RICHARD PARISI AND MARSHA PARISI, PETTI1ONERS, V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SADDLE BROOK, BERGEN COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners alleged the Board failed to address their complaints concerning a school custodian. They contended that the Board did not respond to their written complaint, did not investigate their complaint, and denied them the minutes of a meeting at which there was a discussion which led to the denial of their request that the Board reimburse them for legal fees. The Board moved for summary decision, which was in part a motion to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction.

The ALJ concluded that under the circumstances, the portions of the petition concerning petitioners' complaint to the Board and the investigation of the situation should be dismissed for failure to state a claim upon which relief might be granted. The ALJ concluded that the portion of the petition related to petitioners' request for minutes of meetings should be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction. Likewise, the portion of the petition related to reimbursement of legal fees should be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction.

The Commissioner adopted findings and determination in Initial Decision as his own with clarification. The Commissioner concurred that the matter was properly dismissed, in that petitioners failed to state a claim upon which relief could be granted, although the Commissioner admonished the Board for lack of diligence in failing to respond to petitioners' written complaint. Moreover, the Commissioner agreed that he is without the authority to order reimbursement for legal costs. The Commissioner noted that the record did not indicate whether the custodian was a tenured employee. If he was tenured, petitioners failed to assert that the Board erred in not certifying tenure charges to the Commissioner. If he was not tenured, then any disciplinary action taken by the Board against him was not within the scope of the Commissioner's jurisdiction. There being no viable school claim before the Commissioner, the AU correctly concluded that the Commissioner could not reach to petitioners' ancillary claims which arise under the Open Public Meetings Act and the Right to Know Law.

RICHARD PARISI AND MARSHA PARISI,
Petitioners,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SADDLE BROOK, BERGEN COUNTY,
Respondent.

Richard Parisi, pro se

Anthony N. Gallina, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: September 27, 1999 Decided: November 10, 1999

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

Richard Parisi and Marsha Parisi (petitioners) filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education alleging that the Board of Education of the Township of Saddle Brook (respondent) did not respond appropriately to their complaint concerning one of its employees. More specifically, petitioners alleged that respondent did not respond to their written complaint, that respondent did not properly investigate the complaint, that they did not receive any acknowledgment that steps were taken to resolve the matter and that they were denied minutes of a meeting at which there was a discussion which led to the denial of their request that respondent reimburse them for legal fees. Respondent now moves for summary decision.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petition in this matter was filed on March 18, 1999, invoking the Commissioner's authority to hear and determine controversies arising under the school laws pursuant to N.J. S.A. 18A:6-9. Respondent filed an answer on March 31, 1999, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on April 14, 1999, for determination as a contested case.

On August 10, 1999, petitioners filed papers seeking to compel discovery, and respondent filed a response on August 31, 1999. On September 13, 1999, respondept filed its motion for summary decision, and petitioners responded by letter received on September 27, 1999. The discovery dispute was held in abeyance for consideration of respondent's motion for summary decision, which is in part a motion to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction.

MOTION FOR SUMMARY DECISION

A motion for summary decision should be granted where there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). The same standard is applied in the courts of this State pursuant to R.4:46-2. Summary judgment "is designed to provide a prompt, businesslike and inexpensive method" to dispose of actions which do not present any genuine issue of material fact. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954). The movant must show that there is no genuine issue of material fact, and all inferences of doubt are drawn against the movant. Id. at 74-75. However, excessive caution which would undercut the purposes of a motion for summary judgment should be avoided. Pierce v. Ortho Pharmaceutical Corp., 84 N.J. 58, 65 (1980). Thus, if the opposing party offers only facts which are immaterial or insubstantial in nature, this circumstances should not defeat a motion for summary judgment. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. at 75. Although the pleadings may raise a factual issue, summary judgment procedure pierces the allegations in the pleadings, where the other papers show the absence of any genuine issue of material fact. Ibid.

In determining whether there exists a genuine issue as to a material fact, the judge must "consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party in consideration of the applicable evidentiary standard, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995).

Respondent's motion for summary decision has three aspects. First, respondent contends that the Commissioner of Education lacks jurisdiction over this dispute because it does not arise under the school laws. Second, respondent maintains that even if petitioners' allegations are accepted as true, the petition fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted. Third, respondent submitted a certification of its superintendent of schools and based thereon moves for summary decision.

A. Facts

The pleadings and the papers submitted in regard to the pending motions indicate that some of the facts are essentially undisputed. Petitioners' original complaint to respondent concerned William Moscatelli, who is employed by respondent as a custodian. Petitioners and Moscatelli are neighbors. In 1997, petitioners hired Moscate!li to do bathroom renovations. Petitioners were not satisfied with the work done by Moscatefli and dismissed him. The relationship between petitioners and Moscatelli became acrimonious, and subsequently, petitioners filed suit against Moscatelli and obtained a refund of $1,100. Thereafter, petitioners made various complaints to respondent about Moscatelli with the result that he charged Richard Parisi with harassment. As a result of these proceedings, petitioners incurred legal fees of approximately $2,000.

Petitioners' allegations against the employee are as follows. During the course of the dispute, there were several verbal confrontations between petitioners and Moscatelli. Petitioners maintain that Moscatelli was wearing his work uniform or driving one of respondent's vehicle when some of these confrontations occurred. In addition, petitioners allege that Moscatelli used highly offensive language in front of their children. Richard Parisi expresses concern for the safety of his wife and their children. The three children attend the school to which Moscatelli is assigned. Petitioners further allege that respondent did not respond to their complaint about Moscatelli or conduct an appropriate investigation.

The certification of respondent's superintendent of schools indicates as follows. Respondent referred petitioners' complaint to Superintendent of Schools Harry A Groveman. Superintendent Groveman conducted an investigation and met with Moscatelli and his supervisor. Superintendent Groveman gave Moscatelli a verbal warning but did not recommend that respondent take any action against Moscatelli. Superintendent Groveman spoke with Richard Parisi on four or more occasions and advised him as to the results of the investigation. Subsequently, respondent made a determination to deny petitioners' request for reimbursement of legal fees.

B. Law and Analysis

The Commissioner of Education has authority to hear and determine all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. In addition, the Commissioner of Education has ancillary jurisdiction concurrent with the Superior Court of New Jersey to resolve alleged violations of the Open Public Meetings Act that arise in connection with a controversy under the school laws. Sukin v. Northfield Bd. of Ed., 171 N.J. Super. 184, 187 (App. Div. 1979). The question under the Open Public Meetings Act must have a significant nexus to the underlying school law issue. Rovello v. Hopewell Valley Reg. Sch. Dist. Bd. of Ed., 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 313. Where a dispute does not arise under the school laws, it is outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction even though it may pertain to school personnel. Bd. of Ed., E. Brunswick Tp. v. Tp. Council, E. Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94, 102 (1966).

Here, petitioners did not cite any statute or regulation in their petition, and in response to respondent's motion, petitioners cite only N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.16, which authorizes the Commissioner to award interest under certain circumstances. However, it is evident that the petition, while not artfully drawn, relates in substance to possible discipline of an employee by a board of education. This type of dispute would fall within the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education.

The legal fees in question relate to a dispute over bathroom renovations and defense of a charge of harassment against Richard Parisi in municipal court. While these matters involved a school employee, the disputes did not in any way involve the school laws. It follows that the Commissioner of Education does not have jurisdiction over petitioners' request for legal fees.

Petitioners allege that respondent denied their request for minutes of meetings. The petition refers to the Right to Know Law, while respondent cited the Open Public Meetings Act, N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 to -21. The question whether the Commissioner of Education has jurisdiction over this issue will be addressed after consideration of the other portions of the motion for summary decision.

Respondent maintains that even if petitioners' allegations are accepted as true, the petition fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. In addition, respondent submitted Superintendent Groveman's certification, which contradicts the allegations in the petition concerning petitioners' complaint.

Superintendent Groveman's certification is based on his personal knowledge and appears to be fully credible. Petitioners had no personal knowledge of Superintendent Groveman's investigation, and they offered no evidential materials to raise a genuine issue of material fact concerning his assertions. In accordance with the standard set forth in Brill, Superintendent Groveman's certification is accepted as true. Briefly, Superintendent Groveman conducted an investigation which included interviews of Moscatelli and his supervisor. The meetings were informal, and Superintendent Groveman gave Moscatelli a verbal warning. Superintendent Groveman spoke with Richard Parisi on four or more occasions and advised him as to the results of the investigation. Under the circumstances, the conclusion is warranted that Superintendent Groveman conducted an appropriate investigation of petitioners' complaint.

In addition to the lack of factual support, petitioners' position has no basis in law. In essence, petitioners want the Commissioner of Education to compel respondent to take certain steps which would lead to disciplinary action against Moscatelli. However, discipline of an employee of a school district is governed by statutes and regulations which provide for specific procedures and strict procedural safeguards. See N.J.S.A. 1BA:6-11. Under these procedures, it is not the function of the Commissioner of Education to review a school district's decision to investigate an employee or a determination not to bring charges. Under the circumstances, the portions of the petition concerning petitioners' complaint to respondent and the investigation of the situation should be dismissed for failure to state a claim upon which relief may be granted.

The remaining question concerns the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education over the alleged denial of petitioners' request for minutes of meetings. In view of the above determinations, there is no pending dispute or controversy under the school laws. In the absence of a dispute arising under the school laws, the Commissioner of Education does not have ancillary jurisdiction over an alleged violation of the Right to Know Law or the Open Public Meetings Act. It follows that the portion of the petition related to petitioners' request for minutes of meetings should be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction.

In view of the above, I CONCLUDE that the portions of the petition related to reimbursement for legal fees and petitioners' request for minutes of meetings should be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction and that respondent's motion for summary decision should be granted in regard to the portions of the petition related to petitioners' complaint concerning Moscateili.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the petition in this matter be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SADDLE BROOK, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs that this matter is properly dismissed, in that petitioners fail to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.[1] First, as the Administrative Law Judge (AU) noted, petitioners' request for reimbursement of legal fees does not arise under the school laws, so that the Commissioner is without the authority to order reimbursement to petitioners for such costs.

Further, petitioners demand reasons why the Board failed to respond to their written complaint, pursuant to Board Policy No. 9130, which establishes procedures for addressing written complaints and grievances presented by the public. Although the Commissioner notes that the record does support petitioners' claim, and the Board is hereby reminded of the need to comply with its own policies,[2] at this point in the proceedings, there is no meaningful relief which the Commissioner may grant petitioners as a result.

[1] Petitioners request the following relief: "1. Reason why I never received a respond [sic] to written complaint. 2. Why I never received a hearing or a [sic} investigation report on your findings. 3. What steps are being taldng (sic] for the safety of my family. 4. The minutes to all private meetings that my name or wife [sic] name was mention [sic], including why you feel you are not reasonable [sic] for my attorney bill. 5. Reimburse Parisi Family $1,000 for legal fees." (Petition of Appeal)

Additionally, the Commissioner finds that the record does not indicate whether Mr. Moscatelli is a tenured employee. To the extent that he is tenured, the Commissioner observes that petitioners do not claim that they brought charges against Mr. Moscatelli pursuant to N.J.S.A. 6-11. Had they so alleged, and thereby contended that the Board considered the charges and erred in failing to certify them to the Commissioner, such a claim would properly be before the Commissioner, contrary to the suggestion of the AU at page 6 of the Initial Decision. See Rosa Astacio-Borja v. Board of Education of the Passaic County Technical-Vocational High School District, Passaic County, Commissioner Decision March 30, 1998. If Mr. Moscatelli is not a tenured employee, then any disciplinary action taken by the Board against him is not within the scope of the Commissioner's jurisdiction.

Finally, there being no viable school law claim before the Commissioner, the AU correctly concluded that the Commissioner cannot reach to petitioners' ancillary claims which arise under the Open Public Meetings Act and the Right to Know Law.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted for the reasons expressed therein and clarified above. The Petition of Appeal is dismissed.[3]

IT IS SO ORDERED.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

This matter arises from the impending dissolution of the Lower Camden County Regional School District No. I (LCCR). Petitioner, Hammonton BOE, has a proposed sending/receiving contract with Waterford, one of the constituent districts of the LCCR, to accept that district's students in grades 7-12. Prior to consummating its agreement, Hammonton seeks Declaratory Judgment from the Commissioner on three issues it deems essential, namely, that Waterford has the right to send its students to Hammonton pursuant to the parties' proposed Agreement (Count One); that Hammonton does not have any obligation, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:13-64 et seq., independently, or derivatively through Waterford, or otherwise, to employ any current employee of the LCCR because of the District's dissolution or because of the formation of a sending/receiving relationship between Hammonton and Waterford (Count Two); and that Hammonton and Waterford may enter into a sending/receiving agreement for a term of 30 years or, in.the alternative, for a term of 10 years with the parties having the right to extend the period for two extension periods of 10 years each (Count Three).

The Commissioner found that education law poses no impediment to Hammonton entering a sending/receiving relationship with Waterford pursuant to the parties' proposed agreement (N.J.S.A. ISA:38-11); that Hammonton owes no duty, either independently or derivatively, to the employees of the LCCR (N.J.S.A. 18A:13-64; Stagaard); and that the current boards of Hammonton and Waterford may enter into a sending/receiving agreement for a contractual term of no longer than 10 years, with future boards having the right to enter into successor contracts, in 10-year increments, if they so desire (N.J.S.A. 1SA:38-20; Lincoln Park).

BACKGROUND AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from the impending dissolution of the Lower Camden County Regional School District No. 1 (hereinafter "LCCR") pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:13-51 et seq. LCCR is currently a limited purpose regional school district which operates four schools located in Winslow Township, Lindenwold and Pine Hill educating pupils in grades 7-12 from the communities of Winslow Township, Lindenwold, Pine Hill, Clementon, Berlin, Chesilhurst and Waterford Township.[1] On or about October 10, 1997, LCCR constituent districts submitted an application to the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A: 13-56, requesting that a Board of Review convene to authorize a public referendum to consider the dissolution of the LCCR. The parties were advised by letter, dated January 27, 1998, that the Board of Review had grantsd the application. At the ensuing public referendum, conducted on May 12, 1998, dissolution of the

[1]Edgewood Junior and Senior High Schools in Winslow (serving primarily students from Winslow Twp., Waterford Twp. and Chesilhurst); Overbrook Junior High School in Lindenwold (serving primarily students from Berlin Twp.,

LCCR was approved by a majority of the voters in the seven communities and by five of the seven towns in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A: 13-59. As a result of the impending dissolution of the LCCR, the Board of Education of the Township of Waterford (hereinafter "Waterford"), one of the LCRR's constituent members which operates a K-6 district, was required to designate a district to receive its pupils iri grades 7 through 12. Petitioner, Board of Education of the Town of Hammonton (hereinafter "Hammonton"), operates a PreK-12 school district in Atlantic County and shares a common border with Waterford. After extensive discussions and reviews, Hammonton and Waterford entered into a proposed sending/receiving relationship, pursuant to an agreement dated April 26, 1999, whereby Hammonton agreed to accept Waterford's 7-12 grade students. Such agreement was expressly conditioned upon the approval by Hammonton voters of a bond referendum to raise funds to build a new high school in Hammonton and renovate existing facilities in order to accommodate the increase in students.2 The cost of this project is anticipated to be approximately $33,840,000 and will be financed through the issuahce of bonds for a likely term of 30 years, which it is envisioned will be repaid through state aid and Waterford's tuition payments. The bond issue was subsequently approved by Hammonton voters at a special referendum held on June 28, 1999. The agreement was further conditioned on a declaration by the Commissioner of Education with respect to three issues deemed essential by Hammonton prior to its consummation of this agreement.

The within matter was opened before the Commissioner on April 28, 1999, by the filing of a Petition of Appeal for Declaratory Judgment, pursuant to N.J.A. C. 6:24-2.1, by Hammonton. Subsequent to the receipt of Answers to the Petition from respondents,; the Clementon, Lindenwold, Pine Hill and Winslow Twp.); and Overbrook Senior High School in Pine Hill (serving r,rimarily students from Berlin Twp., Clementon, Lindenwold and Pine Hill).

Hammonton currently receives the Borough of Folsom's pupils in grades 9-12 pursuant to a sending/receiving relationship with the Folsom Board of Education.

[3]Hammonton's requested relief was opposed only by the submission filed by Respondent "Education Associations" (Berlin Township Education Association, Chesilhurst Education Association, Clementon Education Association,

Director of Controversies and Disputes advised the parties that the Commissioner had determined to accept the request for Declaratory Judgment in this matter, and established a schedule for the parties to fully brief their respective positions on the issues. With the receipt of the last scheduled submission, the record in this matter closed on October 27, 1999.

Hammonton•s· petition includes three counts, which seek the following declarations: that Waterford has the right to send its students to Hammonton pursuant to the parties' proposed Agreement (Count One); that Hammonton does not have any obligation, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A: 13-64 et seq., independently, or derivatively through Waterford, or otherwise, to employ any current employee of the LCCR because of the district's dissolution or because of the formation of a sending/receiving relationship between Hammonton and Waterford (Count Two); and that Hammonton and Waterford may enter into a sending/receiving agreement for a term of 30 years or, in the alternative, for a term of 10 years with the parties having the right to extend the period for two extension periods of 10 years each (Count Three).

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

In determining the application of the statutes at issue herein to the facts existing in this matter, consistent with his authority pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-2.1 et seq., the Commissioner finds as follows:

Initially, the Commissioner finds that education law poses no impediment to Hammonton entering a sending/receiving relationship with Waterford pursuant to the parties'

Lindenwold Education Association, Pine Hill Education Association, Waterford Township Education Association, Waterford Township Support Staff, Winslow Township Education Association, and Lower Camden County Regional High School District No. 1 Education Association).

proposed agreement.[4] The governing statute in this regard, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-11, Designation of high school of another district for attendance by pupils, specifies:

> The board of education of every school district which lacks high school facilities within the district and has not designated a high school or high schools outside of the district for its high school pupils to attend shall designate a high school or high schools of this state for the attendance of such pupils.

As neither the clear language of this provision nor any other education law, regulation, or existing case law, in light of the circumstances which exist in this matter, precludes Hammonton and Waterford from entering into their proposed sending/receiving agreement, execution of such agreement is within the inherent powers of each respective Board.

As to whether Hammonton has any responsibility to utilize employees of the dissolved LCCR district, the statutory provision at issue here is N.J.S.A. 18A: 13-64, which establishes the rights of all employees of a regional district in the case of a withdrawal from or dissolution of a regional district. This statute, in pertinent part, provides:

> All employees of the regional district shall continue in their respective positions in the withdrawing district, or in each of the constituent districts in the event of a dissolution, and all of their rights of tenure, seniority, pension, leave of absence and other similar benefits shall be recognized and preserved and any periods of prior employment in the regional district shall count toward the acquisition of tenure to the same extent as if all such employment had been under the withdrawing district or in any of the constituent districts in the event of a dissolution.

This provision unmistakably envisions that employees of a dissolving district must look to the constituent districts for their employment rights. The right confetTed by N.J.S.A. 18A: 13-64 on staff employed by the regional district prior to the dissolution date is initially to con;inued employment in one of the constituent districts. See Stagaard v. Contini, 91 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 217, a.ff'd State Board October 1, 1997. Moreover, this statutory right is confined to instances where regional staff members cannot be accommodated within their certification to available high school positions. Id. at 219. It is uncontroverted here that Hammonton is not a constituent district of the LCCR, nor is it claimed that Hammonton either had any input in the hiring or employment of LCCR employees, or played any role whatsoever in the referendum to dissolve the LCCR. As such, N.J.S.A.' 18A:13_-64 does not operate to create an independent obligation for Hammonton to employ staff of the LCCR as a result of the district's dissolution.

Neither does Hammonton have any derivative responsibility, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6.1, to employ regional district staff by virtue of its proposed sending/receiving relationship with Waterford, as this statute is inapplicable in this matter. In this connection, the Education Associations urge that Waterford, as a constituent district, has an obligation pursuant to N.J.S.A.18A:13-64 to recognize and act to preserve the employment rights of the LCCR's employees and, therefore, Hammonton, as the receiving district for Waterford's students, has a duty, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6.1, to recognize the tenure and seniority rights of LCCR staff who serviced the students of its sending district. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6.1 specifies:

> Whenever, heretofore or hereafter, any board of education in any school district in this state shall discontinue any high school, junior high school, elementary school or any one or more of the grades from kindergarten through grade 12 in the district and shall, by agreement with another board of education, send the pupils in such schools or grades to such other district, all teaching staff members who are assigned for a majority of their time in such school, grade or grades and who have tenure in office at the time such schools or grades are discontinued shall be employed by the board of education of such other district in the same or nearest equivalent position.

The NJ. Supreme Court undertook interpretation of this statute in In re Jamesburg High S,chool Closing, 83 N.J. 540, and found that this particular provision is triggered only if a district closes a school and agrees with another district to send its pupils from such closed school to that district. Here, Waterford has not closed one of its schools. Neither does it have any staff that would be impacted by its proposed sending/receiving relationship with Hammonton, since all affected staff were employed by the LCCR rather than Waterford. Moreover, the situation for the affected LCCR employees has not been altered by Waterford's proposed agreement with Hammonton. These individuals will still be able to select positions in all seven of the constituent districts; they will just be uriable to select positions in grades 7-12 in Waterford, a selection which would not be available to them under present circumstances. Similarly, the prospect of large scale unemployment of LCCR employees as a result of dissolution appears remote, as the parties' submissions indicate that there will be at least one additional school opening as a consequence of dissolution, notwithstanding the absence of the Waterford students.

In summary, because N.J.S.A. 18A: 13-64 and the interpretation of this provision by the Commissioner and the State Board in Stagaard, supra, cannot be read to obligate Hammonton, as a non-constituent district, to accept any employees from the dissolved regional, and recognizing that N.J.S.A. 1SA:28-6.1 has been found to be inapplicable to the situation existing here, there is no legal authority to support a conclusion that Hammonton has a responsibility, of any nature, to these employees.

Finally, Hammonton seeks a determination that the parties are not precluded from entering into a sending/receiving relationship for a contractual term of 30 years. A term of this length is deemed vital in order to ensure the financial resources necessary to repay the bond obligation incurred to finance the construction and renovation of its schools required to facilitate the educating of Waterford's students. It is clear that education law operates to prevent the current boards of Hammonton and Waterford from committing to such a term. In this regard, it is well-established that boards of education, generally, have no authority to reach forward beyond their own official life and into the term of their successors. A board of education is a noncontinuous body whose authority is limited to its own official life and whose actions can bind its successors only in those ways and to the extent expressly provided by statute. Gonzalez v. Board of Education of Union City, 325 N.J. Super. 244, 252 (App. Div. 1999), citing Skladzien v. Board of Educ., 12 N.J. Misc. 602, 604-05, 173 A. 600 (Sup. Ct. 1934), aff'd, 115 N.J.L. 203, 178 A. 793 (E. & A. 1935). The Legislature, apparently recognizing the unique nature of sending/receiving relationships and the need to offer some measure of protection for districts, such as Hammonton here, which must undertake construction or remodeling of facilities in order to allow them to accommodate the students of another district pursuant to such a relationship, carved out an exception to the general prohibition against binding future boards in its enaction of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-20. This provision specifies:

> Whenever a board of education, now or hereafter furnishing elementary and high school education or either thereof for the pupils of another school district, finds it necessary to provide additional facilities for the furnishing of education to such pupils, it may, as a condition precedent to the provision of such additional facilities, enter into an agreement with the board of education of such other district for a term not exceeding 10 years whereby it agrees to provide such education to the pupils of such other district during the term of such agreement, in consideration of the agreement by the board of education of such other district that it will not withdraw its pupils and provide school facilities for them in its own or another district during the term of said agreement except as provided in this article, and that the sending district will provide for the payment of tuition in accordance with section 18A:38-19.

It must be presumed that in executing this provision the Legislature intended to strike a balance between the well-established stricture against binding future boards and the conflicting interests, such as the need for stability, which inherently arise in sending/receiving relationships and unambiguously designated its outside maximum limit of equipoise. Consequently, the Vyithin boards may not bind future boards beyond the 10-year express prescription of the statute. It is equally evident that, at the expiration of this period, the boards then sitting are similarly authorized, pursuant to N.J.S.A 18A:38-20, to enter into subsequent 10-year successor agreements if they so desire. See State Board decision in Board of Education of the Borough of Lincoln Park v. Board of Education of the Town of Boonton, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 493.

The Commissioner underscores, however, that, irrespective of the contractual timeframes specified in the parties' agreement, a sending/receiving relationship does not automatically terminate upon the expiration of this agreed-upon time period. Rather, such relationship cannot be altered or terminated except upon application made to and approved by the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.S.A. ISA:38-13, upon his finding that the termination will result in no substantial negative educational, financial or racial impact.

Accordingly, the Commissioner determines that Hammonton and Waterford are not precluded from entering into a sending/receiving relationship; that Hammonton owes no duty, either independently or derivatively, to the employees of the LCCR; and that the current boards of Hammonton and Waterford may enter into a sending/receiving agreement for a contractual term of no longer than 10 years, with future boards having the right to enter into successor contracts, in IO-year increments, if they so desire.[5]

IT IS SO ORDERED.

For the Board, George G. Frino, Esq.

This matter having been opened before the Commissioner of Education on November 18, 1999, through the certification of tenure charges against Denise Carmona, a tenured custodian, for excessive absenteeism, abandonment of position and unbecoming conduct by the Board of Education of the City of Atlantic City; and

Respondent, having been served, via regular mail, with a copy of the charges, the Board's resolution, the Statement of Evidence and the Certificate of Determination on November 16, 1999; and

The Commissioner having directed respondent, via both certified and regular mail on November 22, 1999, to file an Answer to the tenure charges against her; and

Whereas, there is no indication that respondent did not receive such communications which clearly provided her notice that, pursuant to P.L. 1998, c. 42, effective July 1, 1998, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified "shall have 15 days to submit a written response to the charges to the commissioner," and that failure to answer within the prescribed period will, absent granting of an extension for good cause shown, result in the charges being deemed admitted and the Commissioner deciding the matter on summary judgment pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.4(e); and

In that no reply has been received from respondent in response to the Board's charges, each count of the charges against respondent is deemed to be admitted; and

Whereas, the Commissioner's review of the tenure charges certified against respondent by the Board and the statement of evidence in support of those charges indicates that respondent was previously the subject of tenure charges certified to the Commissioner in July 1997 which were settled by the parties in June 1998, the terms of which agreed, inter alia, that respondent would immediately return to work, effective June 23, 1998[1]; and

In that the Board states in present tenure charges that the gravamen of the charges against respondent is that she was absent from work for three hundred two days (302) days from July 3, 1997 to June 30, 1998; further, the Board alleges that within twenty (20) days of the settlement of the previous charges, respondent again resumed her pattern of excessive absences, i.e., approximately one-hundred twenty-four days (124) absent from July 7, 1998 to June 6, 1999 (see Print-out for Absences 1998-1999 School Year) for a variety of personal illnesses, workers' compensatory illnesses, family leave, vacation, funeral and personal days; and

Whereas, the Commissioner's review of the unbecoming conduct tenure charge indicates that respondent is alleged to have, on August 5, 1999, threatened to kill administration officials; and

Deeming such charges to be admitted. and noting that respondent has not replied to the specific allegations contained therein, the Commissioner finds that respondent's actions constitute excessive absenteeism, abandonment of position, and unbecoming conduct, warranting dismissal from her tenured custodian position; now, therefore

IT IS SO ORDERED this _____ day of January 2000 that summary judgment shall be granted to the Board, and Denise Carmona shall be dismissed from her tenured custodian position in the employ of the Atlantic City Board of Education as of the date of this order.[2]

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF RIVER VALE, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION

Petitioning custodian contended that he was a tenured employee whose rights were violated when the Board did not renew his employment. The Board contended that petitioner was hired for fixed terms of employment.

ALJ found that petitioner was clearly appointed to a series of one-year, fixed term contracts for the eleven years between November 15, 1984 and June 30, 1995. Thereafter, the Board minutes revealed that the Board continued renewing petitioner's one-year fixed terms. Thus, petitioner's rights were not violated when the Board did not renew his employment for the 1998-99 school year. Summary decision was granted to the Board. Petition was dismissed.

The Commissioner concurred with the AU that, notwithstanding the Board's discontinuing the practice of executing formal employment contracts subsequent to the 1994-95 school year, the Board minutes revealed that petitioner was hired for fixed terms. Summary decision was granted to the Board. Petition was dismissed.

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 9213-98

AGENCY DKT. NO. 359-8/98

RICHARD CROMWELL,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF RIVER VALE, BERGEN COUNTY

Respondent.

Joseph P. Kreoll, Esq., for petitioner (Robert J. Romano, Jr., attorney)

Kelly Ann Guariglia, Esq., for respondent (Sills, Cummis, Zuckerman, Radin, Tischman, Epstein & Gross, attorneys)

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ

This case was transmitted by the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law in September 1998 and involves a demand by the petitioner, Richard Cromwell, that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 he be declared a tenured custodial employee of the respondent River Vale Board of Education. Thus, he seeks an order restoring him to the position of Chief of Plant Operations, retroactive to July 1, 1998, and for other relief consequent thereto. His tenure claim is predicated upon certain actions taken by the respondent with respect to his re-employment for the 1995-96 through 1997-98 school years. Cross-motions for summary decision are pending.

In my view, the essential facts necessary to a determination are not reasonably in dispute and that summary decision can be rendered. Thus, for the reasons which follow, I have determined that Cromwell's motion be denied and that the Board's cross-motion for summary decision be granted.

FINDINGS OF MATERIAL FACTS

1. Respondent is the Board of Education of the Township of River Vale (the "Board") and is created under the laws of the State of New Jersey.

2. In November 1984, the Board appointed petitioner for a fixed term of employment as a maintenance worker. Specifically, the Board and petitioner executed an employment contract whereby petitioner was employed from November 15, 1984 through June 30, 1985 at the annual salary of $17,510.

3. The Board and petitioner subsequently executed a new, one-year employment contract, appointing petitioner as a maintenance worker from July 1, 1985 through June 30, 1986 at an annual salary of $19,165.

4. The next year, the Board and petitioner executed an employment contract appointing petitioner to be a maintenance worker from July 1, 1986 through June 30, 1987 at an annual salary of $24,940.

5. The following year, the Board and petitioner executed an employment contract appointing petitioner to be a maintenance worker from July 1, 1987 through June 30, 1988 at an annual salary of $25,335, plus a 10% differential.

6. The next year, the Board and petitioner executed an employment contract appointing petitioner Chief of Plant Operations from July 1, 1988 through June 30, 1989 at an annual salary of $26,515, plus a 10% differential.

7. The following year, the Board and petitioner executed a contract appointing petitioner Chief of Plant Operations from July 1, 1989 through June 30, 1989. The Board minutes from the meeting at which the Board approved the appointment indicated, "Resolution Employment of Non-Affiliated Administrative Staff."

8. The next year, the Board and petitioner executed a contract appointing petitioner Chief of Plant Operations from July 1, 1990 through June 30, 1991 at an annual salary of $35,596. The Board minutes from the meeting at which the Board approved the appointment indicated," Renewal of Non-Affiliated Maintenance Personnel."

9. The following year, the Board and petitioner executed a contract appointing petitioner Chief of Plant Operations from July 1, 1991 through June 30, 1992 at an annual salary of $42,763.88. The Board minutes from the meeting at which the Board approved the appointment indicated, "Renewal of Contract."

10. The next year, the Board and petitioner executed a contract appointing petitioner Chief of Plant Operations from July 1, 1992 through June 30, 1993. The Board minutes from the meeting at which the Board approved the appointment indicated, "Renewal of Contract."

11. The following year, the Board and petitioner executed a contract appointing petitioner Chief of Plant Operations from July 2, 1993 through June 30, 1994 at an annual salary of $47,200. The Board minutes from the meeting at which the Board approved the appointment indicated, "Renewal of Contract."

12. The next year, the Board and petitioner executed a contract appointing petitioner Chief of Plant Operations from July 1 1994, through June 30, 1995 at an annual salary of $50,320. The Board minutes from the meeting at which the Board approved the appointment indicated, "Renewal of Contract."

13. The following year, 1995-96, the Board and petitioner did not execute a formal employment contract, although the Board determined that petitioner's salary for the school year beginning July 1, 1995 and ending June 30, 1996 would be $52,533. As in previous years, the Board minutes from the meeting at which the Board approved the appointment indicated, "Renewal of Contract."

14. The next year, .the Board determined that petitioner's salary for the school year beginning July 1, 1996 and ending June 30, 1997 would be $54,109. The Board minutes from the meeting at which the Board approved the appointment again indicated "Renewal of Contract."

15. The following year, the Board determined that petitioner's salary for the school year beginning July 1, 1997 and ending June 30, 1998 would be $55,732. The Board minutes from the meeting at which the Board approved the appointment again indicated "Renewal of Contract."

16. At its May 26, 1998 meeting, the Board determined it would "not renew th,:; rehiring" of petitioner for the 1998-99 school year and his employment was terminated on June 30, 1998.

DISCUSSION

N.J. S.A. 18A: 17-3, governs the tenure of janitorial employees and provides:

> Every public school janitor of a school district shall, unless he is appointed for 2 fixed term, hold his office, position or employment under tenure during a good behavior and efficiency and shall not be dismissed or suspended or reduced in compensation, except as the result of the reduction of the number of janitors in the district made in accordance with the provisions of this title or except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense . . . (Emphasis added).

Thus, boards of education have considerable discretion whether to grant tenure to its custodians. See e.g., Wright v. Bd. of Ed. of the City of East Orange, 99 N.J. 112, 120 (1985). If the employment is not for a fixed term, the custodian acquires tenure immediately, regardless of any unexpressed intentions of the board. Id. at 119.

In the instant case, of course, the issue is whether any of the Board's action (or , inaction) with respect to Cromwell's salary and/or employment status from September 1, 1995 to June 30, 1998 resulted in an indefinite appointment so as to entitle him to claim statutory tenure. In order to determine whether a janitor has been appointed for a fixed or indeterminate term of employment, one first must look to any employment contract between the parties. Sharpe v. Bd. of Ed. of the Twp. of Wyckoff, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 332 (1993}. In Sharpe, as in the instant case, a custodian who was notified that his employment was not renewed filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education claiming he had been terminated in violation of his tenure rights. The ALJ reviewed the board's minutes pertaining to employment which revealed that although Sharpe had been hired by board resolution, which did not specifically indicate a fixed term, a contemporaneously executed employment contract did set forth a term of one year. The second year, the minutes revealed the board adopted a resolution renewing Sharpe's employment for the "school year." However, the parties did not execute an employment contract for that year. For the third year, the board again adopted a resolution renewing the employment for the "school year," and the parties also contemporaneously executed a one-year employment contract. At the end of that school year the board notified Sharpe it had decided not to renew his employment.

The Commissioner, in adopting the ALJ's decision to deny tenure, reasoned thaUin the event an employment contract is "ambiguous or inconclusive" one must consider "other indicia of the nature of the appointment, including board minutes and resolutions." Ibid. See also, Burrows v. Ramapo Indian Hills Regional High School District Board of Education, 93 N.J.A. C. 2d (EDU} 610 (1993), where the Commissioner, in finding that a custodian did not have tenure, explained that the absence of employment contracts for two years was not determinative because the minutes reflected an appointment by resolution for each school year which was analogous to being appointed to a fixed term.

In this case, petitioner clearly was appointed to a series of one-year, fixed-term contracts for the eleven years between November 15, 1984 to June 30, 1995. The contract executed by the parties, as well as the board minutes pertaining to his employment, both specified unambiguously that he was employed for a fixed term. However, for the twelfth through fourteenth years, 1995-96 through 1997-98, the parties did not execute any contracts. Instead, the Board Secretary and Cromwell signed memoranda stating the petitioner's salary for the fixed term of one school year. Because the memoranda were not signed by the Board_ president pursuant to N.J.S.A. 1SA:27-5,[1] one therefore also must look to the board minutes for guidance, as did the ALJ and the Commissioner in Sharpe, supra.

The Board's minutes for these three school years are practically identical to the minutes from the preceding four years. More specifically, they refer to "Renewal of Contract" and indicate a term of one school year. Although the Board discontinued the practice of executing formal contracts after the 1994-95 school year, the minutes reveal inescapably that il continued renewing Cromwell's one-year fixed terms. Thus, the facts are very similar to those in the Sharpe case. Although, during the second year of Sharpe's employment, the parties did not execute an employment contract; nevertheless, the ALJ concluded, and the Commissioner agreed, that the board had appointed him for a fixed term because the minutes indicated that the board had "adopted a resolution renewing the annual appointment of its custodial staff." Sharpe v. Bd. of Ed. of the Twp. of Wyckoff, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) at 332. Hence, as in Sharpe, the reference in the minutes to the "Renewal of Contract" for one year plainly amounts to an appointment for a fixed term, thus resulting in no tenure.

Petitioner cites Smith v. Bd. of Ed. of the Twp. of East Brunswick, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5654-81 (June 13, 1983), aff'd Comm'r of Ed. (August 15, 1983), affd State Board of Education (April 4, 1984) in support of his position. In Smith, a custodian who had been employed for over ten years relied upon a resolution providing that custodians in the school district would receive tenure after three years. The ALJ found that certain salary notices in that case were similar to ones typically given to tenured teachers. More specifically, the ALJ stated:

> Such salary notices or salary agreements are generally reserved for those employees who have acquired a tenure status in the employ of a board of education. Once an employee has acquired tenure, as for example, a teaching staff

[1] N.J. S.A. 18A27-5 states:

> Every contract between a board of education which has not made rules governing such employment and any teaching staff member shall be made in writing, in triplicate, signed by the president and secretary of the board of education and by such person.

> membr. pursuant to N.J.S.A. 1SA:28-5, the board's offer of a contract to the teacher becomes superfluous in regard to the term of employment. The term is indefinite and continuous; therefore, the only subject matter to be contracted for is the employee's annual salary and emoluments... [TJhe need for a contract between a board of education and a tenured employee, setting forth all the terms and conditions of employment is no longer necessary and the board resorts to the issuance of a salary notice or salary agreement, pursuant to the negotiated agreement to the tenured employee."
> [Id. at 13 (emphasis added).]

In my view, petitioner's reliance on Smith is misplaced. Most notably, in Smith the top of each document contained the notation, "Non-Certificatedffenure." Id. at 12. Clearly, that reference to "tenure" greatly undermined the board's position. Indeed, as the ALJ observed, it made the need for a more formal contract appear unnecessary. Moreover, the minutes in Smith did not set forth definite terms of employment (in contrast to the instant matter), as apparently the board was unsure if the custodian had acquired tenure. Lastly, as the ALJ in Smith commented, it was superfluous to offer a contract to an employee who already had acquired tenure. Id. at 13.[2]

The petitioner's further reliance on Gilliam v. Toms River Bd. of Education, 1974 S.L.D. 540 (1974), also is distinguishable. In Gilliam, the Commissioner held that annual salary agreements alone did not establish yearly re-appointments for definite terms. Id. at 546. However, there is no proof that the salary agreements in Gilliam resembled the documents at issue here. Moreover, in Gilliam, the board minutes did not reflect appointments for fixed terms. In contrast, in this case, the annual informal salary agreements read in conjunction with the minutes reveal it was intended that petitioner be appointed to annual fixed terms of employment. Thus, consistent passage of resolutions "renewing" petitioner's employment for one year clearly distinguishes the instant matter from Gilliam.

[2] Cromwell also refers to a memorandum from Superintendent Cerasa to the Board setting forth a three-year proposal. However, this document does not strengthen petitioner's argument. First, there is no indication that Cerasa was not merely conveying a proposal that petitioner, himself, had suggested. Second, there is no evidence that the Board adopted the proposal. Lastly, the proposal reflected a fixed, three-year term. Therefore, even if the Board had adopted it, petitioner would not have acquired tenure.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

For the reasons set forth above, I CONCLUDE that summary decision in favor of respondent should be GRANTED since, contrary to petitioner's claim, although more precision in wording by respondent would have been appropriate, clearly all of petitioner's appointments were intended to be and were for a fixed term.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, I hereby ORDER that summary decision be rendered in favor of the respondent and that petitioner's verified petition be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:148-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF RIVER VALE, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions essentially recast and reiterate his arguments advanced below. In that all material aspects of petitioner's exceptions have been fully addressed and resolved in the Initial Decision, such exceptions will not be revisited here.

Upon his careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that, notwithstanding that the Board discontinued the practice of executing formal employment contracts subsequent to the 1994-95 school year, the Board minutes clearly reveal that petitioner was continued in his employment for successive fixed terms and, therefore, he did not acquire tenure as a school custodian. As such, petitioner's rights were not violated when the Board determined not to renew his employment for the 1998-99 school year.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons stated therein. Summary decision is granted to the Board and the within Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.*

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners alleged that respondents failed to implement properly the provisions of the Comprehensive Education Improvement and Financing Act (CEIFA), N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-1 et seq., as they pertained to the district's State aid for the 1997-98 and 1998-99 school years, by applying the statute's stabilization provision at N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-10(a), thereby reducing the amount of State aid otherwise payable under CEIFA formulas.

Respondents filed a motion to dismiss the appeal on the grounds that those counts pertaining to the 1997-98 school year were untimely filed, that the petition failed to plead requisite facts in support of its claims and that respondents had acted lawfully in determining the amount of aid due the Board pursuant to CEIFA since such aid is capped by N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-10(a).

The Commissioner granted respondents' motion and dismissed the appeal, noting that the counts of the petition pertaining to the 1997-98 school year allotment, about which the Board received notice on or about January 28, 1997, were filed well beyond the 90-day limitation period set forth at N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2, the appeal having been filed over one year later on April 9, 1998. The Commissioner rejected petitioners' claim that respondents have deprived the district and its students of a thorough and efficient system of public education by applying the stability provision to petitioners' district, emphasizing that the final aid amount due under CEIFA is derived through cumulative application of the act's several formulas, including core curriculum standards, categorical and stabilization aid formulas; that the core curriculum standards aid formula distributes State aid relative to the wealth of a district, and to its growth or loss in enrollment, compared to that of other districts; and that petitioners failed entirely to plead requisite facts in support of their claim, contending that factual pleadings of inequity were unnecessary in this matter. The Commissioner additionally noted that CEIFA's stabilization provision will work in the 1999-2000 school year and beyond so that the district will receive CEIFA formula aid based on actual pupil enrollment counts.

This matter was opened as a controversy before the Commissioner of Education on April 9, 1998, through the filing of a petition of appeal by the Board of Education of the City of Wildwood.[1] Therein, the Board alleged that respondents failed to implement properly the provisions of the Comprehensive Education Improvement and Financing Act (CEIFA), N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-1 et seq., as they pertained to the district's State aid for the 1997-98 and 1998-99 school years. Specifically, the Board alleged that CEIFA established, through an explicit formula, the amount of State aid I}.ecessary, by definition, for the Board to provide a thorough and efficient system of public education (T&E); and that respondents, by providing less than that amount for the years at issue, by definition, denied the Board's students their constitutional entitlement to T&E. As relief, the Board sought, for each of the years in dispute, payment of the difference between the amount it claimed to be statutorily due, and the amount it was actually paid. The Board further sought a directive that future State aid payments be in accordance with its alleged statutory entitlement.

In lieu of an answer, respondents filed a motion to dismiss the appeal on grounds that those counts pertaining to the 1997-98 school year were untimely filed, that the petition failed to plead requisite facts in support of its claims, and that respondents had acted lawfully in determining the amount of aid due the Board pursuant to CEIFA, such aid being capped by the statute's stabilization provision at N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-IO(a). Opposition papers were filed by the Board, as was a reply by respondents.

On June 8, 1998, the Board filed an amended petition, listing actions it was allegedly unable to undertake due to the amount of aid it received from respondents. On July 28, 1998, respondents renewed their motion to dismiss, both on the grounds previously raised and on the additional ground that the Board lacked standing to bring the appeal. Thereafter, on August 18, 1998, a second amended petition was filed, including a number of students and their guardians as petitioners and making additional allegations with respect to the basis for petitioners' claims. On September 9, 1998, respondents again renewed their motion to dismiss; opposition and reply papers were filed in due course.

In the interim, on May 20, 1998, the Board sought an order from the Superior Court, Chancery Division, enjoining the Commissioner from taking any action on the instant appeal and directing that the matter be heard at the Office of Administrative Law by an Administrative Law Judge whose decision would be final. The Board's application was denied both by the trial court and on appeal, in a decision dated February 17. 1999.[2]

Following subsequent review of the record and the arguments of the parties, petitioners were advised, on August · 16, 1999. that the Commissioner required further submissions in order to render a determination on the motion. Specifically. the Commissioner requested a detailed explication of how the district failed to offer a thorough and efficient system of education during each of the two years at issue in the petition, and of the manner in which such alleged deficiencies were a direct and proximate result of the funding mechanism set forth in CEIFA. A submission was filed in response to this request. as were reply papers, ending with petitioners' filing of October 19, 1999. The record having closed on that date, the matter now proceeds to determination.

Upon careful consideration, for the reasons set forth below, the Commissioner determines to grant respondents' motion and dismiss the petition of appeal.

Initially, the Commissioner fully concurs with respondents that those counts of the petition pertaining to the 1997-98 school year must be dismissed as filed well beyond the 90-day limitation period set forth at N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). Petitioners do not dispute that the Board was notified of its State aid allotment for that year on or about January 28, 1997, yet an appeal was not filed with the Commissioner until over one year later, on April 9, 1998.[3] In favor of relaxing the filjng rule pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15, the Board states only that time limitations on its claim should be tolled in the interest of equity, since CEIFA aid is a statutory right. and that, since respondents' own misconduct and errors have led to the instant appeal, respondents should not be peffi1!tted to rely on a procedural bar to dispose of petitioners' claim. The Commissioner does not find these assertions persuasive, given the need for a reasonable degree of repose in administrative matters and the absence of any explanation whatsoever on the part of petitioners as to why an appeal could not have been filed in a timely manner. Notwithstanding the above, the Commissioner notes that, even assuming," arguendo, that petitioners' appeal could be considered on its merits as it pertains to the 1997-98 school year, the analysis below would dictate dismissal for that year as well as for 1998-99.

Turning to those merits, the Commissioner finds that petitioners have failed, on both legal and factual grounds, to present a sufficient cause for determination. Petitioners "crystallize" their own argument as follows:

> The CEIFA statute was the Legislature's response to the Abbott v. Burke line of cases, which culminated in the determination that the Quality Education Act II was unconstitutional. (citation omitted) The Abbott v. Burke line of cases construed the constitutional mandate to provide each child with a thorough and efficient education in terms of money. The litigation concerned how much it would cost to provide a thorough and efficient education, and who should provide that money.
>
> The Legislature's response was enactment of the CEIFA statute. Following the thinking of the Supreme Court, in enacting the CEIFA statute the Legislature defined "thorough and efficient education" in terms of a monetary formula. That formula computed to the penny precisely how much money was needed to provide a thorough and efficient education, how much money was to be provided by the individual school district, and how much money was to be provided through State aid. The way the formula is structured, if the school district provides its calculated portion of funding, and if the State of New Jersey provides aid in the amount specified by the formula, then the children will receive a thorough and efficient education.
> For 1997-98, respondent Commissioner calculated that the Wildwood School District required CEIFA aid in the amount of $2,445,907.00. For 1998-99, the Commissioner calculated that the Wildwood Board of Education would require CEIFA aid in the amount of $2,955,107.00 in order to provide a thorough and efficient education.

> Petitioners do_not dispute these calculations. In fact, petitioners embrace them. Petitioners agree that in order for the children of Wildwood to receive a thorough and efficient education, it was necessary for the State of New Jersey to pay over [to] the Wildwood Board of Education the [above-referenced sums].
> The problem is, the State of New Jersey failed to pay over the needed CEIFA aid. Instead, the State of New Jersey paid $645,848.00 [actually $645,851.00, as indicated in the petition and its supporting documents] in CEIFA aid in 1997-98, and $710,439.00 in CEIFA aid for 1998-99.
>
> Since the Wildwood School District did not receive the required amount of CEIFA funding for 1997-98 and 1998-99, then by definition, the children did not [receive] a thorough and efficient education. To hold to the contrary would negate the purpose and intention of the CEIFA Act.The CEIFA Act specifies that, in order for each child in the state of New Jersey to receive a thorough and efficient education, the State of New Jersey must pay a specific, calculable amount of CEIFA aid each year. In [the years in dispute], the State failed to pay to the Wildwood School District the amount which, by its own calculation, it determined to be necessary under the CEIFA formula for the students to receive a thorough and efficient education. Therefore, pursuant to the stated intention of the CEIFA, the children of Wildwood did not receive a thorough and efficient education during 1997-98 and 1998-99.

This summation, which accurately captures the more extensive arguments set forth in petitioners' primary briefs, is the essence of petitioners' claim: Merely by applying the stability clause to petitioners' district, therefore necessarily reducing the amount of State aid otherwise payable under CEIFA formulas, respondents, by definition, have deprived the district and its students of T&E.

On its face, such an argument cannot stand. As noted by the Appellate Division:

> [CEIFA] establishes a complex formula to determine the amount of school aid, and then places limitations on receipt of that aid through application of the "Stabilization Aid Growth Limit," defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3 as follows: (quotation omitted) Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-10(a), "the total stabilized aid for each district shall not be increased by more than the district's stabilization aid growth limit." This section limits what a school district will receive. (Wildwood v. Loewe, supra, at 2-3)

Petitioners' error lie in attempting to isolate one aspect of that formula and characterize it as a fixed entitlement. Indeed, petitioners misunderstand the fundamental nature of the core curriculum standards aid formula. It is not, as they contend, an absolute formula; rather, it distributes State aid relative to the wealth of a district, and to the enrollment growth or loss of a district, compared to that of other districts. The final aid amount due any district under CEIFA is derived through the cumulative application of the act's several formulas, including core curriculum standards, categorical and stabilization aid formulas, and no one of these formulas is determinative of the final aid calculation. In the instant matter, no allegation is made that respondents refused or failed to provide the aid required by CEIFA following application of all its formulas. The only action taken by respondents was to implement, in addition to all other formulas required, those provisions of the statute which were structured, for the years in question, to create a transition between the prior and new funding systems; so as, in the interest of avoiding disruption and promoting effective use of funds, to prevent both extraordinary increases and extraordinary decreases in the aid provided to any district. In this regard, respondents were doing no more than fulfilling their obligation under the law.[4]

However, although petitioners' primary claim is, in effect, that any application of the stabilization clause is inherently unconstitutional because it will result in an aid amount different from that provided by the core curriculum standards formula, petitioners also contend that respondents erred in their actual calculation. Specifically, petitioners claim that respondents perpetuated the unconstitutionality of the Quality Education Act (QEA) by applying CEIFA's stabilization formula to the aid respondents' district had received in the 1996-97 school year, that is, under the QEA, rather than to the amount otherwise due the district under CEIFA. In so doing, petitioners cl im, respondents may have relied on one sentence contained in N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-10, stating that "For the 1997-98 school year, the pre-budget year total shall include foundation aid, transition aid, categorical aids for special education, bilingual education, and county vocational education, and transportation aid paid for the 1996-97 school year." Petitioners contend,

> There are two ways to interpret that sentence. Clearly, respondents interpret that sentence to be restrictive. It is necessarily their position that only the items set forth in that sentence can be utilized in determining the CEIFA base.  Petitioners would contend that such a construction is incorrect. If the Legislature had intended that construction, then it would have stated:
> "for the 1997-98 school year, the pre-budget year total shall consist a/foundation aid..."
>
> The clear purpose of that sentence is to insure that schools which had come to rely upon the amount of foundation aid which they had received under QEA II would not now suddenly have inflicted upon them a serious budgetary shortfall. In short, the Legislature was establishing a floor, a minimum below which funding could not fall.
> (Petitioners' Brief in Opposition to Motion to Dismiss Second Amended Petition of Appeal at 9) (emphasis sic)

Based upon this reasoning, petitioners conclude that, if the Legislature in enacting CEIFA intended the interpretation taken by respondents, then the act is inherently unconstitutional in its reliance on a discredited funding formula; if it did not, then respondents erred in their calculations. Either way, petitioners contend, they must prevail.

This argument fails on two counts. Initially, as noted by respondents, the QEA was found unconstitutional only as applied to twenty-eight special needs districts because it did not assure substantial equivalence between such districts and District Factor Grouping I & J districts. (Respondents' Reply to Petitioners' Brief in Opposition to Motion to Dismiss Second Amended Petition at 2) Therefore, there is no absolute impediment to using aid amounts allocated pursuant to it as the basis for initial calculations under the Legislature's successor funding formula, pa_rticularly for districts other than the twenty-eight "Abbott" districts. Further, a reading of N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-10 in its entirety clearly indicates that, in that section, the Legislature was seeking to define, for each transitional year between enactment and 1999-2000, the precise base to which the stabilization growth limit was to be applied, and that, for the act's first year of operation, such base would, of necessity, reach back to amounts which had been awarded under the prior formula so as to effectuate an incremental transition from actual amounts received under the old funding law to actual amounts eventually to be received under the new. In this context, the interpretation espoused by petitioners is not only illogical, but also negates the carefully structured statutory scheme; whereas that taken by respondents is both reasonable and supported by legislative language and intent. See Stafford v. Stafford Zoning Board, 154 N.J. 62, 71 (1998) (wherein the Court held that legislative intent controls when construing a statute, and that, if the language of the statute clearly reveals its meaning, such language controls).

Having rejected petitioners' claims with regard to respondents' determination to apply, and their actual calculations under, CEIFA's stabilization provisions, the Commissioner turns to the effect of such application on the district's ability to provide T&E. Here, the Commissioner concurs with respondents that petitioners have entirely failed to plead requisite facts in support of their claims, a deficiency which cannot be overstated in the present context.

In determining that the within matter should be heard by the Commissioner rather than decided by the trial court as a matter of law, the Appellate Division expressly recognized that it "cannot simply be presumed that application of the stabilization aid growth limitdeprives the school district the ability to fulfill its constitutional mandate," and that proceedings in a forum of educational expertise were necessary to determine whether that was, indeed, the case. (Wildwood v. Loewe, supra, at 8)

Although petitioners list a half-dozen or so items the district alleges it has been unable to accomplish, such as hiring a curriculum coordinator and department chairpersons, training teaching staff, purchasing certain materials, and providing before-, after- and summer school remedial programs, there is no link whatsoever between the facts pled and petitioners' bald assertions that the district cannot implement the Core Curriculum Content Standards and that such inability is the direct result of insufficient funding due to respondents' application of CEIFA's stabilization provision. Neither are the facts petitioners allege, as noted by respondents, indicative of failures which could in any way be characterized as "clear, severe, extensive and of long duration" so as to rise to the level of constitutional deficiency (Respondents' Letter Brief in Support of Motion to Dismiss Second Amended Petition at 10, citing Abbott v. Burke, 119 N.J. 287,385 (1990)).

In this regard, although petitioners assert that "liberality of pleading has been the byword in New Jersey," and that "[s]pecific fact pleading is not necessary, so long as "the fundament of a cause of action may be gleaned (citation omitted)," (Petitioners' Brief in Opposition to Motion to Dismiss Second Amended Petition of Appeal at 13), petitioners' primary contention is, in fact, that educational inequities need not even be pied:

> As set forth in Paragraph 12 of the First Count of petitioners' petition, it is respondents who have determined what is necessary for petitioner BOARD to afford the children of Wildwood a thorough and efficient education. Pursuant to CEIFA, respondent has calculated the amount of CEIFA aid which petitioner must receive in order to provide a thorough and efficient education. Petitioner BOARD would emphasize that those numbers were certified to petitioner BOARD by respondent Commissioner Klagholz pursuant to CEIFA. As such, they constitute admissions against interest, and respondent is necessarily estopped from denying that those amounts of funding are necessary if the children of Wildwood are to receive a thorough and efficient education.

> Accordingly, it is unnecessary for petitioners to specifically plead "educational inequities." Such inequities are implicitly admitted by respondents. (Id. at 13-14) (emphasis sic)

This contention plainly reveals petitioners' claim in regard to the effect of respondents' application of CEIFA to be nothing more than a restatement of their earlier claim, that application of the stabilization provision, in and of itself, warrants a finding of unconstitutionality; such claim, however, has already been expressly rejected, both by the Appellate Division, supra, and herein. Moreover, the contention is fatal to any request for a factual hearing on claims regarding the constitutionality of CEIFA as applied, since, by it, petitioners are plainly alleging that the only facts material to such claims have already been admitted by respondents.

In addition, as observed by respondents, inherent in petitioners' arguments is the suggestion that, if not for respondents' application of CEIFA's stabilization aid clause, the district would be able to provide T&E. However, the Commissioner talces notice of the undisputed fact that Wildwood received more aid in 1997-98, even after stabilization, than it had under the prior funding formula. He further notes that the district received approximately $1.5 million over and above CEIFA aid through special language in the 1997 and 1998 Appropriation Acts. Finally, he observes that, by its own terms and consistent with its dual purpose as a transitioning device and a mechanism for controlling the growth of State aid from year to year, CEIFA's stabilization provision will work in the 1999-2000 school year and beyond so that the final aid calculation for Wildwood in any given year will include core curriculum standards aid based on the district's growth in actual enrollment, without the transitional limitation imposed during the first two years of the act's operation. (Respondents' Letter Brief in Support of Motion to Dismiss Second "?-mended Petition at 10-11) To the extent that petitioners are alleging that the stabilization provision, as it will apply in 1999-2000 and beyond, acts to prevent the district from providing T&E in accordance with the constitutional mandate, such allegation, in addition to being insufficiently pied, is premature until such time as the funding formulas of CEIFA have been fully reflected in the educational programs of the district and afforded an opportunity to work as intended.

Given the dearth of legal and factual sufficiency in the claims advanced by petitioners, the Commissioner finds that no useful purpose would be served by further proceedings in this matter. Accordingly, the Commissioner declines to direct such proceedings, and, for the reasons expressed herein, grants respondents' motion and dismisses the petition of appeal. [5] [6]

RESPONDENTS-RESPONDENTS.	:

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Zazzali, Zazzali, Fagella & Nowak {Richard A. Friedman, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondents-Respondents, Arlene G. Lutz, Deputy Attorney General {John J. Farmer, Attorney General of New Jersey)

In a letter dated July 2, 1999, the PleasanTech Academy Charter School Education Association (hereinafter "petitioner") filed a complaint with the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-15,[1] alleging that teachers employed by the charter school were not being compensated in conformity with the terms of the school's charter. The petitioner claimed that the school's action violated N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-11, which requires a charter school to operate in accordance with its charter.

[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-15 provides, in pertinent part:

> Any individual or group may bring a complaint to the board of trustees of a charter school alleging a violation of the provisions of this act. If, after presenting the complaint to the board of trustees, the individual or group determines that the board of trustees has not adequately addressed the complaint, they may present that complaint to the commissioner who shall investigate and respond to the complaint. ...

Consequently, it requested that the Commissioner conduct an investigation of this matter.

By letter dated October 18, 1999, Anne O'Dea, Director of the Office of School Choice in the Department of Education, advised the counsel for the petitioner that the Department's Office of Compliance was conducting an investigation of the complaint. On December 22, 1999, counsel for the petitioner wrote to Ms. O'Dea requesting the status of the investigation. He added that unless a response was received by January 1, 2000, the petitioner "may initiate appropriate action ... which may include ... instituting litigation ...."

By letter dated December 23, 1999, Ms. O'Dea responded that a review by the Office of Compliance of the concerns raised by the petitioner revealed that the school was addressing accounting deficiencies and that its teachers were being compensated in accordance with the terms of their individual contracts. She observed that "although budgeted amounts are included in the charter, the amounts are projections."

On January 18, 2000, the petitioner filed the instant appeal to the State Board "from the final decision rendered on behalf of the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-15, by Anne O'Dea, Director, Office of School Choice, New Jersey Department of Education on December 23, 1999."

For the reasons that follow, we remand this matter to the Commissioner for a final decision with respect to the petitioner's complaint.

N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-15, which authorizes "any individual or group" to present a complaint to the Commissioner if they determine that the charter school's board of trustees has not adequately addressed it, requires the Commissioner to investigate and respond to such complaint if it alleges a violation of the provisions of the Charter School Program Act. In this case, the Commissioner did not respond to the petitioner's complaint. Rather, the only response was from Ms. O'Dea, Director of the Office of School Choice.

Nothing in the correspondence between the parties reflects that Ms. O'Dea was fulfilling, on behalf of the Commissioner, the statutory function imposed on him by the terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-15. Nor is she an assistant commissioner, who may be assigned by the Commissioner to hear and determine disputes arising under the education laws as permitted by N.J.S.A. 18A:4-34c. Consequently, there is not in this case a decision rendered on behalf of the Commissioner that is appealable to the State Board of Education. See N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 (appeals to the State Board may be taken by any party aggrieved "by any determination of the commissioner"); N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.1 \a) (final decisions of the Commissioner are appealable to the State Board).

Hence, it is necessary to remand this matter to the Office of Controversies and Disputes in order to provide the Commissioner with the opportunity to render a determination with respect to the petitioner's complaint. Given the amount of time that has elapsed since the petitioner filed its complaint with the Commissioner, we direct that the Commissioner make such determination expeditiously.

VOLUNTARY SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT, WAIVER AND RELEASE

The State-Operated School District of the City of Newark ('"Newark" or "District") and Mark Leibowitz ("Leibowitz"), agree to the following terms in full resolution of this matter:

WHEREAS, Leibowitz disputes the bases for the District's withholding of his 1_9.7-1998 and 1998-1999 increments, and

WHEREAS, it appears that Leibowitz has made efforts to improve bis performance during the current school year; and

WHEREAS, the parties agree that it is in the public interest to enter into this agreement in resolution of said charges in order to avoid the uncertainty and expense of litigation, and

WHEREAS, the parties further agree that the terms of this agreement \Vill not present any risk of harm to students and/or the safe operation of the school district,

NOW, TIIEREFORE, the parties agree as follows:

1. The District shall, upon approval of this agreement by the State District Superintendent and the Commissioner of Education, restore Petitioner's 1998-1999 salary increment. The 1997-1998 increment withholding shall remain in effect.

2. . The 1997-1998 increment withholding shall remain in effect until the end of the 1998-1999 school year, at which time Newark will review Leibowitz' observations and evaluations. If Leibowitz' annual summative evaluation reflects a satisfactory rating, he shall be placed back on the appropriate level of the salary guide, effective September 1, 1999, as if neither increment withholding had occurred.

3. Leibowitz shall, upon execution of this agreement, withdraw with prejudice the appeals filed in relation to the 1997-1998 and 1998-1999 increment withholdings, specifically OAL Docket Nos. EDUOR 1 1498-97N and EDUOR 01151-99N.

4. Leibowitz acknowledges that the payments reflected in this agreement constit , the full financial obligation of the District and that he shall receive no additional payments. In exchange for the above consideration, Leibowitz, on behalf of himself, his heirs, successors and assigns, hereby fully releases and forever discharges the District, its representatives, agents, officers and employees, for any and all actions, claims and liabilities of whatsoever kind. in character, that he has had or may now have: against any v.fthem, relative ta the !itlg:u:ion h:!d.:1 identified.

5. This agreement is subject to the approval of the State District Superintendent and the Commissioner of Education.

6. The parties enter this agreement voluntarily and without coercion, after consultation with their respective counsel.

IN THE MATIER OF THE DENIAL OF THE :
CHARTER SCHOOL APPLICATION OF THE : STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
LIBERTY ACADEMY CHARTER SCHOOL, : DECISION
SOMERSET COUNTY. :

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, January 6, 2000

For the Appellant, Michael Detsis, pro se

For the Participant, Dina Rocco, Deputy Attorney General (John J. Farmer, Attorney General of New Jersey)

On February 5, 2000, the presidenUco-founder of the proposed Liberty Academy Charter School (hereinafter "appellant") filed an appeal to the State Board of Education from a letter decision of the Commissioner of Education denying his application to establish a charter school. On February 25, 2000, the Director of the State Board Appeals Office {"Director") advised the appellant that the Commissioner had pro ided the State Board with the record in this matter and that the briefing schedule was therefore being established. She informed the appellant that a brief in support of his appeal was due on or before March 10, 2000.

The appellant, however, failed to file a brief by that date. By letter dated March 14, 2000, the Director advised the appellant of his failure to file a brief and informed him that this matter was being referred to the Legal Committee of the State Board for consideration of his failure to perfect the appeal.

By letter dated April 26, 2000, the Director further advised the appellant that "given the circumstances, and in view of your pro se status, you are being given the opportunity to file your brief along with an explanation, and the request that the Legal Committee accept the brief." The appellant was given until May 15, 2000 to file such documents, and the Director attached a copy of the regulations governing appeals to the State Board.

The appellant, however, failed to file a brief by May 15. By letter dated May 25, 2000, the Director advised the appellant of such failure and again indicated that the matter was being referred to the Legal Committee. The appellant has still failed to file a brief in support of his appeal, nearly two months after the extended deadline. Nor has he offered any explanation for his failure to file or requested an extension of time for such filing. Given these circumstances, we dismiss the appeal in this matter for faHure to perfect. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.12(a). See Paszamant v. Board of Education of the Borough of Highland Park, decided by the State Board, April 1, 1992, aff'd, Docket #A-4812-91-3 (App. Div. 1993).

BEFORE: ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

NEW JERSEY IS AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

On or abouf April 29, 1999, the Linden Board of Education certified charges of unbecoming conduct, insubordination and incapacity against respondent, Sheila H. Jackson, a tenured music teacher. On May 13, 1999, respondent filed an answer denying the charges and asserting affirmative defenses. On May 20, 1999, the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J. S.A. 52:148-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

On July 9, 1999, petitioner, Sheila H. Jackson, filed a verified petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education alleging that respondent improperly withheld her employment and adjustment increments for the 1999-2000 school year. The Linden Board of Education filed an answer on July 21, 1999 demanding judgment against petitioner and seeking dismissal of the verified petition. On August 11, 1999, the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J. .A. 52:148-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The tenure case (OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5357-99) was assigned to Administrative Law Judge Stephen G. Weiss and scheduled for hearing on September 21 through September 24, 1999 at the Office of Administrative Law, 185 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey 07102. It was understood that the increment withholding case (OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9129-99) would be consolidated with the tenure case. The cases were assigned to the undersigned judge on September 20, 1999 and are consolidated for purposes of hearing and decision. As a result of settlement conferences held between the parties, a settlement was reached on September 22, 1999, and the hearing was adjourned.

The parties have agreed to settle these matters and have prepared the attached Settlement Agreement, indicating the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The settlement agreement complies with the requirements of Cardonick v. Brooklawn Bd. of Educ., 193 SLD --- (St. Bd. April 6, 1983).

2. The parties have agreed to the settlement, as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

3. The settlement agreement is in the public interest.

4. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A. C. 1: 1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

WHEREAS, Sheila H. Jackson (hereinafter referred to as "Jackson") has been employed by the Linden Board of Education (hereinafter referred to as "the Board") as a Teacher of Music since January 1991 and has obtained tenure as a teaching staff member; and

WHEREAS, on or about March 9, 1999, the Board served Jackson with tenure charges of unbecoming conduct, incapacity and other just cause; and

WHEREAS, on or about March 17, 1999, Jackson filed a Verified Petition with the Commissioner of Education alleging that she was the subject of a work-related injury and that her rights under N.J.S.A. 1SA:30-2.1 were being violated. This matter, entitled Jackson v. Linden Board of Education, Agency

Ref. No. 54-3/99, OAL Docket No. EDU 3617-99, has been placed on the inactive list, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-9.7, pending the resolution of a Workers' Compensation Claim Petition (Docket No. CP-98-037124) filed on Jackson's behalf.

WHEREAS, on April 26, 1999, the Board resolved to certify the charges to the Commissioner of Education but determined not to suspend Jackson from her teaching position pending a determination of the charges; and

WHEREAS, on or about May 12, 1999, Jackson filed an Answer of Denial and Affirmative Defenses to the Tenure charges; and

WHEREAS, on or about June 17, 1999, the Board resolved to withhold Jackson's employment and adjustment increments for the 1999-2000 school year; and

WHEREAS, on or about July 8, 1999, Jackson filed a Verified Petition with the Commissioner of Education alleging the withholding of increment(s); and

WHEREAS, throughout the pendency of these matters, Jackson has been reporting to work and performing her duties in a satisfactory manner; and

WHEREAS, the parties have engaged in extensive discovery and also reviewed and considered the reports of physicians who have had the opportunity to examine Jackson and who have determined her to be fit to teach; and

WHEREAS, further litigation of these charges would necessitate the disruption of the Board's educational program due to the necessary absence of administrators, teachers and others who would be called to testify at hearing, said hearing expected to require at least four days to conclude; and

WHEREAS, the Board would incur substantial financial costs by continuing this litigation that would significantly exceed the cost of this settlement; and

WHEREAS, the Board has received the recommendation of its Superintendent of Schools that the dismissal of Jackson is no longer desired, nor, given her skills and experience, in the best interests of the Board and, therefore, the public; and

WHEREAS, the parties wish to amicably resolve their differences in these consolidated matters without the need to resort to formal litigation;

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the aforementioned mutual premises and promises and in exchange for the consideration more particularly set forth below, the parties hereby agree as follows:

1. The Board agrees to withdraw, with prejudice, its tenure charges in the above-captioned matter being OAL Docket No. EDU 05357-99 and Agency Ref. No. 94-4/99 subject to the approval of this Agreement by the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education.

2. Jackson agrees to withdraw, with prejudice, the Verified Petition regarding the 1999-2000 withholding of increments and bearing OAL Docket No. 09129-99 and Agensy Ref. No. 192-7/99, subject to the approval of this Agreement by the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education. Notwithstanding said withdrawal, nothing shall preclude Jackso1 from requesting the Board, in its discretion, to restore said increments in future years and pursuant to N.J.S.A. lBA:29-14.

3. Jackson reserves any and all rights that she was to continue to pursue a determination of a certain Workers' Compensation Claim Petition (Docket No. CP-98-037124) and as a consequence of that determination, resolution of the Verified Petition in Jackson v. Linden Board of Education, Agency Ref. No. 54-3/99 and OAL Docket No. EDU 3617-99.

4. The parties' entry into this settlement agreement shall not be construed as an admission of guilt or wrong doing by either party.

5. The parties acknowledge that this Agreement shall be submitted to the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education for review and approval, and th t the terms of this Agreement are expressly made subject to and contingent upon such review and approval. In the event that either agency disapproves and/or rejects any of the terms contained herein, this Agreement shall be null and void and the parties shall return to the same positions they held prior to this Agreement.

6. The parties acknowledge that each has consulted with an attorney or a representative of their own choosing prior to signing this Agreement and that each sign this Agreement as their own voluntary act and deed, and that they fully understand the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

7. This Agreement shall be subject to the laws of the State of New Jersey.

..8. The undersigned representatives of the Board herehy acknowledge that they have been duly authorized by the Board to sign this Agreement and bind the Board to its terms.

9. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties.

INITIAL DECISION
SETTLEMENT
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5450-98
AGENCY DKT. NO. 128-5/ 8

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF FRANCES URBAN

Stephen R. Fogarty, Esq., for petitioner
(Fogarty & Hara, attorneys)

Daniel D. Hediger, Esq., for respondent
(Louis A. Capazzi Jr., attorney)

Record Closed: November 17, 1999 Decided: November 18, 1999

BEFORE: KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

This matter involves tenure charges of inefficiency certified by the Montvale Board of Education ("Board") against Frances Urban under the Tenure Employees' Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -18.1.

Frances Urban is a tenured secretary employed by the Board. By resolution adopted on May 4, 1998, the Board found the existence of probable cause to certify tenure charges which, if true, are sufficient to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary. Basically, the Board accused Ms. Urban of failure to correct numerous inefficiencies within ninety days of her receipt of notice of the specific deficiencies. Ms. Urban has consistently denied the charges against her.

On May 6, 1998, the District filed its written charges with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner"). Ms. Urban filed her original answer on May 26, 1998 and her amended answer on September 3, 1998. Meanwhile, on June 11, 1998, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for determination as a contested case.

Both parties have agreed to a proposed settlement, subject to approval by the Commissioner. In accordance with the decision of the State Board of Education in Cardonick v. Brooklawn Bd. of Educ., 1983 S.L.O. _ (St. Bd. April 6, 1983), the record of any proposed settlement must include:

> . . . the nature of the charges, circumstances justifying the settlement, consent or authorization by the Board of Education and the [employee] to the proposed agreement, the Administrative Law Judge's finding that the [employee] entered into the agreement with a full understanding of his rights, and (a finding] that the agreement is consistent with the public interest.

On November 17, 1999, the parties submitted a written record sufficient to make a determination of whether or not the proposed settlement should be accepted. Counsel for both parties have set forth the reasons why a settlement would be in the public interest. In addition, the parties have prepared a stipulation of settlement, which is attached and fully incorporated in this decision.

Based on my review of the record, I FIND that the proposed settlement is consistent with the public interest for the following reasons:

1. Frances Urban has been employed by the Board as a secretary since November 1986.

2. The Board served her with the first set of charges of inefficiency on November 21, 1997 and with a second set of charges of inefficiency on March 10, 1998. According to the Board's pleadings, Ms. Urban has failed to correct many of these alleged areas of inefficiency.

3. If a hearing becomes necessary, the Board intends to call at least six fact witnesses and the secretary intends to call at least five fact witnesses. Given the voluminous statement in support of the charges filed by the Board, the hearing will last at least six days and may not finish within the time allotted.

4. Litigation of the charges would lead to disruption of the Board's educational program due to a great amount of time lost by administrators, teaching staff members and office personnel who would be required to testify to the numerous incidents which led to the filing of the tenure charges.

5. Board counsel estimates conservatively that legal fees for prosecuting this case before the Commissioner would be approximately $50,000.

6. Under the proposed terms of settlement, Ms. Urban will resign from her position effective March 15, 1999, which was the last date that she was on the Board payroll. She will receive a payment of $19,412, which represents the difference between the salary which she would earn for two years, less the salary that she is currently earning. Thus, the settlement cost to the district is far less than the anticipated costs of litigation.

7. She would also receive payment of $8,376, representing her accumulated sick leave and accrued vacation time. Ms. Urban is entitled to that amount regardless of the outcome of the tenure charges.

8. If the matter proceeds to hearing, it is unlikely that a final decision will be rendered prior to the end of March 2000. Meanwhile, Ms. Urban would be entitled by law to a continuation of her pay pending the outcome of the hearing.

9. From the Board's viewpoint, the outcome under the settlement would be better than could be achieved if it prevailed after a lengthy and costly tenure battle. Money spent on litigation costs could be put to better use for the benefit of the children of Montvale.

10. Before entering into this agreement, Ms. Urban fully understood her rights and had adequate opportunity to consult with legal counsel.

11. Since Ms. Urban does not hold any educational certification, this is not the type of case which must be referred to the State Board of Examiners for licensing review.

12. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy.

I CONCLUDE that the terms of settlement are in the public interests.

It is ORDERED that the parties comply with the settlement terms and thf;lt the proceedings are hereby concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J. S.A. 52: 148-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF FRANCES URBAN, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF MONTVALE, BERGEN COUNTY	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION/OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW O.A.L. DOCKET NO.: EDU 5450-98 AGENCY REF. NO.: 128-5/98 SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

WHEREAS, the respondent, Frances Urban (herein fter referred to as "Urban"), has been employed by the petitioner, the Board of Education of the Borough of Montvale (hereinafter referred to as the "Board") as a secretary since 1986 and has obtained tenure in that position;

WHEREAS, on or about November 21, 1997, the Board Secretary/School Business Administrator served Urban with charges of inefficiency together with a written statement of evidence in support thereof;

WHEREAS, Urban was informed in writing that, unless the inefficiencies were corrected within ninety (90) days, the Board intended to certify the charges of inefficiency to the Commissioner of Education;

WHEREAS, on or about February 23, 1998, the administrators responsible for bringing the charges of inefficiency to the attention of the Board notified the Board in writing what charges had not been corrected;

WHEREAS, on or about March 10, 1998, the Board Secretary/School Business Administrator formally served Urban with charges of inefficiency, which included only those charges that had not been corrected during the ninety (90) correction period, together with a written statement of evidence in support thereof;

WHEREAS, Urban was advised that she had fifteen (15) days in which to file a written response to the charges of inefficiency with the Board;

WHEREAS, Urban did not file a written response to the charges of inefficiency with the Board;

WHEREAS, on May 4, 1998, the Board certified the charges of inefficiency and suspended Urban without pay effective May 6, 1998;

WHEREAS, said charges of inefficiency were filed by petition with the Commissioner of Education on May 6, 1998;

WHEREAS, Urban filed an Answer to the petition on May 26, 1998, denying the charges filed against her;

WHEREAS, since at least September 1, 1998, Urban has been and continues to be employed in a health care facility, where she earns $18,720 annually;

WHEREAS, Urban's suspension without pay expired on September 1, 1998, whereafter Urban's suspension continued with pay, less compensation earned outside of the Board's employ, fro.m September 1, 1998 until May 4, 1999;

WHEREAS, at Urban's request, the Honorable Ken R. Springer, A.L.J., adjourned the hearing in this matter, which was scheduled to begin on April 27, 1999;

WHEREAS, as a condition to the above-mentioned adjournment, Urban agreed that the Boards' obligation under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 to pay Urban her full salary during her period of suspension, less any sums received by way of substitute employment, would be suspended during the period of the adjournment, said obligation resuming upon the first day of hearing in this matter, and to reimburse the Board in the amount of $1,500, which amount represented the Board's attorney's fees incurred in connection with its preparation for the hearing, said conditions being embodied in an Order signed by Judge Springer dated May 4, 1999;

WHEREAS, Urban's last day on the Board's payroll was March 15, 1999;

WHEREAS, Urban's obligation to reimburse the Board in the amount of $1,500 was converted to a judgment by the Superior Court of New Jersey, Law Division, by way of summary proceeding to enforce Judge Springer's order, which proceeding was unopposed by Urban;

WHEREAS, further litigation of these charges would necessitate the disruption of the Board's educational program due to the necessary absence of administrators, teachers and office personnel who would be called to testify at the hearing, said hearing expected to require at least six (6) days to conclude;

WHEREAS, the continuation of this litigation would cause the Board to incur substantial financial costs that would significantly exceed the cost of this settlement;

WHEREAS, the parties agree that a settlement would be in the best interests of the Montvale Public Schools and, therefore, the public; and

WHEREAS, the parties wish to amicably resolve their differences without the need to resort to any further litigation;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the aforementioned mutual premises and promises and in exchange for the consideration more particularly set forth below, the parties hereby agree as follows:

1. Urban hereby resigns her position of employment with the Board, together with all tenure and seniority rights, effective March 15, 1999, subject only to approval of this Agreement by the Board, the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education. Urban submits her resignation knowingly, voluntarily and irrevocably, free of coercion or duress, after consulting with counsel and receiving advice as to its ramifications. Urban will sign an irrevocable letter of resignation from all employment with the Board. The form of Urban's irrevocable letter of resignation is attached hereto as Exhibit A.

2. The Board agrees to withdraw, with prejudice, its tenure charges in the above-captioned matter bearing O.A. L. Docket No. EDU 5450-98 and Agency Ref. No. 128-5/98, subject to the approval of this Agreement by the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education.

3. In consideration for Urban's resignation effective March 15, 1999, the Board agrees to pay Urban the following compensation:

a. $9,706, less usual and customary deductions for withholding taxes and charges, which represents the difference between the salary that Urban would earn from March 15, 1999 to March 15, 2000 if she remained in the Board's employ ($28,426) and the salary that she is currently earning, and expected to earn during that period, outside of the Board's employ ($18,720);

b. $9,706, less usual and customary deductions for withholding taxes and charges, which represents the difference between the salary that Urban would earn from March 15, 2000 to March 15, 2001 if she remained in the Board's employ ($28,426) and the salary that she is currently earning, and expected to earn during that period, outside of the Board's employ ($18,720);

c. $5,000, less usual and customary deductions for withholding taxes and charges, which represents payment for Urban's accumulated sick leave (one-hundred days at $50 per day pursuant to the terms of the 1994-1997 Agreement between the Board and the Montvale Secretaries Association), to which she is legally entitled regardless of whether or not her separation from the Board's employ is voluntary or involuntary; and

d. $3,376, less usual and customary deductions for withholding taxes and charges, which represents payment for Urban's accrued vacation (27.4 days at $123.22 per day pursuant to the formula contained in the 1994-1997 Agreement between the Board and the Montvale Secretaries Association), to which she is legally entitled regardless of whether or not her separation from the Board's employ is voluntary or involuntary.

All monies due to Urban under this Agreement will be paid, after normal payroll deductions, upon final approval of this Agreement by the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education.

4. The compensation and benefits specified in paragraph 3 of this Agreement are to be provided in consideration for Urban waiving any and all claims she has, or could have, against the Board, its agents, employees, and representatives, including, but not limited to, claims for discrimination, contract, tort, constitutional violations and/or attorney's fees. Urban shall execute a General Release in favor of the Board releasing the Board from all claims, liabilities or expenses to which it may be subject, arising from any claims or rights of Urban. The form of this General Release is attached hereto as Exhibit B. Nothing in this Agreement or the documents referenced herein shall preclude eith r party from bringing an action to enforce performance of any term of this Agreement should there be a default in performance.

5. Urban shall pay to the Board $1,500 as and for reimbursement of the Board's attorneys fees incurred in connection with its preparation for the April 27, 1999 hearing, which was adjourned at Urban's request. Urban expressly authorizes the Board to withhold this amount ($1,500) from the monies due to Urban under paragraph 3 of this Agreement. Upon its receipt of said amount, the Board shall file a Warrant to Satisfy Judgment with the Superior Court of New Jersey.

6. The parties acknowledge that this Agreement shall be submitted to the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education for review and approval, and that the terms of this Agreement are expressly made subject to and contingent upon such review and approval. In the event that either agency disapproves and/or rejects any of the terms contained herein, this Agreement shall be null and void and the parties shall return to the same positions which they held prior to this Agreement.

7. The parties acknowledge that each has consulted with an attorney or a representative of their own choosing prior to signing this Agreement and that each signs this Agreement as their own voluntary act and deed, and that they fully understand the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

8. Urban represents that at least twenty-one (21) days have passed from the date she received this Agreement, which was on or about March 8, 1999, and the date she signed this Agreement, during which time she had the opportunity to consider the terms of this Agreement. Pursuant to law, Urban may revoke this Agreement if she provides the Board with written notice within seven (7) days from the date she signs this Agreement. Failure to provide written notice to the Board within the seven (7) day time period shall result in this Agreement becoming a binding obligation upon Urban.

9. This Agreement shall be subject to the laws of the State of New Jersey.

10. The undersigned representatives of the Board hereby acknowledge that they have been duly authorized by the Board to sign this Agreement and bind the Board to its terms.

11. Urban hereby declares that she is of sufficient physical, mental and emotional capacities to understand and agree to all of the terms and conditions of this Agreement and that she is satisfied with her legal representation. Urban agrees that she is and will continue to be bound by these terms and conditions in the future.

12. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked, except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties.

IN WITNESS, WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the date and year aforesaid.

Respondent.

Donald E. Souders, Esq., represented petitioner

Ted Del Guercio, Esq., represented respondent

BEFORE THOMAS E. CLANCY, ALJ:

In this matter, the Board of Education determined that petitioner was not domiciled in Harmony Township and that he therefore had to withdraw from the school district or pay tuition to it. Petitioner appealed this determination and the matter was referred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), on February 7, 1997 for resolution as a contested case.

During the pendency of the case at the Office of Administrative Law, the parties settled their differences in October 1998 (see Exhibit "A"), and a settlement agreement was drafted in January 1999 (see Exhibit "A"). Nevertheless, the petitioner and his parents, Robert and Patricia Heim, never signed the agreement.

On April 15, 1999, the undersigned contacted petitioner's attorney and was advised that he had had a great deal of difficulty in contacting the Heims, but would keep trying to get in touch with them. Thereafter, the undersigned himself left messages on the Heims' telephone answering machine {908-454-2810) on 5/11/99, 5/18/99, 5/24/99, 6/3/99 and 6/11/99 {see Exhibit "8"), but no one called him back. On August 16, 1999, the undersigned was informed by respondent's attorney that a complaint was filed in Superior Court against he Heims for the money they owed the Board of Education and that proper service had been effected upon them (see Exhibit "C").

Finally, on September 15, 1999, a Final Judgment by Default was entered by the Superior Court of New Jersey in Warren County against the Heims in the amount of $8046.69 with costs, in favor of the Harmony Township Board of Education {see Exhibit "D").

Based on the foregoing, the undersigned is persuaded to CONCLUDE that all issues originally litigable at the Office of Administrative Law have now been rendered MOOT by the Superior Court adjudication referred to above. Furthermore, for the reasons stated in a letter to the Heims from their attorney dated October 25, 1999 (see Exhibit "E") . . . and because the Heims have not contacted the undersigned as of this date*, the undersigned also CONCLUDES that the Heims' failure to respond is tantamount to the abandonment of their request for an OAL hearing.

Accordingly, I ORDER that the Heims' request for a hearing be (and is hereby) DISMISSED without prejudice.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:148-10.

* even though they received their attorney's certified letter instructing them to contact the undersigned (see Exhibit "F") by November 10, 1999.

STATE, OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK	:	VOLUNTARY SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT, WAIVER and RELEASE
Respondent.	:

The State, Operated School District of the City of Newark ("Newark" or "District") and Eugene Graham ("Graham"), agree to the following terms in full resolution of this matter:

WHEREAS, Graham disputes the basis for the District's withholding of his 1998, 1999 increment; and

WHEREAS, it appears that Graham made efforts to improve his performance during the 1998, 1999 school year and he received a satisfactory annual evaluation for the 1998, 1999 school year; and

WHEREAS, the parties agree that it is in the public interest to enter into this agreement in resolution of said charges in order to avoid the uncertainty and expense of litigation; and

WHEREAS, the parties further agree that the terms of this agreement will not present any risk of harm to students and/or the safe operation of the school district.

NOW, THEREFORE, the parties agree as follows:

1. The 1998, 1999 increment withholding shall remain in effect until the end of the 1999,2000 school year, at which time Newark will review Graham's observations and evaluations. If Graham's annual summative evaluation reflects a satisfactory rating, he shall be placed back on the appropriate step, degree level, and dollar amount of the salary guide, effective September 1, 2000. The withheld monies will not be returned to Mr. Graham.

2. Graham shall, upon execution of this agreement, withdraw with prejudice, the appeal filed in relation to his 1998, 1999 increment withholding specifically OAL Docket No. EDU 11652,98.

3. Graham acknowledges that the payments reflected in this agreement constitute the full financial obligation of the District and that he shall receive no additional payments. In exchange for the above consideration, Graham, on behalf of himself, his heirs, successors and assigns, hereby full releases and forever discharges the District, its representatives, agents, officers and employees, for any and all actions, claims and liabilities c[c] whatsoever kind in character, that he has had or may now have agalnst an[y] of them, relative to the litigation herein identified.

4. This agreement is subject to the approval of the State District Superintendent and the Commissioner of Education.

5. The parties enter this agreement voluntarily and without coercion, after consultation with their respective counsel.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parents appealed Board's decision denying their request for permission for their daughter to attend Toms River High School or Brick Memorial High School instead of Lakewood High School after a fellow student allegedly assaulted her.

Upon petitioners' advice that they had'withdrawn their daughter from Lakewood High School, the ALJ dismissed the matter as moot.

The Commissioner affirmed the recommended decision of the ALJ.

BEFORE JEFFS. MASIN, ALJ:

This matter was opened to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") on an application for emergent relief first filed with the Commissioner of Education. C.J. and M.J., the parents of a 16-year-old female, C.M.J., requested emergency relief pem1itting their daughter to ,attend Toms River High School or Brick Memorial High School or alternatively to be continued on home instruction which she has been receiving since spring 1999.

This judge in this case issued an Interlocutory Order Denying Emergent Relief on October 20, 1999, which was affinned by the Commissioner of Education on October 29, 1999.

On November 10, 1999, the attorney for respondent informed this office that C.M.J. was withdrawn from Lakewood High School.

Therefore, having reviewed the record and for good cause shown, it is hereby ORDERED that this matter be DISMISSED as moot since C.M.J. has withdrawn from the school district.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Petitioning parents appealed the Board's denial of credit for their son's senior- year, first-period Physics course due to excessive absenteeism, which barred him from graduation with his class on June 25, 1999 and prevented his graduation until he passed a five-credit course of his choosing, bringing the number of prerequisite credits to the total required.

The ALJ ordered that N.C. be credited with the A- grade earned and with the credits accumulated for successful completion of his Physics course, that N.C.'s cumulative grade point average be recalculated to reflect the actual grade earned and that N.C. be awarded his high school diploma.

The Commissioner concurred with the Al.J's finding of infirmity in the Board's appeal process for failure to provide petitioners with a clear listing of the absences underlying the decision to alter N.C.'s scholastic record, noting, however, that petitioners were warned about N.C.'s swiftly accumulating absences and reminded of the Board's policy of excessive absenteeism resulting in no course credit. Nonetheless, the Commissioner, like the AU, found that the Board's decision to compel N.C. to take a summer course after he had successfully completed his Physics course was unreasonable. The Commissioner affirmed the AlJ's recommended order of relief.

Record Closed: August 30, 1999 Decided: October 13, 1999

BEFORE JOSEPH LAVERY, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioners, G.J.C., the father. and L.C. the mother, on behalf of their son, N.C., appeal from denial of credit for his senior-year first-period course in Physics, which, as a consequence, (a) barred him from graduation with his class on June 25, 1999, and (b) prevented graduation until

N.C. passed a five-credit course of his choosing, bringing the number of prerequisite credits to the total required.

The Somerville Board of Education, respondent, contests the appeal, defending its actions and policy as reasonable and lawful.

Today's Initial Decision (a) awards full credit for the course in Physics, (b) directs that the cumulative point grade average reflect the actual grade earned, and (c) directs the award of a diploma.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This case was initiated by an appeal for emergent relief, dated June 21, 1999. The matter was filed in the Office of Administrative Law on June 22, 1999, and oral argument on the motion convened on Friday, June 25, 1999. On the same date, the administrative law judge issued an order granting the motion, which also of even date was reversed by an Assistant Commissioner of Education.

Thereafter, plenary hearing went forward on July 12, 1999. At hearing, the material facts were stipulated, and a motion for summary decision was brought by the Board. Briefs followed, the last of which was filed in the OAL on August 30, 1999. On that date the record closed.

ANALYSIS OF THE RECORD

Background:

The concise history of this matter was set forth in the June 25, 1999, order of the AU granting the motion for emergent relief:

> But for the present dispute, N.C., a senior at Somerville High School, would graduate in the ceremony this evening with his class. The Board has decided to bar N.C. from graduation because he was absent for sixteen days during his first period class. The limit for absences is 15 days. In disposing of the school-level appeal to the Board Attendance Committee by N.C. through his father, G.J.C., the Board maintained that there were no "extenuating circumstances or hardships" which would impel it to decide in his favor, and according to policy, credit for the course therefore will not be granted. The attendant consequences noted above followed, and petitioners brought the instant appeal.

The order of an Assistant Commissioner of Education, issued on even date, reversed the ALJ's grant of relief.

Against this background the parties agreed at plenary hearing of July 12, 1999, that the material facts were not in dispute. They determined to submit on stipulated facts, and that stipulation is incorporated verbatim as follows:

Absences

October 2, 1998	Absent all day for driving test
October 16, 1998	Absent all day for driving re-test
December 23, 1998	Absent for head injury obtained in Tae Kwon Do training, requiring physician treatment and CAT scan. The Board of Education has no "pink slip" of record.
January 7 and 8, 1999	Absent in California for national Tae Kwon Do championship (See, Exhs. R-5, P-31, P-32)
January 11, 1999	Absent because of return home from California championship at 2:30 a.m. (See, Exhs. R-5, P-31, P-32)
January 19	Major dental surgery, removal of four molars and treated by dentist, with confirming medical note. The Board of Education has no "pink slip" of record. Nevertheless, the school did note on record that an explanatory call from N.C.'s mother, L.C., was received on this date.(See. Exhs. P-8, P-9).

January 20	The parents assert that N.C. was recovering from the above dental surgery. The Board of Education has no "pink slip" of record.
February 11, March 3, April 19, 26	Mononucleosis, treated by physician, with confirming medical note. The Board of Education has no "pink slip" of record.

Late Arrivals

November 9	nineteen minutes late - slept in (See, Exh. P-2)
December 17	two hours, five minutes late - slept in (See, Exh. P-3)
February 9	thirty minutes late - pulled over by police (See, Exh. P-4)
February 10	fifteen minutes late (See, Exh. P-5)

Hearing

In response to petitioner's appeal, the School District did convene an Attendance Committee hearing, according to established procedures. The District did not beforehand provide the attendance records sought by G.N.C. Afterward, the District did not provide to G.N.C. the notes of each Committee member who decided, because they were shredded in the normal course, a practice designed to protect student privacy.
[Joint Stipulation of Facts, July 12, 1999]

On the foregoing stipulations, the parties bring the following arguments:

Parent's contention

The petitioners ask that (a) several specific absences of their son be excused (b) that N.C.'s grades, both during the year and from summer school, be accepted, and (c) that N.C.'s grade-point average reflect these grades.

In addition, the parents move in their letter brief of August 16, 1999 for various reimbursements and exonerating letters, as well as for modification of the school handbook and Board policy. Finally, they request the filing of the high school diploma awarded to their son.

The parents base their position on the following arguments:

First, petitioners believe that the rule book of the high school is unreasonable, and inconsistent with policies of the board itself. The board had publicly declared that arrival within the first 20 minutes was a one-half absence. If the student handbook is in conflict with that promulgated Board policy, it is the policy which must prevail. Petitioners contend that, although the State relied on a later policy promulgation, that policy was not found on any website as the Board maintained, and after review of the Board's hearing minutes, it was found not to be recorded there, either. Only an approval on second reading was noted. Petitioners insist that adherence to the Board's earlier published policy would reduce N.C.'s unexcused absences by at least one, bringing him within the allowable absence quota.

Second, petitioners offer other reasons to obviate some of the disputed absences:

They insist that it is unreasonable to accept without charge those latenesses for students from Branchburg who are transported by bus, and yet to charge students from the same location (including their son) who are transported by the parent. Additionally, petitioners' son, N.C., was absent on some days for an unavoidable medical or dental appointment, as board regulations permit. A penalty for failing to submit an excuse within 72 hours, as has been imposed here, is not reflected in board regulations and is unreasonable.

In fact, petitioners point out, medical excuses were provided at a later date by the attending doctors for the absence following his oral surgery, because N.C.'s physical condition was such that he could not attend class. In addition, N.C.'s absences on February 11, March 3, April 19 and 26, were confirmed as required because of the effects of lingering mononucleosis, and appellant was absent on December 23, 1998, because of a severe head injury requiring a cat scan on December 26. All were reasonable causes for absence.

Further, the Board's own regulations provide for absence to take a driver license examination. N.C. took that examination twice, on October 2 and October 16. Modification of the published Board policy by unpublished requirements is unreasonable, and N.C. should be credited for those days.

Petitioners argue as well that the Attendance Appeals Committee, the first level of review in this dispute, was unreasonable when it failed to provide, as requested, an accurate list of those dates of absence which the school felt did not fall within the acceptable range of absences. Further, the committee was unreceptive to any arguments, and immediately destroyed all evidence of its review, an act which denied both the petitioners and the Commissioner of any basis on which to determine whether the committee acted unreasonably.

The parents point out other perceived shortcomings: Although their son signed for a student handbook, none was provided to his parents, leaving them unaware of their collective obligations; the lack of verification slips was not made known to them, the parents, when N.C. was absent, even though these slips were critical to their son's graduation; and finally, it was unreasonable on its face to specify a minimum of 10 days absence to qualify as an instance of serious illness.

Responding to the Board's reply brief, petitioners argue that they have never accepted the facial reasonableness of the Board's policies or procedures, as the Board erroneously suggests. Moreover, introduction of evidence not stipulated, i.e., N.C.'s past record, is cause for dismissal of the Board's position, which is supported only by a case decision not analogous to the present circumstances.

Petitioner concludes that, for all these reasons, the board and the high school were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable in depriving their son of course credit, and of graduation with his class.

The Board's awment;

The Board maintains in its motion for summary decision that its attendance policy was reasonable, and properly enforced. Consequently, the presumption of its validity has not been overcome by petitioners, who have failed to carry their burden of proof. More to the point, neither the AU nor the Commissioner of Education can substitute their individual judgment for that of the board.

Relying on the jointly stipulated facts, the Board argues that the dispute is ripe for summary decision under existing case law, for the following reasons:

The petitioning student, N.C., received a copy of the 1998-99 Somerville Student Handbook (Exhibit R-1) which requires parental notes for absences. Moreover, petitioner's son failed to complete a "pink slip" explaining his absence, on seven of twelve occasions. His excuses were also unacceptable, the Board observed. Drivers examinations warrant only early dismissal, and must be verified. Medical notes are required to be submitted within 72 hours of medical treatment. Petitioner N.C. did not comply with any of these requirements.

In the Board's view, appellant's excuses are neither extraordinary nor unusual, yet, in reaching its decision, the attendance committee of the high school took them into account. It found that neither the tardies nor N.C.'s unexcused absences were for reasons acceptable under Board policy. Sixteen absences exceeds the number permitted. The Board highlights petitioners' compilation and submission of excuses as having occurred only after a warning of May 14, 1999. Petitioner's submissions were well beyond the time for compliance.

The Board emphasizes that the standard employed by the Attendance Appeal Committee of the high school was: "situations where unforeseen factors have created hardships" (Exhibit R-1, p. 3). This had not been satisfied in the committee's view. Neither oral surgery nor athletic competitions, nor four separate days of fatigue, or an entire day for each absence to take a driver's tests, or an alleged headache, would be sufficient excuses to justify absence. Neither do N.C.'s excuses of sleeping late, or being pulled over, or "abducted" justify tardiness, the board argues.

The Board maintains that petitioner was provided due process throughout. The parents were permitted to plead their case before the Attendance Appeals Committee, without limitation, and nothing of record demonstrates that the published Board policy on attendance, as modified in 1997, differs from the guiding rules in the student handbook. Petitioners have not proven detriment from reliance on unamended Board policy, rather than the available rule book. The lack of "discovery" before an attendance appeal is heard by the Attendance Appeal Committee is not a fatal legal defect. Parents coming before the Committee are not provided the dates of the challenged absences for a reason: the school seeks to prevent recalcitrant students from obtaining physician's notes months after the fact, when pink absence slips had not been completed at the appointed. times. Neither does the committee have to keep records of its proceedings, the Board argues.

The Board's reply to appellant's brief contends that petitioners improperly broaden d the scope of relief sought, and none of it is either within the jurisdiction of this tribunal or authorized by law. Additionally, despite petitioners' complaint of an erroneous copy of previously existing Board policy, the student handbook reflects the amended policy legally in effect. The handbook fully informs petitioners and their son of his school obligations.

Finally, the Board contends, the reasonableness of an attendance policy not of record is not within the purview of the relief sought or of the stipulations given. Neither may petitioners' brief's unsupported adversion to private conversations between client and attorney be considered by the AU, who had denied admission of that information at hearing.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Ripeness for summary decision:

This dispute is ripe for summary decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). That rule states:

> The motion for summary decision shall be served with briefs and with or without supporting affidavits. The decision sought may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. When a motion for summary decision is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. If the adverse party does not so respond, a summary decision, if appropriate, shall be entered.
> [N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5; See also, Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 73-75 (1954)]

Additionally, the facts must be considered in the light most favorable to the opposing party, Boyer v. Anchor Disposal, 135 N.J. 86 (1994).

Moreover, under the most recent guidelines delivered by our New Jersey Supreme Court, summary judgment is encouraged when the proper circumstances present themselves. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 541 (1995). The court there elaborated on its intent:

> Under this new standard, a determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth > of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 U.S. at 249, 106 S. Ct. at 2511, 91 L.Ed.2d at 212. Credibility determinations will continue to be made by a jury and not the judge. If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a "genuine" issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46-2. Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 U.S. at 250, 106 S. Ct. at 2511, 91 L.Ed.2d at 213. The import of our holding is that when the evidence " is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law," Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 U.S. at 252, 106 S. Ct. at 2512, 91 L1Ed. 2d at 214, the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment.

There are no disputes over material facts in this matter.

The applicable law:

The Board's action is presumed lawful. Neither the judgment of the ALJ nor the Commissioner of Education may be substituted for that of the Board. Nevertheless, the Board's decision must survive application of the legal standard that it be reasonable, and not arbitrary. Kopera V. Bd of Educ., Tp. of W. Orange, 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960).

This is the law which must be applied in the present circumstances.

Applying the Law to the Facts:

The ALJ's emergent relief order of June 25, 1998:

The material facts proposed during the oral argument on the motion for emergent relief are not different from those stipulated at plenary hearing. The rationale of the administrative law judge (ALJ) recommending the relief is therefore again appropriately offered to the Commissioner of Education for consideration: [1]

[1] However, it is stressed here that the Commissioner must consider as w ll the Assistant Commissioner's order of even date, rejecting this rationale, and reversing the AI.J's ruling.

There is no question that policy determinations by the Board may not be overturned unless that policy is arbitrary and unreasonable, Kopera, supra. Neither this tribunal nor the Commissioner may substitute his judgment for the Board in instances when the policy or its application is reasonable.

In this particular instance it is not unreasonable for the Board to expect petitioners' compliance with the policy of requiring timely notice to the school of the reasons for absence. Here, no notices were given as to absences. and only three explanatory "pink slips" were provided in school by N.C. on his r-eturn.

Nevertheless, the impact of denying N.C. course credit for a Physics course indisputably passed, denying graduation after four years with his class, and jeopardizing college entrance as well as grade point average is out of proportion to the offense. Mr. Roesch testified that the Board agreed that N.C. has satisfied the science requirements for high school graduation. Additionally, the Board did not dispute that N.C. had academically passed the course with an A- in the final exam. Nonetheless, he added that the incomplete would be treated as a Ograde and be factored into his grade point average. This does not reflect reality. N.C. passed the course and should not now suffer academically for that reason, or be required to re-take a course in which he has demonstrated proficiency. Interpreting Board policy to ·reasonably evaluate individual circumstances would be itself unreasonable and arbitrary.

Moreover, the credible testimony from L.C., supports the proposition that L.C. did notify the school by phone to report N.C.'s absence because of oral surgery, which would have put the school on notice of two days of absence. There is no evidence to contest the believable position of the petitioners that N.C. was absent for legitimate medical reasons on December 23 for a head injury, which was supported by the notice of a later CAT scan in the emergency room on December 26. Nor is there evidence to contest the mononucleosis absence also supported by medical certification, on February 11, March 3, April 19 and April 26. This would account for five more days of the sixteen absences listed.

While the late arrivals or absences for the driving test on October 10 and October 16 for full day are hardly defensible, the absences for Tae Kwon Do championship in California as well as the absence on return at 2:30 a.m. on January 11 are believable and at least entitled to some weight.

In any event, although there has not been compliance with the strict letter of the Board's rules, it is sufficient that petitioners have provided credible evidence of medical absence of (1) day for a head injury, (2} days for oral surgery, and (4) days for mononucleosis. It is believable also that > there were at least (2) days absence for a national athletic championship. These cumulative absences cannot reasonably be thought to justify the current result: a bar from graduation, loss of academic credit for a course passed, skewing of a grade point average, and placement in college rendered at risk.

> In sum, there would be a likelihood of success for petitioners at plenary hearing, petitioners would be irreparably harmed if not granted emergent relief. and, while the Board regulations are not unreasonable, their construction by the Board in the exercise of its discretion on these peculiar facts has been arbitrary and unreasonable, within the definition advanced by Kopera, supra. Consequently, it should be overturned.

The stipulated facts:

In addition to the above rationale, and holding to the stipulated facts as well as the record to date, the preeminent remaining issue warrants the same legal conclusion as reached in the AI.J's emergent order: Despite his absences, appellant successfully completed the Physics course during the period in contention. He received an A-minus. He was credited by the district with completing all science courses necessary to graduate. Yet, the Board has compelled N.C. to take an additional course, whether or not Physics. This is on its face arbitrary and unreasonable, within the meaning of Kopera, supra.

School officials could well have penalized N.C. for his absences, within the wide discretion inherent in their powers to discipline for non-compliance with rules. Any reasonable penalty, selected from among a universe of disciplinary actions, would have been within the justifiable responses by the district. It is plain that N.C. does not emerge in the record of the period in issue as having been a model of good deportment, a fact which he and his parents concede.

The school's judgment also could have extended to preventing N.C.'s further attendance in the course. Once N.C. passed beyond the boundary of acceptable absences, the school officials, in the application of their expertise, could have understandably concluded that comprehension of the material could not be expected within the course time remaining. A designation of "incomplete" would have been reasonable. This did not occur. Thereafter, N.C. was permitted to continue the study of Physics, and to demonstrate his competence in the subject matter, by achieving a grade of A-minus.

While discipline is always an option for school officials, a custom of discrediting undisputed, recorded academic achievement should not be employed as a method of discipline, since, in its untruth, it is arbitrary and unreasonable.

The Board's approach to N.C.'s attendance violations is also rendered colorably unreasonable by virtue of the practice of its Attendance Appeals Committee. Before appearing before the committee, petitioners were denied a clear listing of those absences which underlay the school's decision to alter their son's scholastic record, and to deny him the rite and record of graduation. In short, the school asked petitioners to defend against charges which could, and did, result in a penalty, while withholding the specifics of those charges. This was a denial of minimal due process. Goldberg v. Kelly, 391 U.S: 254 (1970). Opportunity for unlimited discussion, as the Board maintains was available before the committee, is not enough. Such opportunity does not cure the fundamental shortcoming presented by the parents' lack of information on the specific absences. That knowledge was basic to fair dealing.

It must be added that this flaw is cured by a de novo recommendatory proceeding before this tribunal, and by access to a final administrative decision by the Commissioner of Education. Nonetheless, taken together with the Board's determination (a) to punish by obviating acknowledged scholastic achievement, and (b) to discredit the parents' proofs of illness which would have justified at least one critical day of absence, this same flaw discloses that a basic unfairness suffuses the school's absence policy with an unreasonableness prohibited by the court in Kopera, supra.

Petitioners' entreaty for reimbursements. apology. and changes in board policy:

Petitioners' avowed entitlement to reimbursement of expenses incurred during this litigation to apologies from school officials, and to compelled alteration of Board policy, are all outside the scope of review or award by the ALJ. They also are unsupported by petitioners' reference to legal authority otherwise.

Briefed arguments by both parties that ignore rulings of the ALJ which were not :ippealed:

Both parties have argued past earlier ALJ rulings rejecting the arguments• premises, and excluding them from the record. Petitioners have referred in their brief to ostensibly overheard conversations. The proferred content of these conversations was held by the ALJ to have been protected by attorney-client privilege. In like fashion, the Board, through disingenuous insertion of a footnote, has mentioned N.C.'s past record. which the ALJ had ruled was barred for being irrelevant and prejudicial.[2].

Since the ALJ's rulings were left undisturbed by interlocutory appeal, they may not be considered, and the two foregoing arguments of the parties are specifically identified here as being outside the record of evidence before this tribunal, and before the Commissioner of Education.

ORDER

I ORDER therefore, after a review of the entire record, and after consideration of all arguments advanced by the parties, that:

(1) N.C. be credited with the grade earned, and with the credits accumulated for successful completion of the Physics course taken during the regular school year, and that

(2) N.C.'s cumulative average be re-calculated to reflect the actual grade earned, and that

(3) N.C. be awarded his high school graduation diploma.

I hereby FILE this inhial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P. O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

G.J.C. AND L.C., on behalf of minor child, N.C.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF SOMERVILLE, SOMERSET COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions were untimely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(a), in that the Initial Decision was mailed to the parties on October 15, 1999 and the exceptions were filed on November 1, 1999. Accordingly, the exceptions are not considered in the Commissioner's determination of this matter.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's finding of infirmity in the Board's appeal process, in that the Board failed to provide petitioners with "a clear listing of those absences which underlay the school's decision to alter their son's scholastic record." (Initial Decision at p. 13) Nonetheless, the Commissioner is compelled to observe that petitioners were notified by letters dated January 18, 1999 and April 28, 1999 that N.C.'s absences were swiftly accumulating, and were therein reminded of the Board's rule regarding 15 absences for full year courses and eight absences per semester course, as well as the Board's rule regarding tardiness after the first ten minutes of class being recorded as a full absence. The letters further instructed petitioners that absences which exceed these amounts "will result in no credit being granted for the particular course" (Exhibits R-2 and R-3) (emphasis added) and referred petitioners to the handbook for further explanation. Thus, petitioners were duly informed that, as of December 23, 1998,[1] N.C. had five absences in his first period class and that, as of April 1, 1999,[2] N.C. had 14 absences in his first period class.

Thereafter, in his letter of May 14, 1999, petitioners were informed by Mr. Roesch that N.C. had been absent more than 15 times from his first period Physics course and would, therefore, receive an "Incomplete" at the end of the year. That correspondence provided petitioners with the process for appeal, noting that the appeal, as per the handbook, was "limited to situations where unforeseen factors have created hardships." (Exhibit R-1a at p. 3) Therefore, while the Commissioner concurs with the AU that the Board should have provided petitioners with the information that formed the basis of its decision, i.e., the specific dates on which absences were problematic, his finding does not in any way presume that petitioners were without knowledge of N.C.'s precarious position for months before their appeal was initiated, and also does not negate petitioners' duty to know the Board's rules regarding absenteeism and tardiness, to know exactly when their son was absent from school and the reasons therefor, and to monitor for themselves their son's absences in relation to the Board's rules.

Notwithstanding that petitioners cannot be held blameless in the events underlying the within dispute, like the AU, the Commissioner finds that the Board's decision to compel N.C. to take a summer course, after he had successfully completed his Physics course, and received a grade of A-, was unreasonable. (Initial Decision at p. 12) See also V.J.H. v.

Board of Education of the City of Orange Township and Woodrow 'Zaros, 1987 S.L.D. 1669 at 1678, 1679 (wherein the Commissioner affirmed that although excessive absences and truancy from class may justifiably lead to the withholding of credit and denial of graduation, policies which call for an automatic imposition of a grade penalty for unexcused absence or absences resulting from suspensions will not be upheld); J.B., on behalf of W.B. v. Board of Education of the Township of Pequannock, Passaic County, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 664 (where the Commissioner held that a grading policy which automatically reduced a high school senior's grade to failing for cutting physical education class on the last day of school was arbitrary.)

Accordingly, the Initial Dedsion of the A U is affirmed, as amplified herein.[3]

IN THE MATTER OF THE DENIAL : STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

OF A CHARTER SCHOOL APPLICATION. : DECISION

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Cheryl Dowdell, prose

For the Participant, John Worthington, Deputy Attorney General (John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of New Jersey)

On February 5, 2000, Cheryl Dowdell (hereinafter "Dowdell"), who identified herself only as a "Newark Public Schools Educator," filed a notice of appeal to the State Board of Education from a determination of the Commissioner of Education rejecting an application for a charter school. Dowdell did not identify the proposed charter school. Nor did she include a copy of the Commissioner's rejection letter with her notice.

By letter dated February 9, 2000, the Director of the State Board Appeals Office acknowledged receipt of the notice of appeal and advised Dowdell that her notice was deficient in that she had not specified the proposed charter school whose rejection she was appealing. She was given until February 22 to cure this deficiency by filing a corrected notice of appeal. She was also informed that the briefing schedule was being placed into abeyance pending correction of this defect.

Dowdell did not submit a corrected notice of appeal. Nor did she respond to the February 9 letter or otherwise identify the proposed charter school which was the subject of her appeal. By letter dated February 24, Dowdell was advised that, as a result of such failure, this matter was being referred to the Legal Committee of the State Board for consideration of her failure to designate the decision being appealed from.

N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.7 requires a notice of appeal to "specifically designate the decision appealed from." Despite being provided with notice of this deficiency, Dowdell has still failed to identify the proposed charter school which is the subject of her appeal. Nor has she responded in any way to the February 9 or February 24 letters from the Director of the State Board Appeals Office. Under these circumstances, we dismiss the appeal in this matter with prejudice for failure to perfect.

IN THE MATIER OF THE TENURE :

HEARING OF DONALD PANTALONE, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE SOMERSET : DECISION ON REMAND

COUNTY VOCATIONAL SCHOOL, :

SOMERSET COUNTY. :

_____:

Board certified tenure charges of inefficiency and other just cause against respondent teacher. The Commissioner rejected a previously proposed settlement for failure to comply with the Cardonick standards for review of settlements in tenure matters and remanded the matter to the OAL.

On remand the parties drafted an amended settlement agreement which respondent refusel to sign because it contained the disputed charges against him which he felt placed an aura of inappropriate guilt upon him, notwithstanding that the charges were unproven and the settlement expressly stated he disputed the charges. Finding that respondent disputed the format, but not the substance, of the settlement agreement, the ALJ deemed that respondent signed the agreement and ordered the matter settled.

The Commissioner did not accept the ALJ's resolution to respondent's failure to sign the amended settlement agreement. Upon review of the record, it was determined that, notwithstanding that the Commissioner had rejected the prior settlement and remanded 'the matter to the OAL, the parties had impermissibly executed the terms of the rejected settlement, which resulted in respondent's resignation effective June 30, 1998 and the Board's payment of salary and benefits. It was also determined that the modified settlement agreement still did not document that respondent was advised that the matter would be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners; thus, the matter remains subject to remand to the OAL on this point. However, in light of respondent's resignation from the district in 1998 and his refusal to sign the modified settlement agreement, the Commissioner determined that remanding the matter again to OAL would not, at this juncture, be in the public interest. The Commissioner, therefore, determined that the matter would be deemed withdrawn and no longer in controversy before him. A copy of the decision shall be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners.

BEFORE JEFFS. MASIN, ALJ:

This matter was previously before the Office of Administrative Law and the parties agreed upon a settlement of the tenure dispute. However, the Commissioner of Education remanded the matter in a decision dated April 2S, 1998, because the Commissioner was not satisfied that the reasons for the settlement had been appropriately spread on the record. The parties thereafter drafted an amended settlement agreement which set forth reasons for the settlement including the fact that Mr. Pantalone had resigned from his position and that the Board would realize substantial economic savings in not having to proceed with the case which it anticipated would be very lengthy and which Mr. Pantalone would have disputed with regard to many if not most of the allegations. In addition, the Board believed that evidence would have established that Mr. Pantalone had not previously been involved in any matters resulting in charges and that evidence that would have been produced would have suggested that his conduct in the matter was aberrational. The Board believes, and this administrative law judge agrees, that the resolution agreed upon between the Board and counsel for Mr. Pantalone which involves him being deemed to have submitted his in-evocable resignation with the Board on June 30, 1998, having waived all rights to his tenured position, and having been paid his salary from September 1, 1997 to June 30, 1998, less all sums already paid to him by the Board for that salary period in addition to the provision of health benefits to him until June 30, 1998, and the exchange of mutual releases constitutes a reasonable resolution of the charges. A settlement agreement (attached hereto) incorporating these terms, spelling out the obligation of the Commissioner under Cardouick v. Brooklawn Board of Education, OAL DKT. NO. EDU 7093-81 (February 17, 1982); Commissioner of Education (April 7, 1982); State Board (April 6, 1983) is set forth in the agreement.

Subsequent to the drafting of the agreement, it was forwarded to Mr. Pantalone for his signature. Mr. Pantalone refused to sign the document and the Board, arguing that a binding settlement agreement had been entered into, filed a motion with this judge seeking to enforce the settlement and compel Mr. Pantalone to sign the agreement. In opposition thereto, Mr. Pantal,one filed an affidavit, which is attached hereto and made a part hereof, in which he indicated that he had signed the original settlement agreement which was approved by this judge on March 19, 1998, and that he had subsequently received the modified settlement agreement sent to him by his counsel which had been executed by the president and secretary of the Board of Education. Mr. Pantalone indicates in the affidavit that he chose not to sign the modified agreement because he felt that the document was "incriminating by making the suggestion that I exhibited inappropriate conduct. While I realize that the document also stated that I disputed the charges against me, I felt that the listing of the charges themselves, although unproven, would place an aura of inappropriate guilt on me." Mr. Pantalone goes on to note that he acknowledges that the Board > lived up to the tenns of the first settlement agreement and I feel that I, likewise, lived up to the tenns of the first settlement, by signing it and effectively resigning my position. It is only with the second settlement agreement and the inappropriate aura of guilt that I felt it suggested that caused me to refrain from signing it. I calmot in good faith, accordingly, dispute that we did resolve this matter short of litigation. I can only state that to my understanding, and despite the language in the second settlement which acknowledges that I dispute the charges, the settlement should not include a public listing of the charges against me.

> 9. Quite simply I would be prepare to voluntarily sign a settlement if there was no public listing of the unproven charges against me and no accompanying aura of guilt.
> [6/22/99 Affidavit of Donald Pantalone]

Having considered Mr. Pantalone's expressed reasons for refusing to sign the settlement agreement, I concluded that indeed the parties had resolved the matter and that the only reason that Mr. Pantalone was refusing to sign the agreement was not because he disputed his interest in resolving the matter, nor that he insisted upon his right to dispute the charges at a hearing and prove his lack of any violation of standards, but that while the agreement openly acknowled ed his dispute of the charges he was concerned about the "public listing" of the charges. It is not uncommon, in fact in light of the Cardonick standards it is probably highly appropriate, that the nature of the charges against an individual facing tenure charges be set forth in the settlement agreement. However, the mere fact that charges are listed does not in any way suggest that the respondent is guilty of the charges set forth and in this very agreement Mr. Pantalone's dispute with many if not most of the allegations is stated. Therefore, while Mr. Pantalone's concern l;lay be somewhat understandable, the agreement acknowledges openly his lack of agreement with the underlying charges and his dispute with them. Under these circumstances there appears to be no basis for concluding that Mr. Pantalone did not knowingly and with appropriate counsel agree to the tenns and conditions of the settlement. His dispute with the format of the settlement is not with the substance, not with the tenns of the agreement, not with the underlying reasons for resolving the matter, but simply with a document that says more than he would like about why this case was before the Commissioner.

Based upon the above, I entered an Interlocutory Order on July 27, 1999, (attached hereto) ordering that the matter be presented to Mr. Pantalone for execution and that he do so within ten days of the date of the order and that if he failed to do so within the timefrarne indicated, he would be deemed to have signed the revised settlement agreement which would then be submitted to the Commissioner for approval. Based upon a letter received from counsel to Mr. Pantalone on October 29, 1999, (attached hereto) in response to my request for information, it appears that although the settlement agreement was forwarded to Mr. Pantalone on August 20, 1999, (cover letter attached hereto) with a letter from counsel advising as to his need to sign the document or in the absence thereof that he would be deemed to have signed the same, Mr. Oxfeld indicates he has received no response from Mr. Pantalone. Based upon Mr. Oxfeld's representation in his October 29, 1999, letter and the terms of the interlocutory order issued on July 27, 1999, it is HEREBY DEEMED that Mr. Pantalone has signed the settlement agreement and based upon the previous discussion concerning the nature of the settlement, it is HEREBY ORDERED that the matter is settled, subject to review of this modified settlement agreement by the Commissioner pursuant to the Cardonick standards.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMSSIONER OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMSSIONER OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner Of The Board Of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.JS.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

THIS AGREEMENT, made and entered into on March 2nd, 1998, by and between the SOMERSET COUNTY VOCATIONAL AND TECHNICAL SCHOOLS BOARD OF EDUCATION hereinafter "Board" having a mailing address of North Bridge Street and Vogt Drive/ P.O. Box 6350, Bridgewater, New Jersey and DONALD PANTALONE, hereinafter Pantalone" having a mailing address of 38 Round Top Road, Warren, New Jersey;

WHEREAS, Pantalone is a tenured teacher who has been employed by the Board since September 1, 1976; and

WHEREAS, the Board, by its resolution adopted on April 15, 1997 found probable cause to certify sworn tenure charges of unbecoming conduct, pursuant to N.J.S.A., 1BA:6-11, and other just cause which, if true, ware sufficient to warrant , Pantalone's dismissal or reduction in salary; and

WHEREAS, the Charges allege inter a!ia the following:

1. Improper supervision of students in his charge;
2. He left his classroom unattended at certain times;
3. Students were injured while in his charge;
4. Use of inappropriate language with students;
5. Students were observed sleeping in his class, and

WHEREAS, the Board contends that Pantalone's conduct and behavior evidenced a complete and total disregard for applicable law and Board procedure, which constitutes conduct unbecoming a teacher, and

WHEREAS, on April 16, 1997, the Board filed its written tenure charges with the Commissioner of Education, to which Pantalone filed an Answer on April 30, 1997. The Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on May 8, 1997, for a determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14(b)-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14(f)-1 to 13; and

WHEREAS, the parties have agreed to a proposed settlement, which is subject to approval by the Commissioner of Education, the terms of which provide as follo s:

A. Pantalone will be deemed to have submitted his irrevocable resignation with the Board on June 30, 1998 and will have waived all rights to a tenured position.

8. Pantalone shall receive his salary from September 1, 1991.to June 30, 11398, less all sums already paid to him by the Board for said 1997-98 salary.

C. The Board shall provide health benefits to Pantalone until June 30, 1998_.

D. Each party releases the other from any and all claims; and

WHEREAS, the parties acknowledge that this proposed Settlement Agreement is conditioned upon the approval of the Commissioner of Education pursuant to the standards set forth on Cardonick v. Brooklawn Bd. of Ed., OAL 0kt. No. EDU 7093081 (February 17, 1982); Commissioner of Education (April 7, 1982); State Board (April 6, 19 3); and

WHEREAS, there has been pretrial discovery conducted by both parties and the parties now contend that the circumstances justify a settlement as follows:

A. Pantalone, having resigned his position effective June 30, 1998, will result in substantial economic savings to the Board which will not have to proceed with its case which is anticipated will take an additional nine months to two-years to bring to a conclusion, in,Fluding all necessary and applicable periods of time for appeal, during which time the -Soard would have been responsible to continue payment of Pantalone's salary and benefits and that the Board will not be required to expand additional public funds for attorneys fees; and

B. Pantalone has not prior instances of charges being brought against him; and

C. Pantalone at trial would have presented testimony, both from himself and others asserting that these instances which gave rise to the tenure charges would be aberrations on a otherwise satisfactory record as a certified teacher; and

D. Pantalone would testify himself and dispute many if not mo.sf of the allegations; and

E. Many of the students involved have now graduated high school and might be difficult·to locate and/or reluctant to testify.

F. The Board believes that the charges and settlement have made Pantalone fully aware of the serious nature of his behavior; and

WHEREAS, before entering into this Agreement, Pantalone had full opportunity to consult with legal counsel who is experienced in this area and fully explained the meaning of the settlement to him; and

WHEREAS, the parties understand that this Agreement will became effective only when it is approved by the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education; and

WHEREAS, this settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy, and

WHEREAS, any disapproval shall not interfere with the rights of the Board to pursue this matter further.

Donald Pantalone, being duly sworn according to law upon his oath depbses and says:

1. I am the respondent in the above matter and I make this affidavit in response to the moving papers filed by Judith A. Babinski, the attorney for the Somerset County Vocational Schools, dated June 3, 1999.

2. I began employment with the school district in 1976. I possess certification as a Teacher of Vocational Related Subjects and Teacher of Biological Sciences. For the last four years I was teaching courses in Diesel, Auto Body, Automotive Electrical, Construction, and Small Engine Repairs.

3. It is true as stated in the Board's papers that tenure charges were filed against me on April 18, 1997. At that time, I had been in the district for 22 years and felt it was appropriate for me to continue with my career elsewhere. Accordingly, after consulting with Mr. Oxfeld, my NJEA attorney, I determined it was in my best interest not to fight the charges against me, but rather to enter into a settlement agreement.

4. Consequently, I signed the "Settlement Agreement Between the Somerset County Vocational and Technical Schools Board of Education and Donald Pantalone" (attached to the Board's papers as Exhibit A). Pursuant to that settlement I agreed to resign my position, in exchange for receiving one year's salary, having my benefits paid until the end of the 1997-98 school year, and finally, the tenure of the settlement was to remain confidential.

5. That Settlement Agreement was approved by the Administrative Law Judge on March 19, 1998 (Appendix 8). However, the Commissioner was "compelled to reject such agreement as it is currently structured", as it did not "meet the Cardonick standards for settlement of tenure matters" (Appendix C). Consequently, the Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL "for further revision of the documents and expansion of the record..."

6. Subsequently I did receive a modified "Settlement Agreement" (Exhibit E). It was sent to me by Mr. Oxfeld after having already been executed by both the President and Secretary to the Board of Education.

7. However, I chose not to sign this Agreement. My reason was I felt the document was incriminating by making the suggestion that I exhibited inappropriate conduct. While I realize that the document also stated that I disputed the charges against me, I felt that the listing of the charges themselves, although unproven, would place an aura of inappropriate guilt on me.

8. I acknowledge that the Board lived up to the terms of the first settlement agreement and I feel that I, likewise, lived up to the terms of the first settlement, by signing it and effectively resigning my position. It was only with the second settlement agreement and the inappropriate aura of guilt that I felt it suggested that caused me to refrain from signing it. I cannot in good faith, accordingly, dispute that we did resolve this matter short of litigation. I can only state that to my understanding, and despite the language in the second settlement which acknowledges that I dispute the charges, the settlement should not include a public listing of the charges against me.

9. Quite simply, I would be prepared to voluntarily sign a settlement if there was no public listing of the unproven charges against me and no accompanying aura of guilt.

10. I wold like to conclude by indicating that during the past several y ars I have been teaching on either a substitute or per diem basis. I attach hereto my evaluation for the course I taught. I also enclose a thank you note from the teacher for whom I acted as substitute. I am pleased to report that in both schools, Branchburg Central Middle School and Morris County Vo-Tech, my performance was excellent and truly appreciated by the school's administration.

Dear Mr. Pantalone,

Thank you for taking over the duties of teaching my seventh grade Earth Science classes at Branchburg Central Middle School during my eight week extended medical leave. You did a fine job of completing my lesson plans and attending to the many associated duties and activities of our Explorer Team.

All of you fine efforts are truly appreciated, and may you enjoy continued success in science.

Sincerely,

Mary Ann Roupas

(EDU 4141-97 Remanded)
AGENCY DKT. NO. 135-4/98

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SOMERSET COUNTY VOCATIONAL SCHOOL, SOMERSET COUNTY, Petitioner,
v.
DONALD PANTALONE,
Respondent.

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

This matter having been opened to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") upon motion of Judith A. Babinski, Esq., attorney for the Board of Education of the Somerset County Vocational School, Somerset County, ("petitioner") and having read and considered the papers submitted by both parties, and for good cause shown,

It is on this 21st day of June, 1999, ORDERED that the Motion for Enforcement of Settlement be and hereby is GRANTED in favor of petitioner; and

It is furth r ORDERED that Donald Pantalone ("respondent") execute the revised Settlement Agreement within ten days of the date of this order to enable the parties to submit the revised Settlement Agreement to the OAL and the Commissioner of Education for approval,

Mr. Pantalone's expressed reasons for not signing a settlement, the essential terms of which he concedes he agreed to, are insufficient to overturn an agreement reached between the parties. The fact that satisfaction of the Commissioner's Cardonick request requires that the settlement recite the nature of the allegations made against Pantalone in order to apprise the Commissioner of the charges, (while at the same time indicating that Pantalone disputed many if not most of the allegations), is not a sufficient basis for reneging on a settlement the terms of which have not been altered. "Settlement of litigation ranks high in [the] public policy" of New Jersey. Lahue v. Pio Costa, 263 N.J. Super. 575, 595 (App. Div. 1993), quoting Pascarella v. Bruck, 190 N.J. Super 118, 125 (App. Div. 1983), certif den., 94 NJ. 600 (I 983). The present case was clearly settled. The settlement will be enforced.

It is further ORDERED that if respondent fails to execute the revised Settlement Agreement within the time frame indicated above, respondent shall be deemed to have signed the revised Settlement Agreement to enable the parties to submit the same for approval by the OAL and the Commissioner of Education; and

It is further ORDERED that a conformed copy of this order be served upon all counsel and parties of record within seven days from the date hereof

This order may be reviewed by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION either upon interlocutory review pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10 or at the end of the contested case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. I: 1-18.6.

RE: SOMERSET COUNTY vs. PANTALONE

Dear Mr. Pantalone:

I enclose herewith a copy of the Interlocutory Order of Judge Mason. As you can see he is directing that you sign the settlement papers. He has also found the alternative that if you refuse to sign the settlement papers they will be deemed to be signed.

Would you kindly let me know if you actually want to sign the papers if you just merely want to have them deemed as being signed.

Very truly yours,

BALK, OXFELD, MANDELL & COHEN, P.A.

OAL DKT. NOS. EDU 4141-97 and EDU 4177-98 (On Remand)
AGENCY DKT. NO. 135-4/9?[1]

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF DONALD PANTALONE,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE SOMERSET	:	DECISION ON REMAND
COUNTY VOCATIONAL SCHOOL,	:

The record and Initial Decision on Remand issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) in the form of a Settlement Agreement have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

A review of the record in this tenure charge matter indicates that on April 28, 1998, a settlement entered into by the parties was rejected by the Commissioner because, contrary to the standards for review of a settlement in a tenure hearing matter as articulated in Cardonick, supra, the settlement failed: (1) to explain why the charges could no longer be pursued or why it was in the public interest not to pursue them, and (2) to document that respondent was advised of the Commissioner's duty, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, to refer tenure hearing determinations to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of certification. Among the terms of the rejected settlement were a stipulation that, by execution of the Settlement Agreement, respondent would be deemed to have resigned as of June 30, 1998 and an agreement thaf the Board would provide to him one year's salary, less all sums already paid for the 1997-98 school year, and benefits from September 1, 1997 to June 30, 1998.

[1] It is noted for the record that there is an error in the Agency Docket Number cited on the Initial Decision and transmittal form to the OAL. The correct Agency Docket Number is 135-4/97.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Commissioner expressly rejected the Settlement Agreement and remanded the matter to the OAL, and in contravention of the legal principle that a settlement agreement may not be executed until approved by the Commissioner (Cardonick, supra), respondent, pursuant to the terms of the rejected settlement, resigned his teaching position effective June 30, 1998 and the Board paid him his salary and benefits in accordance with the settlement terms.

As set forth in the Initial Decision on Remand, respondent refused to sign the revised settlement presented herein because, inter alia, he felt that by listing the charges against him in the settlement agreement, it would place an aura of inappropriate guilt on him, notwithstanding that the charges were unproven and the settlement expressly stated he disputfd the charges.

Further, the Affidavit which sets forth respondent's reasons for refusing to sign the agreement conveys that he believed that the settlement was to remain confidential.[2] (Affidavit at p. 2) This is, however, a misconception concerning the confidentiality of the tenure charges and terms of a settlement agreement. By law, the entire record of any proceedfng adjudicated before the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 and N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.1 et seq. is a matter of public record, unless for good cause the record is ordered sealed. Thus, tenure charges and settlement terms, such as herein, are matters of public record.

[2] The Commissioner notes that Term 5 of the rejected settlement states that respondent "agrees to keep all terms of this Agreement confidential and shall not disclose any terms of this Agreement to any employees of the School District." Such term speaks only to Mr. Pantalone's disclosure of information. It does not in any way alter the fact that the tenure charges themselves and any record of or determination related to same are a matter of public record.

Upon review of the record and Initial Decision on Remand, the Commissioner first notes that while the modified settlement appears to be in accord with the Cardonick standards for approval of the settlement of tenure charge matters, it still does not document that respondent was advised that the matter would be transmitted to the. State Board of Examiners; thus, the revised settlement remains subject to remand to the OAL on this point.

Secondly, upon review of the record, the Commissioner agrees with the finding of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that "[respondent's] dispute with the format of the settlement is not with the substance, not with the terms of the agreement, not with the underlying reasons for resolving the matter, but simply with a document that says more than he would like about why this case was before the Commissioner." (Initial Decision on Remand at p. 3) The Commissioner does not, however, accept the ALJ's resolution to respondent's failure to sign the modified settlement agreement, i.e., deeming the settlement as having been signed b1 Mr. Pantalone.

Upon consideration of the factual circumstances of this matter where the respondent has so vigorously refused to sign the proposed revised settlement agreement, the Commissioner is disinclined to approve it. On the other hand, however, the Commissioner does not believe that the public interest would be served by remanding the matter for plenary hearing[3], given that respondent resigned from the District effective June 30, 1998 and the Board avowed that it would be costly and difficult to proceed with the matter because (1) the charges were filed in April 1997, thus, many of the students needed to testify no longer attend the Somerset County Vocational School and (2) the Board, in accordance with statute, would have to continue to pay

[3] In the Commissioner's decision of April 28. 1998, which rejected the proposed settlement and remanded it to the OAL, it is expressly stated that if the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to a hearing on the merits.

respondent until a final decision on the merits of the tenure charges was issued by the Commissioner. Therefore, the Commissioner determines that the disposition of this matter shall be construed as a withdrawal of the tenure charges by the Board, not as a settlement.

Accordingly, the matter is deemed withdrawn and no longer in controversy before the Commissioner. A copy of this decision shall be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for review and such action, if any, as it deems appropriate.[4]

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Petitioning parent challenged Board's residency determination.

At the OAL the parties entered into a settlement agreement providing payment of tuition owing for the period of the 1998-99 school year that petitioner's son, J.D., was ineligible, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-l, to attend respondent's schools free of charge, but petitioner failed to make the initial payment The Board moved for summary decision. The ALJ granted the motion and ordered petitioner to pay respondent $7,317 within 30 days of receipt of the final decision and order of the Commissioner in this matter.

The Commissioner adopted the recommended order but modified it to require payment within 60 days, consistent with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:24-l.16(c) for the award of post-judgment interest when a party fails to satisfy a claim.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 39-3/99

J.A.D. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD J.D.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TO\VNSHIP OF MARLBORO,

Respondent.

J.A.D., petitioner, prose

Ellen Marie \Valsh, Esq., for respondent (Fogarty and Hara, attorneys)

Record Closed: November 5, 1999 Decided: December 1, 1999

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

This matter is a residency and tuition payment dispute between the petitioner and a district board of education. The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for detem1ination as a contested case, pursuant to N.JS.A. 52: 14F-1 through-13.

The matter was calendared for September 30, 1999. By letter dated September 28, I999, the Board's counsel indicated that the matter had been resolved. Counsel had foiwarded a stipulation of dismissal to the petitioner for her signature. The hearing set down for September 30, I999, was adjourned.

Subsequently, the Board's counsel advised the judge that J.A.D. had not honored the tenns of the settlement. The judge immediately calendared the matter for hearing on Friday, November 5, 1999. At the appointed time, no appearance was made by or for the petitioner. The notice of hearing sent to the petitioner was not returned as undelivered or undeliverable. It is presumed that the petitioner had notice of the hearing.

N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4 (c) provides:

> If the appearing party requires an initial decision on the merits because of the failure to appear, the party shall ask the judge for pennission to present ex parte proofs. If no explanation for the failure to appear is received, and the circumstances require a decision on the merits, the judge may enter an initial decision on the merits based on the ex parte proofs, provided the failure to appear is memorialized in the decision.

J.A.D. made no attempt to contact the judge or the Board, despite knowledge of the hearing scheduled for November 5, 1999. The Board was given leave to present ex parte proofs.

Cindy S. Barr-Rague, Board Secretary and School Administrator, testified. J.A.D. and her husband advised the Board that they were moving into the district in or about September 1998. The Board admitted J.A.D. to attendance in the Marlboro Public Schools. Closing on the house the petitioners were to occupy was delayed. In the pleadings, the parents allege they advised the Board of delays, but the Board denies receiving notice. On February 16, 1999, the Board ordered payment of tuition up to March 10, 1999 and disenrollment of J.A.D., effective March 10, 1999.

The petition of appeal asked that the Board's actions be set aside. In the alternative, the petitioners seek determination of tuition "based upon the actual services rendered to the Petitioner."

The witness stated that the parties entered into a settlement (R-1). J.A.D. and her husband both executed the settlement. The witness explained that the settlement provided for payment of the tuition owing in fifteen payments. The petitioners agreed to make one payment of S1,000 by September 24, 1999, then to make thirteen monthly payments of $500 each due on the fifteenth day of each month beginning in October 1999 and to make a fifteenth and final payment of$110 on November 15, 2000.

The witness acknowledged that there is an error in the agreement. The amount owed to the Board is not S7,600 as stated, but is $7,317. See, tuition for 1998-99, exhibit R-2.

The witness stated she received a $1,000 check from the petitioners on or about September 22, 1999. She was asked by Mrs. D. to hold the check for approximately five dp.ys. The witness held the check for five days. Mrs D. and the Board's counsel then spoke by telephone. After an additional, agreed-to delay, the check was deposited. Approximately one week later, the witness learned that the check was returned because of insufficient funds.

Upon conclusion of the Board Secretary-School Business Administrator's testimony, the Board moved for summary judgment. For the reasons that follow, the motion is GRANTED.

The petitioners infonned the Board that they would be moving into the district in or about September 1998. Based on the representation, the Board admitted J.A.D. to attendance. The family did not re-located to Marlboro. On February 16, 1999, the Board ordered payment of tuition up to March 10, 1999, and diseruollment of J.A.D., effective March 10, 1999., The parents filed an appeal and this action ensued. Prior to the first scheduled date of hearing, the petitioners entered into an agreement with the Board, the details of which are recited above. The petitioners have not made any payment as agreed to in Exhibit R-1. One check was received by the Board and was returned because of insufficient funds.

If this matter were merely dismissed, the Board would be at a disadvantage in that it would have to go to the Superior Court of New Jersey for relief, essentially having to relitigate the entire matter when a remedy exists here. Thus, "the circumstances require decision on the merits." N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(c).

In O'Toole v. Board of Education of the Borough of Ramsey, 212 NJ. Super. 624 (App. Div. 1986), Cecilia O'Toole, fonnerly a teacher employed by the Ramsey Board of Education, appealed from portions of a final decision of the State Board of Education which determined, among other things, that she had received from the Board duplicate salary payments totaling $4,036.50. The Ramsey Board cross-appealed from that part of the State Board decision that held the State Board was without authority to order O'Toole to reimburse the Board and that such recoupment must be sought through civil action in a court of competent jurisdiction. Id. at 626. O'Toole argued that, because the State Board found it had no jurisdiction to order her to make reimbursement, the question of amount should not have been passed upon at all. The Ramsey Board, on the other hand, urged that the State Board had, and should have exercised, jurisdiction to order O'Toole to make restitution. The Appellate Court stated:

> The position of the State Board is that it "declined to assert jurisdiction to order recoupment from the teacher because it did not infer such a grant of authority as incidental to the Commissioner's and the State Board's statutory power."
> We are satisfied that the State Board took too naiTow a view of its authority. O'Toole's disentitlement to receive both salary and retirement benefits for the same period of time arises by application of the school laws. . . . The Commissioner and the State Board have jurisdiction to hear and detennine such a dispute. . . .

The reasoning applies equally here. The Commissioner has jurisdiction over this matter because it arises under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-3. To require the filing of a separate Law Division action in order to transform this initial decision into an order to pay would be pointless and wasteful. Cf Bd. of Ed., City of Newark v. Levitt, 197 NJ. Super. 239, 247-248 (App. Div. 1984).

Based upon the foregoing, it is ORDERED that J.A.D. and J.D., husband and wife, remit to the Marlboro Township Board of Education the sum of$7,317 within 30 days of receipt of the final decision and order of the Commissioner in this matter.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF TJIE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P. 0. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner adopts the Administrative Law Judge's recommended order that petitioner shall pay to respondent the sum of $7,317 for tuition incurred during the period of the 1998-99 school year that petitioner's son, J.D., was ineligible, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-l, to attend the Township of Marlboro Public Schools free of charge. However, the Commissioner modifies that portion of the recommended order which requires that petitioner's payment to respondent must be made within 30 days. Consistent with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:24-l.16(c) for the award of post-judgment interest when a party fails lo satisfy a claim, the Commissioner finds 60 days from petitioner's receipt of this decision to be the appropriate period within which petitioner must satisfy the amount of $7,317 owing and due to respondent.

Accordingly, respondent, J.A.D., is ordered to pay forthwith to the Marlboro Township Board of Education the sum of $7,317 for tuition for her son, J.D., for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision.•

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE CERTIFICATES : STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

OF JOY NORTHROP DEVINCENZI. : DECISION

Decided by the State Board of Examiners, November 4, 1999

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Michelle L. Miller, Deputy Attorney General
(John J. Farmer, Attorney General of New Jersey)

For the Respondent-Appellant, Beth L. Finkelstein, Esq.

Joy Northrup DeVincenzi (hereinafter "respondent") is challenging a five-year suspension by the State Board of Examiners of her certification to serve as a School Administrator, Assistant Superintendent of Business and School Business Administrator.[1] The Board of Examiners took this action on the basis of a decision rendered by the Commissioner of Education in Board of Education of the Borough of Lincoln Park v. Board of Education of the Town of Boonton, 97 N.J.A.R.2nd (EDU) 592 (hereinafter "Lincoln Park v. Boonton"). In that case, Lincoln Park, a sending district, challenged the actions of the Boonton Board and the respondent, who was Superintendent of Schools in Boonton, in relation to the selection of a principal for Boonton High School. Adopting the Initial Decision of the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ"), the Commissioner held that the Boonton Board and its Superintendent had acted arbitrarily, capriciously, in bad faith and in violation of the spirit of the agreement between the two districts for the selection process for a new principal. As a result, the Commissioner concluded that the appointment that had been made by the Boonton Board was invalid, and he directed that a new selection process be developed and implemented. The Commissioner discounted as inappropriate the Lincoln Park Board's suggestion that he remove the respondent from the selection process, but he directed that a copy of his decision be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for its review.

[1] Respondent also possesses certification as a teacher, but the Board of Examiners did not take action against any of her teaching endorsements.

The State Board of Examiners issued an order to show cause on the basis of the ALJ's findings as they had been adopted by the Commissioner. After reviewing the charges and the papers filed by the respondent in response to the order to show cause, the Board of Examiners determined that no material facts related to the respondent's conduct were in dispute. Then, affirming that it could "rely on the facts as found at the tenure hearing ... when determining whether an individual has engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher," the Board of Examiners found that the respondent's actions constituted "conduct unbecoming a certificate holder." Board of Examiners' Decision, slip op. at 6. The Board of Examiners concluded that the respondent's actions constituted just cause to act against her certificates pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6(a)1. As articulated by the Board of Examiners:

> In this instance, De Vincenzi deviated from the behavior expected of a chief school administrator. While her own board may extend her broad latitude, she still had some obligation to both districts to choose the best principal using the process agreed to by the selection committee. Unilaterally changing the process or imposing different criteria for selection may be acceptable to her board (which was involved in an ongoing dispute with Boonton [sic]), but is clearly unacceptable to the ALJ, the Commissioner and this Board. Thus, these actions point squarely to a finding of conduct unbecoming a certificate holder.

Board of Examiners' Decision, slip op. at 7.

Acknowledging that the respondent had found herself in a difficult situation and that all of her actions were taken with the knowledge and approval of her employing board, the Board of Examiners found that revocation of the respondent's certificates would be too severe a penalty. However, underscoring the need to "send a strong message regarding appropriate administrator conduct and the regulation of the teaching profession," id. at 8, the Board of Examiners concluded that the respondent's "lapses as superintendent were sufficiently serious ... to warrant her suspension from the profession as an administrator for a substantial period of time." & at 9 (emphasis in original). It then held that a five-year suspension of the respondent's administrative certificates would protect the public while not unduly punishing the respondent.

Respondent appealed to the State Board of Education from the Board of Examiners' decision. She argues that the Board of Examiners' decision should be reversed because the Commissioner's decision upon which it relied did not focus on her conduct as it related to her employment. She also contends that there are issues of material fact involved that preclude a grant of summary decision.

After a careful review of the record, including the Commissioner's decision in Lincoln Park v. Boonton, we agree with the respondent. Although the respondent was also named as a respondent in the Lincoln Park matter, that case challenged the propriety of the implementation of a principal selection process under an agreement between the Lincoln Park Board and the Boonton Board. The relief being sought by Lincoln Park was an order from the Commissioner vacating the appointment made by the Boonton Board and directing that the Boonton Board conduct the selection process anew. Accordingly, during the proceedings before the Administrative Law Judge, the respondent's conduct was at issue as it related to the propriety of the appointment at issue, and there is no indication in the ALJ's decision that she considered the respondent's actions in the context of her employment as a superintendent for the Boonton Board.

As set forth in the Commissioner's decision, Lincoln Park filed exceptions to the ALJ's determination seeking, in addition to other relief,[2] an express prohibition against any participation in the selection process by the respondent. Lincoln Park further sought a recommendation from the Commissioner "that the State Board of Examiners initiate proceedings to revoke all of [the respondent's] certificates."

Until that time, the respondent had been represented by the same counsel as the Boonton Board. The Commissioner's decision indicates that once Lincoln Park's exceptions were filed, the respondent sought to be represented by separate counsel. In the absence of objection from the other parties, the Commissioner granted the respondent's request, and counsel for the respondent filed exceptions on her behalf.

After reviewing the exceptions of the parties and the replies thereto, the Commissioner rejected as inappropriate Lincoln Park's "suggestion" that he remove the respondent from the principal selection process. Further, although he directed that a copy of his decision be forwarded to the Board of Examiners, the Commissioner did not recommend, as he had been urged by Lincoln Park in its exceptions, that action be taken against the respondent's certificates.

[2] In its exceptions, Lincoln Park also sought further relief with respect to its representative on the Boonton Board.

Under these circumstances, the ALJ's decision in the Lincoln Park case alone cannot be considered to provide a sufficient evidentiary basis for the action taken by the Board of Examiners in this matter. Quite simply, the question of respondent's conduct was not litigated in relation to her employment. Because the respondent was not on notice that her employment was at issue, she was not represented by independent counsel during the hearing before the ALJ. Consequently, the issues involved here that relate to her ability to be employed as a school administrator were not fully and fairly litigated in the proceedings in Lincoln Park v. Boonton. It would be inconsistent with the principles of due process and fundamentally unfair to bar respondent from employment as a school administrator in any capacity by any board of education in New Jersey for five years on the basis of the findings in that decision.

We therefore remand this matter to the State Board of Examiners with the direction that it be transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for further proceedings consistent with our decision herein in order to determine whether the respondent's conduct in relation to the principal selection that was invalidated in Lincoln Park v. Boonton warrants suspension of her certification as a school administrator.

ROBERT CRYSTAL,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BARNEGAT, OCEAN COUNTY,	:	DECISION

SYNOPSIS.

Petitioning Board member appealed respondent Board's censure of him for violating Board Policy No. 090, Article IX, prohibiting any Board member from making a presentation regarding any Board-related matter or releasing information concerning the Board's business until that member has notified all other Board members at least five days prior to presentatioh or dissemination.

At the OAL the parties cross-moved for summary decision. The ALJ denied petitioner's motion for summary decision and entered summary decision for respondent, concluding that petitioner violated the Board policy, causing the Board to impose the discipline of censure for his act, by speaking to the media after a closed session of the Board discussing potential ethical complaints against him. The ALJ further determined that the policy did not violate petitioner's First Amendment rights since it exempts members from its provisions if they issue a disclaimer that they are speaking as private citizens and they do not disseminate privileged, executive session material that has not been declassified. Thus, the ALJ concluded that the Board's action was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

The Commissioner agreed with and adopted as his own the recommended decision of the ALJ.

AGENCY REF. NO. 37-3/99

ROBERT CRYSTAL,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BARNEGAT, OCEAN COUNTY,

Respondent.

Robert Crystal, petitioner, prose

Paul Carr, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: October 18, 1999 Decided: November 30, 1999

BEFORE LILLARD E. LA\V, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, a member of the Board of Education of the Township of Barnegat (Board) alleges, among other things, that the Board's action to censure petitioner for his alleged violation of the Board's Policy #090, Article IX, was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. Petitioner seeks to have the censure removed and expunged from his record.

Petitioner propounded a Motion for Declaratory Judgment before the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) wherein petitioner requested the Commissioner to construe the provisions of the Board's censure of petitioner for violation of its policy by making certain statements was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. The Commissioner declined to consider the matter as one for a declaratory ruling and, pursuant to his discretionary authority under N.J.A.C 6:24-2. l, the Commissioner determined that the matter should proceed as a Petition of Appeal.

The Board provided no Answer to petitioner's Motion or the Commissioner's determination.

The matter was then transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52: 14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52: 14F-1 to -13. A prehearing conference was held on August 19, 1999, at which, among other things, the issues to be determined by this tribunal were set forth and the parties agreed to cross-move for summary decision on stipulated facts.

ISSUES

The issues for determination, as set forth in petitioner's Motion for Declaratory Judgment and as agreed upon by the parties as evidenced by the Prehearing Order, are as follows:

Issues

1. Whether the Board's action to censure petitioner was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable?

2. Whether the Board denied petitioner's right to due process?

3. Whether the Board violated its own rules and procedures?

4. Whether the Board violated petitioner's right of free speech?

On October 18, 1999, the undersigned was in receipt of the stipulated facts as agreed by the parties and which constitutes the close of the herein hearing record.

STIPULATED FACTS

1. The Barnegat Board of Education convened into closed session pursuant to section [N.J.S.A.] 10:4-10 of the Open Public Meetings Act, which permits the exclusion of the public. The purpose of the closed session meeting was to discuss potential ethics complaints against Board Member Robert Crystal, including but not limited to, unauthorized use of school district telephones and undue influence in the hiring of a school district employee.

2. Prior to the meeting Mr. Crystal contacted the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) legal staff for an opinion regarding his right to be represented by an attorney. The opinion was that since the matter was administrative this issue is discretionary with the Board.

3. After the closed session meeting Mr. Crystal was interviewed by a newspaper reporter. The reporter asked Mr. Crystal whether he would hire an attorney or not. Mr. Crystal repeated the opinion he received from NJSBA. Since the Board considered the issue a closed session subject matter a vote was taken and passed by a majority of the Board to censure Mr. Crystal for discussing closed session issues with the press.

4. Mr. Cl)'stal filed the within petition alleging that the Board acted arbitral)', capricious and beyond its' discretion.

The motion to censure. petitioner for violation of Policy 090 was by a roll call vote of the members present at the Board meeting. The measure was adopted by a vote of five in favor of censure and three opposed. Petitioner's vote was recorded as a "no."

The Board· s Policy, No. 090, Article IX, adopted on October 23, 1995, provides as follows:

> The Barnegat Township Board of Education recognizes the importance of keeping community members well informed about all aspects of the school system. Therefore, consistent with good boardmanship, School Board Member Code of Ethics, and common courtesy, any Board member who wishes to make a presentation regarding any board related matter, before any community group, at any board owned or any community owned facility, or private clubhouse or meeting place shall inform all other Board members at least five days in advance of any such presentation. (Attached to Petition of Appeal)

The Policy, No. 90, Article IX was amended by the Board, on a date not set forth on the record, which provides as follows:

> No Board member will act to notify or release information concerning the business of the Board until and unless they have informed eve!)' other Board member no less than five days before such dissemination. Telephone notice by either the individual member or the Board office acting upon their request is acceptable.
> Any allegation that an individual governed by this policy has violated this policy will result in the issue being placed on the agenda of the next scheduled Board meeting for discussion. It will then be left to the Board to evaluate the allegation(s) and > recommend any possible remedial or disciplinary action(s) allowed by the-Board's rules of procedures or. absent same, Robert's Rules of Order.

> The Board recognizes, of course, any Board member's First Amendment rights and it is not the intent of this policy to interfere with same. Accordingly, the Board deems a member exempt from the provisions of this policy providing they issue a clear disclaimer to any media or other informational outlet that they are speaking as a private citizen and they do to intend their remarks to represent any position, opinion or will of the Board and that the information, data, etc., they disseminate is not privileged, executive session material that has not been declassified. (Attached to Petition of Appeal)

Neither party set forth any legal arguments, citations of statute or regulations or case law by way of briefs or memoranda of law.

CONCLUSIONS

The standard for granting or denying summary judgment has been set forth by our Supreme Court in the matter of Judsou v. Peoples Bank & Trust Company of Westfield, 17 N.J 67 (I954). The standard was subsequently modified by the Court in Brill v. Guardian L!fe ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). The Brill Court held that the standard to be applied is now the same as the standard for determining motions for involuntary dismissal under R. 4:3 7-2.(b) and for determining motions for judgment under R. 4:40-1 (Motion for judgment at trial) and R. 4:40-2 (Reservation of Decision on Motion: Motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict). The courts considering motions for summary judgment are not required to engage in the same type of evaluation and analysis, or sifting of evidential material in light of the burden of persuasion that applies as if the matter goes to trial. The Brill Court held that:

> Under this new standard, a determination whether there exits a "genuin issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged dispute issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." ... Credibility determinations will continue to be made by a jury and not a judge. If there exists a single unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a "genuin " issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46-2 .•. The import of our holding is that when the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law, ... , the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. (citations omitted) Id. at 540.

