide	-	2:00 p.m. – 2:51 p.m.
Bus Duty	-	2:51 p.m. – 3:00 p.m.

Ms. Gavula asserted that this new schedule was necessary because she needed two people to do the work that petitioner had been performing, and since the work of the secretary and the aide overlapped during certain portions of the day, petitioner could not do both jobs at once. Therefore, concluded Ms. Gavula, the School Clerk's position had to be eliminated, and petitioner had to be terminated.

Ms. Gavula admitted that the schedule has now been augmented. Another aide has been hired for an additional ten hours per week, making the total 60 hours per week for the jobs petitioner and Nicolosi had previously performed.

Ms. Gavula explained her need for the new secretary's position and why petitioner would not be a good candidate for same. Ms. Gavula stated she needed a secretary who could handle things independently. She stated she did not know if petitioner was multi-tasked oriented. She did not believe petitioner was astute. She stated she found it necessary to check items typed by petitioner for spelling and grammar. Frequently, petitioner's work had to be corrected before it could be sent out.

Ms. Gavula admitted she never discussed with petitioner her plans to revise the positions and eliminate the School Clerk. While she stated petitioner could not perform both tasks (secretary and aide) because they required performance at the same time, Ms. Gavula admitted she made no effort to configure a schedule which would allow petitioner to retain a position at Weymouth School. She could not explain why petitioner could not continue to work buses from 8:00 a.m. to 9:00 a.m., then work as a secretary from 10:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., or as an aide from 11:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Ms. Gavula stated she had over twenty years experience as a school administrator. Notwithstanding that experience, Ms. Gavula stated she had no knowledge of seniority or bumping rights. She could not say whether petitioner should have been moved into one of the new jobs. She took the position that with the elimination of the School Clerk's position, petitioner had no further right to employment. She admitted she had not considered the impact of petitioner's seven years as an aide between 1987 and 1994.

I listened carefully to Ms. Gavula's answers and observed her closely during her testimony. I found her to be evasive in her answers. She appeared to have a scripted story prepared, and she resisted questions which forced her to deviate from that script. She was incapable of explaining why petitioner was terminated instead of transferred. She also could not explain why petitioner could not continue performing the duties heretofore assigned to her, either as the new secretary or as the new aide. Her inability to explain her actions is troubling. I found her credibility to be significantly less than I would normally expect of a Chief School Administrator.

Marguerite "Maggie" Betz testified for respondent. Ms. Betz is the Board Secretary/Business Administrator for respondent, and has served in that capacity for nine years.

Ms. Betz testified that on July 18, 2002, respondent passed a resolution abolishing the School Clerk position (see Minutes of Board meeting – R-1). Additionally, the respondent created the new positions of Secretary-Main Office (P-8) and School Aide (P-9).

In preparation for this trial, Ms. Betz prepared an analysis reflecting the economic impact of the respondent's actions of July 18, 2002 (R-4). I note that this analysis was not prepared until long after the Board acted on July 18, 2002. Ms. Betz calculated that between 9/1/02 and 12/31/03, petitioner would have received salary in the amount of $20,856.51 and benefits valued at $24,410.22, for a total of $45, 266.73. Since the two new positions were part time, no benefit package was required for either. Therefore, computed Ms. Betz, the total cost of those two positions for the same time period equaled $18,092.64. Accordingly, stated Ms. Betz, respondent saved $27,174.09 over the time period specified. (Ms. Betz did not explain why she utilized a sixteen month period for her calculation.)

On cross examination, Ms. Betz opined that petitioner had been a good employee. She did not work directly for Ms. Betz, and Ms. Betz was uncertain how much secretarial work petitioner had performed for Mr. Behr.

Ms. Betz admitted that the resolution and the Board minutes (R-1 and R-2) make no mention that the actions were taken for economic reasons. Ms. Betz stated she was aware of nothing to indicate that respondent acted for economic reasons. Her understanding was that petitioner was terminated because she could not perform the two new jobs at the same time. That understanding came to her from Ms. Gavula. Ms. Betz confirmed that petitioner's salary for the 2002-2003 school year was provided for in the budget. She stated no Board member ever stated that the District could not afford petitioner. She denied that petitioner was terminated because of the cost of her health benefits. She stated the cost of petitioner's benefits was never the issue; schedule flexibility was the reason the action was taken.

On redirect, after prodding by respondent's counsel, Ms. Betz changed her position. She stated matters of economy were discussed during both open and closed session on July 18, 2002. She said the district needed the money from petitioner's benefits to create the new position because the new position had not been budgeted for.

Ms. Betz admitted that nothing contained in the open or closed Board minutes (R-1 and R-2) reflects any discussion showing that the abolishment of the School Clerk's position and the creation of the two part time positions was caused by economic factors.

Petitioner testified on her own behalf. She delineated her work history as described above. She reviewed the job functions contained in the job descriptions for Secretary-Main Office and School Aide (P-8 and P-9), and stated she had previously performed and was well able to perform all of the functions contained therein.

Petitioner testified that after Ms. Gavula was hired, her daily tasks changed. Her clerical and bus duties were reduced, while her playground and cafeteria duties increased. When she asked Ms. Gavula why her duties had changed, Ms. Gavula responded that she needed petitioner elsewhere.

Petitioner introduced her 2001-2002 evaluation (P-10). This document was prepared by Ms. Gavula, and reflects a positive evaluation. Certain areas were designated for improvement, specifically, petitioner needed to follow directives, and petitioner was to advise Ms. Gavula when her work was completed and she could take on additional tasks.

Petitioner testified she never received notice that the Board intended to take action which could affect her employment (the so-called "Rice letter"). She was never afforded an opportunity to meet with the Board and explain why she should be retained in her employment. At no time did Ms. Gavula ever meet with her or with her and the aides to determine whether the schedule could be reconfigured to meet Ms. Gavula's stated needs and still maintain the existing employees.

Petitioner stated she was never told she held tenure in the district. She only learned she had tenure after commencement of this action.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

Respondent has attempted to cloak its action herein in the guise of economics. Specifically, respondent argues its action was taken for economic purposes. It needed two positions and lacked funding for two. By eliminating one full time position of 37.5 hours, it was able to create two part time positions for a combined 50 hours and still save money.

If the facts adduced at trial supported this argument as the motive for respondent's actions, respondent would prevail. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 expressly permits the Board to reduce the number of teaching staff members. Although petitioner is not a teaching staff member, the same body of law would apply to her position. Were I satisfied that this case concerned economics, I would not hesitate to hold for respondent.

Unfortunately, the facts placed before me in no way indicate that economics was the motivating factor behind petitioner's termination.

First, both Ms. Gavula and Ms. Betz testified the primary purpose of the action was to reconfigure the schedule of the employees. On direct examination, Ms. Betz was specific that economics played no part in respondent's decisions. While her counsel attempted to rehabilitate her on re-direct, the Board minutes (R-1 and R-2) are devoid of any mention of economics as the reason for respondent's actions. The absence of any mention of economics in the Closed Session Minutes (R-2) is particularly significant, since closed session is customarily where such matters are discussed in detail. Further, Ms. Betz's financial analysis (R-4) was prepared many months after petitioner's position was abolished on July 18, 2002, and was, in fact, expressly prepared not for Board consideration, but for this trial.

The minutes and the testimony reflect that respondent acted on the advice of its CSA, Ms. Gavula. For the reasons set forth below, I FIND that Ms. Gavula was motivated not by economics, but by a desire to rid herself of an employee she found to be inadequate.

The record reflects Ms. Gavula's negative opinion of petitioner's work. Ms. Gavula testified petitioner could not handle work independently. She stated petitioner was neither astute nor "multi-tasked oriented." Her grammar and spelling were inadequate, and Ms. Gavula had to continuously correct her work before sending it out.

Petitioner testified after Ms. Gavula arrived, she began doing less clerical work and spent more time on the playground and in the cafeteria. Clearly, Ms. Gavula believed petitioner to be inefficient at her clerical duties.

That such is the case reflected by Ms. Gavula's letter to petitioner of July 23, 2002 (R-8), the document which advised petitioner that she had been terminated. The letter bespeaks volumes about Ms. Gavula's attitude toward petitioner's work, not by what it says, but by what it does not say. After advising petitioner that her job had been abolished and replaced by two part time positions, Ms. Gavula wrote:

> I truly hope you will apply for the aide's position. I've been pleased with what I've seen when you work with children and I feel you would be an asset in this capacity.

Nowhere does Ms. Gavula urge petitioner to apply for the Secretary-Main Office position.

Nor could Ms. Gavula offer any explanation why petitioner was not transferred into the part time secretarial position. Petitioner introduced documents prepared by respondent showing the schedule for the new positions (P-6A and P-6B). P-6A reflects the Secretary-Main Office schedule. Nothing was offered into evidence tending to show that petitioner could not fit into this schedule. Additionally, Ms. Gavula testified the aides met the school buses between 8:00 a.m. and 9:00 a.m. Petitioner testified that task was one of her functions. Ms. Gavula could not explain why petitioner was not retained in the district performing those two functions for 32.5 hours per week.

Nor could Ms. Gavula explain how respondent's action would fail to affect petitioner's tenure and seniority rights. Despite her twenty years of school administration experience, Ms. Gavula appeared ignorant of the impact of those concepts on the situation.

The conclusion I reach is that Ms. Gavula considered petitioner to be inadequate at handling clerical tasks, and used the dividing of her job position as a subterfuge to remove her. Ms. Gavula may well have been correct; petitioner may have been incompetent or inefficient in her performance of her duties. The problem respondent faces is that the law sets forth specific requirements for removing an incompetent or inefficient tenured employee, and none of those requirements was complied with here.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 provides in pertinent part:

> No person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation,
>
> (a) if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency in the public school system of the state, > except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing held pursuant to this subarticle, by the commissioner, or a person appointed by him to act in his behalf, after a written charge or charges, of the cause or causes of complaint, shall have been preferred against such person, signed by the person or persons making the same, who may or may not be a member or members of a board of education, and filed and proceeded upon as in this subarticle provided.

The parties stipulated that petitioner is tenured in her clerical capacity. Notwithstanding that fact, no charges have been filed alleging inefficiency. Nor is there any evidence that respondent complied with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, which states in pertinent part:

> Provided, however, that if the charge is inefficiency, prior to making its determination as to certification, the board shall provide the employee with written notice of the alleged inefficiency, specifying the nature thereto, and allow at least 90 days in which to correct and overcome the inefficiency.

Instead of complying with the statutory scheme, Ms. Gavula has attempted to avoid the lengthy and arduous tenure process by proceeding under the guise of "reduction in force," seeking shelter under that portion of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 which states:

> Nothing in this section shall prevent the reduction of the number of any such persons holding such offices, positions or employments under the conditions and with the effect provided by law.

Her effort is doomed to fail. I FIND that petitioner's termination was the direct and proximate result of Ms. Gavula's determination that petitioner was not competent to perform her clerical duties. In that judgment Ms. Gavula may well have been correct; I make no finding as to petitioner's efficiency or competence because that issue is not before me. I do FIND that respondent was required to comply with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 before it could terminate petitioner under the facts before me. I further FIND that respondent has failed to substantiate its argument that it terminated petitioner for economic reasons. The testimony of Ms. Betz is clear that the economic issue was never discussed at the time of petitioner's termination, and was only developed after the fact when petitioner filed her petition herein.

For all the reasons set forth above, I REVERSE respondent's action terminating petitioner and direct that she be restored to her employment with back pay and counsel fees.

I note that nothing contained herein restricts respondent from reconfiguring petitioner's work hours in accordance with the needs of the district, provided respondent acts within the parameters of the law on this issue.

ORDER

I ORDER that the action of respondent terminating petitioner's employment be REVERSED.

I ORDER that petitioner be restored to her employment with respondent.

I ORDER that petitioner receive full back pay to the date of her termination, minus any amount earned during that time period.

I ORDER that respondent pay to petitioner her counsel fees for this action.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

ANTHONY MUSCO,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF CARTERET, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record, handwritten settlement document and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that neither the file nor the settlement document includes a copy of the respondent Board of Education's (the Board) resolution approving the settlement and designating the Superintendent to sign the settlement agreement. Neither, in the alternative, does the settlement document bear the signature of the Board attorney, who serves as the Board's duly authorized representative in litigation. The Commissioner consequently cannot approve the within settlement.

The Commissioner also notes that the settlement, as set forth in the document presented for the Commissioner's review, requires the petitioner to "[relinquish] his tenure/seniority rights to the position of Supervisor of Special and Related Services" in exchange for $34,000. While petitioner may withdraw his petition and/or decline to pursue the job in question, he may not waive the statutory right of tenure.

Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for revision of the settlement agreement to include either the Board attorney's signature or a Board resolution approving the settlement and designating who may sign on its behalf. In addition, the settlement agreement must be revised to correctly reflect the law concerning tenure. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to hearing.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on March 22, 2004, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

At the July 6, 2005 hearing scheduled in this matter, the parties entered into successful settlement negotiations. The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

This matter was transmitted to the Commissioner by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 14, 2005 for consideration of petitioners' withdrawal of the petition in this matter.

Upon review, the Commissioner notes that, notwithstanding petitioner T.W.'s telephone call to the OAL indicating that the petition was being withdrawn because the "child has moved out of [the] District," the Board of Education of the City of Orange's (Board) Answer in this residency matter contains an unresolved request by the Board for tuition for the period that the student received services while he was ineligible. In that the record before the Commissioner does not contain an affidavit of a responsible Board official attesting to the amount of tuition claimed by the Board as a consequence of the ineligible attendance of petitioners' son in its schools, this matter must be remanded to the OAL for supplementation of the record in this regard and an appropriate recommended order regarding the payment of tuition.

This matter was remanded to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) from the Department of Education on April 20, 2005, for further expansion of the record and revision of documents.

The parties agreed to abide by the Commissioner's request by modifying the agreement; thus, a hearing was not required. The parties have prepared a revised Stipulation of Settlement (please note that the Remand OAL Dkt. No. EDU 11152-04 was used on the revised settlement, which should have reflected the current OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3877-05) indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein as well as the extract minutes by the Board approving said new settlement, which was held on June 9, 2005.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of the revised settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

THIS MATTER having been brought before the Commissioner of Education through the filing of tenure charges by the Morris School District Board of Education ("Board") and the parties having agreed to enter into a settlement of the above matter, and the parties intending to fully and finally resolve all issues, matters, claims, potential claims, disputes, and potential disputes between them, except for the enforcement of the terms hereof; and

WHEREAS, the parties in good faith have engaged in negotiations concerning this matter and the parties have amicably settled and resolved the above dispute.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises and undertakings contained in the agreement, and for good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, the parties hereby agree as follows:

1. The parties acknowledge that a true and accurate copy of the Tenure Charges have been forwarded to the Commissioner of Education and the Office of Administrative Law.

2. The parties acknowledge and agree that their respective interests justify the settlement and result effected hereby, specifically, the parties acknowledge and agree that the within resolution effects a result satisfactory to each of them, while eliminating the risk of an adverse decision and avoiding the time and expense that would attend contested litigation.

3. By signing the within Stipulation of Settlement, the parties have each evidenced their consent to the terms and conditions hereof.

4. The Respondent, Kathleen Desai, affirms and agrees that she has entered into this Stipulation of Settlement with a full and complete understanding of her rights.

5. The parties acknowledge and agree that the settlement effected hereby and the agreement represented by this settlement, is in the public interest in that the respondent has agreed to resign her employment, thereby avoiding the expenditure of public time and resources on litigating a dispute that is subject to a resolution consented to by both parties.

6. The Respondent, Kathleen Desai, acknowledges that she has been advised of the Commissioner's duty to refer tenure determinations resulting in loss of position to the State Board of Examiners for possible loss of certificate in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 and N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.6(a)(1).

7. Respondent, Kathleen Desai irrevocably and permanently resigns her employment with the Morris School District effective February 14, 2005 and will submit a letter to that effect in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A. Notice of the said resignation shall be deemed given as of December 14, 2004. The Board will act to accept the resignation of Kathleen Desai at the time the Board approves this settlement.

8. The Morris School District shall pay to Kathleen Desai all salary/wages for the period September 7, 2004 through February 14, 2005. Ms. Desai shall not receive any withheld increments. Payment in full shall be made within ten (10) days of approval of this Stipulation of Settlement by the Commissioner of Education. As a result of her resignation, Ms. Desai shall receive no payment for unused sick leave.

9. The Morris School District shall continue to provide to Kathleen Desai and pay for all normal and applicable benefits, including but not limited to, health insurance through March 31, 2005. Subsequent to that Kathleen Desai, at her option, may purchase health insurance through the Morris School District pursuant to the provisions of C.O.B.R.A. or other applicable law. In the event of such an election by Kathleen Desai, the Morris School District shall cooperate with her obtaining coverage in all respects.

10. The Morris School District agrees that its response to all inquiries regarding Ms. Desai's employment will be limited to the information required to be provided by law, which includes upon request providing the following information pursuant to Order No. 11 (1974): name, title, position, salary, payroll record, length of government services, amount and type of pension, if any, date of separation and reason for separation. The reason for separation shall be stated as "resignation."

11. The District will not disclose the documents related to this action except as required by law. The District will notify Kathleen Desai of any disclosures made.

12. The Board makes no representations regarding Kathleen Desai's future pension status and this Agreement shall in no way be contingent upon Ms. Desai receiving pension benefits.

13. The parties agree that this Stipulation of Settlement is contingent upon the approval of the Commissioner of Education, and that, upon the approval of the Commissioner of Education, the Tenure Charges presently pending before the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education shall be deemed to be dismissed with prejudice.

14. The parties agree that neither party is responsible for the payment of the other party's attorneys' fees in connection with this matter.

15. Through this Settlement Agreement, Kathleen Desai releases and waives any and all rights and claims that she has or may have against the Morris School District accrued to date.

16. This Settlement Agreement contains all of the terms of the parties' agreement and cannot be modified or changed unless all parties agree to do so in writing.

17. Each party acknowledges that she/it has consulted with an attorney or representative of her/its choosing prior to the signing of this Settlement Agreement, that each party fully understands their rights, and that with a full knowledge of their rights each party signs this Agreement as her/its own voluntary act and deed, and that each party fully understands the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

18. Nothing in this Settlement Agreement shall be deemed to constitute precedent, past practice or policy as to the rights of any employee, now or in the future, other than Kathleen Desai.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the date and year aforesaid.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WILLINGBORO, BURLINGTON COUNTY, ALONSO KITTRELS, SUPERINTENDENT, AND MARVIN HOPKINS, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR OF HUMAN RESOURCES,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner asserted that she was forced to resign from the Willingboro School District, and sought, inter alia, reinstatement to the position of Principal, with back pay. Petitioner alleged that she had been subjected to a hostile work environment, and differential treatment and pay because of her gender and age. She further claimed constructive discharge of a tenured employee.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there is nothing in the record to support petitioner's claims of constructive discharge or hostile work environment; the petitioner's testimony and demeanor lacked credibility; and that testimony on behalf of the respondent Board was sincere and credible. The ALJ concluded that petitioner failed to prove that she was constructively discharged from employment by the Willingboro Township Board of Education, and that her petition seeking reinstatement to her untenured position of Principal of the Adult Education School should be dismissed.

The Acting Commissioner concurs with the ALJ, concluding that the petition in this matter should be dismissed because petitioner failed to prove by a preponderance of the credible evidence that she was constructively discharged from employment, and adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision, for the reasons set forth therein.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WILLINGBORO, BURLINGTON COUNTY, ALONSO KITTRELS, SUPERINTENDENT, AND MARVIN HOPKINS, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR OF HUMAN RESOURCES,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions[1] and the Willingboro Board's (Board) reply thereto were filed in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were fully considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.

In her exceptions, petitioner initially takes issue with what she characterizes as "the facts as determined by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ)" (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2), claiming, inter alia, that:

> 1. There was no testimony that she applied for the principal positions at the Bookbinder, McGinley and Levitt schools because of a mutiny against her while she was vice-principal at the high school. Rather, she applied to those positions because the principal positions were a promotion and the positions were more in line with her training in elementary education. (Id. at 2)

[1] It is noted that, although petitioner represented herself at hearing and filed pro se exceptions to the Initial Decision, petitioner subsequently notified the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes that Richard T. Fauntleroy, Esq., was representing her in this matter and, thus, requested that the exceptions filed by Mr. Fauntleroy be considered. Accordingly, in that a party may either represent him/herself or be represented by an attorney, and petitioner has designated Mr. Fauntleroy as attorney of record, only the exceptions filed by Mr. Fauntleroy on petitioner's behalf have been considered by the Commissioner in making his decision. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.1.

2. All three of the principal positions for which she applied were given to men from outside the school district. Instead, she was offered the position of principal of the Adult High School, a position for which she neither applied nor interviewed. (Ibid.)

3. She was not provided the same status or office arrangements as her male counterparts and she did not sign the time sheets because of the warning given to her by the Payroll Administrator with respect to an indication that time was being submitted for payment when the persons had not actually worked. (Ibid.)

4. She had no adult high school background or experience, and no one had created a job description listing specific job requirements and objectives for this newly created position; yet her supervisors were "threatening" to evaluate her. (Ibid.)

5. She did not attend a meeting where her position was clarified with respect to Mr. McGee, the Director of the school. (Ibid.)

6. She did not take a medical leave because her request for a transfer would not be honored, but, instead, because of depression, which was indicated by a doctor on her medical leave form given to Mr. Hopkins in support of her request for a medical leave of absence. (Id. at 3)

7. Mr. Kittrel's letter of October 31, 2003, stating that petitioner's claim was "self-serving," was written after notification that she had filed a discrimination complaint with the Division of Civil Rights while she was out on medical leave. (Ibid.)

8. The November 13, 2003 letter of resignation was written under duress because she was told that the offer would be taken off the table if she did not have a letter of resignation on Mr. Kittrels' desk by 8:30 a.m. on November 13. Mr. Rocco directed petitioner to use his conference room and his secretary to prepare a letter of resignation. (Ibid.)

Moreover, petitioner contends that the ALJ's determination that her proofs on unlawful discrimination were lacking was arbitrary and capricious in light of the fact that the ALJ prevented petitioner, who was acting pro se at the time, from cross examining witnesses and providing direct testimony with respect to discrimination, informing her that those issues were not before him. (Id. at 4) Petitioner maintains that there was ample evidence that she was subjected to a hostile work environment because of her gender and age, and points to: her claim that she was forced to resign because of the discriminatory actions of administrators in hiring three men, instead of her, for the three principal positions for which she applied; her appointment to the Adult School; her removal from her position as principal of the Adult School; and her re-assignment to the position of assistant principal upon her return from medical leave. (Ibid.) Petitioner further repeats her assertion that her constructive discharge claim stems from her contention that these actions were retaliatory for her filing a civil rights claim against the Board. (Ibid.)

Additionally, petitioner avers that the ALJ overlooked the fact that she did not apply for the principal position to which she was assigned at the Adult School, noting that it was not one of the three principal positions advertised. (Id. at 5) Petitioner maintains that the position of principal of the Adult School was created by the Board in an effort to cover up the Board's discriminatory conduct in not appointing her to one of the three vacant principal positions for which she did apply. (Ibid.) Pointing to Lehmann v. Toys 'R' Us, Inc., 132 N.J. 587, 603-604 (1993) – which sets forth the four-prong test for establishing a cause of action in a hostile work environment claim by requiring that "the complained-of conduct (1) would not have occurred but for the employee's gender; and it was (2) severe or pervasive enough to make a (3) reasonable woman believe that (4) the conditions of employment are altered and the working environment is hostile or abusive" – petitioner asserts that: hiring three less-qualified males in positions for which she applied; placing her in a similar title without an office, staff and the other perks that her male counterparts received; treating the male consultant as the person running the Adult School rather than petitioner; and refusing to permit her to address the time sheet issue, would certainly cause a reasonable woman to believe her condition of employment was altered and the working environment was hostile or abusive. (Ibid.)

Petitioner also points out that, according to Kluczyk v. Tropicana Products, Inc., 368 N.J. Super. 479, 493 (App. Div. 2004) and Shepherd v. Hunterdon Center, 174 N.J. 1, 27-28 (2000), "[a] prima facie case of constructive discharge exists in New Jersey when a plaintiff can establish that an employer knowingly permitted conditions of discrimination in employment so intolerable that a reasonable person subject to such conditions would resign." (Id. at 7) If she hadn't resigned, petitioner submits, she would have been returned to the position of assistant principal of Memorial Middle School, which would have meant a reduction in salary in the area of $23,000.00, and would have resulted in her being humiliated among her peers as she would be going backwards in her career from principal to vice-principal. (Ibid.)

Moreover, petitioner contends that even if there was no underlying harassment, petitioner's forced resignation constituted a retaliatory discharge in violation of the Law Against Discrimination because her October 22, 2003 claim of discrimination with the New Jersey Division on Civil Rights was reported to Mr. Kittrels and Mr. Hopkins and, within days of her return from her medical leave on November 3, 2003, she was required to submit a resignation letter and withdraw her pending claims before the Division on Civil Rights. (Id. at 8) Finally, petitioner avers that the ALJ completely ignored her arguments as to the coercive manner in which her resignations were obtained. (Id. at 8-9)

In reply, the Board comments that petitioner appears to take exception as to how the evidence was characterized rather than the actual basis of the evidence presented, and claims that petitioner is trying to retry the facts and represent the brief that was originally presented before the ALJ. (Board's Reply at 3) The Board further avers that the ALJ's findings of facts are supported by the record through the parties' joint stipulation of facts and the documents submitted by the parties. (Id. at 4)

Pointing to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) and In re Taylor, 158 N.J. 644 (1999), the Board avers that there is no basis in the record that would support disturbing the credibility determinations of the ALJ and, thus, urges that deference be given to the ALJ's valuation of the testimony since assessment of such evidence may rely upon observation and demeanor, which is criteria not generally reflected in the record: (Id. at 5) The Board also submits that petitioner failed to meet her burden of proof that she was constructively discharged and contends that petitioner chooses to ignore that she forfeited statutory protections upon her voluntary submission of her resignation. (Ibid.) In support thereof, the Board notes that petitioner did not obtain tenure in her position as principal of the Adult school and that she voluntarily relinquished her rights to her tenured assistant principal position. (Id. at 6) Moreover, the Board claims that the record is void of any evidence that petitioner was subject to a hostile work environment. Rather, the Board contends, petitioner determined her own fate when she sought not to be the educational leader of the Adult School, when she determined not to verify the time sheets for hourly employees, when she requested a transfer from the Adult School, and when she determined that she did not wish to be transferred from the Adult School to her last tenured position of assistant principal. (Ibid.)

Additionally, the Board maintains that there is nothing in the record to support petitioner's claim that she was forced to resign or that the move to change the date of her resignation was done under duress, but, instead, the record shows that petitioner was told to take time to think about what she was doing and to get the advice of counsel. (Id. at 6-7) The Board also sets forth its position that petitioner did not prove that the conduct occurred because of her sex, pointing out that petitioner was the one who sought the transfer. (Id. at 7) Moreover, the Board contends that petitioner also did not prove that the conditions of employment were so pervasive, intimidating, hostile or offensive that a reasonable woman, in a tenured assistant principal position, would have submitted a resignation of her tenured position. (Ibid.)

Upon a careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner finds that this matter turns primarily on the credibility of the witnesses. In this regard, the Commissioner recognizes that the ALJ's credibility determinations are entitled to his deference. "The reason for this rule is that the administrative law judge, as a finder of fact, has the greatest opportunity to observe the demeanor of the involved witnesses, and, consequently, is better qualified to judge their credibility. In the Matter of Tenure Hearing of Tyler, 236 N.J. Super. 478, 485 (App. Div.) certif. denied, 121 N.J. 615 (1989)." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Frank Roberts, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 549, 550. The Appellate Division has affirmed this principle, underscoring that "[u]nder existing law, the [reviewing agency] must recognize and give due weight to the ALJ's unique position and ability to make demeanor based judgments." Whasun Lee v. Board of Education of the Township of Holmdel, Docket No. A-5978-98T2, decided by the New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division, August 7, 2000, slip op. at 14. Indeed, the Commissioner > may not reject or modify any findings of fact as to issues of credibility of lay witness testimony unless it is first determined from a review of the record that the findings are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or are not supported by sufficient, competent and credible evidence in the record. (emphasis added) N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c).

Here, after considering petitioner's testimony and observing her demeanor, the ALJ found "her account of the events leading up to her leaving the District improbable, if not totally implausible, and having nothing to do with a hostile work environment." (Initial Decision at 11) In contrast, the ALJ found the district's witnesses credible and the superintendent to be "a sincere, credible witness" whom he quotes as stating that "[w]e always tried to help you [the petitioner], and sometimes it comes back to bite you." (Id. at 12)

Upon review of the full record,[2] the Commissioner finds that the ALJ's credibility assessments are not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, but, instead, are supported by sufficient, competent and credible evidence in the record. The Commissioner, therefore, finds no cause to disturb the ALJ's credibility determinations.

Moreover, notwithstanding petitioner's assertions to the contrary, the Commissioner finds that the ALJ's findings of fact and conclusions of law are wholly supported by the record and that there is nothing in the record to substantiate petitioner's allegations that she was subjected to either a discriminatory or a hostile work environment. As stated by the ALJ, "there is nothing in this record to suggest that the hostile work environments alleged by petitioner to have existed in her last three positions were anything other than of her own making or in her own mind." (Initial Decision at 11) In this regard, the exhibits submitted by the parties show that the District valued petitioner's contribution and that the District demonstrated its confidence in her by promoting her to the newly-created position of principal of the Adult School when she was not selected to fill any of the open principal positions which had been advertised.[3] Petitioner accepted the promotion, but less than a month thereafter expressed her unhappiness with her assignment in that position, stating that she preferred an assignment to a "more traditional principal position" and, thus, requested a principal assignment in a more traditional setting. (Exhibit P-1, No. 9) The Board declined her request and informed her that she would be returned to her tenured position of assistant principal.

[3] Although petitioner claims that she was better qualified to fill these advertised positions than the individuals selected, petitioner did not introduce anything into the record in support of this allegation.

The Commissioner finds that the record clearly supports the conclusion that it was petitioner who made the decision to resign rather than to remain in the Adult School principal position to which she had been assigned, and it was petitioner who determined that she would not interview for the principal position at the Bookbinder School (see below). It was also petitioner's decision to reject the transfer to her tenured assistant principal position because she felt it would be easier to resign and get a new job as a principal if she were applying as a principal. In apparent support of petitioner's concerns to leave the district as a principal, as noted by the ALJ, the superintendent "offered her the 'parachute' of the Director of Special Projects position at the Country Club Elementary School, a temporary position created solely for her and comparable in salary to that of principal, starting immediately and continuing until the effective date of her resignation." (Initial Decision at 5)

There is also no evidence supporting petitioner's contention that she was coerced into withdrawing her claim before the Division on Civil Rights and Equal Opportunity Commission, which she filed October 22, 2003, shortly after her request for a transfer to a "more traditional principal position" was denied. In a letter withdrawing her claim, dated November 13, 2003, petitioner states:

> Please cancel all activity as it relates to charges against Willingboro Board of Education.
> In other words, I would like to drop my complaint immediately.
> Thank you in advance.
> (Exhibit P-1, No. 31)

Almost a month later, in response, the Division on Civil Rights sent a confirming letter, dated December 8, 2003, informing petitioner that in order to withdraw her pending claims, she would need to sign a Request for Withdrawal of Charge of Discrimination, which stated, inter alia:

> I am aware that the EEOC and the NJDCR protect my right to file a complaint. I have been advised that it is unlawful for any person > covered by Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act (ADEA) of 1967, as amended, or Title I of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) of 1991, as amended, to threaten, intimidate or harass me because I have filed this complaint.

> I request the withdrawal of my charge because I no longer wish to pursue this complaint.
> (Exhibit R-12)

On December 11, 2003, petitioner signed the Request for Withdrawal of Charge of Discrimination with the Division on Civil Rights and with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

Additionally, there is no evidence to support petitioner's contention that she was coerced into resigning from employment with the Willingboro Board. In a letter dated November 4, 2003 to Superintendent Kittrels, petitioner states:

> I met with the Board President on November 3, 2003. She told me to remain at the Adult High School to make tenure there.
> Mrs. Holley told me to put this situation behind me. Also, I do not intend to interview for the Bookbinder position.
>
> I agree with her findings that the Adult High School is not a Hostile Work Environment. I am in charge not Mr. McGee.
>
> P.S. I also signed the timesheets this morning. Mr. Rocco should be in possession of them.
> (Exhibit R-8)

Petitioner's resignation letter also supports the conclusion that she decided to resign of her own accord:

> After much forethought, I would like to thank you for the tremendous experience I have gained while working for the Willingboro School District.
> First of all I appreciate your appointing me the Principal of the Adult High School. However, with that said I am at this time resigning from my position effective April 2, 2004.

> The position was not what I had in mind and in light of this fact, I would like to exercise my options. In hindsight, I should have probably remained at Stuart Elementary School.
>
> With that said I wish the District much success. As the leader of this District, you have done a wonderful job. Thank you in advance.
> (Exhibit P-1, No. 32)

Accordingly, as explicated above, the Initial Decision, concluding that the petition in this matter should be dismissed because petitioner failed to prove by a preponderance of the credible evidence that she was constructively discharged from employment, is adopted for the reasons set forth therein.

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF
WILLINGBORO, et als.
Respondents.

Denise Irvin, pro se[1]

Kathleen Smallwood-Johnson, Esq., appeared for Respondents

Record Closed: September 8, 2004 Decided: May 18, 2005

BEFORE ISRAEL D. DUBIN, ALJ

On February 23, 2004, petitioner filed an application for emergent relief with the New Jersey Department of Education. The application, supplemented by letter brief filed on March 11, 2004, requested her immediate "Reinstatement to the position of Principal with the Willingboro

[1] Although the petition was filed by Michael D. Homans, Esq. (Flaster/Greenberg P.C., attorneys), Ms. Irvin stated on the record that she had discharged him and proceeded to represent herself at the hearing. At the conclusion of the School District, Reinstatement of Time-in-Position as Principal From December 11, 2003 to the present, Back pay from December 11, 2003, my last day of work, through the present, [and] The internet site on the Willingboro Server using my name removed."

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on March 17, 2004 for a hearing on the requested emergent relief. The hearing, which consisted solely of oral argument, was conducted on March 29, 2004 at the OAL, Quakerbridge Plaza, Building 9, Quakerbridge Road, Mercerville, New Jersey. By Order dated March 31, 2004, the undersigned Administrative Law Judge concluded that emergent relief was not warranted and scheduled the matter for a hearing on the merits, which was held on May 25, June 1, June 2, and June 25, 2004. The record closed on September 8, 2004 upon receipt of the parties' post hearing briefs.

Petitioner was initially employed by the Willingboro Board of Education as an Assistant Principal at Willingboro High School on July 29, 1997. She obtained tenure as an Assistant Principal on September 1, 2000 and remained in that position until November 28, 2001, when she was promoted to the position of Vice Principal. Following a district-wide reorganization which resulted in the elimination of all Vice Principal positions, she was assigned to the Stuart Elementary School as Program Administrator, a position described as comparable to that of Principal, on July 1, 2002.

A few months later, petitioner complained that the Stuart Elementary School was a "hostile work environment." More specifically, she alleged that, as had been the case when she was a Vice Principal at the High School, staff members were making defamatory statements about her and were engaged in a "mutiny" to undermine her authority. She therefore applied for the open Principal's positions at Bookbinder Elementary School, McGinley Elementary School, and Levitt Middle School. Although she was not selected for any of those positions, she was offered – and accepted – the newly created position of Principal of the Adult Education School on August 12, 2003.

hearing, Richard T. Fauntleroy, Esq. entered his appearance, stating that he had been retained by petitioner to write

Shortly after her arrival at the Adult School, petitioner complained that she did not have an office, air conditioning, or "contracted staff" like "every other Principal in the district," explaining that the teachers were all hourly employees. Irvin Memo, October 9, 2003; Exhibit R-5. She also repeatedly took exception to having to sign off on the time sheets of these teachers, despite having been told by the Assistant Superintendent of Schools, Harry Rocco, that it was part of her job responsibility as principal.

Petitioner further complained that she was being "discredited and slandered by this District." By way of example, she noted that the Burlington County Administrators Directory failed to list her as Principal and instead listed Jack McGee as Director of the Adult Education School. However, the district had submitted its list of administrators for the 2003-2004 school year to the Directory prior to the creation of the Principal's position at the Adult School and, at that time, Mr. McGee, an independent contractor, was in fact employed as Director of the school.

Another bone of contention was the fact that Mr. McGee was going to remain at the school as a consultant and assist petitioner with the transition. However, prior to and after the date petitioner first reported to the Adult School, Marvin Hopkins, the Executive Director of Human Resources and Administrative Services, had met with McGee "to make sure he understood his new limited role reporting to Ms. Irvin." In fact, petitioner had attended the meeting that took place after she assumed her new position. Still, petitioner complained that McGee's presence rendered her position as Principal meaningless and her appointment as such tantamount to a demotion.

Referring to the Adult High School as "hostile" and "an even more uncomfortable work environment" than the Stuart Elementary School had been, on or about September 12, 2003 petitioner requested another transfer, asking that she be appointed Principal of Bookbinder Elementary School. She also filed a complaint with the New Jersey Division on Civil Rights, asserting that she was being differentially treated and paid because of her gender and age. At this point, Superintendent of Schools Alonzo Kittrels asked Harry Rocco, Assistant Superintendent in charge of Operations, to conduct an investigation into petitioner's complaints. After several meetings with petitioner and other individuals, Mr. Rocco found petitioner's complaints to be unfounded.

On October 3, 2003, when it became apparent that the requested transfer to Bookbinder Elementary would not be forthcoming, petitioner took a thirty-day medical leave of absence for treatment of "Depression – Situational Stress." Throughout this period of medical leave, she continued to complain that the Adult School was a hostile work environment, and met with Marvin Hopkins, Executive Director of Human Resources, on several occasions to discuss these allegations.

On October 31, 2003, as her thirty-day leave was about to expire, Superintendent Kittrels advised her by letter that "based on an internal district investigation, there is no evidence that suggests or supports your allegation that the Adult Education School is a hostile work environment," and that her complaints appeared to have been "self-serving." Kittrels Letter, October 31, 2003; Exhibit R-7. He also advised her that "[i]n light of your continued claim that the Adult Education School is a hostile work environment, it is imperative that you meet with Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Rocco on November 3, 2003 at 9:30 a.m. in the Human Resources Office to discuss your return to work and assignment." Ibid.

As directed, petitioner returned to work on November 3, 2003 and met with Messrs. Rocco and Hopkins, as well as the Superintendent. At that time Mr. Kittrels advised her that instead of having her return to what she had been complaining was a hostile work environment, he had decided to her to her tenured position as an Assistant Principal and assigned her to the Memorial Middle School, at the salary set forth in the Collective Bargaining Agreement between the Board and the Willingboro Education Administrator's Association. However, this would have resulted in an approximately $22,000-23,000 reduction in salary and Mr. Kittrels acknowledged that she might have been entitled to sixty days' notice. Nevertheless, he told her that she was still to report to Memorial pending a final decision on that issue. She was also given "two or three days" to consult an attorney and decide whether to accept the new assignment. Petitioner was sent a confirming letter on November 4, 2003. Exhibit P-1.30.

Later that same day, petitioner sent Superintendent Kittrels a letter advising him that she'd had an opportunity to meet with Board of Education President Holly and decided "to put this situation behind me, remain at the Adult High School and make tenure there." She also withdrew her request for a transfer to Bookbinder Elementary School and retracted her prior complaints regarding the situation at the school, stating "I agree with [Ms. Holly]'s findings that the Adult High School is not a Hostile Work Environment. I am in charge not Mr. McGee." Irvin Letter, November 4, 2003; Exhibit R-8.

Despite her purported change of heart, the Superintendent decided it would be imprudent to place petitioner back in a situation she had repeatedly claimed was a "hostile work environment." Therefore, on September 7, 2003, Superintendent Kittrels advised her that he would be recommending that the Board of Education return her to her tenured position of Assistant Principal. According to Messrs. Kittrels and Rocco, petitioner was unhappy with what she believed was a "double demotion,"[2] stated that it was "time to move on." She then expressed her intention to resign and requested a letter of recommendation. When they inquired if she was certain, petitioner stated that she knew what she was doing and would rather resign than go to Memorial because it would be "easier to get a job as a principal if she were applying as a principal." When they next asked if she wanted time to think the matter over, petitioner replied that all she required was that the resignation not be effective until June 4, 2003, which would give her sufficient time to find a new job.

Since he had given already given her written notice of her return to an Assistant Principal's position, the Superintendent factored in the sixty-day period that would precede her official change of position and secured her consent to change the effective date of her resignation to April 2, 2003. However, he also offered her the "parachute" of the Director of Special Projects position at the Country Club Elementary School, a temporary position created solely for her and comparable in salary to that of Principal, starting immediately and continuing until the effective date of her resignation. By letter dated November 13, petitioner accepted the offer as follows:

[2] The "double demotion" was described as being demoted from Principal directly to Assistant Principal, even though she had not obtained tenure as a Principal or Vice Principal, and the District had eliminated all Vice Principal positions, opting instead to have "Deans" for each grade of students at each individual school.

> After much forethought, I would like to thank you for the tremendous experience I have gained while working for the Willingboro School District.
> First of all I appreciate your appointing me the Principal of the Adult High School. However, with that said I am at this time resigning from my position effective April 2, 2004.
>
> The position was not what I had in mind and in light of this fact, I would like to exercise my options. In hindsight, I should have probably remained at Stuart Elementary School.
> With that said I wish the District much success. As the leader of this district, you have done a wonderful job. Thank you in advance.
> [Irvin Letter, November 13, 2003; Exhibit R-9]

Upon receipt of her letter, Superintendent Kittrels and Mr. Rocco both provided petitioner with letters of recommendation praising her as an "intelligent and conscientious administrator ... [who] is responsible, works well with students and effectively communicates with parents." Rocco Letter of Recommendation, November 19, 2003; Exhibit P-1.34. The Superintendent also asked petitioner about the status of her complaint to the Division of Civil Rights. Petitioner replied that she would withdraw it and sent a letter to Division Investigator Aldo Gonzalez stating, "I would like to drop my complaint immediately." DCR Letter to Irvin, December 8, 2003; Exhibit P-1.48.

On or about December 7, 2003, petitioner noticed that the New Jersey State Department of Education had published an advertisement in The Star Ledger newspaper for five budget examiner positions. Two days later she met with Superintendent Kittrels, showed him the advertisement, and asked him to call "his good friend Bill," Commissioner Librera, on her behalf. Without making any promises, the Superintendent said he would mention her interest in the positions the next time he spoke to the Commissioner.

On December 11, 2003, petitioner met with Superintendent Kittrels and Mr. Hopkins, stating that she had "financial issues" involving a piece of real estate and needed to cash out her pension benefits as soon as possible. When it was suggested that she consider taking out a loan instead, petitioner replied that a loan would "be too complicated." After further discussion, she submitted an interoffice memorandum consisting of two sentences: "I would like to change my last day of work from April 2 to Thursday, December 11, 2003. Thank you in advance for your kind consideration." Interoffice Memorandum, December 11, 2003; Exhibit R-10. It was on this date that petitioner also completed and returned the "Request for Withdrawal of Charge of Discrimination" form she'd received from the Division on Civil Rights.

On December 15, 2003, during its regularly scheduled open public meeting, the Willingboro Board of Education approved petitioner's request to change her date of resignation to December 11, 2003. Two months later, on February 23, 2004, petitioner filed her complaint with the Commissioner of Education.

As a tenured Assistant Principal, petitioner was protected by a statutory scheme the purpose of which is to establish a competent and efficient school system by affording teachers and administrators "a measure of security in the ranks they hold after years of service." Viemeister v. Prospect Park Bd. of Ed., 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949). N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 is part of this statutory scheme and provides that certain enumerated employees of boards of education shall be awarded and work under tenure after they have served the requisite number of years. More specifically, the statute provides that

> The services of all teaching staff members employed in the positions of teacher, principal, other than administrative principal, assistant principal, vice-principal, assistant superintendent, and all school nurses, school nurse coordinators, and any other nurse performing school nursing services, school athletic trainer and such other employees as are in positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates issued by the board of examiners, serving in any school district or under any board of education, excepting those who are not the holders of proper certificates in full force and effect and school business administrators shared by two or more school districts, shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause and then only in the manner prescribed by [N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 et seq.], after employment in such district or by such board for:

> (a) Three consecutive calendar years, or shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or
> (b) Three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or
> (c) The equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years.
>
> For purposes of this chapter, tenure in any of the administrative or supervisory positions enumerated herein shall accrue only by employment in that administrative or supervisory position. Tenure so accrued shall not extend to any other administrative or supervisory position and nothing herein shall limit or restrict tenure rights which were or may be acquired pursuant to N.J.S. 18A:28-6 in a position in which the individual actually served.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 (emphasis supplied)]

Additionally, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 further provides that an individual such as petitioner, who has achieved tenure in one position and then consented to a transfer or promotion to another position, shall not obtain tenure in the new position until after:

> (a) the expiration of a period of employment of two consecutive calendar years in the new position unless a shorter period is fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or
> (b) employment for two academic years in the new position together with employment in the new position at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or
>
> (c) employment in the new position within a period of any three consecutive academic years, for the equivalent of more than two academic years;
>
> provided that the period of employment in such new position shall be included in determining the tenure and seniority rights in the former position held by such teaching staff member, and in the event the employment in such new position is terminated before tenure is obtained therein, if he then has tenure in the district or under said board of education, such teaching staff member shall be returned to his former position at the salary he would have received had the transfer or promotion not occurred together with any increase to which he would have been entitled during the period of such transfer or promotion.

The tenure petitioner obtained was in the position of Assistant Principal and that tenure did not extend to her relatively short terms as Vice Principal of the High School, Program Administrator (Principal) at the Stuart Elementary School, and Principal of the Adult Education School. Consequently, her reassignment as Assistant Principal at Memorial Middle School was not subject to the limitations or conditions set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Rather, subject to the terms of her contract of employment, the Superintendent had the absolute authority to terminate her non-tenured employment as Principal of the Adult Education School and return her to her former tenured position of Assistant Principal at the salary she would have received in that position; together with any increase she might have been awarded. And pursuant to the principal's contract she signed on or about August 12, 2003, the sole obligation the Superintendent had was to provide petitioner with sixty days notice.

Of course, tenure and reemployment rights may be voluntarily relinquished. O'Toole v. Forstal, 211 N.J. Super. 394, 402 (App. Div. 1986), certif. denied 107 N.J. 123 (1987). Accord, Lange v. Bd. of Educ. of Audubon, 26 N.J. Super. 83, 88 (App. Div. 1953). See also, Adler v. John Carroll Univ., 549 F. Supp. 652, 656 (N.D. Ohio 1982) (college teacher who voluntarily resigned from his position was not a victim, but rather "generated his own fate"). And here, petitioner's own words and actions demonstrate that she clearly understood what she was doing, not only when she initially decided to resign, but also when she moved up the effective date of that resignation.

Petitioner has since claimed that Superintendent Kittrels coerced her into resigning and in so doing constructively discharged her. According to petitioner, the Superintendent said that > he would place me in a very attractive position as Principal Special Projects with a nice office in the new Country Club Elementary School. He told me in order for this to occur however, I would have to turn in a letter of resignation dated April 2, 2003.

> Mr. Kittrels told me that he had hired his own personal lawyer, Mrs. Smallwood-Johnson, to handle the four lawsuits from the female administrators – including myself, (three (3) Principals {two (2) tenured} and one Central Office Director) who had filed charges against him within this six weeks.[3] Mr. Kittrels told me > that if I fought him it would be "brutal." This is why I decided to drop my charges.

[3] The record is devoid of any evidence concerning these alleged lawsuits or the identities of the individuals who allegedly filed them.

>
> He then told me that he would be able to get me a job working with the State of New Jersey Department of Education through his friendship with the Commissioner of Education.
>
> Mr. Kittrels told me he would take the offer off the table if I did not have my letter of resignation on his desk by 8:30 a.m. November 13, 2003. He said without the letter of resignation I would be demoted immediately.
>
>
> This was Constructive Discharge – Forced Resignation through Coercion. The influence of Mr. Kittrel's (sic) friendship with the Commissioner of Education. As well as the fact that I did not want to be demoted. Tangible Employment action. – Employer sanctioned adverse action officially changing my employment status.
> Charges/Violations; Exhibit P-3, Lavender Pages 2-3.

Petitioner also claimed that the second "forced resignation" was constructive discharge of a tenured employee. As she explained,

> On Sunday, December 7, 2003, there was an ad in the Star Ledger for five (5) Budget Manager/Examiners for the Department of Education. I took the ad to Mr.Kittrel's (sic) office. We discussed the positions in depth. He told me that getting one of these jobs for me would not be a problem. Mr. Kittrels told me he would call his friend, the Commissioner of Education, "Bill."
> Mr. Kittrels told me that if I wanted the position, I needed to revise my original resignation date from April 2, 2004 to December 11, 2003. He told me he would see if he could keep me on the payroll as consultant. I said, "Okay." I was not going to miss this opportunity. I was approximately 90 days from being unemployed.

Constructive discharge may be found where an employee is offered a choice of either accepting a discriminatory assignment or resigning. Goss v. Exxon Office Systems Co., 747 *F.*2d 885, 888 (3d Cir. 1984). It may also be found where an employer has knowingly permitted conditions of discrimination in employment so intolerable that a reasonable person subject to them would resign." See Muench v. Township of Haddon, 255 N.J. Super. 288, 302 (App. Div. 1992). However, but for a vague, undeveloped allegation that the more traditional principal's positions at Bookbinder Elementary School, McGinley Elementary School, and Levitt Middle School were all awarded to men, and that Mr. McGee was listed in the Burlington County Administrators Directory as Director of the Adult Education School while there was no mention of her as Principal, there is absolutely no evidence whatsoever that respondents offered her, much less forced her to accept, a discriminatory assignment. To the contrary, petitioner eagerly accepted the offer, and when she began to complain about the conditions, the complaints had nothing to do with sexual discrimination.

Similarly, a hostile work environment may be found to exist where an employee has been harassed based on characteristics such as sex, race and creed. More specifically, harassment will violate the Law Against Discrimination when the complained of conduct would not have occurred but for the employee's protected characteristic and was severe or pervasive enough to make a reasonable person of the same protected class believe that the conditions of employment have been altered and the working environment is hostile or abusive. Lehmann v. Toys 'R' Us, Inc., 132 N.J. 587, 603-05 (1993). However, there is nothing in this record to suggest that the hostile work environments alleged by petitioner to have existed in her last three positions were anything other than of her own making or in her own mind.

In adjudging a witness's credibility, "[a] trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is overborne by other testimony." Congleton v Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958). Having had an opportunity to consider petitioner's testimony and observe her demeanor, I find her account of the events leading up to her leaving the District improbable, if not totally implausible, and having nothing to do with a hostile work environment.

Among other things, many of her complaints have been about the lack of perquisites and status to which she believed she was entitled. For example, the very first complaints she raised about her assignment to the Adult High School related to the lack of an office, air conditioning, or full-time staff like "every other Principal in the district." She also took umbrage over the fact that the Burlington County Administrators Directory, which had been published prior to her appointment, did not list her as Principal. Then, instead of appreciating having Mr. McGee present as a consultant to assist her with the transition, petitioner complained that his presence rendered her position as Principal meaningless and her appointment as such tantamount to a demotion. And finally, rather than accept a return to her tenured position and continued employment and, therefore, income as an Assistant Principal, she tendered her resignation because it was "time to move on."

In complete contrast, I found Superintendent Kittrels to be a sincere, credible witness. He remained remarkably composed throughout the course of the hearing and I took him at his word when he responded to one of petitioner's questions as follows: "We were never out to fight with you or hurt you. If I could have gotten you a job with the State, I would have, if for no other reason than to avoid all of this. We always tried to help you, and sometimes it comes back to bite you." And so it was here.

* * *

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to prove by a preponderance of the credible evidence that she was constructively discharged from employment by the Willingboro Township Board of Education, Superintendent Alonzo Kittrels, and Executive Director of Human Resources Marvin Hopkins. Accordingly, I further CONCLUDE that her petition seeking reinstatement to her untenured position of Principal of the Adult Education School should be dismissed. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MORRIS, MORRIS COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the Board's determination that her granddaughter, N.R.L., was not entitled to a free public education in the Morris Township Schools, claiming entitlement pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)1. The Board answered that the parents of N.R.L. do not reside in the District, nor does any legal guardian, and that no family or economic hardship has been shown. The Board counterclaimed for tuition against petitioner for the period of time that N.R.L. attended Morris Township Schools from October 2004 onward.

The ALJ found that the only factual basis presented in support of the application to permit N.R.L.'s attendance in the District's schools as an affidavit student was that N.R.L. wanted to move back to the District and wanted to live with her grandmother, and that such reasons do not establish that her parents are not capable of providing care for her due to a family or economic hardship. The ALJ concluded that there is a no genuine issue of material fact in this case, and that the District is entitled to Summary Decision as a matter of law; the petitioner's appeal is dismissed and the petitioner is ordered to pay the District the sum of $11,778.38 in tuition for the 2004-2005 school year.

Upon careful and independent review of the Initial Decision and the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to adopt the decision of the OAL as the Final Decision. In so doing, the Commissioner finds that counsel for petitioner submitted exceptions that were both untimely filed and based on revised answers to interrogatories that cannot be submitted, incorporated, or referred to within exceptions. Therefore, the petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were not considered in making the final determination in this case. The Commissioner dismisses the petition, and orders the petitioner to pay the Board $11,778.38 for the 163 days of N.R.L.'s ineligible attendance during the 2004-2005 school year.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MORRIS, MORRIS COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

On July 8, 2005, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) was mailed to the parties. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, exceptions in this matter were, therefore, due on July 21, 2005. On July 27, 2005, the Morris Township Board of Education (Board) filed a reply to petitioner's exceptions, noting that it was unclear as to whether the submission it received from petitioner constituted her exceptions[1] and stating that:

> We received the following from Mr. Jenson (sic) on July 21, 2005: (1) a July 21 letter addressed to John G. Geppert, Jr. of this office indicating "I have forwarded to the Commissioner exceptions to the Office of Administrative Law Decision dated July 8, 2005," (2) a July 18 letter containing a substitution of attorney, (3) revised discovery responses dated July 21, 2005 and (4) a July 21 letter to the Honorable Jesse H. Strauss, cc: to John G. Geppert, Jr., Esq. and D.B.R. We did not receive any correspondence or exceptions addressed to the Commissioner of Education.

When Mr. Jensen's July 21 submission to the Commissioner (referenced above) had not been received by July 28, a telephone call was placed to his office to ascertain what had happened to the copy of "exceptions" which Mr. Jensen had discussed in his letter to the Board, and to arrange for the missing submission to be immediately faxed to the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes for the Commissioner's consideration. Mr. Jensen's secretary indicated that he was on vacation until August 1, 2005 and that she was unable to fax anything with respect to the instant matter because the file was empty. A message was left for Mr. Jensen to immediately fax whatever submission was sent to the Board to the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes upon his return from his vacation. When nothing was received, the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes faxed a letter, dated August 4, 2005, to Mr. Jensen again requesting that he fax whatever submission was sent to the Board with respect to this case, followed with a hard copy by mail, within five days of receipt of the faxed August 4 letter. Additionally, Mr. Jensen was advised that:

> In that the time for the filing of exceptions has passed, you must also provide an explanation as to why the Commissioner did not receive your exceptions, along with proof that your submission was mailed and/or delivered for the Commissioner's receipt within the 13 days specified for receipt of exceptions.

Later that same day, August 4, the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes received from Mr. Jensen, by Federal Express, dated August 3, 2005: 1) an August 3, 2005 letter addressed to the Commissioner indicating that he was representing petitioner in this matter; 2) a copy of a letter of exceptions to Judge Strauss, dated July 21, 2005; and 3) a revised set of answers to interrogatories. On August 11, 2005, Mr. Jensen responded to the August 4 communication which requested the submission of proof that his submission was mailed and/or delivered for the Commissioner's receipt with the 13 days specified for receipt of exceptions, wherein he stated, in pertinent part:

> I hereby certify that our exceptions were filed within thirteen days, however, they were inadvertently forwarded to Judge Strauss instead of the Commissioner of Education. I now understand that this was the incorrect procedure and I apologize > for this oversight. On August 3, 2005 I did in fact Federal Express the original letter dated July 21, 2005 along with all attachments to the Commissioner's office.

> (Jensen Letter, dated August 8, 2005)

Upon consideration of Mr. Jensen's explanation, the Commissioner has determined that petitioner's exceptions were not timely filed and, thus, will not be considered. In so determining, the Commissioner points out that the instructions for the filing of exceptions are clearly set forth on the last page (page 13) of the Initial Decision in this matter:

> Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties. (emphasis in text)

The Commissioner also points out that this is not a case where a clerical error occurred and the exceptions were simply placed in an incorrect envelope. By counsel's own admission, petitioner's exceptions were addressed and directed to the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) and were not filed with the Commissioner until thirteen days after the due date. Moreover, even assuming, arguendo, that the exceptions were deemed timely filed, they would not be considered, in that a review of the two-page exception letter reveals that petitioner's exceptions are entirely based upon the revised answers to interrogatories submitted with the exceptions. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(c), "[e]vidence not presented at the hearing[2] shall not be submitted as part of an exception, nor shall it be incorporated or referred to within exceptions." Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, the Commissioner has not considered petitioner's exceptions or the Board's reply thereto in making his determination herein.

Upon a careful and independent review of the Initial Decision of the OAL and the record in this matter, therefore, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusion to grant the Board's motion for summary decision in that there are no material facts in dispute and the Board is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 (b) and Contini v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 286 N.J. Super. 106, 121 (App. Div. 1995) (citing, Brill, supra). Moreover, the Commissioner finds that petitioner has failed to establish that N.R.L.'s parents are not capable of providing care for her due to a family or economic hardship within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)1 so as to entitle N.R.L. to a free public education as an affidavit student in the Morris Township School District. The Commissioner further agrees with the grant of the Board's counterclaim for tuition in the amount of $11,778.38 for the 163 days of N.R.L.'s ineligible school attendance in the Morris Township School District during the 2004-2005 school year.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ granting summary decision to the Board is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

D.B.R., o/b/o MINOR CHILD, N.R.L., Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MORRIS, MORRIS COUNTY,
Respondent.

D.B.R., pro se, for petitioner

John G. Geppert, Jr., Esq., for respondent (Wiley, Malehorn and Sirota, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 22, 2005 Decided: July 7, 2005

BEFORE JESSE H. STRAUSS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner D.B.R. (petitioner) appealed the determination by respondent Board of Education of the Township of Morris, Morris County (District) that her minor granddaughter, N.R.L., was not entitled to a free public education in the District. Petitioner claimed that the minor child was entitled to a free public education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1). The District answered that N.R.L.'s parents do not reside in the District, she does not have a guardian that resides in the district and the appeal has not shown a family or economic hardship as required by this statute. The District also counterclaimed for tuition against petitioner for the period of time that N.R.L. attended the District from October 2004 onward.

Petitioner filed a Non-Resident Enrollment Application on September 29, 2004. In support of her application, she submitted a Support Resident Affidavit and a Parent Affidavit. Following the District's rejection of the application, petitioner filed her appeal on October 20, 2004 with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner). On November 12, 2004, the District filed an Answer to the Petition and a Counterclaim. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), N.R.L was admitted to school, provided that petitioner would be liable for tuition if the District ultimately prevailed in this litigation. Subsequently, on December 28, 2004, the Commissioner of the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case.

The initial hearing date of May 11, 2005 was adjourned at the request of the District, with the consent of petitioner, due to the unavailability of the District's primary witness. On June 1, 2005 the District filed a Motion for Summary Decision or to Bar Testimony with supporting documents and a brief. Petitioner filed what she identified as a cross Motion for Summary Decision and brief in support thereof on June 17, 2005, which was in fact a brief in opposition to the District's Motion. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.2(d), the undersigned permitted the District, as the moving party, to file papers responding to matters raised by petitioner. The undersigned received the reply brief on June 22, 2005. Although the parties requested oral argument, the undersigned determined that the written submissions were sufficiently thorough to permit him to dispose of the issues raised without the necessity of oral argument.

This matter had been scheduled for hearing on August 2, 2005.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The following facts are undisputed for the purpose of the cross-motions.

Petitioner is a resident of the District and the grandmother of N.R.L. N.R.L.'s parents, O.N.L. and T.S.J., had been residents of the District but moved to North Carolina sometime in 2004. N.R.L. had completed kindergarten through seventh grade in the District. When petitioner attempted to enroll N.R.L. in the District for the 2004-2005 school year, she submitted a Support Resident Affidavit executed by her and a Parent Affidavit executed by N.R.L.'s father, O.N.L., both on September 29, 2004. The Parent Affidavit indicates that O.N.L. is the owner of a construction company; no one has been appointed guardian of N.R.L; N.R.L will reside with petitioner indefinitely during the school year, including week nights, week-ends, vacations and the following summer, and petitioner would be paying for the support, maintenance and personal obligations of N.R.L. and would not receive payment in any form from either parent of N.R.L. The response to the question on the affidavit form as to why the child is not currently residing with her mother and/or father was, "She wanted to move back to N.J." The response to the question on the affidavit form as to why the child was placed in the home in the District was, "She wanted to live with Grandmother." The Support Resident Affidavit indicates that petitioner would be supporting N.R.L. gratis and had accepted the responsibility for the care, lodging, feeding, health, safety and all personal obligations of the child; petitioner agreed with the parents to permit the child to reside with her and to support the child free of charge indefinitely. This affidavit signed by petitioner also had the following provision: "I have been informed that the Morris School District will review this affidavit periodically and may request additional information or verification at a later date." [See, District Exhibit B].

The District subsequently determined that N.R.L. was ineligible to attend its schools and informed petitioner of that determination. Petitioner advised the District of her intention to appeal, and, since October 6, 2004, N.R.L. has been permitted to attend the schools of the District. Petitioner, in her responsive pleadings, does not dispute that the annual per pupil cost to the District for eighth graders is $13,006, or, divided by 180 school days, $72.26 per day. From October 6, 2004 through the end of the school year on June 22, 2004, N.R.L. attended the District's schools for 163 days at a cost of $11,778.38.

By letter to the Commissioner dated October 17, 2004, signed by both T.S.J., the mother of N.R.L., and petitioner, they indicated, "The family relocated to another State in August 2004, however, personal circumstances resulted in [N.R.L.] returning to New Jersey to live with her grandmother in Morris Township due to family hardship. There appears to be a rather minor piece of information the Director of Pupil Services indicated was desired. This hardly seems like a substantive reason for denying enrollment. Hardship is defined as hard circumstances of life or difficulty. This definition in no way implies a family must be completely incapable of providing a home." [See petitioner Exhibit C].

Following the submission of the District's Answer to the Petition, petitioner submitted a letter to the Commissioner dated November 16, 2004, where she acknowledged that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) requires a sworn statement from the parents "indicating their hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free education within the district." Rather than provide, through her own November 16 statement or through another statement of the parents of her granddaughter, facts in support of a parental hardship, she criticized the Parent Affidavit form for the absence of a statement that the parents needed to indicate there was a family or economic hardship and added ". . . we did not realize the level of detail needed, nor was there a supplemental instruction sheet provided that described the level of detail needed." She also indicated, "If the district wanted to know if there was a hardship then the form should be [sic] clearly ask that question." In response to that part of the District's Answer alleging a discussion with petitioner where she was given an opportunity to provide family hardship information, her response in her November 16 letter was, "It is not my place to provide information about my daughter's personal business and should not be included as an instance where the District alleges hardship was not demonstrated. Why didn't the district ask the parent's for additional information?" [See District Ex. C].

By letter of December 14, 2004, Director of Pupil Services Nancy Helterman communicated with both petitioner and N.R.L.'s mother, T.S.J., where she indicated,

> "While I am not in agreement with your premise that, under the existing statute, [N.R.L.] should have been granted unrestricted permission to enroll based on your statements, I will provide you with an opportunity to complete new forms. When they are ready, I will send them to you and request that you complete them and submit them for new consideration. I hope this will give you the opportunity to provide information that will permit [N.R.L.]'s registration to be made permanent, and her education to be uninterrupted." [See petitioner Ex. D].

Ms. Helterman again communicated with petitioner on March 29, 2005 enclosing the District's revised guidelines for residents who wish to enroll a student in the District including instructions and blank copies of the affidavits previously completed. Her letter indicates, "If you would like to do so, you may complete the questionnaire and the new affidavits and return them to my office at your convenience. I will review them and make a new determination regarding [N.R.L]'s enrollment." The revised instructions regarding an "affidavit" student provide in relevant part as follows:

> "Students are not eligible to attend school as "affidavit" students unless the student's parent or guardian is not capable of supporting or providing care for the student due to family or economic hardship, and unless it is clear that the student is not living in the district solely for purposes of receiving a public education there. Please explain the circumstances applicable in this case, with special attention to the parent/guardian's family and/or economic hardship." [See petitioner Exhibit D].

As a result of petitioner's appeal of the District's decision not to admit N.R.L. for the 2004-2005, school year, the District served interrogatories on petitioner. Interrogatory 13 directed that petitioner "explain in detail why N.R.L. is not residing with her parents," to which she replied, "It is not my place to discuss someone else's personal business." Interrogatory 14 directed that petitioner explain in detail the family or personal hardship that prevents N.R.L.'s parents from supporting or caring for N.R.L." to which she replied, "It is not my place to discuss someone else's personal business." [See District's Exhibit D].

The District also served a demand for admissions on petitioner. The following responses to the following requests for admissions were provided by petitioner:

Admission 1. Do you admit that you refuse to provide a reason why N.R.L's parents are incapable of supporting or caring for her?

Answer: It is not my place to discuss someone else's personal business.

Admission 3. Do you admit that you refuse to provide a reason why there is a personal or family hardship in this case?

Answer: It is not my place to discuss someone else's personal business

Admission 4. Do you admit that N.R.L.'s parents refuse to provide a reason why there is a personal or family hardship in this case?

Answer: All I know is [N.R.L.]'s parents did complete the form given to them by Nancy Helterman.

Admission 5. Do you admit that the reason N.R.L. is attending school at the Morris School District is because N.R.L. wanted to move back to New Jersey?

Answer: [N.R.L.] is attending the Morris School District because she returned to New Jersey.

Admission 6. Do you admit that N.R.L. is living with you because she wanted to live with her grandmother?

Answer: I am her grandmother - family helping family when in need.

Admission 7. Do you admit that you are not the legal guardian of N.R.L.

Answer: I am [N.R.L.]'s grandmother and do not need to be her legal guardian in order for her to live with me. [See District Exhibit E].

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Summary decision is the administrative counterpart to summary judgment in the judicial arena. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." This language is substantially similar to the guidelines for summary judgment under New Jersey Court Rule 4:46-2(c) which provides in part that the judgment or order sought shall be rendered if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law.

In order to defeat a summary decision motion, the adverse party must respond by affidavits setting forth "specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary hearing." Use of the summary procedure is aimed at "the swift uncovering of the merits and either their effective disposition or their advancement toward prompt resolution by trial." Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Wesfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954).

Recently, the New Jersey Supreme Court encouraged trial-level courts "not to refrain from granting summary judgment when the proper circumstances present themselves." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 541 (1995). While cautioning that a judge should not weigh the truth of the evidence or resolve factual disputes at this early stage of the proceedings, the Court clarified that "when the evidence 'is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law,' [citation omitted], the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment." Brill at 540.

New Jersey provides that "public schools shall be free to . . . any child who is domiciled within the school district." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). The domicile of a minor child follows that of her parents. P.P.M. on behalf of S.S. v. Bd. of Ed. of the South Orange-Maplewood School District, http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/html/initial/edu01839-031.html. However, an exception exists under the following circumstances enumerated in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)1:

> Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so > required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statements, information from or about which shall be supplied only to the board and only to the extent that it directly pertains to the support or nonsupport of the child. If in the judgment of the board of education the evidence does not support the validity of the claim by the resident, the board may deny admission to the child.

Thus, to meet the statutory requirement for the admission to the schools of a district of a child whose parent or parents do not live in the district, the evidence must show that; (1) petitioner is domiciled within the district; (2) petitioner is supporting the child gratis; (3) the child's parents are not capable of supporting or caring for her due to family or economic hardship, and (4) the child is not residing with petitioner solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education in the district. The requirement of the parents to substantiate the last two of the above elements is reiterated in N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.2(a)1i which provides that a student is not eligible to attend school in a district unless:

> The student's parent or guardian has filed, together with documentation to support its validity, a sworn statement that he or she is not capable of supporting or providing care for the student due to family or economic hardship and that the student is not residing with the other person solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education.

Where the above elements are not met, the resident shall be assessed tuition computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)1.

If the school board determines that the evidence does not support the validity of the claim of the resident for admission of a child whose parents or guardian do not live in the district, it may deny admission to the child and the resident may appeal to the Commissioner for a hearing. The resident "shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in [the statute]." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)1.

Notwithstanding that an evidentiary hearing has not yet occurred, petitioner, as the resident in this matter, has not demonstrated that she could meet her burden of proof as she has consistently failed and refused to provide information to support a claim of hardship. I have considered the fact that petitioner is representing herself and may not have the legal sophistication of experienced counsel. However, her several submissions since the initial determination of the District rejecting the application to have N.R.L. attend the District schools as an affidavit student make it clear that she understands the critical question related to the District's rejection but has refused to answer it. Her brief and case and statutory citations leave no doubt that petitioner has not been handicapped in the presentation of her position or confused as to her obligations. It is not acceptable for petitioner to avoid answering the questions related to hardship by arguing that such information must come from the parents of N.R.L. since the statute (which she recites in her papers) is clear that the burden to establish the elements for qualification as an affidavit student rests with the resident who is petitioner. Therefore, I reject petitioner's contention in her brief that, "the question here is not whether there is a hardship rather who is required to provide the hardship information."

The Parent Affidavit in support of the application recites as the reason N.R.L. is not residing with her parents is that she wanted to move back to New Jersey and the reason she was placed in a home in the District was because she wanted to live with her grandmother. Those statements, without any elaboration or explanation, fall woefully short of satisfying the requirement of a sworn statement that the parents are not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship. At best, these statements suggest that N.R.L.'s presence in the District was due to her own personal preference and not hardship. Petitioner missed this first opportunity to establish hardship, but had ample subsequent chances to resolve this issue even if her complaint were meritorious that the initial Parent Affidavit form was ambiguous as to the need to present evidence of hardship.

Petitioner contends in her brief that the hardship information was provided in a letter she and her daughter submitted dated October 17, 2004. This letter is enlightening in several respects. It is signed by both petitioner and the mother of N.R.L. thereby negating any notion that the parent was not available or capable of providing such information or that petitioner had no means of exacting such information from the parent or parents. Moreover, based on a review of the letter, petitioner's contention that there is a family or personal hardship and that the hardship information was provided in the October 17 letter is not supported by the letter's contents. Despite knowing that the District had rejected the application because of the inadequacy of the information provided in the Parent Affidavit, the parent's reference to family hardship in the letter merely stated a conclusion and provided nothing as to the nature of the hardship or any evidence in support of the hardship claim. The recitation, "personal circumstances resulted in [N.R.L.] returning to New Jersey to live with her grandmother in Morris Township due to family hardship" certainly did not provide the District with any information whatsoever upon which it could evaluate the bona fides of a claim of hardship. Although the letter acknowledged that there appears to be a rather minor piece of information the Director of Pupil Services indicated was desired, both the resident and parent declined this second opportunity to provide this information. Petitioner's criticism of the lack of clarity of the questions on the Parent Affidavit is meaningless in view of her subsequent recognition of the District's demand for additional information.

In her November 16, 2004 response to the Commissioner of the District's Answer to her Petition, petitioner criticized the Parent Affidavit form for the absence of a statement that the parents needed to indicate a family hardship and complained that they did not realize the level of detail needed. Obviously, petitioner, at that point, was well aware that a level of detail in support of the hardship claim was necessary, but inexplicably declined to take this third opportunity to detail the hardship. Instead, petitioner argued that it is not her place to provide information about her daughter's personal business. Again, as the resident, it was indeed her place to either provide such information or secure it from her daughter or N.R.L's father. She recited from N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1) in the November 16 letter but ignored that part of the statute that requires that a parent's sworn statement that he is not capable of providing care for the child due to a family hardship be accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statements.

Subsequently, the District afforded petitioner an additional opportunity to support her application by advising her in December 2004 that it would be providing her with new forms to submit "for new consideration." The letter specifically advised that this process would give petitioner the opportunity to submit information that would permit N.R.L.'s registration to be made permanent. In her brief, petitioner does not indicate that she availed herself of the fourth opportunity to provide the necessary information, but instead referenced the revised questionnaire only to support her non-dispositive contention that the original questionnaire was deficient.

Finally, petitioner ignored a fifth opportunity to support the claim of hardship by refusing to answer clear and unambiguous interrogatories and requests for admissions that went to the critical issue in this matter by instead reiterating her earlier position that it is not her place to discuss someone else's personal business, obviously referring to her daughter and N.R.L.'s father. Again, as petitioner was the applicant for allowing N.R.L. to attend the District's schools as an affidavit student, it was her responsibility to ultimately provide support for the application or to obtain from others such information necessary to support that application. Petitioner has repeatedly complained about the process while blithely declining multiple opportunities to support a claim of hardship. In doing so, she has failed to satisfy the statutory obligations by which to establish N.R.L.'s eligibility to attend District schools. N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.1 provides that the purpose of discovery rules in an administrative proceeding is to facilitate the disposition of cases by streamlining the hearing and enhancing the likelihood of settlement or withdrawal. The rules are designed to achieve this purpose by giving litigants access to facts which tend to support or undermine their position or that of their adversary. Id. Petitioner's responses gave the District no facts which tended to support her position.

After evaluating all of the submissions by petitioner and the parents, the only factual basis presented in support of the application to permit N.R.L.'s attendance in the District's schools as an affidavit student was that N.R.L. wanted to move back to the District and N.R.L. wanted to live with her grandmother. Such reasons do not establish that her parents are not capable of providing care for her due to a family hardship within the meaning of the statute. A petitioner must establish not only a family hardship but one that renders the parents not capable of caring for their child. H.K and G.K on behalf of minor children J.K. and C.K v. Board of Education of the Township of Cherry Hill, Camden County, http://law library.rutgers,edu/oaldecisions/initial/edu673-97.html.(1998). Petitioner has not presented any evidence that might establish either element. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to present affidavits setting forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary hearing and that the District is entitled to Summary Decision as a matter of law dismissing petitioner's claims. As petitioner has not contested the number of days in which N.R.L. attended the District's schools during the 2004-2005 school year or the daily per pupil cost for eighth graders, and in view of the above conclusion, I further CONCLUDE that the District is entitled to assess petitioner the sum of $11,778.38 in tuition for N.R.L. pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the District's Motion for Summary Decision be GRANTED; it is further ORDERED that petitioner's appeal of the determination of the District that N.R.L. is not entitled to a free public education in the District be DISMISSED, and it is further ORDERED that petitioner pay the District the sum of $11,778.38 in tuition for N.R.L. for the 2004-2005 school year.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." Record Closed: November 27, 2006 Decided: November 27, 2006

BEFORE IMRE KARASZEGI, JR., ALJ

On August 15, 2006, the Commissioner of Education received Petitioner's application for emergent relief regarding the revocation of Petitioner's senior parking privileges on the school campus. On August 23, 2006, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law where it was filed as a contested case. On August 29, 2006, oral argument was presented in the Newark offices of the Office of Administrative Law before this Judge and, after hearing the arguments of counsel and any other documentation submitted, Petitioner's motion for emergent relief was denied. A hearing date was scheduled for October 27, 2006 at the OAL in Newark. Prior to the hearing, under letter dated October 18, 2006, counsel for the Board submitted the attached Settlement Agreement.

Having reviewed the record and the terms of the settlement I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that settlement should be approved. Accordingly, I approve the settlement ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners challenged respondent Board's mandatory school uniform policy, which became effective September 25, 2006, and sought emergent relief for an order to declare the policy invalid. An emergent hearing was held on October 19, 2006. Respondent argued that petitioners cannot meet the criteria for emergent relief, and that the petition was untimely filed.

On November 2, 2006, the ALJ issued an Order on emergent relief, finding, inter alia, that the petitioners failed to timely file their claims under the 90-day rule, and sufficient justification was not demonstrated to relax the rule. The ALJ dismissed the petition.

The Commissioner found that the ALJ had conclusively resolved this matter on procedural grounds of untimeliness, notwithstanding that her decision was issued in the form of an Order. Therefore, the Commissioner treated this matter as an Initial Decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.3, and afforded the parties 13 days from the date of notice of such to submit exceptions and reply exceptions. Petitioner's exceptions were subsequently late filed, and not considered in reaching a final decision. The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the petition was untimely, and accordingly adopted the decision of the OAL dismissing the matter.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF BAYONNE, HUDSON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter – which included the audiotape of proceedings conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 19, 2006 – and the Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. Upon such review, it was evident that the ALJ had conclusively resolved this matter on the procedural grounds of untimeliness of the petition, notwithstanding that her decision was issued in the form of an Order. Therefore, by letter dated November 21, 2006 – transmitted by facsimile and regular mail – the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes advised the parties that the Commissioner would be treating this matter as an Initial Decision, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.3 and, as such, they would be afforded 13 days from the date of this letter to submit exceptions and reply exceptions – in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – to the ALJ's conclusion that this matter was untimely filed.[1] Petitioners' exceptions – dated and filed by facsimile on December 5, 2006 – were untimely and, thus, are not considered herein.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ, for the reasons detailed on pages 4-7 of her decision, that this matter is appropriately dismissed as it was filed outside the 90-day limitation period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d) and petitioners have provided no factual or legal justification which would warrant relaxation of this rule.

Even assuming, arguendo, that untimeliness had not barred consideration of the instant petition, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that petitioners' request for emergent relief must be denied as they have failed to satisfy any of the requirements necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). She further agrees – again for the reasons set forth in the decision – that the collateral "as applied" claims of the LaRocco's and Miller's must also be dismissed. Finally, the Commissioner would decline to award any relief to parent D.G., as this individual is not a party to this matter.

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the decision of the OAL dismissing this matter as untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d). By copy of this decision, the Commissioner requests that any vestiges of this matter remaining at the OAL be returned to the Agency.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On October 16, 2006, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. On October 19, 2006, an emergent hearing was held and subsequent to presenting oral argument, the parties submitted a post argument summary.

Board of Education ("Board" or "Respondent") from enforcing a mandatory school uniform policy and to declare the policy invalid.

Petitioners David and Tracie Miller claimed a religious exemption from the school uniform policy for their children.

Petitioners Michael and Robin LaRocco claimed a medical exemption from the school uniform policy for their child.

Parent D.G. submitted a certification dated October 18, 2006, and appealed the denial of her application for a medical exemption from the school uniform policy for her child, M.G. D.G. is not listed as a party in this matter. Notwithstanding the omission, her request shall be addressed.

Respondent opposes the petition and application for emergent relief. The Board argues that petitioners cannot meet the elements for emergent relief. Further, the Board contends that the petitions are untimely under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

FACTS

Based on the petition and certifications I FIND the following relevant FACTS.

1. Petitioners, parents of children who attend the Bayonne School District grades Pre-K to 8, seek emergent relief for an order to restrain respondent Bayonne. On June 19, 2006, the Board adopted a mandatory School Uniform Policy No. 5511. ("Policy") pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-8.

2. The Policy became effective September 25, 2006.

3. On June 28, 2006, the Board adopted the Regulations, "Dress and Grooming-Elementary School R. 5511.1", providing for implementation, procedures and consequences for non-compliance of Policy 5511.

4. On July 26, 2006, the Board amended the regulation, which it originally adopted on June 28, 2006.

5. The June 28, 2006 regulation required student compliance within three (3) school days of a Policy violation, and included as potential discipline, detention, in-school suspension, and loss of privileges such as playing for school sports teams, and participation in school sponsored activities.

6. The regulation as amended on July 26th, required compliance within five (5) school days of a violation, and included discipline or detention and loss of privileges. The provision allowing suspension was removed.

7. On August 29, 2006, the Board amended Policy 5511 to delete in school suspension for repeated violations of the Policy.

8. The Policy contains opt-out provisions for students on religious and medical grounds.

ISSUES

The issues are whether Petitioners have timely filed their petitions and if, so, have they met all requirements for emergent relief.

DISCUSSION

90-DAY RULE

The N.J. Administrative Code provides that a Petitioner may challenge the action of a board of education by filing a petition conforming to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.4. See N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(a) and (i). In addition to serving the petition upon each Respondent, the petition must be filed:

> No later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.

In Kaprow v. Berkeley Twp. Bd. of Educ., the N.J. Supreme Court held that adequate notice must be sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate. 131 N.J. 572, 587 (1993). Specifically, the 90-day period begins to run when the Petitioner "learns or reasonably should learn [of] the existence of that state of facts which may equate in law with a cause of action." Id. at 587 (citing Burd v. N.J. Tel. Co., 76 N.J. 284, 291 (1978)). Therefore, the 90-day period begins to run when a Petitioner knows or reasonably should know of facts that would enable him to file a timely claim.

Here, the Board took action on June 19, 2006. The parents had a right to know about the Board's action. The Board adopted the resolution at a public meeting, which the Petitioners were permitted to attend, and notice that the Policy had been adopted was disseminated shortly thereafter. Subsequently, on June 26, 2006, the Board enacted regulations implementing the policy, which it later amended on July 26, 2006. On August 29, 2006, the Board amended the Policy to remove in school suspension as a potential discipline for chronic non-compliance.

I am persuaded that Petitioners' challenge is based upon the Board's initial action in implementing the mandatory school uniform policy. See Petition at 1. Indeed, Petitioners do not challenge the subsequent regulation amendments, nor do they challenge the change in wording that was adopted on August 29th. Therefore, the Petitioners had notice that the Policy had been adopted on or about June 19th, and the 90-day period began to run on that date. The Petitioners filed their petition with the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on October 10, 2006, approximately 113 days after the dress code was amended to become the uniform Policy. Consequently, unless good cause exists to justify relaxation of the rule, Petitioners claim is fatally time-barred, and must be dismissed.

The 90-day rule has been strictly followed, and applied almost without exception. In Dreher v. Jersey City Bd. of Educ., Petitioner filed his petition two days out of time, and the matter was dismissed as untimely. OAL Dkt. No. EDU 2777-87 (December 18, 1987), adopted Comm'r (February 2, 1988), aff'd St. Bd. of Educ. (July 8, 1988). Regardless of whether the board complies with statutory or administrative requirements, the Petitioner is required to file the petition no later than 90 days after receipt of notice. Portee v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 381, 383. But see Eisenberg v. Fort Lee Bd. of Educ., 2003 WL 23643569 (St. Bd. of Educ.) (holding that because the Petitioner learned of new facts that gave rise to an additional claim, the 90-day rule did not start running until the date of notice of those facts). Moreover, attempts to resolve a dispute with a school board through avenues other than litigation will not serve to toll the 90-day rule. Wise v. Trenton Bd. of Educ., 2000 WL 34401734 (Requests to a board of education for reconsideration of its final determination do not toll the 90-day rule). See also Pacio v. Lakeland Regional School District Bd. of Educ., 1989 S.L.D. 2060, 2069. Here, the 90-day rule must be applied to the Petitioners claims.

Petitioners received notice of the Policy on or about June 19, 2006, but took no action until October. They assert that the "final action" of the board took place on August 29, 2006. However, the finality of the Board's action is not the standard. Considering that the rule specifically includes "final orders", "rulings" or "other actions", and specifically refers to "notice of" any of those actions, the proper standard is when Petitioners had or reasonably should have had notice of the Board's action. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3i. Petitioners' assertion that the Board did not comply with statutory and administrative requirements in adopting the Policy, and that the policy is facially defective because it does not contain a provision for low income students is unsupported. Procedural and statutory non-compliance does not exempt petitioners from the rules' requirement. Moreover, the amendments and any ongoing dialogue between the Board and parents are of no moment in terms of when the 90-day period began to run. The rule cannot be tolled. The facial challenge does not fall within the purview of Eisenberg because no new facts that would give rise to additional claims that have come to light since the Board's action on June 19, 2006. Therefore, the facial challenge to the Policy for all Petitioners is out of time.

I have considered the circumstances presented and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16, which allows relaxation of the rule in exceptional cases. DeMaio v. New Providence Bd. of Educ., held that the authority to relax or waive the rule is rarely invoked and is generally unsuccessful unless strict adherence would be inappropriate, unnecessary or where injustice would occur. 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 449, 453 (citing Gordon v. Passaic Bd. of Educ., 1985 S.L.D. 1929, 1931, aff'd, A-3294-84 (App. Div. May 27, 1986), certif. denied, 105 N.J. 534 (1986)). Brunetti v. Borough of New Milford, further exempted three types of cases from the 90-day rule; (1) cases involving important and novel Constitutional questions, (2) informal or ex parte determinations of legal questions by administrative officials, and (3) important public, rather than private, interests which require adjudication or clarification. 68 N.J. 576, 586 (1975). None of these exceptions applies in this case.

There is no novel Constitutional question over which this tribunal has jurisdiction. "Normally, in administrative proceedings, Petitioners can attack the Constitutionality of rules as applied, but they may not mount facial attacks." 37 New Jersey Practice, Administrative Law and Practice, § 3.8, at 107 (Lefelt, Miragliotta and Prunty) (2d Ed. 2000). "Pure legal questions are reserved for the courts. Accordingly, an agency has no power to determine the Constitutionality of a statute on its face." Ibid. The Commissioner of Education and ALJs do not have authority to strike down statutes, rules, etc. Ibid. Thus, there is no jurisdiction for an ALJ to consider a facial Constitutional challenge.

On the other hand, in "as applied" challenges, the question involves whether an agency is applying its rule in such a way as to violate an individual's Constitutional rights. Ibid. Here, it would appear that the Petitioners assert that the statute enabling public schools to enact uniform policies is unconstitutional, and as such, any action taken under the authority of the statute is tainted. Petitioners also question whether the Board's actions in implementing the Policy were in violation of the statute and applicable school laws. A challenge of this sort does not justify relaxing the 90-day rule. Alleged school board violations of applicable statutes and regulations are the reason the 90-day rule exists; to obtain prompt resolution of school Board malfeasance, and to provide a measure of repose to parties. See Kaprow, 131 N.J. at 582. Therefore, in order to challenge the Board's actions as unconstitutional, Petitioners must challenge the statute authorizing its' action in Superior Court. Had Petitioners timely filed this petition, they could have challenged the Board's actions as unconstitutionally violative of applicable statutes and regulations. However, those claims are barred by the 90-day rule.

Additionally, there was no informal or ex parte rulemaking. All proceedings in this matter were open to the public and were formal, regardless of whether the Petitioners attended. The interests here, though not purely private, are not justifiable in this forum for the above noted reasons. As a result, no valid reason exists that would justify relaxation of the 90-day rule.

EMERGENT RELIEF

The standard for granting emergent relief is set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6, and Crowe v. DeGioia;

1. The Petitioner will suffer immediate and irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;

2. The legal right underlying the Petitioner's claim is settled;

3. The Petitioner has a substantial likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the Petitioner will suffer greater harm than would the Respondent if the relief is not granted. 90 N.J. 126 (1982); N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6; See also W.L.B. and K.B. v. Bd. of Educ. of Woodbury Sch. Dist., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 695 (1996).

Emergent relief is awarded as an "extraordinary equitable remedy ... [and] must be administered with sound discretion and always upon the considerations of justice, equity, and morality." Zoning Bd. of Adj. v. Service Electric Cable Television, 198 N.J. Super. 370, 379 (App. Div. 1985). Assuming, arguendo, that the challenge were not time barred, Petitioners must satisfy the applicable standards.

First, Petitioners' contend that if the students continue in non-compliance with the Policy, they will suffer irreparable harm, i.e., detentions, exclusion from school sponsored activities, and potential ostracism. I reject Petitioners' argument. No irreparable harm results if students are temporarily required to comply with the Policy, and wear the school uniform, pending the outcome of this case.

Second, Petitioners must demonstrate they are entitled to relief. Notwithstanding the 90-day rule, Petitioners have not demonstrated that they have a legal right to demand a moral opt-out provision in the Policy. The statute does not require any opt-out provisions, nor does it prescribe or proscribe what provisions, if any, a school may include.

Third, as to the likelihood of success on the merits, Petitioners have not shown that they have a substantial likelihood of success.

Finally, when the balance of equities is weighed, the Board's need to implement and to enforce a school uniform policy outweighs Petitioners' desires not to have their children wear the school uniform. Temporary compliance with the Policy will not be unduly burdensome. Therefore, assuming arguendo that the 90-day rule has not barred the filing, Petitioners would not have been able to satisfy the standard.

As to Petitioners LaRocco, Miller and parent D.G., whose collateral "as applied" claims remain, only D.G. satisfies the emergent relief standard.

PETITIONERS MICHAEL AND ROBIN LAROCCO

Petitioners Michael and Robin LaRocco have requested their child be granted an exemption from the school uniform policy. Their petition must be dismissed under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(a) and (i). The Board must have taken action in order for a petitioner to bring a challenge. Ibid. Petitioners LaRocco have requested a medical exemption. However, they concede that the Board has not acted on their application. The LaRocco's have failed to assert any action by the Board that would constitute a denial of their request. Therefore, the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(a) and (i) have not been met, and their petition must be dismissed as premature.

PETITIONERS DAVID AND TRACIE MILLER

Petitioners David and Tracie Miller have requested that their children be exempted from the Policy on the grounds that a mandatory uniform policy irreconcilably conflicts with their religious beliefs. They claim that the Board acted in violation of their First Amendment free exercise rights when it requested more information from them in response to their application.

First, the Miller's claim is premature because the Board has taken no formal action as to their application. See discussion of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(a) and (i) supra. No further documentation has been submitted indicating that the Board has formally denied the exemption. The Millers asserted that the school Principal verbally informed David Miller that the application would be denied for failure to complete the application process. Petition at 7. The Board has not disputed the assertion. However, the Principal's alleged statement does not constitute action by the Board. The Principal does not speak on behalf of the school Board, nor is she authorized to make decisions on the Board's behalf. The Miller's petition is premature.

Assuming, arguendo, that the Miller's petition is timely, their claim requires that two threshold elements to be met before religious beliefs are accorded First Amendment protection. Africa v. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, 662 F.2d 1025, 1030 (3d Cir. 1981). A court's task is to decide whether the avowed beliefs are (1) sincerely held, and (2) religious in nature. Ibid.; see United States v. Seeger, 380 U.S. 163, 185, 85 S. Ct. 850, 863, 13 L. Ed.2d 733 (1965); see also Callahan v. Woods, 658 F.2d 679 (9th Cir. 1981). If either of these two elements is not satisfied, the Court need not reach the merits of whether a legitimate and reasonably exercised state interest outweighs the proffered First Amendment claim. Africa 622 F.2d at 1030. It is inappropriate for any court to attempt to assess the verity of an asserted religious belief. The U.S. Supreme Court held, "religious beliefs need not be acceptable, logical, consistent, or comprehensible to others in order to merit First Amendment protection." Hicks v. Halifax County Bd. of Educ., 93 F. Supp. 2d 649, 657 (E.D.N.C. 1999), citing Thomas v. Review Board of Indiana Employment Sec. Div., 450 U.S. 707, 714, 101 S. Ct. 1425, 67 L. Ed. 2d 624 (1981). However, the truth of an asserted belief may not be questioned by a governmental entity. 380 U.S. at 185. Whether the belief is truly religious in nature, and whether it is sincerely held remains a threshold question into which the government may inquire. Ibid. Without some sort of required showing of sincerity from the individual seeking protection, the First Amendment would become a limitless excuse for avoiding all unwanted legal obligations. Africa, 622 F.2d at 1030.

Indeed, the courts have consistently allowed governmental entities to inquire into the actual religiousness of the asserted views, and the sincerity with which they are held. However, inquiries must be undertaken with extreme caution. I/M/O Alan Paul Sherr, 672 F. Supp. 81, 95 (E.D.N.Y. 1987) (An investigation by the school district found that the "temple" to which Petitioners claimed that they belonged was a sham because it held no services, had no organization or structure, operated out of the founder's home, and was essentially a "mail order church"; The school's actions in investigating were not questioned by the Court); See United States v. Ballard, 322 U.S. 78, 64 S. Ct 882 (1944); Wilkins v. Penns Grove-Carney's Point Reg. Sch. Dist., 123 Fed. Appx. 493, 2005 U.S. App. LEXIS 2491 (3d Cir. 2005); International Society for Krishna Consciousness v. Barber, 650 F.2d 430, 441 (2d Cir. 1981).

As to the Miller's application, the Board has not asked whether the Millers' beliefs are truly religious. Rather, it is constitutionally permissible for the Board to verify the sincerity of the applicant's belief. Indeed, the Board is prepared to exempt any student provided the parents document the sincerity of their religious beliefs.

The Board used the questionnaire to verify the sincerity of the Miller's asserted beliefs. The Millers claimed that it was "onerous" and "intrusive" and they refused to answer the questionnaire. Bearing in mind that a school district may not inquire as to the verity or reasonableness of the Miller's beliefs, but only whether the beliefs are sincere and "religious" in nature, the questionnaire was reasonable. It asked nothing more than twelve "yes" or "no" questions related to whether the Millers or their children currently ware, or ever had worn, a uniform for any purpose; professional, recreational, educational or religious. A governmental entity such as a school board is entitled to make an inquiry when an individual subject to their authority makes a request for religious exemption. Perhaps more importantly, unless required by statute, governmental entities are not bound to grant exemptions based on bald assertions. Therefore, the Bayonne Board of Education would be completely within its rights in refusing to grant the application on this basis.

Consequently, in addition to being premature, the Miller's claim must be dismissed because the Board acted within its rights by making further inquiries into the applicants conduct.

PARENT D.G.

Parent D.G. has requested a medical exemption for her son, M.G., which the Board denied on or about October 13, 2006. The July 26, 2006 regulation provides that a student may wear a uniform of alternative material or non-uniform clothing, "upon presentation of proper medical documentation, approved by the Chief Medical Inspector of the school district". D.G. claims that her son has "fine motor incoordination, Asperger's Syndrome, and tactile hypersensitivity". Further, M.G. is physically unable tolerate wearing any clothing with collars, snaps, buttons or zippers. The uniform for boys requires either pants or shorts, and a collared polo shirt with three buttons. Sweat pants and district logo T-shirts may only be worn for physical education class. George Mellendick, M.D. and Chief Medical Inspector, denied the exemption as a whole.[1] Unlike Principal

[1] Dr. Mellendick permitted D.G. to dress her son in sweat pants instead of regular pants or shorts.

Quinn's alleged comments to Mr. Miller Dr. Mellendick's denial of the exemption was on behalf of the Board, and was sanctioned by the Board,.

The standard for emergent relief has been satisfied. M.G. cannot wear collared shirts or clothing with buttons, the school polo has both. M.G.'s educational progress and medical wellbeing are likely to suffer irreparable harm if the policy is enforced as to him. The school uniform policy contains an exemption for medical reasons. Therefore, the legal right underlying D.G.'s claim is settled. Given the uncontested facts, D.G. has a substantial likelihood of success on the merits. When the balance of equities is weighed, the child's interests (medical condition) outweigh the interest of the Board in enforcing the policy as to him. Therefore, D.G. has satisfied both the timeliness standard, and the standards governing emergent relief.

CONCLUSIONS

I CONCLUDE that Petitioners have not timely filed their claims under the 90-day rule. N.J.A.C 6A:3-1.3i. I further CONCLUDE that petitioners have not demonstrated sufficient justification to relax the rule the 90-day

Therefore, Petitioners' challenge to the Policy is hereby DISMISSED.

I CONCLUDE that even if the 90-rule did not apply, Petitioners would not have satisfied the stands for emergent relief. Therefore, Petitioners' application would be DENIED and their petitions would be DISMISSED.

I CONCLUDE that the claim of Petitioners Michael and Robin LaRocco for a n exemption is not ripe for adjudication. Therefore, their claim is DISMISSED.

I CONCLUDE that the Miller's claim is premature because the Board has not acted upon petitioners' request for religious exemption. Additionally, I CONCLUDE that the Board acted reasonably regarding the application. Therefore, the Miller's claim is DISMISSED.

I CONCLUDE that D.G. has satisfied the standard for emergency relief, provided she file a motion to amend the petition and be a named party to this case.

It is so ORDERED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If (title of agency head) does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BEFORE CARIDAD F. RIGO, ALJ:

On January 12, 2006, this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by way of an application for due process filed by petitioners B.L.E. on behalf of I.L.W., challenging the Board of Education's residency determination. (Docket Number EDU 1320-06N)

A hearing was scheduled on May 8, 2006 at the OAL, 33 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey, during which time the parties reached a settlement. On May 23, 2006, the parties prepared and submitted a settlement and the undersigned rendered an Initial Decision/Settlement on May 24, 2006.

On August 31, 2006 this matter was remanded to the Office of Administrative Law because the settlement did not contain a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement nor did was it signed by the Board's attorney.

September 26, 2006 the Board's attorney forwarded a copy of an extract of the Board minutes, certified by the Board Secretary, from its May 22, 2006 meeting wherein the settlement was approved by the Board which are incorporated herein by reference.

I have reviewed the record and terms of the settlement and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signatures of the parties or their authorized representatives and/or as further evidenced by the recording of the official minute book as attached hereto.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with law.

I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the safeguard requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and, accordingly, I approve the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

OAL Docket No. EDU 01320-06

Dear Judge Rigo:

Relative to the above remanded case, I enclose an extract of the Board minutes, certified by the Board Secretary, from its May 22, 2006 meeting wherein the settlement was approved by the Board.

I trust this will satisfy the Commissioner and Your Honor can resubmit her Initial Decision with the stipulation of settlement.

Please advise as to whether the October 2 telephone conference will still be necessary.

Very truly yours,

RESPONDENT.	:

The record, Stipulation of Settlement and Release, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner observes that the seventh paragraph of the agreement states that the settlement "is conditioned upon approval of the board." In that neither the file nor the settlement agreement contains a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement, nor, in the alternative, is the agreement executed (as opposed to witnessed) by the Board attorney, who is the Board's duly authorized representative in litigation, the Commissioner cannot approve the within settlement agreement.

Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for supplementation of the record and/or revision of the Settlement Agreement consistent with the concerns set forth above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to hearing.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on August 31, 2006, for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached Stipulation of Settlement and Release indicating the terms of settlement, which was received by the undersigned on October 19, 2006

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

This Stipulation of Settlement and Release is made by and between the Orange Board of Education (the "Board") with administrative offices located at 451 Lincoln Avenue, Orange, New Jersey, 07050 and Mitchell Vitiello (the "Petitioner"), whose address is 5 Roland Road, Peaquannock, New Jersey 07440. In consideration of mutual promises and undertakings contained in this Stipulation of Settlement and Release and for good and valuable consideration the receipt of which is hereby acknowledge, the undersigned parties state:

WHEREAS, on March 8, 2004, Petitioner was employed by the Board as a teaching staff member; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner was charged with a criminal action for certain acts alleged to have occurred on March 8, 2004, while Petitioner was in the employ of the Board; and

WHEREAS, on February 25, 2005, the criminal complaint against Petitioner was dismissed pursuant to a not-guilty verdict after trial; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner filed a Petition of Reimbursement with the Commissioner of Education on or about May 18, 2005, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1, seeking reimbursement from the Board for Petitioner's attorneys' fees and costs associated with the legal defense of the criminal action with which Petitioner had been charged; and

WHEREAS, on July 25, 2005, the board filed its answer to the Petition of Reimbursement with Affirmative Defenses; and

WHEREAS, the parties have determined that it is in their respective best interests to enter into this Stipulation of Settlement and Release to avoid the need for further litigation;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises and covenants, the parties agree as follows:

1. The Board will pay to the Petitioner the sum of Twelve Thousand Dollars ($12, 000.00) in full and complete satisfaction of the amount Petitioner is claiming to be due and owing to him from the Board for Petitioner's attorneys' fees and costs.
2. This settlement amount will be paid directly to the trust account of Petitioner's legal counsel, Timothy R. Smith Esq. of Timothy R. Smith & Associates L.L.C., 76 South Orange Avenue, Suite 211, South Orange, New Jersey, 07079, following the approval of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release by the commissioner of Education.
3. Petitioner, in consideration of this Agreement, herby release the Board, individually and collectively, and its agents, servants and employees from any and all claims, causes of action, suits, actions at law and in equity, administrative proceedings, and judicial and quasi-judicial proceedings of any kind whatsoever, which have been brought, or could be brought, arising under or relating in any way to the subject matter set forth in the Petition of Appeal now and forever, except to enforce the terms of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release.

4. Petitioner acknowledges that he has reviewed this Stipulation of Settlement and Release with his own independent legal counsel and that he enters into it without duress, and of his own free will and volition. He further acknowledges that he fully understands the terms of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release and the duties and obligations enumerated herein.
5. Petitioner, in consideration of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release and in full, final and complete settlement of this matter hereby withdraws, with prejudice, the above-docketed Petition of Reimbursement.
6. Nothing contained in this Stipulation of Settlement and Release should be construed as an admission of wrongdoing by either party, and neither party shall be considered a prevailing party for any reason.
7. This Stipulation of Settlement and Release is conditioned upon approval of the board.
8. The Board's President is authorized to execute this Stipulation of Settlement and Release on behalf of the Board.
9. This Stipulation of Settlement and Release contains the entire agreement between the parties, and no other representations, whether verbal or in writing shall be binding upon them.
10. All terms of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release are deemed material. This instrument may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by a new instrument executed in writing by the parties.
11. This Stipulation of Settlement and Release is an agreement which is to be construed in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey.

IN THE MATTER OF CARMELO GARCIA,	:
HOBOKEN BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
HUDSON COUNTY.	:	DECISION

SYNOPSIS

The School Ethics Commission determined that respondent, a member of the Board of Education of the City of Hoboken, committed two separate violations of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) at a Board meeting in August 2005 when he voted for: 1) the appointment of his brother to a paid position with the school district; and 2) the approval of a contract with a public relations firm owned by a Hudson County Freeholder, when respondent was an employee of Hudson County. After considering the nature of the charge, the Commission recommended that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand upon the respondent.

Upon a thorough review of the record, the Commissioner, whose decision is restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, concurs with the Commission's recommendation. The Commissioner thus orders that Carmelo Garcia be reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 390-10/06

IN THE MATTER OF CARMELO GARCIA,	:
HOBOKEN BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
HUDSON COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission ("Commission"), including the recommended penalty of reprimand, have been reviewed.

This matter comes before the Commissioner to impose a sanction upon respondent – a member of the Board of Education of the City of Hoboken – based upon the Commission's finding that he committed two separate violations of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) at a single Board meeting on August 30, 2005. Upon issuance of the Commission's decision, respondent was provided thirteen days from the mailing of such decision to file written comments on the Commission's recommended penalty for consideration by the Commissioner. No such comments were filed.

Upon review, the Commissioner initially emphasizes that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, the determination of the Commission as to violation of the School Ethics Act is not reviewable herein. Rather, the Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to review of the sanction recommended by the Commission following its finding of violation.

In light of that standard, the Commissioner determines to accept, for the reasons expressed in the Commission's decision, the recommendation that reprimand is the appropriate penalty in this matter. In so holding, the Commissioner notes that the Commission considered the facts presented and took the operative circumstances into account, reasonably concluding that its recommended penalty was commensurate with the violations found. Therefore, the Commission's recommendation will not be disturbed by the Commissioner.

Accordingly, IT IS ORDERED that Carmelo Garcia be reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 12/08/06

Date of Mailing: 12/08/06

* This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination regarding penalty in the instant matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq., within 30 days of its filing. Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

IN THE MATTER	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
OF	:
	:	Docket #C41-05
CARMELO GARCIA,	:
HOBOKEN BOARD OF EDUCATION	:	DECISION
HUDSON COUNTY	:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from a complaint filed by Theresa Burns alleging that Hoboken Board of Education (Board) member Carmelo Garcia violated the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., when he participated in discussions with the Hoboken superintendent regarding employment for his brother and then, on August 30, 2005, voted for the appointment of his brother to a paid position in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b). The complaint further alleged that, during the week of September 5, 2005, respondent attempted to coerce an employee of the district to alter the minutes of the aforementioned meeting to state that he had abstained from voting on his brother's employment, when he had not. Last, the complaint alleged that, at the August 30, 2005 meeting, respondent voted to approve a contract with a local public relations firm, Fitz Media, Inc., which is owned by Mr. Maurice Fitzgibbons, who is an elected Hudson County Freeholder. Respondent is employed by Hudson County. The complaint alleges that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) by the above conduct.

Respondent filed his answer to the complaint setting forth that he was distracted and inadvertently voted on the appointment of his brother. He stated that he brought it to the attention of the acting board secretary that same evening and requested in writing that his vote be changed to an abstention. He denied in any way trying to pressure staff into changing the minutes. He further denied that he had any conflict of interest with Fitz Media since he was not an employee of Mr. Fitzgibbons, but an employee of the county. He denied having violated the School Ethics Act.

The parties were advised that the Commission would discuss this matter at its meeting on February 28, 2006 and further advised that they could present witnesses and testimony. Complainant Theresa Burns appeared with her attorney, Christopher Farella, Esq. At its public meeting on that date, the Commission voted to table the matter for additional information. The matter was not discussed at the March 28, 2006 meeting because only five Commission members were present and one of the five recused himself. Thus, the Commission did not have a quorum to discuss the case. At the next meeting of the Commission on April 25, 2006, the Commission voted to find probable cause to credit the allegations that Mr. Garcia violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when he voted for his brother's appointment and voted in favor of the Fitz Media contract. The Commission found no probable cause and dismissed the charges that respondent had attempted to intimidate a District employee in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b). The Commission did not find any evidence that respondent exerted any pressure on any administrator in connection with the hiring of his brother or the subsequent request to have his vote changed to an abstention.

The Commission found that the material facts were not in dispute regarding the conduct on which it found probable cause and therefore, invited respondent to provide a written submission within 30 days from receipt of the decision setting forth why Mr. Garcia should not be found in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the Act. The decision was sent on July 17, 2006.

Respondent submitted a timely response through his attorney, David Rubin, on August 10, 2006. Therein, he argues that there should be no distinction drawn between a board member changing a vote publicly during a meeting and waiting until after the meeting and leaving a note to that effect. In addition, Respondent argues that the meeting had not yet concluded when he left the note because the Board was still in closed session deliberating over a controversial appointment. Therefore, he argues that it is unreasonable to conclude on these facts that respondent acted unethically in connection with the vote on his brother. With regard to the Fitz Media contract, respondent argues that he is not employed by Freeholder Fitzgibbons, but by the county, which assigned him to work with the Freeholder closest to his residence. Therefore, he argues this charge should either be dismissed or, if the Commission's finding is based on a direct employment relationship, he should be entitled to a plenary hearing on the issue of whether such a relationship exists. Further, he argues that a material issue of fact exists regarding his contention that he received legal advice that he could vote on the Fitz Media contract.

FACTS

The Commission was able to discern the following facts based on the pleadings and documents submitted. The Commission found these facts to be undisputed.

At all times relevant to this complaint, respondent has served on the Board. Also, at all times relevant to this complaint, respondent has been employed by Hudson County. He is assigned as an aide to Freeholder Maurice Fitzgibbons, for which he receives a stipend.

On August 30, 2005, Mr. Garcia voted to appoint his brother to a paid position with the Board. His brother had been employed as a custodian in the Hoboken Public Schools. He applied for a position posted in the maintenance department. The Director of Facilities, Tim Calligy, interviewed him and recommended to the superintendent that he be transferred to the position of maintenance employee. The superintendent made the recommendation to the Board.

The hiring of Mr. Garcia's brother was one item in a 55-item consent agenda on which he voted. He set forth that he did not realize at the time of voting that his brother's appointment was in the agenda. Later, however, when he realized that his brother's appointment had been on the agenda, before leaving the meeting, he left a written request for the Acting Board Secretary to change his vote to show an abstention. The meeting had not yet concluded when he did so. Rather, the Board was still in Executive Session. Mr. Calligy researched the subject of changing a vote and determined that it had to be done in a public meeting. The matter was addressed at the next public meeting and Mr. Garcia was allowed to change his vote.

Also, on August 30, 2005, Mr. Garcia voted in favor of a contract with Fitz Media, Inc. which is local public relations firm owned by Maurice Fitzgibbons. Mr. Fitzgibbons is an elected Freeholder in Hudson County. Mr. Garcia has been an employee of the County of Hudson since before he joined the Board in 2002. More particularly, he has served as an Aide to Freeholder Fitzgibbons since 1998, having been assigned to him based on his residence. He also serves as Director of Health and Human Services for the City of Hoboken.

ANALYSIS

The Commission found probable cause to credit the allegation that Mr. Garcia's conduct violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c), which sets forth:

> No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter in which he, a member of his immediate family, or a business organization in which he holds an interest, has a direct or indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment. No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he or a member of his immediate family has a personal involvement that is or creates some benefit to the school official or member of his immediate family.

The Commission set forth in its probable cause finding that, although Mr. Garcia's brother is not a member of his immediate family pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23, he is a "relative" under this provision, the definition of which includes siblings. The Commission has previously held that a board member has a personal involvement in a matter concerning his relative such that his or her objectivity might reasonably be expected to impair his or her objectivity or independence of judgment. See In the Matter of Russo and Scarano, C12-97, (January 27, 1998); Commissioner Decision #22-1/98, (April 16, 1998). N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) requires a showing of "some benefit to the school official." The Commission finds that there is an intrinsic benefit to a school official whose brother is appointed to a position within the district such that he should recuse himself from voting.

Respondent argues in his submission in response to the probable cause finding that, since the Commission accepted that he inadvertently voted for his brother's appointment, there should be no distinction between whether he corrected his vote during the public meeting or left a note asking for his vote to be changed. He refers to it as "a distinction without difference." The Commission disagrees. As the Commission set forth in the probable cause decision, regardless of respondent's claim that there were distractions at the meeting that led to his inadvertently voting for his brother's employment, it was his duty as a board member to know the items on the agenda and recuse himself from voting on an issue in which he has a conflict at the time of the vote, or to immediately correct the mistake during the open public meeting. The difference is that if the vote is corrected immediately, the public is made aware of the conflict and the change in the vote, which the Open Public Meetings Act requires for accurate minutes. See N.J.S.A. 10:4-14. Therefore, a vote occurring during a public meeting cannot be changed outside of a public meeting. Mr. Calligy correctly guided respondent in the correct protocol for changing his vote in the next public meeting. The fact that the meeting had not yet concluded does not change the fact that the vote was not changed during the public session at which it was made. Therefore, the Commission concludes that respondent acted in his official capacity in a matter in which he had a personal involvement in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c).

Last, the Commission found probable cause to credit the allegation that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c), when he voted in favor of the Board's contract with Fitz Media, Inc. a corporation owned by Freeholder Fitzgibbons. In his response, respondent answered that Board Counsel told him "his status as a County employee does not preclude him from voting on a Board contract with a company owned by an elected County Freeholder, since the respondent is not employed by that Freeholder or his company." However, a Personnel Officer at the County of Hudson provided a written verification that Respondent has been employed with the County of Hudson, Department of Freeholders as an Aide to Freeholder Maurice Fitzgibbons from November 9, 1998 to the present. Further, Board Counsel Matthew Giacobbe certified that respondent never sought any type of legal guidance from him regarding this matter. Mr. Giaccobbe admits that it is possible that Respondent sought advice from one of the other Special Counsels for the Board; albeit Respondent referenced Board Counsel, not Special Counsel. Respondent argues that this discrepancy creates a genuine issue of material fact that should require a hearing before the Office of Administrative Law. The Commission disagrees because, even if it was unrefuted that Respondent received such advice, it would only mitigate against the penalty, but not negate the fact that the violation occurred.

The Commission concludes that, although Respondent was at all times an employee of Hudson County and not a direct employee of Freeholder Fitzgibbons, respondent nonetheless had an indirect financial involvement with Freeholder Fitzgibbons, having worked as his aide since 1998. That involvement might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity when voting for the Board to contract with the Freeholder's company. Therefore, the Commission finds that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when he voted in favor of the contract with Fitz Media, Inc.

For the foregoing reasons, the Commission finds that Mr. Garcia violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when he voted for his brother's appointment and voted for Fitz Media, Inc. to receive a contract with the Board.

PENALTY

The Commission notes that there are two separate violations of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) in the present case. Clearly, by itself, the vote on respondent's brother would warrant nothing more than a reprimand. See I/M/O Dino Pettinelli, Commissioner's Decision, Agency Docket No. 266-7/04 (September 8, 2004). However, when coupled with the vote on the Fitz Media contract, the Commission believes that a censure would be more appropriate. Two factors mitigate against such a penalty, though. First, is the fact that the votes occurred at the same time leaving no additional time for reflection or consideration of whether one or both may have been in error before the next. Second, is that the Commission could not determine as fact that respondent did not receive legal advice that he could vote on the Fitz Media contract. The Commission would have to transmit this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for such a determination and it declines to use the OAL for such a limited purpose. Therefore, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a sanction of reprimand.

This decision has been adopted by a formal resolution of the School Ethics Commission. This matter shall now be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction only, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

Petitioning boards of education alleged that insufficient levels of State aid had negatively impacted their ability to provide a thorough and efficient system of education (T&E) and sought individualized needs assessments by the Commissioner comparable to those ordered by the State Board for the party districts in Bacon v. New Jersey Department of Education. The Department moved to dismiss the petition for failure to state a claim upon which relief could be granted.

The ALJ denied the Department's motion, finding that Bacon created a new cause of action enabling any board of education believing itself underfunded – not only those alleging educational inadequacy and poverty – to claim entitlement to a Bacon-type needs assessment. The Department requested, and was granted, interlocutory review of the ALJ's decision.

The Commissioner rejected the Initial Order, finding that the ALJ misconstrued Bacon by confusing the specific relief crafted for the parties – rural districts demonstrating educational inadequacy and poverty comparable to Abbott districts but unlike their urban counterparts in important respects – with the State Board's call for systemic change in the definition, assessment and funding of T&E statewide. The Commissioner held that Bacon neither created a new cause of action for public school districts nor eliminated alleged educational inadequacy and poverty as prerequisites to T&E claims, and thus found that petitioners failed to present a cognizable basis for contested case proceedings. The Commissioner further noted that petitioners' concerns were appropriately addressed through implementation of the newly enacted Quality Single Accountability Continuum system for evaluation of public school districts together with the school funding formula presently being developed by the Legislature, both based on principles fully consistent with the State Board's pronouncements in Bacon. The petition was dismissed.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

This matter comes before the Commissioner by way of a request – filed by the respondent Department of Education (Department) and granted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10 – for interlocutory review of an Order of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) denying the Department's motion to dismiss petitioners' appeal for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

In its request, the Department contends that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred in concluding that the State Board's decision in Bacon, supra, created a new cause of action enabling any local district board of education believing itself underfunded – not only those alleging educational inadequacy and poverty by the standards of Abbott, supra – to claim entitlement to a needs assessment of the type ordered for the petitioners in that matter (Bacon districts). The Department reiterates that: 1) no Bacon assessment presently exists, the Commissioner having previously recommended to the State Board that such assessment await implementation of the Quality Single Accountability Continuum (QSAC) monitoring system and anticipated new funding formula currently in development; and 2) even if a Bacon assessment did exist, financial need remains a determinative factor and petitioners have not pled the requisite educational inadequacy and poverty to place themselves in the same posture as the Bacon districts. (Department's Brief in Support of Request for Interlocutory Review at 8-15)

In reply, petitioners counter that the ALJ correctly found Bacon to have created a new standard for determination of thoroughness and efficiency (T&E) in New Jersey public school districts – one linked to educational rather than fiscal considerations – so that, even if the relief sought by petitioners must await development of appropriate standards, they are still entitled to claim it through the present proceeding. Petitioners state:

> It has never been contested by petitioners that there can be no assessments until standards are developed. If that development must await the QSAC standards, so be it. All that means is the relief sought will not be rendered until some undetermined time in the future. It does not mean it will never be available or that the cause of action recognized by [the ALJ] should be rejected. At most, the claim should be for (sic) labeled as one for a QSAC evaluation instead of a Bacon assessment. That is nothing more than semantics. (Petitioners' Reply at 2)

In urging the Commissioner to "give direction to the parties" as requested by the ALJ, petitioners assert that "this case presents a new chapter in New Jersey School funding [growing] out of the State Board's pronouncements in Bacon. Rather than dismiss the petition, the Commissioner should seize this opportunity to give the New Jersey educational community  needed direction on the future course of education in this state, as envisaged in Bacon." (Id. at 3)

Upon review, the Commissioner cannot concur with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ and, consequently, rejects the recommended Order in its entirety. Instead, the Commissioner agrees with the Department that the State Board neither created a new cause of action through its direction of individual needs assessments in the Bacon districts nor eliminated allegations of poverty and educational inadequacy as prerequisites to cognizable T&E claims.

Initially, the Commissioner finds that the Bacon decision embodies two separate directives: one an order of relief arising from the State Board's adjudication of the claims and record before it on appeal, and the other a call for systemic change arising from the Board's concomitant exercise of its authority over the general supervision and control of public education statewide. In his reading of Bacon, however, the ALJ has erroneously conflated these related but distinct directives, grafting the Board's pronouncements on the need for change in State mechanisms for definition, assessment and funding of T&E onto the particularized relief granted to the parties in the specific matter on appeal.

Properly construed, Bacon leaves no doubt that the individualized needs assessments granted to the party districts, and now sought by petitioners herein, represent a relief crafted in direct response to the State Board's finding that the Bacon litigants – rural districts making a bid for "special needs" status akin to that of the Abbott districts – had demonstrated comparable levels of educational deprivation and poverty, but were sufficiently unlike their urban counterparts to have their deficiencies appropriately addressed by programs, standards and funding levels developed in response to the needs and circumstances of the latter. Nothing expressed or implied in its decision suggests that the Board, in fashioning relief tailored to the unique situation of the parties in Bacon, had any intent whatsoever to establish a new, generalized cause of action whereby any district in the State might petition the Commissioner for comparable relief without even alleging a comparable degree of educational deprivation and poverty, instead relying – as petitioners here have done – solely on claims of negative impact resulting from an insufficient level of State aid.

Rather, it is the State Board's second directive that addresses the concerns underlying petitioners' appeal in this matter. As subsequently discussed, ongoing effectuation of this directive will – by operation of law – afford petitioners precisely the relief they are attempting to seek through the present litigation: individualized assessment of the thoroughness and efficiency of their districts in accordance with standards to be determined by the Commissioner consistent with Bacon, and a consequent level of support appropriate to their circumstances.

As the ALJ and parties recognize, regulations and performance indicators are currently being developed to implement QSAC, the Legislature's newly enacted framework for a uniform system of evaluating public school districts and assisting with their identified needs. In the Commissioner's view, the State Board's proposed rules at N.J.A.C. 6A:30 and the attendant quality performance indicators to be developed pursuant to them (see 38 N.J.R. 3378(a)) will work, in their final form and in conjunction with the State's anticipated new funding law, infra, to effectuate exactly the result directed by the Board in Bacon: identification of the "educational components essential to the establishment of a unified system for public education that 'will equip all of the students of this state to perform their roles as citizens and competitors in the same society' " (Bacon, supra, slip opinion at 71, citing Abbott II, supra) and insurance of their provision through a comprehensive mandate for district-specific assessment, assistance and targeted intervention.[1]

Moreover, as the ALJ and parties further recognize, the State has committed to development of a new funding formula and has now formally articulated, through the report of the Joint Legislative Committee on Public School Funding,[2] the foundational principles that should underlie such a formula regardless of its ultimate configuration. Review of these principles – substantially embodied in the Committee's first five recommendations[3] – shows them to be fully congruent with the State Board's directive for abolishment of a "fragmented system" that meets the needs of some students while "not produc[ing] educational adequacy for all," and replacement of it with a system

[1] Petitioners themselves recognize the congruence of the relief they are seeking and implementation of QSAC; see Petitioners' Brief in Opposition to Motion to Dismiss at 5-7 and Petitioners' Brief in Support of the ALJ's Order at 2-3.

[2] Available online at http://www.njleg.state.nj.us/PropertyTaxSession/OPI/jcsf_Report111506.pdf. Recommendations at 63-77, and in the Executive Summary at 2-3.

[3] The referenced recommendations read as follows:

- Recommendation 1: State aid for every school district should be based on the characteristics of the student population and the individual district's ability to pay.
- Recommendation 2: Aid calculations should be simplified to ensure transparency, thereby eliminating the need for multiple additional aid categories.
- Recommendation 3: A new school aid formula should be developed based upon the nationally-recognized professional judgment panels (PJP) model for determining the resources necessary to meet educational standards.
- Recommendation 4: The formula should be based on "costing-out" calculations developed through the PJP model to determine the base per pupil cost of a thorough and efficient education, as well as the additional weights for special education, at-risk, and limited English proficiency students. This should also include use of the geographic cost of education index to accurately reflect differences in the cost-of-living throughout the State.
- Recommendation 5: A district's share of State education funding should be based on up-to-date measures of a district's ability to pay. The formula for calculating the ability to pay should be based equally on a district's relative property wealth and income. Property wealth should be calculated by considering the equalized property valuation per capita relative to the State median. A district's income should be calculated based upon income per capita relative to the State median.

that "ensures the provision of a constitutionally adequate education and equal educational opportunity for all students in New Jersey regardless of the district in which they live and the economic circumstances under which they were born." (Bacon, supra, slip opinion at 65-66, 69)

The Commissioner thus finds that – taken together – these legislative enactments and their implementation by the Commissioner, State Board and local district boards of education will "effectuate the changes that are necessary to establish a unified system for public education that fulfills the constitutional mandate both with respect to the substantive education that must be provided and the resources necessary to support such a system." (Bacon, supra, slip opinion at 72) Indeed, it is the fulfillment of this promise through coordinated action at all levels of government – not Commissioner rulings issued through a perpetual cycle of district-specific contested cases as would be enabled by petitioners' and the ALJ's reading of Bacon – that represents "the future course of education in this state, as envisaged in Bacon."

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, the Commissioner rejects the Initial Order of the OAL and dismisses the Petition of Appeal for lack of a cognizable cause of action. Consistent with this holding, the Commissioner concurrently requests return of the file from the OAL pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.3(a).

BEFORE BRUCE M. GORMAN, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND STATEMENT OF FACTS

On April 28, 2005, a Petition of Appeal was filed with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") against the New Jersey Department ("Department") requesting an increase in State aid for several school districts. See Initial Petition, Wherefore Clause. The listed petitioners were two different types of entities: the school districts, Medford Township School District ("MTSD"), Evesham Township Board of Education ("ETSD"), Lenape Regional High School District ("LRHSD"), and the Board of Education of the Township of Hainseport ("HTSD"), and the township councils, Medford Township Council and Evesham Township Council (collectively referred to as the "Township Councils").

Within the Petition of Appeal, the parties alleged that the Department had not correctly applied the Comprehensive Educational Improvement and Financing Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:-7F-1, et seq. (CEIFA"), and that the amount of State aid should be adjusted for the 2003-2004 school year to confirm with the formula found within CEIFA. See Initial Petition, Count One, ¶¶ 7, 16. Beyond the request for an increase in State aid for the 2003-2004 school year, the Districts also claimed that their ability to provide their students with a thorough and efficient education ("T&E") as required by the New Jersey Constitution, Art. VIII, §4, ¶1[1], had been "negatively impacted" because of the Department's failure to increase their State aid for the 2003-2004 school year. See Initial Petition, Count Two. Moreover, the petition alleged that the Township Councils would have to restore money to the school budgets if the budgets for ETSD and MTSD were defeated. See Initial Petition, Count Three, ¶2. On June 3, 2005, the Department filed a motion to dismiss the petition of appeal in lieu of an answer.

On June 6, 2005, the petitioners filed an Amended Petition. The Amended Petition added Northern Burlington County Regional School District Board of Education

[1] The thorough and efficient clause of the New Jersey Constitution provides: "The Legislature shall provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of free public schools for the instruction of all the children in the State between the ages of five and eighteen years." N.J. Const. Art. VIII, § 4, ¶1.

("NBCRSD"), Lumberton Township Board of Education ("LTSD"), and the Woodland Township Board of Education ("WTSD") as parties to the matter (the school districts listed in the petition are hereinafter collectively referred to as the "Districts"). The Amended Petition also amended the counts brought against the Department.

In Count One, the Districts and Township Councils alleged that the Department had failed to increase State aid to the Districts as required by CEIFA and that therefore, the amount of State aid being provided for the 2005-2006 school year had to be increased to conform with the formula set forth within CEIFA. See Amended Petition, Count One, ¶22. The Districts and the Township Councils asserted that the Districts' State aid had not increased in accordance with the increases in the Districts' student enrollments. See Amended Petition, Count One, ¶¶12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 19, 20, 21.

Furthermore, the Districts and the Township Councils alleged that because of the Department's failure to increase the Districts' State aid in accordance with the increases in their student enrollment, their ability to provide their students with a T&E had been "negatively impacted." See Amended Petition, Count Two. ¶¶2-8. In support of the alleged negative impact, the Districts made few specific assertions.

On July 5, 2005, the Department filed a second motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer. Oral argument occurred on March 9, 2006, before myself as trial judge. During the argument, counsel for petitioners attempted to orally amend the Districts' legal position claiming that, due to the State Board decision in Bacon v. New Jersey Dep't. of Educ., Docket No. #4-03, (State Board January 4, 2006), the Districts were no longer requesting additional State aid under CEIFA but rather, the educational assessment discussed in the Bacon decision.

On June 6, 2006, the Districts filed a Second Amended Petition of Appeal (hereinafter referred to as the "Petition") changing their requested relief from additional State aid to the educational assessment discussed in the Bacon decision.

The Department now moves to dismiss the amended petition.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

The Department offered two arguments in support of its motion. The more significant is its contention that petitioners have failed to state a cause of action upon which relief can be granted.

Petitioners base their cause of action upon the State Board of Education's decision in Bacon v New Jersey Department of Education, State Board Dkt. No. 4-03 (January 4, 2006) (hereinafter "Bacon"). Petitioners assert that as a result of Bacon, they are entitled to "needs assessments" for their respective districts in order to determine whether they are receiving funding sufficient to comply with the Thorough and Efficient ("T&E") provision of the State Constitution.

By asserting that petitioners have failed to state a cause of action, the Department renders a specific interpretation of the State Board's holding in Bacon. The Department's position is summarized on page ten of its brief, wherein it states:

> However, the claims raised here are dissimilar to the claims raised in Bacon. In Bacon, the school districts alleged that they were failing to provide their students with a T&E and did not have the local resources to correct their educational deficiencies. See Bacon, supra, at 4. By contrast, the Districts merely assert that their ability to provide their students with a T&E has been "negatively impacted." Thus, unlike the Bacon districts, the Districts have not asserted a constitutional deprivation of a T&E.

In so arguing, the Department asserts that the applicable standard is that petitioners must lack the local resources necessary to correct educational deficiencies. That standard was argued by the petitioners in Bacon, and the Department attempts to impose it here.

That contention is misplaced. The above referenced rule was utilized in Bacon at the trial level because Bacon was an effort by the petitioners therein to attain "Abbott" status, that is attain the status of Special Needs District as promulgated by the line of cases known as Abbott v Burke I, II, III and IV. Consequently, the Abbott standard was used in Bacon at the trial level.

But petitioners herein do not seek Abbott status. Instead they seek a special needs assessment based upon language contained in the State Board's decision in Bacon. In essence, petitioners claim a new right based upon that decision.

The questions therefore become, does Bacon create a new cause of action, and if so, what role, if any, does the Abbott standard play in deciding the claim? In order to answer those questions, we must review the State Board's decision in Bacon.

The State Board concluded Bacon by stating its dissatisfaction with the limitations the Abbott process places upon achieving thorough and efficient education, as well as the failure of the Comprehensive Educational Improvement and Financing Act ("CEIFA") to adequately promote that end. The Board stated, at 58:

> We have concluded that despite the gains made under CEIFA, its implementation has not resulted in the provision of a thorough and efficient education to the students of the districts involved in this appeal either in terms of absolute adequacy or in comparison with the wealthier suburban districts. We have also concluded, as did the Court in Abbott II, that a new approach is needed if the students of these districts are to be afforded an educational opportunity that satisfies the mandate of the New Jersey Constitution. However, our conclusions in this regard do not lead to the relief that the appellant districts are seeking.

The final sentence is telling. It states that, although petitioners therein were seeking Abbott status, relief other than that sought was appropriate. In differentiating the Bacon districts from the Abbott districts, the State Board wrote, 59:

> We do not believe that merely providing the appellant districts with the same fiscal resources that are provided to the Abbott Districts will ensure that the students of these districts are in fact afforded the educational opportunity to which they are entitled. While poor, the districts involved > here are not identical to the districts that have been classified as Abbott Districts. The very fact that they are not urban means that they face a unique set of circumstances that are different from those confronting the poor urban districts.

> ...in many instances, different approaches will be required than those utilized in poor urban districts if the deficits in education now being provided by the appellant districts are to be corrected. Hence, regulatory requirements to ensure accountability may differ from those applicable to the Abbott Districts, and the fiscal resources to support the necessary educational inputs may not be the same. In our view, an assessment of the educational needs and the identification of the approaches that will successfully address those needs is a prerequisite to ensuring that adequate resources, including fiscal resources, are provided and appropriate accountability for their use is guaranteed.

In so holding, the State Board began the process of crafting a new cause of action. The Board elaborated, 62:

> ...we have found that ensuring that the students in these districts are provided with a thorough and efficient education cannot be accomplished merely by granting monetary relief to the appellant school districts. To the contrary, the starting point for remedying the educational deficits shown by the record is to assess the educational needs of the students in each district and identify the approaches that will effectively address those needs.
> ...in many instances, different approaches will be required than those utilized in poor urban districts if the deficits in the education now being provided by the appellant districts are to be corrected. Hence, regulatory requirements to ensure accountability may differ from those applicable to the Abbott districts, and the fiscal resources to support the necessary educational inputs may not be the same. In our view, an assessment of the educational needs and the identification of the approaches that will successfully address those needs > is a prerequisite to ensuring that adequate resources, including fiscal resources, are provided and appropriate accountability for their use is guaranteed.

The Board then defined the new remedy and directed the Commission to implement same, 63:

> We therefore direct that, under the Commissioner's supervision, the Department of Education begin immediately to develop a design for a needs assessment to be performed in each of the districts involved in the litigation before the Commissioner. In addition to assessing the adequacy of the educational inputs and programming currently being provided, we direct that the design proposed to us include elements that will identify the unique educational needs of the students in those districts requiring additional programs to address them.

Accordingly, the State Board fashioned a new remedy for the Bacon districts. But was the remedy to be exclusive to that case and to those districts? The State Board answered that question, 64-65:

> In deciding this appeal, we cannot ignore the fact that there are students in other school districts not involved in this litigation who are suffering similar educational inadequacies and whose communities we do not have adequate resources to address those inadequacies. To do so would be a denial of our obligations under the New Jersey Constitution and our responsibility for the supervision of public education in this state. N.J.S.A. 18A:4-10. See Englewood Cliffs v. Englewood, 257 N.J. Super. 413 (App. Div. 1992), aff'd, 132 N.J. 327 (1993). See also Bd. of Educ. V. Bd. of Educ., 170 N.J. 323 (2002). Furthermore, awarding piecemeal relief to some districts while ignoring others would be to contribute to the perpetuation of a fragmented system that does not conform to the constitutional mandate.

In so holding, the State Board expressed a clear intention to extend its new remedy to other school districts. Consequently, I FIND and CONCLUDE that the State Board of Education has created a new remedy for school districts who believe they are underfunded, namely, a Needs Assessment.

Respondent's second argument is that petitioners have failed to state a claim under the T&E clause of the New Jersey Constitution. In so arguing, the Department attempts to impose upon petitioners the burden of meeting the standards required for Abbott qualification.

The problem with this argument is that the State Board specifies in Bacon that the concept of Thorough and Efficient Education is in flux and must be reevaluated. The Board stated, 68:

> In short, it is essential at this point to reexamine the meaning of a thorough and efficient education and to establish a unified system for the provision of such an education. We believe that, as the head of the Department of Education and the body responsible for education policy, we must take responsibility for redefining the meaning of a thorough and efficient education in educational rather than financial terms.

Accordingly, the Abbott analysis the Department offers has no relevance to this proceeding. While the State Board did note that poverty will play a role in the reconfigured concept of Thorough and Efficient Education (Bacon, 66), the economic analysis utilized in Abbott cases is no longer dispositive. As the Board stated, monetary relief is not enough (Bacon, 62).

The State Board left it to the Commissioner to redefine the educational system (Bacon, 69). In so doing, the Board charged the Commissioner with developing, inter alia, the qualifying standards for a Needs Assessment. I make no finding at this time what standards would be applied in determining the petitioners are entitled to a Needs Assessment. Indeed, the Commissioner may well still be in the process of developing such standards. I also make no determination as to what such a Needs Assessment would consist of. That matter likewise must await regulatory action.

I FIND and CONCLUDE only that in Bacon, the State Board created a cause of action for a Needs Assessment that exists outside the Abbott process. Nothing in the record before me shows that the right to a Needs Assessment is limited at this time. Absent appropriately promulgated regulatory limitations and/or further action by the State Board and/or a Court of appropriate jurisdiction, I FIND that any school district believing it cannot provide its students with a T&E education because of inadequate local resources may seek a Needs Assessment.

Accordingly, the petition sets forth a cause of action upon which relief may be granted, and the Department's motion to dismiss must be DENIED.

ORDER

I ORDER that respondent Department of Education's Motion to Dismiss be DENIED.

This order may be reviewed by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION either upon interlocutory review pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10 or at the end of the contested case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner sought a determination by the Commissioner declaring null and void the establishment by respondent Board of revised school attendance boundaries which took effect in September 2006. Petitioners alleged that the school district has been arbitrary and capricious in their establishment of attendance areas; that attendance areas were not determined in accordance with standards set forth in the district's policy; and because the attendance plan has resulted in an arbitrary and inefficient transportation operation and plan. Respondent Board filed motion to dismiss the petition for lack of standing and for failure to comply with the 90-day rule. Petitioners filed a motion to amend the petition to include additional parties who are parents and students within the school district.

The ALJ identified standing as the threshold issue in this matter, and found that Howell Township – and the Mayor in his official capacity – lack standing to challenge the respondent's school attendance boundaries. Further, the ALJ found that: petitioners' appeal of the current Board policy on attendance – adopted in May of 2004 – and the Student Attendance Plan for 2006-2007 – approved by the Board in September of 2005 – were filed out of time; petitioners have presented no evidence to justify relaxation of the 90-day rule is this case; and petitioners' February 2006 challenge to a November 2005 revision of the Student Attendance Plan for 2006-2007 should be dismissed as moot. The ALJ denied petitioners' motion to amend the petition to include additional petitioners, and dismissed the appeal.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision and dismissed the Petition of Appeal.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have petitioners' exceptions and respondents' reply, both duly filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 following extensions granted pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8.

In their exceptions, petitioners urge the Commissioner to reject the conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), reiterating their prior arguments that: they have standing to pursue this matter; their petition is not time-barred; and their motion to amend the petition by adding new parties should have been granted. Petitioners renew their contention that they are themselves citizens and taxpayers; that they have in their official capacity a parens patriae interest in protecting the general public; and that they – together with the parents and students who sought to be added to the petition – were prepared to present evidence of negative educational impact on students and neighborhoods as well as detrimental impact on taxpayers. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 4-6) They further repeat that the 90-day rule – which in the ALJ's view barred both the initial petition and the attempted addition of new parties – must be relaxed where its strict application would effectively insulate from Commissioner review the adoption, implementation or continuation of a policy that implicates students' constitutional right to a thorough and efficient education, and constitutes a matter of fundamental concern to the public.[1] (Id. at 2-4, 6).

In reply, respondents urge adoption of the Initial Decision in its entirety, likewise renewing their prior arguments before the ALJ. Specifically, respondents counter that the 90-day rule should not be relaxed in this instance due to the nature of the matter in dispute, the absence of unusual or compelling circumstances justifying petitioners' late filing, and the prejudice that would inure to the district if it were forced to litigate at this point in time (Respondents' Reply at 2-4). They again contend that petitioners should not be allowed to amend their petition to add new parties, citing the resulting prejudice to the district; the fact that the proposed parties and their claims could and should have been identified long ago; and the lack of specificity in the proposed parties' supporting certifications so as to demonstrate the requisite standing (Id. at 6-8). Finally, they reiterate that petitioners lack standing to pursue this matter – and hence to claim entitlement to a plenary hearing – because: they have alleged no actual or imminent harm to the Township of Howell or its Mayor[2] or Council; they have demonstrated no right to pursue the interests of third parties, the arguments they raise to this effect having already been rejected in Carteret, supra, and Stubaus, supra; and their claims are far too speculative, conjectural and unsubstantiated to establish the detrimental impact judicially required to confer standing.[3] (Id. at 8-11)

[1] During the course of their discussion, petitioners also object to the ALJ's dismissal of their challenge to the revised 2006-07 attendance plan as moot, contending that the revised plan did affect school attendance and the ALJ should not have ruled as he did based solely on exhibits submitted with the Motion to Dismiss. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 3-4)

Upon careful review and consideration, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that this matter must be dismissed. Like the ALJ – for the reasons expressed in the Initial Decision – the Commissioner finds that the named petitioners lack standing to pursue the matter, and cannot now attempt to cure this deficiency by adding new petitioners who – even assuming the requisite standing – could and should have brought their claims long ago. The Commissioner further agrees with the ALJ – for the reasons stated and in the interest of prudence in the event of a reversal on appeal on the question of standing – that the petition is filed well out of time, with no relaxation of the filing deadline warranted, as to all aspects of the 2006-07 attendance plan other than the limited revision adopted on November 21, 2005; and that petitioners' challenge to that revision, although timely, is moot because no meaningful relief could result from it even if petitioners were to prevail. Finally, the Commissioner concurs that, in light of these holdings, it is unnecessary to reach respondents' motion to dismiss the petition with respect to claims against the district superintendent.

[2] Respondents note that the petition was brought by the Mayor in his official capacity and contains no allegation of harm to him has an individual taxpayer, urging that he not be allowed to infer such a claim at this point in proceedings. (Respondents' Reply at 9)

[3] In reply to petitioners' statements regarding the ALJ's dismissal of their challenge to the revised 2006-07 attendance plan as moot, respondents point out that none of the students named in the certifications submitted in support of petitioners' motion to amend the petition are affected by the narrow revision to the 2006-07 attendance plan adopted on November 21, 2005, so that petitioners have additionally not alleged any facts in support of their claim. (Respondents' Reply at 4-5)

Accordingly, for the reasons well and fully expressed therein, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petitioners, Township of Howell and its Mayor, Joseph D. DiBella, representing the residents and students who attend respondent Freehold Regional High School District schools, request the Commissioner of Education to enjoin and declare null and void the actions of respondents establishing school attendance boundaries to take effect in September 2006. Petitioners allege that the school district regulation and the attendance areas are arbitrary and capricious since they were not determined in accordance with standards set forth in the district's policy and because the attendance plan has resulted in an arbitrary and inefficient transportation operation and plan. Petitioners filed their Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education on February 7, 2006, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on April 12, 2006, for hearing as a contested case. The matter was assigned to the undersigned on April 27, 2006, and a prehearing conference was scheduled for May 25, 2006. At that prehearing conference, the parties identified threshold legal issues to be addressed by motions and a schedule for the submission of such motions was agreed to by both parties.

Respondents filed a Motion to Dismiss the Petition of Appeal on June 16, 2006 (R-1, R-2 and R-3). Petitioners filed a Motion to Amend the Petition of Appeal on July 12, 2006 (P-1 and P-2), seeking to name additional petitioners as parties. Petitioners also filed a response to respondents' Notice of Motion to Dismiss on July 18, 2006 (P-3). Petitioners then filed Opposition to Respondent's Motion to Dismiss (R-4) as well as Opposition to Amend the Petition of Appeal on August 3, 2006 (R-5 and R-6). Even though oral argument was requested, I concluded that it was not necessary and I closed the record with respect to this matter on August 21, 2006.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The petitioners in this matter are the Township of Howell, a municipal corporation of the State of New Jersey located in Monmouth County, and its Mayor, Joseph D.

DiBella. In their Petition, which was filed with the Commissioner of Education on February 17, 2006, the petitioners contend that they represent the residents and students who attend Freehold Regional High School District schools.

The petitioners seek a determination by the Commissioner declaring null and void the establishment by respondent Board of Education of school attendance boundaries which are to take effect in September 2006.

For purposes of deciding the various motions, I accept the following facts as undisputed based on the submissions of the parties.

Respondent school district is the largest high school district in the state with six high schools and over 1,500 employees educating approximately 12,000 students. The school district consists of the Townships of Colts Neck, Freehold, Howell, Manalapan and Marlboro, and the Boroughs of Englishtown, Farmingdale and Freehold. Respondent operates Freehold High School, Howell High School, Manalapan High School, Marlboro High School, Freehold Township High School and Colts Neck High School.

Petitioners assert that students who live in the Township of Howell comprise 28% of the total district enrollment, and that presently over 600 students who are residents of the Township of Howell attend Colts Neck High School. Petitioners contend that the Attendance Area Plan, which is the subject of this proceeding, will maintain Howell Township students at Colts Neck High School for a minimum of the next four school years.

On or about June 15, 2006, respondents filed a Motion to Dismiss the Petition of Appeal for lack of standing on the part of the petitioners and for failing to comply with the 90-day rule (R-1, R-2 and R-3). On or about July 11, 2006, the petitioners filed a Motion to Amend the Petition to include additional parties who are parents and students within the Freehold Regional High School District and who allege they are affected by respondents' 2006-2007 Student Attendance Boundary Plan (P-1 and P-2).

The Board of Education of respondent school district has adopted a policy known as Policy 8110 (R-3, Exhibit A), which requires the Board to establish school attendance boundaries annually upon the recommendation of the superintendent. Policy 8110 was last revised on May 10, 2004.

The respondent Board of Education adopted the Attendance Boundary Plan for the 2006-2007 school year at its meeting on September 12, 2005. This changed some of the attendance boundaries from those established for the prior school year. Because of questions raised about some of the projected numbers utilized, the Board approved a revision to the student attendance plan on November 21, 2005, only as to those students in a specific section of Howell Township who will remain in the attendance area for Freehold Township High School.

The 2006-2007 Student Attendance Boundary Plan only affects incoming ninth grade students and students already in attendance at a particular high school will remain in that high school for the duration of their high school education (R-3, Exhibit C, para 7).

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

I will address the motions of the parties in the order in which they were received.

1. Respondents' motion to dismiss the petition for lack of standing.

Respondent contend that the Township of Howell and its Mayor lack standing to pursue this matter on behalf of third parties who are residents of the Township of Howell. In order to have standing, a party must have a sufficient stake in the outcome of the litigation such that there is a substantial likelihood that the party will suffer harm in the event of an unfavorable decision. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.2 is consistent with this holding, stating that interested persons who may bring a complaint before the Commissioner are those who will be substantially, specifically and directly affected by the outcome of a controversy.

Petitioners rely on a series of cases holding that the concept of standing should be liberally construed, particularly in public interest and group litigation, referring to South Burlington County N.A.A.C.P. v. Mount Laurel Township, 92 N.J. 158 (1983); Booth v. Township of Winslow, 193 N.J. Super. 637 (App. Div. 1984). In the Mount Laurel Township case, the court observed that the need for a "liberal approach" to standing is especially important in Mount Laurel litigation, and held that any organization that has the objective of securing lower income housing opportunities in a municipality has standing. Id. at 337. In the Booth case, the court held that where the question of standing is at least debatable, rather than debate that issue it is "preferable in the public interest to settle the constitutional questions presented on their merits." Id. at 637. However, I was unable to find any case which supported the applicability of these holdings to the types of claims being made by the petitioners herein.

Respondents rely on Borough of Carteret v. Department of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8564-04 (Aug. 26, 2005) affirmed by the Commissioner (Dec .27, 2005) www.state.nj.us/njded/legal/index.html. In that case, it was specifically held that the Mayor and Borough lacked standing to challenge the refusal of the Department of Education to designate the school district as an Abbott district. This allegedly resulted in a disparate and burdensome tax levy on the borough's taxpayers.

As stated in Stubaus v. Whitman, 339 N.J. Super. 38 (App. Div. 2001), in order for a party to have a standing, the party must have a sufficient stake in and real adverseness with respect to the subject matter, and be harmed by an unfavorable decision. The court also stated that litigants, generally, do not have standing to assert the rights of third parties. Ibid. Further, in Stubaus, the court stated that a government agency's parens patriae interest in protecting the general public, standing alone, is insufficient to support standing to challenge and exercise of power by another agency of the government. Id. at 49.

I agree with the respondents that the Borough of Carteret case presented a more compelling scenario than that of the present petitioners in this matter. In that case there were allegations of a direct and specific impact upon the borough's taxpayers. In the present case, the petitioners allege in the Petition of Appeal that the student attendance plan results in a negative impact on all students attending Howell and Colts Neck High Schools, frequent student and neighborhood dislocation, lack of stability and continuity for neighborhood residents, students suffering a lack of identity and sense of community, overcrowding in Howell High School and overenrollment in Colts Neck High School, inefficient transportation and operation plan and detriment to the students' educational experience. Respondents contend that these alleged impacts are speculative and are limited to a very small portion of the taxpayers and residents of the Township of Howell. What is more significant for deciding this motion is that there is no allegation of any actual or imminent harm caused to the Township or its Mayor.

Therefore, based on the foregoing discussion, and for the reason that the petitioners will suffer no harm as a result of the complained-of actions by respondents, I FIND that the petitioners, Township of Howell, and its Mayor, Joseph D. DiBella, lack standing to pursue this matter and their petition should be dismissed.

2. Respondent's motion to dismiss the petition as time-barred.

Since my initial decision is a recommendation to the Commissioner, and a since there is the possibility that the Commissioner may disagree with my determination regarding petitioners' lack of standing, I believe it is prudent to address the other motions in this matter.

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) provides as follows:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing. This rule shall not apply in instances where a specific statute, regulation or court order > provides for a period of limitation shorter than 90 days for the filing of a particular type of appeal.

The 90-day rule is a regulatory provision which has the effect of a statute of limitations. It has been reviewed and approved by the courts as an essential element in the proper and efficient administration of the school laws because it provides a measure of repose and stability. See, Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ. of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572, 582 (1993). The limitation period gives school districts the security of knowing that administrative decisions regarding the operation of the school cannot be challenged after 90 days.

In Count III of the Petition of Appeal, the petitioners challenge the Board of Education's Policy 8110. This policy, in its present form, was revised and adopted on May 10, 2004, and has remained unchanged since that date. It is clear that the petitioners' challenge to Policy 8110, filed with the Commissioner on February 17, 2006, is far out of time, and I so FIND. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioners' challenge to Policy 8110 contained in the Petition of Appeal should be dismissed.

The Student Attendance Plan for the 2006-2007 school year was approved by the Board of Education on September 12, 2005 (R-3, Exhibits C and D). On November 21, 2005, the Board of Education approved a revision to the Student Attendance Plan for the 2006-2007 school year (R-3, Exhibit F). That revision changed the plan by reverting to the status quo for students from certain limited areas of Howell Township attending Freehold Township High School. The November 21, 2005, revision of the Student Attendance Plan for the 2006-2007 school year had no impact on the remainder of the plan. Therefore, I FIND that petitioners' February 17, 2006, challenge to the Student Attendance Plan for the 2006-2007 school year, approved by the Board of Education on September 12, 2005 (R-3, Exhibits C and D), is out of time and should be dismissed.

Petitioners contend that if it is determined that the Petition of Appeal was not timely filed, this is a matter of significant public interest and there is no prejudice to respondent by allowing this matter to proceed. However, this regulatory limitation will only be relaxed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16 where unusual or compelling circumstances exist causing injustice. See Raymond v. River Edge BOE, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 203, affd, 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 431. If this matter is of significant public interest, why is it that no parents filed a petition of appeal challenging the Student Attendance Plan within the 90-day period? The prejudice to the respondent school district caused by the delay in pursuing this matter is also obvious.[1] This matter is the very type of situation where the policy of repose and stability is critical for the proper administration and operation of the school district. I FIND that petitioners have presented no unusual or compelling circumstances, the existence of which would cause injustice, so as to justify the relaxation of the 90-day time period of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

With respect to the petitioners' February 17, 2006, challenge to the revision to the Student Attendance Plan for the 2006-2007 school year, approved by the Board of Education on November 21, 2005 (R-3, Exhibit F), I FIND that it was filed within the 90-day period specified by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). However, this revision has the effect of causing the Student Attendance Plan for the 2006-2007 school year to revert to the prior year's Student Attendance Plan with respect only to those students in a specific section of Howell Township who will remain in the attendance area for Freehold Township High School. Thus, if the petitioners are permitted to pursue their challenge to the November 21, 2005 revision, and if they were to succeed in their claim that Student Attendance Plan for 2006-2007 with this revision is void and of no effect, the Student Attendance Plan for the prior year would remain in effect and there would be no change.

In Anderson v. Sills, 143 N.J. Super. 432, 437 (Ch. Div. 1976), it was stated that there are two basic reasons for the doctrine of mootness.

> First, for reasons of judicial economy and restraint, courts will not decide cases in which the issue is hypothetical, a judgment cannot grant effective relief, or the parties do not have concrete adversity of interest. Second, it is a premise of the Anglo-American judicial system that a contest > engendered by genuinely conflicting self-interests of the parties is best suited to developing all relevant material before the court.

An issue is "moot" when a determination is sought on a matter which, when rendered, cannot have any practical effect on the existing controversy and where the conflict between the parties has become merely hypothetical. In re Conroy, 190 N.J. Super. 453, 458 (App. Div. 1983); Barshatky v. Freehold Regional High School District Board of Education, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 73. The courts and the Commissioner of the Department of Education ordinarily will refuse to review questions which become academic prior to the issuance of a decision out of reluctance to render a legal decision in the abstract and a desire to conserve judicial or administrative resources. In re Conroy, supra at 459; Carolyn Henry v. Board of Ed. of the City Wildwood, 1975 S.L.D. 1, 3.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioners' February 17, 2006, challenge to the revision to the Student Attendance Plan for the 2006-2007 school year, approved by the Board of Education on November 21, 2005, should be dismissed as moot.