As observed hereinbefore, neither party sets forth any affidavits, legal arguments, citations to cases on point, or reference to any statute or regulations with respect to the issues to be determined. The Appellate bench in D 'Amato by McPherson v. D 'Amalo, 305 N.J.Super. 109, cited with approval of the Supreme Court's decision in Brill, supra., and went on to state: t

> Although Rule 4:46-5(a) states that the mere allegations or denials of pleadings are not evidence which can defeat a motion for summary judgment, there is no particular form of evidential material that either party to a summary judgment is required to present. Rule 4:46-2(a) states that a motion for summary judgment may be submitted "with or without supporting affidavits,•· and Rule 4:46-2(c) provides that the motion shall be granted "if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged." (emphasis added). Construing the similar provisions of FRCP 56, the Suprem·e Court concluded that a party may demonstrate its entitlement to summary judgment without presenting any affidavits or other simibr materials.
> > (W]e find no express or implied requirement in Rule 56 that the moving party support its motion with affidavits or other similar materials negating the opponent's claim.. . . [R]egardless of whether the moving party accompanies its summary judgment motion with affidavits, the motion may, and should, > be granted so long as whatever is before the district court demonstrates that the standard for the entry of summary judgment, ••. is satisfied.

> [Celotex Corp. v Carrell, supra., 477 U.S. at 323, 106 S. Cl. at 2553, 91 LEd. 2d. at 274.] /J'Amato, 305 N.J. Super. at 114.

Thus, where the instant matter merely consists of petitioner's Petition of Appeal together with the parties stipulation of the facts, and nothing more, the matter may proceed to summary decision where it is shown there is no genuine issue as to any material fact. Jllddm11, supra., Brill, supra. D 'Amato, supra.

The only evidence proffered by the parties is the Policy No. 090, Article IX, adopted by the Board on October 23, 1995 and the Amendment to the Policy, at a date not given, and the action by the Board to censure petitioner, again on a date not specified on the record.

Issue No. 4 \Vhether the Board Violated Petitioner's Right of Free Speech?

Petitioner claims that the Board violated his right of free speech when it took action to censure him for his alleged violation of the Board's Policy 090, Article IX. The Commissioner and the New Jersey Courts have dealt with employee challenges to alleged violations of First and Founeenth Amendment rights to free speech and due process. Chief Justice Weintraub, writing for the New Jersey Supreme Court in the matter of Board <?f/:.a., Borough of Union Beach v. N..J.E.A., et al 53 NJ 29 (1968) said:

> lndi\·iduals, severally or in association, of course have the right to denounce a public body, its officers, and its programs, in the most searing terms, and even with a wide margin of error.

Chief Justice Weintraub's observation in Union Beach acts as a two edged sword'with respect to the instant matter; i.e., petitioner has the right, individually, to denounce the Board as a public body and, the Board severally, maintains the same right to denounce petitioner as an officer of the Board. Chief Justice Weintraub continued to observe in Union Beach among other things, that:

> It need hardly be said that freedom of speech does not include the right use speech as an instrument to an unlawfully end. Id. at 42.

The question now to be resolved is whether petitioner's actions constitute an "unlawful" act?

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, the statute provides local boards of education with certain mandatory powers and duties. These powers and duties include the following:

> The board shall --
> a. Adopt an official seal;
> b. Enforce the rules of the state board;
> c. Make, amend and repeal mies, 110I co11sisle11I with this title or with the rnles of the state hoard, for its own govemment and the transaction of its business and for the government and management of the public schools and public school property of the district and for the employment, regulation of conduct and discharge of its employees, subject, where applicable, to the provisions of Title 11, Civil Service, of the Revised Statutes, and > d. Perform all acts and do all things, consistent with law and the rules of the state board, necessary for the lawful and proper conduct, equipment and maintenance of the public schools of the district.

The Courts have held that:

> It is, of course, fundamental that local boards of education, as creations of the State, are capable of exercising only those powers which are granted expressly or by necessary or fair implication by the Legislature. ,Jee, Wagner v. Newark, 24 N.J 467, 474-475 (1957); Belvidere Bd. of Ed v. Bosco, 138 NJ. Super., 368, 376 (Law Div. 1975); Resnick v. East Brumwick TJ). Bd. <?f Hlf., 135 NJ. Super. 257, 260 (Ch. > (App. lJil'. 1976): Bolkin v. Westwood, 52 N.J. Super. 416, 427 (App. Div. 1958), app. dism. 28 N./. 218 (1958). The Legislature has expressly vested local boards of education with traditional management prerogatives, including the power to adopt rules ... Fair Lawn Ed. Assu. v. Fair /,awn Bd. of !:a., 161 N.J. Super. 67, 72 (1978), affd. 79 N.J. 594 (1979).

Thus, the Board herein adopted and amended Policy 090, Article IX which provides, among other things, disciplinary action against petitioner in the event he acted to release information to the media concerning business of the Board without informing the Board within five days of the release of the information. The Amended Policy 090, Article IX recognized petitioner's First Amendment rights of free speech, providing petitioner issued a clear disclaimer to the media that he was speaking as a private citizen and that his remarks did not intend to represent any position, opinion or will of the Board and that the information released by petitioner did not contain executive session material that had not been declassified.

I CONCLUDE that petitioner did not commit an unlawful act. He did, however, and I so CONCLUDE, commit a violation of Board Policy 090, Article IX, which was clearly articulated and pursuant to N..I.S.A. 18A: 11-1 and which caused the Board to impose the discipline of censure for his act. I FURTHER CONCLUDE that under the stipulated facts, the cited case law, the statutes and the Board's policy, that petitioner's First Amendment rights were not violated nor was the Board's action to censure petitioner arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

Given these conclusions, petitioner's application for summary decision is thus defeated and, therefore, must be dismissed. Having so concluded, it is not necessary to address the remaining issues proffered by petitioner.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that petitioner's application for Summary Decision, pursuant to N..I.A.C. 1: 1-12.5 is hereby DISMISSED and SUMMARY DECISION is hereby ENTERED on BEHALF OF THE BOARD.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this. matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52: 14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Petitioning parents appealed Board's decision to abolish the half-day, four-year-old kindergarten program (K/4) in favor of a full-day, five-year-old kindergarten program to replace K/4 and the half-day, five-year-old kindergarten program (K/5).

At the OAL the respondent Board moved for summary decision. The ALJ granted respondent's motion, concluding that petitioners failed to demonstrate affirmatively that the District's decision was arbitrlry, capricious or unreasonable. The ALJ also determined that the Board's alleged misrepresentation to the K/5 teacher, who resigned upon information that the K/5 program would not be a full-time program for two or three years, was not an affirmative demonstration of the District's arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable conduct. The ALJ further concluded that the Board was permitted the discretion to consider sound economics and business principles as may be necessary for the lawful and proper conduct of the schools in matters such as the abolition of the K/4 program and that the Board was authorized to transfer funds among line items and program categories of its budget to operate the full-day kindergarten program. Finally, the ALJ concluded that it was unnecessary to consider whether the District violated terms of the Open Public Meeting Act (OPMA) when it considered elimination of the K/4 program without including same in its agenda for the June 21, 1999 meeting since adequate notice of the Board's intent to consider elimination of K/4 was provided in the agenda published for a subsequent meeting on October 7, 1999.

The Commissioner agreed with and adopted as his own the ALJ's recommended decision granting the Board's motion for summary decision, concluding that the ALJ properly applied the standard for summary decision set forth in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995) in determining that petitioners failed to demonstrate that the decision to eliminate K/4 was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Notwithstanding this holding, however, the Commissioner determined that the June 21, 1999 meeting agenda did not comply with the intent of the OPMA since it did not provide sufficient notice that possible elimination of the preschool program would be discussed. Although the Commissioner agreed with the ALJ that there is no basis upon which to grant the relief sought by petitioners, given that the Board later provided adequate notice of its intent to consider elimination of K/4 in its October 7, 1999 meeting agenda, the Commissioner cautioned the Board that it must at all times and in all matters recognize and effectuate the intent of the OPMA.

BEFORE ANTHONY T. BRUNO, ALJ:

Petitioners request that respondent school district be compelled to reinstate the half-day kindergarten for four-year olds program which the school district had discontinued after 14 years. Petitioners allege that no educational purpose existed for the school district's action, that the school district acted in bad faith, and the school district's actions were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

On August 18, 1999 this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested matter pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14b-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 14F-1 to -13. Oral argument on petitioners' motion for emergent relief was scheduled for August 26, 1999 at Mercerville, New Jersey and heard that date. An Order Denying Emergent Relief was entered on August 27, 1999 and the matter scheduled for plenary hearing on October 20, 1999. On October 14, 1999 the school district filed a Notice of Motion for Summary Decision and requested an adjournment of the scheduled hearing date. A letter order was issued on October 26, 1999 fixing the date for petitioners to file a response and fixing November 17, 1999 as the date for oral argument. The documents submitted by the parties in support of their respective positions are listed in the appendix. The hearing record closed on November 17, 1999 at the conclusion of oral argument.

FACTUAL FINDINGS

The petitioners originally alleged that the Beach Haven district operated a half-day kindergalien program for the four-year old children of the district for 14 years. As the children left the four-year old kindergarten program (K/4) they entered the half-day kindergalien program for five-year olds (K/5) the following September. Funding for the kindergarten programs has been provided in annual school district budget, and so explained to the Beach Haven voters.

The school district invited the prospective K/4 students to the annual orientation day at the school held on May 5, 1999. At its meeting held on June 21, 1999 and under agenda item 7.1-Discussion: All day kindergarten (Exhibit P-B), the Board of Education "after discussing a five-year old full kindergarten program [considered] a motion... to eliminate the two half-day kindergarten program in favor of a full day five year old kindergarten program as ... more educationally sound ... ". (Exhibit R-C). The motion passed by a roll call vote of 4 yes and 1 no.

The K/4 kindergarten program had been taught by Ms. Labin in school year 1998-99; Ms. Giordano taught the K/5 program. Ms. Giordano, a tenured kindergarten teacher, met with Superintendent Johansen in April 1999 to inquire whether the K/5 program was to become a full-time class "anytime in the future." Upon Giordano being told by Johansen that full-time kindergarten for 5 year olds "would not happen for two or three years," Giordano tendered her resi g n ation to Johansen. (Exhibit P-C). Giordano's resignation was "accepted with regrets" by the board of education at its meeting of April 26, 1999 (Exhibit R-A). Ms. Labin, a non-tenured teacher, was hired for the full-time kindergarten program.

After the hearing on petitioners' motion for emergent relief, the school district, pursuant to item 5.0 - "Discussion on creating a full-day kindergarten program and eliminating the KI program. Action will be taken. "the published agenda for its meeting of October 7, 1999 (Exhibit R-G), re-adopted the resolution to eliminate the "part-time pre-kindergarten [K/4] and pan-time kindergarten [K/5]" and provide "a full day kindergarten program." (Exhibit R-H). The board of education also ratified its actions of June 2L

ANALYSIS AND DISCUSSION

Petitioners submitted affidavits of Sharon Voisine (Exhibit P-E) and A. Samantha Kelly (Exhibit P-F), „Titten statements of Rosemary King (Exhibit P-6) and Rosemary Walsh (Exhibit P-H), a letter written by Audrey Ivancich to Board of Education President Patrick Kelly (Exhibit

P-K), a report published by the National Association for Education of Young Children (Exhibit P-I), several newspaper articles (Exhibit P-J), a transcript of Superintendent Johansen's testimony during his cross-examination by Mr. Rodgers (Exhibit P-L), and the list of Ocean County communities which have pre-school programs (Exhibit P-M). At the outset it is necessary to consider whether the contents of the aforesaid exhibits, if accurate, are material to the outcome of this matter. "When deciding a motion for summary judgment under Rule 4:46-2, the determination whether there exists a genuine issue with respect to a material fact challenged requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party in consideration of the applicable evidentiary standard, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, 142 NJ 520,523 (1995).

A board of education has the power and duty to "perfom1 all acts and do all things... necessary for the lawful and proper conduct, equipment and maintenance of the public schools of [its] district" N.JS.A. 18A: 11-1 (d). "The board of education may establish a kindergarten sch9ol or ... department ... and may admit to such kindergarten ... any child over the age of four and under the age of five and shall admit to such kindergarten ... any child over the age of five and under the age of six years old who is a resident of the district." N.JS.A. 18A:44-2. In its use of the words "may" and shall in legislation authorizing the establishment of a kindergarten, the Legislature clearly differentiated the mandatory kindergaiien programs for children five years of age which boards of education shall establish from the kindergarten programs for four year,old children which boards of education are pem1itted to establish, at the board's discretion. Neither the statutes nor the Constitution of the State of New Jersey mandate a free public education for a child under the age of five years although, pursuant to N.JS.A. 18A:7F-1 6, regulation, and at the cost of the State the Department of Education, all three-and four-year old children the Abbott District Urban Reform program are to offered a half-day preschool program (N.JA.C. 9:19A-3.3(a)). Beach Haven is not an "Abbott" district.

Petitioners argue that the school district's decision was arbitrary, capnc1ous or unreasonable and therefore receivable under Parsippany-T'oy Hills Education Association v. Board of Education of Parsippany-Troy Hills Township, 188 NJ Super. 151 (App. Div. 1983).

Petitioners submit in their brief that the school district made "its long-term policy decision" to expand the K/5 program to a full day and to eliminate the half-day K/4 program "long before April 1999." And the resignation of Giordano afforded the convenient opportunity to the school district to implement its decision. The decision of the school district was not motivated by the lack of educational benefit of the half-day K/4 program (which is conceded to be of educational value), nor by its conclusion that a full day K/5 program was educationally sounder than a half-day K/5 program (also acknowledged to be accurate), but rather by the school district's consideration of personnel and finance factors. Is the school district precluded from effecting "its long-tenn policy decision" because of the opportunity to avoid a reduction in personnel and not over spend its budget? It is for these reasons that I CONCLUDE that petitioners' aforementioned exhibits do not raise issues of material fact.

I CONCLUDE that the petitioners have not affirmatively demonstrated that the school district's decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. I CONCLUDE that a board of education is pennitted the discretion to consider sound economics and business principles as may be necessary for the lawful and proper conduct of the schools in its district insofar as the abolition of the K/4 program.

That Giordano may have had good cause to file and prosecute a grievance to retain her tenured status in the new kindergarten program is not an affirmative demonstration of arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable conduct by the school district.

Petitioners submitted a copy of the 1999-2000 school budget as approved by the voters of Beach Haven with their motion for emergent relief (Marked P-8). I cannot find a specific appropriation for the K/4 or K/5 kindergarten program. The school district's recitation and reliance upon N.J.S.A. 18:22-8.1 and 8.2 without response by petitioners leads to the presumption that petitioners believed that the K/4 was to be funded as a general fund expense authorized at N.J.S.A. 18A:44-4:

> The expenses of preschools or . . . kindergarten schools or departments shall be paid out of any moneys available for the general fund expenses of the schools, and in the same manner and under the same restrictions as the expenses of other schools or > departments are paid, except when wholly or partly subsidized by restricted funding sources or restricted endowments.

Unless prohibited at N.J.S.A. 1SA:22-8.2, a board of education may transfer amounts in its budgets among line items and program categories of the budget as the board of education deems necessary. N.J.S.A. 1SA:22-8. L "Early childhood program aid" was not listed in the 1999-00 budget among the sources of revenue available for budget purposes (N.J.S.A. 18A:22-8(a)(3), and therefore I CONCLUDE the board of education was authorized to make such transfer, if any, as might be necessary to operate the full day kindergarten program.

I CONCLUDE that it is no longer necessary to consider whether the school district violated the terms of the open Public Meeting Act (N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 et seq.) when it considered the elimination of theK/4 program without including the same in its agenda (Exhibit P-B). Adequate notice of the board of education's intent to consider the elimination of the K/4 program was provided in the agenda published for the October 7, 1999 meeting (Exhibit R-G).

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the respondent school district's motion for summary decision dismissing petitioners petitioner is GRANTED. It is further ORDERED that the petition in this matter is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CO:VIMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.JSA. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF BEACH HAVEN, OCEAN COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. The Board's reply exceptions, upon granting of an extension, were likewise timely filed.

Petitioners except to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) conclusion that numerous exhibits submitted in opposition to the Board's Motion for Summary Decision did not raise issues of material fact to demonstrate affirmatively that the Board's action to eliminate the preschool program for four-year-old children (K/4) was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonaole. They also except to the ALJ's failure to consider the Giordano grievance an affirmative showing of arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable action by the Board. Petitioners further object to the ALJ's "interpretation of the budget and the application of funds," arguing, inter alia, that if the Board has a surplus of $75,000, there is no economic reason that the Board should not or could not keep the four-year-old program. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 7-8) Lastly, petitioners take exception to the AU's failure to rule that the Board was in violation of the Open Public Meeting Act (OPMA), at least until October 7, 1999.

The Board's reply exceptions urge affirmance of the ALJ's recommended decision, averring that all of petitioners arguments, except for the one relative to a $75,000 surplus, merely rehash arguments properly rejected by the ALJ. Moreover, the Board argues that the exception alleging that the Board's actions were not based on sound economic and business principles because the District has a $75,000 surplus should not be permitted to be raised at this juncture because "[t]his allegation and its implication transgresses the well established principle that an administrative tribunal's decision must be based upon evidence that is part of the established record." (Reply Exceptions at 1-2) It further argues, inter alia, that:

> The amount of undesignated general fund balances, commonly known as surplus funds, is regulated by law. For example, N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-7 requires local boards, like Beach Haven, to designate at least 6% of its budget or $75,000 (whichever is greater) as surplus funds. N.J.A.C. 6: 19-2.5 also mandates that local boards estimate the amount of surplus funds a year in advance.
> The use of surplus, on the other hand, is regulated by law only if the surplus exceeds the statutory limit. Specifically, N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-7c provides that if Beach Haven's surplus exceeds the 6% or $75,000 limit, the excess must be reserved and designated in the following year's budget. Aside from these requirements, the use of surplus is a matter of board discretion. (Id. at 2)

Upon thorough consideration of the record of this matter, the Commissioner agrees with and adopts as his own the ALJ's recommended decision granting the Board's Motion for Summary Decision for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision, except as noted below. After comprehensive review of the entire record, the Commissioner concludes that the ALJ properly applied the standard for summary decision as set forth by the court in Brill, supra, and, therefore, adopts the ALJ's conclusions that no genuine issues of material fact exist in the matter which would require a plenary hearing.

The Commissioner further concludes that the ALJ correctly determined that petitioners have failed to show that the decision to eliminate the K/4 preschool program was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. N.J.S.A. 18A: 11-1 grants a board of education broad discretionary powers to "[p]erform all acts and do all things, consistent with law and the rules of the state board, necessary for the lawful and proper conduct, equipment and maintenance of the public schools of the district." Thus, the Board herein had the discretionary authority to abolish the half-day program for four-year-old children and create a full-day kindergarten program. Further, it is well-settled law that when a board acts within its discretionary authority, its decision "is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset unless there is an affirmative showing that such decision was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable." Thomas v. Bd. of Ed. of Morris Tp., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd 46 N.J. 581 (1966).

The standard of review for determining whether or not a board of education action was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable is narrow in its scope and consequently imposes a heavy burden on those who challenge actions of boards of education. The standard defined by the New Jersey courts states:

> In the law, "arbitrary" and "capricious" means having no rational basis.  Arbitrary and capricious action of administrative bodies means willful and unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances. Where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached. Moreover, the court should not substitute its judgment for that of an administrative or legislative body if there is substantial evidence to support the ruling. (Bayshore Sew. Co. v. Dep't. of Env., N.J., 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199-200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974) (citations omitted)

In applying this standard to the instant matter, the Commissioner finds and determines that the record does not establish that the Board herein took willful or unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of the circumstances. On the contrary, it shows that the Board acted based upon educational and economic reasons, notwithstanding petitioners' arguments to the contrary regarding a $75,000 surplus they allege exists. Further, upon review of the parties' arguments and the documentary evidence in support thereof, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ's conclusion that the Giordano grievance is not an affirmative demonstration of arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable conduct by the Board.

Consequently, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the Board's abolishment of the preschool (K/4) program was a proper exercise of its discretionary authority. Notwithstanding this holding, however, the Commissioner believes that petitioners raise legitimate concerns about the adequacy of notice provided to the public about the possible elimination of the preschool program, given that the agenda for the June 21, 1999 meeting merely stated that there would be discussion of all-day kindergarten.

On the issue of the OPMA and adequate notice, the Board argues, inter alia, that:

> The [OPMA] entitles the public to be present at a meeting, however, it does not mandate or guarantee public participation. A board of education retains the right to permit, prohibit or regulate active public participation at any meeting. N.J.S.A. 10:4-12a.
>
> Here, the Board exercised this right and permitted public discussion of [the controverted] issue at two board meetings. (Exhibits B - Board minutes of May 24, 1999, and C - Board minutes of June 21, 1999.) Thus, Petitioners' allegations that the Board violated the Act when it failed to allow public discussion are blatantly false. Accordingly, this claim must fail.
> At the May 24th Board meeting, four members of the public commented about the preschool program during the public discussion portion of the meeting. Exhibit B. Twelve people spoke at the June 21st meeting. Exhibit C.  (Brief in Support of Respondent's Motion for Summary Judgment, at 9-10)

Moreover, while the Board argues that petitioners have failed to establish an OPMA violation, it is clear from the record that the Board recognized the need to take action to address any possible violation of the OPMA. Of this, the Board states:

> At the emergent relief hearing, [the ALJ] commented that he believed the agenda notice for the June 21, 1999 meeting did not comply with the pirit of the Sunshine Law. Item 7.1 of the June 21, 1999 agenda provides: "Discussion: All day Kindergarten." The Judge stated that this did not adequately inform the public that action would be taken to eliminate the preschool program.
> The Sunshine Law does not require agenda information to be published for regularly scheduled meetings. (Citations omitted) However, if an agenda is voluntarily published, it must be complete and adequately disclose what matters are to be considered. Based upon the Judge's comments, the Board sought to take corrective action pursuant to N.J.S.A. 10:4-15a. This statutory provision states:
>
> > Any action taken by a public body at a meeting which does not conform with the provisions of this act shall be voidable in a proceeding in lieu of prerogative writ in the Superior Court, which proceeding may be brought by any person provided, however, that a public body may take corrective or remedial action by acting de novo at a public meeting held in conformity with this act and other applicable law regarding any action which may otherwise be voidable pursuant to this section ...
> Accordingly, a special meeting was held on October 7, 1999. The Board published a new agenda which specifically states that the Board would discuss creating a full day kindergarten, and eliminating the preschool program, and action would be taken.This corrective action effectively positions the Board in full compliance with the Act. (Id. at pp. 10-11) See also August 26, 1999 Transcript at 95-96.

Upon review the record on the issue of notice, the Commissioner determines that, even though the Board may have been in technical compliance with the requirements of OPMA through its publication of an agenda including full-day kindergarten as an item of discussion (7.1 Discussion: All day kindergarten), it failed to honor the intent of the law by wording the agenda in such a way that the public could not have reasonably been expected to realize that elimination of the preschool program would be discussed as part of that item. Thus, the Board effectively precluded the public from having sufficient notice of the discussion so as to enable all interested persons to attend the meeting in question. Notwithstanding this determination, however, the Commissioner agrees with the ALl that there is no basis upon which to grant the relief sought by petitioners to reinstate the preschool program, given that the Board took official action on October 7, 1999 to ratify an action, otherwise lawful, to discontinue the preschool (K/4) program and create a full-day kindergarten program. However, the Borough of Beach Haven Board of Education is cautioned that it must at all times and in all matters adhere to the OPMA, not just in terms of technical compliance, but also in terms of the law's intent.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision as elaborated herein, the Board's Motion for Summary Decision is granted and the Petition of Appeal is dismissed.*

Petitioning parent contested the Board's residency determination. The Board sought the appropriate amount of tuition due and owing for the time petitioner's son attended its schools illegally. The ALJ previously concluded that, as a matter of law, petitioner was not a bona fide resident of the City of Atlantic City from October 1997 through June 1998, petitioner's son was not entitled to a free public education at Atlantic City High School during that period and tthe Board was due the educational cost for the education provided J.G.A. from October 1997 through June 1998. The petition was dismissed. The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that petitioner was responsible for the tuition payment to the Board for J.G.A.'s educational expense for the period J.G.A. was a nonresident pupil in the Board's school but remanded the matter to OAL for calculation of the tuition due.

On remand the ALJ determined that petitioner owed respondent $9,149.40 for 153 days of ineligible attendance at Atlantic City High School during the 1997-98 school year. The Commissioner adopted the recommended decision of the ALJ for the reasons expressed therein, noting that petitioner's exceptions contest the finding of petitioner's son's ineligibility for a free education at Atlantic City High School, a threshold issue which remand of the matter for tuition calculation did not serve to reopen.

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

This matter is on remand from the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) subsequent to this administrative tribunal having issued an initial decision wherein it was determined that petitioner was not a bona fide resident of the City of Atlantic City from October 1997 through June 1998. The undersigned concluded that petitioner's son, J.G.A., was not entitled to a free public education at Atlantic City High School during that period and, therefore, was subject to the payment of appropriate tuition for his education. The Commissioner concurred with the initial decision that petitioner was responsible for the tuition payment to the Atlantic City Board of Education (Board) for the period J.G.A. was a nonresident pupil in the Board's school. The Commissioner could not, however, agree that dismissal of the petition was appropriate because the amount of the tuition costs petitioner was required to pay the Board had not been calculated and, therefore, remanded the matter for a determination of the amount of tuition due to the Board.

On May 6, 1999, a prehearing conference was held at which, among other things, the issues to be determined were agreed upon and a hearing date was established. The hearing was held on July 16, 1999, at the Atlantic City OAL, Adantic County Civil Courthouse, Atlantic City, New Jersey. The hearing record remained open in order for the Board to submit its 1997-98 school calendar. The hearing record closed on October 7, 1999, after the Board's submission.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Pursuant to the school calendar for the Atlantic City Public Schools for the 1997-98 school year, the pupils enrolled in the Board's schools were scheduled to be in attendance 180 days between September 8, 1997 and June 23, 1998. The record shows that petitioner J.G.A. attended the Board's schools as a nonresident pupil from late October 1997 through June 1998. Thus, providing petitioner with all favorable inferences, the period of calculation shall begin on October 21, 1997, the third week in October and continue through June 23, 1998, the last day pupils were required to be in attendance at school.

The Board's Business Administrator/Board Secretary submitted sworn Affidavit which shows that the tuition for the 1997-978 school year to be $10,764. Using the $10,764 tuition cost and dividing that amount by 180, it is found that the daily tuition cost for 1997-98 to be $59.80. Applying the 27 days for September and October when, presumably petitioner was a resident pupil in the Board's schools, petitioner is therefore credited with $1,614.60 against the total tuition cost of $10,764. Subtracting the $1,6 I4.60 from the $I0, 764, it is found that petitioner owes the Board the amount of $9,149.40 for the tuition of J.G.A. as a nonresident pupil for the 1997-98 school year.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that G.E.A. reimburse the Board the amount of $9,149.40 for the tuition of J.G.A., a nonresident pupil attending the Board's schools, for the 153 days J.G.A. attended the Board's schools during the 1997-98 school year.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CQMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance ith N.JS.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record and Initial Decision on Remand issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

This matter was remanded to the OAL for the sole purpose of determining the specific amount of tuition owing to respondent as a result of the Commissioner's decision, issued on March 10, 1999, in which it was determined that petitioner was not domiciled in Atlantic City from October 1997 through June 1998, thus making his son ineligible to attend Atlantic City High School free of charge. In his exceptions, petitioner does not set forth any specific exceptions to the amount of tuition the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) determined was owing in this matter; rather, petitioner pleads that the Commissioner not assess him tuition costs due to a myriad of circumstances and adversities which, in petitioner's view, militate against such assessment.

While-petitioner eloquently states his position, it must be emphasized that the only issue on remand which may properly be before the Commissioner at this time is the amount of tuition owed because, as indicated above, a final decision on the threshold issue of petitioner's son's ineligibility for a free education at Atlantic City High School was already reached by the Commissioner in March 1999. Remanding of the matter for tuition calculation did not serve to reopen that threshold issue.

Accordingly, the Al.J's recommended decision ordering that petitioner reimburse respondent the amount of $9,149.40 for 153 days of ineligible attendance at Atlantic City High School during the 1997-1998 school year is adopted by the Commissioner for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision on Remand.'"

DECISION ON MOTION

Remanded by the Commissioner of Education, June 25, 1998

Decision on Motion by the Commissioner of Education, April 17, 2000

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, May 1, 2000

For the Respondent/Petitioner-Cross/Appellant, David B. Rubin, P.C. (David B. Rubin, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Petitioner/Respondent-Appellant, Rand, Algeier, Tosti & Woodruff (John F. Croot, Jr., Esq., of Counsel)

The matter now before us involves an appeal and a cross-appeal from a decision by the Commissioner of Education that directed that Neal A. Ercolano (hereinafter "respondent") be dismissed from his tenured employment as a sixth-grade teacher in Branchburg and that he be paid back salary for a portion of the period of his suspension commencing in February 1998. The tenure charges that led to the Commissioner's directive of dismissal had their genesis in an incident that resulted in the respondent's conviction in municipal court for simple assault. In addition to the tenure charges, the respondent's conviction also led the district board to seek the forfeiture of his position under N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2. This added to the procedural complexity of the matter now before us.

Both the municipal court proceedings and the tenure charges stemmed from a single incident that occurred on January 17, 1996. That incident involved a sixth-grade student who was out of his classroom without permission. The student was running in the hallway when physical contact occurred between the respondent and the student. On October 10, 1996, the student's mother filed an assault charge in municipal court against the respondent.

On April 23, 1997, a trial was conducted before the Honorable William T. Kelleher. After hearing the testimony of the witnesses, Judge Kelleher found that the respondent had grabbed the student, pushed him against the wall and placed him in fear of bodily harm. Judge Kelleher therefore found that the respondent was guilty of simple assault in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1(a).

On June 16, 1997, the Board of Education of the Township of Branchburg (hereinafter "Board") voted to withhold the respondent's salary increments for the 1997-98 school year based on the assault conviction. On September 2, 1997, the Board certified tenure charges against the respondent and suspended him without pay.

Prior to certifying the tenure charges, the Board had asked the municipal court to declare a forfeiture of the respondent's position pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2(a)(2). However, when the court was informed that tenure charges had been filed, the court declined to exercise jurisdiction over the forfeiture issue.

On September 9, 1997, the respondent petitioned the Commissioner seeking restoration of his increment.

On December 18, 1997, the parties participated in a telephone conference with the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") assigned to hear the tenure charges. In a letter dated December 19, 1997, David B. Rubin, Esq., counsel for the Board, memorialized the ALJ's directives from that conference. The first directive was to consolidate the respondent's challenge to the withholding of his increment with the tenure matter. The other three directives involved resolving the forfeiture issue and, related thereto, addressed the question of a stay of the Board's obligation to continue to pay the respondent's salary. As set forth in Mr. Rubin's letter:

> 2. Before ruling on the Board's forfeiture motion, [the ALJ] has afforded [respondent] thirty days to ask the Attorney General or the Somerset County Prosecutor to apply to the Branchburg Municipal Court to waive the mandatory forfeiture provisions of the statute. If they decline to make that application [the ALJ] would then proceed to rule on forfeiture.
> 3. If such an application is made to the Municipal Court, all proceedings before [the ALJ] will be stayed until the Municipal Court rules on that application or otherwise relinquishes jurisdiction.
> 4. In the meanwhile, the Board's obligation to continue Mr. Ercolano's salary will be stayed effective January 17, 1998 and until the forfeiture issue is disposed of by either [the ALJ] or the Municipal Court Judge.

By letter dated January 20, 1998, the Somerset County Prosecutor's Office advised that it had decided not to apply for a waiver of forfeiture. By letter of February 20, 1998, the State Attorney General's Office advised that it had also determined not to apply for such waiver.

The record closed on February 27, 1998, and, on April 7, 1998, the ALJ issued her initial decision, holding that respondent had forfeited his position.

On June 25, 1998, the Commissioner rejected the ALJ's determination, finding that the ALJ did not have jurisdiction over the forfeiture issue. Accordingly, the matter was remanded to the ALJ for disposition on the merits.

On March 13, 2000, the ALJ granted the Board's Motion for Summary Decision, recommending that the tenure charges against the respondent be sustained and that he be dismissed from his tenured position. The ALJ also directed that the respondent's back salary be paid retroactive to February 27, 1998.

On May 1, 2000, the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's initial decision.

The Board then appealed to the State Board of Education from the Commissioner's determination that the respondent was entitled to salary payments retroactive to February 27, 1998. Respondent cross-appealed from that portion of the Commissioner's decision sustaining the tenure charges and directing his dismissal.

Adding to the procedural complexity of this matter, the Board, following the Commissioner's determination of June 25, 1998 that he did not have the authority to declare a forfeiture of the respondent's position, renewed its motion seeking such declaration from the municipal court. After reviewing the matter, the municipal court judge entered an order declaring a forfeiture, effective as of the date of the respondent's conviction.

Respondent appealed to the Law Division from the municipal court's determination. The Law Division reversed the municipal court's order of forfeiture, concluding that a district board did not have the authority to seek a declaration of forfeiture.

The Board then appealed to the Appellate Division from the Law Division's determination. As a result of that appeal, on November 28, 2000, the Appellate Division reversed the Law Division's determination and held that a district board does have the authority under N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2(g) to seek an order of forfeiture. In its decision, the Appellate Division also reinstated the municipal court's order declaring a forfeiture of respondent's employment, effective April 23, 1997, the date of his conviction. The respondent sought review of the Appellate Division's decision from the New Jersey Supreme Court. However, on March 20, 2001, the Supreme Court denied his petition for certification.

The Board then filed a motion with the State Board of Education, seeking dismissal of the matter before us on the grounds that both the appeal and cross-appeal are now moot by virtue of the judicial resolution of the forfeiture issue. No response to the motion was submitted on behalf of the respondent.

We agree with the Board that the Appellate Division's decision renders moot both the appeal and the cross-appeal in this matter. That decision settles that termination of respondent's tenured employment was proper. Further, in that the effective date of the forfeiture of respondent's employment, April 23, 1997, predates the certification of the tenure charges against him and his suspension on September 2, 1997, there is no basis upon which he can claim salary for any portion of his suspension.

We therefore grant the Board's motion and dismiss the appeals in this matter.

This matter, having been brought before the Commissioner of Education by the Board of Education of the Township of Wayne (Board) by way of a Petition of Appeal filed on August 30, 1999, requesting that respondents be ordered to pay the Board tuition in the amount of $7,637.66; and

Whereas, respondent parent, E.P, having been served with the petition by the Board on August 27, 1999 and respondent parent, R.P, having been served with the petition by the Board on September 28, 1999; and

Whereas, the Commissioner having sent to each respondent two separate notices directing that an Answer to the petition be submitted pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.4; and

Whereas, the Commissioner having notified Respondent E.P. by regular and certified mail on October 5, 1999, and Respondent R.P. by regular and certified mail on December 9, 1999, that if an Answer was not submitted, each count of the petition would be deemed admitted and the matter would then be decided on a summary judgment basis pursuant to the Commissioner's authority granted by N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.4(e); and

Whereas, there is no indication that respondents did not receive such communications; and

Whereas, neither of the respondents, nor any attorney on their behalf, has filed an Answer to the charges against them; thus, each count of the charges against respondents having been deemed to be admitted; and

Whereas, the Commissioner's review of the petition indicates that; (1) respondents' son, E.P., attended the Board's Packanack Lake School commencing on or about September 30, 1998; (2) in or about April 1999, E.P.'s teachers began to suspect that he was not residing with his father in Wayne but with his mother in Paterson; and (3) the Board's attendance officer conducted an investigation which lead to the Board's voting to disenroll E.P.; and

Deeming such charges to be admitted in the absence of an Answer being submitted by either of the respondents, the Commissioner finds that respondents' son was ineligible, pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, to attend school free of charge in the Wayne School District for the period of time during the 1998-99 school year as set forth by the Board herein; now, therefore

PETITIONER,	:

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, a nontenured fourth-grade teacher, appealed the District's suspension and ultimate termination of her employment for unprofessional and inappropriate conduct.

After hearing testimony, the ALJ found that petitioner engaged in a tug-of-war with a student who attempted to sit after being directed by petitioner to stand in class, resulting in the student falling down, and permitted an uncle of a female student to administer a beating to the student in her presence, failing to inform the school principal or the State Division of Youth and Family Services of the beating incident. The ALJ rejected petitioner's contention that the District improperly denied her due process by failing to provide her with an investigation or hearing prior to her dismissal, noting that, pursuant to established law, the decision to terminate petitioner was within the District's discretion and, as a nontenured teacher, petitioner was only entitled to a statement of the reasons for her dismissal. Here, the District investigated the incidents, concluded that they had occurred and provided petitioner with a statement of the reasons for her dismissal, the receipt of which petitioner did not dispute. Thus, the ALJ dismissed the petition and recommended referral of this matter to the State Board of Examiners, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6: 11-3 .6, based on her finding that petitioner testified untruthfully at the hearing.

The Commissioner agreed with and adopted as his own the recommended decision of the ALJ for the reasons well expressed therein and ordered a copy of this decision to be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners.

BEFORE ELINOR R REINER, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On or about December 29, 1995, petitioner, Lydia Anderson, filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education alleging that respondent improperly removed her as a teacher in violation of the New Jersey tenure statutes and without due process. She sought reinstatement to her position as a teacher. On February 2, 1996, the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J. S.A. 52:148-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The matter was assigned to the undersigned judge on February 26, 1996, and a telephone prehearing conference was scheduled for May 2, 1996. On that day, the issues were isolated. The parties identified the issues as whether petitioner was entitled to tenure in her position and whether respondent violated petitioner's tenure rights by terminating petitioner without complying with the tenure statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. The parties contemplated filing cross-motions for summary decision. Counsel failed to comply with the time frames established in the prehearing order for motions to be filed, because petitioner was also litigating the same issues in other forums. Subsequently, counsel for petitioner requested that hearing dates be established. As a result of conferences held with counsel, the parties agreed that petitioner is not a tenured teacher. Thus, the issue to be determined was whether petitioner received the rights to which she was entitled on termination. The parties agreed to a briefing schedule. Thereafter, counsel failed to file a joint stipulation of facts and comply with the briefing schedule; counsel indicated that a hearing would be necessary. The parties were unavailable for a hearing in December 1997 and a hearing was scheduled for August 6, 7, 10 and 11, 1998. Settlement discussions were held on August 6, 1998. A settlement was not reached, and the matter was heard on August 10 and 11, 1998. As a result of petitioner's conduct at the hearing, the case remained open. Settlement discussions were held with counsel and respondent mqved to dismiss petitioner's complaint. The undersigned judge held a hearing on March 26, 1999, during which respondent's motion to dismiss was denied and additional evidence was submitted. The record closed after the submission of briefs.

TESTIMONY

Lydia Anella Anderson was employed by the Newark Board of Education as a fourth-grade teacher. She taught a self-contained classroom at Bragaw Avenue School. She became a United States citizen on June 5, 1996.

The District's determination to remove petitioner was based upon two incidents that allegedly occurred in petitioner's fourth-grade classroom. Specifically, the District alleged that on October 26, 1995, petitioner directed two students to stand in class and subsequently engaged in a tug-of-war with student D.M. when the student attempted to sit. This action by petitioner resulted in the student falling down. Further, the District alleged that on November 15, 1995, petitioner permitted an adult relative (uncle) of a female student, S.J., to administer a beating to the student in her presence. Petitioner failed to inform the school principal or the State's Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) of this beating incident. As a result, on November 22, 1995, the District suspended petitioner with pay pending an investigation of her conduct regarding these two incidents.

Petitioner testified that on November 22, 1995, the principal gave her a letter of suspension (J-1) and told her to leave the building. When she received the letter of suspension, she did not know what the suspension was for. She was terminated, by letter dated December 14, 1995 (J-2), which was mailed to her home. She testified that from November 22, 1995, to December 14, 1995, she had no discussions with either the principal or the assistant superintendent. No one asked for her explanation of the charges, nor did anyone advise her of when the Board would make a determination. She provided a handwritten statement regarding the November 15 incident to principal Wilma Findley on November 15, 1995 (J-5), prior to receiving Ms. Findley's request for a written statement, dated November 16, 1995 (J-3). She provided a typed statement the first school day after November 16 (J-4).

In regard to the November 15, 1995, incident, Anderson contended that she had not seen student S.J. being beaten by her uncle because she was helping another student at the time. She heard a belt hitting a coat. Although a union member, Anderson could not recall if she spoke to a union representative after receiving the December 14 letter. She could not recall if she filed a grievance, but agreed that she had not filled out a form.

On questioning by the undersigned, Anderson indicated that she gave the typewritten version of her statement regarding the November 15, 1995, incident to Ms. Findley on November 17. The November 15 date on the statement referred to the date of the ineident. The date on the handwritten version also refers to the date of the incident, November 15. She sent that letter to Ms. Findley shortly after the incident.

Carolyn King, a substitute teacher employed by respondent who was assigned to the classroom next to petitioner's, testified that she was asked about the November 15 incident after Anderson's termination. She said that she also received a letter from Ms. Findley (which she did not have with her at the hearing) asking her to submit a statement about what had occurred. She provided a written response stating that she was unaware of the incident. She was not questioned any further.

Next to testify was student S.J., who was eleven and one-half years old when she testified. She recalled that petitioner was her fourth-grade teacher. S.J. said that her uncle came to Ms. Anderson's class and that an incident occurred between her and her uncle. She stated that no adult asked her about the incident, and that she did not have a meeting with Ms. Findley regarding the incident. A few days after the incident, Principal Findley and S.J.'s uncle talked while she was standing across the hall. Both she and her uncle told her father about the incident. Her father was the only person she told about it.

Elbert Louis McClain testified that he went to Bragaw Avenue School on November 15, 1995, after Ms. Findley called him to say that his niece, S.J., was disrupting the class. Findley explained that she wanted him to talk to S.J.'s teacher, Ms. Anderson. A discussion ensued outside Anderson's classroom among Ms. Anderson, S.J., Findley and McClain. Findley left at the conclusion of the discussion. S.J. put her feet up on the wall and dirtied it. McClain requested that S.J. clean up the wall. A couple days later he had a fifteen-minute discussion with Ms. Findley in Findley's office, during which Findley asked him what had occurred on November 15.

In an effort to rebut the above testimony, respondent offered the testimony of Robert Livingston Copeland, assistant superintendent of School Leadership Team III. At the time of the incidents in question he was acting assistant executive superintendent, responsible for the general administration of sixteen schools located primarily in the South Ward of the city of Newark. In November 1995 he became aware of several incidents involving Ms. Anderson. He recalled having discussions with Principal Findley about an incident involving a tug-of-war over a chair or a desk and an incident involving leaving students unsupervised. In regard to the tug of-war, he recalled that a special assistant met with the parent of the child that was involved. He referred to a note taken by one of his special assistants regarding this incident (R-2). He did not recall receiving a request for a written statement regarding the November 15 incident or discussing that incident with Ms. Findley. He recalled discussing Anderson's suspension with Dr. John A Nolan and concluding that since Anderson was non-tenured, they could terminate her without filing tenure charges.

Questioned on cross-examination as to whether he had a recollection of reviewing documents from Ms. Findley or Dr. Nolan with regard to the October 26 and November 15 incidents, he indicated that he had a "shaky recollection of the last incident with the relative." He recalled having a number of conversations with Ms. Findley concerning Anderson but did not recall any of the specifics and had no recollection of Ms. Findley giving him any documentation in respect to the Novernber 15 incident. Although his file and Ms. Findley's files were the basis of the termination letter, he did not recall reviewing Ms. Findley's files, nor did he recall in-person meetings with Ms. Findley regarding the two incidents. He did not recall seeing Ms. Anderson's statements in regard to the incidents and specifically had no recollection of seeing a November 15 letter to Ms. Findley from Ms. Anderson. He opined that the incidents were reportable to the DYFS, but he was not familiar with Board policy in regard to child abuse and neglect (P-15) in December 1995. Copeland understood that Ms. Findley had asked for Anderson's side of the story in regard to these incidents. He did not specifically recall if Ms. Findley ever asked Ms. Anderson to explain what occurred on October 26, but he believed that it would have been Findley's practice to obtain statements from all parties involved. He noted that in a State-operated school the hiring and termination decisions are made by the superintendent.

On redirect examination, Copeland said he thought he had spoken to Ms. Findley regarding the November 15 incident, but he could not specifically recall. He recalled speaking to her about the October 26 incident.

Wilma Findley has been the principal of Bragaw Avenue School for the last four years. She testified that she was told of the November 15 incident involving S.J. and her uncle by Carl Beatty, a substitute teacher. While Mr. Beatty was leaving a classroom on the third floor (Room 314) he heard noises that led him to Room 302, where he saw a man whipping a child with a belt. Findley called her vice principal, Lillian Burke (then Lillian Baldwin), who advised her that Mr. Beatty had already spoken to her and the uncle had already left Anderson's classroom. Findley launched an investigation by speaking to each of the students who had been in the classroom at the time of the incident. Findley personally asked the children questions and typed up their responses (R-3). She also solicited written statements from three adults. Both Beatty and King provided statements {R-4; R-5). She had a discussion with Mr. Copeland in which she described what she had learned about the incident from Mr. Beatty and the students. She also spoke to S.J.'s uncle, Mr. McClain, either the afternoon of the incident or the next day and told him about the action she had to take regarding the incident. Findley delivered the suspension notice to Ms. Anderson. She said that Ms. Anderson was aware that Findley had talked to the students, but she was not sure if Anderson was aware that she had spoken to the adults.

Findley testified that in late November, prior to the suspension, she had a discussion with Anderson and Ella Taylor, the union official. They discussed the fact that Findley had reported the November 15 incident to Mr. Copeland and to the DYFS and Anderson gave her impression of the way Findley had treated her. Anderson did not grieve the suspension.

Findley became aware of the October 26 tug-of-war incident when the student involved reported it to her the day it occurred. Findley investigated the incident by speaking to the other students in the class. She wrote down what the students told her (R-6). Anderson told Findley that the students' statements were inaccurate and that the child had pushed her. Findley did not solicit written statements from Ms. Anderson or the students, but she reported the incident to Copeland. She met with the student's mother regarding the incident. She forwarded statements to Mr. Copeland, Human Resource Services and the Labor Relations Department. She became aware that Ms. Anderson had been terminated when she received a copy of the letter of termination.

On cross-examination, Ms. Findley said that she never showed any of the statements regarding the November 15 incident to Anderson, nor did she question her on them. Although Findley could not recall if she received Anderson's statement regarding the incident on November 15 or 16, she recalled that she definitely received it after she asked Anderson for a statement.

Referring to her notes regarding the October 26 incident (R-6), Findley indicated that when she wrote the notes she had already spoken to the students. Findley spoke to Anderson about the incident when Anderson reported that a student had pushed her, and she believed that conversation took place on October 26. She indicated that the report of the incident (R-1) was typed in the offices of Cluster Three based on information she gave. She did not recall having a meeting with Ms. Taylor and ,Ms. Anderson in October 1995. She first had a discussion with Copeland about Anderson when the November 15 incident involving S.J. occurred.

On further questioning, Findley indicated that she started speaking to the students about the November incident on the day that it occurred. She went to thE: vice prindpal's office to speak to the students, but she did not recall whether she went to get the students or asked Ms. Burke to bring the students to her one at a time. She compiled her handwritten notes of the children's statements into the typewritten document. She questioned S.J. but did not have a statement from S.J. (she believed she wrote S.J.'s comments down somewhere). S.J. said that she had gotten a beating in front of the class and that Anderson, who was present, took her coat. Findley said that Mr. McClain told her that he had whipped S.J. because the teacher had called him on several occasions because S.J. was being disrespectful to the teacher; he wanted to teach her a lesson. Findley did not recall asking him what Anderson was doing while this occurred; she did not go into detail with him. Rather, the statements of the students and Carl Beatty formed the basis of the charges against Anderson. Ms. Findley said that she met with Anderson after the incident. Anderson told her that she knew that S.J.'s uncle was in the classroom, knew about the beating and had left the uncle to carry out the beating. Prior to the incident, Findley had a conference with Mr. McClain, Ms. Anderson and S.J., which occurred when she took McClain up to the classroom to speak with Anderson. Findley left after she spoke to them.

Rebuttal testimony was offered by Lydia Anderson. She claimed that she had not met with the building representative and Ms. Findley between November 15 and November 22 in regard to the incident of November 15. She had a meeting with Ms. Findley and the building representative on October 13 concerning the fact that the children in her classroom were not meeting standards. Ms. Findley also indicated that student D.M.'s mother had requested that Ms. Anderson not call her at home to report D.M.'s behavior. Ms. Taylor told Anderson to conform to Ms. Findley's teaching standards.

Referring to the report of the October 26 incident (R-1), Anderson indicated that D.M. not only pushed her, but punched her in her lower back, necessitating that she go to the doctor. She did not fall over a desk or cut her knee and there was no incident in her classroom with an unknown male. She never wears a necklace since it is prohibited by her religion. She said that Ms. Findley did not direct her to the school nurse or speak with her on the day after the incident. She did not meet with D.M. and Ms. Findley regarding the incident.

Ms. Anderson .testified as to the manner in which the administration obtained statements from her students about the November 15 incident. She stated that on November 17, 1995, Lillian Burke, the vice principal, questioned each student separately across the hall from Anderson's classroom. It took Ms. Burke from approximately 9:10 to 10:30 a.m. to question the students. To Anderson's knowledge no children were questioned on November 15 or 16 by Ms. Burke or Ms. Findley. Anderson contended that when the students came back to her classroom after being questioned by Ms. Burke they were very upset. They said that Anderson was a good teacher and that they did not like the way she was being treated. The students said that there had been other beating incidents in the school, similar to the one involving S.J. and her uncle, and that the teachers present during those incidents were not treated the way Anderson was being treated. The students decided to write down what Ms. Burke had asked them. Those statements were offered into evidence as having been written by the students, for the purpose of proving that the students were questioned by Ms. Burke and not by Ms. Findley.

Anderson stated that Mr. Beatty came to her classroom the day of the incident involving S.J. When he arrived at her classroom she was next to her door helping a student who was sitting in close proximity to Room 301. Mr. Beatty asked her what was happening in her classroom. She told him that she did not know and to ask Mr. McClain. Beatty did not ask Mr. McClain, but instead asked Ms. King what was happening in Anderson's classroom. Ms. King went to the door of Room 301 and told Mr. Beatty that she was teaching her class and did not know what was happening in Anderson's classroom. Anderson said that when Mr. Beatty came to her classroom McClain was waiting for her to prepare S.J.'s homework for the rest of the week to give to him; he was not hitting S.J. The students' statements (P-1) were received into evidence and Anderson testified that they were actually written by the students.

On cross-examination, Anderson stated that she never requested a meeting with Ms. Taylor and Ms. Fi_ndley regarding the November 15 incident. She did not know why se was suspended, nor did she know that there was an investigation when she received her suspension letter. However, she admitted that she knew that the students were questioned about the beating incident on November 17, prior to her suspension. She then contended that she did not know what they were being questioned about.

On questioning by this judge, Anderson admitted that she knew what the students had been questioned about when they came back to her classroom. She then admitted that she did know before November 22, the date of her suspension, what they had been questioned about, and that she had made an error in saying that she did not know. She testified that she saw the children questioned by Ms. Burke in the hallway outside her classroom, but did not hear the questions asked. Ms. Burke's office was on the same floor and approximately 18 to 20 yards away from her classroom. She claimed that she could not see Ms. Burke's office from her classroom.

Referring to the statements of the students (P-1), Anderson recalled that when they came back to her classroom after being questioned by Burke they were upset and said, "We are going to write down what Mrs. Burke asked us because we don't like the way they are treating you." It was time for their writing exercises and she handed out paper and the students individually wrote their statements. She did not ask them to write anything down. Anderson claimed that she had not written any of the statements, nor had she given Ms. Findley any of the students' statements.

Anderson referred to statements from students J.T. and S.D., which she agreed indicated that Ms. Burke took them out of Anderson's classroom to her office. Anderson claimed that she did not see Burke take J.T. to her office. She reiterated that she saw Ms. Burke do the questioning in the hallway, but she would not say whether J.T. had lied if he said the questioning took place in Ms. Burke's office. Questioned by the undersigned, Anderson contended that Ms. Burke did not move from the hallway or direct the children to her office.

On further questioning by the undersigned, Anderson was asked why she did not give the children's statements to the principal. She alleged that she did not know that she should have given them to the principal.

Next to testify was Elbert Louis McClain, who indicated that he received a call from Ms. Findley two or three days after the November 15 incident. She asked him about his involvement in the incident but did not ask about Anderson's involvement. He recalled that when he and S.J. were about to leave the classroom after getting a homework assignment from Anderson, a gentleman stuck his head in the door of the classroom, looked around and walked away.

On cross-examination, McClain explained that he spoke to Findley on the telephone about the incident and Findley told him to come to school to discuss what had happened. He went to school that day and spoke to Findley. Findley did not ask about Anderson's actions.

Wilma Findley was recalled to the stand. She was shown Exhibit P-1, handwritten statements from eleven students, and she testified that she had not seen the students' statements before. She contended that she questioned the children in Room 307, the office used by the vice principal. Ms. Burke escorted the students to and from the classroom and was in and out of the office while Findley questioned the children.

Questioned by the undersigned, Findley recognized the names of the students who gave the statements. She had not gotten handwritten statements from the students and could not imagine the students writing individual statements that all said the same thing. She indicated that the handwriting and spelling on the statements did not look typical of fourth graders. They all had spelled all the participants' nan;1es correctly and all had the same "R," which looked like the "R" of an older person. Noting that these were average students, she doubted that these were their individually handwritten statements. Of import, she said, "Would be to God, I had a class of fourth graders that were this legible all the way through."

Subsequent to the close of the hearing, I scheduled an additional hearing date, which was due to the following events. As the result of Findley's testimony, I was concerned that the statements allegedly written by various students (P-1} were actually not the students' statements. 1conferred with counsel in an effort to determine whether those statements were from the students and suggested various methods for making such a determination. Subsequent thereto, I received a letter from Mr. Liss, Anderson's attorney, dated August 13, 1998, which read as follows:

> Dear Judge Reiner: Subsequent to your Monday conference call I discussed with Ms. Anderson your recommendation in respect to an analysis of the exhibits submitted representing student letters as to their meeting with Vice Principal Burke on November 17, 1995. Ms. Anderson informed me that the exhibits were written by her and that the exhibits in content were what her students wrote. Ms. Anderson brought me the student letters, which I have attached to the exhibit submitted, as well as a letter from Ms. Anderson which she requested I forward you. I am available for a conference call upon your receipt and review. I have informed counsel for the Board and I am sending him all material I received.

I then received two letters from Ms. Anderson, both dated August 11, 1998. The first letter said:

> I made an error in testimony today. I am sorry for that error. Please accept my apology. In January of 1996 I had rewrote the students' responses to Ms. Burke regarding the incident in ink. I rewrote them in ink because I feared they would have faded . . . or get damaged if they got wet. I could not find the penciled copies this morning. It was my error to have . . . I guess . . . brought you the ink copies instead. I had copied the exact words that the students wrote. Please forgive me for doing that. On my way home something within me kept on saying, go home and search for those penciled copies and let the Judge get them. Again, Your Honor, I apologize for my error, please forgive me. Thank you. Yours respectfully, Lydia A. Anderson. P.S. I have given these copies to Mr. Eugene Liss.

A follow-up letter was received from Ms. Anderson. It stated:

> Dear Judge Reiner: Again I am apologizing for the error I made in my testimony today. Please forgive me, Your Honor, I could not find the students' penciled copies in their own handwriting. It was my error to bring in what I had copied over. I am very sorry, Your Honor, please forgive > me. On my way home my conscience told me to go home and search for the students' own copies, I did, and I found them. I did not know how to get them to you. At 2:57 p.m. I received a call from Mr. Liss' secretary in Little Falls asking me to call Mr. Liss at the NTU office in Newark. I called Mr. Liss at the NTU immediately. He told me that you were concerned about those handwritten statements. I explained my mistake to him and told him that I came home and searched for the students' penciled copies. He told me to bring them to him at the NTU before 5:00 p.m. I did. I brought them to him at 4:45 p.m. today.

> I have enclosed the copies from students' own copies, 11 copies. Mr. Liss has the students' copies, 11 copies original. Again please, Your Honor, please forgive me for this error. I am very sorry about this incident, Your Honor. Please forgive me, Your Honor. I admit, Your Honor, I did not think wisely that I had to bring in the students' own handwriting copies. I explained in my first letter why I had recopied them, Your Honor. Do please forgive me, Your Honor. I am very remorseful about this incident, Your Honor. Do please forgive me Your Honor. Thank you, Your Honor. Have a pleasant day and all the best for the days and years ahead. Please ask Mr. Liss to give you the students' original copies, 11 copies. Again, thank you, Your Honor. Yours respectfully, Lydia A. Anderson.

Copies of the inked letters of the students attached to the penciled letters were received into evidence (J-6), as were the two letters from Ms. Anderson (J-7).

It must also be noted that three requests for an adjournment of the scheduled hearing date were made. Mr. Liss requested two adjournments. First, Mr. Liss claimed that his client was working and could not get out of work for the day. Second, he alleged that Anderson was ill. The third request was received directly from Anderson, who said that she would be present in the morning but due to an emergency could not get to court at the scheduled starting time. I delayed the hearing at Anderson's request and Anderson did in fact appear at the hearing. I noted on the record the three different stories that had been presented in regard to Ms. Anderson's inability to be present in the courtroom for the continuation of the hearing. The hearing proceeded in regard to the issue of the students' statements.

Ms. Anderson was called by respondent to testify. She was shown the penciled statements (J-6), and claimed that they were written by the students in her class in November 1995. Each student wrote a statement and then handed it to her. She put these original statements in a folder on her desk and took them home, after she received the suspension letter. She took the penciled statements to Mr. Liss in January 1996, and his secretary copied them. At no time did she turn over those penciled statements to the District; she did not know she had to do so. She claimed that she drafted the ink statements in January before she took the penciled copies to Mr. Liss. She never provided the ink statements to the District. Anderson claimed that on the morning of the prior hearing date she was in a rush and could not find the penciled copies. Anderson testified as follows:

> And on my way home my conscience is . . . and even Mrs. King . . . I said Mrs. King, oh, my God, I presented the wrong papers. I made a mistake. But Judge Reiner said she doesn't want no paper after the hearing. And Ms. King said, you better go home, find those papers, and get them to the judge. But I said, she doesn't want no paper.

Anderson then stated,

> I went home, I searched for them, then the phone rang and I told Mr. Liss I had them. And he said that I should bring them to him at the Board that very day.

Anderson admitted at the hearing that she decided to provide the penciled copies after she spoke to Mr. Liss, who told her that the judge was concerned about the handwritten copies. Anderson indicated that Ms. King had been at the hearing that day.

On redirect examination, Anderson was questioned regarding her contention that Ms. King was present at the hearing on August 11 and that Ms. King gave her a ride home. When told that Ms. King was at the hearing on August 10 and not August 11, Anderson indicated, "Maybe that was my mistake." However, she then alleged that Ms. King "was here on August 11," and gave her a ride home that day.

Next to testify was Manuel Quinones, employed by respondent for the last three years as a special investigator. Provided with the handwritten penciled statements of the students (J-6), he was asked by respondent to get handwriting exemplars from as many of the students as he could. He asked Ms. Findley for the handwriting exemplars of those students. Ms. Findley provided them to Quinones within half an hour of the request (R-7). On voir dire, Quinones agreed that he did not see the students write the statements that he received from Ms. Findley and that he was not a handwriting expert. Some of the handwriting samples from the students were taken from their notebooks; they were not asked to write them.

Lydia Anderson testified about the students' handwriting samples (P-2). She stated that it was her students' school work that she had in her possession when she was suspended. The red writing was her handwriting. She contended that these papers were written by her students.

On cross-examination, Anderson explained that she had a folder for each of her students, and one for herself. She placed both corrected and uncorrected work in her folder. At the end of the year, she returned the corrected assignments to the students. She did not ask permission to take the students' work (P-2) home and admitted that she never returned it to the school or to the students. On redirect examination, Anderson admitted that one student's homework must have been sent home, because his mother signed it.

FINDINGS OF FACTS

Based on the above testimony, I make the following Findings of Fact:

1. Petitioner, formerly employed with the District as a non-tenured teacher, was terminated on December 14, 1995, for unprofessional and inappropriate conduct in her capacity as a teacher (J-2).

2. Petitioner received a notice of termination dated December 14, 1995, outlining the reason for her termination (J-2).

3. Respondent alleged that on October 26, 1995, the petitioner directed two students to stand in class and subsequently engaged in a tug-of-war with one of the students when one of them tried to sit. This action by petitioner resulted in the student falling down and risking injury.

4. Respondent alleged that on November 15, 1995, petitioner allowed an adult relative of one of her female fourth-grade students to administer a beating to the student in her presence. The petitioner failed to notify either the school principal or the State of New Jersey's Division of Youth and Family Services of the beating incident.

5. Petitioner was suspended with pay pending an investigation of her conduct.

6. Petitioner was covered by the Agreement between the Board of Education of the City of Newark and the Newark Teachers Union Local 481 A.F.T./AFL-CIO effective July 1, 1991, through June 30, 1994 (hereinafter "CBA").[1] The CBA outlines a grievance procedure which results in binding arbitration in Article III, Step 4. Anderson never filed a grievance regarding her suspension or termination.

[1] A successor agreement to the CBA was being negotiated at the time of the petitioner's termination in December 1995. Accordingly, if petitioner did file a grievance it would have proceeded in accordance with the procedure outlined in the CBA attached hereto.

7. Petitioner was given an opportunity to present her version of the facts regarding the beating incident prior to the action terminating her employment.

8. By memorandum dated November 16, 1995, Wilma Findley, the principal at Bragaw Avenue School, requested a written statement from Anderson regarding her version of the incident on November 15 (J-3).

9. Anderson provided handwritten and typewritten statements confirming that student S.J. was beaten in her classroom (J-4; J-5). The statements did not attest that she complied with her duty to report the incident to her supervisor and to the DYFS. Principal Findley met with Anderson and her union representative in late November.

10. Anderson was not charged with physically abusing students in violation of District policy; thus, there was no basis for the District to register a complaint about Anderson with the DYFS.

11. Wilma Findley conducted an investigation of the incidents providing the basis for petitioner's termination. Ms. Findley's investigation of the October 26, 1995, incident consisted of speaking with the students present in the classroom and to Anderson.

12. Ms. Findley's investigation of the November 15, 1995, incident included speaking to each student who witnessed the beating and requesting written statements from petitioner and two other teachers (Ms. King and Mr. Beatty) who may have had knowledge of the incident. Findley personally questioned each student and typed their responses (R-3).

13. In the course of her testimony at the August 11, 1998, hearing in this matter, Ms. Anderson represented that certain statements, marked as Exhibit P-1 and submitted as evidence, were accurate copies of statements written by her former students. Anderson testified that the statements were true and accurate copies of the students' submissions in their own handwriting and that she did not write the statements herself.

14. Subsequent testimony by Wilma Findley raised authenticity concerns regarding the students' statements.

15. During a post-hearing telephone conference on August 11, 1998, this judge requested the parties' positions on the issue.

16. Anderson submitted two letters directly to the judge dated August 11, 1998, in which she admitted lying under oath and in which she claimed that the statements submitted were in fact written by her. Anderson said that she had copied the words the students had written. Anderson apologized profusely for her conduct and requested this judge's forgiveness.

17. No determination has been made as to the authenticity of the handwritten statements of the students submitted by Ms. Anderson at the hearing held on March 26, 1999. Moreover, even if authentic, no determination has been made as to the manner in which these statements were adduced.

DISCUSSION

The basis of petitioner's petition is her contention that the District improperly denied her due process by failing to provide her with an investigation or a hearing prior to her dismissal. For the following reasons, petitioner's appeal must be rejected.

The State Legislature has set forth a tenure system which contemplates that local boards of education shall have broad discretionary authority in the granting of tenure. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 to -18. Once tenure is granted, teachers shall not be dismissed except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. However, it is settled that boards of education are vested with wide discretion regarding employment considerations, i.e., the hiring or renewing of non-tenured teachers. Winston v. Board of Educ. of South Plainfield, 125 N.J. Super. 131, 143 (App. Div. 1973), aff'd, 64 N.J. 582 (1974); Dore v. Board of Educ. of Bedminster, 185 N.J. Super. 447, 453 (App. Div. 1982); Union County Reg'l High Sch. Bd. of Educ. v. Union County Reg'l High Sch. Teachers Assoc., 145 N.J. Super. 435, 437 (App. Div. 1976). "A nontenured teacher, while entitled to protection from arbitrary and capricious action, is not entitled to be treated in a nature in which a tenured teacher would, where there is a proposal of termination of employment." Costanzo v. Board of Educ. of Rahway, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 654, 661, aff'd, St. Bd. of Educ., 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 218.

The Supreme Court has held that boards of education are required to provide non-tenured teachers with statements of reasons for not renewing employment. Donaldson v. Board of Educ. of N. Wildwood, 65 N.J. 236, 246 (1974). The Donaldson Court addressed a non-tenured teacher's claim that she was entitled to a statement of the reason or reasons for the school board's refusal to renew her contract. Id. at 239. The Court noted that a non-tenured teacher ordinarily does not have a constitutional right to a statement of reasons for her nonretention. Id. at 242. However, after reviewing case law and arguments for and against providing non-tenured teachers with statements of reasons, the Court stated that "the very requirement that reasons be stated may serve as a significant discipline against arbitrary or abusive action." Id. at 246. Thus, the Court concluded that directing boards of education to provide non-tenured teachers with the reasons for nonretention will safeguard against arbitrary or abusive exercise of their broad discretionary powers.[2] The Court also suggested that while the plaintiff did not assert that she was entitled to a hearing before the board, a timely request for an informal appearance should ordinarily be granted.[3] Ibid.

The Appellate Division reaffirmed the principle that school boards maintain broad discretionary authority in the dismissal of non-tenured teachers in Dore, supra, 185 N.J. Super. at 453. Similar to the Donaldson case, Dore involved a petition of appeal by a non-tenured teacher challenging the board's decision not to reemploy him. In referring to the Court's reasoning in Donaldson, the court concluded as follows:

> Implicit in this language is the recognition by the court that absent constitutional constraints or legislation affecting the tenure rights of teachers, local boards of education have an almost complete right to terminate the services of a teacher who has no tenure and is regarded as undesirable by the local board.

Therefore, the court found that the board's determination not to renew the plaintiff's employment contract was within its discretion and not improper. Id. at 453-55.

[2] Following the Supreme Court's decision in Donaldson, the Legislature adopted L. 1975, c. 132, § 2, which is codified at N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.2 and provides:

> Any teaching staff member receiving notice that a teaching contract for the succeeding school year will not be offered may, within 15 days thereafter, request in writing a statement of the reasons for such nonemployment which shall be given to the teaching staff member in writing within 30 days after the receipt of such request.

But note, this provision is inapplicable here because petitioner was terminated for cause. Contract nonrenewal is not at issue here.

[3] The Legislature did not enact a law providing non-tenured teachers with the right to request a hearing regarding termination or contract non-renewal.

The case of Kufel v. Board of Education of the Union County Vocational-Technical Schools, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 446, is similar to the instant matter. A non-tenured teacher was dismissed from employment by the school board following a charge that he acted in an insubordinate and menacing manner during a conference. The petitioner was suspended without pay and subsequently terminated. Neither an investigation nor a hearing was held prior to the termination.

An administrative law judge (ALJ) held that material issues of fact did not exist and granted the board's motion for summary decision. The ALJ found that the teacher could not carry the burden of demonstrating that the board's actions were unreasonable and concluded that the board's reasons for terminating the teacher were conduct-related, not arbitrary or capricious. The Commissioner of Education adopted the ALJ's findings and recommendations and dismissed the petition. Citing to Dore, supra, 185 N.J. Super. 447, the State Board of Education affirmed the Commissioner's decision. 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 447. The Appellate Division thereafter affirmed, stating, "[f]iring an employee because of abusive conduct toward a supervisor is a reasonable decision." 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 317, 318.

In the instant matter, petitioner was terminated following two incidents that the District found constituted inappropriate and unprofessional conduct by a teacher. In the October 1995 incident, petitioner engaged in a physical struggle with a student, causing the student to fall. In November 1995, petitioner stood by and allowed an adult relative of a student to strike the student and failed to notify the Division of Youth and Family Services. These actions were investigated by the school principal and found to be inappropriate and unprofessional.

As evident by the case law discussed above, the determination to terminate petitioner was within the District's discretion. As a non-tenured teacher, petitioner was only entitled to a statement of the reasons for her dismissal. In the instant case, the District investigated the incidents, concluded that they had occurred and provided petitioner with a statement of reasons for her dismissal. No statute or regulation exists requiring the District to provide petitioner with a hearing. Inasmuch as the District's determination to terminate petitioner was reasonable and not arbitrary or capricious, petitioner's appeal should be dismissed.

CONCLUSION

I CONCLUDE that the District did not violate petitioner's due process rights by terminating her employment. The District's action was warranted and reasonable in light of petitioner's involvement in the October and November 1995 incidents. The District was not required to provide petitioner with a hearing; petitioner was only entitled to a statement of the reasons for her dismissal. Petitioner did not dispute that she received notice of her termination and the reasons for it. In addition, and based on the findings of fact outlined above, petitioner testified untruthfully at the hearing held in this matter, which conduct only serves to confirm the District's action.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the District's determination to terminate petitioner is upheld and petitioner's appeal is dismissed.

It is further ORDERED that the Commissioner of Education refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6 for possible revocation of petitioner's teaching certificate based on her conduct at the hearing.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

LYDIA ANDERSON,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. On November 3, 1999, petitioner submitted a Substitution of Attorney notice indicating that Dan S. Smith, Esq. was now her attorney of record in the matter and requesting that a 30-day extension be granted to permit his review of the record and to submit exceptions to the Initial Decision. Consequently, an extension of the 45-day statutory period for the Commissioner's review and issuance of a final decision from November 15, 1999 until December 30, 1999 was requested by the Commissioner and granted by the OAL on November 8, 1999. On November 24, 1999, petitioner's attorney requested an additional three-week extension because he had not yet been able to secure the complete record from petitioner's former attorney. A second extension until January 21, 2000 was then granted by the OAL for issuance of the Commissioner's final decision in this matter.

Petitioner's exceptions were timely filed on December 20, 1999. The Board's reply exceptions were, upon the grant of an extension, timely filed on January 3, 2000.

In her exceptions, petitioner avers, inter alia, that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred in Finding of Fact 10 (Initial Decision at 17) that "Anderson was not charged with physically abusing students in violation of District policy; thus, there was no basis for the District to register a complaint about Anderson with the DYFS." She argues that she was suspended and eventually terminated for neglect involving the failure to stop an alleged beating and report such; therefore, she was entitled to due process in accord with the respondent's own policy. Petitioner further maintains that it is totally inconsistent that respondent should not have the advantage of termination based on the neglect of a DYFS regulation on the one hand and the refusal to follow its own DYFS policy on the other hand. Petitioner's exceptions set forth a lengthy discussion of Nicoletta v. No. Jersey District Water Supply Commission, 77 N.J. 145 (1978) in support of her contention that respondent failed to accord her due process rights, arguing that the ALJ's reliance on Kufel, supra, was in error because, she, unlike the petitioner in Kufel, was guaranteed due process when a suspension arose with respect to a DYFS matter based upon respondent's own policy.

Respondent rebuts petitioner's arguments with respect to due process, emphasizing that its child abuse and neglect policy is not at issue herein because the sole basis for petitioner's termination was not because she was accused of child abuse but because she engaged in inappropriate and unprofessional conduct, i.e., by being aware that a beating incident took place and failing to report the incident, as required. Respondent further argues that, even by petitioner's own acknowledgement, even if the policy were applicable, all that the policy requires is notice of the charges and an opportunity to respond to them prior to disciplinary action. Of this, respondent states, "[i]t is undisputed that Anderson was given notice of the charge and an opportunity to respond; she spoke to administrators concerning the October 26th incident and submitted handwritten and typewritten statements concerning the November 15th incident." (Respondent's Reply Exceptions at 8) Moreover, respondent urges that the ALJ correctly determined that there is no legal basis requiring that petitioner receive a pre-termination hearing, contending, inter alia, that Nicoletta, supra, is not applicable to the within matter. Further, as in Kufel, petitioner cannot rely upon constitutional constraints or legislation which restrict the otherwise "almost complete right to terminate the services of a teacher who has no tenure and is regarded as undesirable by the local board." 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 447, quoting Dore v. Bedminster Twp. Bd. of Ed., 185 N.J. Super. 447, 456 (App. Div. 1982).

Petitioner also avers that the ALJ erred in finding that: (1) she failed to notify either the school principal or the State of New Jersey's Division of Youth and Family Services of the beating incident; and (2) the principal questioned each student in the classroom and adults.

Upon comprehensive review of the record, including the transcripts of the hearing and the parties' exceptions, the Commissioner agrees with and adopts as his own the recommended decision of the ALJ dismissing the petition for the reasons well expressed in the Initial Decision. The Commissioner, after thorough consideration of the entire record, finds the ALJ's analysis and discussion of the law and legal principles applicable to the factual circumstances and issues in the instant matter to be cogent and her conclusions fully supported by the record.

Having determined that petitioner has failed to establish that respondent's action terminating her was in violation of her constitutional or statutory rights, the Commissioner hereby dismisses the Petition of Appeal. Dore, supra; Kufel, supra; Randy Pratt v. Board of Education of the Borough of Butler, Morris County, State Board, decided January 6, 1999.

Further, a copy of this decision shall be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, for review and action, if any, as it deems appropriate.*

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

* This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination in the instant matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.1 et seq., within 30 days of its filing. Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

PETITIONER-APPELLANT,	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT- RESPONDENT.	:

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, January 19, 2000

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Dan Solomon Smith, Esq.

For the Respondent-Respondent, Sills Cummis Radin Tischman Epstein & Gross (Cheri L. Maxwell, Esq., of Counsel)

The State Board of Education affirms the decision of the Commissioner of Education substantially for the reasons expressed therein. In doing so, we reiterate that "absent constitutional constraints or legislation..., local boards of education have an almost complete right to terminate the services of a teacher who has no tenure and is regarded as undesirable by the local board." Dore v. Bedminster Twp. Bd. Of Ed., 185 N.J. Super. 447, 456 (App. Div. 1982). Hence, while a non-tenured teacher is entitled to a statement of the reasons for his termination, Donaldson v. Bd. Of Ed. Of No. Wildwood, 65 N.J. 236 (1974); see N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.2 (teaching staff members entitled to statement of reasons when contract is not offered for the succeeding year), such teachers are not entitled to litigate their terminations in this forum unless the reason for the board's action is in violation of constitutional or legislatively conferred rights. Dore, supra. See Guerriero v. Board of Education of the Borough of Glen Rock, decided by the State Board of Education, February 5, 1986 (district board entitled to summary judgment where non-tenured teacher did not allege that nonreemployment was in violation of constitutional or legislatively-conferred rights).

Moreover, we stress that a non-tenured teacher does not have any protected interest in continued employment under the United States Constitution and, therefore, no right to due process protection under the Fourteenth Amendment. Board of Regents of State Colleges et al. v. Roth, 408 U.S. 564, 92 S. Ct. 2701 (1972). Nor do such teachers have a right to due process under the New Jersey Constitution. Donaldson, supra. Hence, there was no constitutional requirement that the Board conduct a hearing before terminating petitioner. As petitioner now argues for the first time, she may have had the right to a hearing under the applicable collective negotiations agreement.[1] However, resolution of such claims does not lie within our jurisdiction.

Therefore, for the reasons stated herein, as well as those expressed by the Commissioner, we affirm the Commissioner's decision.

Settlement Agreement

The parties having amicably resolved this matter between them it is hereby agreed as follows:

1. Both Petitioners shall be reemployed by Respondent as teachers within their areas of certification.

2. The parties agree that petitioners maintain whatever tenure rights they may have under the law.

3. Upon Petitioner De Fuccio's return to teaching at the Passaic County Juvenile Detention Center she will be placed at step 8B of the Respondent's salary guide for the 1998-1999 school year until such time as successor collective bargaining negotiations are settled for the contract year 1999-2000. The base salary shall be $46,500 + 10%, or $51,150 and shall be prorated and paid to Petitioner based on a twelve month school year. However, Petitioner DeFuccio shall only be paid for the time she actually works in the Respondent district.

4. Petitioner Donna Kraft, upon her return to teaching at the Passaic County Juvenile Detention Center, shall be place at step 13C of the Respondent's salary guide for the 1998-1999 school year until such time as successor collective bargaining negotiations are settled for the contract year 1999-2000. The base salary shall be $57,786 + 10% or $63,564 and shall be prorated and paid to Petitioner based on a twelve month school year. However, Petitioner Kraft shall only be paid for the time she actually works in the Respondent district.

5. Both Petitioners' sick day banks from their prior employment at the Juvenile Detention Center shall be restored to their prior levels. Petitioner DeFuccio shall have 19 days added to her bank to reflect unused days for the 1998-1999 and 1999-2000 school years. Petitioner Kraft shall have 0 days added to her bank. This provision is subject to verification from Passaic County Educational Services Commission.

6. In exchange for the above consideration, both Petitioners shall withdraw the within appeals with prejudice. Petitioners hereby waive any and all claims they may have against Respondent including but not limited to claims for back pay and other emoluments.

7. This agreement shall become effective upon approval by the Respondent Board of Education. All parties waive their rights to file exceptions and/or cross-exceptions to the within agreement.

8. This agreement shall not be deemed a precedent in any subsequent tenure and seniority matters involving Respondent.

9. For purposes of longevity calculations only, both Petitioners shall be deemed to have been hired as of October 1, 1997.

10. The parties agree that Petitioners shall return to work at Passaic County Juvenile Detention Center forty-five days after the Commissioner approves this agreement.

11. The Petitioners agree that Respondent may obtain copies of their personnel files from the Passaic County Educational Services Commission for items contained therein up to June 30, 1998.

Petitioning parent challenged Board's residency determination.

After a hearing at the OAL in which the ALJ found petitioner's testimony to be not particularly credible and noting petitioner's concession under cross-examination that information provided by her in various forms was intentionally false and designed to mislead school officials as to the true residence of petitioner and J.H., the ALJ determined that petitioner failed to meet her burden of establishing her domicile in respondent's district so as to entitle J.H. to a free public education. The ALJ dismissed the petition and ordered petitioner to pay respondent $5,664 for educational costs for J.H. for the 1998-99 school year and $37.63 per day for each day of his ineligible attendance for the 1999-2000 school year pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(2).

BEFORE MICHAEL L. RAVIN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner contests respondent's determination that her son, J. H., is not a school district resident and is therefore not entitled to a free public education in the respondent's district schools. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on January 12, 1999 as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. A hearing was scheduled on October 26,1999. On that date, the hearing took place. The record was kept open pending receipt of written submissions concerning the amount of reimbursement to which respondent would be entitled in the event of a decision adverse to petitioner.

The submissions were received on November 24, 1999 and on that date, the record was closed

BURDEN OF PROOF

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, the challenger to a Board's decision to deny a free public education within its district has the burden to prove to the Commission of Education by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in the statute. The statute also provides that no child shall be denied admission during the pendency of such proceedings before the Commissioner and in the event the child is currently enrolled in the district, the student shall not be removed from school during the pendency of the proceedings. If, however, in the judgment of the Commissioner, the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, he/she shall assess the resident tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district.

As a result of the current law cited above, the burden rests on the petitioner by a preponderance of the evidence to show that domicile did in fact exist in the district in which the child attended school.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The following is not intended to be a verbatim statement of the testimony in this matter. It is the summary of the testimony in evidence which was found by the undersigned to be relevant to the issues in this matter.

1. David H. Van Deventer for respondent

Mr. Van Deventer has been employed by respondent as a residency investigator since September,1992. Between 1968 and 1992, he was employed as a police officer in Union Township.

On November 2, 1998, April DeFrancisco, the Secretary of the Union Township Board of Education, assigned Mr. Van Deventer the task of investigating the residence of J. H. Prior to being given this assignment, Mr. Van Deventer had no knowledge of J. H. or his mother, petitioner C. C. When Mr. Van Deventer was given the assignment, he was advised that J. H. attended kindergartner in the Washington School in Union Township and that J. H. told his kindergarten teacher, Bonnie Gentesse, that he lived in Irvington with his mother. Ms. Gentesse was suspicious as to J. H.'s residency because the emergency contact card filled out by petitioner at the time of registration contained an out-of-district telephone number.

On November 4, 1998, Mr. Van Deventer commenced his investigation by conducting a surveillance of 2 ____ M ____ Avenue, the address in Vauxhall where petitioner alleged that she and J. H. resided. His purpose was to ascertain whether or not J. H. was exiting that location to attend school in the morning.

Mr. Van Deventer arrived at 6 a.m. in his own automobile. He observed who was leaving the house and who was entering. He stayed until 9:05 a.m., because he knew that J. H. should be in school by that time. He also knew that J. H. was transported by school bus to Washington School and that the bus stop was one and one-half blocks from 2 ____ M ____ Avenue. During his surveillance, Mr. Van Deventer saw no kindergarten aged child depart from the home. He did observe a middle school aged child, who was subsequently identified as petitioner's brother. This child was picked up by a mini-bus which parked across the street from the home. Mr. Van Deventer telephoned Washington School and learned that J. H. arrived at the school on time.

On November 6, 1998 and November 9, 1998, Mr. Van Deventer conducted the same surveillance and made the same observations as he made on November 4, 1998.

On November 10, 1998, Mr. Van Deventer did not conduct a surveillance. He ascertained from the telephone company that the telephone number on J. H.'s Washington School emergency contact card, 973-372-8 - - -, was listed to petitioner at _____ Place, Apartment __, Irvington, New Jersey.

Based on this information, on November 10, 1998, Mr. Van Deventer went to __ _____ Place in the early morning. He described that location as an apartment complex with a square configuration with a courtyard in the middle of the buildings. This configuration prevented him from conducting any surveillance.

At the _____ Place apartment complex, Mr. Van Deventer observed a mailbox marked Apartment No. __ which had petitioner's name next to it. He also found a doorbell for Apartment __ which had petitioner's name below it. Additionally, in the designated parking space for Apartment _____, Investigator Van Deventer observed a car which appeared disabled. The license plate on the car, New Jersey registration _____, was determined to belong to P. G., who was J. H's grandmother, whose address was 2_ M_____ Avenue, Vauxhall, New Jersey.

Mr. Van Deventer noted that Durand Street and _____ Place intersect at the location of _____ Place in Irvington.

At about 7 a.m. on November 10, 1998, Mr. Van Deventer returned by automobile to the bus stop in Vauxhall in an attempt to determine whether or not J. H. was actually taking the bus to school. According to Mr. Van Deventer, sometimes a child will receive a school bus pass and not actually use the school bus. Mr. Van Deventer arrived at this location around 7:30 a.m. because he knew that the school bus that picks up the children for Washington School stopped there at approximately 8:20 a.m.

Mr. Van Deventer on this occasion took a position where he could see both the bus stop and 2_ M ____ Avenue. Three or four cars pulled up to the bus stop, which was not so unusual. Mr. Van Deventer took notes of the descriptions of the two cars which dropped off children similar in age to the age of J. H. One of the cars was New Jersey registration _____. That car came from the direction of Valley Street, pulled onto M____ Avenue, made a U-turn and came back to the corner, where a child got out of the car. The child got on the bus which Mr. Van Deventer knew was going to Washington School. When the bus left, the car bearing New Jersey registration _____ went down Valley Street onto Springfield Avenue and headed into Irvington. The direction from which that car came was consistent with a car which would be coming from Irvington into Union. The direction in which that car left was consistent with the car which was going from Union to Irvington.

Mr. Van Deventer's "DMV check" on the automobile he had seen revealed that it was registered to Sonia Goodluck, 58 Durand Place, Irvington, which is the same Durand Place that abuts the apartment complex in Irvington where Mr. Van Deventer was earlier in the morning on November 10, 1998.

Mr. Van Deventer did not know on November 10, 1998 that the child he saw get out of the automobile at the bus stop was J. H. However, at 9:15 a.m. on that date, Mr. Van Deventer went to Washington School, had D. H. paged to the office. At the office Mr. Van Deventer positively identified D.H. as the child who was dropped off at the bus stop. He did not question him.

On November 11, 1998, Mr. Van Deventer conducted another surveillance at the bus stop. Once again, he saw J. H. dropped off by the car registered to Sonia Goodluck. He tried to locate that car on Durand Place twice, but was unsuccessful.

On November 16, 1998, Mr. Van Deventer conducted a surveillance of 2_ M____ Avenue in Vauxhall. He observed J. H. come out of the house with one adult, who Mr. Van Deventer could not identify. The adult accompanied J. H. to the bus stop. J. H. got on the bus and went to Washington School.

On November 28, 1998, Mr. Van Deventer conducted another surveillance of the bus stop. He was only able to recall that J. H. did not come out of 2_ M____ Avenue. On November 23, 24 and 25, 1998, Mr. Van Deventer conducted a surveillance of the bus stop and 2_ M_____ Avenue. On those days, the automobile registered to Sonia Goodluck dropped J. H. off at the bus stop and then departed toward Irvington.

In an attempt to confirm that petitioner and J. H. lived at the _____ Place address in Irvington, on November 30, 1998, Mr. Van Deventer telephoned the company that managed that apartment complex. He spoke to an employee of the management company, Delilah Lewis, and asked her who lived at 5____ Place, Apartment No. 2__, Irvington. Ms. Lewis told him that petitioner and her son lived there. Mr. Van Deventer asked Ms. Lewis if she would send him a copy of the lease and she said she could not do so unless the tenant consented. She later telephoned Mr. Van Deventer and told him that the tenant would not consent to the release of the lease to him.

Mr. Van Deventer testified that during his surveillances of 2 __ M_____ Avenue, he watched the entire house. He saw no cars leave that home with the exception of petitioner's mother's van.

Mr. Van Deventer did not ask any of the neighbors at the _____ Place address who lived in Apartment No. ___.

Mr. Van Deventer testified that when he was working on another case, he had a conversation with Ms. Pearl Duboise, a teacher's aide employed by respondent who lives across the street from 2__ M____ Avenue. When Mr. Van Deventer told her that he was investigating the people at 2__ M____ Avenue, she told him "that woman and her child don't live there." According to Mr. Van Deventer, Ms. Duboise also told him that petitioner was at her house recently and requested her to sign a document stating that petitioner lived at 2_ M____ Avenue, but that she would not do it because she did not believe that the petitioner lived there. [Petitioner subsequently testified that she never had that conversation with Ms. Duboise].

2. Harvey Green, for Petitioner

Mr. Green testified that petitioner is his granddaughter and that J. H. is his grandson.

Petitioner and her son moved into 2___ M____ Avenue "for the first time" in August 1995. He did not know when they moved out because he was in and out of the hospital with pancreatitis. He could only remember that some time in June 1998 they moved back in. He testified that J. H. resides at the house at 2__ M____ Avenue and that when petitioner and J. H. moved back in June 1998, it was to help Mr. Green's wife because Mr. Green was ill. Him and his wife occupy a bedroom and his son, Harvey Green, Jr., has another bedroom with two beds in it. Harvey, Jr., J. H. and his other grandson occupy that bedroom. Petitioner occupies another bedroom.

Mr. Green testified that he once visited petitioner at her apartment on ____ Place in Irvington. The last time he was there was "in 1998 I guess." She lived there with J. H.

Mr. Green identified Sonia Goodluck as his grandson Nasciere's father's sister.

Sonia Goodluck, according to Mr. Green, lives on Durand Place in Irvington.

Mr. Green testified that he was in the hospital in the Fall of 1998, which is the relevant time period at issue. He was "back and forth every other week."

Mr. Green testified that he had a lease for 2_ M____ Avenue since August 1995 and the home is owned by a company he worked for, Essex Oil Company, controlled by Daniel Eisenburr.

Mr. Green was shown R-3, a "School District of Union Township." Tenancy Affidavit, dated June 10, 1998. That document reads as follows:

> To the Union Township Board of Education:
>
> This is to state that I, Daniel W. Eisenburr, am the landlord and owner of the property located at 2_ M____ Avenue, Vauxhall, New Jersey. This is to further state that Harvey Green, Pearlie Green, L. Carter, C. and Harvey Green, Jr. are tenants at the above address.
>
> Upon oath, I hereby swear that the above information is true and correct in all its particulars and that if any of the foregoing is false, I am subject to punishment.
>
> Daniel Eisenburr

The document is sworn and subscribed on June 10, 1998 by Sonia Goodluck, "a notary public of New Jersey."

Mr. Green testified that he had "no idea" when the first time he saw that document was, but he recalled seeing it in his house when petitioner was saying that she needed the document for court. He testified that he did not really read the Affidavit of Tenancy and did not know who inserted the names on it. He did not see Sonia Goodluck notarize it and did not see Mr. Eisenburr sign it.

Mr. Green testified that the Affidavit of Tenancy does not indicate that any of his grandchildren, including J. H., lived at 2_ M____ Avenue. He further testified that he did not know that the Affidavit of Tenancy was presented to respondent to attempt to prove respondent where petitioner lived, who she lived with and when.

Mr. Green testified that Sonia Goodluck lived on Durand Place in Irvington and that she and petitioner are close friends.

3. C. C., for Petitioner

Petitioner testified that when her father, Harvey Green, got sick, her mother needed her home. Petitioner had a baby, Nasciere, on April 19, 1998. Therefore, petitioner moved back to 2_ M____ Avenue. She testified that her father was on different medications.

Petitioner testified that when she left the apartment on _____ Place, she had "call forwarding" so that the telephone call of any caller to 973-372-8 - - -, would be forwarded to the 2_ M____ Avenue telephone.

Petitioner was questioned in connection with R-2, the emergency contact form, which was filled in by her. Next to the preprinted words "home phone," petitioner wrote 973-372-8 - - - /908-687-4 - - -. Over the telephone number 973-372-8 - - -, petitioner wrote "office." Petitioner testified that she wrote "office" on top of that telephone number because she did not want the school to think she was living at that number. She also testified that the school contacted her "plenty of times" at the 2_ M____ Avenue telephone number, 908-687-4 - - -.

Petitioner was questioned about another document she prepared, a "Union Township Board of Education Registration Form." Petitioner completed that document on June 16, 1998. Next to the preprinted words "Mother's work number," petitioner wrote 973-994-9 - - -, 973-372-8 - - -. Petitioner was asked whether the second telephone number was truly her work number and she responded that it was not.

Petitioner denied that Sonia Goodluck was driving her son to Washington School on the dates testified to by Mr. Van Deventer. Petitioner testified that she was the one driving him to the bus stop and that she used Ms. Goodluck's car.

When asked if she knew a woman named Pearl Duboise, petitioner testified that Ms. Duboise lives across the street from her at 2_ M____ Avenue and that petitioner "sees her now and then." According to petitioner, Ms. Duboise works for respondent school district.

Petitioner testified that on or about February 4, 1999, she was served with a set of interrogatories in connection with this matter. Among the questions she was asked to answer were:

1. What addresses have you and your family lived at over the past five years?

2. Please provide the names . . . of all individuals residing at B_____ Place, Apartment _, Irvington, New Jersey.

3. Please indicate the utilities that service the property at B____ Place and provide account numbers and the names of the account holders and copies of the last six months' bills.

4. Please provide the names, relationship and ages of all individuals residing at 2_ M____ Avenue, Vauxhall, New Jersey.

5. Please list all employees you have worked for over the past five years.

6. Please provide your 1996-1997 State and Federal tax returns and the 1998 return.

7. Please provide the address and relationship of Sonia Goodluck.

8. Please provide a copy of the lease for premises at B____ Place, Irvington, New Jersey.

Petitioner was asked why she did not answer the interrogatories. Petitioner responded that she did answer them, but she misplaced the answers and the documents requested. She testified that when she misplaced the answers to interrogatories, her attitude was "I'll see [respondent's lawyer] in court."

Petitioner denied telling the manager of the apartment complex at _____Place not to send the lease to respondent. Petitioner stated that on October 28, 1998, when she issued a check to respondent for a school trip for J. H., the check had an address of 28 Durand Place, Irvington. Petitioner testified that she was just trying to use up old checks and, in fact, she was living at 2_ M_____ Avenue at the time.

In support of her testimony that she lived at 2_ M____ Avenue, petitioner introduced into evidence nine documents, none of them establishing that proposition.

4. Maria Schmidtberg, for respondent

Ms. Schmidtberg is employed by respondent as a residency investigator. She was assigned to interview the owner of 2_ M____ Avenue and verify his signature and the signature of the notary public on R-2, the Affidavit of Tenancy. Mr. Eisenburr was interviewed by Ms. Schmidtberg. When confronted with the Affidavit of Tenancy, Mr. Eisenburr acknowledged that he signed it but that no notary public was present when he did. Ms. Schmidtberg testified that Mr. Eisenburr told her that the names of the family members on the form were not on the form when he signed it. Essentially, according to Ms. Schmidtberg, Mr. Eisenburr told her that he signed his name on a preprinted form which had nothing else on it.

CREDIBILITY

The credibility of the witnesses is of paramount concern in this case. If I believe petitioner, petitioner and her son were living in the township at the time period in question. If I do not believe petitioner, respondent prevails.

I am constrained to say that I did not find petitioner particularly credible. If she had answered the interrogatories sent to her and provided the information requested therein, it would have clearly established the place of residence. Not only did petitioner not answer the interrogatories, but she did not bring the information requested to the hearing. Of all of the possible explanations for her failure to do so, under all the circumstances, the most compelling explanation is that had she produced those documents, those documents would have betrayed her position.

Furthermore, respondent conceded under cross-examination that information provided by her in various forms was intentionally false and designed to mislead the school officials as to their true residence.

On the other hand, I was unable to find any motive for Mr. Van Deventer to fabricate. Finally, with regard to the testimony of Mr. Green, his recollection was vague, sketchy and unreliable.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, public schools shall be free to persons over five and under 20 years of age who are domiciled within the school district. While there are certain exceptions, this case is not a case of exceptions but instead a case of questioned domicile. It is the position of petitioner that she and J. H. were, at all times pertinent to this case, domiciled in the district of Union Township.

The burden of proving that the petitioner is domiciled in the school district of Paramus falls squarely upon petitioner. It is petitioner's burden to show that she was domiciled in Union Township and that her son was appropriately attending school there. The proof in this case by petitioner falls well short of meeting the burden. As noted above, her testimony that she was living in the district during the relevant time period lacked credibility. The documents submitted by petitioner in support of her claim not only failed to make up for the incredibility of her testimony, but made her testimony appear even more incredible.

As a result of this conclusion, the next question presented is that of tuition reimbursement. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 permits the assessing of a parent tuition for a student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the schools of the district. Respondent has submitted a certification by Karen M. Dunn, the Business Administrator for the Union Township Board of Education. According to the certification, for the school year 1998-1999, the tuition charge for a student enrolled in a kindergarten in the district was $5,664.00. For the school year 1999-2000, the tuition charge for an elementary grade student is $6,773.00 or $37.63 per school day for everyday the child is enrolled in the system for the year.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's claim be and is hereby DISMISSED. It is further ORDERED that for the days J. H. attended the schools of respondent, Union Township, petitioner shall pay respondent tuition computed in accordance with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2).

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.[1]

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, and relying upon the credibility determinations of the ALJ,[2] the Commissioner concurs that petitioner has failed to establish by a preponderance of credible evidence that she is domiciled in respondent's District so as to entitle J.H. to a free public education.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(2), the Commissioner directs that petitioner reimburse the Board the amount of $5,664 representing educational costs for J.H. for the 1998-1999 school year, and an additional $37.63 per day for each day of his ineligible attendance for the 1999-2000 school year.[3]

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

[1] Although petitioner did file a letter of exception on January 3, 2000, this submission was neither timely filed nor served on the Board and Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

[2] The Commissioner notes that the record before him does not include transcripts of the hearing conducted at the OAL in this matter.

[3] This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination in the instant matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.1 et seq., within 30 days of its filing. Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

HELEN CHELOC,

PETITIONER-APPELLANT,

V.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY,

RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, June 12, 2000

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Feintuch, Porwich & Feintuch (Philip Feintuch, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Murrary, Murray & Corrigan (David F. Corrigan, Esq., of Counsel)

Helen Cheloc (hereinafter "petitioner") had been employed as "Assistant Board Secretary/Director of Administration" by the Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth (hereinafter "Board") since 1985. As set forth in the job description adopted by the Board, exhibit P-1, in evidence, the basic functions of the position included acting as a general aide to the Secretary/School Business Administrator and supervising the operation of the district's Division of Administration. The specific responsibilities included supervising the district's purchasing, payroll, accounting and workers' compensation departments, contract administration, timely submission of required financial reports, assisting the Board Secretary/Business Administrator in the preparation of the annual budget, and maintaining the Board's petty cash accounts. The job description did not include a certification requirement, and the petitioner did not possess certification at the time she was hired.[1]

On December 21, 1994, the Board determined not to award the petitioner a salary increase for the 1994-95 school year, despite a favorable recommendation from the Acting Superintendent.[2] The petitioner filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education, alleging that the Board's action was arbitrary and capricious. The petitioner claimed that, based on past practice, she was entitled to the same benefits as supervisors and administrators who were party to a collective bargaining agreement.

On July 12, 1995, the Board created the position of comptroller and assigned the fiscal supervisory duties performed by the petitioner to that position. The job description adopted by the Board for the new position, exhibits P-30 and R-1, in evidence, required possession of a Bachelor's Degree and a certificate as a Registered Municipal Accountant or Certified Public Accountant, which were not required to be held by the Assistant Board Secretary/Director of Administration. The basic functions of the position, as set forth in the job description, included managing and controlling the financial resources of the district and supervising and managing the operation of the district's Division of Budgeting and Accounting. The specific duties included assisting

[1] The petitioner subsequently acquired certification as a school business administrator in 1989. Tr. 2/7/97, at 20.

[2] In a memo dated December 7, 1994 to the Acting Superintendent of Schools, Linda King, the Board Secretary/School Business Administrator, related that a salary guide had been established by the Board in January 1992 for business office directors for the term of July 1, 1990 through June 30, 1994. She added that the Board had previously agreed to consider salary increases for these employees at the conclusion of negotiations with the Elizabeth Administrative Supervisory Council. Accordingly, she recommended that the salary for these employees, including the petitioner, be increased by $3,535 in both 1994-95 and 1995-96 and by $3,703 in 1996-97. Exhibit P-5, in evidence.

the Secretary/School Business Administrator in all district financial matters, supervising the district's accounting and payroll units, supervising accounts payable and purchasing, timely submission of all required financial reports, supervising and maintaining financial records, controlling the income and disbursement of monies, assisting the Secretary/School Business Administrator in the preparation of the district's annual budget, evaluating accounting personnel, and supervising the district's debt management.

The petitioner retained her title as Director of Administration, her salary level and her responsibility over the district's workers' compensation department. A new job description adopted by the Board, exhibit P-2, in evidence, made the Director of Administration directly responsible to the comptroller. The basic functions of the position included acting as a general aide to the comptroller and supervising the operation of the Division of Administration.

The petitioner thereupon filed a second petition with the Commissioner challenging the Board's action and seeking reinstatement to her former position as Assistant Board Secretary/Director of Administration. The petitioner contended that the Board's actions were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable and in violation of her tenure rights. She also claimed that such actions violated the Conscientious Employee Protection Act ("CEPA"), N.J.S.A. 34:19-1 et seq., charging that they had been taken in retaliation for her objections to allegedly improper budget-related actions taken by the Board in 1994. Those petitions were consolidated in the Office of Administrative Law.

On April 24, 2000, an Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") concluded that the Board's action denying the petitioner a salary increase for the 1994-95 school year was arbitrary and capricious. The ALJ found that Linda King, the Board Secretary/School Business Administrator, "did not provide Cheloc with any written evaluations, negative or positive, and always recommended her for a salary increase. In fact, King was Cheloc's supervisor and she recommended to the superintendent that Cheloc receive the salary increase. However, the Board chose to reject King's recommendation and withhold Cheloc's increase." Initial Decision, slip op. at 9. The ALJ concluded that the Board had failed to give the petitioner sufficient notice that her work was deficient or to afford her the opportunity to take corrective action, and had failed to articulate the criteria used to reject the recommendation of her supervisor.

The ALJ, however, recommended upholding the Board's action reassigning the petitioner's fiscal supervisory functions to the newly-created comptroller position. The ALJ concluded that the Board had reasonable grounds to establish the comptroller position with fiscal supervisory duties formerly assigned to the petitioner. In so doing, the ALJ concluded that the petitioner had not demonstrated that the Board had taken such action in bad faith, finding that the petitioner had failed to prove that there was a connection between her objections to allegedly improper budget-related actions by the Board and the Board's decision to assign her fiscal responsibilities to the newly-created comptroller position. The ALJ did not consider the petitioner's CEPA claim, observing that such claims are beyond the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education.

On June 12, 2000, the Commissioner adopted in part and modified in part the ALJ's recommended decision. Initially, the Commissioner determined to consider the petitioner's CEPA claim within the context of her general assertion that the Board's actions were taken in bad faith. The Commissioner found that the petitioner had failed to demonstrate that the Board's decisions to deny her salary increases for 1994-95 and 1995-96 had been made for retaliatory reasons. In so doing, the Commissioner found that the petitioner was not a teaching staff member subject to payment on a salary guide, pointing out that the job description for Assistant Board Secretary/Director of Administration did not require certification and that the petitioner had not possessed a certificate when she was employed by the Board in 1985. The Commissioner rejected the petitioner's contention that the Board's decisions were made for retaliatory purposes, finding that "the Board contends, and the record substantiates, that petitioner failed to adapt to its site-based management plan, and was too rigid in carrying out her duties...." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 20.

Turning to the issue of the Board's reorganization of its business office in 1995, the Commissioner was unable to find on the record before him that the Board's effective abolishment of the petitioner's position, its creation of the comptroller position or its hiring of a properly credentialed individual to fill the new position were arbitrary and capricious. Nor could the Commissioner conclude on the basis of that record that the Board's actions were retaliatory or otherwise carried out in bad faith. Assuming for the purpose of his discussion that the petitioner was tenured in her position as Assistant Board Secretary/Director of Administration,[3] the Commissioner agreed with the ALJ that the record supported the conclusion that the Board had abolished the petitioner's position and created the comptroller position to provide greater assurance of fiscal responsibility. Additionally, like the ALJ, the Commissioner found that the record was insufficient to establish a connection between the petitioner's stated concerns about the Board's fiscal practices and the subsequent reorganization. The Commissioner therefore dismissed the petition.

[3] The Commissioner noted that although the Board had contended in its post-hearing submission to the ALJ that the petitioner had not acquired tenure rights in her prior position, it had not objected to the ALJ's finding that the petitioner had achieved tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2.

The petitioner filed the instant appeal to the State Board.

On January 16, 2002, the Legal Committee issued a report in this matter in which it recommended that the State Board affirm the Commissioner's determination to dismiss the petition, but that it do so on the basis of a different analysis. The Legal Committee concluded that the petitioner did not achieve tenure as an Assistant Board Secretary and, as a result, that she had no entitlement by virtue of tenure to claim reinstatement as Assistant Board Secretary/Director of Administration. The Committee further concluded that the petitioner did not have a claim with respect to the Board's determination not to provide her with salary increases and that the petitioner had not demonstrated that the Board's action in creating the position of comptroller and assigning the fiscal supervisory duties she had performed to the comptroller was arbitrary and capricious, retaliatory or otherwise carried out in bad faith. The petitioner filed exceptions to that report.

After reviewing the exceptions,[4] the Legal Committee finds it necessary to issue a revised report. As in our first report, we conclude that the petitioner did not achieve tenure as an Assistant Board Secretary and, consequently, that she had no entitlement by virtue of tenure to reinstatement as Assistant Board Secretary/Director of Administration. However, we also conclude that the petitioner has demonstrated that [4] We have limited our consideration of the petitioner's exceptions to those arguments based on the record on appeal in this case and have not considered any of the documents appended to those exceptions that were not included in the record on appeal. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.8(a). See 6A:4-1.9(b) (supplementation of the record on appeal).

the Board's determination not to grant her a salary increase for the 1994-95 school year was arbitrary and capricious.

Initially, as we did in our first report, we find for the reasons that follow that the petitioner was not tenured as an Assistant Board Secretary. Tenure is a statutory right, and N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(a) defines with specificity the conditions under which an individual may achieve tenure as a board secretary, assistant secretary or business manager. See Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. 63, 72 (1982). In order to obtain tenure, the precise statutory conditions must be met. Zimmerman v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 38 N.J. 65, 72 (1962), certif. denied, 371 U.S. 956, 83 S.Ct. 508, 9 L.Ed.2d 502 (1963). The burden of proving the right of tenure is on the staff member, and that right must be clearly proved. Canfield v. Bd. of Ed. of Pine Hill Borough, 51 N.J. 400 (1968).

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(a), a board secretary or assistant board secretary who has "devoted his full time to the duties of his office and has or shall have served therein for three consecutive calendar years" shall hold such office or position under tenure. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-13, in turn, authorizes a district board of education to appoint an assistant board secretary, who may be chosen from among its members. Under the statute, an assistant board secretary assists a board secretary who has been appointed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-5, acts in place of such secretary during his or her absence or incapacity, and performs such other duties as the board may from time to time prescribe. There is no dispute that the petitioner performed such functions for some portion of her time for more than three years. However, it is evident from the record that given her responsibilities as Director of Administration, she did not devote her full time during that period to service as Assistant Board Secretary.

As previously indicated, the petitioner had been employed as Assistant Board Secretary/Director of Administration from 1985 until 1995. After the Board reassigned her fiscal supervisory functions to the newly-created comptroller position in 1995, she retained the title of Director of Administration with the responsibilities attendant thereto. A comparison of the job description for Assistant Board Secretary/Director of Administration with the job description subsequently adopted by the Board for Director of Administration confirms that the petitioner continued to be responsible for supervising the operation of the Division of Administration. The specific functions retained by the petitioner included contract administration, maintenance of petty cash accounts, and evaluation and in-service training of all personnel assigned to the Division of Administration. In addition, the record indicates that the petitioner continued to administer and supervise the district's workers' compensation program.

Given these circumstances, we find that the petitioner did not devote her full time to her responsibilities as Assistant Board Secretary. Consequently, she did not satisfy the precise statutory conditions for the achievement of tenure as an assistant board secretary pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(a). In this respect, we reject the petitioner's argument that her status as a full-time employee of the Board satisfied the statutory requirement of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(a). We find that the words of the statute are clear: in order to achieve tenure as an assistant board secretary, an individual must devote his full time to the duties of that office. "Past practices" cannot alter the meaning of the statutory language.

Since the petitioner did not achieve tenure as an Assistant Board Secretary, the elimination of her duties as Assistant Board Secretary did not trigger any tenure rights, and she had no entitlement by virtue of tenure to claim reinstatement as Assistant Board Secretary/Director of Administration.

We turn now to the petitioner's contention that the Board had improperly denied her salary increases for the 1994-95 and 1995-96 school years. As we indicated in our first report, such action did not constitute a reduction in compensation. See Williams v. Plainfield Bd. of Ed., decided by the State Board of Education, 1980 S.L.D. 1552, aff'd, 176 N.J. Super. 154 (App. Div. 1980), certif. denied, 87 N.J. 306 (1981) (tenure rights do not include future salary expectations). In any event, because the petitioner did not achieve tenure as a result of her service as Assistant Board Secretary, she cannot claim that the Board's action was prohibited by N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2, which provides protection to board secretaries and assistant board secretaries who are tenured in their positions.

Nonetheless, it is also well established that district boards may not act in a manner which is arbitrary or capricious, without a reasonable basis or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960). For the reasons that follow, we conclude that the Board's action in denying the petitioner a salary increase for 1994-95 was arbitrary and capricious.

There is nothing in the record of this case to show that the Board had anything before it when it acted on December 21, 1994 to deny the petitioner a salary increase other than the Acting Superintendent's recommendation that the petitioner receive an increase in the amount of $3,535 for the 1994-95 school year. The record substantiates that the petitioner had, in fact, been recommended for an increase by Linda King, the Board Secretary/School Business Administrator, who had been the petitioner's supervisor since 1989. Tr. 2/10/99, at 61-62. Specifically, in a memo to the Acting Superintendent of Schools dated December 7, 1994, King recommended that the Board increase the salary for all business office directors in the district, including the petitioner, by $3,535 for 1994-95. Exhibit P-5, in evidence.[5] The record shows that the Acting Superintendent approved King's request on December 12, 1994, id., and recommended to the Board that the petitioner be awarded an increase, along with the other business directors. As set forth above, the Board rejected the Acting Superintendent's recommendation with regard to the petitioner and denied her any increase.

The record does not include any indication of the basis upon which the Board determined to reject the Acting Superintendent's recommendation. In point of fact, the only document in the record to reveal any dissatisfaction with the petitioner's work is an evaluation prepared by King in June 1995, six months after the Board's action. Similarly, the only testimony in these proceedings critical of the petitioner's performance came from King. Such after-the-fact evidence cannot alter the fact that there is nothing in the record before us to show that the Board had any information upon which to conclude that the petitioner's performance was not satisfactory when it acted on December 21, 1994. We reiterate in that regard that King had recommended to the Acting Superintendent that the petitioner receive a salary increase for 1994-95.[6] We

[5] The petitioner testified that King had informed the business directors at a meeting held on December 4 or 5, 1994, "that there was nothing wrong with our job performance and everyone will be recommended for the salary increase...." Tr. 2/6/97, at 32.

[6] King testified that she did not recommend to the Board that the petitioner be denied a salary increase or otherwise have any discussions with the Board concerning the petitioner's increase. Tr. 2/10/99, at 58, 61, 70.

note, in addition, that the petitioner was the only business office director in the district who did not receive an increase. Tr. 2/10/99, at 37.

Under these circumstances, we conclude that the Board's action in denying the petitioner a salary increase for the 1994-95 school year was arbitrary and capricious. See Meli v. Board of Education of the Burlington County Vocational-Technical Schools, Docket #A-5820-85T7 (App. Div. 1987) (Court held that district board's action in withholding teacher's salary increments was arbitrary and capricious where the Superintendent's recommendation to deny the increment merely cited "attendance" without more and the record showed that the teacher's attendance had improved from the previous year.) We therefore direct the Board to compensate the petitioner for her wages lost as a result of such action.[7]

The petitioner also challenges the Board's action in July 1995 to deny her a salary increase for the 1995-96 school year. As previously set forth herein, and in contrast to the Board's action in December 1994, Linda King had prepared an evaluation in June 1995 which was critical of the petitioner's performance. In that evaluation, King rated the petitioner as "Needs Improvement" in 14 categories and "Average" in the remaining six. Under these circumstances, we agree with the Commissioner that the petitioner has not demonstrated that the Board acted arbitrarily or capriciously when it denied her a salary increase for the 1995-96 school year.

[7] In response to exceptions filed by the Board to the revised Legal Committee Report, we clarify that the petitioner is entitled to a salary increase in the amount of $3,535 for the 1994-95 school year, which was the amount recommended by the Acting Superintendent. Since the remedy sought by the petitioner was limited to the payment of that increase, the effect that such an increase might have had on subsequent years was not litigated in these proceedings and was not before us on appeal.

With regard to the petitioner's request in her exceptions for counsel fees, it is well established that we do not have the authority to award such fees. Balsley v. North Hunderdon Bd. of Educ., 117 N.J. 434, 442-43 (1990) (the absence of express statutory authority is fatal to a claim for counsel fees).

We also concur with the Commissioner that the petitioner has not demonstrated on this record that the Board's action in creating the position of comptroller and assigning the fiscal supervisory duties the petitioner had performed to the comptroller was arbitrary and capricious, retaliatory or otherwise carried out in bad faith.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed herein, we affirm in part and reverse in part the decision of the Commissioner.[8]

Orlando Edreira and Edward Taylor abstained.

Attorney exceptions are noted.

[8] We deny the Board's request for leave to file a reply to the petitioner's exceptions to the revised Legal Committee Report as not necessary for a fair determination of this matter. See N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.17(a). We also deny the petitioner's request dated June 25, 2002 for leave "to amend to its exceptions concerning tenure the following case: DORIS A. WALSH, PETITIONER, V. STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on January 12, 1999 for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

The parties entered into an agreement and have prepared a settlement agreement which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement agreement and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to a settlement of this matter.

2. The agreement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1(d) and should be approved. I approve the stipulation of settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the agreement.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK	:	VOLUNTARY SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT, WAIVER and RELEASE
Respondent.	:

The State-Operated School District of the City of Newark ("Newark" or "District") and Amy Dalcero Berman ("Berman"), agree to the following terms in full resolution of this matter:

WHEREAS, Berman disputes the basis for the District's withholding of her 1998-1999 increment; and

WHEREAS, it appears that Berman made efforts to improve her performance during the 1998-1999 school year and she received a satisfactory annual evaluation for the 1998-1999 school year; and

WHEREAS, the parties agree that it is in the public interest to enter into this agreement in resolution of said charges in order to avoid the uncertainty and expense of litigation; and

WHEREAS, the parties further agree that the terms of this agreement will not present any risk of harm to students and/or the safe operation of the school district.

NOW, THEREFORE, the parties agree as follows:

1. The 1998-1999 increment withholding shall remain in effect until the end of the 1999-2000 school year, at which time Newark will review Berman's observations and evaluations. If Berman's annual summative evaluation reflects a satisfactory rating, she shall be placed back on the appropriate step, degree level, and dollar amount of the salary guide, effective September 1, 2000. The withheld monies will not be returned to Ms. Berman.

2. Berman shall, upon execution of this agreement, withdraw with prejudice, the appeal filed in relation to her 1998-1999 increment withholding specifically OAL Docket No. EDUOR 01152-99N.

3. Berman acknowledges that the payments reflected in this agreement constitute the full financial obligation of the District and that she shall receive no additional payments. In exchange for the above consideration, Berman, on behalf of herself, her heirs, successors and assigns, hereby fully releases and forever discharges the District, its representatives, agents, officers and employees, for any and all actions, claims and liabilities o whatsoever kind in character, that she has had or may now have against any of them, relative to the litigation herein identified.

4. This agreement is subject to the approval of the State District Superintendent and the Commissioner of Education.

5. The parties enter this agreement voluntarily and without coercion, after consultation with their respective counsel.

IN THE MATTER OF FREDERICK CONFESSORE, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF HARRISON, HUDSON COUNTY.	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION DECISION

Decided by the School Ethics Commission, April 25, 2000

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, June 16, 2000

Decision on motion by the State Board of Education, February 7, 2001

For the Respondent-Appellant, Michael J. Pecklers, Esq.

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Beth Mitchell, Deputy Attorney General (John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of New Jersey)

For the reasons expressed by the School Ethics Commission in its decision of April 25, 2000, the State Board of Education affirms the Commission's determination that respondent, an Assistant Superintendent in Harrison who was also a one-third owner of a daycare facility located in the district, violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) of the School Ethics Act by his conduct: 1) in representing, for the purpose of being permitted to provide daycare services to the Harrison school district, that the district would need to use all three daycare facilities then licensed in the district to fulfill its responsibilities to provide pre-school services for three- and four-year-old children, and in subsequently sending a letter to the New Jersey Department of Human Services to ensure that no other daycare facilities would be permitted to provide such services; 2) in sending the correspondence of May 18, 2000 from the daycare facility in which he was a part owner to the residents of Harrison soliciting pre-school children for the center and using his title as Assistant Superintendent; and 3) when, in doing so, he contravened the representations he had made in his request to the School Ethics Commission for an advisory opinion and also violated the Commission's caution to him.

We also affirm the decision of the Commissioner of Education that, based on the findings of the School Ethics Commission, the appropriate sanction under the circumstances of this case is respondent's suspension from his position of Assistant Superintendent for a period of one month. We therefore direct that the respondent be suspended from his position for one month.[1]

We deny the respondent's request for oral argument as not necessary for a fair determination of this matter. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-3.2.

Ronald K. Butcher opposed.

BEFORE: ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

On November 17, 1998, Kathleen Anderson, filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education claiming that respondent's withholding of her salary increment for the 1998/99 academic school year was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. On December 2, 1998, respondent filed an answer alleging that the withholding of petitioner's increment was justified. On December 18, 1998, the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52;14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The matter was assigned to the undersigned Administrative Law Judge on February 11, 1999, and a telephone prehearing conference scheduled for April 12, 1999. A telephone prehearing conference was held on that date, and a hearing scheduled for October 4, 1999 at the Office of Administrative Law, 185 Washington Street, New Jersey 07102.

As a result of settlement conferences held between the parties, the parties agreed to a settlement and the hearing was not held. The parties have prepared a voluntary settlement agreement, waiver and release indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

For the Board: Philip Stern, Esq. (Sills, Cummis, Zuckerman, Tischman, Epstein & Gross)

For the Respondent: Thomas R. Ashley, Esq. (Ashley & Charles)

The record, including respondent's notice to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) that he was "withdrawing" the within tenure hearing matter because of resolution of the criminal matter against him, have been reviewed.

Upon receipt of the case file from the OAL on December 17, 1999, a letter was sent to respondent requesting that he submit to the record documentation that it was his intention to no longer contest the tenure charges. Respondent was further informed that if this was his intention, each count of the petition would then be deemed admitted by him, whereupon the matter would be decided by the Commissioner on a summary judgment basis. On January 3, 2000, respondent submitted a letter verifying that he no longer wished to contest the tenure charges.

Given that respondent has chosen not to contest the tenure charges of unbecoming conduct certified against him by the State-District Superintendent, the Commissioner finds and determines that, consistent with N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.4(e), each count of the tenure charges set forth by the Board is deemed admitted by respondent.

Wherefore, upon consideration of the record, including the statement of evidence and documentary evidence in support of the tenure charges, the Commissioner sustains each charge of unbecoming conduct certified against respondent, finding that respondent knowingly and willfully participated in conduct intended to defraud the State Health Benefits Program resulting in theft of and improper payment of public monies and that such behavior warrants respondent's dismissal.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby removed from his tenured position as coordinator of substance abuse awareness teacher in the State-Operated School District of Newark. The record in this matter shall be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for review and such action as it deems appropriate.*

AGENCY DKT. NO. 423-9/98

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF DR. H. BENJAMIN WILLIAMS, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ATLANTIC CITY, ATLANTIC COUNTY.

George G. Frino, Esq., for petitioner

Robert M. Tosti, Esq., for respondent (Rand, Algeier, Tosti & Woodruff, attorneys)

Record Closed: December 21, 1999 Decided: December 29, 1999

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

In this matter, petitioner, Board of Education of the City of Atlantic City, filed tenure charges against respondent, Dr. H. Benjamin Williams, school district Superintendent of Schools. This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 2, 1998. As a result of the adoption of L.P. 1998, ch. 42, effective June 30, 1998, there is a legislative mandate that this and other similar matters be handled in an expeditious and timely manner. By letter order dated October 7, 1998, addressed to counsel, a certain schedule was to be followed in processing this case. Pursuant to this act, the discovery period was to conclude on December 1, 1998, and the matter was scheduled for hearing to commence on December 2,1998.

During the discovery period, both counsel represented and agreed that because of the voluminous documentation in this matter relating to invoices, purchase orders and other related documents, the possibility of completing discovery within the 60 day discovery period was minimal. As a result, attorney for respondent requested an extension of the discovery period and an adjournment of the hearing. I directed that the attorneys appear before me on December 2, 1998, to set forth their positions on the record with respect to this request, and, as a result I ordered an extension of the period of discovery from December 1, 1998 to December 31, 1998, and that the hearing in this matter scheduled for December 2, 3, 8, 14, 15, 16, and 17, 1998, be adjourned and rescheduled to be heard commencing on January 15, 1998 and continuing thereafter on January 19, 20, 21, 22, 25, 26, 28, and 29 and February 1, 2, 4, and 5, 1998.

On October 23,1998, attorney for respondent submitted a notice of motion to dismiss tenure charges based on respondent's alleged refusal to provide public documents as warranting dismissal of charges, the Board's alleged violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 by publicly discussing the charges as warranting dismissal of the charges, based on the argument that the charges are conclusory, lack specific underlying facts, and warrant dismissal, and the charges should be dismissed because they allege inefficiencies and the notice required by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 was not provided. By a letter order entered on January 13, 1999, I denied the motion.

During the hearing on March 3, 1999, attorney for respondent renewed respondent's prior motion to dismiss the pending tenure charges on the basis that the public action taken by the respondent Board of Education to certify tenure charges against

Dr. Williams causes the tenure charges to be void as a matter of law. Attorney for respondent submitted written argument in support of the motion on March 10, 1999, and attorney for petitioner responded on March 12, 1999. Respondent's renewed motion requesting the dismissal of the tenure charges was subsequently denied.

Hearings were held in this matter on January 15, 19, 20, 21, 22, 26, 28, 29, February 2, 5, 17, 18, 19, 22, March 3, 9, 17, 18, April 13, May 6, and June 29, 1999. At the conclusion of the hearing the record remained open for 30 days after the receipt of transcripts in order to permit the attorneys to submit briefs. The record closed on October 22, 1999, and an initial decision was due on December 6, 1999.

On December 3, 1999, the attorneys for the respective parties contacted my office and represented that the matter had been settled, and they requested that I withhold any further action on the initial decision. On December 6, 1999, both attorneys requested that I reopen the record in this matter for the purpose of considering a settlement agreement resolving this matter which would be forthcoming within approximately two weeks. I agreed to this request and reopened the record for this purpose. On December 21, 1999, I received copies of the agreement signed by all parties.

I will now consider this settlement agreement in light of the principles enunciated in Cardonick v. Bd. of Educ. of the Boro. of Brooklawn, In that matter it was held that In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J.Super. 404, 411-413 (App. Div. 1967) made it clear that the ultimate authority for deciding a tenure matter rests with the Commissioner, and the local board of education does not retain any part of that authority and performs a limited function. The Commissioner held that a local board may not bring a tenure matter to a close without a decision rendered by the Commissioner or by his express approval of any settlement concluded by the parties. The Commissioner indicated that he would look with a jaundiced eye at settlements reached in tenure matters which are opened upon proper charges but which are concluded with lump sum payments made to respondent parties. He made it clear that he will carefully examine the factual circumstances surrounding the proposed settlement both as to the nature of the charges involved as well as to the exact terms of the settlement in order to maintain the integrity of the Tenure Employees Hearing Act, to preserve the Commissioner's responsibility for rendering decisions in tenure matters and to ensure that determinations reached serve not only the interests of the parties but also the broader public interest.

In affirming the Commissioner's decision, the State Board of Education indicated that the proposed tenure settlement or withdrawal should be accompanied by supporting documentation as to the nature of the charges, circumstances justifying the settlement, consent or authorization by the board of education and the teacher, the ALJ's findings that the teacher entered into the agreement with a full understanding of his rights, and that the agreement is consistent with the public interest. As part of the agreement, there must also be a disclosure that the teacher was advised of the Commissioner's duty to refer tenure determinations to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of certificate.

In the present matter, the tenure charges against respondent allege that: (a) he permitted expenditures be made in violation of Board policy and education law; (b) he installed, perpetuated and failed to stop a system of purchasing that violated education law and regulations and that had insufficient controls in order to prevent theft and other losses; (c) he failed to adequately and carefully supervise and monitor the expenditure of public funds through the purchase order system; (d) he made a false and misleading statement; (e) these actions constitute a purposeful and/or reckless disregard of respondent's acknowledged duty to steward public funds, oversee and supervise the fiscal and financial affairs of the district in a manner that would comply with his Contract of Employment and the education laws; (f) these actions constitute a breach of respondent's duty to render competent and careful guidance and advice to the Board insofar as reasonably prudent financial practices that would safeguard public funds; (g) he purposely and knowingly solicited and caused the Board to incur obligations in excess of the limit of expenditures provided by applicable law, and to disburse funds in excess of appropriated and budgeted amounts in violation of his responsibility for the general supervision and control over district finances and fiscal practices. Over the course of the 21-day hearing of this matter, the Board submitted proofs supporting the foregoing charges. Respondent defended his actions as Superintendent contending that his actions were in furtherance of the Board's duly adopted policies and instructions, that the lack of sufficient controls over finances, and that any lack of supervision and monitoring of the expenditure of public funds through the purchase order system were conditions which preexisted his appointment as Superintendent and which he was in the process of attempting to rectify. Respondent submitted proofs that he did not make a false and misleading statement; and he testified and submitted evidence that his actions as Superintendent did not constitute a purposeful and/or reckless disregard of his duty to steward public funds, oversee and supervise the fiscal and financial affairs of the district in a manner that would comply with his Contract of Employment and the education laws.

While not deciding this case, I FIND that there is merit to the contentions of both parties, and this supports the acceptance of the proposed settlement. At this stage of this matter, in the absence of my completing a laborious analysis of the extensive and voluminous documentary evidence and without a careful consideration of the issue of credibility when analyzing the testimony of the witnesses, which I remain willing to do, I am unable to conclude that the evidence preponderates to support the position of one party or the other. If the testimony and evidence is viewed with uncertainty by me as the finder of fact, it may also be similarly viewed by the parties. This uncertainty concerning the outcome of this matter further supports a settlement between the parties.

I also FIND as a fact that this matter has been pending since June 1998, that it also involves related litigation before the Commissioner of Education (OAL Dkt. No, EDU 6460-98) and in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Atlantic County, Docket No. ATL-L-1986-98, all of which will continue for some undefined time and at great expense. I FIND that in the meantime, entitlement to the position of Superintendent of Schools will remain uncertain, and the students as well as the taxpayers of the Atlantic City School District will face an uncertain future.

I FIND that respondent has been made aware by the Settlement Agreement that the Commissioner may exercise his right to refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for its review. I FIND that respondent has been ably represented by counsel throughout this proceeding, and that he has entered into this Agreement with a full understanding of his rights, as is indicated in the Agreement. I FIND that the Settlement Agreement which is annexed hereto and is made a part hereof, fully sets forth the settlement terms, fully disposes of all matters in controversy, is consistent with the law and, for the reasons set forth above , it is consistent with the public interest.

I CONCLUDE that this Settlement Agreement meets the requirements of *N.J.A.C.*1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Re: Atlantic City Public Schools v. H. Benjamin Williams
OAL Docket No.: EDU-08601-98S

Dear Judge Martone:

George Frino and I have conferred and agreed that it would be in all parties best interest to attempt to expedite the Commissioner's approval of the settlement in the above matter.

As Your Honor has already been advised the Board of Education approved the settlement on December 14, 1999. We enclose for your review the language for the settlement document. Please note that there currently exists no one individual document with all original signatures but it is my understanding that all signatures will be obtained and faxed to your office no later than Monday, December 20, 1999. We are enclosing Dr. Williams' faxed signature.

Thank you for your continued cooperation in this matter.

SEPARATION OF SERVICE AGREEMENT, RESIGNATION

AND MUTUAL RELEASES

1999 DEC 20 P 12: 12

This agreement is made between the Atlantic City Board of Education (hereinafter referred to as the "Board") and H. Benjamin Williams, Superintendent (hereinafter referred to as "Dr. Williams"), collectively referred to as the "Parties." The Parties hereby agree to resolve all issues relative to Dr. Williams' employment with the Board, as follows:

WHEREAS, Dr. Williams has been the Superintendent of the Atlantic City School District since March 3, 1997; and

WHEREAS, a dispute concerning his employment has been pending since June 1998; and

WHEREAS, the Parties have engaged in a hotly contested contractual-tenure dispute, and related litigation Atlantic City Board of Education v. H. Benjamin Williams, Docket No. EDU-08601-98S before the Commissioner of Education, Williams v. Atlantic City Board of Education v. H. Benjamin Williams, Docket No. EDU-6460-98 before the Commissioner of Education and Williams v. Atlantic City Board of Education, Superior Court of New Jersey, Atlantic County, Docket No. ATL-L-1986-98; and

WHEREAS, the Parties recognize that unless these matters are settled as set forth herein that the contractual tenure matter will continue for an undefined time and at great expense and that the entitlement to the position of Superintendent of Schools will remain uncertain, and the related litigation will continue, and that it appears clearly in the public interest to resolve these matters and terminate the litigation; and

WHEREAS, the Parties recognize, that notwithstanding the resolution of the matter that the Commissioner my exercise his right to refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for its review; and

WHEREAS, the Board while neither admitting nor denying liability has determined that it is appropriate to withdraw the contractual-tenure charges currently pending; and

WHEREAS, Dr. Williams is willing to resign from his position of Superintendent of Schools and in lieu of current salary, back pay, front pay, potential damages and attorneys fees is willing to settle all outstanding and pending litigated matters for the lump sum amount of Two Hundred Sixty Thousand Dollars ($260,000), provided however, that Dr. Williams will continue to receive his salary until December 31, 1999 at which time his salary and benefits shall cease (except for medical) and Dr. Williams shall receive the lump sum on or before January 15, 2000.

NOW, THEREFORE, the Parties agree as follows:

1. The Board will withdraw the contractual-tenure charges presently pending in the Office of Administrative Law under Docket No. EDU-08601-98S;

2. Dr. Williams, simultaneously with the withdrawal of the contractual-tenure charges and conditioned upon the payment described herein, submit a binding letter of resignation to the Board effective December 31, 1999 which the Board acknowledges and accepts;

3. The Board will pay to Dr. Williams as noted above, a lump sum settlement of $260,000 to be paid as Dr. Williams so designates, no later than January 15, 2000;

4. Dr. Williams has authorized his attorney to withdraw all pending litigation, and Stipulations of Dismissal with Prejudice have been executed which are to be held in escrow pending final approval of this Agreement by the Board;

5. Dr. Williams will deliver to the Board, no later than January 15, 2000, all personal property of the Board currently in his custody and control; and

6. Dr. Williams shall continue on the Board's medical plan until February 1, 2000, and thereafter have the right to extend group medical, hospitalization, prescription and/or dental insurance coverage, at his expense, under the COBRA law.

As a result of this Agreement, except as specifically set forth herein, the Parties shall have no further obligations to each other.

The Board agrees to indemnify the Superintendent in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 and 16-6.1.

The Superintendent hereby agrees to release and forever discharge the Board, its present and former individual members, successors, assigns, and agents from any and all past, present and future claims, suits, actions and law or in equity of any kind, in any forum that he may have against it or them, and agrees that execution of this Agreement shall serve as full and final satisfaction of same, except for any claims arising from a breach of this Agreement or any provision thereof.

The Board hereby agrees to release and forever discharge the Superintendent from any and all past, present and future claims, suits, tenure charges, actions of law or in equity of any kind, in any forum that it may have against him, and agrees that execution of this Agreement shall serve as full and final satisfaction of same, except for any claims arising from a breach of the Agreement or any provision thereof.

The mutual releases set forth herein are entered into voluntarily and willingly and without any duress or coercion. Both parties agree to be bound by their respective releases and agree that their respective successors shall be bound by the releases and all other provisions of the Agreement.

Specifically, excluded from the Superintendent's release is his right upon cessation of employment with the Board to obtain continued medical coverage at his own expense as authorized by the Consolidated Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1986 (COBRA), and any rights he may have arising under the Teacher's Pension and Annuity Fund (TPAF) and related statutes and regulations.

The Parties acknowledge that each has had ample opportunity to seek independent legal counsel, financial or other advice regarding this Agreement, and that each is signing this Agreement freely and voluntarily, without coercion, duress or pressure from the other party.

The undersigned representative of the Board hereby acknowledges that he or she has been duly authorized by the Board to sign this Agreement and bind the Board to its terms.

All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended or modified except by an instrument executed in writing by the Parties.

This Agreement shall inure to the benefit and responsibility of any successor, estate and/or heirs of the Parties.

In the event of a breach by either Party, the period of limitation for brining an action under any statute of limitations or other rule limiting actions shall be tolled from the date of this Agreement until the date of the breach.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the Parties hereunto set their hands and seals this ____ day of December, 1999.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF DR. H. BENJAMIN	:
WILLIAMS, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
CITY OF ATLANTIC CITY,		DECISION
ATLANTIC COUNTY.	:

The record, Separation of Service Agreement, Resignation and Mutual Releases, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms since they comport with the Cardonick standards for review of settlements in tenure matters and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter. In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846. The matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement. The Commissioner notes, however, that the terms of the settlement appear to have been effectuated prior to the Commissioner's approval. He, therefore, reminds the parties that they acted at their peril in so doing and cautions them and other litigants whose controverted matters have been duly transmitted to the OAL against effectuation of any settlement prior to its submission to, and approval by, the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1.

A copy of this decision will be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for action as it deems appropriate.

E.G.P., on behalf of minor child, M.B.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF RUTHERFORD, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON REMAND
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning grandmother challenged Board's residency determination.

On remand, the ALJ found, based on written submissions to the record and Board testimony, that although petitioner is a domiciliary of the District and M.B. resides with her, petitioner is not M.B.'s legal guardian. The ALJ concluded that M.B. is a resident of, but is not domiciled in, the District since the law is clear that a child's domicile is where his or her parents reside, which, in this case, is outside the District. The ALJ further determined that petitioner failed to demonstrate a verifiable family or economic hardship establishing that M.B.'s parents are incapable of supporting or providing care for him, thereby entitling M.B. to a free education in the District. Thus, the ALJ ordered petitioner to reimburse respondent $28,798.32 for M.B.'s educational costs.

The Commissioner reversed the recommended Initial Decision, finding that this matter, which deals with a child's entitlement to attend school in a District where he has been living for a minimum of 7-8 years, is not amenable to summary resolution based on this record since there continue to be contested material facts which must be resolved before this matter may be fairly adjudicated. The Commissioner remanded this matter again to the OAL for expansion of the record to include testimony of petitioner and her witnesses, noting that, if petitioner continued to be unavailable due to illness, OAL rules provide mechanisms to obtain testimony of essential, unavailable witnesses.

ON REMAND

OAL Dkt. No. NO. EDU 1162-99

AGENCY DKT NO. 143 5/97

IN THE MATTER OF E.G.P. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD M. B.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF RUTHERFORD, BERGEN COUNTY,

Respondent

E.G.P., petitioner, pro se

Ellen Walsh, Esq., for respondent
(Forgarty & Hara, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 20, 1999 Decided: December 6, 1999

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, E.G.P., is the grandmother of M.B. a student in the respondent's school district. On April 31, 1997 petitioner filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education challenging the action of the respondent, The Rutherford Board of Education, (respondent or District) which disenrolled her grandson from its school district on April 15, 1997. On June 2, 1997 the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13. Thereafter, certain preliminary matters were heard by telephone prehearing conference and a hearing was scheduled for March 31, 1998. Due to the petitioner's illness and the fact that she was bedridden, it was agreed that the matter would be heard on the papers. On April 3, 1998, respondent filed a motion for summary decision seeking to dismiss the appeal. On April 14, petitioner filed a letter in support of her "cross motion" for summary decision.

On October 29, 1998, an initial decision was issued wherein the petitioner's cross motion for summary judgment was granted and the respondent's summary judgment motion was denied.

On December 21, 1998, a decision was rendered by the Commissioner of Education that remanded the matter to the OAL for further proceedings to determine (1) the length of time that M.B. has lived with the petitioner, so as to determine that M.B. was not solely living with her to attend the respondent's school district free of charge; (2) whether the petitioner has properly demonstrated, consistent with standards set forth in J.B. v. Board of Education of the Township of Ocean, Monmouth County, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 628, remanded by St. Bd. December 4, 1996, on remand February 11, 1997, remanded by St. Bd. Of September 3, 1997, that either family or economic hardship renders M.B.'s parents incapable of caring for and supporting him; and (3) the Board's annual per pupil costs for the grades and school years at issue, citing Board of Education of the Township of Cranford, Union County v. Andre L. McQuire and Lisa McGuire, 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 74, aff'd 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 140, rev'd and remanded App. Div., A-4742-95T3, Slip Opinion at pp. 8-10.

On January 12, 1999, the matter was accepted and filed at the OAL. Hearings were scheduled for March and 10, 1999. However, the hearings were adjourned to await the outcome of an appeal filed by the petitioner with the State Board of Education. On June 4, 1999, the State Board of Education affirmed the Commissioner's decision.

Thereafter, hearings were scheduled for October 19 and 20, 1999. On October 12, 1999, petitioner advised that she would be unable to attend the hearing due to illness. Thus, it was requested that this tribunal consider pleadings previously submitted by the petitioner. Additionally, petitioner submitted a letter and additional documents. The respondent objected to any consideration on the petitioner's submission. A hearing was held and concluded on October 20, 1999. The respondent's Motion to Dismiss for failure to prosecute was denied. This hearing was limited to the issues presented in the Commissioner's remand decision.

TESTIMONY

In support of its case, the respondent presented the testimony of Steve Albin, Administrative Assistant to the Principal at Pierrepont School; Hazel E. Ralph, Research Assistant to the Superintendent; Marie Vaccarano, Principal of Pierrepont School; and Danielle Sabato, a 5th grade teacher.

Hazel E. Ralph, Research Assistant to the Superintendent, testified that she had received several complaints from unidentified Rutherford residents that there were "kids" who had moved out of district enrolled in district schools. Thus, a district wide re-registration process was initiated. (R-3, R-5, R-6, R-7, R-8). Only two residents failed to comply with the re-registration. The petitioner did not comply and thus she was sent two letters (R-11 and R-12). Thereafter, she had a conversation with the petitioner explaining the procedure. A follow-up letter was also sent. (R-14, R-15).

Subsequently, petitioner submitted income tax statements for herself and M.B.'s parents. There was no income for the parents on the tax returns.

A notice of disenrollment was forwarded to the petitioner and Mr. And Mrs. B. They were also billed prorated tuition for the 1996-1997 school year of $6,616.92. In 1996-97 the Department of Education tabulated a cost per student on a 4th grade level at $7,924. This amount applies for the 1997-1998 school year. The cost for the 1998-1999 school year was $7,129 and that sum is applicable for the 1999-2000 school year.

Margaret Vaccarano, Principal of Pierrepont, testified that M.B. is a student and has been at Pierrepont since the 4th grade. M.B. is currently living with his father at the petitioner's home. She spoke with the petitioner when M.B. first started school at Pierrepont. The petitioner told her that she used to baby sit M.B. in Clifton and it was only when he began nursery school that he moved to Rutherford to live with her and her husband (the grandparents). The witness noted that M.B.'s Pre-Entrance Physical was signed by the petitioner and his mother. Further, that the Early Screening Inventory for M.B. was completed by M.B.'s parents and grandmother. Medical Emergencies Forms directed that M.B.'s parents be contacted in the event of an emergency. (R-22, R-23, R-24, R-25 and R-25a).

Vaccarano recalled that parent teacher conferences are attended by M.B.'s parents and the petitioner. Further, M.B. told her that his father took him for haircuts.

Danielle Sabato, M.B.'s 5th grade teacher, testified that M.B. was a student in her class during the 1997-1998 school term. She has spoken with M.B.'s parents on the telephone. She recalls that the petitioner was unable to attend two parent teacher conferences and thus Mrs. B. (M.B.'s mother) agreed to do the conference via telephone. Mrs. B. was knowledgeable about her son's progress and acknowledged helping him with his homework. In March 1998, she spoke with Mrs. B. about M.B.'s unattentiveness in class.

Steve Albin, Assistant to Principal Vaccarano, testified that he is well acquainted with M.B. M.B. had numerous disciplinary problems that he has related to the petitioner and M.B.'s parents. (R-38).

Petitioner contends in her pleadings that M.B. has lived with her since 1990. He began living with her prior to starting school in the District. Since M.B. was not a new student in the district she asserts that the re-registration law is inapplicable.

Further, the petitioner submitted "adjusted" income tax returns for 1998 for herself and M.B.'s parents. The petitioner's income tax return shows that she has an "adjusted" gross income of $32,529. M.B.'s parents "adjusted" gross income was reflected of $32,209. It must be emphasized that the income tax returns are not in form as filed with the IRS. Rather, the returns have been spliced, taped and photocopied.

DISCUSSION, FINDINGS AND CONCLUSION

In domicile cases; the burden is placed on the individual to contest a board's decision to forbid access to its schools. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1). Thus, to prevail, petitioner must produce evidence to show that the board's decision to disenroll her grandson is unwarranted. The statute provides.

> Public schools shall be free to following persons over five and under 20 years of age:
> b. (1) Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if her were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that > the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statements, information from or about which shall be supplied only to board and only to the extent that it directly pertains to the support or nonsupport of the child. If in the judgment of the board of education the evidence does not support the validity of the claim by the resident, the board may deny admission to the child. The resident may contest the board's decision to the commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the commissioner on the expedited hearing before the commissioner on the validity of the claim and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this subsection. The board of education shall, at the time of its decision, notify the resident in writing of his right to contest the board's decision to the commissioner within 21 days. . . .

I FIND that the petitioner has owned property and resided in the District for approximately thirty (30) years. I FIND that she is a domiciliary of Rutherford. I further FIND that M.B., the minor child resides with the petitioner. He. has attended nursery school in Rutherford as well as pre-school programs. M.B. has attended the District schools since kindergarten and the school records bears the petitioner's signature as guardian. However, I FIND that the petitioner is not M.B.'s legal guardian. I CONCLUDE that M.B. is a resident of Rutherford but is not domiciled in the District. The law is clear that a child's domicile is where his parents reside. Thus, while one can have many residences, one can only have one domicile.

If a child is not domiciled in the District, the statute requires a showing of a family or economic hardship. The respondent argues that the petitioner has failed to demonstrate a family or economic hardship.

The petitioner did not present any evidence concerning M.B.'s parents ability or lack thereof to care for M.B. Thus, the record is barren, save, the petitioner's allegation that M.B. lives with her for cultural reasons, why M.B. parents cannot care for him. Since the petitioner is not M.B.'s legal guardian she must make a showing that he meets the criteria established in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1). I FIND and CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to demonstrate a verifiable family or economic hardship, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1) that supports that M.B.'s parents are incapable of supporting or providing care for him. Therefore, M.B. is not entitled to a free education in the District.

I FIND that the cost to attend the District elementary school in the 1996-97 school year was $7,924 and is to prorated to $6,616.82 for that term. The cost was for 1997-1998 school term was $7,924, for 1998-1999 the cost was $7,129 and for 1999-2000 school term the cost is $7,129. Thus, I FIND and that since M.B. was not entitled to attend the district schools, the District is to be recompensed $28,798.82 for providing said education.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF RUTHERFORD, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON REMAND

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. The Board filed reply exceptions.[1]

On exception, petitioner again maintains, as she has throughout these proceedings, that M.B. has lived with her continuously since he was three months of age, and that she has served as his "guardian" throughout this period. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1) She further challenges the veracity of certain testimony adduced at hearing. As an example, she alleges that testimony of Ms. Vaccarino with regard to the attendance of parent/teacher conferences is incorrect: "M.B.'s teachers always contacted me as guardian and I attended all parent teacher conferences prior to my illness." (Id.) Petitioner explains that, during her current illness and recuperation period, "M.B. has continued to live in his permanent home in

[1]It is noted that the Board's reply exceptions, filed on January 10, 2000, were untimely. However, a letter enclosed with this submission, along with a certification of counsel, explained that the reply exceptions were originally sent via Federal Express on December 29, 1999, but were, inadvertently, transmitted to the wrong address. Upon discovery of this error, counsel promptly resent the submission. Counsel urges that the reply exceptions be considered since they were technically sent to the Commissioner within the timeframe prescribed by N.J.A.C. 1:1-

Rutherford" and is cared for there by his father, with M.B.'s mother remaining in Clifton in order to continue her access to a car pool arrangement necessary for her to maintain her employment. (Id.) In conclusion, petitioner states, "[u]nfortunately I am still a patient at the nursing home. I request this case be postponed until I am out of the nursing home and well enough to properly take care of this matter." (Id. at 2)

In reply, the Board charges that the statements contained in petitioner's exceptions are, to a large extent, a reiteration of arguments she has previously advanced which the Board has addressed in its briefs submitted to the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) below. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 1) As an example, it advances that petitioner apparently confuses the terms "guardian" and "legal guardian." "To be M.B.'s legal guardian, she would have had to obtain a court order. Since none has ever been produced, we must conclude that at no point was [E.G.P.] M.B.'s legal guardian." (Id. at 2) The Board also challenges the propriety of petitioner's disputing testimony of its witnesses proffered before the ALJ at hearing, advancing that such arguments of petitioner should not be considered by the Commissioner "since petitioner chose not to present the arguments by appearing at the hearing herself." (Id.) The Board further contends that petitioner's exceptions attempt to introduce new evidence which, it argues, should have been offered at the hearing where the Board would have been provided an opportunity to cross-examine petitioner's witnesses. (Id. at p. 3)[2] If the Commissioner does decide to consider such evidence, it asserts, this evidence supports the proposition that M.B.'s parents are better equipped than petitioner to care for their child, since "petitioner is ill and M.B. is being cared for by his father, albeit on a temporary basis." (Id. at 3) Moreover, it maintains, because M.B.'s mother's employment "makes it inconvenient for her to care [for him]," such 18.4 and were timely transmitted to the petitioner. In view of counsel's certified explanation of the events which transpired, the Commissioner has determined to accept and consider the Board's reply exceptions.

[2]It is unclear what "new evidence" the Board is referring to here. Petitioner's letter dated October 18, 1999, contained in the record before the Commissioner, advised the ALJ that M.B. was being cared for by his father in petitioner's home during petitioner's illness and recuperation.

situation does not establish, nor has petitioner presented any evidence to establish, that M.B.'s parents are incapable of supporting or caring for him due to a family or economic hardship. As such, the Board contends, the decision of the ALJ must be affirmed. (Id.) Finally, the Board strenuously objects to any delay of this matter, which, it avers, "has already been delayed significantly." (Id. at 4)

Upon his independent review and consideration, the Commissioner determines to reverse the recommended Initial Decision and to remand this matter to the OAL again.

Initially, the Commissioner finds that this matter, which deals with a child's entitlement to attend school in a district where he has been, concededly, living for no less than 7-8 years, is not amenable to a summary resolution based solely upon papers of the type which comprise this record and the controverted testimony of the Board's witnesses. Rather, the Commissioner concludes that, under the circumstances existing here, testimony of this pro se petitioner and her witnesses needs to be taken since such testimony is essential to resolve what continue to be contested material facts necessary to the fair adjudication of this matter.

The Commissioner's review persuades him that the purported "delays" in the progress of this matter do not in any way appear to be attributable to connivance on the part of petitioner, which would necessitate, as was urged by the Board below, dismissal of this matter for failure to prosecute.[3] Although the Commissioner recognizes that the within pro se petitioner was personally unavailable to attend either the first hearing scheduled in this matter or the hearing scheduled in the instant remand, it is, likewise, fully evident that her unavailability was not due to a deliberate attempt to cause delays but was, instead, a consequence of documented representations of illness. Indeed, petitioner's two absences did not serve to cause any "delay" since the proceedings, on both occasions, moved forward without her.

[3] Indeed, the delay to which the Board alludes appears to be have been occasioned solely by the due course of an administrative proceeding which has involved both a remand and an appeal.

The Commissioner next observes that where, in instances such as the one existing in this case, a matter does not lend itself to determination on a summary basis but, rather, demands testimony of an essential individual who is physically incapable of proceeding on a particular, scheduled date and/or witnesses of such individual, OAL rules contemplate such situations and provide mechanisms to accommodate them. For example, N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.2(c) would allow for petitioner's deposition on oral examination, and N.J.A.C. 1:1-11.1 would permit witnesses of petitioner, who are believed to have information necessary to the resolution of this matter, to be subpoenaed to testify by either the Board or the court, with or without petitioner being physically present.

Accordingly, the Commissioner, in order to meet his responsibility to fairly decide this matter which, it is again stressed, concerns the entitlement of a child to attend school, reverses the instant Initial Decision and returns this matter to the OAL for expansion of the record, and recommended findings and determinations based upon such expanded record, consistent with the holding herein.[4]

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

Petitioner, a tenured teaching staff member, appealed the District's denial of a bonus check for perfect attendance during the first half of the 1995-96 school year and sought restoration of sick leave for absences beginning on November 21, 1996 which the District charged to his sick leave bank.

The ALJ concluded that petitioner was not entitled to the bonus since he was absent on December 6, 1995 after sustaining an injury which petitioner failed to prove was work related, and, even assuming that such absence was work related, the Attendance Incentive Plan only excused absences for death in the immediate family, jury duty or an approved professional day. As to petitioner's claim that the District wrongfully charged to his sick bank his absences beginning on November 21, 1996, the ALJ determined that petitioner did not sustain his burden since he neither sought nor received a determination from the Division of Workers' Compensation that his absences were work related.

The Commissioner affirmed the Initial Decision for the reasons stated therein.

PAUL MEDEIROS,

Petitioner,

v.

STATE OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY,

Respondent.

Paul Medeiros, pro se

Charlotte Kitler, Esq., appearing for Respondent

Record Closed: October 20, 1999 Decided: December 3, 1999

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner is challenging the District's action withholding his bonus check and also sought to enjoin the District from denying him from qualifying for future promotion under OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5958-96. The parties represented and I accepted their representation that the issue of enjoining the District from denying Petitioner from qualifying for future promotion is moot. Accordingly, the only issue to be determined in this case is whether the bonus for perfect attendance was properly withheld.

Under OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5353-97, Petitioner asserts the District wrongfully withheld his salary when he was cleared of charges of assaulting a student.

These cases were assigned to the undersigned on account of the identity of the parties. They were consolidated by Order dated January 16, 1998, upon consent of the parties.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

These cases have had a long torturous history of adjournments. They were originally scheduled to be heard on April 1, 1997; they were, however, adjourned by agreement between the parties who were appearing before ALJ Weiss on another matter unrelated to these.

The cases were rescheduled for hearing on June 24, 1997. An adjournment was requested and granted. The record does not reflect the reason for this adjournment.

On March 10, 1998, the next scheduled hearing date, Petitioner and his attorney failed to appear, although the District was ready to proceed. Petitioner's attorney at that time was in Florida and his request for an adjournment had not been received by the undersigned or the Clerk's office.

The next scheduled hearing date, April 20, 1998, was adjourned at the request of the District. On November 4, 1998, the hearing was again adjourned at the request of Petitioner's new counsel. On May 5, 1999, the District requested an adjournment because witnesses were unavailable. As a result of the numerous adjournments, the parties were notified that the October 20, 1999 hearing date was peremptory. This notice was sent on May 25, 1999.

On the morning of the hearing, Petitioner requested an adjournment in order that he might retain counsel. When questioned by the undersigned, Petitioner admitted that he could not afford to pay his prior counsel. Petitioner was asked how long he needed to gather funds to enable retention of counsel; he indicated that he did not know; he was also asked why he had waited until the morning of the hearing to make the request for an adjournment, thus necessitating the appearance of counsel and witnesses for the Respondent. Petitioner could give no answer.

In view of the fact that Petitioner had had three different attorneys representing him on these matters, as well as the fact that he failed to make his request for an adjournment in a timely expedient manner, in addition to the complete failure to appear with counsel at the scheduled hearing of March 10, 1998, he was given the choice of paying the District's counsel feeds for the appearance on October 20, 1999 and receiving the adjournment or proceeding pro se.

Mr. Medieros said he could not afford to pay the District's attorney; consequently, the cases were heard and the record closed on October 20, 1999.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Turning first to the case bearing OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5958-96 challenging the District's determination not to pay a bonus for perfect attendance, this case was forwarded to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on June 18, 1996, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13,.

Based on the evidence presented at the hearing as well as on the opportunity to observe the witnesses and assess their credibility, I make the following findings of fact, which are essentially undisputed, in this matter.

1. Petitioner was a tenured teacher with the District on December 5, 1995, when he reported to the administration that he had been injured while conducting a class. He was told to report to the District's medical personnel.

2. Petitioner was absent from his duties as a teacher on December 6, 1995.

3. Pursuant to the collective bargaining agreement in effect at the time, the District offered an attendance incentive plan for those teachers achieving perfect attendance.

4. Petitioner was paid for December 6, 1995.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

Petitioner asserts that the reason for his absence on December 6, 1995 was a work related injury; accordingly, he reasoned that the absence should not prevent him from receiving the bonus for the semester from September 1995 to January 1996.

In this case, Petitioner must prove, by a preponderance of the evidence that he is entitled to the bonus. The only evidence he produced that the injury he suffered on December 5, 1995, was work related was his conclusory testimony. Petitioner offered no specific details as to the nature of the injury or the treatment; he offered no records of treatment nor any evidence of having filed a Worker's Compensation claim.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Petitioner failed to sustain his burden of proving that the injury he purportedly suffered on December 5, 1995 was work related.

Moreover, assuming arguendo that the injury was work related, the provision in the collective bargaining agreement (J-1) states:

Article 28
Attendance Incentive Plan

28-1. Any teacher who has no absences from September 1st to June 30th shall receive a $700 bonus. The bonus will be split in two parts, $350 each semester, for teachers who achieve perfect attendance during the semester. The first semester is September to January 31st; the second, February 1st through June 30th. The only excused absences relative to this policy are: death in the immediate family, jury duty and an approved professional day.

(Emphasis supplied).

The language of the provision is explicit; there are only three types absences which will be considered as excused for the purpose of granting the bonus for perfect attendance. It is a well established principle that where language is specific, as it is here, that which is not expressed explicitly, cannot be inferred.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE, based on the language of the agreement, that even if the injury were work related, Petitioner would not have been eligible for the bonus for perfect attendance.