3. Petitioners' motion to amend to add new parties.

N.J.A.C. 1:1-6.2(a) provides:

> Unless precluded by law or constitutional principle, pleadings may be freely amended when, in the judge's discretion, an amendment would be in the interest of efficiency, expediency and the avoidance of over-technical pleading requirements and would not create undue prejudice.

In their moving papers, petitioners argue that a motion for leave to amend a pleading is to be liberally granted, especially in matters affecting the public interest. Finderne Mgmt. Co., Inc. v. Barrett, 355 N.J. Super. 170 (App. Div. 2002); Springfield Tp v. Board of Educ., 217 N.J. Super. 570 (App. Div. 1987). Petitioners assert that the proposed amendment will provide for a representation of individual residents and parents of students who attend respondents' schools, and the relief sought is grounded on the same operative facts as set forth in the petition so there will be no prejudice to respondents with regard to addressing new issues or claims against it. Petitioners argue that the amended pleading will name parties whose claims arose out of the original occurrence or actions of respondent school board and accordingly the amendment should relate back to the date of the original pleading, citing Harr v. Allstate Ins. Co., 54 N.J. 287, 299-300 (1969).

In response to the motion, respondents contend that adding new parties would create undue prejudice to respondents. Respondents point out that the holding in the Finderne case makes it clear that the decision to grant or deny leave to amend is subject to the discretion of the trial court, and denial is required only when there would be prejudice to the other party or the movant was dilatory in prosecution of the claim. Finderne, supra, 355 N.J. Super. at 196.

Respondents further contend that they will be unduly prejudiced by an amendment to the pleadings at this late date, which is approximately five months after the filing of the petition and ten months after the adoption of the Attendance Boundary Plan for the 2006-2007 school year.

The difficulty I have with petitioners' motion to amend the pleadings is that the parties to be added are each asserting individual claims against the respondent school district that should have been asserted at a much earlier date, and which are now untimely if they were to be asserted in a new petition.

The New Jersey Administrative Code is silent as to the issue when an amended pleading relates back. N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3(a) provides in relevant part:

> This chapter shall be construed to achieve just results, simplicity in procedure, fairness in administration and the elimination of unjustifiable expense and delay. In the absence of a rule, a judge may proceed in accordance with the New Jersey Court Rules, provided the rules are compatible with these purposes.

R. 4:9-3 of the New Jersey Court Rules provides in relevant part:

> Whenever the claim or defense asserted in the amended pleading arose out of the conduct, transaction or occurrence set forth or attempted to be set forth in the original pleading, the amendment relates back to the date of the original pleading; but the court, in addition to its power to allow amendments may, upon terms, permit the statement of a new or different claim or defense in the pleading.

As was stated in Fraser v. Bovino, 317 N.J. Super. 23, 34 (App. Div. 1998), citing R. 4:9-3,

> . . . [N]othing within the doctrine of relation back would permit claims asserted by litigants in one action to relate back to claims asserted by different litigants in a different action.

The claims of the proposed new petitioners are not new claims or claims that were recently discovered by them. Each of these claims existed on September 12, 2005, and on November 21, 2005, when the complained of actions were taken by the respondent Board of Education. The first notice to the respondents that these proposed petitioners were asserting these individual claims occurred on or about July 11, 2006, when the motion to add these individuals as petitioners was submitted by their attorney. This far exceeds the 90-day time limit specified by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) for filing challenges to the actions of a board of education. To allow these new claims to be made by way of an amended petition would be volative of the policy behind N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) for expediency in asserting claims against the board of education and for stability and repose. Parents of any students who felt negatively impacted by this attendance plan had the opportunity to challenge the plan within 90 days of its adoption. They should not be given a second opportunity to challenge the plan eight months after its adoption.

In addition, I am satisfied that in light of the current factual situation, the motion to amend the petition should be denied because such an amendment to add new parties would be prejudicial to the respondent. Respondents' attendance plan was adopted in September 2005, and modified in November 2005. No action was taken against the adopted plan within the 90-day period following its adoption. I FIND that the school district has expended significant time, money and resources in planning and budgeting for the 2006-2007 school year in reliance upon the attendance boundary plan. I am satisfied that it will be extremely onerous if not impossible for the district to accomplish and implement any change in the Attendance Boundary Plan for this current school year. Based upon the Certification of Dr. Wasser (R-6), the school district has established a master schedule, established all students' schedules for all of its students in six high schools, established all bus schedules, routes and bus stops, hired and assigned staff for all six high schools, established staff schedules for all six high schools, and allocated classroom and other facilities within each school building to meet the needs of the assigned students. These undertakings have actually begun in operation at the start of the school year and any change in the allocation of students would have a drastic effect and would cause a disruption in the educational process at this point.

In view of the foregoing, and after considering all of the surrounding circumstances, I CONCLUDE that it is appropriate to exercise discretion in this matter by refusing to permit the amendment of the petition to add new parties.

Because of the determinations I have made with respect to the foregoing issues, I believe that it is unnecessary to address respondents' motion to dismiss the Petition of Appeal with respect to any claims against James Wasser, Superintendent of Schools.

DECISION AND ORDER

For the reasons stated above, I hereby ORDER that the petition in this matter is hereby DISMISSED for lack of standing, and that petitioners' challenges to Policy 8110 and to the Student Attendance Plan for the 2006-2007 school year, approved by the Board of Education on September 12, 2005 (R-3, Exhibit C and D), are out of time pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), and are hereby DISMISSED. I further ORDER that t petitioners' February 17, 2006, challenge to the revision to the Student Attendance Plan for the 2006-2007 school year, approved by the Board of Education on November 21, 2005, is DISMISSED as moot. I further ORDER that petitioners' motion to amend the Petition of Appeal to add additional petitioners is hereby DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Petitioners contested respondent's determination that their children were not domiciled in respondent's district during the 2005-2006 school year. Respondent counterclaims for tuition reimbursement for the alleged period of ineligible attendance, based on observations by an investigator that L.D.C. and R.B.C. were living at their grandparents' address in East Orange.

The ALJ found that petitioners have proven by a preponderance of credible evidence that L.D.C. and R.B.C. were domiciled in respondent's school district during the period in question; that the address in East Orange was never a permanent domicile; and concluded that respondent's decision to disenroll petitioners' children must be overturned, and the Board's counterclaim for tuition is without merit.

Upon an independent and thorough review of the record, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as the Final Decision in this matter.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision have been reviewed. Although a hearing took place on September 8, 2006, the record does not include a transcript of same. No exceptions have been filed.

For the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision, the Commissioner adopts the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) determination that petitioners proved that B.C. and the children never relinquished domicile in Bloomfield, notwithstanding their intermittent stays – over several months – in the East Orange home of B.C.'s parents. Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision overturning respondent's decision to disenroll the children and dismissing respondent's counter-claim for tuition.

BEFORE JAMES A. GERAGHTY, ALJ:

BACKGROUND

Petitioners, R.C. and B.C., contest the May 3, 2006 decision of the Bloomfield School District Board of Education to disenroll their children, L.D.C. and R.B.C., on grounds that the children were not domiciled in the district during the 2005/2006 school year. The New Jersey State Department of Education received Petitioners' appeal on May 24, 2006. (Exhibit R-1). The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") on June 14, 2006. The hearing was held on September 8, 2006, at which Petitioner, B.C., and Robert Presuto, Director of Administrative Services for the Bloomfield School District, testified. Both parties adduced documentary evidence and were represented by counsel. Petitioners' counsel submitted copies of exhibits admitted during the hearing under cover of a letter received September 11, 2006 at the OAL. The record closed that day.

The issues are whether Petitioners' children, L.D.C. and R.B.C., were Bloomfield School District domiciliaries during school year 2005/2006, and if not, whether they are liable for tuition assessment for the period of ineligibility.

LEGAL AUTHORITY

Persons over five and under twenty years of age are entitled to attend public schools without charge if they are domiciled within the school district in which the school is located. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. A student is domiciled within a school district:

> 1. . . . when he or she is living with a parent or legal guardian whose permanent home is located within the school district. A home is permanent when the parent or guardian intends to return to it when absent and has no present intent of moving from it, notwithstanding the existence of homes or residences elsewhere.
> 4. A student is domiciled in the school district when his or her parent or legal guardian resides within the district on an all-year-round basis for one year or more, notwithstanding the existence of a domicile elsewhere.

N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)1,4.

Where a student's dwelling is located within two or more school districts, ". . . the district of domicile for school attendance purposes shall be that of the municipality to which the resident pays the majority of his or her property tax . . . ." Id. at section 3.1(b).

There is a substantial body of precedent on domicile. Our Appellant Division has explained:

> Domicile is the relation which the law creates between an individual and a particular locality or country. In a strict legal sense, the domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which, whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving . . . it is the place with which he has a settled connection for certain legal purposes, either because his home is there or because that place is assigned to him by the law . . . . And every person, in all circumstances and conditions, is deemed to have a domicile somewhere; and, in general, a domicile once established continues until superseded by a new domicile, and the old domicile is not lost until a new one is acquired . . .
> A person may have several residences or places of abode but he can have only one domicile at a time. Domicile of choice is essentially a question of residence and intention - of factum and animus. It involves an exercise of volition . . . . And he may have his residence in one place, while his domicile is in another . . . . There are certain legal rights and privileges which pertain to "residence" rather than to "domicile." One's "home" may be relinquished and abandoned, while one's "domicile" upon which may depend certain civil rights and duties, may in legal contemplation remain." Kurilla v. Roth, 132 N.J.L., 213, 215 (Sup. Ct. 1944) and authorities there cited.

The courts have established criteria to determine which residence constitutes a person's domicile, to wit: (1) physical characteristics of each residence, (2) the time spent and things done in each residence, (3) other persons found in each residence, (4) the person's mental attitude about each residence, and (5) whether, when absent, the person has the intention to return. Mercadante v. City of Paterson, 111 N.J. Super. 35 (Ch. Div. 1970), aff'd, 58 N.J. 112 (1971). Thus, the courts seek evidence of a person's intent by reference to "indicia of domicile." FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The documents and testimony adduced at the hearing reveal the following:

Petitioners, R.C. and B.C., have resided with their children, L.D.C. and R.B.C., at an address on Ampere Parkway in Bloomfield, New Jersey, since 1998. The house was purchased owned by husband/father, R.C., and his mother, T.C., to facilitate purchase financing because B.C., his wife, had a poor credit rating.

In February 2006, Respondent received information that L.D.C., a student attending school in the Bloomfield School District, actually resided in East Orange, New Jersey. (Exhibit R-1). The District conducted an investigation which entailed a "stake out" by a compliance officer at Petitioners' Bloomfield address from 2:30 to 4:00 p.m. on March 16 and 23, 2006. Neither L.D.C. nor her brother, R.B.C. was seen entering that location. On March 29, 2006, he conducted another stake out at the same location from 6:30 a.m. to 7:40 a.m. A young male was seen entering the location during that stake out. On March 30, 2006, the investigator staked out the East Orange Williams Street address owned by Petitioner B.C.'s parents. Both students were observed leaving the house with an older male who drove them to Bloomfield High School where L.D.C. exited, and then to the Ampere Parkway Bloomfield address where R.B.C. exited the vehicle. The vehicle registration was the same as that which dropped off the male child at the Ampere Parkway address during the previous stake out. There were subsequent stake outs on March 31, April 3, April 4, and April 5, 2006 where comparable behavior was observed. The investigator reported the results to Mr. Robert Presuto, the Bloomfield School District Director of Administrative Services accordingly. (Exhibit R-2).

On the strength of the investigator's report, the School District recommended disenrollment of the children to the School Board because they were not domiciled in Bloomfield. The District afforded Petitioners the opportunity to meet with the School Board on May 2, 2006. Petitioner B.C. attended the hearing and testified, although not under oath, that she resided at her mother's East Orange address intermittently from the summer of 2005 through April 2006 since she was separated from her husband. However, she declined to explain the circumstances claiming to have been intimidated by so many "blue suits" at the School Board meeting. Specifically, she did not disclose that she was having marital difficulties. Therefore, since her absences from Bloomfield and her children's movements to and from the East Orange address were not satisfactorily explained, the Bloomfield School Board apparently found B.C.'s evasive explanations to be outweighed by the objective observations of the investigator. The Board concluded that the children's domicile was East Orange and that they should be disenrolled from the Bloomfield School District. Petitioners appealed to the New Jersey State Department of Education on May 16, 2006. (Exhibit R-3).

At the September 8, 2006 OAL hearing, B.C. testified that when she and her husband married in 1993 they lived with her parents in East Orange until they were able to buy their Ampere Parkway, Bloomfield residence in 2000. Both parents work, B.C.

for State Farm Insurance, and R.C. as an auto mechanic in Newark. He also moonlights as a mechanic in addition to his regular employment. Both R.C. and B.C. pay the mortgage and taxes on their Bloomfield home. The children have been attending the Bloomfield schools since 2001. B.C. testified that she and her husband began having marital difficulties during 2005. She separated from her husband and returned to live temporarily with her parents in East Orange. She testified that she and her husband wished to resolve their difficulties and it was never their intention to permanently separate or to divorce. They never filed a divorce action. At this time, B.C. left most of her personal belongings at the couple's Bloomfield residence. She brought to East Orange clothing and personal items such as a person would need while traveling. Her children accompanied her but did not stay in East Orange continuously. Rather, they returned to their father on occasion depending largely on their parents' work schedules. On those occasions when R.B.C. stayed with his mother in East Orange, his father would pick him up and drive him to school. Sometimes he was dropped off at his Bloomfield home for his father to drive him to school. During this period, both children's personal items including most toys remained at the Bloomfield home. Like their mother, they brought only clothing and other personal items that they would need for a temporary sojourn in East Orange. B.C. testified that she and her children returned home to Bloomfield for the holidays in December 2005. Thereafter, she and the children resumed their intermittent living arrangements between Bloomfield and East Orange.

At some point in February or March 2006, Petitioners learned through acquaintances at their church of a marriage counseling seminar known as the Family Life Weekend to Remember to be held during April 2006 in Burlington, Massachusetts. Petitioners attended beginning April 7, 2006 through April 9, 2006. (Exhibit P-2). Apparently the seminar or marriage encounter was successful since the couple thereafter reunited permanently at their Bloomfield home.

At the OAL hearing, Petitioner authenticated certain documents evidencing her intent to return to her Bloomfield home. For example, her driver's license and vehicle registration state her address as Ampere Parkway in Bloomfield. (Exhibit P-3). On cross-examination, she produced her prior driver's license which likewise showed her address at the same location. (Exhibit P-3). Petitioners' Capital One credit card was issued to them jointly at their Bloomfield address. (Exhibit P-4). Petitioners' auto insurance bill likewise shows their address as Ampere Parkway in Bloomfield. (Exhibit P-5). Finally, Petitioner B.C.'s pay vouchers from April through August 2006 similarly show her address as Ampere Parkway in Bloomfield. (Exhibit P-6). Petitioner testified that she received all of her mail at her Bloomfield residence.

There were some indicia that Petitioners' children resided in East Orange. Their daughter, L.D.C., received a magazine subscription at her grandmother's East Orange address. Her brother's emergency contact card identified both his parents at Bloomfield and her grandparents at East Orange. (Exhibit R-4).

FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS

Petitioner, B.C., testified credibly concerning the circumstances of her temporary separation from her husband, R.C., and their attempts, finally successful, to resolve their differences. During this process, Petitioner, B.C., and her children sojourned temporarily at B.C.'s parents' East Orange home where she and her husband had lived prior to 2000 when they moved to Bloomfield. Petitioners together paid the mortgage and taxes on their Bloomfield home. The OAL received no evidence that either Petitioner contributed in any way to B.C.'s parents' residential expenses, either mortgage or taxes, if any, in East Orange. Also, B.C. and her children's personalty remained for the most part in Bloomfield. Although the School Board's conclusion that Petitioners had changed their children's domicile during the 2005/2006 school year was reasonable as it was grounded on the fruits of the investigator's observations as well as B.C.'s elliptical testimony during the May 2006 School Board meeting, nevertheless, all the credible testimony and documentary evidence contradicts this conclusion. Rather, the evidence shows strongly that neither Petitioner ever intended to change their permanent residence even if B.C. and her children resided intermittently in East Orange. Accordingly, I FIND as a matter of fact that B.C. and her children, L.B.C. and R.B.C., at all times relevant resided at what was their permanent home and principal establishment in Bloomfield and to which, whenever absent, they intended to and in fact did return. Neither Petitioner ever did or said anything that evidenced an intention to move from that location permanently. There are no facts which suggest that any of the parties acquired a new domicile. B.C. never relinquished her Bloomfield residence.

Based on the substantial weight of the evidence adduced at the OAL, I CONCLUDE that Petitioners' Ampere Parkway residence in Bloomfield was their permanent abode to which they always intended to return even if temporarily absent, and that this intent is corroborated by extensive indicia all of which militate in support this conclusion that Petitioners and their children have been and continue to be domiciled in Bloomfield, New Jersey. I further CONCLUDE that Petitioners' children, L.D.C. and R.B.C., though temporarily residing in East Orange during the 2005/2006 school year, nevertheless were domiciled in Bloomfield, New Jersey during that time. Accordingly, the Bloomfield Board of Education decision to disenroll Petitioners' children is not supported by the weight of the evidence and must be overturned. So too, the School Board's counterclaim for tuition reimbursement is without merit.

DISPOSITION AND ORDER

Based on the foregoing findings of fact and legal authority, I DECIDE this matter in favor of Petitioners and ORDER that their appeal should be and hereby is GRANTED, and that Respondents' counterclaim is dismissed.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner contested respondent's determination that her nephew, S.B., is ineligible to attend West Orange Township schools because she failed to demonstrate a family or economic hardship which would render the parent unable to support or provide care for the child, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b). Respondent seeks tuition reimbursement for the alleged period of ineligible attendance. Petitioner failed to appear at hearing scheduled for October 16, 2006, at which the Board presented its proofs on the counterclaim for tuition reimbursement, which were admitted into evidence.

The ALJ found that since no proof was offered to dispute the Board's contention, S.B.'s parent failed to demonstrate that she is incapable of supporting or providing care for her son due to family or economic hardship, and concluded that S.B. is not entitled to a free education in West Orange Township schools. The ALJ further concluded that the Board is entitled to recover tuition pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2), and granted the Board's application for reimbursement in the amount of $15,457.28, plus $77.51 per day for each day S.B. attends school in the district after October 16, 2006.

Upon a full and independent review of this matter, including timely filed exceptions submitted by counsel for the previously pro se petitioner, the Commissioner is compelled to reject the Initial Decision and remands the matter to the OAL for a hearing on the merits. The Commissioner concluded that in view of the particular circumstances described in petitioner's exceptions, it would be contrary to the interests of justice to deprive the petitioner of the opportunity to have the merits of her case decided.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions on behalf of the previously *pro se p*etitioner, filed by Matthew E. Przywozny, Esq., were submitted in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 as were reply exceptions on behalf of the Board and these submissions were fully considered by the Commissioner in reaching her determination herein.[1]

Exceptions on behalf of petitioner, in pertinent part, state:

> This matter was scheduled for a hearing before Judge Paone on October 16, 2006. Unfortunately, Mrs. Hunter failed to appear for the hearing as she mistakenly believed it to be on another day. Nevertheless, Judge Paone gave Mrs. Hunter until October 27, 2006 to submit objections on which date the record was to close.
> Mrs. Hunter came with her husband to see me on the afternoon of October 25th at which time I tried to make sense of what has transpired with this case up to this point. I promptly sent the materials to Judge Paone via overnight delivery in hopes that they would be considered.

[1] It is noted that the Board's reply exceptions urge the Commissioner to reject petitioner's exceptions as untimely given that the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) decision was issued on October 27, 2006 and petitioner's exceptions were not received by the Board until November 14, 2006. However, the Commissioner observes that N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, in pertinent part, specifies: "[w]ithin 13 days from the date the judge's initial decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the agency head." (emphasis added) Here the record indicates that the ALJ's decision was mailed to the parties on October 30, 2006. As such, petitioner's exceptions, filed with the Agency on November 8, 2006, are well within the allotted regulatory timeframe. Respondent Board's receipt of petitioner's exceptions operates to trigger the running of the regulatory timeline for the filing of reply exceptions (N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(d)).

> Although Judge Paone acknowledges receipt of the letter and documents on October 27, 2006,  it appears that he had filed his decision in the morning of the 27th and that the package arrived in the afternoon. ***
> It is understandable that Judge Paone reached that conclusion as he was unable to consider the affidavit of S.B.'s biological mother wherein it (sic) she explains that she does not have a permanent residence and is unable to support her son. He was not able to consider [the] statement of Sherell Hunter wherein she confirms that she is a West Orange resident who is S.B.'s guardian.
> If Judge Paone's ruling, although reasonable based upon the lack of any meaningful record, is not overruled, Mrs. Hunter will be unable to enroll S.B. in any school, as he does not have a permanent residence in any other School District. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1-2)

Upon her independent review of the record and full consideration of counsel's exceptions on behalf of petitioner, the Commissioner is compelled to reject the Initial Decision of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) and return this matter to the OAL for a hearing on its merits. Notwithstanding petitioner's failure to appear on the scheduled hearing date, in view of the particular circumstances here, the Commissioner concludes that it would be contrary to the interests of justice to deprive petitioner of the opportunity to have the merits of her case decided.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is rejected and this matter is remanded to the OAL for adjudication on its merits. Petitioner is cautioned, however, that should she again fail to appear on a scheduled hearing date without just cause and prior notice to the ALJ, no further opportunities to pursue this matter will be accorded her.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Respondent.

S.H., pro se

Stephen J. Christiano, Esq., for the respondent

Record Closed: October 16, 2006 Decided: October 27, 2006

BEFORE JOSEPH PAONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner S.H. appeals the determination of respondent Board of Education of the Township of West Orange (Board) that S.B., petitioner's nephew, is ineligible to attend the West Orange Township schools because she failed to demonstrate a family or economic hardship, which would render the parent unable to support or provide care for the child. N.J.S.A. 18A: 38-1(b). Respondent requests tuition reimbursement for the alleged period of ineligible attendance.

By letter of October 12, 2005, the Board notified petitioner of its determination. On October 27, 2005, the Commissioner received an appeal from S.B.'s mother. The New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (Bureau) responded and advised S.B's mother that the appeal must be initiated by petitioner, S.H., with whom her child resides. On May 12, 2006, the Board advised petitioner that due to the failure to file an appeal, S.B. would be disenrolled as of May 19, 2006. On May 19, 2006, the Commissioner received an appeal from petitioner. On July 19, 2006, an Answer was filed on behalf of the Board. On August 9, 2006, the Bureau transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A hearing was scheduled for October 16, 2006, and notices were mailed to the parties and to the attorney for the Board. Petitioner did not appear on the hearing date. No message was received in regard to her nonappearance. The hearing went forward and the Board presented its proofs on its counter-claim for tuition reimbursement. On October 16, 2006, correspondence was sent to petitioner advising her that the Board's proofs had been admitted into evidence and offering her the opportunity to file any objections by October 27, 2006. No submissions were received from petitioner and the record closed on that date.

FINDINGS OF FACT

In September 2005, S.B. was enrolled in West Orange High School, which is in the Board's district. On October 12, 2005, the Board advised petitioner that it decided at its October 10, 2005, to deny S.B. admission to its school district because S.B.'s parent failed "to demonstrate a family or economic hardship, which would render the parent unable to support or provide care for the child." Since no proof was offered to dispute the Board's contention, I am compelled to FIND as fact that S.B.'s parent failed to demonstrate that she is incapable of supporting or providing care for S.B. due to a family or economic hardship.

Josefa Lopez, Registrar for the school district, testified that the per pupil cost to the school district was $13,287 during the 2005-2006 school-year and $13,951 during the 2006-2007 school year. (R-1). These costs are undisputed. She further testified that S.B. was enrolled in September 2005 and continues to attend school in the district.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

> Public schools shall be free to . . . [a]ny person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child . . . and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statements . . . . If in the judgment of the board of education the evidence does not support the validity of the claim by the resident, the board may deny admission to the child.

I CONCLUDE that S.B. is not entitled to a free education by the Board because S.B.'s parent failed to provide the board with sufficient proof of the parent's "family or economic hardship."

The Board is entitled to recover tuition from a parent or guardian of a child found ineligible to attend a school in its district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2). "Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance . . . ." Ibid. Lopez testified that the total annual per pupil cost for the 2005-2006 school-year was $13, 287. The total annual per pupil cost for the 2006-2007 school-year is $13,951. The per diem rate for the 2006-2007 school-year is $77.51. S.B. was ineligible to attend West Orange High School during the 2005-2006 school-year and he has accumulated 28 days of ineligible attendance during the 2006-2007 school year. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the total due the Board as of October 16, 2006, the date of the hearing, is $15,457.28.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that the Board's decision to remove S.B. from its school district is AFFIRMED. I further ORDER that the Board's application for tuition reimbursement is hereby GRANTED in the amount of $15,457.28, plus $77.51 per day for each day S.B. attends school in the district after October 16, 2006.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. THOMAS MORRIS,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, a tenured Special Education teacher, appealed the district's withholding of his salary increment for the 2005-2006 school year because of an alleged act of corporal punishment. Respondent contends that petitioner engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher when he struck a student on the wrist with a ruler, and that its action in withholding his salary increment was reasonable and within its statutory authority.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the petitioner has not met his burden in demonstrating that the district's action was arbitrary or capricious; the petitioner's version of the incident – in which he denies striking the student with a ruler – is not sustainable; and the evidence indicates that petitioner engaged in an act of corporal punishment. Accordingly, the ALJ affirmed the withholding of petitioner's salary increment.

Upon a full and independent review of the record, the Commissioner agrees with and adopts the ALJ's findings that respondent had a reasonable basis for its conclusion that petitioner engaged in an act of corporal punishment in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1. Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision upholding respondent's action of withholding petitioner's increment, and the petition is dismissed.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 9472-05
AGENCY DKT. NO. 157-6/05

THOMAS MORRIS,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record, Initial Decision, petitioner's exceptions and respondent's reply to the exceptions have been reviewed. Upon independent evaluation, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as the Final Decision in this case.

Petitioner claims that the withholding of his increment for the 2005-2006 school year was improper, because it was based on false allegations that he hit a student with a ruler. The complaining student, one of his classmates, the school nurse, and the principal testified for respondent; petitioner testified on behalf of himself; statements and reports taken from the principal, the school nurse, the non-complaining student and a crisis teacher were entered into evidence.

At the outset, the Commissioner notes that unless the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) findings of fact are arbitrary and capricious, she must accept them, where they involve credibility determinations, as they do in this case. H.K. v. State of New Jersey, Department of Human Services, Division of Medical Assistance and Health Services, and Atlantic County Department of Human Services, 184 N.J. 367, 384 (2005) (it is not for us or the agency head to disturb that credibility determination, made after due consideration of the witnesses' testimony and demeanor during the hearing, citing Clowes v. Terminix Int'l, Inc., 109 N.J. 575, 587 (1988)). See also, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) (indicating that the head of an agency "may not reject or modify any findings of fact as to issues of credibility . . . unless it is first determined from a review of the record that the findings are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or are not supported by sufficient, competent, and credible evidence in the record.").

In the present case, the ALJ found credible the testimony of both the student that petitioner had allegedly hit (E.A.), and another student who had been sitting close by and had corroborated the allegation that petitioner had hit his classmate with a ruler. The ALJ further found that the students' accounts were both reasonably consistent with each other and consistent with certain undisputed facts, such as E.A.'s misbehavior prior to the incident, and the welt on E.A.'s arm – consistent with a blow by a ruler – which was observed shortly after the incident by the school nurse, the principal and the crisis teacher, Mr. Rochester.

In contrast, petitioner did not offer adequate support for his theory that E.A. inflicted the welt on himself, and blamed it on petitioner, in order to extract revenge for disciplinary actions petitioner took on the prior school day when E.A. allegedly bit another student. Neither the nurse nor the principal recalled a biting incident, and there is no indication in the record that petitioner had satisfied his burden to request – before or during the hearing – any records from respondent that pertained to an alleged biting.

Similarly, petitioner offered nothing more than speculation to support his hypothesis that the welt on E.A.'s arm, which was observed by respondent's witnesses, was self-inflicted. Petitioner's argument in his second exception – that the Commissioner should conclude that E.A. hit himself on the arm based solely on the amount of time between the incident and E.A.'s meeting with crisis teacher Rochester – is without merit. Moreover, there are conflicting accounts in the record as to the amount of time that had passed between the incident, reported as having occurred at about 9:25 a.m., and E.A.'s meeting with Rochester.

In light of the foregoing, the Commissioner agrees with and adopts the ALJ's findings that respondent had a reasonable basis for its conclusion that petitioner engaged in an act of corporal punishment in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1. For the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision, the Commissioner further agrees that petitioner failed to meet his burden to show that respondent acted arbitrarily or capriciously in withholding petitioner's increment as a sanction for such unbecoming conduct.

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision upholding respondent's action of withholding petitioner's increment. The petition is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.•

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On May 10, 2005, the respondent, the State Operated School District of the City of Newark ("District" or "respondent") advised the petitioner, Thomas Morris ("petitioner" or "Morris") that it was withholding his salary increment for the 2005-2006 school year because he engaged in conduct that was unbecoming a teacher. On June 20, 2005, petitioner filed a Verified Petition with the Commissioner of Education, appealing the action of the respondent. An Answer was filed by the respondent on June 29, 2005.

On August 12, 2005, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing as a contested case. A hearing was held on and concluded on March 16, 2006. Post hearing submissions were filed on April 18, 2006. At the request of the undersigned, the time for the issuance of the Initial Decision was extended to October 15, 2006.

FACTS

Based on the record, I FIND the following FACTS:

Petitioner is a tenured Special Education teacher in the District. He was hired by the respondent in 1994. During the 2003-2004 school year, petitioner was assigned to the District's 18th Avenue School. E.A. was a student in the petitioner's class in the 2003-2004 and 2004-2005 school years. Petitioner knew E.A. as a baby because his mother worked for the District's Camden Street School. E.A. was classified as Emotionally Disturbed with Attention Deficit Disorder and Oppositional Behavior. He had problems with his teachers, classmates and the principal. He would fight, throw objects and hit his classmates. His trouble was frequent.

On September 10th of the 2004-2005 school year, E.A. was in his classroom throwing tennis balls at his classmates. Petitioner's directive to E.A. to stop was ignored. Indeed, E.A. proceeded to the petitioner's desk and started touching the petitioner's belongings. He picked up a stapler and opened it whereupon petitioner told him to put it down. Petitioner told E.A. to give him the stapler. Instead of doing as told, E.A. began to move the stapler around on the desk.

E.A. testified that he had his head down and his arm on the petitioner's desk. Petitioner threatened to hit him with a ruler that he was holding, he didn't lift his head on the count of three. Petitioner then counted to three and when he did not do as directed, petitioner hit him on his left arm with the side of the ruler. E.A. told the petitioner that he was "going to tell the principal." Petitioner responded that he should "bring it on." E.A. then said he would tell his stepfather and petitioner again said to "bring it on."

E.A. left the classroom for the principal's office. While enroute, he saw Mr. Rochester (Rochester), the Crisis Counselor. He told him about the incident and Rochester took him to the School Nurse, Doris Austin (Austin). (P-2). Austin observed a red mark on E.A.'s arm. She recalls that E.A. told her that the petitioner hit him with a ruler. E.A. was not crying but was upset. Austin applied an ice pack for comfort and to reduce swelling. Thereafter, she prepared an incident report. (R-5). Austin acknowledges that the mark could have been due to something other than a ruler.

Under cross examination, E.A. denied throwing or touching any tennis balls. He admitted that he was forced to leave the 18th Avenue School because he was accused of setting three fires. However, he denies starting the fires. He was enrolled in the Renaissance Program at the Morton Street School, an alternative school. He was required to leave that program after he alleged that an Aide struck him. His allegation was not believed. He is now enrolled at the Samuel Berliner School, also an alternative school.

H.W. was seated next to E.A.'s assigned seat. He observed E.A. acting out, throwing tennis balls at the class and playing with a "big" stapler on the petitioner's desk. He also heard E.A. curse at the petitioner. The petitioner hit E.A. on his arm because he was acting out.

H.W. did not recall E.A. biting anyone on the day before the incident. Nor did he recall seeing E.A. with the petitioner's tape dispenser or the TV's remote control. When confronted with his written statement, he acknowledged that it stated that E.A. had a tape dispenser and the remote control.

Barbara Ervin, ("Ervin") Principal at the 18th Avenue School, observed a two and half inch red welt on E.A.'s arm. E.A. told her that petitioner hit him with a ruler. Pursuant to Board policy, she called the Division of Youth and Family Services. (R-3).

She had those involved prepare an incident report. (R-1, R-2). Ervin recounted that E.A. is emotionally disturbed and very active. He would curse students and teachers, leave the classroom without permission, fight and lie. In this instance, E.A. admitted being at the petitioner's desk touching his "stuff". He also admitted that he was non-responsive to the petitioner's directives. Ervin also testified that she did not include the petitioner's version of the events in her statement. (R-1). Petitioner denied hitting E.A. She also recounted that all teachers are trained in orientation on how to deal with discipline issues and are given written materials on the subject. (R-4). Indeed, she had spoken to the petitioner on a previous occasion about a similar situation involving another student.

Due to continuous behavioral problems, E.A. was subsequently transferred to a more restrictive program at an alternative school.

Petitioner recounted that in the year prior to the incident, E.A. was in his class. The class consisted of twelve students and an aide. E.A. wanted to be the center of attention and would be a distraction to other students. E.A. is very talented and has many abilities. Despite his talents and abilities, he would curse, walk out of class, overturn desks and chairs, pick fights and tease other students. In response to this behavior, he attempted to lower the emotional level by using humor.

On the first day of the instant school year, E.A. bit a student on the shoulder. He took the student to the nurse. He told E.A. that he would report the biting to the principal. E.A. told him to go "F----" himself and called him a "White M---F----." He escorted the student home, fearful that E.A. would "jump" him. He reported the incident to Ervin and called E.A.'s mom.

His classroom was set up in a "U" shape. In response to the biting incident, he seated E.A. next to his desk. On the morning of the incident, E.A. was throwing tennis balls, cursing and swinging a stapler in the air. E.A. grabbed the tape dispenser and he tussled with him for the stapler. Thereafter, E.A. grabbed the remote control and he attempted to get it from him. At this point, the students in the classroom were laughing.

The two of them had become a spectacle. He believes that E.A. was angry because he had spoken to Ervin and his mother about the biting incident.

E.A. left the classroom saying he was going to the office. Petitioner called security and reported that E.A. had left class. Petitioner denied having a ruler on his desk or hitting E.A. He also denies that E.A. had a welt mark on his arm when he left the classroom. Further, he denies telling E.A. to "bring it on."

After the incident, petitioner said he was reassigned to the Administrative Office at the Sussex Avenue School. The Division of Youth and Family Services investigated the matter and found that physical abuse was not substantiated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.21.

DISCUSSION

N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 provides that:

> Any board of education may withhold for inefficiency or other good cause, the employment increment, or the adjustment increment, or both, of any member in any year by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board of education. It shall be the duty of the board of education, within 10 days, to give written notice of such action, together with the reasons therefore, to the member concerned. The member may appeal from such action to the commissioner under rules prescribed by him. The commissioner shall consider such appeal and shall either affirm the actions of the board of education or direct that the increment or increments be paid. The commissioner may designate an assistant commissioner of education to act for him in his place and with his powers on such appeals. It shall not be mandatory upon the board of education to pay any such denied increment in any future year as an adjustment increment.

In contesting a salary increment withholding, a teacher has the burden of proof of demonstrating that the decision was unreasonable, arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960).

Petitioner aptly notes that there is no single definition of the term unbecoming conduct. In Laba v. Newark Board of Education, 23 N.J. 364, 384 (1957), it was held that the touchstone of a charge of unbecoming conduct is a teacher's fitness to discharge the duties and functions of one's office or position. Further, unfitness to remain a teacher may be shown by a single incident if sufficiently flagrant, but it is best evidenced by a series of incidents. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967); Redclay v. State Board of Ed., 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (Sup. Ct.) aff'd 131 N.J.L. 326 (E&A 1944).

Corporal punishment is defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1 which provides:

> No person employed or engaged in a school or educational institution, whether public or private, shall inflict or cause to be inflicted corporal punishment upon a pupil attending such school or institution; but any such person may, within the scope of his employment, use and apply such amounts of force as is reasonable and necessary:
> 1. To quell disturbance, threatening physical injury to others;
> 2. to obtain possession of weapons or other dangerous objects upon the person or within the control of a pupil;
> 3. for the purpose of self-defense; and
> 4. or the protection of persons or property.

In Craze v. Allendale Board of Ed., 1938 S.L.D. 585, 586, the Commissioner of Education defined corporal punishment as "any punishment causing or intended to cause bodily pain or suffering." Thus, a teacher's use of force or fear or unnecessary and inappropriate physical contact in dealing with students constitutes corporal punishment.

In determining whether corporal punishment has been used by a teacher, the Commissioner of Education has recognized that there is a need to examine the testimony of children with great caution, especially when pupil witnesses are offered to support the alleged corporal punishment charges. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Anne Boyd, Matawan – Aberdeen School District, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 6394-91. In In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Frederick L. Ostergren, 1966 SLD 185, the Commissioner discussed the burden of proving a charge of corporal punishment, it was held:

> . . . The circumstances under which the episode occurred, its provocation, the nature of the incident, itself, the age of the pupil, the teacher's records, his attitude and the prognosis for his continued effective performance and usefulness in the school system. . . . each such matter must be judged in light of all of the circumstances. The kind and degree of penalty will necessarily vary also according to the particular problem. . . (at 188).

In this matter, petitioner denies using a ruler to hit E.A. He admits tussling with EA to get the tape dispenser from him. While the alleged incident took place in an open classroom, only one student, H.W. testified that he saw Morris strike E.A. Petitioner contends that H.W. was a friend of E.A. and thus had a motive to lie. Further, H.W.'s written statement made contemporaneously with the event does not say that petitioner hit E.A. with a ruler. Rather, in that statement H.W. wrote that petitioner hit E.A. with the tape dispenser.

The determination credibility herein is crucial to a charge of conduct of unbecoming. Creditability contemplates an overall assessment of the story of a witness in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it hangs together with other evidence. Carbo V. United States, 314 F.2d 718 (9th Cir. 1963). It has been held that testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself and must be such as the common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances. In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950); State v. Taylor, 38 N.J. Super 6 (App. Div. 1965).

Respondent disputes that E.A. and H.W. had ulterior motive. It contends that interest and motive rest with the petitioner who stands to suffer pecuniary loss as well as a blemish on his teaching record. Further, it argues that petitioner's defense requires an illogical "leap of faith" to believe that: (1) E.A. is lying, possibly to retaliate for "getting him in trouble"; (2) E.A. intimidated the other student witness into corroborating the lie; (3) that E.A. might have injured himself; (4) that there was no ruler on his desk, (5) and he is unaware of how E.A. sustained an injury consistent with a ruler slap.

Respondent further argues that the Principal and the school nurse testified that they were not aware of any biting incident. Thus, there was no need for any "revenge". Respondent does not dispute that E.A. was a troubled student prone to "misconduct." It notes that E.A. admitted that he was no angel and misbehaved in his class. He also admitted to being removed from school for allegedly setting fires. However, in this case, E.A.'s testimony is corroborated by H.W. who was an eyewitness. H.W. was not intimidated by E.A. Indeed, H.W. now attends the East Orange school system and has not seen E.A. since the end of last school year.

Respondent contends that petitioner has not met its burden of showing that the denial of the salary increment was arbitrary or capricious. Kopera v. Board of Education of West Orange, 60 N.J. Super 288 (App. Div. 1960). Respondent asserts that the decision to withhold an increment does not require a showing of shortcomings sufficient to justify dismissal under the Tenure Act." Kopera, 1960-61 S.L.D. at 62. The only question for the Commissioner is whether the district "had a reasonable basis for its factual conclusion." 60 N.J. Super at 295. Indeed, it has been observed that:

> [A school district has no duty] to prove by a preponderance of credible evidence that the allegations against petitioner are true. To do so would convert an increment withholding action into a tenure case and accordingly shift the burden of proof to the board. Such is not the purpose of an appeal to the Commissioner under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14.

There, the Court held that "the decision to withhold an increment is therefore a matter of essential managerial prerogative which has been delegated by the legislature to the board." (Id.; citing Board of Ed. of Bernards Twp. v. Bernards Township Educ. Ass'n, 79 N.J. 311, 321 (1979).

Based on the record, I FIND that the petitioner has not met the burden of demonstrating that the District's action was arbitrary or capricious. I am satisfied that the respondent had a reasonable basis for its conclusion that the petitioner had engaged in an act of corporal punishment. This incident was provoked by E.A.'s acting out to such an extent that the petitioner and E.A. had become a spectacle. All control of the classroom was surrendered to E.A.'s outlandish conduct. However, E.A. was a 12 year old emotionally disturbed student. Despite his disability, he appears to be engaging, thus able to enrapture others. He was fully aware of what he was doing. Unfortunately, his acting out was tolerated for too long and eventually escalated to the point where he was removed from the school.

While I am empathetic to the petitioner's position on that day, I FIND that his version of the incident is not sustainable. Neither H.W., Austin or Ervin recalled the biting incident which petitioner asserts was the motive for E.A.'s accusation. The welt mark was consistent with a touching by a ruler and H.W. was an eyewitness. While H.W.'s written statement was inconsistent with his oral testimony, I am satisfied that he witnessed inappropriate physical contact.

Based on the whole record, I am persuaded by the evidence that petitioner engaged in an act of corporal punishment and thus I hereby AFFIRM the withholding of his salary increment.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner appealed the decision of the respondent Board not to issue his child a laptop computer for the 2005-2006 school year, pursuant to a district policy regarding student laptops with which the petitioner refused to comply; specifically, that petitioner declined to pay the $50 annual premium required to cover accidental damage and fire/theft/loss insurance on the computer. Petitioner argued that the district was required to provide the computer to his daughter pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:34-1.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that the facts of this matter indicate that the laptop computer does not qualify as a supply mandatory to successful completion of the classroom curriculum, and that M.H.'s grades did not suffer from lack of access to the laptop computer. The ALJ concluded that the respondent's action in refusing to issue M.H. a laptop for use during the 2005-2006 school year was reasonable and permissible because her parents refused to comply with district computer use policy, and dismissed the petition with prejudice.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ for the reasons stated in the Initial Decision, and dismissed the petition.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE PASCACK VALLEY REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply and counter exceptions – submitted in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – were fully considered by the Commissioner in her determination of this matter.

Petitioner first excepts to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) determination that in order for a particular item to constitute a "supply" within the intendment of N.J.S.A. 18A:34-1 – requiring its provision to students free of charge – it is first necessary to establish whether the item was "mandatory" or "integral" to classroom instruction. Petitioner maintains such a determination is not dispositive. Rather, he argues, "once material is made a basic part of the regular classroom instructional activities, as in the instant matter, then such materials must be provided for free." (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1) Notwithstanding this, petitioner argues that – contrary to the finding of the ALJ – the record here establishes that the laptop computers were "a basic, fundamental, mandatory and integral part of the education program conducted in the Respondent schools." (Id. at 2)

Petitioner next charges that the ALJ's reasoning that M.H. could have used the school's computers in the library or her own home computer to obtain the information available to students who paid for insurance fails to recognize that in addition to not being issued a school laptop, M.H. was not issued an access code for the 2005-06 school year. Thus, even assuming computer hardware in the library or on her own computer was available to her, "she did not have the same ability to completely use the school district's full technology resources that were available to the students who paid the insurance premium due to the school's refusal to issue her an access code." (Id. at 3)

Finally, petitioner submits that the ALJ's decision failed to address the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:20-25, which requires a board to maintain insurance: a responsibility which he avers cannot, in turn, be transferred to students by "administrative fiat." (Id. at 4)

In reply, the Board charges that petitioner has provided no support whatsoever for his conclusion that "once material is made a basic part of the regular classroom instruction activities, as in the instant matter, then such materials must be provided for free." To the contrary, it argues, N.J.S.A. 18A:34-1 makes no mention of "material" which a board must furnish free of charge for use by pupils. Rather, this provision clearly and unambiguously imposes such an obligation only for "textbooks" and "other school supplies." The Board urges that:

> [i]t is obvious that an optional learning tool such as the laptop computer issued by the Pascack Valley School District is not a textbook or equivalent to required textbooks. Indeed, required textbooks are components of an approved curriculum that meets the New Jersey Core Curriculum Content Standards. District issued laptop computers are not a component of the New Jersey Core Curriculum Content Standards. Similarly, computer hardware, such as a district issued laptop computer, is not synonymous with consumable school supplies. A court or state agency cannot amend the clear and unambiguous language of > N.J.S.A. 18A:34-1 to include an item that does not meet the requirement established by the Legislature.

> (Board's Reply Exceptions at 2)

The Board further points out as significant the fact that it neither required students to pay for laptops nor did it charge a use fee. Rather, the insurance toll was just a cost effective mechanism for parents to pay the expense of damage or loss to the computer which they otherwise would be solely responsible to bear. (Id. at 3)

As to petitioner's argument that the school issued laptops were a "basic, fundamental, mandatory and integral part of the educational program in the district," the Board observes that the core curriculum content standards do not require districts to "provide instruction on computers and information literacy and technology education through the issuance of a laptop computer or provide access to the school district's computer network from home". (Ibid.) Further, to the extent M.H. needed a computer to assist her in her schoolwork, she had access to computers in the school library and her own personal computer. It points out that M.H. was not penalized because she did not have a school issued laptop and access code, and that her grades for the 2005-2006 school year were comparable to those she achieved during the 2004-2005 school when she had a laptop and those she received during the 2003-2004 school year before the implementation of the laptop initiative. Therefore, it urges that the ALJ correctly concluded:

> [t]hough it may have been less convenient for M.H. to not have had use of a district laptop her performance combined with the fact that she retained all the privileges of any other student otherwise not participating in the e-learning initiative, clearly shows that the laptops were not [an] integral part of her curriculum. (Initial Decision at 5; Board's Reply Exceptions at 4)

As to petitioner's claim that N.J.S.A. 18A:20-25 is applicable to this matter, the Board professes that this assertion is without merit, instead reasoning:

> [w]hile N.J.S.A. 18A:20-25 requires a school district to maintain insurance against loss or damage caused by fire, other coverage is discretionary. This statute had nothing to do with the payment of the insurance premium for the district issued laptop computers. Rather, the intent of N.J.S.A. 18A:20-25 is to ensure that school districts are protected against property loss or damage caused by fire.
> Indeed, the imposition of the $50.00 fee to cover the cost of the insurance premium is a viable method to protect parents from paying much higher costs if the Board issued laptop computer is damaged, lost, or stolen. Boards of education are, in fact, permitted to assess reasonable fees to cover the costs of damage or loss to district property. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-3. If boards of education were not permitted to recoup such expenses, taxpayer dollars would regularly be spent to pay for the loss and damage of such property caused by students. Not only would this be a drain on district resources, but it would also minimize students' responsibility for the care and protection of district property in their possession.(Board Reply Exceptions at 6)

In conclusion, in light of petitioner's filing of exceptions, the Board urges it was compelled to file cross exceptions renewing its arguments advanced in papers below that this matter should be dismissed on procedural grounds which were not addressed by the ALJ in her decision. Specifically:

1) The matter is untimely, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), as a consequence of petitioner's failure to file within 90-days from the implementation of the laptop program;

2) Because petitioner previously signed the laptop agreement and paid the insurance fee, this claim is barred by the equitable doctrine of laches; and

3) Since – effective with the 2006-07 school year – the Board will issue laptop computers and an access code to students even if they do not purchase insurance coverage, petitioner here fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

Upon careful, independent review of the record and finding petitioner's exceptions without merit, the Commissioner agrees with the conclusion of the ALJ that the Board's imposition of a $50 accidental damage, theft or loss insurance premium and agreement to pay a $100 deductible for insurance claims as a condition of participation in the district's laptop program was not violative of the district's duty to provide M.H. a free public education pursuant to the New Jersey Constitution, Article VII, Section IV, Paragraph 1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.[1]

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is adopted – for the reasons stated therein – and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

STATEMENE OT THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Petitioner appeals the decision of the Pascack Valley Regional Board of Education (hereinafter Pascack or Respondent), not to issue his minor child a laptop computer for the 2005-2006 school year, pursuant to a policy contained in the Respondent's Student Laptop Manual (hereinafter Manual) with which the Petitioner refused to comply. The Petitioner filed a verified petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education challenging the Respondent's decision, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d) on or about November 17, 2005. The Petitioner alleges that the Respondent violated its' obligation to provide M.H. with a free public education in accordance with the N.J. Constitution by refusing to issue her a laptop. The matter was determined to be a contested case pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.1 and 1:1-8.2, and the matter was transmitted to the OAL on January 24, 2006.

A telephone pre-hearing conference was held by the undersigned ALJ on May 15, 2006. The parties agreed that the matter should be decided by summary decision cross-motions, as no material facts are in dispute. The parties filed their respective briefs and reply briefs. The record closed on August 31, 2006.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

1. The Respondent operates a 9th through 12th grade regional high school district for the residents of the Borough of Hillsdale, Borough of Montvale, Township of River Vale, and Borough of Woodcliff Lake.

2. The district contains two high schools, Pascack Hills High School and Pascack Valley High School.

3. At all relevant times, the minor child, M.H., attended Pascack Valley High School, and will complete the 2006-07 school year (her senior year) at Pascack Valley High School.

4. In the Spring of 2004, the Respondent approved an e-learning initiative which involved the issuance of Sony Vaio laptop computers to all students and teachers in the district.

5. To facilitate implementation of the learning initiative, the district also promulgated a Manual which contains the rules and regulations for the use of the laptops as well as use instructions.

6. Certain educational software is installed in each laptop, which is used by the student for testing, homework assignments and other communications between the student and teachers.

7. Students are also issued an access code so that they may remotely access the district's computer network through their assigned laptop.

8. In order to obtain a district issued laptop, the student and his or her parent/guardian must initial and sign the Laptop Agreement Form (Form), a part of the Manual; the following provisions of which is in dispute;

    a. I/We understand that each laptop includes accidental damage coverage as well as fire/theft/loss insurance. I will be responsible for an annual premium payment of $50.00 for this coverage. This payment is included with this form.

    b. I/We understand that the fire/theft policy includes a $100.00 per incident deductible that will be paid by the parent.

9. M.H. and her parents initialed and signed all portions of the Form, including the above provisions, and paid the $50.00 insurance premium for the 2004-05 school year.

10. M.H. completely initialed and signed the Form for the 2005-06 school year, but M.H.'s parents declined to initial the above provisions, or pay the $50.00 annual premium, though they did initial all other provisions and signed the Form.

11. As a result the Respondent declined to issue M.H. a laptop computer and access code for the 2005-06 school year.

12. M.H.'s parents were advised of this decision on or about October 17, 2005.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

The Petitioner contends that the Respondent violated its obligation to provide M.H. with a free public education, in violation of the New Jersey Constitution, Article VIII, Section IV, Paragraph I, and N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, when it declined to issue M.H. a laptop computer and access code for the 2005-06 school year due to her parents' refusal to pay the annual insurance premium required by the Manual. Regrettably, there is no New Jersey case law on point regarding this type of issue, nor does the non-binding case law that the Petitioner has cited provide any realistic guidance on the matter. However, a common sense interpretation of the plain meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:34-1 yields an answer.

N.J.S.A. 18A:34-1 reads as follows:

> Textbooks shall be selected by the recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board of education of the district and they [textbooks] and other school supplies shall be furnished free of cost for use by all pupils in the public schools and money therefore shall be appropriated and raised annually in each school district in the same manner as other school moneys are appropriated and raised in the district. [emphasis added]

The plain meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:34-1 is clear as both parties agree; schools may not charge fees for the use of "textbooks" or "supplies". The question then becomes, whether a district issued laptop computer qualifies as a "supply" within the meaning of the statute, because clearly a computer cannot be considered a "textbook" though it may contain software to access digital textbooks.

In Parsippany-Troy Hills Ed. Ass'n v. Parsippany-Troy Hills Bd. of Educ., the Appellate Division upheld the Commissioner of Education's determination that a school district could charge a fee for non-mandatory, behind the wheel driver education that was not offered outside normal school hours. 188 N.J. Super. 161 (App. Div. 1983), certif. denied, 94 N.J. 527 (1983). In that decision, the Appellate Division additionally noted the Commissioner's determinations in Willett v. Colts Neck Twp. Bd. of Educ., 1966 S.L.D. 202, 206 and I/M/O the Appeals of Black Horse Pike and Sterling Reg. Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 1973 S.L.D. 130, aff'd 1973 S.L.D. 138. Those cases held that it is impermissible for schools to charge fees for activities that were an "integral part of classroom instruction", meaning participation in the activities was mandatory for successful completion of the classroom curriculum. The court in Bd. of Educ. of Asbury Park v. Asbury Park Educ. Assn., further held that certain extracurricular activities could be an integral part of a child's education; however, it declined to define which activities were integral. 145 N.J. Super. 495 (Chancery Div. 1976), aff'd in part, rev'd in part, 155 N.J. Super. 76 (App. Div. 1977). Though none of these cases are remotely on-point, they make clear that the threshold for deciding what a school may and may not charge fees for the use of, or participation in, depends on whether the questioned item/activity falls within the meaning of "integral" or "mandatory" to classroom instruction. The issue is whether a laptop computer qualifies as a supply to mandatory to successful completion of the classroom curriculum. The facts here strongly indicate that it is not.

The e-learning initiative adopted by the Respondent is both laudable and forward thinking and will undoubtedly provide a great benefit to participating students in the future. However, the development of these types of programs is still in its infancy as the Petitioner acknowledges, and their use is neither commonplace, nor practical for most public educational institutions. The vast majority of public schools still use printed text books, and "traditional" classroom supplies. This court declines to define what a "traditional" classroom supply may be, but it is obvious, given the relative rarity of e-learning programs, that laptop computers are not "traditional" classroom supplies. That being the case, this court can only conclude that under these circumstances a laptop computer is not integral to classroom instruction, the statute does not apply to their use, and that schools may require the parents of a student to pay the reasonable cost to insure the computer from fire/theft or other damage.

If the circumstances of this matter had indicated that the use of a computer were absolutely essential to M.H.'s successful completion of the classroom curriculum (i.e. mandatory participation), this court may decide differently. Though she did not have a district issued laptop, M.H. retained full access to the computers located in the school's library, and her own personal computer at home. She had access to printed textbooks and supplies, enabling her to complete her classroom assignments. Lastly, her grades remained comparable to her prior two years at the Respondent's high school. Though it may have been less convenient for M.H. to not have had use of a district laptop her performance combined with the fact that she retained all the privileges of any other student otherwise not participating in the e-learning initiative, clearly shows that the laptops were not an integral part of the curriculum. The Petitioner is essentially requesting the expansion of N.J.S.A. 18A:34-1 to place the laptops within its scope, and this court declines to grant that request.

Moreover, as a policy matter, public schools are not required to provide their students with the best education possible, they are only required to provide a "thorough and efficient" free public education. Here M.H. received a thorough and efficient free public education as required by the N.J. Constitution of 1947.

CONCLUSION

Petitioner refused to comply with a mandate contained in the Manual requiring the parent or guardian of the student to whom the computer is issued to pay an annual premium for insurance against accidental damage, theft or loss of the computer, and for a per-incident deductible for insurance claims. As a result, the Respondent refused to issue the M.H. a laptop or network access code for the 2005-2006 school year. This court hereby CONCLUDES that the Respondent's action in refusing to issue M.H. a Sony Vaio laptop for use during the 2005-2006 school year was reasonable and permissible because of her parent's refusal to comply with the Manual. The Respondent did not fail to provide the Petitioner's daughter with a free public education, in violation of Article VIII, Section IV, Paragraph I of the New Jersey Constitution and N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. The petition is DISMISSED with prejudice.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

PETITIONER,	:

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BELLEVILLE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner contested respondent's determination that her daugher, N.D., was not domiciled in respondent's district during the 2003-2004 and 2004-2005 school years. Respondent counterclaims for tuition reimbursement in the amount of $40,801.33 for the alleged period of ineligible attendance, based on observations by an investigator that D.D. was living at an address in Kearny.

The ALJ found that petitioner has proven by a preponderance of evidence that N.D. was domiciled in respondent's school district during the period in question; that the address in Kearny was never a permanent domicile; and concluded that respondent was required to provide N.D. with a free public education. The ALJ ordered that respondent's counterclaim for tuition be denied.

Upon an independent and thorough review of the record, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as the Final Decision in this matter.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record, Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) and respondent's exceptions have been reviewed. The Commissioner is satisfied, as was the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), that petitioner sustained her burden to show, using the three-pronged test in Matter of Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 376 (Law Div. 1991), aff'd 311 N.J. Super. 589 (App. Div. 1998), certif. denied, 157 N.J. 541 (1998), cert. denied 526 U.S. 1051, 119 S.Ct. 1357, 143 *L.Ed.*2d 518 (1999), that during the period for which respondent demands tuition, she had not intended to change her domicile from Belleville to Kearny.

Respondent's references, in its exceptions, to excerpts from Matter of Unanue, supra, are unpersuasive. The ALJ properly weighed all the facts against the three-part standard in Unanue and came to a reasoned result. Nor can the hearsay notes taken by respondent's investigator change this determination. The provider of the hearsay was not at the hearing to be questioned about the basis for her opinions about petitioner's residence and/or domicile from Autumn 2004 to February 2005. Furthermore, as the ALJ stated, petitioner's (and her dogs') use of her boyfriend's residence did not, under the total facts of this case, establish that she intended to change her domicile from Belleville to Kearny.[1]

The Commissioner accordingly adopts the Initial Decision as the Final Decision in this matter. Respondent's determination that N.D. was not eligible to receive a free public education in Belleville during the period in question is reversed and its counterclaim for tuition is denied.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 134-4/04

D.D. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, N.D.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BELLEVILLE, ESSEX COUNTY,

Respondent.

D.D., pro se

Mark A. Wenczel, Esq., for respondent
(Gaccione, Pomaco & Malanga, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 18, 2005 Decided: October 12, 2006

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

D.D. (hereinafter sometimes "petitioner") filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education challenging a residency determination by the Board of Education of the Township of Belleville (hereinafter "respondent") in regard to her daughter, N.D.

Respondent counterclaims for tuition reimbursement for an alleged period of ineligible attendance.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed her petition on April 20, 2004, invoking the Commissioner's authority to hear and determine controversies arising under the school laws pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. On May 4, 2004, respondent filed an answer and counterclaim. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on June 24, 2004, for determination as a contested case. A hearing was conducted on October 18, 2005, at the Office of Administrative Law in Newark, New Jersey.

ISSUES

The main issue in this proceeding is whether N.D. was eligible to attend respondent's public schools during the 2003-2004 and 2004-2005 school years. More specifically, the question is whether N.D. was domiciled within respondent's school district during these two school years. Since petitioner established to respondent's satisfaction that N.D. was domiciled within the school district as of the end of February 2005, there is no question as to disenrollment. The final issue is whether respondent's counterclaim for tuition reimbursement should be granted.

SUMMARY OF EVIDENCE

Respondent's first witness was Bruce Morgan, who is employed by respondent as a domicile investigator. Investigator Morgan described his investigation, which began in March 2004. D.D. gave an address on L. Street in Belleville for N.D. Shortly before 8:00 a.m. on several dates in March through May 2004, Investigator Morgan observed a vehicle which he traced to D.D. arrive at L. Street. When the school bus arrived, N.D. got out of D.D.'s vehicle and boarded the school bus.. Since N.D. was a special education student, the school bus picked her up in front of the address given by D.D. The school bus then took N.D. to a private school. During his observations, Investigator Morgan never saw D.D.'s vehicle at the address on L. Street significantly before the arrival of the bus. When the bus dropped N.D. off after school, N.D. went into the residence at the address provided by D.D.

During the course of his investigation, Investigator Morgan followed D.D. to her place of employment and from there to an apartment on A. Terrace in Kearny. Investigator Morgan made numerous observations of D.D.'s vehicle at this address in the evening and during the early morning hours. Investigator Morgan observed D.D.'s name on the door bell. Investigator Morgan concluded that D.D. and N.D. resided at the address in Kearny.

Respondent's second witness was Dr. Edward Kliszus, who is respondent's superintendent of schools. Dr. Kliszus explained the reimbursement calculation. During the 2003-2004 school year, the tuition for placement in the Windsor School was $200.06 per day. For 180 days, the tuition was $36,010.80. For the 2004-2005 school year, the tuition was $46.51 per day. For 103 days through February 14, 2005, the tuition was $4,790.53. The total amount sought by respondent as reimbursement is $40,801.33.

Petitioner did not deny any of Investigator Morgan's observations or contest the tuition calculation. Rather, petitioner explained that the address on L. Street in Belleville is her mother's home, which petitioner still considers to be her permanent residence. Petitioner and N.D. each have their own bedrooms at the address on L. Street. Further, petitioner's important mail is sent to the address on L. Street. Petitioner's boyfriend lived at the address on A. Terrace in Kearny. Although petitioner spent a great deal of time at her boyfriend's apartment, she viewed the arrangement as temporary in nature. The utility bills were placed in D.D.'s name only because her boyfriend's credit was very poor. Subsequently, D.D. moved to an address in Belleville with her boyfriend in February 2005.

FINDINGS OF FACT

All of the witnesses were believable. Investigator Morgan's observations and the calculation by Dr. Kliszus were essentially undisputed. Petitioner's explanation was also credible including her testimony to the effect that she viewed the address on L. Street in Belleville as permanent in nature and the one on A. Terrace in Kearny as a temporary arrangement.

Based upon the evidence presented at the hearing, I FIND as follows:

1. D.D. lived at her parents' home on L. Street in Belleville from 1984 to 1996.

2. D.D. moved to another location in Belleville in 1996.

3. After D.D.'s father became ill, she moved back to her parents' home.

4. D.D.'s father is now deceased, and her mother still lives in the home on L. Street in Belleville.

5. D.D. and her daughter, N.D., have their own bedrooms in the home on L. Street in Belleville.

6. D.D.'s important mail is sent to the address on L. Street.

7. The address on L. Street is on D.D.'s driver license, her vehicle registration, her automobile insurance, her tax returns, various credit card statements and court papers.

8. D.D. was registered to vote in Belleville.

9. D.D. views the address on L. Street in Belleville as her permanent home.

10. D.D.'s boyfriend rented an apartment on A. Terrace in Kearny, New Jersey.

11. A lease for the apartment ran from August 1, 2003, to August 31, 2004. D.D. is not on the lease.

12. Three dogs belonging D.D. are mentioned on the lease.

13. The electric, gas and telephone utilities were placed in D.D.'s name because of her boyfriend's poor credit.

14. D.D. stayed in her boyfriend's apartment extensively from or about August 2003 to February 2005.

15. D.D. viewed the living arrangement in the apartment as temporary in nature and not her permanent home.

16. In February 2005, D.D. and her boyfriend moved to a location in Belleville.

17. The tuition for N.D. during the 2003-2004 school year would be $36,010.80.

18. The tuition for N.D. for the 2004-2005 school year through February 14, 2005, would be $4,790.53.

LAW AND ANALYSIS

A person who meets age requirements and is domiciled within a school district may attend its public schools free of charge. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). A person may have many residences but only one domicile. Somerville Bd. v. Manville Bd., 332 N.J. Super. 6, 12 (App. Div. 2000), aff'd, 167 N.J. 55 (2001). A child's domicile is normally that of his or her parents. Ibid. The domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving. Matter of Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 374 (Law Div. 1991), aff'd, 311 N.J. Super. 589 (App. Div. 1998), certif. denied, 157 N.J. 541 (1998), cert. denied, 526 U.S. 1051, 119 S.Ct. 1357, 143 L. Ed.2d 518 (1999). The court further stated as follows:

> "Home is the place where a person dwells and which is the center of his domestic, social and civil life." . . . "[T]he overwhelming proportion of the indicia as to what the decedent regarded as her real, principal and permanent home . . . as well as the central fulcrum of her life must here be found to converge . . ." in that location found to be her domicile. . . . Thus, the concepts of home and domicile mean more than physical residence. They also embody the subject's objective and subjective relationship to that residence.
> A person may establish a domicile in one place and then acquire a second residence. This does not lead to multiple domiciles, for it "is everywhere conceded that a person can have only one true domicile, which is synonymous with the common understanding of the word 'home.'". . . If a person maintains multiple residences it may become necessary to determine which one is the true domicile. Various approaches to this problem have been used by New Jersey courts.
>
> Establishing a domicile involves an act of volition. "A person has the right to choose his own domicil, and his motive in doing so is immaterial." . . . In accordance with this principle it has been held that one does not relinquish his domicile by having another residence based on reasons of health, society, business or employment. . . . Additionally, it has been held that a change of domicile "may be made to avoid taxation . . . [or some other motive], so long as the necessary ingredients for establishment of the new domicile are present." . . . Even a change of domicile predicated on a desire to avoid a forced heirship statute has been upheld when the change was supported by other indicia of a new domicile, ...
> It is clear, therefore, that a choice of domicile by a person, irrespective of his motive, will be honored by the court, provided there are sufficient objective indicia, by way of proofs, supporting the actual existence of that domicile.

> Thus, a person may not arbitrarily designate a given residence as his domicile. It is necessary that the requisite subjective intent be present since domicile is "very much a matter of the mind—of intention." . . . "Where there are multiple residences . . . domicile is that place which the subject regards as his true and permanent home." . . .
> "When a man has acquired a domicile in a particular place, that place remains his domicile until he acquires another domicile." . . . In considering whether a change of domicile has occurred, three elements must be considered: 1) whether there had been an actual and physical taking up of an abode in a particular state; 2) whether the subject had an intention to make his home there permanently or least indefinitely; and (3) whether the subject had an intention to abandon his old domicile. The court must evaluate all of the facts of the case to determine the place in which there is the necessary concurrence of physical presence and an intention to make that place one's home. [Id., at 374-76 (citations omitted)].

The acts, statements and conduct of the individual, as viewed in light of all circumstances, determine a person's true intent. Collins v. Yancey, 55 N.J. Super. 514, 521 (Law Div. 1959). The parent has the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)2.

Preliminarily, it may be noted that since N.D. is a child, her domcile is that of her mother, D.D. There is no real dispute that D.D. and therefore N.D. were domiciled on L. Street in Belleville prior to the move to the apartment on A. Terrace. Thus, the main question in this case is whether D.D. changed her domicile from L. Street in Belleville to A. Terrace in Kearny. The factors to consider are whether there was an actual and physical taking up of abode on A. Terrace, whether D.D. had an intention to make her home on A. Terrace permanently or at least indefinitely and whether D.D. had an intention to abandon her old domicile on L. Street.

The first question is whether there was an actual and physical taking up of abode in the apartment on A. Terrace. It is undisputed that D.D. stayed in her boyfriend's apartment extensively during the period of time in question. In fact, respondent's investigator observed D.D.'s vehicle at A. Terrace in the evening and early morning hours during the period in question and never at L. Street during that time. It follows that there was an actual and physical taking up of abode by D.D. at her boyfriend's apartment on A. Terrace.

The second and third factors are related in that one concerns the intention to make the new abode the person's domicile and the other concerns the abandonment of the old domicile. Here, D.D. continued to use L. Street in Belleville for important purposes such as her driver license, vehicle registration, automobile insurance, tax returns, voter registration, credit cards and court papers. In contrast, D.D.'s name was not on the lease for the apartment on A. Terrace, and the utilities were in her name only out of necessity. These circumstances along with D.D.'s credible testimony indicate that D.D. intended to maintain her domicile on L. Street in Belleville. Further, D.D. did not intend to change her domicile to A. Terrace in Kearny.

Under the circumstances, I FIND that D.D. has proven by a preponderance of the evidence that N.D. was domiciled in respondent's school district during the 2003-2004 and 2004-2005 school years. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that respondent was required to provide N.D. with a free public education during the period in question.

A counterclaim for tuition reimbursement may be granted when there is a period of ineligible attendance in a public school. Here, there was no period of ineligible attendance by N.D. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the counterclaim for tuition reimbursement must be denied.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that:

1. Respondent's determination that N.D. was ineligible to receive a free education in respondent's public schools during the period in question is reversed.

2. Respondent's counterclaim for tuition is denied.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

PETITIONER,	:

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a tenured secretary in respondent's district – challenged the respondent board's refusal to accept her offer of resignation at a time when tenure charges of unbecoming conduct were pending against her. The charges involved petitioner's theft of money orders submitted by applicants for substitute teaching certificates, and were held in abeyance at petitioner's request during a criminal investigation by the Essex County Prosecutor's Office. Petitioner pled guilty to the criminal charges, and entered a pretrial intervention program which was conditioned upon petitioner's immediate and irrevocable forfeiture of her employment with the Board.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioner does not deny the substance of the conduct which resulted in her indictment on criminal charges; petitioner submitted a letter of resignation to the Board on the same day that she entered her guilty plea on the criminal charges; and the judicial forfeiture order is binding on the petitioner. The ALJ concluded that petitioner forfeited her position as a result of her acceptance into a pretrial intervention program; that the Board is under no obligation to accept her resignation in good standing; and ordered summary decision in favor of respondent.

Upon a thorough and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that respondent Board has no obligation whatsoever to take any action with respect to petitioner's resignation, stressing that as a consequence of the imposed conditions of her pre-trial intervention program, petitioner does not now – nor will she ever in the future – have an employment relationship with the Board. The Commissioner dismissed the petition.

SHARON WHALEY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions, submitted in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, were fully considered by the Commissioner in making her determination herein.[1] [2]

Petitioner's exceptions support the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) finding that petitioner forfeited her position with the District as of June 6, 2005, and thus – as of that date – the parties' employment relationship was severed. She does, however, charge that the Initial Decision fails to reconcile this finding with the fact that, subsequent to this time, respondent has continued to treat petitioner's employment status with the District "as an indefinite suspension without pay pending resolution of the criminal matter." (Petitioner's Exceptions at pages 5-6, [1] Although petitioner's submission was erroneously captioned "Brief in Support of Petitioner's Request for Clarification of the Initial Decision of the Administrative Law Judge," it is obvious that this filing was intended as Exceptions to the Initial Decision and it was, therefore, accepted as such. Petitioner is cautioned to in the future take care with the titling of materials, as there is no authorization for the acceptance by the Agency of any document other than "Exceptions" in connection with an Administrative Law Judge's Initial Decision.

[2] It is noted that petitioner's faxed submission – some 60 pages in length – included a copy of the Petition of Appeal, the Initial Decision, and a number of additional documents which were part of her filings below. As these are materials which are always included in the record before the Commissioner, it is unnecessary for parties to provide additional copies with their exceptions, particularly when transmitting by facsimile.

quote at page 6) Petitioner claims that the District's continued reporting of this status to potential employers has "unjustly interfered with [her] prospective economic advantage" by preventing her from securing gainful employment in her field. (Id. at page 8)

Also left unresolved in the ALJ's decision, petitioner maintains, is the status of the District's tenure charges against her. She advances that, consistent with the ALJ's finding that she forfeited her position on June 6, 2005, the District lacks authority to pursue these charges, as the maximum penalty which could be imposed as a consequence of her being found guilty of the charges is dismissal from her employment – an event which has already transpired. (Id. at page 6)

Upon her full and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the Board has no obligation to take any action whatsoever with respect to petitioner's resignation because, as of June 6, 2005, – as a result of the Order of the Superior Court Judge entered on that date with regard to the conditions of her entry into the Pre-Trial Intervention Program (PTI)[3] – petitioner forfeited her position with the Irvington Board of Education and was forever prohibited from seeking or accepting employment with any governmental entity in the State of New Jersey. Therefore, her employment relationship with the Board was immediately terminated as of that date. The Commissioner observes that the record indicates apparent confusion on the part of the parties as to the interplay of petitioner's forfeiture and the legal consequences of whether she does or does not successfully complete the PTI Program. The Commissioner stresses that petitioner's forfeiture of her position

[3] PTI is a probationary type of program that enables an individual who meets certain requirements (N.J.S.A. 2C:43-12(e)) to avoid the prospect of a conviction if he or she successfully completes the program. When an individual is accepted into this program, he or she receives a stay of prosecution. In most cases, individuals complete the program and, subsequently, receive the benefit of dismissal of all charges. If, however, an individual does not successfully complete the program, the indictment is returned to the court trial calendar for a full disposition. (See N.J.S.A. 2C:43-12 & 13, R. 3:28) and prohibitions of employment with any governmental entity in the State were conditions of her entry into PTI, not her successful completion of PTI. Consequently, these imposed conditions are irrevocable and will in no way be altered by the eventual outcome of her participation in this program. Inasmuch as petitioner does not now, nor will she ever in the future, have an employment relationship with the Board of Education of the Township of Irvington, the District's tenure charges against her, which were placed in abeyance in January 2005 pursuant to Ott v. Board of Education of the Township of Hamilton, 160 N.J. Super. 333 (App. Div. 1978), have been rendered moot.[4]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL – as expounded upon herein – is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[5]

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal by a tenured secretary challenging a school district's refusal to accept her offer of resignation. While tenure charges against her were pending but unadjudicated, petitioner Sharon Whaley ("Whaley") sought to resign in good standing from her tenured position as school secretary. Meanwhile, as a condition of entering into a pretrial intervention program, Whaley agreed to forfeit her employment in the district. Nonetheless, she contends that Irvington must either act on her resignation or give her back pay.

For the reasons that follow, an employee cannot voluntarily resign from a position that she has forfeited as a result of criminal proceedings.

Procedural History

On November 6, 2005, Whaley filed her petition with the Commissioner of Education. Irvington filed its answer on December 1, 2005. Subsequently, on January 10, 2006, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case.

Prior to hearing, both parties filed cross-motions for summary decision. Whaley filed her supporting brief, together with various exhibits, on August 31, 2006. Irvington filed its opposing papers on September 27, 2006. The OAL heard oral argument on October 13, 2006.

Findings of Fact

All of the material facts are undisputed. I FIND the following facts. From the papers on file with the Office of Administrative Law, I FIND the following facts:

Sharon Whaley began her employment in the district on August 16, 1989 and attained tenure in the position of secretary. On January 7, 2005, Irvington served disciplinary charges on Whaley seeking her removal for conduct unbecoming a public employee. Irvington alleged that Whaley had illegally converted money received in her employment capacity to her personal use. Because of a pending criminal investigation arising out of the same circumstances, Whaley invoked her Fifth Amendment right against self incrimination and requested that the disciplinary charges "be held in abeyance pending a decision in the related criminal matter". Irvington acceded to Whaley's request to delay certification of tenure charges[1].

As a result of its criminal investigation, on January 26, 2005, the Essex County Prosecutor's Office obtained a three-count indictment charging Whaley with official misconduct, theft by deception and forgery. Specifically, the indictment charged that, in January through April 2001, while acting in the course of her employment, Whaley had accepted money orders submitted by applicants for substitute teaching certificates and illegally converted the funds for her own use. Consequently, Irvington exercised its right to suspend Whaley without pay pending resolution of the criminal charges[2].

Significantly, Whaley does not deny the substance of the conduct that forms the basis of the criminal charges against her. In a signed statement made to an investigator from the Essex County Prosecutor's Office on April 13, 2004, Whaley admitted that she misappropriated money orders entrusted to her care, "not all of them" but "maybe one a week or once a month," because she needed the money. Before going to trial, Whaley pled guilty to the charges and entered a pretrial intervention program on June 6, 2005. As a condition of her acceptance into pretrial intervention, Whaley agreed to "immediately forfeit her position with the Irvington Board of Education and not seek reinstatement." (Emphasis in the original).

On June 6, 2005, the same date that she entered her guilty plea, Whaley submitted a letter to Irvington director of human resources, purportedly "tendering my resignation effective immediately." However, the Board never accepted her resignation by formal vote and takes the position that further action on its part is unnecessary. At the time of oral argument Whaley was still under criminal indictment and had not yet fully satisfied the requirements of her pretrial intervention program.

Super. 333 (App. Div. 1978) certif. denied, 78 N.J. 336 (1978), the Appellate Division affirmed the trial's courts order restraining a board of education from certifying tenure charges to the Commissioner until disposition of related criminal charges.

Super. 333 (App. Div. 1978) certif. denied, 78 N.J. 336 (1978), the Appellate Division affirmed the trial's courts order restraining a board of education from certifying tenure charges to the Commissioner until disposition of related criminal charges.

[2] See N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3

Conclusions of Law

Based on the forgoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that Whaley has forfeited her position as a result of her acceptance into the pretrial intervention program and Irvington is under no obligation to accept her resignation in good standing.

Claiming that she had a right to resign from her secretarial position prior to the adjudication of tenure charges, Whaley asserts that the Board's refusal to act on her resignation is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. She relies on N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6, which provides that, "where tenure proceedings are concluded prior to adjudication because the charged party has unilaterally resigned or retired, the Commissioner may refer the matter to the State Board of Examiners for action against a charged parties certificate as it deems appropriate." That provision is inapplicable here, since Whaley does not hold any educational certificates. Moreover, the rule does not recognize any inherent right to resign, but merely allows the Commissioner to refer the matter to the educational licensing authority once a teacher has resigned.

Further, Whaley argues that she had a legal obligation to submit her resignation in order to comply with the conditions of her pretrial intervention program. Petitioner, however, confuses "resignation" with "forfeiture." Resignation implies the voluntary and knowing relinquishment of employment rights, including tenure. See O'Toole v. Forestal, 21 N.J. Super. 394 (App. Div. 1986). Normally, it is accomplished by the voluntary offer of resignation and acceptance of that offer by the school board. Forfeiture, on the other hand, reflects that "the circumstances surrounding a criminal conviction bear directly on an employee's competency and capacity to do his or her job or to perform any other job for the state." State v. Timoldi, 277 N.J. Super. 297, 300 (App. Div. 1994); see also Moore v. Youth Correctional Institute, 119 N.J. 256, 271 (1990).

Here, of course, the forfeiture was not the result of a criminal conviction, but rather a condition imposed for entry into a pretrial intervention program. There was nothing that Irvington could or should have done to implement what the Court had already ordered. The judicial forfeiture order is binding on Whaley and took effect as soon as it was entered by the Superior Court judge..

Order

It is ORDERED that summary decision is granted in favor of Irvington denying Whaley's request for relief.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." IN THE MATTER OF JOHN CHILDRESS,	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
TOWNSHIP OF EAST GREENWICH,	:	DECISION
GLOUCESTER COUNTY.	:

On October 17, 2006, the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) rendered a decision concurring with the September 27, 2006 recommendation of the School Ethics Commission (Commission) that the respondent Board member be suspended from office, effective upon filing of the Commissioner's decision, for failure to attend the Board member training required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Such suspension was to have remained in effect until the respondent completed the New Jersey School Boards Association training for new board members on October 24, 2006; provided, however, that if the required training was not completed, the respondent would be summarily removed from office.

Subsequently, by letter dated November 2, 2006, the Executive Director of the School Ethics Commission advised respondent – and the Commissioner – that the Commission had voted on October 24, 2006 to vacate its prior decision finding respondent in violation of the School Ethics Act because: 1) the Commission was now satisfied that respondent did, in fact, file a reply to the Commission's Order to Show Cause, although the Commission had not previously received it; and 2) because it had allowed other Board members who replied in a manner similar to respondent to attend the October training session without a finding of violation.

Accordingly, given that the finding of violation upon which it was based has now been vacated by the Commission, the Commissioner's decision of October 17, 2006 is concomitantly VACATED and shall be deemed of no force and effect.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

School Ethics Commission Docket No. T05-06

Dear Mr. Childress:

Please be advised that the School Ethics Commission, at its meeting on October 24, 2006, voted to vacate its decision finding you in violation of the Act for failing to attend training so long as you attended the October 24, 2006 training session. The Commission determined that you had responded to the Order to Show Cause and copied the Superintendent, but the Commission never received your response. Having been satisfied that you sent a response, the Commission voted to vacate the decision against you since the other board members who had responded similarly were allowed to attend the October training session. By copy of this decision, I am informing the Director of the Office of Controversies and Disputes to request that she do what is necessary to vacate the Commissioner's decision as well.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

The record, Stipulation of Settlement and Release, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner observes that Term 7 specifically conditions this agreement on approval of the Board. In that neither the file nor the settlement agreement contains a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement and designating – as specified in Term 8 – the Board's President to sign the agreement on its behalf, the Commissioner cannot approve the within settlement.

Accordingly, this matter is hereby remanded to the OAL for revision of the settlement agreement consistent with the concerns set forth above.

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

On August 24, 2004, petitioner, a School Nurse employed by respondent, filed a petition with the State Department of Education (DOE) requesting reimbursement of certain legal fees and costs by respondent, pursuant to N.J.S.A.18A:16-6.1. The DOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on October 27, 2004 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Scheduled hearing dates were adjourned at the requests of the parties for various reasons. Throughout the proceedings, telephone and settlement conferences were conducted. The parties ultimately reached a resolution of the matter and an executed Stipulation of Settlement and Release (Stipulation) was filed. This judge subsequently requested, via telephone communicatons, clarification regarding whether the parties intended that the matter be finalized by the issuance of an Initial Decision Settlement or a petitioner withdrawal. Those communications were memoralized by a letter dated October 2, 2006 from this judge to counsel, which letter advised that if responses were not received with seven days, an Initial Decsion would issue. No replies were received, and the record is deemed closed on October 9, 2006. Attached herewith is a copy of the Stipulation.

Having reviewed the terms of the Stiuplation, I FIND that the parties voluntarily have agreed to the terms and conditions of the settlement, as evidenced by the signatures contained thereon, and that the settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

Therefore, I ORDER that the parties comply with the terms of the Stipulation and that these proceedings be and are hereby CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

This Stipulation of Settlement and Release is made by and between the Ramapo-Indian Hills Regional School District Board of Education (the "Board") with administrative offices located at 9331 George Street, Franklin Lakes, New Jersey 07417 and Nancy Wirkmaa (the "Petitioner"), whose address is 113 Lakeshore Drive, Oakland, New Jersey 07436. In consideration of mutual promises and undertakings contained in this Stipulation of Settlement and Release and for good and valuable consideration the receipt of which is hereby acknowledge, the undersigned parties state:

WHEREAS, on September 18, 2003, Petitioner was employed as a school nurse by the Board; and

WHEREAS, on that date, Petitioner was charged with a criminal action for certain acts alleged to have occurred while Petitioner was in the employ of the Board; and

WHEREAS, on June 3, 2003, the criminal complaint against Petitioner was downgraded and dismissed by the Waldwick Municipal Court; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner filed a Petition of Reimbursement with the Commissioner of Education on or about June 16, 2004, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1, seeking reimbursement from the Board for Petitioner's attorneys' fees and costs associated with the legal defense of the criminal action with which Petitioner had been charged; and

WHEREAS, the parties have determined that it is in their respective best interests to enter into this Stipulation of Settlement and Release to avoid the need for further litigation;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises and covenants, the parties agree as follows:

1. The Board will pay to the Petitioner the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars ($10, 000.00) in full and complete satisfaction of the amount Petitioner is claiming to be due and owing to her from the Board for Petitioner's attorneys' fees and costs.
2. This settlement amount will be paid directly to the trust account of Petitioner's legal counsel, Timothy R. Smith Esq. of Timothy R. Smith & Associates L.L.C., 76 South Orange Avenue, Suite 211, South Orange, New Jersey, 07079, following the approval of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release by the commissioner of Education.
3. Petitioner, in consideration of this Agreement, herby release the Board, individually and collectively; and its agents, servants and employees from any and all claims, causes of action, suits, actions at law and in equity, administrative proceedings, and judicial and quasi-judicial proceedings of any kind whatsoever, which have been brought, or could be brought, arising under or relating in any way to the subject matter set forth in the Petition of Appeal now and forever, except to enforce the terms of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release.

4. Petitioner acknowledges that he has reviewed this Stipulation of Settlement and Release with her own independent legal counsel and that she enters into it without duress, and of her own free will and volition. She further acknowledges that she fully understands the terms of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release and the duties and obligations enumerated herein.
5. Petitioner, in consideration of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release and in full, final and complete settlement of this matter hereby withdraws, with prejudice, the above-docketed Petition of Reimbursement.
6. Nothing contained in this Stipulation of Settlement and Release should be construed as an admission of wrongdoing by either party, and neither party shall be considered a prevailing party for any reason.
7. This Stipulation of Settlement and Release is conditioned upon approval of the Board.
8. The Board's President is authorized to execute this Stipulation of Settlement and Release on behalf of the Board.
9. This Stipulation of Settlement and Release contains the entire agreement between the parties, and no other representations, whether verbal or in writing shall be binding upon them.
10. All terms of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release are deemed material. This instrument may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by a new instrument executed in writing by the parties.
11. This Stipulation of Settlement and Release is an agreement which is to be construed in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey.

The record, Settlement Agreement and General Release, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that that the Board President and the Board Secretary/School Business Administrator signed the Settlement Agreement and General Release on behalf of the Board. In that neither the file nor the settlement agreement contains a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement and designating these individuals to sign the agreement on its behalf, and the agreement is not signed by the Board attorney, who is the Board's duly authorized representative in litigation, the Commissioner cannot approve the within settlement.[1]

[1] It is noted that subsequent to the issuance of his Initial Decision here, but prior to the transmission of the file to the Commissioner, the Administrative Law Judge received a letter, dated October 27, 2006, from petitioner John Meehan withdrawing the Petition of Appeal in accordance with term 2. of the parties' agreement. In that Mr. Meehan is only one of three petitioners involved in this matter, the Commissioner cannot accept a request for withdrawal signed solely by him.

Accordingly, this matter is hereby remanded to the OAL for revision of the settlement agreement consistent with the concerns set forth herein.

This Settlement Agreement and General Release ("Agreement") is entered into by and among Melissa Meehan, John Meehan and Renee Meehan (hereinafter collectively referred to as "Petitioners"), and the Washington Township Board of Education, a local public school board of education organized under Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes with its principle offices at 206 East Holly Avenue, Sewell, Gloucester County, New Jersey ("Board").

WHEREAS, Melissa Meehan is former student of the Washington Township School District ("School District"), having graduated from the Washington Township High School in June, 2006; and

WHEREAS, a dispute arose as to the eligibility of Melissa Meehan to attend school in the School District pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1; and

WHEREAS, on March 28, 2006 the Board determined that Melissa Meehan was ineligible to attend the Washington Township High School; and

WHEREAS, on or about May 5, 2006 the Petitioners filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education challenging the Board's decision of ineligibility, OAL Dkt. No. EDU-OS-02859-06, Agency Ref. No.: 149-4/2006 ("Petition of Appeal"); and

WHEREAS, in order to resolve any and all disputes between the parties without resort to further time-consuming and costly litigation, the Petitioners and the Board have agreed to a full and final settlement of all claims and matters involving Melissa Meehan's eligibility to attend school in the School District, as well as any and all claims asserted in or which could have been asserted in the Petition of Appeal; and

WHEREAS, the parties have, in resolving this matter, also agreed to a mutual General Release which, without limitation, covers all claims involving Melissa Meehan's attendance in the School District; and

WHEREAS, this Agreement and the execution and implementation of same shall not be construed or considered an admission of liability or wrongdoing by the Petitioners or the Board, its present and former board members, officers, employees, agents and servants.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises and agreements contained herein, the Petitioners and the Board AGREE AS FOLLOWS:

1. The Petitioners shall pay to the Board Eight Thousand Seven Hundred Twenty-Six dollars and Ninety-Three cents ($8,726.93) on or before October 10, 2006. The settlement check shall be made payable to the "Washington Township Board of Education" and delivered to the Board's Central Administrative Offices at 206 East Holly Avenue, Sewell, New Jersey. This payment shall be in full and final settlement of all claims for tuition due for the attendance of Melissa Meehan at the Washington Township High School for the 2004-2005 and 2005-2006 school years, and any other costs or fees arising from or associated with Melissa Meehan's attendance in the School District.

2. It is understood and agreed that the hearing for the Petition of Appeal was scheduled for September 28, 2006 before Administrative Law Judge Richard F. Wells, and that said hearing was postponed due to the pending settlement agreement between the parties. Upon payment of the settlement amount, the Petitioners shall withdraw the Petition of Appeal filing with the Commissioner of Education with prejudice. If the payment set forth in paragraph 1 above is not made, this Agreement is null and void, and the Petition of Appeal shall proceed on a new date as determined by the Office of Administrative Law.

3. The Petitioners and Board mutual agree to RELEASE, WAIVE AND FOREVER DISCHARGE each other from any and all claims in law or in equity, whether known or unknown, arising from or relating directly or indirectly to Melissa Meehan's attendance in the School District, including but not limited to any claims of tuition for her attendance during the 2004-2005 and 2005-2006 school years.

WILLIAM DAVIS,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ENGLEWOOD, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a former teacher in respondent's district – alleged that the Board improperly terminated him on contractual notice when he had already obtained tenure in his position, claiming that he had been employed with the district since 2001. Respondent asserted that petitioner never acquired tenure because he did not hold the requisite teaching certificate until October 2003, having been employed prior to that time under a county substitute certificate.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the facts in this matter are essentially undisputed and summary decision is appropriate; petitioner did not obtain a provisional certificate until October 2003; petitioner's substitute teaching assignments prior to that date may not accrue toward tenure; petitioner's certificate of eligibility to seek provisional employment is not an appropriate certificate for the purpose of tenure accrual; and therefore petitioner has not acquired tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The ALJ denied petitioner's appeal for re-employment with back salary and benefits.

Upon a thorough and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that respondent Board properly exercised its contractual right to terminate petitioner's employment and adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 222-6/06

WILLIAM DAVIS,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ENGLEWOOD, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed.

Petitioner taught in respondent's district in various capacities from September of 2001 to the end of the 2005-2006 school year. On May 15, 2006, he was advised via notice from respondent that he would not receive a contract to return for the 2006-2007 school year. He maintains that at the time of that notice he had already attained tenure, and that the non-renewal was improper.

Because the material facts were and are not in dispute, the matter proceeded in the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a summary disposition. The Commissioner adopts the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) determination that summary decision in favor of respondent is appropriate.

The undisputed facts reveal that petitioner was first employed by respondent in September 2001 and served as a substitute teacher. From September 2001 until December 2002 he worked solely under a county substitute credential. He received a certificate of eligibility to seek employment as a teacher in December 2002. However, he continued to work as a substitute through the end of the 2002-2003 school year.

In October 2003 the respondent district offered petitioner a teaching position and sent to the Board of Examiners of the New Jersey Department of Education the required paperwork to obtain a provisional elementary school teaching certificate for petitioner, which certificate was issued in October 2003. Petitioner continued to teach in respondent's district and received a standard certificate with an endorsement in elementary education in November 2004.

As set forth in the Initial Decision, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 identifies the requirements for the achievement of tenure. It states in pertinent part that:

> The services of all teaching staff members employed in the position of teacher . . . and such other employees as are in positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates issued by the board of examiners, serving in any school district or under any board of education, excepting those who are not the holders of proper certificates in full force and effect . . ., shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause . . .after employment in such district or by such board for:
> (a) Three consecutive calendar years . . . ;
>
> (b) Three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or
> (c) The equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years.

At the outset, the Commissioner notes that until October 2003, petitioner was not a "teaching staff member," as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The term "teaching staff member" is defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 as:

> ....a member of the professional staff of any district or regional board of education, or any board of education of a county vocational school, holding office, position or employment of such character that the qualifications, for such office, position or employment, require him to hold a valid and effective standard, provisional or emergency certificate appropriate to his office, position or employment, issued by the state board of examiners . . . .

As the ALJ explained, the certificate of eligibility (CE) to seek employment in the provisional teaching program, which petitioner received in December 2002, was not the equivalent of any of the certificates identified in N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1.

Moreover, as a substitute teacher, petitioner was not "in [a position] which required him to hold appropriate certificates issued by the board of examiners." N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.[1] Petitioner's employment was allowed by N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1, which permits districts to hire persons to act in the place of absent employees. Under the terms of that statute, such surrogate employees may not accrue tenure while acting in the absent employee's stead. Thus, under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1, petitioner could not have attained tenure until October 2006, three years after he commenced the regular teaching position that did require an appropriate certificate from the board of examiners.

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the determinations of the ALJ that summary disposition is appropriate, and that petitioner had not achieved tenure at the end of the 2005-2006 school year when he received notice that he would not be offered a contract for the next school year. The petition is therefore dismissed.

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et. seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires each newly elected or appointed board member to complete, during the first year of the member's first term, a training program offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) regarding the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member or charter school trustee; and

WHEREAS, Deborah Fox was newly elected or appointed in April 2005 to a local school board or charter school board and therefore, had until April 2006, to complete the training requirement; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on October 5, 2005, January 17, 2006 and February 6, 2006; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted eight training sessions between April 2005 and March 2006 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, through correspondence dated August 9, 2006, because you are a member of a non-operating district, the Commission provided you with the opportunity to attend half of the one-day training on October 24, 2006; and

WHEREAS, the Commission has been notified by the New Jersey School Boards Association that you did not attend the October 24, 2006 training; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Fox did not respond to the Order; and

WHEREAS, the Commission notified Ms. Fox that the Commission would discuss this matter at its November 28, 2006 meeting; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Fox has failed to attend the required training program for the one year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that her failure to attend board member training from April 2005 to March 2006 constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that the appropriate penalty for the violation is suspension from the board if she fails to attend the December 9, 2006 training session and removal if she fails to attend the January 6, 2007 training session;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Deborah Fox violated the N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act if she fails to attend the December 9, 2006 training session and recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of suspension from the board if she fails to attend the December 9, 2006 training session and removal if she fails to attend the January 6, 2007 training session.

BEFORE CAROL I. COHEN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE FACTS AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On May 15, 2006 the Englewood Board of Education (Respondent/District) sent Mr. William Davis (Petitioner) a letter stating that the District would not be offering him employment for the 2006-2007 school year. On June 19, 2006 the appellant filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education. The petition alleged that Mr. Davis had been employed with the District since 2001; that he advised the respondent that he had served the statutory time to qualify for tenure; and that the District refused to offer him employment for the 2006-2007 school year in violation of his tenure and seniority rights. The petitioner asserted that the actions of the District were arbitrary, unreasonable and illegal. The appeal sought the re-employment of the petitioner as a tenured teaching staff member; back pay and benefits and such other relief as was deemed appropriate. On June 30, 2006 the respondent filed its answer with the Department of Education. In its answer it asked that the petition be denied; that it be awarded attorney's fees and costs of suit, and other relief that the Commissioner deem appropriate. The respondent asserted that: "the Petitioner never acquired (and could not acquire) tenure because Petitioner did not have the requisite teaching certificate from the State of New Jersey until October of 2003. Therefore, Petitioner did not meet the three-year and one-day service requirement to achieve tenure prior to his non-renewal."

The matter was forwarded to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 11, 2006 and assigned to ALJ Cohen on September 26, 2006. A telephone conference was held on October 12, 2006 at which time it was determined that the matter should be decided on the papers that had previously been submitted.

ISSUES

1. Whether the matter can be decided on Summary Decision.
2. Whether the petitioner had obtained tenure.
3. Whether the respondent had violated the petitioner's tenure and seniority rights.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

1. From November 2001 through June 2002 the petitioner worked as a long term substitute teacher, teaching bi-lingual science.

2. From September 2002 through December 2002 Mr. Davis worked as an intermittent substitute teacher.

3. In December 2002 the petitioner was issued a Certificate of Eligibility.

4. From January through March 2003 Mr. Davis worked as a long term substitute teacher for 8th grade English in the District.

5. From March 2003 through June 2003 he was assigned as a long term substitute teacher in Mathematics.

6. On September 24, 2003 the petitioner was enrolled in the Provisional Teacher Program.

7. In October 2003 Mr. Davis was issued a provisional certification.

8. The petitioner signed a contract in October 2003 to teach Related Arts and to supervise the In School Suspension Program for the 2003-2004 school year.

9. In October 2004 the petitioner was issued the Standard Teaching Certification.

10. The petitioner signed contracts as a regular teacher for the 2004-2005 and 2005-2006 school year.

11. On May 15, 2006 the Board sent a letter to the petitioner stating that they would not be renewing his teaching contract for the 2006-2007 school year.

DISCUSSION

1. STANDARD FOR SUMMARY DECISION

In accordance with the New Jersey Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.12.5, any party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues in a case at any time after a case is deemed contested. To grant a motion for summary decision, it must be examined whether "the papers and discovery...together with the affidavits...show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b).

A motion for summary decision is similar to summary judgment found at R. 4:46-2. The motion for summary judgment "shall be served with briefs, a statement of material facts, with or without supporting affidavits." R. 4:46-2(a). "The statement of material facts shall set forth in separately numbered paragraphs a concise statement of each material fact as to which the moving party contends there is no genuine issue, together with a citation to the portion of the motion record establishing the fact or demonstrating that it is uncontroverted." Ibid.

The Supreme Court has held that when deciding a motion for summary judgment:

> [a] determination whether there exists a 'genuine issue' of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to > the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party.

> Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995).]

The burden is on the moving party to exclude all reasonable doubt as to the existence of any genuine issue of material fact, and all inferences of doubt are drawn against the moving party and in favor of the non-moving party. Saldana v. DiMedio, 275 N.J. Super. 488, 494 (App. Div. 1994). Thus, the critical question is "whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require [a hearing] or whether it is so one sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 533.

In this matter there is no genuine issue of material fact.

II. Acquisition of Tenure

Teachers in New Jersey have a statutory right to tenure provided they meet certain requirement. Zimmerman v. Newark Board of Education, 38 N.J. 65, 70-72 (1962), cert. den. 371 U.S. 956 (1963). The criteria under which teachers achieve tenure is outlined in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 which provides:

> The services of all teaching staff members ... which require them to hold appropriate certificates issued by the board of examiners, serving in any school district or under any board of education, excepting those who are not the holder of proper certificates in full forced and effect, shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency . . . after employment in such district or by such board for:
> (a) three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or
> (b) three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding year; or

> (c) the equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years . . .
>

A "teaching staff member" is defined at N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 as:

> . . . a member of the professional staff of any district or regional board of education, or any board of education of a county vocational school, holding office, position or employment of such character that the qualification, for such office, position or employment, require him to hold a valid and effective standard, provisional or emergency certificate, appropriate to his office, position or employment, issued by the state board of examiners and includes a school nurse. [Emphasis added].[1]

In order to achieve tenure, the petitioner must meet the following conditions: (1) work in a position for which a teaching certificate is required; (2) hold the appropriate certificate; and (3) serve the requisite period of time. Spiewak v. Board of Educ. of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63, 73 (1982). The petitioner claims that a portion of his service prior to the 2003-2004 school year should be included in calculating his time for accruing tenure. He cites Ellicott v. Bd. Of Educ. 251 N.J. Super. 242, 347-348 for the proposition that he completed the requirements for certification under the terms of the Certificate of Eligibility issued in December 2002. The petitioner points to language in the opinion which states that:

> Thus, tenure is achieved by a teaching staff member who serves the probationary period either in a specifically designated 'position,' such as a teacher, or in 'positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates..' While 'position is not defined by the act, 'teaching staff member' is defined as a staff member who holds

[1] A standard certificate is a "permanent certificate issued to candidates who have met all requirements for State certification." N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.1. A provisional certificate is "a temporary one-year certificate issued to candidates who have met requirements for initial employment as part of a State approved district training program or residency leading to standard certification." N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.2. An emergency certificate is "a substandard one-year certificate issued only in the field of educational services, teacher of the handicapped, teacher of the blind and partially sighted, and teacher of the deaf and hard of hearing." N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.3.

> 'office, position or employment' which requires that he or she 'hold a valid...certificate. Id. at 348.

Based on this language he contends that: "at all times he taught under an appropriate certificate for the position for which he was hired."

Prior to December 2002, the petitioner held a County Substitute Teacher's Certification. He admits that he worked as a substitute teacher during the 2001-2002 and 2002-2003 school years. Under the tenure statute, time spent as a substitute teacher does not count toward tenure. . See N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a)-(c). The only exception to the tenure statute is the "temporary employment" exception, which, according to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1, is limited to employees hired to take the place of an absent teacher. See Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. Of Ed., 90 N.J. 63 (1982) quoting Point Pleasant Beach Teachers' Association v. Callam, 173 N.J. Super. 11, certif. den., 84 N.J. 469 (1980). Since Spiewak, supra, the only statutory exception relating to tenure accrual by teachers is N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1, which allows a district to designate some person to act in the place of any absent employee, but that person would not acquire tenure in that office. Thus, according to Sayreville Education Association v. Board of Education of the Borough of Sayreville, 193 N.J. Super. 425 (App. Div. 1984), N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1 applies when a substitute teacher takes the place of a regular teacher, because of the absence of the regular teacher, whose return is contemplated.

Thus, it would appear that the time used to accrue tenure would have had to begin once the petitioner was issued a Certificate of Eligibility in December 2002. However, as the respondent has pointed out, the Certificate of Eligibility was not activated during the 2002-2003 school year, because Mr. Williams continued to work as a substitute teacher. He did not obtain a regular teaching position until September 2003. At that point his Certificate of Eligibility was activated. This was just the beginning of the certification process. As the Provisional Teacher Program Information and Application Packet (Respondent's Exhibit 1) states: "These certificates provide the opportunity to seek employment. These are NOT TEACHING LICENSES." Once the teacher has accepted an offer of employment, the District must register the teacher in the Provisional Teacher Program and agree to provide support and supervision.

> At that time you will be notified through your employer of any additional documents and/or fees needed to obtain your PROVISIONAL LICENSE...
> Upon successful completion of program requirements, you will need to submit a current Application for Licensure and the appropriate fee to receive your STANDARD LICENSE.

A teacher is not considered a "teaching staff member" within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1, until he obtains his provisional license. The petitioner did not obtain a Provisional Certificate until October 2003. As the respondent pointed out, the petitioner's legal argument, that the time served while he held a Certificate of Eligibility counted toward tenure accrual, is flawed. As pointed out above, a holder of a Certificate of Eligibility is not a "teaching staff member" as defined by N.J.S.A. 18A; 1-1, since he did not hold a valid and effective standard, provisional or emergency certificate. While the petitioner appears to have analogized a "Certificate of Eligibility" to an "Emergency Certificate", there is nothing in the statute or case law that supports that position. As the court pointed out in Zimmerman, supra, 38 N.J. at 72: In order to acquire tenure, "a teacher must comply with the precise conditions articulated in the statute." Based on this standard, the ALJ in Joanne McAneney v. Board of Education of the School District of the Chathams, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 208 (1991) found that a teacher, who taught for 13 years, but did not have the proper instructional certificate, had not attained tenure. The decision was affirmed by the Commissioner who concurred that "the petitioner did not possess the appropriate certificate for service as a supplemental teacher and, therefore, did not meet the precise requirements for acquiring tenure set forth in Spiewak, supra." See also Jennings v. Board of Education of the Borough of Highland Park, 1989 S.L.D. (St. Bd. Feb. 28, 1989) in which an athletic trainer, who taught health courses without the proper health education endorsement, was denied tenure.

I also do not find persuasive the petitioner's argument that he can somehow use his prior teaching time to retroactively grant him seniority and tenure. The fact that he eventually became a regular certificated teacher does not mean that he can tack on the time he spent teaching under a substitute teacher certificate and under a certificate of eligibility. As the ALJ found in Morano v. Board of Education of the Borough of Verona, 1990 S.L.D. (June 27, 1990), affirmed, Commissioner, August 10, 1990, there could be no "retroactive seniority" granted to a teacher who completed all of the prerequisites to be "eligible" to obtain a specific endorsement in a particular subject, but who did not actually have the endorsement. As the ALJ explained:

> To recognize "seniority" based upon "eligibility" for endorsement and authorization to teach a subject would have results including the following: It would erode the authority of the regulatory system. It would result in uncertainty and confusion by, e.g., entertaining the claims of teachers who are unendorsed and unauthorized, that they should be afforded seniority-type rights over teachers who conscientiously secured endorsement and authorization. It would ultimately deny the endorsed and authorized teachers their rights afforded by the statutory and regulatory systems.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

Based on the briefs and certifications submitted, I CONCLUDE that there is no material issue of fact that would require a hearing. Therefore, the matter can be decided on Summary Decision.

I further CONCLUDE that the petitioner has not acquired tenure under the terms of the statute.

I therefore ORDER, that the petitioner's application for re-employment as a tenured teaching staff member, back salary and benefits be denied.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF ROSEANNE ANTINE,	:
ROCKLEIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission, forwarded to the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29 solely for review of the Commission's recommended penalty, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission. Further, the Commissioner admonishes the respondent for failing to attend the required training in her first year of service as a Board member; such disregard of the law has resulted in a waste of administrative and adjudicative time at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, the above-named respondent is hereby suspended from the board if she fails to attend the December 9, 2006 training session and summarily removed from office if she fails to attend the January 6, 2007 training session.

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et. seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires each newly elected or appointed board member to complete, during the first year of the member's first term, a training program offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) regarding the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member or charter school trustee; and

WHEREAS, Roseanne Antine was newly elected or appointed in April 2005 to a local school board or charter school board and therefore, had until April 2006, to complete the training requirement; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on October 5, 2005, January 17, 2006 and February 6, 2006; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted eight training sessions between April 2005 and March 2006 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, through correspondence dated August 9, 2006, because you are a member of a non-operating district, the Commission provided you with the opportunity to attend half of the one-day training on October 24, 2006; and

WHEREAS, the Commission has been notified by the New Jersey School Boards Association that you did not attend the October 24, 2006 training; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on November 1, 2006, directing Roseanne Antine to Show Cause why she had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Antine responded to the Order and indicated that she failed to attend the October 24, 2006 training due to a business commitment that she could not cancel; and

WHEREAS, the Commission notified Ms. Antine that the Commission would discuss this matter at its November 28, 2006 meeting; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Antine has failed to attend the required training program for the one year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that her failure to attend board member training from April 2005 to March 2006 constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that the appropriate penalty for the violation is suspension from the board if she fails to attend the December 9, 2006 training session and removal if she fails to attend the January 6, 2007 training session;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Roseanne Antine violated the N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act if she fails to attend the December 9, 2006 training session and recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of suspension from the board if she fails to attend the December 9, 2006 training session and removal if she fails to attend the January 6, 2007 training session.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 410-11/06

IN THE MATTER OF STEVEN COLE,	:
STATE-OPERATED DISTRICT OF THE CITY	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission, forwarded to the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29 solely for review of the Commission's recommended penalty, have been reviewed.

Mr. Cole's comments to the Commission's recommended penalty, in pertinent part, stated

> I have been employed as a school administrator for twenty (20) years. Throughout my tenure, I have never failed to adhere to my job responsibilities nor have I failed to file required disclose statements of any kind. Over the past year, I have had additional personal pressures that may have led to the late submission. My wife was recently diagnosed with breast cancer and has to undergo chemotherapy and ultimately surgery. With the decline of my wife[`s] health, I have been taking on the duties to care for my autistic child alone. It has been a difficult year for me personally, however, I continued to have a successful year professionally as a school administrator, as a father to two children and as a mentor to young students of Newark.
> While these personal difficulties do not excuse a failure to adhere to the statutory code, I submit to you that given my past performance record, the fact no such infraction of this kind has ever been brought against me in twenty (20) years and the personal difficulties I have had over the past year, should excuse me from any penalty of reprimand.

Upon her review – notwithstanding Mr. Cole's violation of the School Ethics Act as a result of his untimely filing of the requisite disclosure statement – under the particular circumstances in this matter, the Commissioner cannot agree with the Commission that any penalty against him is warranted. However, Mr. Cole is hereby directed to insure that all future requisite submissions are filed in a timely fashion.

MONMOUTH COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (SEC), forwarded to the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29 solely for review of the Commission's recommended penalty, have been reviewed.[1] No comments were filed by the respondent, but the required disclosure statement was filed on November 8, 2006.

Upon review of the foregoing, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission and additionally admonishes the respondent for failure to timely file the requisite statement, in that such delay has resulted in a waste of administrative and adjudicative time by local, county and State education officials.

Accordingly, the above-named respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IN THE MATTER OF DAWN POPE,	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OF SOMERDALE, CAMDEN COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission, forwarded to the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29 solely for review of the Commission's recommended penalty, have been reviewed. No comments were filed by the respondent and the required disclosure statement had not been filed as of the date of this decision.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission, particularly in light of respondent's prior violation of the same provision. The Commissioner additionally admonishes the respondent for her disregard of the law, which has resulted in a waste of administrative and adjudicative time by local, county and State education officials.

Accordingly, the above-named respondent is hereby removed as a member of the Somerdale Board of Education, effective upon filing of this decision.

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE,

Respondent.

S.V., petitioner, pro se

Stephen J. Christiano, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: October 12, 2006 Decided: November 9, 2006

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

Petitioner filed a petition with the Commissioner of the State Department of Education (DOE), on January 6, 2006, regarding a dispute with respondent pertinent to the continued enrollment of H.W., D.A., and K.V., his minor children, in respondent's school district. Respondent filed an answer and counterclaim on February 14, 2006. The DOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on March 29, 2006 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A hearing scheduled on July 17, 2006 was adjourned because of petitioner's unavailability. The parties appeared for a hearing on September 8, 2006. A hearing commenced at that time. The parties conferred during the proceedings and reached a resolution of the matter. The terms of the settlement were placed on the record. Subsequent to additional communications, an executed Stipulation of Settlement and Minutes of a meeting by respondent, on October 9, 2006, evidencing approval of the settlement, were filed on October 12, 2006, on which date the record was closed. Attached herewith are copies of those documents.

I have reviewed the record and terms of the Stipulation of Settlement and pertinent Minutes and FIND that the parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement, as evidenced by the signatures of the parties or their representatives on the settlement, and the settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with law.

I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C.1:1-19.1 and, accordingly, I approve the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

The parties having amicably adjusted the differences between them, it is hereby stipulated as follows:

(1) Petitioner withdraws his petition of appeal.

(2) Respondent withdraws its counterclaim for tuition charges.

(3) Petitioner's children will be permitted to attend school in respondent's district so long as the requirements of school eligibility under statute and regulations are met.

(4) Petitioner shall pay respondent the sum of $11,400 in full settlement of all tuition charges. The first payment of $5,700 shall be due within 30 days of the approval of this settlement by the Commissioner of Education. The second payment of $2,850 shall be due 30 days after the first payment is due. The third payment of $2,850 shall be due 30 days after the second payment is due.

(5) Petitioner shall have the right to prepay any or all of the above sums.

(6) If petitioner does not make any of the above payments by their due dates, respondent shall be entitled to the entire amount of tuition for the three children for the 2005-2006 school year, less any payments previously made.

(7) This settlement is subject to approval by the Commissioner of Education.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WINFIELD, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record in this matter, the proposed settlement agreement, a resolution by respondent authorizing the settlement, and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms and adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this case, with the following advisement. The settlement agreement will be annexed to the Final Decision in this matter and will, consequently, be part of a public document. Thus, while the parties themselves may comply with their accord – in Paragraph 14 of the Settlement – not to disclose the terms of the settlement agreement, the settlement document will be subject to the provisions of the Open Public Records Act, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1 et seq.

The matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the settlement terms.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on November 16, 2001 for hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached settlement agreement and release indication the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement agreement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

This Settlement Agreement and Release ("Agreement") is made and entered into between the Board of Education of the Township of Winfield (the "Board") and Adam E. Drapczuk ("Drapczuk"). This Agreement is made pursuant to the following terms and conditions.

RECITALS

WHEREAS, on or about August 17, 1998, Drapczuk was employed as the Superintendent of the Winfield Public School District pursuant to a contract of employment, effective August 17, 1998 through June 30, 2002; and

WHEREAS, on or about April 24, 2001, the Board forwarded Drapczuk a letter advising him that the Board did not intend to renew his employment contract; and

WHEREAS, on or about September 18, 2001, the Board adopted a resolution ratifying its previous decision to non-renew Drapczuk's employment contract; and

WHEREAS, Drapczuk filed a Petition for a Declaration Ruling on or about September 29, 2001, asserting that he had not been afforded timely notice of his non-renewal in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.1; and

WHEREAS, the matter was docketed before the Office of Administrative Law as OAL Docket Number EDU-OA-08101-01N; and

WHEREAS, the parties elected to settle all outstanding matters and allegations in dispute so as to avoid expending further resources and to eliminate the uncertainties of litigation; and

WHEREAS, the Board and Drapczuk deem it to be in their best interests to set forth in a formal written agreement their respective rights, duties and obligations; and

WHEREAS, the Board and Drapczuk are now mutually desirous of settling the matters and allegations in dispute; and

WHEREAS, all parties have been afforded the opportunity to consider the terms of this Agreement with advice of counsel and/or a representative of their choice;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the promises and the mutual covenants herein contained, and for other good and valuable considerations, the parties hereby agree as follows:

1. The "Board", as used herein, shall at all times mean the Board of Education of the Township of Winfield, its affiliates, predecessors, successors and assigns of any and all of them, their present and former directors, officials, officers, representatives, associates, partners, servants, employees, agents, attorneys, and successors, whether in their individual or official capacities, and all other persons, firms, corporations, associations, partnerships or any other entity connected therewith.
2. "Drapczuk," as used herein, shall mean Adam E. Drapczuk, his heirs, representatives, privies, executors, administrators, assigns, successors-in-interest and predecessors-in-interest.
3. The parties acknowledge and agree that Drapczuk's Employment Contract dated August 13, 1998 terminated on June 30, 2002.
4. Drapczuk shall cause to be filed a withdrawal, with prejudice, of the matter currently pending before the Office of Administrative Law and docketed as EDU- OA-08101-01N, subject to the approval of this Settlement and Release Agreement by the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education.
5. Drapczuk promises and agrees never to seek re-employment or assert any tenure status or employment with the Board at any time in the future in any capacity.
6. Within thirty (30) business days of execution of the Settlement Agreement by all parties, and approval of this Settlement Agreement by the Office of Administrative Law, the Board shall pay Drapczuk the lump sum of Seven-thousand, five-hundred dollars ($7,500.00). Drapczuk and the Board acknowledge and agree that said payment is in full and complete settlement of any and all claims that have been asserted or can be asserted or may be asserted or could be asserted by Drapczuk for reinstatement, automatic renewal of his employment contact, reemployment, compensatory damages, pain, suffering, emotional distress, stress, humiliation, embarrassment, mental anguish, medical expenses, punitive damages, interests, attorneys fees, costs of suit, loss of sick time, loss of vacation time, loss of benefits, loss of seniority, loss of pension, loss of salary placement, consequential damage, reputation damage, breach of express or implied contract, interference in any contract, economic opportunity or prospective economic advantage which arose out of or could arise out of Drapczuk's Complaint against the Board now docketed before the OAL as EDU-OA-08101-01N, for, but not limited to, violation of his civil rights, privileges and immunities secured by the Civil Rights Act of 1871, 42 U.S.C. §§1981, 1983, 1985, 1986, and 1988, Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes; Titles 6 and 6A of the New Jersey Administrative Code, the New Jersey Tort Claims Act N.J.S.A. Title 59, the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution and any and all other federal, state and local constitutional, statutory, regulatory or administrative laws, ordinances or common law duties, whether enumerated herein specifically or not. Drapczuk and the Board expressly understand and agree that said payment includes any and all amounts that may be claimed by Drapczuk or on his behalf, or by his attorneys, heirs, successors or assigns, against the Board. Specifically excluded from this release are Drapczuk's rights arising under the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund (TPAF) and related statutes and regulations, and any rights he may have for indemnification by the Board through his last day of employment, June 30, 2002, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A: 16-6 and 6.1.

7. Drapczuk hereby acknowledges and agrees that he further expressly waives and assumes the risk of any and all claims or damages which exist as of this date for which Drapczuk does not know of or suspect to exist, whether through ignorance, oversight, error, negligence, or otherwise and which, if known, would materially effect his decision to enter into this Settlement Agreement and General Release.

8. This Settlement Agreement is contingent upon the approval of the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education.

9. Drapczuk and the Board agree and acknowledge that this Settlement Agreement and General Release is also contingent on and subject to approval and ratification by the Board.

10. This settlement is intended as and for damages for any and all possible injuries and Drapczuk hereby waives any and all claims for lost wages, income or future earnings.

11. Should it be determined that any payments made pursuant to Paragraph 6 herein constitute gross income within the meaning of the Internal Revenue Code and its applicable amendments, or under any other federal, state or local statute or ordinance, Drapczuk shall be solely liable for and agrees to pay any amount that may be determined to be due and owing as taxes, interest and penalties arising out of such payments. Specifically, Drapczuk understands and agrees that his attorney will be provided with a 1099 Miscellaneous form with his payment from the Board. Drapczuk also understands and agrees that any adjustments to his withholding or any estimated tax payments are his responsibility. Further, Drapczuk understands and agrees that the Board will report the payment made to Drapczuk to the Internal Revenue Service, the New Jersey State Division of Taxation and other pertinent agencies, but the Board will not take a position as to whether the payment is taxable.

12. In any action commenced against by either party to enforce the provisions of this Agreement, the prevailing party, shall be entitled to recover its reasonable attorneys' fees, costs and disbursements incurred in prosecuting the action.

13. Drapczuk specifically acknowledges that the payment referred to in Paragraph 6 hereof constitutes any and all additional consideration not otherwise owed to him for this Settlement Agreement and General Release. Drapczuk agrees that he shall not seek any further amount from the Board other than the amount stated in Paragraph 6.

14. The parties and their attorney(s) agree and promise that they will not disclose, either directly or indirectly any information contained in this Settlement Agreement, except that the parties or their attorney(s) shall not be precluded from disclosing the existence or terms of this Settlement Agreement and General Release when required to do so by law. The parties may only state, without elaboration, as follows: "The situation has been resolved to the mutual satisfaction of Drapczuk and the Board."

15. This Settlement Agreement and General Release contains the full agreement of Drapczuk and the Board and may not be modified, altered, changed or terminated except upon the express prior written consent of Drapczuk and the Board, which consent must be signed by Drapczuk and the Board, or their duly authorized agents.

16. The waiver by Drapczuk and/or the Board of a breach of any provision hereof shall not operate or be construed as a waiver of that breach by the other, or as a waiver of any subsequent breach by the other.

17. If any term, provision or condition of this Settlement Agreement and General Release is held invalid or unenforceable by a court of competent jurisdiction, such holding shall be without effect upon the validity or enforceability of any other provision, term or condition of this Settlement Agreement and General Release.

18. This Settlement Agreement and General Release shall be construed and interpreted in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey.

19. Drapczuk and the Board agree to cooperate fully and execute any and all supplementary documents and to take all additional actions which may be necessary or appropriate to get full force and effect of the basic terms and interest of this Settlement Agreement and General Release.

20. This Settlement Agreement and General Release may be executed in counterparts, with each of which shall be deemed to be an original copy, but all of which together shall be deemed one and the same instrument.

21. In entering into this Settlement Agreement and General Release, Drapczuk has relied upon the legal advice of his attorney, who is the attorney of his own choice, as to the terms of this Settlement Agreement and General Release which have been completely read and explained by his attorney and those terms are fully understood and voluntarily accepted.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, Drapczuk and the Board have hereunto set their hands.

E.A.E. on behalf of minor child S.N.W.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BLOOMFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a resident of Bloomfield – contested respondent's determination that her son, S.N.W., was not domiciled in respondent's district during the 2005-2006 school year. Respondent counterclaims for tuition reimbursement for the alleged period of ineligible attendance, based on an investigator's observations of S.N.W. at his grandparents' address in East Orange.

The ALJ found that petitioner admitted that she sent her son to stay with her parents in East Orange after she discovered that her live-in boyfriend was a convicted sex offender. Based on the foregoing, the ALJ concluded that S.N.W. was not domiciled in respondent's district between November 2005 and May 2006; affirmed the residency determination of the respondent; and ordered E.A.E. to pay the district the appropriate per diem tuition rate for the period of S.N.W.'s ineligible attendance.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner rejects the Initial Decision of the OAL for the following reasons: respondent does not challenge the fact that petitioner is domiciled in its district; it is well settled that the domicile of a minor child is determined by the domicile of the parent; and – by virtue of E.A.E.'s undisputed domicile in Bloomfield – her child had a right to a free public education in respondent's district. Accordingly, no tuition is due for S.N.W.'s attendance in Bloomfield schools during the 2005-2006 school year.

E.A.E. on behalf of minor child S.N.W.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BLOOMFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

Petitioner, E.A.E., a resident of Bloomfield, initiated this matter when respondent, Bloomfield Board of Education, acted to disenroll her son, S.N.W., from its school district. The record, Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) recommending that respondent's action be upheld, and respondent's exceptions have been reviewed.[1] After careful consideration and for the reasons set forth infra, the Commissioner rejects the Initial Decision.

The Commissioner adopts the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) procedural history and relies upon the following undisputed facts:

1. Petitioner is the biological mother of S.N.W., a special needs student.
2. Petitioner has lived in Bloomfield for over four years, and currently resides on W. Avenue in Bloomfield, New Jersey.
3. S.L.W. has been attending school in Bloomfield since at least September 2004.
4. Petitioner's mother and step-father live a few blocks away from petitioner on N. M. Avenue in East Orange, New Jersey.

[1] No transcript of the July 14, 2006 hearing was provided to the Commissioner.

5. Petitioner's mother and step-father have no legal custody or guardianship of S.N.W.
6. During the period of time relevant to this controversy, petitioner often worked afternoons and nights.
7. In or about May 2005, petitioner learned through a Megan's Law notice that her live-in boyfriend was a convicted sex offender.
8. Due to her working schedule and concerns about her boyfriend's background, petitioner allowed S.N.W. to stay with her parents extensively during the 2005-2006 school year. During that school year S.N.W. was seen by respondent's residency compliance officer going to school from the grandparents' house and returning to it after school.
9. Petitioner's boyfriend vacated the W. Avenue residence in April 2006 and stopped trying to return there in May 2006.

At the outset, the Commissioner notes that respondent does not challenge the fact that petitioner was domiciled in its district; it contends that S.N.W. stayed with his grandparents in East Orange during the school year and consequently failed to meet the domicile requirement that would entitle him to a free public education in Bloomfield. However, it is well settled that a minor child does not establish his or her own domicile. Rather, the domicile of the child is determined by the domicile of the parent. See Mississippi Band of Choctaw Indians v. Holyfield, 490 U.S. 30, 48, 109 S. Ct. 1597, 1608, 104 L. Ed. 2d 29, 46 (1989); Roxbury Twp. Bd. of Educ. v. West Milford Bd. of Educ., 283 N.J. Super. 505, 521-22 (App. Div.1995), certif. denied, 143 N.J. 325 (1996); V.R. on behalf of A.R. v. Bd. of Ed. of Hamburg, 2 N.J.A.R. 283, 286; 25 Am. Jur. 2d Domicil § 42 (1996); Restatement (Second) Conflict of Laws § 22 (1971).

It appears that S.N.W. spent the majority of his time at his grandparents' residence, due to his mother's work schedule and her boyfriend's history. S.N.W. nonetheless had a right to a free public education in respondent's district by virtue of the fact that his mother, petitioner, was domiciled in that district. See, also, M.L.P. on behalf of minor child C.L.P. v. Board of Education of the Township of Bloomfield, Essex County, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 1420-06, Agency Dkt. No. 395-12/05, decided September 19, 2006; J.M. on behalf of minor child S.C. v. Board of Education of the Township of West Orange, Essex County, OAL Dkt. No. EDU1061-00, Agency Dkt. No. 347-11/99, decided May 24, 2001.

Since the facts found by the ALJ established petitioner's domicile in Bloomfield, and there was nothing in the record to cast doubt on petitioner's legal custody of S.N.W., S.N.W. must be deemed to have been domiciled in Bloomfield during the 2005-2006 school year and entitled to a free public education there.

The Commissioner directs respondent to continue to enroll S.N.W. in its district, assuming that petitioner is still domiciled there, and denies respondent's request for tuition.[2]

IT IS SO ORDERED. [3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 12/19/06

Date of Mailing: 12/20/06

[2] Insofar as the Commissioner finds that S.N.W. is domiciled in Bloomfield, respondent's exceptions are rendered moot.

[3] This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A: 4-1.1 et seq.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, E.E. challenges the residency determination made by the Township of Bloomfield Board of Education (hereinafter "Board'). The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on April 6, 2006, for resolution as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13. A hearing was held on July 14, 2006, at the OAL in Newark, New Jersey. Respondent filed a post hearing brief and the Petitioner requested some time to submit post hearing documentation. The Court, not having heard from the petitioner, closed the record on October 16, 2006.

ISSUE

The issue in this proceeding is whether S.N.W. is domiciled in the Township of Bloomfield, and is eligible to attend respondent's public schools free of charge in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

SUMMARY OF THE TESTIMONY

E.E.

E.E. is the mother of the minor child S.N.W. S.N. W. is 14 years old and will be entering the 9th grade in September 2006. E.E. testified that she lived on Prospect St., in Bloomfield, New Jersey from June 2003 until November 2004. She moved to another location, Watesessing Ave, Bloomfield in November 2004 where she remains to date.

E.E. testified that she lived in Bloomfield in an apartment occupied by herself, her boyfriend and her son (S.N.W.). Some time after living with her boyfriend she received a Megan's Law notice that informed her that the boyfriend was a convicted child molester. Thereafter, she wanted him to vacate her apartment but he refused to leave. The relationship became very difficult. Her boyfriend would harass her causing her to call the Bloomfield police department on him numerous times. However, she never filed a domestic violence complaint so she never obtained a restraining order against him. He finally left the apartment in April 2006. Nevertheless, he continued to harass her a pattern that continued until approximately May 2006.

During this period, she sent S.N.W. to stay with her parents so that he would not be exposed to the boyfriend and potentially be at risk of molestation. E.E. testified that her son stayed at his grandparents in East Orange at least during the four (4) months she was trying to get the boyfriend out of her apartment.

S.N.W. routinely went to his grandparents' home after school and stayed there until the following morning. If her boyfriend was at the apartment after school, S.N.W. would be sent directly to his grandparents' house and would stay there until either the next morning, or until his mother came home to the Bloomfield apartment. S.N.W.'s grandfather would take him to the Bloomfield bus stop in the morning and in the afternoon he would pick him up at the same bus stop and walk him back to his house in East Orange. This was the routine was followed for most of the 2005-2006 school year because she had a very difficult time evicting the boyfriend.

On cross-examination, E.E. stated that the child lived with his grandparents from November 2005 until May 2006. She said she found out, through her employer, that her boyfriend was a sex offender in May 2005.

Mrs. G. (grandmother)

Mrs. G. testified that she is SNW's biological grandmother and is E.E.'s mother. She lives on N. Maple St., East Orange, New Jersey with her husband, Mr. G., the child's step-grandfather. She stated that S.N.W. goes back and forth between her house in East Orange and his mother's house in Bloomfield. S.N.W. would appear at her house without prior notice and there were times when he would leave her house and go either to his mother's apartment in Bloomfield, or somewhere else. She stated that S.N.W. would sometimes spend days and weeks at their house.

Mr. G. (step-grandfather)

Mr. G. testified that he is S.N.W.'s step-grandfather. He lives on N. Maple St., East Orange with his wife, E.E.'s mother. His grandson often stays with him them, and in the past has stayed with them on and off. He saw the Meagan's Law flyer with E.E.'s boyfriend's picture on it and called his step-daughter and told her she was living with a child molester. It was then that he took S.N.W. away from E.E. and had him live with them.

Mr. G. further testified that he could not register his grandson in the East Orange school district because he had no guardianship or legal custody of the child. He said that he never reported that the child was staying with them to either the East Orange Board of Education or the Bloomfield Board of Education.

Robert Presuto

Robert Presuto is employed by the respondent as the Director of Administrative Services and Technology and is responsible for residency and truancy. He testified as to the sum of the tuition due for students not residing within the district. During the 2005-2006 academic year when S.N.W. was in the seventh grade the amount of tuition was $7,956.00. (See R-5)

Jeffrey Allyn

Jeffrey Allyn is employed by the respondent school board as the district's residency compliance officer. Mr. Allyn has been in this position for approximately 15 years.

Mr. Allyn testified that he observed S.N.W. leave his grandparents' home on N. Maple Ave., East Orange, in the morning to catch the Bloomfield school bus and go to school. He testified that he saw this occur on numerous occasions throughout the 2005-2006 school year. Specifically, October 31, 2005 and on November 2, 2005, he observed S.N.W. leave the East Orange address at approximately 7:30 a.m., and go to the Bloomfield bus stop and then to school in Bloomfield. He also observed S.N.W. getting off the Bloomfield bus on November 1, 2005. On that date he observed S.N.W. go to his grandparents home in East Orange after school. He conducted a phone check on October 25, 2005 and was told by E.E. that S.N.W. was not home at the Bloomfield address, 2005 and was told by E.E. that S.N.W. was not home at the Bloomfield address, but was in East Orange because he was sick. He further testified that on January 31, 2005, S.N.W. admitted to living with his grandparents on N. Maple Ave., in East Orange.

Mr. Allyn testified that as early as October 2004, he received referrals regarding S.N.W.'s residency. On October 11, 2004, he went to the Bloomfield address and was told that S.N.W. was not there because he had spent the night at his grandparents in East Orange because he had an asthma attack the night before. On the morning of October 19, 2004, he observed S.N.W. arrive at the bus stop at 7:30 a.m. and board a Bloomfield school bus. He concluded, at that time, that the child may have been living in Bloomfield with his mother, but spent a lot of time with his grandparents in East Orange.

However, Mr. Allyn testified as to further observations of similar occurrences on November 7 and 8, 2005, January 13, 26, 31, and June 6 and 12 of 2006. It became obvious to Mr. Allyn that throughout the 2004-2005 and 2005-2006 academic years that S.N.W. resided with his grandparents in East Orange.

On November 4, 2005, Mr. Allyn received a report that someone found a wallet that belonged to S.N.W. Inside the wallet was an ID card listing S.N.W.'s name and address. The address given on the ID card was the N. Maple Ave., East Orange address and the grandparents' telephone number. The card identified E.E. as the person to contact in case of an emergency and it had E.E.'s Bloomfield telephone number.

Lastly, Mr. Allyn testified that the grandparents live only a few blocks away from E.E. and it is an easy short walk.

FINDINGS

Based upon the testimony and documentary evidence presented at the hearing, I FIND the following FACTS,

E.E., petitioner, has one child, S.N.W. that attends the Township of Bloomfield public schools. Petitioner resides on Watesessing Ave., Bloomfield, New Jersey. Petitioner's parents live on N. Maple Ave., East Orange, New Jersey, a couple of blocks away.

S.N.W. lives with his grandparents. I FIND that E.E. sent her son to live with her parents because her live-in boyfriend was a child molester. I FIND that E.E. worked afternoons and nights, thus it was convenient and practicable for S.N.W. to live with her parents.

I FIND that E.E.'s Section 8 Housing Voucher and Lease Agreement indicates that she began occupancy at the Watessing address on or about November 1, 2004. It further indicates that the apartment was to be occupied by two people E.E., and J.W. (the boyfriend). S.N.W. was not mentioned as an occupant or as a member of the household.

I also FIND that petitioner's boyfriend resisted leaving the Bloomfield apartment and only left in April of 2006, this covers the time frame in which the respondent alleges the child was not residing in Bloomfield. I FIND credible the petitioner's testimony that even after her boyfriend left the apartment he would continue to harass her and attempt entry into her apartment. It is, therefore, reasonable to conclude that S.N.W. was not residing in Bloomfield with his mother during the time that all this activity took place as the petitioner sent him to live in a safer environment (i.e. with his grandparents). I also FIND credible petitioner's parents testimony that from at least November 2005 through May 2006, the petitioner's grandparents had physical custody of the child.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

Respondent school board asserts that S.N.W. was not domiciled within the district during the 2005-2006 school year and, therefore, he is not entitled to a free public education in Bloomfield.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 provides that the public schools of a district are free to persons domiciled within the district who are over five and under twenty years of age. Domicile is the place of a person's abode, where he or she has the present intention of remaining and to which, if absent, he or she intends to return. Mercadante v. City of Paterson, 111 N.J. Super. 35, 39 (Ch. Div. 1970), aff'd, 58 N.J. 112 (1971). A person may have more than one residence but only one domicile, which is that place that the person regards as his or her true and permanent home. A person may have multiple residences, but may only have one true domicile at a time. Board of Educ. of Middle Township, Cape May County v. K.K., 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 461.

Therefore, residence may coincide with domicile, but does not alone determine domicile. State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238, 251 (1955). As the New Jersey Supreme Court held in Lyon v. Glaser, domicile requires proof of physical presence and the intention to remain there indefinitely. 60 N.J. 259, 264 (1972). Here, even if one were to look at petitioner's statements in the light most favorable to her position, one wonders how long she intended to keep her son out of the Bloomfield residence, since the boyfriend left in April/May of 2006. Evidently the child was to stay at the grandparents home indefinitely or at least until such time as the boyfriend ceased all contact with E.E.

In a proceeding such as this, the parent has the burden of proving by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence that the child/children in question meet the school district's residency requirements. Here, the Petitioner admitted that she sent her son to live with her parents in East Orange. She offered nothing more than that. She provided no proof that this was a temporary situation or that something else occurred that interrupted or otherwise lengthened the time she had anticipated her son would be staying with his grandparents. She provided no documentary evidence to indicate that her child resided in Bloomfield. She did provide the items marked P-4, P-7 and P-8, however, said items do not prove domicile. Everything points to the fact that the child was residing in East Orange at minimum from November 2005 through May of 2006

Based upon all of the foregoing and the circumstances of this case, I FIND that S.N.W. was not domiciled within the Township of Bloomfield's school district, between November 2005 and May 2006. Therefore, he does not meet the requirements set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). I therefore, CONCLUDE that S.N.W. is not entitled to a free public education in the Township of Bloomfield school district from November 2005 through May 31, 2006.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the residency determination by the respondent is AFFIRMED. It is further ORDERED that E.E. be assessed at the per diem rate of $43.48 for the number of school days between November 2005 and May 31, 2006.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." Record Closed: November 30, 2006 Decided: December 1, 2006

BEFORE RONALD W. REBA, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on June 5, 2006, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a settlement agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

THIS AGREEMENT made on this 14th day of September, 2006, by and between Jackson Township School District with offices located at 151 Don Connor Boulevard, Jackson, New Jersey 08527 (hereinafter "Jackson")

AND

John E. McGovern with an address of 812 Gilmores Island Road, Toms River, New Jersey 08753 (hereinafter "J.M.").

WHEREAS, Jackson hired J.M. as a non-tenured teaching staff member for the 2005-06 school year pursuant to a July 19, 2005 employee contract; and

WHEREAS, the contract and applicable New Jersey Law required that J.M. provide 60 days written notice of an intent to resign from the position; and

WHEREAS, J.M. ceased employment with Jackson, effective December 8, 2005; and

WHEREAS, Jackson has filed this action under Agency Docket Number 147-4/06 and OAL Docket Number EDU4207-06 for the failure to provide the requisite 60 day notice of intent to resign; and

WHEREAS, for the purpose of avoiding the expense, distraction, distress, and uncertainty of litigation, and to minimize disruption to the District, Jackson and J.M. desire to resolve their differences amicably.

NOW, THEREFORE, Jackson and J.M., intending to be legally bound, and in consideration of these mutual promises, hereby agree as follows:

1. J.M. is guilty of unprofessional conduct for failing to provide 60 days written notice of his intent to resign his position with Jackson in violation of his employment contract and relevant New Jersey Law.

2. J.M. expressly represents he has not been employed as a teaching staff member for any public school since his cessation of employment with Jackson in December 2005.

3. J.M. agrees he shall not apply for employment with or be employed as a teaching staff member in any public school on or before December 31, 2006.

4. There shall be no suspension of the teaching license of J.M. as a result of his failure to provide the requisite 60 written notice of his intent to resign employment with Jackson.

5. Jackson and J.M. hereby expressly release the other, their heirs, executors, administrators, successors or assigns from any and all liability for claims and demands asserted or that could be asserted in any jurisdiction or forum as a result of J.M.'s 2005 employment with Jackson.

6. J.M. agrees to indemnify and hold Jackson harmless against any and all claims, demands, damages, costs and expenses including reasonable attorneys fees for the defense of such claims and demands if said claims or demands are filed by J.M. directly or indirectly via a third party against Jackson arising out of the operation/ management of Jackson's special education program.

7. The parties have negotiated this settlement agreement through counsel for Jackson and the pro se respondent. Pro se respondent consulted with his own private counsel with regard to the settlement in advance of agreeing to its terms. Jackson and J.M. warrant, represent and agree that the terms of the settlement agreement were discussed with counsel of their choice and are voluntarily accepted by the parties.

8. This settlement agreement contains the entire agreement between Jackson and J.M. relating to the pending petition. There are no other understandings or agreements, verbal or otherwise, in relation thereto, between the parties except those herein expressly set forth.

9. This settlement agreement shall be construed and interpreted in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey.

BEFORE CAROL I. COHEN, ALJ:

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on July 29, 2006 for determination as a contested case. A hearing was scheduled for April 6, 2006.

On the date of the hearing the parties were able to resolve the matter. On April 28, 2006, the parties submitted the Settlement Agreement indicating the terms of the agreement. On July 27, 2007 the Commissioner of Education filed a decision remanding the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). It stated that: "Upon such review, the Commissioner observes that an unidentified Individual signed the Settlement Agreement on behalf of the Board. In that neither the file nor the settlement agreement contained a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement[1] and further designating this individual to sign the agreement on its behalf, nor – in the alternative – is the agreement signed by the Board attorney, who is the Board's duly authorized representative in litigation, the Commissioner cannot approve the within settlement agreement." After several telephone calls and correspondence to the Board's attorney, on November 14, 2006, the undersigned received a Resolution from the Board and Settlement Agreement signed by the Board's attorney. The attached Settlement Agreement indicates the terms of the agreement. Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signature of the parties and/or signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

[1] It is noted that the agreement, on its face, is specifically contingent on such approval.

Agency Reference Number: 117-3/06

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

WHEREAS, this matter having been brought by way of an Emergent Application for Relief as a result of issues which arose concerning the licensing status of the petitioner; and

WHEREAS, the parties acknowledge that Petitioner Janice Pamplona, currently employed in the capacity of Lead Teacher for Petitioner Toddler Town, possesses a Standard Certificate for Eligibility K-5; and

WHEREAS, Janice Pamplona possesses a Bachelor's Degree in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:9-11.1 and is a newly hired teacher pursuant to the language set forth in 6A:9-11.1 (a)(2); and

WHEREAS, Janice Pamplona has applied for a Pre-School through Grade Three Certification; and

WHEREAS, the language contained in N.J.A.C. 6A:9-11.1, et seq. and Section II of paragraph 3 (a) and 3 (c)(iii) of the Revised-2005 Abbott Preschool Educational Program Contract between the Irvington Board of Education and Toddler Town Child Center, which permits the employment of a teacher who possesses the above referenced qualifications provided said employee completes said requirements within one (1) year;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that Janice Pamplona, Toddler Town Child Center and the Irvington Board of Education agree to settle the above referenced dispute provided Janice Pamplona, receives a certificate of eligibility from the Department of Education for Pre-School through Grade Three, enrolls in a Department of Education Provisional teacher program and completes the appropriate early childhood education courses and obtain a teacher of preschool through grade three endorsement within one calendar year from the date of her application of March 5, 2006, that her employment at Toddler Town shall remain in effect.

In addition, the Board of Education will not withhold any funding related to Ms. Pamplona's employment during this period unless it is demonstrated that Ms. Pamplona is no longer employed at Toddler Town, is removed from any accredited Department of Education course, withdraws from said course, or fails to obtain the requisite endorsement within the one year time period.

All parties have had the benefit of counsel with respect to this matter and the Court having reviewed the moving papers of petitioner Janice Pamplona, Toddler Town Child Care Center and the opposition from the Irvington Board of Education, acknowledges that the within agreement is fair, equitable and in accordance with current law, the New Jersey Administrative Code and the Revised-2005 Abbott Preschool Educational Program Contract between the Irvington Board of Education and Toddler Town Child Center.

It is agreed that the within agreement is subject to Board of Education approval. The failure to approve the within agreement shall not result in the Board of Education's right to withhold payment to Toddler Town for purposes of the within cause of action but would rather return this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a full adversarial determination.

MONMOUTH COUNTY. :

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (SEC), forwarded to the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29 solely for review of the Commission's recommended penalty, have been reviewed.[1] No comments were filed by the respondent, but the required disclosure statement was filed on November 8, 2006.

Upon review of the foregoing, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission and additionally admonishes the respondent for failure to timely file the requisite statement, in that such delay has resulted in a waste of administrative and adjudicative time by local, county and State education officials.

Accordingly, the above-named respondent is hereby censured as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

The record of this matter, including the audiotape of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the Initial Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner is satisfied that the ALJ fully and carefully considered the positions of the parties, and – having done so – correctly concluded that the petitioning Board of Education has established the likelihood of success on the merits necessary to obtain an interim order pursuant to *Crowe v. BEVERLY ASARO,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF MOONACHIE, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a former social worker and member of the Child Study Team in respondent's district – alleged that the Board improperly eliminated her position in violation of her tenure rights. Petitioner also asserted that elimination of her position constituted a violation of the Board's duty pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.1 (b) to utilize district employees to constitute its Child Study Team. Respondent contended that the abolition of petitioner's position was pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A29-9, and resulted in financial savings for the district.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: although petitioner contended that the Board's action in eliminating her position was a pretext – and that there were other, non-economic reasons for her termination – there was no credible evidence to indicate that the Board acted in anything but good faith; petitioner's position was abolished for reasons of economy, which is entirely within the authority of the Board; and the method by which a district decides to staff a Child Study Team – whether by contracting out those services or by hiring staff – need not be permanent, so long as the provision of the required services comports with applicable law and regulations. Accordingly, the ALJ affirmed the Board's abolishment of petitioner's position.

Upon independent and careful review of the record, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision of the OAL for the reasons well stated therein. The instant Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 203-7/99

BEVERLY ASARO,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF MOONACHIE, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto – filed in accordance with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – were fully considered by the Commissioner in reaching her determination herein.

On exception, petitioner essentially recasts and reiterates her arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) below, i.e., 1) the Board could have saved even more money than it did without eliminating her tenured position, therefore, saving money was not the "true motivation" for the Board's abolishment of her position; and 2) there were reasons other than economic that led to her termination. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1-2) She charges that the ALJ failed to ascribe due credence, without explanation in his decision, to her testimony and that of her witness – a local union officer – in support of these contentions. (Id. at 2)

In response, the Board points out – as recognized by the ALJ – the purely speculative nature of petitioner's argument that the Board could have saved even more money than it did, without eliminating her position, by taking the alternative steps she advocated. The Initial Decision additionally recognized that petitioner presented no legal authority which would obligate the Board to pursue petitioner's suggested course of action. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 1) As to petitioner's argument with respect to evidence she presented at hearing that she claims established the "pre-textual nature of the abolition of her position", the ALJ clearly stated in his decision that he found petitioner failed to present any evidence of a "credible nature" in support of such a claim. (Id. at 2)

The Board therefore urges that the Commissioner adopt the decision of the ALJ "as the Petitioner has failed to provide any legal or factual basis that warrants a reversal of his decision." (Id. at 1)

Upon an independent and careful review of the record in this matter and according due deference to the ALJ's credibility determinations,[1] the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Board's action abolishing petitioner's position and contracting with the South Bergen Jointure Commission for the provision of all its child study team services was proper under N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1, N.J.A.C. 6A:14-5.1 and existing case law.

Accordingly, the recommended Initial Decision is adopted for the reasons stated therein and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Date of Decision: 12/22/06

Date of Mailing: 12/26/06

[1] Petitioner's exceptions seek to have the Commissioner arrive at different conclusions from those of the ALJ as a consequence of testimony presented at hearing. It is noted that in challenging the credibility determinations of an ALJ, petitioner bears the burden of presenting transcripts relevant to the exceptions filed so that the Commissioner might assess the judge's findings. Such is the case because the Commissioner "may not reject or modify any findings of fact as to issues of credibility of lay witness testimony unless it is first determined from a review of the record that the findings are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or are not supported by sufficient, competent and credible evidence in the record." N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c). The record before the Commissioner, which did not include transcripts of the hearing at the OAL, provides no cause for rejection or modification in this regard.

[2] This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 9309-99

BEVERLY ASARO,

Appellant,

v.

MOONACHIE BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Respondent

Mary J. Hammer, Esq., for appellant
(Bucceri & Pincus, attorneys)

Eric Levine, Esq., for respondent
(Lindabury, McCormick & Estabrook, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 30, 2005 Decided: November 17, 2006

BEFORE JEFFREY A. GERSON, ALJ:

BACKGROUND AND FACTS

Beverly Asaro was employed by the Moonachie Board of Education as a Social Worker.

Petitioner first became employed by respondent in February 1975 and until June 30, 1989 was a per case/per diem employee. During the school year 1989-90, petitioner became a contract employee on a part-time basis until June 30, 1999 thereby acquiring tenure in the position of School Social Worker.

In addition to serving as the school social worker for respondent, petitioner also served as a member of the Child Study Team.

On or about July 1, 1997, the LDTC retired from her position requiring Board action.

The Board contracted with the South Bergen Jointure Commission for the provision of a LDTC who services commenced on or about October 1, 1997. In the spring of 1997, the Board did not renew the contract of the school psychologist who was not tenured and entered into a contract with the South Bergen Jointure Commission for the provision of psychological services for the 1997-1998 school year.

On or about August 6, 1998, the Superintendent of the South Bergen Jointure Commission contacted Moonachie's superintendent and advised that the Commission must employ the entire Child Study Team. At the time that letter was received, petitioner was serving as social worker to the Child Study Team with a psychologist and a LDTC provided by the South Bergen Jointure Commission.

On or about April 27, 1999, the Board abolished the position of social worker. Subsequently, the Board entered into a contract with the South Bergen Jointure Commission to provide Child Study Team services to the district.

Petitioner was notified by letter that her position was abolished effective June 30, 1999.

The above are the salient facts with regard to this matter and are not in dispute. Supplementing the above facts was testimony at the time of the hearing from John Tudor, who at the time events stated above was the School Business Administrator for Moonachie and Board Secretary.

Documentation produced by Mr. Tudor supported the Board's contention that the abolishing of the petitioner's position resulted in financial benefits. Petitioner contended that the financial benefits realized by the Board as a result of the elimination of her position could have been attained by other actions though they were not specified nor was there any legal basis for such an argument presented.

Though petitioner contended that the Board's actions in eliminating her position were actually pretextual and that there were other reasons other than economic that led to her termination, there was no evidence presented of a credible nature that could lead to a factual finding that the Board acted in anything other than good faith.

Petitioner, by way of legal argument, contends that once a school district chooses to employ the services of all members of a Child Study Team, they are at that point obligated to continue to provide those services with the employees so chosen until they either retire or voluntarily leave the Board's employment.

THE LAW

A local board of education in New Jersey is required to provide Special Education Services for handicapped pupils. N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5. The basic Child Study Team shall consist of a school Social Psychologist, a Learning Disabilities Teacher and a School Social Worker. N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1.

The Legislature has authorized the elimination of teaching positions for reasons of economy and efficiency. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 provides:

> Nothing in this title or any other law relating to the tenure of service shall be held to limit the right of any Board of Education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district, whenever, in the judgment of the Board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrator or supervisory > organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article.

Petitioner contends that the case of Vicenzino v. The Board of Education of the Township of Bedminster, 312 N.J. Super 243 (App. Div. 1998) stands for the proposition that a tenured social worker cannot be terminated and replaced by a ESC to perform the duties of a social worker while retaining the rest of the Child Study Team as Board Employees. Petitioner points to N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.1(b) which provides that all Child Study Team members are to be employees of a District Board of Education. N.J.A.C. 6A:14-5.1 provides the Board with the authority to contract with State Agencies for Child Study Team services, thereby allowing for the provision of Child Study Team services through employees of the State Operated Agency. N.J.S.A. 18A:46-13 allows Boards to provide Child Study Team services either separately or jointly with one or more other Board's of Education or State Agencies, using non-district employees to provide CST services. Vicenzino, supra though holding that a Board may not eliminate one Child Study Team position and contract out for that service, it did also state:

> If the Board were in good faith to eliminate the Child Study Team for reasons of economy and instead, join with one or more board's of education or State agencies to provide for basic Child Study Team services, under N.J.S.A. 18A: 46-5.1, that would be an appropriate decision to make, in that event, the board of education would have complied with N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9.

At the time of the abolishment of petitioner's position, she was the sole remaining member of the Child Study Team. Based on the law as construed in Vicenzino, supra, there is little merit to petitioner's contention that since respondent violated school law in the prior year for having a mixed Child Study Team, they should now be precluded from benefiting from their own wrongdoing by being mandated to reemploy petitioner. Though maintaining a mixed Child Study Team may not have been in accord with statutory interpretation at the time, there is no reason to permanently deprive the residents of Moonachie from having their Board take advantage of the economies presented by replacing the contracted employees of the Child Study Team.

CONCLUSION

Petitioner's position was abolished by Moonachie Board of Education in the exercise of their judgment for reasons of economy. . . "reduction in force is entirely within the authority of the Board if done for reasons of economy. Klinger v. Board of Education, 190 N.J. Super 354 (App. Div. 1982) cert den. 93 N.J. Super 277 (1983).