In the matter bearing OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5353-97 was forwarded to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on May 19, 1997, Petitioner asserts that days absent should be restored to his sick day bank since, according to Petitioner, he was absent on account of a work related injury.

Based on the evidence presented at the hearing as well as on the opportunity to observe the witnesses and assess their credibility, I make the following findings of fact, which are essentially undisputed, in this matter.

5. Petitioner was charged with assaulting a student during gym class on November 8, 1996.

6. DFYS was notified of the complaint as required by law.

7. Petitioner was removed from his duties as gym teacher and reassigned, first within P.S. 5; subsequently, he was reassigned to duty at Board of Education headquarters pending a determination of the charges at the request of DYFS.

8. On or about November 21, 1996, Petitioner was advised that he could return to his teaching duties.

9. Petitioner received full pay for the period from November 8, 1996 to November 20, 1999, the period of his reassignment.

10. On November 21, 1996, Petitioner returned to P.S. 5; at approximately 9:30, Petitioner was asked to report to the Principal's office for an administrative counseling session in connection with the charges which had been brought.

11. At the counseling session, Petitioner became ill and was sent to the school nurse who later advised the administration that Petitioner had been sent to the hospital.

12. Petitioner was cleared of the charges by DYFS.

13. The purpose of the meeting of November 21, 1996, was to counsel Petitioner with respect to concerns which had arisen regarding his interaction with students and colleagues.

14. Since November 21, 1997, Petitioner has not returned to work.

15. Petitioner exhausted accumulated sick leave as of January 15, 1997. He was paid his full salary up to that date.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

Petitioner asserts that his accumulated sick leave was wrongfully applied and depleted because his absence, which commenced on November 21, 1996, was work related. Accordingly, Petitioner asserts the time should be restored to him and he should receive compensation in accordance with District policy for those days remaining upon his separation from employment with the District. Thus, the threshold issue to be resolved is whether the illness or injury which Petitioner sustained on November 21, 1996, was work related.

It is well established that the determination of whether an injury or illness is work related is solely within the jurisdiction of the Division of Worker's Compensation. Veneret v. BOE of the City of Elizabeth, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 134, citing Theodore v. Dover BOE, 183 N.J. Super. 407 (App. Div. 1982). Petitioner has offered no evidence that this issue has been adjudicated.

Although applications for disability benefits and disability retirement were marked for identification, no testimony or documentary evidence of a final determination was produced by Petitioner. Moreover, in the course of almost two and a half years of requests for adjournments for various reasons, there is no indication that such a determination was sought by Petitioner.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Petitioner has failed to sustain his burden of proof.

ORDER

It is, therefore, hereby ORDERED that these consolidated petitions be and hereby are DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon his independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner agrees with the conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner was ineligible for a bonus check for perfect attendance during the first half of the 1995-96 school year and, therefore, such check was not wrongfully withheld by the District. Similarly, the Commissioner is in agreement with the ALJ's conclusion that, because there is no indication that petitioner has sought or received a determination from the Division of Worker's Compensation that his absences beginning on November 21, 1996 were the result of a work-related injury, he has not sustained his burden of proof that such absences were improperly charged to his sick leave bank by the District.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons stated therein and the instant consolidated Petitions of Appeal are hereby dismissed.*

Record Closed: December 8, 1999 Decided: December 8, 1999

BEFORE KATHRYN A. CLARK, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on February 25, 1997, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a stipulation indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this settlement agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Petitioner,	:
	: OAL Docket No. EDUOR 955-97S
vs	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WILLINGBORO,	: STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT
Respondent.	:

1. Petitioner Virginia Stanton ("petitioner" or "Stanton") is an employee of respondent Board of Education of the Township of Willingboro ("respondent" or "Board"). Petitioner is represented by the Willingboro Education Association ("WEA") and petitioner's terms and conditions of employment are included in an agreement between the Board and the WEA.

2. On or about September 1, 1973, petitioner Stanton commenced employment with respondent Board serving as a Teacher of Art.

3. Petitioner holds an instruction certificate issued by the State Board of Examiners with an endorsement as a Teacher of Art.

4. Petitioner acquired tenure and seniority with respondent Board.

5. Effective June 30, 1985, due to a reduction in force (RIF), petitioner's employment was terminated.

6. On or about September 1, 1994, petitioner was recalled and re-employed by respondent.

7. On or about June 30, 1996, petitioner's employment was terminated due to a reduction in force.

8. Effective November 12, 1996, petitioner was recalled and re-employed by respondent.

9. On or about September 1, 1988 respondent Board employed a non-tenured art teacher to fill a vacancy to teach art. Petitioner was neither notified of the position nor offered the position and she filed the petition that is the subject of this Stipulation of Settlement with the Commissioner within 90 days of discovering same.

10. The parties recognize petitioner's right on September 1, 1988 as a tenured staff member to a full-time position under her Teacher of Art endorsement.

11. Respondent agrees to compensate petitioner for back pay, pension credit, seniority credit, credit for years of service and sick leave credit, minus applicable offsets discussed below, for the period she was not recalled or assigned employment under her Teacher of Art endorsement.

12. When petitioner was riffed in June 1985 she was compensated at Step 11on the WEA teachers' salary guide at the bachelor's degree level. When petitioner was returned in 1994-95, she was placed on Step 12 on the WEA teachers' salary guide at the bachelor's degree level. During the period petitioner was not employed, the number of salary guide steps in the WEA collective negotiations agreement were compressed through collective negotiations and petitioner should have been returned at Step 10. Petitioner was advanced to Step 13 of the salary guide in 1995-96. In 1996-97 the WEA salary guide was compressed again and petitioner was placed on Step 10; in 1997-98 petitioner was placed on Step 11, where she is currently.

13. In 1988-89 petitioner would have received an annual salary of $28,181. The overpayments she received since her return as the result of having been placed on the wrong salary step of the WEA salary guide amounted to $10,010. The parties agree that the overpayments should be deducted from the 1988-89 entitlement and that a lump sum payment of $18,171, minus applicable taxes and deductions, will be made by the Board to petitioner. The pension credit and deductions for the year 1988-89 shall be based upon the annual salary of $28,181.

14. Petitioner's current annual salary should be $38,736; however, she is receiving $41,386.

15. Petitioner agrees to have her salary of $41,386 frozen for the 1998-99 and 1999-2000 school years when she should be at Step 11 of the 1999-00 salary guide at $41,334. Petitioner's salary increases in the future will be consistent with increases to employees included in the WEA collective negotiations unit and petitioner's obligation as the result of the overpayment will be satisfied.

16. Petitioner hereby agrees that a lump sum payment of $18,171, pension credit, seniority credit, credit for years of service and sick leave credit constitute full and final relief for the claims asserted in the instant petition and Petitioner hereby releases the Board from any and all claims asserted herein.

17. The parties agree that the payment under this agreement constitutes back pay, benefits and emoluments for the school year that petitioner should have been recalled and that the reduction is payment is to reimburse respondent for subsequent salary overpayments.

18. This agreement is contingent upon the approval by the Commissioner of Education, whereupon Petitioner agrees to dismissal of the petition with prejudice. Upon such approval, lump sum payment in the amount of $18,171 will be made to Petitioner within 30 days of the dismissal.

19. This document contains the entire agreement of the parties and may not be altered, amended or modified except by instrument in writing signed by the parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF CONSTANCE BADOMI,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE	:	DECISION
CITY OF ELIZABETH,	:
UNION COUNTY	:

For the Board, Mary E. Hennessy, Esq. (Murray, Murray & Corrigan)

For the Respondent, Constance Badomi, Pro Se

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on December 21, 1999, through certification of tenure charges of chronic and excessive absenteeism, incapacity, incompetency, insubordination, and failure to perform duties against respondent, a tenured teacher, by the Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth. Therein, and in a statement of evidence in support of the charges, the Board alleged that respondent had been absent for 75 days in the past 4 school years, and that, although counseled about such absenteeism by the Board, both verbally and in writing, respondent had failed and/or refused to correct the problem; additionally, that respondent consistently displayed a lack of control over her classroom as well as a lack of instruction, disregarded requests of her principal to submit lesson plan books, and failed to attend a workshop, faculty meetings and back-to-school nights as directed, all of which caused an adverse impact on the school system by compromising the quality and continuity of instruction provided to her students.

Upon filing of the certified charges, the Commissioner directed respondent, via both certified and regular mail on December 22, 1999, to file an Answer to the tenure charges against her. However, on December 28, 1999, the Board advised that its proof of service listed an incorrect address for respondent and further advised that, on December 27, 1999, the tenure charges had been sent to respondent's correct address, with receipt of such charges acknowledged by respondent. Accordingly, the Commissioner directed respondent on December 30, 1999, via both certified and regular mail to her correct address, to file an Answer to the tenure charges against her, providing respondent clear notice that, pursuant to P.L. 1998, c. 42, effective July 1, 1998, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified "shall have 15 days to submit a written response to the charges to the commissioner," and that failure to answer within the prescribed period will result in the charges being deemed admitted and the Commissioner deciding the matter on a summary basis pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.4(e).

No reply was received from respondent in response to the Board's charges. However, on January 21, 2000, the Board notified the Commissioner that respondent had resigned her employment effective January 10, 2000, and that the Board had accepted such resignation and now wished to withdraw its tenure charges.

In that there is no indication that respondent's resignation is the result of a settlement agreement requiring review by the Commissioner pursuant to In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846, the Commissioner concludes that withdrawal of the charges is appropriate in this instance.[1]

[1] In so concluding, the Commissioner notes the Board's statement that it will "cooperate fully with the Commissioner and State Board of Education on any further information required on matters involving Ms. Badomi." (Board's Letter filed January 21, 2000)

Accordingly, the Commissioner approves withdrawal of the instant matter, which is no longer deemed to be a contested case before the Commissioner and is hereby dismissed. By copy of this decision, the State Board of Examiners is notified of the within tenure charges and the circumstances underlying their withdrawal.

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

Ateo DiFederico filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education to contest a determination by the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark denying his request for indemnification for legal expenses associated with a successful defense against an indictment. Respondent filed an answer, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on June 16, 1998, for determination as a contested case.

Prior to hearing, the parties agreed to amicable resolution of the matter and submitted a Settlement Agreement and General Release of All Claims. Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the parties comply with the settlement terms, and it is FURTHER ORDERED that the proceedings in this matter be concluded.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE OF ALL CLAIMS

THIS SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE ("Settlement Agreement") is made and entered into by and between STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK ("District"), with Board Offices at 2 Cedar Street, Newark, New Jersey 07102-3091 and ATEO DIFEDERICO, residing at 48 Pacific Street, Newark, New Jersey 07102, with reference to the following facts:

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, ATEO DIFEDERICO has caused to be filed a petition before the Office of Administrative Law entitled Di Federico, Ateo v. State-Operated School District of City of Newark, OAL Docket No. EDCUOA 05525-98N, Agency Ref. No.: 133-5/98 (hereinafter referred to as the "Action"), in which he seeks reimbursement of attorneys' fees pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1.

WHEREAS, ATEO DIFEDERICO and THE DISTRICT now desire to settle fully and finally all differences between them, including, but in no way limited to, those differences arising from the aforementioned Action.

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the recitals above and the mutual promises and obligations herein contained, it is agreed as follows:

The DISTRICT shall pay to ATEO DIFEDERICO the sum of FIFTY-FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS ($55,000.00) in the form of a check payable to "THOMAS A. CATALDO TRUST ACCOUNT and ATEO DIFEDERICO" for full and complete satisfaction of any and all claims ATEO DIFEDERICO or THOMAS A. CATALDO now has or may have against THE DISTRICT.

The parties agree that THE DISTRICT shall make payment to ATEO DIFEDERICO after the completion of all of the following: (a) the execution of this Settlement Agreement by DIFEDERICO; (b) approval and execution of this Agreement by the State District-Superintendent and (c) approval of this Settlement by the Administrative Law Judge and Commissioner of Education.

2. ATEO DIFEDERICO, for and in consideration of the payments made by THE DISTRICT as set forth herein and for other good and valuable consideration, hereby releases and forever discharges, and by this instrument does release and forever discharge, THE DISTRICT and each of its respective present and former directors, officers, employees, trustees, agents, attorneys, insurers, parent corporations, subsidiaries, divisions, related, affiliated, and successor companies and entities, shareholders, representatives, predecessors, successors and assigns, and each and all of them (hereinafter collectively referred to as the "RELEASEES"), from any claim for the payment of ATEO DIFEDERICO'S attorney's fees which exceed the FIFTY-FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS ($55,0000.00) herein agreed to, and any other type of remuneration of any kind or nature whatsoever, to which ATEO DIFEDERICO had, now has, or hereafter may have against THE DISTRICT and the RELEASEES in any way related to, emanating from or otherwise in respect to his indictment and attorneys fees arising therefrom, or allegations that could have been alleged in the Action. In return for the consideration set forth in this Agreement, ATEO DIFEDERICO releases THE DISTRICT and the RELEASEES from any and all claims under all state and federal rules and regulations and contract or tort law which ATEO

DIFEDERICO may have against THE DISTRICT and the RELEASEES, whether known or unknown, unforeseen, unanticipated, unsuspected or latent, that he, his heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns ever had, now have or hereafter can, shall or may have for, any action based upon, arising out of, or relating to any claim, demand, or cause of action released herein, except to the extent that any such claim concerns an allegation that THE DISTRICT has failed to comply with any obligations created by this Settlement Agreement.

3. ATEO DIFEDERICO agrees to dismiss with prejudice in its entirety the Action seeking attorneys fees against all defendants named therein. ATEO DIFEDERICO understands that THE DISTRICT is paying him $55,000 to fully satisfy his claim for indemnification of his attorneys fees. ATEO DIFEDERICO understands that he is responsible to his attorneys for any fees over fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000.00). ATEO DIFEDERICO further understands that THE DISTRICT's obligation to pay any consideration pursuant to this Settlement Agreement is expressly conditioned upon the Entry of an Order dismissing the Action with prejudice in its entirety approved by the Commissioner of Education.

4. ATEO DIFEDERICO agrees and understands that he will fully assume all tax obligations, if any, on any sums paid under this Settlement Agreement and that he shall be exclusively liable for the payment of all federal, state and local taxes which may be determined to be due as a result of any consideration or payment received by him pursuant to this Settlement Agreement. ATEO DIFEDERICO further agrees and hereby represents that he shall pay such taxes, if any, at the time and in the amount required of him. In addition, ATEO DIFEDERICO agrees to fully indemnify and hold harmless THE DISTRICT from payment of any and all taxes, interest or penalties that may be required of it by any government agency at any time as a result of any payment or consideration paid by THE DISTRICT pursuant to this Settlement Agreement. ATEO DIFEDERICO further acknowledges that neither THE DISTRICT nor any representatives or attorneys of THE DISTRICT have made any promise, representation or warranty, express or implied, regarding the tax consequences of any consideration paid pursuant to the Settlement Agreement, and that he has been advised to consult a tax attorney or accountant regarding the tax consequences of having received the settlement sum set forth above.

5. ATEO DIFEDERICO represents and covenants that, other than the Action, which he will cause to be dismissed with prejudice, he has not filed, initiated, or caused to be filed or initiated, any claim, charge, suit, complaint, grievance, action, or cause of action against THE DISTRICT or any of the RELEASEES, with respect to ATEO DIFEDERICO'S indictment and attorneys fees arising therefrom. ATEO DIFEDERICO further represents, promises, and agrees that he will not file, refile, initiate, or cause to be filed, refiled or initiated any claim, charge, suit, complaint, grievance, action, or cause of action based upon, arising out of, or relating to any claim, demand, or cause of action released herein.

6. ATEO DIFEDERICO covenants that he has made no assignment and will make no assignment of the claims, demands or causes of action released herein and agrees that he will not institute legal proceedings based upon, arising out of, or relating to any claim, demand or cause of action released herein.

7. ATEO DIFEDERICO acknowledges that: (a) the consideration provided pursuant to this Settlement Agreement is in lieu of any consideration that he would otherwise be entitled to receive and the receipt of the consideration set forth in this agreement by ATEO DIFEDERICO is full and complete satisfaction of any and all claims ATEO DIFEDERICO had, has, or may have against THE DISTRICT and the RELEASEES for any claims that have been released herein; (b) he has been and is hereby advised in writing to consult with an attorney prior to signing this Settlement Agreement; and (c) he has been provided a full and reasonable opportunity to study and consider this Settlement Agreement with legal counsel of his choice before signing it.

8. ATEO DIFEDERICO and THE DISTRICT expressly understand and agree that the payments to and benefits received by ATEO DIFEDERICO pursuant to this Agreement shall be in lieu of any and all other amounts to which ATEO DIFEDERICO or his attorney, Thomas A. Cataldo might be entitled from THE DISTRICT or the RELEASEES as of the date of his execution of this Agreement and, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, ATEO DIFEDERICO hereby expressly waives any right or claim that he may have or assert to attorneys fees, except as otherwise provided in this Settlement Agreement.

9. ATEO DIFEDERICO understands that the foregoing payments and consideration are received in settlement and for compromise of disputed claims and that neither this Settlement Agreement nor the aforesaid promises are to be construed as an admission on the part of any of THE DISTRICT or the RELEASEES of any wrongdoing or liability, nor to be admissible as evidence in any proceeding other than for enforcement of the provisions of this Settlement Agreement. THE DISTRICT does not admit, and specifically denies, any liability, wrongdoing or violation of any law, statute, regulation, agreement or policy. THE DISTRICT is entering into this Agreement solely for the purpose of (a) amicably resolving any and all matters in controversy, disputes, causes of action, claims, contentions and differences of any kind whatsoever between ATEO DIFEDERICO and THE DISTRICT and the RELEASEES and (b) avoiding the attorneys' fees and other expenses that will result from litigation.

10. ATEO DIFEDERICO and his attorneys acknowledge and agree that the terms and provisions of this Settlement Agreement were made and entered into in strict confidence and must remain confidential. ATEO DIFEDERICO and his attorneys promise, warrant, and represent that they shall not disclose or offer to disclose, and have not disclosed, privately or publicly, any of the terms or provisions of this Settlement Agreement or the negotiations leading to this Settlement Agreement to any person or entity, with the exception of (a) a disclosure required by law or to enforce any obligations hereunder; and (b) a disclosure on a need-to-know basis to ATEO DIFEDERICO's immediate family, attorneys, accountants or financial advisors, who will be advised of the confidential nature of this Settlement Agreement and must agree in writing to be bound by its terms.

11. ATEO DIFEDERICO understands that this Settlement Agreement represents the entire agreement and understanding between the parties and supersedes any prior agreement, understanding or negotiations respecting such subject. No change to or modification of this Settlement Agreement shall be valid or binding unless it is in writing and signed by ATEO DIFEDERICO and a duly authorized officer of THE DISTRICT.

12. This Settlement Agreement shall be governed and construed under the laws of the State of New Jersey.

13. No waiver of any breach of any term or provision of this Settlement Agreement shall be construed to be, nor shall be, a waiver of any other breach of this Settlement Agreement. No waiver shall be binding unless in writing and signed by the party waiving the breach.

14. This Settlement Agreement shall inure to the benefit of and be binding upon the heirs, representatives, successors and assignees of each of the parties to it. Each of the RELEASEES who is not a signatory to this Settlement Agreement is hereby agreed to be a third party beneficiary of this Settlement Agreement and shall be entitled to all rights, benefits and protections of this Settlement Agreement and shall further be entitled to enforce this Settlement Agreement and each of its terms.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, this Settlement Agreement is executed by the parties hereto as of the date indicated by the signature.

Petitioners asserted that when they attempted to enroll L.C., a home-schooled student, in respondent's district and sought her placement in tenth grade at the newly established Colts Neck High School, respondent arbitrarily determined that L.C. should be placed in ninth grade at Manalapan High School.

The ALJ found that the District failed to make a reasonable discretionary judgment as to the appropriate grade level placement of L.C. since it did not assess L.C.'s educational status through the means established for evaluating transfer students. The ALJ upheld respondent's denial of petitioner's request for a waiver permitting L.C. to attend Colts Neck High School rather than Manalapan High School, finding no extraordinary or medical reasons to justify a waiver.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter but clarified that the District should have, upon representation by L.C.'s parents as to the grade level of her equivalent instruction, initially placed L.C. in accordance with that level, and then assessed her actual level of academic achievement with respect to the District's specific course proficiencies to ascertain if the initial placement was, in fact, appropriate. The Commissioner emphasized that the District's assessment should not have focused on the equivalency of L.C.'s home-school instruction to the District's specific curriculum, but rather on L.C.'s level of proficiency in the context of that curriculum.

Record Closed: June 30, 1999 Decided: October 29, 1999

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

Petitioner commenced this matter alleging that respondent refused to evaluate L.C., a home-schooled student, prior to enrollment in respondent school district, and requested the placement of L.C. in tenth grade at Colts Neck High School, rather than in ninth grade at Manalapan High School as determined by respondent. Petitioner filed a petition on September 15, 1998, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 15, 1998, for an emergent hearing. Respondent filed an answer on September 24, 1998. The matter was scheduled for an emergent hearing on September 25, 1998, but was adjourned at the request of the parties and rescheduled for September 28, 1998. On that date an emergent hearing was held and concluded and by an Order entered on September 30, 1998, the request for emergent relief was partially denied based on the inability to determine, in the absence of a full evidentiary hearing, whether irreparable harm was being caused to L.C., and whether L.C.'s ninth course grade of study was equivalent to that which was required in order for her to be considered to have completed ninth grade. The Order further provided that emergent relief was partially granted requiring respondent to conduct an educational evaluation of L.C. during the initial phase of L.C.'s placement in ninth grade classes to determine if L.C. has knowledge, ability, and proficiencies which will require that her placement be changed to tenth grade classes, and requiring that this determination be made not more than 30 days from the date L.C. first commenced attending classes. The matter was then scheduled for plenary hearing.

Hearings were held on November 10, 12, and December 16, and 17, 1998. When it was determined that additional dates were required, additional hearing dates were offered and the parties agreed to hearing dates on May 19 and 24, 1999. The testimonial portion of the hearing concluded on May 24, 1999. The record remained open to permit the attorneys to submit closing arguments. These closing arguments were submitted on June 30, 1999, and the record closed on that date. By Orders of Extension, the time within which to file an initial decision was extended to November 15, 1999

ISSUES TO BE RESOLVED

It is noted by way of background that during the hearing of this matter, attorney for petitioner sought to require the testimony of certain employees of the New Jersey Department of Education and issued subpoenas for this purpose. The Attorney General's Office made a motion to quash these subpoenas and by letter order dated November 16, 1998, this motion was denied. The Attorney General's Office then filed an interlocutory appeal with the Commissioner of the Department of Education. By an Order entered on December 3, 1998, the Commissioner reversed and ordered the quashing of the subpoenas of certain employees of the Department of Education. The Commissioner's ruling is significant because of the Commissioner's holding with respect to the procedures to be followed upon a child entering or returning to a public school following a period of home schooling. The relevant portion of the Commissioner's holding set forth in his decision on the motion to quash the subpoenas is as follows:

> In the case of the information sought from Lally, the Commissioner additionally obviates the need for testimony by providing as follows on the question of how public school districts are to treat homeschoolers upon entry or reentry into the public school system. There being no statutes or rules expressly addressing this circumstance, the Department has consistently advised, and the Commissioner so holds, that when a child enters or returns to a public school following a period of homeschooling, that child is to be treated as would any other new or returning student from a private school or public school outside the district; that is, the district should review and assess the child's educational status, through whatever means the district has established by policy or practice for such purposes, in order to determine the appropriate grade level placement for the child. There are no specific requirements as to precisely how this is to be done; no special privileges or burdens attach to the child's having been previously educated at home rather that at a private or other public school. The school district must simply make a reasonable discretionary judgment as to appropriate placement based on the information available to it, consistent with the district's own programs, policies and procedures. The term "evaluate" as found in the Department of Education publication Homeschooling in New Jersey at page 7, and repeated by Lally in his correspondence to petitioner as included in the papers on interlocutory appeal, is used in the ordinary sense of the word, not in the highly prescriptive sense specifically ascribed to it in particular statutory or regulatory contexts such as the laws governing provision of special education.

The Commissioner then added in a footnote to the foregoing that further commentary in this context would not be appropriate, as the question of whether the respondent school district did, in fact, appropriately assess and place petitioner's child is the subject of petitioner's pending appeal.

Based on the clear direction set forth in the foregoing holding, the issues which are to be resolved in this matter are as follows:

1. Whether L.C. has been treated as would any other new or returning student from a private school or public school outside the district?

2. Whether the district has reviewed and assessed L.C.'s educational status, through whatever means the district has established by policy or practice for such purposes, in order to determine the appropriate grade level placement for L.C.?
3. Whether the school district has made a reasonably discretionary judgment as to the appropriate placement based on the information available to it consistent with its own programs, policies and procedures?
4. Whether this evaluation was done in the ordinary sense of the word?
5. Whether the respondent school district did, in fact, appropriately assess and place L.C.?

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

At the hearing of this matter, there was extensive testimony submitted by both parties. What follows is my attempt to summarize the testimony and evidence which I found to be relevant to these issues.

The first witness to testify was Edward Polakowski, the head of the Mathematics Department. Ms. Grey, the Manalapan High School Principal asked him to do an evaluation a few days before August 30, 1998. He was given the materials that L.C. used in the prior year of home schooling in order to determine if the course complied with district curriculum for Algebra 1. He reviewed about one dozen math booklets to see if the specifics of the mathematics course was covered. He identified his written evaluation of L.C.'s ninth grade algebra 1 course materials (P-1) wherein he indicated that the basics of the math curriculum were covered but there were some omissions. The booklets comprise a traditional algebra 1 course and the only topics not covered were the quadratic function and the notion of a function in general. He found an absence of technology (graphing calculators) and real-world problem solving. He indicated that L.C.'s notations and methods of solution appeared sound although he did not know how the material was corrected and evaluated. He also did not have any of L.C.'s scores on standardized tests. He recommended that L.C. be conditionally placed in algebra 2 freshman. He explained that in eighth grade, students take pre-algebra, basic math or algebra 1. Algebra 2 is taken by freshmen or juniors. Although there are no sophomores in Algebra 2 he would not exclude a sophomore.

He is primarily concerned with what mathematics L.C. had previously. He admitted that he never spoke to L.C. or her parents. He also never spoke to Dr. Fruchtman, the Guidance Director, about L.C. He indicated that his philosophy in placing L.C. in algebra 2 is that it is easier to move a student down rather than up. Mr. Polakowski indicated that Dr. Emerman never spoke to him about L.C. He also never used a standardized test score to determine his recommended placement of L.C., although it is possible to do so. He indicated that the Manalapan-Englishtown Middle Schools use the Metropolitan Achievement Test and Iowa Algebra Aptitude Test. They never utilize the California Achievement Test (CAT). He did not look at L.C.'s CAT scores and was not aware that it had been given to her, although he would have looked at it as a factor.

Mr. Polakowski testified that he usually does not meet transfer students and is not consulted by guidance on the placement of transfer students. He has never dealt with a home-schooled student and he indicated that this is an unusual situation and that it is unusual enough to look at standardized test scores.

On cross-examination, Mr. Polakowski indicated that it is easier to evaluate a correct placement if the student is in school. If the student is placed in a course and is failing, a correction can be made. No one told him what he should recommend and he believes that L.C. should have been in freshman algebra 2, and that if she were to start school he would monitor her. He would have made the same recommendation even if L.C.'s CAT scores had been very high. He is not aware whether any transcript existed for L.C. although he has looked at transcripts in making other placement determinations.

Joseph J. Robinson testified that he is the Administrative Supervisor of Curriculum and Instruction and his position encompasses all six school district high schools. He is involved with applied technology, technology, mathematics, science, telephony and media. He has only done one evaluation for a transfer student. He was assigned the task in this matter when he was approached by Ms. Grey and asked to evaluate L.C.'s curriculum materials to compare it to the curriculum of the school district. He believes that he was asked to do this evaluation after school had started. He reviewed nine math books and three or four science books. He never spoke to Dr. Emerman until after the evaluation. He was the last person to look at L.C.'s course materials.

Mr. Robinson testified that the Core Curriculum Content Standards have been adopted and are mandated by the State of New Jersey. These Standards are being integrated into the district at the present time, although they are not broken down into subjects. He never spoke to L.C. and he does not know if there were more course materials which he could have looked at. He identified his evaluation (P-2) and indicated that in paragraph 2 he used the word "there appears" based on the materials that he saw. He saw no evidence of any lab-related activities. There was no web site integration, although he admitted that he was not aware if L.C. was familiar with web sites. He is responsible to enhance the school district's curriculum by integrating technology into it. At the present time the district is experimenting with a district-wide final examination in mathematics and sciences, although they are not presently in use. He was charged with looking at the box of information and as a result of his review, he agrees with the recommendation of Mr. Polakowski with respect to L.C.'s placement in algebra 2.

Kim M. Fox testified that she has been the Science Supervisor since September 1, 1998. She took over as Science Supervisor when the prior supervisor transferred to Colts Neck High School. Previously she was primarily a biology teacher. She was given L.C.'s home instruction materials for a few days before she issued her written report (P-3). She had one day to look through the materials. Ms. Grey asked her to evaluate the materials and it took several hours for her to do so. She never spoke to the student or the parents, although she did see them on one occasion. She was aware that other teachers had also done evaluations of the materials used by L.C. She has never done any prior evaluations of transfer students.

Ms. Fox testified that as a teacher she would talk to transfer students and ask what they had covered. If a student was actively in class, she wanted to make sure that the student had been able to cover all prior materials and would be able to handle the course work. She was asked to evaluate the materials which she received. She indicated that when there is a transfer student she speaks to guidance, the student, the parents and the teacher. She testified that her evaluation was based on the materials she was given. She questioned whether there were any laboratory activities in L.C.'s course work. She admitted that a course known as contemporary biology is an academic course for which there is no laboratory work. However, laboratory biology is a college preparatory course. She indicated that the course work which she examined was not sufficient for credit in the laboratory biology course.

Charles W. Welsh testified that he is the Supervisor of the Manalapan High School Social Studies Department. He has held that position for two and a half years. He has been a social studies teacher for over 22 years. In the late summer, at the middle or end of August 1998, he was given a box of materials to evaluate by Ms. Grey who needed the social studies materials evaluated, although he indicated the placement issue never came up. Ms. Grey asked him to take a detailed look at the materials. He indicated that this has never come up before.

Mr. Welsh testified that there are usually a handful of transfer students each year. The Guidance office usually handles the assessment and the placement of these students. This is the first time that he was asked to participate in such an evaluation. No guidance was given to him by the Guidance office as to how he was to evaluate the materials. He read the materials carefully and issued a report (P-4). He indicated that he has been involved in a number of curriculum development activities and that Core Curriculum Standards are required to be followed by every high school. The district provides standardized final exams in social studies. He is not opposed to giving standardized tests to find out where a student stands.

Mr. Welsh testified that based upon what he saw, the materials were deficient. He feels that L.C. would benefit by taking a world studies class. The materials clearly had nothing to do with United States history 1 or United States history 2 and it was very apparent the materials he was given to review were consistent with a world studies course.

On cross-examination, Mr. Welsh indicated that the materials he reviewed were appropriate to a higher level elementary class. There was no evidence of any critical thinking. However, he admitted that he has never taught world studies.

Joanne Zayanskosky-Whitaker testified that she is Supervisor of the Health and Physical Education Department. She indicated that the guidance counselor usually determines placement and this is usually a guidance function. This is the first case where she evaluated curriculum materials. It was her understanding that there were four books used for home schooling. She was not given the student's grades in health. She indicated that where a transfer student is involved, guidance or someone else decides whether to transfer credits. A student is usually given credit for transfer credits for health unless the course is failed or incomplete. She indicated in her report (P-5) that the health curriculum materials she reviewed are very basic in nature and that there was little opportunity for the learner to apply, analyze or evaluate their own health habits and physical fitness habits. Driver education and many components of family living are virtually nonexistent. Updates were also needed in nutrition, drugs and their effects, and common sexually transmitted diseases.

On cross-examination Ms. Zayanskosky-Whitaker testified that she found the materials lacking. There were only trace amounts of family living material. She was told to review these materials and compare them to the health curriculum. She felt that L.C. would benefit from taking a ninth grade health class.

Dr. Patricia Emerman, an Assistant Superintendent with respondent, testified that she reports to Superintendent Wasser, speaks with him daily and coordinates her job responsibilities with him. The objective of the school district is to provide high quality education at all high schools. She indicated that transfer students are referred to the Guidance office of the high school where the student lives. A redistricting problem had arisen because the school district had opened a new high school in Colts Neck. She indicated that Colts Neck High School has an average class size of approximately 20 students as opposed to an average class size of approximately 25 in the other schools. There was an uneven high school population with Marlboro, Howell and Manalapan High Schools being overpopulated. As a result of a Federal court order because of overcrowding she was involved in a redistricting plan which asked for volunteers to attend the new Colts Neck High School for grades nine and ten. These volunteers were requested in areas where busing could be facilitated. As a result letters were sent to all eighth grade students and notices were published in newspapers asking for volunteers.

Dr. Emerman indicated that Manalapan High School is now within its capacity. The school district has always had some students attending other schools and special permission is granted for students to attend other schools under certain conditions. These include when there is a magnet program based on course availability, where there is a special request, referring specifically to the sibling rule which is the situation where another sibling attends another school, and pursuant to a drug rehabilitation program in order for a student with a drug problem to avoid former peers. Parents' requests are handled on an individual basis. She indicated that she is involved in the waiver process.

Dr. Emerman admitted that in the case of L.C., a letter was submitted by the parents to the school district on July 13, 1998 (P-6). She never forwarded this letter to the school principal, Terry Grey. The parent was advised that a waiver form was required. One of the requirements for a waiver is the ability to facilitate busing. The policy is that there are to be no more than a 35 to 40 students on a bus.

Dr. Emerman testified that students are assigned to schools based upon addresses. Approximately 20 Manalapan students attend Colts Neck High School. They all reside in the Manalapan geographic area, and they volunteered and were granted permission because the school district could facilitate busing in their cases. Under the policy it is not permitted to allow a parent to drive a student to Colts Neck High School. When Mrs. C. requested that L.C. attend Colts Neck High School, she referred Mrs. C. to the waiver process and suggested that she go through the process. She personally discussed the requirements with Mrs. C. and advised her that her request would not be approved because she did not meet the criteria in that her area of residence was not in the area where the school district could provide transportation. She indicated that every attempt was made to accommodate L.C.

Dr. Emerman testified that parents always have the right to request a change in a school assignment based on the best interests of the student. There is no written policy, but if it is in the best interests of the child because the child is not able to function in his or her current high school, the request can be made. She indicated that each situation is addressed by all of the resources of the school. However, in the case of L.C., since she never attended Manalapan High School, her inability to function there could not be the basis for a transfer. She indicated that a medical reason may be another good reason to get a waiver, although she cannot conceive of a valid medical reason for a waiver in L.C.'s case. She indicated that if a student has a peer problem it is better to resolve it at the school. There are no circumstances that she is aware of to justify a placement change in L.C.'s case.

Dr. Emerman testified that on one occasion she spoke to Mrs. Grey, the Principal at Manalapan High School, about the C. family. This conversation occurred on a speaker phone. L.C. had a schedule in hand and Mrs. C. did not want L.C. to have a ninth grade schedule. Ms. Grey also called on another occasion and said that she wanted to have department supervisors review the curriculum used by L.C. Dr. Susan Fruchtman, Supervisor of Guidance at Manalapan High School, had previously reviewed the materials. She indicated that Dr. Fruchtman had spoken to her in early August about L.C. Dr. Fruchtman referred to a box of materials which she had been going through. Dr. Emerman explained that part of the guidance procedures, which is in the guidance books, is to review materials, review the student's cumulative record, review the student's grade history, review attendance history and standardized testing. She does not know what Dr. Fruchtman concluded at that time. She indicated that the guidance counselor could contact the sending district for more information. She does not know if Dr. Fruchtman recommended that L.C. attend tenth grade at Colts Neck High School.

Dr. Emerman never looked at L.C.'s materials. She indicated that when L.C. registered she did not have the academic history and credentials from an accredited high school program sufficient to place her in tenth grade. There was no grade history, no attendance history and no guidance record. She indicated that the school district receives very few students from home schooling. In lieu of credentials, Dr. Fruchtman was given the box of documents. Dr. Emerman was asked if she had ever seen the accreditation information before (P-7) and she indicated she never saw it. She is not aware of what curriculum L.C. used. She cannot recall speaking to John Lally of the State Department of Education. She did receive copies of guidelines on homeschooling from Ms. Goudula of the County Superintendent's office. She indicated that there are other students in the school district who are being home schooled. The parents of such students are requested to send a curriculum guide to the school district and they are obligated to do so. She looks at these and keeps them on file. Mr. Maddaluna, the County Superintendent of Schools, suggested that there be no critical evaluation of such materials. She indicated that Mrs. Goudula never said to administer testing to L.C.

Dr. Emerman testified that the general procedure is to test and evaluate transfer students within 30 days of their enrollment. This may involve the administering of standardized testing, early warning tests in order to ascertain the basic skills level of the student. The HSPT is required in eleventh grade to determine if students have mastered basic skills in reading, writing and mathematics. She identified an excerpt from the guidance manual (P-8) on registering new students. L.C. was never administered a test in the summer of 1998. She indicated that there is the possibility of doing more testing if the school district more needed information.

Dr. Emerman testified that she was aware of John Lally's letter of August 13, 1998. M.C. asked for a copy of the school district policy in writing and she responded that there was no official Board policy which specifically addresses home schooling and Board policy on this subject is not mandated. While there is no written Board policy there are guidelines based upon Department of Education guidelines. She identified the administrative procedures used for the transfer of home schooling students which is set forth in her letter of August 20, 1998 (P-10). Under these guidelines the principal is not involved, Dr. Emerman is not involved and Mr. Wasser is not involved. Standardized tests are not specified although the CAT could be used. M.C. responded in writing and she saw no need to review Dr. Fruchtman's procedures. She indicated that it is within the discretion of the Board of Education to award or not award credits to home-schooled students. She also testified that she did not give a copy of Mrs. C.'s letter of August 24, 1998 (P-11) to Dr. Fruchtman.

Dr. Emerman testified that the school year started on September 4, 1998, and Ms. Grey told her that Mrs. C. declined to have L.C. attend school at that time and that she would be home schooled. An attendance officer may have sent out a notice (P-12). She indicated that she never produced a section of the guidance manual on homeschooling (P-13). This guidance manual section provides that no credits are given towards a high school diploma for homeschooling courses.

The next witness to testify was Dr. Susan Fruchtman, Guidance Supervisor at Manalapan High School. She testified that she is in her eleventh year in this position. She supervises the Guidance Department and the guidance manual is used at all six high schools in the district. In the Guidance Department she acts a liaison with students, parents and teachers, sets up scheduling for students and sets up testing for the HSPT in the beginning of October of each year. She indicated that the district has no samples of this test. She is not involved in the early warning tests which are given to eighth grade students in the sending districts. These early warning tests are given in the areas of mathematics, reading, and writing proficiencies. She has never given a Manalapan High School student an early warning test. Both of these tests are secure tests and neither the early warning test nor the HSPT are available at Manalapan High School. The HSPT covers mathematics and reading and is only for eleventh graders given in October of the year and for twelfth graders who have previously failed the test. A ninth or tenth grade student is never given an HSPT.

The Guidance Department deals with transfer students in two ways. Dr. Fruchtman sets up appointments with the guidance counselors and the students. During the summer she does scheduling and meets with students. Transfer students are referred to the Guidance office for the handling of their transfer. Ms. Williams of her staff would make parents aware of what is needed. They are required to provide proof of residency, a birth certificate, shots or immunization records and transcripts from the prior school. She would then sit down with the family of a student and the student is encouraged to come to the meeting. At this meeting she gives an overview of the school, including extracurricular activities which are available, goes over the curriculum newspaper, and explains courses to them in order to differentiate between different course levels. The focus is on where the student is in his or her grade level. Where they are would depend on what they took before. The transcript is looked at for grades.

Dr. Fruchtman testified that she met with L.C. and her mother. They showed her a photobook of a show in which L.C. participated. She indicated that she does not recall seeing any photos of biology laboratory dissections. M.C. brought in to her a tub filled with packets of materials. In the tub were written question and answer booklets. She was also provided with L.C.'s ninth grade transcript but it was an incomplete transcript and the grades only went through April, 1998. She identified a progress report dated August 10, 1998 (P-14). She indicated that this type of report and all of these materials help her in determining where to place a student in class.

Dr. Fruchtman testified that Mr. Wasser, the School District Superintendent, directed to the parent to bring in the materials to have her review the curriculum. She also asked the parents to bring in whatever they had. She then perused the materials for about fifteen minutes and concluded that there were no text books and that she could not make an evaluation. She did not ask the parents or student to provide the text book which accompanied the written materials. She indicated that the parents had proof of residency, reports of standardized tests, birth date information, records of inoculations, and some transcripts. Mrs. C. provided two standardized test reports, including L.C.'s CAT scores for eighth and ninth grades. She indicated that the school does not require standardized tests for placement. She recalls that the CAT scores for L.C. were quite good and she concluded that L.C. would not need to take a basic skills class. If she was not sure of this she would have given L.C. the Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills. In connection with L.C.'s course work she saw no text books but only saw the booklets. She met with Mrs. C. twice.

Dr. Fruchtman agreed that Manalapan High School is overpopulated, space is tight, and some classes have 31 or 32 students. She is a former school psychologist and agrees that a smaller learning environment is better. The C.'s never told her that they wanted L.C. placed at Colts Neck High School. She indicated that if it is in a child's best interest there may be a change in placement, for example, if there is a severe drug problem and a directive from administration in order to keep the child away from peers. She indicated that a change in placement is decided on a case-by-case basis where the best interests of the child is involved. She is not involved with waivers and is not involved in redistricting. She knew that L.C. was home schooled and her situation is unique and is not typical of transfer students. Usually through an evaluation of the transcript the Guidance office can do an evaluation of the curriculum. However, in the case of L.C. there were no credits, no clock hours and no dates.

Dr. Fruchtman did develop a schedule for L.C. in September 1998. She indicated that after registering, a student is tested within 30 days by the classroom teacher. There are no special tests within that 30 days period. A new student is closely observed and there is an evaluative process which involves direct communication. She indicated that in one case involving a home-schooled student, C.R., he wanted to be an eleventh grader and he was placed in eleventh grade classes. However, he was moved into ninth grade classes by order of Dr. Emerman. In the case of L.C., Dr. Fruchtman told the parents that she would have to speak with central administration and that she could not schedule a student until she did so. She also indicated that no credits have ever been given for home schooling classes (P-13).

Dr. Fruchtman testified that at her second meeting with the parents, she told Mrs. C. that she was a generalist and could not evaluate the materials provided to her. In general, she looks at courses, then sits down with the materials and tells a transferring student the credit he or she will get. She denied ever telling the parents of L.C. that she could not deal with the placement of L.C. After she realized that she did not have the expertise to evaluate the materials, she required input from others. She also indicated that L.C.'s home school is not accredited and being a provisionally accredited school means that it is still in review. Mrs. C. was not given any portion of the guidance manual. She spoke to Mrs. C. on August 19, 1998, the day she returned from vacation, and told her that L.C. had to be registered as a ninth grader and that this was an administrative decision. There was no chance for L.C. to be given any testing. She indicated that at that time L.C. was not a student and that there was only a discussion going on. Mrs. C. was insistent on L.C. being placed in tenth grade. She indicated that she has mixed feeling concerning the CAT and the CAT test grade levels are extremely inflated. Mrs. Grey, the School Principal, eventually ordered the evaluations. Her placement decisions are based on educational evaluations and on social, emotional and age development. It was her opinion based on social and emotional development that it would be best for L.C. to be in the ninth grade.

M.R., the mother of C.R., another home-schooled student, testified that C.R. is presently age 18. She home schooled C.R. for five years and they attempted to register him in eleventh grade at age 15 or 16. He had completed eighth, ninth and tenth grades of the Christian Liberty Academy curriculum through home schooling. At the beginning of June she spoke to Dr. Fruchtman who told her to bring in C.R.'s materials. She brought in his curriculum and some report cards and Dr. Fruchtman said that C.R. would be given full credit. He was given an eleventh grade class schedule and was told that he if had any difficulty with the classes he would be dropped to a lower grade level. C.R. commenced attending eleventh grade classes, but two weeks later he stopped attending because he was told that he would have to be placed in ninth grade classes. She indicated that she called Dr. Emerman who told her to pull him out or place in him ninth grade. Dr. Emerman told her that there would be no credits for any home schooling and no testing.

On cross-examination, M.R. testified that she does not know how C.R. was doing during the first two weeks of school. She indicated that the Christian Liberty Academy program was not an accredited program. He did get a diploma from the Christian Liberty Academy and is scheduled to attend college. In their conversation, Dr. Emerman told her that they could place C.R. in vocational school and he would have to make up ninth and tenth grade credits. Dr. Fruchtman never said anything about evaluating C.R. and her son was never tested or evaluated by Manalapan High School. Dr. Emerman said that she would not test him for placement and that he was going back to ninth grade. M.R. wanted C.R. to be with his friends in the whole classroom environment. She indicated that she had no objection to C.R. being tested and that she wanted him in an appropriate class but that it was absurd to place him in ninth grade.

Anette V. Williams, Guidance Secretary to Dr. Fruchtman testified. She indicated that she did not recall a number of statements which Mrs. C. claimed that she made. She denies saying "There is a lot of cover up going on here". She indicated that she did not recall saying that.

Warren Douglas Crown testified that he is the Chair of the Department of Learning and Teaching for Curriculum and Instruction at Rutgers University and is Professor of Mathematics Education. He testified to his undergraduate and graduate degrees and that he has been at Rutgers for over 20 years. He is one of three authors of the New Jersey curriculum frame work for mathematics and he is knowledgeable concerning core curriculum standards. He indicated that core curriculum standards do not apply to private school students but apply to public school students. He indicated that there is a testing standard, the New Jersey State-Wide Assessment Program, which is starting with those students entering ninth grade in the 1998-99 school year. However, testing would not be required in order to graduate if the student is starting tenth grade. Ninth graders are subject to testing for math and language arts literacy.

Professor Crown testified regarding educational articulation. He indicated that there should be communication between Elementary and Secondary Schools. There is always a recommendation that articulation be improved.

Theresa Grey testified that she has been Principal at Manalapan High School since January 1998. She first became aware of L.C. during the week of August 17, 1998. Dr. Fruchtman indicated a concern with the placement of a new admission involving a student who had been home schooled. Her mother wanted L.C. entered into tenth grade and provided information, and a decision was required. Materials were available and Dr. Fruchtman wanted Ms. Grey to help her reach a decision, but she had never become involved with a home schooler before, and as Principal she is not involved with placement of transfer students. She generally reviewed the information, including a partial transcript from the home school, test data including the CAT for eighth and ninth grades, and a letter regarding accreditation. She reviewed the guidance manual and a pamphlet from the State. Dr. Fruchtman said that Mr. C. would be calling her. Manalapan High School receives around ten transfer students per year and it is the decision of guidance as to the placement of a transfer student, with Dr. Fruchtman making the decision as to transfer students in the summer.

Eventually Mrs. C. contacted the school and on August 24, 1998, and she returned Mrs. C.'s call at home on August 25, 1998. At that time she had not seen the material and agreed to look at that information. She indicated that the only grades on L.C.'s transcript were up to April 1998, so she was concerned about not having the transcript for L.C.'s full ninth grade year. Ms. Grey requested that the materials be brought to her in order to have department supervisors look at them. The materials were brought in on August 26, 1998, and she then sent the materials to the various department supervisors and requested objective evaluations to look for congruence to core curriculum standards, to district course proficiency standards and to district curriculum. She asked Mrs. C. to provide test books, work books, and every thing that could be provided. She did not know that she did not receive a complete set of materials.

Ms. Grey said that she has never before asked supervisors to evaluate curriculum of transfer students. She was not aware that core curriculum standards do not apply to private schools. She admitted that driver's education is normally given in tenth grade.

Ms. Grey indicated that, to her knowledge, early warning tests are not given in her school. If it were to be given it would be through Dr. Fruchtman. All high school proficiency tests are given through Dr. Fruchtman's office in October and April for eleventh grade students. She felt that Mrs. C. was frustrated. Dr. Emerman was the official communicator with the family. Award of credits is done by guidance counselors. She never ordered a test to be given to L.C. and never indicated that she wanted to administer a test to L.C. There was no contact by Mrs. C. with her as to a waiver to attend Colts Neck High School and she was not involved in the family's special request for L.C. to attend Colts Neck High School. Eventually Mrs. C. withdrew L.C. from school so the process stopped. She never received a complete report card for L.C. although Mrs. C. said that she would provide it.

Dr. Benedict J. Trigani, testified to his educational background which includes a Ph.D. degree in educational psychology. He is a licensed New Jersey school psychologist and a licensed clinical psychologist. His specialty is psychological evaluation and testing. He testified to his experience including five years experience as a New Jersey licensed teacher and four years experience as a guidance counselor. He is a full professor at Georgian Court College where he has taught for 21 years and is Chief Psychologist at the Jersey Shore Child Evaluation Center. He has also been a consultant for many schools. As a guidance counselor he was involved with many transfer students. He was accepted as an expert in psychology.

Dr. Trigani testified that L.C. had been home schooled for six or seven years after three years of regular classes. L.C. wanted socialization and extracurricular involvement and the parents attempted to have L.C. placed in tenth grade hopefully at Colts Neck High School. He first examined L.C.'s records to see what testing was available. Mrs. C. had provided her with significant standardized testing. He reviewed all materials he had and was provided information as far back as L.C.'s kindergarten. She received a high rating on her readiness test. He indicated that in the second grade, L.C.'s scores on the CAT were in the 95th percentile with reading in the 98th percentile and vocabulary in the 99th percentile. In grade 5 L.C. was given the Iowa Test of Basic Skills and was found to be reading in the 96th percentile. In grade 8 the CAT showed her to be in grade 12+ in the 99th percentile and in grade 9 she was at the top of the CAT in grade 12+ in the 99th percentile. In the Wechsler Intelligence Scale for Children, Third Edition, Revised, (WISC 3R), L.C. achieved a verbal score of 123 or the 94th percentile, and a nonverbal or performance score of 116. As a result, she has no significant weaknesses and she has an excellent general fund of information. She scored very high in all other achievement test and there is the indication that she has been very successful in her home schooling. She has an unusually high cognitive potential. Her verbal comprehension index is 124 which indicates that she has a higher order of thinking skills processes which is one of the goals of the core standards. She possesses the ability to think abstractly and does well in general judgment and problem solving. These concepts are possessed by her as measured by the WISC 3R. He looked at her perceptual organization and there is no indication of any neurological or perceptual impairments. She writes a clear coherent paragraph and there is no sign of any emotional or social disorders. There is no abnormality, either emotional or social. He has talked to her about everything and she was very anxious about this situation. Her allergies were flaring up and she was experiencing rectal bleeding.

Dr. Trigani testified that in his professional opinion, L.C. was not properly assessed by the school district. A blue box of material was assessed, but L.C. was not. He indicated that the school district cannot prescribe unless they diagnose. They have a child that has exceeded all goals and objectives but no one ever assessed her. Five people were directed to examine the curriculum used by her but there was never any learning assessment of her abilities. This shocked him. Such an assessment should include talking to her, getting samples of her writing, finding out how she feels, finding out how she can fit in and doing an assessment of what she has learned in the past. Dr. Trigani indicated that the parents' letter of August 24, 1998 (P-11) requested a careful and objective evaluation of the achievement and skill levels of L.C., but this was not done. What is a student's best interests means to help children and it should be done in a professional manner. In L.C.'s case the minimum assessment should have been an assessment of standardized test scores, talking to L.C., and talking to the parents to find out what was done with their home schooling. He indicated that teachers do not place 16 year olds with 14 year olds. The retention decision can only be made after careful analysis. Placing L.C. in ninth grade significantly hurt her and it would work against her desire to want to come back to school. He indicated that when he spoke to Mrs. C. she told him that L.C. did biology labs and dissections. J.C. worked with L.C. on computers and she is very well versed in technology. In his opinion, L.C. could cognitively handle eleventh grade, but she should be with children her age and it is the best thing to do to keep her with children her age.

Dr. Trigani testified that he was told that there was on-going litigation and he has worked with attorney for petitioner before. There is no retainer and he has not been paid for his report or testimony, although he hopes to be paid. He has prepared reports for home schoolers in three to five previous cases. He has not worked for Freehold Regional High School although his son did some work for the school district. He admitted that the statement in his report (C-9) that the school district's attitude of staunch opposition and an entangled mess of uncaring procedure is the parents' opinion. It is his opinion that it is shocking that the student to be assessed was not a participant in the assessment. He contacted the Monmouth County Superintendent's Office and tried to get that office to intervene. He feels that home instruction is acceptable if the circumstances are correct.

With respect to L.C.'s ability, Dr. Trigani feels that the parents are intellectually able, that they have the time to perform the home instruction, they have the financial resources and they are willing to subordinate their needs to those of their children. A home instructor must have some knowledge of the subject matter and he indicated that a certification requires subject matter expertise. He testified that Mrs. C. is a high school graduate and she is not certified and has no college credits.

Dr. Trigani stated that he is embarrassed that no one from respondent has talked to L.C. He is puzzled at the rough time the parents were being given by the school district. He feels that it is pathetic what happened. The whole assessment process was butchered. All schools make every effort to cover themselves. L.C. was doing well in elementary school but Mrs. C. took her out because of something being taught that the parents objected to involving moral values. He indicated that L.C. is a perfectionist and that she was undergoing stress and anxiety. Dr. Cencora recommended treatments involving stress reduction. He indicated that it was not inappropriate to evaluate only the curriculum materials, although this was one of the tools that was to be used.

M.C., mother of L.C., testified that L.C. is age 16. M.C. has three children including L.C. and two sons. They have resided in Manalapan for ten years as of August 1999. M.C. testified that L.C. wanted to re-enroll in the Colts Neck High School. She showed her parents articles on the new high school and the fact that it would be a new school with new students which was being underutilized. She has friends in Manalapan High School and it is dangerously overcrowded. Two of her friends from church go to Colts Neck High School. She made a good case and her parents agreed to her request. As a result they called the school district transportation office and were advised that they were not within the Colts Neck High School area. They were one mile west of the boundary line but were told that they could get a waiver and they were given Dr. Emerman's telephone number. Mrs. C. called Dr. Emerman and she told Mrs. C. to write a letter. This was done on July 13, 1999 (P-6). Following the letter, Dr. Emerman called Mrs. C. at home on July 20 and Mrs. C. advised her that L.C. had been home schooled. Dr. Emerman said that L.C. must enter ninth grade. Any home schooler goes back to ninth grade and there is no avenue for evaluation and no way to evaluate her status. Mrs. C. told Dr. Emerman that she had report cards and standardized tests scores for L.C., but Dr. Emerman said that it does not matter. Mrs. C. Said "you're kidding me" and when they hung up from this conversation she told L.C.

As a result of this conversation, Mrs. C. contacted her Congressman on July 21, 1998. Following that she was contacted by Mr. Wasser, Superintendent of the school district who indicated that she must have misunderstood Dr. Emerman. He indicated that Dr. Emerman wanted L.C. to take district-wide finals and he told her to call Dr. Fruchtman. Mr. Wasser said that it was a guidance matter and that administration should not be involved. He told her bring in L.C.'s records and Dr. Fruchtman would evaluate her.

On August 3, 1998, M.C. called Dr. Fruchtman's office and Dr. Fruchtman said that district-wide finals are impossible but that she would look at L.C.'s ninth grade curriculum and eight and ninth grade records. After her review she would then give L.C. a basic skills type test. Dr. Fruchtman indicated that she knew some home schooling families and she was impressed. She indicated that there are procedures to assess individual children and then place them and that she thought Dr. Emerman's position was ridiculous. Dr. Fruchtman indicated that she was not concerned about academic standards, but concerned about the socialization aspect. Mrs. C. explained to Dr. Fruchtman that L.C. had been involved in many group activities. There was a group involved with a shark dissection and she participated in a medieval feast which was part of a social studies curriculum. She offered to give Dr. Fruchtman a list of field trips in which L.C. participated as part of a group.

Mrs. C. testified that on August 6, 1998, she brought to Dr. Fruchtman all of the requested documents and met with her briefly. Her secretary Ms. Williams accepted a blue box including all of L.C.'s class work for ninth grade.

Mrs. C. testified that between August 7 and 19, 1998, she was not able to get in touch with Dr. Fruchtman. During this time she called the State Education Office and spoke to Mr. Lally and he sent her a letter of August 13, 1998 (P-9). She was eventually able to reach Dr. Fruchtman on August 19, 1998, and Dr. Fruchtman advised her that Dr. Emerman had blocked the evaluation of L.C. Dr. Fruchtman apologized repeatedly and she indicated that she had suffered a concussion. She was very very sorry. She indicated that she was only authorized to follow her supervisor's instruction. She was subsequently contacted by Mr. Wasser who was furious with her for contacting her Congressman. However, Mr. Wasser indicated that if what Mrs. C. told him was true about Dr. Emerman preventing an evaluation of L.C. he had a problem with it and he would look into it.

Mrs. C. wrote a letter to Dr. Emerman on August 12, 1998 (P-24) and received a response from her on August 20, 1998 (P-10). As a result of this she responded on August 24, 1998 (P-11) and personally delivered the documents to Dr. Fruchtman for evaluation. Dr. Fruchtman promised to give her a letter that her daughter's evaluation had been blocked by Dr. Emerman.

Mrs. C. indicated that Mrs. Grey called her on August 25, 1998 and tried to convince her to register L.C. has a ninth grader in order to get her into the building. During this time L.C. asked Mrs. C. why the school district hates her. Mrs. Grey tried to convince her to bring the box back and that she was looking for some one to look at the curriculum and to test L.C. She brought the material back and included the entire ninth grade core curriculum including all testing. Homework was not included because this goes to the school of tomorrow. She gave the results of tests. She indicated that she did not know that there had been a curriculum review until September 28, 1998. She indicated that the school of tomorrow graduates are accepted by colleges (P-28). She also indicated that L.C. was given the Metropolitan Achievement Test (MAT) and that Dr. Emerman never asked for MAT scores for L.C.

As a result of the letter from Congressman Pappas to the County Superintendent of Schools, the County Superintendent assigned Maria Godoula, an educational specialist, to this matter. Ms. Godoula was to meet with Dr. Emerman and Mr. Wasser on August 31, 1998. Ms.

Godoula called Mrs. C. and told her to bring L.C. into the high school and because the school district was mandated to give an early warning test to her. On August 31, 1998, Mrs. C. and L.C. went to Manalapan High School but Principal Grey knew nothing about the early warning test. They then phoned Dr. Emerman and Dr. Emerman said that Mrs. Godoula had no right to do what she did. She indicated that Mrs. C. would have to register L.C. as a ninth grader, she will be assigned a ninth grade homeroom, and that she does not have to be tested for 30 days. Mrs. C. asked why a test was required now, and Dr. Emerman said that it never came up. She will be tested and then will be placed in a remedial reading class and a remedial math class and that they would teach her daughter to read correctly. Mr. Wasser was in the room with Dr. Emerman. L.C. was visibly upset as a result of this

Mrs. C. could not get anyone to take any action so she decided to go to Dr. Fruchtman because she had never received a written decision. She went to Dr. Fruchtman and asked for a decision in writing so on September 2, 1998, she registered L.C., went to Manalapan High School to get a schedule and met with Dr. Fruchtman who gave L.C. all ninth grade courses. Dr. Fruchtman assigned L.C. to ninth grade courses and a ninth grade homeroom (P-25). When asked about this, Dr. Fruchtman said "you'll have to take that up with the district". She then went home, called Ms. Godoula who indicated that she was very sorry but the school district has 30 days to test L.C. Ms. Godoula said that she found the school district's behavior professionally embarrassing. She suggested private schooling because she felt that L.C. would not be treated equitably by the school district. Eventually she informed the County Superintendent's Office that L.C. would be home schooled for tenth grade.

Mrs. C. testified that the parents decided to pay have L.C. evaluated after the emergency relief application. However, L.C. was too emotionally distraught to be evaluated. She was undergoing rectal bleeding, had terrible stomach aches and crying fits and was having a terrible time. She had never had these symptoms before. She was brought to a doctor who referred her to a specialist who sent her to a hospital for tests. The doctor recommended stress reduction and that she be shielded from this dispute. She was seen by Dr. Sincora, a Gastro-Intenstinal Specialist. She was sent to the hospital for tests. Dr. Sincora recommended stress reduction and the shielding of her from the stress related to these proceedings.

Mrs. C. disputed the testimony of those who evaluated L.C.'s ninth grade work. Mr. Robinson testified that he reviewed only nine math books. However, there were 12 math books in the blue box. Three books represented a couple of months of work. As a result, Mr. Robinson obtained a distorted view. He also testified that he reviewed three or four Biology books. However, there were 24 Biology books in the materials. Mr. Robinson also testified as to technology. L.C. has been taught technology. M.C. testified that her husband is the Internet Coordinator for all of an out-of-state utility firm. They have four computers in their home and they use their computers for educational and other research. Her husband taught eighth grade and also taught as an adjunct professor at City University of New York. The district never asked about how L.C. was taught technology.

M.C. also testified that L.C. was involved in dissections of a shark which was supervised by a certified science teacher. As a result, she disagrees with the testimony of Ms. Fox. M.C. disagreed with Mr. Welsh's review. He felt that the curriculum aligns with his but is not appropriate for high school. With respect to the driver's education, no freshman curriculum covers this subject and it is usually taught in a later grade. Family living is in the ninth grade curriculum for home schooling and L.C. was taught about sexuality and marriage. This may have been the booklet that was left out. The curriculum covers and gives instruction on awareness of drugs and awareness of symptoms of other common sexually transmitted diseases. Nutrition is in the curriculum and there is a section of the curriculum which applies and evaluates the students' own health habits.

M.C. testified that L.C. was taught ninth grade math. She then explained that the chapters that are taught are called "paces". A grade of 79 is failing and if that occurs the student must redo the pace and be retested. The test is then mailed to an advisor for grading. L.C. has an advisor from the Living School and her attendance record is called in to him. L.C. generally attends to her studies five days a week, Monday through Friday. It is the school which determines if she has mastered an area or subject. Book reports are done, six having been done in ninth grade and the six required reports were sent into the school. M.C. testified that she provided the school district with a grade history of L.C. and that this was given to Mr. Grey. She also gave the name and phone number of the advisor to Dr. Fruchtman, but she never called him.

On cross-examination M.C. admitted that there was a discussion of a possible settlement of this matter in September 1998. The proposed settlement which was discussed was an offer for L.C. to attend tenth grade at Colts Neck High School for summer school for all courses. She denied that it was her understanding that the settlement was that summer school would be required only for English 1 because it is a four year course, but summer school was required for all freshman courses. She indicated that it was her desire to have her daughter admitted without being punished because she was a home schooler. She believes that it is Dr. Emerman's fault that this matter had to proceed to a hearing because Dr. Emerman blocked the evaluation. She heard the testimony of the teachers who performed the evaluations that none of them had any direction or supervision from Dr. Emerman. She felt that Mr. Polakowski's evaluation was excellent but does not think that any of the teachers were able to do a full review. She has no way of knowing if anyone tried to influence them and she admitted that each of them has the ability to do proper evaluations.

M.C. testified that she has a high school diploma and attended one year of college in 1973 and 1974 and one year part-time in 1978 when she took courses in Accounting 1 and Financial Accounting. She has no education credits. L.C. attended kindergarten and first grade at ages five and six. She then attended second grade. From grades three to ten she was home schooled and this was from September 1991 to present. Her third grade curriculum was from the Calvert School in Baltimore, fourth to seventh grade the curriculum was put together from various manufacturers and eight grade was the School of Tomorrow curriculum. Tuition was paid for ninth grade to the School of Tomorrow in the approximate amount of $700. The School of Tomorrow was conditionally accredited at the time. She keeps an attendance record and academic activities occur five days per week. There is homework everyday and the school day starts at 9:00 am., and finishes somewhere around 2:00 p.m. The school of Tomorrow is a ten month program. For the 1998-99 school year, they were unable to start until December 1998 and she is scrambling to catch up,. At the present time L.C. is putting in more than five hours per day in her home schooling. She indicated that the Living Heritage Academy is the home schooling arm of the School of Tomorrow. The School of the Tomorrow is a physical building. She takes her children to the Maranatha Christian Academy for testing. She indicated that L.C. had a dissection exercise with a certified science teacher. She would have been satisfied if L.C. was evaluated in accordance with State guidelines and it was properly determined where she belonged, and if Manalapan's overcrowding is alleviated, she would have no objection to L.C. attending Manalapan.

M.C. testified that she was referred to Dr. Trigani by her pediatrician, attorney and Brookdale teachers and the purpose of seeing him was to have L.C. tested without the punitive aspects.

Dr. Patricia Montgomery, who holds a Ph.D. degree in Educational Leadership, testified for petitioner. She has been employed in both public and parochial schools and she founded the Clonlara School in 1967. The Clonlara School home-based education program is an off-site program which services 7,500 students world-wide. Dr. Montgomery testified that she has lectured at Ohio University, the University of Massachusetts, University of Denver, University of Connecticut, and University of Pennsylvania. She indicated that Educational Leadership is a much broader degree than a degree in Educational Administration. Her doctoral thesis involved a survey of alternative schools from 1964 to 1974. She has served as an evaluator and an accreditor. The State of Michigan does not accredit schools but the National Association for the legal support of alternative schools has granted Clonlara accreditation. The Independent Schools Association (ISAS) is an accreditation agency and she has participated in ISAS as an evaluator. ISAS has reviewed the curriculum of Clonlara School. Clonlara is also a candidate for accreditation by the National Private School Association Group. She is aware that the School of Tomorrow of the Living Heritage Academy has been accredited by the National Private School Association Group.

Dr. Montgomery testified that she is the founder and director of the home-based education program at Clonlara. She has had students transfer to her school and presently services 60 children and families in 67 cities in New Jersey. She has had students transfer out of this to regular school programs, including one student who transferred to 12th grade and another student who transferred to 11th grade. Both transferred back to regular school without a problem. Clonlara regularly trains public school and non-public school staff. Transferring students are evaluated by reviewing their test scores, particularly standardized achievement tests, by interviewing the students, by reviewing a sample of the student's work and by looking at extracurricular work. If the student is not interviewed then it must be assumed that the program was fully learned. It is usually the guidance counselor who does the interview of the student. A guidance counselor is able to size up a student relatively quickly based on the maturity of the student. Otherwise if there is no interview, the guidance counselor only has a piece of the pie and not the whole pie. It is also suggested that the parents be interviewed although this is not required.

Dr. Montgomery first met L.C. in her home. She reviewed her work samples and creative writing, science, computer and the whole range of subjects. She reviewed L.C.'s book reports. She reviewed a report which L.C. did on sonar in which she created a science exhibit. She indicated that L.C. has designed her own web page on the internet using the HTML format. She was shown L.C.'s standardized test scores and test materials. She asked how the testing material was corrected and evaluated. She is familiar with the Core Curriculum Content Standards of New Jersey and has worked with them. L.C. worked with groups and worked with a very large group in a social studies project. L.C. functions successfully in a group. She is aware that L.C. did dissections and saw proof of this in a portfolio format. She indicated that L.C. reviewed 500 pages of the congressional record. She did the work of a ninth grade student plus supplements. She is aware of Mrs. C.'s request for and evaluation of L.C., for her placement in tenth grade. She also indicated that in certain limited areas there was no coverage but with the pace system a student cannot move to the next step until the pace subject is successfully mastered. She reviewed the various achievement tests and as a result of her review of all this material she supports M.C. 's request for L.C.'s placement in tenth grade. She feels that placing a student in ninth grade when the student has completed all ninth grade course work would be punitive. L.C. is not seeking a high school diploma and the placement should be in accordance with her chronological age.

Dr. Montgomery indicated that she provided no written report and is not being paid and is not seeking payment. She did not speak to anyone at the Living Heritage Academy. She also did not try to speak to anyone at the Freehold Regional High School District. She has testified approximately 25 to 40 times before but has never before testified about the issue of transition from home schooling to a regular school. She indicated that it is not necessary to investigate the details and characteristics of a regular school being transferred into. She looked at the curriculum at Freehold Regional High School. She is not aware that the CAT is not often used in New Jersey and is not aware that it shows too high a progress. She indicated that it sounds like a 30 day trial in ninth grade is a good idea. She admitted that she had L.C.'s materials for months in order to evaluate it. She felt that L.C. is being singled out simply because she is home schooled. She feels that L.C. is capable of being a tenth grade student at any high school. The school district's curriculum is irrelevant in evaluating grade placement.

Dr. Patricia Emerman was recalled as a witness by petitioner. She testified that Ms. Grey ordered the reviews and she did not instruct the reviewers or Ms. Grey concerning this. These evaluations were done the last week in August 1998. The supervisors worked that last week. She knew of the evaluations in august 1998, Dr. Grey having told her. She did not speak to the evaluators at that time. Dr. Emerman indicated that the review of the curriculum and the booklets dropped off by M.C. was done during the last week of August and that these reviews were followed up with written reports at a later date. Dr. Emerman was advised of this by Ms. Grey, the building principal. Dr. Emerman indicated she did not speak to any of the people who performed these reviews.

Dr. Emerman indicated that Board of Education policy number 5120 (P-30), indicates that students shall receive credits for courses and/or programs from other bona fide institutions which she interprets as meaning other accredited high schools. In her letter (P-10) she talks about a review of the student documentation from the student's previous academic history and that is where the school district would know what the student got from other accredited high school programs that the student attended. The policy (P-30) provides that no credit shall be given for correspondence courses unless specifically approved by the superintendent and the superintendent may award credit for correspondence courses if he so desires. Dr. Emerman indicated that there was a discussion whereby Mr. Wasser would have given L.C. credit for work done through her correspondence courses and this was discussed in September as a possible settlement at the emergent relief hearing.

At the conclusion of the testimony, the parties entered into certain stipulations which may be summarized as follows:

1. In November 1998, Dr. Cencora found that L.C. was suffering from stress and symptoms of irritable bowel syndrome.
2. The transcript from the School of Tomorrow indicating that L.C. had withdrawn in April 1998 is incorrect and was the result of a database error (P-32).
3. If J.C., the father of L.C. testified in this matter, he would have identified his resume (P-33) indicating that he is a teacher of high school and college classes. He was to testify that M.C., the mother of L.C., was the primary educator of L.C. and that his role is to enhance and focus on the math and sciences, do the computer work, do the web site work, assist L.C. with her study of sonar and its use in the finding of the Titanic, and to integrate school with technology. He also would have testified that L.C.'s book reports are required to be typed and that she used word processing for this. She uses the internet as part of her study of subject materials in biology, history and geography. She communicates through the internet with individuals in different countries as part of the curriculum utilized by the School of Tomorrow plus supplements. He would have testified that software is used that requires observation, note taking, deductive reasoning, and that involves problem solving in a group environment where a member is allowed to propose a solution, and that this group problem solving is done through the program and use of the internet.
4. J.C.'s testimony would have been that L.C. uses spreadsheets and other computer tools. As part of her volunteer work at the Raritan Bay Hospital, x-ray imaging was used, and this was used and studied by her at home as to how x-rays worked. U.S. News & World Report is utilized on a weekly basis through J.C. and M.C. and science and technology is brought into the curriculum. He would also have testified that L.C. belonged to various group activities as part of the home schooling experience including New Jersey State History and State Government Society. She has a Red Cross Child Care Certification which required that she take and pass certain courses. She takes an art appreciation class. She participates with other home schoolers in a sewing club. She participates with other home schoolers in a genealogy club, all being part of her experience of home schooling which is then included in the curriculum the parents are teaching. These latter were described by the attorney as supplemental to the curriculum.

5. It was stipulated that J.C. would have testified as to his credentials. He has a bachelor of science in physics and a minor in math with secondary education. He has a Certification from the State University of New York and he was a teacher in both public and private schools. He completed 28 credits of graduate work towards a masters degree in environmental science and engineering. His present work experience is that he is responsible to manage the portfolio of research and development projects in the area of nuclear energy, environment and ?. He is employed by an out of state public utility in research and development and advanced technology development. His work involves a broad spectrum of technology including advance computer systems, robotics, laser systems, photovoltaic and fuel cells, all of which are utilized with L.C. as supplements to the curriculum. He represents the public utility company on industry-related research committees and has presented research papers at various industry seminars and conferences.
6. It was stipulated that the foregoing would be testimony of J.C. and that it would not be contradicted by respondent.
7. It was stipulated that L.C.'s mother's additional testimony would have been to the effect that there were never any early warning tests offered to be administered to L.C. prior to her being at the emergent relief hearing on September 28, 1998.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

The parents of L.C. assert that she has successfully completed home schooling course work to the ninth grade level. The parents contend that they utilized approved testing methods and curriculum provided by the Living Heritage Academy which has been provisionally accredited. They contend that when they attempted to enroll L.C. in the Freehold Regional High School District and sought her placement at the newly established Colts Neck High School they submitted voluminous documentation to respondent to support their request, and the parents assert that respondent was arbitrary in determining that L.C. should be placed in ninth grade at Manalapan High School rather than in tenth grade at Colts Neck High School. The parents take the position that the school district failed to objectively evaluate or administer standardized testing to L.C. as required by law and in violation of the district policies with regard to transfer students.

They are seeking an objective evaluation and the administering of standardized testing to determine L.C.'s proper placement. She is being home-schooled at the present time.

The parents also requested that respondent place L.C. at the newly established Colts Neck High School for the reason that L.C. has not attended formal classes since second grade, and her attendance at a newly established high school having fewer students who are also new to the school would aid in her transition from home-schooling to a formal educational setting. The parents applied for a waiver permitting L.C. to attend Colts Neck High School in July 1998 and this request for a waiver was never acted on by respondent. They argued that other waivers have been granted and the line delineating the areas served by the two high schools is approximately one mile from their home. They indicated their willingness to transport L.C. the one mile to the nearest bus stop for Colts Neck High School if that is necessary, although they would prefer to have bus service provided by the school district from their home to Colts Neck High School.

With respect to evaluations of L.C.'s ninth garde course work conducted by respondent, petitioners argue that due process requires that an objective evaluation should have been done and that respondent should have advised petitioner what was evaluated. Petitioner relies upon a letter sent to the parents by the Department of Education on August 13, 1998, setting forth guidelines to deal with this situation which were sent to public school districts in 1997 (Exhibit P-1). During home schooling, L.C. attended regular educational sessions from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. All of this information was available but was never requested by respondent. The parents are seeking an objective educational evaluation of L.C.'s status and objective testing to determine her status. Finally, they are seeking her placement at Colts Neck High School.

Respondent's position is that it is responsible for students in the Regional High School District for grades 9 through 12, and that kindergarten through eighth grade students are educated in the local school districts. Because of this, respondent was not aware of L.C., nor was it responsible for L.C.'s education until she completed her eighth grade education, and it did not know of L.C.'s existence until July 1998. The school district takes the position that it is not contesting that L.C. has gotten an equivalent education and that it will welcome L.C. with open arms. However, it points out that the educators of the school district did evaluate the subject matter taught to L.C. at home (Exhibits R-1 through R-5) and that these evaluations were objective and were made by professional educators who have no reason to discriminate or be anything less than objective when assessing L.C.'s educational status. The evaluations show that with respect to L.C.'s algebra 1 materials (R-1 and R-5), they were somewhat lacking, the evaluator did not know how the material was corrected and evaluated and he did not have any scores on any standardized test. Nevertheless, he recommended that L.C. be placed in an algebra 2 freshman class conditionally, and that her progress be monitored for the first six weeks of school, and that within that time frame both L.C. and her teachers would be able to determine whether she should remain in algebra 2 or moved to algebra 1. The health educator reviewed the health curriculum and found it to be lacking with many components non-existent (R-2). The Social Studies Department Supervisor reviewed the materials with respect to world studies and he concluded that there are no activities which require analysis, interpretation or evaluation and no requirement for the development of critical thinking skills and analysis of cultural dynamics and change, and that the text and activities materials are deficient with regard to these proficiencies (R-3). The Science Supervisor found that the biology materials utilized by L.C. were either lacking in depth of coverage or missing in approximately 11 areas and they appeared not to be supported by laboratory exercises which required as part of the course (R-4 and R-5).

The position of the respondent is that if L.C. is enrolled and assigned to ninth grade classes, during the initial phase of her placement L.C. would be evaluated to determine if she has significant knowledge and ability and well as course proficiency which would require that her placement be changed to tenth grade courses.

The position of respondent with respect to petitioner's request for placement at the Colts Neck High School is that she resides in Manalapan and the students living in her neighborhood will be attending Manalapan High School. Waivers are granted for extraordinary reasons or for medical reasons, but not because a student would feel more comfortable attending one school rather than another.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-25 provides:

> Every parent, guardian or other person having custody and control of a child between the ages of six and 16 years shall cause such child regularly to attend the public schools of the district or a day school in which there is given instruction > equivalent to that provided in the public schools for children of similar grades and attainments or to receive equivalent instruction elsewhere than at school.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-31 contains the statutory provisions for enforcement of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-25 and provides:

> A parent, guardian or other person having charge and control of a child between the ages of 6 and 16 years, who shall fail to comply with any of the provisions of this article relating to his duties, shall be deemed to be a disorderly person and shall be subject to a fine of not more than $25.00 for a first offense and not more than $100.00 for each subsequent offense, in the discretion of the Court.

There have been two Court decisions dealing with and interpreting the foregoing statutory provisions. The first of these is State v. Vaughn, 44 N.J. 142 (1965). In that matter, defendants were parents who were convicted in municipal court as disorderly persons under N.J.S.A. 18:14-39 for failing to cause their child regularly to attend the public schools in violation of N.J.S.A. 18:14-14. The parents appealed this conviction to the county court which dismissed the appeal for failure to comply with certain procedural requirements. The matter was then appealed to the Appellate Division which reversed and, in so doing, directed the State to amend the complaint to reflect the statutory language, that is, to allege that the defendants failed to cause their child regularly to attend the public schools of the district or a day school or to receive equivalent instruction elsewhere than at school. The Supreme Court granted the State's petition for certification limited to the question whether the State must prove the latter two alternative provisions.

In ruling on this question, the Court observed that the primary requirement of the law is that the parent, guardian or other person with custody shall cause the child regularly to attend the public school. However, with respect to the optional alternatives of sending the child to a day school or causing the child to receive equivalent instruction elsewhere than at school, it is obvious that if the burden of proving a violation of either of the two alternatives rests upon the State, it would be saddled with a fairly impossible task, for it would be obligated to prove a negative proposition in circumstances in which the area of disproof is extremely wide. Accordingly, the Court indicated that as a matter of good sense it is both reasonable and necessary that these alternatives be matters of exception or excuse to be raised by the defendant who seeks on one basis or the other to justify the failure to cause the child to attend public school. The language of the statute lends itself to the view that the Legislature intended to permit the parent, guardian or other person having charge and control of the child to elect to substitute one of the alternatives for the primary duty, i.e., to cause the child to attend a public school. Accordingly, it is incumbent upon the defendant, if he should rely upon either of the exceptions, to introduce evidence in support of it, unless, of course, such evidence should appear in the State's case. More specifically, there must be introduced evidence from which it could be found that the child is receiving equivalent instruction elsewhere than at school.

The other case, State v. Massa, 95 N.J. Super. 382 (Morris County Ct. 1967), also dealt with a municipal court complaint in which the parents were charged with and convicted of failing to cause their daughter, age 12, regularly to attend the public schools of the district and further for failing to provide an equivalent education contrary to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18:14-14. The municipal court conviction was appealed to the county court which indicated that the sole issue is one of equivalency, that is whether the parents provided their daughter with an education equivalent to that provided by the local school district. The court indicated that the question before it is what does the word "equivalent" mean in the context of N.J.S.A. 18:14-14? The Court referred to Knox v. O'Brien, 7 N.J. Super. 608 (1950), in which the county court interpreted "equivalent" to include not only academic equivalency but also the equivalency of social development. The Court observed that if Knox were to be followed it would not be possible to have children educated outside of the school. It observed that the Legislature must have contemplated that a child could be educated alone, provided the education was equivalent to that of the public schools. The Court agreed with decisions that the number of students does not determine a school, and further that a certain number of students need not be present to attain an equivalent education. It also observed and the prosecutor stipulated that a child may be taught at home and that a person teaching at home is not required to be certified as a teacher by the State for the purpose of teaching their children. Had the Legislature intended such a requirement it would have so provided.

The Court ultimately held that the language of the New Jersey statute providing for "equivalent education elsewhere than at school", requires only a showing of academic equivalence. To hold that the statute requires equivalent social contact and development as well would emasculate this alternative and allow only group education, thereby eliminating private tutoring or home education.

The Court indicated that the only remaining question is whether the parents provided their daughter with an education equivalent to that available in the public schools. It observed that the majority of the testimony of the State's witnesses dealt with the lack of social development and that the other point pressed by the State was the mother's lack of teaching ability and techniques based upon her limited education and experience. However, the Court found this to be in opposite to the actual issue of equivalency under the New Jersey statute and the stipulation of the State. The Court was satisfied that the mother is self-educated and well-qualified to teach her daughter the basic subjects from grades one through eight. The remainder of the testimony of the State's witnesses dealt primarily with the child's deficiency in mathematics. The Court found that this alone, however, does not establish an educational program unequivalent to that in the public schools in the face of the evidence presented by the parents. It indicated that the parents presented a great deal of evidence to support their position, not the least of which was their daughter's test papers taken in the school district school after having been taught at home for two years. It observed that the results speak for themselves. As a result, the Court expressed an opinion that the daughter has received and is receiving an education equivalent to that available in the public schools and there is no indication of bad faith or improper motive on the part of the parents.

Based upon the foregoing court decisions, it is implicit in the language of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-35 that a home-schooled child is required to receive instruction equivalent to that provided by the school district. It may be argued that there should be a presumption that this is the case, since the failure of the parent or guardian to assure that the child has received equivalent instruction would be a violation of the law. Also implicit in this provision is that a home-schooled child who has received such equivalent instruction may transfer into the public schools of the State and be placed in classes appropriate to the level of instruction received by the child elsewhere than at school. To state this in another way, if the child has been receiving equivalent instruction at home in conformity with the statute, the placement decision should result in a grade placement equivalent to the level of instruction received by the child at home. If, on the other hand, the child has not received equivalent instruction in home schooling, there has been a violation of this provision. However, it should not be assumed that a parent guardian or other person who provides for home schooling of a child has violated the law, and at least for the purpose of making the initial placement decision, it is to be assumed that the child received equivalent instruction in the home school. Thus, when a school district is called upon to assess whether a child has received an education equivalent to that available in the public schools, it must and should assume the academic equivalence of home school courses, at least for the purpose of making the initial placement decision.

This view of home schooling would be consistent with the views set forth by the Commissioner of Education in his Order of December 3, 1998. In that Order he stated that when a child enters or returns to a public school following a period of homeschooling, that child is to be treated as would any other new or returning student from a private school or public school outside the district. The district should review and assess the child's educational status, through whatever means the district has established by policy or practice for such purposes, in order to determine the appropriate grade level placement for the child. There are no specific requirements as to precisely how this is to be done; no special privileges or burdens attach to the child's having been previously educated at home rather that at a private or other public school. The school district must simply make a reasonable discretionary judgment as to appropriate placement based on the information available to it, consistent with the district's own programs, policies and procedures. The term "evaluate" as found in the Department of Education publication Homeschooling in New Jersey at page 7, is used in the ordinary sense of the word, not in the highly prescriptive sense specifically ascribed to it in particular statutory or regulatory contexts such as the laws governing provision of special education.

The procedure which is followed by respondent when a student transfers from another school district, whether it is from within the State of New Jersey or from an out-of-state or foreign school district, was described by Dr. Fruchtman and Dr. Emerman. Dr. Fruchtman indicated that the Guidance office procedure, which is in the guidance books, is to review materials, the student's cumulative record, the student's grade history, attendance history and the student's standardized test results. Dr. Fruchtman indicated the either she or the guidance counselor interviews the student and parents, reviews the student's transcript of courses and grades from the student's former school, and assesses both from this interview and from a review of the student's transcript the academic equivalence of the student's past schooling. The guidance counselor also has the option of contacting the sending district for more information. The general procedure is to test and evaluate transfer students within 30 days of their enrollment. The focus is on where the student is in his or her grade level. Where they are would depend on what they took before. The student is then given credit for academically equivalent courses and the placement decision is made based upon the interview and the transcript of courses.

Where a home-schooled student is involved, the procedure should be the same. If it is presumed that the courses taken by the home-schooled student are academically equivalent to the courses offered by the school district, the student should be given credit for the passage of those courses for the limited purpose of initially determining the appropriate placement of the student. It is to be noted and acknowledged that this credit is to be given for purposes of the initial placement of the student only. During the student's initial placement the general procedure of testing and evaluating transfer students within 30 days of their enrollment would be implemented in order to determine where the student is in his or her grade level. The student is then given credit for the academically equivalent courses and the final placement decision is made based upon the interview, the transcript of courses and the testing and evaluation of the student during the initial placement period.

This procedure was supported by the testimony of one of petitioner's expert witnesses, Dr. Benedict J. Trigani, who indicated that there should have been a careful and objective evaluation of the achievement and skill levels of L.C., but this was not done. Such an assessment should include talking to L.C, getting samples of her writing, finding out how she feels, finding out how she can fit in and doing an assessment of what she has learned in the past. In L.C.'s case the minimum assessment should have been an assessment of standardized test scores, talking to L.C., and talking to the parents to find out what was done with their home schooling. He also indicated that the decision to retain a student can only be made after careful analysis. In his opinion, L.C. could cognitively handle eleventh grade, but she should be with children her age and this would be best. This procedure was also supported by the testimony of another of petitioner's expert witnesses, Dr. Patricia Montgomery, who indicated that transferring students are evaluated by reviewing their test scores, particularly standardized achievement tests, by interviewing the student, by reviewing a sample of the student's work and by looking at extracurricular work. If the student is not interviewed then it must be assumed that the program was fully learned. It is usually the guidance counselor who does the interview of the student. A guidance counselor is able to size up a student relatively quickly based on the maturity of the student. Otherwise if there is no interview, the guidance counselor only has a piece of the pie and not the whole pie. It is also suggested that the parents be interviewed although this is not required.

In the present matter, the parents of L.C. attempted to enroll her in the school district. They provided to Dr. Fruchtman as the Guidance Director, copies of all of the course work that was available to them with respect to L.C.'s home schooling. Admittedly, they only provided a copy of her grade transcript through April of her ninth grade school year, and it was not disputed that a transcript of her grades for her entire ninth grade school year was not submitted to the school district at that time. Dr. Fruchtman was also provided with copies of L.C.'s eighth and ninth grade CAT scores. In fact, as a result of her review of the CAT scores, Dr. Fruchtman concluded that L.C. did not need testing in basic skills and she did not need to attend a basic skills class. Dr. Fruchtman indicated that since there were no credits, clock hours and no dates, she concluded based upon her background in child psychology, that it would be in L.C.'s best interests, socially and emotionally, to be placed in ninth grade.

Subsequently, Dr. Fruchtman was directed by Mr. Wasser to evaluate L.C.'s course materials which had been previously provided by L.C.'s parents. She attempted to review these materials but indicated that she is a generalist and could not evaluate the specialized material provided by the parents. L.C.'s parents continued to insist that L.C. be placed in tenth grade and, as a result, Dr. Fruchtman asked Theresa Gray, the Principal of Manalapan High School, to help her reach a decision. Ms. Grey reviewed the materials provided by the parents, including the home school partial transcript, test data including CAT scores for eighth and ninth grade and a letter regarding the provisional accreditation of L.C.'s home school. She then arranged for the evaluations of the materials by department supervisors. This resulted in somewhat mixed evaluations by these department supervisors. In one case, the supervisor recommended that L.C. be placed in an Algebra 2 Freshman class, and that her progress be monitored for the first six weeks of school in order to determine if she should remain in Algebra 2 or be moved to Algebra 1. Another supervisor agreed with the first evaluation with respect to L.C.'s placement in Algebra 2. The balance of the evaluations indicated that the materials provided were deficient in many respects. However, in certain cases, the deficiencies related to areas which were either not covered by a ninth grade curriculum, such as driver education, and in other cases it was unclear what was being evaluated and whether a portion or all of the entire course of study was being reviewed. As a result of these reviews and evaluations of the course materials, L.C. was given a ninth grade schedule which was rejected by the parents

Based on the foregoing, it is clear in hindsight that the actions taken by respondent were not sufficient. While respondent undertook a review of certain of L.C.'s course materials, there was no attempt to review or even to obtain L.C.'s up-to-date cumulative record, no attempt to review L.C.'s grade history, no review of her attendance history and insufficient consideration of her standardized test scores. While Dr. Fruchtman interviewed the student and parents, she did not indicate that she properly considered the student's transcript of courses and grades from the student's former home school, and did not assess both from this interview and from a review of the student's transcript the academic equivalence of the student's past schooling. It was not presumed for purposes of L.C.'s initial placement that the courses taken by her as a home-schooled student were academically equivalent to the courses offered by the school district, and she was not given credit for those courses for the limited purpose of determining her appropriate initial placement. Respondent's Guidance office made no attempt to contact the home school for more information. Respondent refused to give L.C. credit for academically equivalent courses and refused to make an initial placement decision based upon the interview and the transcript of courses.

Based on the foregoing, I FIND that L.C. has not been treated as would any other new or returning student from a private school or public school outside the district. I FIND that the district has failed to properly review and assessed L.C.'s educational status, through whatever means the district has established by policy or practice for such purposes, in order to determine the appropriate grade level placement for L.C. I FIND that the school district has failed to make a reasonably discretionary judgment as to the appropriate placement of L.C. based on the information available to it consistent with its own programs, policies and procedures. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the respondent school district did not appropriately assess and place L.C.

I make the following findings and reach the following conclusion with respect to the parents request that respondent place L.C. at the newly established Colts Neck High School. They reason that because L.C. has not attended formal classes since second grade, her attendance at a newly established high school having fewer students who are also new to the school would aid in her transition from home-schooling to a formal educational setting. However, I FIND that this is an insufficient basis for changing the placement of L.C. The parents also applied for a waiver permitting L.C. to attend Colts Neck High School in July 1988 which was never acted on by respondent. They indicated their willingness to transport L.C. the one mile to the nearest bus stop for Colts Neck High School if that is necessary, although they would prefer to have bus service provided by the school district from their home to Colts Neck High School. However, L.C. resides in the Manalapan High School area and the students living in her neighborhood will be attending Manalapan High School. The line delineating the areas served by the two high schools is approximately one mile from their home. I agree that waivers should be granted for extraordinary reasons or for medical reasons, but not because a student would feel more comfortable attending one school rather than another, and I so FIND. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the actions of the school district in denying L.C.'s placement at Colts Neck High School is correct and should be AFFIRMED.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based upon the foregoing discussion, it is ORDERED that respondent shall treat L.C. as it would any other new or returning transfer student from a private school or public school outside of the respondent's school district. It is ORDERED that the district shall properly review and assess L.C.'s educational status through whatever means the district has established by policy or practice for such purposes applicable to a transfer student in order to determine the appropriate grade level placement for L.C. It is ORDERED that respondent shall make a reasonably discretionary judgment as to the appropriate placement of L.C. based on the information available to it consistent with its own programs, policies and procedures. For the purpose of L.C.'s initial placement, it is to presume that the courses taken by L.C. as a home-schooled student are academically equivalent to the courses offered by the school district and she shall be given credit for those courses for the limited purpose of determining her appropriate initial placement.

It is further ORDERED that respondent's denial of petitioner's request that L.C. be placed at the Colts Neck High School and that a waiver be granted for busing L.C. to Colts Neck High School is hereby AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

M.C., on behalf of minor child, L.C.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE FREEHOLD REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply exceptions were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein. [1]

Petitioner's exceptions are limited to, and essentially reiterate the arguments advanced below in support of, her contention that L.C. be permitted to attend Colts Neck High School via the waiver process. In its reply exceptions, the Board contends that petitioner and the Board have reached a voluntary agreement that L.C. will attend Freehold Boro High School and that petitioner's exceptions are therefore moot.

[1] Along with her exceptions, petitioner submitted a Pyschology Report from Benedict J. Trigani, Ph.D., dated November 15, 1999, and a letter from Michael J. Tirpak, Ph.D., dated November 16, 1999. Attached to the Board's reply exceptions were two letters, both dated November 17, 1999 and designated as "Exhibits A & B." These additional documents submitted by petitioner and the Board were not before the ALJ and not previously made a part of the record. In accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(c), these additional submissions were therefore not considered by the Commissioner in rendering his decision. Further, N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 does not provide for submissions other than exceptions and replies. Accordingly, petitioner's submission, filed on December 9, 1999, and the Board's submission, filed on December 13, 1999, were not considered.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Initial Decision, with clarification. Initially, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that it is implicit in the language of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-25 that a home-schooled child is required to receive instruction equivalent to that provided by the public schools. (Initial Decision at 34) The Commissioner also concurs that, when a child has been lawfully home schooled, a district should place the child for initial purposes at the level represented by the parents as being the level of instruction received by the child at home. (Id.)

In his analysis, the ALJ found the District's actions insufficient in that "there was no attempt to review or even obtain L.C.'s up-to-date cumulative record, no attempt to review L.C.'s grade history, no review of her attendance history and insufficient consideration of her standardized test scores." (Id. at 38) The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ's finding that the actions taken by the District were deficient, but for different reasons. The Commissioner finds the actions taken by the District were insufficient because the District did not, upon L.C.'s parents' representation that L.C. had been provided with a ninth-grade curriculum at home, place L.C. in accordance with that level and determine thereafter, based on L.C.'s demonstrated level of academic achievement with respect to the District's specific course proficiencies, if the initial placement was, in fact, appropriate. [2] Instead, prior to placing L.C., the District conducted an in-depth review of L.C.'s course materials in an effort to determine whether her home-school curriculum was equivalent to the District's curriculum. Put another way, the District's assessment should not have occurred prior to L.C.'s initial placement, and should not have focused on the equivalency of L.C.'s home-school instruction to the specific curriculum taught by the district; rather, such assessment should have occurred after preliminary review of, and initial placement in accordance with the representation of L.C.'s parents as to the grade level of her instruction, and focused on L.C.'s level of proficiency within the context of the District's instructional program so that an adjustment could then be made if necessary.[3]

Accordingly, the District is directed, should L.C. wish to return to Manalapan High School rather than continue at Freehold Boro High School as previously agreed to by the parties, to place L.C. in the eleventh (11^{th}) grade and expeditiously assess her course proficiencies through the mechanisms established by the District for such assessments.

Like the ALJ, the Commissioner finds that the Board's denial of petitioner's request that L.C. be placed at Colts Neck High School was within its lawful authority and was not arbitrary, unreasonable or taken in bad faith.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein, as clarified above.[4]

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

[3] The Commissioner stresses that initial placement is not to be solely based upon a student's age, as an age-appropriate initial placement may not be warranted based upon the grade level of instruction provided at home.

[4]This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination in the instant matter, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.1 et seq., within 30 days of its filing. Commissioner's decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE REVOCATION OF	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
THE TEACHING CERTIFICATES OF M.S.	:	DECISION
BY THE STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS.	:

Decided by the State Board of Examiners, June 15, 2000

For the Respondent-Appellant, Wills, O'Neill & Mellk (Arnold M. Mellk, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Peter D. Alvino, Deputy Attorney General (John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of New Jersey)

On June 15, 2000, the State Board of Examiners revoked the teaching certificates of M.S. (hereinafter "respondent"), a tenured teaching staff member, for unbecoming conduct. The Board of Examiners adopted the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge, agreeing that the charge of improper sexual conduct had been proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence and that the respondent's conduct was so egregious as to warrant revocation of her certificates.

After a thorough review of the record, we affirm the decision of the State Board of Examiners substantially for the reasons expressed therein. In so doing, we have carefully reviewed the audio tape made by A.E., a former student in the district, exhibit P-1, in evidence, rather than simply relying on the transcript of that tape. Moreover, we agree that the testimony clearly establishes that the voice on the tape is that of the respondent. Both the Superintendent of Schools and the Director of Special Services, who directly supervised the respondent, identified the respondent's voice on the tape. Tr. 10/6/99, at 92, 94. Although it is difficult to establish on the basis of that tape whether the respondent, as alleged by A.E., grabbed his genitals and displayed her breasts to him during the course of their conversation, we conclude that the sexual nature of the exchange–in which the respondent was an active and willing participant–in addition to the ample evidence in the record, fully support the Board of Examiners' determination that the charges of improper sexual conduct had been proven and that the appropriate sanction under the circumstances is the revocation of the respondent's teaching certificates. We agree that the respondent's conduct was so egregious as to warrant precluding her from serving as a teacher in any school district in this state.

Consequently, we affirm the decision of the State Board of Examiners substantially for the reasons expressed therein.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board challenged the determination of the Department that it was legally responsible for educating K.O., a child placed in an out-of-state facility by a State agency, for the 1997-98 school year.

The ALJ concluded that The Board had presented credible testimony to overcome the presumption that the address provided to the Department by DYFS for D.O., the mother of K.O., was correct, and concluded that the Board was not the responsible district for K.O.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ, holding that the presumption that information provided the Department by other State agencies for purposes of determining the district of residence of students is correct may be rebutted by credible evidence or testimony. The Commissioner agreed with the ALJ that the presumption of validity of the DYFS records in this case had been rebutted by the Board.

BEFORE: KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal by a regional high-school district from the assessment of tuition costs for placement of a child in an out-of-state facility for the 1997-98 academic year. Under the State Facilities Planning Act of 1979, N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-1 to –13, the "district of residence" is responsible for the education of a child placed in an out-of-state facility by a state agency. New Jersey Department of Education ("Department") contends that the Morris Hills Regional School District ("Morris Hills") is obligated for tuition costs as "the present district of residence of the parent or guardian with whom the child lived prior to his most recent admission to a State facility or his most recent placement by a State agency." N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(b). Morris Hills, however, maintains that the parent did not reside within its constituent municipalities on the date that the Division of Youth & Family Services ("DYFS") placed the child in an out-of-state facility. The dispositive issue is whether the mother was residing in the Borough of Wharton on August 12, 1997.

Procedural History

By letter dated September 8, 1997, the Department's Office of School Finance notified petitioner of its determination that Morris Hills is responsible for the educational costs of a child who was placed by DYFS at Kidspeace in Orefield, Pennsylvania on August 12, 1997. Further, the letter determined that the mother "was a resident at 86 Ford Avenue, Wharton, New Jersey as of the date of placement." On September 22, 1997, Morris Hills sought intermediate review by an Assistant Commissioner. Thereafter, on October 1, 1997, the Assistant Commissioner upheld the original determination, but modified the findings to reflect that the mother's correct address at time of placement "was 107 East Central Avenue, Wharton, New Jersey." Morris Hills filed an appeal to the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") on December 24, 1997.

Subsequently, on March 16, 1998, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case. The OAL held a hearing on September 21, 1999. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the appendix. Both parties filed post-hearing briefs on November 17, 1999.

Many of the background facts are uncontested. K.O was sixteen years old when DYFS placed him at a facility operated by Kidspeace in Orefield, Pennsylvania on August 12, 1997. While details are sketchy, K.O. had a chaotic and unstable upbringing. According to DYFS worker David Johnson, K.O.'s mother D.O. "was in and out of the picture" and "three or four caseworkers had dealt with him." Johnson took over management of K.O.'s case in April 1997, when the prior worker retired. He was the worker at the time of K.O.'s placement at Kidspeace. At one point, D.O. confided to Johnson that "she wanted to wash her hands of her son" and that "she wishes he [were] eighteen." Darlene Thrower, K.O.'s maternal aunt, commented that her sister "doesn't care about anything but herself" and felt sorry for her nephew. K.O. left New Jersey soon after turning eighteen in June 1999 and is no longer under the care of DYFS.

Both parties agree that D.O. had previously lived in the Town of Dover, New Jersey. A 1996 federal income tax return and assorted rent receipts covering the period January 1996 to April 1997 show her address as 133 West Clinton Street in Dover. Her sister Darlene Thrower confirmed that during the first half of 1997 D.O. lived in Dover, first with a friend at 1 Bowlby Street and later with her adult daughter in an apartment at 133 West Clinton Street. Likewise, DYFS records indicate that D.O. had lived in Dover in early 1997. Johnson advised the Department that "the natural mother resided in Dover, New Jersey until the end of June 1997" when "the home in which she rented an apartment was sold to an individual family." Reportedly, in September 1997, D.O. told David Young, an attendance officer employed by the Wharton public school system, that, "she has not had a permanent residence since she moved from 1 Bowlby Street in Dover."

Morris Hills is a regional high-school district comprised of the municipalities of Wharton, Denville, Rockaway Borough and Rockaway Township. For purposes of school funding, therefore, it is necessary to ascertain whether D.O. lived in Wharton, or any of the other constituent municipalities, on the date of her son's placement at Kidspeace. Proof that D.O. resided in Wharton on August 12, 1997 consists largely of unsubstantiated hearsay-on-hearsay. Johnson testified that, in July 1997, he spoke to DYFS worker named Dara Sugarman, who had supposedly heard from K.O. that his mother was then living with his aunt in Wharton. Clearly this information was based third-hand knowledge of what one DYFS worker said another DYFS worker said the child had said. There is no evidence that K.O. himself ever lived in Wharton or had personal knowledge of his mother's living arrangements at the time.

Similarly, Johnson had a telephone conversation on August 4, 1997 with D.O., who claimed to be living with her sister at 107 East Central Avenue in Wharton. Again, this information is rank hearsay, which does not fall under any recognized exception to the hearsay rule.[1] Moreover, the source of this information is notoriously untrustworthy, since surrounding evidence strongly suggests that D.O. was trying to hide her true whereabouts from the authorities. Johnson himself appears to have disbelieved her claim. Usually, when Johnson needed to get in touch with D.O., he would telephone Delores Thrower, who had her sister's pager number and would relay the message. On August 18, 1997, he wrote to the Department that DYFS "is funding tuition for KIDSPEACE for thirty days, since a residence determination could not be made at the time the child was admitted to the placement." That letter, of course, is dated after Johnson's telephone conversation with D.O. Nothing has substantially changed since that letter was written.

[1] No suitable hearsay exception has been invoked. The contents of this statement cannot come in as a statement against interest under N.J.R.E. 803(c)(25), since it is not against the declarant's pecuniary, proprietary or social interest to live in Wharton. Nor is it admissible as an admission by a party-opponent under N.J.R.E. 802(b), since the mother is not a party to this litigation between a school district and the State.

Only two weak pieces of evidence tend to support the theory that D.O. resided in Wharton. First, D.O. happened to be at her sister's house on August 4, 1997, when Johnson was able to reach her there by telephone. Naturally, it is not unusual that D.O. might be visiting her sister, especially since at that time D.O. was working at a nearby diner. Second, the attendance officer from Wharton interviewed D.O. at the sister's house on September 14, 1997. Nevertheless, the attendance officer accepted D.O.'s explanation that she uses her sister's address as a mail drop for important documents relating to her son, but "was staying with her friend in Dover" and expected to be "moving soon." He wrote in his report to the Wharton School District that, "it seems that [D.O.] is seldom available for immediate consultation due to the fact that she is not living at a permanent location."

Competent credible evidence indicates that D.O. did not reside in Wharton in August 1997. Darlene Thrower testified under oath that she and her husband occupy the house at 107 East Central Avenue in Wharton and that her sister does not, and did not, live there. Occasionally D.O. would stay overnight when she worked late at the diner or baby-sat the Throwers' children, but this only occurred "an average of one night per month. Unwilling to assume responsibility as K.O.'s legal guardian, Thrower consented to act as go-between with her sister for the benefit of her nephew. Summing up the extent of her involvement, Thrower explained that she agreed to help because her sister "could never be found" and she "felt bad for the kid."

When D.O. was living in Dover in 1997, she "often gave out [Thrower's] address in Wharton because she didn't want anyone to know where she was." Although D.O. stored some papers and two winter coats at the Thrower residence, she kept her day-to-day belongings elsewhere. When Johnson paid a visit to her home on August 5, 1997, Thrower invited him in and offered to let him search "from room to room." Inexplicably, however, Johnson declined the opportunity to look for evidence that D.O. lived there. Consequently, he is unable to contradict Thrower's testimony that D.O.'s property was not on the premises.

Accounts differ on whether Thrower was aware that D.O. had made an appointment to meet Johnson at her house. Thrower insisted that Johnson's visit was "unannounced" and she "had no clue he was coming." Johnson had the impression that Thrower had been expecting his visit and was not surprised when he came. They both agree, however, that D.O. never showed up for the meeting. Significantly, Johnson acknowledged that he never encountered D.O. at the Thrower home.

Statements by Thrower and her sister during their interview with the Wharton attendance officer on September 14, 1997 are fully consistent with Thrower's version at the hearing. Thrower signed a written statement attesting that her sister "is not living at my address 107 E. Central Ave. in Wharton," but rather "stays in Dover and in Parsippany with friends and has no permanent address." D.O. corroborated that she has "no permanent address at this time" and "lives with a friend in Dover," spending only "a few nights" at Thrower's home to baby-sit her sister's children. Thrower continued to insist that D.O. was not living with her in response to additional inquiries by the local police chief and a Morris Hills security guard. Insofar as Thrower knows, D.O. went to live with her boyfriend in Parsippany in June 1997, moved to Florida for an indeterminate time, and later returned to Parsippany.

No apparent motive exists for Thrower to be untruthful. She receives no known gain if Morris Hills wins this appeal and suffers no known loss if Morris Hills loses. While the Deputy Attorney General urges that Thrower was tired of constantly being asked questions about her sister, such minor annoyance is hardly a reason to lie under oath. Cognizant of being under intense scrutiny by state authorities, school officials and the police, Thrower is unlikely to risk making demonstrably false statements.

In contrast, the DYFS records are plainly inconclusive. Originally, DYFS notified the Department that D.O. lived with her sister at 86 Ford Avenue, although it now concedes that in August 1997 Thrower had not lived at that address for at least six years. A typewritten entry in a residency form, approved by DYFS supervisor John Moore, recites that D.O. has "no permanent address" and is "staying with friends." Insertions made by someone with the initials "K.G." excised that entry and substituted the handwritten address of 86 Ford Avenue in Wharton.[2] Then that second address was also crossed out by K.G. and replaced by the handwritten address of 107 East Central Avenue. Johnson played no part in the preparation of this particular document, even though he was the worker assigned to the case.

I FIND that D.O. did not reside in Wharton on August 12, 1997. Sworn testimony by Darlene Thrower convincingly establishes that D.O. was not living with her. DYFS records are inaccurate and poorly supported by competent evidence. Most of DYFS's conclusions regarding residency depend on hearsay. Unsubstantiated statements attributed to D.O. are not entitled to much weight, in light of her history of unreliable and irresponsible behavior.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that Morris Hills Regional School District is not the "district of residence" within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12.

N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12 prescribes the method for determining "district of residence" for school funding purposes of certain children who are not residing with their parent or guardian. Subsection (a) provides that the district of residence for children in foster homes "shall be the district in which the foster parents reside." Subsection (b), applicable here, specifies that the district of residence for children who have been placed by a state agency in group homes, private schools or out-of-state facilities "shall be the present district of residence of the parent or guardian with whom the child lived prior to his most recent admission to a State facility or most recent placement by a State agency." Subsection (c) adds that the district of residence for children whose parent or guardian temporarily moves from one school district to another as a result of becoming homeless "shall be the district in which the parent or guardian last resided prior to becoming homeless." Lastly, subsection (d) creates a catch-all category where the district of residence cannot be determined according to the foregoing criteria, in which case "the State shall assume fiscal responsibility for the tuition of the child."

Regulations adopted by the Department clarify the method of determining district of residence. In particular, N.J.A.C. 6:20-5.3(b) directs the Commissioner to determine residency "based upon the address submitted by the Department of Corrections or the Department of Human Services on forms prepared by the Department of Education." The Deputy argues that the Commissioner must accept the address given in the DYFS records unless Morris Hills can prove that it is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable to do so. As support for this proposition, the Deputy cites State Operated Sch. Dist. of Newark v. State Dep't of Educ., EDU 1370-98, Initial Decision (Jan 29, 1999), adopted, Comm'r (March 22, 1999) http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html. Commenting that petitioner had produced no documentary or testimonial evidence in support of its claim, the Commissioner considered it reasonable under those circumstances for the Department to rely on the address contained in the DYFS records. Morris Hills, however, objects that an arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable standard is overly rigid and would bestow a presumption of absolute validity on any information obtained from DYFS.

Certainly it is appropriate for the Department to confer an initial presumption of validity on information set forth in the official records of other New Jersey agencies. It does not follow, however, that such information is binding on the Department, even when, as in our case, that other state agency acted totally in good faith. Where a school district is able to demonstrate that such information is derived from unreliable sources, a mechanism must be created for correction of false data. Generally in administrative proceedings, findings of fact cannot be based on hearsay alone. Some legally competent evidence must exist to support each ultimate finding of fact. N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(b). Weston v. State, 60 N.J. 36 (1972). Any presumption in favor of the regularity of official state records is rebuttable and can be overcome by the production of countervailing evidence. Div. of Motor Vehicles v. Granziel, 236 N.J. Super. 191, 205 (App. Div. 1989).

Unlike the Newark case, Morris Hills introduced strong evidence sufficient to destroy the probative force of any presumption. From the proofs presented at the hearing, Morris Hills has carried its burden of showing that D.O. did not reside in Wharton at the relevant time.

Order

It is ORDERED that the Morris Hills Regional School District is not financially liable for the education cost relating to the placement of K.O. at Greenpeace for the 1997-1998 academic year.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION O F MORRIS HILLS REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MORRIS COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, DIVISION OF SCHOOL FINANCE,	:	DECISION

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent Department of Education's (Department) exceptions and petitioner's (Board) reply exceptions were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

The Department urges that the Initial Decision should be set aside by the Commissioner because there was a reasonable basis for the Department's decision that the Board is the district responsible for K.O.'s tuition. With respect to this, the Department cites State-operated School District of Newark, supra, at 12 and restates its argument that the standard of review in district of residence cases is whether the Department's determination was "arbitrary and capricious, or without reasonable basis." The Department further urges that in the present case, its decision that the Board is the responsible district for K.O. had a reasonable basis and was not arbitrary and capricious, and that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred when finding to the contrary.

The Department next argues that the DYFS records in this case indicated that K.O.'s mother, D.O., resided in the District on the date of the child's placement in Kidspeace, which it avers is dispositive, given the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:20–5.3(b) which DYFS followed when it submitted, on August 18, 1997, the Department's "District of Residence Determination for a Child Placed in a Group Home, Private School, or an Out-of State Facility" form and listed D.O.'s present address as 107 E. Central Avenue in Wharton, one of the Board's constituent districts. (Department's Exceptions at 3, citing R-2 in evidence) The Department further argues that there was additional evidence which supports its decision because it demonstrates that D.O. lived with her sister at or around the time of her son's placement in Kidspeace; e.g., D.O.'s receipt of phone calls and mail at her sister's home, storage of personal property there and physical presence at the address when she was contacted by phone by the DYFS social worker on August 4, 1997 and when interviewed by the District's attendance officer on September 14, 1997. (Id. at 4)

Furthermore, the Department asserts that the ALJ's conclusion that D.O. did not live with her sister was based principally on the testimony of that sister, Darlene Thrower. As to this, the Department initially avers that it is unclear that the ALJ needed to even reach to Thrower's testimony, given that DYFS had complied with N.J.A.C. 6:20–5.3(b). (Ibid.) The Department further avers the ALJ's analysis of Thrower's credibility is questionable, in particular the ALJ's conclusion that, "[n]o apparent motive exists for Thrower to be untruthful. She receives no known gain if Morris Hills wins this appeal and suffers no known loss if Morris Hills loses." (Initial Decision at 6) The Department argues that Thrower can hardly be characterized as an impartial witness in this case, given her testimony at the hearing that she was employed by the District. (Department's Exceptions at 5)

Initially, the Board avers that the mere existence of documents, as envisioned by N.J.A.C. 6:20-5.3(b), does not create an irrebuttable presumption that those documents are, in fact, correct and without question and it urges that, if this were true, there would be no need for an appeal mechanism. As to the actual documents in the instant matter, the Board argues that the Department "ignores the unequivocal fact that there were two different documents in K.O.'s file (Exhibits R-2 and R-3) which reflect differing addresses for D.O." (Board's Reply Exceptions at 2) Moreover, the Board maintains that the evidence in the matter established that the information contained in R-2 was apparently derived through several layers of hearsay before reaching the printed page and David Johnson, the DYFS worker, testified that while document R-3 was a DYFS record, he did not know where it came from; nor did he know the circumstances under which R-3 had been created or changed. (Ibid.) The Board further argues that:

> The mere existence of documents is not enough. Their contents must be verified, or disputed. The Board has clearly disputed, and disproven, the contents of the DYFS records.
>
> In establishing the residence of D.O., the Board presented the most concrete evidence that could be offered: the testimony of Darlene Thrower, the sister with whom D.O. allegedly lived. No one was in a better position to testify as to the residents of her home than Ms. Thrower. Ms. Thrower's testimony was straightforward and sincere.
>
> On pages four and five of the State's Exceptions, the State characterized [the ALJ]'s analysis of Ms. Thrower's credibility as "questionable." In support of that assertion, the State proclaims that "Thrower testified at the hearing that she was employed by the District." This representation is incorrect. During the hearing, Ms. Thrower testified that she started working with the Wharton Board of Education in October 1998. The Wharton Board of Education serves the elementary school students of Wharton. The Township of Wharton is a constituent district of the Morris Hills Regional School District Board of Education, which serves high school students. The Wharton Board of Education is not the same > as the Petitioner Board. [The ALJ] correctly determined that Ms. Thrower had no reason to be untruthful. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 2-3)

Upon review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner agrees with and adopts as his own the findings and conclusions of the ALJ that Morris Hills Regional School District was not, within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12, the district of residence for K.O. for the 1997-98 school year. A review of the record convinces that Commissioner that the ALJ is correct in concluding that:

> [I]t is appropriate for the Department to confer an initial presumption of validity on information set forth in the official records of other New Jersey agencies. It does not follow, however, that such information is binding on the Department, even when, as in our case, that other state agency acted totally in good faith. Where a school district is able to demonstrate that such information is derived from unreliable sources, a mechanism must be created for correction of false data. Any presumption in favor of the regularity of official state records is rebuttable and can be overcome by the production of countervailing evidence.
> Unlike the [State-operated School District of Newark] case, Morris Hills introduced strong evidence sufficient to destroy the probative force of any presumption. From the proofs presented at the hearing, Morris Hills has carried its burden of showing that D.O. did not reside in Wharton at the relevant time. (Initial Decision at 8-9).

See also Board of Education of Lower Camden County Regional School District No.1 v. State of New Jersey, Department of Education, Division of School Finance, decided by the Commissioner, August 13, 1999, wherein the ALJ concludes, at page 15 of the Initial Decision, that while the information provided to the Department by other state agencies pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:2-5.3(b) carries a presumption of correctness, that presumption is rebuttable. This means that the party challenging the presumption must produce enough evidence to support a finding of its nonexistence; i.e., once evidence tending to rebut the presumption is introduced, the presumption of correctness loses its force.

The ALJ in the instant matter has correctly concluded that the Morris Hills Regional Board has borne its burden of rebuttal by showing the lack of accuracy/sufficiency of the information provided by DYFS upon which the Department relied to make its district of residence determination, specifically that the DYFS records in this case have been proven to be inaccurate and not supported by competent evidence. Moreover, the Commissioner finds meritless the Department's exceptions impugning the ALJ's credibility determination with respect to Ms. Thrower.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision, it is found and determined that the Board of Education of the Morris Hills Regional School District has born its burden of proof in this matter. Therefore, it is ordered that the Morris Hills Regional Board is not financially responsible for the education costs relating to the placement of K.O. for the 1997-98 school year.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning vice principal alleged the Board improperly dismissed her.

The ALJ found that when petitioner applied for positions of vice principal in respondent's District, and throughout her employment there, she did not possess a valid principal certificate and her submission of an application and resume stating that she held a "Supervisor/Principal" certificate constituted a knowing, material misrepresentation of fact to the Board. Citing N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2 and N.J.S.A. 18A:27-2, the ALJ determined that petitioner's employment contract was void ab initio and, accordingly, tenure rights never attached. The ALJ found nothing in the record to support petitioner's contention that she was dismissed in retaliation for her cooperation with a Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office investigation or that the Board had a policy, created by past practice, of permitting various employees to obtain certifications while holding jobs that required those particular certifications. The petition was dismissed.

The Commissioner affirmed the Initial Decision for the reasons expressed therein and ordered that any employment relationship between petitioner and the Board be dissolved effective April 27, 1998, the date upon which the Board received notification from the County Office that petitioner had been assigned to the position of vice principal without the appropriate principal certification.

Record Closed: November 4, 1999 Decided: December 17, 1999

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

This matter was transferred to the Commissioner of Education by the Superior Court, Chancery Division, Monmouth County, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, by order dated September 28, 1998, in which Counts 5 and 6 of a verified complaint were severed because deemed to arise under the school laws.

The matter being joined, the Commissioner transmitted it to the Office of Administrative Law for disposition. N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13.

The petitioner alleges she was terminated in retaliation for her cooperation with the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office and the Grand Jury. She also alleges that no one in the District's administration mentioned her receipt, or not, of principal certification until she cooperated with the Monmouth County Prosecutor. Further, the District has a policy, created by past practice, of "allowing various employees to obtain their certification." Amended complaint, ¶12.

The petitioner demands reinstatement with back pay and all emoluments, and various damages.

The Board generally denies the allegations, says the petitioner no longer has either a contract or tenure by operation of law, asserts a qualified immunity because it took certain actions at the direction of the Monmouth County Superintendent of Schools, and says the petitioner has not stated a cause of action.

PAROL AND DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE

Hearing commenced on June 3, 1999. The petitioner suffered a sudden illness and was excused. Counsel were able to put certain stipulations into the record:

1. On June 28, 1993, Patricia Desmond made application for the position of vice principal, as indicated in documents R-1, R-2, R-3 and P-17.

2. The resume is submitted for Patricia Desmond, as appended to her application letter, which is document R-2.

3. On July 19, 1993, Patricia Desmond was interviewed for the vice principal position. Present at the interview were Ms. Desmond, Dr. Mundy, Superintendent of Schools; Judy Smith, District Supervisor; Mr. Roettinger, Vice Principal; Mr. Enoch Peters, Principal; Dr. Antonio Lewis, Principal; and Dr. Robert Mann, Assistant Superintendent.

4. On July 23, 1993, there is a letter from Dr. Mundy confirming acceptance for the position of vice principal of the Middle School. It is signed by Patricia Desmond and dated July 24, 1993.

5. The starting salary and the appointment to the position are stipulated in items R-6 and R-7.

6. At no time prior to her application for the position or to the present, has Ms. Desmond had her principal certification.

7. Ms. Desmond did present to the District her certificates and also presented to the County Superintendent her certificates, which included supervisor of instruction, reading specialist, teacher of reading and teacher of English, as noted in document P-18.

8. Patricia Desmond served as vice principal for the Middle School from August, 1993 through July, 1994, as in documents R-8 and R-9 and has received numerous performance appraisals.

9. Patricia Desmond served as vice principal for the High School from on or about July, 1994 to the current present time, as indicated in documents P-24, which includes eight appraisals in this position.

10. Patricia Desmond's salary history with the District includes the following:
From 1993 to 1994, $62,726.00
From 1994 to 1995, $70,677.00
From 1995 to 1996, $72,222.00
From 1996 to 1997, $75,097.00
From 1997 to 1998, $77,977.00

Testimony began on the second day of hearing, July 14, 1999.

Patricia A. Desmond

The petitioner testified that she became aware of administrative positions in Asbury Park in or about June 1993. She responded to advertisements for a vice principal at the middle school and a vice principal at the high school. She sent her resume for each.

Desmond identified two job postings (R-1, R-3). She sent a cover letter and the resume she was then using for each position. The cover letter is exhibit R-2.

The witness interviewed for both positions. She appeared before an interview committee in July 1993. The posting for the high school vice principal asked for an administrator or supervisor certificate. The witness believed she had no certificate problem.

The level 1 interview committee was made up of approximately five persons. The second level interview was conducted by Dr. James Mundy, Superintendent. The interviews centered on her experience. Certificates were not reviewed. Desmond did not yet have a doctorate and did not yet have a principal certificate. During her discussions with the superintendent, Desmond stated she was still in school and still working toward a principal certificate. The superintendent did not tell her that she had to have principal certification. The superintendent did say that she had done so well in the interview he was offering her choice of the high school position or the middle school position. She chose the middle school position.

Desmond had to complete the application and eventually did (R-5). She received a letter offer from the superintendent (R-4) and endorsed it on July 24, 1993. She completed exhibit R-5 after returning R-4.

The application for administrative position that Desmond filled out asked on the first page for the exact title of New Jersey certificates held. The witness wrote in the appropriate space, "K-12 Reading Teacher; Supervisor/Principal; Reading Specialist; English Teacher."

On the second page of R-5, Desmond states she has completed seventy-two credits toward her Ed.D. at Columbia University. On the last page of the application, Desmond indicated the seventy-two hours she had earned beyond her last degree and stated that she was transferring to Seton Hall University in the spring of 1994 and that she was enrolled in the Administration and Supervision curriculum. The last questions are, "If you are not fully certified, are you enrolled in an approved program?" and "Where?" The witness answered yes to the first question and Seton Hall University – spring '94 to the second question.

Desmond stated she told the superintendent what certificates she held and what her educational status was. She was hired as vice principal for curriculum and instruction at the middle school. Exhibit R-6 is an excerpt from Board minutes approving the appointment and Exhibit R-7 is correspondence from the superintendent to Desmond informing her that the appointment had been made.

Desmond stated she saw a copy of the job description for the first time on or about August 7, 1993 (P-25). The witness stated she performed other duties as well, including Middle States Accreditation service, college interviews and mid-year assessment tests. Approximately half of her duties were curriculum and instruction related and half involved supervising teachers. She was evaluated by Antonio Lewis (R-8, R-9). She spent one year at the middle school and there was no mention of certificates made to her. She filed the certificates she held with the County Superintendent.

Exhibits 18a, b, c and d are Desmond's certificates: Teacher of English, Teacher of Reading, Reading Specialist and Supervisor. Desmond stated she never held a principal certificate. At the time of hearing, she was still working toward her doctorate and stated she still had to earn eighteen credits.

As a result of Principal Lewis's May 31, 1994 evaluation (R-9), Desmond went to see the superintendent. She stated she "clashed" with Lewis and asked for a transfer to the high school. Desmond stated that she was moved to a vacancy at the high school, there was no posting for the job and there were no further certificate discussions. Desmond met with Superintendent Mundy and Principal Murphy during the summer. They discussed job requirements. There were two vice principals at the high school, one for curriculum and instruction and one who dealt with discipline and attendance. The witness filled the curriculum and instruction position. Approximately half her time was involved in teacher supervision. She also performed other tasks, including arrangement and scheduling of assembly programs.

Desmond provided references and reference letters. Reference checks were done by the District. Exhibits R-1 through R-5 were in Desmond's file and she stated she "eventually" saw them. Desmond assumes that former superiors knew her certifications. She was never disciplined and her evaluations generally were good. Desmond stated her present problems began on October 27, 1997.

Desmond introduced testimony and documents surrounding her requests to attend classes at Seton Hall University. She also stated she received a letter dated May 10, 1996 from the superintendent (P-16) advising that the Board would be discussing her tenure appointment on Monday, May 13 and that she had the right to be present, she had the right to have the matter discussed in public and she had the opportunity to address the Board. Desmond stated she discussed the letter, but could not recall with whom. The certificates had not changed. Shortly after May 13, Mundy advised her that the Board voted to give her tenure. Desmond stated she sent her graduate transcripts to the County Superintendent, but could not recall when. Prior to 1997, no administrator had discussed with her certifications, the State report of certifications or the need to get certifications. An assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction and the assistant superintendent's secretary would be in charge of certification matters. Robert Mann, then assistant superintendent with those responsibilities, said nothing to the witness prior to November 1997. No administrator ever told Desmond to complete her certification work before November 1997.

Desmond stated she was aware of persons in the District who did not hold appropriate certificates: the athletic director, the Department supervisor for special education and "a couple of other people." Desmond testified that arrangements were made for them. They were allowed to go back to school and complete the work they needed. An administrative assistant, Milton Parker, functioned as a vice principal in an elementary school but did not hold a certification as a principal. The District creating acting supervisor positions, including one for special education.

In November 1997, the District came under the close scrutiny of the State Department of Education. According to Desmond, she was assigned to work with a city public relations person to develop a performing arts curriculum. The public relations person, Charles Rouse, Jr., took her work and passed it off as his own. He received $8,000 for the work. Desmond stated she reported this to authorities. Then, the assistant superintendent stated that she could not hold her position because she did not have a principal certificate. This, Desmond says, is clear retaliation.

Desmond identified a memorandum she wrote to the superintendent on November 26, 1997. The subject was "artists in residence" program/nonresponse of Mr. Chico Rouse (P-28). Exhibit 29 is a follow-up memorandum she wrote on the same subject to the Board and administration. Exhibit P-30 is an affidavit of a Monmouth County Assistant Prosecutor concerning January 1998 complaints issued for the arrest of Charles A. Rouse, Jr. (Chico Rouse). The affidavit also states that Rouse was arrested as a result of an ongoing investigation, that the Grand Jury heard testimony on November 24, 1997 and January 5, 12 and 26, 1998 concerning Rouse, that detectives from the Prosecutor's Office interviewed Desmond concerning Rouse on December 23, 1997, that Desmond was subpoenaed to the Grand Jury to give testimony, that Superintendent Mann was also summoned, that on January 26, Mann and Desmond both appeared and that the investigation and presentation could be not be completed before the Grand Jury finished its term. The affidavit also states that the subject matter is being presented to a different Grand Jury. The affidavit was sworn and subscribed on April 30, 1998.

Desmond testified that her memorandums were leaked to the Asbury Park Press. At or about the same time she testified before the Grand Jury, Mann called her and stated that there was a problem and that she was not properly certified to hold a vice principal position. Sometime after April 24, 1998, Desmond received a copy of a letter from County Superintendent Maddaluna to the superintendent (R-10). The gist of the letter was that the County Superintendent had become aware that Desmond was assigned to a vice principal position but did not hold an appropriate certificate. He cited N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2 and directed the Board, within twenty days, to cease employing Desmond or to assign her appropriately. Maddaluna emphasized that no person may be employed and/or assigned to any position for which he/she is not appropriately licensed. Verification of the certificate should precede the hiring and/or the assignment. Desmond stated that an employment action was then begun against her.

Desmond completed her course work and applied for a principal certificate in June 1999 (P-31). Desmond believes this was her second application. Desmond stated she believes she has completed requirements for the principal certificate other than taking a test. Exhibit P-32 is a memorandum from Superintendent Mann to Desmond dated July 7, 1999 concerning a letter of expedition. The memorandum covers five points:

1. Have you completed all the required coursework for the Principal's Certification?

2. Have you submitted the transcripts from the appropriate universities indicating your coursework, particularly the courses required for the Principal's Certification?

3. Have you taken the Administrator's Exam for the Principal's Certification?

4. Have you provided to the county all required documentation for a proper evaluation of your credentials for the Principal's Certification?

5. Please be advised that in my discussion with Dr. Gagliardi, he has no recollection of encouraging you to request a letter of expedition from my office to Mr. Maddaluna.

Nonetheless, please find enclosed my letter of request to Mr. Maddaluna.

Desmond also introduced several evaluations of her work. The first evaluations showed her performance to be above average, the more recent tend to be negative. Since this litigation began, Desmond has been given no work; all responsibilities have been transferred to others.

Desmond submitted a preliminary report dated December 1998 in which members of the Commissioner's staff reported on the Status of the Asbury Park School District Special Assistance Project. Desmond states that this document shows the failure of the organization to guarantee accountability. The District knew what her certificates were, but kept her in position.

In May 1998, Desmond applied for the position of Science Department Supervisor. Her job application form (R-12a) has a resume attached to it which, at page 4, lists certifications held as supervisor of instruction, K-12; reading specialist, K-12; teacher of reading, K-12 and teacher of English K-12. It also states "eligible for certification as: school administrator, principal, K12." The witness testified she had not completed all necessary course work required for these certificates and in the spring 1998 term was not taking courses. This application was sent to the County Superintendent. In March 1998, the witness made requests for college transcripts. In April 1998 she made application and submitted the appropriate fee and transcripts, for the principal and school administrator certificates. In July 1998 she made an additional college transcript request (R-22). Desmond's resume (R-12) submitted on May 6, 1998 does state that she was eligible for those certificates.

Desmond testified that the interview committee never mentioned certificates to her. She stated she "might have said" she would have all work done and certificates issued by a certain time. When she spoke with Superintendent Mundy, and was given the choice of the high school or the middle school, she probably said she would complete her coursework soon. On her application of July 30, 1993 (R-5), she stated she had completed seventy-two credits at Teachers College, Columbia. She did not.

Desmond stated she had no personal knowledge of New Jersey emergency certificates. Mr. Katz received an emergency certificate in special education and Mr. Hill received an emergency certificate in special education. Another employee, Greenwood, had held supervisor and principal certification since 1986. Desmond stated that Greenwood was working outside of certifications in the period 1993-1995, that Katz so worked from 1996 to the present and that another employee, Kessler, she believes was given ten years to complete his degree. Desmond has not seen certificates for Hill, Parker, Kessler, Katz or others.

In April 1998, Desmond requested that her personnel matter be discussed at a public session of the Board. The first session following her request was a work session, and the Board could not appropriately act. The next day, Desmond says, a restraining order issued. To this day, Desmond does not hold a principal certificate.

When Desmond applied, she did place "supervisor/principal" on her resume because she was completing her coursework and expected to receive the certificates shortly. She had no intent to deceive the District. No one ever told her the certificates she held were insufficient to meet job requirements. Desmond conceded that she listed seventy-two credits at Teachers College, Columbia, but that the total included credits earned while she took a master's degree at Seton Hall University. Desmond also stated that no one asked her to apply for emergency certification. She could recall no discussion of certification requirements in New Jersey for principal. When she put that information on her application and resume, she was enrolled in a doctoral program and this meant to her that she was working towards certification. Desmond was sure that, at the time, she knew the requirements for the principal certificate. At this point the judge put counsel on notice that he might take official notice of certain facts in the certification area.

Antonio N. Lewis

Lewis testified about his middle school principalship experience. He was involved in interviews for the middle school vice principal vacancy. He did not help create the posting, but knew the specifics at the time. He identified the postings (R-1, R-3). The candidates sat with a committee composed of the witness, Frank Roettinger, Robert Mann, James Mundy, and three other persons, one of whom was Enoch Peters.

The witness reviewed Desmond's resume. He saw no certifications, only information about certifications on Desmond's resume. During the interview he asked if she had certificates with her and she replied that she did not.

The witness saw Desmond's letter of June 28, 1993 to the superintendent applying for the vice principal positions. The last page of her attachment to the letter states that she holds a "supervisor of instruction/principal, K-12" certificate. This is a misrepresentation.

Lewis disagreed with Desmond's selection. The superintendent took the matter out of his hands. The witness repeated that the resume, not the application, was before committee members. There was nothing in the certificate section that caught his eye. Superintendent Mundy did not discuss Desmond's certifications with the witness.

Lewis stated that after Desmond was hired, she had a principal certificate on the wall of her office with the name whited out. She told Lewis it was whited out because it originally bore her married name. Lewis evaluated Desmond at least twice. He recommended to the superintendent, in writing, that Desmond not be continued in position. The witness identified evaluations of December 6, 1993 and May 31, 1994 made by him (R-8, R-9). The witness also testified about certain problems having to do with textbooks and mid-year examinations. Among other things, textbook orders for which Desmond was responsible were late and Lewis had to complete them. Lewis also stated that Desmond was always absent when a special project or test was to be submitted or performed.

Frank Roettinger

Frank Roettinger was vice principal for discipline and attendance at the Asbury Park Middle School beginning in 1971. He was involved in Desmond's selection. Before interviews were conducted, he went to the Board office to get copies of Desmond's documents. He had documents for all other interviewees, but could not locate Desmond's.

Roettinger recalled that Desmond made a good appearance at the interview. He did not ask questions about her certifications and cannot recall if others did. He recalled no one raising the question of what "supervisor/principal" meant. He recalls that the superintendent made the decision. Desmond was not the witness' first choice.

Roettinger recalled when the high school vice principal vacancy in curriculum and instruction opened. He recalled receiving a "bundle" from the central office although he had requested only Desmond's resume. Roettinger believes he worked with Desmond in the 1993-94 and 1994-95 school years. Desmond would occasionally come to him and complain about Antonio Lewis. Lewis was, indeed, occasionally demanding. Lewis does not discuss problems with other persons.

Judy Smith

Judy Smith, District Supervisor of Instruction, testified. She has been in position since December 1984. She was involved in the selection of the middle school and high school vice principal. Committees would review applications and, after consultation, some applicants were selected for interview. The positions were both posted and advertised. She believes having only one round of applications creates too small a pool. Smith recalls reviewing all submissions but probably only resumes after the applications. Smith identified the postings (R-1, R-3).

Concerning Desmond's resume (R-2), the witness did not at that time look at her certifications or other credentials. The witness could not explain why one posting required certification as an administrator or supervisor.

Smith discussed some of Desmond's resume with Desmond and members of the Committee. She could recall no discussion of Desmond's advanced schooling. Last year, in approximately of April of 1998, she first heard of the County Superintendent's assertion that Desmond did not hold the necessary certificate. She then looked at Desmond's application for the first time. Her recollection is that during the 1993 interviews, she had Desmond's resume, but not Desmond's application. The witness was unaware of who, in 1993, would have checked on credentials. Smith identified exhibit R-5, Desmond's application for administrative positions.

The witness met with High School Principal Murphy when he was considering in 1994 whether to take Desmond as high school vice principal. She recommended against the selection based on her interactions with and observations of Desmond.

In March or April 1998, Smith attended a meeting with Mann and others at the County Office concerning State requirements. The County Superintendent raised questions about certifications held by some staff members. All files of all persons whose names were raised were reviewed. There was no principal certificate in Desmond's file. Superintendent Mann then called Desmond. The assumption was that the principal certificate was missing. However, Desmond stated she did not have a principal certificate. Concerning other names the County Superintendent mentioned, Smith stated that the appropriate certificates were in the appropriate files, although sometimes a certificate would be in a maiden name. Smith knew of no "acting" supervisors or persons serving in any capacity without appropriate certification. As to Marstiner Hayes, her college made an error. As to Richard Katz, an employee named Hill and an employee named Greenwood, the witness did not know when they received their particular certificates. She assumes each held the appropriate certificate when beginning employment. Smith knows of no district practice of allowing persons to complete work to qualify for a certification. The instance involving Mr. Parker was covered by an administrative internship. He was not then and was never designated an acting administrator.

The witness identified exhibit P-33, the report on the status of the district created by two State Department of Education administrators. Smith stated that State Department of Education monitors were helping the District develop a new table of organization.

Smith did not supervise Desmond. She knows generally what Desmond's duties were and they included teacher evaluation, curriculum coordination and articulation, State and standardized testing responsibilities and staff development.

Smith was clear that in March or April of 1998 it was the County Superintendent who initiated discussion of certificates. Smith was with the superintendent when he called Desmond. He informed Desmond that he was at the County Superintendent's office, had reviewed Desmond's file and could not find a principal certificate. Smith testified that the superintendent stated, "So, you do not have your principal certificate?" He then stated, "You want us to work something out? We can't do that."

So far as Smith could recall, the County Superintendent mentioned nothing about the prior five years. Smith is certain that the District would not have interviewed Desmond if she did not have principal certification. Smith is also sure that the posting is in error. One cannot be a vice principal without a principal certificate.

Enoch N. Peters

Enoch N. Peters was principal of an elementary school for eight years. In 1993 he served on an interview committee for the middle school vice principal position. He asked questions of candidates. He reviewed resumes of the applicants selected for interview. He had seen the posting for the position. He saw Desmond's resume and had no question at the time. Peters did not participate in the interview of high school candidates. He recalls that questions were general. He had no reason to and did not question any of these certificates Desmond asserted she held. He now knows Desmond does not have a principal certificate.

Concerning Desmond's letter and resume (R-2), the witness stated he has seen them and that it is not unusual for principal and supervisor endorsements to be on the same certificate.

Michael Maddaluna, III

Michael Maddaluna, Monmouth County Superintendent of Schools, testified. The Asbury Park District is in "Level II," meaning that it is not certified at this time. The District has particular problems in the area of test scores and dropouts.

Maddaluna saw the report made by Special Assistant to the Commissioner Vito A. Gagliardi, Sr. This alerted him to certain hiring and certification problems. In or about April 1998, he became aware of the Desmond situation. He ran a check of all certificates of all staff in Asbury Park. Fifteen or sixteen names were returned to him and, for each of these, further inquiry was made. He met with the District Superintendent and staff. There was really only one problem and that problem was Desmond. For the others, name changes or incorrect social security numbers explained the discrepancies. Based upon what he learned, Maddaluna issued a letter under date of April 24, 1998 directing that, within twenty days, the District cease employing Desmond or assign her appropriately. It was the District Superintendent's responsibility to reply.

The witness required no investigation of or about Desmond. He never received a principal certificate from Desmond. He knows Desmond has a supervisor certificate. Maddaluna checked fall reports from 1993 through 1997. All showed job codes for Desmond of elementary vice principal, high school vice principal and (once) supervisor. Fall reports are submitted directly to the Department in Trenton. Information is later sent back to County Offices. The County Offices do not have the staff to check all anomalies. However, when a district is being monitored, as is Asbury Park, certificates are checked carefully. When Asbury Park was monitored, all certificates were checked. This occurred in fall or winter of 1995.

Maddaluna discussed the 1997-98 staff coding manual. The elementary assistant principal code is 232, the high school assistant principal code is 0202 and the supervisor code is 0307. He identified printouts of the reports. As to Desmond, he determined that proof of a certification was needed and he wrote the letter (R-10) referred to earlier. As to Ms. Hayes, the superintendent informed him that Hayes was acting as a supervisor. Maddaluna advised the District Superintendent that she could not so serve and the superintendent stated that she would be moved immediately. Maddaluna also testified that the District received reports in three consecutive years showing "code error" for Desmond, but failed to contact the County Office. Maddaluna could recall no other certificate or job title reported for Desmond. Of all the persons looked at, all but two were explained by name changes or social security number errors. Only Hayes and Desmond stuck out. Maddaluna could not say how long Hayes worked outside the scope of her certification. He did not follow up on Hayes because the District Superintendent stated Hayes would be moved.

Desmond has applied for a principal certificate (R-24). This is handled in the Bureau of Licensing and Credentials in Trenton. The document shows all items still outstanding. The applicant puts together all information and submits, with a fee, to the Bureau. In this case, the examiner identified six deficiencies. The witness could find no request by Desmond for review in 1993, 1994, 1995, 1996, or 1997. There was a conversation between county staff and Desmond in 1997, but the office received no submission or request from Desmond. Until July 1998, the County Office heard nothing from Desmond.

Arlene Jannarone

Arlene Jannarone, a secretary in the District Superintendent's office for nineteen years, testified. She handles certification checks for the District. She performed these duties when Mundy was superintendent. Among her duties was the responsibility to send teaching staff members' certificates to the County Office for recording. The witness received some certificates from Desmond and sent those for recording.

The witness also prepared fall reports. She prepared the 1994 fall report. Exhibit P-41 identifies an error code. Jannarone stated that if this was brought to the District's attention, the District would follow-up. She had no recall of seeing this particular error code. She is sure that Superintendent Mundy did not mention it to her.

If the County Office or the State Department had a question concerning certification, it would usually go through her. Jannarone recalls Hayes, but not the specific problem. She recalls that Hayes' college may have failed to submit something.

Richard Katz

Richard Katz testified that he was Director of Special Education and Physical Education at the high school. The physical education department's supervisor is not the athletic director. He has been special education supervisor since 1989 and became physical education supervisor two or three years ago. He holds teacher of the handicapped and supervisor certificates. He has a certificate of eligibility for principal certification. He briefly served as acting athletic director under his supervisor certificate.

Daniel F. Murphy

Murphy served as high school principal for six or seven years. He met Desmond about five years ago. Desmond became a high school vice principal in 1994. She oversaw all curriculum matters, did teacher evaluations, prepared professional improvement plans and worked on scheduling. Desmond served with him for four years.

Before Desmond's transfer to the high school, he met with her and held discussions. While at the high school, Murphy evaluated Desmond's performance. He identified exhibit P-24 as evaluations he had performed and he could recall no problems. The evaluations in the exhibit are not complete. Some, not in this lot, are not as good as those in the exhibit.

Murphy stated he noticed a change in Desmond in or about September 1997. This was prior to her certification problems being uncovered. He personally never checked her certification record. He did not know she held no principal certificate until the matter became public.

The witness identified exhibit P-28, Desmond's November 26, 1997 memo to Superintendent Mann concerning Rouse. He then learned that Desmond was cooperating with the County Prosecutor.

Hayes acted as supervisor of science, industrial arts and fine arts. She was appointed about four months before a charter school started, probably in 1997. The witness interviewed Hayes and others. In-house candidates did not present certificates.

Murphy recommended transfer of Desmond to his school. Superintendent Mundy suggested Desmond would function better at the high school.

Murphy recalls hearing the term "administrative intern." The person did not serve in his building, however. Another employee, Greenwood, was an administrative intern for a while.

After Hayes was appointed, she was not removed. About one and one-half years ago, a question arose concerning her graduate school work. This was, perhaps, in May 1998. Hayes was ordered to cease performing teacher observations and evaluations.

Dawn Benson was hired as a substitute teacher. She was interviewed for a science teacher job. The first two interviewees who were offered the position refused. Benson was brought in. She had taken her certification test, but certification had not yet issued. She functioned as a substitute until she passed her certification test and received her certificate. In the following February, this happened.

The witness also had a problem securing a Latin teacher. He did get a teacher from a neighboring school district to teach it after regular hours. That arrangement lasted for one year. Now, Asbury Park High School offers no Latin. Murphy was aware of no other certification problems.

Murphy was not on the Desmond interview committee when she came into the District. When she moved to the high school, he looked only at middle school evaluations. He did not recognize exhibit P-20, an employee data collection sheet concerning Desmond.

After Murphy learned of the certification issue, he sent a memorandum to Desmond directing that she perform no observations or evaluations and prepare no professional improvement programs until the matter was cleared up. Her other duties were unaffected. The Board reposted positions of science supervisor and guidance supervisor. Desmond applied for at least one of these. The witness could not recall Desmond stating that she had a principal certificate.

In or about September 1997, Murphy observed a change in Desmond's work. She seemed distant from him and he inquired about it. She declined to talk. Her performance was different. In the summer of 1998, Desmond was absent most of the time. In the 1998-99 school year, she had fewer duties as outlined above. According to Murphy, Desmond was less proactive, and less visible. He lost confidence that jobs would be done. Desmond was absent on many days. She worked as a vice principal, not as a supervisor, although he had taken away the observation and evaluation duties that would properly be performed only by a person holding an administrative certificate. He could not recall any Board of Education member problem involving Desmond.

Robert H. Mann

Robert H. Mann has been superintendent of the Asbury Park Public Schools for approximately two and one-half years. He was appointed October 1, 1997. Previously, he was assistant superintendent. He has been in the District since 1970 and in central administration since 1993. He was a high school principal for seventeen years.

Mann met Desmond in the summer of 1993. He was present at her hiring interview. He was assistant superintendent at the time. He reviewed the committee process. His recommendation for the vice principal opening was Desmond. The witness recalled that this was his first year as assistant superintendent and also Mundy's first year as superintendent. It was his responsibility to check for certifications and do background checks.

The witness stated that Desmond went through the interview process. She had a number of certificates. Her application said she had a principal certificate, but he neglected to check. Formerly, the superintendent did certification checks. The witness knew that Mundy had called some applicants about needed data. Mann looked at Desmond's application (R-5), saw the principal notation, believed it and did not check farther. The witness conceded that the posting (R-3) was less than clear. Mann was not present at meetings between Mundy and Desmond in 1993.

Mann stated it was general knowledge in the administration that Desmond was working on a doctorate. He reviewed her resume before the interview. She filled out an application after the interview. He does not recall reviewing that application. Mann and Mundy both were involved in checking applicants' references. He had no reason to doubt Desmond's application (R-5) dated July 30. The witness was unaware if Mundy had checked any of the particulars in the application.

In 1993, the superintendent handled all licensing questions. The superintendent was responsible to review the fall report. Mann could recall no discussions of the fall report between Mundy and him. He does recall sitting down with Mrs. Jannarone at one point. The District had been criticized as top-heavy with administrators. The District hired former Superintendent Jannarone as a consultant. The Department of Education was penalizing the District. The District had documents showing administrators were doing supervision also. He believes that Desmond was shown under a supervisor code. Some persons at elementary schools were likewise coded.

State monitoring began in the mid-1980's. The District originally was at Level III, mainly because of test scores and facilities. Test score rose, but property disputes delayed new school building. The District remained at Level III.

When the State Department of Education penalized the District for being administration-heavy, he assigned some supervisor of instruction responsibility to Desmond.

No one that he is aware of while he was employed was allowed to complete certification requirements for a certificate the position required. Hayes did not timely produce a certificate from her college. The college dean called him and stated it was the college's error, not Hayes'. The college told Hayes she was eligible for certification when she was not, but would work with her to remedy the matter quickly. Hayes worked for approximately one year without certification. When the witness learned of this, he removed certain duties so that she was functioning within the scope of certificates held. The witness now requires a certificate in his hand before he makes any recommendation to the Board.

Mann identified exhibit P-33, the report to the Commissioner of Education of December 1998. This is referred to as the Gagliardi report. The administrator intern title came into being to allow persons who wanted to be administrators to gain experience. Desmond gained tenure "without fanfare" upon award of her fourth contract. There was no certification problem known to the District at that time.

James Famularo, former member and Board president, was removed by the Superior Court. The removal was reversed by the Appellate Division. Charles Rouse, known as Chico Rouse, was involved in writing a performing arts curriculum for the high school. This led to a Prosecutor's Office investigation. This was a dispute before Desmond's memorandums. The investigation of certificates was not a result of her memorandums. The investigation of certificates was initiated by the Department and County Office.

In 1997-98, when he became superintendent, Mann assumed certificate report responsibility. He recalls that he filed the first fall reports, but did not review them.

Mann stated he saw Desmond in the lobby on the day both were scheduled to testify before the Grand Jury. He cannot say what the date was. However, it is not relevant because he did not speak to Desmond about certification until the County Superintendent brought the matter to his attention.

When Maddaluna raised the question with the witness, he called Desmond to his office and asked if she had a principal certificate. She replied that she did not and asked if Mann could help her. He said that he was not in a position to help and that the credibility of his office was at stake. Desmond replied that she was working on certification.

Mann made no effort to reassign Desmond. At the next Board meeting, he recommended that she be terminated. He believed the Board and administration had been lied to by Desmond, based on her resume. He did not go back and check fall reports. Mann says he did not treat Hayes differently. It was a different situation. Hayes' college had made an error, not she. The Famularo-Hayes relationship is irrelevant.

Concerning one employee, Stewart Tave, Mann stated the employee has a guidance counselor certificate, he has seen the actual certificate, and Tave was not ever placed on an acting status. When Katz was appointed, supervisor certification was not required. When the State Board of Education required supervisor certification, persons serving as supervisors were "grand-fathered." Nevertheless, the administration told Katz to get his certificate anyway and gave him "a couple of years" to complete work toward the certificate. Hill held an emergency special education certificate, got a regular certificate and then taught special education. As stated earlier, Smith was a substitute until she had her certificate in hand. Another employee, Benson, had a substitute certificate, had a master's in the field and was used as a substitute until certified. Benson then was hired as a regular teacher.

Concerning the Desmond hire, Mann stated that reference checks went well and that written references came in. There were some telephone contacts. References were never a problem with Desmond. When Desmond was working as a vice principal, the only problem he knew of was at the middle school. Desmond's transfer to the high school was approved.

Following release of the Gagliardi report, Mann prepared a corrective action plan. Since he became superintendent, he has made no hiring recommendation to the Board unless a copy of the applicant's certificate is in his hand. In addition, job postings are more clear. When the State penalized the District for being top-heavy in administration, he looked at all administrators, not only Desmond. He made a good faith estimate of the time on instruction-related activities that each spent. Mann was not aware of any attempt by Mundy to place Desmond in another title as suggested by the County Superintendent. The witness identified several documents including recommendations written on Desmond's behalf, memorandums, Desmond's letter of application, her certificates and various job descriptions. Mann believes that Desmond applied for the supervisor of science position. To the best of Mann's recollection, he dealt with certification issues only after meeting with Gagliardi. He did receive a request from Desmond to expedite his reply (A-36). When the Desmond question reached the Board, he reported that Desmond was in the District without appropriate certification for a number of years. This was his main concern. He recalls no other particulars. A board member may have asked if Desmond could be moved to another position.

Since April 1998, the Guidance Supervisor position opened. In addition, a new position, Supervisor of Early Childhood/Special Education opened and Hayes was appointed. This position requires a supervisor certificate. There have been other "shifts and shuffles." Gagliardi advised Mann that all such positions should be designated acting pending adoption of a reorganization.

Mann stated his recollection that Mundy apparently had resumes attached to papers he gave to Board members in connection with proposed hirers. The Board did not see full personnel folders. When Mann was assistant superintendent, Mundy called no certification problems to his attention.

Returning to the Hayes matter, the witness stated he spoke to the Dean at Monmouth University. The Dean said it had misadvised Hayes as to the courses she needed for her supervisor certificate. This was in May 1997. Hayes had her certificate or was eligible for it by the end of that summer. Concerning Desmond and the Grand Jury, Mann stated he had never been called to the Grand Jury, he had never been told he was a target of the Grand Jury investigation and there is no connection between the certification issue and the Grand Jury. The Board and he were shocked to learn that Desmond holds no principal certificate. Desmond made several requests for time to work on her doctorate, but never mentioned completing certification requirements for the principal license. Desmond gave no indication she needed to complete courses to get her principal certificate. She made no formal request for time to complete coursework for the certificate. Now, because of the Chancery Division order, the Board cannot terminate or transfer Desmond.

Mann did not see fall reports while Mundy was superintendent. When he assumed the superintendency, Mrs. Jannarone pulled copies of fall reports from the file to show him. The last report from the State to the District was dated January 1993. If he had seen information after that date, he would have recalled it. Mann had the authority to change job-code titles. He met with the consultant and decided the proportions of time that could be allocated to other than administrative duties for each administrator. In Desmond's case, he emphasized instruction-related duties. He cannot now recall the exact allocation of time to various duties.

Mann stated that when Hayes applied for a supervisory position, she submitted her resume. He believes the resume stated that she had a supervisor certificate. He relied on that information. Upon follow up, Hayes did not have certification. Hayes told him that her college had advised her she was eligible. Mann believes that Hayes indeed timely applied for her certificate. She had not received it because the college had not processed some necessary information that had to be submitted. The witness called the high school principal and instructed him not to allow Hayes to do any duties requiring a supervisor certificate. The conversation with the Dean at the University followed. Hayes was not removed from position. Hayes had all other necessary paperwork including a criminal background check. The only question was certification and, as stated above, that was quickly rectified. There were duties that Desmond could have performed with only a supervisor certificate, but they would have been far from all that was required of the vice principal position. The witness identified exhibit 46, an excerpt from Board Minutes of July 1, 1999 recommending appointment of Marstiner Hayes to the position of Acting District Supervisor of Instruction, Special Education and Early Childhood. At the same time, a vice principal was assigned to oversee an early childhood education center. Thus, Hayes required no principal certificate.

Mann had no correspondence from any school that Desmond attended to the effect that Desmond was in any way misadvised. There was no documentation that Desmond was certified as a principal and there was no indication that she was certifiable. Mann helped complete fall reports. He has not received any back from the State since 1993. He has not seen what the County Superintendent testified from. He began as assistant superintendent in 1993 at about the same time Mundy began as superintendent. When Mundy and he arrived, they walked into "a number of hot issues." There were many personnel changes. The administrative staff and business administrator were new. There was a new Board of Education, which was proactive. The District was in Cycle III monitoring and had been given a Level II designation. There was litigation surrounding construction. The New Jersey Supreme Court Abbott decision focused attention on early childhood education. A new personnel selection procedure was put into place. Now, no recommendation for hire is made by the superintendent to the Board until the superintendent has in hand all certificates the applicant claims to hold. The District's table of organization still is not approved by the State. Nearly all appointments are acting appointments. The District also suffers from revenue shortfall.

Bernice H. Willis

Bernice H. Willis, Dean of the School of Education at Monmouth University, testified. She knows Marstiner Hayes and recalls a controversy about Hayes' supervisor certificate. A faculty member had misadvised Hayes. The matter was rectified as soon as possible. The Dean discovered the error in October 1997. She received a note from a faculty member asking how to process Hayes' certification materials. The next day she received a note from a faculty member concerning Hayes' transfer credit. In May, the Dean had written communication with Hayes and advised what action was needed to be taken. She sent copies to Superintendent Mann and the Provost of the University. A faculty member had simply "dropped the ball." Hayes completed the last course she needed, "Education of Gifted and Talented Children," over the summer. This course, for six credits, gave Hayes all she needed for complete certification credentials.

The Dean was disturbed by the fact that Hayes had been misadvised. Hayes had done what Hayes believed she had to do. Fortunately, by independently completing a portfolio showing administrative and supervisory activities, Hayes was able to complete the requirements for certification.

Marstiner E. Hayes

Marstiner Hayes testified she has been employed by the Asbury Park Board of Education for eight years. She is now Acting District Supervisor for Special Education and Early Childhood Education. She has also served as Acting Supervisor of Science, Fine Arts and Industrial Arts. She began as an acting supervisor. She had applied for supervisor certification and had advised both Board and administration that she did not yet have certification. This was a true representation of the circumstances. She began in September 1997 as an acting supervisor and still believed herself to be eligible for the certificate. The witness had correspondence and other contacts with Monmouth University and learned that two courses she had taken, both upon recommendation of faculty, might not be appropriate to her goal of certification. She immediately informed her superiors of the situation and, fortunately, was able to work out a plan with the University so that she could complete her requirements and reapply for supervisory certification before the end of the summer. The Dean provided a letter to the administration supporting what Hayes reported.

FEB 02 2000 11:15 FR OAL TRENTON 609 588 6536 TO 92924333 P.06/24

Superintendent Mann did not terminate her upon learning that she had no supervisor certificate. Rather, he communicated with Monmouth University and ascertained the situation. There was no formal notice of action against Hayes' job and there was no agreement as to the period in which she was to complete requirements for the certificate. Fortunately, the matter was resolved very quickly.

This concluded presentation of Desmond's case in chief.

Judith Granick

Judith Granick is Executive Assistant to the Superintendent of the Jersey City public schools and responsible for the area of human resources. She has been in Jersey City since 1989 and in position since 1992. Effective July 1990, Desmond was Executive Director for Program, Planning and Design. This appointment was made a few months after the State assumed administration of the District. Program, Planning and Design is a new department. Executive Director is a new title. The executive director is responsible for the supervision and implementation of programs. The certification required was principal or school administrator. The witness identified exhibit R-16, a resume submitted by Desmond to Jersey City at or about that time. It states that from 1989 to present (1990) she held a school administrator/assistant superintendent curriculum and instruction certificate. It states that from 1978 to present (1990) she held the supervisor of instruction/principal, K-12; reading specialist, K-12; teacher of English, K-12 and teacher of reading, K-12. It also states she holds a Massachusetts teacher of English, K-12 certificate.

The witness identified exhibit R-19, a memorandum to Desmond from Robert Y. Schaefer, Executive Director of Human Resources, dated February 13, 1991. The memorandum refers to employment procedure requirements and states:

> Since you started on August 27, 1990, we have not been able to complete the employment process for you. Several attempts have been made to have the process completed with little success. The required Pension forms were late in coming but did arrive, however, the following have not been submitted and we are technically in violation.
> 1. fingerprints have not been submitted for the required criminal background check.
>
> 2. Jersey City Application has not been submitted. We do have the resume, but an application is required.
>
> 3. Certifications have not been received for submission to the County office for registration as required.
>
> The time has long passed to attend to these details.

The witness stated that Desmond left Jersey City effective June 30, 1991. She knew Desmond while Desmond was employed in Jersey City, but did not interview her or do any follow up concerning certifications. So far as the witness knows, Desmond resigned.

Exhibit R-17 is the posting for the program planning and design position. The second qualification listed is New Jersey supervisor and/or school administrative certification. Despite this, the witness stated the job title required a principal or school administrator certificate. A small committee interviewed Desmond. The interview committee had the posting (R-17). Desmond was hired (R-23, Item 12) and reported directly to Assistant Superintendent Foster.

The Board presented evaluation material concerning Desmond prepared by her superordinate in the Jersey City position (R-23, Item 20).

Vito A. Gagliardi, Sr.

Following the New Jersey Supreme Court Abbott decision in May 1997, the Commissioner of Education asked Vito A. Gagliardi, Sr., to come out of retirement and to oversee twenty-three urban districts as to spending and other concerns. This assignment, which Gagliardi took, included inquiries and oversight in Asbury Park. Gagliardi did some initial interviews of personnel, certifications and background before approving new hires. He asked the County Superintendent to assure that all persons employed by the District were properly certified and had passed criminal background checks. The County Superintendent sent Gagliardi a printout on which more than ten names appeared with notations that indicated that there was question as to their certification status. The County Superintendent stated that all appeared to be simple errors except for the case of Patricia Desmond.

Gagliardi compared Desmond's certifications with her job description. The County Superintendent issued the twenty-day letter (R-10) mentioned above. Desmond was acting as an assistant principal and needed principal certification. Desmond did not supply it. In most cases, when a twenty-day letter is issued, the person appears with a certificate or an explanation. If not, the person is disqualified from holding the subject position.

In his December 23, 1998 report to the Commissioner and to the Asbury Park Board of Education (P-33), Gagliardi found fault with the manner in which positions were posted and with job descriptions particularly as they related to certifications. The District has improved since December 1998.

Gagliardi never advised Desmond as to "expedited transcript review" or any other aspect of certification. Approximately one week before his testimony, Gagliardi saw the checklist returned by the Office of Licensing and Credentials to Desmond indicating six major areas in which she had failed to supply appropriate or sufficient information. In Gagliardi's opinion, Desmond is qualified in none of these six areas (R-24). As of the date of his testimony,

Gagliardi expressed the opinion that Desmond is not certifiable as a principal. From the issuance of the twenty-day letter until this hearing, the time elapsed is unheard of. In normal cases, failure to produce proper certification is sufficient cause for dismissal.

Gagliardi was sent to Asbury Park in 1988-99 because of internal problems. Regardless of who made errors or mistakes, job postings must be clear as to certificates required. If a person applies, but lacks the appropriate certificate, two errors are involved. The first is misrepresentation by the applicant and the second is error by the administrator who tells the Board that the person is qualified for the vacancy.

In the Hayes case, the computer printout shows that Hayes was certified in July 1998. She still holds an acting title because of the directive to the Asbury Park Board to hold many administrators and supervisors in acting titles.

Looking at the postings (R-3), the job description (R-21) and Desmond's resume (R-16), it is very clear that vice principal is the title. The posting certainly could have been more clear as to certificate required. The job description, however, is very clear. And Desmond's resume says she holds a "supervisor of instruction/principal" certificate. The witness also stated there are no emergency certificates for administrators and working without the proper certificate is inappropriate.

James H. Mundy

James H. Mundy was Asbury Park Superintendent for the school years 1992-93 through 1996-97. He served as Somerset County Superintendent of Schools and is now employed in Virginia. He recalls that Desmond was hired during his first summer as superintendent in Asbury Park. He was interviewing her with an eye toward the high school vice principalship. Assistant Superintendent Mann convinced Mundy that there was greater need for a vice principal at the middle school.

Mundy was on the interview team. He could recall no discussion of certificates. He identified exhibit R-2, Desmond's resume attached to her application. Desmond applied for the high school VP position. On a page of her resume she states she has a "supervisor of instruction/principal" certificate. Mundy and others check references. He has no recall of any discussions with Desmond concerning certification. He recalls Desmond had been taking courses more or less consistently. He was not aware of what particular courses Desmond was taking at Seton Hall University.

Desmond had some difficulty in her first year with Dr. Lewis at the middle school. Following that year, he moved her to the high school. It was never his practice to allow persons to work before they were fully certified. He needed all staff to be certified.

Mr. Parker was an administrative intern when Mundy arrived in the District. He can recall no conversation with the County Superintendent concerning the administrative intern position. Mundy did not recall Desmond's name appearing as an exception on the fall reports.

Exhibit R-1, the June 17, 1993 posting for the middle school vice principalship is not, in the witness' opinion, misleading. He believed Desmond had the proper certificate. Mundy had no recall of the twenty-day letter from the County Superintendent (R-10). He never moved to create an administrative intern position for Desmond and Desmond never told him she was "a course or two" away from principal certification.

Concerning the interview process, Mundy stated that Desmond was first considered for the high school vice principalship. The posting (R-3) does require certification as an administrator or a supervisor. Anyone meeting those qualifications could apply. The witness sat in as a member of the interview committee. He cannot remember how many interviews were conducted and he cannot recall who offered the job to Desmond. Reference checks, he believes, were divided among three persons. He expressed the opinion that Desmond was the best candidate based on the interview and background.

His handwriting appears on five reference checks (P-1 through P-5). He did not discuss certificates with any of the references. This was a character reference check only. All candidates were presumed to hold correct certificates. Exhibit R-4 is a letter over his signature to Desmond offering her the position. She countersigned it. Mundy was not sure if he had seen Desmond's submitted resume (R-2). If he had seen it, he would assume she had principal certification. Exhibit R-5, the actual application for the position, was submitted after the fact.

Mundy stated a staff member should have checked certifications. He does not know how this was missed. He had a practice of having copies of certificates attached to applications. He did not go through Desmond's certificates (P-18) carefully. He assumed she had a principal certificate. He assumed all applicants had proper certification. Mundy also stated he had no recall of fall reports showing any problem, no recall of a conversation with Maddaluna about Desmond's certificate and no recall of a conversation with Maddaluna concerning the administrative intern position. He identified a letter of recommendation from the assistant dean for academic affairs at Hudson County College and he recognized a letter from Desmond dated August 6, 1993 thanking him for the interview and offer of position and enclosing copies of letters of reference. He could not recall whether the conversation in which he offered Desmond the position was in-person or by telephone. He could not say that he gave a choice of position, as to the high school or the middle school, to Desmond. However, he would have met with Desmond at some point.

Mundy stated that there was a shared responsibility for compiling fall reports. If a problem on a fall report had been raised by the State, it would have been brought to his attention. If he were aware of a problem, he would try to address it, either himself or through delegated responsibility. He signed fall reports to the State after briefly looking them over. He had no recall of any response from the State that a vice principal was not properly certificated.

If there was correspondence from the State concerning the 1993 fall report, it would have come to him. The witness identified exhibit P-41, a final listing of 1996-97 certificated staff from the New Jersey Department of Education. In the entry for Desmond, Patricia, the last column shows a possible license error. Mundy stated he had no recall of any licensing problem returning Desmond brought to his attention. He cannot at this time recall who was responsible for report compilation and review of the report upon return from the Department. Certificates are relatively easy to check. Because the District was being monitored, Mundy believed that "all certificates were okay." He had no recall of seeing any other final listing of certificated staff.

Mundy did not recall Gagliardi coming into the District in 1996, but it is possible that he did. He recalls no change made in Desmond's code on any report. In 1996, Desmond was up for tenure. There was probably a Rice notice to her before a personnel matter was discussed. The witness identified exhibit P-16, a notice to Desmond dated May 10, 1996 that she would be discussed at the May 13, 1996 meeting of the Board. Mundy signed the notice.

Mundy recalled administrative penalties from the State because the District was top-heavy with administrators. He recalls the Jannarone consultancy. He believes the Board suggested that Jannarone be hired to deal with "some" new legislation and/or requirements. Assistant Superintendent Mann could not have and should not have changed any allocation of Desmond's time to supervisory duties without Mundy's consent. The witness was not familiar with Desmond's employee data collection sheet (A-20). He recalls knowing Desmond was working toward a doctoral degree. He did not know this before he offered her the position, however. Selection was based on her interview performance. He identified exhibits P-25 and P-26, the vice principal job descriptions. These were likely sent to candidates or selectees. It is probable they were given by the immediate supervisor to the successful candidate. Desmond was a vice principal so it is likely the principal, Dr. Lewis, gave the job description to her.

Mundy testified about Katz, Hill, Tave and Parker. He believes Hill was transferred from physical education to special education and Hill satisfied the requirements for special education supervision. He believes Tave had a guidance counselor certificate when Mundy arrived in the District. Parker was an administrative intern when Mundy arrived. Mundy did not review the administrative intern position, either for qualifications or possible elimination. Mundy had no recall of assigning some of Desmond's time to instruction. What the principal delegated to her would have determined her duties and, hence, how her time was allocated.

Concerning the external review team, Mundy was not sure of the timing. He was aware that Board members were going into schools. There were two construction projects going on. He recognized the January 1997 external report (P-45) and has recall of some portions. He recalls an action plan was developed to address concerns raised by the report. He had another year to go on his contract at that time and was not asked to leave. The Monmouth County

Prosecutor's Office looked into the Asbury Park Superintendent's Office at some point. Mundy believes that inquiry has been concluded.

Mundy had no problems with Desmond. He knows who Chico Rouse is. Mundy was trying to get programs going and an artist in-residence program was discussed. He believes this was never finalized.

James Famularo was Board president when Mundy left. He is not sure Marstiner Hayes' name came up in certification discussions, but he does recall that she was transferred. He has no recall of Famularo asking that Hayes be put in an administrative position or any other position. He believes that all other transfers were made within the scope of appropriate certifications. He recalls no time off for Desmond to take courses. He did not discuss Desmond with Board members and was aware of no one working with improper certification.

DETERMINATION AND ORDER

Desmond alleges she was terminated in retaliation for cooperation with the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office and the Grand Jury. Nothing in the record supports the allegation. The most that can be said is that the Rouse matter was coming to a head at approximately the same time. The State Department, through its County Office, raised questions about certificates held by various Asbury Park employees.

Her second allegation is that no one in the school district mentioned her receipt, or not, of principal certification until she cooperated with the prosecutor. Again, there is no support in the record for this proposition. The two matters, the matter involving Rouse and the Performing Arts curriculum and the matter involving Desmond's principal certificate coincided. Nothing has been shown to establish that they are related.

Desmond's allegation that the District has a policy, created by past practice, of allowing employees time in which to obtain certifications required by their jobs, also is unsupported.

FEB 02 2000 11:18 FR OAL TRENTON 609 588 6536 TO 92924553

The three bases of Desmond's appeal are without merit. Upon examination of the entire record, I FIND:

1. In late June 1993, Patricia Desmond applied for positions of vice principal in the Asbury Park School District;

2. She submitted a resume stating that she held a "supervisor/principal" certificate;

3. Desmond stated at hearing that she included the word principal because she was close to eligibility for the certificate and expected soon to attain it;

4. When Desmond applied for a principal certificate in July 1999, the Office of Licensing and Credentials found she lacked graduate study in three areas, a passing score on the test "Educational Leadership: Administration and Supervision," an offer of employment in a position requiring the principal endorsement and satisfactory completion of the principal residency program under professional certification;

5. Desmond knew or should have known that placing the principal notation in her resume constituted a misrepresentation;

6. Desmond made a similar misrepresentation to the State Operated Jersey City School District in 1991;

7. Throughout her employment in Asbury Park, Desmond held a valid supervisor certificate;

8. At no time during her employment in Asbury Park did Desmond possess a valid principal certificate;

9. No one in the Asbury Park public school administration pursued the matter of Desmond's certificate until the matter was brought to the administration's attention by the County Superintendent;

10. There is nothing in the record to establish a connection between any cooperation Desmond might have extended to the Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office and the matter of her nonpossession of a principal certificate;

11. There is nothing in the record to support Desmond's contention that the District had a policy, created by past practice, of allowing various employees to obtain certifications while holding jobs that required those particular certifications;

12. Marstiner Hayes reasonably believed she was eligible for a supervisor certificate based on what faculty at Monmouth University told her;

13. Hayes had been misadvised by persons at Monmouth University and, upon learning this (1) advised administration immediately, (2) was relieved of duties that required possession of a supervisor certificate and (3) completed her remaining requirement for the certificate in a very short time;

14. Other persons about whom certification questions were raised satisfactorily showed that only name or social security number errors existed in their respective cases.

I CONCLUDE that the certificates of Hayes and Desmond were the only two cases in which there was more than a clerical error. The difference, of course, is that Hayes acted in good faith. She reasonably relied on the advice of persons at her university. To the credit of the University and Hayes, as soon as the problem was detected, steps were taken to correct it. The District properly removed duties from Hayes that would require holding a supervisor certificate. Before the next academic year began, Hayes had completed all requirements for the certificate and, indeed, it issued.

The circumstances surrounding Desmond's nonpossession of a principal certificate are different. Desmond served for nearly a year in the Jersey City State Operated School District and never produced the certificates she claimed to hold. She accomplished the same feat in Asbury Park from 1993 until 1998. Any assertion that the District knew what certificates Desmond held is only coincidentally true. Desmond submitted to the District the certificates she did, indeed, possess. These were, in turn, recorded by the County Superintendent's Office. These were certificates to serve as Teacher of English, Teacher of Reading, Reading Specialist and Supervisor. The District, however, believed that Desmond also held a valid principal certificate.

It is clear that the District failed to carry through its obligation to check the certificates Desmond held. Negligence or even nonfeasance on the District's part cannot excuse dishonesty on Desmond's part. Whatever subsidiary issues may exist, this conclusion is of the utmost importance. Resume inflation is, unfortunately, commonplace in today's society. However, at some point, inflation becomes misrepresentation and that cannot be tolerated.

As the Commissioner of Education has observed, teaching staff members are professional employees to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of tens of thousands of school children with the hope that this trust will result in the maximum educational growth and development of each individual child. This heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment. Tenure Hearing of Jacque L. Sammons, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321. The professional responsibility imposed on teaching staff members, that is, all persons required to hold certificates issued by the New Jersey State Board of Examiners, extends to every aspect of professional life. This requires candor in dealing with colleagues, subordinates and superordinates.

The posting for middle school vice principal (R-1) merely calls for "A valid State certificate." Inasmuch as the position is a position that requires the occupant to hold a principal certificate, the valid State certificate is the principal certificate. N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2 provides:

> No teaching staff member shall be employed in the public schools by any board of education unless he is the holder of a valid certificate to teach, administer, direct or supervise the teaching, instruction, or educational guidance of, or to render or administer, > direct or supervise the rendering of nursing service to, pupils in such public schools and of such other certificate, if any, as may be required by law.

N.J.S.A. 18A:27-2 provides:

> Any contract or engagement of any teaching staff member, shall cease and determine whenever the employing board of education shall ascertain by written notice received from the county or city superintendent of schools, or in any other manner, that such person is not, or has ceased to be, the holder of an appropriate certificate required by this title for such employment, notwithstanding that the term of such employment shall not then have expired.

In light of the findings and conclusions, above, there is no leeway here. Desmond's contract was void ab initio. Thus, tenure rights never attached. The Board has wrongfully paid monies to Desmond. This tribunal has no jurisdiction over that aspect of the case. The Board of Education of the City of Asbury Park may seek its remedies in the Superior Court of New Jersey.

In summary, I FIND and CONCLUDE that none of Desmond's allegations can be supported because she made a knowing and material misrepresentation of fact to the Board in each of her two applications for employment in July 1993. The governing statutes, N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2 and N.J.S.A. 18A:27-2, are clear and unambiguous. Under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-2, Desmond's employment, if it ever existed, ceased when the County Office advised the District that Desmond does not hold a principal certificate.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that any employment relationship between Patricia Desmond and the Asbury Park Board of Education is dissolved effective April 27, 1998, the date upon which the Board received the County Office notification that Desmond had been assigned without the appropriate license to the position of vice principal. It is further ORDERED that so much of Desmond's appeal as is properly before the Commissioner of Education is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter including the transcripts and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed.[1]

Upon his independent review, the Commissioner determines to affirm the well-supported conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) finding that petitioner made a knowing and material misrepresentation of the facts when she listed her certificates held as "Supervisor of Instruction/Principal, K-12," and "Supervisor/Principal" on her resume and employment application, respectively. (Respondent's Exhibits 2 & 5) Although the District failed to fulfill its obligation to verify petitioner's certificates, the District's negligence cannot excuse petitioner's actions.

Since petitioner has never held a principal certification, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that, under N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2 and N.J.S.A. 18A:27-2, petitioner's employment, if it ever existed, ceased when the County Office advised the District that petitioner did not hold a principal certificate. The Commissioner further agrees that, because petitioner's contract was void ab initio, tenure rights never attached. (Initial Decision at 36)

Additionally, there is nothing in the record to support petitioner's claims of retaliation. Nor is there any evidence to support her contention that the District has a past practice of "allowing various employees to obtain their certificates." (Amended Complaint at 12)

Accordingly, the Initial Decision in this matter is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. Any employment relationship between petitioner and the Asbury Park Board of Education is dissolved effective April 27, 1998, the date upon which the Board received the notification from the County Office that petitioner had been assigned to the position of vice principal without the appropriate principal certification.[2]

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION ON MOTION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board sought a declaration that respondents were not domiciled within its District during the 1997-98 school year. Petitioner subsequently filed an amended petition seeking the same determination for the 1998-99 school year.

At the OAL the ALJ granted petitioner's motion for partial summary decision as to the 1997-98 school year, finding that respondents offered nothing by way of responding affidavits or certifications demonstrating disagreement to require submission to a factfinder whether respondents were domiciled in petitioner's District for that year. The ALJ concluded that the doctrine of judicial estoppel precluded respondents from asserting that they were domiciliaries of petitioner's District in Hunterdon County when they maintained in prior litigation concerning the same school year that they were domiciled in another district in Somerset County. The ALJ denied without prejudice those portions of petitioner's motion seeking a declaration that respondents intentionally misrepresented their place of domicile to petitioner at the start of the 1997-98 school year so as to obtain a free education for their children and that respondents' defense to petitioner's 1997-98 tuition claim was frivolous, thereby permitting petitioner to pursue a claim for attorney's fees.

The Commissioner affirmed the recommended Order of the ALJ, concurring that respondents are estopped from asserting the inconsistent positions that they were domiciled in Branchburg and Flemington in the 1997-98 school year and finding that since respondents were not legally domiciled in petitioner's District during the 1997-98 school year, petitioner is entitled to recover $22,878 representing costs to educate respondents' two children during that year. The Commissioner further affirmed the ALJ's ruling on the intentional misrepresentation and frivolous defense claims and ordered the matter to continue at OAL for proceedings on the Amended Petition of Appeal, which seeks reimbursement of tuition costs for the 1998-99 school year.

Petitioner,

E.F. AND G.F.,

Respondents.

James P. Granello, Esq., for petitioner

Arnold M. Mellk, Esq., for respondent (Wills, O'Neill & Mellk, attorneys)

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, a regional school district board of education, filed a petition of appeal on June 11, 1998, requested a declaration that respondents were not legally domiciled within Hunterdon Central Regional School District during the 1997-1998 school year and entitling petitioner to recover from respondents tuition expenses plus legal interest and such other relief as may be appropriate. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on July 14, 1998, for hearing as a contested case.

By application dated June 10, 1998, attorney for petitioner requested entry upon the land or properties of respondents for inspection or other purposes, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.2(a)3 and sought an order to this effect. A letter order was entered on August 21, 1998, denying this request.

The matter was then scheduled for a telephone conference on August 18, 1998, and was scheduled for hearing on November 12, 1998. On August 25, 1998, attorney for petitioner requested an adjournment of the scheduled hearing because of the unavailability of witnesses, and the matter was adjourned and rescheduled to January 6 and 7, 1999.

On October 19, 1998, attorney for respondents sought a stay of this matter because the respondents had filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in May 1998. By letter order dated January 13, 1999, it was ordered that proceedings in this matter be stayed until such time as relief from the automatic stay provision of the Bankruptcy Act is granted or the bankruptcy case is closed, dismissed or discharged. In the meantime, an order of inactivity was entered for a period of six months commencing on January 13, 1999.

In the meantime, petitioner filed an amended petition of appeal seeking a determination that respondents were not legally domiciled within Hunterdon Central Regional School District and entitling petitioner to recover from respondents tuition expenses plus legal interest and such other relief as may be appropriate with respect to the 1998-99 school year and seeking the payment of tuition cost, interest and other relief. This amended petition of appeal was forwarded to the OAL on December 2, 1998.

An Order was entered in the United States Bankruptcy Court on April 28, 1999, granting relief from the automatic stay and petitioners were permitted to proceed against respondent through judgment only, but may not seek to collect on said judgment without further leave of the Bankruptcy Court. By letter order dated May 27, 1999, the matter was scheduled for a telephone prehearing conference on June 23, 1999. At that prehearing conference it was agreed that respondents were to file an answer to the amended petition no later than July 7, 1999, each party was required to respond to any outstanding discovery not later than July 23, 1999, and petitioner had until July 23, 1999, to file a motion for summary judgment with regard to the 1997-98 school year. In addition, the matter was scheduled for hearing on January 3, 5, 6 and 7, 2000.

Attorney for petitioner filed the within notice of motion on July 23, 1999, and attorney for respondent responded thereto on August 4, 1999. Attorney for petitioner filed a reply letter on August 5, 1999, whereupon the record closed with respect to the motion.

DISCUSSION OF THE MOTION

1. Summary Decision Standard

The first issue before me is whether this matter may be decided by way of motion for summary decision. With respect to a motion for summary decision, N.J.A.C. 1:12-5(b) states:

> The decision sought may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law.

This administrative code provision is based on New Jersey Court Rule 4:46-2, which permits a party to move for summary judgment. Summary judgment, or summary decision in the administrative context, is a device for expeditiously reviewing the merits of a case to determine if the moving party is entitled to a favorable decision without the necessity of hearing. See, Judson v. People Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 73-75 (1954). It may be granted if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, clearly show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b); Templeton v. Boro. of Glen Rock, 11 Super. 1, 4 (App. Div. 1950). As the Supreme Court recently stated:

> . . .[A] determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether there competent evidential materials > presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not himself [of herself] to weight the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial."

Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995) citing Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 249 (1986). It was indicated by the Court in Brill at 529 "[b]y its plain language, Rule 4:46-2 dictates that a Court should deny a summary judgment only where the party opposing the motion has come forward with evidence that creates a 'genuine issue as to any material fact challenged.' A nonmoving party cannot defeat a motion for summary judgment merely by pointing to any fact in dispute." Id. At 529.

Where the party opposing a summary judgment motion points only to disputed issues that are "insubstantial" in nature, the proper disposition is summary judgment. Id. A motion judge must engage in an analytical process essentially the same as that necessary to rule on a motion for a directed verdict." Whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a jury or whether it is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 533; Anderson v. Liberty Lobby Inc., 477 U.S. 242 (1986).

The thrust of the Brill decision is to encourage trial courts not to refrain from granting summary judgment when the proper circumstances present themselves. Brill, supra. at 541.

I will now discuss petitioner's motion for summary decision in light of the foregoing standards.

2. Discussion of the Motion

Petitioner's first argument is that in prior litigation against the Branchburg Township Board of Education commencing in 1996 and concluded in April 1998, it was maintained that respondent E.F. and his family were long term residents of Branchburg Township and were legally entitled to have the Branchburg Township Board of Education pay for the tuition for R.F. to attend Hunterdon Central Regional High School for both the 1996-97 school year as well as the 1997-1998 school year. Petitioner asserts that under the doctrine of judicial estoppel a party is precluded from assuming a position in a legal proceeding inconsistent with one previously asserted. Petitioner argues that virtually all courts have recognized that the doctrine of judicial estoppel is fundamental in protecting the integrity of the judicial process. This doctrine precludes a party from taking inconsistent positions, and applies as well to representations made by a party's attorney in a brief. Petitioner argues that the attorney for E.F. in the prior litigation filed a post-hearing brief on January 8, 1998, wherein it was stated that E.F. and his family reside in Branchburg Township.

In response, attorney for respondent takes the position that in the previous matter, respondents were indeed domiciled in Branchburg but that before the commencement of the instant litigation they became domiciliaries in Flemington. He points out that on August 6, 1998, their bankruptcy attorney filed a letter with the Bankruptcy Court correcting respondent's address from Somerville to Flemington. In addition, he relies upon the affidavit of Michael T. Barrett, Esq., the attorney for E.F. in the Branchburg case, dated July 9, 1999, asserting that prior to the Administrative Law Judge on September 18, 1997, the respondents had advised him that they had relocated from Branchburg to Flemington. Therefore, attorney for respondent argues that the cases relied on by petitioner do not apply because the respondents' situation clearly changed. He further argues that one of the cases decided by the Third Circuit called judicial estoppel, "a draconian sanction, one that should be evoked only with reluctance." Kline v. Stahl J.M.B.H. and Co., 1999 W.L. 498053 (3rd Cir. Pa.) and that it must, at a minimum, pass the two-part threshold inquiry set out by Ryan Operations G.P. v. Santiam-Midwest Lumber Co., 81 F. 3d. 355, 360 (3rd Cir. 1996): (1). Is the party's present position inconsistent with the position formerly asserted? (2). If so, did the party assert either or both of the inconsistent positions in bad faith – i.e., with intent to play fast and loose with the court? Further, any finding of bad faith must be based on more than inconsistency in factual positions." McNamer v. Disney Store, Inc., 91 F. 3d. 610, 617 (3rd Cir. 1996).

In E.F. on behalf of R.F. v. Board of Education of the Township of Branchburg, Somerset County, E.F., who is one of the respondent's herein, sought an order requiring that the Branchburg Township Board of Education pay tuition for R.F.'s attendance at Hunterdon Central Regional High School for the 1996-97 and 1997-98 school years. The record in that matter closed on January 26, 1998. Implicit in the claim for E.F. is that he is a resident and domiciliary of Branchburg Township and sought to have the Branchburg Township Board of Education pay tuition for his child's attendance at Hunterdon Central Regional High School. The ALJ decided that E.F. had no legally cognizable right nor legitimate legal expectation of tuition reimbursement for either school year 1996-97 or 1997-98 and no right to expect tuition to be paid by Branchburg for R.F.'s attendance at Hunterdon Central Regional High School in future years. This decision was affirmed by the Commissioner of the Department of Education on April 27, 1998.

I agree with the argument of attorney for petitioner with regard to this matter. Under the doctrine of judicial estoppel a party is precluded from assuming a position in a legal proceeding inconsistent with one previously asserted. Cummings v. Bahr, 295 N.J. Super. 374-385 (App. Div. 1995). Virtually all courts have recognized that the doctrine of judicial estoppel is fundamental in protecting the integrity of the judicial process. Levin v. Robinson, Wayne and LaSala, 246 N.J. Super. 167, 179 (Law Div. 1990). This doctrine precludes a party from taking inconsistent positions, and applies as well to representations made by a party's attorney in a brief. Id. at page 180. The attorney for E.F. in the prior litigation filed a post-hearing brief on January 8, 1998, wherein it was stated that E.F. and his family reside in Branchburg Township.

Under these circumstances, I FIND that the doctrine of judicial estoppel precludes respondents herein from assuming a position in the present matter that is inconsistent with the position taken in the prior legal proceeding involving E.F. and his claim against the Branchburg Township Board of Education for the 1997-1998 school year. Because of the determination I have made with respect to the issue of domicile, I FIND that it is unnecessary to determine the extent of this preclusion.

Petitioner additionally argues that the motion papers together with the admissions and discovery responded to by respondents herein supports the finding that they have established a permanent residence or domicile in Branchburg Township and did not abandon that permanent residence or domicile prior to or during the 1997-1998 school year. Petitioner points to the admission by respondents that they have owned and lived with their family in a four-bedroom home in Somerville, Branchburg Township for 26 years and have indicted that since September 1997 they have rented a one-bedroom apartment which they claim has become their permanent residence or domicile for themselves and their two unemancipated teenaged children. They continue to own the Somerville residence and they continue to pay the significant expenses for maintenance, taxes and most of the utilitites as well as homeowner's insurance. In May 1998, respondents filed for voluntary bankruptcy giving the Branchburg Township address as their place of residence. They filed a changed of address with the Bankruptcy Court on August 12, 1998.

Attorney for respondents argues that respondents herein maintain that they are indeed domiciled in Flemington and there is evidence in the record to support the contention including their verified petition, the lease for the apartment, the affidavit of their attorney Mr. Barret, and utility bills. In response, petitioner argues that the lease is illegal since it does not permit occupancy by a family of four, and the utility bills and other expenses for the home exceed those for the apartment.

Pursuant to *N.J.S.A.*18A:38-1, free public education shall be provided to any person over five and under twenty years of age who is domiciled within the school district. In general, domicile is the place of a person's abode where he or she has the present intent of remaining and to which, if absent, he or she intends to return. Mercadante v. City Paterson, 111 *N.J.Super.*35, 39 (Ch.Div. 1970). Courts have recognized that a person may have multiple residences, but only one domicile, State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238, 251 (1955); In re Jaffe, 74 N.J. 86, 90-91 (1977); Lea v. Lea, 18 N.J. 1, (1955). In the Mercadante case, the court stated that the following factors are important in determining the domicile of a person:

> . . . the physical characteristics of each [place], the time spent and the things done in each place, the other persons found there, the person's mental attitude towards each place, and whether there is or is not an intention, when absent, to return.
> [111 N.J. Super. At 39-40]

In In the Matter of Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 376 (Law Div. 1991), the court stated that "a choice of domicile by a person, irrespective of his motive, will be honored by the court, provided there are sufficient objective indicia, by way of proofs, supporting the actual existence of that domicile." In general, the courts have recognized that intent is the decisive factor in establishing domicile. Benny, supra, 20 N.J. 238, Unanue, supra, 255 N.J. Super. 362; Collins v. Yancey, 55 N.J. Super. 514 (Law Div. 1959). The Commissioner has recognized that the determining factor in deciding a family domicile is a matter of intent. *Fort Lee Board of Education v. Students between the ages of five and under twenty living in Branchburg Township are entitled to attend the public schools in the Branchburg Township school district at the elementary level and Somerville High School at the secondary level on a tuition-free basis. Pursuant to petitioner's Policy 5118, children of nonresident employees of the petitioner may enroll their children in the school district's high school with the payment of tuition. Respondent E.F. has been employed as a teacher of mathematics by the Board of Education for the past twenty-five (25) years.

Beginning in the 1996-97 school year, respondents, as nonresidents of the Hunterdon County Central school district, enrolled their son R.F. in the ninth grade and paid the full cost of tuition for his attendance at school. During this year and for the previous 25 years, respondents resided at 219 County Line Road, Somerville (Branchburg Township) Somerset County, New Jersey.

Prior to the start of the 1996-97 school year, respondent E.F. filed a petition of appeal to the Commissioner of Education challenging the denial by the Branchburg Township Board of Education to pay the tuition for R.F. to attend Hunterdon Central High School. (P-1) E.F. on behalf of minor child R.F. v. Board of Education of the Township of Branchburg, Somerset County, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 6593-96, Agency Dkt. No. 234-6/96, decided April 27, 1998. Hunterdon Central Regional High School Board of Education was not a party to this litigation and apparently found out about it through a review of recent Commissioner of Education decisions. See also, respondents' letter to Commissioner of Education dated June 26, 1996 (P-11). The petition in that matter sought tuition payments for the school years 1996-1997 and 1997-1998. In that matter, respondent E.F. maintained throughout that he and his family were residents of Branchburg Township. See the post hearing letter memorandum on behalf of petitioner E.F. dated January 8, 1998 submitted by Bergman & Barrett, Esqs., attorneys for petitioner. The record of that case was closed on January 26, 1998, the initial decision was issued on March 11, 1998, and the Commissioner of Education's decision was issued on April 27, 1998.

Respondents E.F. and G.F. filed a voluntary petition of bankruptcy on May 4, 1998, before the U.S. Bankruptcy Court, District of New Jersey, in which they declared that they resided at 219 County Line Road, Somerville, New Jersey. (P-2) See, In re Emeral J. Foster and Glenn A. Foster, U.S. Bankruptcy Court, District of New Jersey, Docket No. 98-35604, filed May 4, 1998. According to attorney for petitioner, the Hunterdon Central Regional High School Board of Education was not named as a creditor in the petition but subsequently discovered its existence in August 1998 made a claim shortly thereafter. On August 12, 1998, respondents notified the Bankruptcy Court to change their mailing address to the Flemington apartment. None of the other schedules in the bankruptcy petition were changed. In the schedules which were submitted to the bankruptcy court, respondents claimed a homestead exemption of $30,000 on their residence at 219 County Line Road, Somerville, New Jersey as well as on household furnishings, supplies and equipment and an exemption on personal property in the amount of $8,000 located at the same address. There was no reference to the lease agreement for the one bedroom apartment at Hunter Hills, Flemington, New Jersey on Schedule G with regard to unexpired leases.

At the beginning of the 1997-1998 school year, respondents presented to the petitioner a copy of a one year lease on a one bedroom apartment at Hunter Hills, Flemington, New Jersey and claimed that they and two of their children were domiciled at that address as of September 1, 1997. (P-3) The lease agreement is dated July 12, 1997, commencing September 1, 1997 ending on August 31, 1998 on Apartment E8 (one bedroom). The petitioner accepted this representation an allowed the respondents' two children R.F. and C.F. to attend Hunterdon Central High School tuition-free until May 15, 1998, when the petitioner determined that the respondents continued to own and or periods of time occupy the Branchburg residence and only used the Flemington apartment as a residence of convenience in order to claim entitlement to tuition-free education for their two children who were attending Hunterdon Central High School as of September 1997.

Petitioner demanded tuition reimbursement on May 5, 1998, which was refused by the respondents. See Respondents' answer dated July 1, 1998. Also, see respondents' answer number 8(b) to petitioner's initial set of interrogatories. Thereafter, on June 11, 1998, the petitioner filed a petitioner of appeal with the Commissioner of Education seeking tuition reimbursement. Respondents answered the petition denying continued domicile in Branchburg Township and claiming domicile in Flemington, New Jersey in September 1997.

The statements set forth in the following paragraphs were admitted by the respondent (P-5).

Prior to August 30, 1997, respondents and their two unemancipated teenage children R.F. and C.F. resided at 219 County Line Road, Somerville, Branchburg Township, Somerset County, New Jersey. They considered the Branchburg residence their primary residence until August 30, 1997. Respondents have been the owners of record of the Branchburg residence from 1971 to present. The Branchburg residence is a single family house with four bedrooms and two and one-half baths. (P-10). Since August 30, 1997 to present, respondents have not contracted for sale, leased, or otherwise given up their right of ownership and/or right of possession to the Branchburg residence. Since August 30, 1997 to present, respondents have been responsible for the payment of the property taxes charged to the Branchburg residence. Since August 30, 1997 to present, respondents have been responsible or the payment of all electric and gas bills charged to the Branchburg resident. Also, they have paid the telephone bills for the Branchburg residence at least during the months of March, April and May 1998. (P-6).

On January 27, 1998, respondent renewed their homeowners policy on the Branchburg residence for the period January 1998 to January 1999 for an annual premium payment of $498.60. This insurance coverage included limits of liability for dwelling of $200,000, personal property of $120.00, and loss of use of $40,000 among other coverage. (P-7). Respondents were requested in discovery to produce a true copy of any renter's insurance policy on their Flemington apartment, including contents, but failed to produce same.

Respondents admitted that they and their two unemancipated children have stayed overnight at the Branchburg residence during the 1997-1998 school year, including September 2 and 3, 1997, September 30, 1997, December 24-28, 1997, two nights over the Spring/Easter school break, and several Saturday nights since May 1998. Respondents admitted that they spent Christmas 1997 at the Branchburg residence.

Both respondents registered to vote on May 26, 1998, giving the Flemington apartment as their address. (P-8). This registration occurred after respondent E.F. was placed on notice on May 15, 1998 that the petitioner was disputing domicile. Since that time neither respondent has voted using their Flemington address. Respondents are still listed as having active voter registration status at the Branchburg residence. (P-6).

A motor vehicle registration for one of the respondents' motor vehicles was submitted in discovery having been issued in March 1998 with the Flemington address (P-6).

Electric bills for the Flemington apartment where two adults and two teenage children are allege to reside were submitted in discovery and included seven monthly bills from September 1997 to May 1998 ranging from $12.24 to $18.36 per month, and from May to July 1998, after respondent's were placed on notice of the dispute, ranging from $33.82 and $76.54

Electric bills for the Branchburg residence submitted in discovery included three bills from November 1997 to June 1998 ranging from $55.65 to $68.80. The respondents assert that one person, an older daughter, was living at the Branchburg residence at that time.

Gas heating bills for the Branchburg residence submitted in discovery included bills ranging from $113.97 to $131.96 from December 1997 to February 1998 (P-6)

The telephone bills for the Flemington apartment submitted in discovery included three bills for November and December 1997 and May 1998 ranging from $15.83 to $24.92 (P-6).

Telephone bills for the Branchburg resident submitted during discovery included bills for February and March 1997 and May 1998 ranging from $48.20 to $82.14. Telephone payments for March, 1998 was $124.36 and for April and May 1998 were $188.89 each (P-6).

Also included were payments made to Bell Atlantic in 1996 while respondents admitted they were living in Branchburg on December 1, 1996 in the amount of $70.34 and on December 29, 1996 in the amount of $71.08.

The lease agreement entered into beginning in September 1997 states that it is a one year lease ending August 31, 1998 (P-3). The lease is for a one bedroom apartment with rent at $765.00 per month. Paragraph 10 states: "If the premises demised hereunder is a one-bedroom apartment, it is agreed that no more than two people may occupy same, the Tenant and one other." Paragraph 4 of the lease also provides that the Tenant shall conform to all rules and regulations printed on the lease. Respondents maintain that they and their two unemancipated children occupy the apartment. Grounds for eviction under New Jersey law include substantial violations or breach of any of the covenants or agreements contained in lease. N.J.S.A. 2A:18-61.1(e). Apparently, the landlord has not objected to the manner in which the respondents occupy the apartment.

Respondents continued to use a personal checking account with a Branchburg address during the 1997-1998 school year. See Check Nos. 2285 and 2385. (P-9)

Witness Jennifer Spieker, a school vice-principal, observed respondents during the 1997-1998 school year arriving at school in the morning from the direction of Branchburg and leaving in the afternoon heading toward Branchburg, which is in the opposite direction of Flemington (P-9). Ginger McCabe, a school guidance counselor, observed the respondents' cars parked at the Branchburg residence on several days during March 1998. Another witness, Scott O'Brien, the building manager at the Hunter Hills apartment complex in Flemington, saw the respondents mostly on weekends. He did not observe them staying overnight at the apartment too often. Inside the apartment he observed only a make-shift table, beds, a couch, and some toothbrushes-bare basics. A private detective hired by the petitioner, James Marino, observed the respondents on July 18, 1998, coming out of the Flemington apartment and driving directly to the Branchburg address, opening the garage door and going inside carrying a garbage bag. On the following day they were observed leaving Flemington and heading toward Branchburg. He never observed the F. children at any time.

As was previously indicated, a court or administrative tribunal should deny a summary judgment only where the party opposing the motion has come forward with evidence that creates a 'genuine issue as to any material fact challenged.' A nonmoving party cannot defeat a motion for summary judgment merely by pointing to any fact in dispute." Brill at 529. Where the party opposing a summary judgment motion points only to disputed issues that are "insubstantial" in nature, the proper disposition is summary judgment. Id. A motion judge must engage in an analytical process essentially the same as that necessary to rule on a motion for a directed verdict." Whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a fact-finder or whether it is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law."

I agree with the assertions of attorney for petitioner in his reply letter of August 4, 1999 (P-13), that respondents have offered nothing by way of responding affidavits or certifications which shows that there is a genuine issue of fact which can only be determined by an evidentiary hearing. The reliance on respondents' attorney's letter of June 30, 1999, is insufficient in view of the undisputed factual assertion that none of the bankruptcy petitions schedules were amended to reflect a change in the homestead exemption or personal property exemption for respondents' residence in Branchburg Township. I agree, in addition, that the affidavit filed by attorney Michael T. Barrett, Esq., also fails to raise a genuine issue of fact. Respondents have failed to come forward with any affidavits or certifications which would dispute these discovery responses and admissions or to point out factual information upon which to base a finding that there is a genuine issue of any material fact challenged. In view of the admissions made by respondent's in discovery, in light of the situation with regard to the bankruptcy petition, in view of my finding and conclusion with respect to the issue of judicial estoppel, and in light of all of the facts and circumstances discussed hereinabove, I FIND that the evidence does not present a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a factfinder whether respondents herein were domiciled within Flemington, New Jersey during the 1997-1998 school year so as to claim this as their domicile. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that respondents were not legally domiciled within the Hunterdon Central Regional School District during the 1997-98 school year. Therefore, I FIND that petitioner is entitled to recover from respondent tuition expenses for the 1997-98 school year.

In its brief, attorney for petitioner seeks a finding that respondents intentionally misrepresented their place of domicile to the school district at the beginning of and during the 1997-98 school year in order to obtain a free public education for their children at the expense of petitioner. However, I FIND that it is virtually impossible for me to determine, based on the motion papers submitted, that respondents made an intentional misrepresentation in this regard. Petitioner must show that respondents knew at the time that they made these misrepresentations that they were false and misleading. Under these circumstances I DENY this portion of petitioner's motion without prejudice.

In addition, attorney for petitioner seeks a finding that respondents' defense to petitioner's claim was frivolous. In order to establish this it is necessary that I find that respondents could not hold a good faith belief that their defense would prevail once all the facts were brought to light before this tribunal. Likewise, I FIND that something more than the documents supplied in support of the motion is necessary in order to determine that respondent's position in this matter is frivolous. Accordingly I DENY petitioner's request with respect to this issue without prejudice.

Since petitioner's motion dealt with the 1997-98 school year, and since petitioner herein filed an amended petition of appeal with respect to the 1998-99 school year, this decision does not resolve all issues in controversy in this matter. Accordingly, I have entered an Order granting partial summary decision with respect to the 1997-98 school year only rather than an initial decision which would have the effect of deciding all issues in controversy.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based upon the foregoing discussion it is hereby DETERMINED that respondents were not legally domiciled within Hunterdon Central Regional School District during the 1997-98 school year, and it is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's motion for summary decision with respect to this issue is hereby GRANTED. It is further ORDERED that petitioner is entitled to recover from respondents tuition expenses and such other relief as may be appropriate with respect to the 1997-98 school year. It is further ORDERED that all other relief requested by petitioner in its motion is hereby DENIED without prejudice.

This order granting partial summary decision is being submitted under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(e) for immediate review. This recommended order may be adopted, modified or rejected by the Commissioner of the Department of Education who by law is authorized to make the final decision in this matter. If Commissioner of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended order shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this order was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 194-6/98

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE HUNTERDON CENTRAL REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, HUNTERDON COUNTY,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
PETITIONER,	:	DECISION ON MOTION
V.	:
E.F. AND G.F.,	:
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the recommended Order of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Both the Board and respondents filed exception arguments, and the Board filed a reply, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

The Board asserts in its exceptions that (1) there is sufficient material evidence to find that respondents made intentional misrepresentations as to their domicile at the beginning of, and during, the 1997-1998 school year; (2) there is sufficient material evidence to find that respondents' defense to the Board's claim was frivolous; (3) the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) failed to address the Board's motion for sanctions against respondents pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.14 for failure to complete discovery in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.1 et seq.; and (4) the ALJ failed to address the Board's request for pre- and post-judgment interest, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.16.

Respondents contend in their exceptions that the doctrine of judicial estoppel does not apply, since they are not now asserting an inconsistent legal theory or position. Rather, they aver that "[i]n the previous matter, [they] were domiciled in Branchburg. Presently, and before the commencement of the instant litigation, [they] relocated and became domiciled in Flemington." (Respondent's Exceptions at 2) Respondents reason that they are simply asserting a "change in a factual situation." (Id.) Additionally, respondents argue there is a genuine issue of material fact as to whether they were domiciled in Flemington during the 1997-1998 school year, sufficient to warrant submission of this matter to a factfinder. Thus, they maintain that the ALJ's Order granting partial summary decision to the Board should be rejected. (Id. at 4)

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to affirm the recommended Order of the ALJ. Initially, the Commissioner concurs that the doctrine of judicial estoppel precludes respondents from asserting in the present matter that they were domiciliaries of Flemington during the 1997-1998 school year, when they maintained in prior litigation before the Commissioner that they were living in Branchburg during the same school year. In this connection, the Commissioner observes that, notwithstanding respondents' contention, as noted above, that "[i]n the previous matter, [they] were domiciled in Branchburg [, but p]resently, and before the commencement of the instant litigation [in June of 1998] respondents relocated and became domiciled in Flemington" (Respondent's Exceptions at 2), they also argued before the ALJ that they "established their domicile in Flemington before the start of the 1997-1998 school year, as evidenced by Mr. Barrett's affidavit, respondent's lease, and respondent's verified petition." (Respondents' Brief in Opposition to Board's Motion for Summary Decision at 5-6) (emphasis added)

The Hunterdon Central Regional Board has maintained that, "[a]t the beginning of the 1997-1998 school year, respondents presented to [it] a copy of a one (1) year lease on a one (1) bedroom apartment at Hunter Hills, Flemington, New Jersey and claimed that they and two of their children were domiciled at that address as of September 1, 1997." (Brief in Support of Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision at 4) Based on their representations, respondents' two children were permitted to attend the Hunterdon Central Regional High School, free of charge, from September 1997 until May 1998, when the Hunterdon Board determined that respondents continued to own their Branchburg residence and, consequently, the Board challenged respondents' claim of domicile in its District. (Id. at 4)

Yet, as the ALJ noted, during the 1997-1998 school year, respondents' prior litigation was still in progress. Hearings were conducted in the matter of E.F., on behalf of minor child, R.F. v. Board of Education of the Township of Branchburg, Somerset County, on February 25 and 28, 1997 and September 18, 1997 at the Office of Administrative Law. (E.F., slip. op. at 2) (See also P-1 at 2) The Initial Decision was issued on March 11, 1998, and the Commissioner's decision was issued on April 27, 1998. Throughout this litigation with the Branchburg Board of Education, and notwithstanding respondents' claim addressed to the Hunterdon Central Regional Board that they changed their domicile prior to the start of the 1997-1998 school year, E.F. and G.F. maintained they were residents of Branchburg during the 1996-1997 and 1997-1998 school years for the purpose of prosecuting their suit against Branchburg. (Brief in Support of Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision at 3) "'The doctrine of judicial estoppel is an equitable doctrine whose primary purposes are to promote the truth and to prevent parties from deliberately shifting positions to suit the exigencies of the moment.'" Levin v. Robinson, Wayne & La Sala, 246 N.J.Super. 167, 195 (Law Div. 1990), quoting Department of Transp. v. Coe, 112 *Ill. App.*3d 506, 510, 68 Ill.Dec. 58, 60, 445 *N.E.*2d 506, 508 (1983).

Moreover, respondents' affirmation in the prior proceeding that they were domiciliaries of Branchburg was "successful," in that it helped to form the basis of the ALJ's and the Commissioner's determination in that matter. See Cummings v. Bahr, 295 N.J. Super. 374, 387 (App. Div. 1996).[1] "If a court has based a final decision, even in part, on a party's assertion, that same party is thereafter precluded from asserting a contradictory position." (Id. at 387-388) The Commissioner additionally notes that the doctrine has been applied in quasi-judicial proceedings to preclude a casino employee from introducing evidence at his license-revocation hearing before the Casino Control Commission which was inconsistent with his prior plea of guilty to the offenses of conspiracy to possess and distribute marijuana and possession of marijuana with intent to distribute in a school zone. State, Dept. of Law v. Gonzalez, 142 N.J. 618, 632, 633 (1995).

Further, respondents' claim, as raised in their exceptions before the Commissioner, that they were relying upon "the advice of counsel" when they failed to duly inform the ALJ of the change in their domicile in the course of the E.F. v. Branchburg proceedings, is disingenuous. Although respondents' counsel in the prior matter, Michael T. Barrett, Esq., indeed, admits that he withheld from the ALJ his knowledge, obtained prior to the September 1997 hearing date in that case, that respondents advised him that "they had relocated to Flemington," (Barrett Affidavit at 2), respondents cannot now insulate themselves from having taken such a position, where, as the Board herein recognizes, they "could have limited the issue [in the prior lawsuit] to only the [recovery of tuition for] the 1996-1997 school year but chose not to do so, apparently accepting the faulty reasoning offered by Mr. Barrett." [2] (Reply Brief in Support of Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision at 2) (See

[1] Therein, both the ALJ and the Commissioner agreed that petitioner failed to demonstrate that his son, as a resident of Branchburg, had a legal entitlement to attend the Hunterdon County Regional High School District, and the Board of Education of the Township of Branchburg, therefore, was under no obligation to pay R.F.'s tuition for attendance at Hunterdon Central Regional High School. (E.F., supra, slip. op. at 11, 14)

[2] Mr. Barrett attests that he withheld such information from the ALJ because he believed the respondents' move "did not impact upon the ultimate issue of the case, i.e., whether Branchburg has an obligation to pay tuition costs of one of its residents matriculating to Hunterdon Central, in light of the District's past practice." (Barrett Affidavit at 3) Additionally, Barrett was concerned that "the change in dynamic might affect the Judge's consideration of the

also, Levin v. Robinson, Wayne & La Sala, 246 N.J. Super. at 178, where the Court rejected plaintiff's argument that judicial estoppel was not applicable since the position he asserted in his prior matrimonial action was offered "in good faith and upon advice of counsel." Instead, the Court adopted the view that there can be no "good faith exception" with respect to either mistakes of law or fact, since such assertions could emasculate the doctrine of judicial estoppel. (Id. at 185) The Court further dismissed the plaintiff's assertion that his contradictory position in a prior proceeding was taken without an intent to deceive the Court. (Id. at 186)

Having determined that respondents are precluded from asserting the inconsistent positions that they were domiciled in Branchburg during the 1997-1998 school year (E.F., supra) and in Flemington during the 1997-1998 school year, (Respondents' Brief in Opposition to Board's Motion for Summary Decision at 5-6), and noting his concurrence with the ALJ that the record herein is ripe for summary decision with respect to the question of respondents' domicile during the 1997-1998 school year, the Commissioner further affirms the ALJ's finding that respondents were not legally domiciled within the Hunterdon School District during the 1997-1998 school year, and the Board, consequently, is entitled to recover $22,878 representing costs to educate respondents' two children during that year. (Board's Exceptions at 3)

However, like the ALJ, the Commissioner declines to find on the basis of the record before him that respondents intentionally misrepresented their place of domicile to the school district at the start of the 1997-1998 school year so as to obtain a free education for their children, or that respondents' defense to the Board's 1997-1998 tuition claim was frivolous, so as to permit the Board to pursue a potential claim for attorney's fees in court. (Board's Exceptions case" and affirmed that "if the Judge knew that there was only one (1) year of tuition in issue, rather than four (4) years, she might find it easier to decide against the [respondents]." (Id.) at 3) The Commissioner, therefore, denies the Board's motion with respect to these issues, without prejudice. Similarly, noting the absence of arguments on the record pertaining to the issue of pre-judgment interest, the Commissioner makes no findings on this issue at this stage of the proceedings. The Commissioner further determines that the Board's request for findings regarding post-judgment interest is premature, in that post-judgment interest may be awarded when a respondent has been determined through adjudication to be responsible for a judgment, but has failed to satisfy the claim within 60 days of its award. (N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.16(c)2)

With respect to the Board's request for monetary sanctions against respondents under N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.14 for failure to complete discovery in accordance with OAL regulations, the Commissioner recognizes that he is not the agency head for purposes of review of said sanctions, and that the Board's request must be reviewed by the Director of the OAL in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.2(c)4.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the ALJ is affirmed; the Board's motion for summary decision is granted in part, and denied in part for the reasons expressed in the ALJ's Order and amplified above. This matter shall continue at the OAL, with further proceedings in accordance with this Order and the Board's Amended Petition of Appeal, which asserts a claim for reimbursement of costs for the 1998-1999 school year.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE	:	DECISION
OF SAWSAN LABIB.	:

Decided by the State Board of Examiners, May 11, 2000

For the Respondent-Appellant, Bucceri & Pincus
(Louis P. Bucceri, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Michael C. Walters, Deputy Attorney General
(John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of New Jersey)

This is an appeal from a determination by the State Board of Examiners to suspend for two years the teaching certification of Sawsan Labib (hereinafter "respondent"), a special education teacher who had been dismissed from her tenured employment by the Commissioner of Education on the basis of tenure charges filed against her by the State-Operated School District of the City of Jersey City (hereinafter "District").

The District's charges were based on respondent's attendance record over an eight-year period. The focus of the charges and of the tenure proceedings was exclusively on the fact of respondent's absences, rather than the circumstances of those absences, and there was no dispute between the parties as to the substance of respondent's attendance record. Hence, the parties were able to stipulate as to respondent's absences during her employment by the District.

As stipulated by the parties, respondent had been absent for 15 days in the 1988-89 school year, 15 days in 1989-1990, 14 days in 1990-1991, 30 days in 1991-1992, 15 days in 1992-93, 85 days in 1993-1994, 150 days in 1994-95, including a continuous absence from March 7, 1995 to the end of the school year, and the entire 1995-96 school year. The parties further stipulated that respondent had been absent without leave since September 21, 1995, that her increment had been withheld in 1994-95 for unsatisfactory teaching performance caused by her absenteeism in 1993-94 and in 1995-96 based on her absenteeism during 1994-95. The parties stipulated that respondent's absences had adversely impacted her classroom teaching performance and had adversely affected the continuity of instruction. The parties also stipulated that respondent claimed that she was permanently disabled and would never be able to return to her employment with the District in any capacity, and that she had applied for an accidental disability pension.

The Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") based her determination of the tenure charges entirely on the parties' stipulations, which, again, focused on the fact of respondent's absences. On the basis of the parties' stipulations, the ALJ found that respondent's absenteeism was chronic and excessive and that it had adversely affected the continuity of instruction to her students so as to warrant removal from her tenured position. As expressed by the ALJ:

> Whatever the reason for the employee's absence, chronic and excessive absenteeism such as here obviously does not benefit the pupils or the community.

Initial Decision, slip op. at 6.

Neither party filed exceptions to the ALJ's recommended decision with the Commissioner. On the basis of the record before him, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the District had demonstrated that respondent was guilty of excessive absenteeism. In doing so, the Commissioner noted that respondent did not dispute that her absenteeism had adversely affected her classroom teaching performance. The Commissioner also observed that the District had proven its efforts to fairly notify respondent about her absenteeism problem and that respondent had not asserted that her problem would improve. Therefore, on November 17, 1998, the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's recommended decision and directed respondent's dismissal from her tenured position.

At that point, the matter was transmitted to the State Board of Examiners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6 in order for that board to ascertain whether action against respondent's certification was warranted. Based on its review of the Commissioner's decision in the tenure matter and the charges of excessive absenteeism upon which that decision was grounded, the Board of Examiners issued an order on June 17, 1999 for respondent to show cause why her teaching certificates should not be revoked or suspended.

Following notice from the Board of Examiners that her request for a hearing was denied because "it appeared that no material facts were in dispute regarding the tenure charges," State Board of Examiners' decision, slip op. at 3, respondent filed a written submission in response to the show cause order. That submission included substantial documentation relating to respondent's teaching performance, the circumstances surrounding her absences, and the medical consequences of the incidents that had resulted in the absences that had led to the tenure charges. In her submission, respondent argued that no action against her certification was warranted because her absenteeism had resulted from three separate incidents of student assault, that her evaluations established that she was a quality teacher, and that all of her absences were for legitimate reasons and were medically verified. She further argued that she had stipulated her absences during the tenure proceedings because she was still unable to return to work at that time. Respondent contended that this fact gave the Commissioner no choice but to remove her from her tenured position, but did not preclude her from performing some type of educational work in the future. She also argued that revocation was not appropriate because she had not been found guilty of unbecoming conduct.

The Board of Examiners rejected respondent's arguments. Initially, the Board found that respondent's "offense" as set forth in its show cause order provided a proper basis to take action against her certificates because respondent's "chronic and excessive absenteeism greatly affected the students in her charge," and because although respondent can document her absences during 1994 and 1995, "she has not explained her excessive absenteeism for the years prior to those." Id. at 5.

Without any further discussion, the Board of Examiners then considered the "appropriate sanction" in this case. While indicating that it was bearing in mind that many of respondent's absences stemmed from injuries that were sustained through no fault of her own, the Board of Examiners found that respondent's actions prior thereto indicated that she had a pattern of absenteeism about which the District had warned her. Stating once again that respondent's absences had adversely affected the continuity of education, the Board of Examiners concluded that while revocation was not warranted, "some sanction is necessary to remind [respondent] of her professional responsibilities." Id. Consequently, it directed that her certification as a Teacher of the Handicapped be suspended for two years.

Initially, we stress that as reflected by our decision in In the Matter of the Revocation of the Teaching Certificates of John Ahern, decided by the State Board of Education, August 5, 1987, it has long been established that the responsibility of the State Board of Examiners under N.J.S.A. 18:6-38 is not the same as the Commissioner's obligation to determine the appropriate penalty once tenure charges brought against a teaching staff member have been sustained. In Ahern, we indicated that:

> dismissal from a tenured position and revocation of certification serve different purposes, and that the responsibilities of the Commissioner under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 are distinct from those of the Board of Examiners under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-38. [Cox v. State Board of Examiners, Docket #A-3527-81T3 (App. Div. 1983)], slip op. at 2-3. Accordingly, revocation of certification is not automatic following dismissal pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. See N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.7. Because the Board's decision to revoke or suspend precludes employment as a teacher in any school district in this state, and because revocation is not automatic following dismissal pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, the responsibility imposed on the State Board of Examiners when it makes its decision to revoke or suspend is a significant one. We conclude that this responsibility requires that the Board make an independent determination as to whether the individual should be precluded from employment in other districts, whether permanently or temporarily, based on all the evidence relating to this question.

Ahern, supra, slip op. at 3-4.

We find the record in this matter to be such that it does not sustain the Board of Examiners' conclusion that a two-year suspension of respondent's certification was warranted in this case. To the contrary, on the basis of our own review of the record as developed before the Board of Examiners, and given our authority as the ultimate administrative decision-maker and fact-finder in school matters, In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Tyler, 236 N.J. Super. 478, 485 (App. Div. 1989), certif. den., 121 N.J. 615 (1990); Dore v. Bedminister Tp. Bd. of Ed., 185 N.J. Super. 447, 452 (App. Div. 1982), we reverse the decision of the State Board of Examiners.

It was not inappropriate for the Board of Examiners to rely on the conduct established in the tenure proceedings as its point of departure. In the Matter of the Teaching Certificate of Michael Gwaley, decided by the State Board of Education, August 5, 1987 (subsequent history omitted). However, examination of the Board of Examiners' decision shows that it misconstrued the factual record established in those proceedings. As set forth above, the stipulations in the tenure proceedings establish respondent's attendance record over an eight year period. In contrast to the Board of Examiners' conclusion, examination of that record shows that respondent's attendance record during her first five years was acceptable. As shown by the parties' stipulations, respondent was not criticized or warned concerning her attendance until February 1994, shortly before she suffered the first of her on-the-job injuries that caused her attendance to deteriorate dramatically. The first sanction imposed on her by the District was the withholding of her increment for 1995-96, when she had already begun to be continually absent because of work-related injuries. In short, the record from the tenure proceedings does not support the Board of Examiners' conclusion that the respondent had a pattern of excessive absenteeism prior to 1994.

Moreover, respondent has not failed to explain her "excessive" absenteeism before that time. Prior to 1994, the only year when respondent's absenteeism exceeded her annual allotment of contractual sick days was 1991-92, when respondent was absent 30 days. However, the record before us clearly shows that her absences that year were due to a surgical procedure, arthroscopic cholecystectomy.

While the parties' stipulations for the tenure proceedings indicate that the District considered the circumstances of respondent's absences when it certified the tenure charges, the tenure matter did not focus on those circumstances. However, the documentation submitted in these proceedings clearly establishes the circumstances of respondent's absences. Most significant is that the dramatic deterioration in respondent's attendance beginning in 1994 was due to the fact that she suffered three separate assaults by students while at work. The record before us fully documents the medical consequences of those assaults, including the fact that on November 4, 1999, the State Division of Workers' Compensation found respondent to be 35% permanently disabled and awarded her 234 weeks of benefits covering the period from March 1, 1995 through September 1999.

Thus, in contrast to the tenure proceedings, it is now clearly established that beginning in 1994, respondent suffered three work-related injuries that rendered her incapable of fulfilling her role as a full-time teacher and caused the continuous absences that led to the tenure charges. As respondent now argues, those circumstances, including her incapacity to return to work at the time of the tenure proceedings, may have given the Commissioner no choice but to direct her dismissal from her tenured employment. However, based on all of the evidence, there is no justification to suspend her certification. To the contrary, although the record indicates that respondent lacks the physical capacity to be employed as a full-time classroom teacher, there is nothing to suggest that she is unfit to be a teacher. Rather, the record shows that respondent was a good teacher who can no longer work full-time because of the medical consequences of a series of work-related injuries.

Under these circumstances, it is ludicrous to "remind [respondent] of her professional responsibilities" by imposing a "sanction" on her in the form of a two-year suspension of her certification. State Board of Examiners' Decision, slip op. at 5. Nothing in the record suggests that respondent engaged in any inappropriate conduct or was in any way responsible for the assaults that led to her disability. Nothing indicates that she is not fit to teach, although the record establishes that she currently lacks the physical capacity to be employed as a full-time classroom teacher. Again, lack of capacity to fulfill one's responsibilities may justify dismissal from tenured employment. It does not, however, justify suspension of an individual's teaching certification. In this respect, we stress that, as respondent argues, her certification is important to her because, despite her disabilities, her certification may qualify her for part-time employment or other employment in education for which she has the physical capacity. In the Matter of the Revocation of the Teaching Certificate of Thadeus Pawlak, Docket #A-3298-87T7 (App. Div. 1998).

In sum, for the reasons expressed herein, we reverse the determination of the State Board of Examiners and direct that respondent's certification be reinstated. In light of our decision, we need not act upon respondent's motion for a stay of the Board of Examiners' determination.

NEW JERSEY SCHOOL BOARDS ASSOCIATION,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WYCKOFF, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) filed a Petition for Declaratory Judgment seeking an order directing Respondent Board of Education of the Township of Wyckoff (Board) to pay NJSBA $106,206 in dues assessed to it for fiscal years 1993-1994 through 1999-2000 and to make future timely payments of assessed dues. The Board's Answer raised four affirmative defenses: (1) NJSBA's filing was untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c); (2) under the terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-50, NJSBA may seek payment only for the Board's proportionate share of NJSBA's necessary expenses; (3) the Board is entitled to a setoff for the reasonable value of services normally provided to it during the period it was not paying dues to NJSBA; and (4) NJSBA may not assess to or recover dues from the Board because the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-50 violate N.J. Constit. Art. 4, sec. 7, par. 4, a claim which the Board did not pursue in its supporting briefs.

The Commissioner determined that, even if NJSBA's appeal was, arguendo, untimely filed for fiscal years 1993-1994 through 1998-1999 because its claim for those years was submitted beyond the 90-day time limit set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), the factual circumstances of this matter—the Board's admitted, intentional disregard of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-50 in refusing to pay dues assessed by NJSBA—warrant relaxation of the 90-day rule because a compelling public interest is presented.

The Commissioner found the Board's remaining arguments to be entirely without substance, noting that the Board could have challenged the reasonableness of the dues before NJSBA's Delegate Assembly, the body with the statutory power to approve NJSBA's assessed dues, or in a legal forum of appropriate jurisdiction. The Commissioner rejected as meritless the Board's claim of setoff amounting to the reasonable value of services denied to it by NJSBA when it revoked the Board's "good standing" status, emphasizing that the Board's intentional refusal to pay dues will not be rewarded by reducing the amount of monies owing to NJSBA.

The Commissioner ordered the Board to pay NJSBA the sum of $106,206 for the assessed dues owing to NJSBA pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-50 for fiscal years 1993-1994 through 1999-2000 according to a mutually acceptable payment schedule to be approved by the Bergen County Superintendent of Schools and directed the Board to pay future dues in compliance with the provisions of statute.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) on September 13, 1999 through the filing of a Petition for Declaratory Judgment by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) seeking an order that the Wyckoff Township Board of Education (Board) pay to the NJSBA $106,206 in dues assessed to the Board pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-50 for the fiscal years 1993-1994 through 1999-2000. The NJSBA also seeks an order that the Board make future timely payments of the assessed dues. The Board filed its Answer to Petition for Declaratory Judgment on September 28, 1999, requesting that the Commissioner not entertain the petition and in the alternative that he deny the requested relief. The Board's Answer also raised four affirmative defenses, i.e., the NJSBA's filing was untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c); under the terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-50, the NJSBA may seek payment only for the Board's proportionate share of the NJSBA's necessary expenses; the Board is entitled to a setoff for the reasonable value of services normally provided to it during the period it was not paying dues to the NJSBA; and the NJSBA may not assess to or recover dues from the Board because the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-50 violate N.J. Const., Art. 4, sec. 7, par. 9.[1]

On October 1, 1999, the parties were notified that the Commissioner would decide the matter on a declaratory judgment basis and a briefing schedule was established. Briefs were filed by the parties on October 26, 1999. A reply letter brief was submitted by the NJSBA on November 12, 1999 and a letter response to letter brief was filed by the Board on November 15, 1999, at which time the record closed.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

Based upon review of the Petition for Declaratory Judgment and the Board's Answer thereto, the facts listed below are found to be undisputed by the parties.

1. A statement of dues was mailed to the Board for each of the following fiscal years.

Fiscal Year	Amount of Dues
1993-1994	$15,981
1994-1995	$15,981
1995-1996	$15,981
1996-1997	$15,981
1997-1998	$15,981
1998-1999	$10,320

2. In each of the six fiscal years, the NJSBA notified the Board of its dues assessment and responsibility to pay. The NJSBA has repeatedly requested payment through written correspondence, telephone conversations and personal appearances by NJSBA staff before the Board.

3. Despite repeated requests for payment, the Board has failed to pay dues assessed it for the above-listed six fiscal years by the

[1] It is noted for the record that the Wyckoff Board of Education's legal arguments which were submitted to the Commissioner for his review in deciding this Petition for Declaratory Judgment did not advance such claims of unconstitutionality.

NJSBA pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-50. The arrearage for these six years totals $90,225.

4. The Board's assessment for dues for fiscal year 1999-2000 is $15,981. Pursuant to the NJSBA's Bylaws, dues are to be paid by July 31 or within ten days after the next regularly scheduled board of education meeting occurring after July 31. The Board met on August 31, 1999. The NJSBA has requested payment of the Board's assessed dues for 1999-2000.

5. The arrearage of assessed dues being sought by the NJSBA from the Board for fiscal years 1993-1994 through 1999-2000 totals $106,206.

TIME BAR: LEGAL ANALYSIS AND DETERMINATION

Preliminarily, the Board argues that the NJSBA's claim for dues for the period from 1993-1994 through 1998-1999 is barred by N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), which mandates that a "petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." The Board avers that the NJSBA has clearly been on notice that it was "intentionally" (Board's Brief in Opposition to Petition for Declaratory Judgment at 4) not paying dues that were assessed to it as early as June 1993, yet the NJSBA waited until September 1999 to request relief; thus, the Board contends the matter is time-barred for all past dues but fiscal year 1999-2000. Kaprow v. Board of Educ. of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572 (1993).

The NJSBA urges that its claim for current and outstanding dues was timely filed because the claim is grounded in statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-50, which reads in pertinent part:

> For the purpose of defraying the necessary expenses of the association, the various district boards shall pay the necessary expenses incurred by its delegates, *and shall appropriate annually such sums for dues as may be assessed by the association at any delegates meeting. Dues shall be payable by the custodian of school moneys of the school district to the treasurer of the association. (NJSBA's Letter Brief at 4) (emphasis in original)

NJSBA maintains that the language of this statute clearly creates an entitlement for it to receive such dues as may be assessed, and imposes a mandatory obligation on school boards to pay those dues. The NJSBA further avers that its authority to impose an assessment for dues has already been judicially affirmed. N.J. State AFL-CIO v. State Fed. of Dis. Bds. of Ed., 93 N.J. Super. 31 (Ch. Div. 1966). Consequently, it argues that the 90-day rule cannot apply to defeat an obligation such as the statutory dues payment to the NJSBA at issue herein. In support of this legal position, the NJSBA cites Lavin v. Hackensack Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. 145 (1982), wherein the Court held that N.J.S.A. 18A:29-11 created a statutory right in a teacher for salary credit for military service because the military credit benefit was not directly related to the petitioner's employment services but rather represented the Legislature's goal to reward veterans for service to their country in time of war. Consequently, even though the teacher waited nine years to seek that credit, the Court determined that the statute of limitations did not bar the teacher's claim. Lavin, supra at 150-51.

As further support for its position that time limitations do not operate to bar a statutory right or obligation as presented in the instant matter, the NJSBA relies, inter alia, upon North Plainfield Educ. Ass'n v. Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J. 587 (1984); various other earlier court decisions such as Miller v. Bd. of Chosen Freeholders, Hudson County, 10 N.J. 398 (1952), which was discussed by the Court in Lavin, supra; and a string of court decisions referenced in Miller, supra, and Warren County v. Harden , 95 N.J.L. 122 (1920).

The Board urges that the NJSBA's argument with respect to the applicability of Lavin, supra, to the instant matter is incorrect, averring, inter alia, that the 90-day rule in dispute herein, N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), was not at issue in Lavin but rather N.J.S.A. 2A:14-1, which deals with the six-year statute of limitations. As to this, the Board emphasizes that the wording of N.J.S.A. 2A:14-1 contains a listing of those types of actions to which the statute of limitations applies, none of which falls under the heading of what would be considered a statutory entitlement. The Board further argues that N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) contains no such listing and by its terms applies to all petitions which may be filed regardless of what they involve.

Having carefully considered the record and the legal arguments of the parties, the Commissioner initially finds it unnecessary to reach the question of statutory entitlement raised by the NJSBA. Rather, the Commissioner finds and determines that even accepting arguendo that the instant matter does not raise a statutory right within the meaning of Lavin, supra, and, therefore, the NJSBA's appeal was untimely filed for fiscal years 1993-1994 through 1998-1999 because its claim for those years was submitted beyond the 90-day time limit set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), the factual circumstances herein warrant relaxation of the 90-day rule because a compelling public interest is presented. Pursuant to the authority granted by N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15, the Commissioner may relax the 90-day rule under exceptional circumstances or if there is a compelling reason to do so. Kaprow, supra; DeMaio v. New Providence Board of Education, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 449, 453. As was recently stated by the Commissioner in Board of Education of the Gloucester County Institute of Technology, Gloucester County v. Board of Education of the Lenape Regional High School District, Burlington County, "Such authority,  is rarely invoked unless strict adherence thereto would be inappropriate, unnecessary or where injustice would occur, DeMaio at 453, or where he finds the presence of a substantial constitutional issue or other issue of fundamental public interest beyond that of concern only to the parties themselves. Pacio v. Lakeland Regional High School District, 1989 S.L.D. 2060, 2064." (Slip op. at 13)

Review of the record indicates that for seven consecutive fiscal years, commencing with fiscal year 1993-1994, the Wyckoff Board of Education has, by its own admission, intentionally disregarded[2] the statutory provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-50 by refusing to pay dues assessed by the NJSBA, an association to which, by law (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-45), all school boards must belong. The statutory obligation of the NJSBA, and its predecessor, the State Federation of District Boards of Education, has been for nearly a century to "encourage and aid all movements for the improvement of educational affairs of this state." (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-47). Moreover, there is no doubt that the Wyckoff Board of Education was fully aware of the statutory obligation of boards of education to pay their assessed dues to the NJSBA. If the Wyckoff Board desired to contest or dispute the payment of its assessed dues, the proper course of action would have been for it to seek redress through the legal forum of appropriate jurisdiction, not to take it upon itself to disregard intentionally and flagrantly the statutory provisions enacted by the New Jersey Legislature for payment of dues to NJSBA by all boards of education in this state. In this regard, the Commissioner cannot and will not countenance a board of education's long-standing refusal to fulfill its statutory obligation. Having determined that relaxation of the time limitation of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) is deemed warranted, the Commissioner will now review the substantive issues in dispute in this matter.

POSITION OF THE PARTIES

The Board's first point of argument in its Brief in Opposition to Petition for Declaratory Judgment asserts that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-50 requires only that necessary expenses be paid; thus, a review of what is "necessary" should be made by the Commissioner. As to this, the Board argues, inter alia, that the statute is silent as to how the determination of "necessary" is to be made. It does acknowledge, however, that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-50 provides a mechanism for determining how the assessment itself is to be made, i.e., by a vote of two-thirds of the delegates

[2] See Board's Brief in Opposition to Petition for Declaratory Judgment, wherein the Board states at page 2 that a review of its Board Secretary's affidavit and exhibits attached thereto can lead to no other conclusion than that "Petitioner knew Respondent hadn't paid the requested dues and in no way intended to do so." See also page 4, wherein the Board states "As can be seen from the facts, the petitioner has been clearly aware that respondent was intentionally not paying dues that were assessed to it as early as June of 1993." (Emphasis supplied) presented at a meeting called for that purpose and that Article VIII, Section 1 (a) of the NJSBA's Bylaws states that the annual dues are determined by the association's Board of Directors. In summation, the Board avers that it is calling into question whether the amount of dues sought by the NJSBA is, in fact, reasonable and that to ascertain whether the dues are reasonable, the Wyckoff Board must be afforded the opportunity to review and provide comment to the Commissioner upon the annual budgets, financial statements and audits for the years in question.

In response, the NJSBA avers that its dues structure is fully compliant with the statutory provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-50 and that the structure for its operating dues is fully supported by the statutory language concerning the assessment of dues. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-50 reads:

> For the purpose of defraying the necessary expenses of the association, the various district boards shall pay the necessary expenses incurred by its delegates, and shall appropriate annually such sums for dues as may be assessed by the association at any delegates meeting. The assessment of dues shall be made upon a graduated scale and shall be made only upon two-thirds vote of the delegates present at such delegates meeting, after notice of the taking of such vote shall have been given to each district board in writing at least 60 days before such delegates meeting. However, the dues assessed any board of education shall not be increased for any year by more than 33 1/3% of the dues assessed that board during the preceding year. Dues shall be payable by the custodian of school moneys of the school district to the treasurer of the association. (Emphasis supplied)

More specifically, the NJSBA argues that the above-cited statute requires boards of education to pay two separate items, the first being the necessary expenses of their delegates, the amount of which is limited by actual expenditures incurred by the delegates in carrying out their responsibilities, and the second being the payment of dues as may be assessed by the NJSBA at any delegates meeting based upon a graduated scale and made by a two-thirds vote of the delegates present at the delegates meeting. It is the NJSBA's position that this statutory language provides flexibility to the delegates to determine their own dues schedule and, in fact, the law was amended in 1973 to increase the ability of the delegates to establish their own dues without the statutory constraints that had previously existed, P.L. 1973, c. 120, sec. 1 effective May 9, 1973. It further argues, inter alia, that its dues structure is proportional in nature, based on each local district's current expense budget, the structure/formula of which is set forth in the NJSBA's Governance and Operations Manual, GO/3211, which reads:

> The NJSBA dues formula is designed to be equitable, easy to administer, responsive to changing economic conditions and capable of sustaining Association services. The formula is:
>
> Base + (.0012 x CEB) = Dues (limited by a Maximum)
> For the 1981-82 fiscal year, the Base figure equals $750 and the Maximum figure equals $10,000. In subsequent years, these two figures will be adjusted according to an inflation factor, defined as the budget cap for a district spending at the state average with respect to per pupil expenditures. This budget cap is calculated by multiplying ¾ times the latest annual percentage increase in the total state equalized valuation, or the average of the last three years, whichever is higher. Should the state alter the formula by which it derives this cap figure, NJSBA will continue to compute its dues inflation factor in the manner described above. (NJSBA's Letter Brief at 11)

The NJSBA further asserts that the statutory language of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-50 gives its delegates the authority to establish dues in accordance with the formula currently in place and, if the Wyckoff Board believes that a different structure is preferable or the assessed dues unreasonable, its recourse is to raise the issue at the association's Delegate Assembly, the originating body of the current dues policy. NJSBA's annual budgets and annual audit are public information that, during all the years in question herein, have been available for review by the delegates and member boards of education. Thus, the NJSBA contends, the Wyckoff Board had the ability to raise issues about the reasonableness of the assessed dues with the Delegate Assembly, a democratic process which the NJSBA avers was contemplated by the Legislature. (See, e.g., Governor's Press Release on Signing A-2147, NJSBA's Exhibit II). Moreover, the NJSBA points out that its dues have not increased in any of the years at issue herein, which it attributes to the "effectiveness and democratic nature of the internal mechanism over NJSBA's dues assessment." (NJSBA's Reply Letter Brief at 2)

Lastly, the Wyckoff Board argues that it is entitled to a setoff amounting to the reasonable value of services denied to it by the NJSBA because, subsequent to the association's determining to deny Wyckoff "good standing" status, it denied to the Board the "accoutrements of membership," which presumably have some inherent monetary value and should, thus, be deducted from amounts claimed to be owed by respondent. In response, the NJSBA emphasizes, inter alia, that it is not a fee-based organization and the value of services cannot be "unbundled" so as to place a dollar value on them.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

Upon full consideration of the record, the legal arguments advanced by the parties and the applicable statutory provisions in this matter, the Commissioner finds and determines that the Board is, as are all boards of education in the State of New Jersey, obligated by the clear and unequivocal language of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-50 to pay the dues assessed to it by the NJSBA. The Board's arguments to the contrary are found to be entirely without substance. If the Wyckoff Board wished to "call into question" the reasonableness of dues being assessed by the NJSBA, the appropriate recourse would have been to bring that issue before the association's Delegate Assembly, since it is this body which by law has the statutory power to approve NJSBA's assessed dues. Moreover, as stated earlier in this decision, if the Wyckoff Board desired to contest the constitutionality and/or reasonableness of the dues being assessed by the NJSBA, the proper course of action would have been to pursue such claims in a legal forum of appropriate jurisdiction. Intentional refusal to pay statutorily mandated dues to the NJSBA cannot and will not be countenanced.

The Commissioner likewise rejects as meritless the Board's argument that it is entitled to a setoff amounting to the reasonable value of services denied to it by the NJSBA when the Board's "good standing" status was removed by the association. When the Board embarked on its long course of intentional refusal to pay dues assessed by the NJSBA, it acted at its own peril and will not now be rewarded for such willful disregard of the law by having the amount of monies owing to the NJSBA reduced in the manner argued by respondent.

Accordingly, the Wyckoff Board of Education is directed to pay to the NJSBA the sum of $106,206 for the assessed dues which are owing to NJSBA pursuant to the statutory requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-50 for fiscal years 1993-1994 through 1999-2000. Such payment shall be pursuant to a mutually acceptable payment schedule to be arranged by the parties and approved by the Bergen County Superintendent of Schools. Further, the Wyckoff Board is directed to pay to NJSBA the dues it is assessed in future fiscal years in a manner which is in compliance with the provisions of statute.

AND TECHNOLOGY, ESSEX COUNTY.	:

Decided by the Acting Commissioner of Education, September 1, 2000

For the Appellant, Warren, Tosi & Semeraro, P.C. (Dwayne D. Warren, Esq., of Counsel)

By letter dated September 1, 2000, Acting Commissioner of Education Jeffrey V. Osowski notified the proposed Newark Prep, the Charter School for Health Sciences and Technology (hereinafter "appellant"), that it was being denied final approval to operate a charter school as a result of its failure to secure an appropriate facility. On September 6, 2000, counsel for the appellant wrote to the Acting Commissioner requesting to file an appeal from that determination. By letter dated September 8, 2000, the Director of the State Board Appeals Office (hereinafter "Director") informed counsel for the appellant that his letter was being considered as a notice of appeal to the State Board of Education. He was further advised that the briefing schedule was being placed in abeyance pending preparation of a statement of items comprising the record on appeal by the Attorney General's Office pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.8(b).

Following receipt of the record on appeal, the Director notified counsel for the appellant by letter dated September 22, 2000 that the appellant's brief in support of its appeal was due on October 16, 2000. The appellant, however, failed to file a brief by that date. By letter dated November 1, 2000, the Director notified the counsel for the appellant of his failure to file a brief and informed him that this matter was being referred to the Legal Committee of the State Board for consideration of the appellant's failure to perfect the appeal.

The appellant has still failed to file a brief in support of its appeal, more than seven weeks after the deadline for such filing and five weeks after it was notified of such failure. Nor has the appellant offered any explanation for its failure to file or requested an extension of time for such filing. As a result, we dismiss the appeal in this matter for failure to perfect. PETITIONERS,

V.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MOORESTOWN, BURLINGTON COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners appealed the Board's decision to suspend J.B. and L.B. from classes and extra-curricular activities for five and ten days, respectively, for consumption of alcohol off school premises prior to a school-sponsored dance.

The ALJ concluded that the Board's punishment of J.B. and L.B. was arbitrary and capricious since it did not enforce its Drug and Alcohol Policy against all students suspected of involvement in the incident. The ALJ further determined that the Board was not authorized by its policy to impose sanctions for this type of conduct since the policy's express terms do not clearly extend to such conduct, noting that the prohibition against drinking "near school property" is vague and overbroad and no one standing on school property would have been able to see or be affected by the prohibited activity.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision of the ALJ for the reasons expressed therein but clarified that distance is not determinative of the nexus between alcohol consumption and school functions, citing R.F. v. Park Ridge Board of Education. The Commissioner directed the Board to revise its policy to eliminate the phrase "near school property" to reflect more clearly the sphere of the Board's disciplinary authority and to remove from J.B.'s and L.B.'s school records all references to the disciplinary action imposed.

Kenneth D. Roth, Esq., for petitioners (Davis, Reberkenny & Abramowitz, attorneys)

John G. Dyer, III, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: October 15, 1999 Decided: November 16, 1999

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter commenced on March 11, 1999, when F. B. and M. B., parents of J.B. and L.B. (hereinafter petitioners) filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education seeking an order that the determination of the Board of Education of the Township of Moorestown (hereinafter respondent) suspending J. B. and L. B., was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. The petition sought recession of the suspensions and expungement from the student records. An answer to the petition was filed on behalf of respondent on April 22, 1999 and on April 27, 1999, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A prehearing conference was conducted by telephone conference call on July 13, 1999, at which time it was determined that the parties would submit a joint stipulation of facts and cross-motions for summary decision. A joint stipulation of facts was filed on August 31, 1999. Petitioners' motion for summary decision and supporting papers, including the certifications of petitioners and counsel, were received on August 30, 1999. A supplemental certification of petitioners' counsel was received on September 15, 1999. Respondent's cross-motion and supporting brief were received on September 30, 1999, and a reply on behalf of petitioners was received on October 13, 1999. Oral argument on the cross-motions was conducted by telephone conference call on October 15, 1999, whereupon the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The facts in this matter have been stipulated by and between the parties as follows:

1. On January 29, 1999, respondent, the Moorestown High School District Board of Education (Respondent), sponsored the "Snow Ball" dance (the Dance) at Mount Laurel's Radisson Hotel.

2. On January 29, 1999, at approximately 6:30 p.m., prior to going to the Dance, J.B. and L.B., sons of petitioners F.B. and M.B. (Petitioners), met some fellow students in a vacant field behind a friend's house.

3. While at the field, J.B. and L.B. drank some beer.

4. The field is not on school property.

5. J.B. and L.B. left the field at approximately 7 p.m. and, ultimately, arrived at the Dance.

6. At approximately 10:45 p.m., J.B. and L.B. prepared to leave the Dance. As they were leaving, John Walsh, an assistant vice principal, approached them and told them to come with him.

7. Mr. Walsh told J.B. and L.B. that he had reasonable suspicion to believe that J.B. and L.B. were drinking alcohol prior to arriving at the Dance.

8. Mr. Walsh's suspicion was based on information provided to him by the parent of another student whose child had been accused of violating Respondent's Drug and Alcohol Policy (Policy) on the night of the Dance. His suspicion was not based upon any personal observation.

9. J.B. and L.B. did not appear to Mr. Walsh to be intoxicated when he confronted them at 10:45 p.m.

10. J.B. and L.B. did not appear to the teachers or administrators to be intoxicated at any time during the Dance.

11. Mr. Walsh told J.B. and L.B. that they could take a breathalyzer test.

12. J.B. and L.B. admitted to drinking alcohol while at the field before the Dance.

13. Respondent did not arrange for medical examinations of J.B. and L.B.

14. Respondent telephoned Petitioners who picked up J.B. and L.B. from the Dance.

15. J.B. and L.B. were both immediately suspended from school for five days and from extra-curricular activities for ten days. J.B. and L.B. served their suspensions.

16. The suspensions of J.B. and L.B. were based on J.B. and L.B.'s alleged violation of the Policy.

17. Respondent contends that J.B. and L.B.'s admissions amount to admissions of violating the Policy.

18. N.J.A.C. 6:29-6.3(a) gives Respondent authority to adopt and implement policies and procedures for the evaluation, intervention and referral to treatment of pupils who possess, consume, or who on reasonable grounds are suspected of being under the influence of alcoholic beverages in school or at school functions.

19. The Policy provides that "[t]he abuse, use, consumption . . . of alcohol is . . . strictly prohibited on or near school property, or at any school-related activity such as an athletic event, field trip or prom."

20. The Policy further provides that if a "student verbally acknowledges [a] policy violation, the pupil shall be suspended from school for a minimum of five days."

21. The Policy provides that "[w]henever it shall appear to any... educational personnel . . . that a pupil may be under the influence of [alcohol] . . . that . . . educational personnel shall report the matter as soon as possible to the school nurse or medical inspector, as the case may be, or to a substance awareness coordinator, and to the principal . . ." who "shall immediately notify the parent . . and the superintendent . . . and shall arrange for an immediate examination of the pupil by a doctor selected by the parent..."

22. Respondent's Policy does not provide for a breathalyzer test nor does it establish any blood alcohol level that would constitute a pass or fail.

23. Respondent's parent/student handbook states that "students are prohibited from the use . . . of alcohol . . . on or near school property or at any school activities."

24. Respondent's parent/student handbook further states that "[w]hen there is reasonable cause to believe a student has used, consumed or abused alcohol, the principal . . . will notify the parents and Superintendent of Schools" and that "[a] medical examination/assessment will be immediately arranged."

25. After L.B. served his five-day suspension from classes and ten-day suspension from extra-curricular activities in accordance with the school policy, he was notified by the student government president and the faculty advisor for student government that he was also suspended from participation in student government for the remainder of the marking period.

In addition to the foregoing, the following additional undisputed material facts appear from the motion papers submitted: The vacant lot where J.B. and L.B. consumed the beer is located more than one-and-a-half miles driving distance from the high school and more than three miles driving distance from the hotel where the Dance was held. The parent referenced in the paragraph numbered 8 hereinabove provided school administrators with four other names of students who had been present at the pre-dance gathering at the vacant lot in addition to J.B. and L.B. Three of those students had already left the dance by the time the parent called the school administrators at about 10:30 p.m. The school principal called the parents of those three students and apprised them of the known details concerning the events of the evening. The three students apparently were never asked by school administrators if they had in fact been drinking alcohol at the gathering, and no action, other than parental notification, was taken with respect to these three who had already left the dance. (The other student whose name was on the list provided by the parent insisted that although she had been present, she had not consumed any alcohol, and the breathalyzer test which she agreed to take confirmed her contention.)

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

The once classic statement of the standard for granting or denying summary judgment set forth in Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954), was modified in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). Therein the Court held that the standard to be applied is now the same as the standard for determining motions for involuntary dismissal under R. 4:37-2(b) and for determining motions for judgment under R. 4:40-1 and R. 4:40-2. Trial courts considering motions for summary judgment are now required to engage in the same type of evaluation, analysis or sifting of evidential materials in light of the burden of persuasion that applies if the matter goes to trial. The Court explained:

> Under this new standard, a determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter > but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial.". . . Credibility determinations will continue to be made by a jury and not a judge. If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a "genuine" issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46-2. . . . The import of our holding is that when the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law, . . ., the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. (citations omitted) Id. at 540.

The Court noted that to send a case to trial knowing that a rational decision-maker could reach but one conclusion was indeed "worthless" and would "serve no useful purpose." The purpose of this new standard, the decision explained, was to encourage trial courts not to refrain from granting summary judgment when the proper circumstances present themselves.

In the present matter, the parties stipulate that none of the material facts are in dispute and accordingly, this matter is ripe for summary decision.

In March 1981, the New Jersey Legislature amended N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2 to add the following conduct to the list of specifically enumerated offenses constituting good cause for suspension or expulsion of a public school pupil guilty of such conduct:

> j. Knowing possession or knowing consumption without legal authority of alcoholic beverages or controlled dangerous substances on school premises, or being under the influence of intoxicating liquor or controlled dangerous substances while on school premises.

The Senate Education Committee Statement which accompanied the bill explained:

> The purpose of this bill, as amended with the sponsor's approval by the Assembly Judiciary, Law, Public Safety and Defense Committee, is to help control the problem of youth/alcohol abuse, especially in the schools. This bill would make possession, consumption or being under the influence of alcohol in school one of the specifically listed causes for suspension or expulsion. This bill would reaffirm the social policy of the State, and the concerted effort that is being made to eliminate youth/alcohol problems.

> The effort is reflected in the series of youth/alcohol bills enacted last session, including laws which raised the drinking age to 19, mandated more comprehensive alcohol education for students and teachers, and prohibited as an offense the public possession or consumption of alcohol by under-age persons. It is further reflected by Assembly Bill No. 67, which recently passed the Assembly by a unanimous vote, a bill to prohibit as an offense the unauthorized bringing by adults of alcoholic beverages onto school premises.

In accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-11,* through the adoption of N.J.A.C. 6:29-6.3(a), the State Board of Education required local boards of education like respondent to "adopt and implement policies and procedures for the evaluation, intervention and referral to treatment of pupils whose use of alcohol or other drugs has affected their school performance or who possess, consume or who on reasonable grounds are suspected of being under the influence" of alcoholic beverages "in school or at school functions." The policy respondent adopted in compliance with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:29-6.3(a), provides in pertinent part, as follows:

> The abuse, use, consumption, possession, sale, purchase, distribution, or transfer of alcohol, any controlled, dangerous substance, or substance as defined by the applicable statute, code or otherwise referenced in this policy, or drug paraphernalia is strictly prohibited on or near school property, or at any school-related activity such as an athletic event, field trip or prom.

* N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-11 provides:

> Each board of education shall adopt and implement, in accordance with rules and regulations promulgated by the State board, policies and procedures for the evaluation, referral for treatment and discipline of pupils involved in incidents of possession or abuse of substances as defined in section 2 of this act, on school property or at school functions, or who show significant symptoms of the use of those substances on school property or at school functions. In adopting and implementing these policies and procedures, the board shall consult and work closely with a local organization involved with the prevention, detection and treatment of substance abuse approved by the Department of Health.

Substance abuse is statutorily defined at N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-9 to include alcoholic beverages and provides:

> "Substance abuse" shall mean the consumption or use of any substance as defined herein for purposes other than for the treatment of sickness or injury as prescribed or administered by a person duly authorized by law to treat sick and injured human beings.

It is respondent's position herein that the behavior of J.B. and L.B. between 6:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. on January 29, 1999 falls within the prohibitions of the articulated policy and therefore constitutes just cause for the suspensions which were imposed. Petitioners make several arguments in support of their application to have the discipline imposed by respondent reversed and removed from the student records. They argue that the specified conduct does not fall within the articulated parameters of the policy adopted by respondent, that the language in the policy attempting to control behavior "near" school property is unconstitutionally vague and overbroad, that respondent is without legal authority to discipline the students for this specific off-campus conduct and that respondent administered its policy on the evening in question in an arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable manner by treating similarly situated students differently. Petitioners also argue that respondent failed to follow the requirements of its own policy by failing to arrange medical exams for the students.

The specific conduct which is under scrutiny herein consisted of the consumption of alcohol by two students under the legal age to consume alcoholic beverages. This offense occurred on the same day as the high school Snow Ball Dance, but not on school property or at a school function. The two students were not accused of being under the influence of intoxicating beverages at the dance; no one observed and reported any behavior during the dance which would so indicate, and at the time the boys were questioned around 10:45 p.m., the school administrators acknowledged the boys did not appear to be under the influence. The language of the statute and regulation cited hereinabove both authorize respondent to discipline students for alcohol consumption actually occurring on school property or at school functions and for the demonstration of alcohol related symptoms on school property or at school functions. Neither of these specified circumstances took place in the within matter. There are certain off-site behaviors for which a school board may impose sanctions/remediation. In his opinion in R.R. v. Bd. of Ed., Shore Reg. H.S., 109 N.J. Super. 337, 343-344 (Ch. Div. 1970), Judge Lane explained the circumstances under which a board of education is authorized to discipline students for conduct which occurs off campus:

> There can be no doubt that the establishment of an educational program requires rules and regulations necessary for the maintenance of an orderly instructional program and the creation of an educational environment conducive to learning. Such rules and regulations are equally necessary for the protection of public school students, faculty and property. The power of public school officials to expel or suspend a student is a necessary corollary for the enforcement of such rules and the maintenance of a safe and orderly educational environment conducive to learning. But public school officials cannot exercise this power where the activity which is the subject of the proposed suspension or expulsion does not materially and substantially interfere with the requirements of appropriate discipline in the operation of the school. . . .
>
> In New Jersey public school officials have the authority to suspend or expel students for events happening out of school hours. . . . This court is unable to find a New Jersey decision holding that school officials have the right to expel or suspend a pupil for conduct away from school grounds, but the better view is that school authorities have such a right where such is reasonably necessary for the student's physical or emotional safety and well-being, or for reasons relating to the safety and well-being of other students, teachers or public school property.
>
> . . .

Since there was no behavior at the Dance for which respondent might discipline the two students in question, the only inappropriate conduct in issue is the drinking at the pre-dance gathering. Because the drinking age in New Jersey is 21 years of age, and there is no indication that petitioners had given their parental permission, the students' consumption of beer in any amount was without legal authority. The mere fact that a student's off-campus conduct is unlawful or inappropriate, however, does not confer upon a board of education such as respondent the legal authority to discipline because of it. Underage drinking is a societal problem which has been and needs to be addressed by all sectors of society, institutional as well as parental. No one condones the pre-Dance conduct of the two students herein. The legal issue raised in these proceedings is not whether the conduct should have been punished, however, but whether respondent had the authority to discipline the boys under these circumstances.

Respondent acknowledges that the students did not exhibit symptoms of alcohol consumption and that the abuse or use of alcohol did not take place on school property or at any school-related activity, but argues that there is a sufficient nexus between the conduct and the Dance to bring the conduct within respondent's area of authority. In support of its position respondent cites R.F. v. Board of Educ. of Park Ridge, Bergen County, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 79, aff'd, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 416 and R.F. v. Board of Educ. of Park Ridge, Bergen County, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 1. In that case, two young women who were under the legal age for drinking alcoholic beverages at the time acknowledged that they had consumed champagne in the limousine on the way to the prom/snowball dance. In that matter, as in this one, the students did not appear to be under the influence of alcohol and they were not required to submit to examination and testing. The two young women were disciplined by the school administrators who required them to leave the prom and barred them from participating in year-end ceremonies at the school, including their graduations. In that matter, however, the Park Ridge Board of Education had promulgated regulations which were sent to the parents prior to the prom with a sheet for their signatures and for those of the students. The regulations provided in pertinent part:

> 1. Recent court rulings have stated that hosts of parties where alcohol/drugs are served and consumed will be held liable for injuries ensuing. We insist that students not host or attend pre-prom/snowball parties where alcohol/drugs will be served.
> 2. School officials reserve the right to inspect limousines which chauffer students to and from the Prom/Snowball if there is reasonable suspicion of alcohol/drug consumption.

The administrative law judge and the Commissioner concluded that the Park Ridge Board had acted reasonably and in accordance with the regulations which the students had signed acknowledging their agreement. Although the Commissioner noted that the matter was moot because the students in question had graduated and no record of the incident in question remained in their records, because of the important public policy question raised, he commented on the merits:

> . . . Let there be no misunderstanding of the Commissioner's conviction in this regard: be it a sip, a slug, or a keg of alcohol consumed on the way to, during, or following a school-sponsored event, such behavior as exhibited by these teenage students, who were fully cognizant of the consequences that could flow from their voluntary act, cannot and will not be sanctioned, excused, or mitigated in the face of the Legislature's clear intent as stated in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-1 and reflected in the Board's policy on prom deportment. . . .

In the present matter, however, the policy and the student handbook provisions contain no language concerning drinking at pre-prom parties or during travel to the prom. The only language in the policy in question which might apply is the phrase which prohibits drinking "near school property." The distances specified herein, one-and-a-half miles driving distance from the high school and more than three miles driving distance from the hotel where the Dance was held, do not strike me as being "near" school property. No one standing on school property would have been able to see these prohibited activities or be affected by them. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the student conduct herein does not fall within the specific provisions of respondent's articulated policy. Furthermore, as petitioners have argued, "near school property" is vague and overbroad. Whether "near" means a block, a mile, the geographic boundaries of the municipality or some other geographic restriction, it could include behavior legally sanctioned pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:33-17, occurring at home, at the homes of friends or relatives, or at a church or synagogue. I CONCLUDE that the term "near" suffers from the same constitutional infirmities that "prior to" was determined to exhibit in Claiborne v. Beebe Sch. Dist., 687 F.Supp. 1358 (E.D. Ark. 1988). In that matter, the minor plaintiffs had each consumed several sips of orange juice mixed with vodka enroute from their own school to attend a Friday night football game away. When questioned later by the principal, each minor plaintiff admitted to drinking enroute to the game and each was suspended from school for ten days and ultimately expelled by the school board after a hearing for the fall semester. The specific provision of the policy at issue in that case stated:

> Upon verification by local authorities, self-admittance or substantiated evidence, any student using alcohol or drugs prior to coming on school grounds or to school sponsored events will be expelled from school for one semester.

The District Court disagreed with the school board which asserted that the language of the policy provided sufficient and adequate notice such that the ordinary student would be able to conform his conduct to the policy. The Court held that the term "prior to" was so general and overly broad, since it might include behavior which occurred days previously and with the permission of the parents and which did not affect the behavior of students on school grounds or the school sponsored event and did not even include the smell of alcohol on the student, as to violate the Fourteenth Amendment right to due process. The same is true with respect to the prohibition "near school property" in respondent's policy.

For the foregoing reasons I CONCLUDE that respondent was without legal authority to impose sanctions upon J. B. and L. B. for their conduct which occurred one to one half hours prior to the Dance and which did not affect their behavior or appearance at the Dance. Even if the conduct did fall within respondent's disciplinary authority, however, I would nevertheless CONCLUDE that the manner in which respondent enforced its policy on January 29, 1999 was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable so as to require reversal and expungement of the disciplinary action herein. Substantive due process and fundamental fairness require that similarly situated persons receive similar treatment from disciplinary authorities. The three students whose names were provided to school administrators along with the names of J. B. and L. B. as students who participated in the pre-Dance gathering, but who had already left the Dance before they could be confronted, were in exactly the same position as J. B. and L. B. in terms of their conduct and their attendance at the Dance. Nevertheless, although the parents of these students were called and notified, these students were neither called back to the Dance nor called to the school office the next day. If questioned, some or all of those students may have been as honest as J. B. and L. B. and if they had denied drinking, medical examinations could have been arranged for them as easily as for those students who were still at the Dance.* I CONCLUDE that respondent's failure to even question those students who had already left the Dance, while questioning and punishing J. B. and L. B., was arbitrary, and accordingly, the resultant disciplinary action with respect to J. B. and L. B. should be set aside and expunged from their student records.

With respect to petitioners' argument that respondent failed to follow the requirement of its own policy, I CONCLUDE that the policy does not require a medical exam where the student admits to having consumed alcohol.

For all of the foregoing reasons, it is hereby ORDERED that the determination of respondent suspending J. B. and L. B. from classes for five days and from extra curricular activities for ten days is hereby REVERSED and respondent is directed to remove from the students' school records all references to this disciplinary action. Respondent is also directed to revise its official school policy to eliminate the phase "near school property;" any substituted language should be drafted with an appropriate degree of precision to avoid violating the due process provisions of the Fourteenth Amendment and to ensure that the regulated conduct is within the proper sphere of respondent's disciplinary authority. In this regard there may be some off-site conduct which may be within this scope if there is a sufficiently articulated connection to the school function, e.g., travel enroute.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

* Respondent argues that with respect to those students who had already left the Dance, no breathalyzer test could be administered in the event that they denied drinking. The breathalyzer test is not even mentioned in respondent's school policy, however; the students could not be required to take the breathalyzer test in any event. If they chose to do so they could have returned promptly to the Radisson Hotel or they could have proceeded directly to a medical examination with the doctor of their choice as indicated in the school policy.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

F.B. AND M.B., on behalf of minor children, J.B. AND L.B.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MOORESTOWN, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record in this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon his independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ultimate conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the Board's action in suspending J.B. and L.B. from classes for five days and from extra-curricular activities for ten days was arbitrary and capricious since the Board did not enforce its Drug and Alcohol Policy towards all students who were suspected of involvement in this incident. The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that "[s]ubstantive due process and fundamental fairness require that similarly situated persons receive similar treatment from disciplinary authorities." (Initial Decision at 12)

The Commissioner further concurs that the Board was not authorized by its own disciplinary policy to impose sanctions for conduct of the type at issue herein since the wording of that policy does not clearly extend to such conduct. Notwithstanding such concurrence, however, the important public policy question raised in this matter necessitates comment on the ALJ's conclusions regarding the language "near school property" as found in the Board's policy. While the Commissioner agrees that the phrase "near school property" is vague and that the Board should revise its policy to reflect more accurately the sphere of the Board's disciplinary authority, the Commissioner disagrees with any intimation that the Board's authority is restricted to a distance from the school where "[n]o one standing on school property would have been able to see these prohibited activities or be affected by them." (Id. at 11) The Commissioner avers that distance is not determinative of the nexus between alcohol consumption and school functions. Whether the alcohol consumption occurs within the boundaries of the school district, before or after a school event, or on the way to or from a school event, within or across school boundaries, the Commissioner's sentiment regarding alcohol consumption by students remains unambiguous, as articulated in R.F. v. Park Ridge Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 79, 82, aff'd 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 416 and R.F. v. Park Ridge Borough Board of Education, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 1:

> Let there be no misunderstanding of the Commissioner's conviction in this regard: be it a sip, a slug, or a keg of alcohol consumed on the way to, during or following a school-sponsored event, such behavior as exhibited by these teenaged students, who were fully cognizant of the consequences that could flow from their voluntary act, cannot and will not be sanctioned, excused or mitigated in the face of the Legislature's clear intent as stated in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2 and reflected in the Board's policy.

The Commissioner therefore adopts the Initial Decision of the ALJ for the reasons expressed therein, as clarified above.[1] The Board is directed to revise its policy to eliminate the phrase "near school property" and to reflect more clearly the sphere of the Board's disciplinary authority, consistent with the cautions articulated by the ALJ. The Board is further directed to remove from J.B.'s and L.B.'s school records all references to the disciplinary action imposed. [2]

[1] The Commissioner notes, with reference to the statements of the ALJ (Initial Decision at 9 and 11), that although parents are excluded from prosecution under certain circumstances pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:33-17, the conduct at issue herein would be unlawful even if parental permission had been given.

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, September 5, 2000

For the Petitioner-Respondent Board of Education of the West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional School District, Parker, McCay & Criscuolo, P.A. (James F. Schwerin, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Petitioner-Respondent Board of Education of the Township of Nutley, Genova, Burns & Vernoia (Elizabeth A. Daly, Esq. and J. Frank Vespa-Papaleo, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Appellant, John T. Barbour, Esq.

This appeal involves a single issue: Is the school district in which a group home is located responsible for the transportation costs related to out-of-district placements of classified children receiving special education services who are placed in the group home by the Division of Youth and Family Services ("DYFS") or the Division of Developmental Disabilities ("DDD")?

In her initial decision, Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") Kathleen Duncan concluded that the district in which the child's parent or legal guardian is domiciled is responsible for the transportation costs related to the child's educational placement and not the district in which the group home is located. Observing that the question of how to fund the free appropriate education required by the Individuals With Disabilities Act is a matter of State law, ALJ Duncan concluded that under the New Jersey Administrative Code and statute, transportation for classified students is part of the educational services required to be funded by the school district in which the parent or guardian is domiciled and for which that district may receive State aid pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:46-23 and N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-25. Based on her review of the entire statutory scheme related to the State Facilities Act of 1979, L.1979 c. 207,[1] ALJ Duncan found that there

[1] The State Facilities Act of 1979 ("Act") is codified at N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-1 et seq. Enacted in the face of at least one lawsuit and questions as to whether some of the State facilities could meet the requirements of federal law mandating the provision of a free and appropriate education to all handicapped children, the purpose of the Act was to provide a thorough and efficient education for children in all State facilities. Senate Education Committee Statement accompanying Assembly, No. 86-L.1979, c. 207. When enacted, the Act applied to educational programs in State schools and day training centers for the mentally retarded, State psychiatric hospitals, State residential youth centers, and State correctional facilities.

By enactment of L.1979 c. 207, the Legislature at the same time amended N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26 to provide that:

> whenever the Division of Youth and Family Services shall place any child...in any school district, the child shall be entitled to the educational benefits of such district; provided, however, that the district of residence, as determined by the Commissioner of Education pursuant to law, shall was no statutory or regulatory reference that would place the financial burden for transporting classified children from their group homes to their out-of-district educational placements on the district in which the group home is located and that there was no logical reason for doing so.

In reaching her conclusion, the ALJ recognized that the Commissioner of Education had been provided with written legal advice bearing on the issue before her by a Deputy Attorney General ("DAG") in 1984. The ALJ further recognized that the DAG had advised the Commissioner that since N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-4, which had been enacted as part of Chapter 207 of the Laws of 1979, permitted funds received by the Department of Human Services and the Department of Corrections to be used for child study team services but did not mention transportation costs, the word "tuition" as used in N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26, which imposed the costs of tuition for children placed in group homes by DYFS on the child's district of residence, did not include transportation costs.[2] The ALJ, however, pointed out that although the Administrative Agency Advice ("AAA") from the DAG acknowledged that N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-4 did not apply to the education of children in group homes, the AAA failed to recognize that because the children to whom that statute applied were, with one exception, residents of State facilities, transportation was not at issue. In this respect, the ALJ stressed that for those children to whom N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-4 applied but who attended day training centers, the costs of transportation had been specifically shifted by the Legislature by enactment of N.J.S.A.

be responsible for paying tuition for such child to the district in which he is placed. N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26(c).

The statutory question in this case is whether the word "tuition" in N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26(c) includes transportation costs for out-of-district placements.

[2] See supra. note 1.

18A:46-18.1 from the child's district of residence to the State Department of Human Services. Therefore, and based on her overall analysis of the statutory scheme, ALJ Duncan concluded that the more logical interpretation of the Legislature's silence as to transportation costs was that it had not intended to shift the financial responsibility for such costs from the district of residence to the district where the group home happened to be located.

Before the Commissioner arrived at his decision in the matter, the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes requested administrative agency advice on his behalf as to whether the AAA provided in 1984 remained valid. By memorandum issued on June 20, 2000, the Commissioner was advised by a Deputy Attorney General that the Administrative Agency Advice provided in 1984 remained valid. In reaching this conclusion, the DAG who authored the memorandum acknowledged that ALJ Duncan was correct in pointing out that several statutes bearing on the question of transportation costs had been changed since 1984. However, the DAG concluded that the 1984 Administrative Agency Advice remained valid because N.J.S.A. 30:4C-26, the statute that authorizes group home placements, had not been significantly altered since that time. Hence, in a decision based on the advice that had been provided to him, the Commissioner directed that Delran, the district in which the group home in this case was located, reimburse the petitioning districts, which were the districts of residence of two of the children who had been placed in the group home, for the transportation costs at issue and to continue funding those costs for a third child who was currently in the group home.

The Delran Board has appealed to the State Board of Education from the Commissioner's decision, and we have considered its arguments very carefully. In doing so, it has become increasingly clear to us that it is inequitable to continue to impose the costs at issue exclusively on those school districts in which group homes happen to be located. This is especially true given that the number of children placed in such homes today is far greater than in 1984 and that the transportation costs are considerable because the educational placements of these children may be quite distant from the group home. Moreover, we cannot ignore that in contrast to the funding system in place in 1984 and to which the DAG specifically pointed in her 1984 memorandum, school districts are no longer entitled to be reimbursed by State aid for 90% of the costs of transporting these children from the group homes to their educational placements. However, although the State Board of Education disagrees with the most recent written advice from the Attorney General's Office sustaining the continued validity of the AAA provided to the Commissioner in 1984, the State Board, like the Commissioner, is required to follow that advice. We are therefore compelled to affirm the decision of the Commissioner in this matter.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioners are appealing a two day in-school suspension alleging that the Morris Hills Regional School District, Morris County, violated their 1st and 14th amendment rights. On November 3, 1999 the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq.

On the scheduled hearing date, the parties agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached Settlement Agreement. I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE REVOCATION OF :
THE CHARTER OF THE SIMON BOLIVAR : STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
CHARTER SCHOOL, ESSEX COUNTY. : DECISION

Decided by the Assistant Commissioner of Education, September 1, 2000

For the Appellant, Harold R. Edwards, Sr.

On September 29, 2000, the Chairperson of the Simon Bolivar Charter School (hereinafter "appellant") filed an appeal to the State Board of Education from a letter decision of the Assistant Commissioner of Education revoking the school's charter. On October 2, 2000, the Director of the State Board Appeals Office (hereinafter "Director") advised the appellant that:

> we are unaware of anything that would authorize a non-lawyer to represent a corporation in legal proceedings before an administrative agency. Therefore, a letter of representation from an attorney who will be representing the charter school's interests is required before proceedings to resolve the appeal can occur. We are placing this matter in abeyance pending receipt of a letter of representation.

The appellant was further advised that the notice of appeal was deficient in that it did not include proof of service on the Commissioner or the State-Operated School District of Newark, as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.6(a).

By letter dated October 12, 2000, the Director advised the appellant that the record on appeal had been received as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.8(b), but that the deficiencies addressed in her letter of October 2 were required to be corrected before the appeal could be considered.

The appellant did not respond to either letter. By letter dated December 5, 2000, the Director notified the appellant that unless a letter of representation was received by December 20, 2000, the appeal would be referred to the Legal Committee of the State Board for consideration of whether to dismiss it for failure to perfect.

The appellant has still failed to provide a letter of representation or proof of service of its notice of appeal on the Commissioner and State-operated District, more than four months after its appeal was filed. Nor has the appellant responded in any way to any of the above-mentioned correspondence. Given these circumstances, we dismiss the appeal in this matter for failure to perfect. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.12(a). See Paszamant v. Board of Education of the Borough of Highland Park, decided by the State Board, April 1, 1992, aff'd, Docket #A-4812-91-3 (App. Div. 1993).

Petitioning grandparent challenged Board's residency determination.

The ALJ concluded that petitioner satisfied the two-part statutory test under the "affidavit student" provision of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1) to be entitled to a free public education in respondent's District.

The Commissioner affirmed the ALJ's determination that A.H. was entitled to attend school in the District pursuant to the "affidavit student" provision in N.J.S.A 18A:38-1b(1) for the period prior to March 25, 1997. The Commissioner modified the Initial Decision as it pertains to the period after March 25, 1997, the date on which A.H. reached the age of majority, underscoring that after that date A.H. acquired the right to choose her own domicile, the record demonstrated that A.H. was domiciled in respondent's District and, thus, A.H. was entitled to a free public education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a.

Statement of Case

This is an appeal on behalf of a high school student seeking enrollment in the Morris Hills Regional School District. Petitioner is living with her maternal grandparents in Denville, New Jersey because her mother has abandoned her. She came to live with the grandparents because mental health professionals recommended that petitioner needs the emotional support of her extended family. Her mother has remarried and the new husband wants nothing to do with the petitioner. Until mid-January 1997, the petitioner attended private school in Connecticut at her mother's expense. Petitioner's mother receives $195 per month in child-support payments from petitioner's father and contributes $200 per month to the grandparents for petitioner's living expenses.

The dispute involves whether petitioner is entitled to a free public education under the "affidavit-student" provision of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), which applies to students living with relatives (other than parents) or friends, who reside in the district. Basically, the issue is whether petitioner satisfies the two-part statutory test for admission as an affidavit student: first, the "hardship test," whether the child's parent is incapable of supporting or providing care for the child "due to a family or economic hardship;" and, second, the "gratis test," whether she is "supported by such other person gratis as if [s]he were such other person's own child."

Procedural History

On January 31, 1997, the grandparents filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") contending that petitioner is eligible to attend school in the district. Respondent Board of Education of the Morris Hills Regional School District ("Board") filed its answer and counterclaim on February 19, 1997. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), petitioner was admitted to school, provided that the grandparents would be liable for tuition if the Board ultimately prevailed in this litigation.

Subsequently, on March 3, 1997, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case. The OAL held a hearing on July 18, 1997. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the appendix. Shortly thereafter, on August 5, 1997, the Board filed a legal brief.[1] On December 20, 1999, the OAL held a telephone status conference.

[1] Petitioner's representatives made a closing statement at the hearing, but chose not to file a post-hearing brief.

Findings of Fact

(1) Family Hardship

Petitioner does not claim that her mother suffers any economic hardship which prevents her from providing financial support. Instead, petitioner's argument rests solely on the existence of family hardship. A.H. was only four years old when her father left her and her mother. Recently she turned eighteen, but she is not yet financially self-sufficient. She has had a troubled relationship with her mother for many years. Reportedly, her mother blames her for causing the breakup of her second marriage. In or about 1993, her mother married a third husband, with whom the mother currently lives in Westchester County, New York. It is the new husband's first marriage and he has no patience in dealing with children. He is a partner in a successful brokerage house and is used to getting his own way. Once he told the grandfather that the child "is making [his] marriage impossible" and that he "wants her out of his life."

Moreover, petitioner's mother felt that she had lost control over her daughter's behavior. Despite a suggestion that the family seek counseling, the stepfather was unwilling to go to therapy. Petitioner's mother placed a high priority on preserving her third marriage. Faced with choosing between her husband or her daughter, she chose her husband. Accordingly, in September 1994, the parents shipped petitioner for her first year of high school to Milford Academy, a private boarding school in Connecticut. While she was at school, her parents visited her only once. Over the summer of 1995, they sent her to sleep-away camp "to keep her out of the house." Petitioner returned to Milford Academy for her second year in September 1995.

Both grandparents recounted a number of incidents that illustrate the mother's uncaring attitude toward her daughter. During the summer of 1996, petitioner had a job at a travel agency in New York, where her mother also worked. When petitioner got into an argument with her mother and ran away from home, her mother changed the locks on the door and told petitioner that she could never come back. Her grandparents tracked her down, and found her sleeping on the floor of a friend's house in Connecticut. She had taken a part-time job at a clothing store and was living what her grandparents described as "a minimal life style." Her two uncles, with whom she is very close, reported that petitioner was "not doing well." Although her mother continued collecting child support, she gave no money whatsoever to petitioner. Therefore, the grandparents went to Connecticut in July 1996 and brought petitioner back to live with them for the remainder of the summer.

In September 1996, petitioner returned to Milford Academy for her third year. Her grandmother described the "negotiations" necessary to regain possession of petitioner's belongings stored at her mother's house. Petitioner and her grandmother traveled to the mother's house in New York but were not allowed beyond the living room, where all of petitioner's possessions had been "dumped in a pile." Removal of petitioner's property was "supervised" by the stepfather's younger brother, who was occupying what had previously been petitioner's bedroom. He refused to let them take her computer and television set, even though petitioner had used both items in school. By the time that petitioner arrived in Connecticut to start her studies, she appeared "exhausted emotionally."

Petitioner's emotional state worsened during the fall term. According to her grandmother, petitioner sounded "very upset" and cried a lot during her telephone calls from school. Her voice was "high pitched" and "weak." More than once, petitioner had to hand the phone to someone else, because she could no longer talk due to her crying. Since the grandparents had attended an open house and were listed as the contact persons on student records, the school referred any problems to them. Nearly every two weeks, the dean of the school would call the grandparents to say that petitioner had gotten into a fight with her teachers or had burst into tears for no apparent reason. Petitioner spent two weekends at her grandparent's home, missed a full week of school in October to be with her grandparents, and came back to them for her winter vacation. After her October visit, the grandparents arranged for therapy in order to provide petitioner with an emotional support system at school.

In a well-intentioned effort to bring about a reconciliation, the grandfather asked mother and daughter to prepare a written list of grievances against each other. When he received the mother's list in December 1996, however, he decided not to show it to petitioner because of its "angry" tone. While the mother's grievances seemed to be fairly typical of parental complaints about teenagers, each entry was a whole page and expressed in unsympathetic language. One month later, in mid-January 1997, the grandfather authorized petitioner's social worker to share her mother's grievances with her. This turned out to be "a big mistake." Petitioner became distraught at her mother's overt hostility toward her. Next day in school, she asked her teachers why her mother didn't want her. Hearsay testimony indicates that petitioner was "hysterical" and made suicidal threats. School officials telephoned the grandparents and advised them to pick her up right away. That same day, her social worker called to say that petitioner was in terrible emotional shape and should not be left alone.

On January 17, 1997, her grandmother drove to Milford Academy to retrieve petitioner. Petitioner was glad to see her and confided that she "needed to be around family." Her face was "tear-stained" and "red and puffy." Most of her belongings were already packed. She cried "on and off" during the two-hour trip home. Soon after bringing her into their home, the grandparents applied to enroll petitioner in the local school system and furnished the required affidavits to the Board. When the Board refused to admit petitioner, the grandparents instituted this law suit to avoid any interruption in petitioner's education.

Michelle Rabin, a licensed clinical psychologist with many years of experience in dealing with adolescents, testified that the mother's repeated rejection has "overwhelmed" petitioner. Dr. Rabin started treating petitioner in March 1997 and has been seeing her regularly on a weekly basis. Ordinarily, Dr. Rabin meets with the biological parent when she is treating an adolescent. When Dr. Rabin contacted her in late April, the mother was "very reluctant to set up an appointment," and put off any meeting until late June. About a week before the scheduled session, the mother abruptly called to cancel the session. Although Dr. Rabin told her how "destructive" such cancellation would be to her child, the mother made it "very clear that she didn't want a relationship with her daughter." Dr. Rabin even offered to stay late so that the mother could come from New York, but the mother was unwilling to reconsider her decision. Since then, Dr. Rabin has had no further communication from the mother. Predictably, petitioner's reaction to her mother's rebuff was "anger" and "hurt" feelings. Again, her mother has repudiated petitioner's sincere efforts to reach out and reestablish some kind of relationship. In another recent instance, petitioner stopped by her mother's house and discovered a "for-sale" sign on the property. Adding further insult, her mother declined to invite her in for a visit.

At the hearing, Dr. Rabin explained that the "predominant theme" of petitioner's life is "abandonment," originally by her father when she was young and now by her mother. Dr. Rabin diagnosed petitioner as suffering from "depression," which led her to "snap" emotionally. Petitioner's sudden departure from boarding school was "not a well thought-out plan." Rather, she ran away "because she could not handle it anymore." In Dr. Rabin's professional judgment, the possibility of living with her mother has become "moot" in light of the fact that her mother wants nothing to do with her. Meanwhile, petitioner "has finally made a connection" with stable and supportive adults. Consequently, Dr. Rabin has "urged [petitioner] to remain at her grandparents house where she can continue her high school education for one more year."

Other mental health professionals personally familiar with petitioner's situation corroborate the opinions of Dr. Rabin. Before coming to New Jersey, petitioner had been under the care of a mental health clinic in Connecticut for a period of three months. Karyn Ertel, a social worker affiliated with the clinic, commented that petitioner had experienced "serious family discord and conflicts which prevent her from being able to visit or live with her mother." In a written report to the grandparents, Ms. Ertel stated that petitioner's "best interests would be served by her returning to live with you, or other extended family members, until she is in a position to live independently, or until her mother is able to resolve some of the issues which have prevented their reunification ." Another social worker, Stefanee Wolfsie, worked with her for one month in January 1997, when petitioner came to live with her grandparents. She agreed that petitioner "was dealing with issues of depression, school transition and different living arrangements." In order to observe family interaction, she facilitated a telephone conversation between petitioner and her mother. Ms. Wolfsie observed that petitioner "became easily upset and tense throughout the phone call." Like the other experts, Ms. Wolfsie recommended against "disturbing residency, school and a stable environment." Additionally, she remarked that petitioner "has become comfortable and is thriving in her present environment."

I FIND that the mother is incapable of providing care for her child due to a genuine family hardship. Significantly, this is not a case where it is merely inconvenient for the mother to take care of her child. Expert testimony establishes that petitioner comes from a dysfunctional family and that her mother lacks the normal parental instinct to nurture and protect her. Exposure to her mother's unloving attitude has already caused substantial damage to petitioner's self-esteem and emotional resilience. It is unrealistic to expect that she could live with her mother at the present time. Furthermore, the record strongly supports the view that petitioner is too emotionally fragile to remain at boarding school. Three experts in child care concur that petitioner requires the secure family bonds which her grandparents are able to provide. The Board offers no professional opinion to rebut this consensus.

(2) Supporting the Child Gratis

As previously mentioned, the mother has sufficient sources of income to pay for the financial support of her daughter. She is gainfully employed by a New York travel agency and her husband is a partner in a brokerage company. Their joint federal income tax return for 1995 reflected a combined gross income of $159,460.[2] In addition, the biological father of petitioner pays monthly child support of $195[3]. Prior to her third marriage, the mother purchased a house in West Harrison, New York at the cost of $325,000, subject to an outstanding mortgage of an undisclosed amount. While

[2] The record does not provide a breakdown of earnings between husband and wife.
[3]This is the figure to which the grandparents testified at the hearing. However, the mother's sworn affidavit contains the different figure of $173 per month. Attached to the affidavit was a court order, entered in September 1986 in the Florida divorce petitioner attended Milford Academy in Connecticut, the mother was responsible for payment of tuition and living expenses of approximately $13,000 per year.

Affidavits submitted in support of petitioner's application show that the mother gives the grandparents $200 per month towards petitioner's living expenses. Also, the child is covered under the medical insurance plan provided by the mother's employer.[4] If a doctor is within the particular health network, the insurance company pays 80% of the bill and the grandparents have been paying the remaining 20%.[5] Although the grandparents hope that the mother will reimburse them for any co-payments, thus far she has only paid the nominal sum of $60.

The grandparents have estimated the additional expenses incurred as a result of petitioner having come to live with them. Comparing their expenditures in various categories for the first six months of 1997 with the corresponding period in 1996, they calculate the average monthly increase to be as follows:

proceedings, directing petitioner's father to pay child support of $65 per week or roughly $280 per month. It is unknown whether there is a more recent court order.

[4]Proofs not indicate whether the mother must pay any extra premium to add her child to the medical plan furnished by her employer. Similarly, it is unknown whether the child's pre-existing injuries would be covered if petitioner had to purchase her own medical insurance on the open market.

[5] Some of the service providers treating petitioner, e.g., Dr. Rabin, are outside the network, so that the grandparents incur a greater expense.

Heat and Electricity	$102[6]
Food	112
Telephone	60[7]
School Lunches	55[8]
Incidental Expenses	100[9]
Allowance	100
Total Monthly Increase	$529

Deducting the $200 monthly payment received from the mother, the out-of-pocket monthly expense incurred by the grandparents is $329 or roughly 60% of the total. Since they contribute more than half of their granddaughter's living expenses, they plan to claim her as a deduction on their 1997 income tax return.

In addition, the grandparents are purchasing a used car for petitioner as "a symbol of her freedom." As soon as she has a car, petitioner will no longer receive an allowance and the money will go toward automobile insurance premiums, which the grandparents will pay. She will be responsible for gasoline and maintenance. Petitioner has a part-time job as a cashier for a large supermarket chain.. She earns minimum wage and pays for her own clothing and entertainment expenses. Her grandparents occasionally pay for "big ticket" items, such as a coat costing $130.

I FIND that the grandparents incur extra expenses of approximately $529 per month as a result of their granddaughter's living arrangements. Petitioner's mother contributes $200 per month toward petitioner's living expenses, representing mainly a "pass-through" of child support payments from the biological father. The grandparents pay the remainder of $329 per month or about 60% of petitioner's ordinary and usual living expenses. Although petitioner is covered under her mother's health insurance [6]On cross-examination, the grandmother acknowledged that she made no adjustment for differences due to changes in weather conditions between 1996 and 1997.

[7] Telephone expenses are for the first five months only. Currently petitioner is paying her own telephone charges.

[8]Because school is only in session for about thirty-six weeks per year, the actual cost of $80 per month for school lunches has been prorated.

plan, the grandparents have been paying most of the co-payment amount. They will claim petitioner as a dependent on their 1997 income tax returns.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that petitioner satisfies the statutory criteria and is entitled to a free public education in the Morris Hills Regional School District.

At all relevant times, petitioner was either underage or unemancipated. Accordingly, petitioner lacked the legal capacity to choose a domicile of her own, see Mansfield Twp. v. State Bd. of Educ., 101 N.J.L. 474 (Sup. Ct. 1925), and the situation is governed by the "affidavit-student" provision of the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) provides that public schools shall be free to any person over five and under 20 years of age "who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child" upon the filing of two affidavits establishing eligibility.

A sworn statement from the resident attesting:

> that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term.

Together with a sworn statement from the child's parent or guardian attesting:

> that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education in the district.

These affidavits "shall be accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statements." If the school board determines that the evidence does not support the validity of the claim, it may deny admission to the child and the resident may appeal to the Commissioner for a hearing. At such hearing, the resident "shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this subsection." Such proceedings are subject to the requirements of due process, and a district board may not automatically deny an application on the basis of inadequate documentation without consideration of the full circumstances developed at the evidentiary hearing. J.A. v. Bd. of Educ. for South Orange and Maplewood, 318 N.J. Super. 512 (1999). Gunderson v. Bd. of Educ. of Brigantine, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 39 (Comm'r Sept. 15, 1994).

Indisputably, the grandparents, who own their own home and have lived in Denville for many years, are "domiciled" within the Morris Hills Regional School District. [10] Likewise, petitioner's parent is clearly incapable "of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship" as that term is used in the statute. As the Board would interpret that language, petitioner cannot meet the hardship test because her mother possesses sufficient financial wherewithal to place her in private school and summer camp. Such narrow reading ignores the plain statutory language, phrased in the disjunctive, that parental incapacity may be due to either "family or economic hardship." (emphasis added). School law decisions have recognized this distinction and have granted relief on the basis of family hardship, even when parents were financially able to support their child. Illustratively, in J.B. v. Bd. of Educ. of Ocean Twp., 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 628 (Comm'r March 25, 1996), a child unable to tolerate his father's unrealistic academic expectations exhibited suicidal tendencies and had threatened to run away from home. He went to live with his grandmother, where he no longer felt pressured by his father and was "much happier than when he was at his parent's home." J.B., at 629. Notwithstanding that his parents could afford to send him to private school, the Commissioner held that the "unique and compelling circumstances . . . rise to the level of family hardship sufficient to meet the standard of the pertinent statute." "To hold otherwise," the Commissioner explained, "harms a party the Legislature never meant to penalize . . . and overlooks the substantial State interest in ensuring the education of all its children." J.B. at 632. See also, Gunderson, at 42.

Our own case presents equally poignant and compelling circumstances. Regardless of the mother's financial balance sheet, the record clearly shows that she lacks the emotional resources necessary to provide support and care for her daughter. Indeed, the evidence portrays a destructive family dynamic and a mother who has abandoned her own child. While J.B. was decided on the facts alone, here there is professional guidance to inform the decision. Mental health experts agree that petitioner's health and welfare would not be promoted by relegating her to an institutional setting and that she requires the personal support and care which her grandparents are able to offer.

Much more difficult is the question of whether petitioner is able to satisfy the "gratis" test. Nowhere is that term expressly defined in the statute, and the legislative history provides little help in ascertaining its meaning. The standard dictionary definition of the word is "without charge or recompense; free," WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY 992 (3d ed. 1967), or "without reward or consideration; done or received freely or gratuitously," BLACK'S LAW DICTIONARY 700 (6th ed. 1990). Certainly the grandparents did not act in expectation of financial gain or profit, like a baby-sitting service or child-care center. Their motivation arose solely out of love and concern for their grandchild and was not dependent on making money. It is equally apparent that petitioner did not enter her grandparent's household, in the language of the statute, "solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district." She went to live with them because her mother did not want her, she was miserable at the boarding school, and she had nowhere else to turn.

The Board concedes that the gratis test does not necessitate that the caretaker provide "all of the financial support" for the child in their home. Numerous examples exist where children living with relatives have been admitted to local school districts even when the caretaker has obtained some measure of outside financial support. For example, in Bd. of Educ. of East Brunswick v. J.R., 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 285, 287

(Comm'r Dec. 12, 1995), the Commissioner upheld a ruling that it is sufficient if the grandparents provide "a substantial portion of the financial support" for their grandchild. In that case, the grandparents took care of their severely-disabled grandchild because his mother and stepfather had busy schedules and could not give him the extensive attention he needed. The child's natural father, who was divorced from the mother, made support payments, which the grandmother put into a bank account for the child. Moreover, the mother paid for her child's clothing and diapers and his medical, dental and drug expenses were covered under his parent's health insurance policy. Although the specific amount of assistance is not quantified, it appears from the factual discussion to be more nominal. Nonetheless, the Commissioner adopted the recommendation that the grandparents had assumed all obligations "relative to his school requirements," J.R. at 287, and concluded that they "satisfy the criteria set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1)." J.R., at 288 Nothing in the Commissioner's rationale suggests that the outcome depends on the deposit of the support payments into a separate account, since presumably the trust funds could always be invaded if the grandmother needed the money to pay for her grandchild's necessities.

Other cases have also decided that the fact that the child happens to be covered under his parent's medical insurance does not destroy the gratis nature of the caretaker's support. See R.A. v. Bd. of Educ. of Ewing Twp, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 49, 50 (Comm'r Oct. 5, 1994); J.B., supra, at 629. Occasional small gifts are not enough to alter the fundamental relationship among the parties. J.B., supra at 630 (a winter coat, some jeans and shirts, and some dress clothes). Of particular significance, the Commissioner declared that receipt of social-security survivor benefits "does not, in itself, disqualify [the child] from school attendance within the intendment of the law's gratis support requirement." Gunderson, supra, at 42. Rather than treating social security benefits as compensation to the caretaker, the Commissioner regarded them as "a direct government benefit to [the child], with petitioner merely acting as payee [.]" Ibid.

Continued payment of child support by the biological father does not undermine the grandparents' status as supporting their granddaughter "gratis." They contribute more than half of petitioner's living expenses, a substantial portion of her support and enough to claim her as a dependent on their next income tax return. Like social security payments, child support is not recompense to the grandparents for their services, but a court-mandated obligation for the direct benefit of the child. Public policy places an absolute obligation on parents to support their children. N.J.S.A. 9:17-30 to 59. See also, N.J.S.A. 44:1-140. Bergen Cty Welfare Bd. v. Cueman, 164 N.J. Super. 401 (J. & D.R. Ct. 1978). It is doubtful that the Legislature would have intended that a family hardship requiring transfer of custody should absolve a natural parent of his legal responsibility to support his children. More appropriately, the two statutory schemes should be read harmoniously together, so that a child living with her grandparents can attend her local public school free of charge and continue receiving child support. That would be the case if a divorced custodial parent moved into the school district, and should be no different for grandparents who are supporting their granddaughter as if she were their own child.

Order

It is ORDERED that petitioner is eligible to receive a free public education in the Morris Hills Regional School District.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE MORRIS HILLS REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MORRIS COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to affirm, with modification, the Initial Decision of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). In so doing, the Commissioner underscores that, prior to March 25, 1997, the date on which A.H. turned 18 years old, this matter was governed by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1), that portion of the relevant statute known as the "affidavit student" provision, which permits a child who is living with another person who is domiciled in the district to attend school free of charge, under certain conditions, where the domiciliary provides the requisite affidavits and proofs. Like the ALJ, the Commissioner is satisfied that, for the aforementioned period of time, A.H. was entitled to attend school in the District pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1).[1]

[1] Here, the Board issued its ineligibility decision on January 27, 1997 and petitioners filed their Petition of Appeal on January 31, 1997. The record indicates that the Board was aware that A.H. would soon turn 18, (see Answer at 2, para. 4; Board's Exhibits A and B), notwithstanding that its submissions were rife with references to "the minor, A.H." (Board's Initial Set of Interrogatories, June 20, 1997 at 5, 7, 8, 11, 12)

However, upon reaching age of majority, A.H. acquired "the same legal capacity to act and the same powers and obligations as a person 21 or more years of age." N.J.S.A. 9:17B-3.[2] As such, the Commissioner finds that A.H. acquired the right to choose her own domicile.[3] Thus, after March 25, 1997, as long as A.H. was a domiciliary of the District, she was entitled to attend school there, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a. In this connection, the record indicates that A.H. had lived in Denville since July of 1996 (Initial Decision at 4), and that, when this matter was heard in the summer of 1997, A.H.'s driver's license listed the Denville address, her passport identified the Denville address as her address of record, and she had both bank and phone accounts established in Denville. (Board's Initial Set of Interrogatories, June 20, 1997 at number 5). Indeed, the Board offered no evidence that A.H. resided elsewhere while she attended school in the District. Consequently, the Commissioner determines that A.H. was entitled to a free public education in the Board's District after March 25, 1997, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a.[4]

AGENCY DKT. NO. 476-12/97

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF TIMOTHY McENROE, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF BERKELEY HEIGHTS, UNION COUNTY

Robin T. McMahon, Esq., for petitioner
(Martin R. Pachman, P.C., attorney)

Sheldon Pincus, Esq., for respondent
(Bucceri & Pincus, attorney)

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On December 5, 1997, the petitioner, Board of Education, Township of Berkeley Heights (Petitioner or Board) filed with the Commissioner of Education tenure charges against the respondent, Timothy McEnroe, (respondent or McEnroe) a custodian in its school district. The tenure charges charged the respondent with conduct unbecoming a public employee based on the fact that he had been arrested and charged with committing a burglary in violation of N.J.S.A 2C 18-2(a)(1), theft, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:20-3(a) and criminal mischief in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:17-3. The Borad further alleged that the respondent had admitted complicity in the charges, thus warranting a forfeiture of his position.

On December 31, 1997, respondent filed a petition of appeal. Following a prehearing conference, an Order was entered on November 19, 1998 whereby this matter was placed on the inactive list pending resolution of the criminal charges against the respondent. After disposition of the criminal matter, the petitioner moved for summary judgment. The respondent did not oppose the motion.

FACTS

The Board of Education of the Township of Berkeley Heights, Union County, hired the respondent as a custodian on October 30, 1995, and granted him tenure in due course. McEnroe was assigned to an elementary school, where he was in regular contact with students.

The Board certified a charge of misconduct against McEnroe on December 10, 1997. The charge is based upon his arrest on October 29, 1997 on charges of burglary, theft, and criminal mischief.

On December 15, 1997, McEnroe appeared before the Berkeley Heights Municipal Court and entered a plea of guilty to the criminal mischief charge.[1]

On June 24, 1998, McEnroe was indicted on counts of burglary, theft, and conspiracy to commit those crimes. On October 19, 1998, he pled guilty to the charge of burglary in the third degree. On March 23, 1999, a judgment of conviction on the count of third degree burglary was formally entered which included an order of forfeiture of McEnroe's public employment.

[1] McEnroe also appeared before the Cranford Municipal Court on September 1, 1997, and pled guilty to a charge of criminal mischief.

DISCUSSION, FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS

Petitioner moves for summary decision. The New Jersey Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules (N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 et seq.) provide that a party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues in a case at any time after a case is deemed contested. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). In considering the parties' motion for summary decision, this tribunal must determine whether "the papers and discovery . . . together with the affidavits. . . show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b).

Recently, the Supreme Court of New Jersey held that when deciding a motion for summary judgment under R 4:46-2,

> . . . [a] determination whether there exists a 'genuine issue' of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light must favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rationale fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the nonmoving party.
> [Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995)]

The essential question is "whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require [a hearing] or whether it is so one sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law". Id. At 533. See also N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) ("[A]n adverse party [to a summary decision motion] in order to prevail must be responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding."

I FIND and CONCLUDE that this matter is appropriate for summary disposition since there no materially disputed facts.

N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2 provides for the forfeiture of public employment as a consequence of a conviction for certain crimes. The statute provides in relevant part as follows:

> a. A person holding any public office, position, or employment, elective or appointive, under the government of this State or any agency or political subdivision thereof, who is convicted of an offense, shall forfeit such office or position if:
>
> (1) He is convicted under the laws of this State of an offense involving dishonesty or a crime of the third degree or above
> . . . .
>
> b. A court of this State shall enter an order of forfeiture pursuant to subsection a.:
> (1) immediately upon a finding of guilty by the trier of fact or a plea of guilty entered in any court of this State unless the court, for good cause shown, orders a stay of such forfeiture pending a hearing on the merits at the time of sentencing. . .

The statute expressly provides alternative grounds for mandatory forfeiture: conviction of a crime involving dishonesty or conviction of a crime of the third degree or above. In Turner v. State Operated School District of the City of Newark, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (CSV) 146, it was held that:

> It is well settled that forfeiture automatically occurs by operation of law at the time of sentencing for conviction of a crime of the third degree or above. . . (citatons omitted).
> . . . .
> Civil Service Decision involving N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2 have uniformly stated that a hearing is unnecessary if the conviction is for a crime of the third degree or above. For example, in DeLeone v. Essex County, 94 N.J.A.R.2d (Vol. 2B) 544, 546 (Merit Sys. Bd.), the Board declared that forfeiture is "not only appropriate but is mandated" by a conviction for third degree aggravated assault. Likewise, in Rivera v. City of Bridgeton, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (Vol. 2) 311, 312

(Merit Sys. Bd.), involving convictions for the first-degree crime of aggravated sexual assault and the third-degree crime of terroristic threats, the Board noted that "the convictions are dispositive of this case." See also, Startling v. Essex County Citizens Service, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (Vol. 2) 431, 432 (Merit Sys. Bd. (holding that the forfeiture statute is self-executing where the employee entered a guilty plea to the third-degree crime of receiving stolen property.)

Turner v. State-Operated School District of the City of Newark, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (CSV) 146, 147.

In Turner, the petitioner "was convicted of crimes serious enough for the Legislature to classify them as crimes of the third degree." Ibid. Here, McEnroe also plead guilty to third degree crimes. Cases concerning such grave crimes "obviously disqualify the employee for further [governmental] service." Id. At 147 (citing, Moore v. Youth Correctional Institute, 119 N.J. 256, 268). I FIND and CONCLUDE the respondent's plea of guilty to a third degree crime and subsequent court order for forfeiture of his public employment position is grounds for forfeiture of his public employment position with the Board under N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2.

ORDER

Therefore, the petitioner's motion for Summary Decision is hereby GRANTED. The tenure charges are hereby sustained and the petitioner is hereby terminated from his position as a custodian, effective December 5, 1997.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

TOWNSHIP OF BERKELEY	:
HEIGHTS, UNION COUNTY.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law in the form of an Order of Motion for Summary Judgment have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review of the record and the recommended order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), the Commissioner does not agree with the disposition of the matter as set forth by the ALJ. The order of termination sought by the Berkeley Heights Board of Education is unnecessary. As a result of the order of forfeiture of public employment ordered by Superior Court on March 19, 1999 against respondent, the tenure charges against him were rendered moot and his employment with the Board ceased, effective upon the date of the forfeiture order. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Kenneth Wilburn, School District of the City of Atlantic City, Atlantic County, decided by the Commissioner May 24, 1999.

Accordingly, the Board's Motion for Summary Judgment and Petition of Appeal are hereby dismissed as moot.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning teaching staff member alleged that the Board wrongfully withheld his annual increment in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 and N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14.

The ALJ granted summary decision to the Board and dismissed the appeal with prejudice, determining that the appeal was never properly before the Commissioner since the Public Employment Relations Commission had asserted its jurisdiction over this matter from the outset through the arbitrator's ruling that petitioner's increment was withheld for primarily disciplinary reasons.

Finding petitioner's exceptions without merit, the Commissioner affirmed the Initial Decision for the reasons stated therein. Summary decision was granted to the Board and the Petition of Appeal was dismissed.

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 24, 1995, petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) alleging that respondent, the Board of Education of the City of Irvington (Board), wrongfully withheld his annual increment for the 1996-97 school year in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 and N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14. On November 22, 1995, the Board filed its answer and affirmative defenses. On December 8, 1995, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Following the Board meeting of September 20, 1995, at which the Board resolved to withhold Montgomery's increment for the following school year, petitioner filed a grievance pursuant to his employment contract challenging the same increment withholding that is the subject of this present proceeding. This grievance resulted in a binding arbitration hearing before the Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC), initiated on behalf of petitioner by the Irvington Education Association (IEA), Montgomery's employee union.

As a result of the arbitration, on March 7, 1996, respondent requested that the present matter be placed upon the inactive list pending the outcome of the arbitration. This matter became inactive by an Order of Inactivity dated March 19, 1996. A second Order of Inactivity, dated October 30, 1996, continued the inactive status of this case before the Office of Administrative Law until April 30, 1997. By order dated May 9, 1997, inactivity was continued until November 10, 1997, because the arbitration proceeding was not yet completed. A subsequent Order of Inactivity, dated November 24, 1997, continued the inactive status until May 26, 1998. One final Order of Inactivity, dated June 19, 1998, kept the case inactive until December 21, 1998. Any further return to the inactive list was denied. The matter was scheduled for hearing on November 3, 1999, the first mutually convenient day available.

On the scheduled hearing date, the parties were not prepared to proceed. After a discussion off the record, it was determined that this matter should be conducted on the papers by cross-motions for summary decision. A briefing schedule was established and the record closed on December 17, 1999 when the final submissions were received.

INCONTESTABLE FACTS

1. The Board alleged that, on June 21, 1995, at a public meeting of the Board, petitioner physically assaulted the District's parent coordinator, Harry Padden, and had to be forcibly removed from Mr. Padden.

2. After an investigation of the incident, at its August 16, 1995, meeting, the Board determined that the appropriate sanction for petitioner's conduct was to withhold Montgomery's 1995-96 employment and adjustment increments (henceforth to be collectively designated "increment").

3. It was soon realized that, since Montgomery is a twelve-month employee, his salary for the upcoming school year had already vested as of July 1, 1995. As a result, the Board rescinded its action at its September 20, 1995, meeting and voted to withhold Montgomery's increment for the 1996-97 year instead.

4. Montgomery filed his petition on October 24, 1995, with the Commissioner under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. He also initiated a grievance through his union, the IEA, at about the same time, which resulted in a binding arbitration hearing with the PERC, pursuant to the amendments to the New Jersey Employer-Employee Relations Act, specifically, N.J.S.A. 34:13A-22 through -29 (Amendments), effective January 4, 1990. The provisions of the Amendments will be discussed in full below.

5. On October 1, 1996, the initial hearing on Montgomery's grievance was held before arbitrator Lawrence I. Hammer of the PERC Voluntary Labor Arbitration Tribunal. The jurisdictional issue raised at this hearing was whether the dispute could be arbitrated. The PERC's jurisdiction requires that the reason for withholding petitioner's increment be disciplinary rather than based upon his performance. The only other issue before the arbitrator at that time was the following:

> Is the Board of Education statutorily barred or unauthorized to take the action embodied in the Resolution of September 20, 1995?

6. On February 10, 1997, the arbitrator issued his initial Award, which stated that Montgomery's increment was withheld for primarily disciplinary reasons and was therefore subject to binding arbitration. He further ruled that the Board was "NOT statutorily barred nor unauthorized to take the action embodied in its Resolution of September 20, 1995." He then ordered that the matter proceed to a hearing on the merits "forthwith."

7. The hearing on the merits of Montgomery's grievance was held before Hammer on December 3, 1997, and May 3, 1998. The issues were the following:

> Did the Irvington Board of Education violate the just cause provision of the 1993-1996 Collective Bargaining Agreement when it denied George Montgomery's (1996/97) employment and adjustment increment?
> If so, what shall the remedy be?

8. As a result of the evidentiary hearing, the arbitrator found that Montgomery engaged in a physical confrontation with a parent at the June 21, 1995, Board meeting and, in his Award of July 24, 1998, held that Montgomery's conduct constituted "just cause" for the imposition of the increment withholding for the 1996-97 school year. The prior arbitration award had already determined that the Board was authorized to take this action.

9. The IEA, on behalf of Montgomery, brought an Order to Show Cause and Complaint in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Chancery Division, Essex County, under docket number ESX-C-287-98, to vacate the arbitrator's awards. By Order of Julio M. Fuentes, J.S.C., dated January 5, 1999, the petitioner's Complaint was dismissed with prejudice.

10. Montgomery has appealed the Chancery Division Order to the Appellate Division (Docket No. A-3329-98T1). He seeks to vacate the order of Judge Fuentes and to vacate and reverse the arbitrator's awards. This appeal is presently pending.

RESPONDENT'S MOTION FOR SUMMARY DECISION

The Board argues that Montgomery's appeal should be dismissed because the subject matter of the appeal was never within the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education. Consequently, there is no dispute for the Commissioner to hear. Petitioner does not dispute that the only subject of both the present appeal and the arbitration before the PERC is the withholding of petitioner's increment for the 1996-97 school year.

THE APPLICABLE LAW

The Amendments are the statutes governing the present dispute. In particular, N.J.S.A. 34:13A-26 provides:

> Disputes involving the withholding of an employee's increment by an employer for predominately disciplinary reasons shall be subject to the grievance procedures established pursuant to law and shall be subject to the provisions of [N.J.S.A. 34:13A-29].

An "employer" includes "any local or regional school district." N.J.S.A. 34:13A-22. The Amendments, in fact, preclude the applicability of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 for disciplinary increment withholdings. Scotch Plains-Fanwood Bd. of Educ. v. Scotch Plains-Fanwood Educ. Ass'n, 139 N.J. 141, 155 (1995).

As a result, if the reason for withholding an increment is "predominately disciplinary," the dispute "shall be resolved through the grievance procedures" pursuant to the negotiated agreement with the appropriate collective bargaining unit. N.J.S.A. 34:13A-27(c). N.J.S.A. 34:13A-29(a) requires that binding arbitration under the jurisdiction of the PERC be the "terminal step with respect to disputes concerning imposition of reprimands and discipline as that term is defined in this act." "Discipline," under N.J.S.A. 34:13A-22, includes the withholding of increments pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14. This latter statute allows any board of education to withhold an employment or adjustment increment, or both, for "inefficiency or other good cause."

Most important to the present motion is that the PERC is the agency designated by the Amendments to make the initial determination as to whether the withholding of an increment of a teaching staff member is predominately disciplinary. N.J.S.A. 34:13A-27(a). It is only when the PERC determines that the reason for withholding the increment "relates predominately to the evaluation of a teaching staff member's teaching performance" that the teaching staff member can file a petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking resolution of the dispute in that forum. N.J.S.A. 34:13A-27(d). This is the only exception to the rule that increment withholdings of teaching staff members are subject to binding arbitration. Edison Bd. of Educ. v. Edison Principals and Supervisors Ass'n, 304 N.J. Super. 459, 464 (App. Div. 1997).

The Commissioner of Education retained no concurrent jurisdiction over these matters. Randolph Bd. of Educ. v. Randolph Educ. Ass'n, 306 N.J. Super. 207, 212-13 (App. Div. 1997), certif. denied, 153 N.J. 214 (1998). Under the present statutory scheme, his jurisdiction starts only after the PERC has made its determination that the petitioner may file a petition with the Department of Education. N.J.S.A. 34:13A-27(a). In the present case, the PERC asserted its jurisdiction over this matter from the outset and I CONCLUDE that Montgomery's appeal was never properly before the Commissioner of Education.

Petitioner raised a second issue, that a determination by the Commissioner of Education as to Montgomery's increment withholding is not barred by the doctrines of res judicata or collateral estoppel. I CONCLUDE, based upon the Amendments, that this issue is without merit and it will not be addressed. Once the PERC asserted its dominion over Montgomery's appeal, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 34:13A-27(d), a legitimate determination by the Commissioner on the same subject can not exist. This is because the Commissioner is precluded by the Amendments from hearing the appeal and making a determination on the subject matter. Consequently, the possible effect of the binding arbitration upon his decision is irrelevant.

ORDER

Since the Commissioner of Education is without jurisdiction to hear this appeal, it is ORDERED that summary decision is hereby GRANTED to respondent and the petition herein is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Dear Judge Clancy:

Based on the documentation I have received from my adversary in the above matter and based on my conversations with my client, it appears that my client's sick day bank has been appropriately restored. Consequently, there is no need to proceed on the within matter. To that end, I would appreciate if Your Honor would mark this matter withdrawn.

Thank you for your anticipated courtesy and cooperation.

The record of this matter has been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner finds that, inasmuch as petitioner's attorney has submitted a clear intent to withdraw this matter (Letter of December 17, 1999 to the Administrative Law Judge) and given the lack of a formal settlement agreement on the record, the Commissioner determines, instead, that this matter shall be considered a withdrawal, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2.

The Commissioner, therefore, approves the withdrawal, and determines that this matter shall be dismissed with prejudice.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY, RESPONDENT-CROSS/APPELLANT.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, September 7, 2000

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Education Law Center (David R. Giles, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Cross/Appellant, Stephen J. Christiano, Esq.