If a Board decides to hire their own employees to staff a Child Study Team or, in the alternative, decides to contract out those services in full, neither decision should become forever permanent. If a Board can realize economic benefits from providing the services in a manner which they deem appropriate, and the provision of those services comport with the laws, rules and regulation applicable, the Board shall not be precluded from doing so.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the abolishment of petitioner's position is AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the MERIT SYSTEM BOARD for consideration.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

THIS AGREEMENT is entered into on this 18th day of September of in the year 2006, by and between

LAURA LARSON, JANET HALEY AND MAUREEN KEHOE, individuals employed by the Middletown Township Board of Education (hereinafter "PETITIONERS");
and
THE MIDDLETOWN TOWNSHIP EDUCATION ASSOCIATION, the recognized majority bargaining representative for teachers and secretaries employed by the Middletown Township Board of Education (hereinafter "MTEA");
and
THE MIDDLETOWN TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, a body corporate and politic, on behalf of itself and its agents, administrators, officers and representatives (hereinafter "BOARD");

WHEREAS, PETITIONERS are tenured secretarial staff members employed by the BOARD; and

WHEREAS, PETITIONERS were involved in a confrontation with their building supervisor, former High School North Principal Jeff Simon, on or about September 13, 2005, as a result of which PETITIONERS claim that they became physically ill and suffered from stress and anxiety, necessitating their absence from work for four (4) days on September 13, 14, 15 and 16, 2005; and

WHEREAS, PETITIONERS have been charged with sick days for the above-cited absences; and

WHEREAS, PETITIONERS, by and through the MTEA, have filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education, under Agency Referral Number 78-2/06 and OAL Docket Number EDUOA-02426-2006S, and pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, seeking the restoration to their respective sick leave banks of the above-cited days; and

WHEREAS, the BOARD, PETITIONERS and the MTEA have entered into discussions for an amicable and mutually beneficial settlement of all issues between them;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises contained herein and for other good and valuable consideration, receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged by all parties hereto, PETITIONERS, the MTEA and the BOARD agree and hereby are agreed as follows:

1. Restoration of Sick Days:
In consideration of the provisions of this Agreement, immediately upon receipt of a fully-executed copy of this Agreement, the BOARD shall restore to each PETITIONER's sick leave bank two (2) sick days.

2. Dismissal of Petition of Appeal:
PETITIONERS and the MTEA shall withdraw and dismiss the within Petition of Appeal with prejudice immediately upon receipt of a fully-executed copy of this Agreement.

3. Release and Discharge:
In consideration of the promises contained herein, PETITIONERS and the MTEA, on behalf of themselves and their assigns and successors, waive and release the BOARD and each and every one of its members, representatives, agents, and past and present employees from any and all claims of any sort whatsoever arising out of the events set forth in the within Petition of Appeal.

4. No Admission of Liability:
The parties understand, acknowledge and hereby agree that their Settlement as embodied in this Agreement is not to be construed as an admission of liability on the part of either party.

5. No Precedent:
The parties understand, acknowledge and hereby agree that the consideration, terms and understanding set forth in this Agreement is limited to the facts of this matter and is in no way precedent-setting or binding upon any party with regard to any other existing, pending or future claims. For purposes of this Agreement, the parties agree that the actions set forth in the Petition of Appeal constitute extreme and traumatic conduct as defined in Dorfman v. Board of Education of Neptune, 97 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 512, and that absent such a level of conduct, Petitioners' claim would be without merit barring any other statutory entitlement to restoration of sick leave.

6. Execution of Release:
The parties to this Agreement have consulted with their respective legal counsel regarding the terms and conditions of this Agreement, have carefully read this Agreement, and understand and acknowledge the contents hereof. The parties expressly acknowledge and agree that they each execute this Agreement of their own free will and without duress or undue influence by any individual or entity other than the parties themselves.

7. Materiality of Provisions:
The parties mutually acknowledge that each any every provision of this Agreement is material, and the breach of any provision shall be considered a material breach, which would relieve the non-breaching party of its performance obligations.

8. Effective Date:
This Agreement and the accrual of all obligations set forth herein shall be effective and binding upon the parties on the date first written above.

9. Governing Law:
This Agreement shall be construed under, governed by, and enforceable under the laws of the State of New Jersey.

10. Entire Agreement:
This Agreement constitutes the full and complete agreement and understanding between the parties with respect to its subject matter.

11. Authority to Execute Agreement:
The signatories to this Agreement affirm and represent that they have authority to execute this Agreement and do thereby bind the party which they represent to this Agreement.

12. Effectiveness of Terms:
If any provision of this Agreement shall be deemed unlawful, invalid or unenforceable by any Court or administrative agency of competent jurisdiction, the remaining terms and provisions of this Agreement shall remain in full force and effect and shall remain binding on the parties to this Agreement.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, and intending and understanding themselves to be legally bound, the parties have executed this Agreement on the date written below.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY,

PETITIONER,

V.

NEW JERSEY STATE INTERSCHOLASTIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

The Board of Education of the City of Camden (Camden) filed a Petition of Appeal seeking reversal of the final decision of the New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) placing the Camden High School Basketball Team on probation for two years as the result of an incident at the South Jersey Group III boys' basketball championship contest on March 7, 2006. The incident involved an assault by a Camden player on a member of the Deptford High School team during the post-game handshaking ritual.

The Board argued that the imposition of a team penalty for actions solely attributable to one individual player – who, the Board contends, was appropriately sanctioned by the district – was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable; not supported by credible evidence; and improperly based upon the past history of the Camden basketball program.

The Acting Assistant Commissioner – to whom the matter was delegated for hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-34 – upheld the NJSIAA's decision, deeming its intent to compel Camden to address systemic flaws and gaps in the supervision and operation of its basketball program to be a reasonable exercise of the NJSIAA's authority and responsibility for oversight of interscholastic athletic activity statewide.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

For Petitioner, Harvey C. Johnson, Esq. (Wolf, Block, Schorr and Solis-Cohen, LLP)
For Respondent, Michael J. Herbert, Esq. (Herbert, Van Ness, Cayci & Goodell)

This matter came before the Commissioner of Education on October 2, 2006, through the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Camden City Board of Education ("Camden" or "Board"), wherein the Board sought reversal of the final decision of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association ("NJSIAA" or "Association") placing the Camden High School Basketball Team on probation for two years as the result of an incident at the South Jersey Group III boys' basketball championship contest on March 7, 2006. Following the Board's correction of technical deficiencies in its petition, submission of the record on appeal, and receipt of the NJSIAA's Answer to the Petition, the parties were directed to proceed with briefing in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.3. Camden's brief was duly submitted, and the record before the Commissioner closed on November 13, 2006, upon expiration of the time for filing of the NJSIAA's responsive brief.[1]

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-34, the matter was delegated to the Acting Assistant Commissioner for hearing.

OPERATIVE FACTS

The following facts were found by the NJSIAA, as stated in the July 21, 2006 decision of the NJSIAA Controversies Committee, adopted by the NJSIAA Executive Committee on September 13, 2006:

> 1. At the conclusion of the March 7, 2006 South Jersey Group III boys' basketball championship contest, played at the Voorhees High School gym, Camden player M.M. assaulted Deptford player R.C. while proceeding through the handshaking ritual after that contest.
>
> 2. The conduct of M.M. was unprovoked and resulted in the student being arrested and thereafter being suspended from Camden High School for the remainder of his senior year.
>
> 3. Fortunately, despite the unprovoked assault, there was no involvement of any other team members or the crowd and prompt action by Camden and Voorhees Police personnel prevented any further outbreaks of violence.
>
> 4. The incident occurred while Coach Clarence Turner was at the head of the handshaking line and there is no evidence that he provoked or encouraged the improper conduct by the student.
> 5. On March 9, 2006, Camden High School Principal Al Davis submitted a Corrective Action Plan stating that Clarence Turner would no longer be the basketball coach; that the team would not be allowed to participate in post-season playoff games for two years; that

[1] The NJSIAA did file a reply brief, which bore a face date of November 13, 2006 and was received by the Department on November 15, 2006, consistent with the included certificate of service indicating transmission by regular mail. However, Camden's brief was filed on November 3, 2006 via hand delivery, with a proof of service indicating that counsel for the NJSIAA was served on the same day and in the same manner, so that NJSIAA's brief was due on or before November 13, 2006 pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.3. Having been thus untimely filed, the NJSIAA's brief is not considered herein, nor are Camden's letter of November 17, 2006 – objecting to the brief's inclusion of past agency decisions adverse to Camden – or the NJSIAA's November 22, 2006 response thereto.

Camden High School would not provide students with support buses to away games and M.M. would no longer attend Camden High School.

6. Prior to the first hearing on this matter on March 31, the Board of Education rescinded all the components of the Principal's Corrective Action Plan except for the action taken against the individual student. Ultimately, at the May 16 hearing, the Board advised that Coach Turner was being retained as the basketball coach.

7. The Athletic Director was never consulted by Principal Davis or by the Board concerning any Corrective Action Plan.

8. While the Committee could not conclude that Coach Turner or any personnel at Camden High School were in any way responsible for the unprovoked assault, the Committee believes that continued scrutiny of that program must be maintained, with extra precaution to prevent any reoccurrence of violence of the type that occurred on March 7, 2006.

(Record on Appeal, Item 22 at 4; Item 27[2])

The following additional facts may be adduced from the record:

1. M.M. was "the star of the basketball team," an "impact player" who does not usually "foul out" but did so in the game in question. (Item 20, Transcript of May 16 Hearing, at 35-36, 39) He is classified as Emotionally Disturbed and is subject to "swift and wide mood swings." (Item 15, Letter Brief to NJSIAA, at 1; Item 20, Transcript of May 16 Hearing, at 27) Although an "aggressive" player in basketball and football, in his participation in sports, he has no history of explosive behavior or conduct of the type that occurred on March 7. (Item 20, Transcript of May 16 Hearing, at 26-28, 31-32) It is unclear whether Coach Turner actually read M.M.'s IEP and behavioral plan – it was not mandatory that he do so – although he would have been privy to it as a teaching staff member, in contrast to non-certificated assistant coaches. (Id. at 30, 33-34)

2. The championship game – which Camden lost – lasted for approximately two hours and there were no officially reported incidents of violence or indications of player agitation during that time, nor were any observed by the Camden Athletic Director. (Item 2, Incident Report; Item 20, Transcript of May 16 Hearing, at 14-15, 27) However, the parents of R.C. contended that a number of unaddressed violations occurred, including instances of tripping, punching and elbowing – two of the three involving M.M. – and that these, together with Camden's indifference toward R.C. and his family,[3] evinced an attempt to minimize the seriousness of the situation and avoid its broader implication as an indicator of problems with the basketball program's leadership and eligibility requirements. (Item 7, Letter to NJSIAA)

3. M.M. punched R.C. in the face. R.C. did not retaliate, but responded by trying to get away as M.M. continued to assault him. R.C. was rushed to the hospital, where he was found to have a broken nose and a cut requiring seven stitches. (Item 7, Letter to NJSIAA) M.M. was charged with aggravated assault. (Item 4, News Report)

4. The corrective action plan submitted by Principal Davis (Item 5) was in response to a letter from the NJSIAA, wherein Davis was asked to submit "the course of action which you plan to implement in addressing this situation." In the same letter, the NJSIAA noted that "quick and decisive action" by school administrators and police had limited the violence to the two students involved, that the incident in question was the "sole action of one Camden player," and that the NJSIAA was "confident that the administration of Camden High School [would] take the necessary and proper actions in dealing with this egregious action by this young man." (Item 3, Letter to Principal Davis) Upon receipt of Principal Davis's plan, the NJSIAA indicated that it would be reviewed by the Controversies Committee at the upcoming meeting of March 31. (Item 8, Letter to Principal Davis)

5. Principal Davis's plan had not been previously approved by the Board, which rejected it upon review as too severe and unjustly punitive toward players and personnel who had no role in the incident in question. At the Controversies Committee meeting, the Board proposed to submit instead a modified plan, most likely limited to action against M.M. (Item 10 at 106-109, Transcript of March 31 Hearing) In response to questioning regarding the Board's intentions with respect to Coach Turner, whose tenure was noted to have been marred by several serious incidents, the Board requested time to consider the issue and submit a plan at a later date. (Id. at 114-119, 121-22)

6. NJSIAA confirmed that the Controversies Committee would not make a final decision on Camden's corrective action plan until its May 16 meeting, before which it anticipated that the Board would advise as to "what steps it will take concerning the leadership of the basketball program at the school in the future." (Item 11 at 2, Letter to Counsel for Camden)

[3] There is credible testimony on record that Camden school officials did contact the Deptford School District in an attempt to reach R.C.'s family to apologize and inquire about the young man's recovery, but were turned away as a result of Deptford's concerns about sharing R.C.'s personal information with unauthorized third parties. (Item 10, Transcript of March 31 Hearing, at 120-21)

7. In response, on May 9, 2006 the Board submitted a statement of position, wherein it vigorously argued that the "unfortunate incident" of March 7 was the sole responsibility of a single student, classified as Emotionally Disturbed and subject to "swift and wide mood swings," against whom appropriate action had been taken – in terms of both individual punishment and setting an example to the student body – in that he would be removed from school for the remainder of the year and deprived of participation in prom and graduation activities. Reference was made to news stories where: 1) M.M. claimed he thought R.C. was reaching for his hand to fight him, because he said "What, do you want to fight?" during the game, and M.M. and his family apologized; and 2) a Deptford Assistant Superintendent was quoted as urging that the entire Camden school and community not be blamed for the actions of one student. (Item 15, Letter Brief to NJSIAA at 1-3) The Board further argued that no action could properly be taken against Coach Turner as a result of this incident, since he violated no NJSIAA rule or bylaw, could not be held responsible for a student action completely out of his control – one which he neither incited nor instructed – and cannot be implicated in the present based solely on past transgressions for which he has already "served his time." (Id. at 4-6)

8. Consistent with its statement of position, the Board submitted to NJSIAA, on May 15, 2006, a corrective action plan consisting solely of removal of M.M. from Camden High School, placing him on homebound instruction for the remainder of the school year and precluding him from participating in any prom or graduation activities. (Item 16, Corrective Action Plan)

9. The Board had previously been advised that if it determined not to continue Coach Turner, he should be allowed to attend the May 16 hearing, with counsel, if he so chose (Item 11, April 25 Letter from Counsel for NJSIAA, at 2); however, upon learning that Camden did intend to continue Turner in his position, counsel for NJSIAA requested that he be produced at hearing. (Item 18, May 15 Letter from Counsel for NJSIAA) Coach Turner did not appear at the May 16 hearing due to "short notice." (Item 17, May 15 Letter from Counsel for Camden; Item 19, Hearing Sign-In Sheet)

10. At the hearing, NJSIAA framed the issue from its perspective as concern that there would be "no changes next year, no efforts made beyond what has been done up to the assault to deal with the whole issue of crowd control and violenceWe'd like to zero in onwhat steps are going to be taken to prevent this kind of occurrence in the future?" (Item 20, Transcript of May 16 Hearing, at 7-8) The Board responded that crowd control and violence were "not a part of this incident," and that, indeed, the district had been praised for its control of the situation once the assault occurred; thus, there were no issues of crowd or student body control before the Committee, and the severe punishment meted out to the individual student involved was the appropriate response on the part of the district. (Id. at 9-11)

11. The district's sole witness – Athletic Director Mark Pease – testified that the assault was completely unforeseeable, but that his policy is to be prepared for any eventuality through the presence of police officers, who – in this instance – did, in fact, keep the incident from escalating beyond the two participants. He further testified to the importance he places on sportsmanship with his coaches and students, and to his respect for Coach Turner, with whom he has had no problems in the two years he has served as full-time Athletic Director. (Item 20, Transcript of May 16 Hearing, at 16-18, 24-25, 31-32, 37-38)

12. Under questioning from the Committee, Director Pease testified that, for reasons he cannot explain, he is generally left out of decision-making with respect to personnel issues affecting the basketball program (Item 20, Transcript of May 16 Hearing, at 25-26, 28-29), and that, although he is exploring ways of evaluating coaches, the district at present has no official written evaluation mechanism (Id. at 24).

Following the hearings on March 31 and May 16, 2006, the NJSIAA Controversies Committee issued a written decision on July 21, 2006 (Item 22) which made findings of fact as set forth above and concluded that the Camden team must be placed on probation for two years, during which time it would not be precluded from competition or qualification for the State championship, but would be required to submit specific progress reports and provide for Athletic Director attendance at appropriate NJSIAA seminars and workshops. It did so because – notwithstanding that the assault in question was found to be attributable solely to M.M., with Coach Turner, the team and Camden personnel having no responsibility for its commission – the NJSIAA deemed it clear from the record that tighter supervision of the Camden basketball program was necessary in light of its history of past problems, the Board's overruling of the official (Principal Davis) responsible for the team's activity under NJSIAA Bylaws, the absence of mechanisms for supervising and evaluating coaching staff, and the limited-to-nonexistent involvement of the Athletic Director in the conduct of the program. (Id. at 5; see also Item 20, Transcript of May 16 Hearing, at 41-42)

Camden duly appealed the decision of the Controversies Committee to the NJSIAA Executive Committee, arguing that probation was not warranted because the team's past history could not be used to justify present punishment when there was no finding of violation of NJSIAA rules by any member of the Camden school administration or basketball team other than M.M. Thus, according to the Board, the decision wrongly punished individuals who were found by NJSIAA itself to have played no role in the incident in question. (Item 24, Letter-Brief of Appeal)

At the September 13, 2006 hearing of the Executive Committee, Camden consistently argued the impropriety of placing its basketball team on probation – regardless of how inconsequential some might have perceived that penalty to be – based on "past history in terms of incidences with Coach Turner" rather than on present facts. The Board proffered: "...in America, you have to define who did something wrong if you're going to punish them[and] in this particular situation, your Controversies Committee and everybody has said that [Camden High School, Coach Turner and Athletic Director Pease] did everything [they were] supposed to do" and that "the only person who did something wrong" was M.M., who was punished by the school district to a degree commensurate with the seriousness of his actions. (Item 26, Transcript of September 13 Hearing, quotations at 10-11) The Executive Committee was unpersuaded, voting unanimously (with one abstention) to adopt the decision of the Controversies Committee (Id. at 77), and stressing that the form of probation imposed in this instance neither prevented team participation in games nor sanctioned any official, but was rather a constructive action aimed at ensuring greater communication and collaboration on the part of the Board, administration and athletic staff in their conduct of the basketball program. The Committee memorialized that decision in a letter of the same date. (Item 27)

CAMDEN'S POSITION ON APPEAL

On appeal before the Commissioner, Camden contends that the final decision of the NJSIAA must be overturned as arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable, and unsupported by substantial credible evidence in the record. Relying largely on arguments made throughout proceedings before the NJSIAA, Camden reiterates that there is neither evidence nor a finding that Camden High School violated any NJSIAA rule or regulation, and that past history cannot be used to find present fault or penalize innocent parties for the unapproved and unexpected acts of one individual. Indeed, the Board proffers, in order to affirm the NJSIAA's decision, the Commissioner "would have to find that the NJSIAA found fault in the entire Camden High School basketball program for the March 7, 2006 incident, essentially placing culpability of (sic) this vicious assault on each member of the Camden High School basketball program, its coach, or the school, [which] review of the record [clearly] indicatesis not the case." (Camden's Brief at 7-8; see also 19-20)

Camden stresses that NJSIAA's own findings expressly exonerated Coach Turner, team members other than M.M., and district personnel from any responsibility for the assault or any violation of regulation, and that its own bylaws (Article IX, Section 3) state that "Unsportsmanlike conduct shall subject the individual to disciplinary action

[and the] member school with which the individual is associated may also be subject to disciplinary action if it is found that the member school's policies, actions, or failure to act, substantially contributed to the individual's conduct." (emphasis supplied by Camden) Thus, according to Camden, in the absence of a determination that the school or its personnel instructed, provided policy or substantially contributed to a player's unsportsmanlike conduct – which in the case of M.M. was shown to be both unexpected and unpreventable – the school cannot be penalized for that individual player's actions, and the NJSIAA's decision to impose a two-year probationary period on the Camden team is both unsupported by the facts and contrary to NJSIAA regulation. (Camden's Brief at 9-12; see also 14-16, 19-20)[4]

The Board further contends that the NJSIAA improperly based its decision on the Camden team's past history rather than its present innocence, thereby violating the underlying intent of the New Jersey Rules of Evidence, N.J.R. Evid. 404(b), "'Evidence of other crimes, wrongs, or acts is not admissible to prove the disposition of a person in order to show that he acted in conformity therewith.' " According to the Board, this rule, which is reflected in decisional law clearly establishing that past wrongs cannot be admitted into evidence and used to prove a defendant's guilt of present charges,[5] recognizes that, while past wrongdoing may be highly probative, it also encourages fact-finders to ignore the facts and issues presently before them and rely instead upon information irrelevant to the current matter, as the NJSIAA did here in punishing

[4] In support of its position on appeal, Camden additionally analogizes this matter to the case of Nydegger v. Don Bosco Preparatory High School, 202 N.J. Super. 535, 537 (Law Div. 1985), a tort matter wherein it was held that "in the absence of instruction by a coach to one of his players to commit a wrongful act...a coach is not responsible to a player on an opposing team who is injured," and to a recent incident in professional football where a star player was severely penalized for an on-field incident, while no other team members or personnel were punished. (Camden's Brief at 10-12) individuals who played no part in the March 7, 2006 incident based solely on the team's past history. (Camden's Brief at 12-16; see also 19-20)

Finally, Camden argues that it acted properly in rescinding the unapproved corrective action plan submitted by Principal Davis and replacing it with a Board-approved plan that appropriately (and severely) penalized M.M. for his unacceptable actions without taking action against blameless personnel and team members. Notwithstanding the "confusing" language of NJSIAA bylaws with regard to the role of the principal in district athletic programs, the Board avers, N.J.S.A. 18A:10-1 and 18A:11-1 make it clear that the district board of education is the ultimate authority in matters of operating district schools and enforcing and maintaining State regulations, policies and resolutions, including those of the NJSIAA where the board has voted to participate in that organization. Thus, Camden concludes, Principal Davis erred in submitting a plan without Board approval, and the Board exercised its lawful authority in overriding his determination based on its own finding that M.M. was the sole responsible party and that NJSIAA regulations required no corrective action other than appropriate sanction of M.M. (Camden's Brief at 16-18; see also 19-20)

DETERMINATION

The NJSIAA is a voluntary association of public and nonpublic schools, organized pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3, to oversee athletics for its member schools in accordance with its Constitution, Bylaws, rules and regulations, which are approved by the Commissioner of Education and adopted annually by the member schools. Upon adoption by the member schools, these rules and regulations are deemed school policy and are enforced by internal procedures of the NJSIAA.

It is well-established that the Commissioner's scope of review in matters involving NJSIAA determinations is appellate in nature. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3; Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 182, 188. That is, the Commissioner may not overturn an action by the NJSIAA in applying its rules, absent a demonstration by the petitioner that the Association applied such rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. B.C. v. Cumberland Regional School District, 220 N.J. Super. 214, 231-232 (App. Div. 1987); Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 297 (App. Div. 1960). Nor may the Commissioner substitute his or her own judgment for that of the NJSIAA, even if he or she were to decide differently in a de novo hearing, where due process has been provided and where there is adequate basis for the decision reached by the NJSIAA Committees. Dam Jin Koh and Hong Jun Kim v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 259; see, also, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4(a).

This standard has been codified to provide clear notice to the public and regulated parties:[6]

> 1. If the NJSIAA has granted a petitioner due process and its decision is supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record as a whole, the Commissioner shall not substitute his judgment for that of the NJSIAA, even if the Commissioner might judge otherwise in a de novo review.
> 2. The Commissioner shall not overturn NJSIAA's application of its own rules absent a demonstration by the petitioner that such rules were applied in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5(a).

The New Jersey courts have also spoken as to the narrow scope of "arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable" in the context of challenges such as that herein:

[6] See 31 N.J.R. 4173(a) and 32 N.J.R. 1177(a).

> In the law, "arbitrary" and "capricious" means having no rational basis.  Arbitrary and capricious action of administrative bodies means willful and unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances. Where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached. (citations omitted) Bayshore Sew. Co. v. Dep't of Envt. Protection, 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199-200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974).

Thus, the Board in this matter bears a heavy burden, and, upon careful consideration of the record in light of the prescribed standard of review, the Acting Assistant Commissioner cannot find that the NJSIAA action here at issue should be overturned as unreasonable or unsupported by credible evidence. To the contrary, the Acting Assistant Commissioner is satisfied that the decision of the NJSIAA to place the Camden High School basketball team on two years' probation as a result of the incident at the South Jersey Group III boys' basketball championship contest on March 7, 2006 was a reasonable exercise of the Association's authority and its responsibility for oversight of interscholastic athletic activity statewide, undertaken after affording full due process to the Board and grounded in the undisputed facts at hand.

While the Board persists in characterizing the NJSIAA's action as an unwarranted punishment of innocent students and staff and an impermissible finding of present guilt based on past transgressions, it is clear that the Association's purpose in imposing a two-year period of required reporting was not to punish individuals, but rather to compel the Camden Board – which consistently took the stance that it did not have a problem beyond the bad behavior of one student – to work constructively with the Association in addressing demonstrated flaws and gaps in the supervision and operation of its basketball program. All of these – the lack of communication and cooperation between the Board and Principal, the circumscribed role of the Athletic Director, and the absence of a formal system of supervision and evaluation with clear expectations as to the duties of coaching staff – had been identified in the present proceeding, and all were likely to have enabled in whole or part the incident of March 7 and the Board's limited reaction to it.

For instance, it is uncontroverted that a student was admitted to the team whose disability can have behavioral manifestations. Yet there was no policy that the team's coach – a teaching staff member – be required to read the student's IEP to determine whether there was relevant information regarding possible behavior, or strategies to address such behavior. This is quite apart from the very different question of whether onsite officials would be able to maintain crowd control – as they fortunately were here – and prevent further injuries once an incident had occurred. Nor did the Board give any indication that it intended in any way to reconsider its practices and procedures in light of the March 7 incident and the NJSIAA's obvious concerns regarding it, nor to better integrate the Athletic Director and High School Principal – key local officials in matters involving interscholastic athletic activity – into future decisions about the operations of the basketball team.

Given its responsibility to do everything possible to ensure the safety and good sportsmanship of student athletes, as well as staff and spectators, it was not at all unreasonable – given the facts educed at hearing and faced with Camden's insistence that nothing needed to change – for the NJSIAA to take the position that systemic adjustments were needed in the supervision of the Camden basketball program and to direct that the district report regularly to the Association on its progress in this regard. While awareness that the district had a history of past problems clearly factored into the decisions of both the Controversies Committee and the Executive Committee, it is equally clear that such awareness was not the determinative basis for them.

Accordingly, the Camden Board of Education having failed to sustain its burden of establishing that the NJSIAA's decision in this matter was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable, or contrary to law, the Acting Assistant Commissioner upholds that decision and dismisses the Petition of Appeal.

Charles I. Auffant, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: July 26, 2005 Decided: August 1, 2005

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

On or about December 31, 2003, petitioner, George Watson, Jr., filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education, alleging that he was improperly terminated from employment in violation of state and federal laws against discrimination. He further alleged harassment and the violation of various education laws. On or about January 23, 2004, respondents filed an answer denying the allegations and asserting that the Commissioner of Education lacked jurisdiction to hear this matter. Petitioner filed an amended petition of appeal on February 9, 2004, and respondents filed an answer on March 3, 2004. On March 1, 2004, the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

The matter was assigned to the undersigned on April 5, 2004, and a telephone prehearing conference scheduled for June 7, 2004. The prehearing conference was held on June 8, 2004, at which time the issues were discussed. During a telephone conference on July 13, 2004, a settlement conference was scheduled for July 30, 2004. The scheduled settlement conference was adjourned to August 3, 2004 because petitioner was hospitalized. On that day, the parties agreed to settle this matter and petitioner signed the Stipulation of Settlement and Release. Despite repeated requests to respondents for the signed agreement, it was not filed and, thus, the case was scheduled for a hearing on July 26, 2005 at the OAL. On that date, counsel for respondents appeared and signed the Stipulation on behalf of all respondents as their representative. He also advised that petitioner had recently died and that he had been in contact with petitioner's son, who is the executor of the estate. He agreed that the estate would receive the $3,000 payment provided in the Stipulation, if the payment had not previously been made to petitioner. However, it is clear that the Stipulation of Settlement and Releases have been signed by all the necessary parties and resolve this matter.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement, as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.
2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I APPROVE the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

GEORGE WATSON, JR. Plaintiff, vs. MARION P. THOMAS CHARTER SCHOOL, KAREN THOMAS, DELORES A. THOMPSON, MS. BOLES, THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES Defendants.	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION, STATE OF NEW JERSEY AGENCY DOCKET NO. 475-12/03 OAL DOCKET NO. EDU 1915-04 STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND RELEASE

It is agreed by and among George Watson (referred to as " Mr. Watson"), the Marion P. Thomas Charter School, Karen Thomas, Delores A. Thompson, Ms. Boles, The Board of Trustees of the Marion P. Thomas Charter School that this matter shall be settled upon the following terms:

1. The parties agree to the following in settlement of all claims, including claims for attorneys' fees, which Mr. Watson may have against the defendants, their present and former members, officers, employees, agents and/or representatives, successors and the estates and/or heirs thereof, their insurers and re-insurers:

A. Marion P. Thomas Charter School will pay Mr. Watson Three Thousand Dollars ($ 3,000.00) within five business days from the receipt of the decision of the Commissioner of Education. Mr. Watson agrees that if it is determined that taxes, penalties or interest are due from him or the Board on this amount or any portion thereof, he will be solely responsible for payment of same.

B. Mr. Watson will withdraw his case against defendants and file a voluntary dismissal with prejudice in OAL Docket # EDU 1915-04

C. Mr. Watson will withdraw his case against defendants and file a voluntary dismissal with prejudice in the matter he filed with the Public Employees Relations Committee (PERC) Docket # CI-2004-038

D. Defendants will supply Mr. Watson with a letter stating that his employment record has been adjusted to reflect that he was in good standing at the time of his termination.

E. Mr. Watson will execute a General Release and Waiver in favor of all defendants ("General Release"), in the form annexed as Attachment A, and an Acknowledgment in the form annexed as Attachment B. Mr. Watson expressly acknowledges that this Agreement and the General Release are intended to extinguish all known claims which he may have against any person or entity identified as a Releasee in the General Release, resulting from anything which has happened up to the date of execution of the General Release and which were or could have been asserted in George Watson v. Marion P. Thomas Charter School, Karen Thomas, Delores A. Thompson, Ms. Boles, The Board of Trustees of the Marion P. Thomas Charter School, Docket No. EDU 1915-04

F. Notwithstanding any provision in this Agreement, Mr. Watson does not release or waive any claim, cause of action, or right to sue arising after this Agreement and General Release are executed by her, and which may arise under the terms of this Agreement, or arising from any right to vested pension benefits that Mr. Watson may have. The Marion P. Thomas Charter School shall pay to the N.J. State Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund (N.J.S.A. 18A:66-32, employer duties), the required amount for Mr. George Watson, Jr., a member of the plan, of employer contribution based on his reduced salary prior to termination.

2. The parties and their attorneys agree that, except as expressly provided below, each of them will keep confidential the terms of this settlement. It is further agreed that the parties and their attorneys may state only that the matter "was concluded" or "was settled".

3. It is understood that neither the execution of this Agreement nor any other action taken by the Defendants in connection with this settlement constitutes an admission by the Defendants or any person or entity identified herein or in the General Release as a Releasee, of any violation of any law, duty or obligation, or that any decision or action with respect to Mr. Watson's employment was unwarranted. The parties have entered into this Agreement solely to compromise disputed claims. No findings of fact have been made or issued by the Court on the merits of the claims in this action, and no party purports to be the prevailing party in this action.

4. The Defendants, their agents, officers and/or employees agree to provide any prospective employer of Mr. Watson with a neutral reference verifying only his employment dates and his rate of pay.

5. This Agreement and the General Release and Acknowledgment referred to herein set forth the entire agreement between Mr. Watson and the Defendants. This Agreement supersedes any and all prior agreements or understandings, if any, between the parties regarding the subject matter of this Agreement.

6. All parties and their counsel participated in the negotiations and drafting of the Agreement as equals. No particular party shall be deemed to be the drafter of this Agreement, and the parties agree that the Agreement shall not be construed against any particular party. The provisions of this Agreement are severable and, if any part is found to be unenforceable, the remaining portions shall remain fully valid and enforceable. This Agreement shall survive the termination of any arrangements contained herein.

7. This Agreement shall be governed by the law of the State of New Jersey.

HOWARD SOLOMON,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
PASSAIC COUNTY EDUCATIONAL SERVICES COMMISSION, PASSAIC COUNTY	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Former Superintendent of Passaic County Educational Services Commission (ESC) contended, among other allegations, that he was improperly terminated from employment in contravention of statute and the parties' contractual agreement. Petitioner claimed, inter alia, entitlement to automatic renewal because the ESC did not provide two years' notice of its intent not to renew his employment as required by contract. The ESC argued that the contractual two-year notice provision was invalid and that it had complied with the one-year statutory requirement.

In May 2004, the ALJ issued an order granting partial summary decision in favor of petitioner on the question of the two year notice provision in the contract, concluding that it was valid and enforceable pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20. Although petitioner has been reinstated to his position as of January 3, 2005, the ALJ found that he was improperly and prematurely terminated from his employment from July 1, 2003 through this date. The ALJ ordered that: the petitioner be immediately reappointed, retroactively, to a new five year term commencing July 1, 2003; and the ESC pay petitioner any back pay due under the terms of the new retroactive contract, including all benefits and emoluments to which he is entitled.

Upon careful review and consideration of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner is entitled to retroactive employment as Superintendent – along with back pay, benefits and emoluments – as a consequence of the renewal of his employment contract, by operation of law, for the period July 1, 2003 through June 30, 2008, and adopts the Initial Decision with the following modification: payment to the petitioner shall be subject to offset by any income received from substituted employment and/or unemployment compensation during the term at issue. Commissioner found no support for the granting of pre- or post-judgment interest.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 294-9/02

HOWARD SOLOMON,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
PASSAIC COUNTY EDUCATIONAL SERVICES COMMISSION, PASSAIC COUNTY	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions of respondent, Passaic County Educational Services Commission (ESC), were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and fully considered by the Commissioner in making his determination herein. Due to a substitution of attorney,[1] petitioner requested and was granted an extension of time, until Monday, August 8, 2005, within which to file reply exceptions. Although petitioner's reply exceptions were dated August 8, they were not filed with the agency until August 9, 2005, thereby rendering them untimely. (N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4) Consequently, this submission was not considered herein.

Exceptions of the ESC essentially recast and reiterate its arguments advanced since the inception of this matter, i.e., that since the ESC provided the minimally required notice pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20, thereby satisfying the statutory requirement, and because automatic employment was not specified in the contract as a remedy for violation of the contractual 2-year notice provision, the ESC is not obligated to abide by the statutory requirement for reappointment. Again, it charges that to find to the contrary ignores "well established law prohibiting courts from rewriting better contracts for parties." (ESC's Exceptions at 4) Finding this argument to have been fully considered and resolved by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) in her prior Partial Initial Decision in this matter, which was clarified and adopted by the Commissioner and the State Board, and again clearly explained and resolved in the instant Initial Decision, the Commissioner finds any additional discussion on this issue unwarranted.

The ESC further objects to the ALJ's failure to address the question of mitigation. In this regard it proffers:

> [r]espondent's papers and oral argument noted that even though petitioner claimed that he is a highly qualified and experienced superintendent, petitioner did not present the Court with any evidence of mitigation. Despite the lack of mitigation evidence, the July 15, 2005 decision not only fails to address this point, but the decision also fails to adjust petitioner's damages.
> (ESC's Exceptions at 4)

Upon careful review and consideration of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the determination of the ALJ that petitioner is entitled to retroactive employment as Superintendent of Schools – along with back pay, benefits and emoluments – as a consequence of the renewal of his employment contract, by operation of law, for the period July 1, 2003 through June 30, 2008. The Initial Decision is, therefore, adopted, as modified below.

Initially, although the ALJ's decision indicates that oral argument was conducted in this matter (Initial Decision at 2), presumably – at a minimum – to elicit testimony with respect to the issue of petitioner's mitigation of damages, the Initial Decision contains no discussion, nor does the record provide any details, on this topic. In this regard, the Commissioner observes that petitioner claims entitlement to back pay as a consequence of his improper termination pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-30, which specifies:

> Any person holding office, position or employment in the public school system of the state, who shall be illegally dismissed or suspended therefrom shall be entitled to compensation for the period covered by the illegal dismissal or suspension.

The court in Mullen v. Board of Education of Jefferson Township, 81 N.J. Super. 151 (App. Div. 1963), in reviewing N.J.S.A. 18:5-49.1, the precursor to this statutory provision, found that "the Legislature must be taken as having meant that all claims made by illegally dismissed persons under [this statute] be subject to the common law rule of mitigation of damages, in light of the plain meaning carried by the word 'compensation'," such being the case because damages under this statute have been determined to be "compensatory" in nature and, thus, an individual should not be awarded more damages than actually sustained. (at 159) Therefore, under common law principles, the within petitioner was under a duty to mitigate his damages during the period of his improper termination by making reasonable efforts to secure alternative employment, notwithstanding that he was improperly terminated from his position. See Zielenski v. Board of Education of the Town of Guttenberg, Hudson County, 1981 S.L.D. 759; White v. Township of North Bergen, 77 N.J. 538 (1978); Miele v. McGuire, 31 N.J. 339 (1960). Petitioner's obligation in this respect is not conditioned on any action on the part of the Board or any other individual or entity involved in adjudication of the case in chief. Consequently, the Commissioner finds and determines that the Board is entitled to offset from petitioner's award any money he received from alternative employment and/or unemployment compensation during the period of his illegal termination,[2] thereby according petitioner the full measure of his actual damages. To find otherwise would violate public policy as petitioner would be provided compensation in excess of his economic loss at public expense. However, while it is without doubt that the amount of petitioner's award must be reduced by his actual earnings during the time of his improper removal, (Goodman v. London Metals Exchange, Inc., 86 N.J. 19 (1981)), it is, likewise, well settled that a charge of failure to mitigate, which apparently is the crux of the Board's charge here, is an affirmative defense and the burden to demonstrate such failure rests with the employer. See Goodman; Zielenski, supra. It is not sufficient for an employer to merely raise lack of mitigation as an issue. As stated in Cartin v. Continental Homes of New Hampshire, "Such burden [of failure to mitigate] is not met by merely arguing the possibility and, absent concrete evidence, the issue is merely speculative." 360 A. 2d. 96, 134 Vt. 362 (1976) (Zielenski at 764) Rather, as stated by the Supreme Court in Goodman, supra,

[2] Although the Board is entitled to offset petitioner's monetary award by any unemployment compensation he may have received, it has an obligation, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 43:21-5(b), to reimburse the Department of Labor any monies so offset.

> Mitigation  is an affirmative defense and the burden of proving the appropriateness of its application rests on the wrongdoer, in this case the employer  [who] may establish a prima facie case by first showing that comparable employment opportunities were available and,  that there were other suitable [available] jobs . (at 40-41)

Here, the Commissioner notes that the Board raised the question of failure to mitigate in its papers below but failed to sustain its burden under the Goodman case by bringing forth facts serving to demonstrate that comparable job opportunities were available to petitioner in similar types of employment, with reasonable and diligent efforts. Thus, the Board cannot now complain that it was denied a favorable ruling on this issue.

Finally, the Commissioner declines to grant petitioner's request for interest in this matter. With respect to pre-judgment interest, the Commissioner concludes that the record before him does not support a finding that respondent's actions were taken in bad faith or in deliberate violation of the law (N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(c)1). As to post-judgment interest, such a request is premature, as the 60-day timeline relative to the granting of this interest does not even begin to toll until the Commissioner renders his decision in the instant matter. (N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(c)2).

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL, as modified above, is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

(Lindabury, McCormick & Estabrook, attorneys)

Record Closed: April 16, 2005 Decided: July 15, 2005

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Howard Solomon contends Respondent, Passaic County Educational Services Commission, improperly and prematurely terminated his employment as superintendent in contravention of law and the parties' agreement.

On November 27, 2002, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

Respondent applied for summary decision; Petitioner filed a cross application. On May 10, 2004, I entered an order granting partial summary decision in favor of Petitioner and denying the application of Respondent. That order concluded the two year notice provision contained in the contract between these parties was valid and enforceable. The Commissioner affirmed that determination on June 24, 2004; the State Board affirmed the determination of the Commissioner.

The parties then sought resolution of the remaining issues in the matter. To that end, on January 16, 2005, Petitioner filed an application for summary decision. Respondent replied and made a cross application for summary disposition. In addition, Respondent requested oral argument and, over the objections of Petitioner, the request was granted.

At the time of oral argument, I requested the parties to file further submissions and the record closed on April 16, 2005 upon my receipt and review of those submissions. The forty-five day period to issue an initial decision expired on May 31, 2005. During the months of April and May, I was assigned a number of cases which carry statutory deadlines for hearing and disposition, including two special education cases requiring multi-day hearings and a teacher tenure case. Accordingly, I requested and received an extension of time to file this decision until July 15, 2005.

FINDINGS OF FACT

In granting Petitioner's application for partial summary decision, I made specific findings of fact which are set forth in full in the order. Those findings of fact are incorporated into this initial decision and made a part hereof as if they were set forth in full.

In addition, based on the record before me I make the following additional findings of fact in this matter.

1. Petitioner has been reinstated to his position as Superintendent of Passaic County Educational Services Commission as of January 3, 2005.

2. Petitioner, Dr. Solomon, was improperly and prematurely terminated from his employment in contravention of both the statute and the agreement of the parties.[1]

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

Summary decision is appropriate when the papers and discovery, together with any affidavits in support or against the application, show there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. When an application is made and supported, an adverse party must set forth specific facts showing there is a genuine issue, which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. In this case, the parties have made cross applications. There are two issues to be resolved. The first is whether the provision in the contract providing for an automatic one year extension of the contract to include the 2003-04 school year is valid. The second is whether the Petitioner is entitled to a new contract for the same duration as the previous one.

Turning first to the issue of the extension of the previous contract to include the 2003-04, as Petitioner correctly notes, the Commissioner of Education has determined that automatic extensions, such as the one here, for one year, are illegal and have no force or effect on the remainder of the contract. John Howard, Jr., v. Bd. of Educ. of East Orange, C.#176-01 (June 5,2001) (slip op. at 16), aff'd State Bd. of Educ. (November 7, 2001), aff'd Superior Court, App. Div. Dkt. No. A-1699-01T1 (unpublished) (October 11, 2002).

[1] Although I did find Respondent was in compliance with the statutory notice requirement, for the reasons set forth in full in this decision, that compliance does not affect the ultimate determination of the issues herein.

I take note of Respondent's assertion that unpublished decisions are not binding; they are, however, persuasive. In this case, the provision permits the addition of one year to a five year contract unless the Board notified the Superintendent before June 30, 1999. The operative statute provides a board may only appoint a superintendent by contract for a minimum of three years and a maximum of five years. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-15. Since Petitioner already enjoys a five year contract, extending it for one year is impermissible under the specific language of the statute. For the same reason, the assertion that the extension operated as a separate, new contract must also fail. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE the one year extension provision is invalid.

The savings clause contained in the contract provides protection for the remainder of the contract.

Turning now to the other issue to be resolved, i.e., whether the Petitioner is entitled to an automatic reappointment of the same duration as the previous contract. Petitioner, the applicant herein, asserts the determination that the two year notice provision is valid and enforceable entitles him to a new contract for the same duration as the previous one, pursuant to the statute. Furthermore, he seeks a determination that he is entitled to back pay, benefits and emoluments of employment, including interest.

Respondent, on the other hand, continues to assert that Petitioner is not entitled to employment beyond June 30, 2003, the expiration date of his employment contract and, consequently, since he is not entitled to employment beyond that date, he is not entitled to receive back pay, benefits, or other emoluments for the same period. In support of its position, Respondent contends the court should not invoke the statutory remedy because Respondent did not breach the statute and the court cannot write a better contract for the parties.

The crux of Respondent's position is, apparently, the finding of fact in the order of May 2004 that the Commission had complied with the statutory one year notice requirement. Since, according to the position of the Respondent, the contract in question is silent on the remedy for failure to provide the notice provided for in the contract and Respondent has not breached the statute, the statutory remedy of automatic renewal subject to the same terms, conditions and duration as the preceding contract should not be invoked.

This position completely ignores not only the determination of this court, but the determination of the Commissioner and the State Board affirming this court's conclusion. In determining to adopt the Partial Initial Decision in this matter, the Commissioner states:

> . . . , the operative statute provides a nonnegotiable framework requiring both notice to the superintendent and reappointment to the superintendency upon the board's failure to provide it; all that is left to contractual agreement is how much more than one year's notice the parties may additionally choose to require. Given the plain language of the statute, it is disingenuous to argue that, since the ESC did give petitioner the minimally required statutory notice and automatic reemployment was not specified in the contractual agreement, the ESC is under no obligation to honor the statutory requirement for reappointment; . . . .[2] (Emphasis in the original).

The language of the Commissioner's decision is clear and unambiguous; the statute requires notice and reappointment to the superintendency upon the board's failure to provide to that notice. Moreover, clearly, the Commissioner dismissed as disingenuous the argument that since ESC did provide the minimally required notice and automatic reemployment was not specified in the contract, Respondent is under no obligation to honor the statutory requirement for reappointment.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE Petitioner is entitled to employment under a contract of the same duration as the contract at issue here. The duration of that contract was five years and the termination date was June 30, 2003. Accordingly, I FIND Petitioner is entitled to retroactive employment under a contract which commenced on July 1, 2003 and continues for five years thereafter. I further CONCLUDE, therefore, Petitioner is entitled to back pay and all benefits and emoluments accruing to him pursuant to the contract of employment under which he was serving at the time Respondent improperly terminated his employment.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER Petitioner be and hereby is immediately reappointed, retroactively, to a new term commencing on July 1, 2003 and continuing for five years, to June 30, 2008, pursuant to the same terms and conditions as contained in the previous contract. I further ORDER Respondent to pay Petitioner any and all back pay due under the terms of the new, retroactive contract, and, further to ascribe to him all benefits and emoluments accruing to him pursuant to the contract of employment under which he is serving.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." SYNOPSIS

Petitioner filed a Pro Se Residency Appeal challenging the Board's residency determination that her children, G.G., G.G. and V.G., were not eligible for a free education in the Township of West Orange School District. Respondent Board filed an answer to the petition, and asserted a counterclaim for payment of tuition by petitioner to the District for the unlawful attendance of the minor children during the 2004-2005 school year. Petitioner subsequently failed to appear at the scheduled OAL hearing, offering no explanation.

The ALJ concluded that the petitioner, by virtue of her failure to appear at hearing, failed to carry her burden of proof, and therefore that the Board is entitled to tuition in the amount of $14,633, representing the pro-rated tuition fee for the period of ineligible attendance of her three children, September 8, 2004 to January 13, 2005. The ALJ ordered the petition dismissed with prejudice.

The Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision of the OAL in this matter for the reasons expressed therein.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner, who did not appear for the hearing in this matter, has failed to carry her burden of proof that G.G., G.G. and V.G. are entitled to a free public education in the West Orange Township School District. The Commissioner further agrees with the grant of the Board of Education's counterclaim for tuition in the amount of $14,633.00 for the 80 days of G.G., G.G. and V.G.'s ineligible attendance in the schools of the West Orange Township School District from September 8, 2004 to January 13, 2005.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1131-05

AGENCY DKT. NO. 403-11/04

N.G. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILDREN, G.G., G.G., AND V.G.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,

Respondent.

No appearance by or on behalf of petitioner

Stephen J. Christiano, Esq., for respondent.

Record Closed: July 28, 2005 Decided: August 1, 2005

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

On November 15, 2004, petitioner, N.G., filed a petition before the Commissioner of Education to compel the respondent, Board of Education of the Township of West Orange (Board), to provide her children, G.G., G.G., and V.G. with a free public education in the West Orange schools pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.

On December 13, 2004, the Board filed its answer to the petition and counterclaim for reimbursement of tuition. On January 11, 2005, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A hearing was scheduled on July 27, 2005 at 9:00 a.m. at the Office of Administrative Law, 33 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey. At the scheduled time, petitioner failed to appear and never contacted OAL to explain her non-appearance.

The record shows that N.G. was served with a Notice of Plenary Hearing, dated March 10, 2005, at the address she provided to the Board, to the Department of Education, and to the Office of Administrative Law. The Notice set forth the date, time and place of the hearing.

Respondent's attorney appeared and presented evidence in support of the Board's uncontested counterclaim for tuition. The record closed on July 28, 2005 when petitioner failed to explain the reason for her non-appearance within twenty-four hours. N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(a).

The burden of proof is on the parent to show that the children were entitled to a free public education in the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(2). Since the parent, N.G., failed to appear, I CONCLUDE that she has failed to carry her burden and is entitled to no relief as a result of her appeal.

I, therefore, CONCLUDE that the Board is entitled to tuition "on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local Board multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(2). This amount is to be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced. Ibid.

Josefa Lopez, Registrar for the school district, testified to the following: business records and provided the following evidence. Based upon her testimony, I FIND that:

1. G.G., the oldest child in this matter, was enrolled in the West Orange High School from September 8, 2004 to January 13, 2005 while ineligible. After this date, his mother, N.G., gave custody of the child to her brother and sister-in-law who reside in West Orange. The Board only seeks tuition for the eighty-day period of G.G.'s ineligible attendance. The daily cost per pupil in the high school was $70.30 during the relevant time period, so that the Board is owed $5624 in tuition for G.G. (80 x $70.30). G.G. has graduated from the high school.

2. The middle child, G.G., was enrolled in the West Orange Roosevelt Middle School from September 8, 2004 to January 13, 2005 while ineligible. After January 13, 2005, the child left the West Orange school district and, to the best knowledge of the Board, is now attending school in Jersey City. The daily per pupil cost for attendance at the Roosevelt Middle School was $59.10 during the relevant time period. The Board is owed tuition in the amount of $4728 for the eighty days of G.G.'s ineligible attendance (80 x $59.10).

3. The youngest child, V.G., was enrolled in the West Orange Hazel Elementary School from September 8, 2004 to January 13, 2005 while ineligible. After January 13, 2005, this child also left the West Orange school district and, to the best knowledge of the Board, is attending school in Jersey City. The daily per pupil cost for attendance at the Hazel Elementary School was $53.51 during the relevant time period. The Board is owed tuition in the amount of $4281 for the eighty days of V.G.'s ineligible attendance (80 x $53.51).

4. The total tuition due to the Board is $14,633 ($5624 + 4728 + 4281).

Based upon the above, I CONCLUDE that N.G. has failed to prove that her children, G.G., G.G., and V.G., were entitled to a free public education in the Township of West Orange between September 8, 2004 and January 13, 2005 and, therefore,

N.G. is liable to the Board for tuition in the amount of $14,633 for this period of their ineligible attendance.

ORDER

It is, therefore, ORDERED that N.G. pay respondent tuition in the amount of $14,633, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), for her children's ineligible attendance in the district's schools. It is further ORDERED that her petition is hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE because there is no relief to which she is entitled.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the June 28, 2005 Order of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), which was re-mailed to the parties on July 20, 2005 have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

In reviewing this matter, it is noted that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) first issued the Order on June 28, 2005, recommending denial of petitioner's application for emergent relief and concluding:

> Should petitioner Control wish to press claims made against the School District and Pritchard for conduct that was to have occurred in 2003, counsel must contact the Clerk of the Office of Administrative Law within 14 days from the date of this decision and a hearing date will be arranged. Otherwise, the matter shall be considered moot and will be dismissed. (Order of June 28, 2004 at 5)

The ALJ's recommended Order was subsequently adopted by the Commissioner on June 20, 2005 with instructions that the matter "shall continue at the OAL for further proceedings on the merits of petitioner's claim as may be deemed necessary."

The OAL file does not contain any documents or correspondence filed after issuance of the ALJ's recommended June 28 Order. Thus, it appears that petitioner did not notify the ALJ of its intent to pursue its claim within the 14 days specified by the ALJ. However, in that the Order mailed to the parties on July 20, 2005 is exactly the same Order which disposed of the emergent relief request noted above and does not indicate the ALJ's conclusion with respect to whether this matter should be dismissed as moot, the Commissioner cannot conclude that the ALJ's Order constitutes an Initial Decision within the meaning of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.1(b), which requires the issuance of an Initial Decision that is final in form and fully dispositive of all issues in the case.

Accordingly, this matter is remanded to the OAL for issuance of an Initial Decision in this matter, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.1 et seq.

Record Closed: June 21, 2005 Decided: June 28, 2005

BEFORE DANIEL B. MCKEOWN, ALJ (t/a):

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Control Building Services, Inc., (petitioner), seeks emergency relief from the Commissioner of Education in the form of an Order by which Pritchard Industries, Incorporated (Pritchard), which submitted the low bid to supply custodial services to the State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson (District) for the 2005-2007 school years, with the option for a third year, would be prohibited from commencing work under the contract on July 1, 2005 pending a plenary hearing on the asserted issue of its moral standing to be awarded a public contract. After the Commissioner of Education transferred the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on June 16, 2005, as a contested case under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13, an oral argument on the motion was heard June 21, 2005 at the Office of Administrative Law, Newark.

For the reasons that follow, the application of petitioner, Control Building Services, Incorporated, for a temporary stay of the commencement of work by Pritchard, successfully bid upon pending a hearing on the merits of petitioner's claim, Pritchard is not morally responsible is denied.

FACTS

The facts as can be discerned from the pleadings, exhibits, argument of counsel, certifications, and over which there is no dispute, are these. In 2003, the State-Operated School District sought bid submissions for its custodial work for the 2003-05 school years. Petitioner, Control, and respondent, Pritchard, were among those who submitted bids. Pritchard was declared the low bidder for custodial services in 2003. It appears issues arose regarding employee health benefits to be provided to existing custodial workers once Pritchard became the independent contractor providing the custodial services, and paid lunch breaks. It further appears that in order to resolve these issues, representatives of the District and of Pritchard conferred seeking a method and manner by which the issues could be resolved even to the extent of changing the terms of the contract just bid upon by Pritchard, but before its formal award. This communication between Pritchard and the School District and the subsequent change of the bids specifications from which bids were received and as reflected in the contract signed by Pritchard for 2003-05, formed the basis for a legal challenge to the awarding of the custodial contract to Pritchard.

Petitioner was successful at that time to secure a temporary restraining order on July 9, 2003 from New Jersey Superior Court, Law Division, The Honorable Joseph F. Scancarella, Presiding, against the contract being awarded Pritchard for 2003-05 pending a hearing into the merits of Control's claim regarding the post bid announcement of low bidder between Pritchard and the School District. On July 18, 2003, The Honorable Ralph L. DeLuccia, Jr., J.S.C., ordered the continuation of the restraints already issued in the matter, but transferred the case to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing on the merits. On August 22, 2003, Richard McGill, Administrative Law Judge, issued an initial decision on a motion by which he continued the restraint against the awarding of an actual contract to Pritchard for 2003-05 be continued pending a full hearing on whether the entire contract should not be rebid. The initial decision was affirmed by the Commissioner of Education on September 8, 2003. An appeal was taken to the State Board of Education which affirmed the Commissioner of Education in his determination to agree with Administrative Law Judge McGill in continuing the restraints pending a hearing. It is interesting to note several observations made by the State Board in its decision. It said

> Initially, we recognize that the allegations made by Control are serious. However, as found by the ALJ and the Deputy Commissioner, they related to the original March 2003 invitation to bid and to actions that preceded the re-bidding process, and Control has made no allegations of wrong doing with respect to the re-bidding process as it has proceeded thus far.

And,

> Moreover, given the circumstances, including the fact that the original specifications were erroneous, re-bidding is the appropriate course to follow.

Petitioner Control Services contends that on these facts it is entitled to a temporary restraining order against the commencement of the 2005-07 contract by Pritchard because Pritchard, although the nominal low bidder, is not the 'lowest responsible bidder' within the meaning of the Public Schools Contract Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A -1, et seq., because it lacks the moral integrity to be so designated based on its conduct during the 2003 bidding process. Control says that these facts require Pritchard to be disqualified as the lowest responsible bidder and allow it, Control

Services, to continue providing the custodial services it has been providing the School District since 1996 and until it has a hearing to prove the truth of its allegations.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

Resolution of the emergent relief request is govern by the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1. Emergent relief shall be granted if it is determined from the proofs that:

i. Petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;

ii. The legal rights underlying the petitioner's claim is settled;

iii. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

iv. When the equities are an interest of the parties or balance the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if their requested relief is not granted. [N.J.A.C. 6A:14-12.7(m)1].

It is well settled that petitioner must meet these four criteria to prevail on this application. See Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Regarding the first prong of irreparable harm, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not shown irreparable harm. Control has not shown its right to continue in providing custodial services to the School District for 2005-07 in light of the fact it was not the low bidder on the contract for that period of time. I realize Control seeks to reach back to 2003 and use the efforts, misguided they may have been, of the School District and Pritchard to conclude such conduct is 'fraudulent' and 'collusive.' However, and despite the fact two superior court judges reviewed the facts on a preliminary basis, and an administrative law judge reviewed the 2003 bid facts on a preliminary basis, as did the Commissioner and State Board of Education, no such finding was entered in this record at any time. Control presented no evidence that it will suffer irreparable harm if

Pritchard is restrained from performing under the contract because it presented no evidence regarding its rights that will be harmed.

Petitioner Control must show that the legal right underlying the claim is settled. I CONCLUDE the record in this case, although voluminous at this point, does not settle Control's underlying claim.

Additionally, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not demonstrated the likelihood of success on the merits. Despite the fact Control has been providing the School District custodial services since 1996, its reliance on events in 2003 that both the Commissioner of Education and State Board of Education held, could be cured by rebidding, provides no basis for the conclusion that Pritchard and the School District engaged in fraud or collusive conduct.

In sum, I CONCLUDE for the above reasons that petitioner has not prevailed on his application for emergent relief and this application must be DENIED. Should petitioner Control wish to press claims made against the School District and Pritchard for conduct that was to have occurred in 2003, counsel must contact the Clerk of the Office of Administrative Law within 14 days from the date of this decision and a hearing date will be arranged. Otherwise, the matter shall be considered moot and will be dismissed.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE CHARGES AGAINST JOHN GRISO, LAKEWOOKD BOARD OF EDUCATION, OCEAN COUNTY	: BEFORE THE OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW : : Agency Docket N. 94-4/05 : OAL Docket No.: EDUTH 02996-2005S : : STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

The parties to this matter, the Lakewood Board of Education and John Griso, having reached an agreement to resolve the within matter, hereby request that the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education approve the following terms and conditions as their settlement agreement.

1. The parties agree that their agreement to this agreement and its validity is contingent upon the approval of the Commissioner of Education of all of the terms of this agreement, and that if any of the terms of this agreement are rejected by the Commissioner of Education, this agreement shall be deemed null and void, and that in such event, neither parties' position in relation to the tenure charge shall be prejudiced and the matter shall be returned to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing in relation to the tenure charge, provided that nothing in this paragraph or in this agreement shall, in such event, preclude the parties from agreeing to a new, revised or modified settlement agreement, provided that such agreement is subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Education.

2. The parties agree that based upon and subject to the Commissioner of Education's approval of all of the terms of this agreement, the petitioner shall withdraw the tenure charge.

3. Rationale for Settlement

A. On or about April 21, 2005, petitioner filed the tenure charge with the Commissioner of Education against the respondent.

B. The charge alleges that respondent's actions permitted or encouraged students to fight, and that respondent was out of his classroom at times when he should have been present, thereby not providing the required supervision and instruction to his students, and that on such occasions, respondent's aide provided supervision and instruction that should have been provided by respondent.

C. In the course of their investigation and discovery in the case, information was exchanged between the parties which demonstrates to the petitioner's satisfaction that it is unlikely that petitioner could sustain the burden of proof with respect to the allegations that respondent permitted or encouraged students to fight.

D. In the course of their investigation and discovery in the case, information was exchanged between the parties which has demonstrated to respondent's satisfaction that it is likely that petitioner can prove the allegation that respondent was not present in his class at times when he should have been, and that during such time periods, respondent delegated the supervision of students in the class to his aide, and that such actions were improper. Thus, the parties believe that it is likely that petitioner can sustain its burden of proof with respect to these allegations.

E. Both parties acknowledge that this settlement agreement is based upon their analysis and understanding of the evidence which would be proffered at the hearing, that these conclusions appear to be probable, but cannot be stated with certainty, and that in the event that this settlement agreement is not approved and the matter proceeds to a hearing, neither this agreement nor anything in this agreement shall be admissible in evidence, and that neither party will be deemed to have admitted or conceded any of the contents of or the statements in paragraph 3 (C) or (D) of this agreement, or in any other paragraph in this agreement.

F. Both parties agree that the most substantial allegation, that respondent permitted or encouraged students to engage in fighting, is unlikely to be proven, as per paragraph 3 (C) above, but that in view of the contents of paragraph 3 (D), the filing of the tenure charge was appropriate.

G. Petitioner is aware of the public interest in the proper pursuit and handling of tenure charges to assure that unqualified persons do not teach in the public schools in New Jersey. However, upon review of all the circumstances, which includes evaluation of the time and expense of pursuing tenure charges, the uncertainty of the result which might be obtained, both in terms of sustaining the charges and the penalty which might be imposed, respondent's tenured service in the district, and in all other respects favorable record, petitioner believes and respondent concurs that it is in the best interests of all parties and the public to resolve this matter by this settlement agreement.

4. The parties agree that the acts or omissions engaged in by respondent as referred to in paragraph 3 D may be deemed to constitute conduct unbecoming and were sufficient to warrant the filing of the tenure charge, but that the appropriate penalty in the circumstances is the withholding of respondent's employment and adjustment increments, and suspension with pay and benefits until December 31, 2005.

5. The parties agree that respondent's employment and adjustment increments for the 2005-06 school year shall be withheld as a result of this agreement. The parties also agree that if this settlement agreement is rejected, petitioner may file an appeal of any increment withholdings for the 2005-06 school year and that any such appeal shall be deemed timely filed, if filed within ninety (90) days of the rejection of this agreement by the Commissioner of Education.

6. By settling this matter, respondent acknowledges that he is waiving his right to a hearing before the Office of Administrative Law and Commissioner of Education, in which he could seek an adjudication on the merits of the tenure charge, and on the penalty, if any, if the charge is sustained. Respondent further acknowledges that he understands and agrees to the terms of this agreement and is satisfied with the legal representation that he received in this matter.

7. The parties understand that as a result of personal circumstances unrelated to the tenure charge, upon expiration of his suspension with pay, respondent will not return to employment with the petitioner, and has so advised petitioner. The parties further agree that the appropriate penalty for respondent's acts or omissions is as set forth in paragraphs 4 and 6 above, and that respondent's determination not to return to employment after his suspension does not constitute part of the consideration for this agreement.

8. As per paragraph 7 above, the parties expressly agree that neither the tenure charge nor the settlement thereof shall be deemed to have resulted in respondent's loss of his tenured position.

9. The parties agree that the facts do not warrant suspension or revocation of respondent's certificate, but are aware that the Commissioner may refer the matter to the State Board of Examiners to initiate proceedings to revoke or suspend respondent's certificate.

10. The parties agree that in the event that the Commissioner of Education does not accept any paragraph of this settlement agreement, this settlement agreement shall be deemed null and void, and the matter shall be returned to the Office of Administrative Law for hearings without prejudice to either parties' position.

11. The petitioner board has approved the terms of this settlement agreement as acknowledged by the attached resolution.

Record Closed: July 28, 2005 Decided: August 5, 2005

BEFORE SANDRA ANN ROBINSON, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on November 21, 2003, for determination as a contested case.

The parties informed the court that settlement negotiations were being discussed, and several status conferences were completed. Prior to the scheduled August 26, 2005 telephone status conference, the attached Stipulation of Settlement was submitted. Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the parties comply with the settlement terms, and it is FURTHER ORDERED that the proceedings in this matter be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

WHEREAS, Petitioner filed a Verified Petition against the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark ("Newark" or "Respondent") on or about May 14, 1997 asserting claims under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner alleged that she was improperly charged 87 sick days for a period of time when she was out of work due to a valid, work-related injury; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner claims that she is entitled to have this sick leave restored; and

WHEREAS, Newark expressly denies any wrongdoing or liability and expressly denies violating petitioner's rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1; and

WHEREAS, the parties have reached an amicable resolution of this matter which protects the interests of all parties and avoids the cost and time necessary to pursue litigation; and

WHEREAS, this resolution serves the public's best interest by avoiding further litigation costs and the uncertainty attendant to litigation;

NOW THEREFORE, the parties agree as follows:

1. In complete and full satisfaction of her claims, Petitioner will receive credit and reimbursement for 35 sick days previously charged against her accrued leave, for a total payment of $11,749.85 by Newark to Petitioner. In consideration of her receipt of this payment, Petitioner expressly waives any and all claims she has or may have arising under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 through the date of this Agreement. An IRS form 1099 will be issued by Newark to Petitioner in connection with this payment. Petitioner agrees to pay any and all taxes found to be owed from payments made pursuant to this Agreement and to indemnify and hold Newark harmless from any and all claims, assessments, demands, penalties and interest owed, or found to be owed, as a result of any payment made pursuant to this Agreement.

2. Petitioner acknowledges that she has entered into this Agreement voluntarily and entirely of her own free will and that she was not subject to any duress and/or coercion. Petitioner further acknowledges that she has been advised and represented by counsel in this matter.

3. This Agreement is subject to and contingent upon the approval of the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education. In the event such approval is not secured, this Agreement shall be null and void and the parties returned to their respective positions prior to the execution of this Agreement.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BLOOMFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, employed as Supervisor of Maintenance by the Board from 1994 until a reorganization in 2003, claimed tenure entitlement to employment in a supervisory capacity and in a trade position with Bloomfield Township Schools.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioner had attained tenure as a janitorial employee with the Board and never knowingly waived tenure rights when he assumed the position of Supervisor of Maintenance; the Board selected other candidates for position vacancies after the reorganization for legitimate and non-retaliatory reasons; petitioner attained tenure in the general category of janitorial employee, not in any specific assignment within that broad grouping of job titles, and therefore petitioner did not earn tenure rights to a supervisory position. The ALJ ordered the Board to immediately reinstate petitioner to a trade position or other appropriate assignment within the scope of a janitorial employee, along with appropriate back pay and benefits, subject to mitigation.

Upon a thorough and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter, with a clarification as to the nature of the petitioner's reinstatement.

PETER A. KEANEY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BLOOMFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions of the Board and petitioner's reply thereto[1] were filed in accordance with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1.1-18.4 and these submissions were considered by the Commissioner in making his determination herein.

The Board's exceptions essentially recast and reiterate its arguments advanced below, which the Commissioner determines -- in all material part -- were fully addressed and considered in the Initial Decision and warrant no further discussion here.

Upon his full and independent review of the record in this matter, which included transcripts of only one of the three days of hearing in this case,[2] the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) for the reasons clearly articulated

[1] It is, however, noted that petitioner's timely reply to the Board's exceptions, filed on August 15, 2005, also included a section identified as petitioner's exceptions to the Initial Decision. This portion of petitioner's submission, purporting to be primary exceptions filed in response to an Initial Decision mailed to the parties on July 29, 2005, is untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and, therefore, was not considered. By letter dated August 16, 2005, the Board objected to petitioner's submission of untimely exceptions but, notwithstanding its urging that these be rejected, filed replies thereto. In light of the discounting of petitioner's primary exceptions, the Board's reply was similarly not considered herein.

[2] The record indicates that hearing in this matter was conducted on May 14, October 6 and 14, 2004. Transcripts of the May 14, 2004 hearing date are contained in the record.

therein. In so determining, the Commissioner concludes that the ALJ provided an accurate and comprehensive presentation of existing law in reaching each of his conclusions, with which the Commissioner fully concurs.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. The Board is hereby directed to reinstate petitioner immediately to an appropriate vacancy or to the position of a non-tenured individual within the scope of a janitorial employee. The Board is further directed to reimburse petitioner back pay and emoluments as may be appropriate (see footnote 1, Initial Decision at 2), offsetting from this award any money petitioner received from alternative employment and/or unemployment compensation during the period of his illegal termination.[3]

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

Record Closed: December 2, 2004 Decided: July 28, 2005

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal by a "supervisor of maintenance" from the elimination of his position as the result of a restructuring of custodial and maintenance services in a public school district. Petitioner Peter A. Keaney ("Keaney") alleges that the Bloomfield Board of Education ("Board") violated his tenure rights by failing to offer him the newly created supervisory position as manager of facilities. In the alternative, Keaney contends that he is entitled to reinstatement to his former custodial position.

Basically, the pleadings raise four separate issues: First, whether Keaney acquired statutory tenure as a janitorial employee under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 because he was hired by the Board for an indefinite as opposed to a fixed term. Second, whether he waived any tenure rights as a custodian by his acceptance of a promotion to a supervisory position. Third, whether he acquired tenure in a supervisory position by virtue of his service under a supervisory title. Fourth, whether the Board's failure to offer him a trade position constitutes retaliation in violation of the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, N.J.S.A 34:19-1 to -8.

For the reasons that follow, Keaney has a tenure right to a janitorial position, but did not acquire any tenure to a supervisory position.

Procedural History

On April 17, 2003, Keaney filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") seeking reinstatement and back pay for violation of his tenure rights.[1] Respondent Board filed its answer on June 11, 2003 and its amended answer on June 17, 2003. Subsequently, on July 3, 2003, the Commissioner transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case. Thereafter, on August 22, 2003, Keaney filed an amended petition, and the Board filed its second amended answer on September 2, 2003.[2] The OAL held three days of hearing ending on October 15, 2004. Both parties filed post-hearing submissions on December 2, 2004.

[1] Keaney's claim for back pay is largely mooted by the stipulation that he obtained employment with another school district earning more money than he was making while employed by Bloomfield.

[2] On May 7, 2004, petitioner served written notice of the pendency of this matter on various current Board employees over whom he claims greater tenure rights. N.J.A.C. 1:1-16. None of them exercised their opportunity to move to intervene as parties or otherwise participate in this case.

Findings of Fact

General Background Information

All of the general background information is undisputed. Bloomfield Board of Education organizes its building support staff into two subdivisions: custodians (who clean buildings and do routine janitorial tasks) and maintenance/trade workers (who perform more skilled types of labor). Trade workers are further divided into various specialized categories, namely carpenters, electricians, plumbers and painters. No particular license is required to hold a trade worker position (e.g., electricians do not have to be licensed electricians; plumbers do not have to be licensed plumbers.)

Keaney began working for the district in April 1987 in a temporary "trade position." After serving a three-month probationary period, he was hired full-time at the start of the school fiscal year in July 1987. He was assigned primarily to do minor carpentry work such as repairing or installing shelves, radiator covers, bulletin boards and wooden flooring. There is evidence that a trade worker also helped in other areas if his services were needed. In February 1999, Keaney was promoted to supervisor of maintenance, a managerial position involving supervision of other trade workers.

Due to reorganization in July 2003, the Board abolished the position of supervisor of maintenance and, in its place, created the new position of manager of facilities. Although petitioner interviewed for the new title, he was not offered that job. Petitioner also interviewed for a vacant "trade position," but he was not hired because the district needed a plumber more than a carpenter. The Board did not offer any job to petitioner. Consequently, he brought suit claiming tenure both in a supervisory capacity and in a trade position.

Employment of Keaney in a Trade Work Position

When Keaney obtained his initial appointment for the 1987-88 fiscal year, the parties entered into a written employment contract specifying that his employment would run "from the first day of July, 1987 to the 30th day of June, 1988." Similarly, for the following year (1988-89), the written contract signed by the parties stated that Keaney's employment would continue "from the first day of July, 1988 to the 30th day of June 1989.

Starting in 1989-90, the Board stopped issuing formal written contracts limiting the length of Keaney's employment. Instead, the Board began using a different document, which petitioner calls a "short-form contract," but which the Board more accurately describes as a "salary notification." Each year from 1989-90 through 1992-93, the Board presented Keaney with such notice fixing his annual salary for the current school year. Unlike the earlier employment contracts, the salary notification did not contain language limiting the term of Keaney's employment. While the employment contracts include a standard clause allowing either party to terminate their relationship upon thirty days written notice to the other, the salary notifications lack a similar provision (giving rise to the reasonable inference that the Board cannot unilaterally terminate the relationship, except for just cause or as the result of a reduction in force.)

Moreover, the Board's own resolutions provide additional evidence of its intention to grant Keaney tenure as a janitorial employee from at least 1990-91 onward.[3] Board resolutions approving the master payroll for the 1987-1988 and 1988-89 years have an asterisk beside Keaney's name and, in an explanatory note at the bottom, the asterisk is defined as meaning "non-tenure." Former assistant board secretary George Sutton, who served the Bloomfield public school district for over forty years before retiring in June 1991, testified that the existence of an asterisk next to Keaney's name meant that he was not considered a tenured employee "at that point." Sutton explained that the Board subsequently utilized the device "(NT)" in place of an asterisk to designate which of its employees were "non-tenured." In his capacity as assistant board secretary, Sutton's duties included attending all board meetings and preparing board minutes

Significantly, there is no asterisk or "(NT)" alongside Keaney's name in the approved master payroll for 1990-91. Several custodial employees listed on the same payroll have the notation "(NT)" typed immediately after their names. George Sutton, who was still assistant board secretary at that time, interpreted the resolution as signifying that Keaney had acquired tenure, whereas the gentlemen with "(NT)" written next to their names had not. None of the Board's witnesses could persuasively rebut Sutton's first-hand knowledge of Board practice during the relevant time period. Heather Carr, Bloomfield's current director of personnel, only came to the district in May 2000 and has no personal knowledge of Board operations during the early years of Keaney's employment.

Notwithstanding the unambiguous language of its own contracts and resolutions, the Board sought to overcome petitioner's proofs by reliance on its tenure policy, adopted on July 19, 1982 and in effect on the date of Keaney's initial employment. Although the Board emphasizes that the policy provides that full-time custodial and maintenance employees "shall be employed on an annual fixed term basis," the full text of the policy actually provides a mechanism for granting tenure to janitorial employees. Entitled "Tenure of Certain Noncertificated Employees," the policy in context reads as follows:

> It is the policy of the Board that full-time custodial/maintenance employees shall be employed on an annual fixed term basis. Renewal of annual contracts is a prerogative of the Board. After obtaining a fireman's license during the first full year of contractual employment and after completion of three consecutive full successful years contract service in this district, these employees will be placed in tenured status by Board > resolution and the employee advised of the change of status. Time served as a probationary employee shall not be applied to the three year requirement.

Keaney's circumstances admittedly do not satisfy the literal terms of this policy. He did, of course, meet the basic requirement of completion of three consecutive years of successful employment in the district. However, he did not possess a fireman's or boiler operator license during his first year of employment, although he ultimately obtained one in May 1991, long before his involuntary termination more than a decade later.

Nonetheless, the Board has not hesitated to disregard its official tenure policy when it suits its convenience to do so. On March 9, 1992, the Board adopted a blanket policy that, "Persons employed as janitors, custodian, and maintenance personnel, including supervisory personnel will be employed on fixed term contracts and will not acquire tenure in their positions." Thereafter, on September 9, 1997, the Board adopted a resolution authorizing the grant of tenure to twenty-three named custodial staff members "who had been employed by the district for more than three years prior to September 7, 1996."[4] Thus, the Board had no difficulty making personnel decisions in violation of its supposed policy. Keaney's name was not included on the list, however, because, by that time, he had already been promoted to a supervisory title and the Board did not consider him to be eligible for tenure.

I FIND that that, as of the 1990-91 fiscal year, Keaney was employed as a carpenter for an indefinite term. Regardless of any generalized policy statement promulgated by the predecessor to the current Board, individuals who meet the statutory criteria automatically gain tenure by operation of law. Here the Board conferred tenure on Keaney when it stopped issuing employment contracts of limited

[4] Heather Carr pointed out that an employee identified as T. Leo, who had been employed as a carpenter longer than Keaney, had no asterisk or (NT) next to his name on the 91-92 and 92-93 master payrolls, yet was included in the list of custodial and maintenance employees granted tenure by Board resolution on March 9, 2002. Whether or not T. Leo already had attained tenure and whether the 2002 resolution should be regarded as superfluous with respect to him depends on examination of his personnel records and is beyond the scope of this proceeding.

duration and began using annual salary notifications without a fixed term of employment. It was unnecessary for the Board to adopt a resolution awarding tenure to Keaney, since the existence of such status is a question of statutory application.

Promotion to Supervisor of Maintenance

At a meeting on February 8, 1994, the Board formally approved Keaney's appointment as supervisor of maintenance at a prorated salary for the remainder of 1994-95. Insofar as the record reflects, the Board never put Keaney on notice that it considered his acceptance of this promotion to be a waiver of whatever tenure rights he may have previously acquired. Indeed, a cheerful letter from the then Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Edward Glickman, advising Keaney of the Board's action simply says "Congratulations and good luck in your new position." [5] Keaney continued in that position until his termination in July 2003.

Neither side produced a job description for supervisor of maintenance, so the record does not contain a precise specification of the duties of that position. During his testimony, Keaney described his duties as similar to those he had previously performed during his six years in a trade position. However, Charles Collins, the district's newly-appointed director of facilities in February 2003, maintained that Keaney's supervisory function involved delegating tasks to others and reviewing the work on completion, but that Keaney no longer did the actual work himself. According to Collins, the two positions are distinct and there is no overlap in their duties.

I FIND that Keaney never knowingly and intelligently waived his tenure as a janitorial employee when he assumed the title of supervisor of maintenance. His duties remained in the field of maintenance and skilled trades, although now he had greater responsibility to supervise the work done by others performing carpentry, electrical, plumbing and painting assignments.

[5] Once Keaney had become a supervisor, the Board reverted to its earlier custom of issuing employment contracts for one-year terms from 1995-1996 through 2000-2001. This change arguably might have served as a warning that Keaney would not be earning tenure as a supervisor, but would not necessarily have alerted him that he was giving up previously vested tenure rights.

Reorganization of the Custodial and Maintenance Department

Prior to the reorganization in July 2003, the organizational hierarchy of the district's custodial and maintenance department included a director of facilities at the top and various skilled maintenance/trade workers and custodians at the bottom. At the middle management level, a supervisor of maintenance and two foremen were in charge of the maintenance/trade workers. As a result of the reorganization, the Board inserted a new middle management position, known as manager of custodians, between the director of facilities and the custodians. In addition, the Board eliminated Keaney's former position, supervisor of maintenance, and the two foremen and replaced them with a single intermediary position known as manager of maintenance.

Ironically, the Board had originally offered Keaney the top position of director of facilities (the spot presently occupied by Charles Collins), but Keaney declined that offer because he felt that the salary was not high enough. Instead, Keaney applied for the new position of manager of maintenance, which he regarded as a lateral transfer from his prior job as supervisor of maintenance.[6] By letter dated March 17, 2003, the Board informed Keaney that "another candidate's name will be taken to the Board for approval." Ultimately, the Board appointed Ralph Kries to the manager of maintenance position. Mr. Kries, a plumber, had been a maintenance worker in the district for more than thirty years. Director Collins, who served as a member of the interviewing committee, explained that Kries was the preferred candidate because he had displayed leadership in organizing the task of snow removal. Moreover, Collins noted that Keaney was opposed to the reorganization plan and did not seem to be the best choice to implement the Board's new direction.

[6] A posting for this opening, dated July 1, 2003, lists the new job title as "manager of facilities-maintenance/trades."

Despite his disappointment that he did not get the managerial position he sought, Keaney was relatively certain that he could continue his employment in the district. In early April 2003, he applied for an immediate vacancy in a trade position. Keaney was interviewed for this position by a committee, which included Charles Collins and Heather Carr, and purportedly received assurances that he would be approved at the next Board meeting. Both Collins and Carr denied that any representations were made to him about his likelihood of obtaining the position. In any event, the Board never offered a trade position to Keaney. Collins explained that the district needed a plumber and that Keaney's area of expertise was as a carpenter. Joseph Follett, the candidate appointed to the position, is an experienced plumber who had worked for a plumbing company in the community.

Before learning that he would not be offered a trade position, Keaney filed his appeal from the Board's refusal to recognize his tenure as a manager of maintenance. When the Board also declined to offer him a trade position, Keaney amended his petition to allege retaliation against him for bringing his appeal.

I FIND that the Board selected someone else to serve as manager of maintenance because it regarded that candidate as better qualified for the job. Likewise, the Board preferred another candidate for the trade position because it wanted an employee with experience in plumbing. Members of the interviewing committee could make recommendations, but the decision on whom to appoint belonged to the Board. Regardless of what representations were made during the interview, the Board had a valid non-retaliatory reason for preferring a plumber over a carpenter.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that Keaney has tenure in the position of janitorial employee, but not as a supervisor.

Custodial employees acquire tenure in one of two ways, either by statute or through collective negotiations. Wright v. Board of Education, 99 N.J. 112 (1985). N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 provides, in pertinent part:

> Every public school janitor of a school district shall, unless he is appointed for a fixed term, hold his office, position or employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and shall not be dismissed or suspended or reduced in compensation, except as the result of the reduction of the number of janitors in the district made in accordance with the provisions of this title or except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense[.]

This statute confers immediate tenure on any janitorial employee hired for an indefinite term. Keaney attained instant tenure as a janitorial employee when the Board stopped issuing annual contracts and began sending him salary notices. It is well established that salary notices, standing alone, do not establish yearly reappointments for definite terms. To the contrary, salary notices are commonly recognized as indicia of the tenure status of an employee. McCullough v. Board of Educ. of Trenton, 2002 WL 32590883 (N.J. Adm.) (Comm'r Jan. 15, 2002), appeal dismissed, 2002 WL 32590884 (N.J. Adm.) (St. Bd. April 3, 2002). Gilliam v. Board of Educ. of Toms River, 1974 S.L.D. 54 (Comm'r May 14, 1974), modified on other grounds, 1975 S.L.D. 302 (Comm'4 May 1, 1975). As elaborated in Smith v. Bd. of Ed. of the Twp. of East Brunswick, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5654-81 (June 13, 1983), adopted Comm'r of Ed. (August 15, 1983), aff'd State Board of Education (April 4, 1984):

> Such salary notices or salary agreements are generally reserved for those employees who have acquired a tenure status in the employ of a board of education. Once an employee has acquired tenure, as for example, a teaching staff member, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, the board's offer of a contract to the teacher becomes superfluous in regard to the term of employment. The term is indefinite and continuous; therefore, the only subject matter to be contracted for is the employee's annual salary and emoluments. . . [T]he need for a contract between a board of > education and a tenured employee, setting forth all the terms and conditions of employment is no longer necessary and the board resorts to the issuance of a salary notice or salary agreement, pursuant to the negotiated agreement to the tenured employee. (at 13)

Courts broadly construe the term "janitor" in this context to extend to all school employees generally engaged in cleaning, upkeep or repair functions. In light of the principle of liberal construction of tenure laws, the Appellate Division has declared that "the Legislature used the terms janitor, custodian, etc. in a generic sense with intent to include all janitorial and custodial employees." Rejecting the argument that tenure protection is limited to the positions expressly enumerated by the predecessor statute, the Court extended its reach to various positions of a similar nature, including janitorial supervisors, utility men and groundskeepers. Barnes v. Board of Education, 85 N.J. Super. 42, 45 (App. Div. 1964), certif. den. 43 N.J. 450 (1964). Similarly, the Commissioner has uniformly treated the current janitorial tenure statute as affording tenure rights to a wide range of janitorial-type job titles, such as maintenance man. Lauffer v. Board of Educ. of Leonia, 1984 S.L.D. 1290. Accord, Atlantic City Educ. Ass'n v. Board of Educ. of Atlantic City, EDU 10335-98 (Aug. 19, 1999), *adopted (Comm'r Oct. 7, 1999), aff'd (*St. Bd. March 1, 2000) (head custodian); Reinersten v. Board of Educ. of East Brunswick, EDU 10328-97 (Comm'r July 8, 1998) ("head custodian"); .Brunner v. Board of Educ. of Camden, 1960 S.L.D. 155 ("chief janitor"). Accordingly, Keaney was eligible for tenure in a janitorial or custodial position.

Nor can Keaney be deemed to have relinquished his tenure rights by accepting the Board's invitation to assume greater responsibility in his area of tenure. Waiver of tenure protection requires that the tenure employee voluntarily relinquish a known right. O'Toole v. Forestal, 211 N.J. Super. 394 (App. Div. 1986). The Board has not presented any proofs tending to show that Keaney was aware that he was giving up vested rights by becoming a supervisor in the field in which he had been working all along. Rather, his situation is analogous to that of the tenured clerk who was entitled to resume her clerical duties after her interim appointment as a clerk-attendance officer had ended. Quinlan v. Board of Education, 73 N.J. Super. 40 (App. Div. 1962).

Indeed, the Commissioner has expressly rejected the argument that a janitorial employee relinquishes his existing tenure by accepting a higher job title as chief janitor. Referring to parallel reasoning with respect to teacher's tenure, the Commissioner stated:

> Although tenure provisions for teachers and for janitors may vary greatly in several basic respects, in this regard they are similar. Thus, a teacher who is called a supervisor, co-ordinator, director, head teacher, vice-principal, or other title, while not acquiring tenure in these named positions, continues to hold tenure as a teacher. Lascari v. Lodi Board of Education., 36 N.J. Super. 426 [App Div. 1955]. Also a principal may be given the title of supervising principal, administrative principal, etc. without losing his tenure protection as a principal. Viemeister v. Prospect Park Board of Education, 5 N.J. Super. 215. {App. Div. 1949]. Similarly a janitor may be named chief janitor without surrendering his tenure as a janitor.

N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 conveys tenure status to the janitorial category or class of employment and not to any specific position. Accordingly, in Reinersten, supra, the Commissioner held that a custodial employee acquired tenure in the general category of janitorial employee, but not in the particular job title of "head custodian." "The title 'head custodian' merely denotes a special assignment within the general classification of janitorial services." Reinersten, slip op. at 4. So too, in Brunner, supra, the Commissioner determined that "the position of chief janitor denotes a special assignment within the general classification of janitorial services and, therefore, it comes within the scope of the tenure statute." 1960 S.L.D. at 157. See also, Lauffer, supra, wherein a person employed as a maintenance man for an indefinite period of time achieved tenure as a janitorial employee, although tenure status did not attach to his specific assignment as a maintenance worker. Under this controlling authority, Keaney attained tenure in the general category of janitorial employee, not in any specific assignment within that broad grouping of job titles. Therefore, he did not earn tenure status to a supervisory position.

Last, Keaney claims that the Board's failure to offer him a vacant trade position was in retaliation for filing his appeal to the Commissioner and constitutes a violation of the Conscientious Employee's Protection Act ("CEPA"), N.J.S.A. 34:19-1 to -8. The Legislature enacted CEPA "to protect and encourage employees to report illegal or unethical workplace activities and to discourage public and private sector employers from engaging in such conduct." Dzwonar v. McDevitt, 177 N.J. 451, 461 (2003). Toward that end, N.J.S.A. 34:19-3(c) prohibits any employer from retaliating against an employee who objects to, or refuses to participate in, any activity, policy or practice which the employee reasonably believes is in violation of a law, or a rule or regulation, is fraudulent or criminal, or is incompatible with a clear mandate of public policy concerning the public health, safety, or welfare.

Routine employment decisions do not automatically become CEPA causes of action simply because the parties happen to disagree over their respective legal rights. Here the triggering event leading to the filing of petitioner's original appeal to the Commissioner was the Board's belief that Keaney had not acquired tenure status as a supervisor. As it turned out, the Board was correct on that issue (although that would not be dispositive so long as Keaney had an objectively reasonable belief that improper conduct occurred.) One important limiting factor underlying CEPA, however, is that the offensive activity complained of must pose some threat of public harm, "not merely private harm or harm only to the aggrieved employee." Mehlman v. Mobil Oil Corporation, 153 N.J. 163, 199 (1998). Thus, in Cosgrove v. Cranford Bd. of Educ., 356 N.J. Super. 518 (App. Div. 2003), abrogated for other reasons, Dzwonar v. McDevitt, 117 N.J. 451 (2003), the Appellate Division held that the filing of a grievance over distribution of overtime concerned a "personal objection" that is not cognizable under CEPA. Similarly, in Alexander v. Kay Finlay Jewelers, Inc., 208 N.J. Super. 503 (App. Div. 1986), certif. den. 104 N.J. 466 (1986), the Appellate Division held that institution of legal proceedings concerning salary had "no significance beyond the private interests of plaintiff and defendant" and could not support a valid CEPA claim. Keaney is unable to point to any wrong to which he objected that rises above the level of a private dispute.

More importantly, Keaney has not shown that the Board's refusal to offer him the trade position of plumber was in retaliation for his bringing an appeal regarding the supervisory position. While the current law does not distinguish between various job assignments in trade positions, it is understandable that the Board would prefer to hire an experienced plumber to do plumbing work. Even though the Board's action was in violation of Keaney's tenure status, there is no good reason to believe that the Board sought to punish Keaney for asserting his legal rights.

Order

It is ORDERED that the Board immediately reinstate Keaney to a trade position or other appropriate assignment within the scope of a janitorial employee.

And it is further ORDERED that the Board restore full back pay and other benefits to Keaney, subject to mitigation.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY.	:

The record, Settlement Agreement and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms since they comport with the Cardonick standards for review of settlements in tenure matters and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter. In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846. The matter is hereby dismissed subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

In light of the allegations of conduct unbecoming, however, wherein the Board asserts, inter alia, that petitioner improperly disposed of medical waste, violated standard, required nursing procedures in a public school district, improperly secured medications, improperly diagnosed and provided inadequate medical treatment of students and employees, all of which petitioner denies, this matter is being referred to the State Board of Examiners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.6(a)1, which authorizes the Commissioner to refer a tenure matter to the State Board of Examiners for possible action against a teacher's certificate in instances where tenure proceedings are concluded prior to adjudication because the charged party has resigned or retired.

Accordingly, a copy of this decision shall be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for its consideration.

BEFORE BRUCE M. GORMAN, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on October 5, 2004, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Settlement Agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

AGREEMENT

THIS AGREEMENT is made this _____day of July, 2005 by and between the Camden City Board of Education ("Board"), with principal offices at 201 N. Front Street, Camden, New Jersey 08102, and Juliette Kersaint ("Employee"), residing at 48 Petunia Lane, Willingboro, New Jersey 08046.

WITNESSETH

WHEREAS, Employee has been employed in the Camden City School District for more than 10 years; and

WHEREAS, from the commencement of her employment until the winter of 2003, Employee had a competent record of service with the Board; and

WHEREAS, Employee was served with thirteen tenure charges of unbecoming conduct, and denied the allegations therein; and

WHEREAS, the charges which are currently pending against Employee do not arise out of any conduct which is alleged to be criminal, but rather, from allegations of negligent performance, and from certain personal differences with co-workers; and

WHEREAS, The Board is aware of the risks involved in litigating this matter to conclusion, in that the Employee may not ultimately be dismissed from her position; and

WHEREAS, it is believed to be in the best interest of the community to resolve the outstanding issues without the necessary expense and time constraints placed on district employees to testify at hearing; and

WHEREAS, it is the position of the Board—accepted by Employee—that this Agreement appropriately effectuates the Board's interest in discontinuing her employment, while not unreasonably compensating her for the loss of her tenure in the absence of an administrative proceeding; and

WHEREAS, both parties, represented by counsel, enter into this Agreement with a full understanding of their rights, and Employee has been advised of the Commissioner's duty to refer tenure determinations resulting in loss of position to the State Board of Examiners for possible suspension or revocation of certificate, pursuant to N.J.A.C. § 6A:3-5.6, and both parties enter into this Agreement free of coercion, and without reservation;

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises of the parties and in exchange for the consideration more particularly set forth below, it is hereby AGREED that the tenure charges against Employee shall be WITHDRAWN on the following conditions:

1. Upon its approval by the Commissioner of Education, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6, this Agreement shall constitute Employee's irrevocable resignation of her employment with the Board. Employee will sign or otherwise authorize any statement of said resignation as the Board may require, provided that any such statement be limited solely to resignation, without other explanation or admission, within ten (10) days of said approval.

2. The Board will pay Employee a lump sum of twenty thousand ($20,000.00) dollars within thirty (30) days of this Agreement's approval by the Commissioner of Education.

3. Employee agrees to waive any and all claims she has or may have against the Board with regard to the subject matter of this Agreement, including any claims for counsel fees or other monetary relief.

4. The Board agrees to waive any and all claims it may have against Employee with regard to the subject matter of this Agreement, including any claims for counsel fees or other monetary relief.

5. The Board will not oppose, obstruct, or hinder Employee's application for a disability retirement.

This Agreement constitutes the sole, entire, and integrated agreement between the Employee and Board, and may be modified only in writing. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This Agreement

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION :

OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

MARY SAVINO, RAHWAY BOARD : DECISION

OF EDUCATION, UNION COUNTY. :

SYNOPSIS

The Board sought to suspend the instructional certificate of respondent pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 for not providing adequate notice of resignation from her position as a teacher in the Rahway Middle School. The Board submitted that there were no material facts in dispute, and that the Board was entitled to summary judgment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8. Respondent contends that she had mitigating circumstances and was compelled to resign due to her unfitness to teach middle school.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: respondent is guilty of unprofessional conduct for failure to provide 60 days written notice of resignation; respondent was stressed and fearful regarding her reassignment to teach at the middle school rather than an elementary school; respondent had no motive of self-interest in her action; and respondent's honesty regarding her professed unfitness to teach middle school should be considered a mitigating factor in determining the appropriate penalty in this case. The ALJ concluded that a suspension of respondent's teaching certificate for one year is unnecessarily harsh punishment, and recommended a penalty of 60 days suspension of respondent's teaching certificate.

Upon a thorough and independent review, the Commissioner agrees that the respondent is guilty of unprofessional conduct, but disagrees with the ALJ's assessment of respondent's behavior, finding that there is nothing in the record to suggest any mitigating factors in this matter; he concludes that respondent's desire for early release from her professional obligations was based on personal motives and convenience. Respondent is therefore deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct and – consistent with the penalty assessed in similar matters – her teaching certificate is hereby suspended for a period of one year commencing upon the date of this decision. A copy of this decision will be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for the purpose of effectuating this order.

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION	:
OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
MARY SAVINO, RAHWAY BOARD	:	DECISION
OF EDUCATION, UNION COUNTY.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

As noted by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), it is undisputed that respondent entered into an employment contract with the Rahway Board of Education (Board) on or about May 11, 2004 to serve as a teacher in the Rahway School District from September 1, 2004 to June 30, 2005. The contract signed by the parties provided that either party could terminate the contract with 60 days written notice. Notwithstanding this notice requirement, respondent did not report to work on September 1, 2004, but, instead, submitted her resignation to the Board via e-mail on September 2, 2004, one day after the start of the 2004-2005 school year, with an effective date of September 7, 2004.

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 establishes the procedure by which a teaching staff member must provide notice of resignation to a board of education and authorizes the Commissioner to suspend a teacher's certificate if that teacher fails to comply, as follows:

> Any teaching staff member, under tenure of service, desiring to relinquish his position shall give the employing board of education at least 60 days written notice of his intention, unless the board shall approve or release on shorter notice, and if he fails to give such notice, he shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct and the commissioner may suspend his certificate for not more than one year.

Additionally, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10, the Commissioner has both the authority and the discretion to suspend a teacher's certificate for a period of up to one year for ceasing to perform her duties before the expiration of her employment obligations. N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 provides that:

> Any teaching staff member employed by a board of education, who shall, without the consent of the Board, cease to perform his duties before the expiration of the term of his employment, shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct, and the commissioner may, upon receiving notice thereof, suspend his certificate for a period not exceeding one year.

In the instant matter it is undisputed that respondent resigned without proper notice to the Board. Additionally, respondent acknowledges that Superintendent Petrino, in a telephone conversation on September 3, 2004, reminded her of the 60-day notice requirement and explained that failure to honor the 60-day notice requirement could place her certification to teach in the State of New Jersey in jeopardy. Accordingly, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's determination that respondent is guilty of unprofessional conduct for her failure to provide the 60-day notice required by her contract, N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8.

The Commissioner, however, is unable to conclude that there are factors which would mitigate the imposition of a one-year suspension of respondent's teaching certificate and, thus, rejects the ALJ's conclusion that a lesser penalty is appropriate in this instance. In so concluding, the Commissioner disagrees that petitioner's failure to give the required notice is mitigated by factors similar to those applied in Mooney, supra, and Rogers, supra. The situation herein is substantially different. Unlike Mooney and Rogers, respondent does not provide compelling reasons for needing early release, and respondent does not make any claim that she attempted to communicate with the Board to negotiate a mutually beneficial and agreeable earlier release date than the required 60 days' notice. Instead, the record reflects that respondent clearly made a unilateral decision to resign with full knowledge that her notice did not satisfy the notice requirement.

Moreover, although respondent claims that she is "unfit" to teach middle school students, petitioner has presented nothing to suggest that she is not fully certified to teach the middle school classes to which she was assigned. It is apparent, though, that respondent both prefers to teach elementary students and that she is uncomfortable in a middle school environment. Respondent's preferences, however, do not excuse her failure to act in a professional manner. Respondent was aware in the Spring of 2004 that she was going to be re-assigned from her elementary Special Education teaching position to the position of Special Education Teacher at the middle school for the 2004-2005 school year. Instead of declining to sign the teaching contract for the 2004-2005 school year or giving notice of her resignation by July 1, 2004, as required by her contract, respondent spent the summer trying to find another position. When she was unsuccessful, respondent gave her notice of resignation on September 2, 2004, one day after school began. It is evident from these actions that respondent was trying to keep her options open without any consideration of her responsibilities to the school district and her students. The Commissioner, therefore, concludes that respondent's desire for an early release from her professional obligations was based solely on personal motives and convenience.

Additionally, the ALJ found that respondent's actions of blocking any incoming email messages from the school district, not accepting telephone calls, and lying to the superintendent about having another job were mitigating factors because they demonstrated that respondent was under stress. The Commissioner disagrees. Unlike the ALJ, the Commissioner finds these actions only serve to support the conclusion that respondent acted unprofessionally. Moreover, respondent's offer to surrender her teaching certificate for the 2004-2005 school year and the de facto suspension she imposed on herself by not seeking employment as a teacher since her September 2004 resignation demonstrate respondent's attempt to control the situation for her personal convenience.

The Commissioner emphasizes that "[t]he obvious purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 is to provide notice to the school so that a suitable replacement can be hired without adversely impacting students" (Bd. of Ed. of Penns Grove-Carneys Point Reg. Sch. Dist. v. Leinen, 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 405, 407, citations omitted). By resigning from her teaching position with only five days notice on the second day of school, petitioner showed a blatant disregard for the middle school students assigned to her care and the District's ability to find a suitable replacement on such short notice. Even if the Board were able to find a replacement quickly, however, such replacement would not negate respondent's unprofessional conduct. (See Aiken, supra, at 2821)

For the reasons set forth above, therefore, the Commissioner agrees with the Board that, in resigning abruptly, respondent's actions of putting her own self-interest above the interests of her students and her professional obligation to provide adequate notice to the Board dictate the maximum penalty. Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 and consistent with the penalty assessed in similar matters, respondent Mary Savino is deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct and her teaching certificate is hereby suspended for a period of one year, which period shall commence upon the date of this decision. (See, e.g., Montalbano, supra; Farran, supra; and Aiken, supra.) A copy of this decision is being forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for the purpose of effectuating the within decision and taking such further action, if any, as it deems appropriate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

SUMMARY DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 11688-04

AGENCY DKT. NO. 360-10/04

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF MARY SAVINO, RAHWAY BOARD OF EDUCATION, UNION COUNTY

John A. Boppert, Esq., for Appellant
(Oxfeld Cohen, PC),

Alan J. Schnirman, Esq., for Respondent
(Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso and Kessler)

Record Closed: July 27, 2005 Decided: July 28, 2005

BEFORE SANDRA ANN ROBINSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, the Rahway Board of Education, seeks the prospective suspension of the teaching certificate of Respondent, Mary Savino, for failing to provide a 60-day notice of resignation to the District. Respondent contends she had mitigating circumstances and was compelled to resign due to her unfitness to teach middle school.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On September 24, 2004, the Rahway Board of Education filed documents with the Commissioner of Education seeking an Order to suspend Respondent's teaching certification for a period not to exceed one year. The Department of Education Bureau of Controversies and Disputes transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on November 23, 2004 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to B-15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to F-13. On January 3, 2005, the undersigned was appointed to the case; and on January 13, 2005 the OAL Clerk scheduled a plenary hearing for June 3 and 6, 2005. The June hearing dates were adjourned because of an attorney scheduling conflict. The OAL rescheduled the matter for a de novo hearing on December 21, 2005. In the interim, counsel for Respondent requested that the matter move forward on a Summary Decision. Motions, cross-motions and briefs were received at OAL by May 31, 2005. Oral arguments and/or joint stipulation of facts were accepted on July 27, 2005 at 11AM; thereafter on the same date the record closed.

UNDISPUTED FACTS

1. Respondent Mary Savino is the holder of a New Jersey teaching certificate.

2. On or about May 11, 2004, Respondent entered into an employment contract with Petitioner, Board of Education of Rahway.

3. The employment contract terms required Respondent to serve as a teacher in the public schools, under the control of the Rahway Board of Education from the 1st day of September 2004, to the 30th day of June 2005.

4. The employment contract signed by Respondent specified that:

> "It is hereby agreed by the parties hereto that this contract may at any time be terminated by either party giving to the other 60 days' notice in writing of intention to terminate the same, but that in the absence of any provision herein for a definite number of days' notice that contract shall run for the full term named above."

5. On September 2, 2004, one day after the start of the 2004-2005 school contract year, Respondent tendered her resignation via e-mail to the Rahway Board of Education, effective September 7, 2004.

6. Respondent indicated in her e-mail that she resigned because she wanted an elementary school position, and not the middle school position she was assigned to.

7. Respondent did not report to work as a teacher at the beginning or at any time during the 2004-2005 school year.

8. The Rahway Board of Education did not consent to Respondent's resignation on less than 60 days' notice.

9. On November 3, 2004, Respondent wrote a letter to the Commissioner of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, explaining the reasons for the sudden nature of her resignation.

10. On November 15, 2004, Respondent wrote a letter to M. Kathleen Duncan, Director of Controversies and Disputes for the Department of Education, offering through counsel to refrain from contesting a suspension of her certificate through June 30, 2005.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.12(a), the Commissioner of Education shall apply the standard set forth in the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules in deciding motions for summary decision. Under *R.*1: 1-12.5(b) of the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, a motion for summary decision shall be rendered:

> if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits,
>
> if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged > and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law.

In Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, 142 NJ. 520 at 541 (1995), the New Jersey Supreme Court determined that "when the evidence is 'so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law,' the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment..." Also, in Celotex Com. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986) the U.S. Supreme Court explained that: "one of the principal purposes of the summary judgment rule is to isolate and dispose of factually unsupported claims or defenses"...

The instant case is ripe for Summary Judgment / Decision, except it is the undersigned's opinion that a limited oral presentation setting forth the resolutions of the parties during a spring 2004 meeting was required. Respondent requested the meeting to discuss a middle school teaching assignment versus an elementary school assignment.

The Rahway Board of Education contends it should prevail as a matter of law because respondent failed to give the requisite notice of resignation. As per N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8, teaching staff members employed by a local board of education must adhere to the following statute when resigning from their teaching positions:

> Any teaching staff member, under tenure of service, desiring to relinquish his position shall give the employing board of education at least 60 days written notice of his intention, unless the board shall approve of a release on shorter notice and if he fails to give such notice he shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct and the commissioner may suspend his certificate for not more than one year.

Further, N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 provides that:

> Any teaching staff member employed by a board of education, who shall, without the consent of the Board, cease to perform his duties before the expiration of the term of his employment, shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct, and the commissioner may, upon receiving notice thereof, suspend his certificate for a period not exceeding one year.

Under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 and N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10, a resignation on less than 60 days' notice, absent consent from the local board of education for a lesser notice period, constitutes unprofessional conduct. In the present matter, it is undisputed that Respondent did not report to work nor at any time did the Board approve of Respondent's early release from her teaching duties. Therefore it is clear that Respondent violated the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 and N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 and is guilty, per se, of unprofessional conduct.

The Commissioner has discretionary authority to suspend a teaching certificate for up to one year for failure to provide such notice. N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8. See also, N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.9. The duration of any penalty is discretionary and the maximum penalty of up to one year is not mandatory or automatic, even in cases where the employee did not obtain the employer's consent to resign. In The Matter of the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate of Burgess, 1983 S.L.D. 183, adopted, Comm'r, 1983 S.L.D. 195. N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.9 states, in pertinent part:

> (a) A teacher employed by a district board of education who, without the consent of the board, ceases to perform his or her duties prior to the expiration of the employment, shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct.
> (b) The Commissioner may, upon receiving notice of the fact, suspend the certificate for a period not to exceed one year. (Emphasis supplied).

Since it is undisputed that Respondent is guilty of unprofessional conduct under N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8, and N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.9, the issue in this case is what constitutes an appropriate term for the suspension of Respondent's teaching certificate, under the circumstances. The applicable statutes and regulations afford the Commissioner the discretion to impose a suspension of a lesser term. Petitioner is requesting that the maximum term be imposed: a one-year suspension, starting from the date of this decision. Respondent is specifically asking for a suspension from September 1, 2004 to June 30, 2005.

A violation of the 60-day resignation notice requirement does not automatically trigger a flat 365-day suspension. The Commissioner has found mitigating circumstances in some cases which justified a lesser suspension term. Less than one-year suspensions were imposed in the following three cases, due to mitigating factors: The Board of Education of Black Horse Pike Regional School District v. Mooney, 1984 S.L.D. 810, adopted, Comm'r, 1984 S.L.D. 821; In the Matter of the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate of Burgess, 1983 S.L.D. 183, adopted, Comm'r, 1983 S.L.D. 195; and In the Matter of the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate of Rogers, 1989 S.L.D. 1962, adopted, Comm'r, 1989 S.L.D. 1968.

In Burgess, supra, the Commissioner held that suspension of a teaching certificate was not warranted for a teacher who had left employment without providing the requisite notice. The teacher had provided notice on January 29, 1982 that he would resign as of February 15, 1982. The board accepted his resignation and advised him that it would do all it could to find a replacement for him by February 15, but that he would not be released earlier than 60 days from the date of his notice unless the board found a suitable replacement. The Commissioner concluded that a suspension was not warranted because the board had not carried out its promise to the employee to do all that it could to secure a replacement by February 15.

The language in the statues and regulations "may upon receiving notice" clearly indicates that the Legislature did not intend the suspension of a teacher's certificate to be automatic, "even absent the board's consent". As set forth in Mooney, supra, in exercising its discretionary authority, the Commissioner must consider all the attendant circumstances, including any mitigating factors specific to the case which may compel the conclusion that a suspension for less than one year is appropriate. In Mooney, the Commissioner held that suspension was not warranted in light of the teaching staff member's considerable efforts to assist the board of education in ensuring a smooth transition for her replacement. In Mooney, the teacher assisted in the development of a program through the end of the school year, met with her successor in order to establish the program, and left final grades for her classes.

A less-than-one-year suspension has been deemed appropriate where the teacher's conduct in seeking an early release was driven not simply by a desire to "feather his own nest" by obtaining employment elsewhere, but rather from "honest" and more "noble" motivations. In Rogers, supra, a non-tenured teacher of the handicapped resigned on short notice to take a position working with severely handicapped children.

> At the last minute he had questions about what work he was best suited to. He had worked in another school district for a year as well as worked with the severely and multiply handicapped at New Libson. The children served by the Board are much less and differently handicapped than the New Libson population. Different teaching qualities, techniques and temperaments are required in serving these very different groups. Notwithstanding the burdens of New Libson's work, school districts almost invariably pay better than does the State and the State has considerable difficulty obtaining sufficient dependable staff for that work. Civil service decisions out of the State developmental centers demonstrate a continuing theme of inability to obtain and hold staff due to the pay and working conditions there.

Although Rogers in fact left to take another position, the desire to work with severely handicapped children was considered a mitigating factor that precluded a one-year suspension; a three-month suspension was found to be appropriate. The ALJ wrote:

> I am persuaded that it was not to feather his own nest that Rogers failed to fulfill his contract with the Board, but rather from honest and most noble motivations...

Conversely, the Commissioner will impose the maximum one-year suspension, starting from the date of decision, in cases where a teacher violates the 60-day notice requirement for strictly personal reasons. In East Amwell Township Board of Education v. Acken, 86 S.L.D. 2803, a teacher failed to provide the Board with the required notice, and resigned one week before the start of school. The failure to provide unequivocal oral notice of her intention to relinquish her position was found to be based upon personal motives. She and her spouse were living in Florida, he was unemployed, and their house in New Jersey had not sold. The teacher's uncertainty as to their future continually delayed her decision. The ALJ determined that the teacher wished to resign her post, but considered herself financially unable to do so. The ALJ wrote:

> In effect, she keeps her irons in the fire right up to the week before school is to begin, thus guaranteeing herself employment in East Amwell, if nothing else became available in Florida or her husband remained unemployed. Ms. Acken also suggests that her resignation was tendered so late and without the 60-day notice because of her concern for the students. She suggests that she wished the students to have one teacher for the year instead of switching teachers in mid-stream. While the concern she expresses may be genuine, the purpose of the notice requirement is to provide the School and the administrator with sufficient time to locate and hire an acceptable replacement so that the students are not switched from substitute to substitute until a replacement is hired.

In the case captioned, In the Matter of the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate of Vincent Montalbano, OAL Dkt. No. EDU3588-00, Initial Decision (April 24, 2001), adopted, Comm'r. (June 11, 2001), the Commissioner of Education ordered a one year suspension of the teaching certificate of Montalbano following his departure from the Ridgefield School District on twelve days' notice. In Montalbano, the ALJ determined that the employee's need for an early release from his teaching contract was motivated by purely personal reasons, specifically his desire to secure alternative employment as a police officer in the State of New Jersey. The Commissioner found that the facts surrounding Montalbano's mid-term departure could not obviate his obligation to continue serving in his teaching position for the required 60 days.

In the recent case, In The Matter of the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate of

Mary Farran, School District of the Chathams, Morris County (Agency Docket No. 415-11/04) the Commissioner concluded that Farran was guilty of unprofessional conduct, and ordered that her teaching certificate be suspended for one year. She resigned her position without proper notice, after deciding that it was a hardship for her to continue to teach while caring for an infant child and commuting from her new home in Pennsylvania. The Commissioner said, even though she was aware of her obligation to provide 60 days' notice, that Farran had "put her own self-interest above the interests of her students and her professional obligations to provide adequate notice to the Board." Additionally, the Commissioner found no merit in Farran's argument that her unprofessional conduct could be excused due to the lack of notification by the school district of its intent to seek suspension of her license.

In the present case, Petitioner contends that Respondent intended to abandon her class for another job, as indicated in Respondent's letter of November 3, 2004 to the Commissioner:

> "This summer, after an unsuccessful search for an elementary school position in another district, I felt that I had no choice but to return to Rahway" (document attached).

Unlike the facts in Montalbano, the undisputed facts in Respondent's case set forth that she did not take other employment. Respondent has neither worked as nor sought employment as a teacher since her resignation in September of 2004. Respondent's letter allows a reader to reasonably believe that the job search was a result of her fear of failure and of her own inadequacy for the middle school special education assignment. As Respondent continued in her letter:

> "I have reached a point, at 55 years of age, where I can no longer force myself to do what I feel so uncomfortable with and for which I feel so ill suited. Even if I could start the year, I was sure that I could not muster the strength to finish the school year" (document attached).

Dr. Petrino, Superintendent of Schools, telephoned Respondent on September 3, 2004, to speak about the letter of resignation. He said she signed a contract to work in the Rahway Public Schools for the 2004-05 school year and that she was obligated to honor the contract. He specifically explained to that her failure to honor the 60-day required advance notice could jeopardize her teaching certificate. Dr. Petrino submitted an Affidavit regarding his communications with Respondent (document attached).

In regard to Respondent's reference to starting another job, she explains the situation in the November 3, 2004 letter to Commissioner Librera:

> "In an effort to end a very unpleasant conversation, I told him (Dr. Petrino) that I could not return because I would be starting with another school system. This was untrue. In hindsight, if I had told the truth and told him why I felt that I couldn't return, things would not have gotten so ugly. He threatened to sue the district that hired me and said that he would begin the process to have my certificates suspended. Knowing this, I discontinued my job search and I am still unemployed" (emphasis added).

Petitioner contends that on September 3, 2004, Respondent could have reconsidered and returned to work for the requisite 60 days so as to comply with the governing notice statutes; but since she did not, the full suspension period of one year under N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 should be imposed.

The most weighty factor in reviewing an appropriate length of suspension for a Respondent is motivation. The statute defines sudden cessation of duty as unprofessional conduct and upon the occurrence of unprofessional conduct the Commissioner may suspend a teaching certificate for up to one year. I FIND the following circumstances in the present case:

Respondent, a fifty-five (55) year old teacher, returned to teaching after an eleven (11) year break in service;

Petitioner interviewed Respondent for a teaching position and offered her a position at the middle school: Respondent declined the position, saying that she was unfit;

One year later, Petitioner offered Respondent a teaching position in the elementary school; she accepted the position and at the end of the first year was asked to return for a second year of teaching in the elementary school: she accepted;

At the end of the second year, Petitioner asked Respondent to continue teaching in the district and advised her that the position would be in the middle school;

Respondent requested a meeting in an effort to obtain an assignment in the elementary school; no promises were made at the meeting but Petitioner's representative said she would "sleep on" the matter;

Respondent looked for another elementary school teaching position for most of the summer without success and beyond the 60-day notice deadline on July 1, 2004;

Respondent's reluctance to teach in a middle school environment continued;

Respondent became so stressed and fearful by September 1, 2004, the commencement date for the 2004 school year, that she took matters into her own hands and emailed the school to resign; Respondent lied to the superintendent when he confronted her during a subsequent telephone conversation;

Respondent's actions of blocking any incoming email messages from Petitioner, not accepting telephone calls, lying to her superior about another job, and volunteering to surrender her teaching certificate for one year is an indication of the extreme stress and fear she was experiencing;

Respondent believed, for whatever reasons, that she was unfit to teach at the middle school level; her talents in elementary school were proven two years in a row when Petitioner asked her to return to elementary school;

Respondent was not trying to "run away" from the district; no motive of self-interest was ever suggested by Petitioner;

Respondent did not violate the 60-day notice requirement in order to "feather her own nest";

Respondent's contention that she could not perform or carry out her teaching responsibilities because of her unfitness to teach in the middle school environment is undisputed and is credible;

Respondent imposed a de facto suspension on herself, by not seeking employment as a teacher since her resignation in September of 2004.

CONCLUSION

Based on all of the above, I CONCLUDE that a suspension for one year is unnecessarily harsh in this case. Respondent did not teach for the entire 2004-2005 school year because of her resignation due to her belief that she would jeopardize the training needs of her students because of her fear of unfitness for the job. In this case Respondent's honesty should be considered a mitigating factor. Imposing the suspension sought by Petitioner would, realistically, preclude Respondent from working as a teacher until September of 2006. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that Respondent's teaching certificate should be suspended for sixty (60) days from the date of this decision, which will enable her to seek a teaching job for at least a portion of the upcoming school year.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that the teaching certificate of Mary Savino be and hereby is suspended for a period of sixty (60) days, commencing July 28, 2005 and ending September 26, 2005.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this emergent matter, which included the audiotape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law on August 23, 2005, and the Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner adopts the Order denying emergent relief as he concurs with the ALJ's determination that petitioner has not satisfied any of the requirements necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Accordingly, the within application for emergent relief is hereby denied. This matter shall proceed to plenary hearing on its merits, scheduled for September 9 and September 23, 2005, as directed by the ALJ.

ORDER – EMERGENT RELIEF

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6143-05

AGENCY DKT. NO. 186-8/05

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE VINELAND SCHOOL DISTRICT'S PARENT ADVISORY COMMITTEE ON BILINGUAL EDUCATION, Petitioners,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF VINELAND,

Respondent.

Lazlo Beh, Esq. for petitioner (South Jersey Legal Services, Inc., attorneys)

Paul Kalac, Esq., for respondent (Parker, McCay & Criscuolo, attorneys)

BEFORE BRUCE M. GORMAN, ALJ:

The New Jersey Department of Education (DOE) Bureau of Controversies received a request for relief on July 29, 2005. Petitioner contends the Board of Education's Mennies Pilot Program does not meet the requirements of a full-time program of bilingual education and seeks reinstatement of a compliant program. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on August 3, 2005. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. The Director of the OAL assigned the undersigned to hear this matter pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-5o.

The New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, received a petition for emergent relief on or about July 29, 2005. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on August 3, 2005, to be heard as an emergent contested case. .

The matter was scheduled for oral argument for August 11, 2005, but was adjourned as respondent's counsel was on vacation. The matter was rescheduled for August 23, 2005, at the OAL office in Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Petitioner brings this matter on an emergent basis seeking an Order enjoining respondent from enrolling third and fourth grade students in its Pilot Program at its Mennies School and transferring them into an existing bilingual program at the district's Johnstone School. Additionally, petitioner seeks an Order compelling respondent to provide a full-time bilingual program to all eligible third and fourth grade students.

The petition is grounded in N.J.S.A. 18A:35-18, which states:

> a. When, at the beginning of any school year, there are within the schools of the district 20 or more pupils of limited English-speaking ability in any one language classification, the board of education shall establish, for each such classification, a program in bilingual education for all the pupils therein; provided, however, that a board of education may establish a program in bilingual education for any language classification with less than 20 children therein.
> b. The Commissioner of Education may waive the requirement that a board of education establish a full time bilingual education program when the board is able to demonstrate that due to the age range, grade span or geographic location of the eligible pupils it would be impractical to provide a full time bilingual education program. The waiver shall permit the district to implement a special alternative instructional program for as long as the conditions exist that justified the waiver.

Petitioner argues that respondent has failed to provide the mandated program. In support of that contention, petitioner relies primarily upon the Certification of Minerva Negron. Ms. Negron is the mother of S.R., a third grade student in the Pilot Program during the 2004-2005 school year. Ms. Negron's certification states that her daughter never brought home books or assignments in Spanish. An open house for parents in the Spring of 2005 was conducted entirely in English. At the conclusion of the school year, S.R. was unable to either read or write in Spanish.

Petitioner also relies upon a newspaper article from the Vineland Daily Journal wherein Millie Ramos, District Supervisor of Instruction for Bilingual Programs appeared to be critical of respondent's handling of bilingual education.

Petitioner argued that respondent obtained a waiver from the Department of Education for its 2004-2005 program, but has failed to do so for 2005-2006. Petitioner asserted that DOE has approved no program for bilingual instruction to the present time.

Respondent submitted no affidavits or certifications, but relied solely on the argument of counsel and brief testimony by Annette Rudd, Principal. Ms. Rudd testified respondent had prepared a program (R-1), but admitted that State approval was pending.

Respondent's counsel argued that no irreparable harm existed because respondent already had in place a program that complies with State requirements. Although respondent offered no proof that such is the case, petitioner offered no proof that such is not the case. Respondent contended that since a program exists, petitioner's children will be properly educated, and therefore the equities and interests should be balanced in favor of respondent.

Petitioner argued that the law on this issue is settled, citing N.J.S.A. 18A:35-18. Respondent retorted that while that statute required a program, no case law exists on the subject.

Respondent argued that there is insufficient likelihood that petitioner will prevail on the merits, because petitioner is relying solely on the opinions of certain parents.

The requirements for granting emergent relief are well settled. Petitioner carries the burden in seeking emergent relief. The standard is set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), necessary for the awarding of this relief. See also, Princeton Ins. Co. v. 349 Associates, L.L.C. 147 N.J. 337, 340(1997). Crowe requires a showing of each of the four specific criteria:

> 1. The relief must not be granted except when necessary to prevent irreparable harm, or harm for which there is no adequate legal remedy;
> 2. Relief should not be granted when the legal right underlying the applicant's claim is unsettled;
>
> 3. The applicant for relief must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits; and
> 4. The relative hardship to the parties in granting or denying relief must be considered. Id. at 132-34.

Petitioner's application for emergent relief falls short in all of the Crowe criteria, essentially for one reason. Petitioner has submitted only the certification of Ms. Negron to form a factual basis for its allegations. The newspaper article quoting Ms. Ramos is hearsay, and I have no way of determining whether her statements were taken out of context.

The allegations and legal arguments raised by petitioner are significant, but at this juncture, the record contains an insufficient factual basis for me to determine that petitioner has a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits. A far greater quantum of proof will be necessary for petitioner to prevail at trial.

Similarly, Ms. Negron's allegations that S.R. received no instruction in Spanish cannot alone establish that the students in the Pilot Program will suffer irreparable harm if the emergent relief is not granted. Respondent argues it has a program in place. While the lack of DOE approval is troubling, to date DOE has not rejected the proposed program. And I note that, should the program subsequently be found inadequate, either by me at trial or by DOE following its review, the affected students could be provided with remedial education to make up for what the program lacked.

Finally, while the law is settled that respondent must provide an appropriate program, whether the current program meets the legal standard is a fact-driven issue. Questions of fact can only be resolved at trial.

Accordingly, I FIND and CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to show a reasonable probability of success on the merits. I FIND and CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to establish the children in question will suffer irreparable harm. And I FIND and CONCLUDE that the balancing of relative hardship weighs in favor of respondent.

Therefore, I FIND and CONCLUDE that emergent relief should be denied.

During oral argument, an issue was raised regarding the standing of petitioner to bring this action. The parties disputed petitioner's origins and could not agree on what authority it had. That issue will be easily resolved by petitioner filing an amended petition joining at least one child, together with the child's guardian, who is affected by the 2005-2006 program.

ORDER

I ORDER that petitioner's application for emergent relief by DENIED.

I ORDER that petitioner be granted leave to file an amended petition adding one or more children affected by the 2005-2006 program as parties hereto, within ten (10) days from the date of this ORDER.

A plenary hearing is scheduled for September 9 and September 23, 2005, at 9:30 a.m. at the OAL office located at 1601 Atlantic Avenue, Atlantic City, New Jersey.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

ENRICO CIAMILLO, JR., :

PETITIONER, :

V. : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
DECISION

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF :
THE BOROUGH OF RIDGEFIELD,
BERGEN COUNTY, :

RESPONDENT. :

The record in this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and petitioner's exceptions have been thoroughly and independently reviewed. After considering the facts and applicable law, the Commissioner is constrained to adopt the Initial Decision.

The underlying facts in this case are not disputed. Petitioner holds certifications as a teacher (art), school social worker, guidance counselor, guidance director, and principal and supervisor. He began employment for respondent in 1994 as a guidance counselor, and has continued working in the Ridgefield schools to the present. Under the terms of a contract between respondent and the Ridgefield Education Association, guidance counselors must work for two weeks each summer.

In 1996-1997 petitioner accepted a position with the "unrecognized title" of "Guidance Consociate Teacher." The job description for Consociate teacher required an administrative certificate with a supervisor endorsement, and tenure in that position would be earned under the legal title of "Supervisor." The salary was to be the appropriate step on the teachers' salary guide plus a stipend. The position of "Consociate Teacher" was listed in "Extra Service Guides" (annexed, inter alia, to the 1995-1996, 1996-1997 and 2001-2004 contracts between respondent and its employees), which set forth negotiated amounts payable to employees performing various "extra" positions. Thus, petitioner's annual salary notices from the 1996-1997 school year through the 2003-2004 school year showed petitioner's base salary as per petitioner's placement and step on the salary guide, and separately set forth the amount of remuneration petitioner was to receive for summer work and for extra work as a Consociate Teacher.

For the school years beginning in 1996, 1997, 1998, 1999, 2000, 2001 and 2002, petitioner did the extra work of Consociate Teacher, in addition to his guidance position. The extra consociate work in 1996-1997 brought petitioner $4,084 over his "contractual" salary of over $76,500. In 1997-1998 the stipend for consociate work was $4,235; in 1998-1999, $4,396; in 2002-2003, $6,061, bringing his total remuneration for that year to $96,334.

Petitioner was not reappointed to the Guidance Consociate Teacher position for the 2003-2004 school year. An "Annual Salary Notice to Tenure Personnel" dated April 29, 2003 and received by petitioner in May 2003 shows that for the 2003-2004 school year petitioner's contractual salary would be $90, 694, representing his step on the salary guide plus $4,319 for two weeks of summer work. The reduction in pay from 2002-2003 to 2003-2004 represented primarily the absence of any stipend for consociate work.

On May 7, 2003 the high school principal, Dr. Robert Jack, met with petitioner and explained that economic restraints caused him to conclude that the consociate position would not be viable for the coming school year. They met again on May 13, 2003. Dr. Jack advised petitioner that cost efficiencies mandated by the diminution of the district's magnet school program (and the associated special education funding) had been the basis of his recommendation not to renew petitioner's consociate work.

Petitioner acknowledges that sometime in May 2003 he received the annual salary notice that revealed the elimination of the consociate work. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that petitioner admitted "that he knew no later than June 15, 2003 that he was not going to be the Guidance Consociate Teacher." (Initial Decision at 9)

As a result of an administrative reorganization, the duties of Guidance Consociate Teacher were incorporated into the Vice-Principal's job. Respondent has not subsequently appointed any other individual to the position of Guidance Consociate Teacher, and has stipulated that petitioner has tenure/seniority rights to the position. Petitioner has not disputed that the reorganization was driven by economic reasons, or argued that the reorganization was a sham or perpetrated in bad faith.

Petitioner filed his appeal on December 11, 2003.

Allegations by petitioner to which respondent does not subscribe are as follows. Petitioner contends that at their May meetings Dr. Jack told petitioner that the departure of the district superintendent would allow petitioner to be reinstated to the consociate work during the summer of 2003. Petitioner also maintains that at the school prom in June 2003, members of the respondent board of education told him they would correct the situation. Petitioner says he relied upon these statements and consequently did not realize that he was not reappointed until September 15, 2003, the date of his first paycheck. Petitioner also noted that he did not know of any other consociate whose salary was reduced.

Petitioner also suggested that the consociate position was not an "extra service" position. He testified that it was not posted in the same manner that other extra service positions were posted, he never received a separate extra-service contract, and his last consociate appointment had not been acted upon at the June 11, 2002 meeting of the respondent board of education. (Initial Decision at 11) He also opined that extra service payments were made quarterly and were not pensionable, while he received payment on a biweekly basis and all his income was reported for pension purposes. (Ibid.)

On cross examination petitioner conceded that he did not know whether there had been job postings that he had not seen, that he did not know whether the respondent Board might have acted upon his last consociate position at a meeting other than the one on June 11, 2002, and that he was not actually familiar with the regulations regarding pensionable income. (Ibid.)

The ALJ found that petitioner's appeal of respondent's action was time barred, and determined that it was consequently unnecessary to reach the merits of petitioner's claim of tenure violation. In his exceptions, petitioner argues that since respondent conceded that petitioner had tenure in the position of Guidance Consociate Teacher, the ALJ should have first determined whether respondent violated petitioner's tenure rights and then decided "whether tenure rights are subservient to the 90-day rule." (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2)

Citing no authority, petitioner contends that the 90-day rule does not apply to alleged tenure violations. In the alternative, petitioner maintains that even if the 90-day rule applies to appeals of alleged tenure violations, that rule should be relaxed in petitioner's case because of the alleged "assurances" of reinstatement from the principal, Mr. Jack, and certain Board members, and because he did not know until his first paycheck that his salary had been lowered.

The Commissioner finds no merit in petitioner's exceptions. The question of whether petitioner has tenure in the position of Guidance Consociate Teacher is not determinative of the applicability of the 90-day rule. Assuming, arguendo, that petitioner has such tenure, he was none-the-less obliged, under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d), to "file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." (Initial Decision at 13) S*ee, e.g.*, Gordon v. Passaic Twp. Bd. Of Educ., 1985 S.L.D. 1929, aff'd. No. A-3294-84T7 (App. Div. May 27, 1986) (unreported), certif. den. 105 N.J. 534 (1986) (the statute of limitations specified in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 [predecessor of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3] applies to claims . . . which allege the violation of tenure or seniority rights).

The event which triggers the limitations period is the petitioner's receipt of adequate notice of the Board's action, i.e., notice that is "sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate." Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ. of Berkeley Twp. , 131 N.J. 572, 587 (1993). Petitioner received an official written communication in May 2003 that he was not reappointed to the consociate position and that his salary would be lowered. No subsequent written notice was produced that contradicted same. Thus, the period of limitations began in May 2003 and ended in August 2003.

Further, petitioner's statement that he did not know that the Board's action had not been "corrected" until he received his first paycheck seems disingenuous. Clearly, as of the first day of school in September, petitioner knew that he was not performing consociate work, and would thus not be paid for it. In all likelihood, December 11, 2003, the day petitioner filed, was more than 90 days after the first day of school in September 2003. In any event, as the ALJ stated, "[t]he 90-day clock begins to tick once notice of the final order, ruling or other action is given, and not when the injury is felt by the petitioner." (Initial Decision at 14, citing Nissman v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Long Beach Island, 272 N.J.Super. 373, 379-81 (App.Div.), certif. den. 137 N.J. 315 (1994). Not even settlement negotiations negate the receipt of adequate notice or toll the running of the limitations period. Kaprow, supra, 131 N.J. at 588.

The Commissioner also notes that this controversy arose in the context of a reduction in force (RIF). It is undisputed that the Guidance Consociate Teacher position was eliminated for economic reasons, and no one else was subsequently given the position. N.J.S.A. 18A: 28-9 allows such a RIF. While N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12 entitles petitioner to be on a preferred eligibility list for reemployment if the position is restored, petitioner has no statutory right to retain the salary he had before the RIF. In any event, if petitioner wished to challenge the effects of the RIF upon him, he was required to do so within the 90-day period. Kaprow, supra, 131 N.J. at 585-586 (Rights resulting from RIFs in the local school districts do not constitute a statutory entitlement; the limitations period of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) [N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3], therefore, applies).

Finally, for the reasons set forth in pages 23-25 of the Initial Decision, the Commissioner declines to exercise his discretion, under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16, to relax the 90-day rule. In May 2003 the petitioner had the information he needed to challenge respondent's action. In this matter there is no constitutional issue or compelling public interest beyond the concern of the petitioner. Bogart v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of East Orange, OAL DKT. EDU 6245-82 at 4 (January 26, 1983), adopted, Commissioner March 14, 1983. Nor has there been any showing that respondent acted in bad faith, as was found in New Jersey School Boards Ass'n. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Wyckoff, Agency Dkt. No. 281-9/99 (Commissioner, February 3, 2000), where, for six years, the respondent had not forwarded to petitioner the dues that were deducted from employee paychecks for the express purpose of transmittal to petitioner.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted and petitioner's appeal is hereby dismissed.

ENRICO CIAMILLO, JR.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF RIDGEFIELD, BERGEN COUNTY,

Respondent.

Harold N. Springstead, Esq., for petitioner (Springstead and Maurice, attorneys)

Stanley Turitz, Esq., for respondent (Ferrara, Turitz, Harraka & Goldberg, attorneys)

Record Closed: February 28, 2005 Decided: July 15, 2005

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

In this matter, petitioner alleges that he acquired tenure in the position of Guidance Consociate Teacher and the Board of Education of the Borough of Ridgefield (the Board) unlawfully reduced his salary stemming from the abolishment of that position effective September 1, 2003. The Board maintains that petitioner's claim is time barred pursuant to the 90-day limitation embodied in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3. Alternatively, the Board contends that the abolished position previously held by petitioner was a stipend position, which is not tenurable, and upon the abolishment of the position petitioner is no longer entitled to the stipend salary attributable to that position.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On December 11, 2003, petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education (the Commissioner). Petitioner avers that he is a tenure teacher employed by the Board, petitioner was paid $96,334 pursuant to a contract during the 2002-2003 school year, and petitioner "received his first paycheck in September and realized that his salary had been reduced." Petitioner alleges that the Board's action in reducing his salary violates N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 and is arbitrary, unreasonable and illegal. Petitioner seeks a determination requiring the Board to pay his former salary plus increments. On or about January 9, 2004, the Board filed its Answer. The Board asserts, as one of its affirmative defenses, that petitioner's claim is time barred by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d) in that it was filed beyond the required 90-day time period.

The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law where, on February 26, 2004, it was filed for determination as a contested case. The matter was assigned to the undersigned on March 29, 2004 and scheduled for hearing on September 10 and September 24, 2004. The hearing scheduled for September 10, 2004 was adjourned at the joint request of counsel. The undersigned heard the matter on September 24, 2004. At the hearing, counsel agreed that the hearing should proceed on all issues notwithstanding the timeliness issue, which the parties would address in post-hearing submissions. Following the conclusion of testimony, the record remained open for the receipt of post-hearing briefs. The parties submitted briefs in support of their respective positions and petitioner submitted a reply brief. Thereafter, petitioner provided a copy of an unreported decision cited in his reply brief. The record was closed upon receipt of the last submission.[1] [1] Orders were entered extending the time within which to complete this Initial Decision.

ISSUES PRESENTED

The threshold issue concerns the timeliness of the petitioner's Petition of Appeal pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3. Should petitioner's claim be determined to have been timely filed, the issue then presented is whether the Board violated petitioner's tenure rights when, as a result of the Board's abolishment of the Guidance Consociate position previously held by petitioner, petitioner's salary was reduced as of the 2003-2004 school year.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The majority of the facts surrounding this matter are not disputed. Based upon a review of the testimony and the documentary evidence, I FIND the following FACTS:

1. Petitioner Enrico Ciamillo, Jr. is a tenured teacher employed by respondent, the Board of Education of the Borough of Ridgefield (the Board).

2. Petitioner holds certifications as a Principal-Supervisor, Director of Guidance, Guidance Counselor, School Social Worker and Art Teacher.

3. Petitioner commenced employment with the Board in January 1994 as a Guidance Counselor.

4. Petitioner has served in the position of Guidance Counselor from January 1994 to the present.

5. The Board and petitioner entered into an Employment Contract providing for petitioner's employment as a Guidance Counselor for the period of January 1994 to June 30, 1994. (P-1). Subsequently, the Board and petitioner entered into respective Employment Contracts providing for petitioner's employment as a Guidance Counselor during the 1994-1995 and 1995-1996 school years. (Ibid.). The Employment Contracts set forth petitioner's salary, along with a breakdown of that salary attributable to petitioner's placement and step on the negotiated Salary Guide and for summer work.

6. Pursuant to an agreement between the Board and the Ridgefield Education Association (REA), Guidance Counselors are required to work two weeks during the summer. Schedule B of the negotiated Agreement between the Board and the REA for the period of July 1, 2001 through June 30, 2004 (the 2001-2004 Agreement) (J-1) states in pertinent part:

> Guidance Counselors shall be placed on a ten (10) month Teacher Contract and shall be required to work one (1) week before and one (1) week after the regular teachers work year.
> Compensation shall be at the Counselor's per diem rate....

7. The former Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Richard Sabella, requested and received approval from the County Superintendent to use the unrecognized title of "Consociate Teacher (Special Education)" during the 1994-1995 and 1995-1996 school years (P-9). For the 1996-1997 and 2002-2003 school years, Dr. Sabella requested and received approval to use the unrecognized title of "Consociate Teacher." (Ibid.). The issued approvals reflect the "Authorizing Endorsement" and "Legal Title" as "Supervisor." They further instruct: "You are advised that while you may use the unrecognized title(s) below, the person(s) employed will accrue seniority upon the attainment of tenure under the legal title."

8. Schedule D of the 2001-2004 Agreement, entitled "Extra Service Guide," lists negotiated amounts payable to employees performing various extra positions. (J-1). The position of "Consociate Teacher" is included on that Extra Service Guide, along with the Extra Service Guides for 1995-1996 and 1996-1997. (R-1). "[A] stipend for consociate teachers has appeared on Schedule D since 1990." (J-2, PERC Decision at 5).

9. The additional pay listed on the Extra Service Guide is granted for extra duties which a staff member undertakes that are beyond the staff member's regular teaching or guidance duties.

10. A separate written Job Description exists for the position of Consociate Teacher, which was adopted in May 1996 (P-5; J-2, PERC Decision at 7). Pursuant to the Job Description, a New Jersey Supervisor Certificate is required, coupled with a minimum of three years successful teaching experience, proven leadership ability, demonstration of effective human relation skills and utilization of motivational techniques. The Consociate Teacher reports to the Building Principal where assigned. The Job Description lists the following "Performance Responsibilities":

    a. Assists the principal in the administrative functioning of the building, e.g., scheduling, assembly programs, student conduct, classroom observations.

    b. Assists teachers in the improvement of instruction through modeling, workshops, and dissemination of professional information.

    c. Assists in the accomplishment of professional improvement plans prepared by the teaching staff.

    d. Assumes other such responsibilities as assigned by the Principal or the Superintendent of Schools.

    The Job Description further states, as "Terms of Employment," "10 or 11 month year. Salary to be on appropriate teacher salary guide plus stipend."

11. In 1996, petitioner sent a letter to Dr. Sabella, dated June 6, 1996, at the suggestion of then Building Principal, Marcella Gleie. (P-2). The letter reflects that, per Dr. Sabella's memo, petitioner was enclosing his resume for consideration regarding a Guidance Consociate position.

12. Petitioner was appointed to and held the position of Guidance Consociate Teacher during the 1996-1997 school year in addition to his Guidance Counselor position.

13. After petitioner acquired tenure, the Board provided annual salary notices to petitioner ("Annual Salary Notice To Tenure Personnel") for the 1996-1997 through 2003-2004 school years. (P-3). The respective Notices include petitioner's base salary in accordance with petitioner's placement and Step on the negotiated Salary Guide. The Notices also separately set forth remuneration associated with petitioner's Consociate position(s) and for summer work.

14. An Annual Salary Notice To Tenure Personnel, dated April 25, 1996, reflects that for the 1996-1997 school year petitioner's "contractual salary" would be $74,746, representing "MA+30-Step M $71,187 + $3,559 (2 weeks summer)." (P-3). In a subsequent Annual Salary Notice To Tenure Personnel, dated July 11, 1996, petitioner's "contractual salary" for that school year was increased to $80,610 representing, in part, $4,084 related to petitioner's "Guidance Consociate Teacher" position. (Ibid.)

15. For the 1997-1998 school year, petitioner was appointed to and held the positions of Guidance Consociate Teacher and Transition Consociate in addition to his Guidance Counselor position.

16. An Annual Salary Notice to Tenure Personnel, dated April 22, 1997, sets forth petitioner's "contractual salary," subject to negotiations, for the 1997-1998 school year, including a breakdown of that amount attributable to petitioner's placement on the Salary Guide, summer work and Consociates positions. A later Annual Salary Notice was issued, presumably after negotiations were finalized, dated October 28, 1997, which reflects that for the 1997-1998 school year petitioner's "contractual salary" was $85,317, representing "MA + 30-Step M $73,187 + $3,660 (2 weeks summer) + $4235 Guidance Consociate Teacher + $4235 Transition Consociate." (P-3).

17. For the 1998-1999 school year, petitioner was not reappointed to the position of Transition Consociate. Petitioner was reappointed to and held the position of Guidance Consociate Teacher in addition to his Guidance Counselor position. Although petitioner (then a tenured employee) was not reappointed to the Transition Consociate position, petitioner acknowledges that he did not claim an entitlement to the pay attributable to that position.

18. An Annual Salary Notice To Tenure Personnel, dated August 4, 1998, reflects that for the 1998-1999 school year petitioner's "contractual salary" was $83,237, representing "MA+30-Step M $75,087 + $3,754 (2 weeks summer) + $4,396 Guidance Consociate Teacher." (P-3).

19. Petitioner was reappointed to the position of Guidance Consociate Teacher for the 1999-2000, 2000-2001, 2001-2002 and 2002-2003 school years. The Annual Salary Notices for those years similarly reflect petitioner's "contractual salary," along with a breakdown of that amount attributable to his placement on the Salary Guide, summer weeks and position as Consociate Teacher. (P-3).

20. As reflected in petitioner's Employment Contracts and Annual Salary Notices, commencing with the 1994-1995 school year and through the 1999-2000 school year, petitioner received extra pay for working two weeks in the summer. (P-1, P-3).

21. As reflected in petitioner's Annual Salary Notices, an additional week of summer work was added for the 2000-2001, 2001-2002 and 2002-2003 school years. (P-3).

22. The pay associated with the additional summer work weeks was listed separately from petitioner's base salary in his Employment Contracts and Annual Salary Notices. (P-1, P-3).

23. The pay associated with petitioner's positions as Transition Consociate and Guidance Consociate Teacher was listed separately from petitioner's base salary in his Annual Salary Notices.

24. An Annual Salary Notice To Tenure Personnel, dated May 9, 2002, reflects that for the 2002-2003 school year petitioner's "contractual salary" was $96,334, representing "MA-Step 18 $83,975," "$6,298 3 Weeks Summer," and "$6,061 Consociate Teacher." (P-3).

25. Petitioner was not reappointed to the Guidance Consociate Teacher position for the 2003-2004 school year.

26. An Annual Salary Notice to Tenure Personnel, dated April 29, 2003, reflects that for the 2003-2004 school year petitioner's "contractual salary" would be $90,694, representing "MA-30 Step 18 $86,375" and "$4,319" for two weeks of summer work. (P-3).

27. The difference in salary from the 2002-2003 to 2003-2004 school years relates to the pay associated with petitioner's former Guidance Consociate Teacher position and a reduction of petitioner's summer work from three to two weeks.

28. Petitioner explained that he did not sign the April 29, 2003 Annual Salary Notice because it did not reflect the Consociate position.

29. Dr. Robert Jack, High School Principal, met with petitioner on May 7 and May 13, 2003. The matters addressed at the meetings are memorialized in a memorandum from Dr. Jack to Dr. Sabella dated May 13, 2003 (P-4), the accuracy of which Dr. Jack confirmed at the hearing.

30. On May 7, 2003, Dr. Jack met with petitioner to discuss his observation for the 2003-2004 academic school year. During the meeting, Dr. Jack indicated to petitioner that, given the current economic restraints faced by the District, Dr. Jack believed that the position of Consociate would not be tenable during the upcoming year. (P-4).

31. As further reflected in Dr. Jack's memorandum, upon receipt of petitioner's guidance contract, Dr. Jack again met with petitioner on May 13, 2003, during which petitioner asked why his position of consociate had not been "renewed" for next year. (P-4). The reason given by Dr. Jack is memorialized in aforesaid memorandum. More particularly, Dr. Jack stated that his "building recommendation had been offered to Dr. Sabella in the context of the necessary cost efficiencies mandated by the diminution of the Magnet School Program," Dr. Jack "made this recommendation in the belief that this recommendation would assist the district in coping with a pending fiscal crisis," and "the motivation for this building recommendation was cost efficiency, not performance." (P-4).

32. Petitioner admits that he received the Annual Salary Notice, dated April 29, 2003, "sometime in May," 2003. Based on the evidence, I further FIND that petitioner had received his Annual Salary Notice no later than the May 13, 2003 meeting with Dr. Jack, and discussions transpired during that meeting regarding why petitioner was not appointed to the Consociate position. Petitioner further admits that he knew no later than June 15, 2003 that he was not going to be the Guidance Consociate Teacher.

33. Petitioner filed his Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner on December 11, 2003.

34. As a result of an administrative reorganization, petitioner's former position of Guidance Consociate Teacher was incorporated into the Vice Principal's position and the job duties previously undertaken by petitioner as a Guidance Consociate Teacher were subsumed under the Vice Principal's job title.

35. The Board has not appointed another individual to the Guidance Consociate Teacher position. The Board stipulated that petitioner has seniority to the position of Guidance Consociate Teacher.

The Testimony

In addition to the evidence which forms the foundation of the aforesaid findings of fact, a summary of other testimony presented at the hearing follows.

Enrico Ciamillo

Petitioner described his duties as a Guidance Consociate Teacher. Petitioner testified that he "was there for the Principal for the overall running of the operations of the school." For example, if the principal left the building, petitioner would be in charge of the building. Petitioner "would work closely with the Dean of Students as well as the Assistant to the Principal . . . and the overall operations as well, investigations, student conduct, what have you." In addition, petitioner conducted observations of other teachers. Petitioner was not interviewed for the Guidance Consociate position and, as far as petitioner knew, the position was not posted. When petitioner became a Consociate, the building principal asked petitioner if he would take on an extra week in the summer because she needed more assistance.

Petitioner met with Dr. Jack on May 7 and May 13, 2003. According to petitioner, on May 7, 2003, Dr. Jack stated that the Board was looking to reduce positions and save money. Dr. Jack was not sure at that point which Consociates may be affected. Petitioner acknowledged that he later had a discussion with Dr. Jack about not being appointed to the Consociate position. Dr. Jack also showed petitioner a copy of his May 13, 2003 memorandum to Dr. Sabella. According to petitioner, Dr. Jack told petitioner that, since Dr. Sabella was resigning, Dr. Jack saw no reason why petitioner would not be reinstated during the summer. Petitioner further testified that, during the high school prom in June 2003, three newly elected Board members approached him. In describing his encounter with one of the Board members (Mrs. Fugnitti) petitioner stated:

> "[S]he came over to me and she said that what. . . the new Board members felt what was done to me was wrong and that they were going to correct the situation. But they needed some time. That's what they said.

Petitioner indicated that the first time he knew they did not correct the situation was when he received his first paycheck on September 15, 2003. Petitioner was not aware of any other Consociate Teacher who was, in essence, demoted in salary.

Petitioner testified that his salary, including that associated with the Consociate position and the summer work, was paid in bi-weekly installments and the extra pay is reported for pension purposes. Petitioner noted that pay for stipend positions is made quarterly and opined that it is not pensionable. He further described the procedure with respect to filling extra service positions. Each year the building principal would put a list of extra service positions in the staff's mailboxes. Anyone who was interested in an extra service position would return the letter of interest to the building principal. Petitioner testified that the position of Consociate Teacher was never posted. He presented notifications distributed for extra service contracts during the 2000-2001 to 2004-2005 school years, which do not include Consociate Teacher. (P-6, P-10). Petitioner stated that extra service positions are filled through appointments approved by the Board and presented a sample "Extra Service Contract." (P-8). Petitioner never received an Extra Service Contract relating to the Consociate Teacher position and his name does not appear in the list of appointments made for Extra Service Contracts at a Board meeting on June 11, 2002. (P-7). On cross-examination, petitioner acknowledged that he did not know the number of times throughout the year that the Board may appoint individuals to various positions, there may have been other postings for open extra service positions and petitioner lacked knowledge regarding the regulations addressing what is included in pension payments.

Dr. Robert Jack

Dr. Jack has been employed as the High School Principal for two and one half years. He explained the basis for his recommendation, which culminated in the elimination of the Guidance Consociate position previously held by petitioner. The Ridgefield School District runs a Magnet School Program. In connection with that program, the District receives special education students and related tuition from approximately sixty-seven other districts. The funds received are instrumental to the running of the high school and defray costs, including salaries for special and regular education staff. Based on a percentage wide ratio which is established administratively, if a staff member functions in a capacity with special education, a percentage of their salary is paid through the special education funds. Petitioner's salary was not paid specifically by special education funds. Dr. Jack stated that, if the projections for the special education revenue are lowered, this would have a devastating effect on the high school program, staffing, personnel and programmatic issues. He explained that this is what the District was facing at the time petitioner's position was eliminated.

Dr. Sabella directed Dr. Jack to find cost efficiency measures which could be implemented, in lieu of a potential lack of funding in the District. One of the measures Dr. Jack recommended was the elimination of the Guidance Consociate position. The Guidance Consociate position, when it existed, came directly under Dr. Jack's line of authority. As a result of an administrative reorganization, the job previously undertaken by petitioner as a Guidance Consociate is currently done by the Vice Principal. Dr. Sabella indicated that, from the cost efficiency measures Dr. Jack provided, he would recommend that the District eliminate the Guidance Consociate position. Dr. Sabella directed Dr. Jack to implement the elimination of the consociate position in guidance, which ultimately affected petitioner. Dr. Jack testified that, at the time of his conversations with petitioner, Dr. Jack had no indication Dr. Sabella was leaving the District and, when they discussed the future of petitioner's Consociate position, Dr. Jack indicated that the circumstances as to the elimination of the position would be dictated as to cost efficiency.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The initial issue to be determined is whether petitioner's Petition of Appeal is time barred pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3. The regulation dictates in salient part:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case.[2]

The New Jersey Supreme Court reaffirmed the validity of the 90-day limitation period (then codified as N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c)) in the seminal case of Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ. of Berkeley Twp., 131 N.J. 572 (1993). The Supreme Court concluded that the rule "falls within the scope of statutory authority granted to the Commissioner and the State Board" and "represents a fair and reasonably-necessary requirement for the proper and efficient resolution of disputes under the school laws." Id. at 582. In explaining the underlying purpose of the rule, the Court said:

> The limitations period provides a measure of repose, an essential element in the proper and efficient administration of the school laws. It stabilizes the relationship between the teachers and the administration. Because education disputes frequently involve conflicting claims to one teaching position, the remedy is to award the prevailing party the position with back pay. The limitation period gives school districts the security of knowing that administrative decisions regarding the operation of the school cannot be challenged after ninety days. Moreover, because local school boards operate on a cash basis, claims must be filed promptly so that the local board can anticipate any back-pay requirements....
> [Id. at 582.]

The 90-day period for filing an appeal with the Commissioner is triggered at the point in time that the affected individual has received "adequate notice" of the "final order, ruling or other action," which is the subject of the requested contested case. Although the regulation does not specify what constitutes adequate notice, the decisional law provides guidance. The Supreme Court has instructed that "[a]dequate notice must be sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate." Kaprow, supra, 131 N.J. at 587. It must also be sufficient to further the purpose of the 90-day limitation period. Ibid. The intendment of the rule is two-fold. It is "to stimulate litigants to pursue a right of action within a reasonable time so that the opposing party may have a fair opportunity to defend, thus preventing the litigation of stale claims." Ibid. The rule is further intended to "'penalize dilatoriness and serve as a measure of repose' by giving security and stability to human affairs." Ibid. (citation omitted.) In recognition of these dual considerations, the Supreme Court held that "the notice requirement should effectuate concerns for individual justice by not triggering the limitations period until the tenured teachers have been alerted to the existence of facts that may equate in law with a . . . cause of action" and, "[a]t the same time, it should further considerations of repose by establishing an objective event to trigger the limitations period in order 'to enable the proper and efficient administration of the affairs of government.'" Ibid. In Kaprow, the Court concluded that a letter from the secretary of the local board, which informed the petitioner that the board had created and filled two positions in which the petitioner claimed a tenure right, while "unofficial and informal, was sufficient to trigger the ninety-day limitations period." Id. at 588.

---

The 90-day clock begins to tick once notice of the final order, ruling or other action is given, and not when the injury is felt by the petitioner. See Nissman v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Long Beach Island, 272 N.J. Super. 373, 379-81 (App. Div. 1994), certif. den. 137 N.J. 315 (1994). In Nissman the Appellate Division held that a principal, who was informed in April 1990 that the Board had adopted a resolution not to offer her a contract and not to grant her tenure, was required to file a challenge within 90 days of that notice, even though it was not until the last day of her contract on August 31, 1990 that petitioner claimed she acquired tenure rights. The Appellate Division reasoned that, "[u]pon receipt of the Local Board's resolution, petitioner knew or should have known that she was not going to be offered a new contract for the following academic year; that she was going to be required to serve out the remaining time on her existing contract; that she would complete three full years of service in the district thereby granting her tenure rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5; and, notwithstanding that fact, the Local Board had voted not to grant her tenure." Id. at 379. The court went on to find that "the Local Board had the right to know within 90 days whether its action was going to be challenged," "[u]ndoubtedly the Local Board had to secure and contract with another elementary school principal to take petitioner's place" and, "[t]o allow a teaching staff member, such as petitioner, to file a claim after the commencement of a new academic year in these circumstances defeats the principle of 'repose, an essential element in the proper and efficient administration of the school laws.'" Id. at 380 (citation omitted). As the court observed, pursuant to the provision of the rule, "the 90 days begin on the date on which the final action of the Local Board took place, April 23, 1990, not the date on which petitioner claims that a substantive right accrued," and "[a]n agency regulation that focuses on the date of the employer's wrongful act as the accrual date for a cause of action, rather than the date on which the consequences of the act is directly felt by the employee (termination), is not inherently arbitrary or capricious." Id. at 381.

Equally recognized is that attempts to resolve a claim through negotiations with the local board do not negate the receipt of adequate notice nor do they toll the running of the limitations period. Kaprow, supra, 131 N.J. at 588; Giannetta v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Egg Harbor, Agency Docket No. 357-10/04 (Comm'r. April 25, 2005) at 6.

In this matter, petitioner acknowledges that the within "action was filed December 11, 2003 or over seven months from the date petitioner was first noticed that his position as consociate teacher was being eliminated." Petitioner's post-hearing brief at 8. The crux of petitioner's argument is that "the 90-day rule cannot apply to defeat his claim because it is grounded in statute," citing N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 and 18A:28-5, and "his salary was reduced in violation of that statute...." Ibid. Petitioner principally relies on Lavin v. Hackensack Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 145 (1982) in support of his stance.

In Lavin, a teacher filed an action seeking military service credit pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-11 nine years after her employment began. The Court found that because N.J.S.A. 18A:29-11, which allows employment credit to teachers for time served in the military, is an emolument that "bears no relationship to the services to be rendered as an employee," the six year contract statute of limitations should not apply. Id. at 150. In its words:

> Whether the benefit flowing from a statute is to be considered a statutory entitlement or a term of the public employee's contract of employment depends upon the nature of the benefit and its relationship to the employment. Stating the problem in terms of incorporation in the employment contract or as a statutory benefit begs the question. Rather, attention should be directed to the purpose of the statute and its relevance and materiality to the employment.
> xxx
>
> Where the benefit is not directly related to the employment service, but is being awarded for a totally unrelated reason, the recipient is truly the beneficiary of a statutory entitlement quite apart from the employment as such . . .
>
>
> The legislative purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-11 is to reward veterans for service to their country in time of war. The reward takes the form of crediting the military service as teaching experience even though there is no functional relationship between the two. The credit has the effect of increasing the number of dollars to which the teacher who is a veteran is entitled. The emolument is not for services rendered or to be rendered for school teaching as such. It was established by the Legislature as a reward or bonus for service in the military, and not for performance as a teacher. Accordingly, the payment should be considered as a statutory entitlement, rather than as an element of the employment contract. That being so, the statute of limitations is inapplicable.

The Supreme Court revisited the statutory entitlement concept in North Plainfield Educ. Ass'n. v. Bd. of Educ. of North Plainfield, 96 N.J. 587 (1984). At issue in that case was whether the regulatory 90-day limitation barred two tenured teachers' statutory claims to credit on the salary scale for time spent on a sabbatical under N.J.S.A. 18A:29-8. The Appellate Division determined that because the teachers had a statutory right to credit on the salary scale without regard to performance, the time bar (then codified as N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2) could not affect that right. Id. at 590. The Supreme Court disagreed and distinguished the teacher's claims under N.J.S.A. 18A:29-8 from Lavin's claim under N.J.S.A. 18A:29-11:

> [S]alary increments accruing under N.J.S.A. 18A:29-11 are distinctly different from those awarded under N.J.S.A. 18A:29-8. The annual increment under N.J.S.A. 18A:29-11 accrues because of time spent in military service without regard to performance as a teacher. By contrast, the annual increment under N.J.S.A. 18A:29-8 is subject to annual evaluation of teacher performance. Consequently, [the Appellate Division's] . . . analogy of an annual increment to the statutory entitlement for veterans is invalid.

Concluding that the Appellate Division had misperceived "the increment as a 'statutory entitlement unrelated to the teachers' qualifications, performance or quality of teaching services rendered,'" Id. at 593, the Supreme Court stated:

> Because the award of the annual increment is not a matter of statutory right, but is subject to 'denial for inefficiency or other good cause,' N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14, it is subject to the time bar provided in the regulation issued by the Commissioner pursuant to that statute. . . .

The Court further rejected the teachers' attempt to circumvent the time bar by requesting relief for future years. It explained that the teachers' asserted right to advance an additional step in the next year, 1980-81, depends on the propriety of the board's action in not advancing then on 1979-80 guide and, thus, "[t]he time bar of the original action also precludes the dependent action for relief in future years." Id. at 595. And, the Court did not agree that the withholding of the increment constitutes "a continuing violation," holding that "[s]uch a claim, which is associated with the assertion of discrimination in employment, has no relevance to this case" and "the fact that the teachers will always lag one step behind is not attributable to a new violation each year, but to the effect of an earlier employment decision, one that is protected by the regulatory period of limitations." Ibid.

The Appellate Division in Polaha v. Buena Regional School District, 212 N.J. Super. 628 (App. Div. 1986), addressed the applicability of the 90-day limitation to a claim arising out of an alleged violation of statutory tenure rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The Commissioner concluded that the 90-day requirement did not bar the petition "because a statutory right with respect to tenure is involved." Id. at 632. The State Board reversed this determination and the Appellate Division concurred with the State Board's conclusion that the 90-day rule (then codified as N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2) "is applicable to appellant's claim notwithstanding the assertion of his statutory right to tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5." Id. at 632-33. The court found the case similar to North Plainfield and distinguishable from Lavin. Id. at 633. It held that because the "decision necessary to confer tenure is undoubtedly carried out based on [an] evaluation of teacher performance, behavior and efficiency," N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 is applicable to the appellant's claim. Id. at 634.

More recently, the Supreme Court in Kaprow provided further guidance as to the intended reach of the regulatory provision. In Kaprow, the Court considered the timeliness of a claim by a tenured assistant superintendent who was terminated during a reduction in force (RIF) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. The employee contended that his RIF right is an "absolute statutory entitlement" and, therefore, exempt from the 90-day limitation period. Kaprow, supra, 131 N.J. at 583. The Court reviewed the prior decisions in Lavin, North Plainfield and Polaha and observed that Lavin "is the only reported case that found a statutory benefit to constitute an absolute statutory entitlement." Id. at 584. In explaining the appropriate inquiry, the Court stated:

> That there exists a statutory basis for rights on the reduction in the school's work force is not enough to establish a statutory entitlement. Rather, the critical inquiry focuses on whether a 'functional relationship' exists between the statutory benefit, the RIF right, and Kaprow's employment as a tenured assistant superintendent in the school district.

The Court rejected Kaprow's position on the basis that -

> Kaprow's RIF rights stem from his termination for reasons related to fiscal efficiency in the administration of the school system and from his status as a tenured assistant superintendent. . . . If Kaprow had not acquired tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, he would have no right to seniority nor to a place on the preferred eligibility list.
>
> Because the decision necessary to confer tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 is based on an evaluation of teacher performance, behavior, and efficiency, see Polaha, supra, 212 N.J. Super. at 634..., the only way Kaprow could acquire tenure rights, and therefore RIF rights, was through employment in the school district. Kaprow's RIF rights are then distinguishable from the petitioner's right to military service credit in Lavin; Kaprow is not entitled to his RIF rights independent from the administration of a school system or from his standing as a tenured assistance superintendent. Instead, his RIF rights have 'a relationship to the services  rendered as an employee.' Lavin, supra, 90 N.J. at 150....
>
> Because RIF rights are inextricably tied to employment in a school system and to tenure rights, a 'functional relationship' exists between Kaprow's RIF right to preference in reemployment and his service in the school district. Rights resulting from RIFs in the local school districts do not constitute a statutory entitlement. The limitations period of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), therefore, applies to Kaprow's petition.
>

Similarly, in Gordon v. Passaic Twp. Bd. of Educ., 1985 S.L.D. 1929, aff'd. No. A-3294-84T7 (App. Div. May 27, 1986) (unreported), certif. den. 105 N.J. 534 (1986), the State Board ruled "that the statute of limitations specified in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 applies to claims ... which allege the violation of tenure or seniority rights," and the petitioner's failure to comply with the requirement bars his claims to both retroactive and prospective relief. Id. at 1930-32. It reasoned that "the tenure and seniority rights of teachers, unlike the right to military service credit, are predicated on the rendering of services as a school teacher" and, "[i]n both cases, the rights acquired are functionally related to teaching experience." Id. at 1931. In contrast, "the kind of statutory right that renders the statute of limitations inapplicable is one that, like the right to military service credit, does not bear a functional relationship to service as a teacher." Ibid. The Appellate Division affirmed the determination substantially for the reasons stated in the State Board's decision. In holding that 90-day rule was applicable to the petitioner's claim, the Appellate Division stated:

> While there is a statutory basis for tenure, see N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5..., and rights upon reduction in the school's work force, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, et seq., just as there is a statutory basis for the salary increment involved in North Plainfield, the issue herein relates to administration of the school system, i.e., the termination of a teacher for reasons related to expenses and efficiency of the system, and the role of petitioner as a teacher. It does not concern credits or rights to which he is entitled under statute independent or irrespective of the administration of the school system or his performance or standing as a teacher.

> We conclude that issues resulting from reduction in force in local school districts do not give rise to the type of rights by virtue of statutory entitlement as in Lavin, where there was no 'functional relationship' between the military service credit required by statute and Ms. Lavin's experience as a teacher.... Here, unlike Lavin (but as in North Plainfield), tenure and reduction in benefits have a 'relationship to the services to be rendered [by petitioner] as an employee.' Lavin, supra, 90 N.J. at 150.
> [Gordon, slip op at 7-8.] (footnote omitted.)

See also Nissman v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Long Beach Island, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 621, aff'd. on other grounds, 272 N.J. Super. 373 (App. Div. 1994) (State Board held that the ALJ erred in concluding that tenure acquisition "is a creature of statute and cannot be cut short by a rule of repose" and the Commissioner erred in adopting that conclusion). Contrast East Orange Educ. Ass'n. v. East Orange Bd. of Educ, 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 364, 365 (holding that the 90-day rule did not bar the claims of permanent building-based teaching substitutes (PBBS) to sick leave and health benefits because sick leave and health benefits are not tied to a teacher's status or performance and there is no "functional relationship" between their employment as a PBBS and eligibility for statutory sick leave and health benefits).

Against this backdrop, petitioner argues that the 90-day rule should not be applied because his salary was reduced in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Petitioner contends that, unlike Kaprow and Polaha, a "[r]eduction of tenured teachers' salaries in violation of statute is independent of petitioner's standing as a teacher." Petitioner's post-hearing brief at 11. Alternatively, petitioner postulates that, "[i]f the 90 day limitation is found to apply, it should only limit petitioner's claim for compensation effective December 11, 2003, the day he filed the Petition." Ibid. In short, the Board maintains that the rights claimed by petitioner are similar to those asserted in Kaprow, (i.e., a claim of statutory benefits flowing from employment as a tenured employee), and there is no statutory entitlement which would preclude the application of the 90-day limitation period of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3. Board's post-hearing brief at 3, 6.

Succinctly stated, the undersigned embraces the Board's position. The decisional law supports the conclusion that petitioner's claim does not involve a statutory entitlement insulated from application of the 90-day rule. Rather, the rights claimed by petitioner in this matter stem from a claim of tenure. Similar to the RIF rights in Kaprow, protected salary stems from tenure rights, which have a relationship to the services rendered as an employee in the district. Stated differently, protected salary is not independent from the administration of a school system or from petitioner's tenured status. See Kaprow, supra, 131 N.J. at 585-86; Nissman, supra, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 621. A "functional relationship" exists between the statutory benefit arising from tenure rights and petitioner's employment in the school system. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that petitioner's claim is subject to the 90-day limitation of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) (formerly N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d)).

The record is clear that petitioner received the Annual Salary Notice to Tenure Personnel, dated April 29, 2003, in May 2003 and Dr. Jack met with petitioner on May 13, 2003 to discuss why his Guidance Consociate position had not been "renewed." In other words, as of May 13, 2003, petitioner received adequate notice that he would not be appointed to the Guidance Consociate position and would not be receiving the monetary remuneration associated with that position to which, in this case, petitioner claims an entitlement. As of that date, petitioner possessed the state of facts sufficient to enable him to file a timely claim. Even considering the facts in a light most favorable to petitioner, petitioner had notice of the disputed action no later than June 15, 2003 when petitioner candidly acknowledges knowing that he would not be the Guidance Consociate Teacher. Irrespective of whether petitioner's claim is deemed to have accrued in May or June 2003, no debate exists that petitioner did not file his petition with the Commissioner within 90 days of either date but waited until approximately six to seven months later on December 11, 2003.

Petitioner contends that the rule should be relaxed in the interest of justice because "he was lulled into believing that his salary would not be reduced" emanating from Dr. Jack's advice and petitioner's conversation with the Board member at the prom. Petitioner's post-hearing brief at 17. Petitioner claims that "[h]is first actual knowledge" that his pay was not restored was when he received his pay check on September 15, 2003 and petitioner then filed the instant appeal within 90 days. Ibid. Additionally, petitioner urges that the Board "intentionally and flagrantly disregarded the proscriptions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 by reducing petitioner's salary" and "there are public policy considerations involved which create a fundamental public interest beyond that which concern the parties in this matter," citing New Jersey School Boards Ass'n. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Wyckoff, Agency Dkt. No. 281-9/99 (Comm'r. February 2, 2000). Petitioner's brief at 17-18.

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16 confers on the Commissioner the authority to relax the procedural rules in his discretion "where a strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice." The decisional law makes clear, however, that the 90-day rule is to be strictly applied. Gordon, supra, 1985 S.L.D. at 1931; American Federation of Teachers, Local 3417 v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Berkeley Heights, EDU 5355-97, Initial Decision (October 13, 1998), adopted, Comm'r. (November 30, 1998) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>; Bd. of Educ. of Elmwood Park v. Farrell, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 375, 377. Although the Commissioner has the authority to relax the 90-day rule, such authority is rarely invoked. DeMaio v. New Providence Bd. of Educ., 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 449, 453. Relaxation or waiver of the rule is reserved for cases presenting compelling reasons or exceptional circumstances such that strict adherence would be inappropriate, unnecessary or where injustice would result. Kaprow, supra, 131 N.J. at 590-91; Gordon, supra, 1985 S.L.D. at 1931-32; DeMaio, supra, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 453; American Federation of Teachers, supra. As articulated in Bogart v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of East Orange, OAL Dkt. EDU 6245-82 at 4 (January 26, 1983), adopted, Comm'r. (March 14, 1983), the 90-day rule will be relaxed "only where there is some compelling reason for the same, such as the presence of a substantial constitutional or other issue of fundamental public interest beyond that of concern only to the parties themselves."

I CONCLUDE that no compelling reason or exceptional circumstances exist in this case to warrant relaxation or waiver of the 90-day rule. Petitioner admittedly received notice of his 2003-2004 annual salary in May 2003, discussed his non-appointment to the Guidance Consociate position with Dr. Jack that same month and knew by no later than June 15, 2003 that he would not be the Guidance Consociate Teacher. The triggering event for purposes of the limitation period is when the petitioner received notice of the Board's action, not when the petitioner felt the injury, i.e., petitioner's receipt of his first paycheck. See Nissman, supra, 272 N.J. Super. at 379-81. The undersigned affords little weight to petitioner's testimony vis-à-vis Dr. Jack's alleged advice and the alleged comment by the new Board member at a school function. Nor does the undersigned concur with petitioner's argument that any such comments justifying an elongation of the regulatory time period and operate to nullify petitioner's receipt of notice concerning his salary and the Guidance Consociate position in September 2003. As recognized in Kaprow, and recently restated by the Commissioner in Giannetta, attempts to resolve a claim through negotiation do not negate the receipt of adequate notice and do not toll the running of the limitations period. Kaprow, supra, 131 N.J. at 588; Giannetta, supra, at 6. Based upon a review of the totality of the evidence, I CONCLUDE that no compelling reasons or exceptional circumstance exist to warrant relaxation of the 90-day time requirement.

The facts presented in New Jersey School Boards Ass'n., supra, are inapposite and provide no solace to petitioner. That case involved a petition by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) seeking an order directing the Board of Education of the Township of Wyckoff to pay the NJSBA $106,206 in dues assessed for its fiscal years 1993-1994 through 1999-2000 and to make future timely payment of assessed dues. The Commissioner concluded that the Board's intentional disregard of the statutory provision of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-50, by refusing to pay dues assessed by the NJSBA, warranted relaxation of the 90-day rule "because a compelling public interest is presented." Id. at 5. The Commissioner further commented that he "cannot and will not countenance a board of education's long-standing refusal to fulfill its statutory obligation." Id. at 6.

Suffice it to say, the instant case concerns petitioner's individual claim to a higher salary. No constitutional issues are involved and the matter does not implicate issues of significant public interest beyond the present parties. See Giannetta, supra, at 6. Given this, the greater public interest lies with the enforcement of the 90-day rule and the dismissal of petitioner's appeal as untimely. Ibid. If the rule was relaxed every time that a harsh result occurred, the rule and its salutary public policy of encouraging prompt resolution of disputes would be nullified. Pacio v. Bd. of Educ. of Lakeland Regional High School School. District, 1989 S.L.D. 2060, 2064.

In sum, I CONCLUDE that petitioner's claim is subject to the 90-day time limitation embodied in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) (formerly N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d)). I further CONCLUDE that petitioner received adequate notice that he would not be appointed to the Guidance Consociate position and would not receive the remuneration previously associated with that position in May 2003 and by no later than June 15, 2003. I further CONCLUDE that, irrespective of whether petitioner's cause of action is deemed to have accrued in May or June 2003, petitioner failed to file his Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner within the mandated 90-day period and waited until six to seven months later on December 11, 2003. I further CONCLUDE that no compelling or exceptional circumstances exist to justify a waiver or relaxation of the regulation. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that petitioner's claim is time barred pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) (formerly N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d)) warranting dismissal of the within appeal. I further CONCLUDE that petitioner's failure to timely file his petition bars both retroactive and prospective relief and reject petitioner's contention that the matter involves a continuing violation. See North Plainfield Educ. Ass'n., supra, 96 N.J. at 595; Gordon, supra, 1985 S.L.D. at 1930-32; Sasse v. Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of Point Pleasant, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 339, 344. In view of the foregoing, the undersigned will not address the merits of petitioner's claims alleging that he has tenure as a Guidance Consociate, the Board's reduction of his salary relating to this former position and/or the extra work week during the summer violates petitioner's tenure rights, and petitioner should have preferred eligibility in the position of supervisor.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's Petition of Appeal be and hereby is DISMISSED for failure to comply with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) (formerly N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d)).

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Record Closed –July 22, 2005 Decided – July 25, 2005

BEFORE ISRAEL D. DUBIN, ALJ:

These consolidated matters were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (hereinafter OAL) on July 25, 2003 and May 5, 2004, respectively, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The consolidated matter was scheduled for hearing at the OAL, Mercerville, N.J. but rather than litigate the issues, the parties met and negotiated the matter.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Settlement Agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein. (J-1)

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The record, Settlement Agreement and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that the Superintendent of the Caldwell-West Caldwell School District signed the Settlement Agreement on behalf of the Board of Education (Board). Neither the file nor the Settlement Agreement contains a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement and designating the superintendent to sign the agreement on its behalf, nor is the agreement signed by the Board attorney, who is the Board's duly authorized representative in litigation. The Commissioner, therefore, cannot approve the within Settlement Agreement.

Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for revision of the Settlement Agreement and the Initial Decision consistent with the concerns set forth above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to hearing.

Record Closed and Decided: August 12, 2005

BEFORE BARRY N. FRANK, ALJ:

Petitioner appeals the district's determination of the children's attendance at a particular school in the district. This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) from the Department of Education on January 21, 2005, for hearing as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A hearing was scheduled for August 12, 2005 at the OAL, 33 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey. At the hearing, settlement discussions were held and a settlement was reached.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

JUDY A. MAZZEO, :

PETITIONER, :

V. : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BARNEGAT, OCEAN COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner contends that the respondent failed to assign her the duties of a principal, as required by an earlier Commissioner's Decision ordering respondent to reinstate the petitioner to the position of principal to rectify an illegal reassignment in violation of her tenure rights. Respondent filed a Motion to Dismiss based on untimely submission of the petition.

The ALJ found that respondent's action in appointing petitioner as a principal — but failing to assign her to a school, failing to change her duties and causing her to report to the middle school principal as she had done during the earlier reassignment that violated her tenure rights — was adequate notice to trigger the 90-day limitations period for filing petitions, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Petitioner's reassignment to a principal position without commensurate responsibilities occurred on August 23, 2004, following adjudication and an initial decision ordering her reinstatement as principal; the instant petition was filed on June 15, 2005. The ALJ, therefore, found that the petition was not filed in a timely manner, and concluded that the respondent is entitled to the granting of its Motion to Dismiss.

The Commissioner adopts the ALJ's decision with modification to the timeline for determining what constitutes an untimely filing in this matter, establishing the estimated date of receipt of the original Commissioner's decision as the accrual date. Additionally, the Commissioner notes that petitioner was advised that enforcement of agency orders may be sought in Superior Court pursuant to R. 4:67-6, and any petitioner choosing that avenue of remedy is not constrained by the 90-day rule if the case is later transferred by a Superior Court judge to the Commissioner for clarification of issues requiring administrative expertise. Because petitioner appealed directly to the Commissioner in this matter, she was bound by the procedural rules in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3, including the 90-day rule. Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the decision of the ALJ, and dismisses the petition for failure to timely file.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

JUDY A. MAZZEO,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BARNEGAT, OCEAN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) and the parties' exceptions have been independently reviewed.

From 1994 to 2002, petitioner was employed by the respondent district in the dual assignment of Principal/Basic Skills Supervisor. In June, 2002, she was reassigned to the position of "Director of Special Projects." It is undisputed that the reassignment switched petitioner from a position in which she had tenure rights to a position in which she did not have tenure rights.

Petitioner appealed the reassignment to the Commissioner, and the matter was adjudicated in the OAL, under docket number EDU 8384-02, by means of stipulated facts and briefs in lieu of a hearing. On December 23, 2004 the Commissioner adopted the administrative law judge's (ALJ) initial decision dated May 27, 2004, ordering that respondent reinstate petitioner to the position of principal, with back pay, benefits and emoluments.

The parties agree that respondent "reassigned" petitioner back to the position of principal on August 26, 2004, and that petitioner was notified of the reassignment by letter dated September 7, 2004. This was before the Commissioner's final decision was issued. However, the petitioner was not assigned to any school as a principal, but was rather kept in the same office she had been in as Director of Special Projects, performing the same duties and reporting to the same middle school principal. There is no record of petitioner taking any action to challenge respondent's course of action (or inaction) until April 13, 2005.

On or about April 13, 2005, petitioner filed a motion with the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (the Bureau) seeking substantive enforcement of the Commissioner's December 23, 2004 order requiring her return to the position of principal, and alleging that respondent had complied only nominally with the Commissioner's mandate. The Bureau advised petitioner, by letter dated April 21, 2005, that motions to enforce orders of the Commissioner are properly brought before the trial division of Superior Court. R. 4:67-6. In the alternative, the Bureau explained that if the issues raised by petitioner in the motion required determinations by the Commissioner, she would have to file a petition of appeal conforming to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.4 .

Petitioner apparently decided that the issues for which she sought a determination required the Commissioner's expertise. Accordingly, she filed a petition, dated June 7, 2005, which was received by the Bureau on June 15, 2005. On June 23, 2005, respondent submitted a motion to dismiss the petition as untimely. More specifically, respondent asserted that petitioner had failed to file her petition within the ninety day period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). The matter was transmitted to the OAL and assigned docket number EDU 4561-05.

In her response to the motion to dismiss, filed with the Bureau on June 30, 2005 and with the OAL on July 29, 2005, petitioner claimed -- citing no authority -- that the ninety day rule does not apply because she is challenging an attempt by respondent to circumvent the requirements of the Commissioner's decision and the rights involved therein. Petitioner stated: "At issue are not only the rights of the petitioner but the effectiveness of the decision making authority of the Commissioner." Petitioner's letter dated July 27, 2005, in response to respondent's motion.

No affidavits or certifications were submitted by the parties in connection with the motion to dismiss, but the ALJ found that "the essential facts in this matter may be gleaned from reviewing the petition and from the arguments of the parties, and are not disputed." Initial Decision at 2. His "factual discussion" included most of the facts set forth above, and was not challenged by the parties' exceptions.

In his legal analysis, the ALJ referred to Kaprow v. Board of Educ. of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572 (1993), in which the Court explained that the 90-day rule for filing petitions with the Commissioner of Education is within the broad delegation of power the Commissioner received from the legislature to prosecute controversies, i*d.* at 582, and creates the repose necessary for the efficient administration of the school laws. Ibid. The Kaprow Court also approved of the regulatory focus on the date that petitioners receive written or actual notice of the board of education's wrongful act as the accrual date for a cause of action, as opposed to the date a petitioner feels the consequences of the wrongful act or receives formal notice of same. Id. at 588-89. See also, Nissman v. Board of Educ. of Tp. Of Long Beach Island, Ocean County, 272 *N.J. Super. 373 (*App. Div. 1994), certif. den. 137 N.J. 315 (1994).

Comparing the present case to Kaprow, the ALJ determined that respondent's failure to assign petitioner to a school, change her duties or eliminate her obligation to report to the same middle school principal, was adequate notice of respondent's adverse action and, thereby, petitioner's cause of action. Initial Decision at 5. Thus, he concluded that the 90-day rule was triggered on August 23, 2004. Initial Decision at 6. Consequently, he reasoned, the petition filed on June 15, 2005 was untimely. Ibid.

In her exceptions, petitioner continues to assert that the 90-day rule does not apply to the present case. She draws a distinction between contesting the Commissioner's decision of December 23, 2004, which she agrees would trigger the 90-day rule, and seeking compliance with same. Petitioner's exceptions at 2. In fact, petitioner maintains that her appeal does not rest upon an action of respondent, but rather upon an unfolding of every day assignments and duties during the course of the school year. Ibid.

The Commissioner is constrained to adopt, with some modifications, the ALJ's decision that petitioner did not meet the time requirements for pursuing her claim. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3 (a) states, in pertinent part, that "[t]o initiate a contested case for the Commissioner's determination of a controversy or dispute arising under the school laws, a petitioner shall prepare a petition of appeal . . .," and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) directs petitioners to file their petitions "no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." As stated above, the phrase "receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education" has been interpreted in case law to mean even an informal awareness of adverse action by a board of education or other party.

The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that petitioner would have been aware by early September 2004 that she was not given the principalship of an actual school, and that she was still reporting to the same middle school principal. These are adverse actions by respondent. However, it was not until the end of December 2004 that the Commissioner issued a decision ordering petitioner's reinstatement. Before that decision and order, any "appeal" by petitioner would have been premature and uncognizable. In other words, notwithstanding the fact that it appeared in September 2004 that respondent was not reinstating petitioner to full status as principal, respondent was not legally required to do so until it received the Commissioner's December 23, 2004 order. In light of the December holiday break, the likelihood that respondent would have seen the order before January 3, 2005 was small.

Thus, the 90-day limitations period should be deemed triggered on or about January 3, 2005. This is when respondent was obligated to reinstate petitioner to a principalship, and this is when petitioner should have paid heed to whether respondent assigned her a school and allowed her to perform the kind of duties she had performed previously as a principal. She had until April 4, 2005 to file a petition to bring before the Commissioner any disagreements she had concerning respondent's actions. The Commissioner does not agree with petitioner that respondent's failure to comply with the December 23, 2004 order could not be characterized as adverse action. Further, the Commissioner concludes that 90 days was enough time for petitioner to ascertain that the duties respondent assigned to her after January 3, 2005 were not compliant with the December 23, 2004 order, and that the assignment of those duties was an adverse action. Unfortunately, petitioner's first filing with the Bureau was on April 13, 2005, nine days past the deadline.

As mentioned supra, petitioner was advised by the Bureau in a letter dated April 21, 2005, that litigants may file motions for enforcement of agency orders in Superior Court, pursuant to R. 4:67-6. If a petitioner chooses that remedy, and his or her case is later transferred by a Superior Court judge to the Commissioner for clarification of issues which require administrative expertise, the 90-day rule does not apply. Paul Metzger v. Board of Education of the Township of Willingboro, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d 548, Initial Decision May 13, 1993, Final Agency Decision June 22, 1993, p.7. For instance, a Superior Court judge could, arguably, in a case such as the present one, have transferred the matter to the Commissioner for a determination as to whether petitioner's current duties are indeed not amenable to characterization as principal's duties. The arrival of the case at the Commissioner's office in such a scenario would not be subject to the 90-day rule.

Petitioner, however, appealed directly to the Commissioner for relief from an alleged wrong. She was consequently required to go forward in accordance with the procedural rules in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3, including the rule concerning a limitations period, but did not. Accordingly, and for the reasons set forth above, the Commissioner adopts the decision of the ALJ and his order granting respondent's motion to dismiss the petition.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner is a teaching staff member at respondent's school district. She was appointed as a Principal by respondent Board of Education, but contends that she was not assigned to any school and was not assigned to perform the duties of a Principal. Petitioner contends that this action by respondent failed to comply with a December 23, 2004, final decision by the Commissioner in a matter entitled Mazzeo v. Board of Education of the Township of Barnegat, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8384-02, requiring that she be assigned to a Principal position. Petitioner filed a Petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education on June 15, 2005, seeking to enforce the final decision of the Commissioner. Respondent filed a Motion to Dismiss in lieu of answer on the basis that the Petition was not filed in a timely manner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). The matter was then transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on June 27, 2005, for hearing as a contested case. On July 11, 2005, I entered a letter order as to submissions, following which I closed the record with respect to respondent's Motion to Dismiss on August 11, 2005.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Despite the fact that neither party submitted any affidavit or certification to establish a factual record, I FIND that the essential facts in this matter may be gleaned from reviewing the petition and from the arguments of the parties, and are not disputed.

Petitioner is a tenured Principal employed by respondent school district. She had previously achieved tenure in the position of Principal. On July 8, 2002, petitioner was transferred from the position of Principal and Supervisor of Basic Skills to the position of Director Special Projects, a position in which petitioner did not have tenure. Petitioner then filed a Petition with the Commissioner of Education, alleging that the foregoing transfer violated her tenure in seniority rights. On May 27, 2004, I entered an Order requiring that petitioner be reinstated to her former position as Principal together with any back pay, benefits and other emoluments. I further ordered that the matter be scheduled for additional proceedings with respect to petitioner's claim of entitlement to the position of Supervisor of Basic Skills. Thereafter, petitioner elected not to proceed with her claim to the position of Supervisor of Basic Skills, and attorney for petitioner requested that the matter be transmitted to the Commissioner. Accordingly, on November 23, 2004, I ordered that petitioner's withdrawal of her claim to the position of Supervisor of Basic Skills be accepted, and I adopted the May 27, 2004 Order Determining that Petitioner is Entitled to Reinstatement as Principal as the Initial Decision, thus concluding the matter. By a final decision of the Commissioner on December 23, 2004, the Initial Decision was affirmed.

On August 26, 2004, after the date of the May 27, 2004 Order Determining that Petitioner is Entitled to Reinstatement as Principal, but prior to the Commissioner's final decision on December 23, 2004, respondent reassigned petitioner from the position of Director of Special Projects to a Principal position. However, for purposes of deciding the within motion, it is undisputed that petitioner was never assigned to a school as a Principal, she remained in the same office and performed the same duties as when she was Director of Special Projects, and she continued to report to the same middle school principal as she had when she was Director of Special Projects. In her petition, petitioner alleges that respondent has failed to comply substantively with the order of the Commissioner by failing to change her assignment and failing to provide her with a school in which to serve as Principal.

On April 13, 2005, petitioner filed a Notice of Motion with the Commissioner of Education seeking to enforce the Commissioner's order of December 23, 2004. On April 21, 2005, the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes of the Department of Education informed petitioner that enforcement of the Commissioner's decision is a matter for the Superior Court of New Jersey, but also indicated that if the issues raised in the petitioner's motion seeking enforcement required adjudication before the Commissioner, petitioner was required to submit the request for relief in the form of a Petition of Appeal. Petitioner thereafter filed the within Petition on June 15, 2005.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Respondent school district has filed a Motion to Dismiss the Petition on the basis that the Petition was not filed in a timely manner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). This section of the New Jersey Administrative Code states:

> (i) The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing. This rule shall not apply in instances where a specific statute, regulation or court order provides for a period of limitation shorter than 90 days for the filing of a particular type of appeal.

In the present matter, petitioner alleges that respondent has failed to comply substantively with the order of the Commissioner by failing to change petitioner's assignment and failing to provide her with a school in which to serve as Principal. Petitioner acknowledges that on August 26, 2004, after the date of the May 27, 2004 Order Determining that Petitioner is Entitled to Reinstatement as Principal, but prior to the Commissioner's final decision, respondent reassigned petitioner from the position of Director of Special Projects to the position of Principal. However, petitioner further acknowledges that she was never assigned to a school and she remained in the same office and performed the same duties as when she was Director of Special Projects. She also continued to report to the same middle school Principal as she had when she was Director of Special Projects.

Despite these actions by respondent on and after August 26, 2004, petitioner took no action to challenge them until April 13, 2005, when she filed a Notice of Motion with the Commissioner of Education seeking to enforce the Commissioner's order of December 23, 2004. In fact, it was not until June 15, 2005, that petitioner filed a proper petition challenging the actions of the respondent.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-26 delegates to the State Board and the Commissioner the "power to make rules governing the prosecution and hearing of controversies and disputes, under the school laws and the rules governing the particular prosecution or dispute when exercising original or appellate jurisdiction therein." Kaprow v. Board of Educ. of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572, 581-582 (1993). The Court in Kaprow went on to state:

> The Legislature's broad delegation of power to the Commissioner and the State Board, particularly N.J.S.A. 18A:6-26, encompasses the authority to establish a time limitation for the resolution of disputes under the school laws. The limitations period provides a measure of repose, an essential element in the proper and efficient administration of the school laws. It stabilizes the relationship between the teachers and the administration. Because education disputes frequently involve conflicting claims to one teaching position, the remedy is to award the prevailing party the position with back pay. The limitation period gives school districts the security of knowing that administrative decisions regarding the operation of the school cannot be challenged after ninety days.

In Nissman v. Board of Educ. of the Township of Long Beach, 272 N.J. Super. 373 (App. Div. 1994), petitioner claimed that she acquired tenure as a Principal by serving in the position for three calendar years as of August 31, 1990. This was notwithstanding the local board's resolution of April 23, 1990, that her employment contract expiring on August 31, 1990, would not be renewed. The Appellate Division held that the local board's resolution formulated a sufficient controversy to make it "the subject of [a] requested contested case hearing" within the meaning of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) and is not contrary to legislative policy or existing law. Id at 379-380. The Court noted that in Kaprow v. Berkeley Tp. Bd. of Educ., 131 N.J. 572, 582 (1993), the Supreme Court stated that the limitation period gives school districts the security of knowing that administrative decisions regarding the operation of the school cannot be challenged after 90 days. The Court indicated that it is not necessary to decide whether the local board acted correctly when it passed its resolution. What is important is that the local board had the right to know within 90 days whether its action was going to be challenged. To allow a teaching staff member, such as petitioner, to file a claim after the commencement of a new academic year in these circumstances defeats the principle of "repose, an essential element in the proper and efficient administration of the school laws." Citing Kaprow, supra, 131 N.J. at 582.

In Kaprow the Court held that an agency regulation that focuses on the date of the employer's wrongful act as the accrual date for a cause of action, rather than the date on which the consequences of the act is directly felt by the employee, such as termination, is not inherently arbitrary or capricious. (Citations omitted) The action of respondent herein in appointing petitioner as a Principal but failing to assign her to a school, failing to change her duties and causing her to report to the middle school building principal as she had previously done as Director of Special Projects, was adequate notice of this action. When a prospective petitioner knows or has reason to know that he has a cause of action against an identifiable respondent and voluntarily sleeps on his rights so long as to permit the customary period of limitations to expire, the pertinent considerations of individual justice as well as the broader considerations of repose, coincide to bar his action. Kaprow, supra at 245, [citing Farrell, v. Votatur Div., 62 N.J. 111, 115 (1973)]. Adequate notice under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 should effectuate concerns for individual justice by not triggering the limitations period until the effected individuals have been alerted to the existence of facts that may equate in law with a cause of action. At the same time, it should further considerations of repose by establishing an objective event to trigger the limitations period in order "to enable the proper and efficient administration of the affairs of government." Ibid.

In this matter, similar to the facts in Kaprow, the final order, ruling, or other action by the respondent Board occurred when it appointed petitioner to the position of Principal on August 23, 2004, and had her report to the middle school building principal as she had previously done as Director of Special Projects, but did not assign her to a school and did not change her duties. It must be inferred that these actions and conduct continued from August 23, 2004, through April and June 2005. I FIND that these actions and this conduct, especially since they occurred over such an extended period of time, were sufficient to trigger the ninety-day limitations period on August 23, 2004. Therefore, I FIND that the Petition filed as it was on June 15, 2005, was not filed in a timely manner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that respondent is entitled to the granting of its motion and that the Petition should be dismissed as untimely.

DECISION AND ORDER

For the reasons stated above, it is hereby ORDERED that respondent's Motion to Dismiss in lieu of answer on the basis that the Petition was not filed in a timely manner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), is hereby GRANTED, and the Petition is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NUTLEY, ESSEX COUNTY,

PETITIONER,

V.

NEW JERSEY STATE INTERSCHOLASTIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

The Board of Education of the Township of Nutley (Nutley) filed a Petition of Appeal seeking reversal of the decision of the New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Association Executive Committee (NJSIAA) affirming a determination of the Northern New Jersey Interscholastic League (NNJIL) and the NJSIAA Special Committee on Leagues and Conferences (Special Committee) denying Nutley's request to withdraw from the NNJIL and join the Northern Hills Conference (NHC).

Nutley avers that the decisions denying its application to withdraw from the NNJIL were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. Nutley claims that its application to join the NHC was made due to an imbalance in the current makeup of the NNJIL, resulting in negative impact to competitiveness which, in turn, occasions health and safety concerns for its student-athletes. Nutley charges that the record is replete with recognition by NJSIAA committees that a problem exists due to unbalanced competition in the NNJIL, and further contends that attempts to achieve balanced scheduling have "failed miserably", pointing out that the NNJIL has not implemented "cross over" scheduling nor addressed scheduling based on "strength of programs" in regard to contests with the strong parochial school members of the NNJIL, as required by action of the NJSIAA Executive Committee in 2000.

The NJSIAA advances that the emphasis in realigning leagues has always been "to assure full scheduling for schools, particularly those with heavy minority populations or parochial schools who would otherwise be denied entrance into local Leagues and Conferences," and a school's win/loss record is not a concern of the Association or the Commissioner. It is well established that in order to assure stability of the leagues, a school wishing to withdraw without the permission of both leagues must present substantial reasons for doing so, and satisfy seven alignment criteria to justify a league transfer. Nutley failed to satisfy four of the seven criteria, in that a transfer: was not justified based on size or geography; would increase financial expenses; and would have a severe negative impact on the NNJIL. The NJSIAA avers that Nutley's application to change leagues is predicated upon its desire to have a winning sports program, especially in football.

On appeal, the Commissioner upholds NJSIAA's determination to deny petitioning Board's request to withdraw from the NNJIL, finding that: Nutley was accorded the full measure of due process to which it is entitled; that the determination of NJSIAA was well-grounded in the record; and that Nutley has failed to establish that the denial of their withdrawal from the NNJIL was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, and therefore, under the established standard of review of NJSIAA matters, there is no basis upon which the Commissioner can overturn the NJSIAA's decision here. However, the Commissioner emphasizes that the NNJIL must immediately act to implement, as directed by the NJSIAA's Executive Committee, inter-division or "cross over" game scheduling based upon the relative strength of programs of the competing schools to help insure a healthy competitive balance for all schools in parochial-public school competition.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter has come before the Commissioner of Education by way of a Petition of Appeal filed on April 6, 2005 by the Board of Education of the Township of Nutley ("Nutley"), Essex County, seeking reversal of the decision of the New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Association Executive Committee ("NJSIAA Executive Committee"), dated March 2, 2005, which affirmed the determination of the Northern New Jersey Interscholastic League ("NNJIL") and the NJSIAA Special Committee on Leagues and Conferences ("NJSIAA Special Committee") denying Nutley's request to withdraw from the NNJIL and join the Northern Hills Conference ("NHC").[1]

[1] It is noted that subsequent to the NNJIL's denial of its request to withdraw from that Conference, Nutley went to Superior Court to attempt to secure a ruling allowing the change. That Court directed that Nutley first exhaust its administrative remedies.

On April 11, 2005, Nutley submitted copies of all exhibits filed with the NJSIAA Committees in support of its appeal, along with the transcripts of the hearing held on January 12, 2005 before the NJSIAA Special Committee and those of the March 2, 2005 hearing before the NJSIAA Executive Committee. Respondent NJSIAA filed its Answer to the Petition of Appeal, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.2, on April 14, 2005. On May 3, 2005, Nutley submitted a brief in support of its position, and a reply brief was submitted by the NJSIAA on May 20, 2005, whereupon the record in this matter was closed.

BACKGROUND

The within record evidences the following:

- The NJSIAA is a voluntary association established pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3, which organizes, oversees and governs high school athletics in the State of New Jersey.
- Nutley is a public school district in Essex County, and a member of the NJSIAA, and has adopted the Rules and Regulations of that body.
- Nutley is currently a member of the NNJIL and has been since 1982. (Nutley's Brief at 5)
- The NNJIL is currently comprised of 19 member schools. Nutley High School is one of the 13 Group III and Group IV public schools in Bergen, Essex and Passaic Counties included in that League. There are also six parochial school members, including two girls' schools (Holy Angels Academy and Immaculate Heart Academy), three boys' schools (Bergen Catholic, Don Bosco and St. Joseph's) and one co-ed school (Paramus Catholic). (NJSIAA Special Committee February 9, 2005 Decision at 1-2)
- Nutley applied, and was accepted for membership in the NHC. Such application was made, it avers, due to the imbalance that exists in the current makeup of the NNJIL, resulting in negative impact to competitiveness which, in turn, occasions health and safety concerns for its students who participate in sports. (Petition of Appeal at 2-5) The NNJIL, however, rejected Nutley's request to withdraw from that Conference, thus preventing Nutley from entering the NHC.

- Almost since the inception of the NNJIL, a number of public schools have attempted to leave that league because of the perceived domination of competition by the parochial schools as a result of their ability to draw an enrollment from a larger geographic area. (NJSIAA Answer to Petition of Appeal at 3; NJSIAA Special Committee February 9, 2005 Decision at 2)
- Historically, the schools in the NNJIL were arranged by population in two divisions. However, in an attempt to address the issue of unfair competition, while also maintaining the viability of the NNJIL, the NJSIAA conducted hearings in 1999 and ultimately issued a report on January 3, 2000, which allowed for the creation of two separate divisions of public schools based upon population, and one division made up solely of parochial schools. The NNJIL was directed to provide for competition with parochial schools on the basis of competitive power and strength so as to mitigate any unfair competitive imbalance.[2] [3] (Ibid.; NJSIAA Special Committee February 9, 2005 Decision at 2-3)

[2] Specifically, this Special Committee urged that future scheduling take into account the relative strength of a school's athletic program for each sport. This was to be accomplished by dividing the League into three sections, based on the strength of a school's athletic program for each sport over the previous five years. Inter-division or "crossover" games would then be scheduled between programs of similar strength. Scheduling in this manner, based on strength of program, should insure that the League will maintain "a competitive balance that is healthy for all schools. It also has the added benefit of allowing schools to play games against a wider variety of opponents. As the strength of a school's program rises or falls each year, the school's opponents will change accordingly." (Special Committee on League and Conferences Decision, February 9, 2005 citing to January 2000 Special Committee Report, Attachment A, pp. 4, 5)

[3] This decision, on appeal by the parochial schools, was affirmed by the Commissioner of Education on June 23, 2000. See In the Matter of the Divisional Realignment by the Northern New Jersey Interscholastic League, Commissioner Decision No. 209-00.

- As a result of this realignment, the three divisions of the NNJIL are now configured thusly:

DIVISION A – (Smaller Public)

	Enrollment
Bloomfield	1,289
Hackensack	1,228
Ridgewood	1,164
Belleville	1,135
Teaneck	1,017
Nutley	1,008
Paramus	951

DIVISION B – (Larger Public)

	Enrollment
Clifton	2,435
Eastside	2,101
Passaic	1,948
J.F. Kennedy	1,628
Barringer	1,471
Montclair	1,316

DIVISION C – (Parochial)

	Enrollment
Immaculate Heart Academy	1,262
Bergen Catholic	1,236
Don Bosco Prep	1,136
Paramus Catholic	1,012
Academy of the Holy Angels	784
St. Josephs	664

(NJSIAA Special Committee February 9, 2005 Decision at 4-5)

- In contrast, the enrollment of the average school in the NHC is significantly smaller than the schools comprising the NNJIL:

	Enrollment
Passaic County Tech	1,464
West Orange	1,389
West Milford	1,088
Wayne Valley	1,055
West Side	976
Millburn	822
Passaic Valley	805
Montville	796
Lakeland	773
Orange	677
Delbarton	668
Caldwell	594
Pequannock	534
Mt. St. Dominic	492
Madison	480
DePaul	426
Butler	368
Academy of St. Elizabeth	338
Villa Walsh	294
Morris Catholic	270

(Id. at 5-6)

- For the years 2001-2003 Nutley maintained a strong baseball team and was competitive in soccer, wrestling and ice hockey. It also had strong girls' tennis and softball teams and was competitive in girls' soccer, cross country, volleyball and basketball. (Nutley's Application Athletic Results Exhibits)
- On January 12, 2005, Nutley appeared before the NJSIAA's Special Committee to appeal the NNJIL's denial of its application to leave that Conference. (Nutley's Brief in Support of Appeal, at 6).
- As has been its practice for over two decades, in considering requests for transfer of a school from one conference to another when one of the two conferences rejects the transfer application, the NJSIAA Special Committee considered seven Realignment Criteria:

1. Size of schools involved;
2. Geographic location of schools;
3. Nature of total athletic program and facilities;
4. The effect on other leagues and their existing relationships should the request to move from one league to another be granted;
5. Administrative personnel for programs offered;
6. Consideration must be given to the financial burden placed upon the school;
7. Any negative effect that the transfer might have upon the present balance of minority and non-minority schools in a league or conference, at variance with the mandate of the Commissioner of Education in November 1979.

- By decision dated February 9, 2005, the NJSIAA Special Committee denied Nutley's application. In so concluding, the Committee made the following "Findings of Fact" and "Conclusions":

Findings of Fact

1. Nutley High School is one of 13 public schools in the NNJIL.

2. Nutley has the second smallest enrollment of any public school in the NNJIL but has been placed in a separate division where any enrollment disparity has been appreciably reduced.

3. With the exception of contests against parochial school members in the NNJIL, Nutley has had moderate success in its sports program, which the Committee finds is unrelated to its size.

4. If Nutley were to leave the NNJIL it would depart from a League division with schools of comparable size, in close geographic proximity and join a Conference with schools having widely diverse enrollments and geographic locations.

5. The departure of Nutley from the NNJIL would have a substantial adverse impact on that League. It would deprive several public schools, of comparable size in close geographic proximity, of a suitable opponent. It would also lead to applications being pursued by those very schools to leave the NNJIL since they have the same basic complaint as that articulated by Nutley High School. It would inevitably lead to further instability in the NNJIL.

6. The Committee further finds that if Nutley were to leave the NNJIL, it would disrupt the carefully designed divisional alignment which have (sic) received the approval of the NJSIAA and the Commissioner of Education.

Conclusions

1. The application of Nutley High School does not satisfy several of the criteria for realignment. Its size is more appropriate in the NNJIL, rather than the NHC, particularly in the context of its own division. It is surrounded by other member public schools in the NNJIL and its geographic location is much more appropriate within its existing Conference. Without question, there will be a further financial burden placed upon Nutley if it has to travel greater distances and there would be a comparable burden placed upon public schools in the NNJIL that now compete against Nutley within the framework of that League. More significantly, the transfer of Nutley from the NNJIL will have a severe adverse impact on that League.

2. The problems of competitive imbalance facing Nutley are indistinguishable from the problems facing comparably sized public schools in the "A" Division of the NNJIL. Indeed, the difficulties facing Nutley are shared by Paramus, Belleville, Bloomfield and Teaneck High Schools, all of which could present the same arguments as those advanced by Nutley to leave the NNJIL.

3. Since 1999, the NNJIL has attempted to address the competitive imbalance created by the presence of strong parochial schools as members. On January 12, 2000, the NJSIAA Executive Committee approved reports made by this Committee to maintain the three division structure, but to encourage the use of "strength of programs" in the scheduling of "cross over" contests with those parochial schools. On June 23, 2000, the Commissioner of Education approved those reports. Evidently, that aspect of the NJSIAA reports has not been followed by the NNJIL and the Committee encourages it to institute such a system so that Nutley and other schools can gain some degree of relief. Again, when arranging cross over contests, the NNJIL should consider scheduling public schools on the basis of competitive success or strength, on a program-by-program format.

4. There was no evidence there was any correlation between the size of Nutley High School and injuries that have occurred on the > playing field. Instead, particularly in football, there might have been lopsided defeats against parochial schools which hopefully can be remedied by a resort to the recommended strength factor in arranging for cross over contests.

- On March 2, 2005, Nutley appealed the NJSIAA's Special Committee's decision to the NJSIAA Executive Committee which, by a vote of 21 in favor, 5 opposed, with 3 recusals, adopted the decision of the Special Committee denying Nutley's application to leave the NNJIL and join the NHC. The Executive Committee, however, went on to specifically direct that the NNJIL implement the cross over scheduling based on strength of programs ordered in 2000. (March 14, 2005 letter from Boyd A. Sands to Joseph Zara, Superintendent of Schools, Nutley)

NUTLEY'S POSITION

Nutley contends that the decisions of the NJSIAA Special Committee and the NJSIAA Executive Committee denying its application to withdraw from the NNJIL were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. It charges that, although the record is replete with recognition by these Committees that a problem exists due to unbalanced competition in this League, and – notwithstanding that Nutley has satisfied the requisite applicable criteria warranting a change in leagues – the NJSIAA's sole rationale for denial of its application is that if Nutley changes leagues, all the other schools experiencing similar disparity in competitiveness with the private and larger schools will want to move as well. (Nutley's Brief at 2)

Nutley claims that its application to change leagues was motivated by "an embarrassing lack of competitive balance in [its] games"[4] and increasing pressure from the parents of its students participating in sports who fear enhanced injuries as a result of this competitive imbalance. (Ibid.) It seeks to correct this problem by competing in the NHC "where it is more suited as a Group 3 school." (Id. at 5) Pointing to testimony presented at the Special Committee hearing – ironically by representatives of the league preventing its withdrawal – which acknowledged and confirmed the existing disparity, Nutley observes that a stated goal of the NJSIAA is to "foster competition," and avers that for them to recognize the existence of a problem and ignore it "is arbitrary and unreasonable in and of itself." (Id. at 3)

Next, to support its contention that its application to withdraw from the NNJIL fully satisfied each of the seven requisite Realignment Criteria, Nutley presents the following discourse:

>
> Of the nineteen (19) teams currently listed in Nutley's conference, only two (2) have a smaller enrollment and both of those are private institutions which can select [their] membership to improve [their] athletic programs from outside of [their] geographic region. As explained throughout, the imbalance of the member schools in the NNJIL has negatively impacted competition, which has been documented by Nutley in support of this appeal through injury reports, disparity in results and statistics. More importantly, Nutley has an obligation to respond to the concerns raised by the parents of its district, especially when the concern is prompted by the impact to health, safety and welfare of the participant students. Nutley has gone through the expense and effort of this process.
>
> As a result of the aforementioned imbalance in number of the present enrollment of the schools in its current conference, and resulting negative impact to competitiveness, Nutley presented its concern for injuries and incidents which impact the health, safety and welfare of the students who participate in sports at Nutley to NJSIAA. Yet Nutley was told that NJSIAA cannot address this obvious problem due to statewide balance concerns. However, that conclusion unreasonably ignores the neat fit of Nutley into the Northern Hills Conference.
> Nutley has already been accepted into the Northern Hills Conference because its addition would balance the competition for the conference and for Nutley. This is confirmed by the enrollment numbers of the membership schools. The appropriateness of the size of schools in the Northern Hills Conference, as compared to Nutley, was confirmed through Mr. SanFillipo's testimony as Executive Director of the Northern Hills Conference, quoted in relevant part above, and found in its entirety in the transcript. [citation omitted] It is apparent that as a Group 3 school, Nutley is better suited in the Northern Hills Conference due to the comparable size of the schools involved. (emphasis in text)

2. Geographic Location of Schools

The geographic location of the schools is comparable as to each league. Nutley offered exact mileage calculations for each and every school of each conference in its submission, and the difference is negligible.

Important to note is both conferences are geographically diverse, and calls for Nutley to travel to urban and suburban areas. Nutley has a local county competition in each conference (i.e. Bloomfield, and Belleville currently, West Orange and Caldwell in the new conference). Each conference has a school within Newark. The geographical location of the schools involved justifies Nutley's attempt to change into the Northern Hills Conference.

3. Nature of Total Athletic Programs and Facilities, Administrative Personnel and Financial Burden

Grouping the next three items of the criteria, and as admitted at the hearings, Nutley would fit neatly into the Northern Hills Conference. In deliberations, an NJSIAA member went so far as to say that it should be Nutley, who considers its financial burden. The impact for the financial decisions are made locally. The point here is greater since it is the parents – the taxpayers of Nutley – that are pleading with Nutley to change leagues. Notwithstanding this analysis, there is no financial burden placed on Nutley for the change.

The nature of the total athletic programs is comparable in each league. The facilities and administrative personnel for these programs are all comparable among the leagues. This was also confirmed and admitted during the hearings, and justifies Nutley's entry into the Northern Hills Conference.

4. Impact on Other Leagues

> Nutley submits that it can be stipulated through the record developed that a balance dealing with minority or urban scheduling is not an issue here. In fact, as discussed above when summarizing the geographic locations for the schools, it was confirmed that each conference has a school in Newark, and an even mix of other schools in urban and/or minority areas. Thus, the only actual item to address from the criteria is the effect on the other leagues. As to the Northern Hills Conference, it has accepted Nutley, and the impact deemed favorable. Mr. SanFillipo confirmed this as the league's Executive Director, and it is not refuted.
>
> As to NNJIL, the member schools who appeared at the hearings below admitted that Nutley's request was legitimate and that a problem existed. But, they also confirmed that other schools were interested in joining NNJIL. Upon information and belief, Passaic County Tech was a school that had been voted out of its conference and, sought to enter NNJIL. There are other adjustments that can be made to balance the competitiveness without disrupting the continuation of NJSIAA's handling of the leagues. NJSIAA's goal of "fostering competition" would be enhanced by this change. (emphasis in text)
> Here, not only do we have a school board, but we have concerns of parents disgusted with the competitive imbalance being experienced by their children. Moreover, Nutley has to answer to the parents, as taxpayers of Essex County, as to the protection being afforded to their children. The parents are disgruntled and concerned about the unlevel competitive scheduling in the athletic programs that their children compete in for Nutley. Nutley's participation in the Northern Hills Conference cures the problem. (Nutley's Brief at 9-13)

Notwithstanding Nutley's manifest satisfaction of the criteria, it contends, the decision of the NJSIAA's Special Committee, adopted by the NJSIAA's Executive Committee, stated in a conclusory manner that Nutley's injuries claim is not substantiated and questioned the integrity of Nutley's geographic data. However, the "real reason" for its denial of the application is blended into the opinion's conclusions, where it states "that Nutley's appealing of the competitive imbalance cannot succeed because other schools have the same complaint."

(Id. at 14) It cannot be determined that Nutley was accorded due process at the two NJSIAA hearings, it proffers, when such hearings resulted in "conclusory" findings. (Id. at 18)

Finally, Nutley advances that attempts to achieve balanced scheduling have "failed miserably," as the NNJIL has neither successfully implemented cross over scheduling nor addressed scheduling based on strength of programs. (Id. at 15)

Nutley urges that it has gone through the effort and expense in support of its application and appeal, and has satisfied the necessary criteria. Therefore, it should be allowed to withdraw from the NNJIL to enter the NHC. (Id. at 19)

NJSIAA'S POSITION

The NJSIAA's brief initially presents a comprehensive overview of the history of the League and Conference realignment process begun in 1982 in response to a previously expressed concern of the Commissioner of Education "that a number of inner city and parochial schools were not being allowed to have a full schedule of contests because they were denied membership in local Leagues and Conferences." (NJSIAA Brief at 3) It stresses that the underlying focus of this and all subsequent realignment plans "has always been to assure full scheduling for schools, particularly those with heavy minority populations or parochial schools who would otherwise be denied entrance into local Leagues and Conferences."[5] (Ibid.) Although the NJSIAA has endeavored to have Conferences ordered by geography and size, it

[5] Succeeding statewide realignments of Leagues and Conferences to insure fulfillment of the Commissioner's directive took place in 1984, 1987 and 1998. In accomplishing such realignments the NJSIAA routinely applied seven criteria, i.e., "size of school; geographic location; nature of the athletic programs and facilities; impact on existing relationship with leagues and conferences; administrative personnel; the financial impact; and any negative effect that a transfer might have on diversity concerns." (NJSIAA Brief at 5)

emphasizes that assuring schools' competitive success is not now, nor has it ever been, a consideration or concern of either the Commissioner or the NJSIAA. (Id. at 4)

The NJSIAA points out that since the third statewide realignment, a number of schools have voluntarily transferred from one League to another as school population fluctuated. Where a school desires such a transfer over the objection of its current League, rather than conduct a statewide realignment, the NJSIAA considers ad hoc applications. However, in order to insure that general instability is not occasioned throughout the 21 Conferences in New Jersey, such a school must demonstrate "some substantial need" to transfer and satisfy the seven established realignment criteria. (NJSIAA Brief at 6)

With the underlying intent and purpose of the realignment process detailed, the NJSIAA proposes that it cannot be credibly disputed that Nutley was provided a full measure of due process in consideration of its transfer application. There were seven published realignment criteria; they were permitted to submit a detailed application addressing those criteria; they were accorded two separate hearings and were represented by counsel at both of these proceedings. At the Special Committee hearing on January 12, 2005, they were allowed to fully advance their arguments and to cross-examine NNJIL witnesses. On February 10, 2005, this Committee issued a detailed decision, which fully set forth a discussion of the evidence and testimony, findings of fact and conclusions of law. At the NJSIAA Executive Committee hearing on March 2, 2005, Nutley was again provided an opportunity to present its arguments and, after lengthy consideration and debate, the Executive Committee ultimately adopted the report of the NJSIAA Special Committee's report by a vote of 21 to 5. (NJSIAA Brief at 14-15)

The NJSIAA next submits that Nutley has not sustained its burden of providing substantial reasons for withdrawal from the NNJIL. Initially in this regard, contrary to Nutley's assertion that denial of its application was solely because other teams would seek to leave the conference as well, the instant record establishes that Nutley failed to satisfy four of the seven alignment criteria to justify a transfer. As found by the Special Committee in its conclusions:

> 1. Its size is more appropriate in the NNJIL, rather than the NHC, particularly in the context of its own division. It is surrounded by other member public schools in the NNJIL and its geographic location is much more appropriate within its existing Conference. Without question, there will be a further financial burden placed upon Nutley if it has to travel greater distances and there would be a comparable burden placed upon public schools in the NNJIL that now compete against Nutley within the framework of that League. More significantly, the transfer of Nutley from the NNJIL will have a severe adverse impact on that League. (Decision at 9, emphasis supplied.)
> (NJSIAA's Brief at 15-16)

Furthermore, although Nutley proposed that district parents were increasingly concerned about "enhanced and significant injuries" brought about by the lack of competitive balance in the games, it "did not present any evidence to show that injuries in football were disproportionate or [that] there was any correlation between the perceived or actual competitive balance and injuries." (Id. at 16). The NJSIAA also points to a number of factual inaccuracies contained in Nutley's brief in this matter:

> First, the school claims that it has the smallest enrollment of the public schools. In fact, Paramus High School has a smaller enrollment and Nutley's size is comparable to the other schools placed in the Division A of the NNJIL. Nutley states that the difference in mileage between the two conferences "was negligible." In fact, as the Special Committee found, as set forth in Chart C of its decision, that the traveling distances were substantial.[6] In addition, as also noted by the Special Committee, Nutley was surrounded by other NNJIL public high schools (Passaic, Belleville, Bloomfield and Montclair). Nutley claims that "on information and belief" Passaic County Tech had sought to enter the NNJIL. In fact, Passaic County Tech never applied to the NNJIL and was recently admitted to the NHC instead. Nutley states that the real reason for the transfer denial was that other schools had the same complaint about competitive imbalance. While it is correct that the Special Committee found that the problems facing Nutley were similar[ly] shared by Paramus, Belleville, Bloomfield and Teaneck High Schools, the Special Committee also acknowledged that these schools had been placed with Nutley in the smaller division in the hope that it would mitigate the "competitive imbalance" created by the parochial schools.

Nutley also contends that the NNJIL representatives testified that Nutley's request was legitimate. Just the opposite is true. In fact, George Middleton, the NNJIL Secretary, testified at length against the transfer. He first noted that the injuries suffered by Nutley were not unusual, noting that "inherent in football is injury." Mr. Middleton noted that on the subject of competitive balance that Nutley beat Clifton, the largest school in the NNJIL, in football the last two times that they played, demonstrating the lack of correlation between size and strength of program. He > commented that "certainly Nutley is not the worse (sic) athletic program [in] the NNJIL." He also noted that by being placed in Division A, Nutley would have to play most of its schedule against smaller schools. Mr. Middleton went on to note that Paramus, a small public school in the NNJIL, had its best football season in 20 years and made the football playoffs this year. Again this demonstrated the lack of any correlation between size and competitive success. (citations omitted) (NJSIAA Brief at 16-17)

In conclusion, the NJSIAA urges that Nutley's application, in fact, is predicated on its desire to have a winning sports program, especially in football, which — pursuant to the realignment goals and objectives of the Association and the Commissioner — cannot be the basis for ordering a league transfer. Notwithstanding the considerable evidence supporting the Special Committee's conclusion that a transfer was not justified based on size or geography, and would undoubtedly impose a greater financial burden on Nutley due to a significantly increased travel requirement, and would have a severe negative impact on the NNJIL — whose stability must be one of the NJSIAA's prime objectives — Nutley is pursuing relief from the Commissioner because it wants to have a winning sports program. The NJSIAA submits, "[i]f that were the basis for schools transferring from one conference to another, then the process would be endless and conference structures would be eroded and scheduling of regular season contests would be chaotic." This is precisely the reason why schools such as Nutley have the burden of providing substantial reasons why they should be permitted to leave their current conference, without any consideration whatsoever to their win/loss football record. (NJSIAA Brief at 17-18)

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

It is well-established that the Commissioner's scope of review in NJSIAA determinations is appellate in nature. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4; Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 182, 188 (1992). That is, the Commissioner may not overturn an action by the NJSIAA in applying its rules absent a finding that the NJSIAA applied the rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. Nor may the Commissioner substitute her judgment for that of the NJSIAA, even if she were to decide differently in a de novo hearing, where due process has been provided and where there is adequate basis for the decision reached by the NJSIAA Committees. Dam Jin Koh and Hong Jun Kim v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 259. Further, the burden of proof rests with the person or entity challenging the decision. Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 297 (App. Div. 1960).

The arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable standard of review is extremely narrow in its scope and, consequently, imposes a heavy burden on those who challenge determinations of the NJSIAA. The standard, as defined by the New Jersey Courts provides:

> In the law, "arbitrary" and "capricious" means having no rational basis. (citation omitted) Arbitrary and capricious action of administrative bodies means willful and unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances. Where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached. (citations omitted) Moreover, the court should not substitute its judgment for that of an administrative or legislative body if there is substantial evidence to support the ruling. (citation omitted) (Bayshore Sewerage Co. v. Dept. of Envt. Protection, 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199-200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974)

Guided by these principles, having carefully reviewed and considered the record, including the transcripts of the Special Committee and Executive Committee hearings, all exhibits, and the parties' briefs on appeal, the Commissioner is persuaded that Nutley has been accorded the full measure of due process to which it is entitled, that the Special Committee's findings and conclusions are well-grounded in the record, and that Nutley, therefore, has failed to establish that the NJSIAA's determination upholding the denial of Nutley's withdrawal from the NNJIL was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. However, this said, the Commissioner is compelled to emphasize that the NNJIL must immediately act to implement, as directed by the NJSIAA's Executive Committee, inter-division or "cross over" game scheduling based upon the relative strength of programs of the competing schools to help insure a healthy competitive balance for all schools in parochial-public school competition.

Accordingly, having found that due process was granted Nutley and that there is sufficient credible evidence in the record to support the NJSIAA's denial of its request to leave the NNJIL, the Commissioner can find no basis under the established standard of review on which to overturn the NJSIAA's decision and, therefore, affirms its determination in this matter.

The record of this emergent matter, which included an audiotape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 30, 2005, along with the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner adopts the recommended Order granting emergent relief in this matter as she concurs with the ALJ, for the reasons clearly stated in his decision, that petitioner has satisfied the requisite standards for the granting of such relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Accordingly, the within application for emergent relief is hereby granted. The Board of Education of the City of Camden is directed to immediately enroll petitioner as a student in its district and shall determine his appropriate program and placement in accordance with the terms outlined by the ALJ on pages 6-7 of his Order. This matter is being returned to the OAL for such further proceedings as may be necessary to bring it to conclusion.

M.G.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF
THE CITY OF CAMDEN
CAMDEN COUNTY,

Respondent.

Alan W. Lesso, Esq., for petitioner (South Jersey Legal Services, Inc.)

Harvey C. Johnson, Esq., for respondent

BEFORE RICHARD F. WELLS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner brings this action seeking emergency relief under N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1(e). Petitioner, an eighteen-year-old student, alleges that respondent has improperly refused to permit him to enroll in school while he appeals respondent's residency determination.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On September 23, 2005, the Commissioner of Education received petitioner's application for emergent relief. On September 27, 2005, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law where it was filed as a contested case. On September 30, 2005, oral argument was presented in the Trenton offices of the Office of Administrative Law.

STATEMENT OF THE ISSUES

Is petitioner entitled to immediate enrollment?

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Petitioner is an eighteen-year-old individual who states that he currently resides in the City of Camden, New Jersey. Petitioner further states that it is his intention to permanently live in Camden. Petitioner claims that respondent refused to admit him to school.

Earlier, petitioner resided in the City of Philadelphia. At the time of his residence in Philadelphia, he became involved in legal matters that led to his involvement with the Juvenile Justice system. While in Philadelphia, he lived at the Youth Study Center in Philadelphia, as well as a residential program called the Devereaux Foundation, and the Glenn Mills School in Concordeville, Pennsylvania. On August 16, 2005, the judge in Pennsylvania released petitioner on probation. As part of the probation agreement, an Aftercare Supervision Plan through the First Judicial District of Pennsylvania, Juvenile Branch, was executed. A portion of the plan established that petitioner would reside with his aunt, who lives in Camden City. Additionally, supervision of his probation was transferred (or currently is in the process of being transferred) to New Jersey.

Petitioner has earlier been classified as a student with a disability who needs special education and related services. Petitioner represents that although he is eighteen years old and should enter twelfth grade, he currently exhibits significant deficits in his math and reading skills. Additionally, petitioner has experienced emotional problems in the past involving depression and anxiety and currently receives medication for treatment of his physical and/or mental conditions. The Devereaux Foundation is an in-patient mental health facility and the Glenn Mills School is a residential therapeutic school.

Consistent with the Aftercare Supervision Plan, petitioner's aunt appeared at respondent's offices for purposes of arranging petitioner's enrollment. Respondent refused to enroll petitioner.

Respondent argues that enrollment was denied for several reasons. Respondent maintains that because petitioner's probation has not yet been formally or completely transferred to New Jersey, petitioner must still be considered a resident of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Additionally, respondent asserts that insufficient school records have been submitted that would allow the Camden City Public School District to properly evaluate petitioner sufficient to permit a proper placement and program, even if admitted. Respondent further notes that petitioner never personally submitted an application for admission, but rather the effort was performed by his aunt. Respondent asserts that petitioner has failed to present any evidence that the aunt is a legal guardian or legal representative.

In addition to the above, respondent argues that petitioner has not made a voluntary decision to reside in the state, but rather was, according to the statements made in petitioner's emergent relief petition, ordered to reside in Camden. Consequently, respondent takes the position that Pennsylvania courts have no authority to order New Jersey school districts to bear the cost of educating special education students domiciled in Pennsylvania. Additionally, respondent observes that the Aftercare Supervision Plan envisions petitioner's participation in an adult education program so that he could receive a G.E.D. Parenthetically, respondent argues that if it is found that petitioner is still a citizen of Pennsylvania, the Camden City Public School District should receive remuneration from Pennsylvania for petitioner's education.

FACTUAL FINDINGS

I FIND:

(1) Petitioner is an eighteen-year-old male classified as a student with a disability who needs special education and related services.

(2) Chronologically, for the 2005/2006 school year, petitioner should be in the twelfth grade, although he exhibits significant deficits in grade level with regard to reading and math.

(3) Petitioner's aunt resides in the City of Camden.

(4) Petitioner asserts in his application for emergent relief that he currently resides with his aunt in the City of Camden and intends to do so for the foreseeable future.

(5) Petitioner's Aftercare Supervision Plan envisions that petitioner will reside with his aunt and that his probation case will be transferred to Camden County, New Jersey.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The standards for the granting of emergency relief are set forth in N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1(e). It may be granted if the judge determines from the proofs that: (1) the petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted; (2) the legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled; (3) the petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and (4) when the equities and interest of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted. In the instant case, after hearing the arguments of counsel and any other documentation submitted, I am satisfied that petitioner is entitled to emergent relief. Specifically, I am persuaded that the applicable regulations require enrollment to take place immediately.

Under N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)2, a student is domiciled in the school district when he has reached the age of eighteen and has established a permanent home within the district. A home is permanent when the student intends to return to it when absent and has no present intent of moving from it. Given the statements set forth in petitioner's Petition, specifically that he now resides in the City of Camden and intends to live there permanently, together with the agreement to reside with his aunt in Camden pursuant to the Aftercare Supervision Plan, I am satisfied that if petitioner's claims are taken as true, petitioner is currently domiciled in the City of Camden Public School District. Accordingly, based upon N.J.A.C. 6A:22-4.1(c)2, respondent must permit immediate enrollment. I FIND that the facts presented to this tribunal are far from the "clear, uncontested denials" that would support and justify an initial determination of ineligibility for enrollment. See, e.g., N.J.A.C. 6A:22-4.1(c).

Based upon the foregoing regulations, I am satisfied that the proofs have established the necessary elements to grant emergent relief under N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1(e). I FIND that petitioner would suffer irreparable harm if denied enrollment within the school district. Additionally, as discussed hereinabove, I FIND that the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled and that no clear, uncontested denial has been brought forth by respondent. Additionally, I FIND that if an evidentiary hearing was undertaken, I FIND that there is a good likelihood of petitioner prevailing on the merits in that it would be my reasonable expectation that petitioner would testify consistent with the statements made in his written Petition for Emergent Relief and that those statements of residency would be corroborated by petitioner's aunt and his New Jersey probation officer. Lastly, I agree with the statement of petitioner's counsel that when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner would suffer greater harm than the respondent would suffer if the requested relief was not granted. Specifically, I am satisfied that the marginal cost to the school district of taking on an additional student would be significantly less by comparison to the harm that would inure to petitioner if he was denied the opportunity to go to school and complete his high school education.

The conclusion that petitioner must be permitted enrollment in the Camden City Public School District should not be the end of this matter. Based upon the proofs submitted and arguments raised by both counsel, it is my conclusion that it would be unwise and inappropriate to simply order petitioner to enter twelfth grade in a mainstream setting. Although respondent has received some school record information from petitioner or petitioner's aunt, it is my conclusion that respondent should proceed with due diligence in determining the appropriate program and placement for petitioner, either within the school district or even potentially in an out-of-district setting. As the record currently stands, I am satisfied that respondent would be unable to make an appropriate determination as to a program and placement that would confer a meaningful educational benefit on petitioner. Accordingly, it is my conclusion that the school district should be afforded a reasonable amount of time in order to obtain prior school records, conduct a child study team meeting, prepare an interim IEP, and perform any evaluations deemed necessary. Therefore, it is my conclusion that although I FIND that petitioner should be granted immediate enrollment in the Camden City Public School District, such immediate enrollment should be on the following terms:

(1) During the week of October 3, 2005, respondent will arrange for petitioner to complete all enrollment applications and other related paperwork;

(2) During the week of October 3, 2005, respondent will schedule and arrange for the completion of a child study team meeting to be attended by petitioner at the child study team offices;

(3) During the week of October 3, 2005, respondent will arrange for student intake and also the review and receipt of petitioner's prior school records;

(4) With regard to the receipt of petitioner's prior school records, petitioner and petitioner's counsel will cooperate with respondent so that all necessary authorizations and record release documentation or permission slips are attended to so that all past records may be released;

(5) Petitioner will initially begin his education program and placement in a home instruction setting. Starting October 11, 2005, petitioner will receive ten hours per week of home instruction in areas that respondent is able to determine would be appropriate based upon the records currently available;

(6) During all home instruction sessions, petitioner's aunt, Sara Baldwin, shall be home, present and available;

(7) During the week of October 11, 2005, respondent will develop an interim or temporary IEP to include ten hours of home instruction as aforesaid;

(8) On or before October 31, 2005, respondent will determine whether any evaluations of petitioner are necessary and if any such evaluations are deemed necessary, will complete same within that time frame;

(9) On or before November 15, 2005, and based upon the accomplishment of the above-delineated items, petitioner's home instruction will cease and respondent will advise petitioner of respondent's decision as to the appropriate program and placement for him; and

(10) Respondent does not waive its ability to challenge the legitimacy of petitioner's residency within the school district by means of an evidentiary or plenary hearing.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

PETITIONER,	:	DECISION ON REMAND
V.	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE LENAPE REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, Gloucester County Institute of Technology (GCIT), seeks to recover nonresident fees from respondent Board for Lenape Regional High School students attending the GCIT performing arts program, as well as prejudgment interest. Respondent has argued that GCIT improperly calculated the nonresident fee it charges for out-of-county students. This case stems from a long standing dispute between the parties regarding whether the GCIT performing arts programs met the definition of vocational education, and— if so— whether GCIT is entitled to reimbursement from the home districts of their students. This issue was determined in the affirmative by a companion case decided in the Appellate Division November 12, 2004 (certification denied by Supreme Court on January 28, 2005).

The ALJ found, inter alia, that the nonresident fee for out-of-county secondary students should be based on secondary students in attendance at GCIT, and that the Court's January 28, 2005 denial of certification established that GCIT was eligible for payment of the nonresident fee from respondent Board. The ALJ concluded that the GCIT nonresident fee calculation is appropriate and that prejudgment interest is warranted for "tuition and transportation costs" beginning on March 1, 2005.

The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that: 1) GCIT did not err by omitting nonresident post-secondary students from its calculation of the nonresident fee authorized by N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(c); and 2) there was no reason why respondent Board should not have paid at least the undisputed amount due to GCIT as of March 1, 2005. The Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter, clarifying that the amount referenced in the recommended order is the nonresident fee, not "tuition and transportation costs." Respondent Board is directed to remit payment forthwith to GCIT, including both the disputed nonresident fee balance and interest on the undisputed amount.

PETITIONER,	:	DECISION ON REMAND
V.	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE LENAPE REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision on Remand[1] of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have exceptions filed by the respondent Board of Education (Lenape) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.[2]

In its exceptions, Lenape reiterates its arguments before the OAL with respect to statutory and regulatory construction, urging that Lenape's reading is the only one comporting with the plain language—as well as the history and intent—of the statutes and rules at issue. (Lenape's Exceptions at 3-11) Lenape also proposes findings of fact in addition to those reached by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), most notably with respect to events subsequent to March 1, 2005, when the Gloucester County Institute of Technology

[1] This matter was originally filed in 1998 and resulted in a Commissioner decision dated December 16, 1999, directing the respondent Board to pay tuition to petitioner. However, the State Board of Education, in its June 7, 2000 decision on appeal of the Commissioner's decision, remanded the matter to the Commissioner for determination consistent with the State Board's March 1, 2000 decision in the related matter of K.B. v. Rancocas Valley, supra. Accordingly, in June 2000, the Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL for hearing consistent with the State Board's decision. (See Initial Decision at 1-2)

[2] The Gloucester County Institute of Technology's reply to Lenape's exceptions bore a face date of September 29, 2005 and was filed on October 3, 2005—well beyond the time frame permitted by N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(a). Since no extension was requested and granted pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8, the Institute's submission is not considered herein.

(GCIT) first presented its nonresident fee calculations. Lenape proffers that the amount due GCIT was not finally determined on that date—the date from which the ALJ ordered payment of prejudgment interest based on its being 30 days after resolution of the larger underlying dispute by the Supreme Court—and notes that the district is "currently processing a check for the undisputed amount of $257,042.22,[3] which will be promptly paid to GCIT without prejudice to Lenape." (Id. at 2, Note 2)

With respect to the central question of this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that GCIT did not err by omitting nonresident post-secondary students from its calculation of the nonresident fee authorized by N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(c). Notwithstanding Lenape's focus on the construction of particular words and phrases, it is clear from the overall statutory and regulatory scheme governing support of county vocational schools—as well as sound in terms of educational and fiscal policy—that the nonresident fee is intended to generate for out-of-county students the same level of support that the school's county of location provides for resident students.

Post-secondary county vocational education for nonresidents—including charges to such students' counties of residence where appropriate—is governed by its own separate statutory scheme, N.J.S.A. 18A:54-23.1 through 23.5 (P.L. 1973, c. 333), and indeed, was at the time N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(c) was enacted and subsequently amended. Moreover, secondary and post-secondary students are generally funded in entirely different manners, with the result that, here, the school's post-secondary costs are covered in full by State aid and the county contribution is used in its entirety to support the secondary program. (Petitioner's Responsive Brief to Respondent's Cross Motion for Summary Judgment, Exhibit B; Petitioner's Cross Motion for Summary Decision, Exhibit B; Respondent's Cross

[3] Lenape contends that GCIT's methodology "improperly inflates the total nonresident fee from $257,042.22 to $368,900.00, not including interest." (Lenape's Exceptions at 3, Note 4)

Motion for Summary Decision, Exhibit D) Under these circumstances, it was entirely consistent with statute and rule for GCIT to have reckoned the county's per pupil contribution toward secondary-level vocational education based on the county tax levy divided by the number of resident students enrolled in the secondary program, and then to assess the resulting amount to nonresident students' home districts.

With respect to the question of prejudgment interest, the Commissioner concurs that, as of March 1, 2005, there was no reason why Lenape should not have paid at least the undisputed amount due to GCIT, as it represents it now has; therefore, the Commissioner directs that prejudgment interest be paid on the amount of $257,042.22[4] from March 1, 2005 to the date such funds were—or are, if the above-referenced payment has not yet been fully processed—disbursed to GCIT.

Accordingly, as amplified above, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the Board of Education of the Lenape Regional High School District is directed to remit payment forthwith to the Gloucester County Institute of Technology, including both the disputed nonresident fee balance and interest on the undisputed amount as set forth herein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[5]

Record Closed: August 8, 2005 Decided: August 24, 2005

BEFORE SOLOMON A. METZGER, ALJ:

This matter arises out of a petition filed by the Gloucester County Institute of Technology (GCIT) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, seeking to recover tuition, transportation costs and non-resident fees from Lenape Regional School District, which is located in Burlington County. The file was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by the Commissioner of Education in June 2000, and has for much of the intervening time awaited resolution of a companion case, K.B. v. Rancocas Valley Regional High School District, Appellate Docket No: A-6814-02-T5.

That matter was decided in the Appellate Division on November 12, 2004 and certification was denied on January 28, 2005. Both parties here intervened in that matter. The Court determined that the GCIT performing arts programs met the definition of vocational education and that GCIT was therefore entitled to reimbursement from the home districts of their students.

That baseline question having been resolved the parties have now fallen into a new dispute. Lenape argues that GCIT has not properly calculated the non-resident fee it charges out-of-county students. GCIT counters that Lenape is acting in bad faith and should be responsible for prejudgment interest, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(c) (1).

The facts are substantially undisputed. During the 1997/98 school year and in each succeeding school year students from the Lenape District have attended GCIT. The non-resident fee for each student is derived using a formula that divides GCIT students into the County contribution to arrive at a maximum per pupil charge. GCIT has not, however, included its post-secondary students in this calculation and Lenape believes that this omission inflates per pupil costs, increasing the allowable non-resident fee. The issue was submitted on cross-motions for summary decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5; Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995).

The question is one of statutory construction[1]. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(c) authorizes County vocational schools to collect a fee in addition to tuition for out-of-county pupils. The legislature specifically limited tuition reimbursement from out-of-county districts to secondary school students. However, the formula for the non-resident fee does not address this secondary/post-secondary question. It simply sets an outer limit so that the fee cannot exceed the amount of the county's per pupil appropriation to the vocational education district. Neither does N.J.A.C. 6A:23-3.3(d)(1), the regulatory adoption on the point, address the issue specifically.

Lenape argues that when the legislature forbad County vocational schools from collecting tuition for out-of-county post-secondary students, it did so clearly in the very statutory section at bar here. The silence regarding non-resident fees must therefore mean that post-secondary students are to be counted by GCIT in formulating the fee. I do not agree. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(c) does not allow an institution like GCIT to collect tuition from a school district like Lenape for students that have graduated from high school and are no longer the responsibility of the home district. The question here, however, is whether GCIT must include in-county post-secondary students in attendance at its programs, when calculating the non-resident fee for out-of-county secondary students. The better rational, it seems, is that the regulatory scheme would choose to compare like categories. Thus, the non-resident fee for out-of-county secondary students would be based on secondary students in attendance at GCIT.

The GCIT analysis is further buttressed by the fact that the legislature and State Board used this same non-resident fee language for county special services districts, which have no post-secondary students, see N.J.S.A. 18A:46-31; N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4(d)(1). If post-secondary students were not contemplated in the special services district example and the same language was used in our vocational education example, then it follows that post-secondary students were not contemplated in the latter case. Although both parties argue that theirs is a plain reading and cite cases that urge plain reading where possible, see, eg., Brodsky v. Grinnell Haulers, Inc., 181 N.J. 102 (2004); Nat'l Waste Recycling Inc., v. Middlesex County Improvement Auth., 150 N.J. 209 (1997), the subject is fairly arcane. The GCIT position is, however, a more logical fit for the language and for the circumstances.

Regarding prejudgment interest, eligibility for tuition and transportation reimbursement was finally resolved on January 28, 2005 with the denial of certification. Though a new debate surfaced regarding the non-resident fee calculation, payment for tuition/transportation should have been forthcoming shortly thereafter. Lenape has presented no good account for its failure to pay these sums timely and should not benefit from the delay. I would therefore impose interest for tuition and transportation commencing on March 1, 2005, which is 30 days from the date of the Supreme Court's order denying certification.

Based on the foregoing, I conclude that the GCIT non-resident fee calculation is appropriate and that prejudgment interest is warranted for tuition and transportation costs beginning on March 1, 2005. It is so ordered.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner -- former mathematics teacher convicted of first-degree murder in 1979 -- appealed, for the second time, denial by State Board of Examiners (SBE) of his application for re-issuance of a teaching certificate. A previous Commissioner's Decision, dated June 24, 2004 and affirmed by the State Board on October 6, 2004, sustained the SBE's denial of petitioner's first request for re-issuance of certificate, finding that the petitioner was statutorily disqualified from holding a New Jersey teaching certificate by virtue of his murder conviction, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1. Petitioner did not appeal to the Appellate Division, but instead submitted another application for certification to the SBE.

The SBE denied petitioner's application on January 20, 2005, finding that, as was previously determined by the Commissioner and affirmed by the State Board, petitioner is permanently disqualified from teaching in any institution or agency under the supervision of the Department of Education. The SBE further determined that it did not have the authority under its own regulations to issue petitioner a certificate since he was statutorily barred from teaching pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1. Petitioner subsequently filed the within appeal to the State Board, which was remanded to the Commissioner.

Upon thorough review of the submissions by petitioner and the arguments presented by the SBE, the Commissioner finds that no new substantive issue has been raised by petitioner that was not argued and considered in the Commissioner's 2004 decision. In that the issues and facts presented in the instant matter, as well as the substantive merits of petitioner's arguments, have previously been litigated and decided in the prior case involving the same parties, therefore, the Commissioner finds that the fundamental principle of res judicata precludes further litigation of this matter. Accordingly, the petition in this matter is dismissed, with prejudice.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

SBE #405-180
AGENCY DKT. NO. 208-8/05

IN THE MATTER OF THE DENIAL	:
OF CERTIFICATION AFTER	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
REVOCATION OF OTTO KRUPP.	:	DECISION

This matter was initiated by way of a Petition of Appeal, filed on August 24, 2005, following the State Board of Education's (State Board) August 3, 2005 remand of this matter to the Commissioner in accord with the Commissioner's jurisdiction to hear and issue determinations on appeals from decisions of the State Board of Examiners (SBE) denying issuance of certification.

On June 11, 1981, the SBE revoked petitioner's Teacher of Secondary School Mathematics certification following his May 21, 1979 conviction for first-degree murder. Upon petitioner's release after almost 23 years of incarceration, he applied for certification after revocation, claiming that he would waive any right to teach in the public school system and contending that he was solely requesting a conditional license restricting him to teach in correctional facilities operated by the Juvenile Justice System. On September 26, 2002, the SBE voted to deny petitioner's application for certification after revocation, finding that petitioner had not demonstrated rehabilitation sufficient to show that he could function effectively outside of confinement, and concluding that it had no authority to issue a limited or restricted certificate for the sole purpose of working within the correctional system.

Petitioner appealed the SBE's decision to the State Board. On May 7, 2003, the State Board remanded the matter to the Commissioner, finding that the jurisdiction to hear an appeal of the SBE's denial of an application for a teaching certificate rests with the Commissioner. The State Board's remand required the Commissioner to resolve the issues relating to the application of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, noting that the SBE rendered its decision under the Rehabilitated Convicted Offenders Act (RCOA), N.J.S.A. 2A:158A-1 et seq., and that it did not consider the effect of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 on the issue of whether or not a certificate should be issued to petitioner. Upon receipt of the case, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case. In an Initial Decision issued on May 10, 2004, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) concluded that petitioner had demonstrated sufficient rehabilitation to warrant certification after revocation. However, he also found that respondent was statutorily disqualified from holding a teaching certificate which would allow him to teach in the public schools or in correctional facilities in that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, petitioner was permanently disqualified from employment in New Jersey public schools and any other facility under the supervision of the Department of Education.

Upon review, the Commissioner disagreed with the ALJ's conclusion that petitioner had demonstrated sufficient rehabilitation to warrant certification after revocation, but agreed with the ALJ's conclusion that petitioner was statutorily disqualified from holding a teaching certificate. Like the ALJ, the Commissioner rejected petitioner's contention that he was entitled to certification because he had satisfied the criteria of the RCOA. Specifically, the Commissioner found that application for a teaching certificate is solely within the jurisdiction of the SBE, and that "the RCOA provides no independent authorization for the issuance of a teaching certificate, but, rather, operates to preclude licensing authorities from disqualifying or discriminating against an applicant for these credentials based solely on his or her conviction of a crime." In the Matter of the Denial of the Issuance of a Teaching Certificate to Otto Krupp, Commissioner's Decision June 24, 2004, slip op. at 19. The Commissioner further found no conflict or tension between the RCOA, N.J.S.A. 2A:168A-1 et seq., which was originally enacted by the Legislature in 1968, and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, noting that:

> The intent of this Act is reflected in 2A:168A-1 Legislative Findings:
>
> > The Legislature finds and declares that it is in the public interest to assist the rehabilitation of convicted offenders by removing impediments and restrictions upon their ability to obtain employment or to participate in vocational or educational rehabilitation programs based solely upon the existence of a criminal record.
> > Therefore, the Legislature finds and declares that notwithstanding the contrary provisions of any law or rule or regulation issued pursuant to law, a person shall not be disqualified or discriminated against by any licensing authority because of any conviction for a crime, unless N.J.S. 2C:51-2 is applicable or unless the conviction relates adversely to the occupation, trade, vocation, profession or business for which the license or certificate is sought. (emphasis supplied in Commissioner's decision))

As such, pursuant to this statutory provision, the relevant inquiry in judging the propriety of disqualification or discrimination against an applicant for licensure or certification based on conviction of a crime is whether the conviction at issue has a direct relation to the license or certificate being sought. See Storcella v. State Dept. of Treasury, 296 N.J. Super. 238 (App. Div. 1997).

Turning to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 et seq., as recognized by the ALJ, pursuant to amendments enacted by the Legislature in 1998, this provision

> Disqualifies [an individual] from employment in "any facility, center, school or school system under the supervision of the Department of Education" if he had been convicted of certain crimes, including murder. Before the change in the law, subsection (e) of the statute allowed a person convicted of a disqualifying offense > the opportunity to demonstrate affirmatively his or her rehabilitation by clear and convincing evidence. As a result of the 1998 amendments, however, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 now provides that an individual convicted of a disqualifying offense "shall be permanently disqualified from employment or service." Similarly, the Legislature expressly repealed the provision in the law that had previously granted such individual the opportunity to show rehabilitation. Instead, subsection (e) limits the individual to "an opportunity to challenge the accuracy of the disqualifying criminal record." (citation omitted) Initial Decision at 8.

The Commissioner notes that the Legislature in enacting the 1998 amendments to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 proclaimed that a conviction for a first or second degree crime was inimical to employment in the public schools. When these amendments were drafted, the Legislature declared that the interest and safety of school children in the State of New Jersey must prevail. Indeed, one of the sponsors of the amendments declared, "We are entrusting these people with our children's safety. The risk that these people have not been rehabilitated is a gamble that we are not willing to take." Senator Norman M. Robertson, Senate and Assembly News Release, GovNet #30085. The other sponsor of the amendments stated, "There is no good reason why we should have a child abuser or flasher working with our children. This legislation keeps these people where they belong -- far away from our kids." Senator Joseph A. Palaia, Senate and Assembly News Release, GovNet #30085.

Because the enactment of the 1998 amendments to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 is specifically predicated on the Legislature's belief that an individual's conviction for certain crimes, including murder, relates adversely to employment in the public school system of New Jersey, disqualification or discrimination against such an individual who has applied for a teaching certificate is specifically exempted from the dictates of the RCOA by that provision's clear language as a consequence of the relationship between the offense and the certification being sought.

Id., slip op. at 19-21

Additionally, the Commissioner concluded that:

> Most importantly, the award of a certificate by the Board of Examiners certifies that the holder has met all of the requirements established by the State Board of Education and is authorized to serve in the public schools of New Jersey. As a consequence of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, petitioner is precluded from employment in any entity under the auspices of the Department of Education and the State Board of Education, rendering the award of certification to him a legal impossibility.

Thus, the Commissioner found rehabilitation was not a consideration, as petitioner was statutorily disqualified from holding a New Jersey teaching certificate by virtue of his murder conviction, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1. Accordingly, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL, as modified, sustaining the SBE's denial of petitioner's request for certification after revocation. On October 6, 2004, the State Board affirmed the Commissioner's determination "for the reasons expressed therein." Petitioner did not appeal to the Appellate Division. Instead, petitioner submitted another application for certification to the SBE. On January 20, 2005, the SBE denied petitioner's application for certification, finding that, as previously determined by the Commissioner and affirmed by the State Board, petitioner is permanently disqualified from teaching in any institution or agency under the supervision of the Department of Education. The SBE further determined that it did not have the authority under its own regulations to issue petitioner a certificate since he was statutorily barred from teaching, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1. Subsequently, petitioner filed the within appeal to the State Board, which was remanded to the Commissioner as noted above.

By letter of August 16, 2005, the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes requested that petitioner submit a petition of appeal, conforming to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3 et seq., and a legal memorandum or brief addressing why the issue raised in this matter has not already been decided by the Commissioner's June 24, 2004 determination, affirmed by the State Board on October 6, 2004, which found petitioner statutorily disqualified from holding a

New Jersey teaching certificate by virtue of his murder conviction. The SBE was directed to file its Answer and to respond to petitioner's legal memorandum upon its receipt.

Upon review, the arguments submitted by the petitioner[1] are essentially the same arguments presented in the previous matter, i.e.: 1) the legislative intent of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 "was not to totally bar rehabilitated offenders, just bar entry into the public schools," thus, he should be allowed to use certification in any other forum from which he is not barred; 2) the RCOA states that an applicant cannot be disqualified or discriminated against based on a prior conviction -- yet, in the instant matter, petitioner is being discriminated against based on a prior conviction; 3) he is being discriminated against because, prior to the enactment of the 1998 amendment (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1), two similarly situated individuals with homicide convictions were issued teaching certificates after promising that they would not teach in a public school; 4) the Department of Corrections and the Juvenile Justice System do not have a board of education, and, thus, do not fall under the criteria listed in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1; and 5) petitioner is not barred from teaching in the adult correctional system because N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 would not apply as he would not be dealing with children under the age of 18. (Petitioner's Brief at 1-2 and Petitioner's Reply Brief at 2-3)

The SBE submits, inter alia, that petitioner is attempting to litigate again the issue of the effect of his disqualification from public school employment upon his eligibility for certification which was conclusively decided in the previous decision of the Commissioner (referenced above) regarding this same issue. (SBE Brief at 9) The SBE notes that petitioner did not appeal the State Board's affirmation of the Commissioner's finding to the Appellate Division, making the State Board's determination final. (Id. at 9-10) The SBE claims that petitioner is, therefore, barred from re-litigating the issue of the effect of his disqualification from public school employment on his eligibility for certification and his petition should be dismissed. (Id. at 10)

Upon a thorough assessment of petitioner's submissions in this matter, as well as the arguments presented by the SBE, the Commissioner finds that no new substantive issue has been raised by petitioner that was not argued and considered in the Commissioner's June 24, 2004 decision, wherein it was determined that petitioner was statutorily disqualified from holding a New Jersey teaching certificate. In that the issues and facts presented in the instant matter, as well as the substantive merits of petitioner's arguments, have previously been litigated and decided in the prior case involving the same parties, therefore, the Commissioner finds that the fundamental principle of res judicata precludes further litigation of this matter. See City of Hackensack v, Winner, 82 N.J. 1, 31, 34 (1980) and T.W. v. A.W., 224 N.J. Super. 675, 682 (App. Div. 1988).

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, the petition in this matter is dismissed, with prejudice.

JACK CORTEZ,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF GARFIELD, BERGEN COUNTY and IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JACK CORTEZ, GARFIELD SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY,

Respondent.

Bruce D. Leder, Esq., for petitioner (Cohen, Leder, Montalbano & Grossman, attorneys)

Toni Belford Damiano, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: August 19, 2005 Decided: August 19, 2005

BEFORE CAROL I. COHEN, ALJ:

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on January 12, 2005 for determination as a contested case. A hearing was scheduled for February 1, 2005, which was adjourned because Ms. Damiano's father passed away. It was rescheduled to February 24, 2005.

On the date of the hearing the parties were able to resolve the matter. On March 1, 2005, the parties submitted the attached typewritten Settlement Agreement indicating the terms of the agreement. On March 10, 2005, the court received the original handwritten signed agreement. An Initial Decision Settlement was prepared on March 15, 2005 and mailed to the parties on March 24, 2005. On May 5, 2005 the Commissioner of Education filed a decision remanding the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for further expansion and revision of the documents consistent with the Cardonick standards. The file was returned to the OAL on May 26, 2005. On August 19, 2005 the attorneys sent a revised Settlement Agreement consistent with the Cardonick standards. The attached Settlement Agreement indicates the terms of the agreement. Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signature of the parties and/or signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Re: Cortez v. Garfield Board of Education
OAL Docket No(EDU1164-05- Remand)
EDU 05654-05

Dear Judge Cohen:

This letter is written with the authority and consent of Bruce Leder, attorney for Mr. Jack Cortez. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 - withdrawal, settlement or mooting tenure charges - the following information is submitted as required and established by the State Board of Education in the matter entitled In re Cardonick, State Board Decision of April 6, 1983(1990 School Law Decisions(S.L.D.) 842, 846):

1. Enclosed is a copy of the filed tenure charges outlining the nature of the charges against Mr. Cortez; and,

2. In regard to the explanation of the circumstances justifying the settlement, please be advised that it is undisputed that Mr. Cortez suffers a physical disability that does not permit him to perform the duties required of him in the position he held with the Garfield Board of Education; and,

3. In regard to the consent of both the charged and charging parties, enclosed is a copy of the signed Stipulation of Settlement. Enclosed please also find a certified copy of the Garfield Board of Education Resolution No. 02-313-05 dated February 28, 2005, approving the settlement; and,

4. In regard to an indication that the charged party entered into the agreement with a full understanding of his rights, Mr. Cortez was extensively voir dired by Your Honor on the record, as well as having been asked questions by counsel for the charged and charging party in addition to executing the Stipulation of Settlement; and,

5. It is clear that this agreement is in the public interest as the settlement financially benefits Mr. Cortez and does not detrimentally impact upon the District.

I trust the above is in full compliance with the Decision of the Commissioner of Education entered April 27, 2005, and acceptable as presented.

Very truly yours,

02-313-05 Whereas, the Garfield Board of Education and Jack Cortez are parties to a matter pending before the Office of Administrative Law, Docket No. EDU-01 164-05; and Whereas, both parties desire to resolve this matter voluntarily and without further expense of time and money and the uncertainty of the results of this matter, It Is Hereby Agreed as follows:

1. Jack Cortez will file a disability retirement application. Jack Cortez understands that the decision on that application is within the jurisdiction of the Pension Board and not the Garfield Board of Education. The Garfield Board of Education takes no position as to whether or not Jack Cortez is eligible for a disability retirement. The Garfield Board of Education agrees to provide reasonable assistance to Jack Cortez in the preparation of the disability pension application.

2. Jack Cortez shall receive from the Garfield Board of Education a lump sum settlement equivalent to five and one-half (5.5) months of his present salary ($49,600) in return for the following release. Jack Cortez releases now and forever any and all claims, causes of action, petitions or demands against the Garfield Board of Education and its individual Board Members arising out of his employment, his termination, his tenure charges, his retirement and/or the end of his employment with the Garfield Board of Education. Notwithstanding this release, Jack Cortez has the right to pursue his workers' compensation claim.

3. Jack Cortez acknowledges that he has already received one and one-half (1.5) months of salary. This sum, in addition to the amount set forth in paragraph 2, shall be the total payable by the Garfield Board of Education to Jack Cortez for any claims. Upon receipt of the five and one-half (5/5) months as set forth in paragraph 2, Jack Cortez acknowledges that the Garfield Board of Education has completed its obligation to Jack Cortez and Jack Cortez agrees that the Garfield Board of Education will have satisfied its monetary obligations to him for any and all claims.

4. Jack Cortez directs that all necessary steps be taken to withdraw his Petition pending in this matter.

5. The Garfield Board of Education will withdraw its Cross Petition in this matter.

Mrs. Aloia motioned to approve Resolution 02-313-05. Said motion was seconded by Mr. Hicks and carried by the following roll call vote: Mrs. Aloia, Ms. Visotcky, Dr. Conte, Mr. Hicks, Mr. DeMarco, Mr. Edward Puzio, and Mr. Wich voting YES.

I, Dennis R. Frohnapfel, Ed.D., Secretary of the Garfield Board of Education, hereby certify that the foregoing is a true copy of a motion duly adopted by said Board at a Regular Meeting held on February 28, 2005.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have set my hand and the seal of the Garfield Board of Education, May 2, 2005.

STATEMENT OF TENURE CHARGES

STATE OF NEW JERSEY :
: SS:
COUNTY OF BERGEN :

I, DR. DENNIS R. FROHNAPFEL, of full age, being duly sworn according to law and upon my oath, deposes and says:

1. I am the Board Secretary/School Business Administrator of the School District of the City of Garfield.

2. My appointment to the position of Board Secretary/School Business Administrator in the School District of the City of Garfield became effective on or about September 15, 2003, and I have held such position continuously from that time to the present.

3. As the Board Secretary/School Business Administrator, one of my duties is to oversee and supervise the conduct of non-certified employees in the District, and to insure that the conduct of the non-certified staff members is becoming to their positions within the district, and to overlook that non-certified staff members perform their assigned duties in an efficient, appropriate, and diligent manner.

4. Mr. Jack D. Cortez, Jr. is a custodian employed in the district. He was initially hired in the district on or about September 4, 1990. While he started as a custodian, he was later transferred to the Maintenance Department. However, at his request, he was returned to the custodian's position.

5. I am hereby seeking to prefer tenure charges against Mr. Cortez as follows:

(a) Inability to adequately perform his duties as a custodian, due to incapacity, as set forth in the attached Statement of Evidence;

(b) Inefficiency for excessive absenteeism; and

(c) Other just cause.

6. With respect to the charges of inefficiency, Mr. Cortez has been afforded the opportunity to correct such inefficiency on February 9, 1999, January 14, 2000, January 2, 2001, and June 1, 2001, both verbally and in writing.

7. In view of the above charges, I have determined that Mr. Cortez's actions constitute incapacity in his job, and other just cause to warrant Mr. Cortez's termination from employment.

8. I hereby certify that the foregoing statements made by me are true to the best of my knowledge. I understand that if any of the foregoing statements made by me are willfully false, I am subject to punishment.

STATEMENT OF EVIDENCE

STATE OF NEW JERSEY :
: SS:
COUNTY OF BERGEN :

I, DR. DENNIS R. FROHNAPFEL, of full age, being duly sworn according to law and upon my oath, deposes and says:

1. I am the Board Secretary/School Business Administrator of the School District of the City of Garfield.

2. My appointment to the position of Board Secretary/School Business Administrator in the School District of the City of Garfield became effective on or about September 15, 2003, and I have held such position continuously from that time to the present.

3. As the Board Secretary/School Business Administrator, one of my duties is to oversee and supervise the conduct of non-certified employees in the District, and to insure that the conduct of the non-certified staff members is becoming to their positions within the district, and to overlook that non-certified staff members perform their assigned duties in an efficient, appropriate, and diligent manner.

4. Mr. Jack D. Cortez, Jr. is a custodian employed in the district. He was initially hired in the district on or about September 4, 1990. While he started as a custodian, he was later transferred to the Maintenance Department. However, at his request, he was returned to the custodian's position

5. A review of Mr. Cortez's personnel file reveals that, throughout his employment in the district, Mr. Cortez has had a history of excessive absenteeism, injury, and disability. In any event, some examples of his history are as follows:

(a) On August 4, 1994, during his normal work hours, Mr. Cortez was observed drinking beer at a local tavern.

(b) During the 1997-1998 school year, Mr. Cortez was absent a total of 33 days from work for illness, vacation, and personal days. As early as September 17, 1997, Mr. Cortez complained of experiencing chest pains while performing work duties.

(c) On November 25, 1997, Mr. Cortez allegedly injured his back and hips while performing his duties. He filed a Workers' Compensation claim as a result and was absent for a significant time from his work.

(d) On July 28, 1998, Mr. Cortez asked to be transferred from the maintenance department to a custodial position as a result of medical problems. His request was accommodated. However, Mr. Cortez was excessively absent through 1998 and 1999, and, as such, his excessive absenteeism was discussed at a meeting of the Board's personnel committee on February 9, 1999.

(e) Following that meeting, Mr. Cortez's excessive absenteeism continued. In March 1999, he filed a temporary disability claim. Then in August, while cleaning gutters at his home, he fell from a ladder. He then filed another temporary disability claim on September 6, 1999. In the 1999/2000 school year, Mr. Cortez was absent a total of 82 days.

(f) After finally returning to work, on January 14, 2000, Mr. Cortez was reprimanded for his failure to adequately sweep the floor in a classroom. After this verbal reprimand, Mr. Cortez stated that he was ill, and he left work early.

(g) On September 11, 2000, Mr. Cortez alleged that he had fallen while carrying a package up stairs and that he had hyper extended his knee. He was absent for a few days as a result, though he refused medical treatment at the time. His excessive absenteeism continued. As a result, on January 2, 2001, Mr. Cortez met with the principal in the school where he was assigned to work, as well as the Board Secretary at the time, Edward Izbicki. Following this meeting, Mr. Cortez continued to be excessively absent. His annual written performance report, dated June 1, 2001 indicates that he needed improvement in his punctuality and attendance, as well as his performance of his duties and his general attitude.

(h) On or about June 29, 2001, Mr. Cortez filed another disability claim after he received treatment for a heart condition. He was absent for a significant time as a result. On July 6, 2001, the principal at the school where Mr. Cortez was assigned wrote a memorandum to the Superintendent indicating that Mr. Cortez's excessive absenteeism was negatively impacting upon his school's entire custodial staff. On or about July 9, 2001, Cortez was again absent. He continued to be absent for several days when the School Business Administrator at the time was advised that he had been admitted into the hospital for a coronary problem. He was absent for a significant time and he provided documentation indicating that he could return to work as of early September 2001. In early September, however, he called in sick for work indicating that he could not get a doctor's appointment and he needed to see a doctor. On September 7, 2001, the school principal wrote another memo to the Superintendent expressing concerns about Mr. Cortez's physical well-being and his ability to perform custodial duties. Mr. Cortez continued to be absent for a significant period of time.

(i) After Mr. Cortez eventually returned to work, his excessive absenteeism continued. In January, February and March 2002, Mr. Cortez was absent for a few days in each of those months as a result of upper respiratory infections. Through the 2002/2003 school year, Mr. Cortez was absent a total of 185 days. This resulted from various physical ailments, as well as mental ailments such as depression. Further, in August 2002, Mr. Cortez fell and suffered a head injury which resulted in a concussion, and numbness in his extremities. Also, in August 2002, Mr. Cortez underwent treatment for psychological problems and alcohol detoxification.

(j) On September 17, 2002, Mr. Cortez fell while taking out garbage from the school cafeteria. He suffered contusions on his face, and a back injury. He filed a Workers' Compensation claim. He received benefits as a result of that claim until on or about September 15, 2003, at which time he was supposed to return to work. However, he did not do so. He has not returned to work since that time.

6. In view of the above-listed events, I have determined that Mr. Cortez's actions constitute inefficiency in his job, incapacity and other just cause to warrant Mr. Cortez's termination from employment.

7. I hereby certify that the foregoing statements made by me are true to the best of my knowledge. I understand that if any of the foregoing statements made by me are willfully false, I am subject to punishment.

Re: Tenure Charges

Dear Mr. Cortez:

Enclosed please find a Statement of Tenure Charges and Statement of Evidence, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, which have been executed by Dr. Dennis R. Frohnapfel, the Board Secretary/School Business Administrator of the Garfield Board of Education.

Dr. Frohnapfel is seeking to prefer tenure charges against you for your inefficiency in your duties as a custodian/bus driver with the school district, and for other just cause.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 provides that you may submit to the Board a written statement of position and a written statement of evidence, under oath, to the Board prior to the Board taking any action with respect to the charges being preferred by Dr. Frohnapfel. N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1 provides that you may provide said written response to the Board within fifteen (15) days of receipt of these Tenure Charges and Statement of Evidence. It is the Board's intention to address this matter in executive session at the Board meeting scheduled for Monday, July 19, 2004 at 7:00 pm. Accordingly, if you so desire to refute the allegations as set forth in the enclosed Statement of Evidence, kindly do so in a writing, under oath, submitted to the Board Offices, within fifteen (15) days of receipt of this letter.

S.S. AND W.S., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, J.S.,

PETITIONERS,

V.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF HASBROUCK HEIGHTS, BERGEN COUNTY, ET AL.

RESPONDENTS.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners seek to have a one-day suspension expunged from their son's record; suspension was imposed for violation of the Board's written policy against harassment, intimidation and bullying after J.S. added a yarmulke and curls to a portrait of another student while in art class. Petitioners contend that the penalty imposed was excessive, and a verbal or written warning would be a sufficient disciplinary action. Respondent Board maintains that the penalty is appropriate, and the Commissioner cannot set aside its determination unless she finds that the action was "arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable."

The ALJ found that: the target of J.S.'s hazing was a special education student with multiple disabilities; the intent of his action was to belittle and ridicule a classmate; the fact that J.S. shares a Jewish identity with the targeted student does not excuse his behavior or lessen its severity; educators and administrators in the school district took the incident very seriously, and determined that it violated the district policy against "defamation of a cultural, racial or religious group"; and both the building principal and the superintendent of schools agreed that a one-day suspension was a fitting penalty under district guidelines. The ALJ concluded that the nature of the offense, its foreseeable effect on the victim and the failure of petitioner to apologize for his actions are more than sufficient to warrant imposition of the one-day suspension. Therefore, the school administration did not act arbitrarily, capriciously or unreasonably by following its own guidelines and imposing a one-day suspension.

The Commissioner fully concurs with the ALJ that, under the circumstances, the respondent Board's imposition of a one-day suspension upon J.S. is properly upheld. The Initial Decision of the OAL dismissing the petition is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner fully concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that, under the circumstances here present, the Board of Education's imposition of a one-day suspension upon J.S. is properly upheld.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Initial Decision of the OAL dismissing the Petition of Appeal is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal on behalf of an eighth-grade student seeking to expunge a one-day suspension from his pupil record. Hasbrouck Heights Board of Education ("Board") has imposed a one-day suspension on a thirteen-year old student (identified here as "J.S.") for violation of its written policy against "harassment, intimidation and bullying." School officials allege that, while in art class, J.S. added a yarmulke and curls to a portrait of another student.[1] The Board contends that such conduct violates a school policy prohibiting harassment "motivated by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as ...religion." Both students directly involved are Jewish. J.S.'s parents urge that no anti-Semitism was intended and that the Jewish symbols added to the portrait are not inherently defamatory. The victim, a special education student with distinctive facial characteristics and noticeable speech impairment, had been the brunt of prior teasing by a group of boys to which J.S. belongs.

While acknowledging that some disciplinary action is warranted, petitioner contends that the penalty is excessive and that a verbal or written warning would be been sufficient. Respondent maintains that the penalty was appropriate and that Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") cannot set aside its determination unless he finds that the action was "arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable."

Procedural History

By notice dated December 9, 2003, the middle school principal notified J.S.'s parents that their child will receive a one day out of school suspension for having "depicted a defamatory picture of another student." Petitioner's parents sought a review of decision and were afforded the opportunity to make a presentation to the Board at its regularly scheduled meeting on January 29, 2004. Meanwhile, on December 10, 2003, J.S. had already served the one-day suspension. On February 3, 2004, the Board notified the parents in writing that it had voted to uphold and affirm the action taken by the middle school principal.

[1] A yarmulke (Yiddish) or kipa (Hebrew) is "a skullcap worn esp. by Orthodox and Conservative Jewish males in the synagogue and the home." WEBSTER'S NEW COLLEGIATE DICTIONARY 1366 (9th ed. 1988).

Petitioner's parents filed an appeal to the Commissioner on February 13, 2004 and the Board filed its answer on March 3, 2004. Subsequently, on April 21, 2004, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case. The OAL held a hearing on May 18, 2005. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the appendix. Upon receipt of post-hearing briefs, the record closed on June 3, 2005.

Findings of Fact

Most of the relevant facts are undisputed. I FIND the following facts:

On December 8, 2003, J.S., thirteen years old, was an eighth grade student enrolled in the Hasbrouck Heights public school system. During the second period on that day, J.S. was attending art class. Barbara Kritzer, the art teacher, had assigned a project in which pairs of students, seated at tables, were asked to draw portraits of each other. There were roughly twenty students in the class, described by their teacher as "a pretty wild group." One of the students in the class, identified as T.D., was a special education student, who took "cycle classes," such as art, in the mainstream. Ms. Kritzer testified that T.D is small in stature, and that he walks differently, that his face is "a little deformed" and that he has a speech problem. Harriet Eisenberg, director of special services in the district, noted that T.D. is classified as "multiply-disabled," and that he exhibits "learning disabilities, physical deformities, facial distortion and speech impairment." T.D.'s physical characteristics "make him look different" from other children.

Art teacher Kritzer stated that T.D. was "out of the group" and seemed to get teased a lot, either because he was different or because of the way he reacted to teasing. However, Ms. Kritzer was unaware of anything unusual having happened in her class until a day or two after December 8, 2003 when the building principal, Edward Bolcar Jr. approached her about a complaint he had received from T.D.'s parents.

Mr. Bolcar, a school administrator with thirty years of experience, met with T.D. and his mother on December 9, 2003. According to Mr. Bolcar, the mother objected to certain alterations that J.S. had made to a portrait of T.D. in art class the day before, which she believed were intended to demean and embarrass her son. Mr. Bolcar questioned T.D., and he stated that he felt "insulted and humiliated." Characterizing T.D.'s demeanor, Mr. Bolcar said that T.D.'s "head was down," that his "eyes were downcast" and that he appeared "genuinely upset." Mr. Bolcar did not think he was merely repeating what his mother had told him to say.

In a letter to the Board dated December 17, 2003, the mother eloquently summarized her anguish at the ridicule to which her son had been subjected:

> The drawing depicting my son with a yarmulke and curls may seem to some as a classmate "joking around" but it was meant to be offensive. My son believes it was to point out that he has another issue that makes him different. He was upset to learn that someone would "make fun" of him because of his Jewish heritage.
> My son receives cruel insults on a daily basis and I encourage him to shrug off many of these harsh comments but this was different. I could see he was truly offended . . . victimized because of his religious values.

Ms. Kritzer was able to retrieve the drawing. The portrait portrays a male figure with long sideburns, similar to peyos typically worn by Orthodox Jewish men, to which someone has added curls covering the ears and a yarmulke on top of the head.

Testifying in his own defense, J.S., now age fourteen, admitted that he had drawn the curls and the yarmulke, although the sideburns had been part of the original drawing. J.S. explained that several other students had previously drawn on the portrait, but their markings had been erased and he was the last one who "drew over it." When J.S completed making his alterations on the portrait, "everyone was just laughing" and "joking around." Explaining that he belonged to a Reform Temple and had just had his bar mitzvah two months before the incident, J.S. denied any intent to make fun of Jewish culture because, "I'm Jewish myself." On cross-examination, J.S. acknowledged that he was aware of the prohibition in the student handbook against hazing and bullying.

In further support for their position, the parents submitted a letter from Rabbi David Rosenberg of Temple Shuvah Yisrael in Westbury, New York. Rabbi Rosenberg explained that "'hazing' or 'making fun' of others is never acceptable in Jewish thought" and that J.S. "openly admits he participated in such an event." Instead of punishment, the Rabbi recommended that J.S. "should sincerely ask [T.D.] to forgive him for what he did." Curiously, J.S. never saw fit to follow the Rabbi's well-meaning advice, conceding that he had never apologized to T.D. for offending him. Indeed, J.S. seemed as much concerned about himself as his victim, saying that he now regrets the incident "because of what it caused both to me and to him."

Experienced educators in charge of running the Hasbrouck Heights school system took the incident very seriously. Director Eisenberg, who herself is Jewish, thought the act was designed to mock another child. She regarded the Jewish connotations as "even more offensive if the child who did it is Jewish." Building Principal Bolcar determined that singling out a particular child for his religious faith violated the district policy against "defamation of a cultural, racial or religious group." Petitioner's parents make much of the technical definition of "defamation," but Mr. Bolcar was clearly using the word in its generic sense as making disparaging or unfavorable statements about another person. Superintendent of Schools Joseph Luongo commented that the appropriate use of a symbol depends on its context and that even a religious icon can be offensive if used to show disrespect for a particular group or tradition. Given the circumstances, both Mr. Luongo and Mr. Bolcar agreed that a one-day suspension is a fitting penalty under district guidelines.

J.S.'s conduct had the foreseeable effect of isolating T.D. from the rest of the class and emphasizing his differences from everyone else. Clearly, J.S. understood that what he was doing would hurt T.D.'s feelings and would incite other children to laugh at the outsider. He intended to belittle and ridicule his classmate and to rally the other children in the class against him. Certainly the fact that J.S. happens to share a Jewish identity with his victim does not excuse his behavior or lessen its severity.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the Board's imposition of a one-day suspension for J.S.'s violation of its policy against harassment, intimidation or bullying should be upheld.

Establishment of an educational program requires rules and regulations necessary for the maintenance of an orderly instructional program and the creation of an educational environment conducive to learning. R.R. v. Board of Educ., 109 N.J. Super. 337 (Ch. Div. 1970). Recently, the New Jersey Legislature recognized that harassment, intimidation or bullying disrupts a student's ability to learn and hampers the school's ability to educate its students in a safe environment. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13. In order to achieve a safe and secure school environment, the Legislature mandated that every public school district in New Jersey adopt a policy prohibiting harassment, intimidation or bullying on school property or at school-sponsored functions. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(a). Among other features, such policy must specify a description of the type of behavior expected from every student, the consequences and appropriate remedial action for anyone who fails to conform to such expectations, and the range of ways in which a school will respond once an incident has been reported. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b).

Courts and administrative agencies have demonstrated an increased willingness to protect victims of bullying behavior and to require school districts to carry out their obligation to stop such abuse. Most notably, in Shore Regional High School Bd. of Educ. v. P.S. ex rel. P.S., 381 *F.*3d 194 (3rd Cir. 2004), the Third Circuit held that a school district violated the Individuals With Disabilities Education Act because of its inability to protect a student from a pattern of bullying and harassment. Similarly, in L.W. v. Toms River Reg. Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. No. CRT 8431-01, http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/final/crt8535-01.pdf , the Director of the New Jersey

Division on Civil Rights held a school district liable for civil damages and penalties under the Law Against Discrimination for tolerating a hostile educational environment of intimidation and bullying based on sexual orientation.

Under federal and state law, therefore, the Board has a duty to implement strong measures to prevent bullying of students under its care. To carry out its responsibilities, the Board enacted Policy #5131.2, prohibiting hazing, bullying, harassment, and intimidation activities of any type inconsistent with the educational process. "Harassment, intimidation or bullying" is broadly defined to encompass any gesture or written, verbal or physical act "motivated by any actual or perceived characteristic," including religion, ancestry or mental or physical disability. It extends to any conduct that "has the effect of insulting or demeaning any student or group of students in such a way as to cause substantial disruption in, or substantial interference with, the orderly operation of the school."

J.S. had received a copy of the student handbook and was familiar with its contents. The handbook put him on notice that he was expected to "behave in a manner that does not interfere with the education of others" and to "conduct [himself] in a manner that supports the physical and emotional well-being of others." Under the heading of "Bullying," the handbook states that students must "respect the rights and privacy of fellow students" and that "no student should be subject to bullying or unwarranted harassment." Once a report of suspected bullying is made, the school staff member must take appropriate action to remedy the situation "based on the severity of the problem." Disciplinary guidelines in the handbook set forth a wide range of potential consequences, from verbal warning to police intervention. The suggested penalty for "defamation of a cultural, racial or religious group" by an eighth grade student is an out-of-school suspension. School administrators, however, "reserve the prerogative to adjust the disciplinary process" to fit the nature of the offense.

Undoubtedly this incident has overtones of religious bigotry on J.S.'s part. Use of orthodox religious symbolism to taunt a Jewish student in his class suggests J.S.'s eagerness to dissociate himself from an unpopular child in the class whom others might otherwise view as connected with him through common religious ties. Even if the religious aspect were purely incidental and J.S. picked on this particular target because of his handicap or just because he was "different," the conduct would be equally reprehensible and violative of the school policy against bullying. J.S.'s parents argue hollowly that the class was never disrupted because the teacher was unaware of the incident when it occurred. One has only to read the heartbreaking letter from the victim's mother to appreciate the adverse impact on T.D.'s educational opportunities and interference with the safety and security of the classroom.

Brief comment must be made about the scope of review of a school board's action on appeal to the Commissioner. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 confers extensive authority on the Commissioner to hear and determine "all controversies and disputes arising under the school law." Numerous reported opinions by New Jersey's highest court have broadly construed this unfettered legislative grant to allow the Commissioner to exercise independent judgment in finding facts and making legal conclusions. See, e.g., Jenkins v. Township of Morris Sch. Dist., 58 N.J. 483, 494 (1971) (crossing school district lines to remedy segregation); Board of Educ. of East Brunwick v. Township Council, 48 N.J. 94,106 (1966) (ensuring that school district has adequate funds to deliver thorough and efficient education); In re Masiello, 25 N.J. 590, 606 (1958) (review of denial of administrator's certificate).

Nonetheless, the Board urges that the Commissioner's jurisdiction should be limited to determining whether it acted arbitrarily, capriciously and unreasonably. If it did not, then the Board insists that the Commissioner cannot substitute his own judgment for that of local authorities. Respondent cites a long line of administrative decisions, exemplified by J.D. & E.D. ex rel. B.D. v. Bd. of Educ. of Toms River Reg. Sch. Dist, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 6009-97, 1997 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 521 (Nov. 19, 1997), adopted (Comm. July 1, 1998) http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/final/edu6009-97.pdf , in which the Commissioner appears to have confined himself to such narrow scope of review. But cf., Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980), where the New Jersey Supreme Court rejected a similar "abuse of discretion" standard and directed the Civil Service Commission [now Merit System Board] to conduct a de novo review in a public employee's appeal of a disciplinary action.

Here it is unnecessary to resolve these competing views of the breadth of the Commissioner's review powers. The result would be the same no matter which standard is applied. Under a de novo review standard, the nature of the offense, its foreseeable effect on the victim and the failure of petitioner to apologize for his actions are more than sufficient to warrant imposition of the one-day suspension. That being the case, the school administration did not act arbitrarily, capriciously or unreasonably by following its own guidelines and imposing a one-day suspension.

Order

It is ORDERED that the relief requested by petitioner is denied.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

ORDER – EMERGENT RELIEF

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6599-05

AGENCY DKT. NO. 206-8/05

L.A. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILDREN, T.J.A. AND P.M.A.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF PORT REPUBLIC, ATLANTIC COUNTY,

Respondent.

Duane T. Phillips, Esq., for petitioner

Clement F. Lisitski, Esq., for respondent

BEFORE BRUCE M. GORMAN, ALJ:

The New Jersey Department of Education (DOE) Bureau of Controversies received a request for emergent relief on August 25, 2005. Petitioner contends the Board of Education's refusal to promote her two children to the next grade for the 2005-2006 school year on the basis of their having too many absences was arbitrary and capricious. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 1, 2005. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. The Director of the OAL assigned the undersigned to hear this matter pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-5o.

The matter was scheduled for oral argument for September 2, 2005, at the OAL office in Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Petitioner brings this matter on an emergent basis seeking an Order requiring the respondent to start her children in the next grade (8th grade for T.J.A. and 2nd grade for P.A.). Respondent has determined to retain the children in their prior grades.

Petitioner offered the children's report cards. T.J.A.'s report card (P-1) reflects 5 final grades of A, four final grads of A+, and 2 final grades of A-. Because he is in a lower grade, P.A. was graded on a different system. His report card (P-2) reflects 8 final grades of O (the equivalent of A), four final grades of G+ (the equivalent of B+), one final grade of G (the equivalent of B), and one final grade of U (the equivalent of F). The U was in the subject of Health.

Rosemary Fiore, Superintendent, offered brief testimony. She attributed the decision to retain the children in their prior grades to their attendance records. The children's attendance records, in turn, are tied to an ongoing residency dispute between petitioner and respondent. That matter was originally before me in the matter of L.A. v. Board of Education of the City of Port Republic, Docket # EDU 34-05. Based upon the representations of both counsel, the residency dispute has apparently overflowed into the Superior Court.

The children's attendance records appear on the second pages of their respective report cards (P-1, P-2). T.J.A.'s record reflects 27 absences. However, nine days absence occurred in September 2004 when he attended no school because petitioner declined to enroll him in the Galloway Township school system. Two additional days absence occurred for the same reason in October. Four additional absences occurred in January when respondent barred T.J.A. and P.A. from attending its school because of the residency dispute. That situation was corrected when EDU 34-05, supra, was settled.

P.A.'s record is more complicated. His record reflects 41 absences. Those absences include the same 17 days described above for T.A. Additionally, his record reflects eight absences on Thursdays. Ms. Fiore testified petitioner removed P.A. from the school on Thursdays at the time his Health class was scheduled. She would come to the school and sign him out to insure he could not attend that class. If she did not bring him back for his other classes, P.A. was marked absent for the day.

Petitioner's explanation for this conduct was that she had a conflict with the Health teacher that caused said teacher to be mean to P.A. Therefore, petitioner removed him from the school when he was scheduled for that class.

Ms. Fiore cited Board policy regarding promotion and attendance (R-1) in defense of the administration's decision to retain the children. That policy states in pertinent part:

> Excessive Absence
>
> Parents of students who miss 20 or more days of school, either excused or unexcused, will be notified by the Chief School Administrator that the student's attendance has placed him or her in danger of being retained in the same grade level for the next school year.
>
> The parents will be invited to attend a conference with the administrative principal, teacher and other appropriate school personnel to discuss the child(ren)'s attendance situation.
>
> Should the administrative principal feel it appropriate to do so, parents will be presented with a copy of N.J.S.A. 18A-29 detailing the parents' obligation to comply with the attendance regulations. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-29 provisions regarding the penalties for not complying with the law could also be addressed.
>
> Each student's case shall be evaluated on its own merits and documentation.
>
> The administrative principal shall initiate the appropriate legal proceedings, if necessary, to bring out parent compliance with attendance regulations.
>
> Should retention due to poor attendance be decided upon, parents of the child(ren) affected must be formally notified of such intent by June 1 and an opportunity provided for the parents to meet with school personnel regarding the decision.

Respondent alleged that it provided petitioner with the required notice (see R-3). Petitioner denied receiving the notice. At this early stage of the matter, I have no need to resolve this conflict in testimony.

I note that nothing contained in this policy requires retention of a student who exceeds the 20 day absence limitation. Breach of that standard merely triggers a parent conference, a conference geared toward advising the parent of his/her obligation to send the child to school. The policy does not define how the "danger" of retention is to be resolved.

Ms. Fiore stated that the children should not be promoted because they had missed more than 20 days each. She objected to petitioner's removal of P.A. from Health class. She complained that petitioner was uncooperative and disruptive. She would not follow school rules. Ms. Fiore was deeply concerned that promoting T.J.A. and P.A. would send a message to other parents that their children could flout the attendance rules and still be promoted.

However, Ms. Fiore could not explain why the children's academic achievements as reflected on their report cards did not warrant their promotion to the next grade level. When asked this question, she retreated into a dissertation about attendance rules and the uncooperativeness of petitioner. She also noted that the policy (R-1) allowed for an appeal to the Board of Education, and petitioner never perfected such an appeal.

I note that if the 15 absences resulting from the residency dispute are eliminated, T.J.A. missed only 12 days of school. Similarly, if those 15 days plus the 8 days when he attended school until his mother removed him from Health class are eliminated, P.A. missed only 18 days of school. Both of those figures fall below the 20 day benchmark contained in the policy (R-1).

The requirements for granting emergent relief are well settled. Petitioner carries the burden in seeking emergent relief. The standard is set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), necessary for the awarding of this relief. See also, Princeton Ins. Co. v. 349 Associates, L.L.C. 147 N.J. 337, 340(1997). Crowe requires a showing of each of the four specific criteria:

Jersey State Constitution. N.J. Const. art. VIII, Section 4. That right entitles the children to promotion if their respective academic records warrant it.

Petitioner argues that the children's superior academic records as reflected in their report cards renders success reasonably probable in this case. Respondent argues that the school administration has the expertise to make the decision regarding promotion, and that discretion should not be disturbed by a non-professional educator such as myself. That argument might have some validity had Ms. Fiore been able to explain why children with either all A's (T.J.A.) or O's and G's (P.A.) would benefit educationally from repeating grades they had already successfully completed. She could not. Accordingly, I FIND that petitioner has demonstrated a reasonable probability of success.

Finally, petitioner argues that retaining the children in their prior grades will retard them academically by compelling them to repeat work already successfully completed, humiliate them, and damage them socially by separating them from their peers. Respondent retorts that promoting these children will send a message to other parents that school rules need not be followed. I FIND that the relative hardship will fall heavily upon these children if emergent relief is not granted. I further FIND that no real hardship will come to respondent if the children are promoted.

Therefore, I FIND and CONCLUDE that petitioner has met its burden and shown each of the factors necessary for the granting of emergent relief. Consequently, emergent relief should be GRANTED.

ORDER

I ORDER that petitioner's application for emergent relief by GRANTED.

I ORDER that T.J.A. be enrolled in Grade 8 pending final disposition of this matter.

I ORDER that P.A. be enrolled in Grade 2 pending final disposition of this matter.

A plenary hearing is scheduled for November 2, 2005, at 9:00 a.m. at the OAL office located at 1601 Atlantic Avenue, Atlantic City, New Jersey.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

We are enclosing a copy of the decision of the Commissioner of Education dated September 9, 2005 in the above-captioned matter. Appeals of Commissioner decisions, other than State Department of Education employee contractual determinations and matters involving the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association, may be filed with the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

Please note that this office is no longer providing an additional copy of the initial decision to the parties in this case.

Additionally, please note that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), the Commissioner's decision is mailed to the parties three days prior to the date it is deemed officially filed. This provides counsel and pro se litigants with the decision before it is made public by the Department. Parties and counsel are requested to refrain from making Commissioner decisions public prior to the filing date. Your cooperation is appreciated.

Very truly yours,

The record of this emergent matter, which included the audiotape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law on September 2, 2005, and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner adopts the recommended Order denying emergent relief as he concurs with the ALJ's determination that petitioner has failed to satisfy the requirements necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982): specifically, the existence of irreparable harm, that petitioner's claim is based upon a settled right, or that petitioner is likely to prevail on the merits of this matter.

Accordingly, the instant application for emergent relief is hereby denied. This matter shall proceed to plenary hearing on its merits, scheduled for April 27 and 28, 2006, as directed by the ALJ.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

Petitioners,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EAST BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,

Respondent.

Michael S. Green, Esq., for petitioners

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In this matter, petitioner seeks emergent relief to stay the transfer of her son, J.G. from Warnsdorfer Elementary School, which he attended for first and second grades, to Memorial School for third grade. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case on September 1, 2005, on petitioners' application for emergency relief. The matter was scheduled oral argument on September 2, 2005. On that date, oral argument was held and concluded. At the conclusion of the hearing, the record closed with respect to the application for emergent relief.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

For purposes of deciding the application for emergent relief, the following facts are determined to be undisputed.

J.G., who is presently seven years of age, was placed by respondent board of education in Warnsdorfer Elementary School in September 2003, at the age of five. He was placed there at that time because of overcrowding in Memorial Elementary School which is within his district of residence. At the time of J.G.'s placement at Warnsdorfer, his older brother was attending Memorial in fifth grade. At the time of J.G.'s placement at Warnsdorfer, his parents were given no notice of any "unscheduled school transfer" and were not placed on notice that J.G. could be subsequently transferred to another school.

On or about June 3, 2005, respondent determined to transfer J.G. to Memorial Elementary School for attendance at third grade commencing on September 7, 2005. Petitioner requested a hearing on this transfer before the respondent board of education based on due process claims, but this request was denied.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

Petitioners claim that respondent's actions in this matter are arbitrary and capricious, violate petitioners' due process rights because of the failure in refusal to provide to petitioner a notice and opportunity for hearing before effectuating the transfer. Petitioners also claim that this action violates the No Child Left Behind Act, the Civil Rights Act, U.S.C.A. §1983, negligently inflicts emotional distress on J.G., and violates due process rights accorded under respondent's own policies and the New Jersey Administrative Code.

N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6(a) provides for the granting of emergency relief where authorized by law and where irreparable harm will result without an expedited decision granting or prohibiting some action or relief connected with a contested case. In such circumstances, emergency relief pending a final decision may be ordered upon the application of a party. Subparagraph (f) of this section provides that temporary relief may be granted if there is a finding that immediate and irreparable harm will probably result, if there is the likelihood that the moving party will prevail, and if the relief is as limited in scope and as temporary as possible.

The foregoing regulation embodies the principles of law announced by the court in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132 (1982). These legal principles may be summarized as follows:

1. Emergency relief should not issue except when necessary to prevent irreparable harm. Harm is generally considered irreparable if it cannot be redressed adequately by monetary damages. In certain circumstances, severe personal inconvenience can constitute irreparable injury justifying issuance of injunctive relief. Pecuniary damages may be inadequate because of the nature of the injury or of the right affected.

2. Emergency relief should be withheld when the legal right underlying the claim of the requesting party is unsettled.

3. Emergency relief should not issue where all material facts are controverted. Thus, to prevail on an application for emergency relief, the party requesting the relief must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits. That requirement is tempered by the principle that mere doubt as to the validity of the claim is not an adequate basis for refusing to maintain the status quo. The point of emergency relief is to maintain the parties in substantially the same condition when the final decision is issued, as they were when the litigation began.

4. The final test in considering the granting of emergency relief is the relative hardship to the parties in granting or denying relief. The relief granted should be no broader than necessary to preserve the status quo pending a full hearing on the merits.

Irreparable harm

As to the first requirement for a showing of irreparable harm, the petitioners, assert that respondent owes a duty of reasonable care to its students, and that by electing to transfer J.G. from Warnsdorfer School to Memorial School without notice and without having an appropriate transitional plan or school-based counseling will result in J.G.'s suffering emotional distress. Petitioner points out that school transitions are difficult for all children and are a major life event that can result in stress and dysfunction if transitional services are not provided. Specifically, petitioners contend that based on his social history, J.G. will be extraordinarily susceptible to adjustment problems resulting from this unscheduled transfer and that this transfer is not in his best interest.

While this may be the case, I am unable to determine the validity of this claim without conducting a full and complete hearing. The petitioner's contention is in the form of an opinion submitted by an expert. I have no expertise in this area and will require a full hearing in order to make the factual determination that J.G. will suffer emotional distress and that such distress will be irreparable. In the absence of such a factual determination, I FIND that petitioner has failed to establish the requirement of irreparable harm in this matter.

Right to underlying claim must be settled

As to the requirement that the right underlying the claim of a requesting party must be settled, it is clear that each school district is obligated to provide a thorough and efficient system of education to all children residing in its school district. N.J. Const. (1947), Art. VIII, ¶1, N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1. To carry out this policy, local boards of education have been granted discretionary authority at N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1c. and d. to adopt rules for the management of the public schools of the district, and to perform all acts and do all things necessary for the lawful and proper conduct of the public schools of the district.

In the present matter, counsel for respondent has represented that respondent has a duly adopted plan for the allocation of children to the various schools within the school district. The parents acknowledge that Memorial School is J.G.'s home school, and that for first and second grade J.G. was transferred from his home school to a school outside of his neighborhood because of overcrowding at his home school. Because the overcrowding of his home school no longer exists, respondent has determined that J.G. will be returned to his home school. Such a determination is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset by the courts unless there is an affirmative showing that such decision is arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Thomas v. Bd. of Educ. of Morris Twp., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), affirmed, 46 N.J. 581 (1966). In assessing this, the local school board's factual determinations must be accepted if supported by substantial credible evidence. Quinlan v. Bd. of Educ. of North Bergen Twp., 73 N.J. Super. 40 (App. Div. 1962). Such an assessment is only possible after a full hearing.

In general, a board of education's actions are entitled to a presumption of lawfulness and good faith. Where board actions are challenged, the challenger bears the burden of proving that such actions were unlawful, arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Schuster v. Ed. of Educ. Montgomery Twp., 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 670, 676 (citing Schnick v. Westwood Ed. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 448 (App. Div. 1960), and Quinlan v. Bd. of Educ. of North Bergen Twp., 73 N.J. Super. 40 (App. Div. 1962)).

The "arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable" standard of review imposes a heavy burden on challengers of board actions. This standard has been defined by the New Jersey courts as follows:

> In the law, "arbitrary" and "capricious" means having no rational basis. Arbitrary and capricious action of administrative bodies means willful and unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances. Where there is no room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached . . . Moreover, the court should not substitute its judgment for that of an administrative or legislative body if there is substantial evidence to support the ruling.

Super. 184, 199-200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974).]

In the absence of a clear showing of abuse of discretion, the Commissioner of Education will not substitute his or her own judgment for that of the board of education. Massaro v. Bd. of Educ. of the Boro. of Begenfie/d, 1965 S.L.D. 84, 85. In Kopera v. Bd. of Educ. of West Orange, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960), the Appellate Division stated, "the well established rule that action of the local board [of education] which lies within the area of its discretionary powers may not be upset unless patently without rational basis or induced by improper motives." See also G.M. v. Roselle Park Boro. Bd. of Educ., 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 107, 109 (where the Commissioner adopted the decision of the ALJ when in a challenge to board action, the ALJ stated, "it is the management prerogative of boards of education that will not be usurped or assumed by the Commissioner of Education absent a definitive showing of bad faith or arbitrary actions taken in bad faith without a rational basis."). As long as the record reflects a rational basis for the action, as well as an absence of bad faith, a board's action shall be upheld. In the G.M. case, supra, the ALJ, after a full hearing, found the board's decision to change geographic boundaries for kindergarten pupil placement, with a goal of evenly distributing the pupils at different schools within the district, to be a reasonable exercise of authority.

Based upon the foregoing, I FIND that the right underlying petitioners' claim is settled against the petitioners' position. Therefore, I FIND that petitioners have failed to establish the right to relief in the absence of a full evidentiary hearing showing that the action of respondent is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

Requirement to show reasonable probability of prevailing on the merits

The most difficult requirement for the moving party to establish in order to show entitlement to emergency relief is the third factor. In order to prevail on their application for emergency relief, the party requesting the relief, the parent in this matter, must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits. If the point of emergency relief is to maintain the parties in substantially the same condition of the final decision as when this matter began, it must be established by the moving party that she will probably win on the merits. It is with respect to this that petitioner has the greatest difficulty. Petitioners must show that respondent's actions in this matter are arbitrary and capricious and unreasonable. However, petitioners' claim can only be established after a full hearing because of the presumption that respondent's actions are correct. Petitioners must show that respondent's actions violated petitioners' due process rights because of the failure in refusal to provide to petitioners a notice and opportunity for hearing before effectuating the transfer. However, petitioners have not shown a settled right to such a due process hearing before a local board of education in the present circumstances. While there is clearly a right to challenge the reasonableness of a school redistricting plan after its adoption, see, Fullen v. Bd. of Educ. of Twp. of Middletown, 1986 S.L.D. 603, there is no case of which I have been made aware that establishes a right to such a hearing to individual parents. Petitioners also claim that this action violates the No Child Left Behind Act, and the Civil Rights Act, U.S.C.A. §1983. While I question whether there is a personal right to pursue a claim for an alleged violation of No Child Left Behind, I FIND that the only way to determine if such claims exist is by conducting a full factual hearing on petitioners' assertions. Petitioners also claim that respondent's action negligently inflicts emotional distress on J.G. As I previously made clear, I cannot make such a determination without conducting a full hearing as to this issue. Therefore, I FIND that petitioner has failed to show the likelihood of prevailing on the merits.

Relative hardship to the parties.

The final test in considering the granting of emergency relief is the relative hardship to the parties in granting or denying relief in order to preserve the status quo pending a full hearing on the merits. While neither party specifically addressed this factor, it appears clear that any hardship which may result will fall upon petitioner and J.G. rather than upon respondent school district, and I so FIND.

Conclusion

Based upon the foregoing, I have found that for purposes of deciding this application for emergency relief, petitioners have failed to establish the existence of irreparable harm, that petitioners' claim is based upon a settled right, or that petitioners are likely to prevail on the merits. In view of the fact that petitioners have failed to establish three of the four requirements for emergency relief, I CONCLUDE that petitioners' request should be DENIED.

As I have stated hereinabove, many of the claims made by petitioners require factual determinations made after a full hearing. Accordingly, I have scheduled this matter for hearing on my earliest available dates. I intend to contact the parties within the next 30 days in order to conduct a prehearing conference and deal with discovery and other issues in preparation for a full hearing in this matter.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that petitioners' request for emergency relief seeking to stay the transfer of her son, J.G. from Warnsdorfer Elementary School, which he attended for first and second grades, to Memorial School for third grade is hereby DENIED. It is further ORDERED that the matter is hereby scheduled for a full hearing to be held on April 27 and 28, 2006, commencing at 9:00 am at the OAL, 9 Quakerbridge Plaza, Trenton, New Jersey.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISIONER OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISIONER OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Education Association and 21 former Board of Education employees alleged that the process used by the Board in subcontracting out custodial, maintenance and bus transportation services to TMC Services Inc. for the 2002-2005 school years violated the public school bidding laws, and, as a consequence, the legal rights of the 21 individual petitioners whose employment was terminated upon implementation of the contract. Petitioners asked that the Commissioner order the Board to cease and desist from continuing with the contract; declare the contract null and void; order petitioners' reinstatement to their previous positions; and order that petitioners be made whole with respect to back pay, benefits, and emoluments.

The ALJ concluded that petitioners did not have standing to pursue allegations of violation of bidding laws, particularly where the remedy sought was primarily private monetary compensation. The ALJ further concluded that even if the contract in question had been found defective, that would not in itself constitute illegal dismissal of the employees terminated as the result of a lawful decision to subcontract so as to entitle them to reinstatement and back pay. Finally, the ALJ noted that the contract was due to expire and was not expected to be renewed, so that the matter had additionally become moot. The ALJ noted that his decision should not be construed as a willingness to condone or ignore material procedural defects in the public bidding process, but, rather, as recognition that these must be challenged in the appropriate manner.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have petitioners' exceptions and the reply thereto filed by the Board of Education (Board) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. Neither exceptions nor replies were filed by Intervenor-Respondent TMC Services, Inc. (TMC).

On exception, petitioners urge rejection of the Initial Decision, which, they object, focuses on issues of standing, jurisdiction and appropriateness of individual remedy without ever reaching the merits of petitioners' claims. Petitioners contend that, contrary to the findings of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ): 1) There is no conclusive proof of cancellation of the TMC contract by the Board so as to moot the appeal; 2) the contract between the Board and TMC is patently illegal under the public public school contracts law, nor could any monetary relief be awarded them if they did. Similarly, the Commissioner concurs that violation of the bidding laws, even if proven by a party with standing, would not result in a finding that petitioners were "illegally dismissed" within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-30. Therefore, even if the ALJ had not concluded that this matter was moot by virtue of termination of TMC's contract with the Board, there would be no basis on which to order the requested relief or direct further proceedings.[3]

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Initial Decision of the OAL dismissing the Petition of Appeal is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by the Department of Education as a contested case in February 2003. In it, the Lyndhurst Education Association ("LEA"), together with 21 former Lyndhurst Board of Education (Board) employees, alleged that the process used by the respondent in subcontracting out custodial, maintenance and bus transportation services to TMC Services Inc., ("TMC") for the 2002-2003, 2003-2004 and 2004-2005 school years violated various provisions of the public education bidding statutes. See, e.g., N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-42; N.J.A.C. 6A:27-9, 27-9.3, 27-9.9, 27-9.19. Thus, it was alleged the legal rights of the 21 individual petitioners (who are LEA members) were violated by the Board when it entered into the contract without first complying with the law. Petitioners contend that their terminations as Board employees (although many then were rehired by TMC) therefore violated their statutory rights (both tenured and non-tenured) and requested that the Commissioner: (1) order the Board to cease and desist from continuing with the contract; (2) declare the contract null and void; (3) order their reinstatement to their previous positions; and (4) be "made whole" vis-à-vis back pay, benefits, etc.

In its Verified Answer, the Board claimed that none of its actions were in violation of law or contrary to any of the petitioners' rights. By way of separate defense the Board argued that in any event the claims were barred, inter alia, since the Commissioner lacks subject matter jurisdiction in the circumstances of the case.

Following transmittal to the Office of Administrative Law, petitioners moved for partial summary judgment on the question of "liability", i.e., the alleged statutory and regulatory violations. The "damages" issue was not addressed at that time. Thereafter, the Board responded and cross-moved for summary judgment on the jurisdiction issue. Some delay then was occasioned by the need to provide TMC an opportunity to enter the case as an intervenor. Since then, further delays resulted from a variety of other events, including on-going efforts to settle the case, especially since the Board-TMC contract was due to expire on June 30, 2005 and presumably would not be renewed for 2005-2006. Also, there were various discovery difficulties.

DISCUSSION

The following are the essential background facts pertinent to the cross-motions for summary decision as to the issue of "lack of jurisdiction" raised by the Board.

The LEA is the chosen majority representative for collective bargaining of the non-supervisory certified and support staff employed by the Board and the 21 individually named petitioners all were employed at the start of the 2002-2003 school year as custodial, maintenance and/or school bus transportation employees. Their employment ended on November 18, 2002 which they were terminated due to the following events.

On August 10, 2002, the Board published a notice in local newspapers soliciting bids for the subcontracting of its "facility management" services. Apparently, no prior public resolution was adopted to authorize the solicitation of such bids. Copies of the Board's bid specifications were sent to interested potential subcontractors, although the bid specifications were not adopted by public resolution of the Board either.

The specifications provided that the bidder was to provide all staff needed to perform described administrative/managerial, mechanical maintenance/operation, grounds maintenance, busing and cleaning tasks/functions. It further specified minimum staffing levels for the various positions including the custodians, mechanics and bus drivers. The specifications for bus services did not include route descriptions and were not submitted to the Bergen County Superintendent of Schools. On August 20, 2002, the Board adopted a resolution approving TMC's bid (the lowest of three) and in a resolution adopted on September 17, 2002, voted to abolish all of its custodial, maintenance and bus driver employee positions, effective November 18, 2002, including the positions of the individually name petitioners. Sometime in October 2002 a contract with TMC was signed by Lyndhurst's Superintendent of Schools, although no formal Board resolution approving the terms of that contract was adopted either. Those are the undisputed facts.

Under the New Jersey Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, a party may move for summary decision regarding all or any of the substantive issues in a case. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). The motion may be granted if the papers and discovery, together with any supporting affidavits, show there is no genuine issue of material fact and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). Thus, a motion for summary decision before OAL is almost identical to the standard used for summary judgment under the New Jersey Rules of Court, R.4:46-2(c), which provides that summary judgment should be granted if:

> The pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to judgment or order as a matter of law. An issue of fact is genuine only if, considering the burden of persuasion at trial, the evidence submitted by the parties on the motion, together with all legitimate inferences therefrom favoring the non-moving party, would require submission of the issue to the trier of fact.

In its cross-motion the Board argues that its decision to subcontract or "outsource" its custodial and bus transportation activities (which led to the termination of the 21 individual petitioners' employment) was a perfectly legitimate exercise of its inherent managerial prerogatives and the petitioners' efforts under the guise of a "school law controversy" to interdict that managerial decision is wholly improper. The proper forum for seeking relief, if any, it argues was either to the Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC) or in a civil "taxpayer" suit in the judicial forum. To put it another way, the petitioners are attempting to pursue a purely "private right of action" for money and other compensatory damages and according to the Board, that action constitutes a collateral attack on an inherent management decision reviewable, if at all, in some other forum. Implicit in this argument is the Board's view that in all likelihood the petitioners concluded they could not prevail before PERC (subcontracting is a non-negotiable issue), or in a taxpayer suit (where the LEA would have no standing and where the 21 individuals faced a very serious "out-of-time" argument).

Another argument explicitly raised by the Board is that the circumstances surrounding the termination potentially are subject to the arbitration provisions of the Board-LEA collective negotiations agreement, yet another available forum for dealing with the dispute. Thus, as the Board puts it, the "strategic decision" by petitioner not to grieve the terminations, but rather to submit their private claims under the "guise" of a taxpayer challenge should not be allowed.

Following my receipt of the cross-motions I determined that oral argument would be appropriate and that argument took place in mid-May 2004. In addition, steps were taken to include TMC as a party. Efforts also were stepped-up to obtain information to permit the damages issue (if reached) to be decided on affidavits rather than require in-person hearings on each of 21 individual claims. Although, at first, I contemplated ruling on the"liability" issue; subsequently, I determined to reserve on that issue given the voluminous nature of the pertinent payroll records and the need for additional discovery. In addition, I continued to encourage counsel to pursue the possibility of settlement.

Following oral argument on "liability" and jurisdiction the undersigned conducted additional, independent research and asked counsel to supplement their previous submissions. In response to my letter request, supplemental memoranda were submitted. In my request I asked counsel to comment upon certain administrative and court decisions which I believed might be pertinent to the standing issue and which had not previously been addressed. They included:

(a) Yacenda Food Management Corp. v. New Jersey Highway Authority, 203 N.J. Super. 264 (App. Div. 1985);
(b) Angel v. Bd. of Ed. Of Englewood, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d, (EDU) 423;
(c) Comm. Workers of America, AFL-CIO v. Clymer, 292 N.J. Super. 138 (Law Div. 1996); and
(d) Bd. of Ed. Of Twp. of Middle v. N.J. State Department of Education, OAL Docket No. EDU 10755-96 (April 20, 1996)

Major support for the Board's argument that the 21 individual petitioners do not have standing can be found in the State Board of Education decision in Angel, supra, which rejected the ALJ's and Commissioner of Education's determinations that both the individual petitioners, who were custodial-maintenance employees, and the Englewood Teachers' Association had standing. In Angel, the petitioners had challenged the validity of actions taken by the Englewood Board to subcontract out custodial services and terminate employment. Petitioners alleged that the decision to subcontract was made in bad faith, failed to satisfy bid specifications and violated their tenure rights. The Board replied that the petitioners had no standing to challenge the contract award as demonstrated, inter alia, by their sole claim for relief – private monetary damages for loss of employment.