Petitioner in this case is the mother of three school-age children. On October 31, 1998, she arrived in the United States from Haiti. She and her children moved into her sister's apartment in West Orange where her mother, sister and her sister's child were already living. On November 3, 1998, petitioner went to the offices of the West Orange Board to enroll her children in school. The children, however, were not enrolled until December 2, which was one day after the Board was served with a petition of appeal to the Commissioner filed on behalf of petitioner by the Education Law Center.

By the petition, petitioner challenged the Board's actions in failing to enroll her children in school, characterizing those actions as a denial of admission and claiming that the Board had improperly required her to have a certificate of inhabitancy completed by the municipal Zoning and Housing official before it would admit her children. She also alleged that the Board had failed to comply with the procedural due process requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 and the United States Constitution by not providing written notice of its action and not advising her of the right to appeal to the Commissioner. She further alleged that the Board had violated the children's right to a thorough and efficient education under the New Jersey Constitution.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law, and a hearing was held on December 1, 1999. Following the hearing, counsel for petitioner filed a motion to amend the petition to include additional legal claims. On January 24, 2000, the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") denied the motion on the grounds that it was untimely.

On July 21, 2000, the ALJ issued his initial decision. The ALJ rejected petitioner's characterization of the Board's actions as denying the children admission to the district's schools. Based on his factual findings and finding that the testimony of the Board's registrar was more accurate and credible than that of petitioner and her sister, the ALJ determined that there was no denial of admission, but rather that registration and enrollment were delayed primarily pending receipt of satisfactory proof of residency. The ALJ concluded that in the absence of a denial of admission, there was no violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, which requires that a district board of education must notify a resident in writing of his right to contest the board's decision to deny a child admission to the district's schools. The ALJ further concluded that the Board had been to some extent dilatory when it delayed processing petitioner's application for enrollment for five or six school days, but that petitioner had contributed to the delay by not furnishing satisfactory proof of residence in a timely fashion. He also found that the certificate of inhabitancy should not have been any part of the registration process, but that petitioner's inability to obtain compliance was not the cause of the delay in registration.

After considering all of the facts and circumstances, the ALJ concluded that the actions of the Board's personnel were not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. He rejected petitioner's claim for compensatory education, finding that she had not proven that the children were educationally harmed by the relatively short delay in enrollment and that she had failed to prove any harm that might entitle her to damages. He found that petitioner's demands relating to the children's eligibility and admission to school were moot since they had been admitted to school on December 2, 1998.

The Commissioner agreed with the ALJ that it was improper for completion of the certificate of inhabitancy to be required as part of the registration process and directed that it be totally omitted from the process. The Commissioner, however, determined that the certificate of inhabitancy contributed more to the delay in enrollment than conveyed by the ALJ. The Commissioner found that it was not appropriate for enrollment to be delayed on the basis of incomplete transcripts in that student transcripts relate to a student's educational placement rather than eligibility to enroll and be admitted to school. The Commissioner also found that although incomplete immunization records may delay actual admission to school, they may not interfere with enrollment. The Commissioner therefore directed that the district could not permit the absence or incompleteness of transcripts and immunization records to interfere with the enrollment of a new student. He also directed the County Superintendent to review the District's enrollment policies and procedures. The Commissioner denied all other relief sought by the petitioner, including amendment of her petition.

Petitioner appealed to the State Board of Education seeking reversal of that part of the Commissioner's decision which declined to rule on her claim that the Board's actions in this case violated her procedural due process rights under the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution. Petitioner continues to characterize the Board's action as a denial of admission and exclusion from school and, on the basis of that characterization, claims that the Board violated her constitutional rights by denying admission without providing procedural due process as required by the Appellate Division's decision in J.A. v. Bd. of Educ. for South Orange, 318 N.J. Super. 515 (App. Div. 1999). Again relying on that decision, she further argues that her constitutional claim was not rendered moot by the fact that the school law claim has been resolved by the children's admission to school.

The Board cross-appealed, seeking reversal of the Commissioner's determination that it delayed enrolling petitioner's children because of incomplete transcripts and immunization records. It also appeals from the Commissioner's directive that the County Superintendent review its admission policies and procedures and his directive that parents be immediately informed of the administrator to contact when they experience enrollment delays.

Initially, we concur with petitioner that although her children have been admitted to school, her appeal is not moot. We recognize that in contrast to the situation in J.A. v. Bd. of Educ. for South Orange, supra, the Board in this case has never contested the eligibility of petitioner's children to attend the district's schools. However, like the petitioner in that case, petitioner herein is demanding relief beyond a confirmation of her children's eligibility to attend school in the district. Id. at 518. Similarly, petitioner in this case is also claiming that her due process rights have been violated and is entitled to have that issue decided. Id.

At first glance, there appears to be merit to the legal argument made by petitioner. The Appellate Division's decision in J.A. v. Bd. of Educ. for South Orange, supra, did hold that an administrative decision excluding anyone with a bona fide claim to domicile in a district from the schools of such district is subject to the requirements of procedural due process. 318 N.J. Super. at 523.

There is, however, a major distinction between J.A. v. Bd. of Educ. for South Orange and the case now before us. In stark contrast to J.A. v. Bd. of Educ. for South Orange, which arose from an express determination by the school district to deny admission to the student in that case, the matter now before us does not involve a denial of admission or an exclusion from school. Rather, as found by the ALJ, the pivotal event in this case was a delay in enrollment.

Moreover, as set forth in the ALJ's initial decision, the circumstances surrounding the delay from November 16 until December 2 were not such as to render it a denial of admission. As found by the ALJ, enrollment was delayed in this case for a period of five or six school days because the information submitted as proof of residence was incomplete. Initial Decision, slip op. at 11-12. Specifically, such proof was not submitted until December 2, at which time petitioner submitted a letter from the landlord verifying her residence. Id. at 12.[1] While we concur with the Commissioner that it was improper for the Board to require that a certificate of inhabitancy be completed as part of its registration process and agree that petitioner should not have been put in the position of having to make several visits to the West Orange Zoning and Housing Authority, we find, as did the ALJ, that petitioner's failure to obtain approval of the certificate of inhabitancy was not the cause of the delay. Id. at 13. This conclusion is well supported by the testimony of Josefa Lopez, registrar for the West Orange Board, who, as the ALJ pointed out, testified extensively and credibly that the delay was attributable to the fact that petitioner did not have sufficient proof of residency, rather than the fact that she had not submitted a completed certificate of inhabitancy. To reach any other conclusion would require us to engage in speculation as to what might have occurred had petitioner presented sufficient proof of residency prior to December 2. This we decline to do.

[1] We note that the Commissioner found that the record did not satisfactorily establish why the children were not enrolled "upon presentation of the landlord's letter of verification in late November."

Given the facts of this case, there is no merit to petitioner's claim that her right to procedural due process was violated. Again we stress that J.A. v. Bd. of Educ. for South Orange, supra, involved a denial of admission rather than a delay in enrollment. Again, the length of the delay and the surrounding circumstances in this case were not such as to warrant characterizing it as a constructive denial of admission. In that there was no determination to deny admission, it is difficult to conceive how a hearing could have been conducted to resolve that issue. See J.A. v. Bd. of Educ. for South Orange, supra at 523-24 (exclusion from school is subject to the requirements of procedural due process). Nor could the Board have provided petitioner with a statement of the reasons

Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 28. However, as set forth in the ALJ's initial decision, the letter from petitioner's landlord verifying residency, although dated November 10, was not submitted to the registrar until December 2. Initial Decision, slip op. at 12.

supporting a determination that it had not made. See id. at 524 (due process requires that a board must inform student of the grounds for its decision to exclude her).

We fully agree with the ALJ and the Commissioner that the Board in this case should have moved with greater dispatch to enroll petitioner's children in school. We also agree with the Commissioner that, like any district, this district's policies and procedures for enrolling new students should assure that residency forms are easily understood and appropriate, that parents are informed of an administrator to contact if they experience delays or difficulties in enrollment, and that decisions on enrollment are issued expeditiously and that appeal rights are communicated to the parents. Given the Commissioner's responsibility for the supervision of New Jersey's public schools, N.J.S.A. 18A:4-23, and the role of the county superintendent, N.J.S.A. 18A:7-1 et seq., we find it entirely appropriate that the Commissioner directed the County Superintendent in this instance to review the Board's policies and procedures to ensure that they included these guarantees, and we reject the Board's cross-appeal in this respect.[2]

Further, like the ALJ and Commissioner, we find that inclusion of the certificate of inhabitancy in the Board's registration packet was inappropriate and affirm the Commissioner's determination that such practice must be discontinued. We also agree with the Commissioner that the Board must not allow incompleteness of transcripts and immunization records to interfere with the enrollment of a new student. However, as set forth above, we, like the ALJ, find that the delay in enrollment was primarily attributable to the fact that petitioner did not provide proof of residency until December 2 rather than the failure to complete the certificate of inhabitancy or the incompleteness of transcripts and immunization records. Initial Decision, slip op. at 11-13 and 15-16.

[2] We consider inclusion of these guarantees in the enrollment procedures followed by district boards to be of such importance that we proposed regulations to codify them on July 10, 2001. 33 N.J.R. 2790(a).

Hence, for the reasons expressed, we reject petitioner's due process claims and, as modified herein, affirm the Commissioner's decision in this case.

Attorney exceptions are noted.

THIS AGREEMENT is made this 23rd day of December, 1999 by and between ALAN H. SKRILOFF, (hereinafter "Petitioner") and the BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NORTH BRUNSWICK, Middlesex County (hereinafter "Board").

WHEREAS, the Petitioner has filed suit against the Board before the Commissioner of Education of the State of New Jersey under Agency Docket Number 06238-99s and Agency reference No. 188-7/99 (hereinafter "the Litigation");

WHEREAS, the subject matter of the Litigation is the abolition of the Petitioner's position as Assistant Superintendent of Curriculum and Instruction;

WHEREAS, the parties desire to amicably resolve the Litigation and to release each other from any claims which may be asserted therein: and

4a

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the promises and mutual covenants and agreements contained herein, and intending to be legally bound, the parties hereto agree as follows:

1. Releases. Upon fulfillment by the Board of all the terms of this Settlement Agreement, Petitioner hereby releases any and all claims he may have against the Board, with respect to this litigation and his employment relationship, which may have arisen at any time in the past up to the date of the signing of this Settlement Agreement. Upon receipt of Petitioner's signed letter of resignation, the Board hereby releases any and all claims it may have against Petitioner which may have arisen at any time in the past up to the date of the signing of this Settlement Agreement. All parties agree that the terms of this Settlement Agreement fully satisfy any such claim(s). Specifically excluded from this general release are Petitioner's right, upon cessation of employment with the district as indicated by the letter of resignation, to obtain continued medical coverage at his own expense as authorized by the Consolidated Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1986 (COBRA); any rights he may have arising under the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund (TPAF) and related statutes and regulations; any rights he may have for indemnification by the Board pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 and -6.1; and any rights he may have under the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Law, N.J.S.A. 34:15-1, et seq. In addition, this Release does not preclude either party from suing for enforcement of the terms of this Settlement Agreement. The within release shall also preclude the Petitioner from seeking future employment with the Board based upon any rights of tenure, seniority or prior employment with the Board. The Board shall be free without any claim on the part of the Petitioner to maintain, alter, modify or restructure its administrative and supervisory positions at any time hereafter.

2. Payment for Sick Days. Upon the signing of this Settlement Agreement, the Board agrees to pay Petitioner the sum of $10,000.00 in payment for accumulated sick days.

3. Resignation. The letter of resignation, dated NOV. 5, 1999 submitted by the Petitioner and accepted by the Board at its meeting on the 9th day of Nov. shall be honored in accordance with its terms. A copy of the letter of resignation is annexed hereto and made a part hereof.

4. Dismissal of Lawsuit. Upon execution of this Agreement by an authorized representative of the Board and upon approval by the Board of the terms contained herein, the Petitioner shall promptly cause his attorneys to dismiss with prejudice the lawsuit he has filed against the Board as referenced herein.

5 No Admission of Liability. By executing this Agreement, neither party hereto admits liability to the other. The parties agree that the contents of the within agreement are confidential and shall not be discussed, disclosed or communicated to any third party without the prior consent of the other party.

6. Miscellaneous Provisions. This Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties hereto and their respective heirs, administrators, successors, and assigns.

THIS AGREEMENT sets forth the entire understanding and agreement between the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof and may only be amended or modified by a writing signed by each party intending to be bound thereby. Except as otherwise provided herein, it is understood and agreed that any and all previous discussions and agreements, whether oral or written, are hereby merged into this Agreement, and that this Agreement is intended to be final and complete resolution of the Litigation.

THIS AGREEMENT may be executed in one or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original, but all of which together shall constitute one and the same instrument. The signatures of all the parties hereto are required for this Agreement to be binding on any party.

THE PARTIES to this Agreement have read it and understand it, and acknowledge that this Agreement is entered into and executed voluntarily without any duress or undue influence. The parties also acknowledge that they had the opportunity to seek independent counsel and have such counsel review this Agreement prior to their execution of same.

THIS AGREEMENT shall in all respects be interpreted, enforced, and governed under the laws of the State of New Jersey.

SAVINGS CLAUSE. If a specific clause of this Addendum is found to be illegal in federal or State law, the remainder of this Addendum, not affected by such a ruling, shall remain in force.

WHEREAS, this Agreement has been approved by a vote of the Board of Education of the Township of North Brunswick, Middlesex County at its meeting of Dec. 14, 1999 and has been made a part of the minutes of that meeting; and

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have executed this Agreement effective on the date and year first written above.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) in the form of a Stipulation of Settlement and Dismissal have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter. The matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement. The Commissioner notes, however, that certain terms of the settlement appear to have been effectuated prior to the Commissioner's approval. He, therefore, reminds the parties that they acted at their peril in so doing and cautions them and other litigants whose controverted matters have been duly transmitted to the OAL against effectuation of any settlement prior to its submission to, and approval by, the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1.

Record Closed: January 11, 2000 Decided: January 19, 2000

BEFORE BEATRICE S. TYLUTKI, ALJ:

This matter concerns the allegations of the petitioner, Kathy Vaughn, that her absences from work after an incident on November 6, 1998, are work related; and therefore, the respondent, the Board of Education of the Borough of Red Bank, Monmouth County should not deduct them from her accumulative sick leave time. I had telephone conferences with the parties regarding a settlement of the matter on July 12, 1999, September 22, 1999 and October 7, 1999. The parties have agreed to a settlement of this matter as part of the Workers' Compensation case settlement. As to this case, the parties have signed a stipulation of dismissal with prejudice which is attached and incorporated herein.

I CONCLUDE that the matter be dismissed and that it is no longer a contested case before the Office of Administrative Law. It is ORDERED that this matter be DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING :

OF JOSEPH GRACEFFO, SCHOOL DISTRICT : STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WAYNE, : DECISION

PASSAIC COUNTY. :

Decision on motion by the Commissioner of Education, October 20, 1999

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, September 21, 2000

For the Respondent-Appellant, Robert M. Schwartz, Esq.

For the Petitioner-Cross/Appellant, Fogarty & Hara (Stephen R. Fogarty, Esq., of Counsel)

In May 1999, the Board of Education of the Township of Wayne (hereinafter "Board") certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against Joseph Graceffo (hereinafter "respondent"), a tenured vice principal, charging that he had violated N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and the Board's Policy No. 5131.6 by failing to arrange for the immediate medical examination of high school students who had been referred to him by staff members who suspected that the students were under the influence of drugs or alcohol.[1]

[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 provides, in pertinent part:

> a. Whenever it shall appear to any teaching staff member, school nurse or other educational personnel of any public school in this State that a pupil may be under the influence of substances as defined pursuant to section 2 of this act, other than anabolic steroids, that teaching staff member, school nurse or other educational personnel shall report the matter as soon as possible to the school nurse or medical inspector, as the case may be, or to a substance awareness coordinator, and to the > principal or, in his absence, to his designee. The principal or his designee, shall immediately notify the parent or guardian and the superintendent of schools, if there be one, or the administrative principal and shall arrange for an immediate examination of the pupil by a doctor selected by the parent or guardian, or if that doctor is not immediately available, by the medical inspector, if he is available. If a doctor or medical inspector is not immediately available, the pupil shall be taken to the emergency room of the nearest hospital for examination accompanied by a member of the school staff designated by the principal and a parent or guardian of the pupil if available. The pupil shall be examined as soon as possible for the purpose of diagnosing whether or not the pupil is under such influence....

Board Policy No. 5131.6, "Drugs, Alcohol and Tobacco," provides, in pertinent part:

> A. Procedure for identifying and assisting students who may be at risk of developing alcohol and/or drug dependencies excluding classes involving anabolic steroids
> 1. Whenever it shall appear to any teaching staff member, school nurse and/or other educational or professional medical staff member that a pupil may have used, consumed and/or be under the influence of alcohol or other drugs, that staff member shall report the matter as soon as possible to the building's professional medical staff member and principal or other administrator....
> 2a. In compliance with N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12, the principal or, in his absence, his/her designee shall immediately notify the parent/guardian and the Superintendent and arrange for the pupil to immediately be medically examined by a doctor selected by the parent/guardian....
> 2b. The principal or his/her designee shall explain to the student's parent/guardian the details of the examination process which will be used by the District if the student is not examined by the parent's/guardian's own doctor....
> 2c. As soon as possible after a student is reported as possibly being under the influence, the principal or designee and the school nurse shall verbally explain to the student's parent/guardian what the symptoms were which led to the reporting....
> 3. If the school authorities are unable to contact the parent/guardian and/or if the doctor selected is not immediately available, the school medical inspector or designee shall be immediately called upon to examine the pupil for the purpose of diagnosing whether or not the pupil is under the influence of alcohol or drugs pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12....
> 4. If such doctor, medical inspector or his/her designee is not immediately available or if the situation becomes life threatening, the pupil shall be immediately taken to the emergency room of the Wayne General Hospital or the nearest hospital, for examination and/or treatment....

member, Susan Ammerman, reported to the respondent that she had detected an odor of marijuana on N.L. When the school nurse told the respondent that she was not able to corroborate the teacher's suspicions, he decided not to arrange for further medical examination. The next day, another staff member, Robert Flower, reported to the respondent that he also had detected the odor of marijuana on N.L. The respondent again failed to arrange for an examination of N.L. Two weeks later, on February 6, 1999, N.L. died of a drug overdose.

The Board also charged that the respondent had engaged in unbecoming conduct with regard to the following incidents.[2] In 1991, Victoria Musetti, the Student Assistance Specialist, observed a student run out of the respondent's office in an agitated state and knock everything off of the counter in the front office (hereinafter "the rage incident."). She told the respondent that she believed the student might have been under the influence of drugs and that he should be tested. The respondent did not arrange for an examination since he felt that there was not a reasonable suspicion to believe that the student was under the influence.[3] In 1994, a teacher referred three students to the respondent for drug testing. The respondent failed to have one of the students, D.M., tested, allegedly telling Musetti that he did not want another confrontation with D.M.'s mother. On October 23, 1995, a guidance counselor referred a student, A.F., to the respondent for drug testing. The student was not tested until the following day. Finally, on November 5, 1996 at the end of the school day, Musetti referred a student, J.B., to the respondent, requesting that he be tested for drugs. The next morning, the respondent informed her that he could not implement the test since he was the only administrator in the building at that time. When another vice principal returned around noon that day, she arranged for J.B. to be tested.

[2] We note that the incidents from 1991 and 1994 were not included in the tenure charges certified to the Commissioner, but were raised by the Board during the proceedings in the Office of Administrative Law. Although the ALJ granted the respondent's motion to strike those charges, the Commissioner, upon interlocutory review, reversed the ALJ's ruling and allowed the Board to proceed on those charges, concluding that it had adequately set forth the incidents in question so as to allow the respondent to prepare a defense.

[3] Neither the respondent nor the Student Assistance Specialist could remember the name of the student involved in that incident.

In a decision issued on June 19, 2000, an Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") observed that the parties differed with regard to what triggered the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and Board Policy 5131.6. The Board maintained that its policy was triggered whenever a staff member reported a suspicion that a student was under the influence. It contended that once a staff member made such a referral, neither the vice principal nor the school nurse had any role in determining whether the student would be tested. The respondent argued that the drug policy was not triggered by the referral. Rather, the decision to test a student for substance abuse was based on the totality of the circumstances and the standard of reasonable suspicion.

In interpreting N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12, the ALJ reasoned that the underlying purpose of the statute – to identify students who are substance abusers, assess the extent of their involvement with such substances and, when appropriate, refer them for professional treatment – supported interpreting the phrase "shall arrange for an immediate examination of the student" as a mandatory directive. Thus, the ALJ concluded:

> administrators have no discretion to decide whether to test students '[w]henever it shall appear to any teaching staff member, school nurse or other educational personnel...that a pupil may be under the influence of substances.' N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12(a). The legislative intent behind the statute reflects a 'zero-tolerance' attitude towards drug abuse and > the statutory language leaves little room for interpretation. Moreover, there is nothing in the legislative history to indicate that the statutory provision was not intended to be mandatory. Accordingly, whenever a staff member reports a student whom she/he suspects might be under the influence of drugs, the administrator must implement the drug test.

Initial Decision, slip op. at 13.

The ALJ added that:

> logic dictates that no test would be required if a teacher referred a student for testing without having observed significant symptoms of possible drug use. Thus, the mandatory testing requirement is triggered upon a referral from the teacher that is based upon reasonable suspicion.

Id. at 14.

Applying N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and Board Policy No. 5131.6 to the facts of this case, the ALJ concluded that the Board had established the respondent's unbecoming conduct with regard to four of the six charged incidents. She found that the Board had demonstrated that the respondent had violated the statute and policy with regard to the incidents involving students A.F. and J.B. and with regard to both incidents involving N.L. The ALJ found that the delay in arranging for an examination of A.F. until the next day violated the essential spirit and underlying purpose of the policy and law, concluding that the use of the word "immediately" in the statute implied a same-day examination. Similarly, the ALJ concluded that the respondent had violated the statute when he failed to arrange for an immediate examination of J.B., although she noted that all staff members involved in this incident had contributed to the one-day delay.

The ALJ also concluded that the respondent had violated the statute by not arranging for an examination of N.L. The ALJ found that the communications to the respondent from both staff members were sufficient to trigger the requirements of the statute.

However, the ALJ found that the Board had not established unbecoming conduct with regard to the student involved in the "rage incident" in 1991. Applying "a sensible rather than a literal interpretation to the law and policy," initial decision, slip op. at 19, the ALJ found that the respondent was in a better position than the Student Assistance Specialist, who had had no prior contact with the student involved in that incident, to understand the reasons behind his rage. The ALJ concluded that a literal reading of the statute, which would require an administrator to automatically test every student referred by a staff member, was not a reasonable or sensible interpretation of the testing provisions.

The ALJ also concluded that the Board had not established the tenure charge involving D.M. Noting that the incident was not even raised until the hearing, the ALJ found that the evidence presented by the parties was "in a state of equilibrium with respect to whether certain facts exist." Id. at 25. Stressing that the burden was on the Board to demonstrate the truthfulness of the charge, the ALJ concluded that there was insufficient evidence to establish that the respondent had violated the statute or Board policy with regard to that incident.

In determining the appropriate penalty, the ALJ observed that the respondent was an experienced administrator who had exhibited poor judgment in not promptly arranging for medical examinations for A.F. and J.B. and by not arranging for an examination of N.L. after receiving separate referrals on consecutive days from two different staff members. Pointing out that the respondent had served in the district for 34 years with an unblemished record and had been active in school and community activities, the ALJ found that these mitigating factors outweighed the respondent's failure to properly implement the district's drug policy. Moreover, the ALJ, who had the opportunity to observe the respondent's demeanor, was persuaded that the respondent was remorseful over the death of N.L. Accordingly, the ALJ recommended that the respondent suffer a permanent reduction of one step on the salary guide and forfeit all salary and benefits from the first 120 days of his suspension.

In a decision issued on September 21, 2000, the Commissioner of Education adopted the ALJ's conclusion that the Board had demonstrated unbecoming conduct with regard to the charges involving students A.F., J.B. and the two charges involving N.L. In reaching this conclusion, the Commissioner clarified that a principal or his designee was obligated under the law to arrange for an immediate medical examination of a student after a staff member advised the designated administrator of his or her belief that the student had exhibited signs of possible substance abuse and "articulate[d] the observations, symptoms and indicators underlying this conclusion." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 55. As expressed by the Commissioner:

> There is nothing in the plain language of N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12, nor in its legislative history, to indicate that the statutory provision requiring an immediate medical examination was not intended to be mandatory upon a staff report of a student who appeared, based on specific observed indicators, to be under the influence of alcohol or other drugs....
> Within this framework, the mandatory medical examination is, therefore, triggered upon referral from the teaching staff member based upon the staff member's observation of specific indicators and determination based upon them that the student appears to be under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs. [Emphasis added.] There > is nothing in N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 suggesting, much less authorizing, once a report has been made, that the designated administrator may first seek to validate the referring staff member's observations or judge the reasonableness of his or her conclusions before taking the actions required by statute. Instead, the administrator must act once the student has been reported....Neither is there anything suggesting that the staff member must specifically request that the student be chemically screened or otherwise examined before the required medical examination is arranged....[I]t is the referral itself that, under N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and N.J.A.C. 6:29-6.5, unequivocally requires the principal or his designee to arrange for an immediate medical examination [emphasis omitted] of the student.

Id. at 55-57.

Significantly, the Commissioner emphasized that:

> ...a staff member need not be certain that a student is under the influence of alcohol or drugs, but need only have made a reasonable judgment, based upon symptoms and indicators he or she has observed in the student and articulated to the designated administrator, that the student appears to be under such influence.

Id. at 56-57 (emphasis omitted).

On the basis of this standard, the Commissioner sustained the four tenure charges involving students A.F., J.B. and N.L. The Commissioner concluded that the respondent had "made conscious decisions which he knew, or should have known, contravened statute and the Board's policy," id. at 66, and he agreed with the ALJ that the respondent's failure to arrange for an immediate medical examination of those students was a serious infraction deserving a significant penalty. The Commissioner also concurred with the ALJ that the Board had not demonstrated the tenure charge involving student D.M.

The Commissioner, however, did not agree with the ALJ's conclusion regarding the 1991 "rage incident." The Commissioner concluded that, under the standard he had articulated, the factual circumstances demonstrated by the Board in relation to this incident established the respondent's unbecoming conduct. In so finding, the Commissioner relied heavily upon the fact that Musetti, the reporting staff member, was a certified substance awareness coordinator serving in the position of Student Assistance Specialist.

The import given by the Commissioner to the fact that Musetti was a certified substance awareness coordinator reflected the great emphasis that he placed on the statutory requirements for in-service training of professional staff members with regard to the identification of students who might be under the influence of drugs or alcohol. See N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-15. The Commissioner however found that the in-service training that had been provided by the Board in this case had been "woefully inadequate." Id. at 65. The Commissioner therefore directed the Board to "undertake such revisions of its policies and procedures as are necessary to reflect the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and implementing rules consistent with the decision herein, [and] to institute a program of continuing education so that staff members will be able to fulfill their obligations under the law...." Id. at 67.

The Commissioner stressed, in addition, that a drug test did not equate to a medical examination within the requirements of the statute, as suggested by the ALJ, and that the statute's requirement for an immediate medical examination of a student who was reported as appearing to be under the influence of alcohol or drugs dictated that such an examination be conducted by a physician.

Despite his rejection of the ALJ's conclusion that the 1991 "rage incident" did not demonstrate unbecoming conduct, the Commissioner adopted the penalty recommended by the ALJ. Accordingly, he directed that the respondent suffer a permanent reduction of one step on the salary guide and forfeit all salary and benefits from the first 120 days of his suspension, finding that the charges he had sustained warranted such a penalty under the circumstances.

The respondent filed the instant appeal to the State Board of Education, maintaining that the respondent "cannot be found to have exhibited conduct unbecoming or unprofessional conduct if his conduct followed a practice in the district which others followed as well, and if his supervisors not only failed to criticize him for what he did or didn't do, but testified that they agreed with what he did." Appeal Brief, at 39. The respondent insists that his mistakes were based on a common misunderstanding of the obligations imposed by the statute and that there is no credible evidence to support the conclusion that he knew that he was contravening statute or policy. The Board filed a cross-appeal, contending that the appropriate penalty under the circumstances is dismissal of the respondent from his tenured employment.

After a thorough review of the record, we affirm the Commissioner's decision as modified herein.

We agree with the Commissioner that although the tenure charge involving student D.M. cannot be sustained, the Board has demonstrated the respondent's unbecoming conduct by a preponderance of the credible evidence with regard to the charges involving A.F. and J.B. and the two charges involving N.L. The record clearly shows that the respondent made a conscious decision not to arrange for an immediate medical examination in the cases of A.F. and J.B., as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and the Board's policy, and that he similarly failed to arrange for any examination of N.L. The fact that other staff members may also have misunderstood their obligations under the applicable statute does not excuse respondent's failure to comply with its requirements.

However, contrary to the Commissioner, we agree with the ALJ that the Board has not demonstrated that respondent violated the statute or policy when he failed to arrange for a medical examination of the student involved in the 1991 "rage incident." Although we fully concur that the standard articulated by the Commissioner is the proper standard for judging compliance with the applicable statutory framework, we find that he did not properly assess the factual circumstances of the "rage incident" under that standard.

Like the Commissioner, we stress that once a staff member reports that a student appears to be under the influence of alcohol or drugs and articulates the specific indicators that form the basis for his conclusion, a principal or his designee does not have the discretion to reject that conclusion. Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 55-57.[4] However, we further emphasize, as did the Commissioner, that such conclusion must represent a reasonable judgment based upon the symptoms and indicators the staff member observed in the student. Id. at 56-57. Clearly, such judgment cannot be reasonable if the staff member is not able to articulate which of the specific indicators formed the basis for his conclusion or if his perception of the factual circumstances underlying his assessment of the symptoms is patently flawed.

In contrast to the factual circumstances presented by the four charges that have been sustained, those presented by the 1991 "rage incident" are atypical. Musetti's observations, upon which the tenure charge relating to this incident was predicated, were limited to the aftermath of a disciplinary meeting between the respondent and a student, and she was unaware of the context of the conduct she was observing when she made her judgment concerning that conduct. As demonstrated by the record, Musetti had heard the respondent and the student yelling at each other in the respondent's office. She then observed the student come out of the office and, according to her testimony, "he was extremely, extremely angry. His face was contorted, he was bright red, he was very, very hostile....He came out of the office and he knocked everything off of the counter that was within his reach. He came around that counter and he flung open the door, it ricocheted off of the glass portion of the wall and he bolted out of the building." Tr. 12/7/99, at 42.

When Musetti asked the respondent if he thought the student's behavior might have been drug or alcohol related, he responded that the student was just very angry. She testified that "my thoughts were the child's high as a kite. And so I said, I think the child is possibly drug affected and I would like us to drug test this person." Id. at 43-44. She conceded that she did not know why the student had been in the respondent's office and that she had not spoken to the student that day or spent any time with him. Nor did she know any details about what had occurred or been discussed in the respondent's office. Tr. 12/8/99, at 14, 18-19. Musetti further acknowledged that her suspicions were based solely on her brief observation of the student's agitated behavior after he had left the respondent's office. Id. at 21.

The respondent testified that the student had been in his office "for a long period of time" on a disciplinary matter. Tr. 2/28/00, at 113-14. He recalled that the student had angrily left his office and that he had told Musetti that "the student just came out of my office and he's upset over the issues that I was discussing with him." Id. at 115.

Under these circumstances, in which Musetti had briefly observed the aftermath of the student's meeting with the respondent, and, unlike the respondent, had had no involvement with the student or any knowledge of the circumstances of that meeting or what had occurred therein, we agree with the ALJ that a "sensible" application of the statute would not penalize the respondent for not arranging for a medical examination of that student. In this respect, we again stress that the respondent had just spent considerable time with the student involved in the incident and was in a unique position to know the circumstances leading to the conduct observed by Musetti and to understand the reasons for that behavior. She was not. Musetti was not aware of the reasons for the student's meeting with the respondent, did not know what had occurred in his office just prior to her observation of the student, and had not spoken to the student herself. She had simply observed the student leaving the respondent's office in an agitated state. Indeed, Musetti had no knowledge of the basis for the student's behavior. The respondent did. Under these particular facts, we agree with the ALJ that N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and Board Policy No. 5131.6 did not require the respondent to arrange for a medical examination of that student.

Our conclusion with regard to that incident is reinforced by N.J.A.C. 6:29-6.3, which was in effect during the period relevant to this case and which represented the Department of Education's interpretation of N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12. That regulation provided, in pertinent part, that:

> (a) District boards of education shall adopt and implement policies and procedures for the evaluation, intervention and referral to treatment of pupils whose use of alcohol and other drugs has affected their school performance or who possess, consume or who on reasonable grounds are suspected of being under the influence of [alcoholic beverages and controlled dangerous substances]." [Emphasis added.]

Consistent with that regulation and as set forth above, the Commissioner repeatedly stressed in his decision that, while a staff member need not be certain that a student is actually under the influence of alcohol or drugs, his judgment that the student appears to be under the influence must be a reasonable one, based on symptoms and indicators articulated to the designated administrator. See N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-11 (boards shall adopt and implement policies and procedures for the evaluation, referral for treatment and discipline of pupils involved in incidents of possession or abuse of substances on school property or at school functions or who show significant symptoms of the use of those substances).

We turn now to the appropriate penalty to be imposed on the respondent. In determining that penalty, it is necessary for us to consider the nature and gravity of the respondent's conduct under all of the circumstances involved, including mitigating and extenuating circumstances, and any injurious effect the conduct may have on the proper administration of the school district. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 422 (App. Div. 1967). As found by the ALJ:

> Graceffo is an experienced administrator who exhibited poor judgment by not promptly testing A.F. and J.B. and by not testing N.L. after receiving a referral from Ammerman and Flower. Except for the pending charges, Graceffo's record is unblemished. He has served the District for thirty-four (34) years in many positions including teacher, director and coordinator of several departments and vice principal. He has also been active in school and community activities. These mitigating factors outweigh Graceffo's failure to implement the drug policy referenced in the charges.
> I have considered the Board's argument that any penalty short of dismissal will be futile, because if Graceffo is allowed to return to the District he will continue to live by his purported philosophy of laws were meant to be broken. Petitioner's Brief at 100. The argument is unpersuasive. I have observed Graceffo's demeanor and the demeanor of all the witnesses who appeared at the hearing. I am persuaded that Graceffo is remorseful over the death of the student who attended his school and that he has learned a lesson from all the embarrassment and humiliation that he has suffered from having to endure this protracted ordeal. Moreover, Graceffo's employment record does not square with the image of a reckless lawbreaker that is portrayed by the Board.

Initial Decision, slip op. at 30-31.

Notwithstanding the respondent's contention that he had acted with the approval of and in a manner consistent with that of other administrators in the district, we find that both N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-2 and the Board's policy are clear in requiring that the principal or his designee immediately notify the parents or guardian of a student reported to be under the influence of drugs or alcohol and arrange for an immediate medical examination of that student. The respondent failed to comply with those mandates on four separate occasions. In considering the nature and gravity of the offense under all the circumstances, including the fact that the Board has not countered any of the ALJ's credibility determinations, we reject the Board's argument that dismissal of the respondent from his tenured position after 34 years of unblemished service is the appropriate penalty. However, we agree with the Commissioner that it is necessary to "impress most emphatically upon respondent the seriousness of his conduct." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 66. We therefore impose on the respondent the penalty recommended by the ALJ and adopted by the Commissioner – a permanent reduction of one step on the salary guide and forfeiture of all salary and benefits from the first 120 days of his suspension.

We recognize in so doing that we have set aside the Commissioner's determination with regard to the 1991 "rage incident." However, like the ALJ and the Commissioner, we have sustained the four charges against the respondent that involved students A.F., J.B. and N.L. Given the nature of these charges, we concur with the ALJ's determination that the respondent's conduct in failing to arrange for the immediate medical examination of those students warrants the imposition of this penalty.

In rendering our decision today, we recognize that new regulations became effective on May 7, 2001 providing for procedures for substance abuse intervention. See N.J.A.C. 6A:16-4.1 et seq. In view of our determination herein, we direct the Commissioner to review those regulations to ensure that they are consistent with our decision and that he propose to us any revisions that are necessary or advisable.

Attorney exceptions are noted.

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

This matter arises from the filing of a Petition by Thomas Jabour, ("petitioner") with the Commissioner of Education on August 6, 1998, seeking reinstatement of sick time, medical coverage and reimbursement of amounts paid out to secure medical coverage and reinstatement of time under the Family Leave Act, allegedly denied him by the Board of Education of the Delaware Valley Regional School District ("respondent"). The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on November 4, 1998, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

On January 18, 2000, counsel for the parties submitted the attached Withdrawal of Petition indicating they had resolved the issues in this case and consent to withdraw the petition with prejudice. Therefore, having reviewed the record and for good cause shown, it is hereby ORDERED that this matter be DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY,

RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, October 2, 2000

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Oxfeld Cohen, LLC (Sanford R. Oxfeld, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Sills, Cummis, Radin, Tischman, Epstein & Gross (Cherie L. Maxwell, Esq., of Counsel)

For the reasons expressed herein, as well as those expressed by the Commissioner of Education, the State Board of Education affirms the decision of the Commissioner. In doing so, we fully agree with the Commissioner that N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c) grants immediate tenure to an individual who had achieved tenure status in an administrative/supervisory position in the central office prior to the creation of a State-operated school district only if the State district superintendent rehires such individual to serve in an administrative/supervisory position in the central office upon its reorganization pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(b).

Thus, we reject appellant's argument that the words of the statute confer immediate tenure on such individuals who, following the creation of a State-operated school district, are rehired in positions that are not part of the central office staff. The provision at issue reads in full:

> Notwithstanding any other provision of law or contract, the positions of the central administrative and supervisory staff, instructional and non-instructional, other than those positions abolished pursuant to subsection a. of this section, shall be abolished upon the reorganization of the State-operated school district's staff. The State district superintendent may hire an individual whose position is so abolished, based upon the evaluation of the district and the staffing needs of the reorganized district staff. These individuals shall be hired with tenure if they had tenure in their prior position. If they did no have tenure in their prior position, they may obtain tenure pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S. 18A:28-6. Individuals hired as State assistant superintendents shall not be hired with tenure and shall not acquire tenure. Employees or officers not hired for the reorganized staff shall be given 60 days' notice of termination or 60 days' pay. The notice or payment shall be in lieu of any other claim or recourse against the employing board or the school district based on law or contract. Notwithstanding this limitation, nothing herein shall preclude an individual from asserting upon separation from service any legal contractual right to health care coverage, annuities, accrued vacation days, accrued sick leave, insurance and approved tuition costs. Any employee whose position is abolished by operation of this subsection shall be entitled to assert a claim to any position or to placement upon a preferred eligibility list for any position to which the employee may be entitled by virtue of tenure or seniority within the district. No employee whose position is abolished by operation of this subsection shall retain any right to tenure or seniority in the position abolished herein.

N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c) (emphasis supplied by appellant).

The language to which appellant points and upon which the ALJ relied is set forth in one sentence which appellant urges us to read out of context. To do so leads to a result that not only is contrary to the thrust of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44, but which is also inconsistent with the overall statutory framework of which N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 is a part. E.g., Chasin v. Montclair State University, 159 N.J. 418 (1999).

Initially, as the Commissioner points out, all three provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 address what is to occur following the creation of a State-operated school district only with respect to those administrative and supervisory positions that are part of the central office staff. Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 20. N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(a) provides for the abolishment of the positions of chief school administrator and the positions of those administrators responsible for curriculum, business and finance, and personnel. It also provides that the affected individuals may assert a claim to any positions to which they may be entitled by virtue of tenure or seniority in the district. N.J.S.A.18A:7A-44(b) requires that the State district superintendent implement a reorganization of the district's "central administrative and supervisory staff" after evaluating the individuals serving in those positions, but within one year of the creation of the State-operated school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c) specifies what is to occur with respect to the positions of the central administrative and supervisory staff that were not abolished by operation of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(a) upon implementation of the reorganization mandated by N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(b).

The words of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c) authorize the State district superintendent to hire any individual whose position is abolished pursuant to this provision "based upon the evaluation of the individual and the staffing needs of the reorganized district staff." The evaluation referred to is that performed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(b) and the "reorganized district staff" is that which results from the reorganization of the district's central administrative and supervisory staff mandated by N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(b). It is in this context that the requirement to hire individuals with immediate tenure if they had tenure in their prior administrative/supervisory positions must be read. We find that, read in context, the language at issue confers instant tenure on an individual who had achieved tenure in an administrative/supervisory position within the central office prior to the creation of a State-operated school district only if such individual is hired to fill an administrative/supervisory position within the central office following reorganization.

Quite simply, the language of the statute provides no basis to expand the tenure rights of those individuals who had acquired tenure as part of the central office staff so as to permit them to claim instant tenure in positions in which they had never served. In this respect, we stress that, like N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(a), N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c) provides that any individual whose administrative/supervisory position is abolished is entitled to assert a claim or be placed on a preferred eligibility list for any position to which he may be entitled by virtue of tenure or seniority within the district. This protects the tenure rights of administrative staff members whose central office positions are abolished with respect to those positions in which such individuals had served. To interpret the language at issue so as to expand those rights to encompass positions in which individuals had not served would confer on administrative/supervisory staff within the central office of a school district that has failed to assure a thorough and efficient system of education greater rights than those possessed by similar staff members serving in the central offices of school districts that are providing their students with an adequate education. N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-15; N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-34. This result would be educationally unsound and inconsistent with the overall purpose of the statutory framework to assure correction of serious educational deficiencies.

In short, examination of the language of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c) fails to disclose any intent on the part of the Legislature to confer tenure rights with respect to positions in which they had never served on individuals affected by the statutorily-required reorganization of the central office staff following the creation of a State-operated school district. To the contrary, to interpret the provision at issue to confer instant tenure as a vice-principal on appellant, who had never served in this position, would be inconsistent with the rigorous evaluation process required with respect to building principals and assistant principals following the creation of a State-operated school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-45.

Consideration of the legislative history supports this view. The language at issue was not part of the original legislation, but was added when the bill was amended by the Senate Education Committee. Senate Education Committee, Statement to Assembly Bill No. 2927 with Senate committee amendments (May 4, 1987). As expressed in the Statement:

> Upon the establishment of a State-operated district the positions of the district's chief school administrator and those employees responsible for curriculum, business and finance, and personnel who report directly to the chief school administrator or the board will be abolished. Affected employees will be given 60 days notice or 60 days pay and retain "bumping rights" for other positions for which they may have seniority. The State district superintendent will evaluate all other central administration staff and reorganize the district's central administration within six months. With the implementation of the reorganization all remaining central administration staff positions will be abolished. Affected employees will be given 60 days pay and will retain "bumping rights" for other positions in the district for which > they may have seniority. Employees may be rehired based upon the evaluation and the needs of the district. Any employee who is rehired for a position in the reorganized central administration shall be hired with tenure if he had tenure in their previous position. Individuals who did not have tenure may earn tenure in the new position.

(Emphasis added.)

This Statement eliminates any doubt as to the intent of the Legislature. Therefore, for the reasons stated, the State Board of Education affirms the decision of the Commissioner.

Petitioners,

v.

STERLING RECIONAL HIGH SCHOOL BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

D.C., parent of T.C., for petitioners

William D. Hogan, Esq., for respondent (Cozen & O'Connor, attorneys)

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioners T.C. and D.C., his mother, bring claims for relief relative to school records made and maintained by the respondent Sterling Regional High School Board of Education (BOE); T.C.'s expulsion from the BOE's school system; and his future education.

More particularly, petitioners demand that the BOE remove from T.C.'s disciplinary records an entry relating to a theft charge. Also, petitioners demand that the BOE provide copies of records made and maintained pursuant to the BOE's substance abuse prevention program. P-1. See N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-1 et seq. Also, petitioners claim that (although T.C. has been expelled) the BOE must provide to T.C. an education in a "proper . . . facility," etc. P-1.

Relative to the pupil records relating to discipline, the BOE points out that the subject entry has already been stricken from T.C.'s record and that petitioners have received copies of T.C.'s pupil records. See P-21, N.J.A.C. 6:3-6.1 et seq. Relative to substance abuse prevention program records, the BOE points out that, although there was a substance abuse prevention program inquiry relative to T.C., petitioners acknowledge that no action was found necessary and, in any event, the program's records are confidential and not subject to disclosure to students and parents. Relative to T.C.'s expulsion, the BOE points out that petitioners acknowledge that he engaged in the subject misconduct and that they do not allege that the BOE acted arbitrarily, etc. Given all the above, the BOE submits that the petition fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted and that it is barred by the equitable doctrine of laches and that it must be dismissed. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.1 et seq. See particularly N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2c.

This order addresses whether an emergent order should be entered on petitioners' claims.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On January 14, 2000, the petition and attached exhibits were filed with the Department of Education and these are marked "P-1" et seq. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The Department transmitted the petition, etc., to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), designating it a motion for emergent relief. On January 19, 2000, the petition, etc., were filed as a contested case and scheduled for a February 3, 2000 hearing. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). On January 31, 2000, the BOE's FAXed answer, etc., were received in the OAL. On February 3, 2000, the motion was heard in the OAL in Trenton (Hamilton Township); petitioner D.C. testified; and additional exhibits were marked.

FINDINGS OF FACT

T.C.'s date of birth is May 21, 1983. He resides with his parents in the Borough of Magnolia, in the BOE's school district.

T.C., who has no sibling, has a history of misconduct and suspensions from elementary school and from the BOE's high school (as described below.) When asked what caused T.C.'s misconduct, D.C. testified that his grandmother's cancer and death in 1990 might have been a cause.

Relative to the 1997-98 school year, when T.C. was a high school freshman, the BOE's disciplinary records show the following:

For disruption in class on October 22, 1997, he received administrative detention (ADO) on October 28, 1997.

For disruptive behavior in the media center on November 3, 1997, he received internal detention on November 5, 6 and 10, 1997 and school officials conferred with his parent on November 21, 1997.

For cutting ADO on November 10, 1997, he ADO on November 11 and 12, 1997.

For cutting teacher's detention on January 28, 1998, he received ADO on February 2, 1998.

For being unprepared for physical education (PE) class on February 26, 1998, he received ADO on March 3, 1998.

For being unprepared for PE class on March 4, 1998, school officials conferred with his parents. P-2.

Relative to the 1998-99 school year, when T.C. was a sophomore, the BOE's disciplinary records show the following:

For misbehaving in class and failure to appear for detention on October 19, 1998, he received an ADO on October 22 and 24, 1998.

For cutting English class and PE on October 20, 1998, he received ADO on November 7 and 21, 1998.

For being late for PE class on October 27, 1998, he received ADO on October 29, 1998.

For use of inappropriate language and insubordination on October 28, 1998, he received ADO on October 29, 1998.
For failure to follow directions on October 27, 1998, a conference with his mother was held on October 30, 1998.

The BOE has a substance abuse prevention program in place and, when a student's actions indicate he might be at risk, the program's Core Team submits a referral form to the student's teachers. P-33, P-33b. In October 1998, T.C. was observed to be making more visits to the boys' rest room than normal and the referral form was submitted to his teachers. Contrary to BOE policy, Paul Hopkins, one of T.C.'s teachers, showed the form to T.C. and stated to him that he didn't appear to have a substance abuse problem. Naturally, this distressed T.C. and he mentioned it to D.C. D.C. demanded a copy of the referral form from the Core Team. Lori Leonard, the BOE's substance abuse coordinator and member of the Core Team, provided to D.C. materials, including information on the program and an example of the referral form. P-33b. However, citing the need for confidentiality to protect sources of information that are essential to the program (which is not used as a basis for discipline), Ms. Leonard declined to provide to petitioners a copy of the form shown by Mr. Hopkins to D.C. The BOE represents that, after T.C.'s teacher showed him the referral form, it notified its staff that substance abuse prevention program activities were confidential and that the teachers' actions were contrary to that policy of confidentiality.

In a letter dated February 4, 1999, D.C. requested that the school system transfer T.C. from one teacher's PE class to another and requested that the school system remove from T.C.'s records disciplinary actions relative to his use of restrooms and petitioners submitted to the school system a note from the office of David W. Bradway, M.D., dated October 20, 1998, wherein it is wtitten that T.C. suffered from digestive problems and that, when necessary, he should be excused to go to the rest room. P-6, P-3.

In a letter dated February 10, 1999, school superintendent Gary Kasprack wrote to D.C. that it had transferred T.C. to the PE class requested; he transmitted to her a copy of T.C.'s disciplinary record; and he pointed out that the disciplinary record included no reference to use of the restroom. P-7.

By letter dated February 10, 1999, superintendent Kasprack notified T.C.'s parents of the following: Because of T.C.'s "dangerous horseplay" in a locker room on April 29, 1999; "creating a confrontation during 1st period" on May 3, 1999; and abusive language, he had decided to place T.C. on "external suspension" for May 2, 4, and 5, 1999. That the suspension would continue until a conference was held between the parents and superintendent. They should telephone a given number to schedule the conference. Consistent with the BOE's policy and "Student/Parent Handbook," they had a right to an appeal the decision. P-8.

By letter dated May 6, 1999, superintendent Kasprack notified T.C.'s parents of the following: Confirming their conference, because of his T.C.'s repeated disciplinary infractions during the 1998-99 school year, he was placed on homebound instruction pending a psychiatric evaluation. P-9.

By letter dated May 6, 1999, D.C. requested an opportunity to appear before the BOE relative to a representation that T.C. was being evaluated and, on May 14, 1998, she submitted an appeal of the decision to place T.C. on homebound instruction pending the psychiatric evaluation. P-10, P-13.

By letters dated May 14, 1999, Superintendent Kasprack confirmed that he had previously sent to D.C. copies of his records; transmitted to her copies of his disciplinary record, latest report card and permanent record card; and notified T.C. that the BOE would meet with her on May 20, 1999. He also notified T.C.'s parents of the following: Consistent with the BOE's policy, they had a right to appeal in writing within 10 days and that some of what they sought to appeal was out-of time. On May 20, 1999, the BOE would hold a discipline and appeal hearing; during the hearing evidence and witnesses would be presented by the school system in support of the charges against T.C.; and petitioners had a right to be present and the right to an attorney, to cross-examine witnesses and to present evidence. Superintendent Kasprack also notified petitioners that homebound instruction would continue pending the outcome of the hearing, etc. Transmitted with the May 14, 1999 letter were copies of a notice of suspension and a letter setting forth the nature of the charges, etc. P-12, P-12a.

In a letter dated May 19, 1999, superintendent Kasprack wrote to D.C. as follows: By way of his May 14, 1999 letter, he had previously forwarded to her T.C.'s "complete records." "Core team records" are not part of T.C.'s student records and, therefore, she could not examine them. The psychiatric evaluation resulted from T.C.'s disciplinary record and not from action by the Core team. The hearing scheduled for May 20, 1999 would go forward and she should attend and participate in it. P-14.

On May 20, 1999, the BOE held the disciplinary hearing, etc. Petitioners appeared but offered no defense or documentary evidence and D.C. stated that she was not opposed to the psychiatric evaluation and that T.C. had been accepted to the Camden County Technical School for the 1999-2000 school year. The BOE adopted a resolution upholding the superintendent's decision to place T.C. on homebound instruction pending the psychiatric evaluation, etc., and denied petitioners' appeal. On May 21, 1999, school officials forwarded a copy of the resolution to petitioners. P-16. On May 25, 1999, the BOE adopted a resolution, with findings of fact on the charges and concluding as follows: T.C. was guilty of dangerous horseplay in the locker room; the homebound instruction should continue for the remainder of the 1998-99 school year; and, given T.C.'s intention to attend the Camden County Technical School for the 1999-2000 school year, unless he applied for admission to the BOE's high school, no psychiatric evaluation would be required. P-17.

T.C. enrolled in the Camden County Technical School for the 1999-2000 school year. However, after about two weeks, he decided he wanted to return to the BOE's high school. And, in September 1999, D.C. consented to psychiatric evaluation of T.C. P-18.

On October 18, 1999, Superintendent Kasprack met with petitioners and, in a letter dated October 19, 1999, Superintendent Kasprack confirmed the subjects of the meeting. T.C. would continue in external suspension pending receipt of the psychiatric evaluation. T.C. had been admitted to school on condition that he would behave well. However, during October 1999, T.C. had engaged in numerous instances of misconduct including use of profanity, horseplay, refusal to cooperate, etc. P-20.

In psychiatric evaluation dated October 19, 1999, James J. Hewitt, M.D., wrote the following: T.C. stated that, in high school proficiency test, he performed in a way that would show how bad a grade he could get to see "how the school would react." He demonstrated anxiety and cognitive deficits in terms of awareness and social contexts; but no overt persistent disturbance, depression or suicidal thinking. He tended to blame others. Dr. Hewitt's impressions included adjustment disorder with possible future bipolar disorder, manic type. Dr. Hewitt found no grounds for classification or accommodation through 504. P-19.

On October 25, 1999, petitioners signed an agreement whereby T.C. agreed to behave consistent with rules of behavior and that, in the event of misconduct, he was subject to expulsion. P-23. In a letter dated October 25, 1999, Superintendent Kasprack confirmed that, effective that day, T.C. was readmitted to the high school on condition that he comply with those rules of behavior. P-22.

By letter dated November 22, 1999, Superintendent Kasprack notified petitioners of the following: T.C. was charged with use of profanity, repeated disruptions in and out of class, cutting class and leaving the school building without permission, all in violation of the above-described agreement and rules. He was placed on external suspension for November 22, 23, 24, 29 and 30, 1999. Petitioners had a right to appeal the discipline. Copies of records relative to the misconduct accompanied the letter. P-24.

By letters dated December 1, 1999, Superintendent Kasprack transmitted to petitioners copies of T.C.'s academic, discipline and attendance records. He also notified them that, on December 9, 1999, the BOE would hold a discipline and appeal hearing; during the hearing evidence and witnesses would be presented by the school system in support of the charges against T.C.; and petitioners had a right to be present and the right to an attorney, to cross-examine witnesses and to present evidence. P-25, P-26.

On December 9, 1999, the BOE held the disciplinary hearing, etc. The petitioners offered no defense to the charges and T.C. left the hearing, stating, "This is all bullshit" and directing the middle finger gesture of contempt towards the BOE. Thereafter, the BOE adopted resolutions wherein it recited that T.C. was proven guilty as charged of use of profanity, repeated disruptions in and out of class, cutting class and leaving the school building without permission, etc., in willful and repeated violation of the BOE's disciplinary code. The BOE further permanently suspended T.C. The BOE also resolved that, if T.C. were accepted by the Camden County Alternative High School, it would enroll him in that school in order to allow him to obtain credits sufficient to obtain his high school degree. However, if T.C.'s attendance in that school were below 85%, the BOE would not pay for his education in that school. P-28, P-30.

By letter dated December 23, 1999, the school system provided to D.C. the names, addresses, administrator names and telephone numbers of alternative schools in Camden, Gloucester and Burlington Counties, so that she could contact them and make arrangements for T.C.'s application for enrollment. P-31.

D.C. testified that she telephoned the alternative schools. However, D.C. testified that, because the schools' students are troubled - with substance abuse or other problems, she did not wish T.C. to attend them.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Pupil Records

There is no claim that the BOE failed to properly make, maintain and provide copies of T.C.'s pupil records as defined in N.J.A.C. 6:3-6.1 et seq.

There is also no dispute that, although there was a referral to the BOE's substance abuse prevention program, there was no finding that T.C. had a substance abuse problem and there was no further action in that regard.

Clearly, the substance abuse prevention program provided for by N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-1 et seq. is dependent upon information that, without confidentiality, persons would be reluctant to provide and, without such information the program would be unable to assist students in need.

When T.C.'s teacher thoughtlessly showed him the referral form, he certainly acted contrary to the best interests of the substance abuse prevention program and T.C. However, his actions do not justify or require breaching the confidentiality upon which the program depends. In any event, petitioners have cited no authority that would require the BOE to provide copies of the subject form, etc.

Discipline

The State is required to provide a system of free public schools for the education of children between the ages of 5 and 18 years and this is accomplished through local school districts operated by boards of education. N.J. Const. (1947), Art. 8, S IV, par. 1, N.J.S.A. 18A:8-1 et seq.

However, a student's right to a public education is conditioned on his good behavior. State v. Conk, 180 N.J. Super. 140, 145 (App. Div. 1981). A student who engages in, e.g., continued and willful disobedience, or who engages in open defiance of the authority of any teacher or person having authority over him, or who engages in the habitual use of profanity or obscene language, is liable to punishment, suspension or expulsion from school. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.

Where a school administrator has a reasonable basis for suspension of a student, he may temporarily suspend the student, pending and conditioned upon notice and a hearing before the board of education. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-5. Consistent with the principles of due process and fundamental fairness, a student subject to suspension or expulsion has a right to notice of the charge on which the proposed suspension or expulsion is based; assistance of counsel; a hearing, during which the student may confront any witness against him or her; etc. See N.J.S.A. 18A:37-1 to -5; Tibbs v. Bd. of Ed. of Tp. of Franklin, 59 N.J. 506 (1971); R.R. v. Bd. of Ed., Shore Reg. H.S., 109 N.J. Super. 337 (App. Div. 1970).

Generally, public entities are presumed to act lawfully and in good faith; a reviewing court will not substitute its judgment for that of a public entity that has exercised its lawful discretion; and the party challenging a public entity's action must prove that the action was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. Bodies by Lembo, Inc., 286 N.J. Super. 298, 309 (App. Div. 1996); In re On-Line Games Contract, supra, 279 N.J. Super. at 590, Colonnelli Bros., Inc. v. Ridgefield Park, 284 N.J. Super. 538, 541 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 143 N.J. 327 (1995). See also Van Itallie v. Franklin Lakes, 28 N.J. 258, 269 (1958); Fitzpatrick v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 91 N.J. Super. 535, 539 (App. Div. 1966).

I see no allegation that the BOE acted unlawfully relative to the expulsion of T.C. To the contrary, on the record here, it appears that the BOE complied with laws governing the expulsion process. Further, petitioners have cited no law requiring that, having lawfully expelled a student, a local board of education must arrange for his education elsewhere. (Although I am happy to see that the BOE has offered to accommodate T.C. so that, through enrollment in an alternative school, he can obtain credits to obtain his high school degree.)

To succeed in a motion for a temporary restraint and interlocutory injunction, the movant must show, among other things, that, if the relief is not granted, he or she will suffer immediate and irreparable harm, i.e., that money damages would not be adequate compensation, and that, when the case is fully heard, it will probably succeed in its claim. See, N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6; R. 4:52-1; Crowe v. DeGoia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-134 (1982).

I see no basis to find and/or conclude that petitioners have a probability of success or that they have otherwise satisfied standards for emergent relief.

ORDER

Consistent with the above, I DENY emergent relief.

The parties may serve discovery requests upon one another.

A hearing date will be scheduled and notice of same will be sent to the parties.

In the meanwhile, I suggest to petitioners that they make a good faith effort to gain admission to one of the alternative schools identified by the BOE.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE STERLING HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT,	:

The audio cassette tape of the emergent hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law on February 3, 2000 and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs that petitioner has failed to satisfy the four-pronged standard set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) for obtaining emergent relief. In accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.5, a grant of emergent relief is considered an extraordinary remedy which may only be issued where petitioner has demonstrated that the relief is necessary to prevent irreparable harm, where the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled, where there is a likelihood of success on the merits and where the relative hardship to the moving party favors granting such relief. Crowe at 132-34.

Here, with respect to petitioner's request that the Board provide T.C. with an education in a "proper... facility," (Order at 2) petitioner fails to establish that T.C. will suffer irreparable harm, since she does not dispute that the Board has offered to pay both tuition and transportation costs for T.C.'s attendance at one of three local alternative high schools, provided he maintains good attendance at such school.[1] Additionally, given the facts presently on the record, petitioner has not demonstrated a likelihood of succeeding on the merits of her claim. Noting that T.C. appears to have an extensive history of disciplinary infractions at Sterling High School and petitioner does not allege that the Board failed to accord him due process, the Commissioner finds that the equities lie on the side of the Board, which maintains a vital interest in ensuring that its disciplinary policy is enforced, to the safety and benefit of all its students.

Turning to petitioner's claim that she is entitled on an emergent basis to documents generated by the District's Core Team regarding T.C. in the 1998-99 school year, the Commissioner determines that petitioner has demonstrated no legal right to obtain these documents, to the extent any exist.[2] Indeed, petitioner's request appears to be based on her own need to know what T.C.'s teachers may have reported about him, rather than on any evidence, or even mere allegation, that failure to obtain them will result in irreparable harm to T.C. Moreover, the Commissioner finds that equity favors a denial of petitioner's request to obtain these documents, thereby acknowledging the Board's concern that preserving the confidentiality of documents generated by the Core Team is essential to the integrity of the team's operation and, correspondingly, to the team's ability to engender trust among the students it is designed to serve and assist.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the ALJ is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein and amplified above. Petitioner's request for emergent relief is denied. This matter shall continue at the OAL for further proceedings on the merits of petitioner's claim as may be deemed necessary.

[1] As of the date of the hearing, T.C. was not enrolled in any of these schools.
[2] The Commissioner herein recognizes that the Board takes the position that these documents do not constitute a "student record," as defined by N.J.A.C. 6:3-6.1.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board sought determination as to whether land may be acquired by a board of education without submitting the question to voters. The Board and respondent sellers entered into an Agreement of Sale in 1995 for the land on which the Board intended to construct a new school. The Board did not seek voter approval, nor did it include an appropriation for the purchase of the land as a line item in the proposed budget. The Board did request and receive site approval from the County Superintendent.

The ALJ determined that voter authorization was not required, because petitioner did not borrow any money for the property purchase, having effectuated such purchase by using surplus funds. N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2(d). Thus, the ALJ concluded that, under the facts and circumstances of this matter, the Board did not violate the School Laws when it determined to purchase the real property for school property without submitting the proposal to its voters. Although the ALJ determined that the Board improperly failed to provide for a line item including the proposed expenditure in its annual school budget, the ALJ found that this procedural defect was not sufficient grounds to warrant overturning the Board's action to purchase the property in question. The ALJ concluded that the sale and purchase was in accordance with the law and ordered the acquisition of the property sustained.

The Commissioner affirmed in part, reversed in part and remanded for further proceedings. The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the Board erred in not including a line item appropriation for purchase of the property in the annual school budget submitted to the voters. The Commissioner did not concur, however, that the Board was able to purchase land without specific authorization from the voters to do so. Disagreeing with the ALJ's analysis of the history and construction of N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2, the Commissioner found instead that N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1 and 4.2 must be read in tandem, and that when so read in light of their legislative history, these statutes do not permit boards of education to purchase property without prior approval of the voters, regardless of whether or not money is borrowed for such purpose. However, the Commissioner declined to void the transaction in dispute or order other relief on the present record. Because the effect of a holding that the Board was not in substantive compliance with law had not been fully argued or considered at the OAL, the Commissioner remanded the matter for further proceedings on that issue.

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

The Board of Education of the Township of Fairfield (Board), seeks a determination as to whether, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1 and 18A:20-4. land may be acquired by a Board without submitting the question to voters.

The Board originally sought a Declaratory Judgment from the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-2.1. However, the Commissioner declined to consider the Board's request, but rather, considered the matter to be a contested case, under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 and transmitted it to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Two Prehearing Conferences were held wherein it was agreed that no material facts existed, and, therefore, the Board was granted leave to submit a Motion for Summary Decision, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, together with its Brief of Law. Subsequent to receipt of the responses thereto, the hearing record closed on September 27, 1999.

The Board's Position

Statement of Material Facts

Petitioner contends that there is no genuine issue of material fact as to the following material facts:

1. Respondents, Robert Ench and Sanderina R. Kasper, Executrix of the Estate of Benjamin Kasper, partners trading as Bench Realty. (hereinafter Sellers) were the owners of approximately 62.7 acres on Buckshutem Road, Fairfield Township, Cumberland County, New Jersey known as Block 12, Lot 27.02 (See Exhibit A, Agreement of Sale).

2. Petitioner Board by Resolution, agreed to purchase the land from the Sellers by a transfer of funds from surplus, and without submission of the purchase to the voters of the Township and/or without an appropriate line item on the budget respecting the purchase. (See, Exhibit B, Board minutes of October 18, 1995 and February 21, 1996).

3. The Board and Sellers entered into an Agreement of Sale dated October 30, 1995, for the purchase of the land at a price of $150,000. (See, Exhibit C, Board minutes of October 18, 1995).

4. The Agreement of Sale between the Board and Sellers was later amended to reflect a purchase of 62.7 acres and not 60 acres, at a revised price of $156,750, the final purchase price for the land in question. (See Exhibit D, Board minutes of February 21, 1996).

5. Settlement for the purchase of the land in question occurred on August 22, 1996, at which time title to the property was transferred from Sellers to the Board. (See Exhibit E, Deed dated August 22, 1996).

6. The Board intended to construct a new school on the property purchased, however, the referendum to construct the new school was defeated by the voters of Fairfield Township.

7. The Board did not seek voter approval, nor did it include an appropriation for purchase of the land as a line item on the proposed budget.

8. The Board requested and received approval from the County Superintendent as an approved site for a proposed school. (See Exhibit F, letter of Glenn E. Earl, Cumberland County Superintendent of Schools, dated November 14, 1995).

9. The Board requested and received approval from the Department of Education (DOE), Bureau of Facility Planning Services, to utilize the land as an elementary school site. (See Exhibit G, letter from the DOE dated May 3, 1995).

10. The Board requested and received approval from the New Jersey DEP, Office of Environmental Planning (OEP) approving the site for construction of a new school. (See Exhibit H, letter of Joseph M. Chiarello, Esquire, dated July 18, 1997, and letter from State of New Jersey DEP dated March 8, 1996).

11. The Board did not receive prior final approval from the DOE for the land purchase, however, subsequent to the land purchase all requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:22-2.1 were satisfied by the Board. (See Exhibit I, letter of Michael Azzara, Assistant Commissioner, DOE, dated October 20, 1997).

12. The Board attempted to negotiate an option to purchase the land in question, however, the option was never executed. (See Exhibit J, letter of Frederick A. Jacob, Esquire, dated September 30, 1997).

13. A resident of Fairfield Township, Cynthia Zirkle, wrote to the then Commissioner, requesting whether or not the Board's purchase of the land in question was valid pursuant to statutory authority. (See Exhibit K, letter of Cynthia Zirkle, dated September 16, 1997).

Procedural History

A Fairfield Township resident, Cynthia Zirkle, wrote to the Commissioner and questioned the validity of the land purchase by the Board. Michael Azzara, Assistant Commissioner, DOE, responded to Ms. Zirkle and advised her that there had been no formal adjudication as to the Board's purchase. Additionally, he advised Ms. Zirkle that she would need to seek a formal ruling by filing a petition with the Commissioner. No such petition was filed. Additionally, the Board is not aware of any other formal objections to the purchase of the land in question.

Notwithstanding the above, the Board filed a petition with the Commissioner seeking a declaration as to whether or not the land purchase was valid.

The Board now files this motion for summary decision seeking a determination of the Commissioner that the land purchase was, in fact, valid.

Law and Argument

Point I

The Board of Education was not in Violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1 and/or N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2 When it Acquired Premises Known as Block 12, Lot 27.02, on the Tax Map of Fairfield Township for the Sum of $156,750 from its Surplus and Without Submitting the Proposal to the Voters of Fairfield Township

As there are no factual issues in dispute, the sole issue is whether or not the Board was in violation of state statute when it acquired the land on Buckshutem Road, Fairfield Township, known as Block 12, Lot 27.02. Therefore, an analysis of the applicable law is appropriate.

The easiest analysis is as to N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1, Type II Districts: Acquisition of Property Without Authorization of Voters. That section deals only with rentals on a year-to-year basis of for a term not to exceed five years, in the case of emergency, and options not to exceed one year in duration. The Board in the instant matter was not involved in a rental situation and, as noted, never entered into an option to purchase the property in question. Therefore, N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1 is not applicable. Our analysis, therefore, leads to N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2. Acquisition of Property: Authority Required. That section reads as follows:

> than 25 acres may be so acquired in any one municipality, without the district, except with the consent, by ordinance of such municipality . . .
> (d) borrow money therefor, with or without mortgage: in the case of a Type II without a board of school estimate, when authorized so to do at any annual or special school election . . .

A careful reading of N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2, clearly indicates that voter approval for the purchase of land by a board of education is necessary only when "borrowing money therefor." It is not disputed that in the present matter, the Board purchased the land in question by utilizing surplus funds. Therefore, the Board was not required to borrow any money for the purchase. Nowhere in N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2 is there a requirement for a board of education to obtain voter approval or appropriate money as to line item on a proposed budget, in the event the board is not borrowing money.

Helpful is an analysis of the evolution of the present day N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2. During 1903, R.S. 18:7-73, an act to "authorize municipalities or school districts in this state to raise moneys for the purchase of lands for school purposes, and for erecting, enlarging, repairing or furnishing school houses" was adopted by the Legislature. R.S. 18:7-73 permitted boards of education to appropriate moneys for purchase of lands "in the same manner as other appropriations for school purposes are made by it." See attached R.S. 18:7-73, (Exhibit L). The statute was revised in 1945 to read as follows:

> With the previous authority of legal voters of the district, a board may purchase and improve school grounds; erect, lease, enlarge, improve, repair or furnish school buildings and borrow money therefore with or without mortgage. A board of education may sell or dispose of any of its real estate or rights or interest therein, which cease to be suitable or convenient for the use for which they were acquired or no longer needed for school purposes, in the manner set forth in Sections 18:5-25 to 18:5-29, both inclusive of this title.

The statute was again revised on June 12, 1948, to read as follows:

> With the previous authority of a vote of the legal voters of the district, a board may purchase and improve school grounds . . . . (See, attached R.S. 18:7-73.)

R.S. 18:7-73 became N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2 during 1967. Significantly, the language "with the previous authority of a vote of the legal voters of the district . . ." was deleted. All subsequent revisions to N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2 have also deleted the language requiring previous authority of the vote of the legal voters of a district.

The Legislature opted to delete language requiring a prior vote of the legal voters of a district before a board of education could purchase land. Deletion of that language gave boards of education greater flexibility in obtaining lands required for educational purposes. However, N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2(d) requires boards of education to obtain voter approval only if the board is borrowing money for the purchase.

In the present matter, as previously noted, the Board was not required to borrow money and effected the purchase by transferring $156,750 from its surplus funds. Therefore, no prior voter approval was required.

In the letter of Michael Azzara, Assistant Commissioner of Education, dated October 20, 1997, Mr. Azzara states in paragraph 2 "It has generally been the Department's position that voter approval to purchase land is required whether by outright purchase or through exercising an option in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1(b), except were acquisition is exempt from voter approval by statutory authority such as lease purchase or gift." However, he cites no statutory authority and none can be found in N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2. As previously noted, N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1 simply does not apply to the facts now before the Court.

Therefore, the Board's purchase of the 62.7 acres on Buckshutem Road, known as Block 12, Lot 27.02, was a valid purchase.

Point II

Even if the Board's Purchase of the Land in Question Violated Statutory Authority, the Purchase should not be Voided and should be Affirmed by the Commissioner

Although there is no statutory authority which prevented the Board from purchasing the land in question without prior submission to the voters or inclusion of an appropriation as a line item on the budget, should the purchase be determined to be contrary to statutory authority, it should not be voided.

First, any actions by the Board were certainly done in good faith The Board obtained all approvals required, to include approvals by the DOE. Additionally, the referendum for construction of the new school building was presented to the voters, who defeated same. The Board relied upon the advice of its solicitor and purchased the land in question out of surplus funds. The Board strongly believes that the land is still suitable for a school and, in fact, is intending to present another referendum to the voters of Fairfield Township for construction of a new school on the land in question.

As noted in Michael Azzara's letter of October 20, 1997, the Board has, in fact, obtained all approvals for construction of a school pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:22-2.1.

The Board purchased the property and title has been transferred to the Board's name. See attached deed. Additionally, the Board's ownership interest is insured by a policy of title insurance. The Board still has an asset worth at least what it paid, $156,750, if not more. Amongst other things, the site is serviced by sewer, making it an ideal site for a new school.

Voiding of the purchase at this point is simply not feasible and would be extremely detrimental to the Board. There is certainly no guarantee that the Sellers have retained all of the money paid for the land, and, in fact, that likelihood is remote. In short, nothing would be gained by a voiding of the purchase.

For these reasons, the purchase should be affirmed by the Commissioner.

For all the reasons cited in this brief, petitioner respectfully requests that a determination be made affirming the purchase of Block 12, Lot 27.02, Fairfield Township, Cumberland County, New Jersey, by the Fairfield Township Board of Education.

Respondents, Ench and Kasper's Position

There were no arguments by the parties opposing the Board's Motion for Summary Decision. Respondents Ench and Kasper submitted their letter memorandum in support of the Board's Motion where they say, in part, that:

> Robert Ench and Sanderin Kasper, d/b/a Bench Realty . . . entered into a contract which was presented to it by the attorney for the school board at the time. The Deed of conveyance was prepared after and pursuant to terms set forth in a title report from Commonwealth Title.
>
> At all times, Robert Ench and Sanderin Kasper, d/b/a Bench Realty have acted in good faith and been under the impression that the action would achieve the assumed affect of transference of title to the property from Bench Realty to the Fairfield Board of Education.
>
> Bench Realty has no objection to the relief sought by the plaintiffs motion and joins in the plaintiff's application for that relief.
>
> (Letter memorandum, September 20, 1999)

Respondent Jacob's Position:

I have received and reviewed the Motion for Summary Judgment submitted on behalf of Fairfield Township Board of Education. I agree in all respects with the argument of Mr. DiDomenico, particularly with regard to Point I of his excellent brief. His analysis of the legislative history of N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2 is particularly persuasive. I would like to point out, moreover, that if N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2(a) is interpreted to require voter approval to buy land, then voter approval would also be required for the following:

1. Grade or drain land (sub-paragraph b);
2. Landscape land (sub-paragraph b);
3. Repair buildings (sub-paragraph c);
4. Furnish buildings (sub-paragraph c);
5. Lease buildings (sub-paragraph c);

It is absurd to argue that a Board needs voter approval to do all of the above -- particularly when sub-paragraph (d) incorporates by reference all of the above by requiring voter approval for same when the Boards need to "borrow money, therefore, with or without mortgage." [emphasis added]. Sub-paragraph (d) is meaningless, if voter approval is automatically needed whenever a Board engages in the activities described in sub-paragraphs (a), (b), and (c).

Obviously, if this tribunal agrees with Mr. DiDomenico with regard with Point I, all of the other issues in the original complaint become moot and must be dismissed. In the event summary judgment is denied, I would request leave to file my own motion with regard to the counts of the original petition that apply directly to me.

There was no response by Old Republic National Title Insurance Company.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

Having considered the entire record before me, I FIND and CONCLUDE that the instant matter is ripe for summary decision under the standards set forth by our Supreme Court in Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Company of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954), 17 N.J. 67 (1954) and modified in Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, and KRA Insurance Agency, Inc. 142 N.J. 520 (1995).

Petitioner, as a duly constituted Board of Education under N.J.S.A. 18A:10-1[1], has been granted the general mandatory powers and duties, inter alia, to perform the following tasks:

> b. Enforce the rules of the state board;
>
> c. Make, amend and repeal rules, not inconsistent with this title or with the rules of the state board, for its own government and the transaction of its business and for the government and management of the public schools and public school property of the district . . .; and
>
> d. Perform all acts and do all things, consistent with law and the rules of the state board, necessary for the lawful and proper conduct, equipment and maintenance of the public schools of the district.

Additionally, among the specifically enumerated duties required of petitioner, is the annual preparation of a school budget. In this regard, N.J.S.A. 18A:22-7 provides in pertinent part:

> [t]he board of education of every . . . school district shall prepare a budget for the school district for the ensuing year, on or before March 22.

[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:10-1(Constitution of boards and education, conduct of schools) provides in pertinent part:
> The schools of each school district shall be conducted, by and under the supervision of a board of education, which shall be a body corporate and which shall be constituted and governed, as provided by this title ***
> N.J.S.A. 18A:10-1.

The specific contents of such budget are detailed at N.J.S.A. 18A:22-8, which provides in relevant part:

> The budget shall be prepared in such detail and upon such forms as shall be prescribed by the commissioner and to it shall be annexed a statement so itemized as to make the same readily understandable, in which it shall be shown.
>
> a. In tabular form there shall be set forth the following:
>
> (1) The total expenditure for each item for the preceding school year, the amount appropriated for the current school year . . . . , and the amount estimated to be appropriated for the ensuring school year, indicated separately for each item as determined by the commissioner.
>
> (2) The amount of the surplus account available at the beginning of the current school year and the amount anticipated to be available for the ensuing school year ***
> N.J.S.A. 18A:22-8.

See also, N.J.S.A. 18A:22-10 (requiring petitioner, as a Board, to fix a date for a public hearing upon its proposed budget); N.J.S.A. 18A:22-11 and -12 (providing notice requirements for such hearing); and N.J.S.A. 18A:22-13 (providing procedural requirements for such hearing).

Petitioner, as Board, is also required to submit its proposal budget to the voters of its district at each annual school election. N.J.S.A. 18A:22-33, which governs this requirement, provides in pertinent part:

> The board of education, . . . shall at each annual school election, submit to the voters to the district, the amount of money fixed and determined in its budget . . . to be voted upon for the use of the public schools of the district for the ensuing school year, which amount shall be stated in the notice of the election ***

Under the foregoing provisions, petitioner was required to detail the anticipated expenditures for the properly acquisition in its school budget. N.J.S.A. 18A:22-8(a)(1).

Petitioner was also required to account for its surplus funds, as well as any anticipated use of such funds in the ensuing school year. N.J.S.A. 18A:22-8(a)(2). See, Bd. of Educ. of Branchburg Tpw., Somerset County v. Branchburg Twp. Committee, 187 N.J. Super. 540, 545 (App. Div. 1983), cert. denied 94 N.J. 506 (1983) ("It is clear that a board [of education] has an obligation to account for surplus funds and investment income in planning its budget for the ensuing year.") Additionally, petitioner was required to hold public hearing on its proposal budget, inclusive of these specific line items. N.J.S.A. 18A:22-13. Finally, petitioner was required to submit its proposed budget, inclusive of these specific line items, to the district's voters at the annual school election. N.J.S.A. 18A:22-33. In the instant case, petitioner concedes that it did not meet any of these budget requirements, when it stipulates:

> It this case, the purchase price of the land acquired was obtained from surplus monies, was never a line item of any budget submitted to the voters and was never placed as a public question on any ballot at any regular or special school election.
> (Petitioner's brief at 6)

Accordingly, petitioner's failure to meet the statutory budget requirements regarding the acquisition of the property, as well as the accounting of surplus funds, constitute clear violations of the school laws.

Beyond the issue of school budget voting requirements, discussed supra, is the issue of whether petitioner was required to obtain voter approval, via a regular election or referendum, prior to acquiring the property. Petitioner, as a Board, has the general mandatory power to manage its schools and district property, as well as, "perform all acts and do all things, consistent with law and the rules of the state board, necessary for the lawful and proper conduct, equipment and maintenance of the public schools of the district." N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1. Like all Boards, petitioner is given the authority to purchase and sell properly under N.J.S.A. 18A:20-2, which states in relevant part:

> The board of education of any district may, in and by its corporate name, acquire, by purchase or lease, receive, hold, hold in trust and sell and lease real estate and personal property ... subject to the restrictions provided in this title. N.J.S.A. 18A:20-2

See also, N.J.S.A. 18A:20-2(a) boards of education "[m]ay, for school purposes, purchase, take and condemn lands within the district.") Where a board of education borrows money for the purpose of purchasing real property for school purposes, "with or without mortgage," voter authorization at an annual or special school election is required. N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2(d). However, voter authorization is not required where boards of education:

> (b) Take an option not to exceed 1 year in duration, at a cost not to exceed the fair market value of such option, on the purchase of any land which the board could lawfully purchase after securing the consent of the legal voters to the purchase thereof, but such option may be exercised by the board only after authority to purchase the property covered by such option has been given at an annual or special school election.

In the instant case, voter authorization was not sought by petitioner prior to the acquisition of the property. See, Pet. Br. at 6 ¶ 29 ("[the purchase] was never placed as a public question on any ballot at any regular or special school election.") However, under the express terms of the aforementioned provisions, such authorization was not required, because petitioner did not borrow any money for the property purchase. N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2(d). Instead, petitioner effectuated its property acquisition by using its surplus funds. As such, these provisions of the School Laws were not violated.[3]/[4]

---

[2] Aside from these provisions concerning voter authorization and property purchases, the School Laws are silent.

[3] Cf. Azzara Letter which states:

> It has generally been the department's position that voter approval to purchase land is required whether by outright purchase or through exercising an option in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1(b), except where acquisition is exempt from voter approval by statutory authority as lease purchase or gift. This cold be accomplished by a separate question at a special election or as part of the advertised school budget as you have indicated in your letter.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that under the facts and circumstances of this matter, the Board did not violate the School Laws when it determined to purchase the real property for school purposes without submitting the proposal to its voters. Notwithstanding its failure to provide for the surplus funds in its annual school budget, that procedural defect is not sufficient grounds to warrant overturning the Board's action to purchase the property in question. That, in my considered judgment, would be placing form over substance and must be rejected.

I CONCLUDE that the sale and purchase was in accordance with the law and should be sustained.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the Board's acquisition of the lands and premises known as Block 12, Lot 27.02 on the Tax Map of Fairfield Township for the sum of $156,750 is hereby SUSTAINED for the reasons set forth above.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the State Board of Examiners does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

AGENCY REF. NO. 483-10/98

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF FAIRFIELD, CUMBERLAND COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
ROBERT ENCH AND SANDERINA R. KASPER, EXECUTRIX OF THE ESTATE OF BENJAMIN KASPER, PARTNERS TRADING AS BENCH REALTY, FREDERICK A. JACOB, AND OLD REPUBLIC NATIONAL INSURANCE COMPANY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner determines to affirm in part and reverse in part the recommended decision of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ).

Initially, for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision, the Commissioner concurs that the Board herein was obligated to submit to the voters of its District a budget which included a line item accounting for purchase of the land in question. N.J.S.A. 18A:22-1 et seq.

However, on the question of whether the Board was required to obtain voter approval prior to acquiring the property at issue, the Commissioner does not concur with the ALJ's conclusion that such approval was unnecessary because the Board did not borrow money for the property purchase.

In so concluding, the ALJ accepted the Board's argument that N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1 was not relevant to the instant matter, since the transaction in question was neither a rental nor an option, and that N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2(d), which requires voter approval for the borrowing of money, was the controlling provision. (Initial Decision at 13-14, based upon argument at 5-7)

The Commissioner, however, finds that N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1 cannot be ignored in the present analysis, and that this section must be read in conjunction with N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2 in order to elicit the meaning and intent of the latter as it pertains to the within dispute. The statutes in question provide as follows:

> 18A:20-4.1 The board of education of any type II school district may without authority first obtained from the voters of the district:
>
> (b) Take an option not to exceed 1 year in duration, at a cost not to exceed the fair market value of such option, on the purchase of any land which the board could lawfully purchase after securing the consent of the legal voters to the purchase thereof, but such option may be exercised by the board only after authority to purchase the property covered by such option has been given at an annual or special school election.

> 18A:20-4.2 The board of education of any school district may, for school purposes:
>
> (a) Purchase, take and condemn lands within the district and lands not exceeding 50 acres in extent without the district;
>
> (b) Grade, drain and landscape lands owned or to be acquired by it and improve the same in like manner;
>
> (c) Erect, lease for a term not exceeding 50 years, enlarge, improve, repair or furnish buildings;
>
> (d) Borrow money therefor, with or without mortgage; in the case of a type II district without a board of school estimate, when authorized so to do at any annual or special school election;;

Considering first the plain language of the statutes, the provision of 18A:20-4.1(b) limiting the availability of options to only those pieces of land which the board could purchase after securing voter approval and permitting the actual exercise of the option only after authority for the purchase has been given at an annual or special school election clearly makes no sense without a concomitant requirement that land purchases must generally be authorized by the voters of the district. Such a requirement may be inferred from the immediately following N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2, related both by codification and history; otherwise, the segregation of actions which boards of education may undertake with respect to property into two sections of statute, one expressly dedicated to actions not requiring voter approval, would serve no purpose. That section (d) of N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2 expressly requires voter approval for the borrowing of money for the purchase of property does not imply that such approval is not required when no money is borrowed, or that none of the actions previously enumerated requires voter approval. Rather, the focus of this provision is on the act of borrowing, not on the transaction for which the money is borrowed; its purpose is plainly to provide an affirmative authorization for boards to borrow money for lawful actions previously enumerated, provided that the voters have expressly authorized the borrowing.

Such interpretation is not only consistent with the facial language and structure of the statutes; it is, more significantly, fully supported by the legislative history of their enactment. As noted by the ALJ, N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2 originated as R.S. 18:7-73. What the Initial Decision fails to take into account, however, is that the history of 18A:20-4.2 may not be considered apart from that of 18A:20-4.1, which also originates in R.S. 18:7-73. The latter provision, prior to its amendment in 1945, read as follows:

> 18:7-73. With the previous authority of a vote of the legal voters of the district, a board may purchase, sell and improve school grounds; erect, lease, enlarge, improve, repair or furnish school buildings and borrow money therefor with or without mortgage.

In 1945, the section was amended to read:

> 18:7-73. With the previous authority of a vote of the legal voters of the district, a board may purchase [, sell] and improve school grounds; erect, lease, enlarge, improve, repair or furnish school buildings and borrow money therefor with or without mortgage. A board of education may sell or dispose of any of its real estate, or rights or interest therein, which cease to be suitable or convenient for the use for which they were acquired or which are no longer needed for school purposes, in the manner set forth in sections 18:5-25 to 18:5-29, both inclusive, of this Title.

The stated intent, and clear effect, of the 1945 amendment was to remove the requirement for voter approval of sale of unneeded or unsuitable real estate. (Assembly, No. 348, Introduced March 12, 1945; enacted as *P.L.*1945, c. 133) Thus, the statute now differentiated sale of property from purchase, lease and improvement, so that the former no longer required a vote.

In 1948, the statute was amended yet again, to read as follows:

> 18:7-73. With the previous authority of a vote of the legal voters of the district, a board may purchase and improve school grounds; erect, lease, enlarge, improve, repair or furnish school buildings and borrow money therefor with or without mortgage. Without such previous authority: (a) a board of education may, in case of emergency, rent, on a year-to-year basis, buildings to use for school purposes; and (b) take an option, not to exceed one year in duration at a cost not to exceed one hundred dollars ($100.00), on the purchase of any land which the board could lawfully purchase after securing the consent of the legal voters as required by this section. Such option may be exercised by a board only after authority to purchase the property covered by such option has been given by a vote of the legal voters of the district.
> A board of education may sell or dispose of any of its real estate, or rights or interest therein, which cease to be suitable or convenient for the use for which they were acquired or which are no longer needed for school purposes, in the manner set forth in sections 18:5-25 to 18:5-29, both inclusive, of this Title.

The stated intent, and clear effect, of this amendment was to create the ability for a board to take an option on land which it was seeking the authority to purchase as required elsewhere in the section. (Assembly, No. 227, Introduced February 16, 1948; enacted as *P.L.*1948, c. 162) Thus, the statute retained the distinction between purchase and sale of property, but now also created a specific, limited exception to the general requirement for voter approval.

R.S. 18:7-73 was not amended again until 1967, when, as noted by the ALJ, the language "with the previous authority of a vote of the legal voters of the district" was omitted from the newly enacted 18A:20-4.2. That amendment, however, did not arise from a deliberate, substantive consideration of the section. Rather, as part of its comprehensive revision of Title 18A, effectuated through *P.L.*1967, c. 271, the Legislature recodified R.S. 18:7-73 into three distinct sections, each dealing with one of the three aspects of the original statute: 18A:20-4.1, dealing with emergency leasing and option without voter approval, i.e., with the substance of the 1948 amendment; 18A:20-4.2, dealing with the remaining then-legislated aspects of purchase, lease and construction, including those formerly found in R.S. 18:7-74 (acquisition of land in adjoining municipalities) and 18:7-75 (condemnation of land) as well as those found in 18:7-73;[1] and 18A:20-5, dealing with sale and disposal, i.e., with the substance of the 1945 amendment to 18:7-73, plus other related sections. (Title 18A, Schedule A, Allocation of Source Material at 334) Indeed, in enacting P.L. 1967, c. 271, the Legislature expressly stated that the law was "a revision law" and that its provisions "not inconsistent with prior laws, shall be construed as a continuation of such prior laws." (N.J.S.A. 18A:76-1) In accordance with this view, the treatment of the source material for N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1 is identified in the New Jersey Statutes Annotated as "Editorial," and that of 18A:20-4.2 as "Revised to consolidate source sections." (Title 18A, Schedule B, Treatment of Source Material at 381). Clearly, it cannot be said under these circumstances that omission of the words "with the previous authority of a vote of the legal voters of the district" from N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2 may be construed as a deliberate legislative action intended to alter a statutory requirement dating to at least the turn of the century; rather, such omission is clearly nothing more than a consequence, unfortunate in hindsight, of revisory legislative drafting that left implicit through the structuring of sections a distinction which had previously been explicitly stated. The confusion inherent in this situation has been compounded over the years by the addition of discrete sections to N.J.S.A. 18A: 20-4.2, dealing with board actions for which the Legislature clearly did not intend to require separate voter authorization.

[1]Significant in this context, R.S. 18:7-75 expressly requires voter approval prior to initiating condemnation proceedings, while 18:7-74 states that all proceedings to acquire land in adjoining municipalities "shall be in accordance with the provisions of this Title."

The fact remains, however, that at no time did the Legislature take specific action to remove the requirement for purchase of land to be authorized by the voters of the district; therefore, the Board in this instance acted outside the scope of its lawful authority in effectuating the purchase of the Buckshutem Road tract without such approval.

Notwithstanding the holding above, however, the Commissioner declines on the present record to void the transaction at issue, as requested by the Board in the event of a finding that applicable statutory provisions were not followed. Because he found that the Board's action was in substantive compliance with law, the ALJ did not reach, nor did the parties have an opportunity to fully argue, the question of what the effect of a holding to the contrary would be. This is particularly significant herein, where petitioner's request for judgment specifically sought, if the Board's action were found to be ultra vires, a directive from the Commissioner for reconveyance of land to the sellers, return of the purchase price to the Board, and reimbursement of costs from the respondent attorney and title insurance company.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is affirmed in part, and reversed in part, as set forth herein, and is, moreover, remanded to the OAL for further proceedings on the question of whether the transaction at issue should be voided as a result of the Commissioner's holding. Additionally, the Commissioner directs the petitioning Board and all boards to henceforth comply with the requirement that express voter approval be obtained prior to the purchase of any land.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF FAIRFIELD, CUMBERLAND COUNTY, PETITIONER-RESPONDENT,

V.

ROBERT ENCH AND SANDERINA R. KASPER, EXECUTRIX OF THE ESTATE OF BENJAMIN KASPER, PARTNERS TRADING AS BENCH REALTY, FEDERICK A. JACOB, AND OLD REPUBLIC NATIONAL INSURANCE COMPANY,

RESPONDENTS-APPELLANTS.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, February 17, 2000

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Frank D. Domenico, Esq.

For the Respondent-Appellant Frederick A. Jacob, Jacob & Ferrigno (Frederick A. Jacob, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Appellant Bench Realty, Davidow, Sherman, Eddowes & Geiger (David J. Eddowes, Esq., of Counsel)

This matter arises from the purchase of vacant land in 1996 by the Board of Education of the Township of Fairfield (hereinafter "Board"). The Board funded the purchase entirely from its budget surplus with the intent of building a new school on the site.[1]

Because the Board was not going to borrow any money to fund the purchase, its solicitor at that time, Frederick A. Jacob, Esq., advised the Board that it was not required to place the question before the voters pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2. The Board followed Jacob's advice and did not place the issue before the voters as a ballot question. However, it also did not include its appropriation of surplus as a line item in the budget it developed for 1996-97 pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-1 et seq.

On September 16, 1997, a resident of Fairfield (hereinafter "resident") wrote to Commissioner of Education Leo Klagholz, bringing to his attention the fact that the Board had purchased land for a new school without a referendum. She requested that the Commissioner investigate the situation and that he advise her of what could be done to correct it. She also expressed her understanding that a line item would have to be included in the budget approved by the voters if no money was borrowed. However, there is no indication in the letter whether she was aware that the Board had not borrowed any money to make the purchase in this case.

The Commissioner asked Michael Azzara, then Assistant Commissioner for the Division of Finance, to respond to the letter because the Commissioner believed that he might be called upon to adjudicate the matter as a contested case. In a letter dated October 20, 1997, Azzara responded that:

> It has generally been the department's position that voter approval is required whether by outright purchase or through exercising an option in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1(b), except where acquisition is exempt from voter approval by statutory authority such as lease purchase or gift. This could be accomplished by a separate question at a special election or as part of the advertised school budget as you have indicated in your letter. (Emphasis added.)

Azzara also advised the resident that the general legal questions raised by her letter had not been formally adjudicated and that the appropriate mechanism to obtain a formal ruling was by filing a petition with the Commissioner.

The resident did not file a petition of appeal with the Commissioner. However, because the validity of its purchase had been questioned, the Board filed a petition for declaratory judgment with the Commissioner in October 1998, seeking a declaration that the acquisition of land without submitting the question to voters was valid in this case. In the alternative, the Board sought a determination that the purchase was void, along with an order directing that the sellers return the purchase price to the Board and other relief.

The Board named three respondents in its petition. First, it named the sellers, Robert Ench and Sanderina R. Kasper, Executrix of the Estate of Benjamin Kasper, Partners Trading as Bench Realty, seeking the return of the purchase price in the event that the purchase was declared illegal. Second, it named its former solicitor, Frederick A. Jacob, Esq., as a respondent, alleging legal malpractice. Third, the Board named Old Republic National Title Insurance Company, which had issued the Board title insurance guaranteeing clear title to the property.

Although the petition requested a declaratory judgment, the Director of the Office of Controversies and Disputes in the Department of Education advised the Board by letter dated December 15, 1998 that the matter would be considered as a contested case and would be transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for appropriate proceedings.

Following transmittal to OAL, two pre-hearing conferences were held during which it was agreed that there were no material facts in dispute. Accordingly, the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") granted the parties leave to file motions for summary decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. The record closed on September 27, 1999, following receipt of a motion for summary decision filed by the Board and responses from the sellers and the Board's former solicitor, both supporting the Board's motion and agreeing with the relief sought.[2]

On November 10, 1999, the ALJ, citing N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1 and 18A:20-4.2, determined that voter authorization was not required in this case since the Board had not borrowed any money for the purchase. Thus, the ALJ concluded that, under the facts and circumstances of this matter, the Board had not violated the school laws when it purchased the property without submitting the proposal to voters.

The ALJ further found that the Board had improperly failed to provide a line item including the proposed expenditure in its annual school budget that had been presented to the voters. However, he concluded that this procedural defect was not sufficient grounds to warrant overturning the purchase. The ALJ therefore recommended that the Board's acquisition of the property be sustained.

None of the parties filed any exceptions to the ALJ's decision.

On February 17, 2000, the Commissioner adopted in part and rejected in part the ALJ's recommended decision. The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the Board had erred in not including a line item appropriation for purchase of the property in the annual school budget submitted to the voters. However, the Commissioner disagreed that the Board had not been required to obtain authorization from the voters before purchasing the land, concluding that N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1, when read in conjunction with 18A:20-4.2, did not permit district boards to purchase property without prior approval of the district's voters, regardless of whether money was being borrowed for that purpose.

[2] The title company did not respond to the Board's motion. Rather, in a letter dated December 8, 1998 to the Director of the Office of Controversies and Disputes, the title company took the position that the Commissioner did not have the jurisdiction to decide any questions relating to its responsibilities to the Board and, therefore, that it had elected not to become involved in the process before the Commissioner.

The Commissioner, however, declined to void the transaction or order any of the relief sought by the Board, finding that the effect of a holding that the Board was not in compliance with law had not been fully argued or considered during the proceedings at OAL. The Commissioner found this particularly significant since the Board sought a directive, in the event the purchase was invalidated, for reconveyance of the land to the sellers, return of the purchase price to the Board and reimbursement of its costs. The Commissioner therefore remanded this matter to OAL for further proceedings on that issue.

Frederick A. Jacob, Esq., the Board's former solicitor, and the sellers, Robert Ench and Sanderina R. Kasper, Executrix of the Estate of Benjamin Kasper, Partners Trading as Bench Realty, filed appeals to the State Board from the decision of the Commissioner.[3] In support of his appeal, Jacob argues that the Commissioner's decision should be reversed because his interpretation of N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1 and 18A:20-4.2 ignored the plain and unambiguous language of those statutes. Jacob further argues that the legislative history supports the ALJ's analysis.

The brief filed by the Board in response to the appeal incorporates the procedural history and material facts as set forth in Mr. Jacob's brief. Like its former solicitor, the Board argues for reversal of the Commissioner's decision, contending that the Commissioner ignored the plain meaning of the applicable statutes.

[3] We note that only Jacobs filed a brief in support of the appeal.

After careful review of the record and consideration of the arguments of the parties, we reverse the Commissioner's determination that the purchase at issue was in violation of the education laws because there had not been a voter referendum on the purchase conducted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2. We affirm the ALJ's determination, which was adopted by the Commissioner, that the Board failed to comply with the education laws because it did not include a line item reflecting the appropriation in the budget submitted to the voters. However, as set forth herein, we find that this failure is significant and remand the matter for further proceedings and a determination by the Commissioner as to the impact of such failure.

Initially, we find that the statutes governing the acquisition of property by district boards of education did not require the Board to seek voter approval in this instance by placing the question on the ballot prior to purchasing the property in question. As both appellant and respondent argue in their briefs, well-established principles of statutory construction direct that we look first to the statute's plain language to derive its meaning. E.g., Town of Morristown v. Woman's Club, 124 N.J. 605 (1991); Kimmelman v. Henkels & McCoy, Inc., 108 N.J. 123 (1987). Accordingly, if the meaning of the statute is plain on its face, that meaning will ordinarily govern. E.g., Lammers v. Board of Education of Point Pleasant, 134 N.J. 264 (1993). Hence, as part of an administrative agency, we may not interpret the statute to give it greater effect than the statutory language permits. New Jersey Turnpike Authority v. American Federation of State County and Municipal Employees, Council 73, 150 N.J. 331 (1997).

In his decision, the Commissioner focused on one provision, N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1(b). He concluded that "the provision of 18A:20-4.1(b) limiting the availability of options to only those pieces of land which the board could purchase after securing voter approval and permitting the actual exercise of the option only after authority for the purchase has been given at any annual or special school election clearly makes no sense without a concomitant requirement that land purchases must generally be authorized by the voters of the district." Commissioner's decision, slip op. at 18-19 (emphasis in original). On the basis of this conclusion, the Commissioner inferred in N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2(d), which expressly requires prior voter approval when the funds are to be borrowed, a requirement that all land purchases must be approved by voter referendum whether or not funds to make the purchase are to be borrowed. The Commissioner found this to be supported by the legislative history. In this respect, he concluded that no significance should be placed on the fact that the Legislature had eliminated the express statutory requirement for voter approval for all purchases when it enacted N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2 in 1967. The Commissioner reasoned that the amendment was enacted as part of the Legislature's comprehensive revision of Title 18A rather than as the result of consideration of the pertinent section alone. Id. at 20.

We find that careful examination of N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2 yields a different result. In essence, the language of the statutes is clear and unambiguous and, therefore, it is inappropriate for this agency to infer additional requirements beyond those that have been included in them by the Legislature. In re Jamesburg High School Closing, 169 N.J. Super. 328, aff'd as modified, 83 N.J. 540 (1980) (the duty is to construe and apply the statute as enacted). See e.g., Munoz v. New Jersey Auto. Full Ins. Underwriting Ass'n, 145 N.J. 377 (1996) (when the words of a statute are clear, that meaning is to be given effect absent legislative intent to the contrary); Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund Bd. v. New Jersey Mfrs. Ins. Co., 270 N.J. Super. 31, aff'd, 138 N.J. 185 (1994) (the duty is to construe the statute as written, not to effect an unexpressed legislative intent).

N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1 provides the authority to district boards to act "without authority first obtained from the voters of the district" in two specific ways:

> (a) Rent, on a year-to-year basis, or for a term not to exceed 5 years, in case of emergency, buildings to use for school purposes; and
> (b) Take an option not to exceed 1 year in duration, at a cost not to exceed the fair market value of such option, on the purchase of any land which the board could lawfully purchase after securing the consent of the legal voters to the purchase thereof, but such option may be exercised by the board only after authority to purchase the property covered by such option has been given at an annual or special school election.

N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2 provides that:

>
> (a) Purchase, take and condemn lands within the district lands not exceeding 50 acres in extent without the district but situate in a municipality or municipalities adjoining the district, but no more than 25 acres may be so acquired in any one such municipality, without the district, except with the consent, by ordinance, of such municipality;
> (b) Grade, drain and landscape lands owned or to be acquired by it and improve the same in like manner;
> (c) Erect, lease for a term not exceeding 50 years, enlarge, improve, repair or furnish buildings;
> (d) Borrow money therefor, with or without mortgage, in the case of a type II district without a board of school estimate, when authorized so to do at any annual or special school election...;
> (e) Construct, purchase, lease or otherwise acquire a building with the federal government, the State, a political subdivision thereof or any other individual or entity properly authorized to do business in the State...;

(f) Acquire by lease purchase agreement a site and school building...;
(g) Establish with an individual or entity authorized to do business in the State a tenancy in common, condominium, horizontal property regime or other joint ownership arrangement on a site contributed by the school district....

By the clear and express terms of the statute, prior voter approval at an annual or special school election is required when a board of education in a Type I district borrows money to purchase land. Nothing in the language of the statutes even suggests that prior voter approval is required if the district does not borrow money to make the purchase. We find that the words of the statute are clear and unambiguous. We also assume that in including the words "borrow money therefor" in N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2(d), the Legislature intended that those words would have meaning and not be superfluous. E.g., Phillips v. Curiale, 128 N.J. 608 (1992).

Because the language of the statute can be read sensibly without any absurd or anomalous result, it is that language which must be implemented. E.g., Dixon v. Gassert, 26 N.J. 1 (1958). See, e.g., City of Clifton v. Passaic County Bd. Of Taxation, 28 N.J. 411 (1959). In this respect, we reject the Commissioner's view that N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1(b) makes no sense unless a requirement is inferred in N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2(d) that all purchases of land must be the subject of a voter referendum. N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1(b) specifies that a district board does not need prior voter approval to take an option, but does require such approval in order to exercise that option. It was reasonable for the Legislature to distinguish between purchases resulting from the exercise of an option and those that do not. The language of N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.1(b) makes it clear that prior voter approval is not required to take an option, but that it is required to exercise the option whether or not the funds are to be borrowed. If no option is involved, N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2 controls, and prior voter approval is required only if the funds are to be borrowed.

Our conclusion that the words of the statute are both clear and expressive of the Legislature's intent is reinforced by the fact that in addition to the requirement for prior voter approval to borrow money to purchase land, the language of N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2 specifies particular conditions that must be met to acquire a building with the federal government or the State, N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2(e), to acquire a site and building by lease purchase agreement, N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2(f), and to establish a tenancy in common, N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2(g). Each condition is detailed and each is tailored for the transaction to which it applies. If the Legislature had intended to make prior voter approval a condition for purchasing land without borrowing, it would have included it in the statute.

As set forth in the ALJ's initial decision, the legislative history supports this interpretation. Most significantly, the language of the predecessor statute, R.S. 18:7-73, expressly required that purchases be "with a previous authority of vote of the legal voters of the district." This language, which had been included for one hundred years, was eliminated by the Legislature in 1967. The fact that the change was made as part of a comprehensive recodification process does not alter the fact that the statute was changed through legislative action.

Moreover, as described in the decisions of both the ALJ and the Commissioner, the Legislature has amended N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2 numerous times since 1967 to include other transactions that do not require prior voter approval, such as the lease purchase provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2(e) and (f). During the same period, the Legislature chose to leave the language of N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2(d) unchanged.

In sum, in these circumstances, we are compelled to implement the statute as the Legislature has enacted it. However, in reviewing the transaction involved here, we cannot ignore the other applicable requirements that are included in the education laws. Hence, the fact that N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2 does not require prior voter approval does not mean that the transaction involved here should have escaped review by the voters.

As stipulated, the Board did not include a line item appropriation for purchase of the property in the annual school budget submitted to the voters. As found by the ALJ:

> ...petitioner was required to detail the anticipated expenditures for the properly [sic] acquisition in its school budget. N.J.S.A. 18A:22-8(a)(1). Petitioner was also required to account for its surplus funds, as well as any anticipated use of such funds in the ensuing school year. N.J.S.A. 18A:22-8(a)(2). See, Bd. of Educ. of Branchburg Tpw. [sic], Somerset County v. Branchburg Twp. Committee, 187 N.J. Super. 540, 545 (App. Div. 1983), cert. denied 94 N.J. 506 (1983) ("It is clear that a board [of education] has an obligation to account for surplus funds and investment income in planning its budget for the ensuing year.") Additionally, petitioner was required to hold public hearing on its proposal budget, inclusive of these specific line items. N.J.S.A. 18A:22-13. Finally, petitioner was required to submit its proposed budget, inclusive of these specific line items, to the district's voters at the annual school election. N.J.S.A. 18A:22-33. In the instant case, petitioner concedes that it did not meet any of these budget requirements, when it stipulates:
>
> > It this case, the purchase price of the land acquired was obtained from surplus monies, was never a line item of any budget submitted to the voters and was never placed as a public question on any ballot at any regular or special school election.
> > (Petitioner's brief at 6)

> Accordingly, petitioner's failure to meet the statutory budget requirements regarding the acquisition of the property, as well as the accounting of surplus funds, constitute clear violations of the school laws.

Initial Decision, slip op. at 12-13.

The statutory requirements applicable to the budget process are not merely technical. In this instance, given that N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2 did not require a referendum specifically on the question of the purchase, inclusion of the appropriation in the budget presented to the voters was the only opportunity the voters would have to pass on the purchase.[4] Furthermore, the ability of the public to assess a district's use of surplus is critical to its ability to evaluate the district's financial condition so as to make the necessary judgments concerning the board's proposed budget. Because the ALJ did not find this defect to be significant, the record is not sufficient to permit us to evaluate its impact on the validity of the transaction at issue. We therefore remand this matter to the Commissioner for his determination of this question and for the development of a sufficient record upon which to base that determination.

We retain jurisdiction.

IN THE MATTER OF THE DISSOLUTION OF LOWER CAMDEN COUNTY REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 1, CAMDEN COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Boards that are constituents of the Lower Camden County Regional High School District No. 1 (Regional District), which is being dissolved, sought reconsideration of that portion of the January 27, 1999 Assistant Commissioner decision denying petitioners' request for declaratory judgment barring the Regional District from passing any resolution regarding funding capital improvements at the present apportionment rate per constituent District with benefit beyond the dissolution period. The Commissioner granted petitioners' reconsideration request, solely with respect to the $2.75 million lease purchase agreement approved by the Regional District referenced in Count VII of the amended petition.

Although the ALJ found that the subject of the lease purchase agreement is a capital project, he determined that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:22A-1.2(k) and N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-26, the $2.75 million lease purchase agreement does not constitute indebtedness as that word is used in N.J.A.C. 6:3-7.2(b). Accordingly, the ALJ granted respondents' motion for summary decision and dismissed the petition.

The Commissioner affirmed the recommended decision of the ALJ for the reasons stated therein.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 377-8/98

IN THE MATTER OF THE DISSOLUTION OF LOWER CAMDEN COUNTY REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 1

Anat Gordon, Esq., for petitioners Chesilhurst Board of Education, Borough of Chesilhurst, Waterford Township Board of Education and Township of Waterford

Vito A. Gagliardi, Jr., Esq., for respondents Berlin Township Board of Education, Township of Berlin, Clementon Borough Board of Education, Borough of Clementon, Lindenwold Borough Board of Education, Borough of Lindenwold, Pine Hill Borough Board of Education, Borough of Pine Hill, Winslow Township Board of Education and Township of Winslow (Ravin, Sarasohn, Cook, Baumgarten, Fisch & Rosen, attorneys)

Joseph M. Weinberg, Esq., and Barry Chatzinoff, Esq., for respondent Lower Camden County Regional High School District No. 1 (Weinberg, McCormick, Chatzinoff & Zoll, attorneys)

Record Closed: December 22, 1999 Decided: January 10, 2000

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

The petitioners in this matter, the boards of education and governing bodies of two municipalities that are constituents of a regional high school district which is being dissolved, seek reconsideration of a January 27, 1999 Assistant Commissioner's decision concerning funding of capital improvements in the Regional District at the present apportionment rate. Although the dissolution date has not been set, it is agreed that the capital improvements would have benefit after the dissolution date.

The matter was opened before the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through 13. After notice, a prehearing conference was held on October 4, 1999. Among other things, a schedule for submission of summary motions was set.

On November 9, 1999, the petitioners filed a motion to amend their petition of appeal. The respondents' counsel timely filed papers in opposition to the motion. The petitioners would have added to their petition two additional capital improvement matters they believe to be at least ill-advised. The respondents argue that until such time as a date of dissolution is set, the Regional District must continue to operate and to meet its statutory, regulatory and contractual requirements. They also point out, to the extent the petitioners seek a form of declaratory judgment to fix and apportion the equities, the request would run afoul of N.J.S.A. 18A:13-61.

By order dated December 22, 1999, I denied the motion to amend the pleadings. The matter is now ripe for summary judgment.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In October 1997, a majority of the constituent districts of the Lower Camden County Regional High School District No. 1 (Regional District) submitted an application to the Commissioner of Education requesting that the board of review convene to authorize a public referendum to consider dissolution of the Regional District. The board of review granted the application and, in a subsequent public referendum on May 12, 1998, the dissolution was approved by the requisite majority of constituent districts as well as the majority of overall votes cast, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:13-59. No date for dissolution has been set. The constituent districts that sought the referendum advocate a date of July 1, 2001.

Also in 1998, the Regional District proposed a multi-million dollar capital project to upgrade the communications infrastructure in its school buildings. The project would be financed through a ten-year lease purchase agreement. The items and costs are as follows:

Building cabling and equipment for Data, voice and video	$1,613,481
Large (32") screen video display terminals and NTSB Converter Boxes for video signal to Computer terminals – 250 @ $850	212,500
Mounting equipment for large screen terminals 250 @ $250	62,500
Computer upgrades
Teacher classroom computers – balance due for TECH 2000 Freeholder Program – 125 @ $1400 each	175,000
Printers – 250 @ $750	185,500
Carts for computer/printer equipment – 250 @ $200	50,000
Upgrade of electrical systems in four buildings Overlook Junior - $7,920 Overbrook Senior - $11,880 Edgewood Senior - $7,920	39,960
Work includes short circuit analysis; rating of Each electrical panel; confirmation of wiring sizes; Breaks and fuses; main distribution panel and Sub distribution boards.
Architectural Fee/Costs	50,000
Costs of issuance associated with lease purchase	85,000
10% reserve fund	277,059
	TOTAL $2,750,000

On February 9, 1999, the Commissioner of Education issued an endorsement approving the lease purchase agreement and certifying his opinion that the agreement was in the best interest of the Regional District and, further, that it met with requirements of the Comprehensive Educational Improvement and Financing Act of 1996, N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-1 through -34.

On August 11, 1998, the districts of Chesilhurst and Waterford filed a petition of appeal to invalidate the results of the May 12, 1998 referendum authorizing dissolution of the Regional District. As part of their alternate requests for relief, the petitioners sought a declaratory judgment to apportion the equities of the districts withdrawing from the Regional School District to recognize and compensate the petitioners for their contributions made since 1939 to the value of buildings and properties of the Lower Camden County Regional School District No. 1. They argued that principles of equity, as well as the New Jersey Constitution and the history of the controlling statute entitled them to such recoupment.

The Assistant Commissioner denied their request. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-34(c), the Assistant Commissioner may hear and determine controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. The Assistant Commissioner found that "the liquid assets of the Regional District are, generally, to be distributed pursuant to the statutory plan set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:13-62 and N.J.S.A. 18A:8-24." The Assistant Commissioner noted that the Appellate Division in In re Union County Dissolution, 298 N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1997) rejected a similar inequitable apportionment argument as baseless.

In addition to a declaratory judgment for equitable apportionment, the petitioners sought a declaratory judgment to bar the Regional District from passing any resolutions regarding funding capital improvements at the present apportionment rate per constituent district with benefit beyond the dissolution period or, alternatively, for a declaratory judgment to apportion the equities for each improvement attributed to each withdrawing district in accordance with a study petitioners suggest be conducted for each new improvement to the Regional District.

The Assistant Commissioner characterized this request as an "extraordinary restraint which would, undoubtedly, serve to impede [the regional] District in the satisfaction of its statutory responsibilities," and he ruled that the Regional District "cannot be restrained from expending those budgeted funds deemed necessary to fulfill its obligations."

> The capital projects which may be undertaken by a board of education, for any lawful purposes, the cost whereof may be provided for from taxes, or by the issuance of bonds, as provided by this chapter, as follows:
> 1. The acquisition by purchase or condemnation of lands;
>
> 2. The grading, draining and landscaping of lands owned or to be acquired by the board and the improvement thereof in any like manner;
>
> 3. The acquisition, construction, reconstruction, remodeling, alteration, enlargement or major repair of buildings; and
> 4. The purchase of the original furniture, equipment and apparatus, or of major renewals of furniture, equipment and apparatus, for any building used or to be used for such purposes.

Thus, a capital project includes the acquisition of lands, the grading, draining, and landscaping of lands, any physical alteration of school buildings other than minor repairs, and the purchase of furniture, equipment and apparatus for school buildings. The subject of the $2.75 million lease purchase agreement can be characterized as a reconstruction or remodeling under N.J.S.A. 18A:21-1(3), as well as a purchase of original equipment under N.J.S.A. 18A:21-1(4). Therefore, the subject of the agreement is a capital project for purposes of N.J.A.C. 6:3-7.2(b). Further, the improvements to roofing, outdoor tracks and gymnasium floors appear to fall within the definition of capital projects, presuming these improvements are more than minor repairs. N.J.S.A. 18A:21-1(3).

Indebtedness

Indebtedness is an old legal term, not an accounting term. Black's Law Dictionary (5th Ed. 1979) defines it as the "owing of a sum of money upon a certain and express agreement. . . . And in a broad sense and in common understanding the word may mean anything that is due and owing."

According to the dictionary of Model Legal Usage, by Bryan A. Garner, indebtedness is often a needless variant of "debt," although in some contexts it is difficult to discern whether it is the state of being indebted or the actual debt that is referred to.

The petitioners assert that indebtedness should be interpreted broadly to mean an obligation to pay and the respondents assert that it should be interpreted narrowly as debt incurred by school bonds. The term can be interpreted either way:

> Although the common meaning of "indebtedness" as an unconditional promise to pay a sum certain at a definite future time may be helpful as a general guide, the meaning of indebtedness is not uniform among the states. Furthermore, within a given state, the meaning of indebtedness for purposes of a constitutional or statutory debt limit may differ as among various types of government entities. Thus, a careful analysis of the law of the particular state in which one is interested is necessary in order to conclude whether a certain obligation should be included in a computation of indebtedness subject to that state's debt limit for school districts.
> [1 James A. Rapp, Education Law, §5.05[5][c] (1999).]

Although indebtedness is an imprecise term, a lease purchase agreement does not constitute debt and, therefore, the $2.75 million lease purchase agreement does not constitute indebtedness as that term is used in N.J.A.C. 6:3-7.2(b).

A lease purchase agreement has been defined by the Legislature as "any agreement which gives the board of education as lessee the option of purchasing the leased premises during or upon termination of the lease, with credit toward the purchase price of all or part of rental payments which have been made by the board of education in accordance with the lease." N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2(f).

The State Board of Education proposed the corresponding regulations on lease purchase agreements in 1988. 20 N.J.R. 2127. According to the proposal summary:

> The lease purchase agreement does not constitute debt since the rental payments are subject to the annual appropriation of funds sufficient to meet the required payments. The rental payments are appropriated annually by the district board of education as part of the current expense budget.

During the period for comment on the proposed regulation, a commenter suggested that the rules as proposed provided authority to circumvent the statutory election process. 20 N.J.R. 3127. The State Board of Education responded that the statute on lease purchase agreements does not require a referendum. Ibid.

The lease purchase agreement regulations require a district to include rental payments in its annual general fund budget instead of treating the payments as debt service. N.J.A.C. 6:22A-1.2(k); see also N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-26, distinguishing state aid used for debt services payments and lease purchase payments. The financial obligation of a lease purchase agreement is not debt according to the State Board of Education. There is no evidence or law to indicate that "indebtedness" as that term is used in N.J.A.C. 6:3-7.2(b) has any special meaning other than its plain meaning, that is, "debt." See Stevenson v. Keene Corp., 254 N.J. Super. 310, 317 (App. Div. 1992). (A particular term must be construed within context and given its generally accepted meaning unless inconsistent with legislative intent or a different meaning is expressly indicated.) Therefore, a lease purchase agreement does not constitute indebtedness.

There is instructive law from other jurisdictions concerning the treatment of a lease purchase agreement as a financial obligation other than indebtedness. In Dieck v. Unified School Dist. of Antigo, 477 N.W. 2d 613 (Wis. 1991), the Wisconsin Supreme Court held that a lease purchase agreement with a non-appropriation option (that is, a contractual clause allowing the school district to terminate the agreement by refusing to appropriate funds) was not "indebtedness" for state constitutional and statutory purposes. See also Caddell v. Lexington County School Dist. No. 1, 373 S.E. 2d 598 (S.C. 1988). (South Carolina Supreme Court held that a lease purchase agreement was not indebtedness because of the non-appropriation clause.)

Inasmuch as the State Board of Education intended that lease purchase agreements be treated as financial obligations other than "debt," and the plain meaning of "indebtedness" is

"debt," the $2.75 million lease purchase agreement does not constitute indebtedness as that term is used in N.J.A.C. 6:3-7.2(b).

ORDER

The phrase "indebtedness for capital projects" as used in N.J.A.C. 6:3-7.2(b) means "debt" incurred by a district for (1) the acquisition of lands, (2) grating, draining, and landscaping of lands, (3) any physical alteration of buildings other than minor repairs, and (4) the purchase of furniture, equipment and apparatus for school buildings, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:21-1, I CONCLUDE that the $2.75 million lease purchase agreement does not constitute indebtedness as that word is used in N.J.A.C. 6:3-7.2(b).

Accordingly, the motion for summary decision by the respondents Berlin Township Board Education, Township of Berlin, Clementon Borough Board of Education, Borough of Clementon, Lindenwold Borough Board of Education, Borough of Lindenwold, Pine Hill Borough Board of Education, Borough of Pine Hill, Winslow Township Board of Education, Township of Winslow and the Lower Camden County Regional High School District No. 1 is GRANTED. It is so ORDRED. In accord with this decision it is further ORDERED that the petition of appeal by the Chesilhurst Board of Education, Borough of Chesilhurst, Waterford Township Board of Education and Township of Waterford be and is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE DISSOLUTION OF LOWER CAMDEN COUNTY REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 1, CAMDEN COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.[1]

Upon his careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner determines to affirm the recommended decision of the Administrative Law Judge for the reasons stated therein.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Summary decision is granted to respondents and the within Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: FEB 25 2000

Date of Mailing: FEB 28 2000

[1]On February 3, 2000 a letter was received from Anat Gordon, Esq., requesting an extension of time in which to file exceptions on behalf of petitioners. N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8 provides that requests for extensions of time limits for filings must be made no later than the day on which that time period is to expire. The expiration of the 13-day time period in which to file exceptions in this matter was January 27, 2000. Moreover, Ms. Gordon provided no basis for waiving this rule by reason of "emergency or other unforseeable circumstances," as required by N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8(b). Therefore, the extension request was denied.

[2] This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.1 et seq., within 30 days of its filing. Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, October 16, 2000

For the Petitioner/Appellant, Oxfeld, Cohen, LLC (Sanford R. Oxfeld, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent/Respondent, Nirenberg & Varano (Howard M. Nirenberg, Esq., of Counsel)

In August 1991, Lucy Sheridan (hereinafter "petitioner"), a school nurse in Paterson, filed a claim for benefits with the Division of Workers' Compensation as the result of a medical condition which allegedly had arisen from an incident which occurred at school in January 1991. As a result of such condition, the petitioner was unable to work from April until September 1991. In November 1997, the parties agreed to settle the petitioner's workers' compensation claim for $10,000 pursuant to N.J.S.A. 34:15-20.[1] The petitioner thereafter made a request to the State-operated District of the

[1] N.J.S.A. 34:15-20 provides, in pertinent part, that a settlement of a workers' compensation claim "shall have the force and effect of a dismissal of the claim petition and shall be final and conclusive upon the

City of Paterson (hereinafter "State-operated District") to have the 55 sick leave days used between April and September 1991 restored to her accumulated sick leave. On February 17, 1998, after such request was denied, the petitioner filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking sick leave benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 from the State-operated District.[2]

On August 30, 2000, an Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") recommended dismissing the petition, concluding that the settlement of the petitioner's workers' compensation claim "evidenced an unambiguous waiver of any rights petitioner may have had under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1." Initial Decision, slip op. at 7. The ALJ observed that "[a]t no time during the workers' compensation hearing, or at the time of the Section 20 settlement, did petitioner indicate that she was not waiving any entitlement she may have to sick leave benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. In fact, she indicated that the amount of her settlement was compensation for the sick leave days for which she believed she had been charged." Id. at 6-7. The ALJ distinguished this case from Marino v. Willingboro Township Board of Education, decided by the State Board of employee and the employee's dependents, and shall be a complete surrender of any right to compensation or other benefits arising out of such claim under the statute."

[2] N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 provides, in pertinent part:

> a. Whenever any employee, entitled to sick leave under this chapter, is absent from his post of duty as a result of a personal injury caused by an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment, his employer shall pay to such employee the full salary or wages for the period of such absence for up to one calendar year without having such absence charged to the annual sick leave or the accumulated sick leave provided in N.J.S. 18A:30-2 and 18A:30-3. Salary or wage payments provided in this section shall be made for absence during the waiting period and during the period the employee received or was eligible to receive a temporary disability benefit under chapter 15 of Title 34, Labor and Workmen's Compensation, of the Revised Statutes. Any amount of salary or wages paid or payable to the employee pursuant to this section shall be reduced by the amount of any workmen's compensation award made for temporary disability.

Education, March 1, 2000, by pointing out that "[u]nlike in Marino, where the petitioner stated that he was not waving any entitlement he might have to sick leave benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, petitioner has made no such reservations expressly agreeing instead, to waive 'all [her] rights arising out of this/these claim(s)' under the Section 20 Settlement." Id. at 7.

On October 16, 2000, the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's recommended findings and conclusions, agreeing that "petitioner knowingly relinquished any claim she may have had pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 when she accepted her 'Section 20' settlement before the Division of Workers' Compensation." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 9. The Commissioner therefore dismissed the petition.

The petitioner filed the instant appeal to the State Board, arguing that she had not waived her right to pursue a claim for sick leave benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 when she settled her workers' compensation claim.

After a careful review of the record, we reverse the decision of the Commissioner. Under the particular circumstances presented herein, we conclude that the petitioner's settlement of her workers' compensation claim did not include a waiver of any rights she may have under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, and, consequently, did not preclude her from pursuing a claim for benefits under that statute.

As we observed in Marino, supra, slip op. at 6:

> ...the parties to a workers' compensation case are free to agree in settling such a claim that the claimant is thereby waiving his statutory right to benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. In order to be valid, such a waiver must be "the intentional relinquishment of a known right." West Jersey Title & Guar. Co. v. Industrial Trust Co., 27 N.J. 144, 152 (1958).

There is no indication in the instant matter that the petitioner, in settling her workers' compensation claim, knowingly relinquished any rights she might have to sick leave benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. In West Jersey Title & Guar. Co., supra at 153, the Court stressed that "'[w]aiver' presupposes a full knowledge of the right and an intentional surrender." In this case, there is nothing in the record that would suggest that the petitioner had any knowledge of her rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 of the education laws when she agreed to settle her claim for benefits under the Workers' Compensation Act.

This case differs in that regard from Coleman v. Fiore Bros., Inc., 113 N.J. 594 (1989), which was relied upon by the ALJ. In Coleman, four homeowners who had entered into home improvement contracts sought protection from the Passaic Legal Aid Society to avoid losing their homes through foreclosure of their installment loans. The relief sought by the complainants included statutory attorney's fees. The complainants ultimately settled their claims, agreeing in a written settlement that "all claims for damages–actual, punitive and statutory, of the Complaint, and Counterclaim are hereby settled...." Although the settlement agreement made no reference to the statutory legal fees sought by the complainants, the Court concluded that, under the circumstances, such claims were encompassed within the settlement and stipulation of dismissal. In so doing, the Court observed that the complainants had made no attempt to expressly reserve their claim for attorney's fees and that the stipulation of dismissal contained no reference to any such exclusion.

Unlike the scenario in Coleman, the petitioner in the instant matter had not yet filed a claim for sick leave benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 when she settled her workers' compensation claim.[3] We emphasize in that regard that a claim under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 would not properly have been before the Division of Workers' Compensation. While the question of whether an injury arose "out of and in the course of" employment within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 is controlled by the standards established under the Workers' Compensation Act, the ultimate determination of a claim for sick leave benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 lies within the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education since it arises under the school laws. Theodore v. Dover Bd. of Ed., 183 N.J. Super. 407, 412-13 (App. Div. 1982).

Nor, under these circumstances, is it of any moment that the petitioner did not expressly reserve her claim to sick leave benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 when she settled her workers' compensation case, as had the petitioner in Marino. We recognize that an intention to waive need not be manifested expressly but may be spelled out from a state of facts exhibiting full knowledge of the circumstances producing a right and continuing indifference to exercise of that right. Merchants Indem. Corp. v. Eggleston, 68 N.J. Super. 235, 254 (App. Div. 1961), aff'd, 37 N.J. 114 (1962). However, under the particular circumstances presented by this case, there is no basis for us to conclude that the petitioner intentionally relinquished a known right. As previously stated, there is [3] We note that the petitioner's claim for workers' compensation benefits was filed prior to our decision in Verneret v. Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 134, in which the State Board cleared up the confusion surrounding the filing requirements for petitions under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. In Verneret, we held that a petition seeking benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 was required to be filed with the Commissioner of Education within 90 days of the district board's action which had the effect of denying such benefits. We directed that the decision be applied on a prospective basis only. Thus, under the circumstances, we would not have applied Verneret to determine the timeliness of the instant petition.

In addition, we note that "[t]o the extent this matter might be considered untimely...the District failed to raise this claim, and the parties did not specifically brief this issue." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 9, n.1. The Commissioner therefore reached the merits of the matter. The State-operated District has not raised the timeliness issue on appeal and, in any event, did not file a cross-appeal from the Commissioner's decision.

no indication in the record that the petitioner was even aware that she might have any rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 at the time she agreed to settle her workers' compensation claim, and she had not yet filed such a claim with the Commissioner of Education.[4]

We find, in addition, that the express language of N.J.S.A. 34:15-20 supports this result. That statute provides that a settlement of a workers' compensation claim "shall be a complete surrender of any right to compensation or other benefits arising out of such claim under the statute." (Emphasis added.) In the absence of any evidence that the petitioner had knowingly relinquished her rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, the settlement in this instance acted as a surrender only of those rights she might have had under the workers' compensation laws.

Consequently, we conclude that the petitioner's settlement of her workers' compensation case did not preclude her from pursuing a claim for sick leave benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. In so doing, we reject the State-operated District's contention that the petitioner is collaterally estopped from seeking relief under the education laws. The issue of whether the petitioner was entitled to sick leave benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 was not before the Division of Workers' Compensation. Nor was such issue or the awarding of relief under that statute within the jurisdiction of that body. Moreover, relief awarded pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 is in addition to any benefits received under the Workers' Compensation Act,[5] and we reiterate that the [4] We note in that regard that the petitioner's claim for benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 in Marino was filed subsequent to our decision in Verneret, supra, and was pending before the Commissioner of Education at the time that he settled his workers' compensation claim.

[5] Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, any amounts awarded to the petitioner by the Commissioner would be reduced by the amount of workers' compensation benefits received by the petitioner as a result of her settlement.

parties to a workers' compensation case are free to agree in settling such a claim that the claimant is thereby waiving his or her statutory right to benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. Marino, supra, slip op. at 6.

We therefore reverse the decision of the Commissioner to dismiss the petition and remand this matter to him for such further proceedings as are necessary to determine the petitioner's claim for sick leave benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1.[6]

June 6, 2001

Date of mailing JUN 08 2001

[6] Since a decision on remand would require such proceedings as are necessary to permit the Commissioner to determine whether the petitioner's injuries arose out of and in the course of her employment, we do not address the State-operated District's contention that her injuries did not arise out of her employment. Inasmuch as the Division of Workers' Compensation did not make such a determination in this instance, the Commissioner may properly exercise his jurisdiction to resolve this issue as part of the proceedings on remand. Marino, supra, slip op. at 5.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning former teaching staff member sought to invalidate a 1990 settlement agreement, approved by the Commissioner, concerning the District's withholding of petitioner's 1989-90 school year salary increment and filing of tenure charges of inefficiency.

The ALJ concluded that petitioner's claims were barred as untimely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) and granted respondent's motion for summary decision dismissing the petition.

The Commissioner affirmed the recommended decision for the reasons expressed therein.

JOANNE GROMPONE,

Petitioner,

v.

STATE OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY,

Respondent

Joanne Grompone, petitioner, pro se

Cheryl U. Brown, Esq., for respondents
(Murray, Murray & Corrigan, attorneys)

Record Closed: December 20, 1999 Decided: January 11, 1999

BEFORE ARNOLD SAMUELS, ALJ:

On June 11, 1999, the petitioner, Joanne Grompone, filed a Verified Petition with the Commissioner of Education, seeking to invalidate a settlement agreement entered into between petitioner and respondent in May 1990.

PROCEDURAL AND FACTUAL HISTORY

Prior to the beginning of the 1989-90 school year, the respondent notified petitioner that it intended to withhold her salary increments for the 1989-90 school year.

In November 1989 the petitioner filed a Verified Petition with the Commissioner of Education contesting the withholding of her employment increments and also denying a request from her for a leave of absence for the 1989-90 school year.

In December 1989 the respondent (Board) filed tenure charges against the petitioner, seeking to remove her from her tenured position as a teacher, based on inefficiency.

After expiration of the ninety-day remedial period required by regulation, petitioner was notified, in March 1990, that she was suspended, with pay, pending a psychiatric examination.

In December 1989, after petitioner filed an appeal with the Commissioner of Education, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case. The petitioner was represented by counsel, a Connecticut attorney, who did not fulfill requirements for admission pro hac vice in New Jersey. However, he continued to represent the petitioner in attempting settlement.

The matter was settled in May 1990. The agreement was signed by the petitioner, the Superintendent of the State Operated School District for the City of Jersey City, and the attorneys for both parties, including the petitioner's attorney, who still had not been admitted in New Jersey pro hac vice. An Initial Decision-Settlement, which incorporated the settlement agreement, was completed and filed with the Commissioner of Education at the end of June 1990. The decision recognized that petitioner was represented by her attorney prior to and at the time of settlement, but that he had not been admitted in New Jersey pro hac vice.

On August 14, 1990, the Commissioner of Education adopted the Initial Decision/settlement as the Final Decision in the matter. The Commissioner dismissed the case, subject to compliance with the terms of settlement, which were to be completed by the end of the 1990-91 school year. Petitioner's resignation, in accordance with the agreement, was tendered and accepted in March 1991, and it became effective at the end of the 1990-91 school year.

Approximately five years later, in late May 1996, the petitioner filed a complaint in the Superior Court of New Jersey, seeking to invalidate the 1990 settlement agreement, claiming that the respondent had prematurely ceased payments due to her under the agreement. The Board asserted that the early cessation of payments, in February 1991, resulted from a payroll processing error whereby petitioner had received more money than she was entitled to under the agreement.

Petitioner also detailed a wide variety of reasons why the 1990 settlement agreement should be invalidated, and she also argued the merits of the underlying tenure case that led to the settlement. The petitioner demanded relief that included damages and restoration of her teaching position.

On February 21, 1997 the Superior Court granted respondent's motion for summary judgment and dismissed plaintiff Grompone's complaint "except as to claims regarding expiration of contract claims." The petitioner then filed several applications with the Superior Court for reconsideration, all of which were denied. As a result of one of these motions, the court, by Order dated June 20, 1997, dismissed the plaintiff's application as moot, noting "this matter having been transferred to the Commissioner of Education."

Approximately two years later, in January 1999 the petitioner again moved for reconsideration of the Order granting summary judgment. The petitioner was represented by counsel in this application. The resulting Order, dated February 23, 1999 again denied reconsideration of the prior summary judgment "as to all claims except claims regarding expiration of contract claims, and transferring the above-captioned matter to the Commissioner of Education (as to all claims involving defendant Jersey City Board of Education)". It was further ordered that "all remaining claims of plaintiff, including contract claims, are dismissed without prejudice;". . .

On May 24, 1999 the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes in the Department of Education wrote to Ms. Grompone and informed her that recent correspondence forwarded to the director's office was the first indication that the matter may have been transferred to the Commissioner of Education. The Director stated that she then contacted the Superior Court, which provided a copy of the February 3, 1999 Order, and it seemed apparent that some part of the petitioner's claim had been transferred to the Commissioner. However, the Director stated that this was not sufficient for the initiation of a contested case in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.1 et seq. The Director advised Ms. Grompone that if she wished to proceed it was necessary to file a duly served petition of appeal with the Jersey City School District, which would then be directed to answer, without prejudice to any affirmative defenses it might wish to raise. The Director further stated that upon review of the pleading, further proceedings would be determined in accordance with the applicable rules for the hearing of contested cases.

A verified petition was filed by Ms. Grompone with the Commissioner of Education on June 17, 1999. The petition challenges the validity and many other aspects of the settlement agreement she entered into in June 1990. Petitioner also charges the respondent with failure to properly perform its obligations under the agreement.

Most particularly, the petitioner charged that the respondent wrongfully ceased making bimonthly salary payments before the end of the 1990-91 school year, as stated in the agreement, and that her work assignments during the balance of that year did not conform to the agreement.

The petitioner demanded reinstatement to her position (as if the tenure charges had never been certified), back pay and benefits, plus punitive damages.

Approximately one week before the petition was filed, Ms. Grompone wrote to the Commissioner of Education stating her belief that the Superior Court lacked foundation in law to transfer the matter to the Commissioner and challenging the Commissioner's authority to hear and determine the issues she raised, such as breach of contract.

In its answer, filed on June 15, 1999, the respondent denied the petitioner's charges and allegations and conceded that the Commissioner of Education had jurisdiction in the matter. Among other affirmative defenses, the respondent claimed that the petition was barred by all applicable statutes of limitations, including N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2, the ninety-day filing requirement.

On July 9, 1999 this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by the Commissioner of Education for hearing and determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

In papers filed subsequently, the respondent stated that, because of an administrative and payroll processing error in 1990-91, the school district had neglected to reduce petitioner's salary in accordance with the settlement agreement and that the prior higher salary was continued until the error was discovered in February 1991. At that time, petitioner was notified that she had received more money than she was entitled to under the settlement agreement, and salary payments were stopped. The respondent also denied that the petitioner's part-time work assignments for the balance of the 1990-91 year, up to the time of her retirement, did not conform to the terms of the settlement agreement.

In August 1999, the respondent filed a motion for summary decision, based on the ninety-day filing limitations in N.J.A.C. 1:24-1.2(c). The petitioner opposed the motion and cross moved for summary decision in her favor, for a change of venue, and for discovery relating to the factual allegations in her petition. Ms. Grompone seemingly added to the charges in her petition by alleging that the respondent was guilty of committing a wide variety of torts against her. Among her arguments are the following:

1. Respondent's Motion for Summary Decision is a sham

2. Respondent's reliance on the tolling of time for an appeal is a meritless sham/hoax, because this matter before the Commissioner of Education is not an appeal.

3. Without discovery having taken place no motion for summary decision can proceed.

4. Compelling circumstances deemed the settlement agreement, which is a contract, to be null and void from the time of its conception; that the agreement was unilaterally created by the respondent, signed by her under duress, and violated public policy and the laws of New Jersey. These statements refer to a wide variety of torts committed against her by the respondent.

5. The settlement agreement violated the petitioner's rights under a collective bargaining agreement and is therefore null and void.

6. A settlement agreement was created by respondent with the specific intent not to perform as promised; a breach of contract.

7. Teachers are entitled to retain a salary overpayment made through a school board's error.

8. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 makes no provision for the filing of an Order from the Superior Court as to the tolling of time, and respondent's argument regarding the tolling of time is a sham.

9. The petitioner's filing with the Commissioner of Education is not an appeal, and many material issues remain which should properly be decided in the Superior Court; such as the variety of torts charged against the respondent.

10. The petitioner's cross-motion for summary decision should be granted because the respondent's claim is time barred, since the respondent's application to transfer the matter to the Commissioner of Education was granted by the Superior Court by Order dated February 23, 1999.

On September 27, 1999 the respondent filed papers in response to the petitioners opposition and cross motion. The respondent emphasized that the petitioner seemed to be attempting to address the merits of her charges directed to performance of the 1990 settlement agreement by the parties. The Board repeated its argument that the petition was filed much too late and is therefore time-barred under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2. The Superior Court's transfer of "claims regarding expiration of contract claims" to the Commissioner referred solely to a claim raised by the petitioner for the first time in her opposition papers: that the Board had violated the settlement agreement by assigning duties to her which were inconsistent with her tenure. However, if that was done, it occurred in the 1990-91 school year.

The filing of papers continued. On November 12, 1999 the respondent replied to the petitioner's claim that the instant matter is not an "appeal." Respondent again repeated its sole and primary allegation: that petitioner's claims were barred by the ninety-day filing limitation in N.J.A.C. 1:24-1.2(c).

Oral argument on the motion was held in the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on November 16, 1999. Additional papers were filed by the petitioner that day, 10 minutes before the record opened. The petitioner continued her argument relating to the performance of the 1990 settlement agreement. She also continued charging the commission of a variety of torts by the respondent, and particularly emphasized her argument that the matter is not properly before the OAL, but belongs in the Law Division of the Superior Court.

In oral argument, the petitioner did not address the ninety-day time limit in N.J.A.C. 1:24-1.2(c). Instead she insisted that the matter should be subject to the six year contract statute of limitation, and she persisted in denying that this matter was an "appeal" from the Board's actions in 1990 and 91. Ms. Grompone continued to insist that the only cause of action she has is based on a contract that was fraudulent and illegal.

In response to the petitioner's continued argument that the OAL and the Commissioner of Education do not have jurisdiction, which she insisted resided in the Superior Court, the petitioner was asked if she cared to withdraw the petition from this forum, in order that she might pursue any actions or remedies that she felt to be appropriate in the Superior Court. Ms. Grompone indicated that she would consider doing that. The petitioner requested and was given thirty days in which to decide, and the record was held open for that period of time, until December 17, 1999. Ms. Grompone was informed that after that date the instant motion would be decided, if she chose not to withdraw. She was further advised that if the respondent's motion for summary decision, a jurisdictional question, was granted, the matter would be ended in this forum; but if that motion was denied then the completion of discovery would be ordered, and a plenary hearing date would be selected.

Approximately two weeks later, on December 2, 1999, respondent filed another letter brief summarizing the Board's arguments in support of its motion for summary decision, and emphasizing that the only issue to be decided at this time is whether the petitioner timely filed her petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education, referring to N.J.A.C. 1:24-1.2. On the same day, December 2, 1999, another letter was filed by the petitioner, essentially repeating her arguments, denying that this matter is an "appeal" and again asserting that this dispute correctly belongs in the Law Division of the Superior Court for application of the law of contracts. She did not however withdraw her petition.

DISCUSSION

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c).

It is clear that the language of the regulation is mandatory, and that the time begins to run when notice is received of the action taken. The uncontested facts indicate that the petitioner signed the settlement agreement on May 18, 1990, on which date she stated that she had reviewed the terms of the agreement, discussed them with her attorney, and had voluntarily and without coercion entered into the agreement. The document was also signed, shortly thereafter, by the petitioner's attorney, the State District Superintendent and counsel for the district. The settlement was accepted by the Commissioner of Education on August 14, 1990, and dismissal of the contested case was subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement. (Although petitioner's attorney had not been authorized to practice law in New Jersey, he nevertheless represented the petitioner in the negotiation and conclusion of the settlement agreement.)

The uncontested facts show that the agreement was to be performed by the parties during the balance of the 1990-91 school year. The terms included a description of the petitioner's work schedule and assignments plus the salary to be paid her for the balance of the year. Her resignation would become effective at the end of the 1990-91 school year, at which time the parties' obligations to each other would be concluded.

The record and papers filed by the parties are totally devoid of any claim by the petitioner, in 1991 and for four years thereafter, that her work assignments during the balance of the 1990-91 school year were not consistent with her status as a tenured teaching staff member. However, the record does indicate that in February 1991 respondent stopped salary payments because by that time she had been inadvertently overpaid at a rate that by that date totaled more than the agreed upon $15,000 annual salary for the 1990-91 academic year. The district notified petitioner of that overpayment in February 1991, when salary payments ceased. Then, petitioner submitted her resignation three months later, in May 1991, and it became effective, as agreed, at the end of the school year, presumably in June 1991.

It is most important to note that during the balance of the 1990-91 school year the petitioner never filed a complaint or petition challenging or seeking to rescind the settlement agreement; nor did she do so within ninety days of any alleged violation of the agreement by the district or from the end of the school year. No such petition of appeal or complaint was filed with the Commissioner of Education or with any other forum until almost five years later, in May 1996, when petitioner filed a Complaint in the New Jersey Superior Court, which she amended in September 1996.

The proceedings in the Superior Court proceeded until February 1997, when the Complaint was dismissed by the Superior Court "except claims regarding expiration of contract claims," and the matter was ordered to be transferred to the Commissioner of Education. The actual transfer did not take place until after February 1999, upon conclusion of a series of unsuccessful motions for reconsideration in the Superior Court.

The instant petition was filed in June 1999, approximately nine years after the settlement.

Certainly, if the petitioner desired to file a petition or complaint relating to the performance of the settlement agreement, such action should have been taken within ninety days from the conclusion of the 1990-91 school year, in June 1991, even though, giving her the benefit of the doubt, she was notified of the cessation of salary payments in February 1991. Therefore, the ninety-day period of limitations would have expired, at the latest, at the end of September 1991. There is no visible reason why the ninety-day period of limitations did not or should not have commenced to run immediately upon the end of the 1991 school year; and by the end of September 1991, her claim, relating to performance of the settlement agreement, was barred, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c).

Petitioner filed her Complaint with the Superior Court of New Jersey in May 1996, almost five years after expiration of the ninety-day period of limitations discussed above. No authority exists that would justify restoration of the petitioner's barred right to file a petition simply because she filed a Complaint in the Superior Court five years later. There is no reason to believe that in 1997 and in 1999, when the Superior Court dismissed the matter and ordered it transferred to the Commissioner of Education as to "claims regarding expiration of contract claims," the Superior Court intended to cause the ninety-day requirement in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 to be vacated and to cause revival of a claim that had been barred for almost five years.

On the contrary, it is likely that the Superior Court indicated that the matter should be returned to the Commissioner of Education for application by him of the laws, rules and regulations over which he had jurisdiction.

The ninety-day bar of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 has been traditionally and strictly applied, Kallimanis v. Bd. of Ed. of Carlstadt, OAL DKT. NO. EDU 868-80 (August 8, 1980) aff'd Commissioner of Education (September 26, 1980), aff'd State Board (March 4, 1981). The rule will only be relaxed where there is some compelling reason such as the presence of substantial constitutional or other issues of fundamental public interest beyond that of concern only to the parties themselves. Bogart v. East Orange Bd. of Ed., OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6245-82 (January 26, 1983), aff'd Commissioner of Education (March 14, 1983). It has also been noted that relaxation is appropriate when strict adherence would possibly result in an injustice.

In Dreher v. Jersey City Bd. of. Ed., OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2777-87 (December 18, 1987), aff'd Commissioner of Education (February 2, 1988), aff'd State Board (July 8, 1988), filing of the petition was delayed while the petitioner investigated an appropriate grievance procedure. The ninety-day rule was not relaxed even though petition was filed only two days after the time expired. See also Cwierk v. Jersey City Bd. of Ed., OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4795-87 (January 6, 1988), aff'd Commissioner of Education, (February 10, 1988); Weir v. Bd. of Ed. of Northern Valley Regional High School District, OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8609-83 (June 7, 1984), aff'd Commissioner of Education (July 20, 1984), aff'd State Board of Education (March 6, 1985), aff'd A.-3520-8426T6 (App. Div. April 9, 1986).

In Kaprow v. Bd. of Ed. of Berkley Twp., 131 NJ 572, 1993, the New Jersey Supreme Court held that an unofficial and informal notice from a secretary, employed by the local Board of Education to the plaintiff, stating that two positions have been created and filled by other persons, suffices to trigger the ninety-day period to begin to run against his assertion of tenure rights. That conduct by the local Board combined with the actual unofficial notice, was in fact considered to be the type of "other action" that provides adequate notice to the aggrieved party that legal action should be taken within the prescribed period.

There is no question in the instant matter that respondent's decision to cease salary payments because of prior overpayment and notice given to the petitioner of that action in February 1991 provided adequate notice to her that legal action should be taken with the prescribed period. Of course, if her work assignments in the balance of the 1990-91 school year were improper she knew that at the time it happened.

As set forth above, relaxation of the ninety-day limitation has been reserved for limited situation wherein a compelling reason can be demonstrated for expanding the time limitation. The petitioner has not demonstrated any circumstances that might warrant such a relaxation. No compelling reason was asserted, such as the presence of a substantial constitutional or other issue of fundamental public interest beyond that of concern only to the parties; nor did she demonstrate that strict adherence to the time limitations would possibly result in an injustice, except for the loss of her claim.

A Superior Court complaint is not ordinarily the petition that is contemplated by the regulation, and it was not until February 1999, that the Superior Court ordered the transfer to the Commissioner of Education. That was approximately eight years after closure of the matter in the administrative process. Even in the unlikely event that the Superior Court order of transfer on February 23, 1999 is used for the commencement of the ninety-day filing period, the petition would still have been out of time, having been filed on June 11, 1999. The ninety-days from the Superior Court order of February 23, 1999 expired on May 24, 1999.

CONCLUSIONS

For purposes of emphasis, it must be repeated that this decision is based upon respondent's motion for summary decision because petitioner's filing was untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2, a jurisdictional issue. Therefore, this matter is limited to the underlying facts related to dates actions were taken and documents were filed. These facts and dates, as stated above in the factual history, are all uncontroverted. Therefore, no genuine issues of material fact remain to be decided in connection with the untimely filing issue, and the matter is ripe for summary decision. Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995).

Certainly, nothing outside of the issue decided here affects any rights or remedies the petitioner may wish to raise in the Law Division of the Superior Court.

It is therefore CONCLUDED that the ninety-day period of limitations in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) had expired long before the petitioner had filed any claim, either in the Superior Court or with the Commissioner of Education. It is further CONCLUDED that even if the Superior Court filing date or the Superior Court order of transfer is used to commence the running of the ninety-day time period, the petitioner still filed her Verified Petition with the Commissioner beyond the ninety-day limitation. Furthermore, petitioner has demonstrated no reason why the Commissioner should exercise his discretion to relax application of the time bar in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15.

ADDENDUM

On December 30, 1999, after the record closed for purposes of the instant motion and after this decision was written, the petitioner filed yet another motion, asking for a wide variety of relief, some of which had been urged before and some of which is new.

Petitioner continues to insist that this entire matter should be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction in the Commissioner of Education, and she asks to have it transferred back to the Law Division of the Superior Court, which she claims is the proper forum for resolution of her so-called contract claim, with a six year statute of limitation. The Superior Court did not retain jurisdiction when it granted a motion by the District for summary judgment, dismissing petitioner's claims as moot and preserving only matters cognizable by the Commissioner of Education. This decision addresses those matters, by applying the regulations applicable to the Commissioners jurisdiction. It is assumed that when the Superior Court referred to "contract claims" it meant a determination as to whether the petitioner could abrogate her 1990 settlement agreement.

A new application by the petitioner asks for this judge to be recused and disqualified because of bias on several grounds. First, petitioner states that she was harassed when this judge asked her to refrain from inappropriate invective directed towards respondent's attorney, who has been repeatedly accused of filing sham, fraudulent and bogus applications and for committing a hoax against her. There is no question that the petitioner needed to be cautioned and asked to refrain from such personal attacks. In addition. Ms. Grompone's latest submission also accuses the New Jersey Education Association, the Jersey City Education Association, her prior attorney, the Superior Court judge who dismissed her case and a former Commissioner of Education of also acting wrongfully against her.

An additional reason presented by petitioner along with her request for recusal criticizes the opportunity given to her at oral argument to decide if she wished to proceed with a decision on the subject motion or allow her to withdraw, without prejudice. At the time petitioner thanked this judge for the 30 days given her to decide.

Since no advice was received within the 30 day period of time, the record was closed for purposes of this decision. Without the need for further exposition, the petitioner's application for recusal of this judge is denied for lack of sufficient grounds. Her application for summary decision is also denied for lack of factual support and for a complete lack of justification.

For further emphasis, there is no question but that jurisdiction over the issue of whether the petition was timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) is within the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education, and it is the only question decided here. To repeat, any other causes of action petitioner cares to pursue in the Superior Court may be addressed by her in that forum.

ORDER

It is therefore ORDERED that the respondent's application for summary decision be GRANTED; and this matter is DISMISSED because of untimely filing pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). The petitioner's motions are DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning tenured teaching staff member alleged that the Board reduced her position and salary while it employed nontenured teachers within her area of certification in violation of her tenure rights.

The ALJ determined that petitioner's assertion that a reduction in force occurred when her salary was reduced is without merit. The ALJ concluded that petitioner's salary for the 1998-99 school year was improperly reduced.

The Commissioner affirmed the Initial Decision of the ALJ, finding no evidence to support petitioner's contention that she was subjected to a RIF in the 1998-99 school year since the facts do not indicate that the Board reduced her salary for reasons of economy. The Commissioner further noted that, although the record leads to the inevitable conclusion that the Board adjusted petitioner's salary for the 1998-99 school year to eliminate a disparity in salaries between petitioner and her part-time colleagues, it did so in violation of her statutory protections of tenure. The Commissioner directed the Board to reimburse petitioner $1,413.77 representing the difference in salary petitioner received for the 1997-98 and 1998-99 school years and to freeze petitioner's salary at its 1997-98 amount ($18,013) until such time as a 4/9 position at petitioner's step on the salary guide meets or exceeds $18,013.

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner Alison Hendershot asserts that Respondent Board of Education of Montague, Sussex County, has reduced her position and salary while it employs non-tenured teachers within her area of certification in violation of her tenure rights.

The matter was forwarded to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case on December 18, 1998, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. The parties agreed that this matter could be disposed of by cross applications for summary decision. A briefing schedule was established.

FINDINGS OF FACT

A. The following facts were stipulated by the parties and are incorporated herein as findings of fact in this matter.[1]

1. Petitioner was employed by Respondent as a part-time teacher of basic skills under contract beginning on September 1, 1993. Petitioner had previously worked as a substitute teacher for Respondent during the period April through June, 1993.

2. Petitioner has been employed by Respondent as follows:

1993-94	part-time	Basic Skills Teacher
1994-95	part-time	Basic Skills Teacher
1995-96	part-time	Fifth Grade Teacher
1996-February17, 1997	part-time	Sixth Grade Teacher
February 18, 1997 – April 15, 1997	paid maternity disability leave
April 15, 1997 – June 30, 1997	unpaid child rearing leave
1997-98	part-time	Basic Skills Teacher
1998-99	part-time	Basic Skills Teacher

3. Petitioner was issued a standard New Jersey certificate endorsed for Elementary School Teacher in June, 1993. (Exhibit J-1). The certificate was issued in petitioner's maiden name, "Hotaling."

4. For the 1997-98 school year, petitioner was paid a salary of $18,013. (Exhibit J-2).

[1] A copy of the Stipulation of Facts and Exhibits is annexed hereto and made a part hereof.

5. Petitioner filed a contractual grievance as to her 1997-98 salary which was submitted to grievance arbitration.

6. An arbitration award issued on September 8, 1998, denying the grievance. (Exhibit J-3).

7. For 1998-99, Petitioner's salary was $16,599.23. (Exhibit J-4).

8. Petitioner's 1997-98 teaching schedule is attached as Exhibit J-5.

9. Respondent's master teacher schedule for 1998-99 is attached as J-6 (A-E).

10. For 1998-99 Respondent employed three (3) full-time non-tenured elementary teachers.

11. Petitioner's salary for 1995-96 was $16,500. (Exhibit J-7).

12. Petitioner's annual salary for 1996-97 would have been $17,373 if she had worked for the entire school year. (Exhibit J-8).

13. During the 1995-96 and 1996-97 (excluding leave time) school years, Petitioner taught fifth and sixth grades during periods one through five (8:30 a.m. to 12:00 noon). During that time, she was paid at 50 percent of her step on the salary guide.