In the initial decision the ALJ determined that the individual petitioners had standing to challenge the award because the issue concerned them as Englewood taxpayers and they were likely to suffer financial harm. The ALJ also determined that the Englewood Teachers' Association had standing to challenge the Board's action because of the effect on its members.

Although the Commissioner adopted the ALJ findings, the State Board reversed and rejected the conclusion that the petitioners had standing. In its decision the State Board said:

> We reject the ALJ's determination that petitioners had standing to challenge whether the bidder who was awarded the contract met the bid specifications. As the Board argues, the interest of the individual petitioners involved here was clearly in saving their jobs rather than in correcting public misdoing or compelling performance of a public duty. Consequently, they cannot be considered as taxpayers for purposes of this litigation.
>
> Furthermore, neither the individual petitioners nor the Association were potential bidders on the contract and their challenge to the qualifications of the successful bidder could not provide them with any remedy. Hence, under the bidding laws, they did not have standing to make this challenge. In essence, it was the Board's decision to subcontract, not its determination of which bidder would be awarded the contract, that had affected petitioners.
> [Angel v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Englewood, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 423 (emphasis added) (citations omitted).]

Arguably, the reasoning in Angel can be applied to this matter. Here, too, the petitioners essentially seek reinstatement and monetary compensation based on the Board's alleged failure to comply with public bidding statutes and regulations. There was no request that the contact be rebid or awarded to another bidder. In other words, petitioners clearly were more interested in reinstatement and collecting compensation than in correcting any alleged misdoing and their status as "taxpayers", under these circumstances, as in the Angel case, basically is irrelevant since realistically no public right is sought to be vindicated.

I agree with the decision in the Angel case. Neither the Yacenda nor Clymer decisions have as much force as might first appear on the surface even though both cases commented that merely having a private interest in the outcome of such litigation is not, ipso facto, a bar to pursuing a challenge to a bid award. See Yacenda, supra at 271; Clymer, supra at 146.

In Yacenda, the petitioner sought to enjoin performance of a no-bid contract between the Highway Authority and the Marriott Corporation and to compel the project to be publicly advertised for the receipt of bids. No compensatory damages were sought, except that the individual plaintiff (Hellman) was a principal in Yacenda Corporation – a potential bidder. The court found that although this status did give him a "technical" private interest in the outcome, he still had standing to sue as a taxpayer to "raise the important question of the need for public bidding of NJHA contracts." Yacenda, Id. Such is not the case here. The 21 individuals in this case likely care less about a rebid – they want to be rehired as Board employees! No overriding issue of public concern appears to me to be present in this context.

So too, in Clymer, when the individual plaintiffs (psychologists employed by the Department of Corrections) were added to the complaint the State challenged their inclusion arguing they were mere "nominees", stand-ins for the union. The court rejected the argument and held they did have independent standing to challenge the bid award. However, as in Yacenda, the court was persuaded by the existence of an overriding issue primarily of public concern; the potential indirect benefit to the individual plaintiffs clearly was secondary to that major interest. See Clymer, Id.

Accordingly, based upon my reading of the applicable law, given the essentially private nature of their claims and the relief sought, neither the LEA nor the 21 individual former employees have the requisite standing to challenge the Board's award to TMC in this forum.[1]

Even if I am in error in reaching this conclusion, I do not believe there is any appropriate relief. First, no case, not even Yacenda or Clymer, countenance the award of compensatory damages where, as here, the private parties claim they were harmed by non-intentional bid violations. If, in fact, any individual petitioner suffered any monetary loss it is due solely to the fact that the low bidder was awarded a contract. In their verified petition, petitioners ask that I set aside the Board's contract with TMC because of the violations of the public bidding laws, and to reinstate them in their jobs with back-pay plus interest. Again, New Jersey case law does not support such a remedy - private parties are not entitled to recover money damages as a result of a public body's violation of the bidding statutes. For example, in Feriozzi Co., Inc. v. Atlantic City, 268 N.J.Super. 310 (Law Div. 1993) the award of money damages to a private individual or enterprise was held not to be in the public interest:

[1] This view should not be construed as a willingness by the undersigned to condone or ignore material procedural defects in the public bidding process. Where those occur they should be challenged - but in the appropriate forum and for valid reasons.

> The reason why an unsuccessful bidder may not receive money damages, even if the challenge to the award of the contract succeeds, is to prevent the public from paying twice. It is the public interest, not the private interest of the bidder, which is paramount. The purpose of competitive bidding is "to secure competition and to guard against favoritism, improvidence, extravagance and corruption."
> [Id. at 316 (citation omitted)(emphasis added).]

In M.A. Stephen Const. Co., Inc. v .Borough of Rumson, 125 N.J.Super. 67 (App.Div. 1973), certif. denied, 64 N.J. 315 (1973), the Court held that the purpose of the public bidding statutes was not to create a private right of action for damages against a public entity as follows:

> It is true that . . . a bidder claiming to be entitled to the award of a contract for public work has long been held to have sufficient standing to challenge the rejection of his bid or the letting of the contract to another bidder, and to compel the award of the contract to him . . . But such standing was granted simply and solely in order that the public interest might be served by compelling the lax or erring public official to properly perform his public trust. It was not thereby intended to create or establish in the bidder entitled to the award of the contract a right which, if violated, would render the public agency liable in damages to the bidder.

Therefore, the 21 individual petitioners in this case have no legal claim to monetary damages because of the Board's violation of the public bidding laws. Challenges to the bidding process are meant to protect the public's interest, not to award the other bidder or, as in this case, the terminated employees, any money.

Arguably, awarding monetary damages would serve to punish the taxpayers of Lyndhurst – not the Lyndhurst Board – whose tax dollars would subsidize the award.[2]

In addition, petitioners are not entitled to compensation under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-30 because they simply were not "illegally' discharged. The statute states:

> Any person holding office, position or employment in the public school system of the state, who shall be illegally dismissed or suspended therefrom, shall be entitled to compensation for the period covered by the illegal dismissal or suspension, if such dismissal or suspension shall be finally determined to have been without good cause, upon making written application therefore with the board or body by who he was employed, within 30 days after such determination.
> [Ibid, (emphasis added).]

Also, even although some of the workers had acquired tenure, the Board's contract with TMC did not violate their tenure rights since the tenure statute for janitorial employees provides that they can be terminated as a result of a reduction in force:[3]

> Every public school janitor of a school district shall, unless he is appointed for a fixed term, hold his office, position or employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and shall not be dismissed or suspended or reduced in compensation, except as the result of the reduction of the number of janitors in the district made in accordance with the provisions of this title or except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense and only in the manner prescribed by subarticle B of article 2 of chapter 6 of this title.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3]

Furthermore, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-4 permits the reduction in the work force of janitors except "by reason of residence, age, sex, race, religion or political affiliation." As the State Board observed in Hunterdon Central High School Educ. Assoc. v.

[2] I am not relying, either, upon the Board's essentially editorializing comments related to the "cost-savings" to the taxpayers of Lyndhurst - that is not a reason to condone material defects in a proper case.

[3] There is no comparable tenure statute for bus drivers, so it seems that they can only receive tenure if it is provided for in their employment contract with the school district. See Albert v. Bd. of Educ. of the Freehold Reg'l High School Dist., 1977 S.L.D. 598. Tenured bus drivers can be dismissed as a result of a reduction in force pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, which provides that "persons" under tenure in a public school system can be dismissed as a result of a reduction in force.

Hunterdon Central Reg'l High School Bd. of Educ., 1988 S.L.D. 2468, because there is no statutory authority prohibiting the dismissal of tenured custodians due to a Board's decision to subcontract, a reduction in force resulting from subcontracting does not violate tenure rights:

> In contrast to reductions affecting tenured teaching staff members . . . reduction in the number of custodians employed is permitted by the statute unless taken for one of the prohibited reasons. Thus, the terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-4 do not prohibit the dismissal of tenured custodians resulting from a decision to subcontract for custodial services. In the absence of statutory or regulatory prohibition of subcontracting for such services, we conclude that a reduction resulting from subcontracting does not in itself violate custodial tenure rights . . . .
> [Id. at 2475—2476]

In In re IFPTE Local 195 v. State, 88 N.J. 393 (1982), the Supreme Court held that a decision to subcontract must be related to a legitimate governmental purpose and not be made in bad faith. Id. at 411. The State cannot subcontract in "bad faith" for the sole purpose of laying off public employees or substituting private workers for public workers. Accordingly, where subcontracting results in the termination of tenured custodians (or bus drivers) the Board's actions must be examined to ensure it was undertaken in good faith. Hunterdon Central High School Educ. Assoc. v. Hunterdon Central Reg'l High School Bd. of Educ., supra, 1988 S.L.D. at 2476. Here, petitioners offered no evidence that their termination was due to anything other than the Board's desire to save the district $250,000 per year. Even if the Board violated public bidding laws, in the way it chose to subcontract out the janitorial, maintenance and/or transportation services, this is not evidence of a bad faith motive to deprive any tenured workers of their tenure rights. Indeed, if the Board did not (or had not) violated the subcontracting laws, the tenured workers would still have lost their jobs. The Board's failure to comply with the bidding laws even if proved, is not evidence of a deliberate laying off of public employees or substituting private workers for public workers.

In reaching the conclusion to dismiss the Verified Petition, I am not unmindful of the respectable arguments advanced by petitioners and the cases cited by them. Nonetheless, even if I am wrong and petitioners do have standing to challenge the award despite their primary private interest, and even if statutory and/or regulatory requirements were not met, the three school year contract term is now over and I understand there is no successor agreement with TMC or any other private vendor. There is nothing to bid upon; there is nothing to enjoin – there simply is no practical reason to continue the litigation at further expense to the parties. In short, there is no Board liability, and even there is there is no cognizable damages claim. Accordingly, the Verified Petition is ORDERED to be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Z.G., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, E.G.,	:
	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
PETITIONER,	:	DECISION
V.	:
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the New Jersey Department of Education's assignment to his son, E.G., of a "V2" score on the March 2004 High School Proficiency Assessment (HSPA), and sought alteration of the Department's records reflecting such designation. "V2" indicates that the student "cheated or was disruptive on the exam" and was assigned to E.G. because he refused to take the math portion of the HSPA test. Petitioner maintained that E.G. was unable to take this section of the exam because he is physically handicapped and was not allowed an appropriate accommodation for his disability; specifically, E.G. was not allowed to use a Palm Pilot in place of the graphing calculator necessary to complete the math portion of the test, and was instead instructed to use a TI-83 emulator, on which he maintained he had not been adequately trained.

The ALJ recommended dismissal of the petition, finding that petitioner demonstrated no basis, either in law or fact, on which the Department could be compelled to set aside its policy—for which the Department had demonstrated a sound basis—of not permitting changes to the final report generated by the Department for any given administration of the HSPA test. The ALJ found petitioner's allegations of harm speculative at best, given that access to Department HSPA records is strictly controlled, and noted that the local school district is free to handle the designation in E.G.'s individual pupil record as it sees fit.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as his own for the reasons expressed therein, further noting that the "V2" score was appropriately assigned because E.G. began the math portion of the exam, but then refused to continue taking it—thus producing, for purposes of Department record-keeping, an answer book that needed to be voided for scoring purposes due to disruption of the standard testing procedure by the test-taking student.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Z.G., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, E.G.,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have petitioner's exceptions and the reply thereto filed by the Department of Education (Department) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

On exception, petitioner reiterates his previously expressed contention that a Department policy rooted in "administrative convenience" should not be allowed to take precedence over the civil rights of a handicapped minor, either E.G. or any future student who may find himself in a similar situation. Petitioner further contends that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred in failing to consider—as she was required to do in a matter decided on a summary basis—the potential for outside access to E.G.'s "V2" designation in the light most favorable to E.G., who has additionally suffered emotional damage by being falsely labeled a "cheater." (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1-2)

In reply, the Department reiterates that petitioner has identified no basis in law that would compel the Department to alter procedures which have been specifically developed to address the unique requirements of the State testing program and are enforced without exception so as to ensure the integrity of the score reporting and data compilation process for each test cycle; certainly, petitioner has not established that the Department in any way violated E.G.'s civil rights or caused him actionable harm. The Department further urges that the ALJ was correct in her assessment of petitioner's proffered concerns about possible release of E.G.'s "V2" Department test report, not only because such concerns were unsupported by any facts brought to the record, but also because—even if release were theoretically possible—there would still be no harm to E.G. since the "V2" designation is nothing more than an administrative code reflecting the fact that an irregularity occurred subsequent to the student's commencing the test such that the answer book for that particular test administration could not be scored. (Department's Reply at 1-4)

Upon his own independent review and consideration, the Commissioner determines to adopt the Initial Decision of the ALJ. It is clear from the record that there are sound reasons for the Department's policies and practices with respect to alteration of test reports, particularly given the nature and purpose of the final (Cycle II) report issued at the conclusion of any given test administration. (See Certification of Timothy A. Peters, appended to Brief in Opposition to Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision and in Support of Respondent's Cross-Motion for Summary Decision) It is equally clear that, even assuming arguendo that such alteration could be compelled under appropriate circumstances, no change would be warranted in this case because E.G.'s actions did, in fact, fall within the purview of the "V2" administrative designation, which encompasses student-initiated disruption of testing procedures as well as cheating; whatever issues E.G. may have had with the accommodation provided by the district, and, regardless of whether he was justified in his decision, E.G. undisputedly began taking the test and then refused to continue it, thus producing—for purposes of the Department's record-keeping—an answer book that needed to be voided for scoring purposes due to disruption of the standard testing procedure by the test-taking student. In this regard, the Commissioner concurs with the Department that: 1) allowing changes to test reports "without a cognizable legal basis or actionable harm alleged as the justification for doing so," would set a precedent allowing any unhappy test taker to seek alteration of reported results; 2) the Department should not be compelled to create new administrative classification categories every time a particular situation is perceived by an involved party as not "fitting comfortably into [the established] reporting and scoring scheme," and 3) to prevail in a claim of the type made herein, a petitioner must at the very least make some demonstration of an interest that outweighs the Department's demonstrated interest in "uniformity, efficiency, and security" with respect to administration of the Statewide testing program. (Reply in Opposition to Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision and in Support of Respondent's Cross-Motion for Summary Decision at 3)[1]

[1] To the extent that petitioner remains concerned about disclosure of the "V2" designation on E.G.'s local district pupil record because petitioner and the district Board of Education entered—in the due process proceeding referenced in the Initial Decision at 2—into a settlement agreement providing that the district will enter into its pupil record for E.G. whatever test score designation is found appropriate in the instant matter (Exhibit E), the Commissioner concurs that the outcome of petitioner's dispute with the Department cannot be dictated by a settlement agreement reached between petitioner and the local district Board in a separate proceeding to which the Department was not a party. The Department correctly notes that nothing, save their own settlement agreement, prevents petitioner and the district from reaching independent accord on how the test score in question will be handled with respect to clarification or release of E.G.'s local district pupil record. (Reply in Opposition to Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision and in Support of Respondent's Cross-Motion for Summary Decision at 6)

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein and above, the Initial Decision of the OAL dismissing the Petition of Appeal is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner challenges Respondent's, New Jersey Department of Education (DOE), assignment of a "V2" score to E.G. for the High School Proficiency Assessment (HSPA) he took in March 2004. On November 10, 2004, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

Petitioner had also filed a due process petition against the Livingston Board of Education. That petition bore agency docket number 2005-9355; Petitioner withdrew the due process petition when the parties thereto reached a settlement agreement.

In this matter, the parties filed cross applications for summary decision and a briefing schedule was established. The record closed on June 17, 2005.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The following findings of fact are based on the record before me which consists of the verified petition, exhibits attached to the certification of Kristin V. Hayes, and the certification of Timothy A. Peters and are essentially undisputed.

1. E.G. is the natural child of Petitioner, Z.G., and resides with him in the Livingston School District, in the Township of Livingston, Essex County, State of New Jersey. E.G. has attended school under the jurisdiction of the Township of Livingston Board of Education from kindergarten through the present.

2. Respondent, the State of New Jersey Department of Education, has mandated each public school student pass the HSPA before being permitted to graduate.

3. E.G. was, at the time the petition was filed, seventeen years old, a junior in high school and eligible for accommodations, pursuant to §504 of the Rehabilitation Act, from the Livingston Township Board of Education, due to his physical handicap which substantially limits the use of his arms and hands.

4. During his tenth and eleventh grades, E.G. was enrolled in classes which required the use of a graphing calculator.

5. Due to the nature of E.G.'s disability, he was unable to use a graphing calculator. The District provided E.G. with a Palm Pilot containing a graphing calculator; however, at the time the petition was filed, E.G. had not been provided with training on the Palm Pilot.

6. The District also provided E.G. with a TI-83 emulator as an alternative accommodation to the Palm Pilot, the training for which was provided in April 2004.

7. Although he had not been provided with training on the Palm Pilot, E.G. chose to continue to use it because it was the accommodation with which he was most comfortable.

8. In March 2004, E.G. sat for the HSPA. Upon his arrival to take the math portion of the exam, he was informed he was unable to use the Palm Pilot; he was required to use the TI-83 emulator.

9. A scribe was assigned as a personal aide to E.G. as an accommodation; the aide acted as proctor for the HSPA; there were no other Board representatives or students present in E.G.'s testing room.

10. E.G. did not take the math portion of the test. [1]

11. Because he did not take the test, E.G. was assigned a "V2" score.[2]

12. Subsequently, E.G. took and passed the HSPA.

[1] There is some dispute in the record with respect to the circumstances of E.G.'s failure to take the math portion of the test. The District indicated, in its report to DOE, that E.G. refused to take that portion. In papers filed by Petitioner, there is a statement that E.G. reviewed the examination and determined he could not use it without the use of graphing calculator as well as a statement that E.G. attempted to take the exam. The resolution of this disparity is not material to the determination herein. The only material fact to be derived from these specific circumstances, with which no one disagrees, is E.G. did not take the exam in March 2004.

[2] The meanings of the "V" scores are discussed more fully below.

13. Respondent establishes guidelines for administering and scoring the HSPA as well as the guidelines regarding accommodations for the HSPA.

14. The HSPA is administered to first time eleventh-grade students each March and to retesters, defined as those who fail to demonstrate proficiency in each content area, the following October.

15. Approximately five weeks before each administration of the HSPA, Respondent DOE provides in-depth training to staff in the high schools of the state. Parents and students also receive advance information about the purpose and format of the HSPA.[3]

16. The Department responds to a host of queries during the testing period on a wide range of topics, including unanticipated accommodations needs.

17. Students are allowed to use calculators for the mathematics section of the HSPA and the districts are required to provide them. Students are expressly prohibited from using such items as computers, including laptops and palmtops, pocket organizers and calculators with typewriter keyboards during the administration of the HSPA. This is explained in the HSPA District/School Test Coordinator Manual published by the Department.

18. The gathering, scoring and reporting of HSPA results is a massive project. Multiple choice items are scored by optical scanners; open-ended items are scored by trained readers. Computers combine these open ended scores with the multiple-choice scores for each student. Students receive a score for each section of the HSPA; however, if an irregularity occurs during testing making it impossible for a student to complete a test that can be scored, the district must apply one of three void codes specified in the HSPA District/School Test Coordinator Manual.

[3] There is nothing in the record to indicate E.G. did not receive the materials or that he was unaware of the prohibition against the use of the Palm Pilot; the issue in this matter, however, is not to determine fault or make a character judgment; no such determination or judgment is intended in this decision. The only relevant issue is. as Respondent asserts, whether DOE is required to change the record and delete the V2 score.

19. The void codes are V1, to be applied when a student becomes ill during the test; V2 is applied when a student is disruptive or cheats during testing; V3 is applied when the student should not have taken the HSPA.

20. There are two other void codes which are only employed during the scoring process; they are not applicable in the situation giving rise to this application.

21. When a void code is employed, the answer folder is voided and the student may not resume the test section in which the situation giving rise to the void code occurred.

22. When the scoring is completed and approved by DOE, HSPA scores are reported to the districts in two cycles. In Cycle I, two copies of each student's individual report, a hard copy score report, are produced. One copy is sent to the parents and one is kept by the district.

23. Cycle II produces a revised and expanded set of summaries that reflect corrections requested by the districts. These reports are generated from "read-only" electronic files that are essentially frozen after the districts have been given time to confirm or correct demographic data.

24. DOE does not release individual student scores or student information of any kind to the media, colleges or employers, even by request of a student. No paper file copies of student score reports are maintained by the Department.

25. Once the Cycle II reports have been produced, the 'read-only" electronic files are considered "frozen" and no file can be amended. Errors can only be submitted for correction on future test administrations, if a student were to be retested.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

The rules of this forum provide a party may move for summary decision at any time after a case is determined to be contested. A motion for summary decision shall be rendered if the submissions, including discovery and affidavits, if any, show there is no genuine issue as to a material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. In order to prevail, an adverse party must respond be setting forth specific facts showing there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a).

In this case, the parties have filed cross applications for summary decision and essentially undisputed facts have been set forth above. For the reasons which follow, summary decision is granted in favor of Respondent.

Petitioner asserts the record is clear: E.G. did not cheat on or disrupt the administration of the HSPA; he was unable to take the exam because he lacked an appropriate accommodation; when he had a meaningful accommodation he was able to use, he successfully passed the examination.

On the other hand, Respondent claims it does not, as a practice, change records for two reasons. The first is to reduce file tampering; the second is to ease the Department's burden in processing, analyzing and disseminating the massive amount of information yielded by each administration of the HSPA. According to Respondent, errors are not corrected after the "read only" electronic files are created; to do so in this case would create a dangerous precedent.

Neither party cites legal authority to support the respective positions; Respondent, however, relies on public policy to support its position that the legal issue to be resolved in this matter is whether the Department is required, as a matter of law, to delete any reference to E.G.'s V2 score in its files, citing the need to preserve the integrity of the data yielded from the results of the HSPA, because the HSPA is used to evaluate the quality of education statewide.

To maintain the integrity of not only the results of the examination but the procedures used to compile and maintain the evaluative data as well, the risk that data will be corrupted must be minimized. For this reason, according to Respondent, the Department's electronic data files are made permanent at the conclusion of the scoring and reporting process which is accomplished by compiling data into "read-only" electronic files which are not altered, even if errors are subsequently discovered. It is a well established goal of public education in this state to continually evaluate and improve the quality of education.

Based on the foregoing, I FIND the Department has demonstrated the need to preserve the integrity of the procedures used in evaluating the data produced by the HSPA as well as the integrity of data itself to accurately and adequately evaluate the quality of education statewide.

On the other hand, although Petitioner alleges E.G. may be harmed by the V2 score, those allegations are speculative at best. In fact, Respondent clearly states that it does not release the scores to colleges or employers; moreover, in its brief, Respondent also notes the District is free to delete the score from its own records of E.G.'s individual HSPA performance. Accordingly, I further FIND Petitioner has failed to demonstrate E.G. has or will suffer actionable harm.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, Respondent is entitled to summary decision as a matter of law.

ORDER

Therefore, I hereby ORDER summary decision be and hereby is entered in favor of Respondent Department of Education; I further ORDER the petition in this matter be and hereby is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

A.J. on behalf of minor child P.B.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF DELRAN, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter, the proposed stipulation of settlement and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been independently reviewed.

Petitioner appealed respondent's denial to his granddaughter, P.B., of access to Delran High School in March 2002. Apparently, P.B. was allowed back in school on April 15, 2002, pending resolution of the controversy.

Although respondent, in its answer, agreed that it had told petitioner that three years of tuition were owed for P.B., respondent did not file a counterclaim for the tuition with its answer.

On July 19, 2005, petitioner's attorney forwarded to the OAL a stipulation of settlement, executed by counsel for both parties, in which they withdrew "all claims and counterclaims." There are no other facts or terms set forth in the stipulation of settlement which, by way of Initial Decision, the ALJ approved.

Because the only terms included in the "settlement" are the withdrawal of claims, the Commissioner regards the parties' action as a withdrawal pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2. The Commissioner also notes that disposition of this case is particularly appropriate at this time, insofar as a student who was in high school in the Spring of 2002 has most likely completed high school by now.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is approved with the modification that it be deemed a withdrawal.

BEFORE JOHN R. FUTEY, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (hereinafter OAL) on June 17, 2002, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The matter was heard for a pre-hearing at the OAL, Mercerville, N.J. on October 9, 2002.

The scheduled plenary hearing date of April 9 and 11, 2003, were adjourned in advance at the mutual request of the parties, who both needed more time to prepare. The next scheduled date of January 21, 2004, was adjourned to allow for the anticipated filing of cross motions for summary decision. The next date of November 22, 2004, was adjourned at Mr. Isolda's request due to vacation plans. The next date of May 16, 2005, was adjourned due to an anticipated settlement. The matter was re-scheduled for July 25, 2005. Prior thereto, however, on July 21, 2005, the parties submitted a fully executed settlement agreement.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have submitted the Settlement Agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein. (J-1)

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT;	:
AND	:
IN THE MATTER OF THE CAMDEN BOARD OF EDUCATION, RESPONDENT, AND THOMAS DERBY, CHARGING PARTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

In this consolidated matter, petitioner claimed the Board of Education violated his tenure and seniority rights by not appointing him—following abolition of a teaching staff position he claims to have held under the Reading Specialist endorsement on his Educational Services Certificate—to a newly created Educational Program Specialist position requiring the same endorsement. In his related unfair practice charge before the Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC), petitioner contended he was denied the position he sought in retaliation for engaging in protected activity. Petitioner sought retroactive reappointment to the position in question as his primary relief.

The ALJ found that petitioner acquired tenure as a teacher, and that his lawful reassignment to another position within the scope of his instructional certificate did not constitute a reduction in force so as to implicate his tenure or seniority rights; thus, petitioner had no claim under the school laws. The ALJ further dismissed the entire matter as moot, having found that—since the Educational Program Specialist title was not used in the district after 2001-02 and will not be used again in light of its rejection by the County Superintendent—no purpose would be served by continued proceedings since no relief is available to petitioner even if he prevails in his unfair practice charge.

The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's decision with respect to petitioner's tenure and seniority claims, but declined to rule on the mootness of petitioner's unfair practice charge. Consistent with the Joint Order of Consolidation, the Commissioner forwarded the matter to PERC for final decision on all remaining issues, including the question of mootness of the unfair practice charge.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAMDEN BOARD OF EDUCATION, RESPONDENT, AND THOMAS DERBY, CHARGING PARTY.	:

The record of this consolidated matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions, which did not comply with the time requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(a),[1] are not considered herein, and no reply to them was filed by the respondent Board of Education (Board).

Upon review and consideration of the school law claims before the Commissioner, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner's tenure was achieved under his instructional certificate, not under the reading specialist endorsement on his educational services certificate, so that petitioner has no

[1] Petitioner's exceptions bore a face date of August 16, 2005, and were filed via fax on August 17, 2005 (hard copy August 18, 2005). The Initial Decision was mailed to the parties on August 2, 2005, so that any exceptions to be filed in the absence of an extension requested and granted pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8 would have been due on or before August 15, 2005.

possible tenure claim to any position other than that of teacher. The Commissioner further concurs that petitioner was not subjected to a reduction in force (RIF), but was instead lawfully transferred to another teaching position within the scope of his instructional certificate, so that neither his tenure nor his seniority rights are implicated in this matter. Consequently, the Commissioner concludes, as did the ALJ, that petitioner has not demonstrated entitlement to relief under the school laws, as sought in his petition before the Commissioner.[2]

The Commissioner expressly declines, however, to reach the ALJ's recommendation—based on an undisputed finding that the title assigned to the position sought by petitioner in his pleadings is no longer in use and was not approved by the County Superintendent of Schools—that this matter is moot in its entirety. Instead, having ruled on the merits of petitioner's school law claims as set forth above, the Commissioner finds that the final decision on dismissal of petitioner's unfair practice claims is more properly made by the Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC), since, notwithstanding that petitioner has no entitlement by tenure or seniority to the position or back pay he seeks, PERC may not concur that the issues within its jurisdiction are mooted by the fact that the position sought by petitioner no longer exists under the title(s) it had during the period at issue.[3]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL dismissing petitioner's tenure and seniority claims is adopted as the final decision in this matter with respect to those claims, and—consistent the Joint Order of the Commissioner and the Chair of the Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC)—the Commissioner's decision herein, together with the full record of this matter, shall now be forwarded to PERC for final decision on all remaining issues, including the mootness of petitioner's unfair practice charge.[4]

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAMDEN BOARD OF EDUCATION, RESPONDENT, AND THOMAS DERBY, CHARGING PARTY

Harold W. George, Esq., for respondent-respondent (Sumners George, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 1, 2005 Decided: July 29, 2005

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In the matter before the Commissioner of Education, petitioner filed a petition challenging the actions of respondent Board of Education of the City of Camden, abolishing a teaching staff position which he alleges he previously held under a Reading Specialist endorsement on an Educational Services Certificate and creating new positions with the title Educational Program Specialist that require a Reading Specialist endorsement. Petitioner asserts that he acquired tenure under his Reading Specialist endorsement and, therefore, he was and is entitled to the new position; however respondent has placed and continues to place non-tenured or less senior individuals to fill these positions in violation of petitioner's tenure and seniority rights.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on November 20, 2001, for hearing as a contested case. This matter was then assigned to me on December 17, 2001, and a telephone prehearing conference was scheduled for January 31, 2002. This was adjourned at the request of attorney for petitioner who was unavailable. Because the attorneys were of the opinion that a settlement was possible, I scheduled a number of telephone conferences which were held on March 7, April 11, April 29, May 29 (adjourned), June 19, and July 2, 2002. When it was determined that the matter could not be settled during the conference on July 2, 2002, the matter was scheduled for hearing on December 18, 2002. Additional conferences were held on October 17, 2002 and November 19, 2002. On November 19, 2002, it was determined that two hearing days would be required and the attorneys requested that the hearing scheduled for December 18, 2002, be adjourned and the matter be rescheduled for two days. This request was granted and the matter was rescheduled for hearing on January 30 and 31, 2003.

On January 9, 2003, attorney for respondent filed a motion to consolidate the within matter with a Charge filed by petitioner as the charging party with the Public Employees' Relations Commission (PERC) on February 21, 2002, entitled In the Matter of Camden Board of Education, Respondent and Thomas Derby, Charging Party, PERC Docket No. CI-H-2002-43.

In the Charge before PERC, petitioner alleged that he engaged in certain activities protected by the PERC Act of which respondent was aware. After respondent abolished petitioner's teaching staff position, it created new Educational Program Specialist positions for which petitioner contends he is uniquely qualified, and it placed less-qualified individuals in these positions. Petitioner contends that he was denied the opportunity to interview for and was denied placement in the new positions, and that those actions by respondent were retaliatory because of petitioner's engagement in the protected activity. Petitioner seeks a determination that the actions and conduct of respondent amounted to retaliatory action against petitioner for his engaging in protected activities and are unfair practices under the PERC Act, and he requests that PERC direct respondent to cease such conduct and retroactively appoint petitioner to one of the new positions.

By an Order entered on January 22, 2003, I ordered the consolidation of these two matters and provided for a procedure by which the Commissioner of Education and the Public Employment Relations Commission would decide those issues over which they each have the predominant interest. By a Joint Order on Consolidation and Predominant Interest entered by the Commissioner of Education on March 5, 2003, and the Chair of the Public Employment Relations Commission on February 24, 2003, the Commissioner of Education and the Public Employment Relations Commission ordered the consolidation of these matters and established the procedure for issuing the final administrative decision.

The PERC matter was then transmitted to the OAL on April 9, 2003. The Consolidated matter was then scheduled for hearing on October 15 and 17, 2003. These hearing dates were adjourned at the request of attorney for petitioner on October 14, 2003 because he had been newly retained, and the hearing was rescheduled for May 13 and 25, 2004.

The hearing commenced on May 13, 2004, and attorney for respondent submitted a motion for summary decision. The hearing was continued to May 25, 2004. On May 25, 2004, Karen Murray, Esq., but here it before me an advise that her services had been terminated by responding by correspondence faxed to her office. When she attempted to determine the name of substitute counsel, She could not confirm who this. However, she stated that she could not represent the interests of respondent because she had been terminated as its attorney.

In view of this, I released Ms. Murray and Mr. Barrett and instructed Ms. Murray to advise her former client that I required an explanation for the failure of any substitute counsel to appear on its behalf in order to decide whether to reschedule a matter. I also gave to Mr. Barrett the opportunity to respond to the respondent's motion for summary decision, and he did so.

In January 2005, substitute counsel entered an appearance in this matter. I was then advised that because of changed circumstances, the matter may be resolved, and I withheld any further action in the matter. Because of this, and through inadvertence, I did not close the record with respect to the respondent's motion until July 1, 2005.

ISSUES TO BE DECIDED

This matter is a consolidated case and involves two issues: an education issue and a PERC issue. The education issue as I see it and as set forth in the Order of Consolidation is whether the petitioner was and is entitled to the position entitled Educational Program Specialist (Literacy) and whether respondent's placement of non-tenured or less senior individuals to fill these positions violates petitioner's tenure and seniority rights? See the January 24, 2003, Order of Consolidation, page 5. The Commissioner of Education has the predominant issue on the educational issue dealing with petitioner's tenure and seniority rights. PERC has the predominant interest on the allegation of retaliation issue. Id. Thus, the respondent school district's summary decision motion is properly before me on the issues reserved for the Commissioner's jurisdiction in the Order of Consolidation. The issue of alleged retaliation is reserved for PERC and must be addressed by PERC if I grant the respondent's motion for summary decision and this decision is affirmed by the Commissioner of Education.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

A review of petitioner's petition and his Certification (P-1) and respondent's answer and Certifications of Counsel (R-2 and R-5) with annexed exhibits reveals that most of the essential relevant facts are not in dispute. I FIND that following to be the relevant facts in this matter:

1. Petitioner holds an Instructional Certificate with a Teacher of English endorsement, and an Educational Services Certificate with a Reading Specialist Endorsement, both issued in March 1988.

2. Petitioner was hired by respondent on September 1, 1999.
3. From September 1, 1988 through June 2001, the petitioner was employed as a Teacher of Reading.
4. At all pertinent times, petitioner held the proper certificate and endorsement for his assignment and was employed on a full-time basis.
5. During this time, because petitioner was employed as a teacher, he served under his Instructional Certificate and was assigned to a Teacher of Reading position resulting in his acquiring tenure with respondent.
6. On April 30, 2001, Reading, as a separate subject, was eliminated from the Camden School District's curriculum. The Official Board Minutes of April 30, 2001, shows that the Board voted on April 30, 2001, to eliminate reading. (R-2, Exhibit 6, Official Board Minutes of April 30, 2001 with vote page.) This action was not taken by resolution.
7. The petitioner was never employed as a Reading Specialist.
8. The petitioner applied for an Educational Program Specialist position in July 2001.
9. The job description for Educational Program Specialist was never approved by the County Superintendent. (R-2, para. 6)
10. The petitioner was not dismissed, laid off, or reduced in salary as a result of the elimination of Reading as a separate curriculum subject in the school district. (R-2, para. 9)
11. No teaching staff member was dismissed, laid off or reduced in salary as a result of the elimination of reading as a separate curriculum subject in the school district. (R-2, para. 10)
12. The position or title of Educational Program Specialist was unrecognized and was never approved as a tenurable position by the County Superintendent. (R-2, Exhibit 15)
13. The Educational Program Specialist position was officially abolished by the Board on May 24, 2004, as it had not been used for two years. (R-3, Exhibit 18).
14. The former position of Teacher of Reading worked directly with students. (R-2., para. 12)
15. The position of Educational Program Specialist for Literacy, prior to its abolition, was developed to work primarily with staff rather than students. (R-2, para. 12)
16. The position of Teacher (Sylvan Reading Lab) works directly with students and is the position to which petitioner was assigned. (R-2. para. 8 and 12)
17. The position of Literacy Teacher Coach has been developed to work primarily with staff, rather than students.

18. The job descriptions for the following positions are not the same: Educational Program Specialist (R-2, Exhibit 9); Teacher (Sylvan Reading Lab) (R-2, Exhibit 10); Literacy Teacher Coach (R-3, Exhibit 18).
19. The petitioner is a member of the Camden Education Association, a bargaining unit representing all of the teachers. The Association has never filed any grievance or initiated any litigation relative to any of the changes in re-assignments of teachers of reading. (R-2, para. 19)
20. In 2001, the board of education appointed 10 individuals to the position of Educational Program Specialist Literacy. (R-2, Exhibit 16)
21. The title of Educational Program Specialist for Literacy was abandoned by the board and was not used in either the 2002-2003 or 2003-2004 school years (R-2 para. 16). No one has been assigned to the position or title of Educational Program Teacher Specialist for the 2002-2003 and 2003- 2004 school years.
22. The Board subsequently changed the title to Educational Program Specialist. On June 24, 2003, in response to the school district's request for approval by the County Superintendent of Schools to use a number of unrecognized titles, including the title of "Educational Program Specialist" the school district was advised by the County Superintendent of Schools, that he was concerned how appointees would accumulate tenure and seniority. He suggested that the school district use the title "Educational Program Teacher Specialist." (R-2, Exhibit 15).
23. On July 28, 2003, the school board abolished the title of Educational Program Specialist and created the title of Educational Program Teacher Specialist in order to comply with the County Superintendent's direction (R-2, Exhibit 17).
24. The County Superintendent recently advised the school district that he will not be approving any Educational Program Specialist title going forward beginning with the 2004-2005 school year.
25. Petitioner, through his counsel, was advised of the County Superintendent's rejection of the position in question in July 2003 and again in October 2003. However, petitioner has not yet amended his petition, and the petition claims entitlement to a position that does not exist.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

Whether the petition should be dismissed as moot

In his petition, the petitioner claims entitlement to and seeks immediate and retroactive appointment to the position of Educational Program Specialist. Respondent school district argues that petitioner's claim is moot because he seeking the remedy of appointment to a position that no longer exists.

As stated above, from 1988 through 2001, the petitioner was assigned as a Teacher of Reading in one of respondent's high schools. (P-1, R-2, Exhibits 1, 2 and 3) Based upon petitioner's Certification (P-1) and the fact that his assignment from 1988 through 2001 was as a Teacher of Reading, I FIND that petitioner acquired tenure under his Instructional Certificate since the Teacher of Reading assignment was an instructional position.

Because the State does not offer Reading as a credit-bearing subject, the respondent board eliminated Reading from its middle and high school course curricula in April 2001, beginning with the 2001-2002 academic year. (R-2, Exhibit 6) All reading, writing and vocabulary development is taught within Language Arts at the middle school level, and English at the high school level.

Upon adoption by the board of education of a new curriculum and reading program, the Teacher of Reading positions in the school district were eliminated, and the positions of "Educational Program Specialist for Literacy" and "Teacher (Sylvan Reading Lab)" were open to all reading teachers in the district. (R-2, Exhibits 7 and 8) All reading teachers were reassigned as either a Sylvan Reading Lab Teacher or an Educational Program Specialist for Literacy. (R-2, Exhibit 12) Both positions were teaching positions paid on the teachers' salary guide.

The petitioner was reassigned as a Sylvan Reading Lab Teacher, effective September 1, 2001. (R-2, Exhibit 11) There was no change in petitioner's salary or benefits as a result of this reassignment. All teachers, regardless of assignments are paid on the same salary guide.

Petitioner contends that his tenure and seniority rights were violated because he was not reassigned as an Educational Program Specialist. It is noted that the Camden Education Association, a bargaining unit representing all of the teachers, including petitioner, never filed any grievance or initiated any litigation relative to any of the changes and reassignments of Teachers of Reading. (R-2, para. 19)

Respondent contends that since the petitioner seeks retroactive appointment as an Educational Program Specialist, a position that has been abolished, petitioner's claim is moot, and there is no reason to proceed regarding a position that cannot lawfully exist and has been abolished. Respondent also argues that since the Educational Program Specialist position was abolished in May 2004, and since petitioner has failed to amend his petition, he cannot claim entitlement to the new title of Educational Program Teacher Specialist established in July 2003. Further, respondent contends that based upon the County Superintendent's recent advice that he will not be approving any Educational Program Specialist title going forward beginning with the 2004-2005 school year, there is currently no such actual position in the school district.

In response to the foregoing, petitioner contends that whatever the new positions are called, the essence of these new positions from a content standpoint is "reading specialist" focused. Thus, the petitioner contends that by virtue of his education, certifications, endorsements, and actual experience, he was more legally qualified for appointment to the new positions than other individuals within the school district. He contends that despite this, he was denied one of these positions, and even denied an interview for one of them, because of personal and professional antipathy towards him.

I agree that the Commissioner of Education does not render decisions on cases that have become moot since a development or event renders a controversy moot where it precludes a court from granting effective relief. Farmer v. Camden Bd. of Educ., EDU 6789-01 (Initial Decision (November 2003) Commissioner's Decision, No. 684-03 (December 2003) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search>; citing J.B. v. Asbury Park Bd. of Ed., 1988 S.L.D. 2303; Weehawken Educ. Assn., v. Weehawken Bd. of Ed., 1978 S.L.D. 924; Nichols v. Jersey City Bd. of Educ., 65 N.J. Super. 45 (App. Div. 1961). An action is moot when it no longer presents a justiciable controversy because the question has become academic, or when a decision on the controversy will have no practical effect. Victoria v. Woodbridge Bd. of Educ., 1982 S.L.D. 1.

In Farmer, the ALJ dismissed as moot a petition which challenged an appointment to a position that was subsequently abolished and the board had created a restructured position. The Commissioner affirmed the ALJ's summary decision. In Nichols, the petitioner requested the Commissioner to order the Jersey City Board to appoint the petitioner as Assistant Superintendent of Schools in place of an individual. The petition was dismissed and the State of Board affirmed the dismissal. The Appellate Division held that the case was moot because the court could not order appointment to a position where the position had been abolished.

The primary relief sought herein by the petitioner, namely, appointment as Educational Program Specialist in place of another employee, cannot be ordered as a remedy in this matter because the position is presently non-existent. I FIND that this controversy is moot because significant events have occurred, i.e., the lack of approval of the Educational Program Specialist position by the County Superintendent and the school district's abolishment of the position. The remedy that petitioner is seeking in this matter cannot be granted to him even if he prevails because the position he is seeking no longer exists. See, Anderson v. Sills, 143 N.J. Super. 432, 437 (Ch. Div. 1976). There is no reason to conduct a factual hearing on the petition if there are no remedies available.

Respondent also argues that petitioner's claim is moot because he cannot be awarded the new title of Educational Program Teacher Specialist. As stated above, the school board created the new title of Educational Program Teacher Specialist when it abolished the disapproved title of Educational Program Specialist. (Certification, Exhibit 17) However, since the school board created the new title in July 2003, no person has been appointed to the position and the board does not have any individuals in the title of Educational Program Teacher Specialist. The school district did not use the title in the 2002-2003 or 2003-2004 school years and has abandoned its use. Thus, the petitioner cannot be awarded a title that is no longer in use in the school district.

Petitioner contends that the County Superintendent's determination to deny respondent the use of these titles is irrelevant, contending that only the Commissioner is authorized to make such a determination, citing Pezzulo v. Willingboro Twp. Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 798-

86. However, the County Superintendent of Schools has the authority to take measures necessary to the enforcement of the State law requiring boards of education to employ only those teachers who are properly certificated for the positions held. See, N.J.S.A. 18A:7-8 and N.J.A.C. 6:56-1.1(d). N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6(b)[1] gives authority to the county superintendent to exercise his discretion and approve a school district's request for permission to use an unrecognized position title and determine the appropriate certification and title for the position. Such permission has not been given in this case.

Petitioner argues in response that it is not a title that he is seeking, but rather a position consistent with his prior title of Reading Teacher. He asserts that he has legal entitlement to such a position and that he is at least entitled to have that assertion determined through a full hearing and an ultimate determination by the Commissioner of Education.

As stated above, from 1988 through 2001, the petitioner was assigned as a Teacher of Reading in one of respondent's high schools. (Certification, Exhibits 1, 2 & 3) It is undisputed that petitioner was employed as a Teacher of Reading until his reassignment to his current position as a Sylvan Lab Reading Teacher. Tenure is achieved by a teaching staff member who served the probationary period either in a specifically designated position, such as teacher, or in "positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates." Ellicott v. Board of Educ., of Tp. of Frankford, 251 N.J. Super. 342 (App. Div. 1991). In a case cited by respondent, Wallen v. Bd. Educ. of Rancocas Valley Reg. H.S. Dist., 92 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 670, the Commissioner held that a media specialist was not entitled to claim a position as English teacher held by a non-tenured staff member even though the media specialist held an English endorsement under the instructional certificate. The media specialist also held an educational media specialist endorsement under an educational services certificate. The Commissioner stated that because the media specialist had been only employed as a librarian/media specialist and never as a teacher, she achieved tenure within the position of educational services but not within the position of teacher even though she held an instructional certificate.

In the present matter, from September 1988 through June 2001, the petitioner herein was employed as a Teacher of Reading. Petitioner acquired tenure in the position of teacher under his instructional certificate and not in any other position. Even though the petitioner held an endorsement as a reading specialist under the educational services certificate, he did not achieve tenure under his educational services certificate because he was employed solely as a teacher. Petitioner was never employed as a reading specialist. Thus, even if the Education Program Specialist position still existed in the school district and a reading specialist certificate had been required, the petitioner would not have tenure rights to the subject position. Based upon petitioner's Certification and the fact that his assignment from 1988 through 2001 was as a Teacher of Reading, I FIND that petitioner acquired tenure under his Instructional Certificate since his Teacher of Reading assignment was an instructional position.

Additionally, the petitioner has no seniority in the position of Educational Program Specialist Literacy. Rather, the petitioner has accrued seniority credit as a secondary teacher. The Educational Program Specialist position in question is unrecognized, and even if the position was in existence in the school district, an individual could not accumulate seniority in the position.

Petitioner previously argued that the disapproved title and the new title have the same duties. Even if the job duties for both titles were the same, the new title has been abandoned as it has not been used in the school district. Since its creation in July 2003, no person has been appointed as an Educational Program Teacher Specialist. In fact, all the teachers who were appointed as Educational Program Specialist (Literacy) have been appointed to other positions. (Certification, Exhibit 16). Therefore, the petitioner cannot be awarded a new title of Educational Program Teacher Specialist since the title is not used in the school district, and since its creation, no individual has been appointed to this title.

It should also be noted that the board of education has no plans to use the Education Program Teacher Specialist title going forward since the board has been advised by the County Superintendent that all of the Educational Program Specialist titles will not approved in the 2004-2005 school year.

Whether the Commissioner has authority to order an appointment to a position

Respondent contends that the Commissioner does not have the authority to order an appointment to a position, especially where that position is non-existent. Thus, respondent asserts that there is no authority permitting the Commissioner to award an employment contract to a new position.

N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1 provides the board of education with the sole authority to hire employees and to set the "length of terms of their employment." Respondent contends that a board of education, under N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4 and other sections of Education law, is vested with "the traditional management power to employ, promote, transfer and dismiss" employees and that "the boards were public officials charged with public responsibilities which they could not lawfully abdicate or bargain away" Dunellen Bd. of Ed. v. Dunellen Ed. Assn., 64 N.J. 17, 23 (1973) (Citations omitted).

N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 provides sole authority to promote and appoint to the board of education. There is no express or implied authority that allows the Commissioner to award a position. The Supreme Court has admonished that, "(a) court should not find such authority in an agency unless the statute under consideration confers it expressly or by unavoidable implication" I/M/O Jamesburg High School, 83 N.J. 540, 550-551 (1980). In the Jamesburg case, the Supreme Court found that neither the inherent authority of the enabling statute for the Commissioner, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, or the tenure statute for teachers, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6.1, gave the Commissioner the authority to order the transfer of teachers. The Court there stated "[w]here there exists reasonable doubt as to whether such power is vested in the administrative body, the power is denied." Id. at 549.

Based upon the foregoing, I FIND that under the circumstances discussed above, the Commissioner does not have the authority to order an appointment to a position, especially where that position is non-existent.

Whether petitioner's tenure rights were triggered by the Board's action.

Respondent contends that rights emanating from the achievement of tenure are triggered only at the time of a reduction in force (RIF), and that since there was no RIF in this matter, petitioner's tenure rights were not triggered by the board's action, citing Edison Twp. Educ. Asoc. v. Bd. of Ed. of Twp. of Edison, Comm'n 1984 S.L.D. 1073, 1083, aff'd State Board of Education, 1984 S.L.D. 1085, aff'd, Docket #A-2030-84T7 (App. Div. 1986). Respondent contends that since petitioner was not subjected to a RIF within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, and that where there has been no reduction in the number of teaching staff, no RIF occurs, citing Ivey Avery v. Bd. of Ed. of the City of Trenton, OAL Dkt No. EDU 8316-93, Comm'n dec. 573-97 (November 3, 1997), <http://www.state.nj.us/njded/legal/index.html>.

In Ivey Avery, Id. the board abolished "teacher-specialist" positions and reassigned those teaching staff members holding the positions to classroom teaching assignments. The ALJ concluded that the board's action in abolishing petitioners' positions constituted a reduction in force. The Commissioner reversed, finding that no reduction in force had occurred because the board had not reduced the number of teaching staff members employed. The Commissioner further concluded that the board had acted within its managerial prerogative when it transferred the tenured individuals to alternative teaching assignments. The Commissioner determined that the individuals had acquired tenure as teachers and not as "teacher-specialists" and had been transferred within the scope of their certificates to alternative teaching assignments. Id., at 35. The State Board of Education reversed the Commissioner's determination, State Board of Education Decision (July 10, 2001), <http://www.state.nj.us/njded/legal/index.html>, and held that there was a reduction in force because petitioner's positions were reduced from twelve months to ten months with a corresponding reduction in compensation. The State Board distinguished the facts in Avery from those in Carpenito v. Board of Educ., 322 N.J. Super. 522, (App. Div. 1999), discussed infra. While the Commissioner's decision was reversed, the critical portion of the decision is the holding that where there is no RIF, an employee's tenure rights are not triggered by the board's action.

In Carpenito v. Board of Educ., 322 N.J. Super. 522, (App. Div. 1999), the Court stated :

> Teaching staff members, including all teachers, principals, assistant principals, vice principals, superintendents, assistant superintendents and school nurses, who have acquired tenure, "shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause ...." N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 (emphasis added). The Tenure laws create exceptions to the protections afforded to tenured teaching staff members. A school board has the managerial prerogative to transfer teaching staff members by a majority vote of the board. N.J.S.A. 18A:25-1.

"Transfer" refers to the right of a school board to assign a teacher to a position within the scope of his or her certification. A tenured teacher may be involuntarily transferred to another position within his or her certification where no loss of salary or other reduction in employment is suffered and the teacher is not singled out for the transfer on a prohibited basis. See, e.g., Greenway v. Board of Educ. City of Camden, 129 N.J.L. 46 (E. & A.), aff'd, 129 N.J.L. 461 (1943) (finding that transfer of tenured teacher from high school to junior high school without reduction of salary and without impacting tenure rights gave teacher no cause of action); Williams v. Plainfield Bd. of Educ., 176 N.J. Super. 154, 162-64, (App. Div. 1980) (holding that transfer of high school principal to position of elementary principal without any immediate reduction in compensation nor a reduction in rank did not violate principal's tenure rights), certif. denied, 87 N.J. 306 (1981); Lascari v. Board of Educ. of Borough of Lodi, 36 N.J. Super. 426, 430 (App. Div. 1955) (concluding that transfer of vice principal to regular teaching duties without reduction in salary was not a demotion or dismissal); Moore v. Cherry Hill Township Bd. of Educ., 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (Vol. 4) 585 (Div. on Educ.), aff'd, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (Vol. 4) 173 (Div. on Educ.) (determining that involuntary transfer of tenured teacher from position teaching reading in departmentalized junior high school to a position as third grade elementary teacher in connection with a district reorganization was not improper and teacher was not entitled to be returned to position); Ciarcia v. Trenton City Bd. of Educ., 1991 S.L.D. 1422 (rejecting seniority claim of art teacher, who was reassigned from secondary to elementary level as part of district reorganization, where teacher suffered no loss of employment or salary reduction as a result of the transfer); Stranzl v. Paterson Bd. of Educ., 2 N.J.A.R. 16 (Div. on Educ. 1980) (holding that tenure rights of elementary school principal were not violated when board involuntarily transferred principal from his position to the position of secondary school principal in the same district). A transfer is not a demotion or a dismissal under such circumstances. Indeed, transfers of teaching staff members are often advisable in the administration of schools for a variety of reasons.

Carpenito holds an instructional certificate with endorsements in English, social studies, and science. He also holds a tenure entitlement to any position for which a standard instructional certificate with any endorsement is the only necessary certification. The computer applications position to which he was assigned is such a position, because no particular certification, other than an instructional certificate, is required to teach computers. Taxman v. Board of Educ. of Piscataway Township, 92 *N.J.A.R.2d (Vol. 4) 189 (Div. on Educ.). Thus, the transfer of Carpenito to teach computer applications was within the scope of his certification.[Id.,* 322 N.J. Super. at 529-531]

Based on the foregoing, it is clear that a tenured teacher may be transferred or reassigned within the scope of his or her certificate. See, also, Bonica v. Bd. of Ed. of River Dell Reg. Sch. Distr., EDU 5885-01; Howley v. Bd. of Ed. of Ewing Twp., 1982 S.L.D. 1328, 1340, aff'd State Board of Education, 1983, S.L.D. 1554. In the present matter, the petitioner was reassigned from his Teacher of Reading position to an alternative teaching assignment, Teacher (Sylvan Reading Lab), which reassignment was within the scope of his certification. Therefore, I FIND that petitioner was not subject to a reduction in force so as to implicate tenure and seniority rights. I further FIND that petitioner was reassigned from his Teacher of Reading position to an alternative teaching assignment, Teacher (Sylvan Reading Lab), which reassignment was within the scope of his certification. In this matter, petitioner did not suffer a loss of compensation and is still employed by the respondent board of education. Thus, petitioner's tenure rights have been unharmed. I FIND that the transfer of petitioner from the position of Teacher of Reading to the position of Teacher (Sylvan Reading Lab) without any reduction in his salary and without impacting tenure rights give to the petitioner no cause of action.

Respondent also argues that petitioner's seniority rights are not implicated in this matter arguing that the Commissioner has concluded that the abolishment of positions with a reassignment or transfer to an alternative position within the scope of the individual's certification, with no dismissal from employment in the school district, does not compel the application of seniority regulations. Ivey Avery v Bd. of the Cty of Trenton, supra. In Ivey Avery, the Commissioner determined that even though tenured teachers' positions had been abolished, there had been no dismissal from employment and so to apply seniority regulations would "constitute a capitulation to semantics at the expense of sound educational policy." Id. at 35. In this case, petitioner's seniority rights were not violated as he did not suffer dismissal or any change in salary, and neither did any similarly situated teacher.

With regard to seniority, see the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12 requiring that if any teaching staff member shall be dismissed as a result of such reduction, such person shall be and remain upon a preferred eligible list in the order of seniority for reemployment whenever a vacancy occurs in a position for which such person shall be qualified and he shall be reemployed by the body causing dismissal, if and when such vacancy occurs. The position espoused by respondent concerning petitioner's allegation that his seniority rights were violated was taken by the Court in Carpenito v. Board of Educ., supra, wherein the Court held that a tenured teacher's seniority rights are not triggered when a school board abolishes the teacher's position and assigns the teacher to teach different subjects within his or her certification without reducing the teacher's salary or other employment benefit. Carpenito v. Board of Educ., 322 N.J. Super. at 542.

In this matter, petitioner was transferred from an abolished Teacher of Reading position to the position of Teacher (Sylvan Reading Lab), an equivalent position, with no impact on his tenure and seniority and no loss of pay or benefits. Therefore, I FIND that petitioner's seniority rights have not been impacted and that he has no basis to claim a new or different position.

Petitioner is now claiming entitlement to a retroactive appointment to the new position of Literacy Teacher Coach based on his allegation that this position is a successor position to the petitioner's former position and is the same or substantially similar to petitioner's former position of Teacher of Reading. However, respondent has submitted information, which petitioner has not disputed, that petitioner's former position of Teacher of Reading involved working with students, while the position of Literacy Teacher Coach is designed to be an aide for teachers. Thus, the position of Literacy Teacher Coach differs substantially from that of petitioner's abolished former position. "A mere overlap in duties.... does not mean that two positions are equivalent for tenure purposes. If a newly-created position is similar to a tenure holder's abolished position but also requires additional duties or different responsibilities, then the newly-created position is not considered to be substantially similar to the former position." Skowronski v. Bd. of Ed. of Twp. of Jackson, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 451, 453 (1995), citing Dennery v. Bd. of Educ., 131 N.J. 626, 640 (1993).

Since the position of Teacher of Reading and Literacy Teacher Coach differ substantially, I FIND that petitioner has no legal entitlement to the Literacy Teacher Coach position. In addition, there is no indication in the record of this matter that petitioner has ever applied for the new position of Literacy Teacher Coach.

Unfair practice charge

In the Joint Order on Consolidation and Predominant Interest entered by the Commissioner of Education on March 5, 2003, and the Chair of the Public Employment Relations Commission on February 24, 2003, a procedure was established for hearing and deciding this matter. Under this procedure, the ALJ is to offer recommended findings of fact and conclusions of law to both the Commissioner of Education and the Public Employment Relations Commission disposing of all issues in controversy through a single initial decision and transmit the initial decision to both agencies. Upon such transmittal, the underlying record is to be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education to resolve the tenure and seniority issues within the Commissioner's jurisdiction. The Commissioner's decision and the complete record is then to be sent to the Public Employment Relations Commission which will then decide any remaining unfair practice issues within its jurisdiction.

In petitioner's unfair practice charge before PERC, petitioner alleges that he engaged in certain activities protected by the PERC Act of which respondent was aware. After respondent abolished petitioner's teaching staff position, it created new Educational Program Specialist positions for which petitioner contends he is uniquely qualified, and it placed less-qualified individuals in these positions. Petitioner contends that he was denied the opportunity to interview for and was denied placement in the new positions, and that those actions by respondent were retaliatory because of petitioner's engagement in the protected activity. Petitioner seeks a determination that the actions and conduct of respondent amounted to retaliatory action against petitioner for his engaging in protected activities and are unfair practices under the PERC Act, and he requests that PERC direct respondent to cease such conduct and retroactively appoint petitioner to one of the new positions.

N.J.S.A. 34:13A-5.4.a prohibits public employers from:

> (3) Discriminating in regard to hire or tenure of employment or any term or condition of employment to encourage or discourage employees in the exercise of the rights guaranteed to them by this act.
>
> (4) Discharging or otherwise discriminating against any employee because he has signed or filed an affidavit, petition or complaint or given any information or testimony under this act.

Petitioner's own statement contained in his Certification at paragraph 22 is that,

> It is not clear to me or, in any event, probably not legally provable, that the Superintendent desired to abolish middle and high school reading as a subject because of me and in retaliation against my determination to voice my opinion but what is clear is that the initiation of the new content area (First Reading Specialist and later Education Program Specialist) and the subsequent method by which administration filled those positions was engineered to eliminate me from consideration and to "box me out."

In this initial decision, I have concluded that the actions of the respondent were lawful exercises of its managerial prerogatives and did not violate petitioner's tenure and seniority rights. Since these actions were lawful, and based on petitioner's own statement, I see no reason for proceeding with a hearing regarding petitioner's unfair practice charge. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that I shall issue an initial decision in this matter recommending no further proceedings with respect to the unfair practice charge.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based on my finding that the actions of the respondent were lawful exercises of its managerial prerogatives and did not violate petitioner's tenure and seniority rights, it is hereby ORDERED that respondent's motion for summary decision on the education issues is hereby GRANTED. Since I have concluded that the actions of respondent were lawful, and based on petitioner's own statement, I see no reason for proceeding with a hearing regarding petitioner's unfair practice charge. Therefore, I ORDER that no further proceedings are necessary with respect to the unfair practice charge, and it is hereby recommended that it be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make the final decision on all issues within the scope of its predominant interest. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision on all of the issues within the scope of predominant interest shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.8, upon rendering its final decision the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION shall forward the record, including this recommended decision and its final decision, to the CHAIRMAN OF THE PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS COMMISSION which may subsequently render a final decision on any remaining issues and consider any specific remedies which may be within its statutory grant of authority.

Upon transmitting the record, the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION shall, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.8(c) request an extension to permit the rendering of a final decision by the CHAIRMAN OF THE PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS COMMISSION within forty-five (45) days of the COMMISSIONER'S decision. If the CHAIRMAN OF THE PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS COMMISSION does not render a final decision within the extended time, this recommended decision on the remaining issues and remedies shall become the final decision.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HOWELL, MONMOUTH COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, a former member of the Board of Education of Howell Township and a former officer with the municipality's police department, appealed the Board's refusal to pay attorney fees for defending a matter brought against him while a member of the Board. Respondent Board countered that the underlying conduct at issue did not arise out of the performance of Board member duties; underlying conduct relates to allegations that the petitioner obtained certain police reports and confidential information and disseminated same to members of the Board of Education without Board knowledge or authorization.

The ALJ denied a motion to bar testimony concerning, inter alia: petitioner's alleged violation of Howell Township Board of Education policy and the Board Member Code of Ethics; Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office return of indictment against the petitioner; and petitioner's entry into the Monmouth County Pretrial Intervention Program (PTI). The ALJ granted respondent Board's motion for summary judgment as there are no genuine issues of material fact in this case, and dismissed the petition. In doing so, the ALJ concludes that petitioner is not entitled to indemnification under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20 because his entry into PTI was not a favorable disposition of criminal charges previously brought against him.

The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's determination that petitioner has no right to indemnification pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20, but finds that it is not necessary to reach to discussion of petitioner's participation in PTI. The Commissioner finds and concludes that petitioner's alleged conduct in the civil suit brought against him neither arose out of the performance of his board duties nor occurred in the course of performing those duties, but would have been undertaken on his own initiative and at his own peril, so that he is not entitled to be defended at public expense. Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted with this modification, and the petition is dismissed.

MICHAEL GUNTHER,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HOWELL, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions, filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, were fully considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.[1]

Petitioner's exceptions, inter alia, contend that the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) reliance on Cressinger,[2] supra, in support of her determination that he was not entitled to indemnification in this matter, was misplaced. That case, he asserts, dealt with a teaching staff member seeking reimbursement, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1, not N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20, for legal expenses in connection with the defense of a criminal matter. Here, he professes, *N.J.S.A.*18A:12-20 is clear in mandating indemnification for a board member's counsel fees incurred in connection with the defense of a civil suit, notwithstanding the outcome of that action. Furthermore, the "favorable disposition" requirement of this statute is solely applicable

[1] It is noted that the Board did not file reply exceptions.

[2]The volume citation for this case is erroneously presented as 225 N.J. Super. on Page 12 of the Initial Decision. This should be 256 N.J. Super.

in instances where a board member is seeking reimbursement for defense of criminal charges. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 6) Petitioner further charges that "the ALJ's reference to Petitioner's criminal past manifests the prejudice suffered as a result of the improper introduction of this evidence which was entirely irrelevant on the issue of his reimbursement for counsel fees paid to his civil attorney," and urges that the Commissioner reject the Initial Decision and enter an Order directing petitioner's reimbursement of the costs of his defense of the Therien lawsuit. (Id. 6, 7)

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's determination that petitioner has no right to indemnification pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20 in this matter. However, contrary to the finding of the ALJ, the Commissioner concludes that such a determination is not a consequence of the ultimate result of the criminal charges previously brought against him. Consequently, the Initial Decision is adopted as modified below.

Initially, the Commissioner is compelled to clarify what appears to be confusion with respect to the applicability of the provisions of the governing statute vis-à-vis the situation existing herein. The statutory provision underlying petitioner's application for reimbursement is N.J.S.A. 18:12-20, which obligates a board of education to indemnify its members for the cost of defense of certain civil and criminal actions, and in its entirety specifies:

> Whenever a civil, administrative, criminal or quasi-criminal action or other legal proceeding has been or shall be brought against any person for any act or omission arising out of and in the course of the performance of his duties as a member of a board of education, and in the case of a criminal or quasi-criminal action such action results in final disposition in favor of such person, the board of education shall defray all costs of defending such action, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses, together with costs of appeal, if any, and shall save harmless and protect such person from any financial loss resulting therefrom. Indemnification for exemplary or punitive damages shall not be mandated and shall be governed by the standards and procedures set forth in > N.J.S. 59:10-4. Any board of education may arrange for and maintain appropriate insurance to cover all such damages, losses and expenses.

By its very terms, central to qualifying for protection afforded under this statute -- which is intended to provide for the legal defense of a member of the board who is sued for official acts taken or omitted by him while actively engaged in carrying out his prescribed responsibilities as a board member – is that the conduct triggering the legal action against him must have: 1) arisen out of the performance of his duties, and 2) occurred in the course of performing those duties. In the context of the defense of a civil action, the outcome of the litigation is irrelevant; the statute protects both successful and unsuccessful litigants as long as the above two criteria are satisfied. However, in the context of a criminal or quasi-criminal charge made against a board member, the statute imposes a third criteria as a prerequisite to indemnification, i.e., the legal action must result in a final disposition in favor of the board member. Here, it is uncontroverted that petitioner is seeking reimbursement for defending a civil lawsuit brought against him by Robert Therien and his wife. As such, notwithstanding that the gravamen of this civil litigation is related to the underlying factual conduct contained in the prior indictment returned against petitioner, the focus here is upon the lawsuit for which petitioner is seeking to be indemnified. As such, the Commissioner finds it unnecessary to reach to the ALJ's Initial Decision discussion of petitioner's acceptance into and completion of a Pre-Trial Intervention program or the effect of the subsequent expungement of his criminal record with respect to these charges.

Turning next to the issue of whether petitioner has satisfied the two statutory requisites entitling him to the relief he seeks, guidance in this respect is gleaned from consideration of the underlying scope of the statute. As found by the Court in Errington v. Mansfield Tp. Bd. of Ed., 100 N.J. Super. 130 (App. Div. 1968):

> The purpose of the statute is to make manifest the implied power of boards of education to provide for the legal defense of a member of the board who is sued individually for some action taken by him in furtherance of his prescribed duties. Those duties are prescribed by statute, by the rules and regulations of the board itself and of those who supervise its activities, and by resolutions of the board authorizing specific action to be taken. (emphasis supplied)
> (at 138)

A review of the statement of material facts prepared by counsel for Mr. Gunther in support of his motion to dismiss the Therien suit (See Initial Decision, pp. 8-10), indicates that he was accused of obtaining certain police reports and information with respect to Mr. Therien and disseminating these to board of education members. The Commissioner's review discloses, and nowhere does petitioner dispute, that he was not in any manner authorized or directed on behalf of the Board to acquire or disclose any such information in his capacity as a board member. (See Board's Answer to Petition of Appeal at 4-5). Furthermore, the record establishes that such conduct would be in direct violation of a specific board policy which states that board members "have no authority as individuals except when authorized by the Board." (Ibid. – Certification of Ronald Sanasac, Board President, at 2) The Commissioner, therefore, finds and concludes that it is clearly evident that petitioner's alleged conduct in the civil suit lodged against him -- no matter what the personal motivation for such conduct may have been -- neither arose out of the performance of his board duties nor occurred in the course of performing those duties, but rather would have been undertaken on his own initiative and at his own peril, so that he is not entitled to be defended against such allegations at public expense.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as modified above and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8380-02
AGENCY REF. NO. 272-9/02

MICHAEL GUNTHER,
Petitioner,
v.
HOWELL TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCAITON,
Respondent.

Edward G. O'Byrne, Esq., for petitioner
Michael M. DiCicco, Esq. (Bathgate, Wegener and Wolf, P.C.) for respondent

Record Closed: May 10, 2004 Decided: August 10, 2005

BEFORE ANA C. VISCOMI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, a former member of the Howell Township Board of Education, appeals the respondent's refusal to pay attorneys' fees in the amount of $5,000.00 for defending a civil matter brought against him while a member of the Board. Respondent asserted the underlying conduct did not arise out of and in the course of the performance of Board Member duties and thus, petitioner is not entitled to indemnification pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20. Petitioner Gunther filed an appeal pro se before the Commissioner of Education and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on December 9, 2002, for a hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13 and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15. Petitioner subsequently retained present counsel. The matter was scheduled for a hearing on January 8, 2004, before the Honorable Robert Miller, ALJ but was reassigned to this ALJ due to his retirement. On January 7, 2004, respondent filed a motion for summary decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 and a motion to quash subpoenas on various board members.[1] The hearing date was adjourned in order to allow the parties to respond to the cross motions. It was then rescheduled for June 3, 2004.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Petitioner herein was an elected member of the Howell Township Board of Education. In addition, he was also an officer for the municipality's police department. Robert Therien was employed by the Howell Township Board of Education as a custodian. The following facts are derived from the Monmouth County Grand Jury indictment and attached to respondent's moving papers as Exhibit A.[2] On September 28, 1998, Gunther was indicted on four counts of official misconduct. The first count averred that on July 28, 1997 he acquired a 1994 MDT[3] report on a closed incident contrary to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 2C: 30-2; the second count averred that in July 1997, he acquired a shoplifting incident report on a closed case, contrary to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 2C: 30-2; the third count averred that on July 18, 1997 and/or August 1, 1997, he acquired motor vehicle abstracts for two people, contrary to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 2C: 30-2; and the fourth count averred on or about the month of December 1996, Gunther acquired and disseminated incident reports on a closed police

[1] Petitioner had filed an in limine motion on December 29, 2003, seeking to "exclude the defense proffer" that a) a third party civil complaint alleged petitioner herein committed intentional torts; (b) petitioner violated various Board policies; c) petitioner was indicted by a Monmouth County Grand Jury; and d) petitioner entered the Monmouth County PTI program.

[2] As petitioner's in limine motion to bar evidence is denied for reasons set forth below in the Legal Analysis section of this opinion, these facts are included.

[3] The parties have not indicated the exact nature of an "MDT" report.

investigation contrary to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 2C:30-2.[4] On November 25, 1998, Monmouth County Assistant Prosecutor Richard Cremona forwarded correspondence to respondent Board's counsel indicating that "most of the counts of the indictment regard Mr. Robert Therien and his wife, Colleen Therien."[5] On August 13, 1999, Cremona advised Board counsel that as of August 10, 1999, Gunther had been admitted into Pre-Trial Intervention (PTI) program.[6] As part of the "several special conditions" that were set and "agreed to by all parties involved," Gunther executed an immediate resignation from all elective offices, included but not limited to the Board of Education of Howell Township. On April 6, 2000, Robert Therien and his wife Colleen filed a complaint with the Superior Court Law Division in Monmouth County against the Township of Howell, Howell Township Board of Education, Hopewell (improperly plead) Township Police Department, Michael Gunther, individually and in his capacity as an employee of the Howell Township Police Department and member of the Howell Board of Education and John Does one through ten. That complaint alleged, in part, that Gunther unlawfully obtained confidential information regarding Robert Therien from the Howell Township Board of Education files and forwarded the information to third party or parties at the Holland[7] Township Board of Education meetings between June of 1997 and October of 1997.[8] This civil action was dismissed on motion.[9] The fact that Gunther was indicted and had applied to be admitted into PTI was the subject of at least one article in the regional daily newspaper.[10] The indictment was later expunged by the February 23, 2001, Order for Expungement of Arrest Records.[11]

The parties submitted a Joint Statement of Stipulated Facts. (J-1) They have stipulated to the following:

1. The Petitioner was elected as a member of the Respondent Board of Education in 1997.
2. Robert S. Therien, Jr. was employed by the Respondent Board of Education and served in its Transportation Department.
3. On April 6, 2000, Robert S. Therien, Jr. and Colleen Bay Therien, h/w filed a complaint in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Monmouth County, against the Township of Howell, the Township Board of Education, the Howell Township Police Department and Michael Gunther, individually and in the alternative. This matter was docketed as L-1847-00.
4. In defense of the Therien lawsuit, petitioner was represented by Daniel S. Waldman, Esq. (Waldman & Morierity), 212 Maple Ave., P.O. Box 578, Red Bank, New Jersey 07701.
5. On January 23, 2001, the Honorable Robert J. O'Hagen, J.S.C. granted petitioner's motion for summary judgment dismissing all claims set forth in the Therien lawsuit.
6. Petitioner requested that the Board of Education to (sic) reimburse him for the attorney's fees he incurred in the defense of the Therien lawsuit, as he was a member of the Board at the time the suit was filed. Respondent Board refused to indemnify Gunther maintaining that Gunther was not acting within the course of his duties by obtaining and disseminating information about Therien.
7. On September 6, 2002, Petitioner filed a "Petition of Appeal" from the Respondent Board's refusal to pay his legal fees in defense of the Therien lawsuit. (J-1)

LEGAL ANALYSIS

The following pleadings were considered in rendering this Initial Decision granting respondent's motion for summary decision:

*petitioner's in limine motion and certification in support of same received on December 29, 2003;
*respondent's opposition to petitioner's in limine motion to bar evidence and cross motions for summary decision and to quash subpoenas received on January 7, 2004;
*petitioner's opposition to respondent's cross motions received on January 20, 2004;
*respondent's reply to opposition to motion for summary decision received on January 30, 2004;
*petitioner's sur-reply received on February 9, 2004; and *further legal argument submitted by respondent by date of May 5, 2004.

PETITIONER'S MOTION TO BAR EVIDENCE

Petitioner asserts that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20, the Board must, as a matter of law, indemnify a member of a Board of Education when he or she is sued by reason of such membership.[12] In addition, he asserts that evidence of the petitioner's later indictment violates the Superior Court Order expunging the indictment, is irrelevant to the reimbursement issue and violates N.J.R.E. 403(a)(b). Petitioner cites N.J.S.A. 2C:52-15 for the premise that after expungement, criminal records may no longer be disclosed and in response to an inquiry, the custodian must state there is "no record information." He further contends that disclosure of the existence of an arrest, conviction or legal proceeding with knowledge that the Expungement Order has been granted is a disorderly persons offense pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:52-30. In addition, petitioner asserts that disclosure of his entry into PTI violates confidentiality provisions set forth at R. 3:28(c)(5). Finally he asserts that the prejudice to petitioner in disclosing the indictment, expungement and entry into PTI far outweighs the probative value of such information.

[12] This issue will be further addressed below as part of the cross motion for summary decision.

Respondent asserts the Order of Expungement is inapplicable in this proceeding as an Order of Expungement only affects the ability of law enforcement personnel and criminal justice agencies to release expunged materials. Respondent relies on EA v New Jersey Real Estate Comm'n wherein the Appellate Division agreed with the lower court ruling that because the N.J.R.E.C. was not a law enforcement agency, it was beyond the reach of and not subject to the Expungement Order. 208 NJ Super. 65 (App Dive.) certif. denied 104 NJ 415(1986). The Court further found that plaintiff's claims of a violation of the Expungement Order had no merit and affirmed the dismissal of the plaintiff's complaint. Respondent asserts that in this matter, there are no issues whether law enforcement agencies or criminal justice agencies are releasing information. The dispute involves the Howell Township Board of Education, which is not subject to any of the confidentiality provisions of the expungement statute and order, and therefore the evidence is not barred. In addition, any bar that may have existed regarding the admissibility of the evidence related to the indictment and petitioner's entry into PTI has been waived by him by the filing of this petition of appeal.[13] Respondent asserts that petitioner cannot be permitted to place conduct at issue by raising the issue of entitlement to indemnification from the Board and then attempt to prevent the Board from addressing that issue. Petitioner has waived any bar that may have existed with respect to evidence of his alleged criminal conduct and entry into PTI. Respondent analogizes the factual scenario herein to an attorney malpractice lawsuit where confidential communications would have to be revealed to the Court in order to be able to adequately defend the malpractice allegation.

The language from United Jersey Bank v Wolosoff, 196 N.J. Super 553, 567 (App Div 1984) referenced by respondent merits recitation.

> . . .We note the inherent inequity in permitting plaintiff to use the privilege as a sword rather than a shield. If permitted to do so, plaintiff could [13] Respondent stresses that it does not seek to admit into evidence the particulars regarding petitioner's entry into and completion of PTI. Rather, the only evidence it seeks to admit regarding petitioner's admission into PTI is the fact that he was admitted and the conditions of admission, both of which are matters of public record.

> divulge whatever information is favorable to its position and assert the privilege to preclude disclosure of the detrimental facts. The resulting half-truth that would be revealed might well be more disabling than a total distortion. We are persuaded that when confidential communications are made a material issue in a judicial proceeding, fairness demands waiver of the privilege.

Based on the foregoing, I FIND and CONCLUDE that petitioner has waived any bar that may have existed by placing his conduct at issue in this matter seeking reimbursement of attorneys' fees, that the respondent is beyond the reach of the Expungement Order and the fact that petitioner was admitted into PTI and the reasons thereof, are a matter of public record. Thus, the motion to bar testimony concerning: petitioner's alleged violation of Board policy #20[14] and the Board Member Code of Ethics;[15] the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office return of an indictment against the petitioner; the petitioner having entered the Monmouth County Pretrial Intervention Program; and proof concerning allegations of defamation, tortious interference, etc. as set forth in the Complaint filed in the Monmouth County Superior Court by Robert S. Therien and Colleen Therien (Dkt. No. L-1847-00) is hereby DENIED.

RESPONDENT'S CROSS MOTION FOR SUMMARY DECISION

Respondent seeks summary decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. In support thereof, the Board asserts petitioner is attempting to obfuscate the basis for the underlying Therien complaint in order to obtain indemnification for attorneys' fees. Respondent refers to the pleading filed by Gunther in connection with the underlying Therien matter. Specifically, in the statement of material facts pursuant to R. 4:46-2 in support of Gunther's procedural motions to dismiss the Therien civil suit, the following is indicated:

[14] Board policy #20 provides that Board members "have no authority as individuals except when authorized by the Board." See Answer to Petition.

[15] Section 10 of By-Law No. 31 of the Board Member Code of Ethics, provides as to each member, "I recognize that Authority rests with the whole Board assembled in [a] public meeting and will make no personal promises nor take any private action which may compromise the Board." Section 12 provides, "The Board will hold confidential all matters pertaining to the schools which, if disclosed, would needlessly injure individuals or the schools." See Answer to the Petition.

4. Plaintiffs alleged that defendant, Mr. Gunther, was a patrolman of the defendant, Howell Township Police Department, and also a member of the defendant, Howell Township, Board of Education. (Certification of Mr. Waldman, Exhibit B, Paras. 10 & 11)[16]

5. Plaintiffs alleged that defendant, Mr. Gunther, unlawfully forwarded the information to third parties at meetings of the defendant, Howell Township Board of Education. (Certification of Mr. Waldman, Exhibit B, para. 12)[17]

6. Plaintiffs admit they knew the above information was forwarded to defendant Howell Township Board of Education, between June 1997 and October 1997. (Certification of Mr. Waldman, Exhibit B, Para 13)[18]

7. Plaintiffs allege that, as a result of the disseminated information, plaintiff, Mr. Therien, was forced to resign his position with defendant, Howell Township Board Education, in December 1997. (Certification of Mr. Waldman, Exhibit B, para. 14)[19]

---

[16] Exhibit B of Mr. Waldman's certification attaches the Therien amended civil complaint. Paragraphs 10 and 11 provide,

> 10. At times unknown to Plaintiffs, Defendant Gunther and/or John Does 1-10 unlawfully obtained confidential information regarding Plaintiff Robert S. Therien, Jr. from the Howell Township Board of Education's files.
>
> 11. At times unknown to Plaintiffs, Defendant Gunther and/or John Does 1-10 unlawfully obtained information regarding Plaintiff Colleen A. Therien from unknown sources.

[17] Exhibit B of Mr. Waldman's certification attaches the Therien amended civil complaint. Paragraph 12 provides > Thereafter, Defendants Gunther and/or John Does One through Ten unlawfully forwarded the information to a third party and/or third parties at Holland Township Board of Education meetings held between June of 1997 and October 1997.

[18] Paragraph 13 of the Therien amended civil complaint provides > 13. Although Plaintiffs knew that said confidential information was forwarded to the Howell Township Board of Education between June of 1997 and October of 1997, plaintiffs did not know that Defendants Gunther and/or John Does 1-10 were responsible for unlawfully obtaining the information and for unlawfully forwarding the information until on or about April 7, 1999.

[19] Exhibit B of Mr. Waldman's certification is paragraph 14 of the Therien amended civil complaint. It provides,

> Due to the unlawful actions of Defendants Michael Gunther and John Does One through Ten, Plaintiff Robert S. Therien, Jr. was forced to resign from his position with the Howell Township Board of Education in December of 1997.

8. Stephen Pepe, Esquire, former attorney of plaintiffs, by letters advised the defendant, Howell Township Police Department, of the unlawful dissemination of the police department records and reports in September 1997. (Certification of Mr. Waldman, Exhibit C, attaching three September 1997 letters of Mr. Pepe)[20] ...

[20] By letter of September 18, 1997, Mr. Pepe advised Chief of Police Ronald Carter, in pertinent part,

> My client is a custodian employed by the Board. Recently, members of the Board of Education of Howell Township were handed a copy of a Howell Township Police Department Investigative Report, dated November 18, 1987, concerning a very foolish act by my client, approximately ten years ago. We are very concerned as to how this material was removed from the Howell Township Board of Education. I enclose for you a front page copy of the report indicating in fact this is a report that was given to the members of the Board of Education. I would appreciate it if you would advise me as to the status of your investigation with regards to this matter and what action, if any, has been taken.
> Additionally, it has also come to our attention that a copy of my client's driver's abstract has been turned over to members of the Board of Education. Again, it is our understanding that this came from the Howell Township Police Department. Please advise me as to the authority upon which an abstract of my client's driving record was obtained and under whose authority was it turned over to the members of the Howell Township Board of Education.

By letter of September 19, 1997 to Chief Carter, Mr. Pepe wrote,

> Please be advised that I represent Alphosne Trocchia , Jr., on certain matters involving his position in the Howell Township Board of Education. My client is an employee of the Howell Township Board of Education and was recently asked to provide certain information to the Superintendent of Schools. I enclose for you a list of the materials that was requested from my client. While my client takes no issue in providing most of the information to the Board of Education, we are somewhat concerned about the attempt to influence him in some fashion by placing it on Police Department Momouth County Uniform Crime Report, stationery. It is our understanding that this material came from the Howell Township Police Department. We are concerned about the fact that someone within the police department would be utilizing their stationery in an attempt influence my particular client. ...

Finally, by letter of September 24, 1997, Mr. Pepe advised Chief Carter,

> I had just written to you with regards to Mr. Therien, in a matter going back to 1987. Additionally, turned over to the Board of Education was a motor vehicle incident report concerning Mr. Therien, of a minor motor vehicle accident which occurred on February 8, 1994. If you will note on the copy, I have attached hereto and made a part hereof, this matter was obviously called up on July 28, 1997, somewhere in the Howell Township Police Department. We are at a loss to understand how this material is being turned over to members of the Howell Township Board of Education. ...

13. Defendant, Michael Gunther, was an employee of the defendant, Howell Township Police Department as a patrolman, and an agent of the defendant, Howell Township Board of Education, as a board member.

14. Defendant, Howell Township Police Department, began an internal investigation within its department in late September 1997 as a result of the letters from Stephen Pepe, Esquire, on behalf of the plaintiffs. The internal investigation was directed to Mr. Pepe's allegations that police information and reports were leaving the defendant, Howell Township Police Department and being turned over to defendant Howell Township BOE. The internal investigation resulted in defendant, Mr. Gunther being responsible. (Certification of Mr. Waldman, Exhibit E, Cert. of Captain Bryan Ehret.)[21]

---

[21] Exhibit E, which was filed in support of the Township of Howell and the Howell Police Department's motion for summary judgment provides in its entirety,

Bryan Ehret, of full age, hereby certifies:

1. I am a Captain of the Howell Township Police Department and as such am fully familiar with the facts herein.
2. On or about September 29, 1997, I began an internal affairs investigation at the direction of Chief Ronald Carter as a result of receiving three (3) letters of complaint from a Mr. Stephen Pepe, Esq., an attorney representing Board of Education employees, one of whom was Plaintiff, Robert Therien, Jr.
3. The allegations brought forth by Mr. Pepe were that police information and reports were leaving the Howell Township Police Department and being turned over to the Howell Township Board of Education.
4. My investigation revealed that Defendant Gunther, a Howell Township Patrolman, was responsible for the release of police information and reports from the Howell Township Police Department to the Howell Township Board of Education.
5. Howell Township Police Department Rules and Regulations 4.1.3 entitled "Obedience to Laws and Rules" states that members and employees shall obey all laws, ordinances, rules, policies and procedures and directives of the Department.
6. Howell Township Police Department Rules and Regulations 4.3.1 entitled "Release of Information" states that members shall not release any information nor reveal any confidential business of the Department to the public or the press except as provided in Department policy or procedure.
7. Howell Township Police Department Rules and Regulations 4.3.2 entitled "Department Records" states that contents of any record or report filed within the Department shall not be exhibited or divulged to any person other than a duly authorized police officer, except with the approval of the appropriate superior officer or under due process of law, or as permitted, under Departmental policy or procedures.
8. Howell Township Police Department Rules and Regulations 4.8.5 entitled "Use of Department Property and Equipment" states that members shall not use any Department property or equipment for personal business or pleasure.
9. Howell Township Police Department Rules and Regulations 4.12.6 entitled "Truthfulness" states that members are required to be truthful at all times whether under oath or not.
10. As a result of my investigation, it was determined that Defendant Gunther violated the above-referenced Department Rules and Regulations by his actions.
11. Additionally, as a result of his actions, Defendant Gunther was indicted by a grand jury.

Further, respondent asserts that the underlying factual conduct in the indictment deals with Gunther's procurement of documents relating to Therien. Respondent contends that petitioner's assertion that Assistant Superintendent/Board Secretary Herbert Massa disseminated the information ignores the fact that Gunther illegally obtained the documents and disseminated them to Board members. He also improperly obtained the results of a drug test administered to Mr. Therien.

Petitioner asserts that the mere fact he was a Board member entitles him to indemnification pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20, which provides,

> Whenever a civil, administrative, criminal or quasi-criminal action or other legal proceeding has been or shall be brought against any person for any act or omission arising out of and in the course of the performance of his duties as a member of a board of education, and in the case of a criminal or quasi-criminal action such action results in final disposition in favor of such person, the board of education shall defray all costs of defending such action, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses, together with costs of appeal, if any, and shall save harmless and protect such person from any financial loss resulting there from. Indemnification for exemplary or punitive damages shall not be mandated and shall be governed by the standards and procedures set forth in N.J.S.A. 59:10-4. Any board of education may arrange for and maintain appropriate insurance to coverall all such damages, loses and expenses.

He further asserts that neither the allegations of the underlying complaint filed by the Theriens nor the Board policies are pertinent to his right to reimbursement as, he contends, the filing of the complaint obligates the Board to indemnify him. He also cites his previous argument in support of his in limine motion to bar evidence.

I hereby certify that the statements made by me are true. I am aware that if any of the statements made by me are willfully false, I am subject to punishment.

Respondent asserts that as a matter of law, unlawfully obtaining and disseminating records cannot be construed as "arising out of and in the course of the performance of his duties as a member of a board of education." Additionally, respondent asserts that the unfavorable disposition of the indictment, vis `a vis , entry into PTI, is dispositive on the issue against indemnification. Respondent cites Cressinger v Bd of Educ. of City of Newark, 225 N.J. Super 155, 157 (App. Div. 1992) and Grant v Board of Education of the Township of Green Brook, Docket No. A-2109-01T2 (App. Div., March 11, 2003.)

N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 sets forth the standard for consideration of a summary decision motion. The standard in this administrative setting is the same standard as set forth in the New Jersey Court Rules, R. 4:46-2 for summary judgment motions. Paragraph b of that rule sets forth the requirements in opposing a summary judgment motion.

> A party opposing the motion shall file a responding statement either admitting or disputing each of the facts in the movant's statement. Subject to R. 4:46-5(a),[22] all material facts in the movant's statement which are sufficiently supported will be deemed admitted for purpose of the motion only, unless specifically disputed by citation conforming to the requirements of paragraph (a) demonstrating the existence of a genuine issue as to the fact. An opposing party may also include in the responding statement additional facts that the party contends are material and as to which there exists a genuine issue. Each such fact shall be stated in separately numbered paragraphs together with citations to the motion record.

[22] R. 4:46-5(a) provides,

> Specific Facts Required of Adverse Party unless Affidavits are Unavailable. When a motion for summary judgment is made and supported as provided in this rule, an adverse party may not rest upon the mere allegation or denials of the pleading, but must respond by affidavits meeting the requirements of R. 1:6-6 or as otherwise provided in this rule and by R. 4:46-2(b), setting forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial. If the adverse party does not respond, summary judgment, if appropriate, shall be entered, unless it appears from the affidavits submitted for reasons therein stated, that the party was unable to present by affidavits facts essential to justify opposition, in which case the court may deny the motion, may order a continuance to permit additional affidavits to be obtained, depositions to be taken or discovery to be had, or may make such other order as may be appropriate.

Similarly, N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 (b) provides, in pertinent part,

> .... When a motion for summary decision is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. If the adverse party does not so respond, a summary decision, if appropriate, shall be entered.

The petitioner herein, who bears the burden of proof in this administrative proceeding seeking indemnification of counsel fees, never submits an affidavit setting forth the existence of a genuine issue of fact.

Ultimately, respondent's motion must be granted as there can be no indemnification pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20 because petitioner's entry into PTI is not, as a matter of law, a favorable disposition. In Cressinger, supra, the Appellate Division upheld the lower court ruling interpreting a similar statute[23] whereby the court found that successful completion of PTI by an employee of a school board was not a favorable termination of the criminal proceeding and he was not entitled to reimbursement of counsel fees pursuant to that statute. Similarly, the Appellate Division favorably quoted from a lower court ruling[24] interpreting a statute[25] which provided for indemnification to police officers when criminal charges were dismissed or determined in the officer's favor.

[23] N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1. This statute provided,

> Should any criminal action be instituted against any ... person [holding any office, position, or employment under the jurisdiction of any board of education] for any ... act or omission [arising out of and in the performance of his duties; and should such proceeding be dismissed or result in a final disposition in favor of such person, the board of education shall reimburse him for the cost of defending such proceeding, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses of the original hearing or trial and all appeals.

[24] Kerwick v Trenton, 184 NJ Super 235 (Law Div. 1982)

[25] N.J.S.A. 40A:14-155

> Clearly the statute intends that only an exoneration of the officer will entitle him to reimbursement of legal expenses. By taking advantage of ... diversionary treatment plaintiff cannot use a legal fiction to support a conclusion that there was a final determination in his favor. Disposition in his favor means exculpation and not some lesser degree of success.[26]

DECISION AND ORDER

Respondent's motion for summary decision dismissing the within matter as petitioner is not entitled to indemnification pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-20 is hereby GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Record Closed: July 28, 2005 Decided: August 4, 2005

BEFORE JESSE H. STRAUSS, ALJ:

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on August 17, 2004 for determination as a contested case. A hearing scheduled for December 23, 2004 was adjourned by the respondent due to the unavailability of essential witnesses. The record opened on February 9, 2005 and the matter was continued to March 3, 2005.

However, on March 2, 2005 the parties were able to resolve the matter. The parties submitted a signed Settlement Agreement on April 21, 2005 whereafter the undersigned issued an Initial Decision- Settlement on April 25, 2005. The Commissioner remanded the matter for revision of the Settlement Agreement to include either the Board attorney's signature or a Board resolution approving the settlement and designating Dr. Kliszus to sign on behalf of the Board. The Board has submitted a modified Settlement Agreement bearing the signature of Mark A. Wenczel, Esq., Attorney for the Belleville Board of Education, attached hereto. Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures and/or signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. O.F on behalf of minor children, C.F., S.F. and K.F., Petitioner, v. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BELLEVILLE, ESSEX COUNTY, Respondent.	STATE OF NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION AGENCY DOCKET NO. 231-7/04 SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

WHEREAS this matter was brought before the court by the Petitioner for review of the Respondent's determination that his children, C.F., S.F. and K.F., were not domiciled in the Township of Belleville during the 2003-2004 school year and were therefore ineligible to attend the Belleville Public Schools during the 2003-2004 school year, and the Respondent, Belleville Board of Education, having filed an Answer and Counterclaim seeking tuition reimbursement in the amount of $21,778.00 for the attendance of C.F., S.F., and K.F. in the Belleville Public Schools during the 2003-2004 school year, and the parties having reached a settlement to amicably adjust their differences;

IT IS HEREBY AGREED AS FOLLOWS:

1. O.F. shall deliver the sum of $7,500.00 as full and final payment of tuition to the Belleville Board of Education for the education of his children, C.F., S.F. and K.F., by the Belleville Public Schools during the 2003-2004 school year.

2. The settlement sum referenced in paragraph 1 shall be paid in twelve (12) equal payments of $625.00 by check made payable to the Belleville Board of Education, delivered to Mark A. Wenczel, Esq., Gaccione, Pomaco & Malanga, 524 Union Avenue, Belleville, New Jersey 07109 as follows:

A. $625.00 on or before March 11, 2005 followed by monthly payments on or before the first of each month thereafter through and including February 1, 2006, or until the settlement sum is paid in full.

3. If O.F. should fail to make any required payment as specified in this agreement, the Respondent may obtain a judgment for the entire amount of tuition claimed due in the Respondent's Answer and Counterclaim (i.e. $21,778.00, less credit for any payments made) by submitting a certification to the Court, certifying to the Petitioner's default.

4. Both parties acknowledge to having been represented by counsel of their choice in this matter and to having had the terms and significance of this Settlement Agreement explained to them prior to signing it.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE FREEHOLD REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
KATHLEEN CONNNORS RYAN,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

For Petitioner, Stephen J. Edelstein, Esq. (Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler)
For Respondent, Joyce Wan, DAG (Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General)

This matter was initiated by way of the filing of a Petition of Appeal with Application for Emergent Relief on August 5, 2005 by the Board of Education of the Freehold Regional High School District (Board). As set forth by the Board in its petition, respondent was employed as a teacher by the Board from September 12, 1977 through September 2, 1991. (Petition at 2) In or about February 1990, the Board granted respondent a leave of absence for maternity and child care purposes through September 1, 1990. (Ibid.) Respondent's leave of absence was subsequently extended through June 30, 1991. (Ibid.) When respondent requested an additional extension of her leave of absence through September 1, 1992, the Board denied her request. (Ibid.) On September 3, 1991, respondent notified the Board that she would not report for duty pursuant to her rights under the New Jersey Family Leave Act (FLA). (Ibid.) In January 1992, respondent petitioned the Commissioner for an order compelling the Board to grant her request for an extension of her leave of absence. (Id. at 3) About the same time, the Board filed tenure charges against respondent for abandoning her teaching position and for insubordination. (Ibid.) These two petitions were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing, and were then consolidated. (Ibid.) The parties subsequently reached a settlement agreement wherein respondent agreed to submit an irrevocable letter of resignation from the District with an effective date of June 30, 1991 (the effective date was later modified by mutual agreement) and withdraw her FLA claims. (Ibid. and Exhibit C) The Board agreed to withdraw its tenure charges and to provide respondent a letter of recommendation with agreed-upon language. (Ibid.)

Six years later, in July 1999, respondent applied for a psychology teaching job in the District. (Id. at 4) The Board avers that respondent did not mention in her application letter, resume or interview that she had previously tendered an irrevocable letter of resignation, and that the individuals who were responsible for recruiting in 1999 were thus unaware that respondent had previously tendered an irrevocable letter of resignation. (Id. at 4-5) The Board further asserts that respondent did not interview well and that she was, therefore, not hired for the position. (Id. at 5-6) Instead, a teacher was transferred from the Marlboro High School to fill the position and the Board hired two individuals to fill the vacancy created by the transfer. (Id. at 6)

In or about July 2000, respondent filed a Verified Complaint with the Division on Civil Rights (DCR) alleging that: 1) the Board discriminated against her on the basis of her sex by denying her employment application and hiring two less qualified males to fill the positions in violation of the Law Against Discrimination (LAD); and 2) she was denied employment in reprisal for previously filing a discrimination complaint against the Board. (Id. at 6-7) In February 2001, respondent amended her complaint, changing her reprisal allegations to read that the Board had retaliated against her for previously filing an action based on the denial of leave under the FLA. (Id. at 7) On May 12, 2005, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) hearing the matter issued an Initial Decision wherein he concluded that respondent had established a prima facie case of sexual discrimination and found that the legitimate, articulated reason provided by the Board for not hiring respondent "was merely a pretext for improper retaliatory intent." (Exhibit M, Initial Decision at 13-16) As a result, the ALJ recommended to the Director of the DCR that the Board be ordered to pay respondent $50,000 in compensatory damages; back pay, with interest, in the amount of $102,763.95; penalties of $12,000; and reasonable attorney fees and costs. (Id. at 17-19) Moreover, the ALJ found that respondent should be hired by the Board for a position sufficiently similar to the one she was wrongfully denied when such position becomes available and that back pay should continue until such time as respondent is so hired. (Id. at 18)

In the instant matter, the Board claims that respondent's failure to disclose the parties' 1993 settlement agreement and the Commissioner's decision approving the settlement when she applied for the vacant teaching position in 1999 constitutes conduct unbecoming a teacher and it seeks an order from the Commissioner that:

> 1) declares respondent unfit and/or unqualified to teach in the district;
> 2) enforces the parties' 1993 settlement agreement, including respondent's irrevocable resignation;
> 3) rejects "Judge Fidler's Initial Decision in its entirety and dismiss[es] Ryan's LAD and FLA claims with prejudice" and
> 4) grants other relief as the Commissioner deems just and equitable, including an award of fees and costs to the Board."
> (Verified Petition and Application for Emergent Relief at 10-15)

In reviewing the petition, there was a question as to whether the Commissioner has jurisdiction to consider this matter, particularly with respect to the rejection of an Initial Decision issued in respondent's LAD and FLA claim filed with DCR. Accordingly, by letter of August 9, 2005, the Acting Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes established a briefing schedule whereby the parties could brief the issue of the Commissioner's jurisdiction to consider this matter. The Board, therefore, was requested to submit a memorandum of law or letter brief addressing why the Commissioner should not dismiss the within petition and emergent relief application for lack of jurisdiction in that the relief sought is: 1) an enforcement of a 1993 settlement agreement, which, under N.J. Court Rule 4:67-6, is a matter for New Jersey Superior Court; and 2) the rejection of an Initial Decision in a matter transmitted to the OAL by a different agency. Respondent was provided an opportunity to respond to the Board's arguments.[1]

In its submission, filed August 22, 2005, the Board contends that the principal relief it is seeking is a determination that respondent's dishonesty in not disclosing her previous settlement agreement with the Board and irrevocable resignation from the District when she applied for a teaching position in 1999 made her unqualified and unfit to teach in the Freehold Regional High School District. (Board's Brief at 2) The Board states that enforcement of the 1993 settlement is a secondary issue. (Ibid.) In support of its primary issue, the Board argues that respondent's fitness to teach clearly falls within the Commissioner's jurisdiction and is the gateway through which respondent must pass to reach the civil rights issues. (Ibid.) The Board points out that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 gives the Commissioner jurisdiction to hear and determine all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. (Id. at 4) Moreover, pointing to N.J.S.A. 18:6-16, governing tenure charges, and N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.23, governing appeals of Board of Examiners' decisions regarding certifications, the Board asserts that it is well-established that the school laws impart upon the Commissioner the duty to determine whether an individual is qualified for employment in the public schools and that the Commissioner has exclusive jurisdiction to determine fitness for teaching. (Id. at 4-5) Finally, citing two tenure cases and a case involving a claim of violation of tenure rights, the Board claims that submitting false information or omitting pertinent facts on an application for employment may constitute conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member. (Id. at 5)

[1] It is noted that both parties requested and received approvals for extensions of time in which to file the requested briefs. Additionally, the Board requested and received approval to file an additional brief in reply to respondent's brief.

In reply, respondent[2] states that she filed a complaint with the DCR on July 29, 2000 alleging that the Board discriminated against her in employment on account of her sex and in reprisal for filing a previous action under the New Jersey FLA in violation of the LAD. (Respondent's Brief at 2-3) After investigation, the Director of the DCR issued a finding of probable cause on July 10, 2001, crediting respondent's allegations. (Id. at 3) The matter was then transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on August 12, 2003, and was heard as a contested case on March 31 and April 1, 2004. (Ibid.) Respondent avers that at no time during the pendency of this action did the Board raise any issue about, or in any way question, her fitness to teach. (Ibid.) Respondent reiterates that the ALJ's Initial Decision found that the Board had failed to hire respondent in 1999 on the basis of her sex and in reprisal for attempting to invoke her perceived rights under the FLA in 1991, and determined that she was entitled to, inter alia, back pay, damages and reinstatement to a position similar to the one she was denied at such time as a comparable position becomes available. (Ibid.) The final decision of the Director of the DCR is expected on September 26, 2005. (Id. at 4)

With respect to the Commissioner's jurisdiction to consider this matter, respondent asserts that there is absolutely no legal basis for the Commissioner to disturb the process for litigating civil rights cases and points out that the Board cites no authority for such intervention. (Ibid.) Respondent also points out that the rule for emergent relief specifically states that emergent relief may be granted where authorized by law, yet there is no law that authorizes the Commissioner to grant emergent relief in a matter under the jurisdiction of a completely different state agency. (Ibid.) Moreover, citing N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(a), respondent contends that the Commissioner may only consider emergent relief if (s)he is already involved in the contested case. (Id. at 5) Since the contested case in this matter is before DCR, respondent avers that the Commissioner has no authority to grant the emergent relief sought.

Finally, respondent contends that the motivation behind the Board's request before the Commissioner is the desire to circumvent the DCR litigation, which is based upon rights to which she is entitled pursuant to the LAD and FLA. (Id. at 5-6) Having failed to challenge her fitness to teach during the DCR litigation at the OAL, respondent claims, the Board is now seeking to "get a second bite at the apple." (Ibid.) According to respondent, the Board asks the Commissioner to take ultra vires action in a vain attempt to undermine the statutory authority of DCR to enforce the LAD and the FLA. (Ibid.)

In a response submitted on September 16, 2005, the Board claims that respondent's opposition papers are deficient in that respondent makes no attempt to oppose the Board's contention that she is unfit to teach within the District, nor does she dispute that she failed to disclose pertinent information about her background or that she exhibited conduct unbecoming of a teacher as a result of such omissions. (Board's Reply Brief at 2) In this regard, the Board asserts that, because respondent misrepresented her background by omitting the information that tenure charges had previously been filed against her by the District and omitting the information that she had entered into a settlement agreement which resulted in her irrevocable resignation, the Board was released of any obligation to hire her for a teaching job in 1999. (Ibid.) Accordingly, the Board argues, respondent's discrimination claims against the Board should have never reached the DCR. (Ibid.)

Moreover, the Board points out that respondent failed to dispute the irreparable injury the Board will suffer as a result of continuation of respondent's claims with the DCR if the Board is forced to place an unfit and unqualified teacher in a classroom, which would be detrimental to the students and the community. (Id. at 2-3) The Board further argues that respondent's allegations that it is trying to circumvent its obligations and undermine the authority of the DCR to enforce the LAD and FLA is nothing more than an attempt to portray the Board in a bad light and confuse the true issues presented in its petition, i.e., the Commissioner is responsible for determining an individual's fitness to teach in a public school. (Id. at 3) Thus, the Board avers that it was not required to raise the question of respondent's fitness to teach in the DCR proceedings, asserting that, instead, it is an issue that should be decided through the Board's application for emergent relief. (Ibid.) "The importance of protecting school districts from unfit and unqualified teachers," the Board argues, "takes precedence over the non-existent rights of Ryan [respondent]." (Ibid.)

Upon a thorough review of the parties' submissions, the Commissioner finds no basis upon which she may consider the issues raised or grant the relief sought by the Board in this matter. Initially, with respect to whether the Commissioner may declare an individual unfit to teach, the circumstances under which the Commissioner may render such a determination are specifically set forth in statute; for example: as the result of tenure charges against a teaching staff member that have been certified to and sustained by the Commissioner; as the result of a criminal history background check; as the result of a psychiatric exam; or in the course of a review of an appeal of a denial of issuance of certification by the State Board of Examiners (SBE),[3] etc. The Board has not provided any statutory authority, nor is the Commissioner aware of any, which would authorize the Commissioner to make such a determination under the circumstances presented herein. Moreover, as stated above, under N.J. Court Rule 4:67-6, enforcement of a settlement agreement is a matter for the New Jersey Superior Court. Thus, the Commissioner is not authorized to enforce the 1993 settlement agreement. Certainly, there is no legal basis or statutory authority that would permit the Commissioner to effectively usurp the jurisdiction of a completely different State agency by "rejecting" the Initial Decision rendered in a contested case over which that agency has taken jurisdiction. Accordingly, as the Board has failed to state a claim which the Commissioner may grant, the petition must be dismissed.

[3] The Commissioner notes that, in contrast to SBE denial of issuance of certification determinations, suspension or revocation determinations of the SBE are appealable to the State Board of Education.

Finally, an application for emergent for relief may be considered pending the Commissioner's final decision in a contested case. See N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(a). In that the Commissioner has determined to dismiss the petition in this matter, and in that there is no authority for the Commissioner to grant emergent relief in a contested matter before another State agency, the Board's request for emergent relief is concomitantly denied.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, the Board's request for emergent relief is denied and the appeal in this matter is dismissed in its entirety for failure to state a claim upon which relief may be granted by the Commissioner.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board, together with parents of three student-athletes, sought waiver of the "70% Rule" of the New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA), which requires that a school play at least 70% of its regular season games against New Jersey schools in order to compete for a State championship. The request was based on a claim of hardship resulting from the extensive travel necessary to play New Jersey schools, and the availability of Pennsylvania schools in closer geographic proximity.

Pursuant to procedural rules agreed to by the parties, the NJSIAA Special Committee on Leagues and Conferences (SCLC) heard petitioners' request. The SCLC's denial was upheld by NJSIAA's Executive Committee on grounds that Phillipsburg's hardship was not significantly greater than that of other member schools, and that the school's reduced availability for New Jersey play would negatively impact on the Skyland Conference of which it is presently a member.

On appeal, the Commissioner upheld NJSIAA's position that: 1) the 70% Rule applies to Phillipsburg; 2) the prior grant of a waiver to the Moorestown Friends School does not compel a similar grant to Phillipsburg; 3) NJSIAA is entitled to bring broader policy considerations into its decisions in matters of this type; and 4) the Commissioner's review is to be conducted under the established "arbitrary and capricious" standard. However, due to procedural deficiencies in the NJSIAA hearings relating to the participation of Skyland Conference officials and the involvement of SCLC members in Executive Committee deliberations, the Commissioner remanded the matter to NJSIAA for proceedings as necessary to make a decision in the first instance—based upon a properly developed factual record, with no ambiguity as to appearance(s) by the adverse party(ies), full opportunity for prehearing discovery of the testimony and evidence to be relied upon by the party(ies), and recusal of Executive Committee members who are also members of the SCLC—as to whether Phillipsburg's situation is, in fact, so extreme relative to other member schools, that the hardship imposed on it by the 70% Rule outweighs any hardship that will result from its reduced availability for in-state play if a waiver is granted. Petitioners' federal claims were preserved for future litigation, and their claims with respect to NJSIAA's assessment of legal fees were reserved for such appeal of NJSIAA's decision on remand as petitioners deem warranted.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

For Petitioners, David B. Rubin, Esq.

For Respondent, Michael J. Herbert, Esq. (Herbert, Van Ness, Cayci & Goodell)

This matter came before the Commissioner of Education on October 3, 2003, through the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Phillipsburg Board of Education and three citizen-taxpayers who are also parents of minor student-athletes attending the Phillipsburg public schools ("petitioners"). In their filing, petitioners sought declarations invalidating: 1) the so-called "70% Rule" of the New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA),[1] either on its face or as applied to petitioners; and 2) Article XIII, Section 8 of NJSIAA's bylaws,[2] either on its face or as applied to appeals which are non-frivolous and brought in good faith. Petitioners sought a plenary hearing before the Commissioner because they were not appealing from a quasi-judicial determination of NJSIAA based on an existing evidentiary record, as contemplated by then-applicable rules for the hearing of appeals from NJSIAA decisions, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.1 et seq. (31 N.J.R. 4173(a), 32 N.J.R. 1177(a)) However, the parties and the Department subsequently agreed that, in lieu of a plenary hearing at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), NJSIAA would: 1) convene its Special Committee on Leagues and Conferences (SCLC) to conduct a quasi-judicial hearing—complete with a record, sworn testimony and discovery rights comparable to those of an OAL hearing—prior to issuing a recommendation on petitioners' request for a waiver of the 70% Rule; and 2) render a final decision through its Executive Committee which would then be appealable to the Commissioner in accordance with the above-noted rules.[3] Pursuant to this procedure, a hearing before the SCLC was duly held on October 6, 2004, resulting in a written decision of November 9, 2004 recommending denial of petitioners' request; the Executive Committee adopted this recommendation as NJSIAA's final decision on January 12, 2005. On February 15, 2005, petitioners filed an Amended Petition of Appeal retaining the substance of their original submission and additionally pressing claims arising from subsequent proceedings at NJSIAA; NJSIAA's Answer, the Record on Appeal, and briefs setting forth the positions of the parties were then filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.1 et seq.

[1] Requires that, in order to compete in State tournament games, an entrant must have competed against New Jersey schools in 70% or more of their regular season games.

[2] Provides that a member school will be assessed for NJSIAA's litigation expenses if it is unsuccessful in appealing an action or decision of NJSIAA.

[3] Appeals of the type filed by petitioners are now addressed by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.1(b)1, which requires aggrieved party(ies) and NJSIAA to make mutually acceptable provisions for a hearing at NJSIAA prior to any request for review by the Commissioner. 36 N.J.R. 5032(a), 37 N.J.R. 1051(b)

As part of the above-referenced discussions, it was agreed that the issue to be addressed during NJSIAA proceedings would be whether the impact of the 70% Rule upon the Phillipsburg Board of Education, when weighed against the impact upon other NJSIAA members and conferences, constituted undue hardship upon Phillipsburg. It was further agreed that the OAL standard for intervention would be liberalized to allow other districts, upon request, to present testimony and evidence at hearing, provided that any such district would be subject to pre-hearing discovery to the same extent as a party. Petitioners' federal claims and NJSIAA's defenses to them were preserved for future litigation.

Consistent with the above, in proceedings before NJSIAA, petitioners did not pursue the claim made in their petition that the 70% Rule was facially invalid; rather, they argued that it did not apply to Phillipsburg based on its legislative intent, or—if applicable—that it necessitated a waiver in Phillipsburg's case because of the demonstrably greater hardship imposed on the district's student-athletes relative to others in purportedly similar situations, and because of the precedent set by a prior waiver granted to Moorestown Friends School, a private religiously affiliated school (Moorestown). Petitioners deferred addressing their other claims, and, in their brief before the Commissioner on appeal (at 45), indicated that they continued to reserve their constitutional claims and would withhold argument, if not otherwise directed, on NJSIAA's assessment of litigation costs unless and until NJSIAA prevailed on the issue of the 70% Rule.

BACKGROUND OF THE DISPUTE

The following undisputed facts are necessary to an understanding of the present controversy:

1. Phillipsburg High School is a Group IV NJSIAA member school located along the Delaware River in Warren County, across from Easton, Pennsylvania. It is contained within a legislatively designated "Abbott" school district (N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3) and serves a community with longstanding ties to Pennsylvania's Lehigh Valley.

2. Prior to 1976, Phillipsburg belonged to football conferences (Big 4 and Big 5) in which all other members were Pennsylvania schools. During the 1970s, Phillipsburg was a "football powerhouse."

3. Beginning in 1976, Phillipsburg was a member of Pennsylvania's East Penn Conference (predecessor to the Lehigh Valley Athletic Conference) for football, having joined for basketball in 1963 and baseball in 1958. The school was permitted by NJSIAA to engage in New Jersey championship competition, which it did as a "powerhouse" team for several years; however, in 1980 an NJSIAA rule was adopted requiring entrants into championship games to have played at least 50% of their regular season games against New Jersey schools, and in the 1982 settlement of Phillipsburg's challenge to that rule, the school was barred from NJSIAA championship play in football, although an exception was made for other sports with the admonition that Phillipsburg was required to make a concerted effort to increase scheduling within New Jersey schools whenever possible.

4. When the East Penn conference increased its required regular season schedule in 1982-83 beyond the nine games permitted by NJSIAA, Phillipsburg was granted an exception from the nine-game rule due to the school's unique circumstances: These were identified as location, unavailability of regular season contests with reasonably close New Jersey Schools of comparable size, and the requirements of the Pennsylvania conference to which the school then belonged. In subsequent years, NJSIAA continued to grant nine-game-rule waivers to Phillipsburg to enable it to comply with the East Penn schedule.

5. In 1987, Phillipsburg applied for membership in New Jersey's then-existing Mid-State Conference, but was rejected in part because Phillipsburg was too distant from the other members and in part because the conference wished to retain its ten-team structure. On appeal of the Conference's decision, NJSIAA granted Phillipsburg's request to join the Conference, so long as it adhered to the required nine-game schedule. Phillipsburg declined to meet this condition because it would mean relinquishing the annual Thanksgiving football game against Easton, Pennsylvania; it withdrew its request for Conference membership and elected to remain as a member of the East Penn Conference in Pennsylvania while still playing some games against NJSIAA schools.

6. In Fall 1995, because of the increasing difficulty in reconciling East Penn and NJSIAA requirements and the continuing impact of the 50% Rule on the school's ability to enter championship competition, Phillipsburg joined the newly-created Skyland Conference in New Jersey. This conference consisted of NJSIAA members in Somerset, Hunterdon and Warren Counties, essentially uniting the former Mid-State Conference (consisting primarily of Group III and IV schools) with the former Delaware River Conference (consisting primarily of Group I and II schools); its creation had been suggested in 1987 by Phillipsburg itself as a solution not only to its own situation, but to the problem generally of providing for meaningful athletic competition in the Northwest New Jersey region. The Skyland Conference arranged its schedule so that Phillipsburg could continue to play its traditional season-opening and Thanksgiving football games against Pennsylvania teams.

7. After a few years, Phillipsburg became dissatisfied with membership in the Skyland Conference and began exploring the possibility of returning to a Pennsylvania league through membership in the Lehigh Valley Athletic Conference, successor to the East Penn Conference. However, it has viewed NJSIAA's 70% Rule, adopted in 1999 as an amendment to the previously referenced 50% Rule, as an impediment to further consideration of this option, since, if Phillipsburg increases the number of regular season games it plays against Pennsylvania opponents, the 70% Rule—absent a waiver or finding of inapplicability—would prevent it from participating in New Jersey State championship competition.[4]

Petitioners take the position that Phillipsburg students suffer undue and ever-increasing hardship as a result of NJSIAA's requirement that they play 70% of their games in-state in order to be eligible for championship competition. They allege that the lack of nearby New Jersey opponents results in extraordinary travel times, necessitating that students: 1) miss classes (a problem made worse by the district's use of block scheduling); 2) lose the opportunity to use the district's after-school assistance programs; and 3) experience frequent late returns so as to deprive them of time needed for homework, study and rest. They also allege increased transportation costs and diminution of gate receipts which are used to offset the cost of the district's athletic programs, causing fiscal problems in an already stressed district as evidenced by its "Abbott" status. Petitioners contend that Phillipsburg's unique circumstances should compel that the school be permitted to enter NJSIAA championship competition notwithstanding that fewer than 70% of its regular season games are played against New Jersey opponents, and that there is precedent for doing so because a waiver of this type was previously granted to Moorestown.

NJSIAA takes the position that: 1) the hardship imposed on Phillipsburg as a result of its geographical location is not substantially greater than that of other Skyland Conference and NJSIAA member schools who must travel substantial distances to events; 2) the Moorestown situation was factually distinguishable; and 3) the requested waiver would be inherently unfair to other schools and student-athletes, since they must qualify for tournament eligibility based on competition against New Jersey opponents, and since the viability of NJSIAA's leagues and conferences will be compromised by the inevitable absence of Phillipsburg from a conference having few other nearby options for competitors of comparable size.

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

Standard of Review

Petitioners argue that this matter should be judged under a heightened standard of review, positing that NJSIAA is subject to the same scrutiny as a government agency because of its domination by public school districts, funding by tax dollars and virtual monopoly over interscholastic sports; in order to prevail on appeal, therefore, it must be found to have exercised its powers in furtherance of the public interest rather than the narrow self-interest of its members. (Petitioners' Brief at 14-18)

NJSIAA stresses that it is a fully voluntary organization, that the absence of any constitutional right to participate in sports is by now well established at both the state and federal levels, and that the "arbitrary and capricious" standard for review of NJSIAA actions has long since been accepted both by the courts and by the Commissioner and State Board (the latter through adoption of memorializing regulations at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5). Therefore, because the decision under review in this matter has a rational basis, the NJSIAA urges, it must be upheld by the Commissioner on appeal. (NJSIAA Brief at 19-22)

Applicability of the 70% Rule

Petitioners contend that while the plain language of the 70% Rule applies without exception to any NJSIAA member school, it is necessary to look beyond plain language to legislative intent. In this regard, petitioners proffer that the rule, adopted in 1999 as an amendment to the existing rule requiring 50% of regular season games to be played in-state, was proposed to address the specific evil of certain small parochial schools scheduling large numbers of out-of-state basketball games so as to give them an unfair advantage in New Jersey tournament competition; according to the proposal's sponsor and NJSIAA subcommittee discussion, such scheduling enabled these schools to obtain additional funding, engage in enhanced recruitment through national exposure, escape the degree of accountability associated with in-conference play, and increase the strength of the team by arranging for "powerhouse" schedules. Petitioners argue that there is no relationship whatsoever between a rule intended to discourage national schedules—with their concomitant recruitment and financial advantages—and the situation of Phillipsburg: a uniquely placed border school which seeks for historical and geographical reasons to compete against Pennsylvania schools within a maximum distance of 30-45 minutes. According to petitioners, what must control in determining whether the rule applies to Phillipsburg is "not what some Committee sitting in 2004 wishes [the rule] meant, but what the Commissioner [who has statutory authority to approve or disapprove proposed amendments to the bylaws] was entitled to assume it meant [at the time of approval in 1999], based on the purposes that were apparent at that time." (Petitioners' Brief at 18-25, quotation at 25)

NJSIAA counters that, while reducing recruitment was unquestionably an important impetus for initial proposal of the rule, the discussion surrounding its adoption clearly shows its larger purpose to have been ensuring that schools qualifying for NJSIAA tournaments did so based on competition at the same level of their tournament opponents, that is, other New Jersey schools. NJSIAA finds it "self-evident" that entry into State tournaments should be based upon competitive success against schools within the state—which must observe uniform eligibility and competition rules—rather than against outside opponents. NJSIAA further notes that Phillipsburg voted against the 70% Rule when it was placed before NJSIAA members for adoption, thus indicating an understanding of the rule's broader purpose and how that purpose would work to Phillipsburg's disadvantage vis-à-vis Phillipsburg's custom of playing of large numbers of games against Pennsylvania opponents. (NJSIAA's Brief at 23-24)

Waiver of the 70% Rule

Petitioners argue that they have shown evidence of hardship which is at least as compelling as that which existed in 1983, when NJSIAA granted Phillipsburg a waiver from its nine-game rule in order for the school to continue in its East Penn affiliation. Specifically, they note: 1) the distances from other schools in the Skyland Conference resulting from Phillipsburg's remote location; 2) already long travel times exacerbated by two decades of real estate development and ensuing traffic congestion; 3) attendant cost increases resulting from greater travel time; 4) gate receipts for football, basketball and wrestling which have "dropped precipitously," leading to a loss of funds in a district that is both needy and subject to heightened State scrutiny owing to its "Abbott" status; and 5) impact on students who must suffer early dismissals from last period classes (a situation made more serious by the district's use of block scheduling), miss after-school academic assistance in order to make game start times ranging from 2:45 to 4:00 (mostly the latter), and experience late arrivals home after games such as junior varsity which are frequently held in the evening, "from time to time" as late as 11 p.m. (Petitioners' Brief at 9-12, quotations at 11-12)

Petitioners point to the survey they conducted of schools characterized by NJSIAA as similarly situated "border schools," contending that, contrary to the unsupported generalization of NJSIAA, Phillipsburg's situation is truly unique because the schools referenced by NJSIAA either have close New Jersey opponents readily available or, to the extent they do not, have no viable options in New York, Pennsylvania or, in some cases, Delaware, that would easily alleviate the hardship caused by travel to remote in-state schools. (Petitioners' Brief at 29-31) According to petitioners, NJSIAA offers only vague, unsupported statements—no evidence as to actual distances, translation into travel time, or impact on students—in contending that Phillipsburg is not experiencing undue hardship. Petitioners acknowledge that Phillipsburg does travel long distances, without complaint, to occasional State contests and other important games, but urge that these situations are plainly distinguishable from the daily wear-and-tear of regular season travel (Id. at 31-32); they also reject NJSIAA's reliance on Phillipsburg's 1987 Mid-State application letter stating that travel necessitated by Mid-State membership would not be of great concern to Phillipsburg, since such reliance takes no account of the fact that Route 78 has evolved over the intervening twenty years from a new super-highway into a congested commuter artery. (Id. at 32-33) Petitioners also argue that the requested waiver will give them no advantage over other New Jersey schools, since the Lehigh Valley Conference has gone on record as stating that, should Phillipsburg apply and be admitted to the Conference, the school will be allowed to adhere to all NJSIAA rules and regulations relating to athletic advantage. (Id. at 28, citing Record on Appeal, Tab 5(h); Petitioner's Exhibit P-9 [5])

Petitioners additionally contend that a waiver is compelled in Phillipsburg's case by the precedent of Moorestown, which received a waiver notwithstanding that it did not even claim hardship, but only a desire to continue its longstanding cultural ties with other Quaker schools; according to petitioners, if this was an adequate basis for waiver, then surely petitioners' case, based on demonstrated hardship as well as evident historic and cultural ties, cannot be denied. Moreover, petitioners argue, if Moorestown's religious affiliation had any role in NJSIAA's prior decision—as NJSIAA's response to Interrogatory No. 6 explicitly states it did—then petitioners' claim must be honored or NJSIAA will have "unfairly denied petitioners dispensation previously granted to another school because of its religious affiliation," thereby violating the Fourteenth Amendment by according special treatment on the basis of religion. NJSIAA cannot be permitted to "rewrite the record," petitioners charge, by denying its own sworn statement—likely made in an attempt to avoid setting a precedent—regarding the religious basis for its decision. (Petitioners' Brief at 37-40, 46; quotation at 46)

[5] This and all similar references refer to the designations used in the Statement of Items Comprising the Record on Appeal, as provided by NJSIAA under cover letter dated February 15, 2005.

NJSIAA counters that the Moorestown situation was clearly distinguishable because: 1) Moorestown is a small, independent school, one of a handful in the state not affiliated with a specific league; and 2) although the school was required to play Friends School League opponents, it still played the majority of its games against smaller NJSIAA schools, mostly members of the Olympic Conference and the Burlington County Scholastic League, both of which fully supported the school's application for waiver—in contrast to Phillipsburg, which intends to play most of its contests against Pennsylvania schools and which is a member of a conference that would be significantly impacted by any diminution of Phillipsburg's availability for regular season games. The Moorestown waiver was, therefore, nothing more than "a rational decision to allow a small NJSIAA school to continue to play most of its contests (but not 70%) against NJSIAA member schools who fully supported the waiver without abandoning a 70 year association with an out-of-state conference, which coincidentally happened to be Quaker." (NJSIAA Brief at 26)

NJSIAA notes that it also considered the "fundamental contradiction" of petitioners' position that Phillipsburg should not have to travel for regular season play but is more than happy to do so for tournaments or to gain a higher ranking for its "powerhouse" wrestling team. (NJSIAA Brief at 29-30) The Association further notes its consideration of the contradiction between Phillipsburg's 1987 application to the Mid-State Conference and its present request, pointing out on appeal to the Commissioner—although conceding that this was not mentioned in the SCLC report—that, in addition to conflicting statements about the ease of such travel, the actual distances given for travel to specific schools presented in 1987, when Phillipsburg wanted to join a New Jersey league, were consistently less than the comparable distances presented in the current effort to play more games in Pennsylvania. (Id. at 30-32)

NJSIAA further points to what it characterizes as Phillipsburg's lack of regard for: 1) Skyland's willing accommodations to the town's geographic location, including scheduling non-football contests in relative proximity (because size of school is not a dominant factor in such contests) and designing football schedules that allow Phillipsburg to play its traditional opening and closing games against Pennsylvania schools, including the Thanksgiving game against Easton; 2) Phillipsburg's instrumental role in Skyland's creation and subsequent development; and 3) the fact that Phillipsburg's inevitable departure as a conference member if it is granted a waiver from the 70% Rule would require a substantial number of other member schools to schedule—in baseball, softball, basketball, cross country and soccer—at least two regular season contests at great distance, and, in football, to search for large schools outside the region against which to play. (NJSIAA Brief at 33-34)

Procedural Issues

In addition to reiterating their substantive arguments before the NJSIAA, petitioners challenge the Association's determination on procedural grounds. Petitioners stress that the NJSIAA proceeding in this matter was not an ordinary NJSIAA hearing, but a negotiated compromise between the full-blown trial-type OAL hearing sought by petitioners and the purely appellate review sought by NJSIAA. They contend that, notwithstanding that Skyland representatives were allowed to testify at hearing and that their testimony was taken as fact by both the SCLC and Executive Committee, Skyland never made a formal request to intervene; thus, petitioners had no notice other than through the "rumor mill" that any other district intended to participate in the hearing, and, in the absence of such notice—given the rules established for the proceeding—they had no opportunity for discovery of the evidence Skyland intended to introduce. Skyland, on the other hand—as the result of petitioners' compliance with the directives of NJSIAA counsel that Skyland be copied on petitioners' papers—appeared at the hearing with full foreknowledge of the arguments and evidence upon which petitioners intended to rely. Petitioners object that, in clear contravention of the agreed-upon rules, Skyland officials were "not only allowed to present argument to the Committee but, armed with full disclosure of [petitioners'] evidence, were also permitted to present a detailed factual rebuttal," a situation tantamount to "trial by ambush." Moreover, petitioners state, NJSIAA cannot claim that petitioners knew of Skyland's intentions; to the contrary, they specifically noted in their brief submitted to NJSIAA (and provided to Skyland) a week before hearing that, to petitioners' knowledge, Skyland had not requested to intervene. (Petitioners' Brief at 33-35, quotation at 34)

Petitioners further contend that, even if Skyland's testimony were not disallowed on the aforementioned grounds, NJSIAA erred in crediting it because Skyland witnesses relied on "double- or triple-hearsay, unsupported by any competent data in the record other than [their own] off-the-cuff ruminations." According to petitioners, when a Skyland witness was questioned on cross-examination about his testimony regarding travel time and frequency, he stated that he "didn't know," "hadn't examined," or "wasn't sure;" yet he "attempted elsewhere in his testimony to insinuate through generalized, undocumented statements" that there were other Skyland Conference members who were forced to travel as much as Phillipsburg, and these statements were in turn (improperly) relied upon by both committees of the NJSIAA. (Petitioners' Brief at 35)

Petitioners similarly object to what they characterize as the committees' conflation of petitioners' request for waiver of the 70% Rule and NJSIAA's criteria for withdrawal from leagues and conferences. They stress that this matter is not an application to withdraw from the Skyland Conference—a development which, if it should come to pass, would be the subject of an entirely separate proceeding—and that NJSIAA erred in allowing testimony and applying standards as if it were; indeed, they contend, the Skyland officials' entire presentation should be discounted because they actually stated on record that they were "not there about the 70% Rule," but "to defend about leaving the conference if that were to take place, how it would affect our league" and that they had "no comment" on the 70% Rule issue. (Petitioners' Brief at 35-37) Petitioners insist that the 70% Rule and withdrawal from a conference are two separate and distinct matters, and that considerations of one cannot be permitted to influence decisions about the other. They explain that Phillipsburg is addressing the 70% Rule first because it is "reluctant to pursue [leaving the Skyland Conference to join a Pennsylvania league] further without an assurance that its students' dream of an NJSIAA championship will not be compromised in the process." Granting relief here, petitioners proffer, will be "but the beginning of a lengthy process" before the Skyland Conference and NJSIAA where

"all considerations pertinent" to any withdrawal from the Conference by Phillipsburg will be explored and "all parties' interests adequately protected." (Petitioners' Brief at 26-27)

Finally, petitioners object to the NJSIAA Executive Committee decision because, they allege, the transcript of its underlying deliberations reveals that—despite attempts by NJSIAA counsel to keep the group focused on the record before the SCLC—committee members made no attempt to make a judicial determination, instead reaching a policy-political decision centered on the perceived danger of setting a precedent with any decision in favor of petitioners, treating the record before the SCLC as "nothing more than a starting point for a political discussion." Furthermore, while petitioners and the Skyland representatives were dismissed following their presentations before the Committee, the SCLC representative—along with other Executive Committee members who were also members of the SCLC—were permitted to remain and participate fully in Executive Committee deliberations. (Petitioners' Brief at 41-44, quotation at 44)

In response, NJSIAA counters that while petitioners claim "ambush," the fact is that in November 2003 the Skyland Conference adopted a resolution opposing any departure by Phillipsburg and any "exemption from any NJSIAA regulation." (NJSIAA Brief at 36, citing Record on Appeal, Tab 1, Exhibit G) Moreover, although Skyland did not formally move to intervene, NJSIAA contends, petitioners had been advised well before the hearing that:

> As you are aware, the Skyland Conference has expressed opposition to the application and we are therefore sending a copy of this notice to that Conference so that they may participate in the proceedings. If that conference wishes to submit any document or brief, it should observe the same schedule [as set forth herein for petitioners]. Copies should be furnished to each party. We would ask that copies of any documents be sent to that Conference as well.

(Ibid., citing Record on Appeal, Tab 2)

Additionally, according to NJSIAA, Skyland notified both petitioners and NJSIAA that it would be represented at the hearing, and, once there, its witnesses relied on their own personal experience as athletic directors and seasoned arrangers of conference schedules, and they introduced no documents not previously provided—in contrast to petitioners, who were allowed to introduce previously unprovided documents in rebuttal to the statements of Skyland witnesses and who made questionable claims as previously indicated. NJSIAA urges that Skyland did not act as an intervenor, but > "simply provided testimony which was critical in the assessment of the impact of a waiver of the 70% Rule or the departure of Phillipsburg from that Conference. Representatives of Skyland were present without counsel and were subject to full cross-examination"; everything to which they testified was "consistent with their pre-hearing submissions. What appears to have occurred is that [Skyland's representatives] presented damaging testimony and after never availing itself of the opportunity to take discovery, Phillipsburg now asserted (sic) that they were somehow treated unfairly. Further, Phillipsburg fails to specify what it could have uncovered if it had propounded interrogatories on the Skyland Conference." (NJSIAA Brief at 36-37)

With respect to petitioners' "conflation" argument, NJSIAA argues that petitioners are inappropriately trying to "compartmentalize" issues that are, in fact, inextricably intertwined, thereby placing form over substance; NJSIAA notes that Phillipsburg's own athletic director admitted on record that receiving a waiver of the 70% Rule would result in Phillipsburg playing less than the number of games required of it as a member of the Skyland Conference. It was, therefore, not improper for NJSIAA to consider the impact on Skyland of Phillipsburg's departure, which would seriously damage efforts to arrange for a fair and balanced competition schedule in a less-populated area of the state where more travel time is necessarily required of student-athletes. According to NJSIAA, petitioners want to "have it both ways" in a

"manifestly unfair" proposition that attempts to provide them with "the benefits of tournament competition without any of the obligations of conference membership." (NJSIAA Brief at 27-28)

Finally, NJSIAA protests petitioners' suggestion that the proceedings before the Association in any way denied them due process. To the contrary, NJSIAA urges, petitioners were provided with: complete answers to interrogatories; all documents that would be referred to by Skyland witnesses at hearing; the opportunity to present briefs, full arguments of counsel and sworn testimony, as well as to cross-examine Skyland witnesses; a full stenographic record; and a separate appeal to the Executive Committee, the closed session proceedings of which were recorded by a court stenographer. Under the circumstances, NJSIAA concludes, petitioners cannot claim to have been treated unfairly in any respect. (NJSIAA Brief at 37)

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

Standard of Review

It is by now settled law that the Commissioner's scope of review in matters involving NJSIAA is appellate in nature. See N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3; Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 182, 183. Thus, the Commissioner may not overturn an action by NJSIAA absent a finding that NJSIAA acted in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner, nor may she substitute her judgment for that of NJSIAA, even if she would decide differently in a de novo hearing, where due process has been provided and where there is adequate basis for the decision finally reached. B.C. v. Cumberland Regional School District, 220 N.J. Super. 214, 231-232 (App. Div. 1987); Dam Jin Koh and Hong Jun Kim v. NJSIAA,

1987 S.L.D. 259 As codified in 2000 to provide notice of this long-held standard to the public and regulated parties:[6]

> 1. If NJSIAA has granted a petitioner due process and its decision is supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record as a whole, the Commissioner shall not substitute his  judgment for that of NJSIAA, even if the Commissioner might judge otherwise in a de novo review.
> 2. The Commissioner shall not overturn NJSIAA's application of its own rules absent a demonstration by the petitioner that such rules were applied in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5(a)[7]

Although petitioners argue that a heightened standard of review should be applied herein, citing to constitutional constraints and the obligation of a quasi-governmental body to uphold the public interest, the Commissioner is unpersuaded that NJSIAA's actions in this matter are not appropriately judged by the established standard.

Participation in interscholastic sports has long been held to be a privilege which may be circumscribed by reasonable rules governing eligibility, not a constitutional right. Burnside et al. v. NJSIAA et al., 1984 S.L.D. 1695 (App. Div. 1984), cert. denied 101 N.J. 236 (1985); Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 182. To that end, NJSIAA was created as a voluntary association of public and nonpublic schools, organized pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3, to oversee athletics for its member schools in accordance with its Constitution, Bylaws, rules and regulations, which are approved by the Commissioner of Education, adopted annually by the member schools, and thereafter deemed school policy enforced in the first instance by the internal procedures of NJSIAA.

[7] Formerly N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4(a). See, 36 N.J.R. 5032(a), 37 N.J.R. 1051(b).

It is beyond dispute that NJSIAA must fulfill its obligations in a manner that is not arbitrary or unreasonable. The courts have held that:

> In the law, "arbitrary" and "capricious" means having no rational basis.  Arbitrary and capricious action of administrative bodies means willful and unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances. Where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached. (citations omitted) Bayshore Sew. Co. v. Dep't. of Env., N.J., 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199-200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974).

The law is thus clear that, while the party challenging an administrative action bears the burden of proof that such action was deficient, Kopera v. West Orange Bd. Of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 297 (App. Div. 1960), the administrative agency must still be found to have acted reasonably based upon the facts at hand in order to prevail on appeal; notwithstanding that the challenger may not agree with the manner in which the agency has exercised its discretionary authority, an action withstanding the "rational basis" test is likely to be inherently consistent with the public interest. Even granting, arguendo, that NJSIAA is a quasi-governmental entity as claimed by petitioners, public bodies are frequently required to weigh the legitimate concerns of particular individuals or groups—such as petitioners—against broader-based but equally legitimate considerations such as the need to ensure consistency and fairness statewide. [8] As long as they do so based upon the facts before them and in a rational manner, the public interest is likely to have been adequately served.

[8] Although petitioners pose the dilemma facing Phillipsburg student-athletes as a "Catch 22" (remain in New Jersey and suffer "extraordinary" travel burden, or affiliate with a Pennsylvania league and be unable to compete for State championships) and characterize their position as "for the kids" in contrast to NJSIAA's paramount goal of protecting the "interests of the organization," the Commissioner stresses that NJSIAA's concern with the integrity of its league/conference structure—which affects every student-athlete in the state—cannot be automatically dismissed as "narrow self-interest."

Accordingly, the Commissioner's review of this matter will proceed under the established "arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable" standard, so that NJSIAA's determination will be upheld if it is found to have been factually based and reasonably reached, with the appropriate level of due process having been provided to petitioners.

Applicability of the 70% Rule

With the aforementioned standard in mind, the Commissioner first upholds NJSIAA's interpretation of the 70% Rule as applying uniformly to all member districts unless a waiver is specifically granted.

In support of their respective arguments, both parties point in whole or part to the pertinent section of the official minutes of the December 1999 annual meeting of the full membership at which the rule was adopted:

> The purpose of this legislation is to limit out-of-state competition to influence schools to remain in conferences within the state to reduce funding and exposure provided by outside out-of-state tournaments and their sponsors, and lastly it would require all NJSIAA tournament teams to place a priority on scheduling New Jersey teams above a national schedule and a national agenda. (Record on Appeal, Tab 1, Exhibit C at 9-10)

Both also point to the April 21, 1999 discussion of Subcommittee C of NJSIAA Advisory Committee as reflected in the committee minutes:

> Amended Proposal: "NJSIAA tournament entries must compete against a schedule composed of no less than 70% NJ schools. If a team does not meet this criteria (sic) they will forfeit their entry into NJSIAA tournaments."
>
> Advisory Committee Vote: Unanimously in Favor
>
> Discussion:
>
> - the number of schools now playing extended out of state competition was not supplied in the proposal and was not available on the day of the meeting
>
> - present regulations permit individual schools to leave a conference for a single sport, to play a national schedule

- this type of schedule enables recruitment because of greater exposure
- proposal refers predominately to small parochial schools competing in basketball
- schools have little accountability when they leave a conference to play a schedule comprising a much larger area
- a full schedule of "powerhouse" teams increases the strength of the team, and therefore provides an unfair advantage in the State Tournament
- all schools pay dues to the Association and should be entitled to enter a tournament on a relatively equal basis as determined by the size of the school
- since the proposal as stated would affect all sports, baseball and softball teams may not be able to play as many spring recess games in other areas of the country
- acceptance of the proposal may deny schools/players exposure when players from other states do not have the same restrictions
- schools allowing one team to travel out of state for most [of] the schedule, frequently do not sponsor a broad program of additional sports
- suggestion to change the percentage from 90% to 70% was proposed and accepted by the submitting school

(Record on Appeal, Tab 1, Exhibit B at 4-5)

These documents and other evidence on record leave no doubt—and, indeed, the parties do not truly dispute—that the sponsor's original impetus for offering a proposal to increase in-state game requirements from 50% to 70% arose out of concern over a specific situation not analogous to that of Phillipsburg. However, it is equally clear from the committee and plenary discussions surrounding the rule's official proposal—and from the plain and unambiguous language of the rule as finally adopted by NJSIAA, approved by the Commissioner, and applied in the years since its enactment—that the rule is not, and never has been, intended to be selectively aimed at schools deliberately attempting to obtain national exposure for recruitment and sponsorship purposes, let alone at the small parochial schools or basketball games referenced in the explicit sponsor statements relied upon by petitioners. Rather, as proffered by NJSIAA, notwithstanding the rule's origin as a response to a specific circumstance, from the outset its overarching purpose has clearly been the maintaining of fairness and uniformity in State championship competition by keeping regular season contests substantially in-state and within officially sanctioned structures.

The Commissioner, therefore, cannot agree with petitioners that NJSIAA's interpretation of its rule is "overbroad" under the circumstances (Petitioners' Brief at 46), nor can she find that NJSIAA has acted in anything other than a reasonable and lawful manner in adopting the rule as written and applying it to Phillipsburg along with all other member schools not specifically exempted by waiver.

Waiver of the 70% Rule

Initially, the Commissioner rejects petitioners' argument that NJSIAA erred in "conflating" the questions of waiver of the 70% Rule and "withdrawal" from the Skyland Conference. While petitioners are correct in asserting that no application for withdrawal has been made—and that if and when it is, there is a process in place to consider it—it is disingenuous in the extreme for petitioners to argue that NJSIAA must be foreclosed, in a waiver proceeding, from considering the impact that will inevitably result from grant of a waiver, in the form of the requesting school's reduced availability for contests within its own conference and New Jersey contests generally. As stated by the Skyland Conference President in his December 16, 2003 letter to the Phillipsburg Director of Secondary Education:

> We realize that Phillipsburg has not announced any intention to leave the conference, but if they are successful in the lawsuit [challenging the 70%

> Rule] it would have an impact on our conference.By restructuring into three (3) basic divisions, [the conference] addressed the primary concern of travel, as discussed by several schools including Phillipsburg. To replace the contests that would need to be filled by the void of Phillipsburg High could create additional travel depending on the location of those contests. (Record on Appeal, Tab 5(j))

The issue was raised again during the SCLC hearing:

> MR. HERBERT: Couldn't there be a waiver of the 70 percent rule and yet allow Phillipsburg to remain a member of the Skyland Conference?
>
> MR. WEIGNER [Skyland Conference President]: It would be pretty difficult based upon our divisional setups.
>
> MR. HERBERT: Why is that?
> MR. WEIGNER: You have to look at the numbers that would be in existence here. We play each other twice in some sports. We could give you a ten-game schedule that would be more than the 70 percent that would be required. Other than we have a mandatory, a crossover of three which would be a 13th game that would exceed the 70 percent they're looking to have relief from. (Ibid., Tab 6, Transcript of Hearing at 101-02)

Moreover, in Phillipsburg's case, obtaining a waiver from the 70% Rule is plainly the first step in the school's strategy to position itself for a withdrawal from Skyland; the school clearly wants to assure its right to New Jersey championship play, and its entitlement to play fewer than the number of games required to sustain conference membership, before it submits an application to sever its New Jersey affiliation and join a Pennsylvania league. The following excerpt from the transcript of the SCLC hearing is instructive:

> MR. HERBERT: Well what I'm getting to is that wouldn't you have to – in order to get a waiver of the 70 percent rule, wouldn't that involve playing less than what was required as a member of the Skyland Conference or am I misreading that?
>
> THE WITNESS [Phillipsburg Athletic Director Fisher]: That would be true in all sports, yes.
> MR. HERBERT: Isn't the 70 percent rule tied in directly with continued membership in the Skyland Conference? I would think the 70 percent rule is tied into, directly into, membership and NJSIAA as well as the Skyland Conference.

> MR. RUBIN: Maybe you're raising a point that's not in dispute. The reason why we're concerned about the 70 percent rule – and, frankly, about the only effect your decision on the 70 percent rule would have on us is if and when we apply for withdrawal from the Skyland Conference. We don't dispute that. We haven't made the decision yet to apply for withdrawal from the Skyland Conference. That decision may well be affected by your decision in this proceeding. (Ibid., at 76-77)

The school's intentions are likewise signaled by the September 29, 2004 letter to the Phillipsburg Superintendent from the President of the Lehigh Valley Conference, confirming their prior conversation to the effect that, if Phillipsburg joins Lehigh Valley, officials there would work to create schedules that comply with NJSIAA practice and first-contest start dates, and ensure that the school can conclude its Pennsylvania commitments in time to participate fully in New Jersey championship play. (Record on Appeal, Tab 5(h); Petitioner's Exhibit P-9)

Under the circumstances, it was not only appropriate but necessary for the NJSIAA to consider, as part of the relative hardship of Phillipsburg as compared to other member schools, the effect of granting the requested waiver on these schools;[9] otherwise, the Association would not be fulfilling its statutory responsibility as the governing agency for interscholastic athletics statewide. While viewing Phillipsburg's waiver request in a vacuum undoubtedly serves the school's purpose,[10] it is also an abrogation of NJSIAA's duty to its other member student-athletes and their schools. Accordingly, the Commissioner holds that broader consideration of the impact of any waiver granted to Phillipsburg was, and is, entirely proper in this matter.

[9] The Commissioner contrasts this standard with the far more comprehensive league withdrawal criteria alluded to by petitioners in their allegation of "conflation."

[10] See, for example, the transcript of the SCLC Hearing at 109-13, 135-36.

With respect to the question of whether NJSIAA's grant of a waiver to Moorestown compels a similar grant to Phillipsburg, the Commissioner fully concurs with NJSIAA, for the reasons set forth by the Association above, that the Moorestown matter is factually distinguishable and that the record clearly shows the waiver in that instance to have been granted for lawful reasons having no basis in preferential treatment due to religion.[11] Therefore, petitioners cannot claim that NJSIAA's decision was deficient in this regard.

There is, however, one respect in which petitioners' challenge to NJSIAA's determination has merit. Petitioners are correct in their contention that the "compromise" proceeding directed in this matter was quasi-judicial in nature and envisioned that petitioners would have specific foreknowledge of adverse testimony and evidence to be presented at hearing:

> The standard for intervention will be liberalized to allow other districts, upon request, to present testimony and evidence at the hearing, provided that they are subject to pre-hearing discovery to the same extent as if they were a party. (Record on Appeal, Tab 2, Attachment, January 26, 2004 Letter to Counsel from Director of Controversies and Disputes)

As petitioners correctly note, at no point did Skyland formally request to intervene. Instead, what appears to have occurred is that—based on Phillipsburg's desire for a waiver and Skyland's opposition to it being a matter of common knowledge generally, and of prior discussion between officials of Phillipsburg and Skyland specifically—Skyland's participation in waiver proceedings before NJSIAA was treated [11] The Commissioner is unpersuaded by petitioners' attempt to force a contrary conclusion. It is apparent from the context of the statements (from NJSIAA's response to Interrogatories) on which petitioners rely, as well as from documentation in the record, that "religious" is nothing more than a description of the particular affiliation Moorestown sought to preserve in requesting a waiver, and that the religious nature of the affiliation—as opposed to the fact that it was long-standing, deep-rooted and central to the school's identity—was not a determinative factor in NJSIAA's decision to grant the school's request.

by NJSIAA as implicitly understood and less formal protocols were observed. In preparation for hearing, counsel for NJSIAA wrote:

> As you are aware, the Skyland Conference has expressed opposition to the application [for waiver of the 70% Rule] and we are therefore sending a copy of this notice to that Conference so that they may participate in the proceedings. If that Conference wishes to submit any documents or brief, it should observe the same schedule. Copies should be furnished to each party. We would ask that copies of any documents be sent to that Conference as well. (Ibid.,Tab 2, July 13, 2004 Letter from Counsel for NJSIAA to Counsel for Petitioners, copy to Skyland President)

To which Skyland responded:

> On behalf of the Skyland Conference I would like to submit 15 copies of our 2004-2006 Divisional alignments.
> The addition of Ridge and Immaculata high schools necessitated new alignments which aided some concerns of several members of our conference. Travel, strength of program and size of schools were the main criteria used in developing the enclosed document. (Ibid., Tab 3, August 25, 2004 Letter from Skyland Conference President to NJSIAA)

Noting the above-quoted exchange and prior communications between petitioner and Skyland, NJSIAA contends that petitioners were well aware of Skyland's intention to participate in the NJSIAA hearing despite the lack of formal intervention proceedings. NJSIAA urges that technical objections based on strict procedural standards should not be allowed to obscure the fact that petitioners were given extensive due process in this matter, and that notice of Skyland's participation was provided to petitioners in substance if not in precise conformance with the rules of administrative practice; thus, it would be truly unfair if petitioners are allowed to benefit because they chose not to avail themselves of the opportunity to seek discovery.

While the Commissioner understands NJSIAA's position given the history of this matter and the lack of precedent for a "hybrid" proceeding of the type arranged to accommodate it—and while she recognizes that petitioners might well have chosen to seek clarity about Skyland's actual intentions prior to the hearing rather than standing on ceremony—the fact remains that the "ground rules" established for this proceeding by mutual consent of the parties entitled petitioners to rely on the normal process for effectuating intervention, notwithstanding liberalization of the standard for entitlement to intervene. Therefore, the Commissioner must concur with petitioners that the testimony of Skyland's witnesses cannot serve as a basis for the NJSIAA decision on appeal herein. Similarly, petitioners are correct in their contention regarding the participation of SCLC members in the Executive Committee's quasi-judicial review of the SCLC decision.

Notwithstanding these deficiencies, however, the Commissioner cannot in good conscience conclude that petitioners are entitled at this point to prevail on appeal. Although petitioners have presented skillfully prepared evidence and argument in order to demonstrate their own hardship and rebut the "other districts similarly situated" claim proffered by NJSIAA in its Answers to Interrogatories—and have succeeded on procedural grounds in disposing of substantial testimony and evidence adverse to that presentation[12] and, consequently, to the viability of the NJSIAA decision based upon them—the Commissioner simply cannot decide this matter in petitioners' favor on a record that does not permit her to fully and fairly assess the situation of Phillipsburg relative to other member schools and student-athletes, including those who will be impacted if Phillipsburg is granted the requested waiver. Moreover, the Commissioner notes that, even if the requisite record could be developed before the Commissioner, NJSIAA is the appropriate entity to make such an assessment in the first instance, and that the Association must be given the opportunity to do so based upon a sufficient factual record and without the participation of SCLC members in Executive Committee deliberations.

[12] Skyland representatives: discussed the history of the conference and its present structure, including the current divisional alignment as supported by Phillipsburg; disputed many of petitioners' travel claims and opined that Phillipsburg is only one of many conference districts that experience longer travel times than typically found elsewhere in the state; contended that the conference tried to be flexible and accommodating in attempting to reduce travel time; and noted that its membership was surveyed and—by a vote of 15-2 (18-member conference, Phillipsburg did not vote)—determined that Phillipsburg should neither leave the conference nor receive a waiver of the 70% Rule.

Accordingly, the Commissioner finds that the appropriate remedy at the present juncture is to remand this matter to NJSIAA for such proceedings as are necessary for the Association to make the requisite decision—after due deliberation based upon a properly developed factual record, with no ambiguity as to appearance(s) by adverse party(ies), full opportunity for prehearing discovery of the testimony and evidence to be relied upon by such party(ies), and recusal of Executive Committee members who are also members of the SCLC—as to whether Phillipsburg's situation is, in fact, so extreme relative to other member schools that the hardship imposed on it by the 70% Rule outweighs any hardship that will result to other schools from its reduced availability for in-state play if a waiver of the rule is granted. In so holding, the Commissioner stresses that it has already been decided herein that: 1) the 70% Rule applies to Phillipsburg; 2) the prior grant of a waiver to Moorestown does not compel a similar grant to Phillipsburg; 3) NJSIAA is fully entitled to bring broader policy considerations into its determination in this matter; and 4) any subsequent appeal to the Commissioner of NJSIAA's decision on remand will be reviewed under the established "arbitrary and capricious" standard. Petitioners' federal claims (and NJSIAA's defenses thereto) remain preserved for future litigation, while their claims with respect to NJSIAA's assessment of legal fees may be pursued—since neither party has fully prevailed herein—in any appeal of NJSIAA's decision on remand that petitioners deem warranted.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[13]

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner filed a pro se Residency Appeal challenging the respondent's resolution that disenrolled her children, T.G. and K.G., from the Ewing School District. Petitioner claimed that – during the time frame in question -- she and her children resided in Ewing with petitioner's parents, but visited her fiancé frequently at his Trenton residence. The matter was transmitted to the OAL, and a hearing was scheduled for September 30, 2004. Petitioner failed to appear at the hearing; respondent filed a certification stating that petitioner owes the Ewing School District $10,668.90 in tuition for the 110 days that petitioner's children were illegally enrolled.

The ALJ found that petitioner enrolled her two children in the Ewing School District for 110 school days while the petitioner was not domiciled therein. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that petitioner owes respondent $10,668.90, and ordered that petitioner reimburse respondent said amount.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Initial Decision, and the petitioner's exception letter, the Commissioner adopts the decision and recommended order of the ALJ. It was proper under the circumstances for the ALJ to enter an initial decision based upon respondent's ex parte proofs, and, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(c), petitioner's exception letter cannot resuscitate her appeal.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EWING, MERCER COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record in this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and petitioner's exceptions have been carefully and independently reviewed, and the Commissioner is constrained to adopt the decision and order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ).

On June 7, 2004, respondent Ewing Township Board of Education passed a resolution disenrolling T.G. and K.G. from the Ewing School District, based upon surveillance evidence, gathered primarily in February 2004, indicating that they lived in Trenton. On July 8, 2004, J.M.R. submitted a petition challenging respondent's action. In it she alleged that she and her children resided in Ewing with her parents, but that she and the children often stayed with her fiancé in Trenton. Attached to her petition were copies of respondent's June 7 resolution and the surveillance reports upon which the resolution had been based.

Other than a notation in one of the surveillance reports that J.M.R.'s car was registered to her parents' address in Ewing, petitioner submitted with her petition no support of her allegation that she and the children resided in Ewing. To the contrary, eleven of the above mentioned twelve surveillance reports supported the conclusion that petitioner's children were not staying in Ewing. Surveillance on nine of the eighteen days in February 2004 showed the children leaving for school from the Trenton address of petitioner's fiancé.

The matter was transmitted to the OAL on July 23, 2004. On August 9, 2004, the OAL sent a notice to counsel for respondent, and to petitioner at the address of her parents in Ewing. The notice acknowledged receipt of the case, advised that another notice with a hearing date would be sent, and instructed, in pertinent part, that:

> All discovery must be complete 5 days before the hearing unless another date is established by the judge. Therefore, parties must begin immediately to exchange information, to seek access to public documents, to exhaust other informal means of obtaining information and, if necessary, to serve discovery notices and motions.

On August 30, 2004, the OAL notified the parties that the hearing would begin on September 30, 2004. This notice included the following instructions:

> A judge will decide the case based on only what is presented at the hearing. If there are any papers you would like the judge to consider, you must have them at the hearing. Please bring two copies of each paper. If you want any witnesses to testify, you must arrange for their attendance at the hearing. If you are not sure that they will attend the hearing, you should serve them with a subpoena together with the appropriate fee at a reasonable time before the hearing, if possible, three days before the hearing.

The notice also advised that briefs would not be allowed after the hearing without the judge's permission, and that non-attendance at the hearing could result in dismissal of the case.

It is undisputed that petitioner did not attend the hearing on September 30, 2004. A letter dated October 8, 2004 from respondent's counsel to the ALJ indicates that the ALJ agreed to accept a certification by respondent's residency officer to serve as support for respondent's answer and counterclaim, which contended that petitioner's children attended 110 days of school in Ewing while residing in Trenton, and that petitioner consequently owed respondent tuition. At $47.92 per day for the younger child and $49.07 for the older daughter, the certification calculated $10,668.90 as the total tuition due. The Commissioner notes that this October 8, 2004 correspondence and certification were not copied to petitioner. Nor was a follow-up letter dated May 12, 2005 from respondent to the ALJ.

On July 18, 2005 the ALJ wrote to respondent. In the letter the ALJ referred to the fact that petitioner had not appeared at the hearing, and stated "I was advised that the petitioner had moved and her children were registered in the Trenton school system." The ALJ appeared not to have received respondent's certification concerning tuition, and advised: "I will dismiss petitioner's claim for lack of prosecution and return the file to the Department of Education as a failure to appear if I do not receive the certificate within 10 days." This letter was sent to both parties. The respondent replied to the ALJ's letter on July 26, 2005, forwarding a copy of the October 2004 certification, but did not copy petitioner on this correspondence.

In the initial decision, issued on August 30, 2005 and mailed on September 1, 2005, the ALJ established that on September 30, 2004, respondent's counsel had informed him that petitioner's children had been registered for school in Trenton. Nonetheless, respondent wished to recoup tuition for the year that the children had attended school in Ewing. (Initial Decision at 1)

Based upon his review of respondent's unopposed certification, the ALJ found that petitioner had enrolled her two children in respondent's district for 110 school days while she was not domiciled therein, and that the calculations in respondent's certification showed that petitioner owes respondent $10,668.90. (Initial Decision at 2) Accordingly, he ordered petitioner to pay respondent said amount. (Ibid.)

In her "exceptions," dated September 7, 2005, petitioner reiterates the allegations in her petition that she resided in Ewing during the 110 days in question and only visited (frequently) her fiancé in Trenton. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1-2) As was the case with her petition, petitioner includes no evidentiary support for the allegations. Rather, she states "I will be willing to provide any documentation needed to support my appeal." (Id. at 2) Petitioner does not deny that she received notices from the OAL advising that she must prepare all her documentary and testamentary evidence before the hearing that would be scheduled for her case, and submit the evidence at the hearing. Nor does she deny that she received notice that the hearing would be on September 30, 2004, or explain why she did not attend the hearing.

The Commissioner cannot disagree with the ALJ's determination that respondent has prevailed on its counterclaim for tuition. Under the circumstances of this case, it was proper for the ALJ to enter an initial decision on the merits based upon respondent's ex parte proofs, provided that in the decision he memorialized petitioner's failure to appear, which he did. N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(c). I note with disapproval that respondent did not copy petitioner on his correspondence with the ALJ. However, petitioner does not deny that she had two notices from the OAL advising her to prepare her evidence and present it at the hearing, and that she received both a notice and a copy of a letter from the OAL advising her that failure to appear at the hearing could result in the dismissal of her petition for lack of prosecution. That same letter made clear that the ALJ would award respondent tuition upon respondent's submission of a certification.

Petitioner's "exceptions" cannot resuscitate her appeal, because "[e]vidence not presented at the hearing shall not be submitted as part of an exception, nor shall it be incorporated or referred to within exceptions." N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(c). Accordingly, the Initial Decision and recommended Order of the ALJ are hereby adopted.

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6269-04

AGENCY REF. NO. 236-7/04

J.M.R., o/b/o T.G. AND K.G.,

Petitioner,

v.

EWING TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

No appearance by petitioner

Jeffrey F. Belz, Esq., for respondent

Record closed: July 28, 2005 Decided August 30, 2005

BEFORE ANTHOHY T. BRUNO, ALJ:

This matter originated as a pro se Residency Appeal filed by J.M.R., mother of T.G. and K.G., of the decision by respondent ("Ewing") that T.G. and K.G. are disenrolled from the Ewing Township School District. J.M.R.'s appeal was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law, Mercerville, New Jersey. On that date J.M.R. did not appear; counsel for Ewing advised this tribunal that T.G. and K.G. were registered in the City of Trenton School District. Counsel also requested leave to file a certification of the amount due to Ewing for educational services rendered T.G. and K.G. while T.G. and K.G. resided outside of the Ewing School District.

Respondent's Certification (Exhibit R-1) states that petition's 2 children were illegally enrolled in the Ewing School District for 110 days each. K.G. was enrolled as an elementary student and T.G. was enrolled as a middle school student. The per diem tuition as determined by the New Jersey Department of Education for an elementary student as $47.92 and for a middle school student was $49.07. The total tuition owed by petitioner for K.G. is $5271.20 (110 days x $47.92 = $5271.20); and the total tuition owed by petitioner for T.G. is $5397.70 (110 days x $49.07 = $5397.70). For both students petitioner owes $10,668.90.

Having reviewed the calculations in respondent's certification, I Find as a Fact that petitioner enrolled her 2 children in the Ewing School District while petitioner was not domiciled therein for 110 school days. I CONCLUDE that petitioner owes Ewing $10,668.90.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that petitioner reimburse respondent in the amount of $10,668.90 as tuition due respondent for 110 days of attending school in the Ewing Township School District.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, an approved private school for the disabled, appealed the determination by the respondent Department disallowing certain costs in its final approved tuition rate for the 2002-03 fiscal year; specifically, an expenditure of $1,739 for an event that the petitioner describes as a "field trip" or "group activity" designed to promote social skills and as a reward for successful students under the school's behavior modification program. Petitioner claimed that the activity advances legitimate instructional goals and objectives consistent with each student's Individualized Education Program (IEP), and that the respondent acted arbitrarily, capriciously and unreasonably by failing to include the cost in the approved tuition rate. The parties filed cross-motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioner promoted the field trip in question as an opportunity for students to practice social skills, improve their ability to communicate and learn proper behavior outside the school setting; participation in the event was integral to the token economy plan of behavior modification used by the petitioning school; respondent Department failed to introduce any countervailing evidence to rebut petitioner's showing that the activity is fully consistent with the contents of the students' IEPs. The ALJ concluded that respondent Department misapplied the controlling regulations in disallowing the cost in question, and ordered that the sum of $1,739 be included in setting the tuition rate that petitioner charges to sending public school districts.

The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's determination that the respondent Department erred in disallowing the cost at issue in this matter, adopts the recommended decision of the OAL, and directs that the sum of $1,739 is appropriately included in setting the tuition rate that the petitioner charges to its sending public school districts.

NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF COMPLIANCE INVESTIGATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Respondent sought and was granted an extension of time within which to file exceptions to the Initial Decision. Petitioner, similarly upon request, was granted an extension to file reply exceptions. These submissions were filed in accordance with the modified timelines, and were fully considered by the Commissioner in reaching her determination herein.

Respondent's exceptions present suggested interpretative analysis of N.J.S.A. 18A:36-21 to 23, N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.5(a)(30), N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.2(a)(1), N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.2(a)(1)(ii) and N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.2(a)(1)(iv), which it avers leads to the conclusion that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred in his determination that the Department misapplied these provisions in excluding the $1,739 field trip cost from the tuition rate charged to sending public school districts. It urges that the Commissioner subscribe to this interpretation in order "to avoid any implication arising from the decision in this matter that private schools for the disabled may simply incur a charge for any type of student activity – whether a field trip, social activity, or other event deviating from regular day-to-day instruction – and then pass this cost along to its sending districts by justifying the activity as 'educational' in retrospect." (Respondent's Exceptions at 15)

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner, finding respondent's exceptions unpersuasive under the particular circumstances existing in this case, concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) determination, for the reasons clearly presented in his Initial Decision, that the Department erred in disallowing the cost at issue in this matter. The certification offered by petitioner establishes that the field trip advanced the goal of implementing petitioner's behavior modification program and afforded a learning experience for the students. As noted by the ALJ, respondent offered no countervailing affidavit or certification.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is adopted. It is hereby directed that the sum of $1,739 is appropriately included in setting the tuition rate that the Bergen Center for Child Development, Inc. charges to its sending public school districts.

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal brought by the Bergen Center for Child Development, Inc. ("BCCD"), an approved private school for the disabled, from the disallowance of certain costs in its final approved tuition rate for the 2002-03 fiscal year ("FY 2003"). Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:46-14-21, private schools for the disabled receiving students from public school districts may not charge a tuition rate that exceeds the actual cost per student as determined under rules prescribed by the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") and approved by the State Board of Education.

Auditors from the New Jersey Department of Education ("Department") excluded the amount of $1,739 incurred for an event involving 109 luncheon guests at the Colonial Inn. In their written findings, the auditors disallowed the cost on three separate grounds: first, that it constitutes "an ordinary living expense for a student that is not normally assumed by the parents of a student" and, therefore, non-allowable under N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.5(a)(30);[1] second, that BCCD has failed to show that the cost is "consistent with the individualized education programs (IEP) of a disabled student," as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.2(a)(1);[2] and, third, that the cost is unreasonable within the meaning of N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.2(a)(1), which limits allowable expenses to those that are "ordinary and necessary and not in excess of the cost which would be incurred by an ordinary prudent person in administration of public funds."[3]

BCCD describes the event as a "field trip" or "group activity" designed to promote social skills and as a reward for successful students under the school's behavior modification program. Originally, BCCD had characterized the event as a school "prom," but now contends that such label is a misnomer. Despite its misleading name, BCCD explains that the activity is not an after-school dance. Since the activity allegedly advances legitimate instructional goals and objectives, BCCD maintains that the Department acted arbitrarily, capriciously and unreasonably by failing to include the cost in the approved tuition rate.

Procedural History

By letter, dated March 10, 2004, the Department notified BCCD that it had completed a fiscal monitoring of petitioner's budget for FY 2003 and had approved all but $1,739 of its $2.2 million request.[4] On or about May 13, 2004, BCCD filed an appeal with the Department's Office of Compliance Investigation setting forth in detail the reasons for its disagreement with the disallowance. Thereafter, on June 24, 2004, the Office of Compliance Investigation reviewed BCCD's submissions and upheld its earlier determination. On or about July 7, 2004, BCCD filed a second-level appeal to the Department's Chief of Staff. A week later, on July 14, 2004, the Chief of Staff issued a letter of denial. Consequently, on October 8, 2005, BCCD filed an appeal to the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner"). The Department filed an answer on November 4, 2005.

On November 5, 2005, the Commissioner requested that the parties submit cross-motions for summary decision. The Department filed a motion for summary decision, together with supporting brief and exhibits, on December 10, 2004. BCCD filed a motion for summary decision, together with supporting brief and certification, on December 13, 2004. On December 30, 2004, the Department filed a reply brief. Subsequently, on February 16, 2005, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for ruling on the motions. The OAL heard oral argument by telephone conference on July 12, 2005.

Findings of Fact

All of the material facts are derived from financial and other official records maintained by BCCD and subject to inspection by the Department during its fiscal monitoring. I FIND the following facts to be undisputed:

[4] The auditors also recommended that BCCD exclude similar items for the following fiscal year should the same type of costs be incurred.

Bergen Center for Child Development, Inc. is a nonprofit private school for the disabled organized under the laws of New Jersey and located in Haworth, New Jersey. BCCD has been approved by the Department to provide special education programs to public school children.[5] Most of BCCD's students come from low income households. Ninety percent of its student population qualifies for the free or reduced lunch program. Because of their economic hardship, BCCD infers that the majority of its students cannot afford to participate "in many outside community experiences that are crucial to developing appropriate social behaviors and community awareness."

More than 100 participants attended the school-sponsored event held at the Colonial Inn on May 23, 2003. BCCD expended $16.50 per person for use of the facility and a multi-course meal. Unlike the typical school prom, the event was not held at night, the students did not bring dates, and participation was not limited to a single grade or class. Staff-to-student ratio at the event was one staff member to every two students, consistent with a regular day of instruction at BCC. School administration had directed staff members in attendance "to carry out each student's instructional goals" and "to discharge their regular instructional duties and responsibilities." The record does not reflect whether any formal academic instruction occurred and, if so, what subjects were taught to such a large group comprised of students of different ages and abilities.

Instead, BCCD promoted the activity as an opportunity for students to practice social skills, improve their ability to communicate and learn proper behavior outside of the school setting. Students had to demonstrate appropriate behavior at school in order to earn enough tokens to attend the event.[6] As such, the event was said to be "an integral part of the token economy plan of behavior modification in effect at BCCD."

[5] The Department's website lists BCCD as a private school approved for classified children with behavioral disabilities, moderate cognitive impairment or multiple disabilities. http://www.nj.gov/njded/specialed/instate/

[6] Those students who did not qualify for the reward were assigned to "an alternative in-school education day."

In support of its contention that the event is consistent with each student's IEP, BCCD relies on the social and life skill goals incorporated "in every student's Annual Instruction Guide (AIG)."[7] Among other desirable outcomes, these goals include: helping children recognize the importance of applying what they learn in school to real life situations, understanding stressful situations and ways to cope with stress, becoming aware of the difference between appropriate and inappropriate behaviors, and demonstrating the importance of good manners for the development of positive relationships with others. Furthermore, BCCD refers to various skill sets taught as part of its regular curriculum, such as etiquette and table manners, proper grooming and hygiene, social interaction, public speaking and learning how to dance. Significantly, the Department has failed to introduce any countervailing evidence to rebut BCCD's showing that the activity is fully consistent with the contents of the students' IEPs.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the Department misapplied the controlling regulations in disallowing the cost in question.

The Legislature has expressed concern for the quality of education for handicapped pupils as well as its overall cost to the public. Council of Private Schools for Children With Special Needs, Inc. v. Cooperman, 205 N.J. Super. 544 (App. Div. 1985). A private school receiving pupils from a local public school district may not charge the local board tuition that exceeds "the actual cost per pupil as determined under rules prescribed by the commissioner and approved by the State Board of Education." N.J.S.A. 18A:46-21. Council of Private Schools, supra. Pursuant to this statutory grant of rule-making power, the Commissioner, with the approval of the State Board, has promulgated regulations governing the maximum tuition rates that may be charged by private schools for the handicapped. N.J.A.C. 6A:23-1.1 to -4.6.

[7] An individualized education program means written plan developed jointly by the parents and school staff "which sets forth present level of performance, measurable annual goals and short-term objectives or benchmarks and describes an integrated sequential program of individually designed instructional activities and related services necessary to achieve the stated goals and objectives." N.J.A.C. 6A:14-1.3.

N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.5(a)(30) (1996) prohibits a private school from passing along to the sending public districts "an ordinary living expense for a student that is normally assumed by the parent of a student attending a public day school." Uncontradicted proofs establish, however, that the event was not a school "prom" in any traditional sense, but more in the nature of a "field trip" outside the school. The event held by BCCD satisfies the literal definition of a "field trip" as "a journey by a group of pupils, away from the school premises, under the supervision of a teacher." N.J.S.A. 18A:36-22. Educators recognize that field trips "are a regular part of a District's program and are designed to help familiarize the students with their community and foster their independence." Clifton Bd. of Educ. v. D.C., OAL Dkt. No. EDS 19771-97, 1998 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 345 (May 1998). Teachers may be assigned to supervise educational trips which are properly part of the curriculum. Parrish v. Moss, 200 Misc. 375, 106 *N.Y.S.*2d 577 (Sup. Ct. 1951), aff'd without opinion, 270 App. Div. 608, 107 *N.Y.S.*2d 580 (App. Div. 1951).

Although public boards of education are legally authorized to impose all or part of the costs of a field trip on the pupils' parents or legal guardians, an express exception exists for "pupils in special education classes and pupils with financial hardship." N.J.S.A. 18A:36-21. In determining financial hardship, the criteria shall be the same as the statewide eligibility standards for free and reduced price meals under the state school lunch program. Id.[8] Consequently, the cost of this field trip would not be normally assumed by the parent of a student who attends public day school. All of the students at BCCD are in special education and, therefore, exempt on that basis alone. Ninety percent of the students at BCDD receive free or reduced price school lunches and are entitled to attend field trips free of charge.

[8] Regardless of whether or not a student can meet these criteria for financial hardship, "no student shall be prohibited from attending a field trip due to inability to pay the fee." N.J.S.A. 18A:36-23.

Next, consideration must be given to whether the cost is "consistent with the students' individualized education program" as mandated by N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.2(a)(1) BCCD's director has represented in his sworn certification that the field trip is "consistent with the objectives of the IEP that address the need for social and life skills as well as personal growth and development." Documents attached to the certification, including annual instructional goals and various curricular materials, substantiate that the teaching of appropriate behavior in social situations is an essential element of each child's program in this specialized school for children with behavioral disabilities. For its part, the Department has not offered any evidence suggesting otherwise. Absent the production of opposing evidence that creates a genuine issue of material fact, summary decision must be entered in favor of BCCD on this issue. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520 (1995); Contini v. Board of Educ., 286 N.J. Super. 106 (App. Div. 1995).

Finally, the question arises whether the cost is "ordinary and necessary and not in excess of the cost which would be incurred by an ordinarily prudent person in the administration of public funds" as provided by N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.2(a)(1) (1996). This particular requirement is more subjective than the others, due to the difficulty of articulating a bright line test for separating reasonable from unreasonable expenses. Few would seriously argue that a sending public district must pay for a trip to Madrid by the Spanish class or front row seats at a top Broadway show for a theater class, although certainly such costs could be justified as serving a legitimate educational purpose. Nonetheless, the Department concedes that the cost of $16.50 per person for a field trip is not inherently excessive and makes no showing that it is unusual or extraordinary. In its reply brief, "the Department does not take issue with whether the amount of money is reasonable, but with whether the event itself was a reasonable expenditure of funds toward special education." Framed in this way, the inquiry becomes whether the field trip advanced the goal of implementing BCCD's behavior modification program and afforded a learning experience for the students. Since the undisputed facts clearly establish the educational value of the field trip, the sending districts must bear their fair share of its cost.

Order

It is ORDERED that the sum of $1,739 be included in setting the tuition rate that BCCD charges to sending public school districts.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners originally filed a pro se Residency Appeal in 2001 challenging the respondent's determination that their children, T.L. and K.L., had lived in West Windsor from January 2000 until April 2001, and therefore owed tuition to Princeton Regional Schools for the period of their ineligible attendance. Petitioners ultimately appealed to the Superior Court, Appellate Division, where it was determined that, despite owning property in both Princeton and West Windsor for a period of time, petitioners' intent during the period at issue was to sell the West Windsor property and establish a permanent home in Princeton. The Appellate Division remanded the matter for the purpose of determining the amount of tuition owed, if any, to the Princeton Regional School District for the period during which the petitioners' children were enrolled between January 3 and February 29, 2000, the date on which petitioners' closed on the purchase of a home in Princeton. A remand hearing was scheduled for August 4, 2005, and notice was mailed to a former address of petitioners. Petitioners failed to appear at the hearing, and aver that they were not properly notified.

At the scheduled hearing, respondent presented ex parte proofs to establish a per diem tuition cost of $56.59 for the 1999-2000 school year; the number of days that school was in session during the period in question was estimated at 37. Based on this information, and the fact that there was no opposition to the certification, the ALJ concluded that petitioners owe respondent $4,187.66 as prorated tuition for T.L. and K.L. for the period from January 3 to February 29, 2000 when they were attending school in Princeton Regional School District while not domiciled there.

Upon review of the record and the initial decision of the ALJ, the Commissioner remands the matter to the OAL for a hearing to determine whether petitioners owe respondent tuition and, if so, how much is due. In so deciding, the Commissioner finds that although petitioners had properly advised the OAL of their change of address, the OAL sent the hearing notice to an address that was a year out of date, preventing petitioners from their right to appear and be heard. The Commissioner further notes that a hearing is necessary in light of the existence of School Policy #5118 (Admission of Non-Resident Students), which allows the waiver of tuition charges for up to sixty days where families intend to move into the district but are temporarily prevented from doing so due to reasons beyond their control.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF PRINCETON REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the parties' exceptions have been independently reviewed. Upon such review the Commissioner is constrained to remand the matter to the OAL.

Petitioners lived in Princeton from March 1995 to June 1998, during which time their children attended Princeton district schools. They moved to West Windsor in 1998 and the two children consequently attended West Windsor schools during the 1998-1999 school year. In November 1999, petitioners listed their West Windsor house for sale and in December 1999, they contracted to purchase a condominium in Princeton. They returned the children to Princeton Schools on January 3, 2000, and closed on the Princeton condominium on February 29, 2000. Because the West Windsor home was on the market for a long time, the family spent time in both homes for the next year and a half, until the West Windsor house was sold.

In March of 2001, upon the report of a guidance counselor, a Princeton attendance officer conducted a residence investigation and observed the children and mother leaving the West Windsor house a few times in the mornings to drive to school in Princeton. Petitioners conceded that they spent time in both homes. They believed that a lived-in home (i.e., the one in West Windsor) would sell faster, and they were, further, redecorating to attract buyers. In addition, petitioners explained that their parents had been visiting from China and staying in the West Windsor home. Nonetheless, on April 4, 2001, respondent notified petitioners that their children were not legal residents of Princeton and would have to be removed from the district schools by April 9, 2001. The notice further advised that tuition would be due for past "illegal" attendance.

On July 24, 2001, petitioners closed on another house in Princeton, at B. Lane, and on August 10, 2001 they moved in. Respondent sent petitioners a letter on August 1, 2001 that the Princeton Board of Education determined after a hearing that petitioners' children had lived in West Windsor from January 2000 through April 6, 2001, and owed tuition. Petitioners appealed to the Commissioner of Education on August 22, 2001.

Petitioners pursued their administrative remedies and ultimately appealed to Superior Court, Appellate Division. The Appellate Division determined that the evidence supported petitioners' position that, although they owned property in both Princeton and West Windsor for a period of time, their intent during the period at issue was always to sell the West Windsor property and establish a permanent home in Princeton. Accordingly, the Appellate Division remanded the matter for the specific purpose of determining "the amount of tuition owed, if any, to the Princeton Regional School District for the period of time the children were enrolled in the district from January 2000 until February 29, 2000, when petitioners closed on the purchase of the Princeton [condominium] home" (emphasis added).

The case was remanded back down the chain to the OAL. A notice for an August 5, 2004 pre-hearing conference was sent out on July 26, 2004. Petitioners wrote to the administrative law judge (ALJ) on July 30, 2004 requesting an adjournment because of a business trip, notifying him that petitioners' address had changed, and asking that all future communications be sent to the new address: H. Drive, Princeton, NJ 08540. Nonetheless, the OAL's notice for the remand hearing, which was set for August 4, 2005, was sent out on July 18, 2000, to B. Lane, where petitioners apparently had not resided for over a year.

Not surprisingly, petitioner did not attend the August 4, 2005, hearing. Respondent presented ex parte proofs to establish a per diem tuition fee to be multiplied by 37 days for two students. The ALJ found that petitioners owed respondent $4187.66, and ordered petitioners to pay.

In their exceptions, petitioners argue: 1) that they were not properly notified about the August 4, 2005, hearing; and 2) that charging them tuition for January 3 through February 29, 2000 would be contrary to respondent's School Policy # 5118, Admission of Nonresident Students, which allows the waiver of tuition charges for up to sixty days where families intend to move into the district but are temporarily prevented from doing so due to reasons beyond their control. As to petitioner's first argument, respondent contends in its reply exceptions that because petitioners received a conference notice a year before the hearing, and were able to acquire a copy of the ALJ's September 2, 2005, Initial Decision on Remand, the Commissioner should assume that petitioners received notice of the August 4, 2005 hearing. As to petitioners' second argument, respondent maintains: 1) that petitioners are precluded from making the argument now because they did not make it at the hearing or at any other time during the proceedings in this matter; 2) that School Policy #5118 is permissive, and does not mandate a waiver for petitioners; and 3) that petitioners did not follow the procedure for requesting a tuition waiver.

The Commissioner need not reach to the merits of the issues raised about Princeton School Policy #5118, because she finds that petitioners did not receive proper notice of the August 4, 2005 hearing. Petitioners properly advised the OAL of their change of address, but the OAL sent the hearing notice to an address that was a year out of date, preventing petitioners from their right to appear and be heard.

Further, the Appellate Division remanded for a finding as to the amount of tuition, if any, that petitioners might owe to respondent. An examination of School Policy #5118, the history of its application, and any facts about the petitioners' circumstances that might be pertinent to the policy, are clearly relevant to an ultimate determination about whether and/or how much tuition is due.

Accordingly, the Commissioner finds that petitioners are entitled to a hearing to determine whether they owe respondent tuition and, if so, how much is due. The Commissioner hereby remands the matter to the OAL for that purpose.

Record Closed: August 4, 2005 Decided: September 2, 2005

BEFORE ANTHONY T. BRUNO, ALJ:

This matter originated as a pro se Residency Appeal filed by D.L. and Z.Y., parents of T.L. and K.L., of the decision by respondent ("Princeton") that D.L. and Z.Y. owned Princeton $27,292.38 for tuition for the period when T.L. and K.L. attended school in the Princeton School District but were not domiciled within the said district. The decision by the State Board of Education affirming the decision of the Commissioner of Education affirming the action of Princeton was appealed to the Appellate Division of Superior Court of New Jersey. The Appellate Division reversed the determination of the State Board of Education and remanded the matter "for a determination of the amount of tuition owed, if any, to the Princeton Regional High School District for the period of time the children were enrolled in the district from January 2000 until February 29, 2000, when petitioners closed on the purchase of the Princeton home."

The matter was eventually transmitted back to the Office of Administrative law for further consideration consistent with the decision of the State Board of Education to conduct such proceedings as may be required to fulfill the terms of the Appellate Division decision. A prehearing conference was scheduled for August 5, 2004 but was adjourned at petitioners' request because they would be on a business trip. The hearing was scheduled for August 4, 2005 at 2 p.m. at the Office of Administrative Law, Mercerville, New Jersey. On that date, time and place counsel for respondent appeared, but neither respondent appeared, nor did anyone telephone or otherwise communicate with the Office of Administrative Law to explain petitioners' non-appearance. Counsel for respondent was granted leave to present ex parte proofs, as permitted at N.J.A.C. 1:1-14,4 (c), to establish the per diem tuition for Princeton schools in January and February 2000.

The Certification of Judy A. Wilson, Superintendent of Schools for the Princeton Regional School District, (Exhibit R-1) affirms that the tuition rate for the 1999-2000 school year was $56.59 per day. Wilson further estimated that school was in session for 37 days during the 8 week period between January 3, 2000 and February 29, 2000, and concludes that the tuition calculated by multiplying $56.59 x 37 days x 2 children was $4187.66. Note should be taken that the information concerning tuition was developed during the March 21, 2002 hearing and was not contested by the petitioners.

There being no opposition to the certification, and the calculations being accurate, I Find as a Fact that the tuition rate of Princeton School District for the 1999-2000 school year was $56.59 per day and there were 37 school days between January 3 and February 29, 2000. I therefore CONCLUDE that petitioners owe respondent $2093.83 for each of their 2 children enrolled in the Princeton school between January 2 and February 29, 2000.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that petitioners reimburse respondent in the amount of $4187.66 as the prorated tuition due between January 3, 2000 and February 29, 2000 for T.L. and K.L. attending school in Princeton Regional High School District while not domiciled therein.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF NEWTON, SUSSEX COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Newton Board of Education appealed Department's determination that the Board was responsible for the 1998-99 and 1999-2000 educational costs of a State-placed student pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12. The State had become the student's legal guardian in January 1996.

The ALJ addressed the matter in two separate decisions, one an Order dealing with the 1998-99 school year and the other an Initial Decision incorporating the Order by reference and dealing with the 1999-2000 school year. For 1998-99, the ALJ found that, on the determinative date for fixing the parents' residency for purposes of local district fiscal responsibility, the parents actually resided in Frankford Township. For 1999-2000, the ALJ found that a newly promulgated rule pertaining to students for whom the State was legal guardian—adopted by the State Board of Education in July 2004—applied retroactively, so that, pursuant to this rule, the State as legal guardian was responsible for the student's 1999-2000 educational costs.

The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's determination that Newton was not responsible for the student's educational costs in either of the years at issue, but modified the ALJ's analysis to hold that the State was responsible for both years in light of the deference to be accorded to the State Board's now-established interpretation of a previously ambiguous aspect of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12 and its implementing rules.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

RECORD SEALED

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF NEWTON, SUSSEX COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), incorporating a Partial Summary Decision issued on July 28, 2004, but not submitted for final agency decision at that time, have been reviewed. The Department of Education (Department) filed exceptions addressing both decisions, and the Newton Board of Education (Newton) duly replied.

In its exceptions, the Department objects, without elaboration, to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) "seemingly inconsistent use of the applicable regulations, i.e., the former N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2 and the current N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2, to reach irreconcilable conclusions." (Respondent's Exceptions at 2)

In reply, Newton references its prior submissions and contends that the ALJ's two decisions—one addressing 1998-99 and the other 1999-2000—together provide a "cohesive resolution" to the underlying appeal. In response to the Department's claim of inconsistency, the district counters that the two decisions are entirely consistent, and it additionally points to the ALJ's statement that the outcome of the second decision—made subsequent to amendment of N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2—would have been the same regardless of which version of the rule was applied. Accordingly, Newton urges, the Commissioner should adopt the ALJ's decisions and issue an order directing the Department to restore all funds withheld for B.S.'s tuition for the 1998-99 and 1999-2000 school years, together with interest, costs and fees. (Petitioner's Reply Exceptions at 2-4, quotation at 2)

Upon review, the Commissioner adopts the ALJ's ultimate determination that Newton is not responsible for B.S.'s educational costs for the years at issue, but modifies the ALJ's reasoning as follows.

Initially, the Commissioner notes that during proceedings at the OAL, this matter was argued largely as a dispute concerning the point at which the residency of B.S.'s parent or guardian should be fixed for purposes of identifying the school district responsible for B.S.'s educational costs. Simply stated, under this framing of the issue, if the determinate date were the point immediately prior to B.S.'s first admission to Devereux-Deerhaven[1] as a resident student (October 21, 1995), as contended by Newton, then the district where B.S.'s parents then resided (Frankford Township) should be responsible for costs; alternatively, if it were the point prior to B.S.'s first placement of any kind by the Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS), as contended by the Department, then Newton would be the responsible district.

However, as became apparent by the time the OAL proceedings were reaching closure, the parties' dispute more accurately turns on the question of how

[1] Although the school's name is given at various places in the record and Initial Decision as "Devere*a*ux-Deerhaven," the Commissioner uses the spelling found in DYFS records, e.g. Exhibit H, Petitioner's December 18, 2003 Motion for Summary Judgment (DYFS Placement Report).

N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12 is to be applied in instances where the State has become the legal guardian of a covered student, as it did for B.S. in January 1996.

N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12 provides in pertinent part, as substantially unchanged from the law's enactment in 1979 (P.L. 1979, c. 207):[2]

> For school funding purposes, the Commissioner of Education shall determine district of residence as follows:
>
> a. The district of residence for children in resource family homes shall be the district in which the resource family parents reside. If a child in a resource family home is subsequently placed in a State facility or by a State agency, the district of residence of the child shall then be determined as if no such resource family placement had occurred.
>
> b. The district of residence for children who are in residential State facilities, or who have been placed by State agencies in group homes, skill development homes, private schools or out-of-State facilities, shall be the present district of residence of the parent or guardian with whom the child lived prior to his most recent admission to a State facility or most recent placement by a State agency.
>
> If this cannot be determined, the district of residence shall be the district in which the child resided prior to such admission or placement.
> ***
> d. If the district of residence cannot be determined according to the criteria contained herein, or if the criteria contained herein identify a district of residence outside of the State, the State shall assume fiscal responsibility for the tuition of the child.

During all times at issue herein, N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2, the rule promulgated to implement this statute, read in pertinent part as follows:

> (a) The district of residence for school funding purposes shall be determined according to the following criteria:
>
> 1. The "present district of residence" of a child in a residential state facility defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3 and referred to in the first paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b means the New Jersey district of residence of the child's parent(s) or guardian(s) as of the last school day prior to October 16.
>
> 2. The "present district of residence" of a child placed by a State > agency in a group home, skill development home, private school or out-of-State facility also referred to in the first paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b means the New Jersey district of residence of the child's parent(s) or guardian(s) as of the date of the child's initial placement by the State agency. In subsequent school years spent in the educational placement made by a State agency, the child's "present district of residence" shall be determined in the same manner as for a child in a residential State facility as set forth in (a)1 above. The "district of residence" referred to in the second paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b means the New Jersey district of residence in which the child resided with his or her legal guardian immediately prior to his or her initial admission to a State facility or placement by a State agency.

[2] P.L. 2004, c.130, s.39, changed the term "foster" to "resource family" throughout N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12.

> (b) The "present district of residence" or "district of residence" referred to in N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b shall be determined by the Commissioner or his or her designee based upon the address submitted by the Department of Corrections, the Department of Human Services or the Juvenile Justice Commission on forms prepared by the Department of Education.

B.S. was placed in Devereux-Deerhaven as a residential student on October 21, 1995; she remained in this placement until November 6, 1998. At that point, she was consecutively placed in two foster homes, but neither placement proved successful. On January 26, 1999, B.S. was once again placed as a resident student in Devereux-Deerhaven, where she remained for the balance of the period at issue herein.

Thus, under the statutory-regulatory scheme set forth above, responsibility for B.S.'s educational costs would have been fixed on dates when the State was undisputedly the student's legal guardian: For 1998-99, the determinative date would have been the last school day prior to October 16, 1998, since 1998-99 was a "subsequent school year" in the same educational placement, pursuant to the second sentence of N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2(a)2. For 1999-2000, it would have been October 16, 1999, since B.S. was at Devereux-Deerhaven at all times subsequent to October 21, 1995—other than the period between November 6, 1998 and January 26, 1999, when she was in foster homes—and N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12a provides that residency determinations for placements made subsequent to placement in a foster home shall be made as if the foster placement(s) had not occurred.

The Department, in applying the above-quoted law to B.S., interpreted her status as a ward of the State to mean that her guardian's "district of residence" could not be determined pursuant to the first paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b; thus, in the Department's reading, the second paragraph of that section would apply instead, so that the district where B.S. resided with her parents immediately prior to her initial placement by DYFS (Newton) would be responsible for her educational costs.

Given the ambiguity of the then-existing legal framework with respect to the effect of State legal guardianship on determining the district of residence pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12, the Commissioner finds the Department's approach—seeking to the greatest extent possible to assign fiscal responsibility for a State-placed student to a local school district based upon the residence of the student's parent or guardian—to have been a reasonable and lawful attempt to fulfill the statute's intent of consistency with the general principles of New Jersey school funding.[3] Indeed, had this matter come to the agency for final decision prior to July 2004, the Commissioner might well have sustained the Department's conclusion that Newton was the district responsible for the years in question.

However, the fact remains that the State Board of Education has now enacted a specific regulation interpreting N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12 with respect to the central question in this matter. On July 7, 2004, the State Board adopted amendments to the above-referenced rule "to clarify and ensure the determination of financial responsibility based on district of residency," [4] so that, as amended effective August 16, 2004, N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2 now reads in pertinent part as follows (changes in italics thus):

> (a) The district of residence for school funding purposes shall be determined according to the following criteria:
>
> 1. The "present district of residence" of a child in a residential state facility defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3 and referred to in the first paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b means the New Jersey district of residence of the child's parent(s) or guardian(s) as of the last school day prior to October 16.
>
> 2. The "present district of residence" of a child placed by a State agency in a group home, skill development home, private school or out-of-State facility also referred to in the first paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b means the New Jersey district of residence of the child's parent(s) or guardian(s) as of the date of the child's initial placement by the State agency. In subsequent school years spent in the educational placement made by a State agency, the child's "present district of residence" shall be determined in the same manner as for a child in a residential State facility as set forth in (a)1 above. The "district of residence" referred to in the second paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b means the New Jersey district of residence in which the child resided [with his or her parent or guardian] immediately prior to his or her [initial] most recent admission to a State facility or most recent placement by a State agency.
>
> 3. If the State becomes the child's legal guardian after the date of the child's initial placement by a State agency, the State will assume financial responsibility for the child's educational costs in subsequent school years.
> (b) The "present district of residence" or "district of residence" referred to in N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b shall be determined by the Commissioner or his or her designee based upon the address submitted by the Department of Corrections, the Department of Human Services or the Juvenile Justice Commission on forms prepared by the Department of Education.

Rules and regulations promulgated by the State Board of Education—as head of the Department of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-1 and the body empowered to implement the school laws of the State, N.J.S.A. 18A:4-15—are to be accorded great deference in interpreting statutes under the agency's jurisdiction.

Maglaki,* 126 N.J. 430, 436-37, 599 A.2d 1256 (1992) Given that the State Board of Education has—by adopting a clarifying rule precisely on point—now acted to interpret N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12 clearly and unequivocally with respect to the effect of State guardianship[5] on district of residency determinations, the Commissioner is guided by the State Board's reading of the statute. Consequently, the Commissioner finds that, because the State undisputedly became B.S.'s legal guardian by virtue of the January 17, 1996 court order[6] issued pursuant to N.J.S.A. 30:4C-15 et seq. (Exhibit B, Petitioner's January 2005 Motion for Partial Summary Decision on Remaining Issues), responsibility for her 1998-99 and 1999-2000 educational costs pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12 are properly found to lie with the State.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL, as expanded and modified herein, is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Newton's motion for summary decision is granted with respect to both years at issue, and the Department is directed to restore all funds withheld from the district as payment for B.S.'s tuition for the 1998-99 and 1999-2000 school years. However, the Commissioner rejects Newton's request for prejudgment interest as without support in the record, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17, and its request for costs and attorney fees as contrary to the well-established principle that the Commissioner may not direct such compensation in the absence of express statutory [6] At various places in the record and Initial Decision, the date of State assumption of B.S.'s guardianship is given as January 16, 1996 and January 17, 1995; the date of the actual court order is January 17, 1996. The Commissioner also notes that this order is erroneously referenced, in the ALJ's Order at 2 and Initial Decision at 3, as the instrument of effectuating B.S.'s placement into DYFS custody in 1992.

BOARD OF EDUCATION TOWN OF NEWTON, SUSSEX COUNTY,

Record Closed: April 22, 2005 Decided: June 7, 2005

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On June 5, 2000, the petitioner, Newton Board of Education ("Newton" or "Board") filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking an Order reversing the determination of the respondent, New Jersey Department of Education,

Newton School District is the district of residence for B.S., and therefore, responsible for B.S.' tuition costs. Additionally, petitioner sought costs, attorney's fees and such other relief that the Commissioner deemed equitable.

On June 22, 2000, the NJDOE filed an Answer wherein it sought, inter alia, dismissal of the petition.

On August 10, 2000, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing as a contested case. After a prehearing conference, the matter was scheduled for hearing on December 11, 2001. The matter was adjourned and rescheduled on several occasions. On October 23, 2002, an Order was issued by the undersigned providing for a disclosure of certain Division of Youth and Family Service records of B.S. A June 17, 2003, an Order issued that denied Emergency Interim Relief and or a Stay which, if granted, would have enjoined the respondent from withholding $55,000 in state aid to the Newton School District.

Thereafter the parties moved for summary judgment. On July 28, 2004, Partial Summary Decision was entered in favor of the petitioner, Newton BOE. Specifically, it was found that for the September to November portion of the 1989-1999 school year, B.S. did not reside in the district but resided in Frankford Township, the place of residence of her parents. However, Summary Decision was denied for the period beginning January 26, 1999, since no evidence was submitted concerning the parents' residence at that time.

Thereafter, the parties exchanged further discovery and motions were filed on the subsequent time period. This decision addresses that subsequent time frame, commencing on January 26, 1999.

FACTS

Based on the record, I FIND the following FACTS:

On or about August 26, 1992, the Division of Youth and Family Services ("Division") notified the Newton Public School Child Study Team, that B.S., a 10-year-old District student, was placed in the care and custody of the Division on or about August 14, 1992. The placement was pursuant to an Order of the Superior Court on January 17, 1995.

The Division placed B.S. and a sibling in a foster home in Branchville, Sussex County, outside of the Newton School District. While in the Sussex-Wantage Regional School District, B.S. was assessed by their child study team. She was classified as emotionally disturbed (ED) and was placed at the Durand Academy. In October 1995, B.S. was placed at Devereaux Deerhaven (Devereaux) Chester, N.J. Devereaux is a residential facility that treats emotionally disturbed and sexually abused adolescents. B.S.' parents continued to reside in Newton, N.J. On November 10, 1992, the NJDOE determined B.S.'s district of residence to be Newton, N.J. where B.S.'s parents resided. B.S. attended Devereaux from October 21, 1995 until November 6, 1998. Thereafter, B.S. was placed in two separate foster homes. On January 26, 1999, B.S. was again placed in Devereaux.[1] DYFS was awarded guardianship of B.S. on January 17, 1996[2]

On November 1, 1996, the NJDOE sent a letter to the Frankford Township Board of Education notifying it that it was the responsible school district for B.S., as her parents' residence "lies within the boundaries of the Frankford Township School District." Therefore, a determination was made that the responsible district for B.S.'s tuition costs was Frankford Township.

On March 18, 1999, the NJDOE again determined that B.S.'s district of residence as the Newton School District pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(b). The letter from the NJDOE provided:

[1] Newton is only seeking reimbursement of budgetary funds withheld through the 1999-2000 school year.

[2] The NJDOE letter to the Frankford Township Board of Education states that the parents' residence is in "Frankford Township School District. However, the street address is listed as Newton, in portions of the record. The actual school district was the Frankford School District. It is argued that Newton is listed as the street address because that is the post office location for residents of the Frankford School District.

> The Department of Human Services has asked my office to determine the district of residence for [B.S.], a child who was placed by DYFS with Devereaux-Deerhaven . . . on January 27, 1999.
>
> The specific facts in this case are as follows:
>
> 1. The child has been a ward of the state since January 17, 1996, but the state was not legal guardian at the time of initial placement by DYFS with the Teaching Family Home of [redacted][3] Therefore, we must refer to the second criteria in our determination, which is the address of parent or guardian as of the date of initial placement. . .
>
> 2. Parent(s) [were residents at [redacted information] as of the date of initial placement on August 19, 1994.[4] (Exhibit K)

LEGAL ARGUMENT

The NJDOE argues that this initial placement in 1993 is the date that should be utilized when determining the responsible district of residence and at that time the parents' address was in Newton, New Jersey. Petitioner contends that on October 21, 1995, the initial date of admission to Devereaux-Deerhaven, B.S.'s parents' residency was in Frankford Township, and that is the date that should be used for determination of the responsible district of residence.

FINDINGS, DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

Under the New Jersey Uniform Procedure Rules, a party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues in a case. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). When considering this motion, the Administrative Law Judge may make a ruling in favor of the motion when the papers filed along with any supporting affidavits show that no genuine issue as to any material fact exists and that the moving party is entitled to a decision as a matter of law. Ibid.

[3] The information is redacted because it is confidential pursuant to N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.10(a).

The summary decision rule is essentially the same as the summary judgment rule under the New Jersey Rules of Court, which permits a party to move for summary judgment if:

> The pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to judgment or order as a matter of law. An issue of fact is genuine only if, considering the burden of persuasion at trial, the evidence submitted by the parties on the motion, together with all legitimate inferences therefrom favoring the non-moving party, would require submission of the issue to the trier of fact.
> [R. 4:46-2(c).]

The Supreme Court in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995), provided further guidance for the summary decision analysis: "whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require [a hearing] or whether it is so one sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 536. Thus, a court should deny a summary judgment only where the party opposing the motion has come forward with evidence that creates a genuine issue of material fact. Id. at 529. I FIND that the instant matter is appropriate, in part, for summary disposition.

As noted, I have previously determined that the Frankford School District was the responsible party for B.S.' tuition costs for October 21, 1995 to November 6, 1998. One month after my decision, the controlling regulation, N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2 was amended. It provides in its pertinent part that:

> If the State becomes the child's legal guardian after the date of the child's initial placement by a State agency, the State > will assume financial responsibility for the child's educational costs in subsequent school years.

[4] The actual date of initial placement was August 19, 1993, not 1994, since 1993 is the year used by the NJDOE in its brief and in Newton's reply letter, dated August 4, 1999 (Exhibit L) and is the date listed in Exhibit H, which is a DYFS placement report.

> [N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2(a)(3).]

Consequently, petitioner argues that, pursuant to the "time of decision" rule, the regulation as amended, should apply herein. The respondent opposes this contention and argues that the "time of decision" rule is inapplicable because this matter was not "pending" at the time the current regulation became effective. Respondent argues that this case is on appeal since June 2000, when the petitioner filed an appeal from the NJDOE's determination that it was the district of residence. Thus, it must be decided whether the previous regulation applies pursuant to the presumption against retroactivity or whether the current regulations apply pursuant to the "time of decision" rule.[5]

Courts have found current law generally applicable for administrative decision-making, when the law changes while a case is pending. Ziffrin, Inc. v. United States, 318 U.S. 73, 78 (1942); see also Commissioner v. Peter A. Ladas, 2004 WL 3743375 (N.J. Adm). An administrative agency must apply the law at the time of its decision, "[o]therwise the administrative body would issue orders contrary to the existing legislation." Ziffrin, supra, 318 U.S. at 78. An exception to the "time of decision" rule is that a current law may not be applied if it will divest a vested right a party obtained under the prior law. Riggs v. Long Beach Tp., 101 N.J. 515, 521 (1986).

In Landgraf v. USI Film Products, 511 U.S. 244 (1994), the United States Supreme Court examined the distinction between the presumption against retroactivity and the "time of decision" rule. The Court found the general presumption against retroactive legislation "deeply rooted in our jurisprudence." Id. at 265. The Court reasoned "[e]lementary considerations of fairness dictate that individuals should have an opportunity to know what the law is and to conform their conduct accordingly." Ibid. Indeed, it has been recognized that "the legal effect of conduct should ordinarily be assessed under the law that existed when the conduct took place has timeless and universal appeal." Ibid. The Court found, however, the "time of decision" rule applies when the statute either affects the propriety of prospective relief, or clearly states it is to be applied retroactively. Id. at 273.

The New Jersey Supreme Court described the "time of decision" rule as "a well-established principle that an appellate court on direct review will apply the statute in effect at the time of its decision, at least when the legislature intended that its modification be retroactive to pending cases." Kruvant v. Mayor & Council of Cedar Grove, 82 N.J. 435, 440 (1980); S&L Assocs., Inc. v. Washington Twp., 35 N.J. 224, 227 (1961); Borough of Little Ferry v. Bergen County Sewer Auth., 9 N.J. 536 (1952). The purpose underlying the principle is to effectuate the current policy declared by the legislative body. Kruvant, supra 82 N.J. at 440.

Current statutes and regulations "may be retroactively applied where 'the Legislature has expressed its intent, either explicitly or implicitly,' that they should be so applied, 'when the reasonable expectations of those affected by the regulations warrant such application,' or when the regulation is ameliorative or curative." Seashore Ambulatory Surgery Ctr., Inc. v. State Dep't of Health, 288 N.J. Super. 87 (App. Div. 1996) (citing Twiss v. State, Dep't of Treasury, 124 N.J. 461 (1991). Pursuant to the ameliorative or "curative exception to prospective application, a new law is given retroactive effect 'if it is designed merely to carry out or explain the intent of the original statute.'" Serrano v. Gibson, 304 N.J. Super, 314, 319 (App. Div. 1977). Stated another way, the new law's purpose is merely to remedy a perceived imperfection in or misapplication of a statute." Ibid.

In the instant matter, the New Jersey Register provides that N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2 was amended '"to clarify and ensure the determination of financial responsibility based on district of residency." CF: 36 N.J.R. 1313(a), 1316 (emphasis added). Section (a)(3) was added to N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2 to clarify and ensure the results set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12. Therefore, I FIND that "time of decision" rule applies because section (a)(3) falls under the ameliorative or curative exception to prospective application because it is designed merely to carry out or explain the intent of the original statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12. The agency intended N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12 to obtain the exact same results whether applying the previous or current version of N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2.

The next issue is the determination of B.S.'s residing during the period in issue.

Determining a child's district of residence is governed by N.J.S.A. 18A-7B-12 which states in relevant part:

> For school funding purposes, the Commissioner of Education shall determine district of residence as follows:
>
> b. The district of residence for children who are in residential State facilities, or who have been placed by State agencies in group homes, skill development homes, private schools or out-of-State facilities, shall be the present district of residence of the parent or guardian with whom the child lived prior to his most recent admission to a State facility or most recent placement by a State agency.
>
> If this cannot be determined, the district of residence shall be the district in which the child resided prior to such admission or placement.
>
> . . .
>
> d. If the district of residence cannot be determined according to the criteria contained herein, or if the criteria contained herein identify a district of residence outside of the State, the State shall assume fiscal responsibility for the tuition of the child.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12.]

The criteria for determining a school child's district of residence is provided in N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2:

> (a) The district of residence for school funding purposes shall be determined according to the following criteria:

1. The "present district of residence" of a child in a residential state facility defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3 and referred to in the first paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b means the New Jersey district of residence of the child's parent(s) or guardian(s) as of the last school day prior to October 16.

2. The "present district of residence" of a child placed by a State agency in a group home, skill development home, private school or out-of-state facility also referred to in the first paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b means the New Jersey district of residence of the child's parent(s) or guardian(s) as of the date of the child's initial placement by the State agency. In subsequent school years spent in the educational placement made by a State agency, the child's "present district of residence" shall be determined in the same manner as for a child in a residential State facility as set forth in (a)1 above. The "district of residence" referred to in the second paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b means the New Jersey district of residence in which the child resided immediately prior to his or her most recent admission to a State facility or most recent placement by a State agency.

3. If the State becomes the child's legal guardian after the date of the child's initial placement by a State agency, the State will assume financial responsibility for the child's educational costs in subsequent school years.

[N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2.]

The facts in this case are clearly governed by N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2(a)(3). I FIND that the State became B.S.'s legal guardian on January 16, 1996, which is after the date of B.S.'s initial placement by DYFS in Devereaux-Deerhaven in 1995. Further, the State remained B.S.'s legal guardian when she was enrolled for subsequent school years and after she left Devereaux-Deerhaven from November 6, 1998 through her re-enrollment on January 26, 1999. Therefore, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2(a)(3), I CONCLUDE the State is financially responsible for B.S.'s educational costs for the period of January 26, 1999 through June 27, 2000.

I further FIND that this holding still prevails even under the previous version of N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2. I FIND that under the prior version, B.S. most recent placement was the January 26, 1999 placement at Devereaux-Deerhaven. Her prior placement (October 21, 1995) ended when she was discharged from the facility on November 6, 1998. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(b), the district of residence for B.S. "shall be the present district of residence of the parent or guardian with whom the child lived prior to his . . . most recent placement by a State agency." Guardianship of B.S. was awarded to the State on January 17, 1996. Therefore, the State, and neither of B.S.'s parents, was B.S.'s guardian prior to her most recent placement on January 26, 1999. C.F. Prospect Park Bd. Of Educ. V. State of New Jersey, Dept. of Education, 97 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 134, affirmed in part and remanded in part, Comm.r at 140.

CONCLUSION

Thus, for the foregoing reasons, summary decision is hereby GRANTED in favor of the petitioner Newton Board of Education for the placement of B.S. from January 26, 1999 to June 27, 2000 and respondent's cross motion is hereby DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 7399-00

AGENCY DKT. NO. 221-6/00

BOARD OF EDUCATION TOWN OF NEWTON, SUSSEX COUNTY,

Petitioner,

NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, DIVISION OF FINANCE,

Respondent.

Allan P. Dzwilewski, Esq., for petitioner
(Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler, LLP, attorneys)

Kimberley Lake Franklin, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent
(Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General, attorneys)

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On June 5, 2000, the petitioner, Newton Board of Education ("Newton" or "Board") filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking an Order reversing the determination of the respondent, New Jersey Department of Education, Division of Finance, Office of School Finance ("NJDOE" or "Respondent") that the

Newton School District is the district of residence for B.S., and therefore, responsible for B.S.' tuition costs. Additionally, petitioner sought costs, attorney's fees and such other relief that the Commissioner deemed equitable.

On June 22, 2000, the NJDOE filed an Answer wherein it sought, inter alia, dismissal of the petition.

On August 10, 2000, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing as a contested case. After a prehearing conference, the matter was scheduled for hearing on December 11, 2001. The matter was adjourned and rescheduled on several occasions. On October 23, 2002, an Order was issued by the undersigned providing for a disclosure of certain Division of Youth and Family Service records of B.S. A June 17, 2003, an Order issued that denied Emergency Interim Relief and or a Stay which, if granted, would have enjoined the respondent from withholding $55,000 in state aid to the Newton School District.

FACTS

The salient facts that give rise to the instant controversy are as follows:

On or about August 26, 1992, the Division of Youth and Family Services ("Division") notified the Newton Public School Child Study Team, that B.S., a 10-year-old District student, was placed in the care and custody of the Division on or about August 14, 1992. The placement was pursuant to an Order of the Superior Court on January 17, 1995.

The Division placed B.S. and a sibling in a foster home in Branchville, Sussex County, outside of the Newton School District. While in the Sussex-Wantage Regional School District, B.S. was assessed by their child study team. She was classified as emotionally disturbed (ED) and was placed at the Durand Academy. In October 1995, B.S. was placed at Devereaux Deerhaven (Devereaux) Chester, N.J. Devereaux is a residential facility that treats emotionally disturbed and sexually abused adolescents.

B.S.' parents continued to reside in Newton, N.J. On November 10, 1992, the NJDOE determined B.S.'s district of residence to be Newton, N.J. where B.S.'s parents resided. B.S. attended Devereaux from October 21, 1995 until November 6, 1998. Thereafter, B.S. was placed in two separate foster homes. On January 26, 1999, B.S. was again placed in Devereaux.[1] DYFS was awarded guardianship of B.S. on January 17, 1996[2]

On November 1, 1996, the NJDOE sent a letter to the Frankford Township Board of Education notifying it that it was the responsible school district for B.S., as her parents' residence "lies within the boundaries of the Frankford Township School District." Therefore, a determination was made that the responsible district for B.S.'s tuition costs was Frankford Township.

On March 18, 1999, the NJDOE again determined that B.S.'s district of residence as the Newton School District pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(b). The letter from the NJDOE provided:

> The Department of Human Services has asked my office to determine the district of residence for [B.S.], a child who was placed by DYFS with Devereaux, Deerhaven. . . on January 27, 1999.
>
> The specific facts in this case are as follows:
>
> 1. The child has been a ward of the state since January 17, 1996, but the state was not legal guardian at the time of initial placement by DYFS with the Teaching Family Home of [redacted][3] Therefore, we must refer to the second criteria in our determination, which is the address of parent or guardian as of the date of initial placement. . .
> 2. Parent(s) [were residents at [redacted information] as of the date of initial

[1] Newton is only seeking reimbursement of budgetary funds withheld through the 1999-2000 school year.

[2] The NJDOE letter to the Frankford Township Board of Education states that the parents' residence is in "Frankford Township School District. However, the street address is listed as Newton, in portions of the record. The actual school district was the Frankford School District. It is argued that Newton is listed as the street address because that is the post office location for residents of the Frankford School District.

[3] The information is redacted because it is confidential pursuant to N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.10(a).

placement on August 19, 1994.[4] (Exhibit K)

LEGAL ARGUMENT

The NJDOE argues that this initial placement in 1993 is the date that should be utilized when determining the responsible district of residence and at that time the parents' address was in Newton, New Jersey. Petitioner contends that on October 21, 1995, the initial date of admission to Devereaux-Deerhaven, B.S.'s parents' residency was in Frankford Township, and that is the date that should be used for determination of the responsible district of residence.

FINDINGS, DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

Under the New Jersey Uniform Procedure Rules, a party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues in a case. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). When considering this motion, the Administrative Law Judge may make a ruling in favor of the motion when the papers filed along with any supporting affidavits show that no genuine issue as to any material fact exists and that the moving party is entitled to a decision as a matter of law. Ibid.

The summary decision rule is essentially the same as the summary judgment rule under the New Jersey Rules of Court, which permits a party to move for summary judgment if:

> The pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to judgment or order as a matter of law. An issue of fact is genuine only if, considering the burden of persuasion at trial, the evidence submitted by the parties on the motion, together with all legitimate inferences therefrom favoring the non-moving > party, would require submission of the issue to the trier of fact.

[4] The actual date of initial placement was August 19, 1993, not 1994, since 1993 is the year used by the NJDOE in its brief and in Newton's reply letter, dated August 4, 1999 (Exhibit L) and is the date listed in Exhibit H, which is a DYFS placement report.

> [R. 4:46-2(c).]

The Supreme Court in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995), provided further guidance for the summary decision analysis: "whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require [a hearing] or whether it is so one sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 536. Thus, a court should deny a summary judgment only where the party opposing the motion has come forward with evidence that creates a genuine issue of material fact. Id. at 529. I FIND that the instant matter is appropriate, in part, for summary disposition.

There are two determinations required in the instant matter. The first is to determine the district of residence of B.S.' parents on October 21, 1995, as that is the pertinent date for the first portion of the 1998-1999 school year (through November 6, 1998). The second determination required is B.S.'s parents' address as of January 26, 1999, as that is the pertinent date for the second portion of the 1998-1999 and the full 1999-2000 school years.

The district of residence determination is governed by N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12, which states in relevant part that:

> For school funding purposes, the Commissioner of Education shall determine district of residence as follows:
>
> a. The district of residence for children in foster homes shall be the district in which the foster parents reside. If a child in a foster home is subsequently placed in a State facility or by a State agency, the district of residence of the child shall then be determined as if no such foster placement has occurred.
>
> b. The district of residence for children who are in residential State facilities, or who have been placed by State agencies in group homes, private schools or out-of-State facilities, shall be the present district of residence of the parent or guardian with whom the child lived prior > to his most recent admission to a State facility or most recent placement by a State agency.

> If this cannot be determined, the district of residence shall be the district in which the child resided prior to such admission or placement.
>
> ******
>
> c. If the district of residence cannot be determined according to the criteria contained herein, ... the State shall assume fiscal responsibility for the tuition of the child. ...
>
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12.]

The implementing regulations defines district of residence as:

> (a) The district of residence for school funding purposes shall be determined according to the following criteria:
>
> 1. The "present district of residence" of a child in a residential state facility defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3 and referred to in the first paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b means the New Jersey district of residence of the child's parent(s) or guardian(s) as of the last school day prior to October 16.
>
> 2. The "present district of residence" of a child placed by a State agency in a group home, skill development home, private school or out-of-State facility also referred to in the first paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b means the New Jersey district of residence of the child's parent(s) or guardian(s) as of the date of the child's initial placement by the State agency. ... The "district of residence" referred to in the second paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12b means the New Jersey district of residence in which the child resided with his or her legal guardian immediately prior to his or her initial admission to a State facility or placement by a State agency.

[N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2 (emphasis added).][5]

Prospect Park Board of Education v. State of New Jersey, Department of Education, Bureau of School Finance, et. al, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d(EDU) 134, affirmed in part and remanded in part, Comm'r at 140. The School District contested the NJDOE's finding that it was the responsible district, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12. There, the child was placed in foster care on November 2, 1990 and remained in a foster home until November 26, 1990, at which time she was admitted to Bergen Pines County Hospital. In December of 1990, it appears that she was admitted to the Holley Center for the first time until her discharge on August 29, 1991.[6] After her discharge from the Holley Center, she was consecutively placed in two different foster homes. Thereafter, she then stayed in a shelter for two weeks prior to returning to the Holley Center on June 15, 1992. It was determined that L.L.'s mother's residence during her second stay at the Holley Center was Prospect Park. It was held that:

> Viewed in its correct context, the term "initial placement" in the regulation must mean the latest or most recent time when the child was placed in a state facility or private school and not an earlier placement that occurred years ago and has been superseded by intervening events. ... Any contrary interpretation would run directly counter to the express statutory language and thereby exceed the agency's proper rule-making authority. Administrative regulations cannot alter the terms of a legislative enactment or frustrate the policy embodied in the statute.
> [Prospect Park BOE, supra 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 137. (citations omitted)]

The Commissioner agreed with findings and conclusions that Prospect Park was the responsible school district within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12. The Commissioner remanded the case for further findings concerning the unilateral placement of the student by DYFS.

[5] The regulation in effect on January 26, 1999, was codified as N.J.A.C. 6:20-5.3. The current regulation is essentially the same after the recodification to 6A, with only minor administrative changes that do not affect the current matter.

[6] The dates of the Bergen Pines and Holley Center placements are not clear, but the date of discharge from L.L's first stay at the Holley Center is certain.

I FIND and CONCLUDE that the Prospect Park BOE is controlling herein. The respondent is attempting to refer back to DYFS' initial placement of B.S. and not the current placement. During the placement of B.S. in Devereaux from October 21, 1995 to November 6, 1998, her parents lived within the Frankford School District, as was acknowledged by the NJDOE in its November 1, 1996, letter to the Frankford Township Board of Education. Therefore, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12, N.J.A.C. 6A:23-5.2, and Prospect Park BOE, supra, Frankford Township Board of Education is the responsible district for B.S.'s tuition costs for the first portion of the 1998-1999 school year.

However, I FIND that because B.S. was discharged from Devereaux on or about November 6, 1998, but readmitted on January 26, 1999, more information is needed to determine the residence of her parents on January 26, 1999 that a determination of the responsible school district as of January 26, 1999 can be made.

CONCLUSION

Consequently, partial summary decision is hereby GRANTED in favor of the petitioner Newton Board of Education for the September to November 6th portion of the 1998-1999 school year since the parents resided in Frankford Township. Summary Decision is hereby DENIED for the period beginning January 26, 1999, the date of the most recent placement, because there is no evidence submitted concerning the residence of B.S.'s parents at that time. This matter is set down for plenary hearing on October 18, 2005.

This order may be reviewed by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, either upon interlocutory review, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10, or at the end of the contested case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6.

MONMOUTH-OCEAN EDUCATIONAL SERVICES COMMISSION,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, MONMOUTH COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner Monmouth-Ocean Educational Services Commission (ESC) filed a Petition of Appeal alleging that the NJDOE, through the Office of the County Superintendent, has improperly denied reimbursement for administrative costs under N.J.S.A. 18A:46-19.1 to 9 (Chapter 193), which provides remedial services for handicapped students in both public and private schools. NJDOE asserts that petitioner could not charge for administrative expenses under Chapter 193 funding. The parties filed cross-motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioner ESC is contracted to provide educational services on behalf of several school districts in Monmouth and Ocean counties; petitioner included general administrative expenses in their budget between 1979 and 2004; in April 2004, subsequent to periodic monitoring of one of the districts to which the ESC is contracted for services, respondent issued – for the first time – a non-compliance order regarding petitioner's charge of administrative expenses to Chapter 193 funding; the legislative intent was that administrative expenses could be charged from Chapter 193 funding, but with some limitation; in the absence of any specific legislative limitation on administrative funding, the 6% standard found in N.J.S.A. 18A:46A-8 shall apply to Chapter 193 expenses; and the respondent's rejection of the administrative expenses after twenty-five years represents a new policy or rule that was not properly promulgated according to the New Jersey Administrative Procedure Act. (APA) The ALJ ordered that the respondent's decision to deny reimbursement or administrative expenses for Chapter 193 services be reversed, and recommended that the respondent formulate new regulations to clarify the limitation and reimbursement issues as to Chapter 193 administrative expenses.

The Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ in this matter, emphasizing that – when read in conjunction with the statutory and regulatory provisions found at N.J.S.A. 18A:46-19.8 and N.J.A.C. 6A:14-6.3(a), which relate directly to Chapter 193 funds – the ALJ's analysis conclusively establishes that funding for administrative costs must come from Chapter 193 funds; moreover, the Commissioner concurs that the respondent's denial of reimbursement for administrative expenses for Chapter 193 services constitutes an administrative rule that should have been promulgated pursuant to the APA. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8786-04
AGENCY DKT. NO. 286-8/04

MONMOUTH-OCEAN EDUCATIONAL SERVICES COMMISSION, PETITIONER, V. NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, MONMOUTH COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS, RESPONDENT.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The exceptions filed by the Department of Education (Department) were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching her determination herein.

In its exceptions, the Department takes issue with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) reliance on N.J.S.A. 18A:6-51(e) and (j), claiming that it formed the basis for the ALJ's holding that Chapter 193 funds can be used for administrative costs. (Department's Exceptions at 2-3) The Department avers that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-51(e) and (j) expressly allow Educational Service Commissions (ESCs) to charge their client districts for administrative expenses, but that the issue is not whether ESCs may charge their client districts for administrative costs; instead, the issue is whether the specific State aid provided to districts under Chapter 193 may be used in this manner. (Id. at 3) Thus, the Department avers, whether administrative costs may be charged against Chapter 193 funding should be limited to a consideration of the services required by Chapter 193 itself and should not include a discussion of the laws governing the creation and administration of ESC's generally. (Id. at 4)

The Department also excepts to the ALJ's reliance on Airwork, supra, arguing that, in that matter, the Supreme Court rejected plaintiff's claim that an administrative policy conformed with legislative intent because the Legislature had not objected upon publication of a press release that set forth the administrative agency's policy regarding the statute at issue. (Id. at 5) Moreover, the Department contends, unlike the situation in Airwork, there is no previously enacted policy or statutory interpretation at issue in the present matter. (Ibid.) The Department thus urges that the Legislature's failure to prevent petitioner's practice of using Chapter 193 funds for payment of administrative costs for the last twenty-five years does not constitute Legislative approval of any pre-existing administrative policy. (Ibid.) Moreover, the Department claims that it simply had not recognized the need to either develop monitoring procedures or create regulations with respect to the use of Chapter 193 funds for administrative costs until the instant litigation. (Id. at 5-6)

Additionally, the Department disagrees that its noncompliance determination underlying this issue satisfies each of the six criteria for an administrative rule as set forth in Metromedia, supra, and thus constitutes a new administrative rule made in violation of the Administrative Procedure Act. (Id. at 6) In this regard, the Department takes exception to the ALJ's determination that its noncompliance determination meets the third Metromedia criterion for constituting an administrative rule, i.e., that it was "designed to operate prospectively." (Id. at 7) Although the Department admits that its finding against petitioner is intended to prevent Chapter 193 funds from being used for administrative costs in the future, it also argues that its noncompliance finding was not intended "to create a new rule 'designed to operate only in future cases,'" but "was meant only as an application of the Chapter 193 laws as written, in the best judgment of the Department at that time." (Ibid.) Additionally, the Department asserts that its noncompliance determination does not meet the fifth Metromedia criterion because its "publication of the Chapter 193 laws in this case was not 'contrary to twenty-five years of existing policy' of the Department, but only contrary to petitioner's own practice" because the Department has not articulated a policy regarding administrative costs under Chapter 193. (Id. at 7-8) Finally, the Department states that it welcomes the opportunity to promulgate State Board regulations regarding the use of Chapter 193 funds as urged by the ALJ. (Id. at 8)

Upon a careful and independent review of the record, the Initial Decision, and the exception arguments filed in this matter, the Commissioner determines to adopt the ALJ's findings and conclusions as set forth in the Initial Decision. Notwithstanding the Department's contention that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-51(e) and (j) should not be utilized to form the basis for finding that Chapter 193 funds can be used for administrative costs, the Commissioner disagrees. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-51(e) and (j) simply set forth the definitions of "Commission expenses" and "program or service expenses," respectively, and, thus, are instructive to the assessment of the operation of ESCs. However, the conclusion that Chapter 193 administrative funds are recoverable does not turn on these definitions, but, instead, turns on the conclusion that the statutes governing commissions and the interpretative case law provide for collection of all costs with respect to the provision of remedial and auxiliary services to school districts.

Although Chapter 193 itself is silent on administrative costs, as fully explained by the ALJ, statutes should be read in pari materia when the statutes in question were enacted during the same session, went into effect at the same time and/or when the sections are part of the same act, as in this case. The ALJ reached the conclusion that Chapter 193 funds can be used for administrative costs only after a thorough analysis of all the statutes that are inextricably a part of the provision of remedial and auxiliary services to local school districts, i.e.: N.J.S.A. 18A:6-51 to -70, specifically N.J.S.A. 18A:6-51(e) and (j), N.J.S.A. 18A:6-52(a) and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-63; N.J.S.A. 18A:46A-8; N.J.S.A. 18A:46-19.1; and a review of interpretative case law.

In this regard, the Commissioner determines that the ALJ correctly analyzed the statutory provisions related to funding sources for ESCs to arrive at the conclusion that the legislative scheme contemplates that the ESC will recover all its costs. The following statutory and regulatory provisions, which relate directly to Chapter 193 funds, further support the ALJ's conclusion:

> In preparing its annual budget, each board of education shall include as a revenue State aid in an amount equal to the estimated costs of providing services to nonpublic school children, pursuant to *P.L.*1977, *c.*193 (C.18A:46-9.1 et al.) N.J.S.A. 18A:46-19.8.
> Each board of education of the district in which the nonpublic school is located shall provide programs and services under this subchapter at a cost not to exceed the amount of State aid funds. N.J.A.C. 6A:14-6.3(a).

When read in conjunction with the above-quoted statutory and regulatory provisions, the ALJ's analysis conclusively establishes that funding for administrative costs must come from Chapter 193 funds; public schools and educational services entities may not subsidize the costs of nonpublic programs by diverting funds for or from other public educational programs.

Moreover, the Commissioner rejects the Department's argument that the ALJ's reliance on Airwork, supra, is misplaced. While the court in Airwork rejected the plaintiff's claim that an administrative policy conformed with legislative intent because the Legislature had not objected upon publication of a press release that described the administrative agency's policy regarding the statute at issue in that matter, the court in Airwork also clarified the circumstances when Legislative intent could or could not be inferred from administrative construction, stating:

> We note that courts have acknowledged that the practical administrative construction of a statute over a period of years without interference by the Legislature is evidence of its conformity with the legislative intent and should be given great weight by the courts. (citations omitted) Nevertheless, the court will consider this factor only when it is not satisfied that the Legislature's intent cannot otherwise be determined by a critical examination of the purposes, policies, and language of the enactment. When such circumstances point strongly to the imputation of a particular legislative intent, they may not be outweighed or overcome simply by a countervailing administrative practice. (citations omitted) Airwork, supra, at 296.

In the instant matter, there is no clear legislative intent regarding the issue of the payment of administrative costs from Chapter 193 funds. To conclude that the omission of specific language in Chapter 193 prevents the ESCs from calculating administrative expenses in determining the costs of providing remedial services would result in a departure from the legislative scheme as set forth in similar statutes governing the provision of remedial and auxiliary services. Moreover, notwithstanding the Department's contention to the contrary, the Department permitted, whether consciously or by inaction, the payment of administrative expenses out of Chapter 193 funds for approximately twenty-five years. Thus, in the absence of a clear legislative intent within the statute itself and the Department's practice of permitting the use of Chapter 193 funds for administrative expenses without legislative interference over a twenty-five year period, the Commissioner agrees that such inaction can be construed as evidence of conformity with legislative intent pursuant to the parameters established in Airwork, supra.

The Commissioner also rejects the Department's claim that its denial of reimbursement for administrative expenses from Chapter 193 funds does not satisfy the third and fifth criteria of Metromedia so as to constitute an administrative rule. Whether the Department's noncompliance finding was intended to create a new rule designed to operate only in future cases, or, as argued, was meant only as an application of the Chapter 193 law as written, it was "designed to operate only in future cases" and, thus, satisfies the third criterion. See Metromedia, supra, at 331. Likewise, with respect to the fifth criterion of Metromedia, the Department's determination to deny reimbursement for administrative expenses from Chapter 193 funds is, in effect, an "administrative policy," whether articulated or not, that was "not previously expressed in any official and explicit agency determination, adjudication or rule or constitutes a material and significant change from a clear, agency position on the identical subject matter." (Ibid.) The Commissioner, therefore, concurs that the Department's denial of reimbursement for administrative expenses for Chapter 193 services constitutes an administrative rule that should have been promulgated pursuant to the Administrative Procedures Act.

Accordingly, as explicated above, the Initial Decision is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

MONMOUTH-OCEAN EDUCATIONAL SERVICES COMMISSION,

Petitioner,

v.

NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, MONMOUTH COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS,

Respondent.

J. Peter Sokol, Esq., for petitioner (McOmber and McOmber, attorneys)

Melanie M. Brookes, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Peter J. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: July 15, 2005 Decided: July 20, 2005

BEFORE DONALD J. STEIN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On August 18, 2004, the Monmouth-Ocean Educational Services Commission (Petitioner) filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education alleging that the Department of Education through the office of County Superintendent (respondent) has improperly denied reimbursement for administrative costs under N.J.S.A. 18A:46-19.1 to -19.9 (Chapter 193), which provides remedial services for handicapped students in both public and private schools. On October 4, 2004, respondent filed an answer to the appeal, asserting that petitioner could not charge for administration expenses under Chapter 193 funding. The matter was transmitted to the OAL on October 22, 2004.

On June 15, 2005, the petitioner moved for summary decision. On June 17, 2005, respondent filed a cross-motion for summary decision. On July 15, 2005, oral argument was scheduled and heard, and the record closed.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The facts in this matter are not in dispute.

1. Petitioner is an education services commission established pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-51 to –70, and is currently contracted to provide educational services on behalf of several school districts in Monmouth and Ocean counties. Since its founding in 1979, the petitioner has included general administrative expenses in their budget. In April 2004, the respondent, for the first time, issued a non-compliance order because the petitioner had charged administrative expenses to Chapter 193 funding.

2. Respondent maintains a list of organizations that provide educational services under N.J.S.A. 18:46A-1 to -17 (Chapter 192), which provides auxiliary services to all pupils in the State, in both public and nonpublic schools, and N.J.S.A. 18A:46-19.1 to –19.9 (Chapter 193), all of which are subject to periodic compliance monitoring by Respondent pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:14-9.1.

3. Petitioner is currently under contract to provide Chapter 192 and Chapter 193 services to nonpublic school students in Belmar, Borough of Freehold, Highlands, and Eatontown. Petitioner provides these services to several other districts including, but not limited to, Asbury Park, Atlantic Highlands, Freehold Regional, Hazlet, Henry Hudson Regional, Holmdel, Howell, Jackson, Manasquan, Keyport, Little Silver, Long Branch, Manalapan-Englishtown Regional, Marlboro, Matawan-Aberdeen Regional, Middletown, Monmouth Regional, Neptune, Ocean, Point Pleasant Beach, Red Bank Borough, Red Bank Regional, Shore Regional, Shrewsbury, Spring Lake, Toms River Regional, Wall, and West Long Branch.

4. On January 13, 2004, respondent conducted its periodic monitoring of the Chapter 192 and Chapter 193 programs provided in Belmar.

5. The Belmar monitoring resulted in a noncompliance finding because petitioner was charging administration expenses under Chapter 193 funding.

6. On May 5, 2004, petitioner contested the findings that Chapter 193 does not authorize a charge for administration.

7. Petitioner charges certain costs for administering Chapter 193 services toward support services for general program administration, as defined in The Uniform Minimum Chart of Accounts for New Jersey Public Schools and classified under function code 230.

8. In 2003-2004, Petitioner classified approximately 6.48% ($163,400) of its total Chapter 193 expenditures of $2,504,871 as code 230 expenses. This amount included $29,200 for Supplementary Instruction, $61,600 for Examination and Classification, and $71,600 for Corrective Speech.

9. Petitioner expended $590,060 worth of Supplementary Instruction services throughout all of its contracted districts in 2003-2004, of which about 4.94% ($29,200) was charged as administration.

10. Petitioner expended $1,111,017 worth of Examination and Classification services throughout all of its contracted districts in 2003-2004, of which about 5.54% ($1,600) was charged for administration.

11. Petitioner expended $803,794 worth of Corrective Speech services throughout all of its contracted districts in 2003-2004, of which about 8.9% ($71,600) was charged as administration.

12. For the 2003-2004 school year, Belmar received $113,280 from respondent for the provision of Chapter 193 services, $87,457.50 of which was expended by Petitioner.

13. In 2003-2004, petitioner classified approximately 5.82% ($82,192.92) of its total Chapter 192 expenditures as code 230 expenses. This amount included $64,182.92 for Compensatory Education, $3,750 for English as a Second Language, $1,500 for Home Instruction, and $12,800 for Transportation.

14. Petitioner expended $1,052,374 worth of Compensatory Education services throughout all of its contracted districts in 2003-2004, of which about 6.09% ($64,142.92) was charged as administration.

15. Petitioner expended $68,668 worth of English as a Second Language services throughout all of its contracted districts in 2003-2004, of which about 5.46% ($3,750) was charged as administration.

16. Petitioner expended $65,926.56 worth of Home Instruction services throughout all of its contracted districts in 2003-2004, of which about 2.27% ($1,500) was charged as administration.

17. For the 2003-2004 school year, Belmar received $96,516 from respondent for the provision of Chapter 192 services, all of which was expended by petitioner.

18. At the time of the January 13, 2004, monitoring of Belmar, respondent's monitoring procedures did not require service providers to submit detailed information regarding their Chapter 192 and Chapter 193 expenses.

19. For the 2003-2004 school year, the Belmar, Borough of Freehold, Highlands, and Eatontown school districts were monitored and issued monitoring reports indicating petitioner was noncompliant with Chapter 193 for charging administration fees.

20. Respondent's January 13, 2004, monitoring of Belmar was the first instance in which petitioner was found noncompliant with Chapter 193 due to charging administration fees.

21. On September 12, 1998, Petitioner and Belmar entered a 10-year Instructional Services Agreement for Chapters 192/193 (Agreement).

22. The Agreement, with regard to Chapter 193 services, indicates the petitioner will provide all services required pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18:46A-19.1 –19.9 and the rules and regulations governing these services to nonpublic schools.

The preceding information is FOUND as fact.

CONCLUSION OF LAW

The facts involving this motion are not in dispute. Therefore, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:12.5(b) and Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995), I FIND that there are no genuine issues of material fact and that this matter is ripe for Summary Decision.

Local school districts must furnish Chapters 192/193 services to nonpublic schools located within their boundaries, either by performing such services themselves or by contracting with public or private agencies to do so. Essex County Educ. Services Comm'n v. NJDOE, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 522, 523. Chapter 192 specifies that no more than 6% of the aid received by any district pursuant to this act shall be used by such district for administration of the act, and no more than 18% of such aid shall be used to rent facilities needed to implement the provisions of this act. N.J.S.A. 18A:46A-8. Chapter 193 does not contain a corresponding subsection regarding the use of funds for administration costs.

The sole issue to be determined in this matter is whether administrative expenses can be charged for Chapter 193 (remedial services) funding. The petitioner asserts that it was not the intent of the legislature to require the public school districts or its agents to subsidize these services by not permitting petitioner to draw down reasonable administrative costs. In the present case, petitioner charged approximately 6.5% under Chapter 193 for administrative costs. Respondent argues that since (Chapter 193) does not authorize a charge for administration, the petitioner must adjust the contract and submit an amended copy to the district and county office for approval.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-51 to –70 provides for the establishment and operation of educational services commissions. Educational Services Commission is defined as:

> An agency established or to be established in one or more counties for the purpose of carrying on programs of educational research and development and providing to public school districts such educational and administrative services as may be authorized pursuant to rules of the State Board of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-51(a).

The amended provisions distinguish between program or service expenses and commission expenses, but allow funds generated by programs and services to be used interchangeably to pay either of these expense categories. *N.J.S.A.*18A:6-51(e) and (j) respectively define commission expenses and program or service expenses as follows:

> (e) "Commission expenses" means those funds devoted to or required for the regular or ordinary operating expenses of the commission, including > administrative, maintenance and salary expenses, and purchase or rental of real and personal property necessary for the operation of the commission, but excluding program or service expenses.

>
> (j) "Program or service expenses" means those funds devoted to or required for the provision of a program or service by the commission, including but not limited to the administrative, maintenance and salary expenses and the purchase or rental of real or personal property necessary for the provision of the program or service.

Although these expenses are distinguished, they both allow for funds devoted to or required for administrative expenses.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-52(a) describes the petition process necessary to establish a commission. A report shall be attached to such petition setting forth the kind or kinds of educational and administrative services and programs which are deemed to be needed and proposed to be provided, an estimate of the cost of providing such services and programs, a method of financing the expenditures of such commission, including a detailed budget which projects anticipated costs and identifies anticipated sources of revenue until such can be financed under its first regularly adopted budget, and any other data or information deemed pertinent. Thereafter, the State Board shall determine whether there is a need for such a commission and whether its operation is feasible.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-63 authorizes an educational services commission to decide what services it will offer and then determine the costs of providing such services as follows:

> a. The representative assembly shall from time to time determine what services and programs shall be provided by the commission, subject to approval of and pursuant to rules of the State Board of Education. It shall determine the fee to be charged for providing each service and program, and enter into contracts with school districts, whether member districts of the commission or not, to provide any or all such services and programs.
>
> b. Commissions may enter into contracts with other public and private agencies for the provision of approved services and programs to participating public school districts and nonpublic schools. These > contractual arrangements shall conform to rules and regulations of the State Board of Education and be approved by the county superintendent or superintendents, as the case may be.

As part of the petitioning process, a report must be prepared setting forth the kind of educational and administrative services and programs needed, and the cost of providing those services and programs. The State Board not only determines the need for programs, but also reviews the proposed administrative services to be rendered. Furthermore, the law requires the inclusion of a detailed budget that must indicate anticipated costs and sources of revenue until the commission can be financed under its first regularly adopted budget. Therefore, the language of the statute clearly acknowledges administrative costs are part of a properly prepared budget for commissions. Finally, under the statutory scheme, the State Board of Education must approve all fees the representative assembly proposes for both the programs and administrative services.

A close reading of the Statute and Code provisions governing educational services commissions and Chapters 192/193 services allow administrative costs to be recoverable expenses. Statutes should be read in pari materia when the statutes in question were enacted during the same session or went into effect at the same time; all the more so when the sections are part of the same act. Wuethrich v. Delia, 134 N.J. Super. 400, 411 (Law Div. 1975), aff'd., 155 N.J. Super. 324 (App. Div. 1978), cert. denied, 77 N.J. 486 (1978); Ceva v. Twp. of River Vale, 119 N.J. Super. 593, 604 (App. Div. 1972), aff'd., 62 N.J. 245 (1973). Where statutes in some apparent conflict relate to the same subject matter, it is the duty of the court to construe them together as a unitary and harmonious whole insofar as that may be possible in order that each may be fully effective. Boyle v. Riti, 175 N.J. Super. 158, 165 (App. Div. 1980). Finally, in construing a statute, courts must consider "not only the particular statute in question, but also the entire legislative scheme of which it is a part." New Jersey Transit Corp. v. Borough of Somerville, 139 N.J. 582, 590 (1995).

A statute should be interpreted in a way that gives effect to all its provisions and does not render any language inoperative, superfluous, void, or insignificant. G.S. v.

Dept. of Human Services, DYFS, 157 N.J. 161, 172 (1999). Reviewing courts should give considerable weight to an agency's interpretation of a statute the agency is charged with enforcing, but Courts are not bound by an agency interpretation of a strictly legal issue, when that interpretation is inaccurate or contrary to legislative objectives. Mayflower Securities Co., Inc. v. Bureau of Securities in Division of Community Affairs of Dept. of Law and Public Safety, 64 N.J. 85, 93 (1973). See New Jersey Guild of Hearing Aid Dispensers v. Long, 75 N.J. 544, 562-63 (1978). Therefore, interpretation of the statute herein should harmonize any conflicting provision and assure no language is rendered inoperative, superfluous, void, or insignificant.

Shortly after the enactment of Chapter 192/193 legislation, the Attorney General issued an opinion letter to the Commissioner of Education regarding whether an Educational Services Commission could, by separate contract, relinquish its responsibilities for provision of these educational services to a private profit-making organization. Attorney General Formal Opinion No. 1 (1981). That opinion indicates that "to properly determine the matter, it was necessary to consider two provisions of the school law: the first governing educational services commissions and the second structuring the provision of certain remedial and auxiliary educational services to pupils in both public and non-public schools." The Attorney General also stated that nothing in the statute authorizing creation of commissions indicated that the commissions could contract with private agencies for performance of instructional services. Attorney General Formal Opinion No. 1, supra, 6 (1981). Therefore, a departure from a legislative scheme is not to be inferred from mere silence

Essex County Educ. Services Comm'n, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 522, 525, found the commission had to return unused Chapter 192/193 funds just as any school board must, and that all costs expended are recoverable. Moreover, both the formal opinion of the Attorney General and Essex County Educ. Services Comm'n, indicate these provisions must not be read in isolation, but together to properly determine what the legislature intended. Construing the provisions of both governing statutes, administrative costs are expenses for which the commission is entitled to collect. They are inextricably a part of providing these remedial and auxiliary services to local school districts. Although Chapter 193 is silent on administrative costs, the statutes governing commissions and interpretative case law provide for collection of "all costs."

Airwork Service Div., Div. of Pacific Airmotive Corp. v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 97 N.J. 290, 296 (N.J. 1984) addressed a similar situation in which the legislative intent was not clear from the statute. The New Jersey Supreme Court ruled that:

> We note that courts have acknowledged that the practical administrative construction of a statute over a period of years without interference by the Legislature is evidence of its conformity with the legislative intent and should be given great weight by the courts." Automatic Merchandising Council v. Glaser, 127 N.J. Super. 413, 420 (App. Div.1974) (interpreting Sales and Use Tax Act); see Malone v. Fender, 80 N.J. 129 (1979). Nevertheless, the court will consider this factor only when it is not satisfied that the Legislature's intent cannot otherwise be determined by a critical examination of the purposes, policies, and language of the enactment. When such circumstances point strongly to the imputation of a particular legislative intent, they may not be outweighed or overcome simply by a countervailing administrative practice. See Fedders Corp. v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 96 N.J. 376 (1984) (language, purpose, and policy of "indebtedness" clause in New Jersey Corporation Business Tax Act evidenced legislative intent to exclude bona fide debt owed to affiliated corporation, notwithstanding contrary administrative interpretation that was itself confirmed by administrative rule and longstanding, uniform agency practice); Mobay Corp. v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 96 N.J. 407 (1984) (same). Airwork Service Div., Div. of Pacific Airmotive Corp. v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 97 N.J. 290, 296 (1984)

Therefore, in the absence of clear legislative intent regarding this issue, the fact that these expenses were paid over an approximate twenty-five year period without legislative interference is evidence of conformity with legislative intent.

To conclude that the omission of specific language in Chapter 193 would prevent the commissions from calculating administrative costs to determine the costs of providing remedial services would result in a departure from the legislative scheme. This would result in the commissions absorbing administrative costs, requiring them to expend monies in excess of state aid that the Attorney General expressly stated districts are not required to pay. Just as silence in the legislative scheme could not infer commissions could contract with private profit making organizations to provide services, silence in Chapter 193 cannot infer the commissions cannot include administrative costs in calculating the cost of providing remedial services. Thus, the petitioner properly included administrative costs in calculating the costs of providing these services.

Although Chapter 193 was enacted more than 25 years ago, this is a case of first impression. The Department of Education (DOE) has never challenged the commission's practice of including administrative costs in its estimates of costs when providing remedial educational services, since the commission was founded in 1979. Despite the respondent's statements that it did not know the commission included administrative expenses, the statutes require approval by the State Board of Education of submitted plans from the commissions. To avoid an appearance of engaging in rule-making, the time to question whether administrative costs were included in these plans would have been when the plans were submitted or within a reasonable time after enactment of the statutes in question.

The question raised is whether the denial of Chapter 193 benefits constitutes an example of impermissible rulemaking. The New Jersey Administrative Procedure Act (APA) defines an administrative rule as an "agency statement of general applicability and continuing effect that implements or interprets law or policy, or describes the organization, procedure or practice requirements of any agency." N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(e). In determining whether an agency's action constitutes an administrative rule, certain factors must be assessed. These factors, enunciated by the State Supreme Court in Metromedia, Inc. v. Director of the Div. of Taxation, 97 N.J. 313, 331-32 (1984), are whether the action:

> (1) is intended to have wide coverage encompassing a large segment of the regulated or general public, rather than an individual or a > narrow select group; (2) is intended to be applied generally and uniformly to all similarly situated persons; (3) is designed to operate only in future cases, that is, prospectively; (4) prescribes a legal standard or directive that is not otherwise expressly provided by or clearly and obviously inferable from the enabling statutory authorization; (5) reflects an administrative policy that (i) was not previously expressed in any official and explicit agency determination, adjudication or rule, or (ii) constitutes a material and significant change from a clear, past agency position on the identical subject matter; and (6) reflects a decision on administrative regulatory policy in the nature of the interpretation of law or general policy.

> These factors can, either singly or in combination, determine whether the agency action must be executed through rulemaking. Metromedia, supra, 97 N.J. at 332; see Woodland Private Study Group v. Department of Envtl. Protection, 109 N.J. 62 (1987).

I FIND that the respondent's denial of reimbursement for administrative expenses for Chapter 193 services satisfies each of the Metromedia criteria to constitute an administrative rule. (1) It is intended to cover all school districts in the state that render these services; (2) it is intended to be applied generally and uniformly to all similarly situated persons; (3) it was designed to operate prospectively; (4) it prescribes a legal standard or directive that is not otherwise expressly provided by or clearly and obviously inferable from the enabling statute, which is silent on the subject; (5) it reflects an administrative policy not previously expressed in any official or explicit agency determination, adjudication or rule, and is contrary to twenty-five years of existing policy; (6) and it reflects a decision on administrative regulatory policy in the nature of the interpretation of law or general policy. I therefore CONCLUDE that the respondent's denial of reimbursement for Chapter 193 services constitute an administrative rule pursuant to the New Jersey Administrative Procedure Act (APA), specifically N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(e), and should have been promulgated as an administrative rule.

Although administrative agencies have wide discretion in choosing the procedures best suited to their regulatory aims, this discretion is not unbounded. Crema v. Department of Envtl. Protection, 94 N.J. 286, 299 (1983); St. Barnabas

v. Hospital Rate Setting Comm'n, 250 N.J. Super. 132, 142 (App. Div. 1991); see N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b), (c), (e). "When the agency is concerned with 'broad policy issues' that affect the public-at-large or an entire field of endeavor or important areas of social concern, or the contemplated action is intended to have wide application and prospective effect, rulemaking becomes the suitable mode of proceeding." [*11] Crema, supra, 94 N.J. at 299; St. Barnabas, supra, 250 N.J. Super. at 142-43. Hence, even when an agency is given statutory discretion, the manner in which this discretion is exercised may be controlled by the requirements of the APA.

Moreover, the impact of this decision will impact not only the petitioner herein, but every other district and Educational Service Commission providing remedial services throughout the state.

CONCLUSION

Since *N.J.S.A.*18A:6-51(e) and (j), expressly allows for administrative expenses for commissions, and Chapter 192 specifically allows limits administrative expenses for auxiliary services, as well as the fact that administrative expenses were paid over an approximate twenty-five year period without legislative interference is evidence of conformity with legislative intent, I FIND that the legislature intended that administrative expenses can be charged for Chapter 193 (remedial services) funding.

I further CONCLUDE that the legislature intended to have some limitation on the amount of administrative expenses to be charged. However, the record is scant as to what limitation should be imposed. The only standard provided to this tribunal is reflected in N.J.S.A. 18A:46A-8, which states that, "No more than 6% of the aid received by any district pursuant to this act shall be used by such district for administration of the act." In the absence of any other alternatives, I FIND that the 6% limitation be applied to Chapter 193 expenses.

I also FIND that the respondent's rejection of the administrative expenses after twenty-five years represents a new policy or rule that was not properly promulgated according to the APA. I further recommend that the respondent formulate new regulations to clarify the limitation and reimbursement issue as to Chapter 193 administrative expenses.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that the respondent's decision to deny reimbursement or administrative expenses for Chapter 193 services is REVERSED. It is also recommended that the respondent formulate new regulations to clarify the limitation and reimbursement issues as to Chapter 193 administrative expenses.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner filed a Pro Se Residency Appeal challenging the Board's residency determination that her nephew, M.A. is not eligible for a free education in the Belleville School District. A family court order granted petitioner joint custody, along with M.A.'s mother, in July 2004; the order gave petitioner residential custody. Subsequent to the custody order, M.A. was enrolled at Belleville High School in September 2004. Respondent Board contended that it had determined that M.A. was not entitled to attend Belleville schools pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, and sought tuition for the period of M.A.'s ineligible attendance.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: M.A. was lawfully residing in Belleville by virtue of a joint custody order of the Superior Court, but was residing with I.B. solely because of his difficulties in the Newark School District; and I.B.'s actions in enrolling M.A. in Belleville Schools "were in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1." The ALJ concluded that M.A. was not domiciled in Belleville; was not an affidavit student; was not entitled to a free education in Belleville Schools; and ordered the petitioner to pay respondent $8,464.27 in tuition costs for the period of M.A.'s ineligible attendance.

The Commissioner rejects the recommended decision of the ALJ, finding that the petitioner's claim should have been analyzed under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-2, which provides that any nonresident person over five and under twenty who is placed in the home of a resident in the school district by court order is entitled to a free education in the district. Inasmuch as it is not in the purview of the Commissioner to disturb an Order of the Superior Court, any challenge to the Order must be directed to that Court. The Commissioner orders respondent to continue to admit M.A. to its schools as long as there is no change in the Superior Court Order that would alter his entitlement.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BELLEVILLE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions[1] and the Board's reply thereto, filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, were fully considered by the Commissioner in reaching her determination herein.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, for the reasons detailed below, the Commissioner rejects the recommended decision of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ).

Initially, the Commissioner finds that the ALJ applied the incorrect statute to arrive at her conclusion that petitioner did not meet her burden of proving that M.A. was entitled to a free education in the district. The Petition of Appeal in this matter, filed on December 17, 2004, clearly evidences that petitioner's sole claim of M.A.'s entitlement to attend the District's schools is predicated on a July 15, 2004 Order of the Honorable Hector E. Desoto, J.S.C.,

[1] On September 20, 2005, Charles P. Cohen, Esq. filed exceptions to the Initial Decision on behalf of petitioner, I.B. In that at all times during the course of these proceedings petitioner was pro se, Mr. Cohen was advised that he was required to file a letter entering his representation of I.B. before his exception submission could be considered. Such representation letter was received on September 22, 2005.

Superior Court of New Jersey, Chancery Division, Family Part, Essex Vicinage, granting her residential custody of M.A. Indeed, there is nothing in the petition or accompanying documents to suggest that petitioner's allegation before the Commissioner was that either the "domicile" or "affidavit student" portions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 were satisfied. As such, the Commissioner finds and determines that petitioner's claim should have been analyzed under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-2, and its implementing regulation, N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.2(e), rather than N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 as was done by the ALJ in her decision. In this regard, it is noted that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-2 specifically provides that:

> Public schools shall be free to any person over five and under 20 years of age nonresident in a school district who is placed in the home of another person, who is resident in the district, by order of a court of competent jurisdiction of this state.

It is unambiguously apparent, pursuant to this provision, that M.A., who was placed in the home of I.B., an undisputed domiciliary of Belleville, by Order of Superior Court is entitled to a free public education in that District. Inasmuch as it is not within the jurisdictional purview of the Commissioner of Education "to vacate, modify or otherwise disturb an Order of the Court", any challenge to this Order by the Board or attestation of petitioner's noncompliance therewith must be directed to Superior Court. (See D.W., on behalf of minor child, V.D.V. v. Board of Education of the Township of Bass River, Burlington County and Larry A. Mathis, Superintendent and D.D.V. v. Board of Education of the Township of Bass River, Burlington County and Larry A. Mathis, Superintendent, decided by the Commissioner January 29, 2003, #35-03L)

Accordingly, the Commissioner directs that M.A. is entitled to a free public education in the Belleville school district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-2. The Board is, therefore, ordered to continue to admit him to its schools as long as there is no change in the Superior Court Order that would alter his entitlement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

and posthearing summations were submitted on April 28, 2005. Due to the voluminous caseload of the undersigned, Orders of Extensions were granted which extended the time for the issuance of the instant decision until September 12, 2005.

FACTS

Based on the record, I FIND the following FACTS:

M.A., is the son of A.M. and the nephew of I.B. On July 15, 2004, I.B. and A.M. appeared before the Honorable Hector De Soto, J.S.C. where they secured a joint custody order for M.A. The Order gave I.B. residential custody. At that time, M.A. was seventeen years old and enrolled at Barringer High School in Newark, N.J. I.B. resided in Belleville with her spouse and their two children.

The Township of Belleville employs Bruce Morgan (Morgan) and Iris Rodriguez (Rodriguez) as investigators who, among other things, investigate the domicile of returning Belleville students and newly enrolled students. In the summer of 2004, Morgan recalls receiving a phone call from Boyce. Boyce did not identify herself, however the telephone caller I.D. provided her name. Boyce inquired as to whether she could pay tuition. Morgan told her no. She wanted to know how her out-of-district nephew could attend the District School. Boyce then explained that her nephew was not doing well in the Newark school district and that she didn't want him at Barringer High School. Morgan told her that she needs to have custody of her nephew, however, he cautioned that "custody" cases were closely monitored by the District as 95% of the "custody" cases proved to be illegal students.

On September 8, 2004, Boyce and A.M. enrolled M.A. in Belleville High School. Morgan told them that they would be monitored. Boyce then produced the custody court order. (R-6).

Investigator Morgan monitored the Boyce household on some thirty three (33) occasions, commencing on October 27, 2004 and ending on March 3, 2005. His surveillance notes are set forth in R-1. He was assisted by Investigator Rodriguez who testified herein. Their the notes provide that over various school day mornings, Morgan observed the Boyce household at 59 B___ Street and the N. 9th Street address, A.M.'s address.

On October 27, 2004, Morgan observed a vehicle, License plate number PYF-63F with two females leave the Boyce household. M.A. was not in the vehicle but did report to school that day on time. The next day, he observed a vehicle, New Jersey plate number JKL-56F leave ____ N. 9th Street at 6:45 a.m. The vehicle was occupied by an adult female and one male student. On November 10, Morgan saw M.A. leave his mother's address, N. 9th Street, in a vehicle with plate number JKL-56F. Morgan followed the car to the high school parking lot, gym entrance.

On November 18th, he observed vehicle bearing N.J. plates PYF-63F leave B___ Street with one adult female and one young female at 7:05 hours. M.A. was not in the car but was present at school on that day. The next day he went to ___ N. 9th Street at 6:45 a.m. where he saw an adult and M.A. leave the residence at 7:07. M.A. was dropped off at the high school.

On November 22 and 23, Investigator Rodriguez observed 59 B___ Street at 6:40 a.m. Morgan observed the mother's address, N. 9th Street where he saw M.A. leave at 7:09 a.m. Rodriguez saw a vehicle leave Beech Street with two females. The next day, Morgan was at ___ N. 9th. Street and Investigator Rodriguez was at the59 B___ Street address. M.A. left the N. 9th Street address.

On January 6 and 7, 2005, M.A. was absent from school. Morgan checked the 59 B___ Street address and was told by Boyce's husband that M.A. was not there.

On February 3, 2005, Morgan monitored 59 B____ Street from 3:45 p.m. to 5:15., M.A. did not return to residence from school. At 5:28 p.m. Morgan called the Newark address and M.A. answered the phone. (R-1).

Currently, Joseph Kramer is the District's Curriculum Director. He was formerly the Acting Superintendent from September 2004 to February 2005. Kramer recalls that he spoke to Boyce and A.M. on December 8, 2004 about M.A. attending school in the District. He told them that M.A. was ineligible to attend the District High School. Boyce explained that she had joint custody and produced the Custody Order from the family court. He concludes that the sole reason why M.A. was living with his aunt was due to his difficulties in the Newark School District. Kramer told Boyce and A.M. that if M.A. were to leave the District at that time, no tuition costs would be assessed.

R-5 set forth the District's tuition as of March 21, 2005. It provides that the tuition fee is $46.51 per day and as of March 21, 2005, M.A. had attended school for 121 days for a total of $5,627.71. (R-5).

I. Boyce testified that she received residential custody of M.A. in July 2004. M.A.'s father was present as well as his mother. She registered M.A. in the District School in September. She obtained custody because M.A.'s mother worked long hours and M.A. was failing in school. He needed help with his school work which she was prepared to do. She observed Investigator Morgan in the front of her home. She questioned him and he told her he was attempting to establish residency.

Boyce concedes that M.A. stays with his mother on weekends and holidays. She admits that R-4 indicates that M.A. left his mother's house on days other than Mondays and Fridays. She supplies with room and board and his mother provides him with his necessities.

Boyce questions why the investigators did not come at night. M.A. eats dinner in her household. Further, he mostly eats breakfast, there, too.

FINDINGS AND CONCLUSION

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, public schools shall be free to persons over five and under 20 years of age who are domiciled within the school district. An exception to this requirement is set forth in subsection (b) 1 of the statute which provides:

> Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statement, information from or about which shall be supplied only to the board and only to the extent that it directly pertains to the support or nonsupport of the child. If in the judgment of the board of education the evidence does not support the validity of the claim by the resident, the board may deny admission to the child.

A child's domicile is normally that of his or her parents. See Mississippi Band of Choctaw Indians v. Holyfield, 490 U.S. 30, 48, 109 S.Ct. 1597, 1608, 104 L.Ed.2d, 46 (1989); Roxbury Twp. Bd. of Educ. v. West Milford Bd. of Educ. 283 N.J. Super 505, 521-22, 662 A.2d 976 (App. Div. 1995), certif. denied, 143 N.J. 325, 670 A.2d 1066 (1996); 25 Am.Jur2d Domicile § 42 (1996); Restatement (Second) Conflict of Laws §22 (1971). After a divorce or judicial separation, the domicile of the child is that of the parent with whom the child lives. Roxbury 283 N.J. Super at 521-23, 662 A.2d 976; 25 Am.Jur Domicile § 42. It is well established that one may have many residences but one can only have one domicile.

In the instant matter, the petitioner contends that M.A. was lawfully residing in Bloomfield by virtue of a Joint Custody Order of the Superior Court. While this is true that M.A. could lawfully reside in Bloomfield, I FIND that he was not domiciled in Bloomfield. It is the domicile that entitles M.A. to a free education in Bloomfield, not his residency. The Legislature understood the distinction and clearly intended that domicile and not residence will be the controlling factor for determining whether a student is entitled to a free education in a local school District.

As noted above, under subsection b.(1), a child may reside with another if that person is supporting him gratis and sets forth in an affidavit that the child is residing with him or her due to a family or an economic hardship . The fact that a child is not doing well in a particular district, does not constitute a hardship. Further, it must be clearly established that a child is not residing with another for the sole purpose of receiving a free public education within that District. There was no proof presented in the record that Boyce was caring for M.A. gratis. Rather, the proofs and testimony, clearly establish that M.A. was residing with Boyce because of his difficulties in the Newark School District.

I have considered the reference letters submitted by Boyce. Most of the letters are neighbors of Boyce and they attest to her fine character. Further, they assert that M.A. has in fact resided with her since September 2004. (P-1 to P-3). Boyce's character is not in dispute. Indeed, her intentions were good. Nevertheless, her actions were in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

I therefore, CONCLUDE that M.A. was not domiciled in Belleville or an affidavit student, thus he was not entitled to a free education in the District.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, tuition shall be assessed for the time of student's ineligible attendance in the District. Here, the proofs indicate that the per diem tuition during the 2004-2005 school year was $46.51. As of April 30, 2005, tuition costs were $6,650.39. Presumably, M.A. attended school until the end of the school term, an additional 39 days or $1,813.88. It is therefore ORDERED that the appellant shall pay to the respondent $8,464.27.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Respondent.	:

WHEREAS, petitioner, New Jersey Education Association ("NJEA") on behalf of its Affiliates and the Members they represent, including Melissa Eckstein, Michael Ryan and Wendy Osborne, and respondent, New Jersey Department of Education ("Department"), have mutually agreed to settle the above-captioned matter, with Selikoff and Cohen, P.A., (Keith Waldman, Esq., appearing) on behalf of NJEA, and with Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, (Allison Colsey Eck, Deputy Attorney General appearing) on behalf of the Department; and

WHEREAS, this matter arose from NJEA's challenge to the Department's revised regulations which were adopted on December 18,

T/W 9/27/5

2003, and effective on January 20, 2004. 36 N.J.R. 469 (Jan. 20, 2004); and

WHEREAS, NJEA specifically challenged the regulatory provisions governing educational services certifications including N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.1(e), N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.3(d), N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.5(e), N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.6(f), N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.7(d), N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.8(e), N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.9(i), N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.10(e), N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.13(d), N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.14(e) and N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.15(e), claiming that the Department did not provide the same notice regarding the regulatory change to applicants attending colleges out-of-state that it provided to applicants attending in-state colleges; and

WHEREAS, the parties to this matter have entered into discussions to amicably resolve this matter in the public interest; and

WHEREAS, the settlement of this matter shall not constitute precedent in other pending or future litigation.

NOW, THEREFORE, the parties hereto agree to settle the above-captioned matter upon the following terms:

1. The following individuals, who were enrolled in, and matriculated in, a graduate program of study to receive a student personnel services endorsement at the time the Department's regulations governing the school personnel services endorsement were changed on December 18, 2003, effective on January 20, 2004, shall be permitted to submit their application and credentials for a student personnel services endorsement to the Department for review pursuant to the regulations existing on January 19, 2004 as set forth in former N.J.A.C. 6:11:

a. Lily Basantis
b. Ronda Brown
c. Tina Dietrich
d. Michael Ryan
e. Graham Hall
f. Betsy Kirkbride
g. Jeremiah Bodner
h. Sherrie Davis
i. Melissa Eckstein
j. Lauren Small
k. Michael Egan
l. Bonnie Sprigman
m. Mollie Huntsinger

2. The applicants listed in paragraph 1 who have not met the requirements for the award of a student personnel services endorsement, but have submitted their credentials for a review and evaluation pursuant to the terms of this settlement agreement, shall receive a written evaluation from the Department and will have until January 20, 2009 to complete the requirements set forth in the written evaluation.

3. The applicants listed in paragraph 1 must submit their application, including all required documentation and fees for their student personnel services endorsement, and/or their credentials for review and evaluation to the Department no later than October 31, 2005. Applications received after October 31, 2005, will not be subject to the terms of this agreement and will be subject to review pursuant to the Department's current licensing regulations at 6A:9.

4. Upon receipt of the information from the applicants listed in paragraph 1, above, on or before October 31, 2005, the Department shall issue student personnel services endorsements pursuant to the regulations existing on January 19, 2004, and/or issue written evaluations to applicants no later than November 30, 2005.

5. Upon execution of this stipulation of settlement, NJEA will withdraw its appeal of the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.1(e), N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.3(d), N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.5(e), N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.6(f), N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.7(d), N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.8(e), N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.9(i), N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.10(e), N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.13(d), N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.14(e) and N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.15(e), captioned as New Jersey Education Association on behalf of its Affiliates and the Members they represent, including Melissa Eckstein, Michael Ryan and Wendy Osborne, OAL Dkt. NO. EDUOT 06862, as well as its challenge to the notice the Department provided to out-of-state colleges and universities as compared to the notice provided to in-state colleges and universities concerning the changes to the professional licensure and standards adopted on December 18, 2003, effective January 20, 2004.

6. NJEA will not challenge the sufficiency of the notice of the regulatory changes provided by the Department for any regulatory provision adopted by the State Board on December 18, 2003, effective January 20, 2004.

7. NJEA does not concede that the allegations in the petition in this matter were not justified, nor does the Department admit or concede the truth of the allegations contained in the petition filed in this matter and both parties have entered into this agreement for the purposes of settlement only.

8. The parties agree that this stipulation of settlement fully resolves all issues between them arising from the Department's adoption on December 18, 2003 of its revised professional licensure and standards regulations set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:9, which were effective on January 20, 2004, that are the subject of this appeal.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record, Stipulation of Dismissal with Prejudice, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner notes the absence of the terms of the parties' settlement so as to permit her review, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. The Commissioner has, therefore, determined to consider the parties' Stipulation of Dismissal with Prejudice as the parties' withdrawal of the asserted claims and counterclaims in this matter, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2.

Accordingly, the Commissioner approves the parties' withdrawal of their claims in the instant matter. Given this conclusion, this matter is no longer deemed to be a contested case before the Commissioner and the within matter is, therefore, dismissed, with prejudice.

CAMDEN CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

Geoffrey B. Gompers, Esq., for petitioner (Geoffrey B. Gompers & Associates, P.C., attorneys)

Peter J. Cammarano, III, Esq., on behalf of respondent (Genova, Burns & Vernoia, attorneys)

Record Closed: September 26, 2005 Decided: September 26, 2005

BEFORE ISRAEL D. DUBIN, ALJ:

This matter arises out of petitioner's demand that the decision of respondent Camden City Board of Education transferring her from the position of Principal of the Woodrow Wilson High School to that of Principal of the South Camden Alternative School be reversed and that she be reappointed to her former position. Petitioner has asserted that the Board's action was based on an unlawful and discriminatory plan and resulted in a reduction of her base salary.

Petitioner filed her appeal with the Commissioner on August 13, 2004, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing as a contested case on November 10, 2004. N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. The matter was subsequently scheduled to be heard on October 6, 7, 11 & 12, 2005. However, by Stipulation of Dismissal dated September 14, 2005, the parties stipulated that the matter should be "dismissed with prejudice."

Based on the foregoing, I find that the parties have amicably resolved their differences and that petitioner no longer wishes to proceed. I therefore conclude that the matter should be and is hereby DISMISSED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH	:	DECISION
OF ROSELLE, UNION COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter, the parties' proposed Consent Order of Withdrawal, and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs that, under the circumstances of this matter, the Board may properly be permitted to withdraw the tenure charges certified against respondent so that they may, should the Board deem it appropriate, subsequently be re-filed in accordance with applicable procedural law. In so holding, the Commissioner stresses that she construes the parties' representatives' consent to the "Form of Order" as consent to its substantive content as well; should either party deem it otherwise, the Commissioner's acceptance of the proposed withdrawal will become null and void.

Accordingly, subject to the proviso set forth above, the Initial Decision of the OAL approving the Consent Order of Withdrawal is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

BEFORE, STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by the Department of Education as a contested case in June 2005 as a result of the certification of tenure charges by the School District of Roselle, Union County, against the respondent, Gary Howard, a tenured custodian. Hearings were scheduled to begin in the latter part of September 2005. However, in advance of the scheduled hearing dates and at the request of both counsel, the dates were adjourned.

Thereafter, an agreement was reached whereby the School District of Roselle would withdraw the tenure charges without prejudice to its opportunity to refile the same. In turn, respondent was to be reinstated to his position with full salary, retroactive to the date of his suspension without pay.

Attached hereto is a "Consent Order of Withdrawal" which contains the background circumstances and refers to procedural defects which precipitated the withdrawal and the interests of judicial economy and preservation of public funds which it will serve.

I have reviewed the proposed Withdrawal Order and I am satisfied that it is consistent with law; in particular, the reservation by the School District of the right to refile the tenure charges which may include some or all of the allegations contained in the original petition.

Accordingly, the Consent Order of Withdrawal hereby is approved and will be attached to this Initial Decision and Order of Withdrawal.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. 	CONSENT ORDER OF WITHDRAWAL

THIS MATTER having been opened to the Office of Administrative Law, before the Hon. Stephen G. Weiss, ALJ, by the Petitioner, Borough of Roselle Board of Education, by its attorney Allan C. Roth, Esq., appearing, and Respondent, Garry Howard, appearing by his attorney Louis P. Bucceri, Esq., on Petitioner's application to have this matter withdrawn without prejudice pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6, and

WHEREAS, this matter arises out of tenure charges alleging unbecoming conduct, inefficiency and other just cause against a tenured custodial employee of Petitioner, and

WHEREAS, Respondent has denied these charges, and

WHEREAS, Respondent has filed a motion to dismiss the charges due to procedural defects, and

WHEREAS, established case law requires that any dismissal based on Respondent's procedural motion would be without prejudice to the re-filing of the charges by Petitioner, and

WHEREAS, the Administrative Law Judge is satisfied that, due to procedural defects which may be fatal to the Petitioner's charges in their current form and in the interest of judicial economy and preservation of public funds, the Petitioner should be permitted to withdraw its charges without prejudice pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6, with leave to re-file the Petition pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1, et seq., and

WHEREAS Respondent consents to the entry of this order since it provides him the same relief that he would receive if his motion was successful, it is

On this 13th day of September, 2005;

ORDERED that due to the claims of procedural defects which may be fatal to the Tenure Charge Petition in its current form and in the interest of judicial economy and preservation of public funds, the Petitioner is permitted to withdraw its Petition without prejudice pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6, with the right to re-file tenure charges against Respondent pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1, et seq., including charges which arise out of some or all of the allegations contained in the current Petition, and

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Petitioner shall reinstate Respondent to full salaried status, retroactive to the date of his suspension without pay pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. All monies due shall be paid to Respondent forthwith;

The record, Settlement Agreement, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner observes that the Assistant Superintendent for Business/B.S. signed the Settlement Agreement on behalf of the Board. In that neither the file nor the settlement agreement contains a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement and designating the Assistant Superintendent for Business/B.S. to sign the agreement on its behalf, nor, in the alternative, is the agreement signed by the Board attorney, who is the Board's duly authorized representative in litigation, the Commissioner cannot approve the within settlement agreement.

Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for revision of the Settlement Agreement consistent with the concerns set forth above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to hearing.

The audiocassette tape of the emergent hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 14, 2005, and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs that petitioner has failed to satisfy the four-pronged standard set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) for obtaining emergent relief. In accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6, a grant of emergent relief is considered an extraordinary remedy which may only be issued where petitioner has demonstrated that the relief is necessary to prevent irreparable harm, where the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled, where there is a likelihood of success on the merits and where the relative hardship to the moving party favors granting such relief. Crowe at 132-34.

The Commissioner has, therefore, determined to adopt the recommended Order of the ALJ and deny petitioner's request for emergent relief. Moreover, after reviewing the audiocassette tape of the hearing, the Commissioner is compelled to comment on the apparent misunderstanding of the parties that the law requires Eastern Camden County Regional School District (District) to enroll L.S. pending a decision in this case. This is not a residency dispute under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq. Accordingly, there is no basis to conclude that L.S. is entitled to attend school in the District during the pendency of this matter.[1]

In conclusion, the Commissioner has determined to adopt the recommended Order of the ALJ for the reasons expressed therein and petitioner's request for emergent relief is, therefore, denied. This matter shall continue at the OAL for further proceedings on the merits of petitioner's claim as may be deemed necessary.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

ORDER ON EMERGENT RELIEF

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8078-05

AGENCY DKT. NO. 259-10/05

J.D. o/b/o Minor Child L.S., Petitioners,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE EASTERN CAMDEN COUNTY REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, CAMDEN COUNTY, DR. HAROLD MELLEBY, SUPERINTENDENT, AND RONALD W. SAHLI, SOLICITOR,
Respondents.

J.D. on behalf of L.S., petitioners, pro se

Ronald W. Sahli, Esq., for respondents

BEFORE DONALD J. STEIN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 3, 2005, petitioners filed an application for emergent relief with the New Jersey Department of Education, Division of Controversies and Disputes. The application requested that L.S. be permitted to attend school in respondent's district free of charge, as a non-resident student under the Student Privilege provision of the district's by-laws, pursuant to an oral agreement. The respondent (District) denies any oral agreement exists, and further denies that the petitioner is eligible to attend school in the District.

On October 4, 2005, these matters were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing on the requested emergent relief. On October 14, 2005, the emergent relief was heard in the OAL, Trenton (Hamilton Township). At the conclusion of the hearing, the petitioner was explained the legal issues involved, and he requested one additional day to research the issue. On October 18, 2005, petitioner submitted a detailed brief with exhibits. On October 21, 2005, respondents' brief, as well as a response from the petitioner, was filed.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

Some of the facts are undisputed. Petitioner was a resident of the district during the times L.S. attended Eastern High School. On July 8, 2005, petitioners called the district and discussed this matter with a secretary. The contents of this conversation are in dispute and will be discussed below. On July 9, 2005, petitioners signed a lease to move into Haddonfield. On July 10, 2005, petitioners sent the district a letter requesting permission for their daughter L.S. to complete her senior year at Eastern High School. The letter further stated:

> Please let me know if it is possible for [L.S] to finish her final year of High School at Eastern and, if possible, what steps we need to take in order to facilitate the process (R-1).

The same letter further stated that "Our living situation has forced us to move out of the school district effective July 31, 2005."

Shortly thereafter, the district denied petitioners' request, because the school's by-laws require that the student be a resident of the district and attend school as of October 15, 2005 (P-2). On August 17, 2005, petitioners appealed to the Eastern Regional School District, and the appeal was denied.

The preceding information is undisputed and is thus FOUND AS FACT.

At issue is what was said during the July 8, 2005, telephone conference between the petitioner and a secretary for the district. Petitioner wrote in his initial petition:

> Once the petitioner signed a lease to move out of the district, the petitioner would then notify the senior high school principal of their move and make a written request for Senior Privilege (P-1).

Petitioner further testified during the hearing that he was told to send a letter to the district. After a lengthy discussion as to this issue, petitioner later testified that he was told that L.S. would be allowed to attend Eastern High School. Petitioner wrote in his brief that the promise made to him was:

> If you enter into a lease on July 9, 2005 to move into a home located out of Eastern High School district on August 1, 2005, you will be meet [sic] all eligibility requirements to have tuition waived for a non-resident Senior. (P-2)

Petitioner then alleges that he relied upon this promise and signed a new lease.

This issue is significant because the crux of the petitioner's argument is that he was made a promise by the district that L.S. could attend the district and, in reliance thereof, the petitioner and his family moved out of the district.

Based on the fact that his initial pleadings and testimony merely state that a written request must be made for Senior Privilege, and that petitioner's letter sent the day after this phone call confirms that a process must be followed and completed, I FIND that no express promise was made to the petitioner.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

A party seeking emergent relief must satisfy the standards in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), which requires the movant to establish:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the relief is not granted;

2. The petitioner has a substantial likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

3. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

The petitioner must satisfy all three prongs of the Crowe test.

IRREPARABLE HARM

Although petitioner may face a difficult transition to attend another school away from her friends, and not be able to take the specialized classes offered in her prior school, she will be attending high school in a well established school district. It should further be noted that the petitioner is seeking to attend an out-of-district school through the policy of "senior privilege." A privilege may be withheld in the interest of maintaining an orderly and efficient school system. Martin A. Domacasse v. Board of Education of the North Warren Regional School District, Warren County, State Board of Education decision dated April 17, 1996, citing Camden City Board of Education v. NJSIAA, Docket #A-2802-91T2 (App. Div. 1992); Burnside et al. v. NJSIAA, 1984 S.L.D. 1695 (App. Div. 1984), cert. denied 101 N.J. 236 (1985). The determination of whether or not a student may attend is within the sole discretion of the board of education. The denial of a privilege, as opposed to denial of a right, creates no irreparable harm. The denial of a public high school of her choosing, as opposed to attending a high school in the district in which she resides, creates no irreparable harm.

SUBSTANTIAL LIKELIHOOD OF PREVAILING ON THE MERITS

Local boards of education have been expressly charged with protecting the health, safety and welfare of its students, and ensuring the orderly conduct of the academic process. The actions of boards of education have a presumption of validity, and petitioners must show that respondent acted arbitrarily and not within the scope of its authority in order to prevail. Thomas v. Bd. of Ed. of Morris Tp., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965); Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960).

This case involves the enforcement by the school district of clear educational policies. The action of a board of education which lies within the area of its discretionary powers may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., supra, 60 N.J. Super. at 294. Obviously, the district has a clear and distinct policy to require tuition payment for out-of-district students to attend their high school.

The petitioners have also argued that the doctrine of promissory estoppel bars the respondent from denying them attendance at their high school. There are four elements to the doctrine of promissory estoppel: 1) a clear and definite promise, 2) made with the expectation that the promisee will rely upon it, 3) reasonable reliance upon the promise, 4) which results in definite and substantial detriment. Malaker Corp. Stockholders Protective Committee v. First Jersey Nat'l Bank, 163 N.J. Super. 463, 479, 395 A.2*d* 222 (App. Div. 1978), Lobiondo v. O'Callaghan, 357 N.J. Super. 488, 499 (N.J. Super. Ct. 2003). I have already determined that no clear and definite promise was ever made to the petitioners. It should further be noted that the petitioner admits that he was notified the week of July 11, 2005, of the October 15, 2005, requirement to be living in the district. Since petitioners had signed the lease only few days before becoming aware of the denial, the petitioners may have been able to cancel the lease. It does not appear as though there was any detrimental reliance, since the petitioner stated that his living conditions required him to move. Thus, the doctrine of promissory estoppel is not applicable in this case.

Therefore, I FIND it unlikely that the petitioners would have prevailed on the merits.

WILL PETITIONER SUFFER GREATER HARM THAN THE RESPONDENT IF THE REQUESTED RELIEF IS NOT GRANTED?

This appears to be a more difficult question. The petitioners have alleged that their daughter will face a difficult transition to another school, be away from her friends, and not be able to take specialized classes offered in her prior school. The district alleges that they are not required to provide a free and appropriate education to the petitioner, since they no longer reside in the district. I am unable at this time to determine if the petitioners would prevail on this argument.

In conclusion, I FIND that since N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7(m) 1 and N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1 is written in the conjunctive and the petitioners have failed to satisfy all three requirements, I CONCLUDE that the petitioners have failed to establish grounds for the granting of emergency relief.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based on the foregoing, petitioner's motion for emergent relief is DENIED. The matter will be scheduled for a plenary hearing on an expedited basis, should the parties wish to so proceed.

This order on the application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

PETITIONER,	:

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HARDYSTON, SUSSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner — a former principal terminated through a reduction in force (RIF) in 1996 — contends that the terms of respondent's 2004 offer of reemployment were deliberately unacceptable so as to circumvent petitioner's tenure and seniority rights; he seeks reinstatement to the position of principal or appointment to the position of assistant superintendent, retroactive to July 1, 2004, with annual salary and emoluments consistent with the statewide salary ranges for those positions. Respondent filed a motion for summary decision, alleging that the petition was barred by the 90-day limitation of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d).

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the matter was ripe for summary decision as there are no genuine issues of material fact; the letter dated July 15, 2004 provided adequate notice to petitioner that the Board did not intend to alter the terms of the reemployment contract; the 90-day period therefore began on July 15, 2004, and ended on October 13, 2004, making the petitioner's October 20, 2004 filing untimely; petitioner's claims to tenure and seniority rights for two other positions – assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction, and supervisor of curriculum and instruction – are also time barred; and there are no compelling or exceptional circumstances to warrant relaxation or waiver of the 90-day rule. The Initial Decision of the OAL granted the respondent's motion for summary decision, and dismissed the petition.

The Commissioner adopts the ALJ's decision, and dismisses the petition. In so determining, the Commissioner notes her concurrence with the ALJ's reasoning except for the ALJ's reliance on Drapczuk v. Board of Education of the Township of Winfield, Union County, as the Commissioner rejected the Initial Decision in that matter, holding that the underlying issue was not whether a letter constituted "sufficient notice" in accord with Kaprow, supra, but whether the Board did, in fact, make a lawful determination of nonrenewal as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.1.

JAMES F. TAYLOR,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HARDYSTON, SUSSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the administrative law judge's (ALJ's) determination to grant the Hardyston Township Board of Education's (Board's) motion for summary decision in that there are no material facts in dispute and the Board is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) and Contini, supra. In this regard, with respect to petitioner's claim to the principal's position at Hardyston Middle School, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ's conclusion that the Board's letter of July 15, 2004 provided final and adequate notice to petitioner that the Board did not intend to alter the terms of the re-employment contract offered to him so as to trigger the 90-day rule for filing an appeal to the Commissioner set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d). Since the within petition was filed on October 20, 2004, after the 90-day deadline, the Commissioner concurs that petitioner's appeal petition was untimely filed.

In so determining, however, the Commissioner notes that the ALJ in this matter relied, in part, on the ALJ's conclusion in the matter of Drapczuk v. Board of Education of the

In that petitioner did not file his appeal within 90 days from the Board's July 15, 2004 notification, the Commissioner finds that his appeal is time-barred.

Likewise, the Commissioner concurs that petitioner had actual knowledge of a possible claim to the position of Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum and Instruction no later than January 5, 2004, and to the position of Supervisor of Curriculum and Instruction — by his own admission — "no earlier than May 2004." In that the petition in this matter was not filed until October 20, 2004, petitioner clearly filed his claims for these positions after the 90-day period set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d).

Moreover, the Commissioner does not find that the factual circumstances set forth in petitioner's pleadings constitute grounds for relaxation of the 90-day rule. No constitutional issues are involved in petitioner's claims, nor does the petition present issues of significant public interest beyond the parties. On the contrary, the Commissioner herein determines — as did the Commissioner in LeMee v. Board of Education of the Village of Ridgewood, 1990 S.L.D. 663, 673 — that the greater public interest lies with the enforcement of the 90-day rule and the dismissal of petitioner's appeal as untimely.

Accordingly, with the exception of the reliance on the Drapczuk decision noted above, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

* This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

Township of Winfield, Union County, decided by the Commissioner May 20, 2005, in which the ALJ concluded that Drapczuk's petition was untimely because he did not file his appeal within 90 days of receipt of a letter from the president and vice-president informing him that the board did not intend to renew his contract. However, the Commissioner in Drapczuk rejected the ALJ's conclusion, finding, instead, that petitioner's appeal was timely filed. The Commissioner reasoned that, notwithstanding petitioner's receipt of an April 24, 2001 letter from the president and vice-president of the board informing him that the board did not intend to renew his contract, the earliest date that petitioner could have asserted a viable claim that his chief school administrator's contract was renewed by operation of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.1 was July 1, 2001 because the board could have acted at any time prior to and including June 30, 2001 to correct any alleged deficiencies in its notification or determination of nonrenewal. (The Commissioner emphasized in that matter that the underlying issue was not whether the April 24 letter constituted "sufficient notice" in accord with Kaprow, supra, but whether the board did, in fact, make a lawful determination of nonrenewal as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.1.) Drapczuk, slip op. at 2-3. The State Board affirmed the Commissioner's decision in Drapczuk on October 19, 2005.

Notwithstanding the Commissioner's rejection of the ALJ's misplaced reliance on Drapczuk in this matter, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ's analysis and ultimate conclusion that petitioner in this instance received adequate and final notice of the Board's determination that it did not intend to alter terms of the reemployment contract it was offering to him in its letter dated July 15, 2004, and that such notice was consistent with the Supreme Court's determination in Kaprow, supra, which established that the 90-day period begins when a petitioner learns of facts that would enable him to file a timely claim. Kaprow, supra, at 588-89.

Procedural History

On October 20, 2004, petitioner, James F. Taylor, filed a Verified Petition with the Commissioner of Education alleging that he should be granted reinstatement to the position of principal of the Hardyston Elementary School or, in the alternative, appointment to the position of assistant superintendent, retroactive to July 1, 2004. He sought an annual salary and emoluments consistent with the statewide salary ranges for those positions. On November 12, 2004, respondent filed its answer, denying certain of the allegations and asserting among other affirmative defenses that petitioner's action was barred for failure to file within applicable time limitations. On January 5, 2005, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The case was assigned to the undersigned on January 24, 2005, and a telephone prehearing conference was scheduled for March 14, 2005. The conference was adjourned to April 8, 2005, to allow petitioner the opportunity to retain other counsel due to a conflict of interest. During the prehearing conference the issues were isolated and respondent discussed filing a motion for summary decision on the issue of whether petitioner's claim was time barred. The hearing was scheduled for November 14 and 15, 2005, at the Office of Administrative Law. By letter dated April 22, 2005, petitioner clarified that he sought reinstatement to the vacant principal position or appointment to any one of various other positions that he was wrongfully denied pursuant to his tenure and seniority rights.

On June 6, 2005, respondent moved for summary decision, alleging that the petition was barred by the 90-day limitation of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d). On June 20, 2005, petitioner filed a response, and on June 27, 2005, respondent filed its reply. Thereafter, in a conference call on July 20, 2005, I advised counsel to clarify whether there was also a dispute as to two other positions, assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction and supervisor of curriculum and instruction, and, if so, when petitioner became aware of them. Counsel submitted additional memoranda on those issues. The following constitutes my determination on respondent's motion for summary decision.

Issue

At issue is whether petitioner is barred from pursuing this appeal pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) (the 90-day rule),[1] and whether the 90-day limitation period should be relaxed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16.

Facts

It is clear from a review of the certification of counsel for respondent and the attachments thereto, as well as the petition, that the facts necessary for determination of the motion are essentially undisputed. They may be summarized as follows:

1. James Taylor began employment with the Hardyston Board of Education in August 1989 and received tenure as principal in August 1992. In November 1995 the Board voted to abolish the position of principal as part of a reduction in force, effective in June 1996.

2. On January 14, 2003, the Board voted to establish the position of assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction. The Board employed an individual in this position from July 1, 2003, through May 2004.

3. On May 3, 2004, the Board notified petitioner that the principal position that he had held previously had been reestablished, offered him the position and requested a response by May 14, 2004. On May 10, 2004, petitioner notified the Board of his interest in the position and requested a copy of the contract for the position. The parties then entered into negotiations relating to petitioner's return to the position.

[1] Effective April 4, 2005, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3 was amended and rewritten. See 36 N.J.R. 5032(a), 37 N.J.R. 105(b). N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d) was recodified as N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

4. The Board memorialized its offer in a letter dated June 16, 2004, and requested a response by June 23, 2004. The Board then forwarded a proposed contract to petitioner's attorney for review.

5. On July 9, 2004, petitioner's attorney requested revisions to the terms of the contract. Specifically, petitioner believed the salary was unacceptably low. On July 15, 2004, however, the Board faxed a letter to petitioner's former attorney, stating, "The Board is unwilling to consider any changes to the proposed [contract]." The letter further requested petitioner's answer to these terms by July 16, 2004.

6. It was conceded that a fax of the letter was received at counsel's office on July 15, 2004, but not reviewed by him until the following day. In fact, by letter of July 16, 2004, petitioner's prior counsel acknowledged receipt of the letter and indicated that he believed the Board's position was "arbitrary, capricious and might be considered an attempt to avoid Mr. Taylor's tenure rights."

7. The Board did not receive an answer from petitioner by July 16, 2004, as requested. (In fact, the Board heard nothing further from petitioner until his Verified Petition filed in this matter.) As a result, on July 26, 2004, the Board sent a letter to petitioner's attorney stating that since it had not received any answer from petitioner regarding the position, "The Board will construe this as a rejection of the offer." On October 20, 2004, the Board was served with a copy of the Verified Petition.

8. Petitioner admits that he became aware of the existence of the position of assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction when he saw an employment advertisement for it in a newspaper dated January 19, 2003.

One year later, on January 5, 2004, petitioner sent a letter to the Board stating that he had knowledge of the new position and the Board's employment of a new administrator. The letter further requested that the Board "[enter] into negotiations with me for my letter of resignation as the tenured principal in that district and avoid litigation over your present administrative structure." Petitioner, however, maintains that the Board never actually notified him of the availability of the assistant superintendent position.

9. Petitioner admits that he became aware of the existence of the position of supervisor of curriculum and instruction "no earlier than May 2004."

Discussion

Summary Decision

N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) provides that summary decision should be granted "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." This language is substantially similar to the guidelines for summary judgment under New Jersey Court Rule 4:46-2(c).[2] The OAL's standard for summary decision is as set forth by the New Jersey Supreme Court.

Summary decision is granted if, after considering the evidence presented in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, there exists no genuine issue of material fact. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995). The essential question is "whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require [a hearing] or whether it is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 533 (quoting Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 250, 106 S. Ct. 2505, 2511, 91 L. Ed. 2d 202, 213 (1986)). The Court recognized that this necessarily involves the judge in the process of weighing the evidence presented. When determining whether a genuine issue of material fact exists, "the court [should] be guided by the same evidentiary standard of proof . . . that would apply" at a hearing. Ibid. This weighing differs from the weighing the judge would perform after a hearing in that, "[o]n a motion for summary [decision] the court must grant all the favorable inferences to the non-movant." Id. at 536.

[2] R. 4:46-2(c) provides, in part:

> The judgment or order sought shall be rendered forthwith if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law.

It is clear that the standard for summary decision has been met in the instant matter. As stated in N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), the requirement imposed on a party opposing the motion is to submit an affidavit setting forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue that can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. Thus, one must not only show that there is a genuine factual issue, but also that such issue can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding.

In the instant matter, as will be discussed below, there are no genuine issues of material fact, and even granting petitioner all favorable inferences, there is no doubt that the facts necessary to a resolution are undisputed in any meaningful manner.

The 90-Day Rule

a) The Principal Position

The threshold issue in this matter is whether petitioner's claim for the principal position was timely filed.

The New Jersey Administrative Code provides that a petitioner may challenge the action of a board of education by filing a petition conforming to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.4. See N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3. In addition to serving the petition upon each respondent, the petition must be filed > no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.

> [N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) (emphasis added).]

Although this provision does not address what circumstances constitute "adequate notice," the New Jersey Supreme Court has offered guidance, stating that "[a]dequate notice must be sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate," Kaprow v. Berkeley Township Bd. of Educ., 131 N.J. 572, 587 (1993). Specifically, the 90-day limitation period for commencing an action begins to run when the "plaintiff learns, or reasonably should learn, the existence of that state of facts which may equate in law with a cause of action." Id. at 587 (citing Burd v. New Jersey Tel. Co., 76 N.J. 284, 291 (1978). Therefore, the 90-day period begins when a petitioner learns of facts that would enable him to file a timely claim. Id. at 588-89.

In Kaprow, the New Jersey Supreme Court held that an unofficial and informal note sent from the board secretary to the petitioner stating that two positions had been created and filled was sufficient to trigger the start of the 90-day period against his assertion of tenure rights. Id. at 587. The Court explained that the time limitation provides "a measure of repose, an essential element in the proper and efficient administration of school law." Id. at 582. Further, "[t]he limitation period gives school districts the security of knowing that administrative decisions regarding the operation of the school cannot be challenged after ninety days." Ibid.

Moreover, the 90-day requirement has been strictly followed and applied almost without exception. For example, a petition filed only two days after the 90-day period has been dismissed as untimely. See Dreher v. Jersey City Bd. of Educ., 1987 S.L.D. 1706, aff'd, St. Bd., 1988 S.L.D. 2439, rev'd, App. Div. A-6120-82 (Feb. 28, 1958) (reversed for further fact-finding to determine if Dreher was a ten- or twelve-month employee, which did not affect the 90-day limitation holding). In fact, regardless of whether the board complies with statutory, administrative or regulatory requirements, the petitioner is required to file the petition no later than 90 days after receipt of notice of the final decision. Portee v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 381, 383.

The State Board of Education has since clarified the importance of the petitioner either receiving notice of the final decision or "knowing of facts that enabled [the petitioner] to file a timely claim." Eisenberg v. Fort Lee Bd. of Educ., St. Bd. of Educ. (Nov. 5, 2003) <http://www.nj.gov/njded/legal>. In Eisenberg, the petitioner received "final" notice on April 3, 2001, that the board decided not to renew his employment contract. Eisenberg requested a statement of reasons for his non-renewal, which he received on May 1, 2001. On May 10, 2001, Eisenberg requested a meeting with the board to discuss his non-renewal, and a public meeting was held on July 2, 2001. On July 3, 2001, Eisenberg received a letter stating "final determination regarding your employment status," which indicated that the board upheld its decision to not renew his contract. On September 29, 2001, Eisenberg filed his petition of appeal with the Commissioner challenging the board's action.

The board in Eisenberg contended that the final action in that matter took place on April 3, 2001, and, therefore, the 90-day limitation period started to run at that point, forcing the petition to be dismissed as untimely. The administrative law judge (ALJ) disagreed and determined that the 90-day limitation period began on July 3, 2001, when Eisenberg received the "final determination regarding [his] employment status." On appeal, the Commissioner reversed the ALJ's decision, agreeing with the board that the "Superintendent's letter of April 3, 2001, had alerted Eisenberg to the existence of facts that might equate in law with a cause of action." Eisenberg then appealed to the State Board of Education, which reversed the Commissioner's decision, holding that, in this particular set of circumstances, the final notice took place on July 3, 2001.

The State Board distinguished the matter, noting that Eisenberg did not learn of pertinent information until just prior to the meeting on July 2, 2001. This new information alerted him to the existence of an allegation not known to him until late June and, therefore, "[t]he petitioner could not have made the same allegations prior to his becoming aware of such information." Accordingly, the July 3, 2001, decision had to be the final decision amenable to review, making Eisenberg's petition timely.

The instant matter is not controlled by Eisenberg because petitioner first learned of facts alerting him to a cause of action through the letter dated July 15, 2004. That letter stated, "The Board is unwilling to consider any changes to the proposed [contract]." Petitioner did not subsequently learn of any new information that would allow him to assert different claims from those he could have asserted after receiving that letter. Therefore, the instant matter is distinguishable from Eisenberg.

This conclusion is consistent with Drapczuk v. Winfield Board of Education, 2005 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 292 (N.J. AGEN 2005). There, the board sent a letter to the petitioner dated April 24, 2001, informing him that his employment contract would not be renewed when his present contract expired in June 2002. The board, however, did not formally pass a resolution until September 18, 2001. The petitioner argued that the letter dated April 24, 2001, did not constitute action or decision by the board for purposes of the 90-day rule. The board maintained that the April 24 letter was sufficient to trigger the 90-day period. The pivotal question in Drapczuk, therefore, was what constitutes a "final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education" necessary under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

In Drapczuk the petitioner conceded that the letter dated April 24, 2001, notified him that he should expect his contract to not be renewed. The petitioner further admitted that he waited for the full board of education to take action on this matter. Accordingly, the administrative law judge in Drapczuk found that the letter dated April 24, 2001, provided adequate notice to the petitioner that the board intended not to renew his contract. The judge explained:

> Although the directive was not by formal motion or resolution, under Kaprow notice without formal action of the Board may be adequate because it was information that the petitioner had a right to know and that the Board had a duty > to communicate. The Board's resolution on September 18, 2001, was a mere formality that confirmed prior action as described in the letter dated April 24, 2001.

> [Drapczuk, supra, 2005 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 292 (N.J. AGEN 2005) (emphasis added).]

In the instant matter, the board argues that the 90-day period began on July 15, 2004, when the board notified petitioner's attorney by letter that the reemployment offer was final by stating, "The board is unwilling to consider any changes to the proposed [contract]." Petitioner, however, contends that this letter fails to apprise him that the Board made its "final" offer or that any vote on his employment was conducted. Instead, petitioner argues that the 90-day period began on July 26, 2004, when the board sent a letter stating that it would construe petitioner's silence as a rejection of the offer.

Having considered the relevant case law, I FIND that the letter dated July 15, 2004, provided adequate notice to petitioner that the Board did not intend to alter the terms of the reemployment contract. Although the directive was not by formal motion or resolution, under Kaprow notice without formal action of the Board may be adequate because it was information that the petitioner had a right to know and that the Board had a duty to communicate. The Board's letter on July 26, 2004, declaring petitioner's silence a rejection can be considered a mere formality separate from the confirmed prior action contained in the letter dated July 15, 2004.

Petitioner further contends that the Board's letter dated July 15, 2004, did not trigger the 90-day rule because he and the Board still were engaged in negotiations concerning his employment rights. This contention is unpersuasive. First, there is nothing in the record to indicate that any negotiations were ongoing. The Board offered a reemployment contract, petitioner requested changes, and the Board refused to make changes. It is questionable whether this constitutes negotiations.

Furthermore, after the Board rejected petitioner's requested changes he did not continue to engage in "negotiations." If petitioner considered the letter to be a "negotiation ploy," then he would have countered with further negotiations. Although petitioner commented in his July 16, 2004, letter that the Board's position was "arbitrary" and could be considered an attempt to avoid his tenure rights, similar to events in Drapczuk he took no action at all and simply waited for the full board to issue its letter dated July 26, 2004, declaring his silence a rejection of the proposed contract. Even then, petitioner took no action until October 20, 2004, when the Board was served with a copy of the Verified Petition.

Moreover, attempting to resolve a dispute with a board of education through other avenues before filing a petition with the Commissioner does not toll the running of the 90-day rule. See Wise v. Trenton Bd. of Educ., 2000 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 462 (N.J. AGEN 2000). Specifically, the Commissioner had held that "requests to a board [of education] for reconsideration of its final decision do not toll the running of the 90-day rule." Pacio v. Lakeland Reg'l Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 1989 S.L.D. 2060, 2069. Similarly, as I pointed out in a previous case, M.N. and E.Y. o/b/o K.N. v. Jersey City School District, EDU 11336-03 (June 17, 2004), adopted, Comm'r (July 21, 2004) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html> (citations omitted):

> As stated by the New Jersey Supreme Court in Kaprow, supra, attempts to resolve a claim through negotiation with the local board of education are irrelevant. Such efforts do not negate the fact of receipt of adequate notice nor do they toll the running of the time limits for filing a petition of appeal.
> In fact, . . . there is no competent proof [that the issue was] ever actually under review or would be reversed through negotiation.

Accordingly, petitioner's attempt to change the proposed reemployment contract by asking the Board to change some of its terms is irrelevant and does not toll the running of the 90-day period. Such a request does not negate the fact that the petitioner received adequate final notice through the Board's letter dated July 15, 2004, advising him that the Board was unwilling to change any of the contract terms.

Therefore, the 90-day period began on July 15, 2004, and ended on October 13, 2004. Since petitioner filed the petition on October 20, 2004, after the 90-day deadline, and because the 90-day rule is strictly adhered to, the petition is considered untimely.

(b) Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum and Instruction

With respect to this position the petitioner contends that the burden of proving adequate notice falls on the Board and relies on Metaxas v. Hoboken Board of Education, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 708. In Metaxas, the petitioners' positions were abolished and the board made a number of appointments two months later in public session. The board argued that the petitioners reasonably should have known, or at least investigated the possibility, that these appointments might have affected their tenure rights entitlements.

The petitioners contended that while they may have known of the new appointments, they did not have specific notice that those persons had less seniority than they until three months later. Accordingly, the administrative law judge found that the 90-day period did not begin to run until the petitioners had notice of possible errors in the district's seniority determinations.

The local board argued that such a ruling "essentially rewards petitioners for doing nothing to ascertain their own status and permits them to rely on information conveyed by a local education association officer who had full knowledge of the operative facts in June 1992 but did not so advise petitioners until September." Metaxas, supra, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 714.

On review, the Commissioner concurred with, and the State Board of Education affirmed, the ALJ's conclusion that "a district board is 'clearly required' to give a staff member affected by a reduction in force notice of its action appointing non-tenured individuals to positions to which such staff member claims tenure rights." Id. at 715.

In Beshaw v. Board of Education of Borough of Oakland, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 494, the petitioner was notified in April 1995 that the Board would recommend that her employment not be renewed, and in May 1995 the Board officially voted to not renew her employment. In July 1995 the Board posted notice of full-time teaching positions. The petitioner, however, claimed that she never saw the postings due to knee surgery resulting in her incapacity. On September 5, 1995, the principal announced that a new teacher had been hired to teach the courses. The petitioner argued that she did not become aware of a potential claim until she received the curricula for the courses in January 1996, since the Board had never supplied her with the curricula, and, instead, she had to get them from another source. Thus, the petitioner argued that the Board never gave her adequate notice that a cause of action existed. The administrative law judge found:

> Petitioner did not know that she may have had a potential cause of action until the new positions were posted and a nontenured teacher was hired to teach the courses. When the nontenured teacher was hired, however, petitioner was on notice of the Board's action. "The final order, ruling, or other action by the Local Board occurred when it appointed nontenured persons to positions to which petitioner claims tenure rights." The 90 days period began on the date of some identifiable action taken by the Board. Indeed, the regulation specifically requires that notice or action by the board triggers the running of the 90 days, not action or knowledge on the part of a claimant.
> [Beshaw, supra, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 496 (citing Kaprow v. Berkeley Bd. of Educ., 131 N.J. 572, 588 (1993) (emphasis added).]

Accordingly, the ALJ held that the petitioner had notice of the Board's action on September 5, 1995, when the principal announced that a new teacher had been hired and assigned to teach the courses claimed by petitioner. Consequently, the 90-day period began on the date of the Board's official action, not when the petitioner acquired specific knowledge of a cause of action.

The Commissioner disagreed with the initial decision, finding summary decision inappropriate. The Commissioner explained:

> Because petitioner could not have reasonably concluded from the job posting and its attendant certification requirement that she may have had a possible claim to the courses at issue, notice cannot automatically be reckoned from the date of appointment of the teacher for those courses in question. Thus, the question becomes when petitioner knew, or reasonably should have known, about a possible claim so that the timeliness of her petitioner may be determined. In this regard, the record includes insufficient facts and further reveals that there exists a fundamental factual dispute which directly impacts upon the threshold issue of timeliness. Specifically, petitioner and the Board offer contradicting accounts with respect to when petitioner first requested a copy of the curricula for the courses in question, a fact which is crucial to the underlying determination of when petitioner knew, or reasonably should have known, that she had a possible claim to teach the courses in question.

Similarly, in Meyer v. Board of Education of Wayne, 1986 S.L.D. 3094, 3098, the State Board of Education observed that "in the absence of actual knowledge, the cause of action accrues only upon notice sufficient to alert the teaching staff member who has been adversely affected . . . ."

Although under Beshaw a board is required to give a petitioner adequate notice of an official action creating a possible claim of rights, Beshaw is distinguishable from the instant matter. In Beshaw, the petitioner did not know a claim existed until viewing the curricula of the posted job openings. Here, petitioner had all the facts necessary to alert him that a possible claim existed when he learned that the Board employed another in his claimed position. In fact, petitioner's letter dated January 5, 2004, revealed that petitioner indeed was aware of a possible claim at that time and, in fact, the letter threatened litigation over the Board's "present administrative structure." This indicates that the petitioner knew a possible claim existed, and needed no additional facts to come to such a conclusion.

Further, the letter alerted the Board to petitioner's knowledge of the possible claim. The limitation period is designed to give boards the security of knowing that administrative decisions cannot be challenged after 90 days. To allow petitioner to bring a claim more than 90 days after the January 5, 2004, letter conflicts with the intent of the 90-day rule providing the Board with the security of knowing that a claim can no longer be brought after a certain time. Otherwise, petitioner could hold such a claim over the Board indefinitely.

Additionally, Beshaw supports the argument that the 90-day period does not necessarily begin on the date of a school board's official action. Instead, Beshaw stands for the proposition that the 90-day period begins when the petitioner knew, or reasonably should have known, about a possible claim. Thus, under Beshaw, a school board is not required to give a petitioner notice to trigger the running of the 90-day period. The time limit begins when the petitioner actually knew, or reasonably should have known, about a possible claim. Here, petitioner had actual knowledge of the possible claim no later than January 5, 2004. Therefore, to be timely, the petition had to be filed by April 5, 2004. The petition here was not filed until October 2004, is untimely under the 90-day rule, and, accordingly, Taylor's claim to this position is dismissed.

(c) Supervisor of Curriculum and Instruction

Petitioner also claims entitlement to the position of supervisor of curriculum and instruction. Petitioner concedes that he became aware of this position "no earlier than May 2004," but contends that respondent never directly notified him of the position.