B. The following facts were admitted by Respondent in its answer to the petition.

14. Petitioner is a tenured teaching staff member employed by Respondent.

15. For the 1997-98 school year, Petitioner was employed in a part-time teaching position at a prorated salary of $18,013.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

Petitioner is challenging Respondent's decision to reduce her position and salary, contending that the Board of Education employs non-tenured teachers within her area of certification, in violation of her tenure rights under the statue. Specifically, Petitioner contends that, in 1998-99, the Board was prohibited from reducing her compensation as a part-time teacher while employing non-tenured teachers in her area of certification. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.

Respondent, on the other hand contends that Petitioner accepted a reduction in hours from half time to four ninths time in 1997-98; at that time, however, according to the Board of Education, Petitioner was paid half time salary in error. The reduction in her salary from half of that of a full-time teacher to four ninths was merely the correction of an error, according to Respondent. Petitioner contends since the Board employs full-time non-tenured teachers in her area of certification, when the reduction in pay occurred, she suffered a reduction in force; as a result, she is entitled to back pay equal to five ninths of full-time for 1998-99 and full-time assignment for 1999-00 as well as retroactive benefits and seniority credit.

Respondent argues that this case is controlled by the appellate decision in Bassett, in which the court held that a full-time tenured teacher who took a leave of absence and subsequently returned to a part-time position in the same instructional area should be compensated proportionately to full-time salary and not a substantially lesser hourly rate. Bassett v. Board of Educ., 223 N.J. Super. 136 (App. Div. 1988) citations omitted.

The facts in this case, however, do not support Respondent's position that Bassett is determinative. The parties have agreed and stipulated that Hendershot is a part-time teacher and was compensated at a prorated share of the full-time compensation of her step on the salary guide.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that provisions of the holding in Bassett have not been violated; accordingly, Bassett is not determinative.

Turning now to the assertion of Petitioner that the only explanation for the reduction in compensation is that her position had been subject to a reduction in force (RIF), I FIND this assertion is equally without merit, based on the history and circumstances of this case.

Petitioner had taught four periods out of nine for several years prior to the institution of this action. She had been compensated, during prior years, at 50 percent of the appropriate compensation for her job level. In 1997-98, while being so compensated, Petitioner grieved non-payment for a preparation period which would have raised her compensation to five ninths of the appropriate compensation.[2]

Although a reduction in hours is considered a reduction in force under the statute if done for reasons of economy, there has been no showing from either side that such was the reason for the reduction in pay. See Klinger v. Cranbury Tp. Bd. of Ed., 190 N.J. Super. 354 (App. Div. 1982). Moreover, Petitioner has offered no legal authority for her assertion that the RIF occurred when her salary was reduced.[3]

Since, according to the statute, the Respondent has the right to reduce the number of hours, notwithstanding the tenure law, a RIF would have occurred when the Petitioner's hours were reduced. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5; N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12. That occurred, at the latest, during the 1997-98 school year. Accordingly, because the regulations require that a party aggrieved by an action of a Board file a petition with the Department of Education within 90 days and more than 90 days have passed since the Petitioner's hours were reduced, the limitation period expired long before this petition was filed.

[2] The grievance was denied (J-3).

[3] The record is unclear as to when the reduction in hours took place. Apparently, according to Respondent's Reply, Petitioner had employed at 50 percent full-time and paid accordingly. Upon her return from maternity leave, she was employed for four ninths of full-time but paid at 50 percent.

The only issue, therefore, that this petition can be predicated on is whether Respondent is in violation of Petitioner's tenure rights by reducing her salary. The language of the tenure statute is clear: the compensation of a tenured teacher may not be reduced except for inefficiency, incapacity or conduct unbecoming a teacher. Id. The payment of 50 percent of full-time in 1998-99 was an administrative error. There is no exception in the statute clerical or administrative error.

It is clear that there have been no charges of inefficiency, incapacity or unbecoming conduct alleged against Petitioner.

I am mindful of the fact that Petitioner signed a contract agreeing to the reduction. The right to unreduced compensation except for cause is the essence of the tenure statute and it is well established that contracts between teachers and boards are subject to such statutes. Spievak v. Board of Educ. of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63, 76, 447 A 2d 140 (1982). I CONCLUDE, therefore, that Petitioner's contract for the 1998-99 school year is subject to the provisions of the tenure laws.

Accordingly, I further CONCLUDE that Respondent's reduction of Petitioner's salary for the 1998-99 school year should be REVERSED; I further CONCLUDE Petitioner should be paid the difference between four ninths of her salary and 50 percent.

It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

ALISON HENDERSHOT,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MONTAGUE, SUSSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Since the Board's exceptions were untimely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(a),[1] they were not considered in the Commissioner's determination of this matter.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Initial Decision of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). Like the ALJ, the Commissioner finds no evidence on the record to support petitioner's contention that she was subjected to a RIF in the 1998-99 school year, since the facts herein do not indicate that the Board reduced her salary for reasons of economy.[2] Instead, the sole issue is whether the Board improperly reduced petitioner's salary in the 1998-99 school year in violation of her tenure rights. In this connection, although the record leads to the inevitable conclusion that the Board adjusted petitioner's salary for the 1998-99 school year to eliminate a disparity in salaries between petitioner and her part-time colleagues, it did so in violation of her statutory protections of tenure. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The proper means of redress, although less immediate in its result, is to freeze petitioner's salary at its 1997-98 amount. See DeLyon v. Borough of Old Tappan, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 499, aff'd in part, rev'd in part, State Board February 2, 2000.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. The Board is directed to reimburse petitioner the amount of $1,413.77, representing the difference in salary she received in the 1998-99 school year ($16,599.23) and her salary for the 1997-98 school year ($18,013), and to freeze petitioner's salary at this level until such time as a 4/9 position at petitioner's step on the salary guide meets or exceeds $18,013.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION ON MOTION

Decided by the State Board of Education, April 4, 2001

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, October 30, 2000

For the Respondent-Appellant, Apruzzese, McDermott, Mastro & Murphy (David A. Wallace, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Bucceri and Pincus (Sheldon H. Pincus, Esq., of Counsel)

On April 4, 2001, the State Board of Education affirmed the decision of the Commissioner of Education in this matter for the reasons expressed in his decision. The Commissioner, in turn, had adopted the initial decision of the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ"). In his decision, the ALJ had concluded that the Board of Education of the Town of Hackettstown (hereinafter "Board") had violated the tenure rights of Donna Custode (hereinafter "petitioner") by compensating her at a lower salary for the 1998-99 school year than the salary it had established for her when it approved her movement on the then applicable salary guide on May 13, 1998.

In the proceedings before the ALJ, the Board had argued that its actions were not in violation of petitioner's tenure rights because on June 10, 1998, it had reassigned her from a 12-month secretarial position compensated under one salary guide to another 12-month secretarial position compensated pursuant to a lower paying guide. The Board argued that any salary loss was justified because it was merely the consequence of a demotion to a lower paying position as the result of a reduction in force. The Board also maintained that because it had resolved to fix petitioner's salary at the amount she was actually paid during 1997-98, and because petitioner had been reassigned before she had begun receiving the increased salary amount established by the Board on May 13, 1998, it had not reduced petitioner's salary in violation of her tenure rights.

As stated, the ALJ rejected the Board's arguments, and, based on the undisputed facts, found that the Board's action of June 10, 1998 constituted an impermissible reduction in compensation. The ALJ therefore directed the Board to reinstate petitioner's salary in the amount it had established by its May 13, 1998 action and to pay petitioner within thirty days of the final administrative decision in the matter the difference between that amount and the amount she had received for 1998-99 and 1999-2000.

As noted previously, the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's initial decision and directed the Board to compensate petitioner within 60 days of his decision. In doing so, he concurred with the ALJ that the Board's action of June 10, 1998 was without effect given its action the previous month approving her advancement on the then applicable salary guide. He also stressed that as a secretary, the petitioner was serving in the same tenurable position in which she had served prior to the reduction in force that had resulted in her reassignment. Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 10.

We agreed with both the ALJ's initial decision and the Commissioner's decision adopting that decision. Consequently, we affirmed the Commissioner's decision for the reasons expressed therein.

On April 19, 2001, the Board moved for reconsideration of our decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-2.7. In its brief in support of the motion, the Board renews its argument that its actions did not constitute a reduction of petitioner's salary, but rather a permissible "freezing" of her salary. The Board argues that reconsideration is required because its legal arguments "have not yet been addressed at any level in this proceeding." Brief in support of motion, at 2.

We disagree. The record reflects that the Board's legal argument was considered by the ALJ and the Commissioner, both of whom rejected it. On appeal to the State Board, the Board's argument was again considered with the same result. Given that its arguments have been considered at three levels of administrative review, and based on our review of the papers submitted by counsel in support of the motion, the State Board of Education denies the Board's motion for reconsideration. In so doing, we note that, pursuant to the Commissioner's decision and in the absence of a stay, the Board was required to compensate the petitioner by December 29, 2000. The State Board reaffirms that the petitioner was entitled to receive the additional compensation which she was due under the Commissioner's decision within 60 days of the date of the Commissioner's decision, and directs that any amounts still owing to the petitioner be paid immediately.

	OAL DOCKET NO. EDU 2911-99
	AGENCY REF. NO. 82-4/99
	SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

THIS AGREEMENT made this day of August, 1999 by and between the Bridgeton Board of Education, which maintains principle offices at Bank Street Administration Building, Bridgeton, NJ 08302 -2001 (hereinafter referred to as the "Board") and Wayne Hendricks, (hereinafter referred to as "Mr. Hendricks").

WITNESSETH

WHEREAS, Mr. Hendricks is the Respondant in a tenure matter filed by the Board, having OAL Docket No. EDU 2911-99 and Agency Docket No. 82-4/99; and

WHEREAS, the parties have engaged in litigation which resulted in having the matter assigned to the Honorable Lillard law, ALJ; and

WHEREAS, the continued litigation of this matter would have resulted in great expense and disruption to the Bridgeton School District; and

WHEREAS, the parties have determined that resolving this matter would be in their mutual best interests; and

WHEREAS, the nature of the charges brought against Mr. Hendricks by the Board are limited to his performance as a supervisor; and

WHEREAS, the Board is desirous of filling a vacancy in the position of teacher of the handicapped; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Hendricks is certified as a teacher of the handicapped;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual provisions of the parties, and in exchange for the consideration more particularly noted herein, it is agreed as follows:

1. Mr. Hendricks shall submit his resignation from the position of department head now known as curriculum content supervisor, said resignation to be made effective July 1, 1999.
2. In consideration therefore, the Board voluntarily dismisses the tenure charges brought against Mr. Hendricks that are related to his performance as supervisor, recognizing that the dismissal is subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Education
3. In further consideration, the Board shall compensate Mr. Hendricks in the sum of $5,246.58, representing the salary for the period between April 15, 1999 and June 30, 1999. Mr. Hendricks shall not be entitled to payment of any additional salary as part of this Agreement.
4. Further, the Board shall assign Mr. Hendricks to the position of teacher of the handicapped effective September 1, 1999 and place Mr. Hendricks at the appropriate step of the teacher salary guide based on his years of experience in the Bridgeton School District.

5. Further, Mr. Hendricks shall be entitled to apply, and the Board shall be obligated to consider any application by Mr. Hendricks for the summer positions of coordinator of JTPA and /or teacher of JTPA, or any other position to which Mr. Hendricks applies. It is understood that this in no way obligates the Board to appoint Mr. Hendricks to the position of coordinator of JTPA and/or teacher of JTPA or for any other position to which he may apply.

6. As further consideration of this Agreement, Mr. Hendricks and the Board agree to mutually release and forever discharge each other, including members of the Board, or any of its directors, trustees, officers, employees, agents, attorneys, successors, heirs, executors and assigns from any and all claims which was or could have been asserted which relate to the matter now pending before the Commissioner having OAL Docket No. EDU 2911-99 and Agency Docket No. 82-4/99. This Release also covers any claims of discrimination relating to the matter having OAL Docket No EDU 2911-99 and Agency Docket No. 82-4/99, directly or indirectly, including, but not limited to, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, Federal Laws against discrimination, and the Americans With Disabilities Act, and any claims for back pay.

7. Mr. Hendricks expressly acknowledges, represents and warrants that he has agreed to each and every term of this Agreement which was placed on the record before the Honorable Lillard Law, ALJ, on August 10, 1999, that he fully understands the terms, conditions and significance of this Agreement, and that he is satisfied with the representation he has received from his attorney, and that he has executed this Agreement voluntarily, knowingly and with the advice of counsel.

8. All of the terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This Agreement is the entire Agreement between the parties and incorporates the complete obligation of both parties.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have caused this Agreement to be duly executed as of the day and year first above written.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board contested the Department's determination (resulting from an audit) that petitioner exceeded its authority in purchasing materials for the construction of a sidewalk on property not owned by the school district and in waiving the Borough's obligation to pay contaminated soil removal costs in return for labor which was supplied for such sidewalk construction.

The ALJ found that the legislative scheme permits a school district to improve its own property but not that of the municipality. Therefore, the ALJ found that a school district may not expend public funds to construct a sidewalk improvement on property which is not owned by the board but is municipally-owned in order to jointly develop and construct a recreational field. Thus, the ALJ concluded that there is no statutory authority that would permit the Board to make the sidewalk improvement in question at its expense. The ALJ found no merit to the Board's argument that N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22 and 33-1 may be read in pari materia. Moreover, the ALJ noted that the requirement of "convenience of access" in N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1 was not applicable in this instance. The ALJ affirmed the Department's determination made in a Notice of Determination that the Board exceeded its authority. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in Initial Decision and directed the Department's Division of Finance to recover from the Board all State aid received on the amounts inappropriately disbursed.

Record Closed: November 29, 1999 Decided: January 12, 2000

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In this matter, petitioner contests respondent's determination made in a Notice of Determination dated April 3, 1998 (J-2) and in a prior Special Examination Report (J-1) resulting from a limited scope special audit, to the effect that petitioner exceeded its authority in purchasing materials for the construction of a sidewalk on property not owned by the School District and in waiving the Borough's obligation to pay contaminated soil removal costs in return for labor which was supplied for such sidewalk construction. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on August 10, 1998, for hearing as a contested case. The matter was assigned to the undersigned administrative law judge and scheduled for a telephone prehearing conference to be held on October 14, 1998. On that date, a telephone prehearing conference was held and continued to October 28, 1998.

It should be noted that on August 12, 1998, Thomas J. Fitzgerald sought leave to intervene in this matter, and by letter order dated October 14, 1998, this motion was denied. On motion for interlocutory review, the Commissioner of Education affirmed this denial by order dated October 23, 1998.

Subsequently, a schedule was entered requiring the submission of a motion for summary decision on the part of petitioner and a cross-motion by respondent. Upon receiving these documents from petitioner (P-1, P-2 and P-3) and from respondent (R-1 and R-2), the motion was to have been decided. Because of the press of other matters and through inadvertence, the record with respect to this matter was not closed until November 29, 1999.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

From the motion papers, it does not appear that the essential facts in this matter are disputed. Petitioner submitted two certifications in support of its motion and respondent did not challenge or otherwise dispute the factual assertions set forth in these certifications.

The first certification is that of Gregory S. Rohrman, Business Administrator and Board Secretary of petitioner (Exhibit P-1, Exhibit A). In that certification, Mr. Rohrman states that in April 1995, petitioner and the Borough of Wildwood Crest (Borough) entered into an agreement whereby petitioner agreed to transfer to the Borough unneeded land in return for a parcel of land owned by the Borough. The agreement was entered into so that the petitioner and the Borough might cooperate jointly in constructing a recreational facility upon the land which petitioner received from the Borough. In order to provide "convenience of access" to that recreational facility, petitioner committed to construct a sidewalk within the Borough right of way, along a portion of Newark Avenue and an unimproved path located behind the Borough's Public Works facility and which runs from Newark Avenue to Jefferson Avenue.

Petitioner subsequently discovered that the site of the proposed recreational facility contained contaminated soil which required removal. Therefore, on May 15, 1995, petitioner and the Borough entered into an addendum to their agreement whereby the Borough agreed to contract for the removal of the contaminated soil, petitioner committed to advance to the Borough the entire cost of the soil removal in an amount not to exceed $15,200, and the Borough agreed to reimburse petitioner for one-half of the actual cost of soil removal.

Petitioner then paid over to the Borough $13,440 as the actual cost of soil removal. However, the Borough did not have sufficient funds available to reimburse the petitioner for its share of that cost and as a result, it was agreed that the Borough would provide the labor necessary to construct the sidewalk in lieu of its payment of $6,720 and petitioner agreed to purchase the materials necessary for such construction.

Mr. Rohrman indicates that all actions taken by petitioner with regard to the exchange of land, soil remediation, construction of recreational facility and construction of the sidewalk were previously authorized by formal action or subsequently ratified by resolution of petitioner on September 16, 1997.

In August 1997, respondent conducted a limited scope audit of petitioner and issued a Report of Examination (J-1) which concluded that petitioner's expenditure of $4,166 for payment of the sidewalk construction materials and the waiver of the Borough's obligation to pay petitioner $6,720 as the Borough's share of soil removal costs, in return for the Borough's supply of sidewalk construction labor, were, in each instance, not authorized by N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2. Respondent recommended that petitioner seek reimbursement from the Borough for these costs.

The certification of Rick Anzelone (Exhibit P-1, Exhibit B) indicates that he is President of the Board of Education and has been a member of the Board for the past five years. He indicates that his home is located across the street from the premises on which improvements were made. He also identified an aerial photograph (Exhibit P-2) which accurately shows the current condition of the premises. The photograph has been marked numerically to identify the following features:

1. Residence of Rick Anzelone
2. Borough Public Works facility
3. Recreational Complex including soccer fields, tennis courts, and playground
4. Crest Memorial School which includes an additional athletic field contiguous to the school
5. Bayview Drive
6. Newark Avenue
7. New Jersey Avenue
8. Jefferson Avenue
9. Unimproved path
10. New sidewalk construction along Newark Avenue
11. New sidewalk construction along unimproved path
12. Entrance to soccer field from Newark Avenue

In his certification, Mr. Anzelone described the pattern of both vehicular and pedestrian traffic and indicated that New Jersey Avenue is a major north-south artery which provides access through the Borough northward toward the City of Wildwood and southward toward the bridge to Lower Township, the mainland and the Garden State Parkway. Bayview Drive runs north-south for several blocks, westward of and parallel to New Jersey Avenue and the improved portion thereof stops at its intersection with Newark Avenue. Many motorists travel south on Bayview Drive, turning left onto Newark Avenue and then right onto New Jersey Avenue in order to travel to the southern part of the Borough, to Lower Township and to the mainland. At various times, traffic is heavy on Newark Avenue adjacent to the premises, particularly during the summer season, and vehicles are commonly parked on both sides of Newark Avenue.

Mr. Anzelone indicated in his certification that prior to the construction of the recreational complex and adjacent sidewalks, children would commonly walk south on Bayview Drive to Newark Avenue and then travel east to the school, its athletic field or other local destinations. These children would often walk on the sidewalk on the north side of Newark Avenue and then cross at mid-block to the south side where the sidewalk then began or, alternatively, they would cross at the intersection onto the south side of Newark Avenue, walking west within the street between parked cars until they reached the point where the sidewalk began. He asserts that either path for pedestrian traffic was unsafe, placing these children in conflict both with traffic as well as with vehicles accessing the Public Works facility.

Mr. Anzelone further indicated that neighborhood children have also commonly made use of the unimproved path to travel north from its intersection with Jefferson Avenue in order to reach Newark Avenue.

Mr. Anzelone indicated that petitioner determined that it should provide safe and convenient access to children using these routes by extending the existing sidewalk on the south side of Newark Avenue westward for about one-third of the block to the intersection with the terminus of the improved portion of Bayview Drive to the north and the unimproved path to the south and, from there, to continue the sidewalk southward along the unimproved path so as to provide safe and convenient access to children traveling to and from the soccer field along that route.

Mr. Anzelone indicated that petitioner's decision to extend the sidewalk was made for the safety and convenience of both petitioner's students and staff and the general public which would be attracted to the new recreational complex. Petitioner was intent upon providing a recreational complex for school children and the community and, in doing so, it chose to undertake a joint project with the Borough and to commit its resources for sidewalk construction to the extent that Borough resources were unavailable for that improvement. He asserts that having made the decision to provide a recreational complex, it was incumbent upon petitioner to provide "convenience of access" to it.

It is undisputed that by a Report of Examination forwarded to petitioner on August 28, 1997 (Exhibit J-1), the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Compliance made the following findings:

> 1. The Wildwood Crest Board of Education expended $4,166 to construct a sidewalk on property owned by the Borough of Wildwood Crest. This action is not authorized by the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:20-4.2.
>
> 2. The cooperative construction project of the sidewalk undertaken by the Board of Education and the Borough was not specified in writing, not disclosed in the board minutes, and not authorized by the Board of Education.
> 3. The Board of Education did not comply with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:19-1 through -4, by paying $13,440 to the Borough for soil removal before the work was performed.

Petitioner appealed the recommendations of the special examination report and by letter dated April 3, 1998 (Exhibit J-2), Thomas J. King, Director, Office of Compliance provided a "Notice of Determination" of this appeal upholding two of the findings and recommendations and amending one of the findings and recommendations of the special examination report. In essence, Mr. King upheld recommendation number one concluding that the Board was unable to prove that construction of a sidewalk surrounding a municipal garage, and other non-school property not related to educational or recreational facilities, was necessary for the Board of Education to comply with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1. Furthermore, Mr. King concluded that the Board failed to demonstrate that the sidewalk construction was related to "joint acquisition, improving, equipping. . . playgrounds, play fields, etc." with the municipality as referenced in N.J.S.A. 18A:20-2. It was indicated that a review of the site plan of the area in question showed that the sidewalk did not provide "convenient access to the site" and that sidewalks previously constructed on the Board-owned recreational site already provided the required access". Mr. King concluded that the responsibility of providing this sidewalk was the municipality's and upheld recommendation number one.

Mr. King also upheld recommendation number two requiring the Board of Education to obtain a refund from the Borough in the amount of $6,720 for the Borough's share of soil removal. He concluded that the Board failed to demonstrate how the amount of $6,720 owed by the Borough to the Board was satisfied by the labor valued at $4,166 associated with a municipal sidewalk, as this should have been paid for solely by the municipality at the outset. The cost of the sidewalk was the sole responsibility of the Borough, and the special examination report finding in recommendation number two was upheld.

With respect to recommendation number three, because the Board represented to the Department that the payment at issue was made pursuant to a contract and that the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:19-1 through -4, were not violated, it was not necessary for the Board to act on recommendation number three.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

This case may be distilled into two separate issues as follows:

1. Whether the Department of Education, Office of Compliance, has the legal authority to conduct the limited scope special examination that is the subject of this petition?

2. Whether a board of education may expend public funds to construct a sidewalk improvement on property which is not owned by the board but is municipally-owned in connection with a joint effort with the municipality in which the district is located to develop and construct a recreation field?

I will first consider whether the Office of Compliance has the authority to conduct the limited scope special examination audit. The position of petitioner is that in the absence of rulemaking by the State Board of Education, the Commissioner may not lawfully conduct the audit which resulted in the issuance of the recommendations in dispute in this matter. Petitioner relies on N.J.S.A. 18A:4-24 which provides that the Commissioner shall, pursuant to rules and regulations of the State Board, inquire into and ascertain the thoroughness and efficiency of operations of any of the schools of the public school system of the State. Petitioner also relies on N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-10 which provides that the Commissioner, with the approval of the State Board, shall develop and administer a uniform, statewide system for evaluating the performance of each school. Petitioner also relies on N.J.S.A. 18A:4-32, -34D and -35B wherein the Commissioner is authorized to assign duties to assistant commissioners which include the supervision of business and financial matters and the inspection of accounts.

Petitioner relies on regulations adopted by the State Board under N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-10 as establishing the authority for the Commissioner to become involved with supervision of the operations of a school district. In effect, petitioner argues that nowhere in the State Board regulations is there any authority for the Commissioner to conduct the audit undertaken by respondent herein, petitioner being currently certified and therefore not subject to monitoring. The petitioner argues that in the absence of an administrative rule, the Commissioner has no general statutory authority to supervise local districts and does not have the discretionary power to do so in the absence of delegated authority under the State Board rules.

Petitioner further argues that even if the Commissioner has been granted the authority to conduct the audit in this matter he has not lawfully delegated that authority to respondent. Petitioner relies on N.J.A.C. 6:8-5A-5(b) in support of its contention that since the State Board has specified the duties of the Office of Compliance, the Commissioner cannot assign additional duties without State Board authorization or it would amount to de facto rulemaking in violation of the Administrative Procedure Act.

Respondent relies on the decision in Bd. of Educ. of the Township of Middle, Cape May County v. New Jersey State Dept. of Educ., Office of Compliance, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 10755-96. In that matter, the administrative law judge relied on N.J.S.A. 18A:4-35 and concluded that the Commissioner's authority to conduct an inspection audit of the Board's business and financial accounts is sufficiently provided for under the present statutory scheme. Respondent also relies on Pinelands Learning Center, Inc. v. State Board of Educ. of New Jersey, App. Div. Dkt. No. A-003555-94T1 (June 14, 1996). In that case, it was emphasized that the Department of Education is responsible for assuring the fiscal and operational integrity of private schools supported in whole or in part by public monies. Thus, respondent indicates that it is the responsibility of the Commissioner to assure the proper use of public funds.

N.J.S.A. 18A:4-35 provides as follows:

> The commissioner may assign an assistant commissioner or, subject to approval of the state board, may appoint and fix the compensation of directors, inspectors and assistants to act as secretary of the state board of examiners and to act in connection with the issuance of qualifying academic certificates and, so far as they relate to the public school system of the state, to perform one or more of the following services:
>
> a. Inspection of buildings;
> b. Inspection of accounts;
> c. Research;
> d. Supervision of health education;
> e. Supervision of adult education;
> f. Supervision of special classes for subnormal, blind, deaf, and physically handicapped children; and > g. Such other special services as the state board may deem necessary.

The foregoing language of the statute clearly authorizes the Commissioner to delegate and assign the responsibility for the inspection of the accounts of a public school system of the state to an assistant commissioner or to the directors, inspectors and assistants of the Department of Education, which would include the Office of Compliance. As indicated in the Middle Township case, in the performance of its duties, the Office of Compliance relied, in part, upon the Board fulfilling its statutory obligations under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4, which requires the Board to file with the Commissioner a report of its expenses and/or finances on or before August 1 of each year. Therefore, this provision grants to the Commissioner the authority to appoint and delegate to the Office of Compliance the ability to inspect the Board's fiscal accounts, and this authorization is sufficiently clear based on N.J.S.A. 18A:4-35 so as to preclude the necessity for rulemaking.

I next turn to the question whether the Board of Education may expend public funds to construct a sidewalk improvement on property not owned by the School District, but which is municipally owned, in connection with a joint effort with the municipality to develop and construct a recreation field?

With respect to this issue, petitioner acknowledges that the sidewalk improvement is not located on land owned by the School District but is within the Borough right of way. Petitioner relies on N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1 which requires each school district to provide suitable educational facilities for all children who reside in the district including proper school buildings and furniture and equipment and convenience of access thereto. Petitioner argues that the recreational complex developed jointly by petitioner and the Borough constitutes an "education facility," that Board construction of playgrounds and recreation places is authorized by N.J.S.A. 18A:20-17, and that the courts of this state have recognized that educational and recreational purposes and functions are interrelated and mutually contributory. Township of Winslow v. Board of Ed. of Camden, 108 N.J. Super. 215, 219 (App. Div. 1970).

Petitioner argues that the phrase "convenience of access thereto" should be given its ordinary meaning, citing Matter of Schedule of Rates for Barnett Memorial Hosp., 92 N.J. 31 (1983). Petitioner asserts that this necessarily encompasses Board arrangements for such access beyond the geographic confines of the educational facility. It asserts that the term "convenience of access thereto" would be superfluous unless the Legislature intended to extend the authority of the Board for improvements for "convenience of access" beyond the geographic limits of the educational facility. Petitioner also argues that if the respondent's interpretation of N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1 were upheld, a board which constructs a new school on its land surrounded by a municipal right of way would be prevented from using board funds to construct a sidewalk along that right of way. In such a case, the board would be dependent upon the use of municipal funds for sidewalk construction or the board would be left to construct a sidewalk on its own land. It argues that a far preferable alternative would be the allowance of the board's construction of the sidewalk along the public right of way such as authorized by the Municipal Land Use Act, N.J.S.A. 40:55D-42.

Petitioner acknowledges that there are limits to the authority of the Board, that these limits have been recognized, and that in cases where school children reside within walking distance of schools, administrative decisions have denied relief for free transportation and have uniformly held that boards are not restricted to improved routes in the calculation of the two-mile distance. Petitioner refers to a series of cases which indicate that a board does not have authority to construct sidewalks, but argues that those decisions confronted radically different legal and factual settings than the present matter. Petitioner argues that there is a distinction between "authority" and an "obligation" to exercise that authority, and petitioner argues that it has the authority to expend the funds to construct the sidewalk along the Borough right of way for "convenience of access" to the new recreational complex even though it may not have an obligation to do so.

Petitioner also relies on N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22 which broadly provides the statutory authorization permitting boards and municipalities to join together for the purpose of "acquiring, improving, operating and maintaining playgrounds, playfields,..." and similar recreational facilities.

The position of respondent is that there is no statutory authority that would permit the Board to make this sidewalk improvement at its expense. It points out that a school board is a creation of the State and is capable of exercising only those powers of government granted to it by the Legislature, citing Bd. of Educ. of Town of Belvidere v. Bosco, 138 N.J. Super. 368 (Law Div. 1975). It asserts that the legislative scheme permits a board of education to improve its own property but not that of the municipality.

Respondent argues that N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22 permits school districts to join municipalities in equipping, maintaining and operating recreational facilities as well as acquiring such facilities. However, the statute is concerned only with recreational sites.

Respondent also argues that N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1 is directed solely to education matters and that the requirement of "convenience of access" was held to require that school districts transport children who live remote from the school district, citing Bd. of Ed. of the Tp. of West Amwell v. State Board of Education, 5 N.J. Misc. 152 (Sup. Ct. 1927); accord, West Morris Regional Bd. of Ed. v. Sills, 58 N.J. 464 (1971); Bd. of Ed. of Borough of Woodbury Heights v. Gateway Regional High School, 104 N.J. Super. 76 (Law Div. 1968). Respondent argues that the term "convenience of access" does not authorize creating a sidewalk on municipal property next to a recreational facility.

Finally, respondent argues that N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22 and N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1 should not be read in para materia because they do not pertain to the same subject matter, citing Williams v. Bd. of Ed. of Deptford Tp., Gloucester County, 192 N.J. Super. 31 (App. Div. 1983).

It has been clearly established that a school district is not the governmental entity upon which the obligation falls to provide safe travel for school children. Nichols v. Wayne Bd. of Educ., 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 1957, aff'd, App. Div. Dkt. No. A-3525-93T5 (March 3, 1995). In the Nichols case, the court held that it is not suggested that a local school district has any obligation whatsoever to enforce traffic laws or to provide sidewalks, traffic lights, crossing guards, police patrols, overpasses, etc., to meet the requirements of safe travel for school children. Its obligation is limited to providing transportation to school children who live remote from the school district in order to comply with the requirement of "convenience of access" to "suitable educational facilities including proper school buildings" as specified by N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1. Bd. of Ed. of the Tp. of West Amwell v. State Board of Education, 5 N.J. Misc. 152 (Sup. Ct. 1927); accord, West Morris Regional Bd. of Ed. v. Sills, 58 N.J. 464 (1971); Bd. of Ed. of Borough of Woodbury Heights v. Gateway Regional High School, 104 N.J. Super. 76 (Law Div. 1968).

If there is no obligation or responsibility on the part of a school district to make these expenditures to enforce traffic laws or to provide sidewalks, traffic lights, crossing guards, police patrols, overpasses or the like, there clearly is also no authority to do so. In this regard, I agree with the position of respondent that the school district only has limited powers. A school district is a creation of the State and is capable of exercising only those powers of government granted to it by the Legislature. Bd. of Educ. of Town of Belvidere v. Bosco, 138 N.J. Super. 368 (Law Div. 1975).

I disagree with the petitioner's reliance on N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22 and N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1 as the authority for the construction of the sidewalk in question. N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22 permits school districts to join municipalities in equipping, maintaining and operating recreational facilities as well as acquiring such facilities. A close reading of N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22 makes it clear that it merely authorizes a board of education and the governing body of any municipality in which the district is located to join together in acquiring and developing recreational facilities. However, this provision is concerned only with recreational facilities and has no applicability to educational facilities. There is nothing in the language of N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22 which has the effect of causing such a recreational facility to become an educational facility within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1 so as to require a school district to provide for convenience of access thereto.

N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22 and N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1 should not be read in para materia because they do not pertain to the same subject matter. Williams v. Bd. of Ed. of Deptford Tp., Gloucester County, 192 N.J. Super. 31 (App. Div. 1983). N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1 deals solely with educational facilities including school buildings, and the requirement for "convenience of access" does not authorize the construction of a sidewalk on municipal property to provide convenience of access to a recreational facility, even if it is under the partial ownership of the school district.

Finally, I agree with respondent that an unauthorized act is not entitled to deference because only legitimate board actions are so entitled to such deference.

Based on the foregoing, I FIND that the legislative scheme permits a school district to improve its own property but not that of the municipality. Therefore, I FIND that a school district board of education may not expend public funds to construct a sidewalk improvement on property which is not owned by the board but is municipally-owned in connection with a joint effort with the municipality in which the district is located to develop and construct a recreation field. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that there is no statutory authority that would permit the School District of the Borough of Wildwood Crest, Cape May County, to make the sidewalk improvement in question at its expense.

After reaching the foregoing conclusions with respect to the motion in this matter, I reviewed the pleadings in order to determine if there are any other outstanding issues which are required to be addressed by way of hearing or further motion. In the petition of appeal, petitioner asserts that respondent's actions, as contained within its Notice of Determination, are in error because: a) respondent lacks the legal authority to conduct the limited scope special examination which resulted in its Notice of Determination; b) respondent was incorrect in its interpretation of New Jersey school law relevant to the circumstances which were the subject of its Notice of Determination; c) respondent incorrectly applied New Jersey School Law to the circumstances which were the subject of its Notice of Determination; d) respondent abused its discretion in not considering the factual basis for petitioner's decision to construct the sidewalk in order to fulfill its obligation to provide "convenience of access" to petitioner's recreational complex; and e) respondent's decision is not supported by substantial evidence and constitutes an abuse of agency discretion since respondent has chosen to substitute its judgment for the judgment of petitioner. Accordingly, petitioner sought a judgment determining that the orders of respondent as contained within its Notice of Determination are invalid under New Jersey School Law and are not enforceable by respondent against petitioner.

By reaching the conclusions and determinations which I have made herein, I have concluded that there is no merit to petitioner's contention relative to the foregoing. Accordingly, I FIND that by this decision, all matters in dispute between the parties have been adjudicated and determined. and here are no further matters in controversy between the parties. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that this determination shall be issued as an Initial Decision recommending that the Commissioner of the Department of Education issue a final administrative determination with respect to petitioner's petition of appeal.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based on the foregoing it is hereby ORDERED that respondent's determination made in a Notice of Determination dated April 3, 1998, to the effect that petitioner exceeded its authority in a sidewalk on property not owned by the school district and in waiving the Borough's obligation to pay contaminated soil removal costs in return for labor which was supplied for such sidewalk construction, is hereby AFFIRMED and petitioner's appeal is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF WILDWOOD CREST, CAPE MAY COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF COMPLIANCE,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Both petitioner's exceptions and respondent's reply thereto were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in rendering his decision herein.

Petitioner's exceptions express concurrence with the factual findings of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), but disagree with his conclusions of law, arguing that the ALJ erred in his interpretation that N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22 and N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1 are distinct statutes with separate objects, rather than interpreting the two statutes in pari materia. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 3)

Petitioner proposes that consideration of N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22 and N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1 in para materia would effect a different conclusion of law as follows:

> 1. N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22 authorizes a board of education to join with the governing body of municipality in which the school district is located for the purpose of acquiring land and developing recreational facilities.
> 2. Facilities so developed may constitute recreational facilities or they may constitute educational facilities and school facilities within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1, depending on the > purpose of the construction and the use to which the facilities are put.

> 3. N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22 and 18A:33-1 may be read in para materia.
> 4. The field in question here, developed jointly with the Borough of Wildwood Crest pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22, is an educational facility.
> 5. The sidewalk in question here was constructed to provide "convenience of access" to that educational facility within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1.
> 6. Petitioner was, therefore, authorized to spend money on the joint development of the sidewalk with the Borough of Wildwood Crest. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 4)

Petitioner further argues that the ALJ's interpretation of N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22 is a "narrowly restrictive interpretation" in that it permits the joint development of recreational facilities, but does not take into consideration the involvement of a board of education as developer in determining that facilities jointly developed under N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22 are not also educational facilities. Petitioner maintains that Winslow Twp. v. Camden Board of Ed., 108 N.J. Super. 215, 219 (App. Div. 1970) mandates that N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22 be interpreted liberally, so that the nature of the developed property is determined by the purpose of development of the property and its use. (Id. at 5, 6) Because Wildwood Crest students make use of the jointly developed facility both for recreational purposes and for physical education classes[1], petitioner contends, *N.J.S.A.*18A:33-1 obligates the school district to provide "convenience of access" to the facility in question, and therefore grants it the authority to financially contribute to sidewalk construction in this instance. (Id. at 7)

Additionally, petitioner argues that under the ALJ's assessment, if the jointly developed facility is solely recreational, then the land exchange entered into by petitioner and the Borough of Wildwood Crest would be invalid under N.J.S.A. 18A:20-8, which permits boards of education to exchange lands for school purposes. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 8)

[1] Although petitioner's exceptions reference the school district's use of the jointly developed recreational facility for physical education classes, the record below contains no such reference.

Finally, petitioner reiterates its argument that respondent did not have the authority, absent rulemaking by the State Board, to conduct the limited scope special examination at issue herein. (Id. at 10)

In its reply, respondent counters that there is nothing in the record below to indicate that petitioner holds physical education classes at the jointly developed site as petitioner now contends in its exceptions, and that petitioner should therefore be precluded from relying on facts that are not part of the record. Respondent further avers that "[t]he site was developed jointly by the Board and the municipality pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22, which governs purchase and development of recreational sites only." (Respondent's Reply Exceptions at 2)

Respondent argues that petitioner's reliance on Winslow, supra, is misplaced and that petitioner's "[f]inancial contribution to the acquisition does not transform a municipal property into an educational facility." In regard to the exchange of land pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:20-8, respondent contends that petitioner's receipt of the land at issue did not convert the land acquired into an educational facility, but rather, petitioner donated the property it had received in the exchange to the joint acquisition. (Id. at 3)

Petitioner's argument with respect to its obligation to provide "convenience of access" is flawed, respondent reasons, because "access" has clearly been held to refer to remoteness of property within the district for purposes of pupil transportation, not ease of entry as petitioner claims. Board of Education of the Township of West Amwell v. State Board of Education, S.N.J. Misc. 152 (Sup Ct. 1927) (Ibid.) "[I]t is also settled law that a school district has no obligation regarding the safety of the route on which children travel to school. Nichols v. Wayne Board of Education, App. Div. Docket No. A-3525-93T5 (March 3, 1995), 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 157. Moreover, the new recreation facility was already accessible by sidewalk at the time the Board elected to construct the new sidewalk at issue." (Respondent's Reply Exceptions at 3-4)

Finally, respondent concurs with the ALJ's finding that respondent had the authority to conduct the limited scope special audit.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Initial Decision, the exceptions and the reply thereto filed in this matter, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Initial Decision.

Initially, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that N.J.S.A. 18A:4-35 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4 grant the Commissioner both the responsibility and the authority to assure the fiscal integrity of school districts and the proper use of public funds, including the authority to delegate inspection of the fiscal accounts of boards of education to the Office of Compliance. (Initial Decision at 9)

Additionally, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ for the reasons expressed in the Initial Decision that the joint facility at issue is a recreational facility. The Commissioner disagrees with petitioner's argument that the school district's involvement in joint ownership of a recreational facility, in itself, renders that facility an educational facility. Although petitioner asserts that Winslow Twp., supra, mandates that N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22 be interpreted liberally, so that the nature of the developed property is determined by the purpose of the development and the property's use (Petitioner's Exceptions at 5- 6), petitioner acknowledges in its Petition of Appeal that the purpose of its joint project with the municipality was to construct and maintain a recreational facility.

> [i]n the exercise of its powers, including those found in N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22 and 18A:33-1, in 1995, Petitioner acquired certain land within the Borough of Wildwood Crest (the "Borough"), known as Blocks 184 and 185 on the Borough Tax Map, and Petitioner then joined with the Borough in developing certain plans to improve that land for the purpose of constructing and maintaining thereon a recreational complex (the "Recreational Complex"). (emphasis added) (Petition of Appeal at 2)

Like the ALJ, the Commissioner finds no merit to petitioner's argument that N.J.S.A. 18A:20-22 and 18A:33-1 may be read in pari materia. The statutes do not pertain to the same subject matter. The Commissioner also agrees that the requirement of "convenience of access" in N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1 is not applicable in this instance. There is no statutory authority which would enable a school district to expend school funds to make sidewalk improvements, as in this case to municipal property surrounding a municipal garage and other nonschool property, so as to provide convenient access to a recreational facility, notwithstanding that the property is partially owned by the district.

The Commissioner therefore adopts the decision of the ALJ finding that petitioner exceeded its authority in constructing a sidewalk on property owned by the municipality and in waiving the municipality's responsibility to pay contaminated soil removal costs in return for labor provided by the municipality. In so doing, the Commissioner directs the Department's Division of Finance to recover from petitioner all State aid received on the amounts inappropriately disbursed.[2]

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board, a constituent member of a limited purpose (9-12) regional school district, requested that the Commissioner construe the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 and determine that no school district which is a constituent of a regional school district shall be required to provide transportation or pay the costs of transporting nonpublic school students where the only transportation presently provided by said constituent district is for pupils transported pursuant to Chapter 46 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes or to a vocational, technical or other public school offering a specialized program.

Having reviewed the applicable statutory provision, interpretive case law and the parties' arguments, the Commissioner found that, on its face, the statute places an obligation on regional school districts to transport all students living within the bounds of the regional district to remote nonpublic schools, if any student within the regional district is so transported, with the cost of transporting pupils below the grade level for which the regional district is organized to be borne by the constituent members of the regional district on a prorated per pupil basis. Even though the petitioning constituent district does not transport its own K-8 students, nor do any of its resident students require remote transportation to the regional high school, in the context of the present inquiry, "the practices or circumstances of the constituent district are superseded by those of a larger geographical entity – the regional organization." (Northern Valley Regional citing Woodbury Heights) Commissioner concluded that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, petitioner is obligated to pay Rancocas Valley Regional High School District its pro rata share of costs incurred for transportation services to eligible nonpublic school students below grade 9 who reside in petitioner's school district.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MOUNT HOLLY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:
	:

For Petitioner, Frank P. Cavallo, Jr., Esq. (Parker, McCay & Criscuolo)

For Respondent, Arlene Goldfus Lutz, DAG

This matter comes before the Commissioner of Education by way of a Petition of Appeal for Declaratory Ruling, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-2.1, filed by petitioner, Board of Education of the Township of Mount Holly, on April 13, 1999. Petitioner requests that the Commissioner construe the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 and determine that no school district which is a constituent of a regional school district shall be required to provide transportation or pay for the costs of transporting nonpublic school students where the only transportation presently provided by said constituent district is for school children transported pursuant to Chapter 46 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes or to a vocational, technical or other public school offering a specialized program.

Respondent, New Jersey State Department of Education, filed its Answer on May 13, 1999. On May 14, 1999, the parties were notified that the Commissioner had determined to entertain petitioner's Declaratory Ruling request. Petitioner was directed to submit a memorandum of law in support of its position, and respondent was accorded an opportunity to submit a reply to petitioner's filing.

BACKGROUND

Petitioner's submission reports that it operates a K-8 public school district, and it avers that all of the students attending these schools walk to their respective school buildings from home. Prior to 1995, courtesy busing was provided to nonpublic school students who were residents of Mount Holly, but this service was eliminated in late 1995. Petitioner further reports that it sends its pupils in grades 9-12 to Rancocas Valley Regional High School, which also educates pupils from Eastampton, Westampton, Hainesport and Lumberton. All of petitioner's pupils at Rancocas Valley Regional walk to school, and no busing is provided for any Mount Holly student to attend this school. It advises that the Rancocas Valley Regional High School District does, however, provide transportation, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 et seq., to public and nonpublic school students from the other constituent districts who reside remote from their schools of attendance. (Petition for Declaratory Judgment at pp. 1-2)

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

Petitioner advances that this matter was precipitated by a letter received from Dr. John Sherry, Assistant Commissioner, Division of Field Services, on December 11, 1998, dealing with transportation for nonpublic school students, wherein he stated:

> Based upon [N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1] when any eligible nonpublic school student, who lives within a school district that is a constituent of a regional school district, receives transportation services from the regional district, all eligible nonpublic students living within any of the regional's constituent districts must receive those same services. (Petitioner's Memorandum of Law at p. 1)

Petitioner argues that this interpretation of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 is incorrect in that it specifically ignores the express terms of this statute. Petitioner advances that N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 in pertinent part provides as follows:

> Whenever any regional school district provides any transportation for pupils attending schools other than public schools pursuant to this section, said regional district shall assume responsibility for the transportation for all such pupils and the costs of such transportation for pupils below the grade level for which the regional district was organized shall be prorated by the regional district among the constituent districts on a per pupil basis, after approval of such costs by the county superintendent. This section shall not require school districts to provide any transportation for pupils attending a school other than a public school, where the only transportation presently provided by said district is for school children transported pursuant to chapter 46 of title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes or to a vocational, technical or other public school offering a specialized program (Emphasis added). (Petitioner's Memorandum of Law at p. 3)

In interpreting this statute, petitioner advances, prescribed rules of statutory construction must be followed. Petitioner cites New Jersey Supreme Court cases for the propositions that "[a] statute should be read as a whole and not in separate sections"; "every requirement of the act must have the full effect the language imports unless such interpretation of the words will lead to great inconvenience or subversion of some important object of the act or would lead to an absurdity"; and "there is a presumption that the word 'shall' is used in an imperative and not directory sense." (Petitioner's Memorandum of Law at p. 4) (citations omitted) When considering these precepts and the fact that the statute is clear on its face, petitioner contends, only one interpretation can reasonably be made, that is, "a constituent school district of a regional school district not providing any transportation cannot be compelled to provide transportation to non-public pupils merely because the regional district transports pupils from another constituent school district." (Id. at p. 5) Petitioner states that the contrary interpretation espoused by

Assistant Commissioner Sherry is "in derogation of the clear statements of the Legislature," and would require a legislative modification of the statute. (Id.) Petitioner contends that, since its original adoption in 1967, the Legislature has made a number of amendments to this provision, but the above-referenced highlighted language has remained unaltered. Additionally, it posits, although there is case law interpreting the "validity" of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, Board of Education of Woodbury Heights v. Gateway Regional H.S., 104 N.J. Super. 76 (Law Div. 1968) and Board of Education of Northern Valley Regional High School District v. Boards of Education of Old Tappan and Northvale, 1971 S.L.D. 6, neither of these cases ever "specifically addressed the interplay between the portion of the statute requiring the regional district to provide the transportation and the highlighted portion of the statute which state[s] that no school district will be compelled to provide transportation to non-public school pupils," and, therefore, this "significant issue" and the resultant effect for petitioner and similarly situated districts must be resolved. (Id. at pp. 3-4)

In reply, respondent argues that the law is settled "that N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 requires all constituent members of a regional school district to provide transportation to nonpublic schools if the regional school provides such transportation, notwithstanding that the board of education may not provide transportation to its own residents." (Respondent's Reply Memorandum of Law at p. 1) It observes that the court in Woodbury Heights, supra, dealing with a district with "identical circumstances" as those existing in this matter, extensively reviewed and analyzed the legislation and case law construing this transportation dictate. Viewing the regional district as a single entity, it cited that portion of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 which states:

> Whenever any regional school district provides any transportation for pupils attending schools other than public schools pursuant to > this section, said regional district shall assume responsibility for the transportation of all such pupils, and the cost of such transportation for pupils below the grade level for which the regional district was organized shall be prorated by the regional district among the constituent districts on a per pupil basis, after approval of such costs by the county superintendent, and concluded that if the regional district transported any students residing in the district it was required to transport all qualified students residing in the district. Transportation policies of the individual constituent districts were of no moment in this determination, since the court found the policy of the regional school district controlling. (Respondent's Reply Memorandum of Law at p. 3) Likewise, respondent observes, the court in Northern Valley Regional, supra, also noted that, pursuant to Woodbury, "it is apparent that a child acquires the right to transportation to a private school by virtue of residence in the total area of the regional school, if any student within the regional school is transported to private school." (Id.)

Respondent further avers that petitioner's reliance on that portion of the statute which specifies that school districts are not required to provide transportation for nonpublic school students if they presently provide such transportation only for special education students or vocational, technical or specialized program students, is misplaced. (Id. at p. 4) What petitioner fails to recognize, it advances, is that the "district" referred to in this portion of the statute, in cases such as the one existing here, does not refer to individual constituent districts comprising a regional district, but to the regional district itself. Obviously, pursuant to this provision, it posits, if Rancocas did not provide remote transportation to any public students in the district, it would have no obligation to transport nonpublic school students. (Id.) Since this is, admittedly, not the case in the present matter, N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 mandates that Rancocas provide transportation for all nonpublic school students residing within the district and compels petitioner to pay its pro rata cost of transporting such students. (Id. at p. 5)

DETERMINATION

The Commissioner has reviewed the applicable statutory provision, interpretative case law, and the arguments advanced by the parties in this matter. Upon such review, the Commissioner finds and determines, notwithstanding petitioner's assertions to the contrary, that pursuant to the clear language of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, and the holdings of Woodbury Heights, supra, and Northern Valley, supra, which interpreted this statute in light of a situation analogous to that of petitioner, the law in this area is settled. On its face, the statute places an obligation on a regional school district to transport all students living within the bounds of the regional district to remote nonpublic schools, if any student within the regional district is so transported pursuant to law. The statute also unmistakably directs that the expense incurred by a regional district in providing for transportation of students below the grade level of the regional district is to be borne by the constituent districts comprising the regional district, prorated on a per pupil basis. Consequently, as a constituent member of a regional district which is required by law to transport nonpublic school students, petitioner is indisputably responsible for payment of that share of the regional district's transportation costs associated with those pupils attending nonpublic schools below grade 9 who reside in petitioner's local district. The question of whether petitioner's obligation is altered because petitioner itself, as a local district, does not transport remote public students, or because none of petitioner's 9-12 students require remote transportation to the regional high school, has been addressed and resolved in case law. As was clearly stated in Northern Valley Regional, supra, in reviewing the court's holding in Woodbury Heights, supra:

> [I]t is apparent that a child acquires the right to transportation to a private school pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, supra, by virtue of residence in the total area of the regional district, if any student within the regional district is transported to private schools. It matters not whether a constituent district of the regional district transports students to public schools or whether it doesn't. The > practices or circumstances of the constituent district are superseded by those of a larger geographical entity – the regional organization. (emphasis added) (1971 S.L.D. at 9)

The responsibilities of petitioner, in its capacity as a constituent member of a regional district which provides student transportation, are explicitly established by N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1. The Commissioner cannot concur with petitioner's contention that one sentence in that statute, inapplicable to local constituent districts within the overall context of the law, acts to obviate or limit petitioner's clearly established obligation to the regional district.

Accordingly, the Commissioner concludes that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, petitioner is obligated to pay Rancocas Valley Regional High School District its pro rata share of costs incurred for providing transportation services to eligible nonpublic school students below grade 9 who reside within petitioner's school district.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Winfield Board sought termination of its sending-receiving relationship with respondent Rahway Board to send its secondary students to David Brearley High School located in the Borough of Kenilworth's District.

The ALJ concluded that it was uncontested that severance would not have a substantial negative financial impact. He further found that severance would not have a negative impact on educational quality or the racial composition of the affected districts and ordered that Winfield is authorized to terminate its existing sending-receiving relationship with Rahway and to enter into a new sending-receiving relationship with Kenilworth for a minimum duration of five years.

The Commissioner affirmed the conclusion of the ALJ that termination of the sending-receiving relationship between Winfield and Rahway will not result in any substantial negative financial, educational or racial impact and, therefore, determined that severance must be granted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13. In so determining, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that it is uncontested in the record that severance of the sending-receiving relationship would have no substantial financial impact. Similarly, the Commissioner was persuaded, for the reasons outlined by the ALJ in his decision, that the requested severance will not have a substantial negative impact on educational quality for either Rahway or Winfield students, nor result in a negative racial impact. As such, the Commissioner granted the requested severance, subject to Winfield's entering into a new sending-receiving relationship with Kenilworth for a minimum duration of five years. Withdrawal shall be phased out over a four-year period, beginning with the incoming 9th grade class in September 2000.

Record Closed: December 3, 1999 Decided: January 18, 2000

BEFORE THOMAS R. VENA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This action was brought by petition filed on June 20, 1998, pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13, which require that any school district that lacks high school facilities and seeks a change in the high school designated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-11 do so only upon application made to and approval by the Commissioner of Education. Petitioner, Board of Education of the Township of Winfield, Union County, (hereinafter "Winfield") does not have high school facilities and seeks to sever the N.J.S.A. 18A:38-11 relationship (commonly known as a "send-receive relationship") it has with respondent, Board of Education of the City of Rahway, Union County, (hereinafter "Rahway") pursuant to which it has sent its high school students to Rahway High School for approximately forty years, and enter into such a relationship with the Board of Education of the Borough of Kenilworth, Union County, (hereinafter "Kenilworth") whereby it would send its high school students to David Brearley High School in Kenilworth (hereinafter "Brearley"). Rahway opposes the severance and filed its Answer on July 16, 1998. On July 27, 1998, the matter was transmitted as a contested case by the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A pre-hearing conference pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-13.1 et seq. was held on December 16, 1998, and a discovery schedule was established with a second pre-hearing conference scheduled for March 23, 1999. Plenary hearing dates in June 1999 were set and the issues to be resolved were described as follows:

> Whether good and sufficient reasons exist for termination of the sending-relationship between Winfield and Rahway, based upon a consideration of all the circumstances, including the educational and financial implications for the districts, the impact on the quality of education received by pupils and the effect on the racial composition of the pupil populations of the districts.
> Whether such termination would have a substantial negative impact on the Rahway district's (a) quality of education; (b) financial condition or (c) racial composition.

The second pre-hearing conference was held on March 23, 1999, and certain discovery issues were resolved via amended pre-hearing orders dated April 15, 1999, and May 7, 1999.

The hearing was conducted on June 17 and 18, July 16 and 21, and August 19, 1999, at which time the parties presented documents and questioned witnesses. Winfield presented three witnesses: (1) Dr. Robert Savitt of Guidelines, Inc., Winfield's expert in the area of assessing the viability of severing send-receive relationships; (2) Vincent Yaniro of Guidelines, Inc., Winfield's expert in the area of public school finance; and (3) Dr. Lloyd Leschuk, superintendent of Kenilworth Public Schools. Winfield also presented the following documents that were entered into evidence in this matter:

Exhibit P-1 – Résumé of Vincent D. Yaniro;

Exhibit P-2 – A Study of the Feasibility of Withdrawing Winfield Township Pupils from Rahway High School;

Exhibit P-3 – Update: A Study of the Feasibility of Withdrawing Winfield Township Pupils From Rahway High School;

Rahway offered one witness, expert Dr. Judith A. Ferguson, and offered the following documents:

Exhibit R-1 – Expert's Report;

Exhibit R-2 – Map of Union County;[1]

Exhibit R-3 – March 18, 1999, memorandum from Adam E. Drapczuk to Dr. Savitt;

At the conclusion of testimony on August 19, 1999, Winfield was offered the opportunity to submit affidavits identifying or clarifying minority group membership of Winfield students attending Rahway High School as of October 15, 1998. Three parental affidavits were supplied and were not challenged by Rahway.

Upon receipt of post-hearing briefs on December 3, 1999, the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Background Characteristics of Rahway, Winfield and Kenilworth and Their Public Schools

Rahway is a city near Winfield Township in the southern part of Union County. It is a diverse community covering approximately 4.1 square miles whose population includes (according to the 1990 census) 19,092 whites (75.4%), 5,119 African-Americans (20.2%), 38 Native Americans (.15%), 606 Asians (2.4%) and 470 others (1.86%). It has four elementary schools (pre-K through grade five), one intermediate school (grades six through eight) and Rahway High School (grades nine through twelve) to serve 3,721 school-age children. The city has various businesses and industries and is home to the manufacturing operations of international pharmaceutical giant Merck. Merck has been a corporate benefactor of the school district, and Rahway's high school lists such nationally known graduates as former CEO of Merck P. Ray Vagelos, M.D., the late astronomer Carl Sagan, professional musician Warren Vache, Jr., Nobel prize winning economist Milton Friedman and Harvard University psychologist Jerome Kagen.

Winfield Township's history dates back to August 1, 1941, when it was incorporated from land annexed from Linden, Cranford and Clark. The homes in Winfield were built pursuant to an act of Congress to provide housing for defense workers.

Until 1951, when the Winfield Mutual Housing Corporation (hereinafter "WMHC") purchased Winfield from the federal government, the residents of the approximately 700 dwellings paid rent to the federal government. Since the date of the purchase, the residents who are members of the WMHC pay a monthly fee averaging $330 to the WMHC. Taxes are paid by the WMHC, with the taxes being split evenly among each dwelling unit. The present annual tax allocation is less than $1,800 per unit.

Winfield is located on .17 square mile in Union County, just off Exit 136 of the Garden State Parkway, and has a population of 1,576. The generally uniform housing consists mainly of multi-family units, with one or two bedrooms, but there are several single-family homes as well.

Winfield residents may stay in their homes for the extent of their lives. They may transfer this right to an heir upon death. There is a waiting list for available units with priority given to the current members' relatives as follows: (1) sons and daughters; (2) parents; and (3) siblings. The allocation of housing rights has led to generation after generation of many families remaining in Winfield.

Winfield has a handful of commercial businesses, including a liquor/deli store, a beauty salon and an attorney's office.

The Winfield school system consists of a single building, constructed in 1998 after a 1995 fire destroyed the previous school building. The school had a pre-K through eighth grade enrollment of 147 in school year 1998-1999. Winfield students in grades ten through twelve have attended Rahway High School since 1958, and ninth-grade students have attended Rahway High School since 1967.

Kenilworth, a borough located in north central Union County, covers 2.0 square miles and has a population of 7,574. It is primarily a residential community of single-family homes, but also has over 200 diversified commercial and manufacturing establishments, including pharmaceutical giant Schering-Plough.

Kenilworth had been part of the Union County Regional High School District (hereinafter "UCRHSD") since its inception in the 1930s, but after the UCRHSD decided to close Brearley, Kenilworth led a successful movement to dissolve the UCRHSD. Kenilworth then opened, in one building, David Brearley Middle and David Brearley High School (grades seven through twelve) in September 1997. Kenilworth's total high school student population is approximately 280 students, of which approximately 20% are members of a minority group.

HISTORICAL OVERVIEW

History of Sending-Receiving Relationship

Winfield high school students have attended Rahway High School on a send-receive basis since at least 1958. The present sending-receiving contract between Winfield and Rahway was executed in 1964 and deals primarily with tuition costs (P-7). From the beginning of the relationship, Rahway has charged the maximum tuition permitted under the State formula and over the last several years Winfield has tried unsuccessfully to negotiate a lower rate and other changes.

In 1992 Winfield hired consultants to explore options and possible alternatives to its existing sending-receiving relationship with Rahway.

In May 1995 Winfield sought consultant services to "determine potential options in regionalization and new sending-receiving partnerships."

In December 1996, Guidelines, Inc., headed by Dr. Robert Savitt, was authorized to develop a comparative study for Winfield relating to a possible alternative receiving relationship with Clark High School (Clark, New Jersey) and Kenilworth's high school instead of continuing the existing sending-receiving agreement with Rahway.

The following spring, Winfield residents were invited to meet with their board of education and Dr. Savitt to discuss the send-receive relationship with Rahway. At the meeting, the parents voiced their concerns about low SAT scores and the high drop-out rate at Rahway. The parents believed that Rahway focused too heavily on problem students and let the "average kids" fall through the cracks. The parents also expressed concern that there were communication problems between the school and the parents. They felt that the educational standards at Rahway were low and that the school focused on control rather than on students. Winfield parents also felt that given the relative size of the two communities (as well as other factors), other districts might offer their students an education more compatible with their needs, in a more academics-oriented environment.

The Winfield board also expressed its displeasure with the send-receive relationship. While Rahway charged the maximum tuition permitted, Winfield was given a very limited voice in the education of its children. Winfield was aware of recent trends in send-receive contracts that provided the sender with increased involvement in the educational process at the receiving district. These provisions include non-voting membership on the receiving board; involvement in budget development and setting of annual goals, orientation expectations and program articulation; and involvement in selection of key personnel, class size, pupil progress reports and special education child study team arrangements. The existing agreement between Rahway and Winfield does not address these concerns.

Winfield authorized the preparation of a report determining the feasibility of severing the district's sending-receiving relationship with Rahway and the establishment of a sending-receiving relationship with Kenilworth. In August 1997 the Guidelines Incorporated Feasibility Study was issued, which concluded that "There is justification for Winfield officials to consider withdrawing high school pupils from Rahway High School based on present and continuing concerns," and further concluded that "Kenilworth (David Brearley High School) could be a desirable receiving school." The study further concluded that "There will be no substantial negative educational, financial or racial balance impact on Rahway High School, David Brearley High School or Winfield School if Winfield pupils are phased out of Rahway High School and assigned to David Brearley High School." P-2 at 79.

In September 1997, David Brearley High School opened and in April 1998 Winfield filed its petition to sever its sending-receiving relationship with Rahway.

Enrollment of Winfield Students at Rahway

The number of Winfield students at Rahway since the 1995-1996 school year compared to the number of Winfield elementary school graduates is as follows:

School Year	No. of Graduates	No. Enrolled at R.H.S.	Percentage
1995-1996	22	14	63.7
1996-1997	9	5	55.6
1997-1998	14	5	35.7
1998-1999	15	8	53.3
1999-2000	14	8	57.1
AVERAGE	74	40	54.1

QUALITY OF EDUCATION

School Philosophies

The premise underlying the philosophy of Rahway High School is that the school exists to serve young people of different ages, abilities, interests, races, creeds and national and socioeconomic backgrounds. The primary purpose of the school is to help each individual learn how to live in such a way that he/she makes the most of himself/herself as an individual and offers his/her finest contribution to society.

The Kenilworth School District aims to provide an education that identifies and addresses individual needs by planning and implementing a stimulating and balanced curriculum which maximizes the utilization of all available resources to develop productive citizens who think analytically, communicate effectively and demonstrate high self-esteem, moral integrity and a commitment of continuous growth and development in preparation for meeting the demands of their future.

Both districts are dedicated to providing a meaningful education to all their students.

Average Class Size

As Brearley is newly reinstituted, there is no history of average class size for a period of more than one year. The average class size for Brearley in school year 1997-1998 was twenty-two and the state average was twenty-one. Rahway's average class size that year was seventeen, down from twenty to twenty-one during the previous two years.

Staffing

In the 1998-1999 school year, Rahway High School had a total of ninety-four staff members serving 924 students (four administrators, seventy-seven classroom teachers, six guidance counselors, one psychologist, one nurse, one librarian, one social worker and three classified as "other"). During the same period, David Brearley High School had a total of thirty-seven staff members serving 265 students (one administrator, thirty-one classroom teachers, two guidance counselors, one psychologist, one nurse and one librarian).

Rahway's expert, Dr. Ferguson, offers the foregoing as evidence that ". . . it is apparent that Rahway High School offers more breadth and depth of curriculum." The only obvious conclusion from the evidence offered is that Rahway offers more. A school must, in order to effectively use limited resources to provide a meaningful education, expand and contract its curriculum offerings as its size changes.

The evidence as to optimum school size was inconclusive. However, to suggest that "bigger is better" is as erroneous as suggesting that a school cannot be too small. If a district can offer a meaningful education, size becomes relevant only as a matter of personal choice if a meaningful choice is available.

Graduation Requirements

	Total Credits	English	History	World Culture	PE	Science	Math	Arts	Career Dev.	Word Processing
Rahway	110	4 yrs	2 yrs	1 yr	4 yrs	2 yrs	3 yrs	1yr	-	-
Kenilworth	120	4 yrs	2 yrs	1 yr	4 yrs	2 yrs	3 yrs	1yr	½ yr	½ yr

These requirements, supplied by Winfield, do not identify a substantial difference between the schools. Any slight difference is not meaningful in the comparison .

Extracurricular Programs

Rahway High School offers the following extracurricular programs: Student Government, Broadcasting, Theatrical Arts, Senior Club, School Publications, Diversity 2000, Multicultural Club, Latin American Club, DECA, National Honor Society, Key Club, Blue Tri, Outdoors Club, Pep Group, Peer Connection, Wrestling Club, Thespian Society, French Club, Art Club, Practical Politics, Italian Club, Chorus, Madrigals, Marching Band, Instrumental, Piano Lab, National Art Society, French Honor Club, Intramural Athletics, Cheerleading, Environmental Club, JROTC and TR-3 Challenge. Additionally, Rahway offers the following interscholastic athletic programs: soccer, freshman, JV and varsity football, softball, basketball, swimming, cheerleading, spring track, cross country, volleyball, wrestling, bowling, winter track and spring tennis.

Extracurricular activities at David Brearley High School include: Marching Band, Mixed Concert Choir, Newspaper, Writers Club, Environmental Club, Yearbook, Renaissance Program, Peer Leadership, Peer Mediation, Interact Club, Spanish Club, Italian Club and Cheerleading. David Brearley High School also has its own interscholastic sports program for boys' soccer, baseball, football, coed golf, girls' volleyball, boys' basketball, softball, girls' basketball and coed spring track. David Brearley has a co-op sports program with Jonathan Dayton High School in Springfield in girls' soccer, girls' tennis, indoor track, swimming, bowling, cross country, wrestling, girls' gymnastics, boys' tennis and ice hockey.

Again, the size of Rahway High School allows it to provide more extracurricular activities than Brearley. Perhaps, however, the analysis prepared by Winfield of Winfield student participation in Rahway High School activities and the availability of those activities at Brearley is, at least, instructive.

Special Education and Support Services

The Rahway School District meets special education needs through self-contained programs, resource centers and out-of-district programs. Kenilworth high-school-age children rely on out-of-district placement, again, primarily due to the size of Brearley. Kenilworth is committed, however, to providing in-district programs should the number of special needs students increase to the extent that such programs are justified.

Gifted and Talented

The following chart sets forth the applicable advanced placement and honors classes available at Rahway and Brearley. Unless noted otherwise, all classes are honors level.

The gifted and talented programs at Rahway and Brearley are comparable. Despite the fact that the enrollment in Rahway advanced placement courses is significantly greater than enrollment in like programs at Brearley (due to Rahway High School's larger population), the schools' offerings are very similar. In fact, Brearley offers six additional advanced courses unavailable at Rahway. Rahway, in turn, operates a well-respected program called the Carl Sagan House, and due to the school's size, is likely to continue its ability to maintain advanced programs.

Drop-outs

The drop-out rate at Rahway High School was 6.7% for the 1997-1998 school year. The drop-out rate at Kenilworth was 1.0% for the 1997-1998 school year. The state average was 3.8%.

Attendance

The student attendance rate was 92% at Rahway High School for the 1997-1998 school year. The student attendance rate was 94.72% at Kenilworth for the 1997-1998 school year. The state average was 92.6%.

Student/Faculty Ratio

The student/faculty ratio was 10.2:1 at Rahway High School for the 1997-1998 school year. The ratio was 9:1 at David Brearley High School for the 1997-1998 school year. The state average was 11.7:1.

Student/Administration Ratio

The student/administration ratio was 222:1 at Rahway High School for the 1997-1998 school year. The ratio was 216.1:1 at David Brearley High School for the 1997-1998 school year. The state average was 181:1.

Instructional Time

Daily instructional time at Rahway High School was six hours, ten minutes, for the 1997-1998 school year. Instructional time at David Brearley High School was five hours, thirty-three minutes, for the 1997-1998 school year. The state average was five hours, twenty-nine minutes.

Test Results

The Early Warning Test is administered to eighth graders to predict student success in reading, mathematics and writing. The results for 1996 were as follows:

Early Warning Test	Reading	Mathematics	Writing
Rahway	134.8	126.9	148.0
Kenilworth	147.4	143.3	171.0
Winfield	161.3	138.8	171.6

The High School Proficiency Test is administered to eleventh graders. The results for 1997-1998 were as follows:

High School Proficiency Test	Reading	Mathematics	Writing	Overall
Kenilworth	91.1	95.6	95.6	82.6
State Average	84.0	85.9	87.9	75.3
Rahway	73.7	72.9	80.5	56.3

On the Scholastic Assessment Test (SAT), 65% of eligible Rahway High School students took the test in 1995 and averaged 468 on the verbal section and 461 on the mathematics section. Eighty-seven percent of eligible David Brearley students took the SAT in 1995 and averaged 514 on the verbal section and 523 on the mathematics section. For 1997-1998, SAT results were as follows:

Scholastic Assessment Test	Average Verbal	Average Mathematics	Average Overall
Kenilworth	492	504	996
Rahway	438	471	908

Post-High School Plans for Graduates

Of the Rahway High School class of 1998, 46% planned to attend a four-year college, 18% planned to attend a two-year college, 15% planned to attend post-secondary schools, 15% planned to work full time and 6% were undecided.

Of the Kenilworth class of 1998, 58% of students planned to attend a four-year college or university, 20% planned to attend a two-year college, 6% planned to attend other post-secondary schools, 1% planned to work full time and 15% were undecided.

Staff Development

Kenilworth staff development opportunities include: test-taking strategies, cooperative learning, math/science technology, integrated curriculum, reading literacy, expanded middle school program, development of high school course of study and strategic planning involving staff regarding mission statement, beliefs and objectives. The record contains no information on staff development opportunities at Rahway.

Parent Involvement Activities

Rahway High School parents have opportunities for regular involvement in monthly PTO meetings. Rahway parents may also participate in the Rahway School Action Team, designed to facilitate interaction by parents with teachers and administrators.

Kenilworth parents are like partners in the educational process and their participation and assistance is encouraged. Specific examples of parental involvement include: parent volunteers in the library and classroom, family math and family science evening programs, Reading is Fundamental program, PTO and community survey regarding educational programs. A special education parent support group meets on a monthly basis.

Orientation of New Students

Rahway High School holds several orientation meetings during the early spring with eighth graders and their parents. These meetings include an overview of curriculum and extra-curricular activities. Rahway's orientation activities also include small group meetings to build schedules, evening high school tours, a half day attending high school classes and a summer orientation picnic.

Kenilworth is developing an orientation process for Winfield parents and students if Winfield pupils are to attend. This program would be similar to the present orientation program for Kenilworth pupils entering the high school.

Articulation

Winfield acknowledges that Rahway has sought its assistance in curriculum planning and has invited Winfield staff to participate in in-service programs.

Kenilworth plans to meet with Winfield professionals to plan effective articulation between the two elementary programs.

Special Features

Rahway High School also provides: participation in Middle States Association, noteworthy programs in athletics, music, theatre and ROTC, and computer laboratories. Rahway also enjoys the corporate sponsorship of Merck.

Kenilworth has an Educational Foundation dedicated to enhancing social educational programs. In addition, Schering-Plough has taken an active role in enhancing the resources available to the students at the Brearley School.

RACIAL COMPOSITION

The parties and their experts agreed that a reasonable approach to measure the impact that severing the sending-receiving relationship between Winfield and Rahway might have is to use the actual enrollment on a particular day, or a "freeze frame" or "snapshot" approach. In this case, the parties agreed for purposes of their analyses that October 15, 1998, would be used as the "snapshot" enrollment date to calculate the racial composition of Rahway and the subsequent impact arising from severance.

Over the five days of hearing, it was clear that the parties not only disagreed with regard to the negative racial impact any severance would have, but also with regard to the actual number of Winfield students at Rahway on October 15, 1998, and/or their racial makeup. That factual issue was resolved upon receipt of the previously discussed parental affidavits.

It has now been established that on October 15, 1998, there were thirty-seven Winfield students in Rahway, thirty-three white and four minority.

Examining the record in its entirety and comparing the racial composition of Rahway High School as it existed on October 15, 1998, with what the racial composition would have been if Winfield had not been sending its high-school-age children to Rahway, I FIND as follows:

Enrollment at Rahway

(a) with Winfield students	924.5
(b) without Winfield students	887.5

Number and Percentage of Minorities at Rahway

(a) with Winfield students	506 (54.7%)
(b) without Winfield students	502 (56.6%)

Number and Percentage of Non-Minorities at Rahway

(a) with Winfield students	418.5 (45.3%)
(b) without Winfield students	385.5 (43.4%)

Decrease in the Number and Percentage of Non-Minority Students at Rahway

(a) decrease in number	33
(b) decrease in percentage	7.9%
(c) decrease in proportion	1.9%

Increase/Decrease Projected in the Number and Percentage of Minority Students at Rahway

(a) The number of minority students would decrease by 4.
(b) The minority population at Rahway would rise from 54.7% to 56.6%, or a proportional change of 1.9%.

FINANCIAL IMPACT

Winfield states, and Rahway does not contest, that the existence and possible dissolution of the send-receive relationship has no substantial financial impact.

Rahway would suffer a loss of $820,302 in tuition over a four-year phase-in period, slightly offset by an estimated $24,000 in cost savings, resulting in a tax increase (if not recouped by other means) of between $5 and $24 per $100,000 in evaluation over the four years.

Winfield will benefit financially. However, the tuition savings (a $108,038 reduction of tuition payments) will be offset partially by an increase in transportation costs ($26,722 anticipated) and an anticipated increase in enrollment.

ANALYSIS

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-11 mandates that any school district that lacks high school facilities, like Winfield, must designate a high school for its pupils. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 then provides, in pertinent part:

> No such designation of a high school . . . shall be changed or withdrawn . . . except upon application made to and approved by the commissioner. Prior to submitting an application the district seeking to sever the relationship shall prepare and submit a feasibility study, considering the educational and financial implications for the sending and receiving district, the impact on the quality of education received by pupils in each of the districts, and the effect on the racial composition of the pupil population of each of the districts. The commissioner shall make equitable determinations based upon consideration of all the circumstances, including the educational and financial implications for the affected districts, the impact on the quality of education received by pupils, and the effect on the racial composition of the pupil population of the districts. The commissioner shall grant the requested change in designation . . . if no substantial negative impact will result therefrom.

It is incumbent upon the Commissioner, then, and the undersigned initially, to determine from the above-found facts whether there will be a substantial negative educational or financial impact on the districts involved and/or whether severance will have a substantial negative impact on the racial composition of the pupil populations of the districts.

IMPACT ON EDUCATIONAL QUALITY

At Rahway

The Rahway school district is justly proud of its long history and tradition of quality education in a community richly diverse, both racially and culturally. Its hard-working staff of dedicated professionals with parental support enriches its children with quality curriculum choices and a variety of ways in which students can be part of its high school culture. An analysis of the foregoing factors considered by the undersigned reveals Rahway High School to be an institution where children learn to and do succeed. Significantly, both Winfield and Rahway agree, and I CONCLUDE, that the quality of education received by Rahway students would not suffer any negative impact should the Winfield students withdraw.

At Kenilworth

Rahway only half-heartedly suggests that the children at Brearley will suffer should the Winfield students transfer there. It did not seriously contest the quality of education secured at Brearley or the success of its students in and out of school. Its suggestion that Brearley may be "too small" is intended more to rebut Winfield's sub silentio claim that Rahway is "too big" than to attack the quality of a Brearley education.

Brearley, while going through growing pains, is clearly ready to embark on the next step of its growth. Dedicated professionals, lead by its energetic superintendent, Dr. Lloyd Leschuk, have already made good on their promise to deliver quality and can be expected to continue to do so.

For Winfield

Notwithstanding what Rahway is urging here, it is clear that Brearley would, absent the suggestion that an alleged lack of diversity would have an adverse impact, offer at least as good an education as is offered by Rahway. I agree that Brearley is small, but I am not convinced that it is "too small." (Conversely, not only is Rahway High not "too big," I do not even agree that it is any bigger than the average sized high school.)

That having been said, however, Rahway urges that the proposed departure from a school populated with an almost 1:1 ratio of minority to white students to a school with a 1:6 ratio is per se a substantial negative impact on the quality of the education to be provided to Winfield students.

The State Board of Education addressed that issue (in dicta) in Merchantville Board of Education v. Pennsauken Board of Education, State Bd. of Educ. #48-92 (Jan. 7, 1998) at 13-15, when it said:

> . . . the educational benefits of a heterogeneous student population accrue not only to minority students, but to all children who attend school in an integrated educational environment. . . .
>
> Although there is no one statistical balance which is ideal from an educational perspective, a truly integrated setting offers the best opportunity for meaningful exposure of different races in the educational context. . . .
>
> [A racially diversified school affords] students the educational opportunity to learn to live with and respect people from a variety of racial and ethnic backgrounds by attending school with such individuals. While alternative methods for achieving this educational objective must be instituted in school districts with homogeneous student populations, there is no substitute for the educational benefits afforded by the opportunities for interaction both in and out of the classroom where the student population is diverse.
> [Footnote omitted.]

What distinguishes the proposed move of Merchantville students from Pennsauken to Haddonfield in Merchantville from the situation in the extant case is that here the proposed new receiving district is diverse, just not as diverse as the current receiving district. In Merchantville, the proposed receiving district was not at all diverse (described as "virtually all white" by the State Board [at 15]), and the current receiving district had a minority high school population of 25%.

Thus, the facts are clearly distinguishable on the educational impact issue. What Merchantville stands for is the proposition that a racially diverse environment is the preferred environment and I agree. The mere reduction in the degree of diversity may or may not be a negative impact in a vacuum, but there was no evidence before me that when the new receiving district is also diverse (and apparently more diverse than the Winfield community) the negative impact is substantial.

I agree that severing a send-receive relationship with a diverse educational community to enter a relationship with a non-diverse educational community would result in a substantial negative impact on educational quality. I cannot, however, from the evidence before me, conclude that the proposed severance here would result in such a substantial negative impact. I, therefore, CONCLUDE that petitioner has met its burden of proof in showing that there will be no substantial negative impact on the quality of the education of the Winfield students.

FINANCIAL IMPACT

As noted above, Winfield contends that the dissolution of the send-receive relationship would have no substantial financial impact and that conclusion was not challenged. I so CONCLUDE.

RACIAL COMPOSITION

One reported Appellate Division case, Englewood Cliffs Board of Education v. Englewood Board of Education, 257 N.J. Super. 413 (App. Div. 1992), aff'd, 132 N.J. 327, cert. den., 510 U.S. 991, 114 S. Ct. 547, 126 L. Ed. 2d 449 (1993), and two State Board of Education cases, Merchantville, supra, State Bd. of Educ. #48-92 (Jan. 7, 1998), and Belmar v. Asbury Park, State Bd. of Educ. #42-89 (June 7, 1996) (affirmed in an unreported decision on May 26, 1998, A-6681-95T3), are offered as authority by the parties. In all three cases, applications for severance pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 were denied on the grounds that severance would result in a substantial negative impact on the racial composition of the respective schools.

Englewood

Englewood, the seminal case interpreting the statute, involved a petition filed with the Commissioner by the Board of Education of Englewood Cliffs (Cliffs) to sever its sending-receiving relationship with the Board of Education of Englewood (Englewood), established in 1965, which would terminate the attendance of Cliffs' high school students at Dwight Morrow High School (DMHS) in Englewood. Englewood opposed the petition. Englewood also filed a cross-petition which sought to enjoin the Board of Education of Tenafly (Tenafly) from accepting high school students from Cliffs and Englewood and requested that the Commissioner regionalize the three municipalities into one high school district.

Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Ken Springer heard the matter in 1987 over ninety-nine days of hearing and issued an initial decision denying severance on April 18, 1988. Englewood, supra, 257 N.J. Super. at 423. Englewood's request for regionalization was also denied, however, the ALJ recommended granting Englewood's request that Tenafly be restrained from accepting students from Cliffs or Englewood. Ibid. The Commissioner adopted the initial decision on July 11, 1988, but modified it to the extent that eighth graders enrolled in Tenafly as of April 18, 1988, be allowed to attend Tenafly High School (THS) should they so desire. Ibid.

On April 4, 1990, the State Board of Education affirmed the Commissioner's decision with modifications. Id. at 424. Two modifications, recommended by the Legal Committee of the State Board, required the Commissioner to monitor the racial composition of DMHS and report his findings periodically to the State Board and, second, extended the injunction against Tenafly accepting Cliffs and Englewood students to all public school boards in the state. Ibid. The State Board ordered three additional modifications. It directed Cliffs and Englewood to develop a plan, in consultation with the Commissioner and subject to his approval, to encourage their students to attend DMHS. Ibid. The Commissioner was required to monitor the plan and racial composition of DMHS for five years and annually report to the State Board the plan's effect on that racial composition. Ibid. Finally, the State Board exempted from its decision all students from Cliffs and Englewood attending THS or other public schools as of April 18, 1988. Id. at 424-25.

In the appeal to the Appellate Division, Cliffs challenged the denial of the petition for severance, the denial of a dual sending-receiving relationship and the injunction. Englewood cross-appealed the State Board's failure to order regionalization. The court affirmed the determination of the Board. Id. at 457.

The court's findings of fact[2] indicated that the boroughs of Englewood Cliffs and Tenafly were primarily white communities with growing Asian populations. According to the 1980 census, 85% of the population of Englewood Cliffs and 91% of Tenafly were white. The same census showed that Englewood was a more heterogeneous community, comprised of 44.6% white, 40.6% black, 8.8% Hispanic and 2.8% Asian residents. All three districts were considered affluent compared to other communities in the state. They shared common borders and significant community ties such as common cultural, recreational and medical facilities.

The statistics further indicated that 799 students attended DMHS in 1987-1988, of whom only twenty-one were from Cliffs. In that school year, 11.8% of DMHS students were white, 66.2% were black, 17.8% were Hispanic and 3.9% were Asian. The number of Cliffs students attending DMHS had dropped from 119 for the 1982-1983 school year to twenty-one for the 1987-1988 school year. The drop coincided with the non-resident tuition program in Tenafly instituted in 1982, during which the enrollment of Cliffs students at THS increased from eleven for the 1982-1983 school year to seventy-six for the 1987-1988 school year.[3]

[2]The facts were derived from the initial decision of the ALJ, because as the court pointed out, the record in the case was voluminous and the Commissioner and State Board had each essentially adopted the ALJ's fact-finding. Id. at 425.

[3]Private school attendance by Cliffs and Englewood students had also increased over the years.

The total student population of Cliffs in 1987-1988 was 486, of which 50.8% were white, 42.2% Asian, 5.5% Hispanic and 1.5% black. Of the twenty-one Cliffs students who attended DMHS that year, fifteen were white, four were Asian and two were Hispanic. The court noted that if Cliffs had sent those twenty-one students to THS, "it would have altered the composition of DMHS to 10.2% white, 68.0% black, 18.0% Hispanic and 3.5% Asian. Such an alteration would have been a 16.0% loss in the DMHS white student body but would have resulted in only a 1.6% decrease in the proportion of white students at DMHS." Id. at 434.

Cliffs' reasons for seeking severance and establishing a new relationship with Tenafly were found to be based on its determination that THS offered a more suitable academic program for its college-bound students; there was less need for emphasis on discipline and more opportunity for student independence and self-reliance at THS; the school facilities at THS were nicer and newer; the library was better stocked; there was past administrative instability at DMHS; and there was past failure by the Englewood Board to correct deficiencies over a period of years, i.e., the need to decrease class size and the Englewood Board's failure to adequately consult Cliffs about an important matter affecting Cliffs' students, specifically, Englewood's decision to move the eighth grade into the high school. Id. at 439. Englewood argued that the issue was race and not school quality as asserted by Cliffs. Id. at 435.

The ALJ found that Cliffs' "request for relief [was] made in good faith, for what it conceive[d] to be the best educational interests of its students," nonetheless, he determined that severance should be denied. Id. at 439-41. The primary reason for the denial of severance was the substantial negative impact on the racial composition and educational quality of DMHS that had already occurred and continued to be far-reaching. Ibid. While statistically the loss of twenty-one students seemed small, the ALJ determined that the impact must be regarded as substantial where DMHS was so "precariously" short of white and Asian students. Id. at 439. More importantly, the ALJ found:

> [S]everance would have a substantial negative impact on the quality of education at DMHS, much greater than any material loss caused by the withdrawal of 21 Cliffs students.

> In effect, any material losses would be greatly magnified by symbolic losses.
>
> Those left behind at DMHS would perceive the result as an implicit message that the school is not good enough for whites and Asians, but is acceptable for blacks and Hispanics. Feelings of isolation and inferiority engendered by such perceptions would lower the self-confidence of minority youngsters and be detrimental to their trust in the basic fairness of the educational system. . . . Reemergence of the stigma of inferiority associated with segregated school systems would be a regressive development for public education in New Jersey and would have serious repercussions far beyond the immediate parties to this case. Policymakers at the state level must give careful consideration to the negative implications severance would have for future race relations and social cohesiveness, not only at DMHS but also in other schools throughout this state.

The ALJ also concluded that while THS has a diverse enrollment in the areas of culture, religion and native language, exposure to blacks and Hispanics or to persons of different socioeconomic status is severely limited.

Tenafly's tuition policy was also condemned. Id. at 442. The policy effectively enticed white and Asian students away from DMHS and contributed to its racial imbalance and polarized situation. Ibid. The ALJ found that selective admissions requirements were instituted by the Tenafly board, "including what is tantamount to an income test since only those who can afford to pay are eligible for admission. In what could accurately be called 'cream-skimming,' the Tenafly tuition policy achieves its intended purpose by attracting more highly motivated and academically competent students from its neighboring school district, at the expense of educational quality at DMHS." Ibid. Approving severance would legitimize Tenafly's policy and would put the official State imprimatur on what Tenafly had done, which the ALJ characterized as "repugnant" and "against the law." Id. at 443.

In his adoption of the ALJ's fact-finding and legal conclusions, the Commissioner "reaffirmed the issue of racial balance as one of 'utmost importance to the State.'" Ibid. He recognized that while the loss of fifteen white students from Cliffs may seem small, approving severance would nonetheless have a significant negative impact on racial composition because the loss would constitute a 15% reduction of white students and by the 1990-1991 school year a 25% reduction. Id. at 443-44. Moreover, the Commissioner pointed out that the enrollment in DMHS for previous years was considered in the determination because the decline in the enrollment of Cliffs' students was dramatic and "attributed in large part to . . . 'white flight.'" Id. at 444. These circumstances elicited the same concern from the Commissioner as was expressed by the ALJ, that is, "to grant severance [of the] sending-receiving relationship as a matter of public policy would place an imprimatur of acceptance by the State to this flight." Ibid.

The Commissioner, again in agreement with the ALJ, concluded that severance would cause a substantial negative educational impact. Ibid. The Commissioner explained:

> One need look no further than the . . . decision in Brown v. Topeka [347 U.S. 483, 74 S. Ct. 686, 98 L. Ed. 873 (1954)] to support the ALJ's reliance upon evidence dealing not only with "material loss," . . . but also an assessment of impact on the psychosocial dimension of education referred to in this case as "symbolic loss." Notwithstanding the fact that DMHS is not all minority, it is, as previously stated, substantially imbalanced racially; thus, the following passage from the U.S. Supreme Court in Brown has no less bearing in this matter than if DMHS were all minority. It states:
>
> > Segregation . . . in public schools has a detrimental effect upon the colored children. The impact is greater when it has the sanction of the law; for the policy of separating the races is usually interpreted as denoting the inferiority of the negro group. A sense of inferiority affects the motivation of a child to learn. Segregation with the sanction of law, therefore, has a tendency to [retard] the educational and mental development of negro children and to deprive them of some of the benefits they would receive in a racially integrated school system.

The State Board affirmed the denial of the petition for severance.[4] Id. at 448. In reaching that decision the Board found that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 requires consideration of all circumstances when determining a request for severance. Id. at 447. The Board, therefore, approached "the issue from a broader perspective than the ALJ and the Commissioner," examining the additional factors of the effect of the THS tuition program and the migration of Cliffs students over the years as part of the determination process. Ibid. While noting "that 'there [was] no fixed balance between racial and national origin groupings that, from an educational perspective, [could] be considered ideal for all communities,'" the State Board concluded, as quoted here by the Appellate Division, that:

> [T]o sanction termination of the sending-receiving relationship between Englewood and Englewood Cliffs, we would be condoning a concentration of blacks and Hispanics that is sharply out of balance with the composition of the society in which those students must function. See Booker v. Bd. of Educ. of Plainfield, 45 N.J. 161 (1965). Further, the concentration of minority students would be at such level as to allow Dwight Morrow to be characterized as a minority school with the attendant "sense of stigma and resulting feeling of inferiority" cited by the Court in Booker and upon which the Brown decision rests. . . .
> [A]s a matter of educational policy, we could not condone the level of concentration of minority students attending Dwight Morrow by sanctioning the change in designation sought here.
> [Id. at 448.]

The racial imbalance and the negative educational implications that would result at DMHS if the sending-receiving relationship were terminated warranted denial of the petition for severance. Ibid. In further support for its decision, the Board also emphasized the educational policy of the State, which provided that "[e]ducational considerations are primary in eliminating school segregation. The elimination of racial

---

[4]The Board also determined that the request to establish a dual sending-receiving relationship be denied; that the injunctions prohibiting Tenafly and other public schools from accepting Cliffs or Englewood high schoolers were required to reverse the trend of accelerating the imbalance at DMHS; and that a regionalization study should be implemented. Id. at 449-52.

imbalance is not to be sought as an end in itself but because such imbalance stands as a deterrent and handicap to the improvement of education for all." Id. at 449.

The Appellate Division affirmed the Board's decision. Id. at 457. The court held that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 is not a traditional balancing statute because there is no place in the analysis for the weighing of positive impacts once a potential substantial negative impact is found. Id. at 457, 461-62. Specifically, the court determined:

> The act lays out a series of factors to be considered by the Commissioner as part of a feasibility study including: the educational (offerings) and financial (budgetary) implications for both districts, the impact on the quality of education in both districts, and the effect on the racial composition of the pupil population in both districts. The Commissioner's responsibility is to reach an "equitable" determination--one that is fair to both districts--keeping in mind his responsibility as the ultimate educational authority in the State. . . . To be sure, the Commissioner may engage in weighing and balancing within each of the stated categories. For example, he may assess whether financial losses outweigh financial gains in a proposed move or whether racial balance is improved in one district more than it is negatively affected in the other. However, he is not free to weigh the overall positive and negative impacts of severance or to determine that a substantial negative impact he has found in any category is "outweighed" by a positive impact in another. The reason for this is that the legislatively prescribed considerations do not exist in a vacuum but are inextricably bound up with the question of what kind of an education is to be provided. A substantial negative impact in one category necessarily implicates an overall educational quality issue. The focus of the Commissioner's inquiry is whether a substantial negative impact exists at all; if it does, severance is to be denied.

Thus, when "assessing an application for severance, the finding of a substantial negative impact on educational quality in one district warrants disapproval of severance, notwithstanding any number of 'positive' impacts which severance would bring to the other district." Id. at 422. Based on this holding, the court rejected Cliffs' position that the positive impacts outweighed the single negative racial impact that would result if severance were granted. Id. at 461-62. In so doing, the court pointed out that each of the positive impacts asserted by Cliffs > is exclusively beneficial to Cliffs and fails to give a shred of consideration to the effect of severance on the students at DMHS. More importantly, the THS formula for educational success is to segregate a group of homogeneous students from relatively affluent families in a school run completely by white teachers, which stresses college preparation and does not even provide a full spectrum of special education programs for the students who require them. This scheme utterly fails to account for the considerable value which we have long placed on social and educational development in an atmosphere in which children with differences learn to celebrate and not fear them. THS, with its minuscule black and Hispanic population, is not a realistic forum for interaction among the children of different races. On the other hand, DMHS, which every fact finder has held to be a very good school, provides its education within such a heterogeneous framework. Thus Cliffs' positive impacts claim is problematic at best.

> [Id. at 461 (citation omitted).]

As the court had held, "[t]here is simply no place in this analysis for the weighing of positive impacts once a substantial negative impact has been found." Id. at 462.

The court also rejected Cliffs' argument that because the record showed at the time of the application for severance that severance would reduce the DMHS white population by only 1.1%, the Board could not have reasonably concluded that a substantial negative impact would result. Id. at 463. The Board's conclusion was influenced by the relationship between Cliffs and Englewood that existed prior to the application, which was, contrary to Cliffs' position, within the Board's discretion to examine.[5] Ibid. The examination revealed that Cliffs' withdrawal from DMHS actually began in 1982, long before the application for severance, resulting in an initial loss of 6.5% of the white student population that continued over the years due in large part to [5]The court commented that if Cliffs' approach to the issue were accepted "a district would be rewarded for quiet complicity in long-term white flight with a payoff for delayed discovery: the inability of the State Board to consider what had already occurred in formulating its remedy." Id. at 463.

Cliffs' failure to encourage students to attend DMHS and the Tenafly tuition policy. Id. at 463-64. This decline, along with the "concentration of blacks and Hispanics at DMHS which would exist in the wake of severance, a concentration 'sharply out of balance' with the composition of the society in which the students would function; and the feelings of anger and inferiority which would be engendered in those who remained," resulted in long-term actual loss and symbolic loss which the Board appropriately concluded constituted "a substantial negative educational impact on the students at DMHS." Id. at 464.

The court agreed, finding a substantial negative educational impact on DMHS that was both far-reaching and long-term, therefore, denial of the petition for severance was affirmed. Id. at 464-65.

> [T]he mandate of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 [is] that racial balance is an important consideration in evaluating the potential destabilizing effect of severance. Indeed, that language was engrafted onto the statute specifically to avoid withdrawals for discriminatory purposes which would have the effect of recreating segregated school systems with their inherent inequality of educational opportunity.
>
> More to the point is the interrelationship between racial balance and education--a connection Cliffs persists in omitting from its reasoning. These are not isolated factors. They are different sides of the same coin. Our Supreme Court long ago recognized this principle in Morean and Booker, cases decided in the afterglow of Brown v. Bd. of Educ., 347 U.S. 483, 74 S. Ct. 686, 98 L. Ed. 873 (1954). A generation later, the promise of Brown remains only partially fulfilled and the optimism it engendered has been sorely tested. In these circumstances, the principle enunciated in Morean and Booker is more hallowed than ever: when children of all races learn to live with and respect each other in school at an early age, education is enhanced and the groundwork is laid for future participation of all in the "mainstream" of human affairs.

Merchantville

Englewood was relied upon in a recent decision by the State Board in Merchantville Board of Education v. Pennsauken Board of Education, State Bd. of Educ. #48-92 (Jan. 7, 1998),[7] in which Merchantville sought termination of its sending-receiving relationship with Pennsauken and sought to establish a new relationship with Haddonfield for its high school students. The ALJ approved severance of the relationship on May 1, 1992, finding no significant negative impact on the quality of education or the racial composition of the pupil populations, since Pennsauken High School would experience only a 1.7% decrease in its white student population, and no financial or educational implications. Id. at 3-4, 6. The Acting Commissioner rejected the ALJ's decision based on his conclusion that severance would advance "the deterioration in the balance of racial and national origin groupings represented at Pennsauken High." Id. at 4, 6.

Merchantville and Pennsauken appealed the Acting Commissioner's decision to the State Board of Education. The Board commenced its decision with a summary of the issue before it as follows:

> The case calls upon us to determine whether this agency may approve such a change in designation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 where the statistical change in the racial composition of the current receiver may not be statistically significant, but under circumstances in which the current receiver is integrated, the proposed receiver is almost exclusively white and the sending district is predominantly white. Such determination requires that we further explore the relationship between racial balance and educational quality and our obligations in this context to effectuate our State's policies.

---

[7] The petitioner erroneously indicates that the date of this decision is Jan. 8, 1997. The Board on that date issued an order directing the parties to provide a number of documents to update the record. The date of the Board's final decision in the matter was Jan. 7, 1998.

The State Board determined that questions of racial balance were pivotal in assessing Merchantville's petition for severance. Citing Englewood, the Board stated:

> [L]ike the Acting Commissioner, [we] reject the view that a statistical change in the racial composition of the current receiver is alone dispositive of whether a significant negative impact will result from severance. Rather, as mandated by the statute, it is imperative that the significance of the statistical change in a particular case be evaluated under "all of the circumstances."
>
> [Id. at 7 (citations omitted).]

Thus, the central question of the appeal was whether the requested change would result in a substantial negative impact on either of the districts involved. Id. at 9.

While the circumstances of the matter before it stood in stark contrast to the circumstances in Englewood, the Board concluded, nonetheless, that severance should be denied. Id. at 8. For example, unlike Englewood there was not a concentration of minority students in Pennsauken High School that was unacceptable from either a legal or policy perspective. Ibid. Nor was there conduct by the districts involved that could be viewed as inconsistent with the sending-receiving relationship between Merchantville and Pennsauken. Ibid. The facts also failed to show that there was a loss of students to Haddonfield affecting the racial balance of Pennsauken because of Haddonfield's tuition policy. Ibid.

Stressing the State's policy of eradicating segregation in the public schools and promoting the fundamental policy of providing equal educational opportunity in an integrated setting, the Board recognized its responsibility to ensure that educational opportunity was not limited to situations where a significant imbalance had already developed. Id. at 11-12. The record showed that Pennsauken High School offered an integrated setting with a white/minority ratio of 53.9% to 46.1% as of October 1996. Id. at 13-14. The Board considered the statistical balance of the high school to offer a "truly integrated setting," one in which students would have the "best opportunity for meaningful exposure of different races in the educational context." Id. at 14. Accordingly, > it would be counterproductive to allow an existing sending-receiving relationship to be disturbed where the change may contribute to the development of racial imbalance.

>
> Furthermore, as we stressed in our decision in Englewood, supra, the educational benefits of a heterogeneous student population accrue not only to minority students, but to all children who attend school in an integrated educational environment.
> [Id. at 13 (citation omitted).]

The Board determined that severing the sending-receiving relationship so that Merchantville could establish a relationship with Haddonfield High School, which is virtually all white, would also plainly contradict the State's "long-standing policy favoring integrated educational opportunities and would constitute a substantial negative impact on both Merchantville and Pennsauken." Id. at 15. Pennsauken High School was viewed as affording Merchantville students "the educational opportunity to learn to live with and respect people from a variety of racial and ethnic backgrounds by attending school with such individuals." Ibid.

Additionally, the Board held that maintaining the existing level of diversity at Pennsauken High School was viewed as a necessary measure to further effectuate the State's policy against segregation, citing a study showing that there had been segregation of minorities in the larger New Jersey urban school districts as the white population shifted to the suburbs. Id. at 15-16. The Board determined that denying severance eliminated the possibility that racial imbalance in Pennsauken would be encouraged by any action taken by the Board. Id. at 16.

In conclusion, the Board summarized the reasons for denying Merchantville's application for severance of its sending-receiving relationship with Pennsauken as follows:

> As the record in this case shows, while the proportion of minority students at Pennsauken High has increased in recent years, its student population continues to be diverse. While severance would not change the diverse character of > Pennsauken High School, it would result in a slight increase in the proportion of the minority population at Pennsauken High, which currently constitutes approximately 50% of the student population. In addition to the educational benefits which will accrue to Merchantville's students, their continued presence will help maintain the stability of the sensitive racial balance of the pupil population at Pennsauken High, and thereby avoid the future necessity for undertaking the much more difficult task of correcting an imbalance after it has developed.

Belmar

Englewood was also relied upon in a 1996 decision by the State Board in Belmar Board of Education v. Asbury Park Board of Education, State Bd. of Educ. #42-89 (June 7, 1996),[8] in which Belmar sought termination of its sending-receiving relationship with Asbury Park and sought to establish a new[9] relationship with Manasquan for its high school students. The ALJ denied severance of the relationship on April 14, 1989, finding a significant negative impact on the racial composition of Asbury Park's pupil population, notwithstanding the fact that removal of Belmar's students from Asbury Park High School would result in only a 1% decrease in its white student population. The Commissioner concurred in the ALJ's decision and Belmar appealed the Commissioner's decision to the State Board of Education. The Board commenced its decision, dated June 7, 1996, with a summary of the conclusions reached by the ALJ and the Commissioner.

The Board, in its decision, initially rejected Belmar's argument that the community preference of the sending district is not at all relevant, and focused, as

[8] Consolidated with a petition from Bradley Beach, which also sought to severe its relationship with Asbury Park. The State Board's decision denying severance in both cases was affirmed in an unreported opinion on May 26, 1998 (A-6681-95T3).

[9] Belmar split its high school students between Asbury Park and Manasquan. Its petition sought a new relationship whereby all its children of high school age would go to Manasquan.

required, on whether severance would have a "substantial negative impact," and concluded that it would.

While holding that a 1% decrease in the white population of Asbury Park would not in and of itself bar severance, nor would such a loss have a substantial negative impact on the structure of the educational program in Asbury Park, the Board found, "quite simply," in language specifically cited with approval by the Appellate Division, that > severance of either of the sending-receiving relationships involved in this case at any time relevant to this litigation would have exacerbated an already high concentration of black and Hispanic students at Asbury Park High School and would have acted as a sanction for the racial isolation of the students at that school.

> [App. Div. #42-89 at 16.]

Thus, the Board and the Appellate Division were concerned not with the relatively insignificant statistical reduction of white students at Asbury Park, but with the already high concentration of minority students with the attendant "sense of stigma and resulting feeling of inferiority," citing Booker v. Plainfield, supra, 45 N.J. 161. Thus, the 1% becomes the significant "symbolic loss" described persuasively by the ALJ in Englewood, but premised on the high concentration of minority students in the receiving high school.[10]

Present Matter

The application for severance filed by Winfield in the present matter is based on several complaints about its sending-receiving relationship with Rahway and its desire to establish a sending-receiving relationship with the Kenilworth Board of Education. Accordingly, Winfield has asserted the following issues:

[10] Perhaps as significant was the unwillingness of the State Board to consider the Belmar petition in isolation. Severance of Bradley Beach's relationship with Asbury Park would have reduced the percentage of white students attending Asbury Park High School by 6%.

> (1) the lack of communication between the two Boards of Education; (2) low standardized test scores; (3) low educational standards; (4) high drop out rates; and (5) the lack of meaningful information about its students' education. Winfield believes that severing its relationship with Rahway is needed so that it may better serve the educational needs of its students and to maximize its involvement in that process. Winfield contends that the prospective send-receive relationship with [Kenilworth] will meet the educational needs of its students, as well as provide Winfield with the opportunity to have a guaranteed voice in the education of their children through an ex officio seat on the Kenilworth Board of Education and direct input into educational issues, such as curriculum development. Essentially, only through the creation of a new send-receive relationship will Winfield have any hope of becoming the educational partner with its receiving district.

As indicated in the discussion above, the Commissioner shall grant the requested change only "if no substantial negative impact will result therefrom," N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13.

Thus, for an application to be denied the Commissioner must find that at least in one of the three categories (education, financial and racial), one of the involved districts would be impacted negatively by severance and that the negative impact would be substantial. Absent such circumstances or overriding social policy, as written by ALJ Springer, "it is preferable in a democratic society to let local people decide for themselves how their children should be educated and how their tax money should be spent." Board of Education of the Township of Boonton v. Board of Education of the Town of Boonton, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d. (EDU) 235, 244. ALJ Marie P. Simonelli (now judge of the Superior Court) opined in 1996 that the Commissioner and State Board of Education are obliged to effectuate the desire of a sending district to educate its children in a district of its choice so long as there is insufficient basis for a finding of a substantial negative impact should severance occur. She wrote: "The Legislature recognized that a district can best decide how and where its students should be educated and it gave districts the power to make that decision." Board of Education of the Borough of Ho-Ho-Kus v. Board of Education of the Borough of Midland Park, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4243-95 (June 5, 1996), aff'd, Comm'r of Educ. (August 30, 1996).

The analysis here then becomes whether, if severance were permitted, there would be a substantial negative impact financially, educationally or with regard to racial composition in light of the foregoing facts that I found to be substantially uncontested.

As I have previously noted, the parties do not contest the fact that the financial impact would not be substantial, and I have concluded that the papers fail to show that Kenilworth's programs offer less educational quality than the programs provided at Rahway or vice versa.

The issue to be resolved then, is whether severance will result in a substantial negative impact to the racial composition of Rahway High School.

The sending-receiving relationship between Winfield and Rahway has been in existence for approximately forty-one years. Currently, Rahway High School has 924 students, thirty-seven of whom are from Winfield. The minority students attending Rahway total 506, or 54.7%, and the non-minority students total 418, or 45.3%. Four of Winfield's students are minority students. The breakdown of the 280 students attending high school in Kenilworth is approximately 20% minority and 80% non-minority. Under the various statistics proffered by the parties, severance would result in an approximately 1.9% decrease in the proportion of white students attending Rahway and a gross percentage decrease in the overall white student population of 7.9%. The minority student population would increase to 56.6% and the non-minority population would decrease to 43.4%.

The statistical changes are plainly not significant, however, the impact of the changes must be examined under the relevant case law. See Merchantville, supra, SB #48-92 at 7 (citing Englewood, supra, 257 N.J. Super. 413).

Merchantville and Belmar, despite their non-binding effect,[11] deserve consideration due to the Board's attempts at interpretation and application of Englewood to circumstances that are arguably similar to those of the current matter and are offered by the parties as authority.

In Merchantville, despite the absence of evidence of "white flight" and its attendant "symbolic loss," the State Board was particularly concerned that the proposed severance would transplant a substantially white group of students (residents of Merchantville) from a diverse school environment (in Pennsauken) to one it described as "virtually all white" (Haddonfield). The Belmar State Board was equally concerned with the lack of diversity in the proposed receiving district (Manasquan), but properly focused its attention on the circumstance that concerned the court in Englewood, a decision by which we are truly bound.

In Englewood, the existing receiving school (Dwight Morrow in Englewood) was 11.8% white and 82.2% non-white and the proposed receiving school was 8% non-white (Tenafly). In Belmar, the proposed receiving school was overwhelmingly white (Manasquan) and the existing receiving school (Asbury Park) was 83% non-white. Thus, in both Belmar and Englewood, the review bodies were concerned primarily with the stigma, social impact and symbolic loss attendant upon a removal of a relatively small number of white children from an overwhelmingly non-white school and placing them in an overwhelmingly white new receiving district. Doing so, they found, would violate the State's policy of discouraging or at least failing to condone the level of concentration of minority students in Dwight Morrow High School and Asbury Park High School. In so stating, the Board in Belmar noted that the elimination of school segregation was not to be sought as an end in itself, but because such imbalance stands as a deterrent to the improvement of education.

[11] The concept of stare decisis is more "subject to the basic notion that experience is a teacher and not a jailer" in administrative proceedings than in a court. In re Masiello, 25 N.J. 590, 598-99 (1958). The OAL is a quasi-judicial forum designed to ensure that an agency head will make determinations for which s/he is statutorily responsible only after full consideration of all the relevant facts and applicable law. This forum gives an agency head the opportunity to assure himself or herself that his/her administrative determination will be worthy of the presumption of validity and reasonableness usually accorded by the courts. An agency is not irrevocably committed to its own precedents. When appropriate, an agency head may determine that it is time for a change in interpretation or that a predecessor's interpretation was just plain wrong. An administrative agency's departure from a previous interpretation, which is explained and justified, will require the same deference from the courts as long as the decision is not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, regardless of consistency.

Evidence of symbolic loss, from the testimony and statements of students and teachers showing that students would feel betrayed if severance were approved, was a consideration in Englewood, and would apply equally to Belmar in light of the high concentration of minority students in Asbury Park, but such evidence was lacking in Merchantville. Similarly, no such evidence has been submitted in this matter.

While Englewood indicated that the court's opinion was supported by the State's educational policy of promoting equal educational opportunity in an integrated setting, as was the Board's opinion in Belmar, the Board in Merchantville decided that the policy is not limited to situations where a significant imbalance has already occurred. Thus, the Merchantville Board found it appropriate that the policy be applied to the circumstances of Pennsauken High School in order to "maintain the stability of the [school's] sensitive racial balance," characterized by the Board as close to ideal. Merchantville, supra, SB #48-92 at 17. The Board refused to take an action that would even marginally increase the minority population in the receiving district, especially when the new district was "virtually all white."

It is difficult to deny severance in the present matter in light of the statute's preference for sending district choice absent evidence of racial concentrations like those described in Englewood and Belmar. The percentage of minority students attending Rahway High School, currently 55%, cannot be characterized as imbalanced, particularly when compared to the obvious imbalance in Dwight Morrow (82.2%) and Asbury Park (83%). Further, Rahway's expert testified that any school between 40% and 60% non-white is "in balance." Recognizing, respecting and agreeing with the State's educational policy against segregation, one must also obey the mandate of the governing statute, which recognizes and respects the sending district's say in where its children are educated and how its tax money is spent.

Absent evidence that an overriding social policy is being violated, the Winfield parents should decide, through their representatives on the Winfield Board of Education, where and how their children should be educated.

I CONCLUDE that there is insufficient evidence that an overriding social policy will be violated by granting the application for severance. I so CONCLUDE on the grounds that severance will not have a substantial negative impact on the quality of education or the racial composition of the affected districts.

ORDER

It is therefore ORDERED that Winfield be and hereby is authorized to terminate its existing sending-receiving relationship with Rahway and to enter into a new sending-receiving relationship with Kenilworth, subject to the following conditions:

1. Winfield must enter into a contract for a new sending-receiving relationship with Kenilworth for a minimum duration of five years; and

2. Withdrawal shall be phased out over a four-year period, starting with the incoming ninth-grade class in September 2000, the ninth- and tenth-grade classes in September 2001, the ninth-, tenth- and eleventh-grade classes in September 2002 and the ninth-, tenth-, eleventh- and twelfth-grade classes in September 2003.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WINFIELD, UNION COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF RAHWAY, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions of respondent, Rahway Board of Education (hereinafter "Rahway"), and replies of petitioner, Winfield Board of Education (hereinafter "Winfield"), were filed in accordance with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Rahway urges that the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) decision be rejected and the within sending-receiving relationship be continued. Its exceptions, presented verbatim, argue:

1. The Judge's Order fails to maintain the stability of Rahway High School's sensitive racial balance and instead would result in pushing it closer to an imbalanced status.

2. The Judge's conclusion that there was no submission of evidence of "symbolic loss" is correct in that there was no testimony or statements of students or teachers concerning same. However, the Respondent's expert witness, Dr. Judith A. Ferguson, both in her report dated May 31, 1999, Exhibit R-1, at page 11, and in her testimony (T 7/21/99, P78, Lines 12-22) stated that losing white students has a negative impact on the remaining black students, and she continues at (T 7/21/99, P79, Lines 3-11) that it (the loss of white students) could negatively impact the achievement level of the black students.

3. The Judge concludes that the mere reduction and the degree of diversity may or may not be a negative impact in a vacuum, and there was no evidence that when the new receiving district is also diverse, the negative impact is substantial. However, Dr. Judith A. Ferguson testified (T 7/21/99, P84, Line 8) that Kenilworth is much less diverse than Rahway and at (T 7/21/99, P 100) that the exposure to black students would be dramactically [sic] reduced at David Brearley, factors which it is argued should most certainly be considered.

4. Contrary to the Judge's Order, the evidence clearly shows that permitting the severance would have a substantial negative impact on the racial composition of the affected Districts.

Winfield's reply exceptions, preliminarily, assert that the exceptions filed by Rahway are, as a matter of law, insufficient to provide the Commissioner with a basis for rejecting or in any way modifying the ALJ's Initial Decision in this matter. It cites N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(b)(3) for the proposition that a party opposing an ALJ's conclusions of law must cite in its exceptions the legal authority which forms the basis for its exceptions. Winfield urges that Rahway failed to offer a single authority in support of its exceptions but, rather, merely made blanket assertions that the ALJ was incorrect. Such assertions, it maintains, are insufficient to provide the foundation for reversing or modifying the ALJ's decision. (Winfield's Reply Exceptions at 1-2) Winfield also objects to Rahway's challenge to the ALJ's factual findings and credibility determinations, since Rahway failed to provide transcripts to the agency, as required by Matter of Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143 (App. Div. 1987), to allow the Commissioner to evaluate the correctness of its assertions in this regard. Winfield asserts that Rahway apparently wants the Commissioner to reverse the ALJ's decision based upon "paraphrased and isolated statements" advanced by its expert witness at hearing. Winfield maintains that, without review of the entire transcript, including numerous contradictions of this expert's testimony revealed in cross-examination, "the Commissioner has no way of knowing that many of the statements provided by Rahway's expert lacked any meaningful evidential support." (Winfield's Reply Exceptions at 3)

Substantively, in response to Rahway's exception advancement that the ALJ's order failed to maintain racial stability, Winfield warrants that such a proposition "is false and against the clear weight of credible evidence presented at the hearing." (Id.) It argues:

> At the hearing, Rahway's expert relied upon a study that defined what is meant by a "balanced high school." Dr. Ferguson pointed out that the racial composition of Rahway High School is currently "in balance" (Exhibit R-1, p. 6). In her report, Dr. Ferguson cited Gray-Little and Carels' definition of a balanced high school as "40-60% of the school's population the same as the student's race" (Exhibit R-1, p. 9). Dr. Ferguson admitted that the racial balance of Rahway would remain within the 40% to 60% range with or without the Winfield students in its population (Ferguson – Cross, August 19, 1999, p. 17). Dr. Ferguson also agreed that the only way this balance could be disrupted would be by Rahway's own enrollment fluctuations (Ferguson – Cross, August 19, 1999, p. 17) Accordingly, Rahway's own expert and sole witness admitted that "racial balance" really was not at issue in this case. (Id. at 3-4)[1]

Further, Winfield advances, the ALJ, after acknowledging the realities and pitfalls of racially imbalanced schools, and exhaustively examining existing case law where such balance issues were critical in denying severance, determined that this particular concern did not come into play in the within matter, stating:

> It is difficult to deny severance in the present matter in light of the statute's preference for sending district choice absent evidence of racial concentrations like those described in Englewood and Belmar.

[1]Although Winfield's reply exceptions stated that, because it was using statements contained in Dr. Ferguson's cross-examination as a part of its argument, a copy of the transcript was being forwarded to the Commissioner with the hard copy of its reply exceptions, the referenced submission filed with the Commissioner did not include any transcripts.

> The percentage of minority students attending Rahway High School, currently 55%, cannot be characterized as imbalanced, particularly when compared to the obvious imbalance in Dwight Morrow (82.2%) and Asbury Park (83%). Further, Rahway's expert testified that any school between 40% and 60% non-white is "in balance." [Initial] Decision, pg. 41. (Winfield's Reply Exceptions at 4)

Winfield, therefore, contends that given the within record lacks any proof in substantiation of Rahway's contention of racial imbalance, its exception in this regard should be disregarded.

Winfield next states that it finds Rahway's exception with regard to "symbolic loss" perplexing, to say the least. While readily conceding that the ALJ correctly found that there was no objective evidence presented to establish any actual or potential psychological impact on Rahway minorities as a consequence of losing Winfield white students, Rahway contends that the ALJ "should have accepted its expert's speculation that severance could adversely impact Rahway students." (Id. at 5) (emphasis in original) Winfield advances that absent some objective proof tending to support its expert's conclusory statements which, it avers, Rahway had every opportunity to proffer but failed to do so, the mere "opinion" of this individual cannot serve to discredit the ALJ's ruling which is well supported in the record and case law. (Id.)

Responding to Rahway's argument that severance should be denied because Kenilworth is less diverse than Rahway and, therefore, Winfield students would not receive a culturally diverse education, Winfield avows that such a contention is categorically untrue. As recognized by the ALJ and fully evident in the record, it advances, "Kenilworth has a substantial minority population that comprises approximately 20% of its total student body." (Id. at 7) Winfield points out that the ALJ thoroughly and carefully addressed this very issue, in light of current case law stating:

> What distinguishes the proposed move of Merchantville students from Pennsauken to Haddonfield in Merchantville from the situation in the extant case is that here the proposed new receiving district is diverse, just not as diverse as the current receiving district. In Merchantville, the proposed receiving district was not at all diverse (described as "virtually all white" by the State Board [at 15]), and the current receiving district had a minority high school population of 25%.
>
> Thus the facts are clearly distinguishable on the educational impact issue. What Merchantville stands for is the proposition that a racially diverse environment is the preferred environment and I agree. The mere reduction in the degree of diversity may or may not be a negative impact in a vacuum, but there was no evidence before me that when the new receiving district is also diverse (and apparently more diverse than the Winfield community) the negative impact is substantial.
>
> I agree that severing a send-receive relationship with a diverse educational community to enter a relationship with a non-diverse educational community would result in a substantial negative impact on educational quality. I cannot, however, from the evidence before me, conclude that the proposed severance here would result in such a substantial negative impact. [Initial Decision], pp. 22-23.
> (Id. at 8; bolding emphasis in original)

Notwithstanding Rahway's unsupported declarations to the contrary, Winfield proffers, Kenilworth, where one out of every six students is from a different cultural, ethnic or religious background, would provide Winfield students with a very diverse education, and, therefore, Rahway's "specious" exception should be dismissed as meritless. (Id. at 8-9)

Finally, Winfield categorizes Rahway's last exception argument as "nothing more than a blanket statement that the Court was incorrect," which does not rise to the level of an exception. Because, it advances, at no time has Rahway persuasively established that any substantial negative impact would inure as a result of severance, Winfield urges that the Initial Decision be adopted. (Id. at 10)

Upon his careful and independent review of the record, including the exception submissions of the parties, the Commissioner affirms the conclusion of the ALJ that the termination of the sending-receiving relationship between Winfield and Rahway will not result in any substantial negative financial, educational or racial impact and, therefore, severance must be granted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13. In so determining, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that it is uncontested in the record that the severance of the sending-receiving relationship would have no substantial financial impact. (Initial Decision at 19-20) Similarly, the Commissioner is persuaded, for the reasons outlined by the ALJ in his decision, that the requested severance will not result in a substantial negative impact on educational quality for either Rahway or Winfield students.

The pivotal issue in this case is whether negative racial impact arising as a consequence of a potential severance is "substantial" so as to defeat Winfield's application for severance. Rahway's exceptions dispute: 1) facts and conclusions of the ALJ with respect to the psychological effect that withdrawal of the white Winfield students could have on the remaining black students; 2) his finding that decrease in the white population at Rahway would not seriously affect the racial balance of Rahway; and 3) his finding that there was no evidence that, when moving to a receiving district which is also diverse, any negative impact is substantial. Rahway's exceptions request the Commissioner to overturn such determinations, claiming that they are belied by the testimony of its sole witness, Dr. Judith Ferguson, testimony to which, Rahway advances, the ALJ obviously failed to ascribe the proper weight and credence. However, the record before the Commissioner does not include transcripts of the five days of OAL hearings in this matter. It is axiomatic that challenges to the factual findings predicated upon testimony and resultant credibility determinations made by an ALJ require the party to supply the agency head with the relevant and necessary portion of the transcript. See Matter of Morrison, supra, at 158 (App. Div. 1987). Thus, without the ability to conduct a pertinent transcript review from which to draw his own conclusions, the Commissioner defers to the determinations reached by the ALJ who was in a position to hear and adjudge the credibility of witnesses. See Parker v. Dornbierer, 140 N.J. Super. 185, 188 (App. Div. 1976) Upon his full review, the Commissioner determines that such findings and conclusions of the ALJ are well grounded in the record and such record, additionally, does not provide any cause to challenge the weight ascribed by the ALJ to the testimony of Rahway's expert. Consequently, Rahway's exception challenges to credibility assessments made by the ALJ and the factual findings predicated thereon, are rejected as being without merit.

The Commissioner finds the ALJ's analysis of the racial impact issue, wherein he thoroughly reviewed the governing case law (Initial Decision at 23-37) and applied its principles to the particular facts and testimonial and evidentiary proofs advanced by the parties in this matter (Id. at 37-42), to be comprehensive and cogent. The ALJ recognized that "severance here would result in an approximately 1.9% decrease in the proportion of white students attending Rahway and a gross percentage decrease in the overall white student population of 7.9%" (Id. at 39), statistical changes which, in and of themselves are not significant, and ones which, according to its own expert, would not leave Rahway a racially out-of-balance school. (See Initial Decision at 41.) After fully considering the State Board's pronouncement in this connection in Board of Education of the Borough of Merchantville, Camden County v. Board of Education of the Township of Pennsauken, Camden County v. Board of Education of the Borough of Haddonfield, Camden County, decided by the State Board January 7, 1998, wherein it stated at 7:

> wereject the view that a statistical change in the racial composition of the current receiver is alone dispositive of whether a significant negative impact will result from severance. Englewood, supra. Rather, as mandated by the statute, it is imperative that the > significance of the statistical change in a particular case be evaluated under "all of the circumstances"

the ALJ determined that, under the totality of the circumstances established here, this matter was clearly distinguishable from Englewood, supra, Merchantville, supra, and Belmar, supra, and he concluded that no substantial negative impact has been demonstrated here.

That some impact on Rahway and Winfield, both positive and negative, will follow from termination is a proposition implicitly recognized. However, the operative language of the controlling statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13, requires that the Commissioner, in making a determination on a petition to terminate a sending-receiving relationship, shall grant the requested relief if no substantial negative impact be found to result. Also particularly pertinent here is the State Board's clarification of the allocation of the burden of proof in these matters:

> [W]e find that the initial burden of production on the petitioning party may be met by production of a feasibility study as required by the statute and the submission of appropriate proofs as to where its children are to be educated upon severance of the sending-receiving relationship. See Absecon Bd. of Ed. v. Pleasantville Bd. of Ed., decided by the State Board of Education, October 7, 1988. Obviously, the feasibility study must address, at a minimum, all of the areas specifically set forth in the statute, and petitioner must establish in the proceedings the factual basis underlying the study so as to withstand challenge by the party contesting termination. Once the petitioning board has met its initial burden of production, the burden shifts to the party contesting termination to go forward with evidence that termination will result in a negative impact.
>
> The allocation of the burden of production delineated above does not shift the ultimate burden of persuading the Commissioner that termination is mandated or warranted. That burden remains on the petitioning party. However, where a petitioner has met its initial burden of production in proceedings under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-13, the claim by the respondent that termination will have a substantial negative impact is in the nature of an affirmative defense. Thus, it is appropriate that the party asserting that claim bear the burden of showing that a negative impact outweighing any positive benefits of termination will result.

(Board of Education of the Borough of Merchantville, Camden County v. Board of Education of the Township of Pennsauken, Camden County v. Board of Education of the Borough of Haddonfield, Camden County, State Board of Education decision on motion, decided on Sept. 7, 1990, at 5-6)

The Commissioner finds, as did the ALJ, that Winfield has fulfilled its responsibility pursuant to the State Board's directive. On the other hand, the record is devoid of competent, credible evidence to substantiate the allegations and apparent speculations of Rahway and its expert that substantial negative impact will ensue from the granting of severance and, thus, the Commissioner concludes that Rahway has failed to meet its burden in this regard. Consequently, absent a showing of substantial financial, educational, or racial negative impact herein, the Commissioner is required to grant the requested severance.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein. Winfield's application for severance of its sending-receiving relationship with Rahway is hereby granted, subject to its entering into a new sending-receiving relationship with Kenilworth for a minimum duration of five years. Withdrawal shall be phased out over a four-year period, beginning with the incoming 9th grade class in September 2000.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning tenured teaching staff member appealed the Board's nonrenewal of his contract as Head Boys Soccer Coach for the 1999-2000 school year.

The ALJ determined that the Board's action in not renewing petitioner's coaching contract was not in violation of statute or implementing rule.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision for the reasons expressed therein.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 87-4/99

STEVEN COHEN,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUUCATION OF

THE TOWNSHIP OF JACKSON,

Respondent.

Brent D. Miller, Esq., for petitioner (Starkey, Kelly, Blaney & White, attorneys)

Francis J. Campbell, Esq., for respondent (Kalac, Newman, Lavender & Campbell, attorneys)

Record Closed: December 6, 1999 Decided: January 14, 2000

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

Steven Cohen, petitioner, alleges that the Jackson Township Board of Education violated State education law and regulations when it failed to renew his contract as head soccer coach for the 1999-2000 school year. The petitioner seeks an order of the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) reinstating him to the position of head coach, awarding back pay and providing such other relief as the Commissioner may determine proper.

The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education upon filing of a verified petition of appeal. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. The matter was heard on November 19, 1999 at the Office of Administrative Law facility, Trenton. The parties timely filed post-hearing submissions and the record was closed on December 6, 1999.

ISSUES

This tribunal was asked to determine whether Cohen's nonrenewal was arbitrary, capricious or in violation of statute or administrative code.

PAROL AND DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE

Steven M. Cohen

The petitioner testified that he has been at Jackson Memorial High School for eleven years as a physical education teacher. He has also served as a coach. He has taught and coached at Dayton and Matawan High Schools. His soccer coaching began in 1973.

At Jackson, he began as girls' junior high school coach. In or about 1992 there was a need at the high school. Athletic Director Reider approached the petitioner concerning a coaching position at the high school.

The petitioner says the former coach had discipline problems as well as problems with parents. The petitioner took the high school position and immediately set up a disciplinary code. Profanity was banned and a good sportsmanship policy was created and enforced.

The petitioner was always on an annual contract which was usually executed in June. His 1998-99 contract was for approximately $4,900. If he had a received a 1999-2000 contract, it would have been for approximately $200 more.

It was the petitioner's practice to begin the year with July practices. His teams participated in a summer tournament. There was usually a late summer pizza party at the high school. Meetings and practices were held regularly, even on some weekends. The team played an 18-20 game season, half of which were away games. The petitioner regularly wrote to college coaches on behalf of seniors and made telephone calls on the same subject. The petitioner states he had good rapport with students, parents and coaches. He had a particularly good relationship with administrators. In or about late August 1998 the son of a colleague and former coach tried out for the team. The petitioner regarded this situation as sensitive in that the colleague was trying to get back his coaching job. The witness assigned the son to others to coach and evaluate. He took their recommendations and did not select the colleague's son to play in goal.

He also had to decide which young men would play junior varsity (JV) and which would play varsity. He put the colleague's son on the junior varsity squad. All JV squad members knew they could work their way onto the varsity team.

On a certain occasion, the colleague accosted Cohen in a parking lot. Cohen stepped out of his truck and the other man assaulted and struck him. At that time, the colleague allegedly said he would use his influence to "get" Cohen's job. The witness also stated it is common knowledge that the colleague and the Board president's brother-in-law were friends. In addition, the colleague and the Director of Athletics were friends.

Cohen offered to resign. Superiors advised him not to resign. They said they would take care of the matter in-house. The petitioner rejected a complaint to police because both he and the other teaching staff member would have had to be suspended. In addition, the case would reduce to a matter of one's word against the other's.

Before Thanksgiving, the Director of Athletics called him in and told Cohen his contract would not be renewed. The Director indicated that it was not his decision. Cohen asked if it were all right to go to the Director of Personnel and the Director agreed. A meeting was set up quickly. In early December the petitioner met with the Director of Personnel and the high school principal. According to Cohen, they both indicated that it was the Director of Athletics' recommendation that cost Cohen the contract. He then went back to the Director of Athletics.

The Director said that no matter what happened, his hands were tied. He also refused to write a letter in support of Cohen, although they did discuss trying to get Cohen one more year. The idea was to bring in a new coach, have Cohen work with the person to bring him or her along and then resign with dignity at the end of the season. This did not come about.

The petitioner identified exhibit P-1, a memorandum from the Director of Athletics to him concerning Cohen's improvement plan. Six questions are posited:

1. How will you deal with the number of parent "complaints"?

2. The Boys Program "seems" to be split into two groups. How will you rectify this to unify the program?

3. How will you gain the respect of the returning players?

4. Describe motivational techniques you will use to raise the level of play and get the athletes to work in the off season.

5. What steps will you take to insure the competitiveness of the program?

6. How do you plan to deal with the pressure of high expectations of the parent's and fans?

[sic].

Cohen stated concerning parent complaints that they always exist, usually if a parent's son is not being played. Concerning question 2, he denied that there was any split in the way he treats or assigns players. The young men are simply assigned in accord with their abilities. There are freshman, JV and varsity squads.

Concerning gaining respect of returning players, Cohen said he has always had it. Concerning questions 4, 5 and 6, Cohen pointed to his response (P-2) to the Director dated January 12, 1999. In this memorandum he elaborates on the answers to points 1, 2 and 3 and concerning points 4, 5 and 6 he elaborates even more. The gist is that Cohen believes he has each of the concerns under control and has made plans to address each point.

The petitioner met on January 15, 1999 with the high school principal and the Director of Athletics concerning his coach's evaluation report of that date (P-3). His annual evaluations have always been positive. Exhibit P-3 says he needs improvement, but the witness contends that was because of one red card at an early tournament game and, further, that the card was provoked.

On page 2, the evaluator states:

> Although, all of the above items but one were satisfactory except sportsmanship, they represent only the logistical end of coaching but as the attached job description shows there is more to coaching than just the nuts and bolts. [sic.]

The petitioner knows the job description and believes he has lived up to it. Director of Athletics Carretta found his responses lacking, but gave no details to the petitioner.

On or about January 20, the petitioner met with his union representative, Anthony Bombaci, the high school principal, Harry Reider and Director of Athletics Carretta. The administrators expressed that they were extremely sorry, but would not recommend that Cohen be given another contract based in the main on his responses to Carretta's memorandum (P-1). Cohen asked what more he could do. The response was that parental problems existed now and Cohen indicated he would meet with parents. The administrators expressed the opinion that that should have been done before the date of the meeting. Cohen again offered to meet with the parents and was advised that it was too late.

Cohen further testified that the principal said he liked Cohen and, despite having said that he would not recommend Cohen for rehire, he wanted to think overnight about the matter. On the morning of January 21, 1999, Reider conveyed to Cohen that he was sorry, but would not recommend reappointment.

The petitioner identified his rebuttal to the evaluation (P-4). He also identified a letter of support from a coach at another high school (P-7) and thank you notes from parents that he had received at the end-of-year soccer banquet (P-8, P-9).

Cohen stated he was not present at the January 1999 Board meeting because he was told nothing about it. On February 23, 1999, a second Board meeting was held at the insistence of Cohen's union. Cohen attended with a union representative and made a presentation. The Board said it would consider what he had said. Cohen later received notice from Superintendent Elms that the Board had decided not to offer him a contract.

Cohen also testified that, before the meeting, a Board member said that he was "in your corner," but would abstain from voting because of personal friendship with Cohen. Later in the year at a sports banquet, a Board member told Cohen that he and all Board members had received materials from a man named Costa, the same person who had earlier vowed to get Cohen's job and who had been involved in an altercation with Cohen in the school parking lot.

Cohen also testified that in his meeting with Superintendent Elms and Director Bygott, he offered to resign if it would help the school. Elms and Bygott had both said that he should not resign because then "Costa would win out." Nearer to Thanksgiving, Cohen met with Carretta and Carretta suggested that it would be better if Cohen resigned. Cohen was unwilling at that time to resign. At some point, Cohen had asked for just one year so that he could go out with dignity. So far as he knows, there was no reason for his nonrenewal other than political considerations. There were no parental complaints except for parents who always complain if their son is not being played. Two other teachers as well as Costa complained about their sons not playing or not playing at the varsity level. On one occasion Carretta told Cohen that a teacher named Garbos had come in with a complaint, but it was "all taken care of." Cohen expressed his respect and friendship for Principal Reider and Athletic Director Carretta.

When asked about the responses (P-2) to Carretta's memorandum, the witness conceded that he did not mention parental complaints dealing with a boy not playing or not playing at a higher level. A teacher named Pepe never approached Cohen with a complaint. He did call Cohen about his son trying out for the team. Cohen had had two weeks of tryouts. Each young man trying out for the team received a packet of information which included instructions as to when to appear. Pepe wanted special consideration for his son because the son was playing baseball at the time. Cohen advised Pepe to get the young man to some of the tryouts. He told Pepe, "I'll work with you." The young man actually was trying out for the freshman team and came to only one tryout. The decision was made by the freshman coach, not Cohen.

So far as Cohen knows, the confrontation with Costa was the only problem between them. He recalls no statement by a teacher named Garbos to the Board that Garbos was originally one of Cohen's most vocal critics. Cohen concedes that in evaluations before exhibit P-3 it was usually suggested that he attend more clinics and try to alleviate any red cards (ejections from the game for commission of fouls). This was an ongoing part of his Professional Improvement Program. Cohen stated he does not consider an illegal tackle, drawing a yellow or warning card, necessarily a sportsmanship problem.

The petitioner believes Costa exerted influence over the situation. However, Costa is not a coach now. He believes Costa has resigned but did not want to resign.

Cohen acknowledged an excerpt from Board minutes dated January 26, 1999 supplied in answer to interrogatories. It clearly shows Board approval by a vote of 6-0 of Cohen's nonrenewal. In response to another interrogatory, Cohen stated he did not receive a letter from the superintendent dated February 24. However, when shown a copy of that letter, Cohen acknowledged that he had seen it. It contains official notice of his nonrenewal. He knew from his union representative that he was not renewed even before the letter from the superintendent. Cohen never requested reasons in writing for his nonrenewal. He does recall filing a grievance. He had the superintendent's letter (P-6) referring to reasons in Carretta's evaluation. He began the grievance process at the end of March 1999. A settlement offer was put forward but not accepted. The grievance was denied and Cohen was so advised.

Cohen believes his friends, particularly the Director of Athletics and the high school principal were under pressure from above generated by Costa and presumably through Board members. He knows that Costa was forced to resign as boys' soccer coach sometime in the early 1990s. He then became a girls' soccer coach and has since resigned that position. Cohen believes Costa is behind his problems. Costa has been campaigning for years to get back the boys' coaching position.

Joel Menzzopane

Joel Menzzopane, father of a soccer player and a soccer fan, testified as to Cohen's character and ability as a coach. He believes Cohen to be fair and reasonable and to make good use of discipline. The witness represented that the boys' soccer program had a bad reputation until Cohen took it over.

In September or October 1998 the witness went to the Director of Athletics in support of Cohen. The witness also stated that his son is a goalie and has just completed his last high school season, a season not under Coach Cohen. The witness stated that coaching this year has been good, that goalies are rotated and that the team has had a good year. The witness is a coach for the Jackson Soccer Club, a private organization that fields a team of seventeen- and eighteen-year-old players.

Michael J. Tomaino

Michael J. Tomaino knows Cohen as a colleague. Tomaino was a teacher and is now a guidance counselor. He has been a soccer coach. Approximately two years ago he received a telephone call from a teacher named Pepe. Pepe represented that the family was on vacation during soccer tryouts. Pepe had called Cohen. The witness suggested that Pepe get his son to the school before tryouts. The witness saw the younger Pepe only once and he believes that was on the first day of tryouts. The young man was not recommended for the team.

How many young men make the roster each year varies. It would not be unusual if forty to forty-two boys tried out and twenty-two to twenty-five boys made the team. It comes down to a "moral" decision. Some boys came to all eight days of tryouts and were cut. It would not be fair to accept the younger Pepe who had attended only one day of tryouts.

The witness was freshman soccer coach for three years. Prior to that, he coached at the middle school level. This year he is assistant coach of boys' varsity soccer. In the 1998 season, his team did not practice at the same time as the varsity. In 1998 he had some, but not much, contact with Cohen. The present head coach is Fred Napoli. Napoli's knowledge of the game is good and the team has had a successful year. Napoli came from employment in Elizabeth and has both high school and college soccer coaching experience. As a coach, he sees some value in the rotation of goalies.

Anthony Bombaci

Anthony Bombaci is a teacher in Jackson. He knows Cohen as a colleague. Bombaci is the Jackson Education Association building representative for the high school. In January 1999 he attended a meeting with the high school principal for Cohen. Director of Athletics Carretta and High School Principal Reider were present. They went over Carretta's evaluation of Cohen and reviewed Cohen's responses. The witness suggested that Cohen be given one more year.

The witness has seen Cohen as a wrestling coach and believes he interacts well with pupils. He believes that Cohen is a good person and a good coach. He also knows Reider was an excellent wrestling coach and was, for a time, Director of Athletics. He assumes Reider was knowledgeable about athletics in general.

The witness still coaches strength and conditioning and also competitive power lifting. After the 1998 season, the recommendation as to who would coach in 1999 would have to come from the athletic director, go through the building principal and then go to the central office. The athletic director is Carretta, a former coach, the principal is Reider, a former coach and athletic director, and the director of personnel, Bygott, is a former high school principal.

Edward Garbos

Edward Garbos teaches mathematics at the middle school. He is currently the liaison between middle school coaches and Carretta. He coaches girls' softball and is a volunteer boys' freshman soccer coach. He has been a teacher and a coach for twenty-nine years. His children have played for Cohen and he believes there is no finer soccer coach. He expressed this opinion to Carretta and to the Board. He called parents on Cohen's behalf and assured a good turnout at the Board meeting at which Cohen's renewal was considered.

Garbos testified concerning Costa's attendance and loud remarks at certain soccer games. Upon hearing a rumor that Cohen would not be renewed, the witness immediately went to Carretta on Cohen's behalf. The witness believes that Costa and the school principal are close friends and he believes that Costa and a Board member are close friends.

At the February 1999 meeting, the witness spoke for Cohen. He also spoke to Pepe that night. Pepe believed his son should have been kept on the team as "a professional courtesy." He has heard occasional parent laments along the sidelines, but nothing serious. At some point before the February Board meeting, the witness heard Costa make a statement in a local market to the effect that "we got rid of Cohen." Garbos stated that he apologized to Cohen and also to parents to whom he had made comments about Cohen.

Steven J. Bado

Steven J. Bado has been a special education for six years in Jackson Township. He has been a junior varsity boys' soccer coach for four years. For the last two years he has also been assistant girls' and boys' middle school coach. He has worked with Cohen and admires Cohen's abilities.

In August 1998, he saw the Costa-Cohen confrontation. Cohen had announced the 1998 starting lineup. Costa approached Cohen about this and Cohen told Costa to set up a meeting. Costa's response was an obscenity. Cohen got out of his vehicle and Costa struck Cohen. Cohen got back into his vehicle and left the scene. There was a further exchange between Costa and the witness. A colleague named Wilson got between them and ended the exchange.

The witness says he was called by Carretta about playing Costa's son in a middle school game. He did not receive the call directly and had to return Carretta's call. He was informed that the call concerned Costa's son. The witness told Carretta he was playing a better player.

Carretta said that Bado had to play Costa's son or it would harm Cohen. Carretta allegedly told Bado that he had had calls from two administrators and a Board member concerning the Costa boy. Bado also testified that, as part of his involvement as JV coach, he confers regularly with the head coach as to the placement of players. He controlled his own JV team, but had no input concerning the varsity team. Head Coach Napoli makes those decisions.

The petitioner rested and the Board moved to dismiss. The petitioner survived the motion and the Board presented its case.

Ralph G. Carretta

Carretta has been in Jackson Township for seventeen or eighteen years, beginning as a physical education teacher. He has coached baseball, basketball and other sports. He served as supervisor of physical education and as high school vice principal prior to his service as Director of Athletics. He has had experience in other districts.

The witness has known Cohen for twelve or more years. They worked together for the recreation department and worked together in Little League. They have a good working relationship and friendship.

Evaluations of coaches were instituted in or about 1994. The witness prepared exhibit P-3, Cohen's evaluation dated January 15, 1999. He noted there was a need for improvement. In his opinion, this is an unsatisfactory evaluation. He believed players were losing enthusiasm. Parent concerns were being expressed more frequently and he had a fear of injury in the 1999 season because of "turmoil" surrounding the team. Carretta wanted a new start.

Before Carretta made a recommendation not to renew Cohen's contract, but after he spoke with Cohen, he received the petition from players in support of Cohen's renewal. Some parents called him by telephone and instructed him to remove their sons' signatures from the petition. Other players expressed dismay and the team captain was quite frank in expressing in the opinion that a change was needed.

Carretta's opportunity to speak to Cohen came with review of Cohen's Professional Improvement Plan. Carretta had no desire to see Cohen suffer publicly, yet wanted to rectify the situation he perceived. It was an agonizing decision. He had to weigh the needs of the team and program against what was good for Cohen. In recent years he had discussed problems, but not nonrenewal, with Cohen. There was no one precipitating incident here. He and staff talked about all aspects of the soccer program at all levels. They looked at needs and future direction. This occurred at approximately Thanksgiving time 1998. Carretta then called in Cohen and advised Cohen that Carretta would recommend that Cohen's contract not be renewed.

Garbos came to Carretta and spoke about the program, mainly Garbos' son, but also about parents' sideline complaints. Carretta said that these comments were better directed to Cohen. A few weeks later, Garbos said to Carretta, "I think I have it worked out." Concerning Mr. Pepe, the witness agreed with Michael Tomaino's testimony about Pepe and Pepe's son.

Costa teaches history at the high school and was boys' soccer coach before Cohen. At that time boys played in fall and girls played in spring. About six or seven years ago, Costa "lost" the boys' soccer team assignment. The witness is not sure whether Costa was nonrenewed or resigned. There had been turmoil on the field and the administration believed it was time for a change. The witness knows Costa well and expressed the belief that Cohen and Costa are personality opposites. Costa is volatile where as Cohen is thoughtful and works cooperatively.

Carretta had some concerns in each of the areas raised in his memo of January 6, 1999 (P-1). He also closely read Cohen's responses (P-2). Some of the questions Carretta raised are generic and would be in any coach's plan. Pepe, Costa and Garbos had all come to Carretta with complaints. These were all parent staff members. Other parents complained to him and other administrators. When he received a complaint, he usually suggested a meeting between the coach and the parent. Parents usually backed away at this suggestion. The universal answer was no, it will hurt my son's chances of playing. Parents prefer to speak to athletic directors and principals. They fear that their children will receive less playing time if they speak directly with a coach.

A Mrs. Verdi complained to him about her son's playing time, the direction the team was going, an incident in which players wore pacifiers the day after a loss (a player idea) and other concerns. A Mr. Holman spoke to Principal Reider. Holman's son spoke to Carretta. Both were concerned with the team's competitiveness failing off. A Mr. Thigpen complained to Principal Reider. A Board member, Mr. Krakauer, expressed concern with the direction of the program to Carretta. Krakauer believed the program was not working at its optimum level.

In Carretta's second point in P-1, he mentions a "split". There seemed to be groups or camps within the team having to do with the Jackson Eagles, a nonschool team for seventeen-and-eighteen-year-old players. Carretta saw the need to get all returning players on the same page and get them to ignore discussions in the community going on about bringing the team back to its former level of success.

Carretta believes Cohen's responses avoid some of his concerns. Cohen ignored or waited too long to address parent concerns. Carretta's general reaction to Cohen's response was that they simply did not agree. Cohen was not seeing problems or the magnitude of problems.

Carretta and other administrators held a series of meetings after seeing Cohen's responses. They decided that change was needed or the situation would get worse for players. Over a period of two or three months they looked for a way to better serve players, reassure parents and protect Cohen. Among the things they considered were an additional year for Cohen, a better improvement plan and a voluntary resignation. The meeting of January 20, 1999, referred to above, was for the purpose of discussing Cohen's evaluation. That broke down, however. The focus turned to consideration of a fair "out" for Cohen. Reider said he would explore the possibility of one year. Reider also agreed that he and Cohen would meet the next day. Later on the 20th, Reider and Carretta met. They discussed the problem generally and concluded that one more year would not work, one more year would probably put the program at risk and one more year would certainly expose Cohen to failure.

The witness also testified concerning the testimony of other witnesses and Costa's alleged influence. Carretta stated that Costa disrupted the process, but did not have any influence. Costa was not renewed as head girls' soccer coach. This was Carretta's recommendation as well. In both instances, the factor uppermost in his mind was not to put someone in charge of a program who would have problems that could affect kids badly.

Carretta concedes that Cohen improved the program Costa left. In his early years, he had success with the team and was a good role model. More recently, Carretta had "inklings" from parents and players of potential problems. Four or five varsity players asked to speak to him privately and expressed concern with some problems. Players who believe they are not getting enough playing time are usually unhappy. He did not perceive that in the group of players that spoke to him. Carretta saw but did not receive the petition circulated by some players. Mr. Garbos showed it to him or at least told him about it. Carretta may or may not have told Cohen about players' complaints. He is sure that he did not mention the Garbos conversation. Carretta agrees that Cohen handled the Pepe matter properly. The pacifiers, even if used as a motivational tool and even if the players came up with the idea was not appropriate in Carretta's opinion. Carretta believes it was an assistant coach, not Cohen who approved the idea.

When Cohen relayed the decision to Cohen that Cohen would not be renewed, he did not use the phrase "the powers that be." Carretta also recalled that there was nearly daily communication between Cohen and him from 1993 forward. Program concerns were discussed regularly. Cohen knew about concerns and complaints expressed by parents. By January 1999, Carretta believes Cohen knew about most if not all parent concerns. The so-called split involving feeder programs had been discussed.

Carretta believes Bado was being put under pressure from Costa. Carretta did tell Bado not to draw any fire on Cohen. He does not believe that Costa's son should be punished for Costa's mistakes. Both Cohen and his assistant coach said that the Costa son was second on the depth chart, but close to number one. Carretta believes that when the son was moved to JV, it appeared to be a vindictive act. Principal Reider expressed the opinion that it looked like a vindictive act as did Board member Krakauer. Bado apparently put the Costa boy farther down the depth chart on the JV roster.

Francis X. Bygott

Bygott is Director of Personnel for the Jackson District. From 1980-1995, he served as high school principal. He has also been a middle school principal, a vice principal, a teacher and a coach. As high school principal, he was involved in coach selection. He knew both Cohen and Costa.

Concerning the selection process for the boys' soccer coach in 1999, he attended several meetings with Carretta, Reider and, occasionally, Superintendent Elms. There were many discussions about the program going in the wrong direction, low motivation on the part of players and parent complaints. It seemed clear to the witness that a coaching change was needed.

Near the end of the 1998 season, the witness became involved. On January 20, 1999 a meeting was scheduled among Cohen, his Association representative, Carretta, Reider and the witness. Cohen and his representative were advised that they would have an answer in a day or two. Following the meeting, at approximately 3 p.m., the witness met with Carretta, Reider and Elms in his office. The question of another year for Cohen was raised and the group discussed what that outcome might be. Reider and Carretta felt that the result would be more of the problems the program had experienced in the prior season. Reider said he would tell Cohen in the morning that Reider would not recommend Cohen's renewal. The superintendent's letter to Cohen was then written and mailed. The group had reached consensus.

Concerning statements made during the hearing about Costa's influence, the witness stated he knew that Reider and Costa were friends. Reider had a role in recommending that Costa not be renewed as girls' coach recently. Reider told Costa that Costa would either resign or he would be nonrenewed. That also was a consensus decision.

The witness identified an employee contract between the Board and Cohen dealing with the 1998-99 soccer season. It is the form usually used. It is signed by Cohen and the Board secretary. Under terms, the fourth is that either party may terminate the contract upon thirty days' notice. The decision not to renew Cohen was difficult. Cohen is a good person and is well liked by many people in the district. Problems with the program had to do with Cohen as a coach, not as person. Decisions, however, must be made based on what is good for students. The information he was provided indicated the program was in trouble and that did not bode well for athletes.

Cohen came to see Elms and Bygott. Bygott said they would rely on the information they had received from Carretta and Reider. At no time did the witness say he would intervene on Cohen's behalf. It was his recommendation, based on Carretta's and Reider's information and input, that Cohen not be renewed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the testimony and other evidence presented at hearing, and having assessed the credibility of the witnesses, I FIND:

1. The petitioner is a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Jackson Township Board of Education;

2. The petitioner is also a coach, having served in Jackson Township as girls' junior high school coach and then moving to the high school to coach at the varsity level;

3. The petitioner and the Board always executed an annual contract concerning the petitioner's coaching duties;

4. The Director of Athletics raised several points with the petitioner during formulation of the petitioner's Improvement Plan;

5. The Athletic Director's evaluation of Cohen was largely but not completely positive;

6. A series of meetings and communications with the petitioner was begun almost immediately upon end of the 1998 soccer season;

7. Ultimately, the Director of Athletics, the Director of Personnel, the high school principal and the superintendent reached an agreement that, on balance, the high school soccer program would advance better with a new coach;

8. The petitioner was advised and was also provided an opportunity to meet with the administration;

9. The petitioner was also provided an opportunity to appear before the Board of Education on February 23, 1999;

10. The Board agreed with administration recommendations and decided by a vote of 6-0 not to renew the petitioner's coaching contract;

11. Contemporaneously with the above-recited events, a staff member and former coach named Costa was openly antagonistic toward the petitioner and the record indicates that Costa was involved in considerable "anti-Cohen" talk and activity in the community.

DETERMINATION AND ORDER

The record amply supports the last finding. The record does not show a connection between Cohen's nonrenewal and Costa's deplorable behavior. Under New Jersey law, the possibility of the existence of an event or act does not tend to prove its probability. Fedorczyk v. Caribbean Cruise Lines, Ltd., 82 *F.*3rd 69 (3rd Cir. 1996). There is credible evidence that the administrators who ultimately made the nonrenewal recommendation to the Board of Education believed Costa disrupted the process rather than help it.

Cohen argued that Carretta and his superiors seemed to disagree as to who in the hierarchy created the impetus for nonrenewal. Cohen also suggests that complaints concerning him were insubstantial. Assuming, arguendo, these arguments to be correct, they fail to present the entire picture. The administrators, particularly Director Carretta, looked at the entire picture. This included much more than mere parental dissatisfaction which can be expected to crop up in virtually in any cocurricular activity. And, while each parental complaint by itself may have been insubstantial, it was not wrong of the administration to look at the totality of these complaints. Significantly, the Athletic Director was also approached by varsity players, including the team captain.

Cohen asserts that it was more than a coincidence that his problems occurred in the 1998 soccer season. At the beginning of this season there was a confrontation between Costa and Cohen. At the end of the season there was a suggestion that Cohen resign. While there was some discussion about possibly extending Cohen's coaching contract one more year, that did not come about. Again, this concentrates on some parts of the picture, without acknowledging the whole.

The testimony of Carretta and Bygott was clear and was credible because consistent with common experience and common sense. No one in this case has suggested that Cohen is other than a fine and personable human being. The administrators were acutely aware of this as evidenced by their consideration of one more year for Cohen to coach. Their testimony bespeaks a desire to cushion the effects on Cohen to the greatest extent possible. The administrators also had a responsibility to the student athletes. The team had not been as successful under Cohen in the last two seasons as it had been when he first took the reins.

This is not an unheard of scenario in secondary schools. A person may be particularly personable and admired, yet not be a successful coach. And, sadly, at whatever level played, sports programs tend to be judged on the won and lost record. An organization such as a public school cannot choose its pool of talent, but it can choose its coach.

Cohen argues that the Board would have this judge believe that this case is about a well-respected soccer coach who was removed due to a number of trivial complaints from unidentified pupils and parents. Cohen argues that is simply not the case and I agree. The case is about a coach who had many fine qualities but who was not the best person for the job at a given time. I also agree with Cohen that no tenure rights attach to coaching positions, yet a coach may not be removed for arbitrary or capricious reasons. The facts simply do not support a conclusion that the Board's action was arbitrary or capricious. The short answer is that the Board accepted the recommendation of its administrators and the administrators had sufficient information from which to conclude that the soccer program would benefit from new leadership.

School boards have always enjoyed broad discretion in decisions concerning the renewal, or not, of contracts of nontenured personnel including coaches and other persons involved in cocurricular activities. Nello Dallolio v. Board of Education of the City of Vineland, 1965 S.L.D. 18, 22. Teachers who serve as coaches and cocurricular advisors do not accrue tenure status in those positions. The case law is both clear and consistent: a school board is authorized to discontinue a coaching assignment at its discretion. Joseph J. Dignan v. Board of Education of the Rumson-Fair Haven Regional High School District, 1971 S.L.D. 336, aff'd State Board of Education, 1974 S.L.D. 1376.

The Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court has enunciated the same concept in the context of a board terminating the services of a nontenured teaching staff member. Dore v. Bedminster Township Board of Education, 185 N.J. Super. 447, 456 (App. Div. 1982).

I CONCLUDE that the Jackson Township Board of Education exercised its lawful powers to terminate the petitioner's assignment as coach of boys' soccer at the conclusion of the 1998 season. I CONCLUDE that the Board was in compliance with N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 that requires the chief school administrator to notify the employee of the nonrenewal. I further CONCLUDE that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1, a board may hire only persons recommended by the Superintendent of Schools. The record here is abundantly clear that the Superintendent of Schools did not recommend Cohen's renewal and that Cohen knew on January 20, 1999, that the superintendent would not do so. As the Director of Personnel testified, both he and the superintendent made clear to the petitioner that they would rely on the recommendation of the Athletic Director and the principal. It is not insignificant that the vote not to renew Cohen's contract was 6-0.