Respondent asserts that petitioner's claim to the position previously was the subject of an appeal in 1996 in which he sought this same position, (which was in existence at that time), and to which there has been no change. More particularly, respondent points out that the position has always contained a teaching component (for which petitioner apparently does not have the requisite credentials). Since the same position was the subject of Judge Springer's Initial Decision, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 7070-96, dated December 11, 1997, denying petitioner's claim, which was affirmed by the Commissioner of Education on February 2, 1998, respondent asserts that petitioner is estopped from making this identical claim. Further, respondent contends that despite petitioner's letter of January 5, 2004, which clarified that he had knowledge of the Board's administrative structure and that he believed his tenure and seniority rights were violated, petitioner did not timely challenge the Board's actions or make a claim to any position. In fact, neither the petition in this case nor the prehearing order makes any reference to the position.

Petitioner counters that the current position of supervisor of curriculum and instruction has changed since 1996, that it is now a full-time position, not part time, and no longer contains a teaching component.

In reaching a determination on whether petitioner is barred by the 90-day rule from pursuing this position, I have afforded him all favorable inferences. Thus, I do not rely for my determination on whether the position petitioner appealed from in 1996 is identical to the current position. Nor do I rely on petitioner's January 5, 2004, letter, since I do not know when petitioner alleges this "current" position was created. I am also willing to give petitioner the benefit of the doubt that his current appeal does encompass a claim to this position since it is mentioned in the petition of appeal, albeit not in his request for relief.

However, I still must CONCLUDE that petitioner is barred from relief from seeking this position pursuant to the 90-day rule. By petitioner's own admission he knew of the position "no earlier than May 2004." Since he then had actual knowledge of the position, for the reasons expressed in my determination in (b) above, his time in which to make a claim began to run at that time. Since petitioner did not file the petition in this matter until October 20, 2004 (approximately five months later), he clearly filed after the 90-day deadline.

Relaxing the 90-Day Rule

Under certain circumstances, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16 the 90-day rule may be relaxed. However, the authority to relax or waive the 90-day rule is rarely invoked and is generally unsuccessful unless "strict adherence would be inappropriate, unnecessary or where injustice would occur." DeMaio v. New Providence Bd. of Educ., 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 449, 453 (citing Gordon v. Passaic Bd. of Educ., 1985 S.L.D. 1929, 1931, aff'd, A-3294-84 (App. Div. May 27, 1986), certif. denied, 105 N.J. 534 (1986)).

Thus, certain cases may be excepted from the 90-day rule where they involve:

> (1) important and novel constitutional questions; (2) informal or ex parte determinations of legal questions by administrative officials; and (3) important public rather than private interests which require adjudication or clarification.
> [Brunetti v. New Milford, 68 N.J. 576, 586 (1975) (footnotes omitted).]

Nevertheless, relaxation of the 90-day rule occurs only under exceptional circumstances, or if there is a "compelling" reason to do so. See Kaprow, supra, 131 N.J. at 590 (finding no exceptional circumstances compelling the Commissioner to waive the 90-day limitation); DeMaio, supra, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 453 ("There are no compelling reasons in the present matter to justify a waiver or relaxation of the 90-day limitations period"); Bland-Carter v. State-Operated Sch. Dist. of the City of Newark, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 1505-00, Initial Decision (July 11, 2000), adopted, Comm'r (September 11, 2000) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html> (refusing to relax the 90-day rule when petitioner filed outside of the time limitation where genuine personal problems of the petitioner occurred during the first part of the 90-day period and the petitioner returned to work several weeks before the 90th day).

On the other hand, the Appellate Division has held that there is justification for relaxation of the 90-day rule where "the Commissioner's finding that [a] petitioner was reasonably led to believe that he could continue to informally seek relief and not be concerned about the time limitations for his petition are adequately supported by the record and that strict adherence to the 90-day time limitation . . . would result in individual justice not being served." Brown v. Sussex County Vocational Sch. Bd. of Educ., No. A-4854-83 (App. Div. April 4, 1985).

In Bogart v. East Orange Board of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 6245-82 (Jan. 26, 1983), adopted, Comm'r (March 14, 1983), ALJ Weiss stated that the 90-day rule will be relaxed "only where there is some compelling reason for the same, such as the presence of a substantial constitutional or other issue of fundamental public interest beyond that of concern only to the parties themselves." ALJ Weiss further held:

> Obviously, every time an otherwise meritorious claim is time barred, for whatever reason, there is, in a general sense, an 'injustice.' . . . [T]he point to be made is that there will always be an arguably harsh result when the 90-day rule is applied. But the cases which have interpreted and applied the rule teach that this is no reason not to use it. Indeed, if the rule was relaxed simply because the result would be harsh if applied, then the rule might as well be ignored in its entirety on nearly every occasion.

In the instant matter, petitioner cites Polaha v. Buena Regional School District, 212 N.J. Super. 628 (App. Div. 1986), to support his contention that even if the petition was filed in an untimely fashion, the 90-day rule should be relaxed because there were "ongoing negotiations involving tenure rights." In Polaha, however, actual ongoing discussions were taking place. Specifically, there was an exchange of correspondence between the petitioner and the board over a three-month period attempting to resolve the dispute. Here, it is highly questionable whether ongoing "discussions" were taking place. The Board offered petitioner a contract, petitioner asked for changes, and the Board refused. The discussions ended there. There are no alleged facts to support a conclusion that there were ongoing exchanges attempting to resolve the dispute. Accordingly, Polaha is distinguishable and inapplicable here.

I, therefore, CONCLUDE that no compelling or exceptional circumstances exist to warrant relaxation or waiver of the 90-day rule. The Board provided petitioner with adequate notice enabling him to file a timely claim and he has failed to demonstrate that this matter involves any constitutional issue, the review of an administrative determination, or a matter of significant public interest requiring adjudication or clarification beyond that of concern to petitioner himself. Petitioner simply has failed to demonstrate that strict adherence to the 90-day rule would be inappropriate, unnecessary or result in an injustice.

Conclusion

Based upon the above, I CONCLUDE that summary decision on the timeliness of the appeal is appropriate. Petitioner has failed to set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue of material fact necessitating a hearing on that issue. I CONCLUDE that petitioner's claim was not timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) and that the circumstances do not warrant relaxation of the 90-day rule pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16.

Order

It is hereby ORDERED that respondent's motion for summary decision is GRANTED and petitioner's appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION : OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF :
KELLY WENZEL, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF :
THE CHATHAMS BOARD OF EDUCATION, :
MORRIS COUNTY. :

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

The Board sought suspension of the instructional certificate of respondent pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 for not providing adequate notice of resignation from her position as a teacher at Chatham High School. Respondent does not oppose suspension of her certificate, but disputes the length and effective date, arguing that the Commissioner should exercise her statutory discretion and determine that the one-year suspension should run from the date of resignation or 60 days thereafter; i.e., mid-September, 2004, or mid-November, 2004, rather than from the date of the Commissioner's final decision in this matter.

The Board submitted that there are no material facts in dispute and the Board is entitled to summary judgment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10. Respondent filed no affidavit or certification to detail mitigating circumstances or offer any special reason why the one-year suspension should have begun immediately upon her resignation. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision, finding: that respondent patently violated the 60 day notice provision of her contract as well as N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10; and there was no reason to modify the usual penalty in matters of this sort. Therefore, the ALJ recommended that the petition of appeal be dismissed.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the grant of the Board's motion for summary decision, and agrees that respondent violated the 60-day notice requirement and failed to provide any mitigating circumstances as to why a one-year suspension of her certificate should not be applied. Therefore, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10, the Commissioner orders that respondent's instructional certificate be suspended for a period of one year commencing from the date of this decision, and forwards the matter to the State Board of Examiners for the purpose of effectuating this order.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION : OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF :
KELLY WENZEL, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF :
THE CHATHAMS BOARD OF EDUCATION, :
MORRIS COUNTY. :

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review of this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the grant of the Board's motion for summary decision in that there are no material facts in dispute and the Board is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) and Contini v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 286 N.J. Super. 106, 121-122 (App. Div. 1995) (citing Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520 (1995). Moreover, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ's conclusions that: 1) Ms. Wenzel violated the 60-day notice requirement set forth in both her contract and in N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10; and 2) Ms. Wenzel failed to provide any mitigating circumstances as to why the penalty assessed in similar matters, i.e., a suspension of certification for one year from the date of the Commissioner's decision, should not be applied.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the Administrative Law Judge finding Kelly Wenzel guilty of unprofessional conduct and suspending her teaching certificate for a period of one year, which period shall commence upon the date of this decision, is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. A copy of this decision is, therefore, being forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for the purpose of effectuating the within decision and taking such further action, if any, as it deems appropriate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by the Department of Education on March 17, 2005. The petitioner, Board of Education of the School District of the Chathams ("Board"), seeks a determination that the teaching certificate of respondent Wenzel be suspended for a period of one year as a result of her precipitous resignation from employment soon after school started in mid-September 2004. The Board has moved for summary decision.

DISCUSSION

In its motion the Board argues that unquestionably there was unprofessional conduct exhibited by Wenzel, a non-tenured teacher, when she submitted her resignation on or about September 13, 2004, to be effective September 15, 2004, even though her contract with the Board required 60 days written notice of that intent. The Board points out that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 where a teaching staff member ceases to perform her duties before the expiration of the term of her employment without the Board's consent, he or she "shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct" and the Commissioner may suspend that person's teaching certificate upon receiving notice thereof for a period not exceeding one year.

In support of its motion the Board submitted the affidavit of James F. O'Neil, Superintendent of Schools. In that affidavit he relates that on or about September 13, 2004, Wenzel tendered her resignation as a teacher of Earth Science, to be effective two days later on September 15, 2004. This, he says is a violation of her contractual obligations and constituted unprofessional conduct since it resulted in a substantial disruption to her students and caused the Board financial harm. More specifically, because of the abrupt notice given by Wenzel (indeed, since September 14, 2004 was a religious holiday the Board effectively had no advance notice) he could not immediately find a replacement teacher with appropriate certification. Thus, other teachers in the employ of the Board had to cover an extra class until a certified replacement could be hired. As a result, the Board was required to provide those teachers with additional pay. O'Neil also points that the person ultimately hired on a full-time basis to replace respondent was an "alternate route" teacher with no prior background or experience in the field and additional pay had to be given to another teacher to be that person's "mentor".

In a reply memorandum in opposition to the Board's motion for summary decision Wenzel's attorney concedes the material facts; in particular, despite the 60 day notice requirement of her contract and the applicable statute, admittedly Wenzel gave hardly any notice to the Board. However, he argues that the Commissioner should exercise his statutory discretion and determine that the one year suspension (which is not challenged) authorized by N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 should run from the date of Wenzel's resignation, or alternatively, 60 days thereafter. Thus, the Commissioner is requested to begin Wenzel's suspension either from the date of receipt of her resignation (September 14 or 15, 2004) or from the 60th day thereafter (November 14 or 15, 2004).

In its brief in support of the motion for summary decision the Board relies upon the decision in Bd. of Ed. of Penns Grove-Carneys Point Reg. Sch. Dist. v. Leinen, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 405. Counsel points out that under that decision a teaching staff member who seeks relief from the strict language of the statute must demonstrate the existence of mitigating factors to warrant a penalty of less than a year. In reply, counsel for Wenzel emphasizes that his client is not seeking a reduction in the one year time frame. Rather, she is simply seeking an exercise of discretion by the Commissioner to begin running the suspension from mid-September or mid-November, 2004, rather than from the date of any final decision.

In Wenzel's letter of resignation which was attached to the O'Neil affidavit as Exhibit "B" she explained that "circumstances have arisen in my home life that makes it virtually impossible to perform my duties at school" and therefore "it is not fair to the students, their parents, support staff and other teachers that I am unable to properly prepare and execute my lessons and attend to the necessary administrative tasks required to make things run smoothly." She further noted that her decision had been "a very difficult" one for her family and herself.

No sworn affidavit or certification in opposition to the Board's motion was even filed by Wenzel or anyone on her behalf detailing any mitigating circumstances or offering any special reason why the one year suspension should have begun. Her only response was her attorney's memorandum in opposition pointing out the existence of discretion. That is not adequate.

Accordingly, in the absence of any factual dispute the Board's motion for summary decision pursuant to OAL rules should be GRANTED. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. By her conduct in resigning on such short notice (effectively just 1 day) Wenzel patently violated both the 60 day notice provision of her contract as well as N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10. Since that conduct was unprofessional, and its consequences caused harm, a one year suspension of her teaching certificate (as even she concedes) is appropriate. I see no reason on this record to modify the usual approach in matters of this sort; namely, that the suspension should be for one year and run from the date of the Commissioner's decision.

ORDER

ACCORDINGLY, the Board's motion for summary decision is GRANTED and the petition of appeal is ORDERED DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the ACTING COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for her consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the ACTING COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Acting Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the ACTING COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." Record Closed: September 10, 2005 Decided: September 26, 2005

BEFORE JOHN SCHUSTER III, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 9, 2005, on remand for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13 or for the purposes of modifying the previously submitted Settlement Agreement to satisfy legal requirements. The originally transmitted case bore OAL Docket Number EDU 91-05 and the same agency docket number.

The parties appeared for hearing on April 11, 12, 13 and 14, 2005 and testimony was taken. On the last day they conferred and agreed to a settlement and prepared a Settlement Agreement and Release which was subsequently modified to satisfy legal standards. The revised Settlement Agreement (J-1), which is attached and fully incorporated herein, memorializes the terms of the settlement.

After being placed under oath, the respondent stated he fully understood and voluntarily agreed to be bound by the terms of the settlement and that representation is set forth in the Settlement Agreement.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of the settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

3. The Resolution of the school district attached to the Settlement Agreement authorizes the School Board Secretary to enter into the Agreement on behalf of the district.

I CONCLUDE that this settlement agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

2005 AUG 22 A 10:

The North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional School District Board of Education (the "District") and Gary Willis ("Willis") (together "Parties") hereby agree to settle the pending matter, subject to the terms and conditions contained herein:

WHEREAS, Willis shall mean in this Agreement himself, his respective heirs, assigns or successors in interest, and every agent or any other representative acting on behalf of Willis; and

WHEREAS, the District filed tenure charges on or about December 15, 2004, resulting in the matter titled In the Matter of the Tenure Charges Against Gary Willis, North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional High School District Board of Education, Docket No. EDS 891-05 ("Tenure Matter"), and alleging (1) Conduct Unbecoming, consisting of repeated outbursts of anger by Willis, and (2) Insubordination, consisting of failure by Willis to follow the directives of his superiors and District personnel; and

WHEREAS, Willis disputed the charges, the matter was transferred by the Commissioner of Education to the Office of Administrative Law, and a plenary hearing before an Administrative Law Judge was partially conducted; and

WHEREAS, certain circumstances exist justifying the settlement of this matter, including that: (a) trial in this matter is projected to last a minimum of two weeks, requiring the expenditure by the District of large amounts of public, taxpayer funds to the detriment of the students and taxpayers of the North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional School District ("School District"), (b) in addition to the costs of litigation, the District will be required to further expend taxpayer money starting April 14, 2005, as it must begin paying Willis his full salary again on the 121st day of his suspension, (c) the

District wants to ensure that Willis no longer continues his employment with the District; and (d) Willis no longer desires to continue his employment with the District and instead wishes to find new employment, as he has been unemployed during the course of his suspension; and

WHEREAS, the Parties hereto wish to amicably resolve this matter, in order to avoid the risk, cost and inconvenience of litigation; and

WHEREAS, settlement of this matter will benefit the public interest by (a) ensuring the safety of the students, employees and community members of the School District through the removal of Willis, who the District perceives to be a threat, (b) reducing the amount of public, taxpayer funds that would potentially be spent to achieve removal of Willis from the School District, and (c) precluding the expenditure of public, taxpayer funds by the District starting on the 121st day of Willis' suspension; and

WHEREAS, the Parties address the standards established by the State Board of Education in the matter titled In Re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846, and justify this Agreement for the above reasons;

NOW, THEREFORE, it is hereby agreed as follows:

1. The Agreement, and every condition and term set forth within, is not effective until approved by the Commissioner of Education. In the event the Agreement is not approved by the Commissioner of Education, the Parties hereby reserve their rights and defenses should the Parties be required to continue the hearing in this matter.
2. Willis shall resign his employment with the District, effective July 31, 2005 or the date upon which Willis commences new employment, whichever occurs first. As part of this Agreement, Willis' resignation is dependent upon the approval by the Commissioner of Education of this Agreement. Willis' resignation letter shall be signed and received by the District's attorneys within 10 days of the execution of this Agreement and contingent upon the approval of the Commissioner of Education. By resigning, Willis waives any and all rights to tenure, seniority, recall or reinstatement, as well as any of the benefits or emoluments of his employment, except his pension rights, and understands that effective immediately, he is not to report to work or otherwise enter school grounds except to the extent permitted to members of the public.

3. Within thirty days of the approval by the Commissioner of Education of the Agreement, the District shall issue a check to Willis in the gross amount of $14,384.30, representing back pay from December 15, 2004 through April 13, 2005.
4. Willis shall receive his normal pay from April 14, 2005 through July 31, 2005, or until the date he commences new employment, whichever shall occur first, and shall be paid with the regular payroll checks issued by the District.
5. Willis shall make a good faith effort to secure and begin new employment as soon as possible. If Willis obtains new employment before July 31, 2005, he shall immediately notify the District in writing, including the date his new employment commences.
6. Willis shall receive payment for 28 accrued vacation days, in the gross amount of $5,163.48. These payments shall be made in three installments, and issued in conjunction with the regular District payroll cycle. The District shall commence these payments on August 1, 2005 or the date Willis commences new employment, whichever occurs first.

7. In the event Willis in unable to secure new employment by July 31, 2005, or if his new employer has a waiting period for eligibility for health insurance, or does not make family health insurance available to its employees, the District shall provide health insurance for Willis and his family through December 31, 2005, or until the new employer's family health insurance begins, whichever occurs first.

8. In consideration of the payments set forth in paragraphs 2, 3, 5 and 6, Willis agrees that this Agreement constitutes a complete and final Release with respect to all costs, damages, any and all past, present, or future liability, claims, demands, rights and causes of action, guarantees, claims for compensatory or punitive damages, settlements, costs, attorneys' fees, and compensation of any kind or nature whatsoever, whether those claims are known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, asserted or unasserted, in the past, present, or future, against the District arising out of or in connection with Willis' employment with the District and/or the Tenure Matter.

9. This Agreement is made without admissions of liability or responsibility by the Parties.

10. This Agreement constitutes the full and complete Agreement of the Parties and may not be changed or modified, unless required by the Commissioner of Education. This Agreement is binding upon the Parties and their respective heirs, assigns or successors in interest. This Agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with New Jersey law. This Agreement shall be construed as if it were drafted contemporaneously by both Parties.

11. The Parties agree that this document constitutes their full understanding of the settlement of the Complaint. It is further agreed that there are no other understandings or agreements (either written or oral) which would have any impact upon the present matter.

12. Both Parties consent to the terms and conditions set forth in this Agreement.

13. The Parties further mutually agree between themselves that the terms and conditions of this Agreement shall be kept confidential by the Parties, to the fullest extent possible. The Parties agree and recognize that tenure charge documents are a matter of public record. The Parties further agree and recognize that the Board may take any action necessary with respect to disclosure of information regarding this tenure matter, including disclosure of this Agreement and disclosure of the reason for Willis' separation from service with the District, to fulfill and fully comport with the requirements of state law and regulations, including New Jersey's Open Public Records Act, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1 et seq.

14. The District and the Plaintiff both verify, affirm and represent that they have each had the opportunity to discuss the terms of this Agreement with counsel, that they understand its contents and are entering into this Agreement voluntarily and with full understanding of their rights and the Agreement's its meaning.

PETITIONER,	:

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner contends that she had acquired tenure, and her "non-reemployment" by the respondent constituted an unlawful termination in violation of tenure rights. Respondent filed a motion for summary decision, seeking dismissal of the petition based on petitioner's failure to file within the 90-day period prescribed by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Petitioner maintains that the filing was timely because it was within 90 days of her receipt of a second letter, dated June 24, 2004, from respondent upholding the non-renewal after a hearing that she had requested; petitioner argues that the second letter was the final action that triggered the ninety-day limitation period.

The ALJ found that respondent's notice to petitioner — by letter dated May 7, 2004, advising her that her contract would not be renewed — was issued in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10, which requires written notice of non-renewal by May 15. The ALJ therefore concluded that: the petition was not filed within the 90-day limit set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i); petitioner has not advanced any argument to relax the prescribed time limit, and there does not appear to be any reason to do so. The ALJ granted respondent's motion for summary decision and dismissed the petition.

The Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision of the OAL and dismisses the petition for untimeliness, finding that: under the applicable case law, the May 7, 2004 notice triggered the 90 day limitations period; petitioner's claim of tenure does not change the effect of the 90-day rule; and the notice of non-renewal was not compromised by the fact that it was signed by a district associate superintendent.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
	:	DECISION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the parties' exceptions have been independently reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner is constrained to adopt the Initial Decision of the administrative law judge (ALJ) dismissing the petition for untimeliness for the following reasons.

Petitioner began working in the respondent district in September 2000. Respondent contends that petitioner worked as a pool substitute during the 2000-2001 school year, while petitioner contends — and respondent does not deny — that she taught biology and pathology during the entire 2000-2001 school year, was evaluated on a regular basis, and "received all the emoluments of a regular teacher including sick leave benefits and medical insurance." Petitioner alleges that in June 2001 she "completed the requirements of the Alternate Route Program and was issued Provisional Licenses to teach Health & Elementary Education," but respondent maintains that it has no copies of such certificate/endorsements in petitioner's personnel file.[1]

According to petitioner, in August 2001 "she took Part 1 courses at St. Peter's College, Jersey City leading to the alternate route for full certification." She was "assigned a mentor for the alternate program" in September 2001, and taught in one of respondent's high schools.

Respondent's answer contains contradictory allegations concerning the point at which petitioner commenced a tenurable position. It states in paragraph one of the First Count that petitioner was appointed to a tenurable position in September 2001, but it states in the Second Defense that petitioner was not assigned to a tenurable position until January 4, 2002.

While it is not clear from the record before us what petitioner was teaching during the 2001-2002 school year — nor what, if any, instructional certificate/endorsements she held — the petitioner and respondent agree that during the 2002-2003 school year she taught biology and physical science, and during the 2003-2004 school year she taught science classes and gave home instruction.

Petitioner contends that in January 2004 she "completed the requirements for standard certification for biological sciences and was notified that her certificate would shortly issue." She further contends that by the end of the 2003-2004 school year she held standard certification in health, elementary education, and biological sciences. Respondent professes to have no knowledge of petitioner holding such endorsements by the end of the 2003-2004 school year. In any event, by letter dated May 7, 2004, respondent notified petitioner that her contract would "not be renewed for the 2004-2005 School Year." That determination was upheld after a hearing at which petitioner appeared, and the result was communicated to petitioner by letter dated June 24, 2004.

[1] The Commissioner notes that if the only credential petitioner held during the 2000-2001 school year was the county substitute certificate issued pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.5(a), she should not have been permitted to serve for more than 20 consecutive days in the same position. N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.5(c) (Now called "county substitute credential" and recodified at N.J.A.C. 6A:9-6.5(b))

In her first count petitioner maintains that she achieved tenure in September 2003, rendering respondent's action of not rehiring her for the 2004-2005 school year a termination in violation of her alleged tenure rights. In her second count — seemingly by way of alternative argument — she contends that in the 2000-2001 school year, when she "was eligible for a 'Letter of Eligibility'," respondent "failed, refused and neglected to offer her a contract," thereby taking advantage of her "and as a consequence she did not receive a 'Letter of Eligibility' and consequently she did not receive her emergency certificate." This inaction on respondent's part was, according to petitioner, negligent and unlawful.

In its answer, respondent referred to the fact that emergency certificates can only be applied for and issued for certain areas of need as designated by the State.

The petition was filed on August 18, 2004, the answer was filed on September 3, 2004, and the matter was transmitted to the OAL on September 30, 2004. On May 3, 2005, respondent filed a motion to dismiss, alleging that petitioner failed to file her petition within the 90-day period prescribed by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

There is no dispute about the filing date of the petition, or about the fact that a petition must be filed within 90 days of "receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3 (i). Rather, petitioner argues that the May 7, 2004, letter to her from the Jersey City Public School Associate Superintendent advising her that the Superintendent had decided not to renew her contract, was not "notice of a final order, ruling or other action." According to petitioner, a letter dated June 24, 2004 upholding the non-renewal after the hearing that she had requested to ascertain the reasons for non-renewal, was the notice of a final action that triggered the ninety-day limitation period. Thus, summary judgment may be employed in this case, since the Commissioner's task is not to find facts, but rather to determine the proper application of the law to the undisputed material facts.

For the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision, the Commissioner must conclude that applicable case law does not support petitioner's position. The ninety-day period commences when a teacher knows or should know that he or she will not be offered a contract for the next year. Nissman v. Board of Educ. of Long Beach Island, 272 N.J. Super. 373, 379 (App. Div.) certif. den. 137 N.J. 315 (1994). Decisions in cases with fact patterns similar to the present case have established that it is the first notice of non-renewal — not the letter confirming non-renewal after a hearing or review — that triggers the ninety-day limitation period. See, e.g., Pacio v. Bd. of Ed. of Lakeland Reg'l High School Dist., 1989 S.L.D. 2060, 2069 (the first written communication provided to a staff member of an action by the Board initiates the 90-day timeline); Wise v. Bd. of Ed. of the City of Trenton, decided by the Commissioner September 11, 2000, aff'd State Bd. January 4, 2001 (when a teaching staff member receives notice that his contract will not be renewed is when the 90-day period is initiated). See also, LeMee v. Bd. of Ed. of the Village of Ridgewood, 1990 S.L.D. 663, 667, wherein the Commissioner concurred that the day petitioner received notice that her contract was not renewed was the date that the 90-day timeline commenced, notwithstanding the request to appear before the board of education to try to convince that board to change its decision and offer a contract of employment.

The Commissioner does not agree with petitioner's contention in her exceptions that her claim of tenure changes the effect of the ninety-day rule. The rule does not distinguish between the claims of tenured or non-tenured employees. A petitioner is obliged to initiate his or her challenge to an action once he or she has notice "sufficient to inform [him or her] of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate." Kaprow v. Bd. of Ed. of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572, 587 (1993).

The Commissioner further disagrees with petitioner's assertion that the adequacy of the May 7, 2004 notice of non-renewal was compromised by the fact that it was signed by a district associate superintendent. The notice informed petitioner of the action taken by the superintendent who, in a state-operated district, has the prerogative to make such decisions. N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-35; N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-38. Petitioner neither claims that the superintendent lacks such authority, nor offers legal support for the proposition that only the superintendent may issue notice of same.

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the ALJ's determination that the petition in this matter must be dismissed for lack of timeliness.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 11077-04
AGENCY DKT. NO. 287-8/04

HILDA DORIS SUAREZ,

Petitioner,

v.

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY,

Respondent.

Philip Feintuch, Esq., for petitioner
(Feintuch, Porwich & Feintuch, attorneys)

Charlotte Kitler, General Counsel, for respondent

Record Closed: August 4, 2005 Decided: September 13, 2005

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

This matter involves a petition by Hilda Doris Suarez ("petitioner") in which she alleges that a determination by the State-Operated School District of the City of Jersey City ("respondent" or "School District") not to renew her contract was in reality an unlawful termination in violation of her tenure rights. In addition to denying that petitioner acquired tenure, respondent maintains that the petition was not filed within the ninety-day time limit prescribed by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Respondent now moves for summary decision based on failure to comply with the ninety-day time limit.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed her petition with the Commissioner of Education on August 18, 2004, pursuant to the Commissioner's authority to hear and determine controversies concerning the school laws under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Respondent filed an answer on September 3, 2004, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on October 15, 2004, for determination as a contested case.

On May 3, 2005, respondent filed a motion for summary decision seeking dismissal of the petition. Petitioner's response to the motion was filed on June 14, 2005, and respondent's supplemental submission was received on August 4, 2005.

MOTION FOR SUMMARY DECISION

In support of the motion, respondent contends that petitioner was notified of the non-renewal of her contract by letter dated May 7, 2004, and that the petition was filed more than ninety days after receipt thereof. Moreover, there is no reason for relaxation of the ninety-day time limit.

Petitioner maintains that the letter dated May 7, 2004, was not the final action of the School District. Petitioner requested a disclosure of the reasons for the non-renewal, and she was given a hearing. Thereafter, the School District sent a letter dated June 24, 2004, stating that the decision was to uphold the recommendation of the principal not to renew petitioner's contract. Petitioner maintains that the ninety-day period begins with the letter dated June 24, 2004, and that relative to this date the filing of the petition was timely. Thus, the issue is whether the ninety-day period in which to file the petition began with receipt of the letter dated May 7, 2004, or the letter dated June 24, 2004.

A. Legal Standard for Summary Decision

A motion for summary decision should be granted where there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). The same standard is applied in the courts of this State pursuant to R. 4:46-2. Summary judgment "is designed to provide a prompt, businesslike and inexpensive method" to dispose of actions which do not present any genuine issue of material fact. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954). The movant must show that there is no genuine issue of material fact, and all inferences of doubt are drawn against the movant. Id. at 74-75. However, excessive caution which would undercut the purposes of a motion for summary judgment should be avoided. Pierce v. Ortho Pharmaceutical Corp., 84 N.J. 58, 65 (1980). Thus, if the opposing party offers only facts which are immaterial or insubstantial in nature, these circumstances should not defeat a motion for summary judgment. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. at 75. Although the pleadings may raise a factual issue, summary judgment procedure pierces the allegations in the pleadings, where the other papers show the absence of any genuine issue of material fact. Ibid.

In determining whether there exists a genuine issue as to a material fact, the judge must "consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party in consideration of the applicable evidentiary standard, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995).

B. Facts

There is no genuine issue as to any material fact in this matter in relation to the time limit in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). The material facts are as follows:

1. Petitioner was employed by respondent as a teacher during the 2003-2004 school year and prior thereto.

2. By letter dated May 7, 2004, Associate Superintendent Flavio Rubano advised petitioner that her contract would not be renewed for the 2004-2005 school year.

3. Petitioner received the letter dated May 7, 2004, no later than May 13, 2004.

4. Petitioner requested a statement of reasons and a hearing. These requests were granted.

5. Thereafter, Associate Superintendent Flavio Rubano sent petitioner a letter dated June 24, 2004, advising her that after consideration of her testimony, documentation and arguments, the decision was made not to renew her contract for the 2004-2005 school year.

6. Petitioner filed her petition with the Commissioner of Education on August 18, 2004.

C. Law and Analysis

The applicable regulation is N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), which provides in pertinent part as follows:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.

The ninety-day limitation period has been upheld by the Supreme Court of New Jersey as "a fair and reasonably-necessary requirement for the proper and efficient resolution of disputes under the school laws." Kaprow v. Board of Educ. of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572, 582 (1993). The Court further stated as follows:

> The limitations period provides a measure of repose, an essential element in the proper and efficient administration of the school laws. It stabilizes the relationship between the teachers and the administration. Because education disputes frequently involve conflicting claims to one teaching position, the remedy is to award the prevailing party the position with back pay. The limitation period gives school districts the security of knowing that administrative decisions regarding the operation of the school cannot be challenged after ninety days. Ibid.

Petitioner relies upon Donaldson v. Bd. of Ed. of No. Wildwood, 65 N.J. 236 (1974) for the proposition that a school district upon request must disclose to a teacher the reason for nonrenewal of a contract. In this case, petitioner was given a "Donaldson hearing." In petitioner's view, the subsequent determination as set forth in the letter dated June 24, 2004, was the final action in this matter. In effect, petitioner argues that the determination set forth in the letter dated May 7, 2004, was not a final action within the meaning of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

The ninety-day period commences when a teacher "knew or should have known" that he or she was not going to be offered a new contract for the following academic year. Nissman v. Board of Educ., 272 N.J. Super. 373, 379 (App. Div.) certif. den., 137 N.J. 315 (1994). Various school law cases address a situation where a teacher is given written notice of non-renewal of a contract for the following school year and then tries some means other than an appeal to the Commissioner to persuade the local school board to change its determination. The teacher typically contends that subsequent action in regard to the effort to change the determination constitutes the action which commences the ninety-day period. However, the consistent determinations are that the first written notice begins the ninety-day limitations period. E.g., Pacio v. Lakeland Reg'l High School Dist. Bd. of Educ., 1989 S.L.D. 2060.

In this case, the notice of non-renewal was issued in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10, which provides as follows:

> On or before May 15 in each year, each nontenured teaching staff member continuously employed by a board of education since the preceding September 30 shall receive either > a. A written offer of a contract for employment from the board of education for the next succeeding year providing for at least the same terms and conditions of employment but with such increases in salary as may be required by law or policies of the board of education, or > b. A written notice from the chief school administrator that such employment will not be offered.
>

This section requires written notice that employment will not be offered for the next school year by May 15. Written notice pursuant to this section certainly should alert the non-renewed teacher to the consequences.

The first written notice was the letter dated May 7, 2004, advising petitioner that her contract would not be renewed for the 2004-2005 school year. Petitioner received this letter no later than May 13, 2004. The petition in this matter was filed on August 18, 2004, which was more than ninety days after May 13, 2004. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the petition in this matter was not filed within the ninety-day time limit set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

Rules may be relaxed where strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16. An example would be a compelling public interest. DeMaio v. New Providence Board of Education, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 449, 453. Here, petitioner has not advanced any argument to relax the ninety-day time limit in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), and there does not appear to be any reason to do so.

Based upon the above, I CONCLUDE that petitioner failed to file her petition within the ninety-day time limit in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) and that therefore the petition in this matter should be dismissed.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that:

1. Respondent's motion for summary decision is granted.

2. The petition in this matter is dismissed.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter, the parties' proposed Stipulation of Settlement, and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement and adopts it as the final decision in this matter. In so doing, however, the Commissioner observes that certain terms appear to have been effectuated prior to final agency approval, contrary to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. Accordingly, the Commissioner cautions that, in controverted matters transmitted to the OAL, proposed settlements should not include terms requiring effectuation prior to approval by the Commissioner, and that parties act at their peril in effectuating such terms.

The matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

Record Closed: September 14, 2005 Decided: September 21, 2005

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

On or about December 9, 2003, petitioners, M.F.S. and N.S. on behalf of their minor child, M.S., filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education, alleging that M.S. was eligible to attend Green Hills School in the District of Green Township during the school year 2003-2004 and requesting an exception to district policy due to exigent circumstances. On or about January 15, 2004, respondent filed an answer, alleging that petitioners failed to articulate any basis upon which M.S. would be entitled to a free education in the Green Township Public Schools and counterclaiming for tuition costs for the entire period of M.S.'s ineligible attendance during the applicable school years. On February 27, 2004, the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

The matter was assigned to the undersigned judge on April 5, 2004, and a prehearing conference was scheduled for May 5, 2004. On that date, as well as June 10, 2004, settlement conferences were held with counsel. Another settlement conference scheduled for July 7, 2004 was adjourned at counsel's request, but additional settlement conferences were held between the parties and updates on the progress of settlement were received from counsel.

By letter dated February 17, 2005, counsel for respondent advised the undersigned that the matter had not been resolved, and he would file a motion for summary decision. This was discussed with counsel on February 24, 2005, when the parties confirmed that if they could not reach a settlement, they would file a stipulation of facts and motions for summary decision, and the matter was adjourned to March 8, 2005. On March 8, 2005, during a telephone conference with counsel, dates for the filings were established. On March 31, 2005, counsel for respondent filed its motion for summary decision. No response was received and during a telephone conference with counsel on May 17, 2005, the parties agreed to settle this matter. Although counsel for respondent indicated on August 8, 2005 that he had not yet received the signed stipulation of settlement from petitioners, on August 11, 2005, he acknowledged its receipt and stated that he would forward it to the Board for its approval. On September 14, 2005, the undersigned received the fully executed Stipulation of Settlement, as well as a Board resolution approving the settlement and authorizing the Board President to execute it on behalf of the Board.

I have reviewed the record and the Stipulation of Settlement and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement, as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." GREEN TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, SUSSEX COUNTY,	:
Respondent/Counterclaimant.	:

This Stipulation of Settlement is made by and between the Green Township Board of Education ("Board"), with administrative offices located at 69 Mackerley Road, Greendell, New Jersey 07839 and Michael Sesera, Jr. and Natalie Sesera, 21 Woodfield Road, Andover, New Jersey 07821 ("Petitioners"). In consideration of the mutual promises and undertakings contained in this Agreement, and for good and valuable consideration, the receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, the undersigned state:

WHEREAS, the Petitioners filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education on or about December 8, 2003 against the Board, challenging the Board's decision to disenroll their daughter, M.S., for failing to meeting the residency requirements set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq.; and

WHEREAS, on January 14, 2004, the Board filed its answer to the Petition of Appeal with a counterclaim for tuition; and

WHEREAS, M.S. is currently enrolled in the Green Township School District, pursuant to the stay-put provision of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq. ; and

WHEREAS, Petitioners and their child are not presently domiciled in Green Township, nor have they been domiciled in Green Township at any time during their child's enrollment in the Green Township Public Schools; at all relevant times herein, Petitioners have lived in Hopatcong, New Jersey; and

WHEREAS, based upon the foregoing facts the Board, filed a motion for summary decision with the Court on or about March 30, 2005; and

WHEREAS, Petitioners did not oppose said motion and through their attorney acknowledged to the Court that the Board's position is legally correct; and

WHEREAS, the Court, in lieu of deciding said motion, instructed the parties to enter into this Stipulation of Settlement;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises and covenants the parties agree as follows:

1. Petitioners will pay the Board back-tuition in the amount of $23,876.47 in full and complete satisfaction of the alleged amount which is due and owing.
2. This tuition amount will be paid directly to the Board's legal counsel, Marc H. Zitomer, Esq., 10 James Street, Florham Park, New Jersey 07932, with a certified check made payable to the "Green Township Board of Education", by no later than August 31, 2005.
3. Petitioners understand that if they fails to remit the agreed-upon amount by August 31, 2005, the Board will take whatever legal action is necessary to enforce this Agreement and collect the sum set forth herein.
4. Petitioners agree to pay the Board's attorney's fees and costs, in addition to all collection fees, in the event that the Board must take action to collect the aforesaid sum of money.

5. Petitioners agree to withdraw M.S. from the Green Township School before August 31, 2005;

6. Petitioners, in consideration of this Agreement, hereby releases the Board, individually and collectively, and its agents, servants and employees from any and all claims, causes of action, suits, actions at law and in equity, administrative proceedings, and judicial and quasi-judicial proceedings of any kind whatsoever, which have been brought, or could be brought, arising under or relating in any way to M.S.'s attendance and subsequent removal/withdrawal from the District, now and forever, except to enforce the terms of this Settlement Agreement.

7. The Board, in consideration of this Agreement, hereby releases Petitioners from any and all claims, causes of action, suits, actions at law and in equity, administrative proceedings, and judicial and quasi-judicial proceedings of any kind whatsoever, which have been brought, or could be brought, arising under or relating in any way to M.S.'s attendance in Green Township and subsequent removal/withdrawal from the District, now and forever, except to enforce the terms of this Settlement Agreement. This release does not preclude the Board from instituting any legal action in the future challenging any future enrollment/attendance of Petitioners children or attempts at enrollment in the Green Township School District.

8. Petitioners acknowledge that they have reviewed this Agreement with independent legal counsel and that they enter into it without duress, and of their own free will and volition. They further acknowledge that they fully understand the terms of this Agreement and the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

9. The parties, in consideration of this Agreement and in full, final and complete settlement of this matter hereby withdraw, with prejudice, the above-docketed Petition of Appeal and Counterclaim, respectively.

10. Nothing contained in this Agreement should be construed as an admission of wrongdoing by either party and neither party shall be considered a prevailing party for any reason.

11. This Agreement contains the entire Agreement between the parties, and no other representations, whether verbal or in writing shall be binding upon them.

12. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties.

13. This Agreement is to be construed in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey.

IN THE MATTER OF ROSE L. FUNCHES, :

GATEWAY CHARTER SCHOOL BOARD OF : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

TRUSTEES, HUDSON COUNTY. : DECISION

SYNOPSIS

The School Ethics Commission determined that Gateway Charter School Board of Trustees member Rose Funches committed "multiple, flagrant violations" of the School Ethics Act and the Code of Ethics for School Board Members, encompassing violations of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b)-(c), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25(c)3, and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (e) and (g). After considering the nature of the charge, the Commission recommended that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of removal from the Board.

Upon a thorough review of the record, the Commissioner, whose decision is restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, concurs with the Commission's recommendation. The Commissioner thus orders that Rose Funches be removed, as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act, from the Board of Trustees of the Gateway Charter School as of the filing date of this decision.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 260-9/05

IN THE MATTER OF ROSE L. FUNCHES,	:
GATEWAY CHARTER SCHOOL BOARD OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission ("Commission"), including the recommended penalty of removal, have been reviewed.

This matter comes before the Commissioner to impose a sanction upon respondent, a member of the Board of Trustees of the Gateway Charter School, based upon the Commission's finding that she committed "multiple, flagrant violations" of the School Ethics Act and the Code of Ethics for School Board Members, encompassing violations of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b)-(c), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25(c)3, and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (e) and (g).

Upon issuance of the decision of the Commission, respondent was provided thirteen days from the mailing of such decision to file written comments on the recommended penalty for the Commissioner's consideration. No such comments were filed.

Initially, the Commissioner emphasizes that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, the determination of the Commission as to violation of the School Ethics Act is not reviewable herein. Rather, the Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to review of the sanction recommended by the Commission following its finding of violation.

In light of that standard, the Commissioner determines to accept, for the reasons expressed in the Commission's decision, the recommendation that removal is the appropriate penalty in this matter. In so holding, the Commissioner notes that the Commission considered the facts presented and took aggravating and mitigating circumstances into account, reasonably concluding that its recommended penalty was commensurate with the violations found. Therefore, the Commission's recommendation will not be disturbed.

Accordingly, IT IS ORDERED that Rose L. Funches be removed, as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act, from the Board of Trustees of the Gateway Charter School as of the filing date of this decision.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

GATEWAY CHARTER SCHOOL	:
BOARD OF TRUSTEES	:
HUDSON COUNTY	:	DECISION

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from two complaints filed by Gregory John Monte, an employee of the Gateway Charter School Board of Trustees (Board), against Rose L. Funches, Vice-President of the Board. The first complaint, C09-05, was filed on March 29, 2005, and alleged that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25(c)3 and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (e) and (g) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members in the Act when she engaged in certain conduct as noted below. The second complaint, C10-05, was filed on April 8, 2005, and alleged that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and (c) of the Act and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) and (e) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members when she engaged in certain conduct as noted below. Following are the complainant's allegations:

(1) As Vice-President of the Board, Ms. Funches participated in a closed executive meeting of the Gateway Charter School Board of Trustees (Board), held on March 17, 2005, without public notice in violation of the Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA), N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 et seq.;

(2) Ms. Funches filed a personal/financial disclosure statement that contained information which she knew to be false;

(3) Ms. Funches co-signed several checks without Board authorization, which included several checks made out to a company owned by her husband;

(4) Ms. Funches voted to hire Unique Maintenance to strip and polish floors at the school when her husband and son were employed by the company to do the actual work;

(5) Ms. Funches voted on bill lists which included payments to a company owned by her husband;

(6) Ms. Funches recommended that Sheila Ruiz be hired as a clerk to help the secretary of the Board complete the minutes after recommending that the complainant be fired; and

(7) Ms. Funches voted to approve a contract with HP Contractors when the owner was her close friend.

After receipt of the complaints, the Commission forwarded both complaints to Ms. Funches and notified her that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.5(a), she had 20 days to submit an answer under oath to the Commission. Ms. Funches failed to answer either complaint within the 20 day time limit. The Commission then notified her that she had an additional 10 days to answer the complaint and that the complaint was scheduled for the June 28, 2005 meeting. Ms. Funches never submitted an answer to the complaint.

The Commission invited Mr. Monte to attend its June 28, 2005 meeting to present witnesses and testimony, but did not require that he be present. Neither party attended the hearing. At its June 28, 2005 meeting, the Commission consolidated C09-05 and C10-05 and voted to find probable cause to credit allegations one through five that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and (c) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 of the School Ethics Act (Act), and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (e) and (g) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members in the Act. The Commission also voted to find no probable cause to credit allegations six and seven that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a).

The Commission found that the material facts were not in dispute with respect to the allegations upon which it found probable cause and, therefore, the Commission advised Ms. Funches that it would decide the matter on the basis of written submissions. Ms. Funches was invited to provide a written submission to the Commission by August 30, 2005, and set forth why the Commission should not find her in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and (c) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 of the Act, and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (e) and (g) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members in the Act. Ms. Funches was also told that her written submission should include her position on an appropriate sanction should the Commission determine that the Act was violated. Ms. Funches did not provide a written submission in response to the Commission's probable cause determination.

FACTS

The Commission based its finding of probable cause on the following facts.

At all times relevant to these complaints, Ms. Funches was Vice-President of the Board and co-signed, with the Board President, checks issued by the Board. Ms. Funches' husband owns Professional Maintenance and Carpeting, which is a company that was under contract with the Board from July 26, 2004 through February 13, 2005. Ms. Funches' husband and son were both employed by Unique Maintenance and performed work at the school. At all times relevant to the complaints, complainant was employed by the Board.

(1) March 17, 2005 Closed Executive Meeting

On March 16, 2005, Ms. Funches sent an e-mail to all Board members asking if they were going to attend the closed Board meeting to be held the following evening. The closed executive meeting of the Board was held on March 17, 2005. The public was not provided with any type of notice of the meeting.

(2) Personal/Financial Disclosure Statement

On March 4, 2005, Ms. Funches filed a Personal/Financial Disclosure Statement as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26. Ms. Funches indicated "N/A" in response to all questions asking for financial information for the previous calendar year. The only section in the form that she completed was the section requesting personal information such as name and address.

(3) Check Signing

Ms. Funches co-signed several checks that were not authorized by the Board, which included several made out to a company owned by her husband, as follows:

1. Ms. Funches co-signed check No. 7087 dated June 5, 2004 in the amount of $4,375; check No. 7169 dated September 14, 2004 in the amount of $5,000; and check No. 7241 dated November 11, 2004 for $3,500, which were all made out to her husband's company, Professional Maintenance and Carpeting;
2. Ms. Funches co-signed the following checks without Board approval: 7104-7127; 3024-3025; 3020-3023; 7128-7165; 7166-7167; 7169-7193; 7208-7240 and 7241-7242; and
3. At the January 10, 2005 Board meeting, the Board authorized 23 checks, but Ms. Funches co-signed 32 checks, thus, 9 checks were not approved by the Board.

(4) Unique Maintenance

At the March 21, 2005 Board meeting, Ms. Funches voted to hire Unique Maintenance to strip and polish the floors at Gateway Charter School. Unique Maintenance is owned by her brother-in-law. Ms. Funches' husband and son are employees of Unique Maintenance and they performed the work that was done at the school. The minutes indicate that Unique Maintenance was the lowest bidder. However, the actual bids show that Unique Maintenance submitted a bid that was approximately $1,124.00 more then the lowest bid from Capital Contractors, Inc.

(5) Vote on Bill Lists

Ms. Funches voted on bill lists which included payments to her husband's company, Professional Maintenance and Carpeting, during the Board meetings for the months of July 2004, October 2004, December 2004 and January 2005.

ANALYSIS

(1) March 17, 2005 Closed Executive Meeting

The Commission found probable cause that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) when she participated in a March 17, 2005 closed executive meeting of the Board of which the public had no knowledge. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) provides:

> I will uphold and enforce all laws, rules and regulations of the State Board of Education and court orders pertaining to the schools. Desired changes shall be brought about only through legal and ethical procedures.

The OPMA at N.J.S.A. 10:4-9 requires all public bodies to provide adequate notice of meetings that are held by the public bodies. The Board falls within the definition of "public body" at N.J.S.A. 10:4-8, which, in part, defines the term as meaning "a commission, authority, board... organized under the laws of this State, and collectively empowered as a voting body to perform a public governmental function..." Furthermore, N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-6 requires the board of trustees of a charter school to comply with the provisions of the OPMA. "Adequate notice" is also defined, in part, at N.J.S.A. 10:4-8 to mean, "written advance notice of at least 48 hours, giving the time, date, location and, to the extent known, the agenda of any regular, special or rescheduled meeting..." The March 17, 2005 closed executive meeting of the Board was held without the provision of a 48 hour written advance notice giving the time, date, and location of the meeting. Based on the foregoing, the Commission finds that, by participating in this meeting, Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) because she failed to uphold and enforce all laws pertaining to the schools.

(2) Personal/Financial Disclosure Statement

The Commission found probable cause that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25(c)3 when she filed a personal/financial disclosure statement that failed to include information that her husband owned Professional Maintenance and Carpeting, which was under contract with the Board from July 26, 2004 through February 13, 2005. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25(c)3 provides, in part:

> A school official who fails to file a statement or who files a statement containing information which the school official knows to be false shall be subject to reprimand, censure, suspension, or removal pursuant to the procedures established in [N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29]...

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25(a)2 a school official is required to disclose relatives who are a party to a contract with the school district with which the school official holds office. Ms. Funches' personal/financial disclosure statement for 2004 indicated "N/A" in all of the sections requesting financial information. Specifically, she indicated that no relative by marriage is employed by the charter school, is party to a contract with the charter school, or receives compensation or has any interest in any business which is a party to a contract with the charter school. Ms. Funches' husband owns Professional Maintenance and Carpeting, which was a party to a contract with the Board from July 26, 2004 through February 13, 2005. Ms. Funches failed to indicate that her husband's company was a party to a contract with the charter school. Thus, she knowingly provided false information on her 2004 personal/financial disclosure statement. Therefore, the Commission finds that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 when she filed her 2004 personal/financial disclosure statement without providing information that her husband's company, Professional Maintenance and Carpeting, was a party to a contract with the charter school.

The Commission found probable cause that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g) when she filed a personal/financial disclosure statement that was inaccurate. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g) provides:

> I will hold confidential all matters pertaining to the schools which, if disclosed, would needlessly injure individuals or the schools. In all other matters, I will provide accurate information and, in concert with my fellow board members, interpret to the staff the aspirations of the community for its school.

When Ms. Funches failed to disclose her husband's company's contract with the charter school on her 2004 personal/financial disclosure statement, she did not provide accurate information on the form. Therefore, the Commission finds that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g) when she did not list her husband's business on her 2004 personal/financial disclosure form.

(3) Check Signing

The Commission found probable cause that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) and (e), which are set forth above, when she signed certain checks without Board authorization, including several made out to her husband's company. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:19-1(d), prior to expenditure of Board funds, the Board must approve the expenditure by resolution. The evidence shows that Ms. Funches co-signed several checks that had not been approved at the January 10, 2005 Board meeting. The evidence also shows that Ms. Funches co-signed other checks that were not approved by the Board, including several made out to her husband's company. Based on the foregoing, the Commission finds that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) and (e), when she signed checks without Board approval in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:19-1 et seq., and when she failed to recognize that the authority to expend school funds lies with the entire Board.

The Commission also found probable cause that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) when she signed certain checks made out to her husband's company without Board authorization. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) provides:

> No school official shall use or attempt to use his official position to secure unwarranted privileges, advantages or employment for himself, members of his immediate family or others; and

Ms. Funches' husband falls within the definition of "member of immediate family," which is defined at N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 to mean, "the spouse or dependent child of a school official residing in the same household." Ms. Funches co-signed checks made out to her husband's company, Professional Maintenance and Carpeting, without Board approval. She co-signed the checks as part of her duties as Board Vice-President. In doing so, Ms. Funches used her official position as Board Vice-President to secure the unwarranted privilege or advantage of obtaining funds from the Board for her husband without Board approval. Therefore, the Commission finds that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b).

The Commission also found probable cause that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when she signed certain checks made out to her husband's company without Board authorization. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) provides:

> No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he, a member of his immediate family, or a business organization in which he has an interest, has a direct or indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment. No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he or a member of his immediate family has a personal involvement that is or creates some benefit to the school official or member of his immediate family;

Ms. Funches and her husband have a direct financial involvement in the checks that were made out to Professional Maintenance and Carpeting because the company is owned by her husband. The public could reasonably perceive that her objectivity and independence of judgment would be impaired in that matter. The Commission finds that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when she acted in her official capacity as Board Vice-President in a matter where she had a direct financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair her objectivity or independence of judgment.

(4) Unique Maintenance

The Commission found probable cause that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b), which is set forth above, when, on March 21, 2005, she voted to approve the bid of Unique Maintenance to strip and polish the floors at the school. The Board minutes show that Ms. Funches voted to approve the bid of Unique Maintenance. Her husband and son were employed by Unique Maintenance and they performed the work at the school. The approval of Unique Maintenance was unwarranted because their bid was over $1,000 more than the lowest bid. This gives the impression that Ms. Funches voted to approve Unique Maintenance because her husband and son were employed by that company. In N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22(a), the Legislature declared that board members must avoid conduct which is in violation of the public trust or which creates a justifiable impression among the public that such trust is being violated. When Ms. Funches voted to hire a company that employed her husband and son, which was not the lowest bidder, it created a justifiable impression that the public trust was being violated and that the approval of Unique Maintenance was unwarranted. Based on the foregoing, the Commission finds that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) when she used her official position to secure unwarranted employment for her husband and son.

The Commission also found probable cause that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c), which is set forth above, when she voted to approve the bid of Unique Maintenance to strip and polish the floors at the school. Ms. Funches has a direct financial involvement in the employment of her husband. There is no evidence to show that her son was a dependent residing in the same household. However, she has a personal involvement in ensuring the employment of her son. When she voted to approve the bid of Unique Maintenance, she was acting in her official capacity as a Board member on a matter where she has a direct financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair her objectivity or independence of judgment and a personal involvement that created a benefit to her. Therefore, the Commission finds that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when she voted to hire Unique Maintenance.

(5) Vote on Bill Lists

The Commission found probable cause that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c), which is set forth above, when she voted on bill lists that included payments to a company owned by her husband. Board minutes show that Ms. Funches voted on bill lists that included payments to her husband's company at four different Board meetings. As noted above, she has a direct financial involvement in Professional Maintenance and Carpeting because the company is owned by her husband. Therefore, the Commission finds that Ms. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when she acted in her official capacity as Board Vice-President on a matter in which she had a direct financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair her objectivity or independence of judgment.

DECISION

For the reasons discussed above, the Commission finds that Rose L. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and (c) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25(c)3 of the Act, and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (e) and (g) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members in the Act. Because of the multiple, flagrant violations of the Act, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of removal.

This decision has been adopted by a formal resolution of the School Ethics Commission. This matter shall now be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction only, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within 13 days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, Ms. Funches may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

Resolution Adopting Decision – C09-05 & C10-05

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has considered the pleadings filed by the parties and the documents submitted in support thereof; and

Whereas, at its meeting of September 27, 2005, the Commission found that Rose L. Funches violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and (c) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25(c)3 of the School Ethics Act (Act), and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (e) and (g) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members in the Act and recommended that the Commissioner of Education impose a sanction of removal; and

Whereas, at its meeting of September 27, 2005, the Commission reviewed a draft decision prepared by its staff and agrees with the decision;

Now Therefore Be It Resolved that the Commission hereby adopts the proposed decision referenced as its decision in this matter and directs its staff to notify all parties to this action of the Commission's decision herein.

IN THE MATTER OF JANET P. GRAHAM,	:
SOUTH BELMAR BOARD OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
EDUCATION, MONMOUTH COUNTY.	:	DECISION

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend a penalty for the above-named Board member for failure to attend the board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1; and

Whereas, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member was newly elected or appointed to the South Belmar Board of Education in May 2004 and, therefore, had until May 2005 to complete the training requirement; and

Whereas, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend training and did mail such correspondence to the above-named Board member on December 6, 2004 and February 10, 2005; and

Whereas, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2004 and March 2005 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on August 2, 2005, the Commission, via certified mail, issued to the above-named Board member an Order to Show Cause why she had not attended a training up until that time; and

Whereas, the Board member responded that the training dates offered posed conflicts with the probationary period imposed by her new job and that she would make arrangements to attend this year; and

Whereas, the Commission notified the above-named Board member that it would discuss this matter at its September 27, 2005 meeting; and

Whereas, at its meeting on September 27, 2005, the Commission found that the above-named Board member's failure to attend board member training from April 2004 until March 2005 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and voted to recommend that the appropriate penalty for the violation is suspension from the board if the above-named Board member fails to attend the NJSBA's October 25, 2005 training session and removal if she fails to attend the January 28, 2006 session; and

Whereas, on October 4, 2005, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit written comments on the recommended sanction to the Commissioner; and

Whereas, neither the above-named Board member nor anyone on her behalf submitted comments; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission and concurs with and adopts as her own the recommendations of the Commission; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member is suspended from office if she fails to attend the NJSBA's October 25, 2005 training session and summarily removed from office if she fails to attend the January 28, 2006 session.*

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et. seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires each newly elected or appointed board member to complete, during the first year of the member's first term, a training program offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) regarding the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member or charter school trustee; and

WHEREAS, Janet P. Graham was newly elected or appointed in May 2004 to a local school board or charter school board and therefore, had until May 2005, to complete the training requirement; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on December 6, 2004 and February 10, 2005; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2004 and March 2005 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was held on July 8-10, 2005; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on August 2, 2005, directing Janet P. Graham to Show Cause why she had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Graham responded that she had failed to attend training she started a new position at work and the training dates did not coincide with her new schedule during her probationary period; and

WHEREAS, the Commission notified Ms. Graham that the Commission would discuss this matter at its September 27, 2005 meeting; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Graham has failed to attend the required training program for the one year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that her failure to attend board member training from April 2004 to March 2005 constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that the appropriate penalty for the violation is suspension from the board if she fails to attend the NJSBA's October 25, 2005 training session and removal if she fails to attend the January 28, 2006 session;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Janet P. Graham violated the N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of suspension until January 28, 2006 if she fails to attend the October 25, 2005 training session and removal from the board if she fails to attend the January 28, 2006 session.

PETITIONERS,

V.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF SOUTH BRUNSWICK TOWNSHIP, MIDDLESEX COUNTY, DR. SAMUEL STEWART, SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS AND DEBRA JOHNSON, MAYOR,

RESPONDENTS.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners, in August 2002, challenged the respondent Board's decision denying their child transportation services to the Crossroads South Middle School; alleged that the walk route designated by the Board is unsafe; and demanded that the Board's decision be reversed as arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. Four hearings occurred between October 2004 and February 2005, and the record closed on September 2, 2005. Subsequently, respondent submitted that C.M.S. is currently a student at South Brunswick High School, and is now receiving transportation services to and from school.

The ALJ concluded that given the change in circumstances, the issue is an improper subject for judicial review, and should be dismissed as moot. Therefore, the Initial Decision of the OAL recommended dismissal of the petition.

The Commissioner rejects the Initial Decision of the ALJ, finding that under the circumstances, the graduation of C.M.S. from the Crossroads Middle School does not render moot petitioners' action challenging the Board's refusal to bus C.M.S., as the specific action complained about is currently being repeated in regard to petitioners' younger child, J.R.S. The Commissioner notes that petitioners' claim they requested to amend their petition to substitute J.R.S. for C.M.S. prior to the ALJ's decision in this case, but were denied and told to file a new petition. The Commissioner concludes that no reasonable purpose would be served by requiring petitioners to file a new petition when the underlying facts, other than the name of the child, are identical; such an exercise would equate to a needless waste of scarce administrative and adjudicative resources. Accordingly, this matter is remanded to the OAL, where petitioners shall be allowed to submit an amended petition substituting J.R.S. for C.M.S.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

MR. AND MRS. T.F.S., on behalf of minor child, C.M.S.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF SOUTH BRUNSWICK TOWNSHIP, MIDDLESEX COUNTY, DR. SAMUEL STEWART, SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS AND DEBRA JOHNSON, MAYOR,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions were filed in accordance with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. No reply exceptions were submitted.

Petitioners' exceptions vehemently oppose dismissal of this matter as moot by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). They assert that the instant Petition of Appeal was instituted over three years ago and now, "after much lengthy delay on the part of the OAL," is being dismissed, "after 4 full days of hearing, an extensive developed record, and final Briefs submitted by both Parties to this matter," solely because C.M.S. has moved on to high school. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 2) This result is particularly egregious, petitioners argue, since they now have a second child, J.R.S., who in September 2005 began attending the same school previously attended by C.M.S., thereby continuing the same intolerable situation as previously existed as a consequence of the Board's determination here.

Petitioners claim that, prior to the ALJ's decision in this case, they communicated with him and made a "formal" request to amend their petition to substitute J.R.S. for C.M.S. and were refused, notwithstanding that N.J.A.C. 1:1-6.2 clearly contemplates free amendment of pleadings. Rather, they report, the ALJ informed them that they would have to file a new petition and begin this whole case anew. (Id. at 2-3) Petitioners charge that bringing an entirely new action before the Commissioner on behalf of their second child "when the [second] child is exposed to the same Hazardous Parameters and conditions that existed in the matter with [their first] child" is senseless. (Id. at 3) They urge that the ALJ's decision be rejected and that this matter be remanded to the OAL for adjudication on the merits.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to reject the Initial Decision of the ALJ, finding, instead, that under the circumstances, the graduation of petitioners' child, C.M.S., from the Crossroads South Middle School does not render moot the petitioners' action challenging the Board's refusal to bus their middle school child. In this regard, the Commissioner is mindful that:

> An issue is "moot" when a determination is sought on a matter which, when rendered, cannot have any practical effect on the existing controversy. In other words, the conflict between the parties has become merely hypothetical. See Black's Law Dictionary 409 (5th ed. 1979), and In re Conroy, 190 N.J. Super. 453, 458 (App. Div. 1983). (Barshatky v. Freehold Regional High School District Bd. of Educ., 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 71, 73)

Although it is well-established that the Commissioner does not decide moot issues, (See Carolyn Henry v. Board of Education of the City of Wildwood, Cape May County, 1975 S.L.D. 1, 3), it is likewise well-established that an issue is not moot where the potential for recurrence exists. Galloway Township Board of Education v. Galloway Township Education Association, 78 N.J. 25. Such is the case here. Notwithstanding C.M.S.'s graduation, as pointed out in petitioners' exceptions, their second child, J.R.S., began attendance at this same middle school in September 2005. As such, it is without question that the specific action of the Board complained about is currently being repeated.

Irrespective of the fact that the record in this matter evidences that the delays in the movement of this appeal — filed in August 2002 — are, in large measure, attributable to petitioners' own dilatoriness, in light of the stage of record development at this point in time and given that all of the underlying facts of this matter, other than the name of the specific child involved, are identical, the Commissioner finds and concludes that no reasonable purpose would be served by requiring petitioners to file an entirely new petition but, rather, such an exercise would equate to a needless waste of scarce administrative and adjudicative resources.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL dismissing this case as moot is rejected. This matter is remanded to the OAL, where petitioners shall be allowed to submit an amended petition substituting J.R.S. for C.M.S., and this matter shall proceed for a determination on petitioners' underlying claim.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6674-02
AGENCY DKT. NO. 266-8/02

MR. and MRS. T.F.S. o/b/o C.M.S., Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF SOUTH BRUNSWICK TWP., MIDDLESEX COUNTY, DR. SAMUEL STEWART, SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS AND DEBRA JOHNSON, MAYOR
Respondent.

T.F.S., petitioner, pro se
John E. Collins, Esq., for respondent (Parker McCay, P.A., attorneys)

Record Closed: September 2, 2005 Decided: September 22, 2005

BEFORE ISRAEL D. DUBIN, ALJ

Petitioners challenge the South Brunswick Township Board of Education's decision to deny their daughter, C.M.S., transportation services to and from the Crossroads South Middle School. In so doing, they allege that the Board failed to follow recommendations set forth in The Relative Risks of School Travel, Special Report 269 of the Transportation Research Board of the National Academies, and designated a walk route between their home in the Regents Square development and the Middle School that is "obviously and significantly unsafe." They therefore demand that the Board's decision be reversed as arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable.

Petitioners filed their complaint on August 28, 2002, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing as a contested case on October 9, 2002. A lengthy period of discovery, followed by a series of motions, briefs, orders, and one interlocutory appeal ensued and continued through July 2004, when Administrative Law Judge Steven C. Reback retired and the matter was reassigned to me for handling. The matter was subsequently heard on October 13, 2004; December 14 & 15, 2004; and February 9, 2005, and the record was closed upon receipt of petitioners' final post-hearing submission on September 2, 2005.

A thorough review of the record conducted prior to writing an Initial Decision disclosed that petitioners filed this action shortly before C.M.S. began attending the Crossroads South Middle School as a sixth grade student in September 2002. Since the Middle School is comprised of grades six, seven, and eight, logic dictated that C.M.S. presumably graduated from Crossroads South in June 2005 and began attending South Brunswick High School at approximately the same time the record was closed.

During a conference call conducted on September 12, 2005, petitioner T.F.S. confirmed that his daughter, C.M.S., was in fact attending and receiving transportation services to and from South Brunswick High School.[1] Four days later, on September 16, 2005, I received from counsel for respondent the certification of Jeffrey R. Scott, Assistant Superintendent for Business, in which he stated that "C.M.S., the subject of this proceeding, is now a ninth grade student at South Brunswick High School; she receives daily transportation services based on the distance between her home and the High School."

Ordinarily, an issue is moot when a decision that is being sought in a particular matter will, when rendered, have no practical effect on the existing controversy. In re Conroy, 109 N.J. Super. 453, 458 (App. Div. 1983). In such cases, the issues that have become moot or academic prior to judicial scrutiny" are generally considered to be ... improper subject[s] for judicial review." Anderson v. Sills, 143 N.J. Super. 432, 437 (Ch. Div. 1976). Therefore, when there has been a change in circumstances that raises doubt concerning the immediacy of the controversy, courts will ordinarily dismiss cases as moot, regardless of the stage to which the litigation has progressed. Ibid.

[1] T.F.S. also indicated that he was no longer demanding the "stipend" or reimbursement for any of the days he or his wife drove C.M.S. to, or drove her home from, the Middle School.

This is just such a case. Since C.M.S. is no longer attending Crossroads South Middle School, the issue of whether she is entitled to transportation services to and from that school is now academic and any decision I render will have no practical effect on the existing controversy. I therefore CONCLUDE that given the change in circumstances, the issue is an improper subject for judicial review and should be dismissed as MOOT. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend a penalty for the above-named Board member for failure to attend the board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1; and

Whereas, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member was newly elected or appointed to the Morris Plains Board of Education in April 2004 and, therefore, had until April 2005 to complete the training requirement; and

Whereas, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend training and did mail such correspondence to the above-named Board member on December 6, 2004 and February 10, 2005; and

Whereas, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2004 and March 2005 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on August 2, 2005, the Commission, via certified mail, issued to the above-named Board member an Order to Show Cause why she had not attended a training up until that time; and

Whereas, the Board member responded that she did not attend training because she gave birth three months after her election to the Board but was registered for the October 25, 2005 training; and

Whereas, the Commission notified the above-named Board member that it would discuss this matter at its September 27, 2005 meeting; and

Whereas, at its meeting on September 27, 2005, the Commission found that the above-named Board member's failure to attend board member training from April 2004 until March 2005 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and voted to recommend that the appropriate penalty for the violation is suspension from the board if the above-named Board member fails to attend the NJSBA's October 25, 2005 training session and removal if she fails to attend the January 28, 2006 session; and

Whereas, on October 4, 2005, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit written comments on the recommended sanction to the Commissioner; and

Whereas, neither the above-named Board member nor anyone on her behalf submitted comments; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission and concurs with and adopts as her own the recommendations of the Commission; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member is suspended from office if she fails to attend the NJSBA's October 25, 2005 training session and summarily removed from office if she fails to attend the January 28, 2006 session.*

AGENCY DKT. NO.: 269-10/05

IN THE MATTER OF PHILLIP REPELLA III,	:
QUEEN CITY ACADEMY CHARTER SCHOOL	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF TRUSTEES, UNION COUNTY.	:	DECISION

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend a penalty for the above-named Board member for failure to attend the board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1; and

Whereas, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member was newly elected or appointed to the Queen City Academy Charter School Board of Trustees in January 2004 and, therefore, had until January 2005 to complete the training requirement; and

Whereas, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend training and did mail such correspondence to the above-named Board member on December 6, 2004 and February 10, 2005; and

Whereas, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2004 and March 2005 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on August 19, 2005, the Commission, via certified mail, issued to the above-named Board member an Order to Show Cause why he had not attended a training up until that time; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member did not respond to the Commission's Order; and

Whereas, the Commission notified the above-named Board member that it would discuss this matter at its September 27, 2005 meeting; and

Whereas, at its meeting on September 27, 2005, the Commission found that the above-named Board member's failure to attend board member training from April 2004 until March 2005 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and voted to recommend that the appropriate penalty for the violation is suspension from the board if the above-named Board member fails to attend the NJSBA's October 25, 2005 training session and removal if he fails to attend the January 28, 2006 session; and

Whereas, on October 4, 2005, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit written comments on the recommended sanction to the Commissioner; and

Whereas, neither the above-named Board member nor anyone on his behalf submitted comments; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission and concurs with and adopts as her own the recommendations of the Commission; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member is suspended from office if he fails to attend the NJSBA's October 25, 2005 training session and summarily removed from office if he fails to attend the January 28, 2006 session.*

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et. seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires each newly elected or appointed board member to complete, during the first year of the member's first term, a training program offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) regarding the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member or charter school trustee; and

WHEREAS, Phillip Repella, III was newly elected or appointed in January 2004 to a local school board or charter school board and therefore, had to until January 2005, to complete the training requirement; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on December 6, 2004 and February 10, 2005; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2004 and March 2005 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was held on July 8-10, 2005; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on August 19, 2005, directing Phillip Repella, III to Show Cause why he had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Repella did not respond to the Commission's Order; and

WHEREAS, the Commission notified Mr. Repella that the Commission would discuss this matter at its September 27, 2005 meeting; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Repella has failed to attend the required training program for the one year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that his failure to attend board member training from April 2004 to March 2005 constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that the appropriate penalty for the violation is suspension from the board if he fails to attend the NJSBA's October 25, 2005 training session and removal if he fails to attend the January 28, 2006 session;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Phillip Repella, III violated the N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of suspension until January 28, 2006 if he fails to attend the October 25, 2005 training session and removal from the board if he fails to attend the January 28, 2006 session.

ALFRED SZOLACK, an individual,	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY
Petitioner,
v.	AGENCY DOCKET NO.: 260-7/04
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF TOWN OF HAMMONTON, COUNTY OF ATLANTIC,	SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE
Respondent.

This Settlement Agreement and General Release is made as of the ____ day of _____, 2005 by and among Alfred Szolack, (hereinafter "Petitioner"); and the Hammonton Board of Education, Atlantic County, New Jersey, its successors, predecessors and assigns, (hereinafter the "Board") as follows:

WHEREAS, the Board is a body corporate and politic of the State of New Jersey having statutory responsibilities for the management and administration of the Hammonton School District in Atlantic County, New Jersey; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner was employed by the Board from about March of 1995; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal against the Board with the Commissioner of Education, entitled Alfred Szolack v. Board of Education of Town of Hammonton, County of Atlantic, Agency Docket Number 260-7/04 and has asserted claims against the Board in conjunction with the Board's announcement of a reduction in force ("RIF") effective on the first day of the 2004-2005 school year; and

WHEREAS, the parties wish to settle all controversies among and between them, including Petitioners claims in the Petition of Appeal set forth above, and any and all related claims which could have been asserted by Petitioner against the Board; and

WHEREAS, all parties acknowledge that the merits of the controversy are in dispute and that no party admits any liability to any other, but all have reasons to desire a resolution of the matter; and

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the agreements, covenants and conditions contained herein, the adequacy and sufficiency of which is expressly acknowledged by the parties hereto, the parties agree as follows:

1. SETTLEMENT.

(a) Effective the start of the 2005-2006 school year, Petitioner will be hired by the Board to work 2/5 of the time of a regular work week as a Substance Abuse Coordinator ("SAC") and 3/5 of the time of a regular work week as a health/physical education teacher ("H/PE Teacher").

(b) It is presently anticipated that Petitioner's time will be split within the school day as follows:

(i) Petitioner will act in his capacity as an H/PE Teacher during periods one, two, three and eight of the school day.

(ii) During periods four, five six and seven, which represent the student lunch periods, Petitioner will act in his capacity as a SAC.

(iii) Petitioner may be required to rotate his schedule based on the needs of the school.

(iv) Petitioner will also be assigned a homeroom, lunch period, prep period and such other duties and rights of an H/PE Teacher.

(c) The Board recognizes Petitioner's tenure and acknowledges his seniority as an H/PE Teacher in a position of one (1) day a week for his previous nine (9) years of service with the Board.

2. DISMISSAL OF ACTION. Petitioner dismisses with prejudice all claims contained in the Petition against the Board relating to his work, seniority, tenure and civil rights.

3. RELEASE. In consideration for the consideration provided for in this agreement, Petitioner, personally and for his estate and/or heirs, waives, releases and gives up any and all claims, demands, obligations, damages, liabilities, causes of action and rights, in law or in equity, known and unknown, that he may have against the Board and any and all of its officers, directors, agents, representatives and employees (present and former) and their respective successors and assigns, heirs, executors and legal or personal representatives, based upon any act, event or omission occurring before the execution of this Agreement including, but not limited to, any events related to, arising from or in connection with Petitioner's employment with the Board. Petitioner specifically waives, releases and gives up any and all claims arising from or relating to his employment and/or association with the Board based upon any act, event or omission occurring before the execution of this Agreement including, but not limited to, any claim that was asserted or could have been asserted under any federal and/or state statutes, regulations and/or common law. Petitioner specifically waives, releases and gives up any and all claims including, but not limited to, any potential claim relating to the alleged violation of his tenure and seniority rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq., N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 et seq., N.J.S.A. 18A:28-10 et seq., N.J.S.A. 18A:29-9 et seq., and N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1 et seq. This release specifically excludes claims arising under the Workers Compensation Act, N.J.S.A. 34:15-1 et seq., the Teachers Pension and Annuity Fund Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:66-1 et. seq., and claims arising from any breach of this agreement. Petitioner is unaware of any factual basis for any such claims at this time.

4. NO CLAIMS PERMITTED/COVENANT NOT TO SUE. Petitioner waives his right to file any charge or complaint in his own behalf, to participate as a complainant, a plaintiff or a charging party in any charge or complaint, or to collect damages as a result of any charge or complaint which may be made by any other person or organization on his behalf, with respect to anything which has happened up to the execution of this Agreement, before any federal, state or local court or administrative agency against the Board except as such waiver is prohibited by law. This covenant specifically excludes claims arising under the Workers Compensation Act, N.J.S.A. 34:15-1 et seq., the Teachers Pension and Annuity Fund Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:66-1 et. seq., and claims arising from any breach of this agreement. Petitioner is unaware of any factual basis for any such claims at this time.

5. ATTORNEY'S FEES. Each party agrees that each party will bear its own costs and attorney's fees which have been incurred in connection with the within matter and in conjunction with the negotiation and preparation of this Agreement.

6. NO ADMISSION OF LIABILITY. It is expressly understood that neither the execution of this Agreement, nor any other action taken by the Board in conjunction with Petitioner's claims or this settlement, constitute admission by the Board of any violation of any law, duty or obligation. It is also understood that the acceptance of this settlement does not constitute any representation by Petitioner as to the merits of his claims or the lack thereof.

7. ENTIRE AGREEMENT. This Agreement contains the sole and entire Agreement between the parties hereto. Each party represents and acknowledges that prior to executing this Agreement, they consulted with or had an opportunity to consult with counsel, has had ample time to do so and that no party has relied upon any representation or statement not set forth in this Agreement made by any other party hereto, or their counsel or representatives, with regard to the subject matter of this Agreement. No other promises or agreements shall be binding unless in writing, signed by the parties hereto, and expressly stated to represent an amendment to this Agreement.

8. APPROVAL BY COMMISSIONER. The Parties will seek the Administrative Law Judge's recommendation of and the Commissioner's approval of this Settlement Agreement, and if the Commissioner approves the Settlement Agreement without modification, ask the Commissioner to order the petition of appeal to be withdrawn and dismissed with prejudice. Should the Commissioner fail to approve this Settlement Agreement without modification, the Parties have agreed to make every reasonable effort to reform this Settlement Agreement to meet any objections. In the event that such reformation is not possible, this Settlement Agreement will become null and void in every respect, the Parties will return to the status quo as it existed before this Settlement Agreement was drafted, the matter will be listed for hearing and the Parties agree, in advance that neither the settlement, this Settlement Agreement, the Joint Request for Approval of Settlement, nor any representations of fact set forth in the settlement, this Settlement Agreement or the Joint Request for Approval of Settlement will be admissible for any purpose in the hearing or any appeals arising therefrom.

9. BOARD RESOLUTION. Attached hereto as Exhibit A is a true copy of a Resolution of the Board, adopted in compliance with the laws of the State of New Jersey, including the Open Public Meetings Act, duly ratifying this agreement and authorizing the Board's signatory to sign this Agreement on its behalf.

3. RELEASE. In consideration for the consideration provided for in this agreement, Petitioner, personally and for his estate and/or heirs, waives, releases and gives up any and all claims, demands, obligations, damages, liabilities, causes of action and rights, in law or in equity, known and unknown, that he may have against the Board and any and all of its officers, directors, agents, representatives and employees (present and former) and their respective successors and assigns, heirs, executors and legal or personal representatives, based upon any act, event or omission occurring before the execution of this Agreement including, but not limited to, any events related to, arising from or in connection with Petitioner's employment with the Board. Petitioner specifically waives, releases and gives up any and all claims arising from or relating to his employment and/or association with the Board based upon any act, event or omission occurring before the execution of this Agreement including, but not limited to, any claim that was asserted or could have been asserted under any federal and/or state statutes, regulations and/or common law. Petitioner specifically waives, releases and gives up any and all claims including, but not limited to, any potential claim relating to the alleged violation of his tenure and seniority rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq., N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 et seq., N.J.S.A. 18A:28-10 et seq., N.J.S.A. 18A:29-9 et seq., and N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1 et seq. This release specifically excludes claims arising under the Workers Compensation Act, N.J.S.A. 34:15-1 et seq., the Teachers Pension and Annuity Fund Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:66-1 et. seq., and claims arising from any breach of this agreement. Petitioner is unaware of any factual basis for any such claims at this time.

4. NO CLAIMS PERMITTED/COVENANT NOT TO SUE. Petitioner waives his right to file any charge or complaint in his own behalf, to participate as a complainant, a plaintiff or a charging party in any charge or complaint, or to collect damages as a result of any charge or complaint which may be made by any other person or organization on his behalf, with respect to anything which has happened up to the execution of this Agreement, before any federal, state or local court or administrative agency against the Board except as such waiver is prohibited by law. This covenant specifically excludes claims arising under the Workers Compensation Act, N.J.S.A. 34:15-1 et seq., the Teachers Pension and Annuity Fund Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:66-1 et. seq., and claims arising from any breach of this agreement. Petitioner is unaware of any factual basis for any such claims at this time.

5. ATTORNEY'S FEES. Each party agrees that each party will bear its own costs and attorney's fees which have been incurred in connection with the within matter and in conjunction with the negotiation and preparation of this Agreement.

every respect, the Parties will return to the status quo as it existed before this Settlement Agreement was drafted, the matter will be listed for hearing and the Parties agree, in advance that neither the settlement, this Settlement Agreement, the Joint Request for Approval of Settlement, nor any representations of fact set forth in the settlement, this Settlement Agreement or the Joint Request for Approval of Settlement will be admissible for any purpose in the hearing or any appeals arising therefrom.

9. BOARD RESOLUTION. Attached hereto as Exhibit A is a true copy of a Resolution of the Board, adopted in compliance with the laws of the State of New Jersey, including the Open Public Meetings Act, duly ratifying this agreement and authorizing the Board's signatory to sign this Agreement on its behalf.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 441-12/04

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF MYRNA SMITH, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY.

Ronald C. Hunt, Esq., for Petitioner Irvington Board of Education
(Hunt, Hamlin & Ridley, attorneys)

Mary Frances Palisano, Esq., for Respondent Myrna Smith
(Law Offices of Alan I. Zegas, attorneys)

Record Closed: September 15, 2005 Decided: October 11, 2005

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) from the Department of Education on January 12, 2005, for hearing as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Hearings were scheduled on May 17, 23, 24 & 31, 2005 at the OAL, 33 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey.

After numerous settlement discussions, the parties agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Settlement Agreement, which was approved by the Board, indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law, including those criteria which the State Board of Education set forth in Cardonick v. BOE of Borough of Brooklawn, Camden County.

Among those criteria is the requirement that the agreement be accompanied by supporting documentation as to the nature of the charges. That documentation is included in the Statement of Evidence in Support of the Charges, Proof of Service and the Certification of Determination with respect to said charges submitted to the Commissioner. Copies of those documents are attached hereto as Exhibit 1.

The circumstances justifying the settlement are set forth in the agreement at ¶ 9. In addition, to those set forth, I note that Respondent has been an exemplary teaching staff member for over 20 years of service to the District and has been the recipient of numerous awards. The charges arose out of a single alleged incident. Weighed against the accomplishments of Respondent throughout her years of service, the public interest is served by retaining such a professional. I do so FIND.

By her signature as well as through discussion with counsel, I am persuaded Respondent understands her rights and has entered this agreement knowingly and voluntarily.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the MERIT SYSTEM BOARD for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the MERIT SYSTEM BOARD, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Merit System Board does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF MYRNA SMITH AND THE IRVINGTON BOARD OF EDUCATION

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This settlement agreement (hereinafter "the settlement agreement" or "the proposed agreement") is made and entered into this ____ date of August, 2005, by and between Myrna Smith, Respondent (hereinafter "Ms. Smith" or "Respondent"), and the Irvington Board of Education, Petitioner (hereinafter "Petitioner", "the Board" or "the District"). The parties agree to the terms of this settlement agreement, which shall be presented to the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education for approval and for the withdrawal of the Tenure Charges (hereinafter the "tenure charges" or "the charges") filed by Petitioner. The basis for urging the resolution agreed upon is as follows:

1. Ms. Smith is presently an employee of the District and is employed as a teaching staff member by the Board at the Mount Vernon Avenue Elementary School (hereinafter "Mt. Vernon").

2. Ms. Smith is a veteran teaching staff member at Mt. Vernon with over twenty (20) years of service to the District, which represents her entire professional career as an educator.

3. Ms. Smith has been the recipient of numerous awards for her accomplishments as an educator over the years and has consistently obtained "effective," the highest rating possible, on her teaching evaluations.

4. The instant tenure charges arose out of a single incident that allegedly occurred on September 30, 2004, at the Augusta Street Elementary School (hereinafter "Augusta"), which is not where Ms. Smith teaches. At the time of the alleged incident, Ms. Smith was the PTA President of Augusta, which was a volunteer position independent of her teaching position at Mt. Vernon. Ms. Smith's granddaughter was a student at Augusta at the time Ms. Smith served as PTA President. Ms. Smith held the Augusta PTA position for approximately four (4) years.

5. Petitioner alleged that after school hours on September 30, 2004 Respondent was present at Augusta in her capacity as PTA President. At that time, a verbal disagreement ensued between Ms. Smith, the Augusta Principal and the Augusta Social Worker, over the operation of the PTA Toys for Tots Program. In the course of the disagreement, Respondent made personal, derogatory and inflammatory remarks against the Principal and the Social Worker.

6. As a consequence of this confrontation, the Board filed tenure charges against Ms. Smith, alleging that her speech was unbecoming of a teaching staff member, in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

7. Ms. Smith, through her attorneys, responded to the charges, adamantly denying that she engaged in any conduct unbecoming a public employee.

8. Thereafter, the Commissioner of Education transferred the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing.

9. After reflection, the Board determined that it would be in the public interest to enter into settlement negotiations with Ms. Smith for reasons, including the following: (1) the alleged incident occurred after school hours at Augusta (not Mount Vernon) while Ms. Smith was acting as PTA President of Augusta, which is completely independent and unrelated to Ms. Smith's teaching position at Mt. Vernon; and (2) the circumstances did not affect or relate in any way to the Respondent's ability to teach in the future.

10. Prior to the hearing, the parties conferenced the case with the Honorable Maria LaFiandra, A.L.J. before reaching a resolution of the tenure charges within the parameters of the law.

11. In lieu of Petitioner pursuing tenure charges for conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member, the following resolution has been approved by the District and the Irvington Superintendent of Schools on the Court's record and is jointly proposed by the parties to the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education:

    a. Respondent shall agree to forfeit her salary increment for the 2005-2006 school year;

b. Respondent shall agree to a 100-day suspension without pay pursuant to N.J.S.A.18A:6-14 (calculated by the loss of net salary for seven (7) pay periods);

c. Respondent shall relinquish her position as PTA President at Augusta and agrees not to hold a similar office in any school in the District.

d. Petitioner shall return Respondent to her teaching position at the Mount Vernon Avenue School commencing at the start of the 2005-2006 school year.

e. Petitioner shall agree to withdraw its tenure charges filed with the Commissioner of Education and urges approval by the Commissioner of the within settlement.

12. It is the belief of all parties that the proposed agreement serves the public interest.

13. By entering into this agreement, Ms. Smith is not admitting liability or guilt regarding any of the factual or legal allegations set forth in the charges or in other related documents.

14. Respondent accepts the terms of this proposed agreement voluntarily, on the advice of competent counsel, with ample time to deliberate and with full knowledge of her right to challenge the charges and require competent proofs from Petitioner on all allegations of unbecoming conduct.

15. If the proposed agreement is approved, it shall constitute the entire agreement between the parties with regard to the matters at issue herein. This settlement agreement may not be utilized by either party in any other proceeding as support or proof of any contention raised by that party in this proceeding. Neither party is admitting any liability with regard to the allegations set forth in these proceedings.

16. This proposed agreement is subject first to approval by the Irvington Board of Education, then by the Office of Administrative Law, and finally by the Commissioner of Education, before it becomes a legally binding document. The parties agree to produce and execute any documents and to take any acts that may be required to effectuate the terms, conditions and spirit of the proposed agreement.

17. As further consideration for the proposed agreement, the parties agree that following the full execution of the settlement agreement they will keep all terms of this agreement completely confidential. It is expressly understood and agreed that neither the District, Respondent, nor their attorneys or representatives will take any action to publicize the terms or nature of this agreement, except that disclosure is permitted: (1) as necessary with regard to any proceeding for the enforcement of this agreement; (2) as may be required by any court or agency of competent jurisdiction; or (3) as may be required by law.

18. Respondent and the Board are each responsible for payment of their own attorney's fees and costs incurred in this matter.

END OF PAGE

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto set their hands and seals to this Agreement effective on the date and year first above written.

PUBLIC COMMENT:

Yolanda English, 184 Union Avenue, Irvington, New Jersey 07111, questioned the board as to why her child's teacher Mr. Beckle, was going to be removed from the classroom? What steps does a principal take to remove a teacher, and as a parent, what could the parent do to prevent it? Ms. English further stated that Mr. Beckle was the only teacher that ever contacted her concerning her child, whether it was good, or bad.

Ms. English further stated that she has twins, and she wanted to know how is it that one twin was recommended to the Union Avenue, Magnet Program, and the other was not? After speaking with the guidance counselor, and principal several times, the principal informed her that she would look into. The principal told her she had to wait awhile, however, the principal never called her back. She wanted to know what she could do to keep her twins together?

CERTIFICATION OF DETERMINATION

Re: Myrna Smith, Teacher

I hereby certify that the Irvington Board of Education, at a meeting on Wednesday, December 15, 2004, at 5:30 p.m., at 1324 Springfield Avenue, Florence Avenue School, located in the Township of Irvington, New Jersey, upon a vote of the majority of the whole number of members of the Board, made the following determinations:

a. That there is probable cause to credit evidence in support of charges.

b. That the charges hereto attached and made a part hereof and evidence in support of the charges is sufficient, if true in fact, to warrant the dismissal of Myrna Smith, a tenured Teacher in the Irvington School District.

c. That the charges pursuant to which probable cause has been found were of such consequence that said Myrna Smith should be suspended from her employment without pay, effective Thursday, December 16, 2004.

I certify that the foregoing statements made by me are true. I am aware that if any of the foregoing statements made by me are willfully false, I am subject to punishment.

Dear Parties:

REXHEP LEKA V. BOARD OF EDUCATION TOWNSHIP OF MONTVILLE, MORRIS COUNTY, AGENCY DKT. NO. 28-1/00, OAL DKT. NO. EDU 03100-00

We are enclosing a copy of the decision of the Commissioner of Education dated November 3, 2005, in the above-captioned matter. Appeals of Commissioner decisions, other than State Department of Education employee contractual determinations and matters involving the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association, may be filed with the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

Please note that this office is no longer providing an additional copy of the initial decision to the parties in this case.

Additionally, please note that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), the Commissioner's decision is mailed to the parties three days prior to the date it is deemed officially filed. This provides counsel and pro se litigants with the decision before it is made public by the Department. Parties and counsel are requested to refrain from making Commissioner decisions public prior to the filing date. Your cooperation is appreciated.

Very truly yours,

Record Closed: September 9, 2005 Decided: September 22, 2005

BEFORE LESLIE Z. CELENTANO, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on March 21, 2000, for resolution as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F1 to -13. On August 23, 2002, the matter was placed on inactive status by ALAJ Thomas E. Clancy pending the outcome of a companion worker's compensation matter.

A hearing was scheduled on May 27, 2005. On the date of hearing the parties settled the matter. The attached Settlement Agreement was submitted on September 9, 2005, indicating the terms of agreement which are incorporated herein by reference.

Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures and/or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

This Settlement Agreement and Release (the "Agreement") is made this ____ day of _____, 2005, by and between the Montville Township Board of Education, (hereinafter the "Board"), and Rexhap Leka, his successors, heirs and assigns (hereinafter "Mr. Leka").

WHEREAS, Mr. Leka is a former employee of the Board, having served as a custodial/maintnence person from February 19, 1998 through December 21, 1999; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Leka alleges he sustained an injury in the course of his employment; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Leka has filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education which was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law and bears Docket Number EDUOA 03100-2000N in which he seeks restoration of his sick day bank and his full salary for one year from the date of his injury; and

WHEREAS, the Board denies all allegations of wrongdoing; and

WHEREAS, the parties are desirous of amicably settling this matter and wish to resolve all disputes among them;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the promises contained herein and other good and valuable consideration, the parties agree as follows:

1. The Board agrees to remit a one-time, lump sum payment in the amount of $718.24 (Seven Hundred and Eighteen Dollars and Twenty-Four Cents) to Mr. Leka in accordance with the provisions of this Agreement. Normal payroll and withholding deductions shall be taken from this payment by the Board.

2. In exchange for the above consideration, Mr. Leka shall immediately withdraw with prejudice his claim bearing Docket Number EDUOA-3100-2000N currently pending before the Office of Administrative Law. Additionally, Mr. Leka, his successors, heirs and assigns, do hereby waive, release and forever discharge any and all claims which he or they may have against the Board, its affiliates, subsidiaries; its past and present officers, agents, employees, Board members, officially and individually, arising out of the employment relationship between Mr. Leka and the Board, including, but not limited to any claims which were or could have been asserted in a lawsuit; claims for attorney's fees, back pay or front pay; claims for emotional distress or pain and suffering; claims involving tax liability stemming from this settlement, and claims arising under any federal, state or local law or ordinance, including, but not limited to: Title VII of the Civil Rights Acts of 1871 and 1991, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, the Federal Family and Medical Leave Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Equal Pay Act, the Workers' Adjustment and Retaining Notification Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the New Jersey Family Leave Act, the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Law, the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law, and any other claim for harassment, discrimination or retaliation of any kind, or any other cause of action in any forum of any kind whatsoever.

3. Mr. Leka further waives all rights to continued employment with the Board and agrees that he shall not apply for employment with the Board at any point in the future.

4. This Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties hereto and their respective legal representatives, successors, heirs and assigns.

5. Each party to this Agreement is represented by counsel and represents that it enters into this agreement freely and without duress.

6. Mr. Leka represents that he shall not disclose or discuss this matter and within settlement with any person or entity except that Mr. Leka may disclose this matter and settlement to his spouse, accountant or attorney, if any, and to tax and pension agencies, as required.

7. This Agreement and compliance with this Agreement shall not be construed as an admission by any party of any liability whatsoever with respect to any matter. This Agreement may not be introduced into evidence or used in any other way in any legal or administrative proceeding other than a proceeding seeking enforcement of the terms of this Agreement.

8. This Agreement shall be governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey and any dispute arising out of this Agreement shall be subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the Courts of the State of New Jersey.

9. If any provision of this Agreement or the application thereof is held invalid by a court of competent jurisdiction, such invalidity shall not affect other provisions or applications and, to this end, the provisions of this Agreement are declared to be severable.

10. This Agreement may be executed simultaneously in two (2) or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original and all of which, when taken together, constitute one and the same document. The signature of any party to any counterpart shall be deemed a signature to, and may be appended to, any other counterpart.

11. This Agreement constitutes the complete understanding and entire agreement of the parties and it cannot be amended, terminated, discharged or waived, except by a suitable writing which the parties shall duly execute.

12. Mr. Leka acknowledges that he was given the opportunity to fully consider this Agreement and has consulted with counsel as part of his review of this Agreement. It is further understood that this Agreement shall not become effective or enforceable nor shall any of the consideration described in this Agreement be paid or provided by the Board until all parties have signed it, the Board has officially approved it, and Mr. Leka has notified the Commissioner of Education and Office of Administrative Law, in writing, of the withdrawal with prejudice of his aforementioned pending petition.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have duly executed this Agreement as of the date written below.

Dear Counsel:

I have reviewed the respondent's Motion for Reconsideration, together with Petitioner's Opposition to the Motion and Cross-Motion for Reconsideration, filed in the matter of Board of Education of the Town of Phillipsburg, Warren County, et al. v. New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association, Agency Dkt. No. 369-10/03, Commissioner Decision #344-05. I have additionally reviewed the November 1, 2005 letter from respondent's counsel, asking, on behalf of counsel for all parties, that I defer the filing date of my September 26, 2005 decision in the above-captioned matter until the pending motions are resolved.

While I am cognizant of the fact that the schedule originally contemplated for briefing of this matter would allow for further submissions, in light of the parties' concern about the time frame for appeal—and in view of my assessment of the parties' claims on their face as judged against the stated purpose and criteria for reconsideration of Commissioner decisions, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b)—I have determined that the best course of action under the circumstances is a prompt ruling on the motions.

In support of its motion for reconsideration, respondent (NJSIAA) has argued that my decision: 1) misunderstood the compromise procedure agreed to by the parties, thereby erroneously concluding that the Skyland conference could not participate in the hearing absent formal intervention procedures, notwithstanding that there were ample indications of Skyland's opposition to petitioners' (Phillipsburg) request and its intent to express such opposition at hearing; and 2) erred in concluding that members of the Special Committee on Leagues and Conferences (SCLC) should not have participated in the Executive Committee review of the SCLC decision, primarily because such participation was not objected to by Phillipsburg apart from passing references, has been customary for over two decades, has been "expressly approved" by the Commissioner in every league and conference decision issued since, poses no conflict because Executive Committee proceedings are conducted de novo based on the record developed by the SCLC, and is similar to the process used by the Department of Education and other agencies—such as the State Board of Education Legal Committee—whose members are not precluded from participating in full Board discussions of matters it has considered. [1]

In support of its cross-motion, Phillipsburg has argued that reconsideration is warranted, but on the following grounds rather than those proffered by NJSIAA: 1) My decision failed to address rejection of NJSIAA's rule on policy grounds, which is the Commissioner's right under N.J.S.A. 18A:11-5; 2) NJSIAA's prior waiver to the Moorestown Friends School may have been granted for reasons in addition to religion, but the record shows religion to have, indeed, been a factor; and 3) Compelling, unrefuted evidence was overlooked in the decision, such that Phillipsburg should have been found to have prevailed rather than "penalized with [the] additional litigation expense and delay" resulting from the decision's directive for remand, while NJSIAA and Skyland are rewarded with a "second bite at the apple" based on procedural deficiencies that were their fault rather than petitioners.'

Initially, I note that N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15 reads in pertinent part:

> (b) Any party may make a motion for reconsideration or clarification of the Commissioner's decision within 10 days of the filing of the Commissioner's decision.
>
> 1. A motion shall be filed with the Commissioner together with proof of service on each other party, shall be briefed in accordance with the directives of the Commissioner, and shall be decided by the Commissioner in accordance with applicable rules of the OAL.
>
> 2. A motion for reconsideration shall be considered based upon the following:
> i. Claim(s) of mistake, provided, however, that disagreement with the outcome of a decision, or with the analysis upon which it is based, shall not constitute "mistake" for purposes of this section;

[1] Phillipsburg countered that no reconsideration is warranted on these grounds because: 1) knowledge of Skyland's general opposition and notice of its intent to make an evidentiary presentation at hearing are not the same thing, so that my decision rightly struck Skyland's evidence from consideration in light of agreed-upon procedures for NJSIAA hearing; and 2) while the decisions cited by NJSIAA may have resulted from the two-step hearing process used herein and referred to such process in passing, none of them focused on, much less "expressly approved" the active, ex parte participation by individual SCLC members in closed-door Executive Committee deliberations on SCLC decisions—which, unlike State Board Legal Committee Reports—are actual decisions from which litigants appeal rather than recommendations to the larger body that will actually make the decision.

ii. Newly discovered evidence likely to alter the outcome of a matter, where such evidence could not have been previously discovered by due diligence;

iii. Newly ascertained misrepresentation or other misconduct of an adverse party, where such misrepresentation or misconduct could not have been previously known; or

iv. Reversal of a prior judgment on which the present matter is based.

3. A motion for clarification shall be considered based upon necessity as specifically demonstrated in the papers submitted with the motion.

(c) The filing of a motion for clarification or reconsideration shall not, in and of itself, relieve the parties from compliance with any judgment or order of the Commissioner.

(d) The filing of a motion for clarification or reconsideration shall not, in and of itself, alter the filing date of the Commissioner's decision for purposes of appeal.

Public comment on this rule as it was originally proposed, and the agency's response thereto, are instructive as to the rule's intent:

11. COMMENT: The grounds and time frame established in the proposed section on motions for reconsideration, N.J.A.C 6A:3-1.15(b), invite relitigation and abuse, causing extra expense to the prevailing party. Any such motions should be required to be filed within 10 days, as provided in court rules, and the grounds of mistake and misrepresentation or other misconduct by an adverse party should be eliminated. Mistakes can be addressed on appeal and misconduct would be known prior to the Commissioner's decision and could be addressed in that context. If the provision regarding misrepresentation or misconduct is not eliminated, it should be qualified by the condition "newly discovered." (6) [Bucceri and Pincus, Counselors at Law]

RESPONSE: The department agrees that requests for reconsideration should not be used as a substitute for appeal or a means of prolonging litigation, and that substantive changes to this section are appropriate. However, the department prefers that the Controversies and Disputes chapter proceed on schedule, since no other substantive changes are being recommended. Therefore, the proposed N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15 is being recommended for adoption without change, other than correction of a typesetting error in the section title.

However, an amendment to the newly adopted N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15 is concurrently being recommended for proposal in the New Jersey Register.

(32 N.J.R. 1177(a), 1178; rule proposed at 31 N.J.R. 4173(a))

The actual proposal of the referenced amendment is further instructive:

During the public comment period for the proposed readoption and recodification with amendment of the Controversies and Disputes rules, the Department received a comment to the effect that the proposed subsection on motions for reconsideration, N.J.A.C 6A:3-1.15(b), invited relitigation and abuse. The commenter suggested that any such motions should be required to be filed within 10 days, as in court rules, and that the grounds of mistake and misrepresentation or other misconduct by an adverse party should be eliminated, or at least delimited, since mistakes could be addressed on appeal and misrepresentation or misconduct would be known, and could be addressed, prior to the Commissioner's decision.

The Department agreed that requests for reconsideration should not be used as a substitute for appeal or as a means of prolonging litigation, and that substantive changes to the referenced section would be appropriate so as to prevent this result. However, the Department preferred that the proposed readoption and recodification with amendment of the Controversies and Disputes chapter proceed as scheduled, since no other changes of a substantive nature were being recommended. Therefore, no change was made to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15 as proposed prior to adoption, and, instead, the present amendment is being proposed to the newly adopted section so as to address the issue identified during the public comment process.

The following summarizes the content of the proposed amendment, noting changes to the existing rules:

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15 Motion for stay, reconsideration or clarification

The proposed amendment would align with court rules the time frame for filing requests for reconsideration, reducing the allowable filing period from 30 days to 10 days. Additionally, it would define the terms "mistake" and "misrepresentation or misconduct," so as to make it clear that disagreement with the outcome of a decision or with the analysis upon which it is based does not constitute "mistake" for purposes of applying for reconsideration, and that any purported misrepresentation or other misconduct of an adverse party must be newly ascertained and unable to have been previously known in order for it to serve as a basis for reconsideration. Finally, the provision on clarification is modified to more clearly require that the specific basis for the request be set forth in the moving papers.

Social Impact

The proposed amendment will clarify the bases on which the Commissioner will accept requests for reconsideration or clarification of decisions in contested cases, so that the nature and purpose of these processes will be more understandable to regulated parties. Such clarification will prevent reconsideration requests from being used in lieu of appeals or as a means of prolonging litigation, thus benefiting all parties to administrative proceedings.

Economic Impact

The proposed amendment will save costs both for litigants and the State, since establishing the limited nature of the reconsideration/clarification process will prevent needless filings and unwarranted extensions of the administrative hearing process.

(32 N.J.R. 1112(a); adopted 32 N.J.R. 2469(a))[2]

Bearing in mind the clear intent of the controlling rule that reconsideration not be substituted for appeal and thereby prolong litigation, I find that neither the grounds proffered by NJSIAA nor those proffered by Phillipsburg meet the criteria for reconsideration of my prior decision. Certainly, there is no claim of newly discovered evidence, misrepresentation, misconduct, or reversal of precedent; and with respect to the parties' respective claims of error, I find these to constitute—contrary to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b)2i—disagreement with the decision's various outcomes or with the analyses upon which they are based, rather than "mistakes" in the sense contemplated by rule. Thus, in my view, the objections raised by both NJSIAA and Phillipsburg are more appropriately pursued on timely appeal to the Appellate Division.

---

[2] The actual text of the amendment read as follows (additions indicated in boldface thus; deletions indicated in brackets [thus]):

(b) Any party may make a motion for reconsideration or clarification of the Commissioner's decision within [30] 10 days of the filing of the Commissioner's decision.

1. A motion shall be filed with the Commissioner together with proof of service on each other party, shall be briefed in accordance with the directives of the Commissioner, and shall be decided by the Commissioner in accordance with applicable rules of the OAL.

2. A motion for reconsideration shall be considered based upon the following:

i. Claim(s) of mistake, provided, however, that disagreement with the outcome of a decision, or with the analysis upon which it is based, shall not constitute "mistake" for purposes of this section;

ii. Newly discovered evidence likely to alter the outcome of a matter, where such evidence could not have been previously discovered by due diligence;

iii. Newly ascertained misrepresentation or other misconduct of an adverse party, where such misrepresentation or misconduct could not have been previously known; or

iv. Reversal of a prior judgment on which the present matter is based.

In one respect, however, I would take this opportunity to clarify my September 26, 2005 decision. In light of NJSIAA's concerns regarding the broad-based impact of precluding SCLC members from participation in Executive Committee review of SCLC decisions, I stress that the holding of that decision was based upon the unique nature of the special "compromise" proceeding devised by the parties and the Department for NJSIAA (rather than Office of Administrative Law) hearing of this matter, and that it was not intended to reflect upon, or be extended to, NJSIAA proceedings generally; that is a different issue, neither raised nor briefed—nor appropriately decided—in the present context.[3]

Accordingly, apart from the clarification set forth above, I hereby DENY the parties' motion and cross-motion for reconsideration as based upon claims more properly argued on appeal.[4]

Sincerely,

Lucille E. Davy
Acting Commissioner

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend a penalty for the above-named Board member for failure to attend the board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1; and

Whereas, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member was newly elected or appointed to the Guttenberg Board of Education in April 2004 and, therefore, had until April 2005 to complete the training requirement; and

Whereas, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend training and did mail such correspondence to the above-named Board member on December 6, 2004 and February 10, 2005; and

Whereas, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2004 and March 2005 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on August 2, 2005, the Commission, via certified mail, issued to the above-named Board member an Order to Show Cause why she had not attended a training up until that time; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member responded that she had failed to attend the training due to her son's disabilities, but she was registered for the October 25, 2005 training session; and

Whereas, the Commission notified the above-named Board member that it would discuss this matter at its September 27, 2005 meeting; and

Whereas, at its meeting on September 27, 2005, the Commission found that the above-named Board member had failed to attend board member training within the one year allowed and that such failure constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

Whereas, the Commission voted to recommend that the appropriate penalty for the violation is suspension from the board if the above-named Board member fails to attend the NJSBA's October 25, 2005 training session and removal if she fails to attend the January 28, 2006 session; and

Whereas, on October 4, 2005, the above-named Board member was advised of the sanction recommended to the Commissioner; and

Whereas, neither the above-named Board member nor anyone on her behalf submitted a response; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission and concurs with and adopts as her own the recommendations of the Commission; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member is suspended from office if she fails to attend the NJSBA's October 25, 2005 training session and summarily removed from office if she fails to attend the January 28, 2006 session.*

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et. seq. was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in school board members and school administrators and to provide specific ethical standards to guide their conduct; and

WHEREAS, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires each newly elected or appointed board member to complete, during the first year of the member's first term, a training program offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) regarding the skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member or charter school trustee; and

WHEREAS, Ana M. Betances was newly elected or appointed in April 2004 to a local school board or charter school board and therefore, had until April 2005, to complete the training requirement; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA mails correspondence to all new board members who have failed to register for or attend an orientation and did mail such correspondence to this board member on December 6, 2004 and February 10, 2005; and

WHEREAS, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2004 and March 2005 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

WHEREAS, the last training session to fulfill the requirement was held on July 8-10, 2005; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on August 2, 2005, directing Ana M. Betances to Show Cause why she had not attended training up until that time; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Betances responded that she had failed to attend training due to her son's disabilities, but she was registered for the October 25, 2005 training session; and

WHEREAS, the Commission notified Ms. Betances that the Commission would discuss this matter at its September 27, 2005 meeting; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Betances has failed to attend the required training program for the one year allowed; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that her failure to attend board member training from April 2004 to March 2005 constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that the appropriate penalty for the violation is suspension from the board if she fails to attend the NJSBA's October 25, 2005 training session and removal if she fails to attend the January 28, 2006 session;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Ana M. Betances violated the N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of suspension until January 28, 2006 if she fails to attend the October 25, 2005 training session and removal from the board if she fails to attend the January 28, 2006 session.

Carolyn Grace Labin, Deputy Attorney General, for the respondent, New Jersey State Department of Education, (Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Ben Montenegro, Esq., appearing for respondent, Brick Township Board of Education, (Wilbert, Montenegro & Thompson, attorneys)

Record Closed – October 18, 2005 Decided – October 20, 2005

BEFORE JOHN R. FUTEY, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (hereinafter OAL) on June 25, 2004, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Petitioner challenged the determination by the Department of Education which found petitioner to be the district of residency for the minor child V.D.

A plenary hearing was set for December 22, 2004, at the OAL but was adjourned at the request of Mr. Riordan due to his unavailability. It was rescheduled for February 16 and 17, 2005. On February 11, 2005, the parties advised and represented that they had agreed to a settlement and Mr. Montenegro would draft a settlement incorporating all of the relevant terms. Subsequently, Berkeley challenged/questioned the impact of State aid for the years that Berkeley had paid for V.D.'s tuition. A computation of those fees was eventually resolved to the parties' satisfaction after a peremptory hearing was scheduled for October 17, 2005.

On that date, Deputy Attorney General Labin advised that she was in receipt of the fully executed agreement, which would be delivered to the OAL by October 18, 2005. The hearing was adjourned based upon her representation. Upon receipt of the executed agreement on October 18, 2005. The hearing record closed.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Settlement Agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein. (J-1)

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

THIS AGREEMENT made on this 17TH day of October 2005, by and between:

BERKELEY TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, a body politic duly organized under the law of the State of New Jersey, with offices located at 53 Central Parkway, Bayville, New Jersey 08721 (hereinafter "Berkeley")

AND

NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, an Agency of the State of New Jersey, with offices located at Riverview Executive Plaza, Building 100, Route 29, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625 (hereinafter "NJDOE")

AND

BRICK TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, a body politic duly organized under the law of the State of New Jersey, with offices located at 101 Hendrickson Avenue, Brick, New Jersey 08724 (hereinafter "Brick")

WHEREAS, Berkeley filed a Petition of Appeal pending under Office of Administrative Law, Docket No. 04686-2004S, appealing the NJDOE's rulings as to the domicile of Z.D. and responsibility for the educational costs of her minor child, V.D.;

WHEREAS, without making any admissions of liability or other concessions, and for the purpose of avoiding the expense and distraction of further litigation, Berkeley, NJDOE and Brick desire to resolve their differences amicably and to settle and dispose of the pending litigation.

NOW, THEREFORE, Berkeley, NJDOE and Brick, intending to be legally bound, and in consideration of these promises, hereby agree as follows:

1. Berkeley shall be the District responsible for the education of V.D. from December 2001 through the present. Berkeley shall reimburse Brick the total sum of $46,376.00, payable on or before October 30, 2005. The $46,376.00 represents the tuition paid by Brick on behalf of V.D. during the 2001-2002 school year and 2002-2003 school year, less State aid (core curriculum aid and tier two special education funding) received by Brick for having declared V.D. for the 2001-2002 and 2002-2003 school years. The parties recognize that $23,188.00 of the $46,376.00 has been paid. The remaining $23,188.00 shall be made payable to the Trust Account of Montenegro, Thompson, Montenegro & Genz, P.C., provided to the attention of Board Attorney, Nicholas C. Montenegro, Esq., P.O. Box 1049, Brick, NJ 08724.

2. This Settlement Agreement/Stipulation of Dismissal has been negotiated by the parties through counsel of their choice and is voluntarily accepted by the parties.

3. This Settlement Agreement/Stipulation of Dismissal contains the entire agreement between the parties relating to the District of residency and obligation to education V.D. in accord with the Law of the State of New Jersey. There are no other understandings or agreements, verbal or otherwise, in relation thereto, between the parties except those herein expressly set forth.

IN THE MATTER OF RUDOLPH MCCULLERS, :

BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF GATEWAY : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

CHARTER SCHOOL, HUDSON COUNTY : DECISION

SYNOPSIS

The School Ethics Commission determined that Rudolph McCullers, former president of the Gateway Charter School Board of Trustees, violated the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(d), when he violated several provisions of the school laws and other statutes; took action on several occasions without Board approval; and committed other unauthorized acts. The Commission found probable cause that respondent, inter alia, failed to provide adequate notice of a closed executive meeting of the Board; signed certain checks without board authorization; knowingly hired an uncertified business administrator; violated public school bidding laws; and failed to carry out various duties as board president, resulting in the school being placed on probation.

After considering the nature of the charges, the Commission recommended a penalty of censure since Mr. McCullers is no longer a member of the Board and censure is the highest penalty that may be imposed on a former board member. Because of the extensive violations of the School Ethics Act, the Commission indicated that they would have recommended a sanction of removal if Mr. McCullers was still on the Board.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner, whose decision is restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29 (c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, concurs with the Commission's recommendation. The Commissioner thus orders that Rudolph McCullers be censured as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

IN THE MATTER OF RUDOLPH MCCULLERS,	:
BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF GATEWAY	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

The record in this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (Commission) have been reviewed. Respondent filed no written comments to the Commission's decision. Upon full consideration, the Commissioner is constrained to adopt the recommendation of the Commission that respondent be censured.

Two complaints were consolidated in this matter. An answer to one of them was submitted, but it did not comply with the requirement set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(b) that answers be given under oath. No answer to the other complaint was presented. Thus, the Commission considered the complaints as unrebutted. Further, because respondent did not file perfected answers, he could not attend the hearings on the two complaints.

The multiple paragraphs in the two complaints alleged that during his tenure as president of the Gateway Charter School Board of Trustees, respondent had: violated several provisions of the school laws and other statutes; taken action on several occasions without Board approval; and committed other ultra vires acts. Among the identified violations were the unilateral dismissal, without proper notice, of the complainant as Secretary to the Board, and the hiring of an unqualified replacement; interference in the administration of the school; unauthorized signing of checks, including several to himself; unilateral hiring of contractors; failure to timely file certain financial documents and certifications on behalf of the school.

At a May 24, 2005 hearing the Commission determined that the material facts were not in dispute, and found probable cause to credit the allegations that respondent had violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24 (b) and (c), and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1 (a) through (f). It notified respondent that it would decide the matter on the papers, and invited the respondent to provide a written submission by August 29, 2005, as to why the Commission should not find him in violation of the above referenced statutes, and should not impose a sanction. No written submission was received from respondent.

At a public meeting on September 27, 2005, the Commission found that respondent violated the above-referenced statutes. It recommended that the Commissioner impose the penalty of censure, since respondent was at that point no longer on the Board of Trustees, and since censure is the highest penalty that may be imposed upon a former Board member. The Commission also noted that "[b]ecause of the extensive violations of the Act, the Commission would have recommended a sanction of removal if Mr. McCullers was [sic] still on the Board." The Commission's decision was duly adopted by a formal resolution and forwarded to the Commissioner for action on the sanction only, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29.

Initially, it must be emphasized that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, the determination of the Commission as to violation of the School Ethics Act is not reviewable by the Commissioner herein. Only the Commission may determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act occurred. The Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to reviewing the sanction to be imposed based upon a finding of a violation by the Commission. Therefore, this decision is restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty.

The Commissioner accepts the Commission's recommendation that censure is the appropriate penalty in this matter for the reasons set forth in the Commission's decision. In so ruling, the Commissioner is satisfied that in recommending a penalty for the violations it found, the Commission fully considered the nature of the offense and weighed the effects of aggravating and mitigating circumstances. The Commissioner accordingly imposes the penalty of censure.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

IN THE MATTER OF	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
RUDOLPH McCULLERS	:	Docket No. C06-05 & C12-05
GATEWAY CHARTER SCHOOL	:
BOARD OF TRUSTEES	:
HUDSON COUNTY	:	DECISION

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from two complaints filed by Gregory John Monte, an employee of the Gateway Charter School Board of Trustees (Board), against Rudolph V. McCullers, Jr., President of the Board. The first complaint, C06-05, was filed on March 23, 2005, and alleged that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (b), (c), (d), (e) and (f) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members in the Act when he engaged in the conduct noted below. The second complaint, C12-05, was filed on April 8, 2005, and alleged that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and (c) of the Act and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (c) and (e) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members when he engaged in the conduct noted below. Following are the complainant's allegations:

(1) As President of the Board, Mr. McCullers participated in a closed executive meeting of the Gateway Charter School Board of Trustees (Board), held on March 17, 2005, without public notice in violation of the Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA), N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 et seq.;

(2) Mr. McCullers sent an e-mail on March 17, 2005 at 3:13 p.m., which effectively dismissed the complainant from the position of secretary to the Board without Board approval and without a showing of neglect, misbehavior or other offense;

(3) During the weekend of February 19-21, 2005, Mr. McCullers or his agent, without cause, removed items from the complainant's desk and rearranged his furniture;

(4) Mr. McCullers went directly to the complainant regarding a scheduling mix-up that occurred at the school;

(5) On February 25, 2005, Mr. McCullers entered a classroom, intervened in a dispute between two students and told one student with an IEP that he would not be suspended for his actions. He then went on to lecture teachers about student discipline. After that he entered several other classrooms and the cafeteria and lectured students about their bad behavior;

(6) Mr. McCullers signed several checks without Board authorization, which included several checks made out to him;

(7) As Board President, Mr. McCullers continued the employment of a Business Administrator that was not properly hired by Board approval, who did not hold proper certification as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:11-5.1(b)2, and who also served as Treasurer in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-31;

(8) Mr. McCullers hired Professional Maintenance and Carpeting and Frank Ruiz without soliciting bids, and in early February 2005, he hired Unique Maintenance to strip and re-finish the floors in the school without Board approval, prior to a visit by representatives of the bank at which he is employed as Vice President;

(9) As Board President, Mr. McCullers failed to assure the timely filing of the following items:

1. The corrective audit plan for the 2002-2003 audit;
2. The Fiscal Section of the annual report for fiscal year 2003-2004;
3. The 2003-2004 independent audit;
4. The Board resolution approving the fiscal year 2004-2005 budget; and
5. The signed facility lease;

Furthermore, Mr. McCullers failed to provide certifications required by N.J.A.C. 6A:23-2.11(c)3 and 4 at Board meetings from September 2004 until March 2005. Mr. McCullers also failed to assure that all school expenditures were fully itemized, verified, and certified in writing and presented to the full Board for approval. Finally, Mr. McCullers failed to make certain that all funds were expended only by the Treasurer in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-36, N.J.S.A. 18A:19-1 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:23-2.2; and

(10) Mr. McCullers instructed the Board secretary to draw up a spread sheet to keep track of bank employees who were at the school and, when it was misplaced, he instructed the complainant to get another and to make sure all of the instructors signed in.

After receipt of the complaints, the Commission forwarded both complaints to Mr. McCullers and notified him that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.5(a), he had 20 days to submit an answer under oath to the Commission. Mr. McCullers failed to answer either complaint within the 20-day time limit. The Commission then notified Mr. McCullers that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.5(d), if he did not provide an answer within 10 days of receipt of the notice, each allegation in both of the complaints would be deemed admitted and he would not be permitted to address the Commission. The Commission received a timely answer to C12-05 on May 20, 2005 that was mistakenly labeled as an answer to C06-05. However, the answer was not sworn under oath as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(b). Therefore, the Commission did not accept the answer and it was not considered when the Commission made its determination regarding these matters. The Commission did not receive an answer to the allegations in C06-05.

The Commission invited the complainant to attend its May 24, 2005 meeting to present witnesses and testimony, but did not require that he be present. The complainant attended the hearing with a witness. However, since the Commission did not have any questions for either him or the witness, they did not appear before the Commission. Since Mr. McCullers did not provide an answer to C06-05, he could not attend the hearing on C06-05. He was invited to the meeting to testify on C12-05, but then he submitted an uncertified answer, which the Commission could not accept pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(b). Therefore, he could not attend the hearing on C12-05. At its May 24, 2005 meeting, the Commission voted to consolidate C06-05 and C12-05 and voted to find probable cause to credit the allegations that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and (c) of the Act and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (b), (c), (d), (e) and (f) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members in the Act.

The Commission found that the material facts were not in dispute with respect to the issue upon which it found probable cause and, therefore, the Commission advised Mr. McCullers that it would decide the matter on the basis of written submissions. Mr. McCullers was invited to provide a written submission to the Commission by August 29, 2005, and set forth why the Commission should not find him in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and (c) of the Act and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (b), (c), (d), (e) and (f) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members. Mr. McCullers was also told that his written submission should include his position on an appropriate sanction should the Commission determine that the Act was violated. Mr. McCullers did not provide a written submission in response to the Commission's probable cause determination.

FACTS

The Commission based its finding of probable cause on the following facts.

At all times relevant to these complaints, Mr. McCullers was President of the Board and employed at North Fork Bank as Vice President. Mr. McCullers resigned from the Board in June 2005. At all times relevant to the complaints, the complainant was employed by the Board as Vice Principal and, at certain times, employed by the Board as Board Secretary.

(1) March 17, 2005 Closed Executive Meeting

On March 14, 2005, Mr. McCullers sent an e-mail to all Board members asking them to review attachments to the e-mail for the executive Board meeting. The closed executive meeting of the Board was held on March 17, 2005. The public was not provided with any type of notice of the meeting.

(2) Complainant's Position as Board Secretary

On March 17, 2005, at 3:13 p.m., prior to the closed executive meeting of the Board held at 7:00 p.m. that same evening, Mr. McCullers sent an e-mail to the Board and the complainant with an enclosed letter to the complainant wherein Mr. McCullers indicated that he was, "thanking him for his services and resigning him from holding the position of Board Secretary." His e-mail also indicated that it is the duty and responsibility of a Board member to be secretary to the Board and that he was assigning the responsibility to the business administrator. During the March 21, 2005 Board meeting, a Board member raised an objection to the procedure that was followed in the dismissal of the complainant. That Board member noted that the dismissal should have been brought before the Board for a vote and that he believed that Mr. McCullers did not follow the proper procedure.

(3) Mr. Monte's Office

During the weekend of February 19-21, 2005, Mr. McCullers and/or his agent entered the complainant's office and removed items from his desk. The furniture in the office was also completely rearranged during that time. The complainant discovered the changes on Tuesday, February 22, 2005 when he returned to work after President's Day weekend.

(4) Scheduling Problems

During February 2005, instructors from North Fork Bank were scheduled to present financial lessons to the 7th grade students. During the presentations, a scheduling mix up occurred. The chief administrative officer e-mailed an explanation to Mr. McCullers in the early morning on February 28, 2005, which provided details as to why the mix up occurred and provided a solution that she would undertake prior to the final visit of the North Fork Bank instructors. Shortly thereafter, Mr. McCullers contacted the complainant directly and asked him to explain the scheduling mix up that had occurred at the school the previous week. After the conversation with Mr. McCullers, the complainant felt compelled to also provide Mr. McCullers with a written explanation. The chief administrative officer was unaware that Mr. McCullers had contacted the complainant directly.

(5) Attendance at School on February 25, 2005

On February 25, 2005, Mr. McCullers entered the school building to deliver a letter to the chief administrative officer. At that time there was a loud argument going on in a classroom between two students. In the presence of the teacher, Mr. McCullers entered the classroom and intervened in the altercation. He spoke to the students about their behavior and then took one of the students into another room. This student had an Individualized Education Plan (IEP) that included specific requirements for behavior modification. Mr. McCullers asked the student to promise that he would not behave in that manner again and then told the student that he would not be suspended for his actions.

Shortly thereafter, Mr. McCullers went to the main office and spoke to several teachers regarding the lack of student discipline at the school. He noted that more students should be suspended and that if it was not done that he would handle it himself.

He also stated that a particular 7th grade student was probably autistic and needed an autism teacher to help out in the classroom. Mr. McCullers then went into several homerooms to lecture students on their behavior. After that, he went into the cafeteria and gave a speech to the students about their bad behavior.

(6) Check Signing

Mr. McCullers signed several checks that were not authorized by the Board, which included several made out to him, as follows:

1. At the January 10, 2005 Board meeting, the Board authorized 23 checks, but, sometime thereafter, Mr. McCullers signed 32 checks, thus, 9 checks were not approved by the Board;
2. Mr. McCullers signed check numbers 3020-3023, 3025 and 7128-7165, which were not approved by the Board;
3. Mr. McCullers signed check numbers 7208-7242 including a check made out to Mr. McCullers, which were not approved by the Board; and
4. Mr. McCullers signed check numbers 7089 and 7229, which were made out to Mr. McCullers, and were not approved by the Board.

(7) School Business Administrator

Mr. McCullers hired Ali Bangura as school business administrator. At the October 18, 2004 Board meeting, Mr. McCullers admitted that Mr. Bangura was not properly hired and stated that a Board member had said that "we should take on this guy before we lose him and we should be paying him." Mr. McCullers then stated that the Board should vote on whether Mr. Bangura should continue to work. Mr. Bangura does not have proper certification as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:11-5.1(b)2. Mr. Bangura, the school business administrator, also served as Treasurer.

(8) Vendors

Mr. McCullers hired Professional Maintenance and Carpeting, and Frank Ruiz, a maintenance professional, without soliciting bids as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-3(a). Professional Maintenance and Carpeting, which is a firm that is owned by another Board member, was paid $3,500, and Mr. Ruiz was paid $12,190. Sometime in early February 2005, Mr. McCullers also hired Unique Maintenance, without Board approval, to strip and re-finish the floors in the school in preparation for the visit to the school of representatives of the bank where Mr. McCullers is employed as Vice President.

(9) Board Member Duties

The following items were not submitted by the due dates as required by statute and regulation:

1. The corrective audit plan for the 2002-2003 audit, which was due by June 30, 2004 as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:23-3, 23-4 and N.J.A.C. 6A:23-2.11;
2. The Fiscal Section of the annual report for fiscal year 2003-2004, which was due by August 1, 2004 as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:36(a)-16(b) and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-2.2;
3. The 2003-2004 independent audit, which was due by November 5, 2004 as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:23 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:231-2.2(i)
4. The Board resolution approving the fiscal year 2004-2005 budget, which was due by March 30, 2004 as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:11-7.1(e); and
5. The signed facility lease, which was due on June 30, 2004.

In his role as Board President, Mr. McCullers failed to provide certifications required by N.J.A.C. 6A:23-2.11(c)3 and 4 at Board meetings from September 2004 until March 2005. He also did not make sure that all school expenditures were fully itemized, verified, and certified in writing and presented to the full Board for approval. Mr. McCullers also did not make certain that all funds were expended only by the Treasurer in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-36, N.J.S.A. 18A:19-1 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:23-2.2.

On September 15, 2004, the Board was notified through correspondence from the Director of the Office of School Funding in the Department of Education (DOE) that it had to submit a corrective action plan to address the above, as well as other issues, where the school was found to be non-compliant with statute and regulations. That correspondence was followed by correspondence on January 7, 2005 notifying the Board that it still had not submitted the corrective action plan and that failure to comply would result in sanctions. Through correspondence dated February 24, 2005, the Board was again notified that failure to submit a corrective action plan would result in sanctions. Finally, in correspondence dated April 15, 2005, the Commissioner placed the school on probationary status as a result of the on-going fiscal problems raised in the previous correspondence and the March 30, 2005 on-site review of the school's fiscal-related activities and academic performance.

(10) Spreadsheet

On February 10 and 11, 2005, Mr. McCullers instructed the school secretary in the main office to draw up a spreadsheet to be used to keep track of North Fork Bank employees who were at the school on those days to provide financial instructions to the 7th grade students. When the spreadsheet was misplaced on February 10, 2005, Mr. McCullers instructed Mr. Monte to get another spreadsheet and told Mr. Monte that it would be his responsibility to make sure that all of the instructors signed in.

ANALYSIS

(1) March 17, 2005 Closed Executive Meeting

The Commission found probable cause that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) when he planned and participated in a closed executive meeting of the Board on March 17, 2005 without providing adequate notice. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) provides:

> I will uphold and enforce all laws, rules and regulations of the State Board of Education and court orders pertaining to the schools. Desired changes shall be brought about only through legal and ethical procedures.

The OPMA at N.J.S.A. 10:4-9 requires all public bodies to provide adequate notice of meetings that are held by the public bodies. The Board falls within the definition of "public body" at N.J.S.A. 10:4-8, which, in part, defines the term as meaning "a commission, authority, board... organized under the laws of this State, and collectively empowered as a voting body to perform a public governmental function..." Furthermore, N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-6 requires the board of trustees of a charter school to comply with the provisions of the OPMA. "Adequate notice" is also defined, in part, at N.J.S.A. 10:4-8 to mean, "written advance notice of at least 48 hours, giving the time, date, location and, to the extent known, the agenda of any regular, special or rescheduled meeting..." The closed executive meeting of the Board that was held on March 17, 2005, was held without the provision of a 48 hour written advance notice giving the time, date, and location in violation of OPMA. Therefore, the Commission finds that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) when he failed to uphold and enforce all laws pertaining to the schools.

(2) The Complainant's Position as Board Secretary

The Commission found probable cause that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) when he sent an e-mail to all Board members, with a copy to the complainant, on March 17, 2005 just a few hours before the closed executive meeting of the Board, which effectively dismissed the complainant from his position as Board secretary.

As a preliminary matter, the Commission notes that although Mr. McCullers indicated that he was "resigning [the complainant] from his position," he was effectively dismissing the complainant from his position. "Resignation" is defined in the Black's Law Dictionary (Fifth Edition) as a formal renouncement or relinquishment of an office which must be accompanied by an act of relinquishment. At no time did the complainant take any action to relinquish or renounce his position as Board secretary. There was no resignation before Mr. McCullers or the Board to accept. It was Mr. McCullers who initiated the dismissal of the complainant from the position of Board secretary.

N.J.S.A. 18A:17-1 provides, in part, that, "no secretary...of a board of education of any school district shall, during the term for which he was appointed, be dismissed or reduced in compensation, except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense unless it is otherwise provided in his contract of employment." When Mr. McCullers dismissed the complainant, it appears that he did not uphold the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-1 since he did not present any evidence that the complainant should be dismissed because of neglect, misbehavior or other offense. Moreover, in the e-mail and its attachment, rather than allege that the complainant should be dismissed because of neglect, misbehavior or other offense, Mr. McCullers thanked the complainant for his services. Based on the foregoing, the Commission finds that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) when he failed to uphold and enforce all laws pertaining to the schools.

The Commission also found probable cause that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) when he failed to recognize that authority rests with the board of education and acted on the dismissal alone and did not bring the matter before the entire Board. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) provides:

> I will recognize that authority rests with the board of education and will make no personal promises nor take any private action that may compromise the board.

In the e-mail and its attachment, Mr. McCullers thanked the complainant for his services, dismissed the complainant from the position of Secretary to the Board and assigned the responsibilities to the business administrator. The Commission notes that Mr. McCullers took it upon himself to dismiss Mr. Monte just hours before a closed executive meeting of the Board. This was not a decision of the Board, rather it was a decision made by Mr. McCullers alone. Furthermore, Mr. McCullers not only dismissed the complainant, but then went on to decide who would replace him. These are all decisions that properly reside with the entire Board. The Commission also notes that when Mr. McCullers made these decisions it was a private action, since no one Board member can decide to dismiss anyone. The private action could have compromised the Board since the complainant was not provided with a Rice[1] notice prior to the closed executive meeting. Based on the foregoing, the Commission finds that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) when he failed to recognize that authority rests with the Board and took private action that could have compromised the Board.

(4) Scheduling Problems

The Commission found probable cause that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) and (d) when, on February 28, 2005, he directly contacted the complainant by phone and asked him to explain a scheduling mix up that had occurred when instructors from North Fork Bank were presenting a financial lesson to 7th grade students.

[1] "Rice" refers to the case Rice v. Union City. Reg. H. Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 155 N.J. Super. 64 (App. Div. 1977) certif. den. 76 N.J. 238 (1978), which established the right of employees to have notice when they will be discussed by the Board of Education.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) provides:

> I will confine my board action to policy making, planning, and appraisal, and I will help to frame policies and plans only after the board has consulted those who will be affected by them.

Mr. McCullers took it upon himself to determine why scheduling problems had occurred at the school. First he went to the chief administrative officer and then he went to the complainant to find a solution to the scheduling problems. In doing so, Mr. McCullers failed to confine his action to policy making and planning. Therefore, the Commission finds that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c).

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d) provides:

> I will carry out my responsibility, not to administer the schools, but, together with my fellow board members, to see that they are well run.

When the scheduling problems occurred, Mr. McCullers received an e-mail from the chief administrative officer, which provided an explanation as to why the scheduling problem occurred. The e-mail included an administrative solution that the chief administrative officer would undertake to ensure that the scheduling problems would not happen again. Shortly after he received the e-mail, Mr. McCullers phoned the complainant asking for an explanation as to why the scheduling mix up had occurred. Mr. McCullers did not call the chief administrative officer, but took it upon himself to call the complainant without the knowledge of the chief administrative officer. Mr. McCullers became involved in the administration of the schools when he contacted the complainant after he had been given a solution from the chief administrative officer. Based on the foregoing, the Commission finds that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d).

(5) Attendance at School on February 25, 2005

The Commission found probable cause that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(b) when he intervened in a dispute between two students when he was at the school on February 25, 2005. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(b) provides:

> I will make decisions in terms of the educational welfare of children and will seek to develop and maintain public schools that meet the individual needs of all children regardless of their ability, race creed, sex, or social standing.

On February 25, 2005, when Mr. McCullers was at the school, he overheard a dispute between two students and went into the classroom. He intervened in the dispute and spoke with the two students about their behavior. He then took one student aside, who had an IEP that included specific requirements for behavior modification. Without knowledge of those specific requirements, Mr. McCullers asked the student to promise that he would not engage in that type of behavior again and told him that he would not be suspended for his actions. Based on the foregoing, the Commission finds that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(b) when he intervened in the behavior modification of a student with an IEP without knowledge of the IEP requirements, thus, failing to maintain a public school that meets the individual needs of all children regardless of their ability.

The Commission also found probable cause that, on February 25, 2005, Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) and (d), which are set forth above. After he intervened in the dispute with the two students, he then went into the main office and lectured teachers about student discipline, and told the teachers that if there were not more student suspensions, he would handle discipline himself. He further gave the teachers his opinion that a specific student was probably autistic and would need an autism teacher to help out in the classroom. He then proceeded to other classrooms and the cafeteria and lectured the students on their bad behavior. Based on the foregoing, the Commission finds that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) and (d) when he failed to confine his board action to policy making, planning and appraisal and instead took it upon himself to administer the schools by undertaking conduct that is more the province of a chief administrative officer.

(6) Check Signing

The Commission found probable cause that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) and (e), which are set forth above, when he signed certain checks without Board authorization, including several made out to himself. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:19-1(d), prior to expenditure of Board funds, the Board must approve the expenditure by resolution. McCullers signed checks that had not been approved at the January 10, 2005 Board meeting. Mr. McCullers also signed other checks which were not approved by the Board and were drawn on an account separate from the standard account. Mr. McCullers also signed checks without Board authorization made out to him. Based on the foregoing, the Commission finds that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) and (e), when he failed to present certain checks to the Board in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:19-1 et seq., and when he failed to recognize that the authority to expend school funds lies with the entire Board.

The Commission also found probable cause that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b), which provides,

> No school official shall use or attempt to use his official position to secure unwarranted privileges, advantages or employment for himself, members of his immediate family or others;

Mr. McCullers signed checks made out to himself without Board approval. He signed the checks as part of his duties as Board President. In doing so, Mr. McCullers used his official position as Board President to secure the unwarranted privilege or advantage of obtaining funds from the Board without Board approval. Therefore, the Commission finds that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b).

The Commission also found probable cause that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when he signed checks made out to himself without Board authorization. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) provides,

> No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he, a member of his immediate family, or a business organization in which he has an interest, has a direct or indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment. No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he or a member of his immediate family has a personal involvement that is or creates some benefit to the school official or member of his immediate family;

Mr. McCullers had a direct financial involvement in the checks that were made out to him. The public could reasonably perceive that his objectivity and independence of judgment would be impaired in that matter. The Commission finds that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when he acted in his official capacity as Board President, without Board approval, in a matter where he had a direct financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment.

(7) School Business Administrator

The Commission found probable cause that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), which is set forth above, when he knowingly hired an uncertified business administrator without Board approval and also had him serve as Board Secretary and Treasurer in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-31. The Board minutes for the October 18, 2004 Board meeting reflect that the Board discussed the hiring of the school business administrator and, during the discussion, it became apparent that the school business administrator was never properly hired by the full Board, but that Mr. McCullers had hired him. The Board minutes also reflect that the school business administrator was not certified. The school business administrator also served as Treasurer for the school in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-31, which provides that the Treasurer cannot be a member or employee of the Board. Based on the foregoing, the Commission finds that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), when he failed to uphold and enforce all laws and rules and regulations of the State Board of Education and hired a school business administrator without Board approval and who was not certified.

The Commission also found probable cause that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(b) when he hired an uncertified school business administrator without Board approval. The Board had received a request from the Director of the Office for School Funding in the DOE, for a corrective action plan in regards to the fact that the Board hired an uncertified business administrator in violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:11-5.1.

There were two follow up letters that told the Board that they risked sanctions if they failed to provide a corrective action plan to rectify the problem. As a result of the failure to submit a corrective action plan, the school was placed on probationary status. Based on the foregoing, the Commission finds that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(b), when he jeopardized the educational welfare of the children of the school by failing to ensure that the school business administrator was certified.

(8) Vendors

The Commission found probable cause that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), which is set forth above, when he hired Professional Maintenance and Carpeting, which is owned by another Board member, without soliciting bids as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-1 et seq. The Commission notes that Professional Maintenance and Carpeting was paid a total of $3,500 and N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-3(a) allows a purchasing agent authorized by a Board resolution to award a contract without soliciting bids if the contract sum does not exceed $17,500. Therefore, the purchasing agent did not have to solicit bids to hire Professional Maintenance and Carpeting. However, the Commission notes that there is no evidence that Mr. McCullers was authorized by a Board resolution to be a purchasing agent. Furthermore, there is no evidence to show that the Board hired Professional Maintenance and Carpeting. Therefore, the Commission finds that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) when he hired Professional Maintenance and Carpeting.

The Commission also found probable cause that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) when he hired Frank Ruiz as a maintenance professional at the school without soliciting bids as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-1 et seq. The Commission notes that Mr. Ruiz was paid a total of $12,190, and N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-3(a) allows a purchasing agent authorized by a Board resolution to award a contract without soliciting bids if the contract sum does not exceed $17,500. Therefore, the purchasing agent did not have to solicit bids to hire Mr. Ruiz. However, again the Commission notes that there is no evidence that Mr. McCullers was authorized by a Board resolution to be a purchasing agent. Furthermore, there is no evidence that the Board hired Mr. Ruiz. Therefore, the Commission finds that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) when he hired Frank Ruiz.

The Commission also found probable cause that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (f), which are set forth above, when, sometime in early February 2005, he hired Unique Maintenance without Board approval to strip and re-finish the floors in preparation for a visit to the school of representatives of North Fork Bank where Mr. McCullers is Vice-President. There was no Board resolution to hire Unique Maintenance for such work. The Commission finds that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) because he failed to recognize that authority rests with the Board when he hired Unique Maintenance without Board approval. The Commission also finds that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f) when he used the schools for personal gain by hiring Unique Maintenance to strip and re-finish the floors right before the visit to the school by representatives of North Fork Bank, thus giving the perception that he was trying to impress the representatives who were from the bank in which he is employed as Vice President.

(9) Board Member Duties

The Commission found probable cause that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) and (b), which are set forth above, when he failed to submit numerous documents to the DOE by the required timeline, failed to provide certifications for several Board meetings, failed to make sure that all school expenditures were fully itemized, verified, and certified in writing and presented to the Board for approval, and failed to make certain that all funds were expended only by the Treasurer in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-16, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-36, N.J.S.A. 18A:19 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:23-2.2 as indicated in several communications from the DOE. Those communications warned the Board that it needed to address these violations or it would face sanctions. However, the Board did not respond to these many communications. This resulted in the school being placed on probation by the Commissioner. Based on the foregoing, the Commission finds that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), because he did not uphold and enforce all laws and rules and regulations of the State Board of Education. The Commission also finds that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(b), when he failed to correct many problems identified by the DOE's communications resulting in the school being placed on probation, thus jeopardizing the educational welfare of the children of the school.

(10) Spreadsheet

The Commission found probable cause that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), which is set forth above, when he instructed the school secretary to draw up a spread sheet to be used to keep track of North Fork Bank employees who were at the school to provide financial instruction. When the spreadsheet was misplaced, Mr. McCullers instructed the complainant to get another and then told the complainant that it was his responsibility to make sure that all of the instructors signed in. The Commission finds that Mr. McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c) because he went directly to school employees and instructed them on their duties, thus administering the schools.

DECISION

For the reasons discussed above, the Commission finds that Rudolph McCullers violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and (c) of the Act and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (b), (c), (d), (e) and (f) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members in the Act. The Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of censure since Mr. McCullers is no longer a member of the Board and censure is the highest penalty that may be imposed on a former Board member. Because of the extensive violations of the Act, the Commission would have recommended a sanction of removal if Mr. McCullers was still on the Board.

This decision has been adopted by a formal resolution of the School Ethics Commission. This matter shall now be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction only, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within 13 days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, Mr. McCullers may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

Record Closed: October 19, 2005 Decided: October 21, 2005

BEFORE STEPHANIE M. WAUTERS, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on May 18, 2005 for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF CORDELIA MCKNIGHT-JOHNSON, BOROUGH OF SAYREVILLE BOARD OF EDUCATION

BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF NEW JERSEY

AGENCY DOCKET NO.: 102-5/05

OAL DOCKET NO.: EDUTH 02995-2005S

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

The Borough of Sayreville Board of Education (sometimes "Board"), with offices at 150 Lincoln Street, Sayreville, New Jersey 08872, and Cordelia McKnight-Johnson, residing at 336 High Street, Perth Amboy, NJ 08861, hereby set forth their full and complete agreement, as follows:

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, Ms. McKnight-Johnson is employed as a school counselor for the Board; and

WHEREAS, on April 12, 2005, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1 et seq., Dr. Frank R. Alfano, Superintendent of the Borough of Sayreville School District, filed with the Board Secretary a Statement of Tenure Charges and Statement of Evidence Under Oath with supporting documents against Ms. McKnight-Johnson, a tenured school counselor at the Emma L. Arleth Elementary School and the Harry S. Truman Elementary School, alleging incapacity, unbecoming conduct and other just cause due to excessive absenteeism; and

WHEREAS, on April 26, 2005, the Board resolved by majority vote of the whole number of members of the Board as follows: (1) there was probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the Charges; (2) the Charges were sufficient to warrant the dismissal or reduction of salary of Ms. McKnight-Johnson; and (3) the Board Secretary was directed to forthwith notify Ms. McKnight-Johnson of the adoption of the Board's resolution and to forward the Charges to the Commissioner of the Department of Education for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16, together with a Certificate of Determination, all as is required by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11; and

WHEREAS, on or about May 13, 2005, Ms. McKnight-Johnson filed an Answer to the Charges before the Commissioner of Education; and

WHEREAS, on May 13, 2005, the Commissioner determined that the Charges, if true, were sufficient to warrant dismissal or a reduction in salary, and transferred the charges against Ms. McKnight-Johnson to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing; and

WHEREAS, Ms. McKnight-Johnson has been out on an unpaid leave of absence for the 2004-2005 school year; and

WHEREAS, in order to avoid the costs and burdens of a tenure dismissal hearing, the Board and Ms. McKnight-Johnson desire to settle fully and finally all outstanding issues regarding the aforesaid employment relationship and any and all differences between them, including any and all claims which could have been asserted, whether they are presently known or unknown, including any future claim for attorneys' fees or costs; and

WHEREAS, the parties agree that execution of this Stipulation of Settlement ("Stipulation") will constitute a complete and final disposition of any potential claim Ms. McKnight-Johnson could have brought against the Board; and

WHEREAS, Ms. McKnight-Johnson has been advised of the Commissioner's duty to refer tenure determinations resulting in loss of position to the State Board of Examiners for possible suspension or revocation of certificate.

NOW, for and in consideration of the agreements, covenants and conditions herein contained, the adequacy and sufficiency of which is hereby expressly acknowledged by the parties hereto, the parties agree as follows:

1. Settlement Payment. (a) Ms. McKnight-Johnson hereby resigns her employment with the Board effective on ~~January~~ March 1, 2006. Ms. McKnight-Johnson hereby surrenders any tenure rights that she has with the Board upon execution of this Stipulation. Simultaneously with her execution of this Stipulation, Ms. McKnight-Johnson will submit an irrevocable letter of resignation, in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A, for purposes of retirement, effective ~~January~~ March 1, 2006. The parties' written agreement will not now, nor at any time in the future, be considered by either party to be an unlawful discharge of Ms. McKnight-Johnson or in any way constitute discrimination against Ms. McKnight-Johnson under N.J.S.A. 10:5-1, et seq. Approval of Ms. McKnight-Johnson's resignation by the Board will occur as part of the approval of this entire settlement. It is agreed and understood by all parties that this Stipulation is contingent upon approval of the Board.

(b) Ms. McKnight-Johnson will be suspended with pay through ~~December 31,~~ February 28, 2006. Ms. McKnight-Johnson will receive her current salary less the standard payroll deductions taken for Ms. McKnight-Johnson as an employee of the Board (e.g. taxes, security, pension, etc.) through ~~December 31~~ February 28, 2006, provided Viola S. Lordi, Esq. of Wilentz, Goldman & Spitzer P.A. has received from Michael T. Barrett, Esq., counsel for Ms. McKnight-Johnson (1) an executed original of this Stipulation; (2) a signed copy of the non-revocation letter attached hereto as Exhibit B; and (3) Ms. McKnight-Johnson's signed letter of resignation.

(c) The health insurance benefits to which Ms. McKnight-Johnson is currently entitled as an employee of the Board shall be maintained through ~~December~~ February 28, 6 31, 2005, at which time Ms. McKnight-Johnson will be entitled to elect COBRA coverage.

(d) The Board agrees to assist in the preparation of paperwork relating to Ms. McKnight-Johnson's application for disability retirement with the State of New Jersey, Division of Pensions and Benefits.

2. Release. In consideration for the payment and other consideration provided for in this Stipulation, and except as prohibited by law, Ms. McKnight-Johnson, personally and for her estate and/or her heirs, waives, releases and gives up any and all claims, demands, obligations, damages, liabilities, causes of action, and rights, in law or in equity, known and unknown (including, but not limited to, any and all rights to discovery regarding events occurring, or claims arising, prior to the date of this Stipulation) that she may have against the Board and any and all of the Board's officers, board members, agents, representatives, attorneys, and employees (present and former), and their respective successors and assigns, heirs, executors and personal or legal representatives (hereinafter "releasees"), based upon any act, event, or omission occurring before the execution of this Stipulation, including, but not limited to, any events related to, arising from, or in connection with, Ms. McKnight-Johnson's employment and/or association with the Board.

Ms. McKnight-Johnson specifically waives, releases and gives up any and all claims arising from or relating to her employment and/or other relationship and/or association with releasees, based upon any act, event, or omission occurring before the effective date of this Stipulation, including, but not limited to, any claim that was asserted or could have been asserted under any federal and/or state statutes, regulations, and/or common law (including, but not limited to, any and all rights to discovery regarding such claims), expressly including, but not limited to, any potential claims (including individual and class action claims) relating to:

Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended;

Sections 1981 through 1988 of Title 42 of the United States Code, as amended;

The Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended;

The Immigration Reform Control Act, as amended;

The Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, as amended;

The Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, as amended;

The Fair Labor Standards Act, as amended;

The Occupational Safety and Health Act, as amended;

The Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993;

The Equal Pay Act, as amended;

The New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, as amended;

The New Jersey Minimum Wage Law, as amended;

The New Jersey Wage and Hour Law, as amended;

Equal Pay Law for New Jersey, as amended;

The New Jersey Worker Health and Safety Act, as amended;

The New Jersey Workers' Compensation Act, N.J.S.A. 34:15-7 et seq.;

The New Jersey Family Leave Act, as amended;

The New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, as amended;

The New Jersey Employer-Employee Relations Act, as amended;

Any anti-retaliation provision of any statute or law including common law;

Any other federal, state or local civil or human rights law or any other local, state or federal law, regulation or ordinance;

Any provision of any federal or state constitution;

Any public policy, contract, tort, or common law;

Any losses, injuries or damages (including back pay, front pay, liquidated, compensatory or punitive damages); and

Attorneys' fees, litigation costs, medical bills for physical or psychological treatment (paid or outstanding), and any liens of any nature arising out of the allegations made in connection with Ms. McKnight-Johnson's employment with the Board.

Ms. McKnight-Johnson does not waive, release or give up any claim arising from an intentional act by the Board or any and all of the Board's officers, board members, agents, representatives, attorneys, and employees which unduly obstructs the processing of her application for disability retirement or her appeal of a denial of same.

3. No Claims Permitted/Covenant Not to Sue. Ms. McKnight-Johnson agrees, to the fullest extent permitted by law, not to commence, encourage, facilitate or participate in any action or proceeding for damages, reinstatement, injunctive or any other type of relief, in any state, federal or local court or before any administrative agency relating to her employment, based upon any act, event or omission occurring before the effective date of this Stipulation. Nothing in this Stipulation is intended to prevent Ms. McKnight-Johnson from bringing an action to enforce the Board's obligations as set forth herein. Nothing in this Stipulation is intended to prevent Ms. McKnight-Johnson from contacting a state or federal civil rights agency; however, if Ms. McKnight-Johnson signs this Stipulation, she will not be able to obtain any relief or recovery in connection with any complaint or charge filed with such agency. Except as prohibited by law, in the event that any such charge, complaint or action is filed by Ms. McKnight-Johnson, it shall be dismissed with prejudice upon presentation of this Stipulation, and Ms. McKnight-Johnson shall reimburse the Board for the costs, including attorneys' fees, of defending any such action. Ms. McKnight-Johnson confirms that no such charge, complaint, or action currently exists in any forum or form.

4. No Right To Employment or Re-Employment. Ms. McKnight-Johnson understands and agrees that she has no right to or expectation of employment or re-employment with the Board.

5. Requests for Information. Except as otherwise required by law, the Board will divulge only public record information if a potential employer or other individual or entity contacts the Board seeking information regarding Ms. McKnight-Johnson. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 47A:1-10, public record information shall include Ms. McKnight-Johnson's "name, title, position, salary, payroll record, length of service, date of separation and the reason therefor, and the amount and type of any pension received."

6. Attorneys' Fees. Ms. McKnight-Johnson and her attorney agree that Ms. McKnight-Johnson will bear her own costs and attorneys' fees which she has incurred in connection with the tenure hearing dismissal matter and that no amounts other than the payment to be made pursuant to Paragraph 1 of this Stipulation shall be sought by or owed to Ms. McKnight-Johnson or her attorney in connection with this matter.

7. No Admission of Liability. It is expressly understood that neither the execution of this Stipulation, nor any other action taken by the Board in connection with this Stipulation, constitutes an admission by the Board of any violation of any law, duty or obligation, or that any decisions or actions taken in connection with Ms. McKnight-Johnson's employment were unwarranted, unjustified, retaliatory, discriminatory, wrongful or otherwise unlawful. The parties agree that the Board has entered into this Stipulation in order to avoid the costs of a tenure dismissal hearing, and that the Board specifically denies any legal liability to Ms. McKnight-Johnson or to any other person.