Finally, I CONCLUDE that there has been no violation of statute or code in this case. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the petition is without merit.

For the reasons expressed above, it is ORDERED that the petition of appeal in this matter by Steven Cohen is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

V.		DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF COMPLIANCE,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board contested respondent's conclusion that it is required to repay $153,238.60 as a result of a transportation department audit.

The ALJ determined that the Board improperly awarded a contract without competitive bidding to the Helfgott Group (the Helfgott contract) for a review of the District's transportation operations since the contract did not represent "extraordinary unspecifiable services" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-5a(2) so as to be exempt from the public bidding requirements of the Public Schools Contracts Law. The ALJ also determined that the Board improperly awarded a contract without competitive bidding to Dingman and James Auctioneers (the Dingman and James contract) to conduct two auctions to dispose of the District's fleet of buses since the services of an auctioneer do not fall within the "professional services" public bidding exception pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-5a(1). The ALJ concluded that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46.1, respondent cannot recover the State aid disbursed in connection with the Helfgott contract ($7,075.50) because there is no evidence of bad faith or collusion on the part of the Board but that the expenditures derived from the Dingman and James contract are recoverable because N.J.S.A. 18:18A-46.1 does not reach violations made under the professional services exception to the bidding guidelines. Thus, the ALJ determined that the amount of State aid that the Board must return to respondent is $146,163.10.

The Commissioner affirmed the recommended decision of the ALJ for the reasons expressed therein and adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter.

Record Closed: December 10, 1999 Decided: January 21, 2000

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

The Lakewood Board of Education, petitioner, contests the conclusion of the Office of Compliance, New Jersey Department of Education, that it is required to repay the State $153,238.60 as a result of a transportation department audit conducted by the Office of Compliance. In accordance with Department guidelines, the petitioner initiated a Level I and a Level II review process before filing the present petition.

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. The matter was heard on October 21, 1999 at the Office of Administrative Law, Trenton, and additional argument was conducted on the papers. The record closed with the Department's last submission on December 10, 1999.

Lakewood asserts the matter arises from a transportation service audit in the period July 1, 1992 through February 28, 1997. Lakewood asserts considerable time elapsed before it was advised of the results. Upon first notice, Lakewood was advised that it would be required to reimburse $314,050.60. The district filed a request for a Level I review and, upon review, the amount was reduced to $198,535.79.

Lakewood then requested a Level II review and, as a result, the amount demanded was reduced to $153,238.60. This appeal followed. Specifically, Lakewood says it contests five specific findings in the Notice of Determination and asks that the sum of $39,807.28 be restored to it.

At issue are contracts executed by Lakewood which the Department says violate the New Jersey Public Schools Contracts Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-1 through -59. The matter was heard on October 21, 1999. Prior to commencement of hearing, it was decided that the Board's challenges to the second-level appeal determination findings no. 4, 5, 6 and 17C would be dismissed as those findings resulted in no State aid exceptions. Further, recommendations corresponding to those findings had been addressed in the Board's corrective action plan.

The Board presented testimony of the school business administrator, Kathryn D. Fuoto. Fuoto addressed a contract awarded to the Helfgott Group for a review of the district's transportation operations and a contract awarded to Digman and James Auctioneers to conduct two auctions to dispose of the district's fleet of school buses.

The Office of Compliance presented testimony from Regional Business Administrator Robert S. Finger and Chief Auditor Robert W. Ortley. Their testimony generally addressed the circumstances and findings of the audit review.

Briefly stated, the Office of Compliance contends that the contract awarded to the Helfgott Group on January 13, 1999, without competitive bidding, did not represent an extraordinary, unspecifiable service, and therefore was not exempt from the requirements of the Public Schools Contracts Law. The Office also maintains that the services of an auctioneer are not "professional services" as defined at N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-2h and are not exempt from bidding pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-5a(1). The Office also maintains that seven bus routes were cancelled and, months later, reinstated without bidding and that this violated the Public Schools Contracts Law. Finally, the Office argues that there is no equitable estoppel against the Department of Education that would keep it from recovering State aid pursuant to the Lakewood transportation audit.

Lakewood argues that its acts are entitled to a presumption of correctness and validity. Its actions, therefore, can be overturned only where there is a finding that the decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. In addition, the action challenged should not be declared invalid without proof of an abuse of discretion by the Board. In Lakewood's view, the Office's audit findings as well as the determinations from the Level I and Level II audit appeals disregard this basic principle. The Office did not follow the timelines for challenging a decision by a board of education, N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). Lakewood also asks this judge to take notice of N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46.1, effective April 9, 1999, which places a limitation on the withholding of State funds from school districts for alleged violations of the Public Schools Contracts Law.

Lakewood argues that the award of the contract to the Helfgott Group was an extraordinary, unspecifiable service and was exempt from the bidding statute. Lakewood asserts that the testimony and evidence presented at hearing indicated there was no allegation of collusion or of an intent to avoid or evade public advertisements and bid requirements. As a result, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46.1 is applicable to this finding and there should be no withholding of State aid as a result of the alleged violation.

Lakewood makes the same arguments as to the contracts for auctioneer services. In addition, Lakewood asserts that the practice of auctioneering is a profession regulated by the State under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 45:17-1 through -5. The Office failed to provide any credible evidence that the payment for auctioneer services was derived from State funds and therefore, subject to recapture by the Department. The monies paid to the auctioneer for services were from the proceeds from the auction sale of school buses and, thus, not from general revenues or State aid. There was no violation of the Public Schools Contracts Law and the amount of reduction from State aid, $32,731.78, should be restored to the Board.

Lakewood also argues that, although Finding 5 did not result in a recapture of State aid, it seeks a determination that there was no violation. It was agreed prior to hearing that the Board's challenges to the second-level appeal Findings 4, 5, 6 and 17C would be dismissed. Accordingly, Finding 5 is not addressed. The same circumstances obtain as to Finding 6.

ISSUES

There are two issues to be determined. First, whether the Board's actions were justified and, if the Board's actions were not justified, what is the maximum amount of money that the Department can demand.

ANALYSIS AND DETERMINATION

The short answers to these questions are that the Board's actions with respect to the failure to elicit competitive bids were not justified because the contract awarded to the Helfgott Group did not represent "extraordinary unspecifiable services." The services of an auctioneer do not constitute "professional services" and, therefore, the contract with Dingman and James is not exempt from the public bidding requirements.

Under N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46.1, the Department cannot recover the State aid disbursed in connection with the contract awarded to the Helfgott Group because there is no evidence of bad faith or collusion on the part of the Board. The expenditures derived from the contract with Dingman and James, however, are recoverable.

Determination requires an analysis of the statutory and regulatory provisions governing the Public Schools Contracts Law, and the public bidding requirements in relation to the receipt of State aid. In general, the competitive bidding process is necessary to every contract paid out of school funds. The requirement, however, does not apply where the funds expended do not exceed the threshold amount. It is firmly established in New Jersey that courts must rigidly adhere to the bidding laws. Hall Construction Co., Inc. v. N.J. Sports & Exposition Authority, 295 N.J. Super. 629, 635 (App. Div. 1996). The purpose behind the bidding requirements is the desire for "open, free, and competitive bidding" for contracts as a matter of public policy. N.J.A.C. 6:21-13.1(b); Newark Board of Education v. Division of Compliance, 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 156, 157. In Terminal Construction Corp. v. Atlantic County Sewerage Authority, 67 N.J. 403 (1975), the New Jersey Supreme Court addressed the importance of the bidding guidelines:

> Bidding statutes are for the benefit of the taxpayers and are construed as nearly as possible with sole reference to the public good. Their objects are to guard against favoritism, improvidence, extravagance and corruption; their aim is to secure for the public the benefits of unfettered competition. To achieve these purposes all bidding practices which are capable of being used to further corrupt ends or which are likely to affect adversely the bidding process are prohibited, and all awards made or contracts entered into where any such practice may have played a part, will be set aside. This is so even though it is evident that in fact there was no corruption or any actual adverse effect upon the bidding process.

Id. at 409-410. Thus, to maintain the propriety surrounding the disbursement of State aid, the bidding requirements may not be taken lightly.

In today's case, Lakewood argues that under Kramer v. Sea Girt, 45 N.J. 268 (1965), a board's action is entitled to a presumption of validity that cannot be overturned absent a finding that the decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. However, Kramer discusses the standard that should be applied in an appeal from a determination of a municipal board. This case does not involve an appeal by the Department regarding a determination made by Lakewood, but rather, is an appeal by Lakewood of the transportation audit conducted by the Department. In addition, the arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable standard of review is only Department. In addition, the arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable standard of review is only available in a limited number of cases before the Office of Administrative Law because hearings are generally de novo. Moreover, an agency's determination is only reviewed under the arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable standard if the statutory or regulatory provisions demand that review. Consequently, the Kramer standard does not apply under these particular circumstances.

"In civil cases the most general rule is that in most causes of action, whether judicial or administrative, the party asserting a claim has the burden to prove it." WCI-Westinghouse, Inc. v. Edison Township, 7 N.J. Tax 610, 630 (Tax Ct. 1985), aff'd 9 N.J. Tax 86 (App. Div. 1986). Furthermore, "the burden of establishing the existence of a fact or circumstance is on the party relying thereon." Snyder v. I. Jay Realty Co. v. Tami-Githens, Inc., 219 N.J. Super. 241, 250 (App. Div. 1987). The above principles dictate that Lakewood has the burden of proving that the specific audit findings should be overturned.

Findings in Dispute

Finding No. 1:

The contract awarded to the Helfgott Group on January 13, 1992 in the amount of $15,000, without competitive bidding, did not represent an extraordinary unspecifiable service.

On January 13, 1992, via a Board resolution, Lakewood contracted with The Helfgott Group, Inc. ("Helfgott") to conduct a "feasibility study on noninstructional services" throughout Lakewood Public Schools. Helfgott submitted a proposal to Lakewood discussing the services that would be performed in the noninstructional areas including transportation. In the transportation section of the proposal, Helfgott indicated the study would examine administration and management, driver services and training, vehicles used and contracted, and maintenance. Lakewood entered into the consulting contract with Helfgott without publicly advertising for bids to conduct the feasibility study. A "whereas" clause in the Board resolution stated

> The district has determined that because of the nature of the services to be provided by The Helfgott Group it is not reasonably possible to prepare specifications and further that the principals of > the consulting firm have proven expertise, training and reputation by virtue of their prior services with the New Jersey Department of Education.

Lakewood spent $15,000 in connection with the Helfgott contract of which $7,075.50 represents reimbursable State aid.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-4, a school district must award contracts for pupil transportation that exceed the threshold amount by advertising for bids. N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-4 states in relevant part

> Every contract or agreement for the performance of any work or the functioning or hiring of any materials or supplies . . . shall be made and awarded only by the board of education after public advertising for bids and bidding thereof. . . .

However, there are exceptions to this statutory command that eliminate the necessity for public bidding in order to be eligible for State aid. See, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-5. In respect of Finding No. 1, the analysis focuses on an exception to the advertising requirement.

Lakewood maintains that the Helfgott contract was exempt from advertising under the extraordinary, unspecifiable services (EUS) exception in N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-5a(2). The Department, on the other hand, asserts Lakewood's attempt at classifying the Helfgott contract as EUS ignores the plain language of the statute. N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-5a(2) provides in pertinent part > Extraordinary unspecifiable services which cannot reasonably be described by written specifications, which exception as to extraordinary unspecifiable services shall be construed narrowly in favor of open competitive bidding where possible and the State Board of Education is authorized to establish rules and regulations limiting its use in accordance with the intention herein expressed; and the board of education shall in each instance state supporting reasons for its action in the resolution awarding the contract for extraordinary unspecifiable services.

The meaning of EUS is further explained in the regulations as services "which are specialized and qualitative in nature requiring expertise, extensive training and proven reputation in the field of endeavor." N.J.A.C. 6:20-8.1(a). Further, the Code indicates

> If specifications can reasonably be written covering the services, then they must be bid, not withstanding that the other criteria of the definition may be met. In cases which may appear too technical for local school officials to prepare detailed specifications two criteria must be addressed and found to be not possible before it may be concluded that the services cannot be reasonably be described by written specifications:
>
> i. If the local school officials do not possess the technical skill to prepare specifications, they should engage consultant assistance to do so;
> ii. If the services are of such a technical or massive nature as to make a description of all actions to be taken unfeasible, or if there are available various (optional or unknown) technical methodologies for achieving the desired end, then the specifications should be written in terms of required end-products and/or standards of performance rather than (or in concert with) descriptions of all technical steps to be taken.

N.J.A.C. 6:20-8.1(b)4. Thus, services are not automatically deemed EUS in situations where the contract specifications are too technical for the board to prepare. If, as the Board's agent testified, the Board members did not have the knowledge or experience to write specifications for the study, it had these two avenues open to it. Under these circumstances, the Board had an obligation to take additional steps before the bidding requirements were waived.

Analysis of the statutory and regulatory provisions illustrates that bidding requirements will be waived only in extreme and specific circumstances. In this case, the question is whether the Helfgott contract involved EUS and that question, in turn, focuses on whether the specifications covering the services enumerated in the Helfgott contract could have been reasonably drafted in order to elicit other bids. The regulations clearly state that it is not enough for the Board officials to say that they personally did not have the skill or expertise necessary to draft the specifications in order to advertise to the public for bids. The proposal submitted by Helfgott to Lakewood contained detailed written specifications for the feasibility study. As the Department points out, if the Board did not possess the technical expertise to draft the specifications, Lakewood could have hired Helfgott to draft the necessary specifications. Thereafter, in compliance with N.J.A.C. 6:20-8.1(a)i, Lakewood could have advertised those specifications for public bidding. Under this scheme, Helfgott as well as other consulting firms would have been enabled to engage in the bidding process.

The procedures followed by Lakewood in awarding the contract to Helfgott as an EUS did not satisfy the regulatory guidelines laid down in N.J.A.C. 6:20-8.1(b)6:

> Before awarding a contract under the EUS provisions, a designated school official of the district board of education must file a certificate with the district board of education clearly describing the nature of the work to be done, stating it is not reasonably possible to write specifications, describing the informal solicitation of quotations (if quotes not sought, or lowest responsible price is not observed explain this also) and describing in detail why the contract meets the provisions of the statute and these rules. A mere recitation of the language in the statute shall not be sufficient for this purpose. . . .

To this point, Lakewood has not produced a copy of the required certification and there is no indication in its post-hearing brief that the certification will be provided or even exists. In addition, the "whereas" clause found in the minutes from the Board's resolution in which Helfgott was awarded the contract, is no more than a recitation of the regulatory language. Therefore, the contract awarded to Helfgott does not fall within the boundaries of the EUS bidding exception and, thus, Lakewood did not satisfy its obligation to publicly advertise for the project.

Finding No. 2:

The district did not solicit competitive bids for services of an auctioneer to dispose of the fleet of buses and did not properly advertise the auction.

On July 27, 1992, Lakewood contracted with Dingman and James (DJ) to conduct a public auction for fifty-six of the district's school buses. The contract granted by Lakewood derived from quotes received from six auctioneers, without public bidding. Again on May 24, 1993, Lakewood awarded a contract to DJ to conduct an auction for the remainder of the district's bus fleet. The contract provided that DJ would receive compensation equal to ten percent of the gross selling price of the buses. Finding No. 2 of the second level audit review determined that $32,731.38 in State aid was recoverable because of Lakewood's failure to solicit competitive bids for the services of an auctioneer to dispose of its fleet of buses.

Lakewood argues that the contract with DJ did not have to comply with the bidding procedures because the services of an auctioneer are professional services and are thus exempt from the public bidding requirements under N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-5a(1). Professional services are defined at N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-5h as > Services rendered or performed by a person authorized by law to practice a recognized profession and whose practice is regulated by law and the performance of which services requires knowledge of an advanced type in a field of learning required by a prolonged formal course of specialized instruction and study as distinguished from general academic instruction or apprenticeship and training. Professional services also means services rendered in the performance of work that is original and creative in character in a recognized field of artistic endeavor.

The definition of professional services in N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-2h is consistently embraced by the New Jersey Legislature when defining professional services in other statutes. N.E.R.I. Corp. v. New Jersey Highway Authority, 147 N.J. 223, 236 (1966).

In Burlington Township v. Middle Department Inspection Agency, 175 N.J. Super. 624, 630 (Law Div. 1980), the court emphasized the notion that "profession inherently requires attainments in special knowledge as distinguished from mere skill." In that case, the court held that electric sub-code inspection services do not satisfy the professional services standard and are not exempt from competitive bidding. The Burlington court further suggested

> While present-day society is not at all reluctant to generally accord most individuals functioning in the community with a professional-sounding title in order to afford them a greater personal feeling of dignity and self-esteem, this worthy motive cannot alter the basic definition of "profession."

Ibid. An example of what meets the professional services standard is found in Nachtigall v. N.J. Turnpike Authority, 302 N.J. Super. 123, 134-137 (App. Div.), certif. den. 151 N.J. 77 (1977). In that case, the court ruled that designing and installing an integrated electronic toll collection system constituted professional services because it "required a panoply of sophisticated technological, engineering and financial services."

A review of the statutory language with the relevant case law compels the conclusion that DJ's auctioneering services do not satisfy the professional services standard. Auctions and auctioneering services are referenced in N.J.S.A. 45:17-1, -5. The statute discusses the requirements that auctioneers must keep record books that remain open for inspection; however, the statutory provisions do not require licensing for all auctioneers nor do they require a certain type of education or training. Although conducting an auction may require certain skills, auctioneering does not require advanced knowledge in a field of learning acquired by a prolonged formal course of specialized instruction. Importantly, the policy behind the public bidding requirements supports the principle that services should be characterized as professional services within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-5a(2) only under very specific circumstances. Because auctioneering is not a professional services, the DJ contracts are not exempt from the public bidding requirements.

The Role of N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46.1

Lakewood argues that even if it did not comply with the public bidding requirements with respect to the Helfgott contract, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46.1 prevents the Department from exercising its ability to demand return of State funds. N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46.1 is a new statutory provision. It was enacted in April 1999 and provides limitations on the withholding of State funds from school districts by the Commissioner of Education for certain violations. The statute states in pertinent part

> The Commissioner of Education shall not withhold State funds from any school district, or require any school district to remit any State funds previously paid to that district, because of an act or omission by the district which the commissioner determines to have been taken or permitted to occur in violation of the extraordinary unspecifiable services exception to the requirements for public advertisement and bidding as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-5. . . .

The statutes continues by addressing three circumstances that will enable the commissioner to withhold State funds. A violation of EUS exception will not result in a waiver in the reduction of State aid if the commissioner determines that

> (1) the act or omission was the result of any collusion between any officer or employee of the district and any contract vendor; or
>
> (2) the act or omission was prompted by an intent on the part of any officer or employee of the district to evade the public advertisement and bidding requirements . . . or
> (3) a prior act or omission resulted in a withholding of State funds due to a violation of the extraordinary unspecifiable services exception to the requirements for public advertisement. . . .

As indicated above, the Helfgott contract did not satisfy the EUS exception to the bidding procedures. Therefore, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46.1 will apply to this case as long as Lakewood has not demonstrated bad faith. The Department stated in its post-hearing brief that there is no evidence of bad faith or collusion on the part of Lakewood in connection with the contract. Therefore, the amount of State aid recoverable by the Department must be reduced by $7,075.50, the State aid received in conjunction with the Helfgott contract.

Although Lakewood is not obligated to return the State aid received for the Helfgott contract under N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46.1, it is important that it be clearly indicated that there was a violation of the EUS exception to the requirements for public advertisement and bidding. This distinction is necessary because, if Lakewood engages in the same violation in the future concerning the EUS exception, it will be precluded from asserting N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46.1. The statute does not grant relief to a school district that has previously utilized it in order to limit the withholding of State funds for certain violations. N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46.1a(3).

Although the Helfgott contract did not fall under the EUS exception to the bidding procedures, the State aid granted in conjunction with that contract is not recoverable by the Department because of N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46.1. However, the auctioneer contract with Dingman and James does not constitute professional services and is not exempt from public advertising for bids. In addition, the State funds received in connection with that contract are recoverable by the Department because N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46.1 does not reach violations made under the professional services exception to the bidding guidelines.

Therefore, the amount of State aid that Lakewood must return to the Department is the total amount due following the Level II audit review, $153,238.60, reduced by the amount of aid received in connection with the Helfgott contract, $7,075.50. The total amount of State aid recoverable by the Department of Education is $146,163.10.

In consideration of the foregoing, it is ORDERED that the Lakewood Board of Education remit to the New Jersey Department of Education the amount of $146,163.10.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning private school for disabled children appealed a state audit disallowing salary and fringe benefits costs of an uncertified teacher in calculating its 1994-95 tuition rate.

The ALJ upheld the audit determination, concluding that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)4 and 11, the Department correctly disallowed salary and fringe benefits costs for an uncertified teacher in calculating Deron's 1994-95 tuition rate and that delay in issuance of the teacher's certificate was attributable not to the Department but to the teacher, whose responsibility it was to submit the necessary documents required to obtain her certification.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision for the reasons expressed therein, finding no cause to disturb the ALJ's findings and conclusions.

BEFORE: KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal by an approved private school from a state audit disallowing costs of an uncertified teacher in calculating its tuition rate. Deron School II ("Deron"), a private school for disabled children, is approved by the Department of Education ("Department") to accept students from public schools on a tuition-paying basis. The Department's Office of Compliance monitors annual tuition rates, which cannot exceed "the actual cost per pupil as determined under the rules prescribed by the commissioner and approved by the State Board of Education." N.J.S.A. 18A:46-21.

See state regulations at N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1 to –4.11. In the annual audit for the 1994-95 academic year, the Department disallowed salary and employee benefits totaling $4,851 because a particular teacher was not properly certified for the entire school year. Both parties stipulate that Enid Schey ("Schey"), a teaching staff member at Deron, did not obtain her instructional certificate until December 1994. Deron contends that the Department should estopped from denying its claim because the Department's delay in issuance of the certificate was "beyond the control of either petitioner or Mrs. Schey." For the reasons that follow, it was Schey's responsibility to submit the necessary documents required to obtain her certificate and any delay was not due to the Department. Therefore, the audit determination must be upheld.

Procedural History

On October 16, 1997, the Department issued an audit of Deron's 1994-95 tuition rate. After exhausting all internal avenues of appeal up to the level of the Office of Compliance, Deron filed a notice of appeal to the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") on January 23, 1998. Respondent Office of Compliance filed its answer on February 20, 1999. Subsequently, on March 10, 1999, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case. The OAL held a hearing on June 9, 1999. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the appendix. Petitioner filed a post-hearing brief on July 16, 1999, on which date the record closed.

Findings of Fact

Many of the relevant facts are undisputed. Deron School II is an approved private school for learning-disabled and handicapped children located in Montclair, New Jersey. Enid Schey began working for Deron in September 1992. Previously, she had served as a substitute teacher in the public schools. When hired by Deron, she had a college degree, but not a teaching certificate. She received an emergency certificate endorsed as a teacher of the handicapped in early September 1992.[1] At the beginning

[1] An emergency certificate is a substandard one-year certificate issued in certain fields, including teacher of the handicapped. Only school districts can make application for

Record Closed: January 10, 2000 Decided: January 13, 2000

BEFORE: ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

On August 31, 1998, petitioner, Mary Wassef, filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education alleging that respondent's determination to withhold her salary and employment increments for the 1998-99 school year was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. On September 21, 1998, respondent filed an answer to the petition denying that its action was improper. On October 29, 1998, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52;14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A prehearing conference was held in this matter on March 9, 1999 by the undersigned judge. At that time this case (one of thirty-one appeals by tenured teachers), was separated for hearing and assigned an individual docket number. The matter was scheduled for hearing before the undersigned judge on December 2 and 3, 1999 at the Office of Administrative Law, 185 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey 07102.

On or about September 7, 1999, the State-Operated School District of Jersey City certified charges of inefficiency against Mary Wassef, a tenured teacher. On September 22, 1999, the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. The matter was assigned to Administrative Law Judge Michael L. Ravin and scheduled for hearing on February 24 and March 8, 2000.

On December 2, 1999, the date scheduled by the undersigned for hearing on the increment withholding matter, settlement conferences were held in regard to the above-referenced cases. A settlement was reached and the hearings scheduled in these matters were adjourned.

The parties have agreed to settle these matters and have prepared the attached Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The settlement agreement complies with the requirements of Cardonick v. Brooklawn Board of Education, 193 S.L.D. __ (St. Bd. April 6, 1983).

2. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement, as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

3. The settlement agreement is in the public interest.

4. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy in regard to both matters and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF MARY WASSEF STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF JERSEY CITY	OAL Dkt. No. EDUTH 9927-99 Agency Dkt. No. 272-9/99 STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

WHEREAS, Mary Wassef has been employed as a full-time teacher with the Jersey City School District since December 5, 1977, as a teacher of English as a Second Language on the elementary school level; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Wassef appealed the withholding of her increment by the District for the 1998-99 school year for less than satisfactory performance during the preceding 1997-98 school year (which appeal bears OAL Docket No. EDUOR 3798-99 and Agency Docket No. 399-9/98); and

WHEREAS, tenure charges of inefficiency were certified against Ms. Wassef and filed with the Commissioner on September 7, 1999, (which charges bear OAL Docket No. EDUTH 9927-99 and Agency Dkt. No. 272-9/99) and hearing thereon is scheduled to commence on February 24, 2000; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Wassef was suspended without pay upon the filing of the tenure charges, and salary payments are required by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 to be resumed after 120 calendar days until proceedings have been concluded and a final decision has been reached by the Commissioner; and

WHEREAS, the parties wish to resolve the within matters and believe that settlement is appropriate and in the public interest because the tenure charges do not involve any misconduct or danger to students and because settlement will avoid the uncertainties of litigation as well as avoid the waste of financial and human resources entailed with litigation;

NOW, THEREFORE, it is hereby stipulated and agreed as follows:

1. Mary Wassef resigns from employment with the District effective June 30, 2000, and the District accepts the resignation of Ms. Wassef.

2. The District agrees to resume full salary payments to Ms. Wassef as of January 5, 2000 (which is the 121st calendar day from the certification of the tenure charges) and to continue Ms. Wassef on full salary through June 30, 2000. It is understood by the parties that Ms. Wassef will not return to active duty and that salary payments during the period from January 5, 2000 through June 30, 2000, will be charged against any and all unused personal business days and accumulated sick days that Ms. Wassef has to her credit. The salary payments for the period from January 5, 2000 through June 30, 2000 will be based on Ms. Wassef's current annual salary of $69,450.00.

3. The District agrees to restore the increment which was withheld from Ms. Wassef for the 1998-99 school year. With the restoration of the increment, Ms. Wassef respondent Jersey City School District agrees to pay Ms. Wassef the difference between her annual salary of $68,700.00 and the salary which she would have received with the increment, approximated to be the amount of $1125.00.

4. The District agrees to withdraw with prejudice the tenure charges of inefficiency bearing OAL Docket No. EDUTH 9927-99 and Agency Docket No. 272-9/99.

5. Mary Wassef agrees to withdraw with prejudice her appeal from the increment withholding for the 1998-99 school year, which appeal bears OAL Docket No. EDUOR 3798-99 and Agency Docket No. 399-9/98.

6. Pursuant to In re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842, Ms. Wassef has been advised of the Commissioner's duty pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6 to refer tenure determinations to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of teaching certificate.

7. Ms. Wassef and the District acknowledge that the terms of this Stipulation are contingent upon the review and approval of both the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education. In the event that the terms of this Stipulation are disapproved, this Stipulation shall be null and void and the parties shall return to the same positions which they held prior to their entering into this Stipulation.

8. Mary Wassef acknowledges that she has had the right and opportunity to discuss all aspects of this Stipulation with her attorney prior to signing it, that she has read and fully understands all of the terms of this Stipulation, and that she had entered into this Stipulation knowingly and voluntarily, without coercion or duress.

		DECISION
IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF MARY WASSEF, STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY.	:

The record, Settlement Agreement and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms since they comport with the Cardonick standards for review of settlements in tenure matters and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter.* In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846. The matter is hereby dismissed subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

* In approving this Settlement Agreement, the Commissioner has presumed that there is a typographical error in item number three of this agreement, and that the parties intended this section to read as follows: "With the restoration of the increment to Ms. Wassef, respondent Jersey City School District agrees to pay Ms. Wassef the difference between her annual salary of $68,700.00 and the salary which she would have received with the increment, approximated to be the amount of $1125.00."

A copy of this decision will be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for action as it deems appropriate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Record Closed: December 21, 1999 Decided: January 14, 2000

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

Michael Asher filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education to contest a determination by the Board of Education of the Township of Verona to withhold his increment for the 1998-99 school year. Respondent filed an answer, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on October 29, 1998, for determination as a contested case.

On the hearing day, the parties agreed to an amicable resolution of the matter and subsequently submitted a written Stipulation of Settlement. Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the parties comply with the settlement terms, and it is FURTHER ORDERED that the proceedings in this matter be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. FRANKLIN LAKES EDUCATION ASSOCIATION, on behalf of itself and the members named herein, ELEANOR PERRY, JOAN McGOURTY and BARBARA J. COLLINS Petitioners, v. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF FRANKLIN LAKES, BERGEN COUNTY Respondent.	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION/OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW AGENCY REF. NO. 52-3/98 OAL DKT. NO. EDU 03498-98 STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

The above-captioned matter having been brought before the Commissioner o Education upon the above-captioned Petition of Appeal, the petitioners and respondent hereby agree to amicably resolve the dispute between them, now pending before this court, subject to the terms and conditions set forth below:

1. The school health aide (a/k/a professional nurse), who is assigned to the Franklin Avene Middle School, shall recommend to the certified school nurse the exclusion of students from school pursuant to the following procedure: She shall communicate, by telephone, the health condition of the student to the certified school nurse at the Woodside Avenue School. If that certified school nurse is unavailable, she shall contact the certified school nurse at the High Mountain Road School. The certified school nurse shall make recommendation to/grant the authorization for the principal to exclude the student from school. (N.J.S.A. 18A:40-7; N.J.S.A. 18A:40-8)

2. Respondent will employ a substitute certified school nurse for two to three weeks each school year to conduct the scoliosis, vision and audiometric screenings required on the students at the Franklin Avenue Middle School. (N.J.A.C. 6:29-1.2; N.J.A.C. 6:29-5.1, et seq.)

3. During that time period, the substitute certified school nurse shall also assist the medical inspector, if necessary, with any physical examinations of grade 7 students which are scheduled to coincide with the students' participation in athletic events/teams during that particular period of the school year. During the balance of the school year, when the substitute certified school nurse is not employed, the school health aide (a/k/a professional nurse) shall assist the medical inspector with such examinations; the school health aide, however, is not permitted to conduct any scoliosis, vision and/or audiometric screenings as part of such examination. (N.J.S.A. 18A:40-4, N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.4)

4. The substitute certified school nurse shall enter this data, as well as other such data into the pupil health record cards (A45 Health Record card) for those students at the Franklin Avenue Middle School during the two to three weeks of his/her employment each school year. (N.J.A.C. 6:29-1.2)

5. The substitute certified school nurse shall complete all necessary state-required health forms for the students at the Franklin Avenue Middle School during the two to three weeks of his/her employment each school year. (N.J.A.C. 6:29-1.2)

6. There are currently approximately fifty-nine (59) classified students at the Franklin Avenue Middle School. Responsibility for assessing the needs of those students with special health conditions and for formulating the Health Component of the Individualized Education Plan (I.E.P.) for these classified students shall be equally divided between the two certified school nurses. At the start of each school year, the certified school nurses shall be provided with a listing of the particular classified students at the Franklin Avenue Middle School for whom they have been assigned the responsibility of making such health assessments and formulating the Health Component of their I.E.P.

7. The certified school nurses shall thereafter be given adequate advance notice of the I.E.P. meeting for each of the students assigned to that particular certified school nurse. Respondent shall thus direct the child study team to provide the particular certified school nurse with notice of the I.E.P. meeting at the same time that it provides notice of that meeting to all other interested parties.

8. The school health aide shall provide coverage for the certified school nurse if necessary to administer medication when the certified school nurse is absent from her particular assigned school building in order to be present at the I.E.P. meetings at the Franklin Avenue Middle School.

9. Any attendance responsibilities previously assigned to the certified school nurses shall be performed by school secretarial staff.

10. Petitioners shall withdraw the Petition of Appeal presently pending before the Office of Administrative Law and Commissioner of Education with prejudice, under the following Docket Numbers: Agency Ref. No.: 52-3/98, and EDUOA 03498-98N.

HEARING OF PATRICIA FINN,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BORDENTOWN REGIONAL SCHOOL	:	DECISION
DISTRICT, BURLINGTON COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

Board certified tenure charges of incapacity and other just cause against respondent teacher.

The ALJ determined that charges A1, 2, 3, 4 and B 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 constitute charges of inefficiency rather than incapacity and thus dismissed these charges without prejudice because of the Board's failure to provide respondent the 90-day remediation period mandated by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. The ALJ returned without consideration of the merits charges B6 and B7 alleging other just cause for the Commissioner's review pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that charges A1, 2, 3, 4 and B1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 must be dismissed because the Board failed to accord respondent a 90-day improvement period. (In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of April Renee Bradley, 1990 S.L.D. 790, aff'd as modified by the State Board of Education, 1991 S.L.D. 2521) Upon review of the remaining charges, B6 and B7, the Commissioner found them sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary. The matter was remanded to the OAL for further proceedings on tenure charges B6 and B7.

Record Closed: December 15, 1999 Decided: February 10, 2000*

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter commenced on May 3, 1999, when the Board of Education of Bordentown Regional School District (hereinafter petitioner) filed tenure charges against tenured teacher Patricia Finn (hereinafter respondent) alleging incapacity and other just cause. An answer on behalf of respondent was filed on May 20, 1999 and on May 21, 1999, the Commissioner

---

* An extension of time for issuing the decision was requested and granted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c).

transmitted to the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

A prehearing conference was conducted on June 21, 1999, at which time the following were identified as the issues for determination at hearing:

1. Are the tenure charges, or any of them, in fact true?

2. Do the charges actually constitute inefficiency charges, requiring provision of the 90-day improvement period?

3. If the charges are proven, what are the appropriate sanctions/remedies?

Hearing dates were scheduled for October 13, 14 and 15, 1999, at the Trenton office of the Office of Administrative Law. Prior to that time respondent filed a motion for summary decision together with supporting papers seeking an order dismissing the tenure charges. Petitioner filed a brief and affidavit in opposition to the motion for summary decision on September 30, 1999. Oral argument on the motion for summary decision was conducted by telephone conference call on October 15, 1999. By letter dated November 22, 1999, the undersigned advised both counsel as follows:

> I have completed by review of the charges in the above-captioned matter and have considered your respective arguments concerning them. I have come to the conclusion that charges A1, 2, 3 and 4 and B1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 are actually charges of inefficiency and therefore require the provision of the 90-day remediation period mandated in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. Charges B6 and 7 do not appear to constitute charges of inefficiency, however, but rather may be characterized as conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member.
> Since N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(d), (e) and (f) provide for the issuance of a partial summary decision order, there are several possible ways of proceeding in this matter: 1) We could schedule hearing dates and proceed to hearing on the charges set forth in B6 and 7 and simultaneously forward a partial initial decision to the Commissioner on the other charges; 2) I could send the whole case back to the Commissioner for a final determination on the inefficiency issues and for a determination pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 concerning whether charges B6 and 7 standing alone are > sufficient to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary or 3) You could enter into an agreement concerning a withdrawal without prejudice of the charges set forth in B6 and 7 pending a resolution on the inefficiency issues, and your agreement concerning B6 and B7 could be attached and included with my decision on the other charges and issued as an initial decision. Please let me know your preferences concerning how best to proceed. If you have other ideas, I will gladly consider them.

The responsive letters from the parties, dated December 9, 1999 and December 15, 1999, respectively, both requested a final decision from the Commissioner on the inefficiency issue and a determination from the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 concerning whether charges B6 and B7 standing alone are sufficient to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The facts necessary to a determination of this motion do not appear to be in dispute and accordingly I FIND the following as uncontested facts.

The 1998-99 school year was respondent's 28th year teaching special education at the Clara Barton School in petitioner's district. On April 15, 1999, at its regularly scheduled meeting petitioner voted to certify the following tenure charges to the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10:

A. INCAPACITY, AS A TEACHING STAFF MEMBER

> 1. Throughout a substantial period of time Ms. Patricia Finn has refused and failed to prepare adequate lesson plans. Her continued and repeated failure and refusal to prepare lesson plans has been documented in observations by her supervisors throughout this time period without improvement.
>
> 2. Throughout a substantial period of time, Ms. Patricia Finn has continually and repeatedly failed to adhere to lesson plans which have been developed. Additionally, Patricia Finn has continually and repeatedly failed, over the same period to provide pupils with the instruction which is scheduled on a given date.

3. Ms. Patricia Finn has failed to adhere to the individual educational plans of special education pupils taught by her.

4. Ms. Patricia Finn has repeatedly failed to supervise and utilize instructional Aide in an appropriate manner.

B. JUST CAUSE FOR REMOVAL

1. Failing and refusing to adhere to the policies of the Bordentown Regional School District, and the Clara Barton School with respect to meetings with parents and other staff members.

2. Failing and refusing to appropriately prepare lesson plans over the course of a fourteen (14) year period.

3. Failing to follow and adhere to lesson plans when developed.

4. Failing to provide pupils with scheduled instruction over a substantial period of time.

5. Failing to adhere to the individual educational plans of pupils.

6. Repeatedly leaving classroom unattended, thereby denying students of direct instruction and supervision.

7. Permitting an Instructional Aid to deliver instruction directly to pupils without supervision in violation of New Jersey Administrative Code.

Prior to filing the charges with the Commissioner, petitioner did not follow the procedures set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 for certifying charges of inefficiency. Petitioner did not provide respondent with written notice of inefficiencies and the statutorily mandated 90-day period in which to correct them. There has been no suggestion by either party that respondent is physically or mentally disabled from the performance of her regular and assigned duties such as to warrant the filing of an application for ordinary disability retirement benefits pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:66-41, and both parties denied any knowledge of such a physical or mental incapacity when questioned by the undersigned during oral argument on the motion.

With respect to the documents submitted regarding the substance of the charges, it appears that although respondent's formal evaluations prior to the 1996-97 school year were not entirely without constructive criticism, for the most part they were favorable. Her year-end summary evaluation for the 1995-96 school year completed on June 27, 1996, by an administrator whose name is not entirely legible, but appears to be Robert I. Foster, provided in pertinent part:

> Let me state at the beginning of this summary/evaluation that Mrs. Finn is a dedicated, experienced teacher within the Bordentown Regional School District's special education department and once again her efforts during the course of the 1995-96 school year have demonstrated her competence and her expertise with the students with whom she works. There is no question that Mrs. Finn establishes an excellent rapport with students and parents and is a valuable asset to the special services operations of our district.
>
> A review of the observations conducted during the 1995-96 school year clearly show that Mrs. Finn has the capacity and demonstrates the ability to carry out excellent teaching with her students.

> A review of Mrs. Finn's attendance during the 1995-96 school year, indicates that Mrs. Finn was absent for a total of six days. These days consisted on two and a half sick days, one and half personal days, two family emergency days, and six professional days that were designated for the SSI Initiative Program at Trenton State College.
>
> Overall, this certainly is considered a very satisfactory attendance record and Mrs. Finn is to be commended for only being out when absolutely necessary. She remains a most diligent member of our staff and performs her services in excellent fashion and provides us with an extremely professional special education instructor.
>
> Mrs. Finn remains a dedicated, enthusiastic, and highly motivated professional whose effective services in the classroom provide at the Clara Barton School and within Bordentown Regional with outstanding services. Her rapport with students, parents, and staff continue to make her an asset to our district. I am grateful that she > is a member of the special education team and I look forward to her continued service and outstanding year as Mrs. Finn moves to the three-four level at Clara Barton for multiply handicapped.

During the 1996-97 school year and thereafter respondent's formal evaluations were generally less favorable, although they were not without words of praise and recognition of accomplishments. Bernice Blum-Bart, the principal of Clara Barton School, who was respondent's supervisor during that period of time and who observed respondent's performance on a number of occasions, has set forth the following summary of her assessment in an affidavit in opposition to the motion for summary judgment filed herein:

> The recurring themes throughout those observations are: lack of written lesson plans; disorganization; failure to utilize different teaching modalities; failure to report to her classroom in a timely manner; failure to individualize lessons for special needs students in violation of their I.E.P.'s; and, a general failure to implement lessons which were planned in advance.

Either in the spring of 1997 or the spring of 1998, however, Principal Blum-Bart wrote respondent the following undated letter:

> Last nights Curriculum Fair was outstanding! Many parents stopped me to congratulation and thank me for all your efforts on behalf of their child(ren). You richly deserve the recognition and accolades for your excellence and enthusiasm. You have consistently demonstrated that "high expectations bring high performance."
>
> It has made me very happy to see this philosophy enhanced through your yearlong efforts with your students. Last night I was also very impressed with the quality and diversity of work projects.
>
> I was especially pleased that we were able to have students and parents join together with us to share in their child's(ren) learning experiences.

> Congratulations and thank you very much for your dedication to helping our students and families become a "Community of Learners."
> . . .

At the conclusion of the 1997-98 school year Ms. Blum-Bart recommended the withholding of respondent's increment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14. Her letter to the superintendent in this regard provided in pertinent part as follows:

> . . .
>
> I am recommending increment withholding for Ms. Finn based on the observation criteria list signed by Ms. Finn on 12/4/97. This plan was developed to clarify expectations for observations during the remainder of the school year. The intent was to insure consistency and continuity in each area specified in the plan. The criteria was reviewed and mutually agreed upon on 12/4/97 with the following people present: Patricia Finn, Teacher of Special Education, Robert Foster, Director of Special Services, P. Bruce Sholley, Assistant Principal, Steve Martin, BREA Building Representative, and Berenice Blum-Bart, Principal. It was also signed by Ms. Finn indicating her agreement to the plan and knowledge of the criteria.
>
> In general, Ms. Finn has been unreceptive to remedial efforts on the part of the administration. Observations and conferences with Ms. Finn have identified areas of continuing need for improvement and have indicated suggestions to clarify specific changes. This has been ongoing and mostly unsuccessful.
> Furthermore, development of observation criteria and specifications were also created to help identify areas of need along with planning for articulation to work together for improvement. Observations and memos have defined the tasks and actions to be accomplished by Ms. Finn, and the classroom behaviors which should be used in achieving these goals. This has occurred minimally. In addition, cancellation of meetings by Ms. Finn, misrepresentation of facts and issues, as well as involvement of other parties to the agreed upon plan have created confusion, lack of consistent dialogue and incorrect information. Ms. Finn has delayed signing observation reports, in a timely fashion, as well as submitting substitute plans for the beginning of the year. This year, she never returned a post observation clarification memo signed as requested by me, she involved office staff in the review process, and > reprimanded/confronted the assistant principal of the school in the hallway of her classroom prior to an unannounced observation. She has involved her teaching assistant and other teaching professionals in this process which we had all mutually agreed was to be a confidential process.

> Ms. Finn is patient with her class, but I am extremely concerned that her standards/knowledge for the academic expectations for her students are too low, and that lessons are insufficiently individualized and challenging for her current group of students.
>
> The administrative team, has worked diligently with Ms. Finn, formally and informally, to help her improve and correct identified deficiencies in her teaching. I am enclosing Ms. Finn's annual evaluation for the 1997-98 school year. I am hopeful that next year things will improve.

The affidavit of Ms. Blum-Bart which was submitted by petitioner in opposition to respondent's motion herein concludes with the following:

> I do not believe that any amount of additional assistance will make Finn a competent teacher. Nor do I feel that any additional time in which to correct the serious deficiencies in her teaching will result in improvement to Finn's teaching performance.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

The once classic statement of the standard for granting or denying summary judgment set forth in Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954), was modified in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). Therein the Court held that the standard to be applied is now the same as the standard for determining motions for involuntary dismissal under R. 4:37-2(b) and for determining motions for judgment under R. 4:40-1 and R. 4:40-2. Trial courts considering motions for summary judgment are now required to engage in the same type of evaluation, analysis or sifting of evidential materials in light of the burden of persuasion that applies if the matter goes to trial. The Court explained:

> Under this new standard, a determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." . . . Credibility determinations will continue to be made by a jury and not a judge. If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a "genuine" issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46-2. . . . The import of our holding is that when the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law, . . ., the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. (citations omitted) Id. at 540.

The Court noted that to send a case to trial knowing that a rational decision-maker could reach but one conclusion was indeed "worthless" and would "serve no useful purpose." The purpose of this new standard, the decision explained, was to encourage trial courts not to refrain from granting summary judgment when the proper circumstances present themselves.

In the present matter the only issue from the prehearing order which is addressed in respondent's motion for summary decision is issue number two, i.e., "Do the charges actually constitute inefficiency charges, requiring provision of the 90-day improvement period?" Accordingly, whether the evidence offered by petitioner in support of its various allegations is in fact true is not relevant to a determination of the motion. None of the facts related to the process which occurred here are in dispute and accordingly, I CONCLUDE that this matter is ripe for summary decision.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, provides in pertinent part:

No person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation,

> (a) if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency in the public school system of the state, > except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing held pursuant to this subarticle, by the commissioner, or a person appointed by him to act in his behalf, after a written charge or charges, of the cause or causes of complaint, shall have been preferred against such person, signed by the person or persons making the same, who may or may not be a member or members of a board of education, and filed and proceeded upon as in this subarticle provided.

Noticeably absent from both the above-quoted statutory enumeration of causes for dismissal and from the actual charges certified by petitioner in the within matter is any mention of the word "incompetency." Over the years, a number of hearing examiners, administrative law judges and commissioners have struggled with a definition of "incompetency" which would identify it as a cause for dismissal separate and apart from "inefficiency." The definition most frequently quoted and the one cited by both parties in the present matter appears in School District of the Township of East Brunswick v. Renee Sokolow, 1982 S.L.D. 1358, 1362, aff'd by State Board of Education, 1983 S.L.D. 1645:

> The charge of incompetence, as distinguished from the charge of inefficiency, presumes that the proofs in support of the charge will demonstrate that respondent is so lacking in competency to perform the responsibilities of classroom teacher that the requirements of the 90-day improvement period, required for a charge of inefficiency, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, would be a useless exercise. (See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Inez McRoe, (sic should say McRae) 1977 S.L.D. 572, 584.) Incompetence requires proof that the affected person regardless of the assistance offered by certified supervisors, does not have the ability or capacity to be an effective teacher.

The exact same definition is cited again in Ridgefield Board of Education v. Patricia Nafash, 1984 S.L.D. 333, 335-336 and in Board of Education of the City of Newark v. April Renee Bradley, 1990 S.L.D. 790, 813, aff'd as modified in State Board of Education, 1991 S.L.D. 2521.

The case upon which the others rely, School District of the City of Trenton v. Inez McRae, 1977 S.L.D. 572, does not use the same language, but rather provides in pertinent part:

> Notwithstanding respondent's contention that inefficiencies did, in fact, exist, the hearing examiner finds that respondent demonstrated gross ineptness in performing the responsibilities of a classroom teacher. The testimony of the supervisors clearly portrays this ineptness. Whether the ineffectiveness in this case results from lack of understanding of the teaching-learning process, from lack of effort or from indifference, the hearing examiner finds that respondent failed to measure up to even minimal standards of satisfactory teaching. Respondent's lack of adequate and thorough planning demonstrated a dereliction of duty. Her lack of discipline and class control was so gross as to rise above a charge of minimal inefficiency to incompetency. (Citations omitted). Id. at 584.

The charges against respondent McRae, however, were brought pursuant to a statute which was repealed in 1976. That statutory provision was found at N.J.S.A. 18A:6-12, and read as follows:

> The board shall not forward any charge of inefficiency to the commissioner, unless at least 90 days prior thereto and within the current or preceding school year, the board or the superintendent of schools of the district has given to the employee, against whom such charge is made, written notice of the alleged inefficiency, specifying the nature thereof with such particulars as to furnish the employee an opportunity to correct and overcome the same." Id. at 581.

The Newark Board of Education asserted that it gave respondent McRae the required notice on January 16, 1975 which was reinforced by a memorandum to her from the assistant superintendent, dated March 17, 1975, wherein he advised her that he intended to continue to observe her progress and to assess the need to consider alternatives for the following school year. On August 12, 1975, the Board certified charges to the Commissioner based upon respondent McRae's "failure to improve or correct her inefficient, inept and incompetent performance of her teaching duties." Accordingly, it would appear that the charges certified against respondent McRae by the Newark Board of Education were in fact in compliance with the requirements for inefficiency charges as they existed prior to February 7, 1976.

The statutory provisions which apply in the within matter, however, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, require that after the charge has been filed against a tenured employee with the secretary of the board of education, the board shall determine by a majority vote of its full membership whether there is probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the charge and whether such charge, if credited, is sufficient to warrant a dismissal or reduction of salary:

> In the event the board finds that such probable cause exists and that the charge, if credited, is sufficient to warrant a dismissal or reduction of salary, then it shall forward such written charge to the commissioner for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16, together with a certificate of such determination. Provided, however, that if the charge is inefficiency, prior to making its determination as to certification, the board shall provide the employee with written notice of the alleged inefficiency, specifying the nature thereto, and allow at least 90 days in which to correct and overcome the inefficiency. The consideration and actions of the board as to any charge shall not take place at a public meeting.

The Appellate Division reviewed the provisions of the current statute in Rowley v. Board of Ed. of Manalapan-Englishtown, 205 N.J. Super. 65 (App. Div. 1985) and endorsed the Commissioner's interpretation of the statutory provisions as requiring a board which chooses to file tenure charges of inefficiency against any teacher to render positive assistance to the teacher in an effort to overcome the inefficiencies both before and after the filing of charges. The court noted with approval language from a State Board of Education decision which explained:

> The rationale underlying this rule is that a teacher whose teaching effectiveness is called into question after years of meritorious service in a school district should, in recognition of that contribution, be afforded an opportunity to demonstrate that he is still capable of effective teaching. He can only avail himself of that opportunity if he understands clearly the basis for the criticism supporting the allegations of inefficiency and is offered constructive advice as to how he might restore his teaching skills. Id. at 73.

The issue is Rowley was not whether the 90-day period for improvement had been provided, but whether the local board had satisfied its obligation to accord meaningful assistance during the 90-day period. In the present matter there is no question that the 90-day period, after the filing of charges and prior to certification, was not provided at all.

In an effort to escape dismissal of the charges for failure to comply with the proper procedure, petitioner's papers* characterize the charges as "incompetency" as opposed to inefficiency, presumably, therefore, not requiring the 90-day improvement period. A review of each of the cases cited for this proposition, however, suggests that in fact "incompetency" is nothing more than gross inefficiency and therefore is not a charge standing on its own, separate and apart from inefficiency, but rather is different only in degree, not in kind. With the exception of the McRae case which has already been discussed, in none of the other cases was the teacher dismissed because of "incompetency." In each of the other cases, after extensive hearings on the merits, the judges concluded that the proofs might at best show inefficiency, but of course since the proper procedure for filing and certifying inefficiency charges had not been followed, the charges were dismissed. In Bradley, supra, the Commissioner reversed the conclusion of the administrative law judge who had found that the charges against the teacher were actually inefficiency charges rather than incompetence, but upon review the State Board held that the petitioner had failed to prove incompetence, although it upheld the dismissal on grounds of unbecoming conduct. The State Board held that the petitioner had not demonstrated that respondent Bradley was unable to perform her duties, explaining at 1991 S.L.D. 2524:

> Although the record before us does not include a history of Respondent's teaching performance prior to the 1987-88 school year, it is undisputed that Respondent had served in the district as a teacher for a sufficient period of time to achieve tenure and evident that she had been employed since at least 1980. Moreover, we stress that it is the Board's burden to establish incompetency. In support of its charge, the Board relies upon Respondent's conduct and performance only during the 17-month period between December 1987 and April 1989, subsequent to her achievement of tenure, as proof of her incompetency. The evidence does not demonstrate nor does the Board allege that Respondent's teaching

* Petitioner's motion papers assert that the charges describe incompetency, but the charges themselves characterize the allegations as "incapacity." As noted in the finding of facts section hereinabove, "incapacity" implicates the filing of a disability retirement application, and both sides concede that respondent is not suffering from any physical or mental disability which incapacitates her.

> performance was unsatisfactory during her service in the district prior thereto. Under the circumstances, in view of Respondent's previous years of service and achievement of tenure, which service has not been shown by the Board to have been unsatisfactory, we cannot conclude that the Board had demonstrated that Respondent lacked the ability to be an effective teacher. In addition, while we are not unmindful of the serious concerns raised by the Board's evidence of Respondent's conduct and performance during the limited period in the record, there is no tangible evidence indicating the existence of some underlying condition which has undermined Respondent's abilities and rendered her incapable of effectively performing her duties.
> Thus, under the circumstances, we find that the Board failed to satisfy its burden of proof in demonstrating incompetency, and we would therefore dismiss those charges. In so deciding, we do not downplay the gravity of the concerns raised by the Board's evidence of Respondent's conduct and performance during that limited portion of her employment included in the record. While the record may well support a charge of inefficiency, we agree with the ALJ that such a charge could not be sustained since Respondent was not afforded the written notice and 90-day correction period required by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. See, e.g., In re Booth, supra. The rationale underlying this rule is that a teacher whose teaching effectiveness is called into question after years of meritorious service in a school district should, in recognition of that contribution, be afforded an opportunity to demonstrate that he or she is still capable of effective teaching. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Donald Rowley, decided by the State Board of Education, 1984 S.L.D. 2006, 2007, rev'd on other grounds, Docket #A-4666-83T7 (App. Div. 1985).

Although previous decisions have recognized "incompetency" at least as a theoretical cause for dismissal, the time has come to acknowledge that the difference is not really a difference in the nature of the charges, but rather in degree only. In order to avoid lengthy hearings or a motion such as the present one in cases where the charges, as here, are classic inefficiency charges [*], the previous line of cases should be rejected and the requirement should be confirmed of complying with the statutorily mandated procedure which the Legislature has deemed necessary prior to a conclusion that a tenured teacher either cannot or will not perform in an efficient manner any longer. In this regard the concept of stare decisis, i.e., adherence to precedents is more "subject to the basic notion that experience is a teacher and not a jailer" in administrative proceedings than in a court. In re Masiello, 25 N.J.. 590, 598-599 (1958). The Office of Administrative Law is not a court. It is a quasi-judicial forum designed to ensure that an agency head will make determinations for which he/she is statutorily responsible only after full consideration of all the relevant facts and applicable law. An agency is not irrevocably committed to its own precedents. When appropriate an agency head may determine that it is time for a change in interpretation or that a predecessor's interpretation is just plain wrong. A holding that an agency's earlier decisions (even if they were affirmed by the Appellate Division) have frozen a particular interpretational issue would be a misconception of the nature of administrative decision-making. See, N.L.R.B. v. J. Weingarten, Inc., 420 U.S. 251 (1975). Accordingly, for the reasons set forth hereinabove, I CONCLUDE that the charges set forth in petitioner's certification to the Commissioner and described in the affidavit of Ms. Blum-Bart quoted hereinabove, i.e., lack of written lesson plans; disorganization; failure to utilize different teaching modalities; failure to report to class in a timely manner; failure to individualize lesson plans for special needs students; and, general failure to implement lessons which were planned in advance, describe charges of inefficiency and the only way for petitioner (and ultimately for the Commissioner) to conclude, under the law, that respondent cannot or will not teach effectively is to provide the written notice of a "last clear chance" and the 90-day statutory period of meaningful assistance to the teaching staff member to overcome the specific inefficiencies. Although as a practical matter, Ms. Blum-Bart may be absolutely correct in her belief that no amount of additional assistance will make respondent a competent teacher and that additional time in which to correct the serious deficiencies alleged will not result in improvement to respondent's teaching performance,* the only way to establish that fact so that the Commissioner may come to a similar conclusion is pursuant to this statutory procedure which has been established. The Legislature obviously felt that formal written charges against the teacher prior to provision of the 90-day improvement period were necessary to impress upon the staff member, who obviously had performed efficiently in the past in order obtain tenure, the importance of continuing to provide effective instruction to students. As I indicated to counsel in my November 22, 1999 letter to them, I

[*] Compare Rowley, supra, at 70 where the inefficiency charges alleged "failure to perform" properly in numerous designated areas.

---

* As respondent's motion papers point out, Ms. Blum-Bart's previous written evaluations and comments are not entirely consistent with her professed belief. See, e.g., her May 5, 1998 letter quoted at page 7 hereinabove, where she concludes, "I am hopeful that next year things will improve."

CONCLUDE that charges A1, 2, 3 and 4 and B1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 are actually charges of inefficiency and therefore require the provision of the 90-day remediation period mandated in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. Accordingly, those charges are DISMISSED WITHOUT PREJUDICE.

With respect to charges B6 and B7, those charges appear to me to constitute allegations of discrete incidences of conduct or behavior which violate some known rule or regulation as opposed to alleging deficient skills or techniques or a failure to perform teaching duties up to an acceptable standard. Accordingly, I would characterize charges B6 and B7 as conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member or perhaps "other just cause." Because N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 requires a determination from the Commissioner of Education prior to transmitting the case to the Office of Administrative Law that the charges if true are sufficient to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary and because the determination in the within matter was made by the Commissioner on the totality of the charges certified by petitioner, I am hereby returning charges B6 and B7 to the Commissioner, without any consideration on the merits, for him to make the determination required in 18A:6-16 with respect to those charges standing alone.

For all of the foregoing reasons, it is hereby ORDERED that the charges certified to the Commissioner by petitioner and identified as A1, 2, 3, and 4 and B1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 are hereby DISMISSED WITHOUT PREJUDICE and charges B6 and B7 are hereby administratively returned to the Commissioner for a determination pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 prior to any consideration at the Office of Administrative Law on the merits.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4205-99
AGENCY DKT. NO. 96-5/99

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF PATRICIA FINN,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BORDENTOWN REGIONAL SCHOOL	:	DECISION
DISTRICT, BURLINGTON COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions were timely filed pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Respondent's exceptions urge the Commissioner's adoption of the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) determination that charges 1 through 5 should be dismissed, relying on her motion briefs, incorporated by reference, as support for the correctness of the ALJ's conclusion in this regard. (Respondent's Exceptions at 1) Respondent further posits that charges 6 and 7 should be dismissed because "[c]onsidering the sparse allegations, the lack of any substantiation or evidence of significant impropriety in those charges, those charges, standing alone, do not warrant further tenure proceedings." (Id. at 2)

Upon his independent and careful review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner agrees with the conclusion of the ALJ that charges Al, 2, 3, 4 and B1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 must be dismissed because the within Board failed to accord respondent a 90-day improvement period. In so determining the Commissioner is persuaded that this matter is analogous to In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of April Renee Bradley, School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, 1990 S.L.D. 790, aff'd as modified by the State Board of Education, 1991 S.L.D. 2521. Here, as in Bradley, the Board filed performance based tenure charges against respondent, a teaching staff member of 28 years' service, relying on what it alleges was unsatisfactory job performance beginning with the 1996-97 school year and thereafter, a relatively short period within the context of respondent's overall employment. The ALJ observes, and the record does not refute, that prior to this time respondent had received generally favorable performance evaluations. Moreover, the Commissioner observes, as did the ALJ, that, while respondent was charged with unsatisfactory performance during this limited period, the within record reflects that during this same period respondent received a letter from her supervisor, the very person who had conducted the majority of respondent's negative evaluations, praising her "efforts," "excellence," "enthusiasm," and "dedication to helping our students and families become a 'Community of Learners.'" (See Initial Decision at 6-7) Under these particular circumstances, the Commissioner finds applicable the State Board's holding that:

> a teacher whose teaching effectiveness is called into question after years of meritorious service in a school district should, in recognition of that contribution, be afforded an opportunity [through the procedural protections afforded by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11] to demonstrate that he [or she] is still capable of effective teaching."
> (Bradley, supra, at 2524, citing In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Donald Rowley, School District of Manalapan-Englishtown Regional, Monmouth County, decided by the State Board of Education, 1984 S.L.D. 2006, 2007, rev'd on other grounds, Docket #A-4666-83T7 (App. Div. 1985))

Having so determined, the Commissioner declines to reach the further issues discussed at 13-15 of the Initial Decision, since they are unnecessary for resolution of the instant matter.

Additionally, the Commissioner has reviewed the remaining charges, B6 and B7, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16, and finds them sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary.

Accordingly, except as to the discussion at 13-15 of the Initial Decision, which is not adopted by the Commissioner, the recommendation of the OAL is affirmed. The Board's tenure charges A1, 2, 3, 4 and B1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 are dismissed, without prejudice. This matter is hereby remanded to the OAL for further proceedings on charges B6 and B7.

INTRODUCTION

This matter arises as the result of voter approval on May 12, 1998 of the constituent districts of Berlin Township, Chesilhurst Borough, Clementon Borough, Lindenwold Borough, Pine Hill Borough, Waterford Township and Winslow Township to dissolve the Lower Camden County Regional High School District, a grade 7-12 limited purpose regional school. The issue presented here addresses the employment rights of staff members affected by the dissolution. While the Commissioner of Education has not yet approved an effective date for the dissolution, the districts anticipate that the effective date will be July 1, 2001. Under the parameters of Staggard v. Contini, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 217, aff'd State Board Oct. 1, 1997, the constituent districts intend to conduct a selection process commencing for certificated staff on March 13, 2000 and for noncertificated staff on April 3, 2000.

On March 8, 2000 the Lower Camden County Regional Education Association and the Lower Camden County Regional High School District Number 1 Principals and Supervisors Association (petitioners) filed an application for emergency relief before the Commissioner of Education seeking a stay of the scheduled staff selection process by the constituent boards of education pending a plenary hearing on the merits of their simultaneously filed two count Petition of Appeal. The Commissioner immediately transferred the matter to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to-13. Oral argument on the emergency relief application was heard March 9, 2000 at the Office of Administrative Law, Mercerville. The record of the application for emergency relief includes petitioners' motion for interim relief with supporting letter memorandum and affidavits, along with the two count petition of appeal, and the letter memorandum of the respondent boards of education with supporting affidavits in opposition to the motion. An audio transcript of the oral argument is also included in the record.

FACTS

I have reviewed petitioners' memorandum in support of its motion for emergency relief and the supporting affidavits. I have also reviewed the response of the constituent boards of education in opposition to the motion as well as the affidavits filed in support of the opposition. For purposes only of the motion, and except as otherwise may be noted, the facts of the matter are these. It appears that after the effective date of the dissolution, the Boroughs of Lindenwold, Pine Hill, and Winslow Township will each operate a K-12 school district; Berlin Township and Clementon Borough will each operate its own K-8 district and, for grades 9-12, enter a sending-receiving relationship with Pine Hill; Chesilhurst will operate its own K-6 district and, for grades 7-12, enter a sending receiving relationship with Winslow Township; and, Waterford Township will operate its own K-6 district and, for grades 7-12, enter a sending receiving relationship with the Hammonton Board of Education. Affidavits of the superintendents of schools from Lindenwold and Winslow Township state that construction on their new school facilities are on schedule for the July 1, 2001 effective date, while the other school facilities to be used post dissolution are in existence.

The constituent districts have been planning the staffing selection process for the past year with the assistance of consultants they retained for the preparation of seniority to be credited each certificated staff member presently employed by the regional school district. Staff members have had the opportunity to correct errors the consultants may have made and, it appears, that staff will have the continuing opportunity to correct errors should they occur in the future before the effective date of the dissolution. In addition, each superintendent attests that the selection process has been discussed with the leadership of both petitioning associations for the past year, and that a two day seminar was sponsored in May 1999 at which the selection process was explained to all staff. The districts note that the staffing selection process had been tentatively scheduled to be conducted during September 1999 but was rescheduled for March 2000 to avoid the risk of disruption to the existing educational program and the planning process as a whole.

The staffing plan contemplates that principals, supervisors and teachers will have the opportunity of ranking four preferences for continued employment placement in any one of the seven constituent districts for which they are otherwise qualified. If a present staff member cannot be accommodated within his or her certification by any available high school position at the time of the effective date of the dissolution, that person would then be entitled to 'bump' less senior or nontenured staff in a constituent districts.

ARGUMENTS ON THE MOTION FOR INTERIM RELIEF

PETITIONERS' ARGUMENTS

Petitioners seek emergency relief because they assert the selection sheets being utilized do not accurately reflect employees' relative lengths of service and their qualifications; the posting sheets being used do not accurately reflect the staffing needs of the constituent districts, and the effective date of the dissolution is more than two budget years away and, consequently, the constituent districts cannot accurately predict their budgets, enrollments or staffing needs. They assert that the facts in this case merit the granting of the requested emergency relief under Crowe v. De Gioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-134 (1982). Petitioners assert they will suffer irreparable injury if the requested relief is not granted because their legitimate employment rights will not be honored by the constituent boards of education; that they have a reasonable likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the petition of appeal simultaneously filed with the application for emergency relief; that in balancing the relative hardship of the parties, it would suffer greater harm if the relief is not granted than the damage the constituent boards would incur if the relief were to be granted; and, the public interest support granting the relief requested. While the affidavits filed in support of petitioners' motion for relief say mistakes have been made in the calculations of seniority and that it is too early for constituent districts to have solid plans in

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioners' motion for emergency interim relief must be and is DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Upon such review, the Commissioner affirms the Order denying emergent relief, since he concurs with the ALJ that petitioners have not satisfied the requirements necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Accordingly, the within application for emergent relief is denied. This matter shall move forward for further proceedings on the merits as deemed necessary.

IN THE MATTER OF BRUCE WHITE, :

EWING TOWNSHIP BOARD OF : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

EDUCATION, MERCER COUNTY. : DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Relying on Advisory Opinions A10-93(b) and A07-94 and its prior decision entitled In the Matter of Frank Pannuccci, the School Ethics Commission concluded that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the School Ethics Act when, as a board member, he negotiated and voted on a contract with a local bargaining unit where his wife was a member of the same statewide general union. The Commission recommended that the Commissioner impose a penalty of removal from the Board.

During the pendency of the administrative proceedings, the State Board of Education reversed the Commission's decision in Pannucci. The Commissioner found that, given the change in law that had occurred during the ongoing proceedings in this matter, he could not adequately assess the Commission's recommended penalty without having the benefit of that body's review of its decision in light of the State Board's ruling in Pannucci. The Commissioner, therefore, returned the matter to the Commission so that it could determine what effect, if any, the State Board's reversal of prior decisional law might have on its finding of violation and recommended penalty.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from a complaint filed by Ewing Township Board member Edward Vickner alleging that fellow Board member Bruce White violated the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. when he entered into negotiations with members of the Ewing Township Education Association (ETEA) without Board authority and when his spouse is a member of the New Jersey Education Association ("NJEA"), with which the ETEA is affiliated. In addition, the complainant alleges that Mr. White violated the act by participating in such negotiations in 1994 and 1996. Last, he alleges that Mr. White also participated in negotiations and voted on contracts concerning the Ewing Township Administrators' Association (ETAA) while he is a member of the Principals and Supervisors Association (PSA), in violation of the Act. The complaint alleges that he did so in 1996 and 1999. Board member Frank Ferrante filed a similar complaint approximately a month after Dr. Vickner indicating that Mr. White took it upon himself to negotiate a new teachers' contract without board approval when his wife works as a teacher in Trenton. The Commission consolidated the two complaints for hearing.

Bruce White filed timely answers to both complaints admitting to being present at a meeting at which members of the Board and the Association negotiated a contract, but denied any knowledge that such conduct was in violation of the School Ethics Act. He indicated that he negotiated the ETEA contract informally in the same way he had in prior years. He indicates that the board attorney advised him in June 1999 that he should not have been present when the contract was discussed, and now understands that his presence may be construed as a "technical violation" of the Act. Regarding the administrators' association, Mr. White answered that he did not consider the meetings that he attended to have been negotiations, but "a sharing of ideas...leading up to and resulting in a contract agreement between those parties." He denies any intent to violate the Act.

The parties appeared before the Commission in November at which time the Commission found the material facts to be undisputed and found Mr. White to have violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the School Ethics Act. It asked the parties to provide written submissions as to the penalty to be imposed. The Commission received timely submissions by both parties. As the complainants responded to the submission of Mr. White, the Commission allowed Mr. White the opportunity to respond to their submissions. His submission was received on January 18, 2000. The Commission rendered its decision on January. 25, 2000 finding Mr. White in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the Act and recommending a penalty of removal from the Board.

FACTS

Based on the pleadings, documents submitted, and testimony of the parties, the Commission found the following material facts to be undisputed.

Bruce White has served as a member of the Ewing Township Board of Education for 14 years. He served on the Board from 1984 to 1990 and was elected again in 1992. He served as Board President twice. Dr. Vickner was elected to the Board in April 1996.

At all times relevant to this complaint, Mr. White's spouse was a teacher in the neighboring district of Trenton and a member of the NJEA. On February 28, 1994 and September 16, 1996, Mr. White voted for approval of the ETEA contracts for 1994-1997 and 1997-2000 respectively.

Because the teachers' contract was not scheduled to expire until June 2000, Board President Maria Bua did not appoint a committee to negotiate with the teachers on the advice of the board attorney that it would be premature to do so. Three contracts were to end in 1999 so Ms. Bua appointed contract negotiation teams for the support staff association (ETESSA), the administrators' association (ETAA) and the ETDCA. Mr. White was named chair of the committee to negotiate with the ETESSA. He was not placed on any other negotiation team. Dr. Vickner was named chairperson of the ETAA negotiation team and was a member of the ETDCA team.

At a May 1999 Board meeting, Mr. White was approached by the President of the ETEA and asked if he was interested in reaching a contract settlement with the Association in the same manner as in the past. He discussed this proposal with the Superintendent and assumed that he informed the Board President. A meeting was arranged between members of the Board and the Association that was to take place after the Board's dinner for the retiring teachers in June. Mr. White said that he was present at that meeting, but did not participate in the negotiations. He said that the process took about 40 minutes. The other Board member present was Frank Fontana. The President and Vice President of the ETEA were present along with the Superintendent.

Mr. White notified Board President Bua on the first Saturday in June that he had met with the President of the ETEA and discussed a new contract. This was the first that she had heard of it.

At the Board's June 23, 1999 meeting, the Superintendent presented the contract for approval. Dr. Vickner raised the issue of Mr. White having a conflict of interest in negotiating the contract because his wife is a member of the NJEA. After Board attorney John Dyer confirmed that Mr. White should not have participated in negotiations, Mr. White responded, "I'll take the punishment because we got a good contract." When an argument ensued, Mr. White indicated that he did not care whether Dr. Vickner filed an ethics complaint against him and said, "Go ahead and file it. Get it over with." Mr. White stated at that meeting that he was unaware that he was prohibited from negotiating.

Mr. White has been a dues-paying member of the PSA for 22 years. The ETAA is an affiliate of the PSA. On October 25, 1993, April 29, 1996 and May 10, 1999, Mr. White voted for approval of the ETAA contracts.

ANALYSIS

The complainants cite the Commission's prior advisory opinion A10-93(b) and A07-94 as evidence that Mr. White violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c). At the time that the conduct complained of occurred, this section set forth:

> No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter in which he, a member of his immediate family, or a business organization in which he holds an interest, has a direct or indirect financial or personal involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) now provides:

> No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter in which he, a member of his immediate family, or a business organization in which he holds an interest, has a direct or indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment. No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he or a member of his immediate family has a personal involvement that is or creates some benefit to the school official or member of his immediate family.

The Commission believes that it would be appropriate to apply the statute that was in effect at the time that the alleged conduct occurred. However, it ultimately concludes that it is inconsequential which statute it applies because the conduct raises an issue of a financial involvement, which remains the same under both statutes.

In A10-93 and A10-93(b)/A07-94, the Commission advised that a board member would violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the School Ethics Act if he were to negotiate and vote on a contract with a local bargaining unit if he or his immediate family member were a member of the same statewide general union with which the board is negotiating. The Commission then said that it is reasonable for the public to perceive that a board member could not be objective in voting for his or his spouse's fellow union members to receive a contractual award or service, as an increase in benefits or pay could influence an increase in the rate of pay to all members of the same statewide general union and thereby benefit the board member or his spouse. This constitutes an indirect financial involvement for the board member that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment.

Bearing in mind the Commission's advisory opinion and the cases to follow, including In the Matter of Frank Pannucci, C08-96 (1996), it is clear that Mr. White violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the School Ethics Act. Not only did Mr. White vote on the contract of two local bargaining units in which he and his spouse were members of the statewide general union with which he was negotiating, but he set up negotiations with the teachers' union without knowledge of or authorization from the Board or the Board President. The Commission finds such action to be a flagrant disregard for the office he holds. Clearly Mr. White's arranging of a meeting with the teachers' union at the union president's urging, without the knowledge or authorization of the Board, provides the public even greater reason to perceive that he was attempting to acquire some benefit for the statewide general union to which his spouse belongs. Mr. White's representation to the union that he was acting with the Board's authority placed the Board in the untenable position of either approving the contract that had been formed at his clandestine meeting or face charges of an unfair labor practice if it declined to honor it. Again, a reasonable person would easily perceive that Mr. White engaged in such conduct because of his ties to the statewide general union.

PENALTY

The Commission has carefully considered the submissions of the parties in this matter. The complainants, in their submission, reject with incredulity Mr. White's representations that he did not know that the School Ethics Act prohibited his participation in negotiations with the teachers' association and the administrators' association and ask that he be removed. They note that Mr. White has served on the Board for approximately 14 years and served as Board President for two years. They also note that, prior to these actions, he raised an ethics issue and directed the Board attorney to seek an ethics opinion as to whether another board member could negotiate. Further, they note that Mr. White specifically denied having a conflict of interest on the night that the negotiation meeting took place and that even now, knowing that his conduct violated the Act, Mr. White deflects blame by stating that he was never properly advised. Overall, the complainants point to numerous acts of Mr. White that they believe evidence that he believes that he is above the law. Specifically, they note that although there was ample time during the retirement party prior to the private meeting with the union to tell the board members that he had been approached about negotiating, he chose not to tell anyone. They say that Mr. White's admission that this is not the first time that he has negotiated a contract with the union in such a manner further evidences his lack of respect for the law. Last, they point to his comments on the June 28, 1999 meeting tape such as "[g]o ahead. File a complaint. I don't care" as a demonstration of his arrogance and evidence that if not severely punished, he will continue to violate the rules.

In his submission, Mr. White argues that only a reprimand is warranted. He points out that he did not knowingly or intentionally violate the School Ethics Act although he acknowledges that his actions were a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c). He cites to a bill that was introduced in March 1999, which would have made Mr. White's conduct lawful under the School Ethics Act, A-2977, and states his belief that under the amended N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c), he would not have been found guilty of a violation. He also cites to various decisions of the Commission involving the attendance of a board member at a meeting where the board discussed a matter in which he had a conflict of interest and the Commission or the Commissioner imposed at most a censure. He states that his participation was limited in that he did not actually negotiate, but only participated in a side bar discussion with the other Board representative and the Superintendent. He urges the Commission to reject the representations of the complainants and rule consistently with the record and recommend no more than a censure.

The Commission has carefully reviewed the submissions of the parties. It is also aware of Mr. White's representations to the media indicating that Mr. Vickner's complaint stems from his opposition to prior litigation of Mr. Vickner. In a statement he released to the media, he charges Mr. Vickner with violating the Act and states that he should receive nothing more than a reprimand. The Commission notes parenthetically that Mr. White has never filed with the Commission any complaint against Mr. Vickner.

The Commission, while not finding Mr. White to have misrepresented his lack of knowledge, finds that it was Mr. White's duty as a former Board President, board member and administrator to familiarize himself with the rulings of the Commission. The fact that he was excused from attending training because of his continuous membership on the Board from 1984 to 1990 did not obviate the need for him to familiarize himself with the School Ethics Act, which became effective in 1992. In response to questions by Commission members, Mr. White represented to this body that he received the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) publication School Board Notes, but never read it, and received the PSA's publication, but recalled only that it focused on professional development. The Commission's advisory opinion was noted in both publications. The Commission finds that his representations to this body evidence, at best, a serious lack of concern for the rules that govern his conduct.

The Commission finds that the introduction of a bill in March 1999, which would render acceptable Mr. White's conduct in voting for the contracts, is irrelevant. The Commission can only render decisions based on the law as it currently exists. Further, the bill certainly did not address Mr. White's conduct in usurping the authority of the Board President and entering into negotiations without Board authority to do so. Regarding N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) as it currently provides, the Commission has already stated that the amendment does not affect the outcome in this case.

Last, the Commission finds the cases that Mr. White has cited to be inapposite. The Commission has found that Mr. White violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the Act by participating in negotiations and voting on contracts with the ETEA on three separate occasions in 1994, 1996 and 1999. Even discounting Mr. White's 1994 participation as too close to when the Commission advised that the conduct would constitute a violation, the Commission has ample information to distinguish this case from the cases cited. The Commission has expressed particular concern about the manner in which Mr. White has stated that he entered into negotiations with the association and the way that negotiations were conducted in 1996 and 1999 without the appointment of a committee and without authorization. Mr. White also violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the Act by voting on the ETAA contracts in 1996 and 1999 as set forth in the complaint. It was not demonstrated that Mr. White participated in negotiations on the ETAA contracts. Nevertheless, the Commission finds these facts to be unlike any other that it has previously decided based on the number and manner of the violations.

In the past, the Commission has recognized mitigating factors such as acting on the advice of an attorney or being newly elected to the Board. Neither of these is applicable here. Further, the Commission believes that unless punished severely, Mr. White will continue to take actions on behalf of the Board without the authority of the Board. Mr. White's continued reference to his violations of the Act as "technical," as though the term makes them less valid, and his attitude as evidenced on the tape of the meeting and in his representations to the press, indicate to the Commission that only the maximum penalty that it may recommend will convince Mr. White that he did anything wrong.

For the foregoing reasons, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of removal from the Board.

This decision has been adopted by a formal resolution of the School Ethics Commission. This matter shall now be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction only, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. IN THE MATTER OF BRUCE WHITE,	:
EWING TOWNSHIP BOARD OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
EDUCATION, MERCER COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The record in this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (Commission) have been reviewed. Complainant Edward Vickner, Jr.[1], and respondent submitted comments with respect to the Commission's recommended penalty.

In his submission, Complainant reiterates the arguments in his complaint and urges the Commissioner to impose a penalty of removal from the board of education as recommended by the Commission.

Respondent argues that this action is the result of a vendetta against him by complainants and that removing him from the board of education is too severe a penalty because he acted without specific knowledge that he was in violation of the School Ethics Act (Ethics Act). Respondent further argues that the Commission relied on In the Matter of Frank Pannucci, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 339, which was reversed by the State Board of Education on March 1, 2000 subsequent to the Commission's decision in this matter, and that, based on the State Board's decision, there should be no finding of violation of the Ethics Act. However, if such a finding is made, respondent submits that the record in this matter, as well as previous decisions by the Commission and the Commissioner, and consideration of his 13 years of loyal service to the board, dictate that a reprimand is the appropriate penalty in this instance. (Respondent's Comments at 5-7)

After a thorough review of the record, and with due consideration of the arguments advanced by the parties with respect to the sanction to be imposed, the Commissioner finds that, given the change in law that has occurred during this ongoing administrative proceeding, he cannot adequately assess the Commission's recommended penalty without having the benefit of that body's review of its decision in light of the State Board's ruling in Pannucci, supra. Accordingly, this matter is returned to the Commission so that it may determine what effect, if any, the State Board's reversal of prior decisional law may have on its finding of violation and recommended penalty.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF BRUCE WHITE,	:
EWING TOWNSHIP BOARD OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
EDUCATION, MERCER COUNTY.	:	DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Citing In the Matter of Frank Pannucci, the School Ethics Commission concluded that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the School Ethics Act when, as a Board member, he negotiated and voted on a contract with a local bargaining unit where his wife was a member of the same statewide general union. The Commission recommended that the Commissioner impose a penalty of removal from the Board.

During the pendency of the administrative proceedings, the State Board of Education reversed the Commission's decision in Pannucci. The Commissioner found that, given the change in law that had occurred during the ongoing proceedings in this matter, he could not adequately assess the Commission's recommended penalty without having the benefit of that body's review of its decision in light of the State Board's ruling in Pannucci. The Commissioner, therefore, returned the matter to the Commission so that it could determine what effect, if any, the State Board's reversal of prior decisional law might have on its finding of violation and recommended penalty.

In its decision on return, the Commission considered the effect of the Pannucci decision on its finding of a violation and the penalty recommendation. The Commission reaffirmed that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the School Ethics Act and added that the facts also established a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a) and (b) and reaffirmed its recommendation that the Commissioner impose a penalty of removal from the Board.

The Commissioner reiterated that the findings and conclusions of the Commission as to what occurred or whether it was a violation of the School Ethics Act are outside the scope of the Commissioner's review and must be accepted by him in reviewing the Commission's recommended penalty. The Commissioner determined that the violations of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and (c) found by the Commission were insufficient to warrant the extreme result of respondent's removal from elected office. The Commissioner determined that the appropriate penalty to be imposed upon respondent as a school official found to have violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a), (b) and (c) of the School Ethics Act, under the circumstances set forth by the Commission, was suspension from the Ewing Board of Education for a period of 45 days.

IN THE MATTER OF BRUCE J. WHITE,	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
EWING TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	Docket No.: C18-99, C22-99 (Consolidated)
MERCER COUNTY	:	DECISION *ON RETURN

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On January 31, 2000, the School Ethics Commission adopted a decision finding Ewing Township Board of Education (Board) member Bruce White in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the Act and recommending that the Commissioner of Education impose a sanction of removal from the Board. The Commissioner of Education returned the above-captioned matter to the School Ethics Commission by his decision dated March 15, 2000. In his decision, the Commissioner stated that he could not render a determination on the penalty until the Commission considered how the State Board of Education's decision in the case, In the Matter of Pannucci, SB #16-97, which issued on March 1, 2000, affected its determination of violation and assessment of penalty.

The complaint alleged that Ewing Township Board member Bruce White violated the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. when he entered into negotiations with members of the Ewing Township Education Association (ETEA) without Board authority. The complaint also alleged that he violated the Act by negotiating and voting on the contract with the ETEA when his spouse is a member of the New Jersey Education Association ("NJEA"), with which the ETEA is affiliated. The complaint alleged that Mr. White participated in such negotiations in 1994 and 1996 as well as 1999. Last, the complaint alleged that Mr. White violated the Act when he participated in negotiations and voted on contracts with the Ewing Township Administrators' Association (ETAA) when he is a member of the Principals and Supervisors Association (PSA), with which the ETAA is affiliated. Mr. White was alleged to have voted for approval of the ETAA contracts on April 29, 1996 and May 10, 1999. The second complaint, which was consolidated with the first, alleged that Mr. White took it upon himself to negotiate a new teachers' contract without board approval when his wife works as a teacher in Trenton.

At its meeting of March 28, 2000, the Commission considered the effect of the Pannucci decision on its finding of a violation and the penalty recommendation. The Commission reaffirmed that Bruce White violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the School Ethics Act, and added that the facts also established a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a) and (b) and reaffirmed its recommendation that the Commissioner impose a penalty of removal from the Board. The reasons are set forth below.

DECISION

In its January 31, 2000 decision, the Commission concluded that Mr. White violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the Act by participating in negotiations with the ETEA in 1996 and 1999 and voting on contracts with the ETEA on three separate occasions in 1994, 1996 and 1999. The Commission discounted his voting in 1994, however, since the Commission had just issued the advisory opinion in 1994 that advised that voting on such contracts was in violation of the Act. The Commission also concluded that Mr. White violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the Act by voting on the ETAA contracts in 1996 and 1999 as set forth in the complaint.

The Commission finds that its decision that Mr. White violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the Act by voting on the contracts with the ETEA and the ETAA has been reversed by In the Matter of Frank Pannucci. In the Pannucci decision, the State Board reversed the Commission's decision saying "we reject the view that status as a member of another local union within the same statewide union should, on a per se basis, preclude a board member from voting on a collective negotiations agreement in the district where he or she is a member." (Slip op. at p.13). The Commission found violations of the Act based on the fact that Mr. White voted on the collective bargaining agreements with the ETEA and the ETAA when his spouse was a member of the ETEA and he was member of the ETAA. Therefore, the Commission reverses its finding of a violation on those charges of the complaint.

However, the State Board noted that its decision addressed only the question involved in Pannucci and Advisory Opinion A10-93(b) and A07-94, that is, whether a board member who is a member of a statewide general union could vote on a contract with the local affiliate of the same statewide general union. Mr. White's votes on the contracts were not the conduct that was most disturbing to the Commission. As the Commission noted in its decision, Mr. White participated in negotiations with the ETEA. He took it upon himself to set up negotiations with the President of the ETEA without authorization from the Board or Board President. Furthermore, he did so before the contract was even scheduled to expire and thus, before the other associations that had been scheduled for negotiations due to expiring contracts had the opportunity to negotiate with the Board. The Commission has never heard of negotiations occurring in such a manner, although Mr. White said the ETEA contract was reached the same way in prior years. It is the secret negotiations about which the Commission is most concerned.

As the Commission previously stated, because the teachers' contract was not scheduled to expire until June 2000, Board President Maria Bua did not appoint a committee to negotiate with the teachers on the advice of the board attorney that it would be premature to do so. Three contracts were scheduled to end in 1999, so Ms. Bua appointed contract negotiation teams for the support staff association (ETESSA), the administrators' association (ETAA) and the ETDCA. There was no team appointed to negotiate the ETEA contract. This testimony by Board President Bua was undisputed.

In response to the complaint, Mr. White stated in his affidavit:

> Since my tenure on the ... Board contracts between the Ewing Township Education Association ("Association") and the Board have been resolved outside of the typical, and often contentious, arena of negotiations. In the past, one or two board members along with the Superintendent of Schools, who served as the chief spokesperson, and one or two representatives of the Association, met informally to discuss the issues and reach an understanding. Each side presented the ideas to their own groups and the contracts were settled. There had been no negotiating teams or hours of negotiations.
>
> I was approached during a break of a Board meeting in May of 1999 by the President of the Association. I was asked if the Board was interested in reaching a contract settlement with the Association in the same manner as in the past. I discussed this with the Superintendent of Schools, Timothy Wade, whom I assumed informed the Board President. A meeting was arranged between members of the Board and the Association. I was present at that meeting, but did not participate in the negotiations.
> I believe I followed all the appropriate chains of command in arranging the meetings between the members of the Board and the Association since the matter was discussed with the Superintendent of Schools, who advised the Board President.

The Commission based its findings on Mr. White's sworn affidavit and testimony. The meeting took place at a restaurant in Ewing on June 3, 1999. The Commission found the material facts to be undisputed, although there is a discrepancy in Mr. White's answer at the conclusion of the above passage. At the end, Mr. White says the matter was discussed with the Superintendent, who advised the Board President, while at the beginning of the above passage, he indicates that he discussed the matter with the Superintendent who he assumed told the Board President. However, Ms. Bua testified that no one told her that the meeting was going to take place and that she did not find out until Mr. White told her on June 5, 1999, after it had been accomplished. Mr. White admitted that he did not tell her and does not dispute her testimony that she did not know.

The other Board member present at the meeting was Frank Fontana. The President and Vice President of the ETEA were present along with the Superintendent. Again, the Commission found these facts based on the testimony and affidavits of Bruce White.

Mr. White denied having actually negotiated with the ETEA. However, he admitted to arranging the meeting at the request of the union president, attending the meeting and being present throughout the meeting while a contract was being negotiated, all without notifying or being authorized by the Board president. Further, no other negotiations were held with the ETEA prior to the presentation of the contract to the board membership on June 23, 1999. Given the foregoing, the Commission finds that Mr. White participated in negotiations. It does not find his denial that he actually negotiated to be credible, but it matters not whether he actually negotiated, since it is clear that the totality of his conduct with the ETEA constitutes participation in negotiations.

The Commission noted in its January 31st decision that, at the Board's June 23, 1999 meeting, when the Superintendent presented the contract for approval, Dr. Vickner raised the issue of Mr. White having a conflict of interest in negotiating the contract because his wife is a member of the NJEA. The Commission listened to the tape of the meeting in which Mr. White responded, "I'll take the punishment because we got a good contract." This further supports the Commission's view that he participated in negotiations. Mr. White further indicated on the tape that he did not care whether Dr. Vickner filed an ethics complaint against him and said, "Go ahead and file it. Get it over with." The Commission now reaffirms that Mr. White's conduct violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and finds that such conduct violated other provisions of the Act as well.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) provides:

> No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter in which he, a member of his immediate family, or a business organization in which he holds an interest, has a direct or indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment. No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he or a member of his immediate family has a personal involvement that is or creates some benefit to the school official or member of his immediate family.

In A10-93, the Commission advised that a board member would violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the Act if he were to participate in negotiations on a contract with a local bargaining unit if he or his immediate family member were a member of the same statewide general union with which the board is negotiating. The School Ethics Act does not differentiate between whether the school official or his spouse has the involvement; either creates a conflict for the school official. The Commission reasoned in A10-93 that a reasonable member of the public would perceive that a board member could not be objective in negotiating for his or his spouse's fellow union members to receive a contractual award or service. This is because in determining contract settlements, it is a well-established practice for negotiating teams to compare salaries of neighboring and similar statewide districts. An increase in benefits or pay could influence an increase in the rate of pay to all members of the same statewide general union and thereby benefit the board member or his spouse. The Commission notes that the district in which Mr. White serves is a neighboring district to the district where his wife teaches. The Commission finds the comparisons even more likely where the districts are neighboring districts such as Ewing and Trenton in the present case.

In addition, the Commission interprets N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) in conjunction with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22(a), which states,

> In our representative form of government it is essential that the conduct of members of local boards of education and local school administrators hold the respect and confidence of the people. These board members and administrators must avoid conduct which is in violation of their public trust or which creates a justifiable impression among the public that such trust is being violated.

Again, Mr. White did not just participate in negotiations on the contract with the local bargaining unit when his spouse was a member of the statewide general union with which he was negotiating. He arranged negotiations with the teachers' union without knowledge of or authorization from the Board or the Board President. The Superintendent's knowledge or presence does not absolve Mr. White of acting on his own initiative without the Board or Board President's authorization. The negotiation session was held out of the hearing of the public, as is the normal practice; however, the Board, the members of which constitute the duly elected representatives of the public, were also kept completely in the dark. Neither the Board nor the Board President had any knowledge that such negotiations were even being considered. There was no committee appointed, no discussion of parameters and to the Board's knowledge, no urgency to negotiate since the contract was not scheduled to expire until June 2000. The public, as well as the Board, has the right to know when negotiations are taking place and who will be negotiating. Mr. White's conduct robbed them of their right to such knowledge. By his actions, Mr. White engaged in conduct that would create a justifiable impression that the public trust is being violated further supporting a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c).

The Commission does not believe that the State Board's ruling in Pannucci applies to these circumstances. Voting is the act of approving that which others negotiated or otherwise worked upon, which is a ministerial act, albeit a necessary and important act. However, negotiations actually establish the benefits and rate of increases in salary which impact the rest of the school budget as well as the local tax base to be voted upon by the Board and ultimately the public. Mr. White's arrangement of a clandestine meeting went above and beyond merely voting. To obtain a contract despite the lack of authority to do so demonstrates a high level of financial involvement. Mr. White could have followed proper procedures and allowed Ms. Bua to choose a team to negotiate with the ETEA. Instead, he chose to begin the negotiations himself. A reasonable member of the public would easily perceive that Mr. White's spouse's ties to the statewide general union impaired his independence of judgment when he engaged in such conduct. Therefore, the Commission reaffirms its finding that Mr. White acted in his official capacity in a matter in which his spouse had a indirect financial involvement in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c).

In addition, on review the Commission finds Mr. White's conduct in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a), which states:

> No school official or member of his immediate family shall have an interest in a business organization or engage in any business, transaction, or professional activity, which is in substantial conflict with the proper discharge of his duties in the public interest.

Just as a school board member alone cannot hire someone, even with the Superintendent's approval, a school board member alone cannot decide to arrange a meeting to "discuss the issues and reach an agreement." When a board member takes it upon himself to make an agreement on behalf of the board without the authority of the board, it places the board in the untenable position of being forced to go along with the action of the board member or risk an unfair labor practice charge. The purpose of the School Ethics Act is to rid school boards of backroom deals to ensure a democratic process. This much is clear from N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22(a). Mr. White usurped the authority of the Board and acted as a Board unto himself when, through the Superintendent, he presented an agreement that was reached without the Board's knowledge. It is not in the public interest to reach a collective bargaining agreement in this fashion, no matter what the result. The Commission finds that Mr. White's meeting with the union president and reaching an agreement as he did, constituted engaging in a transaction that is in substantial conflict with the proper discharge of his duties in the public interest.

Similarly, on review, the Commission finds that Mr. White's conduct violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b), which provides:

> No school official shall use or attempt to use his official position to secure unwarranted privileges, advantages or employment for himself, members of his immediate family, or others.

It is undisputed that in June 1999, three contracts were scheduled to expire and the Board President appointed three negotiation teams for those bargaining units. As set forth above, the ETEA was not one of the units, as its contract did not expire until June 2000. By agreeing with the ETEA president to meet with him without the Board's knowledge, prior to the Board's negotiations with the other bargaining units, Mr. White gained a privilege and advantage for the ETEA to the exclusion of the other bargaining units. The ETEA was able to resolve its issues, reach an agreement and set the standard for the other units. Reaching an agreement a year ahead of schedule and before other units whose contracts are scheduled to expire is certainly to the ETEA's advantage. Reaching an agreement in the manner in which it was done is an unwarranted privilege. Mr. White gained a privilege for his spouse as well since she is a member of the general statewide union of which the local unit is an affiliate. It is always beneficial to set the standard to which other affiliates of the statewide general union will aspire. For the foregoing reasons, the Commission finds that Mr. White violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) as well.

PENALTY

Mr. White has consistently denied any knowledge of the Commission's prior advisory opinions that stated that a school official would violate the Act if he negotiated with a local bargaining unit of a statewide general union to which he or his spouse belongs. The Commission concluded in its January 31st decision that Mr. White's denial evidenced, at best, a serious lack of concern for the rules that govern his conduct. It concluded that it was Mr. White's duty as a former Board President, Board member and an administrator to familiarize himself with the rulings of the Commission as well as the School Ethics Act. Thus, the Commission does not find his stated lack of knowledge to mitigate in his favor.

In fact, the Commission could not find any mitigating factors that would apply to Mr. White. He did not act on the advice of an attorney nor was he newly elected to the Board. Although the Superintendent was with Mr. White at the meeting in question, he was there because Mr. White told him that the union president had asked that a meeting be arranged and he took it upon himself to arrange it. Therefore, the Commission does not find that the Superintendent's attendance was a mitigating factor. Indeed, since Mr. White has noted that the Superintendent's spouse was also a member of the NJEA, his attendance does nothing to improve the public's perception of this clandestine meeting.

The Commission stated its belief in its January 31st decision that, unless punished severely, Mr. White will continue to take actions on behalf of the Board without the authority of the Board. Mr. White does not find any fault with his conduct as he stated when he said, "I believe I followed all the appropriate chains of command." He acted as though he was at the top of the chain of command selectively disseminating information and leaving others in the dark. The Commission remains convinced that only the maximum penalty that it may recommend would convey to Mr. White that he acted in an unethical manner.

For the foregoing reasons, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of removal from the Board.

This matter shall now be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction only, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed, Mr. White may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission.

The decision of the School Ethics Commission (Commission) and the comments submitted by the respondent Board member, Bruce White, have been reviewed.

In undertaking such review, the Commissioner is mindful that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and its implementing rules, he may not review the findings and conclusions of the Commission as to violation of the School Ethics Act. Even accepting, however, that Mr. White has violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-14(a), (b) and (c) in the manner set forth by the Commission, the Commissioner notes that removal of an elected official from public office is the ultimate penalty for violation of the School Ethics Act, that decisional law is evolving with respect to violations of the type found to have been committed by Mr. White, and that penalties assessed against board members for other instances of violation under the same provisions of the School Ethics Act have generally been less severe than removal.[1,2]

[1] Since the establishment of the School Ethics Act, no board member found guilty of violating N.J.S.A. 18A:12-14(a), (b) and/or (c) has ever been given the extreme penalty of removal from the board. Further, there has been only one instance in which a board member was suspended; in In the Matter of Salvatore Buono, decided by the Commissioner, April 9, 1996, a one-month suspension was imposed on a board member who voted on the award of contracts to his business partner/transportation director and also voted on the renewed contract of his emancipated daughter. There have been a number of censures for violation of the same provisions of the School Ethics Act. See, for example, In the Matter of William Gunning, decided by the Commissioner July 29, 1994; In the Matter of Mark Connolly, decided by the Commissioner June 23, 1997; and In the Matter of James Russo, decided by the Commissioner April 16, 1998.

[2] In Scannella v. Scudillo, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 190, rev'd and remanded State Board 195, decided by the Commissioner June 10, 1997, the board member was censured for casting the deciding vote for her son-in-law as superintendent and for selling gloves to district employees. However, at the time when the penalty for violation was determined, Ms. Scudillo was no longer a member of the Board, so that the penalties of suspension or removal from office were no longer possibilities.

Accordingly, the Commissioner determines that the appropriate penalty to be imposed upon Bruce White, as a school official found to have violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a), (b) and (c) of the School Ethics Act, under the circumstances set forth by the Commission, is suspension as a member of the Ewing Township Board of Education for a period of 45 days from the date of this decision.

IN THE MATTER OF BRUCE WHITE, :

EWING TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, : STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

MERCER COUNTY. : DECISION

Decided by the School Ethics Commission, January 31, 2000

Remanded by the Commissioner of Education, March 15, 2000

Decision on remand by the School Ethics Commission, March 28, 2000

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, June 1, 2000

For the Complainants-Appellants, Edward H. Vickner, Jr., pro se, and Frank Ferrante, pro se

For the Respondent-Respondent, Parker, McCay & Criscuolo (Frank P. Cavallo, Jr., Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent School Ethics Commission, Thomas Russo, Deputy Attorney General (John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of New Jersey)

This matter was initiated by two complaints, one filed by Edward Vickner, a member of the Ewing Township Board of Education, and another filed by Frank Ferrante, a resident of Ewing. Mr. Vickner alleged that Ewing Board member Bruce White had violated the School Ethics Act by entering negotiations with the Ewing Township Education Association although his wife was a member of the New Jersey Education Association. Mr. Vickner also alleged that Mr. White had improperly voted on contracts concerning the Ewing Township Education Association while a member of the

SEPT. 6, 2000

Principals and Supervisors Association. Mr. Ferrante's complaint made similar allegations.

The School Ethics Commission consolidated the two complaints and, on January 31, 2000, it adopted a decision finding that Bruce White had violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the School Ethics Act by participating in negotiations with the Ewing Township Education Association and by voting on contracts with the Association. The Ethics Commission recommended that the Commissioner of Education impose the sanction of removal from the Board.

By decision of March 15, 2000, the Commissioner remanded the matter to the School Ethics Commission. In doing so, the Commissioner stated that he could not determine the appropriate sanction to impose in this case until the School Ethics Commission considered the effect of the State Board's recent decision in In the Matter of Frank Pannucci, decided by the State Board of Education, March 1, 2000.

On March 28, 2000, the Ethics Commission considered the effect of Pannucci on this matter. By its decision, the Ethics Commission reaffirmed its previous finding that Bruce White had violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c), and added that the facts also established a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a) and (b). The Ethics Commission also reaffirmed its earlier recommendation that Mr. White be removed from his position as a member of the Ewing Board.

By decision of June 1, 2000, the Commissioner determined that the violations found by the School Ethics Commission did not warrant removing Mr. White from his position on the Board. Rather, the Commissioner found that, under the circumstances, the appropriate sanction was Mr. White's suspension from the Board for a period of 45 days.

Both Mr. Vickner and Mr. Ferrante filed appeals to the State Board of Education from the Commissioner's determination of the penalty.

When review of the record revealed that Mr. Vickner and Mr. Ferrente had been complainants in the matter before the Ethics Commission, the appeal was referred to the Legal Committee of the State Board for review of whether they had standing to appeal to the State Board. By letters of June 25 and June 30, 2000, each complainant was advised that the State Board's decision in Pannucci had held that the complainant in that case did not have standing to appeal. However, all parties were afforded the opportunity to submit briefs on the issue of the complainants' standing to appeal in this case, and the briefing schedule was placed in abeyance pending resolution of that issue by the State Board.

All parties submitted briefs. In their brief, the complainants indicate that they are requesting standing for the purpose of supporting the recommendation of the School Ethics Commission to remove Mr. White from the Ewing Township Board of Education. In contrast, the Deputy Attorney General representing the School Ethics Commission argues that the appeal must be dismissed based upon the State Board's holding in Pannucci. Similarly, Mr. White's attorney argues for dismissal.

In Pannucci, the State Board concluded that a complainant did not have standing to prosecute an appeal from a Commissioner's determination of the appropriate sanction to be imposed for a violation of the School Ethics Act. That conclusion was based on a careful examination of the controlling statutes, which revealed that:

> the role of a complainant was designed to provide the vehicle by which allegations against a school official would be brought to the School Ethics Commission, but that these statutes do not confer on the individual who files the complaint the right to prosecute the matter.

Pannucci, supra, slip op. at 6.

The State Board also found that:

> Consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(d) and the statutory framework governing appeals to the State Board, see N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 through 6-29, the State Board's regulations delineate that "any party aggrieved by a decision...or by the School Ethics Commission finding a violation of the School Ethics Act may appeal to the State Board of Education." As set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.2, a complainant is the person bringing a complaint of an alleged violation of the School Ethics Act. Quite simply, given the role of a complainant as defined in the statute and implementing regulations, regardless of whether the proceedings result in a finding of a violation and the imposition of a penalty, a complainant is not an "aggrieved party" by virtue of his status as a complainant. In re Lazarus, 81 N.J. Super. 132 (App. Div. 1963).

Id. at 7.

The State Board stressed that even under the liberal approach taken by the New Jersey courts, standing is generally confined to situations in which the individual concerned with the subject matter of the litigation evidences a sufficient stake in the outcome and real adverseness. Id. at 8, citing New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce v. New Jersey Election Law Enforcement Commission, 82 N.J. 57, 68 (1980); Crescent Park Tenants Ass'n v. Realty Equity Corp. of N.Y., 58 N.J. 98, 107 (1971). At the same time, the State Board, like the courts, recognized that lack of standing to invoke the power of judicial review may confer a conclusive character on administrative action to the possible detriment of the public and that a narrow approach to standing may lose sight of the overriding need of the system to make sure that someone shall in fact be able to secure review of administrative action. Id. Hence, the State Board recognized that where a substantial public interest is involved, a slight interest may be sufficient to give standing to invoke judicial review. Id., citing New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce, supra; Elizabeth Federal Savings and Loan, supra.

However, as expressed by the State Board in Pannucci, supra, slip op. at 9:

> ...the function of a complainant is to bring acts by school officials which may indicate a violation of the School Ethics Act to the attention of the Ethics Commission so as to protect the public's confidence. See N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22. It is the Commission, not the complainant, which is charged in this context with acting as the guardian of the public interest.

The complaints in this matter reflect that both complainants are residents of Ewing Township. Although Mr. Vickner is also a member of the Ewing Board of Education, there is no expression that either complainant possesses any interest in this matter that is greater than that of any other member of the public. Specifically, neither complainant has shown that he has been affected adversely in any degree greater than the public generally by the Commissioner's determination that suspension from the Board was sufficient sanction. Moreover, we reiterate that it is not the function of the Ethics Commission or the Commissioner of Education in this context to adjudicate the rights of complainants vis-à-vis other school officials even if such a complainant is also a member of the district board. Id.

Therefore, for the reasons stated herein, we hold that neither complainant in this case has standing to challenge on appeal the Commissioner's determination that the appropriate sanction for the violations found by the School Ethics Commission was Mr.

White's suspension from the Board for 45 days. Accordingly, we dismiss the appeals filed in this matter.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning nontenured teacher contested the Board's nonrenewal of his contract, asserting that the Board failed to provide him with the required number of teaching evaluations and that the Board discriminated against him because he was a cancer patient.

The ALJ determined that the Board complied with N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.1, providing petitioner with three evaluations, including one which petitioner requested be set aside upon learning that he had cancer but which the Board was unable to repeat because petitioner never returned to school. The ALJ also found that petitioner abandoned his discrimination claim because petitioner reported that his claim had been filed in federal district court.

The Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ that respondent evaluated petitioner in conformity with applicable law and affirmed the recommended decision for the reasons expressed therein.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon his independent and careful review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge that respondent evaluated petitioner in conformity with the applicable law. Since it is a well-established legal principle that a district board of education has virtually unlimited discretion in hiring or renewing non-tenured teachers, the Commissioner concurs that respondent acted within its lawful discretion in not renewing petitioner's employment in the school district.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein.

PETITIONER-APPELLANT,	:
V.	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ATLANTIC CITY, ATLANTIC COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.	:

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, March 15, 2000

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Eligio Castro, pro se

For the Respondent-Respondent, Michael C. Epps, Esq.

On March 15, 2000, the Commissioner of Education rendered a decision in which he rejected a claim by Eligio Castro (hereinafter "appellant"), a non-tenured teacher, that the Atlantic City Board had improperly failed to renew his employment. The Commissioner stressed that a district board had virtually unlimited discretion in hiring or renewing non-tenured employees.

On July 2, 2000, the appellant filed a notice of appeal with the State Board of Education from the Commissioner's March 15 determination. By letter dated July 31, 2000, the Director of the State Board Appeals Office acknowledged receipt of that notice. By letter dated August 11, 2000, the Director advised the appellant that review of his notice indicated that it had been filed beyond the thirty-day statutory time limitation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28, and that, as a result, this matter had been referred to the Legal Committee of the State Board for consideration of the effect of his failure to file his notice of appeal in a timely manner. The appellant was informed that he could submit an affidavit setting forth any relevant circumstances with respect to the timeliness of his appeal by August 28, 2000. The appellant was also provided with a copy of the regulations governing appeals to the State Board.

The appellant did not file an affidavit or otherwise provide an explanation for his late filing. Nor did he respond in any way to the Director's letters.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28, appeals to the State Board must be taken "within 30 days after the decision appealed from is filed." The State Board may not grant extensions to enlarge the time specified for appeal. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.5(a). In contrast to the period for filing petitions to the Commissioner of Education, see N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d); N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16, the time limit within which an appeal must be taken to the State Board is statutory, and, given the jurisdictional nature of the statutory time limit, the State Board lacks the authority to extend it. Mount Pleasant-Blythedale Union Free School District v. New Jersey Department of Education, Docket #A-2180-89T1 (App. Div. 1990), slip op. at 5. The Appellate Division has "consistently concluded" that appeals must be timely filed and that "neither an agency nor our court on appeal may expand a mandatory statutory time limitation." In the Matter of the Special Election of the Northern Burlington County Regional School District, Docket #A-1743-95T5 (App. Div. 1996), slip op. at 3, citing Scrudato v. Mascot Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 50 N.J. Super. 264 (App. Div. 1958).

In Yorke v. Board of Education of the Township of Piscataway, decided by the State Board of Education, July 6, 1988, aff'd, Docket #A-5912-87T1 (App. Div. 1989), the Court upheld the dismissal of an appeal by the State Board where it found that the notice of appeal had been filed one day late by the appellant's counsel, who alleged that he had misread or misunderstood the applicable regulations. The Court added that even if the statute could be construed to permit enlargement of the time for filing an appeal, the appellant therein had failed to establish good cause. See also In the Matter of the Grant of the Charter School Application of the International Charter School of Trenton, etc., Docket #A-004932-97T1 (App. Div. 1998) (the Court, upon reconsideration, upheld the State Board's dismissal of an appeal filed one day late).

In the instant case, the Commissioner's decision was rendered on March 15, 2000 and mailed to the appellant on that date. Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4, the decision appealed from was deemed filed on March 18, 2000, three days after it was mailed. Therefore, as mandated by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28, see N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.3(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), as computed under N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(c), the appellant was required to file his notice of appeal to the State Board on or before April 17, 2000. As previously indicated, the appellant's notice of appeal was not filed until July 2, 2½ months after the statutory deadline.

Even if N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28 can be construed to provide us with the authority to enlarge the time limit for filing an appeal, we find no substantive basis to warrant doing so in this instance.

Accordingly, we dismiss the appeal in this matter for failure to file notice thereof within the statutory time limit as computed under the applicable regulations.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF LAKEWOOD, OCEAN COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER-APPELLANT,	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	:
RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.	:

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, March 16, 2000

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Carluccio, Leme, Dimon, Doyle & Sacks, LLC (Richard K. Sacks, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, John K. Worthington, Deputy Attorney General (John J. Farmer, Attorney General of New Jersey)

This matter involves a challenge under N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-15[1] by the Board of Education of the Township of Lakewood (hereinafter "Board") to a determination by the Division of Finance of the Department of Education to reduce its core curriculum standards aid for 1998-99 in the amount of $1,054,109. The case is currently pending before the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL"), and the primary issue to be resolved is

[1] That statute provides in pertinent part that:

> A school district may make an appeal to the commissioner on the amount of its core curriculum standards aid on the basis that the calculation of income within the local share formula under section 14 of this act does not accurately reflect the district's income wealth.

N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-14 provides that each school district shall receive core curriculum standards aid predicated on a local share determined by district property wealth and district income and includes a complex formula for making that determination.

whether the district income wealth data relied upon by the Division of Finance in determining the amount of aid were accurate.

After the case had been transmitted to OAL, the Board moved to compel discovery of all New Jersey State income tax records relied upon by the Department of Treasury and/or the Department of Education to determine Lakewood's district income for the purpose of establishing state aid for 1998-99. On February 16, 2000, the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") denied the motion on the grounds that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:50-8(a), such tax records were confidential.

The Board sought interlocutory review by the Commissioner of Education. By letter decision of March 16, 2000, the Commissioner denied the motion to compel discovery, agreeing with the ALJ that the income tax records that had been used by the Department of Treasury were protected from disclosure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:50-8.

The Board then moved for leave to appeal to the State Board so as to obtain interlocutory review of its motion. By its motion, the Board seeks limited access to as much of the tax return information as was relied on by the Department of Education and is necessary to determine the accuracy of the figures used to calculate the core curriculum standards aid given to Lakewood.

We grant leave to appeal, but deny the Board's motion. Our determination is based solely on the fact that the records at issue are in the possession of the Department of Treasury, which is not a party to the matter and over which we have no authority.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent contested the Board's expulsion of K.M.A. for changing the shutdown message on a computer to a message which the administration interpreted as a "bomb threat."

The ALJ determined that expulsion was too harsh a penalty, under these circumstances, and ordered K.M.A. suspended from March 23, 1999, the date of his offense, until the end of the 1998-99 school year. The ALJ further ordered that K.M.A.'s record should reflect that he is eligible for reinstatement thereafter and that K.M.A. shall be reinstated upon request.

The Commissioner affirmed the ALJ's conclusion that the Board's expulsion of K.M.A. cannot be upheld. The Commissioner ordered that K.M.A.'s record shall reflect that he is entitled to reinstatement for the 1999-2000 school year, and, should K.M.A. request readmission to the Board's District pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, the Board shall conduct a full and fair evaluation in order to determine whether a return to the regular school environment or an alternative placement is warranted for K.M.A.'s subsequent education in the District.

Record Closed: January 20, 2000 Decided: February 2, 2000

BEFORE SOLOMON A. METZGER, ALJ:

This matter arises out of a decision by the Collingswood Board of Education (Board) to expel K.M.A. for an incident that occurred on March 23, 1999. On May 5, 1999, his mother, V.A., petitioned the Commissioner for review, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, and included an application for emergent relief. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Oral argument on the emergent relief application was scheduled for May 19, 1999, and an order denying the application was issued on May 25, 1999. The Commissioner affirmed in an order of June 29, 1999, with directions for expedition should the parties require a plenary hearing. Petitioner requested such a hearing by letter dated July 23, 1999. On July 30, 1999, petitioner filed a notice of motion to amend her pleadings raising various constitutional questions, at which time the American Civil Liberties Union and the Education Law Center entered the case on her behalf. A hearing was conducted on August 31 and September 21, 1999. The record closed on January 20, 2000, with receipt of the last post-hearing submission.[1]

Certain facts are undisputed. K.M.A. was born on April 10, 1983, and he transferred into the Collingswood School District in February 1999, at age fifteen. K.M.A. is interested in and proficient with computers. On the morning of March 23, 1999, he was in a computer lab for math class. The lesson was finished and the teacher gave the students free time to use as they pleased until class ended. The shutdown screen message on the computers in the lab usually reads something like "It is now safe to turn off your computer." K.M.A. opened the shutdown message file on the computer he had been operating and substituted the message "if you turn me off i will blow up." Class ended at approximately 10:30 a.m. About one and one-half hours later, a teacher working in the same laboratory came upon this message and reported it to school principal James Misek. The principal commenced an investigation and K.M.A. was identified as the student who had been sitting at that computer. He was located, taken out of class, and confronted. The laboratory was closed for the day, K.M.A. was suspended, petitioner was called, the police arrived and K.M.A. was arrested. The school was not evacuated.

On March 25, 1999, K.M.A. wrote a letter of apology to Principal Misek as follows:

> I am sorry for what I did. At the time when I changed the shutdown screen, I was thinking of nothing other than that it would be funny if I put it up. I used a wrong choice of words; I did not mean for it to be taken as a threat to any human being. I meant no intent to harm. When I downloaded the program, I thought it > contained Telnet commands and not anything else. When I opened the file, I realized it wasn't and then realized it might have been a virus. I tried to get rid of it but then realized it was [a] fake virus; I still believe it is a fake. I had no intention of harming any computers or any network systems. All in all I had no intent to harm and I am sorry for making a mistake.

[1] In the face of uncertainties about his status for the coming school year, K.M.A. went to live with his father in North Carolina so that he could attend a regular public school program. At that point the matter lost its emergent quality and the parties submitted briefs according to the schedule they sought.

> [P-7.]

Superintendent James H. Bathurst met with petitioner and K.M.A. on April 13, 1999. At the end of that conference he indicated that he would recommend K.M.A.'s expulsion to the Board. At its meeting of April 26, 1999, the Board voted for expulsion. It noted also that K.M.A. could apply for readmission in September if he underwent counseling and was found to pose no threat. In a letter of April 29, 1999, Superintendent Bathurst wrote to petitioner as follows:

> The Board of Education carefully considered all of the testimony and evidence that was presented on April 26, 1999 in private session. Hearings such as these are always difficult, and the Board seeks to evaluate each on its own merit.
> [P-4.]

K.M.A. received fifteen hours of home instruction to cover the period between suspension and expulsion and an additional eight hours during the summer to make up for a miscalculation in the amount of home instruction due him. K.M.A. received credit for the spring semester. On August 23, 1999, petitioner applied to have K.M.A. reinstated and the matter was heard at a regular Board meeting on August 30, 1999. The request was denied by letter of September 2, 1999, and the Board offered alternative education should K.M.A. return to the district from North Carolina (R-2). Three criminal charges had been filed against K.M.A. in connection with the events of March 23, 1999, and he pled guilty to making a false alarm. He received nine months' probation and was required to attend a fire safety program through the County Fire Marshall's office. This condition had yet to be satisfied at the time of hearing.[2]

[2] I am not privy to the full details of the Family Court proceeding.

Petitioner is K.M.A.'s custodial parent. She testified that he has never before been subject to school discipline. After the expulsion hearing she was told that the Board had no further obligation to educate her son. Petitioner tried to have him admitted to a private school, but it was too late in the semester. K.M.A. was evaluated on August 4, 6 and 20, 1999, by Stephen G. Underwood, M.D., a psychiatrist. Dr. Underwood concluded that he posed no danger and should be readmitted to school (P-6). K.M.A. was also evaluated by the Camden County Division of the Fire Marshall, which determined that he was a low-risk individual (P-5). Petitioner testified that she explained to her son that his shutdown message could have been misread as a threat even though his intentions were harmless.

K.M.A. testified in his own behalf. On March 23, 1999, the teacher had given the class some free time and he was bored so he took a few minutes to change the computer's shutdown screen message. He was merely showing off for a friend and intended no menace. Later that morning he was taken out of French class and brought to the principal's office. There, Mr. Misek confronted him and asked if he had initiated a bomb scare, which he denied. Principal Misek then accompanied him to the computer lab and showed him the message, at which point he understood what the principal was talking about and agreed that he had typed in this message. He never told Mr. Misek that he wrote some message, but not that one. When he typed in the words "blow up," he simply meant that the hard drive would be deleted, or that the computer wouldn't work. He did not set the computer to crash if it were shut down. He offered to change the message, but Mr. Misek said that was not the point. Principal Misek said that he feared there might be a bomb in the computer, which caused K.M.A. to laugh. The police arrived and he was arrested and placed in a cell for two or three hours. K.M.A. testified that he hopes to have a career in computers and would like to go to college. K.M.A. conceded that he was aware there had been bomb threats in the district before he transferred in, and one of his friends was expelled for making a bomb threat before the incident at bar.

Paul M. Kingery holds a doctorate in community health and was admitted as an expert in school safety and discipline. He is the director of the Hamilton Fish National Institute on School Violence, which is associated with George Washington University. Dr. Kingery felt that the authorities had overreacted. Control is a necessary part of running a school, but overcontrol leads to rebellion. The zero-tolerance policy at work here has its origins in the prison system and reflects a crackdown kind of mentality. It is destructive in a school setting and is used to promote public relations. No published studies support zero-tolerance policies. Dr. Kingery testified that it is important for districts to create measured policies that allow students to predict the consequences of wrongful conduct. Due process must be clear, explanations must be heard, and mitigating circumstances must be fairly evaluated. Police should only be summoned for criminal violations. This would be the best practice based on what has been tested and appears in the literature.

Dr. Kingery testified that the level of school violence has not increased significantly in recent years, but people are taking notice now in the face of a few high-profile cases. Dr. Kingery testified that even if K.M.A. had made an actual bomb threat, expulsion without alternative schooling is not the answer; it merely transfers the problem into society. Dr. Kingery disagreed with the judgment of a recently published federal report entitled "A Guide to Safe Schools," which recommends zero-tolerance policies for drug and alcohol offenses (R-1).

Dr. Kingery testified that as a college professor he supervised a computer lab and is familiar with computer language. Terms like "blow up" and "kill" commonly refer to rendering a computer inoperative. At worst, the language K.M.A. used was ambiguous and school authorities ought to have been sure of his meaning before proceeding further. Dr. Kingery acknowledged that he has never spoken to K.M.A., the family, or any district personnel about the case. Dr. Kingery has never been a school administrator.

James Misek was the principal in Collingswood High School during the 1998/99 school year and he has been an educator for twenty-three years. On March 23, 1999, just before noon, a teacher came to him and asked that he view a computer screen in one of the math labs. On seeing the message "if you turn me off i will blow up," he sent for his two assistant principals and Joseph Myles, the supervisor of technology, to plan a course of action. Initially, they all took K.M.A.'s message as a bomb threat. Mr. Misek testified that he is familiar with computers and it never occurred to him that the words "blow up" might mean crash. Once Mr. Myles began examining the computer it became clear there was no actual danger. Mr. Myles found the computer time stamp, which revealed when the message was entered, and then they perused the schedule to identify the staff member who taught that class. She was summoned and recalled that K.M.A. was using the terminal in question. K.M.A. was located and brought to the principal's office. Mr. Misek testified that he asked K.M.A. about the message and K.M.A. admitted changing the shutdown screen, but denied writing the language at issue. K.M.A. did not actually admit to writing this message until a few days later when he sent a letter of apology. The student who sat next to K.M.A. was found and he confirmed that he saw K.M.A. write the statement on the screen. At that point Principal Misek called K.M.A.'s mother and the police. The police were at the school for a few hours and took the matter seriously. The lab was closed for the rest of the day.

Mr. Misek testified that there were some thirteen bomb threats in the district during November and December 1998. Initially, the administration automatically evacuated buildings in response, but this was highly disruptive. They consulted with the police and county prosecutor, and decided to assess the threat in each instance before taking further steps. The threat here appeared limited to one computer and Mr. Misek did not feel it necessary to evacuate the building.

Assistant principal Keith Land is in charge of discipline at the high school. He was sent to locate the teacher of the morning class and he found the boy who was sitting next to K.M.A. in the computer lab. Mr. Land testified that when he saw the message on the computer screen he took it as a bomb threat. Later he realized there was no danger.

James Bathurst has been superintendent in the Collingswood district since 1995 and has been an educator his entire career. There was a series of bomb threats in the district beginning in November and December 1998, and the automatic evacuation policy was not working. Meetings with the County Prosecutor and police resulted in a plan not to evacuate buildings immediately, but first to make a threat assessment. They received some training in how to do this. Mr. Bathurst testified that he also adopted a zero-tolerance policy toward bomb scares. When an offender was discovered, barring some handicapping condition, he always recommended expulsion. His first concern is school safety and zero tolerance is intended to reclaim the school buildings from that minority of students who are obstructing the learning process. Mr. Bathurst testified that his policy was informed by the experience of a neighboring district, the Lower Camden Regional School District. Some seventy-seven bomb threats were received there in an eighteen-month period and he did not want to go down that road. Mr. Bathurst believes that the policy was successful. There were only three or four bomb threats in January 1999, none in February 1999, and none since the March incident at bar.

Mr. Bathurst testified that in late August 1999, when petitioner asked the Board to readmit K.M.A., the Board agreed to allow him to attend an alternative high school, primarily intended for students with truancy and discipline problems. One reason the Board would not accept K.M.A. at the regular high school is that he had not undertaken the counseling program that it had directed.

Mr. Bathurst testified that the Board was aware of his zero-tolerance policy, but it considers each case on its own merits and did so here. He conceded that the letter sent to parents about zero tolerance was mailed in December 1998, before K.M.A. transferred into the district. Neither is the zero-tolerance policy mentioned in the disciplinary code. Mr. Bathurst did not believe K.M.A. when, at their meeting of April 13, 1999, he said that the words "blow up" meant "crash." This is the substance of the record.

The Board argues initially that this matter is moot because K.M.A. is no longer domiciled in Collingswood, a precondition of its obligation to educate him. See Oxfeld v. New Jersey State Bd. of Educ., 68 N.J. 301 (1975). I do not agree. The price of jurisdiction cannot be that K.M.A. remain in the district to accept a punishment he challenges. Our circumstances call into play cases that serve as exceptions to the general rule requiring moot cases to terminate. State v. Gartland, 149 N.J. 456 (1997); J.A. v. Board of Educ. for South Orange, 318 N.J. Super. 512 (App. Div. 1999); Student Members of Playcrafters v. Board of Educ. of Teaneck, 177 N.J. Super. 66 (App. Div. 1981).

On the substantive question, boards of education enjoy wide policy-making discretion and their decisions may not be disturbed unless arbitrary and capricious. Thomas v. Board of Educ. of Morris, 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965); Kopera v. Board of Educ. of West Orange, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960). Although petitioner has made a series of legal arguments, we must first determine whether K.M.A.'s expulsion contravened this standard. Initially, there is a small fact dispute as to whether K.M.A. was immediately truthful when confronted. Mr. Misek testified that he asked K.M.A. whether he had written the offending message and the boy denied it. He admitted writing some message, but not the one the principal was talking about. K.M.A. believes this was a misunderstanding. Mr. Misek asked whether he had made a bomb threat and he said no. Later he was taken to the computer lab and shown his statement and acknowledged typing it. Mr. Misek had a good recollection of events and no reason to fabricate. I accept his recitation. Although not crucial, K.M.A.'s account begins with a deception.

What then should be made of the phrase "if you turn me off i will blow up"? The school officials first confronted with this message, Principal Misek and Assistant Principal Land, testified that they understood it as a bomb threat and acted accordingly. On review, Superintendent Bathurst came to the same conclusion. K.M.A. says that he was merely showing off his computer skills and his joke was meant to convey that the computer would crash, not that it would explode. Dr. Kingery accepts this because of his familiarity with computer slang, although he has never actually spoken to K.M.A. I am not persuaded that K.M.A. typed in "blow up" but meant "crash." He did not give this explanation on the day of the incident, nor does his letter of apology two days later assert this. It appears this may be a post hac creation. Having said this, K.M.A. is a mere lad and everyone involved in this case has probably given his message far more thought than he did on the day in question. To some extent he probably was just showing off for a friend, but using the words "blow up" was part of that. I expect that hijinks is a factor in many student bomb threats. Moreover, if K.M.A. intended no more than to impress a classmate, he could have accomplished this without a ripple by deleting the message before departing class.

Having correctly determined that this was a bomb threat, school officials investigated, located K.M.A., talked to him, found his denials wanting, and called his mother and the police. Although Mr. Misek soon realized there was no actual bomb, K.M.A. nonetheless caused a significant disruption. Dr. Kingery felt that Mr. Misek and his aides ought to have probed K.M.A.'s purpose more carefully and moved to deescalate the situation. Although Dr. Kingery brings high academic qualifications to bear on this question, he has never operated a school. I cannot say that administrators seeking to discourage bomb threats acted incorrectly by calling in law enforcement and immediately suspending K.M.A.

Mr. Bathurst testified that he began enforcing a zero-tolerance policy for bomb threats in December 1998, when he realized this was an emerging problem. He consulted with the County Prosecutor and police as well as with other districts and came away with a tough and certain response. Once satisfied that the conduct took place, he would always recommend expulsion. That approach is a legitimate reaction to an acute problem. In effect, all violators would be put before the Board to face the ultimate penalty in school discipline.

It is important to distinguish, however, between Mr. Bathurst's recommendation and the Board's decision. Petitioner has spent much effort attacking zero tolerance and ascribing that policy to the Board. There is no evidence for such a finding and this appeal is from the Board's action. Both Mr. Bathurst and Mr. Misek testified credibly that Board members probe the individual circumstances of each case and that this was specifically done at K.M.A.'s hearing. Petitioner has not provided a transcript of that proceeding.

On the assumption that the Board takes each case on its own merits, it appears that in this instance expulsion was too harsh a remedy. The Board itself probably recognized this when it indicated that K.M.A. could apply for readmission in the 1999/00 school year, if he underwent counseling over the summer. K.M.A. had never been in trouble at any school before this incident and it does not appear he was motivated by a nefarious purpose. For his lack of forethought he was arrested and pled guilty to making a false alarm, he was out of school from March 23, 1999, until the end of the school year, and because he was not reinstated at the beginning of this school year, has relocated out-of-state to live with his non-custodial parent. That is a considerable price. K.M.A. was evaluated by a psychiatrist during the summer of 1999, and the Board had the doctor's report before it denied readmission. The Board quibbles when it suggests that K.M.A. did not comply with its direction to obtain counseling, as the record reflects no specific instructions from the Board on this score (P-4). I have no quarrel with the discipline until the end of the 1998/99 school term, whether styled as a suspension or expulsion subject to readmission in September. I can understand also that the Board might not want to readmit K.M.A. in the midst of litigation asserting the denial of various constitutional rights. Nonetheless, his mischief did not warrant permanent expulsion from the mainstream and to take such action was arbitrary and capricious.

Petitioner makes a series of constitutional arguments. First she believes that her son's right to a "thorough and efficient education" under art. VIII, sec. 4, par. 1, of the New Jersey Constitution has been abridged. Petitioner seeks an analogy to the school funding cases that culminate with Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998). Just as the State may not delegate its fiscal responsibilities to local districts in a way that creates substantial inequality, neither may it devolve unguided power over discipline, for this too leads to distortions. Petitioner points specifically to zero tolerance and to the absence of criteria for alternative education. Moreover, given the constitutional proportions of the deprivation, punishment must be narrowly tailored and incorporate best practices. Dr. Kingery felt that zero-tolerance policies were counterproductive and unsupported by any research.[3] Petitioner argues also that zero tolerance violates the equal protection clause of the New Jersey Constitution, because it classifies by district, arbitrarily subjecting students to differential treatment based on residence. Moreover, the Legislature has set standards under the Zero Tolerance for Guns Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-8, which grants students suspected of weapons offenses greater safeguards, including individualized discipline, than are afforded students who may run afoul of other zero-tolerance policies. Finally, petitioner argues that due process and fundamental fairness were violated because K.M.A. was not specifically notified of the zero-tolerance policy in advance.

As I agree with petitioner that expulsion violated existing school law principles, it is not necessary to treat her constitutional arguments at length. Nonetheless, they appear to proceed upon a false premise. From this record the Board does not follow a zero-tolerance policy and it appears K.M.A. had a full hearing below. The Board might have offered alternative education at an earlier point. Nevertheless, this is not a case in which it was clear from the beginning that alternative education would be necessary. Petitioner used the May/June period to seek reinstatement via an emergent relief application to the Commissioner. The Board was not petitioned for readmission until the week before school began in September 1999. In rendering a decision the Board knew that K.M.A. was planning to attend school in North Carolina. Thus, the question of placement in alternative education was not really explored by either side.

[3] Dr. Kingery's strong opposition to zero tolerance is apparently not shared by the federal government (R-1).

Based on the foregoing, it is my conclusion that expulsion was too harsh a penalty in this instance and it is ORDERED that K.M.A. be suspended from the date of his offense until the end of the 1998/99 school year. His records shall reflect that he was eligible for reinstatement thereafter and he shall be reinstated upon request.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF COLLINGSWOOD, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions and petitioner's reply thereto are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching his decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which included transcripts of the hearings conducted at the OAL on August 31, 1999 and September 21, 1999, the Commissioner affirms the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) conclusion that the Board's expulsion of K.M.A. cannot be upheld. Like the ALJ, the Commissioner finds that the Board considered K.M.A.'s case on its own merits, rather than mechanically applying a "zero tolerance" policy. In addition, the Commissioner concurs with the determination of the ALJ, based upon a full evidentiary record and an assessment of the credibility of witnesses, that the Board did not act reasonably when it concluded, under the particular circumstances of this matter and where K.M.A., due to the timing of his arrival in the District, was unaware of the applicable policy in regard to actions of the type at issue herein, that the appropriate sanction for K.M.A.

was to sever permanently his entitlement to a free public education in its District. This is so notwithstanding that the Board later offered him, once this litigated matter was well under way and he was already enrolled in school in North Carolina, the opportunity to attend an alternative education program, a compromise which could be viewed as "subject to revocation or revision." C.S. v. Township of Piscataway, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 573, 577, aff'd State Board April 1, 1998.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted, as set forth herein. K.M.A.'s record shall reflect that he is entitled to reinstatement for the 1999-2000 school year, and, should K.M.A. request readmission to the Board's District pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, the Board shall conduct a full and fair evaluation in order to determine whether a return to the regular school environment or an alternative placement is warranted for K.M.A.'s subsequent education in the District.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[1]

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE LOWER CAMDEN COUNTY REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 1, CAMDEN COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent challenged the Board's decision to expel her son, C.C., for telephoning a bomb threat to the high school.

The ALJ found that the Board had adopted and communicated its "zero tolerance" policy, which provides for the expulsion of any pupil who committed the act of a bomb threat. Petitioner admitted that C.C. telephoned the threat to get out of class and that it caused disruption to the educational process of the students, endangered the safety and welfare of the students staff, and cost considerable expense. Moreover, C.C. was afforded a due process hearing prior to the expulsion. Noting that the record demonstrated the Board's policy was communicated to all students in the school, the ALJ concluded that petitioner failed to carry her burden of proving by a preponderance of credible evidence that the Board's actions were arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable concerning the expulsion of C.C. The ALJ also concluded that C.C.'s enrollment in a school in Ohio, to the extent that his reinstatement was at issue, rendered that issue moot. Petition was dismissed.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own with modification. The Commissioner did not agree that C.C.'s enrollment in school in Ohio rendered the matter moot since, presumably, the reason for attending school elsewhere was his expulsion.

Record Closed: December 22, 1999 Decided: February 4, 2000

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, K.W., appeals from a determination by the Board of Education of the Lower Camden Regional High School District No. 1 (Board) to expel her child, C.C., from its schools.

The Board answers the Petition of Appeal of K.W. by asserting, among other things, that C.C. was responsible and admits that he committed the act of telephoning a bomb threat to the Edgewater Senior High School (Edgewater) which caused a disruption in the educational process to all students attending Edgewater and also caused the safety and welfare of all the students and staff to be endangered. The Board admits that it promulgated and adopted a Policy of Discipline Procedure which provides the appropriate penalty for a student's commission of a bomb threat to be expulsion from its schools, subject to a due process proceeding and in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:37-1 to –5.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) by the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. A prehearing conference was held on October 4, 1999, at which, among other things, the issue to be determined by this administrative tribunal was agreed upon and set forth on the record. The matter was heard on December 22, 1999, at the Atlantic City OAL, Atlantic County Civil Courthouse, Atlantic City, New Jersey. The hearing record closed on December 22, 1999.

ISSUE

The sole issue to be determined by this administrative tribunal, as agreed upon by the parties, is whether or not the Board's action to expel pupil C.C. from its school was arbitrary, capricious and/or unreasonable.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon the pleadings and other evidence adduced at the hearing I FIND and CONCLUDE that the facts in this matter are neither contested nor in dispute. Therefore, the following constitutes my FINDINGS OF FACT.

Petitioner, K.W., who has the burden of proof, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, produced no witnesses on her behalf. Rather, she concedes that her son, C.C., on March 29, 1999, telephoned a bomb threat to Edgewater for the reason that he wanted to get out of his eighth period math class. Petitioner further concedes that the Board had experienced a number of bomb threats, which caused disruption to the educational process of the students and also endangered the safety and welfare of the students and staff during the 1998-99 school year. Petitioner admitted that these bomb threats cost the Board not only education lost but, also, considerable expense.

Petitioner denies that she knew or was aware of the Board's Policy/Discipline Procedures, which incorporated a "Zero Tolerance" Policy, and called for the pupils' expulsion from its schools as the appropriate penalty for a pupil's commission of a bomb threat. Notwithstanding petitioner's denial of her awareness of the Board's Zero Tolerance Policy, the record demonstrates that the Policy had been communicated to all pupils enrolled at Edgewater. Petitioner admitted on the hearing record that C.C.'s conduct was criminal. She also concedes that C.C. was afforded a due process hearing before the Board prior to the Board's having taken action to expel C.C., pursuant to its Zero Tolerance Policy concerning bomb threats. Petitioner argues, however, that expulsion of C.C. is too harsh a penalty.

PETITIONER'S LEGAL ARGUMENT

In support of her argument that C.C.'s expulsion from the Board's schools was too harsh, petitioner cites the matter of W.W., Sr., on behalf of Minor Child, W.W. v. Board of Education of Penns-Grove-Carneys Point Regional School District, 1998 S.L.D. -----, (OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2059-98, Initial Decision April 8, 1998), where the administrative law judge (ALJ) cited the matter in Scher v. Bd. of Ed. of West Orange, 1968 S.L.D. 92, and where the ALJ asserted the Commissioner stated that:

> Termination of a pupil's right to attend the public schools of a district is a drastic and desperate remedy, which should be employed only when no other course is possible. It is obvious that a board of education cannot wash its hands of a problem by recourse to expulsion. While such an act may resolve an immediate problem for the school it may likewise create a host of others involving not only the pupil but the community and society at large. The commissioner suggests, therefore, that boards of education who are forced to take expulsion action cannot shrug off responsibility but should make every effort to see that the child > comes under the aegis of another agency able to deal with the problem. The commissioner urges boards of education, therefore, to recognize expulsion as a negative and defeatist kind of last-ditch expedient resorted to only after and based upon competent professional evaluation and recommendation. (1992 S.L.D. 96-97) (P.2)

Petitioner asserts that C.C. is now enrolled in a school in the State of Ohio.

THE BOARD'S POSITION

The Board propounded on oral motion to dismiss the instant matter on two grounds. First, petitioner failed to meet her burden of proof by a preponderance of any evidence. Second, the matter is now moot given the fact that C.C. is presently enrolled in a school and, therefore, afforded the opportunity for an education.

CONCLUSIONS

In the matter of G.F. v. Bd. of Ed. of Washington Twp., Gloucester County, 1980 S.L.D. 20, the Honorable Daniel B. McKeown, ALJ, observed that Art. VIII, Sec. XV, Para. 1, of the New Jersey Constitution (1947) provides for a ". . . system of free public schools for the instruction of all the children in the State between the ages of five and eighteen years." Judge McKeown continues to state that:

> The Legislature has recognized this constitutional mandate at N.J.S.A. 18A:38-25 which requires the attendance at school of pupils between six and sixteen, and at N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 which provides that such attendance shall be free of charge.
> A pupil's constitutional right to attend public schools, free of charge, is not unbridled. Pupils are subject to the authority of those over them and are required to obey the rules of the school. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-1. Those pupils who refuse to recognize the authority of those over them, or who refuse to obey the established rules, are subject to disciplinary measures as set forth at N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2. This statute provides for a pupils suspension or expulsion from further school attendance if found to be, inter alia, defiant, disobedient, or violent. (1980 S.L.D. at 29)

The facts in the instant matter are neither contested nor in dispute. The undisputed facts demonstrate that on March 29, 1999, petitioner's son, C.C., telephoned a bomb threat to Edgewater High School. In the matter of H.A. v. Bd. of Ed. of Warren Hills Reg. Sch. Dist., 1976 S.L.D. 336, the Commissioner had the following to say about bomb threats:

> . . . The Commissioner finds that the fundamental fact herein is that the Board and its administrators were faced with an incident of the highest magnitude on October 8, 1975, wherein an inherent danger to the safety and well-being of the pupils under its jurisdiction was threatened. At the time of the incident the school administration was left with no other alternative but to consider the telephoned bomb threat a potentially dangerous occurrence of incalculable dimension with respect to the imminent peril of injury, destruction and loss of life which might result if, indeed, a bomb were present in the building. In the Commissioner's judgment actions of pupils who perpetrate such incidents, notwithstanding the fact that the incident itself is subsequently found to be false, cannot go unpunished. A board of education has the authority and the responsibility pursuant to the aforementioned statute to deal swiftly and effectively with pupils who wittingly or unwittingly jeopardize the safety and well-being of a pupil population and school staff. All pupils are accountable for their actions to school authorities and the authority for the school administration to require such accountability of pupils is clearly set forth at N.J.S.A.. 18A:25-2. . . (1976) S.L.D. at 340)

Thus, the Commissioner and the law provides for a local board of education to punish a pupil who commits the act of telephoning a bomb threat to a public school. The herein Board adopted and communicated its "zero" tolerance policy which provides for the expulsion of any pupil who has committed such an act. The expulsion is effective only after a due process hearing, which was also provided to petitioner's son, C.C.

Having carefully reviewed and considered the entire record before me, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to carry her burden, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the Board's actions were arbitrary, capricious and/or unreasonable concerning the expulsion of her son, C.C.

I Further CONCLUDE, given the fact and circumstances of this matter that the Board's action to expel petitioner's son from its schools was an appropriate punishment under its announced and communicated "Zero" tolerance policy concerning bomb threats.

I Finally CONCLUDE that petitioner's son's enrollment in a school in a foreign State, to the extent that his reinstatement is at issue, now renders that issue moot. See Carolyn Henry, Bd. of Ed. City of Wildwood, 1975 S.L.D. 1, 5.

I CONCLUDE that petitioner's Petition of Appeal is without merit and must be dismissed.

ORDER

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed above, the herein Petition of Appeal is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner has failed to establish that the Board's decision to expel C.C. was arbitrary and capricious, or otherwise contrary to law. In so concluding, however, the Commissioner does not agree that C.C's enrollment in school in Ohio necessarily renders this matter moot, since, presumably, his reason for attending school elsewhere is his expulsion from the Board's District, and C.C. remains unable to return to the District's high school, as his mother wishes.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, as modified above. The Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF HENRY ALLEGRETTI,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF	:	DECISION
TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

The Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent French teacher, based on accusations of sexual misconduct, including that he displayed a condom in class and commented that it was too small for him, made a condom into a balloon-type giraffe, discussed aspects of his personal sex life with students, made inappropriate comments of a sexual nature to female students, taught his students profane words in French and used a book to tap a female student on the buttocks.

Based on the evidence presented at the hearing, the ALJ concluded that the Board had established, by a preponderence of the relevant credible evidence, that the allegations serving as a basis for the tenure charges were true. The ALJ further found that respondent's actions did not warrant termination in light of his prior lengthy and unblemished record of service, and because he did not appear to exhibit the type of predatory conduct typically evident in sexual misconduct cases. Therefore, the ALJ recommended that the penalty imposed be the forfeiture of 120 days salary and loss of salary increments respondent would have earned had the charges not been brought against him. The ALJ further recommended that respondent be examined by a psychologist or psychiatrist prior to reinstatement to his position.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision with modification. The Commissioner concurred that the charges proven did not warrant dismissal, but stressed that respondent's behavior cannot be countenanced in the school environment and increased the ALJ's recommended penalty to loss of six months salary plus increments for 1999-2000 and 2000-2001. The Commissioner also ordered respondent to be examined within 60 days by a psychologist or psychiatrist of the Board's choosing and expense.

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On May 27, 1999 the Trenton Board of Education ("The Board") instituted tenure charges against Henry Allegretti ("respondent") a tenured teacher of French assigned to the Arthur J. Holland Middle School. The charge essentially is one of conduct unbecoming. Allegretti has been employed by the Board since 1989 and has been a full-time teacher in New Jersey for approximately twenty-seven years. The Board suspended Allegretti from his position without pay for 120 days pending resolution of these charges. The "tenure" charges are as follows:

CHARGE ONE

On or about March 26, 1998, respondent used inappropriate language and actions during his French class. According to witnesses, respondent discussed aspects of his sex life in class and displayed a condom in class, commenting that it was too small for him.

CHARGE TWO

On or about March 27, 1998, respondent made inappropriate comments of a sexual nature to a female student in his class, T.K., by saying to her, "it depends on how you do it to me." Additionally, respondent made a comment regarding a student's buttocks and was accused of looking through a slit in another female student's skirt.

CHARGE THREE

Some time during March of 1998, respondent hit a female student, M.C., on the buttocks with a book and commented how nice her butt was and that she had a pretty shape. Respondent also allegedly commented to M.C. about the way she makes him feel, which she interpreted as a sexual remark.

CHARGE FOUR

On or about March 26, 1998, respondent made inappropriate comments of a sexual nature to a minor student in his class, B.R., who also stated that respondent displayed a condom in his class and said that it was too small for him. B.R. also said that respondent taught his students profane words in French.

CHARGE FIVE

On or about March 27, 1998, respondent made inappropriate comments of a sexual nature to P.T., a minor student. According to P.T., respondent made comments regarding her buttocks and told her "she keeps him going" and "the things that she does to him." P.T. stated that these comments were meant in a sexual manner.

CHARGE SIX

On or about March 26, 1998, respondent made inappropriate sexual comments to A.S., a minor student. According to A.S., respondent told boys in his class that he and his cousin undressed each other when they were younger and touched each other in a sexual manner. Respondent also allegedly told his students that he made a balloon giraffe out of a condom.

. . . . . .

On March 27, 1998, the Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) received an allegation of sexual and emotional abuse concerning the foregoing charges. After conducting an investigation, DYFS issued a finding on December 15, 1998 concluding that sexual abuse was unfounded in relation to respondent's actions. In particular, DYFS concluded that respondent did not make inappropriate physical contact with the student known as M.C., as was alleged in Charge 3.

Similarly, DYFS also concluded that the allegations of emotional abuse against respondent were not substantiated. DYFS did find, however, that there was evidence respondent made inappropriate comments to female students concerning sexual situations and by making reference to various body parts such as the buttocks. DYFS recommended that respondent be returned to the classroom, that he be counseled regarding his actions, that this should be documented in his personnel file and that his actions should be closely monitored. In addition, DYFS recommended that respondent receive a written reprimand regarding the inappropriateness and unprofessionalism of his actions.

Based on the foregoing charges, the Board recommended that respondent be suspended without pay for 120 days during the pendency of the tenure charge proceedings before the Commissioner of Education and that his employment with the Board should be terminated for engaging in conduct unbecoming of an employee.

Respondent submitted an Answer to the charges on June 15, 1999 (postmarked June 14, 1999) and, subsequently, filed a second Answer on June 17, 1999 (postmarked June 16, 1999). Respondent essentially denied all the allegations and asserted that his privacy and confidentiality rights were violated by the inclusion of reports of the Division of Youth and Family Services in the charges.

On July 7, 1999, the Commissioner of Education granted summary judgment to the Board on the grounds that respondent filed untimely Answers as they were not filed within fifteen days from the date the charges were certified to the Commissioner.[1] On July 16, 1999, the Commissioner vacated his July 7, 1999 order and decided to accept respondent's untimely Answer. On August 10, 1999, the matter was referred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. Following a prehearing conference the matter proceeded to hearing on November 18 and November 30, 1999. Thereafter at the request of counsel posthearing submissions were provided concurrently. On January 5, 2000 I received the Board's submission and on January 6, 2000, the date on which the record in these proceedings closed, I received Mr. Barrett's submission.

ISSUE

The fundamental issue in this case is whether the respondent school district can demonstrate that Mr. Allegretti committed one or more of the charges alleged against him as part of the proceedings to remove him from his teaching position. If arguendo one or more of the charges are sustained the issue remains to be decided as to whether the appropriate sanction in this matter is terminating Allegretti from his tenured teaching position or if a lesser sanction is reasonable, appropriate and consistent with law.

THE FACTS

The various charges alleged emanate from events testified to by former students of Allegretti's and occurred during the 1997-98 school year. In my judgment, and even assuming that all of the allegations as alleged were accurately and credibly described by the students, the assertions do not rise to a level sufficient to terminate Allegretti from his position. Allegretti's conduct was clearly inappropriate, in bad taste and, on occasion, may have bordered on the obscene. However, this conduct did not rise to a level of prurience, licentiousness or salaciousness one would associate with sexual misconduct. His professional history is devoid of any experiences which would undercut that inference. What one has here, in my view, is a sophisticated French teacher being a bit too cavalier in his language, a bit too sophisticated in his humor, a bit too candid in response to questions placed to him of students and perhaps as well a bit too free to touch students in a non-sexual manner. A host of students were called to testify about a variety of incidents that occurred. These students were in various classes taught by Allegretti during the period at issue.

P.T., currently a tenth grader in Trenton Central High School, was a student of Allegretti's in her seventh and eighth grades. She testified in respect to remarks allegedly made by Allegretti while she was in eighth grade, on or about March 27, 1998, in the school assembly. Allegretti is a large man and apparently there was a difficulty in seating himself, as well as the students. In the course of being seated near P.T. he apparently was required to brush past her and in so doing allegedly uttered something to the effect that "you do something to me." P.T. interpreted this to be an overture of a kind and also indicated that he "said something about my butt or behind."

Allegretti testified that during the assembly the principal accidentally pushed him into the aisle against P.T.. In response he indicated that he tried to make a joke out of the matter by alluding to the lyrics of a well-known Cole Porter song "You Do Something To Me." Allegretti also recalled that during that same day in the classroom it was his recollection that P.T. had been seated on the window sill and after apparently repeatedly requesting that she remove herself from that spot and didn't, he asked her to "get your butt off the window sill" denying making any further reference to P.T.'s physical appearance. P.T. also noted in her testimony that on the following day Allegretti made a reference to her "keeping him going." There was no context to that remark and P.T. indicated that it bothered her to the point where she decided to complain. She acknowledges never being touched by Allegretti and Allegretti denies any recollection of making the latter comments on the following day. I found P.T. to be a very bright, credible and articulate witness. She plans to go to college, reiterated her embarrassment as a result of what occurred and reaffirmed that she had no regrets in providing the testimony that she did.

B.R., currently a student at Morrisville High School, testified to an incident that occurred when she was in eighth grade on March 27, 1998. She indicated that the respondent touched another student's "butt" and said that "he couldn't help it because it was a nice butt." In her statement (P-2) Rosa refers to Allegretti's conduct as "hitting" another student's butt.

Allegretti testified that at one point in respect to the student at issue whom he described as a "disciplinary problem" he used a book to push her away from an overhead projection machine. He denies that the touching was in anyway salacious and I believe him.

B.R. also noted in her testimony that Allegretti would, on occasion, talk about sexual activities. At one point she noted that he took a condom out (apparently condoms were distributed at that time to male students as part of a sexual orientation class) and said it was too small to place on his penis. He also, according to her testimony, in response to questions placed to him by some students in his French class, translated various obscene words into French. Her statement (P-2), while not exactly identical to her testimony, is entirely consistent. Allegretti denies making any remarks in respect to his genitalia; his only recollection was that he recalled seeing a condom in the classroom which, he testified, he threw into the wastepaper basket. He acknowledges commenting that when he was a child he made a play animal out of a condom but denies another allegation which suggested that he blew the condom up into the shape of an animal. Allegretti acknowledges that, in response to questions asked of him in class concerning the lyrics to a rap song, he did translate the words "bitch" and "f—k" into French. B.R. also asserted that during the course of the class on March 27th Allegretti discussed a sexual incident which occurred when he was younger which she felt was highly inappropriate. Allegretti indicated that he never discussed his personal sex life except he did acknowledge that he discussed an incident that occurred when he was two years old with a cousin. B.R. concluded her testimony by indicating that she was "glad it was all over" and indicated, and I believe her, that there was no revenge or any pleasure derived by making the allegations that she did against her former teacher.

T.K. was in Mr. Allegretti's homeroom and had him for her French in her eighth grade. She testified that Allegretti at one point told her to dress sexy and to "get an attitude." In her written statement (P-3) she refers to an alleged remark Allegretti made concerning another female student's dress wear. Apparently the student was wearing a skirt with a high slit and the statement goes on to indicate that "the further the spilt [sic] goes that's how far [I'm] going to look."

Allegretti testified that he never said what P-3 indicates that he said. He recollects that he sent the pupil with the split skirt to do some board work and after noticing what he felt to be inappropriate dress he told her "things like that will make eyes wander." He indicated that there was nothing sexual about it but rather it was indicative of his way of advising the young woman that her dress was inappropriate.

A.S. is a seventeen year old male student who is currently in the National Guard Education Program. He was a student of Mr. Allegretti's in his eighth grade French class. A.S. testified that as a male student it was his view that the actions that were taking place in class "shouldn't be happening in the classroom." A.S. noted that Allegretti spoke about his sexual activities when he was young and, on one occasion, he did indicate that Allegretti shaped a condom into a balloon-type giraffe. A.S. also indicated that he was a witness to the incident involving P.T. concerning alleged references about her behind. In A.S.'s view, while Allegretti might have been joking, the subject matter was not something to joke about. As will be recalled Allegretti denies utilizing a condom in any inappropriate fashion in the classroom.

A.P. was the last student to testify against Mr. Allegretti in these proceedings. The respondent taught French in her eighth grade. A.P. wrote a letter to a supervisor at the school following her observation of various incidents, of a generalized nature, which she characterized in her testimony. She noted that, in her view, both the comments and the conduct of Allegretti, during the relevant time frame, were inappropriate for a teacher and required accountability.

As I stated earlier, many of the allegations made against Allegretti have been admitted to others-specifically displaying a condom in class as a balloon animal and inappropriate touching-were unambiguously denied by Allegretti. In my judgment the resolution of the factual differences in this matter are not terribly significant. On the whole I would have to say that, based upon their credibility, their lack of motivation to in any way harm Mr. Allegretti or falsify, I believed the kids. This is not to say that I thought Allegretti lied; he may over time have embellished in his own memory what he may, or may not, have done. Nevertheless the prefatory remarks that I made should be reiterated at this time. Nothing that was alleged against Allegretti, in my judgment, even interpreted in a fashion most deleterious to him, was undertaken in a prurient, salacious, or licentious manner. Allegretti is married. His wife attended the entire course of the proceedings. He has been married for twenty-eight years. He also noted that in May of 1997 he was taking medication (Phen-Phen) to lose weight and, as a consequence, suffered heart failure in November of 1997. Since then he remains on a variety of medication, including Prozac, which he indicated he was taking for weight loss, which is also a psychotropic medication often utilized for a variety of emotional problems. Whether, at the time of these incident, the use of the medications and/or his state of mind had an effect upon his unusual and-bizarre for him-inappropriate behavior is unclear indeed. Counsel for Mr. Allegretti never made the argument that any mental deficiency or emotional deficiency resulted from his dieting or his eventual heart condition. It is also noted that, in my view, no touching of a significant sexual nature was established; no sexual overtures were made.

Respondent's Arguments[2]

Respondent points out that in reaching the ultimate question of termination from employment, the Commissioner must consider the totality of respondent's record in the district. (Rb9). To that end, respondent emphasizes that he has never been subject to any prior disciplinary action during his twenty-seven years of teaching in the New Jersey public schools. Furthermore, respondent contends that none of the comments attributed to him were meant to be sexually suggestive and that these statements were misconstrued or misunderstood by some of his students.

For example, respondent argues that he was trying to make light of an uncomfortable situation when he made the comment at issue in the fifth charge. He claims he accidentally bumped into the student, P.T., and he jokingly started to sing lyrics from a Cole Porter song-bumped into the student, P.T., and he jokingly started to sing lyrics from a Cole Porter song- "You Do Something To Me . . ." as a way of easing tension. (Rb3). Respondent also contends that P.T. did not offer any credible testimony in support of her interpretation of this event.