8. Entire Agreement/Sought Assistance of Counsel. This Stipulation contains the sole and entire agreement between the parties hereto, and fully supersedes any and all prior agreements and understandings pertaining to the subject matter hereof. Ms. McKnight-Johnson represents and acknowledges that, prior to executing this Stipulation, she consulted with her counsel (Bergman & Barrett, by Michael T. Barrett, Esq.), that she had ample time to do so, that she obtained the advice of her counsel prior to making the decision to execute this Stipulation, and that she has not relied upon any representation or statement not set forth in this Stipulation made by any other party thereto, or their counsel or representatives, with regard to the subject matter of this Stipulation. No other promises or agreements shall be binding unless in writing, signed by the parties hereto, and expressly stated to represent an amendment to this Stipulation.

9. Severability. The parties agree that if any Court declares any portion of this Stipulation unenforceable, the remaining portions shall be fully enforceable.

10. Counterparts/Applicable Law/Breach. This Stipulation may be executed in counterparts and shall be construed and interpreted in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey. The parties agree that any action to enforce or interpret this Stipulation shall only be brought in a court of competent jurisdiction of the State of New Jersey, which the parties hereby acknowledge and agree to be the Superior Court of the State of New Jersey, venued in Middlesex County. The parties further agree that this Stipulation may be specifically enforced in court, may be the subject of an action for breach, and may be used as evidence in a subsequent proceeding in which either of the parties allege a breach of this Stipulation, and that in the event that either party breaches this Stipulation and a subsequent action to enforce the Stipulation is successful, the prevailing party shall be entitled to the attorneys' fees and costs incurred with respect to any such action.

11. Notices. Unless otherwise specified herein, any notices sent in connection with this Stipulation shall be sent as follows:

As to Ms. McKnight-Johnson:

Michael T. Barrett, Esq.
Bergman & Barrett
Nine Tamarack Circle
U.S. Highway 206 North
Skillman, New Jersey 08558

As to the Board:

Viola S. Lordi, Esq.
Wilentz, Goldman & Spitzer P.A.
90 Woodbridge Center Drive
P.O. Box 10
Woodbridge, New Jersey 07095

12. Effective Date. This Stipulation shall not become effective or enforceable until the Board has approved this Stipulation by resolution and Viola S. Lordi, Esq. of Wilentz, Goldman & Spitzer P.A. is in receipt of (1) an executed original of this Stipulation; (2) a signed copy of the non-revocation letter attached hereto as Exhibit B; and (3) Ms. McKnight-Johnson's letter of resignation.

13. Voluntary Agreement. Ms. McKnight-Johnson hereby acknowledges that she is signing this Stipulation voluntarily of her own free will and not under duress or coercion of any kind. She understands and agrees that she knowingly and voluntarily has decided to enter into this Stipulation and release any and all potential claims against the Board and surrender any and all tenure rights that she has with the Board after thoroughly reviewing this Stipulation with her attorney.

14. Board Approval. This Stipulation must be approved by the Board by resolution prior to being effective or final.

15. Commissioner's Approval. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6, this Stipulation is subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Education prior to being effective or final.

The Board has reviewed this Stipulation and finds it to be in the best interest of the Board and the taxpayers of the Borough of Sayreville because by settling the tenure charges, the Board and the taxpayers of the Borough of Sayreville will be spared the expense and inconvenience of further litigation. Additionally, the Stipulation contains a release and waiver that are in the public interest because they preclude, to the extent permitted by law, any litigation by Ms. McKnight-Johnson against the Board.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, THE PARTIES HERETO SET THEIR HANDS TO THIS STIPULATION AS FOLLOWS:

Record Closed: October 25, 2005 Decided: October 25, 2005

BEFORE W. TODD MILLER, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on November 16, 2004, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Settlement Agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

DEBORAH PERMITO Petitioner v. MILLVILLE BOARD OF EDUCATION Respondent.	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF NEW JERSEY OAK DKT. NO. EDU 2795-03 AGENCY DKT. NO. 91-3/03 STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

The petitioner, Debora Permito, an employee of the Millville Board of Education, represented by Ned P. Rogovoy, Esquire, filed a Petition with the Commissioner of Education on or about March 17, 2003. The Petition requests the reinstatement of 65 sick days docked to the petitioner as a result of her absences. Petitioner alleged that from September of 1999 through November 18, 2002, the days that she was out of the classroom as a result of sickness were related to her exposure to mold allergens found in the classroom.

The respondent, Millville Board of Education, represented by Arnold Robinson, Esquire, filed a responsive pleading denying the allegations on or about May 2, 2003 and the matter was joined.

Both parties retained experts and as a result of negotiations and to settle all controversies related to the reinstatement of sick days during the petitioner's entire career up until present, it is agreed as follows:

The respondent, Millville Board of Education, shall place 30 sick days into the petitioner's bank, thus causing her bank of saved sick days to be increased by 30, and she shall use them as the Collective Bargaining Agreement and policies of the respondent permit.

Further, this resolves all issues related to the reinstatement of sick days as and through the date of settlement.

It is expressly understood and agreed that the acceptance of the said resolution is in full accord and satisfaction and in compromise of all disputed claims and that the resolution thereof is not an admission of liability but is made for the purpose of terminating all disputes and litigation between the parties.

AGENCY DKT NO. 311-11/05

IN THE MATTER OF EDMUND J. ZILINSKI,	:
BLOOMFIELD BOARD OF EDUCATION	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
ESSEX COUNTY.	:	DECISION

SYNOPSIS

The School Ethics Commission determined that Bloomfield Board of Education member Edmund J. Zilinski violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (g) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members when he took private action in organizing confidential information containing the names of students suspended from October to November 2004 on an Excel spreadsheet and accidentally transmitted this information as an attachment to an e-mail sent to all Board members on April 4, 2005. After considering the nature of the charge, the Commission recommended that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

Upon a thorough review of the record, the Commissioner, whose decision was restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, concurred with the Commission's recommendation. The Commissioner thus ordered that Edmund J. Zilinski be reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 311-11/05

IN THE MATTER OF EDMUND J. ZILINSKI,	:
BLOOMFIELD BOARD OF EDUCATION	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission ("Commission"), finding that Bloomfield Board of Education member Edmund J. Zilinski violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (g) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members when he took private action in organizing confidential information containing the names of students suspended from October to November 2004 on an Excel spreadsheet and accidentally transmitted this information as an attachment to an e-mail sent to all Board members on April 4, 2005, along with the Commission's recommended penalty of reprimand, have been reviewed. Upon issuance of the decision of the Commission, Mr. Zilinski was provided thirteen days from the mailing date of the decision to file written comments on the recommended penalty for the Commissioner's consideration. No comments were filed either by Mr. Zilinski or counsel on his behalf.

Initially, it must be emphasized that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, the determination of the Commission as to violation of the School Ethics Act is not reviewable by the Commissioner herein. Only the Commission may determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act occurred. The Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to reviewing the sanction to be imposed based upon a finding of a violation by the Commission. Therefore, this decision is restricted to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty.

Upon a thorough review of the record, the Commissioner determines to accept the Commission's recommendation that reprimand is the appropriate penalty in this matter for the reasons expressed in the Commission's decision. In so ruling, the Commissioner is satisfied that in recommending a penalty for the violations it found, the Commission fully considered the nature of the offense and weighed the effects of aggravating and mitigating circumstances. Therefore, the Commission's recommended penalty in this matter will not be disturbed.

Accordingly, IT IS hereby ORDERED that Edmund J. Zilinski be reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

IN THE MATTER OF	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
EDMUND J. ZILINSKI	:	Docket No. C20-05
BLOOMFIELD BOARD OF EDUCATION	:
ESSEX COUNTY	:	DECISION

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from a complaint filed on April 18, 2005 by Barbara Francisco against Edmund J. Zilinski, a member of the Bloomfield Board of Education (Board), alleging that Mr. Zilinski violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), (e) and (g) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members in the Act when he sent an e-mail on April 4, 2005 to members of the Board with an attachment that contained confidential information listing the names of students suspended from October to November 2004. Mr. Zilinski submitted a timely answer in which he admitted sending the April 4, 2005 e-mail, but maintained that it was accidentally sent and that four minutes after it was sent he sent another e-mail with the correct attachment.

The Commission invited Mr. Zilinski to attend its July 26, 2005 meeting to present witnesses and testimony, but did not require that he be present. Neither Mr. Zilinski nor the complainant attended the hearing. Instead, on July 22, 2005, the complainant submitted a response to Mr. Zilinski's answer, and on July 23, 2005, Mr. Zilinski replied to complainant's response. At its July 26, 2005 meeting, the Commission voted to find probable cause to credit the allegations that Mr. Zilinski violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (g) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members in the School Ethics Act. The Commission also voted to find no probable cause that Mr. Zilinsky violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a). At its August 23, 2005 meeting the Commission adopted its decision finding probable cause.

The Commission found that the material facts were not in dispute with respect to the issue upon which it found probable cause and, therefore, advised Mr. Zilinski that it would decide the matter on the basis of written submissions. Mr. Zilinski was invited to provide a written submission to the Commission by September 12, 2005, and set forth why the Commission should not find him in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (g) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members. Mr. Zilinski was also told that his written submission should include his position on an appropriate sanction should the Commission determine that the Act was violated. Mr. Zilinski filed a timely response to the Commission's probable cause decision. In his response, Mr. Zilinski again admitted that he sent the April 4, 2005 e-mail with an attachment that contained the names of students suspended from October to November 2004, but he argued that his private action did not compromise the Board and that his release of confidential information to Board members did not needlessly injure individuals or the schools. Mr. Zilinsky indicated that should the Commission find him in violation of the Act, he should only be reprimanded since he inadvertently sent the e-mail and then four minutes later sent the correct file.

FACTS

The Commission based its finding of probable cause on the following facts.

At the time of the allegations in this complaint, Mr. Zilinski and the complainant were members of the Board. The complainant was the Board President at the time Mr. Zilinski sent the e-mail and she recently retired from the Board after being on it for 12 years. Mr. Zilinski is now Board President. Board policy 8330 establishes the process for obtaining and disseminating pupil record information.

In early November, Mr. Zilinski received two anonymous letters regarding student suspensions for dress code violations. He arranged the information from the letter in an Excel spreadsheet so he could better understand it. The Excel spread sheet included the names of the students who were suspended from October to November 2004, the number of days they were suspended, the type of suspension and a reason if the suspension was for a violation of the dress code. Mr. Zilinski named the file "suspensions." After Mr. Zilinski organized the information and reviewed it, he came to the conclusion that it was useless. He made a decision not to turn the information over to the Board President because of a previous negative experience that the Board President had with the administration regarding an anonymous letter. Mr. Zilinski mentioned the letters to a couple of other Board members and they agreed that he should just let the issue die.

On April 3, 2005, Mr. Zilinski found an article in the Star Ledger reporting on how some districts use community service in lieu of out-of-school suspension. He wanted to share this information with the Board so he scanned the article into his computer and named the file "suspensions." On April 4, 2005 at 2:41 p.m., Mr. Zilinski sent an e-mail to the Board and copied himself. The e-mail included an attachment named "suspensions." When Mr. Zilinski reviewed the attachment in the e-mail that had already been sent, he realized that he had mistakenly sent the Excel spread sheet, which contained information regarding the students that had been suspended from October to November 2004. At 2:45 p.m. on April 4, 2005, Mr. Zilinski sent the Board another e-mail with an attachment named "suspensions" that was the Star Ledger article. In the e-mail he said, "Sorry, sent wrong file on previous..... this is the Star Ledger article."

ANALYSIS

The Commission found probable cause that Mr. Zilinski violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) when he sent the e-mail to all Board members on April 4, 2005 with an attachment that contained the names of students suspended from October to November 2004. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) provides:

> I will recognize that authority rests with the board of education and will make no personal promises nor take any private action that may compromise the board.

Mr. Zilinski received the information regarding the students through two anonymous letters and organized it in an Excel spread sheet to make sense of it and then accidentally sent it as an e-mail attachment to the Board. Four minutes after that, he e-mailed the Board with the correct attachment notifying them that the first attachment was the wrong file. Mr. Zilinski did not go to either the Board President or the Superintendent after he had received the two anonymous letters. In his response to the Commission's probable cause decision, he argued that his action did not compromise the Board because only Board members received the e-mail with the confidential information. He also contended that the Board members would otherwise be entitled to the information. However, Board policy 8330 restricts access to pupil records to the pupil's parent or legal guardian, and the Board is permitted access only through the Superintendent. Therefore, the Board would not have been entitled to the confidential information in the e-mail. The Commission also notes that Mr. Zilinski could have inadvertently sent the file containing the confidential information to anyone. His children or spouse could have also accessed the file with the confidential information. The Commission finds that the Board may have been compromised when Mr. Zilinski's inadvertently sent the April 4, 2005 e-mail. Therefore, the Commission finds Mr. Zilinski violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) when he took private action in organizing confidential information containing the names of students in an Excel spreadsheet, which he accidentally sent to the entire Board as an attachment to his e-mail on April 4, 2005.

The Commission also found probable cause that Mr. Zilinski violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g) when he sent the e-mail to all Board members on April 4, 2005 with an attachment that contained the names of students suspended from October to November 2004.N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g) provides:

> I will hold confidential all matters pertaining to the schools which, if disclosed, would needlessly injure individuals or the schools. In all other matters, I will provide accurate information and, in concert with my fellow board members, interpret to the staff the aspirations of the community for its school.

The April 4, 2005 e-mail contained confidential information regarding students including their names and the reason they were suspended if that suspension was due to a violation of the dress code. In his response to the probable cause decision, Mr. Zilinski argued that his e-mail did not result in injury and could not result in injury. However, the Commission again notes that Mr. Zilinsky's children and spouse could have accessed the file with the confidential information and those he sent it to could have inadvertently sent it to anyone. The Commission further notes that Mr. Zilinsky could have used initials rather than full names when he organized the information into an excel spreadsheet. Therefore, the Commission finds that Mr. Zilinsky violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g) when he failed to hold confidential the names of students who had been suspended during October and November 2004.

DECISION

For the reasons discussed above, the Commission finds that Edmund J. Zilinski violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) and (g) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members in the Act. The Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand since Mr. Zilinski immediately advised the Board members that he had sent the wrong attachment.

This decision has been adopted by a formal resolution of the School Ethics Commission. This matter shall now be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction only, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within 13 days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, Mr. Zilinski may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

PETITIONER,

V.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF OLD BRIDGE TOWNSHIP, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, a tenured special education teacher, alleged that the Board violated his tenure rights by terminating his employment as a Subject Area Coordinator, resulting in a reduction in salary and elimination of one of petitioner's contractually delineated duties. Petitioner contends that he attained tenure in the coordinator position by serving the statutorily-prescribed period in the position. Respondent Board maintains that tenure does not attach to a position compensated by stipend.

The ALJ found that: the matter was ripe for summary judgment; service in the title of Subject Area Coordinator leads to tenure as a teacher, not to the specific position of Subject Area Coordinator; the Subject Area Coordinator position was extracurricular; and the petitioner's stipend for work in the position of Subject Area Coordinator was not treated as salary by the Board, and was granted pursuant to another agreement as "extra compensation". The ALJ concluded that the Board did not violate petitioner's tenure rights by transferring him to another teaching position where he does not receive additional Subject Area Coordinator stipend, and ordered the petition dismissed with prejudice.

Upon a thorough and independent review, the Commissioner determined, pursuant to Shriner v. Board of Education of Boonton, 75 S.L.D. 939, that the Board had treated petitioner's stipend position monies as an integral part of his salary. However, nothwithstanding petitioner's loss of compensation due to the non-availability of a coordinator stipend position at his newly assigned school, he suffered no reduction in pay. Rather, petitioner's teaching salary for the 2004-2005 school year increased as a result of his progression on the salary guide. The Commissioner, therefore, determined that there was no relief to be accorded petitioner, adopted the Initial Decision as modified above, and dismissed the instant petition.

JOHN MANLEY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF OLD BRIDGE TOWNSHIP, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions, filed in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, were fully considered by the Commissioner in reaching her determination herein. The Board did not file reply exceptions.

Petitioner excepts to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) conclusion that his compensation for functioning as a Subject Area Coordinator was not treated as an integral portion of his salary by the Board and that he, therefore, possesses no entitlement to these moneys. Rather, petitioner argues, compensation for this position was included in the paycheck he received for his teaching duties and was subject to pension contributions. Thus, petitioner maintains that he is entitled to retain the salary for this additional position even though he no longer serves as a Subject Area Coordinator. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1-2) In support of his argument, petitioner first cites to N.J.A.C. 17:3-4.1 which, he avers, in pertinent part specifies:

> (a) Only a member's base or contractual salary shall be subject to pensioncontributions(1) "Base salary" means the annual compensation of a member, in accordance with contracts, ordinances, resolutions, or other established salary policies of the > member's employer for all employees in the same position, or all employees covered by the collective bargaining agreement, which is reported in regular, periodic installments in accordance with the payroll cycle of the employer. (2) "Extra compensation" means individual salary adjustments which are granted primarily in anticipation of a member's retirement or as additional remuneration for performing temporary duties beyond the regular work day or work year.[1]

> (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2-3)

Although the ALJ determined that "inclusion of his stipend in pension contributions should not affect the tenure analysis" (Initial Decision at 8), pursuant to this regulatory provision, petitioner submits, "such inclusion is the tenure analysis." (Id. at 3) (emphasis in text)

Next, despite the ALJ's Initial Decision discussion of the Commissioner's holding in Shriner v. Board of Education of Boonton, 75 S.L.D. 939, which petitioner advances appears factually identical to the situation here, wherein he recognized

> [t]here it was stated that because the Board incorporated the Petitioner's stipend into his contract salary, and in all other ways treated the stipend as salary (including pension payments), the stipend amount was protected by tenure even though the position for which Petitioner received the stipend was not. (Initial Decision at 8)

the ALJ nonetheless tried to distinguish this matter when he further stated that here "the Respondent did not treat Petitioner's stipend as salary as it was granted pursuant to another agreement and referred to as 'extra compensation.'" (Petitioner's Exceptions at 4) Petitioner maintains that the verbal categorization of these payments utilized by the Board is wholly irrelevant to the analysis. Solely germane, he argues, is that "payment for his duties as Subject Area Coordinator was part and parcel of his salary for his duties as a teacher. The former was an integral part of the latter. Petitioner is therefore entitled to this extra compensation for Subject Area Coordinator, even if he is no longer entitled to the position." (Ibid.)

[1] Petitioner asserts that, pursuant to Siri v. Board of Trustees of the Teachers' Pension & Annuity Fund, 262 N.J. Super. 147, 152 the term "temporary duties" is only applicable in cases where a teaching staff member is temporarily assigned to substitute for the regular holder of the position. (Id. at 3)

Upon careful and independent review of the record, and full consideration of petitioner's exception advancements, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that Summary Decision is appropriately granted to the Board. In so determining, the Commissioner is satisfied -- for the reasons detailed in the ALJ's decision at pp. 3-7 -- that petitioner did not acquire tenure in his coordinator position, nor were the duties of this position other than extracurricular in nature. The crux of petitioner's remaining claim of entitlement to the additional compensation is that, pursuant to Shriner, supra, because the Board incorporated the stipend for his Subject Area Coordinator duties as an integral part of his contractual teaching salary, depriving him of these monies equates to a reduction in salary which -- absent the certification of tenure charges to the Commissioner -- is violative of his tenure rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. The Commissioner finds that, to the extent that Shriner, supra, may be read to provide petitioner relief in this matter, a reasoned reading of this decision in its entirety conclusively demonstrates that, under the circumstances existing here, such is not the case.

In Shriner, supra, petitioner -- a tenured teacher -- also served in the stipended position of athletic director/head of the physical education department, for which he received an additional $550 a year. In 1964, at petitioner's request, the Board incorporated his stipend into a single contract salary for teaching. Thereafter, it provided annual notification to petitioner of renewal of his appointment as a teacher and the athletic director/head of physical education department position at a single designated salary for the ensuing year through the 1972-73 school year, at which time his salary was $16,500. Between May and July 1973, the Board acted to assign the duties of athletic director/head of physical education department to another individual and reduced petitioner's 1973-74 salary by $1,000, the amount he would have received had he continued to serve in his stipend position, which resulted in an overall reduction in salary of $520.[2] On appeal, it was found > that the Board, having incorporated petitioner's stipend for performing as athletic director into his contract salary in 1964, thereafter treated it as a single salary. Payments that were made to the Teacher's Pension and Annuity Fund on petitioner's behalf were computed on the total amount of the contract salary. Such action by the Board is supportive of the conclusion that the Board, while it did negotiate the amount of stipend to be paid an athletic director, looked upon, and in fact established the additional compensation of its athletic director, as an integral portion of his salary as a teaching staff member. It therefore follows that when the Board established petitioner's salary at $15,980 for the 1973-74 school year, it reduced his salary from the $16,500 he was paid in 1972-73 by $520.

> Shriner at 940

As such, the Commissioner held that -- absent the certification of tenure charges -- such reduction was impermissible and must be restored.

However, Shriner's claim of entitlement to a continuing salary that was $1,000 higher than that of other negotiated teaching staff members with equal training, assigned duties and years of experience -- irrespective of the fact that he was no longer performing the duties of the stipend position -- was rejected. Rather, the Commissioner concluded:

> Petitioner has no continuing entitlement beyond 1972-73 to a salary $1,000 greater than that called for in the negotiated salary policy for a teaching staff member of his years and experience, training, and assigned duties. The Commissioner so holds. Consequently, the Board may establish petitioner's salary at $16,500 subsequent to school year 1972-73 until his years of experience entitle him to receive the next increment on his assigned salary scale. (citation omitted) Shriner at 942 (emphasis added)

[2] Such is the case because the Board established petitioner's 1973-74 school year salary at $15,980, which incorporated a scheduled increment progression at the beginning of the school year.

With this background in mind, the Commissioner turns to the factual situation existing in the case at bar. The record reflects that, despite the fact that the within Board did treat petitioner's stipend payment as an integral part of his teaching salary, pursuant to Shriner, supra, and -- notwithstanding his loss of compensation due to the non-availability of a coordinator stipend position at his newly assigned school -- petitioner has suffered no reduction in salary. Indeed, it is uncontroverted that his salary as a teacher for the 2004-05 school year increased as a result of his progression on the negotiated salary guide. Given that petitioner is no longer performing the duties of the coordinator stipend position, and has not been impermissibly reduced in salary, the Commissioner finds and concludes that there is no relief which can be accorded him in this matter.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL, as modified above, is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 10644-04
AGENCY DKT. NO. 368-10/04

JOHN MANLEY,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION,
OLD BRIDGE TOWNSHIP,
MIDDLESEX COUNTY,
Respondent.

Arnold Melk, Esq., for petitioner (Wills, O'Neill & Melk, attorney)

Philip E. Stern, Esq., for respondent (Sills, Cummis, Radin, Tischman, Epstein & Gross, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 31, 2005 Decided: November 4, 2005

BEFORE DONALD J. STEIN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

John Manley (petitioner) is a tenured teaching staff member who alleges that the school district violated his tenure rights by terminating his employment as a "subject area coordinator" for the 2004-2005 school-year. The issue is whether or not petitioner acquired tenure in the coordinator position. Petitioner contends that he attained tenure by serving the statutorily-prescribed period in the position. Old Bridge Board of Education (respondent) maintains that tenure does not attach to a position compensated by stipend.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 21, 2004, petitioner filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education. On December 3, 2004, respondent filed its answer. On December 16, 2004, the Commissioner forwarded the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for handling as a contested case. On June 9, 2005, in lieu of an evidentiary hearing, the petitioner moved for summary decision. On July 6, 2005, respondent filed a brief in opposition to the motion. On July 21, 2005, oral argument was scheduled and heard. The parties requested the record be kept open until the Board had the opportunity to review the settlement proposal by the petitioner. On October 31, 2005, during a conference call, the parties advised that matter could not be settled, and the record closed on that date.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The facts in this matter are not in dispute.

1. Petitioner is a tenured special education teacher of the respondent, Old Bridge Township Board of Education.

2. From the years 2000 to 2004, the petitioner was assigned to an additional position as a Subject Area Coordinator for which he received additional compensation, and was subject to pension contribution. The job description specifies that the petitioner is required to perform some administrative duties, and is required to have a valid New Jersey Instructional Certificate, and appropriate teaching endorsement or eligibility. The additional compensation was described as a stipend (R-1).

3. The petitioner received a single paycheck for both positions.

4. In the Spring of 2004, the petitioner's new contract included the position of Subject Area Coordinator.

5. At the start of the 2004-2005 school-year, the petitioner was reassigned to the Jonas Salk Middle School, where the position of Subject Area Coordinator was not available. He did not receive compensation for the position of Subject Area Coordinator.

The preceding information is undisputed and is FOUND as fact.

CONCLUSION OF LAW

The facts involving this motion are not in dispute. Therefore, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:12.5(b) and Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995), I FIND that there are no genuine issues of material fact and that this matter is ripe for Summary Decision.

Generally, tenure accrues to teaching staff members who work in positions for which a certificate is required, who hold valid certificates, and who have worked the requisite number of years. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 81 (1982). Initially, it takes employment for three academic years and one day for a ten-month employee to acquire tenure. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(b). Any previously-tenured teaching staff member "who is transferred or promoted with his consent to another position" obtains tenure in the new position after employment for only "two academic years in the new position, together with employment in the new position at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year." N.J.S.A. 18A:28-69(b).

The sole issue to be determined is whether the petitioner acquired tenure in the position of Subject Area Coordinator. In order to resolve this issue, the following must be addressed:

1. Does the petitioner need a separate certificate to acquire tenure for his additional job duties?

2. Was petitioner's position an extracurricular stipend assignment, as opposed to a salaried position, and if so were petitioner's duties as coordinator separate from his teaching position?

3. Was petitioner's compensation treated as salary?

ISSUE ONE - DOES THE PETITIONER NEED A SEPARATE CERTIFICATE TO ACQUIRE TENURE FOR HIS ADDITIONAL JOB DUTIES?

The position presently at issue, Subject Area Coordinator, is an "unrecognized position" because it is not listed in the statutes or regulations. N.J.A.C. 6A:9-5.5 (authorizing the use of unrecognized titles). As such, it cannot be one of the separately tenurable positions enumerated in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and, consequently, service in that title does not determine the scope of tenure protections. Gittelman v. Hamilton Twp. Bd. of Ed., supra, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) at 268. Instead, the scope of protection provided by tenure will be determined by the certificates and endorsements required to hold the position. Ibid.

It is well established that "tenure is achieved in a specific 'position', and the scope of the tenured position is initially limited by the 'certificate' the teaching staff member must hold to satisfy the prerequisite of qualifications for his or her employment." Nelson v. Bd. of Ed. of Twp. of Old Bridge, 148 N.J. 358, 366 (quoting, Ellicott v. Bd. of Ed. of Twp. of Frankford, 251 N.J. Super. 342, 348 (1991)). The limitation on the scope of tenure protection applies with the same force to both the positions enumerated by the regulations and to the "unrecognized positions" (those not enumerated by the regulations) authorized by N.J.A.C. 6A:9-5.5. Gittelman v. Hamilton Twp. Bd. of Ed., 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 258, 268 (1994) held that the scope of tenure protection for unrecognized positions is also determined by the certifications and endorsements required to serve in that position.

It is equally well established that no tenure protections flow from extracurricular positions unless the position requires additional certification. Dignan v. Bd. of Ed. of Rumson-Fair-Haven Regional High School, 71 S.L.D. 336, 343, aff'd, St. Bd. of Ed., 74 S.L.D. 1376, aff'd, App. Div., 75 S.L.D. 1083. Connor v. Bd. of Ed. of Twp. Of Cinnaminson, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 861 held petitioner was entitled to extracurricular stipend, because he achieved tenure in the extracurricular position, and that position required a certification other than the Instructional Certificate required to teach. Ocasal v. Elmwood Park Board of Education, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 1997, concluded that nothing in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 can be read to suggest that a district employee working simultaneously in two assignments requiring different certifications should be deprived of tenure in the second position.

However, in the present case, an additional teaching certificate was not required. Thus, all tenure acquired under the Instructional Certificate is achieved in the position of teacher. The tenure achieved through service under that certificate extends only to the position of teacher and excludes extracurricular positions. Duva v. State Operated School District of Jersey City, EDU 9801-98, Final Decision, (March 6, 2002), http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html.

I therefore FIND that since the Subject Area Coordinator only requires an Instructional Certificate (and a subject appropriate endorsement), service in that title leads to tenure as a teacher, not the specific position of Subject Area Coordinator.

ISSUE TWO - WAS PETITIONER'S POSITION AN EXTRACURRICULAR STIPENDED ASSIGNMENT, AS OPPOSED TO A SALARIED POSITION?

Because petitioner is tenured as a teacher, the Board is free to assign him extracurricular assignments that do not entitle him to tenure in that position unless they require certifications beyond those required to teach. As stated above, Subject Area Coordinator does not require any certifications other than those required for teaching.

Thus, "any determination as to whether tenure rights were violated . . . will rest substantially on whether or not the position at issue is, in fact, an extracurricular stipend assignment, as opposed to a salaried position." Barratt v. Bd. of Ed. of Borough of Glassboro, supra, EDU 8784-99, Final Decision, (June 6, 2001), http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html (remanding case to ALJ to determine whether the details of position qualified it as extracurricular). This determination requires an inquiry into the details of the petitioner's workday and compensation. Ibid. If the duties of the extracurricular work are "engrafted" to his duties as teacher, Boney v. Bd. of Ed. of Pleasantville, 71 S.L.D. 579, or if the Board treats his stipend as an integral part of his salary, Shriner v. Bd. of Ed. of Boonton, 75 S.L.D. 939, the petitioner may have an entitlement to the extra compensation, even though he does not have an entitlement to the position.

Petitioner asserts that his duties as Subject Area Coordinator were not extracurricular; that they were engrafted to the duties of his service as a teacher because they were performed during petitioner's work day and were related to the duties which he performed as a teacher.

While the record is relatively bare on the duties required of a Subject Area Coordinator, or how petitioner's day was spent filling those requirements, the fact that those duties were merely "related" to his teaching position, and achieved "during" his work day, seems insufficient to be considered "permanently engrafted" to the duties of a teacher such that they are not extracurricular.

In Boney, the Commissioner held that the petitioner's service as the "chairman" of a department, a position he held in addition to his regular teaching position and which required the same certification, did not entitle him to the compensation given for that additional service. Boney v. Bd. of Ed. of Pleasantville, supra, 71 S.L.D. 579 (Comm'r). The Commissioner stated that, "[he] can find no basis for differentiating between petitioner's extra-duty assignment as a department chairman and the many various other kinds of assignments which other teachers perform." Id. at 583. Significant to the Commissioner's finding was the fact that, "the duties of petitioner as a department chair were not permanently engrafted on his duties as a teacher, either by rule or by the terms of his employment." Ibid. In further explanation, the Commissioner pointed out that the duties were independent of the petitioner's duties as a teacher and that the appointment to the position, like the present Coordinator position, was only for one year and had to be renewed annually. Ibid.

In Barrat, as well as this case, the petitioner performed both his duties as a teacher and his extracurricular duties under a single instructional certificate. Because such service does not generally entitle the employee to tenure protections, an examination of the interaction of the duties was needed to determine whether the non-teaching duties were truly extracurricular. Boney v. Bd. of Ed. of Pleasantville, supra, 71 S.L.D. 579, Barratt v. Bd. of Ed. of Borough of Glassboro, supra, EDU 8784-99, Initial Decision, (January 11, 2001), http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html.

The Job Description for Subject Area Coordinator appears to require only "a handful of extra administrative assignments" which are independent of the duties of a teacher (R-2). While there is not the explicit disclaimer setting forth the independent nature of the two positions as there was in Boney, the responsibilities of the two positions seem to distinguish themselves. Moreover, it appears that time is set aside for completion of the duties of the Coordinator position so that it does not intermingle or interfere with the petitioner's teaching duties.

I therefore FIND that the distinct duties required of each position, and the separate time allotted for each position, indicate that they are sufficiently separate, so that the Coordinator position can be deemed extracurricular.

COMPENSATION IS NOT TREATED AS SALARY

Petitioner can also be found to have an entitlement to the stipend if the Board treated the stipend as an "integral portion" of the petitioner's salary. Shriner v. Bd. of Ed. of Boonton, 75 S.L.D. 939. Thus, petitioner's claim of entitlement to the Coordinator stipend rests largely on the position that, because petitioner received only one paycheck from which pension contributions were withheld, the stipend is part of his base salary (P-1). However, Reinhardt v. Bd. Of Ed. Of Freehold, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 186, 193, stated that it is not relevant how respondent chose to characterize the components of petitioner's compensation package for pension purposes. Thus, petitioner's argument regarding the inclusion of his stipend in pension contributions should not affect the tenure analysis.

This is not to say, however, that the characterization of compensation is entirely irrelevant for tenure purposes. Connor v. Bd. of Ed. of Twp. Of Cinnaminson, supra, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 861, 865, held that where compensation, even though referred to as a stipend, is treated by the Board as salary, it will be considered as such in the calculation of tenurable salary. Ibid.

Significantly, the position for which the "stipend" was paid in Connor was acknowledged by the Respondent Board to be a position in which the petitioner had gained tenure independent of his service in the position for which he received his "base salary." Connor v. Bd. of Ed. of Twp. Of Cinnaminson, supra, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 861, 865. Because Connor had tenure in the stipended position, as acknowledged by the respondent, the characterization of the compensation for the position as a stipend was irrelevant; Connor's tenure in the position entitled him to that compensation regardless of how it was characterized. The same cannot be said in this matter. The petitioner, as discussed above, is not separately tenured in the Coordinator position; he is tenured only as a teacher.

The ruling in Shriner v. Bd. of Ed. of Boonton, 75 S.L.D. at 940, did not depend on this distinction, however. There it was stated that because the Board incorporated the Petitioner's stipend into his contract salary, and in all other ways treated the stipend as salary (including the pension payments), the stipend amount was protected by tenure even though the position for which Petitioner received the stipend was not.

Here, the Board did not treat petitioner's stipend as salary; it is granted pursuant to another agreement and is, therein, referred to explicitly as "extra compensation" (R-2).

CONCLUSION

Because petitioner is tenured only as a teacher under the Instructional Certificate, the Board can assign him extracurricular work to which he has no tenure. For the petitioner to have any entitlement to the extracurricular stipend he must show that either: 1) the duties of the coordinator position were engrafted into his duties as a teacher such that the Coordinator position was not truly extracurricular; or 2) the stipend for his extracurricular position was treated by the Board as salary such that Shriner applies.

Neither of these exceptions applies. The duties of the two positions are sufficiently distinct, and the Board does not refer to the extra compensation as salary but as a stipend. Consequently, the Old Bridge Board of Education did not violate petitioner's tenure rights by transferring him to another teaching position where he does not receive the additional Subject Area Coordinator stipend.

DECISION AND ORDER

I GRANT the respondent's motion and I ORDER the petition DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter has been reviewed. A letter dated November 17, 2005 from petitioner's attorney to the administrative law judge (ALJ) represented that petitioner would withdraw his "complaint" by way of stipulation of dismissal. The Commissioner notes that the documents filed in this matter were a petition and answer, and concludes that it is the petition to which the attorney referred in the correspondence.

Further, since respondent filed no counterclaim, only an executed withdrawal by petitioner is required to end the matter. The Commissioner will regard the stipulation of dismissal executed by the petitioner and submitted on or about November 17, 2005, as a formal withdrawal. Respondent's signature is unnecessary under the circumstances.

The matter is accordingly deemed withdrawn.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SOMERSET HILLS REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, SOMERSET COUNTY	:	DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – formerly employed as Superintendent of Schools by the Somerset Hills Regional School District – claims that his tenure rights were violated when the respondent Board terminated his employment by unilaterally changing the date of his resignation in violation of his contractual rights and school law. Respondent Board argues that petitioner breached his contract by failing to provide the required 90-day notice of his intended resignation.

The ALJ found that: the matter is ripe for summary judgment; the respondent Board's unilateral action in accelerating the effective date of petitioner's resignation violated his statutory rights; and the facts in this matter are virtually identical to those in Charles Soriano v. Board of Education of the Somerset Hills Regional School District, decided by the Commissioner September 24, 2004, aff'd. State Board of Education March 2, 2005, wherein the Commissioner found that the Board forced petitioner's premature resignation and terminated his employment without consent. The ALJ concluded that petitioner's motion for summary decision should be granted, and that respondent should be directed to compensate petitioner consistent with the terms of his employment contract, less mitigation, for the period between the effective date of his unlawful termination and his proffered resignation date of September 2, 2003.

Upon a full and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with ALJ for the reasons clearly presented in his Initial Decision. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL granting Summary Decision to the petitioner is adopted. The Commissioner declines to grant petitioner's request for pre-judgment interest in this matter.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SOMERSET HILLS REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, SOMERSET COUNTY	:	DECISION

The record of this matter an the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions of both petitioner and the Board, and petitioner's reply exceptions -- filed in accordance with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 -- were fully considered by the Commissioner in reaching her determination in this matter.

On exception, the Board essentially recasts and reiterates its arguments advanced below. As the Commissioner determines that a reasoned reading of the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) Initial Decision evidences that all material aspects of the Board's proffered contentions have been effectively addressed and resolved, they will not be revisited herein.

Petitioner excepts to the ALJ's failure to award him pre-judgment interest on his damages in light of "the Board's blatant violation of [his] tenure rights in the face of established precedent." (Petitioner's exceptions at 6)

Upon a full and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), for the reasons clearly presented in his Initial Decision, that the Board's unilateral acceleration of petitioner's resignation date violated his rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.2. The Commissioner is in full agreement with the ALJ that this matter is essentially factually identical to the situation which existed in Charles Soriano v. Board of Education of the Somerset Hills Regional School District, decided by the Commissioner September 24, 2004, aff'd. State Board of Education March 2, 2005, and she emphasizes her acceptance of the applicability of the analysis utilized by the Commissioner in that decision, as modified by the ALJ in his Initial Decision to the situation existing in this matter. Specifically, > regardless of whether this outcome was the result of outrageous connivance, as contended by the Board, or merely a collateral consequence of the [90-day resignation notice required by the contract of employment], as suggested by petitioner, the fact remains that, by unilaterally changing petitioner's proffered resignation date to an earlier one more to the Board's liking, the Board forced petitioner's premature resignation and terminated his employment without consent. Quite apart from the fact that resignation under any circumstances is a voluntary act with which the employee must be in agreement, here, in view of petitioner's undisputed tenure status, unilateral termination of his employment could not be lawfully accomplished in the absence of proceedings pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. Simply put, whatever its feelings may have been about the fairness to the district of petitioner's actions, the Board had no authority to do what it did, and petitioner must prevail on his appeal herein as a matter of law. As petitioner correctly notes, in the context of the claim he has made, other considerations are immaterial and no findings with regard to them can be made on the stipulated facts. (Soriano, supra at 3)

> (Initial Decision at 8-9)

Finally, the Commissioner declines to grant petitioner's request for pre-judgment interest in this matter, in that the record before her does not support a finding that respondent's actions were taken in bad faith or in deliberate violation of the law. (N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(c) 1).

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL granting Summary Decision to petitioner is adopted. The Board is hereby directed to compensate petitioner consistent with the terms of his contract of employment, less mitigation, for the period between the effective date of his unlawful termination and his proffered resignation date of September 2, 2003.

SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6707-03S
AGENCY REF. NO. 297-8/03

RAYMOND D. GUALTIERI,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF SOMERSET HILLS REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT,
Respondent.

Andrew Babiak, Esq., appearing for Petitioner
Philip E. Stern, Esq., appearing for Respondent (Sills Cummis Epstein & Gross, P.A., attorneys)

Record Closed: October 11, 2005 Decided: October 31, 2005

BEFORE ISRAEL D. DUBIN, ALJ:

This is an appeal by a Superintendent of Schools who complains that the Somerset Hills Regional Board of Education unilaterally changed the date of his resignation in violation of his contractual rights and school law. In brief, on or about June 9, 2003, petitioner Raymond D. Gualtieri tendered to the Board his letter of resignation to be effective September 2, 2003. Although the Board accepted his resignation during its regularly scheduled meetings on June 9 and June 23, 2005, it subsequently conducted a special meeting on June 30 at which it adopted a resolution terminating petitioner's employment effective immediately.

Petitioner contends that the Board's action constituted an illegal dismissal in violation of his tenure rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 and is seeking compensatory damages in the amount of $35,344.15 for lost benefits and perquisites, as well as consequential damages for lost interest on his pension account. The Board denies it is under any legal obligation to compensate petitioner, arguing that he breached his contract by failing to provide it with ninety days notice of his intended resignation Petitioner filed his Petition with the Commissioner of Education on August 19, 2003. The Board filed its Answer on September 2, 2003 and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 29, 2003 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13 and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15. Petitioner and the Board filed Cross-Motions for Summary Decision on July 13, 2004 and August 13, 2004, and reply briefs on August 26 and September 9, 2004, respectively. Despite the parties' best efforts, the matter could not be amicably resolved and the record was closed on October 11, 2005.

The material facts necessary for disposition of this matter are undisputed and I therefore make the following findings of fact:

On May 25, 2000, the Somerset Hills Regional Board of Education appointed Dr. Raymond D. Gualtieri to the position of Superintendent of Schools for a term commencing August 1, 2000 and expiring July 1, 2005. The contract of employment contained the following "Termination" clause:

> In accordance with law, during the term of this contract, the Superintendent shall not be discharged, dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity or conduct unbecoming of a Superintendent or other just cause, and then only in the manner prescribed by law. The Superintendent agrees that he shall not terminate this contract except upon giving the Board at least ninety (90) days prior written notice of such election to terminate.
> [Employment Contract, Petitioner's Exhibit A]

On June 3, 2003, the East Hampton Board of Education met and unanimously authorized its president "to sign a four year agreement with Dr. Raymond Gualtieri for the position of superintendent of schools commencing August 1, 2003." Regular Board Meeting Minutes, East Hampton Board of Education – June 3, 2003 (attached to Stern Certification as Exhibit A).

On June 4, 2003, Dr. Gualtieri sent e-mail to the members of the Somerset Hills Regional Board of Education advising them that he had accepted a position with the East Hampton Board as its Superintendent of Schools. In this e-mail, Dr. Gualtieri acknowledged his obligation to provide the Board with ninety days notice and indicated that "With vacation, I will be leaving in August or there about. I will present a letter of resignation at our Board meeting on Monday (June 9). More details to follow, Ray." Gualtieri E-Mail, Petitioner's Exhibit B.

As promised, Dr. Gualtieri submitted his letter of resignation at the Board meeting of June 9, 2003. In the concluding paragraph of this letter, Dr. Gualtieri stated, "I am tendering my resignation to be effective on or about September 2. My last day in the office will be on or about August 1." Letter of Resignation, Petitioner's Exhibit C. At that time the Board apparently met in closed session and adopted a resolution accepting Dr. Gualtieri's resignation "effective on or about September 2, 2003." Minutes – Personnel, Board of Education Meeting of June 9, 2003, Petitioner's Exhibit D. The minutes also included the following handwritten notation: "BOE accepted resignation without date 6/9/03." There is nothing in the record indicating when or by whom the notation was added.

Later that evening the Board met in public session and, by a unanimous roll call vote of 10-0, approved Personnel motion #18 accepting Dr. Gualtieri's resignation "at a date to be determined." Public Input & Action Meeting Minutes – June 9, 2003, Petitioner's Exhibit D, page 2.

On June 17, 2003, the East Hampton Board of Education approved a resolution appointing Dr. Gualtieri as its interim superintendent commencing July 1, 2003 and ending July 31, 2003.[1] Upon learning of the East Hampton Board's action, the Somerset Hills Board met on June 23, 2003 to discuss matters affecting his resignation. Section XV – Personnel – of Addendum I to the Minutes of the Public Input and Action Meeting (Petitioner's Exhibit E) indicates that the Board resolved to accept Dr. Gualtieri's resignation effective September 9, 2003. However, a handwritten notation states that the motion was purportedly "tabled, Board (text apparently redacted), resignation but without a date again." As with the previously mentioned handwritten notation, there is nothing in record indicating when or by whom this notation was made.

On or about June 25, 2003, the Board sent Dr. Gualtieri a Rice notice indicating that matters affecting his employment would be discussed at a Board meeting to be held on June 30, 2003. At that meeting, the Board adopted a resolution making his resignation effective that evening.[2] Dr. Gualtieri's base salary at that time was $145,600 per year.

Summary decision is the administrative counterpart to summary judgment in the judicial arena. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." In order to defeat a motion for summary decision, the adverse party must respond by affidavits setting forth "specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary hearing." Use of the summary procedure is aimed at "the swift uncovering of the merits and either their effective disposition or their advancement toward prompt resolution by trial." Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Wesfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954).

The New Jersey Supreme Court has encouraged trial-level courts "not to refrain from granting summary judgment when the proper circumstances present themselves." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 541 (1995). While cautioning that a judge

[1] Although the parties agree that the East Hampton board took this action, the recommendation made in Item 3 of the Addendum to the Superintendent's Report and Recommendations (attached to Stern Certification as Exhibit B) was not accompanied by an additional entry indicating that a formal resolution had been approved.

[2] Although they agreed that these two actions were taken by the Board, neither party submitted copies of the Rice notice or minutes of the June 30, 2003 meeting.

should not weigh the truth of the evidence or resolve factual disputes at this early stage of the proceedings, the Court clarified that "when the evidence 'is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law,' the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment." Id. at 540 (citation omitted).

Here, a careful reading of the record discloses that the material facts giving rise to this matter are not in dispute. Therefore, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:12.5(b) and Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995), this matter is ripe for Summary Decision.

Dr. Gualtieri asserts that the Board's acceleration of his retirement date violated N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20.2, which reads as follows:

> During the term of any employment contract with the board, a superintendent shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity or conduct unbecoming a superintendent or other just cause and then only in the manner prescribed by sub-article B of article 2 of chapter 6 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes.

The Board demurs, asserting that Dr. Gualtieri breached the 90-day notice provision in his employment contract and thereby waived any rights he may have had under the statute.

The Board has gone to great pains attempting to establish that Dr. Gualtieri failed to provide sufficient notice. Among other things, it has argued that August 1, 2003, Dr. Gualtieri's last day in the office, must be considered the effective date of his resignation. "Thus, as of his first notice to the Board, Gualtieri was giving notice from June 4, 2003, until August 1, 2003, a mere fifty-six (56) days notice of his intention to terminate his employment." Respondent's Brief in Support of Motion for Summary Decision, pg. 4.

Alternatively, the Board has argued that July 1, 2003, the day Dr. Gualtieri began his employment with East Hampton as interim Superintendent of Schools, should be considered the effective date of his resignation. This time, however, it used the June 9, 2003 date of Dr. Gualtieri's letter of resignation as the date of notice to establish that "Gualtieri's ever-dwindling notice of termination was decreasing from fifty-six (56) days to twenty-one (21) days (June 9, 2003, to July 1, 2003)." Id. at 6.

Granted, the June 4, 2003 e-mail may have been inartfully worded and, as a result, left open to interpretation. However, in the context of providing ninety days notice, when Dr. Gualtieri wrote "With vacation I will be leaving in August or thereabout," he must have meant that his last day in the office would be in August and he would thereafter use accrued leave until the effective date of his resignation, which was one of the "details to follow." Otherwise, he would not have deliberately acknowledged that he was required by contract to give such notice.

What is more, Dr. Gualtieri subsequently made his intentions abundantly clear with his June 9, 2003 letter of resignation. In this letter he formally stated, "I am tendering my resignation to be effective on or about September 2. My last day in the office will be on or about August 1." Letter of Resignation, supra. Using these dates, Dr. Gualtieri gave only eighty-seven days notice, three less than the contractual requirement. Nevertheless, by approving a resolution accepting his resignation, albeit at a date to be determined,[3] the Board waived any right it may have had to claim a breach of the notice provision. And even if its acceptance of his resignation did not constitute such a waiver, the fact remains that the Board subsequently passed another resolution on June 23 accepting Dr. Gualtieri's resignation effective September 9,[4] resulting in ninety-two days notice. I therefore find that the notice requirement was honored, and if violated, that the violation thereof was waived.

Much like N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8, which requires a teaching staff member to give at least sixty days written notice of his or her intention to resign, Dr. Gualtieri's contract required him to give the Board at least ninety days prior written notice. And, much like the statute, it did not require the Board to give an equivalent, or for that matter any, notice to him. The one-sided nature of the contract suggests that the underlying intent was to prevent disruption of the students' education. Carrelle v. Board of Education of the Township of Bloomfield, EDU 1852-

[3] As mentioned earlier, the minutes from the personnel meeting that immediately preceded the public meeting indicate that the Board resolved to accept Dr. Gualtieri's resignation effective on or about September 2, without any mention of his failure to comply with the contractual notice requirement.

03, Initial Decision (December 24, 2003) http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html. Although there may be "no good time" for a superintendent to leave, Dr. Gualtieri submitted his letter of resignation on June 9, giving the Board approximately three months to retain the services of an acting superintendent and begin a search for Gualtieri's replacement. In fact, the Board has not argued that the resignation in any way caused such a disruption.

The Board's Brief in Support of Motion for Summary Decision, supra, provides more than ample explanation as to why it acted in such a vengeful fashion, including as it does the following passages:

> Upon receipt of Gualtieri's letter of resignation, the Board immediately recognized that Gualtieri had no intention of honoring his ninety-day notice obligation. Rather, the Board understood that Gualtieri was using the July 1, 2003, date to acquire another year's worth of vacation days, sick leave days, holidays, health care, automobile allowance, medical and visual examinations, disability insurance, universal life insurance, tax sheltered annuity, home office and conversion of benefits, all of which were set forth in his Employment Contract with the Board....
>
> Rather than allow Gualtieri to accomplish his shake down, and benefit from his violation of the Employment Agreement, the Board decided that the prudent course was to wish him good riddance, and, at its Board meeting of June 9, 2003, accepted Gualtieri's resignation....
>

> ... Gualtieri has the audacity to cry foul when the Board decided to send him on his way rather than seek to lift his certification for jumping ship.[5] Gualtieri whines that the Board unilaterally changed his resignation date of September 2, 2003. The Board unilaterally changed nothing – the September 2, 2003, date was a sham,

[4] Given the June 9 resolution accepting Dr. Gualtieri's resignation effective at "a date to be determined," and June 23 resolution fixing that date as September 9, it may well have been that the parties were still in the process of negotiating a mutually acceptable date when the initial resolution was adopted.

[5] See, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 (should a teaching staff member fail to give a board sixty days notice of his intention to resign, "he shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct and the commissioner may suspend his certificate for not more than one year.".

> concocted by Gualtieri to enable him to be paid by both the Board and the East Hampton School District at the same time.
>
> Gualtieri breached his contract by failing to give the Board ninety days' notice. Rather than attempt to pilfer more money from the Board, Gualtieri should count his blessings that the Board was satisfied just to see him leave.
> [Id. at 3.]

The Deputy Commissioner of Education dealt with virtually the exact same set of facts as these in Charles Soriano v. Board of Education of the Somerset Hills Regional School District, EDU 6708-03, Final Decision (September 24, 2004), affirmed, State Board of Education (March 2, 2005) http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html. In Soriano, petitioner, who had already accepted employment with the East Hampton Board of Education along with Dr. Gualtieri, also submitted his resignation with an effective date that enabled him to invoke the negotiated agreement's provision for immediate accrual of twenty-eight vacation days upon July 1, 2003, then requested leave for the period from July 2, 2003 through the effective date of his proffered resignation.

Rather than attempt to "reinvent the wheel," I hereby concur with the Deputy Commissioner's analysis of the issue and, with substitution of the instant facts where appropriate, incorporate it into the body of this initial decision as follows:

> ... regardless of whether this outcome was the result of outrageous connivance, as contended by the Board, or merely a collateral consequence of the [90-day resignation notice required by the contract of employment], as suggested by petitioner, the fact remains that, by unilaterally changing petitioner's proffered resignation date to an earlier one more to the Board's liking, the Board forced petitioner's premature resignation and terminated his employment without consent. Quite apart from the fact that resignation under any circumstances is a voluntary act with which the employee must be in agreement, here, in view of petitioner's undisputed tenure status, unilateral termination of his employment could not be lawfully accomplished in the absence of proceedings pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. Simply put, whatever its feelings may have been about the fairness to the district of petitioner's actions, the Board had no authority to do what it did, and petitioner must prevail on his appeal herein as a matter of law. As petitioner > correctly notes, in the context of the claim he has made, other considerations are immaterial and no findings with regard to them can be made on the stipulated facts.

> [Charles Soriano v. Board of Education of the Somerset Hills Regional School District, supra, EDU 6708-03 at 3.]

Based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that petitioner Raymond D. Gualtieri's Motion for Summary Decision should be GRANTED and that respondent Somerset Hills Regional Board of Education's Cross-Motion for Summary Decision should be DENIED. I therefore further conclude that respondent should be directed to compensate petitioner consistent with the terms of his contract of employment, less mitigation, for the period between the effective date of his unlawful termination and his proffered resignation date of September 2, 2003. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE INCLUSION	:
OF CERTAIN QUESTIONS ON THE	:
BALLOT FOR THE APRIL 2005	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
CAMDEN SCHOOL ELECTION,	:	DECISION
CAMDEN COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner submitted request to the Camden Board of Education (Board) for inclusion of three referendum questions on the April 2005 school elections ballot in the City of Camden; the referendum questions involved, inter alia, school prayer and a Bible-based curriculum. The Board countered that the education laws did not require it to place the proposed referendum on the ballot. Petitioner appealed to the State Board of Education (State Board).

The State Board reviewed the record and determined to dismiss the appeal, as the statutory framework requires that the matter be remanded to the Commissioner pursuant to the original jurisdiction conferred upon her by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

Upon a thorough and independent review of the submissions in this matter, the Commissioner determined that there is nothing in petitioner's brief that would provide a basis for her to retain jurisdiction over the petitioner's claims, which appear to rest upon federal constitutional and State civil rights laws rather than school law. Accordingly, the Commissioner dismisses the petition for lack of jurisdiction.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

AGENCY DOCKET NO. 303-9/05

IN THE MATTER OF THE INCLUSION	:
OF CERTAIN QUESTIONS ON THE	:
BALLOT FOR THE APRIL 2005	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
CAMDEN SCHOOL ELECTION,	:	DECISION
CAMDEN COUNTY.	:

Edward D. Torres, Petitioner Pro Se

Harvey C. Johnson, Esq. for Respondent

The submissions from the parties in this case have been thoroughly and independently reviewed, and the Commissioner has determined to decide the matter on a summary basis, pursuant to the authority granted her by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.12.

The controversy began with a February 2005 request from petitioner to respondent for the inclusion of three referendum questions on the April 2005 school elections ballot in the city of Camden. The questions were as follows:

> 1. Do you as a resident of Camden and a citizen of New Jersey want your Public Schools to open the daily session in prayer in a pledge of allegiance to the god we trust by the children in acknowledgment of God and His son Jesus Christ. The Prayer given to us by His Son Jesus Christ the "Our Father Which art in Heaven hollowed be Thy Name." Yes or No
>
> 2. Do you as a resident of Camden and a citizen of New Jersey want a Holy Bible based curriculum in your Public Schools which teaches the truth and the presence of God as creator in alignment with our New Jersey State Constitution where we are Grateful to Almighty God and looking towards Him for a blessing unimpaired in the endeavor to properly educate our children. Yes or No
>
> 3. Do you as a resident of Camden and citizen of New Jersey want those fellow Camden, NJ residents who are on probation, or parole, or incarcerated for non violent offenses their civil right to vote in Camden School District Elections as a part of the rehabilitation process. Yes or No

Respondent's answer to petitioner apparently came in the form of a copy of a March 15, 2005 letter from respondent's counsel to respondent, outlining the reasons why it would be improper for respondent to place such questions on a school elections ballot. In summary, counsel advised that: respondent had no jurisdiction over the issue articulated in the third question; respondent had no authority under the school laws to place the first and second questions on the ballot; and that the first and second questions were essentially public polls about actions that likely violated federal constitutional rights.

Petitioner submitted to the State Board of Education (State Board) an appeal of respondent's decision not to put the three questions on the April 2005 school elections ballot, and the State Board remanded the matter to the Commissioner.

On November 9, 2005, the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (Bureau) advised the parties that -- after careful review of the file, including numerous pleadings and documents submitted to the State Board, and a petition submitted to the Commissioner on or about September 19, 2005 -- it appeared that the respondent's action had been neither an abuse of discretion nor a violation of school law. The Bureau further advised that petitioner's claims appeared to rest upon federal constitutional and State civil rights laws over which the Commissioner of Education has no jurisdiction. Accordingly, the Bureau afforded petitioner until December 2, 2005 to submit reasons why the Commissioner should not dismiss the matter, and allowed respondent twenty days to submit a reply. Petitioner submitted his brief on or about November 30 and respondent replied on December 6.

There is nothing in petitioner's brief that would provide a basis for the Commissioner to retain jurisdiction over petitioner's claims. First, the Commissioner agrees with respondent that its authority to conduct referenda does not include the issues in petitioner's three questions.[1] Second, petitioner's first and second questions raise federal constitutional issues. While the Commissioner is bound to uphold the federal and State constitutions, she is not empowered to adjudicate constitutional issues. Christian Bros. Inst. v. Northern New Jersey Interscholastic League et al., 86 N.J. 409, 416 (1981). "Administrative agencies have power to pass on constitutional issues only where relevant and necessary to the resolution of a question concededly within their jurisdiction." (Ibid.) Finally, the issue in petitioner's third question has nothing to do with school law, and is consequently outside the Commissioner's authority.

Accordingly, the Commissioner dismisses the petition for lack of jurisdiction.

BEFORE DONALD J. STEIN, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on October 13, 2005, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a settlement agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

ANGELO N. RAIMONDI,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE WESTWOOD REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Westwood Regional School District Board of Education's (Board's) reply thereto were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching her determination.

Initially it is noted that there are no material facts in dispute in this case. The parties filed cross-motions for summary judgment, jointly stipulated to the facts in this matter and are in agreement that the only disputed issues are legal. As petitioner points out in his exceptions, the issues which the parties agreed by joint stipulation to submit to the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) were:

> 1. Whether the Board was legally obligated to comply with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 before it entered into an interlocal service[s] agreement with the Board of Education of [the] Vocational Schools of the County of Bergen pursuant to N.J.S.A. 40:8A-1 et seq., for the services of a school Business Administrator for the period beginning July 1, 2004 and ending June 30, 2006.

2. Whether Raimondi's tenure and years of service in the Westwood Regional School District entitle him to employment as school Business Administrator when the services of a school business administrator are provided by the Board of Education of the Vocational Schools in the County of Bergen under the terms of an interlocal service[s] agreement.

3. Whether the Commissioner of Education's (sic) [has] jurisdiction to hear a claim under the Conscientious Employee Protection Act, N.J.S.A. 34:19-1 et seq. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 3, Joint Stipulation of Facts at 1-2)

With respect to the first issue, petitioner contends that the ALJ did not discuss nor decide the primary issue placed before him by the parties, i.e., the relationship between N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 and N.J.S.A. 40:8A-3. (Id. at 5, 11-12) It is appropriate for the Commissioner to make this determination, petitioner reasons, because the Commissioner's concern with the provision of a thorough and efficient education permeates every aspect of school law and the running of a school district. (Id. at 5)

With regard to this issue, petitioner sets forth his position that the Board should have complied with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 when entering into an interlocal services agreement, and argues that while it may indeed be the case that the interlocal services agreement at issue may have satisfied the dictates of the Interlocal Services Act, that fact is immaterial since Westwood is a school district and the purpose of the interlocal service agreement in this matter was to share the services of a school business administrator. (Ibid.) In that N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 deals specifically and only with boards of education and only with boards sharing either a superintendent or business administrator or both, at minimum, petitioner claims, the Board was also obligated to comply with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 before entering into the interlocal services agreement because -- where there is a conflict between two statutes -- the courts have held that specific statutes take precedence over general statutes. (Id. at 6). Moreover, petitioner asserts, it is possible to interpret the two statutes so that there is no conflict by concluding that the Board is mandated to comply with both statutes. (Id. at 7)

Petitioner further notes that *N.J.S.A.*18A: 17-24.1 -- the more recent of the two statutes -- states that "the decision to share a school business administrator shall be made jointly by the boards of education of the districts, in consultation with the superintendents of the respective districts, subject to the final approval of the Commissioner of Education." (Id. at 8) Thus, petitioner asserts, it is clear that Title 18A must govern herein. (Ibid.) However, the agreement between the two districts in this case was not prepared and submitted for the Commissioner's approval as required by *N.J.S.A.*18A: 17-24.1. (Ibid.) Petitioner therefore, concludes that the actions taken by the Board were *ultra vire*s and, thus, void ab initio. (Ibid.)

Turning to the issue of whether petitioner's tenure and years of service entitle him to employment as the school business administrator when the services are provided under the terms of an interlocal service agreement, petitioner argues that -- assuming the interlocal services agreement is valid -- the Board was required to appoint him as the school business administrator because whenever a tenured employee's position is reduced or eliminated, that employee's ranking gives him preference for the new position within the school district. (Id. at 9) Since petitioner is tenured and has more seniority than the business administrator in the other district, petitioner argues, the Board was required to apply his seniority when appointing the business administrator for the shared school district. (Id. at 10)

With respect to petitioner's contention that the Commissioner has jurisdiction to hear a claim arising under the Conscientious Employee Protection Act (CEPA), petitioner submits that the Commissioner clearly has primary and exclusive jurisdiction to determine the relationship between the Title 40A statute and the Title 18A statute and that his termination, as a tenured employee, involves a matter arising under the school laws. (Ibid.) Moreover, petitioner asserts that his termination was in retaliation for complaints he made with regard to the Board's failure to balance the budget and that issues of budget appropriation have been found to be under the Commissioner's jurisdiction. (Id. at 10-11) Noting that the court found that the Commissioner had jurisdiction to hear and decide a matter arising under the law against discrimination in Balsey v. North Huntingdon Regional Board of Education, 117 N.J. 434 (1990), a case where a female high school student challenged the school district's refusal to allow her to try out for the football team, petitioner reasons that, as long as an issue is appropriately before the Commissioner – in this instance, petitioner's tenure rights and the relationship between N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 and N.J.S.A. 40:8A-3 -- the Commissioner must exercise jurisdiction on all aspects of the matter. (Id. at 11) Petitioner additionally asserts that the ALJ's reliance on Picogna v. Board of Education of the Township of Cherry Hill, 249 N.J. Super. 332 (App. Div. 1991), is misplaced because he is a tenured employee and the court's reasoning that the Commissioner did not have jurisdiction to hear a CEPA claim in Picogna -- i.e., '[t]he contract claim of a non-tenured school employee does not arise under the school laws simply because its outcome may later enable him to obtain tenure under the school laws" (Picogna, supra at 335) -- differs from the situation herein because Picogna was a non-tenured employee. (Id. at 10)

Finally, petitioner objects to the ALJ's finding that there was no evidence of bad faith by the Board, pointing out that the issue of bad faith was not before the ALJ. (Id. at 12) As a practical matter, petitioner muses, it is difficult to envisage a fashion in which an issue of bad faith could be determined on cross motions for summary judgment. (Ibid.)

In reply, the Board submits that what petitioner fails to recognize is the distinction between sharing a business administrator's services and subcontracting those services, which is significant, because different statutes authorize such actions and there are separate and distinct requirements governing each arrangement. (Board's Reply Brief at 5) The Board contends, inter alia, that N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 applies only to districts that have determined to share a school business administrator through a joint decision made between two boards of education, in consultation with their respective superintendents, subject to final approval by the Commissioner. (Id. at 5-6) In further support of its contention, the Board notes that, "[n]otwithstanding the existence of this statutorily prescribed procedure, the Legislature also stated in the same statutory scheme that:

> Nothing in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 shall prohibit a school district from subcontracting its school business administrator to another school district pursuant to the provisions of [the Interlocal Services Act], ... the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 concerning the arrangement to share a school business administrator by two or more districts shall not apply when a school district subcontracts its school business administrator to another school district. [N.J.S.A. 18A:17-14.1]" (Id. at 6)

The Board thus contends that the clear language in the statutes eliminates any doubt that the requirements in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 apply only where two or more districts agree to share a school business administrator and is not applicable to subcontracting such services. (Ibid.)

Instead, the Board claims, a decision to subcontract the services of its school business administrator is governed by the Interlocal Services Act, which provides, in part:

> Any local unit of this State may enter into a contract with any other local unit or units for the joint provision within their several jurisdictions of any service, including services incidental to the primary purposes of the local unit which any party to the agreement is empowered to render within its own jurisdiction. [N.J.S.A. 40:8A-3] (Id. at 6-7)

In this regard, the Board points out that when one district subcontracts the services of a business administrator from another district, there is no employment relationship between the school business administrator and the subcontracting district, and the district which receives the services pursuant to an interlocal services agreement has no authority over employment decisions as it would if it were sharing the school business administrator pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1. (Id. at 7) Moreover, when interpreting statutes, the Board avers that, absent legislative intent, the plain and ordinary meaning of that language should be used, and -- based on the unambiguous language in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 -- it cannot be disputed that the requirements in that statute apply only where two or more districts agree to share a school business administrator, since the Legislature explicitly stated:

> When boards of educations of two or more school districts determine to share a school business administrator, the appointment shall comply with the provisions of section 4 of P.L. 1996, c. 111 (C. 18A:24-1) . . . The provisions of P.L. 1996, c. 111 concerning the arrangement to share a school business administrator by two or more school districts shall not apply when a school district subcontracts its school business administrator to another school district. (Ibid.)

Moreover, the Board argues that the Senate Education Commission's Statement on Assembly Bill 1397 (N.J. 1996), which would become PL. 1996, c. 111, provided that:

> The bill would not affect the ability of a school district to subcontract the services of its school business administrator to another school district. The bill makes it clear that should a district choose subcontracting of a school business administrator over sharing, credit towards tenure acquisition accrues only in the primary district of employment. (Id. at 8)

Thus, the Board argues, the Legislature recognized the distinction between subcontracting for services and the sharing of services, authorizing either action by different statutes and imposing separate and distinct requirements governing such arrangements. (Ibid.)

Contrary to petitioner's argument that N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 must be considered an exception to the Title 40 statute and the Board was, thus obligated to abide by the more specific statute, the Board posits, "N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 cannot be considered an 'exception' to the Act where N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.9 specifically acknowledges the provision of the Act and the interrelationship between the two statutory schemes." (Id. at 9) Moreover, the Board contends, an analysis under general rules of statutory construction argued by petitioner is not applicable in this instance because the Legislature set forth which statutory provision shall control in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.9, which explicitly states that:

> The provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 shall govern the sharing of a superintendent or school business administrator by two or more boards of education and shall not be deemed inconsistent with the provisions of the Interlocal Services Act insofar as that act may authorize the subcontracting of school district administrative services. (Id. at 10)

Additionally, the Board also points out that N.J.S.A. 18A:17-14.1 states that "Nothing in [N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1] shall prohibit a school district from subcontracting its school business administrator to another school district pursuant to the [Interlocal Services Act]." (Ibid.) Thus, the Board concludes, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:17-14.1 et seq. resolved any ambiguities between the new procedure for sharing a business administrator and the existing provision for subcontracting for the services of a business administrator. (Id. at 11) Moreover, the Board argues, the two statutes at issue are not so clearly in conflict that they cannot reasonably stand together because they apply to different factual arrangements. (Id. at 12) Since it is undisputed that the Board complied with the provisions of the Interlocal Service Act and the Legislature specifically stated that the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 do not apply to an agreement to subcontract for the services of a school business administrator under that Act, the Board contends there is no legal support for petitioner's claim that the interlocal services agreement was ultra vires for failure to comply with provisions set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1. (Id. at 16)

With respect to petitioner's tenure rights to the abolished position, the Board sets forth its argument that neither the Interlocal Services Act nor N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 provide for a right of employment to the position of school business administrator based on tenure or seniority. (Id. at 18) In support thereof, petitioner asserts that N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 states that, in a sharing arrangement, tenure acquisition shall accrue only in the primary district of employment and in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.5, "[t]he statutory language is clear that 'in no event shall the districts be required to appoint a tenured individual from within any of the districts to fill a shared position.'" (Id. at 18-19) Moreover, the Board reasons, in that the Board's interlocal services agreement subcontracting the services of a school business administrator is governed by the Interlocal Services Act, only the provision of that Act would apply and N.J.S.A. 40:8A-5(b) clearly states:

> In the case of a contract for the joint provision of services by an officer or employee of a local unit who is required to comply with a State certification requirement as a condition of employment, the contract shall provide for the payment of a salary to the officer or employee and shall designate one of the local units as the primary employer for the purpose of that person's tenure rights. (Id. at 19)

Additionally, the Board asserts that it has the authority to effectuate a reduction in force for appropriate reasons -- such as economy -- and that once the Board abolished its position of business administrator, there was no position in the District for which petitioner had the right of employment based on tenure and seniority. (Id. at 21) Since petitioner did not have seniority or tenure rights with the Vocational Board because he was never employed by it, the Board posits, petitioner could not displace the Vocational Board's business administrator, even if he had more years of service that that individual. (Ibid.) Moreover, the Board points out that, even if it could be concluded that petitioner had tenure or seniority rights to the position of school business administrator provided through an interlocal services agreement, petitioner voluntarily resigned from his position for purposes of retirement and, thus, relinquished his rights. (Id. at 22)

With respect to the Commissioner's jurisdiction over petitioner's CEPA claim, the Board points to Bd. of Ed. of East Brunswick v. Tp. Council East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94, 102-103 (1966) for the proposition that -- where the controversy or dispute does not arise under school laws, even though it may pertain to school personnel -- the Commissioner has no jurisdiction over the matter. (Id. at 23) The Board further argues that the Commissioner thus does not have jurisdiction over petitioner's CEPA claim because it was brought under CEPA, which is clearly not an integral part of Title 18A and, therefore, does not arise under the school laws. (Id. at 23) In addressing petitioner's claim that Picogna, supra, is distinguishable from the matter herein because petitioner had tenure in his position and Picogna dealt with a non-tenured employee, the Board avers that, at no time did the Appellate Division limit the prospective application of its holding solely to cases involving nontenured employees. (Id. at 24) Moreover, the Board contends the court distinguished cases involving tenured employees only to illustrate that even Picogna's alleged tenure claim was not sufficient to bring his CEPA claim within the Commissioner's jurisdiction. (Ibid.)

The Board further argues that, inter alia, while a balanced budget is within the jurisdiction of the Commissioner, whether the Board failed to balance its budget is not an issue in this case. (Id. at 25) Thus, the Board concludes, petitioner's assertion that the Commissioner has jurisdiction over his CEPA claim of alleged retaliatory conduct for complaints he made in regard to the Board's failure to balance the school budget does not make petitioner's CEPA claim a school law controversy over which the Commissioner has jurisdiction. (Ibid.)

Upon a careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the grant of the Board's motion for summary decision in that there are no material facts in dispute and the Board is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) and Contini, supra. In so determining, the Commissioner finds that the Board's decision to subcontract its board administrator services is governed by the Interlocal Services Act, N.J.S.A. 40:8A-1 et seq. Notwithstanding petitioner's assertion that the Board should have complied with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 et seq. when entering into an interlocal services agreement, the Commissioner has concluded, for the reasons that follow, that N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 et seq. is not applicable where -- as occurred herein -- a Board has decided to subcontract its business administrator services.

A review of the clear language of the statutes at issue, N.J.S.A. 40:8A-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 et seq., reveals that these two statutes govern two separate and distinct arrangements for the provision of business administrator services. N.J.S.A. 40:8A-1 et seq. sets forth the process for school districts wishing to subcontract for the services of a business administrator and N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 et seq. sets forth the provisions for sharing the services of a business administrator with one or more other districts. In this instance, it is undisputed that the Board entered into a contract with the Vocational Schools of the County of Bergen for the purpose of subcontracting the services it required. Accordingly, the controlling statute in this matter is N.J.S.A. 40:8A-1 et seq.

The Commissioner is also not persuaded by petitioner's arguments that the Board should be compelled to abide by the provisions of both statutes. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.9 explicitly states that N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 shall govern the sharing of a school business administrator and shall not be deemed inconsistent with the provisions of the Interlocal Services Act governing the subcontracting of such services. Moreover, in reviewing the legislative history for N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 et seq., enacted subsequent to N.J.S.A. 40:8A-1 et seq., it is noted that the Senate Education Commission's Statement on the Assembly Bill explained that "the bill would not affect the ability of a school district to subcontract the services of its business administrator to another school district" and the Statement also made clear that -- for a district choosing subcontracting over sharing of a school business administrator -- credit toward tenure acquisition would accrue only in the primary district of employment.

Additionally, as demonstrated by the Legislative references to N.J.S.A. 40:8A-1 et seq. above, when enacting N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 et seq. the Legislature was clearly aware of the earlier enacted statute which provided for the subcontracting of services. If the Legislature had intended that boards of education subcontracting for the services of a business administrator be governed by the provisions of both statutes, N.J.S.A. 40:8A-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 et seq., as argued by petitioner, it is reasonably inferred that language dictating such dual compliance would be found in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 et seq. Instead, in the same legislation creating the provision for the sharing of business administrator services, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 et seq., P.L. 1996, c. 111, the Legislature specifically addressed the relationship between the two statutes in an amendment to N.J.A.C. 18A:17-24.1:

> . . . The provisions of P.L. 1996, c. 111 (C. 18A:17-24.1 et al.) concerning the arrangement to share a school business administrator by two or more school districts shall not apply when a school district subcontracts its school business administrator to another school district. (emphasis added)

The Commissioner, therefore, concludes that the board was not required to comply with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 et seq. when it subcontracted for the services of a business administrator.

Finally, the Commissioner observes that petitioner submitted his letter of resignation "for the purpose of retirement" on April 8, 2004, effective at the end of his 2003-04 contract. (Petitioner's Exhibit B) On April 8, 2004, the Board passed a resolution accepting petitioner's resignation for the purposes of retirement effective July 1, 2004. (Joint Stipulation at 3, No. 6)

There is no assertion that petitioner was pressured or coerced into resigning his position. In that petitioner ended his employment relationship with the Board by voluntarily tendering his resignation, thus relinquishing any rights he may have had, there is no basis upon which relief could be granted with respect to the other claims raised in his petition, and it is therefore unnecessary for the Commissioner to consider them.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, the Board's motion is granted and the petition is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

INITIAL DECISION

GRANTING SUMMARY DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5904-04

AGENCY DKT. NO.: 172-5/04

ANGELO N. RAIMONDI,

Appellant,

v.

WESTWOOD REGIONAL BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

Sanford R. Oxfeld, Esq., for petitioner
(Oxfeld Cohen, LLC, attorneys)

Rodney T. Hara, Esq., for respondent
(Fogarty and Hara, attorneys)

Record Closed: February 2, 2005 Decided: September 26, 2005

BEFORE JEFFREY A. GERSON, ALJ:

The parties in this case have submitted cross motions for summary decision. Resolution of the motions turn on the following questions:

1. Whether the Respondent was legally obligated to comply with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 before it entered into an interlocal services agreement with the Board of Education of the Vocational Schools in the County of Bergen pursuant to N.J.S.A. 40:8A-1 to 11, for the services of a school business administrator?

2. Whether the Petitioner's tenure entitled him to employment as school business administrator?

3. Whether the Commissioner of Education has jurisdiction to hear acclaim under the Conscientious Employee Protection Act (CEPA), N.J.S.A. 34:19-1 to 8?

DISCUSSION

Facts and Position of the Parties

The Respondent, Westwood Regional School District ("the District" or "the Board"), provides educational services for kindergarten through twelfth grade for students in the Borough of Westwood and the Township of Washington. The Petitioner, Angelo Raimondi, was employed by the Respondent as the board secretary and school business administrator. The Petitioner was employed in this position since 1983 and resigned from this position on April 8, 2004. The Petitioner asserts that his resignation was forced upon him by the Respondent's decision to eliminate his position in favor of an interlocal service agreement with the Board of Education of the Vocational Schools in the County of Bergen ("Vocational Board"). The interlocal service agreement provided that the two boards would share a school business administrator. The Petitioner contends that this agreement is in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1[1] and thus is ultra vires. Therefore, the Petitioner argues that under the Conscientious Employee > may share a superintendent or a school business administrator or both. A shared superintendent or business administrator shall be subject to the same rules governing eligibility for employment as are superintendents or business administrators of a single district. The decision to share a school business administrator shall be made jointly by the boards of education of the districts, in consultation with the superintendents of the respective districts, subject to the final approval of the Commissioner of Education.

[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1, in relevant part, states that two boards of education:

The statute requires that the two districts study the feasibility of sharing a school business administrator, provide for community input and prepare a report for the county superintendent outlining the advantages and disadvantages. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1(a). Since the Respondent contends that it was not required to comply with this statute, there is no dispute that no study was conducted, no community input received and no report was generated.

Protection Act ("CEPA"), N.J.S.A. 34:19-1 to 8, the Petitioner is entitled to the position of shared business administrator by virtue of his seniority and tenure.

The parties have stipulated to the following facts:

1. As a result of his employment with the Board, Raimondi acquired tenure as board secretary/school business administrator in the District.
2. On April 8, 2004, Raimondi submitted a letter of resignation, from the position of board secretary/school business administrator for the purpose of retirement, effective the end of the 2003-2004 school year.
3. On April 8, 2004, the Board passed a resolution accepting the resignation of Raimondi for the purpose of retirement from the position of board secretary/school business administrator, effective July 1, 2004.
4. On April 8, 2004, after passing the foregoing resolution, the Board passed the following resolution:

   WHEREAS, the Westwood Regional Board of Education is desirous of effectuating economies and achieving cost savings to improve the financial condition of the Westwood Regional School District;

   WHEREAS, economies could be effectuated and costs savings can be achieved by entering into an interlocal services agreement with the Board of Education of the Vocational Schools in the County of Bergen for the services of a school business administrator; and

   WHEREAS, an interlocal services agreement has been negotiated with the Board of Education of the Vocational Schools in the County of Bergen for the services of a school business administrator;

   BE IT RESOLVED that the Westwood Regional Board of Education hereby approves the interlocal services agreement with the Board of Education of the Vocational Schools in the County of Bergen for the services of a school business administrator for the period beginning July 1, 2004 and ending June 30, 2006;

   BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Westwood Regional Board of Education authorizes the Board President and the Superintendent of Schools to sign the interlocal services agreement on behalf of the Westwood Regional Board of Education;

   BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that, effective July 1, 2004, the Westwood Regional Board of Education abolished the position of board secretary/business administrator and the job description of the position;

   BE IT FURTHER RESOLBED that, effective July 1, 2004, the Westwood Regional Board of Education adopts the following job descriptions, effective July 1, 2004:

   1. School Business Administrator
   2. Board Secretary

(Exhibit C)

5. Effective July 1, 2004, the services of a school business administrator for the District was provided by the school business administrator employed by the Board of Education of the Vocational Schools in the County of Bergen (hereinafter referred to as "Vocational Board") in accordance with the provisions of the interlocal services agreement between the Board and the Vocational Board. The school business administrator for the Vocational Board, who was employed by the Vocational Board after Raimondi was first employed by the Board, has acquired tenure with the Vocational Board.
6. Effective July 1, 2004, Dr. Roy Montesano, the Superintendent of Schools for the District, also performed the duties of board secretary for the Board.
7. Prior into entering into an interlocal services agreement, the Board and the Vocational Board did not prepare and submit a report to the County Superintendent which outlined the anticipated advantages to the districts, the feasibility of a shared arrangement and a plan explaining how the shared arrangement would operate. As a result, neither the County Superintendent nor the Commissioner of Education approved or disapproved the plan.
8. A report was not prepared and submitted to the County Superintendent for the approval of the Commissioner of Education because it was the Board's position that the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 did not apply when two school districts enter into an interlocal services agreement for the services of a school business administrator. It is, however, Raimondi's position that the Board was obligated to comply with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1.

[Joint Stipulation of Facts, pp. 2-5.]

Because there are no material facts at issue, both parties have moved for summary decision.

The Respondent counters the Petitioner's arguments by asserting that it was not required to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1, since the board was subcontracting for the services of the school business administrator from the Vocational Board. Furthermore, the Respondent argues, that it's actions were not ultra vires since it did comply with N.J.S.A. 40:8A-1 to 11, which governs the procedures for an interlocal services agreement. Additionally, since the Respondent effectively eliminated the Petitioner's position via a reduction in force for the reason of economy, the Respondent contends that there is no position within the District which the Petitioner is entitled to based upon tenure. Finally, the Respondent challenges the subject matter jurisdiction of the Petitioner's claim under CEPA.

Summary Decision Standard

Summary decision is available in the administrative process pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, which provides that summary decision is appropriate when:

> the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. When a motion for summary decision is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. If the adverse party does not so respond, a summary decision, if appropriate, shall be entered.
> [N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b).]

The summary decision rule is substantially the same to that of the summary judgment rule provided by the New Jersey Rules of Court, R. 4:46-2. Contini v. Bd. of Ed. of Newark, 286 N.J. Super. 106, 121 (App. Div. 1995) (recognizing that the summary decision standard in administrative proceedings is substantially similar to that of New Jersey Court Rule 4:46-2). R. 4:46-2 permits a party to move for summary judgment if:

> the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to judgment or order as a matter of law.

The New Jersey Supreme Court in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520 (1995) has indicated that in the analysis of a motion for summary judgment, a motion judge is required to consider "whether the competent evidential material presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged dispute in favor of the non-moving party." Id. at 540. Therefore, where a moving party demonstrates by competent evidential material that no genuine and material issue of fact exists, the Court must grant the motion for summary judgment. Similarly, the rules governing administrative proceedings provide that summary decision may be granted if there is "no genuine issue of material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." Borough of Lincoln Park Bd. of Ed. V. Bd. of Ed. of the Town of Boonton, EDU 5944-02, Initial Decision, (April 2, 2003) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>, modified, Comm'r. (May 15, 2003) <http://www.state.nj.us/njded/news/info.htm>. Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), the determination to grant summary decision should be based on the papers presented as well as any affidavits filed with the application. Ibid.

In the instant matter there are no material factual issues. The facts in this matter are set out in the Joint Stipulation of Facts and the parties have agreed to cross-motions for summary decision. Thus, the only remaining disputed issues are legal.

The OAL has no jurisdiction to hear claims under CEPA

The Office of Administrative Law, like all administrative agencies, has only the jurisdiction that is conferred on it by statute. Borough of Park Ridge v. Salimone, 36 N.J. Super. 485, 495 (App. Div. 1955), aff'd 21 N.J. 28 (1956) (noting that an administrative body has only the authority that is expressly conferred by the legislative enactment); 37 New Jersey Practice, Administrative Law and Practice § 7.6 (Steven L. Lefelt, Anthony Miragliotta, & Patricia Prunty) (rev. 2d ed. 2000). Under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, the Commissioner of Education has jurisdiction only over matters arising under the school law. See Balsley v. North Hunterdon Regional School Dist. Bd. of Educ., 117 N.J. 434 (1990); Bd. of Ed. of East Brunswick v. Tp. Council, East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966).

CEPA was enacted by the New Jersey Legislature in 1986 to protect employees who "blow the whistle" on employers who engage in illegal activity. "Although CEPA has been described as the most far reaching `whistleblower statute' in the nation, it is still a "Whistleblower Act," and not a "Chronic Complainer Act." Blackburn v. United Parcel Services, 3 Fed. Supp. 2d 504, 517-18 (D.N.J. 1998). Therefore, in order to prevail on a claim under CEPA, a plaintiff must show that he or she reasonably believed that the employer's conduct violated either a law, regulation, or rule. Carlino v. Gloucester City High School, 57 Fed. Supp. 2d, 1, 35-36 (D.N.J. 1999). A disclosure that fails to reveal illegal activity also fails as a cause of action under CEPA. Ibid. Here, the Petitioner argues that the basis for his claim is the Respondent's violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1.

However, the plain language of CEPA does not appear to grant jurisdiction to any administrative entity. N.J.S.A. 34:19-5 states that an aggrieved employee may, "within one year, institute a civil action in a court of competent jurisdiction. Upon the application of any party, a jury trial shall be directed to try the validity of any claim under this act specified in the suit." The availability of a jury trial under CEPA points conclusively against a determination that the OAL has jurisdiction because the OAL cannot conduct a jury trial. See Abbamont v. Piscataway Twp. Board of Education, 238 N.J. Super. 603 (App. Div. 1990) (per curiam), rev'd by statute on other grounds, N.J.S.A. 34:19-5, on remand 238 N.J. Super. 603 (App. Div. 1993), aff'd 138 N.J. 405 (1994) (noting that CEPA actions do not augment or parallel any administrative remedy). Abbamont involved a non-tenured teacher who was allegedly terminated for whistle blowing activities. None of the published opinions in the Abbamont case suggested that the Commissioner of Education had jurisdiction over the matter or that any exhaustion of administrative remedies was needed. Consequently, it is clear that under a plain meaning reading of the CEPA statute, the OAL lacks the jurisdiction to hear claims under CEPA. Przygocki v. New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection, CSV 4181-01, Initial Decision, (November 12, 2002), adopted, Merit System Board (January 13, 2003) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html> (noting that the OAL has no jurisdiction to hear claims under CEPA).

The Petitioner argues that Picogna v. Board of Education of Cherry Hill, 249 N.J. Super. 332 (App. Div. 1991), which held that the Commissioner of Education and the State Board of Education had no jurisdiction under CEPA, is distinguishable. In Picogna, supra, the Commissioner and the State Board had affirmed the ALJ's determination that the petitioner, a non-tenured school employee, had waived his right to seek relief from the Commissioner by filing a CEPA claim in the Chancery Division. (Under N.J.S.A. 34:19-8, institution of an action under CEPA is deemed a waiver of rights and remedies available in other forums). The Commissioner and the State Board determined that they had no jurisdiction over the contract claims by the petitioner. Id. at 335. The Appellate Division affirmed. Ibid.

In the case sub judice, the Petitioner's argument that Picogna, supra, is distinguishable and allows CEPA jurisdiction rests upon the premise that the Picogna court's decision was based upon the fact that the petitioner in that case had waived his right to seek relief and the contract claim at issue did not arise under the school law. Thus, the Petitioner contends, this implies that jurisdiction under CEPA would exist if the waiver had not occurred and the claim at issue was within the province of school law. This argument fails. The Picogna, supra, court went onto say that:

> The contract claim of a non-tenured school employee does not arise under the school laws simply because its outcome may later enable him to attain tenure under the school laws; whether petitioner's employment was wrongfully terminated under the contract and under the CEPA is for the court, not the Commissioner to decide.
> [Picogna, supra, 249 N.J. Super. at 335 (emphasis added).]

Thus, as the Respondent points out, nowhere in Picogna, supra, is it implied that the court's conclusion was based upon the tenure status of the petitioner in that case. It seems clear that the court's decision simply followed established precedent that the OAL lacks jurisdiction to hear CEPA claims.

Bad Faith

However, the Commissioner's final decision in Cheloc v. Bd. of Ed. of Elizabeth, Initial Decision, (April 24, 2000), modified, Commissioner, (June 12, 2000) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>, supports the position that the Petitioner's termination can be considered in the context of bad faith. In Cheloc, supra, the petitioner was a tenured assistant board secretary and director of administration. Ibid. The Board reassigned her duties to a new position and the petitioner claimed that this action was retaliation in violation of CEPA for her objections to budget actions. Ibid. ALJ Bari-Brown declined to exercise jurisdiction based upon Picogna, supra, stating, "CEPA claims are beyond the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education." Ibid. In the Commissioner's final decision, the Commissioner declined to reach the ALJ's findings regarding CEPA jurisdiction but instead considered the Petitioner's claims under the "general assertion that the Board's actions were taken in bad faith." Ibid.

"The School Law vests the management of the public school ... in the local boards of education, and unless they violate the law, or act in bad faith, the exercise of their discretion in the performance of the duties imposed upon them is not subject to interference or reversal." Kenney v. Montclair BOE, 1938 S.L.D. 647 (1935), aff'd., St. Bd. at 653 (emphasis added). A board of education has broad discretionary authority and its actions are entitled to a presumption of lawfulness and good faith. Quinlan v. North Bergen BOE, 73 N.J. Super. 40, 46 (App. Div. 1962); see also Schinck v. Westwood BOE, 60 N.J. Super. 448 (App. Div. 1960). This presumption extends to a board's determination that, for reasons of economy, a tenured employee may be subject to a reduction in force. Jamison v. Morris Sch. Dist. BOE, 198 N.J. Super. 411, 415 (App. Div. 1985). Actions of a board of education are entitled to a presumption of correctness, as well as a presumption that such actions will be upheld by the Commissioner of Education, absent a showing of bad faith, illegal motive or a lack of rational basis. See Kopera v. West Orange BOE, 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). Bad faith has been explained as meaning improper or evil purpose or motive. Thompson v. Pleasantville BOE, 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 278, 282 (citation omitted).

The Respondent argues that it eliminated the Petitioner's position for reasons of economy. A local board of education has the authority to engage in a reduction of force, even where tenured positions are affected, if done for reasons of economy. Klinger v. Cranbury BOE, 190 N.J.Super. 354, 357 (App.Div. 1982), certif. denied, 93 N.J. 277 (1983); Trigani v. Monmouth Beach BOE, EDU 8644-00 and 8645-00, Initial Decision, (Oct. 11, 2002), <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search>, adopted, Comm'r (Dec. 2, 2002) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search>. Such decisions are subject to review to determine whether the position has been abolished or merely transferred in violation of the tenure statutes. Viemeister v. Prospect Park BOE, 5 N.J. Super. 215 (App. Div. 1949). In an unpublished opinion, the Appellate Division affirmed that the deciding tribunal (in that case the State Board) should determine whether the local Board's action is arbitrary or capricious in abridging the tenure rights of a teacher.

Lingelbach v. Hopatcong BOE, A-4783-83, slip op. at 3 (N.J. App. Div. May 17, 1985). The applicable statute controlling this issue, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, states:

> Nothing in this title or any other law relating to tenure of service shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article.

A local board of education has the authority to reduce its teaching staff so long as it "is genuinely for reasons of economy." Impey v. Shrewsbury BOE, 142 N.J. 388, 398 (1995) (citations omitted).

> The determination to reduce the teaching force by abolishing positions need not eliminate the services that may be related to those positions. E.g., Klinger, supra, 190 N.J.Super. at 357. (Concluding that a local school board may alter the full-time status of a tenured employee in order to restructure a department to meet financial constraints while continuing to provide identical services). Whether those services are eliminated, reduced or modified, however, may be a relevant factor in determining whether abolition of a position genuinely advances the goals of economy and efficiency and was undertaken in good faith. Cf. Viemeister v. Prospect Park Bd. of Educ., 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218, (App. Div. 1949) (stating that the "substance" rather than the form of change controls and if position of "principal" was replaced with identical position with different title, it would not constitute a valid reduction in force) ...
> [Impey, supra, at 399 (internal citations omitted).]

The Petitioner therefore has the burden of proving, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the abolition of the position was undertaken in bad faith or was arbitrary and capricious or was in any other fashion contrary to the dictates of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9.

Dearden v. Trenton BOE, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 321, 323; Wollman v. Trenton BOE, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 20, 22, aff'd, Comm'r at 27.

> [I]n order for an aggrieved party to prevail where there has been a reduction in force, it is necessary that he or she demonstrate that the decision is clearly improper, arbitrary and capricious and he will be [sic] generally not prevail in situations where there exists any reasonable justification for the reduction absent such proof of bad faith. See Klig v. Borough of Palisades BOE, 1975 S.L.D. 168, 173-174. In re Maywood Board of Education, supra.
> [Wollman, supra, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 24 (emphasis added).]

The Petitioner in this case has offered little to overcome the presumption accorded the Board. The Petitioner asserts that the Board was legally required to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 before it entered into an interlocal services agreement with the Vocational Board. While the Petitioner's assertion might suffice to sustain a claim under CEPA, such a claim must be pursued in the Superior Courts and not in the OAL. Moreover, it does not sustain a claim for bad faith termination. Assuming, arguendo, that the Petitioner is correct that the Board was required to follow N.J.S.A. 18A:17-24.1 in the Board's agreement with the Vocational Board, the Petitioner has not asserted that the Board failed to follow the dictates of that statute for the bad faith purpose of terminating his employment. Nor has the Petitioner asserted the Board's abolishment of his position was based upon other bad faith actions of the Board.

Furthermore, the Petitioner has offered no assertions that he was pressured or coerced into resigning his position. Since there is no assertion that the Petitioner did not voluntarily resign, any right to a tenure claim is waived. See Kimless v. Bd. of Ed. of Woodbridge Twp., 1978 S.L.D. 651. Accordingly, I FIND that the Petitioner's termination was not taken in bad faith and grant summary decision in favor of the Respondent.

ORDER

Summary Decision is GRANTED in favor of respondent and the matter is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

HONORABLE DANIEL J. REIMAN, MAYOR : OF CARTERET, INDIVIDUALLY AND IN HIS OFFICIAL CAPACITY, AND BOROUGH : OF CARTERET, MIDDLESEX COUNTY, PETITIONERS,

V.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,

RESPONDENT.

: COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

: DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners filed a Verified Petition of Appeal alleging that the children of the Carteret School District have been and continue to be denied their right to a thorough and efficient (T&E) education under N.J. Constitution, Article VIII, § 4, ¶ 1. Additionally, petitioners allege that the Borough cannot increase its local tax levy and, as a result, that the Comprehensive Educational Improvement and Financing Act of 1996 (CEIFA) is unconstitutional as applied to the Borough. Respondent contends that: the Borough -- as a municipality -- lacks standing to challenge the District Factor Group (DFG) classification of the Carteret School District, and only the District itself, as the entity subject to the rules of the State Board of Education, may raise the claim at issue; the Borough may not raise the claims of its taxpayers; and the Mayor, as both a taxpayer and Borough official, lacks standing to bring the claims in issue. Respondent filed a motion for summary decision seeking dismissal of the petition.

The ALJ identified standing as the threshold issue in this matter, and found that: Carteret Borough -- and Mayor Reiman in his official capacity -- lack standing to challenge the respondent's Abbott classification of its school district; the responsibility for asserting T&E claims lies with the Borough's District Board of Education; and citizen Reiman may not maintain this action as a taxpayer because he has failed to allege actual harm or a substantial likelihood of same based on the respondent's classification of the Carteret School District. The ALJ concluded that the respondent's motion for summary decision should be granted, and the petition dismissed.

Upon a full and independent review of this matter, the Commissioner determined that there was no genuine issue of material fact in dispute, and granted summary decision to the Department. In so deciding, she found, inter alia, that: petitioners' claim is derivative to the Board's claim; petitioning Borough is barred from bringing its claim as it is a creature of the State; the T&E clause mandates a system of educational opportunity for children, not equitable tax burdens, and accordingly the mayor as an individual citizen is precluded from maintaining this action based on the T&E constitutional provision. The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter, and dismisses the petition.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8564-04
AGENCY DKT. NO. 344-9/04

HONORABLE DANIEL J. REIMAN, MAYOR OF CARTERET, INDIVIDUALLY AND IN HIS OFFICIAL CAPACITY, AND BOROUGH OF CARTERET, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:
PETITIONERS,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions and the Department's reply thereto were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching her decision.

In their exceptions, Petitioners claim that -- although this matter arises in the context of seeking Abbott District status for the Carteret School District (District) -- the relief sought on behalf of the Borough of Carteret (Borough) and its taxpayers in this matter is distinct from that sought in the typical Abbott petition brought by a board of education or parents of school children in the district. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 1) Petitioners submit that the Legislature's enactment of the Comprehensive Education Improvement and Financing Act (CEIFA) of 1996 in response to the Supreme Court mandates in Abbott v. Burke, 119 N.J. 287 (1990) (Abbott II) usurped the control of municipalities and their voting constituents over the portion of the municipal tax levy that must be raised in order to meet pre-calculated and compulsory per-pupil funding levels because, under CEIFA, the State determines the amount needed to provide the thorough and efficient (T&E) education mandated by the State's constitution and "the Borough has no choice but to exact the obligatory local share from its constituent taxpayers and turn those tax monies over in their entirety to the local school district." (Ibid.)

Petitioners assert that the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ's) determination is fatally flawed and must be rejected because the ALJ mischaracterized the nature of their appeal and the relief sought. (Id. at 3) Pointing to the petition at pages 43-58, petitioners aver that their actual claim is that the Department's failure to properly designate the Carteret School District as eligible for Abbott status has resulted in an ongoing disparate and burdensome tax levy upon the Borough and its taxpayers; as a result, the strictures of CEIFA are unconstitutional as applied to the Borough and its taxpayers. (Ibid.) Petitioners allege that the ALJ "transposed and otherwise contorted the nature of the claims to make it appear that the Petitioners are asserting that it can no longer suffer a tax levy that has been 'placed' by the 'State Department of Education,' and that '[a]s a result, petitioners contend that the children of the District' are being denied T&E.'" (emphasis in text) (Id. at 5, quoting Initial Decision at 5) Petitioners maintain that they are not merely asserting a T&E claim on behalf of the District and its pupils, but, instead, are bringing their own claim to vindicate their own interests. (Ibid.) According to petitioners, when a municipality is overburdened to an extent that it interferes with its ability to fund a T&E education, it is not just the school district that suffers the consequences, because the municipality itself is now prohibited -- under CEIFA -- from failing to raise the requisite T&E funds for the District. (Ibid.)

With respect to the nature of the relief sought, petitioners claim that the ALJ again pigeonholed the Borough's claims into the type that only a board of education may bring by miscasting the relief sought as being limited to a change in the District Factor Group (DFG) ranking of the District. (Ibid.) Petitioners note that districts with a DFG ranking of "B" can be designated Abbott Districts if they can demonstrate additional substantial economic hardship and that a DFG ranking of "A" does not automatically confer Abbott status. (Id. at 6) The relief they are actually seeking, petitioners maintain, is the relief set forth in the "Wherefore" clause of the petition -- that the District be afforded Abbott District status. (Ibid.)

Moreover, petitioners argue, in granting the Department's motion to dismiss, the ALJ failed to grant all legitimate inferences in favor of petitioners as set forth by the Supreme Court in Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Company of America et al., 142 N.J. 520 (1995). (Id. at 6-7) In this regard, petitioners contend that, instead of inferring that petitioners have a claim of entitlement to the relief sought, the ALJ "approached his analysis from the inappropriate perspective that the Petitioners had failed to state a claim that 'should be granted,' (decision at p.6), rather than observing the requisite standard of failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted." (emphasis in text, Id. at 7) Petitioners further contend that the discovery necessary to resolve disputed material facts -- "such as the percent differential between the municipality's equalized tax rate and the State tax rate and the use of Free and Reduced Lunch Figures" -- has not even begun, and that the Department based its motion on the premise (disputed by petitioners) that certain indicators are dispositive and insufficient to demonstrate conditions of severe poverty. (Id. at 8)

Pointing to Schierstead v. City of Brigantine, 29 N.J. 220 (1959) (wherein the Appellate Division reversed the Law Division's ruling, stating that the matter should not have been decided on such a barren record by the trial judge) and Muniz v. United Hospitals Medical Ctr. Presbyterian Hosp., 153 N.J. Super 79 (App. Div. 1977) (wherein the dismissal was reversed as premature because plaintiffs were not given the opportunity to amend their complaint and to conduct discovery), petitioners maintain that there is no justification for dismissing this matter outright in that the record in this matter is similarly barren of findings on the key issues. (Id. at 7-8) Additionally, petitioners assert that it may be reasonably inferred from their pleadings that they are entitled to the relief sought in that "it is clear that such relief is within the authority and ability of the Department to grant," and the process outlined in the Commissioner's April, 2003 "Designation of Abbott Districts, Criteria and Process" document permits relief to be granted on a sliding scale. (Id. at 8) Since petitioners have stated a claim on which relief -- whether partial or absolute -- may be granted, petitioners argue that there is no justification for dismissing this matter outright. (Ibid.)

With respect to the petitioning Borough's standing to bring its claims against the Department, the Borough takes issue with the Department's assertion that it lacks standing to bring its claims because it is a "creature of the state," asserting that the Borough has as much right to bring a claim as a board of education does. In support thereof, the Borough points to Board of Ed. of Twp. of East Brunswick v. Township Council of Twp. of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94, 108 (1966), citing Botkin v. Mayor and Council of Borough of Westwood, 52 N.J. Super. 416 (App. Div. 1958), app. dismissed 28 N.J. 218 (the Borough herein avers the borough in East Brunswick "was found to be the sole party in actual interest to proceedings challenging its issuance of a referendum on a school governance issue" [1]), in arguing that an independent governing body that will be adversely impacted by an erroneous action of another governing body has the right, if not the obligation, to seek review. (Id. at 9) Moreover, the Borough contends it has a direct interest sufficient to afford it standing to do so. (Ibid.) Referencing East Brunswick, supra, citing Inglewood v. Los Angeles, 451 F2d 948 and Rogers v. Brockette, 588 F2d. and Botkin, supra, the Borough avers that it is well-settled that municipalities may sue and be sued in civil actions and that "a municipality may maintain an action, including constitutional claims against another municipality, a county, the State, or State department, such as here, provided the municipality is not attacking the laws which created it. (Id. at 9-10) The [1] It is noted that the Commissioner was unable to locate this finding in the Botkin decision.

Borough asserts that there is no dispute that the Borough was not created by either the Department of Education or the State's education laws, but has been unfairly impacted by them. (Id. at 10)

Moreover, the Borough contends that the Abbott cases, specifically Abbott II, supra at 300-301, stand for the premise that "an Act of the Legislature, even having been declared facially constitutional, may be  'unconstitutional as applied' to individuals, and/or to local governmental entities." (emphasis in text) (Ibid.) Thus, the Borough contends, the ALJ misapplied the decision in Stubaus v. Whitman, 339 N.J. Super. 38 (2001), cert. den. 171 N.J. 442 (2002), because he failed to acknowledge that the Stubaus matter involved a claim that CEIFA was unconstitutional on its face, a claim not being asserted by petitioners herein. (Ibid.) The Borough also maintains that the ALJ failed to recognize that what the Appellate Division in Stubaus actually found was that "the school district could not assert a claim for tax relief on behalf of the taxpayers of the municipality, not that a municipality was prohibited from asserting such a claim," nor does Stubaus stand for the proposition that a municipality must first demonstrate that the taxpayers are incapable of bringing their own claim. (Ibid.)

Additionally, the Borough points out that three boroughs raised legal challenges to the equities of the taxation scheme with respect to the funding of the Manchester Regional High School District on their own behalf and that of their constituent taxpayers in matters that were litigated this year before the Appellate Division and the Supreme Court in In the Matter of the Petition for the Authorization to Conduct a Referendum on the Withdrawal of North Haledon School District from the Passaic County Manchester Regional High School District, Dockets No. A-2901-01 and 5788, respectively. (Id. at 11) At no time during this litigation, the Borough contends, was the question of the boroughs' standing to bring the action raised nor have the boroughs ever been required to show that the taxpayers would have difficulty challenging their respective school tax burden on their own.

(Id. at 11-12) The petitioning Borough herein asserts that, in the North Haledon matter, standing was conferred as a matter of course, notwithstanding the status of the boroughs as "creatures of the state." (Id. at 12) Accordingly, the Borough reasons, petitioners in this matter have a similar right to challenge the school tax burden being imposed on the Borough and its taxpayers. (Id. at 12)

The Borough also notes its disagreement with the ALJ's conclusion that standing should be denied to the Borough because no court in this State has yet recognized a borough's standing in a case of this nature. (Ibid.) The Borough submits that the absence of any precedential decisions does not preclude standing in a case of first impression, such as the one herein, and argues that "in In re Camden County, A Body Politic of the State of New Jersey, 170 N.J. 439 (2002), the New Jersey Supreme Court made it clear that the 'only' requirement needed to confer standing is a substantial likelihood of some harm visited upon the plaintiff in the event of an unfavorable decision." (emphasis in text) (Ibid.) In Camden County, the Borough avers, the Supreme Court reversed an Appellate Division determination that had denied standing to a governmental entity which was obligated by statute to contribute to funding operations run by that agency but were not within the entity's purview, finding that "'[a]lthough the mere assertion of a public interest -- even by a governing body -- ordinarily is not sufficient to acquire standing to seek judicial review of an administrative agency decision, the existence of a financial interest that is affected directly by the agency action will confer standing on a governing body.'" (emphasis supplied in text) (Id. at 13-14, citing Camden County at 448) The petitioning Borough, therefore, contends that the Court's holding in that matter -- that the County was entitled to standing in an administrative hearing where a full record could be developed before the State agency made a final determination on the challenged statutory entitlement -- should be applied in this matter so as to permit the Borough to participate in the development of a record, and to argue its case on the merits of its claim. (Id. at 15)

The Borough further excepts to the ALJ's conclusion that its petition should be dismissed because the Carteret Board of Education has a more direct interest in protecting its students' right to a thorough and efficient education. (Ibid.) Petitioners note, as clarified above, that their "claim arises from allegations of harm to the taxpayers and the public fisc, in which the interest of the Borough is clearly more direct than the Board," and argues the Borough is thus properly pursuing this claim on behalf of the taxpayers and other citizens and residents to whom it stands as parens patriae within the ambit of its political responsibility. (Id. at 15-16) The Borough emphasizes that it is the Borough's responsibility to provide mandatory governmental services and competing local service and that its responsibility includes a fiduciary responsibility to the individuals from whom funds are collected, and on whose behalf they are administered and disbursed. (Id. at 16) In this regard, the Borough claims that it meets the requirement for standing because it has a real and sufficient stake in the outcome of whether a district has Abbott status because the gap between educational funding and educational need must be bridged with local taxes, which results in a demonstrable impact upon both its constituent taxpayers and its own municipal finances. (Id. at 16-17)

With respect to whether the petitioning Mayor has standing to bring this action, petitioners vigorously except to the ALJ's conclusion that the Mayor lacks standing because "'he has not alleged that his current tax burden is ...disparate.'" (emphasis in text) (Id. at 17, quoting Initial Decision at 12-13) Petitioners note that it is undisputed that the Mayor is a resident and a taxpayer of the Borough and petitioners have alleged that the Borough's taxpayers are suffering an ongoing disparate tax burden. (Id. at 17-18) Thus, it follows, petitioners argue, that the Mayor's tax burden is disparate by definition. (Id. at 18) Moreover, petitioners point out that the ALJ made this finding having denied standing to the Borough to bring an action such as this on the basis that such taxpayers should bring their own claims, and the Mayor -- as just such a taxpayer – therefore does have standing. (Ibid.) In this regard, petitioners aver that the ALJ misapplied Carlin v. City of Newark, 36 N.J. Super. 74 (Law Div. 1955) as precluding the Mayor from bringing his claims in his official capacity on the basis that his right to bring his action "flowed from his private right to sue," and then failing to apply that same premise to the Mayor's right to maintain the within action in his private capacity. (Ibid., quoting Initial Decision at 8)

Petitioners also take exception to the ALJ's conclusion that the Mayor lacks standing "because he failed to demonstrate which and how municipal services will be impacted by an unfavorable decision," claiming that Brill, supra, requires an assumption that the alleged adverse impact is actionable for purposes of the Department's motion. (Id. at 19) Petitioners assert that the Supreme court in Printing Mart-Morristown v. Sharp Electronics, Inc. 116 N.J. 739, 746 (1989) established the standard for determining the adequacy of a pleading as "whether the cause of action is suggested by the facts" and that the Commissioner in George Osborne v. Board of Education of the City of Lakewood, Ocean County, decided by the Commissioner August 26, 2003, aff'd State Board April 7, 2004, aff'd App. Div. A4775-03T2 May 4, 2005, concluded that "the petitioning taxpayer, merely by virtue of being a taxpayer, was able to demonstrate a sufficient stake in the outcome of the proceedings to confer standing to pursue his constitutional challenge." (emphasis in text) (Ibid.) Petitioners thus conclude that the Mayor herein has similarly demonstrated that, as a taxpayer, he is and will be directly impacted by the Department's determinations as to the District's Abbott status, which governs the calculation of the Borough's local share under CEIFA of 1996. Petitioners, therefore, request that the Initial Decision be rejected in its entirety and this matter be returned to the OAL for proceedings on the merits. (Id. at 19-20)

In response, the Department maintains that the ALJ correctly found petitioners' claim to be derivative to the claims brought by the Carteret Board of Education in that petitioners' appeal alleges that: 1) the Borough's children have been denied their right to a T&E education under the New Jersey Constitution; 2) the school district has been unable to provide a T&E education and its inability to do so can not be remedied by different programmatic and fiscal choices; 3) the Borough's children have been denied a T&E education on a continuing basis; and 4) there are alleged District educational failures. (Department's Reply Exceptions at 1-2) Notwithstanding the raising of separate allegations regarding the effect of CEIFA on the Borough and its taxpayers in the petition, the Department argues, the relief sought by petitioners herein is identical to that sought by the Board; namely, that CEIFA as applied to the District violates the T&E clause of the State constitution. (Id. at 2) Accordingly, the Department contends, petitioners' claim arises under the T&E clause and is, thus, derivative to the Board's claim. (Ibid.)

Citing Robinson v. Cahill, 62 N.J. 473, 513 (1973), cert. denied, 414 U.S. 976 (1973), the Department asserts that the T&E clause was not intended to "insure statewide equality among taxpayers," but, instead, was to insure that students be equipped to compete with relatively advantaged students so that they could become citizens and competitors in the labor market. (Id. at 2-3) In that it is the school district which is enlisted by the State to provide its students with a T&E education and it is the State which ensures that school districts have the means to satisfy the constitutional obligation, the Department argues, it is the District, not petitioners herein, that has standing to raise a T&E claim. (Id. at 3) Moreover, the Department argues, contrary to the petitioners' implication that CEIFA somehow changes the scope of the court's discussion of the T&E clause in Abbott II, nothing within CEIFA suggests that a Borough has a direct interest under the statute to support a T&E claim against the Department. (Id. at 4) Since CEIFA focuses on the child receiving a T&E and the school district that must deliver the constitutionally-guaranteed education, the Department contends, petitioners' attempt to distinguish their claim from the T&E claim raised by the Board must be rejected. (Ibid.)

The Department also takes issue with petitioners' contention that CEIFA directly affects the Borough because the Borough is prohibited from failing to raise the required T&E funds for the District, claiming that such contention is wholly without merit because it is the District, not the municipality, which creates the school budget and the initial determination of the amount of local tax levy to support the budget, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-5 and N.J.A.C. 6A:23-8.1(b). (Id. at 5) Moreover, pointing to Stubaus, supra, at 45-46, the Department avers that districts have some limited discretion in determining the amount of local tax levy and that a district may increase the local tax levy by going beyond the T&E minimum or decrease the local tax levy by spending below the T&E minimum budget. (Ibid.) The Department notes that the school districts -- not the municipalities -- must submit their budgets to the voters for approval and that, in the event that voters reject a proposed budget that is within the T&E range and the municipality reduces the budget, the district may appeal the reductions to the Commissioner on the grounds that the amount is needed to meet core curriculum content standard or long-term planning and budgeting. (Id. at 5-6) Thus, the Department reasons that the Borough's argument should be rejected in that it is the District that must act under CEIFA. (Id. at 6)

The Department further points to the Court's discussion in Abbott II at 355-357, where municipal overburden was discussed in the context of how the poor urban school districts were laboring under tax rates at a level well-above the State average; the Court noted that the school district suffers the consequences of municipal overburden, and it is the school district that is prevented from raising additional funds for its education program. (Id. at 6) Accordingly, the Department concludes, the ALJ properly concluded that petitioners' claim was derivative to the District's claim. (Ibid.)

With respect to petitioners' argument that the ALJ did not grant all inferences in favor of the Borough in determining whether petitioners had failed to state a claim for which relief could be granted as set forth in the Department's motion to dismiss, the Department maintains that the ALJ did not rule on the Department's argument that petitioners failed to demonstrate the educational and poverty failure necessary to bring their claim under the T&E clause, but decided the Department's motion solely on the issue of standing. (Id. at 7-8) Citing New Jersey Citizen Action v. Riviera Motel Corp., 296 N.J. Super. 402, 422 (App. Div. 1997), appeal dismissed, 152 N.J. 361 (1998), the Department contends that a dismissal for lack of standing amounts to a refusal by the court to resolve the matter as opposed to dismissal for failure to state a claim, which occurs only after the court has agreed to resolve a controversy. (Id. at 8) Thus, the Department concludes, the ALJ applied the correct standard in dismissing petitioners' claim. (Id. at 9) Moreover, the Department avers, petitioners' argument that the ALJ failed to apply the proper standard of review must be rejected because the ALJ accepted the allegations in the petition as true for purposes of reviewing the Department's motion, and that petitioners failed to support their argument that the ALJ did not draw all legitimate inferences in their favor in that they did not cite to any specific factual conclusions within the Initial Decision that support their assertion. (Ibid.)

Turning to the question of the Borough's standing, the Department argues that the Borough is barred from bringing its T&E claim because it is a creature of the State and -- as found by the ALJ -- is, thus, not entitled to invoke the protections of the New Jersey Constitution against the State. (Id. at 10) In so arguing, the Department points to Williams v. Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, 289 U.S. 36, 40, 53 S.Ct. 431, 432, 77 L.Ed. 1015 (1933), providing that a municipality, created by the state, may not invoke constitutional privileges or immunities against its creator; City of Newark v. New Jersey, 262 U.S. 192, 196, 43 S.Ct. 539, 540, 67 L.Ed. 943 (1923), providing that a municipality cannot challenge state action on Fourteenth Amendment equal protection grounds; and City of Trenton v. New Jersey, 262 U.S. 182, 188, 43 S.Ct. 534, 537, 67 L.Ed. 937 (1923), providing that a municipality holds its powers and privileges subject to the sovereign will. (Ibid.) Moreover, the Department notes its agreement with the ALJ's analysis that Board of Educ. of the Township of E. Brunswick v. Township Council of E. Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) does not support petitioners' argument that they have standing to bring their constitutional claim against the Department in that the E. Brunswick matter involved a municipality and a school district wherein the court found that the board of education was not prevented from bringing its claim against the municipality because the local board had a direct interest in its claim, and previous cases had occurred between municipalities and autonomous municipal agencies. (Id. at 11)

Additionally, the Department notes that the ALJ distinguished petitioners' claim from Bergen County v. Port of New York Authority, 32 N.J. 303 (1960), wherein Bergen County (County) brought a claim alleging that a State statute exempting the Port Authority property from taxation was unconstitutional. (Id. at 11-12) The court therein found that a "local governmental body may act with respect to property or power it holds for the benefit of its citizens but it may not generally bring a claim on behalf of its citizen taxpayers." (Id. at 12) Moreover, the Department avers, no court has recognized that a Borough or mayor in his official capacity may bring a claim that CEIFA is unconstitutional as applied on behalf of its taxpayers. (Ibid.) The Department observes that previous T&E claims were either brought by the individual students and their parents or the school districts. (Id. at 12-13)

With respect to petitioners' argument that Stubaus, supra, is distinguishable because it involved a school district's standing to bring a third party claim on behalf of its taxpayers, not a municipality, the Department argues that the overriding principle derived from Stubaus is that litigants should be discouraged from asserting the constitutional rights of third parties. (Id. at 13-14) The Department emphasizes that the ALJ noted the limited circumstances where litigants may assert the rights of third parties as set forth in Stubaus, as follows: 1) when a plaintiff finds it difficult to assert his/her own claims; 2) when the third party's rights are likely to be diluted or adversely affected unless they are raised by a plaintiff holding a confidential relationship with the third party; and 3) when a non-profit organization has sued on behalf of its injured members. (Id. at 13) In that none of these circumstances are present in this matter, the Department concludes that the ALJ properly applied Stubaus to petitioners' appeal. (Id. at 14) The Department also contends that petitioners' reliance on North Haledon, supra, is misplaced because that matter involved a withdrawal of a municipality from a regional high school district, not a municipality bringing a claim against a state agency for an alleged T&E claim. (Id. at 14) Standing was not an issue in that matter, the Department maintains, because standing was conferred by N.J.S.A. 18A:13-54 and -55. (Id. at 15) Moreover, the Department points out, North Haledon did not involve a municipality bringing suit against the State, but, instead, was a dispute between the constituent districts and their municipalities. (Ibid.)

The Department contends petitioners' reliance on Camden County, supra, is also unpersuasive because that matter arose from the County's claim that its statutorily authorized contractual obligation to provide a substantial portion of the cost of health benefits for employees who become disabled and are incapacitated. Thus, it did not involve a County bringing a constitutional claim against the State or one of its agencies. (Id. at 16) Moreover, the Department maintains, the Department has not ordered the Borough to directly pay for the District's provision of T&E, and it is not the Borough -- but the taxpayers -- that will be required to pay more money if the local tax levy is increased to accommodate the District's educational needs. (Id. at 17) The Department argues that petitioner's claim, however, falls squarely within the limitations of standing as set forth in Camden, supra at 447, wherein the court found that: 1) "a claim brought based on a perceived public interest is too 'generalized' to confer standing;" 2) "a real and direct interest must be present before granting a third party standing to seek a judicial review of agency action[,]...[c]ounty or local governing bodies generally lack standing to challenge actions of governmental agencies merely because they represent the public;" and 3) "[p]rotecting public interests is important, but it does not take precedence over the need to prevent one governmental body from interfering with the actions of another pubic body." (Id. at 17-18) In this matter, the Department avers, petitioners' interest is the general tax burden. (Id. at 18) Thus, the Department argues, petitioners assertions with respect to the alleged injury to their taxpayers are "too generalized" and do not take precedence over the State's interest in maintaining order within its governmental structure. (Ibid.)

Additionally, the Department asserts that petitioners cannot ignore that they "brought their claim asserting a constitutional educational violation," and that a claim brought pursuant to the T&E clause is not concerned with the Borough's ability to manage its fiscal and political obligations. (Id. at 19) Thus, the Department reasons, "the Borough's ability to manage its financial and political obligations does not make its interests more direct than the District's interests under a T&E claim." (Id. at 20) Moreover, the Department reiterates that municipal overburden as discussed in Abbott II refers to overburden with respect to a school district, not a municipality, and to accept such a remote interest as a basis of standing to bring a T&E claim would divert the focus from the education received to general financial issues of the municipality, which is outside the intent of the T&E clause. (Ibid.)

Finally, with respect to the Mayor's standing to bring his claim, the Department avers that the Mayor is precluded in his official capacity from bringing a claim in this matter, noting that the situation herein differs from that in Carlin v. City of Newark, 36 N.J. Super. 74 (Law Div. 1955) because the claim brought by the Newark Mayor was not a constitutional claim, and his claim was brought by that mayor in his individual capacity. (Id. at 21) Moreover, the Department's position is that Mayor Reiman also does not have standing to pursue a claim in this matter as an individual taxpayer because he has not demonstrated how he will be adversely affected by an unfavorable decision by the Department. (Ibid.) In this regard, the Department notes its disagreement with the Mayor's assertion that he will have to pay the costs of a rising tax levy to support the District's T&E obligation, citing N.J.A.C. 6A:24-7.1(d)5 and Board of Education of the Township of Neptune v. Department of Education, decided by the Commissioner October 20, 2003, in support of its contention that the grant of Abbott status does not guarantee that the tax levy will not be increased. (Id. at 21-22)

Upon a thorough and independent review of the record, the Initial Decision, the parties' exception arguments and the relevant case law, the Commissioner has determined that grant of summary decision to the Department is appropriate in this instance. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) and Contini v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 286 N.J. Super. 106, 121-122 (App. Div. 1995) (citing Brill, supra), summary decision may be granted in an administrative proceeding if there is no genuine issue of material fact in dispute and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law.

In this regard, notwithstanding petitioners' assertion to the contrary, there are no "material facts" in dispute in this matter with respect to the threshold issue of whether petitioners have standing to pursue their claims. Black's Law Dictionary, seventh edition, at 610-611, defines "fact" as "[a]n actual or alleged event or circumstance, as distinguished from its legal effect, consequence, or interpretation" and a "material fact" as "[a] fact that is significant or essential to the issue or matter at hand." The issues characterized by petitioners as "material facts that remain in dispute" as set forth in petitioner's exceptions, such as "the percent differential between the municipality's equalized tax rate and the State tax rate and the use of Free and Reduced Lunch Figures," are facts related to the underlying merits of the case, not to the threshold issue of standing. "It is well-established that where no disputed issues of material fact exist, an administrative agency need not hold an evidential hearing in a contested case." Frank v. Ivy Club, 120 N.J. 73, 98 (1990), citing Cunningham v. Dept. of Civil Service, 69 N.J. 13, 24-25 (1975). "Moreover, disputes as to the conclusions to be drawn from the facts, as opposed to the facts themselves, will not defeat a motion for summary judgment." Contini v. Board of Education of Newark, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 196, 215, citing Lima & Sons, Inc. v. Borough of Ramsey, 269 N.J. Super. 469, 478 (App. Div. 1994); In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Andrew Phillips, School District of the Borough of Roselle, Union County, Commissioner's Decision No. 129-97, decided March 20, 1997; and In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Neal A. Ercolano, Board of Education of Branchburg Township, Somerset County, Commissioner's Decision No. 140-00, decided May 1, 2000. Additionally, the Commissioner agrees that the Department prevails as a matter of law for reasons provided in the Initial Decision and explicated below.

Initially, the Commissioner rejects petitioners' contention that the ALJ mischaracterized the nature of their appeal and the relief sought. Petitioners' appeal alleges, inter alia, that: 1) the children of the Carteret School District have been denied their right to a T&E education on a continuing basis under the New Jersey Constitution (Petition at 9, No. 44); 2) the District has been unable to provide a T&E education, and its inability to do so cannot be remedied by different programmatic and fiscal choices (Id. at 9, No. 43); 3) socioeconomic conditions make it impossible or overly burdensome for the Borough to raise the additional taxes necessary to meet the District's special funding needs (Id. at 9, No. 46); 4) the Borough is prohibited under CEIFA from failing to meet the District's funding requirements (Id. at 9, No. 48); 5) the Department's failure to properly designate the Carteret School District as eligible for Abbott status has resulted in an ongoing disparate and burdensome tax levy upon the Borough and its taxpayers (Id. at 8-9, No. 41) and 6) CEIFA as applied to the District violates the T&E clause of the State constitution (Id. at 10, No. 51).

Notwithstanding petitioners' argument that the raising of separate allegations applicable to the Borough's taxpayers -- i.e., that the Department's failure to properly designate the Carteret School District as eligible for Abbott status has resulted in an ongoing disparate and burdensome tax levy upon the Borough and its taxpayers and, as a result, the strictures of CEIFA are unconstitutional as applied to the Borough and its taxpayers -- the underlying premise of petitioners' claim, as pled in their petition and noted above, is that CEIFA as applied to the District violates the T&E clause of the State constitution. As set forth in Robinson, supra, at 513, the T&E clause was not intended to ensure statewide equality among taxpayers, but, instead, was to ensure that disadvantaged students were able to compete with those who were relatively advantaged. Accordingly, as the ALJ properly determined, petitioners' claim is derivative to the Board's claim.

Moreover, since it is the school district, rather than the Borough, that has the obligation to provide its students with a T&E education, it is the District that has the authority to challenge Department determinations that it believes have had an adverse impact on its ability to provide its students a T&E education. It is instructive that in Abbott II at 355-357, the Court noted that the school district suffers the consequences of municipal overburden, and it is the school district that is prevented from raising additional funds for its education program. Thus, although the Borough argues that the adverse and disparate tax impact of the Department's failure to classify the Borough's school district as an Abbott district gives it standing to challenge the Department's Abbott classification of the District, the Commissioner finds that such argument is beyond the weight of authority.

Additionally, as thoroughly discussed in the Initial Decision, New Jersey courts have consistently held that municipalities have limited grounds upon which to challenge State action. As noted in Stubaus, supra at 48, "courts generally recognize that political subdivisions of the State, including municipalities and local boards of education, lack the legal capacity to challenge State action based on equal protection grounds" (citations omitted). Moreover, the Commissioner concurs that the Borough is barred from bringing its claim because it is a creature of the State and, thus, cannot challenge State action on equal protection grounds. See Williams, supra, (a municipality, created by the state, may not invoke constitutional privileges or immunities against its creator) and Newark, supra, (a municipality cannot challenge state action on Fourteenth Amendment equal protection grounds). With respect to petitioners' reliance on Camden, supra, and North Haledon, supra, the Commissioner finds these cases are inapplicable to this case. Camden arose from the County's statutorily-authorized contractual obligation, not a constitutional claim against the State or one of its agencies; and in North Haledon, a matter involving the withdrawal of a municipality from a regional high school district, standing was conferred by N.J.S.A. 18A:13-54 and -55.

Moreover, it is noted that the Appellate Division in Stubaus concluded that the only parties who possessed standing to challenge the CEIFA funding mechanism were the taxpayers residing in the various school districts. Stubaus, supra, at 52. That court also set forth the limited circumstances where litigants have been permitted to assert the constitutional rights of third parties, i.e.., where third parties find it difficult to bring their own claims, where the third party's rights are likely to be diluted or adversely affected unless they are raised by a plaintiff holding a confidential relationship with the third party and where a non-profit organization sues on behalf of its injured members. Stubaus at 51. Even assuming, arguendo, that the Borough and the Mayor in his official capacity are not precluded from raising a constitutional claim challenging CEIFA as noted above, neither the Borough, nor the Mayor in his official capacity, satisfies these limited circumstances so as to raise these claims on behalf of the Borough's taxpayers.

Finally, with respect to the Mayor's standing as an individual taxpayer to assert his own constitutional rights and to seek invalidation of CEIFA, the Commissioner concurs that, while the "liberal application of the standing rules is particularly appropriate in taxpayer suits" (Stubaus at 52, citation omitted), in this particular matter, petitioner, in his individual capacity, has failed to allege actual harm or a substantial likelihood of same. Furthermore, the essence of such harm as he does allege is not the harm against which the T&E clause protects. T&E mandates a system of educational opportunity for children, not equitable tax burdens. "...[T]he T&E constitutional mandate does not protect taxpayers." (Id. at 56) The Commissioner, therefore, agrees with the ALJ that the mayor as an individual citizen is precluded from maintaining this action based on the T&E constitutional provision.

Accordingly, as articulated above, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision granting the Department's motion and dismissing the within petition for the reasons set forth therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

INITIAL DECISION
SUMMARY DECISION – STANDING
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8564-04
AGENCY REF. NO. 344-9/04

HON. DANIEL J. REIMAN, MAYOR, AND BOROUGH OF CARTERET, MIDDLESEX COUNTY, Petitioners,
v.
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
Respondent.

Nicholas Celso, Esq., for Petitioners (Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler, L.L.P., attorneys)

Michael C. Walters, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent, (Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: April 4, 2005 Decided: August 26, 2005

BEFORE ISRAEL D. DUBIN, ALJ:

On May 27, 2004, the Borough of Carteret Board of Education filed a Verified Petition of Appeal[1] asking the Commissioner of Education to redesignate the Carteret School District as an Abbott district on the basis that the Comprehensive Educational Improvement and Financing Act of 1996 (CEIFA), N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-1 et seq., is unconstitutional as applied to the District. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 14, 2004 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13 and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and assigned OAL Docket No. EDU 8565-04.

On September 27, 2004, the Hon. Daniel P. Reiman, individually and in his official capacity as Mayor of the Borough of Carteret, and the Borough of Carteret itself, filed a Verified Petition of Appeal alleging that the children of the Carteret School District have been and continue to be denied their right to a thorough and efficient education under N.J. Const., art. VIII, § 4, ¶ 1. Petitioners also allege that the Borough cannot increase its local tax levy and as a result, that CEIFA is unconstitutional as applied to the Borough. This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on October 14, 2004 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13 and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and assigned OAL Docket No. EDU 8564-04.

The enactment of CEIFA was in response to the State Supreme Court's ruling in Abbott v. Burke, 199 N.J. 287 (1990) (Abbott II) and its progeny.[2] N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-2(a)(2). The purpose of the Act is to ensure "a through and efficient system of public education which is uniformly applicable to all" school districts through a definition of thorough and efficient educational (T & E) programs, as well as the appropriate funding model to enact such programs. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-2(b). The CEIFA funding model is based upon a core curriculum and has been explained as follows:

[1] The Board subsequently filed an Amended Petition of Appeal on July 8, 2004.
[2] A chronology of Abbott school funding decisions may be found in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480, 490-93 (1998) (Abbott V).

> The core curriculum standards provide a substantive framework detailing what children need to know in order to participate as workers and citizens in contemporary society, which is the goal of a T & E public education system. Abbott v. Burke, 100 N.J. 269, 280-81 (1985) (Abbott I). CEIFA also established a model or prototypical school district that efficiently provides the programs and services necessary for students to achieve the core curriculum standards. Thus, CEIFA established a prototypical program that the Legislature believed would satisfy the T & E constitutional requirements. The per pupil cost to implement the prototypical model, combined with the school district's ability to contribute to that cost, is the basis under CEIFA for distributing State educational aid.
> [Stubaus v. Whitman, 339 N.J. Super. 38, 45 (App. Div. 2001), cert. denied, 171 N.J. 442 (2002).]

CEIFA also includes detailed budgeting provisions that are to be used in arriving at a district's T & E budget. Id. at 46. It is this T & E budget that is used to calculate each district's State educational aid. Ibid. The budget formula is used to establish the local budget share that each district must pay toward the T & E budget and is dependent on "the relative wealth of the school district based on aggregate property values and income." Ibid. As a result, wealthier districts pay a larger share of the T & E budget than poorer, or so-called Abbott, districts. Ibid.

Designation as an Abbott district is "a remedy for poverty and educational failure so substantial, pervasive and durable that targeted efforts simply cannot produce a constitutionally sufficient result." Bacon v. New Jersey Dep't of Edu., Comm'r. Decision (Feb. 10, 2003), at 137[3] <www.state.nj.us/njded/legal/index.html>. To qualify for Abbott status, a district "must show that it has done all it can do with statutorily available resources and improvement mechanisms, yet still cannot provide T&E because the statutory funding scheme generates insufficient monies for this purpose." Id. at 141.[4]

The Department of Education contends that the Borough, as a municipality, does not have standing to challenge the DFG classification of the Carteret School District since it is the District itself, as the entity subject to the rules of the State Board of Education, that may raise the claim at issue. The Department further contends that the Borough may not raise the claims of its taxpayers. And finally, it contends that Mayor Reiman, both as a taxpayer and Borough official, lacks standing to bring the claims in issue. It therefore seeks to have the Verified Petition of Appeal filed by the Borough and Mayor Reiman dismissed.

[3] PDF image at 6.

Petitioner Daniel J. Reiman has brought this action as a citizen, resident and taxpayer of the Borough of Carteret, as well as in his official capacity as Mayor. The Borough, which joins with him in bringing this action, is a public body corporate and politic of the State of New Jersey. An urban municipality with a high population density and poverty rate, it has been designated an Urban Enterprise Zone. Because it is located adjacent to Newark Liberty Airport and the port and rail yards of Newark, which have been designated as "hot spots" by the Department of Homeland Security, it must maintain a specially trained police force. And since it has been cited as having critical infrastructure by the State Division of Fire Safety, it must also maintain a professional Fire Department.

In 2003, the Borough had an equalized property value of $1,485,619,545.00, with an equalized property tax value of $1,303,872,886. The Borough's 2003 equalized tax rate was 2.574, a number higher than the State's average equalized tax rate of 2.094. The voters have defeated thirty-three proposed annual budgets and one building referendum in the past thirty-three years.

The Borough's per-pupil market value in 2003-2004 was $398,125.00, an amount less than the State average of $605,507. The District's free and reduced lunch eligibility rate this past school year was approximately 49%, and more than 20% of the District's students also qualified for free or reduced cost breakfast.

The Department has assigned the School District a New Jersey Department of Education District Factor Group ("DFG") classification of "B." Under CEIFA, the Borough was therefore obligated to provide 46 percent of the District's budget for the 2002-2003 school year and 45.10 percent of the District's budget for the 2003-2004 school year.

Seventy percent of the District's student population consists of minority students. The mobility rate of the District's elementary school students was 20.95 percent and the mobility rate of the District's secondary school students was 22.7 percent during the 2002-2003 school year, when the State averages were 12.8 percent and 10.9 percent, respectively. The dropout rate at the District's high school was 2.7 percent, while the State average was 1.9 percent.

The District's standardized test scores have also been consistently lower than the State average. The standardized tests include the Elementary School Proficiency Assessment (ESPA) in Language Arts Literacy and Mathematics; New Jersey Assessment of Skills and Knowledge – Grade 4 (NJASK4) in Language Arts Literacy and Mathematics; Grade Eight Proficiency Assessment (GEPA) in Language Arts Literacy, Mathematics and Science; and the High School Proficiency Assessment (HSPA) in Language Arts Literacy and Mathematics. The following table summarizes the percentage of the District's students who failed the standardized tests:[5]

Petitioners argue that CEIFA requires the Borough to certify a general fund tax levy to meet the District's needs. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-5(b). They further argue that by failing to certify Carteret as an Abbott district, despite poverty levels and educational failures that fall within the criteria for certification as such, the State Department of Education has placed a continuing disparate and burdensome tax levy upon the Borough and its taxpayers that can no longer be suffered. As a result, petitioners contend that the children of the District have been and continue to be denied their right to a thorough and efficient education under the New Jersey Constitution.

The Department contends that the Borough and Mayor Reiman, in his official capacity, do not have standing to bring this action. The Department also contends that Mayor Reiman, even in his capacity as a private citizen and taxpayer of the Borough, lacks standing to prosecute this claim. It has therefore filed a Motion for Summary Decision seeking dismissal of petitioners' appeal for failure to state a claim that should be granted.

[5] The chart summarizes data from the Petitioner's Amended Petition, pp. 8-9.

Summary decision is the administrative counterpart to summary judgment in the judicial arena. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." In order to defeat a summary decision motion, the adverse party must respond by affidavits setting forth "specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary hearing." Use of the summary procedure is aimed at "the swift uncovering of the merits and either their effective disposition or their advancement toward prompt resolution by trial." Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Wesfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954).

Recently, the New Jersey Supreme Court encouraged trial-level courts "not to refrain from granting summary judgment when the proper circumstances present themselves." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 541 (1995). While cautioning that a judge should not weigh the truth of the evidence or resolve factual disputes at this early stage of the proceedings, the Court clarified that "when the evidence 'is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law,' [citation omitted], the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment." Id. at 540.

Here, a careful reading of the record discloses that the material facts giving rise to this matter are not in dispute. Therefore, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:12.5(b) and Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995), this matter is ripe for Summary Decision.

Standing is "a threshold justiciability determination whether the litigant is entitled to initiate and maintain an action before a court or other tribunal." In re Six Month Extension of N.J.A.C. 5:91-1 et seq., 372 N.J. Super. 61, 85 (App. Div. 2004). In fact, the issue of standing may be addressed even if the parties have not raised it. U.S. v. Hayes, 515 U.S. 737, 742, 115 S.Ct. 2431, 2435, 132 *L.Ed.*2d 635 (1995). In order for a party to have standing, the party must have a sufficient stake in the outcome of the litigation, there must be "real adverseness with respect to the subject matter of the litigation," and there must be a "substantial likelihood that some harm will fall upon [the party] in the event of an unfavorable decision." In Re New Jersey Board of Public Utilities, 200 N.J. Super. 544, 556 (App. Div. 1985), citing N.J. Chamber Commerce v. N.J. Elec. Law Enforce. Comm., 82 N.J. 57 (1980).

The courts of this State have set a relatively low threshold for standing that is more expansive than that found in the federal courts. In re Six Month Extension of N.J.A.C. 5:91-1 et seq., supra, 372 N.J. Super. at 85. And this approach to standing is even more liberal within the State's administrative system. Steven L. Lefelt, Anthony Miragliotta, & Patricia Prunty, 37 New Jersey Practice, Administrative Law and Practice § 7.4, (rev. 2d ed. 2000); Osborne v. Township of Lakewood Board of Education, EDU 6348-02, Initial Decision (May 16, 2003), modified, Comm'r. (August 26, 2003) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>.

However, standing is not automatically conferred, and a litigant will not normally be granted standing to assert the rights of a third party. In re Six Month Extension of N.J.A.C. 5:91-1 et seq., supra, 372 N.J. Super. at 85. Nor will the courts "entertain proceedings by plaintiffs who are 'mere intermeddlers' or are merely interlopers or strangers in the dispute." Stubaus v. Whitman, 339 N.J. Super. 38, 48 (App. Div. 2001), citing Crescent Pk. Tenants Ass'n. v. Realty Equities Corp., 58 N.J. 98 (1971).

As a municipality, the Borough is "a creature of the State" and is therefore prohibited from invoking constitutional claims against its creator. See, City of Newark v. New Jersey, 262 U.S. 192, 43 S.Ct. 539, 67 L.Ed. 943 (1923) (municipality cannot invoke Fourteenth Amendment claims against the State); City of Trenton v. New Jersey, 262 U.S. 182, 43 S.Ct. 534, 67 L.Ed. 937 (1923) (State may delegate powers to or withhold powers from a municipality as it sees fit); Kessler v. Tarrats, 194 N.J. Super. 136 (App. Div. 1984) (as creatures of the State, municipalities retain only those powers granted by the State). To allow a municipality to bring a claim against a state agency would be to disrupt the intergovernmental relationship between municipalities and the State and should therefore be discouraged. County of Bergen v. Port of New York Authority, 32 N.J. 303, 315 (1960) (a municipality may not attack state agencies "solely on the thesis that it represents citizen taxpayers.").

Still, petitioners assert that since the Borough will be adversely affected by the actions of another governmental entity, it has a direct interest in challenging those actions and may even raise constitutional issues in doing so, as long as it is not attacking the very laws under which it was created. However, their argument that the Borough maintains standing to challenge the Department's Abbott classification of the Borough's School District is beyond the weight of authority.

New Jersey courts have consistently held that municipalities have limited grounds upon which to challenge State action. See, e.g., Stubaus v. Whitman, supra, 339 N.J. Super. at 48 ("political subdivisions of the state, including municipalities and local boards of education, lack the legal capacity to challenge state action based on equal protection grounds") (citations omitted). And this is particularly true where, as here, a municipality's cause of action is essentially derivative.

The Borough's claim against the Department is based upon its assertion that the Carteret School District is unable to provide its students with a thorough and efficient education based upon its DFG classification. However, it is not the Borough, but rather its school district, that has the obligation to provide its students with a free and appropriate education. And it is also the District that is subject to the rules adopted by the State Board of Education. Therefore, it is the District that must have, and has, the ability to challenge those determinations of the Department that it believes will have an adverse impact on its ability to provide its students with a thorough and efficient education.

Petitioners' assertion that Carlin v. City of Newark, 36 N.J. Super. 74 (Law Div. 1955), supports Mayor Reiman's right to bring this action is unpersuasive since the mayor in that case did not bring the action in his official capacity, but rather as a "private citizen, property owner and taxpayer of the city." Ibid. Acknowledging that Carlin had the right to "prosecute [the] suit in the interest of the taxpayers," the court went on to state that this right flowed from his private right to sue, not any right that he may have enjoyed in his official capacity as mayor. Id. at 86.

Similarly, petitioners' argument that the Borough may maintain a constitutional claim against a State agency based upon the holding of Board of Educ. of the Township of East Brunswick v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966), is flawed. In East Brunswick, the district board of education brought suit against the township council following the council's reduction of the district's budget by $195,000. Citing Justice Hall's opinion in Botkin v. Mayor and Borough Council of Borough of Westwood, 52 N.J. Super. 416 (App. Div. 1958), appeal dismissed, 28 N.J. 218 (1958), the Supreme Court held that > a board of education ... is an independent governmental entity which is substantially free of any controls by the local governing body. It has been vested by the Legislature with the responsibility of providing suitable school facilities and accommodations and with the right to sue. Where, as here, it was satisfied that the governing body's action was erroneous and would deprive the local school system of necessary teaching staffs and physical facilities, it had the right, if not the obligation, to seek review; clearly, the interest of the local Board of Education was more direct than various interests which have recently been recognized as sufficient under our broad judicial approach to problems of standing.

> [Board of Educ. of the Township of East Brunswick v. Township Council of East Brunswick, supra, 48 N.J. at 108 (citations omitted; emphasis added)]

As in East Brunswick, the interests of the Borough of Carteret District Board of Education must be deemed "more direct" that those of the Borough.

Finally, petitioners' reliance on Bergen County v. Port of New York Authority, supra, 32 N.J. 303, is misplaced. In that case, the county brought an action against the Port Authority seeking a declaratory judgment that the Port Authority lacked legal authority to enter into a lease for property located in the Borough of Moonachie, and that the statute, insofar as it purportedly granted the Port Authority tax exemptions, was unconstitutional. The Supreme Court held that the county did not have an interest sufficient to support the action since the building in question was located in Moonachie, which was the real party with interest. Id. at 311. As the Court concluded:

> It is difficult to foresee all eventualities. It may be that situations will arise in which despite the absence of an intrusion upon the property or political powers of a county or municipality, it may appropriately speak with respect to some hurt experienced generally by its inhabitants. We need not and do not foreclose that possibility. It is enough for present purposes to say that a county > may not sue to determine the jurisdiction of another political agency of the State solely to vindicate the general public right.

> [Id. at 315-316.]

Thus, the Court's primary criterion for a municipality to maintain standing is that it have a sufficient interest and act "within the orbit of its own political responsibility." Id. at 311. Under this criterion, the Borough of Carteret does not have sufficient interest since its T & E claim does not protect the property and power of the Borough. More importantly, the claim is not within the "orbit" of the Borough's political responsibility. Ibid. The responsibility for asserting T&E claims lies with the Borough's District Board of Education, not the Borough or the Mayor in his official capacity.

Petitioners have advanced a rather novel theory of standing, arguing that the Borough's interest lies in the fact that its taxpayers will suffer from the consequences of municipal overburden due to the District's DFG classification.[6] That is, since it is the Borough that must provide the "local share" under N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-5(b), and that burden will be funded through local tax revenues, the Borough has a responsibility to bring this action on behalf of its taxpayers. However, no court in this State has yet recognized standing based on such a tenuous relationship.

To the contrary, in Stubaus v. Whitman, supra, 339 N.J. Super. 38, the Appellate Division concluded that school districts did not have standing to bring suit on behalf of their respective municipalities' taxpayers. The plaintiffs in Stubaus were forty-two middle-income school districts and seven individual taxpayers who challenged the public school funding model established by CEIFA. The gravamen of their complaint was that the funding system "caused disparate tax burdens constituting violations of the equal protection ... and thorough and efficient" clauses of the State Constitution. Id. at 44.

The Stubaus plaintiffs allowed "that a government agency's parens patriae interest in protecting the general public, standing alone, is generally insufficient to support standing to challenge an exercise of power by another agency of the government." Yet, having acknowledged that, they also argued that there is standing when "a public body sues to vindicate its ability to function as contemplated by its enabling legislation." Id. at 49.

The court, however, did not accept the plaintiffs' claim, premised as it was on the argument that middle-income school districts are "irrationally burdened by CEIFA's calculation of local share." Id. at 47. While the school districts may have had standing to challenge T & E educational requirements, they did not have standing to challenge the funding of the "local share." Id. at 50. Rather, the only parties who possessed the standing to challenge the CEIFA funding mechanism were the taxpayers residing in the various school districts. Id. at 52. The court went on to explain its decision to prohibit the school districts from asserting the rights of their taxpayers as follows:

> Although we have allowed litigants to assert the rights of third parties, we have only done so in limited situations. For example, when a plaintiff suffers direct impairment of constitutional rights, that plaintiff may also assert the rights of third parties who find it difficult to bring their own claims. Plaintiff(s) may also raise the constitutional rights of a third party when the third party's rights are likely to be diluted or adversely affected unless they are raised by a plaintiff holding a confidential relationship with the third party. Finally, we have also permitted a non-profit organization to sue on behalf of its injured members. Here, plaintiff school districts have not suffered any direct injury, the individual taxpayers are capable of bringing suit on their own, and the school districts are not members of any non-profit organization. Thus, the districts do not have standing to sue on behalf of the taxpayers.
> [Id. at 51.]

As was the case with the plaintiffs in Stubaus, the Borough and Mayor have not demonstrated that the Borough's taxpayers are having, or have had, difficulty in bringing an action on their own. Nor have they established that they have a confidential relationship with the taxpayers. And it is undisputed that the Borough is not a non-profit organization, as that term is commonly defined. Consequently, neither the Borough, nor Mayor Reiman in his official capacity, possess the requisite standing to raise these claims on behalf of the Borough's taxpayers.

This is not to say that the Mayor, as an individual taxpayer, lacks standing to bring this action. In Stubaus, the court determined that taxpayers had "a sufficient stake in the matter because an adverse decision [would] continue the disparate tax the taxpayers must pay." Id. at 52. In essence, "they [would] be harmed by an unfavorable decision." Ibid. citing In re Charter School Application of Englewood, 320 N.J. Super. 174, 222 (App. Div. 1999), aff'd 164 N.J. 316 (2000). What is more, "liberal application of the standing rules [is] particularly appropriate in taxpayer suits." Stubaus v. Whitman, supra, 339 N.J. Super. at 52, citing Ridgewood Educ. Ass'n v. Ridgewood Bd. of Educ., 284 N.J. Super. 427, 431 (App. Div. 1995). The Court therefore concluded that individual taxpayers had standing to assert their own constitutional rights and seek to invalidate CEIFA.

In Stubaus, the taxpayers argued that the CEIFA funding system not only violated the T & E mandate, but also resulted in a range of property tax rates that established a "system of school funding [which] is irrational and grossly discriminatory." Stubaus v. Whitman, supra, 339 N.J. Super. at 56-57. This, they claimed, violated the equal protection clause on its face. However, the court was not convinced, expressed "unease about pronouncing a willingness to decide the claim on an equal protection basis, and ... reject[ed] any attempt to project equal protection into the school funding dispute." Id. at 60. After expressing "grave doubts about the merits of plaintiffs' equal protection argument," Ibid., the court affirmed the trial court's dismissal of the complaints, stating that even if it were to consider the merits, it would still have difficulties with plaintiffs' claims and would be unable to conclude that plaintiffs had set forth "a viable constitutional challenge based on the equal protection clause." Id. at 61. Based upon the foregoing, the only remaining task is to examine whether citizen Reiman will be harmed by an unfavorable decision.

Mr. Reiman[7] has alleged that the Department's assignment of a DFG classification of "B" to the School District will have an adverse impact on him since "any gap in educational funding must be bridged with local taxes, at the expense of other important municipal services." Petitioners' Supplemental Brief on the Issue of the Mayor's Standing, pg.6, ¶2. However, he has failed to articulate what that adverse impact will be. While he has alleged that he will be injured if forced to pay more taxes, he has not established that the DFG classification will, in fact, result in a tax increase or, at the very least, make one substantially likely. Nor has he identified the "other important municipal services" or demonstrated how they will be affected. Finally, he has not alleged that his current tax burden is presently disparate, or that the failure of his claim will result in a future disparate tax burden. Since he has failed to allege actual harm, or a substantial likelihood of same, he does not have taxpayer standing.

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the New Jersey State Department of Education's Motion for Summary Decision should be GRANTED, and that the Petition of Appeal filed by the Borough of Carteret and the Hon. Daniel P. Reiman, individually and in his official capacity as Mayor, should be DISMISSED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Y.R.L., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, K.L.,

PETITIONER, :

V. : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BERNARDS, ET AL., SOMERSET COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

The record, Stipulation of Settlement and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that neither the file nor the Stipulation of Settlement contains a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement and designating Valarie A. Gogar, Yorven R. Liou and Francis T. Howlett to sign the agreement on its behalf, nor is the agreement signed by the Board attorney, who is the Board's duly authorized representative in litigation. The Commissioner consequently cannot approve the within settlement.

Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for revision of the Settlement Agreement to include either the Board attorney's signature or a Board resolution approving the settlement and designating the above-noted persons to sign on behalf of the Board. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to hearing.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

SETTLEMENT

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4936-05

AGENCY DKT. NO. 160-6/05

Y.R.L. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD K.L.,

Petitioner,

v.

FRANCIS HOWLETT, PRINCIPAL OF WILLIAM ANNIN MIDDLE SCHOOL, BERNARDS TOWNSHIP, AND BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BERNARDS, SOMERSET COUNTY,

Respondents.

Y.R.L., petitioner, pro se

Steven M. Fleischer, Esq., for respondents (Sills, Cummis, Epstein & Gross, attorneys)

Record Closed: November 14, 2005 Decided: November 14, 2005

BEFORE STEPHANIE M. WAUTERS, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on July 19, 2005 for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Petitioners,

v.

BERNARDS TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION and FRANCIS HOWLETT

Respondents.

BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF NEW JERSEY
AGENCY DOCKET NO.: 160-6/05

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

WHEREAS, on or about April 19, 2005, petitioner's son, K.L., was assigned two Saturday detentions; and

WHEREAS, Yorven R. Liou filed a Verified Petition against the Bernards Township Board of Education ("Board" or "District") and Francis T. Howlett (collectively "Respondents") on or about June 22, 2005 appealing this discipline on behalf of his son; and

WHEREAS, respondents expressly deny any wrongdoing and assert that the discipline was properly imposed; and

WHEREAS, the parties have reached an amicable resolution of this matter which protects the interests of all parties and avoids the cost and time necessary to pursue litigation; and

WHEREAS, this resolution serves the public's best interest by avoiding further litigation costs and the uncertainty attendant to litigation;

NOW THEREFORE, the parties agree as follows:

1. Petitioner agrees to withdraw the Petition with prejudice.

2. In complete and full satisfaction of his appeal, petitioner will have the opportunity to have a meeting with the Superintendent of the Bernards Township Schools and Francis T. Howlett to discuss the discipline which is the subject of this appeal. If petitioner would like to avail himself of such a meeting, he will contact the Superintendent within 30 days of the date that this settlement is approved by the Commissioner of Education (assuming such approval is granted). If no request is made by the end of such 30 day period, it will be assumed that petitioner does not wish to have such a meeting and petitioner will have forfeited his right to a meeting.

3. Petitioner expressly understands that the purpose of the meeting is to allow petitioner to express his views on the discipline that was imposed and that respondents may take whatever action they deem appropriate in response to this meeting and that respondents may adhere to their previous position and allow the discipline to stand.

4. Petitioner acknowledges that he has entered into this Agreement voluntarily and entirely of his own free will and that he was not subject to any duress and/or coercion. Petitioner further acknowledges that he has been advised to seek the advice of counsel in connection with the execution of this Stipulation.

5. This Agreement is subject to and contingent upon the approval of the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education. In the event such approval is not secured, this Agreement shall be null and void and the parties returned to their respective positions prior to the execution of this Agreement.