[2] Rb refers to respondent's brief

Respondent argues that the allegation in the third charge was also the result of a misunderstanding. He contends that he playfully tapped the student, M.C., on the buttocks with a book as a way of getting her to sit down and to stop being disruptive. He denies that the tap was either "assaultive or sexual in any way" and further denies making any inappropriate comments about M.C. (Rb4).

With respect to the first charge, respondent states that it was a male student who initially displayed a condom in class and that any comments respondent made were in jest. Respondent acknowledges that he probably should not have answered the question posed by a male student about respondent's early sexual experiences, which led to his awkward remark at issue in the sixth charge about playing "doctor" with a female cousin. (Rb8). Respondent also admits that he probably should not have translated an obscene rap lyric into French for a student, which was the basis for the allegation contained in the fourth charge.

Respondent also attributes the allegation raised in the second charge concerning a comment he made about a slit in the skirt of one of his students to a misunderstanding. He denies saying he was looking at the slit in the skirt. Instead, he claims to have said the reason these types of skirts are prohibited is because "eyes will wander". In support of this interpretation, respondent points out that he sent the student in question, J.D., to the office that day because he felt her skirt violated the dress code.

Respondent points out that the Board has the burden of proving its claims by a fair preponderance of the evidence. He concludes his argument by alleging that "the Board has fallen woefully short of sustaining this burden." (Rb9).

The Board's Arguments[3]

The Board contends that all five of respondent's former students testified consistently in describing petitioner's misconduct. According to the Board, there was nothing suspect about any of their accusations to indicate a motivation to fabricate allegations against respondent. As a result, the Board concludes that the students' testimony was credible and that respondent's misconduct warrants termination of his employment..

By contrast, the Board portrays respondent's explanation of events as lacking credibility. For example, the Board contends that respondent failed to explain why it was appropriate for a French teacher to engage in conversations with eighth grade students regarding sexual behavior and to make comments that were unequivocally replete with sexual innuendo. (Bb9). With respect to the fifth charge, the Board contends that it was inappropriate for a teacher to refer to song lyrics as a way to excuse himself from bumping into a student. The Board reaches a similar conclusion with respect to the third charge as it deems it inappropriate for a teacher to use a book to hit a student on the buttocks to prod her to get into her seat. (Bb9).

Furthermore, the Board rejects respondent's explanation for talking about his early sexual experiences, which form the basis for the sixth charge. The Board states that it is "difficult to believe" that respondent could recall an incident occurring at such a young age. (Bb7). The Board does not specifically refute respondent's explanations for the remaining charges as it simply reiterates the testimony of the students.

The Board was not persuaded by respondent's contention that all these allegations were simply the result of misunderstandings as it notes that eighth grade students are particularly susceptible to misinterpreting these types of statements. (Bb10). The Board argues that to sustain tenure charges against respondent would send a clear signal to students, as well as teachers, that teachers must conduct themselves in a professional manner. The Board concludes by stating that, under the proper standard of review, its decision should stand because it was neither arbitrary nor capricious.[4]

[3] Bb refers to the Board's brief

Legal Discussion:

The dismissal or reduction in compensation of tenured persons in the public school system pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 is warranted for "inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10(b) (emphasis added). While unbecoming conduct is not specifically defined in the statutes or regulations, the ALJ in In the Matter of the Certificate of John Fargo, 91 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDE) 1, stated that this determination is discretionary and should be made on a case by case basis. Lack of fitness to remain a teacher is best demonstrated by a series of incidents, but might be shown by a single incident if sufficiently flagrant. Redcay v. State v. Board of Education, 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd 131 N.J.L. 326, 327 (E & A 1944); In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 421 (App. Div. 1967). Further, the nature of the offense, any mitigating circumstances, and the teacher's record must also be considered when determining unbecoming conduct. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Boyd, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 445, 452.

Sexual Misconduct Cases:

Teachers found guilty of sexual misconduct have traditionally received harsh penalties. The rationale for this approach was explained in Tenure of Sammons, 1972 S.L.D. 302: "Teachers . . . are professional employees to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of . . . school children. This heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment. Id. at 321.

[4] The Board seems to be applying the incorrect standard of review. While it is true that decisions by school boards regarding the certification of tenure charges against teachers are entitled to presumption of correctness and will not be upset unless there is a showing that a decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, Thomas v. Morris Twp. Bd. Of Educ., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 328 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd 46 N.J. 581 (1966), the certification of tenure charges is not at issue here. Rather, the issue is the resolution of those charges at an OAL hearing, which, in the absence of statutory or case law to the contrary, is conducted de novo using a preponderance of the evidence standard. Sprowl v. P.F.R.S., 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (TYP) 201, 205.

Typically, however, the sexual misconduct at issue is more serious than that alleged here. In In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of John Hovington, EDU 4318-95S & 225-96S (consolidated), Final Decision (August 5, 1997), adopted, State Board (January 21, 1999) http://www.state.nj.us/njded/legal/index.html, for example, a physical education teacher and coach of the women's track team was dismissed from his tenured position for unbecoming conduct for engaging in an inappropriate relationship with a student and for inappropriately touching another student. The Commissioner found that the teacher's behavior constituted unbecoming conduct based on the finding that he had sexual contact with a student on a repetitive basis. The sexual contact in Hovington involved kissing a student on the mouth. By contrast, the only contact alleged in the present case was that respondent hit a female student on the buttocks with a book, an action which has been subject to divergent interpretations.

Dismissal was also the penalty in In the Matter of George McClelland, No. A-152-83T2 (App. Div. Jul. 20 1984). Here, a tenured teacher was dismissed for conduct unbecoming based upon "his habitual flagrant conduct in touching, caressing and hugging minor female students in his charge." The teacher argued that dismissal was too severe a penalty in light of his outstanding reputation. The ALJ agreed and determined that the teacher should be penalized by a loss of salary. The Commissioner, however, concluded that the teacher should be dismissed, noting that his "proclivities . . . far exceed the bounds of good judgment and restraint". Id. at 3. The Appellate Division, while describing the Commissioner's penalty as "harsh", nevertheless affirmed that decision on the grounds that "we cannot say that it lacks substantial support by credible evidence in the record." Id. at 6.

A somewhat more analogous fact pattern to the present case occurred in Old Bridge Township Board of Education v. Wagner, 1988 S.L.D. 1257. In this case, a gym teacher/track coach with no prior misconduct during his sixteen years of teaching was found to have made sexual comments about some of his students and to have placed his hands on the buttocks of several female students outside of the class. Id. at 1278-79. The ALJ held that the teacher's long record of employment, "otherwise unblemished but for the incidents herein", demanded mitigation of the ultimate sanction of dismissal. Furthermore, the ALJ noted that the school had long tolerated the practice of male athletic coaches using physical contact, such as tapping students on the buttocks, as a means of encouraging female athletes. Id. at 1281. Viewing the circumstances in their entirety, the ALJ concluded that a fair and reasonable penalty to impose upon the teacher was a reduction in salary in an amount equal to 120 days of salary together with the loss of salary increments the teacher would have earned had the charges not been brought against him. Ibid.

The relatively benign nature of the physical contact in Wagner can be analogized to the present case. In Wagner, however, this contact occurred repeatedly while all of the allegations in the present case concerned a two-day period. Thus, it is difficult to justify dismissing respondent given that the teacher in Wagner received a lesser penalty.

Profanity:

While most of the allegations in the present case concern sexual misconduct, respondent is also alleged to have taught his students profane words in French. The use of profanity by a teacher in a class room was found to constitute conduct unbecoming a teacher in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Juanita Zielenski, 1977 S.L.D. 786, 793. The one incident of profanity in Zielenski, coupled with findings of inefficiency, was found to warrant the teacher's forfeiture of her rights to tenure in the school district. Id. at 794.

Removal was deemed too harsh a penalty in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Earmond DeMarco, 1980 S.L.D. 204, where the teacher used profane and vulgar terms to threaten bodily harm to a pupil during an off-campus ski trip. The Commissioner distinguished Zielenski from DeMarco's situation on several factors. The removal in Zielenski was predicated upon several instances of inefficiency as well as the profanity; the profanity occurred in a classroom where a teacher should have better control as opposed to the less structured circumstances of a ski trip; and the children were younger, 9 and 10, than those under DeMarco's control who were 14 and 15. DeMarco's conduct was found inexcusable, nonetheless, and he was denied any salary adjustments or increments to which he might have been entitled during the course of his suspension.

In the present case, respondent admitted that he made a mistake when he translated obscene rap lyrics for a student. Like the allegations of sexual misconduct, this incident appears to have been an isolated incident during a two day period of aberrant behavior. When coupled with all the other allegations, however, respondent should be held accountable for displaying such bad judgment in several different instances.

Lesser Penalties Than Removal:

The following cases involve OAL EDU decisions in which the ALJ determined that sanctions such as removal and loss of tenure were too harsh and instead recommended a lesser penalty, such as suspension, denial of an increment, or reduction in pay.

Board of Educ. of the City of New Brunswick v. Murphy, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 527

Respondent was brought up on charges of unbecoming conduct when it was alleged that she hit students on two separate occasions. The two instances occurred a little over one year apart. The ALJ concluded that respondent did physically strike or touch students on those two occasions but found she "did not willfully and deliberately act in a manner calculated or intended to inflict pain and suffering and injury to the child. While the conduct was inexcusable, it nevertheless appears to be an isolated manifestation in an otherwise highly commendable career." Id. at 536.

The penalty imposed by the ALJ was that respondent "be reinstated to her teaching position at the same annual salary that she was paid during her suspension, without benefit of any adjustment or increment which might otherwise pertain." Ibid. The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's findings of fact and conclusions of law, except that he directed the punishment to be that "in addition to the employment and adjustment increments recommended by the ALJ, respondent shall forfeit the 120 days' pay withheld from her during her suspension . . ." Id. at 537. The State Board of Education affirmed the decision of the Commissioner. 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 134.

In the Matter of Tenure Hearing of Boyd, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 445

Respondent was brought up on tenure charges alleging corporal punishment of pupils. The ALJ concluded that "the respondent inappropriately touched [a student] . . ., that she inappropriately discussed the event with pupils on at least two occasions, and that she removed from class a pupil whom she questioned about spreading rumors concerning the incident." Id. at 452. The ALJ did not recommend termination, in part due to her 25 years of service, and because "[t]he respondent already has paid a very heavy penalty as a consequence of these charges. She has suffered professional and personal embarrassment and has lost 120 days' salary. She will have to work with careful and unremitting attention to all her actions to restore her professional reputation. Ibid.

The ALJ further concluded that, "the respondent's actions were rash but not premeditated, cruel or vicious. While there undeniably was a ripple effect from the incident, nothing in the record shows that the respondent's actions had any lasting effect on the operation of the school or on the pupils involved." Ibid. The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ.

In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Feinsod, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 590

Tenure charges were brought against respondent alleging "conduct which is unprofessional, does not demonstrate good behavior and is unbecoming a teaching staff member. Id. at 591. The ALJ sustained the following charges against respondent: she humiliated a student by informing her of her failing grade within the hearing of others; she used an inappropriate tone of voice that frightened a student; and she displayed an extreme lack of sensitivity by keeping a student in a kneeling position next to a file cabinet in view of a large number of students during a conversation in which the child was crying. Id. at 597-98.

The ALJ's recommended punishment was the forfeiture of 120 days of salary, which had already been withheld. The subsequent year's salary and adjustment increments were to be withheld, although, in the Board's discretion, this could be returned at a later date. Finally, the ALJ recommended that "the Board provide for, and [respondent] participate in, a program of continuing education and/ or in service training including but not limited to, child development, behavioral management and psychology of learning, so as to improve her ability to understand the needs of different types of children and better comport her own behavior and expectations to them." Ibid. The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ.

Conclusion:

Reviewing the totality of circumstances in the present case, in conjunction with the determination that the students were credible, as was respondent but for the likelihood that he has a poor memory and was in some denial, the harsh penalty of removal is not warranted. Respondent displayed poor judgment and used inappropriate language during the two day period at issue here but this behavior was an aberration from an otherwise unblemished teaching career. Moreover, respondent seems to have been guilty mostly of handling certain encounters with his students in an awkward manner rather than exhibiting the type of predatory conduct typically evident in sexual misconduct cases.

For example, it is difficult to categorize respondent's singing the lyrics from a Cole Porter song, "You Do Something To Me . . ." after bumping into a student as anything other than an awkward attempt to ease tensions on his part. While the Board might be right in describing his choice of words as inappropriate, this incident hardly seems to constitute serious misconduct. Similarly, respondent's decision to discuss his early sexual experiences with his students was misguided but also does not rise to the level of serious misconduct. In addition, respondent's comments about the slit in the skirt of one of his students simply seems to have been misinterpreted given that respondent apparently reported this student for violating the school dress code with this dress.

Respondent's use of a book to a tap a female student on the buttocks represents perhaps the most serious allegation here as it indicates inappropriate touching. This action seems analogous with the behavior by the track coach at issue in Wagner, supra, 1988 S.L.D. 1257 in that it does not seem to have been sexually suggestive. Nevertheless, respondent's action was inappropriate and merits punishment. Respondent also displayed similarly poor judgment in translating obscene French lyrics for a student.

The penalty imposed on the gym teacher/track coach in Wagner can be used as a benchmark for arriving at the proper penalty in the present case given the similarity of the misconduct at issue. In that case, the ALJ concluded that a fair and reasonable penalty to impose upon the teacher was a reduction in salary in an amount equal to 120 days of salary together with the loss of salary increments the teacher would have earned had the charges not been brought against him. Id. at 1281.

Here, respondent was suspended without pay for 120 days at the outset of these tenure proceedings. The record does not reflect whether this suspension was extended after the expiration of the 120 day period.[5] In any event, the loss of salary experienced by respondent as a result of this suspension, together with the loss of salary increments which he would have earned had the charges not been brought against him, when coupled with the personal and professional embarrassment respondent has undoubtedly suffered, would seem to constitute a sufficient penalty. A more severe penalty, such as dismissal, is not warranted by the facts of the case.

Accordingly, and based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has established, by a preponderance of the relevant credible evidence, that the allegations serving as a basis for the tenure charges be and are hereby SUSTAINED. Nevertheless, the nature of the charges themselves and the nature of the respondent's conduct cannot, and should not, sustain a termination from employment following a twenty-eight year professional record which is untarnished. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the determination of respondent Board which terminated the petitioner be and is hereby REVERSED. It is further ORDERED that the petitioner be reinstated to his position , after he is determined to be fit by a psychologist or psychiatrist to be selected by the Board, with no back pay resulting from his suspension and no accrual of any salary increments which he would have earned had the charges not been brought against him. This consequence, coupled with the personal and professional embarrassment Mr. Allegretti and his family have suffered constitutes, in my view, a sufficient penalty. Any further conduct by Mr. Allegretti of a similar nature would of course warrant his dismissal.

[5] Respondent was suspended for 120 days as of May 24, 1999. Thus, the suspension was due to end on September 21, 1999.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6408-99
AGENCY DKT NO. 127-5/99

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF HENRY ALLEGRETTI,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF	:	DECISION
TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter[1] and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions and respondent's reply exceptions were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.

The Board's exceptions contest the conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the nature of the charges themselves and respondent's overall professional record do not warrant termination of employment. While acknowledging that in those cases where a tenured teacher was terminated, the conduct was more egregious than in this instance, the Board contends that termination is the appropriate penalty because the ALJ sustained six separate charges involving the use of inappropriate language and inappropriate conduct against respondent. The Board argues that students should not be exposed to this type of behavior from teachers, and that the penalty of a 120-day suspension without pay and the loss of an increment is a mere slap on the wrist. (Board's Exceptions at 2, 3)

The Board agrees with the ALJ's assessment that respondent should be required to undergo a psychological or psychiatric examination before being permitted to return to work,

[1] The parties did not provide the Commissioner with transcripts of the hearings in this matter.

assuming that the Commissioner upholds the ALJ's determination, but suggests that there should be some incentive for respondent to be examined as soon as possible. (Id.)

In his exceptions, respondent objects to the ALJ's references in the Initial Decision to related determinations made by the Division of Youth and Family Services.[2] Respondent also reiterates his argument that all of the incidents that were alleged to have occurred were during a two-day period when all the female students in the school were attending a family planning seminar in which sexual issues were discussed. It is respondent's position that many of the comments attributed to him were misconstrued, misinterpreted or embellished by students who were sensitive to sexual issues because of the seminar being held at that time. Respondent argues that the charges speak in terms of sexual misconduct and that, while ALJ found that he acted injudiciously in regard to some of the incidents, the judge did not find him guilty of sexual misconduct. Thus, he reasons, the penalty imposed by the ALJ was too severe. (Respondent's Reply Exceptions at 1, 2)

Upon review, the Commissioner determines to affirm the decision of the ALJ with modification as noted below. Initially, the Commissioner concurs that respondent's use of inappropriate language and his inappropriate conduct with his students is conduct unbecoming a teacher. Although the ALJ's findings turn on the credibility of witnesses, the Commissioner is satisfied, based on the record before him, that the ALJ appropriately measured the plausibility of content in deciding the credibility of witnesses and the proper weight to assign to testimony in

[2] N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.10a, which limits the release or disclosure of child abuse records, reports and information obtained by DYFS in investigating such reports, was specifically modified in 1996 to authorize the Office of Administrative Law to disclose such records:

> b. The division may  release the record and reports referred to in subsection a., or parts thereof,  to:
> (6) A court or the Office of Administrative Law, upon its finding that access to such records may be necessary for determination of an issue before it, and such records may be disclosed by the court or the Office of Administrative Law in whole or in part to the law guardian, attorney or other appropriate Person upon a finding that further disclosure is necessary for determination of an issue before the court or Office of Administrative Law . (emphasis added) reaching his factual findings and conclusions. It is noted that credibility determinations of the finder of fact, who observed the witnesses first-hand, are to be accorded great weight in the absence of any meaningful basis on which to challenge them. This is especially true, where, as here, transcripts of the proceedings were not provided to the Commissioner. However, even excluding (arguendo) the students' testimony and statements, and accepting all of respondent's testimony as true, the Commissioner's conclusion is unaltered.

As to the appropriateness of the recommended penalty, the Commissioner finds it necessary to balance the totality of the record herein with the need to stress most emphatically that behavior of the type evinced by respondent cannot be permitted in the school environment. The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that, in view of all the facts in this matter, including respondent's prior unblemished history, that the extreme penalty of loss of tenured employment is not warranted. However, the Commissioner also agrees with the Board that no student should be exposed to this type of behavior from a teacher, and that respondent's use of inappropriate language and conduct as seen here is a serious infraction deserving a harsh penalty. (Board's Exceptions at 3) The Commissioner therefore finds the penalty imposed by the ALJ, the loss of 120 days salary and loss of salary increments respondent would have earned had the charges not been brought against him, insufficient to impress upon respondent the seriousness of the charges proven in this matter, which include: displaying a condom in class and commenting that it was too small for him, making a condom into a balloon-type giraffe, discussing aspects of his personal sex life with students, making inappropriate comments of a sexual nature to female students, teaching his students profane words in French and using a book to tap a female student on the buttocks. Rather, the Commissioner modifies the penalty to include a loss of salary for six months plus the withholding of salary increments for the 1999-2000 and 2000-2001 school years.

Although respondent did not offer a medical defense, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that, given the apparently uncharacteristic behavior of respondent over a two-day period, respondent is to be reinstated to his position only after he is determined to be fit by a psychologist or psychiatrist to be selected and paid by the Board. Such examination is to be completed within 60 days of the date of this decision.

Accordingly, the Initial decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein, except as modified above with respect to penalty.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF GLORIA HAGOPIAN,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	DECISION
OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC	:
COUNTY	:

For the District, Gregory G. Johnson, Esq.

For the Respondent, Robert J. Candido, Esq.

This matter having been opened before the Commissioner of Education on December 17, 1999 through certification of tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against a tenured administrator (Director of Research, Planning and Evaluation), Dr. Gloria Hagopian, by the State-operated School District of the City of Paterson; and

An Answer to the charges of unbecoming conduct having been filed by respondent and this matter having, thereafter, been transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL); and

Respondent, before the OAL, having withdrawn her Answer by letter of her counsel dated February 16, 2000[1]; and

[1] Respondent's counsel indicates that "respondent Gloria Hagopian hereby withdraws her Answer to Tenure Charges filed with the Commissioner's Office on or about December 27, 1999. The respondent has been advised that the withdrawal of her Answer removes any opposition or defense to the charges. Further, the respondent understands that Your Honor may enter an Order that the charges are uncontested resulting in a loss of tenure employment." (Candido's Letter of February 16, 2000)

The Commissioner's review of the tenure charges certified against respondent by the Board and the statement of evidence in support of those charges indicating that respondent, on or about July 1999, misappropriated District funds by causing the owner of Tamboer Travel Agency to issue a refund check in the amount of $1,086.42 to her personally, after a principal attending a seminar in Jacksonville, Florida changed hotels, despite the fact that the costs for the original hotel were prepaid by the District, and, also, submitting a voucher for expenses totaling $831.99 for the second hotel, since respondent paid those costs with her credit card (Charge One); on or about September 1998, respondent engaged the services of Evaluation and Assessment Services for Education (EASE), a business owned by her husband, to conduct workshops for District staff, concealing the fact that her husband owned and operated EASE, failing to obtain approval from the State District Superintendent to retain EASE, and causing the District to pay EASE approximately $6,630 for services (Charge Two); on or about September 1998, respondent participated in a scheme with her husband to defraud the District by submitting false receipt reports to secure payments to EASE for workshops which were not conducted by EASE (Charge Three); on or about September 1998, after improperly retaining the services of EASE, respondent directed members of her staff to copy promotional materials and workbooks on District time and using District supplies for the benefit of EASE (Charge Four); on or about July 1999, respondent engaged the services of Computer Technical Services (CTS), a business owned by her son, to install computers for a student data base, having concealed the fact that CTS was owned by her son, and failing to obtain the requisite District approval for same (Charge Five); on or about June/July 1999, respondent initiated requisitions and caused purchase orders to be issued for CTS in the amounts of $14,950 and $10,120, having failed to obtain the requisite District approval for same, and caused the District to pay CTS approximately $13,800 for installing computers (Charge Six); on or about June/July 1999, respondent falsified receipt reports in that CTS did not render the services paid for, yet respondent caused the District to pay $13,800 for installing computers (Charge Seven); on or about June/July 1999, respondent engaged in a fraudulent scheme to compensate her son as an employee and a vendor for the same work when she received approval to hire her son as a summer intern/employee to essentially install computers in the District, submitting time reports totaling 99 hours at $7.50 per hour, while, at the same time, CTS, her son's company, was retained to install computers (Charge Eight); while on suspension in September of 1999 pending an investigation into allegations of conduct unbecoming an employee, respondent requested that a District employee process the purchase orders for CTS in the amount of $10,120 for installing computers, which paperwork was ultimately halted by the District (Charge Nine); on or about November 1998, respondent engaged the services of In-Class Collaborative, a business owned by her husband, to conduct training workshops for District staff, without requisite District approval, and caused the District to pay to In-Class Collaborative approximately $3,500 (Charge Ten); on or about November 1998, respondent retained In-Class Collaborative to conduct a training workshop for District staff, caused a requisition to be issued for In-Class Collaborative, and signed a purchase order voucher indicating that services had been rendered, notwithstanding that her husband submitted an invoice for $3,500 indicating that another vendor provided the services, and the District issued a check for $3,500 to Project Charlie, a business operated by respondent's husband (Charge Eleven); during the 1998-1999 and 1999-2000 school years, respondent retained the services of Project Charlie, a business owned by her husband, to conduct workshops and supply training materials to the staff, concealing the fact that Project Charlie was owned by her husband and failing to obtain requisite District approval, causing the District to pay Project

Charlie $8,325 for services and materials (Charge Twelve); during the 1998-99 school year, respondent knowingly participated in a scheme to defraud the District to pay for services not rendered by causing the District to pay Project Charlie approximately $1,800 for workshops which were actually conducted by another consultant, who was also paid by the District (Charge Thirteen); during the 1998-99 school year, respondent caused to be ordered manuals from Project Charlie, a drug abuse prevention program based in Minnesota, and knowingly allowed her husband to conduct business in the District under the same name, having no affiliation to the drug abuse prevention program (Charge Fourteen); on or about April 7, 1999, respondent ordered office furniture from the Corner Office Store in Bayonne totaling $2,593.18 without District authorization or approval, causing a requisition and purchase order to be issued for same, and, changing the delivery address of the furniture to a non-district facility (the Arabic Civic Center), respondent signed for the furniture, falsely representing that this Center was a District educational program (Charge Fifteen); on or about May 5, 1999, respondent entered into a contract in the amount of $202,065 with Keystone Information Systems, Inc., to develop a student data base computer system without the requisite authorization from the District (Charge Sixteen); and during the 1998-1999 and 1999-2000 school years, respondent violated the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24, by entering into several business transactions with members of her immediate family, retaining, on various dates, four companies: EASE, CTS, Project Charlie and In-Class Collaborative (Charge Seventeen); and

Deeming such charges to be admitted pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.4(e), the Commissioner finds that respondent's actions constituted unbecoming conduct, warranting her dismissal from her tenured position; now, therefore

IT IS ORDERED this 22nd day of March 2000 that summary judgment shall be granted to the District, and Gloria Hagopian shall be dismissed from her tenured position as a Director of Research, Planning and Evaluation in the District's employ as of the date of this order. This matter shall be referred to the State Board of Examiners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6 for action against respondent's certificate as it deems appropriate.[2]

This matter, having been opened to the Office of Administrative Law, on transmission from the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, Department of Education upon the application of petitioners for emergent relief, Ellen M. Boylan, Esq. and Elisabeth Yap appearing pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.4(a)4, appearing on behalf of petitioners (Education Law Center) and Marvin L. Comick, Esq., appearing on behalf of respondent (Love & Randall, attorneys), and, following an informal conference with the parties, the parties advised the Court that they had reached an agreement regarding the matters raised by petitioners' emergent application and requested that the terms of the parties' agreement be memorialized in a Consent Order, which terms are more particularly described below.

It is on this 10th day of March, 2000, ORDERED, upon the consent of the parties, as follows:

1. That respondent immediately conduct an assessment of the exact curriculum and instruction that R.L. missed during the period of his suspension, particularly in the subject areas of language arts, math, science, and social studies. The respondent shall inform R.L.'s parents of the assessment results.

2. That the Board develop, as soon as possible and no later than ten (10) days from the date of this Consent Order, a written plan to address the provision of compensatory education services to R.L., for the education he missed during his suspension and to provide him an opportunity to receive grades and credit for completing the eighth grade. R.L.'s parents will participate in the development of the plan.

3. That the Board provide the services documented in the plan.

4. That nothing herein contained shall be construed as a resolution of the remaining claims asserted in the Verified Petition.

This Consent Order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

RICHARD MARKOWSKI,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CAPE MAY COUNTY SPECIAL SERVICES SCHOOL DISTRICT, CAPE MAY COUNTY,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, tenured teaching staff member who was riffed from his position as social studies teacher on April 28, 1998, alleged that the Board reduced his position from full-time to part-time while essentially retaining the same teaching duties for another individual in violation of petitioner's tenure and seniority rights. Petitioner had declined the offer of "part-time" employment to accept full-time employment in another public school district. Petitioner contended the Board assigned the less senior replacement teacher to more time than had been assigned to petitioner prior to his RIF.

The ALJ found that the matter was ripe for summary judgment. The ALJ found that subsequent to the Board's action to abolish the social studies teacher position and create a three-fifths, part-time position in its stead, the replacement teacher taught social studies on a full-time basis from September 1998 until about April 1999. Taking into consideration the number of student contact hours involved in the position, the ALJ concluded that the Board failed to reduce the position of social studies teacher from full-time to part-time, as authorized by its action on April 28, 1998. Rather, it retained a full-time social studies position in its schools from September 1998 until about April 1999. The ALJ concluded that petitioner was entitled to that position for that period pursuant to his tenure and seniority status with the Board. The ALJ ordered the Board to provide petitioner with the salary and other emoluments to which he was entitled between September 1998 and April 1, 1999, less mitigation. The ALJ ordered that the Board maintain petitioner on its seniority list for the position of social studies teacher and that he be so advised when and if a position becomes available.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ, finding that the matter was ripe for summary judgment and determining that the Board had not, in reality, effectuated a RIF until April 1999. Agreeing that petitioner's tenure and seniority rights were violated during the period at issue, the Commissioner granted summary judgment to petitioner as recommended by the ALJ.

Record Closed: November 12, 1999 Decided: February 4, 2000

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Richard Markowski, who was subject to a reduction in force (RIF) by the Board of Education of the Cape May County Special Services School District (Board) alleges, among other things, that while the Board reduced his tenured teaching position from a full-time to part-time position, it retained a teaching staff to replace petitioner and assigned the replacement teacher to more time that had been assigned to petitioner prior to his RIF. Petitioner seeks an order from the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) declaring the Board's action to be in violation of petitioner's tenure and seniority rights and reinstating petitioner to a full-time position as a teacher of social studies or any other full-time position held by a non-tenured teacher or less senior teacher for which he possesses the necessary certification and/or experience effective retroactively to September 1, 1998.

The Board denies the allegations and seeks the dismissal of the Petition of Appeal.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Prehearing conferences were held where, among other things, the sole issue to be determined by this tribunal was agreed upon by the parties. It was further agreed that the parties would cross-move for summary decision, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 1:1-12.5.

The parties positions and legal arguments are set forth as follows:

PETITIONER'S POSITION

Statement of Uncontested Facts

Respondent Board specifically admits each of the allegations of the first seven paragraphs of the petition of appeal:

(1) From January 1, 1995 through June 30, 1998, when he was subjected to a RIF petitioner was employed by respondent as a teaching staff member. Petition & Answer, ¶¶1.

(2) Respondent Board is a body corporate and politic of the State of New Jersey having statutory responsibilities for the management and administration of the Cape May County Special Services School District. Petition & Answer, ¶¶2.

(3) Petitioner is the holder of an instructional certificate with endorsements as a teacher of social studies and as a teacher of elementary education, all of which were issued by the State Board of Examiners in May, 1666. Petition & Answer, ¶¶3.

(4) During the course of his employment with respondent, petitioner was considered a full-time employee, whose assignment primarily consisted of teaching social studies. Petition & Answer, ¶¶4.

(5) At all times material herein, petitioner held the appropriate certificate and endorsement for each of his assignments. Petition & Answer, ¶¶5.

(6) As a consequence of his employment and certification, petitioner acquired tenure with respondent, which tenure includes all subjects that he is authorized to teach under his teaching certificate and endorsement. Petition & Answer, ¶¶6.

(7) Subsequent to his placement on a preferred eligibility list petitioner was offered what respondent termed a "part-time" position as a teacher of social studies. Petitioner declined the offer of "part-time" employment to accept full-time employment in another public school district. Petition & Answer, ¶¶7.

The only other paragraph of the petition that sets forth factual allegations is paragraph eight. Specifically, the eighth paragraph alleges:

> In or about October 1998, petitioner learned that the "part-time" position that had been offered to him by respondent had been filled by another teaching staff member, and that while the other teaching > staff member is being paid as a "part-time" teaching staff member, the amount of time he is actually teaching social studies (4.5 hours) is fifteen minutes more than petitioner taught as a full-time teacher during the 1997-98 school year (4.25 hours). Petition, ¶8.

The Board's Answer admits that the other teacher has "comparable classroom contact time." Answer, ¶8.

The Board's answer to interrogatory 8(a) explains the factual basis for this admission. The interrogatory asked:

> 8. As to paragraph 8 of your answer in which you state "comparable classroom contact time is admitted."
>
> (a) provide the complete schedule of instruction for the position (including name of instructor, periods taught, precise length of periods taught and day and time taught); See Exhibit 1, p. 2.

The Board responded "[s]ee attached" (Exhibit A, p. 4) and then attached several grids and schedules. The first gird was labeled "8(a)"and provided:

Year	Schedule	Teach Time
1997-98
Markowski-Full Time		4 hours 15 minutes
1998-99
Part Time Teachers	Schedule A	4 hours 30 minutes
(Aftanis, Trombetta, Smith)	Schedule B	4 hours 30 minutes
	Schedule C	4 hours 30 minutes
	(As of 12-7-98 to current)
Full Time Teacher	Schedule A	4 hours 30 minutes
(Tracey Staab)	Schedule B	4 hours 30 minutes

Schedule C 4 hours 30 minutes

(As of 12-7-98 to current)

Exhibit A, p. 5 (emphasis supplied).

Next, the Board attached the underlying schedule as backup for the 4 hours 15 minutes of teaching time in the 1997-98 school year as set forth on the first grid. Exhibit A, p. 6. The schedule provides:

Time	Class	Room
8:30-9:15a	Connections	Each teacher had a class
9:15-10:00a(Period 1)	LA/SS	Team-Teaching
10:00-10:15a	Break time
10:15-11:00a(Period 2)	SS/LA	Team-Teaching
11:00-11:45a(Period 3)	LA/SS	Team-Teaching
11:45-12:15p	Lunch
12:15-1:00p(Period 4)	SS/LA	Team-Teaching
1:00-1:30p	Projects	Each teacher had a class

Staff

. . . Mr. Markowski – History . . .

Ibid. (emphasis supplied).

In summary, the 1997-98 untitled schedule provides for 4.25 hours of teaching time over 6 instructional periods per day or a total of 21.25 hours of teaching time over 30 instructional periods per week. Ibid.

Next, the Board furnished Schedule B for the 1998-99 school year (Exhibit A, p.7) as backup for the teaching time indicated for the 1998-99 school year on the first grid. (Exhibit A, p. 5). Schedule B provides in pertinent part:

8:30-9:15 9:15-10[sic] 10:15-11[sic] 11:1145[sic] 12:15-1: 00 1:00-1:45

Mr. Trombetta	US I	US II	Holocaust	US I	US I	World Cultures

Exhibit A, p.7. In summary, the schedule provides for 4.5 hours of teaching time over 6 instructional periods per day or a total of 22.5 hours of teaching time over 30 instructional periods per week. Ibid.

In short, paragraph 8 of the Board's Answer and the Board's answer to interrogatory 8(a), plainly demonstrate that following the purported RIF, Mr. Trombetta is actually teaching the same number of periods per week and is teaching 1 hour 15 minutes more per week than Mr. Markowski was teaching before the purported RIF. Cf. Exhibit A, pp.2 and 4-7. Based upon the decisional law of the Commissioner, the purported RIF is not proper because it purports to reduce the position to part-time while, at the same time, assigning the holder of the position to essentially the same duties and hours.

LAW AND ARGUMENT

Petitioner Markowski is Entitled to Summary Decision

A. The Legal Standard for Summary Decision

The case of Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 NJ 520 (1996) has clarified legal standard for summary judgment and, hence, summary decision.

In Brill, the New Jersey Supreme Court adopted the federal standard for summary judgment. Brill requires the trial court to engage in evaluation, analysis and sifting of evidence as if the court had before it a motion for involuntary dismissal under R. 4:37-2(b). Thus, under *R.*46-2, summary judgment motions are to be decided by determining whether the competent evidence presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-movant, is still sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the disputed issue in favor of the moving party. The judge is not to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter, but to determine only whether there is a genuine issue for trial. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. at 249, 106 S. Ct., 2505, 91 L.Ed. 2*d.* 202 (1986).

In deciding such motions, Brill requires that only those disputes go to trial, which are "substantial" and not "imaginary" or "unreal." 142 N.J. at 529. In this connection, the court said that the "essence of the inquiry" is "whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a jury . . ." Id. at 533. "[W]here the party opposing summary judgment points only to disputed issues of fact that are 'of an insubstantial nature,' the proper disposition is summary judgment." Id. at 529 (citations omitted). An award of summary judgment is appropriate when "the competent evidential materials presented . . . when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party [are not] sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged dispute in favor of the non-moving party." Brill, 142 N.J. at 540 (emphasis supplied).

B. Mr. Markowski is Entitled to Summary Decision

The facts in this case are clearly not in dispute. The only question in this case is a legal one:

> Has the Board violated Mr. Markowski's tenure and seniority rights by failing to retain him on a full-time basis while, at the same time, having Mr. Trombetta, who is unquestionably less senior that Mr. Markowski, teaching the same number of periods and 1 hour and 15 minutes more per week, claiming that the position is now a part-time position?

Under the decisional law of the Commission, the Board's action plainly violates Mr. Markowski's tenure rights.

Specifically the tribunal's attention is directed to the case of Diglio v. Board of Education of the River Dell Regional School District, 1980 S.L.D. 547 (Comm'r. of Ed. 6/5/80), which is directly on point. In Diglio, the petitioner was a health education specialist who taught health in the junior and senior high school and who developed the health curriculum for grades seven through twelve. 1980 S.L.D. at 548. In the 1974-75 school year, he worked 35 duty periods week. Id. at 551. Included among them, he taught 20 to 22 classes per week (depending on the marking period), worked two periods per day on curriculum, one conference period per day and there was a dispute as to whether he also had an outside duty. Id. at 548. The board offered the petitioner reemployment for the 1975-76 school year for 80% of full-time salary. Ibid. However, when the school year began, his schedule was revised to 34 duty periods, including four to six classes per day of eighth grade pupils, one class of special education pupils one day a week and an additional assignment of continuing work on the curriculum. Id. at 548. Cf. id. at 551. On this record, the hearing examiner found that the petitioner was employed on a full-time basis during the 1975-76 school year. Id. at 549-50. In deciding the case, the hearing examiner looked primarily to the nature of the duties performed, not the number of duty periods. Ibid. The Commissioner adopted the findings of the hearing examiner's report, although he explored independently the reasons for his decision. Id. at 551. Specifically, the Commissioner explained that the number of duty periods was the critical issue upon which he based his decision, finding:

> However, it is the total number of duty periods that determines the extent to which a teaching staff member is committed. And when examined from this broader perspective the evidence in this case indicates that the number of periods assigned for conferences and outside duty did not remain constant from one year to the next. It is this data that persuades the Commissioner to conclude that petitioner's schedule was in fact modified in such a manner as to eliminate the reduction in duty for which petitioner had accepted a reduced salary. When the periods of curriculum work (10 per week) are added to the periods of classroom teaching, which ranged from 19 to 21 depending upon the marking period and averaged 20 per week, and 5 conference periods per week, petitioner's duty periods for the 1974-75 school year totaled 35 per week. The total periods of assigned duty in the 1975-76 were 34. . . .
> > From this summary it clearly appears that the elimination of periods assigned to curriculum development did not in fact reduce the number of periods during which petitioner was assigned duties. Of the 10 periods that had been devoted to curriculum work, 9 were devoted instead to conferences and outside duty. In view of the foregoing, the Commissioner concludes that petitioner was, in fact, called upon to perform the services of a full time teaching staff member during the 1975-76 academic year and he should have been compensated accordingly. The Board is directed to forward to petitioner an amount equal to the difference between the part- time salary he was paid and the full-time salary he should have been paid for the 1975-76 school year.

Id. at 551-52 (emphasis supplied). In short, Diglio stands for the following propositions:

> (1) In determining whether a position is truly full- or part-time, the decision will turn upon a comparison of the actual duty periods in the full-time year and the purported part-time year.
>
> (2) A board of education may not legitimately require an employee to work the same amount of duty periods which it previously recognized to be a full-time load for less pay simply by calling the full time employment "part-time."
> C. Where a board attempts such a sham, it is appropriate for the Commissioner to place the employee in the same position as she or he would have been if the board had acted properly by reinstating the employee to full-time employment and awarding the employee the wages she or he has lost as a consequence of the Board's wrongful conduct. Ibid.

Applying Diglio to the present case, a comparison of the actual duty periods in the 1997-98 school year (which the Board labeled full-time employment) and the actual duty periods in the 1998-99 school year (which the Board now attempts to label as part-time), reveals that the number of duty periods did not change. Both years, the teacher in question worked 30 periods per week. Exhibit A, pp 6-8. Even more compelling than Diglio, is the present case, during the 1998-99 school year, the amount of duty time actually increased by an hour and a quarter a week. Ibid. Under the circumstances and under the principles articulated by Diglio, the Board's offer of purported "part-time" employment to Mr. Markowski and subsequent appointment of Mr. Trombetta to the position on a "part-time" basis, was a sham in derogation of Mr. Markowski's tenure and seniority rights. Under the circumstances, he should be compensated for the salary and emoluments he lost as a result of the Board's wrongful conduct and should be reinstated to full-time employment.

Petitioner's Conclusions

For the foregoing reasons, petitioner, Richard Markowski, requests that Your Honor issue an order:

a. finding and declaring that respondent's action to deprive petitioner of a full-time teaching position was in violation of his tenure and seniority rights;

b. directing respondent to recognize petitioner's tenure and/or seniority rights by reinstating him to a full-time position as a teacher of social studies or any other full-time position held by a non-tenured teacher or less senior tenured teacher for which he possesses the necessary certification and/or experience, effective immediately and retroactively to September 1, 1998;

c. directing respondent to provide petitioner with all salary, benefits and emoluments he is entitled to by law and under the negotiated agreement in force and effect in the Cape May County Special Services School District, retroactive to September 1, 1998.

d. attaching both pre-and post-judgment interest to any back pay award as permitted by law;

e. directing respondent to take all actions necessary to assure that petitioner receives proper pension credit retroactive to September 1, 1998, and

f. granting such relief as is deemed appropriate.

THE BOARD'S POSITION

Statement of the Issue

The essence of the instant petition of appeal is the issue of what constitutes full-time employment as a teaching staff in the Cape May Special Services School District. Petitioner asserts that, at least with respect to himself, the only fact that is relevant is the number of hours during which he provided pupil instructional services in the year prior to his reduction in force. The respondent asserts to the contrary that the status of full-time employment is not determined on an individual by individual basis but rather is established under statute and rule, for teaching staff members as a class. The respondent further asserts that such a status, in this school district has been established at six and one half (6.5) hours per day and thirty two and one half (32.5) hours per week during five consecutive work days.

COUNTER STATEMENT OF FACTS

Uncontested Facts

Respondent concurs that the allegations of the first seven paragraphs of the Petition of Appeal were admitted by it and hence, the facts asserted therein are uncontested.

However, additional, uncontested and material facts were left out of the Petition of Appeal and Petitioner's Brief in support of Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision. Those additional uncontested facts are as follows:

1. The respondent, Board, operates a County Special Services School District which, other than in the Alternative Education Program, accepts only students who are classified under state law as being in need of special education services based upon having an educational handicapping condition.

2. Assignments to all classroom instructional positions in the educational program outside of the Alternative Educational Program are required by state law to hold a Teacher of the Handicapped Endorsement.

3. Petitioner did not hold nor was petitioner eligible to hold an endorsement as a Teacher of the Handicapped at the time of the RIF. Hence, petitioner did not possess the necessary and required certification for bumping to any position other than in the respondent's Alternative Education Program.

4. There are not currently any teaching staff members employed in the respondent's Alternative Educational Program as elementary teachers, or under Elementary Teacher Endorsements.

5. Since petitioner neither held nor was eligible to hold a Teacher of the Handicapped endorsement at the time of the RIF, and hence is not legally qualified to hold an elementary teacher position in the Board, the question of whether or not petitioner possessed an Elementary Teacher endorsement by itself is immaterial to the instant matter.

6. For the 1999-2000 school year there are no teaching staff members employed in the respondent's Alternative Educational Program solely as social studies teachers or solely under Social Studies Teacher endorsements. The only social studies appointment is held by Mr. Trombetta, whose work time is split between a social studies assignment and a substance abuse counselor assignment. Petitioner, at the time of the RIF did not hold a substance abuse endorsement and has expressly turned down a part-time social studies appointment.

7. There are no teaching positions in existence for the 1999-2000 school year for which petitioner holds the required certification/endorsement credentials. Hence, there is no position in existence for the 1999-2000 school year to which petitioner can claim any entitlement.

8. There is, and has been at all times relevant to the instant matter, a collectively negotiated contract between the respondent and the majority representative, "Services School District Staff Association" (SSSDSA). That collectively negotiated contract is for the period of July 1, 1996 – June 30, 1999. That contract covers all positions and personnel involved in or at issue in the instant matter. That contract provides in material part that:

(2) In Article IX, WORK DAY – WORK WEEK- OVERTIME, IX ¶A:

(3) The work day will be defined as follows:

1. 6.5 hours for certified staff . . ..

B. In Article IX, ¶B:

(1) The work week will be defined as follows:

1. Certified staff, . . . 5 consecutive work days comprised of 32.5 hours.

C. In Article XI, Health Benefits ¶G:

G. Beginning July 1, 1997, the number of hours required to work in order to receive benefits will increase to 26 hours. All current contracted employees will be grandfathered.

D. In Article XVI, Teacher Employment, ¶A&B provide:

(1) It shall be the policy of the Board to employ on the instructional staff, only those persons who hold . . . an acceptable State Teacher's Certificate.

(2) Certification

1. All instructional personnel shall have teaching certificates, duly recorded with the Superintendent of Schools, that legally qualify them for the work to which they are assigned.

E. Article XVIII, Miscellaneous, ¶A & F, provide:

(1) The Board reserves itself sole jurisdiction and authority over matters of policy and retains imposed the right, subject onl to the limitations by the language of this Agreement, in accordance with applicable laws and regulations.

1. to direct employees of the school district;

(1) to hire, rehire, promote, transfer, assign or retain employees in positions in the school district;

(2) to maintain efficiency of school district operations entrusted to them, . . .

F. Article XXI, Fully Bargained Provisions, provides:

Any individual contract between the Board and an individual employee, heretofore, or hereafter executed, shall be subject to and consistent with the terms and conditions of this Agreement. If an individual contract contains any language inconsistent with this Agreement, this Agreement, during its duration, shall be controlling.

A True Copy of the Pages of the Collectively Negotiated Agreement from Which the Preceding Were Taken is Attached to This Brief Exhibit A

(1) On or about August 18, 1998, the respondent Board and the SSSDSA negotiated a supplementary side bar agreement to their Collectively Negotiated Agreement that provided in material part that:

A. Article VII: Salaries – Section A-3

ADD: Part-time employees shall have their salaries pro-rated off of the appropriate step of the salary guide. Employees contracted on a yearly basis shall be pro rated according to the percent of employment. Part-time employees contracted on a per diem basis shall have their daily salary calculated on an hourly basis multiplied by the number of working days.

A True Copy of the Supplement to the Collectively Negotiated Agreement from which the Preceding was Taken is Attached to this Brief as Exhibit B.

(1) Based upon educational and fiscal criteria, the respondent Board, in the spring of 1998 to hire a full-time English and math teacher for the Alternative Educational Program and to reduce the history position to part-time. The educational basis has been explained, in part, by the respondent as follows:

The State of New Jersey had mandated an extensive testing program through the HSPT, the HSPA, and the GEPA tests. The students are tested in English and math subjects only, not in history. Many of the students involved must be remediated in English and math. At one time we were responsible solely for the high school testing. Now, we conduct the eighth grade math and English tests as well as administering the HSPA twice yearly. The state mandated four years of English and three years of math.

The complete statement concerning the fiscal and educational reasons for the reduction in force was provided as attachment "10.(a)(b)(c) to respondent's answers to petitioner's interrogatories.

Potentially Contested Facts

11. In the Table inserted at page three of petitioner's brief, in the eighth box from the top, petitioner asserts that "Schedule C" for the 1998-99 school year for Mr. Trombetta, the teacher who took the position for 1998-99 that petitioner rejected contained "4 hours 30 minutes" of teaching time. Petitioner asserts that this Table was supplied as a document by respondent in answer to petitioner's interrogatories, and that said document is attached as Exhibit A, p.5 to petitioner's brief. However, it is clear from a mere glance at that attached documentary exhibit that the correct time for this entry is "3 hours and 45 minutes," not "4 hours and 30 minutes." This correct figure of "3 hours and 45 minutes" is, in fact, less time than petitioner was assigned to teach during the years that petitioner was employed by respondent.

12. The standard work day and work week for teaching staff members in the CMSSSD is the 6.5 hours per day and 32.5 hours per week during five consecutive work days as specified in the above quoted portions of the collectively negotiated contract.

Legal Argument

Point I

The Local Board of Education Has the Authority To Determine the Number of Hours of Employment that Constitute Full-Time Employment for Teaching Staff Members.

N.J.S.A. 18A:29-5 establishes minimum salaries for full-time teaching staff members employed by local school districts and educational services commissions in New Jersey. That statute specifically defines "full-time teaching staff member" as follows:

> Full-time means the number of days of employment in each week and the period of time in each day required by the regulations of the State board to qualify a person as a full-time teaching staff member.

The State Board of Education has promulgated Rule N.J.A.C. 6:3-3.1 "Full-time employment of teachers," that provides:

> The period of time in each day required for full-time employment shall be the number of clock hours prescribed by the district board of education but shall not be less than four clock hours.

In addition, prior to and during a portion of the 1998-99 school year N.J.A.C. 6:20-5.6(b), which had been promulgated by the State Board of Education in 1986, was in existence. That rule was repealed by R. 199*d.* 2, see, NJR 3613(a), 31 NJR 36(a). While in existence, that Rule provided, in material part, that:

> Full-time employment shall mean the number of hours in a day and the number of days in a week the district board of education prescribes for a teaching staff member to receive the full salary designated for their step on the district board of education's salary schedule.

In the instant matter, the respondent Board, has through the collective negotiations process, established both the work day and the work week for full-time teaching staff members. As quoted above, those provisions establish:

(1) In Article IX, Work Day – Work Week – Overtime, IX, ¶A:

(2) The work day will be defined as follows:

1. 6.5 hours for certified staff . . .

(3) In Article IX, ¶B:

The work week will be defined as follows:

1. Certified staff, . . . 5 consecutive work days comprised of 32.5 hours.

A. Article VII: Salaries – Section A-3

> Add: Part-time employees shall have their salaries pro-rated off of the appropriate step of the salary guide. Employees contracted on a yearly basis shall be pro rated according to the percent of employment. Part-time employees contracted on a per diem basis shall have their daily salary calculated on an hourly basis multiplied by the number of working days.

Likewise, through the collective negotiations process, the respondent Board has expressly established that any individual employment contract of a specific employee, irrespective of its individual terms, is subservient to the terms contained in the collectively negotiated contract.

It is clear, from this statute and these rules and collectively negotiated contract provisions, that the time requirements for being a full time teaching staff member in the Cape May County Special Services School District have been legitimately and uniformly established at 6.5 hours per day and 32.5 hours per week during 5 consecutive work days. Petitioner's assertion to the contrary, that as to him and for the position he previously held, some lesser and different number of hours per day have now been established, by reason of a prior practice, has no basis in law or fact. In addition to the fact that such an asserted personal right arising from an individual employment contract is specifically rejected by the express provisions of the collectively negotiated contract, as a matter of law the assertion of such a claim has been soundly rejected. See, Point II of this brief for the authorities in support thereof.

The question of what constitutes "full-time" employment in a local public school district is not a question of first impression in New Jersey. In Rupakus v. Board of Education of the Caldwell-West Caldwell School District OAL Dkt. No. EDU 6440-87 and EDU 7943-87 (Consolidated); C.D. 231-88, 24 Aug. 88; aff'd State Board Dkt. #46-88, 4 Jan. 89; aff'd App. Div. No. A-2768-88T, 10 Oct. 89, while addressing this specific issue, the Commissioner expressly held:

> N.J.S.A. 18A:29-5 defines 'full-time' as meaning 'the number of days of employment in each week and the period of time in each day required by regulations of the State Board to qualify a person as a full-time teaching staff member. See also, N.J.A.C. 6:20-5.6(b).
>
> As noted by the ALJ, case law has further clarified the definition of full-time in the State Board of Education decision in Middlesex County Educational Services Commission Education Association v. Board of Directors of the Middlesex County Educational Services Commission, decided January 7, 1987. Therein, as noted by the ALJ, the State Board decided that a full-time teacher is one who works the number of hours required by the Board for full-time employment. The State Board held on page 19:
>
> > Accordingly, we conclude that the question of whether they were full-time teaching staff members during the relevant period requires a determination of whether they were employed for the number of hours required for full-time employment. (emphasis added) [emphasis added in the Commissioner's decision].
>
> The Commissioner would stress the word 'hours' in the State Board decision above. That is to say, the duties performed or not performed are not the gauge in determining whether a teacher is full time. Rather, hours spent at school is the measure.

On the basis of Rupakus, Id., alone, it is clear that petitioner's asserted claim in the instant matter must be rejected.

Likewise, in Papailiou v. Hazlet Township Board of Education, C.D. 265-88, 27 Sept. 88, the Commissioner sustained the action of the local board of education that abolished a full-time position and established a part-time position in its place with a commensurate establishment of a pro-rata salary for the part-time position based upon the hours of work and the salary for a full-time position.

In Bassett v. Board of Education 223 N.J. Super. 136 (App. Div. 1998), the Appellate Division specifically reviewed how full-time or part-time service would be evaluated and paid for under the tenure laws of New Jersey. At page 143, the Appellate Division defined the issue involved therein as:

> With respect to the cross-appeal, the basic dispute is the manner in which petitioner's part-time salary should be calculated in order that it be proportionally commensurate with the full-time salary.

Therein, the Court expressly turned to the applicable collectively negotiated contract between the local board of education and its respective teachers' union. The Court stated, at page 140, that in that district, "the regular school day has six periods." Furthermore, "The contract, as we have pointed out, defines a part-time teacher solely in terms of compensation, that is a part-time teacher who is paid on the basis of the full-time teacher's salary guide." See page 143.

The Court held on this issue that:

> Since reference to the salary guide as the compensation determinant is the definitional essence of a part-time teacher, it necessarily follows, as a tautological matter, that petitioner must be paid as if she were a part-time teacher rather than an hourly-rate teacher. We, therefore, conclude that for the years in question, petitioner is entitled to 1/6 of the full-time salary designated for her step for every period taught.

Note that in Bassett, Id. that petitioner's only work time was teaching time, but the Court specifically compared such time to the entire school work day, and did not limit its comparison to solely teaching time.

Petitioner's brief relies upon just one decision in support of petitioner's claim of a personal right to shorter full-time day than is generally established in the school district. That decision is Diglio v. Board of Education of the River Dell Regional School District, 1980 S.L.D 547 (C.D. 6/5/80). Note that Diglio predates Rupakus, supra; Middlesex County Educational Services Commission, supra; Papailiou, supra.; and, Bassett, supra., but is neither mentioned nor relied upon in any of those subsequent decisions.

The respondent agrees that this decision has some significance to the instant matter, but does not agree that it "is directly on point" as asserted in petitioner's brief at page five. While petitioner has accurately quoted portions of that decision, petitioner has significantly misunderstood and misapplied the Commissioner's holding in Diglio.

The decision in Diglio, actually requires the denial of petitioner's claim in the instant matter and the granting of the respondent's instant cross-motion for summary decision. In the instant matter full-time employment is clearly established as being 6.5 hours per day and 32.5 hours per five day week. Petitioner concedes that the work time for the contested position at issue ranges between 3.75 hours to 4.5 hours per day which represents a corresponding range of 18.75 and 22.5 hours per week. These actual work time figures are not such as to mandate a designation as full-time status.

Petitioner's error in attempting to rely upon Diglio arises form the fact that petitioner focuses solely upon teaching time while Diglio expressly focuses upon all applicable duty time and not merely teaching time. Generally, teaching staff members as a class, in respondent's district, as in all districts perform many duties in addition to teaching assignments. The fact that petitioner may not have personally previously had such assignments does not create a perpetual personal right to such a lesser time commitment required from petitioner to be accorded full-time status. In Diglio while there is no specific discussion of N.J.A.C. 6:3-3.1, N.J.A.C. 6:20-5.6(b), or N.J.S.A. 18A:29-6, it is clear, that the Commissioner expressly rejected focusing solely upon the number of teaching periods to which a specific individual is assigned, but rather expressly directed that it is the totality of the time commitment that must be considered. This focus, although it predates Rupakus, supra.; Middlesex County Educational Services Commission, supra.; Papailiou, supra.; and Bassett, supra., it nonetheless, is in accord with those decisions. In the instant matter a time commitment of 6.5 hours per day and 32.5 hours per 5 day week has lawfully been established for full-time status. Petitioner's claim to a personally applicable lower hourly work level for petitioner to qualify as "full-time" must fail.

The Board's Conclusion

Point I

The petitioner's attempt to establish multiple designations of what constitutes full-time employment based upon an individual by individual basis must be rejected. The State Board has delegated, to the local board of education, by specific Rule, the authority to designate the time commitment that will constitute full-time employment of teaching staff members in a respective local school district. This rule specifically speaks in a general, collective perspective with respect to such an establishment. It clearly contemplates a district wide standard and does not provide for an individual by individual varying right. A local board of education's exercise of that delegation of authority is superior to the claim of an individual teaching staff member, that as to him a lesser level has been established by means of a personal past practice. Petitioner's asserted claim to the existence of such a personal past practice must be rejected.

Point II

In Resolving Questions Regarding What has been Established as Constituting Full-Time Status Versus Part-Time Status Under N.J.A.C. 6:3-3.1, the Local Collectively Negotiated Contract Between the Board of Education and the Teachers Union is Controlling

Under the above statute and rules, the focus becomes a question of whether or not there has been an exercise of the delegated authority by the local board of education. There are various potential avenues for such an exercise of the delegated authority. However, when that authority is exercised through the statutorily established collective negotiations process, such an exercise controls any of the other potential avenues of its exercise. In the instant matter, it is clear from the above quoted provisions from the collectively negotiated contract and its addendum, that the delegated authority has, in fact, been fully exercised through the collective negotiations process.

It has long been established that where a collective negotiations relationship exists under N.J.S.A. 34:13A-1 et seq., working hours are generally mandatory matters for collective negotiations. Englewood Bd. of Ed. v. Englewood Teacher's Ass'n. 64 N.J. 1, 7-8 (1973). The goal of the Employer-Employee Relations Act, N.J.S.A. 34:13A-1 et seq., was to foster labor peace by compelling collective negotiations in public employment relationships, as a public policy, which goal includes local school districts. Cf., Galloway Tp. Bd. of Ed., v. Galloway Tp. Ass'n. of Ed., Sec'ts, 78 N.J. 1, 16 (1978). The test for what matters constitute "mandatory matters for collective negotiations' under N.J.S.A. 34:13A-1 et seq., when there are state statutes and State Administrative Agency Rules intermingled was established in State v. State Supervisory Employees Ass'n. 78 N.J. 54, 81 (1978). See also, Ridgefield Park Ed. Ass'n. v. Ridgefield Park Bd. of Ed., 78 N.J. 144, 162 (1978), wherein the Court differentiated between "mandatorily negotiable terms and conditions of employment and non-negotiable matters of governmental policy." Specifically, where such a statute or rule delegates the exercise of authority to a local governmental entity, the exercise of that authority is generally subject to collective negotiations obligations, unless it is designated as a managerial right, and so long as such negotiations do not contravene an express mandate as to a minimum or maximum contained within that delegation. Except with respect to the minimum "four clock hours" restriction, the authority for establishing the number of hours which constitute "full-time" employment status pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-5, N.J.A.C. 6:3-3.1, and N.J.A.C. 6:20-5.6(b), come within that collective negotiations obligations.

Note that under petitioner's asserted method of only counting teaching time, there are only 3.45 hours worked in the contested petition. Hence, the Rule itself would prohibit the classification of that position as a full-time assignment.

In the matter of In re Maywood Board of Education, 168 N.J. Super., 45, 58-60 (App. Div. 1979), the Court held that while working hours are generally mandatory matters for collective negotiations, when a dispute involving working hours develops and a collectively negotiated contract exists, its terms must first be considered. In reviewing an existing collectively negotiated contract, the focus is to determine whether or not that obligation has already been complied with and whether or not provisions exist therein governing the dispute. In the instant matter the local collectively negotiated contract demonstrates compliance and its provisions control the instant dispute.

In Randolph Township Board of Education and Randolph Education, PERC No. 83-41, October 7, 1982, the Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC) specifically held that in the precise area of the work day and periods of instruction, an express contract term in the collectively negotiated contract takes precedence over an alleged right arising from past practice. PERC held that a local board of education could modify these working conditions at will without being bound by any individual rights to a lesser work time so long as it remained within the collectively negotiated contract parameters. Likewise, in Bound Brook Board of Education v. Bound Brook Education Association, PERC No. 83-11, July 20, 1983, the PERC held that where the collectively negotiated contract established a maximum work day for teachers, local board of education may unilaterally increase classroom time within the limitations set by that contract. See also, Carlstadt Board of Education and Carlstadt Education Association PERC No. 91-72, February 27, 1991; South River Board of Education and South River Education Association, PERC No. 83-135, April 19, 1983; and, Sussex-Wantage Regional Board of Education and Sussex-Wantage Education Association, PERC No. 86-57, October 17, 1986.

This same concept that a local board had wide discretion in establishing hours of work so long as it did not contravene the maximums contained in a collectively negotiated contract or require work on public holidays, was adopted by the Commissioner of Education and affirmed by the Appellate Division of Superior Court in Penns Grove-Carneys Point Education Association v. Penns Grove-Carneys Point Regional Board of Education, 83 S.L.D. 1022, aff'd State Board of Education, 85 S.L.D. 1981; aff'd 209 N.J. Super. 115 (App. Div. 1986).

Hence, it is well established, as the public policy in New Jersey, that hours of work are generally mandatory matters for collective negotiations between a local school board and the local union representing the teaching staff members. Further, it is expressly established that where such hours are, in fact, established in a resulting collectively negotiated contract, the terms of such a contract are binding on the local board, the local union, and individual teaching staff members represented by that union. In the instant mater, the hours of work for full-time status are established in the collectively negotiated contract at 6.5 hours per day and 32.5 hours per 5 day week. Petitioner's claim of a personally applicable lesser standard must fail in light of this contract and the decision cited above. Furthermore, the August 1998 addendum, being a part of the collectively negotiated contract is just as binding upon petitioner. That addendum, as quoted above, expressly establishes that the salary for a teaching staff member who works less than the 6.5 hours per day and 32.5 hours per 5 day week full-time standard shall be pro-rated off of the full-time salary.

The Board's Conclusion on Point II

The authority for setting the number of hours of work that qualifies a teaching staff member employed by respondent as a "full-time" employee has been delegated to respondent by both Rule and Statute. Respondent has exercised that authority through the collective negotiations process. The collective negotiations process has resulted in a collectively negotiated contract that combined with the addendum thereto specify the number of work hours necessary to qualify as a full-time teacher and the result if a lesser number of hours are in fact worked. The position contested in the instant matter is assigned a lesser number of hours than the full-time standard. Petitioner's assertion of a personal entitlement to a personal "full-time" designation for such a lesser level of hours is at odds with the collectively negotiated contract, the addendum, and applicable law and therefore must be rejected.

Point III

Petitioner Factually Errs in Alleging that the Position Contested had Identical or More Hours of Work Assigned to it in the 1998-99, as Compared to the Position Held by the Petitioner During the 1997-98 School Year

Petitioner consistently alleges that petitioner taught for 4.25 hours per day during the 1997-98 school year and that the contested position had 4.5 hours of teaching time assigned to it for all of the 1998-99 school year. As set forth in the "Potentially Contested Facts" section of this brief, that assertion is factually inaccurate. The sole factual basis advanced by petitioner for that claim is the material supplied by respondent in answer to petitioner's interrogatories. The specific document that petitioner relies upon is attached as Exhibit A, p. 5 to petitioner's brief. It is clear from a mere glance at that attached exhibit that the correct time of work for that position under "Schedule C" is shown as "3 hours and 45 minutes". This correct figure of "3 hours and 45 minutes" is in fact less teaching time than petitioner was assigned to teach during the 1997-98 school year.

The Board's Conclusion on Point III

Petitioner relies upon an inaccurate fact as the sole basis for the claim presented. That error of fact is fatal to petitioner's claim. Hence, on this basis alone, petitioner's claim must be dismissed and respondent's instant cross motion for summary decision must be granted.

POINT IV

Petitioner Factually Does Not Have the Necessary Certification/Endorsements to Fill any Existing District Position for the 1999-2000 School Year.

Petitioner holds only Social Studies and Elementary Teacher endorsements. Petitioner does not hold a Teacher of the Handicapped endorsement.

All current elementary positions in the district require the holding of dual certifications of Elementary Teacher and Teacher of the Handicapped. The petitioner does not qualify to hold any elementary position in the district.

Only the social studies position in the Alternative Educational Program where petitioner previously taught did not require the dual holding of a Social Studies and Teacher of the Handicapped endorsements. All other social studies positions require such dual certification. Petitioner does not qualify for any social studies position other than in the Alternative Educational Program. There is no social studies position in the Alternative Educational Program during the 1999-2000 school year.

Currently, the only social studies position in the Alternative Education Program is a part time position where the holder's work day is split between assignment as a social studies teacher and assignment as the substance abuse counselor. Petitioner, as of the date of the RIF did not hold a Substance Abuse Counselor certification/endorsement. Petitioner has previously refused to accept a part-time assignment in social studies in the Alterative Education Program, and hence has no recall rights to such an admittedly part-time position.

Hence, there does not currently exist any position in the district for which petitioner holds the necessary certification/endorsement to which petitioner can assert any bumping rights. Therefore, there is no right that petitioner has to bump into any position in the Cape May County Special Services School District.

The Board's

Conclusion on Point IV

Petitioner does not hold the necessary certification/endorsements for employment in any existing position in the CMCSSSD during the 1999-2000 school year.

The Board's Overall Conclusion on the Brief

It is clear, under the facts of the instant matter and all applicable law, petitioner's claim must be dismissed and respondent's instant cross-motion for summary decision must be granted.

Petitioner's Response to Counter-Statement Facts

The single issue in this case is whether the Board engaged in a sham RIF, retaining a less senior person (Mr. Trombetta) to work longer hours and more duty time per day in the 1998-99 school year than petitioner Markowski had taught during the 1997-98 school year.

The Board's contentions to the contrary, each of the material facts relative to the sham RIF are not in controversy:

> Fact-Mr. Markowski worked as teacher of social studies in the 1997-98 school year. During that year he had 4.25 hours of duty time per day and a total of 21.25 hours of duty time per week. Petition, ¶8; Board's Interrogatory Answer 8(a), grid 8(a) and Schedule B attached thereto and incorporated therein. (See Mr. Markowski's Initial Brief on this motion, Exhibit A, pp. 5-7) ("Initial Brief" or "Pb.")
>
> Fact-The Board considered Mr. Markowski to be a full-time employee. Petition and Answer, ¶ 4.
>
> Fact-The Board took formal action to eliminate the full-time Social Studies Teacher position formerly filled by Mr. Markowski and, at the same time, acted to create what it called a 'three-fifths part-time Social Studies Teacher position." A true copy of the Board's Minutes is attached as Exhibit A to this Brief.
>
> Fact-The Board gave Mr. Markowski notice of a RIF and then the Board offered Mr. Markowski what it called "part-time employment." True copies of the notice and offer are attached as Exhibits B and C, respectively, to this Brief. Mr. Markowski declined the offer of part-time employment and sought out full-time employment in another district.

> Fact-The Board then retained another teacher, Mr. Trombetta, to teach the load it had offered to Mr.. Markowski. Contrary to the Board's representations, Mr. Trombetta was assigned to teach longer hours and more duty time per day in the 1998-99 school year than petitioner Markowski had taught during the 1997-98 school year. Board's answer to interrogatory 8(a), attached grid 8(a) and Schedule B thereto. (See Exhibit A to Mr. Markowski's Initial Brief)

The Board attempts to "take back" the admissions in its Answer and discovery responses under the guise of supplying "additional uncontested facts" in its Counter Statement of Facts. Bb2-7. In reality, substantially all of the material facts touted by the Board as "uncontested" in the Counter Statement are contested and are inconsistent with the facts as previously admitted by the Board in its Answer and its answers to interrogatories.

Specifically, the Board's Brief repeatedly claims that a "mere glance" at grid 8(a) and the supporting Schedule B[1] demonstrate that Mr. Trombetta has "3 hours and 45 minutes" of teaching time. Bb7, ¶¶ 11, 17. However, in its Answer, the Board specifically admits that Mr. Markowski and Mr. Trombetta had "comparable classroom contact time" Answer, ¶ 8. Moreover, the Board's responses to discovery admit that Mr. Markowski taught "4 hours 15 minutes" as a "full-time" teacher during the 1997-98 school year and that Mr. Trombetta taught "4 hours 30 minutes" in the 1998-99 school year as a "part-time" teacher. (See answer to interrogatory 8(a), grid 8(a) and Schedule B (all attached as pages 5 through 7 of Exhibit A to Mr. Markowski's initial brief)). Yet, the Board attempts to "take back" its admission as to "comparable classroom contact time" in the Answer, and the 4 hour 30 minutes of classroom contact time as specifically admitted by the Board in its interrogatory answers and supporting exhibits. Compare Answer, ¶ 8 and Initial Brief, Exhibit A, pp. 5 and 7 with Bb7, ¶¶ 11, 17.

[1] In a typographical error repeated throughout the Board's Brief, the Board mistakenly indicates that Plaintiff's Initial Brief referred to and relied upon Schedule C attached to the Board's answers to interrogatories. To the contrary, Plaintiff's Initial Brief relies exclusively upon Schedule 8(a) and Schedule Bo to the Board's answers to interrogatories. See Pb 2-4 and Exhibit A, pp. 5 and 7.

Notwithstanding the Board's admission in its answer that it considered Mr. Markowski a full-time employee during the 1997-98 school year (Answer, ¶ 4), the Board claims that he was not really a full-time employee and that Your Honor should consider additional facts, including the terms of a collectively negotiated contract in determining-contrary to the Board's admission in its Answer that it considered him a full-time employee-that the Board really considered him as a part-time employee. Bb3-6, ¶¶ 8-9.

As a final factual matter, Mr. Markowski objects to the Board's attempt to misdirect Your Honor's attention by claiming that teachers outside of the Alternative Educational Program" are required to hold a teacher of the Handicapped Endorsement. The Board attempts to draw Your Honor's attention to the 1999-2000 school year. In the process, the Board simply ignores the fact that during the 1998-99 school year Mr. Trombetta's schedule indisputably consisted exclusively of duty time within the Alternative Education Program teaching courses substantially identical to those Mr. Markowski taught in the 1997-98 school year. See Pb., Exhibit A, pp. 5-7. The Board knows full well that such assignments fall squarely within the scope of Mr. Markowski's teaching certifications and endorsements –he taught these subjects in the past and the Board gave him the right of first refusal to "part-time" employment teaching these subjects during the 1998-99 school year. See Exhibit C to this Brief.

For the 1999-2000 school year, in its opposition to Mr. Markowski's motion, the Board raises-for the very first time in this case-the claim that Mr. Trombetta split his time between the social studies position and a substance abuse counselor position for which Mr. Markowski was not qualified. Bb3, ¶ 6. The Board's assertion in this regard is improper in two respects. First, the Board failed to raise it as a defense in its Answer. Second, the Board failed to disclose any factual basis for this defense notwithstanding the fact that it had been served with discovery which requested the factual basis for its defenses. Even if Mr. Trombetta's 1999-2000 assignment was not finalized as of the date of the Board's discovery responses (August 4, 1999), Mr. Markowski's discovery requests specifically explained that they were continuing in nature. Nonetheless, the Board failed to provide any discovery whatsoever as to any changes in Mr. Trombetta's schedule between the 1998-99 school year and the 1999-2000 school year. Had the Board properly supplemented its discovery responses and placed Mr. Markowski on notice of its new factual contentions in this regard, he would have had an opportunity to conduct further discovery on this issue and may very likely opted for a hearing on the merits of this issue to fully explore: (a) the Board's claims that Mr. Trombetta's schedule has been changed and (b) whether the change was made for legitimate reasons or as a litigation tactic. Mr. Markowski objects to the eleventh hour efforts of the Board to inject a defense not raised in the Answer into this proceeding without supplementing its discovery responses and without providing Mr. Markowski any notice of this change and an opportunity to conduct supplemental discovery concerning the purported scheduling change.

Law and Argument

Given the Facts as Admitted by the Board in its Answer and its Answers to Interrogatories Petitioner is Entitled to Summary Decision.

(1) The Board is bound by the Admissions Contained in its Answer and Answers to Interrogatories.

As set forth in the Statement of Facts in petitioner's Initial Brief and as outlined above, the Board specifically admitted that in the 1998-99 school year, Mr. Trombetta had "comparable classroom contact time" to that of Mr. Markowski in the 1997-98 school year. Answer, ¶ 8. This admission was further elaborated and explained in the Board's answers to interrogatory 8(a) which referred to and incorporated schedule 8(a), which specifically admitted that during the 1998-99 school year, Mr. Trombetta taught "4 hours 30 minutes" of "teaching time," and was further supported by Mr. Trombetta's teaching schedule, Board Schedule B. See petitioner's initial brief, Exhibit A at pp. 5 and 7.

Significantly, this tribunal gave the Board every opportunity to amend its Answer. In fact, when the Board's current counsel, John T. Barbour, Esq., replaced the Board's former counsel, Richard Goodkin, Esq., Your Honor held a prehearing conference call on March 5, 1999. At that time, Your Honor specifically gave Mr. Barbour two weeks' time to amend the Board's Answer if he chose to do so. Your Honor further noted that in the event that Mr. Barbour chose to amend the Board's Answer, petitioner would be given leave to supplement his discovery requests. This was not necessary as the Board chose not to amend its Answer. As a consequence, Your Honor subsequently entered a Prehearing Order dated March 10, 1999 and a Second Prehearing Order dated August 31, 1999, both of which provided identically "[n]o amendments to pleadings have been proposed." Orders at ¶ 7.

Now, after a summary decision motion has been filed and briefed based upon the admissions of the Board as set forth in its Answer and as supplemented by the Board's discovery response, the Board is shamelessly attempting to "take back" its admission of "comparable classroom contact time," though the submission of the Certification of Karalee Kutzwhite.

The Board's attempt is procedurally improper given its failure to amend its Answer after being given the opportunity to do so and giver Your Honor's two prehearing orders. The Board's attempt is also improper given the settled case law that affidavits are not pleadings and may not be used to expand the pleadings. For example, in Carlini v. Curtiss-Wright Corp., 71 N.J. Super. 101 (App. Div. 1961), certif. den. 37 N.J. 133 (1961), a plaintiff who was defending against a motion for summary judgment attempted to use his affidavit in opposition to the motion as an opportunity to amend his complaint, alleging facts wholly outside of the allegations of the complaint. Recognizing the impropriety of such an affidavit, the motion judge granted the motion for summary judgment. The Appellate Division affirmed, reasoning:

> Plaintiff's attempt to rest his opposition to defendant's motion for summary judgment on allegations in his affidavit, which are foreign to the issue presented by the pleadings and not supportive of the allegations of the cause of action set forth in the complaint, is rejected. Affidavits are not pleadings. Plaintiff will not be permitted by the submission of such an affidavit as was here presented, to explain the scope of the cause of action he asserted in his complaint, or, as he has here done, to present any entirely new cause of action. Plaintiff was given an opportunity to amend his complaint. He elected not to avail himself thereof. He chose to rest on his original complaint and affidavit. To do so was his privilege, but that election did not give him the right, through the medium of the filed affidavit setting forth new allegations, to contend that because of the content of the affidavit, "genuine issues or material fact" were raised. 71 N.J. Super. at 108.

This reasoning applies to the present case. The allegations in the Kutzwhite Certification are foreign to and contradict the admission in the Answer that Mr. Trombetta had "comparable classroom contact time" to Mr. Markowski. In the March 1999 prehearing conference, Your Honor gave the Board a specific opportunity to amend its Answer. The Board elected not to amend its Answer, and instead chose to rest upon the admissions and denials contained in the Answer as filed. Given this choice, the Board does not have the right to file an affidavit attempting to "take back" the admissions the Board made in its Answer in an effort to create issues of fact.

Parenthetically, Mr. Markowski notes that even if Your Honor were to permit the Board to "take back" the admissions contained in its Answer, the Board's attempted reliance upon the Kutzwhite Certification is misplaced in any event. The Certification and Schedule C to which paragraph 11 of the Certification refers do not preclude the entry of Summary Decision in favor of petitioner. To the contrary, even if accurate, Schedule C merely stands for the proposition that as of April 1999, Mr. Trombetta's classroom contact time was reduced. Specifically, Your Honor's attention is drawn to the box at the top left of Schedule C which reads "Current Schedule 4/99." Accordingly, even if Your Honor were to consider Schedule C as creating a factual issue as to the continued accuracy of the Board's admission of "comparable classroom contact time," such an issue would only exist from April of 1999 to date. Therefore, an award of partial summary decision for the time period from September 1998 through March 31, 1999, would be appropriate in any event.

As a final mater on this point, the Board's Brief for the first time raises a defense which it failed to identify in its answer or to even allude to in its discovery response, that in the 1999-2000 school year, Mr. Trombetta divides his time between assignment as a substance abuse coordinator and part-time assignment as a social studies teacher. Under no circumstances should the Board be permitted to summarily "take back" admissions and cross-move for summary decision on the basis of new, previously undisclosed and contradictory positions in the absence of a formal amendment of its Answer and a full opportunity for discovery as to the factual basis for the Amended Answer. In the event that the Board were permitted to take back admissions in any respect, Mr. Markowski would be entitled to a complete evidentiary hearing as to each admission taken back and an opportunity to cross examine the Board's witnesses on the inconsistencies between the positions the Board took in its Answer and discovery responses and the positions it is now attempting to take in opposing Mr. Markowski's motion for summary decision.

(2) Petitioner is Entitled to Summary Decision as a Matter of Law.

The Board attempts to recast this case into something that it is not. The Board attempts to reformulate the issues in this case as turning upon Your Honor's decision of the universal issue of what constitutes full-time versus what constitutes part-time employment in the public schools.

Instead, this case deals with a very narrow issue. The question is whether a local Board of Education may engage in a sham reduction in force ("RIF"), by telling a tenured teaching staff member who works 5 clock hours and 4 hours 15 minutes of duty time per day that his full-time position is being eliminated and by then offering him supposedly part-time employment which he declines and which turns out to be 5 hours 15 minutes of clock time and 4 hours 30 minutes of duty time per day. With all due respect to the 25 pages of argument raised by the Board, such conduct plainly violates N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 which prohibits boards of education from having tenured teaching staff members "reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause..." and then only by the Commissioner of Education in a manner consistent with the Tenure Employees Hearing Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 et seq..

The Board's conduct in the present action plainly violated this statute. By letter dated April 30, 1998, the Board informed petitioner it was abolishing his position "full-time teacher of Social Studies," effective June 30, 1998. By letter dated May 7, 1998, the Board offered him a position as "part-time teacher of social studies."[2] He declined the supposedly "part-time" position because he needed full-time employment to support his family.

[2] Given that the Board first offered Mr. Markowski the very same position for which it hired Mr. Trombetta to fill during the 1998-99 school year and given that Mr. Markowski had taught the same position in the past, the Board cannot credibly contend that Mr. Markowski was not properly certified to file the position during the 1998-99 school year.

If the position that the Board offered Mr. Markowski had truly been "part-time," Mr. Markowski would have nothing to complain about. However, in reality, the RIF was a sham given that the Board actually assigned Mr. Trombetta to have fifteen minutes more classroom contact time per day and to work fifteen minutes longer per day. Without changing the duties of the social studies teacher one bit-and while actually increasing both classroom contact time and clock time-the Board attempted to reduce Mr. Markowski's compensation. Such a reduction in compensation plainly violates N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.

On this point, the Board's efforts to distinguish Diglio v. Bd. Of Ed. Of River Dell Reg'l. School Dist., 1980 S.L.D. 547 (Comm'r. of Ed. 6/5/80), are misplaced. Petitioner will not repeat the Commissioner's analysis in Diglio, outlined in his initial brief, Pb5-7. As to the Board's attempt to distinguish Diglio on the basis of teaching time versus duty time (Bb12), regardless of whether one uses duty time, teaching time or clock time, Mr. Trombetta was scheduled to work a longer day than Mr. Markowski had worked in the past. No matter how the Board attempts to "spin" Diglio, Diglio clearly stands for the proposition that a board of education may not legitimately require an employee to work the same or more duty periods which it previously recognized to be a full-time load for less pay simply by calling the full-time employment "part-time." This is exactly the type of subterfuge the Board has attempted in the present case and Your Honor must reject it.

Mr. Markowski also notes that none of the other Education Law decisions cited by the Board are applicable to the present case. Unlike the Diglio case, none of those decisions deal with a situation involving a sham RIF. Compare Diglio, supra, with Rupakus v. Bd. of Ed. of Bor. of West Caldwell, 1988 S.L.D. 1879, 1897.1; Papailiou v. Hazlet Tp. Bd. Of Ed. 1988 S.L.D. 2053 and Bassett v. Bd. of Ed., 223 N.J. Super. 136 (App. Div. 1998).

As a final matter on this point, Mr. Markowski notes that Your Honor must reject the arguments made by the Board at Point II of its brief that the definition of full-time employment in the collectively negotiated agreement and a sidebar agreement somehow absolve the Board of any liability it may have to Mr. Markowski for engaging in a sham RIF. Tenure rights are statutory rights which may not be waived or forfeited as a mater of collective negotiations, e.g., Spiewak v. Bd. of Ed. of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63 (1982).

Petitioner's Conclusion

Applying Diglio to the present case, a comparison of the actual duty periods in the 1997-98 school year (which the Board labeled full-time employment) and the actual duty periods in the 1998-99 school year (which the Board now attempts to label as part-time), reveals that the number of duty periods did not change. Both years, the teacher in question worked 30 periods per week. Initial Brief, Exhibit A, pp. 5-7. Even more compelling than Diglio, in the present case, during the 1998-99 school year, the amount of duty time actually increased by an hour and a quarter a week. Ibid. Under the circumstances and under the principles articulated by Diglio, the Board's offer of purported "part-time" employment to Mr. Markowski and subsequent appointment of Mr. Trombetta to the position on a "part-time" basis, was a sham in derogation of Mr. Markowski's tenure and seniority rights. Under the circumstances, he should be compensated for the salary and emoluments he lost as a result of the Board's wrongful conduct and should be reinstated to full-time employment.

For the foregoing reasons as well as the reasons expressed in his initial brief, petitioner Richard Markowski, requests that Your Honor issue an order:

(1) finding and declaring that the Board's action to deprive petitioner of a full-time teaching position was in violation of his tenure and seniority rights;

(2) directing the Board to recognize petitioner's tenure and/or seniority rights by reinstating him to a full-time position as a teacher of social studies or any other full-time position held by a non-tenured teacher or less senior tenured teacher for which he possesses the necessary certification and/or experience, effective immediately and retroactively to September 1, 1998;

(3) directing the Board to provide petitioner with all salary, benefits and emoluments he is entitled to by law and under the negotiated agreement in force and effect in the Cape May County Special Services School District, retroactive to September 1, 1998;

(4) Attaching both pre- and post-judgment interest to any back pay award as permitted by law;

(5) directing the Board to take all actions necessary to assure that petitioner receives proper pension credit retroactive to September 1, 1998, and

(6) granting such other relief as is deemed appropriate.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

The standard for granting or denying summary judgment has been set forth by our Supreme Court in the matter of Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Company of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954). The standard was subsequently modified by the Court in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). The Brill court held that the standard to be applied is now the same as the standard for determining motions for involuntary dismissal under R. 4:37-2(b) and for determining motions for judgment under R. 4:40-1 (Motion for Judgment at trial) and R. 4:40-2 (Reservation of Decision on Motion: Motion for Judgment notwithstanding the verdict). The courts considering the motions for summary judgment are not required to engage in the same type of evaluation and analysis, or sifting of evidential material in light of the burden of persuasion that applies as if the matter goes to trial. The Brill court held that:

> Under this new standard, a determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged dispute issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weight the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial.". . . Credibility determinations will continue to be made by a jury and not a judge. If there exists a single unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a "genuine" issue of material fact for purpose of Rule 4:46-2. . . The import of our holding is that when the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law, . . . , the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. (citations omitted) Id. at 540.

Having carefully reviewed and considered the pleadings, briefs and other documents offered by the parties, I CONCLUDE that the instant matter is ripe for summary decision.

I concur with petitioner and CONCLUDE that the Board is bound by its Admissions as contained in its Answer to the Petition of Appeal and its Answers to Interrogatories, pursuant to the holding in Carlini; supra, and as quoted by petitioner in his Response to Counter-Statement of Facts, 71 N.J. Super. At 108. Thus, pursuant to the Court's holding in Brill.

> If there exists a single unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a "genuine" issue of material fact ... . When the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a mater of law"... the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment.

I FIND and CONCLUDE, therefore, that the allegations set forth by the Board, as found in the Kutzwhite Certification and in the Board's brief, are insufficient to constitute a genuine issue of material fact where the Board is bound by its Answers. Brill supra.

The herein record clearly shows that the Board considered petitioner to be a full-time employee during the 19987-98 school year, as a Social Studies Teacher in its Alternative Education Program. The record also demonstrates that the Board took action, on April 28, 1998, to abolish the full-time Social Studies Teacher position for the Alternative Education Program and create a three-fifths, part-time position in its stead. The Board's action was pursuant to its mandatory powers and duties under N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1c and d and N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4. As a consequence of the Board's action, it offered the part-time Social Studies position to petitioner, which he rejected in favor of full-time employment with another board of education. Petitioner, however retains his seniority for the position, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-11.

From the record presented, the less senior teacher who assumed a full-time position subsequent to the Board's action to abolish the Social Studies Teacher position, taught social studies subject matter on a full-time basis from September 1998 until about April 1999, when his classroom schedule was changed. The period between September 1998 and April 1999, was comparable to petitioner former teaching assignment in terms of time and subject matter.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that the Board failed to reduce the position of Social Studies Teacher from full-time to part-time, as authorized by its action on April 28, 1998. Rather, it retained a full-time social studies position in its schools from September 1998 until about April 1999. I CONCLUDE that petitioner was entitled to that position for that period pursuant to his tenure and seniority status with the Board.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that partial summary decision should be entered on behalf of petitioner and that he is entitled to the salary and other emoluments he would have earned with the Board between September 1998 to April 1999, less mitigation.

ORDER

Accordingly, Partial Summary Decision is hereby ENTERED on behalf of PETITIONER. It is ORDERED that the Board of Education of the Cape May County Special Services School District provide petitioner with the salary and other emoluments to which he was entitled between September 1998 and April 1, 1999, less mitigation.

It is FURTHER ORDERED that the Board maintain petitioner on its seniority list for the position of social studies teacher and that he be so advised when and if a position becomes available.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on December 18, 1998 for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

The parties entered into an agreement and have prepared a settlement agreement which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement agreement and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to a settlement of this matter.

2. The agreement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1(d) and should be approved. I approve the stipulation of settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the agreement.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

MEDIATION SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

CHARGE NUMBER: 171990643

CHARGING PARTY: Martin Lasus

RESPONDENT: Newark Public Schools

1. In exchange for the promises made by Newark Public Schools pursuant to Charge Number 171990643, Martin Lasus agrees not to institute a law suit under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, as amended (ADEA) based on EEOC Charge Number 171990643.

2. Further the parties agree that submission of this agreement to EEOC will constitute a request for closure of EEOC Charge Number 171990643.

3. It is understood that this agreement does not constitute an admission by Respondent of any violation of the ADEA

4. Respondent agrees that there shall be no discrimination or retaliation of any kind against Charging Party as a result of filing this charge.

5. This document constitutes a final and complete statement of the agreement between the parties.

6. The parties agree that the EEOC is authorized to investigate compliance with this agreement and that this agreement may be specifically enforced in court by the EEOC or the parties and may be used as evidence in a subsequent proceeding in which a breach of this agreement is alleged.

6A. Charging Party acknowledges that s/he has been advised to consult with an attorney and has been given a reasonable time to consider the agreement before signing. (ADEA CLAUSE)

3a

7. As evidence of a good faith effort to resolve EEOC Charge Number 171990643, the parties agree as follows:

a) Charging Party agrees to retire from his position with the Respondent on September 29, 2000. Charging Party will not be required to report for work for the 2000/2001 school year, but will be compensated up to and including September 29, 2000.

b) Charging Party agrees to withdraw his appeal of the withholding of increment for the 1998/1999 school year.

c) Respondent agrees to restore the withheld salary increments and/or steps for the 1998/1999 and 1999/2000 school years. Respondent agrees to restore the Charging Party to the proper salary level or step on the salary guide. Respondent further agrees to pay to the Charging Party withheld monies from each of the above salary increment withholdings, minus proper deductions, including pension.

d) Upon reference request of prospective employers relating to the Charging Party, Respondent agrees to provide only dates of employment and title of last position held.

c) The parties agree to keep the terms of this agreement confidential. It is understood by the parties that information about this agreement may be shared with attorneys, tax advisors and immediate family members.

Respondent — Date: 11/15/99

Charging Party — Date: Nov. 10, 1999

In reliance on the promises made in paragraphs 1 through 7 above, EEOC agrees to terminate its investigation and to not use the above-referenced charge as a jurisdictional basis for a civil action under the ADEA. EEOC does not waive or in any manner limit its right to investigate or seek relief in any other charge including, but not limited to, a charge filed by a member of the Commission against the Respondent.

James M. Weinberg, Esq., for respondent
(Weinberg and Weinberg, attorneys)

Record Closed: January 21, 2000 Decided: February 9, 2000

BEFORE ARNOLD SAMUELS, ALJ:

In January 1999, the petitioner, School District of the City of Orange Township, Essex County, filed a Certificate of Determination and written charges against the respondent, Nicholas Varanelli, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 and N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1 et seq., seeking his dismissal from his tenured position, because of unbecoming conduct or other just cause. Respondent subsequently filed an answer with the Commissioner of Education. On February 9, 1999 the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing and determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

A series of delays followed, and a prehearing conference was omitted, in an attempt to obtain compliance with the Tenured Employees Law, as amended. After several extensions for discovery purposes, a hearing was scheduled for December 15 and 16, 1999. The parties conferred for purposes of settlement on the above hearing dates, and an agreement was reached. Mr. Varanelli agreed, on the record and under oath, that he voluntarily and knowingly accepted the settlement. A written agreement, containing the terms of settlement in full, was signed by the parties on December 16, 1999. A copy of the agreement was filed in the OAL on January 21, 2000.

The settlement agreement specifically refers to an acknowledgement by the respondent that he has been advised of the duty by the Commissioner of Education, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6(a)(1), to refer the matter to the State Board of Examiners for possible action regarding his teaching certificate. This acknowledgement by Mr. Varanelli indicates that the settlement terms comport with the Cardonick Standards for the review of settlements in tenure matters. In Re Cardonick, decided by the Comm. of Educ., (Apr. 7, 1982), aff'd St. Bd. of Educ., (Apr. 6, 1983), 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter, in accordance with the attached agreement. I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement, as evidenced by their signatures on the attached agreement.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

3. The agreement conforms with the standards of In Re Cardonick, supra.

It is CONCLUDED that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF NICHOLAS VARANELLI,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF	:	DECISION
ORANGE TOWNSHIP, ESSEX	:
COUNTY.	:

The record, settlement agreement, and Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.

Upon his careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner cannot be satisfied that the proposed settlement meets the standards for review of settlements in tenure matters set forth in In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846. It is well established that, having once taken up the burden of tenure charges, the Board may not lay it down without spreading forth on the record a reasonably specific explanation of why such charges need no longer be pursued or why it is now in the public interest not to pursue them. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Kenneth Smith, School District of Orange, Essex County, decided by the Commissioner March 22, 1982, decision on remand June 16, 1983, aff'd with modification by the State Board of Education November 2, 1983, aff'd Superior Court January 30, 1986.

While the Commissioner does not preclude the possibility of settlement in this matter, he stresses that in order for him to meet his own obligation to the schools and children of New Jersey, he must be assured that any settlement is consistent with appropriate standards for setting aside tenure matters as expressed in Cardonick, supra. Neither the Initial Decision nor the settlement agreement sufficiently explains how the settlement in fact meets the Cardonick standards particularly in light of the specific tenure charges filed with the Commissioner against respondent, which include assaulting a student and loudly and abusively using expletives directed at a student in class.

As emphasized by the Commissioner in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Corey Younger, State-operated School District of the City of Jersey City, Hudson County, decided September 7, 1999 and In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Elmena Jean, State-operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, decided October 4, 1999, the mere fact that the terms of a proposed settlement in a tenure hearing matter call for the teaching staff member's resignation does not in and of itself assure that the Cardonick standards have been met, because the Commissioner's concern for the public interest extends beyond the boundaries of the particular district certifying the tenure charges.

Accordingly, the Commissioner directs that this matter be remanded to the OAL for expansion of, and revision to, the record and settlement agreement, as necessary, to address the concerns noted above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to agree to a settlement consistent with the decision herein, the matter shall proceed to plenary hearing.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EAST BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT .	:

SYNOPSIS

In a prior matter, petitioning tenured custodian alleged the Board violated his tenure rights by relieving him of his duties as head custodian without a tenure hearing for the 1997-98 school year. The Commissioner determined, and the State Board affirmed, that the Board could not reduce petitioner's salary without complying with the due process requirements of the tenure statutes and ordered the Board to compensate petitioner at the same rate he was receiving as head custodian and to reimburse petitioner the amount representing the difference between what he should have received and what he was actually paid after being relieved of his assignment as head custodian. In the present matter, petitioner disputed the regular custodian salary he was receiving for the 1999-2000 school year, maintaining that he should be paid the negotiated guide amount for head custodians.

The ALJ granted respondent's motion for summary decision, determining that the tenure statutes protect petitioner so that his salary can never be reduced below the amount he would have been paid if he had not been relieved of his position as head custodian, but the scope of the tenure statutes does not extend to protect future salary expectancy.

The Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ and adopted the Initial Decision for the reasons expressed therein. The petition was dismissed.

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCDURAL HISTORY

This matter originates from a prior proceeding between the parties, whereby, I rendered an initial decision that was subsequently affirmed by the Commissioner of Education, as well as the State Board of Education. In the previous matter, petitioner alleged that respondent, East Brunswick Township Board of Education, violated his tenure rights by relieving him of his duties as head custodian without affording him a tenure hearing[1]. Petitioner sought a determination mandating that respondent reinstate him as head custodian, and the restoration of his salary. It was held that although petitioner does not have tenure in the position of head custodian he remains tenured as a custodian. Reinertsen v. Bd of Educ. of the Township of East Brunswick, EDU 10328-99, Initial Decision, (May 27, 1998), adopted, Comm'r, (July 8, 1998) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/> (hereinafter "May 1998 decision"). Thus, it was further ordered that respondent could not reduce petitioner's salary without complying with the due process requirements of the tenure statutes. Ibid.

On July 8, 1998, the Commissioner of Education affirmed the initial decision and ordered respondent to compensate petitioner "at the same rate and for no less then he was receiving as a head custodian, and to further reimburse petitioner for the amount representing the difference between what he should have received, pursuant to the decision, and what he was actually paid by the Board, after he was relieved from his assignment as head custodian." Ibid. Thereafter, on October 9, 1998, the State Board of Education affirmed the Commissioner's decision.

Petitioner was paid $20,700.00 for serving as a regular custodian during the 1997-98 school year and $22,126.00 for the 1998-99 school year.[2] If petitioner was not relieved of his duties as head custodian in 1997 he would have earned $23,480.00 for the 1997-98 school year. After the State Board affirmed the Commissioner's decision, respondent reimbursed petitioner for the difference between the amount he was paid for the 1997-98 school year and the amount he would have received as a head custodian. Additionally, instead of reimbursing the petitioner for the difference between $23,480.00 and the $22,126.00 he earned as a regular custodian for the 1998-99 school year, respondent erroneously paid petitioner the difference between his salary and what he would have received as a head custodian ($25,026.00 – 22,126.00). Petitioner is not disputing the amount of compensation he has received up until this point. Petitioner is, however, disputing the regular custodian salary of $25,480.00 he is presently receiving for the 1999-2000

[1] On September 2, 1997, petitioner was informed by his building principal that he was being reduced in rank from head custodian-to-custodian resulting in a reduction in his salary. Although it is unknown why petitioner was relieved of his duties as head custodian, it is clear that it was not a result of a reduction in force.

[2] The amount of compensation paid to petitioner between 1997 and 1999 is based on petitioner's brief and the affidavit of Catherine Schwartz, the president of East Brunswick Education Association. The actual amounts paid are not in dispute.

school year. Petitioner maintains that pursuant to the May 1998 decision he must be paid $28,508.00, the negotiated guide amount for head custodians.

On May 27, 1999, petitioner filed the instant petition of appeal alleging that respondent violated the May 1998 decision by not paying petitioner his full salary that the decision demands. Respondent filed its answer to the instant petition on June 10, 1999. Thereafter, on December 17, 1999 petitioner filed a motion for summary decision. Respondent submitted its opposition brief on December 28, 1999 and at the same time cross-moved for summary decision. The latter documents were received on January 3, 2000, the date the record closed.

The central dispute in the case involves a disagreement in the interpretation of the May 1998 decision. Petitioner maintains that pursuant to the decision, respondent is obligated to continue to pay the petitioner the negotiated guide amount for head custodians. Further, if respondent does not want to pay the petitioner the negotiated guide amount for head custodians, essentially reducing petitioner's salary, the board must comply with the due process requirements of the tenure statute. Respondent, on the other hand, contends that the May 1998 order only established that petitioner's salary could not be reduced below $23,480.00, the amount he would have been paid if he had not been relieved of his position as head custodian in 1997. Finally, respondent argues that the May 1998 decision did not concern any future salary increases that petitioner might have received had he continued to serve as a head custodian.

DISCUSSION

The Summary Decision Standard

The New Jersey Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules (N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1, -21.6) provide that a party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues in a case at any time after a case is deemed contested. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). In considering respondent's motion for summary decision, this tribunal must determine whether "the papers and discovery . . . together with the affidavits . . . show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1.1-12.5(b). This language is substantially similar to the standard for summary judgment found in R. 4:46-2(c)[3], therefore, this standard may be relevant to resolving motions for summary decision.[4]

In this respect, the New Jersey Supreme Court has stated, "since there are pronounced similarities in the exercise of judicial and quasi-judicial powers . . . court-fashioned doctrines for the hearing of litigation do in fact have some genuine utility and relevance in administrative proceedings." City of Hackensack v. Winner, 82 N.J. 1, 29 (1980). Additionally, the Court has recognized that the OAL performs many "quasi-judicial" or "adjudicative" functions and that in doing so, [j]udicial rules of procedure and practice are transferable to administrative agencies [i.e., the OAL] when these are conducive to ensuring fairness, independence, integrity and efficiency in administrative adjudications." Matter of Tenure Hearings of Onorevole, 103 N.J. 548, 554-55 (1986). Recently, the Supreme Court of New Jersey held that when deciding a motion for summary judgment under R. 4:46-2,

> [a] determination whether there exists a 'genuine issue' of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party.

Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995). The essential question is "whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require [a hearing] or whether it is so one sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 533; see also, N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) (stating, "an adverse party [to a summary decision motion] in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding"). Therefore, through the application of summary

[3] In pertinent part, R. 4:46-2(c) provides:

> The judgment or order sought shall be rendered forthwith if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law.

[4] See 37 New Jersey Practice, Administrative Law and Practice § 194, at 90 (Patricia Prunty, Anthony Miragliotta and Steven L. Lefelt) (1997 Pocket Part) (stating "since the UAPR on summary decision, N.J.A.C. 1.1-12.5, closely track the court rules, it is anticipate that this standard will be applied by ALJs in deciding summary decision motions").

judgment, a legal issue may be quickly and inexpensively disposed of where there is clearly no genuine issue of material fact necessitating disposition at a hearing. Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 540.

Cross Motions For Summary Decision

Resolution of this matter demands an understanding of the May 1998 decision as well as an assessment of the purpose surrounding the protections afforded to tenured employees.[5] N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 is part of a statutory scheme providing tenure to certain enumerated employees of local boards of education. A public school custodian holds his employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and "shall not be dismissed, suspended or reduced in compensation, except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense." N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3. In order to impose a dismissal, suspension or reduction in compensation, the school district must proceed in the manner described in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, -29.

New Jersey's Supreme Court illustrated the importance of the tenure statutes stating, "tenure is an item that intimately and directly affects the work and welfare of public employees." Wright v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of East Orange, 99 N.J. 112, 118 (1985). "In the context of the public school teacher tenure statute, tenure 'prevents school boards from abusing their superior bargaining power . . . in contract negotiations.' It protects employees from dismissal for unfounded, flimsy or political reasons." Wright, supra, 99 N.J. at 118 (citing Spiewack v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 74 (1982)). The Court further acknowledged: "once the status of tenure is earned, it provides a measure of job security to those who continue to perform their jobs properly." Wright, supra, 99 N.J. at 118.

In the instant case it is not disputed that petitioner is afforded tenure in his position as a custodian, nor is it disputed that petitioner is not entitled to the specific title of head custodian. However, there is a disagreement between the parties concerning what exactly constitutes a reduction in compensation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3. Petitioner suggests that respondent's failure to pay him the salary available to a head custodian is not only a violation of the May 1998 decision, but it essentially amounts to a reduction in compensation without the due process safeguards. Petitioner's assertion however contradicts the May 1998 decision, in addition to the statutory provisions encompassing tenure acquisition and tenure rights. The Commissioner's directive that the respondent "compensate Petitioner at the same rate and for no less then he was receiving as a head custodian" indicates that the respondent could not reduce petitioner's salary after the 1997-98 school year to a rate below that which he earned in 1997-98. In other words, petitioner's compensation for the 1998-99 school year and all subsequent school years could not be less than the amount he would have received in the 1997-98 school year had the respondent not relieved him of his duties as head custodian.

[5] It is essential to note that the purpose for entertaining the instant petition is simply to provide clarity to the relevant parties concerning the May 1998 decision. The OAL does not necessarily want to engage in the practice of interpreting prior decisions.

In a case discussing the prohibition against the reduction in compensation for tenured employees, the court held that the mandate did not entail salary expectancy. Williams v. Plainfield Bd. of Ed., 176 N.J. Super. 154 (App. Div. 1980), cert. denied, 87 N.J. 306 (1981). In Williams, a tenured high school principal challenged a determination of the State Board of Education that the local board could properly transfer her from her tenured position to the position of elementary school principal.[6] Id. at 158-159. The petitioner argued that although she initially suffered no reduction in salary, there was a reduction in her future salary expectancy because the formula used by the local board to determine salary increments is a lower rate for elementary school principals then for high school principals. Ibid. The court affirmed the State Board decision holding that the prohibition against reduction in salary for tenured employees did not contemplate salary expectancy but rather referred only to the amount of compensation paid to the tenured employee at the time of the transfer. Id. at 158, 164. Finally, the court noted that there is "no statutory requirement that transferred tenured employees be paid in future years according to the same schedule of increments that were in force in the position from which the employee was transferred." Id. at 158.

[6] The tenure statute controlling in Williams was N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 (Tenure of teaching staff members). The statute contains language similar to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 concerning the protections afforded to the tenured employee. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 states in pertinent part:

> The services of all teaching staff members employed in the positions of . . . shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause . . .

Ibid.

Although, the specific tenure statute governing the circumstances in Williams does not regulate tenured custodians, the tenure statutes all basically function analogously. The noteworthy distinction amongst the tenure statutes is that they apply to different types of employees. Like the statute involved in Williams, the parameters of the tenure statute regarding custodians do not extend to protect a custodian's expectancy of future salary increases. The statute simply precludes an immediate loss of salary as a result of petitioner's transfer to his tenure-protected position of custodian. The Commissioner expressed this notion by ordering respondent to compensate petitioner "at the same rate he was receiving as a head custodian". Petitioner is actually seeking a determination compelling his perpetual increase in compensation on the head custodian pay schedule while he is only serving as a custodian. Neither the May 1998 decision nor the statutory provisions governing tenured employees support this scheme.

To suggest that petitioner is entitled to continue to be compensated as a head custodian also defies logic. As a practical matter, why would respondent exercise its authority to relieve petitioner as head custodian if respondent has to continue to compensate him as if he was fulfilling that job description? There is no statutory provision mandating that the board is restricted from relieving petitioner of his duties as head custodian. It is clearly stated in the May 1998 decision: "he [petitioner] is not entitled to the specific title of 'head custodian' since no where in the statute does it provide for such rights ... The title 'head custodian' merely denotes a special assignment within the general classification of janitorial services ..." Therefore, it naturally follows that petitioner is not entitled to continue to be compensated as though he was serving as a head custodian. Logic demands the following deduction: if petitioner is not entitled to the title he is not entitled to the compensation associated with the title. It simply does not make sense to compensate petitioner as a head custodian when in fact he is only responsible for those duties expected of a regular custodian.

CONCLUSION

The conflict in this case stems directly from the May 1998 decision, and thus resolution of the matter essentially necessitates an explanation of the prior determination. Additionally because there are no facts in dispute, the case is ripe for summary decision. As previously indicated, it is important to note that a decision pertaining to this petition is simply to provide clarity to the parties concerning the May 1998 decision. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 protects petitioner in that his salary can never be reduced below $23,480.00, the amount he would have been paid if he had not been relieved of his position as head custodian in 1997. The scope of the tenure statute, however, does not extend to protect future salary expectancy. Accepting petitioner's interpretation would be in contravention to the May 1998 decision as well as the function of the tenure statutes. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the scope of the tenure statute does not extend to protect petitioner's future salary expectancy.

It is therefore ORDERED that the respondent's motion be and is hereby GRANTED and the petitioner's motion be and is hereby DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Record Closed: January 31, 2000 Decided: February 9, 2000

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

Petitioner, a tenured custodian employed by respondent, filed a petition with the State Department of Education (DOE) on August 13, 1998, requesting enforcement of a prior settlement agreement, return to the active payroll, payment of his salary as of July 24, 1998, and an award of counsel fees. Subsequent to prior proceedings, the DOE transmitted the matter on remand to the Office of Administrative Law on April 28, 1999 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

Telephone conferences were conducted throughout the proceedings. An executed Settlement Agreement was filed on January 31, 2000, on which date the record was closed. Attached herewith is a copy of the agreement.

The Settlement Agreement provides, in part, that respondent will place ten sick days in the "sick bank" of petitioner and pay petitioner the gross salary amount of $1400, minus standard and ordinary deductions, upon approval of the agreement by the Commissioner of the DOE. (Settlement Agreement, p. 1.) The gross salary amount represents petitioner's salary from the time the original Settlement Agreement in question, relevant to OAL Docket No. EDU 5471-97, was entered into until the time respondent voted to approve the original agreement and return petitioner to work

As reflected in the Settlement Agreement, the parties determined to reach an agreement to avoid the cost and time of continued litigation. Respondent, in addition, seeks to prevent a disruption of the education process by allowing potential witnesses to remain in their educational functions. Petitioner acknowledges in the agreement that he had the right and opportunity to discuss all aspects of the Settlement Agreement with his counsel prior to entering into it, that he did so, that he read and fully understands all provisions of the agreement, and that he entered into it knowingly and voluntarily.

Having reviewed the terms of the Settlement Agreement, I FIND the parties voluntarily have agreed to the terms and conditions of the settlement as evidenced by the signatures contained thereon and that the settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with law.

Therefore, I ORDER that the parties comply with the terms of the settlement and that these proceedings be and are hereby CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. RAYMOND HILDEBRANDT, Petitioner, v. ELIZABETH BOARD OF EDUCATION, Respondent.	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY DOCKET NO. EDUOA 03964-99N SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

1. This Agreement is being entered into between the Elizabeth Board of Education ("Board") and Raymond Hildebrandt ("Hildebrandt") to resolve all the litigation pending between them before the Commissioner of Education, Agency Docket No. EDUOA 03964-99N, as well as any litigation that could have been brought. The parties express their intent to enter into this Agreement to amicably resolve all disputes between them and to avoid the cost and time of continued litigation on the matters between them.

2. The Board agrees to place ten (10) sick days in the sick bank of Raymond Hildenbrant upon the approval of this Agreement by the Commissioner of Education. The Board further agrees to pay Mr. Hildebrandt the gross salary amount of $1,400.00 minus standard and ordinary deductions. The $1,400 sum represents Mr. Hildebrandt's salary from the time the original settlement agreement (OAL Docket No. EDUOA 05471-97N) in this matter was entered into until the time the Board voted to approve the original agreement and bring Mr. Hildebrandt back to work. The Board will pay the gross amount of $1400 to Mr. Hildebrandt upon the approval of this Agreement by the Commissioner of Education. The Board agrees to settle this matter in the best interests of the district. Such settlement avoids an expensive hearing at the Office of Administrative Law and prevents the disruption of the education process by allowing potential witnesses to remain in their educational functions.

3. Neither party makes any admissions in the settlement of this case.

4. Hildebrandt acknowledges that this Agreement is in settlement of disputed issues of fact and law, that he has had the right and opportunity to discuss all aspects of this Agreement with his legal counsel prior to entering into it and that he has availed himself of this right, that he has carefully read and fully understands all of the provisions of this Agreement, and that he is entering into this Agreement knowingly and voluntarily in exchange for good and valuable consideration.

5. In consideration for this Agreement, Hildebrandt irrevocably and unconditionally releases the Board and any employee and/or official of the Board, from any and all charges, complaints, claims, liabilities, obligations, promises, agreements, causes of action, rights, costs, losses, debts and expenses of any nature whatsoever, known or unknown, which Hildebrandt, his heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns ever had, now have or hereafter can, shall or may have (either directly, indirectly, derivatively or in any other representative capacity) by reason of any matter, fact or cause whatsoever from the beginning of time to the date of this Agreement, including without limitation, all claims arising under this Agreement and any past Agreement entered into between Hildebrandt and the Board.

6. This Agreement sets forth the entire agreement among the parties hereto. This Agreement supersedes all prior agreements and understandings concerning the subject matter hereof, and it may not be changed orally but may be changed only in a writing signed by all parties. This Agreement shall be interpreted in accordance with New Jersey law.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have executed this Settlement Agreement as of the date set forth below.

ORDER GRANTING EMERGENT RELIEF

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 02187-00S

AGENCY DKT. NO. 95-3/00

P.C., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, M.C.,

Petitioner,

v.

MONROE TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

This matter came before the Office of Administrative Law on an application for emergent relief transmitted by the Commissioner of Education. The Monroe Township Board of Education suspended M.C., a seventeen-year-old senior at Williamstown High School, based upon its determination that he had committed sexual harassment. A ten-day suspension was issued pursuant to the district's Student Discipline Policy No. 5600 and its Pupil Discipline Regulation No. 5600, which establishes that for a first offense of sexual harassment by a student in a high school or middle school, a ten-day out-of-school suspension and notification to the police is the designated penalty. In addition, the Williamstown High School Student Handbook for 1999-2000 notes at page seven that any student who is issued a total of ten days of suspension will not be eligible for his/her class trip, the junior-senior prom or certain other specified events.

Following M.C.'s suspension, which was issued on January 18, 2000, his parents, who received a letter advising of the suspension from Steven F. Stumpo, principal of the high school, appealed to Mr. Stumpo and met with him on January 19, 2000. Mr. Stumpo denied the appeal. Thereafter M.C. served the suspension from January 19 through February 1, 2000. However, his parents pursued the appeal of the suspension and the additional exclusions. The Board of Education takes the position that no appeal from the ten-day suspension could be made to the Board, however they do not contest that an appeal of that suspension could be made to the Commissioner of Education. In addition, the Board did consider an appeal from the exclusion from the prom and class trip and denied the appeal on March 7, 2000. Thereafter, Mr. and Mrs. C. filed a request for emergent relief with the Department of Education on March 20, 2000, and the matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law and a hearing held before this judge on March 30, 2000.

At the hearing the parties essentially agreed upon the facts. In summary, on January 18, 2000, a male student, R.D., exposed himself in homeroom. At some point during this incident M.C., another male student in the homeroom, made a statement to K.C., a female student who sat behind him and who is also a seventeen-year-old senior, stating "look at R." Apparently he pointed at R. and pointed down toward the exposed organ and also may have said to Ms. C. "look down" when she looked at R.'s face. In addition to this action, the parties also agree that at some time during this same homeroom period a group of obscene or pornographic photographs of R. engaged in some kind of perverse sexual activity was passed around the room. There is no evidence as to who started passing the photos around the room, who took the photographs, or how they got to the class. It is, however, not disputed that at some point the photographs came into the hands of M. as they passed around the room and that he handed them to Ms. C., seated behind him. Ms. C. testified that the photos were handed to her face down and that she did not look at them. The Board's charge of sexual harassment is grounded solely upon these particular actions, the statement to look at R., the pointing and/or statement to look down and the passage of the photographs to Ms. C. There is no evidence in the record that any other student or teacher in the room heard Mr. C. make these comments or saw him gesture or point, nor is there any evidence that Mr. C. passed the photographs to any other students or for that matter that any students actually looked at the photographs. However, for the purposes of this emergent relief application, it is assumed that some students viewed the actual content of the photographs, although they may have received them from the hands of other students.

At the hearing on the application for emergent relief K.C. testified that she did not believe that M.C. had harassed her. She had provided his name and advised what he had done only after repeated questioning on several occasions by Vice Principal Klemick regarding what had gone on in the classroom that morning. When asked during the investigation whether she had felt offended by M.'s comment, she advised that she had not. She did, however, indicate that she was offended by what R. had done in exposing himself. Ms. C. noted that she believed that the principal had suspended Mr. C. because he believed that Ms. C. felt victimized by his conduct, however, she did not feel victimized. When she learned of Mr. C.'s suspension, she was very upset and went home crying, advising her mother of what had occurred and indicating that she was very upset by the fact that Mr. C. had been suspended. (Her mother testified in corroboration of this testimony). At the hearing Ms. C. denied that she was forced to look at any photographs, that she was in any way forced or threatened to look at R. or that she had been in any way threatened or forced or intimidated to testify on behalf of Mr. C., who is not a friend of hers. She believes that Mr. C.'s comment was an innocent one and was not meant in any way to harass her.

In a statement presented as part of the appeal, Mr. C. agreed that he had made the statement and had pointed down, although he adds that he had first noticed what R. was doing and had said, "stop R., that's sickening." Mr. C. did not take the stand at the hearing and therefore was not cross-examined.

Mr. Steven Stumpo, principal of the high school, testified about having handled the appeal, which he denied. He noted that passing the photographs was inappropriate. He claimed that when he questioned Ms. C. the day after the appeal was heard, he asked her whether the action had made her uncomfortable and she said that it had. No other students were punished for their conduct in the homeroom that day as no other students were identified who had handled the photographs. There was "no evidence to prove anyone else guilty."

Initially, the standard that applies on an application for emergent relief was stated in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). An applicant for emergent relief is required to establish that irreparable harm will be suffered if the requested relief is not granted, that the applicant is likely to prevail on the merits of the claim and that on balance of the interests of the parties, the harm to the petitioners in denying the relief would be greater than the harm to respondent if the relief was granted.

The school board's allegation of sexual harassment is founded upon a definition of that offense contained in the board's most recent revision of its policy, 5751, adopted on July 21, 1998. This definition is apparently taken from that of the United States Department of Education, Office of Civil Rights Sexual Harassment Guidance: Harassment of Students by School Employees, Other Students, or Third Parties (1997). That definition includes both a description of quid pro quo harassment and of hostile environment sexual harassment. The allegation in this matter is one of hostile environment sexual harassment. The definition provides that

> 2. Hostile environment sexual harassment is sexually harassing conduct (which can include unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, or other favors, or other verbal, nonverbal, or physical conduct of a sexual nature) by an employee, by another pupil, or by a third party that is sufficiently severe, persistent, or pervasive to limit a pupil's ability to participate in or benefit from an educational program or activity, or to create a hostile or abusive educational environment.

The policy states that sexual harassment will not be tolerated whether it involves harassment by school employees, other pupils or third parties.

An analysis of the evidence presented at this time on the application for emergent relief establishes that a student, R.D., was engaging in conduct in the homeroom on the day in question that clearly was completely inappropriate. Ms. C. indicated that he had engaged in this conduct on many occasions before this, that his conduct was well known to students generally, and that yet no one had complained to teachers or other authorities out of a combination of a desire not to become involved, fear of involvement, etc. Regardless of whether or not he had done this before, his conduct on the day in question was without doubt offensive in nature. Based upon the agreements from testimony and statements of counsel and of Mrs. C., I FIND for the purposes of the emergent relief application that M.C. did, upon observing Mr. D. exposing himself, make a statement "look at R." and that he gestured toward R.'s privates, and that he also said "look down" when he apparently saw that Ms. C., who sat behind him, was looking at R.'s face. In addition, I FIND that he did receive from some other unidentified student photos which were being passed around and which had apparently been touched by more than one other student before they reached Mr. C. and that he then handed these photographs face down to Ms. C., who did not look at them. I also FIND that Ms. C., while she was clearly offended by what R.D. did, testified credibly and with the utmost sincerity that she was not offended by M.C.'s conduct and that she did not believe or understand that he had been attempting to harass or embarrass her. While she may have answered Mr. Stumpo's question on the day after M.C.'s parents appealed to him by indicating that "the action" made her uncomfortable, it is less than clear that she in fact intended to indicate that M.C.'s conduct had made her uncomfortable rather than that R.D.'s conduct had made her uncomfortable.

In determining whether sexual harassment occurred, one must be guided by the definition set forth by the Board in its policy as well as by the standards announced by the New Jersey Supreme Court in Lehmann v. Toys'R'Us, Inc., 132 N.J. 587 (1993). That case dealt with hostile work environment sexual harassment and provided that in order to establish sexual harassment, a female plaintiff must show 1) that the conduct would not have occurred but for the employee's gender; 2) that it was severe or pervasive enough to make a 3) reasonable woman believe that 4) the conditions of employment are altered and the working environment is hostile or abusive. Lehman, supra, 132 N.J. at 603-604. The sexual harassment definition adopted by the Board of Education provides similarly that in the context of a school setting the conduct must be "sufficiently severe, persistent, or pervasive" and that such conduct must be such as to "limit a pupil's ability to participate in or benefit from an educational program or activity, or create a hostile or abusive educational environment." This latter is in the school context a rough equivalent of the fourth requirement of the Lehmann test.

Consideration of the evidence here leads to the conclusion that the petitioner has a reasonable likelihood of success on the merits in establishing that M.C. did not engage in sexual harassment. This is so because an examination of his conduct indicates that the language complained of, "look at R." is facially neutral. That is to say, there is no reason to conclude that that statement was made for the purpose of harassing, embarrassing or otherwise humiliating Ms. C. any more than that the statement was made out of an expression of shock, excited utterance, disgust, spontaneous response, or simply as a call to attention regarding unusual conduct occurring in the room, all without any harassing intent. More important, in light of the requirement that the objective test of the reasonable woman be used, the nature of what Mr. M.

said, without much more, cannot be said to be the kind of action that a reasonable woman would, by itself, indicate that she was being harassed. The fact that he then gestured or added the words "look down" when she did not look at exactly what he was intending to call to her attention does not add anything which is likely to suggest that he was harassing her or that she, as a reasonable female student, would have necessarily assumed that she was being harassed. The fact that she herself has indicated that she believed the remark was an innocent one strongly suggests that the reasonable reaction to what M.C. did was not to conclude that he was harassing her, but that merely that he was calling her attention to some outlandish conduct being performed by a teenaged student in a room full of teenagers. This is not to suggest by any means that if his conduct was more clearly suggestive of sexual harassment or was more clearly the type that a reasonable woman would see as harassing that he would not be properly held to account for it. Nevertheless, the facts do not point to the likelihood that the Board would sustain its position and therefore there is a reasonable likelihood of success on the merits by the petitioner. In addition, at least on the evidence now before me, the passing of the photographs, which were apparently being passed around the room through the hands of a number of persons, does not constitute a sufficiently severe, persistent or pervasive conduct to create a hostile or abusive educational environment or to limit Ms. C.'s ability to participate in or benefit from an educational program or activity. This is so even when the passing of the photographs occurred after Mr. C.'s remark and gesture.

If Mr. C. is prevented from attending the class trip there is no doubt that he will not be able to recover the experience of this trip taken in comradeship with his fellow classmates. While the right to go the trip may be a privilege, it nevertheless will be lost for good if the relief herein is not granted. Finally, given the nature of the conduct charged here and the proofs, it is clear that the balance of the interests of the parties is such that the harm to M.C. by the denial of this relief will be greater than the harm to the respondent if the relief is granted. While the respondent certainly has the responsibility to shield its students from sexual harassment and to punish those who engage in such conduct, the nature of the alleged conduct by M.C., equivocal as it is, is such that a denial of relief to him would engender a greater harm to him than that to the respondents if he is permitted to go on the class trip. The question of whether or not he will be permitted to attend the prom is one that can be resolved based upon the outcome of a plenary hearing, which is to be scheduled as soon as reasonably possible and before the prom, which is not to be held until May.

Perhaps M.C.'s conduct, particularly the passing of the photographs that no doubt he should have handed back to the person who gave them to him and not passed on to someone else, may have constituted inappropriate or boorish conduct that should not have occurred. However, given the definition of sexual harassment that is applicable in this matter, even that conduct does not rise to the level of the severe, persistent, or pervasive conduct which is the subject of the definition of hostile environment sexual harassment. While perhaps a different charge against M.C. might have led to the imposition of some degree of penalty, the only charge that was made was one of sexual harassment and, based upon the proofs as they stand at this time in this emergent application, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has established that emergent relief should be granted based on the standards applicable thereto.

For the reasons expressed, it is ORDERED that emergent relief be granted and that M.C. shall be permitted to attend the senior class trip to Florida. It must be noted however, that this decision only addresses the legal impediment to his attendance and in no way addresses any practical logistic problems that may exist with respect to arrangements already made with respect to the trip. I understand that there may be some concerns with respect to logistics and have explained to Mrs. C. that I have no authority over those logistical issues. Nevertheless, it is assumed that the Board will act in good faith to accommodate M.C. if at all possible.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BEFORE BEATRICE S. TYLUTKI, ALJ:

This matter concerns the petition filed by Susan Settle, the petitioner, requesting an injunction against the respondents, Board of Education of the Township of Pennsville (Board), and Robert Peddle, Superintendent, Salem County, as to the further consideration by the respondents of a grievance filed by the Pennsville Educational Association against the petitioner. The petitioner also asked for emergent relief seeking to enjoin the Board from continuing its consideration or rendering a decision as to the grievance prior to a determination as to the legal issues raised. These legal issues include whether the Board has jurisdiction to consider a grievance filed against an elected board member which raises primarily ethical violations; if the Board has such jurisdiction, whether its consideration of the grievance is to be conducted at an open or closed session of the Board; what type of disciplinary action, if any, the Board can take against an elected school board member pursuant to the grievance procedure; whether the Board violated any of the provisions of the Open Public Meeting Act and whether this issue can be decided in this forum; and whether the Board acted correctly in prohibiting the petitioner's court reporter from recording its initial consideration of the grievance on March 27, 2000.

The petitioner has asked for emergent relief since the Board has scheduled the further consideration of the grievance for April 3, 2000.

The Pennsville Education Association (Association) through its attorney, Keith Waldman, Esq., contacted my office on March 31, 2000 shortly before I was to hear the oral arguments of the parties regarding the request for emergent relief. At that time, Mr. Waldman indicated that the Association has taken the position that it should be a participant in this matter. I indicated that I would give him the opportunity to speak to the Board's attorney, Ms. Karr, before I initiated the procedure as to the motion for emergent relief but that I was not inclined to grant an adjournment since the Board had scheduled the matter for April 3, 2000.

Having heard the oral arguments of the parties and considering the written submission by the petitioner as well as the exhibits admitted into evidence (P-1, P-2, P-4 and J-1) I granted the requested for emergent relief for the reasons stated on the record. A tape of the oral arguments of the parties as well as my oral decision is being submitted to the Commissioner concurrent with this order and the exhibits admitted into evidence.

Prior to dismissing the parties, I established a schedule for the filing of a motion to intervene or participate by the Association, the submission of a stipulation of facts, and the submission of legal briefs as to concurrent motions for summary decision. After considering these documents, I will render a initial decision as to whether a permanent injunction should be issued against the Board as to the consideration of the grievance filed against the petitioner and as well as rendering a decision as to the other issues raised by the petitioner.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2345-00

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF BRIAN EILERT,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE	:	DECISION
TOWNSHIP OF HAZLET, MONMOUTH	:
COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

The Board certified a tenure charge of unbecoming conduct against respondent middle school teacher for allegedly allowing, and even encouraging, pupils to assault another pupil.

In light of testimony of witnesses and evidence in the record, the ALJ concluded that the charge against respondent was true and that the appropriate penalty for such egregious behavior was dismissal from employment. Even without considering observation reports that indicate long-standing deficiency in the area of pupil discipline, the ALJ concluded that the one incident of June 9, 1999 was sufficiently flagrant to demonstrate unfitness. (Redcay) ALJ ordered respondent removed from his position.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in Initial Decision as his own and forwarded the matter to the State Board of Examiners for review in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6.

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8059-99

AGENCY DKT. NO. 269-9/99

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF BRIAN EILERT, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HAZLET

Michael J. Gross, Esq., for petitioner (Kenney, Gross & Kovats, attorneys)

Julia S. Dasaro, Esq., for respondent (Chamlin, Rosen, Uliano & Witherington, attorneys)

Record Closed: January 5, 2000 Decided: February 14, 2000

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

In this matter, a board of education has preferred a charge of unbecoming conduct against a tenured teaching staff member. The Hazlet Township Board of Education alleges that Brian Eilert, a tenured teacher at its Union Avenue Middle School, engaged in conduct on June 9, 1999 so as to require that his employment be terminated.

The issues to be tried are whether Eilert engaged in conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member and, if so, if this conduct warrants removal from position or reduction in salary.

The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. After notice, a prehearing conference was held by telephone on September 30, 1999. Among other things, it was decided that hearing would be held on December 6 and 7, 1999, at the Office of Administrative Law facility in Trenton. Hearing was held and completed on December 6, 1999. Counsel timely filed posthearing submissions and the record closed on January 5, 2000.

The respondent does not challenge any procedural aspect of the case.

PAROL AND DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE

The central charge here is that the respondent, upon noticing that pupil M.F. appeared to become entangled in his desk while attempting to pick up something from the floor, first told M.F. to sit up and, when it appeared that M.F. could not, the respondent told pupil J.B. to get up and kick M.F. J.B. did, in fact, go to M.F. and kick him twice, in the rib and shoulder area. Immediately after this, the respondent asked if anyone else wanted to kick M.F. Pupil J.P. raised his hand and then got up from his seat, walked to M.F.'s desk and kick M.F. once. All witnesses appear to agree that J.P. kicked M.F. harder than did J.B. The respondent did not say anything to J.P. He loudly told M.F. to get out of the chair.

M.F. testified that, after J.P. returned to his seat, the respondent asked, "Why don't we get [V.M.] to see what he can do." V.M. was the largest boy in the sixth grade at that time.

After the two pupils kicked M.F. and M.F. apparently could not extricate himself from his desk, two other boys in the class walked to M.F. and assisted him. They did so by turning over the desk. After M.F. was extricated, he asked if he could visit the school nurse because his shoulder hurt.

All witnesses including the respondent agree that the respondent remained at his desk during the entire incident. There is nothing to indicate that the respondent said anything to M.F. upon M.F.'s return from the nurse's office with an icepack applied. The testimony was less clear as to whether M.F. had become entangled in his chair on previous occasions and whether J.B. had previously kicked M.F. in class. The respondent testified that a similar incident had occurred the previous day and that this involved J.B. kicking M.F. in a playful way.

There was extensive testimony concerning the respondent's evaluations over a period of approximately five years. The respondent testified he had been advised on previous occasions of a need to improve classroom management by issuing warning cards to disruptive students, a practice followed in the school. In the incident that is at the center of today's case, however, he did not issue a warning card to M.F. – or to anyone else for that matter – during or after the alleged kicking incident.

The Board introduced incident and accident reports, pupil statements to school officials, pupil statements to police, the respondent's statement to police, video tapes and transcripts of three pupil depositions and fifteen classroom observations or related documents. A hand-drawn diagram of the classroom, not to scale, is included in the record (J-1).

DETERMINATION AND ORDER

No essential facts are in dispute. Counsel presented their cases efficiently. All that remains is determination of an appropriate penalty.

The respondent argued that under the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 through -18.1, a board of education can remove a tenured employee only by filing a written charge and only after hearing. There are, under the statutes, four different bases on which a board may certify tenure charges: inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause. This is a correct statement of the law.

The respondent also argues that the Board chose to file charges based on conduct unbecoming a teacher. This, in turn, was based on a single incident of June 9, 1999. The respondent then argues that this judge must determine whether or not the Board has proven, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that this incident does, in fact, constitute conduct unbecoming a teacher and, if that is found, to determine whether the penalty of dismissal or salary reduction is appropriate. This, too, correctly states the law.

The respondent further argues that under In Re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967), this judge must decide not only whether the respondent is guilty of the charge, but must also determine whether the act was premeditated, cruel or vicious, done with the intent to punish and/or corporal in nature.

The Appellate Division does use this language, in dictum. The relevant passage is:

> We hold no brief for the teacher's conduct in this case. Other proper means were available to him to maintain discipline or compel obedience. Nor have we any doubt that unfitness to remain a teacher may be demonstrated by a single incident if sufficiently flagrant. See Redcay v. State Board of Education., 130 N.J.L. 369 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd o.b. 131 N.J.L. 326 (E. & A. 1944).
>
> Here, however, there is no indication in the record that the teacher's acts were premeditated, cruel or vicious, or done with intent to punish or to inflict corporal punishment. Rather, they bespeak a hasty and misguided effort to restrain the pupil in order to maintain discipline.

Much of this language directly applies to the present case. However, the underlying facts in Fulcomer are quite different. David Fulcomer went to a source of disturbance in his classroom, laid hands upon a pupil and, when the pupil ran toward the door in the rear of the classroom, he pursued the boy, again grabbed him and both fell to the floor. At no time did the teacher give commands to the pupil other than to resume his seat. 93 N.J. Super. at 420.

Not only are the underlying facts different, but I do not read the language cited above as does the respondent. The words in dictum, that there was no evidence that the teacher's acts were premeditated, cruel or vicious, or done with intent to punish or to inflict corporal punishment, are not exclusive. A teacher may demonstrate unfitness in many ways.

Upon careful consideration of the entire record, I FIND:

1. On June 9, 1999 the respondent was in charge of a sixth grade class at the Union Avenue Middle School in Hazlet during the last class period of the day;

2. A pupil, M.F., became caught in his desk which was the last seat in the third row;

3. The respondent told M.F. to sit up several times;

4. M.F. stated he could not sit up;

5. The respondent did not leave his place at the front of the room and determine whether M.F. could in fact extricate himself;

6. The respondent then told another pupil, J.B., that J.B. could kick M.F.;

7. J.B. left his seat, went to where M.F. was and kicked M.F. twice in the rib and shoulder area;

8. J.B. described and demonstrated his blows to M.F. as light;

9. After J.B. kicked M.F., the respondent asked if others wanted to kick M.F.;

10. Several pupils raised their hands, including J.P.;

11. J.P. then went from his seat at the front of the room to where M.F. was and kicked M.F. once;

12. J.P. testified that he wanted to hurt M.F. because of a prior incident between them;

13. The respondent said nothing to J.P.;

14. The respondent again loudly told M.F. to sit up;

15. The respondent then stated, "Why don't we get [V.M.] and see what he can do," the reference being to the largest boy in the grade;

16. Two other boys, M.M. and S.S., went to M.F. and helped him to write himself;

17. M.F. asked and received permission to see the school nurse;

18. When M.F. returned to class, he was wearing an icepack on the approximate place he had been kicked by J.P.;

19. The respondent left his chair at the front of the room at no time during the two kicking incidents;

20. There had been at least two disruptions in the same class prior to June 9, 1999;

21. M.F. had become caught in his desk the day before;

22. The respondent knew M.F. was taking a prescription drug for hyperactivity;

23. The respondent had given M.F. detention as a result of prior behavior.

Where Eilert's testimony differed from that of the pupils, I credited the pupil testimony. It was consistent without being identical and was consistent on salient points. The respondent's testimony, not unexpectedly, tended to minimize or downplay each of the facts set forth above.

When a fact finder must determine which party's version of an incident has the reasonable probability of truth, the interest, motive, bias or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the trier of fact, whose responsibility it is to pass on the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony. State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div. 1952), certif. den. 10 N.J. 316 (1952). Further, "[a] trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony." Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

The respondent's actions go beyond the merely ill advised. As the Commissioner of Education stated in Tenure Hearing of Jacque L. Sammons, 1972 S.L.D. 303, 321:

> [Teachers] are professional employees to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of tens of thousands of school children with the hope that this trust will result in the maximum educational growth and development of each individual child. This heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment. As one of the most dominant and influential forces in the lives of children, who are compelled to attend the public schools, the teacher is an enormous force for improving the public weal. Those who teach do so by choice, and in this respect the teaching profession is more than a simple job. . . .

The Commissioner of Education has also said:

> A teacher, as any citizen, who decides to take any form of action or inaction does so at his own risk. No matter what the ultimate objective sought, the individual must accept the responsibility for his actions . . . and must accept the consequences of his actions. [Tenure Hearing of Herman B. Nash, 1971 S.L.D. 284, 296.]

The determination that the charges against the respondent are true in fact is not taken lightly. The judge recognizes that the removal of a teacher from a tenured position makes future employment in education, particularly public education, unlikely. Nevertheless, the abandonment of decent judgment shown here is outrageous. Parents have a right not to expect such behavior in a teaching staff member. Nor should they have to submit their children to the care and control of a teacher who behaves in this manner. In reaching this CONCLUSION, I am mindful of the respondent's testimony that he stayed in his chair throughout the duration of the incidents and, even if his version of what he said at the time is accepted, he did say that J.B. could kick M.F. and he did say, "Who else wants to kick [M.]." He also stated that he spoke those words in jest and that the words "just flew out." Nevertheless, the respondent did absolutely nothing while J.B. and J.P., in succession, actually kicked another pupil. I CONCLUDE that this is shocking to the conscience. I FIND and CONCLUDE that the appropriate penalty in these circumstances is removal from position and referral of the matter to the State Board of Examiners for such action as the Board may deem appropriate.

This decision finds that Brian Eilert engaged in conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member on June 9, 1999 and further finds that that conduct was of such nature as to require that his employment be terminated. In 1943, the New Jersey Supreme Court said in Redcay v. State Board of Education, 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd 131 N.J.L. 526 (E. & A. 1944):

> Unfitness for a task is best shown by numerous incidents. Unfitness for a position under the school system is best evidenced by a series of incidents. Unfitness to hold a post might be shown by one incident, if sufficiently flagrant, but it might also be shown by many incidents. Fitness may be shown either way.

The respondent's observation reports indicate a long-standing deficiency in the area of pupil discipline. However, even without that predicate, I CONCLUDE that the egregious behavior demonstrated on June 9, 1999 constitutes an incident sufficiently flagrant to demonstrate unfitness. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that Brian Eilert be removed from position and that all of his tenure rights be extinguished.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8059-99
AGENCY DKT. NO. 269-9/99

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF BRIAN EILERT,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE	:	DECISION
TOWNSHIP OF HAZLET, MONMOUTH	:
COUNTY.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Respondent takes exception to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) conclusion that the appropriate penalty in the within matter is removal. Respondent argues, inter alia, that of the 23 findings of fact set forth by the ALJ, only two (numbers 6 and 9) illustrate that he engaged in acts of commission by arguably encouraging two students in the class to make contact with M. F., while two other findings of fact (numbers 5 and 19) involve, arguably, acts of omission. Respondent further contends that the remaining findings of fact pertain to background and/or elaborations relative to the consequences of the kicking incidents, i.e., M.F. going to the school nurse and receiving an ice pack. As to this, respondent argues that the two acts of commission were spur of the moment responses which must "be contrasted with a factual backdrop and associated 'mens rea' that would be as egregious as rising to the level of the four categories as elucidated in the Fulcomer, supra, case," a level of culpability which he contends is not present in the instant matter. (Respondent's Exceptions at p. 3) As such, respondent argues that termination is too excessive a penalty in light of the fact that at least one of the involved students, J.P., thought that respondent's comments relative to the invitation to kick M.F. were just a joke. (See Exhibit 9 at p. 5.)

Respondent also takes exception to the ALJ accepting evidence in the form of observation reports dating back to 1994, averring that when the instant tenure charge was submitted by the Board, it was based upon conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member as a result of the June 9, 1999 incident, not inefficiency relative to performance in class. Respondent maintains that there was never a hint that these observation reports would be introduced at the hearing and argues, inter alia, that the implication of such action by the Board is that it intended to inflame the ALJ by subtly, but strategically, placing the observation reports in the record. As to this, respondent asserts that had the Board alleged a charge of inefficiency, the observation reports would have been fair play for introduction into evidence and he would have had the ability to submit evidence of his own in defense of the charges, instead, he was blindsided by the extraneous observation reports.

The Board urges that the ALJ properly concluded respondent's actions in the instant matter constituted conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member and that the appropriate penalty is termination of his tenure status and removal from his teaching position. It contends, inter alia, that:

> Simply stated, Mr. Eilert permitted, and indeed encouraged, two pupils in his class to conduct an assault on one of their peers, M.F. His claim that it was somehow a joke rings hollow in light of two significant facts: (1) the fact that he never told the children it was a joke, and (2) the fact that he failed to move a muscle to prevent the attacks. When Mr. Eilert saw that the alleged joke had gone awry, he could have taken steps to rectify the matter and prevent further harm to M.F. He had the power - throughout this episode - > to stand up, walk to the back of the room, and intervene to prevent, or at least to end, the attacks. Not only did he not do so, but he did not even attempt to do so. And after J.P. had kicked M.F., Mr. Eilert then stated, "Why don't we get [V.M.] and see what he can do, " referring to the biggest child in the grade.

> It is difficult to imagine a moral compass more badly skewed, or a judgment more flawed, than Mr. Eilert demonstrated in this case. The administrative law judge's conclusion that Mr. Eilert's conduct was "shocking to the conscience" is more than borne out by the evidence; it is a conclusion with which no reasonable person could disagree.(Board's Reply Exceptions at p. 4)

The Board also avers in its reply exceptions that the ALJ properly admitted evidence of respondent's prior record, including his observations and evaluations reports, arguing, among other things, that respondent's record of performance, as evidenced by such documents, does not warrant mitigation of the penalty of termination.

Upon a thorough and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner agrees with and adopts as his own the ALJ's findings and conclusions that the charge of conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member certified against respondent by the Hazlet Board of Education has been sustained and that the conduct was of such a nature as to require that his employment be terminated. The Commissioner finds such penalty to be more than amply supported by the record, even if accepting arguendo that the observation and evaluation reports entered into evidence by the Board were a "red herring," as argued in respondent's post-hearing submission, or "extraneous" as alleged in his exceptions to the Initial Decision. As aptly stated by the ALJ, even without the predicate of the observation reports, the egregious behavior respondent demonstrated on June 9, 1999 constitutes an incident sufficiently flagrant to demonstrate unfitness warranting removal from his position and termination of his tenure rights. (Redcay, supra)

Accordingly, the Initial Decision issued by the OAL, directing that respondent be dismissed from his tenured teaching position, is adopted by the Commissioner for the reasons expressed therein. A copy of this decision shall be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for review in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT Between THE ELIZABETH BOARD OF EDUCATION and
JUDITH MAHMOUD

1. This Agreement is being entered into between the Elizabeth Board of Education ("Board") and Judith Mahmoud ("Mahmoud") to resolve all the litigation pending between them in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Union County, Docket No. UNN-L-1358-99 and before the Commissioner of Education, Agency Docket No. 252-8/99, as well as any litigation that could have been brought.

2. The Board agrees to place Ms. Mahmoud on a paid Administrative Leave until November 1, 2000. Ms. Mahmoud agrees to submit, within five (5) working days from the approval of this Agreement by the Commissioner of Education, a letter of resignation which shall state it is effective on November 1, 2000.

3. Neither party makes any admissions in the settlement of this case.

4. The parties agree to execute a stipulation of dismissal ending the Superior Court Litigation with prejudice and without costs.

5. Mahmoud acknowledges that this Agreement is in settlement of disputed issues of fact and law, that she has had the right and opportunity to discuss all aspects of this Agreement with her legal counsel prior to entering into it and that she has availed herself of this right, that she has carefully read and fully understands all of the provisions of this Agreement, and that she is entering into this Agreement knowingly and voluntarily in exchange for good and valuable consideration.

6. In consideration for this Agreement, Mahmoud irrevocably and unconditionally releases the Board, and any employee and/or official of the Board, from any and all charges, complaints, claims, liabilities, obligations, promises, agreements, causes of action, rights, costs, losses, debts and expenses of any nature whatsoever, known or unknown, which Mahmoud, her heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns ever had, now have or hereafter can, shall or may have (either directly, indirectly, derivatively or in any other representative capacity) by reason of any matter, fact or cause whatsoever from the beginning of time to the date of this Agreement, including without limitation, all claims arising under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Equal Pay Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination Act, the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the Civil Rights Act of 1866, 42 U.S.C. §1983, The Americans with Disabilities Act, all claims arising under the public policy of the State of New Jersey, all tortious claims (including intentional infliction of emotional distress and inducing breach of contract) and all other federal, state and local labor and anti-discrimination laws, the common law and any other purported restriction on the Board's employment related decisions. However, nothing in this Settlement Agreement shall preclude Ms. Mahmoud from pursuing the Workers Compensation claims she may have against the Board.

7. Each party hereto represents that, in executing this Agreement, such party has not relied and does not rely upon any representation or statement of any other party not set forth herein with regard to the subject matter, basis or effect of this Agreement or otherwise.

8. This Agreement sets forth the entire agreement among the parties hereto. This Agreement supersedes all prior agreements and understandings concerning the subject matter hereof, and it may not be changed orally but may be changed only in a writing signed by all parties. This Agreement shall be interpreted in accordance with New Jersey law.

9. Mahmoud has voluntarily and without coercion entered into this Agreement.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have executed this Settlement Agreement as of the date set forth below.

WOOD-RIDGE BOARD OF EDUCATION, Petitioner, -vs- MOONACHIE BOARD OF EDUCATION, Respondent.	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF NEW JERSEY OAL DOCKET NO. EDU-03957-99N AGENCY REF. NO. 40-3/99 STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND DISMISSAL WITH PREJUDICE

The matter in difference in the above entitled action having been amicably adjusted and settled by and between the parties, it is hereby stipulated and agreed that the same be and it is hereby dismissed with prejudice, with no costs assessed to either party, pursuant to the following terms:

1. The WOOD-RIDGE BOARD OF EDUCATION shall receive from the BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF MOONACHIE the sum of $80,000.00 as payment in full for any and all tuition charges and costs associated with any Moonachie residents attending school in the District of Wood-Ridge during the years of 1995-1996 and 1996-1997, which are the subject matter of Wood-Ridge Board of Education v. Moonachie Board of Education, OAL Docket No. EDU-3957-99N, Agency Ref. No. 40-3/99;

2. The WOOD-RIDGE BOARD OF EDUCATION agrees to dismiss with prejudice the Office of Administrative Law matter of Wood-Ridge Board of Education v. Moonachie Board of Education, OAL Docket No. EDU-3957-99N, Agency Ref. No. 40-3/99 and any and all claims related thereto against the BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF MOONACHIE.

3. The MOONACHIE BOARD OF EDUCATION agrees to dismiss with prejudice any and all counterclaims, counter petitions, or other pleadings filed or otherwise related to the matter of Wood-Ridge Board of Education v. Moonachie Board of Education, OAL Docket No. EDU-03957-99N, Agency Ref. No.40-3/99 against the WOOD-RIDGE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

4. The parties hereby release, waive and forever discharge any and all past, present or future claims that they may have against each other which arise from this matter or which are in way related to the calculation of, demand for, and payment of tuition by the MOONACHIE BOARD OF EDUCATION for any students attending school in the WOOD-RIDGE SCHOOL DISTRICT during the 1995-1996 and 1996-1997 school years.

5. This Agreement contains the entire Agreement and understanding between the parties and constitutes a full and final agreement in any and all issues relating to this matter.

6. This Agreement shall be governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey.

7. If, during the term of this Agreement, a specific clause of the Agreement is determined to be illegal or in violation of any Federal or State law, the remainder of the Agreement shall not be affected by such a ruling and shall remain in full force and effect.

8. The Parties shall be bound by the terms and conditions of this Agreement, finding it to be in the best interests of the public, consistent with public policy, fair and equitable under all circumstances surrounding this matter.

9. The terms and conditions of this Agreement are subject to the ratification and approval by the BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF MOONACHIE and the WOOD-RIDGE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

10. The parties have entered into this Agreement freely and voluntarily with a full understanding of their rights and the contents of this Agreement.

11. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked, except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties.

12. Both parties acknowledge that their agreement to settle this matter is subject to the approval of the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education. If such approvals are not given, this Agreement and all stipulations, releases and acknowledgments shall be rendered null and void and the parties shall be returned to the status quo existing prior to this Agreement with said litigation being reinstated.

13. It is agreed between the parties that the payment referred to herein shall be made no later than the 30th day following receipt of notification that this Agreement has been approved by the Commissioner of Education.

14. Nothing in this Agreement shall be deemed to constitute a past practice or precedent as to the rights or liabilities of the parties in any future dealings between the parties with regard to the issue of payment of tuition.

15. The parties acknowledge that the execution of this Agreement does not constitute an admission by either party of any: (a) violation of any statute, law or stipulation; (b) breach of contract, actual or implied; or (c) admission of any tort.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4550-99

AGENCY DKT. NO. 115-5/99

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE CHRISTINE LONGO, SCHOOL DISTRICT CITY OF LONG BRANCH, MONMOUTH COUNTY,

---

J. Peter Sokol, Esq., for petitioner, School District City of Long Branch (McOmber & McOmber, attorneys)

Kathleen A. Naprstek, Esq., for respondent, Christine Longo (Zazzali, Zazzali, Fagella and Nowak, attorneys)

Record Closed: March 21, 2000 Decided: March 30, 2000

BEFORE BEATRICE S. TYLUTKI, ALJ:

This matter concerns the tenure charges filed against Christine Longo. The petitioner requested a hearing and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on June 17, 1999, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A telephone prehearing conference took place on September 10, 1999, and the matter was scheduled for a hearing on October 7, 1999. The matter was heard on that day and was scheduled to continue on December 20, 21, 22, 1999, and January 4, 2000. Prior to the December hearing dates, the parties informed me that the matter was settled. The attached stipulation sets forth the terms of the settlement, and is incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement, and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

THIS AGREEMENT is made this 15 day of February, 2000 by and between the Board of Education of the City of Long Branch, County of Monmouth ("Board") and Christine Longo ("Ms. Longo").

RECITALS

A. For a number of years, Ms. Longo has been employed as a secretary in the City of Long Branch school district and, as a result, achieved tenure as a secretary with the Board.

B. For a number of years, Ms. Longo's evaluations reflected satisfactory performance.

C. Since 1990, Ms. Longo's absence pattern has shown an increasing use of sick days and other contractually permitted days of absence including, but not limited to, family illness, death in the family and urgent business.

D. With her reassignment to the position of secretary in the Department of Pupil Personnel Services in July of 1997, her absences increased to the point where her absences exceeded 70 days for what were claimed as personal illness reasons. During that time, Ms. Longo supplied proof of illness through doctors' notes which referenced to Ms. Longo's asserted migraine headaches and other maladies, which notes the Board asserts were not satisfactory. The Statement of Evidence submitted in support of the tenure charges reflects the documented instances of absence during the 1997-98 school year. During the aforementioned time periods, the Board offered Ms. Longo opportunities for leaves of absence.

E. The Board asserts that many of Ms. Longo's absences were not properly noticed to the district, as is required by practice, policy and contract, and that, as a result, Pupil Personnel Services was often shorthanded.

F. The Board also asserts that while at work, Ms. Longo was evaluated as not productive for various reasons, including her lack of familiarity with personal computing and word processing which, in spite of assistance provided and offered by co-employees and the offer of seminars and workshops, her performance did not improve. Ms. Longo disputes the accuracy of those evaluations.

G. Ms. Longo attributed her absences and performance problems to medical conditions such as recurrent migraine headaches, as more specifically set forth in Ms. Longo's answer to the tenure charges.

H. Because of Ms. Longo's alleged lack of performance and alleged repeated failure to adhere to required procedures to report absences and ever increasing absences, the Board certified tenure charges on the basis of neglect, misbehavior, other offense, incapacity and unbecoming conduct and other just cause. Ms. Longo disputes the accuracy of those charges.

I. With Ms. Longo's suspension, which accompanied the certifying of the charges, counsel for Ms. Longo has reported that Ms. Longo's medical treatment was improved her condition to the point where she can return to work and work productively while at work.

J. Because of Ms. Longo's long service to the district, her allegations of a diagnosed medical condition, her present representations that her condition has improved to the point where she can be present at work and work productively and her assurances through this Settlement Agreement that she shall comply with the Board's requirements for attendance, notification and documentation of illness, Ms. Longo and the Board have negotiated a tentative resolution of the tenure charges which will, in effect, avoid the extensive time-consuming and costly litigation and possible loss of Ms. Longo's income and position.

K. The Board has considered Ms. Longo's offer to settle and reached a consensus to approve the settlement provided the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") approves the terms and conditions of the settlement.

THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants contained herein, the Board and Ms. Longo agree as follows:

1. The Recitals are incorporated herein.

2. Ms. Longo shall tender her irrevocable resignation from employment with the Board effective July 1, 2001, which resignation shall be tendered with a signed copy of this Agreement for the Board's immediate acceptance upon the Commissioner's approval.

3. As a 12-month employee, Ms. Longo is permitted 12 paid sick days per year. In the event she utilizes any of those paid sick days, Ms. Longo shall produce a written doctor's note for each occasion of absence, regardless of length. In the event Ms. Longo exceeds 12 absences within a 12-month period of time for any reason other than a medically documented accident/ injury, catastrophic/serious illness or surgery as further provided in paragraph 4 below, or in the event she fails to properly notify her designated supervisor of an absence, or in the event she fails to submit the necessary medical documentation of an absence within 48 hours after her return to work from that absence, her resignation shall take effect within five (5) days, provided however that none of the 12 absences activating her resignation shall be for a medically documented accident/ injury, catastrophic/serious illness or surgery. See 3a appended to end of agreement.

4. In the event that Ms. Longo suffers from an accidental injury or catastrophic illness or requires surgery, she will make an application for an unpaid medical leave of absence from employment properly supported by doctors' diagnosis and prognosis, as may be required by the Board, which the Board will not unreasonably deny provided the illness or injury is properly documented. In the event such leave of absence is granted, Ms. Longo will be permitted to purchase pension credit for the period of any such leave of absence immediately upon her return to work.

5. As consideration for the irrevocable resignation as herein defined, the tenure charges presently pending before the Office of Administrative Law and Commissioner of Education, under Agency Reference No. 115-5/99 and EDUTH 04550-99, shall be withdrawn without prejudice by the Board, to which Ms. Longo hereby consents.

6. According to information gathered by Ms. Longo and/or her representatives, Ms. Longo understands that she has accumulated 22 years and 10 months of pension credit in her PERS account #582327 with the New Jersey

Division of Pensions and Benefits as of March 31, 1999. According to Ms. Longo and her representatives, Ms. Longo has been purchasing pension credit for prior service with the Board, which additional time in included in the aforementioned pension time. (Payment for this purchase is deducted directly from her salary and forwarded along with her regular pension contribution payment.) The Board has no information as to Ms. Longo's pension credits, entitlements or standing and disclaims any responsibility for any such information. This Agreement and the resignation reflected therein shall not be subject to any modification by reason of any misunderstanding, mistake, miscalculation or other reasons which may cause a change in Ms. Longo's actual or perceived pension standing.

7. As further consideration for the irrevocable resignation as herein described and defined, the Board agrees to convert Ms. Longo's 4 month (120 day) suspension which began on or about May 6, 1999 to a 4 month unpaid medical leave of absence and agrees to make the appropriate contributions on behalf of both the Board and Ms. Longo to the Division of Pensions such that she shall receive pension credit for those 4 months.

8. As an inducement to the Board to enter into this Agreement, Ms. Longo has supplied the attached recitation of her medical history, diagnosis and prognosis dated November 24, 1999 and has signed the attached Certification representing to the Board that her medical condition has improved to the degree that permits her regular, productive attendance at work.

9. Ms. Longo shall execute and deliver a general release with the only exception to the general release being the terms and conditions of the Settlement Agreement.

10. In agreeing to the settlement of this matter on the terms set forth in the Settlement Agreement, Ms. Longo was advised of her rights to a full hearing on the merits of this case. Ms. Longo acknowledges that, in agreeing to settle this matter in the furtherance of the public interest, she is waiving her rights to such hearing.

11. This Settlement Agreement is contingent upon the approval of the Commissioner of Education.

12. This Agreement contains all the terms and conditions of the parties' agreement and cannot be modified or changed unless all parties agree to do so in writing.

Record Closed: February 15, 2000 Decided: February 29, 2000

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

This matter arises from the filing of a Verified Petition by Letitia McDougall, ("petitioner") with the Commissioner of Education on July 15, 1999, regarding a controversy over a Corrective Action Plan issued to the petitioner by respondent, which plan the petitioner alleges is in violation of the New Jersey school laws. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on October 4, 1999, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached Settlement Agreement and General Release of All Claims indicating the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy in this administrative forum and is consistent with the law.
